SAIGON (U) — Some observers in Saigon consider the tour of the Vietnam allies by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and Clark Clifford to be more important than the recent visit to Saigon by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Although Taylor denied it on his arrival in Saigon, a major purpose of the two presidential advisers is to put the squeeze for more troops on the government of South Vietnam, Thailand, South Korea, Australia, and New Zealand and the Philippines.

How many they get especially from the South Vietnamese, the Koreans and the Australians — will have considerable bearing on how many more American troops are sent to Vietnam.

McNamara on his visit two years ago spent little time with Vietnamese officials. Taylor and Clifford have scheduled several hours with Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and others.

The United States is pressing the South Vietnamese for greater war efforts, and Saturday Ky announced a $5,000-man increase in the armed forces and a reorganization of the military structure.

He said much emphasis would be put on the regional and popular force militia who are supposed to guard the rural areas and provide much of the security for the pacification program.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, indicated yesterday that the United States will increase its advisers with the militia. Sources here say the Philippines has been asked to provide advisers also for these forces.

Korean sources in Saigon indicate that Korean military leaders would like to increase its force in Vietnam. It is considered unlikely that President Johnson would have sent the two men around to the allies if he did not have advance indication that some of them are willing to increase their contribution.

In their meetings with Vietnamese officials, Taylor and Clifford also are expected to stress U.S. feelings that the upcoming presidential and legislative elections must go off without a hitch.

Rumors about the election include talk of military coups and political deals to nullify progress toward and elected government. Sources in the U.S. mission feel there is substance to some of the rumors.

Taylor and Clifford probably will stress the importance Johnson and the U.S. government place on the elections and how crucial it is that nobody tips the boat.

Congress Not Convinced Tax Hike Is Necessary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson has failed so far to convince Congress that a tax increase is absolutely essential.

A UPI poll of the 25-member House Ways & Means Committee and the 17-man Senate Finance Committee discloses that Johnson has not yet got the votes to win congressional passage of a tax boost.

A majority of members on each committee said they want to be convinced that a tax increase is necessary. Unless both committees are persuaded, passage of a tax bill is impossible.

Of the 15 Democrats on Ways & Means, only five who responded to the survey said — with qualifications — that they would vote for an increase if Johnson submitted a bill.

Of the 10 Republicans on the key House committee, eight demanded cuts in domestic spending before even considering whether a tax hike was necessary.

'HARD TO AVOID'

Rep. Joel T. Broyhill, R-N.Y., said, "I don't see how a tax increase can be avoided with a $20 billion deficit facing us."

But Rep. James B. Utt, R-Calif., said he was opposed to a tax increase and believed the administration could reduce spending to avoid one.

Only three members of the Finance Committee, Senators Albert Gore, D-Tenn., Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., and Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., said a tax hike was needed.

Of the other 14 who responded, 12 said they were either generally opposed, wanted more information from the administration, or had not made up their minds.

'ADJUSTMENTS' POSSIBLE

At a July 18 news conference, Johnson issued another call for a 6 per cent across-the-board surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes. But he added there may have to be "adjustments."

Only three members of the Finance Committee, Senators Albert Gore, D-Tenn., Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., and Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., said a tax hike was needed.

Pontiac Div. Tops 10-Day Sales Mark

Pontiac Motor Division reported today that its sales for the second 10 days in July were the highest for this period in the history of the division and it marked the fifth successive 10-day period Pontiac dealers have set a new record.

Thomas L. King, Pontiac's general sales manager, said that the sales of Pontiacs, Tempests and Firebirds totaled 25,422 for the July 11-20 period.

This compares to the 25,019 new cars sold last year which was the previous Pontiac record for the mid-July period.

Puerto Rico Vote Gives Support to Commonwealth

SAN JUAN, P.R. (U) — Supporters of commonwealth government in Puerto Rico today had the vote of confidence they wanted from island voters, but their next move wasn't clear.

In a victory statement Sunday night, former Gov. Luis Munoz Marin said there were no immediate plans to request any additional powers from the U.S. Congress.

Elated, Munoz hailed the outcome as proof that Puerto Ricans support commonwealth "as the only political form that is fully adapted to the needs of Puerto Rico."

Commonwealth received 425,081 votes, 60.5 per cent of the total; statehood received 273,315 votes, or 38.9 per cent, and independence received 4,205, six-tenths of 1 per cent.

Most independence groups boycotted the plebiscite.

Preelection forecasts had said commonwealth would need at least 60 per cent for a clear-cut victory.

Detroit Riot Toll Mounts

U. S. Troops Ordered In WASHINGTON (U) — President Johnson ordered federal troops to the Detroit area today and promised every needed assistance in handling the riot which has ravaged the city.

Johnson also drafted Cyrus R. Vance, former deputy secretary of defense, to fly to Detroit for conference to determine exactly what conditions are and what federal help is needed.

The troops are being flown to Selfridge Air Force Base, about 30 miles from Detroit. It will be up to Johnson to issue additional orders if they are actually to be sent into Detroit.

Meanwhile, the death toll mounted to five and the number of injured climbed near 1,000 today.

Property damage soared over $10 million.

Fires set yesterday ranged unchecked in many sections as rioting coursed crazily through an ill-defined area covering more than one-sixth of the city, the nation's fifth largest.

Gov. Romney retired to his home in Suburban Bloomfield Hills for a nap, after touring the city with Mayor Jerome Cavanagh and wiring his plea for help to President Johnson and U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

Elements of the 4th Army in Chicago and the 101st Airborne at Ft. Campbell, Ky., reportedly are standing by to move into Detroit.

They would join more than 7,000 state police, city police and National Guardsmen already on patrol in the smoke-shrouded streets.

Romney said experience had shown that the second night of racial rioting "usually was worse than the first."

The latest deaths were that of a Negro looter, shot down in a supermarket by a Negro guard, and that of an elderly Negro found burned to death in an alley on the city's East Side.

The later was the first death reported on the East Side, almost a dozen miles from where the rioting, looting and fire bombing erupted early yesterday and took its heaviest toll in property damage and injuries.

Of the five dead, only two were Negroes, the looter shot today, and the East Side fire death.

Melée Flares in Keego Harbor

A melee last night on Willow Beach Drive in Keego Harbor resulted in the hospitalization of one man and necessitated medical treatment for at least six others.

Joseph Yousif, 33, of Highland Park is reported in fair condition today in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

He was reportedly a guest at the home of Sam Namy, 1990 Willow Beach, along with several other persons who sought refuge from the Detroit riots. In all 20 people were reported at the Namy home.

The use of firecrackers and resulting name calling between the Namy residence and 11 people at the Donald Likens house, 1984 Willow Beach, resulted in a fight, according to Keego Harbor Police Chief James Sisk.

Cement blocks, golf clubs and at least one hatchet were used, police said.

Sisk said that Officer Frederick Sitz, sent to the scene at 11:03 p.m., found 31 people engaged in a free-for-all.

Officers from Bloomfield, West Bloomfield, and Waterford townships, Orchard Lake and Sylvan Lake and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department aided Keego Harbor police.

It took officers 20 minutes to quell the fight. Ambulances were called to take the injured to hospitals.

Sisk said he was still interviewing the people involved and that no arrests would be made until the investigation ly underlined the unique quality of Detroit's racial explosion — that it knows no bounds and is showering sparks of unrest over vast and not necessarily attached areas.

Most recent riots — like those in Newark, Harlem, Rochester, N. Y., and the Watts section of Los Angeles — were confined to Negro ghetto areas.

The call for federal help came after Romney and Cavanagh had braved sniper fire to tour the stricken area that stretches seven miles outward from the downtown area.

"The looting and arson continue," said the mayor, "and I am concerned about what seems to be a carnival atmosphere."

Movie houses, bars, liquor stores, service stations and many other businesses connected with leisure were ordered closed as rioting reached a peak last night.

Weather Outlook: Hot, Less Humid

A drop in the humidity it promised by the weatherman though daytime temperatures will remain in the 80s through tomorrow.

It will be fair tonight with lows falling in the 60 to 65 range.

Increased cloudiness and higher temperatures are predicted for Wednesday.

Low mercury reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 74. By 2 p.m. the thermometer stood at 87.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today, 20; tonight, 10; and tomorrow, 10.

U. S. Worried About Resale of Aid Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense and State departments are concerned that military equipment supplied to some U.S. allies is being resold as surplus hardware to nations engaged in arms races.

Townsend W. Hoopes, deputy assistant secretary of defense for international affairs, told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee his department is seeking ways to head off future arms transfer.

Jeffrey C. Kitchen, deputy assistant secretary of state for politico-military affairs, reported there will be 7,000 M47 and M54 tanks among the surplus arms in Europe by 1971.

"We are darned concerned about those tanks," he commented.

Kitchen said the anticipated surplus would result from accelerated arms sales to West Germany to offset U.S. expenses in maintaining military forces in Europe.

They testified last March, April and June at a series of hearings by the subcommittee on Near Eastern and South Asian affairs studying arms sales. A heavily censored transcript was released today.

But testimony of three principal witnesses remains classified and none of it appeared in the transcript. They are Lt. Gen. Joseph P. Carroll, director of the Defense Intelligence Agency; Lucius D. Battle, assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs; and Battle's deputy, William J. Handley.

Subcommittee Chairman A. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said in a statement accompanying the transcript that American arms had found their way into countries never intended to receive them and private firms were making extraordinary profits in the resale of U.S. arms.

Revisions in laws pertaining to this matter are urgently needed," he said.

The subcommittee witnesses also included Samuel Cummings, president of the International Armament Corp., Alexandria, Va., reportedly the world's largest private dealer in military arms.

Cummings testified that thousands of surplus tanks now in Europe will be available for resale throughout the world within the next few years.

The hearings are part of a closer congressional look at the whole issue of U.S. military aid to foreign nations.

Current policies have been criticized on the ground arms supplies have contributed to world tensions.

State Department officials, including Secretary Dean Rusk, have replied repeatedly that countries denied U.S. arms would turn to the Soviet Union, thereby increasing that country's influence in the areas involved.

To prevent surplus U.S. hardware from moving into the world market, Hoopes said, the Defense Department is thinking of offering a financial inducement "so there would be no incentive to sell it to Africa or Latin America, for example."

Two Pontiac police officers saved a teen-age girl from drowning early yesterday, according to a police department spokesman.

Capt. Harry Nye, patrol bureau commander, said Patrolman Dennis Metrykowski and Sgt. Thomas Herford responded to a call at Crystal Lake near the 200 block of Branch about 5 a.m.

Both men entered the water and Metrykowski submerged himself to pull Sandra Johnson, 17, daughter of Mrs. Fannie Johnson of 265 Branch, free from danger, according to Nye.

He said the girl received medical attention, but was not apparently seriously affected by the near-drowning.

Detriot Riots Halt State Army Drafts

LANSING (AP)—State Selective Service Director Col. Arthur A. Holmes today said all active service inductions for the entire state will be postponed for the balance of the week because of the tense racial situation in Detroit.

Holmes said he felt selective service should not send men in to Detroit from other areas of the state until he is positive the situation is well under control.

In addition, he said, it was feared that employees of the Detroit selective service headquarters would have difficulty in getting to work to process the men.

TO RIOT SCENE — The first group of National Guardsmen attached to the Pontiac Armory head for riot areas in Detroit. Twenty men under the command of Lt. Elmer Claycomb moved out about 9 p.m. yesterday. Each man was equipped with three clips of ammunition, according to Guard spokesmen.

Area Aiding in Riot Control

Military, law enforcement and fire-fighting personnel from the Pontiac area have been sent to lend emergency assistance in Detroit. More are expected to leave today.

Some elements of National Guardsmen attached to the Pontiac Armory at 40 Walnut left for Detroit at 8 p.m. yesterday.

As of 9 a.m. today, 101 troops from Company B of the 225th Infantry Airborne Division were in riot-stricken areas there.

An armory spokesman said a total of 102 officers and men under the command of Capt. Richard W. Anderson, will probably be called to Detroit.

Eight Oakland County Sheriff Department officers in two cars went in to assist Wayne County sheriff's men about 10 p.m. yesterday and returned at 5 a.m. today.

They provided traffic control on Telegraph Road entries to Detroit.

More men, equipped with short and long-range tear gas projectiles, are expected to go tonight.

Those at the scene last night were accompanied by 12 officers in four cars from the Waterford Township Police Department. They were dispatched along Eight Mile Road.

At this time, some 20 men from the Pontiac State Police post are in Detroit.

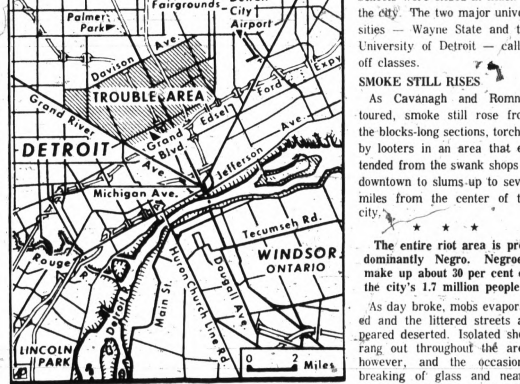

A State Police spokesman said more than 700 officers, or about half of the entire Michigan force, are assisting there.

He said all leaves and vacations for State Police personnel have been canceled.

Five men and a pumping engine from the Pontiac Fire Department were dispatched to the John R-Seven Mile Road area of Detroit at 3 a.m. today to assist in controlling blazes set by looters.

Assistant Chief Lee Nye said he had no word as to whether any of the men were being leaguered by rock and bottle-throwing rioters as was reportedly the case elsewhere in Detroit.

Relief for the men sent in this morning will be sent today, according to Nye.

RIOT AREA IN DETROIT—The northwest and west sides of Detroit (shaded area) were the hardest hit in the rioting yesterday and today. There have been several incidents of fire-bombing and looting reported in other sections of the city as well. Gov. Romney has ordered 7,000 Michigan National Guardsmen into the riot-torn city.

$4,500 in Items Stolen in City

Items valued at more than $4,500, including business machines, surgical supplies and drugs, were stolen from a Pontiac firm and a doctor's office in the same building, it was reported to city police Saturday.

Officers said the thief entered Advance Laboratories, 675 Orchard Lake, through a basement window.

A $700 microscope and an EKG machine were among the loot taken there, police said.

The doctor's office was then entered by smashing through a glass door, according to police.

A surgical instrument pack valued over $1,100, plus various medicines, were taken from there, police said.

Officers from the police identification bureau investigated at the scene for physical evidence, including fingerprints.

They beat and shot him to death, also shot his sister, Kathleen DeConick, 73, in the left eye, and took approximately $25,000 in cash, jewelry and checks.

Miss DeConick is recovering from her wounds and is being kept under guard.

The tunnel and bridge to Canada, however, which lies across the Detroit River from the city, were closed to traffic.

The three dead included a 23-year-old white woman shot by a sniper as she rode in an auto, a white man shot down by a merchant as he emerged from a store carrying loot, and a sniper killed by a Guardsman.

It was in the 12th Street area on the West Side about three miles from downtown Detroit that the riot apparently started early yesterday with a police raid, as a Negro after-hours drinking spot.

Parking Ban May Be Shelved

BIRMINGHAM — A plan to permanently ban parking on Maple in the central business district may be shelved by the City Commission tonight.

In a report to be submitted to the commission today, City Manager Robert S. Kenning recommends against the removal of parking along Maple at this time.

A study of a test ban, May 19-June 17, according to Kenning, reveals that the "ease of through traffic movement and the lessening of traffic congestion . . . does not offset the negative impact of the change."

"While it may be difficult to judge the long-range traffic changes resulting from the test," Kenning said, "the visual impact of the change was immediate."

"The center of the community became a moving automotive thoroughway and not a leisurely pedestrian-oriented shopping center," he added.

Parking has been removed from one side of Maple, but the action in this case was taken by the commission to allow construction on the ring road to proceed unimpeded.

This was done, only as a temporary measure and had nothing to do with an earlier plan to remove parking permanently.

Kenning suggested that the commission review the Maple parking problem after the ring road has been in operation for a year.

At that time, the city commission may consider further the thought of the urban designers for the removal of parking and the narrowing of the street to one lane each way through the center of town.

REDESIGNED

He said that under this plan the present two lanes now used for parking would be redesigned to a pedestrian street.

Kenning noted that the purpose of the ring road is to provide an alternate route which would facilitate traffic movement within the central business district.

Windsor-U. S. Border Closed

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Customs and immigration officials today ordered the border sealed between Windsor and Detroit for "an indefinite period."

More than 4,000 Windsor residents normally commute daily to Detroit to work. A smaller number of Detroit residents work here.

Many Windsor residents spent the night at the river front watching numerous fires across the river which colored the sky. Flashes and flames could be seen through the pall of smoke that hung over the city.

Closing of the border, for the first time since race riots erupted in Detroit in 1943, forced many U.S. residents to stay in Windsor motels and hotels. Only Detroit residents were allowed to return to their homes from Windsor during the curfew period, and they were warned: "Go straight home. Get off the streets as quickly as possible."

Canadians in Detroit were urged to return to Canada. But a number of who went to Detroit Sunday by bus were stranded for many hours near riot-hit sections of the downtown area.

Napoleon called England a "nation of shopkeepers" when he and Czar Alexander, of Russia, were trying to stop English trade with Europe.

PEKING TRIP

Delegates also were to hear Premier Lion Gheorge Maurer report on his apparently unsuccessful trip to Peking this month aimed at improving Red China's relations with the Soviet Union.

Without mentioning Romania by name, a mildly worded article Sunday in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, urged Warsaw Pact countries to treat the alliance "as a heavy enemy mortar and rocket barrage at the start of the four-hour engagement in the steaming jungle."

Cost of Living, Grievances Are Auto Contract Topics

DETROIT (AP) — Cost-of-living allowances and grievance procedures are expected to be major topics of discussion as negotiators for the auto industry this week begin making counterproposals to the United Auto Workers.

Although the industry has been mainly on the defensive during the first two weeks of negotiations, listening to such top union demands as guaranteed income and profit sharing, there are indications that a real battle may develop over some company proposals.

Negotiators are bargaining for contracts covering some 700,000 workers at General Motors and Chrysler to replace the three-year pacts that expire Sept. 6.

"Unrealistic, unreasonable, and unworkable," have been the terms most frequently used by industry bargainers to describe the union's demands.

FOLLOW SUIT

Ford will make its counterproposals Tuesday, with GM and Chrysler expected to follow suit later.

But the union is adamant about allowing no tampering with the "essential principles" of the cost-of-living hikes.

The companies say that much publicity has been given to recent wage settlements in other industries, which they say are merely catching up to wage levels provided auto workers through the cost-of-living program.

"We've paid 18 cents an hour already that we want credit for in the new contract," said Seaton.

"They want us to reach a settlement and then subtract 18 cents from it," replied Douglas Fraser, member-at-large of the UAW executive board and director of the union's Chrysler department.

HOURLY AVERAGE

The average hourly wage of an auto worker is $3.41, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Seaton said at the opening of contract talks that only about three million workers, about one third of them in the auto industry, out of some 70 million manufacturing and nonmanufacturing workers in the United States have cost-of-living allowances.

Will Teach Optics Course

OU Gets Top Scientist

One of the world's foremost space-age scientists is coming to Oakland University to teach a new graduate course in coherent optics.

The Michigan State University Board of Trustees has named Kieve M. Siegel of Ann Arbor as visiting professor for "Seminar in Coherent Optics."

John E. Gibson, dean of Oakland University's School of Engineering, said the creation of the new graduate course will put OU on "the threshold of an exciting frontier of science."

Siegel, formerly professor of electrical engineering at the University of Michigan and head of the U-M Radiation Laboratory, was the founder and former president of Conduction Corp.

He now heads KMS Industries, Inc., which he founded this year.

"Prof. Siegel is world-famous for his early work on radar scattering and electromagnetic propagation," Gibson said.

HEADS TEAM

Siegel is now heading a team of nine experts — all of whom will participate in the OU seminar — in pioneering new uses of coherent light such as is produced by laser action.

Such beams provide the possibility of extremely wide-band communication links for space applications, three-dimension-

Grant Given to Continue Cell Study

Oakland University has received a $40,000 grant to continue the trail-blazing research of a university professor and his wife to unlock the mystery of how cells live and die.

It was one of 12 grants totaling $289,550 recently given the university by various federal agencies.

The $40,000 grant from the National Science Foundation will support research for a two-year period under the direction of Herbert Schuel, assistant professor of biology, and his wife Regina, a research associate.

The Schuels have been seeking for two years to isolate particles of cells (lysosomes) which are capable of destroying the cell. They want to study the properties of lysosomes.

As a result of similar work, scientists have isolated cellular components, viruses (polio, influenza and possibly tumorigenic viruses) and other sub-microscopic entities in pure form and in quantities previously unobtainable.

VALUE OF STUDY

Scientists believe that studies of these substances can provide insights into the detailed structure and function of individual cells.

The potential benefits to medicine are very great. One possible application is the potential isolation from cancer tissue of viruses that may initiate and perpetuate human cancer.

Frankly, I feel universities all over the world will be interested in using the tapes of these lectures."

Health Center Contracts Let

Contracts totaling $666,566 have been awarded for construction of Oakland University's Student Health Center.

Work on the building will begin soon, and it is expected that it will be completed by March. The center will provide medical facilities for students and staff and will have 22 beds.

Contracts for the building near Matilda R. Wilson Hall were awarded to: Bundy Construction Co. of Pontiac, $338,880; Lava Plumbing and Heating Co., Detroit, $192,540 and Fred W. Moote Electrical, Pontiac, $55,991.

The project will be financed through borrowed funds which will be repaid from the university's student health fee of $5 per semester for full-time students.

Exterior of the one-story structure will be of brick and precast concrete.

FACILITIES

It will include offices for doctors and a medical director, living quarters for round-the-clock medical attendants and examination first aid, physical therapy, and six hospital care rooms, two isolation wards and two solariums overlooking the lake in front of Vandenberg Hall.

within 20 years higher education will rely heavily on such TV-taped lectures.

His KMS Industries does advanced work in coherent optics and is involved in the production of scientific games, investment advising and educational systems.

3 Appointed to OU Staff; 3 Promoted

Three new faculty members have been appointed at Oakland University and three "others" have been named as acting department chairmen.

The new appointments are: Patrick J. Johnson of St. Clair Shores to special instructor in education from administrative assistant to the dean of education at Wayne State University.

Harold Olsson of Los Angeles to instructor of sociology and anthropology from UCLA; David Hoover of Plymouth, N. H. to instructor of music from Plymouth State College.

Appointed acting chairmen of the three departments were Richard J. Burke of Rochester, philosophy; Roger H. Marz of Bloomfield Hills, political science; and Norman Susskind of Avon Township, modern languages and literature.

Compromise Is Reached on Tree Removal

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—A compromise plan has apparently satisfied most residents along Square Lake Road who were protesting the removal of a line of trees for a road project.

The area concerned is a line of homes on the south side of the road, parallel to I-75. About 135 old trees stand in the right-of-way desired by the Oakland County Road Commission.

The street is two-lane unpaved and full of chuckholes due to the severe spring and summer weather.

John A. Kaichen of 2674 Lamplighter, a lawyer and president of Concord Green Association, said an apparently satisfactory solution had been reached at a meeting attended by about 100 residents, township and road commission officials.

Kaichen said road officials gave an explanation of why the road had to be replaced along the line of trees. The county offered to replace the trees with new ones in a compromise move.

MOST WERE SATISFIED

"This offer seemed to satisfy most of those present," he said.

The protest to the plan was made by several home owners associations in the area and was joined by the Bloomfield Hills School District.

They originally proposed placing the road to the north.

The County Road Commission meets tomorrow and is expected to proceed with their plans, delayed two weeks by objections.

Novi Turns Down Zoning Request for Apartments

NOVI—The Village Council has refused rezoning for a 56-unit apartment complex near Willowbrook Subdivision on the north side of Ten Mile Road.

The Alger F. Quast Real Estate Co. of Detroit requested rezoning of 6.56 acres from residential to multiple dwelling. The council followed the recommendation of village planning consultant, Waldemar Johnson of the Waring and Johnson firm, Detroit.

Planned was a cooperative type of complex, where residents own their own apartment, said Alger Quast. His firm has owned the land for five years. Quast said he has no plans for the land now.

The council also approved rezoning of 30 acres from multiple dwelling to agricultural. The land is located on Pontiac Trail west of West Road. It is owned by Ralph Buffmyer who operates a golf driving range adjacent to the 30-acre parcel.

Republican Director for Avon Twp. Named

The appointment of Donald R. Hansen as Republican township director for Avon Township was announced today.

Hansen, 177 Nesbitt Lane, will coordinate and organize party activities in the township's precincts, according to county GOP Chairman Joseph R. Farrham.

Hansen, employed by Ford Tractor as sales coordinator, will work with 63rd Legislative District Director David Evans.

Hearing Tonight on Budget

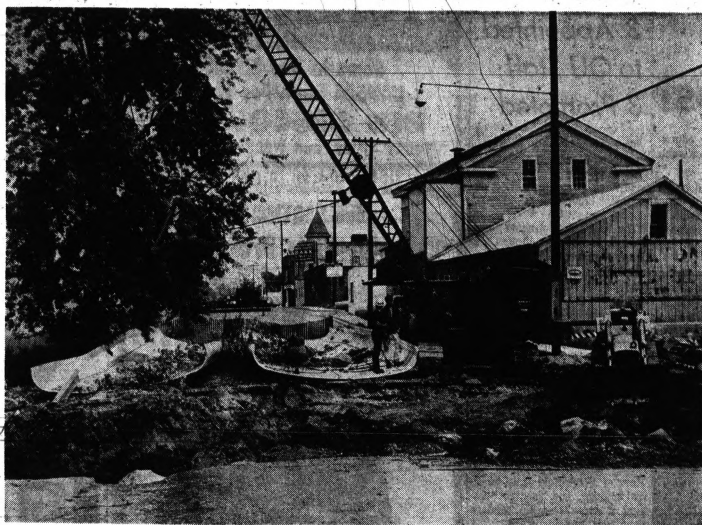

LAKE ORION—A public hearing on the village's 1967-68 budget, now set at $198,106, is scheduled during tonight's council meeting.

The meeting begins at 7:30 in the village offices.

Also up for consideration and approval is the contract with Bruno Leon and Associates of Detroit for preparation of a land use plan for the village, preparatory to its application for federal 701 planning funds.

The contract calls for the payment of $17,000 to the firm over a two-year period.

NEW BRIDGE FOR ORTONVILLE—Workers are replacing the small bridge over Kearsley Creek on Mill Street in Ortonville. The county is paying the cost of $27,363. The road is expected to be reopened by mid-August.

Rose Twp. Trailer Park Hassle Apparently Headed for Court Again

ROSE TOWNSHIP—The township's legal battle over establishment of a proposed mobile home park is apparently far from over.

Circuit Court Judge Arthur Moore ruled last week in favor of the township in a two-year-long litigation.

However, today, Tom Dillon, attorney for Mohave Plantations, said his client plans to ask for a rehearing and will possibly appeal the case.

The property is about 40 acres immediately south of the village of Holly. The area is zoned for industrial use and the lawsuits questioned use of the land as proposed.

Township residents voted twice in referendums on the issue, voting narrowly to keep the mobile homes out. The firm took the case to court and asked that the elections be set aside and that they should be allowed to proceed with construction.

WRIT DENIED

Dillon said Judge Moore denied the firm a writ of mandamus on the basis of "dead restrictions" on some of the land purchased for the mobile home site.

The restrictions were on construction of roads, the attorney said. Dillon questioned the ruling on the basis that denying road construction would make the property "land-locked" and not suitable for any sort of development.

Residents of the township objecting to the development are also involved in the lawsuit, represented by Jack Baldwin, a Birmingham lawyer.

The township is represented by its attorney Robert McKenney.

The mobile home site firm has claimed a constitutional question is involved in allegedly being deprived of use of their property by the township's zoning.

3-Day Paul Bunyan Festivity Starts Sunday in Union Lake

Even without the famed Babe the Blue Ox, Union Lake's 12th annual Paul Bunyan Days should be quite a whirling-dish. The event is set for July 30, 31 and Aug. 1.

A parade at 2 p.m. Sunday will begin the festivities. It will feature the River Rouge Drum and Bugle Corps, the Ravens, the Scotch Kilie Band, old-fashioned cars and commercial floats.

A fire department water battle and a boat parade are slated for the afternoon.

Monday will offer an all-day golf tournament, a pet parade, a water-front show and a fashion show.

A bike parade will run on Tuesday, Aug. 1.

In addition, game and refreshment concessions will be open from 3 to 10 p.m. during Paul Bunyan Days. Carnival, pony and helicopter rides are also included.

Organizations can make reservations for concession booths with either Art Marohn at the Family Shoe Store or Bud Holznaegle at Holznaegle-Paschke Flowers. Those interested in entering the boat parade can get entry blanks at Clark and Vis Pharmacy.

Chairmen of the affair are Elton Black, funeral home owner, and Mrs. Vincent Sebastian, assistant manager of Community National Bank in Union Lake. Burnell Fraser, owner of A-1 Tile and Carpet Co., is assisting them.

Paul Bunyan Days began with the celebration of the opening of the Community National Bank 12 years ago. The Indian insignia on the bank's facade influenced the naming of the event, said Mrs. Robert Fulton, publicity chairman for this year's affair. After the bank's opening, the village expanded with a post office and stores.

Instrumental in organizing the first affair were John Clark, drug store owner; Jim McKibben, hardware store owner; Marohn and Fraser.

Imlay Councilmen Invited to Hear Cityhood Report

IMLAY CITY—Village councilmen are invited to a planning commission meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday to hear professional planners tell of the steps necessary to achieve incorporation.

In other recent business the group heard a report on the current sidewalk repair program. Village Manager Harvey Weatherwax said 1,897 feet had been constructed in residential areas at a cost of $2,866. Another 800 feet of repair is due, he said, some of it in the business district.

The council has voted to purchase a new fire siren to be mounted atop the village's new fire hall. The old one at the other end of town will be abandoned, Weatherwax said.

Mayor pro-tem Keith Clark was named the town's delegate to the Michigan Municipal League state conference in September at Mackinac Island. Weatherwax was named an alternate.

Head of Brandon Twp. School Board Elected

BRANDON TOWNSHIP—Ronald H. Sutton has been elected president of the Brandon Township Board of Education.

Other officers elected were Leslie Wright Jr., vice president and Donald J. Carter, secretary. Raymond Harris was reelected as treasurer.

The board also awarded a citation from "a grateful school district" to previous board members Larry Wood, retiring president, and Dr. Paul F. Shoen.

Farmington Twp. Eyes Ordinance Regulating Rental of Motorcycles

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP—The Township Board may require the licensing and regulating of businesses renting motorcycles. The board will consider an ordinance related to this at its meeting tonight.

Although the township has only one motorcycle rental business now, Township Clerk Floyd A. Cairns said, "We just want to control this activity."

The board will also consider rezoning about 10 acres in the West Hill Woods Subdivision from residential to office and multiple dwelling. The land is on the east side of Orchard Lake Road from Fink north to Lee Lane. Several individuals own the land, Cairns said. The planning commission brought up the rezoning, said Cairns. It recommended approval of the rezoning last February at a public hearing.

Truck Sinks in Mud, Killing Evert Man, as Road Toll Hits 12

By The Associated Press

An Osceola County man who apparently suffocated when the cement mixer truck he was driving submerged in mud was among 14 fatalities in Michigan this weekend.

Twelve died in traffic accidents and two drowned. The Associated Press count started at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight last night.

Bruce Branson, 23, of Evert in Osceola County died Sunday in the cab of his cement mixer truck that sunk almost out of sight in mud.

Police said he apparently tried to steer the truck around a mud puddle on a gravel road near Sears in the county when its front wheels went off the road and he was unable to turn it back.

The truck, loaded with cement, submerged in mud, with only the top of the mixer showing, police said.

Police said it took a drilling rig, bulldozers and three A-frame wreckers to haul the truck out. Branson was dead in the cab, they said.

Other persons who died over the weekend are:

Edgar C. Mass, 53, of Armada, when the car he was riding in yesterday ran off Thirty-Two Mile Road and struck an abutment in Macomb County.

Dealus Wilkerson, 55, of Lawton when he was struck by a train at a railroad crossing in Lawton.

FATAL COLLISION

Robert C. Crissman, 32, of Kalamazoo, in a head-on collision with a car driven by Marie Hustafa, 18, of Kendall, on M40 about eight miles north of Paw Paw Saturday.

Rudolph Porter, 20, of Detroit, when he lost control of the motorcycle he was riding and struck a utility pole in Detroit near his home Saturday.

Judy Euwema, 2, of Marion, when she ran in front of a mobile feed grinder on a rural road near McBain, in Muskegon County Saturday.

Lloyd O'Dell, 30, of Manton, when he was thrown from the pick-up truck he was riding in as it ran off a Wexford County road and struck a tree near Manton Saturday.

WARREN MAN KILLED

Wayne Monroe, 25, of Warren, killed Saturday in a two-car crash on M37 in Metro Park, Macomb County.

Robert L. Wilson, 24, of 3536 Jackson, Highland and Robert A. Brown, 47, of 3455 Ormond, DeWittsburg, struck by a car Friday as they tried to run across heavily traveled I-75 in Genesee County.

Gary Lee Sanford, 22, of Jackson, thrown out of his car when it went out of control on a rural road near Clark Lake Saturday.

Tommy Lee Weaver, 26, Flint, killed Friday when the car in which he was riding ran off a road in Flint and hit a sewer pumping station.

DROWNINGS

Drowning victims: Wilfred C. Moulds, 20, of Munising, when he disappeared while trying to swim across Island Lake in Alger County yesterday.

Donald C. Reeves, 15, of Grand Rapids, Saturday night in Green Lake, near Moline, 15 miles south of Grand Rapids.

Garbage Pickup Rates Soar in Rochester Bids

ROCHESTER—The high cost of garbage and trash pickup—as reflected in bids 94 per cent higher than last year is expected to have some impact on the City Council meeting tonight.

Manager William Sinclair said that bids opened last week revealed Veterans Disposal Service of Avon Township, low bidder, to have increased the pickup rate from $1 to $1.94.

He said the price included pickup, transportation and disposal. Veterans runs its own land-fill operation, a necessity under state health laws.

The total village bill for the service per the new bids would be about $54,900 a year, Sinclair said.

The increasing cost of services was also reflected in paving bids for Alice and Griggs Streets. Sinclair said prices quoted were 25 per cent higher than budgeted.

He said some alterations in the costs would be attempted, but that the bids allowed for rising concrete prices.

W. Bloomfield to Air School Cost Analysis

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—The board of education will hear a budget analysis of the final architectural plans for the new Frank Doherty Elementary School at a special meeting tonight.

The board recently approved the plans for the school to be opened in September 1969. It will be located on Walnut Lake Road between Orchard Lake and Middle Belt roads.

Construction work bids will be received by the board Aug. 15. Asst. Supt. Harvey N. Sterns said.

Little Pig Is Family Pet

By JEAN SAILE

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP—Sally was never meant to be a pig. It could only have been a quirk of nature that gave her a long snout, a curly tail and a pink and black bristly skin.

She'd have been much more at home in dog hair.

Sally is a four-month-old house-broken lady-like pig who inhabits the farm of Wallace Chamberlin at 811 Letts.

She was identified as a Hampshire by 14-year-old John Chamberlin who scanned the encyclopedia to verify her heritage.

A gift to the farm from a man who had received the piglet as a comic present shortly after its birth, Sally does not let the young Yorkshire, farm piglets forget who's privileged.

STAIR CLIMBING

Peggy, aged 13, another of the seven Chamberlin children, told her brother, Chuckie, 8, started teaching it to climb stairs at an early age.

Sally soon recognized the convenience in being able to signal when she wanted to go outside, and once warm weather began she followed Chamberlin about his chores and even now, continues to follow along behind the tractor as he hays.

Victim of a sad experience, Sally bears the scar that took nine stitches to close when she fell down the coal chute at the house about a month ago. It's left a pleasing dimple on the part of her anatomy most commonly referred to as hams.

Reverting to pigdom only on the enticement of a mud puddle at the end of the road, Sally relishes chicken feed and sludge for her frequent snacks.

SCRUBBED FOR DEBUT

She enjoys a bath as given by Peggy who diligently scrubbed her for her debut with the camera.

The Chamberlin farm, some 350 acres, boasts steers, chickens, a horse, sheep and five dogs including three poodles.

The acreage, used to produce corn, wheat and oats, has been in the Chamberlin family for 125 years.

It's probably the first time it's produced an intelligent pig that comes on name, oinks for water and oinks when she wants into the barnyard.

Black Power Confab Seeks Race Separation

By AUSTIN SCOTT
NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Black power, for one year an unclear rallying cry shouted at civil rights rallies and scrawled on walls during riots, has taken on meaning distinctly opposed to present American society.

The first national conference on the once cloudy concept produced a string of resolutions Sunday that would, in effect, set up a black-oriented society distinctly antiwhite, anti-Christian and antidraft in tone.

With almost every faction of the Negro community represented at the start of the four-day meeting, it was clear at the final session Sunday that the militant separatists had won.

One enthusiastically supported resolution called for starting a national dialogue on the desirability of partitioning the United States into two separate nations, one white and one black.

PROPOSALS CHEERED

The nearly 1,000 delegates, many in Africa-derived clothes, cheered every proposal for black-oriented financial, educational, employment and law enforcement institutions, including paramilitary training for black youth.

Some termed it the start of "the black revolution."

A deep distrust of white society was evident as the delegates cheered through proposals to set up permanent contacts with African nations, independent, black-controlled political parties products of Negro artists and professionals more closely to "the needs of black people."

'WHITE MAN'S CREATION'

"The Negro is a white man's creation," one man shouted. "Black people do not wish to be absorbed into the white community. Our interests are in conflict."

"Black people have been psychologically handicapped because we have no national homeland. Our physical, cultural and moral standards are not those of white society."

Most of the dozens of resolutions put great stress on the troubled history of Negroes—the unwilling removal in chains from Africa, the systematic breaking up of Negro families by white slaveowners, the segregation that once sanctioned wholesale lynchings and still exists in schools, housing and jobs.

'CULTURE NOT ACCEPTED'

Many argued that the U.S. attitude toward Negroes over

Cassius Clay—is returned his heavyweight title.

• A boycott of "every black church and all religious institutions that do not join the black revolution." Christianity was termed "a white religion that has taken the diamonds and minerals of the world in exchange for the Bible—a bad deal."

• "A black militia to train black families in all aspects of self defense and racial survival," and a school for black political organizers.

• A "black university," a "black national holiday," a refusal to accept birth control programs and a national antidraft movement. "Our position is hell no, we won't go," shouted one workshop chairman.

The conference censured every congressman who voted to unseat Harlem's Adam Clayton Powell, then almost booted his son off the platform when young Powell tried to explain why his father had not kept his promise to show up at the conference. Powell is subject to arrest in New York on a criminal contempt charge.

"He's gone fishing," shouted one woman, referring to Powell's stay on the fishing island of Bimini. "He didn't do right. He should have come here when he was supposed to."

Proposals were adopted calling for a black power lobby in Washington, criticizing communications media, and urging a nationwide boycott of all products that sponsor television and radio boxing matches unless Clay gets his title back.

Nasser Calls on Arabs to Wage Guerrilla War

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser last night exhorted the Arab world to accept its defeat by Israel as a lesson from God and to wage a village-by-village holy war of liberation like the Vietnamese.

In his first public speech since he offered to resign June 9, Nasser again accused the United States of helping Israel during the six-day war last month. He said America gave Israel "the green light to attack and sent U.S. planes and volunteer pilots to help Israel during the fighting."

"God wanted this to be a lesson," Nasser said. "We accept His test as our fate and we are confident that He will be with us if we choose the path of Jihad (Holy war) and will grant us victory if we are determined to win victory."

Nasser hinted the Arabs might launch a Vietnam-type guerrilla war. "We read every day of the Vietnamese people and how they inflict losses on the Americans by using small arms—and we are not inferior in any war to the Vietnamese."

In Jerusalem, Israeli officials declined comment on Nasser's speech until they could study the full text.

Crash in California Helped Pass State's Implied Consent Bill

LANSING (AP) — Armando Scherber didn't vote for Michigan's new implied consent law, and probably wouldn't even be in favor of it.

But he had more to do with getting it passed than anybody else.

Traffic safety spokesmen have been trying for years to get the Michigan Legislature to pass such a measure — permitting chemical tests of suspected drunken drivers and permitting revocation of the operator's license of anyone who refuses to take one.

Attorneys in the Legislature have been thwarting them for years — voting implied consent bills bottled in the judiciary committees — because of their view that the principle is unconstitutional.

IN LOS ANGELES

Enter Armando Scherber. Scherber's automobile encountered a tree in Los Angeles one night in November 1964 after he and a companion had been drinking at a tavern and a bowling alley. Police arrested him at the hospital for driving under the influence and directed doctors to take a sample of his blood for chemical analysis.

Scherber's attorney advised him not to consent to withdrawal of his blood and he didn't. The blood was taken anyway; results of the chemical analysis were admitted as evidence against him at his municipal court trial, and Scherber was convicted.

Many indignant persons, convinced of traffic law violations, threaten to take their case to the highest court in the land. Few do. Scherber did.

And, despite the arguments that have been used against implied consent for years—that it violates the right to due process and protections against self-incrimination and unreasonable search and seizure—the U.S. Supreme Court upheld his conviction on June 20, 1966.

'EXTRAORDINARY' DECISION

It was a 5-4 decision which dissenting Justice Hugo Black termed "extraordinary," and it left opponents of implied consent with much less ammunition than they had had before.

Black noted the court has interpreted the self-incrimination clause of the U.S. Constitution's Fifth Amendment as meaning the state may not compel an accused person to hand over his papers to be used as evidence against him.

"It is a strange hierarchy of values," he said, "that allows the state to extract a human being's blood to convict him of a crime because of the blood's contents, but proscribes compelled production of his lifeless papers."

But Justice William J. Brennan Jr., writing for the court majority, said:

"We hold that the privilege protects an accused only from being compelled to testify against himself, or otherwise provide the state with evidence of a testimonial or communicative nature, and that the withdrawal of blood and use of the analysis in question in this case did not involve compulsion to these ends."

Although upholding the chemical test in Scherber's particular case, the high court went out of its way to point-out that it might react differently to different circumstances.

According to legend, the distance of one yard was established by Henry I as the length between his nose and the end of his fingers when his arm was outstretched.

Girl Has Three Choices

Should Leave Uneasy Position

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I baby-sit for this couple who have two small children. The wife works a night shift. She always asks me what time her husband comes home. Sometimes he stays out very late, and barely beats her home, but he tells me to tell his wife that he will be home early if she asks.

I hate to lie, but I hate to get the husband in trouble, so what should I do, ABBY?

QUESTIONED

DEAR QUESTIONED: As I see it you have three choices:

- Tell the husband you are through lying for him. (Prepare to be fired.)
- Tell the wife if she wants to know what time her husband comes home, to ask HIM. (Prepare to be fired.)
- Simply matters, and quit sitting for these people. (P.S. I recommend the last.)

DEAR ABBY: Last night my husband accused me of every dirty thing in the book again, and Abby, he has no reason to even suspect me.

HE is the one who runs around. Then he tells me he can do anything he wants to do, go anywhere he pleases, but if he catches me making one wrong move, he will throw me out.

The only place I ever go without him is to the store, and then I walk as I have no car.

I was 15 and he was 19 when we were married. He was my first and only sweetheart and he knows it. We have three beautiful children. I am so nervous and upset from all his false accusations I am going bald at 22. What can I do, Abby? My religion doesn't permit divorce.

He beat me up last year and the court made him go to a psychiatrist. He went four times and then he said the doctor told him he didn't have to come back any more as he was in better shape than most people who are walking around. Please help me.

NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR WRECK: Don't accept the word of a man who is obviously still disturbed. As his wife you have the right to know exactly what the psychiatrist told him, so inquire directly of the doctor.

If you are a "nervous wreck and going bald at 22" you should get help from a doctor on how to cope with a sick husband. Or talk to your priest or a lawyer about arranging to live apart.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law's husband passed away a year ago. They would have had their 25th wedding anniversary June 5. I got a call from her sister telling me that Joan (not her real name) was going to celebrate her silver wedding anniversary. I said, "How can that be? Joan's husband is dead."

She told me that Joan had pitched in on everybody else's 25th wedding anniversary gifts, so why should she be kipped?

I didn't want to get into an argument with her so I gave her the five dollars. (A few of the others didn't.) Abby, am I dumb or behind the times or what? Is it really proper to take up a collection for a woman's anniversary gift when there's no husband?

BEHIND THE TIMES

DEAR BEHIND: An anniversary gift was out of order because there was no anniversary to celebrate. A thoughtful gesture under the circumstances would have been to invite the widow out for dinner and the evening to be sure she wasn't home alone, brooding.

DEAR ABBY: I am a normal 17-year-old girl with very strict parents. The only time I get away from home is to spend the week-end with my girlfriend, and then I run with a pretty wild crowd. I've never been thrown in jail or anything like that, but most of my friends have, and I know a person is judged by the company she keeps.

I finally got a date with a decent boy for a change and I acted as nice as I knew how. All he got from me was a goodnight kiss. After two dates he stopped calling me. He must have heard about my reputation and it scared him off.

Abby, how can I let him know I'm really not that bad, and have a bad reputation only because of my friends? I like him very much and wonder if you can help me get him back?

BAD NAME

DEAR BAD NAME: Unfortunately a reputation can be damaged overnight, but it can't be repaired that fast. You earned it, so now you had better set about living it down and building up a "new one."

Only by consistent good behavior, and staying strictly away from "bad" company, can you prove to people that you aren't the kind of girl they thought you were.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very nice electric clock. It's a small one in an attractive wooden case and I keep it on a drum top table in the living room, but my wife says that according to Emily Post, it is not permissible to put a clock in the living room.

I enjoy it for my own pleasure, and it's handy so I don't have to go elsewhere for the time. I am 78 and my wife is 74. May I have your opinion? I think you.

DEAR F. A. W.: A clock belongs where it affords the most convenience. Leave it in the living room and tell your wife that Abby says it's all right.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, right, mother of the late President John F. Kennedy, is embraced by her granddaughter Kathleen Kennedy, 16, daughter of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.), as they celebrated Mrs. Kennedy's 72nd birthday in Hyannis Port, Mass., Saturday. Kathleen is her oldest granddaughter.

WOMEN'S SECTION

She's Not Wrong to Mention This Upcoming Event

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently my boy friend in the service asked me to become engaged. He then called his parents and informed them of his intentions. The next time I spoke to his mother on the phone, I mentioned the engagement since we both knew.

I was informed by my boy friend that this was a breach of etiquette and definitely the wrong thing to do. Was it? — Confused.

Dear Confused: Technically it was up to your boy friend's mother to speak first and tell you how happy she was. However, it would seem very peculiar if you talked with her, each of you knowing the other knew of the engagement, and neither of you referred to it.

Since she didn't, it was perfectly natural for you in your enthusiasm to speak of it first. It may not have been "according to Hoyle," but it was certainly not wrong, or up poor taste.

If your boy friend gets upset over trivial things like that, maybe you had better think twice before the wedding.

FRANKFURTERS

Dear Mrs. Post: When frankfurters are served very informally in those small paper holders, should one carry the entire package to the mouth, or the frankfurter and its roll alone? — Barbara P.

Dear Barbara: The paper or cardboard holders are made to protect your fingers from grease, mustard, etc. Use them, sliding the hotdog out a bit at a time until you are near the end and in danger of eating the paper, too, and then discard them for the last mouthful or two.

Mrs. Strayer, in her role as homemaker, provides the care and attention these children need during mother's absence. At the same time, she's relieving the mother's anxiety about the children during a period of hospitalization.

Volunteer Acts as Extra Mother

By JUNE ELERT

What is "Homemaker Service?" Homemaker Service of Metropolitan Detroit is a "home help" service that is available to residents of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

It serves families in which hospitalization, illness, death or desertion of the mother or other responsible adult causes a breakdown in the pattern of normal living.

The agency will send a homemaker to fill the role of substitute mother. The homemaker is chosen on the basis of personality, physical and mental well-being, kindness, and good humor.

She has been through a four-week course of training designed to equip her with knowledge of nutrition, child care, and understanding of emotional problems. She is a staff member of Homemaker Service of Metropolitan Detroit and is carefully supervised by a social worker.

She is a member of a team serving many different kinds of people in various problem situations.

As substitute mother, she will provide the warmth, security and support children need during a crisis period.

She will keep the household routine going by doing light housekeeping. She dusts, mops, makes beds, washes dishes, does light laundry, ironing, shopping, cooking and provides personal care that is of a non-nursing character.

Hers is an emergency service, the length of which is determined by an evaluation of the extent and probable duration of the crisis. Service can be given for from one day to six or possibly eight weeks. Homemakers are dayworkers, usually arriving at 7:30 a.m. and remaining in the home until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

This service is also available to the aged, ill, or disabled, who need competent temporary help to allow them to remain in their homes, and to mothers who need temporary relief from the care of a retarded or disturbed child.

The cost of this service varies according to the ability to pay. Service is given on the basis of need and will not be denied to those who cannot pay a fee. Determination of the fee is based on family income and expenses. The maximum rate charged is $2 per hour.

Homemakers are not available to families where both parents are employed. This is not a baby-sitting service per se. Service is not available to mothers during normal pregnancies, nor in situations where nursing care is required.

A branch office of the agency, serving the people of Pontiac and surrounding area, was established last spring. It occupies office space in the Catholic Social Services Building on Franklin Boulevard. It is partially supported by the Pontiac Area Home United Fund.

Application for service can be made in person or by telephone during office hours, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Requests can be made by anyone familiar with the family or individual needs, such as a relative, friend, doctor, teacher, nurse or social service agency.

New Uses for Ribbon

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for Gladys who wants to know what she can make from the wide ribbons bows on florists' bouquets. I make padded coat hangers by first winding strips of muslin around a wood hanger to pad it.

Then fold the ribbon in half and stitch together with a long stitch. Pull the stitching up to make gathers and slip on the hanger. Use pinking shear to cut a narrow strip of ribbon to make a bow to tie at the top. I have a "rainbow" of hangers in my closet. — PHEBE

DEAR POLLY — I have kept house for 19 years and am fussy about both my house and my own appearance. I have my hair set every week or so and am able to keep it in good shape with the aid of hair spray AND a knitting needle.

I wear it teased and sleeping flattens it but I find a knitting needle works wonders to pick up the hair from underneath. Also it is ideal for scratching without disturbing the hair as a rattail comb does. — MRS. L. C.

DEAR POLLY — I do hope one of the readers can tell me how to dye a 9x15-foot cotton rug. I have heard of using a well-known dye and a stiff broom to apply it but do not know the exact amount of dye or water to use for this size rug. — MRS. H. B. A.

By BETTY CANARY

I am wondering if the image of the "corporation wife" is changing. I know when Bob was hired by his company, they didn't interview me or ask if I played bridge or anything. They just inquired about his education and experience and qualifications.

They don't ask me to conventions either, so I thought all this stuff was either fiction or passed.

Then, when I was in New York, I met a young wife who was attending a convention with her husband. I was browsing around in Brentano's book store when I heard a gasp and saw this girl plunge her head inside a book shelf.

IT'S A SECRET

Naturally, I asked, "Are you all right?" and she whimpered, "Don't tell, you saw me here! Please don't tell!"

It was a case of mistaken identity. She thought she had met me at her convention. After she was somewhat calmed, I took her out for a cup of tea and she told me the whole sordid story.

"My husband Hank doesn't care—that I read, I mean," she sobbed. "It's our secret."

"I'll bet you're supposed to be playing bridge right now, aren't you?"

She brightened. "But I lied," she said, and a crafty gleam came into her eye. "I said I had to have lunch with a client's wife." I said, "I'm lunching with Laura Walker — Skidmore, you know."

I said I thought that was pretty good for her first convention and all, but she was glum again.

"I made a terrible mistake last night. The boss ordered first and then I asked for the same thing. Only I pronounced it correctly."

"I really try to be an asset and help Hank! He's with Dainty Do Soap, you see, and even though I can't use it, because of the ugly rash I get, pour quarts down the drain and set the bottles around."

"Does the company have many set policies?" I asked.

"No more than most, I guess," she confided. "I have entered our 14-months-old son at Princeton, and mother was sweet enough to sell her diamonds so we could join the right club."

And, if Hank doesn't get promoted TOO soon we can stay in this house long enough to furnish it.

"I love our house," she said wistfully. "Hank built a false-fronted bookcase for me and I keep all my books hidden behind his golf and bowling trophies."

Wednesday Luncheon Set

The countryside Improvement Association of West Bloomfield Township will attend a Wednesday meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert E. Harvie of Pine Lake.

Assisting Mrs. Harvie at the noon luncheon meeting will be Mesdames: A. R. Booth, Howard Hobart, Russell H. Meyer and Ray Ridge.

Mrs. William Evans, secretary of the West Bloomfield Planning Commission will speak on "Future Planning of West Bloomfield and Oakland County."

Scaffold Safe

The safest and most convenient way to paint a house is from a scaffold. This will enable you to paint across the entire side of the building as you work downward.

This two-piece knit ensemble is the total tattersall look from the new James Kenrob collection of Dalton. Its chic informality is part of the new spirit. The perfect, red, white and blue look.

Jaycee Picnic Planned

The Waterford Jaycee Auxiliary met recently to discuss plans for the annual Jaycee Family Picnic in August. Mrs. Duane LaVean will serve as chairman of committee in charge.

The group assisted the Jaycees Saturday with the State Junior Champ Track and Field Meet. Mrs. Richard Schwab was chairman of the committee serving luncheon to the 300 boys participating.

STORY TELLERS

Several members of the group have been serving as story tellers at the Summer Story Hour in the Waterford Library. Mrs. Bruce Sias announced that the women will continue through Aug. 8. Some 25 members and guests will attend "Thoroughly Modern Millie" later next month. Mrs. Richard Copeland is in charge of arrangements for this.

Hostess for the recent meeting was Mrs. Timothy Patterson of Lakeside Street, assisted by Mrs. Larry Ettinger.

Guests were Mrs. Dave Connelly, Mrs. Arthur Lane and Mrs. Robert Newman.

Mrs. James Curd was chosen chairman of the committee to update the Waterford Community club list.

MRS. L. D. SANFORD

Mrs. Sanford Wears Lace for Ceremony

An A-line gown of white organza accented with lace was chosen by Sheena Marlene Munger for her marriage Friday evening to Larry Daniel Sanford in Mandon Lake Community Church.

Long sleeves of lace matched appliques on her circular chapel train. A pearl-studded head-piece held her fingertip bouffant veil of illusion.

Her flowers were a cascade of white carnations with a single white orchid.

Parents of the bridal couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Munger of Highland Road, White Lake Township, and the Lloyd Sandfords of Second Street.

Honor attendants were Carol Hinds and Eric Sturdy. Bridesmaids were Terry Miller and Deborah Fokler.

On the esquire side, Lee Chapa and Gary Sanford served as groomsmen with Thomas Munger, Keith and Larry Ivory as ushers.

Ruth Ann Ivory and Jeffrey Sanford were flower girl and ring bearer.

Fabric Design Head Chosen at Cranbrook

Mrs. Meda Parker Johnston has been named acting head of the Fabric Design department at Cranbrook Academy of Art, it was announced by Academy President Glen Paulsen.

Mrs. Johnston will succeed Glen Kaufman who has gone to the University of Georgia as an Associate Professor of Art. Kaufman had headed the department since 1961 when he succeeded Marianne Strengell.

For the past two years Mrs. Johnston, who holds M.F.A. degrees in textile design from the College of Arts & Crafts, Oakland, Cal., and from Cranbrook, has been a part-time instructor at Cranbrook in Fabric Decoration.

Other teaching positions held by Mrs. Johnston have been weaving instructor at the College of Arts & Crafts; assistant professor in weaving and design, Midwestern University, Wichita Falls, Tex.; as assistant professor in weaving and design, Texas Technological College, Lubbock, Tex.

She has also worked as a designer for the Nieto Co., San Miguel, Allende, Mexico.

In collaboration with Kaufman, Mrs. Johnston has recently published a new textile textbook, "Design on Fabric", Reinhold Publishing Co.

Walter Nottingham, a second year Academy student who taught at the University of Wisconsin last year, will be her graduate assistant.

Arthur Rouses Are Wed in Saturday Evening Rite

MRS. ARTHUR D. ROUSE

Something Fishy

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. (AP)—Police were called at 2:46 a.m. one day recently by a frightened housewife who reported hearing noises in her basement while she was alone.

Patrolman rushed to the scene and found a man in the basement.

It was the woman's husband, who had returned from a fishing trip and was cleaning his catch before putting them in the refrigerator.

Wed Saturday evening in St. Stephen's, Episcopal Church, Troy, were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur David Rouse (nee Jill Elaine Tasker).

The bride wore a gown of ivory organza with chapel train and caplet sleeves. Peau d'ange lace trimmed the bodice, sleeves and A-line skirt. A pill box applied with motifs of peau d'ange held her illusion veil.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Tasker of Troy carried a cascade of white roses.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Mildred Di Sessa of Miami, Fla., and Harold Rouse of James K Boulevard.

ATTENDANTS

Honor attendant for her sister was Mrs. Garry Schwartz. Bridesmaids were Linda Mitchell, Sandra Voelke, and Phyllis Grisham.

Larry Rouse, the bridegroom's brother, was best man; Ushers were Thomas Chapman, Robert Kinderman, and the bride's brother, Jonathan.

Linda Maline Takes Vows

Saturday rites at St. Luke's Methodist Church united Linda Blanche Maline and Kenneth Merrill Rock.

Gowned in silk peau de soie trimmed with Alencon lace, the bride carried pink and white carnations with white rose buds.

PEARL TIARA

A pearl tiara held her shoulder length veil of silk illusion. Donna Maline was her sister's maid of honor. Pamela Knapp, the bride's cousin, was bridesmaid.

Herbert Harroun performed best man duties for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Rock of Myra Street.

Ushers were Terry Maline and William Bollen. Following a reception in the church fellowship hall, the couple left for a honeymoon.

Vinyl Is 'Pop' in Accessories

Neckties, ascots, wide suspenders, caps, scarves, hair bows, and hip belts are among new vinyl accessories that can be worn under water as well as on land.

These mix-matchable swinging teen fashions come in bold checkerboards, bright florals, and pop art patterns. They stand up well to rugged, just-for-fun wear—but need to be washed often in soap and detergent suds, then rinsed and wiped off or drip-dried.

Taking a tip from the experts, a homemaker wears a pair of new Hagerty Silver-Smiths' Gloves to give her display silver professional-type care. First she dusts each piece with the darker side, which is impregnated with a special tarnish-preventative chemical. Then, using the lighter side, she'll remove excess tarnish preventative, polish the piece to a gleaming lustre, and replace it without danger of fingerprints. Regular use of gloves prolongs antitarnish protection, makes tedious cleaning and polishing unnecessary. Packaged in a plastic storage bag with zip closure, the new gloves by W. J. Hagerty & Sons, Ltd., Inc., South Bend, Ind., are priced at $1.40 per pair in jewelry and hardware stores and silver and housewares sections of department stores. Available in area.

'Desert Rock' Unites Mexico Group of Arabs, Jews

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A group of determined young men, billing themselves as "the world's only Arab-Israeli alliance," have set out on a task that baffles the world's statesmen.

Armed only with the strange, keening music of the desert, they want to bring together the Arabs and Israelis.

In the process they've come up with a new sound in music that can only be called "desert rock," blending the rhythms of East and West, the minaret with the discotheque.

"With all the blood and killing between Arab and Jew, I think we have something beautiful going here," says Kareem Isaac, 35, a towering Palestinian Arab and lead singer in the group.

"Here in Mexico, we call our trio 'The Cousins,' because the Arab and Jew are cousins," said

Eliezer Adoram, 36, a kibbutz-raised Israeli. Back in the United States, there are two more members of the group, and to have the whole band play together it is under the name of "The Peace-makers."

The third member of the trio here is Michael Mohel of Brooklyn, N.Y., whose father is a Turkish Jew, and mother a Moslem Arab.

Playing in a Mexico City night club, they attracted large crowds from the city's sizable Jewish and Arab colonies.

"During the height of the crisis, we could feel the tension between the two groups when we came onstage," said Isaac. "Getting everybody to relax together is the biggest challenge we've ever faced."

"MUSIC DOES IT" But the music does. Many tunes have been popular and everyone knows them. First, we'd get the Arabs to sing along on 'navah-Nagilah' — no, really, I mean it.

"Then we'd get the Jews singing an Arab tune. After they'd all be singing along together and forget the war. We have our own little Switzerland here, neutral territory, every night."

"There must be peace between our peoples," said Adoram. "They are so closely related, and peace is inevitable. The music shows just how close together we are."

The group met in New York at the Cafe, Feenon, which specializes in Middle Eastern music.

STUDIED ACTING Both Isaac and Adoram came to New York to study acting. Isaac had a role in the movie "Exodus" as an Arab shiek.

Isaac, who looks like a hawksworn Vincent Price, is a third generation Palestine Arab, whose father was a health department physician in Haifa during the bitter days of the British mandate following World War II.

Adoram is a native-born "Sabra" Israeli. His father fought with the Jewish underground "Haganah," and founded a construction company in Tel Aviv. Adoram was raised on the kibbutz Tel Yuse near the Sea of Galilee.

Their music is a strange, pounding blend of East and West.

"Most of our numbers are genuine, faithful to the music of our backgrounds," said Isaac. "For these, we use only Middle Eastern instruments. I handle the Israeli numbers, and we do Turkish and Greek stuff too. Arabic music is made that was about to close. The use of half-tones, with no chords announcement was made by Ed or keys, so the others just have to keep experimenting until they Bay, 1967 area Michigan Week figure out how to back me."

Why Does Hollywood Ignore Viet? Reasons Abound

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why have Hollywood movie makers virtually ignored the Vietnam war?

For Sale by Army: One Used Chapel

MORGANFIELD, Ky. (AP) — Want to buy a used U.S. Army chapel?

There's one for sale which includes six buildings at Camp Breckinridge near here, and the Chicago regional office of General Services Administration is looking for bidders.

The GSA specifies the buildings must be used as shrines, memorial or denominational places of worship.

ers: "Bataan," "Corregidor," "Guadalcanal Diary," "Action in the North Atlantic," "Destination Tokyo," etc.

Many were tributes to flying heroes: "Air Force," "30 Seconds Over Tokyo," "Flying Fortress," "Dive Bomber," "God Is My Copilot," etc.

Korea brought "Steel Helmet," and producers' files list even such World War I titles as "War Brides" and "War and the Woman."

ALMOST NOTHING Americans have been dying in Vietnam for eight years, but so there has been almost nothing from the movie studios on their heroism. The studios won't officially say why, but industry insiders have their opinions:

"Vietnam is well covered by television. Why spend four or five million dollars to make a movie when TV coverage is more real than you could make a movie?"

"It's not box office, not that popular war. John Wayne is going to make 'The Green Berets,' and there are predictions it will be picked by the anti-Vietnam people."

"The majority of audiences are under 35, and they don't like the war. Nobody is going to produce an unpalatable subject."

"TOO BLOODY" "Vietnam is too bloody close to home. Almost everybody has somebody in the war. World War II was different; everybody was at a patriotic fervor. Now there's too much looking askance, too much opinion against Vietnam."

Marshall Thompson, star of television's "Daktari" series, wrote, directed and starred in "A Yank in Vietnam," a story of a Marine helicopter pilot shot down and trying to escape.

Filed in Vietnam in 1962, it was released in 1964. The dis-tributor's office says box-office gross as of last month totaled a tiny $128,751.

There are few stirrings in production circles, however, to the Vietnam theme.

PRELIMINARY APPROVAL Producer Carl Krueger—"Comanche," "Sabre Jet"—said in Washington he had preliminary Air Force approval to film a screenplay of his book, "Wings of the Tiger."

"We're going to make this the biggest air spectacle ever put-on the screen and tell the real story of what's going on in Vietnam," he declared.

In Washington awaiting Department of Defense approval is a United Pictures Corp. script, "Nowhere Is a Nice Place to Visit," about a cowboy star's U.S.O. trip to Vietnam.

Most prestigious of the plans is John Wayne's filming of "The Green Berets," based on Robin Moore's best seller about the Army's Special Forces in Vietnam.

Wayne, veteran of such war movies as "They Were Expendable," and "Sands of Iwo Jima," will star and codirect. Filming is scheduled to start Aug. 9 on Vietnam-like terrain at Ft. Benning, Ga.

"The whole film will be made there," said Wayne's son, Michael, producer of the picture. "We looked all over the Far East—Thailand, Japan—and the closest of anything to Vietnam was Ft. Benning. It's so close it's eerie. We're building a large set, a Special Forces outpost."

"My father went to Vietnam a year and a half ago to visit the front-line camps. He was really impressed by the men and their mission and thought these would make wonderful motion picture material."

"I think other people in Hollywood are sitting back and waiting to see how our picture does." An executive of a major studio remarked: "If this one goes over, there'll probably be a deluge."

... TO LEAVE A CAR in today's hem lengths, and emerge with your propriety intact. San Franciscan Joyce Christensen shows how it's done, in four simple moves.

Says Computer-Age Pioneer

The Route to Success 'Is Simple'

By SHERMAN CHICKERING

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — John Diebold is very good at explaining things. He'll tell you, for example, the method by which the bright college student can become a millionaire in the computer age.

Simple, he says: Know your options and know what's relevant. Also try hard.

Since Diebold practically invented the computer age (he coined the word "automation") and has been a millionaire for some years now, his advice should be heeded.

"Computers are remaking the business environment," he says. "They are removing the constraints on business structures, making decentralization, for example, unnecessary."

"The future executive will be able to talk to a computer and it will feed back information on the total enterprise. A nearly infinite number of options will be at your fingertips. The information will be there. The question is: 'What do you want to do with it?'"

ROAD TO WEALTH

Diebold, 38, knows what to do with it. How does a student go about making his first million in the automated future?

First, a good liberal arts background, including a healthy injection of math, is needed. Don't bother with undergraduate business courses, Diebold advises. Consider whether you are a businessman or a managerial prospect. Test yourself; try running your own campus enterprise and then try managing a going concern.

Once you've decided which you like to do more, you are ready to go management or go business.

If you go management, you probably head for business or public administration graduate school. The training is not, however, essential. (Diebold admits he scarcely knows how many degrees his men have and notices only when he's sending out a recommendation letter for someone.)

BUSINESS SCHOOLS

Besides business schools aren't exactly in line with the computer age. "Business schools will teach you how to make decisions on too little information," said Diebold.

The student entering business will probably go on one of three routes: 1) start as an assistant to a top executive; 2) start with a small company, rise rapidly, and leap-frog to a top position with a large concern, or 3) start his own company.

"Business" means the hard-nosed entrepreneurial way. Don't go near it," says Diebold, "if you don't like the heat in the kitchen or on the production line."

After choosing the route, you must choose your company. Don't look for starting salary. Says Diebold: "I took the lowest starting salary of all my Harvard Business School classmates" — $300 a month. With that came a future. The boss looked him over and gave him a launching pad. Later, Diebold absorbed the boss' firm into his own group.

LOOK OVER COMPANIES

Be aggressive in looking over companies. Visit brokerage houses and get their readings. Be tough with recruiters. Read a lot, especially biographies of contemporary businessmen. And don't overlook sick companies. A bad balance sheet can indicate an opportunity. If you catch those companies at the right moment, you could help turn the tide and end up riding the crest.

Most important is to stay on top of the relevant information and to use it properly. That's what automation is all about, says Mr. Automation.

Staying on top means, first, reading everything you can get your hands on. Diebold reads three newspapers, two news magazines, and all the general business magazines, including the London Economist. He even considers the women's magazines important; one never knows when he'll spot something relevant.

But the press isn't enough. In fact, if you read about a development in the press, it's too late, really. You've got to develop your own intelligence network so you find out things ahead of time. Check for the real meaning of events. Was that promotion really a failure? Did an announcement of success really signify a failure? A young man must have the desire to get behind the news. If he doesn't, says Diebold, he's lost.

INTELLIGENCE NETWORK

"Intelligence network" is part of the language of the computer man. The young executive will teach you how to make decisions on too little information," said Diebold.

Soon the machinery will enable the executive to know anything he wants — instantly. The premium will then be on asking the right questions. You've got to learn to ask questions which is what you do when you put together an intelligence network.

If you get the hang of it, you'll have a head start. By and large, management today is not asking the right questions. In a Harvard Business Review article, Diebold lashes out at conventional managers for "overemphasis on hardware and underemphasis on the design of comprehensive systems."

More fundamentally, he writes, the contemporary corporate structure has gotten in mental responsibilities and vision needed by the executive who asks the right questions.

CONCEPT OF CHANGE

Diebold's favorite weapon is the word "change." "Technology means to business not only a change in how you do things but a change in what you do, a change in goals as well as in the route you take to reach goals," he says.

EXECUTIVE PERSONALITY

So if you want to be an executive of the future and make your million, you've got to ask fundamental questions about organizational goals. You must be a broadly educated man, free of overspecialization, and continually learning. You must have an intimate knowledge of what people want, for "It is the human desires that shape the opportunities which spawn enterprise."

The atmosphere of the tropics seems to scientists presently observing the area to be the source that may influence the world's weather.

Computer's Man of the Future: Huge Brain, Scrawny

CAIRO (AP)—A huge jawless head carried by a slim emaciated body could be the shape of man by the year 2500 if the findings of an Egyptian scientist and the conclusions of an American electronic computer prove correct.

The scientist, Dr. Mohamed Samir Loutfi from Alexandria University, says that in less than six centuries man's brain will have enormously developed in size, his problems will be entirely different from the ones he experiences today and his only food would be pills.

Dr. Loutfi has been working for the last three years on a research program aimed at defining the shape of man in the future.

The program—which so far has cost $100,000—is jointly sponsored by Alexandria University and the University of Michigan.

Early in 1964, Dr. Loutfi and a group of scientists sailed the Nile southward heading for a desert region close to the Sudanese-Egyptian border.

ANCIENT CEMETERIES

"They said they chose this area because previous reports indicated the existence of ancient cemeteries in its sandhills.

A survey led to the discovery of several cemeteries from which the scientists were able to unearth the remains of people dead since some 2,000 years B.C.

In all, they said they excavated 10,000 skulls to cover the various periods until the present.

The skulls were cleaned and classified before the scientists chose 3,000 of them for examination in the laboratory aboard their ship.

COSMIC RAYS USED

"We used, most likely for the first time in history, cosmic rays to photograph these skulls," says Dr. Loutfi.

This was the first stage of the program.

The second, as he explains it, was to photograph with the rays the skulls of people living now in the area.

"It was rather difficult to explain what we were up to but we managed somehow," recalls the young scientist.

PUT ON RECORD

The study of the photographs allowed them to put on record their observations on the changes in the human skull throughout the ages.

This data was then dispatched to the United States where the third stage of the program was carried out by scientists working with an electronic computer at the University of Michigan.

"The results were amazingly unexpected," says Dr. Loutfi. "They forecast a complete revolution in the man of tomorrow. Human intelligence would control all aspects of life, nutrition, environment, diseases and even education."

He explains that results indicated that such a man "will have a huge brain carried by a slim emaciated body" and that he will depend solely on pills for food as he gradually loses his lower jaw.

DELICATE ORGAN

"His blood circulation will be deficient with most of the blood feeding that huge brain. Other parts of the body would appear stricken—as little blood would reach them.

The increased use of pills will turn his stomach into a delicate organ of his body," he adds.

According to Dr. Loutfi, the man of tomorrow will not fear diseases caused by microbes which he says are normally the result of physical efforts or environment. Science would, then have overcome these, he believes.

He will be subjected to such diseases as brain clots, heart failures or diabetes because of the hugeness of his brain and this precarious blood system.

Fifty-three law enforcement officers were killed last year by criminals. A total of 278 was killed from 1960 to 1965.

Key Ingredient Is Missing at Dems' Picnic

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — There was a slight hitch in arrangements for a Democratic party fund-raising picnic at nearby Lake Jacomo Sunday.

The crowd, estimated at 3,000 to 5,000, consumed 1,500 pounds of barbecued brisket, ham and beef, 4,000 hot dogs, beans, potato chips, beer and soft drinks.

The arrangements committee also paid for 3,000 helpings of cole slaw and potato salad which were hauled to the grounds in a refrigerated truck by a volunteer worker.

The volunteer went away with the only keys to the truck. He couldn't be found and the food remained refrigerated and uneaten.

Food for Foreign Families

Farm Exports Still Growing

Breadbasket for the world is still the United States, from which farm product exports for the 1967 fiscal year are expected to total $7 billion or more, a near-record. U.S. foods line grocery shelves in 150 countries such as the Japanese supermarket at right, and exports account for about 17 per cent of farmers' marketing income.

FARM PRODUCTS contribute significantly to the U.S. balance of payments. At a Baltimore wharf, at left, trailer trucks filled with U.S. farm products are driven to the ship and the entire trailer is hoisted aboard for shipment overseas. Above, a Chinese family in Hong Kong partakes of American chicken "drumsticks".

Riots: Not Caused by Outside Agitators

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

Again, many American cities have been torn by rioting. It's the same old story—the intolerable living conditions in the ghettos create a feeling of powerlessness and anger which erupts over an incident which symbolizes to the ghetto dweller how little importance is attached to his needs and his dignity.

The reason for riots is not mysterious. It is obvious to anyone who has eyes to see with and ears to hear with. But too many civic leaders act blind and deaf when it comes to the Negro's just grievances.

They say, "It can't happen here," and when it does, they blame it on outside agitators. That's a lot of nonsense.

Little evidence has been produced to prove that outsiders cause riots, but there is a lot of evidence to prove that every American city is a potential tinderbox because of ghetto conditions.

But the "outside agitator" theory is so strong that Congress seems to be determined to pass a bill making it a federal crime to cross a state line with "intent to incite street violence and rioting."

DOUBTFUL LEGALITY

This is one of those medicines that is more poisonous than the disease. Besides being of doubtful constitutionality, such laws, as history shows, are usually used against legitimate dissenters.

Who is to say what constitutes "intent" or what language incites violence.

But it is far easier to legislate against imaginary causes than it is to deal with real ones.

The very real problem which cause riots—racial discrimination in jobs, housing, and other areas, can't be ignored. So long as they are, riots will be a part of American summers.

I have said over and over again that riots are wrong. When they occur, they must be put down immediately, but without the indiscriminate shooting of innocent people, as happened in Newark.

The snipers apparently got away, but the woman at the window and the child in the street were killed.

Throwing a brick and looting a store are criminal acts. But they must be seen in the context of the more subtle crimes which daily victimize Negro citizens locked into racial ghettos.

Stops Tormenting Rectal Itch

Exclusive Formula Promptly Stops Itching, and Relieves Pain of Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): One of the most tormenting afflictions is the burning itch caused by piles. It's a most embarrassing during the day and especially aggravating at night. Suffering only makes the condition worse. No matter what you've tried without results—here's good news.

A scientific research institution discovered a special medication which has the ability, in most cases—to promptly stop the burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.

Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, in Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so. And it was accomplished without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind.

The secret is Preparation H—an exclusive formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids. There is no other formula like it! In case after case, Preparation H promptly stops the burning itch, relieves pain—as it gently reduces the swelling.

Preparation H also lubricates, gently soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form. No prescription is needed.

To begin with, more money will not bring you more car. For Cadillac is the accepted Standard of the World... emphasized by the fact that the 1967 Cadillac is the most popular luxury car of all time. And certainly, a little less money will get you a lot less car: less distinction, less luxury, less comfort, less performance, less size. Cadillac's famed high resale value will probably more than make up for its modest, extra initial cost. Tradition indicates that, after one or two years, the Cadillac you buy today will be worth more than any other car you can buy at or near its price. Further, Cadillac's advanced engineering historically gives its owners a measurable lead on the fine-car field. Consider all these facts—then visit your authorized dealer for dollar-and-cents proof that Cadillac is the season's most logical and rewarding car investment. Come in soon. Your dealer's current selection of models has never before been so attractively priced.

Jackson-Gullett Duo Takes FLCC Tourney

The conclusion of the fifth annual Forest Lake Invitational Golf Tournament was full of surprises.

The favorites of the championship flight Harry Netherlander and Gene Eyer found Howard Slocum and Tom Clark, a young twosome from Ann Arbor too much to handle in the semifinals and were 2-1 victims Saturday.

In an all-family affair in the lower bracket, Mike Jackson teamed with Bob Gullett and soundly whipped Paul Jackson and son Pete Jackson, 3-2. It was sweet revenge for Mike who was beaten a week earlier by Pete in the finals of the Birmingham Invitational.

The final was nip and tuck as Jackson and Gullett broke the ice on the 17th hole and proceeded to birdie the 18th for a 2-up victory.

The Eyer-Netherlander versus Slocum-Clark match was a battle of pars and bogies.

Clark-Slocum won holes 6-7 with pars, lost No. 8 when Eyer knocked in a 12-foot birdie and regained No. 10 when Clark downed a 15-footer.

Netherlander rapped in a trick 10-footer downhill on No. 16 but the last two holes were halved and it was the match. "They really demolished us," said Paul Jackson of his son Mike and partner Gullett.

LONG PUTT
Mike Jackson rammed home a 30-footer and Gullett a 25-footer to take a 3-up lead after seven holes, a lead they never lost.

In the final, Jackson and Gullett held a 2-up lead at the turn and the twosomes matched birdie holes twice on the back side. Then Clark knocked in a 20-footer and 10-footer to even the match but on No. 17 his team 3-putted to fall behind.

On the 18th, Mike Jackson put his 50-foot putt to one inch to clinch the win.

Another father-son team were victorious in other flights. Andy McGuire, the Forest Lake club champion teamed with Tim Zink to defeat Roy Potvin and Jim Smith, 1-up on the 20th hole in the first flight.

Jim McGuire, Andy's dad, joined Alan Pfaff to win the 7th flight over A. Meadows and G. Greig, 1-up.

Better Late... Never for City Mixed Meet

An almost accidental pairing brought together a pair of golfers who went on to produce a record-setting score Saturday in capturing the City Mixed Two-Ball championship.

Former city medal champion Ron Rothbarth and Feather Frechette, who teamed with Fran Bertram in winning the 1964 title, decided late Friday night to enter the tournament.

Feather played in last year's event with Glenn Vallance and they were slated to play in the Saturday par-3 tournament. Vallance couldn't make it so Rothbarth, club champion at Clarkson Golf Club, owned by Feather's parents, volunteered his services.

It was a good match. The two par-3 and then went three-over for a 38 on the back side for a total of 72 strokes which tied the mark set by Glenn Harding and Betty Sue Syron back in 1954.

Feather and Rothbarth collected two birdies on the front nine but offset both with a double bogey on the par-3 hole.

TAKES SECOND
Five strokes back of the lead, they were defending champions Phyllis Chandler and Joe Burdett. Zadah DeBolt and Stan Savage were third with a 78.

Current city women's champion Bob Miller and husband, Jim, were well back at 89.

Ashe Captures National Title

Clay Court Champion Downs Riesen

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Top-ranked Arthur Ashe Jr., supposedly a pigeon on clay, has won the National Clay Court Tennis Tournament, shooting down a weary Marty Riesen, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.

Unerring Nancy Richey won the women's singles for unprecedented fifth straight time as she turned back an erratic Rosemary Casals 6-2, 6-3.

The tournament victory — the first for Ashe on clay since he deserted juries' ranks — left the Davis Cupper unconvinced that he had proven anything either to his critics or himself.

"After you get assailed for so long, you might begin believing your assailants," said the 24-year-old Ashe, who built his standing with volleys and stinging serves on grass. Clay is a slower surface.

RIGHT APPROACH
"This is just a good contribution to my mental approach," allowed Ashe, a first lieutenant on leave from the Army.

"This is the second biggest tournament in the United States but the United States is not the tennis world," he said, noting the absence of international clay courts stars such as Manuel Santana of Spain, Tony Roche of Australia, Cliff Drysdale of South Africa and Istvan Gulay of Hungary.

"I think I can win the French singles too, if I really got ready for it," the Richmond, Va., star said.

Local Hurdler Sets 2 Marks in Double Win

11 Trackmen Qualify for Des Moines Trip in Late August

A pair of local athletes, with state titles in hand, will be looking for national honors when the Junior Champ track finals open next month in Des Moines, Ia.

Hurdler Bill Tipton, defending national champion in the 120-highs and 180-low hurdles, cracked his own records Saturday in both events in qualifying for the nationals in state competition in Waterloo.

Tipton and Gary VanElst of Lansing were the only double winners in the meet in which 11 athletes qualified for the trip to Des Moines.

The 11 will journey in Pontiac Motors Division station wagons to Drake University in Des Moines for the finals, Aug. 24, 25 and 26.

In all six records were broken, one tied and marks established in two events in the competition Saturday.

LOWERS MARKS
Tipton turned in a 13.9 second clocking in the high hurdles to wipe out his old mark of 14.65 and he lowered the standard in the lowes to 18.9, well below his former record of 19.65.

Van Elst tossed the shot a record 59-feet-7.5 inches, and he established the standard in the discus with a heave of 143-feet-5 inches.

The other local athlete who'll make the trip to Iowa is Larry Blisker of Waterloo. He won the pole vault with a leap of 12-feet-11 inches.

Other record performances were turned by Bill Wallace (220 dash) of Flint, Reggie Bradford (440) of Detroit, John Mock (880) of Mount Clemens and Dan Weiha (high jump) of Detroit.

And Rodney Mack of Detroit put the standard of 47-feet-5.5 inches on the books in the triple jump, the first time for that event.

LONDON, Ont. (AP) —

Happiness for Carol Mann, the blonde 6-foot-3 professional golf-er from Baltimore, was a final round one-under-par 71 Saturday which clinched her victory

Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Mann's total for the three-round event was 210, six under par and two strokes ahead of her closest opponent,

Margie Masters of Australian who also shot a final-day 71.

Miss Mann, suffering from a back ailment throughout the tournament, won the $2,700 prize money. The victory also

in the Ladies Professional Golf ers Association circuit tour.

The London tournament is the only LPGA event played in Can-

Kathy Whitworth of San Antonio, Tex., winner of last year's tournament in which Miss Mann tied for third place, was this year's third-place finisher with

Southfield Reaches Colt Loop Finals

State district junior baseball playoff action over the weekend found North Farmington-Walled Lake gaining a Colt League title with a 3-1 win over Birmingham Sunday on Steve Eversman's three-hitter.

Walled Lake's Little League hopes were ended Saturday, however, as Southfield's Northwest All Stars posted a 5-4 victory.

Defending state champion Birmingham Federal suffered a 3-2 loss to Fenton. The two surviving teams meet today for the District 4 championship at Southfield.

Ski Clan Still Best on Water

The Messers of Pontiac, long time dominating figures in state water skiing, again ruled their respective divisions in the Michigan State Water Ski championships Saturday and Sunday at Oxford Lake.

Kathy Messler, the 1966 junior girls' jumping champion, yesterday added the women's jumping title to her honors, while Harry Messler trying to defend his men's jumping crown finished third.

They are the brother and sister of former-outstanding state water ski champion Nancy Messler.

The Ouellette sister, Nancy and Michelle of Ypsilanti, dominated the junior girls divisions while Tony Krupa of Jackson and Terry Strayer of Devils Lake were double winners in boys events.

Another local water skier, Randy Jones took honors in the novice slalom event.

Next Sunday, some 30 water ski clubs will compete in the Metropolitan Detroit Invitational at Oxford Lake, located on Lakeville road, east of Oxford.

TURKEY EARTHQUAKE VICTIMS — Turkish soldiers guard residents of Adapazari who left their homes and went to sleep in the public gardens following the series of earthquakes that rocked western Turkey over the weekend. The big tremor shook the earth at 7 p.m. Saturday, rumbling 300 miles across the country from the Aegean Sea to the Black Sea. Another 62 tremors followed for 24 hours but with less force.

N.J. Riot Talks Are Postponed

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, has canceled meetings planned today with New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes and Newark Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio on recent racial disturbances in the state.

Shriver's office in Washington, D.C., said the cancellation was forced by "unforeseen circumstances" but that the principals had agreed to postpone the talks without settling a new date.

Shriver was expected to confer with Hughes on racial violence during the past two weeks which left 27 dead. He also was to discuss with Addonizio charges that members of the city's antipoverty agency—the United Community Corp.—helped instigate the riots in Newark.

Hughes, a Democrat, said on the CBS radio and television program, "Face the Nation," that "young militants" who turn to violence must be isolated from the community to prevent future race riots.

"OTHER NEWARKS" — He did not say how they should be isolated. But he warned "there are many other Newark in this country."

In a session with newsmen after the Sunday program, Hughes announced new programs for the state police and the National Guard in sniper control.

He said the programs will develop a special "on-the-ready" force which would get the snipers. Snipers have to be shot down if you can get at them," he added.

The governor called on the state police and the National Guard to help quell riots in Newark and Plainfield.

ASKS GUN LAW

The governor again called for national gun control legislation and said the sale of weapons was the most immediate riot control problem.

Addonizio, however, said Newark's major problems are largely financial. The mayor appeared on the taped WINS radio "News Conference" in New York City.

The city has been "practically spent bankrupt" during his five years in office and the only solution is more federal and state aid, Addonizio said.

He charged that the city was getting very little assistance from the state, and Hughes did not promise more when he was in the city during the riots.

MAYOR BLAMES OEO

The mayor blamed officials in the city's antipoverty agency for contributing to the riots by warning in public hearings that "blood will flow in the streets" if a medical school was located in the heavily Negro central ward and a white man was appointed over a Negro to the post of school board secretary.

The man who set up Newark's antipoverty agency disagreed with Addonizio. Cyril Tyson, now deputy administrator of

New York City's Human Resources Administration, appearing on WNBC-TV's "Searchlight" program, said it was politics rather than poverty that caused the rioting.

Tyson, a Negro, said the Newark riots stemmed from the City Council's foot dragging on anti-poverty funds, the plan to put the medical school in the heavily Negro area allegedly without supplying alternate housing, and the mayor's backing of a white city councilman for school board secretary instead of a better-educated Negro.

Tyson denied charges that the antipoverty agency helped stir up the riots.

In Toronto, Oliver Lofton, attorney for the Negro car driver whose arrest helped spark the Newark riots, said he considers the city's police force largely responsible for the violent street fighting. He said he would file suit to have the Newark police force declared bankrupt and placed in public receivership.

Speaking in a film segment of a CBC program, "The Other Eye," Lofton said, "The whole department is bankrupt, financially yes, but morally as well."

City Twirlers Win

Land O Lakes majorettes of Pontiac won first place in the state band twirling division of the Blue Water Festival in Port Huron last week.

The group consists of 35 area youngsters ranging in age from 6 to 19 years.

Tornado Flattens Barn in Alcona

ALPENA (AP) — A small tornado knocked down part of a barn and silo on a farm 17 miles northeast of Alpena over the weekend, the Alcona County sheriff's office reported.

No injuries were reported. Deputies said the farm is owned by Camille Pappin.

Vandalism Is Up at Detroit Schools

DETROIT (AP) — There were 2,253 incidents of vandalism, up 40 per cent from 1966, in Detroit's 350 schools during the past school year, the board of education says.

The cost of the damage was estimated at $1.5 million, up $400,000 from a year earlier—an expense insurance companies will not underwrite because it is so frequent.

Orthodox Patriarch Is in Spotlight Again

By the Associated Press

White-boarded and warm of heart, Athenagoras I, 81, the patriarch of Constantinople and spiritual leader of 200 million Orthodox Christians, comes into the spotlight again in his second meeting with Pope Paul VI Tuesday.

The Pope, whom Athenagoras embraced as a brother when they met on the Mount of Olives in Jerusalem in January 1964, is making the trip to Istanbul to discuss with the patriarch ways to protect holy sites in Jerusalem and studies on possible reunion of Roman Catholics and Orthodox.

"I feel that Pope Paul and I have found the way toward unity," Athenagoras has said.

He is on record as believing that unity between the two large Christian bodies is coming soon — if not in his lifetime, then surely in the lifetime of other generations now living. The two churches have been split since the Great Schism of 1054 A.D.

'EXTREMELY IMPORTANT'

He has described this week's meeting as "of extreme importance in the efforts exerted by all for the promotion of Christian reconciliation and unity and for the stabilizing of world peace."

QUESTION: Why were there so many pillars used on ancient buildings?

ANSWER: When large buildings were first constructed by ancient peoples, it was natural that strong posts should have been used to help hold them up. Since gravity pulls straight downward, an upright post can carry a tremendous weight. But as buildings grew bigger, posts, pillars or columns took on a new meaning.

When we give giant trees, like the sequoias at left above, they give us a feeling of awe and majesty. The ancients used their big buildings to impress people with the majesty of their rulers or the various gods they worshipped. They found the columns an excellent way to express this majesty.

Consequently, we have the huge figure of a Roman emperor perched on the top of an enormous column. The most beautiful columns were those belonging to Greek temples. We show three types of capitals used by the Greeks, the Doric (1), Ionic (2) and Corinthian (3).

Burma Hopes Swift Laws Will Preserve Nest Soup

RANGOON (UPI) — The lowly little grey swift suddenly has become a very important bird to the Burmese government because of a tasty ancient soup recipe.

The swift produces the chief ingredient for bird's nest soup, beloved by Asian gourmets and indirectly, brings a tidy little nest egg of valuable foreign exchange for Burma.

Plain Germs Can Be Fatal if in the Lungs

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A common intestinal germ sometimes leaves a man's stomach, travels to his lungs and kills him before the doctor knows what is happening.

Studies of 12 victims at Detroit General Hospital showed that only two of them were correctly diagnosed and treated for pneumonia caused by the intestinal bacillus escherichia coli.

Diagnosis is difficult because sputum is the major clue to pneumonia, and the E. coli may contain is masked by other material. Kanamycin is the drug chosen against the E. coli strain, and colistin is also effective in cases of gram-negative pneumonia.

The pneumococcus organism is the most common target of doctors treating for pneumonia.

But escherichia coli and another bacillus called pseudomonas aeruginosa were the two most common causes of rare pneumonia in 82 patients whose infection was the result of what scientists call gram-negative bacteria—the cause of 43 per cent of the cases of pneumonia.

Hot British Export Item: Old English Pub

By EDDIE GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — One of the hottest British export items today is a cool Old English pub.

"It's surprising," says Ralph Shafran, "but an awful lot of countries are suddenly wanting English pubs, and we are making them and supplying them. We are shipping them complete with barmaids."

With barmaids?

"Yes, as we are now exporting an image, part of the British way of life, as you might say, we have agreed to furnish the barmaids as well."

He and his brothers-in-law, operators of the pub factory, have 20 experienced girls ready to export.

'GOOD JOB'

"It's a good job for the right girl," Shafran observes.

Fares paid, living paid, and with 15 pounds ($42) a week clear."

This month a pub called the John Bull, made and exported by the Shafran group, opened in Cascais, not far from Lisbon. A pair of English barmaids went down to staff it.

One brother-in-law is in Belgium setting up one big pub and negotiating the sale of another. $5 MILLION

The pub makers also are negotiating with an American company to furnish 200 English pubs worth over $5 million.

If the deal goes through, the pubs will be spotted across the United States.

The company's first job was making and shipping the Bull Dog pub at Canada's Expo 67.

"We number all the parts and send them with do-it-yourself instructions and the furniture," Shafran explains.

PROVED POPULAR

"This has proved so popular that we now not only supply the structure and the furniture but the appropriate decorations. You know—horse brasses, bugles, hunting horns, sporting prints, stuffed fish, swords, suits of armor, even stuffed owls."

The company's pikes and halberds have become so popular abroad that Shafran and his associates have hired a blacksmith.

They began as a small family business making furniture for the cafe trade.

"We were a small business until 18 months ago," Shafran says. "Then we hit upon this pub idea."

His brothers-in-law, Jack and Leslie Kotic, are technical furniture men. Shafran is on the business side.

The average do-it-yourself pub costs $22,000-$28,000. A Victorian job named the Piccadilly is being readied for Rome, and a Tudor pub for Monte Carlo. Another is under way for Jamaica.

D.C. Georgetown Section: New Hippie Haven

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — Peaceful, quaint, aristocratic old Georgetown, for years the most exclusive section of the capital, has blown its mind.

"You might say," one long-haired authority suggested, "that Georgetown is on a trip."

Hippies. Their mushrooming numbers have found Washington.

Georgetown's main drag, M Street, is their boardwalk and Georgetown fringe areas like DuPont Circle and grassy P Street beach on the banks of Rock Creek are their meeting places.

"Yes," said 7th Police Precinct Capt. Francis Conley, "they're becoming a problem. They've seemed to multiply like rabbits over the past year.

"I don't understand it. Some of these kids are the same well-scrubbed faces I saw just a year ago."

What's happening is that the hippie cult is spreading nationally. And hippies — being hip — know the adage: "There are only three towns in the United States — New York, San Francisco and Washington. Everything else is Cleveland."

Kevin Connell, "nonhippie but sympathetic" manager of a swinging M Street pub, says Washington right now is only a third-stage hippie city.

"But it is not far from stage two and, as fast as word travels in the psychedelic world, it could move up to stage one by late summer," Connell said.

Stage one is the ultimate — San Francisco (Haight-Ashbury section) and New York (the East Village).

A stage one hippie town has all the latest drugs (LSD, Marijuana (grass, joint, etc.), is plentiful. Well-established are hippie music, hippie literature, hippie bars (although real hippies seldom touch liquor) and hippie "head shops" which sell psychedelic posters, beads, flowers and love buttons.

Second stage cities are, according to New Englander Connell, "Boston, Los Angeles and Chicago's Old Town section.

"But Washington is the only one of the lower stage cities with a chance to make the big scene," Connell added.

The main reason for this, hippies here agree, is the city's beauty — its many trees and parks, its architecture.

"The real, bonafide hippie is sincerely and honestly hung up on nature and love," Connell said. "A trip brings these things closer to him, much closer than he could ever get if he stayed straight all day."

Capt. Conley said Washington's estimated 3,000-4,000 real hippies and near hippies "actually seem sincere about this love business."

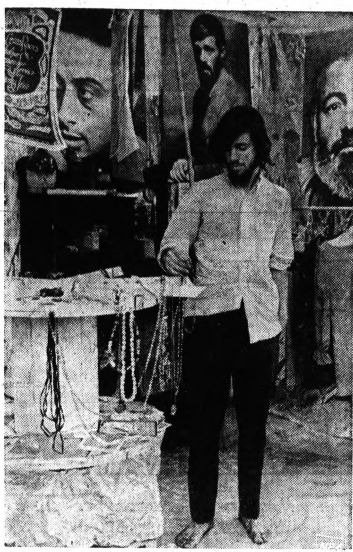

"Except for drug and marijuana traffic they don't do much other than disturb the peace late at night. They don't seem to steal, like junkies do, or vandalize, like the motorcycle crowd does."

Connell said one big problem was the fights they get into, not with each other but with rowdies and servicemen looking for people to punch. "Servicemen around here get weekend passes and go out looking for a bar, a girl or trouble. They pick on people with long hair."

A hippie basking in the sun on P Street beach talked about the emergence of Washington as a hippie center.

"We're striving for sophistication, like San Francisco's got. We already have two noncommercial head shops. We have plenty of nature here and love is beginning to groove."

"We also have an LSD rescue service for people on bad trips. By that I mean some kids get sad on trips and they go to some of us who know what it's all about to learn how to handle it."

"HEAD SHOP" — A shoeless salesman stands amid mind-blowing gimcracks in one of Washington's better "head shops" — where psychedelic posters, beads, flowers and love buttons are sold — located in the shadow of the Capitol dome.

West 'Worst Seller' Aided by Innovation

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Literary note: The publishing industry appears to be on the brink of a new era of book blurbery. And when it comes, y'r h'mbl' c'r'sp'nd'nt will finally gain the fame and fortune due me as an author.

This felicitous situation was presaged this week by a blurb sent out by Bantam Books extolling one of its new-paperbacks.

WEST

"Non-Pulitzer Prize winner" said the caption. Then, below the text, the blurb said the book "was published less than three months ago in hard cover, and did not win the Pulitzer Prize."

To my knowledge, this is the first time that not winning a Pulitzer Prize has been used as a selling point.

There was, however, a good reason for playing up what would seem on the surface to be a rather negative and widespread accomplishment.

JURY DISAGREES

The author had been recommended for an award by a Pulitzer Prize jury, but the advisory committee rejected the choice.

This created a lively controversy at the time.

The Bantam blurb-writer obviously was seeking to exploit the incident, for which I don't blame him. I have a feeling, however, that the blurb may serve a large purpose.

Unless I miss my guess, it will start a new trend in blurb writing, especially for paperbacks. Something on this order:

"Now! In paperback! An unsensational novel by an unknown author! Nonwinner of five major literary awards!"

NOT ALTRUISTIC

My interest in promoting this trend is not, as I have already indicated, entirely altruistic. For it could be the salvation of my one and only book, "The Backside of Washington" which was published a few years ago.

Consider all that my book has going for it.

It won no awards of any kind; it was ignored by most of the major reviewers; it was a nonselection by all of the book clubs; it appeared on no best-seller lists; Reader's Digest refused to condense it; it was not made into either a Broadway play or a movie; no city banned it.

A good blurb-writer should be able to do wonders with that. And here's the best part: If a paperback edition proved successful, it might create demand for hard-cover copies. As far as I know, I have the only hard-cover copies in existence.

At the time of publication, I went out and bought several hundred copies just to show I was a good sport. They now lie in a "modernity" in my basement.

If you want to stock up in advance of the anticipated sales boom, send in your orders now.

Pollution Law: Hurdle for Foreign Cars

DETROIT (UPI) — Starting with the 1968 models of new cars, there may be a lot of foreign car name plates missing from the American market.

It has nothing to do with the new auto safety regulations, but on another government regulation imposed by the Clean Air Act of 1965.

That's the regulation that requires exhaust control devices on all new cars.

This one regulation alone is a major stumbling block for many foreign cars.

Automotive News, the industry newspaper, says at least 10 of the National Center for Air Pollution Control are saying these makers have made no effort to have their exhaust control devices certified.

NOT APPLYING

That is, these makers are not even bothering to apply for certification of their cars as meeting the emission standards.

Without certification, their cars cannot be sold in the American market.

The paper quotes Robert Van Der Veer, chief of the Motor Vehicle Compliance Laboratory at the National Center for Air Pollution Control as saying these makers have made no effort to have their exhaust control devices certified.

Van Der Meer does identify the makers.

He says some of the foreign manufacturers have inquired about certification procedures, but have not been heard from again.

Automotive News says that among the foreign manufacturers, only Toyota, Porsche, Nissan and Peugeot have so far been fully certified.

Volkswagen, by far the largest foreign manufacturer, probably will be certified before the required date.

Van Der Veer says most of the 10 foreign firms expected to drop out of the American market are low volume luxury cars.

Certification of cars is not a simple thing. In the initial test for performance, the test for each car takes only about 17 minutes of actual time test, starting with a cold engine. But there are two parts to the full compliance test. And, in one part, each company must run a maximum of 10 durability test cars for 50,000 miles and these cars must be representative of at least 70 per cent of the company's sales.

This 50,000-mile test establishes the so-called deterioration rate at which the car's emissions of unburned hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide increase. The durability test part usually takes about six months.

Scholastic-Kodak Photography Awards. To get this effect, the original film negative was greatly enlarged on Kodalith high-contrast film until the grain structure was visible.

AP Newseaters

It is gratifying to note encouragement given to teen-age camera fans and to see evidence of their interest and skill in recording the environment and activities in which they live and participate.

For nearly four decades, one of the foremost annual incentives to creative expression among the nation's public, private and parochial schools has been the Scholastic Photography Awards sponsored by Scholastic Magazines, Inc.

The annual program, cosponsored the past few years by Eastman Kodak Company searches out and rewards photographic talent in junior and senior high schools throughout the United States and Canada.

Competitions begin on a local level through 49 regional contests. Civic minded regional sponsors present keys and certificates of merit to local winners and the results are displayed in regional exhibitions.

Recently, in New York, a six-man jury of photographic specialists studied this year's regional winners and selected 292 award-worthy photographs for national honors, more than $6,000 in cash awards and a $1,000 college scholarship.

SELECTED GROUP

After its Manhattan debut exhibition in June, a selected group of the winners will form the 1967 Kodak-Scholastic Photo Awards travel exhibit for display in U.S. and Canadian schools.

Summer vacation now provides subject matter for students outside their normal boundaries of home and school grounds and gives them wider horizons to explore with their cameras.

It's a time and opportunity to start thinking of next year's photographic awards.

Preparation can start now by careful screening of each batch of current pictures.

SPECIAL FOLDER

Entry possibilities could be filed in a special folder making a ready reference source for pictures when contest time rolls around.

The capabilities of a camera are continually amazing whether in the hands of a youngster learning how to picture his tiny "world" or in the hands of an astronaut in outer space documenting scientific miracles.

The prize winning pictures of the high school students prove it.

County Judge Going to Clinic

Oakland County Circuit Judge Robert L. Templin will be among 150 judges attending a four-week session at the National College of State Trial Judges in Reno, Nev., beginning Aug. 7.

The judges were selected from 500 applicants.

Classes are conducted at the University of Nevada.

The faculty, composed of trial judges, Supreme Court justices and law professors, will present courses in administration, modern trends in evidence, sentencing and probation, criminal procedure and related trial court work.

The college was initiated in 1964 by the U.S. Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark, in cooperation with the Judicial Administration Section of the American Bar Association.

There are 5,700,000 mentally retarded persons in the United States and 3,000,000 of them are of working age.

Earl Digs Up, Lays to Rest Classic Gaming House Tale

By EARL WILSON

ORANJESTAD, Aruba—One of the great gambling folk stories has been laid out to rest here. I was glad to be in the burial. The tale has been pursuing me for years.

It's always told as though it happened last week or last year.

In Reno, or Puerto Rico, or wherever there's gambling, they tell you about four college boys who studied a casino scrupulously for weeks and found one roulette wheel just slightly off level.

And the story goes, they beat the house for untold thousands.

"Actually," says Kazloff, operator of Aruba Caribbean Casino here, "it was 1949 at the Golden Nugget in Las Vegas."

"Yep... 18 years ago. Two boys, one from Northwestern, one from the University of Chicago. They told me what they'd found, and wanted to be sure we wouldn't pull the wheel on them."

"Up to a point," I said to them. "How much do you want to win before we could pull the wheel?"

"A million dollars," they said. I said O.K. They asked if I'd put it in writing. I said that would take time.

"They said, 'Let's not wait, let's go.'"

"They started playing No. 9, changing off, each boy six hours at a time, never stopping. I told a reporter about the No. 9 boys. The story went around the country."

"They started winning. One day a drunk came in and lurched over to bet No. 9. The No. 9 boy didn't get his chips down because of the drunk, and No. 9 hit."

"It became a sensation. They won up to $15,000, then $20,000."

"But they were just lucky. For pretty soon the 'per' — the percentage — started working against them. They got to $28,000, then I think $31,000, and then they started losing. They kept losing. They went broke. They had given us valuable publicity. We gave them $500 to help them get out of town."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N.Y. . . .

Gwen Verdon, who left "Sweet Charity" because of illness (the musical later folded), reports a woman swung an airline bag at her at JFK airport, saying angrily, "You don't look sick to me!" (Gwen figures it was a ticket-buyer unhappy at finding the show closed.)

Grace Kelly's brother Jack attended the Monaco festivities that she and Prince Rainier presided over at Expo '67 — as a "Philadelphia Spy." He was in Montreal to learn all he could about Expo for Philadelphia's projected celebration of the birth of the U.S., of which he'd be one of the chairmen.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Shouting at children to make them obey is like blowing the horn to steer the car." — Arnold Glasgow.

EARL'S PEARLS: Monty Hurst's recollection of his home town: "The population was so small there were no double dates."

Fannie Flegg, imitating Lady Bird in her album, "Rally 'Round the Flag," says: "Let's remove all those unsightly road signs, like 'Stop' and 'Railroad Crossing,' and all that."

That's Earl, brother.

Vitamin Needs Vary Biochemists Assert

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A whole industry and way of life have been built around the notion that there is a "minimum daily requirement" of vitamins, as proclaimed on the cereal box and ads.

But according to a couple of Texas biochemists, there probably is no such thing.

The U.S. government, since 1941, has been issuing minimum daily requirement figures for vitamins and minerals. A couple of years ago, the prestigious National Academy of Sciences took a look at the situation and issued revised standards it calls recommended dietary allowances.

They both tell the average person what to eat, and provide grist for advertisers' mills.

Both minimums, however, depend on the belief that there is an average person.

NO AVERAGE

There is no average at all, say Drs. Roger J. Williams and Gary Deason of the University of Texas at Austin.

As far as vitamin needs are concerned, from studies of vitamin C in 101 guinea pigs, they conclude the wide range of individual vitamin needs cannot be met by referring to a statistical average.

One group thrived on 0.2 milligrams of vitamin C, but no better or worse than a group on 3.2.

According to the Texas researchers, one person might need 20 times as much vitamin C as another for normal growth and health.

OBSCURE ROLE

Vitamin C, found in citrus fruits, tomatoes and other vegetables, plays an obscure but essential role in building connective tissue and keeping it healthy. Too little vitamin C results in loose teeth, weak bones, anemia, scurvy and infertility.

Therapeutically, the vitamin is used in some cases of infections, allergies, bleeding ulcers and lead poisoning.

Evidence that human need for vitamin C, and probably other vitamins as well, vary extremely from person to person, underscores the orderliness of science, Dr. Williams points out, and is not likely to be readily accepted.

"If it is possible to deal with people successfully on the basis of averages, there is enormous advantage," he says. But in the case of nutrients, it can't be done.

What is needed is not more averages, but more basic research on vitamins, Dr. Williams declares.

Little Problem at Camp Has Serious Undertones

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Sixteen-year-old Michael went to Arkansas' Young Citizens Camp to learn about education, jobs and citizenship.

He also returned home the first day because he did not own any underwear.

Arkansas and the Office of Economic Opportunity opened the nation's first free camp for underprivileged children July 16.

More than 550 boys, ages 15-21, showed up for the first two-week session.

Shortly after the boys arrived, a counselor found Michael crying. He refused to say what was wrong.

"I want to go home," he said.

"Why?" the counselor asked.

"I just want to go home," Michael answered.

After a quiet talk, Michael told the counselor he did not own any underwear and he feared the other boys would laugh at him when he undressed.

The camp had given him a new set of clothes when he arrived, but Michael said, "I got to undress to put them on."

The counselor found an empty room, where Michael undressed.

"That is typical of the problems we have had fighting poverty," one worker said. "Frequently a rather minor problem can upset the best of big plans."

Bill to Protect Fish-Breeding Havens Gains

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A law to protect the swampy areas where valuable fish and shellfish breed seems imminent in the wake of an intergovernment accord reached here last week.

The agreement, between the Army and the Interior Department, provides for review of waterfront construction permit requests by the Fish and Wildlife Service to determine their effects on the breeding grounds.

Such review was called for in the pending estuary protection bill.

Opposition from industry interested in waterfront construction — traditionally, and loosely, controlled by the Army — would have defeated the bill in the House Subcommittee on Fisheries and Conservation. The Army-Interior agreement paves the way for its passage.

Sponsored by Rep. John D. Dingell, R-Mich., the legislation provides for eventual establishment of National Estuarine Areas where wildlife would be protected from further encroachment of civilization.

As a first step, it directs the secretary of the interior to make a survey of estuaries—the swampy areas where rivers meet the sea. This, with recommendations as to which areas need protection most, would provide a basis for congressional establishment of the reserved areas.

Such areas are now rapidly falling beneath the developers' bulldozers as seacoast towns turn to the last available cheap land for expansion.

Federal Troops Requested to Quash Rioting in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. George Romney and Mayor Jerome Cavanagh today asked for federal troops to help quash 24 hours of Negro rioting that left three dead, hundreds injured and millions in property damage over a wide area of Detroit.

The request was the second for federal help that Romney and Cavanagh made today in the wake of the worst racial rioting to hit this city since 36 persons were killed and hundreds injured in 1943.

He withdrew the earlier request moments after making it, apparently believing federal troops might be needed in other areas of the country hit by racial strife over the weekend.

Although there was no immediate confirmation the troops would be sent, military commanders said earlier that Romney's original request had been approved at the time and regular divisions in at least two cities placed on alert.

Romney asked for at least 5,000 men.

TROOPS NEEDED

"Many of the men we now have in the city have been working well past their normal tours of duty, and the forces at their disposal will not be able to contain the situation," Romney told newsmen.

The federal troops if they come, will join some 6,000 Michigan National Guardsmen who have been pouring into the city with tanks and armored cars since midnight, plus more than 1,000 city, suburban, and state police on duty.

Romney said experience had shown that the second night of racial rioting is "usually worse than the first."

"Without help," he added, "the situation could become uncontrollable."

The call for federal help came after Romney and Cavanagh had braved sniper fire to tour the stricken area that stretches seven miles outward from the downtown area.

"The looting and arson continue," said the mayor, "and I am concerned about what seems to be a carnival atmosphere."

Movie houses, bars, liquor stores, service stations and many other businesses connected with leisure were ordered

Melee Flares in Keego Harbor

A melee last night on Willow Beach Drive in Keego Harbor resulted in the hospitalization of one man and necessitated medical treatment for at least six others.

Joseph Yousif, 33, of Highland Park is reported in fair condition today in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

He was reportedly a guest at the home of Sam Namy, 1990 Willow Beach, along with several other persons who sought refuge from the Detroit riots. In all 20 people were reported at the Namy home.

The use of firecrackers and resulting name calling between the Namy residence and 11 people at the Donald Likens house, 1984 Willow Beach, resulted, according to Keego Harbor Police Chief James Fisk, in a fight.

Cement blocks, golf clubs and at least one hatchet were used, Police said.

Fisk said that Officer Frederick Stitz, sent to the scene at 11:03 p.m., found 31 people engaged in a free-for-all.

Officers from Bloomfield, West Bloomfield, and Waterford townships, Orchard Lake and Sylvan Lake and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department aided Keego Harbor police.

It took officers 20 minutes to quell the fight. Ambulances were called to take the injured to hospitals.

Fisk said he was still interviewing the people involved and that no arrests would be made until the investigation was complete.

Book Available on Mideast War

"Lightning Out of Israel," the Associated Press' hard-back book on the Middle East war, is off the press and available to readers of The Pontiac Press.

"Lightning" is a 160-page book packed with 100 news photos and maps. It gives the full background of the conflict, tells just how the war was won, and views it through the eyes of actual participants, both military and civilian, on both sides.

The Press, along with nearly 300 other AP members around the country, is participating in the distribution. Our special edition costs only $2, and can be ordered by using the coupon on Page C-6. Other coupons will be appearing in future editions of The Press.

Many banks did not open. Schools were closed in much of the city. The two major universities — Wayne State and the University of Detroit — called off classes.

SMOKE STILL ROSE

As Cavanagh and Romney toured, smoke still rose from the blocks-long sections, torched by looters in an area that extended from the swank shops of downtown to slums up to seven miles from the center of the city.

The entire riot area is predominantly Negro. Negroes make up about 30 per cent of the city's 1.7 million people.

As day broke, mobs evaporated and the littered streets appeared deserted. Isolated shots rang out throughout the area, however, and the occasional breaking of glass and nearly constant ringing of burglar alarms could be heard.

Overtaxed firemen, forced by lack of manpower and the danger of snipers, had to let many fires go unchecked.

More than 1,000 people were arrested, some of them whites who joined the looting as the day and night of rioting wore on.

The tunnel and bridge to Canada, however, which lies across the Detroit River from the city, were closed to traffic.

The three dead included a 23-year-old white woman shot by a sniper as she rode in an auto, a white man shot down by a merchant as he emerged from a store carrying loot, and a sniper killed by a Guardsman.

It was in the 12th Street area on the near West Side about three miles from downtown Detroit that the riot apparently started early yesterday with a police raid on a Negro after-hours drinking spot.

LBJ Aides Putting Squeeze on Allies

SAIGON (AP) — Some observers in Saigon consider the tour of the Vietnam allies by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and Clark Clifford to be more important than the recent visit to Saigon by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Although Taylor denied it on his arrival in Saigon, a major purpose of the two presidential advisers is to put the squeeze for more troops on the government of South Vietnam, Thailand, South Korea, Australia, and New Zealand and the Philippines.

How many they get especially from the South Vietnamese, the Koreans and the Australians — will have considerable bearing on how many more American troops are sent to Vietnam.

McNamara on his visit two years ago spent little time with Vietnamese officials. Taylor and Clifford have scheduled several hours with Chief of State

Nguyen Van Thieu, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and others.

The United States is pressing the South Vietnamese for greater war efforts, and Saturday Ky announced a 55,000-man increase in the armed forces and a reorganization of the military structure.

He said much emphasis would be put on the regional and popular force militia who are supposed to guard the rural areas and provide much of the security for the pacification program.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, indicated yesterday that the United States will increase its advisers with the militia. Sources here say the Philippines has been asked to provide advisers also for these forces.

Korean sources in Saigon indicate that Korean military leaders would like to increase its force in Vietnam. It is considered unlikely that President Johnson would have sent the two men around to the allies if he did not have advance indication that some of them are willing to increase their contribution.

In their meetings with Vietnamese officials, Taylor and Clifford also are expected to stress U.S. feelings that the upcoming presidential and legislative elections must go off without a hitch. Rumors about the election include talk of military coups and political deals to nullify progress toward elected government. Sources in the U.S. mission feel there is substance to some of the rumors.

Taylor and Clifford probably will stress the importance Johnson and the U.S. government place on the elections and how crucial it is that nobody tips the boat.

Congress Not Convinced Tax Hike Is Necessary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson has failed so far to convince Congress that a tax increase is absolutely essential.

A UPI poll of the 25-member House Ways & Means Committee and the 17-man Senate Finance Committee discloses that Johnson has not yet got the votes to win congressional passage of a tax boost.

A majority of members on each committee said they want to be convinced that a tax increase is necessary. Unless both committees are persuaded, passage of a tax bill is impossible.

Of the 15 Democrats on Ways & Means, only five who responded to the survey said — with qualifications — that they would vote for an increase if Johnson submitted a bill.

Of the 10 Republicans on the key House committee, eight demanded cuts in domestic spending before even considering whether a tax hike was necessary.

'HARD TO AVOID'

Rep. Joel T. Broyhill, R-Va., said, "I don't see how a tax increase can be avoided with a $20 billion deficit facing us."

But Rep. James B. Utt, R-Calif., said he was opposed to a tax increase and believed the administration could reduce spending to avoid one.

Only three members of the Finance Committee, Senators Albert Gore, D-Tenn., Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., and Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., said a tax hike was needed.

Of the other 14 who responded, 12 said they were either generally opposed, wanted more information from the administration, or had not made up their minds.

'ADJUSTMENTS' POSSIBLE

At a July 18 news conference, Johnson issued another call for a 6 per cent across-the-board surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes. But he added there may have to be "adjustments."

PRESIDENT NASSER

Nasser Says Door Open for Accord

CAIRO (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser's new budget being published today calls for sacrifices to enable war-crippled Egypt to struggle on against Israel, but Nasser says the door is still open for a political settlement.

In a broadcast speech last night, Nasser said he had "no objection to conferring with the Americans" on restoring peace to the middle East and had instructed Egypt's United Nations delegation "to meet with the Americans if feasible."

Nasser's speech, his first in six weeks, was considered surprisingly restrained in tone although there were plentiful references to the United States. The Egyptian leader again blamed it for the Israeli victory in the June 5-10 war but revised his charges.

Nasser dropped his claim during the war that U.S. planes attacked the Arabs. Instead, he said President Johnson engaged in deceptive diplomatic maneuvers which masked the Israeli attack and this enabled the Israelis to get the decisive jump on the Arabs.

Pontiac Div. Tops 10-Day Sales Mark

Pontiac Motor Division reported today that its sales for the second 10 days in July were the highest for this period in the history of the division and it marked the fifth successive 10-day period Pontiac dealers have set a new record.

Thomas L. King, Pontiac's general sales manager, said that the sales of Pontiacs, Tempests and Firebirds totaled 25,422 for the July 11-20 period.

This compares to the 25,019 new cars sold last year which was the previous Pontiac record for the mid-July period.

Puerto Rico Vote Gives Support to Commonwealth

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Supporters of commonwealth government in Puerto Rico today had the vote of confidence they wanted from island voters, but their next move wasn't clear.

In a victory statement Sunday night, former Gov. Luis Munoz Marin said there were no immediate plans to request any additional powers from the U.S. Congress.

Elated, Munoz hailed the outcome as proof that Puerto Ricans support commonwealth "as the only political form that is fully adapted to the needs of Puerto Rico."

Commonwealth received 425,001 votes, 60.5 per cent of the total; statehood received 273,315 votes, or 38.9 per cent, and independence received 4,205, six-tenths of 1 per cent.

Most independence groups boycotted the plebiscite.

Pre-election forecasts had said commonwealth would need at least 60 per cent for a clear-cut victory.

Weather Outlook: Hot, Less Humid

A drop in the humidity it promised by the weatherman though daytime temperatures will remain in the 80s through tomorrow.

It will be fair tonight with lows falling in the 60 to 65 range.

Increased cloudiness and higher temperatures are predicted for Wednesday.

Low mercury reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 74. By 1 p.m. the thermometer stood at 84.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today, 20; tonight, 10; and tomorrow, 10.

U.S. Worried About Resale of Aid Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense and State departments are concerned that military equipment supplied to some U.S. allies is being resold as surplus hardware to nations engaged in arms races.

Townsend W. Hoopes, deputy assistant secretary of defense for international affairs, told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee his department is seeking ways to head off future arms transfer.

Jeffrey C. Kitchen, deputy assistant secretary of state for policy-military affairs, reported there will be 7,000 M47 and M54 tanks among the surplus arms in Europe by 1971.

"We are darned concerned about those tanks," he commented.

Kitchen said the anticipated surplus would result from accelerated arms sales to West Germany to offset U.S. expenses in maintaining military forces in Europe.

They testified last March, April and June at a series of hearings by the subcommittee on Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs studying arms sales. A heavily censored transcript was released today.

But testimony of three principal witnesses remains classified and none of it appeared in the transcript. They are Lt. Gen. Joseph F. Carroll, director of the Defense Intelligence Agency; Lucius D. Battle, assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs; and Battle's deputy, William J. Handley.

Subcommittee Chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said in a statement accompanying the transcript that American arms had found their way into countries never intended to receive them and private firms were making extraordinary profits in the resale of U.S. arms.

'REVISIONS NEEDED'

"Revisions in laws pertaining to this matter are urgently needed," he said.

The subcommittee witnesses also included Samuel Cummings, president of the International Armament Corp., Alexandria, Va., reportedly the world's largest private dealer in military arms.

Cummings testified that thousands of surplus tanks now in Europe will be available for resale throughout the world within the next few years.

The hearings are part of a closer congressional look at the whole issue of U.S. military aid to foreign nations.

Current policies have been criticized on the ground arms supplies have contributed to world tensions.

State Department officials, including Secretary Dean Rusk, have replied repeatedly that equipment supplied to some U.S. allies is being resold as surplus hardware to nations engaged in arms races.

To prevent surplus U.S. hardware from moving into the world market, Hoopes said the Defense Department is thinking of offering a financial inducement "so there would be no incentive to sell it to Africa or Latin America, for example."

Two Pontiac police officers saved a teenage girl from drowning early yesterday, according to a police department spokesman.

Capt. Harry Nye, patrol bureau commander, said Pontiac men Dennis Metrynowski and Sgt. Thomas Herford responded to a call at Crystal Lake near the 200 block of Branch about 5 a.m.

Both men entered the water and Metrynowski submerged himself to pull Sandra Johnson, 17, daughter of Mrs. Fannie Johnson of 265 Branch, free from danger, according to Nye.

He said the girl received medical attention, but was not apparently seriously affected by the near-drowning.

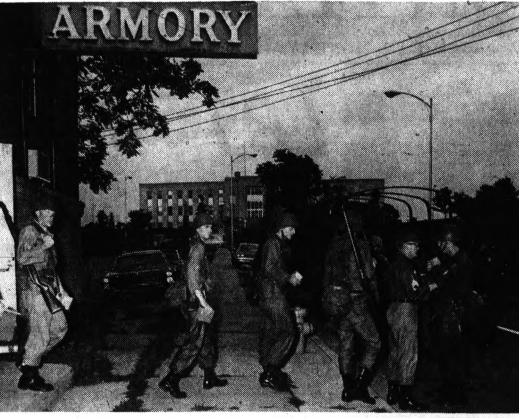

End Racial Bias, 2 Boat Clubs in Detroit Ordered

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Civil Rights Commission and the city of Detroit have declared that two Detroit boat clubs must end alleged racial discrimination or give up the largest private dealer in military arms.

The clubs are the Detroit Yacht Club and Detroit Boat Club.

Robert Teese, said he is going to draft an antidiscrimination rule that will apply to all groups leasing city property.

Reese said under the rule both socially important clubs could be required to give up their lease holdings without any cost to the city.

TO RIOT SCENE — The first group of National Guardsmen attached to the Pontiac Armory head for riot areas in Detroit. Twenty men under the command of Lt. Elmer Claycomb moved out about 9 p.m. yesterday. Each man was equipped with three clips of ammunition, according to Guard spokesmen.

Area Aiding in Riot Control

Military, law enforcement and fire-fighting personnel from the Pontiac area have been sent to lend emergency assistance in Detroit. More are expected to leave today.

Some elements of National Guardsmen attached to the Pontiac Armory at 40 Walnut left for Detroit at 8 p.m. yesterday.

As of 9 a.m. today, 101 troops from Company B of the 225th Infantry Airborne Division were in riot-stricken areas there.

An armory spokesman said a total of 182 officers and men, under the command of Capt. Richard W. Anderson, will probably be called to Detroit.

RIOT AREA IN DETROIT — The northwest and west sides of Detroit (shaded area) were the hardest hit in the rioting yesterday and today. There have been several incidents of fire-bombing and looting reported in other sections of the city as well. Gov. Romney has ordered 7,000 Michigan National Guardsmen into the riot-torn city.

$4,500 in Items Stolen in City

Items valued at more than $4,500, including business machines, surgical supplies and drugs, were stolen from a Pontiac firm and a doctor's office in the same building, it was reported to city police Saturday.

Officers said the thief entered Advance Laboratories, 676 Orchard Lake, through a basement window.

A $700 microscope and an EKG machine were among the loot taken there, police said.

The doctor's office was then entered by smashing through a glass door, according to police.

A surgical instrument pack valued over $1,100, plus various medicines were taken from there, police said.

Officers from the police identification bureau investigated at the scene for physical evidence, including fingerprints.

Parking Ban May Be Shelved

BIRMINGHAM — A plan to permanently ban parking on Maple in the central business district may be shelved by the City Commission tonight.

In a report to be submitted to the commission today, City Manager Robert S. Kenning recommends against the removal of parking along Maple at this time.

A study of a test ban, May 19-June 17, according to Kenning, reveals that the "ease of through traffic movement and the lessening of traffic congestion . . . does not offset the negative impact of the change."

"While it may be difficult to judge the long-range traffic changes resulting from the test," Kenning said, "the visual impact of the change was immediate."

"The center of the community became a moving automotive thoroughway and not a leisurely pedestrian-oriented shopping center," he added.

PARKING REMOVED

Parking has presently been removed from one side of Maple, but the action in this case was taken by the commission to allow construction on the ring road to proceed unimpeded.

This was done only as a temporary measure and had nothing to do with an earlier plan to remove parking permanently.

Kenning suggested that the commission review the Maple parking problem after the ring road has been in operation for a year.

"At that time, the city commission may consider further the thought of the urban designer for the removal of parking and the narrowing of the street to one lane each way through the center of town."

REDESIGNED

He said that under this plan the present two lanes now used for parking would be redesigned to a pedestrian street.

Kenning noted that the purpose of the ring road is to provide an alternate route which would facilitate traffic movement through and within the central business district.

Romania: End Military Blocs

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Romania's Communist Party chief, Nicolae Ceausescu made a strong plea today for abolition of the Atlantic Alliance and the Warsaw Pact, demanding withdrawal of all troops, including Soviet forces, from foreign territories.

In a major foreign policy speech before the National Assembly, Ceausescu also warned that Romania would not support Arab attempts to destroy Israel in any new war.

He said his regime considered the abolition of all military blocs an essential precondition to a worldwide détente.

"The withdrawal of all non-European troops from Europe, and the withdrawal of all the troops from the territories of other states, the dismantling of foreign military bases, and the abolition of military blocs would have a particularly positive effect," he declared.

SEPARATE LINE

It emphasized the determination to follow an independent line in defiance of Soviet pressure, illustrated Sunday by a thinly veiled appeal in the Soviet party newspaper Pravda to get back in line in the Warsaw Pact military alliance.

Ceausescu said Romania had chosen an independent stand at the June 9 Moscow summit conference, where he refused to sign a Communist declaration "because it contained some points of view which were not in keeping with the position of our party and government."

"Friends of the Arab people, we have always manifested our solidarity with them," Ceausescu declared. "But we wish honestly to tell our Arab friends that we do not understand and do not share the position of those circles which speak in favor of the liquidation of the state of Israel."

"We do not wish to give advice to anybody, but the lessons of history show that no people can achieve their national and social aspirations against the right of existence of another people."

PEKING TRIP

Delegates also were to hear of Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer report on his apparently unsuccessful trip to Peking this month aimed at improving Romania's relations with the Soviet Union.

Without mentioning Romania by name, a mildly worded article Sunday in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, urged Warsaw Pact nations to treat the alliance "as a vital, creative working cooperation in military and political questions."

Cost of Living, Grievances Are Auto Contract Topics

DETROIT (AP) — Cost-of-living allowances and grievance procedures are expected to be major topics of discussion as negotiators for the auto industry this week begin making counterproposals to the United Auto Workers.

Although the industry has been mainly on the defensive during the first two weeks of negotiations, listening to such union demands as guaranteed income and profit sharing, there are indications that a real battle may develop over some company proposals.

Negotiators are bargaining for contracts covering some 700,000 workers at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler to replace the three-year pacts that expire Sept. 6.

"Unrealistic, unreasonable, and unworkable," have been the terms most frequently used by industry bargainers to describe the union's demands.

FOLLOW SUIT

Ford will make its counterproposals Tuesday, with GM and Chrysler expected to follow suit later.

"Unrealistic, unreasonable, and unworkable," have been the terms most frequently used by industry bargainers to describe the union's demands.

But the union is adamant about allowing no tampering with the "essential principles" of the cost-of-living hikes.

The companies say that much publicity has been given to recent wage settlements in other industries, which they say are merely catching up to wage levels provided auto workers through the cost-of-living program.

"We've paid 18 cents an hour already that we want credit for in the new contract," said Seaton.

"They want us to reach a settlement and then subtract 18 cents from it," replied Douglas Fraser, member-at-large of the UAW executive board and director of the union's Chrysler department.

HOURLY AVERAGE

The average hourly wage of an auto worker is $3.41 according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Seaton said at the opening of contract talks that only about three million workers, about one third of them in the auto industry, out of some 70 million manufacturing and nonmanufacturing workers in the United States have cost-of-living allowances.

Girl Has Three Choices

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I baby-sit for this couple who have two small children. The wife works a night shift. She always asks me what time her husband comes home. Sometimes he stays out very late and barely beats her home, but he tells me to tell his wife that he got in early if she asks.

I hate to lie, but I hate to get the husband in trouble, so what should I do?

DEAR QUESTIONED: As I see it you have three choices:

- Tell the husband you are lying for him. (Prepare to be fired.)
- Tell the wife if she wants to know what time her husband comes home, to ask him. (Prepare to be fired.)
- Simplify matters, and quit sitting for these people. (P.S. I recommend the last.)

DEAR ABBY: Last night my husband accused me of every dirty thing in the book again, and Abby, he has no reason to even suspect me.

HE is the one who runs around. Then he tells me he can do anything he wants to do, go anywhere he pleases, but if he catches me making one wrong move, he will throw me out.

The only place I ever go without him is to the store, and then I walk as I have no car.

I was 15 and he was 19 when we were married. He was my first and only sweetheart and he knows it. We have three beautiful children. I am so nervous and upset from all his false accusations I am going bald at 22. What can I do, Abby? My religion doesn't permit divorce.

He beat me up last year and the court made him go to a psychiatrist. He went four times and then he said the doctor told him he didn't have to come back any more as he was in better shape than most people who are walking around. Please help me.

NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR WRECK: Don't accept the word of a man who is obviously still disturbed. As his wife you have the right to know exactly what the psychiatrist told him, so inquire directly of the doctor.

If you are a "nervous wreck and going bald at 22" you should get help from a doctor on how to cope with a sick husband. Or talk to your priest or a lawyer about arranging to live apart.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law's husband passed away a year ago. They would have had their 25th wedding anniversary June 5. I got a call from her sister telling me that Joan (not her real name) was going to celebrate her silver wedding anniversary. I said, "How can that be? Joan's husband is dead."

She told me that Joan had pitched in on everybody else's 25th wedding anniversary gifts, so why should she be gyped?

I didn't want to get into an argument with her so I gave her the five dollars. (A few of the others didn't.) Abby, am I dumb or behind the times or what? Is it really proper to take up a collection for a woman's anniversary gift when there's no husband?

BEHIND THE TIMES

DEAR BEHIND: An anniversary gift was out of order because there was no anniversary to celebrate. A thoughtful gesture under the circumstances would have been to invite the widow out for dinner and the evening to be sure she wasn't home alone, brooding.

DEAR ABBY: I am a normal 17-year-old girl with very strict parents. The only time I get away from home is to spend the week-end with my girlfriend, and then I run with a pretty wild crowd. I've never been thrown in jail or anything like that, but most of my friends have, and I know a person is judged by the company she keeps.

I finally got a date with a decent boy for a change and I acted as nice as I know how. All he got from me was a goodnight kiss. After two dates he stopped calling me. He must have heard about my reputation and it scared him off.

Abby, how can I let him know I'm really not that bad, and have a bad reputation only because of my friends? I like him very much and wonder if you can help me get him back?

BAD NAME

DEAR BAD NAME: Unfortunately a reputation can be damaged overnight, but it can't be repaired that fast. You earned it, so now you had better set about living it down and building up a "new one."

Only by consistent good behavior, and staying strictly away from "bad" company, can you prove to people that you aren't the kind of girl they thought you were.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very nice electric clock. It's a small one in an attractive wooden case and I keep it on a drum top table in the living room, but my wife says that according to Emily Post, it is not permissible to put a clock in the living room.

I enjoy it for my own pleasure, and it's handy so I don't have to go elsewhere for the time. I am 78 and my wife is 74. May I have your opinion? I thank you.

DEAR F. A. W.: A clock belongs where it affords the most convenience. Leave it in the living room and tell your wife that Abby says it's all right.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

WOMEN'S SECTION

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently my boy friend in the service asked me to become engaged. He then called his parents and informed them of his intentions. The next time I spoke to his mother on the phone, I mentioned the engagement since we both knew.

I was informed by my boy friend that this was a breach of etiquette and definitely the wrong thing to do. Was it? — Confused.

Dear Confused: Technically it was up to your boy friend's mother to speak first and tell you how happy she was. However, it would seem very peculiar if you talked with her, each of you knowing the other knew of the engagement, and neither of you referred to it.

Since she didn't, it was perfectly natural for you in your enthusiasm to speak of it first. It may not have been "according to Hoyle," but it was certainly not wrong, or in poor taste.

If your boy friend gets upset over trivial things like that, maybe you had better think twice before the wedding.

FRANKFURTERS

Dear Mrs. Post: When frankfurters are served very informally in those small paper holders, should one carry the entire package to the mouth, or the frankfurter and its roll alone? — Barbara P.

Dear Barbara: The paper or cardboard holders are made to protect your fingers from grease, mustard, etc. Use them, sliding the hotdog out a bit at a time until you are near the end and in danger of eating the paper, too, and then discard them for the last mouthful or two.

Mrs. Strayer, in her role as homemaker, provides the care and attention these children need during mother's absence. At the same time, she's relieving the mother's anxiety about the children during a period of hospitalization.

By JUNE ELERT

What is "Homemaker Service?" Homemaker Service of Metropolitan Detroit is a "home help" service that is available to residents of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

It serves families in which hospitalization, illness, death or desertion of the mother or other responsible adult causes a breakdown in the pattern of normal living.

The agency will send a homemaker to fill the role of substitute mother. The homemaker is chosen on the basis of personality, physical and mental well-being, kindness, and good humor.

She has been through a four-week course of training designed to equip her with knowledge of nutrition, child care, and understanding of emotional problems. She is a staff member of Homemaker Service of Metropolitan Detroit and is carefully supervised by a social worker.

She is a member of a team serving many different kinds of people in various problem situations.

As substitute mother, she will provide the warmth, security and support children need during a crisis period.

She will keep the household routine going by doing light housekeeping. She dusts, mops, makes beds, washes dishes, does light laundry, ironing, shopping, cooking and provides personal care that is of a non-nursing character.

Hers is an emergency service, the length of which is determined by an evaluation of the extent and probable duration of the crisis. Service can be given for one day to six or possibly eight weeks. Homemakers are dayworkers, usually arriving at 7:30 a.m. and remaining in the home until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

This service is also available to the aged, ill, or disabled, who need competent temporary help to allow them to remain in their homes, and to mothers who need temporary relief from the care of a retarded or disturbed child.

The cost of this service varies according to the ability to pay. Service is given on the basis of need and will not be denied to those who cannot pay a fee. Determination of the fee is based on family income and expenses. The maximum rate charged is $2 per hour.

Homemakers are not available to families where both parents are employed. This is not a baby-sitting service per se. Service is not available to mothers during normal pregnancies, nor in situations where nursing care is required.

A branch office of the agency, serving the people of Pontiac and surrounding area, was established last spring. It occupies office space in the Catholic Social Services Building on Franklin Boulevard. It is partially supported by the Pontiac Area United Fund.

Application for service can be made in person or by telephone during office hours, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Requests can be made by anyone familiar with the family or individual needs, such as a relative, friend, doctor, teacher, nurse or social service agency.

Food for Foreign Families

Farm Exports Still Growing

Breadbasket for the world is still the United States, from which farm product exports for the 1967 fiscal year are expected to total $7 billion or more, a near-record. U.S. foods line grocery shelves in 150 countries such as the Japanese supermarket at right, and exports account for about 17 per cent of farmers' marketing income.

Riots Not Caused by Outside Agitators

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

Again, many American cities have been torn by rioting. It's the same old story—the intolerable living conditions in the ghettos create a feeling of powerlessness and anger which erupts over an incident which symbolizes to the ghetto dweller how little importance is attached to his needs and his dignity.

The reason for riots is not mysterious. It is obvious to anyone who has eyes to see with and ears to hear with. But too many civic leaders act blind and deaf when it comes to the Negro's just grievances.

They say, "It can't happen here," and when it does, they blame it on outside agitators. That's a lot of nonsense.

Little evidence has been produced to prove that outsiders cause riots, but there is a lot of evidence to prove that every American city is a potential tinderbox because of ghetto conditions.

But the "outside agitator" theory is so strong that Congress seems to be determined to pass a bill making it a federal crime to cross a state line with "intent to incite street violence and rioting."

DOUBTFUL LEGALITY

This is one of those medicines that is more poisonous than the disease. Besides being of doubtful constitutionality, such laws, as history shows, are usually used against legitimate dissenters.

Who is to say what constitutes "intent" or what language incites "violence."

But it is far easier to legislate against imaginary causes than it is to deal with real ones.

The very real problem which causes riots—racial discrimination in jobs, housing, and other areas, can't be ignored. So long as they are, riots will be a part of American summers.

I have said over and over again that riots are wrong. When they occur, they must be put down immediately, but without the indiscriminate shooting of innocent people, as happened in Newark.

The snipers apparently got away, but the woman at the window and the child in the street were killed.

Throwing a brick and looting a store are criminal acts. But they must be seen in the context of the more subtle crimes which daily victimize Negro citizens locked into racial ghettos.

Stops Tormenting Rectal Itch

Exclusive Formula Promptly Stops Itching, and Relieves Pain of Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): One of the most tormenting afflictions is the burning itch caused by piles. It's most embarrassing during the day and especially aggravating at night. "Scratching" only makes the condition worse. No matter what you've tried without results—here's good news.

A scientific research institute discovered a special medication which has the ability, in most cases—to promptly stop the burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids. Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, in Wash-ton, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so. And it was accomplished without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind.

This secret is Preparation H®—an exclusive formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids. There is no other formula like it! In case after case, Preparation H promptly stops the burning itch, relieves pain—as it gently reduces the swelling. Preparation H also lubricates, gently soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form. No prescription is needed.

You could pay more. You could pay less. But should you?

If you are seriously considering a new car purchase this summer, there are some facts about a Cadillac investment that should have an important bearing on your final decision. To begin with, more money will not bring you more car. For Cadillac is the accepted Standard of the World... emphasized by the fact that the 1967 Cadillac is the most popular luxury car of all time. And certainly, a little less money will get you a lot less car: less distinction, less luxury, less comfort, less performance, less size. Cadillac's famed high resale value will probably more than make up for its modest, extra initial cost. Tradition indicates that, after one or two years, the Cadillac you buy today will be worth more than any other car you can buy at or near its price. Further, Cadillac's advanced engineering historically gives its owners a measurable lead on the fine car field. Consider all these facts—then visit your authorized dealer for dollars-and-cents proof that Cadillac is the season's most logical and rewarding car investment. Come in soon. Your dealer's current selection of models has never before been so attractively priced.

Dignity is Not an Abandoned Quality...

In this world of informality, a little dignity stands out like a shining light—a bit of charm that delights, it is an especially desirable quality to a quiet in grief.

Quiet dignity is always present at the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home. Whether it is respect to the loved one who has passed on, or a kindness to the sorrowing family—dignity is always kind.

St. Louis' Gateway Arch Opens

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A capsule train system was ready today to carry visitors to the top of the Gateway Arch, America's newest and tallest national monument, as it finally was opened to the public.

Persons who bought "first-look" tickets eight years ago have had to wait through countless delays due to intricate mechanical difficulties. One ticket holder who died before the arch was opened was its designer, Eero Saarinen.

"In 1962 we were afraid the arch might not be just a hollow tin wicket," said Col. E. R. Smyser of the Bi-State Development Agency.

Many thought the transportation system would have to be abandoned because of its high cost. But the nonprofit bi-state agency floated $3.3 million in revenue bonds, and now operates the cable-drawn cars for the National Park Service.

The gleaming 630-foot stainless steel arch has been 32 years in the coming. School children have seen pictures of the proposed arch in their American history books since 1935 when President Franklin D. Roosevelt designated a section of the historic St. Louis riverfront as a national park to commemorate the country's westward expansion.

A year and a half ago, the arch was named the outstanding civil engineering achievement of 1966 by the American Society of Civil Engineers. The arch cost $25 million. St. Louisans now wonder if the federal government will provide the $6 million needed to landscape the memorial.

Only the eight-car transporter in the north leg of the arch is ready for use. The one in the south leg awaits completion. When that work is done a passenger may ride up one leg and down the other in the self-leveling cars that hold five persons.

Waterford Twp. Home Damaged by $4,000 Fire

Damage was estimated at $4,000 in a Waterford Township house fire which broke out early Saturday night.

Township fire fighters listed damage to the Ronald Smith home, 4311 Hatchery, at $3,000 to the building and $1,000 to the contents. The dwelling is a one-story frame home.

The blaze was attributed to an overheated pan of grease, according to firemen who were summoned at 6:41 p.m. and remained at the scene for 35 minutes.

Township police said entry was gained by breaking the glass on a door.

Army Attacked on Copter Pact

House Panel Charges Personal Involvement

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee charges the Army with questionable awarding of a helicopter contract and says the Navy and Air Force should at least temporarily take on the research and development of Army aircraft.

The armed services subcommittee mentioned inter-service jealousies, close personal relationships between Army and industry representatives, and lavish entertainment as it attacked awarding of the contract to Hughes Tool Co.

It also said in the report released Sunday after a 10-month probe that Hughes might lose $40 million on the deal.

"Personal feelings and inter-service jealousies played overriding part in the formative stages of this procurement and directed it on a course which eventually led to the Hughes Tool Co.," said the report from the subcommittee headed by Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va.

"The existence of close personal relationships between the Army and industry representatives resulted in departures from established procurement procedures and placed the Army in the position of having many of its decisions suspect."

U. S. said the Air Force and Navy should handle research and development of Army aircraft "until the competence of the Army in this area has been firmly established."

The subcommittee said the Army figured Hughes would lose about $10,000 on each of 1,000 helicopters but "it now appears that the loss may eventually reach three to four times this amount before the contract is completed."

When the contract would be completed, it would amount to the schedule called for 130 of the light observation helicopters to be delivered by last April. Only 39 had been delivered then.

The report said the implication during hearings was that high prices on late orders to erase the Hughes loss. The company denied it would recover its loss in later Army contracts.
