Tito Threatens to Fight Over Trieste Decision

Steals Mail Truck, Robs Branch

Friday Receipts Gone as Police Recover Vehicle

Officials Believe Trick Staged Here by Former Post Office Worker

Pontiac Police are searching for a former post office employe suspected of using his knowledge of local mail pick-up procedure to steal about $350 in cash and $250 in checks from the sub-post office at 526 N. Perry St. last night.

The truck was recovered later by police at 34 Mill St., near the main post office, with only the money missing, according to Detective John DePauw of Pontiac Police.

DePauw and Postal Inspector H. V. Lock of the Detroit Office are conducting the search. They say the man named Don Mitchell had been employed here, but could not say immediately if the signature was forged.

The thief, was wearing a postal employe's hat. The sub-station clerk, according to DePauw, did not become suspicious until the regular pick-up driver called.

The clerk, Dorothy Burtch of 73 Glenwood Ave., said she recognized the man as having performed the pick-up job before, but didn't know his name.

According to Lock, the mail truck apparently was stolen from the Jack Habel garage, at 34 Mill Street.

DePauw said the suspect has a family, but has moved from the address recorded on post office records.

Fund Opens Headquarters

Nerve Center of Drive to Be Rear Dining Room of Hotel Pontiac

Pontiac Area United Fund's staff moved from its National Building office to Hotel Pontiac today as campaign headquarters opened for the 1953 fund drive.

This year's drive has a goal of $487,200 and will run from Oct. 20 to Nov. 6.

Dwight S. Adams, executive director, announced that campaign headquarters in the hotel's rear dining room will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays. Telephone number is FE 2-0159.

3 Killed, 2 Hurt as Ammo Truck Rams Passenger Car

OMAHA (AP)—An ammunition truck rammed a passenger car on a busy 4-lane highway 10 miles west of here last night and then let go with a series of explosions showering fragments of artillery shells over a wide area.

Three persons were killed and two injured. A fourth death was attributed indirectly to the collision and fire. The co-owner of a nearby inn died of a heart attack.

The series of explosions—one spectator counted 73—imperiled hundreds of persons attracted to the scene by the fiercely burning blaze, as shell fragments showered down. Several of the buildings at Boys Town, widely known home for boys, were struck by fragments of flying metal.

The explosions began about 45 minutes after the collision at 7:40 p.m. and it was more than three hours before firemen could reach the vehicles and recover the three charred bodies.

The victims were three sisters, Laura McClasky, 67, and Theo McClaskey, 72, both of Geneva, Ill., and Mrs. Harrie Paige, 65, of Omaha.

A fourth occupant of their car, Mrs. W. H. McClaskey, 60, of Edmonds, Wash., said after the collision she "somehow managed to open a door and tumble out."

She was hospitalized with burns on her arms, cuts and shock. Hospital attendants said her condition was satisfactory early today.

Lawrence Davis, 29, of Omaha, driver of the ammunition truck, said an Omaha-bound car just ahead of him in the inside lane slowed down suddenly and he swerved to the right-hand lane to avoid striking it. There his heavy

Woman Is Killed on West Huron

Mrs. Veda Coon Struck by Youth's Car While in Center of Street

Mrs. Veda Natalie Coon, 37, of 49 Dwight Ave., the mother of three children, died in Pontiac General Hospital last night, an hour after she was hit by an auto at W. Huron St. and Dwight Ave.

Driver of the auto, Leaun W. Harrelson Jr., 18, of 26 Delaware Dr., the son of Pontiac state Democratic representative, was released to his father today following questioning by Oakland County Prosecutor's office and Pontiac Police.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor said witnesses will be taken to the scene of the accident for further investigation.

Taylor also asked any other witnesses who might have seen the accident last night to please phone the prosecutor's office as soon as possible.

Mrs. Coon was struck while standing between two yellow lines, waiting for traffic to clear as she was crossing south on Huron, according to witnesses.

According to Harrelson's statement, Mrs. Coon stepped back into the path of his car, which was traveling west on Huron.

Harrelson also told Assistant Prosecutor Arthur W. Kollin that he had been watching the temperature indicator on his dash board because his radiator was leaking water.

Harrelson, who said he was traveling between 30 and 35 miles per hour, told officials he didn't see Mrs. Coon until he was about 50 feet away from her. He said he began to slow down when he was 13 feet from where the woman was standing. Sgt. Clayton Randolph said the skidding car left tire marks for 75 feet.

350-Acre Skae Estate Sold for Exclusive Home Sites

"West Wind Farms," the 350-acre farm once noted for its breeding of fine race horses, has been sold by the heirs of the late Edwin A. and Florence Hammond Skae.

To be developed into an exclusive residential subdivision, Francis H. Phelps of Houseman-Spitzley of Birmingham Corp., and several other undisclosed buyers are the purchasers. Houseman-Splitzley will be the developers.

Bounded by Orchard Lake, Middlebelt and Square Lake roads, this well-known farm once was owned by George Hammond, father of Florence Hammond Skae.

Sellers are the four Skae heirs: Edward A. of Grosse Pointe; Mrs. James J. Phelan of Grosse Pointe; Mrs. Robert C. Smith of Metamora and Mrs. Francis C. Gallaudet, who has occupied the farm home for several years.

According to Phelps, the estate includes Hammond Lake and 3,000 feet on upper Long Lake. In subdividing, the owners plan prohibit any motor driven craft on Hammond Lake.

This area will be developed first. Architect's designs must be submitted before owners are permitted to build in the development.

Until 15 years ago, this estate was operated as a dairy and produce farm.

Reds Request Meeting to Pick Parley Location

Want Allies to Decide Peace Conference Site at Panmunjom

TOKYO (AP)—The Communists proposed tonight over Peiping radio that the Allies and Reds send delegations to Panmunjom to discuss when and where to hold the Korean political conference and what nations shall take part in it.

The Chinese - language broadcast heard here quoted Red China's Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai as saying he wants a reply to this from the United States and the U. N.

Peiping said this is Chou's reply to allied notes sent recently to the Reds outlining plans for the conference.

The latest U. S. note, its fourth, was sent to Communist China and North Korea Thursday. Three others had been ignored.

The message told the Reds the Allies are ready to negotiate and added that "if your side has any intention" of holding the peace talks, "there can be no reason for your side to refuse to get on with the conference."

The United States urged the Reds to give an early answer.

The U. S. message informed the Communists officially that the U.N. assembly is standing by the plan it approved Aug. 28 which would limit the peace conference to the belligerents plus Russia, if invited by the Communists to sit on their side. Strong opposition to the U. S. sponsored plan was beaten down in the assembly before it passed.

The truce agreement signed July 27 called for the conference to begin by Oct. 28 to discuss a peaceful settlement of the Korean question, withdrawal of foreign forces, "etc."—which could mean an almost unlimited number of subjects.

The U. S. note was sent to the Reds through the Swedish foreign office as were the three previous messages.

The only previous Red answer on the peace conference came in a long statement sent to U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold Sept. 13 after he relayed to them the Aug. 28 resolution.

The Reds said then they could not accept the "two sides only" composition and proposed a "round table" peace conference with non-belligerents such as Russia, India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Burma sitting in.

Storm Swirls Out to Atlantic

Waterlogged Florida Suffering From 'Worst Flood in 50 Years'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The eighth tropical storm of the season whirled northeastward over the Atlantic today after slashing across the Florida peninsula with mile-a-minute winds and heavy rains which added to the flood danger in some areas.

The storm formed in the Gulf of Mexico and swept over the state on a path about 10 miles wide and 150 miles long from Punta Gorda on the west coast to Vero Beach on the Atlantic side.

Much of the state already was waterlogged and rain from the tropical disturbance brought a threat of critical floods in some sections.

At Orlando, Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla) wired President Eisenhower that Florida was "suffering from what many say is the worst flood condition in 50 years."

Churchill Holds 'Sure Hope' for Peace in Big 4 Pact

MARGATE, England (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today he had a "sure hope" that an American-backed East-West non-aggression pact would prevent a third world war.

Reviving his proposal for a non-aggression pact patterned after the 1952 treaty of Locarno, Churchill declared:

"When . . . I spoke about the master thought of Locarno (in a speech on May 11) I meant of course the plan of everybody going against the aggressor whoever he may be and helping the victim large or small.

"That is no more than the United Nations was set up to do.

"We are told that the Locarno treaty failed and did not prevent the war. There was a very good reason for that. The United States was not in it.

"Had the United States taken before the first World War or between the wars the same interest and made the same exertions to preserve peace and uphold freedom which—I thank God—she is

O'Brian Petition Is Under Study

Prosecutor Says Act Not Intended for Use in Murder Charges

The petition was filed Tuesday by O'Brian's wife, Patricia, 19. O'Brian is charged with first degree murder in the Aug. 4 rape-slaying of Mrs. Hallie O. Perkins, 55, of 76 W. Longfellow Ave.

Aerial Display Fails to Live Up to Billing

The aerial fireworks caused by earth's swing through the tail of the disintegrating comet, Giacobini, apparently occurred in the Pontiac area early today when everybody was asleep.

Professional and amateur astronomers said the meteorite shower—the debris left by the comet—failed to appear by midnight.

They speculated that it occurred early in the morning.

Dr. Lincoln La Paz, director of New Mexico University's Institute of Meteoritics, reported that the periodic six-year show was visible on schedule in New Mexico, but failed to live up to advance billing.

The highest rate observed there was 25 meteorites an hour, compared with 200 shooting stars a minute in the 1946 shower.

Cries Defiance; Moving Troops to Disputed Area

But Proposes Solution: Would Keep Port City in Autonomous Units

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito sent troops into the Yugoslav Zone B of Trieste today and threatened to use them if Italian forces move into Zone A.

But he offered a surprise "solution" which would turn the vital port city into an autonomous unit under Italian sovereignty.

This was Tito's answer to the decision by the United States and Britain to pull their troops out of the Adriatic seaport — Zone A — and turn it over to Italian administration.

Tito's foreign office formally protested to London and Washington against that decision and the tough Yugoslav leader today bitterly declared his country would consider the movement of Italian troops into Trieste "an act of aggression."

In London, the British foreign office formally rejected the Tito protest and said in a statement it was "difficult to see how an act of aggression could be committed by the movement of Italian troops into territory which is not Yugoslav."

The new Tito proposal appeared at first glance to be a major Yugoslav concession. His previous demand was that the city be turned into an international port and the surrounding territory—now Zone B—be handed outright to Yugoslavia.

Tito's new proposal called for both zones to become separate autonomous units — Zone A under Italian sovereignty and Zone B under Yugoslav sovereignty—"for 10 or more years."

He indicated this was his final offer and threatened that if it was not given favorable consideration by the West "there will be no peace in this part of Europe."

Tito offered his new proposal in the middle of a fiery, sabre-rattling

Mamie Hitches Ride to Register for Vote

The First Lady flew from Washington to La Guardia Airport in an Air Force Constellation with Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbott and Mrs. Talbott.

Talbott said he came to town to meet with aircraft manufacturers. "I'm here on business and she merely bummed a ride," he said, referring to Mrs. Eisenhower.

The President's wife, who got here on the last day of the week-long registration period, said she had come only to register and would go back to Washington "probably within the hour."

From Royal Oak to Rochester

Will Evacuate 200 Pupils for Civil Defense Trial

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

Operation "EVAC" will move 200 second, fourth and sixth grade Royal Oak school children from their schools to Rochester next Wednesday.

To be staged as a mock evacuation of school children, it is a program proposed by the Office of Civil Defense, to test their efficiency in time of disaster.

This is the first time in Michigan, according to Brig. Gen. Lester J. Maitland, state director of OCD, that a test of defense for school children has been tried.

"In these days of international tension, with ever present threats of organized conflict, it is vital that we prepare to insure by all possible means the survival of our population," stated the general.

He pointed out that the prevalent thought in Oakland County is that survival may rest on an evacuation program.

Wednesday's simulated evacuation will see youngsters leaving Royal Oak at 10:30 a.m. and arriving in Rochester at 11 a.m.

Their teachers will accompany them, and upon arrival in Rochester, they will be assigned to corresponding grades.

One group will go through a regular registration procedure as they would do during a national disaster.

"Each student," according to Donald C. Baldwin, superintendent of Rochester schools, "will be assigned to a "pal." Rochester students will make them feel at home in their new classroom situation and accompany them either to the school cafeteria for lunch or to the Rochester "pal's" home for noon hour.

Royal Oak schools from which the children will be moved have not yet been revealed.

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM—Final plans for the proposed Pembroke school are completed, Birmingham Supt. of Schools Dr. Dwight B. Ireland has told the Board of Education, and nothing more can be done until the drainage problem there is solved.

Currently the Presbyterian church, two real estate developers and Troy Township are discussing how to split up the costs of engineering surveys on a drainage plan.

The school site is in Troy township, and the Birmingham City Commission has favored a system of separate storm and sanitary sewers to serve the school and a restricted area of nearby Troy land.

In this plan, the sanitary flow from the area would use Birmingham sewers to reach the Southeastern Oakland County Sewage Disposal System. The city has stipulated that the various developers ofthe area must solve their own storm sewer problem, since Birmingham's storm sewers in the area are overloaded now.

Ireland has repeatedly urged haste in solving the problem, so construction of the school can be speeded to serve a growing population of children in the area.

The superintendent reassured residents of the Pembrook area in the northeast section of the city that the money set aside for their school is intact, and will not be used for other construction.

UF Planning Starts Early

Some Work on Present Drive in Birmingham Last Year

BIRMINGHAM — Although the actual fund drive is carried on for a few short fall weeks, preparations for the Detroit Area United Foundation Torch Drive continue all year round.

This year's drive begins Oct. 20, with business and industry solicitation already under way. But planning for this began immediately after the close of last year's drive, to assure community support for the 150 health and community services which share in the contributions.

The Birmingham-Bloomfield-Franklin drive was in the planning stage eight months ago, with a 25-member advisory committee beginning to smooth out the wrinkles.

At that time, advisory committee chairman and general chairman were selected, and they began picking interested citizens to form the backbone of their committees.

A committee breakdown continued well into September, with organization then at the level of hundreds of volunteers for every branch of the drive, which is seeking $152,000. The entire area was broken down in individual blocks to be covered.

Because of the high organizational needs of the business and industry solicitation program, it starts earlier than the general drive. Payroll deduction contributions can spread a generous contribution throughout the entire year.

Tours through the agencies supported by the United Foundation were planned, and volunteers received training in the facts of the Torch Drive, and it supports, to assemble campaign kits for solicitors.

By kickoff time, the labor of hundreds has been contributed, only to start again shortly after the current drive ends.

Tito Sends Troops Into Trieste Zone

He did not go into detail and did not make clear how he proposed that Zone A be policed, since he so flatly rejected the entry of Italian forces.

Declaring such entry by Italian soldiers would be considered aggressive, Tito told a huge throng that "we have decided to protect our rights in the spirit of the United Nations, which also include the right to use armed force."

"The peoples of Yugoslavia in their demonstrations asked that our army be sent to Zone B and I may declare that units of the Yugoslav army have already entered into Zone B."

Tito spoke just two days after Britain and the United States announced their decision to withdraw their occupation troops from Zone A and turn its administration over to Italy.

The decision touched off a wave of angry protest demonstrations in Yugoslavia that continued today.

Tito warned bluntly that Yugoslavia could not accept the "unilateral act by the governments of the United States and Britain" as an accomplished fact.

Under the Italian Peace Treaty of 1947, the Free Territory of Trieste was split into two zones.

Zone B, including the strategic port city of Trieste, was placed under Anglo-American control.

Tito proposed today a new "solution" for the dynamite-laden Trieste problem which has disrupted relations between this country and Italy for the past seven years:

"First of all, to leave this question for some time. Further, to create two autonomous units, namely the Zone B with the whole hinterland of Trieste, which is predominantly inhabited by the Slovene people, as one autonomous unit under the sovereignty of Yugoslavia for 10 or more years.

"Secondly, that Trieste (city) itself become a separate unit with autonomous rights under the sovereignty of Italy, with the provision that neither side has the right to effect denationalization," meaning the forcible removal of minority populations.

Previously, Tito had called for internationalization of Trieste itself with Yugoslavia acquiring the surrounding area in the Free Territory, Italy has demanded a plebiscite in the entire territory.

O'Brian Examination Asked in Petition intended to control sex offenders before a murder was committed.

He said the Goodrich Act makes it mandatory for the judge to grant a psychiatric hearing to a defendant who has a mental disorder and propensities for criminal sexual offenses.

If ruled a criminal sexual psychopath by a judge or jury after three psychiatrists agree that the person is unbalanced, the defendant would be turned over to the State Hospital Commission, said Ziem.

The commission, Ziem continued, would have the power to release the offender on parole from the mental institution.

Furthermore, he said, the Goodrich Act indicates that a person who is declared a criminal sexual psychopath can never stand trial for his offense.

Ziem agreed that the petition submitted by Harold W. Geddes of Detroit, O'Brian's attorney, was correct and followed the procedure set forth in the statute.

Judge Doty said he will hand down his decision sometime next week.

Maryland Man Becomes Baron; To Sell His Home

UPPER FAIRMOUNT, Md. (AP)—A Maryland man who became a baron was trying to sell his house today so he could go to Scotland and claim a crumbling mansion, among other things.

The baronetcy 60-year-old Sir Adrian Ivor Dunbar inherited includes, in addition to the mansion, some small farms and woodland. How much it's worth the wiry farmer and handyman doesn't know.

But he wants to go to Scotland to claim the title and he's put up his house and most of his worldly goods, hoping to raise the cash for the trip. Attorneys in Edinburgh have advised him regulations prevent them from spending any of the inherited money for the ocean crossing for Dunbar and his wife.

It was last January that Dunbar got word the 10th baron of Dunbar had died in London. Dunbar set to work and finally proved he was the legal heir. The title was cleared in July.

The new baron plans to renounce his United States citizenship and go to Scotland. His two younger sons — 19 and 17—decided they wanted to stay here and have joined the Army. Dunbar has another son, a 34-year-old engineer in Baltimore who is next in line for the title.

"With their mighty aid, I have sure hope there will not be a third."

Churchill became ill shortly after this May 11 proposal and has been out of action since.

Of his proposal for a face-to-face meeting with President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov and French Premier Joseph Laniel, Churchill declared:

"Five months ago on May 11, I made a speech in the House of Commons. I have not spoken since. This is the first time in my political life that I have kept quiet for so long.

"I asked for very little. I held out no glittering or exciting hopes about Russia. I thought that friendly, informal, personal talks between the leading figures in the countries mainly involved might do good and would not easily do much harm, and that good thing might lead to another.

"This humble, modest plan announced as the policy of Her Majesty's government raised a considerable stir all over the place. And though we have not yet been able to persuade our trusted allies to adopt it in the form suggested no once can say that it is dead.

"I still think that the leading men of the various nations ought to be able to meet together—without trying to cut attitudes before excitable publics or using regiments of experts to marshall all the difficulties and objections—and let us try to see whether there is not something better for us all than tearing and blasting each other to pieces, which we can certainly do.

"The interest of Britain, or Europe and of the NATO Alliance is not to play Russia against Germany or Germany against Russia but to make them both feel they live in safety with each other in spite of their problems and differences.

"For us to have a very definite part in all of this it is our duty to use our growing influence both with Germany and Russia to relieve them of any anxiety they might feel about each other . . .

3 Killed, 2 Injured in Car-Truck Crash

Davis told a reporter he was going "about 50 miles per hour when my truck hit the rear of the car. I don't know how I got out of the cab." He was not seriously injured.

Mrs. McClaskey said "there was this crunch and it seemed that immediately fire was everywhere."

Col. Walter J. Seely, commanding officer of the Nebraska Ordnance Plant at Wahoo, Neb., said there were "512 rounds of 105 (millimeter) shells in the truck. They were complete with primers and seven bags of powder per shell."

He said when the truck hit the car, one of the gas tanks burst and apparently set off the others. "The fire apparently got hot enough to set aflame everything in the truck . . . this heat started the shells to bursting. . . ."

Robert O'Keefe, who lives near the scene started from his home to the highway when he saw three other explosives trucks parked along the highway.

He said although he hadn't driven a big trailer-truck rig since his army days six years ago he leaped in and drove first one and then the other 'ruck out of the danger area. Someone else moved the third truck.

In the excitement Chester Dagerman, co-owner of the Ten-Mile Inn, collapsed of a heart attack and died.

Sports Take Top Billing With Conductor-Arranger

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Robert Russell Bennett is a fine musician, but he'd much rather talk about baseball or horse racing than music.

I wanted to discuss "Victory at Sea," the Richard Rodgers orchestral suite which Bennett arranged and conducted.

"It's hard to catalog the piece," Bennett said. "I've been hating the Brooklyn Dodgers for 48 years and I'm not going to stop now."

The music was originally 1½ hours long, as it was written to accompany NBC-TV's film history of the Navy in World War II.

"It wasn't too hard to cut it down to 45 minutes," Bennett said. "After all these years, I've got three systems for beating the races."

We talked about the main theme that runs through the work.

"It's used like Wagner's leitmotif theme," he said. "I think the biggest thrill in baseball is the inside-the-park homer. The foul line should run along the top of the fence and everything over the fence should be foul."

Would he say that "Victory at Sea" is symphonic?

"It's more rhapsodic than symphonic," he said. "The only Dodger I like is Pee-Wee Reese. The first time I saw Furillo I disliked him."

Bennett is the man who suggested that Rodgers write a tango, to background the chapter on naval action in the South Atlantic.

Rodgers obliged and, in the suite, it's called "Beneath the Southern Cross."

If it sounds familiar to you, it's because Rodgers took it and put it in "Me and Juliet." Now it's known as "No Other Love."

THE POPULAR SIDE: A 15-minute radio program, to be used next February for the Heart Fund, has been taped by Robert Merrill and Rise Stevens. It's based on their "Cavalcade of Musical Comedy" album.

After one year and seven records, MGM's Joni James has 5,000,000 records sold — already.

Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and St. Louis are looked on as the "hit-maker" cities — if a song goes well there, it's a hit.

ON THE CLASSICS: Silken is the word for an hour of delightful selections just recorded by Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra for Columbia. It features Debussy, Rossini, Ravel, Villa-Lobos and Strauss, among others.

Our favorite was the "Little Train", number by the Brazilian, Villa-Lobos, perhaps because we'd once seen the train in Brazil, huffing and puffing through its towering smokestack, all nickel and brass.

SURE FIRE: "Many Times" (Eddie Fisher, RCA).

SLEEPER: "I Forgot More Than You'll Ever Know" (Toni Arden, Columbia).

"You're So Much a Part of Me" (Betty and Jane Kean, RCA); "The Night Holds No Fear" (Margaret Whiting, Capitol); "You Could Be My Love" (Lu Ann Simms, Columbia).

POP ALBUMS: What's your pleasure? Love songs — "Nat 'King' Cole Sings for Two in Love" (Capitol). Mood music — "Dreamtime" (The Strings of Stordahl, Capitol). Swing — "Woody Herman and the Herd at Carnegie Hall, 1946" (MGM).

Small combos—"The Art Tatum Trio" (Capitol). Comedy — "The Park Avenue Hillbilly" (Dorothy Shay, Capitol).

CLASSICAL: Columbia has two new albums of piano selections. On one, Dinu Lipatti, a great who died at an untimely 33, shows his skill on Chopin's Sonata No. 3 in B-Minor.

The other features Robert Casadesus in Scarlatti Sonatas and four selections from Rameau.

Take Battle Positions After Threat to Indians on PW Issue

PANMUNJOM (AP) — American "alert troops" with tanks and flamethrowers took up positions pointing south today in an ominous warning against South Korean threats to attack Indian soldiers guarding war prisoners in the neutral zone.

The show of strength followed an Indian appeal for American aid in curbing any South Korean drive toward the compounds housing 22,600 anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese POWs.

The U. S. State Department only Friday assured India it would take precautions to head off possible South Korean interference.

The State Department also disclosed that it had—prior to the Indian appeal—warned South Korea that the U. N. Command would forcibly resist any attempt to free the POWs or attack Indian troops.

South Korea, which considers India pro-Communist, has repeatedly threatened to drive the Indians from Korea—by force, if necessary.

The situation tightened after the Indians killed 3 POWs and wounded 10 recently in putting down two attempted escapes by the prisoners.

Meanwhile, Allied engineers worked speedily constructing facilities near Panmunjom where the Communists will interview the North Korean and Chinese POWs who refuse to go home.

The camp is scheduled for completion Monday morning and it is possible that the explanations designed to persuade POWs to accept repatriation will get under way at that time.

The explanations have been delayed since Sept. 26, mainly because of a snarl over facilities. Both the U. N. Command and Reds turned down centers built by the other and demanded detailed changes.

There was no official indication whether the U. N. Command teams would start meeting with the 359 former Allied soldiers who have refused repatriation. This number includes 25 Americans and 1 Briton.

A spokesman said the UNC was in no hurry because of the small number involved.

The 14,700 Chinese POWs staged celebrations Saturday morning in observance of the Nationalist Chinese Independence Day.

pany the group. He said all superintendents in the county had been invited to watch the procedure.

"We are anxious to show what can be done in time of emergency. It is of value to both the child, the parent, to the school authorities and to the OCD. Planned educational training in self protection and preparedness is the backbone of the program. Our aim here is for practical knowledge of what can be done safely and speedily," said Covert.

Lewis C. Jarrendt, Oakland County civil defense director, said the area had been picked because the situation could actually happen here and that Rochester was the natural spot for the "fan out" from Royal Oak.

Police from Royal Oak, Clawson and Troy Township and the Oakland County sheriff's deputies will escort the buses, with Rochester village police meeting them at the municipal limits.

The children will be returned to Royal Oak at 1 p.m.

A Good Deed Sells Building

Getting an Apartment for Chrysler's Daughter Swings Deal

NEW YORK (AP)—"Now that I have done something for you, you can do something for me."

That phrase has a familiar ring—and it rang up a big real estate deal stemming from a lady's desire for an apartment instead of a town house.

The 77-story Chrysler Building, second tallest office structure in the world, and two adjacent buildings were sold yesterday for 52 million dollars.

Mrs. Byron Foy, daughter of the late motor car magnate, Walter P. Chrysler, was one of the principal stockholders of the W. P. Chrysler Building Corp.

Mrs. Foy owns a stately town house on 93rd St., but she had her eye on a certain Park Ave. apartment.

Her husband knows William Zeckendorf, president of Webb & Knapp Inc., real estate dealers. Some time ago, Foy mentioned that his wife wanted the apartment, and Zeckendorf fixed it up.

After the big sale yesterday, Zeckendorf said:

"Then the idea came into my mind, that here was the man (Foy) I needed and I told him: 'Now that I have done something for you, you can do something for me. How about selling the Chrysler Building to us?' And that's how it happened."

The transaction also involved the 32-story Chrysler Building East and the 30-story Graybar Building. The three buildings were transferred to Webb & Knapp and the investment banking firm of Lazard Freres & Co.

Examine Pistol in Road Killings

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania state police put a foreign-made pistol through a ballistics test today as law officers continue the hunt for a 25-year-old "highly dangerous" man sought in connection with the murder of two truckers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The German pistol was brought here for the tests after Cleveland Homicide Capt. David E. Kerr of Cleveland, Ohio, said firings there connected John Wesley Wable, described as a dark, thin-faced man, with the wounding of John K. Shepard, 34, while he slept in his truck near Lisbon, Ohio, last July.

Last night in Cleveland employes of an auto agency said a man who looked like Wable took out a car for a demonstration ride and failed to return. The man left behind a stolen car.

In Uniontown, Pa., Dist. Atty. Fred L. Brothers quoted a prisoner, Charles R. Welch, 20, of Grindstone, Pa., as saying Wable told him when the two shared a jail cell recently:

"What would you think if I told you I had committed the turnpike killings? Well, I did. I killed two truckers in Pennsylvania and one in Ohio."

Kerr, in Cleveland, said he was unable to tell if the pistol was the same used in the slayings of Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., and Lester B. Woodward, 39, of Harrisburg, Pa. All of the shootings occurred within one week in July and in each case the truckers had pulled off the super highway for a nap.

Col. C. M. Wilhelm, Pennsylvania state police commissioner, said tests of bullets showed the same pistol was used in all three shootings.

Kerr said Wable's 22-year-old girl friend told police the hunted man had the watch and pistol after the Lisbon shooting. Kerr said the pistol was given to the girls' stepfather, who turned it over to police.

Wable worked in Cleveland as a plant guard until last March and was later arrested on the Uniontown, Pa., charge of failing to return a rented car. He was released after making restitution.

Stand Crash Hurts 13, Halts Football Game

SHATTUCK, Okla. (AP)—The collapse of football stadium bleachers, blamed on teen-agers jumping up and down, injured 13 persons last night and halted the Woodward-Shattuck high school game.

School officials blamed the accident on "a group of boys and girls jumping up and down."

"It could have been overcrowded a little bit too," said W. E. Gorley, Shattuck superintendent of schools.

He said the bleachers that crashed to the ground were seven rows high and 60 yards long, seating some 800 fans. The game was resumed after the injured were taken to hospitals.

Reveal Donors for Dems, GOP

U.S. Business and Social Leaders Give Heavily to Party Campaigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders in the nation's business and social circles were among the major financial "angels" of the Republican and Democratic parties in 1952 and 1953.

The Rockefellers, the Mellons, the Pews and the duPonts contributed handsomely to the Republican National Committee, while the coffers of the Democratic National Committee got hefty boosts from the Dukes, the Vredenburghs, the Fields and the Sonneborns.

Names of individuals contributing funds to the two political parties must be filed with the clerk of the House six times during an election year and four times in off-years. Federal law prohibits any individual from donating more than $5,000 to a national political party, but puts no limitation on how many members of the same family may give the maximum.

Neither does it require publication of the names of donors to political groups which are not national, such as state committees.

The Rockefellers, for example, gave $17,000 to the GOP National Committee in 1952. Contributions of $3,000 each were made by Laurance Rockefeller, David Rockefeller, Winthrop Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller III, all of New York, while John D. Rockefeller Jr., and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr. gave $2,500 each.

The duPonts of Delaware made four separate donations totaling $4,500 to the Republican cause.

The Mellons of Pittsburgh went over the $8,000 mark with four donations to the GOP.

The Pews of Philadelphia tossed $12,000 into the GOP treasury and the Lilly family of Indianapolis contributed $8,000 to the Republicans.

Two contributions totaling $5,000 were made to the Democratic National Committee by Angier Biddle Duke of New York.

From the Sonneboms of New York the Democrats received $15,000 in separate donations.

Separate contributions of $2,500 each were made in the name of Dorothy Vredenburg and Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburg, while a $5,000 donation was attributed to Peter Vredenburg III. The Vredenburgs are from Birmingham.

Mrs. Perle S. Mesta, who was minister to Luxembourg under the Democrats, gave that party $2,000.

Marshall Field and Mrs. Marshall Field of New York and Chicago aided the Democratic cause by $3,000 each.

Everybody Gets Married in Korpacquewski Family

PHOENIK, Ariz. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Michael Korpacquewski gave away a son and two daughters in a triple wedding ceremony last night.

Until a few days ago they thought only Russell, their son home from Army service in Korea, wanted to wed.

"LaDonna and Evelyn thought it would be a good idea to make it a big one," they told the surprised parents. Their boy friends thought so too.

Cardinal Mooney Has Audience With Pope

Cardinal Mooney, who is residing near the papal summer residence, motored to the Pope's palace and spent 20 minutes with the Pontiff.

Old Bones Tell Historic Tales at Smithsonian

WASHINGTON, (UP) There are more skeletons in the closets of the Smithsonian Institution than any place else in the world. A large cemetery excepted, of course.

But don't expect to find the skull of some missing ancestor in the Smithsonian, or the bones of some fugitive from justice. These are the remains of unidentified individuals.

Stowed away in the institution's division of physical anthropology are boxes of bones, more than 18,000 human skulls, and numerous complete skeletons.

Since it was established in 1903, the collection has disproved the adage that "dead men tell no tales." FBI investigators and police detectives have been able to determine much from these skulls — sometimes the identity of the owner and how he died.

The collection, in charge of Dr. T. Kale Stewart, is consulted regularly for possible identification of remains found in graveyards, and the like.

The division, founded by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, one of the world's foremost anthropologists, has unfolded an invaluable story of the race, its origins and wanderings over the face of the earth.

BOYS STEAL EMPTY "POP" BOTTLES

By J. Lee Voorhees

J. L. VOORHEES

As we read of the horrible slaughter of war we might wonder if someone hasn't stolen "Pop" bottes. A highly respected man stole money from his employer; he found he had an empty "pop" bottle. The mother with two children, deserted them for stolen love, found she had an empty "pop" bottle. The penurious person, too stingy to contribute to a church, too niggardly to be neighborly, accumulated dollars but found them to be empty "pop" bottles when he needed solace and friends.

M. E. SIPLE

There are empty "pop" bottles everywhere; unpleasantness over trifles with a neighbor, sharp words with our wives, silly contentions that bring heartaches to friends, scolding a salesperson in a store, berating a policeman, losing one's temper over a minor auto accident.

If you must steal, don't pick on an empty "pop" bottle.

Harvest Runs Third Highest

Government Says Good Weather in September Aided Crops

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department says farmers are harvesting the third largest volume of crops in history, but are running into trouble on crops sown this fall for harvest next year.

In an October crop report yesterday, the agency said favorable weather in September helped develop crops and bear out its earlier forecast that the crop volume would be topped only by harvests in 1948 and 1952.

A 15,596,000-bale cotton crop estimate led Secretary of Agriculture Benson to order a cotton growers' vote Dec. 15 on rigid marketing quotas. At least two-thirds of those voting must approve.

To carry out the quotas, which would require cotton farmers to cut next year's crop more than a third below this year's, Benson announced a 1954 planting allotment of 17,910,448 acres. This year farmers planted 24½ million acres to cotton.

Wheat growers already have approved quotas on their 1954 crop. Most types of tobacco will be grown under controls and farmers will vote Dec. 15 on quotas for next year's peanut crop.

But dry weather was said to be retarding preparations of fields and seeding of winter wheat, rye and oats for harvest next year. The department said that throughout the country much grain has been sown in the dust.

The new report cut 20 million bushels off the corn forecast, but left it at a far-above average size of 3,196,000,000 bushels. This reduction did not alter prospects that acreage planting allotments will be used on corn next year to prevent overproduction.

The department said this year's corn crop is mostly of good quality and ready for gribbing because of low moisture content.

Illinois Town Extends Heart to 15 Orphans

FAIRFIELD, Ill. (UP) — Residents of this southern Illinois town have pitched in to help 15 Michigan children whose father was killed in a highway accident near here.

Inspired by a Baptist minister, the Rev. Harry Garrett, townspeople have poured nearly $1,000 into the "Shellnut Fund" to aid the family of Lonnie Shellnut, 48, who was killed in the accident Monday.

Shellnut and his wife, Lonnie, 46, were the parents of 11 children and also took four foster children into their home at 61 Hamats in Hazel Park.

Mrs. Shellnut and three of the children—a two-year-old boy, a 14-year-old girl and a married daughter—were injured in the accident.

Garrett investigated and said he found the family "was destitute." When he learned of the 12 other children at home he asked the local radio station, WFIW, to appeal for help.

"Then the money came in, and it's still coming in," Garrett said.

Mrs. Shellnut was expected to return here today after attending her husband's funeral at his former home in Sheridan Ark., Friday. Garrett said she will be given a check for the money from the fund drive as soon as it all is collected.

Group Agrees Rooms Needed

Committee of Citizens to Submit Plan Within Few Weeks

ROCHESTER — What the community of Rochester wants taught in its schools will be the basis for school planning, the Citizens' Advisory Committee decided this week.

All members indicated their agreement that classrooms were needed and immediately. However, they said, they realized, following their visits to many others and different types of schools, that the cirriculum should determine the type of building they recommended.

Working around the clock for many hours each week, this citizens' group has been investigating finance, site and building plans and ways and publicity procedures for the recommendation they hope to present to the Rochester Board of Education within a few weeks.

This committee was activated following two school building bond issues defeats in Rochester this summer. It is headed by Wallace Hodges.

Heading the finance division is Frank Voll of Goodison. He is assisted by J. M. Flumerfelt and Dalton Ozanne.

Site committee chairman is Clarence Burr, Rochester. His assistants are Mrs. Allison W. Haidle and Carl F. Rathka. Henry Purdy heads the building committee with Mrs. Charles Burgess and Roy Plauman as members; publicity is guided by Dr. Edgar Geist and Mrs. Ralph Van Saw and Paul Epso.

William I. McClelland chairmans the ways and means division with Mrs. Alex Geno and Harold Bechler.

Dr. Edgar Geist raised the question of professional perogative at a recent meeting when he said that educators are highly trained people and it should be their responsibility to determine what is a good educational program for students.

Donald C. Baldwin, superintendent of Rochester schools, said that the teachers had spent hours of study and survey in determining what was needed, and these recommendations are included in the Community Area Survey report.

This report has been accepted by the Citizens' Advisory Committee as a basis for the recommendation they will make to the board of education.

A topographical survey of the McGregor site was presented to the architect this week to determine the exact amount of money it will cost to prepare this site for building.

Elementary schools which the committee feels are needed are additions to Goodison, an addition in the south end of the district, either Hamlin or Brooklands, and a new elementary school at the northeast corner of the village of Rochester.

The possibility of obtaining a site in the Mt. Vernon area for future elementary expansion was also suggested at this week's meeting.

Honeymoon Interrupted

M'Carthy Cuts Wedding Trip Short to Take Part in Investigation

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) was reported on his way back to the United States today, after interrupting his honeymoon, to participate in a probe of alleged security leaks at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Francis P. Carr, staff director for McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee, said here yesterday that evidence taken in the probe was of such significance that McCarthy was asked to return.

The staff of McCarthy's committee said in a Washington announcement last night that the senator and his bride already had left the British West Indies by plane en route to his home town of Appleton, Wis.

Carr said McCarthy would spend the weekend in Appleton and then arrive here Monday morning for the resumption of the probe.

A score of witnesses already have been interviewed in the inquiry into reported leaks of information concerning top secret radar and other defense mechanisms. Several Ft. Monmouth civilians employes have been suspended as security risks.

McCarthy's staff declined to identify the witnesses to be called.

After a week of closed hearings, the Washington announcement said, McCarthy probably will return to Appleton to resume his honeymoon.

The 43-year-old senator and the former Jean Kerr, 29, were married 11 days ago.

2,000 Koreans Rally Against Jap Fishing

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Some 2,000 fishermen rallied today along the Pusan waterfront, urging "stringent and daring measures" by the South Korean government to exclude Japanese fishing boats from within 60 miles of the South Korean coast.

Japan and South Korea are presently negotiating over the 60-mile boundary, called the "Rhee line," which was proclaimed by South Korea. Japan considers the boundary illegal.

The Korean Navy has seized a number of Japanese boats in recent weeks within the limits. Two of the crews are on trial on charges of violating the "Rhee line" and the internationally recognized three-mile limit.

Ike Will Be Busy With Birthday, Southwest Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will make a short trip next week, to a Republican-sponsored celebration of his 63rd birthday, and soon afterward start a long tour.

Tuesday afternoon the President and Mrs. Eisenhower, with a family party, will drive to Hershey, Pa., for a fund-raising box supper arranged by the Pennsylvania party. Sales of more than 6,000 tickets at $100 each were reported.

The President will fly back to Washington, where he will spend his actual birthday, Wednesday. But he leaves that night by train to keep a delayed appointment at Defiance College in Ohio.

Eisenhower will arrive at Defiance Thursday to attend the laying of the cornerstone of the new Anthony Wayne Library of American Study.

The visit had been planned for September, but the President then was flying back from Colorado and it was considered dangerous to try to land at Defiance.

From Defiance, Eisenhower will go to Toledo and there board a plane to continue his trip through the South and Southwest.

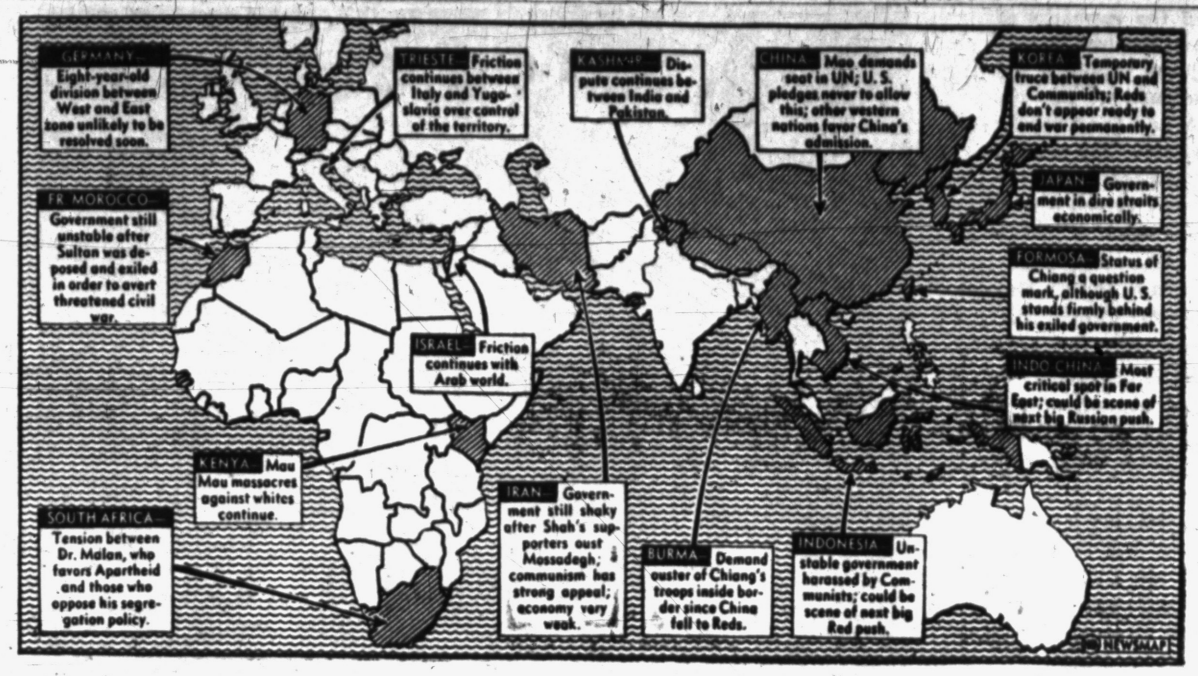

Hid Pants to Keep Wife From Searching Pockets

DETROIT (AP)—Watch out husbands!

Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moynihan has held in effect that a wife has a right to go through her hubby's pants pockets in search of money.

The judge granted a divorce to Mrs. Wanda Nalley of Detroit, after she told him her husband, Albert S., tucked his trousers in the mattress every night to keep her from going through the pockets.

They were married July 2, 1951. The divorce came yesterday.

TROUBLE OF TROUBLE ON WORLD'S FACE—Above newsmap locates tension spots throughout Europe, the Middle East and the Far East where war potentials exist which could be ignited at a moment's notice by some overt or careless act. Most of the trouble is due to Communist imperialism, but a good share can also be credited to extreme nationalism, especially in the Middle East, where natives have been trying for years to throw off foreign domination. It's here that the Communists try to stir up trouble in the hope of gaining control, with the West always standing by to see that native peoples keep control of their own governments.

Rules 6 Reds Not Paupers

Detroit Federal Judge Says Commies on Trial Must Pay Court Costs

DETROIT (AP) — Federal Judge Frank A. Picard has ruled in effect that six Michigan Communists facing trial here on conspiracy charges are not paupers.

Therefore, it will be up to them, not the government, to pay for costly daily transcripts of trial proceedings when they get under way Oct. 27.

One of the six, Saul Wellman, obtained a court order Sept. 30 requiring the government to supply him with free copies of the transcripts. He pleaded pauperism.

But Judge Picard reversed the decision yesterday on the basis of government evidence purporting to show that the defendants would have access to adequate funds.

District Attorney Fred W. Kaess presented clippings from the Communist Daily Worker and the Labor Defender indicating that the Civil Rights Congress has raised nearly $60,000 for the defense and expects to raise more than $20,000 more. The Civil Rights Congress is on the attorney general's subversive list.

The six are charged with conspiring to overthrow the government by force, a violation of the Smith Act. The trial is expected to be a long one and a complete trial transcript to run about $5,000.

Stamps and Letters Tell of Past

First Waterford Post Office Located in Early Hotel Run by Captain Phillips

By MAURICE F. COLE

(Another in a series tracing Oakland County history through early postal records.)

Probably the first acting postmaster at Waterford was Capt. Archibald Phillips, one of the owners of the sawmill which had been constructed on the Clinton River, and a partner of Alpheus Williams.

Some 10 years after the mill had been built, Phillips opened Waterford's first hotel, and from here the few letters that were sent in to the settlers were delivered.

Besides operating his mill, the hotel, and acting for a while as postmaster, Capt. Phillips had time to organize and drill a rifle company, which was part of an entire regiment of militia in the Pontiac area, and which took part in the parades and other patriotic observances of the time.

By 1851 John Decker Jr. had been installed as postmaster.

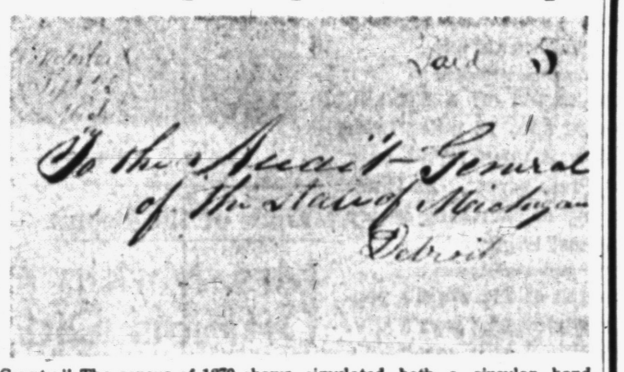

Within a few more years, on Aug. 24, 1858, the name of the post office was changed to Drayton Plains, but in less than three months later the Waterford post office was re-established, with Charles G. Robertson as postmaster. He was the village doctor.

Then followed David H. Francis in 1863, Mary F. Thompson in 1868, and F. W. Fifield, in 1877. There were undoubtedly intervening postmasters but available records do not reveal the identity of them.

Francis operated a general store at Waterford, while Fifield, who was an insurance agent at various times, filled township offices of supervisor, clerk and justice of the peace, as well as operating a plaster and saw mill.

The Michigan 1863 Gazeteer describes Waterford as a post village with "three general stores, a number of mechanics shops, Masonic Lodge No. 98, two saw mills, three flour mills, etc."

County." The census of 1870 shows the Waterford population as 360.

The 1890 Atlas for the county shows the Waterford post office was in the general store of P. Huntoon at the southeast corner of Saginaw St. and Grand River, and we may safely conclude that the proprietor was also the postmaster.

No covers from Waterford during territorial days are reported, nor any stampless covers with handstamp marking.

We do find, however, an unusual townmark in manuscript, in which the postmaster, in excellent script, simulated both a circular handstamp and the rating mark.

We illustrate a cover with such a marking. It is an 1846 letter, written by Jacob Teachout.

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS for advertising, too!

What a fix we'd all be in without those standards of measurement for the goods you buy and sell. Imagine the confusion, waste and doubt in business transactions if we didn't have accepted standards of weights and measures—known values.

We believe it is just as necessary for us to tell you what you get for your advertising dollars, in terms of known circulation value, as it is for you to do business with your customers on the basis of recognized standards. That's why this newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

WHAT IS THE A.B.C.? The Bureau is a cooperative and nonprofit association of 3450 publishers, advertising agencies and advertisers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

WHAT A.B.C. DOES FOR YOU. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office and makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. He has access to all of our books and records to obtain the FACTS that tell you what you get for your money when you advertise in this newspaper.

WHAT A.B.C. REPORTS TELL YOU. The circulation FACTS obtained by the A.B.C. auditor are condensed in easy to read A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; where the circulation goes; how it was sold and many other FACTS about the audience we provide for your sales messages. Make your advertising investments on the basis of this audited information. Ask for a copy of our A.B.C. report.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Clare W. Seery

Clare W. Seery possessed that priceless gift of ability to devote ceaseless energy to both his business and community interests and to make a host of friends in the process.

A resident of Pontiac since 1921, he played a major part in the steady growth of Abstract Title and Guaranty Co. of which he was vice-president.

Since 1944, when he was appointed a Pontiac representative on the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, he became increasingly active and interested in sound local government. In April of last year Mr. Seery was elected chairman of the Board and was re-elected this year.

After his graduation from high school in Ann Arbor, where he was born, Mr. Seery attended Assumption College, Windsor, and earned his bachelor's degree at the University of Michigan. A devout churchman, he was an active member of St. Vincent de Paul parish.

Despite the pressures of his varied interests, Clare W. Seery never was too busy to listen or supply helpful information and advice. His death at 58 is a loss to Pontiac and good County government.

Iron From Taconite

One of the most exciting industrial stories is the progress being made by steel companies in developing a process for the extraction of iron from taconite rock.

This progress is of special interest to both Northern Michigan and Minnesota where limitless quantities of taconite remain as the sources of high grade iron ore near exhaustion.

Only since World War II has taconite research been expanded. One reason was the great expense of mining this rock which is extremely tough and hard to handle.

Development of the jet piercer was a great step forward. It effectively and quickly bores this stubborn rock for blasting. Hauled away to new plants, the taconite is crushed and ground to powder. Next the iron content is extracted magnetically, processed into pellets and shipped to steel mills.

Together, according to the magazine Steelways, these taconite plants, existing or planned, eventually will turn out about one-fifth of the country's present yearly needs in iron ore.

This is encouraging news. It not only promises to reduce the drain on high grade ore but to revive employment in the areas where the high grade ore has petered out.

Red Threat in Guiana

The fact that Britain has sent several warships loaded with troops to Georgetown is a clue to the seriousness London attaches to the Communist threat in British Guiana.

In London the Colonial Office announced that a Red plot has been hatched in Guiana with the suspected aim of setting up a Communist dominated government.

Recent dispatches indicate that the anti-British agitation for more independence is being fostered by the People's Progressive Party now in power. Incidentally, Cheddi Jagan, an East Indian dentist who is Prime Minister and his American born wife, Janet Rosenberg, its executive secretary, deny that the PPP is Communist.

Despite this denial, the campaign bears all the earmarks of being Communist inspired. Speakers attacked Queen Elizabeth and demanded destruction of the YMCA, YWCA and the Catholic Youth Organization. The present ferment was preceded by an unsuccessful attempt to call a general strike in the sugar industry.

Actually conditions in British Guiana are made to order for Communist intrigue. With an area twice that of Ohio, the colony's population is mixed — 49.5 per cent Africans, 44 per cent East Indians and the rest divided between aborigines, Portuguese, Chinese and others.

Principal industries are sugar and mining financed and managed by foreign companies. While there is no record that the workers are being exploited, it is very easy to stir up trouble because of racial and minority conflicts.

There no doubt will be angry protests from the Left over the decisive action Britain has taken to foil a Red coup. This includes suspension of the constitution and ouster of the prime minister and five cabinet officers.

But from our standpoint the State Department considers such action far preferable to the establishment of a Communist base within easy striking distance of the Panama Canal.

"Robbers who carted off a 2,000-lb. safe to an isolated spot 12 miles from the city and blew it open found only $10.30 in it." — Press report. At times it must be terribly discouraging to try to make a dishonest living.

"Only one-fourth of the world's population is properly clothed," says a U.N. agency. It probably means adequately clothed; the question of being properly clothed is a matter of widely varying opinions.

GOP Regulars Fear Boss Influence on Don Leonard

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING (AP) — A Detroit policeman has the Michigan Republican organization looking over its shoulder.

This isn't crime news. It's political news.

The politicos believe firmly that Leonard intends to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

In 1952, Leonard's retirement from the State Police was delayed by the riots at the State Prison of Southern Michigan. He got into the race for governor late, but in about six weeks of actual campaign time made a surprisingly strong showing.

In fact, his vote was so substantial that many shrewd observers speculated he would have won if he had had a better start.

Now Leonard gives indications of making a second try in 1954.

Officially, of course, the Republican Party does not take sides in pre-primary and primarily campaigning. Their attitude must be "let the best man win and then we'll get behind him."

No one is accusing party leaders of welching on that attitude even in secret — but obviously there is concern among some of the rank and file organization workers.

This concern apparently explains the sudden interest in a pre-primary convention which would have let the party regulars indicate their unofficial choice for givernor, a device to put some prestige behind their favored candidate.

The Republican State Central Committee has rejected the plan for the next year on the grounds it might lead to abuses and irregularities.

The moment the committee made that foregone decision, Chairman John Feikins was ready with a public statement which said, in effect, "Now don't worry about boss control if we don't have a pre-primary convention. I'm sure the party has had enough experience in the past with bosses and isn't going to fall for one again."

Since nobody had been talking about bosses, Feikens statement was something of a puzzler.

But what he seemed to be really saying, was this:

"There's no reason to believe that Don Leonard will be the tool of a party boss and, if he is, we can handle that situation."

Now why should some Republicans be getting the boss-jitters about Leonard?

Well, in the first place, Frank D. McKay, one-time boss of the party, has come out flat-footed in his own weekly newspaper, the Michigan Times, for Leonard. McKay said bluntly that Leonard is the only hope of the party in 1954.

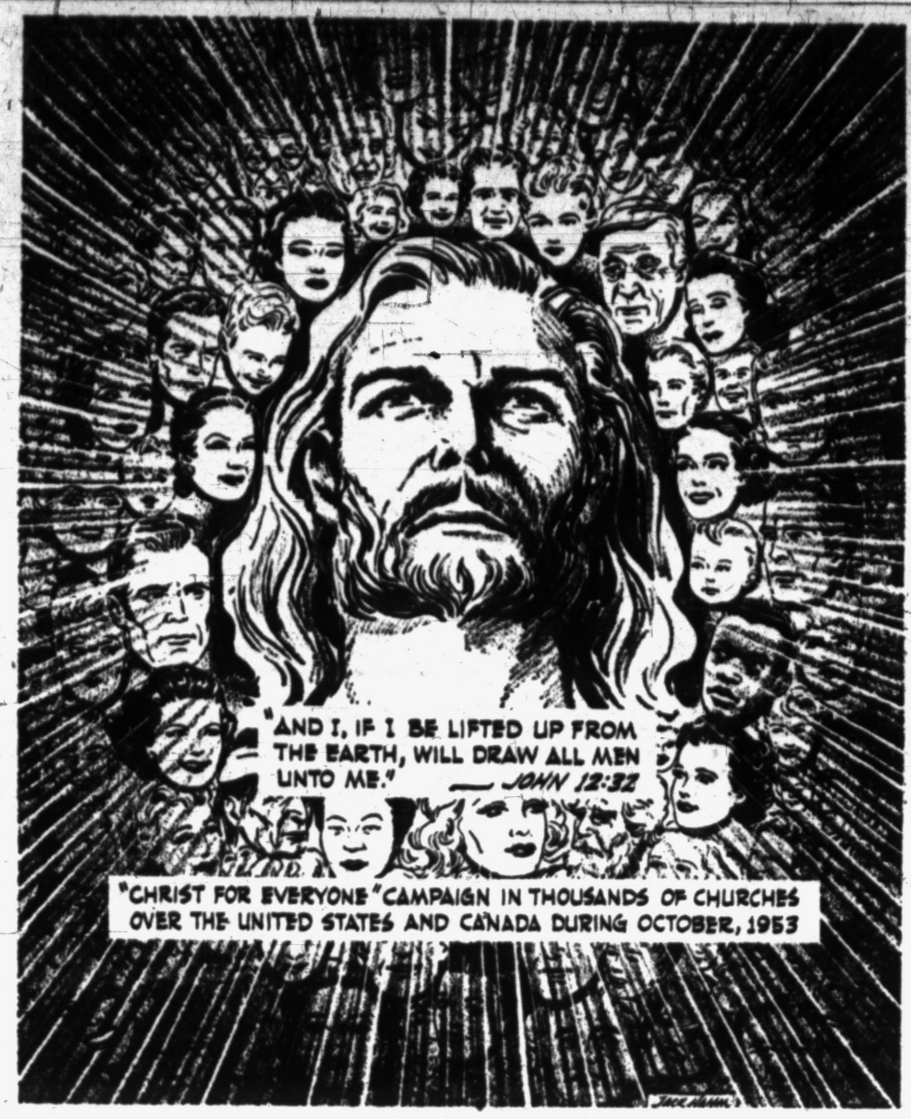

Also, Leonard is reportedly being backed by John Hettche, veteran Wayne County Republican leader who is considered by some to have associations, at least, with some of the so-called bosses of the past.

Obviously, Leonard cannot be blamed if McKay decides to hook onto his bandwagon. But the mere thought of the Old Man of Grand Rapids getting his nose into party affairs again upsets some people so badly that they shy like frightened colts.

The more serious, but better hidden, reason for organizational opposition to Leonard is the fear of another outsider getting the party reins.

The Republican organization has not forgotten that a colorful gent named Kim Sigler came along in 1946 and took their party right away from them. Many of them feel that Sigler wrecked the party and that the long drouth of the Williams-Democratic administration is the result.

Now they are on their way back, they believe, and they are extremely jumpy for fear the same thing will happen again.

Mrs. Mirkin Asks Why State's Health Officials Didn't Get Gamma Globulin

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature).

I have just finished reading an article in the October 6 issue of the Pontiac Press, concerning the fact that Michigan failed to apply to the Office of Defense Mobilization for additional gamma globulin.

As a mother of a four-year-old polio patient I feel I'm entitled to an explanation.

When my boy was exposed to polio by playing with a neighborhood child, I applied for serum, only to be told that it was available only to members of the immediate family. Later, when my child was stricken, other mothers whose children had been doubly exposed, and my baby sitter, were all told the same story.

If the serum was available, why didn't the Health Department apply for it?

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Greet ye one another with a kiss of charity. Peace in Christ Jesus. Amen. I Peter 5:14.

Peace does not mean the end of all our striving;
Joy does not mean the drying of our tears;
Peace is the power that comes to souls arriving
Up to the light where God Himself appears.

Mrs. Leach Asks Person Who Took Pet to Appear

Early one morning this week some one took our family dog from our property. We had always put him in for the night, but just that once we forgot.

How can a parent explain to children what has happened?

If the person who took Sandy will come to our home — they may have his registration papers, license, and vaccination papers. I shall also ask the party to tell two tearful children about their beloved pet.

I just wonder how low some human beings can be. I hope whoever did this deed is justly proud of himself.

Reader Urges Prayers Not Pranks on Oct. 31

Halloween means holy evening, yet many devote Halloween to clowning. There are countless number of skeletons in the crust of the earth who died in wars or at the hands of the murderers.

If there is a skeleton of a loved one in your family who died by human hands I suggest getting into a prayer group on Oct. 31.

She's Okay

A young man advanced nervously towards his girl's father.

"I—I want to marry your daughter," he stuttered.

"What" shouted the irate parent. "Marry my daughter? What on earth do you mean? You . . . ."

King Edward of England Built Famous Westminster Abbey in Honor of Apostle

By CANON HOWARD V. HARPER

All through the Coronation of Elizabeth II last June reference was made to St. Edward or King Edward.

The new Queen sat in King Edward's chair. She wore St. Edward's crown and held St. Edward's staff. And part of the ceremony took place in St. Edward's chapel of Westminster Abbey.

Oct. 13 is St. Edward's Day, in honor of the beloved English king who built the great abbey at Westminster and whose name still figures so prominently in British tradition.

Edward was the last of the Saxon kins of England.

It is hard to account for Edward's reputation as a saint or for his vast popularity in the memory of the English people. He was not even a very good king.

The best explanation is that the people hated their French invaders so much that they looked back to Edward's somewhat feeble reign as "the good old days" and glorified him with many legends that were really not consistent with fact.

Until he was nearly 40 years old Edward was exiled from his native country by King Canute, who had taken the throne away from him. He vowed that if he were ever permitted to return to England and assume his rightful place on the throne he would make a pilgrimage to the tombs of all the Apostles.

In 1042 when he became king, he was released from his vow by Pope Leo IX on condition that he would build an abbey church in honor of the Apostle Peter. The church he built was Westminster Abbey.

He died on Jan. 5, 1066.

Oct. 14, 1644, was the birthday of William Penn, the great Quaker who founded the colony of Pennsylvania. The colony was not named for Penn himself, but for his father, Admiral Sir William Penn.

William Penn came to maturity at a time in English history when religious tolerance was at its lowest. The Protestant rebellion of Oliver Cromwell, which had taken over the government for 20 years, had finally been overcome and the Stuart family was back on the throne.

Everyone wanted to be sure that nothing like Cromwell's uprising could happen again.

The king's son was frankly a Roman Catholic, and people were worried about danger from that direction, too.

As a college student at Oxford young Penn resisted the vigorous campaign to make everyone belong to the Church of England.

While at college Penn joined a new group called the Friends, or "Quakers," and his zeal as a member of this non-conformist society soon led to his expulsion from Oxford.

When in 1672 he had an opportunity to help draft a constitution for the New Jersey colony in America, the first provision he insisted upon was that complete toleration be granted all religions.

In 1681 the king deeded to him a huge tract of land west of the Delaware River and north of the Maryland colony.

Penn had inherited from his famous father a claim of about $80,000 against the government, which the Crown paid off in this way.

He immediately set up on this immense estate a new settlement based on the principle he had found so sadly lacking in England: absolute religious toleration.

Case Records of a Psychologist

'Reversible Why' Will Continue Conversation

Jesus was the world's greatest Applied Psychologist. The "pause and praise" technique which I mention today simply a modern variation of his "other cheek" advice. And Christ was adept at using the "reversible why."

By GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-312: Tom H., aged 37, is a genial salesman.

"Dr. Crane, I like people," he said with a wide grin. "But my wife says I shouldn't be so eager to start conversations with strangers.

"However, I tell her somebody must break the ice. But I got taken down a notch last night.

"I was sitting beside a strange woman as I rode home on the bus. As a means of trying to start conversation, I noticed her wrist watch and asked her if she could tell me the time.

"She replied. 'It's 10 to.' Puzzled, I asked 'Ten to what?'

"Then she pertly said. 'Tend to own business.'

"Well, Dr. Crane, what would you psychologists recommend in a case like that?"

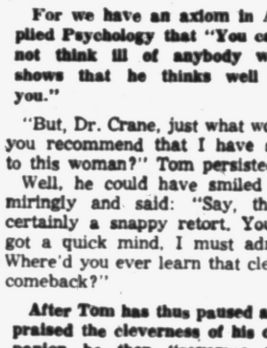

While Tom's dilemma was strictly a social situation, it falls within the familiar category of the critical retort of a sales prospect who wants to show off his superior wisdom or generally be "smart."

In every audience you may also find certain persons who desire to argue with a speaker during the forum following the main address.

This wish for an argument is often motivated by a desire to stand up and show off before the home folks.

The usual type of inquiry from the floor is sincerely motivated and speakers welcome such questions. But here and there a speaker will encounter a smart aleck who will try to get some spotlighting for himself by trying to be "cute."

In Tom's social situation, he might profitably clam up and ignore the woman who so rudely resisted his normal effort to make casual conversation.

But in the typical sales interview when you encounter belligerency or opposition from a prospect, the standard psychological technique to "pause and praise;" then "reverse the why"

This is not an original strategy with us modern psychologists. Jesus gave it to us in his suggestion about turning the other cheek.

It was also intimated in his injunction "If a man compel thee to go with him one mile; go with him two."

By pausing and praising, you undermine the opponent of much of his antagonism. In fact, as you build up his ego with honest praise, he will change his attitude toward you.

For we have an axiom in Applied Psychology that "You cannot think ill of anybody who shows that he thinks well of you."

"But, Dr. Crane, just what would you recommend that I have said to this woman?" Tom persisted.

Well, he could have smiled admiringly and said: "Say, that's certainly a snappy retort. You've got a quick mind, I must admit. Where'd you ever learn that clever comeback?"

After Tom has thus paused and praised the cleverness of his companion he then "reverses the why," which means he throws a question right back at her as a cue to draw her into further conversation.

Maybe the woman was of the old-fashioned school who believes a girl should never converse with a man unless formally introduced.

There are still many women who freeze up if spoken to by a strange man. In their panic, they try to stop further conversation by a rude retort.

But nowadays, it is perfectly proper to be civil and carry on conversation with any travelling companion.

In salesmanship, you should learn how to keep conservation flowing in spite of the other person's initial attempt to shut you up. Socially, do as you like.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3 cent stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover printing and typing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.)

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

We're hep that the twenty-first amendment trumped the eighteenth along about 1933. That's old hattery.

Now, twenty years after repeal it has been ratified unto all the inhabitants thereof. We missed something in our hotel room during the series. The hotels have taken the bottle openers off the door jambs.

Which just about slams the bonnet on the climax. It means that there is no longer any drinking in rooms. The clientele bends the hospitable elbow in the bar. Or takes its happy tonic in the dining room with its meals.

More than thirty years ago I wrote the line, "wine, women and song is now wood alcohol, trained nurses and flee as a bird to the mountains." The last named being Chopin's funeral flaminco.

A World Serjes, a big fight or a Kentucky Derby in the bootlegging solstices was a scenario by Rabelais with illustrations by Hogarth. Each one was a week-long brawl with the police reserves pouring out of the Hudson tubes.

Brady Says If Paint on Sewing Machine Causes Rash, Have Finish Removed

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

THE MAIL BOX

Paint Rash

I have rash on arm from elbow to wrist. Stings, itches and burns. Doctor thinks it is caused by the paint on my machine. It does almost clear up when I quit sewing for a while . . . (Mrs. I. J.)

Answer — Have the paint removed. You can sew as well if the machine has no paint.

Unbidden Guests

Answer — Send 25 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Unbidden Guests. It tells how to deal with many kinds of vermin and parasites.

Adult Tetany

I have terrible foot cramps once or twice a week—have to get out of bed and try to walk . . . (Mrs. E. C.)

Answer — Probably tetany. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet on Adult Tetany and Growing Pains.

Bed-Wetting Habit

Daughter, 10, has wet the bed since she had measles at the age of seven, never before that. She is a lovely child and tries so hard. We tell her it is not her fault . . . (Mrs. C. R. B.)

Answer — Keep it a secret between the child and you. She will regain control if she just keeps trying. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet the Bed-Wetting Habit.

Iodin Ration

Iodin Ration is a daily habit with me. I'm 43, but I look, feel and act like 30. Got a job recently where they have a 35 year age limit, and no questions asked. Good for me, huh? (Alma W.)

Answer — Fine. What are you doing Saturday evening? Every adult and growing child needs a daily ration of iodin, and only a fortunate minority of them get it. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for The Iodin Ration.

Wheat to Eat

Please send me your pamphlet Wheat to Eat in the inclosed stamped, addressed envelope. Do you recommend the Cory electric grinder? (C. K. S.)

Answer — It is probably satisfactory. I am not familiar with it. Hand and power mills for household use are mentioned in the pamphlet.

No Change

I was 47 last month. For three or four years I've been tired and disinclined to do anything or to enjoy the social activities I formerly enjoyed . . . all my friends tell me it is the change of life and it will take seven years . . . (Mrs. L. W.)

Answer — Do they tell you the moon is made of green cheese? In your neck of the woods the food and drinking water are poor in iodine. Probably your trouble is iodin deficiency. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask in writing (no clipping, please) for pamphlet The Iodin Ration — It is food, not medicine. If you'd like also the pamphlet The Menopause, inclose 10 cents in addition. That is, any pamphlet is free, provided you ask for it in writing (no clipping) and inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope. For each additional pamphlet, inclose ten cents.

Young Yet

I agree with you on a number of subjects, but I think if you spent some years in Michigan climate you'd have different ideas about children knowing what to wear or what leave off . . . (Mrs. S. M. C.)

Answer — I spent some years in western New York climate which is nearly as rigorous as Michigan climate. You mean to tell me that Michigan children are little idiots and so they don't really know when they are comfortable? Tush, tush, Mrs. C.

Try It

Your health teachings have been of tremendous benefits to our family. We like your "commonsensicalness." Please send in the stamped, self-addressed envelope inclosed your Somersault pamphlet. I am 70, not athletically inclined, but maybe I could try the morning rolls . . . (Mrs. M. O. G.)

Answer — The pamphlet is on the way, but whether you are 70 or 17 you try rolling at your own peril.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Woman Pleads for Peace Action

Turkish Delegate Urges 32-Nation Conference to Quit Talking

WASHINGTON (AP)—A woman delegate from Turkey shunned diplomatic language today to tell a free world peace conference: Quit talking so much about peace and do something about it.

Mrs. Nazli Tlabar, in a statement prepared for the 42nd conference of the Interparliamentary Union, urged her fellow delegates to translate their good will into "flame and fire."

Only by carrying their beliefs into practical effect and by interpreting the feeling of the common people, she said, "can we ever hope to break the barriers that separate one country from the other."

* * *

Mrs. Tlabar's simply worded speech was in contrast to the more formal debate which featured the opening days of the conference. She said she had cast aside her formal remarks to "speak from the heart."

"Please agree on something and strive to translate it into action in our countries," she demanded.

The conference of representatives from the parliaments and legislative bodies of some 32 free world nations is meeting in the United States for the first time in 25 years. About 350 delegates are attending sessions, to last through next Wednesday, in the House of Representatives chamber.

The international peace organization was welcomed yesterday by President Eisenhower, who told the delegates the future of civilization must be decided at the conference table and not on the battlefield.

Mrs. Tlabar declared she had been "both dismayed and bewildered that the great American press which prized itself on being both the spokesman and the champion of the common man has virtually ignored us."

But she said the fault was as much with the delegates as with the press.

"It is theirs because many of them said to me they didn't know what this was all about. It is ours because we have not given anything to them," she said, adding:

"I know it is not words that people expect from us but deeds. Let us stand up to our obligations and responsibilities."

The Interparliamentary Union is composed of representatives named from the various congresses of most of the world's free nations. While dedicated to peace, it has no formal standing in international relations.

Blasts Rock Flint Oil Storage Plant

FLINT (AP)—Damage was estimated at $50,000 today in a fire and series of explosions which rocked the Standard Oil Co. bulk storage plant here.

Nine pieces of fire-fighting equipment were rushed to the scene when a gasoline tank truck caught fire at the plant late Friday. Three sharp explosions sent flames shooting skyward but no one was reported injured.

Firemen using foam spray kept flames from reaching 10 storage tanks containing huge quantities of gasoline, kerosene and other inflammable liquids. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Promised Land Is Talk Topic

University President Compares Bible Days With Modern Israel

Harvest Home Banquet, a 63-year-old tradition at First Methodist Church, was held Friday evening. This event also marked the 125th anniversary of the organization of the church.

Guest speaker was the Rev. Dr. Evan H. Bergwall, president of Taylor University, Upland, Ind.

Dr. Bergwall spoke on the subject "The Promised Land." He approached his subject from three angles, using the 13th chapter of Numbers as the basis or first angle.

Recalling the Bible account of the Children of Israel's approach to the Promised Land, he compared it to the return of the Jewish People to their homeland in the past few years with the Bible story.

Recently, Dr. Bergwall visited the Near East and spoke of progress that has been made by Jews in the State of Israel. Truly, said he, "They have made the desert to blossom as a rose."

Even as the Promised Land of the Bible was a land of opportunity so in a real sense the State of Israel has become that to the Jewish people of today.

His third thought was that "A Promised Land" was the basic need of society today, a place of opportunity where the soul's hungers may be satisfied.

"Sin is the great giant in this land of promise, and it would crowd the author out of our lives," he suggested.

In his closing remarks, he spoke of how the author of "Human Destiny" says the supreme task of the church has been given by Christ to the Christian, and they must meet this opportunity with any necessary sacrifice.

In the annual presentation of gifts for special repairs and modernizations at the church, approximately $3,700 was given by various organizations and Sunday School classes.

Divorce to End Royal Marriage of Nine Years

PARIS (AP) — The wartime marriage of ex-King Peter II of Yugoslavia and Princess Alexandra of Greece, which received the official blessing of Britain's Prime Minister Churchill when it took place in 1944 was on its way to a divorce court today.

The former monarch filed a request for a divorce here yesterday charging his wife had deserted him to live in Italy. The move had been expected since the couple announced last month they intended to end their nine-year-old marriage.

It was not known when the court might rule on the case.

Peter, who is 30, succeeded his father, Alexander I, when Alexander was assassinated in France in 1935. The young King, then a minor, ruled through a regency until he assumed full powers in March, 1941. When the Nazis invaded Yugoslavia, Peter went into exile. The Yugoslav Assembly dethroned him in November, 1945.

* * *

Since Peter in 1944 was still an exile in Britain with an uncertain future, there was some debate in high Allied quarters whether he should marry. Churchill says in his war memoirs his reaction was the couple should wed in the first registry office they could find. When the ceremony was performed, the late King George VI of Britain was Peter's best man.

The couple have an 8-year-old son, Prince Alexander.

Oldster, 93, Decides Driving Too Hazardous

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — Arthur J. Hastings Sr., 93, of Harwich knows when to quit.

Hastings, involved in a traffic accident in August, promptly sold his car and announced he would never drive again.

The oldster pleaded no contest to dangerous driving charges yesterday and the charge was filed by Judge Gershom D. Hall.

Hal Boyle Says:

Hubby Told That Nagging Demonstrates His Love

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you nagging your wife enough?

Probably not. A husband today often is "the stranger in the house," the man nobody else in the family really knows.

He eats his meals at home, reds the newspaper, pats the children absent-mindedly on the head good, spanks them absent-mindedly on the bottom when she says they've been bad, and brings his paycheck home regularly.

But many wives want more from a husband than this. Although they take him for granted, they don't want him to take them for granted.

They want some sign of love from him, or else they mope and become unhappy.

The smart thing for a husband to do in this case is start nagging his wife immediately, as nagging is the simplest and easiest way to show affection in a marriage.

A wife nags her husband (she says) only because she loves him. So if he doesn't nag her back, is he being fair? Doesn't he want to return her love?

"Why, that's easy," you might say. "Just find out something she did wrong, and pick on her for it."

Wrong, wrong, absolutely wrong! That is the way she may nag you. But you can't do that to her. She will regard it, not as nagging, but as criticism. And what self-respecting woman is going to take criticism from a man?

Nagging that gives a wife an opening to point out your own deficiencies is no good at all. You're too vulnerable.

The best way to nag a woman is indirectly, such as by praising her when she knows she doesn't deserve it. If, for example, she has promised to dust your books during the day and you know she really won't get around to it, the thing to do right after dinner that night is to go up to the undusted shelves, then turn and tell her:

"Gee, honey, the books sure look brighter. I don't know what I'd do without a girl like you."

If you can put exactly the right note of admiration in your voice, you can work this gag nagging act 1,000 times in a row—and leave her with a guilty feeling each time.

In nagging a wife, always try to throw her off balance. Many times you probably have come home late and met this chilling greeting, "Oh, it's you, is it?"

Well, turn it around. Some night when you come home early, hang up your coat and hat, and then, as your wife enters the living room say to her, "Oh! It's you —," letting your voice fall at the end.

"Is there anything wrong with me?" she says, vexed.

"Why, of course not, my pet," you say, and rush over and shower her with kisses. "It's only your imagination."

Now you've really got her puzzled. This is nagging at its peak. She knows at least 100 things wrong with herself, but is mystified as to which ones you have found out.

You have her on the ropes. But don't use this "Oh, it's you—" business on her too often. It wears out fast.

The proper way to nag a wife is to do it in such a manner she absolutely has no comeback. And there's no deep secret to it.

You just let her know you'd do anything for her and that you are wild about her for what she feels are exactly the wrong reasons. That'll keep her in love with you—and off balance forever.

Children's Aid Group Sees Film

UF Movie Shown at Board Meeting Friday in Pontiac

Showing of the new Pontiac Area United Fund films, "The You in United Fund," and monthly reports marked a meeting of the board of directors of Pontiac Branch, Michigan Children's Aid Society, Friday noon.

Miss Oriel Endelman, executive secretary, reported six adoptions were completed during September. The agency added 14 children to its care, making a total of 86.

Miss Endelman announced the agency is now fully staffed with four workers with the addition of Miss Betty Richardson, caseworker, a graduate of Michigan State College.

Miss Richardson, who has worked with children's agencies in Detroit, is entering Wayne University for further graduate work.

The Children's Aid Society, besides arranging for temporary and permanent care of children, investigates complaints of neglect. So many couples have asked to adopt children, that most must wait many months, Miss Endelman said.

State Pilot Bails Out Over Atlantic Ocean

Lt. James R. Gaynier, USNR, of 211 Godfray (cq) Ave., Monroe, was rescued from the sea by a passing tanker.

The Navy said the crash occurred 5 miles southeast of Chincoteague, Va., during preparations for an anti-aircraft firing exercise.

Gaynier said his plane developed engine trouble at 3,000 feet and caught fire at at 2,000 feet. He bailed out at 1,000 feet.

State Hospital Patients Benefit From New Policy of Father Trese

Catholic patients of Pontiac State Hospital may now attend regular Catholic services every week instead of only once a month.

The Rev. John A. Trese, director of Pontiac's Catholic Family Center, is now saying mass each Sunday morning and hearing confessions every Saturday. Father Trese is also acting as counselor to some of the patients.

Originally from Toledo, Ohio, Father Trese studied for the priesthood at Detroit's Sacred Heart Seminary and holds a master's degree in sociology from St. Louis University.

The hospital commented that its 850 Catholic patients "seemed delighted" with the more-frequent services.

THE PRODIGAL SON

Inheriting enough money to put him through medical school, a young man quit college in his third year to get married. His money was spent on a family honeymoon trip and on furniture for their apartment.

He got a job of sorts and soon became so dissatisfied with it that his wife offered to work so he could go back to college, "I've too much pride," he said, "to let a woman support me." And so the matter was dropped.

The war came along and he was drafted. His wife worked while he was away in service; he was able to save money on his own; and when the war was over the GI Bill of Rights made it possible for him to finish his medical course.

But by this time he was so tried of living on military posts that he wanted a home of his own, and gave up the prospects of medical school in favor of buying a house.

Today he is an unhappy, discontented man. He can find no job that suits him. Vocationally he longs for his "first love"—medicine. And he ruefully reflects that he muffed three chances to become a doctor.

A fine, personable fellow, this man is no rake or libertine. He never "wasted his substance in riotous living."

The tragedy of his life is that in the hour of decision, his present desire or pride or hunger for comfort kept him from seeing the path to future fulfilment.

For all his qualities, the man lacked character; for character is the ability to look ahead, and to undertake hardship in the present for the sake of ultimate good.

Highway Maps Guided Tourists to Church Sites

By Religious News Service

DETROIT—Road maps showing the location of every Protestant Episcopal church in Michigan and distributed to automobile clubs and chambers of commerce have brought inquiries from other denominations eager to try the idea.

This was disclosed here by John Chapin, director of promotion for the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan which produced the map in cooperation with the Dioceses of Northern Michigan and Western Michigan. The project was inspired, he said, by a similar map published earlier by the Diocese of Western North Carolina.

The American Automobile Association's 42 branch offices in various parts of Michigan, one of the nation's leading resort areas, kept bundles of the maps on hand throughout the vacation season for distribution to tourists coming into the state.

Confident Living

Understanding Yourself Is Beginning of Happiness

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A Cornell University professor of medicine recently told an audience of Texas doctors that more women are getting ulcers because they are going out and competing with men professionally instead of staying home and having babies.

DR. PEALE

But, on the other hand, women who stay at home have problems too, and, all things considered, the problems of women are not too far removed from those of men.

Some months ago, a young woman consulted me. She was handsome and well-dressed, but her expression was most unpleasant. It seemed to be a gloomy outward reflection of her inward thoughts.

"I've listened to you speak," she said. "Do you really mean that if a person's joints ache, he is doing something wrong?"

"Oh, no," I protested. "I said nothing of the kind. I did say that many people who do wrong ache in their joints."

"You also said," she went on, "that, if a person's stomach hurts, he isn't living the right kind of life."

"No," I repeated, "I did not say that. I said a great many people who are not living the right kind of life have pains in the stomach."

"Well," she said, "I have such pains; yet I lead an upright life. And I'm not happy at all."

Our further conversation brought out that, at thirty-three, she was still living with her parents, who probably dominated her over much and upon whom she seemed quite dependent. She told me that they wouldn't permit her to go out very often because they wanted her to stay home with them.

"Do you love them devotedly?" I asked her.

"Certainly," she answered, a bit too sharply.

"You love them and you hate them, too. Isn't that it?"

"No," she exclaimed with a shocked expression. "I don't hate them. That would be wrong."

I explained to her that curious mixture of love and hate in each of us, known to the psychologists as ambivalence. You may love and hate at the same time. But your hate produces a feeling of guilt which results in a conflict of emotions. This conflict within you can actually produce symptoms of physical distress.

I gave her some advice: "You might as well admit that you resent your parents because they dominate you. Face this fact honestly. Then learn to think of them as lovingly but mistaken people who keep treating you as a child after you have grown up. Be firm with them, in a kindly way. But free yourself from this unhealthy situation by understanding yourself and them."

She learned to cast off infantilism and lead a normal life. I saw her again recently. "My pains are almost gone," she told me, "and I've reached an understanding with my parents. We get along much better now. I'm going out often with a fine young man and I am very happy." I could tell from her glowing face that romance had entered her life.

When the hate-guilt thought pattern cleared up, the physical manifestations ended. Her improved condition grew out of her new understanding of herself and her forceful dealing with her problem.

"Why art thou cast down, O my soul and why art thou disquieted in me?" asks the Bible. Such cast down feelings are often present due to an unclean mess within you—sin, worry, anxiety, hatred. But with common sense and faith, you can find self-understanding and clean all this out of your mind.

The art of understanding yourself is clearly outlined in the pages of your Bible. It tells you how to overcome hatred and resentment, how to be cleansed, how to obtain vital health in body, mind and spirit. Learn its principles for, as a great philosopher said, "Self-understanding is the beginning of knowledge"—and, we might add, the beginning of happiness as well.

N. J. Presbytery Puts Ministers' Salary at $3,600 Minimum

By Religious News Service

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — Ministers of the 42 congregations in the New Brunswick Presbytery were assured an annual salary of at least $3,600, plus manse or living accommodations, when the presbytery adopted that figure as a minimum at its annual meeting here.

(The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. had earlier recommended a minimum figure of $3,000 to its Presbyteries throughout the country. Average cash ministerial salary in the denomination was reported to be $3,470 in 1950.)

The New Brunswick Presbytery also urged that churches provide their pastors with a "reasonable" expense account to cover automobile operation costs, purchase of books and special supplies.

A mandatory assessment of 70 cents a year upon members of all congregations was voted to assure support of the Presbytery's new Home for the Aged at Haddonfield.

Free Methodists to Enter Nation-Wide Contest

Sunday Schools of the Free Methodist Church as a denomination are entering a nation-wide attendance contest being sponsored by Christian Life Magazine. The Rev. Howard C. Artz, pastor of the local church, and G. R. Moran also of First Free Methodist Church are on the board planning the contest.

This church won one of the prizes in the contest for Sunday School attendance two years ago.

Lutheran High School Seen in Washington

By Religious News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Plans for the first Lutheran high school in the nation's capital have been launched here.

A Luther High School Asso. has been formed by members of Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod churches in the Washington area. The denomination now maintains high schools in 13 Midwestern cities.

There are 16 Missouri Synod churches in the capital area with more than 6,000 members. Several of these churches maintain day classes for younger children, but formation of the high school association represents the first step towards the development of a full-fledged elementary and secondary school system.

Catholic Employers Group Hints at Plan for Working Man

By Religious News Service

MEXICO CITY—A "family compensation" plan to supplement inadequate salaries of workers with large families was suggested to a Roman Catholic employers' group here.

It was proposed by Juan Sanchez Navarro, a brewery owner, at the first assembly of the Guadalupan Employers Association. Mr. Navarro is head of the Association's national committee.

"Christianity respects the dignity of the workingman," he said, ". . . and these days it is necessary to find better ways to compensate the worker."

He suggested that instead of profit sharing schemes, workers should be offered "family compensation" in cases where salaries were inadequate. The compensation, he added, should be commensurate with the size of the man's family.

Workers' economic welfare, Mr. Navarro declared, is not the responsibility of the church but of "those who control the economic life—the employers."

Archbishop Guglielmo Piani, Apostolic Delegate to Mexico, presided over the assembly. Association members made a pilgrimage to the Basilica of Guadalupe and attended a Mass said by Archbishop Luis Maria Martinez of Mexico City.

Ex-Ballplayer Will Soon Pitch From the Pulpit

COLUMBIA, S. C. — A former major league baseball pitcher who has been preaching here under license from his local church left for New Orleans to enter formal ministerial training at the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, a Southern Baptist institution.

He is George E. Jeffcoat, one-time hurler for the Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Braves in the National League. His local church is State Street Baptist in nearby Cayce, S. C.

2 Pastors to Trade Pulpits This Sunday

In an exchange of pulpits the Rev. Soterior Gouvellis, pastor at St. George Greek Orthodox Church, will go to the St. Demetrios Greek Orthodox Church in Saginaw on Sunday.

The pastor of that church, the Rev. Gregory Economou, will preach here at 10 a.m. using "What Is in It for Me" for his subject.

He will be accompanied by the choir of 35 voices from his church who will furnish special music.

Church Potato Plan Pays for Roof, Heat

"The church is going too far, mixing business with religion," was the criticism of one farmer in Wirt County, West Virginia, when the Rev. Vairl Winter started his "Lord's Acre" project.

"And what a mixture it was," declares Prof. Ralph A. Felton of Drew Theological Seminary. "Before the 'church potatoes' were planted the county agent analyzed the soil to select the right kind of fertilizer. Certified seed was purchased.

"The potato money re-roofed and re-decorated the church and installed a gas-heating system. The four other churches on the circuit copied the idea.

"The 'Lord's Acre' moved from farm to farm as a demonstration in good agriculture. The farmers soon raised so many potatoes that a marketing agent had to be employed. And he became a Sunday school superintendent.

"The high school boys who raised the potatoes joined the pastor's class in week-day religious education. Seven years have passed and the pastor is still 'mixing business with religion'—successfully."

Men of Christ Church Will Gather on Monday

The Men's Club of Christ Church Cranbrook will hold the first of its fall dinner meetings Monday evening. Dr. Robert K. Burns will be guest speaker.

Dr. Burns is professor of industrial relations at the University of Chicago. He was named one of the 10 top young men in America a few years ago. He has recently made a special study on geriatrics and its relation to religion.

PRESIDENT PRAYS—President Eisenhower and Gov. Alfred Driscoll, of New Jersey, bow their heads in prayer during a meeting of the 6th National Assembly of the United Church Women at Atlantic City, N. J. Later the President told the 5,000 delegates that the American people could prevent a new war only by outracing the Russians in a "wasteful and devastating" contest in the production of atomic and hydrogen bombs.

Local Women Among 100 Attending Church Session

Among the approximately 100 women from Michigan attending the national convention of United Church Women in Atlantic City, N. J., this week are seven women from the local organization.

They are Mrs. J. C. Covert, Mrs. Eva Spears, Mrs. Warren Fowler, Mrs. J. Allen Parker, Mrs. J. A. Rammes, Mrs. W. H. Vann and Mrs. Walter Willson, who is the president.

Mrs. James D. Wyker, president of the general department of United Church Women, and Bishop William C. Martin, president of the National Council, spoke on opening night.

Other noted speakers included President Eisenhower, Nels F. Ferre of Vanderbilt University, and Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert, general secretary of the National Council of Churches of which a total of 10 million Protestant women in this organization are affiliated.

'Aid the Poor' Is Pope's Wish

Aide Says Pontiff Wants Each Catholic to Engage in Service to Needy

By Religious News Service

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Pope Pius XII desires that every individual Catholic "be brought to engage in some work of personal service to Christ's poor," Msgr. Giovanni Battista Montini, Vatican pro-secretary of state, said in a letter read at the 39th annual meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Charities here.

Msgr. Montini's letter, written on behalf of the Pope, was addressed to Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis and emphasized the "eminent importance of volunteer services in the field of Catholic Charities."

"Example and training, in the home and in the school, Msgr. Montini said, "should lead young people to give freely and willingly in later years, not only of their worldly resources, but also of their time, patience and merciful interest, to the less fortunate and afflicted.

"By personal experience to the poor, each of the faithful will come to realize that a new spirit of sacrifice must inspire and penetrate the exercise of charity.

"When there are so many in need, those blessed with greater abundance of this world's goods should do without some less essential needs so that, in the words of the Holy Father's Christmas Message, "no one shall say any more, as once did the man in the Gospel who had been infirm for thirty-eight years, Lord I have no one (Jn.v7)."

Open Conference for Jewish Appeal

A two-day national conference of United Jewish Appeal will mark the high point of a first-phase effort this fall to attain $25,000,000 to finance the welfare and rehabilitation activities of UJA's three constituent agencies, the United Israel Appeal, Joint Distribution Committee and United Service for New Americans.

The conference will open tonight at the Statler Hotel in Cleveland. Irving Kampner of Ogemaw road is local chairman of the fund.

Methodist Hits 'Living Death'

Tells Catholic Group People Over 65 Should Not Be Cast Aside

By Religious News Service

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Delegates attending the 39th annual meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Charities here heard a Methodist welfare official assail the present tendency to consign older citizens to "a living death."

Karl P. Meister, Chicago, executive secretary of the Methodist Board of Hospitals and Homes, reminded the convention of an earlier address by Msgr. John O'Grady of Washington, D. C., the conference's executive secretary, in which he warned, "Don't bury the living."

"Too often that is exactly what has been done, said, I am sorry to say, is being done now," Meister said. "Our modified concepts of living compel many of our 13 million citizens over 65 to live alone or seek life in company with others of their own age. Their loneliness has a deteriorating effect.

"Yet creative life for these senior citizens is possible, and it is our duty to make it so. The opportunity we have, as church people, to create for them a new heart, a new ambition and a new hope is a glorious one. Our Heavenly Father expects us to do it."

Chaplain Quota Finally Filled by Services

By Religious News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C.—For the first time since the opening of the Korea War in June, 1950, the Armed Services have all their chaplaincy vacancies filled.

This was reported to the semi-annual meeting of the General Commission on Chaplains here by the chiefs of Army, Navy ad Air Force chaplains.

In part, the situation can be attributed to a reduction in the armed forces which has cut the number of chaplaincy positions, they said. But they praised the cooperation of the denominations which have conducted successful chaplaincy recruiting programs.

About 25 percent of U. S. food is consumed in public eating establishments.

Low-Salaried Saleswork Can Be Made Profitable

By ANNE HEYWOOD

A letter came in the other day from a woman who asked a very pertinent question.

"Why is the sales field always so underpaid? I want a part-time job selling in a shop, but the salary is simply sickening. I have approached all of our department stores, and got so annoyed that I almost came to blows.

"Yet I like the idea of selling and am quite good at it. They all want me, but they don't want to pay me!"

Probably one of the reasons that the sales field is underpaid is because it so frequently requires a minimum of training and education.

However, the woman with a real gift for selling frequently makes a great deal of money.

This is less apt to be true of the large stores, but even there, other advantages are offered. There is security, for one thing, and, for another, a wide variety of employe benefits is offered in many cases.

Also, you get a healthy discount on many items which you buy, including, in most cases, wearing apparel, household equipment, cosmetics—in short, most of your needed items. This discount has to be considered as part of the remuneration.

In addition, the large shops usually offer a small commission on sales, over and above the salary, and I have known women, even in department stores, who sold a product they greatly believed in, and who piled up their commissions at a very satisfying rate.

However, many times it is a good bet to approach a small shop as Mrs. T. did.

"My life was practically saved," she said, "by a friend who told me of some wonderful non-allergic cosmetics. My skin had always been awful, but after using them, it cleared up like magic.

"Years later, I needed a part-time job and I approached one of the shops in our city which sells that line of cosmetics. I made a deal to work from 1 to 6, five days a week, at a low salary plus a small commission.

"When my sales began to zoom, which they did rapidly, I simply told my employer flatly that I was bringing in so much business that I thought my commission rate should be much higher.

"That is the wonderful thing about knowing you can sell. He knew I was good for business, so he did 'up' my commission. On top of that, I get a nice bonus twice a year."

Girl Regrets Giving Boy Ultimatum

Rues Firm Stand About Lad's Beer Drinking

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I am almost 17 and am not allowed to go out yet, but I go to this dance every Friday night with my dad and mother. One of the boys there dances with me a lot and I've grown to like him very much.

"He's older than I am and he likes to drink beer. I told him once if I ever saw him when he'd been drinking he didn't need to call me up anymore. And last Friday night it happened.

"I told his buddies to tell him not to call me anymore. If I go dancing again and he asks me to dance with him, should I —or would he think I was soft?"

Just one week has passed and you're already regretting the firm stand you took. Already you're hoping his buddies didn't give him your message. Already you're wishing he won't take it seriously, if they did.

Could it be that you've suddenly realized you've no right to make any rules for him? You weren't going steady with him. You weren't even going out with him.

You just danced with him a bit on Friday nights. Hardly reason for trying to reform him.

But what actually was that message of yours? "Don't call me any more." Maybe he has taken it literally. But when he sees you and you smile at him, he may ask you to dance.

You didn't say "don't ask me to dance any more." So why should he think you're soft if you accept? You're not going back on your word. You're giving him an opportunity to explain — you're giving him another chance.

"Dear Miss Woodward: My boy friend is wonderful — but he just must have his own way all the time, no matter what. We spend half our time arguing, and if things don't go just the way he wants them to, he gets mad.

"Last night he wanted to go one place and I wanted to go another and I decided to stick to my guns — so we went out separately. And now I'm afraid I've lost him for good.

"He said it was the end, but I'm wondering what an apology from me would do? Do you think it would help?"

An apology for committing the very same crime you accuse your boy friend of would do no harm at all. Already you've sorry for getting stubborn, insisting on your own way, flaunting your independence in his face.

You've already found out that the only way to keep your boy friend happy is to play along with him. So why not say so?

In most close relationships between boys and girls, the boy takes the lead and it's up to the girl to follow graciously and with good humor. When he's overwhelmingly dominating and "beats her down," the only way is out.

And the dominating girl who lines herself up with a boy who's content to escort her docilely wherever she wants to go finds it too easy — it begins to pall.

The initiative is, after all, in the boy's hands. He's the one who does the coming around, the calling up, the asking for dates, the paying for same. He can turn it all off if his social activities don't suit him.

You, as the girl in the case, can always be busy and avoid the date entirely, if what he suggests doesn't suit you. You can always make counter suggestions (with selling arguments) for doing something you think makes better sense or would be more fun.

Then cheerfully let him make up your minds what to do. Tactfully play up to his masculine ego. Pat his manly pride on the back.

Graciously admit that what you'd like to do can be done some other evening. Assure him that you want what will make him happiest.

Is that being sissy-soft? I think not. It's a smart maneuver to let a boy think he's getting his own way all the time — if you want to keep him coming around all the time.

Petite Women's Ensemble for Afternoon or Evening

One of the more important fashion notes this season is the ensemble — for all occasions. The little dress with its own jacket has been roundly applauded on both sides of the ocean by fashion designers and experts as being the "look" for this fall and winter.

Varden Petite, dedicated to the measurements of little women, likes this dressy version which, with its jacket, is perfect for afternoon; without it, an informal dinner dress of unquestionable distinction.

Chiffon broadcloth is one fabric that would make up particularly beautifully and it is one of the most talked-about fabrics in the Paris collections, where wool for evening was shown again and again.

Velvet, faille or novelty silks (stiff ones) will also work out handsomely.

The contrast is a personal matter but white bridal satin on either the wool or velvet is especially good. For a really effective look, use rhinestone buttons on both jacket and dress.

Bust	Waist	Hips	Sizes
35	26	36 inches	10
36	27	37 inches	12
37½	28½	38½ inches	14
39	30	40 inches	16
40½	31½	41½ inches	18

Size 12 requires 3¼ yards of 54-inch material for the dress and jacket, 1 yard of 39-inch material for contrast, 1½ yards of 39-inch material for lining and 1 yard of 35-inch fabric for interfacing.

To order Pattern 1157, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P. O. Box 535, Dept. 149, G. P. O., New York 1, N. Y. State size. Send $1. Airmail 25 cents extra.

Music Study Contributes To Health

The playing of a musical instrument contributes to the healthful development of the growing child through two channels—the body and the mind.

The very habit of playing an instrument compels him to sit erect. Playing music provides a danger-free form of exercise that stimulates the circulatory, respiratory and muscular systems, and develops strong lungs, nimble fingers, keen eyes and exact hearing. Music has powerful effects in creating the objective mental attitude necessary for physical health.

See Court Fight by Music Camp

Interlochen Protests Locating of Prison Near Famous Site

ANN ARBOR (UP)—Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, founder and director of the National Music Camp at Interlochen, planned court action today to halt construction of a prison labor camp near the internationally known music site.

Maddy, who flew from Florida to fight locating the prison camp only five miles from the music camp, said an injunction may be filed today in Grand Traverse County Circuit Court. He said the writ was being prepared by a Traverse City attorney.

Maddy contends that parents would be reluctant to send their daughters to the music camp "if the state put prison labor gangs within walking distance of it." He received support in his protest from the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs.

State Conservation Director Gerald E. Eddy said there was nothing wrong with the proposed location of the prison camp because it would not be in operation during the music season.

Japs to Import Oil From Iran

Firm to Trade Several Tankers, Freighters for Crude Petroleum

TOKYO (UP) — A five-year contract to import controversial Iranian oil has been signed between the Iranian government and a Japanese oil company, the newspaper Asahi reported today.

The paper quoted director Juro Ishazaki of Daikyo Oil Co. as saying he signed the barter agreement with the Iranian government in August. He returned here recently.

The paper said the Japanese company will exchange several tankers and freighters for Iranian crude oil. The number, price and tonnage of the ships were not revealed.

Asahi also said the Idemitsu Kosan trading firm which imported the first Iranian oil into this country since the war, is negotiating another barter agreement with the Iranian government.

Idemitsu Kosan's earlier purchases of Iranian oil brought a complaint from the Anglo Iranian Oil Co. and the British Foreign Office. The Japanese government announced that no further foreign exchange could be used to import Iranian oil, leading to the present barter attempts. What action the government will take in this matter is not yet known.

The British said that Iran, which nationalized the British-owned oil properties was selling the oil illegally.

2 More Witnesses Talk in Police Probe

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Two more witnesses "are talking" in Philabecause "we have promised to prolice graft, says Dist. Atty. Richardson Dilworth.

The district attorney said he could not identify the informants because "we have promised to protect them."

"When you identify them, you immediately lose a good witness," Dilworth said. "Each time witnesses are identified or scared, it knocks out the bottom and we have to start all over again."

Published reports said one witness has accused three policemen of trying to get him to pay $500, following his arrest as a numbers writer, to stay in the racket.

Meanwhile, six more patrolmen were called in for questioning by Dilworth and Police Commissioner Thomas J. Gibbons yesterday.

Several of the six were reported to have been named by Harry Lowry, an ex-convict who started the probe two weeks ago by telling of alleged payoffs to police.

'5-Cent' Cup of Coffee Soon May Cost Fifteen

CHICAGO (UP)—It looks like the price of a cup of coffee in most Chicago restaurants is going up—to about 15 cents.

Chief factor in the expected boost is the recent wholesale increase of seven to nine cents a pound in the last month, said Donald Kiesau, executive vice president of the Chicago Restaurant Assn. He also cited more pay for labor. Most restaurants now charge from 10 to 12 cents for a cup of coffee which 10 years ago cost a nickel.

Chiang Displays Military Might

Nationalists Celebrate Independence With Big Parade

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China celebrated its double tenth independence day today with a flag-starred show of its reviving military power.

The crack 52nd Army and other military units goose-stepped in review before President Chiang Kai-Shek and other Nationalist and foreign officials this morning.

Those present on the reviewing stand included a group of 14 Pentagon officers headed by Maj. Gen. F. H. Lanahen, and Wayne E. Richards, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

In the afternoon, a throng estimated by police at more than 100,000, cheered Chiang and Mag. Gen. William C. Chase, head of the U. S. Military Assistance, Group (MAG), at a rally in front of Nationalist headquarters.

Chase told the spectators:

"During the past year you have traveled far along the road back (to the mainland)."

Chase, who has trained Nationalist armed forces, said they have reached "a high degree of strength" which "must be sobering to our enemies."

He also said he has "reason to believe that within the next few months much more fighting equipment will arrive. . ."

Chiang predicted in a message on the eve of double tenth (10th day of the 10th month) that developing weaknesses in Red China "such as physical and spiritual exhaustion" is making her vulnerable to invasion.

He predicted that the Communists would collapse quickly whenever the Nationalists invade the mainland, but gave no hint when the attack would come.

MOGAMBO—Ava Gardner is a Broadway night club singer who had expected to go on a safari with a Maharajah she met in Paris. However, she decides to forego civilization and become a jungle girl when she discovers Clark Gable, a white hunter in Africa. Scene is from the forthcoming "Mogambo."

Can Television Keep Offering Good Shows?

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—During the past two weeks, television has brought out its big guns in the battle for the public's attention. Now the fight begins.

The movie industry, which is fighting for its future, must face an imposing array of opponents on the home screen. The question is: Can movies offer enough exciting attractions to combat all that free entertainment? We shall see.

Meanwhile, here are some sideline observations on the TV debuts . . . "I Love Lucy" bowed in Monday with a show that wasn't as surefire as usual. However, it was like greeting old friends to see Rick and Lucy, Fred and Ethel again. They'll pick up their stride. . .

Most promising of the new shows: Danny Thomas' "Make Room for Daddy." It's overloaded with sentiment, but Thomas dishes it up palatably. . .

Smartest opener: "Letters to Loretta." The premise is rather lame, but Miss Young looks like a debutante and acts like a dream . . . Paul Hartman ("Pride of the Family") could be one of TV's top clowns, but his scripts will have to become less obvious. . .

After all the announced changes, "Your Show of Shows" looks the same as ever — and that ain't bad. But all those commercials are enough to scare any viewer away. . .

Martha Raye's beginning show was a screamer. No gal is more consistently funny, and few males. . . Few shows wear as well week after week than "Mister Peepers." A perfect cast. . .

Man who rises above his material: Red Buttons. Ditto Jackie Gleason. Both deserve better from their writers. The Milton Berle Show is improved about 1,000 per cent over his old variety format. . .

Bravest man in TV: Dennis Day, who allowed his program to appear at the same time as "I Love Lucy" . . . Second bravest: Red Skelton, who is on opposite Berle, Bob Hope and Bishop Sheen. The Skelton offering is greatly improved. His African hunter routine this week was a gem. . .

Maybe Jack Webb has let all the kidding get under his skin. Anyway, "Dragnet" seems to have dropped its style of letting people talk like people instead of actors. Don't kill the golden goose, Jackson. . . . Marie Wilson and Donald McBride make "My Friend Irma" a lot of fun. . .

Nearly all these shows are welcome in the living room now. But how will they seem next spring? Few will be able to bear the weekly repetition.

Fined-Hunters List Includes UM Dean

FLAT ROCK (UP)—Flat Rock Justice Court records revealed today that Dr. Albert C. Furstenberg, dean of the University of Michigan College of Medicine, was among 10 hunters who paid a total of $1,708 in fines for exceeding the daily duck limit.

The 10, whose names were not released at the time, were fined Oct. 2 by Justice John F. Langs of Flat Rock. Conservation officers said the hunters had 62 ducks in their possession, well over the limit of four per man.

Court records showed Furstenberg was fined $100 plus $7.80 in costs, although the other hunters testified he had not exceeded the limit. A fellow hunter, Charles L. Wood of Monroe, said Furstenberg had not shot more than four ducks and was a "victim of circumstances."

Albuquerque's Irish Cop Soon to Be U. S. Citizen

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—After more than two years, the Albuquerque Police Department is losing its only genuine Irish cop.

A native of Castletown Bere, Ireland, Patrolman Daniel O'Neill, 34, is due to take the naturalization oath as a citizen of the United States in mid-November.

He'll continue on the force as an Irish-American.

PHS Win Streak Ends Abruptly at Flint

By BILL MARTIN

Flint Central took full advantage of "breaks" Friday night to topple Pontiac High from the dwindling ranks of Michigan's undefeated Class A teams, 22-7, in a loosely-played contest at Flint's Atwood Stadium.

Defending Saginaw Valley League champion Bay City Central rolled over Saginaw, 27-0, in the night's only other conference game, while Arthur Hill upset previously-unbeaten Alpena, 19-2, outside the league. Bay City, still unscored on after four starts, is Pontiac's opponent next Friday.

Indians capitalized on an intercepted pass, a blocked punt and the recovery of a Pontiac fumble to score three 2nd-quarter touchdowns and erase an earlier 7-0 lead held by the Chiefs. Pontiac never recovered from the stunning onslaught, and Flint iced the victory with a safety in the 3rd period.

Pontiac drove to its only touchdown late in the opening quarter, after halfback Walt Poe recovered an Indian fumble on Central's 33-yard line. A 21-yard pass, Dick Ayling to Poe, gave the Chiefs a 1st down on the three, but Dick Bacon fell on a PHS bobble on the next play to momentarily end the threat.

Central's Herman Windom fumbled on the following play, and guard Ed Shaw downed the ball in the end zone for the score. Bill Rose converted to give Pontiac a 7-0 lead at 12 seconds of the 2nd period.

Indians tied the count a few minutes later, when linebacker Gene Crowder intercepted Jimmy Williams' pass and raced 30 yards to score. Ron Parker kicked his 1st of two conversions to knot the count.

End Joe Quarles blocked Kirk Hobolth's punt to set up Flint's next score. The ball rolled 32 yards back to Pontiac's three, and Windom cracked over to make it 13-7. Guard Frank Heid's recovery of Williams' fumble on the PHS 44 started Central on its final TD march.

Towering end Larry Catlin outreached three Pontiac defenders to take a 21-yard end zone pass from quarterback Larry Horde and Parker booted the extra point to give the Tribe a 20-7 halftime advantage.

Safety came late in the 3rd period, with Heid downing Homer Harrison behind the goal line after Pontiac had halted a Central thrust. Flint scored once more in the final on a 47-yard run by Charles Thrash, but a clipping penalty nullified the touchdown.

Houston Visitors Rip Detroit Defenses, Spoil Hosts MV Opener

DETROIT (AP) — Houston's once victory-hungry Cougars headed back to Texas today a happy crew, having gobbled up the University of Detroit, 25-19, in opening defense of their Missouri Valley football championship.

Cougars, beaten by Texas and tied by Texas A & M., blasted Detroit's hitherto tight rushing defense for 282 yards, with sophomore Don Hargrove running up 199 of them in just 10 carries.

In three previous games the Titans had yielded only 93 yards rushing to top the nation in ground defense.

Hargrove raced 80 yards for Houston's first touchdown and set up the second with a 64-yard dash. In all he got 169 of his yards in the first half, helping Houston to an 18-13 edge. He was rested most of the second half, carrying only four times for 30 yards.

Detroit, with a 2-1 record going into the Missouri Valley opener, tried desperately to rally in the final period. Ed Gornak scored on a 14-yard end run, but a pass interception cut off a second Titan drive in the closing minutes.

Ken Stegall scored Houston's second touchdown on a four-yard smash, and Bob Dorsey got the third on a 28-yard pass from Donnie Dietrich. Newton Shows burst two yards up the middle for what proved to be the winning score in the third period.

Halfback Jim O'Leary got Detroit off in front with a 29-yard touchdown gallop, but Houston scored three times before the Titans got their second score on quarterback Dave Kline's nine-yard keep-play four minutes before the half ended.

Detroit, while completing 11 of 27 passes, lost four aerials by interceptions, one of which led to a Houston touchdown and one of which stopped a Titan drive. Houston completed one of the four it threw and lost one by interception.

Moore Is Easy Foe for Troy

That's what co-manager George Winn said after his Willie Troy stopped rubbery Terry Moore of Baltimore in 2:49 of the 7th round of a telecast bout at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

It was no contest as the power-punching 21-year-old Washington D.C., middleweight score his 22nd victory and 16th knockout. A knock-out loss to Holly Mims is the only blot on his record.

Next in line for Willie is either Randy Sandy or the winner of the Oct. 23 Garden fight between Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez and Pierre Langlois. Chicago or St. Louis probably will get Troy's next fight.

Sandy was to have been Troy's opponent last night but he withdrew Tuesday with a bad eye and Moore filled in on four-days notice.

Keego Bursts Holly Bubble

By JACK SAYLOR

All good things must come to an end, but Holly High School football fans are sorry the axiom had to include the Broncos' winning streak.

Keego Harbor won a rough, tough 19-13 decision at Holly Friday night, marking the first loss for Reece Protz' eleven since Oct. 26, 1951.

Holly's loss left Oakland County without an undefeated, untied team, as Pontiac High lost to Flint Central, 22-7. Keego now is the county's only unbeaten team, and it has been tied.

In other games, Van Dyke became the Inter-Lakes favorite by routing Waterford, 26-6. Fred Burnard's field goal in the last four minutes gave Troy a 15-13 triumph over Roseville, ending a three-year winning streak in conference play for the Wildcats.

Berkley drubbed Walled Lake, 32-0, and Southfield stopped Farmington, 7-0. Rochester took a 13-0 victory over Utica, Oxford and Lapeer battled to a 7-7 tie and Lake Orion nipped Romeo, 19-14.

Clarkston suffered a 2nd half letdown, but held on to keep a 21-16 decision over Milford, while Northville barely stayed unbeaten by edging Clarenceville, 20-19.

At Holly, five players were ejected in the bruising Wayne-Oakland showdown. Holly took Smith's 15-yard run, but a fumble a first quarter lead on Dick set up the equalizer in the 2nd period.

Dennis Singleton scored for Keego and later in the quarter Jerry O'Shaunghnessy punched over from the one. Keego made it 19-6 in the 3rd quarter when end John Webber scored on a 21-yard "statue of liberty" play.

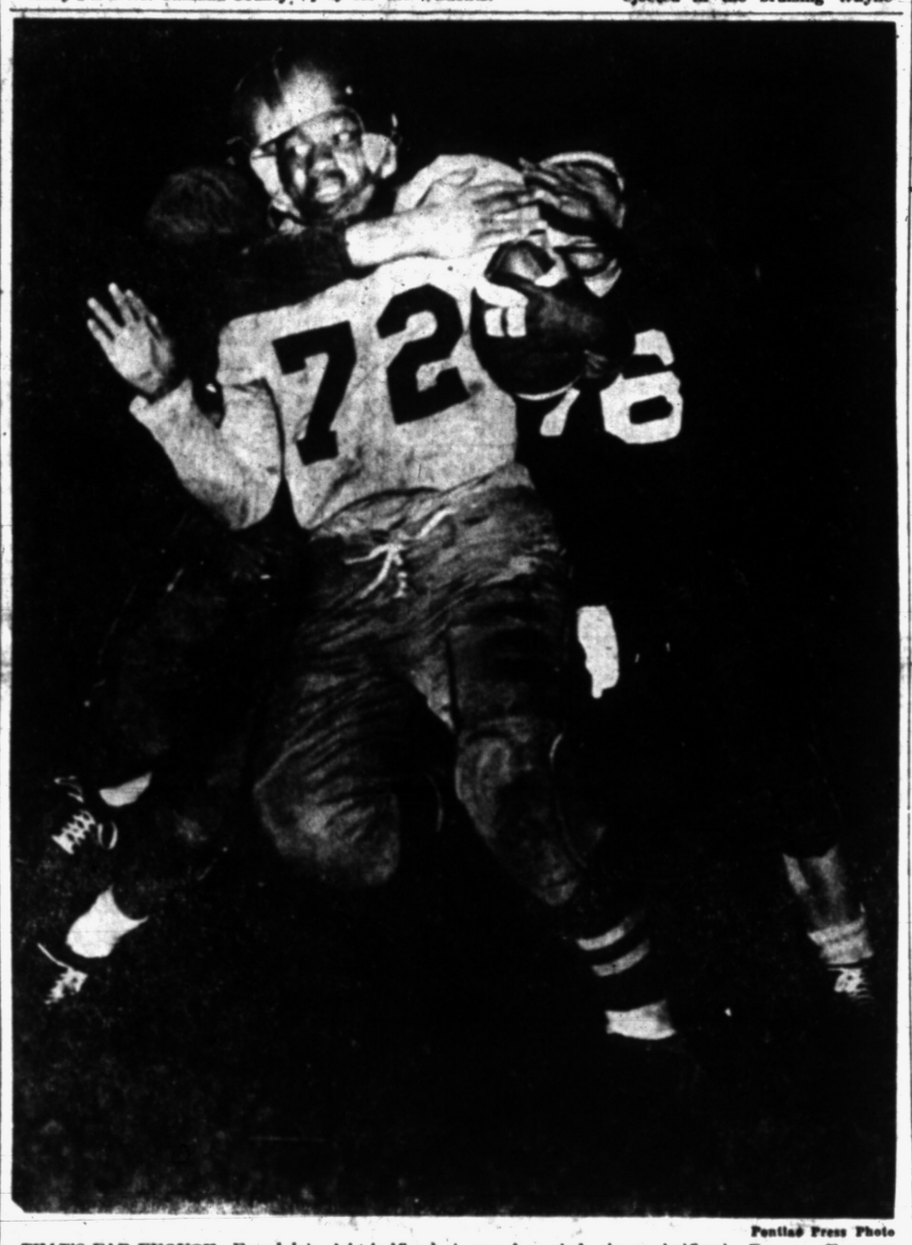

Holly came back in the last period and drove for one TD, scored by Laurel Conklin, and marched back to the 11, but an intercepted pass halted the drive.

Kerry Keating sprinted 51 yards to give Waterford a brief 6-0 lead at Van Dyke, but Johnny Malone took charge after that and it was all Van Dyke. He scored one himself and passed for two other tallies.

Buzz DeBaene and Jerry LeBarre sparked Rochester's win. DeBaene, a tackle, scored one TD going 40 yards with a fumble.

Roseville spotted Troy an early touchdown, but held a 13-12 lead until late in the 4th quarter. Then big Fred Burnard booted a 29-yard field goal to give Troy a great 15-13 win.

Lake Orion put on scoring drives of 50, 60 and 65 yards in the last 18 minutes to pull a win over Romeo out of the fire. A Lamar Nalley to Larry Meyer pass and Nalley's run for the conversion in the last 30 seconds saved Northville's verdict over Clarenceville.

Birmingham Levels EML Record With 7-6 Victory

Birmingham High School marked up its second win in three games Friday night with a 7-6 victory over Ferndale at Pierce Field. The win evened the Maples' Eastern Michigan League record at 1-1.

For Ferndale, it was the third loss in four game.

Scoring for both teams was confined to the last three minutes of the first half. Kenny Brown capped a steady Ferndale march by scoring from the three-yard line, but Tom Turner missed the extra point attempt.

Dave Allen, Maples' game captain, took the subsequent kick-off on his own 32 and raced to the Ferndale 37. A 15-yard penalty against the 'Dales took the ball to the 22.

Allen picked up three and one pass was no good. Then Jerry Wedge faded to pass, was trapped, but escaped and hit Chris Christie in the end zone for the touchdown. Bill Watkinson added the game-winning extra point.

Game was preserved by some stout defensive work. Dales drove to the 15 in the first quarter, but lost the ball on downs. In the fading moments of the last period, Ferndale gained a first down on the eight.

One play carried to the five, then Christie intercepted a 'Dale pass to end the threat just before the game ended.

Inter-Lake Harriers Battle in 2 Meets

Two Inter-Lakes Conference cross country meets were held Thursday afternoon at Walled Lake and Waterford.

At WL, Rollie Langerman's Vikings won their fourth straight meet, defeating Farmington, 19-36. Don Pounds was only a half-second off the school record as he finished first in 10 minutes, 33.5 seconds for the two miles.

Gerald Avery and Dave Harrington finished 2-3, both bettering 11 minutes.

Southfield edged Waterford, 26-29, in the first meet in the history of both schools. Jack Low and David Danes took first and second for Southfield. Jack Swindeman led Waterford with a third-place finish.

Browns Hosting Eagles in First Home Contest

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Browns, who won their first two games without showing their running attack, play their first home game tonight, against Philadelphia's hot-or-cold Eagles.

Fisher Wins 'Double'

JACKSON (AP) — Sport Fisher drove Golden Willow and Happy Siskiyou to victory in the first and second races at Jackson Raceway last night to take both ends of the daily double. The double paid $43.20.

Bruins Unbeaten; Rugged Card Today

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—UCLA, one of the powers on the Pacific Coast—if not the power—had another scalp dangling on its belt today, but it wasn't an easy one to come by.

The UCLANs whipped Wisconsin in a major intersectional clash last night, 13-10, scoring one touchdown in the first period and another in the third. Paul Cameron went over for the first score after recovering a fumble on the 24 and Bob Davenport tallied the other carrying from the two after Cameron had started a drive with a 22-yard run.

In Dallas, Southern Methodist, two-point loser to Georgia Tech last week, coasted to a 20-7 victory over Missouri.

Houston opened its Missouri Valley Conference schedule with a 25-19 triumph over Detroit with sophomore Don Hargrove picking up 199 yards in 10 carries against the vaunted Detroit defenses.

Held scoreless in the first half, Miami burst forth with six touchdowns in the second session to ruin Clemson, its Orange Bowl rival in 1952 and Gator Bowl opponent in 1953, 39-13.

Ohio State and Michigan, the two teams that are expected to make things hot for Michigan State in the Big 10 race, have assignments that could make them sweat.

The Buckeyes meet Illinois, which has a tie and a victory on its slate. The Illini have a speedy attack, the kind that could make things difficult.

The top game in the South sends Auburn (2-0) against Mississippi State (3-0 with State and Jackie Parker favored by seven points. In another big Dixie clash, Maryland is 14 points over Georgia, Duke entertains Purdue.

State's Biggest College Football Day on Schedule

By UNITED PRESS

Biggest college football day of the young 1953 season dawned in Michigan today with the state's two Big Ten powers both playing at home and 10 smaller schools strutting their stuff inside the Wolverine gridiron stronghold.

Only Michigan elevens venturing out-of-state were Wayne, Northern Michigan and Michigan Normal.

Highlighting the home card were the tussles at Ann Arbor and East Lansing. Michigan, victorious in a pair of non-conference games, opened its Big Ten campaign against Iowa while Michigan State, with two conference triumphs already posted, met upset-minded Texas Christian in its first Macklin stadium appearance of the season.

Spotlight was trained on conference clashes among the state's lesser powers, six of whom squared off for MIAA games. It was defending champion Albion invading Kalamazoo, Hope at Adrian and Alma at Hillsdale.

Western Michgan was the definite underdog against Miami, O., in its first home game. Normal carried an 18-point pre-game edge as it traveled to meet Eastern Illinois in an interstate conference game. Other two out-of-state contests involved Wayne at Washington (Mo.) University and Northern Michigan versus Ohio Northern.

Completing the Saturday card were Great Lakes at Central Michigan, Bluffton, (O.) at Olivet and Ferris Institute at Michigan Tech.

SMU Running Game Tramples Missouri

DALLAS (AP) — A Southern Methodist team that stayed on the ground most of the time — a startling contrast with SMU outfits of the past few years — hammered Missouri 20-7 in its home debut last night.

Demarcos (No Relation) Battle in TV Contest

BOSTON (AP)—The unrelated lightweight Demarcos, young Tony of Boston, and veteran Paddy of Brooklyn, will provide a 10-round boxing bout for a national television audience tonight at Mechanics Building.

The bout will be telecast by ABC at 9 p.m. (EST).

The veteran performer for the Detroit Lions in the NFL is Vince Bannois who has played eight years in the league.

49ers to Draw Sellout Crowd

San Francisco Defense Isn't Figured Strong Enough for Lions

By Press Wire Service

A sellout crowd is expected to fill Briggs Stadium Sunday, when the San Francisco 49ers come to town to test the world champion Detroit Lions.

Lions have played like anything but champions against the 49ers in recent years. Since 1950, the West Coast eleven has whipped Detroit five times, including twice last year by 17-3 and 29-0 scores.

But some of the boys say the San Francisco defense is not powerful enough this time to halt the running of Doak Walker and Bobby Hoernschemeyer and the passing of Bobby Lane.

Coach Buddy Parker figures the Lions will have to stop Joe Perry and Hugh McElhenny to win. They were instrumental in the 49ers' 31-30 comeback victory over the Rams last Sunday.

Seven-thousand bleacher seats will go on sale at noon Sunday. After those are gone, there will be some standing room tickets available.

Averaged 4.6 Yards

Ted Kress, Michigan's ace tailback, averaged 4.6 yards per running play last season, threw four scoring passes and scored six touchdowns.

Shamrocks lost the services of reserve end John Adams for the season when he fractured his collarbone in Thursday's scrimmage. Coach Bob Mineweaser plans to start the same lineup that last weekend trounced Royal Oak St. Mary, 20-0.

Cameron Stars

UCLA Hands Badgers First Setback, 13-0

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA Bruins remained in the ranks of the nation's unbeaten football teams today and sent Wisconsin tumbling into the rolls of one-time losers.

The Pacific Coast Conference hung a 13-0 score on the visitors from Madison, the second triumph in two seasons, but the game left a lot of the huge crowd of 69,161 limp with unexcitement last night.

Halfback Paul Cameron emerged as the main star of the affair, scoring one touchdown and leading the Bruins to the other. Big Paul gained 75 yards rushing and 45 passing. But the evening's longest run from scrimmage, 22 yards by cameron, was hardly enough to send the fans into hysterics.

Alan (The Horse) Ameche, Wisconsin's fullback, was successfully checked by the aggressive UCLA defense. Ameche got off one burst for 16 yards but his net was a mere 45 yards. However, The Horse drew praises as one of the best defensive men on the field.

UCLA coach Red Sanders, happy to beat the Badgers or any Big Ten team, pegged Wisconsin's weakness perfectly. The visitors missed Jim Haluksa, the No. 1 quarterback who is lost for the season with a broken leg.

UCLA now has victories over Oregon State, Kansas, Oregon and Wisconsin and meets Stanford next week at Palo Alto.

Coach Ivy Williamson's team showed flashes of fire but the Badgers could never mount a sustained drive. They missed one scoring opportunity right off the bat when Clarence Stensby intercepted a Cameron pass on the UCLA 29.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Early reports coming to this desk indicate that one of the chief beneficiaries of the return to old style football is the talented sophomore who had not yet been too thoroughly indoctrinated in the two platoon system as to make him unpliable.

The kids we are hearing about, in other words, learn fast how to tackle and take care of other defensive chores if they entered college primarily as offensive stars, while if they were defensive stalwarts in the original scouting reports they take quickly to opening up holes for their ball-carriers.

* * *

This is the more noticeable, say the dispatches, because numerous returning veterans who figured to continue to star are finding their places taken in the headlines by newcomers who hadn't been heard of up to a few Saturday's back. Here is a far from complete list of such sophomores who are finding the one platoon to their liking:

Tony Branoff and Lou Baldacci of Michigan, a pair of backs who stood out in the Wolverines' crushing victories over Washington and Tulane. Baldacci calls the signals and is a 210-pound linebacker on defense.

Don Shea, Georgia guard, who had the critics raving over his all-around play in victories over Villanova and Tulane and in the Bulldogs' loss to the Texas Aggies.

Royce Flippin, Princeton halfback who passed the Tigers to a thrilling 20-19 triumph over Columbia with a winning peg in the last 22 seconds.

Sandy Lederman, Washington quarterback who as of this writing is leading the nation's passers in total yardage.

Bart Starr, Alabama's new field general whose superb passing defeated Vanderbilt. He completed nine of 18 passes for a total of 182 yards and two touchdowns.

J. C. Caroline, Negro halfback who promises to do much to keep Illinois in the race for the Big 10 championship. Going into today's games he stood fifth nationally in rushing yardage. In the Illini's 33-21 victory over Stamford he gained 133 yards in 19 carries.

Bob Bartholomew, Wake Forest tackle who is being touted as one of the real finds of the young season.

background for LIVING

COMPACT PLAN — Modern living combines with economy in this compact plan for a brick veneer house with low pitched roof. Including three bedrooms, the house is designed in a simple rectangle to keep building costs at a minimum. Basement stairs enclosed by decorative glass add to the feeling of open planning, yet they can be easily omitted in basementless construction. This is plan H-237-P by the Homograf Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Road, East Detroit, Mich. The house covers 1013 square feet..

Further information and blueprints available from architect.

Result: Ideal Dwelling

'Guinea Pig' Family Tests Six Houses in Six Months

An Illinois family served as "guinea pigs," for home planning experiments, living in six different houses in six months. By keeping a daily chart of their activities and how much each room was used, they came up with some interesting facts.

An electric eye counted the number of times passageways were used. The lady of the house wore a pedometer to check the number of steps.

The result was an ideal house which for $13,000 gave about twice as much as most houses costing much more.

A long, low ranch-style home with three bedrooms, it has seven big closets, an entrance hall and a big kitchen. The living room faces the back.

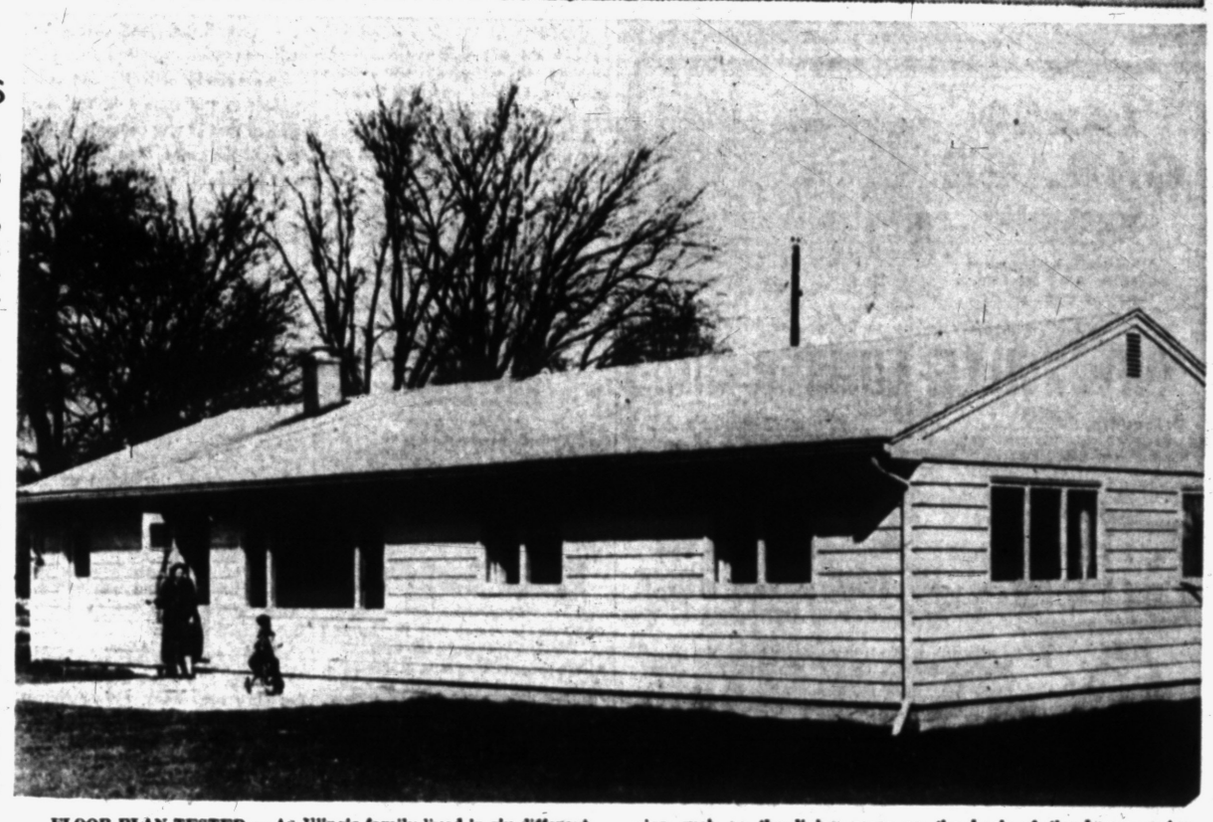

A sensible feature the family adopted was to leave room for expansion. For example, the kitchen is 13x15 feet and only one wall is fitted with cabinets.

Another feature that should be starred is the use of folding doors in entrances from the hall to the kitchen and from the kitchen to the living room. They take less space and cause fewer accidents than ordinary doors which racing children can push open at the wrong moment, such as when you're holding a tray full of food.

The large combination bedroom-playroom is another flexible feature, but each child has his own room, resulting in fewer disputes and better rest periods.

After trying several different spots in the houses for the washing machine, they settled for a washer hooked up in the modern garage. During inclement weather, the clothes are hung out there to dry.

The kitchen is not a happy location for the washer, they proved, because it disturbs the rest of the kitchen routine. They tried the bathroom, including both washer and dryer, but rejected this because it made a regular workshop out of the room.

FLOOR PLAN TESTED — An Illinois family lived in six different houses in six months to find the most livable floor plan. Their "guinea pig" project proved some interesting facts in house design such as the living room on the back of the house, extra large closets and combination bedroom and playrooms for children. Flexibility of plan allows for family expansion in the house.

College Extension Service Offers Real Estate Class

ANN ARBOR — Classes in the statewide program leading to a certifiate in real estate are being offered by the University of Michigan Extension Service in 13 state communities this fall.

It is expected that enrollments in these courses will total about 2,000 for 1953-54, says Charles H. Sill, program coordinator.

Classes are to be held in Adrian, Ann Arbor, Benton Harbor, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Lincoln Park, Muskegon, Royal Oak and Saginaw.

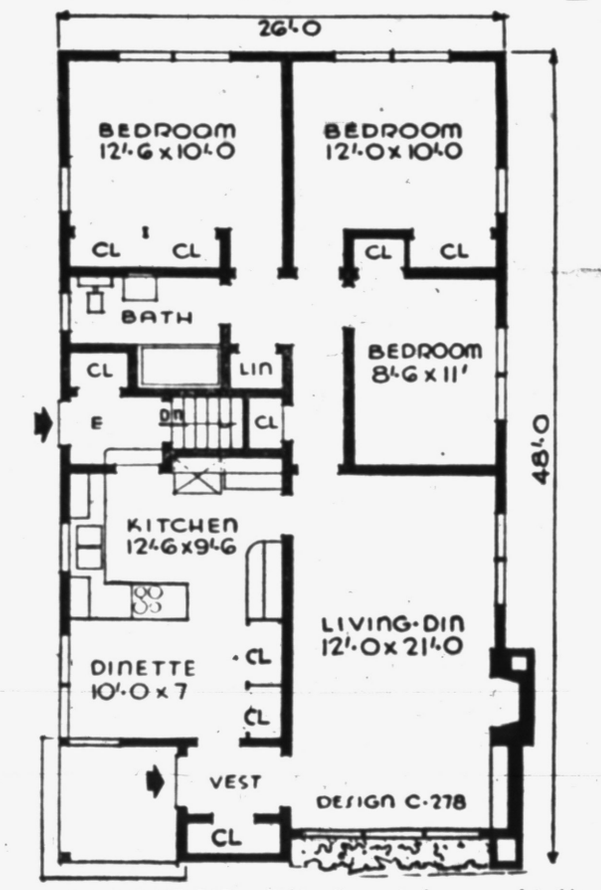

In each city, the courses are presented with the cooperation of the local real estate board or association. The program also has the cooperation of the Michigan Real Estate Association.

Mirrors Behind Shelf Help Flower Display

One decorating use for mirrors is to place them upon and behind a shelf used for cut flowers or potted plants to double the green, outdoors appearance and allow both the front and back arrangement to be seen.

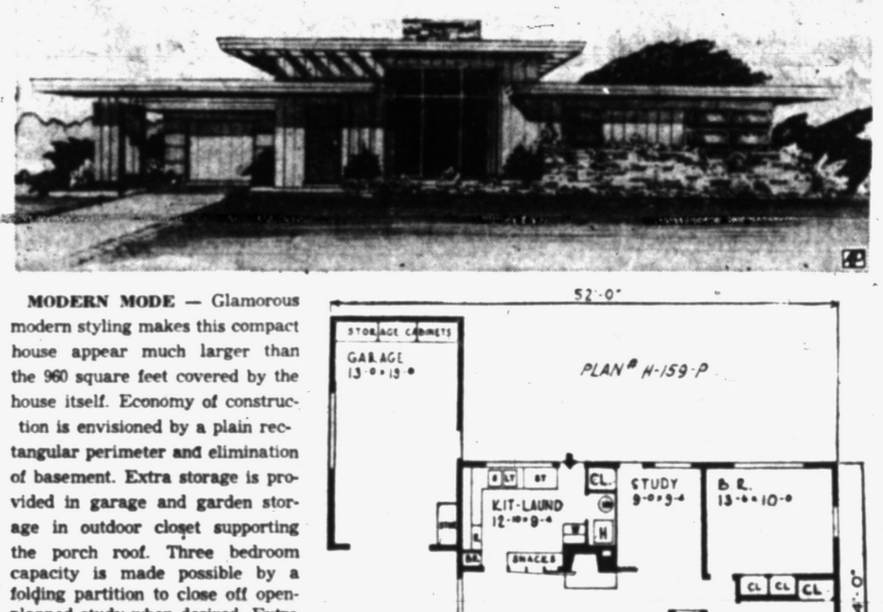

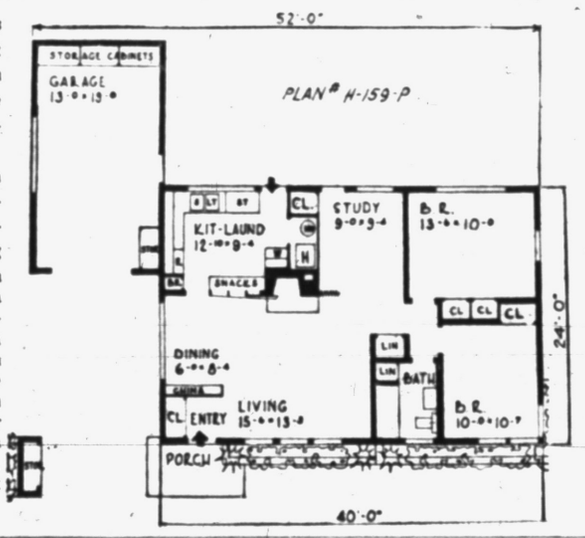

FOR A NARROW LOT — Making the most of a narrow lot, this plan offers all of the advantages of the so-called ranch house layout with only 26 feet of width. Front and side vestibules, each with coat closet and access to kitchen from each entrance are among features. Basement stairs are well planned for deliveries. This is Plan C-278 by the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn. The house covers 1,199 square feet and contains 22,421 cubic feet.

Further information and plans available from architect.

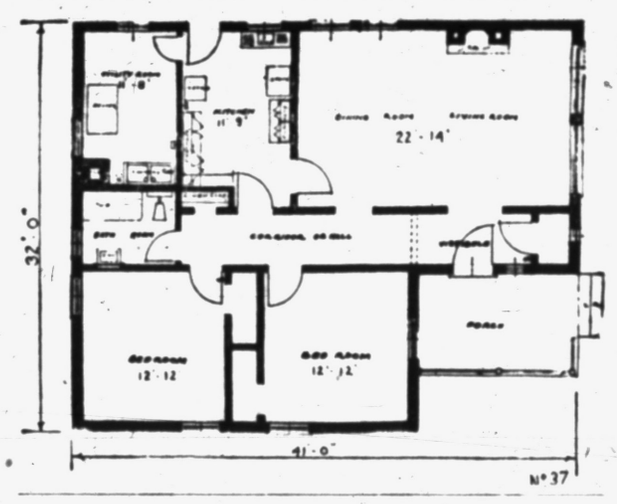

MODERN MODE — Glamorous modern styling makes this compact house appear much larger than the 960 square feet covered by the house itself. Economy of construction is envisioned by a plain rectangular perimeter and elimination of basement. Extra storage is provided in garage and garden storage in outdoor closet supporting the porch roof. Three bedroom capacity is made possible by a folding partition to close off open-planned study when desired. Extra ceiling height for living room creates an interesting break in the roof line. Large window areas in all rooms are a feature. Heater room is off the kitchen. This is Plan H-159-P by the Homograf Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Road, East Detroit, Mich.

Compact House Is Well Planned

Square-Type Home on One Floor Should Be Economical to Build

This small two-bedroom home is very distinctive and unusually well planned. The architect has designed the exterior of brick veneer with horizontal wood siding in the gable ends. It is of square type construction and all on one floor, and therefore should be exceptionally economical to build.

There is a front porch with a pleasing rail around the outside walls. You enter through a protected front door, and to your right is a clothes closet, and directly ahead, the living room.

The living room has a picture window along one side and a natural fireplace on the other side. The dining area is combined with the living room, and there are two other large windows opening into this part of the room.

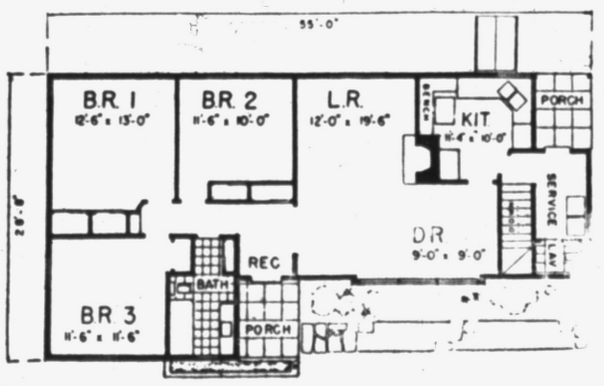

The kitchen is directly off from the dining space and shows an exceptional amount of good planning. The sink has a window over it with a shelf underneath for potted plants, and there are work spaces on both sides of this sink. There are cabinets and other work areas along both walls.

The service entrance goes directly from the corner of this kitchen to the outside or to the utility room where there is ample room for a gas or oil furnace, laundry tubs and other automatic laundry equipment. Two windows furnish light and ventilation to this area.

There is a corridor or hall running along the dining-living room area, which could be eliminated if the owner desired to enlarge this room. Off this hallway is a large bathroom and linen closet, both of which are easily accessible to all areas of the home.

If you like this home, complete building blueprints and specifications are available. Further information can be obtained from the Scale Model Home Planning Co., 1414 N. Woodward Ave., Royal Oak.

PRACTICAL PLAN — Offering the features wanted by most home-buying families today, this three-bedroom, ranch-style dwelling is Plan 709 of Walter T. Anicka, architect, 617 Forest, Ann Arbor.

Exterior treatment consists of horizontal siding with vertically lined material on gable ends. This decorative effect is continued by emphasis of the vertical members in window and door framing. The roof is of colorful asphalt shingles. The architect recommends pastel roofing to attract the eye and make the house seem taller. Wide roof overhangs shade windows from summer sun.

The three bedrooms are grouped separately from living quarters. The combination living room-dining area is spacious. A separate service room, opening off the kitchen, is an "extra" not usually found in a home of this size.

Overall dimensions are 55 feet by 28 feet 8 inches. Floor area is 1,250 square feet, a figure useful in making preliminary cost estimates. A garage, not illustrated, is optional. It would be attached to the kitchen end of the house.

State Home Ownership Leads U. S. in Per Cent

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The State of Michigan percentage-wise leads the entire United States in home ownership, and Oakland County boasts a higher percentage of owner-occupied dwellings than the Michigan average of 67.5.

Detailed county tabulations on the 1950 housing census just published by the Department of Commerce show that of a total of 109,239 occupied dwelling units of all types in Oakland County, 77.8 per cent were owner occupied. The national average is 55 per cent.

Total number of families in the county at that time was 101,305.

All of Michigan's 83 counties report better than the 55 per cent average and 78 counties show better than the all-Michigan average of 67.5.

Newaygo County leads the state with 94.1 per cent owner occupied.

Oakland County's breakdown of figures shows that there was only 1.6 per cent of habitable residence vacant.

Average number of rooms was placed at 5 with persons per house listed as 3.3.

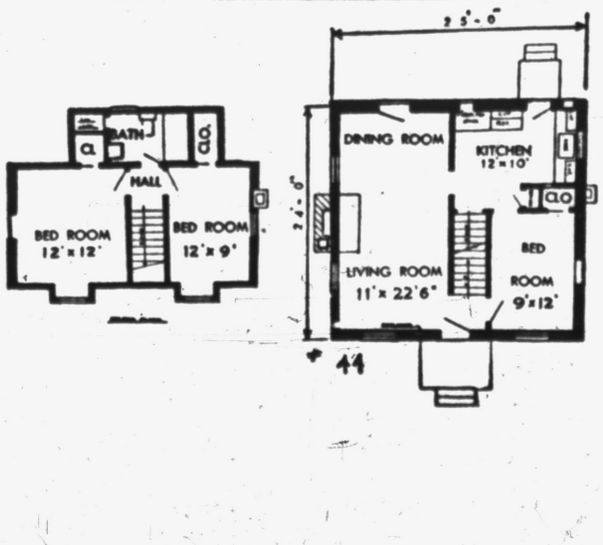

Radios are found in 98.6 per cent of the homes in the county and mechanical refrigeration in 90.6.

Central heating is installed in 71.8 per cent of the homes with the median value per non-farm unit in the county listed at $8,282.

Check Flashing, Gutters Before Cold Weather

Check the flashing around the chimneys and in roof valleys. After rust is removed with a wire brush, a coat of asphaltum paint protects flashing from further rusting (if rusted through, it should be replaced).

CAPE COD—Measuring 24x25 feet, this house was designed to be built of brick with the dormers and gable ends made of vertical wood siding. A full basement and a second story provide all kinds of living possibilities. An 11x26½-foot living room provides many decorative opportunities, and this house was designed by the architect for economy of construction. If interested in the plans, write to Scale Model Home Planning Co., of 1414 N. Woodward Ave., Royal Oak.

Homeowner Gets Assist With Lawn

RALSTON, Neb. (INS)—A new version of the power lawnmower on the market gives the homeowner an assist in trimming grass along sidewalks, driveways, curbs, walls and fences.

Powered by a 1.6 horsepower engine, the mower cuts an 11 inch swath of lawn or tilts at angles up to 90 degrees for beveled or straight edges.

The machine is designed to take the bend, pull, clip and dig out of trimming under bushes and around trees as well as building foundations and other man-made objects.

Also new in the power mower field is an attachment for rotary mowers to eliminate the back-breaking autumn chore of raking, hauling and burning leaves.

Wide Variety Available for Homes With Small Available Space

Many low-income families live luxuriously on home-grown fruits and nuts that are the envy of their more prosperous neighbors.

Canned or frozen, the fruits last all year long. Eaten ripe from the tree they are a treat for everyone, while they provide extra vitamins at a time when food prices are high.

The variety of fruits and nuts grown in the United States surpasses that of any country on the face of the globe, both tree fruits and small fruits, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

Great strides have been made in developing fruit of extra fine quality, strong growth and ever bearing qualities, as with strawberries require an acid soil.

The range of three fruits and nuts have grown in the United States is a long one: Apples, oranges, grapefruit, peaches, pears, plums, grapes, cherries, figs, avocados, apricots; and pecans, walnuts, chestnuts, hickory nuts and filberts to name just a few.

Dwarf fruit trees require less space then the standard - size trees and they begin bearing the second or third year, usually provide sufficient fruit for the average small family.

For the home owner who enjoys gardening and gives his fruit trees the care they need, the answer is a mouth-watering crop. For the average family, a fairly sizeable home fruit garden can be started for $25 or less; if only a few fruits are desired, it can be done for $10 or less.

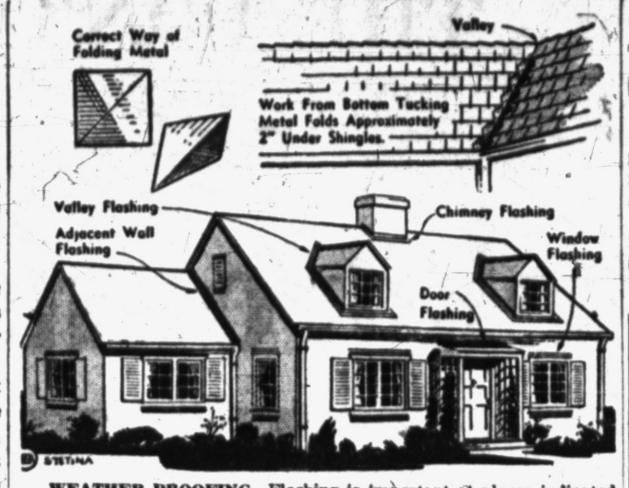

Elegant, Tall Stems on New Glassware

Because of their length, they come in for unusual decorative treatment: Faceting, notching, fluting.

In an effort to endow stemware with a one-piece look, rows of hobnails or hand-cut faceting encircle the stems where they join their bowls. Polished cuttings far outnumber greige. Motifs are simple, geometric.

Seepage Trouble-Spots Need Well-Placed Flashing

Every house, regardless of its type of construction, has certain vulnerable points which must be properly protected to keep water or moisture from seeping through.

Flashing has proved to be the best means of sealing these gaps.

Flashing of non-rusting sheet metal, such as copper, is most economical and easiest to apply. In temporary construction a heavy tar paper is often substituted for metal.

Where two roofing surfaces meet at an angle, the resulting joint is first covered with flashing before the roofing is applied. This makes a watertight joint that prevents water from getting under the roofing.

Wher valley flashings are rusted out, repair of a permanent nature can be made by using squares of copper bent on a line between two corners to the valley angle.

Square must be large enough to permit the upper edge to fit up under the second shingle about 2 inches. If nails are encountered, cut them off with a shingle hook or an old chisel. Be sure to replace the nail when the flashing is completed.

Around dormers or between any wall and roof surface, the flashing should extend up under the siding and out over the shingles. Strips 8 or 9 inches long should be applied in a series of overlapping sheets, starting at the bottom.

If the siding is already in place, it can be bent and shoved up under the siding. The shingles are then laid on top of the flashing or roof, cement may be used to fasten the flashing on top of existing shingles.

The base should be long, so that it covers enough roof to prevent water backing up either under it, if it is applied over the roofing, or under the roofing material if the flashing is under it.

In the reflashing of old chimneys the attempt is oft. made to fasten the metal to the outside of the chimney with mortar and roofing cement. It is extremely difficult to get a bind where some seepage will not occur.

The top lip of the flashing should be set into the chimney even if, in a repair job, it means chipping out old mortar, insertion of the lip and refilling with fresh mortar.

All window and door frames, where their headings and casings fit against the wall, should have adequate flashing whether there are dry caps there or not.

This flashing is merely a strip of metal bent up under the siding over the window and down over the frame. After bending to shape, nail in place with bronze hardware nails.

Color Secures Coordination

Is Only Way to Blend Our Old Pieces, Plus New Furniture

ATLANTA (INS) — "Living room" color all over the house especially in coordinated bedroom-bath schemes, has been described as the unifying factor in the combination of old and new dictated by the very latest in home decorating.

Mary Brandt brought the whys of such unconventional mixtures as red and pink for interiors from New York to a "how-to-do" session in an Atlanta department store.

She emphasized colors, pointing out that they not only link periods in furnishings and are essential to achieving the "uncluttered" modern look, but express the owner's personality. Miss Brandt reported:

"We no longer must have pale colors for bath and bedrooms. Now it is the style to go into what we call "living room color."

By that she meant walls, carpeting, furnishings and accessories in deep greens, olives, rich blues, beiges, charcoal and black. The decorator stressed, however:

"We have gotten over the chartreuse, forest green and cherry red era."

Before suggesting color schemes to illustrate modern motifs, Miss Brandt explained that the current practice of combining unmatched pieces of furniture from different eras is practical as well as interesting. She reasoned:

"We all have some things we simply can't throw out. But if we can't discard them, we can't disregard them, so we must bring furnishings up to date with color."

Chrome Floor Guides Used on Quality Pieces

The glides used on both round and square tubed metal furniture sit evenly on the floor and permit the furniture to be moved easily without snagging carpets or scuffing floors.

Simple Arithmetic Gives Tile Number

To determine the number of resilient tiles needed to cover a floor, the following arithmetic is necessary:

Multiply the floor length times its width. Double the result and subtract 10 per cent of it.

Example: If doubled result is 221, ten per cent is 22.1, which subtracted from 221 gives, roughly 199. This is the number of 9 by 9 tiles needed to cover the floor.

(2) Dig hole two feet wider and eight inches deeper than the root system.

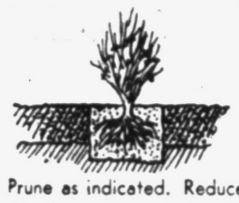

(3) Place shrub on layer of top soil so that roots are one to two inches deeper than they were in nursery. Work top soil around roots to within two inches of ground level. Pack with feet.

(4) Water thoroughly to pack soil.

(5) After water has soaked into ground, finish filling hole with top soil to ground level. Leave soil loose.

Prune as indicated. Reduce leaf surface one third by thinning and shortening branches. Preserve natural form of shrub.

HOW TO PLANT SHRUBS—Roses are planted at the same depth they were planted in the nursery. Hydrangeas, viburnum and other shrubs are planted according to the general instructions above. Remove plants from paper, plastic or metal container before planting, unless otherwise instructed, says the American Association of Nurserymen.

In the shrub arrives with a ball of earth wrapped in burlap around roots, place the whole burlap-wrapped ball into the hole, and untie it at the top. Then take a sharp knife and make long slits in the burlap in five or six places so the roots won't be confined and will grow outward easily. Leave the burlap in the hole, cover with soil and soak heavily with water upon planting, and twice weekly for a month. Thereafter, soak soil with water whenever the plant becomes dry.

Sheers Are Solid With Good Design

Sheers are solid. Silk, rayon, cotton, nylon, linen make casement fabrics that are popular. However, the woven variety veers away from the heavy patternings of past seasons to light, airy, open textures.

Printed sheers show good design sense . . . provide pigment and overlay accents for dimensional interest that the light cloth itself lacks. Design and fabric are more closely complementary.

Multi-colored metallic yarns are making their mark, adding glamour, as well as glitter. Gold, beat. There is a strong movement when it's used, is subtler, applied with more restraint.

Colors are cool . . . often off- to lighter grounds, more startling alliances. Oil paint shades such as umber, sepia, ochre make a new range of neutrals in radical departure from standard naturals and grays.

Multi-Purpose Room Is Needed

Today's Living Calls for Space That Can Take All Activities

Today's living calls for a multi-purpose room that can take on all the family activities with ease. This room should provide, among other things, a spot for Mother's sewing, Dad's woodworking, Junior's hobbies, card parties, ping pong tournaments, TV viewing, or for that overnight guest.

Performing these functions simultaneously might be expecting a little too much of just one room, but they should be available on short order.

A good many homes being built today are designed with an eye to future refinishing of extra space for just such a room. Older homes, inefficient by modern standards, are undergoing remodeling of attics, basements, and sun porches.

In Victorian mansion or shiny new ranch house—wherever extension of living space is desired—the multi-purpose room is easily and economically attainable through the use of fibreboard paneling.

In an old house the panels are applied directly to the existing wall and ceilings; in a new house they are stapled or nailed to the furring or framing. Interlocking joints conceal staples and nailheads. And for any room that could be cooler in summer and warmer in winter, these self-insulating panels are ideal.

Greenland has no forests, only a few dwarf trees and many bushes.

THE SECRET OF MY DRY BASEMENT IS

and Peerless "DIKE"

FIRST—I stopped the wall leaks AT ONCE with DIKE, which I mixed into a putty-like cake and plugged into all holes and cracks. DIKE hardens almost instantly, and holds back even heavy water pressure.

SECOND—I painted the walls MYSELF with PEERLESS CEMENT PAINT (it's so easy to apply). Because of its high portland cement content, it produces a strong, durable coating that effectively seals out moisture.

Now my basement is BONE DRY and BEAUTIFUL, thanks to PEERLESS "DIKE" and PEERLESS CEMENT PAINT (12 bright decorator colors and gleaming white).

Curtain Hanging Can 'Equalize' Windows

You'll find your room looks more unified if you use the same curtain treatment on both windows. Extend the rods and valance above the narrower window to equal in size those above the wider window.

Opaque curtains or drapes will complete the illusion.

Ninety-three per cent of all Canadian forest land is publicly owned.

HOW TO PLANT TREES—Shade, flowering and fruit trees are best planted according to the above instructions. Remove plants from paper, plastic or metal container before planting, unless otherwise instructed, says the American Association of Nurserymen. If the tree arrives with a ball of earth wrapped in burlap around the roots, place the whole burlap-wrapped ball into the hole, and untie at the top. Then take a sharp knife and make long slits in the burlap in five or six places so the roots won't be confined and will grow outward easily. Leave the burlap in the hole, cover with soil and soak heavily with water upon planting, and twice weekly for a month. Thereafter, soak soil with water whenever the plant becomes dry.

Lamps Should Be Made Part of Furniture Scheme

A new idea in home lighting — which treats lamps both as lighting fixtures and as part of the furniture — is going to be presented to American housewives this fall.

It's an idea that any homemaker can adopt whether she buys new lamps or just puts new shades on the old, and it's simply this:

Treat your lamps exactly as you do your rugs, pictures or wallpaper — to accent or set the theme for room decoration, or to "pull together" furnishings that don't quite match.

Up to now, the portable lamp industry has been selling lamps on the basis of lighting quality and individual design. Stores have displayed lamps lined up in rows, so that customers can't visualize how any one lamp will look with furniture, or the other lamps in a room.

The industry is trying to change this and have lamps presented in coordinated groupings for style and design as well as light. This would make it possible for a woman to walk into a store, choose a price range, name her style — traditional, modern or informal — and then select lamps grouped to harmonize with each other either in shape, shade or material.

The theory of "coordinated" lamp ensembles has been used by decorators for years, but it hasn't been publicized for women who do their own home decorating.

It doesn't mean that every lamp has to match, or that you must buy identical floor, bridge or table lamps.

The idea is to make various lamps blend with each other and the rest of the room. For instance, if you have one good vase-shaped lamp in a traditional setting, pick other lamps for their resemblance in shape. The lampshades can be completely different in fabric or color.

In the same way, lamps with different bases can be "blended" by giving them matching lampshades. The shades could all be white, or vari-colored if the fabric were the same.

The lamp and shade institute of America, which will sponsor the fall displays of grouped lamps in electric utility companies and stores across country, adds these suggestions:

Crystal and metal lamps will go together if the bases have similar shapes.

Wrought iron lamps of different shapes will blend beautifully if you put them all under white

Provincial style lamps don't have to match if the shades all feature small-patterned provincial designs.

Clang, Bang, Slam . . . No! No!

To Lessen Kitchen Noise, Use Rubber Tile and Mats

Most workingmen—be they riveters or office clerks—come home at the end of a working day seeking comfort and relaxation.

To relax in comfort, they need quiet; not silence, but an air clear of irritating noises.

Too often they can't find what they seek in the modern home. They fail to realize that there are many easy ways to deaden noise. They've just never stopped to think about it.

The kitchen is one of the chief noise sources in the home. This is because there are fewer objects capable of absorbing sound waves in the kitchen.

It is easy to see that control of noise in the kitchen is simply a matter of putting something in that room that will absorb sound. The same goes for a utility room, home workshop or child's playroom; even a bathroom.

Linoleum or rubber tile on the floor are among the best noise preventatives. Used on sink tops, in shelves and in cutlery drawers, their value increases.

To cut down the noise of rattling dishes, and help prevent breakage, a rubber sink pad is highly desirable. Rubber cushions on cupboard doors are "slam deadeners."

Automatic closers on storm and screen doors put an end to nerve-wracking door banging.

When American Provincial converts to modern living needs, it broadens its decorative, as well as its utilitarian, appeal.

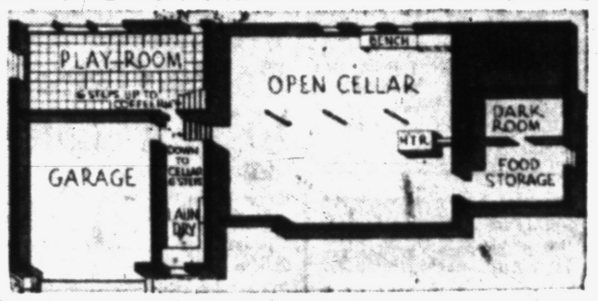

Borrowing freely such modern furnishings concepts as the sleep sofa and the room divider, new tempered Colonial offers modern comfort within the bounds of this homey style. And often these neo-Colonial pieces are simplified in line as well, so that they can be used more effectively with frankly modern furniture and accessories.

ROOM FOR LIVING — How a split level house works is shown in this "3-D" plan for a good-size family—four bedrooms, two baths and powder room lavatory. Sleeping quarters are only six steps up from the main floor. Playroom, garage and laundry are only six steps down from the coffee room. Cellar with heater and space for workbench, adjoining food storage room and dark room for photo fans are six steps down from the garage level. Features include den with indoor barbecue fireplace, covered porch entered from den or dining room and open terrace adjoining coffee room. This is plan M346 by Rudolph A. Matern, architect, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y. The house covers 2,198 square feet. (Further information and blueprints available from architect.)

Modern Wood Stain Has Coal-tar Base

In the past, many different materials have been used for staining the woods from which furniture was made.

The first materials were natural dyes and color chemicals which reacted upon the wood or upon each other to produce the desired color. These natural and chemical stains are no longer widely used because they are not always dependable and are difficult to control.

Now they have been almost entirely displaced by stains based upon coal-tar dyes which are light-fast, dependable, easy to use and available in any hue desired.

The thermometer was invented in the 16th century.

2-in-One Nursery Provides Play-Sleep Combination

Architectural trends are effecting changed concepts in nursery planning.

Contemporary houses — smaller than of yore and with the "open plan" arrangement — hardly afford an individual room for each child. Result: today's nursery is a sleep-playroom combination, for two or more children.

How to cope successfully with the nursery to provide each child with his private sleeping area, how to arrange a common play space, and how to solve the storage problem — acute in shared rooms — will be revealed in two model rooms at the National Homefurnishings Show in Grand Central Palace during September.

Each nursery employs the same device — unpainted wall units and room dividers — to give the convenience of two rooms within one.

In each, an older child can keep his eye on the younger one, yet live his own life; the baby can sleep while the older child reads or plays in his own little domain.

Furnished with sectional units which can be easily shifted to suit storage or play needs, a traditional or modern effect as desired is obtained through the bases employed with the units.

Along one wall of the modern nursery are sliding-door cabinets, chests and open shelves with built-in desk. A clear lacquer finish gives all cabinets finger-mark protection. Diminutive cafe curtains of bright glazed chintz repeat the colors of the bedspread to make a cheery room.

To break away from the customary children's room pastels, the magazine suggests the use of gay colors — possibly of the youngster's own choosing — as a refreshing note whether the nursery be modern or traditional.

An Added Service

In Washington state it has been recommended that gasoline dealers add another service to their pump block routine: offer to empty the car's ash tray. It ties in with a state campaign to "Keep Washington Green" by reducing forest fires. Idea is that if the ash tray is full, a motorist may toss his cigarette stub out the window.

Use Curtain Screen for Unwanted View

Screen it with floor length casement curtains of decorative fabric that is translucent but not transparent. This assures you of getting the available light, but keeps out the view.

The curtains may be finished at the bottom with weighted tapes so thtat they will stay in place.

Chimney Needs Adequate Draft

Must Be at Least Two Feet Higher Than Roof Peak to Operate Right

By HUBBARD COBB

We once heard of a fireplace that had such a good natural draft that if you got within 10 feet of it you were sucked right up the chimney

This was an exceptional chimney. Most fireplaces just have an adequate draft and some don't seem to have any draft at all.

This causes the fireplace or stove connected to the chimney to smoke like mad.

We know for a fact that if a chimney is to operate properly it must be at least two feet higher than the peak of the roof. If your chimney is on the short side it can be built up with masonry or you can install a metal extension which is cheaper and easier.

We also know that a chimney draft can be affected by such items as TV antennae, trees and tree limbs. If any of these are near the chimney they can create a down-draft that will fill the house with smoke.

We had a chimney that was a honey until we hitched a TV aerial on it and after that it wasn't worth a nickel.

Of course, a chimney will do all sorts of strange things if it's filled up with birds' nests, soot and what have you.

It's a good idea to take a look down a chimney with the aid of a flashlight to be sure that it's clean and that no sections of the tile have broken off and partially closed the flue.

Smart Draperies Are Crisply Pleated

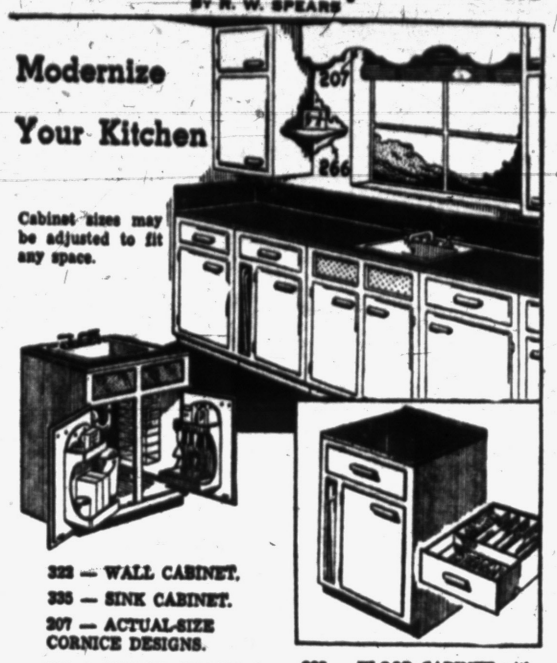

A crisp pleat is basic to handsome, well-hung draperies. There's a technique to getting such professional - looking pleats — but it's no secret.

For a well-tailored look, don't skimp on fabrics you select for your draperies. Be sure to measure the spacing of the pleats accurately.

Paris Uses Leaves, Birds in Her Latest Wallpapers

PARIS (INS)—Bed room and living room walls in Paris are going back to nature.

In an exhibition featuring latest designs and patterns for wallpaper, French interior decorating artists show a tendency toward birds, bees and flowers.

Green ivy leaves with fine branches on grey background are a suggestion for a living room decoration. Or try white tulips on pastel blue or gray fern leaves on white.

For living rooms, Paris decorators are avoiding monotonous wallpaper designs. One decorator papered one wall in black with a fine pattern of pink and green grass and flowers, and the three other walls are in plain light green.

Very modern and Parisian looking is a wallpaper with a black pattern imitating a forged iron screen on a light pastel background. Used on the center part of one wall only, it creates the impression of a door or a window, giving added depth to the room.

One decorator created a tropical atmosphere simply with wallpaper. He printed the paper to look like a lattice made of bamboosticks, and one of the paper rolls has a realistic looking monkey climbing up on the bamboosscreen.

There are views of the Versailles chateau, famous landmarks of Paris or copies of ancient maps showing entire continents.

G-E complete atomization method—shatters each drop of oil into millions of particles. Each particle burns completely. Result! Fuel savings and a cleaner home.

Professional Method Cuts Painting Time

Whether you are going to paint a wall with a brush or a roller coater, you start the same way.

You "cut-in," as the painters call it, with a small brush around all corners and casings in the immediate area in which you are working. When this has been done, it's a simple matter to fill in with a 4-inch wall brush or a roller.

Always work from the dry area back into the fresh paint. By using this simple "cut-in" method, you can usually reduce your painting time as much as 20 per cent.

Today's fast-drying paints make it possible for you to paint the walls of your room in the morning and to use the room for entertaining later in the day. They also enable you to have a colorful new room for just a few dollars.

Be Economical in Home Heating

Makes Good Sense to Put Insulation in Roof or Attic Floor

By HUBBARD COBB

We note that the cost of living has gone up another peg and that probably means that the cost of keeping warm this winter is going to be a little higher than last year as if last year wasn't bad enough.

Of course, one way to keep your heating bills down is to be sure that you get every nickel's worth of heat out of the fuel you burn.

The greatest amount of heat loss from a house is through the roof so it makes pretty good sense to insulate the roof or the attic floor.

The next spot where heat loss is the greatest is around windows and through window glass. Storm sashes are the answer to this one along with weatherstripping.

If your home is equipped with these three items, roof insulation, storm sashes and weatherstripping, you can expect to reduce heat loss by 30 per cent or so.

If you are anxious to reduce your heat loss even more, go after the exterior walls and have these filled with insulation.

Sidewall insulation is not as important as roof insulation but it's still a very worth-while investment.

Another spot to catch heat loss is at your heating plant. Many furnaces send far too much heat up the chimney. Many are out of adjustment so that only a portion of the fuel burned produces any heat.

The best way to handle this situation is to have your heating equipment carefully checked over in the fall by a competent heating serviceman or contractor.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP)—Hog prices dropped to the lowest levels in six months in a series of sharply lower markets this week. Barrows and gilts ended 2.00 to 2.50 lower, sows 2.00 to 3.00 down. Principal factor in the decline was a consistently lower wholesale pork market.

Liberal receipts coupled with lower dressed beef markets kept steers and heifers under pressure in the cattle section. Final prices were unevenly 25 cents to 1.00 lower. Receipts were 20 per cent larger than in the corresponding period a year ago.

A decline in wholesale dressed lamb prices undermined the live lamb market during the week. Slaughter lambs lost 2.00 to 2.50 while sheep were steady to weak.

Salable hogs 300, total 3,000; compared week ago: At the close the market top stood at 21.60, lowest since early April. The price was paid for several loads choice mostly 210-230 lb averages. Bulk choice 200-260 lb butchers closed at 21.25-21.50 with most 170-190 lbs at 20.25-21.35. Sows in larger lots weighing 300-550 lbs closed at 18.75-20.50 according to weight.

Salable cattle 200, total not given; compared week ago: Steers and heifers unevenly 25 to 1.00 lower; cows steady to 25 lower; bulls steady; vealers 1.00-2.00 higher; stockers and feeders 50 to 1.00 lower, mostly 50 off, narrowest outlet for steer calves and heifers of all weights; at least 25 loads prime 1034-1435 lb fed steers 28.75-30.00, top 30.00 for two loads high prime 1100-1125 lb averages, bulk choice and prime fed steers and yearlings 900 lbs and heavier 24.50-28.50, prime 1525-1750 lb brevers 25.25-27.50, choice 1851 lb weights 23.75, good to low choice steers mainly 19.50-24.00; most utility to low good steers 12.50-19.00; two loads high prime 1128 and 1147 lb Kansas fed heifers 27.75, bulk choice to low prime heifers 22.00-24.75; good to low choice heifers 17.00-21.50, light utility grass heifers down to 9.50; utility and commercial cows 9.50-13.00, mostly 12.50 down; canners and cutters 7.50-10.00, bulk 8.00-9.50, utility and commercial bulls 11.00-13.50, good heavy and medium weight fat bulls 10.00-12.00, few choice yearling bulls to 17.00; few choice and prime vealers 23.00-24.00, bulk commercial to choice 15.00-22.00, cull and utility 8.00-14.00; good and choice feeding steers under 900 lbs, yearlings and steer calves 15.50-19.50.

Business Notes:

Group to Study Business Tax

C. of C. Committee to Look Into Fairness of New State Levy

Pontiac Chamber of Commerce voted at a luncheon meeting at Hotel Waldron Friday to continue the study of an important state tax measure and a proposed federal constitutional amendment.

Chairman William Kalwitz said the committee will study further the Michigan business receipts tax to determine whether it is a fair tax, and its relationship to present apparent inequities in the distribution of state sales tax revenue.

A sub-committee composed of Oakland County Circuit Judges H. Russel Holland and George B. Hartrick, and attorney William Wilmot has been organized to study the "Bricker resolution."

The proposed amendment to the federal Constitution would set up safeguards against international treaties becoming the supreme law of the land, Chairman Kalwitz said.

The business receipts tax was levied this year by the Michigan Legislature against all business activity with gross receipts over $20,000, according to Chamber officials.

In one of the largest deals of its type on record, Eastern Air Lines has contracted with Shell Oil Co. for delivery of an estimated $35,000,000 worth of aviation gasoline.

Michigan men and women interested in starting small businesses or who have problems with their existing enterprises will get help at the fourth annual Small Business Clinic Oct. 24-25 at Kellogg Center, Michigan State College. The clinic, which will include talks by experts and workshop sessions, is sponsored by the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the Continuing Education Service of MSC and the Michigan Department of Economic Development.

Football Fans Now Can Laugh at Cold Weather

NEW YORK (UP) — You'll be able to sit in the football stands this autumn and smile at freezing weather, thanks to two new products designed to keep you warm all over.

One is a pair of electric socks which work something like an electric blanket. Wires are woven into the feet of the socks and connect with a battery worn on the belt.

The wires are concealed and allow free movement. The socks also should come in handy for hunters and ski fans.

The other item is a lap robe, backed with weather-proof plastic, which may be folded up and carried brief-case style.

On a sunny day you can sit on the "Shak-O-Pak." If the weather turns nippy, you spread it over your lap.

When rain starts to come down, you simply slip a corner pouch of transparent plastic over your head and use the robe as a knee-length rain coat.

Says Highway Lack Is National Problem

DETROIT (UP)—Walter F. Carey, president of American Trucking Associations, Inc., said Friday that lack of adequate highways is the "biggest domestic problem facing the trucking industry and the nation."

He told a meeting of the National Automobile Transporters Assn.:

"We can't keep potring out millions of cars, trucks and buses every year and expect them to fit into a highway system designed for only about half the vehicles now registered."

Directors re-elected included W. H. Boutell and Walter F. Carey, Flint; Leslie W. Patterson, Pontiac, and Howard Sober, Lansing.

British Guiana Remains Calm

State Department Backs Constitution Suspension by London Government

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—With British troops and warships maintaining order at strategic points, British Guiana remained calm today despite London's ouster of six ministers on Communist charges and suspension of the colony's six-month-old constitution.

Washington backed up Britain, expressing grave concern over the threat to Western Hemispheric security from a possible coup "in this South American colony by the "international Communist conspiracy." The U. S. State department expressed gratification that the "British government is taking firm action to meet the situation."

Five hundred troops of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers guarding government centers in Georgetown and rich sugar plantations on the surrounding plains reported no disturbances.

Despite a state of emergency declared by British Gov. Sir Alfred Savage, life among the 450,000 residents of diverse races appeared to be following the normal course—except on the political front.

Britain cracked down on the colony's government yesterday, charging that Prime Minister Chedi Jagan and his five ousted associates were serving Moscow instead of Britain.

"The faction in power have shown they are prepared to go to any length, including violence, to turn British Guiana into a Communist state," the London government declared.

The ousted Cabinet ministers, all members of the leftist People's Progressive party, were accused of supporting Communist fronts, fomenting strikes and threatening the public welfare. They have been in office only six months.

In announcing suspension of the constitution, Britain said a commission of inquiry would investigate the "political advance of the colony" and make "recommendations for a revised constitution."

Jagan and his American-born wife, the former Janet Rosenberg, said yesterday they were "most unhappy about the whole situation." Both have denied they are Communists. Jagan is an East Indian who once studied dentistry in Chicago. His wife, whom he met in Chicago is executive secretary of the PPP.

The party running on a leftist platform, won 18 of the 24 elected seats in the colony's House of Assembly last April in the first elections held under the new constitution.

While the elected ministers have been deprived of governmental responsibility, they technically retain office and will draw pay until the order suspending the constitution has been under consideration by the British Parliament for 40 days and is approved. Parliament will not convene for another 10 days.

In London, most newspapers gave the British government an approving pat on the back for its action in British Guiana. But the Laborite Daily Herald accused the Colonial Ministry of magnifying the danger of a Communist coup in this colony. It said:

"The government's claim that the situation was getting out of hand conflicts with the evidence from independent observers on the spot.

The first Russian reaction came from the Komsomolskaya Pravda, newspaper of the Communist Youth League. It accused Britain of trying to suppress "a national liberation movement" in British Guiana.

State Tax Board May Reject Request

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — The State Tax Commission may turn down a request by Mayor Paul G. Goebel for a hearing on assessments of three downtown Grand Rapids property parcels.

Edward W. Kane, commission secretary, last night said he is "positive the commission will not grant a hearing" on the case.

Goebel was authorized by the Grand Rapids City Commission to request the assessment hearing, a re-hearing on a commission decision to devaluate the assessment of the three parcels.

Kane, quoting state tax regulations, said "the tax commission can not legally reopen a case of this type — it has no authority to reopen one of its cases."

Commie Agents Change System

Strategic Goods Control Tight in Berlin So They Ship Roundabout

BERLIN (INS) — Communist agents in Berlin are said to have drastically changed their methods of getting strategic goods within the last month or two.

Recently a Soviet agent arranged for the purchase of ball bearings made right in West Berlin. The shipment was sent to France.

There it was caught while they were preparing to reship the ball bearings back to East Germany.

From East Germany they were to be sent to an arms factory right in East Berlin—just a few thousand yards away from the Western factory where they were manufactured.

That the Communists are taking such round about, expensive means to get vital materials, proves the tight control that has almost throttled the flow of strategic goods through Berlin to Iron Curtain war industries, one official explained.

Where Berlin was once an important link in the pipeline through which the forbidden war materials moved to the Red bloc, Berlin now is more important as the meeting place.

Hordes of "middle-men" live by their wits in Berlin, trying to arrange "deals" between Western firms and Iron Curtain buyers who represent Communist governments.

In addition, there are of course the usual Communist purchasing agents who ply their trade secretly. With a two-by-nothing office and a telephone, the "middle-men" stay within the letter of the law — as far as the authorities are concerned, although the intention of the agents is usually quite clear.

But since there is a limited amount of legal trade between East and West, these "middle-men" can operate while making their contacts.

It's when he is discussing a contract between a Western firm for some innocent material that the "middle-man" can make arrangement to get strategic goods.

In the cafes and restaurants in West Berlin, the shady deals are made. Then the goods come from one country to a second from where they are shipped to a third or to the Communist destination.

Nobility Told All

British to Check Research of a '14th Century Kinsey'

LONDON (INS)—British archeologists are preparing to start excavations around Windsor Castle to check the facts and figures produced by a "14th century Kinsey."

Much of what is known about 14th century England comes from the "Chronicles" of Frenchman Jean Froissart, who persuaded the highborn of the time to "tell all."

Queen Philippa, wife of Edward III, dukes, earls and knights bared intimate details of their lives and loves to the French chronicler and historian.

Unlike Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, Froissard didn't leave his research to investigators. He did his own digging. But his approach was scientific. What he obtained from his subjects he cross-checked with friends and aides.

Nothing missed his eagle eye and every fact was noted in his head. He once described his knack this way:

"I give thanks to God for sense, memory, good remembrance of everything and an intellect clear and keen to seize upon acts which I would learn."

What little is known of his life came from his own Chronicles. He was born in 1338 in Valenciennes, France, the son of an armorial painter.

His first employment was as a salesman.

But deciding there was nothing to sales business he nevertheless made some good contacts and as a result went to England with letters of introduction to the court from the King of Bohemia and William Count of Hainault and Holland.

He quickly made a hit with Queen Philippa, daughter of the Count of Hainault, and was well received at court.

After a couple of years in England he returned to Valenciennes. He returned to England in 1361 and was made one of Queen Philippa's secretaries.

Eventually he acquired an art in which he has never been surpassed, of getting people to tell him all they knew about themselves and other people.

Philippa confided in him her young and everlasting love for her husband. Dukes, earls and knights told him their troubles without being prompted.

But Froissart always wanted to know both sides and all viewpoints of these affairs of the heart as well as of battles, skirmishes, captures, gallant actions and heroic deeds.

He would never rely on one informant or one point of view.

He returned to France and received the benefice of Lestines, but he was not content to spend the rest of his life recording the births, deaths and marriages of the area.

When he was 36 in 1374 he began editing the notes he had recorded during his travels. This took 12 years and became the first books of his chronicles.

He made his last trip to England late in the 14th century.

The court had changed and no one knew him but nevertheless he persuaded the Dukes of York and Gloucester and other nobles to give him all the information they had about what was happening or had happened since his last visit.

Among the last few words in his chronicle is a description of the murder of Richard II of England during the crusade to recapture the Holy places in the Middle East.

Froissart died in poverty, ignored by his friends, unknown outside his own circle, but destined to become famous many years later.

It is on these records that the present archeological excavations are based at Windsor.

Notice to All Rustlers: Leave Ohio - - Pronto!

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Rustlers, horse thieves and such law-breakers better watch out in the west—western Ohio, that is.

Sheriff Clay T. Cotterman of Allen County has just organized a troop of mounted special deputies to serve at special events. Nine strong, the troop will be uniformed in black cowboy hats, Sam Browne belts and holstered guns.

"They'll be a nobby outfit," said Sheriff Cotterman admiringly.

But the thing Allen County taxpayers like best is that it will cost the county nothing. The gun-totin' deputies own their own horses.

Missing Girl's Body Is Found

Nebraska Youth Admits Killing Karen Talbot, 13, Last Aug. 20

RUSHVILLE, Neb. (AP)—The body of Karen Talbot, 13-year-old Rushville girl missing since Aug. 20, was found early today in a shallow pasture grave near Rushville and a 19-year-old boy gave authorities a statement saying he killed the girl after she resisted his advances.

Charged with first degree murder was Duane McLain, 19, Rusville, who was graduated from high school last spring.

County Attorney John Keriakedes said McLain pleaded guilty to the charge in a 5:30 a.m. (EST) arraignment before County Judge Clarence E. Benschotte and was hustled immediately to an undisclosed location for safe keeping.

The pretty Miss Talbot, a high school girl, was walking home from a movie the night of Aug. 20 and was last seen scarcely a block from her home. She vanished without a trace and authorities were unable to uncover a single substantial clue to her whereabouts.

County Attorney Keriakedes said McLain was brought in for further questioning this week and finally told his story as he was about to be given a lie detector test.

Keriakedes said McLain gave a four-page handwritten statement in which he said he hit her with his fist when she fought him off when he tried to kiss her. McClain related he then hit her with a hammer and finally shot her with a .22 caliber rifle.

The slaying took place at a ranch eight or nine miles south of Rushville, McLain said.

Clear Tax Claim of Summerfields

Postmaster General's Wife Settles Income Levy of $100,000

WASHINGTON (UP) — Mrs. Arthur E. Summerfield, wife of the postmaster general, has settled an income tax claim involving about $100,000.

L. Rhoe Walter, special assistant to Summerfield and director of the post office's Public Information Service, said:

"Mrs. Summerfield settled the claim and neither he (Summerfield) or Mrs. Summerfield have any further comment to make."

The Internal Revenue Bureau declined to comment. Officials indicated, however, that the claim must have been settled at a regional office.

It was understood the case originated in 1947 when the Summerfield Chevrolet Co. in Flint, Mich., bought her stock for $400,000 and she and the Internal Revenue Bureau differed over whether it was possible to pay a capital gains tax rather than the higher rate income tax.

Summerfield was a car dealer in Flint before he became chairman of the Republican National Committee and later postmaster general.

Biology Class Communes With Nature

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

ROCHESTER — "On location" with the tenth grade biology class from the Rochester Community School this week has taught 56 biology students a new type of lesson.

Letting students live and work together for an entire week at Sleeper's Park near Caseville, this annual project succeeds in taking the class outdoors to observe Nature and her elements at work.

Combining work and fun with a compass, a pick and an ax, a rifle and a bow and an arrow, students we exposed to geology along with early Michigan history in this 988-acre state conservation area.

The State Department of Conservation sends instructors to assist with this educational type program for which the group camp at the park was planned.

Arriving at the camp last Sunday, students were assigned eight and ten to a cabin and their duties included keeping their cabins in shape for inspection.

Divided into groups, each division was assigned one day of camp work such as gathering wood or helping in the kitchen and the mess hall.

Work groups repaired the half-mile trail blazed for the first time two years ago by the Rochester group which initiated the program. They also reconstructed 14 ravine bridges of stone, sand and tree limbs.

Each student had an opportunity for a geology tour, a chance for practice on the rifle and archery ranges and to fish with the aid of the conservation department by means of an electric rod.

One group dug and completely built a "council ring" in the woods. Another discovered a huge eagle's nest and another inspected a rare tree which is the one example of natural grafting in the area.

This tall red pine has one healthy branch of white pine caused by a fallen white pine dropping its limb into the crotch a number of years ago during a storm.

"I am sure all of these students know more about our conservation department and the work it does," said Robert O. Rogers, director of the project and biology instructor in the Rochester schools.

Each evening evaluation sessions took place in the mess hall and students reviewed what they had gained from that day's experiences.

Financed by the individual student and an allocation from the State Department of Public Instruction, many schools are annually turning to this type of project.

Climaxing their week with an all-day bus trip through the historic spots of the area on Friday, the group returned to Rochester last night.

Rochester teachers working with the project at Saseville were Morrel Clute, Art Cofer, Mrs. Joyce Holman, Mrs. Marjorie Adams, Rod Ivens and five student cooks and their home economics instructor.

Navy to Visit High Schools

College-Bound Seniors to Hear Description of Training Programs

Chiefs George F. Bellair and John B. View of Pontiac's Navy recruiting station will visit high schools in Oakland and Macomb counties through Oct. 25 to interview college-bound seniors interested in entering the Navy's reserve officer training program in September, 1954.

The set-up has two branches, Bellair says, contract and regular. Contract students are men who want to prepare for service in case of emergency, but don't wish a permanent Navy career.

They are selected after arrival at college without undergoing any competitive procedure before qualifying. They may or may not be called into service after completing the course.

Regular NROTC students are those planning a Navy career. They must take a Navy College Aptitude Test this Dec. 12 and undergo recruiting station interviews before winning nomination within the quota of regular students alloted any one college.

Physical and mental requirements are high for both contract and regular students, Bellair pointed out.

The University of Michigan has the only NROTC unit in the state, Bellair said, but there are 51 other such units in colleges throughout the nation.

Although Bolivia supplied two billion dollars worth of silver ore to Spanish treasure ship, tin is now more valuable to the country than silver.

The Chinese are said to have been the first to use stils.

Cab Driver Spent 2 Days on Spree With Kidnaper

ST. LOUIS (UP)—"I first thought I had a 'good-time Charley,' then I knew I had something worse," the cab driver who tipped police to Carl Austin Hall, said.

John Hager, 39, spent nearly two days driving for and drinking with the man charged with the kidnap-slaying of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City.

When Hager did realize the man, known only to him as Steve, was "hot," he thought he had a bank robber. He then tipped off Police Lt. Louis Shoulders who arrested Hall Tuesday night.

Hager's identity was a closely guarded secret until last night. After Hager was questioned extensively by FBI agents, Globe-Democrat reporter Ted Schafers located and interviewed him.

Hager will get $1,500 in rewards, a local official of the AFL Teamsters Union announced. Hager, a driver for the Ace Cab Co. will get $500 from his firm, $500 from his Teamsters' Local 405, and another $500 from Dave Beck, international president of the union.

The cab driver told of meeting Hall in front of a downtown hotel getting him a date, carrying two heavy suitcases, in which about half of the $600,000 Greenlease ransom money was found, at least five times and finally getting scared because of Hall's actions.

Monday afternoon "Another cab driver drove up and asked me if I could get his fare a girl," Hager related. "The fare was a well-dressed man who appeared to have been drinking. He looked like a 'good-time Charley' to me.

"The fare said his name was Steve. I told him I knew a friend who might be able to get him a date.

"I got two metal suitcases out of the trunk of the other cab and put them in the trunk of my cab. I had a hard time getting both suitcases in the trunk and suggested I put one up front. But Steve said 'No.'

"We drove out to Sandy O'Day's house (she now is held in Kansas City as a material witness), picked up Sandy, went to a bar and had some drinks for which Steve paid with a $20 bill. He shoved the change, $18, across the table to me and said, 'You take this.' I said to myself, 'What a fare I've got here.'"

Hager, an ex-convict, said he became suspicious that Hall might be a policeman. When he asked Hall about it Hall told him:

"John, if you knew the truth, you'd really get a kick out of it."

Hager said he later got Hall a place to stay at a motor court, bought him shaving equipment and arranged for delivery of a note to Mrs. Bonnie Heady, also charged with Hall in the case.

Hager said that at the tourist court "Steve went to his coat, came back and tossed a fistful of $20s on the bed. He said he was half looped and asked me to count it. There was $2,480. He pulled another $20 from his pocket, handed me the $2,500 and said. 'John, I want you to keep this for me.'

"He walked to the closet, came back with a .38 caliber revolver and said, 'Ain't this a beaut.' "

Hager told of returning Tuesday morning with a rented car, another suitcase and a briefcase asked by Hall. Hall then had Hager take the O'Day woman where she could get a cab. He said.

While riding with her she said "There must be a million dollars back there,' Hager related.

"That's when I got scared," he told Schafers.

He said he went back to Steve at the tourist court where Hall told him he was an ex-convict and that insurance investigators were looking for him.

When Hager saw Hall the first time that morning, he said, "Steve was wild, pacing up and down like a mad man. He said the plans had been changed."

Hager said he was away from Hall about three hours Tuesday afternoon. On his return, he said, he noticed mud on the fenders of the rented car which he had left with Hall. He said Hall then appeared in a good frame of mind.

Hager rented an apartment for Hall at his request. It was there Lt. Shoulders arrested Hall at 8 p.m.

Protest Decline of Farm Prices

French Farmers Plan Demonstrations to Back Demands

PARIS (UP)—Premier Hoseph Laniel's right-center government, fresh from victory over left wing opponents of its economic program, worked feverishly today to quiet angry farm protests against falling prices.

More than 300,000 farmers in the southwest third of the nation have announced they will barricade highways Monday to call attention to their demands for legislation to prop livestock prices. They also want some marketing reforms to reduce the number of middlemen.

The farm protests posed the threat of serious parliamentary trouble for the government. Peasant party deputies, who form a part of Laniel's coalition in the Assembly, have indicated they may try to force a debate on the Cabinet's agricultural policies when the National Assembly meets Tuesday.

The 14-week-old government handily survived the first parliamentary attacks mounted on it yesterday when the Assembly threw out both a Communist and a Socialist motion criticizing Laniel's economic policies.

The lawmakers had convened a week ahead of schedule especially to consider the Cabinet's economic and labor program, target of last August's mass strikes which disrupted the nation's economy.

Laniel held two long conferences with farm leaders yesterday in hopes of staving off the scheduled demonstrations.

The Premier has found himself in hot water with the farmers principally because of a 30 to 40 per cent drop in the price of cattle during the past year.

The angry growers have said they will barricade most of the roads in their areas beginning at 8 a. m. (2 a. m. EST) Monday, letting only doctors, midwives and certain security personnel through.

Big Dave Garroway Rates One of Busiest Men on TV

With a total of 17 hours and 45 minutes on camera each week, another 25 or so spent in rehearsal, and another 40 in conducting the business incidental to his shows, he has little time for leisure.

Born in Schenectady, N. Y., July 13, 1913, Garroway attended 13 different grade schools in 13 different cities before his peripatetic father, a trouble-shooting electrical engineer, managed to settle his family in St. Louis.

He attended high school and Washington University there, majoring in English and psychology.

He then decided to try radio, and for the sum of $75 a month, he went to work for NBC as a page boy, attending announcing classes that the network makes available to its beginning employes.

Within a year, despite the fact that he had placed 23rd in a class of 24, he was hired by KDKA.

From that special events assignment he moved on to NBC in Chicago in 1939, doing remotes, special events and straight announcing.

In the Navy as a lieutenant, j.g., during World War II, he started an evening record show for a Honolulu station and there began the development of the "relaxed" Garroway style.

The Navy permitted personnel to take outside civilian jobs in off-duty hours, but after a day of running the yeoman school on the island Dave was too tired to plot out a show.

Instead, he just played records and said whatever came into his head.

After the war he returned to Chicago and began a midnight disc jockey stint. When NBC television opened its lines in that city in 1949, one of its first presentations was "Garroway at Large."

In it, the Garroway technique was translated into television terms and a production resulted which took critics and public by storm. That show was the basis of his present evening music and variety program.

Fifteen years after he began work as an NBC page boy, Garroway reflects: "And to think that the only ambition I had then was to be a good commercial radio announcer."

Six Will Die in Greece for Communist Spying

ATHENS, Greece (UP) — Athens newspapers reported today that a military court in Kavalla has sentenced six persons to death on charges of spying for Communist countries. Eleven others were condemned to prison terms ranging from two years to life.

Two of the accused were teenaged girls. All 17 had been found guilty of being members of a spy ring in eastern Thrace that sent military intelligence to Communist countries via shortwave radio.

Duke Snider's nine home runs off Cardinal pitching at Ebbets Field this year was a National League record. The previous high for a hitter against one club in one park was eight by Ralph Kiner against Boston in Pittsubrgh during the 1947 season.

15 Cars Smash Up on Foggy Turnpike

ELIZABETH, N. J. (UP)—Fifteen cars smashed end-to-end late last night injuring 17 persons in another crash on the smog-bound portion of the New Jersey Turnpike here.

Later, fog rolled in over the superhighway and it was closed early today to all traffic for a distance of about 50 miles.

Last night's crash occurred near the Newark border where smoke from garbage dump fires blows across the highway. State Police said several cars stopped on the highway and were rammed by others coming up from behind in the northbound lane.

Four cars caught fire and three of them were completely destroyed by the flames.

Youth Steals 5 Autos to Avoid Army Service

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (UP)—An Abington youth pleaded guilty yesterday to five counts of stealing automobiles in an admitted effort to beat Army service.

Norman A. Lockwood Jr., 20, told Superior Court Judge Lewis Goldberg he stole the cars to "get out of serving in the Army."

"I thought if I could build up a bad record the Army wouldn't take me," he said.
