Surprise Snow Stalls Spokane

EARLY WINTER—A sign of things to come was seen in Spokane, Wash., when a surprise storm dumped three inches of snow on the city yesterday. Traffic was snarled on some streets—25 cars tied up on one hill—and at one time visibility was cut to less than a block. The storm was losing its punch today as it moved into Colorado and Wyoming after dropping up to 20 inches of snow in parts of Montana. Temperatures dropped to ten below zero early today at Havre and Cut Bank, Mont.

Macmillan, Ike Meeting Today for Unity Talks

President Also Plans to Discuss Vital Issues in Radio Series

WASHINGTON (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan came here today to appeal to President Eisenhower for restoration of the American-British partnership in scientific research.

He said his single purpose is to "improve friendship and extend co-operation" between the two countries.

Macmillan's plane landed at 9:17 a.m. after an overnight flight from London.

He was met by Secretary of State Dulles who said that while the Communist world is held together by force, the free world is united by understanding.

"We must never take that understanding for granted," Dulles said in his greeting.

Dulles declared the three-day talks, opening at the White House in the afternoon, were not just aimed at strengthening American-British ties.

Their broad purpose, he said, is to help all nations which need to cooperate and work together to wage peace successfully.

Meanwhile President Eisenhower announced he will go directly to the American people in a series of talks to proclaim anew his faith that the free world will prevail against communism in this outer space age.

The President's plans for perhaps half a dozen speeches in various sections of the country in the next few weeks were disclosed as he told a nationwide radio audience last night he intends to seek opportunities to set forth his views in these critical times.

Speaking before 1,500 applauding guests at a Waldorf-Astoria Hotel dinner sponsored by the National Fund for Medical Education, Eisenhower dealt mainly with a need for money to train more doctors and other medical personnel and to expand health facilities.

GAVE NO DATES
The President provided no detail regarding his plans. But aides said he will make perhaps as many as half a dozen speeches, some of them outside of Washington.

The first, most likely dealing with the nation's science programs, is expected soon. The (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Would Meet Obligation Out of Pontiac Capital Improvement Fund

The $950,000 hospital bond issue will not raise 1958 city taxes, the City Commission ruled last night.

Commissioners decided to pay for the retirement of the 30-year bond issue out of the city's capital improvement fund, instead of raising taxes 50 cents per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

City Manager Walter K. Willman offered the suggestion which is expected to delete between $33,000 to $55,000 a year from appropriations used for customary street, sewer and civic building projects in the city.

This is with the exception of the first year, Willman told the commission, when $73,000 will be the principal and interest costs on the general obligation bonds.

This is because interest is always higher the first year, Willman pointed out.

STILL MUST VOTE

Along with commissioners, the manager stressed that the no-tax-increase decision does not void the necessity of the vote Monday on the issue.

"We still need the authority of the voters before we can issue the bonds," he said.

Property owners will go to the polls between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. Monday to cast ballots on whether the bonds may be issued to provide funds to furnish and equip the $4,000,000 addition at Pontiac General Hospital.

Although the public works program would be sliced somewhat, Willman said the cutback would not be alarming. He pointed out that the new Public Safety Building, which took roughly $200,000 the past several years from the fund, has been completed.

The manager said it was too early to tell what part of the program would have to be decreased to make way for the bond payments. "I'm just beginning to draft the 1958 budget and program," he commented.

In their action taken last evening, the commission instructed Willman to prepare the forthcoming budget with an overall tax rate of $13.70 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

He pointed out that it will make the fifth consecutive year in which this rate remained stable.

The program will also show the absorption of the bond costs when it is presented for study later this year, Willman said.

1,500-Mile Missile Tested

MISSILE TEST CENTER, Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—A Jupiter rocket soared skyward last night in a spectacular and successful test of the Army's intermediate range ballistic missile.

The missile, designed to travel 1,500 miles, was reported officially to have taken its prescribed course and landed in its pre-selected target area.

It was the first time the Defense Department had identified a missile fired from here or had given an immediate report on the outcome of a test.

The Pentagon, however, would not reveal how far the Jupiter had traveled. A spokesman said that still is secret information.

CALLS POUR IN

The mighty missile trailed a long oval flame which lighted up the Cape Canaveral area. Minutes after the launching the Miami Herald, 200 miles to the south, was flooded with calls from residents who said they saw it pass overhead.

There still was no word on when the scheduled test of the Navy's Vanguard missile will take place. The three-stage rocket, intended to carry a U.S. earth satellite into space, is due for a tryout of its first-stage engine. High winds apparently have caused postponements of the test.

Yesterday's Jupiter test was the second of the day. A small missile was launched during daylight hours but authorities have declined to give any information about it beyond that it was not the Vanguard.

It began wobbling shortly after takeoff and apparently fell into the Atlantic.

As the huge Jupiter was about to be launched, searchlights shone brightly on it and a glow appeared around it. Seconds later it began a slow ascent, gathered speed, vanished momentarily in a cloud bank, then reappeared. It could be seen for about 2½ minutes before it disappeared to the southeast.

In Washington, Defense Department officials indicated more information about missile tests and their results will be provided in the future.

Murray Snyder, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, said the missile test program here "has reached a stage where certain information may now be made public."

Birds 'High' on Berries

CHICAGO (AP)—Some of the robins stopping off at Brookfield Zoo are on a binge, says Director Robert Dean, but he is going to do nothing about it. Dean said one robin, after eating fermented berries, tried to pick a fight with its image in a sidewalk puddle. Some of the robins, he added, are just "sputtering" instead of singing.

Market for Cars, Goods in Europe, Says Curtice

NEW YORK (INS)—General Motors President Harlow Curtice says there are expanding markets for cars, household appliances and other consumer goods in western European countries.

Curtice, returning from a three-week business trip to Europe, said yesterday a high level of economic activity stimulated by full employment and a rising standard of living is maintaining the "basic strength and vitality of the automobile and household appliance business."

City Gets Progress Report on Public Safety Building

City officials are anxiously awaiting the completion of the new $875,000 Public Safety Building, which will house the police department, fire department headquarters, and municipal courts and offices.

City Manager Walter K. Willman has expressed hope that the Pike street edifice would be turned over to the city sometime next week, with occupancy "possibly" by Nov. 15.

When Miles OKs Liquor License All Are Puzzled

Commissioner Floyd P. Miles had his fellow city commissioners a little puzzled last evening when he proposed acceptance of a new liquor license in Pontiac.

Long a staunch foe of new liquor licenses in the city, Miles mistakenly offered for approval a request from John and Athena Ponushis for a new package beer license at 913 Baldwin Ave.

"I thought it was just a transfer," Miles blushing told commissioners as he later asked that the request be reconsidered. It had passed earlier without discussion.

During the reconsideration, the request was approved by a 5-to-2 vote. Objecting along with Miles was Commissioner Gilbert W. Long.

Municipality Would Have Population of 300,000

Planning Expert Proposes Creation of 'New Flint'

FLINT (AP)—A proposal to create a "New Flint" with a population of 300,000 and covering 162 square miles was under study today.

The new single municipality would replace the present governments of Flint and some suburban neighbors.

UP TO RESIDENTS

If the new city takes shape, it will be formed by city and suburban residents alike deciding on its charter provisions.

The plan, proposed at a meeting last night of the Flint Area Study (FAS), a citizen-fact finding group, suggests that the only economical, efficient and democratic way to solve the public service problems of this fast growing, spilled over community is to start from scratch with all citizens having a voice in setting up the organization and administration of their new government.

A "New Flint" and accompanying proposals were recommended to the Flint Area Study by Dr. Basil G. Zimmer, consultant to the group.

The study group was formed in February, 1954, when individuals representing the city and suburbs met to discuss their common problems and seek a way to solve them. They elected as chairman John W. Thomas, a Flint lawyer living in one of the suburbs.

BECAME CONSULTANT

Dr. Zimmer, resident director of the University of Michigan social science research project, became consultant late in 1954. He has continued in his university post while working with FAS.

Because of the large amount of research information to be digested by FAS, the members were not asked to adopt the new municipality proposal yet. The question of pushing action toward the plan's adoption will await further study by the city and suburban delegates.

In Today's Press

Coupled with the recommendation for establishment of a new city is an appeal for the Board of Supervisors to set up a county planning commission to draw up and administer an over-all guide for the development of Genesee County.

Schools of Flint and 15 suburban districts would be consolidated into a single unit. The boundaries would be the same as the new city's.

Theme for Thursday: Walkin' in the Rain

"Just walkin' in the rain, gettin' soaked" is what Pontiac area people will be doing tonight and tomorrow.

Cloudy, wet and windy, with little change in temperature is the weatherman's prediction for tonight. The low will be around 53-57.

Showers are forecast for Thursday with a slight drop in temperature. The thermometer will reach a high of 57-61 degrees.

Tomorrow night will be partly cloudy with showers ending, and colder. The low will be near 38-42.

The lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 54 degrees. The mercury stood at 56 at 2 p.m.

JUDGE HINTS MASTER

Judge Letts hinted during the two days of argument in the case that he favored putting the union under rule of a court-named master.

The council meets Thursday to follow up its threat to suspend the Teamsters on the corruption charges. But high AFL-CIO leaders have indicated they will forego any suspension action for the time being. If the union is in the hands of court-named supervisors.

Meantime, an informal meeting of the Teamsters Executive Board was assembled here to prepare the union's stand on both the court action and the AFL-CIO status.

Teamster Heads Bank in Farmington Robbed by 2 Bandits

Judge to Reveal Today Decision on Appointing Court-Named Master

An alert Farmington Township bank manager turned in an alarm to state police yesterday before bandits had even entered his building.

The gunmen, however, worked too swiftly in the daylight holdup and escaped with $2,800 moments before police arrived.

Manager of the Farmington Branch of the Detroit Bank and Trust Co., Mark A. Benner, said he saw two men putting on false faces in a parked car in front of the bank.

This aroused his suspicion and he notified police, he said.

The men entered the bank wearing tan trench coats, brown hats, false noses and sunglasses. They ordered bank personnel, at gunpoint, to turn over all cash and threatened to shoot anyone refusing to obey orders.

Benner instructed tellers to give the money to the bandits. They took all the loose bills from the two cages nearest the door.

The bank staff, totaling seven, was then herded into the vault. The gunmen ordered an employee, Roberta Scholer, to open the safe, but became restless and fled before she could get it unlocked.

One gunman left immediately, the other remaining a few seconds before he was shot by the companion. Farmington Township Police Chief Irving Yakes, arrived only moments after the bandits left, followed by state troopers. The hold-up took place at 1:40 p.m., at a time when there were no customers in the bank which is located at Grand River Ave. and Middlebelt Rd.

Dairy Farmers Call Milk Strike

Members Get Orders to Quit at Midnight in Detroit Market Area

Milk strike orders were issued at a meeting in Detroit today and all members of the Dairy Farmers Cooperative of Michigan were told to strike the Detroit milk marketing area at midnight tonight.

Strike headquarters have been set up in New Hudson, Imlay City, Grand Rapids and Carson City.

The cooperative is asking all members, neighbors and friends to withhold their milk. The organization is seeking six dollars per hundredweight for class No. 1 drinking milk and four dollars for class No. 2 processed milk.

Strike director Homer Martin says every action has been tried but the co-op "has lost its battle for a higher price for the dairy farmer."

There is no alternative, he said, but strike action which is the only "weapon against contrived exploitation and injustice."

Claiming to represent more than a majority of dairy farmers shipping into the Detroit market as legal collective bargaining agent, the co-op has asked help from Governor Williams and cooperation from the Michigan Milk Producers Association.

The governor suggested that the Labor Mediation Board act but handlers spurned the suggestion, Martin said. He also said the MMPA board of directors failed to cooperate.

Buying Spurt Pushes Stocks Upward Again

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market raced upward today under the impetus of a strong demand from all sections of the country.

Gains ranged as high as $5 a share and the ticker lagged as much as eight minutes behind floor transactions. Volume for the first two hours was 1,960,000 shares compared with 2,000,000 shares at the same time yesterday.

Mutual funds and other institutional sources were credited with doing some of the buying.

2nd Area Hunter Injured in Eye

State Reports 94 Hurt, 7 Others Suffer Fatal Heart Attacks in 2 Days

A wounded Waterford Township hunter today fought to retain vision in his left eye, as the number of area hunters suffering gunshot wounds during the first two days of the small game season rose to 14.

The state as a whole had recorded 94 persons wounded, with a 19-year-old expectant Jackson mother heading the list. Seven other hunters were dead of heart attacks, including a Utica man.

The Waterford Township man, Bruce E. King, 27, of 2628 Silver-side Dr., was in Bay City General Hospital, where doctors today noted a slight improvement in his eye. King was struck in the face and chest by pellets near Unionville.

Another area hunter, who lost the sight of his left eye because of a gunshot wound, continued to improve today in Pontiac General Hospital. He is Harold Atkinson, 20, of 309 Woodward St., Rochester.

Other area hunters not previously listed as injured: Frank Line, 47, identified only as being a resident of the Pontiac area, who also was struck in the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

"This is short of an ideal solution," he said.

The township that would be included in the proposed new Flint are Mt. Morris, Grosse Pointe and Burton and half of Grand Blanc. The two small cities that would join with Flint and the townships are Mt. Morris and Grand Blanc. A popular vote would be required.

The suburban areas have an estimated population of almost 100,000. Flint's population is believed to be near 200,000. The area included in the recommendation is 162 square miles, which would make new Flint the largest city in Michigan in land area and the nation's seventh in this respect. Flint now has 29.9 square miles.

Dr. Zimmer said the "new city" approach came into focus after about 18 months of fact finding. This was in early 1936 but he did not want to announce his recommendation until he had completed detailed studies of just about every phase of urban life in the Flint area.

The study has gained considerable attention from leaders in the metropolitan study field throughout the country.

Dr. Zimmer told the Flint Area Study the recommended new city would gain distinctive advantages for both city and suburban dweller—among them obtaining of services for suburbanites and providing room for expansion of the city. The broadened population and financial base would make the community more attractive to new businesses and public improvements, he said.

The area study divided itself into eight committees—education, government, public services, sanitation, taxation, traffic, zoning and special assignments.

Flint Area Study has served as an example for similar metropolitan study groups in a half dozen Michigan cities and in several outside the state.

Detroit Losing Money Because of Suburbs

DETROIT (INS)—City Budget Director Robert S. Reason revealed today Detroit is losing $2 million a year because of the mushrooming growth of the suburbs.

He said: "This is very serious for Detroit. This (financial loss) could cause a rise in taxes or a cut in city services."

He indicated the blow will fall definitely when federal census-takers establish in 1950 that Detroit has failed to keep pace with the rapid population increase in outlying areas.

Why was 1937 a good year, as far as hurricane damage along the east coast, was concerned? Why did a number of hurricanes strike the Gulf Coast?

It is accurate to say that no weather expert can finally answer these questions. It is true that weather experts predicted a better year in 1937 for hurricanes—than had been experienced in 1936.

This was true along the east coast. But the weather scientists have still not been able to determine how the mysterious low fronts in the Gulf and lower Atlantic Ocean form and why and how they turn into hurricanes.

Why hurricanes seemed to pick out the Gulf this year, rather than the Atlantic, is also a mystery. Until this year many had believed hurricanes were moving northward, along the eastern coast, as a long term trend. The year 1937 checked this trend, momentarily perhaps, but definitely.

CONSTANT COMPANION — Teenager Susie has taken complete charge of caring for her 34-year-old mother, Mrs. Edward Luebke of Clarkston. The mother has ten children, is dying of cancer.

Generous Citizens of Area Start Fund to Aid Luebkes

A wave of open-hearted generosity is sweeping through the Clarkston-Waterford Township area, for the poverty and grief-stricken Luebke family.

A "Mickey Luebke Fund" has been established at the Clarkston State Bank for the mother of ten children, who is dying of a rare cancer disease—and knows it.

The campaign is being sponsored by church organizations under the leadership of Clarkston's Rev. Eldon Mudge of New Hope Church and Rev. Walter Gibson, pastor of the Clarkston Baptist Church.

Also assisting from the Pontiac area, is Rev. Robert North of the Zion Nazarene Church.

Those wishing to send contributions have been asked to mail them to either Rev. Mudge, at 5447 Cecilia Ave., or Rev. Gibson, at 50 Main St. Both are in Clarkston.

On Mother's Day, 34-year-old Mrs. Edward Luebke was stricken with cancer, and told that there was no hope.

She underwent several serious operations, and on October 16 she was released from St. Joseph's hospital to spend her remaining days with her family in their old farmhouse at 6571 Sashabaw Rd.

Mickey Luebke's first concern has been for the future welfare of her ten children, ranging from 6 months to 15 years. At the time of her attack, her husband was unemployed so the three babies, Judy, six months old, Terry, 2 and Cindy, 3, were adopted by young couples.

Still living together are Molly 10, Edward 12, Elizabeth 13, Susie 14, and Lester 15. George 7, is with his aunt and uncle in Lapeer.

Many residents in the area have become concerned over teenager Susie, who has stayed home from school to shoulder all of the responsibilities of caring for the family.

'Safest Auto' Made Without Steering Wheel

NEW YORK (INS)—They unveiled a brand new car today that doesn't have a steering wheel.

Instead of the car gets around by using a hydraulic, lever-type steering control. Nonetheless, it's probably the safest vehicle on four wheels.

Its designers, who put it on display at the Waldorf, said the car is the first to be built with the safety of its occupants as the sole design objective.

The men who created the car—engineer Frank G. Crandall and safety research expert Edward R. Dye—said the car represents the culmination of five years of research and crash testing.

The experimental automobile has a number of eye-lifting features. The driver's seat is located in the center of the car. There are folding doors, six specially designed bucket seats—one of which faces the rear—plus other major design and engineering innovations.

And when you sit down the first thing you're told is: "Fasten your safety belt."

The first airplane flight over New York City was made by Glenn H. Curtiss on June 26, 1909.

Susie administers injections to her mother for relieving the pain. In between times, she cleans the 7-room house, bakes bread, irons the clothing and sees that the younger children are ready for school.

When Mrs. Lucille Richardson, of 153 S. Josephine St., in Pontiac, read the story of the Luebke family's dilemma in last week's Pontiac Press, she immediately went to work on a solution to the problem.

Various organizations were contacted for help. The Cancer Society furnished a special bed, dressings and funds for drugs to be authorized only by the family doctor, John Naz.

Posters, canisters and specific information have been distributed.

McClellan Questions Morton Co. Contract Prober Sees 'Collusion' in Food Firm, Union Pact

WASHINGTON (INS)—A Continental Baking Co. executive today denounced as "stupid" any insinuation that his firm "bought union favors" at a frozen food plant in Webster City, Iowa.

But a regional organizer for the Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union said his superiors negotiated with the company a contract that filled him with disgust and disappointment.

EVIDENCE PLAIN Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee has received "perfectly plain evidence of collusion" between the union and Morton Frozen Foods Inc., a division of Continental Baking.

George Faunce Jr., vice president of Continental, told the committee that wage and other benefits provided in a 1936 contract covering employees at the Webster City plant "are by no means substantial." On the contrary, he said, the contract provides for "going wages or a little better" for that area.

However, Merle C. Smith of Chattanooga, Tenn., Southern regional director of the Bakery Workers, described the contract as "bad in many ways. When he first read it, he said, 'I was almost ready to blow my top.'"

McClellan made his statement about collusion between union officials and management while questioning James G. Cross, international president of the Bakery Workers. Cross said he had no personal role in the organization of the Webster City workers.

Cross denied that he had any conversations with Nathan Shefferman of Chicago, whose Labor Relations Associates firm aided in the Webster City organizing. Shefferman previously has been identified as a close friend of Dave

Robber's Blows Kill Grocer in Toledo

TOLEDO, O. (INS)—Coroner Paul Hohl ruled today that blows by a blunt instrument killed a 60-year-old grocer found dead in his store last night with two skull fractures.

Police said the victim, Mack Neyland, apparently was killed while resisting a robber.

A customer, Fred Hunkle, discovered the body behind a meat counter in the store. Neyland's pockets had been turned inside out and all money except some small change had been removed from his cash register.

in business places throughout the area in an effort to raise funds for the destitute family.

Although Luebke is now working at a Pontiac factory, more than $5,000 in current bills have piled up.

Other organizations connected with the United Fund besides the Cancer Society, have helped the family, and will continue to assist in any way possible, according to director Karl Bradley.

There will be a community psychlight parade conducted in the area next Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Legal adviser for the group is attorney Earl C. Currah.

Report Thieves Enter Waterford Restaurant

Tau-Lou Grill, 3517 Elizabeth Lake Rd., was broken into early this morning according to Waterford Township Police.

Entrance was gained after knocking out a panel from the rear door. More than $20 in change was taken from the cigarette machine. Paul Hanson, 738 West Huron St., is the owner. This is the second break-in reported in this building within a month.

The latter, Willman said, "is causing a steady rise in the cost of supply and wages and a heavy demand for a public works program from our people."

Second Sputnik Going Up Soon; Maybe With TV

DALLAS (INS)—A publisher of aviation periodicals said today the Russians probably will have a second Sputnik in the sky before the first one disintegrates.

"And the second one will be bigger," said Wayne W. Parrish of Washington.

"It will contain more sophisticated instrumentation. It will be sent to a higher orbit and will possibly stay up there forever." Parrish is president of Missiles and Rockets magazine, American Aviation magazine and Aviation Daily. His remarks were prepared for a joint luncheon meeting of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club.

Parrish, who visited Moscow two years ago, said the Russians will be able to launch satellites of direct military significance in a fairly short time.

Such satellites, he said, will contain television cameras and infrared spotting equipment, and can be used as part of missile guidance and launching systems.

"And then will come the manned satellite with 'Ivan himself on board,'" he said.

Parrish added that there was "only a chance" that the United States could beat Russia to the moon. But he said that if this nation wants to catch up, it should press its efforts in the direction of a manned satellite.

Macmillan in Capital for Talks With Ike

talks probably will continue into the early weeks of next year.

The administration has been sharply criticized by some members of Congress who feel the satellite and missile programs have not been pushed vigorously enough. Macmillan also referred to the interest of other friendly countries in telling Dulles his talks with Eisenhower would have "only one purpose—to improve our friendship and extend cooperation between our two countries in all fields, and they are many, in which we work together with our allies and friends."

Macmillan recalled he met with Eisenhower at Bermuda in March but said that "a good deal has happened" since then and another meeting was indicated. He did not mention it, but the two developments which clearly lay behind the decision to meet this time were Russia's firing of intercontinental missiles, and the launching of the Sputnik satellite early this month.

Macmillan's first scheduled meeting with Eisenhower was set for 6 p.m. but it was expected he actually would go to the White House for an opening session in midafternoon.

Only eight citizens were in the audience to hear the commission's decision. Commissioners gathered in Willman's office one hour earlier to discuss the issue.

Willman took the action because he believed the one question concerning the issue—would it raise taxes or not—remained unanswered.

In his letter to the commission he emphasized that other factors must be considered which might at a future date make it necessary to hike taxes. But at the same time, he said these factors could be controlled so as to permit the 1958 rate to remain at $13.70.

These factors are work which might be ordered outside the jurisdiction of the commission (i.e. a sewage treatment plant ordered by the State Water Resources Commission), and inflation.

Girl, Hit by Car, Dies of Injuries

Funeral Set Saturday for Cherrie Sartwell, 7, of Washington Area

Seven-year-old Cherrie Sartwell died shortly after noon yesterday of head injuries received when she was hit by a car early Monday morning.

The victim was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Sartwell, 36955 Van Dyke, Washington Township, and a second grader at the Washington School.

State Police of the Romeo Post said Cherrie ran into the path of a car driven by Maurice E. Carlson Sr., 54, of 244 East Gates St., Romeo. He was exonerated by Macomb County prosecutor's office yesterday afternoon.

The child, who rode the school bus driven by Carlson every afternoon, succumbed in St. Joseph Hospital, Mt. Clemens. The accident occurred in front of her house.

Service will be at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Washington Baptist Church, with the Rev. Lloyd O. Chase officiating. The body will be in state at Roth's Home for Funerals, Romeo, until Saturday noon.

Bond Issue Won't Hike 1958 Taxes

ital improvement program. This brings in $875,000 a year.

Commissioners were together in their opinions that completion of the hospital tops the list of projects, and that other projects would have to wait.

"This is the most feasible solution," said Commissioner Philip E. Rowston. "The importance of completing the hospital far supersedes the $55,000 worth of other projects which will have to wait."

"I have been advocating this for some time," Commissioner Floyd P. Miles declared. "It will spread it in a way in which we can afford to pay for it."

Commissioner John A. Dugan said, "We will still have a good capital improvement program."

Only eight citizens were in the audience to hear the commission's decision. Commissioners gathered in Willman's office one hour earlier to discuss the issue.

Willman took the action because he believed the one question concerning the issue—would it raise taxes or not—remained unanswered.

In his letter to the commission he emphasized that other factors must be considered which might at a future date make it necessary to hike taxes. But at the same time, he said these factors could be controlled so as to permit the 1958 rate to remain at $13.70.

The Day in Birmingham Store Employees Warned to Guard Personal Effects

BIRMINGHAM — Det. Lt. Merlyn Holmquist today warned store and small shop employees to exercise greater care in their personal valuables during working hours.

Several recent reports have come to the police of thefts of money and jewelry that employees have left in desks and lockers.

He also asked merchants and owners to notify the police immediately of any suspicious persons seen around their premises.

"A quick call to the police and as good a description as possible of the person or persons will aid us greatly in making an apprehension and putting a stop to this particular type of theft," Holmquist said.

He also issued the report of a Pan American, yellow gold trumpet stolen from the Birmingham High School.

Holmquist said the serial number is 637039.

Martin F. Rummell, 1188 Lyonhurst here, has been named chairman of the Michigan State University Alumni Advisory Council.

Rummell, named at the group's annual meeting at East Lansing, succeeds Dale Stafford of Greenville.

The new chairman, former MSU football captain, is the director of purchases for Pontiac Motor Division of the General Motors Corp.

Gow's Little Acre Gift Shop, 6 West Square Lake Rd., will be the meeting place of Altrusa Club of Greater Birmingham at 7 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Alex Gow will be assisted in preparing a dessert-coffee and the evening's entertainment by Mary Spaulding and Mary Helen Holmes.

"Travel Through Gifts," will be the theme of the evening.

Mrs. R. K. Lewis and Mrs. Lee Mohr are co-chairmen of the rummage sale which Redeemer Lutheran Church Women are sponsoring. The sale will be in the church basement Thursday and Friday. The Thursday hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Birmingham residents are reminded that the first public review of the proposed zoning ordinance change will be at 8 p.m. tonight in the Community House.

Herbert Hershberg will discuss Ike, Mamie Drop In to See 'My Fair Lady'

NEW YORK (INS)—President Eisenhower and Mamie took in the hit show "My Fair Lady" last night.

The chief executive joined the first lady shortly after the lights dimmed at the start of the last act, going to the theater from a Waldorf Astoria dinner he had addressed.

Eisenhower slipped down the aisle with an aide and sat down next to Mamie with the audience apparently not knowing that America's best known couple were in the theater.

They both seemed to enjoy the show—the first Broadway play for the President since entering the White House.

Detroit is a city of many nationalities. Its largest foreign population is Canadian, about 65,000.

This left, as Rhodes' only apparent link to Abel, the testimony last week of Reino Hayhanen, a Russian spy who defected to the West last May.

Hayhanen, the government's star witness, said Abel had a dossier on Rhodes under the code name of "Quebec."

As the 40-year-old sergeant leaned forward with brow knitted, Donovan asked, "Isn't it true that long after your family arrived in Russia you attended a party in a hotel in Moscow at which uniformed Russians were present... Is it not a fact that subsequently that same evening you found yourself in bed with a girl?"

"I found myself alone with her, not in bed," the Oklahoma-born soldier replied.

Donovan then read from Rhodes' statement last July 2 to the FBI as follows: "At this party in the hotel room we ate and drank and I proceeded to get drunk. Someone had a girl brought in. I was talking to her... I seemed everyone had gone but I recall I found myself alone on the bed with this girl."

Rhodes said: "I believe that's correct, sir."

Rhodes testified that while in Moscow he was a heavy drinker of whisky, vodka — "almost anything you want to name."

"In what quantities?" Donovan asked.

"They were not 'moderate,'" Rhodes said.

The witness said he made about $15,000 in the black market on Russian rubles, which he banked. He testified that his monthly Army pay and allowances at the time were between $800 and $900.

Sergeant Compared to Benedict Arnold After Testifying in Abel Trial

NEW YORK (INS)—Counsel for alleged Russian master spy Rudolf I. Abel has likened, an Army master sergeant, who confessed to the FBI that he was a hired Russian spy, to Benedict Arnold.

Dutch Most Dependent on International Trade

NEW YORK — A recent survey of eight free-world countries by the Bank for International Settlements shows that the Netherlands is the most dependent on foreign trade, with imports amounting to the equivalent of 47 per cent of its gross national product in 1936 and exports 36 1/2 per cent.

Comparable ratios of about 20 per cent or more were reported for Sweden and Switzerland; 19 and 16 per cent, respectively, for Great Britain; 10 per cent or better for France, Western Germany, and Italy; and 3 and 4 per cent for the United States.

OTTO V. SACHSE

Ex-Merchant Taken by Death

Otto Sachse, 87, Was Active in Business and Club Affairs

Otto V. Sachse of 85 Mary Day Ave., who has been active in area business, club and political affairs for many years, died yesterday afternoon in Pontiac General Hospital after an illness of several weeks. He was born in 1870.

A native of Flint, he was a partner in the dry goods firm of Beattie & Sachse in his early years in Pontiac. Later he became a member of the Chase Mercantile Co.

In the 1920s, he was president and director of the Peoples State Trust & Savings Bank.

Mr. Sachse served as president of the Board of Education and the Oakland County Tuberculosis Association, and director of the Welfare League.

A city resident for more than 45 years, he had been active in the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, Moslem Temple and Pontiac Shrine, and a life member of Roosevelt Lodge F&AM No. 510. He belonged to All Saints Episcopal Church.

Surviving are his wife; three sons, Mrs. A. Von Weising of Milwaukee, Mrs. E. Herhold of Chicago and Mrs. H. Wetsel of Detroit, and a nephew, Louis Dittich of St. Clair Shores.

Service will be at 1:30 p. m. Friday from Farmer-Snover Funeral Home with the Rev. C. George Widdifield, his rector, officiating. Burial will be in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery. The Masque Lodge will conduct a grave service.

CADILLAC (AP) — "Cadillac has changed—it isn't fun anymore," 51-year-old former lumberjack William Nolf told Circuit Judge Howard E. Campbell yesterday.

"When I was younger, we had a whale of a time in the saloons, getting in fights with our river boats on—we had a lot of fun," he added.

Then the one-time timber worker pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Judge Campbell ordered him to return to court next March 24. "And stay sober between now and then," the judge admonished.

The highest mountain on the moon is estimated to be 33,000 feet high.

Stops Heart Gas 3 TIMES FASTER

As shown in this chart, the heart of a person who has been killed by gas, stops 3 times faster than the heart of a person who has been killed by a bullet. This is because the heart of a person who has been killed by gas, is still beating when the body is found. The heart of a person who has been killed by a bullet, stops immediately.

Safe to Separate Texas Siamese Twins

WELLINGTON, Tex. (U-P)—Doctors say examination indicates the Estrada Siamese twins can be safely separated.

The 4-day-old infant girls are joined at the chest and abdomen but Dr. Dale Watkins said they have separate digestive systems. He said tests also indicate "pretty positively" that the circulatory systems are separate.

The twins, Guadalupe and Raquel, were born Saturday to Mrs. Lina Estrada, 38, an itinerant farm worker of Donna, Tex.

All VA Housing
Up for ReviewGovernment Refusal to Purchase Mortgages
Stymies Program

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking Committee said today Congress will have to review the entire veterans' housing program as a result of government refusal to make advance mortgage commitments.

The Federal National Mortgage Assn. announced yesterday it no longer will commit itself in advance to purchase new home mortgage bearing the Veterans Administration interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent. FNMA has been buying the mortgages from lenders to supply them with additional loan funds.

It had been giving builders a commitment for a year in advance that it would purchase the mortgages on homes they planned to build.

The agency will continue to buy mortgages presented for sale, but will charge a higher premium. FNMA has been paying the banks from 92 to 94 per cent of the face value of the mortgages. Hereafter the sellers will receive from 90 to 92 per cent of face value. The rate varies by geographical areas, property values and other factors.

FNMA said it had no choice in the matter because it was unsound business to acquire 4 1/2 per cent mortgages when the agency itself must pay almost 5 per cent interest for its financing.

Spence agreed that FNMA's action was justified in view of conditions.

"The veterans' home loan program hasn't been working because nobody is going to put up the money at 4 1/2 per cent," he said. "We will have to review the entire program when Congress comes back in January. It may be that we will have to try to work out some program for direct loans."

Australians Debate
U.S. Trip Money

CANBERRA, Australia (U-P)—Laborites popped an embarrassing question to Primary Industry Minister William McMahon today.

Did he and other political leaders ask the U. S. Embassy for money so they could visit the United States?

McMahon, a member of the governing Liberal party, leads an Australian delegation in November to Commonwealth Parliamentary Assn. meetings in South Asia.

The Labor opposition had an inkling the travelers had been looking for help to extend their journey across the Pacific.

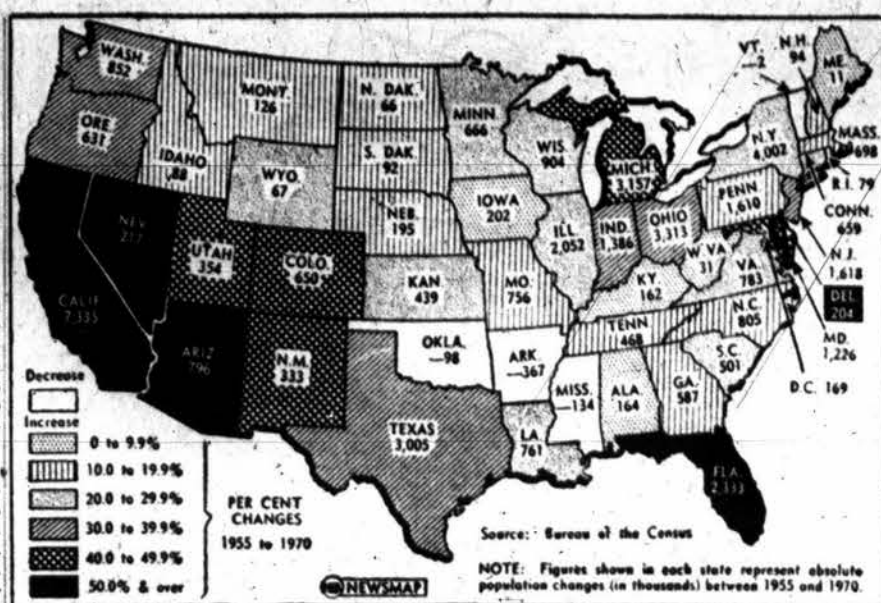

"I took no action," McMahon declared in the House of Representatives. "To the best of my knowledge no member of the delegation approached the embassy."

Another questioner pressed on. "People at the U. S. Embassy have clearly indicated to opposition members that McMahon personally telephoned the embassy. Will he say who is telling the truth?"

"I never telephoned the U. S. Embassy in my life," McMahon came back.

EXPANDING POPULATION—What the populations of the 48 states will probably be like by 1970 is indicated on the Newsmag above. It illustrates projections made by the Bureau of the Census which are based on three factors: migration, birth rate and mortality rate. The western states are expected to lead the increase, with California eventually outstripping New York as the most populous state in the union. According to Census Bureau estimates, the total U. S. population in 1970 will be in the neighborhood of 220 million people. That only 15 million of this total will reside on farms is an important indicator of the changing make-up of our population and economy. The estimated population at present, as recently announced by the bureau, stands at 171,790,000, an increase of over 20 million since the last official census in 1950.

Champion Banks to Take On All Challengers Here Monday

Chess, Checkers Contest Slated

So you think you play a pretty sharp game of chess or checkers? Well then, how about matching wits with a master of the two games—Newell W. Banks.

Banks, 70, is making a return visit to Pontiac Monday to see if his challengers here have improved over last year. He's hoping they haven't, for he was tied by four players in checkers and one in chess.

Game will begin at 7:30 at the Adah Shelly Branch Library, 251 E. Randolph St. The exhibition will be sponsored by the Pontiac Chess and Checkers Club. Admission is free of charge.

Banks is a champion of both games, a title he has held for more than 25 years. To make things rougher for himself, he will also play blindfold checker games.

He holds speed records in both mixed checkers and chess, has set a checkers endurance record of playing four hours per day for 45 consecutive days, winning 1,331, drawing 54, and losing 2, while playing 6 games at a time, blindfold.

Strike in Argentina
Nears Its Finish

BUENOS AIRES (U-P)—A two-day general strike ignored by more than half of Argentina's workers neared an end today without budging the government from its refusal to grant wage increases.

Most large industries were halted by the walkout yesterday of 62 unions, but shops and commercial offices stayed open.

The government guaranteed that workers would not be prevented from going to their jobs. More than half of the three million general Confederation of Labor members refused to join the strike.

Businesses promised a drive to cut the cost of living to help meet workers' complaints.

Two instances of violence were reported in Buenos Aires. One worker was wounded when police opened fire on a group of pickets. Seven persons, including a soldier, were injured when a gasoline bomb was hurled in a bus.

About 20 persons were arrested. Provisional President Pedro Aramburu ordered additional troops to patrol the capital and its suburbs.

Reports from the provinces indicated that the strike was no more successful there than in Buenos Aires.

Tying the champion at checkers last year were Robert E. Dunham, 70, and his son Delos A., 39, both of 272 Cottage St.; Dwight Fisher, 60, of 800 N. Leroy St.; Fenton, and Dewey F. Dean of 28 W. Strathmore Ave.

Dennis Gibson, 18, of 137 Osceola Dr., gained a tie with Banks in a chess game last year.

Scientist Reports
Sex of Babies
Can Be Foreseen

LONDON (U-P)—A British scientist reported that the sex of human babies can be predetermined by passing the father's seed through an electrical field.

Dr. Sherry Lewin, a biochemist at the South West Essex Technical College, said the method separates the seeds into those containing the male or female factors and gives 80 per cent accuracy.

In experiments which he hopes to finish by 1960, Dr. Lewin is working on a chemical method to produce similar results.

First experiments with the electrical field were conducted on rabbit sperm. The same reaction was achieved with human sperm used in artificial insemination. Dr. Lewin said. Factors in the male sperm, not the female ova, determine sex of the offspring.

Eventually, he said, he hopes to produce chemicals which when taken by the parents will bring about the development of a girl or boy, whichever is desired.

Sigrid Undset, Norwegian Nobel Prize winner in 1928, began her career as a clerk in Oslo.

Clever Elephant Begins 2nd Week of Loose Living

CATSKILL, N.Y. (U-P)—A clever, self-reliant girl elephant who never forgot ancestral freedom today began her second week of loose living despite concentrated efforts to lure her from her mountaintop.

Siam, all two tons of her, had set up housekeeping under a ledge near the top of 3,200-foot Mt. Pisgah since running away from winter quarters last Wednesday.

Siam, 13 and at that, adventure-some, adolescent stage, may miss a date next Monday—a performance date. She's a TV and circus actress and also performs with two other elephants in other shows. They're slated to appear in Framingham, Mass., next Monday.

Since galloping horses frightened her and she footloosed it away from her barn at Mitchell Hollow, about 50 men, women and boys have cooperated in the hunt almost daily, including her trainers: Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Vidbel.

Yesterday, having determined where Siam must have made her home, the searchers arranged to try to drive her out of the densely wooded area, as they would a deer. Two spotters were in the air.

One of the pilots spotted the big beast about two miles from the farm. He dropped a note to the searchers on the ground and off they went in pursuit.

Siam outwitted them.

Reports Suspension of Aid to Yugoslavia

NEW YORK (U-P)—The New York Herald Tribune said today the U. S. State Department decided to suspend temporarily all economic and most military aid to Yugoslavia after Belgrade recognized Communist East Germany last week.

The newspaper said highly reliable diplomatic sources in London reported that Secretary of State Dulles approved the suspension last Saturday. On that day West Germany broke diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia in retaliation for Tito's granting recognition to the German Reds.

The paper said State Department policy planners recommended the suspension to forestall more severe action by Congress against President Tito because he followed the Soviet line that the East German government is legitimate. West Germany claims the Bonn government alone is based on free choice of the people and therefore has a right to represent Germans.

He Has a Great Many Monuments

At no point in the Pontiac area are you very far from a substantial building, the plans for which were not drawn under the direction of the late Leo J. Heenan.

Not only most of our public buildings, city, county, school and otherwise, but many erected by private enterprise, that have contributed to our great growth, came off his drawing boards.

He came to Pontiac as a mere child, and for over 40 years he had a prominent part in planning for what we have realized.

He also had a major concern in visualizing projects for the future, which do not end with his passing.

In our development from a country town to a great industrial city, nobody foresaw the ultimate necessities better than he.

Nobody had a stronger hand in preparing for that future. His work prepared the way for a solid foundation.

As the years went by, his ripening experience made his counsel most valuable to both private and public enterprise. His work always kept him within the know.

He pursued it until the end, with a number of important unfinished projects in the planning.

His observation of our community's marvelous growth, largely spark-plugged by his own efforts, incubated a civic mindedness that has been a distinct asset to a number of organizations.

Leo is gone from among us, and our area is dotted with his monuments.

Eisenhower Proposes Pooling of Knowledge

The first hint of a program to revitalize the North Atlantic Treaty Organization came from President EISENHOWER's toast to Queen ELIZABETH II at a Washington dinner.

The President proposed a pool of scientific brain power and creative resources of the 15 nation NATO alliance. "Our scientists must work together," he said, "... NATO is a way of grouping ability—of our manhood, our resources, our industries and our factories."

Under the McMahon Atomic Energy Act and its amendments the United States is prevented from sharing scientific findings with any country. This law was an outgrowth of the KLAUS FUCHS and ALLEN NUNN MAY betrayals of our "secrets" to the Soviets.

However, it should be remembered that it was a joint British-American project which smashed the atom and that the work was done to a large extent by European scientists. As a result of our shutting off scientific information, Allied scientists wasted millions in research projects which had already been completed in this country. Our laws prevented sharing any information and we had no sense of urgency.

Senator GORE of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee who attended the first conference of the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna which opened on October 1, has much to say of Russian scientific advancement. He reports that personal inspection of the Nuclear Physics Department of the University of Moscow revealed a well equipped technological school. Throughout the USSR there are 33 universities and 800 schools training scientists and engineers.

While impressed with the "magnitude and proficiency of the British effort," he says that their research program can't compare with either the USSR or this country. Britain leads the world in construction and operation of commercial and atomic power plants.

The magnificent Russian achievements have been made at the expense of Soviet living standards. They pressed on relentlessly. All money, materials, and skills have gone into scientific research. Engineers and scientists are accorded honors and have positions of prestige and privilege.

In this country we do not need to nor could we follow such a course. But we do need to get together with our Allies and forge ahead with the scientific knowledge we already have. As President EISENHOWER has said in speaking of NATO, "We have the power—the only thing to do is put it together!"

David Lawrence Says:

Nation Taking Recession in Stride

WASHINGTON — In contrast to October 1929, when the first major readjustment in business came suddenly and with severe shocks just 11 years after World War I, so in October 1957, just 12 years after the close of World War II, there is another economic recession going on but of a different kind. The nation is taking this change in its stride in what may be termed a "rolling readjustment."

War always brings on an artificial economy that lasts long after the fighting stops.

But the pressure of natural forces begins and moves inexorably onward. Unhappily, in the year 1950—just five years after the end of World War II—the Korean War broke out and arrested this movement. Far from being just a local conflict, the Far Eastern war did have immediate effects on the American economy, setting off another wave of government spending and inflationary trends.

BACK TO NORMAL. But now—just about four years after the end of the Korean War—the national economy is trying again to get back to normal. The news from the economic front every day shows some changes that are painful at the moment but which, if viewed in the long-range perspective, may be healthy—that is, unless some more artificiality is injected through political action.

Early this year businessmen complained of government spending and the huge federal budgets. Their theory was that tax relief might come if spending by government could be replaced by more private spending. But it was not as simple as it appeared.

For as long as Russia, with its threat to world peace, continues to compel America to spend $33 billion or more a year for armaments, there can be no such thing as a completely natural economy for America or for the rest of the world.

PAINS CONTINUE. The pains of readjustment—the instinctive struggle to get back to the natural laws of supply and demand—continue nevertheless in all parts of the world. England and France are having readjustment troubles of a critical nature.

In America the Stock Market fell the other day to its lowest point in two years—as the traders see ahead the drop in corporate earnings which is inevitable for many companies, especially some of those which are not in the number one or number two position within an industry.

There is, of course, much talk nowadays about "the profit squeeze." It is really here. It has been going on for the last three years but now appears to be approaching a climax. It will not affect the top companies so much as it will hurt the marginal companies. Union labor's leadership, which is as yet blind to what is going on, is planning just the same to keep up its demands for more pay and more fringe benefits—both of which, of course, take big sums out of the profit side.

AFFECT INDUSTRIES. What all this adds up to is that the process of readjustment will strike industry after industry, causing more and more mergers and hence more and more unemployment. It is only when the marginal or high-cost smaller companies in an industry have orders and when overall demand is brisk that there is full employment.

The headlines every day tell the story of the readjustment that's in progress. One, in the Wall Street Journal, says: "Factories' backlogs slip, threatening new cutbacks in production." Another headline tells how scrap-iron prices are falling—always a sign that steel isn't moving forward to full production.

Indeed, steel is operating at only 80 per cent of capacity, and that's a significant sign of the times. Wholesale prices are wavering. Chain stores report their smallest gain since March.

RATE FALLS. The production rate of paper products is falling. Cost-cutting is starting in many industries with some lay-offs, which is always the result of profit squeezes. How far this "rolling readjustment" may go is anybody's guess at the moment; but there's no denying that a major change in the economy is in progress. (Copyright, 1957)

Dr. William Brady Says:

Health Facts for Girls Moving Into Womanhood

"My daughter is 15 and she uses tablets to relieve pain. I have always regarded with disfavor such use of drugs; but then, I never experienced any pain during menstrual periods, so I may be lacking in sympathy. We'll be grateful for any advice. (Mrs. J. L.)"

A woman, like a fine watch, is delicately but sturdily constructed and, with care, should function normally for 30 years.

A girl becomes a woman when menstruation becomes a regular occurrence at intervals of approximately 28 days (a lunar month) and lasts three days, more or less.

There may be some discomfort from cramps in the first two or three periods, but not enough to warrant the use of any such dope as your daughter uses.

Take her to your family physician for examination and advice. Some girls begin menstruating around 13, others at 17. If a girl has not menstruated before her 18th birthday, she should consult a physician, although 18 is a normal age for girls in far northern countries.

If the girl finds it necessary to change napkins or pads more than three times a day, the flow is excessive and she probably needs medical treatment, say for anemia. An external napkin or pad is preferable to any internal or absorbent dressing.

TRY MOSHER EXERCISE. Any girl who suffers from painful menstruation, which doctors call dysmenorrhea, should make the Mosher exercise an essential part of her daily routine.

This is a method devised by the medical adviser to women at Stanford University and used by Dr. Clella Duell Mosher with happy results in the prevention and cure of menstrual troubles in university women.

Instructions are given in the pamphlet, "Hygiene for Girls and Health for Women." Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for it.

It is a great mistake for a mother to request that her teenage daughter be excused from physical education or gymnasium class because the girl has a menstrual difficulty.

It is a mistake, too, for a girl to dodge physical ed. class, gymnasium work or any other regular activity because she happens to be menstruating.

Menstruation is a function—not a weakness or disease.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright, 1957)

Football Fan Asks Support for Our High School Team

I was disappointed at the turnout for Pontiac's homecoming last Friday. Maybe fans don't realize the kind of a team we have this year. It's not the best in the state and maybe we won't win another game, but if you want to see a team give everything it has and maybe a little more, come out and see our team in action.

The last two games we were outweighed tremendously, but certainly not out-gamed, and but for a couple of bad breaks, we could have won both games. Keep it up boys, and I'm sure you'll give any team on the rest of the schedule a tough battle.

Come on, fans. Let's get a big delegation up at Flint for our next game.

Bob Considine Says:

Press Releases About Queen Kept Rolling

NEW YORK (INS) — I made a pig of myself at the handout buffet during the trip with the Queen. It certainly will be hard going back to working for a living. Everything looked so good. By the time I got three quarters of the way down the line I could hardly lift what I had picked up. Dam! the calories, I would say, and pile on some more. A 4-page description of Mrs. John Diefenbaker's gown for the opening of Parliament in Ottawa looked so good I took two of them. There was no place to put them except on top of a very fatening report on the pace the royal carriage's horses would maintain while loping through Constitution Square.

MANY WRITE
Truthfully, never in history have so many written so much about so few actual happenings. It is said in our craft that the man who lives by the handout will perish by it. But while traveling not with but in the same direction as the Queen it soon became apparent that if the handout was scored the writer would soon get a sharp wire from the office. Like, "Your opposition obtained exclusive lengthy description where all U-turns royal vehicles will make in Williamsburg. You missed. How please?"

The matter of the U-turn locations was one of thousands and thousands of publicity releases a great many of the reporters came to depend on as the Queen kept up her withering pace.

There was, of course, never any personal contact with members of her suite. There was no one close to her to call, to check on this or that. But an appalling amount of information was obtained second hand, by means of mimeograph machines that sloshed and chattered 'round the clock.

We were able to inform the world that Philip went duck-shooting one early morn on the Quebec River exactly 30 miles from Ottawa, that he left Elizabeth at 10:45 p.m. (EST, by the by), reached the lodge 45 minutes later, turned in, rose at 3:45, bagged his limit of ducks, mallards and teal by 7:15 and was back at Government House at eight. The ducks "came in well," everyone was relieved to learn.

We were informed, as remotely as if Sputnik were sending the message, exactly what Elizabeth would wear, eat and say at various receptions, as well as the history of the jewels she would wear. To some readers, it may have seemed like a bit of reportorial brilliance for us to have reported that Elizabeth's "fringe-lara," worn on one occasion, was given originally to Queen Alexandra (Edward VII's frau) in 1888 by the Czar of Russia on the occasion of her 25th wedding anniversary. Actually, the information was handed to us on a piece of paper.

Had a nightmare after Elizabeth and Philip flew off for home. I dreamed that funkies in London, Ottawa, Hull, Williamsburg, Jamestown, Washington, Staten Island and Manhattan forgot to turn off the mimeograph machines — and the whole world was smothered under a thick blanket of handouts.

"Hey, what's with this Staten Island?" an outlander traveling with the Queen asked a soldier upon arriving at the scene.

"What do you mean 'What's with it'?"

"Why's it here?" the guy asked. "What's it for?"

The soldier scratched. Then he said:

"It's the place where the band stops playing when they ship you overseas."

I thought there would be more evidence, while the Queen was in the states, of the deep feeling that a majority of Irish-Americans have about the partition of Ireland. But the only notations I saw made of the matter were a sign held out a window at Catholic University, as she passed by on the way to her football game, an old lady with a small sign in the crowd along lower Broadway, and a "Free Ireland" chalked in yellow on a girder high in the skeleton of a new building going up along the same street.

Whenever Winston Churchill came here he was always enthusiastically picketed, pamphletted and placarded.

The only picketing anywhere near the Queen was in Washington last Sunday, and it had nothing to do with her. The NAACP was picketing Griffith Stadium, home of George Preston Marshall's Washington Redskins — a segregated team. One sign read:

"Marshall Bars Brownskins From His Redskins."

Thailand Seeks Loan to Build Huge Dam

BANGKOK, Thailand — For its biggest-ever development project, Thailand expects to get a $66,000,000 loan from the World Bank, Bangkok reports.

To be built by the Bhumiphol Electricity Authority, the project will be the first step toward an electric power system to meet most of the country's power needs and make possible flood control and irrigation.

Thailand has suffered from an acute power shortage which is handicapping its growth. First stage of the Bhumiphol project includes construction, 260 miles northwest of Bangkok, of a 500-foot-high arch dam across the Ping River.

This and other features will be completed in 1963 and future developments will include additional generating installations. Total cost of the project may be around $100,000,000.

$700 Awaits Right Solution for Pot-O-Gold

No sense putting it off any longer. You'd better get started right now on this new puzzle which will bring the winner $700. The longer you wait, the more likely someone else is to beat you to the money. See what you can do with the clues below.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the puzzle square marked A.

OFFICIAL CONTEST RULES

- Anyone is eligible to enter the POT-O-GOLD contest with the exception of Pontiac Press employees or their immediate families.
- Entries must be on official entry blanks printed in this newspaper.
- To submit an entry the contestant must print his numbers in the proper spaces, cut out the area enclosed by dotted lines and attach it securely to a 2-cent postcard. No entries will be accepted if they are in envelopes. Entries for Puzzle No. 73 must bear a Tuesday, Oct. 29 postmark (or before). No entries received after that time whether mailed or delivered by hand, will be declared eligible. The Press is not responsible for entries lost or delayed in the mail.
- Sorry, telephone calls or mail concerning details of the contest cannot be answered or acknowledged.
- The Pontiac Press will award a cash prize of $100 a week to the winner of each weekly POT-O-GOLD contest. If more than one winning answer is received the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If any week or weeks should pass without any winners, the prize will be added weekly until a winning solution is submitted.
- Winners will be awarded an extra cash bonus of $25 each if they are Pontiac Press subscribers of record on the day winners are announced. Only one such bonus can be awarded to each prize-winner no matter how many weekly prizes may accumulate.
- Each week's puzzle will be published Monday, Wednesday and Friday until the contest's end. Either or all will be considered as official entry blanks.
- Winners and correct solutions will be announced each Friday of the week following individual contests. Official keepers of answers will be Frederick G. Ziem, publisher for Oakland County. Only the General Features Corp., originators of the puzzle, will know the solutions until after each contest is over. Answers will be delivered to the Press judges by Mr. Ziem after the final deadline.
- There is only one correct solution to the POT-O-GOLD puzzle, and only that correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries becoming the property of The Pontiac Press and none can be returned.
- Completed puzzles must be addressed to POT-O-GOLD, POST OFFICE BOX 58, Pontiac, Michigan. Winners will be notified either by telephone or in the mail.

Junior Editors' ANIMAL QUIZ

QUESTION: Why do Australian animals differ from others?

ANSWER: Australia has many animals that are found on no other continent in the world, except in zoos. Among them are the platypus (1), wombat (2), kangaroo (3) and koala bear (4).

This is because Australia is an isolated continent, with no large body of land within 1,800 miles of it. Its animals could develop along their own lines, without competition from fierce animals on the great continents.

Isolation also resulted in the development of Australian plants different from those in other parts of the world. And some Australian native tribes have characteristics found in no other humans.

FOR YOU TO DO: Read about the American opossum and learn just how it resembles most Australian animals.

(Beverly Showalter of Fairborn, Ohio, won $10 for this question. If you have a good one, send it to Violet Moore Higgins, AP Newsfeatures, in care of this newspaper.)

American Tourist Pays Debt of 1628

LONDON — Fees for the christening and funeral of a child in 1628 recently were paid to a vicar in London.

In the reign of Charles I, the vicar of St. Mary's Parish Church, Willesden, entered in the parish register the christening and burial of William Roberts "sonne" of Sir William Roberts in between the two entries he added: "Sir William payd nothing for this child's christening or burial."

Not long ago an American descendant of Sir William Roberts visited the church and was shown the register by the present vicar, the Rev. George Onkley. On seeing the entries concerning William Roberts he immediately handed over two pounds ($5.60).

Files Suit Against Firm for Blocking Meters

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Think you pay plenty for a parking space?

Assistant Dist. Atty. Gordon Whitman filed suit for $2,925 against Rambo Construction Co. and the Continental National Bank.

Whitman claims the money is owed for city parking meter spaces that were blocked by street barricades when several stores were constructed atop the bank.

Got Off on Wrong Wave

CLEVELAND (AP) — The maiden voyage of the cruise ship Aquarama on the Cleveland-Detroit run was anything but auspicious. Ship-to-shore telephones weren't working, somebody forgot to stock the ship with cigarettes, foghorns were too loud—and an apprentice bartender put sweet vermouth in the martinis.

Social Minister Gudmund Hariem has informed Parliament that Norway hopes to get Salk polio vaccine from Canada early next winter.

Hakata Dolls Show Typical Japanese

TOKYO — As sales of Hakata dolls zoom in the United States and Hawaii, Japanese factories are planning for increased production next year, Tokyo reports.

These dolls, ranging in size from 2 to 20 inches, are made of clay, sun dried, kiln fired and hand-painted. Some fifty firms make them. They are highly realistic in shape and color.

Most native Japanese types are depicted, including farmers, judo practitioners, sumo wrestlers, geisha girls and fishermen. The craftsmanship is so good, observers say, that they could well be considered as objets d'art in America. In all, some 2,500 different dolls are available.

Pontiac City Affairs

Commissioners Pay Tribute to Civic Work of Leo J. Heenan

Two routine agreements between the city and the Pontiac Housing Commission were passed by the City Commission during action on a 16-point weekly agenda last night.

The first will permit the increase from 2.50 cents to 3.25 cents as the maximum interest to be charged on temporary short-term bank notes held by the commission.

In the second, the city agreed to pay the principal and interest on these notes.

"All these agreements do," said Roy B. MacAfee, executive director of the public housing project, "is to make more definite these points which have been in the contract."

Mayor William W. Donaldson pointed out to a handful of citizens in the audience that the low-rent housing project is self-liquidating and does not involve city funds.

TRIBUTE TO HEENAN

During other commission business, commissioners adopted a memorial resolution praising the civic work of architect Leo J. Heenan who died Sunday.

A $1,000-plus assessment for curb, gutter and related work to have been charged to John W. Elcher, 625 Homestead Dr., was cut in half with the approval of the commission.

The action resulted when Commissioner John E. Carry and city officials agreed that Elcher's odd-shaped lot did not fit into the city's assessment formula for this work.

The half chopped off Elcher's assessment will be added to the city's share of the project.

On this and four other curb and gutter projects, commissioners established payment schedules for the work.

Public hearings will be conducted next Tuesday on assessment rolls covering a sanitary sewer for Branch street from Wessen to the north end of the street, and for curb and gutter for Burt street from Le Grande to Hillside.

At a public hearing last evening, no citizens were heard on an assessment roll for sanitary sewer projects for Stanley, Livingston, and Blaine avenues.

Offered for first reading only last night were two amendments to Pontiac's traffic ordinance 926 which will make it possible to arrest reckless and drunk drivers committing their unlawful acts on "any area designated for the parking of motor vehicles within the City of Pontiac."

City Attorney William A. Ewart told the commission the proposal would bring the ordinance in line with the state law. Second reading and possible adoption is expected next week.

Commissioner John A. Dugan (District 5) offered as a public necessity under the 1958 capital improvement program sanitary sewers for Arlene, Second, Third, Fourth and Columbia from Arlene to Fuller.

Residents of the streets had submitted a request petition for the work. It was 29.75 per cent signed according to assessor records.

Mrs. L. L. Marion thanked the commission in a letter for its memorial resolution upon the death of her husband, Dr. Leland Marion.

British WRAC Stuck With Stack of Woollies

LONDON (U)—The British War Office admits it has enough long woolen drawers to last the Women's Royal Army Corps for the next 800 years.

The matter was raised during a hearing by a parliamentary committee which published its report yesterday.

In response to questions, Sir Edward Playfair, permanent undersecretary of state for the War Office, conceded there was "an enormous surplus" of "women's pants, woolen, long." The girls just won't wear them, even in dead of winter.

Victor Collins, a Laborite member of Parliament, suggested the elastic, if any, in such drawers would be bound to deteriorate long before the War Office could get them issued out. "Do these drawers have elastic?" he asked. "I think they are without elastic," Sir Edward replied. "I have not probed far enough into them to say."

Saigon Police Guard Against Bombings

SAIGON (U)—Strongly reinforced police took a firm grip on Saigon today, guarding Americans and delegates to a 21-nation Asian aid conference against further terrorist bombings. Time bombs yesterday injured 13 U.S. servicemen and five Asians and blew a hole in the U.S. Information Agency library.

The police force—ordinarily about 8,000 men—was increased to 14,000. All major intersections and residential areas were under special guard.

Armed escorts accompanied each ranking delegate to the Colombo Plan conference, which has drawn more than 200 foreign representatives to Saigon.

President Ngo Dinh Diem's anti-Communist South Viet Nam government reacted swiftly to the bombings, which diplomatic sources said apparently were intended to embarrass him. Suspects were rounded up as Diem expressed regrets for the violence.

Washington officials attributed the explosions to Communist agents.

The bomb blasted an American military bus and hotel as well as the library. Eight of the 13 injured U. S. servicemen were flown to Clark Field hospital in Manila. A U.S. Air Force spokesman there said none were hurt critically and all should be able to return to duty without permanent injuries.

Red Cross Host to Grey Ladies

Chairmen of 16 Counties Meet for Round Table Discussion Today

The Grey Lady chairmen of American Red Cross Chapters throughout 16 counties are meeting here today at the Oakland County Red Cross Chapter headquarters for a tri-annual meeting.

Mrs. John Lazell, volunteer field consultant from Lansing will conduct a round table discussion on the recruitment of grey ladies. Mrs. Mildred Bennett, executive secretary of the county chapter, and Mrs. W. O. Mitchell, of Royal Oak, chairmen of the Oakland County volunteers, will conduct a discussion on leadership and "Knowing Your Job Better."

A total of 59 Grey Lady chairmen attended the meeting from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. today, according to Mrs. William C. Spruill, chairman of the Oakland County Grey Ladies.

Adolph Klein, chairman of the Pontiac chapter, will speak at the luncheon.

2 Waterford PTAs to Meet Thursday

Two PTA groups will meet in Waterford Township Thursday night.

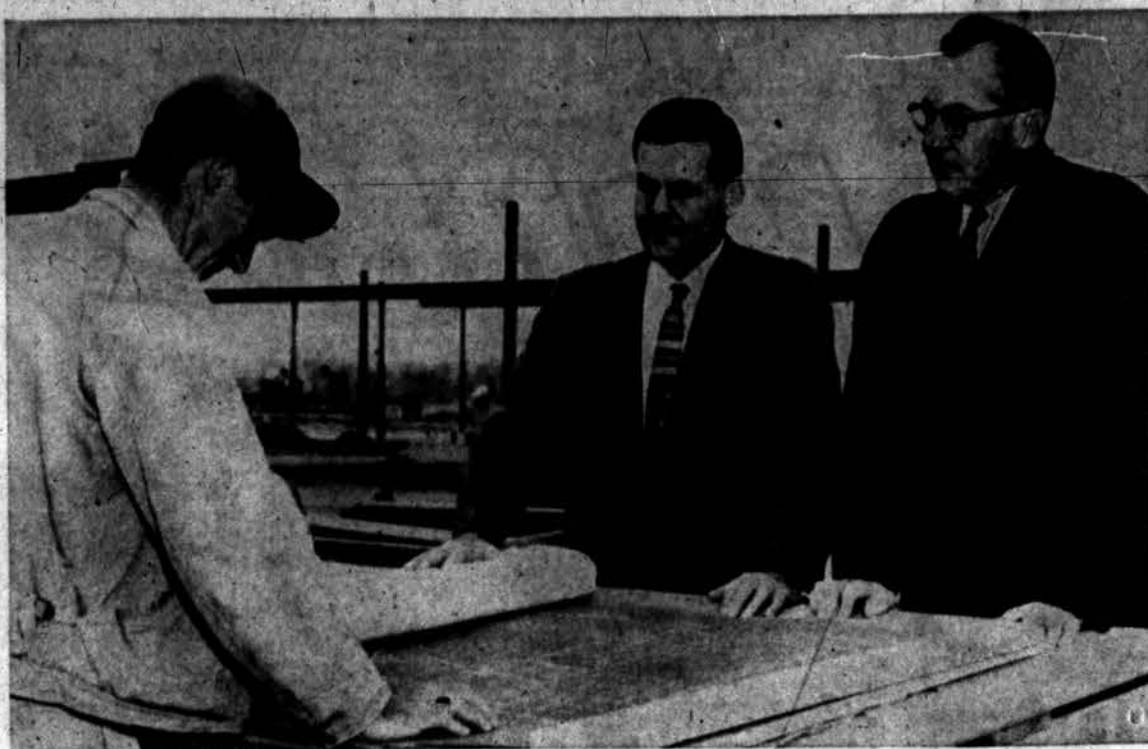

A discussion regarding safety problems in the township will be conducted by William Brown, and Monroe Osman will give a talk on "Physical Education in Elementary Schools." When the Donelson School PTA meets at 8 o'clock.

An open house for all elementary grades has been scheduled from 7:30 to 8:30 before the Waterford Village PTA opens its meeting.

"Guidance and Testing Program" is the topic that Bernard Heany, assistant principal of Isaac Cray Junior High School, has chosen.

Anderson Tours Asia

BANGKOK, Thailand (U)—American contralto Marian Anderson last night performed a royal command concert before King Phumiphon, Premier Pote Sarasin and the diplomatic corps. She is touring Asia under the sponsorship of the American National Theater and Academy and the U. S. State Department.

CHECK PROGRESS — Jim Loviska, carpenter foreman, looks over the plans of Pontiac's new high school with Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, (center) superintendent of schools and Glenn H. Griffin, president of the board of education. The school, now under construction (in background) on Arlene street between Madison and Perry streets, is expected to be ready by September 1958. Cost of the building is more than $3 million. It will have an initial capacity of 800 students.

Humphrey Says Dulles Should Be Removed

DETROIT (U)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) yesterday said Secretary of State Dulles should be removed from office.

Humphrey, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also attacked President Eisenhower for "lack of leadership."

Speaking at Temple Israel, Humphrey criticized what he said was the absence "of any ascertainable policy" in the Middle East.

"Dulles," Humphrey said, "has spent himself. If he won't resign, the President should fire him."

Wealthier Counties Dominate Colleges

LANSING (U)—Young people in some of Michigan's more prosperous and populous counties have a five times greater chance of going to college than college-age youths in some of the smaller and poorer counties.

This was termed the most significant general conclusion found in a survey of the geographic origins of Michigan college students.

The survey, conducted by a staff headed by John D. Russell, was prepared for the Legislative Study Committee on Higher Education. It was based on a census of students attending Michigan institutions of higher education in the 1953-54 academic year.

"The proximity of a county to an institution of higher education has much to do with the number living in the county who go to college in proportion to the college-age population," the survey found.

As an illustration it was found that Ingham County, with Michigan State University, had 42.5 per cent of the college-age population in some kind of institution of higher learning.

Only the University of Michigan and Michigan State University draw students from every county in the state, the census found. The smaller colleges and community colleges tend to draw mostly from their own areas.

Highway Film in 1st Showing

Telecast Opens Series to Promote Cooperation—Public Understanding

LANSING (U)—The State Highway Department is taking to television to promote better understanding of its problems and to win increased cooperation from the public in their solution.

Televiewers within reach of stations at Lansing and Traverse City already have witnessed a 15-minute public service film representing the initial effort in this direction. It was telecast Monday night.

The film, produced at a cost of $1,000 and narrated by Otis S. Hardy, department public relations director, largely was devoted to the new Fenton-Clio expressway, bypassing Flint to the west.

Construction procedures, aerial views of the route and explanatory comments on engineering, safety, right of way acquisition, cost and traffic volume all were presented. The Highway Department is just launching a one and one-quarter billion dollar construction program that will take several years.

"Our policy is to do an educational job on the Michigan highway system and not John C. Mackie as State Highway Commissioner," said Hardy.

Mackie's name did not appear in the script, and was visible to viewers only in the last line of road construction signpost flashed on screen at the very start.

Mineral Output Rises

CAPE TOWN — South Africa's production of all minerals, including atomic minerals, totaled $25,000,000 pounds sterling ($910,000,000) during 1956 about 35,000,000 pounds sterling more than in 1955.

Kiwanis Club Birthday Party Set for Tonight

The Kiwanis Club of West Pontiac will hold its sixth annual birthday party tonight at the Elks Temple, 114 Orchard Lake Ave. The assembled members will honor past officers and board members and officially announce the newly elected officers and board members for 1958. They were elected Oct. 10.

The new officers are: Dr. Lynn Allen Jr. of 934 Argyle St., president; Bill Brandt of 275 Josephine St., Robert Alton of 473 Iroquois Rd. and John Stefanski of Waterford Township, all vice presidents; and Dan Murphy of 344 Iroquois Rd., treasurer.

The newly elected board members are Cramer Partridge, James Corbett, Harley Levely and John Markley.

Guest speaker will be Mary Ann Bancroft of the Forney Clement children's clinic at Ann Arbor's University Hospital.

Honored guests who will speak briefly are H. Park Arnold, International Kiwanis president; Earl Conder of Detroit, Michigan District governor, and Elmer Hartwig of Royal Oak, lieutenant governor of the Fifth Kiwanis Division.

Oak That Owns Itself Identified in Georgia

WASHINGTON—"The Oak That Owns Itself" stands, identified by a marble marker, near Athens, Georgia. Its human owner bequeathed the white oak to itself in his will; the deed is recorded in the town clerk's office, the October National Geographic Magazine reports.

Louisiana's live oaks, though not thus emancipated, have a society of their own. To become a member, each tree must be at least 100 years old. Dues are 25 acorns a year, to be planted where new trees are needed most. President of the Society of Live Oaks is the Locke Breaux Oak near Hahnville.

Carry Attacks 1-Way Streets

Pontiac Commissioner Also Hits Extension of Parking Meter Hours

Commissioner John E. Carry took another poke at Pontiac's one-way street system last night.

"This program has hurt Pontiac businesses," Carry charged. "When people get confused in this system they shun Pontiac stores."

In his latest attack on the system, Carry also criticized the additional three hours motorists must "feed" on-street parking meters to 9 p.m. He called for a re-evaluation of both programs.

City Manager Walter K. Willman, defending both, promised that the city's traffic committee would again look into the extension of parking meter times.

The commission, with Carry voicing no objections at the time, pushed the meter time from 6 p.m. until 9 in September of 1956. Willman explained the reason for the extension was to provide more turnover of vehicles and bring more money into city funds.

"It's not perfect, I admit, but I think some improvement has been made," Willman said last night in reference to the one-way streets.

Two Holly Teenagers Injured in Collision

Two Holly teenagers were treated for minor injuries at Pontiac General Hospital last night and released after their car collided head-on with a truck on M57 just east of Holly, according to Oakland County Sheriff's reports.

The injured were Kenneth E. Leece, 17, of 209 Grant St., the driver, and his companion, Robert Letson, 17, of 202 College St. The driver of the truck, Martin R. VanWyck, 26, of Averill, Mich., was uninjured. The vehicles met on a hill crest, said deputies.

Artist Demand Greatest Ever

So Says One of Most Successful in America; Only Lazy Unemployed

LOS ANGELES (INS) — The egocentric artist in the garret is a person that no longer exists, in the opinion of Millard Sheets, director of the Los Angeles County Art Institute and one of the most successful artists in America.

Sheets says that the lazy artist is the only artist who is currently unemployed.

"The current demand for artists," he adds, "is the greatest in the world's history. There is absolutely no reason for an artist with good training and ability to starve."

He pointed out that the artist, "public opinion to the contrary," must have disciplined training like a lawyer or doctor and must be willing to work.

Sheets, whose work has won national recognition, is one who believes in sharing his success.

The watercolor artist spends most of his time in preparing young artists for professional careers.

In his capacity as director of the Institute, Sheets has designed a curriculum that "educates the designer not only technically and esthetically, but also as a whole human being to work with people, not be aloof from them."

"We even try," Sheets emphasizes, "to help them learn about everyday business practices so they can compete successfully in today's business world."

Sheets, who attributes much of his own success to "everyday business horse sense," lists many fields, including teaching, where jobs for artists are going unfilled.

Among these are interior and exterior designing, architecture, product designing, such as ceramic tile, and many other fields, almost all of which Sheets himself has tackled.

Sheets disputes the charge that such fields are "commercialized art."

Cook Islanders Take Full Load on Bicycle

RAROTONGA, Cook Islands — Polynesians' light-hearted approach to life is proving a wonder to tourists, who now are becoming more frequent in the Cook Islands, Rarotonga reports.

Islanders, for instance, use bikes and motorcycles in the most care-free fashion. Until recently as many as four people would ride one motorcycle, or a man would carry his wife on the pillion and the baby on the gas tank.

A new law says that only two people can ride, but doesn't mention cargo. So a pillion rider may carry a 100-pound sack of vegetables on his back.

"The barefooted ladies are also intrepid motorcyclists," says one observer, "and I saw one lass struggling out of her jacket as she rode 'hands off' along the road."

Integration Key Issue in Virginia

Court Ban of Little Effect in Race for Governorship

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court's refusal to review part of Virginia's program for public schools appears at first glance to have had little effect on the state's heated campaign for governor that winds up two weeks from today.

State Sen. Ted Dalton, the Republican candidate for governor in the Nov. 5 election, was the first to react to the decision affecting the key issue in the gubernatorial race. He called on Gov. Thomas B. Stanley for a special session of the General Assembly.

Dalton also asked his Democratic opponent, J. Lindsay Almond Jr.—who led the court fight to preserve Virginia's segregation laws until he resigned last month as attorney general to campaign—to join him in urging a legislative special session to meet "this... emergency situation."

What the Supreme Court knocked out, by refusing to review lower court decisions ruling it unconstitutional, was Virginia's pupil placement act.

The act gave a three-member state placement board the power to assign pupils to all public schools in Virginia on any basis except race. All students entering school or transferring to another school were required to register with the board. All others were frozen in the schools they attend.

Not affected by the decision were two other sections of the anti-integration program, one of which automatically closes any

Hal Boyle Says:

Big Medical Problem -- Decay of Funny Bone

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (U.S. J. Perelman, regarded by many as the wisest man alive, believes America's greatest medical problem isn't hardening of the arteries—it's decay of the funny bone.

"Humor writing today?" he said. "I just don't see much of it around."

"The immensity of life is a deterrent. Everything today has assumed such a terrific shape and size it dwarfs the individual and his point of view."

"The movies and television also have siphoned off a lot of possible humorists who became anonymous gag writers. They might have had a viewpoint or an identity, but instead they became part of a six-man team. They are paid well, but their work has no permanence."

A raffish Socrates who looks and talks a bit like Groucho Marx—as a matter of fact, he wrote two early Marx brothers movies—Perelman broke into the chuckle industry during the turbulent 1920s, the era of such men as John Held Jr. and Robert Benchley. "We all starved together," he said. "But there was a tremendous amount of gusto in living in those days."

"But, like everybody else, I went on the auction block."

Since leaving Brown University,

Perelman has turned out some 15 books and plays, more than 200 humorous sketches for the New Yorker magazine, and innumerable movies.

A man who looks with skepticism on everything in life except the messages he finds in Chinese cookbooks ("these I accept literally"), Perelman said every young writer begins his career as a thief.

"He has to be," he said, "that is, in the sense he has to read and digest the work of good men who have gone before. Then he has to demonstrate his skill by turning out varnished pieces done so well they show no trace of the sources they sprang from.

"I must say I myself have stolen only from good men."

Perelman now lives in a 117-year-old stone house on an 83-acre farm in Bucks County, Pa., complete with a mortgage, high weeds "and a slough of despond." What does he believe is the funniest thing in the world?

"The spectacle of a middle-aged man trying to earn his living."

And the saddest?

"The same thing," he said. "But I wouldn't want to be thought cynical. I suppose you might say I was an idealist, but just say it—and you'll get a blow on the mouth."

Like all writers, Perelman suffers from insomnia, and he cures sleeplessness by murmuring over and over his favorite sentence in contemporary literature:

"There were rainbow roses on Mosely Mason's dresser this morning."

It's the opening line from an unpublished novel—although why it's unpublished beats me," said Perelman. "It's better than Mil-

U.N. Aids Primitive African Oil Makers

TRIPOLI — Through the aid of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, a group of troglodytes—cave dwellers—are making good edible oil for the first time, Tripoli reports.

They live in caves and holes in northern Libya which they dig in mountainsides. They keep goats and camels and gather olives, which they crush in a simple press like that brought by the Romans to North Africa.

Traditionally, this press is set up in a cave and worked by a camel which remains underground for six months of the year. But oil thus made is dirty and soon goes rancid, so a U.N. expert has taught them to use a modern press above ground.

Now they are making salable oil which will help relieve their desperate poverty. It is hoped that they may learn to run it as a co-operative undertaking.

Soviets Nearing Brink of War in Middle East

Editor's Note: William L. Ryan, writer of the following story, is just back from one of the frequent trips he makes to the Middle East.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
For Western civilization, this is a moment for prayerful resolve.

The democratic world faces a toe-to-toe struggle with communism over a vast sun-baked section of the globe which President Eisenhower calls the most strategic area on earth. The winner will be the side with the strongest nerves and greatest resoluteness. Nikita S. Khrushchev and his Communist cohorts are toying with global peace. One serious mistake, one bad miscalculation in the Middle East now could bring the world to the edge of disaster. This would be no Korea. Much more is at stake, including the economic health of all Western Europe.

All the elements for a little war are in evidence today in the Arab world. A big war remains a possibility—though not a probability. But Soviet communism persists in courting catastrophe.

Men who can harness the atom and plan outer space travel are gambling that they can control much less manageable forces: the human emotions of a highly unstable people.

There is no mystery about what

Moscow is trying to accomplish in the Arab world.

The Russians do not want to start World War III. But they have gained great propaganda victories through their championing of the Arabs against Israel and through recent scientific advances. In their determination not to surrender this initiative, Soviet policy is using all measures short of war, approaching as close to the brink as Moscow dares.

It is becoming clear that one of Khrushchev's immediate goals is to force a big power meeting of heads of state giving him a permanent and authoritative voice in the Arab world's destinies.

The Russians hope to force such a meeting by beating a constant tattoo on the world's nerves and then building up pressure on London and Washington by offering hope of a way out of a highly explosive situation.

From a big power meeting, the Russians could work to emerge as the leading champions of Arab aspirations. Behind scenes they apparently hope to push forward relentlessly with economic, military and political penetration. They seek destruction of Western Allied influence in the Middle East, so that the northern tier of resistance to communism is broken and there is no hope left for an effective solid front.

Moscow already has a strong foothold in Syria, through military dependence. An economic trap, too, is being set for the Syrians.

The Russians probably are working hard even at this moment to bring about a situation in Syria's neighbor Iraq which will result in an anti-Western explosion there. Frustrated Arab nationalism, in a nation aligned militarily with the West, provides a convenient weapon.

If the explosion in Iraq comes, Soviet solicitude for "independence and sovereignty" could offer a new Iraqi regime a shoulder to weep upon, as it did in Syria. That day would be a black one for the West. Fragile, faltering Jordan would be easy prey to the Cairo-Damascus-Moscow axis. A sudden deluge of American arms has temporarily shored up King Hussein's throne, but it has given the Middle East the look of engaging in an arms race, with the Russians supplying Syria and Egypt. If Hussein should fall, the arms will fall to his—and America's—enemies.

If the Soviet program goes according to plan, Turkey would be effectively encircled. The northern tier will have come apart. With Syria astride the oil pipelines to the Mediterranean, Iraq on the Persian Gulf and Egypt sitting on the Suez Canal, Western Europe's oil would be at the mercy of Arab nationalist demands.

Will the Russians risk total war to pursue such aims?

One must go back a decade to examine the chances. Iran, 1946: Moscow refused to get out of Azerbaijan. But when the situation became really dangerous, the Russians retreated. They would not risk war.

Berlin, 1949: When the Soviet blockade became too dangerous, Moscow called it off.

Korea, 1953: The Soviet gamble fell short of its goals. An unsure post-Stalin regime saw the threat of a new war. The Russians pulled back, pressed for an armistice.

Indochina, 1954: French and Viet Nam forces were defeated in the North. Communists pushed forward and brought about an armistice, then fell back to digest their gains.

Middle East, March 1956: Those in the area at the moment of feverish crisis felt the peace of the world was hanging in the balance. Suddenly a Moscow statement pulled the rug from under Egypt's Nasser and other Arabs who might have anticipated total Soviet support.

Suez, November, 1956: The Russians talked of intervention, threatened war. But in the U.N. they labored to bring about a cease-fire.

The Russians need sustained Arab world tension if they are to push toward their goals. The Soviet policy aims at controlled turmoil. Indications are they will continue leading the world to the brink and suddenly pulling back to consolidate gains.

The big question: Will the Russians be able indefinitely to pull back in the nick of time?

Next — John M. Hightower tells of U. S. failures — and hopes — in the Middle East.

Doctors Would Ban Sugar-Coated Pills

DURBAN, S. Africa — A committee of South African doctors will ask the Government health authorities to ban sugar-coated pills, Durban reports.

Many babies have died from eating sugar-coated pills which they thought were candy, they claim. Many more have been rushed to hospitals, seriously ill.

"The number of children being brought into hospitals from eating 'poisonous sweets' is alarming," a Durban physician said.

"Of course the parents are to blame, but as so many parents are negligent the best thing is to ban these colored poison pills altogether. Parents who go out to work and have to leave their children with native servants account for some of the trouble."

Shark Enemy No. 1 Retires in Africa

CAPE TOWN, S. Africa — An adventurous man who once found himself trapped with a dead man in a bed of seaweed has just retired at Cape Town, South Africa.

He is Coert A. Smorenburg, aged 60, and credited with being Shark Enemy No. 1 — a lifesaver at Clinton's Beach for 32 years.

Back in 1936, Smorenburg tried to save a man seen 16 feet under water. He dived down to the man and then found himself entangled in a bed of seaweed. It became a life and death struggle with Smorenburg desperately trying to free himself and keep a hold on the drowning man.

U.N. to Debate Mideast Crisis

Assembly Won't Wait for Finish of Mediation Efforts by King Saud

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (U)—The U.N. Assembly prepared to open debate today on the Turkish-Syrian crisis without waiting for the outcome of Saudi Arabian mediation efforts.

Turkey, who has denied Syrian charges that she is about to launch a war, accepted King Saud's offer to mediate the dispute. But the Syrian government made clear it does not intend to enter such negotiations at present.

Acting Foreign Minister Khalil Kallias said in a statement in Damascus that Syria "cannot accept any mediation and reaffirms her determination to follow up her protest at the United Nations until the end."

Informants said Syria pressed for an immediate U.N. debate on her charges. Russia, who has backed the Syrian charge with claims the United States is trying to engineer a Middle East War, was said to have added her voice to the demand.

Observers concluded that the Syrians and Russians wanted to get all the propaganda capital they can from their charges before getting down to bargaining.

This belief was strengthened by an announcement from Syrian Delegate Farid Zeineddine that his forces were not submitting a resolution to the Assembly "as things now stand." Zeineddine said talk of concrete proposals to deal with the Middle East crisis was premature.

Considerable confusion surrounded the progress of Saud's mediation moves.

The Saudi Arabian Embassy in Washington announced that both Turkey and Syria had accepted the mediation offer and that a Syrian delegation would meet the King within the next two days.

Canada Plans to Up Old Age Pensions

plans to boost old age pensions to $55 a month from the $45 to which it was increased from $40 last July 1.

This pension is payable to all residents 70 years old and with more than 10 years residence. Citizenship is not required.

The Diefenbaker government has given notice of the amending resolution to increase the amount and to cut the residence requirement from 20 years to 10. Pensioners also may spend six months a year outside Canada without impairment of pension rights.

Pensioners for all adult blind and totally disabled also are to be raised.

Port of Muskegon Ranks 2nd in State

MUSKEGON (U)—The port of Muskegon was ranked as Michigan's second busiest in 1956, according to figures released Monday by the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

It was topped only by Detroit. The 1956 gross tonnage was 4,314,367, an increase of 521,258 over 1955 — itself an all time record year for Muskegon.

The port handled a total of 15,048 tons of overseas shipments, excluding Canadian shipping, last year. Overseas commerce already is past the 23,000-ton mark this year.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Picking, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W Vermicide does... and here's how they do it!

First—a scientific coating... the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved, instant-acting pills to work—killing Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermicide... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 140 years.

The Proxy Murder

By ERLE STANLEY GARDNER

Copyright 1957

THE STORY SO FAR: Jerry Conway is alarmed by an advertising campaign. Offense Farrell, a discharged employee, is conducting a campaign to obtain proxies and elect Conway at the stockholders' meeting of the California & Texas Oil Co. In a mysterious telephone call, a woman calls herself Rosalind. Conway suspects a trap. Conway agrees to follow her. Conway, who has been fired recently, Conway suspects a frame-up and calls Perry Mason, attorney. Mason looks over the gun and asks for the key to the hotel room. Detective Paul Drake convinces the hotel clerk he is Gerald Howell, and with Mason, finds a woman murdered in the suite. They notify police. Hilda Conway, at a motel overnight. Mason promises to produce his client at the District Attorney's office in the morning, and gets busy.

"What do I tell the D.A.?" Conway asked.

"I'll be with you," Mason said. "I'll pick you up at eight o'clock. We'll talk on the way in."

"Here?"

"Here," Mason said.

"How about going back to my apartment?"

Mason shook his head.

"Why not?" Conway asked.

have a chance to find out what it's all about and advise you what to do."

"Well, you can't do anything between now and nine o'clock tomorrow morning," Conway said.

"The hell I can't!" Mason told him. "I'm going to have a busy night. You go to an all-night drugstore, get what you want, then come back here and stay here."

"YOU KEEP THE GUN"

"Do I keep the gun?"

"You keep it!" Mason said.

"And be damned sure that nothing happens to it!"

"Why?—Oh, yes, I see your point. If I should try to get rid of it, that would be playing right into their hands."

"Right into their hands is right," Mason said. "It would amount to an acknowledgement of guilt. I want you to tell your story, tell it in your way up to the time you left the hotel, got in your car and drove away."

"I stop there?"

"You stop there," Mason said.

"Don't tell them where you spent the night or anything about it. It's none of their damn business."

"You keep the gun," Mason said, "and be sure that nothing happens to it."

"They won't be able to get a line on me this early. I want to get some things to brush, pajamas, razor and a clean shirt."

Mason said, "Go to an all-night drugstore. Buy shaving things and toothbrush. You'll have to get along without the clean shirt."

"Surely you don't think they'd spot me if I went to my apartment?"

"Why not?" Mason asked.

"Someone set a trap for you. We don't know when that someone intends to spring the trap. Perhaps he'd like to have you sit tight for four or five days before giving a tip-off to the police and having you picked up. By that time your silence would have made it seem all the worse. On the other hand, perhaps he knows that I'm in the picture and has decided to tip-off the police so they can pick you up before I'll PASTETH, a pleasant alkaline (non-acid) powder, holds false teeth more firmly. To eat and talk in more comfort, just sprinkle a little PASTETH on your plates. No gummy, powery, pasty taste or feeling. Checks plate odor (denture breath). Get PASTETH at any drug counter.

"You know what this means?"

Conway said. "Unless I can convince the police, it's going to put me behind the eight ball. If the police should detain me or accuse me of having fired the fatal shot, you can realize what would happen at that stockholders' meeting."

"Sure!" Mason said. "Why do you suppose they set a trap for you in the first place?"

"Somehow," Conway said, "I can't believe that it was a trap."

"You can't believe it was a trap!" Mason exclaimed. "Hells bells! The thing sticks out like a sore thumb. Here was this girl in her underwear pulling a gun on you, her hand shaking, and she walked toward you, kept walking toward you!"

"Well, what's wrong with that?"

"Everything!" Mason said. "A girl attired in her scanties getting a gun out of the desk would have been backing away from you and telling you to get out of the room. She didn't tell you to get out of the room. She told you to put your hands up and she kept walking toward you with the gun cocked and her hand shaking. You just had to take it away from her. She did everything but shove it in your hand."

"You think it will turn out to be the murder weapon?"

"I know damn well it will be the murder weapon!" Mason said.

"And you'll probably find that the young woman who was murdered was someone who had this list of stockholders who had sent in their proxies."

Conway thought that over for a moment. "Yes, that part of it was a trap all right. It had to be a trap. Yet somehow, Mason, I have the distinct feeling that there was an element of sincerity about that woman who called herself Rosalind. I think if we can ever get to the bottom of it we'll find that... I wonder if that young woman who was killed was Rosalind."

CHANCES 10 TO 1

"Chances are about 10 to one that she was. This girl told you that she was Rosalind's roommate, and that was their suite. That suite has been stripped clean. There isn't so much as a pair of stockings in the place, no clothes, no baggage, nothing."

"But won't that make it look all the more like a trap? Can't we explain to the D.A. that I was framed?"

"Sure we can," Mason said.

"Then we can try to make it stick. A good deal depends on whether we can find something to back up your story. The way you tell it it sounds fishy as hell!"

"But I'm telling the truth," Conway said.

"I know," Mason told him, "but the D.A. is going to be cold, hostile, and bitter. He won't like it because you didn't go to the police instead of consulting an attorney. What's more we don't know yet how much of a trap you've walked into."

"You think there's more?"

"Sure, there's more," Mason said. "But there are some things about it I can't figure."

"Such as what?"

"If the idea had been to frame you for murder," Mason told him, "they'd have gone about it in a different way. If the Farrell crowd had been willing to take a chance on a killing, it would have been easier for them to have killed you and let it go at that."

"The evidence seems to indicate that they'd been planting one kind of trap for you to walk into, and then something happened and they found themselves with a corpse on their hands. So then they worked fast and tried to switch things around so they had you on a murder rap. When they start moving fast like that, they can easily make mistakes. If they make just one mistake, we may be able to trip them."

Conway said, "I know that I look like a fool in this thing, Mason, but hang it! I can't get over feeling that this Rosalind was sincere, that she really had this information she wanted to give me, that she was in danger. She said herself that she might be killed if anyone thought she was going to turn over this information to me."

"That makes sense," Mason told him. "If she wasn't tied up with Farrell in some way, she wouldn't have had access to the information you wanted. If she was tied up with Farrell and was going to run out on him, almost anything could have happened."

Suddenly Conway's face lit up. He snapped his fingers.

"What?" Mason asked.

"I'm just getting an idea," Conway said. "Why should I have to wait here like a sitting duck? While they start sniping at me? Why couldn't I double-cross them at this stage of the game?"

"How?" Mason asked.

"Let me think. I may have an idea."

"Ideas are all right," Mason told him, "but let's be damned certain that you don't do anything that backfires. So far you've had things done to you. Let's keep it that way."

Truckers in Toledo to Haul Aluminum

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Toledo Trucking Assn. have entered a cooperative hauling agreement in an effort to help develop the port of Toledo as a distribution center for Canadian aluminum.

Under the plan, the aluminum will be distributed by truck to inland points as it is sold. The truck line to haul each order will be chosen by the trucking association.

More than 1,000 tons of aluminum already have been unloaded from lake vessels at Toledo marine terminals.

The cooperative effort to attract the business here began last March when Aluminum Sales of Canada reportedly approached five Great Lakes ports — Toledo, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Chicago — to see what inland transportation costs would be if Canadian aluminum was shipped in by water and stockpiled for future sales.

The idea is to have the aluminum available for speedy delivery to American customers, rather than to ship from Canada for each order.

In May, the 103 truck firms in the local association accepted the agreement with Aluminum Sales and the experimental project was set up.

World's Tallest Tree Redwood in California

DYER, Calif. — The world's tallest known tree, a coast redwood near here, rises 364 feet and is called the Founders Tree, says the National Geographic Magazine. In girth, however, it measures only two-fifths as much as its redwood cousin, the General Sherman sequoia in Sequoia National Park.

The General Sherman tree has an estimated age of 3,500 to 4,000 years. Although California has the only stands of these giant trees in the nation, fossilized remnants of ancient redwood can be found as far east as Maryland.

France 4th in Aluminum

PARIS — France is the world's fourth biggest aluminum producer, ranking after the United States, Canada and Russia. In 1956 French output of primary aluminum reached a record 149,700 tons.

Indian Tribes Double Ranks

Relocation, Education Bring Adoption of Ways of White Men

WASHINGTON—Scattered across the Nation from the Florida Everglades to Puget Sound are some 300 Indian tribes and bands—the living descendants of the "Vanishing American."

The Indian population, having dwindled from 800,000 at the time of Columbus' discovery voyages to 240,000 at the turn of the 20th century, now stands at about 500,000.

Under the Federal Government's voluntary-relocation program, more and more Indians are leaving reservations to find better jobs and lives in cities.

American Indians differ dramatically from the standard concept of the feather-bonneted chief, and comprise a remarkable variety of peoples and nations. Among their ancestors were builders of great empires, skilled farmers, astronomers, engineers, weavers, potters, and orators.

SKILLED SURGEONS

Indian physicians were performing delicate brain operations while European doctors were still prescribing ground unicorn horn and lion milk. Cities flourished in American wildernesses when Paris was a barbaric village.

In the United States, only a few clusters of Indians cling to tribal ways, notably the Seminoles of Florida. Seminoles hunt and raise cattle on two reservations near Lake Okechobee. They have never officially surrendered to the government. Paradoxically, these Indians did not exist as a tribe before the American Revolution; they evolved from the remnants of other peoples — Creeks, Hitchiti, and Yuchi.

CITIZENS SINCE 1924

The Indian population as a whole, however, has adopted more and more of the white man's ways. They have been citizens since 1924. World War II, in particular, brought many changes in Indian life.

Tradition - proud Pueblos see their young men take jobs with atom scientists. Navajo elders debated hiring a professional rainmaker complete with airplane and dry ice.

Apaches have prospered farming good New Mexico land; one group bids for tourists with a motel. Oklahoma tribesmen hold public office, enter professions, often drive up in Cadillacs to inspect tribal oil wells.

afterward that his camera was broken. "Anyhow," he said, "they all looked hideous."

Ex-McCarthy Aide Weds Swedish Girl

NEW YORK — G. David Schine, former investigator for the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis), and Miss Hillevi Romblin of Sweden were married here last night.

The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Jonah Wise at Central Synagogue in Manhattan. It was the first marriage for the 30-year-old Schine and the 24-year-old Swedish blonde beauty. They will live in Miami Beach, Fla.

The bride was Miss Universe in 1955. She won her title at Long Beach, Calif., July 22 of that year.

Schine was the central figure in the celebrated Army-McCarthy hearings in 1954.

The hearings revolved around an Army charge that McCarthy used improper pressure to get favors for the wealthy draftsman, now a civilian. McCarthy denied it.

Father Saves Son From Refrigerator

CHELSEA, Mass. — "I'm here, daddy."

That little phrase saved the life yesterday of 4-year-old Robert Stevens.

Harry Stevens, 36, followed his son's voice and found the youngster trapped in an 18-by-16-inch cubicle of a refrigerator on the third-floor porch of an unoccupied tenement house.

The door was so tightly jammed, the father had to rip it off its hinges. The youngster apparently was not affected by the ordeal.

Stevens, his wife Esther, 39, and some 15 neighborhood children had been searching for the tot for nearly an hour when the father heard the muffled cry from an alley and followed it to the porch.

The hemlock is the state tree of Pennsylvania. It was adopted by an act of the General Assembly in 1931.

Police Officer Dies After Nabbing Yegg

PITTSBURGH — A 51-year-old police lieutenant died of an apparent heart attack last night shortly after he and a fellow officer fought and captured a man surprised in the robbery of a service station.

The victim was Thomas Sanderson, 51, of suburban Edgewood. Patrolman Robert Miller said he and Sanderson, acting on an anonymous tip, went to a service station where a holdup was reported.

The officers saw a man identified as Frank Silvasy, 32, North Braddock, Pa., binding the owner of the service station, Michael Sandulak, with tape.

Miller said he and Sanderson pounced on Silvasy, who was armed with an automatic pistol. He added that Sanderson was kicked in the chest by Silvasy.

The officers took Silvasy to the police station and booked him on an armed robbery charge. Then Sanderson collapsed and died.

Old Patron Honored

HOPE VALLEY, R.I. — Ilisha Bitgood, 77, was honored last night as the oldest living past patron of the organization Eastern Star. In a brief talk he surprised the guests with the comment that he was wearing the same suit he wore when he was first installed in 1917.

College to Get Award

HOUGHTON — The U.S. Department of Defense is scheduled to present a special award to Michigan Tech in recognition of its officers training program at ceremonies on the campus tonight. The award will be accepted by President J. R. Van Pelt and Adm. E. P. Forrestel, commandant of the 9th Naval District.

Press Entertains Publicity Chairmen at Hills Tea

"What major event is your club planning?" might be the question discussed by these four clubwomen. Mrs. Kevin Ritter (left) of Auburn avenue attended the tea as a representative of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Alumnae, Mrs. Peter Hoogerhyde of Chippewa road represented the Auxiliary to the Oakland County Dental Society, Mrs. Fred Mueller of Crane street, represented Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority and Mrs. H. Guy Moats of State avenue, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Auxiliary.

Approximately 160 club representatives attended a tea at Bloomfield Hills Country Club Tuesday sponsored by The Pontiac Press. Mrs. Fritz Stoddard of Ottawa drive was photographed as she assisted Mrs. Daniel T. Murphy Jr., of the Pontiac Republican Club, Mrs. Harry Henderson of the Republican Women's Federation of Oakland County and Mrs. H. J. Green of Sylvan Garden Club (left to right). Mrs. Stoddard is a member of Business and Professional Women's Club.

9 Girls Vie to Be 'Miss Moonglow'

The sponsors of High Fever Follies, to be presented Nov. 6 and 7 at Pontiac High School, are holding a contest to select a "Miss Moonglow" for their program.

Nine contestants have been chosen to represent various clubs and organizations throughout Pontiac.

The winner will be chosen by the "penny a vote" method. Proceeds will be used to provide additional nursery equipment for Pontiac General Hospital.

Contestants are Nancy Donaldson, Ellen Taylor, Betty Reid, Judy Bradley, Mary Paulson, Jeanne Johnston, Sharon Daniels, Connie Shindorf and Genevieve Dove. Pontiac General Hospital Auxiliary is presenting the follies.

Vera Bassett (left) of Cherokee road and Mrs. Alex Capsalis of Ottawa drive came to the tea as press chairmen for the Women's Association to the Pontiac Symphony and the YWCA, respectively.

Workmen Hurry Up Capitol Job Rushing to Finish Painting, Cleaning Before January

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Delayed by late adjournment of Congress, painters and cleaners are working like bees to finish the annual renovating of the Capitol interior before legislators return in January.

Even so they are hampered by the usual influx of tourists which even now sometimes reaches 14,000 to 16,000 a day. "It's a long, tedious job and we have to work it in when we can," Carl Fogle, assistant supervising engineer of the Capitol architect's office, told me.

MAJOR OPERATION
"Just getting the special scaffolding up for the men to get at the high, arched and ornate ceilings is a major operation in itself."

The annual cleanup and paintup, costing some $30,000, is done mainly on the corridors, rooms and the Senate and House chambers.

This year Fogle estimates about 250 gallons of paint, 100 gallons of flattening oil, 100 gallons of turpentine and 150 gallons of thinner are being used.

Major headache of the cleaning department is polishing the Capitol's 69 crystal chandeliers, most of which were installed in the gaslight era and later converted to electricity.

PRISM BY PRISM
"They have to be dismantled prism by prism," Fogle said, "and the job requires a total of eight men and eight women working on each from three to five days."

An additional job is being undertaken this year for which Congress appropriated an extra $5,000. This consists of cleaning and touching up of the famous frescoes painted by Constantino Brumidi in the first-floor corridor of the Senate wing.

The paintings represent only a part of the work of the noted Roman artist who at 50 began his 25-year labor of love for Uncle Sam. Best known is his eight foot 3-inch frieze circling the rotunda.

"We can't use an ordinary painter to do this job," Fogle said. "Frank Cumberland, staff decorator, has to take on other decorators who are experienced in this kind of work."

Household Hints

No need to thaw frozen hamburgers before cooking. Just brown and cook slowly in a little fat in the skillet until they're done just the way you like them — medium or well-done.

The modern trend in preparing most vegetables is using as little water as possible and cooking rapidly.

Fashion Hint

Bride Asks for Change of Presents

Friend Feels Hurt When Asked to Get Something Else

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I was invited to the wedding and reception of a college friend of mine. I sent her a very beautiful linen tablecloth and napkins for a wedding present. Shortly after the wedding I received a telephone call from the bride, asking me if I would mind exchanging it for something else as she had received five or six others.

"I of course said I would exchange it but I was very much put out over it and think it was in very bad taste for her to call and ask me to exchange the present, especially since it was of linen, which in my opinion is something you can always use and never have enough of. I would very much appreciate hearing what you think about this."

Answer: It always has been an accepted practice for brides to exchange duplicate presents and you should not allow your feelings to be hurt because this one wishes to exchange yours.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My 11-year-old daughter was invited to spend several days with a classmate of hers whose parents have a house in the country. She had a wonderful time.

"I have never met the mother of the girl, as she travels in an entirely different circle from me. Will you please tell me what I am supposed to do to show proper appreciation for her having invited my daughter? Should I send a gift, or should I write a note, or what? Please advise me."

Answer: Write a note to the mother thanking her for having invited your daughter and go on to say how much she enjoyed her visit.

"Dear Mrs. Post: While at a recent party I signed my husband's and my name in the guest book as Mary and John Doe. I noticed all of the other names were signed with the husband's name first.

"I always thought it correct when signing given names to put the wife's name first. Will you please tell me if I signed the book incorrectly?"

Answer: There is no rule about this, though usually the wife signs John and Mary and the husband signs Mary and John.

Halloween Soaping Can Be Big Boon

Soap comes into its traditional own on Halloween, of course. But there's no reason why the youthful pranks can't be turned to mother's advantage.

When the children start their evening pranks, give each of them a supply of soap. Add an open invitation to write soapy messages — or draw soapy pictures — to their hearts' content on the windows.

With the dawn, all you need is a wet cloth to spread the "ghost writing" over the pane, then wash it away.

Better Than Dieting

Many women may need exercise more than rigid dieting. Exercise firms the muscles and improves the posture. Often what a woman excuses as fat is flabbiness from weak muscles.

Don't Turn to Pills and Tranquilizers

Woo Sleep by Learning to Relax

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The terrific number of sleeping pills and tranquilizers consumed each year is a sad commentary on humanity's state of mind—or at least on the manner of life today.

Sleeping pills and tranquilizers have their place when prescribed by your physician. However, men and women today are likely to obtain sleeping pills after one or two restless nights rather than discover the source of their insomnia.

Inability to sleep can come from poor health or physical disorders. Uncomfortable sleeping equipment such as covers which are too heavy, or squeaking springs, or a mattress which is too hard or too soft, can make you restless. Too much noise or too much light can do the same.

However, once you determine that you are sound physically and see to it that you have comfortable and pleasant surroundings for your shut-eye, then you will have to look for psychological reasons and tensions.

Perhaps you do not know how to relax. Your pace should slow down gradually before trying to go to sleep. It is madness to rush all day and then jump right into bed and expect immediate sleep. The transition is too abrupt. For this reason some persons like to listen to music or read before going to sleep.

COMFORTING BOOK

James A. Pike, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City, makes some interesting observations in his comforting and inspiring book, "The Next Day."

For instance, he calls our attention to the fact that it is natural to review the activities of the day just past and to plan for tomorrow. However, bed is not the place to do it. We should set some time aside for that before going to bed. Thinking over problems and plans after retiring is one reason for insomnia.

Dean Pike also writes, "The more a man determines that he must sleep, the less likely it is that he will. This problem, like so many others, must be solved on a deeper level."

Worry about not sleeping keeps one awake. Sleep, like happiness, is most elusive when it is our goal, when we concentrate on it. Actually, these are byproducts of healthful and vibrant living.

Dean Pike also suggests that subconsciously we all hate to let go of life even for a little while because sleep is a little death. He feels that those who have faith sleep with a peace unknown to others.

SHOULD REFRESH US

Sleep should refresh our bodies and minds and spirits. It is important to us. If you do not sleep well, try to find a remedy other than sleeping pills. Investigate your habits of thought and exercise and nutrition, relaxation and inspiration.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Shut - Eye" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 34 to Josephine Lowman care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "Understanding Is the Buffer at the Climacteric Period."

Climate Affects Hair Fashions

Women who live in hot, humid climates must choose simpler hairdos than those who live in dry climates.

In Texas, which has plenty of both, hairstyles range from puffy tops and upswept backs to simple tops and short-cut backs.

Eloise Redman, Dallas hair stylist said Dallas women like to wear their hair with a full top, the back close to the head and swept upward. They also cling to the dip wave and any other style which accentuates the face features.

In Houston, she said, it's impossible for women to wear their hair in these styles because of the humidity. Hair there is worn with straighter, easily-care-for tops and usually cut short in back.

Most electric clothes dryers will operate on 115-volt service, but will be a lot more satisfactory if operated on 230 volts.

What Happened to Carefree Childhoods?

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Well, Johnny's been home from camp now for a while. He learned how to make leather wallets, "group adjustment" and the right names of the stones and butterflies he collected. And every now and then he still sings, "Oh, Camp Minnetonka, we'll ne'er forget your happy summer days!"

But once there was another kind of "happy summer days."
"When I was a kid," writes a man who knows about them,

"you watered the lawn. You watered it by standing there and holding the hose and spraying it back and forth. In arcs and fountains and in figure eights and straight up in the air, energetically and dreamily and absentmindedly, watching the water and the porch and the window screen and your father in the living room reading the paper."

In my book, too, that's the recipe for happy childhood summer days.
Is it the move to the cities and well-barbered suburbs that's ended them?
Not really, I think. I think they ended the day we got so scared Johnny would be maladjusted we decided never to leave him a minute alone with himself.

Married Saturday in St. Benedict Catholic Church were Mary A. Gagnier and Ronald R. Frank. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gagnier, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Frank.

MR. and MRS. RONALD R. FRANK

Mary Gagnier Becomes Bride in St. Benedict Rite

Vases of white chrysanthemums banked the altar of St. Benedict Catholic Church for the Saturday morning wedding of Mary Gagnier and Ronald Robert Frank. The Rev. Richard Thomas performed the ceremony before 300 guests.
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gagnier of Voorheis road are the bride's

For her wedding the bride chose a white lace over satin gown in waist length. A standing collar featured a V neckline for the princess style creation.
Her fingertip veil was attached to a small rhinestone and pearl crown. The bridal bouquet was composed of white chrysanthemums centered with white rosebuds.

Mrs. James St. Amand of Utica was her sister's matron of honor. Her mint green taffeta dress with a tulle skirt was fashioned in princess style. She wore a wrist arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums.

Junior bridesmaid Kay Frank, a sister of the bridegroom, wore a cinnamon brown dress in the same design as the honor attendant's and a yellow chrysanthemum wrist corsage.

ATTEND BRIDEGROOM
As best man was James St. Amand of Utica, Richard Bilinsky of Utica and Frank Stophe of Royal Oak seated the guests.

A breakfast was served to the bridal party and parents of the couple at Old Mill Tavern.

For an evening reception at UAW Hall the bride's mother chose a black and turquoise dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Frank wore a green wool gown with beige accessories and a yellow carnation corsage.

Before leaving on a northern trip the new Mrs. Frank changed to a black sheath jumper with red accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live on Augusta avenue.

The bridegroom attended Highland Park Junior College and Wayne State University.

MR. and MRS. ROBERT N. BAYER

Judith Traxler Marries in Walled Lake Service

White carnations and chrysanthemums banked the altar of St. Matthew Lutheran Church, Walled Lake, for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Judith Dawn Traxler and Robert Norman Bayer. The Rev. O.A. Gerken officiated in the presence of 150 witnesses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Traxler of Walled Lake, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Bayer of Detroit.

Judith wore a gown of white satin with a Chantilly lace bodice featuring a scalloped neckline and long tapered sleeves. Lace appliques extended from the bodice into the full skirt.

Pearl earrings were her only jewelry, and she carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations with garnet red roses in the center.

ASSIST BRIDEGROOM
Acting as best man was Arnold L. Bayer of Wyandotte. Ushers were Hugh W. Harrison of Southfield and Harry K. Stevens of Detroit.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Traxler wore a white faille dress accented by a gold leaf pattern, white and black accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Bayer chose a dress of embroidered taffeta with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Before leaving on a trip to Grayling the new Mrs. Bayer changed to a wool jersey suit of periwinkle blue with a matching hat and black accessories. She wore the garnet red roses from her bridal bouquet.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Wayne State University, is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity. The couple will live on Saronia lane.

Wilma Campbell Speaks Vows in Detroit Service

Married Saturday at Detroit's East Side Central Church of Christ

Wilma Louise Campbell and Ralph Edward McQueen were married Saturday at Detroit's East Side Central Church of Christ. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ronald McQueen.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress trimmed in pink and a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. McQueen chose a blue dress outlined in white and wore a white carnation corsage.

Before leaving on a trip to Niagara Falls, the Smoky Mountains and Miami, Fla., the new Mrs. McQueen changed to a black wool dress with rhinestone jewelry, a white hat and black patent accessories.

The bride is a graduate of David Lipscomb College, and the bridegroom studied at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Upon their return in November the newlyweds will live in Detroit.

Pint Jar Will Hold Dressing

Mrs. Swindler Says Family Just Loves Catsup Mixture

By JANET ODELL

Salads have become such an important part of our diet that we take them for granted. One good way to vary them is to have a number of different dressings on hand. The one below is a favorite in the Noel Swindler family.

The Swindlers live at Commerce Lake. Mrs. Swindler is active in church work; she teaches Sunday school, sings in the choir and is vice president of the Abigail circle. With two daughters in Commerce school, she works in P.T.A. Reading and cooking are her hobbies.

GAY SALAD DRESSING

By Mrs. Noel Swindler Jr.

1/2 cup salad oil
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup catsup
1/2 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 small onion, grated
Dash Worcestershire sauce

Place all ingredients in pint jar and shake well. This dressing keeps a long time in the refrigerator.

PLYMOUTH FOR 1958—The new Silver Dart two-tone exterior color treatment, a new horizontal bar lower front grille, and double header dual headlights are styling features of the 1958 Plymouth

The new models are being shown at R. and R. Motors Inc., at 724 Oakland Ave., and Braid Motor Sales, 70 S. Cass Ave.

Talks May Bring 'Crash Program' May Develop U. S.-British Nuclear Resources Pool

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Another "crash program" by the United States and Britain to develop intercontinental missiles may emerge from this week's meeting of President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Reports in advance of Wednesday's beginning session say the idea is to pool materials and scientific brains in the race made more urgent by the Soviet launching of its little earth satellite.

Such an agreement would cover nuclear research and provide for setting up a joint secretariat in Washington such as existed during the last war.

This opens up the prospect of quicker strides in developing weapons at less expense because duplicated work of many kinds would be avoided. Some American laws relating to disclosure of nuclear information would have to be revised. But the advance reports indicate the question is not on such a pooling of sources and brains but on details of how it is to be done.

MIDEAST POLICY

Another main item on the agenda is a reappraisal of Middle Eastern policy, how to stop Soviet penetration.

This ties in with the talks on missiles because Russia is reaping propaganda benefits from her Sputnik operation, combined with threats against Turkey in behalf of Syria.

The President and Prime Minister must begin by recognizing that despite the propaganda setback the Soviets suffered in Hungary, the past year has been a record of increasingly successful Middle Eastern penetration by Russia.

Soviet arms have poured into Egypt to replace those lost to Israel in Sinai. Communist arms are pouring into Syria. Jordan has been jolted, and the American aid on which young King Hussein depends has been turned into another propaganda weapon against the "imperialist" West.

The Baghdad Pact is under dangerous onslaught, with the Soviets combining with anti-Western Arab nationalists to undermine that anti-Communist vehicle.

Whatever else Moscow and Damascus may hope to get with their unproved charges of Turkish aggressive intentions they have succeeded already in branding Turkey an enemy of the Arabs.

Hussein hurried to declare his support of Syria against the imaginary Turkish threat. In this tense atmosphere one wonders how long Iraq will be able to keep her alliance with Turkey. If that alliance goes, the Baghdad Pact is breached if not broken.

In his charges on the imaginary Turkish threat to Syria the Soviet Party boss Nikita Khrushchev proclaims that small nations should be allowed to follow their own destinies.

This pious observation comes almost on the exact first anniversary of the Hungarian freedom fighters' attempt to rid themselves of Soviet rule.

Trees' Age Gauged

STOCKHOLM — A new electronic computer-microscope that automatically computes the age and annual growth of trees has been developed by Swedish scientists. When a core of wood from the tree is fed into the machine, it counts the concentric rings and also measures the width between them. The invention was described at the annual meeting of the Academy of Agricultural Sciences in Stockholm.

Plymouth Coming Nov. 1 With 6 Engine Options

Substantial styling advances in keeping with the trend-setting characteristics of the popular current model Plymouth cars, plus a broad new lineup of six engine options and other important new engineering features will be seen when the Plymouth for 1958 is introduced November 1.

The new Plymouth is improved in appearance, performance, comfort and safety, yet retains many of the outstanding styling, handling and riding features that were so enthusiastically accepted by American car-buyers this year. John P. Marashfield, Plymouth president, said today.

Styling features of the new Plymouth include a bright new "Silver Dart" side moulding treatment, sweeping upward at the rear on Belvedere and Sport Suburban models to the tip of Plymouth's familiar high-flung fins, with optional dart inserts of silver anodized aluminum or compatible colors.

Another distinctive new side trim is available also with Savoy and Plaza models.

Double header dual headlights are standard equipment on all new Plymouths, with the inner beams producing maximum long-range forward visibility and the outer pair providing supplemental fill-in light when used in combination, or efficient low-beam lighting when used alone.

New turn signals and parking lights are nestled in a triangular area above and between the headlights. Tail lights also are new, with circular reflectors lower in the fender and a silver-colored reflective wedge extending upward to the tip of the fin.

The back-up light is centered beneath the rear bumper.

The lower front grille of the Plymouth for 1958 has been redesigned with a horizontal bar effect identical to the upper grille section.

Plymouth's new engine lineup offers six power options, including the new 350-cubic-inch Golden Commando V-8 at extra cost, with a 10 to 1 compression ratio and a horsepower rating of 305. New fuel injection is available with this engine as a limited option.

Standard V-8 Plymouth engine for 1958 is the 315-cubic-inch Fury V-800 with dual carburetion, a compression ratio of 9 to 1 and rated at 225 horsepower. Super Pak, with four-barrel carburetion, is available as extra equipment, and a Dual Fury V-800 engine with eight-barrel carburetion is the standard power plant for the high performance Plymouth Fury car in 1958.

Standard on all six-cylinder models is the smooth and economical Power-Flow "8" at 230 cubic inches, 8 to 1 ratio and 132 horsepower.

Going to Bermuda in Motorboat Sight Daredevil in Atlantic

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — A never-say-die adventurer once believed lost in the Atlantic on an outboard motorboat voyage hoped to reach his goal of Bermuda today after being sighted by a merchant ship and given fuel and food.

Melvin West, a radio disc jockey making the 580-mile trip in the 17-foot, 30-horsepower craft he calls the Impossible, was sighted yesterday afternoon by the merchant ship Alderman 240 miles east of Cape Lookout, N.C. That was 31 hours after his three-day supply of fuel and food was to have run out.

West, father of two children, put out from here Thursday on the projected 40-hour trip intended to prove the seaworthiness of outboard motors and small boats. His wife said she couldn't dissuade him, "so I just shut up."

Coast Guard ships and planes from the Atlantic Coast and from Bermuda had scoured the ocean for the resident of Morehead City who draws 10 per cent disability pay for a stomach ailment incurred while in service during the Korean War.

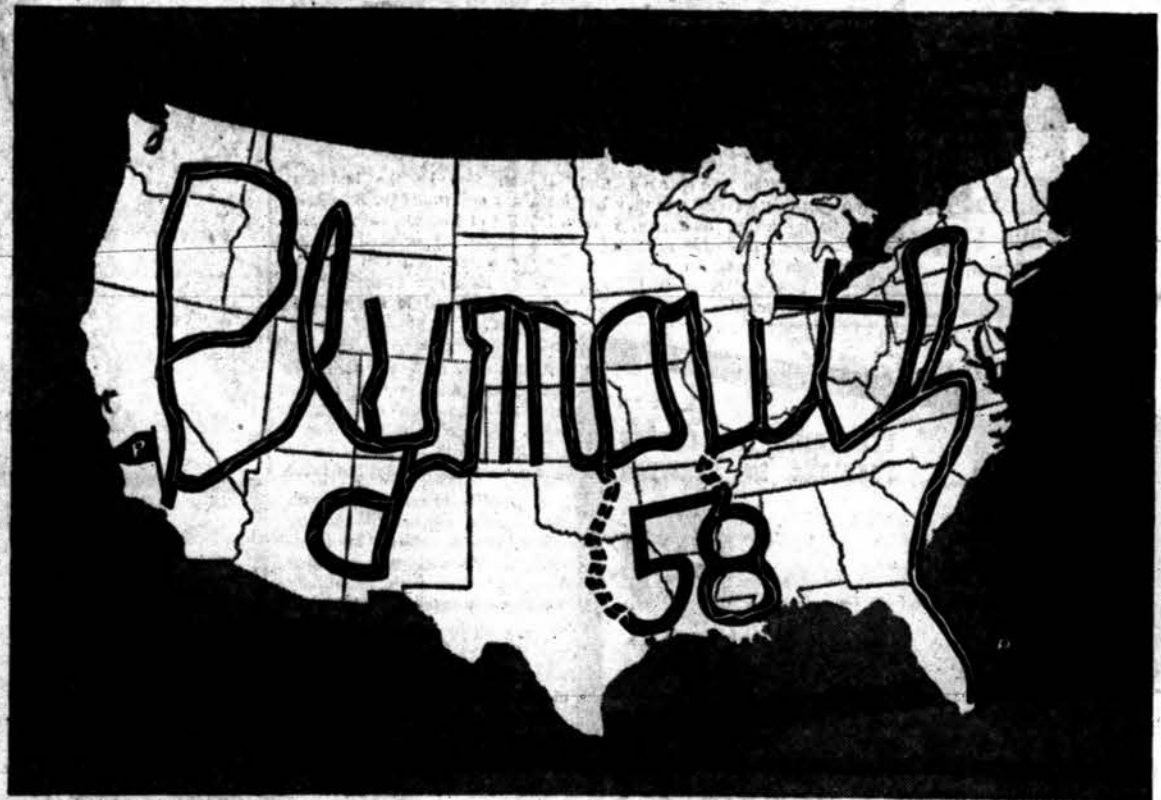

West is a disc jockey at a radio station in Jacksonville, N.C.

YOUR NEXT PLYMOUTH JUST TAMED THE TOUGHEST TEST TRACK ON EARTH!

That's the "track" scrawled across the map: 58,000 miles... more than twice around the world. Six years of driving crammed into 58 days by a brand-new 1958 Plymouth. Read below, see how it affects your future.

When you step into an auto showroom and plunk down hard-earned cash for a new car, you've got a right to more than just surface beauty. You've got a right to a car that's going to stand up under the punishment of day in, day out driving. A car that can go on delivering new-car comfort and economy season after season.

We designed the 1958 Plymouth to do just that. But we didn't settle for endurance in theory. We wanted proof.

See that route outlined above? It spells out "Plymouth '58" across 37 states. We ran a new Plymouth—one of the first stock production models to roll off the lines—across the route three times to roll up 58,000 miles in just 58 days. That's 1000 miles a day!

Here are just a few of the results. And even experienced automotive editors who were there when the Plymouth braked to the final halt were impressed by the results of this extraordinary test.

- Total miles traveled: 58,000
- Total days elapsed: 58
- Number of brake applications: 37,531
- Number of wheel revolutions: 47,732,000
- Number of engine tune-ups: 6

And for all its punishment, the test Plymouth still rode, handled and looked like new. The figures above are just a few of the hundreds collected during this trip. Your Plymouth dealer will be glad to furnish you with lots more details.

You'll be able to see and drive this amazing new Plymouth in a very few days. Wait for it. It's going to show you how much you can expect in a low-price car. And you can expect it only in Plymouth for '58!

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The first of the series of programs offered to the public by the West Bloomfield Township Library Board as a public service in adult education will be given Thursday night, at 8.

Oakland County movie producer William Murray will speak on "The Role of the Movie Maker in Education Today." Some of Murray's own films will be shown.

The series is open to everyone in the community, with no admission charge. Location is the West Bloomfield Township Library Building at 3201 Orchard Lake Road, Keego Harbor.

A discussion period and refreshments will follow the talk.

Avon Photo Club to Show Slides Thursday Night

ROCHESTER — The Avon Photo Club will meet for a color slide session at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Rochester Library.

Persons who participated in the Grand Trunk tour Sept. 28 and took pictures at the time are asked to bring them to the meeting. Other color slides also are welcome, according to club president Paul Ayres.

Edward Vanderworp, senior staff photographer of the Pontiac Press, will be the featured speaker at this meeting.

Vanderworp, who photographed the first heart operation in this area, will talk on the most interesting experiences in his line as a newspaper photographer and will show prints.

Unshorn Lambs Also Get Subsidy

County Farmers Receive Incentive Payment on Wool

Wool producers of Oakland County have received a total of $5,535.11 in incentive payments for 51,927 pounds of shorn wool which they sold in the 1956 marketing year which ended March 31, 1957. It was reported this week by William F. Porritt, chairman of the county ASC committee.

Producers of the county have also received $1,610.48 in incentive payments on sales of 239,268 pounds of unshorn lambs in the last marketing year, to compensate them for the wool on the animals.

The incentive payments received by producers are net after deductions of one cent per pound from shorn wool claims and five cents per hundred-weight from unshorn lamb claims, as authorized in a referendum of wool growers in 1955. These deductions go into a national fund for the promotion of the wool and sheep industry. Such deductions in Oakland county for the 1956 marketing year have amounted to $626.12.

The shorn wool incentive payment rate for the 1956 marketing year was fixed at 40 percent of the dollar returns which participating producers received from the sale of their wool. This percentage is sufficient to bring the national

Rochester Sets Goal for Flares

Kiwanis Club Hopes to Light Up the Area on Halloween Night

ROCHESTER — A lighted flare in front of every Rochester home and business place on Thursday, Oct. 31, is the goal of the Rochester Kiwanis Club in cooperation with the village of Rochester and Avon Township.

Wrapping of flares has been going on for several nights, and all of the subdivisions in the township will be contacted by Kiwanians aboard fire trucks Saturday.

Calls will be made from 10 a.m. to noon in Christian Hills, Rochdale and Hitchman's Haven and from 1 to 3 p.m. in Rochester Knolls and the Orion road section. The village of Rochester will not be contacted until Monday night, Oct. 22.

Proceeds from the sale of flares will provide an evening of fun for the children, young and older ones. Parties or dances will be held for young folks in each age group. Part of the funds will go to the Kiwanians' Underprivileged Children's Fund. Both the Village of Rochester and Avon Township have appropriated $150 each for the Halloween Gala Night.

Romeo Schools Club to See Film on India

ROMEO — Thursday night's meeting of the Elementary Schools Club, set for 8 p.m. at the Crosswell Street School, will feature a talk by Dr. Alvin D. Loving, doctor of education from Flint.

He also will show movies illustrating the educational system in India, comparing it with that of the U.S. Refreshments will be served by first grade room mothers. Girl Scouts will act as babysitters.

D. J. Healy Store Ready to Open at Rochester

ROCHESTER — From D. J. Healy's modest store on Woodward avenue, founded in 1882, the company has grown now to nine branches, the latest of which is the Rochester branch at North Hill Plaza here.

The store will open on Thursday. The new 5,600 foot square shop has been finished in blossom pink with complementary wallpaper in marbled pattern of pink, gold, silver and white.

Featured will be coats, dresses and suits, sportswear, jewelry, handbags and other accessories, plus a fine arts and linens section.

The colonial exterior of the store has one visual-front window which puts the entire store on display. An overhanging 10-foot front arcade protects passersby, and there is front-of-the-store free parking.

Move Holly Library

HOLLY — The Holly Township Library is being moved from the building on Martha Street which it has occupied for many years to the Williams block at the southwest corner of Saginaw and Maple Streets. The moving is a project of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce.

NBC President Fights Pay-TV

Insists It Can Succeed Only Through Killing Off Free Television

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (U. P.) — Robert W. Sarnoff, president of the National Broadcasting Co., said today pay-television can succeed only by "devouring the substance of free television."

Sarnoff said NBC is convinced pay-TV is against the public interest.

"Of course," he added, "this view may not prevail and the pressures behind pay-TV may succeed in putting it over on the public." He continued: "If it does eventually develop as the replacement for free broadcasting, we, like the public, will have no choice but to follow the pay-TV tide."

The NBC president's remarks were contained in a speech prepared for delivery to a luncheon given in his honor by William Block, publisher of the Pittsburgh Club. The Post-Gazette owns WTIC NBC's new TV affiliate here.

Pay-TV, Sarnoff said, "could ultimately sweep away the nation's free broadcasting system." He said the system includes 470 TV stations and three national TV networks.

Drinking Motorists May Be Surveyed

LANSING (U. P.) — An actual count of the number of motorists who drive after drinking has been suggested as a fact-collecting highway safety project.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said the recommendation by the Citizens Highway Traffic Safety Committee will be presented to the State Safety Commission at its Nov. 5 meeting.

It will be suggested that Wayne State University set up a study of drivers coming off the expressways in the Detroit area to determine the total number of drivers who had been drinking during various hours of the day.

The suggestion stems from a similar survey made at Evanston, Ill., Hare said. This survey showed that from 20 to 70 per cent of the drivers checked had been drinking, he said.

Bob Hope Guest Appearance Proves Costly

LOS ANGELES (U. P.) — Bob Hope's guest appearance on Frank Sinatra's television program last Friday has cost Hope the sponsorship of a watch company.

The comedian's television agent, Jimmy Saphier, said Timex Corp. notified NBC last night that it is canceling sponsorship.

NBC has not yet accepted the cancellation, the agent said, and a meeting is scheduled today in New York between network lawyers and the watch company's counsel.

Hope announced after the show that Timex said it was dropping him because the Sinatra program carried a commercial of a rival watch firm, Bulova.

Hope said he learned just half an hour before show time that the program was not fully sponsored by a cigarette company.

Ticker Tape Viewers Crowd Brokerage Houses

Wall Street Still Waiting for Market to Recover From Latest Low Trends

NEW YORK (U. P.) — A badly shaken Wall Street today wondered when its favorite barometer, the stock market, would straighten itself out.

The market has been declining since mid-July. Many paper profits have been erased.

This week brokerage house board rooms have been crowded with people, intently watching the illuminated ticker tape and asking, "When will the turn come?"

Some Wall Street prophets feel the decline may be bottoming out. Others aren't so sure. Few, if any, expect an immediate return of a rampaging bull market.

Looking back on the decline, many agreed with Gerald Loeb, partner in E. F. Hutton & Co.: "It's a little too late to sell and a little too early to buy."

In the first two days this week the market has taken a severe drubbing on heavy selling waves. On Monday the break was the largest for any day since Sept. 26, 1953, following President Eisenhower's heart attack.

Yesterday things were a little better. The market didn't go down quite as much as on Monday. But it did sink to a new low for more than 2 1/2 years.

Quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange totaled $219,175,981.025 Jan. 1. Since then about 30 billion has been clipped from that figure, based on the fall in the Associated Press average.

That average reached its 1957 high of $188.50 July 12. Yesterday it closed at $159.90.

In back of the downturn brokers pointed to numerous items which could generally be summed up in the word "uncertainty" about the domestic and international situations.

On the domestic front there were such items as tight money, defense order cancellations, minor layoffs at scattered points, failure of business to boom as much as the more optimistic had anticipated.

On the international front there were such items as concern over the Middle East and whirling evidence, in the form of Sputnik, that Russia is ahead of the United States in missile developments.

The men who handle vast sums of money as managers of big mutual funds were cautious about the market.

H. I. Prankard II, president of Affiliated Fund, said, "We do not believe that this adjustment in market prices which has been taking place has been completed."

"While we feel that many stocks are still overpriced, we also feel that the prices of many other stocks have reached points where they represent excellent values for long-term investment."

Hollywood Headlines

Top Producer-Director Working for Two Studios

By DOROTHY MANNERS
For Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Mervyn LeRoy, one of Hollywood's top box office producer-directors (meaning his pictures make money), has signed a long term contract with 20th Century Fox.

This makes Mervyn one of the few producers in the business holding contracts with two major companies. LeRoy has a contract with Warner Brothers which is still in effect and he will continue to operate there as well as at 20th.

The new contract with Buddy Adler will be activated as soon as Mervyn completes "The FBI Story" for Warners although no story is set for his 20th debut.

With Phyllis (Mrs. Rock Hudson) planning to leave town soon, it isn't likely that any reconciliation with Rock will take place within the next few weeks.

The sudden separation of the Hudsons is still a "stunner" to Hollywood particularly since both refuse to say anything.

One of Rock's friends says: "He's exhausted. Rock hasn't had a day off, not even a Sunday, in almost a year. The location for 'Farewell to Arms' in Italy was long and arduous. Then he had to leave for Hawaii for 'Twilight for the Gods.' Although Phyllis went with him, there was no real relaxation for Rock working each day on strenuous sea scenes. He was nervous and ready to collapse when he came home."

From Louella Parsons in New York: "What a thrill to hear Queen Elizabeth making her gracious speech at the luncheon in the ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria. Her Majesty looked so pretty in a copper colored dress trimmed with red. My old friend Harry Hersfield came over on the Staten Island ferry with the royal party and told me that Prince Philip disappeared just before they reached New York. He was discovered looking over the automobiles on the ferry."

"As I was leaving the luncheon, I had a chance to congratulate one of my favorite persons, ex-ambassador to England Lewis."

DETROIT (U. P.) — Arguing that a man can't be forced to testify against his wife, attorney James Thompson yesterday won his Circuit Court appeal against a $2 parking ticket.

Thompson, a political figure in suburban Dearborn, had appealed a Municipal Court conviction of parking in a no parking zone.

Acting as his own attorney, Thompson argued constitutionality of the ticket for two hours yesterday. He did not say his wife had parked the car in the restricted zone, but refused to say who did on grounds that a man could not be forced to testify against his wife.

Circuit Judge Victor J. Baum reversed the lower court and found Thompson innocent.

Amateur Radio Society Elects County Officers

The Oakland County Amateur Radio Society has announced its annual election of new officers. The new president is Mitchell L. Bacow, whose call letters are W8JYZ.

Other newly elected officers and their station call letters are: Clayton W. Gillis (W8HGI), vice president; Thomas E. Beal (W8EYU), treasurer; Manley M. Phetteplace (W8PDB), assistant treasurer; Wayne M. Garrett (W8SON), secretary; and James Puglisi (K8ASM), assistant secretary.

"Why did she have to cross the Atlantic to become REAL?" demanded the Laborite Daily Herald in a front-page editorial headed "Don't Put the Queen Behind Bars."

"People here have been reading of the Queen strolling through the street in Washington. The Queen walking into a self-service store, chatting to salesgirls and customers."

"The Queen going about freely among ordinary people, behaving like a natural person. The Queen meeting American reporters at a press conference. The Queen just a glamorous woman on TV."

"Canada loved it. America was bowled over by it. Why is it not allowed to happen here?"

The Herald complained that as soon as the monarch's plane touched down at London Airport, "we were back in the overfuss grip of precautions to keep public well away."

"We are sure that the British people would like the Queen in America better than the Queen in England, the way she is staged-managed for us," it said.

The Liberal News Chronicle asserted editorially: "The time has come for a modification of some of the traditional palace views on public events."

"Nobody wants the Queen or royal family to be victims of blatantly contrived situations just to make them seem 'homely,'" the News Chronicle said. "The monarchy must in a sense be apart from the people just as it is outside politics. But a good deal of protocol needs revision."

Douglas, who was decorated in Washington by Queen Elizabeth.

"So well guarded was the Queen that if I hadn't known a couple of New York's 'finest,' I would never have gotten back to my apartment in the Towers."

Snapshots of New York collected by Louella Parsons: "I thoroughly enjoyed the Long Island countryside when I motored to the estate of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt (Sonny) Whitney on Sunday. The Whitney place was in its autumnal splendor with the leaves turning crimson, russet and yellow."

"At the luncheon were Elizabeth Arden, filled with plans for the opening of her Beverly Hills salon; Margot Fonteyn, who told me she is rehearsing every day for the premiere of her ballet; and Byron Foy who is making his first social appearance since the death of his lovely Thelma."

"Cobina Wright, the house guest of Mary and Laddie Sanford (who live near Eleanor) sang, as did Fernand Montel, with Jimmy McHugh at the piano. Miss Montel opens at the St. Regis later this month."

"Robert Meyers, who wrote the music for 'Hold My Hand,' which was in my daughter Harriet Parsons' picture 'Susan Slept Here,' introduced me to his attractive wife."

'Irregular Army' Trains in Syria

Thousands of Civilians Get Battle Instruction in Guerrilla Tactics

DAMASCUS, Syria (U. P.) — A group of men, rifles in hand, dived to the ground at a given signal, sprawled on their stomachs and began firing in a partially completed football stadium.

This was the scene today at one training center for Syria's Popular Resistance organization—a movement composed of tens of thousands of civilians in the Arab nation's "irregular army."

The organization has moved into high gear since tension increased over Turkish troop concentrations on the Syrian border.

Some 400 civilian volunteers turned up for the football-field firing practice not far from the heart of Damascus. Many were youngsters who looked as if they had just entered their teens. Some wore the PR uniform—olive green coveralls—but most were in street clothes.

They fired at 23 targets with whatever weapons were available, mostly old French rifles.

The scene was typical of what is happening throughout Syria. In Damascus, Aleppo, Homs and Latakia—all key cities—members of the resistance organization are receiving battle instruction for the "sacred self-protection" of Syria.

They are being trained for street fighting. Weapons are being distributed in various cities. The army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Afif Bizry, has called on the volunteers to wage relentless guerrilla warfare in the event of an invasion.

Dem Secretary Gets Secret Data Through Error

WASHINGTON (U. P.) — A stenographer's error apparently directed to a Democratic congressional secretary some confidential information White House mail meant for President Eisenhower's economic adviser.

Paul Saunier Jr. is secretary to Rep. Gary (D-Va.). Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, who works in the Executive Office Building adjoining the White House, is chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Their names are close together in the Congressional Directory.

But the packet of papers delivered by White House messenger last week was addressed to "Dr. Paul Saunier Jr." at the House Office Building.

Saunier read well into the matter before realizing it was not meant for him. But he stopped, he said, before getting to an enclosed copy of a letter Eisenhower had written to Mobilization Director Gordon Gray.

British Press Asks Lowering of Royal Wall

LONDON (U. P.) — Queen Elizabeth's return from her triumphal visit to Canada and the United States spurred new press demands today for a lowering of the barriers between the royal family and the people of Britain.

"Why did she have to cross the Atlantic to become REAL?" demanded the Laborite Daily Herald in a front-page editorial headed "Don't Put the Queen Behind Bars."

"People here have been reading of the Queen strolling through the street in Washington. The Queen walking into a self-service store, chatting to salesgirls and customers."

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

A new era of professional athletics begins tonight in Detroit where the Pistons make their debut at the Olympia against the champion Boston Celtics.

It will complete the pro cycle for the Motor City, something which only New York presently can claim. Now, Detroit and New York will be the only two cities with pro baseball, football, hockey and basketball.

The question everyone is asking, "Will it be successful?" We believe it should. We hope it will.

Detroit has always supported professional sports well, and it hasn't always been the city of champions. Baseball had its struggling days, football went through many lean years and hockey had to walk before it could run.

"It's difficult to say how the people of Detroit will respond to pro basketball," said Pistons' general manager Fred DeLano, "we should know better after one season."

DeLano was looking over the empty seats, some 15,000, at the Olympia yesterday afternoon while a working crew was finishing installation on the new court and baskets.

"We can't even say how many people will be here for the opener," he said. "I'd like to see about 8,000 here for the first game," DeLano continued, "and if we could average about 6,500 for each game this year, next year I'm sure our crowds will average higher. People will like the show these pros put on and they will come back, I'm sure," he added.

The Eastern Division of the NBA with Boston, Philadelphia, New York and Syracuse, is said to be the stronger of the two divisions.

Another city inaugurating pro basketball this week is Cincinnati, formerly the Rochester Royals. Along with Detroit, this puts St. Louis and Minneapolis in the Western Division.

An attempt may later be made to add two teams to each division, the strongest being Pittsburgh in the east and Chicago in the west.

DITTO FROM THE PRESS BOX

Two of Guy Sparrow's former tutors, Art Van Ryzin of Pontiac High and Bob Callhan of U. of D. will be in the audience watching "the Bird" perform for the Knicks against the St. Louis Hawks in the opener of tonight's doubleheader at the Olympia.

... Ever since the season started, we have been asked "Is this Michigan State's greatest team?" noted MSU publicist Fred Stabley. "Now we feel Purdue has answered that. Definitely, no."

... We can't agree with the Lions in releasing Marvin Brown and holding on to Leon Hart. The little 149-pound East Texas Stater had more fire than all of Hart's 260 pounds.

... This will seem like "Boston Week" in Detroit this week. The Boston writers are killing three birds with one trip by covering the Boston Celtics against the Pistons tonight, the Boston Bruins against the Red Wings tomorrow and Boston College against U. of D. Saturday.

Boston College Goes After 5th Straight at U. of D.

DETROIT (U. of D.) — Boston College, one of the East's fast growing football powers with one of the nation's top passers, will go after its 5th straight win against the University of Detroit in Titan Stadium Saturday afternoon.

The Eagles are singing the praises of their fine junior quarterback Don Allard.

The 6-1, 185-pound signal-caller has 40 completions in 75 passing attempts and has gained 670 yards passing. He has passed for 5 touchdowns.

Redford Is Victor in Harrier Event

Faced by last year's winner, Larry Fortner (10:44), Redford Union high's harriers yesterday afternoon captured the annual Clarenceville Invitational cross-country meet. Redford compiled 40 points to 60 for runnerup host, Clarenceville. West Bloomfield, 5th in 1936, was 3rd with 93 and Milford was 4th with 94.

Other scores included Detroit Thurston 95, Oak Park 138 and Detroit Lutheran West 161. Meet was over the Cass Benton park course, a wet and muddy trial. Milford's German exchange student, Peder Ensen was 2nd, George Barnum of Clarenceville 3rd and Merton Roberts, Clarenceville 4th. Redford took 1-5-10-11-13 places. W. Bloomfield's finishers were Steve Rogers (9), Dick Thies (14), Tom Pitzer (21), Pat Willis (24) and Jim Asquith (25).

Swim Record Reported

MOSCOW (INS) — Russian swimmer Vladimir Struganov reportedly has set a new world record of 5:12.9 for the 400-meter medley. Soviet news agency Tass reported yesterday that the record was set Monday in Moscow. The recognized record of 5:15.6 was set last August in Philadelphia by Gary Heinrich of the U.S.

PRO DEBUT — Pontiac's Guy Sparrow makes his pro basketball debut tonight at the Detroit Olympia where the New York Knicks meet the St. Louis Hawks and the Detroit Pistons meet Boston in a doubleheader. Sparrow will see action with the Knicks.

Black Hawks Get Past Bruins, 2-1

Chicago Moves to Third Place Tie With 2 Goals in First Period

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Chicago Black Hawks slipped past the Boston Bruins, 2-1, last night to climb into a third place tie with the New York Rangers in the National Hockey League.

The Hawks scored a pair of first period goals and hung on as the second-place Bruins took over play and kept the Black Hawks scrambling.

Rookie Bob Hull and veteran wing Eric Nesterenko scored Chicago's goals with less than four minutes remaining in the opening frame.

Boston scored its only goal in the second period when the Bruins' outshot the Hawks, 17-3, and Bronco Horvath put one into the net while Chicago's Ted Lindsay was in the penalty box.

Glenn Hall had 21 saves for Chicago and Don Simmons had to ward off 38 shots in the wild and spectacular contest.

Florida A&M Is Leader in NAIA

KANSAS CITY (U. of D.) — Florida A&M University dominates football statistics in all except one department among schools of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The Florida Rattlers are tops in pass defense, rushing defense and offensive rushing and are second in total offense. They are out of the top 10 teams only in passing.

Florida A&M has yielded only 44.5 yards a game in its two titles and has averaged 388 yards rushing.

Fencing Classes Resume Tonight

The Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's weekly fencing classes resume tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Pontiac High School's girls' gymnasium.

Classes will be held every Wednesday night from now until the end of March and instruction is open to beginners and experienced fencers alike. There is no charge for the program.

Instruction covers the fundamental use of the epee, foil and saber. All classes are under the direction of Eldon Gardner.

Harriers Run Saturday

33 Schools in Regional

By H. GUY MOATS
With an entry of 33 high school cross-country teams in the lists in two classes (A-B), MHSAA regional meet, Saturday at Farmington Country club promises some hot competition.

Bulk of the entries are Oakland county and adjacent area squads, including 13 Class A schools headed by Birmingham's all-winning Maples and 7 Class B entries, with Milford one of the favorites.

Meet will be over the 13-mile and Haggerty road layout, four miles west of Orchard Lake road. Farmington high's athletic director, John K. Ottens, is director. First 15 finishers in each class will qualify for the state meet a week from Saturday. They will qualify without regard for team qualification. First 15 qualifiers will get medals and winning team (seven runners) in each class also get medals. It is expected 7 Class A teams will qualify for the state test.

Pontiac's 'Bird' Makes Pro Cage Debut

Sparrow Plays With Knicks at Detroit Olympia

Ex-Chief Star Realizes Dream of Playing Pro Basketball

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
Pontiac's Guy Sparrow will realize a dream tonight which only 80 basketball players in the entire nation are able to do each season in the National Basketball Association.

The ex-Chief cager, who later set all scoring and rebounding records at the University of Detroit, is on the 11-man squad of the New York Knickerbockers who will meet the St. Louis Hawks in the first game of a doubleheader at Detroit Olympia.

The program, which pits the Detroit Pistons against the Boston Celtics in the second game, initiates the Motor City's entry into the NBA.

"I've thought about playing pro basketball ever since I started playing the sport," Sparrow said. Sparrow played under coach Art Van Ryzin at PHS during one of school's best teams in 1930-31. The team finished the regular season with a 12-3 record and 9-3 in SVC action.

"The Bird" then continued at the U. of D. where in three varsity seasons he finished with 1,600 points and where in his senior year he finished as the 4th best rebounder in the nation.

He received All-Missouri Valley Conference honors and third team All-America honors.

For the past two years he played with Armed Forces basketball team and led the U.S. in the International cage tourney last season. He reported to the Knicks, who drafted him in 1935, and is now bidding for a regular berth on the squad.

"He has a good attitude, is a hustler and works real hard," said Knick coach Vince Boryla during workouts at the Olympia yesterday.

All NBA teams now carry a 11-man squad. One more player will be dropped by each team by Christmas.

During the exhibition season which saw the Knicks win four of five games, Sparrow saw considerable action. He started the last exhibition game and scored 22 points to lead New York to victory.

"Sparrow will not start against St. Louis," said Boryla, "but he should play." "This is like any other sport, we have to play our veterans, especially now when every game counts."

The 6-foot-6 forward said he was a "little jittery" in making his first pro appearance in his hometown area, but some of the jittery may stem from the fact that Sparrow will be married Thursday in Detroit to Miss Carolyn McNamara of Iowa City, Iowa.

The Knick-St. Louis game will start at 7:15 p.m. with the Pistons-Celtics' encounter following.

UP TO SCORE — Bill Sharman (21) of the Boston Celtics goes up to score against St. Louis last night in the National Basketball Association opener. Hawk players are Jack Coleman (11) and Charley Share (13). The Celtics, who meet the Detroit Pistons tonight, won the game, 115-90.

Bay City-Midland Ready to Clash

Top 'A' Battle Set

Sports Editor, Bay City Times

BAY CITY (U. of D.) — Like a set of loaded dice, the Bay City Central-Midland football game next Saturday night is full of "naturals."

First is the undefeated, 5-0 records of both teams, and their high-scoring tactics against all comers this fall.

Second is the geographic location of the rivalry. Midland is just 16 miles to the west of Bay City, with the populace closely knit because of employment at Midland and Bay City plants of Dow Chemical Co.

Third, the long-standing series between the two schools, dating back to 1924.

Medics Honor Prep Coach

Trophy for Okie Johnson

DETROIT (U. of D.) — Muskegon Heights coach Oscar E. (Okie) Johnson, one of Michigan's most successful and best known high school coaches, was honored at a banquet here last night.

Johnson, now in his 31st season at Muskegon Heights, was presented a trophy for his outstanding record.

The Wayne County Assn. of Physicians and Surgeons of Osteopathic Medicine, Inc., sponsored the banquet. The trophy was presented by Dr. Richard A. Johnson. Also honored were William F. Beyer, presented a plaque for his work in amateur tennis, and John F. Ivory, who received an award for his long service to amateur athletics. Both are from Detroit.

Under Johnson's coaching, Muskegon Heights football teams have won 180 games, lost 60 and tied 18. His basketball teams have won three Class A titles in the past four years.

Some 500 physicians, coaches and athletes attended the banquet. A large group of Johnson admirers from Muskegon Heights was on hand.

You have to be partial for one reason or another to pick a winner in this one.

On paper, you'd have to string along with Bay City Central's coach, Elmer Engel, if for no other reason than the "Indian sign" he's had over the Wolves the last seven years. Since taking over as coach of the Wolves in 1930, Engel has never lost a Midland game. This includes a mediocre first year, when he won the first game he coached in Bay City from Midland, 12-6.

Bay City Central's field will be taxed with a turnout of 10,000. This will include bleachers being transported this week from Midland to fill both end zones and augment the 7,500 regular capacity of the Wolves' stadium.

The game shapes up as Midland's running attack, centered around seniors Mike Westley at quarterback and Leroy Milner, halfback, and Bay City's passing, with junior Jerry Gross on the slinging end to probably the best corps of receivers ever to play in a Wolf uniform.

Prime targets for Gross to date have been ends Jim Schultz and Bob Bishop, and halfbacks Ken Swinicki and Butch Kokaly.

In five starts Gross has connected on 45 of 64 passes, a 70.3 percentage, for 959 yards and 12 touchdowns.

There have been two common opponents to date, Flint Central and Saginaw Arthur Hill. Midland opened with a 25-7 victory over Flint Central and crushed Arthur Hill 33-0. Bay City stopped Flint Central on Oct. 14, 47-6, and last Friday worked out a 26-6 triumph over Arthur Hill.

8,000 Welcome Colts

Graham Helped Unitas With Passing Success

NEW YORK (INS) — In the Baltimore Colts' training camp this past summer, Otto Graham, Cleveland's former great quarterback, 1936, once was blocked from an NFL job by none other than Graham.

It has paid off handsomely so far as the Colts are concerned. Around the National Football League they're calling Johnny the nearest thing to Graham since Otto himself retired.

The 24-year-old ex-sandlotter has been virtually the whole offensive show for the surprising Colts, winners of three of their first four games. He has completed a dozen touchdowns passes and tops the league in passing yardage with 794.

Percentage-wise, he's third in the NFL with 54 completions in 87 attempts. Last Sunday, although the Colts suffered their first loss at Detroit, Unitas had his best day of the season with 14 completions in 23 attempts for 241 yards and all four Baltimore TDs.

Oddly enough, Unitas, who cost the Colts only an 80-cent phone call when they signed him in February, 1936, once was blocked from an NFL job by none other than Graham.

That was in 1935, Johnny, a star at the University of Louisville, was Pittsburgh's ninth draft choice but didn't even get a play in an exhibition game. After the Steelers released him, he tried to catch on with the Browns. But Graham had just decided to come out of retirement for one more season, and they didn't need Unitas.

Johnny had been playing for a sandlot team when Don Kelleff, general manager of the Colts, telephoned him at his home in Pittsburgh and invited him to join Baltimore. Unitas ranked fifth among Western Conference passers last season, and his sharpshooting this season has been a major factor in the Colts' fast start.

It also has resulted in teammate Jim Mutscheller leading the NFL in scoring. The former Notre Dame end has grabbed seven touchdowns passes for 42 points.

Despite the Colts' first reversal, local fans remain as delirious as Milwaukee baseball buffs. A crowd of 8,000, including Mayor Tommy D'Alesandro, greeted the team at the airport after the loss to Detroit.

Ticket sales, on a solid foundation of more than 26,000 season books, still are booming. A crowd of 45,000 is expected for next Sunday's game with Green Bay, and the baseball Orioles would welcome a few audiences like that.

Moore Agrees to Title Fight

Archie's Managers Sign Today for Detroit Bout With Chuck Spieser

DETROIT (U. of D.) — Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore's managers were in Detroit today to sign a contract for Moore to defend his title against Chuck Spieser at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum "early in January."

The signing was scheduled this afternoon in the offices of the Michigan Boxing Commission. Co-managers Jack (Doc) Kearns and Charley Johnston will sign for Moore.

Joe Spieser, manager of the fourth-ranked contender, will sign for his brother.

Moore has been offered a $100,000 guarantee for the 15-round title fight. A check for $10,000 was posted last week as first payment and the remaining $90,000 will be deposited with the boxing commission today, Spieser's manager said.

Moore's decision to defend his title against Spieser was applauded by Gilbert H. Jackson, president of the National Boxing Assn.

Coast Racing Resumed

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (U. of D.) — A month-long strike that threatened racing at California's major tracks ended late last night and the abbreviated season at Tanforan — where the walkout started — resumes tomorrow.

Local 280 of the Part-Mutuel Clerks Guild voted to accept a $4 daily pay raise spread over three years in boosts of $2, $1 and $1. The clerks struck at Tanforan Sept. 23, after 13 days of racing, asking $5.30. The tracks offered $3.50.

Lake Orion Tied for 8th

Marshall Rated 1st in 'B'

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Maynard Clark's Marshall Redskins are the No. 1 high school football team in the state's Class B ranks for the second week in a row.

Although their game with Coldwater was set back last week because of the flu outbreak, the Redskins held on to the top spot in the weekly Associated Press ratings although the rest of the "top ten" underwent quite a shakeup.

Only one other position in the rankings, made by the AP's panel of experts, remained the same as upsets dominated the action last Friday night. East Lansing's once-defeated Trojans strengthened their third-place spot although they, too, were forced to sit out the week as their game with Albion was postponed because of flu.

Charlotte is riding a 13-game winning streak—five this season—and its 33-0 triumph over Grand Ledge pushed the Orioles into second place, their highest rating of the campaign.

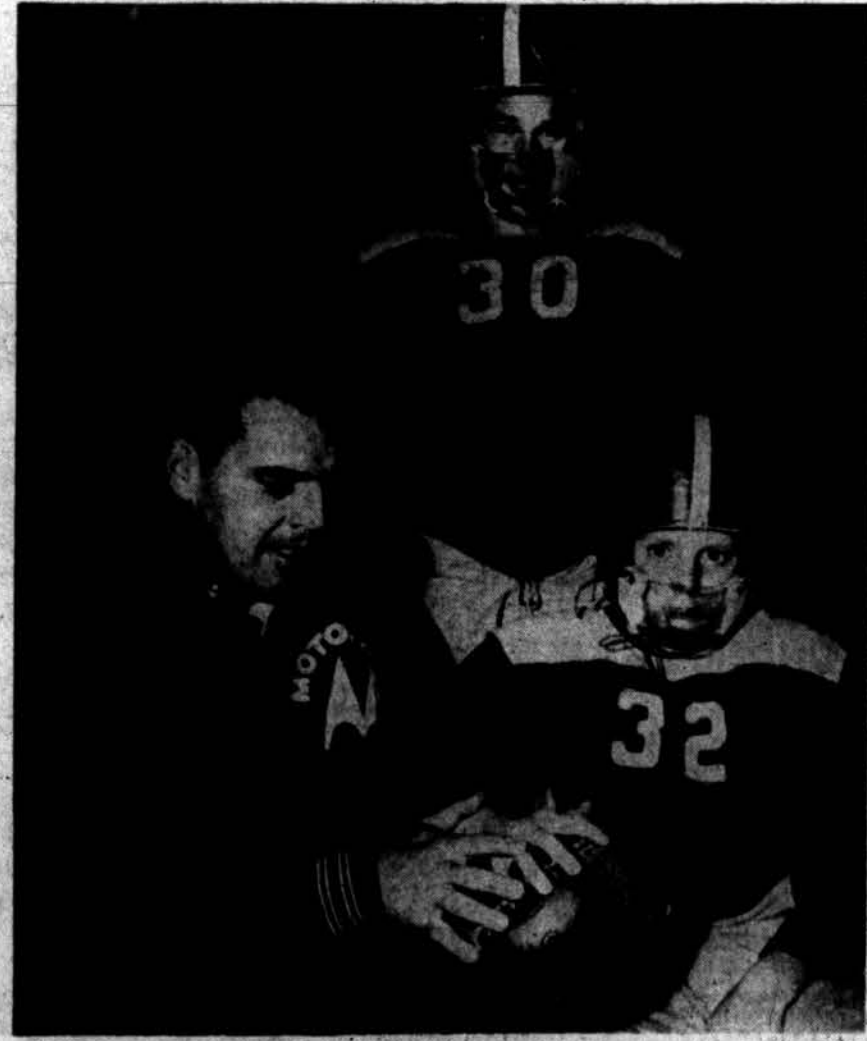

Fremont, Alma and Lake Orion shared the bottom three places. Lake Orion won its fourth without a defeat, upsetting previously-unbeaten Clawson, 12-8. Clawson had been rated ninth.

Here's how the Class B panel rated the top ten teams around the state:

1. Marshall (5-0)
2. Charlotte (5-0)
3. East Lansing (3-1)
4. Manistee (4-0)
5. Dowagiac (4-0)
6. South Haven (4-0)
7. Grand Blanc (3-2-3)
8. (3-way tie) Fremont (4-0)
9. Lake Orion (3-1)
10. Lake Orion (4-0)

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (U. of D.) — Bobby Boyd, the comebacking Chicago middleweight, bids for his sixth straight victory tonight in a nationally televised 10-round bout against Germany's Franz Suzina at the War Memorial Auditorium.

LESSONS FROM THE MASTER — Otto Graham, former pro quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, demonstrates for a couple future stars Mike Grimes (standing) and Mike Smith, members of the Oklahoma City Little Football League. Graham spoke to the Oklahoma City Quarterback Club last night, where he said, "A football player has a moral obligation to be a leader, because of his influence on youth."

Oosterbaan Denies He's Quitting Post

Michigan Coach Refutes Report Out of Chicago

Story Says Bennie Will Yield Reins to Elliott Next Season

ANN ARBOR (U) — Football coach Bennie Oosterbaan last night denied again a report he would step aside at the end of this season to take a position as assistant to Michigan athletic director H. O. "Fritz" Crisler.

The report, published by a Chicago newspaper, said Oosterbaan would step aside in favor of Chalmers "Bump" Elliott, now backfield coach at Michigan.

Similar reports circulated when Elliott returned to the Michigan campus last February from Iowa. "They had me quitting two years ago, too," Oosterbaan said. "There's absolutely nothing to it either now or in the foreseeable future."

A reshuffled Michigan lineup will face Minnesota Saturday in a game considered "a must victory" for the Wolverines.

Michigan has to win over the favored Gophers to remain in contention for the Big Ten title. A loss would give the Wolverines a 1-2 league mark. No twice defeated team has ever won the conference title.

The long awaited promotion of sophomore Brad Myers to starting right halfback now is a reality. He actually was in the opening lineup last week against Northwestern instead of Mike Shatusky who had started the first three games this season.

But coach Bennie Oosterbaan said the move then was a temporary gesture. "Shatusky's arm was injured," Oosterbaan said, "so I was forced to start Myers."

Myers' performance against the Wildcats cemented his promotion. He proved an agile pass receiver, leaping to snare two Stan Noskin spirals for 27 yards.

Gophers a Riddle After Loss to Illinois

Minnesota Team Puzzling

MINNEAPOLIS (U) — If Michigan's coaching staff is baffled about what to expect from Minnesota here Saturday it has plenty of company.

Right now all bets are off on the Gophers. At the midway point of the season the team is a riddle. It could still be one of the best in the conference, or its lofty early season ranking might have been spectacular misjudgment.

Minnesota's 34-13 whipping by Illinois last week was one of the team's worst of the last five years.

Its problem today is to forget about it and accept it as something that has happened to good teams before in the Big Ten rough and tumble.

Michigan must know the feeling. The depression that hit the Gophers this weekend was identical to the one at Michigan after the Michigan State game.

Minnesota has too many good football players to be defeatist about the Little Brown Jug battle here Saturday.

"I think we can come back," said end Perry Gehring, whose smashing play against the Wolverines last season earned him "lineman of the week" honors.

The Gophers, however, have no illusions about the dimensions of the job facing them this week. Another loss could plunge them out of title consideration.

Two of their most reliable players, quarterback Dick Larson and tackle Frank Youso, probably will not play. Michigan appears to be on the rebound while the Gophers' self-confidence was badly dented by Illinois.

Against two relatively weak opponents, Washington and Northwestern, Minnesota looked the part of a national power. Against two Big Ten teams of better quality, Purdue and Illinois, they looked inept.

Minnesota lucked out a 21-17 victory over Purdue despite an immense statistical deficit. The Gophers made only five first downs to 22 and were outgained 2 to 1.

Their situation is complicated by quarterback Bobby Cox' inability so far to match his derring do of the 1936 season.

Youso, the 250-pound anchorman tackle, was hospitalized early this week with a combination of infected teeth and the flu.

Minnesota's depth in experienced players, however, makes the club dangerous in any game. It has two heavy lines, led by proven players like Gehring, guard Bob Burkholder, end Jon Jelacic and tackle Norm Sixta.

BIG GOPHER — Bobby Cox, fleet quarterback for the University of Minnesota, will be in action against the Michigan Wolverines this Saturday at Minneapolis in a televised Big Ten football game. Cox sparked the Gophers to a 20-7 victory over Michigan at Ann Arbor last year.

Is Big Ten Best Grid League in Nation?

CHICAGO (AP) — Some Big Ten football coaches are hailing their conference the "best in the nation" in the wake of upsets engineered by Illinois and Purdue but it isn't necessarily so.

STRIKES AND SPARES
By Joe Wilman

Another one of the three basic spare angles is the 5-pin angle, used for spares in the center of the alley. And the 5-pin certainly qualifies here, for it's in the exact center of the alley.

Use your normal strike ball for converting the 5-pin. A ball, which would normally go into the 1-3 pocket, should strike the 5-pin right on the button when shooting at this single pin spare. As a matter of fact, if the first ball in the frame had hit the 1-3 pocket solidly, it wouldn't have left the 5-pin standing.

When I shoot the 5-pin, I take my stance near the center of the alley, depending upon alley conditions. I release the ball to the right of the alley's center to allow it to hook back into the 5-pin. If the alley is hooking a lot, I allow for this extra hooking action by angling my ball out a bit to the right.

Bunning Record Bengals' Best in 11 Seasons

DETROIT (AP) — In winning 20 games during the 1957 season, Jim Bunning turned in the most effective performance by a Detroit Tiger pitcher in the past 11 seasons.

The 25-year-old right hander had a .714 percentage with 20 wins and eight defeats. He had an earned run average of 2.69.

Hal Newhouser, Detroit's brilliant left hander, topped this in 1946. In that year Newhouser won 26 and lost 9 for a .743 percentage. He had an earned run average of 1.94.

over Michigan State last Saturday appear to prove there is a bit more balance in the league than was suspected.

As a conference against other leagues in the nation, the Big Ten might be the best but that will never be proven. Individually, Western Conference teams haven't fared too well against intersectional rivals.

Big Ten teams have played 16 non-conference games this season and have won 10. That's a .625 percentage and not very sparkling, considering some of the opposition.

Among the beaten teams have been Washington, Marquette and Southern California—none of which has recorded a victory against any type of opposition. Other victims such as Utah State, California and Georgia have but one triumph each to show for the season which in most cases hits the halfway mark Saturday.

Not one of the Big Ten victims is rated among the nation's top 20 teams. However, Big Ten teams have run into two of the top 20 and lost three encounters with them. Notre Dame, ranked seventh, has defeated both Indiana and Purdue's upsetting Boilermakers. UCLA, ranked 15th, took care of the other upsetter—Illinois—early in the season.

Iowa remains the only undefeated and untied conference team and the Hawkeyes had to scramble to nose out Washington State in the last four minutes a couple of weeks ago.

League balance has been a big factor in that Iowa is the only undefeated team but Ohio State, Northwestern, Illinois and Purdue all met with their initial losses against non-league foes. Indiana was shared that dubious distinction only because it opened against Michigan State.

Nevertheless, some Big Ten coaches snugly believe their conference is the best. Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes summed up the general sentiment with this statement to the Chicago Football Writers yesterday:

"The Big Ten is the strongest league in the country and nobody can argue with that."

So it may be. The Big Ten champion—or runnerup—will go out to the Rose Bowl and probably beat one of the Pacific Coast Conference "eligibles" and another cycle will be completed.

But maybe the Big Ten is slipping. Last year Western Conference teams had a 19-4 record against non-league foes. They'll not approach that mark this season and could falter more next season when the new athletic aid plan—through which many top gridiron prospects are being lost to other schools—starts taking its toll.

By 1960, the idea of Big Ten football superiority might be a thing of the past.

Pastrano Convinces Britons With Win

LONDON 23 — Willie Pastrano, 21-year-old boxer from New Orleans, won a 10-round decision over a 23-year-old Welshman, Dick Richardson, last night in what may herald a new era in the heavy-weight world where sluggers have reigned supreme.

A sellout crowd of 11,000 at London's Harringay Stadium hailed Pastrano's victory as one man.

Illinois Make or Break Game for MSU

EAST LANSING 23 — There's a fortune waiting for the sports fan who can figure out some yardstick, gauge or other measurement to tell how high a football team is going to be on any given Saturday.

But it seems to be one of those intangibles that won't yield to the crystal ball treatment — like whether the fish are going to be biting or the horses running according to form.

"I still can't figure out a team in advance," admitted one, as close to the scene as Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty with a head shake. "Even going down the ramp with a team before the game, I can't tell whether they will go or not."

The Illinois game this Saturday should be a make or break one for the MSU Spartans.

So you try to weigh whether the Illinois will be at a fighting peak after the 34-13 upset of Minnesota. Or will they suffer a letdown after the all-out effort?

Will Michigan State bounce back after the stunning upset by Purdue? Will the hoopla of a homecoming game help any? Or did Michigan State hit its season's high against Michigan?

Michigan State had just been that night at Champaign and Eliot was hailed by his loyal backers as a conquering hero. How can you measure the part spirit played in that victory?

The Illinois previously had lost three in a row and were scheduled to go down fighting—but to go down.

It was the Illinois homecoming and every fraternity was playing up the theme of dumping the Spartans.

One student group had criticized veteran coach Ray Eliot with some sotto voce "off with his head" whispers.

The gentlemanly and soft-spoken Eliot, the Big Ten football coach with the longest tenure in the conference, is immensely popular on his own campus and around the entire circuit.

An immediate reaction set in and all of Champaign swung the other way to show it was behind Eliot. The football team led the loyalty demonstration.

Despite this epidemic of football fever, it looked as if Michigan State had the game safely tucked away at the halftime with a 13-0 lead. Jimmy Wulf had scored one touchdown and Clarence Peaks another.

Then Peaks, who had been defending against Illinois sprinter Abe Woodson, was knocked out by a knee fracture. Woodson ran wild for three touchdowns in the second half, the last two on 70-yard and 82-yard down-stadium runs.

Drake Still 1st; Gacki Tops Area With 85 County Scoring Race Tightening Up

By CHUCK ABRAHAM
The Oakland County individual scoring race was the tightest it has been all season today following five weeks of prep action.

Jim Drake of Lake Orion maintains the lead for the 3rd straight week with 55 points but his scoreless performance against Clawson enabled St. Frederick's Jack Lyon and big Bill Tunnell to gain on him.

Lyon, who paced the 1st two weeks, and Tunnell have 43 points apiece. Lyon has only played three games to carry the best average of the trio.

However, the situation is just the opposite in the county area scoring department. Larry Gacki is threatening to run away from the field. His five touchdowns Sunday gave him 85 points in four starts.

Many of the top point-getters around this section were sidelined again last weekend by the flu bug. They included Cranbrook ace Stu

Clark, who has 35 points in only two games, Tom and Paul Underhill of South Lyon and Dick Stokes of Troy.

Chuck Graves of Orionville dropped to 3rd in the county

Gavilan Loses Split Decision

Winner Gaspar Ortega Promised to Get Crack at Welter Title

LOS ANGELES 23 — The bongo drums boomed out a sad beat today for Kid Gavilan, possibly tolling the end of his dream of recapturing the world welterweight crown.

The 31-year-old kid lost a split decision last night to 22-year-old Gaspar Ortega of Mexico in a 12-round fight at Wrigley field before an estimated crowd of 7,500, who paid $21,400—well below expectations.

The winner was promised a match with another contender for the title, Vince Martinez, in an elimination series to fill the title vacated by Carmen Basilio.

Referee Frankie Van gave the decision to Ortega, 115-113, on California's 10-point per round scoring system, and Judge Tommy Hart carded it 115-112 for the lad from Tijuana. Judge Dynamite Jackson saw it Gavilan, 117-113.

The Associated Press scored it 116-115 for Ortega. Most of the ringside writers, however, had Gavilan the winner.

Maples Win EML Crown

Trip Kimball in Windup

Birmingham High School's all-winning harriers yesterday afternoon wrapped up the Eastern Michigan league cross-country dual title, 22-36. Victory was the Maples' 4th straight dual title and stretched Coach Kermit Ambrose's record to 8-in-a-row this fall and his 20th consecutive win. Maples are unbeaten in dual meets for the last two years, and they haven't lost an EML dual in four years.

Royal Oak Kimball, a new school in the EML, was unbeaten in loop action until yesterday. The school boasts a 5-1 mark now, a very fine record for a first-year entry, Ambrose says.

Birmingham reserves, also unbeaten in four years, won the reserve meet 19-43.

Lee Tout, an improving and talented distance runner, was home first over the wet Royal Oak course in 10:37, less than five seconds off the layout's record.

race with 46 digits as he and the entire Blackhawks team went scoreless against Oxford Monday.

Holding down 4th is Ray Kowchewich of Oak Park with 37, while Tom Ridley of Southfield and Troy teammates Wayne Figley and Gary Littleton have tallied 36 apiece.

John Lucadam, who has passed or ran for most of West Bloomfield's points this season, had the best one-man scoring night of any one around the county last time out with two touchdowns and two extra point conversions. He also chipped in with a TD pass.

Cup Test Opens Tomorrow

U.S. Pair Defends Title

TOKYO (AP)—Golf's World Series the Canada Cup competition, begins here tomorrow with two Yanks whose total age is 92 years favored over topline professionals from 29 other nations.

Sam Snead, 45, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Jimmy Demaret, 47, of Klamath Lake, N.Y., will defend the team and individual championships won in England last year by Snead and the now ailing Ben Hogan.

Tee time is 9:30 a.m. local time, or 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, EST, with Japan's Torakichi Nakamura hitting the first ball down the fairway of the picturesque Kasumigaseki Country Club.

This is a rolling 7,000-yard layout beautifully landscaped with towering pines and generously dotted with glowering sand traps hungry for any wayward shot.

Each of 30 countries is represented by two top pros who will compete over 72 holes — 18 holes a day — through Sunday to decide the Canada Cup title based on aggregate scores and the International Trophy given the player with the best medal.

Hogan won the individual prize a year ago at Wentworth and teamed with Snead to capture the Canada Cup.

Snead and Demaret tee off at 10:34 a.m. local time, or 8:34 p.m. EST, with Belgium's Flori Van Donck and Arthur De Vulder.

After testing Kasumigaseki's exacting par 36-72 the last four days, the golfing internationalists have virtually agreed that a score of 280 — an average of 70 a round — should be good enough to lead the field. Most figure 282 or 284 as the likely best score.

Both Snead and Demaret, who took it easy today, acknowledged that a quartet of 70s would be an excellent score and they said they would settle for that.

Snead, who has been sizzling in practice, said, "the course is in wonderful shape but the greens will be tricky. They won't hold a pitch and the tough texture of the grass makes putting tough."

Chief threats to the Americans probably are the Australian team of Peter Thomson and Bruce Crampton and the four British tandems from England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, who recently mopped up with America's Ryder Cup forces.

Tufts Seeks Small Grid Supremacy Cup in East

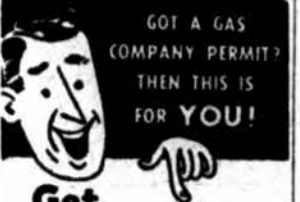

NEW YORK (AP)—Undeclared Tufts moved up today to challenge unbeaten Lehigh in competition for the first annual Lambert Cup, emblematic of eastern small college football supremacy.

Lehigh maintained its top position by defeating Rutgers last week for its fourth straight victory, and eight in a row over two seasons. The selection committee gave Lehigh nine first place votes, Amherst two, and Rhode Island one.

Ace That Didn't Count

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Mrs. Clara Priddy of Richmond has been playing golf for more than 30 years and was Virginia state women's champion in 1930 but until last spring she'd never made a hole-in-one. When she finally made an ace, she came back to the clubhouse weeping. She had been playing alone and it wasn't official.

The new Michigan State University golf course is expected to be ready for play next spring.

Virginia Halfback Is 'Back of Week'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
For his great all-around performance against Virginia Tech, James Abou Hassan Bakhtiar, an honest-to-gosh Persian prince who plays fullback for the University of Virginia, today was selected as The Associated-Press Back of the Week.

Bakhtiar beat out a pair of Big Ten quarterbacks who engineered two of last Saturday's biggest upsets, Purdue's sophomore Ross Fichtner and Tom Haller of Illinois.

The 200-pound Virginia fullback, whose home is Abadan, Iran, equalled the Atlantic Coast Conference scoring record and missed tying "workhorse" record by three carries as he led the Cavaliers to a 38-7 surprise victory over VPI, a six-point favorite.

Leaders Change Quickly

Pheasant 'Derby' Fast, Furious

By H. GUY MOATS

Speediest shifts in leadership of the two divisions of The Pontiac Press "pheasant derby" in the long history of the annual fall hunting competition took place Monday and yesterday.

State's fall game season got under way Monday morning, and the race for the $50 and $25 U. S. Savings bonds began in a welter of entries. Most entries for the first two days of any season were checked in, and the leads changed by the hour. On several occasions a new leader held his spot for only a few minutes, before a better bird came along.

Big increase in early entries probably reflects the fact that birds are in much greater numbers than anticipated. Most hunters have had little difficulty taking their daily limits and many reports have come in where whole flocks of roosters have been observed.

Present leaders in The Press Contest are:

Heaviest bird — 3-pounds 6½-ounces, downed by former city baseball leaguer Don Ernst, at Meade, near Romeo, on Tuesday. Ernst's entry displaced one filed only a half hour before by 11-year-old Paul Wendell Page, 39 North Tilden, Pontiac. Paul's rooster was a 3-pound 3-ounce bird. He was the fourth entry of the day to displace a previous "big" entry. It was Paul's first pheasant hunting jaunt and his first bird.

Ernst was hunting with his dad, Joseph, 57 Fiddis, and both got their limits. Don, who lives at 638 East Tremyon, said he had to run across three fields back of his dog to get the leader. "Gave me a real workout," Ernst remarked.

Longest bird — a 38½-inch long entry shot by Hal Mercer, 390 Robert, Auburn Heights near Pontiac airport Tuesday while hunting with Lester Pitcock. Both were successful, but Mercer's bird ousted one brought in an hour earlier by Pontiac officer Keith Breckenridge, 6365 Snowapple, Clarkston. The officer's bird was an eighth of an inch shorter. Mercer said he knew where his big rooster could be found, 2nd day of the duck season (Oct. 1) and planned then, after hearing it crowing, to go after it when the season opened. It was still there, all right.

Among other early entries that failed to hold up were those of Earl Ashby (3-pounds), 4061 Cass-Elizabeth road; Glenn H. Auten, 1146 West Huron (2-pounds, 15½-ounces); Gene Moore and wife, 14-South Tasmania (each got limit) and James Hillman, 1032 Davis road (his son Charles, 13, also bagged a nice rooster).

FAST HUNTING TRIP — Within 20 minutes after the opening of the state's fall small-game hunting season the above five Pontiac area men had their daily limits of two birds each. And the fast hunting trip, at Caro, had produced the first entry for the 1937 Pontiac Press "big pheasant derby." Howard Holeman, 4007

Fast Trigger Causes Misses

Slow Up, Hunters Told

By JACK PATTERSON

For 25 years we've frequently and solemnly pledged to ourselves that we'd never again miss a dead easy shot on a game bird. We might as well have spent the time teaching a fish to whistle because as recently as day before yesterday we demonstrated that our ability to miss "gimmes" is still uncanny. The worst part of the thing is that we know the precise reason for these impossible misses, yet this knowledge provides no answer.

We were spending a few days up at the Alcona diggings along with a quorum of birdwatchers when the secret of upland shooting, in all its appalling simplicity, struck us (as it has many times before) with great force. We were listening to an uncommonly interesting football game and making life miserable for the sole Michigan State graduate present, one Robert Glenn.

Occasionally we turned our thoughts to the mechanics of shooting, particularly missing. At first we were tempted to take the easy way out.

It is a fact that game bird performance has at least kept pace with the evolution of military aircraft. Partridge, once credited with a top speed of 35 m.p.h. now take off at between 750 and 800 m.p.h. and become supersonic in the first 15 feet. Pheasants stall out at speeds much below 1000 m.p.h. and even the laggard woodcock now has an average cruising speed of 300. That's the way it seems to us.

Yes, it would have been easy to lay the blame for simple misses to the blinding speeds of today's game birds. But it wouldn't be right. Real reason that we miss birds and you miss birds, is that each and every one of us shoots too soon.

Just paste that gem in your hat. We shoot too soon. In spite of its dazzling performance, the bird is at proper range just about the time your gun is empty.

But like we say, knowing this and doing something about it are not exactly two peas in a pod. We can try, however. It takes nerves of steel, frosty determination.

What we must do is dawdle, for a moment, when the bird flushes. A simple counting up to three will do the trick.

We saw a good example of too-quick shooting on the way down through Tuscola County Monday. A car ahead ground to a halt, seven hunters and a nondescript black dog piled out, strewing guncases over hood, roof and road and plunged at full speed into the adjoining field.

Well, the bird got up and there was a tremendous, hurried barrage, and the bird kept on going. Point is, one calculated, UNHURRIED shot from the brigade would have tumbled the bird like a Comet II.

We could offer other examples of the virtues of the calm approach, but everyone who has been affield more than once should know them. Anyway we hear the docks need thinning out at the Flats and we'll have to kill part of the week, and maybe some fat fowl, sneak-shooting by the old lighthouse.

Season's Start Best in Years

IMLAY CITY (INS) — Conservation officials said today the "opening" on small game in Southern Michigan was one of the best in recent history.

A record number of birds were taken by a record number of gunners although even a larger army of shotguns is expected this weekend.

The black mark against Michigan's oldest sport was a toll of wounded hunters that reached 23 at the close of the first day. State game officers reported at least four hunters died of heart attacks while pounding the brush.

Imlay City conservation headquarters estimated 600,000 small game hunters will enter the fields before the season ends Nov. 30.

Fair weather and nearly ideal conditions greeted gunners Monday. The ratio of ringneck to hen pheasants was up from last year, according to the field men.

Some veteran hunters in the Thumb area said the ratio was as much as 80 per cent in favor of cocks.

Williams to Lead Bridge Motorcade

ST. IGNACE — Friday, Nov. 1, will be an epochal date in the history of the Upper Peninsula and of Michigan.

On that date, the massive $100,000,000 Mackinac Bridge will be opened, and representatives from all sections of the state, led by Governor Williams, will be on hand to take part in festivities.

Actual dedication of the structure across the Straits of Mackinac will be delayed until next June. Two motorcades are being organized for historic crossings of the bridge on opening day.

Solunar Tables

Now that fall hunting season is under way the outdoorsman may make good use of the solunar periods, prepared for this area by John Alden Knight. There's still good fishing and the tables can be of material assistance, there also. Check with the table to ascertain the best times for your sport. Major periods are from an hour and a half to two hours, minor periods somewhat less.

Misguided Hunter Takes Child's Pet

Some misguided hunter, with little regard for the property of others, has just about broken the heart of a little girl, says the child's parent, Albert W. Biron, 50 James St., Pontiac.

Biron wrote this department that his seven-year-old daughter was given a dog the year of her birth, and it has been her constant, inseparable companion since, until the other day when the little black female cocker was taken from Biron's front yard.

"She is a good hunting dog," Biron wrote and added, "but she's a better pet for my child." Biron wrote that if the dog is returned, it will make a very sorrowful little girl very happy again.

NRA Suggests Ways to Make Firearms Safe

Offers Hints on How to 'Housebreak' Pet Hunting Weapons

ALL OUTDOORS (INS) — The National Rifle Association asks hunters, "Are your pet firearms housebroke?"

The question means: Are the guns that you have around the house safe?

NRA officials say a safe gun is one which is unloaded and uncocked. Ammunition is safe when it is locked up and out of reach of children and uninformed adults.

Other hints on how to housebreak your gun:

When showing a gun to visitors — open the action, remove the magazine, don't trust the safety and point it in a safe direction.

When cleaning a gun — open the action and again remove the magazine, check it mechanically and then check the bore.

When transporting a gun — unload it, uncock it, carry it in a case or wrapped, then continue to handle it as if it were a loaded weapon. Especially in these cool days during the hunting seasons, thousands of Michigan residents are checking over their firearms. Now is the time to teach youngsters and new hunters gun safety.

To make trips affield more pleasant join the NRA hunter safety program. The course may be conducted by any "sincere and qualified instructor who will utilize the plan established by the NRA to insure that a good job is done."

An NRA bulletin said the students must receive proper instruction in their early days of hunting to make them safer affield. Statistics proved in California that youngsters who completed the NRA safety course were 19 times safer affield than those who did not take the course.

Groups or individuals who desire to sponsor this course should write to the National Rifle Association, 1600 Rhode Island Ave., Washington 6, D.C.

Pheasant Hunting Good; Pressure Just Moderate

LANSING (IN) — Pheasant hunting is good and the birds still are plentiful.

That was the word from state game experts today after a survey of pheasant hunting areas across southern Michigan.

Nearly everywhere, hunters reported shooting as good or better than last year during the first two days of the three-week season. Ideal hunting weather, sunny and cool, greeted the more than 400,000 hunters who took to the field in quest of the million-plus pheasant crop.

Largely because of the Monday opening, hunters were fewer in numbers than last year's opening day, which fell on a Saturday. Hunter pressure was reported only moderate.

Another big army of shooters is expected to go after pheasants on the weekend, and they should have pretty good hunting, according to Dr. Don Douglass of the state conservation department.

"Comparatively moderate hunting pressure and lots of good cover left plenty of birds for those who couldn't go hunting on Monday," he said.

The Thumb area, traditionally the best pheasant country, produced the biggest take, about the same as last year. Better success than in 1936 was reported through most of Central Michigan and as far west as Berrien County, normally slim pickings for pheasant hunters.

An exception was Newaygo County, where hunters reported poor shooting.

Area Hunters Bag 2 Moose on Brief Trip

Big game hunters from the area have been enjoying excellent sport, in both the western U.S. and Canada, and the latest to report success are Robert Donaldson, Clarkson, and Stanley Dipinski of Pontiac. Each bagged a 1100-pound bull moose.

The two spent a week in the Batchewana Bay area, near Montreal River, Ontario. It was Dipinski's 1st moose and Donaldson got his 2nd. Donaldson shot his 1st moose a year ago in the same area.

One of the animals was downed in the margin of a lake and required a bulldozer chain hoist to drag it from the mire. Donaldson's moose sported a 54-inch spread of horns, while Dipinski's went 48 inches wide.

Governor Bags Limit on Pheasant Hunt

LANSING (IN) — Gov. Williams came home to Lansing last night with four pheasants, the legal limit, to show for two days of shooting in the lush pheasant country of the Thumb.

All the governor's hunting party, including his wife, Nancy, also took the limit. They were houseguests at the Walter Lange farm three miles east of Sebawaing.

Accompanying the governor and his wife on the trip from Lansing were Paul C. Weber, Williams' press secretary; Dr. George Selway, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church here; and Jack Wuthrich, state policeman assigned to the governor.

Miracle Mile Center Offers Great Variety of Stores

With the gala grand opening of Michigan's Miracle Mile Town and Country Shopping Center, Thursday, area residents will find one of the most varied, suburban shopping centers in the Midwest.

Some of the stores opened last month, however there are many who have just opened recently or are planning their opening for this week.

Among those opening now is the Wiegand Music Center. This modernistic music shop is managed by Bob Wiegand, of 73 Gateway Dr.

This shop specializes in the finest brand name musical instruments. They carry a complete line of pianos, organs, guitars, band instruments and accordions. Also featured in this fine shop are a complete line of radios, high fidelity equipment, records, sheet music, and accessories.

WIEGAND WHITCROFT

The Lou-Mor Jewelers will open their second shop in the Pontiac area. Glenn Whitcroft, of Oak Park, has been named manager of the new store.

The shop will carry a complete line of diamonds, nationally advertised watches, and a vast array of jewelry items. Lou-Mor Jewelers also feature a jewelry and watch repair department manned by experts.

The new Babyland shop carries a complete line of baby needs and furnishings as well as an array of toys to satisfy kids. This is the first Babyland in Pontiac area, the other being in Ferndale.

WIEGAND WHITCROFT

A co-owner of the firm, Jerry Phillips, of Detroit, will manage the store. Parents will find baby cribs, playpens, strollers, high chairs, miniature desk sets and many other furnishings for the nursery. For children there is an array of toys, games, dolls, sports equipment and model supplies.

A store serving men and boys can be found only steps away with the opening of the Capitol Shop's latest branch. This is the fourth Capitol Shop in Michigan and the co-owner, Robert Lesser, of Oak Park, has been named manager. He has been with the firm for about eight years.

The Capitol Shop carries a complete line of men's and boys' wear in the medium to upper price bracket. They offer fine clothing in the latest styles, catering largely to the man who is fashion minded.

A concern dealing in items to fit every price bracket is Craig's.

ZADOSKO ZAWIDEN

Gift Shop. This shop offers everything in gifts from the unusual to the exquisite. The manager and owner is Leo Zadosko, who has 20 years in the retail gift business behind him.

The shop will house what Zadosko describes as the largest and most complete greeting card department in Oakland County. Featured will be period furnishings of all types from colonial to modern. A highlight of the shop is a

Syria Remains Reluctant U. N. Halts Mideast Talk as Saud Tries Mediation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (U.P.)—The U.N. Assembly's debate on the Syrian-Turkish crisis went into a cooling-off period today to await results of King Saud's try at mediation.

There still was no indication from Damascus, however, that the Syrian regime would send representatives to Saudi Arabia to negotiate with the monarch and the Turks on the latest threat to peace in the Middle East.

Turkey dispatched Minister of State Fatim Rustu Zorlu and two aides to Saudi Arabia yesterday. There was speculation in Ankara, the Turkish capital, that Saud would propose at least a token withdrawal of troop reinforcements which Turkey sent to the Syrian border after pro-Soviet army officers took control in Syria.

Syria grudgingly proposed a three-day suspension of the U.N. debate, until Friday, to block a U.S.-backed Paraguayan proposal to hold up discussion indefinitely. The 52-nation Assembly approved the Syrian amendment 37-10 with 34 abstentions.

The Syrians had declared an hour earlier in the Assembly that mediation was being urged only to confuse the Assembly and demanded that debate start at once.

Airman Shoots Korean in Hunting Accident

SEOUL (U.P.)—The U.S. Air Force announced today that an American airman shot and slightly wounded a Korean youth in a hunting accident near Kangnung, on the east coast of Korea.

It was the fourth shooting of a Korean by an American this month. The other three were killed, two by soldiers guarding U.S. supplies. Korean feeling ran high for a time but has eased.

The Air Force said Airman William Collins of the 6122nd Tactical Air Command Control Group slipped and fell while hunting pheasants yesterday and accidentally fired his shotgun.

Despite vigorous denunciations by Syria and Russia, the move for delay gained quick headway among delegates after U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge welcomed Saud's efforts. He appealed to Syria to match Turkey's good faith by agreeing to take part in the talks.

The American call for mediation was quickly echoed by Afghanistan, Paraguay and in effect even by Egypt, Syria's closest Arab ally.

Lodge hailed King Saud as a great leader and urged that his efforts to attain peace be given a chance.

Report British Ship Sinking in Red Sea

SUEZ, Egypt (U.P.)—The 8,933-ton British freighter Shillong was reported sinking in the Red Sea 160 miles south of Suez today after a collision with the Belgian tanker Purfina Congo.

Suez harbor officials said three crewmen of the Shillong were killed and a number injured.

The 12,400-ton Danish tanker Skotland radioed its owners in Copenhagen it had picked up 84 survivors.

The Shillong has room for 12 passengers but it was not known if any were aboard. The large number of rescued reported by the Skotland, however, gave rise to speculation that some of them were from the Belgian tanker.

Sicilian Fisherman Battles With Octopus

RAGUSA, Sicily (U.P.)—Fishing yesterday at the coastal village of Scoglitti, Antonio Rosa felt something pull his line and with such force that he was jerked from the pier into the water. He had hooked an octopus.

Witnesses watched as the two thrashed about in the water. Then Rosa managed to reach his knife and plunged it into the octopus.

Villagers hauled out Rosa and the dead octopus. It weighed only about 20 pounds, but Rosa said the tentacles packed a mighty squeeze.

Casto Shopping Center One of Largest in Nation

Michigan's multi-million dollar Miracle Mile Shopping Center which officially celebrates its grand opening tomorrow will offer area patrons many conveniences as one of the nation's largest and most modern suburban shopping centers.

The huge shopping center, owned and developed by Don M. Casto and Don M. Casto, Jr., developers and their associate, the W. B. Gibson Co., of Columbus, Ohio, represents an investment of $10,000,000.

When future expansion is completed the estimated investment will be approximately $25,000,000. The center covers a total of 100 acres.

The center commands a highly strategic position just outside the southwest corporate limits of Pontiac, on the northeast side of Telegraph road at Square Lake road, in West Bloomfield Township.

A network of major and minor

Oakland County roads extending in all directions are connected with or intersect nine major highways converging on the location. Therefore, it is located to directly serve the densest population of Pontiac and Oakland County.

Census authorities estimate that 450,000 people live within 35 minutes driving time of the new center which boasts parking space for 5,000 cars.

The entire parking area is boulev vard lighted and blacktopped. There will be parking for 8,000 cars when expansion program has been completed.

The merchandising area now covers 400,000 square feet with reserves for an additional 600,000 square feet. There will be approximately 1,000,000 square feet of merchandising area when the expansion is completed.

In the present retail area there are approximately 2,000 merchandising departments to serve customers.

Complete integration and diversification of nearly 50 shops and services, chain stores and local independents, assures well rounded one-stop shopping.

One of the major advantages lies in the shopper's being able to drive in, park and do all his or her shopping in one localized area.

The gigantic project, which was in the planning stages early in 1955, was actually begun late last year. After the site had been adequately cleared and graded, excavating began early in 1956.

Only a bit more than one year ago, on Sept. 8, 1956, a small group of officials gathered for the formal ground-breaking ceremonies.

Since then the builders and developers have achieved such major construction items as 800,000 cubic yards of excavation and the completion of about one mile of sewers, gas and water lines.

Over 100 miles of wire have been used for electrical installation. About 1,000 tons of structural steel joists, more than eight acres of roof deck, roofing and flooring, and more than 6,000 tons of masonry have been used in the construction.

Construction figures also list an estimated 30 miles of shelving and 500 tons of air conditioning equipment have gone into the project.

Sputnik Doesn't Scare Ike One iota --Big Reason Is SAC, the B58, Snark

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Here's the big reason why Russia's sputnik doesn't scare Ike "one iota."At this very moment there are several thousand U.S. fliers high in the air above America and other parts of the world. They are the best-trained birdmen in the world, the crew members of the Strategic Air Command.At any one moment, 24 hours a day, SAC has at least 15 per cent of its flying personnel in the air in bombers.If Russia did launch a barrage of intercontinental missiles with hydrogen warheads at the U.S.
any time soon, at least this 15 per cent of SAC's bombers would begin instant retaliatory missions capable of devastating Russia's biggest cities.Plenty of SAC's other bombers would get into the air in a matter of minutes for retaliation, too. This is why Russia isn't believed likely to let loose with its ICBMs in spite of all of Khrushchev's threats.Flushed with world astonishment at Russia's success with its satellite, Khrushchev also boasted that this development automatically relegated manned bombers to museums.Having just been briefed on the capabilities of SAC, new U.S. Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy at his first press conference said:"I think Mr. Khrushchev would like to have the manned bombers obsolete. That would suit him right down to the ground. The manned bomber must be his nightmare, if he has any."SAC is also in the process of dispensing its bases to make a more complex, difficult target system for the enemy. It is incorporating jets into its tanker refueling fleet, which will greatly increase the speed and range of its planes.By the first of the year it will have its first intercontinental missile wing in operation, equipped with the Snark. The Snark is powered with a conventional jet engine but is capable of missions longer than 5,000 miles at near-supersonic speeds.A few weeks ago new SAC commander Gen. Thomas S. Power personally flew the new Convair
B-58 Hustler more than 1,500 m.p.h.
Thirty B-58s are now on order and this plane appears likely to be ordered in mass quantity soon.

THE SNARK

THE B-58

For 11 years SAC has maintained a state of combat readiness, probably unequalled in military history.As soon as a bomber touches the ground after a mission it is re-fueled. That's so no time would be lost in getting it off the ground again if war should come.Electronic calculators keep an hour-by-hour check of the status and readiness of every man and aircraft in SAC. This is to give the Charges Ike, Macmillan Planning Aggression

HONG KONG (U-Peiping today echoed Russian charges that President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan are meeting to "draw a secret aggressive plan against Arab countries."An editorial from the semi-official Peiping newspaper Ta Kung Pao, broadcast by the Red Chinese radio, accused Macmillan of "scheming a Middle East Munich" and charged the British government with "supporting United States aggressive actions."

Man Arrested in Crossburning

Previously Accused of Painting 'KKK' on Home of Levittown NegroLEVITTOWN, Pa. (U)—A man previously accused of painting
"KKK" on a Levittown house was one of two men arrested yesterday in connection with a cross-burning here last Sept. 29.Both incidents occurred after a period of crowd protests and violence following the arrival of this suburban community's first Negro family in August.State police arrested the man, Howard R. Bentcliff, 45, along with Eldred Williams, 48, both of Levittown.Bentcliff was released in $500 bail Oct. 18 on malicious mischief and criminal libel charges. He was accused of painting the letters "KKK" on a house next door to the home of William Myers Jr., the new Negro resident.Bentcliff and his wife had been arrested Aug. 14 when police dispersed a crowd near the Myers home. Bentcliff was discharged, but his wife was fined $10 and costs for disorderly conduct.Justice of the Peace John Melvin released Bentcliff in $500 bail for further hearing on Friday. Williams pleaded guilty and was released in $500 bail for court.State police said the two men admitted making the cross and setting it afire on the lawn of Peter von Blum in the early morning of Sept. 26.Iowa was once owned by both France and Spain.

British Vicar Jazzes the Lord's Prayer

LONDON — A jazzed recording of the Lord's Prayer is on sale in Britain. It is part of a so-called Twentieth Century Mass—an ordinary mass set to music in the popular idiom, using the rhythms of the foxtrot, waltz, be-guine and march.It was written by Father Geoffrey Beaumont, 54-year-old vicar of St. George's, Camberwell. The mass and two hymns have been recorded on a long-playing record.In one or two instances — notably in the Lord's Prayer — the effect is almost rock 'n roll. It has already been sung in several churches but is expected to prove controversial.

2 Hogs, Dogs' Teeth 'Pay' for Woman's Life

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea—The chief justice of the Territory of Papua-New Guinea, A. H. Mann, recently succeeded in persuading members of a primitive tribe to accept compensation for the death of a woman accidentally killed by her husband.

After the evidence had been explained, the two families conferred and agreed to accept two hogs and two necklaces of dogs' teeth instead of demanding the traditional price of the life of a member of the husband's family.

Ottoman Emperors Had Talent for Poetry

ISTANBUL—Probably no other imperial dynasty in the world was gifted with so much poetic talent as that in Turkey, where 9 out of every 10 Ottoman emperors were poets.

They wrote mostly lyric poetry, and apparently their preoccupation with letters did not keep them from being good administrators, for the most outstanding of the poetry was written by Suleiman the Magnificent and Mohammed the Conqueror, both of whom rank among the great rulers of the empire.

Seek Missing Instruments

Scientific Equipment Is Looted From Gondola of High-Altitude Balloon

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. (AP)—A search for scientific instruments looted from the gondola of a Navy high-altitude balloon extended today to Chicago and Milwaukee.

About 20 per cent of the equipment has been recovered, officials said, but the most important instrument, a camera, is still missing. The recovered articles include a radio, the log book and some records.

Otto C. Winzen, president of the Winzen Research Corp., who came here from Minneapolis to direct salvage of the equipment, said the FBI is attempting to trace some of the missing items to Chicago and Milwaukee.

The search extended to those cities, Winzen said, on the theory that they were carried away by souvenir hunters.

The balloon came down in a swamp about 25 miles southeast of here in the Hermansville area of Upper Michigan last Friday.

Most of the articles recovered so far have been turned in voluntarily.

Winzen said immunity from prosecution was offered if the items were returned immediately.

GE Man-Made Diamonds Equal Tiny Natural Stones

DETROIT (AP)—General Electric said its man-made diamonds have proved the equal of natural stones in everything but size and it is ready to produce them in substantial quantities.

The company first announced 2½ years ago that it had successfully produced diamonds in a laboratory. Since then it has made more than 100,000 carats of the stones.

Kenneth R. Beardslee, general manager of the metallurgical products department of GE which is located in Detroit, said that all methods of comparison "show our man-produced diamonds to be identical" with the natural stones.

Beardslee said expansion of the company's diamond section in 1958 "should bring us well along toward our objective of providing a dependable domestic source."

GE officials said current price of man-made ungraded diamond is slightly above the cost of natural stones. They said improved techniques should bring down the price gradually until it will meet or beat the price of the imported gems.

SIZE OF COARSE SAND

So far the largest man-made diamonds have been about the size of grains of coarse sand.

General Electric officials, at a special news conference today, said they don't expect to compete at the jeweler's with natural diamonds.

John D. Kennedy, manager of GE's Diamond section, said only a small fraction of the natural diamonds in the world are suitable for decorative purposes.

The man-made diamonds, displayed today in small piles that looked like sand from a boy's pockets, appeared grayish black in color. Individually under microscope, the stones have many variations in color.

GE estimates that seven million carats of crushed diamonds will be imported this year for industrial use. Industrial diamonds are used mainly for grinding processes.

Marines Reorganize Battle Concepts

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (INS)—Gen. Randolph Pate has disclosed that the Marine Corps is reorganizing into a streamlined, smaller and faster striking force.

The Marine commandant told a Navy League meeting that the new leatherneck divisions will be smaller in number, much lighter in vehicles and equipment, much faster on their feet and will carry far more powerful weapons.

The general said the new battle concept will stress the use of helicopters in both transportation and attack and that it will "exploit the potential of vertical attack."

Gen. Pate said the plan already has been put in effect with the First Marine Division at Camp Pendleton and with the Third Aircraft Wing at El Toro Marine Air Base, both in southern California.

Benson to Visit Eleven Nations

To Make 24-Day Trip as World Salesman for U.S. Farm Products

WASHINGTON (INS)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson announced yesterday that he will leave Tuesday on an 11-nation, 24-day trip as a super world salesman for American farm products.

Benson, who will be accompanied by two of his daughters, Beverly, 20, and Bonnie, 17, and five staff assistants, told newsmen he hopes his efforts "will open additional doors for American farm products."

The trip will mark Benson's most intensive on-the-road effort to shift surplus farm products from U. S. storage bins to the markets of American allies.

Benson said he is making the sales trip, his second journey abroad since he joined the Eisenhower cabinet in 1953, in the wake of "the most successful year in our history as an agriculture exporting nation."

He declared: "I am especially gratified by the fact a large increase in our commercial exports played an important part in our reaching this record level of exports."

"The productiveness of the LARGEST IN AREA — The new Kroger Supermarket shown here, which celebrates its grand opening at the Miracle Mile Shopping Center tomorrow, is the newest and largest of five Pontiac area Kroger stores. Offering 15,000 square feet of selling area, the market is designed to offer shoppers the ultimate in wide-aisle American farmer is such, however, that for the time being we are using special exports programs which have been developed for the purpose of moving agricultural commodities into consumption in different areas of the world.

Their 5th Supermarket in Pontiac Area

Kroger to Open at Miracle Mile

Mile Shopping Center. This will be the fifth Kroger store in the Pontiac area.

Managing the newest addition to the Kroger family will be Donovan W. Shaw, of 2815 Otsego St., Waterford Township. Shaw has been with the firm for the past 16 years. He comes to the new store from his previous managerial position at the Drayton Plains branch.

The new Kroger supermarket will be the largest of the five area stores. Offering 15,000 square feet of selling area, the modernistic supermarket will offer customers the ultimate in convenience and uncrowded shopping conditions.

The sprawling market is designed with ease of motion in mind, allowing the customer plenty of shopping space in its wide aisles.

The large customer shopping carts are designed with special emphasis on parents who cannot leave the baby at home. Each cart is equipped with a fold-away seat for tots, still leaving adequate space for groceries.

The market is designed on a self-serve basis with eight check-out stations across the front of the store, which boasts a gleaming 140 feet of plate glass frontage.

Beside the electric eye controlled doors, another progressive feature has been added to the check-out counters. Each counter is equipped with an automatic conveyor belt on which groceries are placed. Electric eyes automatically stop the cashier, speeding up the check-out procedure.

A special feature of the market will be a dry goods department. This clothing section will be situated in the front of the market and will be the largest clothing section department in any Kroger supermarket in Michigan.

The store will carry a complete line of groceries, baked goods, meats, and household items. An outstanding feature in the meat department will be the availability of barbecued chicken and spareribs. This highlight is quite new in the Kroger chain.

Tells Why Milers Under 4 Minutes

LONDON — How it has suddenly become possible for as many as five men in one day to smash through the four-minute mile barrier — a feat once considered impossible — has puzzled many experts.

One of them, Sir Adolphe Abrahams, an athletic trainer, cited some reasons in London. "There's no mystery," he said. "I do not believe these people today are physically superior to their predecessors, including W. G. George who ran a mile in 4 minutes 12.4 seconds in 1886. There are two main factors for the present glut.

One is psychological, the other, of course, purely physical. Once Roger Banister proved that a mile could be run in under four minutes it at once became possible for other humans to do so." On the physical side it is modern methods of training and the enormous amount of it, he said.

Fish Net of Rubber

SHAKOPEE, Minn.—A Shakopee concern is manufacturing a rubber fishing net which it says adjusts to the weight of the fish being landed. The net is said to be tangle-free. The weight of the fish determines the depth of the net — the bigger the fish, the deeper the net becomes.

National Safety Council Official Predicts:

100 Million Cars to Jam Roads in 1975

CHICAGO (INS) — A National Safety Council official predicted today that 100,000,000 motor vehicles will jam American highways in 1975 — more than half again as many as today.

Paul Jones made the forecast at the 45th National Safety Congress in Chicago.

TRAVEL FASTER

He also said that cars will travel a little faster in 1975, but added:

"Believe it or not, the traffic toll will be smaller than it is now."

Jones explained that the toll would decrease "because traffic safety is going to develop faster than the traffic volume in the next 20 years."

He said he based his optimism on the following factors:

—Mounting public concern over the traffic toll and a growing demand that it be reduced.

—Coordinated action by public officials on all levels—national, state and local—to step up the attack on traffic accidents.

—Increasing recognition by citizens and public officials of the need for universal driver education.

—An early end to the trend toward more and more speed and horsepower.

—New and safer highways—thousands of miles of them—to criss-cross the nation, relieve traffic jams and prevent accidents through modern engineering.

A second speaker, Fred J. Bly, assistant commissioner of the California Highway Patrol, told the congress that a "psychological worry lead to accidents."

quirt" makes a driver want to "test and retest" the power of his car.

Bly said that "more power and speed are synonymous" to most motorists.

He called attention to the "predominant publicity" given auto horsepower by advertisers and said:

"Increased horsepower can be a safety factor if properly used. However, the increasing emphasis on higher horsepower is a matter of concern to enforcement officials."

In another address, Robert L. Crane, manager of supervisory training for Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., of Akron, O., said anger, indifference, confusion, fatigue, carelessness, daydreaming and worry lead to accidents.

NEWEST ADDITION—The Midwestern chain of Shinner's Meat Markets will add another member to its family with the opening of this new market at the Miracle Mile Shopping Center. The firm, which deals only in fresh non-packaged meats, has 11 other stores in Michigan. This will be its second in the Pontiac area. Shinner's policy of not carrying pre-packaged meats will enable shoppers to buy the exact amount of meat they desire — from one slice of lunch meat to beef quarters for home freezers.

Shinners to Open 2nd Market in Area

On of the business places opening this week at the Miracle Mile Shopping Center will be Shinner's Meat Market.

The new Shinner's market will be the 12th in Michigan and second in the Pontiac area. The chain of retail meat concerns spreads throughout the Midwest with stores in Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Ohio.

Named to manage the new market is Jack Luke, of 1005 Argyle Ave., who has been with the firm for 10 years. He comes to the Miracle Mile branch from a store in Toledo, Ohio, where he was manager.

Shinner's will offer patrons a complete line of retail meats. No merchandise is prepackaged and the firm employs professional meat men to serve its customers.

FEATURES LUNCHEON MEATS
A lunch meat counter will stretch across the rear of the market offering customers convenience as well as variety. The shopper may choose from a vast array of cold cuts, frankfurters, and sausages, which being un-packaged can be bought in any amount desired.

Down one side of the market runs a 56 foot counter encasing choice meats of every type and variety of cut. In the center of this counter, behind the working space against the wall, is a 15 foot ham bar.

At the front end of the main counter is a special poultry counter. This glassed-in case displays fresh dressed poultry of all kinds.

A refrigerated display case will stretch across the front of the store, enclosed by large plate glass windows. Shoppers will find the daily specials displayed here.

Shinner's markets are widely known for their retailing of large cuts of meat. The new store will follow this tradition, offering the shoppers the advantage of buying beef quarters for storage in home freezers.

The other area Shinner's market is located on Saginaw street in downtown Pontiac.

Clergy Ask Couples to Reduce Drinking

DURBAN, S. Africa—Many clergymen in Durban, South Africa, now are asking young couples to cut down on wedding festivities and so avoid honeymoon hangovers.

The ministers say that too much drinking at wedding receptions can wreck a marriage before it starts. Some urge couples to hold the reception after the honeymoon if there must be one at all.

"Under the present system the realities of marriage understanding and toleration receive no attention at all, but the nonessentials — like wedding breakfasts and kitchen teas — are given prominence," one minister pointed out.

Imported Fences Tidbits for Cows at Hawke Bay

NAPIER, New Zealand — Cows always have a way of finding a gap in a fence but in the area around Hawke Bay, on North Island, New Zealand, they are now making their own gaps by eating fences, Napier reports.

Resulting inquiries have developed the fact that a shipment of Malayan timber called Kenning has been imported and used for fencing and that the sap of the tree contains a considerable amount of sugar.

Cows apparently have a sweet tooth and the animals around Hawke Bay found that the nice new fences made good eating.

As farmers have to be practical, however, the fences now are being repaired — and not with edible timber.

Turnover on Pirates Getting Better

NEWPORT, R. I. — A modern pirate boarded a ship tied up here, got her under way by himself and sailed out of the harbor before being overtaken and captured by a water-borne posse of local yachtsmen.

The ship, a 16-foot sloop, was turned over to its anxious owner. The "pirate," a 10-year-old boy, was turned over on his father's lap.

Britishers Clamor for Press Conferences, Queen on TV

Yankee Traditions Move In on England?

By JAMES F. KING
LONDON (U.P.) — Queen Elizabeth II ought to be told that the Yankee influence has infected her subjects at home while she has been away.

All Americans — South and North of the Mason-Dixon Line — are regarded as Yankees in England.

Just so the young Queen may not be shocked when she returns from her Canadian-U. S. tour, she should know that British newspapers are clamoring for her to hold press conferences, American style.

A few Victorians are disturbed by this foreign ideology threatening monarchical traditions, but the average Briton seems to like the idea.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said: "When the Queen returns from North America, there are two decisions that should be promptly taken."

"The first is that the Queen should meet the press. The second decision: That the state opening of Parliament should be televised."

Elizabeth's TV appearances on tour drew applause at home.

The Daily Mirror, insisting there is "far too great a gulf between the royal family and the people," asked: "Why should the Queen have to wait until her Canadian trip before she can emerge as a polished, assured TV star?" There is also some evidence the Yankee influence is being felt by the Queen herself.

British correspondents covering the royal tour report the Americans are seeing a new style Queen.

Elizabeth flew off a week ago well aware of the sharp criticism of some people that her speaking voice was a "pain in the neck" and that she sometimes resembled a priggish schoolgirl.

Her Majesty might be relieved to know that this criticism has faded to a whisper and she's being widely acclaimed as a superwoman for the Commonwealth.

British correspondents traveling with the Queen and Prince Philip are struck by what they describe as folksy friendliness shown by the Americans.

The quips she slipped so naturally may seem natural to Americans—but they raised eyebrows here.

At first Britons were stunned by reading of the "Hi-Ya Queen" and "Hooray for Liz" shouts of Americans. But Britons are having second thoughts about this uninhibited enthusiasm, which a few years back was regarded as almost irreverent.

While the Yankee influence is taking hold, it's doubtful the British can shake off inbred traditions quickly enough to shout "Hi-Ya Liz" when the Queen returns home. Hawaii was annexed to the United States in 1898.

Helicopter Sets Record
PARIS — A new world altitude record for helicopters, 27,570 feet, has been claimed for Sud Aviation's Djinn in a recent flight at Melun. The previous mark was also set by a French-made helicopter, Sud Aviation's Alouette. Ivan the Terrible annexed Siberia to Russia in the 16th Century.

Erskine Caldwell's "God's Little Acre," is the world's best selling novel. It has sold more than seven million copies and has been translated into 21 foreign languages.

Sputnik Serves as Alarm Clock

Speaker Says Shortage of Scientists, Engineers to Grow Worse

If it served no other purpose, Sputnik, the Russian satellite, has acted as an "alarm clock" to alert Americans to their need for trained manpower, George Roeper, founder and head of the City County School for Exceptional Children, Bloomfield Hills, said last night.

Roeper, in addressing the first PTA meeting of the school year, pointed out that by 1965, although the United States will have increased its population by 25 million, there will be actually less trained scientists and engineers than today in the vital 24 to 35 age group.

This is due to the fact, he added, that the age group then will be made up of those born in the decade of 1930 to 1940 when the birth rate was low due to the depression.

It means, he said, that the country will fall back upon those in the 15-24 age group for talent and these are the children who are now in elementary school.

Roeper quoted studies to show that "gifted" children, those in the top two per cent by intelligence are not receiving nearly the attention from schools and the public that subnormal children get.

Studies prove that these gifted youngsters need special treatment in segregated classes from the earliest time possible and gifted children can be distinguished today from age six, he stated.

There is nothing undemocratic, Roeper continued, as some have charged, in giving the gifted special educational opportunities as long as the children are selected by their abilities and not on a race, color or economic background basis.

Hotel Is Padlocked Following Accident

JACKSON 28 — Sixty persons were evacuated from the Lee Hotel in downtown Jackson last night when a foundation wall was found settling, following a man's fall through faulty doors down an elevator shaft.

The Lee is the second downtown hotel padlocked as dangerous within the last month. The Arle, three blocks west of the Lee, was ordered torn down after a large crack was found in a wall.

The five-story Lee has 80 rooms.

Frank Walcott, 67, fell down an elevator shaft from the first floor to the basement late yesterday when he managed to open the doors although the cage was missing. He was not believed seriously hurt in the 15-foot drop.

City inspectors found the elevator doors not working properly and a check, they said, disclosed the west foundation wall had sunk 8 inches.

A 100,000 ton tanker carries 34 million gallons of crude oil. When refined as gasoline, this would fill the tanks of 782,000 automobiles.

Security for You

SS Number Vital in All Your Records

By RAY HENRY

Probably the most widely known fact about Social Security is that for most jobs you have to have a Social Security number.

But, the purpose of the number is not nearly as well known. Yet, it's the main connecting link between you, the Social Security Administration and your Social Security payments.

Here's why:

When your work is covered by the Social Security law, you or your employer must regularly report your earnings, your Social Security tax and your number to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

In turn, the IRS must regularly report your earnings along with your number to the Social Security headquarters in Baltimore.

There, a complete record of your earnings in work covered by Social Security is kept under your name and number.

It's from this record that it's decided whether you're entitled to payments and, if you are, the size of the payments; whether your dependents are entitled to payments and, if they are, the size of their payments.

Your name alone isn't used to record your earnings because of the possibility of confusing you with someone with a similar name.

Your number distinguishes your record from the record of anyone else because no one else has the same number. Thus, you should use the same number all your life.

Any Social Security office will issue you a Social Security card with your number on it — or a duplicate card with your number to replace one that has been lost.

If your name has been changed, ask your Social Security office for a new card showing the same number and your new name.

Because of the possibility of an error in your Social Security record, the Social Security Administration makes it easy for you to check your record.

An error could result in any number of ways. Your employer could fail to report part of your earnings. Your earnings could accidentally be recorded under someone else's number. You might give your employer the wrong number.

CHECKING UP TO YOU

The Social Security people have ways to catch such errors, but they don't catch them all. So, part of the load of protecting your record rests on your shoulders.

You may check your record as often as once a year by writing to the Social Security Administration, Candler Bldg., Baltimore 2, Md. and asking for a statement of your account. You can get an addressed post-card form at your Social Security office for this purpose.

If you find that an error has been made in your record, any Social Security office will help you get it corrected.

You should check on your record at least once every three years, since there's a limit to the period within which certain corrections can be made.

The information in your Social Security record is, by law, confidential between you and the Social Security Administration.

It can't be given out without your written permission. But, if someone is trying to locate you, the Social Security people will forward communications to you, without revealing your whereabouts, in certain cases where it appears to be in your best interests or for certain humanitarian reasons.

Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

Poor Rabbit Hunting for Railroad Man

SCHUYLER, Va. (AP)—John Mayo thinks railroading is still a fine thing, but he deprecates the fact that rabbit hunting isn't as good as it used to be.

Mayo, retiring after 51 years on the Nelson and Albemarle railroad, owned by a stone company, says he used to stop the engine almost any time and shoot a rabbit—got 14 in one season. As engineer he covered the railroad's 32 miles every day after he advanced from fireman in 1925.

Atomic Agency Head Calls Reds 'Sincere'

WASHINGTON (U.S. — Rep. Cole (R-N.Y.), picked to be director general of the new International Atomic Energy Agency, says he is impressed with the "evident sincerity" of the Russians toward the agency.

And, he added in a news conference yesterday, the Russians are "entitled to positions of top responsibility" in IAEA.

Cole is retiring from Congress to become the first director general of the new agency which was established to advance international cooperation in development of peaceful atomic uses. Cole just returned from Vienna, where the agency had its organizational meeting. He takes over the IAEA post Dec. 1.

Getting Jobs for Persons Over 50 Seen as Problem

ATTLEBORO, Mass. (INS) — Home Ministry Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., said today that the employment of men and women after the age of 50 years is one of the major problems for America to solve.

"We cannot continue to have a healthy and expanding economy unless ways are found to use the skills and experience of the vast reservoir of employable people who are confronted with the tragic hardship of no job after reaching middle age," the Massachusetts Republican told the Attleboro Lions club. He continued:

"The present situation is that too many persons are refusing to employ men and women over 50, and some of them even put the maximum age limit at 40 or 35. Many people do their best work after reaching the half century mark. They are settled and dependable."

Rep. Martin asserted failure to employ older folks is often blamed upon higher insurance and unemployment charges. He said:

"Studies of the Labor Department reveal these reasons invalid. These studies reveal that the additional cost of hiring these senior citizens would be approximately one cent an hour. This is a meager cost when considered in the light of the waste of brains and experience that is being sacrificed."

"I hope the next session of Congress will give serious consideration to this problem. It is one of our most pressing economic dilemmas."

Says Lack of Air Caused 2 Deaths

MUSKOGEE — Lack of oxygen apparently caused the deaths of a Muskogee couple whose bodies were found in their home yesterday, according to Coroner James Apostle.

The victims, identified as Leo Foster, 58, and his wife, Jessie, 55, had been dead several days, Apostle said after preliminary examination.

Police broke into the Foster home through a rear door after a neighbor reported a backlog of mail and milk accumulating on the porch. Officers said they found a gas space heater operating and described the interior of the closed house as "very hot."

South Africa consumes less than 50 pounds of paper and paper products per person each year compared with more than 350 in the United States.

Huffy Hunter Bags Bar Sign to Avenge Snub

DETROIT — A man wearing red and black hunting boots walked into a bar on the edge of Detroit and demanded a shot of whisky. It was the opening day of the small game hunting season.

Bartender Cass Omlin figured the man already had one shot too many and turned him down. The man stalked out in a huff. A minute later, there was a shotgun blast outside.

About 12,500 Norwegians are employed in Sweden.

Woman Victimizes Male Bar Patrons

DETROIT — Male bar patrons in the Detroit area have been warned to steer clear of an unidentified young woman seeking a "reputable" motel.

Police said three men in recent weeks have been trimmed of a total of $260 by this ruse:

The woman, conservatively dressed and wearing horn-rimmed glasses, enters a bar late at night and starts chatting with an unsuspecting patron. She asks for the name of a reputable motel and then suggests that her new-found companion drive her there in her car.

Once in the car, the woman's boy friend appears from the back seat with a drawn pistol and re-lieves the victim of his money.

Seven Children Legally Adopted by Grandparents

CHICAGO — The adoption of seven children, ranging in age from 7 to 15 years, by their grandparents, was approved by Cook County Judge Otto Keener yesterday.

The grandparents are Carl A. Johnson, 67, a service station owner, and his wife, Martha, 64. Their attorney said the grandparents have cared for the children since their mother, Mrs. Florence Wilson Young, and the children were deserted by their father, Truman W. Wilson, five years ago.

The mother, daughter of the Johnsons, has four children by her second husband. She consented to the adoption. The children are James, 15; Trudene, 13; Mary, 12; Truman, 9; Linda and Loretta, 8; and Kenneth, 7.

Army Headquarters in Detroit to Close

DETROIT — The Army's district headquarters in Detroit will be closed next year under a consolidation program announced in Washington yesterday.

Indianapolis will become headquarters for Indiana and Michigan under the Army's program to consolidate 15 of its 18 military districts into five Army Reserve Corps in the 4th and 5th Army areas.

The reorganization will affect 56 civilian employees and 45 enlisted men and officers at Ft. Wayne in Detroit.

Mr. Litterdropper Apes Average Citizen

New York 'Insult Plan' Costing $1,250,000

By PHYLLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK (INS) — New York has everything.

The Bronx is up and the Battery's down, and now, square in the middle, there's a 16-foot figure of "John Q. Litterdropper."

And what is Mr. Litterdropper, you may inquire?

He is a sign, a Times Square symbol, a photo portrait of the alleged careless citizen of New York, who stands on 46th street between Broadway and Seventh avenue as a reminder to the local gent on the street that it is not nice to drop peanut shells or used tabloids on the street.

He is called, by the chairman of the Citizens' Committee to Keep New York City Clean, Inc., an "average citizen."

COSTING $1,250,000

The citizens committee is spending $1,250,000 to put up other publicity and signs around the city.

along the same lines. There will be similar figures set up around town depicting "John Q. Litterdropper's" degenerate family of six—all of them built along John's slovenly lines.

By the time the project is finished, those millions of well-intentioned if insulting Americans who contend "it's a nice place to visit, but..." probably won't even be certain of that much. They may start visiting San Francisco or Chicago instead, where the average man is either depicted as a clean cut, sensible guy—or he isn't depicted.

Perhaps I am over-sensitive about New York City, it having kindly adopted me despite a Midwest twang and empty purse, but a loyal citizen of this city has got to fight so hard to defend it that he gets rabid.

First, he has to stand up against the people from pastoral places who say it's too noisy and gray. And then, he has to stand up against New Yorkers themselves.

It's a sort of heritage in this polyglot place for citizens to act as if they're slightly embarrassed about their wealth of wonders, and they never saw the Empire State Building, it's for tourists. Sophistication of a curious, blasé brand is what we have here.

TIME TO REBEL

But now, when not only its foes and its sophisticates are making fun of the city, but also its improvement committees—the time's come to rebel. On three points:

1—The "average citizen" of New York. If there is such a norm, should not be depicted as a slop.

2—As in the behavior of a man renting a furnished apartment versus that of a man using his own furniture, it's doubtful that litter is strewn as liberally by New Yorkers as by tourists.

3—The John Q. Litterdropper sign will be laughed at by visitors, and unnoticed by those it's intended to reach. New Yorkers, yokels never, rarely look up.
