Navy's Second Vanguard Breaks Up in Flight

Three Escape Fire Unharmed

Pontiac Press Photo

BATTLE HOME FIRE — Smoke billows from the rear of a Saginaw street home that went up in flames this morning after gasoline being pumped from the truck overflowed an underground tank and ran into a sunken shed, where it was ignited by a furnace.

Gas Sets Fire to Frame Home

Interior of Two-Family Dwelling on N. Saginaw Gutted by Blaze

Ignited gasoline set fire to a two-family frame home at 553 N. Saginaw at 10:30 a.m. today, gutting the interior.

The house, owned by M. A. Benson, is adjacent to the Benson Co.'s office and salesroom at 549 N. Saginaw and is surrounded by a coal and brick yard.

The blaze is believed to have started when gasoline being pumped into an underground tank in the coal yard from an L. H. Cole Co. gasoline truck, overflowed and ran into a wooden shed behind the house which contained a gas furnace.

Mrs. Pearl Hall, 55, the first floor tenant in the house, was minding a two-and-a-half-year-old boy, Larry Hutchinson, when the fire broke out. She snatched up the boy and ran for safety, returning to get her purse.

The upstairs tenant, Mrs. Emerson Kirby, 44, was in bed, but escaped without injury.

Fire Marshall Charles Metz estimated damage at $10,000 to the building and $6,000 to contents. The first floor and basement were gutted and the second floor filled with smoke and water.

The fire ignited the gasoline truck, blistering its paint and tires, but was brought under control before the truck could explode.

Navy Recruiting Poster Irks Outer Space Fan

Senators Recall Ford's Yntema

WASHINGTON (INS)—Senate investigators will hear a Ford Motor Company executive's opinion today on what should be done to give the American economy a "shot in the arm."

Slated for his second day of testimony before the Senate Anti-Trust and Monopoly Subcommittee was Ford Financial Vice President T. O. Yntema who yesterday defended the automobile industry's price, profit and wage policies.

He also blasted a proposal by United Auto Workers Union President Walter Reuther for a $100-a-car price cut and sharing with workers, consumers and stockholders all profits above 10 per cent of invested capital.

Yntema was asked by subcommittee chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) to give his recommendations on "how to give the whole economy a shot in the arm."

Kefauver pointed out there were from 300,000 to 400,000 persons unemployed in the automobile industry and that such conditions have an effect on all business.

Yntema also was expected to complete reading a 67-page statement on the Reuther proposal and financial condition of the Ford Motor Company and the automotive industry.

Generally, he has blasted Reuther's proposals as "inflationary." They would, he said, result in higher prices and a poorer product.

Big Boost Given to Hospital Wing

City Loaned $317,000 by Community National at Low Interest

Community National Bank gave Pontiac a financial boost last night as it loaned the city $317,000 for the General Hospital addition at the unusually low interest rate of 1¾ per cent.

The bank was the only bidder on 1958 tax anticipation notes for which the interest rate legally could have been as high as four per cent.

A. C. Girard, the bank's president, said he expected the low bid last night would "set the pace" when the city attempts to borrow the rest of $950,000 it has promised the hospital to complete and furnish the addition.

"We felt it was our duty to do anything we could to help build up the city's good credit," Girard said. "Any saving to the city is, indirectly, a saving to our depositors as taxpayers."

The notes are redeemable this fall from tax collections that otherwise would have gone into capital improvement funds.

City Police Nab Driver After 120 M.P.H. Chase

A wild chase down Woodward at speeds that reached 120 miles an hour resulted in the arrest this morning of William D. Hellams, 28, of 16½ East Huron St.

Pontiac police officers Hal Mercer and Elden Mudge spotted Hellams speeding south on Saginaw at 3:30 a. m. today, turned and gave chase.

The officers said their speedometer read the maximum possible, 120 miles an hour, on Woodward at Fulton as they pursued Hellams' 1953 Aldsmobile.

At Birmingham, Hellams turned left as the road divided and nearly turned over, they said. He was finally halted on Hunter Blvd. at Oakland after a seven mile chase.

Before Municipal Court Judge Cecil B. McCallum today, Hellams pleaded not guilty to reckless driving and was released on bond pending trial. He gave no reason for his haste.

Church Cold Again

GREEN COVE SPRINGS, Fla. (AP)—Four weeks ago the Long Branch church's gas heaters were stolen. The electric heaters purchased to replace the gas heaters disappeared last night.

MFL Will Defy Meany's Order on Documents

Won't Yield Records, Books to Parent Group; Edict Called 'Dictatorial'

DETROIT (INS) — Officers of the Michigan Federation of Labor indicated today they would defy AFL-CIO President George Meany's order to turn over books and records to the parent organization.

Meany issued the order in revoking the charters of both the AFL and CIO central bodies in Michigan in a move to oust Teamsters President James R. Hoffa from controlling the state AFL organization.

Jack Thorpe, secretary-treasurer of the MFL, charged Meany with "taking orders from Walter Reuther," president of the United Auto Workers and long-time foe of Hoffa.

The Michigan CIO Council readily went along with the order. August Scholle, state CIO president, said he was "not surprised" at Meany's edict and would continue operations until further instructions are received.

The AFL-CIO executive council, meeting in Miami Beach, immediately issued a charter to a newly merged state organization to succeed the two groups and announced a convention will be held in Grand Rapids Feb. 24 to draft a constitution for the merged organization.

WILL BOYCOTT CONVENTION

The MFL declared it would boycott the convention and McFarlane predicted the only AFL unions that will attend would be ones ordered to do so by their international unions. He said he should remind Meany:

"It's the old stuff about you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink.

"I don't think his being so dictatorial is going to help resolve differences between the two organizations."

Thorpe added he doesn't feel "very good about a situation where

Scraping Ice Off Windshields in Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miamians scraped ice off car windshields today as temperatures fell to 28 degrees in the suburbs.

Lawns were white with frost and ice formed in birdbaths and puddles.

Householders were up early to hose the icy crystals from plants.

The temperature was 45 in down town Miami and on Miami Beach.

It was the third blow of the season for winter-weary farmers and citrus men.

Oddly, it was warmer at Pensacola in extreme northwest Florida than in south Florida. The northwest section of the state had a 48. It was 41 at West Palm Beach, 29 at Tampa, 31 at Fort Myers and 32 at Orlando.

Crop experts saw the greatest danger to low-ground citrus and to plants set out after mid-December and early January freezes. Earlier cold snaps ruined about 37 million boxes of citrus and damaged other fruit.

The flower industry neared total destruction. Frost and low temperatures, followed by heavy rains, ruined thousands of acres of pastures and left hundreds of cattle to starve.

Hundreds of migrant workers are stranded. Many are without money or hope of quick jobs.

Jury's Verdict: 'Drew Guilty'

Sentence Set Feb. 17 for 1st Degree Murder Conviction

A verdict of guilty of first-degree murder was returned this morning against 26-year-old Edward L. Drew, confessed slayer of a Commerce Township grocer last October.

It took a jury of seven men and five women just 16 minutes to hand down the decision climaxing the 1½-day trial before Circuit Court Judge Frank L. Doty.

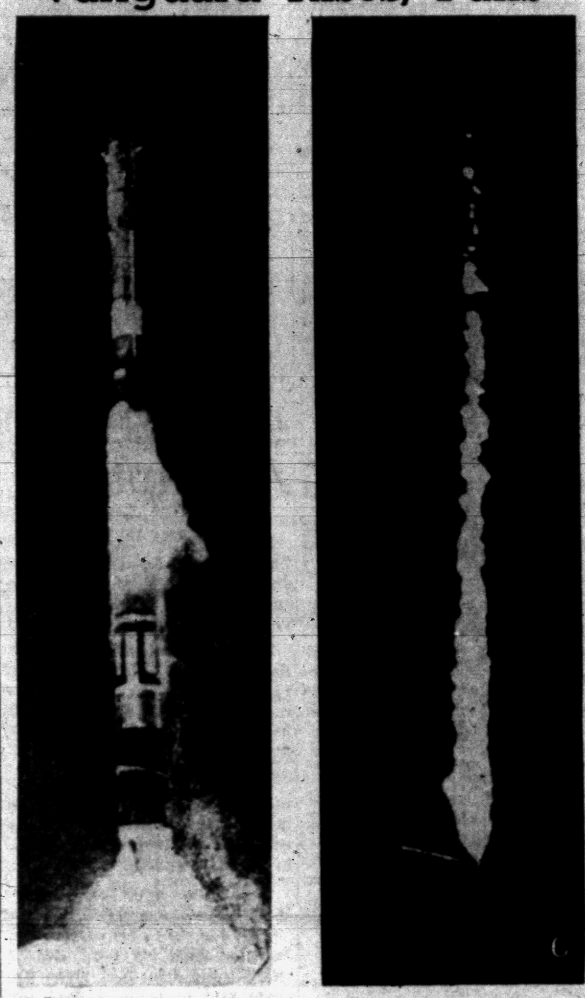

Judge Doty set Feb. 17 at 9:30 for sentencing. First-degree murder carries a mandatory life sentence in Michigan.

Defense Counsel Robert C. Anderson argued in his closing statement to the jury that Drew, of 2993 Welch Rd., Commerce Town-

Vanguard Rises, Falls

SHE'S OFF — Ice showers from the Vanguard missile as it is launched at Cape Canaveral in Florida early today. The ice forms as the missile is fueled with liquid oxygen.

DOWN IN FLAMES — The rocket tumbles earthward trailing flames after it was exploded following an erratic flight 60 seconds after launching at the Florida missile Test Center.

Moon Carrier Blown Apart After Faltering

Satellite Fails to Join Army's Explorer and Soviet Sputnik II

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Navy's second Vanguard satellite rocket roared skyward today but ended just like the first—in a fiery explosion.

Sixty seconds after a beautiful takeoff at 2:33 a. m., the bullet-shaped Vanguard wobbled crazily, broke into two pieces and was destroyed by the test range safety officer.

If the flight had succeeded, the Navy would have put a tiny "moon" into orbit with the Army's Explorer, which was fired aloft Friday by the Jupiter-C missile.

But the Vanguard climbed only about 20,000 feet into a cold, starry sky before the safety officer, R. D. Stephens, pressed the button that blew it apart and sent it plunging toward the ocean in fiercely blazing fragments.

So the Soviet Union, having launched two Sputniks, still holds a numerical lead. Sputnik I disintegrated Jan. 4 but Sputnik II, carrying a dead dog, still whirls around the earth.

★ ★

LOSS OF PRESSURE

A fuel line leak, causing a loss of pressure in the combustion chamber, was blamed for that spectacular mishap, which damaged U.S. prestige abroad at a time when the Soviet Union had the only satellites in the skies.

Experts had hoped that the lessons learned from that first failure would help pave the way to

Reds Rush Flop News

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet government lost no time today passing the word at home and abroad that another American attempt to send up a satellite had failed.

Moscow radio broadcast a Tass dispatch in its home and foreign services just 37 minutes after the news hit the wires in the United States.

2nd Defeat Is Bitter Pill

Hagen Cries 'Oh No' on Vanguard Failure

The failure was the second bitter pill for the Navy.

The first announcement that the rocket had veered from its course, broken in two and had been purposely destroyed, came from the Pentagon.

Dr. Hagen arrived at the naval laboratory in Washington at 1:37 a.m. EST to await firing of the 10-million-dollar satellite vehicle.

Altogether, the Vanguard project has cost $110,000,000.

Earlier, he had attended a white tie and tails dinner at the White House given by President and Mrs. Eisenhower for the nation's top scientists and military leaders.

Hagen had a direct line open to his deputy director, J. Paul Walsh in a hangar at Cape Canaveral, Fla. Walsh in turn had a direct line to the blockhouse.

DR. JOHN P. HAGEN

Hagen was kept informed of the countdown at five minute intervals until two minutes before the firing. Then he was given the countdown in 10 second intervals until only 20 seconds remained.

★ ★ ★

Then, Hagen began repeating aloud the countdown — "Down 10, down nine, down eight, down seven, down six, down five, four, three, two, one, zero!"

Then, dramatically Hagen cried: "Ignition—lift out—up . . ."

Dr. Hagen then cried out: "I can hear it roaring—it's running steady—it's still going up—plus 45 still burning—plus 50— plus 60—

"Something's happened!

"Oh, no!"

Then, according to witnesses,

Expect Rain Tonight, Colder Tomorrow

Mostly cloudy with occasional drizzle is the weather forecast for tonight, with the low around 32 degrees.

Thursday will be cloudy and a little colder with occasional snow flurries. Tomorrow's high is expected to reach near 34.

For the next five days temperatures will average near the normal high of 33 and the normal low of 19 degrees. Monday will be somewhat colder.

The thermometer registered a low of 20 degrees in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. The mercury stood at 34 at 2 p.m.

Pontiac Bandit Nabbed Speeding in Detroit

Ill-Gotten Car His Undoing

According to Detective Herbert Cooley, Alexander Hernandez, 35, of 27 O'Riley St., was arrested in Detroit and turned over to Pontiac police on a charge of armed robbery.

Cooley said Hernandez has admitted being the bandit who took a $1,300 retirement fund from Gus Points, 68, of 65 Bagley St., on Jan. 23, hours after he had received the money from Waite's Department Store.

Hernandez told detectives, Cooley said, that he immediately left town for Cleveland and spent the money on a 1953 car and some new clothes.

With his funds running low, Hernandez returned to Detroit, Cooley said, and was arrested there when he drove his new car over the speed limit.

City Commission Studies Report on Sullenberger

A seven-page report by the Pontiac General Hospital Board of trustees on the suspension of Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger was accepted for study last night by the City Commission.

At the commission's request, the report specified procedures that led up to the suspension last Nov. 13 and outlined the legal steps that have resulted from Dr. Sullenberger's suit against the hospital and city for reinstatement and $250,000 damages.

The report did not go into any specific charge against the ousted staff surgeon. Attached was an eleven-page appendix containing copies of certain hospital records pertaining to the suspension.

Members of the board and commission are expected to meet soon to discuss the suspension.

University of Michigan Looks to the Future

Space, Satellites and Rockets Nothing New

ANN ARBOR (AP) — When Russia launched its earth-girdling satellites last fall, the University of Michigan was surprised but ready.

Quickly President Harlan Hatcher appointed a committee of seven experts to see how America could meet the challenge. He said the university desired to be a leader.

In a lightning chain of events the committee advised establishment of an institute of science and technology and the university's regents endorsed it with a unanimous vote.

The institute's avowed goals are manifold. Basically it is to meet some of the critical needs for highly trained scientists and engineers. Also it is to develop sufficient skilled manpower to put the state in the forefront of the forthcoming technological advances.

The university hopes to have the institute in full swing by September. Approval and allocation of funds have been asked of the Legislature.

It was estimated that the first year's operating budget would total $2,870,000. Gov. Williams already has proposed this sum be granted. Later the university will ask industry, private individuals and the federal government for more.

The idea of space, satellites and rockets is not new at the university. Vice President Marvin L. Niehuss said the problems were considered by professors long before the first Sputnik went aloft last October.

"Space is the field today that atomic energy was in 1946," Niehuss said. "Our scientists saw the problems then, but the implications were just becoming of interest. Today our law school is the world center for atomic law.

"It isn't too early to start thinking about things such as space travel. We are crossing into a new era, new dimensions. It isn't too early to focus on the problems such as space travel, space medicine and space philosophy. Though Michigan has been in the forefront right along, the problems rapidly require re-examination and reorientation."

Part of the new institute will be a "space center." It will be devoted to rockets, guided missiles, upper atmosphere research, meteorology and radio astronomy.

Niehuss believes Sputnik has not disturbed the university's normal operating trend with the exception of planning for the institute.

Michigan has had vast facilities for atomic energy research and rocket engine design for several years. Its memorial-Phoenix project steadily is working toward the peaceful uses of atomic energy and producing nuclear engineers. Its million-watt Ford nuclear reactor is in operation.

"Our nuclear engineering has just boomed, but that happened before Sputnik," Niehuss said.

There are about 100 engineers enrolled in graduate nuclear engineering courses. Other courses are devoted to cosmic ray research and radio astronomy.

ACTIVE IN IGY

Researchers and students have been engaged in considerable rocketry and high altitude work since 1946. Michigan scientists such as aeronautical engineer Leslie M. Jones are active in International

Kidnaper Gives Up, Saying 'Pressure Was Too Much'

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — The grim four-day manhunt for kidnaper Carl E. Burton ended last night. He ran into police headquarters and surrendered because "the pressure was too much."

Two policemen chased him as he ran, hands in the air and a fully loaded revolver sticking in his belt.

It was a dramatic climax to one of this area's most intensive searches which began when Burton and Harold Davis, 33, kidnaped Missouri State Trooper William Little at Van Buren, Mo., Saturday night.

Burton said at the police station: "I'm glad it's over. The pressure was getting too much. I knew I couldn't get away. I had to quit running."

★ ★ ★

Police from four states converged on this western Kentucky area when the pair, holding Little hostage, smashed through roadblocks in Little's police cruiser.

Burton and Davis, both of Redwood, Calif., fled to a remote section of McCracken County late Saturday night, holed up at a farm home and held Little and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Shelton hostage for 24 hours.

Davis cracked under the pressure and shot and wounded himself. Burton fled to the river bottomlands Sunday, leaving Little and the Sheltons unharmed.

Police set up massive roadblocks within a 50-mile radius. A misunderstanding resulted in the death of a young woman at one roadblock when her car drove through.

Patrolmen Marion Shelbourne and James Arts recognized Burton walking down a street here last night. They turned a spotlight on him, ordered him to halt and started after him.

★ ★ ★

Burton, only a few doors from the police station, kept going. He ran into the station and was immediately disarmed. The pistol belonged to Little.

★ ★ ★

Burton was ordered held under $30,000 bond on a federal kidnaping charge and $5,000 bond on charges of interstate transportation of a stolen car. He waived preliminary hearing before U.S. Commissioner Herbert Melton Jr., and was ordered held to the April 21 federal grand jury.

★ ★ ★

Burton said "I was trying to make up my mind" while walking through downtown streets.

"I finally did and came down here. I couldn't stand it any more."

Burton gave this explanation of how he evaded some 150 officers after fleeing from the Shelton farm:

Late Sunday night, he went to the home of an aunt and uncle, identified as Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Cavitt Jr., and spent the night.

The next day, after learning Davis had shot himself, he walked to a little-used railroad roundhouse, slipped in and hid behind a boiler.

He slept there Monday afternoon and night, and although several people came in, he said, they didn't see him.

★ ★ ★

Asked how he felt about all this, Burton said: "Well, two people got killed, That's enough."

The FBI explained later the other person "killed" was a California police officer who the FBI said Burton admitted shooting.

Many Britons Reply to 'How Are You?'

LONDON (AP)—Better be careful asking people in Britain "How are you?" They may well tell you.

The government today made public a health survey covering the replies of 300,000 Britons who were asked how they felt.

An even 50 per cent had a pain in the back, heartburn, sore eyeballs, an upset stomach, aching feet or at least a common cold.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Is it true, as we once mentioned in an earlier piece, that some can smell the air and tell where it originated?

We noted that this is possible but usually not probable. However, away from large cities and out in the open, a sensitive nose can often detect the origin of an air mass overhead.

Thus the sarcasm which greets such a statement is not always justified. The far away northern woods, or maritime air, can often be smelled from the ground by the keen observer. For weather is a movement of air masses.

These air masses cross the United States at a rate of 500 or 600 miles a day, generally west to east, and often come from the polar regions of the north, or Canada, or the Gulf of Mexico, and their different smell can sometimes be detected.

Freed Scientists Arrive at East German Border

BERLIN (AP)—The first of the 21 German scientists being released by the Soviet Union were reported today to have arrived at the East Geman-Polish border.

East Berlin officials said there were 12 persons in the group, including wives and children.

Taken to the Soviet Union after World War II, the scientists have been working at Sukhumi, on the Black Sea.

Lakes Storm Swirls East

Rains Lash Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On-and-off cloudbursts closed 70 schools, washed out hillsides and flooded countless streets and intersections in this area yesterday.

Mountain areas got as much as a foot of new snow. Lightning struck two houses and downed a power pole in a foothill area. Officials estimated 110 trees had been toppled by rain and winds. Fifteen fell on cars. Ten damaged houses.

Rain totals in the three-day-old storm ranged up to 11 inches at Opid's Camp, in a canyon behind Mt. Wilson. Six deaths were attributed, at least in part, to the storm.

Behind it lay a wide area of Western and Central New York engaged in clearing away some of the deepest snow blankets in years.

The storm rode in on winds that reached gusts up to 50 miles an hour off Lake Erie starting Monday night.

It was blamed for one traffic death and a death from heart attack of a man shoveling snow.

Rochester caught 15 inches of wind-whipped snow — the worst accumulation there in 13 years — for a total of 25 inches on the ground.

Main highways were all open to traffic, but secondary roads were clogged with snow and several were blocked altogether.

Rail and air transportation, badly disrupted, were restored to normal schedules.

WHAT VANGUARD WAS SUPPOSED TO DO . . . AND WHAT IT DID — This drawing tells at a glance the story of today's Vanguard rocket failure. Top boxes show play-by-play of what the missile was supposed to do in boosting its little satellite into orbit. Vanguard followed the theoretical schedule through a brief 10-second vertical flight. Still as scheduled, it shot upward and southeasterly to about 20,000 feet. Then, after only a minute in the air all told, it broke into two fiery torches.

Jailed as Witness in Rose Slaying

Attempts to Free Woman

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) — Joseph Zalk, lawyer for the widow of slain flight engineer Clyde Rose, said last night he will take court action to free his client from jail.

Zalk said that within the next day or two he will seek a writ of habeas corpus in state supreme court on the grounds that police have insufficient evidence to hold Mrs. Priscilla Rose.

The fact that the 22-year-old woman was the last person to see her husband alive, Zalk said, is not sufficient reason to keep her in jail as a witness.

Zalk also said that shortly before Rose was found shot to death Jan. 20 in his car parked not far from his Long Beach, N. Y., home he had given his wife $125 to begin a fund for their divorce.

Rose and his wife had separated in the past because of marital difficulties, according to authorities, but had gone back together.

Police also have said that both Rose, 28, and his wife have been involved in extra - marital romances and that Rose might have been keeping a tryst at the time of his death.

The widow was jailed last Monday when unable to raise $20,000 bail set by County Judge Paul Widlitz.

Authorities said Mrs. Rose had asked permission to move from Long Beach to San Antonio, Tex., where her family lives.

Zalk said last night that Mrs. Rose wanted to leave her Long Island home but had not planned to do so immediately.

He said his client was not happy in the Nassau County Jail in East Meadow, where she is receiving a fee of $3 a day as a material witness.

Warden Edward O'Hara said Mrs. Rose wears the regular jail uniform but does not have to work. She declined an offer to stay alone, O'Hara said, and has two cellmates, a shoplifter and a woman who knifed her boyfriend.

success on the next attempt, but officials emphasized before today's attempt that the odds against getting the Vanguard's 3¼-pound moon into orbit still were 1,000 to 1.

The slender, 72-foot rocket left the ground surely and gracefully, riding a witch's broom of lemon-colored fire straight up into the blue-black sky.

Its blazing exhaust lighted the countryside and the roar of its engines shook sleeping persons awake for miles around.

Observers watching the blastoff from vantage points inside the test center shouted as the Vanguard began its arrow-true climb. But their cheers died in their throats when they saw the missile incline too sharply, break up and plunge back toward the moonlit Atlantic.

BALL OF FLAMES

One huge ball of brilliant fire seemed for a moment to be spinning back in the general direction of the test center and an alarmed observer yelled; "Look out, it's coming our way!"

But the fireball disappeared as it neared the ground. At the same time, other sparkling fragments were seen plummeting into the ocean two to three miles offshore.

In an official announcement minutes later, the Air Force, which operates the test center, said the Vanguard was "successfully launched . . . but was destroyed in flight when it failed to maintain its programed flight path."

Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the test center, said it may be several days before there can be a full explanation of what happened to the Vanguard.

Short though it was, the flight gave the Navy much valuable data, through telemetry, photography, radar and radio monitoring. Soon after the explosion, technicians were busy assembling this information, probing for the cause of the failure.

SALVAGE ATTEMPT

The Air Force probably will be asked to try to salvage some of the rocket wreckage from the sea. The small Vanguard satellite may be floating on the water and sending out its beeping radio signals.

Weather apparently could not be blamed for the breakup of the rocket. Winds at 25,000 feet were blowing only 69 m.p.h.

The second Vanguard failure started immediate speculation on the future of the program. Officials associated with the project said it presumably would not be affected, since today's rocket was only a test vehicle.

Reuther Writes to Eisenhower

Urges 'Prompt Action to Counteract Current Recession'

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther wants President Eisenhower to set up a national conference on "the problems of unemployment and recession."

Reuther, president of the giant United Auto Workers Union, made public a letter sent to the White House late Monday in which he said he urged "prompt and constructive action to counteract the current recession."

The UAW chief suggested the conference included "all facets of our society — labor, management, welfare agencies, state and local governments, civil servants, those on fixed incomes, etc."

Reuther told Eisenhower that the union's 1958 bargaining goals, including a profit sharing plan, would help "restore lagging purchasing power."

"Only a massive injection of consumer power into our economy in the days ahead can restore full employment and full production to our nation," the union leader said.

Reuther enclosed with the letter a copy of a "full employment resolution" adopted by the recent special convention of the UAW in Detroit. The resolution declared Eisenhower administration economic policies reflected "the undue influence of big business."

"More than four million workers were totally unemployed in January," Reuther wrote. "In February, economists predict, the number of persons completely out of work may well exceed five million."

Find Drew Guilty in Murder Trial

ship, was intoxicated so that he could not have had intent of murder or robbery.

Drew, who had served time in prison for burglary, confessed shooting 63-year-old Karl Kolm last Oct. 23 in his small grocery store at 1010 Oakely Rd., two miles north ow Walled Lake.

25 WITNESSES

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem, who paraded 25 witnesses to the stand, 20 of them Tuesday, termed the crime "the most brutal, vicious and uncalled for murder of a man who had hurt no one and was only trying to make a meager living."

★ ★ ★

Ziem pointed out to the jurors that two men that saw Drew shortly after the shooting testified he did not appear drunk. He added that his friend, Mrs. Mary S. Douglas, 25, of 1385 Appleford St., Walled Lake, was the only witness to declare Drew was "feeling the effects of a half-gallon of wine."

DESCRIBED MURDER

In yesterday's opening testimony, Kolm's wife, Amanda, 64, described the night of the killing in which she said her husband was shot through the heart when he demanded of Drew, "What's this, a joke?"

★ ★ ★

Drew had returned to the store and announced to Mrs. Kolm, "This is a stick-up," when her husband came from the back of the grocery and was shot.

Mrs. Kolm also testified that Drew then attacked her with the gun, striking her several times in the head.

'Miss USO' Contest Planned in Oakland

The Oakland County USO committee is making plans to stage a "Miss USO" contest at the Commerce Township Nike base in April.

★ ★ ★

At the committee's regular meeting this week, Mrs. Fred Haushalter was reappointed to serve on the national USO board and will attend its meeting in Washington early next month.

The next regular USO dance was scheduled for Feb. 25. Young ladies interested in becoming hostesses at it were urged to contact the Oakland County YWCA at 22 Franklin Blvd.

Proposes Cupid Barrier

LANSING (AP)—Inflation may hit Dan Cupid's activities in Michigan. Rep. Robert E. Waldron (R-Grosse Pointe) today filed a bill proposing to boost the cost of a marriage license from $2 to $5.

Dies of Gun Wound

Raleigh Lee Burton, 21, of 3584 Alida St., Avon Township, was found dead yesterday in his home of gunshot wounds to his head, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies. A shotgun was found at his side, deputies said.

Twin-Jet Airliner Is Red Showpiece

Russia's TU104 Flying Envoy to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union's sleek TU104 jet liner heads for the United States today on another "show off" trip.

This time the twin-jet craft, which flies 500 miles an hour at 40,000 feet, is bringing the new Soviet ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov.

Last fall, it brought the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

New York's Idlewild Airport said then the TU104 was too noisy, and it landed instead at McGuire Airbase in nearby New Jersey.

Menshikov is scheduled to fly into Baltimore's Friendship Airport tomorrow.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration will take over control of the plane's flight after it reaches Gander, Nfld., where three Air Force men—a pilot, radioman and navigator—will go aboard.

The trip from Gander to Baltimore will be nonstop.

Menshikov's assignment provided one more opportunity for the Soviet Union to exhibit the world's only operating commercial jet liner—even though it really is a converted bomber.

FCC Probers Recall Doerfer

Lawmakers Will Ask More Questions About Travel Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators digging into misconduct allegations against members of the Federal Communications Commission recalled Chairman John C. Doerfer today for more questions about trips.

In two days of testimony before a special subcommittee investigating federal regulatory agencies, Doerfer has defended as legal and proper his acceptance at times of expense account payments from the radio-TV industry which FCC regulates.

The six other FCC commissioners, meanwhile, have sat in the hearing room awaiting their turn. Allegations of misconduct on which they will be questioned have gone to Doerfer and four others.

Doerfer said that among various others, he attended a meeting of the Georgia Broadcasters Assn., receiving an honorarium of $100 and his hotel expenses.

He has contended that under the law an FCC commissioner may accept a reasonable honorarium or compenstion for speeches.

★ ★ ★

Doerfer said FCC commissioners also had accepted private transportation from private companies in their work. When the company furnishes transportation, he said, the government is not charged with transportation costs. He said the industry doesn't always pay all the expenses.

★ ★ ★

Saying "I could probably go on indefinitely," Doerfer mentioned trips by private or chartered plane to Camden, Ohio, to inspect industrial use of radio, and to Emporia, Pa., and Springfield, Mass., to inspect UHF operations.

Doerfer, a Republican from Milwaukee, was appointed to the commission in 1953 and made chairman last July by President Eisenhower.

Satellites, Rockets Not New at U. of M.

There are about 3,300 undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in engineering at Michigan. Their number is not likely to swell as a direct result of Sputnik, however.

One course for high school mathematics teachers has been pushed up from September to February because of the satellites. It is an extension course to help the teachers answer questions from their gifted students.

Michigan anticipates no change in its already stiff entrance requirements. Niehuss said 75 per cent of Michigan undergraduates ranked in the top fifth of their high school classes and 96 per cent in the upper half.

STUDY CONTINUOUSLY

Sputnik has caused some streamlining in the pursuit of specialized degrees at Michigan. Some students working for their doctorates will study continuously instead of spending part of their time teaching and working outside. Niehuss expects the speedup program to cut the required time in half from the present five or six years.

"It's the most effective way to get top level people ready in the shortest possible time," he said.

Industry, which has been generous to Michigan over the years, has yet to offer extra grants due to the satellites, Niehuss said.

"We hope to get some more and have consulted with industrial leaders and received a receptive attitude," he said.

The Day in Birmingham

Philadelphia Art Director Next Town Hall Speaker

BIRMINGHAM — John Canaday, director of education at the Philadelphia Art Museum, will address Birmingham Town Hall audiences Thursday and Friday. He will speak on "Is It Art If I Like It?" illustrating his talk with colored slides of paintings and art objects in the museum.

A widely known painter and ceramic artist, Canaday has taught at the University of Virginia and directed the Newcomb Art School at Tulane University, New Orleans. He served with the Army in the Belgian Congo during World War II.

In a quick change of character, Canaday the artist not only reads mystery stories, but has had more than a dozen published under a pen name.

Tomorrow evening, the Birmingham YMCA will hold a "drop-in" meeting when members of the 1958 membership teams will report on the drives.

Harold Kalbfleisch, general chairman, said the campaign has been extended through Feb. 28. The latest total shows 460 members signed up, which is slightly more than half the goal.

The discussion group recently formed by the Senior Men's Club will hold its first session after the club's regular luncheon at noon Friday at the Community House.

The topic will be "School and Educational Problems."

Featured entertainment of the program will be the showing of motion pictures on Florida provided through the courtesy of the Michigan Automobile Club.

The Birmingham Chess Club, formed about a year ago, will hold its first Community House meeting at 8 p.m. Feb. 13. Tom Cummings, secretary, said 10 persons are in the club now.

New members are invited with the aim of eventually holding tournament play with nearby communities.

A white elephant exchange, social hour and refreshments will highlight the Feb. 12 meeting of Pride of Oakland Rebakah Lodge 445 at 8 p.m. in the Community House.

Dr. Hagen threw his pencil down and put down the phone, a picture of utter dejection.

To those who have worked with the mild Hagen, it was a violent gesture.

Dr. Hagen, it was reported, had planned to hold a news conference if the launching had been successful and the Navy had actually put the grapefruit sized satellite into orbit. But after the failure, he sent out word he would not see newspapermen.

★ ★ ★

In an adjoining room was a battery of teletypes connecting the world communications center here with 10 spotting points throughout the earth which had kept track of the Russian Sputniks and the U. S. Army's Explorer.

Hagen left the White House dinner party early to go home and rest briefly before going to the research lab.

At the party he said, in answer to a question, "Yes, I'm worrying about Vanguard."

When he left, he said: "I'm going to see if it works."

It didn't.

Hagen said another attempt to launch another of the rockets would be made as soon as possible.

EFFECT ON SCHEDULE

He would not estimate when that might be, nor would he comment on the effect of today's failure on a schedule calling for firing of a fully-instrumented, 20-inch Vanguard satellite next month.

The Navy originally was given an exclusive assignment to launch America's first earth satellite with the Vanguard. After the Sputniks were put into orbit, there was a furious public demand for a speedup in the Vanguard target date.

It was this insistence on speed, Navy sources said, that resulted in the Dec. 6 blowup. The rocket, still an experimental bird, just wasn't ready for the test, they said.

After that failure, America and her allies waited impatiently for the next Vanguard try. Then, as one long delay ran into another, the Army was told to step in and attempt a launching with the Jupiter-C.

The Army had said it could have done the job long before the Sputniks if it had been given an opportunity.

A PERFECT FLIGHT

Asked to make good on the claim, the Army did. In its first try, the Jupiter-C made a perfect flight, placing the 30-pound Explorer in such a firm orbit that it may circle the earth for two to 10 years.

Main stage of the Jupiter-C was a modified version of the Army's Redstone missile. It had been thoroughly tested in flight and its designer, Dr. Wernher von Braun, was positive it would do what it was called upon to do.

The upper three stages of the Jupiter-C were powered by clusters of small solid propellant rockets. The final stage became the satellite.

In sharp contrast to the Jupiter-C, the Vanguard still is an unknown quantity. Its first and third stages have been flown separately but the second stage never has been tested.

FLIGHT UNCERTAIN

Its makers couldn't even be confident that the rocket would fly, let alone put its satellite in orbit. If that had happened, they said, it would have been just a happy circumstance.

The Vanguard's first-stage engine, burning liquid oxygen and kerosene, was designed to hurl the rocket to an altitude of 35 miles and build up a speed of 3,700 miles an hour in two minutes and 22 seconds.

The second stage, fueled by white fuming nitric acid and unsymmetrical dimethyl- hydrazine, was scheduled to burn for two minutes and boost the rocket to 9,000 m.p.h. and a height of 130 miles.

Then, during a coasting period of 3½ minutes, the guidance "brain" of the second stage was to have held the rocket on its proper course while it climbed on up to the orbital altitude of 200 miles.

MFL Will Defy Meany's Order

The MFL refused to oust the Teamsters last Saturday as ordered by the AFL-CIO.

The Michigan CIO has about 700,000 members and the MFL represents approximately 325,000. The two groups failed to merge last Dec. 5 as ordered by the AFL-CIO. Observers said the MFL feared the larger CIO group would control the merged organization.

Great Lakes Vessels Mostly 40 or Older

CLEVELAND — Most of the existing ship tonnage on the Great Lakes is more than 40 years old. According to one authority, to replace it today costs about $340 per unit of capacity.

Compared with an original cost of $50 per unit, this represents a 700 per cent increase in replacement cost. In the 40 years the basic rate of transportation has increased less than 250 per cent and direct operating costs have risen more than 500 per cent.

32 Building Permits Issued in Waterford

These permits were evaluated at $327,205. Last year during the same period, 26 permits for $491,064 in buildings were issued by the department.

The permits included those for 14 houses totaling $246,210 and two commercial buildings amounting to $49,200 last month.

Fees collected by the department for 23 building permits, 15 septic permits and one building moving inspection amounted to $55.25.

Electrical permits totaled 130 and $522 in fees were collected.

C97 Loses Wheel but Lands Safely

TOKYO (AP)—A huge U.S. military transport plane landed safely at Yokota air base today after losing a wheel, then circling for 6½ hours while it used up its fuel supply and jettisoned cargo in preparation for a crash landing.

★ ★ ★

The four-engine C97, military version of the Boeing Stratocruiser had a crew of seven but no passengers aboard.

★ ★ ★

The C97 has double wheels on each side and the crippled plane lost only one off its right side when it took off from Tokyo's Haneda International Airport for Wake Island and the United States. It came in smoothly at Yokota, 35 miles northwest of Tokyo, using two wheels on the left and the remaining one on the right.

Bold 'New City' Plans Urged for State Metropolitan Areas

By ROGER LANE
AP Lansing Correspondent

(Fourth in a series of articles on municipal problems.)

Bold "new city" plans are being urged on the Flint, Battle Creek and Muskegon metropolitan areas as an answer to the stifling suburban fringe problem.

In each case, the aim is to take the city out of governmental short pants and clothe it with a political garment tailored to the size and needs of maturity.

AREA UNITED

The entire community would be united under one governmental roof as it already is for shopping, recreation, transportation, social and other purposes. Existing units would be scrapped.

The "new Flint" blueprint calls for creation of the nation's seventh largest city in area. It would embrace 162 square miles, compared with 30 now, and 300,000 residents, as against 200,000.

Battle Creek and Muskegon, each with around 50,000 population, would go to approximately 100,000. From roughly a dozen square miles apiece, Battle Creek would grow in area to 125 and Muskegon to 40 or more.

PLANS AGREE

The three new city plans agree basically. They spring from a common background of a hodge podge of local governments.

Their bedrock agreement is in progress by merger of existing governments into one big new one. By their votes, all affected citizens would have a direct voice in creating the new unit.

The reports all rejected annexation, or voting in fringe areas without immediate, full representation on the annexing government body.

Annexation has failed to change Flint's boundaries since 1920 and has left limits of the other two cities comparatively static for 20 years or longer.

★ ★ ★

Impetus for the three studies came from citizen groups outside the government, although in Battle Creek the City Commission and Battle Creek Township formally favored having a study.

Different outside experts were called in for research and wrote the recommendations or had a major role in drafting them.

The most active citizen's group, the one in Flint, worked nearly three years with University of Michigan specialists. The Muskegon citizens relied on Michigan State University, and spent three years.

★ ★ ★

The Battle Creek report was prepared over seven months by the Public Administration Service of Chicago. Funds from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation paid for it.

By coincidence, all three reports were issued last fall within the space of a month.

Saginaw has a citizen's group nearing completion of a study, and Jackson is organizing one.

The proposed new Flint would supersede the cities of Flint, Mt. Morris and Grand Blanc, the townships of Burton, Flint, Mt. Morris and Genesee, as well as taking in the populous northern half of Grand Blanc Township.

BAND TOGETHER

Sixteen school districts serving this territory would be banded together, leaving two local governments in place of 24.

United with Battle Creek would be the town of Springfield and the townships of Battle Creek, Pennfield, Emmet and Bedford.

The report there said school system organization in that area should be considered separately.

Covered by the greater Muskegon consolidation would be the cities of Muskegon, Muskegon Heights, North Muskegon and Roosevelt Park, and densely settled sections of Norton, Muskegon, Fruitport and Laketon Townships. The area includes 23 school districts.

Besides annexation, the three studies turned down solutions involving enlarged powers for townships or counties, various forms of federation and creation of special districts to render specific services.

Observations of Dr. Basil G. Zimmer, U. of M. social science researcher and consultant to the Flint Area Citizens Committee, shed light on the thinking underlying all three plans.

Zimmer said existing government units possess legal means to supply all services required in densely settled suburban areas — at a price.

LUXURY POSSIBLE

"Given the necessary funds," he said, "any level of luxury is possible, for with unlimited funds any degree of duplication and inefficiency could be supported.

"It is my opinion that this area no longer can afford the luxury of waste, duplication and inefficient organization."

Broadly, authors of the three plans see these main advantages of consolidation:

1. A guarantee of high standard urban services to suburban areas lacking them, particularly in the fields of water supply, sanitation, drainage, lighting, streets, schools, zoning and police, fire and health protection.

2. Reduced governmental overhead cost, greater equity in property taxation and areawide planning.

3. A fairer sharing by fringe dwellers of expense of public works, recreation facilities, airports, libraries and other services benefitting them.

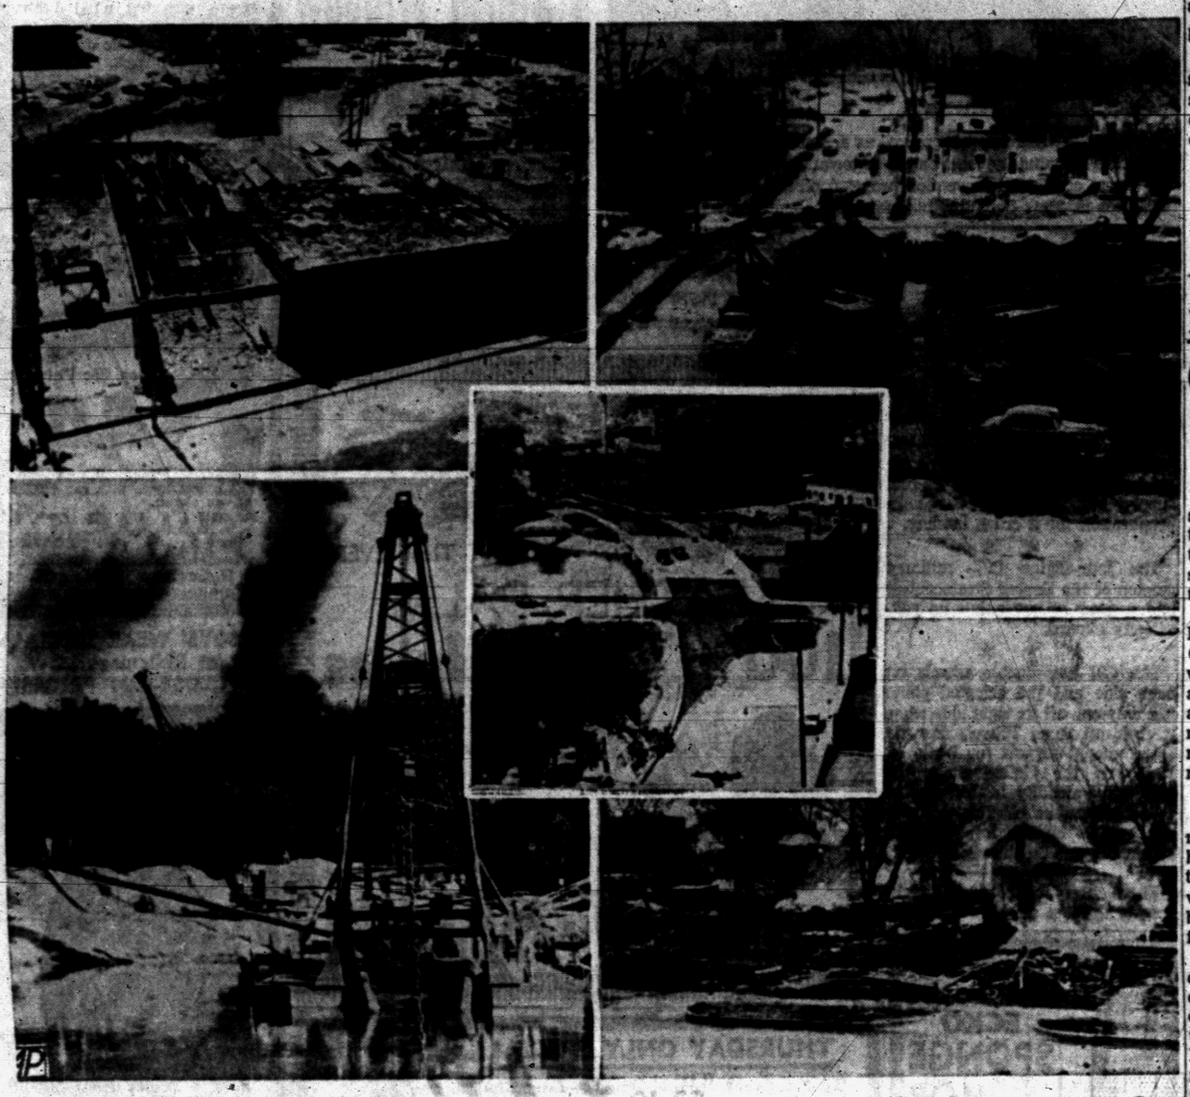

4. Increased usable space, a sounder financial base, and improved prospects for orderly economic growth and health through attraction of new industry.

In addition, the Battle Creek report emphasized the effect on civic energies.

"People with real political talents and wide community interests could avoid spending their time and effort on losing annexation skirmishes, futile utility discussions and minor struggles and address themselves to the larger issues of community development, stability and progress," the report said.

(Next — Battle Creek breaks its noose.)

BATTLE CREEK is doing something about its problems with floods, slums, highways and railroad crossings, in a $30,000,000 general improvement program. Upper left: A building over the Battle Creek River, one of the two rivers flowing through the city, is demolished as part of a federally-controlled flood support project. Upper right: Construction crews start the excavations for one of four bridges which will cross the Kalamazoo River diversion channel and connect with a new limited access expressway. Center: One of eight new bridges in the total program nears completion. Lower left: A dredge at work widening, deepening and straightening the Kalamazoo River as flood control project progresses. Lower right: Fire wipes out what remains of demolished slum dwellings as way is cleared for expressway. Negotiations for the elimination of 35 railroad crossings in the city will follow these improvements.

For Control by Defense Department

GOP Senate Chiefs Fight Transfer on Space Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican senatorial leaders lined up solidly today against any hasty move to take control of satellites and space weapons programs out of the Defense Department.

Senators Knowland (R-Calif), Bridges (R-NH) and Saltonstall (R-Mass) said in separate interviews they believe any precipitate action to create a separate space agency under civilian control might interrupt vital efforts to match the Soviet Union in the race to the stars.

President Eisenhower has directed Dr. James M. Killian Jr., his science adviser, to look into the matter and report to him whether the space program should be left in the Pentagon or transferred to a new agency.

A Senate-House conference committee dominated by Democrats skirted any final decision on the issue of civilian-vs.-military control. It wrote into an Air Force construction bill compromise language allowing the secretary of defense to go ahead for a year with development of missiles, rocket weapons systems and satellites.

The terms of the compromise avoided either authorizing or prohibiting the establishment of the Advanced Research Projects Agency within the Defense Department to manage missiles and satellite programs.

Secretary of Defense McElroy has contended he already has authority to establish the agency under his direct control. Under the compromise language he could direct the development of systems through "his designee." Previously the individual services have had a large measure of control over this work.

Presidential approval would be required for space projects with no immediately military application, such as the Navy's Vanguard.

Both the Senate and the House are expected to approve terms of the compromise, but it could bring sharp debate in both houses.

Knowland, Senate Republican leader, forecast that Congress will be asked to act in this session on the issue of civilian-vs.-military control of space projects. He said he hasn't made up his own mind on the question but believes any hasty shift in responsibility might delay missile development.

MacArthur Gets Asked to Speak in Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky House of Representatives yesterday adopted a resolution inviting Douglas MacArthur to address a joint session of the State Legislature.

The resolution said MacArthur has earned the gratitude and respect of the nation as a "soldier, scholar, statesman and man of letters."

If the State Senate passes the resolution, an invitation will be sent to the retired general.

Significant Development in Transportation Revolution

Less Passengers Ride Railroads

By WILLIAM FERRIS
Associated Press Writer
Second in Series

The railroads and their passengers are learning to live without each other.

★ ★ ★

This may be the most significant development in transportation in this generation. It reflects as a profound a revolution as the passing of the Conestoga wagon, the canal barge or the river packet.

★ ★ ★

Some railroads still fight hard for passenger traffic, and get it. Some railroad presidents still think they'll be able to maintain passenger service despite the airplane and automobile. Theirs are voices crying in a wilderness of despair.

The railroads won't be able to withdraw entirely from the passenger-carrying field in the years immediately ahead. Public regulatory bodies won't let them. Yet the flight from the passenger field gathers momentum each year, almost each month.

Herbert Conover, assistant manager of the Cincinnati terminal, sees fewer and fewer passenger trains pull through his station each year. The total now is 41 each day. "During the war years," he says, "100 trains arrived and departed this terminal each day."

In 1947 the railroads operated an average of 160,647 miles in passenger service. In 1956—the last date for which the figure is available, and before the drastic pruning—this average had dropped 27.8 per cent to 115,907 miles.

In the first nine months of 1957, passenger mileage on trains totaled 20,033,217,541, a stunning 43 per cent the 35,190,414,669 in the same months of 1947.

"There seems to be no way to influence a person who wants to fly to use the train, nor have we found a way to cause the automobile driver to use the train," says C. E. Peterson, vice president in charge of passenger traffic and public relations of the Southern Pacific.

Merger is in the air for railroad. The biggest study now going on, of course, is that of the Pennsylvania and the New York Central, the two largest railroads from the standpoint of capitalization—but not profits.

There are now about 130 Class 1 railroads in the United States. John Budd, president of the Great Northern, says, "I wouldn't be surprised to see the number of Class 1 roads cut in half in my lifetime." He's 50.

Robert MacFarlane, president of the Northern Pacific, thinks consolidation "into a limited number of strong competitive systems—say 25 or 30—would be in the public interest." Alfred Perlman, president of the New York Central, says, "There is most certainly no further need for 130 Class 1 railroads in this country."

With mergers, consolidations and abandonments as the solution in intercity traffic, what will happen to commuter traffic?

Two approaches have come to the fore. One is offered by George Alpert, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, which is second to the Long Island in the percentage of passenger traffic to total traffic.

Alpert wants some sort of subsidy for commuter business. He has asked the Massachusetts Legislature to set up a form of public authority which, in essence, would provide the subsidy. He has also advocated diversion of 1 per cent of public highway funds to subsidize commuter service.

Another tack has been taken by the New York Central, which contends railroads should be treated as private enterprises and therefore get a return of 6 per cent on capital investment.

In furtherance of this policy the Central's subsidiary, the Boston & Albany, has asked the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities for permission to increase all fares on its Boston commuter service a flat 7½ cents, regardless of distance traveled.

Ike-Bulganin Exchange Talks?

(Reprinted from the Hillsdale Daily News)

Reviewing recent diplomatic exchanges between the two great powers, which left the impasse intact, and noting the American peoples' "longing for peace and assurance that progress is being made in peaceful settlements," Dr. W. H. ROBERTS, head of Hillsdale College history department, suggested in a column that President EISENHOWER propose an exchange of visits with Premier BULGANIN.

Under his plan, the President would have the privilege of addressing the All Russian Congress of Soviets, and BULGANIN in return would address the U.S. Congress. Each country would furnish its own official interpreter to insure that the speeches were not garbled.

"This visit would commit us to no particular settlement," Dr. Roberts wrote. "It would give the President the privilege of stating his case directly to the Russians. It is impossible to estimate the impact that this would make.

★ ★ ★

"Such a proposal coming from the President of the United States would electrify the world. It would demolish in India and other important neutral countries the idea that the U.S. does not want peace.

★ ★ ★

"One can imagine the alarm that would run through the Kremlin. Could they dare allow this man of world prestige to stand in the very center of communism and tell the truth? But it would be more disastrous to refuse him the privilege.

★ ★ ★

"Such a proposal is based on the fact that we will have the Russians with us as a problem for years to come. It is foolish, wishful thinking to look for a catastrophic change that will remove the problem. Our only hope is that the Soviets will gradually change under the impact of more foreign contacts. And Eisenhower's speech in Moscow would plant a measure of political leaven in the Communist meal that would have unpredictable results. Bulganin's influence in this country would be neglible in comparison."

The Pontiac PRESS believes in Dr. ROBERTS' proposal. The PRESS will personally see that a copy of this editorial will be called to the President's attention.

Egypt Dominates New Arab State

Although the Syrians originated the idea of union with Egypt in 1955, it was not until the first of this month that leaders of both countries signed documents sealing the agreement and proclaiming a United Arab Republic.

As expected the president of this new country will be Egypt's NASSER and Syria's president, SHUKRI AL-KUWATLY probably will be vice-president. The new state is to have one cabinet, one parliament, one 165,000 man army and its capital will be Cairo.

This move unites 24 million people in Egypt and 4 million in Syria, more than half of the total population of the Arab world. Its 458,000 square mile area, much of it desert, is separated by 150 miles of Israeli territory.

Neither country has much industry and both lack coal, iron and other raw materials. Syria exports some textiles and wheat and Egypt's main export is cotton, which is mortgaged to Russia for some years to come in payment of arms. Both countries import oil although all the pipelines from the Middle East to the Mediterranean pass through Syria.

Hatred and fear of Israel as well as a common religion have been unifying forces. Israel won the 1948-49 war with the Arabs and with Egypt in 1956. The new state can only unite its territories by crushing Israel.

★ ★ ★

Both Egypt and Syria have been moving closer to the Soviet Union than have other Middle East countries. They may have begun to feel Red pressure. NASSER long ago outlawed the Communist party in Egypt as a challenge to his dictatorship, but played along with it in international power politics. Syria increasingly has come under Communist influence and the Red movement threatened to take over Damascus.

★ ★ ★

Fear of losing their independence to Russia also may have helped in uniting both countries at this time. President NASSER's aim is to straddle the fence between East and West and collect as much as possible from both sides.

Thaw?

David Lawrence Warns:

Nasser's 'Union' Parallels Hitler's

WASHINGTON — Colonialism—in a more despotic form this time than ever known before—has emerged in the Middle East. Soviet imperialism is in the saddle. Egypt has taken over Syria, and Nasser, paralleling Hitler, is hoping to take over neighboring countries one by one.

LAWRENCE

Without a vote of the people and with the aid of Communist infiltrators who will see that the forthcoming "plebiscites" are properly rigged to "ratify" the dictator's decision, Syria shortly will lose her independence altogether.

The term "union" of Egypt and Syria is an attempt to fool the world into believing that the two countries voluntarily created a single state.

Actually, Nasser, aided by the Communist apparatus, engineered the deal, which in itself has no military importance but, as a source of potential friction, can nevertheless be the forerunner of a world war.

The idea that a "limited war" could be fought in the Middle East without involving Communist "volunteers," as in Korea, is fantastic. For the chances are that, if the Middle East brings on a war, it will draw in all the major powers of the East and West.

Just as Hitler's move into the Rhineland in 1936 and his later "union" of Austria with Germany did not immediately awaken the free world to the dangers ahead, so today's events in Egypt and Syria, even though more menacing, are not exciting world-wide concern.

Nothing has been done as yet by the United Nations, for example, to inquire into this new form of aggression as the people of Syria are deprived of their sovereignty through the machinations of Soviet Russia.

For Syria henceforth will be an Egyptian colony. There may be some show of resistance inside the country by the elements that do not want to see their country remain a captive of the Communist empire but, without some aid from the outside, Syria will become the tool of Nasser and of the Communist regime in Moscow.

Most of the pipelines for the transport of oil — constituting an alternate route from the Middle East countries to Mediterranean ports—are in Syria. So the coup means that the Communists, having first made sure that they control Nasser and the Suez, now hold in their hands the future of the oil resources of the Middle East.

As a strategic move in the "cold war," the Communists have obtained control over a very important area and now will begin blackmailing the other Arab countries in an attempt to force them into a Pan-Arab union. The step constitutes a threat to Jordan, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Israel as well as to Iran, Iraq and Turkey.

So far as the United States is concerned, it is committed to supply military help upon request if the independence of Iran, Iraq, Turkey or other Middle Eastern countries is threatened by Communist imperialism.

This commitment was undertaken through the Eisenhower Doctrine. Unfortunately, the Communists got into Syria before the pro-Western elements there could assert themselves in opposition to Nasser.

Moscow today controls all the radio stations at Cairo and has a large number of technicians of all kinds inside both Egypt and Syria. The annexation of Syria by Egypt will undoubtedly make it harder for the West to help the Syrian people regain their independence.

Eventually the true significance of the Egyptian seizure of Syria will become clear. It is a move that makes war more likely in the troubled areas of the Middle East. It may prove to be the tinderbox for starting the flames of a world war, just as Hitler's tactics did in the 1930s.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Pills-and-Needles Case—but Diet Did the Trick

A Chicago man writes that he had "arthritis" (his quotes) for six years. In both arms and shoulders, across the chest, and up the sides of his head. He writes::

"I took pills till I could taste them all the time. I received a good many needles in the arms. I was ready to give up, when I sent 35c and a stamped, self - addressed envelope for your rheumatiz pamphlets"

DR. BRADY

The pamphlets are, first, Calcium and Rheumatiz, free if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address; and, second, Chronic Joint Disability, for which inclose 35c in addition.)

"I didn't go for treatments or needles anymore," writes the Chicagoan. "I followed the advice in your pamphlet — high calcium diet, a quart of milk, sweet milk, buttermilk or skim milk, every day, calcium capsules, etc.

"In about six weeks all pain was gone, but it took a year to get rid of the stiffness. For three months I had a job working even in water, sandblasting. Now I am back at my trade (machine shop).

FREE OF PAIN

"I can scratch my back. My arms are free again. Since adopting the high calcium diet I have taken no beer or soft drinks. I have no pain or stiffness since."

★ ★ ★

I am using your letter here because I believe it is true. That is, I think everything you say is reasonably correct, except your notion (or maybe it was a notion of the doctor who gave you the injections) that your chronic (over a year in duration) joint disability was arthritis. But that's not important. Not to a patient who has learned to clothe the meaningless term in quotation marks — implying incredulity.

In modern medical literature, there is no definition of chronic arthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, osteo-arthritis, and I doubt that any "clinic" racketeer or trick specialist will attempt to define or describe such a disease or disability.

The late great Dr. Wm. Osler defined chronic rheumatism in his famous textbook, Practice of Medicine. His description of the morbid anatomy of chronic rheumatism is still an excellent picture of physical degeneration of joint tissues, and that's what I call RHEUMATIZ.

Shelter Answers Question About Animals Left There

We took our dog to the shelter thinking they would find it a good home. Three hours later we called to get the dog back because our girl carried on so. They said they had put the dog away. We really felt bad, and if we had known they were going to kill the dog, we would never have left it. If you are going to take your dog there, find out what they're going to do.

(Editor's Note: A check with the Oakland County Animal Welfare Shelter reveals that stray dogs picked up by the Shelter are kept at least 72 hours. However, dogs that are taken to the Shelter by owners cannot be kept because facilities do not permit it, and owners are so instructed. Some are kept longer than others depending on whether or not there is a likely possibility of someone wanting it for a pet, but it is at the discretion of the Shelter to handle such dogs as it sees fit.)

'Day Nursery Is Answer to Prayer'

I am a working mother, running a home for three sons and myself and working a five-day week in an office. We are, at last, a united family, as much as can be, self-supporting and happy, all because of the wonderful services offered by the Pontiac Area Day Nursery at 125 Raeburn St. This nursery is co-sponsored by the Community Chest.

There must be many mothers who would have their problems solved if they knew of a real good place for their young children to go while they work. Please let them know about this wonderful nursery. We pay what we are able, the amount decided at the interview. This nursery is heaven sent, truly an answer to prayer.

Very few people I've talked to have heard about it. I feel a personal obligation to help spread the good word around about this good work being done by the Pontiac Area Day Nursery.

'Let's Not Permit This in Pontiac'

I understand the priest in charge of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church of Wichita, Kan., recently asked for a beer license because he felt it would pep up the weekly bingo games and add to the take at the parish hall. He got it by getting around the restrictions against sale of liquor within 250 feet of the church. We hope this will never take place in Pontiac, no matter what church it might be.

'We Should Set Standards High'

Quoting briefly: "There is a good deal of running in circles and shouting about deficiencies in education."

Why spend so much on beautiful architecture at the expense of fine school curriculum and fine teachers. To be sure lovely schools are fine but solid subjects and science will do more to forward America's progress in every direction. Let us come down to earth and study that our children may be well informed in regard to life's progress, religiously, scientifically, morally and financially.

Our standards should be higher. Juvenile standards start in the home, churches and schools.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

To redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons. —Galatians 4:5

Case Records of a Psychologist:

People Are Like Pete, the Canary

When people work for Uncle Sam, they usually give up their free enterprise life and begin to react like Pete, the canary named below. The longer they are government employes, the less initiative and courage they have for trying to earn a living in our competitive "free enterprise" society. And when farmers get in hock to Uncle Sam they also begin to kow tow toward Washington. Beware!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case X-321: Pete was a canary, cooped up in a tiny cage.

DR. CRANE

As a boy of 10, I grew sorry for his imprisonment and wanted to do him a favor. So I opened the cage door and let him out into the room.

Timidly he hopped around and then flew from chair to chair. But soon some people entered the room and laughed and talked loudly, so Pete got panicky.

He couldn't stand his new freedom, so he flew back to his cage. But he was on the opposite side from the cage door, so he just beat his head futilely against the wires.

To keep him from hurting himself seriously, I hastened to turn the cage around till he found the entrance. Then he hopped inside, apparently quite glad to return to his prison existence.

It puzzled me somewhat at my youthful age of 10 to think that Pete didn't relish the freedom which I gave him.

But as I grew up, I learned that many human being are just like Pete. They actually like to be ordered around and regimented.

One reason why dictatorships flourish in Europe more readily than here in America is the fact that people have been taught to goosestep so long over there that they often feel ill at ease when they must do their own thinking.

Here in America we have been more independent. In the last war, if the officers of a group of German troops were killed, the men often didn't know what to do.

If the American officers were similarly killed, our private soldier casually took over and carried on.

That greater resourcefulness of Americans is attributed to the fact we have enjoyed more choices in America. Children have more freedom to pick and choose.

Even in military affairs, at least till 1940, we looked with disfavor on compulsory military training and all such goose-stepping tactics.

★ ★ ★

Congress even vetoed Universal Military Training, but then let the same type of regimentation descend upon our youth via the continuation of the peace time draft of teen-age boys.

STUNTED PERSONALITIES

At present we in America need to be alert to the onward trend toward centralized government, which is the prelude to dictatorship.

"In America," warned Frank Gannett, "the government should fear the people; not the people, the government."

But do you readers feel that way nowadays? Don't you feel more in dread of Uncle Sam than he does of you?

When Moses led the Israelites out of Egypt and they grew bored with the limited menu while they marched in the Wilderness, the people cried out against Moses.

They asked to go back to Egypt, Like Pete, the canary, they preferred a life of slavery if they could be sure of their meager meals. They didn't want freedom if it meant hunger.

★ ★ ★

Joseph, too, some 400 years earlier had forced the people to sell their cattle, then their lands, then their children and finally themselves to Pharoah in order to get corn.

We have been the major champions of free enterprise and liberty. But when we wail for federal aid, we are in danger of duplicating the fate of the Egyptians under Joseph.

As we accept loans or Uncle Sam's aid, we forfeit more liberties and soon shall let centralized government call the shots regularly.

Many Americans today are like Pete and afraid to run private business, so they comfortably take salaried jobs with our government.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

SS Won't Pay for Widow's Funeral

By RAY HENRY

From Mrs. J. W. of Newark, N. J.: "My husband worked and earned me the right to Social Security. He's dead now and I receive very little. I never have any left over to put away. Will the Social Security people pay for my funeral when I die? I have no relatives."

Because you didn't earn the right to Social Security payments yourself, no lump sum will be paid to cover any burial expenses when you die. A lump sum of from $90 to $255 is paid on the death of a person who worked long enough to earn his own Social Security benefits.

From Mrs. E. H. G. of St. Petersburg, Fla.: "My husband draws $78.50 a month Social Security. I'm just 63. Am I entitled to apply for Social Security? How much will it be?

You are entitled to Social Security. Your monthly payments will be $32.80.

From E. A. C. of Fredericksburg, Va.: "I am drawing $56.80 a month from Social Security because I was 65 in 1955. I'm now working part-time and make about $80 a month. My boss is still taking Social Security tax out of my pay. Is this right?

As long as you're working in a job covered by the Social Security law, you must pay the tax—even though you're already drawing payments.

From Mrs. J. T. W. of Galesburg, Mich.: "My husband worked on the railroad for almost 20 years and is entitled to a monthly pension of about $60. He also has worked long enough to be eligible for full Social Security payments. Will it be possible for him to collect both?"

Yes.

From D. O. L. of Holcomb, Mo.: "I worked about three years under Social Security from 1942 to 1945. I will be 65 next month. Am I eligible for Social Security at that time?"

From what you say you appear to have about 12 quarters of Social Security coverage. You earned four for each year you worked. To be eligible for Social Security payments next month, you need 14 quarters of coverage or about 3½ years' work under Social Security. Thus, if you go back to work in a Social Security job for about six months, you'll have enough quarters to be entitled to payments.

★ ★ ★

From F. R. O. of Electra, Tex.: "About the only legal proof I have of my age is my child's birth certificate. The child was born in 1920 and my age was listed on his certificate. Would the Social Security office accept this?"

Yes.

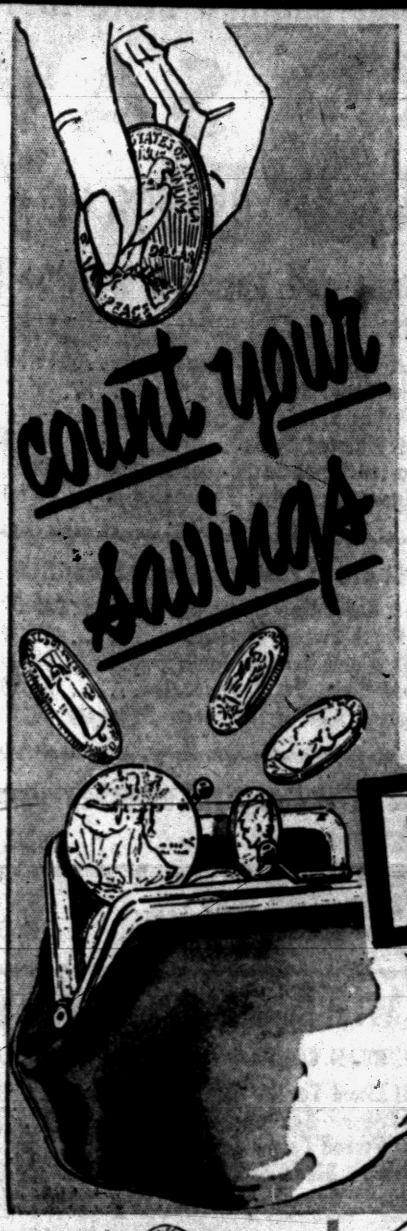

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

CHAPTER 30

Craddock felt suddenly dizzy.

"Didn't you take this clue—and put it in the boiler room for the boys to find? Quick—tell me."

"I haven't the faintest idea what you're talking about," said Lucy. "Do you mean that —"

Craddock slipped the folder quickly back in his pocket as Bryan returned.

★ ★ ★

"Cedric's in the library," he said. "Go on in."

He resumed his place on the dresser. Inspector Craddock went to the library.

Cedric Crackenthorpe seemed delighted to see the inspector.

"I think I can say we are a little further on, Mr. Crackenthorpe."

"Found out who the corpse was?"

★ ★ ★

"We've not got a definite identification — but we have a fairly shrewd idea."

"Good for you."

"Arising out of our latest information, we want to get a few statements. I'm starting with you, Mr. Crackenthorpe, as you're on the spot."

"I shan't be much longer. I'm going back to Iviza in a day or two."

"Then I seem to be just in time."

"Go ahead."

"I should like a detailed account, please, of exactly where you were and what you were doing on Friday, December 20th."

Cedric shot a quick glance at him. Then he leaned back, yawned, assumed an air of great nonchalance, and appeared to be lost in the effort of remembrance.

★ ★ ★

"Well, as I've already told you, I was in Iviza. Trouble is, one day there is so like another. Painting in the morning, siesta from three p.m. to five. Perhaps a spot of sketching if the light's suitable. Then an apertif, sometimes with the Mayor, sometimes with the doctor, at the Cafe in the Plaza. After that some kind of a scratch meal. Most of the evening in Scotty's Bar with some of my lower class friends. Will that do you?"

"I'd rather have the truth, Mr. Crackenthorpe."

Cedric sat up.

"That's a most offensive remark, Inspector."

★ ★ ★

"Do you think so. You told me, Mr. Crackenthorpe, that you left Iviza on December 21st and arrived in England that same day?"

"So I did, Em! — hi, Em?"

Emma Crackenthorpe came through the adjoining door from the small morning room. She looked inquiringly from Cedric to the Inspector.

"Look here, Em. I arrived here for Christmas on the Saturday before, didn't I? Came straight from the airport?"

"Yes," said Emma wonderingly. "You got here about lunch time."

"There you are," said Cedric to the Inspector.

★ ★ ★

"You must think us very foolish, Mr. Crackenthorpe," said Craddock pleasantly. "We can check on these things, you know. I think, if you'll show me your passport—"

He paused expectantly.

"Can't find the damned thing," said Cedric. "Was looking for it this morning. Wanted to send it to Cook's."

"I think you could find it, Mr. Crackenthorpe. But it's not actually necessary. The records show that you actually entered this country on the evening of December 19th. Perhaps you will now account to me for your movements between that time until lunch time on December 21st when you arrived here."

Cedric looked very cross indeed.

"That's the Hell of life nowadays," he said angrily. "All this red tape and form filling. That's what comes of a bureaucratic state. Can't go where you like and do as you please anymore! Somebody's always asking questions. What's all this fuss about the 20th, anyway? What's special about the 20th?"

"It happens to be the day we believe the murder was committed. You can refuse to answer, of course, but —"

"Who says I refuse to answer? Give a chap time. And you were vague enough about the date of the murder at the inquest. What's turned up new since then?"

★ ★ ★

Craddock did not reply.

Cedric said, with a sidelong glance at Emma,

"Shall we go into the other room?"

Emma said quickly: "I'll leave you." At the door, she paused and turned.

"This is serious, you know, Cedric. If the 20th was the day of the murder, then you must tell Inspector Craddock exactly what you were doing."

She went through into the next room and closed the door behind her.

★ ★ ★

"Good old Em," said Cedric. "Well, here goes. Yes, I left Iviza on the 19th all right. Planned to break the journey in Paris, and spend a couple of days routing up some old friends on the Left Bank. But as a matter of fact, there was a very attractive woman on the plane . . . Quite a dish. To put it plainly, she and I got off together. She was on her way to the States, had to spend a couple of nights in London to see about some business or other. We got to London on the 19th. We stayed at the Kingsway Palace in case your spies haven't found that out yet! Called myself John Brown — never does to use your own name on these occasions."

"And on the 20th?"

Cedric made a grimace.

"Morning pretty well occupied by a terrific hangover."

"And the afternoon. From three o'clock onwards?"

★ ★ ★

"Let me see. Well, I mooned about, as you might say. Went into the National Gallery — that's respectable enough. Saw a film. Rowenna of the Range. I've always had a passion for Westerns. This was a corker . . . Then a drink or two in the bar and a bit of sleep in my room, and out about ten o'clock with the girl friend and a round of various hot spots — can't even remember most of their names — Jumping Frog was one, I think. She knew 'em all. Got pretty well plastered and, to tell you the truth, don't remember much more till I woke up the next morning — with an even worse hangover. Girl friend hopped off to catch her plane and I poured cold water over my head, got a chemist to give me a devil's brew, and then started off for this place, pretending I'd just arrived at Heathrow. No need to upset Emma, I thought. You know what women are — always hurt if you don't come straight home. I had to borrow money from her to pay the taxi. I was completely cleaned out. No use asking the old man. He'd never cough up. Mean old brute. Well, Inspector, satisfied?"

"Can any of this be substantiated, Mr. Crackenthorpe Say, between 3 p.m. and 7 p.m."

"Most unlikely, I should think," said Cedric cheerfully. "National Gallery where the attendants look at you with lack lustre eyes and a crowded Picture House. No, not likely."

Emma re-entered. She held a small engagement book in her hand.

"You want to know what everyone was doing on December 20th is that right, Inspector Craddock?"

"Well — er — yes, Miss Crackenthorpe."

"I have just been looking in my engagement book. On the 20th I went into Brackhampton to attend a meeting of the Church Restoration Fund. That finished about a quarter to one and I lunched with Lady Adington and Miss Bartlett who was also on the Committee, at the Cadena Cafe. After lunch I did some shopping, stores for zchristmas, and also Christmas presents. I went to Greenford's and Lyall and Swift's, Boot's, and probably several other shops. I had tea about a quarter to five in the Shamrock Tea Rooms and then went to the station to meet Bryan who was coming by train. I got home about six o'clock and found my father in a very bad temper. I had left lunch ready for him, but Mrs. Hart who was to come in the afternoon and give him his tea, had not arrived. He was so angry that he had shut himself in his room and would not let me in or speak to me. He does not like my going out in the afternoon, but I make a point of doing so now and then."

★ ★ ★

"You're probably wise. Thank you, Miss Crackenthorpe."

He could hardly tell her that as she was a woman, height five foot seven, her movements that afternoon were of no great importance. Instead he said:

"Your other two brothers came down later, I understand?"

"Alfred came down late on Saturday evening. He tells me he tried to ring me on the telephone the afternoon I was out — but my father, if he is upset, will never answer the telephone. My brother Harold did not come down until Christmas Eve."

★ ★ ★

"Thank you, Miss Crackenthorpe."

"I suppose I mustn't ask —" she hesitated, "what has come up new that prompts these inquiries?"

Craddock took the folder from his pocket. Using the tips of his fingers, he extracted the envelope.

"Don't touch it, please, but do you recognize this?"

"But —" Emma stared at him, bewildered. "That's my handwriting. That's the letter I wrote to Martine."

"I thought it might be."

"But how did you get it? Did she—? Have you found her"

"It would seem possible that we have — found her. This empty envelope was found here."

"In the house"

"In the grounds."

"Then — she did come here! She — You mean — it was Martine there — in the sarcophagus?"

★ ★ ★

"It would seem very likely, Miss Crackenthorpe," said Craddock gently.

It seemed even more likely when he got back to town. A message was awaiting him from Armand Dessin.

"One of the girl friends has had a postcard from Anna Stravinska. Apparently the cruise story was true! She has reached Jamaica and is having, in your phrase, a wonderful time!"

Craddock crumpled up the message and threw it into the waste paper basket.

"I must say," said Alexander, sitting up in bed, thoughtfully consuming a chocolate bar, "that this has been the most smashing day ever. Actually finding a real clue!"

★ ★ ★

His voice was awed.

"In fact the whole holidays have been smashing," he added happily. "I don't suppose such a thing will ever happen again."

"I hope it won't happen again to me," said Lucy who was on her knees packing Alexander's clothes into a suitcase, "Do you want all this space fiction with you?"

"Not those two top ones. I've read them. The football and my football boots and the gum boots can go separately."

★ ★ ★

"They must be rich."

"Rolling! Jolly nice, too. All the same, I rather wish we weren't leaving here. Another body might turn up."

"I sincerely hope not."

"Well, it often does in books. I mean somebody who's seen something, or heard something gets done in, too. It might be you," he added, unrolling a second chocolate bar.

"Thank you!"

Hungry Wits Feast on Steaks—for Free

DALLAS (AP)—A Dallas cafe operator told police two men apparently without funds got away with a pair of meals.

One finished his steak, complained of being ill and went outside. His friend finished eating and told the waitress, "I'd better see about my friend." He went outside and both disappeared.

Junior Editors Quiz on TOYS

QUESTION: How did the Teddy Bear get its name?

ANSWER: When Theodore Roosevelt was President, the caterers at a formal White House breakfast paid homage to his talents as a big game hunter by decorating a cake with tiny brown bears.

The idea caught on with toy makers across the country, who quickly made furry replicas of Teddy Roosevelt's Teddy bear.

The animal represented by the Teddy bear is not, however, a native American. Actually it is closest to a small Australian bear called a koala. The koala is a soft, furry, friendly little fellow who can hang by his long toes from a tree and do all sorts of acrobatic feats. In the daytime he sleeps in the top of a eucalyptus tree or a blue gum tree, both of which furnish its only food.

DETROIT WOMEN HIGHLY PRAISE O-JIB-WA BITTERS
Everyday, hundreds of new users of O-Jib-Wa Bitters are getting amazing results. For rheumatism, arthritis and stomach trouble. The following endorsements are but three of many, and are offered with the sincere purpose of helping others.

Mrs. Robbins

Mrs. Carey

Mrs. Russell

MRS. VERA ROBBINS, 48 W. Ferry, Detroit, says: "I tried about everything for arthritis in my arm, legs and neck, so when I saw a testimonial in my newspaper for O-JIB-WA BITTERS, I decided to try it. I'm very happy I did, for results were quick in coming. Once again, I can comb my hair, put on my coat and walk again without terrible pain, thanks to O-JIB-WA."

MRS. CAREY, 215 Lathers St., Garden City, says: "I suffered 12 years with arthritis and rheumatism so bad I couldn't close my hands, raise my arms, turn my head or walk, as my ankles were swollen to three times their normal size. I even spent 11 weeks in Hot Springs, Ark., without much help. I finally learned about O-JIB-WA BITTERS and am on my 4th bottle. The terrible pains are gone, and I feel like a new person."

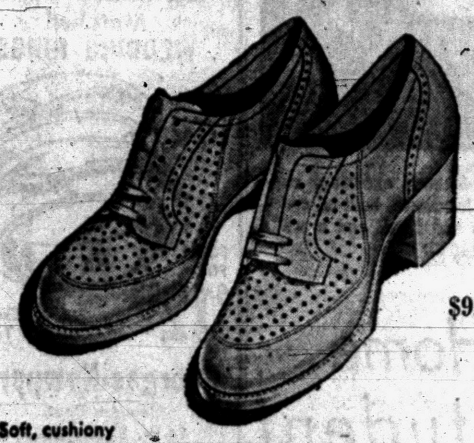

MRS. RUSSELL, 21600 8 Mile Rd., Livonia, says: "The first bottle of O-JIB-WA BITTERS stopped the suffering of arthritis pains in my arms and shoulders. It's a great stomach medicine too as I no longer have gas or indigestion. My husband's arthritis was helped also, so I recommended O-JIB-WA BITTERS to a friend barely able to walk, who is all better now and teaching school. I sure recommend O-JIB-WA BITTERS highly."

MRS. CHARLES SMITH

NORTH BRANCH — Service for Mrs. Charles (Phoebe) Smith, 85, of Detroit, was held at 2 p.m. today at the Blackburn Funeral Home, North Branch.

Mrs. Smith, a former North Branch resident, died of cerebral hemorrhage Saturday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Clark, in Detroit. The Rev. Samuel Bowman of North Branch officiated at the service. Burial was in the Burlington - North Branch Cemetery.

Deaths Elsewhere

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Philip Raphael Lehrman, 62, a pioneer in psychoanalysis in this country, died yesterday. He joined the New York Psychoanalytic Institute and Society in 1921 and served as its president in 1946 and 1947.

★ ★ ★

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Monta Bell, former film writer, director and producer, died at the Motion Picture Country House and Hospital yesterday. He would have been 67 today. Born in Washington, D. C., Bell was a stock actor for two years before directing "Bellamy Trial" in 1929. Among his other film credits were "Beyond the Blue Horizon," "Men in White," "West Point of the Air" and "Birth of the Blues." In 1951 he retired because of poor health.

Truck Backs Into Car and Hurts City Woman

Holly F. Hundly Jr., 23, of 810 Scottswood Ave, told Pontiac Police he was backing his truck from Turk street into Saginaw street and did not see the car standing in the street.

Mrs. Goldie Scruggs, 29, of 801 Rockwell Ave. was getting out of the car driven by her husband, George, 32, when the accident occurred. She was treated at Pontiac General Hospital.

Ex-Hamtramck Mayor Felled by Heart Attack

DETROIT (AP) — Walter Kanar, 56, former mayor of Hamtramck and member of the Michigan House of Representatives, died last night of a heart attack. He had been in failing health three years.

Kanar was Hamtramck mayor from 1939 to 1942 and from 1929 to 1931 a member of the state House. He was a Hamtramck city councilman from 1934 to 1939. He was a native of Poland.

Kanar's career was a turbulent one. While a member of the legislature he was indicted by a U.S. grand jury on a charge of obtaining citizenship fraudulently in 1927. The charge later was quashed.

In the 1940s he was sentenced to 60 days in jail and fined $100 for contempt of a graft grand jury.

Youth Admits Break-In of Bar on November 27

Pontiac Police have arrested a breaking and entering suspect who has confessed to the break-in of a local bar last November, according to detectives.

The suspect, James L. Ray, 19, of 691 Brown Rd., was questioned by detectives about his part in the break-in of Tom's Bar, 928 Mount Clemens St., Nov. 27.

Ray waived examination yesterday in Municipal Court. Judge Maurice E. Finnegan set arraignment in Circuit Court for Monday and released Ray on bond.

AFL-CIO Said Near Agreement

Meany's Formula to Settle Job Disputes May Be Solution

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—AFL-CIO leaders reported progress today toward working out a formula for settling ancient work jurisdiction squabbles between rival unions.

Agreement was said to be near on a formula advanced by AFL-CIO President George Meany to settle job rights disputes among craft and production work unions around factory locations.

Solution of the problem would go a long way toward ending interfederation feuding and bringing more unity into the merged labor organization.

Meany last year won tentative agreement on a plan to assign new construction work around industrial plants to the former AFL Building Trades Union but to concede ordinary repair work to former CIO factory production or industrial-type unions.

The plan now is reported to have been modified to a form more acceptable to the old AFL unions in the AFL-CIO Building Trades Department and to the former CIO unions of the federation's Industrial Union Department.

Meany in a speech last December said unions had organized so widely over the years in each other's jurisdictions that they never would be able to unscramble their memberships into pure crafts again.

He said some arbitrary work division formula was the only solution.

The AFL-CIO chiefs scheduled a huddle today on the role they will play in the 1958 congressional campaigns.

The AFL-CIO, which already has expelled the Teamsters, Laundry and Bakery Workers unions on corruption charges, was reported to have decided to make a full-scale probe into affairs of the Operating Engineers and Jewelry Workers unions.

★ ★ ★

The material on the affairs of the two unions was reviewed at a closed meeting of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee. The committee later said only that it is continuing to investigate the two groups.

Navy Lays the Keel for First A-Carrier

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—The keel was laid yesterday for the world's first atomic - powered aircraft carrier, the USS Enterprise.

★ ★ ★

The massive keel was lowered into place in the same building dock at Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. which gave birth to two of the Forrestal class carriers. Until the Enterprise is floated they hold the record as the largest warships in the world.

The eighth U.S. Navy vessel to bear this name, made famous during World War II by the carrier "Big E," the Enterprise will cost 400 million dollars and is scheduled for delivery in 1961.

She will be powered by eight reactors, linked in tandem to four propellers, and should be able to cruise for two years without replenishing her atomic fuel.

★ ★ ★

Westinghouse Electric Corp. will construct the reactors.

Use of atomic rather than conventional fuel will enable the Enterprise to carry nearly twice the amount of aviation fuel the Forrestal class supercarriers hold.

Current Gas War Didn't Stop Thieves

Recent cuts in the price of gas haven't stopped thieves, according to this morning's reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Last night someone siphoned 100 gallons of gas from one tank and 100 gallons of oil from another tank at the Independence Township residence of Wilson Brisbois, 6335 Sashabaw Rd.

Another report listed seven gallons of gas and a .22 caliber rifle missing after a breakin at Betson's Service Station, Lapeer and Clarkston roads, in Orion Township.

'Dead' Marines Meet

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — William Dusseau of East Detroit and Roy Hammond of Battle Creek each thought the other was killed in fighting on Okinawa 13 years ago. They stared in disbelief at one another when they met in Battle Creek during the midwinter state rally of the Marine Corps League. Dusseau exclaimed, "It can's be!" but it was.

Night Classes Ready to Open

Registration Time Set Tomorrow for Courses at Walled Lake

WALLED LAKE — Registration for adult education classes will be taken at Walled Lake High School tomorrow from 7 to 9 p.m. The classes will begin the next week and continue for 10 weeks, according to C. G. Scott, director of the program for the Walled Lake schools.

Fees will be collected at registration and class meeting time also will be arranged then. Classes will meet on Tuesdays, Wednesdays or Thursdays.

Among the courses offered are bookkeeping, typing, shorthand, beginning and advanced sewing, oil and china painting, interior decorating, contract bridge, cake decorating, landscaping, photography, woodshop and driver education.

Any person over 16 years of age, not enrolled in a high school program, is eligible to take courses. If 10 persons are interested in any particular class and if an instructor can be secured that class will be offered, Scott said.

Anyone desiring further information may call Scott at the Decker School, MA 4-2981.

Claims Self-Defense in City Murder Trial

The defense in the second-degree murder trial of 23-year-old Clisby Watkins of Pontiac, will attempt to show the accused acted in self-defense in the fatal stabbing of Freddie D. Rhimes last November.

A jury of six men and six women heard the opening arguments of Defense Counsel Paul L. Merideth and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Paul M. Mandel yesterday when the trial began before Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick.

Merideth contends Rhimes threatened Watkins with an axe where the latter lived at 415 Bloomfield St. The prosecution argues that Watkins stabbed Rhimes after by-standers had taken the axe away.

Woes Mounting for Oil Industry

Gasoline Price Wars at Home, Profit Threats Overseas Are Worries

NEW YORK (AP)—The oil industry's problems multiply today at home and abroad. Here there are scattered gasoline price wars and threats to the price structure of crude oil because of large stocks despite sharp cutbacks in output.

Overseas the trouble ranges from nationalization trends in some areas to a threat to the long-established 50-50 split of the profits. With any change Americans likely would be on the short end.

The Indonesian government has withdrawn concessions to exploit oil fields in two areas once granted to the Royal Dutch Shell subsidiary B.P.M., whose investors include American, British and French interests as well as Dutch. Americans also hold other interests in Indonesia.

In Venezuela Americans closely watch as a new regime takes over from the former military dictatorship of Perez Jimenez. American oilmen operate some 65 per cent of the Venezuelan industry. Total foreign investments there, mostly in oil and iron ore, come to around five billion dollars.

In Iran an Italian government oil company has a 75-25 arrangement with Tehran for splitting oil profits.

In Saudi Arabia, where Americans operate on a 50-50 basis, a private Japanese company has negotiated a 56-44 agreement.

The Japanese have offered Kuwait the same deal for exploiting offshore concessions. An American firm also is reported making a generous offer, while Royal Dutch Shell bids under the traditional 50-50 principle.

And finally, Egypt and Syria's union with a bid for all Arabs to join lends a long-range threat to the 50-50 split obtaining in most Mideast oil fields.

FSCS in Lake Orion Sponsors Smorgasbord

LAKE ORION — The WSCS of the Lake Orion Methodist Church is sponsoring a smorgasbord on Friday from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the Methodist Church House.

The public is invited. Tickets will be available at the door.

Proceeds will be used to purchase kitchen equipment. The church house is used as a meeting place for several clubs and civic groups, so many residents will benefit from the event.

The engagement of Patsy Sue Brotherton to Harry E. Barnett has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Brotherton of Cedar Island road, White Lake Township. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Barnett of Dean drive, White Lake Township. The wedding date has been set for March 21.

Converting Cottage to Home Pays Off for Orion Student

By LAOMA SANFORD
Lake Orion Correspondent

LAKE ORION — The old adage, "Experience is the Best Teacher," has proved true for David Hanoute, University of Michigan architectural student, who this summer converted a small cottage on Lake Orion into a delightful lakefront home.

★ ★ ★

David, the son of Lake Orion auto dealer Al Hanoute, showed an aptitude for designing some years ago while attending Eastern Junior High School in Pontiac. Roy Lowry, mechanical drawing teacher, recognized his talent, encouraged him, and the would-be architect was on his way.

David's mother, who paints for a hobby, and is planning a home to be built on Little Cedar Lake, was a big encouragement. And of course his father, who financed the summer project, just couldn't be more proud.

David says he started on the remodeling project, "and just didn't know when to quit." Now, only the sub-floor of the original cottage remains.

First, the building was shored up and a bulldozer gouged out a basement and made a soping lawn from the home to the lake. Somehow the 10x12 foot "addition" became a 46x15 foot recreation room.

Maynard Reed, a contractor who is partially retired because of a heart condition, began to work on the Lake Orion project with David.

David sketched each step. Some of the plans were impossible structurally. Others, that materials and building made beautiful realities, were a real experience.

Two factors learned in the building of this house, David says, are that architect and contractor must work closely together.

David married the former Diane Hubbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hubbs of Pontiac, during his first college year, after a high school courtship. They have a daughter, Cheryl Ann, 3, and maintain an apartment at the Palms in Pontiac.

At U. of M., architectural students are given a great deal of freedom of thought, David says, pointing out that there are two definite schools of thought in the entire architectural field. He hasn't yet settled on either style, although he completed four years in the school Jan. 24. This is just halfway because following the five-year college course, he must be an apprentice in some architectural firm for an additional four years.

★ ★ ★

Romeo Brother Flies West

Reunited After 53 Years

ROMEO—A seventy-five-year-old Romeo man was to arrive in California today for a reunion with a brother he hasn't seen for 53 years.

★ ★ ★

William H. Bishop and his wife, Eleanor, 79, left Willow Run by plane this morning for Los Angeles. Upon their arrival on the West Coast, they will be greeted by Bishop's brother, John 78. It will be the first time either of them have traveled on a commercial airliner.

While in California the Bishops also will visit another brother, Thomas, 80, who made a trip to Michigan just last summer.

The Bishops live at 305 East St. Clair St., and both are very active for the ages, friends say. Bishop, himself, is always busy, especially in the summertime when his main job is operating a tractor in taking care of truck gardens in the Romeo area.

Cultural Center Drive Planned

Waterford Study Group Appoints 3 Committees for Campaign

Three committees have been established by the Waterford Township Steere study group in an effort to organize a campaign to build a cultural center.

Frank Steere, 4230 S. Shore Rd., donated 17 acres to the township in September providing a $250,000 library and cultural center be built and maintained on the site.

The property is located on the corner of Highland and Pontiac Lake roads, and is now used as a private bird and wild game sanctuary.

The committees which were appointed at the monthly meeting last night include a legislative and fund raising committee, under the chairmanship of Harold Wettlaufer.

Carroll Appel was named chairman of the library building committee and Mrs. O. L. Siegman and Avis Carey were appointed to it.

★ ★ ★

BONNIE J. HANNAH

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McGilvery of Oxford have announced the engagement of their daughter, Bonnie Jean Hannah, to Gerald Heichel, the son of Charles Heichel of Oxford. The wedding has been set for March 29.

2 State Men Injured in California Bus Crash

COLFAX, Calif. (AP) — Two Michigan persons were injured in a bus - truck collision near here Monday night. They were Joe C. McClain, 20, an Air Force man, of Lansing, Mich., and Reuben E. Oliver, 41, of Petoskey, Mich. Neither was reported in serious condition. The accident left two dead and at least 22 hurt.

Road Worker Finds Abandoned Safe

An Oakland County Road Commission worker found an abandoned safe, Tuesday afternoon, along Ormond road on the Springfield Township boundary line, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies.

There was no money in the safe when Lyle Covert, of 11996 Davisburg Rd., Davisburg, found it in a 20-foot deep ravine, said deputies.

The safe's door had been drilled through in several places and the bottom had been knocked out, it was reported.

PREPARE FOR PTA FAIR — The Parent-Teacher Association of Pine Knob Elementary School will hold its annual fair Friday from 6 to 10 p.m. at the school on Sashabaw road in Independence Township. Prepared by PTA mothers, the fair will feature booths with fancywork, candy, "white elephants," cake and doll walks and numerous other bazaar items. Here, Mrs. Robert Jensenius of Clarkston (right), general chairman, shows one of the many dolls to be offered at the fair to Principal George Barrie and Mrs. George Koles of Clarkston, co-chairman.

Oak Park Seeking Cadet Safety Officers

OAK PARK—A cadet program to relieve safety officers on desk jobs and telephone duty is under way in Oak Park.

The city's Public Safety Department is sponsoring the program. Glenford S. Leonard, department director, said he already has received 10 applications and expects at least 50 more young men to apply for the cadet program.

Only two will be hired. They must be between 17½ and 20 years of age and in good physical health. Leonard said a special mental test is now being prepared for applicants.

All will be eligible for regular duty when they reach the age of 21.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.
To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:
First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.
Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

5 States Preparing 'Little Rock' Bills

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Southern School News reported today that five Southern and border states are preparing so-called "Little Rock" bills to close their public schools if federal troops are sent to patrol them.

Such bills already have made some progress through the legislatures of Delaware and Virginia, the publication said, and have been proposed in Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi.

Southern School News is published by the Southern Education Reporting Service, an agency formed by a group of Southern newspapermen a few years ago to report developments in school integration.

The publication said only one announced plan for desegregation of a school district has been made since November, that in Oklahoma. This would bring to 763 the number of desegregated districts in 17 Southern and border states.

★ ★ ★

In a review of 145 prosegregation laws adopted in 11 states during the past four years, the News said nine have been declared unconstitutional. Several others are pending, including 10 laws using the principal of pupil assignment.

Bob Considine Looks at TV

Ask Joe Doakes (the Man Who Pays)

NEW YORK (INS) — The TV networks are putting up a tremendous fight against pay TV. So are the operators of theater chains. The movie people, once opposed, are suddenly interested. They now dream of getting off the "nut" with a single telecast. The public? Well, Joe Doakes — the guy who will pay or not pay, depending on what he gets for his dough — is finally being brought into the act.

Joe and the family have been more or less impatient bystanders during the years of debate over whether it was legal or proper to permit him the choice of watching a free show on TV or paying a fee to see some particular program offered only on that basis.

Joe has found many who have put a protective arm around him and cried, "Never!" though there is little evidence that Joe asked for such fending. One of the latest is Rep. Manny Celler of Brooklyn, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. "I want to keep faith with the American people," Congressman Celler said recently, and commendably. "It is they who own the air waves."

Okay, Manny, my friend. I own the airways. I want part of my air used to make up my mind whether pay TV should be encouraged or thrown into the ash-can. I want to decide that myself, not have somebody else tell me what's good or bad for me before I try it.

I've heard articulate men on both sides of the issue, men of the brilliance of Gen. Sarnoff and Dr. Stanton, on the one side, and on the other Comdr. Eugene McDonald of Zenith, creator of one of the proposed forms of toll-TV. Each wants to protect me, just as Rep. Celler is looking out for my air. But let ME decide what's best for me.

Sen Henry Jackson's recommendation to the Secretary of Defense that a moon project be given equal priority with our ICBM and IRBM programs is not farfetched at all. Indeed, I have heard it seriously contended that it might now be best to surrender moon exploration to the Russians (whose Sputnik authorities assured us in November that they'd get there "soon") and concentrate on Mars.

Dr. Wily Ley believes that we are capable — in a comparatively short time — of hitting the moon with a "can of paint," that is, a dye which would be visible to the whole world.

The German-born rocket wizard suggests that we could put our brand on the moon for all mankind to see by hitting it with a container no larger than a soup can. It was suggested jocularly that we hit it with three cans of dye — one red, one white, one blue. He somberly thought that would be possible, too, if we concentrated on it.

Jackson's urgent request comes at a time when despite the happy presence of our satellite Explorer in orbit we still expect something extraordinary from the Russians. It would indeed be a terrible thing for us if the moon rose some night with a hammer and sickle painted across its W. C. Fields countenance.

Playing Cards Boosting Popcorn Sale in Texas

DALLAS—A Texas theater-chain owner has found an unusual way of increasing the sale of popcorn in his movie houses.

He puts a playing card in each box or bag of popcorn. When a patron collects the proper cards to form a certain prescribed hand, he wins a prize.

Korea to Receive U.S. Surplus Grains

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—South Korea and the United States today signed a 50-million-dolar agreement for shipments of surplus American food grains to Korea.

★ ★ ★

Korea will take 765,000 tons of wheat and other grains during the current fiscal year. The Korean government will sell the grain locally and use about 41 million dollars of the proceeds for military expenditures. Most of the rest will pay for U.S. government expenses in Korea.

★ ★ ★

The Thirty Years' War between Catholics and Protestants began in Germany in 1618.

Actress Prefers Her World of Pretense Today

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Lovable great grandma thought she'd hed onto a good thing when dreamed up that comforting e phrase, "Just be yourself, r, and everyone will like you."

Try it today, dear, and you'll the boor of the neighborhood.

he girl next door, who is not g herself at all but is some- much more fascinating con- ted from her own imagination, l get all the laughs. Not to ntion the men.

hese are not the times to "be urself" — presuming that being urself means to behave accord- to personal inclination. In the n light of today's world harass- nts and private insecurities, the eat majority of thinking people, young and old, feel inwardly be- wildered, uncertain and shy.

Miss Joan Plowright, a very young British actress who is about to make her Broadway debut opposite Laurence Olivier in a play called "The Entertainer," calls herself one of the least secure of the insecure people who cover the world.

"But I started early to pretend. All children do, I guess. And immediately I had that secret feeling that I'm more secure being someone else than I am being me.

"Sometimes I am a great beauty. Sometimes I have mints of money. Sometimes I am old and wise and forthright—and closely related, naturally, to Sir Winston Churchill . . . The world cannot frighten you so much when you are old and wise and so well related."

Miss Plowright, who more realistically is 26 and related by birth to a newspaperman and by marriage to an actor, thinks most everybody uses the same sort of deception in facing the rest of the world. "Only some of them don't realize it. A soldier is not brave when he starts onto the battlefield. He just pretends he is—and then usually it works out."

It's the second easiest method in the world, she said, for people without confidence to bluff their way into the admirations of their friends. "Think of yourself as a wonderfully charming, marvelous sort, and it's amazing how many of them will believe you."

The best and simplest way of all to be liked, of course, is to love yourself, honestly, because you're worth loving. "But how many people are good enough to do that?"

Grandma, apparently. Few since.

May Ask $300 Million in Rural Electric Loans

DALLAS, Tex. (UP) — The National Rural Electric Cooperatives Assn. may ask today that 300 million dollars be made available for rural electric loans.

The group's Resolutions Committee made the proposal and also recommended to the association's convention here that rural power cooperatives not be charged more than 2 per cent on loans from the Rural Electric Administration.

Singer to Get Divorce

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Betty Button, the blonde singer, said yesterday that she and her third husband Alan Livingston, an NBC vice president, have agreed to a divorce and an even division of property.

Jail Soup Kettle Aging

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Warden Grant F. Price asked the county commissioners to appropriate $1,425 for a new 100-gallon soup kettle for the county jail. The old one, he said, has developed leaks after 50 years of service.

License Plates Sold in Waterford Starting Friday

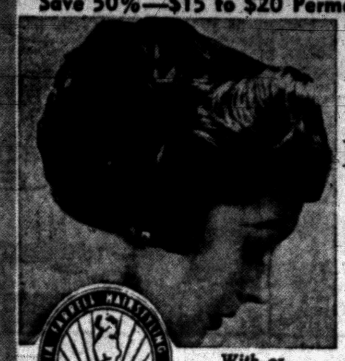

Auto license plates for 1958 will be sold at the Waterford Township Hall, M59 and Crescent Lake Road beginning Friday, according to Dorothy Olsen, township treasurer.

This service, available through March 8, will operate Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. On the Saturdays, February 15 and March 8, the office will be open until 1 p.m. and on February 22 and March 1, until 5 p.m.

Willis M. Brewer, manager of the Pontiac branch of the secretary of state office reports all prospective purchasers must have the title of the auto with them in order to buy the plates.

The pulse rate for newborn infants beats from 130 to 140 times per minute.

Bob Considine Looks at TV

Ask Joe Doakes (the Man Who Pays)

NEW YORK (INS) — The TV networks are putting up a tremendous fight against pay TV. So are the operators of theater chains. The movie people, once opposed, are suddenly interested. They now dream of getting off the "nut" with a single telecast. The public? Well, Joe Doakes — the guy who will pay or not pay, depending on what he gets for his dough — is finally being brought into the act.

Joe and the family have been more or less impatient bystanders during the years of debate over whether if was legal or proper to permit him the choice of watching a free show on TV or paying a fee to see some particular program offered only on that basis.

Joe has found many who have put a protective arm around him and cried, "Never!" though there is little evidence that Joe asked for such fending. One of the latest is Rep. Manny Celler of Brooklyn, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. "I want to keep faith with the American people," Congressman Celler said recently, and commendably. "It is they who own the air waves."

Okay, Manny, my friend. I own the airways. I want part of my air used to make up my mind whether pay TV should be encouraged or thrown into the ash-can. I want to decide that myself, not have somebody else tell me what's good or bad for me before I try it.

I've heard articulate men on both sides of the issue, men of the brilliance of Gen. Sarnoff and Dr. Stanton, on the one side, and on the other Comdr. Eugene McDonald of Zenith, creator of one of the proposed forms of toll-TV. Each wants to protect me, just as Rep. Celler is looking out for my air. But let ME decide what's best for me.

Sen Henry Jackson's recommendation to the Secretary of Defense that a moon project be given equal priority with our ICBM and IRBM programs is not far-fetched at all. Indeed, I have heard it seriously contended that it might now be best to surrender moon exploration to the Russians (whose Sputnik authorities assured us in November that they'd get there "soon") and concentrate on Mars.

Dr. Wily Ley believes that we are capable — in a comparatively short time — of hitting the moon with a "can of paint," that is, a dye which would be visible to the whole world.

The German-born rocket wizard suggests that we could put our brand on the moon for all mankind to see by hitting it with a container no larger than a soup can. It was suggested jocularly that we hit it with three cans of dye — one red, one white, one blue. He somberly thought that would be possible, too, if we concentrated on it.

Jackson's urgent request comes at a time when despite the happy presence of our satellite Explorer in orbit we still expect something extraordinary from the Russians. It would indeed be a terrible thing for us if the moon rose some night with a hammer and sickle painted across its W. C. Fields countenance.

Playing Cards Boosting Popcorn Sale in Texas

DALLAS—A Texas theater-chain owner has found an unusual way of increasing the sale of popcorn in his movie houses.

He puts a playing card in each box or bag of popcorn. When a patron collects the proper cards to form a certain prescribed hand, he wins a prize.

Korea to Receive U.S. Surplus Grains

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—South Korea and the United States today signed a 50-million-dolar agreement for shipments of surplus American food grains to Korea.

★ ★ ★

Korea will take 765,000 tons of wheat and other grains during the current fiscal year. The Korean government will sell the grain locally and use about 41 million dollars of the proceeds for military expenditures. Most of the rest will pay for U.S. government expenses in Korea.

★ ★ ★

The Thirty Years' War between Catholics and Protestants began in Germany in 1618.

Actress Prefers Her World of Pretense Today

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Lovable old great grandma thought she'd latched onto a good thing when she dreamed up that comforting little phrase, "Just be yourself, dear, and everyone will like you."

Try it today, dear, and you'll be the boor of the neighborhood.

The girl next door, who is not being herself at all but is someone much more fascinating concocted from her own imagination, will get all the laughs. Not to mention the men.

These are not the times to "be yourself" — presuming that being yourself means to behave according to personal inclination. In the dim light of today's world harassments and private insecurities, the great majority of thinking people, young and old, feel inwardly bewildered, uncertain and shy.

Miss Joan Plowright, a very young British actress who is about to make her Broadway debut opposite Laurence Olivier in a play called "The Entertainer," calls herself one of the least secure of the insecure people who cover the world.

"But I started early to pretend. All children do, I guess. And immediately I had that secret feeling that I'm more secure being someone else than I am being me.

"Sometimes I am a great beauty. Sometimes I have mints of money. Sometimes I am old and wise and forthright—and closely related, naturally, to Sir Winston Churchill . . . The world cannot frighten you so much when you are old and wise and so well related."

Miss Plowright, who more realistically is 26 and related by birth to a newspaperman and by marriage to an actor, thinks most everybody uses the same sort of deception in facing the rest of the world. "Only some of them don't realize it. A soldier is not brave when he starts onto the battlefield. He just pretends he is—and then usually it works out."

It's the second easiest method in the world, she said, for people without confidence to bluff their way into the admirations of their friends. "Think of yourself as a wonderfully charming, marvelous sort, and it's amazing how many of them will believe you."

The best and simplest way of all to be liked, of course, is to love yourself, honestly, because you're worth loving. "But how many people are good enough to do that?"

Grandma, apparently. Few since.

May Ask $300 Million in Rural Electric Loans

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The National Rural Electric Cooperatives Assn. may ask today that 300 million dollars be made available for rural electric loans.

The group's Resolutions Committee made the proposal and also recommended to the association's convention here that rural power cooperatives not be charged more than 2 per cent on loans from the Rural Electric Administration.

Singer to Get Divorce

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Betty Button, the blonde singer, said yesterday that she and her third husband Alan Livingston, an NBC vice president, have agreed to a divorce and an even division of property.

Jail Soup Kettle Aging

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Warden Grant F. Price asked the county commissioners to appropriate $1,425 for a new 100-gallon soup kettle for the county jail. The old one, he said, has developed leaks after 50 years of service.

License Plates Sold in Waterford Starting Friday

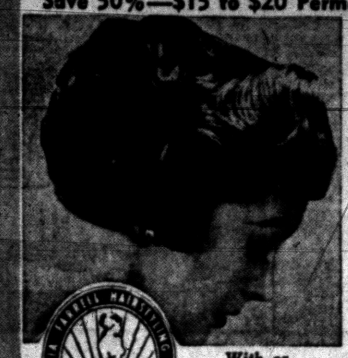

Auto license plates for 1958 will be sold at the Waterford Township Hall, M59 and Crescent Lake Road beginning Friday, according to Dorothy Olsen, township treasurer.

This service, available through March 8, will operate Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. On the Saturdays, February 15 and March 8, the office will be open until 1 p.m. and on February 22 and March 1, until 5 p.m.

Willis M. Brewer, manager of the Pontiac branch of the secretary of state office reports all prospective purchasers must have the title of the auto with them in order to buy the plates.

The pulse rate for newborn infants beats from 130 to 140 times per minute.

But Sputnik to Come Back Strong

America's Moon Playing Hard-to-Find

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—America's moon may be playing hard-to-find, but the Soviet Sputnik II will come back strong in a few days.

In fact, if you are a real, dedicated moonwatcher and live in the southern tier of states, you can look for Spuunik II Thursday before sunrise and Explorer I after sunset.

★ ★ ★

The Soviet dog-satellite will pass overhead only 139 miles high, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory says. It will be a much more spectacuar sight than on its orbits in the evening two weeks ago when it was passing overhead about 485 miles high.

There isn't even a theoretical chance of collision because Explorer I will be crossing at about 800 miles high.

The American moon is crossing the United States in a generally West-to-East direction. The height plus its small size makes it virtualy impossible to sight with the naked eye—except to that of a trained observer who knows just where to look.

By contrast, Sputnik II with its dead dog aboard, should look like a bright star in a hurry as it tumbles across the sky from south-southwest to north-northeast.

Because Explorer I was given a spin like a bullet from a rifle, its light appears steady. Thus, the 30-pound rocket does not tumble but points steadily to the same place in space.

Sputnik II tumbles end to end so that its light changes a great deal every 30 to 40 seconds—as first a broad side and then a small end points toward the observer.

Sputnik II, like Explorer I, will be visible only in the South Thursday. However, on the following days, the Soviet moon will cover most of the United States and, by Saturday, it makes two sweeps across the nation and a third off the Atlantic coast that should be visible from the far south to the far north.

The first passage Thursday morning crosses the middle of Cuba, almost exactly at 6 a.m.; passes less than 300 miles east of Florida, and disappears into bright sky southeast of Cape Hatteras two minutes later.

This passage should be visible to most of Florida and coastal areas as far north as Baltimore.

The next passage comes in from the Pacific, crosses Mexico, and disappears in the bright sky over central Texas about 6:44 a.m. This passage would be visible in West Texas and surrounding areas.

The final sweep Thursday morning comes in from the Pacific and disappears in the bright sky while still about 100 miles southwest of Los Angeles.

Tax Liens Filed Against Twenty in Film Industry

LOS ANGELES (AP) — More than 20 income tax liens, including one for over $1,400,000 against Charlie Chaplin have been filed against movie stars and others who have made money in the motion picture industry.

The one against Chaplin covers his earnings in 1953 and 1954. He made the money here, but ela he has been a resident of Switzerland since 1952.

Other liens include those against:

Mickey Rooney and his wife, Elaine, $41,010, for 1956; Sir Cedric and Lady Scott Hardwicke, $13,854, for 1952-55; Rory and Lita Calhoun, $21,286, for 1955 and 1956; Walter O'Keefe, $28,549, for 1952-54.

Director Otto Preminger and his wife, Mary, $18,885, for 1956; Frankie Laine, $28,391, for 1956; Peggy Lee and her husband, Dewey Martin, $22,348, for 1956;

Chico Marx, $2,382, for 1956; singer Ginny Simms, $2,733, for 1947; playwright William Saroyan, $5,354, for 1956; singer Jimmy Boyd, $4,867, for 1953; Judy Garland and her husband, Sid Luft, $47,090, for 1956.

Maureen O'Sullivan and her husband, John Farrow, $22,467, for 1956; Brian Donlevy, $4,465, for 1956; Vic Damone, $27,239, for 1956.

Science Develops New Tablet

Relieves Painful Monthly Cramps For 3 out of 4 Women Tested! Gives Greater Relief Than Aspirin!

Boston, Mass.—New promise of relief for women who suffer tortures of monthly cramps and nervous tension is found in an amazing new tablet... developed especially to relieve this female discomfort. It offers greater relief than aspirin during that distressing period each month!

For 3 out of 4 women tested by doctors, pain and cramps were stopped or strikingly relieved. Even on the first day, many had no nagging headaches, no backaches or other functional distress... were also less jittery the trying week before their period!

The new tablet contains a unique combination of medicines. That's why it offers more relief than plain aspirin! Unlike such "general-purpose" remedies, it acts on the cause of distress. Has amazing power to calm uterine contractions, also works through a woman's sympathetic nervous system.

Called "Lydia Pinkham's Tablets," the formula was developed by the world's largest manufacturer devoted exclusively to relief of women's ailments! Easy-to-take new Pinkham's Tablets are now available at all drug stores without a prescription.

So don't suffer needlessly. Take Pinkham's Tablets yourself. See if you don't feel worlds better, this very month. See if you don't escape much irritability and discomfort—before and during those "difficult days."

IF YOU PREFER A LIQUID all druggists, today, also have the famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money Stolen in 1929 Turns Up With Letter

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Mayor Jim Smith has an unsigned letter, $13 and the problem of someone's conscience still troubled after 29 years.

A pencil-scrawled letter, postmarked Pageland, S.C., asked the mayor this week to return the enclosed money to an unknown girl who worked in an asbestos company here in the spring of 1929.

Old-timers at the company recalled that $13 was taken from the girl's purse and that a $13.50 collection was taken up for her. But they couldn't remember her name.

Mayor Smith said the money will go to charity if the person who lost it can't be found.

Father of Radio Leaves Hospital After Operation

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — The "Father of Radio," 84-year-old Dr. Lee De Forest, has left St. John's Hospital, where he underwent removal of a bladder tumor last Wednesday.

De Forest, who holds more than 300 patents, pioneered the electronic age in 1906 by developing the three-element radio vacuum tube.

Hal Boyle Says:

Husbands Know More Than Their Wives

Even bachelors know more than wives.

These truths, long secretly suspected by men themselves, have been more or less scientifically proved by two young producers, Dan Enright and Jack Barry.

The pair produce two NBC-TV network quiz shows, "Twenty-One" and "Tic Tac Dough," on which some 1,600 contestants have won $1,200,000 in the last 18 months.

During that time 17,000 aspirants took a preliminary general information quiz of 100 questions. So, if you want to know what your chances of getting on such a program are, here is your answer: The odds are better than 10 - 1 against you.

The weeding-out written examination has led to some disclosures that might interest psychologists as well as educators.

"For one thing," said Enright, "although housewives make up the largest single group to apply as contestants, they do the poorest.

"They simply don't have the range of knowledge that men do. Housewives usually can answer about 60 per cent of the 100 questions.

"Men, on the other hand, get about 70 per cent correct answers—and so do career women. The reason that career women do so well is probably because they have to compete with men in the business world so they have to keep better informed."

★ ★ ★

But Enright, wary of stirring up the wrath of housewives, readily admitted they had a realm of knowledge all their own—the art of homemaking—which is rarely investigated on quiz shows.

Women generally, whether housewives or career gals, don't do quite as well as men even if tests show they are of real contestant caliber. Enright still isn't sure why.

★ ★ ★

"One psychologist explained it was because women are naturally more averse than men to being challenged and placed in a position where they might publicly fail. But I'm not so sure that's so. After all, as many women risk marriage as do men."

What occupational group does best on quiz shows? Oddly, it isn't teachers, doctors, engineers, scientists or lawyers.

"They are all tops in their specialties," said Enright. "But authors and newspapermen seem to have a wider range of information on general topics. They have to. It's the nature of their jobs."

Enright, only 40, has a pretty wide range himself. He began as a radio engineer, switched to programming because he felt his talents were too confined.

He is quite philosophical about the attacks of critics against the quiz shows which have buttered his own bread golden.

"If there is a plethora of any type of program," he said, "it isn't because there is an obstinate group of network officials and sponsors trying to force their own ideas on the public. It's because the public, as best they can tell, want this type of entertainment."

Moving Grant's Home

DETROIT (AP) — The home occupied by Gen. U. S. Grant when he lived in Detroit in 1849 was moved to a new site at the Michigan State Fairgrounds. The building was moved from East Fort street to the Fairgrounds in 1936.

NEW YORK — More than a billion fold-up metal tubes were made in the United States during the past year for a host of squeeze products, ranging from toothepaste to food spreads.

Gadgets' Complexity in 'Moon' Indicated

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The work of a Philadelphia physicist for the past 18 months gives you an idea of the complex gadgets inside the Explorer satellite.

★ ★ ★

Dr. J. Lloyd Bohn of the Temple University physics department was responsible for the device which records the impact of small meteorite particles striking Explorer's surface.

WATER-CHEK BASEMENT PAINT

FOR WET OR DRY CONCRETE, BRICK, STUCCO, INTERIOR WOOD!

STOPS WATER SEEPAGE THROUGH BASEMENT WALLS

REGULAR $7.60 GALLON

$5.29 GALLON

RESISTS MILDEW, FUNGUS AND ALKALI
Contains new ANTI-FUNGICIDE, to completely eliminate bacterial growth! Never any chalking because Water-Chek's thermo-plastic film doesn't oxidize! Extremely high resistance to ultra-violet rays. Pigments retain natural color.

RESISTS BLISTERS, CHIPPING, PEELING!
A highly flexible thermo-plastic film, Water-Chek expands and contracts during wall "sweating" due to temperature changes. Because it "breathes" and remains flexible it won't chip, peel or blister. Ask to see newspaper painted with Water-Chek, see it crumpled up to prove its flexibility!

STOPS WATER SEEPAGE INTO BASEMENT!
Water-Chek makes basement dry as toast because it stops water seepage through walls! It fills and seals the pores in concrete, brick or cinder-block neatly, permanently, thoroughly—and so easily! Water-Chek is based on a styrene polymer dispersion compounded with specially processed, chemically pure ingredients.

7 gay, happy colors to make another "room-for-living" out of any basement that's drab or damp! It fills and seals "leaky, pores" in concrete, brick or cinder-block so neatly, thoroughly and easily! Yet so easy to use! Water-Chek is fluffy, heavy bodied and "flows" like melted butter. In just one coat it gives a "protective lining" 3 to 4 times thickness of ordinary oil base paint! So it's economical too! What's more—you can paint over damp or wet surfaces! Not a paint that forms a rigid, brittle crust, Nu-Enamel's "Water-Chek" is flexible! "Water-Chek's" thermoplastic film expands and contracts with construction material without chipping, peeling, or splitting. No mixing. No stirring. Use a brush or roller. Clean hands and tools in warm soapy water! Nothing like it anywhere! Economical! Quick too, dries in one hour!

ADDS ANOTHER ROOM TO YOUR HOME!

True economy can now be realized by property owners who let Water-Chek transform damp, drab basements into livable, comfortable room additions.

Entertain friends with pride in the warm gaiety of any of the beautiful calypso colors that create for you a "year-round" entertainment center, that's colorful, dry and livable!

Remove forever the ugly fear for the health and safety of your children! Treat them to a rumpus room for year-round safe play and healthful recreation.

AVOIDS COSTLY DAMAGE AND REPAIRS!

- RETAINS property value by keeping out moisture, so you avoid costly damage and repairs.
- PRESERVES walls by arresting deterioration of exposed surfaces.
- BEAUTIFIES and keeps walls looking new longer because they are kept clean and free from efflorescence.
- INSULATES as a result of its inherent SEAL OUT MOISTURE action so you get full insulation value of dry walls.

Home, Schools Share Mrs. Neldrett's Time

By MARGARET BROWN

Mrs. Charles Neldrett is one of those extraordinary and much envied individuals who has managed very successfully to combine homemaking with outside activities.

Since 1944 when she first served as president of Central School PTA, Mrs. Neldrett consistently has participated in PTA and other civic activities, attaining the honor of being elected president of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers just the past year.

Four pages today in Women's Section

Those days of parent-teacher work during the mid-40s were no snap either, as the busy mother also was engaged in the process of rearing three children, Charles, Robert and Kay, all of whom are now grown and away from home.

EASTERN PRESIDENT

Following her two-year presidency at Central, Mrs. Neldrett went on to become president of the Eastern Junior High School PTA from 1946 to 1948. In 1948 the enthusiastic lady became a member of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, serving her first three years as district director for Monroe, Washtenaw, Oakland, Macomb and St. Clair Counties. Her job: To organize new PTAs and to activate ailing parent-teacher groups.

★ ★ ★

By this time Pontiac residents were hearing more and more about their city's fine representation in this state organization, because of the efforts of a devoted worker concerned about the welfare of Michigan children.

After serving as district director Mrs. Neldrett was elected director of district service for the MCPT for a three-year term. This time her duty was to supervise directors in all of the state's 18 PTA districts.

When she became vice president of the congress in 1954, residents of Mariva avenue saw less and less of their neighbor as various educational functions throughout the state required her presence. In April of 1957 Mrs. Neldrett assumed the position she now holds as president of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers.

SCHOOL FINANCING

One of the problems studied by the Michigan PTA Congress is school financing. The organization has formed a committee to prepare fact sheets for local units and councils in order that they may better understand school financing.

★ ★ ★

For her work in this area, Mrs. Neldrett also claims membership in the newly established Educational Finance Study Commission under the direction of Dr. Lynn Bartlett, state superintendent of schools. The group is attempting to provide a more adequate finance program for schools and to form a long-range financing system.

The congress also in interested in all phases of child life, studying family life education, legislation affecting young people, public school curricula, teachers' salaries, and many facets of parent-teacher-child relationships.

Operating on a three-point program, the Michigan congress hopes to better understand school finance, to provide a new building as a center for the organization, and to revise its constitution. Because of a membership increase from 100,000 to 400,000, the present constitution needs to be amended to operate more efficiently in representation of local PTAs.

OTHER PROJECTS

And as if this one office didn't keep her active enough, Mrs. Neldrett also works with several other civic organizations. For the past four years she has served on the Michigan Youth Commission, a group concerned with child welfare and juvenile delinquency problems. Gov. G. Mennen Williams appointed her to this post.

★ ★ ★

Her name also appears on the membership rosters of the Michigan Society of Mental Health (she's vice president), the League of Women Voters (of which she is a charter member), and the admission and budget committee of the United Fund. This committee must approve the budget of all agencies desiring funds.

One job at which Mrs. Neldrett especially excelled was that of teaching a parent-teacher leadership course sponsored last year by Wayne State University. The two regular credit classes were taught in Port Huron.

The next item on the Neldrett agenda is to preside at the 19th annual Citizens' Conference in Lansing's Civic Auditorium on Feb. 11. This program, sponsored by the Michigan Department of Public Instruction, is expected to draw a crowd of 5,000 to 6,000 laymen, teachers and board of education members.

PTA CONVENTION

On April 22 and 23 she will preside at the convention of Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers to be held in Muskegon. With approximately 1,400 school teachers planning to attend the affair, an Institute Day has been declared and all Muskegon area schools will be closed during the convention.

★ ★ ★

By virtue of her position as president of MCPT, Mrs. Neldrett also serves with the organization on a national level, a duty which calls her out of the state frequently during the year.

Last September found her in Chicago, and in May the PTA leader will be in Omaha, Neb., and Miami Beach, where she will meet with the National School Board Association. The month of March will call her to Cleveland to be a platform guest when the American Association of School Administrators holds its regional meeting.

In her "spare time" Mrs. Neldrett likes to read historical novels and biographies, the life of Bernard Baruch being her latest literary adventure.

She also enjoys trips to the family cottage in Grand Traverse County with Mr. Neldrett, who is rightfully proud of his popular wife and shares her enthusiasm for all of these outside functions while "holding the fort" on 62 Mariva Ave.

The next time you hear someone lamenting, "There just isn't enough time!," think of Mrs. Charles Neldrett of Mariva avenue. In addition to PTA leadership, which has won her much acclaim in this area, the busy homemaker also finds time for service in a number of other civic organizations. See our story above for a more complete account of her many activities.

Celebrates 35th Anniversary

City PTA Council Gathers at Banquet

Seven hundred fifty PTA members met in Lincoln Junior High School for the annual Founders' Day banquet and pageant Tuesday evening. Occasion was the 35th anniversary of Pontiac Council of PTA.

★ ★ ★

Guests introduced by Mrs. William Mihalek, council president, were Glenn Griffin, president of Pontiac Board of Education, and Mrs. Griffin; Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Godsell, Mrs. Harry E. King, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Osmun, Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of schools, and Mrs. Whitmer; Dr. Otto Hufziger, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schimmel.

★ ★ ★

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dodson, Vera Mae Adams, Mrs. William Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Wargelin, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fell, J. Cecil Cox, former assistant superintendent of schools, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Dusenbury.

PAST PRESIDENTS

Past council presidents introduced were Mrs. Gordon Rice, Mrs. Paul Gorman, Mrs. Wright and Mrs. King.

A comedy pageant, "I Was a Parent in PTA" or "What Can You Lose", written and directed by Miss Adams, was presented.

Benefits of PTA were portrayed by council directors and the principals of numerous schools. Thomas Shara, Madison Junior High School teacher, acted as narrator, and musical interludes were played by Wilma Exline.

PTA benefits are measured by the force that five objects or principles have in shaping the lives of PTA members.

PTA OBJECTIVES

The objects are: To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church and community; to raise the standards of home; to secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth; to bring into closer relationship the home and school, so that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child, and to develop between eduators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social and spiritual education.

General chairman of the banquet was Mrs. Roland P. Stephison. She was aided by Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Arnold Thomas, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. L. D. McLaughlin, Mrs. William White, Mrs. John Leonard and Margaret Luther.

Others were Mrs. Robert Lake, Mrs. Leonard Saari, Mrs. John Guenther, Mrs. Russel Bell, Mrs. George Gray and Mrs. Milton Blood. The invocation was given by Mr. Wargelin.

Auxiliary Gathers at Dinner Meeting

George Stenson, president of Metropolitan Club Spirit Six, was a guest when Ladies Auxiliary of Metropolitan Club Spirit Six met for a cooperative dinner Tuesday evening at Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building. Also a guest was Mrs. Clayton McCoy.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Harold Wright and Mrs. Park Nique.

Posing as teenage hotrodders about to take a spin around the block are Warren Abbott of Clarkston and Mrs. Thomas Henson of Bald Mountain road.

Personal News of Interest

The Savoy drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eagle was the scene of a pizza party Tuesday. Prior to the evening's refreshments the approximately 35 guests present enjoyed ice skating on Crescent Lake.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle MacDermaid and daughter, Pam, of Edith street motored to Ann Arbor the past week to attend the practical nurse graduation exercises held there. Mrs. MacDermaid's mother, Mrs. Mabel Morgan of Drayton Plains, was one of the graduates.

★ ★ ★

Mary Ann Comps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Comps of Myrtle avenue received a 3.65 grade average at Michigan State University for the fall term of 1957. A 4-point honor system equivalent to all A's is observed at MSU. Mary Ann is a sophomore majoring in business education.

★ ★ ★

Visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson of Liberty street, is Mrs. Gordon DuFresne of Jacksonville, Fla., formerly of Scottwood avenue. Mr. DuFresne returned to Florida the past week. She will remain in the city through February.

★ ★ ★

To sail Saturday from New Orleans aboard the SS Alcoa Corsaid for a cruise in the Caribbean are Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Smith of Birmingham. They will stop at Jamaica, the Dominican Republic, Trinidad, and Caracas, La Guaira, Puerto Cabello and Guanta, Venezuela.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Shirley (nee Barbara Bashore) of Cedar Falls, Iowa, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Richard Roy, Jan. 17.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Woodbury of Mechanic street have returned from a month's vacation in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. While there they greeted guests from Glen Burnie, Md., and Naples, Fla. En route home they visited relatives in Daytona Beach.

Couple Speaks Wedding Vows in Hills Chapel

Mrs. George W. Mason of Bloomfield Hills became the bride of Miller Bushnell of Detroit, Saturday in St. Paul Chapel, Christ Church, Cranbrook. The Rev. Robert L. DeWitt officiated.

★ ★ ★

The new Mrs. Bushnell's gown was a Herbert Sondheim design of cocoa chiffon and blush pink lace. Her hat was a tiny wisp of pale pink chiffon petals and cypripedium orchids were pinned to her bag.

Acting as attendants were her two daughters, Mrs. Richard P. Sharpe and Barbara Mason. Mrs. Sharpe wore a rose beige tiered sheath dress, and Miss Mason's gown was of cocoa peau de soie. Both wore pale pink shattered carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a small reception was held at the Mason home in Bloomfield Hills. Mr. and Mrs. Bushnell have left for a month in Delray Beach, Fla., and Puerto Rico. Upon their return they will live in Bloomfield Hills.

Dear Abby....

Your Dearest Possessions Deserve Very Best of Care

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I like to go out on Saturday nights so we hire a sitter to stay with our children, age 4 and 7. My wife doesn't care who they are or where they come from.

ABBY

Once she stopped a strange teenager in the supermarket and asked if she was busy Saturday night without knowing anything about her. We have had many words over this. Would you please tell me if you think I am foolish for being so fussy?

FUSSY FATHER

DEAR FATHER: You are far from foolish! A sitter should be carefully chosen and required to furnish character references. After all — are you not placing your most precious possession in her hands?

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman of 37 years and have fallen in love with a man the same age who has come from Europe. He does not speak much English but there is a strong physical attraction between us and I feel I love him very much.

When we are together my heart is light as air and nothing else matters. His inability to talk English is a little embarrassing in company, however, but he knows how to make a woman feel thoroughly loved. Do you think I ought to marry him?

DEBATING

DEAR DEBATING: It's easier to teach a man to speak English than to teach him how to make a woman feel "thoroughly loved." Marry him.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I disagree on the advice you gave the lieutenant's wife regarding her problem with the major's wife. I had a similar experience when my husband was a major in the Army and we lived on the post.

His colonel tried to pull his rank on me because he thought I would take it, but I sure told him off.

I told him MY HUSBAND was in the Army, not ME, and that I was a civilian and a lady and he had doggone well better treat me like one. I never had any trouble with the colonel after that.

MAJOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Any female who must announce that she is a "lady," and demand that she be treated as such, disqualifies herself immediately. Ladies are treated like ladies because they ACT like ladies.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Everyone in my husband's family caters to his aunt and uncle who are loaded with money. When we were married, for a wedding present they sent us a five-dollar bill in a 10 cent card.

My husband was furious and told me when I sent the thank-you notes to please send them their five dollars back. I did, and they haven't spoken to us since.

I think we did the right thing to show these people how small they were. My mother says we were wrong. What is your opinion?

NOT STARVING

DEAR NOT: Your mother was right. YOUR actions were even "smaller" than theirs.

★ ★ ★

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Beverly Scales Is Wed to William Ellis Hoglund

Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Scales of Birmingham announce the Saturday marriage of their daughter, Beverly, to William Ellis Hoglund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis S. Hoglund of Orchard Lake.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families by the Rev. Kenneth L. Gass in St. James Episcopal Church, Birmingham.

Following the ceremony, a luncheon was given by Mr. and Mrs. Scales at their home on Westwood drive.

The newlyweds are spending this week at Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago and upon their return will reside in Ann Arbor where the bride will be graduated from the University of Michigan in June. Mr. Hoglund has received his master's degree from the university.

Teen Marriage No Path of Roses

(This is the third of four articles on the increasing number of teenage marriages in the United States, explaining why they take place and the problems they create.)

By VIRGINIA KACHAN
INS Staff Writer

What happens to the high school football hero and the pretty junior prom queen who are so in love they can't wait to marry?

In the movies, in the comic strips and in fairy tales, people marry and live "happily ever after." The bride is always young and pretty. The groom is handsome and protective. And much, much later both beam over a pink and white baby.

But, say family life experts, real life for teenage married couples is more likely to be grim than rosy. Both of them go to work to make enough money to live by themselves. Or else they wind up living with in-laws.

No more time for football games; no more dances. Those who do manage to stay in school often are not allowed to hold class office or enter popularity contests.

Even so, young couples generally do get along until baby comes, says Mrs. Louis Tobin, a social case worker for more than 25 years in Champaign, Ill.

"I find teen couples make no plans for children," Mrs. Tobin reports. "And when the wife stops working, the husband gets two jobs to make up for it. He can't stop to plan or educate himself for a better job in the future. He's like a squirrel on a treadmill."

Yet, sociologists find that young couples do have children sooner—within the first year—than others who complete their education and then get married.

Sometimes the baby comes "too soon" and these marriages are off to the worst start of all. In one California high school, for example, officials reported that 33 per cent of the marriages that failed within three years were "definitely forced" and 11 per cent "probably were forced."

Many young couples, says Philadelphia psychiatrist Frederick Allen, say "I do" to escape from home. But all too often, Dr. Allen finds, "this break for freedom is short-lived and they go back with the boy's or the girl's parents to beat the cost of living by themselves."

Pediatrician Willard Z. Kerman of Highland Park, Ill., says "younger parents must deal with greater intrusion from their own parents. And this interference does not help the young mother grow up but tends to reduce her emancipation. She is controlled more by her parents or his parents and there is an increased tendency to quarrel between the partners, particularly when the baby is sick."

The military draft is often given as the pressure that rushes couples in their teens into marriage. But, says family life instructor Lester Kirkendall of Oregon State College, "a couple may find themselves facing a prolonged separation just at the time when, in terms of good marital adjustment, they should be together working out their problems."

But of all the stumbling blocks, the one that appears most often in the divorce courts—underlying legal grounds—is m-o-n-e-y. Divorce Judge Thaddeus Adesko of Chicago asserts:

"Couples in their late teens and early 20s come into my chambers and, no matter what the divorce petition lists, their biggest difference is they have bought too many things and are unable to pay for them. They don't wait to save to buy anything; everything is on credit.

★ ★ ★

"They expect their own parents to take care of them and parents are letting them get away with it. But, when the old folks have been drained dry, the debts pile up—into divorce."

Wife Who Feels Unloved May Become Extravagant

By RUTH MILLETT

"A woman doesn't have to feel glamorous, as long as she feels she is needed," says Susan Rogers, a woman who has done a heap of research in preparing three books about women.

There's a tip-off in that statement that if put to work could save American husbands a mint of money in 1958.

Any hubsand who dreads opening the monthly bills from department stores and women's shops, who is appalled by the time and money his wife spends in beauty salons, obviously has a wife who is striving hard to turn herself into a glamorous creature. Why? Because she doesn't feel anybody really needs her any more.

If, instead of complaining about the bills, the husband of such a woman would give her a little more of his time and attention, if he would tell her now and then that he couldn't possibly get along without her, if he would discuss his problems with her and occasionally ask her advice, he might find himself married to a contented wife, instead of an unsure, extravagant woman.

As it is, she's trying to buy glamor off clothes racks and out of bottles in a desperate effort to feel she really is somebody special, though nobody any longer tells her so.

Melted Fat and Milk Cover Fowl

Mrs. Ott Seasons Chicken, Pieces and Bakes Slowly

BY JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Chicken in the pot for Sunday dinner? Let's bake it instead, the way Mrs. Wilbur Ott does. Your family will demand a repeat of this dish.

★ ★ ★

Sharing Girl Scouting with her daughters is just part of Mrs. Ott's busy life. She is active in PTA work and in the Saybrook group of her church. Sewing is a favorite pastime.

MILK BAKED CHICKEN
By Mrs. Wilbur Ott

Use frying chickens, cut in serving pieces or in halves. Mix flour, salt, pepper and paprika and roll chicken in this mixture. Brown in a little hot fat.

Arrange chicken in a large flat dish so that the pieces are not on top of one another. Melt ¼ cup margarine and pour over chicken. Add ½ cup of milk to pan. Cover with a lid or a piece of aluminum foil.

Bake 1 hour at 325 degrees, uncovering the last 30 minutes. If the chicken seems to be dry, baste with the margarine - milk mixture.

Ora Hallenbeck Reviews Book at Valentine Tea

A donation for books was made to the Mobile Southeast District. Plans were made for the General Federation meeting to be held in Detroit in June.

Tea was served by the social committee headed by Mrs. Raymond Swaney. She was assisted by Mrs. Joseph Phillips, Mrs. J. L. Slaybaugh and Mrs. Ida Reeves.

Do Not Underrate Yourself

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

The other day I wrote about a jealous little brother. He felt a desperate need to pry some of his mother's admiration away from his baby sister.

Accordingly, he climbed up on the sofa to show her how he could straddle its back and ride it like a cowboy. He got a scolding instead of admiration. At once he turned from an excited and hopeful little boy into a spiteful and defiant one.

I said that his spitefulness was despair of his mother's love.

You may not believe this. When, after speaking sharply to your child, you see him turn spiteful and defiant, you may not recognize the change as despair of your love. Instead, you'll think, "Jimmy's being nasty because he can't have his own way."

This is because you have such a poor opinion of yourself that you cannot credit your love with any importance to Jimmy.

Which they are always telling us that our love for Jimmy is infinitely more important to him than getting his own way, we secretly regard the experts as sentimental softies.

DON'T BELIEVE IT

Self - disparaging creatures that we are, we don't really believe our love is important to anyone. So when the spiteful change comes over Jimmy, it arouses discouragement and anger in us instead of the certainty that the love is needed.

★ ★ ★

This poor opinion is what makes our self - respect so dependent on Jimmy's conduct that we have to constantly pursue him for politeness, good school marks and other achievements that will reflect credit on us.

It's what turns us into self-sacrificing martyrs who only come alive when somebody else tells them how noble they are.

It's what makes us into naggers who must diffuse their demands on Jimmy into vague, indirect complaints lest they offend him by making the demands direct and definite.

Because our poor opinion of ourselves makes us uncomfortable with anything but perfect discipline of Jimmy, it makes it difficult to give him any discipline at all.

So when I said that the jealous little brother's spitefulness was despair of his mother's love, I bet you thought I was being sentimental, too.

Ike Hosts Scientists Despite Cold

★ ★ ★

Smiling and reporting he felt much better, the President presided with Mrs. Eisenhower at the first state dinner to which leading scientists were invited.

Although it was actually a science-military dinner, the scientists, including four Nobel Prize winners, were in the majority among the 98 guests.

There was a special air of excitement because most of the guests had never been to a glittering White House formal affair and because while the dinner was under way the Navy was trying to launch its Vanguard rocket.

★ ★ ★

Vanguard project director John P. Hagen drank a toast in champagne "to our baby," and then stayed up to await word from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The President had greeted both Hagen and Wernher von Braun, designer of the Army rocket that launched the Explorer satellite.

MR. and MRS. DAVID GALLOWAY

Married Saturday evening were Nancy Anne Dusenbury and David Thomas Galloway. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Lyle B. Dusenbury of Ellwood avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Logan D. Galloway of Ferndale are parents of the bridegroom.

Nancy Dusenbury Weds in Ceremony at All Saints

White gladioli and carnations banked the altar of All Saints Episcopal Church for the Saturday evening wedding of Nancy Anne Dusenbury and David Thomas Galloway. The double - ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. George Widdifield in the presence of 200 guests.

Nancy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lyle B. Dusenbury of Ellwood avenue, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Logan D. Galloway of Ferndale.

The bride approached the altar wearing a floor - length gown of nylon lace and tulle over satin featuring a nylon lace bodice with a Sabrina neckline and long, tapered sleeves. The bouffant skirt of double tulle over satin was accented by a nylon lace band at the hipline.

Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was secured by a small cap of lace trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, and she carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations and ivy centered with a rosebud corsage.

J. J. Galloway of Royal Oak acted as best man, while the guests were seated by Robert Bashaw, James Hobbs of Dearborn and Donald Himbauch of Madison Heights.

Prior to leaving on a trip through eastern Canada the new Mrs. Galloway changed to a green wool jersey sheath dress with silver gray accessories and the rosebud corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live in Royal Oak.

Mrs. Lyle Streeter, chairman of ritual, was in charge of Ritual Chapter Night for Women of the Moose, Pontiac Chapter 360.

★ ★ ★

Speaker for the evening was Mrs. William E. Paetow, who talked on "The True Way to Respect Our Flag."

Mrs. Clifford Lynch, senior regent, was presented with a gift by Mrs. Floyd Yeaman, junior graduate regent. Draping of charter was held in memory of Mrs. Garnet Stockwell.

Mable Durham was initiated into the chapter. Initiation class was in honor of Mrs. Melvin Smith.

Mrs. Streeter is in charge of a Feb. 14 Valentine Dance. College Night will be held Feb. 17, with Mrs. Ferman Huston in charge.

World production of cane sugar is estimated to be more than 35 million tons per year in normal yields.

Promenaders Greet Members

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Huffman were received as new members of Promenaders Square Dance Club Saturday evening at Hawthorne School.

Fred Neumann, Warren Allen and Walter Koenig were callers. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Bozek, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bisanz, Mr. and Mrs. James Larkin, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Crawford and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Chandler.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hemmerly, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Grimshaw and Beth Proutt.

Officers Are Named by Maple Leaf Club

Mrs. Lawrence Terrien was elected president of Maple Leaf Luncheon Club. Other officers include Mrs. Wendell Newman, vice president, and Mrs. George Boulton, secretary.

Gifts were presented to outgoing officers Mrs. Vivian Tubbs, Mrs. Leo Heenan and Mrs. Esther Johnson. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Newman, Mrs. Royal Pazik, Mrs. William R. McClure and Mrs. Harold McDonnell.

Two Rules for Clothing Explained

Business Suit and Formal Gown Are Not Proper

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am a daily reader of your column and find your answers most helpful. However, two of your recent answers seem to contradict each other and I am confused.

"In answer to one reader who asked whether she could wear an afternoon dress to a semi-public dinner to which her husband was wearing a tuxedo, you said that an afternoon dress would be suitable with a tuxedo, but not with a tail coat.

"Several weeks later in answer to another reader who asked whether she could wear an evening dress and her fiance a dark blue business suit to a dance, you said that a woman in evening clothes and a man in day clothes was not proper.

"I would like to know why this mixture of day and evening clothes is correct for one and not the other. I would very much appreciate your clearing up this point for me."

Answer: For a man to change into a tuxedo before accompanying a woman in the evening, whether she in an evening dress is quite a compliment to her. But for him to be in a business suit and she in an evening dress is quite the opposite.

It seems to say, "Oh, I don't think she is worth the trouble of my dressing for, even though she goes to that much effort for me."

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to wave? More specifically, if one should happen to see a friend who is walking on the other side of the street, is it proper to wave 'hello' to that person? Someone has said that it is very undignified and therefore in bad taste."

Answer: The "undignified" behavior might result if you attempted to attract a friend's attention across a busy street if she was not even looking your way.

Otherwise, there is nothing unnatural for two friends who see each other at a distance to wave a "hello." A man would, of course, lift his hat to greet a woman friend.

St. John Ladies Aid Installs President

Mrs. William Parks assumed presidential duties when the Ladies Aid Society of St. John Lutheran Church gathered in the church parlors.

Twenty-four members were present for the Thursday affair. Guest of the day was Mrs. Emma Hornblad. Mrs. Myrtle Severson was welcomed as a new member. Hostesses were Mrs. Dallas Folsom, Mrs. Stanley Hester, and Mrs. Carl Nelson.

Called to Oklahoma

Mr. and Mrs. Ward O'Brien of Hamilton street and Mr. and Mrs. Percy L. Thompson of Jessie street have been called to Poteau, Okla., upon word that Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Thompson's mother, Mrs. W. U. Holt, 82, died in Poteau's Memorial Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Holt recently had celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary.

FACIAL WRINKLES

The first signs of age are the little wrinkles that come sneaking in around our eyes, on our forehead and about the mouth. These are hard to erase once the damage has been done . . . but here are five ways of warding them off:

1. Massage with cream lightly.
2. Cream base under make-up.
3. Correct expressions and smile.
4. Use an astringent (chill witch hazel or any skin freshener).
5. Follow face washing with a cold compress (your washcloth wrung out in cold water).

This Is a Dangerous Time

Don't Become Lax, Marathoners!

If you have been following Marathon faithfully, you can wear a dress or suit which you could not get into before. But don't relax now!

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For one day each week while my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon is going on, I give help to those thousands of women who have joined it.

For many of you this is nearing the mid-point in your eight weeks of self-improvement. At least most of you received your instructions long enough ago so that you are nearing the end of your third week. All of you should have passed your first two weeks.

If you followed instructions faithfully, you have experienced a loss in poundage and also have noticed a difference in your measurements. The difference is greater if you have been doing your exercises as well as counting your calories.

Let me give you a warning here. This is a dangerous time. I know that it is because of years of experience in working with women. Your seams are not quite so tight. You can wear a dress or suit which you could not get into at all before. You may begin to feel that now you can take a few liberties with your diet and your exercises.

Do NOT be misled. If you become lax, you will be right back where you were before you know it. The first four weeks are the hardest. Stay in there and pitch for the next four weeks and you will be truly delighted with yourself—and so will all of your friends and relatives! It would be too bad to lose what you have gained.

Also, another warning. Many of you experienced a rather easy and satisfying loss. Now you may find the scales remaining at the same place for a little while, even though you have continued your calorie counting.

Do not use this as a reason for backsliding. This standstill is a normal part of reducing. Keep up the dieting and the scales soon will begin giving you happy news again.

I offer my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon at the first of each year. If you failed to join and would like to do so now, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for my Marathon booklet.

Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press. Begin as soon as you receive the booklet. You can lose up to 20 pounds and will improve your appearance generally.

Tomorrow: "You Can Make Your Bust More Prominent."

Party Will be Held by Reliable 12 Club

The group discussed plans for a Valentine party to be held Feb. 15 at the home of Mrs. George Collison of Rundell street. Proceeds from the affair will go to a fund for crippled children.

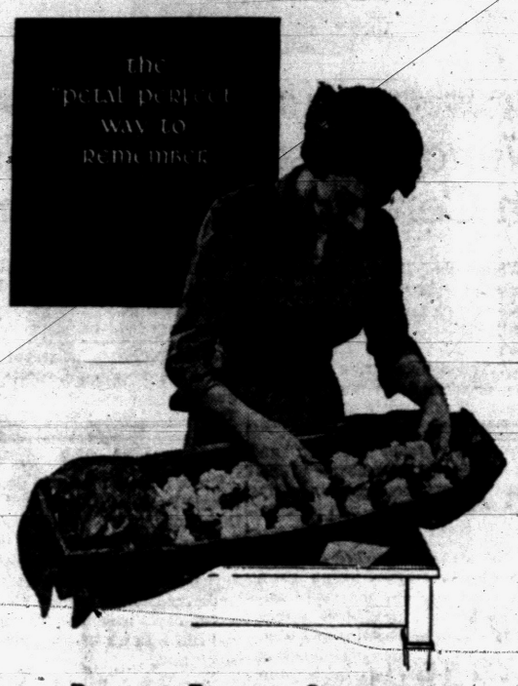

Infirmary Patients Entertained at Party

Patients at the Oakland County Infirmary last week were given the first of a series of parties being sponsored by Christ Church Cranbrook. Chairman for the programs is Mrs. Kenneth Martin of Birmingham.

Members of the Cora M. Eves Tent Hive 247 of Pontiac Maccabees, under the direction of Commander Mrs. Earl Riley, also have been serving the hospital by sewing pajamas for the patients.

Group Fails to Get Recognition

NHL Players Withdraw Suit

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The National Hockey League Players Assn. agreed today to withdraw all pending litigation and lawsuits against the NHL.

This action, taken at a 13-hour meeting between the players' representatives and the owners that ended after midnight, meant that the association had failed to gain official recognition.

"It is the earnest wish of the players," read a formal statement signed by Ted Lindsay and Doug Harvey for the players and by Walter Brown and Jim Norris for the owners, "that for the best interest of hockey and the close NHL race that they should return to their respective clubs and concentrate on winning a playoff position."

Pending litigation includes a $3,000,000 anti-trust suit and separate Labor Relations Board petitions which have been filed in New York State, Massachusetts and Canada.

A player-owners council was formed at the meeting "to deal with present and future mutual problems."

"The plan is," said the statement, "that the Council shall be composed of the players' representatives representing their individual clubs plus representatives of the owners of the NHL teams. The council will meet at regularly scheduled intervals and on requests by either players or owners.

"Among other points the following were agreed upon:

1. A $7,000 minimum salary.

2. An increase in pension benefits as the results of the owners matching dollar for dollar contributions by the players. As the result of this a long term hockey player at age 65 will receive a minimum pension of $5,100 annually.

3. An increase in the playoff pool, making it possible for the league and Stanley Cup championship team to receive $4,000 per man.

4. Other points of agreement include increased hospitalization benefits, a limit on the number of exhibition games; moving and other expenses as the result of a player being sold or traded during the season; an independent survey of the present pension plan with a view to improving it if possible; owners agree the player will be the sole judge of his physical fitness to play after an injury."

The statement termed the meeting "amicable."

Two players representing each NHL club were present as were representatives of all six club owners.

Former Major Leaguers Fail to Get Votes

75 Per Cent of Total Ballots Are Necessary to Be Selected

BOSTON (AP) — No former major league baseball players will join the immortals in the Hall of Fame this year for the first time since 1950.

Secretary-Treasurer Hy Hurwitz announced yesterday that the Baseball Writers Assn. of America failed to give any former player 75 per cent of the total vote necessary for election.

Nobody even came close to induction into the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y. with 266 ballots cast by 10-year members of the BBWAA, 199 votes was the minimum for election.

Max Carey, a base-stealing star for Pittsburgh and Brooklyn from 1910 through 1929, topped the list with 136 votes. He was followed by Edd Roush, former New York Giant and Cincinnati outfielder who polled 112 votes.

The balloting in which 145 players of close to 400 eligible received at least one vote means that there will be no additions to the 83 baseball greats enshrined at Cooperstown for another year.

The baseball writers vote every other year for players who have performed in a period 30 years before the balloting. A player must have ended his active career five years before the voting.

In the writers' last balloting in 1956, Hank Greenberg and Joe Cronin were elected. At that time only 145 votes were necessary.

★ ★ ★

In alternate years, a special committee elects old timers under a system adopted just two years ago. In 1957, Joe McCarthy, a former manager, and Sam Crawford, old Detroit outfielder, were named by the committee.

Carey, the National League's answer to Ty Cobb in the American League, led his circuit 10 times in base stealing while committing 738 thefts during his career.

Holder of a major league record of 51 bases stolen in 53 attempts in a season, Carey retired as an active player in 1929. However, he returned to the Dodgers as manager in 1932-33. He was paid for the 1934 season when replaced by Casey Stengel, now manager of the New York Yankees.

Roush starred for many years with the Giants and the Reds. A perennial holdout, he sat out one full season rather than accept terms offered him by New York.

★ ★ ★

Roush, now 65, said that he was pleased — not downhearted — by this year's vote total. Still active, the former two-time National League batting king spends much time working out with the Milwaukee Braves in spring training.

Trailing Carey and Roush in the balloting were Charley "Red" Ruffing, former New York Yankee pitcher, with 99 votes, and Hack Wilson, the old Chicago Cub slugger, with 94.

Pistons Beat Syracuse, 118-113

Yardley Scores 52!

DETROIT (AP)—George Yardley, lanky Detroit Pistons star, has a new jewel to wear in his National Basketball Assn. scoring crown.

Balding George went on a personal basket-making rampage last night, dropping in 52 points as the Pistons turned back the Syracuse Nationals 118-113 at Olympia Stadium.

Yardley's effort was the best for any single NBA game this season and brought his 1957-58 point total to 1,463. His closest rival, the Nats' Dolph Schayes, scored 21 points for a season's total of 1,356.

With Yardley leading the way, the Pistons ran away from the Nationals in the first half, finishing with a 53-46 lead. Detroit continued its torrid pace up to the last quarter.

With time running out, Schayes and Togo Palazzi scored eight points in narrowing the Pistons' margin to 115-113. Yardley, however, drove for a basket with three seconds remaining and after being fouled on the shot sank a free throw.

Yardley dropped in 16 of 16 free throws and contributed 20 rebounds in breaking a mark he set earlier in the season when he scored 51 points, tying a record set in a previous NBA game by Bob Pettit of St. Louis.

The NBA record for a single game is 63 points, set by Joe Fulks of Philadelphia in 1949.

Cliff Hagan's name goes into the record books of the NBA for having scored the most points in one quarter last night, however his team the St. Louis Hawks still lost 120-116 to the New York Knicks.

Hagen hit 26 points in the 12 minutes of the 4th quarter. Boston spurted to beat Cincinnati 107-87 in the other NBA game.

Despite Hagan's brilliance, the Knicks never trailed after the early minutes against the Hawks as they broke a four-game losing streak. Willie Naulls scored 35 points to lead New York, which got a spectacular play-making show from unsung rookie Brendan McCann.

North Dakota Tops WIHL

GRAND FORKS, N. D. (AP) — North Dakota moved into the lead of the Western Intercollegiate Hockey League on percentage points by completing the sweep of a two-game series from Denver 2-1 last night.

MADISON, Fla. (AP) —Jasper High School had only six players on the basketball squad for a game with Madison last night.

When two players fouled out and Jasper could put only four men on the floor, Madison pulled one of its men, too, and played with four.

Howe Looks Set to Play but Adams Is Doubtful

DETROIT (AP) — Gordie Howe looks ready to return to action with the Detroit Red Wings but officials of the National Hockey League team are doubtful.

The big right winger worked out with the squad yesterday, did a lot of shooting and reported that he felt fine.

But Jack Adams, manager of the Red Wings, said, "we're not taking any chances on Howe returning before he is absolutely ready. I don't care if he's out for 20 games.

The club's medical advisor, Dr. C. J. Karibo, said it is problematical whether Howe will be ready to play against the Montreal Canadiens at Olympia Stadium here tomorrow night.

Howe was injured 10 days ago at Boston Garden and first indications were that he might be out as long as six weeks. Howe has been skating several days and chances are even coach Sid Abel will have a tough time keeping that big fellow out of the lineup against the Canadiens, leaders in the National Hockey League.

If Howe does not go against Montreal it is likely he will be ready for Saturday's nationally-televised battle aaginst the New York Rangers.

Montreal will be without Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Maurice (The Rocket) Richard, both out with injuries.

The Wings lost the services of winger Bob Bailey for at least one, and possibly three weeks yesterday when he suffered a shoulder separation in a collision with Billy McNeill. Unless Howe returns, Detroit will be down to nine forwards for the Montreal clash.

Orion Cager Still Leads

County Point Race Close

Madison sharpshooter Rick Moos has not only taken over 2nd place in the Oakland County individual basketball scoring race for the second time this season but he also is threatening to overtake Lake Orion ace Jim Drake going into last night's games.

Drake maintains the lead he has held for several weeks but by only a 22.9 to 22.4 difference in averages.

His running mate, Nick Neira, has dropped to 3rd with 21.5 while Waterford's John Herrington and Earl McNeal of Ferndale have moved up a notch each to 4th and 5th with 20.1 and 19.7 respectively. Close behind is Leroy Parks of Clarkston with 19.3.

★ ★ ★

New additions to the top 15 are Dick Lippert of Clarkston and Clawson's George Almashy, both of whom had dropped out last week. They replace Art Goisdzinski of Orchard Lake St. Mary and big George McDaniel of Holly. Moos tops Herrington by one in total points with 202.

Area pacesetter Larry Gacki is getting better as he goes along. He has his average up to 22 with Brian Watson of Brighton at 20.2 and former leader Jim Ward of Imlay City at 19.1.

Chiefs at Arthur Hill Friday Night

Loop Play for PCH

The Chiefs, with a 7-3 season mark and a 3-3 league mark, are still clinging to mathematical chances of at least tying for the SVC championship.

Flint Central, however, moved another step closer to the title by whipping Arthur Hill last night 74-55 at Saginaw. The Indians got help from Dale Lucas, a guard who replaced mid-year graduate Chuck Hyslop. Lucas led four players who hit in the double figures by getting 20 points.

Felix Miller hit for 15, Keith Richardson 10 and Don Bradley 10. Flint Central now leads the league with a 5-1 mark and a 10-1 overall record.

Sagging Saginaw High School dropped a 57-49 encounter to Bay City Handy last night in a game which saw the lead change hands 18 times.

Handy took the lead with four minutes to go in a rough game which saw Dale Wilt of Handy and Willie Thompson of Saginaw ejected for fighting in the late stages.

Saginaw was behind 32-31 at halftime and behind 44-43 after three quarters.

The Chiefs showed their best effort of the season in whipping Saginaw 81-59 last Tuesday, but in a complete reversal of form they had to struggle last Friday night to beat Detroit Catholic Central, 54-52.

Next Tuesday night the Chiefs will have a big non-league game away against Highland Park, the state's number one class A prep team.

★ ★ ★

Other games in the Saginaw Valley Friday night will have Flint Central at Bay City Central and Saginaw at Flint Northern.

Lakeside Jumps 'C' Margin to 3 Games

Lakeside won its 8th game in nine starts and boosted its Class C lead to three full games with a 51-40 victory over the Pontiac Police last night in City League basketball action at Madison Junior High.

Henry DeWalt paced the Lakeside attack with 15 points while Bob Newman tallied 10 for the losers.

The Police team's defeat, coupled with Town & Country's 38-33 triumph over the Vikings in yesterday's other Class C game, knotted T & C and the Police for 2nd place. Roger Reynolds sparked the T & C win with 18 points.

Waterford's League Leads Tied in Knot

There's a hot battle going on in the Waterford Township Recreation Basketball League for first and second places. In last night's only contest at Crary school gymnasium, Drayton Drugs defeated M59 Sunoco 78-58 to knot the teams for 2nd place. White Swan and Ryeson's are tied (4-1) for 1st place. Drugs and Sunoco are 3-3.

Ed McNamara's 24 points led Drugs, whose top shooters were Duke Thompson with 11 and two others with 10 each. Drugs pulled away from a 25-24 halftime edge to pile up a big lead in the 3rd frame.

See $2 Million Return From 'Closed' Fight TV

NEW YORK (AP)—Possibilities of a record $2,000,000 from closed circuit television of the return Carmen Basilio-Ray Robinson middleweight title fight may make pay-to-come-and-see television a potent rival to the coming pay-as-you-see video in the sports picture.

★ ★ ★

The $2,000,000 figure was optimistically advanced today by officials of the TelePrompter Corp., which is handling the television end of the March 25 title fight in Chicago.

★ ★ ★

The officials, president Irving Kahn and vice-president Bill Rosensohn, said they already have signed up 160 outlets with a seating capacity of 481,000.

"It's the largest network ever assembled for a closed circuit show," said Rosensohn. "We expect to have a record 200 theaters with a seating capacity of 550,000 hooked up for the fight. Of this, we expect between 450,000 and 475,000 to be sold at an average of $4 a seat."

"We could do $2,000,000 the way this is going," added Kahn. "We have just signed up the Cross County Shopping Center in Yonkers, N.Y. The operators plan to build a temporary stadium and have guaranteed us well in excess of 5,000 seats."

PCH Wrestlers Handed Loss by Garden City

An early 14-0 deficit and several close losses sent Pontiac Central's wrestling team down to a 31-9 setback at the hands of strong Garden City at the PCH gym last night.

Dave Payne, Mel Nosanchuck and Johnny Herron each turned in impressive victories in defeat. Three of the losses were by slim margins. Pontiac is now 3-5 while Garden City now has won 7 of 8.

THURSDAY'S GAMES
Montreal at DETROIT.

'Sparrow Night' Is Sunday

Tickets for the Detroit Pistons-New York Knickerbockers game at the Detroit Olympia Sunday night have been made available in Pontiac in conjunction with "Guy Sparrow Night."

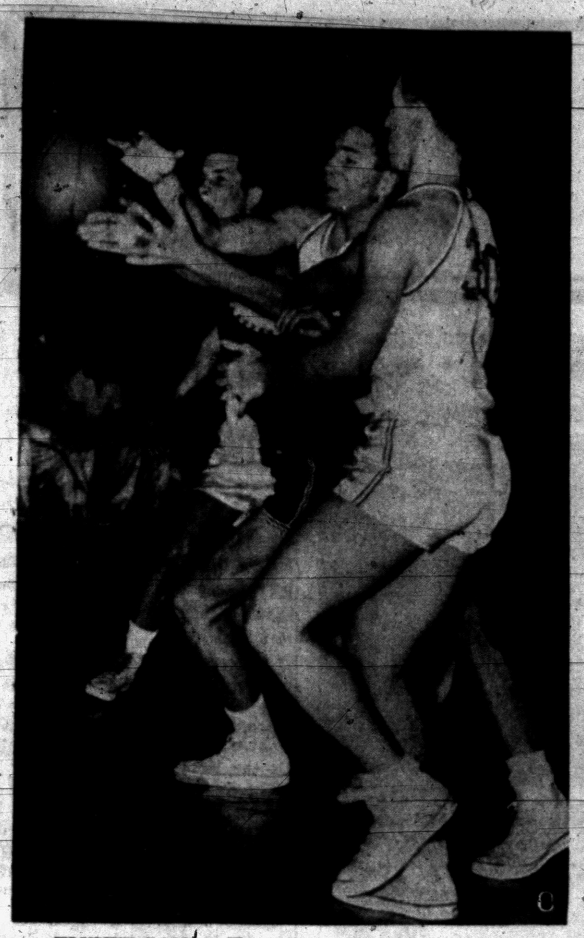

The former Pontiac High School star will be honored in pre-game ceremonies, highlighted by a proclamation of Mayor William W. Donaldson of Pontiac.

Persons desiring to sit in the same section with the Pontiac contingent at the game can obtain individual tickets at either of two Osmun's stores.

ELUSIVE BALL — Three players, two from the same team, were after the same ball with none having much luck during a tense moment in the West Bloomfield-Northville game last night. Bill Yahne of Northville is the boy in the dark jersey. John Lucadam (30) and Barry Johnson are the Keego boys. Northville won 55-42.

Clarkston Suffers First Defeat

By CHUCK ABAIR

The Wayne-Oakland race tightened up considerably last night as the high - riding Clarkston Wolves were dumped from the unbeaten ranks by an upstart Brighton aggregation.

Brighton served as a giant killer for the 2nd time this season by winning 68-61. Clarkston's 1st loss in 10 games left victorious Northville only one game behind in the standings and set up a strong possibility the two teams might repeat as co-champions.

Northville had its hands full at Keego Harbor before emerging with a 55-42 triumph to make its loop record 7-2 to 8-1 for Clarkston.

Elsewhere around Oakland County and the surrounding area, Troy and Ferndale continued along the unbeaten trail, Lake Orion had its best offensive night of the season walloping Romeo 89-69 with scoring twins Jim Drake and Nick Neira combining for 62, Avondale had to go out to down winless Oxford 54-46, Birmingham romped and East Detroit upset highly-rated Hamtramck.

Goodrich nipped Ortonville 74-70, Oak Park fell before Detroit Thurston 61-53, Farmington tripped Clarenceville 53-45, North Branch squeeked by Kingston 57-55, Lutheran East ripped Madison Lamphere 46-19 and Mt. Carmel downed Shrine 63-59 in other action.

Clarkston trailed by 16-7 at 1st quarter and 29-22 at halftime before Leroy Parks sparked a last half drive which brought the Wolves to within one of tying several times but they never could make the grade.

Parks almost turned the tide with eight points in the final quarter before fouling out. He finished with 23, Dick Lippert added 12, Brian Watson tallied 28 and sophomore Doug Verellen, in his 1st start, hit 15 for Brighton.

Northville led only 21-18 at halftime but kept opening up the gap from then on led by Cap Pethers with 17 and Dick Biery's 14. John Lucadam rung up 19 for the upsetminded Lakers.

Troy set its record at 12-0 by tripping Lakeview 53-46 after a tight opening half. Dick Booth topped Troy with 17. Ferndale whipped Royal Oak Dondero 58-41 for its 7th straight behind another 20-point performance for Earl McNeal.

Oxford used some deadly foul shooting to give Avondale a scare before dropping its 11th. The Wildcats converted 22 free throws to keep it interesting. They held the lead once in the 3rd canto. Mike Walker's 16 and 15 for Jerry Hill led Avon.

Three players hit double numbers as Birmingham walloped Mt. Clemens 63-33 in the only Eastern Michigan lop contest. Bob Stephenson paced the trio with 19. East Detroit gave Ferndale something to think about with its 69-66 victory in a nip-and-tuck duel which featured a 24-point night for Ron Emerick.

Record Year for Tracks

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York State Harness Racing Commission today reported all records broken in 1957 with state revenue up 12.69 per cent, wagering up 19.16 per cent and attendance up 13.92 per cent as compared with 1956.

In his annual report, Commissioner George P. Monaghan said revenue to the state was $32,767,271, an increase of $3,684,080 over 1956; parimutuel wagering totaled $387,757,390 as compared with $325,420,967 in 1956; attendance was 6,137,990, up from 5,388,165.

Monaghan also noted that the tracks increased purses by 14.98 per cent, from $8,934,592 in 1956 to $10,268,442 last season.

"It is significant that this New York State purse distribution represents 50 per cent of purses paid at all parimutuel harness racing tracks in the United States," Monaghan said.

Monaghan noted that during the year the $20,000,000 Roosevelt Raceway was opened. Improvements and construction programs also went ahead at Yonkers, Batavia Downs, Vernon Downs and Saratoga Raceway.

U.S. Group Scouring Winter Sports Areas

BAD GASTEIN, Austria (AP)—A dozen officials for the 1960 Olympic Games at Squaw Valley, Calif. are combing Europe for information on how to stage and run the event.

★ ★ ★

Prentice Hale of San Francisco, president of the organizing committee said delegations would visit France and Czechoslovakia for figure skating championships, Sweden for speed skating, Finland for ski jumping and cross country racing, Norway for ice hockey and Austria for Alpine skiing.

"We are going to make the Squaw Valley games the best ever held," Hale said.

★ ★ ★

"In many cases our representatives are Europeans themselves who are technical experts on organizing committees which are staging various world and European championships. They not only will put on these championships but they will collect information and make reports for us.

"We are sending reports back to the organizing committee in the United States every three days."

A long series of thorny problems involving acquiring land and funds has been largely solved, Hale said. Litigation over the use of eminent domain is expected to continue for several years in some cases, however.

Pontiac Meeting April 4

Water Safety Confabs Set

Spreading the gospel of water safety, in an area like Oakland County with its myraid lakes, is a tremendous task. But that it is a very important, and immediate job to be done is widely recognized.

So, in line with Governor Williams' moves in this direction on a state - wide basis, an Oakland County (Johnson) Water Safety Committee has been formed, headed by OCSC's Marshall Johnson.

Johnson is a member of the governor's water safety commission, and today he announced first of a dozen or more opening conferences for area communities, at which the problem of water safety and possible remedial measure to resolve conflict of interests in use of the waters, will be discussed.

First of the series is set for Pontiac at a site to be named, on April 4. These dates are not fully confirmed, but probably will be as follows:

April 10 — at Waterford (CAI building).
April 18 — at Holly
April 25 — at Waterford (OCSC headquarters).
May 2 — at Milford
May 16 — in Pontiac
May 30 — at Lake Orion
June 12 — at Waterford (CAI building).
June 27 — at Rochester
July 11 — at Clarkson
July 18 — at Oxford

Other meetings will be held later, as communities request them.

Other members of the Oakland County committee are Donald Adams of Waterford and James Clarkson of Birmingham. They will seek to learn the views of lake residents, fishermen, swimmers, boat operators and others, to the end that use of the waters can be arranged for the benefit and pleasure of all concerned.

Ice-Fishing for Rainbows

Why Not Make It Legal?

By JACK PATTERSON

The present law prohibiting taking of rainbow trout through the ice in southern Michigan lakes is so widely violated, and so difficult to enforce, that we wonder again if it would not be smart to permit ice fishermen to take these fish legally. It's a put and take business anyway, since rainbows don't produce to any useful extent in these waters, and we're blamed if we can see what difference it makes whether such fish are taken in June or January.

PATTERSON

As a matter of fact these lake rainbows are easier to take through the ice than when the water is open. Since the purpose of introducing them is to improve local fishing, it would seem reasonable to us to permit fishing when the fishing is best. Interested fishermen can make their views known to the Fish Division of the Conservation Dept.

Recent suggestions to do away with the state bounty system meet with the full approval of this column. Not only for the expressed reason of cutting expenses, but because the system doesn't perform any useful function.

Predator populations fluctuate along with other species according to the immutable laws of nature. There is no evidence that predator "control" has any long-term beneficial effect on prey species. There is also no evidence that the bounty system effectively reduces predators, even if such a reduction were deemed necessary.

For our money, and some of that paid out in bounties is ours, or at any rate was, the bounty system amounts to throwing money down a rathole.

Apart from financial considerations there's a more basic reason for doing away with bounty hunting. A program which threatens the extinction of any species is unacceptable.

One species threatened by bounty hunting is the timber wolf. This rare and interesting animal manages to survive in small numbers in the U.P. Because of its scarcity its predation is negligible. Its continued presence adds a wilderness touch to Michigan outlands that is of value to the sportsman.

Bobcats, though more plentiful, fall into a similar category. That hunting them is fun has been recognized in the L.P. which provides a closed season to keep things that way.

Coyotes and foxes, present in greater numbers, may be deemed to present local problems in some areas.

Grayling Will Name Winter Sports Queen

Highlighting northern Michigan's winter sports activities this weekend is the Winter Carnival at Grayling where Miss Michigan Winter Sports Queen will be named during the two day affair, starting Saturday.

Other winter sports events during balance of this month include:

Feb. 8-9 — Gold and Silver skate tourneys (Times) at Detroit Farwell rink.
Feb. 15-16 — Second annual Michigan Pee Wee ski meet at Pioneer Hills Park at Roscommon.
Feb. 16 — Diamond Derby speed races at Saginaw.
Feb. 22-23 — Lake trout and ice festival at Higgins lake.

Stan Feldman, Sandy Wells Lead Pioneers

Current standings for members of Michigan Pioneer Saddle club, during the winter activities were listed at this week's session in Oxford's K. of C. Hall. Stanley Feldman (Oxford) and Sandy Wells (Birmingham) lead the top divisions with Bert Wells (Birmingham) and Barbara Jones (Orion) in 2nd places.

★ ★ ★

Next club competition is set for Feb. 16 at Orion.

★ ★ ★

Top Conservationist

ST. IGNACE (UP) — Harry R. Gaines, 67, of Grand Rapids, has been awarded the "conservationist of the year" plaque at the weekend midwinter meeting of the Michigan Outdoor Writers Assn. He was cited for 20 years with the Michigan United Conservation Club.

Dogs, Owners Travel Together

Make Gotham Trip by Air

Figuring that air travel to the nation's top dog show, the Westminster in Madison Square Garden, New York, would be faster and at probably less cost than driving, three area German shepherd exhibitors will take their dogs by stratoliner for the Feb. 10-11 show.

Leaving Sunday morning on the same Northwest plane will be Rudy Buchmann and Tux of Forjan; Mrs. Bill Williams and Diane of Eldergrove and Emil Lederer with Ch. Luxi Von Liebestraum. F. A. Porter will go along to handle the dogs in the show ring.

All of the dogs will be shown at 7 p.m. Monday, when their group (52 dogs) will be judged.

Cranes Win Cage, Lose Hockey Tilt

Coming from behind a first-period deficit in yesterday afternoon's basketball game at Cranbrook, the Cranes rolled to a 27-19 halftime edge to go on and defeat Patterson Collegiate of Windsor, Ont., 60-50. Win was Cranbrook's third against eight losses.

Bob Klein had 17 points, Tom Bray 12, John Studebaker 11 and Collom 10, but high man for the cage game was Patterson's Paul Runstedler with 18.

150 in OCSC's Bow Leagues

Interest being displayed in winter indoor archery leagues at Oakland County Sportsmen's Club gives evidence of the rapidly-growing popularity of the sport in this area

From nearly every town and corner of Oakland county, sportsmen and their wives, children, and friends converge on the OCSC clubhouse to compete in the Friday and Sunday evening leagues. And they want more!

Over 150 archers take part in league competition each week with many of them entering competition in both leagues.

League competition began Jan. 12 with 16 five-man teams signing up for each of the two leagues Indoor competition will continue through March when the archers will return to the outdoors.

Fishing Contest Is Anti-Pollution Fight Highlight

Local sportsmen will test their fishermen's luck — in the interest of conservation — in a nationwide contest conducted through sporting goods dealers and sponsored by a big manufacturer of fishing tackle.

★ ★ ★

Contest is part of a spring push to focus public attention on conservation, especially on encroachment of fishing streams and waters by pollution, whether from individuals, communities, industry, or agriculture. Sportsmen's clubs and conservation groups throughout the country have been alerted to join in the concerted anti-pollution effort this spring.

★ ★ ★

Solunar Table

Area anglers and hunters can use the following specially prepared solunar periods by John Alden Knight for the section to assist in determining the best times for the most satisfactory enjoyment of their sport. Major periods run for an hour to an hour and a half. Minor periods are of shorter duration.

EARLY START — Although the Michigan water ski championships on Lake Sherwood are a long ways off (Aug. 1-2-3) preparations for one of the area's most colorful sports events are now under way. Photo shows Bill Hart, commodore for the event, using ultra-modern means of sawing holes in the ice through which he was setting permanent markers for the tourney's 945 foot long slalom course. Baskets of cement anchor buoys that will mark the course, which has been laid out by surveying instruments to insure fullest accuracy. About 135 of the state's best water skiers are expected to take part in the event.

New PKC Prexy Names Committeemen for 1958

These included the important trophy committee of which G. A. Lawler of Bloomfield Hills is chairman. A. Seeler of Clarkston heads the bylaws body. Mrs. Cotton is the entertainment chairman and advertising and publicity has been placed in E. A. Kraft's hands. Seeler and Lawler are new members of the "family."

Vice president, Burt Johnston of Drayton Plains.

Secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. A. (Winnie) Kraft of Bloomfield.

The club meets Thursday at the Waldron Hotel here at which time plans will be made for the summer show, set for Aug. 17, at a site to be announced later.

The new prexy is a 10-year veteran in the dog-raising business, taking care of his Englewood Kennels in Ortonville while performing his workaday job as a Pontiac Motor division shop foreman. Cotton has been with Pontiac for about 20 years.

His dogs are Irish setters, and the pride of his kennel is flaming Ch. Sunnyflame of Englewood, a not-yet three-year-old. Sunny finished his championship with four majors last June, in less than a year in the show rings.

HEADS KENNEL CLUB—Here's the 1958 president for Pontiac Kennel Club. Volney R. Cotton was named at the recent annual club meeting. He is a veteran dog man, operates Englewood Kennels at Ortonville. Cotton is also a 20-year worker (foreman) at Pontiac Motor Division.

Doberman Club Holds Match, Obedience Trial

Doberman Sportsmen's Club of Detroit will hold an unlicensed non-sanctioned doberman match and all-breed obedience trial Sunday at 2985 W. 12-Mile road in Berkley. Show opens at noon, runs to 6 p.m. with judging starting at 1 o'clock.

Special features will be doberman champions and guide dogs in action. Mrs. Bessie Fowler, a blind woman from Berkley, and Mrs. Dorothy Nichols of Wyandotte will exhibit the guide dogs.

County Woman Wins Angling Citation

A 37-pound dolphin won a fishing citation for Mrs. Margaret Weisheit of Farmington at Nassau in the Bahamas Winter Fishing tourney's 2nd week of action.

Two other Michigan anglers scored. Kenneth G. Mills of East Detroit took a record 60-pound sail, while Mary Dietrich of Grosse Pointe Woods landed a 43-pound dolphin. Tourney ends April 26.

Be Patient, Fish Deep

Ice Fishing Is Tricky

ALL OUTDOORS, U.S.A. (INS)—Be patient, fish deep and don't romp all over the ice is the secret to catching fish in the winter.

"Ice fishing is tricky," Westerman said, "you must remember that fish are rather inactive in the winter. Their digestive system is slowed down and as a result they don't especially want to take bait—like in the spring."

He explained that the water is the warmest near the bottom "so it stands to reason that a fish, being a cold-blooded creature, assumes almost the same body temperature as the water."

He also pointed out that water reaches greatest density at 39 degrees.

Snow laying on the ice also has an important bearing on your success ratio, according to Westerman. It serve to cut off light and leaves the water colder than normal. Heavy snow on a shallow lake also contributes toward fish mortality.

On tips to ice fishermen, he said:

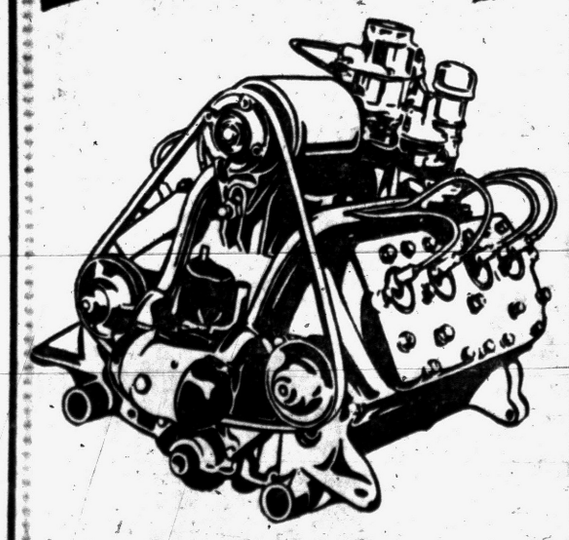

"The thickness of the ice is not too important—just so you don't fall through. Fish near the bottom because it is warmer. Use small minnows for perch, small corn worms for bluegills and very large minnows, chubs or suckers for pike.

"Don't walk about too much on the ice. We don't have any positive proof that it reduces your chances, but we are sure it doesn't help any.

Ted Expected to Sign Up for Top Major Salary

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams is expected to sit down tomorrow and sign a contract for $125,000 for the 1958 campaign.

Red Sox General Manager Joe Cronin scheduled a 10 a.m. EST Thursday meeting with his 39-year-old star. A get-together with baseball writers was set for an hour later.

Williams received an estimated $100,000 last season when he topped the American League in batting with a .388 average. He is in town starring as a fly caster at a sportsmen's show.

★ ★ ★

A contract for $125,000 a year would keep him at the top of baseball's highest paid players. Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals signed recently for a reported $100,000.

Trojans Smother Pontiac Swimmers

Pontiac Central High swimmers paid a return visit to the Saginaw High pool yesterday afternoon in hopes of making a good showing against the club that beat them two weeks ago, 57-35. But the Trojans won this time also, 64-32, allowing Chiefs only one first place.

Duke Cummins' 26.3 seconds win in the 50-yard freestyle was PCH's only victory. Saginaw took nine firsts.

"We had hoped to do better against the Saginaw team," coach Bob Boyce said this morning, "but it didn't work out that way."

Chiefs face the valley's top squad here Friday, when Arthur Hill pays a return visit. 'Jacks won the previous meeting, 78-18. Friday's meet will start at 4 p.m.

Adrian Quintet Victor

ADRIAN (AP) — A field goal by Jim Keller in the last minute of play gave Adrian a 69-67 victory over Defiance (Ohio) in a non-conference basketball game last night.

Defiance held a 38-28 halftime edge.

Men Start Qualifying Saturday

Action in Press Bowlerama Set at Two Alleys

Bowling Begins 10 A.M. Saturday and at 11:30 on Sunday

A total of 439 men from every part of Oakland County will launch the 1958 Pontiac Press Bowlerama this weekend as the qualifying rounds get under way in the 2nd annual singles handicap tournament.

Montcalm Centre on Montcalm avenue in Pontiac and Howe's Lanes on Dixie will be the sites for heated action as the area's men keglers begin their bids to share in the long list of prizes offered the top finishers this year.

A $450 guaranteed first place award is the big prize with $225 going to the runnerup and $125 for 3rd place along with added gifts for each. Cash prizes for one of every eight men entries, high qualifier trophies and several merchandise gifts are among the things they have to shoot at.

And there is also the big big, fat $1,000 check awaiting anyone who might roll a 300 game. Two men competing this weekend hit the mark during 1957 — Bill Furlong and Walt Rennhack.

The men's deadline ended Sunday while the women still have until midnight Feb. 10 to sign up for their qualifying round set for Feb. 15 at Motor Inn.

First group of 136 bowlers will swing into action Saturday starting at 10 a.m. at Howe's Lanes with others following every hour. Montcalm qualifiers start the same day at 1:30 p.m. with 78 men rolling.

On Sunday, bowling begins at 11:30 a.m. at Montcalm and 1 p.m. at Howe's. Montcalm will have 144 at Howe's. Montcalm will have 145

★ ★ ★

Returning to defend their titles are Joe Tinson and Donna Verhey. The majority of the other money-winners of last year are back along with many others who failed to make the grade.

Besides Pontiac, the places represented by the bowlers are Drayton Plains, Auburn Heights, Rochester, Keego Harbor, Birmingham, Lake Orion, Troy, Metamora, Walled Lake, Waterford, Clarkston, Novi, Wixom, Ortonville, Berkley, Royal Oak, Hazel Park, Milford, Madison Heights, Davisburg, Oxford, Orchard Lake, Holly and Bloomfield Hills.

The time is growing short for the women to submit their entries.

Entry blanks are still available at any alley in Oakland County or at the Press. They may be mailed or delivered to the Pontiac Press or an alley.

Walsh Leads Titan Win

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP)—Mike Walsh dropped in 22 points in sparking Detroit to a 90-62 triumph over Assumption in a non-conference basketball game last night.

The Titans, who led 40-33 at halftime, were never headed after the opening minutes.

STRIKES AND SPARES
By Joe Wilman

Ever have a night when you were hitting the pocket consistently but still leaving the 10-pin, just as consistently? It's pretty discouraging, I know; it happens to me, too.

When I have that trouble, I start making some changes. I try to figure out what's causing the 10-pin to stand. Perhaps my ball is coming in a bit light and not starting the proper pin action. The ball must hit the 3-pin on the left, send it into the 6 which in turn must go into the 10. A light pocket hit which strikes the 3-pin too solidly, won't set up this reaction.

I shake this trouble most easily by changing my angle slightly to the right. That brings my ball into the pocket from a sharper angle and sets up a slightly different pin action. Be sure that any change you make is a minor one, however. All it takes to get proper pin action is a minor change. If you make a major change in your angle, you may not get the ball into that pocket at all.

Some star bowlers get the same results by changing the speed or the turn of their ball, but I recommend changing the angle slightly first. If that doesn't work, THEN try adjusting your speed or turn.

Kalamazoo Cagers Win

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Kalamazoo overcame an early Lake Forest (Ill.) lead and went on to a 67-63 intersectional basketball victory last night.

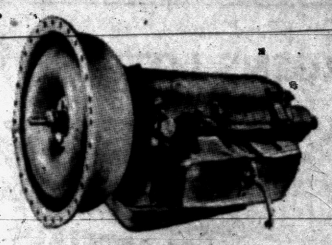

The Hornets were behind 33-30 at intermission

2 Wayne Cagers Quit

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University's basketball team will be without starting forwards William Norwood and Charles Boyce the rest of the season.

"TAKE YOUR BUSINESS TO KINSEL'S"

You and Your Arteries

By EUGENE A. STEAD, M. D.
Duke University Medical Center

DURAHM, N. C. (NEA) — The vital organs of the body become sick and die in one of two ways: either the cells making up these organs become injured and die although adequately supplied with blood, or healthy cells die because the arteries bringing the blood to them have become clogged.

★ ★ ★

In our society, the second way of dying is most common. Obituary writers usually refer only to the immediate event, perhaps a heart attack or a stroke. What we are concerned with here is the condition which sets the stage for the event.

The problem is similar to that of the plumbing in a house. In order to keep a good flow of water, we must have a reasonable head of pressure. In the body this head of pressure is supplied by the heart; we record it as blood pressure.

If the pressure head is too high in one's household plumbing, we have undue wear on the pipes, which show a tendency to bulge and leak at the joints. In man, high blood pressure, or hypertension, increases the stress on the blood vessels and tends to wear them out prematurely.

Artery walls are made up of living tissues and their products. They contain hundreds of different substances in certain fixed relationships, and are living systems of great complexity in composition, in anatomy and in function. Also complex is the blood, which varies in composition from minute to minute throughout each 24 hours.

When there is a breakdown in any of the series of integrated reactions giving the properties of life to the arterial wall, the end result is an abnormal blood vessel.

All changes in structure which affect the inner lining of the large and medium-sized blood vessels are grouped under one term, atherosclerosis, because the changes in the walls and the crusts accumulating on them look alike.

The problems of the chemistry of living cells, the chemistry of complex giant molecules, the physics of elastic tubes composed of many substances, the chemistry of the enzymes controlling blood clotting, the effects of hormones on the state of the vessel walls and many other factors proved too complex for the practicing physician and his conventional tools of medicine.

Hence, he has turned to universities and medical schools for the training of people capable of studying the basic biological, biochemical and biophysical properties of the blood vessels and of the blood in the complex environment of the body.

It costs money to train these men, to provide space to house their training, and to buy the type of equipment never before freely used in medical schools.

Once the training period is completed, there is a need to supply laboratories and equipment. There is a further need to supply long-range financial support to keep the investigator in his chosen research career.

There are many facets of the problem. Broadly, its solution depends upon the expansion of medical research. You support this type of research when you contribute to the Heart Fund of the American Heart Association and its affiliates.

Western Epic Producers Lining Up Talent Galore

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — You can't be shot for trying to round up a billion dollars worth of talent, and that's exactly what producer Harry Joe Brown and producer - writer - director Irwin Allen want to do for their Western epic "The Last Ride West."

The happiest girl in this town is Shirley Jones whose year of wonderful breaks in films and TV is topped by the fact that she and Jack Cassidy will be a mama and papa in September. "We're so happy we're walking on air," the Cassidys told me on the telephone.

"Are you going to retire to wait the stork?" I asked Shirley.

"Not until the very last minute," she laughed. "I've just finished 'Never Steal Anything Small' with James Cagney. And I have TV shows coming up with both Pat Boone and Frank Sinatra."

Janice Rule, who has been living in New York with her husband, producer Thomas Thom, arrived in town over the weekend to join the cast of "Bell, Book And Candle."

Janice plays the girl who created the role in "Picnic" on the stage that Kim later played as a motion picture for Columbia.

It's nice that Janice is such a happy girl. She was quite unhappy when her romance with Ralph Meeker ended, and later when she called off her engagement to Farley Granger.

Betty Hutton checked into Acapulco's swank hotel Pierre Marques under the name Latimer.

I cannot belive Frank Sinatra could be anything but pleased at the imitation and tribute Sammy Davis Jr. pays him at the Moulin Rouge. Finally caught the show and was again impressed with Sammy's talent.

Sparrows Bottle-Shy, at Least in South Africa

BLOEMFONTEIN S. A.—When empty bottles of all kinds began appearing in the garden of Jan le Boux, in Bloemfontein, South Africa, his neighbors said nothing to him about it. After all, they told each other, he is the respected deacon of our church.

★ ★ ★

But the bottles kept coming, especially in the early morning. When it was found that the le Boux vegetable garden was the only one in the suburb not plagued by sparrows they went and asked for an explanation.

Bottles, said le Roux, are the answer to sparrowless gardens. "Put some bottles upright among your plans or trees and the birds will not trouble you," he said. "Sparrows, for some reason or other, will not come near.

Syrian Charges Denied by Israel

★ ★ ★

An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman said last night the mine-clearing began three months ago and the U.N. was notified. Earlier in the day Syria claimed that 60 Israeli soldiers had moved into the area, supported by four armored cars.

★ ★ ★

The Syrians also said a jet plane flew over the demilitarized zone. Without saying it was the same plane, army headquarters in Tel Aviv announced an Israeli military plane, flying over Israeli territory, was fired on from a Syrian position but was not hit.

Jet Jockey Receives Correction From Top

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — South Dakota's flying Gov. Joe Foss recently corrected what was probably a new high in confusion over identities of his state and the sister state of North Dakota.

Flying from Brookings to Pierre, he overheard a jet pilot's radio conversation obnut refueling "over Fargo, South Dakota." When the governor could stond it no longer he cut into the pilot's radio frequency and informed the jet jockey, "that's Fargo, North Dakota."

"Sorry, sir," the pilot replied, not knowing who was correcting him, "I must have lost my head."

Profit-Takers Clip Advances

An exception to the narrow price movements was Martin Co., which fell 1½ to 33 on an opening block of 2,500 shares, later extending its loss. The company is prime contractor for the Vanguard space satellite project which chalked up another failure early this morning.

Other aircrafts were mixed. Douglas and General Dynamics were off slightly while Boeing was firm and United Aircraft about unchanged.

Losses were taken by steels and a number of nonferrous metals. Motors were generally easy.

★ ★ ★

Among fractional losers were U.S. Steel, Republic Steel, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, International Nickel, American Can, Baltimore & Ohio, Royal Dutch and U.S. Gypsum.

Grain Futures Rise on Market

CHICAGO (AP) — A generally firmer tone sent most grain futures off with small gains in early dealings on the board of trade today.

A stronger vegetable oil market brought out some demand in soybeans and, along with short-coverings, the prices were bid up as much as 1½ cents a bushel within a few minutes, the November contract having the best gain. There was some profit - taking on the bulges.

After about an hour trading, however, prices had advanced all along the line. Wheat was ⅛ to 1 cent higher, March $2.15; corn unchanged to ⅜ higher, March $1.10; oats ½ to ⅞ higher, March 63⅜; rye ½ to ¾ higher, March $1.25⅜; soybeans 1 cent to 1⅜ cents up, March $2.22⅛; and lard 5 to 15 cents a hundred pounds higher, March $11.72.

Plan to Appeal Court Decision

Would Construct New Courthouse in Center on Telegraph Road

State Supreme Court justices should hear the appeal on last year's courthouse decision in their June term, Harry J. Merritt, corporation counsel for Oakland County said today.

Both he and Pontiac attorney Glenn C. Gillespie, counsel for the Oakland County Taxpayers League, are still working on briefs to be submitted to the court.

The county is appealing a decision of visiting Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke of Harrisville, that it had been gathering funds illegally to construct a new courthouse.

Although this decision supported the league's contention which brought the suit, Gillespie is filing a cross-appeal calling for the high court to decide whether the county has the legal right to dispose of the old courthouse site and select a new one.

The new courthouse should go, as planned, in the service center on Telegraph, the county argues. The league says it should be built on the present downtown site.

"We're progressing as rapidly as can be expected," said Merritt of the preparation of necessary papers.

Handicapped Child Topic in Waterford

Mrs. Blake is expected to discuss procedures needed to place a handicapped child into special education classes of a school system, how to qualify, and the types of tests and interviews used to aid the child seeking a proper school situation.

★ ★ ★

The meeting, to be held at the American Legion Cook - Nelson Post No. 20, 206 Auburn Ave., will begin at 8 p.m.

Members of the Exchange Club of Brooklands also will be guests at the meeting.

Gas Price War Boon to Drivers

Huge Bargains Caused by Oversupply, Lack of Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — Budget-minded motorists are cashing in on the biggest nationwide epidemic of gasoline price wars since World War II.

There's a suburb of Boston where you can drive up to a service station and fill your tank with 20 gallons of gasoline for less than $4. The retail price — 9½ cents a gallon — includes 8½ cents in state and federal taxes. Normally you'd pay about 30 cents.

Cut-rate bargains in gasoline are available, too, in such widely separated areas as Springfield, Mass.; Hartford, Conn.; Providence, R.I.; Norfolk, Va.; Charlotte, N.C.; Dallas; Detroit; Philadelphia; St. Louis; and along the Puget Sound.

Oil company officials are worried. In localities where price war conditions are keen, major companies sell gasoline to their dealers at prices substantially below cost. Declares one harassed executive: "It's free competition at work, and I don't know where it's going to end."

Behind the rash of price wars are two factors: a huge buildup of demand.

"The general business recession is partly responsible," a New York marketing expert explains. "People are worried about layoffs and loss of overtime; they're watching their pennies. They're not driving around as much as they would if times were good."

New car sales are down sharply from a year ago and this, too, has kept gasoline consumption from rising as fast as in prior years. The trucking industry — another big user of gasoline — has shifted into second gear. With business off in many lines, there's less freight to be moved on the highways.

The big buildup in gasoline supplies — inventories at latest count totaled more than 8½ billion gallons — stems in part from the refining industry's massive expansion program. Since Korea, oil companies have spent billions on spanking new, super-efficient refining plants. Now they have more capacity than they can use.

★ ★ ★

When a refiner finds a big surplus of gasoline on his hands he can do one of two things: curtail output or "dump" the surplus at cut-rate prices. This dumping usually involves sale of the surplus gasoline to a small independent distributor who markets the fuel under his own brand name. Since he bought the gasoline more cheaply than his competitors who handle nationally advertised brands, he can afford to sell it at a lower price.

★ ★ ★

When this private brand gasoline appears on the market, competing retailers slash their prices, too. Major companies that supply them are then compelled to grant fat discounts from the posted wholesale price so the retailer can meet the lower price of the competing private brand without going bankrupt. And before you know it, full-scale war is on.

Business Notes

The appointment of Royce L. Downey as Detroit-Pontiac area regional manager for Catsman Co., suppliers and producers for ready mix concrete and allied products was announced recently.

DOWNEY

Downey, who joined the company last fall as an assistant to the president, will have full authority of administration, financial matters, operations and sales.

Formerly, he served as engineer-manager of Fenton and as manager of the First Federal Savings, Fenton.

Six Dog Clinics to Sell Licenses in Oakland

Six dog licensing and vaccination clinics will be set up in central parts of Oakland County to aid hundreds of dog owners to purchase their 1958 tags.

"The reports I have been getting show that 75 per cent of dog owners are without these licenses," said Dr. Frank R. Bates, director of the County Animal Welfare Division.

The Miscellaneous Committee of the Board of Supervisors yesterday authorized establishing the clinics. The dates and locations will be:

Feb. 15—Avon Township Hall and the Highland Township Fire Hall.

Feb. 16—Novi and Farmington Township Fire Halls.

Feb. 22—Ortonville Fire Hall.

Feb. 23—County animal shelter at 1260 West Blvd.

After March 1, Dr. Bates said, the cost of licenses will double. Today they are $1 for male and $2 for female. Required rabies vaccination before the tag is granted costs $2.

Woman Freed, Remains in Jail

Filipino Wife Acquitted in Rifle Shooting of Her Air Force Husband

FRANKLIN, Pa. (AP)—Timid Lydia Dean spent last night in her cell at the Venango County Jail—free to leave, but too griefstricken to want to go immediately.

A jury of seven men and five women late yesterday acquitted the 22-year-old Filipino mother of a murder charge in the Dec. 7 rifle-shooting of her husband, Air Force T. Sgt. Ronald Dean. They deliberated 5 hours, 17 minutes.

★ ★ ★

When the verdict was returned, Mrs. Dean sat just as she did throughout the trial: Head bowed, eyes downcast, tears streaming down her cheeks.

Mrs. Dean's mother, Mrs. Eugenia C. De Deen of Baugio City, Philippines, rushed up and embraced Lydia. Both sobbed deeply.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Dean's husband was shot to death while sleeping on a couch in the living room of his parents' home near Pleasantville, Pa., just one week after he returned from 17 months duty in England.

Mrs. Dean testified he wanted a divorce to marry an English girl. She said he had spurned her attentions.

The defense contended the shooting was accidental — that the rifle went off while Mrs. Dean was carrying it into the living room to ask her husband to kill her.

Taking Inventory to Fix Possible Break-In Loss

Inventory is being taken today in the J. and E. Service Station, 4397 Highland Rd., Waterford Township, to determine if anything was stolen by thieves.

Waterford Township police report someone entered the building after breaking a rear window between 9 p.m. yesterday and 6 a.m. today.

When Behind Wheel, Legislator Charges

'Habitual Drunks Killers'

LANSING (AP)—"Chronically drunk drivers are potential murderers and should be treated as such."

With those words Rep. Clyde E. Cooper (R-White Cloud) today readied a bill to make drunk driving a felony on the third conviction. Three-time offenders would be sent to jail for up to four years.

Cooper said he decided to ask for stiffer penalties after he and his wife were injured in a smash-up involving a drunk and hospitalized for nine weeks.

"We paid $6,300 hospital and doctor's charges, while the drunk got off with a bumped head and $100 fine after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated," he said.

Cooper would leave untouched the penalties for first and second offenders. The initial convictions call for up to 90 days in jail and fines of between $50 and $100. On a second conviction, the driver may be jailed for as long as a year and fined up to $1,000.

★ ★ ★

City Purchases Right-of-Way

Glenwood Avenue to Be Extended to Paddock to Aid Flow of Traffic

Condemnation proceedings were averted last night as the City Commission completed the purchase of right-of-way to extend Glenwood avenue to Paddock street for $44,000.

The figure represented a settlement price set on a gasoline station at the corner of Paddock and Perry street. The city has been negotiating for the property several months in order to take the present Perry street dogleg out of the Glenwood - Paddock street route.

Engineers' estimates totaling about $40,000 for work on nine of the streets were accepted and the initial public hearing on the intention to do the work was scheduled for next Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Cost estimates on the two other streets were expected to be accepted next week.

Hunt AWOL Sailor, Suspect in Burglary

State Police are combing Oakland County today for an AWOL sailor who escaped from troopers last night.

Robert E. McClintock, 21, who has been living with relatives in Pontiac, is sought by the Troy police for breaking and entering and by the State Police for carrying a concealed weapon.

McClintock was stopped last night near his home in a routine check. Instead of pulling over when hailed by Center Line Post troopers, he ran his car into a ditch and fled on foot.

A .32 caliber revolver and $57 in cash were found in the car. Troy police said his fingerprints matched those found in a recent burglary.

McClintock went AWOL from the USS Leyte on Jan. 20, just three days after completing a term in the brig for the same offense, police said.

2 Await Examination; Admit 17 Break-Ins

Two men whom police say have admitted 17 break-ins in the past 18 months, with loot estimated at $7,500, appeared yesterday before West Bloomfield Township Justice of the Peace Elmer C. Dieterle.

Gerald G. Norman, 21, of Warren, and Charles O. Biroth, 20, of Royal Oak, demanded examination, which was set for Feb. 11.

Biroth was released on $1,000 bond, but Norman remains in Oakland County Jail with bond of $5,000 not posted.

State Police said Norman was out on $500 bond on another breaking and entering charge, and Biroth is on probation for similar activities in Macomb County.

Det. Sgt. Conrad Konetshny of the Redford State Police Post said the two were apprehended by Sgt. Glen Helgemo of the West Bloomfield Township Police and Trooper Alfred Strilecky of the Pontiac Post, who spend off - duty hours waiting in an area of several recent break-ins.

Extend Army Lease on Reserve Building

The rent will continue to be $800 a month.

City Manager Walter K. Willman indicated that the Army had agreed to assume the cost of certain heating and plumbing improvements.

Signing of the lease had been held up until this agreement was reached, he said.

County Engineers Eye Drainage Problems

Drainage problems in South Oakland County will be studied by the Oakland County Engineering Society at its February meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 11, in the Birmingham Community House.

Ashton J. Berst, coordinator for the Twelve Town drain, will be the principal speaker. He is former city manager of Pleasant Ridge. Chairman of the meeting will be Roy F. Goodspeed, Ferndale director of public works and a county supervisor.

Guests, including ladies, have been invited to this meeting, according to James B. Baynes, secretary.

Letter Berated Rail Tycoon

Key-Note to Suicide?

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune today linked the suicide of railroad leader Robert R. Young to a letter he received from a small investor.

Young, chairman of the New York Central Railroad, shot himself Jan. 25 at his Palm Beach, Fla., home.

Business and financial editor Donald I. Rogers said in the Herald Tribune that Mrs. Young found her husband's body, and that Young had opened only one letter of his morning mail that day.

"You betrayed me. You did not do what you said you would do. I own 10 shares of Central stock, and it represents a great deal of money to me."

★ ★ ★

The letter "may not have been the straw that broke the camel's back; but the few intimates who know this story believe that it was."

As a nerve-wracked man he contemplated the prospects of his railroad and was overwhelmed with a sense of inadequacy. It was then that he knew "Aunt Jane" had, indeed, been betrayed.

★ ★ ★

He had tried to invigorate the entire railroad industry and its trade associations, but he couldn't.

His failure was reflected on "Aunt Jane."

Ike May Call for Tax Cut if Lag Continues to June

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today it could be the administration will recommend a tax cut if any expected business upturn fails to develop about midyear.

The President — his voice very hoarse and husky because of a cold — told a news sonference, however, that he still believes it is reasonable to assume business will pick up about the middle of the year.

Eisenhower said he looks for the current business recession certainly to continue through this month and next. But as summer comes on, he added, there should be an uptrend.

Eisenhower also said today Secretary of Defense McElroy will direct all outer space programs in the Defense Department at this time.

A reporter asked whether the administration will be for a tax cut if the expected uptrend does not materialize.

It could be, Eisenhower replied. He went on to say that a reduction certainly would be a real stimulant to business.

He added, however, that it would be possible to go too far in the tax cut direction.

Eisenhower commented that it wasn't very long ago that the country was concerned about inflation.

At today's conference Eisenhower dealt with these other matters:

SATELLITES—Eisenhower had no direct comment on the Navy's second failure to get its Vanguard satellite into orbit. The latest attempt fizzled early today when the rocket faltered and was destroyed after a successful launching.

Eisenhower was asked whether any consideration is being given to ordering the Air Force into the scientific satellite program, in addition to the Army, in view of the two Vanguard failures. He made no direct reply.

SUMMIT—The United States is working very hard in an effort to make a summit conference with the Soviet Union possible. But at that point, Eisenhower said, he sees no basis for any truly favorable conclusion on either of two points: that U.S.-Soviet relations have improved, or that the prospects for a summit meeting are better.

DOERFER—One of his lawyers has advised him, Eisenhower said, that members of federal regulatory commissions are entitled to accept reasonable honorariums, or fees, for such things as making speeches.

Eisenhower made that remark when asked whether he thinks it proper for members of such commissions to accept such fees.

The questioner obviously had in mind the case of John C. Doerfer, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, whose acceptance of fees is under investigation by a House subcommittee.

ADAMS — Eisenhower said he sees no basic difference between him and his chief aide, Sherman Adams, with respect to political speeches they made last Jan. 20.

In his speech, Eisenhower called for leaving defense out of politics in this year's congressional election campaigns. In another speech the same night, Adams accused the Democrats of "politicking with national defense," and said the administration was set to take on the political opposition on that issue.

Playing FDR May Be Life Job for Bellamy

By EARL WILSON

WILSON

After he portrayed Franklin D. Roosevelt so believably in the "Sunrise at Campobello" premiere, he told me he wants to do the show also "in England and all over the world"—and then there's Hollywood.

Producer-author Dore Schary may have in this show a Hollywood comeback. MGM, which once pulled the rug out from under him, will hardly get this for a movie. "I'll produce it myself," he said. And, he hopes, with Bellamy playing the big role.

To me one of the best exchanges was between "Eleanor" and "Louis McHenry Howe" when Eleanor (Mary Fickett) says, "I don't like to read a speech." Howe (Henry Jones) says, "D'you think the Gettysburg Address was ad libbed?"

Bellamy, a native of Chicago, told me he's been a Democrat all his life: "I finally bolted, though, to vote for Eisenhower."

GIORGIA MOLL

Giorgia Moll, the Italian beauty appearing in the film "Quiet American," is convinced that a bikini doesn't have as much sex appeal as the costume worn by the women of Saigon where she shot the picture.

Clark Gable gets half-a-million regardless of how "Run Silent, Run Deep" does, in his smart deal with Hecht-Hill-Lancaster . . . Marilyn Monroe's redecorated apartment will have a soundproof office for Arthur Miller . . . A couple of the music critics are said to be sharpening their typewriters for Maria Callas because of remarks on the Murrow Person to Person show.

Bing Crosby—a guy with class—wrote to me (and doubtless other columnists) thanking me for mentioning his Peeble Beach TV show, adding, "I'm impelled to admit it was not the sparkling success I had promised you it was going to be. Happily, we learned an awful lot about what to do and what not to do, and if we televise from there again next year, I promise it will be much better."

Bing's singing sister-in-law, Florence George (Everett's wife) owns a small "Woolly" monkey which sits in a high chair, wears baby clothes and is housebroken. She takes it on concert tours with her, and it's as well behaved as some of the audience. It loves whisky, and after a couple of snorts goes right to sleep.

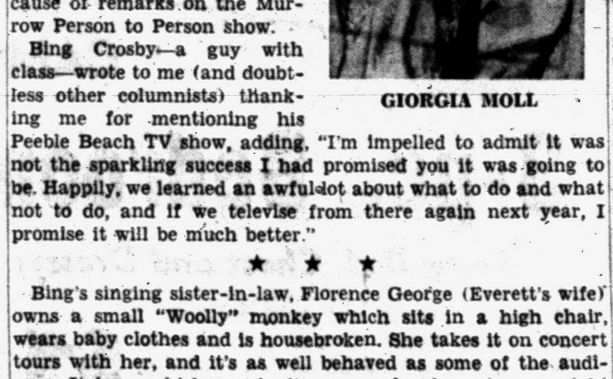

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Marlene Dietrich, opening in Las Vegas, got a big bunch of roses from Carol Channing (with whom she's reported feuding) . . . Joel McCrea's son Jody is stationed at Governors Island, in Army Recruiting. Anita Ekberg came into town, minus fanfare . . . Jackie Gleason's plush offices are being taken over by an insurance firm . . . Abbe Lane'l lose $200,000 if "Oh Captain!" is a hit; that's what she shelved in contracts to do the show . . . Elsa Maxwell will give herself a party Feb. 10 when her record is released.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: In any argument, it takes a big man to admit he's wrong—and it takes a bigger man to make him admit it. That's earl, brother.

FOR SMALL THINKING — Peter Lawford, star of MGM's television series, "The Thin Man," has discovered that "thinking big" is too expensive for TV. He advocates "24-inch thoughts" in order to make a program profitable. The detective comedy is telecast Fridays at 8:30 p. m. over NBC.

Memphis Police Replacing Horses —With Women

In recent years the patrol has been assigned to checking the downtown area for parking meter violations.

"We are losing some of the efficiency in meter patrol work by using horses," said Armour. "They've got to take time out to go to the barn for water, then they have to be taken back to eat."

★ ★ ★

The nine-horse patrol will be replaced by 10 "metermaids." The department also uses women for traffic control in school districts but it limits its general law enforcement divisions to men.

Charles Coburn, 80, Sees 65 Years in 'Show Biz'

Dan Dailey, Barbara Stanwyck, Cecil B. De Mille, Danny Thomas, Gregory Peck and John Carroll were among the screen personalities who attended.

Coburn, 80, started in show business as a theater usher in his native Savannah, Ga. After many Broadway appearances, he came to Hollywood in 1937 and won an Oscar for his 1942 supporting performance in "The More the Merrier."

Cleo the Hippo Ousts Mate From Water Hole

Pharaoh.

Rhode Island has a population density of 90 or more persons per square mile and is the only state to have this ratio in every one of its counties.

Says Hollywood Thinks Too Big

Star of 'The Thin Man' Cites Lavish Spending on Nonessentials

By CHARLES DENTON

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — That old Hollywood bromide about "thinking big" may be all right in the movie business, says Peter Lawford, but the major film studios will have to limit their celebrations to 24 inches if they want to show a profit in television.

★ ★ ★

And that goes particularly for the biggest thinking outfit in the lot, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, where Lawford is currently turning out NBC-TV's "Thin Man" series.

Now ordinarily, an actor couldn't care less how much money a studio squanders on a production in which he is starring. In fact, the more the better.

But the fact that Lawford has "a little action," financially speaking, going for him in the sleuthing series has made him painfully conscious of where the money is going. And not enough of it is going into the treasury.

"Metro," he says with a little twinge of sorrow, "just isn't used to television. It's used to dealing in big figures and big productions.

"The people here think big, but they're going to have to start thinking a lot smaller. They're going to have to think 24-inch."

OK IN ITS PLACE

Slick, costly production is all fine and dandy in its place, Lawford goes on, but how slick and costly can you get on the budget of a half-hour TV show without winding up in the poor house?

"You ask for a body makeup man around here, and they send you three people," he explains. "It took us four days to make our first picture, and we're supposed to have a three-day shooting schedule.

"As soon as that happened, I said, 'Whoa, boys,' because I've got a little action in this thing in addition to acting. Then the other day I walked on the set of what was supposed to be a wedding scene and what do I see? Real flowers!

"I counted at least $200 worth of posies, and all in the background, too—not even in the foreground. I went screaming to the prop man on that one.

"Of course, you expect some growing pains, and in this case we're the guinea pigs for the studio. When we learn to make a three-day show in three days, things should get better.

"These people here are old picture makers and they know their business. But—and this isn't telling tales out of school because they must realize it themselves—if they want to make money they've got to learn how!"

Girl, 11, Beaten by Teen Gang

Police Hold 4 Youths in Slashing on Chicago's South Side

CHICAGO (AP) — An 11-year-old white girl was beaten and brutally slashed by a gang of teen-age Negro boys as she walked to a South Side grocery last night.

★ ★ ★

Four Negro boys were seized at their homes and were held by police for questioning. Police said one of the boys was wearing blood-stained shoes. The boys, police said, told conflicting stories.

Lt. Donald S. Keevers said the girl was dragged through an alley to the rear of a building, stripped of her Brownie scout uniform, beaten and stabbed. He said "an unknown instrument, possibly a pop bottle," was used in the attack. Keevers said there apparently was no rape.

Keevers said a 15-year-old boy told police he saw a group of youths emerge from the alley and said they "walked away laughing." The boy provided the first name of one youth and the school he attended.

Police officials estimated the girl lay half an hour in the alley before she wrapped her torn garments about her and crawled to her home a few doors away, leaving a trail of blood.

Her mother said the girl gasped out the story of the attack and then collapsed. Her parents rushed her to the hospital.

The girl said four or five youths attacked her. Police described them as 14 to 15 years old and dressed in black jackets and blue jeans.

Both whites and Negroes live in the neighborhood where the attack occurred.
