Straley Submits Answer to Ouster Charges

Herbert W. Straley, under suspension from his job as Pontiac chief of police, yesterday afternoon replied to charges of insubordination, inefficiency and incompetence brought against him by Public Safety Director George D. Eastman.

Straley's answers to the charges, by which the Civil Service Commission is asked to fire Straley, were carried to City Hall by the chief's attorney, Clarence L. Smith.

Smith said he would push for dismissal of the charges on grounds that Eastman's appointment as public safety director was contrary to provisions of the city charter.

The charter, he asserted, names the city manager as director of all but three city departments, unless the City Commission provides otherwise.

"No resolution or ordinance of the City Commission has ever separated the offices of city manager and public safety director," he said. "George D. Eastman never is, or ever was, safety director."

Smith also called for the lifting of Straley's suspension on the grounds that City Manager Walter K. Willman, under the State Civil Service Act, does not have power to indefinitely suspend him.

Such authority, he said, is limited to the Civil Service Commission.

Willman suspended Straley Tuesday after the chief was served with charges by a process server of the Oakland County Sheriff's Dept.

Stuart A. Austin, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, has indicated a public hearing on the charges will begin next Wednesday, the date of the next regularly-scheduled Commission meeting.

Straley's answer consists mainly of an item-by-item denial that poor conditions existed in the department until he was stripped of power by Eastman Nov. 12.

To charges that he failed to supply an adequate records system for the department, Straley admitted that simplicity and usefulness are prerequisites to a good system. But, he denied that a central system is efficient, economical or practical in Pontiac.

Straley also called it an "inconsistency" that he should be condemned by Eastman for failing to put in such a system when the safety director was employing a Berkeley, Calif., police officer to

Bagwell Urges Income Tax if Sales Levy Hike Fails

DETROIT (AP)—Republican Paul D. Bagwell today urged a flat rate state tax on personal and business income if Democrats block a vote April 6 on a 4-cent sales tax.

"The inescapable fact is that more tax money is needed," the defeated 1958 candidate for governor said in an address prepared for the Republican state convention.

In offering his cure for the state's grave financial ills, Bagwell said he spurned counsel "to stay out of this tax mess, whatever you do."

"The prospect of state bankruptcy cannot be ignored by a responsible political party," he declared.

He emphasized that:

1—He preferred putting a one-penny sales tax increase on the statewide spring election ballot.

2—But if, as appears likely, Democrats withhold the votes in the Legislature necessary to permit this, the individual income tax should be placed on as broad a base, and at as low a rate, as is possible—consistent with new revenue needs.

Democratic Gov. Williams has recommended a 140-million-dollar new tax package keyed to a graduated personal income tax and a levy on corporation profits, coupled with business tax concessions.

Bagwell, who also called for business tax reductions, placed no dollar value on his program.

He said the Williams solution demonstrated "devotion to politics instead of leadership," since less than half the state's families would bear the entire income tax burden.

He said that if Democrats persist in refusal to let the sales tax issue go to a vote they must accept responsibility for "forcing an income tax as the only alternative to complete state bankruptcy and human misery."

But, he added:

"No matter that the Democrat administration has been in power 10 years—that is a problem to be faced and it must be faced realistically."

He observed that the state faces a 100-million-dollar deficit, and concluded:

"Let no one be able to say that a school closed, a crippled child lacked care of a needy family went hungry because we did not do our duty."

2 County Men Are Nominated

Named as Candidates for State High Court Posts April 6

The Oakland delegation held the spotlight today at the State Republican convention in Detroit as two attorneys in the county were put up for nomination as candidates for the State Supreme Court.

Formal approval was expected this afternoon for the nominations of Maurice F. Cole, county Circuit Court commissioner from Ferndale, and William H. Baldwin of Bloomfield Township, a Detroit attorney.

There are two justice jobs open in the April 6 election—the posts now held by Justices John Voelker and George Edwards.

In other business prior to the opening of the convention at 11 a.m. at the Ford Memorial Auditorium, the county delegation—second in number only to Wayne—selected its four members to the State Central Committee. This is the party's policy-making organization.

Elected were incumbents Mrs. John Finegan and Gordon T. Getsinger, both of Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Floyd Andrews of Clarkston and James F. Preish of Royal Oak.

They were selected from among six nominees put up this morning.

Reason to Delay Cancer Report on Sec. Dulles

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—There are two kinds of tissue tests for cancer — one that takes from 10 minutes to a half hour, and another more definitive one that requires storing the tissue specimens overnight.

Presumably, in Secretary of State Dulles' case, both were done—or perhaps only the longer one. There has been no official word.

Either situation would account for the fact that doctors delayed revealing the results of their search to determine whether Dulles had a recurrence of the intestinal cancer removed in 1956.

REASON FOR DELAY

Here are the two tissue test techniques:

1. The rapid test. This involves taking a small piece of tissue and quick-freezing it by means of carbon dioxide or "dry ice." Then, with a delicate knife, an extremely thin slice is cut off. This is stained with chemicals, placed under a microscope and examined for evidence of malignancy.

Surgeons say that if the test shows positive, it is virtually certain that cancer is present. But if it shows negative, there is good reason to doubt the results.

Thus, in many cases, surgeons prefer:

2. The longer test. A much larger piece of tissue is taken than in the rapid test. It measures about an eighth of an inch thick and about a half inch square.

This specimen is placed in melted paraffin to harden overnight. Next morning a very thin slice is examined under microscope, and this provides a definite answer.

Pathologists say that under the longer "fixation" the tissue maintains its original structure better than in the case of the quick test.

Herter Called to Capital to Take Over Policy Job

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has cancer, it was announced today.

President Eisenhower reported that doctors have found "existence of malignancy not fully determined at this time as to its extent but certain to require further treatment."

The President, in a statement after visiting Dulles for 35 minutes at Walter Reed Army Hospital, said that in order to allow time for treatment "the secretary continues on leave of absence."

"I will of course be in close touch with him constantly," Eisenhower said.

Meanwhile, it appeared that foreign policy direction would be in the hands of Under Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. He is returning today from a South Carolina vacation.

Eisenhower had agreed early in the week to Dulles' request for a leave of absence to undergo the hernia operation. At the same time, the President approved Dulles' designation of Herter — or in his absence, Under Secretary C. Douglas Dillon — as acting secretary.

Press officer Lincoln White of the State Department said that fluid from Dulles' hernia operation "contained free cancer cells."

He also said that "a small nodular implant on the hernia sac" which was removed along with the "excess sac during the course of the operation" had proved upon analysis "to be an adeno-carcinoma."

White said that "no further surgery" on Dulles "is contemplated in the immediate future."

He said "radiation therapy will be used."

The President in his statement said that when he was with Dulles this morning "I expressed the thoughts and prayers of all of us that the results of his operation and the further course of treatment will be successful."

The President noted that so far as the secretary's "immediate response to the hernia operation" was concerned, the doctors "indicated to me" that "it has been very satisfactory."

DULLES KNOWS

Eisenhower disclosed that Dulles knows he has cancer.

This was Dulles' second attack of cancer. On Nov. 3, 1956 he underwent surgery for removal of a cancerous portion of his intestine.

Dulles' illness made uncertain today the prospects for a western foreign ministers meeting at Paris in mid-March to prepare for possible negotiations with Russia on Germany.

Officials said it seemed apparent that Dulles would not be able to attend such a meeting. It is even uncertain now whether he will be able to participate in the 10th anniversary session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization here in early April.

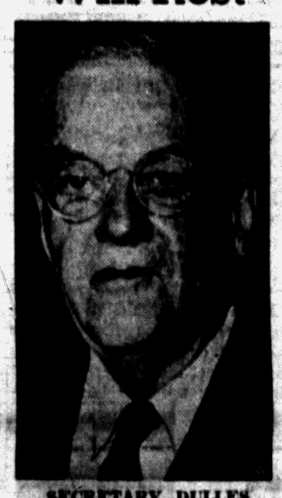

State Department press officer Lincoln White said the doctors expect that Dulles will have to remain Walter Reed hospital for several weeks.

Whether this will delay a possi- foreign ministers' meeting would the Soviet Union is still to be determined. Some officials said it would not necessarily have that result.

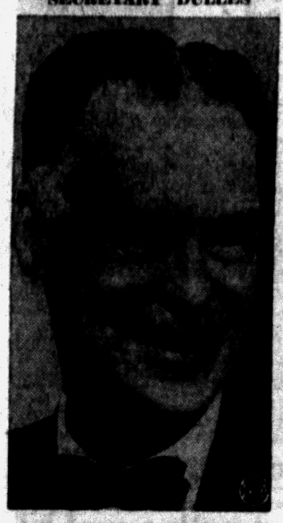

The prospect has been that a

RENO, Nev. (AP)—A sudden early morning fire swept a downtown hotel today. Firemen reported three persons killed and at least four others seriously injured, one critically.

FRAZER, Colo (AP)—The temperature plunged to 37 degrees below zero here today, the lowest reading in the nation — including Alaska.

LEACHVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Officers searched this Northeast Arkansas area through the night for a slightly built man in baggy clothes who forced a 59-year-old woman and a small girl to accompany him on a wild ride yesterday.

The woman, Mrs. Hugo Schwarz, was abducted with the child, 2½-year-old Sue Jane Senteney, from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Senteney near Weiner. Mrs. Schwarz and the child escaped unharmed when the man stopped at a service station near Bowman, 40 miles north of Weiner.

'Zhivago' Sells in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP)—Boris Pasternak's novel "Dr. Zhivago" translated into Japanese has sold 80,000 copies and 20,000 more will be printed, the Japanese publishers report. The publishers, Jiji Press, said translations of successful foreign novels normally sell 20,000 to 30,000 copies.

Temperature Rise Eases Auto Tieups

Slightly rising temperatures early this afternoon eased driving conditions which this morning threatened to close off traffic on some main highways in Oakland County.

After issuing a warning this morning to motorists to stay off the roads if at all possible, sheriff's deputies said at noon today that there were no serious tieups although roads were slippery and flooded with water in several places.

Driving was made more difficult by a heavy fog throughout the morning.

At least 200 cars were stranded earlier today on Telegraph road in the Bloomfield Township area, deputies said. Authorities were attempting to close off the highway at 11 a.m.

Another 70 cars were stranded on icy Rochester road south of Rochester. "You can't get in or out of the city," deputies said. U.S. 10 north of M15 was also described as icy and "impassable."

PARTLY PASSABLE

Police said M59 was passable as far out as White Lake Township, but north of that it was too icy and hilly in spots to be considered passable.

"As of 11 a.m. there were two major flooded areas in the county, according to the Road Commission. Greenfield road north of 10 Mile road and Northwestern Highway east of Telegraph road were under water," Supt. Oscar Loomis said.

"Motorists should avoid these areas. Many side roads there are impassable due to ice and low spots under water."

Loomis said the road conditions throughout the county this morning were "as bad as they could be."

"Our trucks, which have been working on side roads, had to pull back to the main highways this morning. The salt supply is dwindling but should hold out if we can clear up the major highways today and we don't get more of the same tomorrow."

The State Highway Department this morning said hazardous conditions would predominate throughout the Lower Peninsula. The bulletin read as follows:

"Rain and freezing rain over most of the Lower Peninsula causing extensive slippery sections on

Lenten Guideposts Moves to Washington

Railroad Station Invaded by Prayer

By CHARLES E. WILSON
Former President of General Electric

WILSON

Thousands of people criss-crossed back and forth through Washington's Union Station that morning back in 1944.

The high-ceilinged central waiting room was alive with a tense excitement that was reflected on the faces and in the quick footsteps of the wartime commuters coming to the capital.

There was a sense of expectancy in the air. For weeks, months, one word had been in people's minds. It hung in the air, almost touchable, just out of reach: Invasion.

I stood there on this morning of June 6, 1944, waiting for a friend and scanning the faces of the commuters as they poured out of their train and into the station. There was no announcement on the loudspeaker. No "Extras" were shouted. There was no visible source of the news.

But suddenly the scurrying and the criss-crossing stopped, the loud hum of a thousand conversations ceased, the news passed from friend to friend, from stranger to stranger:

"What is it: What's happened?"

"The Invasion's begun. . .they're landing in Normandy."

A HUSH FELL

A hush fell over the waiting room. I was aware of little things — the soft tread of the few people still walking, the stream of sunlight that fell into the waiting room as it does in a cathedral.

While I stood watching, it began.

First it was a woman who, right there in the station, dropped to her knees and folded her hands. Near her, a man knelt down. Then another, and another, until all around me people knelt in prayer before the hard wooden benches of Union Station.

What were we praying for that morning of the Invasion? For Jim or for Franz, or for Giovanni — or just for peace. Perhaps for no reason at all, except that in the hush we felt the need to pray.

The quiet lasted for no longer than a few minutes. Then, slowly, the woman rose to her feet. The man next to her rose, too, cleared his throat and walked off rapidly as if he felt a sudden embarrassment.

Within seconds the station was alive with movement and talk again.

But for those of us who witnessed the hush, Union Station will always have a special meaning: we were there on the day the railroad station in Washington, D.C., became a house of worship.

TEACHER RECEIVES 1,688 VALENTINES—Valentine's Day has always been a big event for Mrs. Dora Wood, third grade teacher at Walled Lake's Decker Elementary School, but this one tops 'em all. To the glee of her students Mrs. Wood brought to school all the Valentine cards given her by former pupils during her 34 years of teaching, 32 of which were spent in Walled Lake. For two weeks, in their spare time, she and her third-grade friends pinned them on the wall. Mrs. Wood is shown here with but 500 of the 1,688 cards displayed.

Castro Named Cuba's Premier

Will Take Leave of Post as Army Head; May Seek Presidency

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — Fidel Castro will take leave from his post as supreme commander of the armed forces to become premier of Cuba, it was announced today.

Informed sources said the armed forces command probably would go to his younger brother, Raul, recently named second in charge.

Fidel Castro, 32-year-old revolutionary leader who spearheaded the fight to oust dictator Fulgencio Batista, was named premier last night in what was viewed as the first step toward the presidency.

Outgoing Premier Jose Miro Cardona ended a long-smouldering personal feud within the provisional government when he announced to newsmen that he and his cabinet had resigned and that he had recommended Castro be named premier.

Government sources said the change indicated no major split in revolutionary ranks and that Castro would reappoint nearly all of the 18 cabinet ministers when he takes office Monday.

Foreign observers, noting this week's change in the provisional constitution lowering the age requirement for president from 35 to 30 years, said Castro's appointment could herald his eventual elevation to the presidency.

Sources said Miro Cardona resigned in a dispute over government policy statements made by Castro. They said the premier felt that Castro's frequent speeches and remarks on economic and political issues made it imperative that he command cabinet rank.

The crisis came to a head during high level policy discussions on the future of Havana's luxurious gambling casinos.

Castro told a mass meeting of unemployed workers in the entertainment field last night that the casinos would be opened — on a tourists only basis—before the end of the week.

3 Township Trustees to Be Elected Monday

BIRMINGHAM — Monday's primary election takes on a special significance this year especially in Bloomfield Township.

Six of the nine men seeking the offices of trustee will be elminated in the primary. The three remaining candidates will be elected in the April balloting to fill out the four man board.

Gordon T. Getsinger remains in office. Incumbent Robert A. Reid seeks re-election. The remaining eight candiates are Dorman B. Dickerson Jr., Henry M. Hogan Jr., James W. Jaikins Jr., Samuel J. Reeve, Marcus J. Scott, George B. Walker, Julian B. Wilson and Marshall H. Wolfe.

The spring election will see township residents casting their votes for a no contest slate. There will be nine offices to fill and nine names on the ballot.

In Birmingham, the primary Monday will involve only the candidates for circuit court judge. Birmingham has not had a primary election in many years, according to Irene Hanley, city clerk.

These court candidates have a special interest for Bloomfield Township and Birmingham. James C. Allen, former commissioner, mayor and city attorney lives in Birmingham. Verne C. Hampton, veteran of 22 years as circuit court commissioner, is a township resident.

"Fantasy in Playland" is the title of the ice show the Birmingham Recreation Board will present at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Eton Park Rink.

The program will include seven solo acts, skating duets and group numbers. More than 100 skaters will participate in the program.

The Pontiac Skating Club will present one number. Marilyn Seiber, a member of this group and one of the stars in last season's local show, is among the soloists.

Vaughn Elementary School Parent-Teacher Organization will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the school.

Harry Hahn, director of instruction for the Oakland County Board of Education, will speak on "The Application of Psychological Concepts to Learning."

Nixon Touring Oregon Cities

Gets Jubilant Welcome From State Celebrating 100th Anniversary

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon began celebrating its 100th birthday anniversary today.

Activities today—just 100 years after President James Buchanan signed the statehood bill—centered on Nixon.

He speaks first today at Astoria, an old port town near the mouth of the Columbia River, where a centennial stamp will be issued. Then he will speak at the capital, Salem, and come back to Portland for another talk tonight.

Nixon got a jubilant welcome on his arrival here Friday night. As he strode bareheaded from the plane into a driving rain, he was greeted by Gov. and Mrs. Mark Hatfield.

As Nixon arrived downtown, a Democrat, State Sen. Richard Groener, walked up, shook his hand and said: "Remember, Mr. Vice President, this is a nonpolitical visit."

"Sure, not a word," Nixon replied.

Inside the hotel, 150 college students shouted a greeting and Nixon said: "This is wonderful—a party like this in the valentine state."

The state is spending nearly 3 million dollars to finance the long celebration. Thousands of men have sprouted beards for the occasion.

Colder and partly cloudy is the outlook for Sunday. The mercury will rise to a high of about 25.

Rain is expected again Monday.

In downtown Pontiac the lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 a.m. was 27. At 1 p.m. the thermometer read 34.

The weather was blamed for the deaths of three persons in Michigan.

Two men died when frozen silage caved-in on them while they were trying to work it loose at Eastmanville.

A Grand Rapids woman was killed when a snow-covered second story porch collapsed as she stepped on it to hang our her washing.

William F. Husted, director of the municipal weather station at Battle Creek, said the city was threatened with its worst flood in 10 years. His staff is keeping a close watch on the Kalamazoo and Battle Creek rivers.

In the Saginaw valley there appeared no immediate danger but river ice kept officials on their guard.

The tri-county seaway study committee at Saginaw asked the area's Congressmen for help in getting a Coast Guard icebreaker to open the Saginaw River from the bay to the city to allow the river to drain off.

In Midland, the Tittabawassee River was up more than a foot but sheriff's deputies reported no trouble yet.

Throughout the southern part of the state, home owners in low spots reported flooded basements and low spots on highways and roads were covered by run off water.

A. H. Eichmeier, East Lansing Weather Bureau meterologist, said the upper Grand River valley will see "near flood levels" by the first of next week.

Straley Replies to Charges

recommend the establishment of such a system."

The records system in Pontiac, the chief claimed, meets the standard of simplicity and usefulness, and is similar to those used in virtually all cities of comparable size.

Records were not in one central location, the chief said, because by necessity they were kept in the departments where used. He called Eastman's claim of 121 forms in 17 sizes "somewhat exaggerated."

Forms of uniform size would be an impossibility, the chief said, because some forms require little space for data, while others require a great deal. He added that many forms used by the department are furnished by outside agencies.

Establishing forms of uniform size would not only be impossible, "but impractical and highly extravagant," he said.

He said he would not reply to a statement that many Pontiac police records serve no purpose "because there seems to be no sensible charge."

Taking issue with Eastman's charge that police files are open to the public only 25 per cent of the day, Straley replied that records bureau personnel were on 24-hour call and records in the past have always been available when needed.

Accused of lacking a working knowledge of administrative formula and divisional statistics, Straley said, "Failure to recite statistics without reference to records upon an oral demand made by a person assumed to be attempting to trap me on an occasion purposely planned and staged under the record of a tape recorder is no evidence of either incompetency or inefficiency."

Although unaware of the "recommended minimum enforcement index (traffic) of the Internation Assn. of Chiefs of Police," Straley said a better criteria of his administrative ability to operate a traffic department was having won three national awards during 1958.

No separate department for planning and research was created because it was impossible under the police budget, the chief said.

Straley also denied charges that:

The propriety of complete delegation of authority was feasible in the Police Dept.

Captains and lieutenants have little more responsibility than patrolmen.

A lack of turning over complete responsibility has stifled initiative.

It would have been easy, he said, to delegate department functions, but he preferred to assume the general reponsibilities of his office.

The report of the Public Administration Service (PAS) "was not particularly authoritative or trustworthy," Straley said, "particularly in view of the fact that the report was prepared by a young man 28 years of age whose police experience was limited to 4 years on the Berkley (Calif.) Police Dept.

Straley said he was "reliably informed that the young man who made the survey revealed in Pontiac prior to t he time the report was released that Mr. Eastman was to be employed as the director of public safety.

"It did seem unusual, if not irregular, that a report in the nature of the PAS report should be designed to recommend the creation of a job for Mr. Eastman who participated in the survey in Pontiac personally for at least a few days prior to the report."

Straley said disciplinary problems in the department were caused by a "feeling of independence" created by the adoption of the Civil Service Act. He said the PAS report openly states the Civil Service Act obstructs the exercise of discipline.

He defended keeping personal files on various officers, calling them necessary to decide questions of increase in rank and pay.

Although no continuing program for police personnel evaluation has been established, Straley said that none had ever been in existence in Pontiac.

He denied that "prejudice" was a basis for deferring pay raises for three officers. Instead, he said, wage increases were held up because of their "disturbing qualities."

Straley admitted withholding a license to three officers seeking a renewal of a license to operate a roller skating rink, but said he had "ample justification which he will reveal at the Civil Service hearing, if asked.

He denied having said only 11 men in the department were loyal and asserted his statement was that there were "only 10 or 12 men in the department who were disloyal and agitating trouble."

He did not seek understanding and support with officers and men below the first rank of direct responsibility, Straley said, because that would be "only advantageous to the particular group participating in these intimate consultations."

Denying anyact of insubordination, Straley said he could not have been insubordinate when Eastman was neither public safety director, nor policeman, by any legal right.

Straley said he was ordered to make reports on many and varied subjects involving a good deal of investigation, consultation and preparation, with these reports to be prepared in his duties as police chief.

He accused Eastman of issuing many orders and requests to "harass' him. It seemed illogical, Straley said, for him to take an examination for determining assignments or attitudes.

He also denied he was insubordinate when turning over police uniform specifications to the city personnel agent. He said the purchasing agent had requested uniform specifications be given him immediately upon their completion.

Straly denied that Eastman at any time ever indicated to him in writing or orally that he had any plans regarding the uniform project, but on the contrary indicated he was anxious for its quick completion.

Straley denied the charge by Eastman that personnel were assigned to the vice squad for disciplinary reasons, instead of on the basis of merit.

He further denied that Pontiac is a "City of Sin," and "that the gross exaggeration of vice conditions in the city serves any useful purpose.

In West Terre Haute

Sandbag Dike Teetering

WEST TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—A sandbag dyke at West Terre Haute and ice jams near Delphi stood in teetery uncertainty today in rain and unusually warm weather along the flooded Wabash River.

It was anybody's guess whether the dike, breached once and quickly patched early today, would keep rising Wabash backwaters out of West Terre Haute, where 150 families had already fled.

Light rain helped raise the Wabash to 24.6 feet by daybreak, instead of the expected 24.3.

The Weather Bureau said the rains should end before nightfall, but there might be some heavy thundershowers before then. More rains were forecast for Monday.

The rain and warm temperatures in the 40s and 50s left the outlook on upstream ice jams so uncertain that dynamiting was postponed, at least for today.

Maj. Gen. John W. McConnell, state adjutant general, said there definitely will be no dynamiting in an eight-mile jam north of Delphi before early next week.

McConnell said the combination of rain and warmth raised the threat of a mass movement of the long ice jam if dynamiting was started. Big blocks of ice, some as big as an automobile, could threaten Lafayette.

Crews of some 300 persons worked feverishly around the clock Friday in fortifying the seven-foot Sugar Creek dike.

Floods last June broke a permanent levee, which was replaced by a temporary barrier.

Farther upstream, residents of Peru and Wabash labored in a giant cleanup job in the wake of the flood there. The biggest floods in 46 years hit those areas earlier in the week.

More than 1,500 families fled their homes along the Wabash. President Eisenhower declared 13 Indiana counties major disaster areas.

Damage was in the millions. Wabash County alone had an estimated two million dollars damage.

6 Die as Car Plunges Into Poca River

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Six persons were killed early today when their car veered off U.S. 21 about two miles north of Sissonville and plunged into the Poca River.

State Police reported the bodies have been recovered but not identified. Two women, three girls and one boy were in the car.

The accident, about 2:30 a.m., was seen by persons in a following car.

State Police said that Mrs. Iona Kouns of Stickney, Raleigh County, told them she and her two sons were driving behind the other car, which had an Ohio license plate. The front car suddenly veered off the highway and went into the swollen river, she said.

State Police and wrecker crewmen were unable to locate it in the early morning darkness. They began their search at daybreak and shortly after came upon the wreck and the bodies.

Sissonville is about 14 miles north of here.

Dulles Has Cancer; Extent Undetermined

foreign ministers' meting would be held probably in Geneva or Viennt in late April or May.

Should Dulles' condition resist treatment and make it necessary for him to remain inactive, the circumstances on the diplomatic front could force President Eisenhower's hand as to whether Dulles should continue as secretary of state or not.

Eisenhower has made clear on several occasions that he urgently hopes and prays that Dulles will be able to resume his duties.

The President's statement today carefully avoided any suggestion of any other outcome than radiation treatments or possible future surgery.

Authorities here recognize, however, that if Dulles remains incapacitated in the final period of preparation for a meeting with the Russians, the President will face a very difficult decision as to whether he can afford to send an acting secretary of state to the conference table.

A delay in the meeting itself—if the Russians will agree to meet at all—is regarded by many authorities here as highly undesirable. They want to test out whether Russia is willing to make some agrements on Germany and they also want to avoid the danger of a Berlin blockade.

Batista Gave Trujillo 1 Million

Oregon Dem Claims Knowledge of Payoff to Dominican Dictator

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Rep. Charles Porter (D-Ore) says Fulgencio Batista, the ousted Cuban dictator, gave a million dollars to Rafael Trujillo, the Dominican strongman, after taking refuge in the Dominican Republic.

Porter told the Oregon United Nations Assn. Friday that he learned about the gift in Venezuela, where he spent several days this week as a guest of President Romulo Betancourt.

He said the money has been distributed to six advertising agencies in this country to win friends for Trujillo in the United States.

"When I get back to Washington I am going to disclose where this money is and what it is to be used for, if the disclosure is not made before then," Porter said.

The congressman went on to say about Trujillo:

"I definitely feel he faces revolution, not only from inside the palace, where it is apparent he has lost face, but also from the outside."

Porter added that he does not deal with any revolutionaries but has "talked with some of them when they have come to see me and I encourage revolutions against tyranny."

It Seems to Me . . . .

Funds Must Come From Some Place to Balance Big Spending

President DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER is on solid ground when he says in effect to the Congress:

"If you want to throw the budget out of balance by more and more spending, then face the facts like men and increase the taxes accordingly."

Here's a language the taxpayer understands. If the boys that want to spend, spend, spend and spend some more are going to have their way, let them face up to the facts and consequences. They will have to provide increased taxes — and say so plainly.

The cult in Washington that advocates giving everything to everybody is saddling this and future generations with a tax bill that no one will be able to pay after a few more rounds. For the moment I'm not as much concerned with the "future generations" as I am with this one.

I'm a part of this one.

Let's worry about NOW.

If the freeloaders in the District of Columbia want to hand out more of this and that—let them accompany their ideas with an added tax program that will cover the cost. Why pretend it's free?

What's wrong with the President's idea?

This will cool off the hysterical brothers faster than anything I know, for they're even more afraid of increasing present taxes than they are of a failure to dish out pie in the sky on that well-known "free" platter —the curse called "deficit spending." In very simple language that innocuous phrase means MORE TAXES—either now or ultimately—or both. Furthermore, the President announces he will veto the program of the "gimme, gimme boys" and go to the people and taxpayers for their support and backing.

Here's a campaign that should have been waged at the outset of EISENHOWER's first term; and then made a permanent order of business.

Will he stick by his guns?

Federal expenses — ASIDE FROM DEFENSE — have increased from 19 billion in 1954 to 33 billion last year. This is an increase of 75 per cent in four years.

Do YOU like paying YOUR share?

I'm speaking directly to the boys in the Pontiac Motor Division. DO you?

And now I'm addressing the employes at GMC Truck & Coach. How about YOU?

And now I'm talking to the downtown clerks and salespeople. Do YOU like it?

And how about the real estate folks and the lawyers and the doctors and yes, the newspaper group on West Huron Street?

My old friend Eugene Pulliam, Indianapolis and Phoenix publisher, delivered a speech in San Francisco in which he denounced the Republican Party for going into office on a platform that called for the elimination of wildcat Democratic expenditures — and then calmly pursuing the same pattern. He charges the GOP with "deficit spending, bigger budgets, high taxes, more foreign give-aways, federal aid to schools — in short, everything against which it originally declared it was fighting."

The current Democratic Congressional influx represents a Socialistic labor party sailing serenely and smugly under the Democratic banner. This group will seek to carry past Democratic and Republican spending orgies further along the trail toward a welfare state.

Perhaps an indication of what's ahead lies in two proposed school bills. The GOP document would cost the Federal government around 85 million dollars and the Socialist-Labor-Democrat draft runs several BILLION. White House sources say the President is sure to veto the Democratic program if it comes to his desk.

If you're tired of it, cry quits, but cry it in the right place. Cry it in Washington.

It's up to you.

As Teddy Roosevelt said: "We're the government — you and I."

And in Conclusion . . . .

Jottings from the well thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

JOHNNY came home with a black eye and torn clothes. "Whatever happened?" asked Pop. "I criticized the Pope to JIMMY O'RILEY, and he beat me up," replied JOHNNY. "Hmm," said Pop, "you should have known JIMMY is a Catholic." The boy nodded earnestly. "I did, Dad, I did. But I didn't know the Pope was." . . . . . The Philippines are dangerously near bankruptcy and U. S. prestige is at a low level there and still sinking . . . . . BILL WILLMAN saw 14 deer just over the Oakland border on the Howell Road . . . . . I hear REUTHER is shrugging his shoulders over MCNAMARA. That makes it unanimous.

Florida is quiet from the northern end of Miami Beach up the coast . . . . . At the intersection of Truman and Margaret Streets in Key West, a local character opened a new business and calls it "Margaret-Truman Launderette." Ike posed in front of the place with a big smile and it's on a post card now . . . . . Purely personal nomination for two especially high class young people: Ann and Noyce Strait . . . . . Three top Las Vegas hotels are expanding and the area is going after big conventions.

Quiet back stage plans are aimed at uniting MARIA CALLAS and MARIO LANZA for a TV spectacular. That might end up in a better fight than any FLOYD PATTERSON puts on . . . . . N. Y. NIXON followers are very happy at the furor NELSON ROCKEFELLER's gigantic tax program has brewed. They hope it will kill him as a Presidential possibility . . . . . A gal was driving along a country road with her husband when some telephone repairmen started climbing a pole. "The fools," said the little woman to her spouse. "They must think I never drove before." . . . . . I just discovered the other day I knew ARCHIE GRANT, President of Fisher Local, some 20 years ago when he was a star caddy at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club. ARCHIE has come a long ways . . . . . New York detectives are dressing as elderly women and posing as "targets" in areas where mugging has sprung up. A few thugs have had the shock of their skid row lives.

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

This year's Nobel Prize for peace went a slender, 48-year-old Dominican priest who has dedicated his life to salvaging the derelicts of war.

With his "Europe of the Heart" movement, Father Georges Pire led thousands of displaced persons out of crowded, disease-ridden camps. Relying solely on volunteer contributions and the labor of his displaced flock, he built five special villages, not ghettos but suburbs tacked onto cities, where the homeless could begin life anew with a job, a roof over their heads and hope in their hearts.

"Each refugee is a man of infinite worth, who deserves all our love whatever his nationality, religion, learning, poverty or moral misery," said this Belgian priest whose sturdy faith moved mountains of red tape to achieve his end.

Father Pire has already decided what to do with $41,120 prize money: start two more villages for the uprooted to plant new roots.

Set Aside Students' Day of Prayer

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Every year since 1895 Christian college students all over the world have joined in prayer on the first Sunday in Lent. Setting aside this day as World Day of Prayer for Students was one of the first acts of the World Student Christian Federation, founded 64 years ago in Sweden.

The purpose of such an observance is to create among students the sense of fellowship that comes through common prayer and worship and rises above such barriers as differing languages, racial prejudices, opposing political convictions and varying church traditions.

The foresight of its founders is all the more apparent when one realizes how vital this goal is in today's world, a world so different from that of 1895.

This year's theme for the day is "Abide in my love," from St. John's Gospel. The official message calling students to this day of prayer says, "In common prayer let us beseech the Lord that we be given strength to abide steadfast in Him with all our hearts, our souls and our minds."

Older members of the local congregations are asked to remember the students in their prayers at the morning services but for the students themselves the main feature of the day will in most cases be a special service this evening.

One remarkable difference between 1959 and 1895 is the presence of foreign exchange students in almost all countries of the world. In many college communities, tomorrow's services will be attended by representatives of many nations and cultures.

In the United States, World Day of Prayer for Students is sponsored by the United Student Christian Council, the American division of the world federation.

LORD'S TEMPTATIONS

On this first Sunday in Lent, Lutherans, Roman Catholics and Episcopalians have for centuries used St. Matthew's account of Christ's three great temptations as their Gospel reading. The passage used is Matthew, chapter 4, verses 1 to 11.

This is one of the most familiar narratives in the New Testament. All Christians know that Jesus at the time of His baptism had heard the voice of God saying, "This is my beloved Son" (Matthew, chapter 3, verse 17) and had come to the formal and official beginning of His ministry. It was necessary at this point for Him to retire to some place where He could work out the means by which He would fulfill His divine assignment.

He knew what the people expected of their long-awaited Messiah. They counted on him to renew prosperity, to work miracles and to lead Israel to a position of power over the rest of the worl. And the temptations as recorded in the story indicate that this approach was not unattractive to the Lord. If He wished He could turn stones to bread, presume upon the support of God and have the kingdoms of the world at His feet.

Gospel shows His rejection of this role that would have been so popular.

How to Bellows-Breathe When Vise Grips Chest!

"Being subject to angina pectoris, I was interested in your reply to the reader who asked how you expected a person could practice belly breathing when his chest is squeezed in a vise? I couldn't understand what you meant in your reply."

DR. BRADY

Answer—I said: "If you can't breathe you can't breathe." However, I recommend a few belly (bellows) inflations to prevent or stave off the seizure whenever you feel or fear it coming. Further, I recommend to anyone who is subject to angina pectoris or anginal distress regular practice of the B. B. exercise. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet Belly Breathing, or inclose 35 cents in addition for booklet "How to Breathe."

"You say pain-killers damage the heart. How about (a liniment) which contains clove oil, mustard, sassafras, methyl salicylate and peppermint?

Answer—The pain-killers to which I refer are taken internally. External applications such as you use, are harmless enough.

"A doctor tells me that calcium causes kidney stones. I'd rather have rheumatiz than kidney stones. Care to comment on this?"

Answer—Only if you identify the doctor and he or she acknowledges saying so.

"Some years ago I received a pamphlet on menstruation. It contained instructions for painful menstruation, which proved very helpful. Now my daughter . . . and I am delighted to see your articles in our paper more often now . . ."

Answer—On request any one who provides stamped, self-addressed envelope may have the FREE pamphlet Hygiene for Girls and Health for Women. Let's hope that by the time your daughter's daughter begins to menstruate she'll be well educated and able to laugh at mother's and grandmother's "weakness."

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Lose 10 Pounds in Only 10 Days

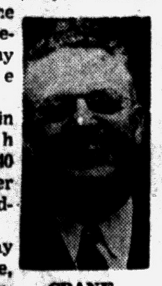

Notice the dramatic results when Opal took off 26 pounds. You can't feel like a sports roadster with the chassis of a truck, and that holds for middle-aged husbands as well as wives! If you wives want more romance in your marriage, eliminate the three causes for platonic husbands that are outlined below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE A-454: Opal G., aged 36, is the fat, frustrated wife mentioned yesterday.

"Dr. Crane, I tried your famous 10-day diet," she began as she reported back at my office three months later.

CRANE

"I weighed in at 158, which meant I was 40 pounds heavier than on my wedding day.

"The first day I got a headache, so used an aspirin. Maybe my headache was partly due to the fact I cut out coffee entirely, as I had been using five or six cups per day previously.

"So the second morning I took a small cup of strong coffee. And I had no headache.

"Sure enough. I began to crave liquids, not food. My 800 calories were quite OK. In fact, I never felt very hungry throughout the entire three months.

"So I poured one glass of water into an ice tray and sucked on a thin wafer of ice whenever I felt thirsty. That worked far better than to use water.

"And the first day I was down 2½ pounds. At the end of five days, I was down six pounds. And when the 10-day period was ended, my weight was 147½, so I had lost 10½ pounds.

"That certainly was thrilling. And it bolstered my morale, for I had tried to diet several times previously.

"But after sacrificing cake and pie and ice cream, my scales would show maybe no more than two pounds loss after an entire week, so I figured it wasn't worth the sacrifices.

"But on this new low-liquid diet, I really got results and began to feel confident, instead of defeated.

"At the end of 10 days, I then moved up from 800 calories to 1,200 and that seemed bountiful.

"Although you said I could go off my low-fluid intake, I found that I didn't need as much liquid as I had previously been drinking, so I don't believe I have averaged more than four to six glasses of total fluid per day.

"After six weeks, my weight was down to 138. I averaged about 1½ pounds per week after that first 10-day period.

"And I noticed a change in my husband then. He began to come out to the kitchen to kiss me when he'd arrive from the office at night.

"Previously, he'd just call out, 'Hello, Honey' and drop into an easy chair to read the newspaper till I called him to dinner.

"But now he started coming out to the kitchen and he'd kiss me more like he used to do. It wasn't a dutiful peck on the cheek.

"Now I weigh 132, and he has begun to compliment me on my figure. And he suggests a show occasionally, all of his own accord, whereas I used to prod him and beg and coax to get him to go out with me at night.

"He says I am just right at 132, but I plan to get down to 125 lbs. before I stop. And then I want to stay there, too, for I now realize that fatness reduces a wife's seductive allure."

If you wives doubt that you lose much of your allure when you get overly padded with excess upholstery, just follow Opal's plan for a few months.

Men, too, will be healthier and also less inclined to impotence, if they lop off the excess poundage. Their own male obesity and cigarettes, plus fat wives, are the chief causes for platonic husbands.

Voice of the People

'Thanks, but I Don't Need "Benefits" a Union Offers'

I work 50 weeks a year for a local chain department store and enjoy two weeks company paid vacation. Life isn't all glamorous; I'm not rich, and I work for what I get, but the company does give it willingly.

I don't have to strike and miss pay checks for a measly few cents an hour which will offset the economy and for which I'll pay later. I don't have to fear that I might become a human torch or that I might have to look down a lawn mower muffler with a 38 caliber pistol on the other end.

I don't have to take the Fifth Amendment to hide truth of gangsters and corruption or have a life's savings taken by a group of hoodlums. I don't pay for vacations in plush hotels or homes in Florida. I don't go to a steward with a heartache that could be solved by a group of nice people.

I go to work whistling like all free people should be able to do. I feel pride in what I do and don't feel I'm getting nowhere. If I'm given a break, a bonus, a promotion or position or even a smile from one of my bosses, I can feel I've earned it.

So you see, Mr. Hoffa, you're bumping heads with a group of nice people, who will win democracy and freedom from gangsters and hoodlums.

Discusses Red Ink in Football Ledger

I noticed in The Press that the superintendent of schools said football is in the red for 1958. Why not get five home games? No other school has five football coaches on the first team.

'I'm Fine, Sensible and Like Dr. Brady'

A letter from Bill, the Bar Keep, said "fine and sensible people" are "offended" by the "cheap baloney" about drinking that Dr. Brady passes out. I like to think I'm fine and sensible and the bar keep wasn't speaking for me. I enjoy all Dr. Brady's articles very much. Could it be that people the bar keep refers to are the "fine, sensible people" that hang out in his bar?

For Dr. Brady

'No Need to Worry With Such People'

I'm sure we don't have to worry about communism in the United States as long as we have people who are willing to help others without thought of being repaid, such as our neighbor who, with his son, took their pickup truck and spread sand on our road to make it safe for travel.

Grateful Neighbor

'City Officials Are Ones Out of Step'

Why can't City officials admit they're the ones out of step? They spent taxpayers' money to prove they were right about the police department's troubles, but it didn't work out that way. The PAS report and Mr. Eastman backfired on City Hall.

It came as a shock to City Hall that there are fair, open-minded people who would dare point out that the trouble didn't start where City officials said. So now they're crying foul play. It would have been a different song if their opinion had been agreed with.

Still Trying

I hope our public-spirited citizens will be able to rest after the crucifixion of our police chief that served seven years. In the beginning the City Manager chose to recognize a minority group as a bargaining agent, thus destroying any discipline the Chief might have been able to maintain. If the Chief were wrong he should have been admonished or fired then, and unbeknown to this group. The whole thing smacks of incompetent management. I'm ashamed of our City fathers and citizens don't deserve this embarrassment. Maybe we need a general housecleaning.

In Earnest

Readers Answer Mr. Proud's Letter

Mr. Philip J. Proud says in VOP that the 100 paid sick day leave for teachers during the current school year "would have cost exactly zero." Good. Then we don't need it at all and the taxpayers won't have to worry about more and more taxes. We'll leave it as it is and it's too high now. Maybe the 60 should be reduced.

He also says to "give our teachers a pat on the back" and I am very willing to do that and we will give them a fine pat on the back and leave the sick leave alone.

All the rest of the working world is always jealous of the three months vacation they get. Who else has a break like that in any business anywhere? Teachers have enough now at the expense of the taxpayers.

Another Who Pays and Pays

Fifteen thousand dollars a year for a baby sitter—pretty good pay. Is that too much to pay for the care of our children? The Pontiac school system spends $517 per pupil per year. If classrooms average 30 pupils, the cost is $15,000 per classroom. Where does the money go?

I don't believe teachers are overpaid, and if teachers average $6,500, where does the other $8,500 go? Which is more important—good teaching or fancy buildings? Is our Board of Education in the same mess as the Police Department?

Lark Sales Pick Company Off Floor

S-P Builds 16,000 Cars in January

By DAVID J. WILKIE
(n) Automotive Writer

DETROIT (n)—Studebaker-Packard Corp. built approximately 16,000 cars in January.

That isn't a very big volume as figures in the auto industry's mass production operations go, but for Studebaker-Packard it has real significance. It approximately matches S-P output in the first four months of 1958. In all of 1958 the company produced 60,000 units.

Studebaker-Packard, of course, produces closely to its indicated retail demand. It cannot afford to build up a large inventory of new cars.

So the production pace reflects a growing demand for S-P's new smaller car, the Lark model. In October-December last year the Lark gave S-P its first net profit in several years. The demand is continuing into the current quarter of 1959.

Studebaker-Packard reported a net profit of $3,700,000 in the 1958 fourth quarter on sales of $88,652,000.

It may be a bit early to say definitely that Studebaker-Packard has all its troubles licked and has assured its future in the automotive industry. But its prospects certainly are brighter than they have been at any time since the time-honored Studebaker Corp. and Packard Motor Car Co. were merged in 1954.

Packard no longer figures in the company's operations. The Packard line was dropped from production after limited output last year. So were most of Studebaker's larger models. But the company has an impressive line of higher-priced cars in its Mercedes-Benz models.

Studebaker-Packard gambled its automotive future with the Lark models. They were introduced at the start of the 1959 model year. Like American Motors, it foresees a steadily growing market for the smaller car.

Studebaker-Packard president, Harold E. Churchill, hopes his company can match success of American Motors has had with its Rambler car. He makes no secret of that, but he emphasizes to the dealer organization that a lot of sales effort will be needed to keep S-P on the profit side of the ledger.

At the moment American Motors and S-P have the market for American-made smaller cars pretty much to themselves. They will have new and bigger problems to overcome when General Motors, Ford and Chrysler bring out their versions of the smaller, economy car some eight or nine months hence.

Just about everything that has been said about the Rambler and the Lark cars has been on the favorable side.

Actually neither the Rambler nor the Lark is a small car. American Motors builds one series of Ramblers on a 100-inch wheelbase. But most Ramblers are on 108-inch wheelbase chassis and the Lark has a 108.5-inch wheelbase.

Certainly there is no feeling of smallness within either the Lark or the Rambler.

There is a feeling among industry analysts that the Rambler and Lark, only about 10 inches shorter in wheelbase size than the conventional Ford and Chevrolet models, will take an increasing percentage of business away from both these major producers.

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—Police answering a family disturbance call were told by a woman that her estranged husband was drilling holes in the floor above her to spy on her. The officers told the woman, who lived in a first floor apartment, that there was nothing she could do to stop him from drilling the holes because he owned the home.

State Sheriffs Standardizing

Most Have Uniform Cars and Outfits Now; Aim for All

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan's sheriffs are gradually working toward uniform uniforms and markings for cars, Ferris E. Lucas, the Michigan Sheriffs' Association secretary-treasurer reports.

Lucas said about 60 of the 83 departments have the standard brown and tan uniforms and between 65 and 70 have black and white markings on their cars.

Lucas, former St. Clair County sheriff, denied there was an "open friction" between sheriffs and state police.

"There's plenty for both of us to do," Lucas said. "There's plenty of crooks and criminals."

Lucas disclosed the results of the first statewide summer of state sheriffs' activity. The survey, based on 1957 activity, showed collection of more than a million dollars in fines, fees and licenses for county treasurers, which appropriated more than eight million dollars for the 83 departments.

Men Keep Gloves on at Reception

This Is Different From Etiquette on the Outside

"Dear Mrs. Post: When receiving at a formal ball, is it correct for the men in the receiving line to remove the right-hand glove when shaking hands with the guests? I say no, but a friend disagrees with me and says that a gentleman never shakes hands with his gloves on."

Answer: At a formal indoor occasion a man shakes hands with his white gloves on. This is quite different from shaking hands with heavy outdoor gloves.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is a girl permitted to accept a watch from a young man she knows quite well but to whom she is not engaged?"

Answer: Propriety depends upon the value of the watch. That is, if it is obviously inexpensive and he is a man she has long known well, it might be an entirely proper birthday (or Christmas) gift. But if it is of great value, especially if set with jewels, it would not be proper unless they are engaged — in which case she can accept practically anything "for her adornment."

This dress can be used as a late afternoon frock or as a short evening dress. White re-embroidered Alencon lace covers the crepe sheath.

Mrs. Keefer Feted

The birthday of Mrs. Amy Keefer was celebrated at a meeting of the Dorcas Class of Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church Tuesday at the church. Mrs. Percy Blynn was hostess. Assisting with the program were Mrs. Guy Caswell and Mrs. John Gemmell.

But Puss Seems to Like It—Abby

Husband Offering Cat 'Nips' Is Habit Strictly for the Birds

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: My husband has been getting our cat drunk and she seems to enjoy it but I am wondering if it's bad for her or not? He pours gin into her milk bowl and she licks it up in no time. She acts crazy, and dances and staggers around and finally falls asleep in a corner. My husband thinks this is very funny, but I'm afraid it could harm the cat. Can a cat take the habit? She waits for him by the door and doesn't leave his side until he gives her some gin in her milk. Please reply soon as she sleeps all the time and is losing her hair." HELEN

ABBY

DEAR HELEN: A cat can't "take" the habit unless someone GIVES it to her. Your husband has a warped sense of humor. Either see to it that your husband puts the cat on the wagon or give the cat to someone who will treat her humanely.

"DEAR ABBY: Please forgive me for troubling you with another letter to read but I must thank you for the wonderful letter I received from you. I was afraid to open it as I thought you would tell me that a paralyzed man should not ask a woman to marry him. Can you realize the thrill I got when the letter said, 'Go ahead and ask her.' Boy, I was sitting on top of the world. You said I was 'courageous' and if you say so, I am! You guessed it, she said 'YES' and even asked me why I waited so long to ask her. You will never know how happy you have made me, Abby. I am going to spend the rest of my life making this wonderful little woman happy."

GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: Your letter is the highest award I could hope to receive for writing this column. God bless you both!

HENPECKING WIFE

DEAR HEN: Because you love him.

"DEAR ABBY: I am a man 47 years old and lately I've been worried about my heart because I get pains in my chest and am short of breath. My father died of heart trouble at age 46 and it seems more and more men my age are dying of heart attacks lately. I don't go to a doctor because I know he'll tell me to quit smoking and take off some weight. (They tell everybody that.) Also, I'm afraid he'll tell me to quit my job (manual labor) and I can't afford a change right now. Please tell me, is heart trouble hereditary and if I do have a heart condition, can anything be done for it?"

Get 'Feel' of Finery for Party

The teenagerfacing her first grown-up party is usually as nervous as an actor making his stage debut. She tries out a dozen different hair styles, discards dress after dress and spends hours mooning over the correct shade to have her shoes tinted.

All in all, it's a harrowing business for both the teenager and her parents. It's nice to know that the next party will be less upsetting. But meantime, there IS the first party to get through.

And one way to get through it with ease is to do more than just try on the dress for the big evening. Wear it about your room for an hour, just to get the feel of it. Sit in it and walk in it. Better to have it pressed than to discover, the evening of the big event, that you can't wear it at all.

Keep your hair style as simple as possible. And NEVER have it done the day of the party. You'll look and feel stiff and uncomfortable. Have it done at least the day before.

Don't use heavy makeup: Stay as close to your usual light makeup as possible. In other words, be yourself.

Three Elected to Receive Degree

Mrs. Theodore Marchbanks, Mrs. Roy Pazik and Mrs. Yvonne Anderson were elected to receive the degree of the order at a meeting of Pontiac Shrine No. 22, Order of the White Shrine, held Wednesday at Roosevelt Masonic Temple.

Announcement was made that the annual memorial service will be held Feb. 25 under the direction of Mrs. Wayne Reaves, worthy chaplain.

Arrangements were completed for the annual meeting and election of officers on March 11. Mrs. Hazel Anderson and Mrs. Mabel Vogel served refreshments.

Designs Aim to Please Women

Men's Clothier Tells All!

KANSAS CITY (AP) — For the man who cherishes the thought that women dress to please men, a men's clothier offers this deflating thought: The industry designs men's clothes with women in mind

L. N. Rieman of Chicago, sales manager for a nationwide clothing firm, told about 500 persons at a showing yesterday:

"Woman influences 70 per cent of man's clothing purchases. She bemoans the sloppiness of man."

To make certain the industry really knows what women want their husbands to buy, Rieman said his company maintains women fashion consultants.

He pointed to a new suit billed as the biggest news since the Ivy League look.

"That's the continental look," he said. "Its keynote is elegance. We're going out to please the women. That suit is designed to complement her new fashions."

Women's clothing, Rieman said is designed with more inspiration—one starts with a bolt of cloth and begins draping it around the model with imagination.

With men's accouterments, the designing demands logic and a high degree of mathematical competence.

Computations and calculations must be made, continually, he said, to insure that the front and back of a suit fit exactly, with emphasis on certain lines to detract attention from less fortunate features of the male anatomy.

Copeman-Bennett Vows Exchanged in Church

Given in marriage by her brother, Eugene L. Bennett, Patricia Constance Bennett of Cadillac street became the bride of Robert Malcolm Copeman this afternoon at First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Galen E. Hershey officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Bennett of Dundee, Scotland and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin A. Copeman of Devondale drive.

The bride wore a pale pink ballarina length lace dress. Her shoulder length veil was held by a cap of pale pink sequins and she carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Dorothy Dawson was the only attendant. She was dressed in a ballerina length dress of pale blue nylon with a blue matching half-hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

Five Meals, Not Three

Thin Gals Get Tips on Gaining

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Every once in a while I want to answer those pitiful calls for help which come from the thin gals. Many of them feel that they are neglected women since I write so much more about overweight than underweight. I do this because so many more women are miserable because of too many pounds rather than too few.

However, the case of the flat bust, pipestem legs and missing curves at the hipline, also can cause self-consciousness and unhappiness. Remember that a general gain in much needed poundage will fill out ALL areas, especially the bust.

Exercise is needed by the thin woman as much as it is by the one who is overweight, but not the same sort of motions. The underweight woman should take relaxing exercises and should not exercise so strenuously or for as long as her heavier sister. She also should take special exercises for building up the bust and leg measurements.

Here are a few more tips for you. Do not eat so much that you feel stuffed and do not try to eat a lot of very rich foods. This will only lead to indigestion and maybe pimples. Instead, be sure to eat a diet high in minerals and vitamin and one that is well-balanced in every way. Then, of course, you can add more of the calorie high items than you could if you were not too slim.

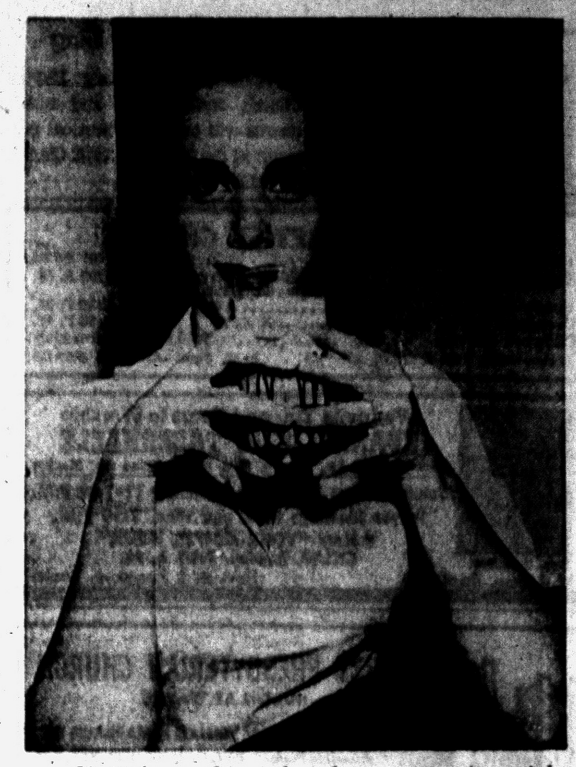

Lack of appetite is the problem of many underweights. For this reason it may be best for you to eat five small meals rather than three larger ones. Also, if you have not eaten much in the past, your stomach probably has shrunk so that it is practically impossible for you to eat a large meal until you have improved your habits in nutrition.

Of course you must also get plenty of sleep and try not to rush or to worry. You use up loads of energy this way. Try to take several little rest periods during the day and if possible lie down for 15 minutes or a half hour and relax completely before your largest meal.

Vitamin capsules may be of value. Drink a quart of milk during each day with a little cream added. One glass can be saved for just before you go to sleep at night.

It is often more difficult to gain weight than to lose it, but a faithful effort usually will bring results. If you cannot seem to gain, you should have a physical checkup by your physician.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Nine-Day Gaining Diet," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 41. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

If you're a thin gal and want to gain weight, drink a quart of milk a day with a little cream added.

Big Cities Set Pace for Men

Male Fashions Get National Nod Afterward

CHICAGO — New male fashions travel a "Madison Avenue-to-Main Street" route, according to a survey of male wear retailer opinion conducted by the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

Fifty members of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers Young Men's Group, representing a cross-section of the country, responded to the questionnaire which aimed at learning what the retailers themselves regard as the likeliest sales leaders this year.

An analysis of the replies indicates that male fashion trends get their start in big urban centers such as New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, and achieve national acceptance in anywhere from two to four years.

BOATERS BACK

A good example is the case of the modernized straw boater—the up-dated version of the skimmers that were American favorites back in the 1920's. Revived interest in boaters was first evident on the sidewalks of New York City two summers ago. Last summer found it reaching out to most of the big cities in the nation and, according to the survey, close to 50 per cent of the retailers—from both big cities and small towns—expect to see more boaters this summer than at any time since the Roaring Twenties.

The case of the new lightweight derby tends to verify the point. The new derby is achieving a fashion following right now, but chiefly in the major population centers. By next fall, most of the retailers believe, it will be finding "fair" to "moderate" acceptance throughout the country, and many foresee a "good" acceptance 12 months later.

The same sort of history is predicted for the new American Continental suit model. New York City retailers replying to the survey, as well as those in other key cities, foresee a good acceptance for the new model this year, while in other parts of the country the feeling is that it will take another season or perhaps two for this Italian-inspired creation to achieve true national prominence. The influence of the new style, will, of course, be seen in much of the business, sports and formal clothing offered.

IVY-TYPE IN

At present, the natural shoulder and Ivy-type suits seem to have the best consumer acceptance, according to the survey replies, with the Ambassador model most popular in the Far West, Southwest and Texas.

Other trends indicated by the survey:

1. Nearly 80 per cent of the retailers have noticed more of their customers dressing right.

2. Retailers are virtually unanimous in predicting a continuing strong trend toward knit sports shirts and wash-and-wear dress shirts.

Spadea's american designer pattern

By Anne Klein
JUNIOR SOPHISTICATES

The costume suit has become a wardrobe essential, filling many roles, assuring a constant well-dressed and completely contained appearance. This one by Anne Klein of Jr. Sophisticates has great lines, so casually tailored for daytime, but with a daringly decollete sheath for cocktails and dinner.

The lined jacket has an interesting fit, narrowed in just under the bust and then gently flaring out. Choose flannel, thin worsted, linen, silk or rayon suiting.

It is also ideal for little weddings, for the bride or attendant, made up in silk, rayon or cotton faille, other dressy fabrics.

From this size chart select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips Inches	Length From Nape of Neck to Waist
5	31½	21½	32½	15½
7	32½	22½	33½	15¾
9	33½	23½	34½	16
11	34½	24½	35½	16¼
13	36	26	37	16½
15	37½	27½	38½	16¾

Size 13 requires 3¾ yards of 45 inch material for dress and jacket and 1⅛ yards of 45 inch material for lining.

To order Pattern No. 1367, state size, send $1.00. For ANN KLEIN of JR. SOPHISTICATES label, send 25 cents.

Fur Made in Smaller Pieces Now

Costly Chinchilla More Available to Many Women

NEW YORK (NEA) — Out of the opera box and into the closet of many an American woman: that's the story of chinchilla fur.

This is the coming fur fashion to watch for. Mink will always be with us in some form, of course. And so will sable. But the something new, the something plus in furs is unquestionably chinchilla.

To take it out of the dowager atmosphere and make it the love of young women everywhere, designers are giving it a bright, chic look. Little jackets, capelets and miniature stoles all translate chinchilla into terms that young moderns understand.

The bright side to this thick, soft, misty gray fur comes in velvet linings and bows in glowing colors: ruby, topaz, royal and emerald. Often, the bows are detachable so that the wearer can display the silvery fur only if she's so inclined.

Capes and jackets alike are cropped short for a look that's both youthful and elegant. Necklines stand-away and sleeves are brief and sometimes wide.

Chinchilla is a costly and regal fur. But worked into small fur fashions, it's something that many women will be able to own. It's the kind of possession to be regarded as diamonds, fine perfume, costly china and dazzling crystal are regarded. Many women will find it worth saving for and cherishing once they own it.

Ladylike Siren Look Featured by Designer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Designer Luis Estevez shows a ladylike siren look for summer.

The young Cuban-born designer usually champions low-cut necklines and high-slit skirts. But his new line is toned down to what he calls "modest bareness."

Some necklines still are low, usually in back. A few V-necks and scoop necklines reveal the bosom. One ball gown has a hem caught up to the knees in front and a long slinky evening sheath is slit nearly to the knee on one side.

But most bareness comes at the arms and shoulders. Estevez slit wrist-length, baby doll, and cap sleeves up the center to the collar bone. On long sleeves, the slits end in bands at the wrist or just below the elbow.

This switch to modesty doesn't make the clothes any less whistle-bait material. Bodices tend to be form-fitting. Slim skirts fit snugly over the hips, hemlines are short, and waistlines are natural, hugged by wide cummerbunds with huge buckles.

The shirtwaist dress was prominent in the collection, shown here this week. Estevez also put a shirtwaist bodice on a sheath-type skirt.

Colors were brilliant—shocking pinks; orange, pink and yellow prints; bright yellow or fuschia sashes and stoles on subdued outfits; electric blues; and prints of blues, purples, and greens.

Also dominant were black and white, done alone or combined in prints. Most patterns were large, with lots of white or solid background colors. Polka dots were everywhere—on sashes, in panels, shoes, and on evening gowns.

Imaginative touches included removable sleeves to turn an airy, feminine cocktail or "garden party" dress into a slinky sheath for evening; and a two-tiered evening coat which gives a three-tiered effect when worn over a dress with a flounced skirt.

Estevez also featured travel ensembles of a top, full and slim skirts. The model appeared in the full skirt, stepped out of it to reveal a skirt narrow enough to be worn underneath.

A multi-layered chiffon dress came with a change of belts: a wide, set-in band matching the dress, and a polka dot sash which could be added to match an evening coat.

Hits of the show were a full, flaring evening coat of black and white imported organdy eyelet, worn over a short matching dress, and a short, full-skirted bridal gown with a train and a narrow chiffon veil falling like a sash from a "headache band" headdress.

Hats, by Anita Andra, included patent leather cartwheels, giant single roses, birdcage veils, and a tall stove pipe made of tiers of veiling as stiff as chicken wire.

Cottons Given Fringed, Nubby Look for 1959

Cottons go long-haired in 1958. Look for fringed fabrics, called "haircut cottons," strongly textured homespuns, hopsackings, and nubby ratines with geometric patterns and abstract prints.

Another weave has a notched surface simulating wicker. Pique comes in giant waffle weaves.

A fabric designer has introduced a "tissue terry," a fluffy cotton souffle with textured loops, as resilient as a sponge, and recommended for travel wear.

Let Dirty Puff Take a Powder

You wouldn't wash with a dirty cloth so why take chances with a dirty powder puff. Either wash puffs often or throw them out.

Or learn to apply cosmetics with cotton balls fresh and clean from the box. They're also handy for blending makeup at the hairline and throat line—just dampen them in good quality witch hazel and smooth out the "highwater marks."

West Bloomfield Church Mission Talks to Open

Elfreida Pruitt, missionary from Belgian Congo, and the Rev. Daniel Carr from Formosa will be featured speakers at the opening session Sunday of the week-long West Bloomfield Baptist Church Missionary Conference.

Miss Pruitt will give her talk at the 11 a. m. service tomorrow, and the Rev. Mr. Carr will be the speaker at 7 p. m.

A graduate of Moody Bible Institute and Ohio State University, Miss Pruitt will discuss her work in educational evangelism in the Congo. Her mission work has been in schools operated by the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission Society in the Congo.

The Rev. Mr. Carr will tell of his work in West China, where he was forced from his field of service by the Communists, and in Tow Liu, Formosa, where he went after leaving China.

He began work in that city of 50,000 with house-to-house visitation, open-air meetings and English Bible classes. The latter proved an excellent means of contact, since many Formosans are anxious to learn English.

CHURCH ESTABLISHED

He saw a Baptist church established, and later turned his efforts to training of leaders and pastors. A graduate of Baylor University and Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, the Rev. Mr. Carr also has served as a naval chaplain.

The week night services of the conference will be held at 7:30 each night.

On Monday the Rev. Ronald Olson of Argentina will tell of his "each one reach one" ministry in Ledesma.

Tuesday evening, the sound-color motion picture film "Voodoo Fire" will be shown as Fleming Newcomb tells of his projected work in Haiti.

Dr. B. Myron Cedarholm, director of the Conservative Baptist Association of America, will speak Wednesday evening. Telling of his work among the Negroes of Michigan on Thursday night will be the Rev. Harold Dungy, Negro pastor from Jackson.

Final guest missionary will be the Rev. Jack Swinborne from the Belgian Congo. His Friday evening message will concern the work of CBFMS with mulatto children.

All are invited to this missionary conference and to the regular services of the church which is located at 4900 Orchard Lake Rd., three miles south of Keego Harbor. The Rev. J. Richard Muntz, pastor, will bring the conference to a close on Sunday, Feb. 22, with a message on "The Holy Spirit and Missions."

'We Dedicate' Dr. Bank's Topic

Dr. Milton H. Bank, Central Methodist Church pastor, has chosen "We Hereby Dedicate" for his sermon topic tomorrow. Services are held at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m.

Second in a series of six School of Christian Living dinner meetings will be held at 6:30 Wednesday in the church.

Dr. Everett K. Seymour, superintendent of the Detroit District of the Methodist Church, will be guest speaker for the program, which opens at 7:10 p.m. His topic: "Practicing the Presence."

Season Is Often Misunderstood

Penitential Acts Aim to Combat Materialism of World Today

With the beginning of Lent last Wednesday, churches throughout the Pontiac area scheduled a host of services and special observances to mark this 6-week penitential period.

Lent has been called the least understood season of the Christian year.

It is easy to say who observes Lent, and when, and how. The question that causes confusion, even in churches that place great emphasis on Lent, is why.

Lent is observed by all liturgical churches, including the Roman Catholic, Lutheran, Episcopal and Eastern Orthodox communions. These follow an ancient calendar of worship which divides the year into six great seasons—Advent, Christmas, Epiphany, Lent, Easter and Trinity.

This calendar provides an annual rhythm for worship, so that each major aspect of the Christian faith has its own appointed season for special emphasis.

Many Protestant bodies which formerly ignored the liturgical calendar have begun in recent years to see values in it. One result is that Lent is now being observed in a number of Presbyterian, Methodist and other Protestant churches.

TIED TO EASTER

The date of Lent varies from year to year. Specifically Lent is a period of 40 weekdays and six Sundays preceding Easter. This period was fixed by Pope Felix II in 487 A. D., but his decree merely formalized a custom that was widespread in the Christian church as early as 200 A. D.

Eastern Orthodox churches reckon the date of Easter by a method different from that of Western churches. Hence their observance of Lent begins on a different date (March 16 this year.)

Roman Catholics fast on all weekdays during Lent and forego meat at two of the three meals. In Eastern Orthodox churches, rules for fasting vary from one archdiocese to another.

Episcopal and Lutheran churches leave it up to the individual's conscience, but both encourage systematic acts of self-denial.

CURB BODY

As the Episcopal book of common prayer puts it, each person should practice "such a measure of abstinence" from food or other worldly pleasures as he finds necessary to discipline his appetite and "bring the body into subjection" to the spirit.

In addition to fasting, Lent is observed with "extraordinary acts of devotion" for both Catholic and Protestants.

What is the purpose of Lent? In all of the Lenten literature that has been written by Catholic and Protestant scholars, two themes stand out:

1. Lent is an annual reminder to Christians that Jesus did not promise His followers ease, comfort or success in this life. On the contrary, He said that "if any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me."

Many theologians feel that Lent's emphasis on sacrifice and self-denial is especially needed by modern Christians, who live in a world that places supreme importance on the pursuit of happiness.

2. As a "penitential season," Lent stresses the Christian teaching that all men are sinners and in need of God's mercy.

This doctrine is almost as uncongenial to the modern mind as the ideal of self-denial. But the liturgical churches believe that no man can really comprehend the joy of Easter, with its message of forgiveness and redemption, until he has faced the fact of his own sinfulness.

Our Plea for Christ

Last week there appeared in this section an article entitled, OUR PLEA FOR CHRIST. This was the first in a series of articles which will appear in this section on this subject. It is an effort on the part of the Church of Christ to acquaint the public of this area with OUR PLEA FOR A RESTORATION OF THE NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH BASED UPON SCRIPTURAL AUTHORITY ONLY. We think you will be interested in knowing something about this plea.

There are several thousand congregations of the Church of Christ throughout the world today who are neither Catholic nor Protestant and who are seeking to be exactly what the church of the New Testament was in name, doctrine, organization, worship, and practice. Each Church of Christ is an independent body recognizing Christ as its only head and the gospel of Christ as the only source of authority in religious matters. The membership of these churches is composed of those who have believed in Jesus, repented of their sins, confessed their faith in Christ, and have been baptized into Christ for the remission of their sins. They are Christians and Christians only. CAN THIS BE WRONG? rd.fs

OUR PLEA FOR CHRIST IS A PLEA FOR THE NAME OF CHRIST. Men have departed from the name of Christ. Christ has been given a name above every name. Phil. 2:9 Salvation is in His name. Acts 4:12. Remission of sins in his name. Acts. 2:38. Men are baptized into his name. Matt. 28:19 The name of Christ is worn by Christians. 1 Pet. 4:16; Acts 11:26. CAN IT BE WRONG TO LOVE, EXALT, APPRECIATE, WEAR, AND RESPECT THE NAME OF CHRIST ABOVE ALL OTHER NAMES. NO IT CANNOT BE. Therefore all who love truth above opinion, theory, tradition should surrender to this plea, a plea FOR THE NAME OF CHRIST. ARE YOU WILLING

Recalls St. Valentine's Day Massacre of Bootlegging Mob in Chicago

(The bootlegging wars of the Prohibition era reached a bloody climax three decades ago when members of a Chicago gang were lined up against a wall and shot down. One of the first newsmen to reach the scene recalls the incident.)

By EARL AYKEROID

CHICAGO (AP)—Thirty years have passed since the St. Valentine's Day massacre, one of prohibition's goriest moments.

But the small, red brick building where seven men were machine-gunned in cold blood still stands on North Clark street, crammed among more imposing structures.

The mass slaughter took place Feb. 14, 1929. By that time the gang wars for supremacy of Chicago's lucrative bootleg traffic had narrowed to two major factions, those of Al Capone and George (Bugs) Moran.

The morning dawned cold and gray. The skies held a threat of snow. It was St. Valentine's Day—a day when all the world was supposed to be in love.

It was about 10 a.m. when police received the first report of "a shooting at 2122 N. Clark St." The place was headquarters for the Moran gang.

There were the victims of the savage slaughter that left Capone and his faction unopposed as suppliers to Chicago's thirsty citizenry:

Peter and Frank Gusenberg, brothers, two of Moran's toughest muscle men; Johnny May, ex-convict and mechanic who kept Moran's trucks in operating condition; James Clark, Moran's brother-in-law; and Adam Hyer, another muscle man; Dr. Reinhart Schwimmer, an optometrist, for whom gangsters had a strange fascination, although he was not mixed up in the rackets himself; Al Weinshank, a speakeasy operator.

Rival mobsters had decided to eliminate the entire Moran faction.

An execution squad, some dressed as policemen, waited in a hideout near Moran's headquarters.

Three men had rented rooms in a house across the street where they could watch Moran's headquarters.

Moran's henchmen began gathering in the headquarters Feb. 14. Soon there were six of them. The seventh to arrive was Weinshank, who bore a close resemblance to Moran. Police theorized the rival lookouts mistook Weinshank for the gang leader and gave the signal for the executioners to move in.

Within minutes an automobile, which witnesses took to be a police car, pulled up in front of the gang headquarters. Four or five men—two in police uniform—got out. One man in civilian attire carried an odd-shaped package wrapped in newspaper.

Inside, the seven men waiting for Moran looked up in mild surprise. Police raids were nothing new to them, nothing to cause much concern.

Line up against the wall, they were told.

As they faced the wall, the man with the odd-shaped package quickly ripped away its covering.

The machine gunner opened up with deadly accuracy. His weapon moved up and down the line of men repeatedly. There was a pause as the victims slumped one by one to the floor. Then the killer fired a final torrent of lead into the sprawled bodies.

Calmly, the killers filed out of the buildings, climbed unhurriedly into their car and drove away.

Frank Gusenberg lived briefly after the shooting.

Asked who shot him, he snarled "nobody." He died with his lips sealed.

Frightened out of the bootleg racket by the mass killing, which he openly attributed to Capone, Moran turned to burglary, robbery and confidence games. He died Feb. 25, 1957, in Leavenworth Penitentiary where he was serving a term for bank burglary.

Reflections

ABE LINCOLN

J. L. VOORHEES

The predominant characteristic of this great man was innate honesty. If he were a boy, going to one of our schools, he would never be satisfied with a half-learned lesson; that would be dishonest to himself and to the people who provided him with books. That tall, unprepossessing boy would have been chosen Class-Predisent; integrity would have been the deciding factor.

M. E. SIPLE

Abe would have been more interested in his teacher than physical aspects of the building, more concerned about curriculum than a big letter on the front of his sweater. Each classmate, regardless of antecedent, color or creed, would be destined to become a leader; that school would be the first step up the ladder to success.

Abe Lincoln lived with honesty as we live with the air we breathe—a vital, necessary part of him. Reserve him for the heritage he left to all of us.

Secrets Unveiled

What Are You Thinking With Your Valentines?

NOTHING IS SECRET — Choose a Valentine like the one on the left and you give yourself away as a content and affectionate soul. Round, enclosing shapes are picked by those who know they're loved, can love in return. But a liking for the hard, angular lines and elongated design of the card on the right indicate you're hard-shelled and afraid of rebuff.

NEW YORK (NEA)—OK, folks. Turn up the lights and turn off the phonograph. Nothing is secret—not even Valentine's Day.

In a startling duel between science and art, man's loftier sentiments have taken a couple of solid blows to the head and heart. To wit:

Professor William E. Henry, a social psychologist at the University of Chicago, has announced the results of a greeting-card study that began in 1947.

"The greeting card in American life serves two main purposes," Henry says. "It is a way in which we demonstrate our feelings or relatedness to other people. And sending a card affirms our acceptance of the dominant moral values of our society."

Consequently, Henry has discovered, you will pick the card that has a deep, personal meaning for you. Every little rosebud has a meaning all its own. So do color and style, line and shape, lettering and picture story.

Did your boy friend choose a cool blue or brittle green color in the card? Don't worry about it. It simply means that he has a roaring drive toward status and prestige. But you can teach him to be friendly and more emotional.

Do you know any career women who send elaborate, lacy cards? Well, beneath that tailored suit beats a heart of pure mush and through those lean veins old-fashioned fudge. She can't hide it.

Now, how about you?

Have you picked a cute little kitten peeking around a heart? Well, just remember that the cat is the loner among animals.

Have you picked a picture of a femme fatale? That's because you're not so sure of your appeal.

Have you picked two hearts carved into a tree trunk? Forget the hearts; the tree says you're hard-shelled and afraid of being rebuffed.

Have you picked a restrained sampler? Tsk, tsk: You may find success in business, but you're too exacting for personal relationships.

While your choice of a Valentine paints an accurate picture of personality to any skilled psychologist, there are still two ways out.

You can either develop a personality you're not ashamed of, or you can cross skilled psychologists off your Valentine's list.

State Drivers Continue Lower Fatality Report for 1st of February

EAST LANSING (UP) — Michigan motorists continued their phenomenal safety record in the first 11 days of February with 14 deaths reported compared with 43 in the same period last year, State Police said today.

So far this year, 81 persons have died in traffic as opposed to 137 in 1958.

This is a reduction of 56 or 26 per cent over last year, police said. They said inclement weather, keeping motorists off the roads and reducing speeds, was probably responsible for the improvement.

Last weekend there were six deaths on highways compared with 13 for the corresponding weekend a year ago.

Police said for the upcoming weekend, 1958 figures showed nine deaths.

State Police predicted figures for January, not yet complete, would show more personal injury and property damage accidents, as happened in December.

Deaths for both months are definitely down, they said.

Twin Jets Clear Ice

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—A new use of jet power has been developed at Kellogg airfield here. The 4,000-foot runway was cleared of ice by the 15,600-pound thrust of twin jet engines generating 600 degrees of heat. Cajt. James Syteiner, operational officer of the 172nd tactical squadron of the Air National Guard said he believed it was the first time jet power was employed for ice removal. Ice one-half to two inches thick was blasted from the runway Thursday.

Paddy Chayefsky Fears Writing for Television

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Paddy Chayefsky, most successful writer to come out of television, isn't going back to the medium that made him famous.

Why? Because he's scared.

"I have an idea for a play which I think would be great for television," he remarked, "but I don't have the guts to do it. I'm scared they'll clobber me."

He didn't define who "they" are, but I gathered he meant the TV critics and the trade. He is sensitive on this score.

"I don't mind being knocked when I deserve it," he said. "Some of the reviews of 'The Goddess,' criticized things that I knew were wrong in the picture. That's all right. But I don't like it when I'm slugged without justification."

The chunky, bearded playwright made his comments during his close scrutiny of the filming of "Middle of the Night" with Fredric March and Kim Novak. It was a hit play on Broadway and the road. Paddy has also had the prize film "Marty" and the so-so "Bachelor Party."

He talked wistfully of the days when he used to turn out 10 to 12 scripts a year for TV — "some good, some bad."

"I can remember one year when a bunch of us guys like myself, Reggie Rose and Sumner Locke Eliot were the bright young writers of TV," he said, grinning. "One year later, we were the tired old men who were holding down the young, unknown playwrights."

Now the Chayefsky breed is writing for the movies and the stage, and virtually all of the high caliber TV dramas have faded from the air. Many critics despair of the future of dramatic fare in the once vigorous medium.

But not Paddy.

"These things go in cycles," he mused. "One of these days, a bright producer like a Fred Coe will come along and enlist a great new bunch of writers, and suddenly the drama will flourish again in television."

Stage All Set for Big Clash With Northern

Sparkling Long Range Scoring Paces Chiefs to 7th Valley Win

By BILL CORNWELL

Bring on those Vikings! The Chiefs are ready!

The stage is set and the actors are prepared to play their roles in a Saginaw Valley Conference basketball drama which unfolds next Friday night at Flint.

Pontiac Central warmed up for its Saginaw Valley title showdown with Flint Northern by rolling past Bay City Central, 64-55, in the PCH gymnasium last night.

A dazzling display of long-distance firing sparked the Chiefs to their important SVC triumph as they deadlocked idle Northern for 1st place in the Valley standings with a 7-1 record.

The 1st place tie will be broken when the Chiefs and the Vikings collide in the Northern gym and to the winner will probably go the Valley crown, even though each team will have one league game remaining.

Pontiac has shown a better brand of basketball this season than was seen by PCH fans yesterday and the Chiefs had a few anxious moments during the 1st half, but still there was little doubt about the eventual outcome.

Phenomenal out-court shooting by stubby Phil Rabaja in the 1st half and the 1st quarter in particular, followed by some more fancy firing by John Bandy and Amos Bailey, propelled the Chiefs to this crucial victory.

Rabaja finished his evening's work with 16 points for his best scoring effort of the season. Seven of his eight field goals were made in the 1st half, five in the 1st period, and all except one came on soft two-handed set shots from 30 feet away.

The 5-foot-6 guard swished seven of 12 attempts from the floor and when the Bay City defense finally pulled out of its shell to check him, the sharp-eyed B-boys—Bandy and Bailey—took charge.

Bandy was high scorer in the contest with 18 points, 10 in the 2nd half. Bailey came through with 14, including eight clutch points on fielders in the 2nd stanza when the Wolves were providing the most trouble. Center Bob Bishop paced the Bay City cause with 16.

Bay City, taking advantage of a Pontiac defense which sometimes was loose and careless, rallied for a 23-21 lead in the 2nd quarter. The aroused Chiefs quickly regained the edge, built their margin to 34-25 at halftime and held command thereafter, leading by 16 points once in the 4th session.

Coach Art Van Ryzin emptied the bench with less than two minutes left as PCH handed the Wolves their 7th defeat in 11 games. Bay City's Valley record now stands 1-7.

Avon and Wolves Lose, Holly Wins

Title Tie Certain for Troy After Eighth Straight

Lk. Orion Homecoming Victor, 70-51; Spartans Down Clawson

Avondale turned in a strong effort attempting to prevent defending Oakland B champion Troy from clinching a tie for the title but still bowed 82-55 last night.

Lake Orion regained its scoring punch to wallop Madison 70-51 and Fitzgerald defeated Clawson 36-31 in other loop play.

Host Troy led all the way in winning its 8th straight league tilt but Avondale kept fighting back. The Jackets trailed only 58-49 when the Colts fired in 20 points in the last five minutes, 15 seconds.

Little Don Harned hit 16 in the 1st half and a total of 22 for game honors. Gary Acker topped the losers with 18.

Orion had 11 different point-getters paced by Jim Recknagel's 18. Rick Moos continued his steady scoring for Madison with 21. The Dragons jumped off to a 15-0 lead before the Eagles could score and were never in danger the rest of the night.

The victory gave Orion the 3rd place slot dropping Avondale to 4th.

Fitzgerald kept ahead in the race for runnerup honors but had to work hard for it. Clawson came from behind to deadlock the issue and then went ahead twice during the final period but the loss of two starters on fouls helped stop winless CHS.

Broncos Gain Overtime Win but It's Futile

Brighton Remains Unbeaten in W-O Loop; Barons Drop Thriller

Holly's hopes of sneaking by Brighton or at least gaining a share of the Wayne-Oakland championship with the Bulldogs appeared very slim today.

The Broncos gained a big 62-60 overtime triumph at Northville last night only to learn that Brighton had battered Clarkston 74-59 to stay one game in front.

West Bloomfield tripped Milford 58-52 and Clarenceville nipped Bloomfield Hills 56-54 in a sudden death overtime finish rounding out the league slate.

Holly's win, decided by a push shot by 6-6 scoring ace George McDaniel with just four seconds left in the overtime, was its 10th straight and 7th in eight W-O games. But Brighton is 8-0. Each has two games left against 2nd division teams.

Jeff Goodrich, 6-8, tallied 20 for the losers in a battle of big boys. He made eight of Northville's 25 free throws. Little Fred Schwarze, who had an 87 per cent record on charity tosses, was fouled with no time left in the overtime but missed a chance to tie the score again.

Brighton led at Clarkston until early in the 3rd when the Wolves gained a 31-31 deadlock. Featuring 20-point performances by Don Appleton and Russ Hudson, the visitors pulled away later.

Down by three starting the 2nd period, West Bloomfield went ahead to stay although pushed hard right down the wire. Terry Anderson caged 19 and John Lucadam 18.

Bloomfield Hills and Clarenceville each dominated a half and played the 1st overtime all even. Then a 15-foot jump shot by Gene Scholes iced the verdict.

Rams Trample DeSales; Shamrocks Smother OLS

Both Pontiac parochial basketball clubs last night found there was nothing but good luck, despite the date—Friday the 13th. The jinx, if any, worked against the opponents of St. Frederick which won over Detroit St. Francis DeSales 58-47, and St. Michael which crushed Farmington OLS, 56-37.

The Rams had the most difficult operation, at least for the first half, at St. Thomas gymnasium here. Monarchs were only a single point, 23-22, behind at the intermission. Then the roof caved in on Bill Kennedy's club. Tom Derocher, Steve Pocs, Joe Keller and Phil Bieri combined for a 24-point 3rd period scoring splurge that iced the win.

Four Rams hit in double figures, paced by Derocher's 17 and Pocs' 14. DeSales had three "doubles," led by Dick Treviso with 14.

Victory was Rams' 10th. Coach Gene Wright announced today his club would play another strong Detroit outfit, St. Bernard, East Side 3rd place finisher. The Bernards come here next Friday.

Jim Niebauer's Shamrocks found the Farmington game little more than a scrimmage session. Mikemen ran up a 34-15 halftime count, cleared the bench and rolled along to a 22-point 2nd half count, and their 6th win.

Pat Campbell came through with a fine 14-point night, with Tom Dabbs close with 13. Disher paced the losers with 12.

Shamrocks have several more games, starting next Tuesday at Mt. Clemens against the strong St. Mary's club that returns here Feb. 24 at PCH gymnasium.

Berg and teammate Dick Plourde, also of Pontiac, wound up deadlocked for the league scoring championship. The Stampers start the playoffs at 8 a.m. Sunday morning at State Fair grounds.

LITTLE POPPER — Pontiac Central's answer to the "big bopper" was Phil Rabaja, the 5-6 "little popper" last night who hit 10 points in the first quarter on long outside shots and finished with 16 for the evening, all from the outside. PCH whipped Bay City Central, 64-55, to end the regular home season.

Rochester, Birmingham Fall to League Rivals

Rochester's hopes for a Tri-County League basketball championship, or at least a share of the crown, were badly jolted Friday nigh when the Falcons took a 56-44 lacing from Lapeer on the Lapeer floor.

Romeo, engaged in non-conference play at Utica yesterday, now has the inside track to the title. The Bulldogs lead the loop with a 4-1 record while Rochester and Lapeer are tied for 2nd place at 3-2.

Birmingham had ideas of knocking Port Huron off the top rung of the ladder in the Eastern. rung of the ladder in the Eastern ceeded before bowing to the Big Reds, 53-49, at Birmingham.

Rochester and improving Lapeer battled through a 7-7 1st quarter, then the Panthers adopted a pressing defense for the balance of the contest and Rochester never found a way to adequately offset it.

Lapeer's full court press upset the Falcons who fell behind at the half, 23-17, and never caught up as they went down to their 2nd defeat in 12 games. Lapeer's John McKillen swished 21 points for scoring honors and Larry Hummel paced Rochester with 14.

Birmingham's Merv Gallop took game point-making laurels with 17. The Maples now stand 4-5 in the league and 5-6 overall.

Mt. Clemens held a brief one-point edge in the 3rd stanza, but East Detroit quickly regained the advantage and kept it from there on to stay even with Port Huron.

Kimball's zone defense limited Hazel Park to three field goals in the 1st half as the Royal Oak school posted its first win after 10 failures. Mike Harris of Kimball with 14.

Almont Keeps 1st Place

Almont's defending champs stayed at the head of the pack in the Southern Thumb League basketball race Friday night, but their nearest rivals for the title, New Haven and Anchor Bay, kept right on their heels.

The front-running Raiders brushed off Capac yesterday, 48-43, while New Haven nosed out Memphis, 42-40, and Anchor Bay came alive in the 2nd half for a 47-42 win over Dryden.

Almont led all the way and held a 33-20 halftime advantage in chalking up its 9th league win in 10 starts. Jim Ostrander and Mickey Forsyth sparked Almont with 14 and 12 respectively while Bill Abraham had 11 for Capac.

New Haven and Anchor Bay, deadlocked for 2nd place, still trail Almont by one full game with 8-2 records.

After being held to a 21-21 tie at halftime, Anchor Bay took the lead for keeps early in the 3rd quarter. Dryden's John Englert tallied 12 points.

New Haven was ahead of Memphis from start to finish, but never by more than eight points in a surprisingly close contest. Bill Kjerraungard led the winners with 13.

Huskies Post 62-51 Triumph Over Thurston

Berkley I-L Champion After Edging Skippers; Smith Viking Hero

Pontiac Northern and Waterford, who clash for the 2nd time Tuesday at PNH, turned in impressive showings in victory and defeat last night.

The Huskies won the 4th game of their first basketball season by romping a Detroit Thurston 62-51. It marked the 2nd time the new school has put together two straight wins.

Waterford did all it could to prevent Berkley from staying unbeaten and clinching its 4th successive Inter-Lakes championship but finally bowed 62-59.

Walled Lake bounced back from its second beating by Class B West Bloomfield to squeak by favored Southfield 74-72 in overtime and Farmington outscored Van Dyke 49-46 elsewhere in interesting loop contests.

PNH, which will be an Inter-Lakes member next season, led all through the 1st half but had to rally with a big 4th quarter to repeat an earlier win over Thurston.

The Huskies were down 46-44 following three quarters but posted an 18-5 final edge to pull away.

Mike Fedynik continued to set the scoring pace with 23 but equally important for three quarters was the rebounding and defensive play of Dick Eley. He kept 6-7 Len Wozniak bottled up before fouling out.

The Skippers raced to a 17-7 opening advantage but Berkley roared back for a 32-28 halftime lead and held off a later upset bid by the losers. Dave Burris gave Berkley the edge on his combination of 18 points and 21 rebounds.

Walled Lake was ahead most of the initial half but Southfield had charge a good share of the time in the last two periods before Frank Fink's last minute layup brought about a three-minute overtime. Bob Smith climaxed a control-ball duel in with a jump shot clincher with 30 seconds remaining.

Burkemo's 133 Tied for 8th at Tucson

Boros, Campbell in Front

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A veteran who pins his faith in putting and a freshman who thinks driving is the key to success lead the $15,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament into today's third round.

Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N.C. and Joe Campbell, Knoxville, Tenn., are each 11 under par with 65-64—129s, good for a one-stroke lead over their closest competition.

Boros thinks the putter is the big weapon on the 6,434-yard, par 35-35—70 El Rio course. "You can't drive them into the hole, you putt them in," he said.

During the first two days Boros sank 11 putts of up to 30 feet for birdies ad the lowest 36 hole score in his 10 years as a pro. In that decade he won more than $175,000 to become the ninth highest money winner in PGA records.

It is less than three months since the 23-year-old Campbell became eligible to collect cash in PGA tourneys. Before that he was a Walker Cup player and NCAA golf champ for Purdue.

Among Michigan entries, Wally Burkemo and Joe Zakarian were tied for 8th at 133. John Dalrymple with 137, Bob Gajda with 139 and John Barnum with 140 survived the qualifying cut.

Woodrow Wilson on Valentine's Day in 1885

'Not Necessary to Marry but Most Necessary to Love'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Valentine's Day seems like the perfect time to squelch any notions that only the poets can properly sing the joys of love.

American presidents have had a bit to say on the subject too.

In fact, you'd think from some of their romantic remarks that a few of the presidents knew as much about the gentle ways of the heart as about the rough and ready of politics.

Woodrow Wilson, a very reserved man, nevertheless couldn't restrain expressing his ardor for Ellen Axson, the preacher's daughter who became his first wife in 1885.

"A man who lives only for himself has not begun to live," said Wilson. "It is not necessary he should marry to find himself out, but it is necessary he should love."

George Washington spoke on reveling in "an ocean of love," and Thomas Jefferson described the "tranquil happiness" that flows when two persons fall for each other.

Washington, while firmly in favor of young love, warned of a price girls must pay if they capture their man. Writing to his niece Eleanor Parke Curtis in 1795 he declared:

"A woman all beautiful and accomplished will, while her hand and heart are indisposed of, turn the heads and set the circle in which she moves on fire.

"Let her marry and what is the consequence? The madness ceases and all is quiet again."

But Washington had not the slightest doubt that love would still make the world go round.

"Man and woman feel the same inclination to each other now that they always have, and which they will continue to do until there is a new order of things," said the sage of Mount Vernon.

Teddy Roosevelt rhapsodized more emphatically.

"There is no other such happiness on earth as there is for a true lover, and a sweet, fair girl beloved," he said.

Some of the presidents found Cupid evasive for awhile. When plump Mary Owens rejected Abraham Lincoln's proposal in 1838, the shy young Illinois lawyer voiced his feelings to a friend.

"I have now come to the conclusion never again to think of marrying, and for this reason I can never be satisfied with anyone who would be blockhead enough to have me," wrote Lincoln.

Four years later Lincoln married Mary Todd and proceeded to voice his "profound wonder" that she would have him.

Rutherford Hayes, a dapper and dashing ladies man in his Harvard days, fell madly in love with pretty Lucy Webb, who was nearly 10 years his junior. His diaries tell vividly of the see-saw joys and heartaches of courtship.

When at last they were married in 1852, Hayes exulted: "Can anything enjoyed on earth be a source of truer, purer happiness more unalloyed than this? Blessings on his head who first invented marriage!"

Chosen as Top Tourist Site

Keweenaw Peninsula Is Rustic Beauty Spot

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The Keweenaw Peninsula, where snow collects at a monumental rate, is one of Michigan's many spots of rustic beauty.

It's the Upper Peninsula's Upper Peninsula. It also ranks as one of six Upper Michigan sites selected in a University of Michigan faculty poll of the state's top 10 tourist attractions.

The others are the Mackinac Bridge, the Soo Locks, Tahquamenon Falls, the Porcupine Mountains and Mackinac Island.

The Keweenaw Peninsula juts deeply into Lake Superior and is one of the northmost points in the United States. Beneath its rugged terrain and deep snow is copper, the western Upper Peninsula's top resource.

Once the Chippewa Indians roamed the Peninsula and today it bears a name with Chippewa origin. Keweenaw comes form "Kakiwayonaning."

"It means place where a portage is made," said Prof. Ivan H. Walton, a U-M expert on Indian names.

The place where a portage is made is near the head of the Peninsula.

A canal cuts through the rugged wilderness from Lake Superior east past Houghton and Hancock into Portage Lake and on to Keweenaw Bay and back to Lake Superior.

Historic Fort Wilkins and Copper Harbor are two of the Peninsula's treasured landmarks.

The hub of the Keweenaw Peninsula is Houghton, a thriving city of nearly 4,000 persons. Located there is Michigan College of Mining and Technology, better known as Michigan Tech.

Convict Serving Time for Breaking Into Jail

KLAGENFURT, Austria (AP)—Surprised guards found Josef Dralota, 21, recently released after serving time, squirming in pain on the ground inside the jail walls yesterday.

He explained that he had climbed back in to deliver a belated farewell gift of cigarettes to friends inside, who get no tobacco ration.

He fell from the 20-foot wall and broke bones in both his feet.

In his pockets were hundreds of cigarettes.

Now he's serving a brief new term for breaking into jail.

James C. Allen, candidate for Oakland County Circuit Judge, is a wonderful person to know.

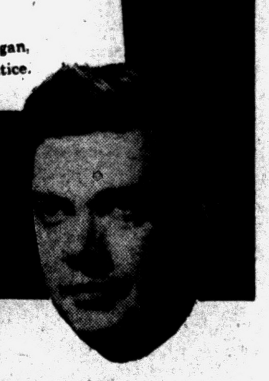

He has a beautiful and talented wife with four fine children.

But, his qualifications go far beyond that, for he has devoted most of his adult life to serving other people. This service has given Jim an insight and overall experience with people that makes us think he will be a fine Judge. Warm, human; but with a healthy respect for American institutions

We hope that you will vote on February 16 and April 6, and that you will join us to elect James C. Allen. There are too few like him.

Continue a tradition of four generations of service to Oakland County

Gin Rummy doesn't get its name from the two drinks indicated. The "Rum" comes from the ancient game of "Rummy." The "Gin" comes from the old English word of "engine" which means a "trick of opening."

background for LIVING

BUILT A CENTURY AGO — The Gerald Black residence on North Rochester road is over a hundred years old. The Blacks have spent the past 12 years remodeling it into a charming, friendly home. They made no changes on the exterior in front, merely put on insulation and siding. On the rear they added a room and a garage. Trimble Brothers of Lake Orion did all the building. Older readers in the county will remember this as the George Pierce place.

IT CAME FROM ENGLAND — The massive walnut secretary at the left came from England many years ago. It just suits this remodeled farmhouse. The chair beside it is one for which Mrs. Black made needlepoint. In the background is the dining room. Here the furniture is all cherry. The chairs are Hitchcock reproductions. The living room has wallpaper in a soft shade of green. Woodwork is antiqued pine. In the dining room the woodwork is white and the walls are pale gold.

Your Neighbor's House

Century Old Farmhouse Remodeled

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Snow swirled around the windows (nothing new about that this winter). Mrs. Gerald Black put the coffee pot on for the third—or was it the fourth?—time. The Press photographer, your Home Editor and the Blacks, including teenager Jim, settled down for more talk about the farm house they have been remodeling for 12 years.

"If we'd had any sense, we wouldn't have bought it at all," Mrs. Black said. But they did. They have put an enormous amount of work into making it a livable home according to modern standards. Now they wouldn't give it up for anything.

The house in question in on the old George Pierce place, some eight miles north of Rochester on Rochester road. We'd never have found it that snowy Saturday if it had been off on a side road. It's a land grant farm with the deed going back to 1812. The house is over a hundred years old. The Blacks own ten acres around the house with frontage on Cranberry Lake.

Shortly after the Blacks started their remodeling some one sent them the book, "Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House." "Most appropriate," says Mr. Black.

Except for the framework of hand hewn timbers, the house has been virtually rebuilt. An activities room and a two-car garage were added onto the back. On the exterior the siding and insulation are new. Inside, all plaster and lath were taken out and replaced after the house was rewired. But the Blacks have not destroyed the character of the house. It still looks like what it is—a century-old home that has been well preserved.

Perhaps the kind of day it was made the kitchen seem the most pleasant room in the house. It's really no more pleasant than the den or the dining room. But it is completely charming.

First of all, the floor is maple with large brown braided rugs in strategic spots. Walls and cupboards are pine. But the ceiling is papered in a miniature yellow and green print.

In the corner between the side windows and the door to the activities room there's a great fireplace of reclaimed brick. Under the raised hearth there is log storage room. The hearth itself is set with trivets in the brick. The wood panel above the fire opening was made from parts of the original house. It is held together with pegs rather than nails.

A similar fireplace backs up to this one in the activities room. Both are in constant use whenever the family is home.

This is the eating corner. A drop light fixture gives adequate light for eating and studying. The round pine table has a plastic top. The sturdy chairs are similar to captain's chairs, but without arms.

KEROSENE LAMPS

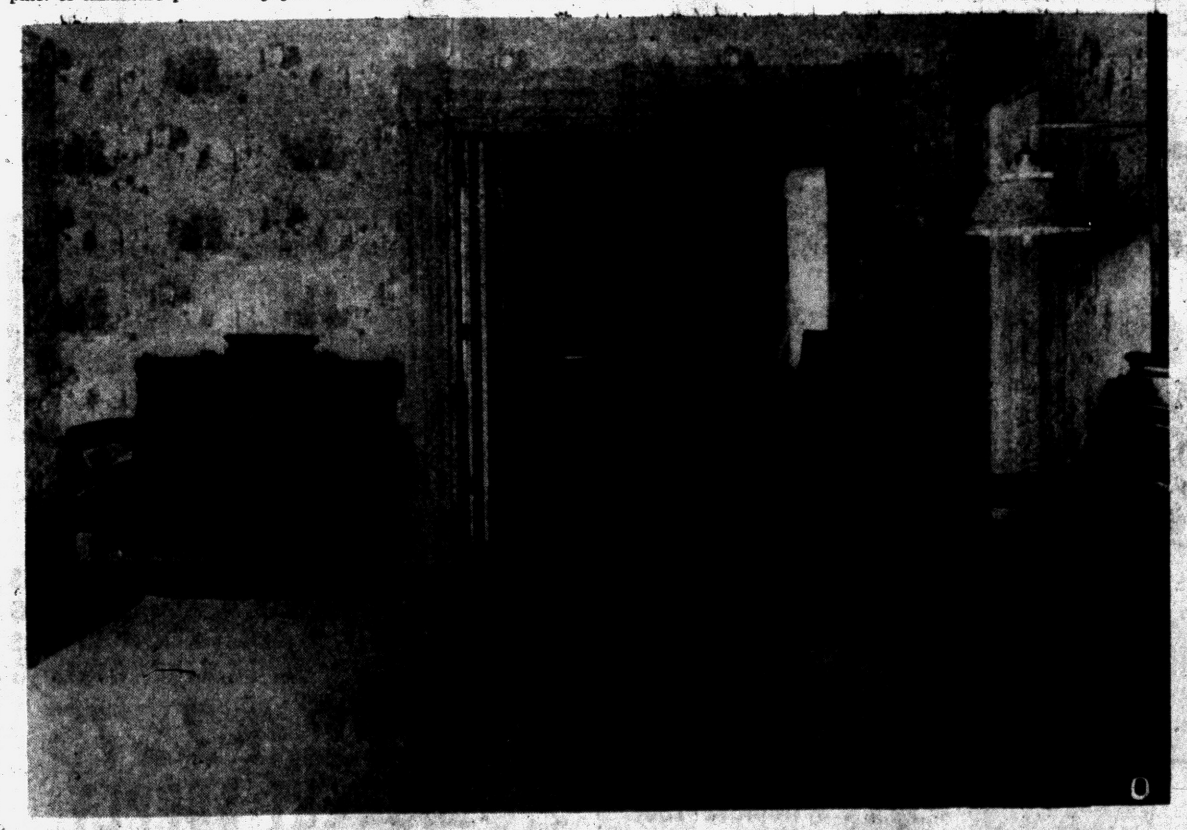

All the windows have very short ruffles on them, more for decoration than for privacy. These are made of a gold tweed-like material. At either side of the window over the sink there is a kerosene lamp fastened to the wall. Power failure holds no dark threats for the Black kitchen.

All the interior finishing was done by the Blacks. They don't minimize the huge job it was to

COULDN'T BE COZIER — Hot coffee on a snowy day warms the body. A glowing fire, two cats on the hearth and the pet dog in the doorway warm the spirit. This is the eating corner of the Black kitchen. The panel above the fireplace is made of wood from the original structure of the house. The floor is maple; the walls are pine. A miniature patterned paper covers the ceiling. This fireplace and the activities room visible through the door were all part of the Blacks' remodeling. Mr. Black is a school principal; Mrs. Black a nurse; and young Jim a basketball star at Romeo High School. The cats? Tabitha is the one at the right with Pegasus at the left. Both are characters. A third cat and second dog were outside. Nice people, nice house, nice pets.

For Northern Exposure

Rooms with northern light are more cheerful especially in the long winter months, if painted in certain warm colors. For foundation colors or accents, you are safe in using yellow, gold, rose and biege. You will like cafe' au lait, canary, chamois, cinnamon, all of which reflect light in a sunny way. Peach, primrose, yellow and russet are also colors to be considered for winter enjoyment.

Here's the Answer

Q—What kind of a roof is recommended for a seaside cottage? I'm concerned about wind storms.

A—For good appearance and wind resistance, I'd recommend asphalt shingles. These can be applied to resist even hurricane winds and you can select a color that will improve the looks of the entire cottage. Consulta a roofing contractor, who can tell you which style of asphalt shingles and which application method would be best.

Q—What can be done to correct a sagging storm-screen door? — R. C.

A—Install a turnbuckle brace on the inside of the door. Fasten one end of it with a screw near the lower corner on the latch side of the door; fasten the other end to the stile on hinge side of the door, about two feet up from the bottom edge. Now, tighten the turnbuckle until the door closes properly.

QUESTION: I do a lot of work with model airplanes and find it very difficult at times to do sanding in a tiny area that cannot be reached with even a very small sander. A friend of mine advised me to wrap a piece of sandpaper around a toothpick for this kind of work, but I find it a clumsy method. What do you suggest?

ANSWER: I'm not quite sure I understand this. Don't you sand the parts before you put the model planes together? But anyway, if you want to use a toothpick for sanding purposes, use abrasive powder rather than sandpaper.

Coat the toothpick with the same kind of quick-drying cement you use for making the models and then roll the toothpick in the abrasive powder. You can, if desired, make your own abrasive powder by scraping the grit from a piece of sandpaper.

QUESTION: I am contemplating taking the old doors off our garage and putting on one of the doors that swings up and out of the way. What kind of rollers and other equipment are needed?

ANSWER: Are you making the new door or buying it? If you are making it, you can buy a complete package of overhead garage door hardware, but you must give the dealer the exact dimensions of the door. If you are buying the door, you'll have no problem, since you can get the proper hardware at the same time.

Harmonize Your Rooms

If the rooms in your house open into each other, it's best to watch how the colors harmonize. If your dining room is painted in lime shade, use this color predominately as a secondary color in your living room. A white living room with blue upholstery could have hangings of all colors, with sofa pillows and one or two chair seats in lime color.

House Structure Affected by Weather Change

Expansion and contraction of building materials caused by temperature changes from season to season can open up tiny cracks in the weather-proof armor of a house.

For this reason it's a good idea for the home owner, caulking gun in hand, to inspect outside walls and areas around windows, doors, and foundation at least twice yearly.

Even cracks that are almost invisible can let heat escape in winter and are open doorways for dust and insects.

One area of the house that is unaffected by expansion and contraction is a roof of asphalt shingles. This is because asphalt shingles have a tough flexibility that permits them to absorb normal swelling and shrinkage of other components of the structure.

If the roof is old and weather-worn, however, it should be inspected along with the rest of the house. This should be done by a reliable roofing contractor who can tell quickly if the old material is giving adequate protection.

Kitchen Fireplace Feature of Gerald Black Home

Mrs. Black has a number of interesting accessories in the kitchen. There's a handsome metal coffee pot that's old and a set of canisters that's as modern as a new car. These canisters look like vinegar jugs, but are light colored with pink tops. There's a matching salt and pepper set on the stove.

In the dining room the walls are pale gold. Woodwork is white. All the doors in this room (they closed up a couple) have been split down the middle and rehung to open in half. This is a clever idea that might be copied anywhere space is at a premium. Old-fashioned ceramic door handles are used.

All the furniture is cherry. The gateleg table stands on a large braided linen rug which mixes gray, yellow and black in its braids. The hutch cupboard holds dishes. Chairs are Hitchcock.

The Blacks' bedroom opens off the dining room. It was once two small rooms. They put a large sliding door closet at one end. Walls are green.

Jim's room is upstairs and is actually two rooms, one a bedroom, the other sort of a study. There are three exposures up here and Jim says it never gets hot in the summer. One of the maple twin beds will be occupied by brother Jerry when he gets leave from the Air Force.

COLORFUL DEN

The den is sometimes called the "end" room. A massive Roman brick fireplace dominates the outside wall. Sheer white criss-cross curtains filter the sunlight. Walls are gold; the tweed carpet a warm blend of red.

In front of the east windows is a sectional sofa, upholstered in a hunting print that's predominantly red. The corner table next to it is cherry. On the opposite side of the room bookcases have been built in and painted white. A pair of colonial wing back chairs flank a round lamp table. These chairs have a tapestried covering which has a beige background with a tiny green and red print.

White louvered folding doors separate the den and formal living room. This is the room that received most of Mrs. Black's attention and handiwork. She spent hours and hours refinishing the woodwork. It is pine, now done in an antiqued finish.

One of the original doors was converted to a window. Curtains are the same sheer ones as in the den. The green wallpaper depicts a colonial village. The textured rug is gold.

A heavy walnut secretary takes up half the space of one wall; this came from England many years ago. The rest of the walnut furniture belonged to Mr. Black's grandmother.

For the love seat and the armchair Mrs. Black made needlepoint, doing both pattern and background. The tete-a-tete is upholstered in beige tapestry. The lady chairs have deep green velvet on them. Needlepoint for the entire set was Mrs. Black's goal in the beginning.

The activities room is next on the list of projects. Cork tile floor and pine paneled walls are done. There's a window seat next to the fireplace. This is the room with a piano and the TV. A big Salem rocker invites one to relax.

Houses like people can grow and change with the years.

Many a housewife has learned that picking up the paint brush and opening a can of paint is a good way to relieve the tension of multifold responsibilities and domestic pressures.

Danger Spots

The danger" spots of your home, as far as protection from the elements is concerned, are the sills, thresholds, porch floors and steps, joints of porch railings and palings, edges of eaves, flashings, roof gutters and downspouts . . . The recommendation.

Paint for Protection

Authorities are never too surprised at robberies and murders occurring in unpainted, run-down neighborhoods and drab, dirty alleys. Give those same areas a coat of good paint color from one end to the other and from top to bottom, and they will not be frequented by skulking thieves and brigands who need to blend into the background for protection.

Don't Discard Old Furniture, Paint It!

A little fabric and paint, a crisp color scheme, or a smart new arrangement can give older furniture a new lease on life—and save dollars.

A few old pieces can also contribute to the touch of sentiment that a new home often lacks, and can give children the security of familar surroundings, says an article in a recent issue of a home magazine.

Try moving old living-room furniture into a secondary room, such as the master bedroom or guest room. You can replace the dark plush material on old Victorian chairs or sofa with bold plaid upholstery fabric, for a gay, comfortable effect. Paint a marred chair or table frame to blend or contrast with walls, draperies, and other furniture.

Another trick is to transform the old living room with a bright new color scheme. Crimson is a sparkling color for the Victorian sofa—velvet a good upholstry material. Match the color with a red stair carpet, and contrast against white-and-black walls, chairs, and accessories.

Fit old and homemade furniture into a new house by smart arrangement, the magazine says. Over the old studio couch, "modernize" with one important picture, giving needed height. Balance the grouping with a long, low table, such as a pine plank set on bent-iron legs. Brighten the arrangement with colorful toss pillows.

NEW PANTRY — Ideal for a small kitchen where space is at a premium, this new pantry saves groping. The shelves are all four inches in depth.

Plastic Igloo Marks Advance

There is nothing like an igloo, unless it is an igloo made of plastic. Eskimos will be among the first to admit this.

Brainchild of an officer in the Canadian Department of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources, the new, lightweight igloo marks the white man's triumph over those painstakingly built by the Eskimos for a thousand years.

The new igloo is impervious to summer thaws, bain of the traditional Arctic snow block house. Inside, the temperature can be kept at an even level. The plastic igloo is warmer than one of snow blocks and is unaffected by Arctic winds.

Standing on barren Baffin Island in the Eastern Arctic, the plastic igloo was constructed by an Eskimo with a reputation as a man who could build a snow igloo in a hurry. He laid the foundation blocks on a circular, two-layer plywood floor. Sandwiched in between the layers was plastic foam.

With a saw-knife he shaped the plastic blocks to the proper size. Snow blocks are held together by gravity. But this modern Eskimo used wooden skewers to secure the plastic blocks. A chemical adhesive was used to hold the 18"x30" blocks together.

Measuring 9 feet high and 18 feet in diameter, the finished igloo can be picked up and carried easily by four men. Its roof will support a 360-pound load. Inside there is silence, despite the 85-mile per hour winds that lash the outside.

In the traditional snow block house the Eskimo whale oil lamp cannot raise the temperature much over 30 degrees. But a small stove, relying on only a kerosene wick, can heat the inside of the new igloo to 105 degrees within several hours, even in the face of an outside temperature of 40 degrees below zero.

No longer does the Eskimo have to live in a drafty tent while he waits for snow that is just right for building an igloo. After a thousand years, the snow igloo is on the verge of becoming as extinct as the wooly mammoth.

Cures and Beautifies

Recent studies on ways and means of easing tensions of today's living problems reveal that do-it-yourself activities top the list of therapeutic activities. And in the do-it-yourself department, studies show that nothing is so rewarding as undertaking a beautifying painting job.

Light Hardwoods Gain in Favor for All Floors

Light-toned hardwood floors are once again in the news. The very things that make a home modern account for this new interest.

Living rooms, bedrooms, and family rooms, almost entirely glass enclosed, are fairly common these days. Many of these rooms open directly onto decks and patios. They require attractive light reflecting floors that will not fade when exposed to direct sunlight.

Of the Northern hardwoods used for residence flooring, maple, beech, birch and the Northern variety of oak will not fade after finishing. The maple species (acer saccharum) is the lightest in tone and the most popular.

It is close-grained with delicate light coloring. Interior decorators find maple ideal for any room in the modern home. They recommend very simple finishing with a good penetrating sealer.

Birch is the second hardest species used for residence floors—maple is first. Birch possesses the restraint and subdued character of graining which makes it a preferred flooring for all rooms. Kitchen floors of birch with matching cabinets of the same species of wood are popular with young homemakers.

Polished Floors Serve as Decorative Medium

The new man-made materials, such as vinyl, lend themselves to such interesting patterns that the trend today is to use the small area rug merely for accent or to anchor a furniture group and to stress the well polished floor as an important decorative asset. Another major reason for the present status of the floor as a decorative medium is the ease with which such floors are maintained, with modern waxing and electrical equipment for waxing.

The well waxed floor does not require the upkeep that is necessary for wall-to-wall carpeting and with applications of wax vinyls, traditional wood floors, the new cork floorings and similar materials require only a minimum of attention.

If hot water lines are not used to heat the basements, wrap rock wool insulation batts around them.

Trout 'Snatched' Through Ice in -61 Cold

2 UP Men Fish at Arctic Circle

By JERRY CHIAPPETTA

ALL OUTDOORS, Mich. (UPI)—Two adventurous Northern Michigan men have returned from an ice fishing expedition to the Northwest Territory near the Arctic Circle where they "snatched" their limit of lake trout in 61-below zero weather.

Two years of planning and preparation came to a climax last week for Mackinac County Prosecutor James L. Brown and Moran businessman Chuck Blanc.

"Snatching" trout through the ice, Brown explained, is a method used by Indians and some French Canadians. They used bait on a tarred linen line through four and a half feet of ice on Great Slave Lake.

"We have to use the stiff line so we could feel the trout bite," Brown said. "We were fishing in water which was 120 feet and deeper."

For bait on the 15-day trip, they used Tulibi, a fish similar to Michigan herring.

"We were the only sport fishermen crazy enough to be out in the blizzards trying to catch fish. Commercial fishermen are the only ones in the area 2,500 miles from St. Ignace," Brown said. (They actually were the first American sportsmen ever to fish the area.)

"Chuck froze his feet and had to spend one day inside a fish camp."

He said they traveled by auto and snowmobile, using the snowmobile to cover the last 149 miles out onto the ice of Great Slave Lake. The lake is as large as Lake Erie.

"It was a great experience," he said. "We froze. But it was fun. When you snatch trout, you run or walk fast away from the hole until the fish is pulled up. We caught them easy enough but it was hard work preparing for the actual fishing. Our biggest trout weighed around 15 pounds."

Other fish in Great Slave include whitefish, jackfish (northern pike) and connie.

Great Slave is the only place in the world where connie are found. They look like a cross between a whitefish and northern pike with the body of a whitefish and the head and mouth of a northern. Commercial fishermen don't consider the rare connie a valuable fish, however, Brown and Blanc said they were "very good eating" fish.

For cover, the pair pitched a tent on the lake in the snow that becomes very hard in extremely low temperatures.

The Northwest Territory is the last spot on earth where wild herds of buffalo roam. Brown reported that a herd of 100,000 American bison used the grasslands to the south as a wintering area. Vast herds of Barrien Land caribou and moose also range through the area.

"Another thing that amazed us," Brown saidi, "was the large number of grouse and prairie chickens. The place is swarming with them."

The father of nine children said he was happy to be home, but would like to make a similar trip in the future. Brown, 37, quipped that his wanderlust spirit will take a while to thaw before he maps any future trip.

He said it was like a "heatwave" when the temperature rose to a high of 25 below.

Betancourt Upsets Venezuela Reds

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Communists complained bitterly over President Romulo Betancourt's inaugural statement that he intends to keep them out of his government.

Betancourt said publicly that "The political philosophy of Communism is not in the best interests of democratic Venezuela." He said Reds would be excluded from his coalition government.

Betancourt was a member of the Communist party in his youth but he later turned his back on it.

Cultural Pact Value Proved

U. S.-Soviet Exchange Proves Step to Unity in First Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union have successfully carried out two-thirds of their big cultural exchange agreement without a major hitch.

This historic agreement, signed about a year ago, is working so well that both sides are seriously considering extending it when it expires next January.

A summary shows that more than 1,500 Soviet citizens and Amerians have visited each other's country as part of 151 official delegations during the first 12 months.

The swap of delegates has started a flow of private tourists. About 5,000 Americans visited the Soviet Union in the first year after the agreement. In return, 66 Soviet tourists, the first to visit this country since World War II, arrived late last year.

Ambassador William Lacy, who negotiated the agreement with the Soviets after months of talks, said today the agreement has been a rousing success from an American standpoint. He said it has even greater potential for the future.

"A more balanced picture of America is now being brought openly to Soviet citizens who have previously been subjected only to Communist propaganda which portrayed America as culturally and spiritually sterile," he said.

More Americans than Soviets have been involved in exchanges thus far, but this is due primarily to a Soviet delay in arranging reciprocal tours of the United States.

Oil Stove Blast Hospitalizes 35

Explosion in Ontario Dance Hall Injures Many Teenagers

KINGSTON, Ont. (AP) — At least 35 persons were reported hospitalized today as a result of an oil stove explosion in a crowded dance hall in Kingston's west end.

Police said one person was in critical condition as a result of the blast.

About 200 persons—mostly teenagers—were in the hall when the explosion occurred. Flames flared out into the crowd.

"We're not sure how many were burned or how it happened," said one police official. "Somehow the stove toppled over and blew up."

A reporter who arrived at the scene several minutes after the blast said he saw young people lying "all around the place" writhing in agony.

A bus was drafted into service as an emergency hospital to take care of the injured. Passing cars and taxis were hailed to help take away the more severely burned victims.

The Life of Lincoln

Lincoln's policy toward the Confederacy is best illustrated by his Second Inaugural speech—"with malice toward none . . ."

Lincoln put his words into practice. After Richmond fell, he visited the city and looked up the home of Gen. George Pickett, the southern hero of Gettysburg. In small ways like this did Lincoln restore the Union.

At a celebration the night the war ended, Lincoln listened to the band play a number of patriotic airs. When they were finished, he said: "Play 'Dixie' now. It's ours."

DONALD KRATT

Deputy Sheriff Kratt Promoted

Will Head Safety and Juvenile Divisions of County Department

Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons today announced the promotion of Deputy Donald Kratt as director of the Department's safety and juvenile divisions.

Kratt, a deputy for four years, was praised by Irons for his work with the water safety patrol formed last summer.

The new safety director has spent most of his four years working on improving lake conditions, safety factors and the numbering and licensing of boats.

Last summer Irons assigned him the job of forming a county lake patrol.

Kratt's name gained almost nationwide prominence in 1956, when while only a raw rookie on the force he discovered the body of slain Martha Little in an Independence Township field after several hundred law officers had searched for the missing girl for more than 12 hours.

Kratt and his wife, Barbara, live at 3475 Whitfield St., Drayton Plains, on Maceday Lake. They have one son.

Oak Park Police Probe to Begin

Prosecutor's Office to Delve Into Charges of Ousted Officer Monday

The Oakland County Prosecutor's office Monday will begin investigation of charges by an ousted Oak Park police lieutenant.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem said the investigation will probe first the officer's charge that crimes were committed by former members of the Oak Park Police Department.

It will consider secondly, Ziem said, whether Oak Pak officials have covered up the crimes as the lieutenant, Joseph W. Roberts, has alleged.

In a 90-minute statement to Ziem and Assistant Prosecutor William Lang yesterday, Roberts alleged that the officers were allowed to resign rather than face criminal charges, Ziem said.

Ziem assigned Lang to meet Monday afternoon with Oak Park Public Safety Director Glenford S. Leonard to review the charges.

The prosecutor appeared principally interested in Roberts' charge that one officer quit rather than face action on a statutory rape charge involving a 14-year-old girl.

Roberts also asserted that other officers were allowed to resign after such offenses as obtaining a driver's license illegally, accosting a woman driver and firing guns in the police station.

Lang said that Roberts once sought a warrant from him in connection with the alleged rape, but was turned down because the girl and her parents wouldn't sign a complaint.

"I told him to come back if the Police Department gathered sufficient evidence for a warrant without a complaint from the girl or the family," Lang said.

Roberts said he was taken off the case soon after that.

The officer made the charges public Thursday at a trial board hearing in which he seeks reinstatement from a December suspension on charges of firing his gun in a tavern while drunk.

Answers on Social Security

Consult State Law on This

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

From Mrs. P. E. of Pittsburgh, Pa.: "My boss has just told me that he doesn't want me to work any more because I'm five months pregnant. He feels it's dangerous for me. Am I eligible for unemployment pay?"

It depends on what your state law says about paying such benefits to women in your situation. Almost all state laws require that you be able to work to get unemployment pay. Your local unemployment office should be able to tell you whether the Pennsylvania state law considers a woman who is five months pregnant able to work.

From G.J.F. of Council Bluffs, Iowa: "Several months ago, you wrote a column about how my husband and I could get help from the government to make our big home into two apartments. We're both retired and could use the money which an apartment would bring in. Where can we get information about the government help?"

You'll be able to get the help through the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) office in your area. If you don't know where the office is located, you can get the address by writing to the Federal Housing Administration, Washington 25, D.C.

From S.M. of Valley City, N.D.: "My wife who was 64 died in March of 1958. Can I claim her as a dependent for 1958 when I file my income tax return?"

Yes.

From Mrs. K.F. of St. Petersburg, Fla.: "My husband, a barber, had to retire eight years ago because of heart trouble. He wasn't covered by Social Security when he worked because the program didn't cover self-employed people at that time. He'll be 65 in another month. I'm 53 and have been supporting him since he retired. My job is covered by Social Security. Could he collect Social Security now from my working record?"

No. For your husband to be entitled to collect, you would have to be old enough to receive payments yourself.

From F. J. of Haworth, N.J.: "I'm past 72 and get my Social Security check every month. I know I can earn any amount without losing any monthly payments. Recently I got a small job and the firm takes Social Security tax out of my salary. To me this doesn't make sense. Am I supposed to pay the tax?"

Yes. A person working in a job covered by the Social Security system must pay the tax—even though he's already collecting payments.

From D. Van B. of Newark, N.J.: "I plan to retire in 1960 at 65. I've been unable to obtain my birth certificate, but I have my baptismal certificate giving the date of my birth. Will the Social Security office accept this as proof of my age?"

Yes.

Chrysler Ahead in Engine Plans

To Use Aluminum on Standard-Size Cars in About 18 Months

DETROIT (UPI)—Chrysler Corp. will have aluminum engines ready for use on its standard-sized cars in about 18 months, suppliers of the automotive firm said today.

The sources, tool and die representatives and other suppliers, said Chrysler would have both six and eight - cylinder aluminum engines ready for use on the 1961 model cars it will introduce late in 1960.

The other major auto companies will not be able to match Chrysler's aluminum engines until at least mid-1961, the sources said.

Chrysler is developing a six-cylinder aluminum engine of conventional design in hopes of using it on the small car it plans to introduce early in 1960, the sources said.

Development of the engine could delay introduction of the Chrysler small car beyond the date its major competitors, General Motors and Ford, will introduce their smaller models, the sources said. But it will give Chrysler an edge in the use of aluminum engines in standard-sized cars.

Chrysler's aluminum engine will have the cylinders arranged vertically "in line" and will be water cooled. This makes it easy to adapt this engine to eight cylinders and gives Chrysler the edge in putting aluminum engines in standard-sized cars.

News in Brief

Jessie O. Walker, 36, of Detroit, pleaded guilty to reckless driving Friday before Springfield Township Justice Emmett J. Leib and paid a fine of $50 plus $10 costs.

Eleven Die as Kentucky Fire Burns 'Like Acetylene Torch'

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Fire cut through an old apartment building "like an acetylene torch" early today, leaving 11 dead and one missing. Eight other persons were injured.

Among the victims were six members of the same family, including an expectant mother. She jumped from a window of the second floor, then died after giving birth to a stillborn son.

The fire, called the worst in Ashland's history, broke out at 1:01 a.m. and quickly cut off the only exit, a stairway at the front of the converted theater.

Blackwell said he had seen seven occupants standing at windows in the rear of the building on Greenup avenue. But he added that "they disappeared when a section of the ceiling apparently fell."

"That fire cut just like an acetylene torch," he said.

Coroner Russell Compton said the missing person was Jack Kirk, 14, believed to have spent the night with his father. The father was among the victims.

Compton listed the other dead as: Jack McKenzie, 30; his wife Polly, 28; her stillborn child; and their sons, Jackie, 4; Dickie Joe, 2; Johnny William, 1; James Powell, about 22; Mrs. Grace Blaton, 50; Frank Artist, about 50; and Clyde May, about 50.

Fire Chief Burris Hensley, a veteran of 46 years with the department, said: "I've never seen a blaze as destructive as this one."

English Girl Flies to London

Leaves U. S. Suitor for Briton After Trip Here With Lansing Man

CHICAGO (AP)—The British consulate is sending Pauline Giles, 26, home to England by plane today.

Miss Giles, of Eastcote, two weeks ago accepted a trans-Atlantic lift from a U.S. suitor, 22-year-old Loran Sheffer of Lansing, Mich., on a dare.

Sheffer, a salesman, failed to sign her up as his wife. She finally fled to the consulate Wednesday to escape her Yankee swain.

Sheffer told newsmen Miss Giles made the brake so firmly that she refused his offer of transportation back home. Today, seeking to forget, he went off to South Bend, Ind., where he first met her in 1957.

Consular attaches took Miss Giles under their official wing and told newsmen she didn't want interviews, and there would be none.

She was to be put board a BOAC Comet at 1 p.m. CST, and should be in London at 8:30 a.m. London time, Sunday.

Miss Giles divorced Frank Niemier of South Bend, Ind., in 1957. It was while she was in South Bend for the divorce proceedings that she met Sheffer.

Sheffer was so taken with the brunette lass that he followed her to England and persuaded her to come back to America with him to hear his suit.

But, before she agreed to the trip, she told Sheffer her heart belonged to another Briton, also a salesman, Louis Gaches of Ruislip, Middlesex.

Former Clerk Leaves Fortune of $2½ Million

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — The big mystery in this city today is how did a 92-year-old spinster parlay her meager earnings as a telephone company clerk into a fortune of 2½ million dollars.

Before Miss Margaret Ritter died last Jan. 20, her neighbors knew her as a thrifty woman who wore patched dresses, lived alone in a modest frame home and "hated to spend a dime."

They knew she had money, maybe $100,000, perhaps even $200,000.

But even her nephew and niece, to whom she left the major share of her huge estate, were flabbergasted at the amount.

"We had no idea she had that much money," said the nephew, Andrew I. Ritter of Dayton, a 61-year-old Associated Press employe.

And his sister, Mrs. Elsie Marie Wallace of Cleveland, the other chief beneficiary, echoed that sentiment. "We knew Miss Ritter had money," she said, "but we didn't realize there was that much."

The bulk of the estate is in securities except for the woman's home here, according to Gordon M. Graham, co-executor.

An inventory filed in Probate Court listed the estate at $2,456,946.

Graham said that after a deduction of taxes and fees, the two chief beneficiaries each will come into a trust fund of about $700,000.

But Graham said Ritter and Mrs. Wallace will only be allowed to draw an income from this fund of around $20,000 to $30,000 a year.

The only inkling as to how Miss Ritter accumulated the fortune came from her nephew in Dayton.

She had good brakes, he said, and saved for a rainy day.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

'Abe Lincoln' Spouts Off About His TV Western

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Abe Lincoln and I had lunch the other day. For his first course, Mr. Lincoln passed up the fruit cup and had a screwdriver.

After Abe had downed the vodka and orange juice and turned to his bacon-and-eggs, I asked him if he was undertaking Lincoln on the Boradway stage this weekend because he felt he had prostituted his art in Hollywood in a TV western.

WILSON

Abe—oh, well, I'll relieve your suspense and admit that I was talking to Richard Boone, alias Paladin of "Have Gun, Will Travel," alias Dr. Styner of "Medic"—glowered down across his stony chin.

"The idea that I should be ashamed of what I've done in a western is a little offensive!" announced the angular giant playing Lincoln in "The Rivalry."

"The people who say this are probably Sunday afternoon TV fans. They see Esther Williams telling all about the atomic submarines. Good for them! I happen to like Esther Williams. I just don't believe that's her field."

BOONE

And so, forgetting the financial loss, ignoring the possibility of blasts from the critics, this one-time oil-field roustabout who became a pet of Actors Studio rushed intrepidly in to play Lincoln in the Lincoln - Douglas debates period.

"There are 148,000,000 real solid Lincoln experts in the country and I've already heard from most of them," Boone said. "For example, did he drink? Maybe a glass of beer now and then, but he wasn't a tetotaler. As a story-teller, in our school books he gets off a few knee-slappers but he was also a REAL story-teller, and not the sainted martyr type of story!

"Carl Sandburg tells me he had a gentle voice, but when he yelled, he roared. He could go down to his ankles and then up to his full height with his arms outstretched."

Boone, 6-3½ to Lincoln's "slightly under 6-feet-4," liked that.

"If you talked in sepulchral tones all night, you'd have to get wake-up pills for the audience."

Curious about Abe Lincoln sitting across the table from me clean-shaven, I up and asked him why. How come no chin whiskers? "He got the beard after he became President," Abe explained. "There are too many people who are aware of the historical facts, so we are going to play it accurately."

Boone welcomes the idea of being type-cast as Abe Lincoln because he shakes off all type-casting. "When it was first proposed that I do Paladin," he remembered, "CBS said, 'He's not a cowboy—he's a doctor!'"

He'd become the "Medic" star because he played a doctor on the radio in a program called, oddly enough, "The Doctor." In those days he was also acting at 20th Century-Fox, "playing little parts in big pictures and big parts in little pictures—getting no place."

Now he's got income tax-bracket problems and can play Abe only till June when he returns to become Paladin again.

"When I got with my people in Hollywood and told them I wanted to do this show, they revised the whole schedule so I could do it—which is a remarkable thing in so-called soulless Hollywood," he said.

Fear 4 Dead in Fire in Montreal Building

MONTREAL (AP)—At least two people were burned to death and two children were missing following a fire that burned a three floor apartment building early today.

Another 125 persons fled into 30 above temperatures as fire sped through the brick building shortly after midnight.

Cause of the blaze was unknown, but firemen said they believe it started on the second floor.

Probing through the charred ruins, firemen uncovered the burned bodies of a woman, believed about 70, and a young man on the second floor. They were seeking two youngsters, believed to have perished.

Firemen rescued 8 or 10 persons by ladders.

Ousted Counsel Levels Charges

Goldfine Hearings Aide Claims House Group Is Hiding Evidence

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ousted staff chief of the House subcommittee which touched off last year's Adam's - Goldfine inquiry contends the group is sitting on further evidence of wrongdoing.

The accusation was promptly denied.

The charge comes from Bernard Schwartz, who was fired a year ago as chief counsel of the special subcommittee created to investigate federal regulatory agencies. Schwartz makes his charge in a newly-published book, "The Professor and the Commissions."

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), the subcommittee chairman and a chief target in Schwartz' wide-ranging charges, took prompt issue with Schwartz' charges Harris told a reporter:

"That's as ridiculous as the other charges he has been making in his book which is filled with distortions, half-truths and completely false statements. Further than that it isn't worth coment."

"I think the record of this committe speaks pretty well," Harris added. He said he would announce soon what his plans will be for continuing the inquiry.

In his book, Schwartz said the subcommitte had failed to develop fully 16 TV cases on which Schwartz said he had left evidence in subcommittee files.

Woman, 2 Children Die in 2-Car Collision

NILES (AP)—A woman and her two grandchildren were killed early today in a two-car collision on U.S. 31 at Ontario road three miles south of Niles.

Dead are Mrs. Claire McKinney, 67, of route 2, Hastings, Mich., David Robert McKinney, 6 months old, and Keith Ronald McKinney, 2 years old.

The mother of the children, Mrs. Geraldine McKinney, 19, also of route 2, Hastings, and the husband of the dead woman, Clarence McKinney, 69, suffered severe injuries. They were taken to Pawating Hospital in Niles.

The drivers of the other car, John Preston Smedley, 27, of Indianapolis, and his passenger, Richard L. Wampler, 19, of Indianapolis suffered minor injuries and were released after hospital treatment.

Rebel Flag on Tennis Shorts Draws UDC Fire

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The United Daughters of the Confederacy are up in arms because a young woman tennis player wears a rebel battle flag on her shorts. They aren't impressed by her title: Dixie international singles champion.

There ought to be a law, they say. And they are out to get one.

The complaint is against 25-year-old Laura Lou Kunnen of Clearwater. She is rather dismayed by the complaint.

"I love that rebel flag," she said. "If I have to leave it off the outside of my shorts I'll sew it on underneath."

Nevertheless, Laura Lou wore her shorts to the Clearwater court without the flag. Friday for the first time.

Boy Sledder, 7, Killed

ST. IGNACE (AP)—Terry L. Gogin, 7, was killed Friday when his sled carried him into the path of a car near his rural St. Ignace home.

Windy City No Bother

CHICAGO (UPI)—Sir Vivian Fuchs, the Antarctic explorer, wore only a light suit yesterday while navigating ice-packed sidewalks in 30 m.p.h. winds. "I don't even own an overcoat," he said.
