Bank Robbery Suspects Taken in Gun Battle

House Approves $150,000 Grant to Toll Authority

Legislature Passes Bill to Give Operating Sum to Road Group

A hotly-contested bill to extend the life of the Michigan Tunrpike Authority with an additional $150,000 in operating funds squeaked through the House of Representatives yesterday afternoon, 60-42.

The bill received only four more votes than the number needed for passage.

MTA chairman George N. Higgins, who has said the Authority's funds were virtually exhausted, said today the vote "confirmed his confidence" in the Legislature.

"Our legislators see the need of roads in Michigan," Higgins said. "Even though pressure was put on the legislature by the State Highway Commissioner, the majority of them used their own good judgment and recognized the need.

"It's true, as the Highway Commissioner says, the MTA has been in operation for two years and hasn't started any roads yet.

"But I've been on the commission for about six months and I find my greatest stumbling block in the commission is our present commissioner.

"If he'll just give a little cooperation, we will get roads for the people in this state. He has done everything humanly possible to kill toll roads, but he'd like the people to believe that he is not opposed to toll roads.

"The proof of his opposition was very clearly demonstrated in the House of Representatives in the last 48 hours."

The appropriation bill passed the Senate two weeks ago, 22 - 8. Opponents charged the $150,000 would be wasted, saying the authority has already received half a million dollars in state funds without producing any roads.

Winds Predicted Today in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Even the weather seemed to be in Ken Venturi's favor today as the amazing amateur who is leading the masters tournament awaited his late (2:12 p.m. EST) starting time.

The Augusta weather bureau said at noon that winds of 25-30 miles an hour, with occasional gusts above 40 m.p.h. should buffet the Augusta National course until about 3 p.m., then begin diminishing. Wind gusts of up to 34 m.p.h. yesterday played havoc with golf shots.

None of the field started until 10:30 a.m. and only a handful of players had turned the front nine by noon. Among these was Doug Ford, the PGA champion who started the third round in a four-way tie for third, seven strokes behind Venturi. He took a two over par 38.

Mexico Arrests Relatives of Wanted Thorpe Couple

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Government agents say Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thorpe, wanted for embezzlement in Michigan, were seen there three days ago but escaped before police could close in on them.

Interior Ministry agents said yesterday that relatives of the Thorpes, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Radwill of Michigan, were arrested at the Hotel Montejo Wednesday, and were being deported today.

Anna and Floyd Thorpe, missing since March 2, are wanted in connection with a $75,000 shortage in the branch office of the Secretary of State at St. Clair Shores, near Detroit.

The Interior Ministry said the Radwills came to Mexico ahead of the Thorpes to "arrange accommodation" but that they were not charged with being accomplices.

They were picked up for falsifying tourist papers, using false names, and illegal entry. They entered Mexico under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Frank George Ciemiega, officials said. They have a boy, Teddy, with them.

Officials here said Mrs. Radwill is the sister of Anna Thorpe. One source identified her as Mrs. Josephine Rutsky. Radwill was identified as a Chicago bartender. Mrs. Rutsky also was said to be from Chicago.

The Radwills were exposed, police said, when they did not sign their assumed name the same way they signed it on tourist papers.

Interior Ministry agents said Radwill made a full statement, saying he came to Mexico City to "prepare a refuge" for the Thorpes. He said that once arrangements had been made here, he returned to Michigan, notified the Thorpes, and then the robbery was accomplished.

He said the Thorpes went first to Canada, took a plane from Vancouver and flew to Mexico City.

Wayne U. Legislation Is Sent to Governor

LANSING (AP) — A bill to put Wayne University under state control was before the Governor today after passing the House by a 95-0 vote. The measure previously was given Senate approval.

The changeover from the present management by the Detroit Board of Education will take place during the next three years. The institution will be under a temporary 11-man board during the transition period.

The temporary board will consist of the present seven members of the Detroit Board of Education plus one member each named by the Governor and the governing agencies of the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and the state teachers' college system.

After three years, Wayne will be controlled by a six-member board elected from the state at large for staggered six-year terms.

The plan for financial support calls for the state to contribute $3,265,000 to Wayne during the 1956-57 fiscal year, to double it the next year and to triple the amount the third year.

City Increases Total Valuation by $22,895,795

Rise in Building Activity Credited for '56 Boost in Property Values

Property valuations in Pontiac, for tax assessment in 1956, total $239,486,275, according to Pontiac City Assessor W. Raymond Ransom. This is an increase of $22,895,795 over the total a year ago.

Report of the final figures was released yesterday by Ransom, following completion of work following the annual city board of review session.

The 1956 total incorporates $132,201,125 in real estate property valuation and $107,285,150 in personal property valuation.

The large increase over last year is due to increased building activity in the city, Ransom said.

General Motors industries within the city, the highest taxpayer in Pontiac, had its assessed valuation boosted from $63,959,300 in 1955 to $80,800,000. This willl mean that GM will pay more than 75 per cent of the city's personal taxes in 1956, Ransom said.

The Board of Tax Review, after hearings before the public, reduced $597,200 off the assessor's real estate property valuation of $132,798,325.

The board also reduced $418,350 from Ransom's personal property valuation of $107,703,500, meaning a total board reduction of $1,015,550 off the assessor's valuation of the city of $240,501,825.

Real property valuation increased $5,910,745 over 1955 while there was an increase of $16,985,050 for personal property, according to Ransom.

The figures for 1955 were: real estate valuation, $126,290,745; personal property, $90,300,100. The total was $216,590,480.

Prisoner's Plight Brings Clothing From Trial Jury

Gus Gatewood can testify today to the wonderful aspects of the American court system.

Gatewood is in jail, awaiting sentence for failing to support his wife and five children. He was convicted by an Oakland County Circuit Court jury Thursday.

But the same jury heard him testify he was wearing his overcoat in court because his shirt was torn, and he had no other clothes.

Yesterday, panel member J. P. Porter took a hefty bundle of men's clothing to Gatewood in jail. The jury had collected it from their own homes.

Judge Clark J. Adams, who will sentence Gatewood April 16, said today: "The wonderful thing is they knew he was guilty, and they upheld the law with mercy in their hearts."

Big Wind Rips Through Atlanta

Two women hanging out clothes beside an apartment building in another section of the city were killed by a falling tree. The Carolinas were even harder hit by high winds.

Tornadoes Rip Carolina Towns

Heavy Rains Follow; Dwellings Damaged; 2 Women Die in Atlanta

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Tornadoes twisted across the Carolinas yesterday, dipping into at least three areas. Considerable damage to dwellings and other buildings was reported. Power lines were down and communications disrupted.

Heavy rain and wind accompanied the storm, which apparently moved northeast from the vicinity of Abbeville, S. C. It hit near Greenwood, S. C., and in two places in North Carolina.

About 1-3 inch of rain fell here in 30 minutes as the storm passed over the city, which had been alerted for a tornado.

Heavy rain and winds of 35 to 45 m.p.h. were reported at Lowreys, S.C.

TREES KILLS 2 WOMEN

At Atlanta, Ga., a dead and partly rotted tree toppled over in a gust of wind and killed two women hanging out clothes. Killed were Mrs. Ruth Wilson, 48, and Mrs. Lola Lee Freeman, 57. A brisk blow an hour or so earlier apparently had broken the tree loose. A new gust finished it off. The tragedy occurred three hours after a severe wind and rain story stuck Atlanta, with gusts up to 48 m.p.h.

In the Abbeville-Greenwood area wind tore off the roof of one building at the Abbeville textile mill, and unroofed dwellings. More homes were destroyed at Greenwood, two or three miles farther east.

One house was destroyed, another tipped over and several damaged by a tornado which dipped in for about five minutes in the vicinity of the Mecklenburg-Union County line in North Carolina.

Grace Kelly Aboard Liner Sails Past Azores Today

ABOARD THE SS CONSTITUTION AT SEA (INS) The liner Constitution, bearing Grace Kelly to Monaco for her marriage to Prince Rainier III, passed the Azores today on its voyage to the Mediterranean.

The beautiful actress was to pose for pictures this afternoon in various parts of the ship.

Grace shared the limelight last night with her handsome parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kelly of Philadelphia.

The Kellys and other members of the huge wedding party were guests at a cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McCloskey in the ship's Tattoo Room. Following dinner, the Kellys went to the ship's main lounge to dance.

Grace, beautiful in a deep-blue flowered organza short evening gown, with a V-back and flowing panels from each shoulder, danced several times with her millionaire father.

Then she sat back and chatted with other passengers while her mother, resplendent in a turquoise blue sari-style dress, and father competed in a champagne waltz contest.

The Kellys didn't win but they had every passenger rooting for them.

Kelly relaxed later at the bridge table while Mrs. Kelly and Grace discussed wedding plans with their friends.

This ship is scheduled to reach Monaco—and Prince Rainier—on Thursday.

Tomorrow night Miss Kelly will go to a ship's costume party and on Monday will be the guest of honor at a dinner given by the ship's captain.

Area Pilot Dies as Jet Crashes

Lt. John Hall Victim as Two Meet Death in Plane Tragedy

An Air Force pilot, 24, from Bloomfield Township and another Michigan officer were killed yesterday when their F89D Scorpion interceptor plane crashed and burned near Malstrom Air Force Base in Montana.

The pilot was Lt., John R. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hall,

LT. JOHN R. HALL

The Air Force identified the observer in the plane as 2nd Lt. Alton A. Nelson, 22, son of Mrs. Anna M. Peters of Three Oaks.

Officials said Hall was ferrying the plane to Alaska. He had just taken off after arriving at the base Thursday night for refueling and foreign clearance.

Unmarried, Hall was stationed at Kelley AFB in San Antonio, Tex., his mother said. The young pilot had been assigned to ferry planes all over the country, she said.

Hall had enlisted in the Air Force over five years ago with his brother, James, 26.

He was to have taken a 20-day furlough in May, prior to his release in June, Mrs. Clark said.

FBI and Police Trap Fugitives in Rented Rooms

Area Sealed Off After One of Three Flees Officers' Bullets

FLINT (AP) — Police and FBI agents today captured two of three bandits who robbed the Citizens Commercial and Savings Bank of $62,402 yesterday. First reports said all the money had been recovered but that one of the bandits escaped during the bullet punctuated capture.

Police and FBI agents flushed the trio on Olive street in an older residential district where they were occupying a home. They continued to pursue the third man.

FBI agents prevented immediate identification of the captured bandits, holding them incommunicado.

Police have sealed off the northeast side of the city in the Wyoming and Olive district in their efforts to catch the third bandit.

A witness, Sheldon Teachout, of 1511 Wyoming Ave., said he heard three shots. Then he said, a man ran out the back door of a nearby house. He said the man carried a nickle plated revolver.

It was raining hard and the man wore no coat.

FBI agents and Flint police set up a mobile station near the scene.

The capture took place at the residence of Henry Schmidt where the man had rented an upstairs apartment over a bakery.

FBI agents said that the amount taken yesterday is probably the largest single bank haul in Michigan's criminal history. The Citizens' Commercial and Savings Bank east side branch was handling more money than usual because it was factory payday.

The robbery took only four minutes.

Three masked men participated in the stickup. Two witnesses said they saw three men switching from the getaway car to an automobile driven by a fourth a short time later.

Although the robbers got $62,402 from cages of four tellers, the bandits missed another $30,000 in a vacant and locked fifth cage.

"This dedication, a great milestone in the country's modern industrial history, will pay tribute to men and women of our central staff organizations — Research, Engineering, Styling and Manufacturing—whose efforts contribute so much to General Motors' success," he said.

"These scientists, researchers, engineers and technicians are the advanced guard of General Motors' progressive, dynamic technology—the people dedicated to planning and developing our industrial future.

"At our new Technical Center we are providing them the greatest facility of its kind for promoting not only the progress of General Motors but of all industry and sciences as well," Mr. Curtice declared.

The General Motors president will speak at the official dedication ceremony on the Technical Center site to an audience of more than 5,000.

Dr. Lawrence R. Hafstad, General Motors vice president in charge of Research Staff, also will speak during the ceremony.

The Wednesday program will be carried on a closed circuit telecast to 61 General Motors plants and key cities across the United States and Canada where more than 18,000 GM officials, civic and industrial leaders will gather at dedication luncheons.

At the same time General Motors plants throughout the country will stage large open house progams, welcoming the public to visit their facilities.

Cites Six Limiting Factors in Speech

Educator Analyzes Water Problem

There are six main limiting factors to an Oakland County water supply system, Dr. Andrew Mozola told a Cranbrook audience last night.

Dr. Mozola, Wayne University assistant professor who wrote his doctoral thesis on underground water in Oakland County, said the limitations were:

1. Volume of source. There are three possible sources for county water, he pointed out—the Great Lakes, inland lakes and streams, and subsurface water.

2. Necessity of treating water. This would be greater for surface water, Dr. Mozola said.

3. Complicated pumps and equipment. These also would be more elaborate in dealing with surface water.

4. A system of reservoirs. Dr. Mozola pointed out it would be wasteful to set up a pumping system to meet peak loads on peak days, idling at half of capacity through most of the year.

5. Transmission lines. Here also, he said, systems must be more elaborate and expensive for surface water than for underground sources.

6. Financing: "If the money is there, all the engineering problems can be licked," Dr. Mozola said.

Increasing drains on underground water sources, Dr. Mozola said, have lowered Pontiac well levels 105 feet in 61 years. In 1950, he added, Pontiac wells were pumping 16 million gallons of water per day from the underground supply.

In the southeast quarter of the county, he said, where population increases have been largest, well levels dropped 75 feet between 1930 and 1950.

One of the best sources of underground water, Dr. Mozola said, is a pre-glacial river system cut into bedrock under the county. He explained that underground water filters rapidly through sand and gravel in the ancient stream beds.

Mexico Issues Murder Count

2 American Suspects Formally Charged in Slaying of Kennisons

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico (AP) — William Shelton and Joseph O'Brien were charged yesterday with the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barton Kennison of Detroit.

Charges were filed by Oscar Galvan of the attorney general's office of the state of Tamaulipas. Shelton and O'Brien, both Americans, were charged with murder, robbery and profanation of bodies. Maximum penalty in Tamaulipas is 30 years in prison.

The Kennisons, on a combined hunting and sightseeing tour of Mexico, were slain near here in mid-March.

Shelton and O'Brien, who operated the tourist court where the Kennisons were last seen, were arrested three weeks later after one of Mexico's most intensive manhunts.

* * *

Shelton signed a confession in Mexico City saying he accidentally shot Kennison, then killed Mrs. Kennison when she fired at him with a .22 rifle. O'Brien signed another confession saying he helped dispose of the bodies, and helped Shelton elude police. He has said he did not take part in the shooting.

* * *

Shelton has retained a former state attorney general, Rodolfo Resendiz, to defend him. O'Brien has no defense lawyer as yet, still maintaining innocence.

After they were formally charged today, the pair were moved to separate cells of the Tamaulipas State Penitentiary here.

Officials said they have not recovered jewelry and money taken from the Kennisons.

Observe Irish Setter Which Bit 3-Year-Old

An Irish Setter, identified as the dog that bit three-year-old Edward J. Rodgers Monday at his home, 2201 West Lincoln, is being held by a veterinary for observation.

It was taken there Tuesday by his owners, the Early Yankees, 2115 West Lincoln, before the victim's mother, Mrs. Edward Rodgers, identified it yesterday.

The Yankees and Rodgers were meeting this afternoon at suggestion of Chief of Police Ralph W. Moxley, who says that charges of harboring a vicious dog or letting a dog stray could be preferred.

The child, bitten six times, is in Beaumont hospital, undergoing treatment following plastic surgery and taking shots for prevention of rabies, necessary at once in the case of face and head bites.

Moxley praised the Yankees for quickly hospitalizing their dog even before positive identification.

Arrest Adults, Teenagers on Store-Burglary Counts

Capture of a gang of juvenile boys and men who allegedly left parties to break into stores and bring back stolen beer for themselves and teen-age girl friends, was completed yesterday with the recapture of a Pontiac youth, 16.

Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons credited Waterford Township and Pontiac detectives as well as his own men in breaking the case, which also involved one arrest for receiving stolen property.

Although the operation is believed to have extended for at least three months, Irons said the gang is being charged in only two of recent breakins. The 16-year-old, reportedly the ringleader is the only member thought to have participated in both crimes, detectives said.

The boy is being held in the Juvenile Home, from where he escaped after a police roundup of other members Tuesday night

Arraigned yesterday on charges of breaking and entering were: Richard C. Flansburgh, 23, of 46 Cornell St.; Thomas F. Berg, 21, of 325 Harrison St., and James W. Housekeeper Jr., 23, of 320 Harrison. Two other Pontiac boys, both 16, and a Waterford Township youth, 15, also are being held in the home after breaking and entering charges were filed in Juvenile Court.

A fourth man was arraigned on a charge of receiving stolen property in one robbery. He is Charles L. Robinson, 24, of 53 Union St., who pleaded guilty before Pontiac Township Justice Robert Hodge and was sentenced to 90 days in jail. The sentence was suspended.

Police claim they found two rifles and a radio at Robinson's home. They said another gun was found in the trunk of Flansburgh's car and a fourth at Berg's home.

Flansburgh waived examination before Hodge and was bound over for appearance April 16 in Circuit Court. He was freed under $2,500 bond.

Berg and Housekeeper were charged with the breakin March 29 of a Waterford Township market on M59, where seven cases of beer plus wine, meat and cigarettes were stolen.

They waived examination before justice Willis Lefurgy and were also bound over for appearance April 16 in Circuit Court. Each was placed under $1,000 property or $500 cash bond.

Actual spinning of the suspension cables is scheduled for sometime in July, to be completed in November. The bridge is expected to be completed in 1957.

Say Riesel May Regain Sight

Doctor Reports Despite Severe Acid Injury, Recovery Chance Good

NEW YORK (AP)—Hope was held out today that labor columnist Victor Riesel would recover his sight which was believed impaired after a thug hurled sulphuric acid into his face.

"Despite the severe injury, he has a good chance to recover his sight," said Dr. Girolamo Bonaccolto of St. Clare's Hospital, where Riesel has been under treatment since after the attack at 3 a.m. Wednesday.

Dr. Bonaccolto said Riesel "is much better psychologically and physically. He is better than he has been for the last few days. He has some vision. He can see my fingers and my face."

It developed that the hoodlum who flung the acid may have slipped in and out of a policeman's grasp shortly after the attack.

An unidentified patrolman reported yesterday that he halted a young man running from the scene of the assault. The man said he was fleeing from two bandits who tried to hold him up.

The patrolman, unaware of the attack on Riesel, released the young man and hurried off to search for the holdup men. He found no one.

But his description of the young man tallied with that of the slender, black-haired thug who stepped out of the shadows on W. 51st St. and splashed acid in Riesel's face early Thursday.

Meanwhile, rewards for the apprehension of the sulphuric acid hurler climbed to more than $33,000. One for $1,000 was pledged by Local 138, International Union of Operating Engineers, the same local Riesel attacked in a radio broadcast only hours before the acid assault.

Intrepid Prowler Nets $1.05 During Frantic 'Search'

A housebreaker tried for loot five times Thursday night, only to be scared away twice, net nothing in another attempt, and wind up with $1.05, according to Pontiac police reports.

Police said the man apparently had tried to steal billfolds from five homes in the southeast side. Armed with a flashlight, he reportedly scared off when occupants awoke at 113 Raeburn St. and 211 Willard St.

He reached through an open window at 105 Center St. and fished out a pair of trousers containing a billfold. He tossed them aside after finding no money.

He found a $1 bill in the pocket of a pair of trousers stolen from a bedroom at 490 S. Paddock St. A wallet taken there contained no money.

As a last venture, the thief unhooked a rear door at 139 Raeburn and stole a third pair of trousers. He found one nickel in a pocket.

Governor Gets School Aid Bill

Program to Distribute Over 220 Millions to Local Districts

LANSING (AP) — A program for distributing more than 220 million dollars in aid to local school districts in 1956-57 cleared the legislature today and was sent to the governor.

* * *

A conference committee report compromising inter-chamber differences was accepted unanimously by the Senate and in the House by a vote of 62-22.

As finally approved, the legislation calls for equalization at $190—that is a state guarantee of that amount for schooling of each public elementary and high school pupil in the state.

School districts which meet a specified level of local financing effort will get sufficient funds from the state to bring them up to the equalization amount which is raised from $186 for high school and $166 for elementary students.

MORE MILLS

To participate fully in the program, a school district must levy at a six and one half mill local property tax rate compared with the five mills currently required.

A compromise rate of two and one half was adopted for the so-called deductible millage.

This is a factor intended to put poorer districts on a more even footing with wealthy districts by giving them proportionately more state funds.

A deductible millage figure of one and seven-eighths was fixed for Wayne County districts.

In computing state grants, the bill provided for counting mentally deficient children double and giving physically handicapped children the weight for formula purposes of four normal children.

Ritchie said an expansion of staff is among future plans.

The Day in Birmingham

Eton Residents Called to Third Paving Hearing

BIRMINGHAM—Eton road residents from Lincoln to Yorkshire have been advised of another hearing, to choose either 31 or 33 feet width for the new surfacing.

About 100 received a communication this week from City Manager D. C. Egbert telling of the hearing Monday night at commission meeting.

The 31-foot width was established when too many residents objected to a 41-foot width at the March 19 hearing. The third traffic lane was eliminated from plans, but a parking lane was kept.

A revised estimate of cost sets $32,100 as cost of widening, which will be assessed for industry and residents, and sets $12,750 for asphaltic concrete surfacing, which the city-at-large will pay.

Assessments for the project, whether 31 or 33 foot widths are used, would call for residents to pay 75 per cent of the cost to widen the street to a standard 29 feet. Industries would pay 85 per cent of the project expense, less than half of the cost of widening to 29 feet.

Lake Angelus Man Files Assessment Suit

In a suit filed Monday in Circuit Court, a Lake Angelus resident charges the village, Waterford Township and state tax assessing commissions with being "fraudulent, discriminating and unjust" in assessing his 23-acre estate at $50,000.

Jack Rothberg is petitioning for return of $4,000 in 1955 taxes on the estate, Waterford Township attorney John Bell said yesterday.

Bell said assessors estimated the 13-bedroom main house, guest house and caretaker's house on the estate would cost $1,000,000 to reproduce.

Waterford Township supervisor Lloyd Anderson, who acts as assessor, said assessment on the estate was reduced from $75,000 to $50,000 three years ago. He explained the drop was due to "normal depreciation."

Volcanic Cyprus Would Make Fine Hollywood Movie

NICOSIA, CYPRUS (INS) — Some day a smart movie producer in search of good script material is going to discover the revolt on Cyprus.

In color and wide-screen, the picture would make a fortune.

For the story of the rebellion on this Mediterranean island includes every element a Hollywood screen writer might dream up, and a few he might reject as "corny" or unbelievable. Here are just a few of them:

A black-robed, black bearded archbishop, shrouded in the mysticism of the Greek Orthodox Church, who rises his voice against the British Empire, is arrested and exiled to a lonely island in the Indian Ocean.

MYSTERIOUS PLOTS, DRAMAS

A bantam-sized field-marshal governor, who reached the top of his profession as chief of the imperial general staff, charms everybody whom he contacts, including the Cypriots, and sleeps over a bomb that miraculously goes off 12 hours after it is intended.

A mystery underground leader, who operates in an area swarming with 20,000 British, special branch men from the C.I.D. and crack Alsatian police dogs.

An insurgent and rebellious Greek population of 400,000, and a resentful Turkish minority of 100,000, ready to jump at each others' throats at the slightest provocation.

Bomb-throwings, shooting, sabotage, cold-blooded murder, mountain guerillas, curfews, house-to-house searches, investigations, identifications, by hood men, collective fines, censorship, radio jamming and death sentences.

A political and strategic problem with repercussions that extend to Greece and Turkey, to British oil interests in the Middle East and across the Atlantic to the United Nations.

All spell out Cyprus today and yet, in spite of everything, there is little atmosphere of hate in the daily life of the island.

The Cypriots find it impossible to hate the cheerful, fresh-faced youngsters who form the bulk of the British army in Cypus. The British, too, find it hard to dislike this warm, Mediterranean people who are invariably hospitable and have direct and naive simplicity.

Friendliness Stuns Britisher

One British army captain on guard in a village police station asked his interpreter to cross the street and buy him a lemon from a Greek house-holder who had a lemon grove in his garden. He gave the man five mils (less than one cent.)

The interpreter came back with ten lemons and the five mils in his hand.

"Compliments of the neighbor." He said.

"You see," said the captain, "we've had this village under curfew for 14 days. They've been fined $19,600 for killing a soldier and burning down a school and yet this man sends me ten lemons for nothing and with his compliments too. How can you hate a people like that?"

Ball Park Manager Keeps Job Pending Quiz

Aesop's Fables — 6

THE STORY OF AESOP

And now, after re-telling some of Aesop's fables, let's talk about Aesop himself.

History has little information about Aesop, the famous story-teller of old Greece. Some scholars doubt that he lived at all. But many of the ancients mentioned him in their writings.

Greek children thought of him as "the wonderful man who made the animals talk."

Aesop, once a slave, was freed by his master and became famous throughout the then-known world. Not a writer, he told his fables over and over again. The tales passed from one person to another by word of mouth and have become subjects for many poems, stories, paintings and even motion pictures.

Color this picture with crayons and paste down on cardboard. Punch out the two small holes at the top and put a string through them so you can hang the picture up. Don't forget to cut out the space behind Aesop's head and the small space under his right hand.

(Roger Clapp of Northampton, Mass., made this suggestion first. You may win $10 by sending your idea for a Junior Editors panel or series in care of this newspaper. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newsfeatures.)

Sargeant, executive officer of Co. D of the 2nd Battalion, 1st Basic Training Regiment, today recalled the worst mixup from the combination.

Italian Star Is Speedy but Loses Race Anyway

SAN REMO, Italy (AP) — Italian film actress Sofia Loren kept a heavy foot on the gas pedal but learned to her dismay the race doesn't always go to the streamlined swift.

Driving in Italy's cinema auto rally, the luscious star wheeled her German Mercedes along the 214-mile Varese-San Remo stretch yesterday in one of the fastest times but she placed 30th among 31 drivers.

Regularity in meeting prescribed routines and not speed-governs the race, which ends today.

PASSAIC, N.J. (AP) — You know the old one about gas and alcohol not mixing.

* * *

Now comes Magistrate H. Dick Cohen with this addition:

"You can't be a good lover and a good driver at the same time."

The judge handed this advice yesterday to Michael J. Sproviero Jr. of Lodi, after suspending his license for 30 days and fining him $30 for careless driving.

* * *

Sproviero had been charged with kissing his girl friend while his car was zig - zagging down the road. His defense:

"I was not kissing her. She was kissing me."

New Capitol Records Building Has 'Premiere'

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The circular, 13-story Capitol Records Building was formally opened last night with all the fanfare and hoopla of a Hollywoodpremiere. Film and recording personalities were on hand. A red beacon atop the 92-foot cylindrical structure spelled out "Hollywood" in morse code.

The two-million-dollar building, the first of its kind in Hollywood, has 93,000 square feet.

Paris Firm Will Answer Any Question Submitted

PARIS (INS)—Bombarded with 4,000 questions a day, a Paris firm of question answerers has yet to meet up with a query that stumped it.

* * *

It is called SVP, for the initials in the French phrase, "if you please." But its courtesies are part of a business scale that rates queries from the 50 cent question to the $257 question.

SVP also acts as a research center, legal aid society, accountant, translation service, clipping bureau, ticket and rental agency and housewives' aid.

It services 17,000 subscribers ranging from a housewife who pays 50 cents a month to a big business company whose complicated questions cost it a monthly $257. The housewife can pick up the phone to ask for a list of games to keep the baby quiet of stores having a sale.

BIG PROJECT

Big customers include the Renault Automobile Factories, SHAPE—Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe, newspapers and magazines.

SVP puts into action 200 employes, 600 periodicals and 3,000 dictionaries and encyclopedias, a million index cards and 30 tons of files. Additional services include counsel on minor legal problems, helping clients fill out complicated tax forms and making market surveys.

Eighty per cent of the telephoned questions are answered immediately. SVP also gets 500 letters a day containing more complex queries.

NEWS RECORDINGS

Free loaders are not turned away. A blackboard with the day's highlights hangs in the switchboard room so that the telephone operators can tell the caller who's ahead in a big bicycle race or when the National Assembly begins its sessions.

Three-minute recordings announce "News of the Day," "Where to Go This Evening," and "Shopping and Cooking Hints."

An SVP engineer-translator got a query on a British-built machine that was being installed in Paris. Checking the complex English instructions he discovered enough errors were being made by French workers to blow up the factory.

During the war the SVP branched out into the transportation field. It managed a fleet of bicycle-powered two-seater taxies that proved of crucial value in gasoline-starved Paris. They were particularly useful in transporting invalids and wedding parties.

It was SVP that gave the signal for the ringing of the Paris church bells to celebrate the city's liberation. It informed the Archbishop of Paris that French forces had arrived at the city hall.

More Home Features

EAST LANSING (AP) — Today's newspapers will print more features and pictures about home building and home furnishing, Arleigh Hitchock of Grand Rapids, an expert in the field, told the Michigan home builders conference at Michigan State University. Hitchock said reader interest in homes has already passed two former newspaper standbys, automobiles and women's fashions.

'Exercise Jackrabbit'

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Approximately 200 airmen from Webb Air Force Base will join West Texas cowpokes today in "Exercise Jackrabbit", an all-day shooting aimed at reducing the rabbit population.

Bug, Woman Create Mystery

Source of Specimens; Name of Donor Remain Unknown to Professor

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—The hiding place of the bedbug and the identity of a woman who delivered a speciman of the night crawler today posed two mysteries in the life of a University of Oklahoma professor.

* * *

Dr. Cluff Hopla has been seeking a supply of bedbugs for research purposes but only one small batch has been located. It came from an unidentified woman.

She appeared in his office, carrying a small green bottle at arm's length. When the professor confirmed that the bottle contained the elusive insects, she left—her name and the origin of the bugs a mystery.

* * *

Hopla reports that he received letters with helpful hints on capturing the insects. Some persons mailed dead bugs but Hopla wants live, healthy insects.

A man in Chicago wrote that Hopla should go to Manitoba, Canada, and look under the bark of birch trees. Another man, in Urbana, Ill., insisted that pine wood is the proper habitat.

* * *

Hopla suggested earlier that he believes a likely hiding place is the ordinary chickencoop but he met resistance from a York, Pa., resident who denied this claim—in his chicken house anyway.

Ambassadors Face Review in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. ambassadors in strategic posts may face congressional questioning next week about the impact of the Middle East crisis and Russia's new economic offensive on the U.S. foreign aid program.

* * *

Chairman Richards (D-SC) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said he hopes to confer with Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen, ambassador to Moscow, and George Wadsworth, ambassador to Saudi Arabia, "after they have made their report" to the State Department.

Bohlen and Wadsworth have been summoned home as part of what has been described as a searching review of U.S. cold war and Middle East policies. They are expected to stay a week or 10 days.

Boyce Brown, Jazz Great Becomes Brother Matthew

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (RNS) — Boyce Brown, a leading jazz musician for many years and once judged the nation's top alto sax player, has become a Brother Matthew of the Roman Catholic Servite order, which dates back to the 13th century.

He took the order's vows of poverty, chastity and obedience at Mount Saint Philip Monastery, 10 miles north of here, where he had spent the past year as a novice lay brother.

A native of Chicago, Boyce Brown moved into the select company of Chicago jazz "greats" at an age when most of his schoolmates were still attending classes.

By 1940 his place in the jazz world was so solid he was voted the "No. 1 Alto Sax in America" in the annual poll conducted by Downbeat magazine, topping such high-reed virtuosos as Jimmy Dorsey, Woody Herman and Coleman Hawkins.

But despite his great success and love of jazz, Boyce Brown began to develop an increasing feeling in the late 1940s that "music alone was not enough." One night after a jam session at a Chicago nightclub, he was walking in the early hours of the morning when he passed a church and heard organ music that "seemed to fill my soul."

The sax player began seeking out Catholic priests to talk about possible religous vocation.

But it was not until he met the Rev. Hugh Calkins O. S. M. of Chicago's Our Lady of Sorrows Monastery that he found one who talked his language. Father Calkins, director of vocations at the monastery, is himself an amateur jazz pianist of no mean accomplishment.

Boyce Brown became a Catholic in August 1952, and entered Our Lady of Sorrows Monastery for preliminary training about a year later. After two years there, he transferred to the novitiate here.

Officers at the base said it was the first fatal accident of 160,000 flying hours for the MATS.

Reflections

Our Lips Tell Tales

J. L. VOORHEES

Watch the lips of a happy person; you smile with him. It is our lips that show disappointment, astonishment, fear, determination. It is the lips of a girl and boy who seal a promise. When we were children, lips healed a hurt. Look at the lips of a prisoner in a dock; they are turned down in anticipation of payment for his crime.

M. E. SIPLE

As you shop show your appreciation with a turned-up lip—a smile. When you meet a friend use muscles to bring your lips into a warm, happy greeting. When Dad comes home there isn't anything on earth to compare with a big, hearty smile; his day may have been hard, every hour a trial, but when he comes home and sees a happy family — smiles — his trials disappear and he reflects those smiles you gave away. Believe me, your lips tell tales.

Canada Should Drop Advertising Tax Idea

News that the Government at Ottawa is reconsidering a proposed 20 per cent tax on Canadian advertising in foreign magazines, is welcome in this country.

This frankly protectionist measure first was heard about when Canada's Finance Minister Harris recently brought in the national budget. Presumably it was aimed at Time magazine and Reader's Digest, both of which sell advertising in their Canadian editions.

While most Canadian magazines endorsed the proposed levy, newspaper publishers reportedly oppose it. As the influential Toronto Telegram says editorially:

"A special tax on advertising, today limited to Canadian editions of United States owned publications, tomorrow may be extended to newspapers, periodicals or any other form of communication dependent on advertising revenues."

★ ★ ★

We agree with the Telegram's contention that this proposed levy is a striking example of the government's misuse of its taxing power to invade the right of free publication in Canada.

This proposal is in the same category as a bill enacted to bar the American subsidiary of a Canadian brewery from operating in Maryland. An openly discriminatory measure, Gov. McKeldin wisely vetoed it.

We hope Ottawa's restudy of this tax idea will result in its abandonment. The more our two countries avoid harassing each other with such economic pettiness, the less strain will be put on our friendly relations and mutually profitable trade.

Four Student Firms Win District Awards

Congratulations to the members of the four Pontiac Junior Achievement firms for the success they achieved in the Southeastern Michigan competition.

These students, sponsored in their year's work by well known Pontiac companies, were pitted against 273 competing student teams in the regional contest. They came out with one top award, two third places and one honorable mention.

★ ★ ★

Top honors in the wood products division went to "Jac-Crafters," sponsored by the Standard Oil Co. Third place in the iron and steel category went to the "P. I. P. Co." sponsored by Pontiac Motor Division. A similar prize was won by "Jacona Products," sponsored by the Community National Bank. "Deco Products" sponsored by the Detroit Edison won honorable mention for its memorandum pads.

★ ★ ★

The Press regards the training these students get from participation in Junior Achievement projects as one of the most practical and valuable parts of their education. We also believe that in sponsoring these student firms, local companies are making an invaluable contribution to the welfare and development of Pontiac's leaders of tomorrow.

Help Fight Cancer

In few human problems is there as much need for more public knowledge as in the grim battle against the number two killer — cancer.

That is why The Press urges readers to safeguard their own health and that of their communities by participating in Oakland County's observance of April as Cancer Control Month.

★ ★ ★

That also is why we are publishing serially the condensed book "The Truth About Cancer." The author, Dr. Charles S. Cameron, is the medical and scientific director of the American Cancer Society.

A United Fund agency, the society deserves public support in its unceasing threefold campaign of research, education and service to sufferers. For 40 years it has been preaching the urgency of early detection and treatment.

★ ★ ★

Over the years, too, it has been waging a highly commendable fight against quackery by frequent reminders that there are only three approved weapons against the disease. These, of course, are X-ray, radium and surgery. No cancer ever is cured by pills, powders or any home remedy.

Last year while 80,000 were saved from cancer deaths, 245,000 who waited too long for check-ups lost the fight. Don't be one of the 245,000. Have that check-up during April, Cancer Control Month.

It has been quite some weeks since any accidents in automobile sales rooms have been reported. It is assumed that at long last people quit falling over one another in their rush to buy cars.

Scientists are mighty smart and all that, but they have never been able to find out how the firefly lights his tail without scorching it.

The People's Business:

GOP vs. GOP

Rivalry of Ziegler, Higgins Embarrasses Party

By ROGER LANE

LANSING—One of the first rules in politics is to hit at the other party, not at your own teammates.

• • •

Accordingly, there has been dismay in Republican ranks over the penchant of two rather highly placed Republicans for swatting at each other.

Another chapter in the Republican family strife between Charles M. Ziegler, state commissioner of highways, and George N. Higgins, Michigan Turnpike Authority chairman, was written this week.

In effect, Ziegler called on the Legislature to liquidate the agency presided over by Higgins, a former Republican state senator and an announced candidate for Congress.

• • •

He sent the lawmakers a letter in which he boasted the anticipated achievements of his agency and denounced the lack of past accomplishments by the Turnpike Authority.

CONSIDER 'FACTS'

The letter wound up by urging them to consider "all these facts" when deciding whether to continue "a competing highway construction agency" within the state government framework.

• • •

The obvious reference was to a $150,000 appropriation to keep the Turnpike Authority in business for another year.

The letter was used by a House opponent as a principal argument for killing the bill, and, while not dissolving the agency itself, leaving it hamstrung.

What makes some disinterested Republicans wince is that the fate of the bill appeared at the time Ziegler's letter was received—on Wednesday—to have been decided in House members' minds, even though they had not yet cast their votes.

• • •

Who stood to benefit, they ask, other than Democrats? Is this the way to pull a divided party together to whip the opposition in November?

SENATE FRIENDS

Higgins has friends in the Senate, and his bill passed there better than three to one, owing in part to some effective missionary work by Higgins.

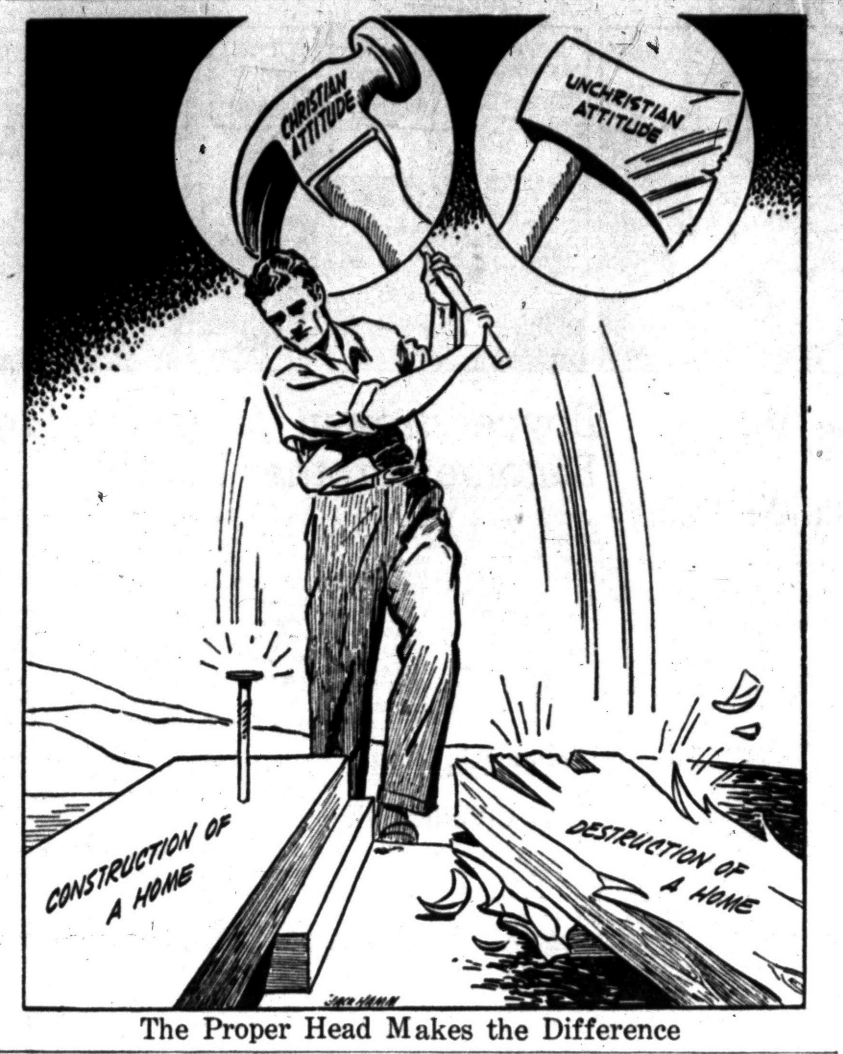

• • •

In a sense, the whole turnpike question cuts across party lines in Michigan and is not a political party issue.

But certainly in parts of the state, skillful campaigners will be able to make use of the turnpike agency's record as an issue in an area contest.

Thus, if a Democratic candidate wants to hammer away on the theme of Turnpike Authority failure, or the threat of turnpike construction where such a project is unpopular, he can do it by bumping Republican heads together.

Any way you look at it, Republican rivalries of this sort don't contribute to the party's victory chances.

'Sunday School: The Guide to a Better World' Theme of Week's Observance

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Each year since 1944 the Laymen's National Committee, an unofficial group with headquarters in New York City, has promoted a special nationwide recognition of the importance of America's Sunday Schools.

This year's theme is "Sunday School: The Guide to a Better World." All the committee's materials — posters, suggested programs, news releases, etc.— will center around this theme.

In its announcement proclaiming National Sunday School Week, the committee calls attention to the value of religious training in preparing youth for mature adult decisions in a world growing ever more complex.

Communities, schools, clubs and churches are asked to participate in the weeklong observance.

GREATEST ANNOUNCEMENT

Monday, April 9 is the Feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, commemorating the occasion (see Luke, chapter 1, verses 26 to 38) on which the Archangel Gabriel performed his most important service as God's messenger—his announcement to Mary that she would be the mother of Jesus.

Such a day is, naturally, one of the high points of the Christian calendar. But important as it is, the Annunciation was crowded out this year by Palm Sunday. The proper date for the Feast is March 25, which makes it almost sure to fall in Lent. A festival which comes in the midst of the Lenten fast is all right as long as it does not coincide with any of the extra solemn days of the Holy Week.

When this happens, as it did this year, the Annunciation is moved to the first open date. And because the days of the Easter Octave (the eight days including and following Easter Day) are too important to be interrupted, the first really open date is the second Monday after Easter. That is why the Feast of the Annunciation is kept Monday.

DAY OF MANY FACETS

March 25 was for several centuries the biggest, fullest day of the year, with more meanings attached to it than any day could be expected to handle. Primarily, of course, it was the day on which the Incarnation (the earthly life of Jesus) actually began—His conception was considered to have taken place at the moment when Mary, in response to Gabriel's announcement, said, "Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to Thy word."

Next, because mediaeval scholars loved to have everything come out with mathematical precision, the belief grew up that March 25 was also the date of the Crucifixion — the completion of the cycle, with the Lord's death occurring on the date of His conception.

Then, reaching all the way back, people decided that this was not the day on which only Christ's earthly life began, it was the day everything began— the day of Creation itself.

From here it was a very short step—an almost unavoidable one, in fact—to the idea that March 25 must be the beginning of the year, and from the twelfth Century until the calendar reform in 1752, March 25 was New Year's Day, even here in the American Colonies.

LADY DAY

In England this day is known as Lady Day, or, to those who wish to be strictly accurate, Lady Day of March—to distinguish it from four other days that honor the Blessed Virgin during the year. Actually, however, it is only in a secondary way that this day honors Mary.

The primary feature of the Annunciation is what happened, or began to happen, to the world on this day. It is a festival about Jesus much more than it is a festival about Mary.

The Feast of the Annunciation was established in the year 600 by the Emperor Maurice. It is one of the big festivals not touched by the changes at the time of the Reformation. Lutherans and Episcopalians, as well as Roman Catholics, will observe it Monday.

Value of Vitamin E Still Conjectural; Case of Hernia Cured by Suggestion

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Have heard some pretty extravagant claims made for cold pressed wheat germ oil in restoring hearts. Your opinion, please. (G. J. F.)

Answer—The value of vitamin E in human nutrition is still conjectural. At least I know of no convincing evidence that it benefits weak heart.

• • •

Please send . . . to a poor decrepit Yankee who enjoys your column so much. Keep on giving us nitwits . . . and believe me, some of it does sink in, and even though you do not hear from us you are helping immensely . . . (L. B. C.)

Answer— I hear from 'em, all right, when they gang up and threaten to cancel their subscriptions.

• • •

My father has had the injection treatment and is completely cured of hernia. Thank you. (C. G.)

Answer—If I recall the details, this man was a bad risk and therefore could not have radical surgical treatment. Fortunately, he found a physician who is skilled in the ambulant method, which is safe for any one. I'm sorry, but I cannot name physicians who give the ambulant (injection) treatment for hernia.

Having a difficult time with hot flashes . . . (Mrs. A. W. A.)

Answer — Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet The Menopause.

Your pamphlet on Stage Fright and Examination Jitters helped my daughter through her last year at High School and the Senior Play . . . (C. A. E.)

Answer — For the pamphlet send stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat request.

Thank you for the circular giving names of firms that supply hand and power mills for grinding wheat etc. Kindly send the addresses of the firms. (J. W. S.)

Answer—The addressees are given at the foot of the last page of the circular. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet "Wheat to Eat."

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Fair Share Farm Family' Will Fight for Their Rights

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

The price of milk to the farmer was raised 52 cents per hundred weight. To the consumer it was raised 1.5 cents per quart or 69 cents per hundred weight. The question is, into whose pocket did the extra 10 cents go?

Since January 1, the price of milk to the farmer has fluctuated downward. Did the price of your milk decrease accordingly?

Michigan Milk Producers Association refused Gov. Williams' request that the matter be presented for arbitration to the Labor Mediation Board. Were the powers of MMPA afraid of what an impartial analysis would uncover: That it isn't local farmers rebelling, but a statewide attempt of the farmers they are supposedly representing to keep their heads above water.

Fair share pickets were accused of inciting mob violence. Who hired pistol-packing goon guards to "protect" convoys of milk trucks on U.S. 16? Who struck two women pickets in Romeo and narrowly missed a third nimble-footed male picket in Pontiac?

The Rochester local of the MMPA was informed they were entitled to two voting delegates to district and state meetings of MMPA. Why was the Rochester local declared too small, disbanded and merged into the Pontiac local when it was discovered that their delegates held the balance of power towards Fair-share in Oakland County?

These are but a few of the questions we farmers are asking ourselves. The answers we arrive at make us want to get out and fight for our rights. We have just begun to fight.

'Concerned Dog Owner' Says Laws Are Unfair

The other night I had to rush my nine-month old beagle puppy to the veterinarian, who had to help Mother Nature deliver her puppies.

I live in Pontiac, have a fenced yard and a separate fenced dog park, with wire under the ground and wire over a portion of the top to keep my dogs in, but some mongrel, running loose, managed to get in, thus almost causing the death of my dog.

At the time this mongrel was hanging around, I called the dog shelter and asked them to come and pick him up. They said they would be more apt to pick up my female because she was enticing this mongrel.

I am very fond of dogs and take proper care of them, and it makes me very angry to think this could have been prevented if that dog had been picked up. There are a dozen dogs running up and down our street every day and it just isn't fair to pay taxes buy licenses, and try to do our part when laws and restrictions are not enforced.

My puppy is just one of many to which this occurs, because the veterinarian said he had had several dogs in the same condition. I sincerely hope that something can and will be done, because it isn't very humane to see a dog suffer as she did.

A Very Concerned Dog Owner

Both Dem, GOP Civil Rights Promises Still Unfulfilled

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHRINGTON (AP) — Both the Democratic and Republican party platforms of 1952 promised new civil rights laws. Neither party has produced. Both have had opportunity to do so.

• • •

The Republicans, as a result of the 1952 elections, controlled Congress in 1953 and 1954. The Democrats, by winning the 1954 elections, have controlled Congress since the beginning of 1955. Neither passed any civil rights legislation.

The Eisenhower administration has talked since 1953 of civil rights laws but so far has sent no specific recommendations to Congress. It may do so shortly after Congress returns from its Easter vacation.

No matter what is proposed, and no matter by whom, inside or outside Congress, this Congress like those before it is not likely to pass any new civil rights laws. The reason is simple: the Southern Democrats will block them.

The House, with the votes of many Republicans and Northern Democrats, may pass some civil rights bills before Congress goes home this summer, over the Southern Democratic protests.

In the House, where debate is limited, the Southerners, being outnumbered, can't kill a bill with talk.

But nothing approved by the House can become law unless the Senate also gives its okay. In the Senate debate is unlimited.

There outnumbered Southern Democrats can filibuster to death any civil rights legislation passed by the House.

That has been the story in Congress for years.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Dr. Crane Recommends Prayers, Denounces Those of Wishful Thinkers

God likes spontaneous straight talk instead of memorized prayers uttered mechanically. And God changes his mind, too, if you can offer a logical argument in support of an unselfish cause, as Moses proved below. So talk to God but do so as a mature person. God is not a Santa Claus to fulfill "gimme" prayers of wishful thinkers.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case R-324: Link J., aged 20, is in our military services.

"Dr. Crane, I never grew up in a religious home," he confessed.

"My folks drank and caroused around. They never sent me to Sunday school.

• • •

"But I met a girl a year ago who got me to going to church. And I think the world of her.

"Now I want to be a Christian and lead a good life. But I don't know how to pray. I feel awkward about it.

"Do you yourself ever pray, or is it true that psychologists ridicule religion?"

HOW TO PRAY

No, most of our psychologists are outstanding leaders in moral organizations and active in the church.

Oh, there are a few smart alecks who have the desire to shock people and be iconoclasts, but you'll find that breed in every profession.

In answer to Link's question as to whether I pray, I can reply that I certainly do and every day!

Prayer is conversation with God. It can occur at any time and you don't even need bow your head, for God likes straight talk.

And prayers should not be constantly of the "gimme" variety wherein we constantly ask for personal favors.

• • •

"Please help me get well," or "Please see that I get an 'A' grade in my examination" or "Please let me win Rosalie for my wife," are evidence of the "gimme" type of prayer.

It is proper to ask God for help, but sandwich some "Thank you" remarks in between.

MATURE PRAYERS

Remember, too, that we psychologists recommend that college grades be awarded on the "curve" basis with about 10 per cent "A" grades. In a class of 20 students, that means only 2 would get "A's."

If you have welched on your studying during the year and have played poker or dated pretty coeds when other more diligent students stuck to their textbooks, would it be fair for God to grant you an "A"?

Suppose those dutiful, hard working students are also asking God for an "A" grade. Who would get it?

If you are an athlete but haven't lived up to your training rules whereas an opponent has, and both ask God to help them win the race, would it be fair for God to help the slacker?

If you have smoked cigarets until you develop lung cancer, in the face of the American Medical Association's warnings about such dangers, would it be proper for God to make your cancer disappear?

I mention these things because you must pray like mature adults instead of wishful thinking toddlers.

God is not to be approached as Santa Claus! He is the epitome of logic and rationality, so your prayers must make sense.

GOD IS CHANGEABLE

And it is not true that God is fixed and unchangeable. Moses proved that logical arguments could persuade God to change his mind, as in Exodus 32:10, after the Israelites had coaxed Aaron to make them a Golden Calf, God said:

"Now, therefore, let me alone, that my wrath may wax hot against them, and that I may consume them: and I will make of thee a great nation."

But Moses unselfishly argued in defense of the people until God consented to give them another chance.

So God listens to sound reasons, especially when advanced in an unselfish cause.

And if you are teamed up with Him, as a junior partner you can relax at bedtime, for God will then take over the night shift for you, while you slumber, more soundly.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Beverly Wheeler Wed in Ferndale Rite

The marriage of Beverly Ann Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon W. Wheeler of Kirkway drive, to Charles Robert Crosthwaite, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Crosthwaite of Pleasant Ridge, took place this afternoon.

The 4 o'clock ceremony was performed in the Drayton Avenue Presbyterian Church of Ferndale. The Rev. H. Paul Sloan Jr. performed the double-ring service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of crystal white Chantilly lace over satin. Triple folds of tulle formed a cuffed bateau decolletage, outlined in petal appliques of lace embroidered in opalescent lace. The long sleeves tapered to points at the wrists and the skirt flared to a back sweep.

Tiny pearls accented her matching Elizabethan cap which secured a tirered short veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of alstroemaria and stephanotis.

* * *

Mrs. Wallace G. Wheeler served as matron of honor. Katherine Many, Mary Lou Stanton and Mrs. Richard O. Briethart were bridal attendants. They were gowned in ice blue imported dotted Swiss over taffeta, with a Dior waistline, lace at the hipline and a bustle back. Their bouquets were of blue cornflowers and white carnations.

Thomas F. Martin of Jackson acted as best man. Ushers included Wallace G. Wheeler, Fred W. Miller, Wilbur E. Gaskell of Hammond, Ind., Harold Strayer of Manitou Beach and Robert L. Pond of Ann Arbor.

For the reception held at the Birmingham Country Club, Mrs. Wheeler wore a gown of ash blond silk with a small matching hat and a corsage of white camellias.

Mrs. Crosthwaite chose a navy blue silk faille suit with a pale pink hat and a corsage of pink camellias.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a beige suite with turquoise and black accessories. Her corsage was of brown cymbidium orchids.

MRS. CHARLES R. CROSTHWAITE

Married this afternoon at Drayton Avenue United Presbyterian Church of Ferndale were Beverly Ann Wheeler and Charles R. Crosthwaite. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon W. Wheeler of Kirkway drive. Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Crosthwaite of Pleasant Ridge are his parents.

Sue Carole Stinson Weds George F. McRoberts Jr.

At a ceremony performed Friday evening in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Sue Carole Stinson became the bride of George F. McRoberts Jr. The Rev. George Romney read the service in the presence of 150 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Stinson of West Howard street. George, who resides on Mohawk road, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George McRoberts of Whitensville, Mass.

As the bride approached the altar she was wearing a ballerina-length gown styled with a fitted Chantilly lace bodice, and a bouffant skirt of nylon tulle and lace. A crown of lace secured her fingertip veil of silk illusion. Her bridal bouquet was an arrangement of white orchids.

LaVerne Stinson was her sister's only attendant. She wore a ballerina-length gown of Nile green and carried an arrangement of white carnations.

Roger Swaine of Royal Oak performed the duties of best man. Seating the guests were Thomas McCleary and Richard LaLone.

LIGHT BLUE LINEN

When Mrs. Stinson received her guests at the reception held immediately following the service in the church parlors, she was wearing a light blue linen ensemble with navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

* * *

Mrs. McRoberts chose a grey suit with white accessories for her son's wedding. Her corsage was also of white roses.

When the couple left for a honeymoon trip in northern Michigan the new Mrs. McRoberts changed to a navy blue dress with white accessories. She wore the white orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Let's Consider Brows and Lashes

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

What goes on inside our heads is nobody's business! However, the outside of our heads is another matter.

* * *

It is amazing when we consider all of the experimentation, research and manufacturing which have been expended in order to make us look lovelier than we naturally are! In one column I could not begin to discuss all the many aids to beauty and comfort available today, but I can mention a few and instruct you in their proper use.

First let us think of the brows and lashes. We have mascaras of all shades. We have tweezers for removing the stray hairs along the browline. We have eyelash curlers which will make the lashes look longer.

We have eyebrow pencils. Let me take a little space right now to tell you more about how to use your brow pencils.

* * *

Your pencil should have a VERY sharp point. For light brows a light brown pencil is best. Even for those women who have dark brows the dark brown pencil will appear much more natural than a black one. As you probably know you should use the pencil in short, feathery strokes no solid hard line.

LOOK LARGER

The eyes can be made to appear much larger and more attractive if you draw a thin line along the upper lid at the base of the lashes. For evening you also can draw a very short light line, slanting slightly upward at the outer corner of each eye. For these lines you should use the black pencil.

Most women make the mistake of using too much water when they apply mascara. Just barely dampen the little brush, and use it in an upward sweep.

If you use too much water your lashes will stick together in an unattractive manner. It is always wise to separate the lashes with a little hairpin.

You will do a much better job on your lips if you will form the habit of using a lipstick brush. Follow the natural line with the brush and then fill in with the lipstick. You can follow the line more accurately or make any corrections more skillfully with a brush than with the lipstick itself.

* * *

Be sure to remove any lip rouge you may get on your teeth. Women often forget this.

The art of making up the eyes and mouth is well worth cultivating. It can make a big difference in the way you look.

If you would like to have my leaflet about makeup send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 50 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

MONDAY: "Exercise and Count Your Calories to Lose Pounds."

Your eyebrow pencil should have a very sharp point.

Coming Events

History to Be Reflected at Fourth All-Saints Episcopal Antique Show

Pontiac Press Photos

Mrs. Frederick Goodell of Grosse Pointe is busy working on a hooked rug in "Melody" pattern that will be displayed at the Antique Show being held at Stevens Hall Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The Currier and Ives-inspired rug she is holding, as well as the one on the back of the sofa from a Pearl McGowan pattern, will also be included in the exhibition of rugs planned for the show.

Seated at a 17th Century pine desk, Mrs. T. M. Vanderstempel of Birmingham was caught by the photographer admiring a Bisque figurine that will be shown at the Antique Show being held at Stevens Hall Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Guild 11 of All Saints Episcopal Church, of which Mrs. Vanderstempel is a member, is sponsoring the show. Proceeds will be used for the newly completed church kitchen.

Exhibition Will Include Many Eras

Whether your home is modern as tomorrow or entirely furnished with heirlooms you will find plenty of interest in Pontiac's fourth annual Antique Show Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at Stevens Hall, All Saints Episcopal Church.

* * *

In the displays of 17 antique collectors is the story of the past, the real history of living persons, told in the things they used, the things they admired, the things they loved, the things that survived.

From the simple, sometimes crude, homemade furnishings of the pioneeer days through the fashionable elegance and fine cabinet work of the romantic 18th Century, to the often imposing and ponderous designs of the Victorians, the story is there to be read with curiosity or affection.

Though most accurately an American antique was handmade and dated prior to 1830, our idea of what is antique is shaped somewhat from the things we have grown up with and loved. To a New Englander it may mean articles from the Pilgrim age. To the Midwesterner, the Victorian may seem very old.

The faster the assembly line turns out the chairs and tables of today, the more split-second the means of communication, the more miraculous the methods of transportation, the greater becomes America's fascination for old things.

LOVE OF THE UNIQUE

To the senior generation this may be nostalgia, to the middle-aged it may be a much-needed new interest and to the young marrieds it may be a link with the past or an expression of individuality and taste. To all it represents a love of the fine and the unique.

* * *

Parallel to this growing interest in seeing, acquiring and learning about the things of the past have come a greater scarcity in available antiques and the phenomenon of the antique fair, which has grown to be big business indeed.

From New York's fabulous showings to the cozy charm of an antique show such as Pontiac's, there is something of interest for those who want to browse and for those who want to buy.

The modern-minded may find just the right accessory to add that streamlined decor. The collector may find a long-sought item.

* * *

Added to these reasons for interest is a financial one. A good antique tends to increase in value, a new piece of furniture depreciates considerably from the day of first use.

COUNTRY FURNITURE

At this year's show, several dealers will emphasize country furniture and accessories with such articles as a dry sink, a small pine harvest table, batter bowls, a set of four matched chairs, pine cabinets, iron and pewter articles, ironstone ware, carriage lamps and early lighting devices.

* * *

One booth will show a fine collection of American and European lighting devices, Betty's, Phoebe's and rush lights.

Another booth will feature a collection of English Clark Fairy lamps. Others will feature porcelains, including an outstanding collection of Haviland, popular with the Pontiac show. There will also be luster ware, Rockingham and Crown Derby.

There will be much glass, as well as old wood cuts, framed prints and paintings. Lovely pieces of silver, both coin and Sheffield, will be shown. Costume and precious jewelry will be offered in two booths.

* * *

Of special interest to men will be an exhibit of coins and antique guns.

WEAVING EXHIBIT

New to the show this year are the weaving exhibition and sale, a hooked rug display, and a demonstration of chair caning.

* * *

More than 25 members of the Michigan Weavers' Guild will participate with a sale of hand-woven items and a display of unusual hand-woven pieces. A loom, designed and made by Luther Dixon of Lincoln Park, will be set up and shown in operation.

Around the balcony over the main exhibition room will be a display of handmade hooked rugs arranged by Mrs. Frederick Goodell of Grosse Pointe.

Among those entering rugs are Mrs. Edward Gates of Clarkston, Mrs. Charles Welch Jr. and Mrs. Fred Sanders of Bloomfield Hills, Mrs. John Riley of Royal Oak, and Mrs. William Albee and Mrs. Ross Campbell of Franklin.

* * *

New also to the show this year is a demonstration of chair caning by Herbert Martin, Pontiac's blind craftsman.

A bake sale and apron sale will be held in the hall of the first floor of Stevens Hall and will be separate from the show.

Lunch and tea, featuring home-baked pastries, will be served by members of Guild 11, s ponsors of the show. Proceeds of the show will go to a fund for the newly completed church kitchen.

Treat Home of Others Respectfully

Be Tidy and Polite When You Stay in Someone's House

It oftentimes comes as a shock to teenagers that the parents of their friends don't judge them as liberally as the friends do.

A gal's friends may think she's just peachy if her jokes are funny and her conversation lively.

But parents are probably going to be unwilling to allow the gal to visit another weekend if the house is a shambles after the first weekend visit.

Vital aspects of personal charm include how one treats someone else's home.

It may have a different kind of furniture and the meals may be at different hours, but there is no excuse for putting feet on the tea table or being late to the meals.

Here are vital pointers to keep in mind before a visit for a meal, a night or a weekend.

When it is announced that dinner is almost ready, that's the time to wash hands, not later. Don't come to the table with dirty hands. If you do it at home, you shouldn't.

Don't come to the table with cigarettes. If the family makes a habit of smoking over coffee, then go get them. Otherwise, forget it.

Wash out the bathtub thoroughly after using it. Also use the towel intended for you and hang it up properly after use. Put the bathmat back where you found it.

The washbowl should be washed off, with soap and water, if there are toothpaste and dirt spatters over it.

If the bathroom is the only one in the house and you find a room deodorant or a book of matches there, follow the customs of the house and open the deordorant or light a match and let it burn down, extinguish, then throw it in the wastebasket.

JOANNE FRANCES BARRETT

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Barrett of Lum announce the engagement of their daughter, Joanne Frances, to Ray A. Densmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Densmore of Wall street.

Central WSCS Holds Meeting

Mrs. Frank Gray presented the program theme, "Christian Discipleship — Women and How They Measure Up Today," at the Thursday meeting of the WSCS of Central Methodist Church. Others taking part in the program at the church were Mrs. George Alexander, Mrs. Cecil Choate and Mrs. Percy Latimer.

Mrs. Percy Jones read the Scripture and led the group in prayer. Mrs. Richard Balmer announced the mother and daughter banquet May 1.

Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary at a reception to be held in the church parlors April 15.

Luncheon was served by the Fanny Crosby Unit with Mrs. Irwin Broskie as chairman. Assisting were Mrs. Lyle Saum, Mrs. Walter Rice, Mrs. Keith Johnston and Mrs. Glenn Werner.

Gets Complicated!

Dynel fabrics can be washed well in cool water says the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, but results are better if the soap or detergent suds and the rinses are quite hot. Adjust the washer for a short spin-dry cycle because wrinkles are set deeper when the fabric becomes too dry.

Zeta Chapter Elects New President

Mrs. Dallas Nelson was named president of Zeta Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority when members met recently at the State street home of Mrs. Wendell Doolin.

* * *

Others elected to office were Mrs Robert Lyon, vice president; Mrs. Carl Rehm, recording secretary; Mrs. Darrell Kelley, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Bradley L. Scott, treasurer.

Reservations were made for the sorority's Founders Day dinner to be held at Devon Gables April 25. Mrs. Kelley was named chairman of a mother and daughter tea to take place May 20 at Hotel Waldron.

Mrs. Kenneth Wayne White presented a talk on ceramics and Mrs. Lyon spoke about ballet during the program portion of the meeting.

Confident Living

Psychiatry Proffers Three Directives as Peace Bids

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

There's health, joy and the good life in the attitude of love. So say religion and science.

• • • • • •

Back in 1937, Dr. Smiley Blanton, a distinguished New York psychiatrist, and I established what we called "a religio-psychiatric clinic" in my church. It was the first of its kind. The purpose was to help normal people live normal lives. Ministers, psychologists and psychiatrists working together united their scientific therapies to solve common problems of human beings.

Today the clinic has not only been widely imitated all over the world, but has been expanded into the inter-denomination and inter-faith American Foundation of Religion and Psychiatry. It has a staff of eighteen dedicated specialists and occupies an entire floor of the office building next to its first home in the Marble Collegiate Church.

DR. PEALE

The competent specialists who devote themselves to helping people in that clinic are still under the direction of Smiley Blanton. Dr. Blanton leads a busy life indeed. Not only does he direct the clinic, but he also teaches, carries on a private practice and writes. His new book, "Love or Perish," has just come from the press and is already becoming a best seller.

CONTAINS CORE OF LIFE WORK

This helpful book contains the wise thinking that has been the core of Dr. Blanton's wonderful work all these years. He believes the greatest human need is the need for love and that none of us can survive without it; we must have it or we will perish. This is, for many people, a new and somewhat strange idea. But it is true that much maladjustment and unhappiness is due to the curious inability to accept love, although a person may be starving for it. The term "love" is not used in a sentimental sense, but as good will, acceptance and esteem.

Love is the greatest power on earth. The Bible describes it superbly. "Love is patient and kind; love is not jealous or boastful; it is not arrogant or rude. Love does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it does not rejoice at wrong, but rejoices in the right. Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things. Love never ends . . ."

And at Harvard University, Dr. Pitirim A. Sorokin, one of the world's most famous sociologists, who has been conducting a series of research studies in the power of love, has come up with some amazing conclusions. Among other things, he says: "Love is a life-giving force, necessary for physical, mental, and moral health. . . . Altruistic people live longer than egotistic individuals. . . Children deprived of love tend to become vitally, morally, and socially defective."

GOD IS LOVE

Here we have the full weight of medical knowledge and scientific research emphasizing the overwhelming importance of love. And what, really, is love?

The Bible answers this question in three simple words that are of supreme importance in arriving at a sense of health and well being, to say nothing of successful living. Those words are "God is Love."

This power is vital and necessary in your own life. How can you acquire it and learn to use it?

Psychiatry, says Dr. Blanton, offers three directives almost universal in their application:

"1. We must forgive our parents for the injustices — both real and imaginary — we received in childhood. . .

• • • • • •

"2. We must have faith in a universal power greater than man's — the source of life and love. . .

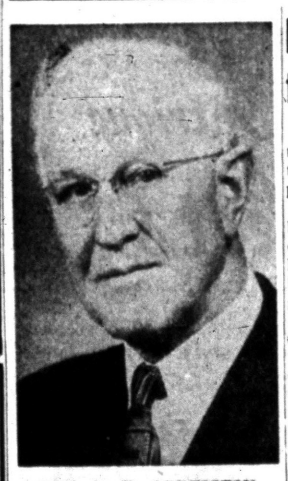

• • • • • •

"3. We must accept our own aggressive impulses as a natural and normal part of life. . ."

• • • • • •

Religion offers a fourth directive. We must practice actually loving God and loving people, as part of our daily lives. As we become proficient in outgoing good will, having no hate, no resentment, love will become a creative and healing force leading us forward into a happier future.

Begin Building of New Church

First United Pentecostal Breaks Ground Sunday in 2:30 P. M. Ceremony

Ground will be broken at 2:30 Sunday afternoon on the corner of Emerson and Mt. Clemens Sts. for the new First United Pentecostal Church.

In a store building at 90 W. Howard St., the church was organized by six charter members whose names are Mrs. Thomas DuFord, Mrs. Effie Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tinsley and the present pastor and wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Marvin P. Hestor.

The charter was confirmed June 16, 1954 by district superintendent, Rev. C. C. Kirby of Royal Oak and the Rev. Albert Abbey, district Presbytor. The Rev. Mr. Hestor did evangelistic work prior to becoming pastor here.

Sunday School was organized on Mothers' Day 1954 and meets each Sunday at 10 a.m. with Kenneth A. Lindawood, superintendent. There are two worship services, one at 11 a.m., the other at 7:30 Sunday evening.

The Young People's department is known as Pentecostal Conquerors. The group meets weekly on Wednesday evening at 7:30. The Rev. Jackie Stone is president.

The first Thursday of every month is the get-together of the Ladies' Auxiliary over which Mrs. Dewey Whittenberg presides.

Two services are held during the month at the Oakland County Convalescent Home, the first and second Mondays, at 7 p.m.

On the Board of Trustees are the pastor, John Crouch and Leonard Stone. Mrs. Kenneth Lindawood is in charge of the music.

The church is affiliated with the United Pentecostal Church Inc., Headquarters, St. Louis, Mo., with the Rev. A. T. Morgan, general superintendent of the Michigan District.

The two present projects are building the new church and buying a bus for the Sunday School.

YES... a Priest CAN Forgive Your Sins!

You may not accept the idea of confessing your sins to a priest, as Catholics do.
Perhaps you believe, as many do, that Confession is not of divine origin... but only an invention of the Catholic Church. And possibly you will insist that God alone has the power to forgive sins and you therefore confess directly to Him.
Catholics know that Christ Himself instituted the Sacrament of Penance, which includes Confession, when He said to His Apostles: "Receive ye the Holy Ghost; whose sins ye shall forgive, they are forgiven them; whose sins ye shall retain, they are retained" (John 20:22, 23).
If they were faithful to these instructions, could the Apostles have neglected preaching Confession and Penance from the very beginning of their ministry? They and their disciples went everywhere proclaiming the doctrine given them by Christ, establishing churches, and appointing bishops and priests upon whom they conferred the same authority.
Christ was not speaking in parables when He said: "Whose sins ye shall forgive, they are forgiven them; whose sins ye shall retain, they are retained" (John 20:22, 23). No words could be plainer. And the subsequent actions of the Apostles leave no doubt that they understood exactly the responsibility and the authority vested in them.
The writers of the Church, whose testimony bears witness to the traditional belief and practice from the earliest days of Christianity, insisted on Confession as the necessary means of regaining God's favor. They tell us that Confession was made, not to laymen but to priests who exercised the power of forgiving sins by virtue of Christ's commission. Origen and St. Cyprian in the second century, Pacian and Aphraates in the third, and St. Chrysostom and St. Augustine, in the fourth, all left historical testimony of the acceptance of the Sacrament of Penance by the first Christians.
For 1,500 years, the faithful of all Christendom confessed their sins to a priest, just as Catholics still do the world over today. And every Catholic, whether he be the ruler of a nation or the humblest of men, must be truly repentant and must confess his sins if he wants God's forgiveness.
Holy Scripture clearly tells us that Christ DID establish the Sacrament of Penance. If you want to know more about this Sacrament which can bring the grace of God into the most sinful heart; if you want to feel a new and tremendous inner sense of spiritual rebirth, write today for our free pamphlet entitled: "Yes . . . A Priest Can Forgive Your Sins." It will be sent free on your request, in a plain wrapper. And nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet KC-46.

Astrologist Tells Linda This Is Her Big Year

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"Look, sweetie, I'm independent—that's probably why I'm not married!" Linda Darnell said.

Not to be confused, please, with the "old new Linda" of a year ago who was the wife of wealthy brewer Phil Liebmann, mistress of five homes, and sort of tapering off her career. The "new NEW Linda" is a bachelor gal, eight pounds lighter, shapelier, prettier if possible, and out to become a Broadway stage star.

LINDA

"Philip was wonderfully generous to me," the brunette doll from Dallas told me over her scotch, "but I didn't want any settlement.

"I gave back my engagement ring and my ranch."

"There was a rumor you collected half-a-mill," I said.

"Look, I've worked since I was 11. I've been sort of the man of my family. I adore furs and jewelry . . . but I like them better when I earn them. The only money I respect is the money I earn.

"He'd have given me anything. He did give me $45,000 for the Girls Town of Italy. I asked him for it and the check arrived next day. I'm such good friends with all my ex-husbands," she added with a laugh. "After all, there've only been two!"

"An astrologist in Rome told me last year that this would be my big year," Linda recalled.

"I didn't believe it because I was pretty unhappy, let's face it. The astrologist said, 'You just hold still and see.'

"So here I am, divorced, and I've dipped my big toe into stage acting. I decided to hie down to Phoenix to do 'Roomful of Roses' and then I went to Miami to do 'Tea and Sympathy.' I thought if I laid a big fat egg in Phoenix nobody'd know about it, but the critics were there, and they were tough, believe me."

Then an old friend, novelist-scenarist Polan Banks, social, divorced, and well-fixed, began tailoring a play for her.

"He's got the backing, he's got the whole bit, and if it turns out to be great, I'll be on Broadway.

★ ★ ★ ★

I asked her about the Grace Kelly wedding.

"I know nothing about it," Linda answered, "but I love to hear about happy marriages—being a two-time loser."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

Eileen Herlie of "The Matchmaker" is so thrilled with her new Rolls Royce that she drives it herself—with the chauffeur alongside . . . Singer Sarah Vaughan, working in Las Vegas, bought $2,500 worth of equipment and is uranium hunting.

Sally Fain waited for a waiter in Lindy's, finally sent him a telegram blank inscribed, "Wish you were here" . . . Sammy Davis Jr., who's impersonated everybody else, will be impersonated by Eileen Barton at the Copa.

"Wide Wide World's" four minute telecast from Luchow's cost $5,000 in salaries, etc. . . . Steve Allen says nighttime TV keeps him from doing a Broadway musical, and asks, "Is anybody doing a morning musical revue?"

★ ★ ★ ★

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Lou (Roseland) Brecker complained about a listless actor: "He reaches for the leading lady as though she was a dinner check."

Perjury Warrant Issued Against Man's Choice

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—A warrant is out for the arrest of Henry Krajewski, Secaucus tavern owner and grass roots candidate for president who is now campaigning in the South.

★ ★ ★

Hudson County Judge David A. Nimmo issued the warrant yesterday when the American Third Party candidate failed to appear for arraignment on a charge of subornation of perjury.

Krajewski was indicted last month, charged with having induced William A. Smentkowski, 26, of Secaucus, to testify falsely at Krajewski's trial in March 1955. At that time Krajewski was acquitted of a charge of selling liquor to a minor in his tavern.

★ ★ ★

Krajewski, a former pig farmer, has been unsuccessful candidate for public office for a number of years. In 1952 he ran for president on a Poor Man's party ticket.

Nationwide Pulpit Exchange Tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 400 ministers of two Protestant denominations — the Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church—will trade pulpits for nationwide worship services tomorrow.

It is preliminary to the projected union of the two bodies at a convention in Cleveland in June 1957. They plan to merge into a new United Church of Christ.

Hollywood Headlines:

Bing's Girl, Kathy Grant, Won't Discuss Romance

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Meet Kathy Grant, the light of Bing Crosby's life.

★ ★ ★

It's easy to see why she is Bing's best girl. She is young and beautiful. She is intelligent, can discuss music, books and almost anything. She has a ready laugh and a soft, musical voice.

A LIVING DOLL

In brief, she's a doll.

Will Bing marry Kathy? Sorry—I've got no scoop on that score. Bing himself is a great open-field runner through reporters' questions about his marital future. And Kathy maintains a discreet silence on matters concerning Croz.

★ ★ ★

But she's a willing talker on other matters, and I investigated her budding career.

★ ★ ★

Kathy is one of those rarities—a beauty contest winner who made the grade in the movies. Born in Houston 24 years ago, she cherished the idea of becoming a movie star when she was a youngster.

★ ★ ★

Her first beauty honors came as "Miss Buccaneer Navy" of Corpus Christi, which netted her a trip to Mexico City. At 16 she was chosen the Texas rodeo queen of the Houston Fat Stock Show and Exhibition. That was the start of her road to Hollywood.

MET ROY ROGERS

"Roy Rogers was appearing in the show," she recalls. "I met him and his manager Art Rush, and they urged me to come to Hollywood."

★ ★ ★

But they suggested that she finish school first. She went to the University of Texas, meanwhile becoming the golden girl of the Texas baseball league and queen of the Texas Lions. By 1952, she figured she had had her fill of contests and was ready to storm Hollywood.

Within a week after her arrival, she had met Art Rush, been taken to Paramount, tested for "Forever Female" with William Holden and signed by the studio.

★ ★ ★

But she lost the role to Pat Crowley. The reason: "I had a Southern drawl you could cut with a knife."

SPEECH LESSONS

She took lessons to soften her Texan tones, meanwhile "working around the camera in six pictures, but never getting a line." During this period she changed her name. She had come to Hollywood with her own handle, Kathryn Grandstaff.

★ ★ ★

"One day an assistant director said, 'Hey, you—I never can remember your name,' she says. "That was when I decided I'd better get a new one."

★ ★ ★

Paramount dropped her, but she bears no bitterness—"I never did anything for them; why should they do anything for me?" One good thing came out of her stay at the studio: she met Bing there.

★ ★ ★

Never a girl to remain idle, Kathryn landed a contract at Columbia, meanwhile writing a newspaper column for 20 Texas papers and taking courses at UCLA. Last summer she returned to the University of Texas and got her degree in fine arts, making up 21 units in eight weeks.

Columbia has been putting her in increasingly important parts, the latest being "Reprisal" with Guy Madison. Talent boss Maxwell Arnow told her she's "on her way"—"and that's high praise for him."

★ ★ ★

The gossips keep saying that Bing will pick up her option too, but I wouldn't know about that.

Radford Warns Men About Draft Status

NEW YORK (AP) — Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said today that four out of five qualified men who are not fathers "can expect to enter military service before they reach age 26."

★ ★ ★

Radford, in a prepared speech before a luncheon meeting of the National Jewish Welfare Board, said some young people "have heard rumors that because our draft calls are currently small, their chances of being called into military service run about one in ten."

"This is an erroneous impression," Radford added.

Ike, Nixon Nominated at Mock Convention

mock Democratic National Convention convenes today at the University of Southern California.

Yesterday President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon were nominated for re-election at a mock Republican convention. Eisenhower was picked on the first ballot, Nixon on the third.

The mock conventions were sponsored by USC, the Citizenship Clearing House and the Southern California Political Science Assn.

Sonja Henie Is Sued for Divorce by Hubby

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Sonja Henie, ice skater and actress, was sued for divorce here yesterday by Winthrop Gardiner Jr., Palm Beach and New York socialite and aviation executive.

★ ★ ★

Gardiner filed suit in Circuit Court charging Miss Henie deserted him without just cause. This, he said, resulted in "extreme distress and mental torture" which "seriously impaired his ability to work."

They were married Sept. 15, 1949, and Gardiner said in his suit they had not lived together as man and wife since November, 1952. There are no children.

Boys Make Big Splash While Taking Pictures

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — A gallery of photographers poised to take shots of speeding water skiers was tossed into lake waters when a stand collapsed.

The big splash came yesterday at Cypress Gardens in the annual Dixie Water Ski Tournament. No one was hurt—just wet clothing and spoiled film.

Farmer Wanted Mourners to Be 'Paid for Efforts'

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — John Monroe, 65, a retired bachelor farmer, wanted his friends to share in his estate.

★ ★ ★

John was buried March 10. His will, it was disclosed yesterday, placed $8,000 in trust for the upkeep of three cemeteries. Then it provided that each person over 12 years old who attended his funeral receive one share of the remainder. Those who also attended the burial were entitled to two shares.

John hadn't told anybody except his lawyer about these provisions. But he had asked that mourners sign a register at tthe funeral home and at the cemetery—thus establishing their claims to a share of his estate.

★ ★ ★

But Harry L. Porter, coexecutor of the estate, had this word for the 86 persons who attended the funeral and the 51 who saw John buried:

"After burial expenses and the $8,000 bequest are taken care of, there apparently won't be anything left."

Wilson, Quarles Touring 'Fence'

Inspecting Portion of Radar Warning Line in Canada, Alaska

* * *

They were accompanied on the tour of the radar "fence" by Earle E. Partridge, chief of the Air Defense Command.

* * *

At Ottawa, they will be joined by Canadian government officials, including Production Minister C. D. Howe, Defense Minister Ralph Campney, Northern Affairs Minister Jean LeSage, and Air Vice Ad. L. E. Wray, air officer commanding the Canadian Defense Command.

* * *

Wilson said much progress has been made in construction of the warning line and added: "We will appraise how much longer it will take to finish it."

Wilson was asked about published reports that Canadians are displeased over the heavy influx of U. S. military personnel and bases into the Canadian North. A reported wanted to know whether the Canadians were happy with this situation.

* * *

"As far as I know they are," Wilson said. "If they aren't this will be a fine time to clear it up. We get along fine with the Canadians."

* * *

Wilson was asked whether completion of the DEW Line might mean the United States would change deployment of defenses overseas. He explained that the northern radar warning system is just one of many "different things which implement each other," and added that "I wouldn't think" that it would make any difference in the overseas defense situation.

* * *

Wilson is scheduled to return to Washington about April 10.

Agents' Noses Catch Moonshiner, Booze

STARKE, Fla. (AP)—Federal men had some idea what William Lee Jacobs was hauling when they stopped his truck yesterday.

Two five-gallon tins had burst and a liquid was running out the back of the truck, agent Frank W. Watt reported.

"You could smell it for a block," Watt said.

Jacobs was charged with illegally transporting moonshine whisky.

Farmer Brings Home 12 More War Orphans

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Harry Holt, the Creswell, Ore. farmer who "just loves children," headed home today with 12 more Korean War orphans for American families.

* * *

Holt adopted eight war orphans last year himself. He has furthered the placement of hundreds more in American homes.

The Oregonian is taking six boys and six girls as far as Seattle. There they will fan out to homes over the United States.

Holt interrupted spring plowing on his 350-acre farm to come here.

* * *

Eight Koreans he adopted—all under 5 — are doing fine at his home, he said. Holt has six children of his own, ranging from 9 to 22.

His Purse Depleted, the Record Remains

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Charles W. Stewart found City Judge Robert G. Dowd a sympathetic listener when he told of driving more than 25 years without a traffic conviction.

* * *

Dowd agreed it would be a shame to spoil that record by convicting Stewart of driving 40 miles an hour in a 30-mile zone, as charged.

The judge ruled Stewart innocent.

In gratitude Stewart bought $13 worth of tickets to the police circus. That's what he would have had to shell out for a fine.

Shot Put Mark Shattered in Texas Relays

Bill Neider of Kansas Tosses Put 59 Ft. 9 In. for Collegiate Record

AUSTIN (AP)—Powered by a new collegiate outdoor shot put record by giant Bill Neider, a great javelin toss by Les Bitner and a flock of blistering relay teams Kansas dominated the Texas Relays today.

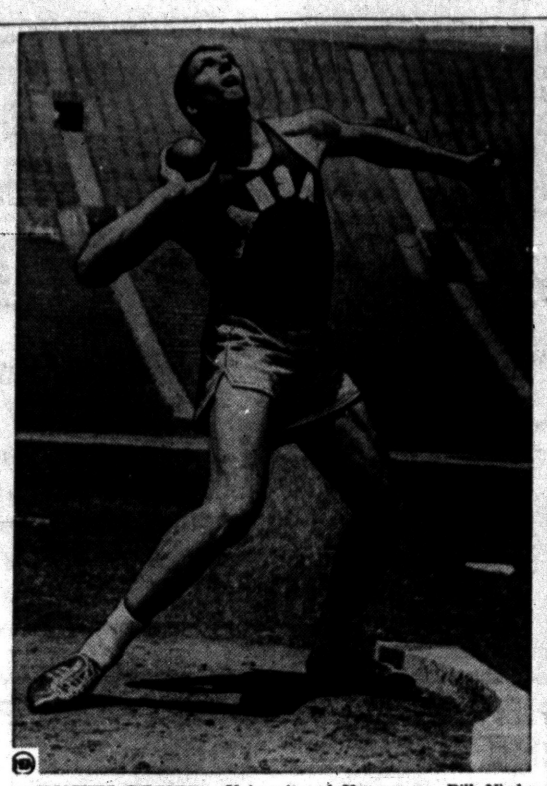

The massive Jayhawk featured yesterday's opening session of the huge track and field carnival with a mighty throw of 59 feet 9 inches, shaving Parry O'Brien's collegiate record of 59 feet 2¼ inches set in 1953. It also blasted the Texas Relays recod held by Darrow Hooper of Texas A&M by 3 feet 6¼ inches.

It still was a quarter of an inch under Nieder's national collegiate indoor record set this year.

Bitner didn't ruin the collegiate record but he flung the javelin 220 feet 8 inches to wipe out the Texas Relays standard of 219-8½ set by Alton Terry of Hardin - Simmons in 1937.

These great showings plus a first by Kansas in the distance medley put the Jayhawks on the way to a top-heavy victory in the big meet. There are 23 more final events today and Kansas is expected to notch several more first places.

The opening session saw six new records put in the books, three in the university-college class. Bob Buchanan, former Oklahoma athlete running unattached, raced the 5,000 meters in 15:18.1 to better the Texas Relays record of 15:24.0 set by Ronald Haynes of the U.S. Navy in 1952.

SMASHES RECORD — University of Kansas ace Bill Nieder shows his powerful form in setting a new collegiate shot put record with a toss of 59 feet, 9 inches at the Texas Relays yesterday. He bettered Parry O'Brien's mark of 59-2¼ set in 1953.

Venturi Holds 4-Stroke Masters Lead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Calm Ken Venturi, well on his way toward proving he is the world's greatest amateur golfer, figures today's third round should determine wheher he will win or lose the 20th Masters championship.

* * *

"I'll try to make my bid in the third round," the poised, 24-year-old San Francisco automobile salesman said after his 66-69—135 put him four strokes out front at the midway mark.

"I'll either win it or lose it in the third round."

Confident rather than cocky, the Californian didn't seem overly worried that defending champion Cary Middlecoff, an old hand at winning the big ones, was in second place with 67-72—139.

Asked about the difference in the pressure on Middlecoff and on himself, Venturi studied a moment and then said: "You can't dispute a man of success, like Middlecoff. Let's put it that way. If anyone cracks, it won't be Middlecoff—but it won't necessarily be me either."

* * *

If he doesn't crack, Venturi can become the first amateur ever to win the Masters classic. Probably no one would be happier than Bobby Jones. The grand slam king came out of retirement in 1934 to help make the inaugural Masters a success from the start.

Middlecoff, the former dentist, had a three-stroke bulge over his nearest challengers for the top professional prize of $5,000.

Tied at 142 were veteran Pete Cooper; PGA champion Doug Ford; Shelley Mayfield and Tommy Bolt. Cooper had 72-70, Ford 70-72, Mayfield 68-74 and Bolt 68-74. Next came Jerry Barber and Jackie Burke at 143 and Bob Rosburg and Fred Hawkins at 144.

Only Venturi, Cooper, Burke and amateur Harvie Ward mastered par in the second round over the wind-lashed 6,965-yard Augusta National course with its standard of 36-36—72. Ward, like Cooper, had a 70 and Burke a 71.

Ben Hogan, only man who ever really brought this storied Augusta National course to its knees, had to settle for a 78. He took 41 strokes, including a rare—for Hogan—double-bogey on the front nine. His 36-hole total was 147.

Hogan set the Masters tournament record of 274 when he won his second championship here in 1953.

Jimmy Demaret and Sam Snead, who hold three Masters victories each, had 148 and 149, respectively.

Venturi's 135 matched the 36-hole record for the Masters, set by Henry Picard in 1935 and equalled by Byron Nelson, whom Venturi credits for his golfing success, in 1942. Picard didn't win in 1935 despite his fine start, but Nelson did—after a playoff with Hogan.

Venturi isn't the first amateur ever to lead a Masters at the halfway mark. Billy Joe Patton, a North Carolina lumber contractor, did it two years ago. But Venturi's four-stroke margin is the greatest ever held by a play-for-fun golfer.

A young fellow who seems to know just what he wants to do or say, and exactly how to go about it, Venturi said his play in the Masters so far has been "definitely the best" of his career, interrupted by a stint in the Army.

When he said he played conservative golf in the second round and would make his bid in the third, he was asked if that meant he would play bold golf.

"I won't go hog wild," he replied quickly, "but I will try to make the third round the one. I won't charge the pin on every hole. I won't play silly golf. I'll shoot for the fours and try to pick up birdies where they come easiest. I've been winning on the par fives, I had an eagle and a birdie on the par fives in the first round and an eagle and two birdies today."

The eagle yesterday came at No. 8, a 520-yard uphill hole, where he switched clubs once, then skipped a six-iron shot over a knoll and into the cup 108 feet away for a three.

Undismayed by bogies on 11 and 12—"that just put me back even with par"—he picked up a birdie at the long 13th with two putts, another at the 520-yard 15th with a chip and a 5-foot putt, and, with an estimated 8,000 spectators swarming around, a final birdie with an 18-foot sidehill putt at No. 18.

Middlecoff never was able to make up on the front nine for a double bogey on the first hole, but he birdied both par fives with two putts for a 34 coming in.

Spartans Pacing Quantico Relays

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—Under ordinary circumstances Michigan State would be a threat in any track meet.

But the circumstances are not ordinary and the Spartans' efforts in the Marine Relays—the first major outdoor test of the Olympic year—at this sprawling Leatherneck base has left their rivals gasping.

Coach Carl Schladerman's team already has won two events and could win two more today in the closing session of the big carnival. This is a club that didn't set foot outdoors until it arrived here early this week.

Dave Lean, a Spartan by way of Tasmania, won the 400-meter hurdles in 54.4. State also captured the 4-mile relay in 17:57, and qualified for the university section of the sprint medley in 3:35.5. In addition, Ed Brabham got in for the 100-yard final, and Joe Savoldi qualified for the 120-yard high hurdles final.

While no record-busting was expected because it's so early in the season, all eyes were on the Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College and Jack Davis of San Diego Navy. Young Calhoun suddenly blossomed into a star during the indoor season and Davis, a major Olympic threat, is eager to see if the lad can come through outdoors.

They meet in the hurdles final along with such timber toppers as Savoldi and Lou Knight of Manhattan.

* * *

Other first-day winners were Fred Dwyer of the New York Athletic Club in the 2-mile (9:12.7), St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in the distance medley (10:33.4) Morgan State in the university section of the 440-yard relay (42.4) Winston-Salem in the college section of the same race (43.5), Henry Laskau of the New York YMHA in the 2-mile walk (14:59), Fred Miller of San Diego Navy in the broad jump (21-8½) and Desmond Koch of the Air Force in the discus (164-7).

* * *

After five events, Lyman Frazier of the Baltimore Olympic Club led Joel Shankle of Duke, the favorite, in the decathlon, 3,531 to 3,479.

Rain Delays UM Game in Dixie Baseball Meet

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Michigan and Wake Forest, rained out here yesterday, were to meet in the finals of the Dixie Baseball Classic at Duke University in nearby Durham today.

As a result of the delay, Michigan cancelled a game scheduled today at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville.

Jap Swim Star Shines at AAU

Jiro Nagasawa Hailed as Olympic Candidate in December

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Smiling Jiro Nagasawa, Japan's brightest Olympic star, shoots at another world's record today, the final of the three-day National AAU men's indoor swimming championships.

His target was the 100-yard butterfly stroke; the time was 54.4 seconds, posted last January by Al Wiggins, sensational Ohio State ace.

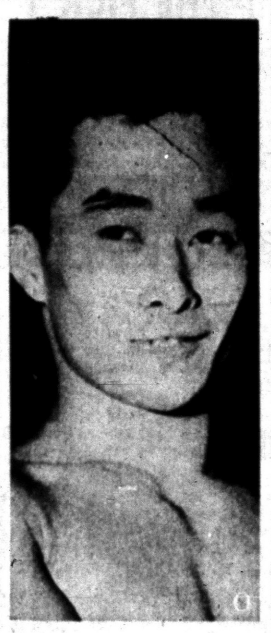

* * *

Both Nagasawa and Wiggins were entered in the test, which could be a preview of next December's Olympic Games in Australia, where, barring a major upset, they're down to meet again.

The 5-1, 22-year-old Waseda University graduate now auditing courses at Yale with hopes eventually of becoming a newsman, provided the top thrills last night when he lowered the world's mark in the 220-yard butterfly stroke to 2:19.4.

* * *

The listed international standard is 2:26.1, but Nagasawa improved on that a few weeks ago when he scored in 2:20.1 in a New York City test.

SHOOTS AT ANOTHER RECORD —Japan's Jiro Nagasawa, who attends Yale, tries for another world's swim record in the AAU meet at New Haven, Conn., today. Last night he lowered the 220-yard butterfly stroke mark to 2:19.4. Today he tries for the 100-yard butterfly mark.

Union League Title Playoff Slated Sunday

The championship finals of the UAW-CIO League basketball playoffs between Fisher Body Local 596 and the GMC 594 day shift team will be held Sunday afternoon at Jefferson Junior High School. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

General Motors has been beaten once in the double-elimination tournament while the Fisher quintet is undefeated. Ken Titheridge and Art Branner are the sparkplugs for Fisher, which won the league title. Mel Taylor of GMC is the loop's leading scorer.

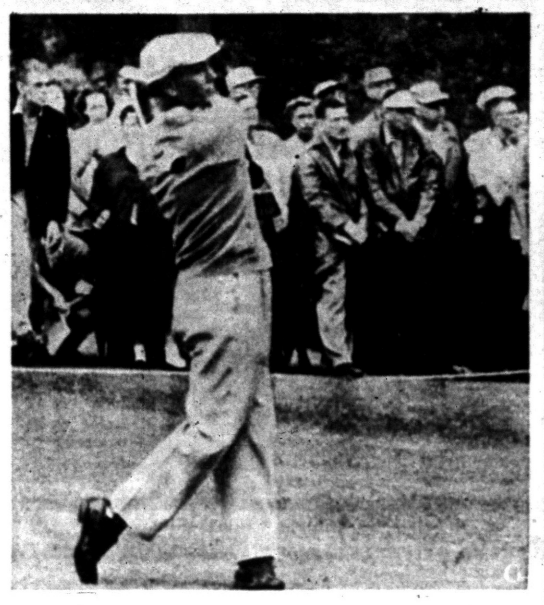

The union tourney semi-finals were played two weeks ago, but last Sunday was skipped because of Easter. No admission will be charged for tomorrow's game.

Tennis Troupe in Detroit Appearance

DETROIT—Jack Kramer's touring tennis troupe featuring service-powered Pancho Gonzales against Tony Trabert will make an appearance tonight in the U of D Memorial fieldhouse.

Gonzales won his 4th straight pro tennis championship last night in Cleveland. He leads the former U. S. Davis Cup star 51 victories to 16 in the tour.

Pancho Segura and Australian Rex Hartwig meet in the other singles match tonight. Doubles with Trabert-Hartwig against both Panchos follow the singles.

GRAPEFRUIT League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way Monte Irvin is going in spring training, he stacks up as prime material for baseball's "Comeback of the Year."

Once a World Series hero with the New York Giants and pride of the Polo Grounds, the 37-year-old, panther-like outfielder is finding new life with the Chicago Cubs.

With a potent bat which has hammered out a .500 average in the last 10 games, he apparently has clinched the left field spot with the Cubs and No. 5 in the batting order behind Ernie Banks.

Yesterday the one-time Giant got four singles in four times at bat and joined with Banks, who knocked in five runs, in blasting the Baltimore Orioles 15-11 at San Antonio.

Last June he was sold outright to Minneapolis, the Giants' farm, and it looked for a while as if his major league days might be over. Then the Cubs invested $10,000 to buy him in the player draft last November.

"If they play me, I guarantee I'll help the team," Monte says. And he's proving it.

Rookies stole the limelight as major league teams continued to move north Friday, nearing their home bases.

Rookie Bob Richardson of the New York Yankees, an infield candidate, drove in four runs with a single and triple as the Yanks broke a six-game winning streak of the Philadelphia Phillies 7-4 at Mobile, Ala., scoring three runs in the 10th inning. Don Larsen went the route for the American champs, although he gave up three home runs.

But the Yanks' elation over their victory was tempered somewhat when Mickey McDermott, ace southpaw pitcher, became ill en route to New Orleans. He was taken to a New Orleans hospital, apparently suffering from food poisoning.

At Jacksonville, Fla., Marty Keough and Don Buddin, rookies, each hit grand slam home runs for the Boston Red Sox in beating Jacksonvill's Sally League entry 19-4. Connie Grob, a 6-foot rookie righthander with Washington, joined Dean Stone in pitching the Senators to a 4-3 triumph over the Cincinnati Redlegs at Florence, S. C.

Storm Brews for Sunday Cup Game on Wing Ice

DETROIT (AP)—What should have been the calm before another storm between two of hockey's oldest and bitterest rivals never even got started.

The Detroit Red Wings and the Montreal Canadiens had two days off between Detroit's 3-1 victory Thursday night and the two clubs' fourth Stanley Cup contest tomorrow night. But a rabid Red Wing rooter and a short-tempered Montreal player kept the already steaming pot boiling with a toe-to-toe exchange that may be reverberating long after the clubs wind up their battle for hockey's top prize—the Stanley Cup.

The fact that Montreal carries a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 encounter into tomorrow's game was pushed out of the spotlight by a Detroit fan's claim that Canadien defenseman Doug Harvey went to work on him with a hockey stick near the windup of Thursday's battle.

* * *

Police who investigated recommended that an assault charge be placed against Harvey, but the prosecutor's office—citing "insufficiency" of the evidence in the report—adjourned the matter until next Wednesday. Police planned further investigations.

Steve Kemeny, 37, of suburban Wyandotte, said Harvey came charging off the Montreal bench after him and slashed him with his stick. Kemeny said three stiches were needed to close the gap under his left eye. He said he had been razzing Harvey but contended his criticism was no more severe than "what any good hockey fan would hand out."

The 31-year-old Harvey, the Canadiens' top defense man, who scored 44 points during the regular National Hockey League season, denied striking anyone. He said Kemeny had been "riding me."

But Toe Blake, Montreal coach, called Kemeny's gash "the biggest little cut in the world."

Wilt 'the Stilt' Drawing Fire

Fabulous Frosh Cager Charged With Playing Against Pros

NEW YORK (AP)—An official of the Amateur Athletic Union said today he had a report that Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain had played under an assumed name and against professionals, but the widely-publicized Kansas freshman basketball star promptly denied it.

Col. Harry D. Henshel, chairman of the U.S. Olympic Basketball Committee, said he had checked a report that the 7-foot star had played under the name of "Marcus" against pros at Cumberland, Md., when he was 16 years old.

But Henshel said he has no interest in Chamberlain or in professionals of any sort.

"This is strictly a college matter. Neither the AAU nor I have anything to do with it."

At his Philadelphia home, where he is on a spring vacation, Chamberlain denied every playing in a pro game or under an assumed name and added "I never played basketball in Cumberland, Md., in my life."

Reaves Peters, Big 7 commissioner, said he had no comment but added that any comment or action would have to come from the faculty representative at Kansas.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director who is attending, with Peters, a meeting of athletic commissioners at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., could not be reached immediately for comment.

Jones Breaks 3 Records

Chiefs Run Away With Meet

It was a combination of Hayes Jones-Pontiac High day Friday at the Saginaw-Saginaw Arthur Hill Invitational track meet in the Central Michigan College fieldhouse at Mt. Pleasant.

The Chiefs smashed four meet records with Jones personally accounting for three as they outdistanced a field of 11 other Class A schools to successfully defend their crown.

Wally Schloerke's track powerhouse amassed 61 points to finish well ahead of runner-up Flint Northern with 34, repeating last year's 1-2 order.

Trailing Pontiac and Flint Northern were Lansing Eastern with 19 points, Bay City Central 14, Muskegon 11½, Arthur Hill 11, Traverse City 8, Saginaw 7½, Midland 5½, Alpena 5, and Flint Central 3½. Only Bay City Handy failed to score.

The brilliant Jones had a field day yesterday. He won three events and tied for 1st place in another for individual stardom in the meet. The three new meet records established by Jones were:

(1) Victory in the 65-yard high hurdles in the time of 7.8 seconds to better the mark of 8.15 by Tom Hall of Saginaw in 1954.

(2) Triumph in the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet 9½ inches to top the jump of 22-4 by Pontiac's Alonzo Harris in 1953.

(3) Tied with teammate Hudson Ray for 1st place in the high jump with an effort of 6 feet 1¾ inches, bettering the mark of 6-1 by Ed Ringgold of Pontiac in 1954.

Jones climaxed his performance with victory in the 65-yard low hurdles with a clocking of 7.4, shy of the meet record of 7.35.

Pontiac's medley relay team of Eugene Cretal, Archie Brooks, Jim Shorter and Larry Beamer set a new record with the time of 6 minutes 11 seconds, topping Traverse City's time of 6:13 in 1954.

Perry Williams won the mile run for the Chiefs in the time of 4:52 and Bill Douglas clocked 2:08.2 in winning the 880-yard dash. Pontiac's team of Jim Shorter, Charley Robinson, Archie Brooks and Charles Spann took victory in the four-lap relay in the time of 1:17.5.

Other Chiefs to finish in the running were Robinson, who took 3rd in the 440; Jim Taylor, runner-up in the 65-yard high hurdles; and Mike Hardiman, who gained 4th in the shot put.

Thelvius Winieckie of Arthur Hill set a 5th meet record in the shot put with a heave of 52 feet 8⅛ inches.

MSU Loaded but No Bowl

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State football followers are getting to be a pretty cocky bunch.

They're already referring to the 1956 season as "The year we can't go to the Rose Bowl."

After following the Spartans West twice in three years to watch them whip UCLA with dramatic flourishes, some of the more rabid rooters wish it could be an annual event.

Spring football practice starts Monday on the MSU campus—the annual early preview of prospects for the fall.

In sizing up the material this spring, these advocates of mid-winter trips to California tend to take the long view—extending as far as 1957.

* * *

"He'll be around next year, and so will he," they note with satisfaction on checking off the names of halfback Walt Kowalczyk, power-packed leading ground gainer, and end Dave Kaiser, who grabbed Rose Bowl glory with his winning field goal in MSU's 17-14 conquest of UCLA on Jan. 2.

* * *

The bowl-happy ones also get great comfort from the fact that 22 of the juniors returning with another full year of eligibility were on the 44-man roster that travelled to Pasadena.

* * *

All this should indicate that the MSU football team will be in pretty healthy shape this season.

For fans who feel they must make a Western trip with the Spartans—the first game is against Stanford at Palo Alto, Calif., Sept. 29.

Landy Blazes in Mile Run

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Lanky John Landy, world's fastest miler, ran a blazing 3:58.6 in a special mile race at Olympic Park today that missed his world mark of 3:58 by only six-tenths of a second.

A heavy track, soaked by an overnight rain, may have cost the Australian a chance of setting a new world record.

Landy now is the holder of the world's three fastest miles on record. He ran his 3:58 in June, 1954, and only last January did another 3:58.6.

Landy did not appear to exert himself during a 59-second first quarter when he trailed Geoff Warren by 4 yards. At the three-quarter mark, however, when a time of 3 minutes was announced over the loudspeaker, Landy really let himself go.

"I was extremely surprised at the result," Landy said afterward.

Tigers Stop in Houston; Pitching Is Key Concern

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Spring concern about the Detroit Tigers has centered on second base and left field but with 10 days to go to the start of the American League season it is becoming increasingly evident that pitching probably holds the key to the Tigers' future.

As the Tigers stopped over here for a two-day series with the Houston club of the Texas League today and tomorrow, one observer commented:

"Good pitching still wins ball games. And pitching can hold a club together even if it's weak on doubleplay pivots at second base and lacks hitting strength in left field."

The Tiger roster at the moment includes 13 pitchers who among them won 81 Major League games last season, while losing 68. Since Detroit's record was 79-75 it's evident that on paper the staff is stronger.

* * *

But the real test will come in the ability of the young pitchers to improve. The brightest prospects appear to be Frank Lary, Dick Marlowe and Bob Miller.

Only Lary was with the club the entire 1954 season and he had a 14-15 record. Marlowe was 1-0 with the Tigers and Miller 2-1. If the Tigers could get 10 victories apiece from this trio they would be well on the road to the first division.

So far this spring Lary is 2-0, Marlowe 2-1 and Miller, slightly troubled with a bad wrist, 1-2. Individually each has looked good at times.

After the set with Houston the Tigers move to New Orleans for a single game with the Southern Association team, then to Terre Haute and Columbus for a pair with Milwaukee before finishing up the exhibition season with two games in Pittsubrgh next weekend.

Motorcycle Races Sunday Afternoon

The Thunderbird Motorcycle Club of Pontiac will hold scramble racing Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

* * *

Sanctioned by the American Motorcycle Association, the races will begin at the corner of Auburn and Opdyke roads. Adults will be charged a donation of 50 cents while children are admitted free.

Ten events will be held and workouts start at 1 p.m. There will be 60 riders competing.

Walled Lake Edges Milford Thinclads

Victory by Walled Lake's Larry Hughes in the high jump, the final event of the afternoon, handed the Vikings a 56-53 triumph over Milford in the opening dual track meet of the season for both teams Friday at Milford.

Milford, which captured seven 1st places, held the lead throughout the closely-contested meet until Hughes' winning effort swung the tide. Walled Lake won six 1st places.

Lee Averill, Milford's star sprinter, won two events—the 100-yard dash and the 220. Hughes also took two events, winning the high hurdles in addition to his high jump.

It was Walled Lake's domination of the field events that proved fatal to the Redskins, defending Wayne-Oakland champions.

Giambra Scores Decision

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Middleweight contender Joey Giambra today was in the market for (1) a new dog, and (2) a crack at the championship.

* * *

They are listed in the order in which he is most likely to get them. He earned them last night with a hard-won unanimous decision over battling John L. Sullivan, one of the gamest contributions England has made to the American fight scene since Don Cockell took on heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

* * *

The fight was a rousing battle, the best seen in the County War Memorial here in many months. Much of the way they stood toe to toe and slugged as Sullivan tried to crowd Giambra and force him to abandon the clever, boxing-master style he has used to climb the middleweight ladder into the same ring with then champion Carl (Bobo) Olson. Joey earned his title crack and had the contract in his pocket. Then Sugar Ray Robinson upset Olson and the contract became simply a souvenir.

Oliver Buick Practices

Oliver Buick's Class A baseball team will hold practice sessions today at 5 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. at Wisner Field. The Buick nine will compete in the city 'A' league this summer. All experienced Class A baseball players are invited to try out.

Sailor Favored

$100,000 Handicap Today

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — The biggest first prize in a handicap horse race in Maryland, $74,750, awaits the winner today of the third $100,000-added Campbell Memorial.

Seeking the big pot are Brookmeade Stable's Sailor; Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Jones Jones and Man of Destiny; Maine Chance's Jet Action; Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Find; C. V. Whitney's Fisherman and Miss Ann Uhlar's Ann's Love.

Joe Jones won thet inaugural Campbell when it was a mile and eighth. He was fourth last year when the distance was shortened to a mile and sixteenth at which it will be run again this afternoon.

Sailor goes into the Campbell after beating six other horses, including Nashua, in the Gulfstream Park Handicap March 17. Find was third and Jet Action sixth in the same race.

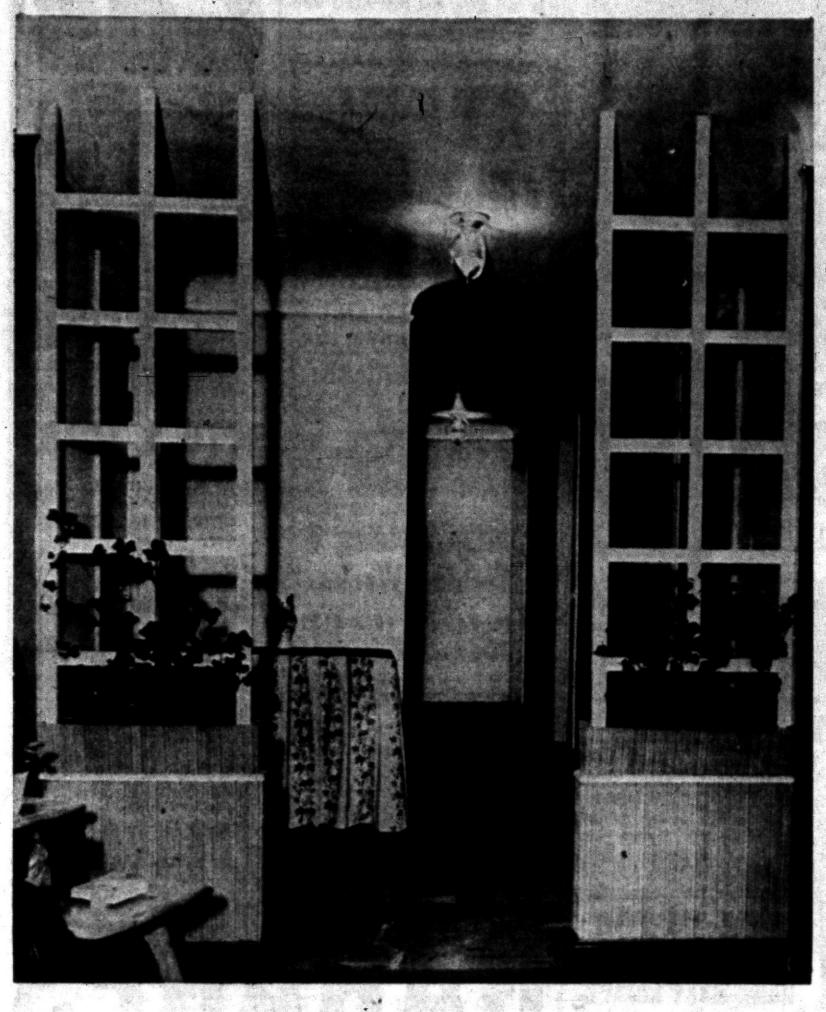

* * *

Sailor earned $83,300 for his Gulfstream victory and today's first prize would put his career bankroll over $300,000.

Top-weighted at 123 pounds each are Fisherman and Jet Action. Then comes Sailor at 122, Joe Jones, 118, Find, 117, and Man of Destiny, 106. Ann's Love will carry 100 pounds even.

Your Neighbor's House

Bob Haskins' Live in True Do-It-Yourself House on Spring Road

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

In America there are many ways to get a house. You can rent one, you can buy one or you can build one. If you decide to build according to your design, you still have a choice.

You can turn the whole job over to an architect and a builder. That way you move in when the house is done. Or you can do the actual work yourself, hiring done only such professional jobs as plumbing, wiring and heating.

Bob and Nellie Haskins made the big decision to follow the latter course. It's been a long job, one still incomplete. But the Haskins' have a house they are proud to own.

Mrs. Haskins was a war bride from Italy at the close of World War II. She followed her husband to his home in West Bloomfield Township as fast as a government bride's ship would bring her.

Home at first for the young couple was a small cottage near Walnut Lake. It seemed even smaller when Bobby and Nannette arrived on the scene. They just had to have a bigger house.

Like thousands of his fellow veterans, Mr. Haskins had to establish himself in his chosen work, complete any schooling he might still need and somehow find the means to finance a permanent home for his family.

Near the elder Haskins' home there was a half acre of land on Spring Road. The couple purchased it and made plans. These plans were changed and adapted as the house progressed.

All that first summer Bob dug . . . and dug . . . and dug. Probably he didn't know ahead of time what a tremendous job he faced. But he dug every foot of the foundation for the 75x36 foot house. He even dug a basement in one section.

A whole year went by before he had the right kind of weather to continue. Then he began to lay cement blocks. After a time, he knew exactly how many blocks he could lay each day. His only building hours, of course, were between the end of his regular job and nightfall.

Slowly the walls rose. But still, the house was far from a stage where the family could move in.

Another year went by. By the end of that summer the walls were completely up, the roof was on, and the utilities were in. The house was livable—after a fashion.

You have to be a good sport to live in a half-finished house. You have to be able to "take it." The Haskins' family could and did.

After all, Mrs. Haskins had come to a strange land by herself; had mastered the English language when her children were born; had made a home in crowded quarters for some years. An uncompleted house was just one more challenge.

At this stage building could go on the year around, limited only by time and strength of the builder. Partitions went in. Kitchen cupboards were built and installed. Sometimes materials were hard to get and the work stopped.

When the plasterers moved in, the family temporarily moved out. When they returned, Mrs. Haskins got busy with her paint brush.

At the present time, the children's rooms are still unpainted. The Haskins' have hopes that this year will see the completion of that job. Walls already painted will soon need fresh coats. The paint job is never done.

All the Haskins' are brunettes. They need bright colors to play up their own vivid coloring. Consequently, Mrs. Haskins ruled out pastels in her color scheme.

The 20x20 foot living room has tobacco brown walls with a cream drop ceiling. The fireplace wall is covered halfway up with striated plywood painted green. Planter boxes separating the living room from the hall are also made of this painted plywood.

The fireplace, set flush with the wall, is made of ledge rock. The hearth is brown tile. On one side of the fireplace there is a storage cupboard built into the wall for logs.

Twin sofas in the center of the room are covered in brown tweed. In one corner large upholstered chairs flank a corner table. These chairs are green tweed with a gold thread in the material.

For the man of the house there's a red leather lounge chair with matching footstool. The handsome birch desk in the opposite corner is a product of Bob Haskins' workshop.

The dining room-den is a continuation of the living room, around the corner. The two rooms form a large L-shaped space and allow flexibility for furniture arrangement.

The walls in the dining room are terra cotta. On either side of the far wall bookcases have been built in. For TV viewing in this area there is a green leather sofa and a gray leather chair.

All the furniture in Heywood-Wakefield and a light birch in color. The dining room table has drop leaves. The chairs, some of which are used in the living room, have plastic seat covers in red or green. The hardwood floors in both rooms are bare.

In the living room there are two large, low windows. In the dining room there is one. All windows have crash draperies made by Mrs. Haskins. The bright swirl pattern combines red, green, chartreuse and brown on a cream background.

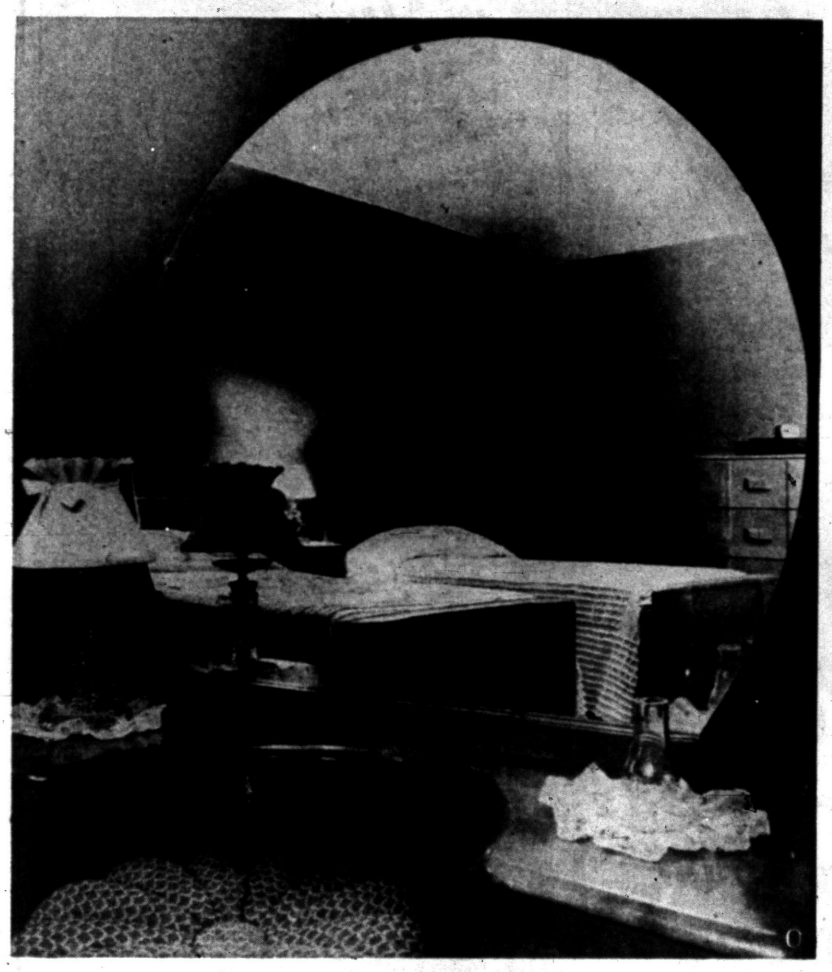

Off the large kitchen there's a good-sized utility room. "On muddy days, what a help!" says a harassed mother. The tile floor here is green, the walls yellow.

The kitchen walls are also yellow, with the spruce green soffit. Floor and counter top are gray. Red and green plaid curtains frame all the windows in this area. Window sills throughout the house are made of marble.

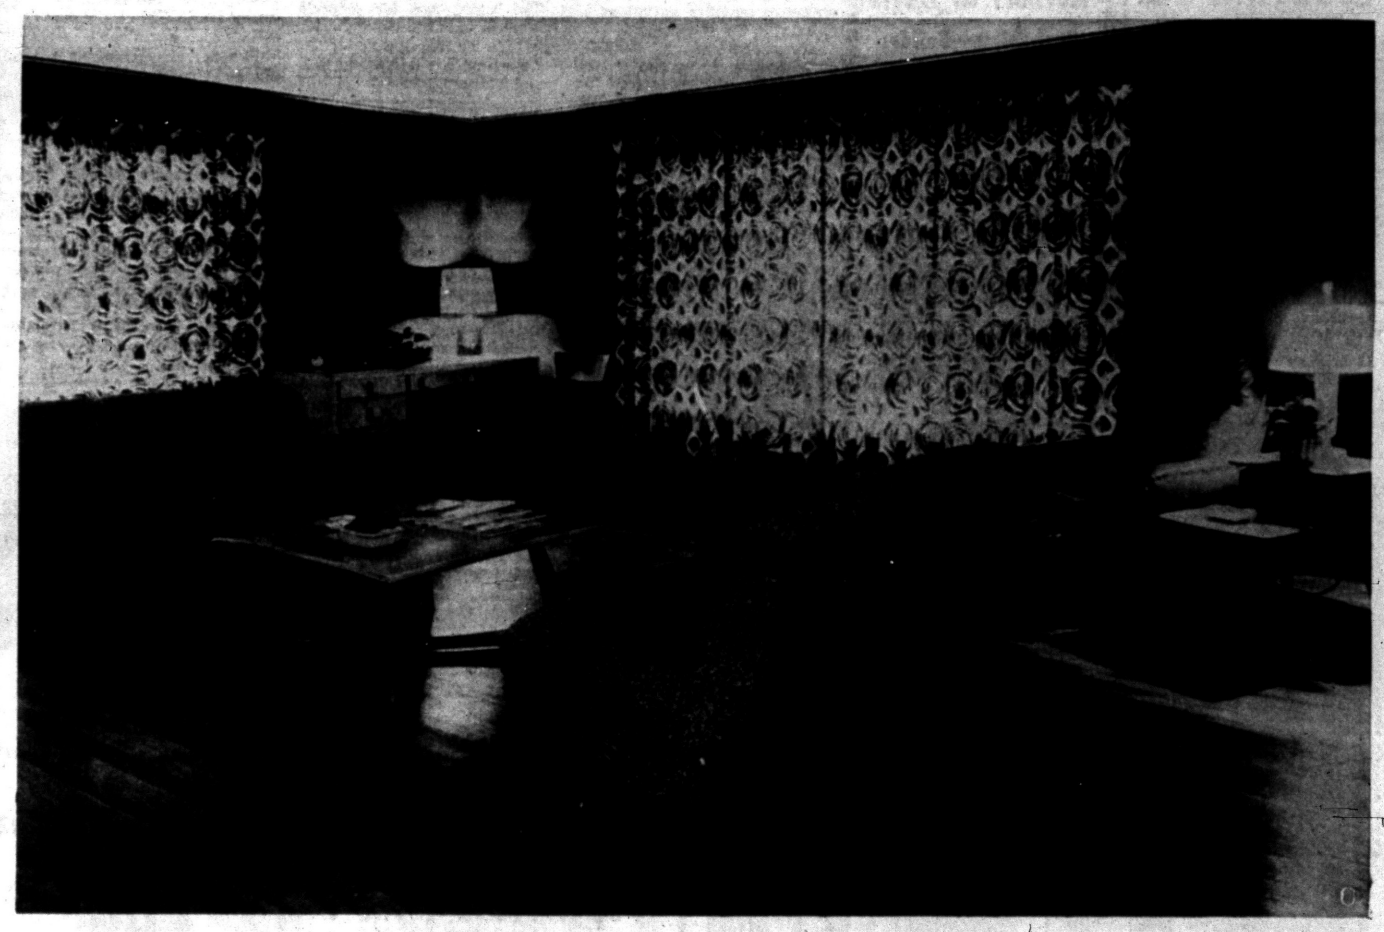

One end of the kitchen has the working space, the other end room for a breakfast table and chairs. Mrs. Haskins has a small planning desk with her telephone right at hand.

The ivy-filled planter boxes that set off the hallway have painted lattice work above. This lets light into the long hall.

REFLECTIONS — The large round mirror on Mrs. Haskins' dressing table reflects the other side of the room. Light birch furniture by Heywood Wakefield makes a pleasing contrast with the spruce green walls. There are high corner windows to the left of this vanity.

ROOM FOR LIVING — The Haskins' living room is square, with the dining room opening into it at the rear. Large windows on the front and side let in ample light. The desk in the far corner was made by Bob Haskins and matches the other birch furniture very well. To the right is a red leather lounge chair and foot stool. Notice the attractive hardwood floor. Mr. Haskins did all the work on the house himself, except for plumbing, wiring and heating.

IT'S TV TIME — Seven-year-old Nannette and eight-year-old Bobby Haskins watch a favorite TV program in the dining room-den of their home. Walls here are terra cotta which goes well with the colors in the draperies. There are built-in wall bookcases on either side of the sofa. The drop-leaf table can be extended into the living room for large groups.

COZY CORNER — Mrs. Robert Haskins hems a dress for her young daughter. Against the brightly patterned draperies, the brown tweed sofa and the green tweed chairs seem subdued. The ledge rock fireplace is set flush in the striated plywood wall. The lower half is painted green, while the plastered wall above is tobacco brown.

Harmonize Cabinets With Filler Strips

The use of filler strips to form groups of steel cabinets into one continuous unit helps give a well finished, quality touch to today's steel kitchens. The steel strips harmonize with the finish of the cabinets and are obtainable in varying widths and heights to match cabinet sizes.

Such strips frequently are employed to seal corner cabinets set at right angles. Where some space is wanted between two cabinets, a filler strip here will separate the units. Scribing fillers also are used to close any area left between an end cabinet and an irregular wall. In addition, sealers are used to join steel base cabinet counters with sink and range tops to give a continuous surface.

* * *

Normally, filler strips are not needed where a row of cabinets are fastened directly together. Often, however, a group of such cabinets are covered with a one-piece continuous, unbroken line.

NEW NATIONAL HOME—The 1956 National home will be open for public inspection Saturday in Judah Lake Estates. This one has a cedar shakes exterior. There are three bedrooms and an attached garage. Featured are new step-saving kitchns. Steel cabinets and Formica counter tops are standard equipment. Avon Investment Company is the local National Homes builder-dealer.

National Homes Has New Model

Avon Investment Co. Builds 1956 House in Judah Lake Estates

The all-new 1956 National home, first to be built in the Pontiac area will be open for public inspection Saturday and Sunday April 7 and 8 from 1:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m., according to Avon Investment Co., local National Homes builder-dealer.

* * *

The model homes, located at Flintridge and Gainesborough Rds. are Fenley and Barton two of the stunning three-bedroom models being offered in the 1956 line.

* * *

The new Nationals have many outstanding fine-home features. Their distinctive designs feature either the low, contemporary or the higher, more traditional roofs, "L" shaped floor plans, attached or detached garages and a wide variety of carport and patio arrangements.

* * *

To enhance the beauty of the homes, for the first time, many attractive masonry variations are included in the 1956 designs. These treatments feature brick on the exterior of the houses and in walls that screen proches, patios and children's play areas. To further individualize this home, purchasers may choose from Masonite siding, the popular grooved siding or cedar shakes as the exterior surfacing material.

* *

The floor plans of the 1956 Nationals have been carefully thought-out and are designed to make housekeeping chores easier. Each model has a large living room, spacious bedrooms, each with floor-to-ceiling closets with folding doors, guest closets, complete bathroom, several with bath and a half, and step-saving kitchens. Many of the new Nationals have separate dining areas—all have ample inside and outside storage space.

Outstanding among the many new features of the 1956 National homes are the step-saving kitchens. Natural birch doors on steel cabinets in a harmonizing color with Formica work surfaces are standard equipment in all houses. Purchasers, however, should they desire a more deluxe kitchen, may order the all-electric kitchen. This efficient kitchen includes Frigidaire pull-down cooking units, built-in, eye-level oven, dishwasher, waste disposal and General Electric washer-drier combination.

Expandable floor plans are also available in many of the 1956 National homes. Purchasers may add to either end of the home to gain additional space where it is most needed.

* * *

National homes this year will be equipped with heating units produced by Delco, a division of General Motors. The air conditioning systems, produced by Frigidaire, also a division of the country's greatest company, are available as optional equipment. Together, they provide year-round comfort at about a price slightly more than that of heating alone.

The home open for inspection this weekend is but one of the plans available for 1956. Purchasers may choose from a wide variety of 2, 3 and 4 bedroom models.

Tile Is Versatile

Why not get some unglazed ceramic tile and paint your own design on each tile and then fire a transparent glaze over the designs? A few square feet of tile done in your own design, perhaps depicting a family event such as a happy vacation, are ideal for surfacing your bedside tables. It's an original idea and practical, too, for tile is scratchproof and comes clean with just a wipe of a damp cloth.

Architect Saves Worry

Building a new home isn't the only situation in which an architect may be helpful. If you're shopping for a used house or building, take a sharp-eyed architect along on the inspection trip. Besides being able to judge the soundness of construction, an architect can help select quality materials like seasoned lumber, ceramic tile and copper plumbing for remodeling property.

County Building Permits Go Up Month by Month

Oakland County home building firms opened the year's construction with 431 building permits in January and 444 in February, the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

* * *

Permits issued in Bloomfield Township placed that area as the leading one in the country, with 52 in January and 60 in February, but Royal Oak wasn't far behind. The south-county city issued 44 in January, and added 72 in February.

* * *

Oak Park showed its growth with 46 in January and 56 in February, while Pontiac acquired a total of 74 for the same period—49 in January and 25 in February.

* * *

In other major areas of development, Farmington Township authorized the start of 61 homes in January, and 28 in February, while Waterford Township issued 26 permits in January, and 50 for the following month.

* * *

The dwelling-unit statistics shown in the government report do not represent the number of units actually started.

* * *

Bureau studies indicate that of the total number of units authorized by local building permits, about two-thirds are started during the month of permit issuance. By the end of the three following months, virtually all are under way.

* * *

Less than two per cent of the units authorized are never built.

* * *

Pontiac building permits for the month of March totaled $624,733 for 131 permits. These include 58 family dwellings, 3 new commercial buildings and 1 dog pound. March's total represents an increase over February's $589,663.

Magnets Help Wife

Some housewives have discovered that the kitchen bulletin board which keeps the family posted on events, frequently is unnecessary in their all steel kitchens. Shopping lists, telephone messages, and other notes—even recipe cards—stick securely to steel kitchen cabinet doors by means of small magnets from the variety store.

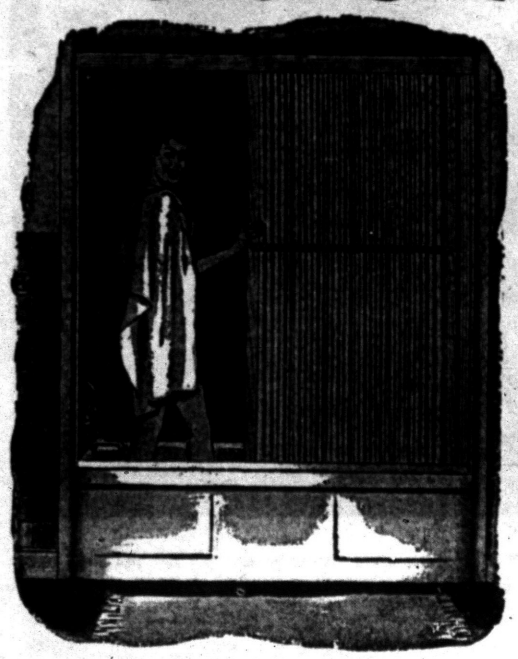

The steadily growing use of more electrical appliances calls for adequate electrical wiring. A 100-ampere lead-in is now the minimum. Numerous circuits and outlets will give you maximum electrical efficiency.

Eliminate Traffic Snarls When Building Home

When remodelling your house, it is important to consider your traffic patterns and eliminate traffic "bottlenecks," says the Institute of Home Designers.

A home usually has two separate traffic patterns: one starting at the front door ("guest" traffic) and the other for utility traffic which flows through the rear door.

If you draw a rough sketch of the room layout in your house, and then draw lines indicating normal traffic patterns, the Institute says that you may discover serious traffic flaws.

For example, draw lines to show the path that must be followed to reach basement workshop or hobby room. Other lines could indicate the routes that are used to reach basement storage areas, and the path that must be followed by youngsters seeking to reach the basement playroom from outdoors.

It often happens that the entire traffic load to the basement must be borne by the inside stairs. A person seeking to reach the basement from outdoors must enter the house and follow a long, circuitous route. This inconvenience becomes serious and even hazardous if he is attempting to carry bulky storage items to or from the basement.

Almost all cases of "basement traffic bottlenecks" are traceable to the lack of a separate entrance to the outdoors. Such an entrance makes it possible, for example, for the home hobbyist to carry in big pieces of equipment without disturbing the rest of the house. It also permits youngsters to reach the basement playorom conveniently from outdoors.

A modern method of keeping leaves, dirt, snow and ice out of this area is a sloping double-leaf metal basement door which entirely covers the steps to the yard.

If all these factors are kept in mind, you will have a good traffic pattern which will add to the value and convenience of your home.

Try Patterned Glass

A partition of patterned glass will separate kitchen from breakfast room without creating a crowded, chopped-up appearance in the total area. The reason, says June Cabot, home arts consultant, is that colors and light pass freely through the glass but sharp images are softened.

Use White Rez on Wood Walls

If you want your new woodpaneled walls always light and fresh-looking, H. O. Stroberger, prominent wood finishing expert, has the answer.

A white rez rubbed into wood before the finishing process begins keeps the paneling from darkening with age and brings out the grain, Stroberger says.

This is most important in retaining the lovely, golden colorings of Douglas fir or west coast hemlock.

The panels must first be sanded, home vibrator is preferable, then the white pigment is painton with a brush. Before it has had time to dry, wipe down with a soft, dry cloth.

Bits of the pigment will cling to the natural soft areas in the wood, accentuating the grain, After this has dried, the finishing process may be completed.

Other rez shades, such as dull sage green, may be used in lieu of white to give the wood an interesting tint.

Stroberger also has a handy hint for bringing out knots in paneling used for dens, game or family rooms. He rubs a burnt umber shade into and around the knots to deepen them and give them added prominence.

May Save Home Costs

USDA researchers have been testing paper-covered, low-grade wool as a siding material with some promising results. Tests show that low-grade lumber covered with resin-impregnated paper can be used for siding, house trim, cabinet partitions, shelving, paneling and signboards. Paper cover makes possible the use of cheaper lumber; also hides knots, pitch pockets and splits.

THOUSANDS OF BLOCKS — We don't know if Robert Haskins counted the cement blocks he laid for his house. We do know they resulted in an attractive home. The low house on Spring Road is painted cream color. Seventy-five feet wide, including the garage, this house was three years in the building before the family could move in and complete the interior.

Years, Not Months, Needed to Build

Brass ceiling fixtures give additional illumination. The walls are lime green, the floor beige.

Nannette's room is the first bedroom. When painted, it will probably be pink. Right now the only pink is the bedspread. Both children's rooms have high corner windows.

Bobby's room has more masculine furnishings. He has a sliding door closet just like his sister's. His room may be painted blue.

The bathroom is large and has both a stall shower and a tub. It's done in dubonnet and gray. Outside the door in the hall there is a linen closet.

The Haskins' bedroom has spruce green walls. Against this deep tone the birch furniture is attractive. The hardwood floor is bare with scatter rugs. Here, also, there are high corner windows.

The exterior of this cement block house has been painted cream color. The Haskins' have made a good start on their landscaping. Evergreens are in for foundation planting. Seasonal flowers are coming up in the low planter boxes around the living room.

The 2½ car garage allows ample space for tool storage. There's a horseshoe-shaped drive at the side of the house.

If Bob and Nellie Haskins ever counted the hours they put into building their house, it would be priceless. Maybe it is, anyway. Most homes are.

Ceramic Tile Sills Uncommon in North

Ceramic tile windowsills are fairly common in many parts of the country, but they have yet to catch on in the north. This is difficult to understand because it would seem that the more practical and durable material would be especially suitable in colder climates. Tile's decorative character is well known.

In addition, this hardy material can withstand all the shocks of weathering, the dirty hands of children, cigarette burns and the rugged wear and tear from flower pots and plants. The windowsill most definitely comes in for a lot of extra use that goes by unnoticed. Other surfaces can't help but deteriorate. Colorful ceramic tile remains ever the same.

Convert Wooden Toy Box Into Cedar Storage Space

Many families have an old wooden toy box with a hinged lid which the children have outgrown.

* * *

It's a simple task to line the box with aromatic red cedar closet lining to provide a handy, portable and inexpensive cedar storage space for blankets, fur coats and woolen clothing.

Red cedar closet lining is available at most lumber dealers in handy packages containing enough pieces of the wood to cover at least 32 square feet of area.

The pieces, ranging from 2 to 4 inches in width, are tongued and grooved for snug fit and easy application.

Line the bottom of the box first. Small finishing nails will hold the lining securely to the box. The best method of applying the red cedar lining is horizontally, one strip above another. This procedure requires less sawing than a vertical application.

The first piece of the red cedar should be applied with the grooved edge against the bottom of the box and the grooved end against the adjoining side, making it easier to apply the next piece.

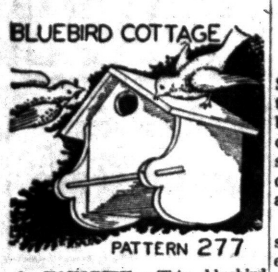

LINE LID

The lid also should be lined with the aromatic wood for thorough protection against the ravages of moths.

When the lining job is finished, don't paint or varnish the cedar, since that would seal in the moth-paralyzing aroma which emanates from the rose-colored wood.

If a large, wooden toy box is not among the family's possessions, it will be asimple matter for Dad to build one of cufficient size to hold the family's woolens.

A framework of two by two inch lumber can easily be covered with the aromatic red cedar closet lining for an attractive and practical cedar storage box.

A FAVORITE — This bluebird house is a perennial favorite both with us bird lovers who like to make them and the bluebirds that like to use them. The pattern also gives directions for a popular wren house. My husband and I have made many of these two styles and feel well repaid each spring when the songsters return. I think a great deal depends on where they are hung. Well up under the roof overhang at the gable ends of the house is the favorite place for house wrens. High in a tree standing apart in the orchard seems to be preferred by bluebirds. Pattern 277 with both designs will be mailed for 25 cents or will be included in the packet of bird house patterns for $1 postpaid.

FARM SOLD — This aerial view shows some of the buildings on Windrow Farm, located on the corner of Lake George and Drahner roads. Formerly the property of Edward Wilson, the farm has belonged to Aloysius Melberg for several years. Just recently it was sold to Harry Paul of Detroit. This 400-acre farm has two and a half miles of road frontage.

Windrow Farm Sold Again

The sale this week of Windrow Farm, one of the area's noted dairy farms, was announced by John Kinzler, realtor. Aloysius Melberg purchased this 400 - acre farm from Edward Wilson 3 years ago. Mr. Melberg is retiring to a new home in Romeo.

The new owner, Harry Paul of Detroit, intends to maintain the property as a farm but has no definite plans as yet. The sale price was in the neighborhood of $125,000.

Located on Lake George and Drahner roads, Windrow Farm has a small lake within its boundaries. There are 4 homes on the property, as well as numerous barns and outbuildings.

Windrow Farm is well-known as a place where Ayrshire cattle are raised. About a year ago one of the large barns burned, destroying about 45 cattle.

The transaction was handled by Mr. Kinzler and H. C. Newingham of Pontiac.

Paint Brushes Last by Rubbing Bristles

If you are painting, varnishing, or doing other wood finishing jobs, you need to take care of the paint brushes. A new brush almost always has a few loose hairs that should be removed before you use it, cautions Frieda A. Bennett, Home Demonstration Agent for Oakland County. She advises rubbing bristles back and forth across the hand to remove both dust and loose hairs.

Then wash the brush in a cleaning fluid so you start the job not only with a new brush, but with an entirely clean brush. After using the brush, wipe off all excess paint or varnish thoroughly with a cloth and then brush back and forth on a clean piece of paper. All varnish or paint must be removed or it will harden in the bristles. The brush will never be free of little bits of this dried material that will get into new work.

* * *

Mrs. Bennett suggests cleaning the brush in from three to five jars of cleaning fluid, used one after another until the fluid is absolutely clean. The cleaning fluid should be kept in glass jars with covers that do not have rubber inside because the rubber softens and may drop into the fluid. When the brush is clean and dry, try wrapping it in metal foil and storing on a flat surface to keep bristles clean and in shape.

Get Water in the Cellar? Then — Read This Article

If your basement may be converted into a swimming pool — but only during the rainy season — you may choose between two courses of action.

* * *

You may purchase a dinghy and a yachting cap and take an at-home summer cruise.

If, however, you're not of a nautical turn, you can patch up the holes in the cellar walls and floors with little effort. Leaks should be plugged immediately to insure efficient heating of the entire house.

Most openings are created as the house settles slowly in its foundation. Any major breaks should be inspected by a mason. The smaller apertures may be closed off by the home handyman.

CHIPPED AWAY

Most of the work is done with a dry, pre-mixed concrete patching mix. The amateur cement mixer will find that most of the work comes in preparing the crack for the mix.

The sides of the defective area are first chipped away with a cold chisel and a hammer. It is essential that the edges of the old concrete be undercut; the cut must be wider on bottom than on top.

After cutting, homeowner should dislodge all loose mortar with a stiff wire brush. The area is cleaned with water to remove dust.

Patching is then mixed with water on a flat surface. Mixture is poured in crack until patch is filled slightly higher than water level.

* * *

Strike off the top with a "strike board." This can be any piece of lumber wider than the opening. (Opening should never be less than one inch wide.)

* * *

Concrete patching mixture should extend a fraction of an inch above the floor or wall line. After two hours, shrinkage will be complete. Surface may then be troweled to match the rest of the surface.

* * *

The result should be a dry, satisfactory finish. Material is suitable for patching concrete block, poured concrete walls, floors, steps, or the masonry between bricks.

Private Homes to Get Swimming Pools

It may be just a dream to you, but the swimming pool industry thinks you're a good bet to have a swimming pool in your backyard. Not only that, the water in your pool will be heated for swimming on cool days.

* * *

The swimming pool people have the idea that the average person can own a swimming pool, which makes the controls for keeping the water at the ideal temperature.

There is a fibre-glass pool on the market which sells for less than $100, less than half the price of a new low-cost car. Other pools are within the range of the average homeowner.

In 1940, 200 private swimming pools were built. This year 36,000 will be built. Many pools include piping roughed in for future heating. Why? Even in sunny California, outdoor pool temperatures will be above 75 degrees only about 12 weeks in the year, and over 70 degrees only 18 weeks.

* * *

Surveys show that most people find water under 75 degrees uncomfortable. When it goes below 70, most people think it is just plain cold!

In the Middle?

If yours is an active, young family, going in for lots of informal entertaining, perhaps it'd be a good idea to locate that new kitchen right in the middle of the house. In such a plan, the design should flow from one area into another.

Furnace Can Cool House — Just Use Add-on Part

A furnace can cool a house as well as heat it.

* * *

The trick is done by "add-on" air conditioning, one of the latest methods of cooling a house. The furnace alone doesn't provide summer air conditioning, of course, but many components of the furnace and heat distribution system economically serve during the summer as well as the winter.

Add-on air conditioning can be installed in a house at the time it is built, or it can be added onto the forced warm-air heating system in an eixsting house even though the furnace has been in use for several years.

Add-on cooling is well suited to the situation in which a family wants to build an air-conditioned house, but isn't able to afford the air-conditioning equipment initially.

SEE DRAWING

The house can be planned for air conditioning, and forced-air heating can be installed at once. Equipment necessary to convert the system into year-round air conditioning then can be added at any time. If the conversion is properly engineered, the result will be as successful as if all the work had been done in the beginning.

* * *

The accompanying drawing and cooling ni residential heating duty. The Coleman Company, Wichita, Kan., a manufacturer specializing in residential heating and cooling, explains it this way:

All components of the furnace except the burner and the heat exchanger, which transfers heat from the burner to the stream of moving air, are used in summer air conditioning.

AIR PICKS UP HEAT

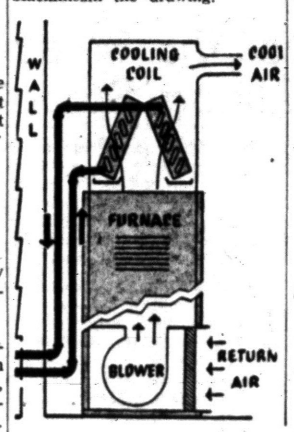

A cooling coil (shown as an inverted-V shape in the drawing) is inserted in the sheet-metal bonnet on top of the furnace. The furnace blower forces air past this coil, which cools the air and takes moisture out of it. The cool, dehumidified air moves out to the rooms of the house through the same ducts used to carry warm air in winter.

In the rooms, this air picks up heat and moisture and its temperature rises. Some of it is then carried back to the furnace through one or more return ducts. As the air enters the furnace to be cooled and dehumidified again, Coleman explains, it passes through a filter where it is cleaned of dust and pollen.

One element of add-on air conditioning is not shown in the drawing. This is a condensing unit installed outside the house. The function of the condensing unit, in which refrigeration machinery is housed, is to make the cooling coil cold.

* * *

A cold refrigerant gas or a chilled liquid circulates to the cool- through tubing, shown as heavy ing coil in the furnace bonnet blacklinesin the drawing.

A Simple Trick

Knots in wood are a frequent headache to the amateur painter. Pitch or sap often leaks out, spoiling the paint job. A good cure for this is to put a coat of shellac over parts of a board where knots are located before painting them.

Attic Solves Space Problem

Expansion Possibilities Exist Right Under Roof in Every House

The age of a house is no barrier to converting its attic into living space.

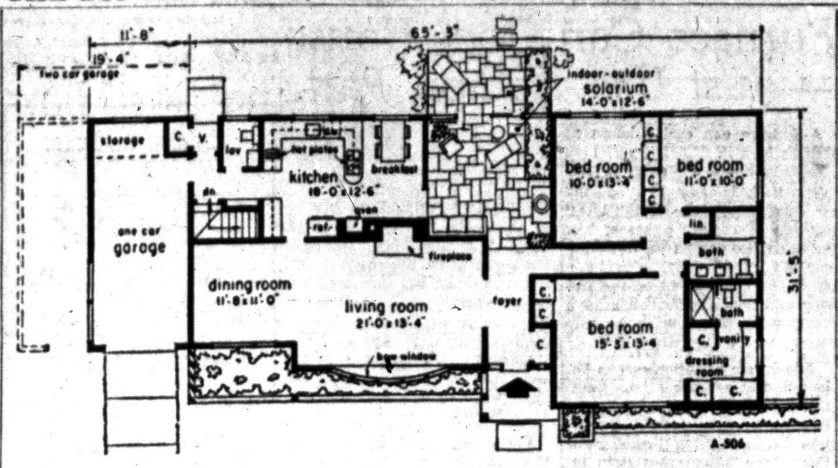

Insulation is always the essential first step in attic expansion, and ways have been developed to fit batt or blanket insulation between studs and rafters regardless of the house's age or the method of framing that was used to build it.

Mineral wool batts and blankets manufactured for 16-or-24-inch stud spacing fit most construction, but batts and blankets for 12-and 20-inch spaces also are available for houses with non-conventional framing.

Insulation is easily cut to in-between sizes on the job. A sharp knife is the only tool necessary. An ordinary kitchen knife works well.

The batt or blanket should be cut an inch, or a little less, wider than the space to be filled. This assures a snug fit.

When insulation is cut, the vapor barrier should be allowed to project out far enough to serve as a flange for fastening. Cut from the non-vapor barrier side of the blanket to the vapor barrier.

ONE FLOOR PLAN — Privacy and glamor are blended in this plan. A two-car garage may be built if desired. The bedrooms are nicely located away from the living rooms of the house.

Press House of the Week Emphasizes Living Space

A house built around a solarium to make the most of indoor-outdoor living is featured in Design A-506 for The House of The Week.

* * *

Unusual planning divides this house into distinct zones with the entrance foyer and solarium completely separating the sleeping area from the rest of the home. Still all the rooms are linked by excellently designed circulation making passage from any point to another both easy and natural.

The centralized location of the solarium highlights the conveniences that have been packed into this plan. If this distinctive room is used for intimate dining or informal entertaining, service from the kitchen is ideal. If it is used for late reading, the bedrooms are just a few steps away. If it is used for a rainy day play area, Mother can keep an eye on the youngsters without moving from the kitchen.

This solarium brings the garden and landscaping into the heart of this house. Paved in vari-colored flagstones, red quarry tile or tinted and scored concrete, the floor continues outdoors to form a patio or terrace. Sliding glass doors separate the indoor and outdoor parts of the solarium. Planting boxes are matched on each side of the glass wall.

LIVING SPACE

Whatever view is available behind this house, whether a distant vista or closed in garden landscaping, it is visible as soon as you step in the front doorway.

* * *

A good-sized house, this design gives you a total floor area of 1,823 square feet, without counting the garage. There are three bedrooms, two bathrooms, an extra lavatory and a full basement. Architect Rudolph A. Matern has incorporated a maximum of attractive features in this house.

For example, the living room is especially well planned for pleasant placement of furniture. It has a large log burning fireplace centered directly opposite a front bowed window that is 12 feet wide. An open-plan dining room gives this living area a combined length of almost 33 feet from the foyer. The dining room also has a large front window.

ROOMY KITCHEN

The kitchen is especially roomy and light. It has one wide window over the sink and another at the breakfast table. The back of the fireplace chimney wall provides a natural place for a built-in oven. An ample corner is provided for a large refrigerator. Separate sets of top burners are suggested in two locations in the kitchen. One small set of burners is handy for coffee-making.

Off the kitchen hall is a lavatory. This is handy from the back door, garage and basement stairs. The rear service vestibule provides direct passage to the basement without entering the kitchen. Coat closets are located at both the front and back doors. There are 12 closets in the house.

A dressing room including a built-in vanity, a window and three closets adjoins the master bedroom and its private bathroom. The latter has an oversize stall shower.

The main bathroom off the hall, to serve the two rear bedrooms, has a double vanity style lavatory. A big linen closet adjoins. The complete seclusion of this part of the house insures quiet.

BOWLING ALLEY?

The architect says he designed this house for construction over a full basement because of the abundance of recreation space available economically in a basement of this size. It is virtually long enough for a bowling alley—the standard alley being 60 feet long. This basement is 65.

Space for a complete laundry is afforded under the kitchen, where plumbing taps would be economical and the stairway adjacent. There is ample space for a large game room — big enough for a billiard table. Under the dressing room corner of the house would be an appropriate spot for a photo dark room, since plumbing taps from the bathroom lines would be handy.

Exterior styling of this house is especially smart, with low, sleek lines accented by colorful vertical siding and cut stone. Long stone planting boxes extend under all of the front windows. The front entrance door, flanked by glass sidelights, is protected from the weather by an extension of the roof overhang.

* * *

This is a house that would add distinction to any community.

Small motors for pedal cycles are being made for the first time in Poland. Formerly all were imported, Warsaw reports.

Identify Styling of House by Recognizing Roof Line

The roof line is often the clue to the architecture of a house.

* * *

The "early English" house has an extremely steep-sloped roof. The eaves drop very low, often below the level of the first floor ceiling. The roof may have a number of small, sharply peaked gables.

The "contemporary" design has either a flat roof or a shed roof. The true "ranch house" will have a rambling, low-slope roof.

The "Cape Cod" has a steeply sloped roof, though not nearly so steep as the early English design. Sometimes the Cape Cod will have single-window dormers.

COLONIAL

The most frequently seen "split level" has two roof levels, reflecting the two main living levels in the house. The roof levels, like the living levels, are less than a full story apart.

The "southern colonial" has a fairly steep roof. It also has a flat-roof front porch, supported by stately columns.

Years ago, it was possible to distinguish a house style, in some measure, by the materials used in covering the roof. Certain styles were more likely to be covered by straw, wood, tile, pitch, or stone.

ROOF DIFFERS

The current tendency is to seek roof distinctiveness not through varied roofing materials, but through the use of color. Asphalt shingles comes in a multitude of colors, suitable for any special preference.

The darker colors of roofing generally are preferred for tall houses, the lighter colors for low, rambling dwellings. Early English houses, with a multiplicity of roof surfaces, usually respond best to the more subdued shades. Southern colonial houses also call for the darker colors, which help maintain the traditional aspect of stateliness.

A virtue of the lighter colors for one-story contemporary and ranch homes is that they attract attention, drawing the eye of the observer upward.

Wood-Frame Homes Featured at Exhibit

A special exhibit, designed to show the peoples of Europe and Asia the high living standards of Americans, features a modern home of wood-frame construction with wood siding. A wood house was chosen because it is typical of home construction in the U. S.; approximately eight out of ten homes in this country are wood homes.

The exhibit, "People's Capitalism in the USA," was planned by The Advertising Council, public service organization sponsored by American businessmen. It will be shown overseas by the U. S. Information Agency.

Women Past Forty Years Can Give Birth in Safety

LOS ANGELES (INS)—A medical authority says women can can have babies safely beyond the age of 40 because of the latest surgical and medical techniques.

Dr. Andrew A. Marchetti of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., described 300 cases of women between the ages of 35 and 44—a third of them were in their 40's — who had babies without a maternal death.

"This proves," Mr. Marchetti told a group of Los Angeles obstetricians, "that older women can have babies safely if due care is taken. They can have babies just as well as their younger sisters."

Dr. Marchetti said that only one per cent of the pregnancies occur in women over 35, but that proper care can assure safe deliveries.

He admitted, however, there is somewhat more chance of miscarriages among older women and said none of the 300 women studied had had a baby before.

DRAW DIFFERENCE

Dr. Marchetti drew a distinction between women who marry late in life and immediately become pregnant and women who become pregnant late in their marriages, saying the latter group is more difficult to handle. He explained:

"Because of their age and misconceptions they read or heard, they become fearful of their competency and need to be assured that having a baby late in life can be a great joy.

"These women sometimes have to be told that pregnancy is a normal physiological process, not a disease."

WATCH HORMONES

Another speaker, Dr. Ralph A. Reis, Northwestern university professor of obstetrics, advised doctors to refrain from administering hormone drugs for infertility, change of life symptoms and in women who do not want to nurse their babies.

He said the feeling has developed among women that if they do not want to nurse their babies they are heartless creatures criminally depriving their babies of an inherent right, and disputed this idea, saying:

"Women who don't want to nurse their babies should not be forced to—the decision, after all, should rest with them."

Dr. Reis said 60 per cent of mothers don't nurse and 5 per cent can't because of some defect.

More Lady Engineers

CHICAGO (INS) — Women engineers are here to stay and today there are about 4,000 of them in the nation. That figure, says Mrs. Dot Merrill, owner of a Chicago engineering sales firm, is five times as many as there were in 1940.

English Students Better in 1927

Test Shows High School Graduates Better Years Ago Than Now

CORVALLIS, Ore. (INS) — Results of a test at Oregon state college tend to support the belief that high school graduates had a better knowledge of English a generation ago than they do nowadays.

* * *

The English department at Oregon state college gave a 1927 English placement examination to the 1800 freshmen.

The freshmen of 1927 did better on spelling and formal grammar. The students of 1956 and 1927 are about equal on English usage and punctuation.

Students averaged 53 mistakes in the 163-question test in 1927. This school year the average was 66 mistakes.

BIG DIFFERENCE

Dr. Herbert B. Nelson, head of the English department, said the big difference was in the 50-word spelling section. Such words as similar, laboratory, privilege and apologize were far more bothersome this year than 29 years ago.

The difference in the formal grammar section was slight, Nelson reported. In this section students were asked to identify prepositional phrases, participial phrases, gerund phrases, infinitive phrases, adjective clauses, adverb clauses, noun clauses, independent clauses and appositives.

The best result in the test this year was 21 mistakes and the poorest — 119 mistakes.

Diggs Suggests That Psychiatrists Check Hubbard

LANSING (AP)—A negro repesentative suggested today that Dearborn's Mayor Orville Hubbard should be examined by psychiatrists.

Rep. CharlesM. Diggs (D-Detroit) said on the floor of the House that Hubbard had told the press he had kept his job as mayor of Dearborn for 15 years because he "had kept every known Negro from becoming a resident of Dearborn."

Diggs alleged that Hubbard had said publicly:

"I am for segregation and discrimination of the Negro race two million per cent at all levels."

"This man should be forcibly committed to examination by a group of psychiatrists and put away in the interests of public safety," Diggs said.

"I call the attention of the House to these remarks because this man's attitude reflects upon the failure of the people of Dearborn to choose a leader who would not bring reproach upon the state of Michigan," Diggs said.

Adlai Maps Busy Illinois Program

Unopposed in Primary, Stevenson Plans on Big Vote in Home State

CHICAGO (AP) Adlai E. Stevenson, unopposed in the Illinois Democratic presidential preference primary Tuesday, mapped a busy weekend of campaigning for a big vote in his home state.

* * *

Stevenson arranged a meeting today with party leaders of state Stevenson for President committees and Students for Stevenson groups, sponsored by the National Stevenson for President committees.

After a news conference, he was to go to Alton, Ill., in the southern part of the state, to address a meeting sponsored by Alton labor organizations.

* * *

He winds up his campaign in Illinois Monday night with a television address.

Much meaning could be read into this year's results of the presidential preference primary, which is regarded as a popularity poll. In the 1952 primary Sen. Estes Kefauver, the only name on the Democratic ballot, received 526,301 votes. Stevenson, who as a candidate for governor and was not listed as a presidential choice, received 54,336 write-in votes.

* * *

Supporters of Kefauver, Who scored an upset victory over Stevenson in Minnesota last month in their first headon contest, have urged write-in votes.

Backers of Kefauver have denied any concerted write-in campaign but said if he gets 10 per cent of Stevenson's vote they will consider it proof of his strength in Illinois.

Says Valentino Was 'Homely'

'Marryin' Sam' Says Half the Men He Wed Were Better Looking

CROWN POINT, Ind. (INS) — Crown Point's own Marryin' Sam, who has tied the knot for 30,000 couples, said at least half the men who have passed through his office were as good looking as Rudolph Valentino.

* * *

Sixty - year - old Harvey Minas said, in fact, the great lover of the silent films was "kind of homely."

The occasion of their meeting was Valentino's marriage in Crown Point with Justice of the peace in his home town and has and Minas acting as a witness. That decided Minas on his career and he became a justice of the epace in his home town and has been marrying people ever since.

His hobby is collecting wedding ring boxes. At last count (which really is more of a guess) he figured his collection now numbers 30,000 boxes.

* * *

Although he doesn't number the Valentino box among his trophies, Minas has the box the ring came in from more than one celebrity.

* * *

His most treasured box is the one that carried the wedding ring for the bride of Red Grange, the Galloping Ghost of Illinois.

Spring Brings Rise in U. S. Retail Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—There was a sharp expansion in retail turnover this week and dollar volume was noticeably above that of a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet said today in the weekly review of business.

Percentagewise, trade in the middle Western states was six to 1 per cent above last year, South and sSouthwestern states had a turnover of five to nine per cent better than a year ago, New England states reported business better by two to six per cent, while in the Eastern, Northwestern and Pacific Coast states trade was four to eight per cent up over the 1955 week.

* * *

"Consumers increased their purchases of women's spring apparel, furniture, and Easter food specialties and there was an upsurge in the buying of new automobiles," the agency said, "but volume was below that of the similar week last year. Post-Easter sales promotions and reduced priced sales were less frequent than a year ago."

Bells of Los Chupaderos Toll Thanks to Hollywood

LOS CHUPADEROS, Mex. (INS) —The two-hundred inhabitants of a tiny adobe-mud Mexican village will remember a Hollywood movie company not for the insensitive money-making machine it is, but the thing of human warmth it also can be.

* * *

Director George Sherman of the movie "Comanche" was the first to notice something awry in the village of "Los Chupaderos" (the Sucklings) when Carl Krueger's company moved in: The ubiquitous church, as much a part of the Mexican scene as barefoot peons, was missing.

On inquiring, Sherman learned that indeed a church existed but that is had no steeple because there had never been enough money among the worshippers to buy a bell.

There was a sadness in this that the director felt needed correcting. He ordered company prop men to immediately construct a bell-tower on the tiny church, and at the same time instructed Mexican coproducer Alfonso Sanchez Tello to purchase a bell.

PRESENT BELL

But now the machine moved in. This would be a good thing — for the picture. Trained publicity men channeled the news to the press. Krueger re-wrote one of the film's scenes making the ringing bell a warning signal of a Comanche raid.

When the bell arrived—a new bronze one still bearing the price pencilled on its side — Sherman presented it to the town's humble and embarrassed mayor, Francisco Almarez, amid the whir of cameras and pop of flashbulbs.

But although the new bell had been delivered, the townspeople showed none of the expectd eagerness to install it.

BIG PROCESSION

Then one day the puzzle was resolved by a small incongruous procession that marched quietly through the movie props, painted warriors and shouting men that occupied a part of the little town.

The procession, guided by Mayor Almarez, consisted of two black-robed priests, two page boys and a representative of the state governor's office. And it stopped in front of the church.

Almarez then detached himself from the group and went to tug on Sherman's sleeve and, with the director in tow, returned to the clergymen.

Two boys brought the bell, suspended in a crude tripod of logs, and set it before them.

* * *

Fathers Miguel Uribe and Jose Angel Castaneda at once began the ceremony of dedication.

The money - making machine stopped. Mexican youths, recruited from the area to play Comanche braves, rode their horses nearby to hear the priests' words. Co-stars Linda Cristal and Dana Andrews walked quietly to the scene.

Then as simply as it had begun, it was over.

The two boys tied a rope on the bell and hoisted it into place in the tower. In a few minutes the sound of it pealed out across the town and countryside, calling the people to mass.

* * *

Sherman turned to the quiet grouped members of the "Comanche" cast and said very quickly: "Wrap it up boys. That's all for today."

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — "Please, Your Honor, don't continue my case until April 13," said Reece E. Baldwin, accused of drunk driving.

"Case continued until April 12," the judge interrupted.

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Sherbert C. Benton paid $2,000 for a lot to build a new insurance agency office building here last February. Now he's got his money back, plus some extra, and all he's lost is a 2-inch strip on one edge of his lot.

He filed suit and received a settlement of $2,165.65.

Wider Beaches Seen for Western Michigan

MUSKEGON (AP) — A survey recently completed by the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers indicates that west Michigan beaches will be much wider this season with Lake Michigan at its lowest level in five years.

The engineers predict the lake this year will drop to 580.5 feet over the mean tide at New York, the basis for lake level measurement.

The survey found that beach expanses, cut to 50 and 75 feet by the 1952 Lake Michigan high water level, now stretch up to 200 feet in some areas near Muskegon.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all.
And though the years be many or few.
They are filled with remembrance, dear, of you.
Sadly missed by his wife Brownie.

British Granny Top Film Star

77-Year-Old Actress Beats Out Her Younger, Glamorous Beauties

LONDON (INS) — Britain's top film stars and glamorous beauties have taken an awful black eye from a benign, white-haired 77-year-old grandmother.

For named as Britain's First Lady of the Screen by the British Film Academy is Katie Johnson, an old timer from way back who doesn't rate a line in theaterland's "Who's Who."

Fame came late for Katie but it was accepted with the graciousness and modesty of the real old trouper. Katie said:

"I am thrilled . . . but I wish they had given the award to someone younger — someone whose career it might have helped."

Katie emphasized the haymaker on the younger talent by sharing top acting honors with none other then Marilyn Monroe's new leading man, Sir Laurence Olivier.

GOOD ACTRESS

The Academy gave Katie the award for her part as the fluttering old lady who outwitted five crooks in the Alec Guinness comedy, "The Lady Killers."

Guinness commented:

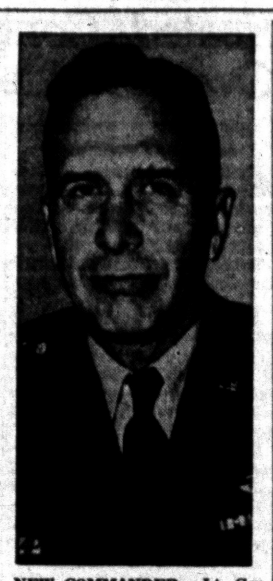

"I couldn't be more delighted. Katie is a very good actress, very real, very true and she was a constant example to all of us."

Katie Johnson retired in 1950 after a lifetime of bit-playing in countless plays and films. No theater critic had ever acclaimed her.

As far as the British public was concerned, Katie came to life only when the five crooks in "The Lady Killers" tried to kill her off.

More Church Building

NEW YORK — The nation's churches spent $740,000,000 on construction work of a religious nature in 1955, an increase of 25 per cent in the vaule of such building over the year before.

State Asks Condemnation of Two Royal Oak Lots

A petition for the condemnation of two Royal Oak Township lots was filed yesterday in circuit court by State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

The petition said the lots were needed for improvement of State highway M150 between 10 Mile and 11 Mile roads.

Ziegler asked that an impartial board be set up to review his department's offer of $4,150 for the lots, which belong to Stephenson Land Co.

Well, That's a Well

COLUMBUS, Neb. (INS) — An artesian well that has been gushing steadily for 44 years on a farm 12 miles northeast of Columbus is still a source of wonder to residents of the area and to Nebraska geologists as well. Drilled on the J. A. Groteleuschen farm in 1912, the well has flowed at an undiminished clip throughout the years and is now considered the most valuable asset on the 400-acre farm, operated by Harold and Ernest Groteleuschen, sons of J. A.

Band Members Sleep in Cemetery Chapel

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Twenty high school musicians were primed for a concert downbeat today after a restful night—in a cemetery.

* * *

The boys arrived yesterday to perform for the music educator's convention only to find Pittsfield's tourist quarters brimming with music teachers.

The outlook was bleak until Mrs. Henry M. Hutchings, a member of the convention arrangements committee, spoke to her husband.

Soon, the youthful musicians were tucked in for the night on borrowed cots in the Pittsfield cemetery chapel. Mr. Hutchings is superintendent of the cemetery.

NBC Will Greatly Boost Color Programing in Fall

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—NBC, now making plans for its fall color television programing, soon will announce the most extensive color programs yet seen by the home audience.

* * *

It's expected that the network will offer at least one major attraction in color every evening of the week. Robert Sarnoff, NBC president, reportedly has given top priority to this phase of the network's television programing plans for the coming season.

MORE THAN DOUBLE

Although color programing has increased considerably in the past year, plans in the making at NBC apparently would more than double the amount of color time now available to the public. One major attraction each evening on NBC probably would mean at least one hour and possibly an hour and a half nightly.

* * *

At the moment NBC is the only major network with plans for stepping up color productions. CBS, which presents a few color programs, is maintaining its policy of "watchful waiting." ABC, which offers no color programs, has said it might launch some in the fall of 1957 if the audience is large enough. Both NBC and CBS are affiliated with manufacturers of color sets. ABC is not.

NEW EMPHASIS

You can look for a change of emphasis in the nature of color set advertising, by the way. Manufacturers are awakening to the fact that a large percentage of the public doesn't realize all black and white programs can be seen on color sets. The new theme in color probably will be that you get two sets for the price of one color set.

Well, Grace Kelly Can Always Redo Monaco Palace

BOARD S.S. CONSTITUTION (AP)—If life in the royal palace of Monaco ever becomes the least bit dull—then Grace Kelly can amuse herself by redecorating rooms.

* * *

She confided to reporters that the first time she saw her fiance's palace she amused herself in dreaming how she would redecorate the rooms.

Now she is traveling aboard the Constitution to marry Prince Rainier III in Monaco, and can plan instead of just dream.

She said they are planning to redecorate at first only the Prince's five-room bachelor apartment.

But that's only five rooms, which leaves Grace—if she ever needs something to do—just 115 more rooms to redecorate.

Red Cross to Launch Home Nursing Course

Detroit Family Urged to Stay

Preacher Asks Indian Not to Yield to Violence After Near Riot

DETROIT (AP)—A Detroit family was urged today to "refuse to yield to violence" and remain in the northest area home into which it moved this week.

The Rev. John E. Coogan, chairman of the Detroit Commission on Community Relations, said the family of John W. Rouse "owes it to the community to pioneer" against what he termed "footloose hoodlums and bitter resentment."

* * *

Rouse, 70, and his family agreed Thursday night, after a near race riot, to sell their home and move elsewhere. A rumor that Rouse was a Negro set off a demonstration in which stones were hurled through two windows of the new home by some of 300 persons who gathered near the house.

Rouse told newsmen he would not stay, adding:

"I don't want to try being a pioneer around people who start trouble without even seeing me and my wife."

Rouse, a retired private policeman, said he was of Cherokee Indian ancestry and his wife of Scotch-Irish and French-Canadian. He told reporters: "We are not Negroes."

The area into which they moved is all-white and is 3½ miles from the nearest mixed neighborhood.

* * *

Following the demonstration, Rouse agreed to sell the home for which he paid $16,500 for $18,500 to the Belmont Subdivision Assn. He was given two months to move and was to use the home rent-free in the meantime.

TV IS WONDERFUL!
Your TV set whether it is old or new will at certain times need replacement of tubes and other parts that wear out from normal use. There is no TV set made today that can evade this fact. But when you stop to consider that if you had to pay to go out and see all the movies and entertainment for one year that you see on your TV for that length of time the maintenance cost of your TV is a mere trifle compared to the many hundreds of dollars it would cost to go see this entertainment were it not available to you on your TV set. British Boys Like Gray Hairs

Teenagers Copying Fad From U.S. Servicemen and Movie Stars

LONDON (INS)—Some of Britain's teenage boys are fast turning gray, but not from worry—it is the new hair style fashion.

* * *

Hairdressers, now accustomed to the U.S.-style crew cut, have had to adopt a new technique to achieve the distinguished effect of gray temples on youthful heads.

The problem of putting silver threads among the gold is proving a money-maker to adaptable British hairdressers.

Fashions started by the America G.I.'s in British bases, usually taken from American movie stars such as the "Tony Curtis," the "Jerry Lewis" and "Marlon Brando" are quickly adopted by British teenagers.

GREY-STREAK

Today, it's the gray - streaked "Jeff Chandler" sweeping the country.

A Petersborough, Northamptonshire county, hairdresser said:

"Many teenagers are willing to pay $9 a time to get the new 'Jeff Chandler.'

"It's a difficult style and has to be tackled in one sitting. The hair is bleached and then colored to obtain the graying effect in front."

* * *

Orioles Huddle With White Sox in Trade Hopes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles, who said "We're definitely in the market for a deal," huddled here yesterday with Lou Boudreau, skipper of the Kansas City Athletics.

"You can assume anything you want," Richards told newsmen after talking with Boudreau. And Boudreau said, "We tossed a lot of names around."

The A's manager was believed dickering for center fielder Chuck Diering; catcher-first baseman Gus Triandos and some pitching.

Cautious Young Thief

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — A 9-year-old boy, arrested on suspicion of burglary, told officers he never stole a bill larger than $5 for fear that if he tried to change it he'd be asked where he got it. The boy and his companion, aged 12, confessed to at least 50 burglaries and petty thefts in the Butte area.

Lost Dream Man

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma City police just missed chasing a "nightmare" prowler. A frantic woman called police to report a man was breaking into her home. But before officers could reach the house, she called back to report it was all part of a dream.

Heated Congressional Debate Likely Over President's Foreign Aid Plans

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press Writer

President Eisenhower's administration is heading into stormy weather in both houses of Congress over its request for $4,859,975,000 in new foreign aid.

The request is $2,200,000,000 more than Congress approved last year.

* * *

And it directly affects the pocketbook of every American. The total breaks down to an average of $80.99 each for the nation's 60 million taxpayers—or $29.39 for every man, woman and child in the country.

Nearly a decade ago, when former Secretary of State Marshall made his historic proposal for the United States to aid in the recovery of Europe's war-shattered economy, few in Congress envisaged a program of global aid that would still be flourishing in 1956.

* * *

Since then, Europe's economy has bounded forward spectacularly—so much so that the flow of economic aid to North Atlantic Treaty allies has been cut off for two years. In Europe, only Spain, Yugoslavia and West Berlin are now receiving U. S. economic assistance.

But U. S. economic aid to nations of the Pacific, Asia and Africa is continuing and—if the administration's recommendations are followed—will rise during the next fiscal year.

In two areas proposed military aid in fiscal 1957 is greater than proposed economic aid. In the Near East and Africa, the recommended military expenditure is $72 million, in South Asia 140 million, and in Southeast Asia and the Far East $1,027,000,000. Economic recommendations are 412 million for the Near East and Africa, 190 million for South Asia, and 835 million for Southeast Asia and the Far East.

* * *

Altogether, since the end of World War II, the United States has poured out a grand total of 54 billion dollars — $38,300,000,000 in economic aid and $15,700,000,000 in military assistance — to countries outside the Soviet orbit. About 11 billion dollars of this was in loans, the rest in gifts.

The figures cover the period from July 1, 1945 through June 30, 1956.

HIT ROUGH SAILING

President Eisenhower's request for nearly five billion dollars in new aid for fiscal 1957 has already run into rough sailing on both sides of Capitol Hill, despite the President's plea that it is "a low price to pay for the security and vastly greater chances for world peace."

The President told Congress he saw nothing in the international picture "to warrant a slackening of our efforts to strengthen the common defense of the free world," and he declared:

"In Asia and the Middle East, serious risk of aggression still exists. We cannot falter in our quest for peace."

But congressional leaders have made it clear they are going to take a long, hard look at the administration's aid proposals with a view toward whittling a good many million dollars off the price tag. The general expectation is that it may be cut to 3½ billion.

Some lawmakers, notably including Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California, are balking particularly over the administration's request for Congress to authorize a 10-year program to help underdeveloped countries with long-range economic projects such as the proposed billion-dollar High Aswan Dam in Egypt.

"I do not look with favor upon commitments for 10 years or other long periods for foreign economic aid," Sen. Knowland said.

Eight Area Students Win Four-Year Scholarships

A Pontiac High Shool senior and seven county students are among 4,300 seniors from every state in the nation to receive certificates of merit from the National Merit Scholarship Corp.

The students are, Robert J. Everson, 362 E. Beverly Ave., Pontiac; Judith E. Nelander, Royal Oak; Przemyslaw S. Sporzynski, Royal Oak; Arthur Howland Jr., Walled Lake; Shirley A. Wooden, Walled Lake; Bob A. Barnes, Farmington; Donald R. Crowell, Lapeer; and Havrilla M. Wiseman of Milford.

They were among the 4,300 students who were screened from 60,000 seniors, nominated by their high school principals to take the first NMSC test last November.

The winners have been chosen for their excellent showing in the search for students best able to benefit from a college education, which covered hundreds of thousands of students in the 10,338 high schools that entered the competition.

Each of the scholarships has a total value to student and college of $6,000 and will cover all four years of college. The amount of each scholarship will be based on need of the student, and will range from nominal amounts to full tution plus full cost-of-living expenses.

British Subtlety?

LONDON (INS)—Police authorities picked a significant spot in a busy South London shopping center for their latest safety poster. The poster, reading "Be bright, watch the lights," is displayed in the window of a funeral parlor.

Forum Group Aids Stutterers

Students Revive Mutual Aid Unit for Individuals at University of Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (INS)—St-st-stuttering is no funny matter to people who suffer from the malady, but a group of University of Texas students are convinced that self-ridicule is a form of treatment.

* * *

So they've revived a mutual-aid society which they call "The Spit and Splutter Literary Society."

The society was founded in 1947, was inactive for a while, and has now been reorganized by a dozen students with speech handicaps.

Various individual and group methods are used to keep the stutterer from feeling sorry for himself. Practicing speech activities in the presence of the group proves helpful.

The voluntary meetings supplement activities of the University's speech and hearing clinic in rehabilitating stuttereres through individual treatment. Dr. Jesse J. Villarreal, director of the clinic, is faculty advisor to the Spit and Splutter Literary Society.

* * *

"A study group tends to break down the feeling of isolation," Dr. Villarrea explains.

Spray Crews Launch Elm Disease Assault

Pontiac Parks and Recreation workers this week began spraying 4,000 city elm trees to prevent Dutch Elm disease.

* * *

Parks Supervisor William Aho said the trees, on city streets, parks, and cemeteries and on the Pontiac State Hospital Grounds, will be sprayed again in July.

The spray, 25 per cent diluted DDT, is used to rid the trees of Elm bark beetles which last year damaged 137 of 160 city trees sampled.

* * *

Aho said the city will not spray elms on private property but urged all citizens to have their elms thus treated.

'Chip' Bohlen Can Hold His Martinis and Still Talk Diplomacy With Soviets

WASHINGTON (INS)—The story is that it was Charles E. "Chip" Bohlen who first said "the two most dangerous things a man can say are 'Martinis don't hurt me' and 'I know all about Russia.'"

The U. S. Ambassador to Moscow is well qualified to talk about both subjects. As envoy to the Russians, Bohlen must subject himself to the marathon drinking bouts new Soviet leadership likes so much. Among diplomats of the world it is accepted that any ambassador to Moscow must be able to hold his drinks.

And as a man who has spent a good part of his life studying the Russians, their language, their habits, and their tactics, Bohlen knows at least as well as any American how dangerous it is to get over confident in dealing with them.

TO HUDDLE WITH BIGWIGS

Such is the man who has been summoned home from his vacation in the Austrian Alps to help the U. S. government figure out what is going on in Russia now that Stalin has been debunked.

Bohlen is flying home in answer to the summons, despite the fact that he broke a shoulder skiing.

The ambassador is a tall, dapper man who looks younger than his 52 years. He is dapper right up to his eyes—but no further.

* * *

His friends frequently chide him because he never cleans the glasse he wears for reading, and some wonder how he can see through them.

But he does, and well, as evidenced by the fact that he is a speed reader who races through a book at about 45 seconds a page.

BEGAN CAREER IN '29

Reading is not the only thing at which Bohlen is fast. Fellow diplomats know him as a man whose mind races and with a "hair trigger" sense of humor.

Bohlen is a career diplomat who entered the service in 1929, two years after his graduation from Harvard.

After service in Prague and Paris, Bohlen went to Moscow in 1934 for the first of several tours of duty in Russia.

He was in Tokyo as second secretary in December, 1941, when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor and was returned to the U. S. Early in 1942.

Except for a brief wartime tour in Moscow. Bohlen served out the war in the State Department, where he was used as an expert on Russia and for liaison with the White House. President Franklin D. Roosevelt took him to every wartime conference with the Russians, and that personal experience now stands the diplomat in good stead in his present job.

Laughing Juvenile Saves Mom Ticket

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) — A woman entered court with her 5-year-old son and a ticket for overparking.

"I'm not guilty — he is," she said, pointing to her son.

Then she explained she parked her car and told the boy to put coins in the parking meter when the time began running out. When she returned, the violation marker showed, and there was a ticket on the car.

She said her little son laughed, "Mommie got a ticket!"

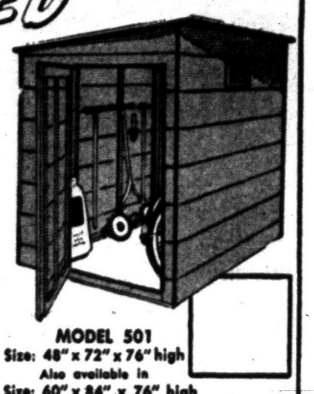

The case was dismissed.

Oh, Come Now!

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (INS) — Progressive report cards to match progressive education were issued recently to kindergarten students in Council Bluffs public schools. A sample section of the report card reads: "I like to sing." And the teacher grades the pupil either M (Most of the Time), S (Sometimes), or N (Not Yet).
