Getting Bikes Safety-Checked

Pontiac Press Photo

IT'S THAT TIME — This is a familiar sight around Pontiac this week as parents and children are busy checking bicycles. With the annual Bicycle Safety Week in full swing, Pontiac Police Sgt. Robert C. Gaines does some parental checking himself. Here he points out a safety check point to his son Bobby (left). Rickey Wilcox of 145 Whittemore St. and his daughter Gina Marie Gaines live at 159 Whittemore. The bike check is sponsored by the Downtown Pontiac Optimist Luncheon Club and will conclude next Saturday with a bike parade. Children will get their bicycle licenses next week.

Yields Some of Own Powers

Rhee Agrees to Shake-Up

Premier-Cabinet Rule Returns to South Korea

Government Juggling on Strong Pressure Gets Cool Reception

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—President Syngman Rhee today agreed to shake up his badly jolted South Korean government with a premier becoming the official chief executive.

Going back to the premier-cabinet system he once scrapped, the 85-year-old President moved to yield some of his powers as the nation's strongman. He would remain as chief of state. Rhee's moves to meet demands for more democracy were received coolly.

Questions were immediately raised how much power he actually would relinquish. Rhee was reported to have hand-picked cabinets through the premier when South Korea had the cabinet system before.

Former Prime Minister Y. T. Pyun told newsmen Rhee probably will resign as head of the ruling Liberal party to become a nonpartisan president.

Coming from a conference with the President, Pyun also said Rhee agreed to suggestions for making his national police politically neutral.

The police have been under fire for their brutality in crushing antigovernment demonstrations.

Vice President-elect Lee Kipoong, main target of the demonstrators, said he was resigning.

Incumbent Vice President John Chang, whom Lee beat in the mid-March elections that brought charges of rigging, did step down as a protest against the "continuing tyrannical, oppressive rule" of the Rhee government.

Chang, who had four months of his term left, said in his resignation statement he wanted to "ring warning bells to the Syngman Rhee government which is drunk with power."

He said both Lee and Rhee should resign to calm the nation, and new elections for both offices be called.

BOTH AGREE

Lee said in a statement that both he and Rhee were agreed on creating the premier-cabinet type of government. He also stated that he was "determined" to resign.

★ ★ ★

This would necessitate new elections to fill the job Lee would have taken over Aug. 15. However, constitutional amendments setting up the cabinet system might abolish the vice presidency.

The swift developments left Korea's political scene in confusion in the midst of the crisis

Active Dems Kennedy, Humphrey at Opposite Ends of Country

By The Associated Press

Vice President Richard M. Nixon has received praise but no endorsement from a possible though unlikely rival in the contest for the Republican presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, the Democrats' most active primary battlers campaigned on opposite ends of the country, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts in Oregon and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota in Maine.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who says "I am not a candidate nor will I be," heaped praise on Nixon Friday.

"Dick Nixon has been a very good friend of mine for many years," Rockefeller told a news conference in Philadelphia. "He has done an absolutely surberb job as vice president."

But, when asked if he endorsed Nixon, Rockefeller replied he would wait until after the Republican National Convention in July.

TOURS OREGON

Kennedy toured Oregon today for the second day in a row. As he shook hands on street corners and addressed political rallies, he stressed one major theme: Candidates should enter primaries.

In Portland Friday, he said the primary "is the way people can get in the smoke-filled room."

His remarks were considered an attack on Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Stuart Symington of Missouri, who have not entered any Democratic primaries.

But both will be on the Oregon primary ballot May 20. Under Oregon law, its ballot lists all candidates whether or not they want their names there.

Humphrey, Kennedy's only opponent in West Virginia's May 10 primary, drew a burst of applause Friday night when he told the Maine Democratic convention:

"Don't let people divide us; don't let them bring issues into this campaign that don't belong there."

This was an apparent reference to the raising of Kennedy's religion as an issue in the West Virginia campaigning. Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, is trying to win in an overwhelmingly Protestant state.

Humphrey also referred to talk that the other candidates are supporting him in West Virginia as part of a stop-Kennedy movement.

"Now, it may be that some of you have read in the papers that I'm in this campaign to stop somebody," Humphrey told the convention. "Believe me, I'm not. I'm in this campaign to stop the Republican administration."

De Gaulle: Pass Berlin at Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle proposed today that the Paris summit conference next month concentrate on seeking a relaxation of Soviet-Western tensions rather than on solving specific issues such as Berlin.

De Gaulle told a news conference at the National Press Club that disarmament should be a chief topic of summit discussion. He said "one must limit nuclear armaments in so far as there exists a reciprocal control" of missiles, airplanes and other means of delivery.

REP. ADAM C. POWELL

De Gaulle began presummit talks here yesterday with President Eisenhower in a 70-minute, White House conference. He is on a four-day state visit to Washington.

In his news conference he said "as far as Berlin is concerned I do not see now a possible solution."

The big need, De Gaulle said, is to obtain a relaxation of tensions between East and West. This should be accompanied by a beginning of disarmament, he said.

★ ★ ★

The French soldier-statesman whose views often disagree with those of Eisenhower and other Allied leaders said "What is paramount is to create a 'detente' while striving to achieve something positive, something limited with one, or two, or three questions.

★ ★ ★

"Then after a certain time it will be possible to make further progress on solution which could not even be conceived of today," De Gaulle said.

★ ★ ★

In Canada earlier this week, De Gaulle suggested dropping Berlin from the summit program in the hope of concentrating on subjects which could lead to an easing of tensions.

President Eisenhower, by contrast, feels committed to negotiate on Berlin with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

De Gaulle held his first policy talks of his trip with Eisenhower at the White House late Friday. The two men met for 70 minutes, alone except for interpreters.

★ ★ ★

Press Secretary James Hagerty said Eisenhower considered it a "very good conversation." He said it covered a wide range of subjects but did not disclose what they were.

French spokesman Pierre Baraduc told reporters that he assumed De Gaulle also was pleased with the first talk he has held with Eisenhower since they met in Paris last December.

★ ★ ★

The two leaders exchanged toasts Friday night at a formal White House dinner.

Finally Recover Deputy's Car

Trusty Who Stole It Month Ago Suspect in 20 Detroit Cab Holdups

The personal car of an Oakland County sheriff's deputy was recovered on Detroit's east side yesterday, almost a month after it was stolen from in front of the county jail by a trusty.

★ ★ ★

Since then, the trusty has been the object of a wide search as a suspect in a series of taxicab holdups in Detroit.

The Detroit Police Department's auto squad reported Deputy Raymond A. Pilon's car was discovered parked in a lot at a shopping center Friday morning by two policemen.

The car bore no signs of damage, police said.

WASHED AUTO 1ST

The shopping center is just west of Van Dyke between Harper and the Edsel Ford Expressway.

The trusty, Frank Strachan, 21, of Detroit, drove off in it on March 23rd after washing the auto at the jail.

Police suspect he is responsible for some 20 robberies of cab drivers since his escape.

Strachan was serving time for passing no account checks.

Whitmer Cites School Need for $52,000,000 Program

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

School Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer today outlined a 10-point expenditure estimate totaling more than 52 million dollars to finance the Pontiac school system through 1965.

Cost obligations must be met in these areas, he said, to prevent erosion in the quality of the school program.

This can't be accomplished, school officials say, if voters don't approve on a May 9 ballot the Board of Education's request for a 2.8 milliage increase in the voted tax rate.

Dr. Whitmer's estimated forecast:

1. Enrollment will increase from the present 19,924 to 22,307 in 1965.

"Every year we need more teachers, heat and light, classrooms, equipment, books, pencils and paper just to keep up," Whitmer said. "More children require more money."

2. The cost-of-living index will increase 2.5 points annually, jumping from 126.1 (present) to 137.6 in 1965.

"This means that everything schools use cost more each year," said Whitmer. "The cost of teachers has gone up . . . pencils and paper cost more . . . so do textbooks and library books, light, heat, oil, desks, chairs, lockers, gasoline for busses, cleaning bills for cafeteria aprons and football uniforms, chemistry test tubes and everything else.

"A beginning teacher's salary in 1954 was $3,700. It is now $4,450. The textbook "20th Century Bookkeeping & Accounting" cost $1.92 in 1954 and now costs $2.73."

3. Provision should be made for salary schedule changes so that the school district can attract and retain good instructional personnel.

Tax Evasion Trial Ends in Hung Jury

NEW YORK (AP) — The long trial of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-NY) has ended in a hung jury.

A Federal Court jury of eight women and four men which reported itself honestly deadlocked was discharged Friday by Judge Frederick Bryan. The trial began March 8.

Jury foreman Harry A. Ecter, an insurance broker, first told newsmen a 6-6 split began on the first ballot and continued through all the 20 votes taken. Later Ecter said he was tired and confused and that the final ballot was 10-2 for acquittal.

Powell headed for Harlem, where he had scheduled a thanksgiving prayer at the Abyssinian Baptist Church, of which he is pastor.

The Negro legislator-minister told about 600 members of his congregation Friday night:

"I am glad to get back to work full time. I have been working only part time because of the ordeals of the trial."

After the jury was dismissed, defense counsel Edward B. Wil-

Castro Lashes U.S. 'Try for Fifth Column' in Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro accused the Eisenhower administration today of trying to set up a "fifth column" in Cuba.

The Cuban Prime Minister charged that recent remarks by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter were part of a "well prepared and premeditated plan" to create an internal front.

In a 3½-hour TV speech running well past midnight, Castro declared that statements by Eisenhower and Herter were "all part of a preconceived intent to create a fifth column to encourage a counter-revolutionary struggle against the (Cuban) government."

He also accused the United States of trying to organize some sort of action against Cuba within the Organization of American States.

Castro rejected Eisenhower's charge that he betrayed the Cuban revolution.

"If we had done that," he said, "the American President would have called us loyal friends."

In a recent letter to the Chilean Students Federation, Eisenhower warned against communism and said democratic ideas of the Cuban revolution were being betrayed. The Chilean students replied that they felt a true revolutionary process is developing in Cuba.

Castro pointed to actions by his government, some of which have hurt American investments here. If they had not been carried out, he declared, "that would have been a betrayal of the Cuban revolution and its people."

LOOKS WEARY

"If we had not done this, Eisenhower would have called us friends of democracy and might have given us the same embrace he gave Francisco Franco (of Spain)."

During his long TV appearance Castro looked weary and coughed repeatedly, as if suffering from a cold.

He repeated charges that authorities at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo in eastern Cuba were linked to a plot against his regime. He said he knew "perfectly well" of a tie between U.S. naval authorities and counter-revolutionary elements at Santiago, capital of Oriente province, and other dissidents in the area.

Poor Eyesight Makes De Gaulle Seem Gloomy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — French President Charles de Gaulle strolling out of President Eisenhower's office at the White House Friday following their first meeting, looked like a mighty glum man.

★ ★ ★

He strode through the White House lobby, staring straight ahead and paying no attention to the correspondents surrounding him.

A Frenchman explained that while De Gaulle is a man of great dignity, his stern attitude reflected the poor condition of his eyesight more than his mood.

The French President's vision has been seriously impaired by cataracts which required surgery, and without heavy glasses he does not see clearly.

Boy Loses Fatal Game With Car

It was like a game, and Dale Brewer was "it" and he died. The six-year-old boy couldn't outguess the big machine.

Dale wasn't far from his home at 4174 Center St. in Metamora as he walked along High street yesterday. It was five o'clock and almost time to eat.

Dale was near Oak street and maybe he started to hurry because he knew his mom was preparing dinner.

He scampered out into the street from between two parked cars.

There was a screech of brakes and the boy froze still before he was too far out into the road.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Carrie Ferrier, 52, of 4104 S. Mill St., Dryden, stopped, too, in time to avoid hitting the youngster.

Mrs. Ferrier looked at the boy and he looked up at the big grill of the automobile. Both were a little annoyed at the big scare they had shared.

They waited for a few moments, giving each other the right-of-way, but Dale didn't move, so Mrs. Ferrier started up again.

Dale had become impatient and started to scurry at the last instant. Mrs. Ferrier couldn't stop in time.

Dale was killed instantly at 5:01 p.m.

A first-grade pupil at Metamora School, Dale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Brewer.

Weather Defies Calendar

We Like April in Pontiac

Residents of the Pontiac area today were basking in midsummer weather.

After reaching a high of 81 yesterday, the mercury today was approaching the record 82 for this date set in 1925. At 2 p.m. it was 85.

The red-hot Detroit Tigers, aided by balmy 81 degree temperatures, drew a record opening day crowd at Briggs Stadium yesterday.

Fair and continued warm with a low of 60 is tonight's forecast.

HIGH SUNDAY 78

Sunday will be partly cloudy with a few showers and temperatures becoming somewhat cooler. The high will be about 78.

Cloudy and rather cool with scattered showers is the outlook for Monday.

Morning winds southwesterly at 10 m.p.h. will become southerly at 15-25 m.p.h. this afternoon and 10-15 tonight.

Horizontal 'Coffin' Speeds Shot

Atlas Gets New Hangar

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Air Force is packing a new missile shooting iron today after blasting an Atlas ICBM from a revolutionary horizontal concrete firing hangar.

And the Navy successfully tested Friday a new method of launching that turns any ocean, lake or stream into a missile launching pad.

The Air Force, after the Atlas test Friday at nearby Vandenberg Air Force Base, announced the new firing method is operational or combat ready.

This means Vandenberg now has two operational launch complexes—previously completed vertical sites plus the new "coffin" or horizontal complex.

Previously Atlases, like other big missiles, have been kept in vertical posture on their pads until launching. They have been serviced with huge gantry cranes that take precious time to roll away before firing.

The new coffins are 35 by 90 feet high concrete hangers. The 83-foot Atlas is stored horizontally inside. Just before firing a roof slides back. The Atlas is set on its tail by a crane. Then it blasts off for any target within a 6,000 mile range of the West Coast facility, 125 miles north of Los Angeles.

At Point Mugu, near Vandenberg, the Navy demonstrated the novel theory that balistic missiles can be launched from the surface of oceans, lakes or streams by floating them like spar-buoys.

The 70-inch missile, rigged by three frogmen in a rubber raft, shot less than 100 feet into the sky. But the Navy said the test means oceans are now launching pads.

OKs Remarks of Budget Chief

Rep. Anderson Told Rap at Legislature Is 'Expression of Opinion'

LANSING (UPI)—Remarks by the state budget director criticizing the Legislature were "simply an expression of opinion," not violation of civil service rules, the Civil Service Commission chairman said today.

John N. Seaman, Lansing, head of the commission, told a Republican legislator that Frank Landers, the budget chief, had "the right to express political opinions."

Rep. Lloyd Anderson (R-Waterford Township) had written Seaman asking that Landers resign or be removed from civil service classification for remarks some time ago that lawmakers were not handling problems of the state as required by electors.

Anderson made similar comments on the floor of the House.

Seaman told Anderson the civil service director "has steered a careful course between the twin evils of condoning partisan activity on the one hand and interfering with the employe's right of free speech on the other."

"At all times, however, the commission has taken the view that the right to express political opinions is reserved to all employes," he said.

Snow? Really! Utah, Idaho Are Covered With It

By The Associated Press

Spring got out of character today — sultry summer in some spots, dreary winter in others.

Snow, sleet and cold rain fell in Utah, Idaho and Montana. Burley, Idaho, measured three inches of snow on the ground this morning. Two to three inches of snow covered parts of western Montana.

More snow and icy rain were forecast for Montana, Utah, northern and western Wyoming and parts of the Dakotas.

Cause of the turbulence was a storm centered over south-western Wyoming this morning and moving eastward. It was a virtual curtain between winter and summer.

★ ★ ★

While snow warnings went up in western South Dakota Friday night, Yankton in the eastern part of the state reported 95 degrees. Minneapolis tied its record high for an April 22 Friday with an 85. And 100 miles to the north this morning temperatures were in the 40s.

MSUO Schedules 5 Seminars

To Offer Child-Rearing Series

Are the current theories regarding child rearing effective?

Where does discipline begin?

What is the normal sex behavior of children?

These and similar questions, crucial to many modern parents, will be analyzed in a special series of five seminars being inaugurated at Michigan State University Oakland next Wednesday evening through the university's continuing education program.

The series is being offered in response to numerous requests for such a program by parents," according to Dr. Lowell R. Eklund, director of continuing education.

The seminars which will emphasize the discussion and analysis of specific child-rearing problems is scheduled for 7:30-9:30 p.m. on April 27, May 11, May 25, June 1, and June 8.

This series is directed at interested parents who wish to examine in depth into the growth, maturation and management of their children under the expert guidance of an experienced psychiatrist," said Eklund.

The four specific areas to be studied are dependency, sex (infantile sexuality), aggression, and restrictions and demands.

The instructor will be Dr. Richard S. Knox, practicing psychiatrist, professor of psychology at Wayne State University and psychiatric resident at the Lafayette Clinic in Detroit.

Enrollment will be limited to permit free discussion with the instructor. The fee for the series is $25. Advance reservations are necessary and may be arranged through the MSUO office of continuing education.

its teachers," Whitmer said. "Pontiac ranks below average in teachers salaries out of 52 school systems in the Detroit metropolitan area."

4. Provision should be made in the next five years for additional personnel so that the functions of research, pupil personnel and publications may be performed more effectively.

"A school system must keep pace with the rapid progress being made in education in order to maintain a quality of excellence. A sufficiently sized staff of good caliber is needed to do this. It can't be done shorthanded."

MORE PERSONNEL

5. To meet the future needs of the instructional program, additional librarian, helping teacher and guidance positions as well as the institution of a fully staffed reading clinic will be required.

"The school program must be enriched and complimented continually for maximum effectiveness in education," Whitmer said.

6. A five-year rehabilitation program should be included to care for a number of long-pending maintenance projects.

"This program," said Whitmer, "would cost more than half a million dollars. The rehabilitation projects include corridor lighting in the secondary schools, chalkboard refinishing, acoustical treatment, audio-visual treatment, heating and ventilating, floor replacement, wiring (power and stadium lighting), locker and toilet room rehabilitation, painting, parking area paving, start of sash replacement and toilet room exhaust fans in old buildings."

7. Additional maintenance trade positions should be created to meet the need of an ever-expanding school system.

8. The nursing and psychological services should be expanded as the enrollment increases.

9. Capital outlay expenditures from the operating budget should be kept as low as possible to include only those items which have been deferred during the last two years.

10. Provision should be made for funds which will permit the school district to take maximum advantage of, and to match monies provided through, the National Defense Education Act (NDEA).

"The NDEA offers opportunities to Pontiac for quality program improvements," said Whitmer. "To qualify in order to participate in the program and take advantage of the funds we must provide matching monies and additional personnel."

BIRMINGHAM — Contracts are expected to be awarded Monday night by the City Commission for a water main project totaling some $164,000.

D'Angela and Policelli Construction Co. of Warren has submitted a low bid of $97,815 for construction of a 16-inch water main along Southfield, Northlawn and Pleasant from 14-Mile road to Maple avenue.

Ben P. Fyke and Sons, Inc. of Berkley has submitted a low bid of $66,225 for construction of a 16-inch water main along Eton, Hazel and Columbia from the alley north of 14-Mile road to Maple road.

The total cost is approximately 30 per cent lower than the city engineer's estimate, according to City Manager L. R. Gare.

Gare will also recommend a contract be awarded to the Motor City Excavating Co. of Detroit for its low bid of $11,734 for construction of a water main and sanitary sewers and drainage work for Fairway drive in Birmingham Golf Estates. Gare said the bid is 37 per cent lower than the engineer's estimate.

William Koeller, president of the Birmingham Chapter of the Dale Carnegie Club International will ask the City Commission to proclaim the week of April 24 as "Good Human Relations Week" when the Commission meets Monday night.

The Bloomfield Hills Rotary Club will present awards to 10 students in each of the three Bloomfield Hills High School classes who have demonstrated the greatest accomplishments in citizenship.

Awards will be given at a banquet May 2 in the junior high school auditorium.

Also receiving awards will be three students in each of these classes who have shown the most marked improvement this year over their prior academic record.

The award winners, who will be chosen by the high school faculty, will receive copies of Roget's Thesaurus.

★ ★ ★

Guest speaker at the 6:30 p.m. banquet will be Dr. R. C. "Scottie" Young of Birmingham.

Tickets may be obtained at the high school or from Rotary members.

The new Country Day School building in Bloomfield Township, with a capacity for 100 pupils, will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Durward B. Varner, chancellor of Michigan State University Oakland, will be the main speaker.

The spring meeting of the Congregational Assn. of Detroit will be May 1 at the Congregational Church of Birmingham.

The schedule: registration at 4 p.m.; business meeting, 4:30 p.m.; an address by Dr. Hazen Price, 5:15 p.m.; supper, 6:15 p.m.

The evening session will begin at 7:30 with worship service led by the Rev. Raymond A. Fenner.

Dr. Mel J. Ravitz, Wayne State University sociologist, and director of the community organization division of the Detroit City Plan Commission, will give the evening address.

★ ★ ★

Nab Cop-Killer in Gun Battle

Californian Booked on 1st-Degree Murder in Death of Officer

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — A young cop-killer was in the San Joaquin County jail today. He surrendered meekly Friday after a running gun battle that wound up at Modesto, 40 miles south of here.

Returned here from Modesto Friday night and booked on first degree murder charge was Elbert Carter, 23, son of a Negro pator.

Young Carter, who recently qualified for the Stockton police force, was charged with slaying officer George Woehrle, 44, with the policeman's gun.

Carter told police he became enraged when Woehrle came to his home and arrested him on a statuatory rape warrant, signed by the mother of a 16-year-old girl who became a mother this week.

Carter signed a statement that he disarmed Woehrle, seized his car keys and forced him to get into his police station wagon.

★ ★ ★

created by bloody antigovernment outbursts. Police shot and killed at least 128 demonstrators and wounded nearly 800 last Tuesday.

The rioters were protesting the mid-March landslide election won by Rhee and Lee was rigged.

Since Tuesday's blood bath, the heavily armed police and troops patrolling the main centers have held their fire.

Today 3,000 students marched through the streets of Inchon demanding that Rhee and Lee resign. The students paraded for more than four hours and threw rocks at police stations and the local offices of the Liberal party. Police made no effort to halt the demonstration.

Pontiac Twp. to Hear 3 Dem Candidates

Two Democratic candidates for Congress, and one for the State Senate, will speak Monday night at the meeting of the Democratic Club of Pontiac Township.

★ ★ ★

Invited to talk to the group are congressional candidates George E. Lennox of Royal Oak and Zigmund J. Niparko of Hazel Park. Speaking about his bid for the county's Senate seat will be S. Jerome Bronson of Oak Park.

The meeting will be at 7:30 at the township hall on Opdyke road.

No Time Change in Pontiac Area

Leave your clocks alone.

Time will go on as usual in Pontiac.

People in areas switching over to daylight saving time will turn their clocks one hour ahead before going to bed tonight.

But Pontiac isn't switching over.

The lost hour will be regained by daylight saving areas when standard time is resumed in October.

Pittsburgh Newspaper Sold to Rival by Hearst

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A new newspaper called the "Post-Gazette and Sun-Telegraph" will begin rolling off the presses here next week.

The new paper results from the purchase Friday of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, an evening and Sunday paper, by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, a morning paper.

In announcing the purchase of the Sun-Telegraph from Hearst Newspapers, copublisher William Block of the Post-Gazette said the new paper will print morning, evening and Sunday editions.

Maggie Joins Union, Paints With the Best

DETROIT (AP)—Madga (Maggie) Lindahl understands the natural hesitancy of 5,000 union painters to accept her as a colleague.

* * *

"I'd feel the same way about a man selling lingerie," she said. "But the way I do my work is the important thing. When it comes to painting, I'm a natural. I love it."

* * *

Maggie has been a member of the painters union since she and her husband, Joseph, came here from California 11 years ago.

Les O'Bryant, secretary of the local, said he was flabbergasted the day she showed up. "But she proved she was a journeyman—or journeywoman — painter and we gave her a card," he said.

Getting a card was one thing, getting a job another. She looked for weeks before she found one. Once she did, other jobs followed.

* * *

The men she worked with were skeptical at first, she said. "But when they found out I was asking no favors simply because I was a woman, they accepted me."

* * *

"Maggie is just as hard and efficient a worker as any of the men I know," said Arthur Sheffler, her employer. And watching her hustle a 60-foot extension ladder around, you can believe him.

A native of Hamburg, Germany, Maggie came to this country in 1930 and went to work as a domestic. One of her employers was Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight champion.

After her marriage, Maggie went with her husband to California where Lindahl went into the home construction business. Maggie worked right along with him.

* * *

"I put on roofing, rock lath and did most of the painting," she said. "That's when I joined the union."

Maggie earns $3.40 an hour plus fringe benefits. She is a mother of three.

Meg and Tony Will Honeymoon in Caribbean

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones will spend their honeymoon cruising in the Caribbean on the royal yacht Britannia.

* * *

An announcement today from Clarence House, Margaret's residence, said the couple will embark in the yacht on the afternoon of May 6, a few hours after their wedding in Westminster Abbey.

* * *

The announcement gave no itinerary for the Caribbean cruise, but presumably they will visit some of the British possessions, which include the Bahamas, Jamaica, Trinidad, Tobago, Barbados, Antigua, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Grenada, Montserrat, St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla and British Guiana. And the British vacation colony of Bermuda is on the way.

* * *

Margaret traveled the Caribbean in 1958 as an official visitor. The gay jazz-loving princess made such a hit that she was boomed for governor-general of the West Indies Federation.

It Seems to Me . . . .

Peace, Quiet in Personal Life Among Our Greatest Essentials

It isn't often that I preach in this column, but that's what I propose to do today.

The ideas that follow will have a practical application to your own life. First, I want to quote the words of PAUL VALERY, the French writer who said:

★ ★ ★

"Universal disorder is the greatest single characteristic of the modern world, as pernicious in the realm of ideas as it is in the fields of everyday life and morals. With its encroachment, instability threatens to become the general rule. In this period of tumultuous change, continuity, tradition, balance and serenity are the supreme values. For the salvation of its soul the nation has a duty to preserve them."

★ ★ ★

"Balance and serenity have supreme values," the man says. All of our lives are too disrupted, too chaotic and in the words of another individual, "we ride off in a frenzy in all directions at the same time."

We need serenity of spirit.

We need peace and calm.

★ ★ ★

And now, I close with a brief prayer that was given to me last month on a printed slip in Montego Bay, Jamaica, by a fellow publisher who remarked simply: "You need this personally—and so do I."

And so do you.

Here it is:

"Slow me down, Lord! Ease the pounding of my heart by the quieting of my mind. Steady my hurried pace with a vision of the eternal reach of time. Give me, amidst the confusion of my day, the calmness of the everlasting hills.

"Break the tensions of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of singing streams that live in my memory. Help me to know the magical, restoring power of sleep. Teach me the art of taking minute vacations . . . of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pat a dog, to read a few lines from a good book.

★ ★ ★

"Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise, that I may know that the race is not always to the swift; that there is more to life than measuring its speed.

★ ★ ★

"Let me look upward into the branches of the towering oak and know that it grew great and strong because it grew slowly and well. Slow me down, Lord, and inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values that I may grow toward the stars of my greater destiny!"

★ ★ ★

And now—let's all heed the advice we need so badly.

And in Conclusion . . . .

Jottings from the well thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Two years ago, a company in Florida made retirement at 65 optional instead of compulsory. They report a very beneficial experience . . . . A Chicago teacher was mightily amused to read a reference on an exam paper to the song: "Drink to Me With Thine Only Eye." . . . . I learn with absolute horror that cannibalism is still prevalent in certain sectors of Africa . . . . A quiet poll strategically taken shows BARRY GOLDWATER an early first choice for GOP vice president . . . . .

MARY

. . . . . Purely personal nomination for an especially attractive local girl: MARY POWERS . . . . Nurses say currently the favorite name for new born males is "Andrew" — probably because of the royal Andrew in Great Britain.

★ ★ ★

The late Henry Ford went to executives' offices instead of summoning them to his. "I can end the meeting faster," he said . . . . Marcia Winn tells of the youngster who came home from the Easter services and described the new song: "Christ Has Rhythm." . . . . Some Dem politicos are convinced that the South will walk out on Kennedy, Symington, Humphrey or Stevenson . . . . On the exact hour Margaret is married, everyone in London will be expected to stand. The bridal procession will cover an extended route to "let everyone see." . . . . If the Olympic trials for the hundred and high hurdles are held on successive days (as they were in 1956) Pontiac's Hayes Jones will take a whirl at qualifying in both.

★ ★ ★

KENNEDY supporters claim they have 250 delegates committed. It takes 761 to nominate . . . . Tulsa is constructing a 35 million dollar air terminal and extending the runways (plural) to 10,000 feet. That makes Pontiac's few hundred thousand building seem pretty puny . . . . Overheard on Waite's corner: "We just had a blessed event at our house. The TV broke down." . . . . Another flood of naked girl magazines has hit the public stalls . . . . The British government made $600,000,000 in three years with lotteries. The churches approved. You could do that in four months here.

State Primaries: Good or Harmful?

By DALE ARNOLD

LANSING (UPI)—Will primary contests inside the Michigan Democratic and Republican parties do more harm than good?

★ ★ ★

This question is a major concern to party leaders.

Sometimes intraparty squabbles put life into a party or shatter any semblance of unity.

The answer rests largely on whether candidates can "keep it clean" as the summer temperatures and approaching Aug. 2 primary warm things on the campaign trails.

DEPENDS ON LEVEL

"It depends on the level of the campaigns and you can't tell yet," said one veteran political observer.

Most Democrats feel the competition between James Hare, John Swainson, Edward Conner and William Johnson won't split ranks and Republicans think Paul Bagwell and Carlton Morris won't hurt the party by slugging it out.

Democrats, however, do feel Bagwell and Morris may splinter the GOP as the heat of battle increases.

★ ★ ★

"The differences in philosophy between conservative Morris and liberal Bagwell are far greater than any variances among Democrats," said a Democratic follower.

Several Republicans look and hope for a breakup among Democratic followers on issues of Hare, Swainson, Conner or Johnson.

"They play hard and rough," said one GOP spokesman of the opposition.

STRENGTH IN COMPETITION

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

Faith that someone cares is the magic medicine that has helped Rescue, Inc., save hundreds of lives.

"A suicidal person needs to know there is someone who cares and wants to care," explains the Rev. Kenneth B. Murphy. He founded the organization last year in Boston after talking away the suicide plans of three persons referred to him by police. In one year the non-sectarian organization chalked up a score of 200 lives saved.

The phone at headquarters in Boston City Hospital—Hancock 6-6600—is manned 24 hours a day. Some of the volunteers are men and women once tempted to take their own lives. Calls have reached them from as far away as the Pacific islands. Soon, units may be founded in other cities. A similar organization is the long-established Save-a-Life League in New York—Murray Hill 7-2142.

'Elevator Service Would Attract More Business'

The contemplated face lift for downtown stores is well and good, but consider the interior, too.

Only three downtown stores have elevator service, one self operated. Many folks would like to shop downtown but can't climb stairs. They would have to walk to the basement to buy paint, up to the second floor for a dress and then down again. It's very difficult for a young mother with children, too, especially if she doesn't have access to adequate rest rooms where she can change the baby's diaper.

If downtown merchants had elevators or escalators and clean rest rooms with courteous attendants, their volume of business would increase.

Former Downtown Shopper

Clarifies Stand in First Letter

I agree my generation needs more responsibility. We have a heavy load now, but our adult load will be unbearable if we aren't conditioned for it while we're young.

★ ★ ★

However, I disagree with Mother of Five that our heads are swollen out of size. It's our chests that have expanded because we are so proud of our heritage. We have benefited from mistakes of our elders more than you're able to realize now. In my first letter I didn't mean we'd cast aside all we've been taught. Rather we will use newer and modern ideas of our own.

★ ★ ★

Someday our generation will be called the older generation and I hope we have as great a heritage to hand down.

Criticizes Crane's Bedwetting Advice

I read with alarm some comments Dr. Crane made about bed wetting. Fear, additional conflict and shock methods are bad enough, but when this "expert" advised that the child view his bladder as an enemy, to hate a part of himself, this is unthinkable, unhealthy and certainly un-Christian. People of Oakland County are entitled to and should demand sound professional opinion in the newspaper.

'Stevenson's Best Qualified Man'

With the campaign coming up, there's only one Republican in sight but quite a field on the other. Of these, Stevenson's best qualified, regardless of his two defeats. Nixon has already told us he'd carry on Ike's program. There are more Democrats than Republicans so no Republican can be elected without Dem votes and after their disappointment in Ike's administration, the millions of Democrats who voted for Ike will change this time.

'Are Subsidies Our Undoing?'

These foreign firms undersell the United States more and more because of their lower costs and it makes you wonder if subsidies we send abroad play a part in this. As we put our own people out of work, is part of the reason because of the billions we ship abroad?

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Saturday, April 23, the 114th day of the year, with 252 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1789, President-elect and Mrs. George Washington moved into the first presidential mansion at the corner of Franklin and Cherry streets in New York City.

In 1791, James Buchanan, 15th President of the United States, was born in Franklin County, Pa.

In 1792, "La Marseillaise," the French national anthem was written by Claude Joseph Rouget de Lisle.

In 1898, the government asked for 125,000 volunteers to assist in the war against Spain.

In 1932, the Prince of Wales presided at the opening of the Shakespeare Memorial Theater at Stratford-on-Avon, England.

A thought for today: William Shakespeare, in King Richard III said: "Talkers are no good doers."

Church Colleges Explain Aims

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

In any college where the purpose is more than imparting mere technical knowledge, both faculty and students face special problems these days.

One is that a college degree is looked upon by many as simply a status symbol, necessary not for the values behind it but only the advantages it brings in making a living. This puts pressure on the college to become little more than a diploma factory, with term papers and theses being ghost-written and no holds barred in the competition for that symbolic little piece of sheepskin.

Another problem is that our scientific culture puts pressure on the college to deliver a technological kind of education that leaves out any attempt to know the God who created these laws and wonders, or the nature of man, who discovers and enjoys them.

And of course many colleges, trying to get along without state support in order to maintain academic independence, are always on thin ice financially.

Tomorrow, as they have annually for 15 years, church and "church-related" colleges will try to put their case before as many congregations as possible. (A church-related college is one connected with some denomination by historical or traditional ties but does not receive funds from the official budget of the denomination.)

★ ★ ★

Materials for use by local congregations are provided by the National Council of Churches' Commission on Higher Education. These materials consist of a dramatized sermon, in which three persons take part in giving the people an understanding of the religious aspects of higher learning; a litany (responsively read prayer service) for the institutions and for those who teach and those who learn; a discussion program for the day's meeting of youth groups in the various churches; and a set of suggestions about how the day's worship service may be conducted with college students participating.

NO SAINT

Oliver Cromwell, born April 25, 1599, will never get into the calendar of saints, but in any historical consideration of Christianity he certainly cannot be left out. His influence on the religious life of the western world was tremendous and, indeed, is probably still being felt.

★ ★ ★

England in 1642 was torn by civil war, which began with the clash of King and Parliament over religious — or, one would better say, ecclesiastical matters. The disputes had much more to do with how the church should be organized, religious freedom and the need of bishops, than they did with the Christian faith itself.

Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

Use Vegetable Juice: Kind Doesn't Matter

Why do you prefer one or two vegetables (outside of bulk) to the pressed juice of many vegetables in a form easily assimilated in the blood stream? (Mrs. J.T.E.)

Ans.—There's no evidence that the juice of one or more vegetables is more easily assimilated than the nutritive elements in vegetables are.

DR. BRADY

If a person has teeth which are badly decayed and abscessed would this cause him to be run down, underweight and tired all the time? (R.W.)

Ans.—Yes.

Can a woman become pregnant at the age of 60? I don't want any more children . . . (Mrs. XYZ).

Ans.—It is extremely unlikely, although it happens sometimes, if the woman has not ceased menstruating.

For many years I carried health insurance. Never had any illness except tonsillitis. The company canceled my insurance because I would not submit to tonsillectomy. I am now 72 and for many years have not had a sore throat or any major illness. (Mrs. P. C. M.)

Ans.—Sounds like a breach of contract.

For nearly five years I had giant hives. Spent more than $200, no relief. Doctors said I'd always have them, as it is a nervous disease. Six dollars' worth of calcium capsules cured me. Have had only one small hive of short duration in more than 2 months. (M.L.)

Ans.—Translated, that bit about "nervous disease" means we're stumped. Pamphlet on Recurring and Giant Hives (angioneurotic edema) is available on request. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

When my boy was born 4 years ago the formula the doctor prescribed didn't seem to satisfy his hunger, so when the baby was 3 months old I gave him whole milk, undiluted. I have worried since that it may have been too strong . . . (Mrs. T. M.)

Ans. — In the New Brady Baby Book (35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope) I say undiluted whole milk may be given at the age of six months. But there's no reason to worry. Lots of babies take whole milk undiluted months earlier, and thrive on it.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Bible's Best Psychology Textbook

Although my college textbook "Psychology Applied" has had over 900 college classroom adoptions, the Bible far exceeds it in showing how psychology has been expertly applied. Clergymen like Rev. Krebs thus are following in the footsteps of Gideon, Elijah and many other Biblical psychologyists. So read your Bibles daily!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE E-442: Clarence W. Krebs is typical of the modern versatile clergyman or priest who combines religion with Applied Psychology.

★ ★ ★

He has a flourishing church in Highland Heights, Kentucky, with a large Bulletin Board in front.

Because a vast amount of auto traffic passes that church corner, Rev. Krebs tries to stimulate thinking by putting helpful quotations on that Bulletin Board, using letters 5 inches high.

DR. CRANE

Entire sermons could be woven around these snappy sayings, for they would make ideal sermon texts.

"The place to teach discipline is in the Play Pen — not the State Pen."

★ ★ ★

"Whether it's on the Highway or in an Argument — When you see red—Stop."

"One recipe for longer life—Never exceed the feed limit!"

That wise saying would make a superb Lenten sermon topic, after which the parishioners might well launch on diets. For when you lose a pound of fat, you save $2.50 in grocery bills, and can thus add that extra savings to your church offerings.

"Pickled drivers cause more accidents than traffic Jams."

"Whenever the going seems easy, be sure you are not going down hill."

"Some people think they are worth a lot of money just because they have it."

"Always speak well of your enemies — Remember, you made them."

"Prayer is a river by whose brink, some die of thirst while others kneel and drink."

GOD LIKES PSYCHOLOGY

God Almighty wants his followers to use their brains and employ clever Applied Psychology.

In fact, God started the psychological testing program in the Army by having Gideon "screen out" the unfit troops by his famous "water test". (Judges, ch. 7).

God apparently relishes men who have a scientific type of mind, for Gideon asked God to submit to some tests, and God gladly consented (See Judges, Ch. 6).

And after God had taken Gideon's tests, God saw that Gideon was still uncertain of his strategy, so God invited Gideon to make an additional test and go down in person to eavesdrop on the enemy in their tents.

This final test convinced Gideon that God was ready to deliver the vast foreign army into the hands of his 300 soldiers. But psychological warfare was then employed to increase the hysteria of the enemy (Judges Ch. 7).

Gideon also got out of a dilemma that might have brought on a second war, just by using the "Compliment Club" technique on the Ephraimites (Judges, Ch. 8).

★ ★ ★

Jephthah, too, employed the pioneer "lie detector" test and thereby ferreted out 42,000 liars, who were put to death when trying to ford the river Jordan.

Indeed, most of the Applied Psychology I use, was obtained from reading the Bible!

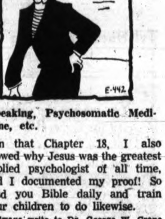
That's why I inserted Ch. 18 entitled "Psychology Goes to Church" into my widely used college textbook "Psychology Applied".

And that chapter has proved to be the most popular of all 21 chapters in my textbook! On student surveys, it far exceeded the chapters on Advertising, Salesmanship, Music, Art, Public



Speaking, Psychosomatic Medicine, etc.

In that Chapter 18, I also showed why Jesus was the greatest applied psychologist of all time, and I documented my proof! So read you Bible daily and train your children to do likewise.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Banquet to Fete Heating, Cooling Week

Boost Silver Shield Plan

The first annual Silver Shield Banquet of the Oakland County Indoor Comfort Bureau will be Monday night at 6 at Pontiac Elks Temple.

★ ★ ★

Featured speakers will be State Sen. Carlton E. Morris (R-Kalamazoo) and U.S. Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Owosso).

Both will be introduced by State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Oakland County).

Master of ceremonies will be Bryan French, president of the Oakland bureau.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS WEEK

The banquet will highlight Silver Shield Week in Pontiac, April 24-30. The week was proclaimed by Mayor Philip E. Rowston.

Silver Shield is the name given to a nationwide upgrading program of the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Assn.

Local heating and cooling dealer-contractors have been working since fall to organize the Oakland bureau and have been attending weekly training classes to acquaint them with the high standards of the national association for properly installing warm air heating and ducted air conditioning equipment.

Heating or cooling systems bearing the silver shield label must pass two tests.

The dealer must first have his plans and specifications approved and then an inspector from the local comfort bureau must approve the finished system before it gets the seal of approval.

At Monday's banquet, Homer Brundage, national trustee and chairman of the board of the Brundage Co., Kalamazoo, will present the local group with an official license to operate an indoor comfort bureau and sell silver shield systems.

WILL PRESENT CERTIFICATES

Dean Emeritus Lorin G. Miller, training school instructor, will present graduation certificates to the course members.

Among the more than 300 attending will be Mayor Rowston, City Attorney William A. Ewart, counsel for the bureau; John W. Hirlinger, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce; and James M. Martin, managing director of the national association.

Pontiac will be the third city in Michigan licensed to operate the Silver Shield Program, joining Kalamazoo and Lansing.

★ ★ ★

Active members of the Oakland bureau include Stanley M. Elbling of A. Elbling & Sons, 73 S. Parke St.; Bryan F. French of 351 N. Paddock St.; Dale F. Carney of Kast Heating & Cooling Co., 463 S. Saginaw St.; and Sol Newhouse of Wolverine Heating Co., 1234 Baldwin Ave.

Others are Stanley Garwood of Stan Garwood Heating, West Bloomfield Township; Claude M. Mercer of Mercer Heating & Sheet Metal Works, Walled Lake; Joseph Wright of Wright Sheet Metal Co., Waterford; Ernie Zilka Heating Co., Orchard Lake Village; Wayne Kasurl of Wayne Heating and Air Conditioning Co., Rochester; and Roy Maxwell of Heights Supply Heating Co., Pontiac Township.

Associate members are Foster-Kilby Supply Co., 837 Auburn Ave.; Consumers Power Co., 28 W. Lawrence St.; Detroit Safety Furnace Pipe Co. and Star Steel Supply Co., both of Detroit; Nu Way Supply Co. of Utica; and Newville Supply Co of Royal Oak.

Rate Hike Hearing on Trucks Adjourned

LANSING (UPI)—A rate hike hearing for Michigan truckers has been adjourned until May 10 to allow opponents of the 5 per cent increase to prepare their case.

★ ★ ★

William L. King, director of the PSC motor transportation division, said the rate hike was asked for through the Intrastate Motor Tariff Bureau.

The Michigan Industrial Traffic League, principal opponents of the increase, will cross-examine witnesses May 10 and 11, King said.

He said the intrastate group was basing its request on increased labor costs which have come since the last rate hike which was granted in June 1958.

★ ★ ★

Since then, there have been several wage hikes for truckers, the last one coming in February of this year, King said.

Credit Card Craze Creeps Into the Orient

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The credit card craze is going Oriental, and nowadays you can dine and sign in Tokyo or Bangkok almost as easily as you can in the United States.

So says Alfred Bloomingdale, president of Diners' Club, one of the three largest American "pay later" plans. Bloomingdale recently returned from a 48,000-mile trip around the world.

"You can go around the world now," Bloomingdale said, "and spend cash on only taxicabs and tips. Credit cards will take care of the rest, including ticket, hotel, food, shopping and transportation."

The executive said he only spent a little more than $100 in cash during the five weeks he was traveling and helping to set up Diners' Clubs in such unlikely places as India, Egypt and Lebanon.

The firm already had clubs in such places as Japan and the Philippines.

Reflections

"Be Gentle. Show Compassion"

J. L. VOORHEES

I was told, "She was the Dianna of a big hospital for forty years." I called. Her hair was like blizzard-driven snow, coal-black eyes danced, the myriad lines on her face seemed to weave as she smiled. Her voice rippled as she said, "I nursed my mother, then my husband, worked twelve hours a day ministering to the sick. You ask, 'Would you repeat your life?' and I am happy to say, you bet I would."

"I have sifted and sorted all the material that has made my life a heavenly experience and have retained the four words of advice my mother gave me: 'Be Gentle, Show Compassion.' As I look back over those years I see patients whose tongues cut like a Bull Whip, those who whined, those who looked at death and smiled, those who cringed and those who fought to live; those four words were the invisible medicine bringing peace to both patients and myself. Through them I saw the Bull Whip lose its bite, assurance to the whiner, courage to the timid and the second breath to the brave."

That advice, "Be Gentle and Show Compassion" is as necessary to a person on the street as it is to a Nurse.

WHY DO DENOMINATIONS EXIST?

In an article last week we presented arguments which proved conclusively that this modern idea of denominationalism is not taught in the Bible nor is it endorsed by the Bible. DENOMINATIONALISM IS AS FAR FROM THE BIBLE AS THE NORTH POLE IS FROM THE SOUTH POLE. How intelligent, honest, sincere, conscientious minded Bible reading individuals can associate and affiliate with such a system of mockery as is displayed by denominationalism is incomprehensible. This can be seen by noticing the following points:

1. Jesus prayed for unity of all believers. Jno. 17:21
Question: If all believers are not unified, do they disrespect the prayer of our Lord?
2. Paul constantly wrote condemning division and encouraging unity. I Cor. 1:10
Question: Denominationalism encourages division, is this not a mockery of Paul's statement?
3. The Bible teaches us to walk by faith and faith cometh by hearing the Word of God. Rom. 10:17, II Cor. 6:17
Question: Is one walking by faith when the Bible does not endorse the way he walks?

In view of these truths, I say with Paul, "COME YE OUT FROM AMONG THEM AND BE YE SEPARATE." II Cor. 6:17

To our question, WHY DO DENOMINATIONS EXIST TODAY? This question is worthy of thorough consideration, particularly in view of the fact our discussion has shown denominationalism to be contradictory to the Bible. Any Bible student of integrity will readily admit that in the days of the apostles, "NO DIFFERING DENOMINATIONS EXISTED" (The Standard Manual for Baptist Churches, E. T. Hiscox, D.D.). Since they did not then, why now? I answer, DENOMINATIONS EXIST TODAY FOR AT LEAST ONE OR ALL OF THE FOLLOWING REASONS:

1. They teach something more than the apostles taught (and the apostles were guided into all truth.) or:
2. They teach something less than the apostles taught (and the apostles were guided into all truth.) or:
3. They teach something different from the apostles' teaching (and the apostles were guided into all truth) or:
4. They teach a modification of that which the apostles taught (and the apostles were guided into all truth.)

In view of this, denominationalism cannot possibly be right, what should one do? "COME YE OUT FROM AMONG THEM." II Cor. 6:17. I marvel with Paul in Galatians 1:6, 7 when he said, "I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel: Which is not another, but there may be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ."

BELIEVETH THOU THIS?

HOSPITAL CHAPEL — The new chapel of Pontiac General Hospital will be dedicated Sunday afternoon with the Rev. Myron R. Everett of Baldwin Avenue United Brethren Church and the Rev. Philip Somers of Marimont Babtist Church presiding. The altar of birch holds a brass cross and candlesticks. The carpet of beige and brown blends with the cream colored walls. The backdrop curtain is of maroon velvet. The chapel seats 35 persons on chairs of gold and cream with maroon leather covered cushions.

Pontiac General Hospital Chapel to Be Dedicated

The Rev. Myron R. Everett, president of the Pontiac Pastors' Association, and the Rev. Philip W. Somers, chairman of the chaplains' group, will be in charge of the dedication of the new chapel at Pontiac General Hospital at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The service will include an address by Mayor Philip E. Rowston.

* * *

Offering the invocation will be the Rev. Theodore R. Allebach of the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church. The service of dedication will be read by the Rev. Edmond I. Watkins of the Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

Harold B. Euler will accept furnishings of the chapel and present the keys to the chaplain's committee. The prayer of dedication will be by the Rev. Mr. Somers.

After the brief service the chapel will be open to the public from 3:15 to 4:30 p.m.

* * *

The chapel was furnished by the Pontiac Pastors' Association with Temple Beth Jacob and Congregation B'nai Israel sharing in the cost.

* * *

The dedication ceremony will be recorded and rebroadcast from 6 to 6:30 p.m. Sunday over WPON.

PATIENTS ATTEND SERVICES—Protestant, Jewish, Christian Science and Roman Catholic services are held weekly for patients at Pontiac State Hospital. The Rev. John Trese of Catholic Social Services of Oakland County conducted a service on Good Friday for patients of the Catholic faith. The 14th annual open house at Pontiac State Hospital will be held May 1-3 in conjunction with National Mental Health Week.

Community Giving Cooperative Effort

Provide State Hospital Worship

Religious services for patients at Pontiac State Hospital are based on a cooperative effort, with the community providing the clergy to carry out its religious programs.

"This phase of hospital life is important not only to the patients, but also to the patients' relatives.

"Today, more than ever, we realize that real health and happiness are qualities which are physical, psychological, moral and spiritual in character," said Ted Panaretos, community relations director.

Protestant services are held each Sunday afternoon.

MASS SUNDAY MORNING

Roman Catholic Mass is offered each Sunday morning in the hospital chapel by the Rev. John Trese, and confessions are heard each Saturday.

Jewish services are conducted the first Saturday of each month by Rabbi Nathan Hershfield at Temple Beth Jacob.

Christian Science services, arranged by Mrs. Elizabeth Root, take place each Wednesday.

Protestant pastors serving on a rotating basis include Dr. William H. Marbach of First Presbyterian, Dr. Milton H. Bank of Central Methodist, the Rev. C. George Widdifield of All Saints Episcopal, and the Rev. Theodore R. Allebach of Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian.

Also participating are the Rev. Paul T. Hart of First Methodist, the Rev. James Deeg of Oakland Park Methodist, the Rev. Guy Smith of St. Stephen Lutheran, Drayton Plains, and the Rev. Myron R. Everett of Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren.

Dr. Walter H. Obenauf, medical superintendent of the hospital, said the annual open house at Pontiac State Hospital and other mental hospitals is an excellent way to acquaint the public with the treatment and care programs of a psychiatric setting.

RUNS MAY 1-3

The 14th annual open house at Pontiac State Hospital will be May 1-3 from 1-4 p.m. daily.

There will be conducted tours, discussions and the ever popular variety show which is written, produced and performed by patients.

This year the patients have chosen as a theme, "We the Patients Salute the Community."

The musical show will feature a Japanese background with singing, dancing and instrumental numbers.

As one of the hospital's patients so aptly puts it, "We the patients, the personnel, and our beloved volunteers invite one and all to our 14th Annual Open House."

REV. WILLIAM F. FITZWATER

Associate Minister Called to Emmanuel

The Rev. William F. Fitzwater has accepted the call to serve as associate pastor at Emmanuel Baptist Church, working with Dr. Tom Malone, pastor.

A graduate of Missionary Bible School in Charleston, W. Va., he took special Christian courses at the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago and was ordained a missionary Baptist preacher.

For several years the new pastor was associated with the Rev. Robert M. Parr of Gilead Baptist Church in Detroit. Before coming to Detroit he spent 12 years in evangelistic work and seven years on daily radio programs in Charleston. Hunting and fishing are his hobbies.

The Rev. and Mrs. Fitzwater make their home at 1101 Berkley St.

Past Will Come Alive at Local Antique Show

A handsome white embroidered dress which belonged to a great-grandmother is worn by Mrs. James C. Clarke Jr., left, of Avondale avenue as she examines a hundred year old quilt with Mrs. Don Harrison of Mark avenue. The quilt and antique jewelry the women are wearing will be on display through Saturday at All Saints Antique Show.

Heirloom quilts and hand-loomed coverlets will be used to decorate the balcony overlooking Pontiac's 1960 Antique Show and Sale Thursday through Saturday in Steven's Hall, All Saints Episcopal Church.

★ ★ ★

Cherished old dresses, the height of fashion, 50, 75 or 100 years ago, will be worn by models and committee members.

Other personal family treasures have been loaned to add color and interest to the occasion.

Opening day, when Mrs. James C. Clarke Jr. will register guests, she will wear a white embroidered dress, fragile with age, handed down from her husband's great-grandmother, Jenny Clarke.

WEDDING DRESS LOANED

A wedding dress of stiff silk, now a deep ivory, heavily embroidered with pearls, is being loaned by Mrs. Gerald Guinan and her daughter Mrs. Harry Linbocker.

It was originally worn by Harry Linbocker's grandmother.

Mrs. Galen Blaylock is lending a silk foulard dress of Alice blue with small white figures and trimmed with white tucked net. It was worn long ago by the late Mrs. Benjamin Blaylock.

★ ★ ★

Other frocks, once fashionable, now charmingly quaint, have been loaned by Mrs. Ross Stockwell, Mrs. Don Stoll, Mrs. Hilton Phipps, Mrs. Frank Stull, Mrs. Lloyd Pardee, Mrs. Vernon Abbott and Mrs. Maynard Slater.

Among those modeling the dresses will be Mrs. Walter Wharton, Mrs. Howard Kinsey, Mrs. Jack MacDonald, Mrs. Charles Evans, Janet Evans, Mrs. Frank Stull, Mrs. Normand Durocher, Mrs. Don Harrison, Mrs. Frederick Cockle and Mrs. Edward Silk.

Mrs. Lena Hamilton of Judson street will display a quilt given to her by an uncle, Philip Brock Phelps, and made by his bride before their marriage in 1856 in Marion, N. Y.

WREATH OF ROSES

Mr. Phelps and his wife moved to Pontiac and lived for many years at Saginaw and Whittemore St. The quilt is appliqued in wreath of roses design.

Contribution of Mrs. Milo Cross is a quilt made by her grandmother of pieces of silk and velvet set together in "crazy quilt" design.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Howard Henderson of Green Lake, a newcomer to the area, is showing a fringed, hand-loomed, red, blue and green coverlet, more, than 100 years old.

★ ★ ★

A white quilt with design outlined in red and one appliqued in tulip pattern is also from Mrs. Henderson.

A striking quilt appliqued in an orange, pink and green morning glory design and recently inherited by Mrs. A. S. Lundy, Sodom road, Bloomfield Hills, will be on display.

It was made by Mr. Lundy's great-grandmother in 1853 as a wedding gift to ther daughter.

5TH GENERATION OWNER

Mrs. Lundy's small daughter Kathleen will be a fifth generation owner of the treasure.

Flower garden quilts belonging to Mrs. Fred Coleman and Mrs. Thomas Atkinson will be shown.

Others of pieced and appliqued design are being loaned by Mrs. Collis Scott, Mrs. Harry Baker, Mrs. William McClure and Mrs. Robert Stewart.

★ ★ ★

Family personal treasures are being loaned by Mrs. James C. Clarke of Waterford, Mrs. Maynard Slater, Mrs. Maxwell Shadley and Bruce Meixell.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Horace Hall and Mrs. Normand Durocher are Co-chairmen of decorations. Assisting them with arrangements are Miss Eleanor Harms, Mrs. Fred Coleman and Mrs. Walter Wharton.

Pearl Jewelry Bigger, Bigger

(UPI) — The size of pearls in costume jewelry grows with each season. Now, they come in both the size and shape of onions.

★ ★ ★

Designer Judith McCann does necklaces, one, two or three strand, in a new bead which looks like it might have come right off a produce counter. Matching earrings are gold hoops with onion pearl drops.

Flower Glasses

(NEA) — When the spring sun starts to dazzle, treat yourself to a pair of sunglasses framed in fabric flowers. You can pick sweet peas, daisies, cornflowers, roses or violets.

Changing Dinner Date All Depends

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I invited two couples to dine with my husband and me on a certan night. In the meantime, we received an invitation to a dinner dance for that same evening. It is one of the nicest social events of the season and we would like very much to go.

Would it be at all permissible for me to call our friends and postpone the dinner for another night?

★ ★ ★

Answer: You cannot correctly postpone a dinner because you have received an invitation to do something else that evening. On the other hand, if you know both these couples very well, and you all dine together frequently they may not mind if you explain and invite them for another night.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: When setting a table, is it not customary to place all the silver that will be needed during the meal, on the table—including the dessert implements? A friend of mine tells me that the dessert implements should not be included in the table setting and that correctly they are brought in with the dessert.

Answer: In a formally run house the dessert implements are brought in with the dessert course. In a house without service, it is more practical to place them above each place plate when the table is set.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how to address a letter correctly to a widow friend who is living with her married son and his wife? This son was named for his father but has dropped the junior from his name since his father's death, thus leaving two Mrs. John Smiths. As it is socially incorrect to address a widow as Mrs. Mary Smith, how can I designate the letter is for the elder Mrs. Smith without using her given name?

Answer: You can address her as Mrs. John Smith Sr.

Southern Vacationers Flock Home

Mr. and Mrs. John Jackolow and son Dick have returned to their home on South Marshall street after a trip to New York City. The Jackolows visited their daughter Evelyn Therese recently returned to New York after a 10-month tour of Europe.

She saw the Holy Land during a break in her four-month stay in Rome.

Miss Jackolow is a graduate of Marygrove College and University of Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Thomas C. Fitzpatrick opened her home on St. Joseph avenue, West Bloomfield Township to Detroit Women Writers' Club members for luncheon Tuesday. Area members present were Mrs. Arthur Bryson McWood, Bloomfield Hills, immediate past president; Mrs. Gale B. Sprague, Birmingham; Mrs. Madeleine G. Doeren, Foxcroft; and Mrs. Norman A. Lull, Clawson.

The group of professional writers meets twice a month for workshops in the Women's City Club, Detroit.

Robert K. Cadman, son of the William P. Cadmans of La-Salle street, was among students at Michigan Tech. in Houghton initiated into Tau Beta Pi honorary engineering fraternity. Mr. Cadman, a junior, is majoring in mechanical engineering.

★ ★ ★

Consul and Mrs. Hermann Holzheimer have arrived in Pontiac from Brazil. Mrs. Holzheimer is the daughter of Mrs. Satenig Kevorkian of Cherokee road, and the late Lewis Kevorkian.

PTA Will Buy Slide

George Caronis, executive secretary of protective services in Pontiac, was guest speaker for Wever PTA Thursday at the school.

Mr. Caronis spoke on community crime prevention programs, commenting, "The community must gear its efforts in training and control before children come to the attention of juvenile courts."

Sharon O'Gorman Weds

Bride Wears Mother's Veil

An heirloom mantilla type veil of Bruges lace worn by her mother, provided the traditional 'something old' worn by Sharon O'Gorman for her marriage to David Smith Glass today in Christ Church Cranbrook.

Reception in Oakland Hills Country Club followed vows pledged before the Rev. William C. Norvell, associate rector.

★ ★ ★

Former Birmingham residents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman O'Gorman Jr. of Tucson, Ariz., are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn S. Glass of Vaughan road, Bloomfield Hills.

★ ★ ★

Ivory silk peau de soie fashioned the floor-length bridal gown which swept into a cathedral train. The dome-shaped skirt was draped with a small bustle back. Elbow-length shirred pouf sleeves were caught with tiny peau de soie roses.

White orchids, stephanotis and valley lilies comprised the semi-cascade bouquet.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Scott E. O'Gorman, matron of honor, appeared in a princess-style dress of Ming blue silk organza. Shirred bands of the fabric were set into the dome-shaped skirt.

In identical dresses were Nancy Glass, Bonnie Glass, Frances Kyes and Mrs. Daniel M. Bovie, bridesmaids. They wore velvet headbands and carried white roses.

On the esquire side were Harvey Pranian Jr., best man, and ushers Scott E. O'Gorman, Walter S. Willett, Robert Douglas, Edmond J. Danziger Jr. and William Hoehner.

To begin the honeymoon trip to Nassau, the bride changed to a navy costume suit with accents of Kelly green. The couple will live in the Bloomfield Terraces on their return.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. O'Gorman chose Venetian pink Chantilly lace over silk organza. Mrs. Glass appeared in beige Italian raw silk trimmed in re-embroidered lace. Both mothers wore orchids.

MRS. DAVID SMITH GLASS

Wed today in Christ Church Cranbrook were Sharon O'Gorman, daughter of the junior John Sherman O'Gormans of Tucson, Ariz., and David Smith Glass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn S. Glass of Bloomfield Hills.

Do-C-Do Club Ends Season With Dinner

A buffet dinner Thursday evening at the McCarroll School closed the season's activities for the Do-C-Do Square Dance Club.

Robert Newill, master of ceremonies, directed a specialty number with dancers Dr. and Mrs. Ned Colburn, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shaw, the Charles Futtrells and the Russell Newmans.

The George Newtons presented a skit, "Weekend Up North." Mr. Newill gave an impersonation of Elvis Presley.

Winners for the most original spring hats made on-the-spot from materials provided were Mrs. Donald Lyon and Clyde Highlen.

Russell Fahr and Mr. Shaw completed dinner arrangements. Mrs. Melvin Hall and Mrs. Lyon planned decorations.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Allen.

Stardust Ball Set Friday

The third annual Stardust Ball—the combined effort of the Men's Club and St. Bernadette's Guild at St. Benedict Church—is set for Friday evening.

★ ★ ★

Setting will be the Pontiac Country Club. Festivities will get under way at 9 p.m. with live music by a local orchestra.

Mrs. Richard Pfeffer and Dr. John Schmitt are cochairmen of this year's ball.

★ ★ ★

Assisting them on committees are James Loviska and Mrs. Ernest Mallory, tickets; Mrs. Leonard Kruchko and Edward Latendresse, publicity, and Mrs. Raymond Valentine and Noel Heiden, decorations.

Bride School Starts Tuesday

Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. the spring school for brides will have its first session. Presented by Consumers Power Co., the six week course is open to anyone in this area. "We have had 'brides' of 30 years," says Mary E. Jackson, who is directing the school.

Among the subjects to be discussed will be "Stretching the Food Dollar," flower arranging, kitchen planning, laundry, informal entertaining and foreign cookery.

Sessions will be held in the auditorium of Consumers Power in Royal Oak. There is no admission fee.

Bell Program to Precede OES Card Party

Mrs. Joseph L. Bennett will present a brief program on "Bells from Home and Abroad" preceding the annual card party for Pontiac Chapter 228, OES.

★ ★ ★

Chairman of the Wednesday evening event in Pontiac Federal Saving and Loan Building is Mrs. Clarence Curry. Mrs. Paul K. Hagle is cochairman.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Charles H. Bayne is directing the ticket sale and Mrs. Roy W. Wilton is handling publicity.

Putting their best foot forward for the third annual Stardust Ball of St. Benedict Church are Mrs. Richard Pfeffer, left, of Genella street, and Ed Latendresse of Franklin Lane. Jim Loviska of Ogemaw road and Mrs. Leonard Kruchko of South Roslyn street look on with approval.

Abby Says: Then PDQ Makes It COD

Stop Those Charges at Source

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 36, a master sergeant in the Air Force, stationed in Alaska. I haven't been home in eight months, but I'm due to get back in June.

ABBY

I have a lovely wife (35) and three wonderful children. My problem is that my wife is an habitual "charger," and she never pays her bills. My commanding officer gets letters from disgruntled merchants and I'm hauled on the carpet for it. I've had to do some fast talking, believe me.

I send my wife plenty of money, but she charges anyway and then disregards the bills. What should I do, Abby? My parents tell me to divorce her, but I hate to give up my children. What do you think?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: It's difficult to inform all the merchants back home while you are in Alaska, but make a stab at it. Write and tell them to close your wife's charge account. And when you get home, tell her she'll have to start buying things COD and PDQ.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Would you please tell me how to get $27 before my mother finds out it is gone?

My boy friend told me if he didn't get $27 right away, he would be in such serious trouble he might have to run away. I knew where my mother kept her savings, so I took the money, planning to put it back before she noticed it was gone. Now my boy friend can't pay me back like he said he would. I need help right away, Abby, and don't know where to turn. We are both 16.

MISS TROUBLES

DEAR MISS TROUBLES: Don't wait for your mother to discover the money is missing. Tell her. Offer to earn the money and try to pay it back that way. And by the way, any boy who would involve a girl in a mess of this kind is selfish, inconsiderate and morally bankrupt. If you're wise, you'll drop him.

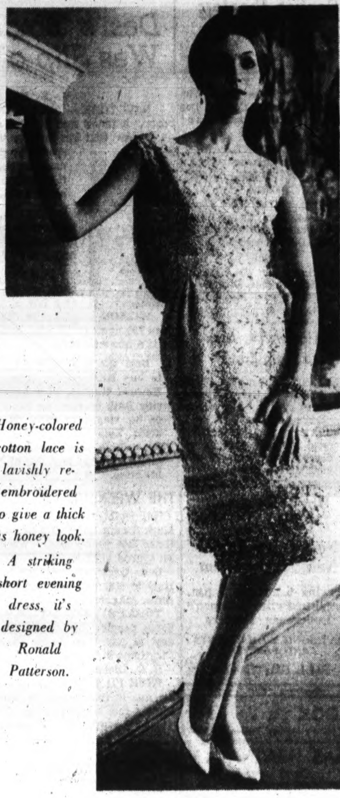
DEAR ABBY: Please print this for people who are considering divorce: The biggest heartache of my life came when my parents parted. I loved my Daddy so much but never got to see him except for a few hours now and then.

If my parents had been in business and the going got rough they would have worked extra hard to save that business. Yet they didn't save their marriage because they didn't really try. Because of that, I grew up without a Daddy. I missed him especially at my confirmation, graduation and at my wedding.

My parents are both nice people, but they didn't have the backbone to save our home. Why do parents bring children into the world and then willfully make half-orphans of them? I would make lots of sacrifices before I'd hurt my child the way I was hurt.

MRS. MARRIED FOR KEEPS

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.



Honey-colored cotton lace is lavishly re-embroidered to give a thick as honey look. A striking short evening dress, it's designed by Ronald Patterson.

Nearly 200 at Card Party

Nearly 200 guests attended Omega Mu Sigma Sorority's spring card party at Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building.

Mrs. Kuga Kojima was chairman.

Committee heads were Mrs. Leo Halfpenny, prizes, assisted by Mrs. Merrill Petrie; Mrs. Ray Peterson, tickets; Mrs. Wayne Anable, Mrs. John Jadwin and Mrs. Walter LaPlante, refreshments; Mrs. Floyd Wilson, Mrs. Carl Coster and Mrs. Ray Koskela, tables and cards.

Mrs. Patrick Cullen was publicity chairman.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Coster and Mrs. John Gunther designed tissue box table prizes for the Thursday gathering.

Members will meet Tuesday evening with Mrs. Louis Livingston of Woodbine drive.

Mrs. Gillies President of Society

The Women's Society of Christian Service at Oakland Park Methodist Church has elected officers.

Mrs. Clayton Gillies is president. She will work with Mrs. Fay Magner, vice president; Mrs. Charles Baynes, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Gallagher, secretary of promotion; Mrs. John Lamont, recording secretary; and Mrs. Joseph Wagley, secretary of missions.

Mrs. Emerson Brown is secretary of Christian Social Relations. Others assuming duties are Mrs. Bert Weddle, secretary of local church activities; Mrs. Gerald Wright, secretary of student work; Mrs. Earl Foster, secretary of youth work; Mrs. Walter Dempsey, secretary of children's work; Mrs. Frank Martin, secretary of spiritual life; and Mrs. John Wethy, secretary of literature and publications.

Mrs. Frank Parks is secretary of supply work and Mrs. Albert Barker, chairman of nominations.

Mrs. Elton Behnke, Mrs. Ray Coombe, Mrs. Irl Williams and Mrs. Rowley Chase are on the nominating committee.

Mrs. Robert Gallagher presided at a memorial service when members met Tuesday at the church.

Devotions on the theme "The Cross" were read by Mrs. Robert Walters.

Rebecca Circle will be hostess for the May 12 meeting.

Tired, Have Gout, Arthritis?

Old From Overweight?

Overweight has been related to many ills and symptoms, and obviously it is wise to watch your weight from a health standpoint. This girl is checking Josephine Lowman's calorie chart.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here are some things you might like to know.

1. In crippling arthritis overweight is believed to be a factor.

2. Gall bladder disease is most often found in overweight women.

3. It has been demonstrated that at every age, in both men and women, blood pressure increases with an increase in body weight.

4. Men who are overweight are more apt to have rheumatism and gout.

5. Overweight places a strain on the heart because it gives the heart much more work to do, pumping blood through thousands of feet more blood vessels.

6. Overweight often causes postural defects. These may interfere with correct respiration, crowd internal organs and place a strain on body mechanics.

AFFECTS PERSONALITY

Through my experience with students I know what a tremendous effect too many pounds can have on the personality. Extra pounds may breed self-consciousness, fatigue and a lack of interest in good grooming and an attractive appearance.

With all of this evidence it does seem that we might be more careful about maintaining our correct weight. From middle age on it is even healthier to be a bit underweight.

However, I think that a few more pounds (not more than five) than ideal at age 25 are becoming to a woman from middle age on. Her figure is still good and her face looks fresher.

★ ★ ★

If you would like to have my calorie chart, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Women of the Moose Will Gather Monday

Women of the Moose, Pontiac chapter 360 will attend an enrollment meeting Monday May 2, in Moose Hall with Mrs. Charles S. Messer, membership chairman, in charge.

The nominating committee appointed Monday evening will meet later in the month.

Pillar Club Holds Dinner

Twenty members of the Pillar Club met for a cooperative dinner, with Mrs. Harold Haskins and Mrs. Robert Haskins cohostesses at the latter's home on Walnut Lake road.

Mrs. Arno L. Hulet, program chairman, presented Mrs. Ross Hulet who gave two humorous readings.

Mrs. Robert Haskins gave devotions, "This I Believe!" with a background of recorded music.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Paul Taylor, Mrs. Frederick Holmes and Mrs. Hulet served on the Tuesday evening dinner committee.

Loss Rising in U.S.

Hair's Falling Story for Women

CHICAGO (AP) — More women are complaining that they are losing their hair today than five years ago — but the country's leading skin and scalp experts can pinpoint neither cause nor cure.

★ ★ ★

The cause could be hard nylon brushes, or spray sets, or pregnancy, or over-worry, or scalp-tightening coiffures, or food, or surgery, or infectious diseases, an article in the American Medical Assn.'s Archives of Dermatology.

The treatment might be steady, gentle washing with pure soap, or abstinence from hair-stretching curlers, or avoidance of pony-tails, or just plain waiting it out, the article says.

Three New York dermatologists — skin specialists — include a steadying note in their report on female hair loss — technically known as "diffuse alopecia."

BAD TREND UNLIKELY

The chance of a woman becoming totally or even alarmingly bald, they say, is slim.

The chance of the trend becoming a dangerous one is equally slim.

And the chance of the disturbing patches of scalp regaining their covering after a while is good.

★ ★ ★

The dermatologists — Drs. Marion B. Sulzberger, Victor H. Witten and Alfred W. Kopf — noted the increase in their own practice.

They sent questionnaires to the 170 members of the American Dermatological Assn. Of 106 replies, these statistics were culled:

About 53 per cent of the doctors reported an increase of diffuse alopecia. Thirty per cent reported no increase. The rest were uncertain or did not report.

AVERAGE AGE 39½

The average age of patients who reported losing their hair was 39½ years. But hair loss was reported from 15 to 70.

Only a few characteristics seemed to prevail in all cases. The loss occurred only on the scalp, not in other areas of the body. Growth of hair was not excessive.

The hair tended to be oily and to lose its luster. The thinning spots were concentrated at the crown of the head or toward the front.

While convinced that diffuse alopecia was on the upswing, the authors noted other factors which might account for the increase in complaints.

It could simply reflect, they pointed out, the latest in haircare advertising, smaller hat styles, better financial means for correcting these "less serious complaints" or a greater reliance on specialists today than five years ago.

Similar increases in hair loss were reported from Italy and France.

Hunt-Jones Nuptials Solemnized in Oxford

Nuptials of Patricia Jones of State street and James W. Hunt Jr. of Detroit were solemnized by the Rev. Anthony Nelson, Saturday, in Immanuel Congregational Church, Oxford. Palms and candelabra flanked the altar which held chapel vases of white snapdragons and stock.

MRS. JAMES W. HUNT JR.

Receiving guests with the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Arla Jones of Oxford, in the church parlors, were the James W. Hunts of Toledo, Ohio, parents of the bridegroom

★ ★ ★

A cascade of orchids and stephanotis complemented the bridal gown of white silk taffeta, styled with chapel train. The fingertip veil was attached to a high-crowned satin cap with mother-of-pearl and sequin trim.

Honor matron Mrs. Richard Benne of Grosse Pointe Woods and bridesmaids Sue Kennaday and Carole Thompson of Ortonville wore bouffant mint green taffeta. Colonial bouquets of white and pink carnations complemented their shoes and hats, also of mint green.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. William Archer stood as best man for the bridegroom. Guests were seated by Robert von Storch of Mount Clemens and Charles Hartman of Grand Rapids.

Before leaving on a Mexican honeymoon, the new Mrs. Hunt changed to a Dior blue floral print and coat, hat and gloves of Dior blue.

Mrs. Jones chose beige silk brocade with matching accessories and a green hat for her daughter's wedding. Her flowers were pale pink carnations. Pale green cymbidium orchids complemented Mrs. Hunt's beige silk ensemble.

The bride is a graduate of Michigan State University. She is affiliated with Chi Omega social sorority and Alpha Delta Kappa professional teachers' sorority. The bridegroom, alumnus of Kenyon College, is a member of Sigma Pi fraternity.

The newlyweds will live in Pontiac.

Lutheran Group Studies Life, Work of Amos

Ruth Unit of Augustana Lutheran Church women met Thursday in the church parlor. Luncheon hostesses were Mrs. Oscar Frisk, Mrs. John Wennsten and Mrs. Ragner Danielson.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Danielson gave devotions and Mrs. William Park conducted a study and discussion on the "Life and Work of Amos."

Tickets for the "Luncheon Is Served" program in May were made available.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Addie Robinson of Kansas City, Mo., was a guest.

Have You Tried This?

Bake Some Gingersnaps to Serve After School

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today's recipe is for "the best ginger cookies I've ever eaten." The speaker was Mrs. C. R. Gault, a newcomer in Rochester. She shares this recipe with Press readers.

★ ★ ★

Bowling and music are two of Mrs. Gault's favorite leisure time activities. In the homemaking field baking is her hobby. The Gaults have three children.

MOLASSES GINGERSNAPS
By Mrs. C. R. Gault

1⅓ cups shortening
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
½ cup molasses
4 cups flour
2 tablespoons baking soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons cloves
2 teaspoons ginger

Cream shortening, add sugar and beat well. Add eggs and molasses and blend in thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients.

Roll into small balls and place on greased cookie sheets. Bake in 375-degree oven until done, or about 10 minutes. But watch them carefully so they do not burn.

Gardeners in Election

Sylvan Lake Branch, Women's National Farm and Garden Assn. Inc., elected officers Thursday at a meeting in the Oakland County Boat Club.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Albert E. Kohn was reelected president; Mrs. Wayne Smith, first vice president; Mrs. Henry Green, second vice president; Mrs. Raymond Dombrowski, recording secretary; Mrs. Irving Menucci, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Eugene Johnson, treasurer.

The scholarship fund was continued for 1960 and a teacher representative will be sent to the Higgins Lake Conservation Workshop this summer.

Hostesses were Mrs. Gordon Dickie, Mrs. Charles Chandler, Mrs. Eugene Crawford and Mrs. William Sanderson. Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. C. W. Doerr presided at the tea table.

Arch Eyebrows

Extension Club Gets Together

The Professional Homemaking Extension Club met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. James Skaggs on Depew street.

Mrs. Richard Lasho spoke on "Why Your Child Misbehaves" and Mrs. H. James Elliott gave a talk concerning "Playing With Your Child Creatively."

★ ★ ★

Open discussion followed reading of reports from the recent Michigan State University Oakland conference.

The May 18 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Elliott on Sashabaw road.

Conduct Joint Installation

A joint installation of Royal Chief Pontiac No. 3 Canton and its Ladies Auxiliary was held Thursday at Knights of Malta Temple.

Inducted by Lady Mabel Cameron of Hazel Park, state president of the auxiliary, were Lady Genevieve (Mrs. Daniel) Kent, president; Lady Shirley (Mrs. John) Utley, vice president; Lady Hazel (Mrs. Alonzo) Lewis, secretary; Lady Gladys (Mrs. Ted) Monroe, treasurer; Lady Ethel Kline, chaplain; and Lady Margaret (Mrs. Loren) Beech, sentry.

A staff of 25 accompanied Mrs. Cameron in officiating.

★ ★ ★

A luncheon followed.

Africa Pictures Shown to Club

Better Home and Garden Club members saw pictures of Africa presented by Margaret Steward at a meeting Thursday in the Adah Shelly library.

Mrs. John Lyons was chairman for the afternoon. Serving on her committee were Mrs. Emery Kaid and Mrs. D. L. Brown.

Plans for sending a teacher to the state conservation school at Higgins Lake this summer were discussed.

Tall? Hear Ye

(NEA) — Nothing will cut your height so much as a dark skirt and a light blouse. If you are overweight, avoid this contrast. Wear skirts and blouses that are matching or you will create the illusion of being even heavier than you are.

Desi's 'Boxing Career' Was Slip of the Tongue

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "Tell us the story about when you were a boxer," a fellow said to Desi Arnaz a few nights ago.

"Aw, that was the trouble I got into because I couldn't speak English," grinned Desi, staring down at the table cloth. "I got inna hab-it of saying 'Yeah, yeah, to everything be-cause I couldn't understand anything.

WILSON

"So this guy," said Desi, "tells people I'm amateur boxing champion of Cuba and want to challenge the best fights in St. Leo, Fla. And I say 'Yeah, yeah.' What a mistake!"

Desi clapped his hand to his head. It was hard now to envisage this famous TV mogul as a boy of 16, back in about 1934. As chief of Desilu Studios which next year will produce 750 hours of TV film, equivalent to 600 full-length movies, he is a powerful figure.

Desi the man who was to buy RKO Studios from Howard Hughes, with Lucille Ball, became the boss of 35 stages covering 40 acres. This was the Cuban boy whom television had made as big as any star of his time.

Some Americans Exploit Quarters

Canada Halts Coinage Racket

By The Associated Press

Canadian newspapers have not worked up any particular indignation over a United States paper's suggestion that Americans spend their vacations at home to avoid the Canadian discount on U. S. currency.

An Associated Press survey of reaction in this country shows papers pointing out that the discount rate is set in the U. S. money markets and also noting amiably that in most parts of the U. S. Canadians can't even spend their money despite it's premium value.

What impelled a Detroit paper's front-page suggestion Monday was the recent decision of Canadian banks to discount U.S. coinage, previously accepted at face value through paper money was discounted.

"Smacks not only of cupidity but also usury," the paper said.

"Aw, c'mon, fellas, don't get sore," admonished the Ottawa Citizen. "It's not our fault . . . the trouble is our bankers aren't sentimental." Four American quarters were worth only 96 cents Canadian on Wall Street.

The Toronto Globe and Mail said sharp boys have been working rackets by importing U.S. coinage, converting it to Canadian not at par and changing these back to U.S. money at the discount with the result that about 25 per cent of coins circulating in Canada were American.

The banks had been forced to protect themselves from this "legal racket."

"The paper's splenetic outburst was composed more of pure ignorance than of sensible consideration," the Calgary Albertan commented.

"A moment's reflection is all that is necessary to recall that it is not really Canada which discounts the American dollar, it it the U.S. which does it by paying more for Canadian dollars."

Fixed or Lift Bridge?

GRAND HAVEN (AP)—A decision on whether to place a fixed span or lift bridge over the Spring Lake outlet to Grand River rests with the Army Corps of Engineers following a public hearing at Grand Haven this week. Area officials favor a lift bridge which is estimated at $2,275,000. The State Highway Department wants a fixed span estimated at $1,300,000.

3 TV Networks to Invite Debate

Will Ask Presidential Nominees to Appear on Air Side by Side

NEW YORK (AP)—Three major networks say they will invite the Republican and Democratic presidential nominees to appear side by side on television before the Nov. 8 elections.

★ ★ ★

First to announce the plan was Robert W. Sarnoff, National Broadcasting Co. board chairman. Later, Columbia Broadcasting System and American Broadcasting Co., both said they had similar plans.

★ ★ ★

Sarnoff said the framework for the proposed face to face appearances would be on "Meet the Press," which would be rescheduled for Saturday nights, instead of Sunday, for a special series of eight one-hour programs starting in September.

A CBS spokesman said the network has earmarked nine 30-minute periods during prime broadcasting time beginning in September to feature the rival presidential candidates.

John Daly, vice president of ABC, said his network planned a 13-week series of programs during the presidential campaign, but the composition of the series depended on the cooperation of the candidates.

★ ★ ★

Daly, in charge of news and public affairs, also said ABC had invited Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Wis) and Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) to debate on its Sunday program, "Open Hearing," but that no word has been received from them.

Rome Actress Reports Beating, Asks Divorce

ROME (AP) — Actress Dawn Addams told a court Friday her husband beat her and chased her with a pistol through their Rome palace home, threatening to kill her.

★ ★ ★

Both the British movie star and her estranged husband, Prince Vittorio Massimo, appeared before Judge Vittorio Novelli in a civil court to testify in their separation suit.

★ ★ ★

The Italian prince testified Miss Addams had exaggerated certain facts with "her excessive fantasy." He read a letter from author Jean Cocteau of the French Academy to support his claims.

Miss Adams said the beating and pistol chase occurred on April 9, 1955 — a year after their marriage on April 29, 1954 in what was the top social event in Rome that year.

Relief Pitchers Gain Third Straight Victory

There's a Revival Party in Tiger Bullpen

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

DETROIT — There's a big revival party taking place in the Detroit Tiger bullpen.

The corps of relief pitchers, who were considered as the weak link fraternity on the team, doused enemy bats for the third straight game to help the Tigers to a 6-5 victory over the White Sox.

A record opening day crowd of 53,563 sitting in perfect 80 degree temperature gave Lou Berberet's game winning single in the bottom of 9th as much approval as the three big homers they witnessed earlier in the game.

It was probably the happiest and most colorful opening day game in many seasons for Detroit fans.

It was only the 4th time in 12 years that the Tigers had won their home opener.

The big attraction was Rocky Colavito. Detroit fans wanted to see the player they got in return for American League batting champion Harvey Kuenn.

In his debut appearance the "Rock" didn't let them down. He blasted a 380-foot homer on a 2-2 pitch of starter Dick Donovan to give the Tigers a 2-1 lead in the second inning.

★ ★ ★

The fans also were curious to see man-mountain Steve Bilko on first base and in this respect they were rewarded again. Bilko hit a 420 foot blast into the left-center field stands which tied the score at 5-5 in the 6th inning.

★ ★ ★

The other two Tiger runs came in the 5th inning when Eddie Yost's 350-foot round tripper scored Berberet ahead of him.

Berberet's single in the 9th came with two outs and the bases loaded. Al Kaline crossed the plate.

Manager Jimmy Dykes gave his relief pitchers, especially Tom Morgan, a pat on the back.

It was Morgan's second victory in relief, the other going to Pete Burnside.

Last season the relief work was so unreliable it was credited with only nine victories in the 154 games.

"There's a difference this year," Dykes explained, "there are a lot more big guns firing, something we didn't have last year."

★ ★ ★

"When our relief pitchers gave up one run last year they were sunk, they had little hope of getting it back from our hitters."

"This club can score," Dykes added, "these guys can come in from the bullpen and feel pretty sure Colavito, Kaline, Maxwell or Bilko could deliver the big run they need."

Starter Jim Bunning lasted four innings. He was followed by Hank Aguirre, Dave Sisler, Bob Bruce and Morgan who was called in after Bruce had thrown six straight balls in the top of the 9th.

★ ★ ★

The White Sox, losing for the first time, started Donovan and followed with Mike Garcia, Frank Baumann and finally ex-Tiger Bob Shaw, who took the loss.

★ ★ ★

Chicago scored in the second when Sherm Lollar doubled home Gene Freese; in the 4th when Bunning's wild streak gave up two walks and a wild pitch coupled with singles by Jim Landis, Jim McAnany and another double by Lollar; one in the 5th on singles by Ted Kluszewski, Freese and a long fly by Al Smith.

★ ★ ★

Frank Lary was named to pitch against the White Sox today against Billy Pierce, and Paul Foytack will go Sunday against Early Wynn.

HOMER HAPPY — The dressing room at Briggs Stadium had these three smiling faces. Their homers helped beat the White Sox 6-5, accounting for five of the runs. Left to right are Rocky Colavito, Eddie Yost and Steve Bilko. Colavito's and Yost's homers each accounted for two runs.

'Just Wonderful' Says Colavito

DETROIT — "It was wonderful, just wonderful," said Rocky Colavito about the great second inning reception and the ovation which followed his home run in yesterday's victory over the Chicago White Sox.

"I never expected a reception like this, it was like someone giving me a million dollars," he added.

Colavito's line shot in his first trip to the plate at Briggs Stadium as a Tiger was never in doubt. It sailed into the left-center stands 380 feet away.

When he returned to his position in the outfield, the right field fans stood and gave "The Rock" a tremendous ovation. He graciously tipped his hat. "It was butterfly feeling. I never expected to be received in a strange park like that."

President Bill DeWitt was ecstatic over the Tigers' debut and Colavito's contribution and acceptance by the fans.

"Great, simply great," he shouted.

★ ★ ★

Briggs stadium sparkled in the sunny 80-degree temperature under a new coat of green paint. The field appeared in excellent shape in contrast to its soggy condition last year when the Tigers lost their opener to the Sox 9-7 in 37-degree weather.

★ ★ ★

The Detroit Fire Dept. presented Dykes with a floral horseshoe, saying "Good Luck Tigers," in the pre-game ceremonies. Dykes sent the horseshoe to Bon Secours Hospital where traveling secretary Charley Creedon is undergoing eye surgery.

Al Lopez, the White Sox managers, is carefully avoiding any controversy on the Rocky Colavito-Harvey Kuenn trade.

"It's an interesting deal," said Lopez, who had Colavito under his wing in Cleveland. "Both are fine players. It'll be interesting to see how it works out."

★ ★ ★

Lopez, who has worked magic with such pitching castoffs as Gerry Staley, Turk Lown, Dick Donovan and Bob Shaw, will try his luck again with southpaw Herb Score.

★ ★ ★

Asked if he had any special plans for Score, the manager said:

"None, except to pitch him. There's nothing wrong with his arm and we believe he can be a big winner for us."

★ ★ ★

Second baseman Frank Bolling may rejoin the Tigers in time for Sunday's game. He talked via long distance with DeWitt from his home in Mobile yesterday. The Bollings' infant son died Thursday.

★ ★ ★

DeWitt was asked what the directors had said about the Kuenn-Colavito trade. "They didn't say much," DeWitt answered. "They're pretty good listeners."

Suggs Leads Dallas Open

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The $10,000 Dallas Women's Open Golf Tournament began to look like a repeat of 1959 today — Louise Suggs was leading and Wiffi Smith was second.

Miss Suggs, the poker-faced veteran from Atlanta, shot her second straight 1-under-par 70 Friday for a 140 total after 36 holes and a lead of three strokes over Miss Smith, who had a 74 for 143.

Miss Suggs won the title last year with 287. Miss Smith, a chubby redhead from St. Clair, Mich., was the runner-up with 288.

★ ★ ★

High winds swept the 6,238-yard Glen Lakes Country Club course and sent scores soaring. Miss Suggs, who is noted as a wind player, was the only one able to master par 71.

★ ★ ★

She combatted the wind by keeping the ball low, and her putting bordered on the sensational. She had 25, 10 and 15-foot putts for her birdies. The only place the putter went sour was on 18, where she took three strokes to get down.

★ ★ ★

The leading amateur was Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, who had a 73 for 147. Mrs. Johnstone, a member of the Curtis Cup team, stood alone in ninth place. The other Curtis Cupper in the tournament—Judy Eller of Old Hickory, Tenn.—soared to 82 and had 153 to tie for 16th.

Chuck Kocsis Leads Field by 5 Strokes

ATLANTA (AP) — A golfer who says he gets better the longer he plays appears to have a good chance of winning the Dogwood Invitational tournament today.

He is Chuck Kocsis of Royal Oak, Mich., holder of a five stroke lead at the start of the final 27 holes over the par 36-36—72 Druid Hills course.

"I was happy when they said it would be 27 holes the last two days," the veteran amateur said after firing a sizzling 31 on the final nine yesterday for a 45-hole total of 173. "When I get started, I like to keep going and somehow I seem to get better as I go."

Briggs Stadium No Longer—Now 'Tiger Stadium'

DETROIT (AP)—Briggs Stadium will be renamed "Tiger Stadium" at the close of the 1960 baseball season, the Tigers board of directors said Friday.

President Bill DeWitt said the change "is in line with the club's policy to emphasize the name Tigers in every way."

The stadium, which has been known as Briggs since 1938, was named in honor of the Briggs family which owned a controlling interest in Detroit's only major league team for many years.

The rechristening of the 54,000-plus seat stadium was voted on by the club directors at its regular opening day meeting.

Yanks Pull Another Two-Man Shutout

Ford and Terry Stop Baltimore, 5-0, on 8 Hits

Victory Puts New York in 2nd Place; Indians Lose Again

By The Associated Press

Thanks to an assist from the Yankees moved past Chicago into 2nd place yesterday in the infant American League pennant race.

The Yanks took the runnerup position with a 5-0 victory over Baltimore behind the combined eight-hit pitching of Whitey Ford and Ralph Terry as the league-leading Tigers nipped the AL champion White Sox, 6-5.

Ford, now 5-0 in home-opener assignments, singled home the first Yankee run off loser Hoyt Wilhelm in the 3rd inning. The stubby southpaw gave up seven hits in seven innings and gave way to Terry, who saved the 2nd straight two-man shutout by the New York staff.

Rookie John Gabler and Ryne Duren blanked Boston on four hits Thursday.

The Kansas City Athletics won their first game of the season, sending winless Cleveland to a 3rd defeat, 4-1. Boston, trailing by a 3-0 count, rallied to defeat the Washington Senators, 5-4 in 11 innings, on Vic Wertz' home run.

Home runs by Mickey Mantle and Hector Lopez, the first for each player and both off Wilhelm, made it a breeze for Ford, who was making his first appearance of the year.

Right-hander Ray Herbert of the A's gave up nine hits while beating the Indians for the 4th time in a row since 1958. Norm Siebern and Bob Cerv slammed back-to-back homers in the 2nd inning off losing rookie hurler Wynn Hawkins and Cerv tripled home another in a two-run 3rd stanza.

The Indians, giving up RBI stars Rocky Colavito and Minnie Minoso in trades, stranded seven runners for a three-game total of 28 left on base.

★ ★ ★

Wertz' homer, off losing reliefer Dick Hyde, climaxed a pair of comebacks for the Red Sox. Southpaw rookie Jim Kaat had them blanked on three hits until Frank Malzone's two-run homer triggered a tying three-run 8th.

The Nats went ahead in their 8th, but singles by Lou Clinton and Gary Geiger and a sacrifice fly by Ray Webster tied it again in the 9th. Bill Monbouquette was the winning pitcher in relief.

SORRY KLU — Big Ted Kluszewski (8) is forced at second base by Casey Wise after taking a throw from shortstop Chico Fernandez in the second inning. Wise is playing second in place of Frank Bolling who is in his home in Alabama because of the death of his infant son. Casey performed adequately as Bolling's replacement.

Snyder Praises Pontiac Ace at 18th OSU Relays

Hayes With Numerous U. S. Olympic Hopefuls in Columbus Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Larry Snyder, track boss at Ohio State University who will be head coach of Uncle Sam's cinder stars at the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome, describes Hayes Jones as the world's finest hurdler.

Jones, the Eastern Michigan University flash who hails from Pontiac, is here today to compete in his specialty — the hurdles — in Ohio State's 18th annual Relays.

Snyder terms Jones "probably the best in the world" in the hurdles. Jones, who has done :09.5 in the 100, will face top-notch competition in this event.

Ira Murchison, who has posted the time of :09.5, and Al Jacobs of the Chicago Track Club are entered in the OSU Relays. Murchison is from Western Michigan University.

★ ★ ★

Olympic 400-meter hurdles champion Glenn Davis also starts his drive for a trip to the Rome Games in today's meet, which is loaded with Olympic hopefuls.

Snyder said that many of the competitors here are certain to make the Olympic team. Snyder said:

★ ★ ★

"We're getting ready for the Rome Games and six of our events will be run at metric distances. In the field you'll find a flock of boys who will win places on the American squad and also some who will represent other countries in the Olympics."

Davis, the fleet-footed former Buckeye star, who once won Ohio's scholastic track and field championship as the lone entrant from Barbertown, will appear in the 400-meter hurdles and 400-meter run in his first outdoor tuneup for a chance at a second Olympic gold medal.

Davis won the 400-meter hurdles in 1956 in 50.1 seconds, and holds the 400-meter run world record of 49.2 seconds.

The Ohioan is just one of a host of standouts in the field of 600, representing 26 colleges, universities and athletic clubs, scheduled to appear in the 28-event program.

Other hot-shots in the 400-yard run are Willie Atterberry of Michigan State, world record holder at 600 meters; Dave Mills of Purdue, Mal Barnwell of Pittsburgh, Roger Gum of Kentucky, and John Telford of the Detroit Track Club.

New Season for Buc Hurler—He Wins 2nd Straight

Pittsburgh Finds a 'Friend'

By The Associated Press

No doubt about it, this definitely is a new season for Bob Friend, the Pittsburgh Pirates' right-handed ace who wasn't last year.

He put away his second straight complete game victory with a seven-hit, eight-strikeout performance Friday night as the Pirates beat the Milwaukee Braves 6-2 and jumped into second place in the National League race.

A year ago, Friend lost his first seven and didn't win one until his 11th start, on May 28. He didn't manage two complete-game victories in a row until his 29th start, on August 24. And by then he had lost 15 en route to an over-weight, 8-19 flop that made him the top loser in the NL after sharing the lead for victories with 22 the year before.

It was the third straight victory and fifth in six games for the Bucs, moving them within a half-game of front-running San Francisco. The Giants took over all alone with a 10-8 decision at Chicago while the St. Louis Cardinals dropped Los Angeles out of a share of first to third place by beating the Dodgers 11-7. Philadelphia whipped Cincinnati 10-7.

Friend, who shut out Cincinnati on four hits Sunday, has allowed only one scoring inning in his last 18. The Braves ended his scoreless string at 11 innings when Billy Bruton tripled and scored on an infield out, and Hank Aaron followed with his third home run for a 2-2 tie in the third.

The Bucs, who chased Juan Pizarro with two runs in the first, then cracked the tie and hung the defeat on reliever Joey Jay (0-1) in the third when he hit Don Hoak with a pitch and Hal Smith followed with a triple. Pittsburgh scored three more in the fourth, all with two out, on Bob Clemente's two-run homer and Smith's double. Smith, acquired from Kansas City in an inter-league trade, now has driven in 10 runs on six hits—all for extra bases.

San Francisco walloped five home runs against the Cubs, but it was Willie Mays' double in a two-run eighth, that clinched it. Jim Davenport walloped two homers for the Giants. Willie McCovey, ex-Cub Dale Long, who got off a three-run shot as a pinch-hitter and Ed Bressoud hit the others.

Sam Jones, failing to go the distance for the first time in three starts, gave up a pair of Cub homers, by Frank Thomas and George Altman. Billy Loes (2-0) won it in relief with a save by Johnny Antonelli, who was making his first appearance. Don Elston (1-2) lost it.

21 Nominated to Michigan 'Hall'

DETROIT (AP)—Twenty-one sports figures have been nominated for membership in Michigan's Sports Hall of Fame.

Six of the 21 will be chosen as new members and will be inducted during Michigan week, to take their place along such all-time greats as Ty Cobb, Fielding Yost, Joe Louis, Walter Hagen, Gar Wood and Gordie Howe.

The hall of fame now includes 24 persons.

The nominating committee, meeting yesterday in Detroit, agreed to select six candidates, four of them living, the other two will be inducted posthumously. Voting will be done by Michigan's sports editors and sports broadcasters and the winners will be announced May 17.

The following day, the new hall of famers will be honored at a luncheon in Detroit.

Outstanding individuals from 10 sports fields were nominated. The nominees include 13 living persons and eight who have died.

Those nominated are:

George H. (Kid) Lavigne of Saginaw, world's lightweight boxing champion who reigned from 1896 to 1899; Michael (Dad) Butler, famed trainer and track coach; Jake Mazur, regarded as the founder of professional basketball in Detroit; John Kobs, Michigan State baseball coach for 36 years; Bob Calihan, former great basketball player and now coach at University of Detroit.

Johnny Pingel, Michigan State's first recognized All-American football player; Benny Friedman, all-America quarterback at Michigan in the mid-1920s; George Young, one of Detroit's all-time great bowlers; Germany Schultz, a member of Fielding Yost's point-a-minute football team and an all-time All-America.

Fritz Crisler, former standout player and coach and now Michigan's athletic Director; Jean Hoxie world-famous tennis instructor from Hamtramck; Branck Rickey, the baseball executive who coached the sport at the University of Michigan.

George Sisler, hall of fame first baseman who played his college ball at Michigan; Fr. James Martin, former baseball coach and athletic director at Detroit Catholic Central; Horton Smith, two-time Masters' winner and possibly the finest putter golf has ever known.

Ned Lilley, for years one of the nation's outstanding trapshooters from Stanton, Mich.; Wish Egan, one-time Detroit Tiger scout; Ad Wolgast, a top-ranking fighter for years; Frank (Cyclone) Taylor of Portage Lake, the man many say could skate faster backwards than most men could forward.

Ralph Rose, three-time Olympic shotputter who held the world record when he was at Michigan; Bill Hewitt, the man who never wore a helmet and who starred in football for Michigan and the Chicago Bears.

Mason Rudolph Offers Sam Snead a Rematch

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A rematch with Sam Snead "without alibis and with plenty of witnesses" might not be a bad idea, young Mason Rudolph said Friday.

The 25-year-old Rudolph, here for the $27,000 Greater New Orleans Open, won over Snead in a television golf match Snead claimed he "threw" because he had too many clubs in his bag.

Rudolph had no particular objections to the general idea that he play Snead for nothing—no charity. But before he would go for such a match, Rudolph had well-defined stipulations.

"The way I feel about Snead now,' he said, "is that he'd have some excuse ready if I beat him again. And I've had enough of that.

"Before I'd get on a course with that guy for a match again," he said, "is for Snead to sign a statement saying there wouldn't be any kind of alibi."

Rudolph had some comment on the match presented again last Sunday over a national television network (NBC). The match was filmed last December.

"Look, a guy can't hit that many good shots and try to be losing," he said. "Why, on the 17th hole, he putted out before me, although I had the lie and should have shot first. He just wanted to put the pressure on me."

After the end of the match, played on a course in Bermuda, Snead told the shows producer about the 15th club—one over regulation and an automatic disqualification in match play.

Snead contended that since so much of the show had been filmed by the time he discovered the club on the 12th hole, he said nothing about it for the show's benefit.

Snead told newsmen just before the Masters tournament several weeks ago about the club and said he had to throw the match with Rudolph.

"To be truthful," Rudolph said, "I don't know when he actually first told anyone about it. All I know is what I read in the papers and to this day, Snead has yet to talk to me about it.

"Why, do you know we played in a practice threesome before the Masters and he didn't say a word to me. That's what really hurt me so much—why didn't he come to me and say something about it.

"My grandfather once told me if you can't say something nice about someone, just stay quiet," Rudolph said. "And that's about the way I feel about this Snead thing.

★ ★ ★

"I don't care to have anything to do with the man, clear and simple," the Clarksville, Tenn., star said. But a rematch for nothing, just for the sake of clearing this thing up, might not be a bad idea.

"But I'd want his name on a signed statement first, and no alibis."

Three Changes Result in ABC

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—After almost two weeks of relatively low scoring, three changes were made in the top 10 standings of the American Bowling Congress Tournament here Friday.

★ ★ ★

Two Chicagoans took fourth place in the doubles with a 1,299. John Cimmarusti, 24-year-old draftsman, used the ABC to bowl his high career single game, a 269, and high career series, a 688. He carries a 183 average.

★ ★ ★

His partner, 30-year-old bowling establishment manager, Ed Kuk, had a 611. It was the first change in the doubles top 10 since April 12.

★ ★ ★

Glen Bates, a 50-year-old wholesale food salesman from Dearborn, Mich., took eighth place in the singles with a 694. He had a high of 266 in his last game. It was the first singles change since April 11.

There were no changes in the open team division or all events.

Detroit Little League Group Faces Law Suit

DETROIT (UPI) — Little League Baseball, Inc., of Williamsport, Pa. filed suit in Federal Court yesterday to put the Northwestern Little Football and Athletics, Inc., of Detroit, out of action.

Little League officials said the NLFA name on T-shirts, pajamas, pen and pencil sets, and other saleable items resembled the LL identifying marks.

Seymour Davis, former president of the NLFA, said he "never made a dime" off the group and his only interest was in getting children off the streets.

The Little League is also supposed to be non-profit.

Northern Golfers Nip Chiefs by 2 Strokes

Pontiac Northern nosed out city rival Pontiac Central, 232-234, in a dual golf meet Friday at Municipal course. Jimmy Miller of Northern was medalist with 43.

Russ Marshall shot 45 for the Huskies, followed by Dick DeLano with 47. Warren Hall 48 and Bob Walton 49. Dave Blank, Phil Thingstad and Tom Smallwood each fired 45 for the Chiefs. Other PCH scores were a 48 by Art Silverthorne and Tom McGrath's 51.

Besselink-Finsterwald at 138

Tie for Lead in New Orleans Tourney

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—There's little pleasant about a broken wrist, but big Al Besselink thinks such a mishap may have a direct relation to his sharing the lead with Dow Finsterwald in the $27,000 Greater New Orleans Golf Tournament.

The 210-pound Besselink, playing out of Grossinger, N.Y., and a mainstay on the pro tour for several years, showed a 36-hole effort of 68-67—138 when the tournament headed into its third round today.

The slightly-built Finsterwald, 30-year-old Tequesta, Fla., veteran who is among golf's three big money winners this year, added a 66 Friday to an opening-round 69 to deadlock Besselink for top place.

The pair had a one-stroke lead over Houston LaClair of Birmingham, Ala., while Bob Rosburg of Overland Park, Kan., noted for his use of the baseball grip, was fourth at 137.

Former PGA champ Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., South African rookie Harold Henning, and J.C. Goosie of Knoxville, Tenn., were within whispering distance of the top at 138.

★ ★ ★

Besselink skipped in with five birdies on the back 9, capping his round with a birdie 4 on the 485-yard 18th. He had a bit of trouble on the front nine with bogies on seven and eight.

Because of a wrist fracture three years ago, Besselink said he deserted his "punch swing" for one that flowed smoother.

"I've been winning money, but I haven't been shooting any 65s or 66s," he said, "so I decided to go back to my old swing here, and well look for yourself."

The leaders:

Al Besselink	68-67—135
Dow Finsterwald	69-66—135
Houston LaClair	67-69—136
Bob. Rosburg	71-66—137
Harold Henning	68-70—138

Ringside Will Cost $100

All Fight Seats Reserved

NEW YORK (AP) — Every seat in the polo grounds will be reserved for the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title bout on Monday, June 20, Humbert J. Fugazy of the promoting Feature Sports, Inc., said Friday.

Ringside seats will sell for $100 each with seats in the upper and lower boxes commanding $50. Seats in the upper and lower grandstand will sell for $30, $20 and $10. Fugazy said ticket applications would be accepted immediately.

Meanwhile, Johansson's business relating to the fight last June 26 in which he won the championship by flooring Patterson seven times in three rounds finally was cleared up, 10 months late.

The $153,000 held in escrow was released to him upon his signing Thursday for the return battle.

The contract for the June 20 bout calls for the promoters to place $200,000 in escrow for him in a Swiss bank four days before the fight.

Johansson returned to Geneva, Switzerland, from his contract signing in New York and went straight into training for his June 20 return bout with Floyd Patterson.

A few hours after his plane landed the champion went through 15 rounds of shadow boxing and bag punching.

Johansson will be joined by English sparring partners in a few days. He signed the contract for the return bout with Patterson in New York Thursday.

Durand Wins Invitational; PNH, Shamrocks Diamond Victors

Chiefs Lose to Vikings, 59-50, in Last Event

By H. GUY MOATS

Pontiac Central and Flint Northern thinclads staged one of their traditional all-out track and field battles, last night, on Wisner Field and the Vikings emerged with a hard won victory 59-50.

Vikings had to take the final event, the medley relay, in order to win. They did, in field record time of 2:33.6, one of five marks to tumble during this Saginaw Valley meet.

Other field, and school records to go, included the shot, low hurdles, pole vault, and the 880-relay. Bredell (Bill) Pritchett's 58-feet, 9½-inch toss in the shotput was the best of the year in state prep circles.

Vikings figured in three field record efforts. They took eight firsts to five for Chiefs.

Chiefs' Leon Prentiss and Vikings' Maurice Pea were double winners, the former winning the low hurdles :19.95 field record) and the highs. Pea took both dashes, edging Bill Ratcliff of PCH in :9.9, both being under 10 seconds.

Chiefs are now 1-1 in the Valley.

Playing on their home lot, Pontiac Northern baseball club dumped Farmington 4-2 in a Inter-Lakes contest. Huskies got 8 hits, made a single error in their win. Dick Lamphere fanned 16, walked three and hurled a 3-hitter.

Dave Moczarski's bases-loaded 3-bagger, and Lamphere's two RBIs marked Huskies' batting.

Durand's star hurdler, Bob Sherman, set a Howell Invitational Meet high hurdle mark of :14.9 and won the low hurdles, tied for 2nd in the broad jump to lead his team to a 46 7-10 victory over a fast field last night. Team-mate Mike Wells won the pole vault at 11-9, the high jump, tied third for the broad jump.

West Bloomfield's Jack Newton won the 100, was 2nd in the 220.

Other team standings: Fenton 35 2-5; Milford 34 7-10; Grand Blanc 32½; Howell 21 7-10; W. Bloomfield 20.

Cranbrook defeated Ferndale at track, 70-39, lost a tennis match to G. Pte Univ. School 3-2. Cranes took 10 firsts, led by Todd Williams' 14 points, and double wins by Barney Crouse, and Larry DeWitt. Larry's great anchor run for a relay win was a feature. He made up a 5-yard deficit finished 5-yards ahead on the final 220, in :21.7.

Bloomfield Hills turned back Clarenceville 69 2-3 — 30 2-3 at the Hills, with Howard Shuneman's :22.7 for the 220 setting a new record. Howard also won the 100, Dick Ford (BH) won the 880 with a school record of 2:03.6 and also was first in the high jump. The Hills took nine firsts in this opening meet.

St. Michael blanked St. Frederick 9-0 in the two clubs' opening SCL ball game, yesterday. Ken Biron hurled a 3-hitter, fanning seven, walking two. Shamrocks got five runs in the first frame to nail the win. Rams' Jack O'Rielly gave up seven hits.

Northville and West Bloomfield engaged in a real slugfest at the former's field, for a 16-11 win for the hosts in Wayne-Oakland loop play. Winners got 10 hits, KH 9, but Keego's six errors hurt the most. John Long's two doubles, homer and single, in four trips, highlighted the hitting spree.

Northville's nine runs in the 4th, after KH had led 5-3, broke the Lakers' backs, and they never caught up. It was KH's first game.

Giving up only one hit, the leadoff single by Skippers' Dave Parker, in the first frame, Southfield's Terry Odom went on to shut out Waterford, 1-0, yesterday in an Inter-Lakes game. Bluejays got the only tally in the 2nd on a leadoff double, infield out and error.

Odom fanned seven, walked two. Skippers' Len Schmidt went all the way, allowed five hits, two walks. Loss was WTHS' 2nd in two starts.

Kennedy Points Toward Oregon

Says May 20 Primary There May Tell Much — Has Many Entries

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass) said Friday the Oregon presidential primary May 20 may be the most significant in the country this year because of the number of candidates entered.

* * *

Kennedy told a news conference upon his arrival at Portland International Airport for a two-day campaign swing that it would not be possible for supporters of other Democratic presidential candidates to attempt to block him as they are doing in West Virginia.

He said that in Oregon they would have to support their own candidates rather than combining to back only one as he said they were doing for Sen. Hubert Humphery D-Minn) in West Virginia. For that reason, he said, Oregon's primary will have the greatest impact on national convention delegates.

In addition to Kennedy and Humphrey, Sens. Lyndon Johnson (Tex), Stuart Symington (Mo) and Wayne Morse (Ore) are entered in the Oregon primary on the Democratic ballot.

Kennedy said he felt the presence of Morse in the primary may blur its significance somewhat. He said he thought it would be difficult to beat Morse because he is running as a favorite son, but added he hoped to run well in the primary.

Kennedy forcast a tough fight for himself in West Virginia. He said backers of Johnson and Symington were combining with Humphrey supporters to cut down his lead.

Who's the Guest at Ike's House? Sherman Adams!

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ex-presidential aide Sherman Adams was among the guests Friday night at a formal dinner given by President and Mrs. Eisenhower for visiting French President and Madame Charles de Gaulle.

* * *

It was a lavish White House affair featuring champagne toasts to Franco-American friendship and a menu which ranged from aspic of pate de foie gras (chopped goose liver in gelatin) to cucumber sandwiches and frozen rum pudding.

In deference to De Gaulle's Roman Catholic faith, the menu included a choice of baked Florida red snapper or Delmonico roast of beef. Church law forbids Roman Catholics to eat meat on Fridays.

* * *

The dinner marked Adams' first announced visit to the White House since his resignation in 1958 as a presidential adviser following disclosure that he had accepted gifts from Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

Mrs. FDR Raps Ike for Racial Vagueness

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt says President Eisenhower should express publicly "unalterable objection to racial discrimination anywhere in America.

* * *

"We have had too much experience with a Chief Executive who seems to have prided himself on the fact that no one knows how he really feels about racial discrimination," she declared Friday.

* * *

"Platitudes about the minds and hearts of men are not enough. Action and positive leadership are required."

Briggs Seeks to Halt Crane Stock Bids

DETROIT (AP)—The Briggs Manufacturing Co. filed suit in U.S. District Court Friday to enjoin a major competitor in the household plumbing fixture business, the Crane Co. of Chicago, from acquiring any additional Briggs stock.

* * *

A hearing was set May 16.

The Detroit firm accused Crane of a plan to take over Briggs through stock purchases and said the Chicago company's manipulations thus far have cost Briggs "in excess of $350,000 damages."

It asked an award of triple damages under federal antitrust laws. Briggs said that if Crane succeeds in placing a representative on the former's board of directors, Crane can obtain "confidential information which can be used against Briggs to cause lasting injury."

Arrest Ice Cream Men; Children Boo Police

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Police arrested three mobile ice cream vendors Thursday as they rang bells to announce their arrival.

Ringing bells for commercial purposes is prohibited by a city ordinance.

Compulsive Gamblers Set Big Convention

FRESNO, Calif., (UPI)—Gamblers Anonymous, an association of compulsive gamblers that operate much like Alcoholics Anonymous, holds its first national convention here today and Sunday.

* * *

The meeting will be attended by more than 100 delegates, representing 15 cities from New York to San Francisco.

Spokesmen for the group claim there are at least six million compulsive gamblers in the United States. They contend there is still hope for such people, who—unlike social gamblers—have lost their ability to voluntarily refrain from the game.

* * *

Gets Staff Position on Michigan C. of C.

LANSING (AP)—Rex Potter, managing director of the Battle Creek Chamber of Commerce, Friday was named a staff executive of the new Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

Harry R. Hall, executive vice president of the state chamber, said Potter was the first of five or six staff executives who will be hired.

Hall said Potter will be given the assignment of organizing and directing the membership program.

Potter, 42, has headed the Battle Creek Chamber of Commerce since November 1956.

He will assume his new duties in Lansing May 15, Hall said.

Caledonia Doctor Dies; Last Graybiel Physician

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Dr. George P. Graybiel, 67, one of two doctors serving the nearby community of Caledonia, died in a hospital here yesterday following a heart attack.

Among his survivors is Hugh Graybiel, publisher of the Windsor Star.

Dr. Graybiel was a graduate of the University of Michigan and practiced in Boston as well as Michigan.

He was the last of the Graybiel family which has had a member as a physician in Caledonia, a town of 500, since 1887. The first, Dr. Alex Graybiel, arrived from Waterloo County, Ont.

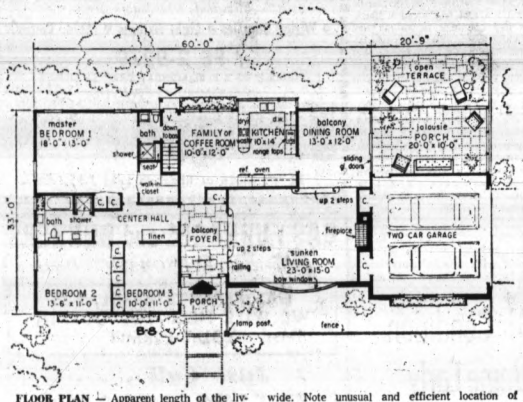
DESIGNED FOR THE DISCRIMINATING — Emphasis in this moderate-sized three-bedroom ranch was placed on luxury. Living space is lavished on a glamorous sunken living room, impressive dining room and inviting jalousie porch and terrace.



FLOOR PLAN — Apparent length of the living room is 31 feet, from fireplace wall to left side of flagstoned foyer. Center hall is extra wide. Note unusual and efficient location of washer and dryer as an integral part of the kitchen work center.

Country Club Life Possible at Public Links Price

By DAVID L. BOWEN

This three-bedroom ranch was designed to bring country club elegance into your own life at reasonable cost.

Over-all the plan is not unduly large—1830 square feet of living space—but it has been arranged to make possible a quiet display of luxury. Space has been concentrated in a few key areas to provide a core of graciousness at a bargain price.

This concentration of space for luxurious effect can be seen especially in the living room and its appointments. The room is big, measuring 23 by 15 feet.

It is positioned so that this size makes the maximum impression on visitors entering the front door. The living room floor is sunken two steps to give a balcony appearance to the flagstoned foyer and dining room.

Just as the 8 by 12 foyer adds visual length to one end of the living room, the dining room opens up the other end. The atmosphere of elegance continues through the dining room because sliding glass doors across one wall lead the eye still further into a 20-foot jalousie porch.

Decorative wrought iron railings trace the raised edges of foyer and dining room.

The bedroom wing is self-contained with ample closets, two baths and linen storage. The bath for the master bedroom is located to serve double duty, it's accessible either from the bedroom or the rear vestibule.

The main bath is oversize, with both a tub and a shower, two lavatories, and two windows for maximum light.

WORK LOCALIZED

U-shaped kitchen lies between the dining and family rooms, making service easy to either one. Family room and kitchen flow into one another and have a combined length of 20 feet. Kitchen bay gives mother an excellent view of rear yard and terrace.

To keep housekeeping steps down, both washer and dryer are built into one arm of the kitchen U, concentrating all appliances in one work center.

A full basement is provided for, offering possibilities for development as a recreation center, dark room, shop or anything else that suits the owner's fancy.

The winding trail of gracious hospitality doesn't end there. It turns once more to flow out on the open terrace at the rear of the house.

Architect Rudolph Matern, who created B-8 in the House of the Week series, also made the center hall wider than ordinary and gave the owner a lovely master bedroom 18 feet long by 13 feet wide. This room also has a big walk-in closet and a bath.

Considerable attention was paid to the exterior appearance. The main entrance has wide double doors with full length glass panels on each side. The huge bay window falls at about the center of the front wall.

Garage windows are given an interesting boxed effect. Hand-split shingles are used on the bedroom wing and brick veneer covers the balance of the front.

Because of its 80-foot width, the house would require a wide lot. Depth is 33'. Excluding garage and jalousie porch, the living area is 1,830 square feet.

One of the outstanding features of the living room is the raised hearth fireplace, centered on a paneled wood wall in a picture-type frame of pre-cast concrete.

B-8 Statistics

The habitable area in this seven-room ranch home is 1,830 square feet. Jalousie porch adds another 200.

There are three bedrooms, with two baths, 10 closets plus a large walk-in provide abundant space for storage.

Over-all dimensions are 80' 9" in width by 33' depth.

TAKEN IN MARCH — This cold-looking picture was taken about the middle of March. It shows the home of the Robert V. Taylors at 1227 Tull drive. Ten years ago the Taylors purchased this home as a shell. They were living out in the country. Now they're in a subdivision. Since then they have completed the home and enlarged their family to include five children. Result: the completed home was too small. See the picture below to find out what changes have been made.

ONE MONTH LATER — This was the Robert V. Taylor home ten days ago. The original house was 20 by 40; now it has a 20 by 32 foot addition built on one end. This gives the Taylors two more bedrooms and an attached garage. Gone is the partition in the living room which made a third bedroom in the little house. With an acre of land on which to expand, Mr. Taylor wishes his garage were bigger. Stacy Building Company did the construction work.

APRIL 1960 — This is the Charles L. Coppersmith home at 1895 Woodland avenue, Sylvan Lake City, now that the roof has been raised. The second story addition gave the owners three large bedrooms (there was one upstairs before remodeling), lots of storage space and a second full bath. Donald S. Frericks designed and built the addition.

PLAYHOUSE — The little house pictured here is an inexpensive project. It has dutch doors, windows and a large overhanging roof just like an adult's home. And, after the children have grown up, you will find it to be a handy storage room for garden tools and all sorts of things. The principle material used is plywood or hardboard. A list of required materials is included along with easy to follow directions and illustrations. The design is such that each of the walls and the roof may be made indoors, in your home workshop, and later taken outdoors for quick assembling. To obtain the easy-to-follow plan No. 224 for building the playhouse pictured here, send $1.00 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., Van Nuys, Calif.

Be Daring With Colors When Painting

Paint the ceiling black? Paint triangles on the wall? Paint stripes in the hall? Yes, according to a leading New York architectural and interior design firm, which suggests that "do-it-yourselfers" take advantage of these techniques to solve their home improvement problems. Here's how it works:

★ ★ ★

When refinishing a room where the ceiling has exposed pipes and ducts, black paint provides an economical bit of camouflage. Painting the ceiling black will effectively hide the unattractive surface units and eliminate the cost of erecting a false ceiling. Use a bright wall color and increase the light wattage to offset the dark ceiling.

The triangles are an ideal means of creating interest in an area that does not have outside exposure. Triangle designs are easy to paint when masking tape is used as a guide. Paint the triangles in colors that contrast or harmonize with the rest of the decor. This is an effective way of highlighting an area without the expense of buying paintings or another costly accessory.

The designers, Freidin-Studley, also advocate the use of stripes for achieving visual interest. Stripes are particularly effective when used on the end wall of a hallway or a long, narrow room. The painted striped wall will seem to advance, hence making the area appear more square.

★ ★ ★

Masking tape comes in very handy for this wall treatment, too. When the wall has been painted with the background color and permitted to dry, the stripes of masking tape are applied in the desired arrangement. Then the exposed areas are painted in the chosen color or colors. When dry, the tape is removed to reveal the multi-colored stripes.

ONE IN CONTRAST

If solid colors are preferred to stripes, the same effect can be achieved by painting the end wall in a contrasting color. This "one contrasting wall" is also suggested as a means of animating a box-like room that lacks interest.

A texture paint is recommended to beautify scarred walls that would otherwise require complete replastering. The heavy consistency of texture paint fills small cracks and hides surface irregularities. These special paints produce a rough plaster-like finish that enhances any style decor.

Before choosing interior colors, it should be remembered that lighting has a deceptive effect on color. Fluorescent lights have a tendency to accentuate the blue tones of certain colors. Incandescent lighting, on the other hand, brings out yellow tones.

★ ★ ★

For example, under fluorescent lighting, red will appear more violet, while under incandescent lighting it will seem more yellow. Both paints and fabrics should be examined under both types of lighting before final decision is made.

Check the Drains Twice a Year

Homeowners should check gutters and downspouts twice a year, to avoid roof drainage problems.

That's according to the Roof Drainage Manufacturers Institute, which recommends a Spring and Fall check-up for the following:

Make sure you clean out all leaves, branches, or other debris that may clog up the gutter or downspouts, causing water to overflow and splatter alongside the house.

Check for damaged areas in the gutters, where fallen limbs or melting ice may have torn supports loose, or bent the outer edge of the gutter down.

Make sure you have proper drainage. Next time there's a heavy rain you can check this merely by observing if water spills over the edge of the gutters, or is carried off by the downspouts and away from the house where it can't do any damage to the lawn or house.

If water is spilling over the gutters in a heavy rain, it may cause a wet basement if you have one, or cause an undermining of the foundation of a basementless house.

Repairing gutters and downspouts is no job for a do-it-yourselfer, according to RDMI — Call in a sheet metal contractor.

Stools Were Status Symbol at One Time

We don't pay much attention to stools today, but in 17th Century France they were, "de rigueur." That means a lady just had to have one.

The Home Furnishings Industry Committee, which knows about such things, declares that in the court of Louis XIV only the highest officials could sit on chairs.

When the king himself was present, almost every one had to stand. Duchesses could sit in arm chairs until His Majesty made an entrance. Then they had to give up their chairs and take tabourets or stools.

Ladies of lower rank, who had been sitting on the stools, surrendered them. They had to go down a peg to hassocks. Even the hassocks were stratified. If you had a gold-trimmed hassock you were more important than your neighbor who rated only a silk edging.

People worry about status symbols today? They should have lived in 18th Century France.

Paint the Doors

To hide the inside of a garage that has glass paneled doors, you can paint the panels with any type of oil paint. First clean the glass. Remove any grease or oil with turpentine or paint solvent, rinse and wipe dry. Then you're ready to paint. Don't use black, though, because this color absorbs too much heat from the sun.

Hobby Table Fits Needs of Family

A family hobby table, roomy and hardy enough to accommodate a variety of activities at the same time, can enrich leisure time in the home.

★ ★ ★

The hobby table should be big enough so that everyone who wants to may use it without cramping anyone's style. It should be solid and sturdy. And it should have a top that needs no pampering.

★ ★ ★ ★

An old table, perhaps a round dining table that has been relegated to the attic or thrift shop, can do very nicely. Refinish the legs, maybe tighten a few bolts or screws and give it a new top of predecorated hardboard. It can be applied over the old surface with wallboard adhesive.

★ ★ ★

The baked plastic surface of this material will not be harmed by finger paints, modeling clay, model airplane cement or most any hobby material.

Now you can open or close your door without getting out of your car! Install an inexpensive SESAME ELECTRONIC DOOR CONTROL. Just press a button on your dash and the door opens or closes automatically.

Play It Safe

Oil-soaked rags and wiping cloths are fire hazards if allowed to accumulate on work-benches or on garage floors, so fire safety officials recommend keeping them in fireproof containers, such as galvanized steel refuse pails. These containers can't burn and have close-fitting covers to confine flammable materials.

Roofs Need Yearly Check to Avoid Big Repairs

Throughout the year the roof of any home undergoes a continuing process of wear. More than any other exterior surface, the roof is exposed to the effects of sun, rain, wind, snow, sleet, and ice.

A good roof provides protection from harsh elements and keeps a family safe and comfortable through the worst of weather. It becomes a factor in efficient heating and cooling and it helps to keep down maintenance costs on the rest of the structure.

When roof leaks go undetected extensive damage can result. A leaky roof can permit water seepage to ruin wallpaper, paint, and plaster. Seepage may lead to weakened structural timbers and dangerous short circuits in wiring.

You can avoid costly repairs such as these by keeping a check on your roof. At least once a year — preferably in late summer or early fall—take a flashlight into the attic soon after a rain and look for damp spots.

Make the attic as dark as possible and look for pinpoints of light in the undersurface of the roof. Look at the roof from outside and make sure it is smooth and flat and does not show signs of wear.

GET A ROOFER

If you find anything that leads you to suspect a leak it is best to have a reliable roofing contractor make a professional check. If he recommends a new roof instead of repairs, it is because he knows a roof wears out uniformly and one leak in an old roof usually means other leaks will follow. The roofer also knows that walking on an old roof to make spot repairs often causes new leaks.

Asphalt shingles offer a wide range of colors to give added distinction to the house and to help correct design defects. Houses that are too tall appear lower with a dark colored roof and small houses can be made to appear bigger by using lighter shades of roofing.

A further advantage of asphalt shingles is that they can be applied directly over the old roof, doing away with the expense and mess of removing the old material.

To Keep Your Brushes

Preserve your paint brushes by storing them in turpentine in old auto polish cans. Cut top of the cans fill them with enough turpintine to cover the bristles. Keep the brushes from touching the bottom of the cans by placing clothespins on the side of the cans and securing the brushes to the clothespin with rubber bands.

Aerosol spray cans of enamel or varnish are particularly suited for refinishing wicker or rattan furniture whose irregular surfaces make bush painting difficult.

Air Condition Home Early

This may seem like an odd time to be thinking about air conditioning a house to make the torrid days of summer more comfortable.

Waiting until summer may mean higher cost and a possible delay in having the work done.

At this time of year air conditioning dealers are not rushed. They are eager to keep their crews busy. Competition among dealers is more likely to result in lower bids.

Another advantage of installing air conditioning prior to summer is that the work will be finished and the equipment will be ready to go into operation at the first sign of hot weather. This avoids the annoyance of waiting for a contractor to do the job while temperatures and tempers rise.

Today it is possible to air condition a house at a far lower cost than ever before. This is because research has shown that proper insulation permits the use of smaller, less expensive equipment.

In Southern states as much as 25 per cent can be saved on the cost of equipment if a house is insulated with 6 inches of mineral wool in ceilings, at least 3 inches in walls, and a minimum of 2 inches in floors. In most Northern states, the same thicknesses of mineral wool can reflect a savings of up to 20 per cent.

Snack Bar Is Essential Part of New Kitchen

Until the millenium arrives accompanied by swarms of inexpensive servants, ladies, your best hope of fending off kitchen claustrophobia lies in the snack bar.

This boon to the servantless home is now considered just as important in kitchen remodeling as additional storage space, ceramic tile floors and walls and new appliances. This holds true even in homes equipped with dining rooms.

The ideal location for the snack bar is alongside the food serving center. Second choice is the range center. Although food can be delivered promptly, this location is undesirable if the range is in use during the meal. The debris usually littering both mix and sink centers disqualifies these locations.

Size of the snack bar is dictated by space limitations. Every effort should be made, however, to accommodate two persons. Thus when a lull occurs such as between breakfast for the breadwinner and departure of the family scholars there will be a place for the harassed homemaker to down a cup and sneak in an argument for increasing her household allowance.

The main purpose of the snack bar is to reduce work in preparing and serving meals by taking the strain off the dining room and bringing the diner to the food. To exploit the full benefits of this labor-saving arrangement, the snack bar should be surfaced with an easy-kept material.

Mississippi May Make Students Vow Allegiance

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi schoolchildren may be required to add a state pledge of allegiance to their repertoire of memory work.

★ ★ ★

The House passed a bill Thursday to require school children to make the dual pledge—to the national and state flags.

The state pledge of allegiance would be:

"I salute the flag of the state of Mississippi with pride in her history and achievements and with confidence in her future."

★ ★ ★

The bill says a pledge need stems from the state love of constitutional government, the duty of people to remember its past, and the fact that the flag is "a symbol of patriotism, valor and sacrifices of early Mississippians."

Compacts Soar Auto Turnout

All-Time Effort With Smaller Models Boosts Over-All Figure 9 Pct.

DETROIT (UPI) — An all-time high for compact car production will help raise this week's auto output in the United States 9 per cent above output last week, Ward's Automotive Reports said Friday.

The reporting service estimated compact car production of 43,280 units would surpass the previous record of 40,700 by 6 per cent.

The compacts will account for about 29.4 per cent of the total industry output of 147,030 cars, Ward's said.

This week's total car production compares with 135,402 last week and 133,987 in the same week a year ago.

TRUCKS UP, DOWN

The industry was expected to turn out 25,713 trucks this week, compared with 25,681 last week and 26,987 in the same week a year ago.

Combined car-truck output for the week was estimated at 172,743, compared with 161,083 last week and 160,974 in the same week a year ago.

To date in 1960, the industry has turned out 2,915,101 cars and trucks compared with 2,426,483 at the same time a year ago.

Lutheran Church Shuns U. S. Council

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The newly unified American Lutheran Church today charted formal ties with interdenominational Christianity on the world scene—but not on the national scene.

Amid some opposition, the church planned to affiliate with the World Council of Churches, but it did not seek membership in the National Council of Churches.

★ ★ ★

"Personally, I can't see much difference," said the Rev. Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, newly elected president of the merged church. However, he added at a news conference:

"There seems to be stronger antipahy to the National Council. I suppose that's because it is nearer at hand, and because of the activity of certain groups in the country in maligning the National Council."

He obviously referred to the recent uproar over an Air Force manual linking criticism of the National Council with charges of Communist influence in the churches.

American Baptist Leader Speaking at Two Services

Dr. Richard Hoiland of Philadelphia will be the speaker at both 8:45 and 11 a.m. services Sunday at Bethany Baptist Church.

Executive secretary of the Board of Education and Publication of the American Baptist Convention, he began his service to American Baptists in 1924 when appointed director of young people's work in the State of Minnesota.

★ ★ ★

His present position includes the Christian program in local churches and of Christian higher education in 60 colleges and seminaries affiliated with American Baptists.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Joseph I. Chapman, pastor of Bethany, served as director of Christian Education and youth work for the denomination in Minnesota when Dr. Hoiland was his chief.

Roger Gerguson will assist at the 8:45 service tomorrow and Darlene Woodhull at 11 a.m. The five youth groups will meet at 7 p.m.

Members of the congregation will attend the associational meeting at First Baptist Church in Ypsilanti Sunday afternoon. The Rev. William C. Osgood, missionary to India, will be the speaker.

★ ★ ★

A Spring Spiritual Music Festival will be held Sunday through May 1 at the Clintonville Church of the Nazarene. Dr. William McQuire, district superintendent, will be the speaker.

Presenting the programs will be the Keller-York party, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Keller and Mr. and Mrs. Charles York.

The entertainers sing and play the piano, organ, bass viol, vibraharp, guitar and accordion.

Their numbers include spirituals, gospel songs and religious classics.

Demoted Fireman to Get Court Review

A demoted Madison Heights fireman who got into a scuffle with a superior officer has won the right in Oakland County Circuit Court to have his case reviewed.

★ ★ ★

Edward P. Miller, a 38-year-old former sergeant, was granted a writ of certiorari ordering the Madison Heights Civil Service Commission to turn over the hearings proceedings and records regarding Miller.

Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem set a May 16 deadline.

Miller, of 26381 Dartmouth St., asks the court that his demotion to probationary fireman be set aside and declared null and void.

★ ★ ★

Miller and Lt. Lewis Podobnikar, 42, of 3017 Dequindre Rd., engaged in a scuffle in January.

Miller was charged with misconduct and demoted for six months. Podobnikar was demoted for four months to sergeant.

Retirement Official Under Civil Service

LANSING (UPI)—Lawrence L. Farrell, who has held the job of executive secretary of the State employes Retirement Board since leaving as the governor's executive secretary in 1958, has been brought under Civil Service in the $15,722 job.

Farrell was with Gov. G. Mennen Williams from 1949 until 1958 and went with the retirement board then. The Civil Service Commission recently brought the retirement position under its control and raised the salary from $13,500 to $15,722.

Auditor General Otis Smith, chairman of the board, then appointed Farrell to the position offically.

★ ★ ★

Two others had qualified for the position. They were Oleg Z. Zaleski, Detroit, a public aid worker and Lawrence van Zwoll, executive secretary of the Michigan Public School Retirement Board.

Suffers Fractured Leg in Cooley Lake Rd. Crash

A White Lake Township man suffered a fractured right leg early today in an auto accident on Cooley Lake road near Round Lake road in Commerce Township.

★ ★ ★

John W. Ledlie, 23, of 1285 Grove Point Dr., told sheriff's deputies he lost control on a curve and smashed into a tree.

He is in fair condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

National Ad Unit Elects Jones

MacManus President Is Director-at-Large of American Assn.

Ernest A. Jones, president of MacManus, John & Adams, Inc., of Bloomfield Hills, has been elected a director-at-large of the Operations Committee of the American Assn. of Advertising Agencies.

★ ★ ★

He was elected by the newly elected board of directors of the association, at its recent organization meeting in Boca Raton, Fla.

The committee consists of the four association officers and three directors-at-large.

The committee meets monthly when the board is not in session.

JOINED AS APPRENTICE

Jones, of 990 Cranbrook Rd., Bloomfield Hills, joined the agency as a production department apprentice following his graduation from the University of Michigan.

He was appointed a vice president in 1950, elected executive vice president and director in 1953 and president in 1955.

He was chairman of the association's East Central region and has served on the group's committee on agency personnel.

★ ★ ★

For the past two years, he has been chairman of the committee on advertiser relations.

Plane Pioneer Pitcairn Takes Own Life at 62

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Pitcairn, 62, a pioneer in American aviation, shot and killed himself in his fashionable suburban Bryn Athyn home today only a few hours after making a humorous speech at a giant 75th birthday party for his brother.

★ ★ ★

Dr. John Simpson, Montgomery County coroner, ruled suicide in the death of the industrialist who helped pioneer air mail service and introduced the autogiro to the United States.

Says He'd Enter Gov. Rockefeller

Man Who Nominated 'Joe Smith' at GOP's 1956 Convention Miffed

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP)—State Sen. Terry Carpenter says that if Nebraskans send him to the Republican National Convention he plans to nominate Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for president.

★ ★ ★

"Only the governor can stop me," Carpenter said Thursday night.

"If the governor personally tells me not to nominate him, I won't. But that's the only thing that will stop me," Carpenter remarked.

Carpenter said it irks him to think that Vice President Richard M. Nixon might not have opposition at Chicago in July.

"And I don't think Nixon can win in November," he added.

UPROAR IN 1956

Carpenter created an uproar at San Francisco in 1956 when he became angered because Nixon had no opposition for vice president.

He attempted to nominate a mythical "Joe Smith" as an opponent. But he was cut off abruptly by the chair.

★ ★ ★

"Nomination of Nixon at Chicago without opposition would be just a sequel to San Francisco. It seems that those who control the Republican party don't even want to go through the motions at Chicago," said Carpenter.

Deaths Elsewhere

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Jules Freund, 69, noted immunologist, died of cancer Friday at the National Institutes of Health where he had been chief of the laboratory of immunology since 1957. Last year he won the Albert Lasker Award for achievement in medical research. He was born in Hungary.

★ ★ ★

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—Russell Roy Brewer, 59, president of Brewer-Chilcote Paper Co. and Paper Converter Inc. of Cleveland, Ohio, died Friday night of brain injury suffered in a swimming pool accident.

Life Publisher Becomes Chairman of Time, Inc.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Andrew Heiskeyy, 44, publisher of Life magazine, has been appointed chairman of the Board of Directors of Time Inc. and James A. Linen, publisher of Time Magazine, president of the board.

The appointments were among reassignments of 15 executives announced jointly by Henry R. Luce, who continues as Time Inc., editor-in-chief, and President Roy E. Larsen, who becomes chairman of the executive committee of the board.

Frank Pace Jr., former secretary of the Army, budget bureau director and chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the General Dynamics Corp., was named a member of the board of Time Inc.

WATER BABY — All the ocean's a launching pad now that the Navy has successfully fired a demonstration rocket that was bobbing in the Pacific off Point Mugu, Calif. The 70-inch missile was floating like a pop bottle with its nose above water. It was ignited and rose into the air, pointing to the possibility that ICBMs may be poised in the oceans of the world ready to leap toward a target at the touch of a button.

300 to Salute Broomfield on His 38th Birthday

An estimated 300 friends of Congressman William S. Broomfield will help him celebrate his 38th birthday next Friday at a $10-a-plate testimonial dinner in Bloomfield Township.

★ ★ ★

Samuel J. Reeve, president of the Broomfield for Congress dinner committee, has announced that advance ticket sales indicate there will be "a complete sellout."

The dinner, staged by Broomfield's friends in the Bloomfield area, will be at 7 o'clock at Devon Gables Restaurant.

★ ★ ★

Entertainment will be by "The Jills," a Bloomfield Hills High School choral group under the direction of H. Luckman.

Services Buy Drugs Abroad at Half Price

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. armed forces have started buying medicines abroad at prices well below those of American drug firms.

In reporting this, the unofficial but authoritative Army-Navy-Air Force Journal says the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Assn. has protested to the comptroller general and State Department.

The protest includes complaints that American drug patents are being violated, and raises questions about conflict with the "Buy American Act."

The first shipment of foreign drugs purchased in competition with American industry now is on the shelves of U. S. military hospitals throughout the world, consisting of 5,760,000 antibiotic tablets, the Journal says.

★ ★ ★

The tablets were bought by the Military Medical Agency's New York office from the Italian firm of Farmochimica Cutolo-Callosi for a reported price of about $500,000, the Journal reports, then adds:

"The next lowest bidder, who offered to supply the tetracycline for more than a million dollars was Charles Pfizer & Co. of Brooklyn, N.Y."

Manhattan Prexy Quits to Fight Rap

NEW YORK (AP) — Hulan Jack, 52, president of Manhattan Borough, has voluntarily quit his $25,000-a-year job to fight charges he violated a local charter by accepting financial favors from a business client of the city.

★ ★ ★

Jack, a Negro Tammany Hall Democratic district leader in Harlem, announced Friday he was suspending himself from office without pay pending outcome of against him by a New York grand jury.

★ ★ ★

The same charge had been returned against Jack once before but the indictment was dismissed. Jack also suspended himself from office then but returned after the indictment's dismissal. Two days ago the indictment was reinstated.

Italian Crisis Worse as Fanfani Fails

ROME (AP) — Italy's gravest postwar government crisis entered a new phase today, with new elections threatened.

★ ★ ★

The next move was up to President Giovanni Gronchi after former premier Amintore Fanfani gave up Friday night his attempt to form a left-of-center government led by the Christian Democrats.

★ ★ ★

Fanfani's failure increased speculation that Gronchi might be forced to dissolve Parliament and call elections — something which never has been done in the 14-year history of the Italian republic—to resolve the three-months political crisis.

American Seating Tells Better Sales, Earnings

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—American Seating Co. of Grand Rapids reported Friday an improvement in both sales and earnings during the first quarter of 1960 despite what the firm said was a predicted drop in school construction this year.

★ ★ ★

President James ver Meulen told the company's annual meeting that first quarter sales of $7,163,573 represented an increase of 32.1 per cent over the same 1959 period.

Net income for the quarter was $84,469, he said.

Earnings per share, based on 655,140 shares outstanding, rose to 13 cents compared to a loss equal to four cents per share, on 652,790 shares during the same period in 1959.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — All major hotels here have lifted their racial restrictions.

The Southern Hotel, last one to do so, announced Friday it was following "the example of our competitors."

Harrelson Jr. Demands Exam

Charged With Assault While Seeking Wife in Neighbor's Home

Leaun Harrelson Jr. demanded examination today before Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan on charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

★ ★ ★

The son of Leaun Harrelson, president of Pontiac Teamster Local 614, he was released on $100 bond pending examination May 4.

Harrelson, 24, of 570 Desota Pl., was arrested yesterday by Pontiac police on a complaint signed by Mrs. Etta Sturm of 635 Desota Pl.

Mrs. Sturm said that Harrelson burst into her home the evening of April 15 looking for his wife, Mary Lou.

★ ★ ★

She told police that Harrelson ripped off the bathroom door where the two women were hiding, beat his wife with the door. Mrs. Sturm said young Harrelson then turned on her, and dumped a heavy maple chest in a bedroom on her legs, causing severe bruises.

★ ★ ★

She also said that he ripped two telephones from the wall.

AVERAGE DRIVER CAN GROSS TO $15,000 AND OVER A YEAR IN MOVING BUSINESS
Big opportunities for the man who can qualify as an "Owner-Operator" for North American Van Lines. This is a sound business venture for responsible, ambitious drivers to own and operate their own tractors. It's an interesting "on-the-go" job where you can be your own boss and control your own earnings. Many extra benefits, too — free uniforms, free van maintenance, free licenses, and tax benefits. Michigan Adds 35 State Police

Brings Force to Within 18 of Authorized Full Manpower

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan has 35 brand new State Police troopers today.

They will bring the force to 1,137 —18 short of the authorized strength.

The 35 recruits were graduated at ceremonies here yesterday and designated probationary troopers.

Gov. Williams addressed the graduates and presented two bravery awards and six meritorious citations to a group of full-fledged troopers.

DISARMED MAN

The bravery awards went to troopers Lewis G. Smith and Donald Rudman of the Flint post.

The pair disarmed a mentally disturbed man who had held other officers at bay with a rifle and shotgun in Mt. Morris Township.

Citations for siling under fire a berserk farmhand who was terrorizing his wife and another family in a house were presented to four troopers from the Mt. Pleasant post.

★ ★ ★

They are Richard L. Hofmann, Arthur W. Tooley, Paul J. Jones and Gerald I. Koeniganknecht.

Also cited were troopers Charles F. Spurlin and Herbert R. Markein of the Bridgeport post for alertness in arresting three men charged with stealing livestock.

About half of all fires in the United States occur in homes.

Dearden Will Deliver Address in Kentucky

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The Most Rev. John F. Dearden, Archbishop of Detroit, will deliver the address when the Most Rev. Richard H. Ackerman becomes seventh Bishop of Covington May 17, it was announced today.

★ ★ ★

The churchmen are old friends. The Rev. Dearden consecrated Ackerman as bishop in 1956 in Pittsburg. At that time Dearden was bishop of that city.

Board Taking Look at Capital Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board will take a hard look at money problems plaguing Capital Airlines, the nations fifth largest.

The CAB ordered Capital to submit within 45 days a report on its financial troubles as the first step in a board investigation which will include scrutiny of the firm's petition for a 13 million dollar annual subsidy.

★ ★ ★

Also to be studied by the CAB are possible transfer of some Capital routes to other airlines and possible integration of Capital routes with those of other airlines through merger, consolidation or acquisition.

★ ★ ★

The CAB acted yesterday as Capital directors announced that President David H. Baker and two other company officials will seek a meeting with Vickers-Armstrongs, Ltd., in an attempt to stave off foreclosure of a mortgage on Capital's airplanes.

Capital's board also ordered salary cuts of at least 10 per cent for 18 of the firm's officers who now average $23,000 yearly.

The Proof of the Pudding Is In the Eating!
HERE IS ANOTHER TESTIMONIAL FROM A SATISFIED OWNER OF A BURDETTE GAS BURNER!

Pontiac, Michigan.
April 13, 1960

MICHIGAN HEATING, Inc.,
88 Newberry Street,
Pontiac, Michigan.

Gentlemen:

In answer to your inquiry as to how I like the Freeman Furnace installed in my home last September.

The installation has been very satisfactory. The Burdette Burner, with which the Freeman furnace is equipped has saved me about $100.00 a year over the cost of coal. The gas bill is low and we have the best heat we have ever had.

You may use this letter in any way you see fit.

Sincerely,
DOUGLAS MARTIN,

Rev. Joel Kuvuna of Africa to Attend Church Council

REV. JOEL KUVUNA

The Rev. Joel Kuvuna, native pastor and evangelist from Africa, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Alliance Church, M59 at North Cass Lake road.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. Mr. Kuvuna is in this country as the representative of the 125 Christian & Missionary Alliance churches in the Belgian Congo. During the annual Council of the Alliance in Portland, Ore., scheduled May 11-16, he will speak for the 40,000 African Christians of the denomination.

★ ★ ★

The guest preacher will speak in Kifiote, his native tongue. The Rev. David C. Kopp, who served in the Congo 30 years ago and who is returning to Africa in June for another term of mission work, will interpret his sermon.

The Rev. Mr. Kuvuna will speak at noon Tuesday to the Christian Business Men's Club at the Elks Temple.

The African pastor is a resident of Ndingi, a town of 1,000 in the Congo's Mayombe area, about 200 miles north of the mouth of the Congo River.

Although born into the home of a witch doctor, the Rev. Mr. Kuvuna accepted Christianity at the age of 12.

Eight years later after years of study on his own, he had graduated from the Mission's Bible School for training African preachers and was appointed assistant pastor of the Ndingi Church.

★ ★ ★

Ordaine and appointed to the pastorate following the death of the regular minister, he has served the church for 26 years.

SERVES 19 CHURCHES

In addition to his pastoral duties he serves as district superintendent for 19 churches and sits with a 12-member committee which acts as a governing body for the 125 Congo congregations. He also is a member of a four-man board of elders responsible for guiding and setting policy for the Congo churches.

In 1948 the Congo pastor who stands head and shoulders above the others in an African crowd proposed a new church building. His plans called for a bell tower, an indoor baptistry and a rear balcony.

Although he had no architectural training, he guided the workers in constructing the building. The congregation made bricks by hand and carried galvanized roofing and cement eight miles from the trade centers back to his town. The church accommodating over a thousand worshipers is filled every Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Before his father died the Rev. Mr. Kuvuna converted him to Christianity. He now has a brother in the ministry, a daughter married to a Bible teacher, and a son studying for the ministry.

While not associated with politics, he has had cordial relations with the Belgian government officials and Congolese leaders of the emerging nation, the Rev. George J. Bersche said.

Michigan Bell to Start Contract Talks Tuesday

DETROIT (UPI) — Negotiations on new contracts begin Tuesday when bargaining teams of Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and the Communications Workers of America (AFL-CIO) meet.

Present contracts covering about 16,800 Michigan Bell employes in the company's plant, traffic and accounting departments will expire June 2.

The Union said its demands will include "changes and modifications in existing wages, hours and other conditions of employment" which will be outlined during negotiations.

Bell's bargaining team is headed by David K. Easlick, assistant vice president, and the Union's by Herman Shelton, international representative.

Mother Needs Vacation, Too

Don't forget Mother, folks — she's on vacation too!

A vacation is no vacation for the lady of the house if she can't leave behind many of her daily chores. She can, if careful planning is given to building or remodeling the summer cottage in the mountains or at the beach.

Here are a few suggestions:

An outdoor shower stall will eliminate most of the sand and dirt usually tracked through the cottage. The shower area should be large enough for dressing and include hooks along one wall for soggy bathing suits. Cover the walls and floor with a waterproof material such as ceramic tile. Ceramic tile is easily maintained — even by the kids — with just the swish of a damp mop.

Another suggestion is combining your kitchen and patio. If you are remodeling, build your patio just outside the kitchen. This will eliminate preparing food in the kitchen and carting it any distance to the patio. The two areas can be separated by glass doors to provide for those inevitable rainy days. Durable quarry tile is ideal for the patio deck and can be extended over the kitchen floor for a feeling of unbroken spaciousness.

The kitchen-patio should also provide space convenient to both areas for trash disposal. At one side of the patio dig a well large enough to insert your disposal unit, which should have a foot-lever lid.

Now furnish Mother with a large supply of paper plates and cups to eliminate the dishwashing problem, and she can really enjoy her vacation!

Slab Homes Need Good Roof Drainage

If you have a basementless house without gutters and downspouts for the roof, you're courting problems, according to the Roof Drainage Manufacturers Institute.

Studies made by the RDMI show that basementless houses, built on concrete slabs, need good roof drainage most of all. That's because the shallow foundation walls around them are susceptible to undermining by water.

When heavy rains and melting snow pour off the roof onto the ground near the house, water soaks into the soil next to the foundations. This may tend to soften the soil on which the foundations rest, thus causing the house to shift, walls to crack, and general deterioration to set in.

You can prevent problems like these by calling your local sheet metal contractor and asking him to recommend proper roof drainage for your home.

Cottonwoods Coming Into Own as Lumber

SEATTLE (AP) — The cottonwood tree, long regarded as something useful only as emergency firewood, may be destined for a brighter role in the lumber industry.

Lumbermen taking part in a symposium conducted by the Northwest Hardwood Assn. agreed cottonwood can be a valuable timber prouct if properly grown.

It can be used for plywood, veneer, pulp and even the manufacture of fine furniture.

The trees will grow anywhere from Mexico to Alaska, it was reported. When grown as a crop, however, they must have the proper conditions to provide good quality timber.

Instead of being planted as seed, cottonwood trees are started as cuttings several feet long. Peeler logs can be grown in 30 to 35 years.

STORAGE SCREEN — Homemade screen is a neat and practical addition to this small kitchen. Hardboard panels are warp-and-crack-resistant.

Simple Storage Screen a Boon in Small Kitchen

A screen that adds to storage facilities can be a mighty useful item in a tiny kitchen or in the cramped quarters of a one-room apartment.

If a homemaker can make it herself without special tools or talents, and at modest cost, it is a worth-while project.

The secret of living room assembly is to have the materials cut to size by the lumber dealer. To avoid the use of metal hinges (which can be tricky to align properly), strips of heavy canvas are used as hinges.

This is a three-panel screen, six feet high, with a kiln-dried redwood frame, sheathed in tacked-on perforated hardboard.

To duplicate it you will need two 4 by 6 foot sheets of perforated tempered hardboard, ⅛-inch thick, cut into six equal sections, 16 inches by 6 feet. Your redwood (chosen because it won't split or warp) is 1 by 2 inches cut into six pieces 6 feet long and six pieces, 12½ inches long.

1,200 TACKS

You will also need 1,200 decorative upholstery tacks (ask for the bulk price) although fewer tacks will do if you do not wish to cover every border hole.

For the frame hinges, get two pieces of heavy canvas 6 feet by 3 inches. Here are the steps to build the screen:

Take two six-foot lengths and two 12½-inch lengths of the redwood and form a frame on the floor. Lay canvas for the hinge along one side of the frame with half of it on the wood, the other half draped over to be fastened to the next panel.

Place one panel of the perforated hardboard over the frame and hinge. Carefully line up the edges of the frame and then hammer tacks through the hardboard's holes into the frame.

Make another frame the same way beside the first panel. Place the other half of the cloth hinge over the adjoining frame, tack the second panel into place. One-eighth of an inch space should be allowed between two frames to give hinges and screen flexibility.

With one side of two panels completed and one hinge in place, turn completed part of the screen over and begin assembly of third panel. Repeat the same process with hinge and lining up frame for third panel. Be certain the two cloth hinges are on opposite sides of screen so it will fold properly.

Finish hammering perforated hardboard on both sides of all frames.

The hardboard may be painted and this should be done before assembly.

Approximate cost is $15, although this will vary in different parts of the country. With so many tacks so close together, the directions caution us to be sure to use kiln-dried redwood to avoid a split frame. Many accessories fit perforated hardboard — shelf brackets, hooks, holders — to make this as versatile in use as one likes.

Hardboard is made by an exploded wood fiber process not only in America, but in Africa and Australia as well.

Overlaid Plywood

Overlaid plywood, with resin and fiber bonded to the face in a smooth sheet, is produced by many mills and makes an ideal surface for smooth paint finishes. Medium density overlay is designed for regular conditions, high density where the surface may come in contact with caustic substances, such as acid tanks, brine tanks, or where smoke or fumes are a problem.

Peg-Board can be primed and painted with either a brush or roller.

Varnish Comes in Many Forms

Natural varnishes are the secretions of trees. These were developed in Asia and are known, mainly as Oriental lacquer, Chinese lacquer or Japanese lacquer. One or their principal uses is to finish jewel boxes, wood vessels and furniture.

The catalytic varnishes are highly resistant to water, alkali, acids and solvents. Used primarily for industrial finishing, they take their name from the fact that a catalyst is added just before application to speed the drying of the resinous contents.

Water varnishes include the fixatives employed by artists to protect delicate pastel drawings and other types of art work, the sizes used to stiffen straw hats and various hair-dressing aids. They are emulsions or dispersions of resins or gums in water.

Spirit varnish, one of the two main types, is composed of a resin or other film-forming material combined with a volatile liquid. When the liquid has evaporated, the resin remains on the coated surface in the form of a film. Large quantities of spirit varnishes are used for coating such familiar objects as playing cards and food cartons. They are also used in the antifouling paints that discourage the growth of speed-impeding organisms on the hulls of ships and in the paints that safeguard our lives by marking traffic lanes on highways.

Most familiar of all types and most widely used are the oleoresinous varnishes which are mixtures of resin, oil and drier, dissolved in a volatile liquid which serves as a thinner. The resin and oil are usually processed by cooking.

Oleoresinous varnishes include many types. The names may describe the ingredients, some special characteristics, or end use. There are tung oil, alkyd, phenolic, asphalt and epoxy varnishes; long and short oil varnishes; flat varnish, air drying and baking varnishes; spar varnish (so-called because designed for use on wooden spars, masts and rails of ships); aluminum varnish (for mixing with aluminum pigment), floor, furniture, lithographic, electrical insulating, heat resistant varnishes; and many others.

Falls from ladders are high on the danger list, so paint color rings on the rungs to make them more visible. However, do not paint the whole ladder since the coating can hide cracks which might lead to a broken rung and a broken neck.

BAGGAGE COMPARTMENT—This compartment has a hinged top which makes it easy to pack and unpack. It's large and may be used for suitcases as well as other types of baggage. Salesmen use it for their sample cases. It may be locked so you have no worries when you park and leave your car. The size may be varied depending upon your specific needs. Any inexperienced amateur can easily build the compartment when he uses the full size pattern. A list of required materials is given along with lots of illustrations and easy to understand directions. To obtain the car-luggage compartment pattern No. 228 send $1.00 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., Van Nuys, Calif.

PONTIAC'S SPECIAL — This face-brick home is built within the city limits at 835 Scottwood, near Perry. Features of the home include three bedrooms, carpeting, city water and sewers, a full basement and a large kitchen. Cameron Building Company handles construction and sales. The homes sell for $11,750. The model is open daily from 1 to 5, with a 9 p. m. closing hour on weekends.

Nonducted Home New for Ranges

NuTone, Inc., announces the introduction of the first non-ducted hood that eliminates all three cooking problems—smoke, grease and odors. The powerful, 4-speed fan in NuTone's new "Triple-Aire" Hood pulls the grease-laden air into a large aluminum mesh filter directly above the range.

After being freed of grease, the air passes next through the special "Micro-Flo" filter which removes smoke, and then through an activated charcoal filter which eliminates odors. The hood extends 21 inches from the wall to completely cover the front burners.

It is available in 30", and 42" widths in satin anodized aluminum, copper anodized aluminum, copper enamel, antique copper enamel and stainless steel. It may be attached to cabinets or a wall shelf. Wiring can be plug-in or concealed. Prices, depending on size and finish.

Hardening Concrete Will Prevent Dust

A "dusty" concrete condition can be corrected by hardening the surface with a zinc sulphate solution.

Mix powdered zinc sulphate, three pounds to one gallon of water, and pour mixture over concrete. Scrub with a stiff brush. Do not remove. After it dries sweep clean.

When wood grows, it produces annual layers of growth which completely surround the tree. When the tree is sawed, these annual growth rings create a beautiful pattern or texture.

Answer These Queries Before Tearing Out Walls

If you are a homeowner with growing pains, you generally have one of two choices:

Move to a bigger house or expand your present home.

The first alternative poses a question — Can you afford to move?

The other choice, remodeling to fit the needs of a growing family, can be a bit tricky since there are other factors involved besides money.

1. Where to expand? The least expensive expansion generally can be in an unfinished attic or basement. Next best is the garage or breezeway or carport, either of which is usually already partly enclosed.

2. What's the primary reason for expansion? Generlly, the need today is for an extra bedroom followed by a playroom or den. An enclosed porch or a place for home expansion projects.

3. What will it cost? This depends upon the type of extra room and its location as well as materials needed. For exterior remodeling, consider insulated aluminum siding that cuts future maintenance and heating costs and can be used over any type of surface — wood, stucco, shingle or concrete block. Gypsum wallboard can be used for a variety of interior jobs.

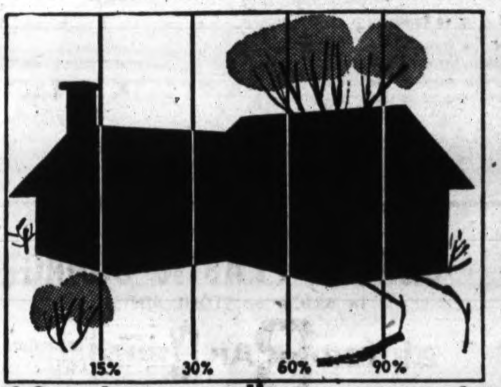
4. Who will do the job correctly? A reputable remodeling contractor will give a cost estimate and it is best to get at least three estimates. Be certain the payment terms are exact and that any contract specifies exactly what is to be done and what quality materials will be used.

5. How to finance it? There are several ways. One of the recommended ways is an "open-end" mortgage whereby the homeowner can reborrow money he has already paid on the mortgage at the same interest rate. This is generally merely an extension of the regular mortgage.

Rain seldom falls in the upper regions of Egypt.

Add On a Porch

If your want a comfortable porch and your home doesn't have one, why not add one on at the side or back of your house, whereever it would fit best? Porches and many other exterior and interior home improvements, including painting and decorating, are eligible for financing with loans insured under FHA's property improvement program. For details, see your local qualified lender.



If fire destroys all your property, how much would you lose?

Too many folks in this area don't have enough insurance protection for their homes. And that's serious when there are thousands of dollars at stake! Make sure you have the property insurance you need. Call us for a complete checkup . . . today.

Sanding Means Better Finish

Here are instructions for refinishing furniture.

Remove all finish with water-soluble paint remover. If necessary, use a putty knife for clotted spots.

Sand with medium sandpaper to remove coarse scratches from the previous step. Always sand with the grain.

Rub in (with the grain) a combination of two-thirds linseed oil and one-third turpentine warmed in a double boiler to speed penetration. Wipe to required depth of color. The longer the oil stain sets before wiping, the deeper the final color and the more difficult to rub down. Leave overnight after wiping.

Sand again with fine grit because grain will have risen from previous oil stain.

Coat with a half and half mixture of shellac and denatured alcohol and again let dry overnight.

Sand again with sander with fine grit sandpaper which you have used previously so it is not too abrasive.

Shellac again with half and half mixture, always leaving time to dry. Sand again.

Spray on enamel or wood finish and allow to dry thoroughly. Use worn sandpaper again. Apply second coat of finish. Dry. Smooth with finest steel wool and wax with good paste wax if desired.

Now the discarded piece of furniture is useful again.

Is All That Water for Just One Day?

The upsurge in the demand for hot water in the home is caused chiefly by the appetite of modern appliances

When dishes are washed by hand, three gallons are used for each meal When a dishwasher is used, eight gallons are used per meal

If the wash is done with an ordinary washer, 17½ gallons are used for each load It goes up to 22 gallons with an automatic washer

For the family of four, the average demand is 130 gallons of hot water a day, with as much as 60 per cent of this total drawn off in a rush period of only two hours

TWO-FACED TABLE — This table was made to be placed on top of a card table or any other table that you might wish to place it on. And for that reason it's easy to store. When the card game is finished you need only turn the table over and it's converted into a dining table which seats eight people. You will also find the one side handy for a sewing table, it has a large smooth surface for laying out your patterns and materials. The table pictured was made from birch plywood and given a natural finish. To obtain the full size poker table pattern No. 217, sent $1.00 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., Van Nuys, Calif.

Changing One Wall Gives Room New Look

If your bedroom, dining room or living room is in good condition, but you'd like to make a change in the decor, try this: Paint one wall a different color that harmonizes with the decor. Or use multi-colored paint on this wall for a more ingenious effect. Or paint stripes on the chosen wall.

Masking tape makes this very easy to do. Or you can use a two-tone stipple effect for this particular wall. Just by giving one wall a paint treatment, you can "renew" the appearance of the entire room.

Matches Everything!

Give a novel touch to painted furniture with multi-color paint. You can coat an entire piece with this colorful paint or you can create interesting effects — such as using multi-color on every other drawer of a chest. Multi-color paint is durable, washable and hides small surface irregularities. It's a wonderful choice for children's furniture.

Furniture Goes Gay in Summer

Sprucing up summer furniture is a cinch. First, give the pieces a good scrubbing and repair any broken parts. Then give the furniture a new coat of paint. Homeowners can eliminate extra work by using spray enamels for the job.

There is some technique to using a spray can, experts point out. Practice on paper for a few minutes. Hold the can 12 to 14 inches from the surface to be sprayed, and keep the can in constant motion. An excellent tip is to stop before you think you should.

A little imagination can produce many unusual effects. For instance, why not candy stripe that old white wooden lawn chair to match the patio awning? Use masking tape, firmly pressed down on the edges for sharp lines, and then spray the chair with a color to match the awning.

Also blend two colors together to produce another color. For example, spraying white over carnation results in a cherub pink; white over aqua makes a paler aqua; gray over a stronger color creates a muted tone.

Antique effects can be developed by spraying gold or coppertone over mint green, aqua or turquoise. Chrome over charcoal brown will add elegance.

To spray pattern designs, cut patterns from lightweight nonglossy paper, such as newsprint. Soak paper pattern in water and apply to the article. Sponge off excess water before spraying on the desired color. After removing the pattern, a final spatter coat with a metallic color, such as gold or coppertone, will add extra glitter.

The 16-ounce cans come equipped with a nozzle for confetti patterns. When seeking a strong speckle effect best results are obtained by using sharp light and dark contrasts in neighboring hues, such as pumpkin on primrose yellow, Siamese pink on carnation, copper and chrome on satin black and gold on turquoise or aqua.

Change Basement With Paris Decor

A little bit of Paris right in your own basement! It's possible by following a free plan which shows how to transform a basement area into a glamorous recreation room with a "Gay Paree" decor.

★ ★ ★

The plan gives complete directions for transforming a basement into a Parisian atmosphere for entertainment and recreation. Masonite exterior siding is interestingly used for interior walls and the plan shows the construction of a canopied bar, planter box, shuttered cafe doors and windows, and other features.

Walls and ceiling shown in this plan are covered with hardboard panels and squares because home handymen have found that they are easy to work with, economical and simple to decorate.

★ ★ ★

For a free copy of the plan, write a post card to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., requesting plan No. AE-319.

G & M CONSTRUCTION

2260 DIXIE HIGHWAY

North of Telegraph Rd. Pontiac

It may surprise you, but there are probably at least three places in your home that could accommodate an extra bathroom or a powder room.

Addition of a second bath seldom creates a space problem because of the small amount of floor area required. For instance, an attractive powder room will fit into a space as small as 4 by 4 feet, and a full-sized bathroom into a space only a few feet larger.

A second bath is not only a welcome convenience, but a sound investment as well. Realtors have discovered that houses with more than one bath are more popular and sell more easily than others. A second bath will add at least one or two thousand dollars to the value of your home, or from $10 to $20 per month in rental value should you decide to rent it.

If you have a two-story home, you could put the new bath on the first floor and save yourself endless tracking up and down stairs. The extra bath or powder room also will relieve the traffic during morning and evening rush hours.

There are any number of possibilities for the location of an extra bath: in an unused closet; at the end of a hallway; in the space under the stairs; in the sewing room or the butler's pantry; or even in a corner of a large room.

The cost of a complete new bath is surprisingly low — usually well under $1,000 for the piping installation and fixtures. Dollars cannot measure the extra comfort and convenience it will provide.

Explosion Makes Hardboard

Versatile hardboard—one of the most popular building materials for new construction, repair and workbench projects—is the result of a manufacturing "explosion."

Clean wood chips are fed into huge guns in which they are surrounded by steam under high pressure. When the pressure is removed, the exploded chips are shot from the guns in the form of individual hair-like wood fibers, each surrounded by the original lignin that held the log together.

After the "explosion," the fibers are washed, refined, felted and reformed in huge presses. The lignin, which is wood's natural binder, is resued to bind the fibers into panels. Only the imperfections and unwanted parts are removed.

Masonite Corp., the world's largest manufacturer of hardboard, uses this exclusive process to produce panels that retain many of the best characteristics of wood in addition to gaining other properties which increase their usefulness.

Hardboard made by this "explosion" technique is denser than most common woods. It also is hard, smooth and highly resistant to dents and moisture. The panels will not split, splinter or crack.

Radiator covers come and go, but heres one that will stay with you. Over a sheet metal enclosure, preferably one that has a perforated front, lay decorative ceramic tile. Flowerpots will never scratch its durable surface.

Great Variety of Rollers Do All Sorts of Paint Jobs

"Roll 'Em" is more than the cry of a movie director ordering the photographing of a scene from "reel" life.

It is also the cry of the harried homemaker for aid as she prepares to do some much-needed redecorating of the house. And paint dealers stand ready to supply her with roll-on devices designed to smooth on a new look for the home.

Used in connection with paints designed especially for roller application, or with standard types thinned according to instructions, rollers do a good job.

Among those seen in a quick swing through some paint departments:

Conventional rollers with sleeves of various fabrics for handling different surfaces and types of paint, and rollers with slip-on, disposable sleeves.

Sleeves with built-in patterns are available, too.

One roller has a sleeve made of a polyurethane plastic foam. The sleeve, or painting surface, is highly absorbent, and holds a good load of paint.

Because of the foam-type construction it hugs uneven surfaces well, and can be used on stucco, brick and other textured finishes, as well as on door jambs and window sills. It takes oil, rubber, or water-base paints and cleans with the appropriate solvent for the particular paint. Sleeve is removable for cleaning or replacement.

Jointed rollers that fit around pipes and poles are available, as are tiny, edge-and-trim rollers. Those, some only 1¼ inches wide, get to the different spots. One out-of-this-world model has two rollers offset at right angles, so that corners can be painted with one sweep of the device.

As with any home-tackled chore, when choosing a roller seek the best advice; in this case, your paint dealer's know-how.

And lay in the usual supply of masking tape and cover cloths. Most of us can't help but slop when painting, no matter how well designed our painting equipment.

Housing Boom

WASHINGTON (UPI) —More than a million housing units — homes, apartments or other one-household dwellings — have been built every year since 1949. One reason, says Mrs. Ethel Hoover of the Labor Department, is that more persons can afford places of their own, especially single and elderly persons. Families also are larger, particularly in the moderate and higher income group.

Roof Replacing Is Major Job

A problem every homeowner must face eventually is deciding which building materials to use when his house needs maintenance, or repairs, or when a major improvement is in order.

He must judge what material will suit his and his family's tastes, and what's best for his style of architecture and his pocketbook. If the building material is visible from the street, he must consider his neighbors and the community as a whole. Most important, he must decide which material will give him the most quality, dollar for dollar.

A case in point might be the homeowner whose house needs a new roof. Four leading reasons why it's important for him to choose a roofing material carefully are:

1. Weather resistence. More than any other part of the house, the roof must withstand weather's roughest blows in all seasons — winter's grinding ice and snow, summer's baking heat, and high winds and drenching rains throughout the year.

2. Durability. A roof must be durable and long-lasting, providing years of sure protection for a house and its contents.

3. Beauty. On most homes, the roof is one of the most visible exterior areas. It should have beauty and color and be in good taste without sun gleam or glare. Asphalt shingles in a tasteful color and rich texture enhance the beauty of a house and improve its appearance in the neighborhood.

4. Application cost. A roofing contractor's experience, plus the time and tools required to apply a new roof, can mean the difference between high and low cost. Most reliable roofers have applied asphalt shingles for years.

This, plus the fact that they go in place easily and quickly, means this roofing material is low in applied cost. Usually it can be applied directly over old roofing material, saving the cost and avoiding the mess of removing the old roof.

Varnish With Grain for Best Floor Finish

When varnishing a floor, brush with the grain of the wood, covering about four or five boards for a distance of about four feet. Then without refilling the brush, cross off the surface to catch any places you may have missed.

After that, scrape the brush over the edge of the can and lightly straighten out the surface, brushing length-wise again. This brushing in three directions spreads the varnish to a uniform full film without danger of runs. The best brush to use is one two inches wide.

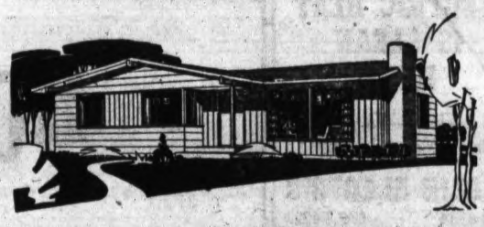
Many Model Plans to Choose From



Air Conditioner Needs Help

Modern air conditioners, whether they are the window type or central systems which cool the whole house are scientifically designed to deliver cool air at various capacities, depending on their size.

But you can help your air conditioning system deliver peak performance at minimum expense by making sure your attic is properly insulated and ventilated.

Attics which are not properly ventilated store and build up heat —to the point where temperatures inside an attic on a hot day can be higher than outdoor temperature.

If this heat is not removed through openings in the attic—ventilators—it penetrates the insulation and moves into the living quarters the air conditioning is trying to cool. Thus, cooling efficiency is lowered.

To determine whether or not you have proper ventilation, make sure the ventilator openings are half as much in square inches as there are square feet of floor space in the attic. For example, if your attic has 1,000 square feet of floor space, you should have 500 square inches of ventilator openings.

For free information write to Metal Ventilator Institute, 22 West Monroe St., Chicago 3, Ill.

Detergent Foam Will Clean Nylon

Spot cleaning upholstered furniture depends on the fabric. If the material is nylon, use standard household cleaning solvents for oily stains.

Work from the edges toward the center of the spot. This avoids enlarging the soiled area.

For general cleaning, first beat furniture to remove dust, and vacuum. Make as dry a foam as possible with a synthetic detergent. Apply foam with soft brush or sponge, remove it with toweling, cloth or sponge and allow area to dry. Stubborn spots may require several applications.

TIME TO RELAX when you go fishing. So, take along this comfortable folding seat, a reel line drier, a good minnow bucket and a bailing scoop. You can make them all with pattern 421, which gives actual-size cutting guides and is only 25c. This pattern also is in the Sportsmen's Packet 24 for hunters as well as fishermen. Price $1. Orders under $1. add 10c service charge.

UNIQUE STORAGE CORNER — Bob Readler, son of the Martin Readlers of 4075 Elizabeth Lake road, shows the amount of sports equipment that can be stored in a corner of the family room. Bob plays baseball, basketball, football, bowls and is starting golf. When the Readlers added this room, they framed one corner, made shelves on either side and mounted a matchstick bamboo shade as a substitute for a door. Anyone could do this, making the cupboard as deep as desired. Originally it was meant for the pingpong table.

Spaciousness Appeals

A cross section of homeowners from every state said they liked plank and beam wood ceilings because it gave a home a feeling of spaciousness. Popular woods used for beams and exposed ceiling are west coast hemlock and Douglas fir.

Some Decrease!

In the 1850s aluminum cost $545 a pound. Needless to say, it was not used in casual furniture. Today its cost to the manufacturer, before processing, is about 43 cents. The decrease has brought the price of metal furniture within the reach of everybody's garden.

Buyers Should Ask Questions

If you are one of 1¼ million contemplating the purchase of a home this year, tuck this questionnaire prepared by housing authority Clarence Hausmann of Allied Chemical's Barrett Division into your pocket before you start your shopping tour. You can ask the builder these questions, or ask them of yourself as you make your inspection.

★ ★ ★

1. How much room do you need for your family?
2. Does the design of the house lend itself to ready expansion?
3. Is the exterior of the house built of materials of established reputation such as asphalt shingles?
4. If a garage is not included with the house does the size of the lot allow for later addition?
5. Is the house protected with sufficient rock wool insulation so that it will be comfortable in hot and cold weather?
6. Is the kitchen of good size and properly ventilated?
7. Are electrical outlets where current in the house to handle the many appliances used in today's home? you need them? Is there enough
8. If recreation room is included are its walls built of study fire-resistant materials such as gypsum board?
9. Can favorable financial terms be arranged?
10. Finally, are you familiar with the builder's reputation for quality materials and workmanship?

Post-and Beam Construction Gives Freedom

Houses are larger when they are designed in the open post-and-beam style.

They do not have more floor space, as one leading architect points out, but they do give the feeling of much more size and freedom because the high ceilings of this style of design make the rooms seem higher, wider and less confining.

There is a buoyant openness about these homes, one homeowner remarked recently after buying one of the post-and-beam designs. Ceilings can be higher because there is no loft space closed off for traditional ceiling framing.

The exposed ceiling of the roof boards, carefully selected for their beauty and charm, together with the exposed structural beams of the roof system and posts of the supporting frame become an integral part of the home.

Many times this building method cuts costs of construction, but in every case, a beautiful home results from this type of architecture.

Favorite wood for the posts and beams is Douglas fir, and either fir or west coast hemlock tongue-and-groove lumber is ideal for the ceiling, for it can be painted, stained or finished in clear varnish in lovely, natural beige tones.

Carpeting Is Advised in Room With Stereo

New stereo hi-fi purchasers are advised to put their equipment in a room with carpeting or a good-size rug. The carpet will confine the sound to the room, filter out unwanted noises around the home without disturbing the sound fidelity.

The carpeting will also permit turning up the volume gain on the amplifiers without annoying the family or the neighbors.

NEW BUSINESS — Here is the home of Dixie Garages, a new home modernization concern in the Pontiac area. The office and display models are located at 5744 Highland road in Waterford Township. There's a demonstration garage door mounted on the office building itself. Mike Iafrate is the owner with Sylvester and Val Schwanky as co-managers.

Give Is Necessary

To be easy on your feet, a floor must have certain give or resilience. That is why wood flooring applied to a raised platform of wood joists free of the ground makes the best walking surface. Joists can be sturdy 2x12 timbers of Douglas fir which have just enough "give" to take the shock off one's backbone when walking.

Insulation Does Topnotch Job With Ventilators

Where insulation is installed in an attic floor or on the undersides of the roof, adequate ventilation is a "must" if the insulation is to perform efficiently.

One of the greatest causes of inefficient insulation — insulation that does not retard heat flow — is that the insulation becomes wet because of the warm humid air in an attic area which condenses in the insulation reducing its efficiency.

Proper size metal ventilators can control this problem and result in the savings of hundreds of dollars to the home owner, says the Metal Ventilator Institute.

You should have a minimum of one square inch of ventilation area in your attic for each two square feet of attic floor area.

Check with your lumber dealer or roofing contractor. He can help you estimate your requirements.

House Needs a Checkup After Long Hard Winter

It was a rough winter. And your house took every bit of punishment nature had to offer.

It's time now to make a close inspection of the house. With a little planning you can get most or all of the minor spring repairs taken care of before any major summer projects come along.

Alternate freezing and thawing can have a devastating effect on most masonry. Check brick foundations and steps carefully. The chimney is badly exposed—look it over carefully. If there were cracks in the walks and drive last fall, they're probably larger crevices now.

Whether it's loose mortar between bricks or a broken sidewalk, the rules are the same. Clean out all the loose material. Soak the area with a hose and keep damp for several days after repairing.

For these small repair jobs use ready-mix concrete or mortar. To avoid waste, unnecessary mixing, and dragging out the same tools several times, plan your masonry repairs for a single day.

A spring checkup is not only for what the weather did, but for what it might do as well. Don't forget, there are heavy rains ahead.

GUTTERS

Everything that landed on your roof eventually landed in the gutters as well. At best they're ice and snow weakened. At most they're debris filled. Check them and clean them out. Tighten hangers. Check the slope. Make certain water flows easily to the downspout.

Install wire gutter guards if the house is surrounded by trees. Patch any holes with burlap or canvas and asphalt, or use glass fiber patching kits sold in most auto accessory stores.

Next time it does rain look for evidence of a leaking roof. Wet spots under the eaves, discolored siding, damp spots on the ceiling are signs to look for. If you can get up in the attic, push bits of wire through any holes you find. This will make them easy to find from the outside.

Replace broken shingles, use roofing cement to plug up tiny holes. Check joints—around chimney, flashing—and cover cracks with plenty of compound.

WINDOWS, DOORS

Make a careful inspection of foundation, siding, and windows with calking gun in hand. Plug up openings in corners, around windows and doors, under boards, around stairs and door sills. Do this now and it will be out of the way when it comes time to paint.

Get doors and windows in good working order. Lubricate hinges and locks. Use powdered graphite. Rub wax around inside of window frames.

Check the same points in your garage as you did around the house. Sweep out the accumulation of salt and cinders you carried in. Hose down the floor. Pick a sunny day and open doors and windows so building dries out.

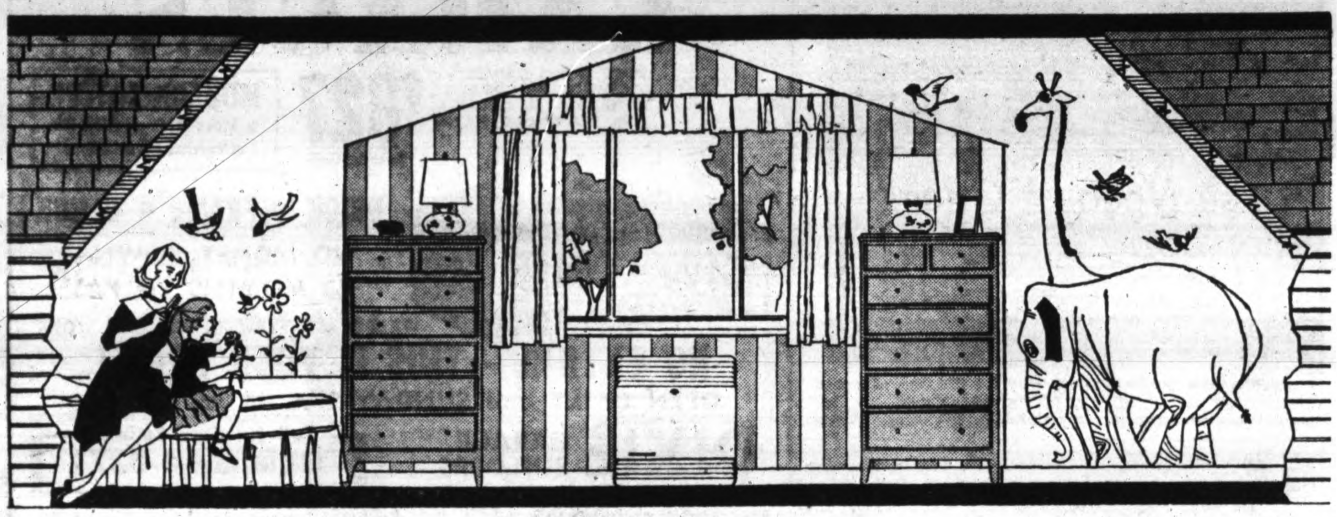
Why there's no heat like

ELECTRIC HEAT

FOR HOME REMODELING

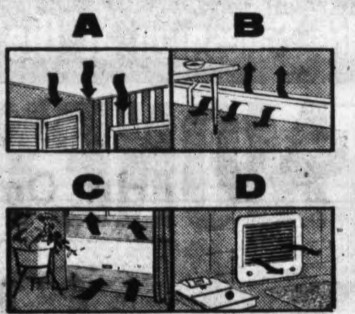


ELECTRIC HEAT SIMPLIFIES THE CONVERSION OF ATTIC INTO ADDED ROOM

When finishing off an attic would strain a home's heating system, built-in electric heat is the solution. Electric forced air wall units, for instance, can be installed without large-scale cutting into floors or substructure. Electric heat is fully automatic, operates independently of the main heating system. Efficiency, flexibility and ease of installation make electric heat your best buy for home modernization.

ELECTRIC HEAT HELPS TURN SUMMER PORCH INTO YEAR-ROUND ROOM It's simple to install electric heating units on exterior porch walls where heat is needed most. Electric baseboard, for example. It will provide a curtain of evenly warm air over the glass surfaces and make an enclosed porch really cozy.

MATCH THE HEATING UNITS TO MEET YOUR NEEDS



Popular built-in electric heat systems use (A) cable embedded in ceilings, (B) baseboards, (C) forced air units or (D) radiant panels set into the walls.

WHEN THE BASEMENT BECOMES A SNUG FAMILY ROOM A good example of efficient supplementary heating is this use of radiant electric wall panels. They can be mounted wherever extra heat is needed in a family room. Then just dial the warmth you want and clean, silent, electric heat starts working for you right away.

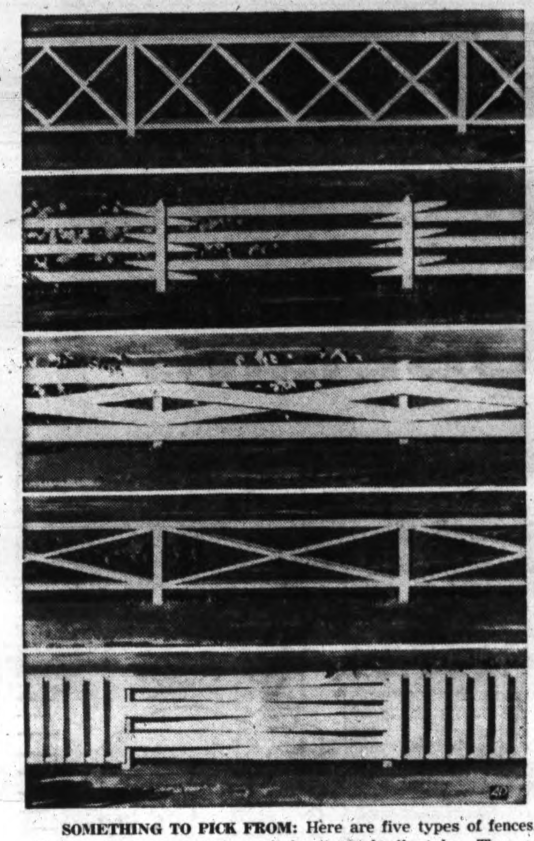
Even Amateur Can Build Attractive Fence



SOMETHING TO PICK FROM: Here are five types of fences. The top four are variations of the "stretcher" style. The one at bottom is a combination of basketweave and vertical board.

AP Newsfeatures

Like houses, wooden fences come in a variety of styles. And like houses, they can be made to fit your pocketbook.

The best way to cut the cost of a good fence is to build it yourself. Even if you do not have anything except ordinary tools, you should be able to install an attractive wooden fence because of the tendency of many lumber dealers to carry basic fencing styles in packages of pre-cut materials.

The most important factor to consider in choosing your fence design is to determine the degree of privacy and protection you want as well as the appearance that best suits the style of your house and neighborhood. Wooden fencing styles can range from the open-viewed simplicity of the picket fence to the dramatic maximum-privacy afforded by the new basket-weave design.

Before deciding on the size and type of your fence, take a drive around the community. You probably will get many ideas from the ingenuity and planning of others.

Vertical lines can become tiresome if carried on a straight run of more than 100 feet. If you need a long string of fencing, you should plan your design to capture the horizontal line of the "stretcher" fence or the post-and-rail.

In getting the lumber, be sure to find out whether the wood is already preservative-treated or whether the design of your choice is available in one of the naturally decay-resistant woods. If you have to treat the lumber yourself, it usually is a simple matter of dipping the wood into a preservative at a reasonable cost.

When you have all the needed materials on hand for actual construction, stake out the fence location with mason's twine or fishline about a foot above the ground and then mark the post locations. When strength is required, postholes should be two feet deep and not more than eight feet apart.

One or two shovels of portland cement can then be dry-mixed with the soil and tamped firmly around the post — with water added at intervals until the posthole is filled. If your fence is to serve primarily to confine children and/or pets, rather than for a purely decorative purpose, it should be at least four feet in height.

Here are some other installation hints:

Use an auger for digging postholes in rock-free soil; a clamshell digger for rocky soil.

Use a carpenter's spirit level to be sure posts are vertical and stringers level.

For drainage, put a 2-inch layer of gravel in the posthole.

Use non-rusting nails to prevent later staining of the finished surface.

Drive nails at least one inch from the end of the board to avoid possible splitting as the lumber weathers with age. Where nails have to be located closer to the ends of fence boards, holes should be drilled for the nails to prevent splitting.

A good rule-of-thumb for fence finishes is to harmonize the color with that of your house. You can paint the fence to match either the trim of your house or the house itself. Or you can use the color of your fence to contrast pleasingly with the house color, setting it off as a picture frame does the painting.

The trend today is toward the natural look in fences. Natural stain emphasizes the warm, woody look that blends well into the browns and greens of garden and lawns. But whatever the style or finish, a tastefully-planned and sturdily-installed fence increases the value and beauty of your home.

Asphalt Shingles Resist Toughest Weather

Modern building materials and techniques make it possible today to build a house to resist the fiercest onslaughts of weather.

A good example of one of these materials is asphalt shingles, these can be applied to resist even during winds of hurricane force.

Varied colorings in woods like Douglas fir or western red cedar are caused by irregular distribution of pigments as the tree grows.

Laminated Architectural Glass Now Available

DETROIT, Mich. —Laminated architectural glass, a versatile building material with unique properties for solar energy control, decorative glazing and industrial safety uses, was introduced here recently to more than 1,000 architects attending the 46th annual convention of the Michigan Society of Architects at the Sheraton-Cadillac hotel.

The laminated glass is on exhibit at the convention by Monsanto Chemical Company's Plastics Division, manufacturers of the tough, resilient plastic film which is "sandwiched" between the two layers of glass.

In its basic form, it is the same glass which becomes "limp" when broken, instead of shattering into flying fragments, used for many year sfor automobile windshields for the greater safety and comfort of motorists.

To meet specific structural requirements or to create special effects, however, the construction has been varied in a number of ways for architectural uses.

★ ★ ★

Laminated architectural glass has already been installed in several new midwestern schools, hospitals, hotels, motels and public buildings increasing the comfort of the occupants of glass-walled buildings by reducing the glare, or amount of light admitted, while cutting down on the amount of heat transmitted or radiated by the large window areas.

In the home, laminated architectural glass is used in partitions, room dividers, doors, windows, decorative panels, shower stalls, skylights, curtain walls, railings and spandrels.

In its construction, thicker glass or tempered glass may be used to boost strength or to improve thermal properties. Pigmented, printed, or painted interlayer may be employed to obtain color, to create decorative effects, to absorb heat or to reduce light transmission.

★ ★ ★

Extra layers of plastic (polyvinyl butyral) film suitably colored or decorated, or both, may be utilized to produce a three-dimensional or textured effect. And a variety of materials — paper, fiber and leaves, for example — may be sealed into the laminate for decorative purposes.

Apartment Putterer Can Have Workshop

Even apartment dwellers like to putter around a workshop. A person with a spare, solid closet door has it made, so to speak, in this department.

For a workbench trim a 2x6 to within several inches of the door's width and mount it flat on the inside, 30x36 inches from the floor. The height depends on what you find comfortable. Be sure the 2x6 is narrow enough so the door can close.

Cut ¾-inch plywood to the width of the 2x6 and 28 to 34 inches long, depending on how high you mounted the 2x6 base. Mount the plywood to the base with strong hinges and make or buy a collapsible horse to support the other end of your dropleaf workbench.

To further utilize space, the area of the door above the workbench can hold tools and other handyman supplies.

Still No Insulation

Approximately 22 million U. S. homes still are without insulation, report building specialists at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division. They also estimate that 80 per cent of the homes that will be built this year will be insulated in contrast to 1940 when only one of every four houses had rock wool or some other type of insulation.

Some Softwoods Are Harder Than Hardwoods

All pines come under the general category of "softwoods," which is not a reference to the consistency of the material but to the shape of the foliage. "Softwoods" are identified as such by their needles in contrast to the fuller leaves of the "hardwoods."

★ ★ ★

Some pine species are actually harder than botanical legitimate hardwoods, which is a big asset to the user. While their nailing requires a little extra elbow grease, the nails hold better, once they are in, and a hard-wearing surface is the best assurance against blemish of a pine paneled walls.

Paint for Safety Around Home

More than 40 per cent of the accidents that occur to Americans every year take place in the home, and many of these could be avoided by using paint as a danger signal and to make hazardous areas more visible.

★ ★ ★

Stairs can be made safer if stripes are used to mark the top and bottom steps, particularly on basement stairs. Orange and black, yellow and black, or black and white are combinations which scream for attention. Painting stripes is simple if this technique is used. First paint the entire step the lighter color. When this coat has dried, make a striped pattern with masking tape and paint the exposed area black. Strip off the tape when the paint has dried — voila, the striped safety pattern.

Many people, however, object to a striped pattern when the basement is used as a family room or playroom. If this is true in your home, then paint the bottom step in a color lighter than the other steps, one which works in with the color scheme of the basement room.

Whenever there are dark, enclosed stairwells in the house, the walls should be painted with one of the colors that has the highest light reflective power, such as white, ivory, or yellow. Illuminate such danger spots adequately.

A family with children or elderly members can be spared many falls and bruises if all the thresholds over which someone may stumble are painted with a floor enamel that stands out from the surrounding floor colors.

A good floor finish is one of the sealer types that penetrate and become part of the wood, so that it will only wear away as the wood itself wears.

INDOOR POOL — The children would love to jump in, but it takes three days for the water in this indoor pool to warm up and the picture was taken on the second day. Billy Hooper (on the diving board) is about to launch a plastic swan while his sisters, (left to right) Susan and Cindy, and a neighbor, Debbie Delzel, applaud. This 16x34 foot pool is in a room behind the kitchen and living room and is entered from the family room. There are sliding glass doors to an outdoor patio. Owners are the William Hoopers of 4350 Sandy Creek, Utica. The whole family swam right up to Christmas.

Learn Tricks of Painting Asbestos Cement

Asbestos-cement products are usually used as roof shingles or for siding. They can be painted in a wide variety of colors that enhance the beauty of the home. A booklet explaining how to paint these products has been prepared jointly by the Asbestos-Cement Assn. and the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Assn.

For your free copy of the booklet, "PAINTING ASBESTOS-CEMENT PRODUCTS," send your name, address and request to the Association, 1500 Rhode Island Ave., N.W., Washington 5, D. C.

To Remove Hard Putty

Hard, dry putty that seems almost impossible to remove will come off easily if it is first coated with lacquer thinner. Using a small brush, apply enough thinner to soak the putty. Wait a few minutes for it to penetrate. The putty then should lift off easily

COVER IT! — Perforated board can turn an unsightly area into a decorative wall panel, as illustrated here with the use of hardboard. Shelves for plants and books and pipe racks add a decorative note to the den in this case.

Pegboard Does Wonders for Old Unsightly Walls

Is there a woman who hasn't grown so tired of an area of her home that she is fidgety at the sight of the spot?

Such is the plight of one reader who writes:

"I frankly don't know what to do. We have a lovely home, but there is one eyesore that spoils the entire house for me. The area is a wall three feet wide by 10 feet high, just outside the bathroom. It and the small ceiling (3 ft.x3 ft.) in this little section are cracked.

"The painted wallpaper has peeled and having been painted a horrid purple shade, you can imagine it is pretty ugly. The ceiling crack is large and the ceiling hangs down.

"It seems ridiculous to call a plasterer and a wallpaperer to do this job, but my husband has postponed it so many times I can't bear it.

"The wall is at the side of the chimney, so gets warm when we use the fireplace. My husband usually is a good worker and has done many big jobs around the house, but I cannot understand his present attitude toward this problem."

This job could be bigger than it looks to you and perhaps your husband has not decided fully what material to use. If he hasn't made up his mind about it, he might resent your nagging him about it. Why not ask him if he is planning to do something in the near future.

If he is not going to make the effort, how about doing a temporary patch-up that will at least make the area presentable, if not perfect, in your own eyes?

If you show that you are serious about doing the job yourself, you may intrigue your husband into action. Take your choice of these techniques:

1. Cover the entire area with felt in a color that will blend in with surrounding areas. If you can't get it to adhere to the wall and ceiling, tack it, covering the tacks with braid just as you would on upholstery.

2. Put up board of holes (which can be cut at the lumber yard to fit). Paint it the color you like. Insert plant brackets into the holes at various spots, and use colorful plants such as African violets or geraniums, if there is enough light. Philodendren or variegated ivy are other suggestions in the event weaker plants can't survive in the location.

3. Rip off the wallpaper. Cover it with vinyl or any other fabric by tacking. Run corn in a contrasting color from ceiling to floor molding. You may get other ideas from this suggestion, depending on the decor in your home.

The ceiling to floor bands could be of any fabric that strikes your fancy. A sophisticated effect can be achieved with old cotton spools, if one could locate enough of them to make a spool arrangement by stringing them on wire or another taut substance.

4. If you are a handy woman, you might be amazed what you can do patching plaster, made relatively easy with one of the prepared plaster mixes.

Give Marble Tops Special Treatment

Keeping that marble-top table in good condition takes a bit of know-how. According to Popular Mechanics magazine, soap will eventually cause marble to yellow. Normally, clear water is enough to keep the surface clean. Add a bit of detergent for superficial stains.

Remove grease stains with a mixture of acetone and amyl acetate, available in most drugstores. Saturate a cloth with the mixture and weight it down over the stain. Remove the cloth only when its dry. (The mixture is inflammable and should be handled with care.)

Coffee stains come away with a mixture of 4 parts water and 1 part glycerine, applied in the same manner. In all cases, rinse the surface with clear water and apply a coat of wax.

Discoloration of drywalls may be prevented by setting nails deep into the surface and covering with drywall joint filler or spackle.

LET NEW WAY TAKE THE HARD WORK OUT OF HOUSECLEANING.

Our modern plant techniques enable us to restore your carpets-rugs and upholstered furniture to like-new condition. Only the latest methods and equipment are used assuring you of the finest and most careful workmanship. Try us, you'll be amazed at the beauty that your rugs and furniture will reflect on your entire home.

Curtain Call for Women Explains Drapery Use

Many husbands wonder why their wives hang curtains around and over windows — a window is for looking out and for letting in air, they say. But the wives reply that draperies are pretty — and they shut out gossips, glare, and cold winter winds.

Heating engineers and air conditioning experts say the wives are right. When air is trapped close to the glass with curtains, the effect is that of insulation which saves money in heating and cooling.

But this new insulation — should it be lined or not? Must it be chopped off short because there's a radiator? These are questions facing the homemaker in new or remodeled homes.

If heat outlets in your baseboard will interfere with draperies, you needn't use a chopped-off length. Use floor length draperies that hang over the baseboard. Heat will rise between the fabric and glass. Use a material that isn't affected by moderate heat: cotton, polyester, nylon, acetate and solution-dyed rayon.

Glass fiber material has excellent resistance to heat, even to fire. But this sturdy fiber will wear through at the point where it repeatedly rubs against a projecting metal heat outlet or air conditioner. The remedy is to hang a traverse rod forward so the fabric won't touch.

Must draperies always be lined? Well, perhaps in mother's day. But not today when man-made fabrics are created to resist sun-rotting and fading and to stay crisp and unwrinkled. Another reason for omitting the lining is that many drapery fabrics are washable and will drip dry.

Two separate layers of curtains are doubly useful. Traverse draperies can be pulled over them at night. Or, the two layers might be window shades and curtains of sheer fabric will cut glare during the day. Unlined draperies can be pulled over the at night. Or, the two layers might be window shades and draperies.

Many new homes have small ventilating windows below a large picture window. To get some air without looking like goldfish on display, again use two layers. Use floor-length traverse draperies to cover the entire window. For nights when ventilators are open, use sill-length casement curtains or a window shade.

To keep your air conditioner working at maximum efficiency, wash the filters with soap or detergent suds. Clean filters add to the performance of the unit.

Stronger Than Steel

The light appearance of modern wood structures is deceptive. For its weight, wood is stronger than steel, the U. S. Forest Products Laboratory says. New components and panelized parts of Southern Pine, strongest of structural woods, have further streamlined the residential form without sacrifice of security.

Fine furniture requires as many as eighteen different operations to give it a beautiful shimmering finish, while low cost furniture may require only fove steps.

Know Definition of House Parts

As the legends of Paul Bunyan suggest, lumbering is a colorful operation that has acquired a wealth of folklore and a language all its own.

In the process, many unique descriptives have been coined for various types of lumber. For the uninitiated buyer, the terminology has caused some confusion. Here are some tips on deciphering the "Bunyanese."

To keep up with your builder in checking the quality of important house parts, you ought to know the definition of "framing," "joists," "studs, "sheathing," and "grades."

"Framing" is lumber that holds up the house and holds its parts together. It assumes the form of a skeleton and its members have 2" thickness with varying widths.

Floor "joists" are the most important items of framing. They are placed under the house whose entire weight rests on their upper edges.

"Studs" are vertical 2 x 4's that form the wall and partition framing and support the roof.

"Sheathing" represents boards of 1" thicknesses, which should cover and brace joists, studs and rafters. Wood sheathing should never be omitted.

A "grade" is a standard of quality, and a guide to end-usage. You should make sure your builder specifies a good grade for joists, studs, rafters and other items of the structural framework. Their strength and quality are vital to the security of your house.

"Seasoning" is another term that causes some confusion. With wines or ballplayers, it means aged or experienced. With lumber, it means "dry." Wood is seasoned in kilns or on drying stacks in order to pre-shrink it. For any major use, you should insist on well-seasoned lumber.

Sometimes, the terms get naulumber used to decorate the home exterior. "Shiplap" is a form of sheathing, consisting of overlapping boards. "Decking" is lumber of nominal 2" thicknesses used for flat roof structures and ceilings in modern plank-and-beam homes.

Drilling Will Help Improve Weak Wells

In rural and suburban communities throughout America, water in wells often drops beyond the reach of the pump as the result of dry spells and falling water tables. This can present a real problem since a householder who finds himself in this situation may discover that his neighbors also are low on water and he cannot borrow.

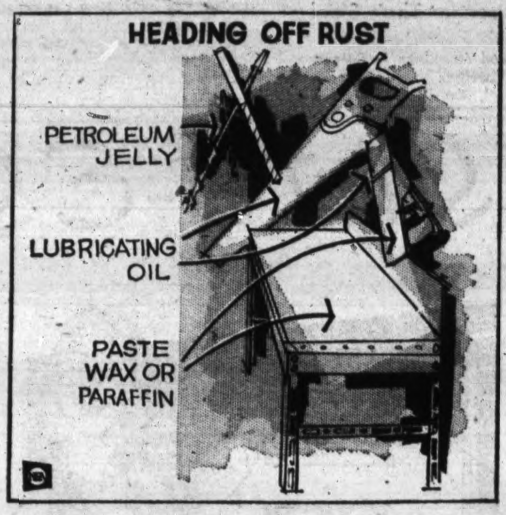
There are two ways in which the householder can protect himself against falling water tables, the National Water Well Association points out.

If the well is known to be weak, it can be improved by drilling it deeper. Another solution is have a second well drilled.

After the source of water has been improved, a new water system should be installed capable of reaching to the required depth to give all the water needed, under adequate pressure.

Throughout America today there are many water systems still in good mechanical condition that were installed 25 to 35 years ago. They should be replaced, however, because they no longer give the capacity and pressure required by truly modern living.

Homeowners will invest more than $15 billion in home improvement during 1960.



How to Fight That Enemy of Your Workshop Tools

The best tools money can buy will be less than efficient once they've acquired a coat of rust.

Quality itself is no protection, although the better finishes on good tools will protect them longer. But enough time in a damp basement and no protection and eventually they will all rust.

Store tools in a dry place. Handle with dry hands. Coat tools with a substance that will retard rust.

DRY UP

If your basement is damp you must be extra careful. Open windows in dry weather. Use chemical or electric dehumidifiers. Make certain drier is properly vented. If laundry is hung in basement, provide plenty of ventilation.

While special rust removers are available, you can get by easily with materials you probably have on hand. Some very fine steel wool or emery cloth, light lubricating oil, or paraffin or petroleum jelly are some of them.

Keep tools clean and dry, especially before storing them away. Fine emery cloth or steel wool will remove rust spots. Some light machine oil will help.

SAW BLADES

Saw blades should be cleaned of pitch. Use turpentine, then coat blade with thin coat of lubricating oil, or petroleum jelly.

Saw tables and other large, metal working surfaces can be coated with paste wax or paraffin. Rub it in well and it won't come off on other materials.

Paste wax is an excellent protector for the base of a plane. Rub a little oil on the blade.

Oil moving parts, not only for rust protection but for easier working as well.

Drill bits can be dipped in a jar of petroleum jelly for easy rust proofing.

Every metal part should be coated in some way.

While you're at it, rub a little linseed oil on wooden handles for longer life.

GET TOUGH

Heavy coats of rust due to neglect may need something stronger than the above remedies. Use the oven cleaning compound your wife uses.

Once free of rust a tool should be coated.

Some dust is bound to cling to oil coated tools. Clean with turpentine or kerosene before using.

Silica gel or other moisture absorbing chemicals placed in drawers and tool boxes will go a long way in preventing rust. Some old timers use a lump of charcoal to take up moisture.

Guests Will Like Spacious Room

NEW YORK (UPI) — When a bedroom needs to double as a study, guest-or-activity room, make it appear as spacious as possible.

The room will seem larger and lighter if the walls are painted a pastel shade. Wooden furniture painted to match the wall color also will increase the illusion of space. Ceilings should be painted white to reflect up to 85 per cent of the light that strikes the surface.

Use a "flat" paint to diffuse light correctly. Glossy paint, when used on large surfaces, can create glare. However, use a glossy enamel on woodwork and furniture which needs to be scrubbed often.

Ceramic Tile Can Take It

Attempts to save money by using low-grade flooring materials often end in disaster. The constant pounding of spiked heels on soft surfaces, for example, can cause thousands of small indentation and make a floor almost impossible to keep clean. Ceramic tile, on the other hand, is undaunted and undented by heel pressure.

New Circuit Breakers Have Glamor, Simplicity

Compatible color has come to circuit breakers especially designed for modern homes and offices.

No "cellar-dwellers" these, the smartly styled protective devices can be installed in the kitchen, den or family room of the home or in office buildings—and be in perfect harmony with intended decorating schemes.

Placed on the market by Cutler-Hammer, the product was developed to keep pace with the trend toward "total living space."

Because of its unique styling—Cutler-Hammer broke with industry tradition by giving its product sleek, modern lines—and subdued sandalwood color, the protective unit is adaptable to any surfacing materials and blends with any decor.

According to the manufacturer, style and color advantages provide the answers to four pressing homeowner problems in selecting domestic wiring protection. These include convenience, economy and safety in addition to appearance.

Because of its location, the unit offers the operational advantages of an ordinary light switch—electrical service can be restored almost immediately with a mere flick of the on-off switch without having to grope around in a dark basement or stairway.

An away-from-the-basement installation also lowers cost, the manufacturer says, pointing to a recent recommendation by the national Industry Committee on Interior Wiring Design which held that wiring costs are minimized when protective equipment is placed on or near a kitchen wall.

Safety comes in the form of excellent protection against defective appliances and overloaded circuits. The unit features dual tripping action—the primary magnetic arrangement responds instantly to short circuit conditions; while the secondary arrangement, a thermal mechanism, ignores the harmless, momentary overload but disconnects the circuit when the overload persists.

Nails Aren't the Answer to Every Joining Problem

Want to let everyone know what a rank amateur you are. Just nail everything together. Anything you make or repair — chairs, tables, shelves—just about anything.

But if you want your work to have a finished appearance, and incidentally to be a good deal stronger, use wood screws.

They'll provide greater holding power, permit you to take the work apart and put it back together again. They'll hold if the pull of the load is along the length of the screw, while nails would pull out.

WIDE CHOICE

There's a wide variety of screws available. They're designated according to type of head, material, thickness and length.

The types of heads are round, flat and oval with a single slot. The Phillips screw has the same types, requiring a special screwdriver.

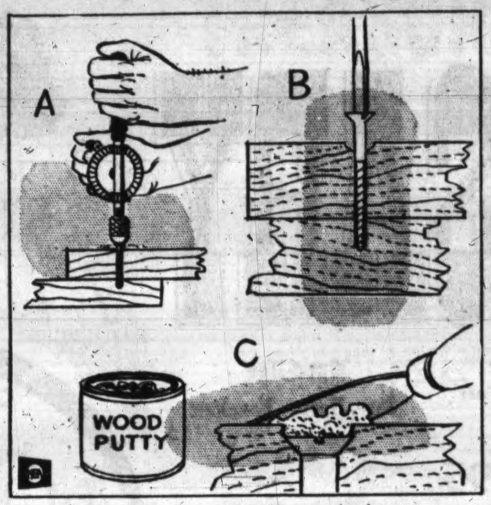
Flat and oval head screws are countersunk flush with the surface of the work. Round heads must remain exposed. The flat head screw may be driven below the surface also, and concealed with plastic wood or some other filler.

When figuring length, measure the full length of a flat head screw, measure a round head screw from the base of the slot to the end of the screw.

Thickness is indicated by number. The numbers indicate a thickness variance of about 1/64th in. A number 5 screw is about 1/8 in. thick, a number 6 about 9/64th in.

Use thin screws in hardwood, thicker screws in softwood.

In any soft or medium soft piece of wood, drill a short hole for starting purposes only. You can force the screw in the rest of the way with a screwdriver.



DO IT RIGHT — Seems elementary, but even handy men forget the proper way to smoothly join two pieces of softwood. Never hammer a wood screw into place. Drill through the first, into the second, piece of wood (a). Drive flathead screw slightly beneath surface (b). Fill with wood putty or similar filler (c) for smooth job.

In harder woods you'll have to drill a deeper hole. It will also be necessary to drill into the second board if you are fastening two boards together. Don't attempt to pull boards together with the screw alone.

The hole in the top board should be big enough for the shank (the thickest part) of the screw. The hole in the lower board should be of a smaller diameter than the threads and only about half their length.

Pick the right size screwdriver if you want the job to go easily. The right size is one that fits the slot in the screw neatly, snugly.

One that doesn't fit will chew up the head of the screw, can make it impossible to get it all the way in or to withdraw it later.

If you have a lot of screws to drive, get a screwdriver bit for your brace and speed up the work.

A lubricant will help—either wax, paraffin or graphite. Oil stains. Ignore the advice about using soap. It will cause the screw to rust, make it impossible to remove.

And never use a hammer. That's for nails.

You'll save a lot of time and do a neater job when painting furniture or doors, if you remove the hardware before beginning the job. Be sure to store the handles, knobs and pulls where you can find them easily.

Jalousies Are Revival From Earlier Days

A popular Florida export to the rest of the country today is an architectural innovation called the Florida room, best defined as a room.

The glass jalousie window makes this room possible. First created in Miami about a decade ago, the window brings outdoor living into the home through ventilation and complete visibility, along with protection against the weather.

Incidentally, it is easy to convert an existing porch into an outdoor living room by installing such devices as jalousies.

Wooden jalousies are old. The word is French and means a shutter through which one may see without being seen. But the glass jalousie has been perfected since 1949.

With vinyl weather-stripping at the head and sill such windows are effectively weather-tight.

Yellow Paint Outlines Skull-Cracking Pipes

Low pipes in the basement are built-in skull crackers, and it is a good idea to paint them, and any other low hanging areas, with yellow, the color of highest visibility. Other bright, attention-getting colors can be used too, either solid or in stripes.

The same danger exists with garage doors that slide into the roof when they are not raised to the maximum height. Treat them the same way as you did the pipes. A driveway in the suburbs or country that is not lighted with electricity can be outlined with white painted rocks or with fluorescent paint, as can gates and posts marking the entrance to the property.

Monogram vinyl tiles give floors a personalized look. They are available in four sizes, ranging from 9 x 9 inches to 36 x 36 inches.

Bathing Returns to Bedroom

What's new in homemaking to Daughter is frequently old stuff to Grandmother. But technological advances do tend to make modern versions of old ideas considerably more useful and enjoyable.

Take the "modern" idea of having a lavatory in the bedroom, for instance. In Grandmother's day, and for centuries before that, practically all bathing was done in the bedroom — it was the practical, logical place.

So there's nothing new about having washing facilities in the bedroom. It's just that, with the advent of the bathroom, the practice was discontinued.

But now it's back, gaining popularity every day. The reason why lavatories are finding their way back into the bedroom is three-fold. First, it takes the strain off the bathroom — and for growing families that's important. Second, short of having a private bathroom, it's the most convenient arrangement possible. Third, if the room is large enough, a lavatory plus an easy chair and a desk practically converts a bedroom into a private apartment for an overnight guest or an elderly parent.

What makes the idea new is the type of facilities the modern bedroom lavatory utilizes. Instead of a wooden washstand, pitcher and bowl, up-to-date plumbing fixtures are installed in counters surfaced with permanently attractive, easy-to-clean materials like ceramic tile.

If space permits, the compact lavatory unit could be screened off from the rest of the room with a louvered panel or some other divider.

The bedroom lavatory is one of the best ways for a homemaker to add a lot of comfort to a home with a tiny amount of space. And with modern fixtures and materials, it can truthfully be said that Grandmother never had it so good.

Location of Appliances Can Reduce Work Load

Despite more so called "labor-saving" kitchen and laundry appliances than you can shake a mortgage at, many women still find that their work is never done. One of the most prevalent reasons for this is haphazard location. Location of appliances must be adapted to the location of work centers to exploit their efficiency fully.

Attic Ventilation Cures Creeping Heat Malady

Does your house have "creeping heat" — a structural ailment noticable in the summertime when during the day it gradually becomes warmer and warmer to the point of acute discomfort?

A sure cure for this malady is proper attic ventilation, according to Metal Ventilator Institute experts.

What happen is basically simple, and it shouldn't happen to anyone's home, according to these folks. An attic that is not properly ventilated — no matter how much insulation you have—tends to build up heat, starting from the minute the sun rises. Since it has nowhere else to go, it creeps down through the insulation. Slowly—but it moves.

And toward noon, it finds it's way through the upstairs bedrooms, and moves on down to the lower living quarters. It becomes particularly apparent to house occupants about midafternoon. But that isn't the end of it.

Heat build-up during the day is difficult to build down during the evening, even with the windows open, unless there's a good breeze to blow it away.

To make sure you have enough ventilation in the attic, here's a simple way to calculate it, according to the Metal Ventilator Institute.

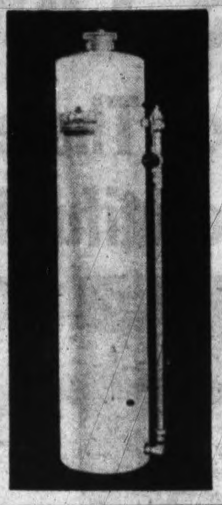
Make sure that the total square inches of ventilator openings are half as much as the square feet for floor space in the attic. For example, if your attic floor has 1,000 square feet of floor space you should have 500 square inches of ventilator openings.

It doesn't pay to store dust and grime. Wash and dry all out-of-season things before packing them away.

Harden Spilled Grease

If you spill grease on the kitchen floor, pour ice water over the spot immediately to harden it before it has time to soak in. Then scrape it off with a dull-bladed knife.

DO AWAY WITH HARD and RUSTY WATER!



YOU CAN HAVE SOFT WATER for a few PENNIES per day

Stapling Gun Necessary to Put Up Ceiling Tile

Putting up ceiling tile can be done quickly and easily with the proper tools and tiles. There are many kinds of ceiling tile, but the easiest type to put up is flanged and grooved on the edges to permit interlocking and stapling.

Your first step is to put up three-inch wooden strips across the ceiling. Put them up 12 inches on centers (measuring from the exact middle of the width of each wooden strip) for 12x12-inch or 12x24-inch tile, and usually eight inches on centers for 16x16-inch or 16x32-inch tiles.

Measure from the center of the ceiling to locate the tacking strips so that the row of tiles along each wall will be the same width. For a perfectly even ceiling use a long straight-edge as a guide and wood shingles as shims to level the tacking strips.

Most ceiling tile manufacturers suggest that you start in one corner of the room. The tiles should be applied lengthwise to the tacking strips. A cord along the center of the tacking strip enables the first row of tiles to be put up on an absolutely straight line.

Once the tacking strips are prepared, the application of the tiles with the stapling tool is quick and easy.

The wide stapling flanges on the tiles should be on the edges that are to receive the adjoining tiles, to make it easier to interlock them. The edges along the walls are face-nailed and the nail heads can be covered with cove molding.

There are many kinds of staplers and staple leg lengths, but for the most secure and effective fastening, a Bostitch gun-type tacker using ½-inch gum coated staples is most often recommended.

The length of the staple depends on the thickness of the flange. Place the nose of the tacker on the tile flange, fitting it snugly against the body of the tile. The tacker nose should be firmly pressed into this angle, tilting forward slightly for the greatest pressure. Next, simply squeeze the lever, and you've stapled the tile flange securely to the tacking strip.

Staples should be placed four inches on centers on the flange along the tacking strip, and one staple should be placed near the back end of the other flange on the rear tacking strip.

Hardwood Floor Can Be Sanded for New Look

Before refinishing, unattractive and long-neglected hardwood floors should be sanded, rather than to try cleaning them with a varnish remover or other means. Before sanding, however, sagging and squeaky floors should be repaired.

Newly laid floors of the Northern-grown, close-grained hardwoods, rarely require more than a light sanding in order to smooth them. The nice part of Northern flooring woods is the fact that "there is always a new floor underneath." If, however, your floors are badly stained or have layer upon layer of the wrong varnish applied, a thorough sanding should be undertaken. Under these circumstances, even the amateur can accomplish a professional sanding job. Here are some tips:

Rent a light sanding and polishing machine from the neighborhood hardware store. Then, for the first sanding cut, traverse the floor in both directions, going with the grain. Use No. 2½ sandpaper. Follow with No. 1½ sandpaper, then with No. ½, if necessary. Finish the job with No. 00 sandpaper. Make all sanding cuts with the grain.

After sanding, a proper finish, correctly applied, beautifies the floor, brings out the handsome grain pattern and makes scrubbing unnecessary. The latest floor finishing products are the natural penetrating sealer and the color-sealer combination.

They can be applied with a minimum of labor, by pouring directly onto the floor and "squeegeed" with a rubber applicator. After a few minutes, the finish should be "burnished" with a rented motor-driven device, faced with steel wool. No filler is required for Northern hard maple and birch—the close-grained flooring woods.

Until the middle of the last century windows were a taxable luxury item in England. Early American colonists also were assessed by the tax collector for their windows.

HANDSOME SINK — Like fine Danish flatware, this stainless steel sink has a mirror-bright "see yourself" finish and wide modern contours for easy cleaning. A narrow divider between bowls cuts down faucet splash. Rust-free stainless requires only mild soap-and-water cleaning, withstands all food acids and cleaning solvents.

Radio-Active Isotopes Find Pipe Leaks

"I've got a hot spot with a howler."

Radioactive isotopes are being used by Chicago plumbing and heating contractor to detect leaks in piping concealed in walls and floors or buried in the ground.

The radioactive isotopes are permitted to mix with water in a special type of large container.

The normal water supply for piping which is being tested for leakage is then shut off and the water containing the radioactive material flows through the pipe. Its progress through the pipe is followed with a Geiger counter.

At the spot where the leak occurs there will be an intensification of the noise on the counter. This, to the workmen making the test, is the "hot spot with a howler."

By the use of additional instrumentation, the leak is pinpointed with perfect accuracy, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. Thus there is no guesswork and no unnecessary digging or breaking into floors or walls to detect the exact spot at which a leak occurs.

The use of radioactive isotopes to detect leaks in piping represents a wedding of the modern science of nuclear physics with the old professions of plumbing and pipe fitting.

Plumbing contractors who use radioactive isotopes to detect leaks must be licensed by the Atomic Energy Commission and must follow carefully defined regulations.

Prevent Rust

Most aluminum lawn and patio furniture is put together with steel nuts and bolts. To prevent these fittings from rusting, cover them with an exterior varnish. You can tell whether they're steel by testing them with a magnet. To keep the aluminum bright and shiny, spray it with a clear varnish or lacquer.

Care Suggested in Choosing Nail

One of the big advantages of alternating plys in panels of fir plywood is that the material won't split if nailed a reasonable distance from the edge. But for best nail-holding properties, certain sizes are recommended for use with the proper thickness of plywood.

For joints, the following sizes, used with glue, will do the job.

For ¾ and ⅝-inch fir plywood, 6d casing or finish nails. For ½-inch, 4d or 6d finish nails. For ⅜-inch, 3d or 4d. For ¼-inch, use 1-inch brads or (for backs whe there is no objection to heads showing) 1-inch blue lath nails.

Substitute casing for finish nails wherever a heavier nail is needed.

For exterior work, use galvanized or hot-dipped, zinc-coated nails to avoid rust.

White Increases Light

One way of increasing the amount of daylight in a room which opens off a porch is to paint the porch ceiling white. Do the same to the undersides of broad eaves. Similarly, rooms opening on a court or air shaft will be lighter if the walls of the court are painted white.

New Ironing Center Is Fireproof

Space used wisely is one of the keys to comfort in a home, whether it's large or small. Something new in ironing equipment which meets this requirement is the "Handi-Press" electric home ironing unit, a compact cabinet to be either built-in or mounted on the wall in any room of the houe.

It contains a fold-away ironing board, and, if you wish, an iron in a heat-resistant folder. When the automatic timer is set, the current goes on, then goes off at the end of the time cycle. When the iron is placed in the holder, and the cabinet door shut, the power is immediately cut off.

This always-available ironing center is ideal for touching up freshly laundered household accessories which don't require "heavy duty" ironing.

Try a Skylight

The insertion of translucent plastic skylights in roofs of one-family homes is recommended by building specialists when additional light and air are needed and dormers are impractical. Such skylights, they point out, are less apt to disturb a home's basic architectural lines.

Hardwood Floor Can Be Laid on Concrete

Installing hardwood flooring over concrete slabs is gaining in popularity. If the concrete is laid on grade, an underfill of cinder or washed gravel is generally essential. To bar out ground moisture, waterproofing membrane should be used — usually two lays of 15-lb. asphalt felt. Butt the joints of both layers tightly and stagger all joints.

Mop layers with hot asphalt pitch and carry membrane up walls behind baseboard. Sleepers and screens should be treated with preservative to retard deterioration. Good results may be had, if sleepers or screens are laid in mastic. Air circulation under finish floor is helpful, especially if there is no basement under the house.

MARBLEIZED—Chipped, battered windowsills can be changed to smart "marble" by using the easily installed Hartsil plastic shell.

Here's How It's Done

An easily installed plastic shell, designed to give your battered window sills a realistic marble appearance will provide tough, attractive protection for this much-abused surface in your home.

Molded of glass fiber reinforced polyester resin, the same rugged material used for boat and sport car bodies, the strong, thin Hartsil pictured above can be cut with shears to fit all conventional window sills. Ordinary wall tile adhesive is then applied to the sill surface and the cover set permanently in place.

Also available in various wood grains, the new Hartsil is easy for the home handyman to install and because of its low cost, beauty and toughness, numerous contractors are installing wooded surfaces treated with the same Hartsil finish in new homes

The Hartsil, made by the Hartglas Co., Toledo, Ohio, is available through leading building material suppliers

Plastic Brick Siding Is New

Pontiac homeowners and store owners have a new material to to use on exterior walls. It is available on either stone or brick design and comes in easily handled panels, 14x41 inches.

This Cerone finish plastic has a backing of both insulating board and aluminum to give it insulating qualities and moisture resistance. The manufacturer claims it never needs painting and cannot be cracked or chipped. The panels may be applied directly onto studs or over any other siding material.

★ ★ ★

Harry Cohen of Federal Modernization has the local franchise on this plastic. He is offering it at cost to downtown store owners to beautify their buildings in the current "Beautify Downtown Pontiac" campaign.

Lay subfloor boards diagonally, with at least two 10d nails at each joist and each board end. Firmness of the top floor depends on this.

Flashing Lights Control Plant Blooming Time

Flashing lights have a place now in the greenhouse, as well as at the railroad crossing. Flashing lights can make flowers hold back their blooms and save greenhouse men hundreds of dollars in bills for electricity.

The flashing lights are a new technique being studied at the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University in relation to the continuous-light method flower growers now utilize to control plant blooming.

★ ★ ★

If you get a beautiful, flowering plant for Easter, this is what may have happened: The nurseryman who wants to retard flowering until Easter-time keeps continous lights on plants for about four hours in the middle of the night. Day-length, or artificial light, above a given number of hours, will keep certain plants from blossoming, Roy A. Larson, a researcher, explains.

The present method consumes 240 minutes (four hours) of electrical energy each night. This could mean an electric bill of $800 to $1,200 a month.

The experiments show that two seconds of light flashed every minute have the same effect on a plant as four hours of continuous light, but consume only eight minutes of electricity, or 3 per cent of the usual amount.

★ ★ ★

Larson says that not only would the greenhouse electric bill be trimmed by 97 per cent for a big operation, but the life of the electric bulb would not be affected.

Lights are used not only to produce holiday flowers, but to spur a newly-planted crop to extra height before flowering, or to raise a plant for propagation rather than bloom, Larson said.

Temperature controls also will produce out-of-season flowering. Tulip, daffodil and Easter lily bulbs are stored at low temperatures for several weeks. Then they are brought under higher temperatures in the greenhouse and forced.

Factory Made Cabinets Do Fit

To fit the endless variations of room sizes in new and old homes, wood kitchen cabinets are factory-engineered in standard three-inch modules of width.

By combining cabinets of various widths, it usually is possible to fill a wall of any length with little if any waste space, according to the National Institute of Wood Kitchen Cabinets. Should there be an open wall space of an inch or two beside a cabinet, it can, thanks to the workability of wood, be covered neatly and easily with wood filler strips.

★ ★ ★

Base cabinets are available in widths of from nine to 48 inches, in three-inch gradations. Wall cabinets range from 12 to 48 inches wide.

Most base cabinets are made so that the countertop height comes to 36 inches. This standard height also is taken into consideration in the manufacture of appliances used with base cabinets. Some lower units are made for work which can be done while seated; these usually are about 30 inches high.

Wood wall cabinets range in height from 13 to 45 inches. The most-used heights are 18 to 30 inches. The smaller units are intended for placement over refrigerators, ranges and windows.

Base units finished on all four sides are available in a variety of sizes for island installations. For peninsula arrangements there are base and wall units offering a choice of doors on one or both sides.

★ ★ ★

In addition to these standard cabinets, a number of special purpose wood cabinets are available. Some are for built-in ranges and refrigerators; others are under-sink cabinets, broom cabinets and utility cabinets.

Frame Nice View With Picture Window

A picture window should be a joy, not a joke. If you are building a new home or remodeling your present one, look carefully around your lot, choose the best view, possibly from the side or back of the house, and have a picture window installed to frame it.

A picture window facing the house across the street or the neighbor's compost heap is worse than none. It requires heavy curtaining and makes furniture arrangement difficult.

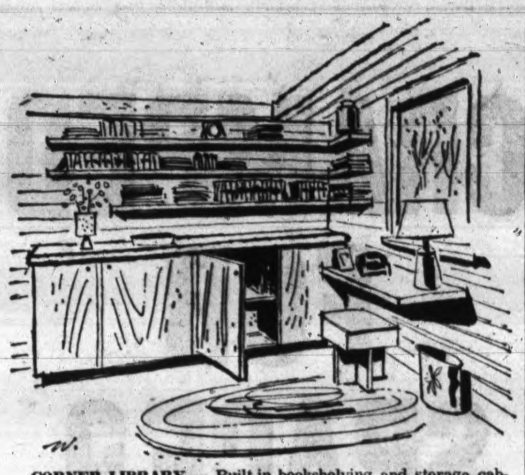
A view need not be a grand sweep of scenery. It can be a small back or side yard, fenced high and landscaped. A terrace, patio or garden of no more than twenty feet will do.

With a pleasant view, a picture window will add a calm sense of space and cheerful brightness. Ready-to-install picture windows of ponderosa pine are available in many sizes and designs to suit your house if you have, or can make, a view.

Be Realistic About Tables and the Use They Get

Is the coffee table a practical idea or is it a dust-catcher? If it'll pay its way in your home, have it. But don't get one just because friend Josie gets a lot of mileage out of hers.

A great many coffee tables wind up with collections of ash trays, lighters and matches with the shelf beneath loaded with old magazines and newspapers. If end tables on either side of your sofa will solve the problem, settle for those, and keep the floor area as clear as possible.



CORNER LIBRARY — Built-in bookshelving and storage cabinets convert this living room corner into a library. Small writing desk, merely a counter top cantilevered out from the wall, is a useful feature. Built-ins were designed in Douglas fir lumber to match the horizontally installed fir wall paneling, and all wood is finished clear to capture its pinky beige coloring.

Good Carpet Will Pay in Family Room Comfort

Sound-conditioning alone is ample reason for the carpeted family room, since these areas are frequently adjacent to kitchens or dining rooms and thus subject to more noise than ever, considering the number of mechanical appliances used in today's homes. Even in another part of the house, this room often includes a TV set, hi-fi equipment, or just plain human noise if there are children around.

★ ★ ★

The carpeted floor can't guarantee perfect quiet, but it helps! And although it can't cut out noise which might be reduced by parental discipline, it's also been found that the carpeted floor has a definite effect in creating atmosphere more conducive to good behavior.

Besides sound-conditioning, carpet always provides the homemaker with a floor which can be cleaned quickly and easily and one which is uniformly comfortable and warm.

If this sounds like the answer for your decorating paradox, here are some practical hints on choosing carpet for the family room:

1. Pick a practical color. Save the pastels and light neutrals for more formal areas of the home. If you want a solid color, select a medium tone rather than the very light or very dark. Or try a tweed, a small pattern, stripes or multi-color combination—all of which are decorative and practical.

2. Choose a sturdy texture. Again, the plush piles belong in the living room or bedroom. For heavy-traffic areas, select nubby textures, sturdy loops, high-low textures and the like. These camouflage daily use, and are most likely to fit in with family room decor.

3. Don't skimp on quality. The better the quality, the longer the wear in a heavy-traffic area.

★ ★ ★

4. If frequent cleaning is anticipated consider a room-size rug or a carpet cut to room size rather than wall-to-wall installation. The rug can be easily removed for cleaning and could also be turned at intervals to equalize wear.

★ ★ ★

5. Choose a good padding for either carpeting or a rug. It will provide more comfort underfoot and will also help reduce noise.

All the Comforts of Home for Boys

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Dick Packer, who used to drag a heavy old lawnmower around the neighborhood to pick up a little change cutting grass as a youngster, is well aware of this modern age.

Packer says he was impressed as to just how modern things are today "when two well-dressed youngsters drove up to my place with a gasoline-engined mower and asked to do my lawn.

"It wasn't the fact that it was motorized that got me so much as their having to turn the lawnmower's built-in radio down so we could discuss business."

The room in Eaton Terrace, London, where Anthony Armstrong-Jones was born twenty-nine years ago, is being thoroughly redecorated. If a man is going to marry a princess, last year's paint won't do.

Furring Isn't Always Mink

"Batts" don't necessarily live in belfrys, "squares" aren't always those who are not hep, and "furring" can be either the collar of a woman's coat or strips of wood.

These terms can be baffling to the uninitiated but every homeowner should familiarize himself with them.

They are terms used by builders, remodeling experts and almost everyone who can hammer a nail to complete a do-it-yourself project.

Engineers at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division explained that "batts" are rectangular sections of rock wool enveloped in heavy-duty paper or aluminum foil for use in insulating a house.

A "square" is an area 10 feet by 10 feet (100 square feet), a unit of measurement used to determine the amount of materials and labor required to cover a roof. The roof on an average house measures approximately 50 to 25 squares and a builder or roofer uses this yardstick to estimate his costs.

Mink may interest the lady in the household but "furring" may be much more interesting — and a great deal less expensive — to the family handyman. "Furring" refers to the strips or wood or metal that are applied to walls, ceilings or roofs to provide even surfaces for the installation of wall board, acoustical tile or shingles.

These are only a few of the more common building terms that should be included in the vocabulary of the handyman.

Remodeling Bathrooms? Send for Plan Booklet

Good and bad plans for bathrooms and powder rooms, plans for bathroom-dressing room combinations, and plans for children's bathrooms are shown in a booklet "Modern Bathroom Plans." A total of 34 layouts for bathrooms and powder rooms are shown, all drawn to scale.

The booklet is available from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 East Wacker Dr., Chicago 1, Ill. Price of the booklet is 10 cents.

For Sticking Surfaces

Used cardboard milk cartons may be cut up in small sections to provide a supply of paraffin for lubricating sticking doors and windows. Just rub one of the sheets over the surface that needs lubricating.

FOR THE FAMILY — Nine-year-old Debbie Smith bribes her pet, Skipper, to pose with her in the new family room. The Merle Smiths who live at 2574 Ivanhoe in Sylvan Manor added this 14 by 20 foot room to their home. Walls are paneled in Philippine mahogany; the floor is cork. The corner fireplace is built of red brick with stone outlining the raised hearth. Curtains are brown and white. The Danish modern chair at the right is pumpkin color Naugahyde. Ellis Builders did the construction work.

Imagination Plays a Part in Decorating

NEW YORK—The French have a phrase for the decorating technique which—like the seasoning in a French housewife's stew—makes an adventure out of something commonplace.

"Trompe l'oeil"—literally, to fool the eye—is a form of household magic that hides arhitectural defects, and makes a flat surface seem three-dimensional, or a small room look large.

A leading decorator recently employed this technique for a client who wanted to bring individuality to a rather ordinary suburban development house. Because she had young children, all ideas had to be practical.

In the living room, the decorator relieved the box-like, rectangular look of the walls by using a pair of "trompe l'oeil" wallpaper cutouts simulating arched curio shelves. The illustrations—antique pewter, candelabra and ceramics—are so real you have to touch them to believe they're not there. Not the least of the advantages here is the fact that you don't have to dust several shelves full of intricate items—or worry about the children breaking them.

In front of these "curio cabinets," the decorator created a charming spot for entertaining guests by using—instead of the conventional console table or bar cabinet—a three-tier table with beautiful modern abstract design on the top level. Here again, appearances are deceiving.

The handsome table surfaces, despite their rich, decorative look, are actually as utilitarian as kitchen counters. Made of solid plastic, they may be used for carefree serving of hot food and liquids. They are unaffected by heat, and a damp

In a small bedroom turned into a den, an illusion of space was created by dramatic use of many mirrors—an entire wall of small, hexagon-shaped mirrors, from floor to ceiling, that pick up interesting light reflections from their surroundings.

★ ★ ★

For the final beautiful illusion, the foyer was given a refreshing outdoor look with a floor of three-dimensional vinyl tiles that look exactly like genuine brick, complete with this material's natural irregularities. Other patterns perfected by this firm—the first to offer true dimension in vinyl tiles—include stone, marble and metallic simulations.

Carpeting May Save Remodeling Money

If you are renovating an old house, or just one room, carpeting the floors can be a real money saver.

Many floor faults can be concealed with carpet eliminating the need for costly floor repairs. Major faults can be corrected by filling cracks or sanding ridges. Then use a rug cushion to counteract minor imperfections.

The money saved can be applied to other needed repairs in the house. The beauty and comfort of carpet can also add very much in making an old house more livable.

A SIMPLE CHORE — No, this housewife isn't replacing a pane of glass broken by the neighborhood home-run king. She's bracing her home against storms by installing lightweight storm panels while standing comfortably in her own living room. Windows can easily be opened with panels in place.

COMPACT BOILER — Glamorous recreation rooms are a sales feature of many new homes. This handsome jacketed boiler shows the trend toward compactness in heating equipment. Clean in its combustion of fuel, the boiler makes utilization of all basement space possible. A neat baseboard installation provides an abundance of warmth on cold days.

Here's an easy way to add eye appeal in a teen-ager's room. Build a dado in the form of a miniature "photo gallery" on one or two walls as a colorful backer for pictures, school exhibits, pennants and other paraphernalia.

Attach matching moldings about a foot apart on the wall, with the lower one about four feet from the floor. A series of 1'x1½' pieces of colorful hardboard inserted between the wood moldings make a good-looking backer for the items that are on display. The pieces of paneling can be removed easily, like sliding doors on a cabinet.

Pictures and other items can be attached to the panels of plastic-surfaced hardboard with rubber cement or transparent tape. Neither material will damage the smooth plastic surface, which never requires refinishing. It can be cleaned with a sudsy cloth.

Thermopane-glazed, double-hung windows now are produced on a mass quantity basis for the first time.

Good Time to Buy Homes Realtors, Citizens Agree

Like the growing number of people elsewhere in the country, residents of Pontiac feel that this is a good time to buy homes, James Clarkson, president of the Pontiac Board of Realtors, declared today.

Mr. Clarkson explained that the most recent (March) national survey of consumer buying intentions by the University of Michigan revealed that 49 per cent of the persons contacted said that this was a good time to buy a home, compared with only 38 per cent that gave a similar answer in October and November of 1959. Of those queries in January and February this year, 28 per cent expressed some uncertainty, and only 23 per cent said it was a "bad time to buy."

"While we do not have the facilities to make a detailed survey of the home buying intentions of Pontiac families, reports from the Realtors who make up the membership of our Board clearly indicate that Pontiac is in step with the national trend," Mr. Clarkson said.

"Virtually all of our members report a sharp increase in the number of families who have entered our local housing market."

Mr. Clarkson assigned three reasons for the growing national and local conviction that this is a good time to buy a home.

"The major reason for the public's favorable opinion of the wisdom of making home purchases now unquestionably is the recent moderating trend in the interest rates charged on mortgage loans," Mr. Clarkson said.

Mr. Clarkson said that in local terms, the advent of spring and the knowledge that the local sales housing inventory offers a wide range of choice at attractive prices also account for the increasing briskness of the housing market.

It was in view of this increased interest in house-hunting that the Realtor executive offered what he termed a "time-saving suggestion."

"Families interested in finding a new home will save themselves time and frustration if they will call upon the Realtor of their choice at the start of their house-hunt," he said. "All of our members have extensive listings and even photographs of homes that are up for sale in this area.

"If the prospective buyer will tell his Realtor the price range, neighborhood, the type of home in which he is interested, the Realtor will be able to offer specific suggestions and arrange quick inspection visits, thus saving hours of possible fruitless driving around."

Plastic Cement Is Useful

A good product to have around the house is plastic cement, advise home-improvement specialists. It can be used to coat flashing, waterproof gutters, seal down shingle tabs, full joints between concrete and brick.

Lotus Lake Sub Opens Last Area

Slavik Realty Company, developers of Lotus Lake Estates, announces that Sub No. 3, the final area, is now ready for building. Lots are 75 by 150 feet. There will be 65 homes built in this wooded section which faces Lotus Lake.

Features of this subdivision include paved streets, storm sewers, community water and a large lakefront lot for the use of the inhabitants. A new grade school is to be built right in the area.

Carlo Construction Company does the building at Lotus Lake. Models which are open from 1 to 9 daily include the Space Queen, the Space King and Le Chateau. The Space Queen is a ranch type home with full basement and 2-car attached garage.

The Space King is a tri-level and Le Chateau is a bi-level. Buyers have a choice of homes with 3 to 5 bedrooms, ranging in price from $14,990 to $15,990.

Spark Plug for Mowers

More Outlets Can Be Put In

Although today's homeowner is becoming aware of the importance of adequate wiring, too many homes still are without sufficient outlets, conveniently placed. This has led to such unsatisfactory solutions as the dangerous extension cord — which may have as many as six outlets, all feeding from a single existing receptacle.

To have plenty of outlets where they are needed, more and more people are turning to multi-outlet assemblies to assure full enjoyment of their electrical housepower.

These continuous outlet strips provide electrical outlets so placed that they will always be conveniently available. In general, a multi-outlet system consists of a metal channel with outlets located at predetermined intervals, from six inches to five feet, along a continuous strip.

Proved in many thousands of homes across the country, these systems run along the wall, making it simple to attach them to solid surfaces, such as masonry, brick or wood. In modernization jobs and in the conversion of attics and basements to rooms, the mess of breaking through walls is eliminated.

Multi-outlet assemblies are available through your electrical contractor. He can install them for you in such places as kitchen counters, behind the bed in bedrooms, along the chair rail in dining rooms, on work benches and in place of the baseboard, or above it, in living rooms.

The metal raceway itself is finished in a prime coat which, unpainted, blends with knotty pine or other light woods, or can be painted to match the decor of the room. A variety of sizes and outlet spacings makes it possible to use the width designed for your need.

More Lamination

Architects are calling for more glued laminated Douglas fir beams for use in homes where the large timbers will be left exposed for both structural and decorative effect.

People Should Have Life So Good!

Queenie, a spaniel owned by the D. L. Andrews family in Boise, Idaho, enjoys the ultimate in modern comfort in her "home." Her doghouse is heated with electricity.

Andrews insulated the kennel and installed a 75-watt radiant heating element in the ceiling. A switch automatically turns on the heat when Queenie enters.

Houses for humans also can be heated with electricity at costs comparable with other types of fuel if they are properly insulated. Specifications call for thicknesses of 6 inches of mineral wool in the ceiling, a minimum of 3 inches in walls, and 2 inches or more in floors over unheated areas.

Dripping Tanks Can Be Cured

Sweating pipes and plumbing fixtures in the summer are not a sign of leaks or faulty plumbing.

The formation of beads of water on tanks and pipe is due to the condensation of water vapor in the air. Moisture will form on any container which holds a liquid that is cooler than the surrounding air.

There are various ways of preventing the dripping of water from the exterior of a water closet tank to the floor, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

1. Installation of a special type of water closet tank made for the purpose of preventing condensation. Two general types of such tanks are available. One has an inner liner made of rubber or plastic which keeps the cold water in the tank from cooling the tank's outer surface.

The other consists of two tanks that is, there is a tank within a tank, with a dead air space between the two tanks. Only the inner tank holds water. Both are of vitreous china.

2. Use of a mixing valve to warm the water entering the tank so that it will approximate room temperature. This changes the so-called "dew-point" of the air and thus prevents condensation on the tank. This device can be applied to any existing water closet installation.

Another summer problem is the dripping of water from cold water pipe in the basement or utility rooms. This can be prevented by covering the pipe with a special type of pipe covering made for the purpose of preventing condensation.

Householders who have a condensation problem in the summer are urged to consult with an experienced plumbing contractor.

Roof Coating of Aluminum Will Insulate

A new aluminum roof coating that's said to improve with age has been developed by Allied Chemical's Barrett Division at its Morristown, N. J. research laboratories.

"Tests show that this new aluminum coating becomes brighter with the passing of time," says home improvement specialist John W. Bruce Jr. "You might say that, like good wine, it improves with age.

"Under ideal conditions this coating will reflect back better than 70 per cent of the sun's rays, thereby cutting down sharply on the amount of sun heat that is absorbed by the roof and transmitted to space underneath," Bruce explained.

"Another benefit of this aluminum coating is that it keeps the upper rooms in a house as much as 10 to 15 degrees cooler on a 90-degree day," added Bruce. "During the winter months this same reflective shield will also tend to turn heat from inside the house back down, thereby cutting down in the radiated heat lost through the roof."

Fundamentally a coating for renovating old composition roofs, it covers cracks and small holes, revitalizes and protects the dried-out felt base, insulates by reflecting the sun's rays and produces a bright, attractive appearance. It's available to home owners in one and five-gallon cans.

Utility industry officials predict that from 4.7 to 6 million homes will be heated by electricity by 1970.

THE BRADLEY — Another of the new homes being offered in the city of Pontiac is this three-bedroom ranch home with full basement. The model, located at 864 Robinwood, off Perry, is open daily. Features of the house include a carport and paved drive, 1½ baths, face brick front and a large kitchen. Earl E. James, Realtor is handling the home which sells for $11,990.

Windows Self Locking

Conventional casement windows usually have a crank-turned roto gear to open and close the sash and some sort of manual locking device which must be operated separately. Now R.O.W. Sales Co., Ferndale, Mich., has come up with a "self-locking" casement window. The same roto gear that opens and closes the window also actuates a concealed locking devise.

Get Ready First

If you are going to paint, be sure to have all the necessary tools and materials on hand. You will need extra cans for mixing paint, drop and cleaning clothes, putty and putty knife, brushes, to name a few items. Otherwise, time will be wasted because extra trips to the store will be required before the job can be started.

Chilled Water Cools Big House

Got a large house — a ranch house — or a rambling house that covers a large area?

Wondering how to cool it without spending a fortune on long runs of ducts?

Chilled water may be the answer because chilled water can be piped easily through small insulated pipe to remote locations at extremely low cost.

It is because the water chiller may be located at any desired distance from the room cooling units that this type of a system is so well adapted for use in large or rambling houses.

Frequently, in houses heated with hot water, the chilling equipment is installed alongside the hot water heating boiler in the basement or utility room.

From here the chilled water is pumped by a circulator through small insulated pipe to one or more compact fan-coil units located in dropped ceiling plenum or air mixing chamber.

From the plenum the cooled air is shuttled to surrounding rooms through high wall registers. The fan-coil units are not bulky and they can be located in different areas or on different floors and all operate off one remotely-located refrigeration unit, that is, the water chiller.

FOR DREAM KITCHEN—Cooking counter in this light-hearted kitchen appears to "float" on metal struts. Electric cooking top with four heating units is only three and three-eighths inches deep. Frost-Proof refrigerator is built into wall.

Get Planning Book for Home Projects

Thirty free plans of practical do-it-yourself projects are listed in "Hints for the Handyman," a 12-page illustrated booklet telling where and how to use hardboard. A copy of the booklet may be obtained without charge by writing a postal to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill.

★ ★ ★

The booklet contains data and common uses of Masonite Presdwood products. Illustrations show proper methods for handling, joint treatments, installation of Peg-Board panels, shelf construction, interior partitions, and cabinet and door construction.

Spring Check Due for Attic Ventilation

Spring is a good time to check your attic ventilation, and to correct it if need be.

Here is how to tell if you have enough ventilation: Measure all the actual ventilator openings in square inches. If the total amount of openings in square inches is approximately equal to half the total amount of attic floor space in square feet, you have sufficient ventilation, according to the Metal Ventilator Institute. If not, you will want to install larger ventilators, or add extra ones, to provide the proper amount.

It's too cold to work in the attic in the winter months. And — particularly if your attic is not properly ventilated — it will be much too warm to work in during the summer months. An attic that does not have enough ventilation will build up temperatures higher than outdoor temperatures in summer months, because there are not enough openings for heat to escape.

New Door Hardware Permits Folding Back

Last year, a new idea was introduced in the hanging of interior residential doors. It involved hanging the doors over the wall openings rather than in them.

The latest thing in this line is bi-folding door hardware for closet openings. This hardware allows the doors to be folded back so that the entire closet archway is clear, resulting in easy access to the entire interior.

REPRESENTATIVE — Glen Abbott of 389 Going street is typical of many Pontiac area stereo enthusiasts. He designed and built this set for the living room; it's about 8 feet long and 35 inches high, has four speakers. He used regular drapery material to cover the front panels, plywood for the frame. Abbott was in the Air Force four years, studying radar and electronics. It took him about 7 months of working in his spare time to complete this project.

Build Water Safety into Summer Home

Health is no less important in the summer than in the winter. If you take the family to a summer home or cottage where water is supplied from an individual well, you'll want to be sure it's safe as the water the children will draw from the faucets at home.

The best insurance for water purity, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, is to hire a qualified well drilling contractor. He can assure you there will be no contamination that would endanger the health of both youngsters and adults who are used to taking water purity for granted.

The highly skilled, experienced well drilling contractors doing business today with modern, efficient equipment can guarantee that a private well for a summer home—or any home—will produce water as safe as any municipal water system.

Modern wells can be built without the old-fashioned pump house or pit that can actually be a menace to health. Underground discharge adapters keep all the water below the frost line, which eliminates the precautions that must be taken against winter freeze-ups with pump houses or pits. The well is still accessible, however, if repair or adjustment is ever required.

Today's compact packaged units of pump and storage tank can fit into a small area of the basement, into a cabinet in the kitchen or next to other attractive appliances. Modern pumps work without noise or vibration.

Up-to-date water systems experts can size pumping equipment to meet your present and future needs so you'll never think twice about using all the water you want.

Good Sub Floor Adds Years to Any Type Tile

It is good strategy to consider an investment in resilient rubber or flexible solid vinyl tile as a basic part of a home's construction.

With normal care, a homeowner can count on such flooring to keep colors bright for the life of the house.

But, when making the initial investment, insist on a good sub floor. A smooth, level under-surface is essential to the good looks and wearability of any type of resilient flooring.

If the tile is to go over wood sub floors, tongue grooved flooring, three inches or less in width and blind nailed, is preferable.

Plywood makes a satisfactory sub floor. For best results the wood should be kiln dried and the installation not exposed to undue moisture. A thorough sanding job before installing flooring adds to the lifetime of the project, too.

Fiberglas Fencing

Fencing material is being made from a new plastic material similar to the translucent fiberglass sheeting used in patio roofs. It comes in colors and is said to retain its high gloss without painting or other maintenance costs. Used up to now only for industrial fencing, it is expected to reach the home market soon.

A plastic foam furnace filter is washable and treated with a germicide additive.

Foil That Sticks

Latest product development of Aluminum Co. of America is aluminum foil coated with an adhesive which bonds it permanently to plastic, plywood and other wool products.

NEW LIFE — A coat of paint a little ingenuity and a discarded antique hat rack can produce a charming towel hanger for the bathroom.

Towel Racks Up in Attic?

Today's professional decorators have discovered that some of the most interesting towel hanging fixtures are often found in family attics.

Discarded antiques such as old wash stands or hat racks make charming and decorative additions to the modern bathroom. A coat of paint and an imaginative conversion can often result in towel hangers high in decorative charm.

By searching your attic or storeroom you may find an antique hat rack that can be the making of a delightful bathroom. Even discarded antler horns have towel hanging possibilities.

If antiques are not for you and you prefer to create more modern fixtures, consider a few suggestions offered by The Cannon Homemaking Institute.

Wooden embroidery hoops, painted in gay colors and hung on sturdy ribbon loops make excellent frames which, fastened to the wall at the top, can be made to swing loose at the bottom and serve as decorative towel hangers.

Imagination, elbow grease and family antiques cleverly converted can be combined to add an unusual touch to the bathroom.

Put Hardboard Around Tub to Modernize

A decorative paneling that is highly-resistant to heat and moisture will transorm an unsightly tub area marred by crumbling plaster into a handsome, easy-to-clean part of the bathroom.

The repair work requires careful attention to detail, but it can be handled by a skilled home handyman. Local contractors, of course, also can do the modernization work.

First, the wall should be leveled by patching. If in very poor condition, remove the plasterboard and replace it. Then cover the solid, level backing with panels of decorative hardboard which has a permanent plastic surface that resists moisture and heat.

Calking compound and metal moldings that match the pattern prevent moisture from entering the paneled area.

Plastic-surfaced hardboard comes in a variety of colors and pattern, which give the tub area eye-appeal. The paneling never requires painting, eliminating any future remodeling expense. It can be kept clean with an occasional damp-wiping.

Make a Sunporch

A breezeway or carport can be easily converted to a new living area in your home. Enclosed with Thermopane insulating glass, it becomes a year-tround sunporch.

Hard Maple Floors Can Take Action

The family room in modern homes frequently does duty as the all-purpose or playroom for growing children. It is, therefore, important to choose a floor capable of withstanding scuffs and scars of generations of young feet.

A happy choice for the family room is Northern hard maple. It has natural beauty as well as long-wearing qualities. The floor will reflect light and provide a friendly background for modern furnishings

For young people using the family room, the big attraction is the knowledge that rugs can be rolled up and the space used for dancing parties. They know, too, that the finest ballroom floors are built with the very same species of hard maple. As with the ballroom floor, the family room floor of maple, will endure a lifetime of punishment. If you finish it with a penetrating sealer, maintenence is easy and inexpensive.

Horizontal wood siding, an old standby of residential decoration, is getting a "new look", treatment, the Southern Pine Association says. For enclosed, covered patios, it is frequently used to adorn the interior walls, thus establishing a closer communion with the outdoors in an open plan home.

Colonial Home Now Outsells Modern

New homes in modern variations of colonial design are outselling houses in all other styles in many parts of the country today.

Many builders and architects feel the reason for this enthusiastic acceptance by home buyers of the return to traditional styling is that it offers the dignity, grace, and beauty that is lacking in more casual home designs.

★ ★ ★

Good examples of the elements that give richness and solidarity to colonial design are louver shutters, double-hung windows, panel doors, wide board siding, and more practical interior zoning.

Double-hung windows and panel doors of ponderosa pine are available in styles that are exact replicas of doors and windows hand-made by Colonial craftsmen.

The windows come in weather-stripped units with frame and sash fitted together at the factory. Panel doors also are available in units with the door prehung in its frame.

American-made ceramic wall tile comes with spacer lugs on all four sides of the tile. The lugs insure equal spacing between each tile.

IN ROCHESTER — You'd never know that this house was built about 75 years ago. This past winter the exterior was covered with green aluminum siding. White shutters and white door canopies added a trim note. This house belongs to the Edwin Coopers at 326 Baldwin in Rochester. J. L. Valkely Company did the "face-lifting" job.

Accent Wall Is Point of Interest in Room

A decorative accent wall may serve two basic functions in a room. An accent wall is effective if it merely adds eye-appeal to the room by contrast with the dominant decor, but it also may be used to emphasize a particular section, such as a dining nook in the kitchen.

Effective in any room of the house, accent walls are easy to plan, since paneling may be obtained in various colors and patterns. Hardboard, which comes in plain colors, handsome woodgrains and distinctive marble patterns, also is made in various shapes to permit a wider latitude when planning an accent wall.

The paneling is available at lumber dealers in four-foot wide panels, 16" x 8' planks and 16-inch square blocks. Each type of plastic-surfaced hardboard is easy-to-handle and can be installed by home handymen.

Woodgrained planks with random scoring make a good-looking, informal accent wall in a dining area adjacent to the kitchen, or in a family room. Another way to create an accent wall with strong vertical lines is to alternate planks of harmonizing colors to achieve a "barber pole" effect. This is particularly effective in a bedroom or powder room.

Interesting wall areas can be created by combining the planks with blocks in the same or harmonizing colors. By alternating blocks of harmonizing colors, it is easy to create a checkerboard effect on an accent wall. If the blocks are installed on a 45-degree angle, a diamond effect is achieved.

Plastic-surfaced hardboard is easy to maintain since scuff marks, hand prints and stains can be wiped off with a sudsy cloth. The paneling never requires painting or refinishing.

Construction Goes Over 1959 Amount

DETROIT — Contracts for future construction in February in Michigan totalled $91,640,000, an increase of 49 per cent compared to February 1959, Marvin J. Brokaw, district manager of F. W. Dodge Corporation reported today.

A breakdown of contracts by the major construction categories in February, compared to the corresponding 1959 month, showed: non-residential at $32,387,000, up substantially; residential at $31,587,000, up 17 per cent; and heavy engineering at $27,666,000, up 49 per cent.

According to Dodge figures, the cumulative total of contracts for the first two months of 1960 amounted to $146,788,000, up 19 per cent from the corresponding period of 1959. Cumulative total of contracts in the major construction categories showed: non-residential at $56,505,000, up 51 per cent; residential at $51,964,000, up 6 per cent; and heavy engineering at $38,319,000, up 4 per cent compared to the like 1959 period.

Wash Roller First

Before using a new paint roller, wash the cover and rinse well to remove any dust or lint. If you are using an oil or alkyd-based paint, the roller should be dry before you use it. But if you are painting with water-thinned paints, the roller should be wet.

Foundation Drainage Is Only Answer

The wet season is here again. Whether your house is built on a slab or with a basement, rains seeping into the ground can cause popping tiles, damp floors and wet cellars.

Inside waterproofing may help to an extent, depending on the severity of the condition. But the real and permanent solution revolves around the concept known as "foundation drainage." Everyone who buys a home, either with a cellar or built on a slab, should know something about foundation drainage.

The discomforts of damp cellars and floors are well known. Less understood is the insidious long-term damage caused by dampness. Paint blisters, windows and doors bind, sills rot, tiles pop up, plaster cracks — things that in a few years decrease the value and comfort of a home.

Foundation drainage is simply an underground pipeline. The pipes are perforated to permit water to enter and are gently sloped to carry water away. These pipes are run around the outside of the foundation slightly below cellar floor level.

★ ★ ★

For slab construction, the pipes run under the floor at intervals of several feet. Crushed stone surrounds the pipe to allow free water flow. The collected water is run into a dry well — a hole filled with rock to allow harmless seepage.

RELIEF VALVE

Foundation drainage works because it acts as a pressure reief valve. Underground water pushes its way up into foundations and particularly under slabs. Engineers call this "hydrostatic pressure." By giving the water an escape route it flows away.

Thousands of homes are wasting valuable space because water seeps into the cellar or basement. Even if this happens only once a year, the cellar is lost as a dependable storage or recreation area. If you want to banish moisture from your home to use this space, foundation drainage is the answer in most cases.

While many builders take care of this when erecting their houses, many do not. It can be done later if a serious problem persists, but the cost naturally is higher than it would be during original construction.

The two kinds of pipe most commonly used for drainage systems are bituminized-fibre pipe and drainage tile, which actually is a pipe-like product. The fibre pipe comes in perforated eight-foot lenghts joined with snap couplings.

Drainage tile comes in short lengths laid with open joints to allow water to enter. These joints are covered with strips of tar paper to prevent soil from falling in and blocking the system.

Creeping Vine Turned Into Baskets, Furniture

Rattan furniture often has an exotic and mysterious look. That is because the raw materials—and sometimes the actual furniture—come from the exotic and mysterious Orient.

Rattan is a creeping vine that is used for everything from baskets to bridges in the Near East. In furniture thicker sections are built into frames. Fine vines are woven and peel may be used for decorations.

Make Rec Room Do Double Duty

Now is a good time to turn a portion of the basement into a functional recreation room to serve as a cool "hideaway" during the summer months.

A recreation room will do "double duty" if a new working wall system is installed. The working wall enables the home owner to obtain maximum display and storage space in addition to a pleasant background for the room's furnishings. This is an important "plus" when planning a recreation room.

With this system, the homemaker can add or switch accessories quickly and easily to change the decor or add storage facilities. For parties or special occasions, it's easy to hang pictures or flower pot holders.

Perforated steel lockstrips, which support 55 different accessories, hold two-foot-wide hardboard panels in place. The lockstrips are perforated from floor-to-ceiling, which makes it easy to decorate any part of the wall. In fact the entire decor of a recreation room can be changed in 15 minutes with this working wall system.

Even handsome wall cabinets, ideal for hobby or miscellaneous storage, can be attached to the wall's lockstrips. A cabinet is made by attaching sliding hardboard doors and end panels to wooden shelving. A skilled handyman can install the entire system without professional help.

Both plain hardboard panels, which may be primed and painted, or grooved and grain-imprinted ones in walnut or cherry patterns are available with the system through lumber dealers. Both types of hardboard are extremly durable, and will not split, splinter or crack from hard wear or abrasions.

Call Up and Order Wall for New Room

Today a home owner who wants to add new living space to his house can call up his building material dealer and have him deliver an entire wall — complete with door, large sliding windows, frame, and baseboard.

Made of ponderosa pine, the wall is ideal for enclosing porches, garages, breezeways, patios, and other open areas. It comes as a complete unit and is ready to be nailed in place with a minimum of time and labor.

The windows are of the sliding type and are weatherstripped to close tightly. The sash lifts out to permit indoor cleaning of both sides. The hinged door matches the windows in size and style.

PLAYFUL KITTENS on your name sign are sure to make friends for you. Pattern 451, which gives actual-size cutting and painting guides for kittens, the sign board, and for three-and-one quarter-inch letters and numerals, is 35c. This pattern also is in Packet No. 71 — Novelties to Make the Neighbors Smile which contains many, full-size guides for useful cut-outs all for $1.

Use Multiples of Four

If you are considering building an addition to your home, plan your floor area in even multiples of four, and make your ceiling eight feet high. That's the money-saving advice of building materials specialists. They point out that panels of insulating sheathing and gypsum board, important materials used in wall construction, come in 4'x8' sizes and can be nailed to studs without fitting or sawing.

Free-Standing Fireplace

One of the newest fireplace ideas is a free-standing unit in the center of a living or family-room area. It can be either a prefab Franklin-stove type unit or a circle of bricks with a hood overhead. For the hearth, use modern ceramic tile with an unglazed finish. Buff or red quarry tile are also logical choices. Ceramic tile is completely fireproof, and its ease of cleaning makes it especially desirable for this use.

Families Use Lots of Water

It wasn't so long ago that Saturday night was "bath night" for the whole family. Because most water heating was done as a sort side function of old-type cooking or house-heating equipment, it wasn't always possible for all the family to get hot baths the same night.

Compare that circumstance with the comfort and convenience of today's water heating systems, providing hot water 24 hours a day for baths, dishwashing, laundering and a myriad of household tasks.

Nearly two thirds of the average residential use of water is accounted for in the hot water use. This amounts to about 30 gallons per day for each person in the home. Much of this has resulted from growing families in recent years, expanded homes and greater use of new appliances.

When you take a shower or give the kids their baths, each of you will use from 10 to 15 gallons of hot water. The automatic dishwasher gulps 10 gallons each time it runs through a cycle. A modern clothes washer swallows 25 to 30 gallons for each hour of operation.

With these changes many families find that "waiting for the hot water" is an aggravating problem, but it is one that can be solved with a new water heater of the proper size. If your water heater has been in use for some time you will be well advised to check the efficiency and capacity of the unit.

If a new installation is needed, it's worth checking both the tank capacity and the rate at which water is re-heated as it is being used.

Second Kitchen Helps Mom

It appears to be only a matter of time before the second kitchen becomes as commonplace as the second car or second bath. For many parents this addition is a matter of self-defense.

A few basic kitchen facilities strategically placed in the family room help to localize the havoc that often results when teen-agers get together. With their essential entertaining needs happily confined in one room, the kids just might remain there. Mother's kitchen, as well as her nerves, are thus spared by a welcome respite from togetherness.

A small refrigerator, a hot plate or small range, some cabinet and counter space, a small sink, — these are the key ingredients for a second kitchen.

Out of respect for the unrestrained enthusiasm of the average teen-ager, a material like ceramic tile — durable, easily cleaned and attractive — is a must for such second-kitchen areas as countertops, floors and walls.

Of course, the convenience of a "second kitchen" located in the hub of informal activity will be enjoyed by the adults of the family, too. The harried hostess will find she can spend more time with her guests. And for those quiet television evenings, a pullman-type kitchen eliminates those frantic intermission dashes for late-hour snacks.

What Makes You Think Piped Water Is Modern

The pipe in a house which brings pure water to the fixtures and carries away the waste water is part of the world's oldest transportation system.

Besides being the oldest, pipe is also the greatest transportation system in the world because it is used for transporting steam, water, chemical solutions, oil, and any kind of liquid.

Pipe traces its origin to the Babylonians. Archeologists have dug up countless examples of the use of pipe for drains, water lines, fountains, and reservoirs.

The early Egyptians went the Babylonians one better by fabricating pipe out of copper imported from the island of Cyprus. But the Romans get the credit for the world's greatest achievements in urban piping.

In the Rome of 97 A.D. nearly every house was equipped with pipe. Stone aqueducts brought in 332,000,000 gallons of water every day.

The Romans manufactured much of their domestic piping from lead. The "plumberius"—a man who works with lead, from whence our word "plumber" is derived—was one of the city's most important professionals.

During the bleak centuries of the Dark Ages, water lines were scarcely used. It was not until 1613 that city engineers in London endeavored to pipe in fresh water from a nearby spring by using hollow logs.

Lead soon became the standard piping material for water lines. Subsequent to 1825, wrought iron entered the piping field as a competitor of wood and lead and cast iron. Shortly before the close of the century, steel pipe came into general use in water lines.

Man's greatest transportation system has not ceased to grow. Each year brings new improvements and new methods to make piping of all kinds even more economical and useful. American-made pipe has no equal in the world in quality control effected by inspection at every step and constant testing.

New developments in the manufacture of pipe have been paralleled by equally significant progress in the installation of pipe under the supervision of experienced plumbing and heating contractors.

Rub With Egg White

Leather upholstery will look like new if, after wiping with a damp cloth, you rub the leather with a cloth that has been dipped into the beaten white of an egg. When dry, rub the leather with clean cloths.

Trick of Sawing Plywood Told

If you lay out the arrangement of pieces to be cut from a panel of fir plywood on a piece of paper, you'll find the practice will pay off in less waste and a simpler job.

The first cuts should be made in such a way that the panel will be reduced to a number of small, easily-handled pieces.

★ ★ ★

If you're using a hand saw choose one with 10 to 15 points to the inch and make sure it's sharp. Support the panel firmly so it won't sag and hold the saw at a low angle.

You can reduce splitting on the underside by putting a piece of scrap lumber on the underside and sawing it along with the plywood. Keep the panel's good face up.

Keep the face up when you use a radial or table saw, too. Use a sharp combination blade or a fine-toothed one without too much set. Let the blade protrude above the plywood just the height of the teeth.

★ ★ ★

Turn the good face down if you use a portable power saw. Tack a scrap of lumber to the top of each sawhorse and you can saw right through it without damaging the horse. Keep your saw blade sharp.

Dramatic Calla Lily Will Grow Easily

One of the most dramatic varieties of lilies—and little trouble to grow—is the trumpetlike calla lily. This one is available in traditional white, in pink and in yellow. It produces striking blooms on stalks 12 to 24 inches tall. Leaves of the yellow calla are spotted; those of the white and pink are shining green.

Calla plants should be rooted in a cool, light place and watered lightly until new growth appears. Then the plant should be moved to a sunny window. When danger of frost has ended, move the plants into the garden.

Shade for Terraces Is an Essential

Homeowners with terrace plans on their mind should provide for some shade area on the terrace. This can mean table umbrellas, shade trees or a large awning. In any case, the terrace itself should be surfaced with a durable maintenance-free material such as quarry tile, probably the world's most preferred terrace material.

One good trick to remember in connection with a quarry tile terrace is this: during the more humid days of summer the languishing family will find great relief by spraying down the quary tiles with the garden hose. The rapid evaporation of the water from the impervious surface of the quarry tiles will bring the temperature down by several degrees.

A favorite treatment for a small pool in an entranceway is to line it with waterproof ceramic mosaics. The grid-like pattern of the colorful tile seen through the water gives a pleasant decorative effect.

IT'S THAT TIME — This is a familiar sight around Pontiac this week as parents and children are busy checking bicycles. With the annual Bicycle Safety Week in full swing, Pontiac Police Sgt. Robert C. Gaines does some parental checking himself. Here he points out a safety check point to his son Bobby (left). Rickey Wilcox of 145 Whittemore St. and his daughter Gina Marie. Gaines lives at 159 Whittemore. The bike check is sponsored by the Downtown Pontiac Optimist Luncheon Club and will conclude next Saturday with a bike parade. Children will get their bicycle licenses next week.

Whitmer Cites School Need for $52,000,000 Program

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

School Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer today outlined a 10-point expenditure estimate totaling more than 52 million dollars to finance the Pontiac school system through 1965.

Cost obligations must be met in these areas, he said, to prevent erosion in the quality of the school program.

This can't be accomplished, school officials say, if voters don't approve on a May 9 ballot the Board of Education's request for a 2.8 millage increase in the voted tax rate.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Whitmer's estimated forecast:

1. Enrollment will increase from the present 19,924 to 22,307 in 1965.

"Every year we need more teachers, heat and light, classrooms, equipment, books, pencils and paper just to keep up," Whitmer said. "More children require more money."

2. The cost-of-living index will increase 2.3 points annually, jumping from 126.1 (present) to 137.6 in 1965.

"This means that everything schools use cost more each year," said Whitmer. "The cost of teachers has gone up . . . pencils and paper cost more . . . so do textbooks and library books, light, heat, oil, desks, chairs, lockers, gasoline for busses, cleaning bills, for cafeteria aprons and football uniforms, chemistry test tubes and everything else."

★ ★ ★

"A beginning teacher's salary in 1954 was $3,200. It is now $4,450. The textbook '20th Century Bookkeeping & Accounting' cost $1.92 in 1954 and now costs $2.73."

3. Provision should be made for salary schedule changes so that the school district can attract and retain good instructional personnel.

"A school system is as good as

Castro Lashes U.S. 'Try for Fifth Column' in Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro accused the Eisenhower administration today of trying to set up a "fifth column" in Cuba.

The Cuban Prime Minister charged that recent remarks by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter were part of a "well prepared and premeditated plan" to create an internal front.

In a 3½-hour TV speech running well past midnight, Castro declared that statements by Eisenhower and Herter were "all part of a preconceived intent to create a fifth column to encourage a counter-revolutionary struggle against the (Cuban) government."

He also accused the United States of trying to organize some sort of action against Cuba within the Organization of American States.

Castro rejected Eisenhower's charge that he betrayed the Cuban revolution.

★ ★ ★

"If we had done that," he said, "the American President would have called us loyal friends."

In a recent letter to the Chilean Students Federation, Eisenhower warned against communism and said democratic ideas of the Cuban revolution were being betrayed. The Chilean students replied that they felt a true revolutionary process is developing in Cuba.

Castro pointed to actions by his government, some of which have hurt American investments here. If they had not been carried out, he declared, "that would have been a betrayal of the Cuban revolution and its people."

LOOKS WEARY

"If we had not done this, Eisenhower would have called us friends of democracy and might have given us the same embrace he gave Francisco Franco (of Spain)."

During his long TV appearance Castro looked weary and coughed repeatedly, as if suffering from a cold.

He repeated charges that authorities at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo in eastern Cuba were linked to a plot against his regime. He said he knew "perfectly well" of "a tie between U.S. naval authorities and counter-revolutionary elements at Santiago, capital of Oriente province, and other dissidents in the area.

Boy Loses Fatal Game With Car

It was like a game, and Dale Brewer was "it" and he died. The six-year-old boy couldn't outguess the big machine.

Dale wasn't far from his home at 4174 Center St. in Metamora as he walked along High street yesterday. It was five o'clock and almost time to eat.

Dale was near Oak Street and maybe he started to hurry because he knew his mom was preparing dinner.

He scampered out into the street from between two parked cars.

There was a screech of brakes and the boy froze still before he was too far out into the road.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Carrie Ferrier, 52, of 4104 S. Mill St., Dryden, stopped, too, in time to avoid hitting the youngster.

Mrs. Ferrier looked at the boy and he looked up at the big grill of the automobile. Both were a little annoyed at the big scare they had shared.

They waited for a few moments, giving each other the right-of-way, but Dale didn't move, so Mrs. Ferrier started up again.

Dale had become impatient and started to scurry at the last instant. Mrs. Ferrier couldn't stop in time.

★ ★ ★

Dale was killed instantly at 5:01 p.m.

A first-grade pupil at Metamora School, Dale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Brewer.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — French President Charles de Gaulle, strolling out of President Eisenhower's office at the White House Friday following their first meeting, looked like a mighty glum man.

★ ★ ★

He strode through the White House lobby, staring straight ahead and paying no attention to the correspondents surrounding him.

A Frenchman explained that while De Gaulle is a man of great dignity, his stern attitude reflected the poor condition of his eyesight more than his mood.

The French President's vision has been seriously impaired by cataracts which required surgery, and without heavy glasses, he does not see clearly.

Weather Defies Calendar

We Like April in Pontiac

Residents of the Pontiac area today were basking in midsummer weather.

★ ★ ★

After reaching a high of 81 yesterday, the mercury today was approaching the record 88 for this date set in 1925. At 1 p.m. it was 85.

The red-hot Detroit Tigers, aided by balmy 81 degree temperatures, drew a record opening day crowd at Briggs Stadium yesterday.

Fair and continued warm with a low of 60 is tonight's forecast.

HIGH SUNDAY 78

Sunday will be partly cloudy with a few showers and temperatures becoming somewhat cooler. The high will be about 78.

Cloudy and rather cool with scattered showers is the outlook for Monday.

Morning winds southwesterly at 10 m.p.h. will become southerly at 15-25 m.p.h. this afternoon and 10-15 tonight.

Sixty-two was the low in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m.

Rhee Agrees to Shake-Up

Rocky Praises Nixon – but No Endorsement

Active Dems Kennedy, Humphrey at Opposite Ends of Country

By The Associated Press

Vice President Richard M. Nixon has received praise but no endorsement from a possible though unlikely rival in the contest for the Republican presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, the Democrats' most active primary battlers campaigned on opposite ends of the country, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts in Oregon and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota in Maine.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who says "I am not a candidate nor will I be," heaped praise on Nixon Friday.

"Dick Nixon has been a very good friend of mine for many years," Rockefeller told a news conference in Philadelphia. "He has done an absolutely superb job as vice president."

But, when asked if he endorsed Nixon, Rockefeller replied he would wait until after the Republican National Convention in July.

TOURS OREGON

Kennedy toured Oregon today for the second day in a row. As he shook hands on street corners and addressed political rallies, he stressed one major theme: Candidates should enter primaries.

In Portland Friday, he said the primary "is the way people can get in the 'smoke-filled room.'"

His remarks were considered an attack on Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Stuart Symington of Missouri, who have not entered any Democratic primaries.

★ ★ ★

But both will be on the Oregon primary ballot May 20. Under Oregon law, its ballot lists all candidates whether or not they want their names there.

Humphrey, Kennedy's only opponent in West Virginia's May 10 primary, drew a burst of applause Friday night when he told the Maine Democratic convention:

"Don't let people divide us; don't let them bring issues into this campaign that don't belong there."

This was an apparent reference to the raising of Kennedy's religion as an issue in the West Virginia campaigning. Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, is trying to win in an overwhelmingly Protestant state.

Humphrey also referred to talk that the other candidates are supporting him in West Virginia as part of a stop-Kennedy movement.

"Now, it may be that some of you have read in the papers that I'm in this campaign to stop somebody," Humphrey told the convention. "Believe me, I'm not I'm in this campaign to stop the Republican administration."

De Gaulle: Pass Berlin at Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle proposed today that the Paris summit conference next month concentrate on seeking a relaxation of Soviet-Western tensions rather than on solving specific issues such as Berlin.

De Gaulle told a news conference at the National Press Club that disarmament should be a chief topic of summit discussion. He said "one must limit nuclear armaments in so far as there exists a reciprocal control" of missiles, airplanes and other means of delivery.

De Gaulle began presummit talks here yesterday with President Eisenhower in a 70-minute White House conference. He is on a four-day state visit to Washington.

In his news conference he said "As far as Berlin is concerned I do not see now a possible solution."

The big need, De Gaulle said, is to obtain a relaxation of tensions between East and West. This should be accompanied by a beginning of disarmament, he said.

★ ★ ★

The French soldier-statesman whose views often disagree with those of Eisenhower and other Allied leaders said "What is paramount is to create a 'detente' while striving to achieve something positive, something limited with one, or two, or three questions."

★ ★ ★

"Then after a certain time it will be possible to make further progress on solution which could not even be conceived of today," De Gaulle said.

★ ★ ★

In Canada earlier this week De Gaulle suggested dropping Berlin from the summit program in the hope of concentrating on subjects which could lead to an easing of tensions.

President Eisenhower, by contrast, feels committed to negotiate on Berlin with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

De Gaulle held his first policy talks of his trip with Eisenhower at the White House late Friday. The two men met for 70 minutes, alone except for interpreters.

★ ★ ★

Press Secretary James Hagerty said Eisenhower considered it a "very good conversation." He said it covered a wide range of subjects but did not disclose what they were.

French spokesman Pierre Baraduc told reporters that he assumed De Gaulle also was pleased with the first talk he has held with Eisenhower since they met in Paris last December.

★ ★ ★

The two leaders exchanged toasts Friday night at a formal White House dinner.

REP. ADAM C. POWELL

Tax Evasion Trial Ends in Hung Jury

NEW YORK (AP) — The long trial of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-NY) has ended in a hung jury.

A Federal Court jury of eight women and four men which reported itself hopelessly deadlocked was discharged Friday by Judge Frederick Bryan. The trial began March 8.

Jury foreman Harry A. Erter, an insurance broker, first told newsmen a 6-6 split began on the first ballot and continued through all the 20 votes taken. Later Erter said he was tired and confused and that the final ballot was 10-2 for acquittal.

Powell headed for Harlem, where he had scheduled a thanksgiving prayer at the Abyssinian Baptist Church, of which he is pastor.

The Negro legislator-minister told about 600 members of his congregation Friday night:

"I am glad to get back to work full time. I have been working only part time because of the ordeals of the trial."

After the jury was dismissed, defense counsel Edward B. Wil-

Finally Recover Deputy's Car

Trusty Who Stole It Month Ago Suspect in 20 Detroit Cab Holdups

The personal car of an Oakland County sheriff's deputy was recovered on Detroit's east side yesterday, almost a month after it was stolen from in front of the county jail by a trusty.

★ ★ ★

Since then, the trusty has been the object of a wide search as a suspect in a series of taxicab holdups in Detroit.

The Detroit Police Department's auto squad reported Deputy Raymond A. Pilon's car was discovered parked in a lot at a shopping center Friday morning by two policemen.

The car bore no signs of damage, police said.

WASHED AUTO 1ST

The shopping center is just west of Van Dyke between Harper and the Edsel Ford Expressway.

The trusty, Frank Strachan, 24, of Detroit, drove off in it on March 23rd after washing the auto at the jail.

★ ★ ★

Police suspect he is responsible for some 20 robberies of cab drivers since his escape.

★ ★ ★

Strachan was serving time for passing no account checks.

Premier-Cabinet Rule Returns to South Korea

Government Juggling on Strong Pressure Gets Cool Reception

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—President Syngman Rhee today agreed to shake up his badly jolted South Korean government with a premier becoming the official chief executive.

Going back to the premier-cabinet system he once scrapped, the 85-year-old President moved to yield some of his powers as the nation's strongman. He would remain as chief of state. Rhee's moves to meet demands for more democracy were received coolly.

Questions were immediately raised how much power he actually would relinquish. Rhee was reported to have hand-picked cabinets through the premier when South Korea had the cabinet system before.

Former Prime Minister Y. T. Pyun told newsmen Rhee probably will resign as head of the ruling Liberal party to become a nonpartisan president.

Coming from a conference with the President, Pyun also said Rhee agreed to suggestions for making his national police politically neutral.

★ ★ ★

The police have been under fire for their brutality in crushing antigovernment demonstrations.

Vice President-elect Lee Kipoong, main target of the demonstrators, said he was resigning.

Incumbent Vice President John Chang, whom Lee beat in the mid-March elections that brought charges of rigging, did step down as a protest against the "continuing tyrannical, oppressive rule" of the Rhee government.

Chang, who had four months of his term left, said in his resignation statement he wanted to "ring warning bells to the Syngman Rhee government which is drunk with power."

He said both Lee and Rhee should resign to calm the nation, and new elections for both offices be called.

BOTH AGREE

Lee said in a statement that both he and Rhee were agreed on creating the premier-cabinet type of government. He also stated that he was "determined" to resign.

★ ★ ★

This would necessitate new elections to fill the job Lee would have taken over Aug. 15. However, constitutional amendments setting up the cabinet system might abolish the vice presidency.

The swift developments left Korea's political scene in confusion in the midst of the crisis

BIG MISTAKE — A couple of Garden City, Kan., painters got too close to their work Friday and you can see what happened. The men just went on painting the side of the new feed mill building with their embarrassing error blazing over their heads. Many passers-by pointed out the mistake and the red-faced painters had to keep telling them the misspelling would have to stand—until the paint dried and could be scraped off.

Horizontal 'Coffin' Speeds Shot

Atlas Gets New Hangar

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Air Force is packing a new missile shooting iron today after blasting an Atlas ICBM from a revolutionary horizontal concrete firing hangar.

And the Navy successfully tested Friday a new method of launching that turns any ocean, lake or stream into a missile launching pad.

The Air Force, after the Atlas test Friday at nearby Vandenberg Air Force Base, announced the new firing method is operational or combat ready.

This means Vandenberg now has two operational launch complexes—previously completed vertical sites plus the new "coffin" or horizontal complex.

Previously Atlases, like other big missiles, have been kept in vertical posture on their pads until launching. They have been serviced with huge gantry cranes that take precious time to roll away before firing.

The new coffins are 35 by 90 feet high concrete hangers. The 83-foot Atlas is stored horizontally inside. Just before firing a roof slides back. The Atlas is set on its tail by a crane. Then it blasts mile range of the West Coast facility, 125 miles north of Los Angeles.

★ ★ ★

At Point Mugu, near Vandenberg, the Navy demonstrated the novel theory that balistic missiles can be launched from the surface of oceans, lakes or streams by floating them like spar-buoys.

The 70-inch missile, rigged by three frogmen in a rubber raft, shot less than 100 feet into the sky. But the Navy said the test means oceans are now launching pads.

OKs Remarks of Budget Chief

Rep. Anderson Told Rap at Legislature Is 'Expression of Opinion'

LANSING (UPI)—Remarks by the state budget director criticizing the Legislature were "simply an expression of opinion," not violation of civil service rules, the Civil Service Commission chairman said today.

★ ★ ★

John N. Seaman, Lansing, head of the commission, told a Republican legislator that Frank Landers, the budget chief, had "the right to express political opinions."

Rep. Lloyd Anderson (R-Waterford Township) had written Seaman asking that Landers resign or be removed from civil service classification for remarks some time ago that lawmakers were not handling problems of the state as required by electors.

Anderson made similar comments on the floor of the House.

Seaman told Anderson the civil service director "has steered a careful course between the twin evils of condoning partisan activity on the one hand and interfering with the employe's right of free speech on the other."

"At all times, however, the commission has taken the view that the right to express political opinions is reserved to all employes," he said.

Grosse Pointe Tells Jew 'No'

Property Owners Bar 'Descendant of U. S. Founding Father'

LANSING (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams today issued 17 subpoenas, including one to Detroit Police Commissioner Herbert W. Hart, in connection with an investigation of the "point screening system" used to check on persons who wish to buy property in the swank Grosse Pointe area.

Adams said the persons receiving the 17 subpoenas and others still to be served, would be called to appear at a hearing before State Corporation and Securities Commissioner Lawrence Gubow in the week of May 2.

DETROIT (AP)—A psychiatrist who claims one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence as his forefather says he wasn't allowed to buy a house in suburban Grosse Pointe because he is half Jewish.

Dr. Jean B. Rosenbaum, 33, wrote Michigan Atty. Gen. Paul Adams that when he tried to buy a home in Grosse Pointe a broker told him he "must await being passed by the Grosse Pointe Property Owners Assn."

"I was told then that I could not buy, or even look at, a home in Grosse Pointe because I was Jewish," Rosenbaum wrote.

He is a Wayne State University instructor and inventor of an artificial electrical heart. Rosenbaum said he is half Jewish and that his mother is a direct descendant of Carter Braxton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

"My wife is not Jewish at all," his letter continued. "I was told she qualified and could move to Grosse Pointe. I forgot to ask them about my 2-year-old son."

Adams said he has not decided on any action. He complained last week about the screening process employed in Grosse Pointe.

A GROUNDED CROW — For Blackie, a new find of Clifford, 5, and Michael Powell, 7, of 7618 Barnsbury Rd., West Bloomfield Township, it will be five weeks with this splint on his right wing. The youngsters found the wounded crow near their home this week and took him to a local veterinarian who set the broken wing. Now the boys are keeping a sharp eye on their recuperating patient in his home of two orange crates in the Powell garage overlooking Union Lake.

The Day in Birmingham

Commission Set to Award City Water Main Contracts

BIRMINGHAM — Contracts are expected to be awarded Monday night by the City Commission for a water main project totaling some $164,000.

★ ★ ★

D'Angela and Policelli Construction Co. of Warren has submitted a low bid of $97,815 for construction of a 16-inch water main along Southfield, Northlawn and Pleasant from 14-Mile road to Maple avenue.

Ben P. Fyke and Sons, Inc. of Berkley has submitted a low bid of $66,225 for construction of a 16-inch water main along Eton, Hazel and Columbia from the alley north of 14-Mile road to Maple road.

The total cost is approximately 30 per cent lower than the city engineer's estimate, according to City Manager L. R. Gare.

★ ★ ★

Gare will also recommend a contract be awarded to the Motor City Excavating Co. of Detroit for its low bid of $11,734 for construction of a water main and sanitary sewers and drainage work for Fairway drive in Birmingham Golf Estates. Gare said the bid is 37 per cent lower than the engineer's estimate.

William Koeller, president of the Birmingham Chapter of the Dale Carnegie Club International will ask the City Commission to proclaim the week of April 24 as "Good Human Relations Week" when the Commission meets Monday night.

The Bloomfield Hills Rotary Club will present awards to 10 students in each of the three Bloomfield Hills High School classes who have demonstrated the greatest accomplishments in citizenship.

★ ★ ★

Awards will be given at a banquet May 2 in the junior high school auditorium.

Also receiving awards will be three students in each of these classes who have shown the most marked improvement this year over their prior academic record.

The award winners, who will be chosen by the high school faculty, will receive copies of Roget's Thesaurus.

★ ★ ★

Guest speaker at the 6:30 p.m. banquet will be Dr. R. C. "Scottie" Young of Birmingham.

Tickets may be obtained at the high school or from Rotary members.

The new Country Day School building in Bloomfield Township, with a capacity for 100 pupils, will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Durward B. Varner, chancellor of Michigan State University Oakland, will be the main speaker.

The spring meeting of the Congregational Assn. of Detroit will be May 1 at the Congregational Church of Birmingham.

★ ★ ★

The schedule: registration at 4 p.m.; business meeting, 4:30 p.m.; an address by Dr. Hazen Price, 5:15 p.m.; supper, 6:15 p.m.

The evening session will begin at 7:30 with worship service led by the Rev. Raymond A. Fenner.

Dr. Mel J. Ravitz, Wayne State University sociologist, and director of the community organization division of the Detroit City Plan Commission, will give the evening address.

★ ★ ★

His topic is "Population Movement — a Challenge to the Churches."

Nab Cop-Killer in Gun Battle

Californian Booked on 1st-Degree Murder in Death of Officer

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — A young cop-killer was in the San Joaquin County jail today. He surrendered meekly Friday after a running gun battle that wound up at Modesto, 40 miles south of here.

★ ★ ★

Returned here from Modesto Friday night and booked on first degree murder charge was Elbert Carter, 23, son of a Negro pator.

Young Carter, who recently qualified for the Stockton police force, was charged with slaying officer George Woehrle, 44, with the policeman's gun.

★ ★ ★

Carter told police he became enraged when Woehrle came to his home and arrested him on a statuatory rape warrant, signed by the mother of a 16-year-old girl who became a mother this week.

Carter signed a statement that he disarmed Woehrle, seized his car keys and forced him to get into his police station wagon.

★ ★ ★

As they drove south out of Stockton, Carter said, he and Woehrle fought for the gun. A little while later, Woehrle's body, shot twice in the back, was rolled out of the car.

MSUO Schedules 5 Seminars

To Offer Child-Rearing Series

Are the current theories regarding child rearing effective?

Where does discipline begin?

What is the normal sex behavior of children?

★ ★ ★

These and similar questions, crucial to many modern parents, will be analyzed in a special series of five seminars being inaugurated at Michigan State University Oakland next Wednesday evening through the university's continuing education program.

The series is being offered in response to numerous requests for such a program by parents, according to Dr. Lowell R. Eklund, director of continuing education.

The seminars which will emphasize the discussion and analysis of specific child-rearing problems is scheduled for 7:30-9:30 p.m. on April 27, May 11, May 25, June 1, and June 8.

★ ★ ★

This series is directed at interested parents who wish to examine in depth into the growth, maturation and management of their children under the expert guidance of an experienced psychiatrist," said Eklund.

The four specific areas to be studied are dependency, sex (infantile sexuality), aggression, and restrictions and demands.

The instructor will be Dr. Richard S. Knox, practicing psychiatrist, professor of psychology at Wayne State University and psychiatric resident at the Lafayette Clinic in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Enrollment will be limited to permit free discussion with the instructor. The fee for the series is $25. Advance reservations are necessary and may be arranged through the MSUO office of continuing education.

Snow? Really! Utah, Idaho Are Covered With It

By The Associated Press

Spring got out of character today — sultry summer in some spots, dreary winter in others.

Snow, sleet and cold rain fell in Utah, Idaho and Montana. Burley, Idaho, measured three inches of snow on the ground this morning. Two to three inches of snow covered parts of western Montana.

★ ★ ★

More snow and icy rain were forecast for Montana, Utah, northern and western Wyoming and parts of the Dakotas.

Cause of the turbulence was a storm centered over south-western Wyoming this morning and moving eastward. It was a virtual curtain between winter and summer.

★ ★ ★

While snow warnings went up in western South Dakota Friday night, Yankton in the eastern part of the state reported 95 degrees. Minneapolis tied its record high for an April 22 Friday with an 85. And 100 miles to the north this morning temperatures were in the 40s.

4 Kazoo Students Play Bridge for 79 Hours, Then . . .

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Four college students claimed a world's record yesterday after playing bridge steadily for 79 hours. Then they went home to bed.

its teachers," Whitmer said. "Pontiac ranks below average in teachers salaries out of 52 school systems in the Detroit metropolitan area."

4. Provision should be made in the next five years for additional personnel so that the functions of research, pupil personnel and publications may be performed more effectively.

"A school system must keep pace with the rapid progress being made in education in order to maintain a quality of excellence. A sufficiently sized staff of good caliber is needed to do this. It can't be done shorthanded."

MORE PERSONNEL

5. To meet the future needs of the instructional program, additional librarian, helping teacher and guidance positions as well as the institution of a fully staffed reading clinic will be required.

"The school program must be enriched and complimented continually for maximum effectiveness in education," Whitmer said.

6. A five-year rehabilitation program should be included to care for a number of long-pending maintenance projects.

"This program," said Whitmer, "would cost more than half a million dollars. The rehabilitation projects include corridor lighting in the secondary schools, chalkboard refinishing, acoustical treatment, audio-visual treatment, heating and ventilating, floor replacement, wiring (power and stadium lighting), locker and toilet room rehabilitation, painting, parking area paving, start of sash replacement and toilet room exhaust fans in old buildings."

7. Additional maintenance trade positions should be created to meet the need of an ever-expanding school system.

8. The nursing and psychological services should be expanded as the enrollment increases.

9. Capital outlay expenditures from the operating budget should be kept as low as possible to include only those items which have been deferred during the last two years.

★ ★ ★

10. Provision should be made for funds which will permit the school district to take maximum advantage of, and to match monies provided through, the National Defense Education Act (NDEA).

"The NDEA offers opportunities to Pontiac for quality program improvements," said Whitmer. "To qualify in order to participate in the program and take advantage of the funds we must provide matching monies and additional personnel."

It Seems to Me . . . .

Peace, Quiet in Personal Life Among Our Greatest Essentials

It isn't often that I preach in this column, but that's what I propose to do today.

The ideas that follow will have a practical application to your own life. First, I want to quote the words of PAUL VALERY, the French writer who said:

★ ★ ★

"Universal disorder is the greatest single characteristic of the modern world, as pernicious in the realm of ideas as it is in the fields of everyday life and morals. With its encroachment, instability threatens to become the general rule. In this period of tumultuous change, continuity, tradition, balance and serenity are the supreme values. For the salvation of its soul the nation has a duty to preserve them."

★ ★ ★

"Balance and serenity have supreme values," the man says. All of our lives are too disrupted, too chaotic and in the words of another individual, "we ride off in a frenzy in all directions at the same time."

We need serenity of spirit.

We need peace and calm.

★ ★ ★

And now, I close with a brief prayer that was given to me last month on a printed slip in Montego Bay, Jamaica, by a fellow publisher who remarked simply: "You need this personally—and so do I."

And so do you.

Here it is:

"Slow me down, Lord! Ease the pounding of my heart by the quieting of my mind. Steady my hurried pace with a vision of the eternal reach of time. Give me, amidst the confusion of my day, the calmness of the everlasting hills.

"Break the tensions of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of singing streams that live in my memory. Help me to know the magical, restoring power of sleep. Teach me the art of taking minute vacations . . . of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pat a dog, to read a few lines from a good book.

★ ★ ★

"Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise, that I may know that the race is not always to the swift; that there is more to life than measuring its speed.

★ ★ ★

"Let me look upward into the branches of the towering oak and know that it grew great and strong because it grew slowly and well. Slow me down, Lord, and inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values that I may grow toward the stars of my greater destiny!"

★ ★ ★

And now—let's all heed the advice we need so badly.

And in Conclusion . . . .

Jottings from the well thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Two years ago, a company in Florida made retirement at 65 optional instead of compulsory. They report a very beneficial experience . . . . A Chicago teacher was mightily amused to read a reference on an exam paper to the song: "Drink to Me With Thine Only Eye." . . . . I learn with absolute horror that cannibalism is still prevalent in certain sectors of Africa . . . . A quiet poll strategically taken shows BARRY GOLDWATER an early first choice for GOP vice president . . . . .

MARY

. . . . . Purely personal nomination for an especially attractive local girl: MARY POWERS . . . . Nurses say currently the favorite name for new born males is "Andrew" — probably because of the royal Andrew in Great Britain.

★ ★ ★

The late Henry Ford went to executives' offices instead of summoning them to his. "I can end the meeting faster," he said. . . . . Marcia Winn tells of the youngster who came home from the Easter services and described the new song: "Christ Has Rhythm." . . . . Some Dem politicos are convinced that the South will walk out on Kennedy, Symington, Humphrey or Stevenson . . . . On the exact hour Margaret is married, everyone in London will be expected to stand. The bridal procession will cover an extended route to "let everyone see." . . . . If the Olympic trials for the hundred and high hurdles are held on successive days (as they were in 1956) Pontiac's Hayes Jones will take a whirl at qualifying in both.

★ ★ ★

KENNEDY supporters claim they have 250 delegates committed. It takes 761 to nominate . . . . Tulsa is constructing a 35 million dollar air terminal and extending the runways (plural) to 10,000 feet. That makes Pontiac's few hundred thousand building seem pretty puny . . . . Overheard on Waite's corner: "We just had a blessed event at our house. The TV broke down." . . . . Another flood of naked girl magazines has hit the public stalls . . . . The British government made $600,000,000 in three years with lotteries. The churches approved. You could do that in four months here.

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

Faith that someone cares is the magic medicine that has helped Rescue, Inc., save hundreds of lives.

"A suicidal person needs to know there is someone who cares and wants to care," explains the Rev. Kenneth B. Murphy. He founded the organization last year in Boston after talking away the suicide plans of three persons referred to him by police. In one year the non-sectarian organization chalked up a score of 200 lives saved.

The phone at headquarters in Boston City Hospital—Hancock 6-6600—is manned 24 hours a day. Some of the volunteers are men and women once tempted to take their own lives. Calls have reached them from as far away as the Pacific islands. Soon, units may be founded in other cities. A similar organization is the long-established Save-a-Life League in New York—Murray Hill 7-2142.

Church Colleges Explain Aims

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

In any college where the purpose is more than imparting mere technical knowledge, both faculty and students face special problems these days.

One is that a college degree is looked upon by many as simply a status symbol, necessary not for the values behind it but only the advantages it brings in making a living. This puts pressure on the college to become little more than a diploma factory, with term papers and theses being ghost-written and no holds barred in the competition for that symbolic little piece of sheepskin.

Another problem is that our scientific culture puts pressure on the college to deliver a technological kind of education that leaves out any attempt to know the God who created these laws and wonders, or the nature of man, who discovers and enjoys them.

And of course many colleges, trying to get along without state support in order to maintain academic independence, are always on thin ice financially.

Tomorrow, as they have annually for 15 years, church and "church-related" colleges will try to put their case before as many congregations as possible. (A church-related college is one connected with some denomination by historical or traditional ties but does not receive funds from the official budget of the denomination.)

★ ★ ★

Materials for use by local congregations are provided by the National Council of Churches' Commission on Higher Education. These materials consist of a dramatized sermon, in which three persons take part in giving the people an understanding of the religious aspects of higher learning; a litany (responsively read prayer service) for the institutions and for those who teach and those who learn; a discussion program for the day's meeting of youth groups in the various churches; and a set of suggestions about how the day's worship service may be conducted with college students participating.

NO SAINT

Oliver Cromwell, born April 25, 1599, will never get into the calendar of saints, but in any historical consideration of Christianity he certainly cannot be left out. His influence on the religious life of the western world was tremendous and, indeed, is probably still being felt.

★ ★ ★

England in 1642 was torn by civil war, which began with the clash of King and Parliament over religious — or, one would better say, ecclesiastical matters. The disputes had much more to do with how the church should be organized, religious freedom and the need of bishops, than they did with the Christian faith itself.

State Primaries: Good or Harmful?

By DALE ARNOLD

LANSING (UPI)—Will primary contests inside the Michigan Democratic and Republican parties do more harm than good?

★ ★ ★

This question is a major concern to party leaders.

Sometimes intraparty squabbles put life into a party or shatter any semblance of unity.

The answer rests largely on whether candidates can "keep it clean" as the summer temperatures and approaching Aug. 2 primary warm things on the campaign trails.

DEPENDS ON LEVEL

"It depends on the level of the campaigns and you can't tell yet," said one veteran political observer.

Most Democrats feel the competition between James Hare, John Swainson, Edward Conner and William Johnson won't split ranks and Republicans think Paul Bagwell and Carlton Morris won't hurt the party by slugging it out.

Democrats, however, do feel Bagwell and Morris may splinter the GOP as the heat of battle increases.

★ ★ ★

"The differences in philosophy between conservative Morris and liberal Bagwell are far greater than any variances among Democrats," said a Democratic follower.

Several Republicans look and hope for a breakup among Democratic followers on issues of Hare, Swainson, Conner or Johnson.

"They play hard and rough," said one GOP spokesman of the opposition.

STRENGTH IN COMPETITION

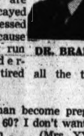
Democrats think the competition would only strengthen party ties. Republicans, some at least, feel the same about their party.

Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

Use Vegetable Juice: Kind Doesn't Matter

Why do you prefer one or two vegetables (outside of bulk) to the pressed juice of many vegetables in a form easily assimilated in the blood stream? (Mrs. J.T.E.)

Ans.—There's no evidence that the juice of one or more vegetables is more easily assimilated than the nutritive elements in vegetables are.



DR. BRADY

If a person has teeth which are badly decayed and abscessed would this cause him to be run down, underweight and tired all the time? (R.W.)

Ans.—Yes.

Can a woman become pregnant at the age of 60? I don't want any more children . . . (Mrs. XYZ).

Ans.—It is extremely unlikely, although it happens sometimes, if the woman has not ceased menstruating.

For many years I carried health insurance. Never had any illness except tonsillitis. The company canceled my insurance because I would not submit to tonsillectomy. I am now 72 and for many years have not had a sore throat or any major illness. (Mrs. P. C. M.)

Ans.—Sounds like a breach of contract.

For nearly five years I had giant hives. Spent more than $200, no relief. Doctors said I'd always have them, as it is a nervous disease. Six dollars' worth of calcium capsules cured me. Have had only one small hive of short duration in more than 2 months. (M.L.)

Ans.—Translated, that bit about "nervous disease" means we're stumped. Pamphlet on Recurring and Giant Hives (angioneurotic edema) is available on request. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

When my boy was born 4 years ago the formula the doctor prescribed didn't seem to satisfy his hunger, so when the baby was 3 months old I gave him whole milk, undiluted. I have worried since that it may have been too strong . . . (Mrs. T. M.)

Ans. — In the New Brady Baby Book (35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope) I say undiluted whole milk may be given at the age of six months. But there's no reason to worry. Lots of babies take whole milk undiluted months earlier, and thrive on it.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Elevator Service Would Attract More Business'

The contemplated face lift for downtown stores is well and good, but consider the interior, too.

Only three downtown stores have elevator service, one self operated. Many folks would like to shop downtown but can't climb stairs. They would have to walk to the basement to buy paint, up to the second floor for a dress and then down again. It's very difficult for a young mother with children, too, especially if she doesn't have access to adequate rest rooms where she can change the baby's diaper.

If downtown merchants had elevators or escalators and clean rest rooms with courteous attendants, their volume of business would increase.

Clarifies Stand in First Letter

I agree my generation needs more responsibility. We have a heavy load now, but our adult load will be unbearable if we aren't conditioned for it while we're young.

★ ★ ★

However, I disagree with Mother of Five that our heads are swollen out of size. It's our chests that have expanded because we are so proud of our heritage. We have benefited from mistakes of our elders more than you're able to realize now. In my first letter I didn't mean we'd cast aside all we've been taught. Rather we will use newer and modern ideas of our own.

★ ★ ★

Someday our generation will be called the older generation and I hope we have as great a heritage to hand down.

Criticizes Crane's Bedwetting Advice

I read with alarm some comments Dr. Crane made about bed wetting. Fear, additional conflict and shock methods are bad enough, but when this "expert" advised that the child view his bladder as an enemy, to hate a part of himself, this is unthinkable, unhealthy and certainly un-Christian. People of Oakland County are entitled to and should demand sound professional opinion in the newspaper.

'Stevenson's Best Qualified Man'

With the campaign coming up, there's only one Republican in sight but quite a field on the other. Of these, Stevenson's best qualified, regardless of his two defeats. Nixon has already told us he'd carry on Ike's program. There are more Democrats than Republicans so no Republican can be elected without Dem votes and after their disappointment in Ike's administration, the millions of Democrats who voted for Ike will change this time.

'Are Subsidies Our Undoing?'

These foreign firms undersell the United States more and more because of their lower costs and it makes you wonder if subsidies we send abroad play a part in this. As we put our own people out of work; is part of the reason because of the billions we ship abroad?

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Saturday, April 23, the 114th day of the year, with 252 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1789, President-elect and Mrs. George Washington moved into the first presidential mansion at the corner of Franklin and Cherry streets in New York City.

In 1791, James Buchanan, 15th President of the United States, was born in Franklin County, Pa.

In 1792, "La Marseillaise," the French national anthem was written by Claude Joseph Rouget de Lisle.

In 1898, the government asked for 125,000 volunteers to assist in the war against Spain.

In 1932, the Prince of Wales presided at the opening of the Shakespeare Memorial Theater at Stratford-on-Avon, England.

A thought for today: William Shakespeare, in King Richard III said: "Talkers are no good doers."

The Country Parson

"The success of a church is not measured by the size of its budget, but by the commitment of its members."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Bible's Best Psychology Textbook

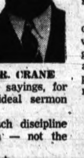
Although my college textbook "Psychology Applied" has had over 900 college classroom adoptions, the Bible far exceeds it in showing how psychology has been expertly applied. Clergymen like Rev. Krebs thus are following in the footsteps of Gideon, Elijah and many other Biblical psychologyists. So read your Bibles daily!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE E-442: Clarence W. Krebs is typical of the modern versatile clergyman or priest who combines religion with Applied Psychology.

★ ★ ★

He has a flourishing church in Highland Heights, Kentucky, with a large Bulletin Board in front.



DR. CRANE

Because a vast amount of auto traffic passes that church corner, Rev. Krebs tries to stimulate thinking by putting helpful quotations on that Bulletin Board, using letters 5 inches high.

Entire sermons could be woven around these snappy sayings, for they would make ideal sermon texts.

"The place to teach discipline is in the Play Pen — not the State Pen."

★ ★ ★

"Whether it's on the Highway or in an Argument — When you see red—Stop."

"One recipe for longer life—Never exceed the feed limit!"

That wise saying would make a superb Lenten sermon topic, after which the parishioners might well launch on diets. For when you lose a pound of fat, you save $2.50 in grocery bills, and can thus add that extra savings to your church offerings.

"Pickled drivers cause more accidents than traffic Jams."

"Whenever the going seems easy, be sure you are not going down hill."

"Some people think they are worth a lot of money just because they have it."

"Always speak well of your enemies — Remember, you made them."

"Prayer is a river by whose brink, some die of thirst while others kneel and drink."

GOD LIKES PSYCHOLOGY

God Almighty wants his followers to use their brains and employ clever Applied Psychology.

In fact, God started the psychological testing program in the Army by having Gideon "screen out" the unfit troops by his famous "water test". (Judges, ch. 7).

God apparently relishes men who have a scientific type of mind, for Gideon asked God to submit to some tests, and God gladly consented (See Judges, Ch. 6).

And after God had taken Gideon's tests, God saw that Gideon was still uncertain of his strategy, so God invited Gideon to make an additional test and go down in person to eavesdrop on the enemy in their tents.

This final test convinced Gideon that God was ready to deliver the vast foreign army into the hands of his 300 soldiers. But psychological warfare was then employed to increase the hysteria of the enemy (Judges Ch. 7).

Gideon also got out of a dilemma that might have brought on a second war, just by using the "Compliment Club" technique on the Ephraimites (Judges, Ch. 8).

★ ★ ★

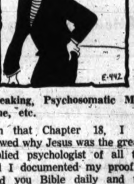
Jephthah, too, employed the pioneer "lie detector" test and thereby ferreted out 42,000 liars, who were put to death when trying to ford the river Jordan.

Indeed, most of the Applied Psychology I use, was obtained from reading the Bible!

★ ★ ★

That's why I inserted Ch. 18 entitled "Psychology Goes to Church" into my widely used college textbook "Psychology Applied".

And that chapter has proved to be the most popular of all 21 chapters in my textbook! On student surveys, it far exceeded the chapters on Advertising, Salesmanship, Music, Art, Public



Speaking, Psychosomatic Medicine, etc.

In that Chapter 18, I also showed why Jesus was the greatest applied psychologist of all time, and I documented my proof! So read you Bible daily and train your children to do likewise.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Kennedy Points Toward Oregon

Says May 20 Primary There May Tell Much —Has Many Entries

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass) said Friday the Oregon presidential primary May 20 may be the most significant in the country this year because of the number of candidates entered.

* * *

Kennedy told a news conference upon his arrival at Portland International Airport for a two-day campaign swing that it would not be possible for supporters of other Democratic presidential candidates to attempt to block him as they are doing in West Virginia.

He said that in Oregon they would have to support their own candidates rather than combining to back only one as he said they were doing for Sen. Hubert Humphery D-Minn) in West Virginia. For that reason, he said, Oregon's primary will have the greatest impact on national convention delegates.

In addition to Kennedy and Humphrey, Sens. Lyndon Johnson (Tex), Stuart Symington (Mo) and Wayne Morse (Ore) are entered in the Oregon primary on the Democratic ballot.

Kennedy said he felt the presence of Morse in the primary may blur its significance somewhat. He said he thought it would be difficult to beat Morse because he is running as a favorite son, but added he hoped to run well in the primary.

Kennedy forcast a tough fight for himself in West Virginia. He said backers of Johnson and Symington were combining with Humphrey supporters to cut down his lead.

Who's the Guest at the White House? Sherman Adams!

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ex-presidential aide Sherman Adams was among the guests Friday night at a formal dinner given by President and Mrs. Eisenhower for visiting French President and Madame Charles de Gaulle.

* * *

It was a lavish White House affair featuring champagne toasts to Franco-American friendship and a menu which ranged from aspic of pate de foie gras (chopped goose liver in gelatin) to cucumber sandwiches and frozen rum pudding.

In deference to De Gaulle's Roman Catholic faith, the menu included a choice of baked Florida red snapper or Delmonico roast of beef. Church law forbids Roman Catholics to eat meat on Fridays.

* * *

The dinner marked Adams' first announced visit to the White House since his resignation in 1958 as a presidential adviser following disclosure that he had accepted gifts from Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

Briggs Seeks to Halt Crane Stock Bids

DETROIT (AP)—The Briggs Manufacturing Co. filed suit in U.S. District Court Friday to enjoin a major competitor in the household plumbing fixture business, the Crane Co. of Chicago, from acquiring any additional Briggs stock.

* * *

A hearing was set May 16.

The Detroit firm accused Crane of a plan to take over Briggs through stock purchases and said the Chicago company's manipulations thus far have cost Briggs "in excess of $350,000 damages."

It asked an award of triple damages under federal antitrust laws. Briggs said that if Crane succeeds in placing a representative on the former's board of directors, Crane can obtain "confidential information which can be used against Briggs to cause lasting injury."

Arrest Ice Cream Men; Children Boo Police

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Police arrested three mobile ice cream vendors Thursday as they rang bells to announce their arrival.

Ringing bells for commercial purposes is prohibited by a city ordinance.

Ordinance or no, children clustered about the ice cream trucks booed the officers.

NEW YORK — Marconi is generally credited with having sent the first radio signals across the Atlantic Ocean in 1901.

Mrs. FDR Raps Ike for Racial Vagueness

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt says President Eisenhower should express publicly "unalterable objection to racial discrimination anywhere in America.

* * *

"We have had too much experience with a Chief Executive who seems to have prided himself on the fact that no one knows how he really feels about racial discrimination," she declared Friday.

* * *

"Platitudes about the minds and hearts of men are not enough. Action and positive leadership are required."

Compulsive Gamblers Set Big Convention

FRESNO, Calif., (UPI)—Gamblers Anonymous, an association of compulsive gamblers that operate much like Alcoholics Anonymous, holds its first national convention here today and Sunday.

* * *

The meeting will be attended by more than 100 delegates, representing 15 cities from New York to San Francisco.

Spokesmen for the group claim there are at least six million compulsive gamblers in the United States. They contend there is still hope for such people, who—unlike social gamblers—have lost their ability to voluntarily refrain from the game.

* * *

Gets Staff Position on Michigan C. of C.

LANSING (AP)—Rex Potter, managing director of the Battle Creek Chamber of Commerce, Friday was named a staff executive of the new Michigan State Cfamber of Commerce.

Harry R. Hall, executive vice president of the state chamber, said Potter was the first of five or six staff executives who will be hired.

Hall said Potter will be given the assignment of organizing and directing the membership program.

Potter, 42, has headed the Battle Creek Chamber of Commerce since November 1956.

He will assume his new duties in Lansing May 15, Hall said.

Caledonia Doctor Dies; Last Graybiel Physician

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Dr. George P. Graybiel, 67, one of two doctors serving the nearby community of Caledonia, died in a hospital here yesterday following a heart attack.

Among his survivors is Hugh Graybiel, publisher of the Wind sor Star.

Dr. Graybiel was a graduate of the University of Michigan and practiced in Boston as well as Michigan.

He was the last of the Graybiel family which has had a member as a physician in Caledonia, a town of 500, since 1887. The first, Dr. Alex Graybiel, arrived from Waterloo County, Ont.
