Congressmen Close Session by 'Living It Up'

Sing Whiffenpoof Song, Get in Parting Shots Until Midnight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lawmakers spent the final hours of the 84th Congress last night in singing, backslapping and oratory.

It may not have been the liveliest adjournment scene in history—but it ranked well up there. The unwinding mood was most apparent in the House.

The senators acted like senators right to the final bang of the gavel.

At one point several score representatives clustered around the microphone and wailed the "Whiffenpoof Song."

Some music lover cut off the loudspeakers. But that didn't dampen the spirit of many of the songsters.

At one point in the proceedings, the House roared unanimous passage of a resolution commending Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) for the "able, impartial and dignified manner" in which he presided during the two-year Congress.

While this was going on, the Senate was resorting to one of its favorite pastimes — oratory. One after another, senators rose to praise their colleagues, their employes, the capitol police force and assorted individuals.

BENDER CUT OFF

At midnight, Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) was complaining to the Senate about its not acting on the

(See record page 2.)

House-passed civil rights bill. Sen. Holland (D-Fla) interrupted to note that the adjournment deadline had arrived.

Vice President Nixon, then presiding, agreed. He banged the final gavel, cutting Bender off in mid-speech.

Both houses voted to reconvene Jan. 7.

Ship Survivors to Return Home by Air Next Time

It's the air next time, says Karl Pegefelt of Utica, who with his family was among the Stockholm passengers who survived Wednesday's sea collision with the Andrea Doria off Nantucket, Mass.

Pegefelt, a college teacher at Goteberg, Sweden, will fly back to his native country instead of going by water. He has been employed in the research laboratory of a Utica metallurgical firm.

Pegefelt, his wife and two sons were thrown out of bed by the impact of the collision, but no one was injured.

Michigan Crash Kills 2 Pilots

Seaplane Slams Water on Takeoff; Bystanders Unable to Help

DE TOUR (AP) — An amphibious plane which had just let off six passengers nosed into the water off nearby Drummond Island yesterday, killing the veteran pilot and co-pilot of a Detroit oil executive.

Trapped inside the water-filled Grumman Goose were Leonard R. Buckler, 52, of Dearborn, and Joseph Ostermeyer, 25, of Detroit.

Buckler had been employed as pilot for several years by Detroit Oilman T. Melville Rinehart.

The six passengers who had come to Drummond Island aboard the two-engine plane to visit Rinehart at his summer home included Walter W. Fuller, a Detroit newspaperman.

Others aboard were Mrs. Fuller and their two daughters, Janet, 11, and Christine, 13; and Mrs. Rinehart and her granddaughter, Jane Cooper, 11, of Detroit.

Buckler and Ostermeyer had just taken off for the return trip to Detroit when the ship nosed over at an altitude of about 150 feet and dropped into Potagannissing Bay.

Several persons witnessed the crash. Rescuers tried to reach the trapped fliers by bashing in the windows and an escape hatch on the plane with anchors. The plane was nose down in about 10 feet of water.

The bodies could not be removed until two Detroit yachtmen, Charles DeRliet and Cletus Welling, towed it into shallow water.

Drummond Island, 20 miles long, is located about a mile across the De Tour passage from De Tour, off Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Car Is Checked for Clues to Slain Girl

CHECKING CAR — Deputies today were checking the car of a neighbor in a search for clues which might lead to a missing Lake Orion tot. The neighbor was jailed on a disorderly charge.

MARTHA LITTLE

MISSING — A search that started after she vanished about 8:30 last night this afternoon located the body of Martha Little, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Little, of Lake Orion.

Settlement of Strike Dulled by Expected Steel Price Hike

NEW YORK (INS)—Business and consumer satisfaction with the settlement of the nationwide steel strike was tempered today with the certain knowledge that the price of steel is due for a sharp increase.

The "bad news" was expected to be announced early next week, possibly on Monday, after the signing of individual contracts between the United Steelworkers and 12 major firms.

Predictions on the amount of the increase ranged from $8 to $12 a ton with most of the experts considering $10-a-ton the most likely figure. Such an increase would be the largest since World War II.

Meanwhile, both parties to the month-long negotiations agreed with President Eisenhower and leaders of other industries that the three-year, no-strike settlement was "good news."

All were pleased that the nation was released from the threat of dwindling stocks of steel.

The 650,000 United Steelworkers on strike were expected to return to their jobs this coming week as local settlements are completed. The union said it would send in maintenance workers to the plants to prepare for production without delay.

In related industries, 125,000 railroad, coal, transport and other workers, who had been laid off, already have begun to return to their jobs.

The contract to come out of the 27-day old strike is the steel industry's first three-year, no-strike contract.

The agreement gives 650,000 members of the United Steelworkers a total of 45.6 cents per hour—according to the union—over the three year period.

The first year's increases will amount to 20.3 cents per hour, a total of $275,000,000.

The second year benefit is 12.2 cents per hour, and the third goes to 13.1 cents per hour.

Total benefits to the workers will be $1,332,000,000 over the three year period. Actual cash benefits in the paychecks will average 10.5 cents the first year, and 9.1 cents in each of the second and third years.

The total benefits in wages over the three-year period are 28.7 cents per hour.

The agreement also called for increased night, Sunday and holiday pay differentials, a new pension agreement, and additional holiday and vacation time.

To be negotiated yet are a plan for supplementary unemployment benefits and an insurance agreement.

Clouds to Filter Sun, Keep Pontiac Cool

Fair and cooler is forecast for the Pontiac area tonight. The low will be 58 to 62.

* * *

Tomorrow will be partly cloudy with a high of 79 to 83.

The lowest temperature reading preceding 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 65 degrees. The thermometer registered 82 degrees at 2 p.m.

3-Year-Old Disappears While Playing by Home

BULLETIN

The body of three-year-old Martha Little, missing since 8 p.m. last night, was found at 1:45 p.m. today in a wooded area near Maybee Road, about 200 yards east of Sashabaw Rd.

The area has been sealed off from the public by state troopers and Sheriff's deputies.

The body was discovered by Deputy Donald Kratt who was patrolling alone in a car on a little road off Maybee road.

Her skull had been crushed, he reported, and a broken beer bottle was found nearby. There was glass in the wound on her head.

She was lying in a recently cut hayfield and was dressed only in a blouse. (She had been wearing blue shorts when she disappeared.)

By LAWRENCE S. MARTZ JR.

While more than 200 police and volunteers searched Orion Township swamps and woods this morning for some trace of three-year-old Martha Little, missing since 8 p.m. last night, detectives at the Oakland County Jail worked in shifts grilling a 23-year-old man suspected of having some connection with her disappearance.

Martha, chunky, brown-haired daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Little of 238 Lake St., Lake Orion, disappeared last night from a sandbox beside her parents' house. No trace of the child has been found.

While not discounting the possibility she may have wandered to the shore of Lake Orion, some 200 yards from her home, close-mouthed officials today evidently fear she was the victim of foul play.

A next-door neighbor of the missing girl, Howard W. Moore, 23, who is being held in jail on a drunk and disorderly charge, will be questioned to see if he has any knowledge of the girl's disappearance. He had moved into the neighborhood with his bride only a week ago.

According to State Police, Moore was reported seen with a child answering Martha's description at a drive-in near Lake Orion about 10 p.m. last night.

It is known Moore left his home between 8 and 8:30 p.m., returning near 10:30. Oakland County Sheriff Frank Irons, coordinating the giant search, impounded Moore's car shortly after his arrest at 11 p.m.

Deputies reportedly have checked the vehicle for fingerprints.

* * *

Moore told investigators this morning that he had been in a local tavern between 8 and 10 p.m.

* * *

The clothes he was wearing when he was apprehended have been sent to the State Crime Detection Laboratory in Lansing where they will be examined for possible bloodstains, deputies said.

Joseph Little, a Lake Orion plumber's helper, told police he first missed his daughter at 8:30 p.m. when he called from the kitchen to the sandbox where she was playing alone.

There was no answer.

* * *

When he had called at 8, Little said, Martha had answered.

* * *

Almost immediately, some 200 neighbors and Lake Orion police began searching for the child. Lake-dragging operations along the shore were started.

At the time of her disappearance Martha was wearing light blue shorts, a white halter and red canvas shoes.

Little said he took Martha

PHS Graduating Seniors Given Tips for Better Life

Sixty-one graduating seniors heard Dr. A. Westley Rowland, principal speaker at the 1956 summer school commencement exercises last night, offer five suggestions to "live successfully."

Dr. Rowland who is executive news editor in the Department of Information Services at Michigan State University, stated that "work, a sense of humor, the ability to get along with others, dissatisfaction with what is, and living for more than oneself" are the five essentials of "A Formula for Living Today."

"You are living in an entirely different world than a short time ago," Dr. Rowland pointed out, "one that is faster, more demanding, and highly technical."

Most important for young people is finding a job they will be happy in, for work "must be done day in and day out with maximum ability," was Dr. Rowland's observation.

Cautioning the class, he said be not satisfied with life as it is, but face the difficult, overcome it and go on striving for better things.

Marlene Gains on Open Field

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Money-playing Marlene Bauer Hagge, applying relentless pressure on the pursuing field, stormed past the front nine in a 2-under par 35 today to lengthen her lead in the 3rd round of the Women's National Open Golf Tournament.

The 22-year-old Asheville, N.C., pro banged out six straight pars, then picked off a birdie four on the 7th hole and a birdie two on the 8th. She narrowly missed another birdie on the 9th.

While Mrs. Hagge was almost flawless from tee to green, the stresses of showdown day in the 72-hole tournament at Northland course dealt a damaging blow to Louise Suggs, who trailed Mrs. Hagge's 36-hole 148 by only one stroke into the final two rounds.

Skindivers Reach Andrea Doria 200 Feet Down

NANTUCKET, Mass. (INS) — Two New York men are reported today to have descended more than 200 feet into the Atlantic to reach the hull of the sunken luxury liner Andrea Doria.

Joseph Fox, of Bedford, N. Y., and Peter Gimbel, of New York City, both skindivers, went down to the liner yesterday afternoon and fixed a buoy to the hull. Whether they examined other sections of the sunken ship was not known.

Ike, Aides Huddle on Suez

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower conferred again today with top State Department officials on Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal.

Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, armed with last-minute orders from President Eisenhower, left for London today to attend emergency Big Three talks on Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will return to Washington from Lima, Peru, earlier than planned to deal with the Suez crisis.

While the United States was expected to give full support to moves by Britain and France to deal with the Suez problem, U.S. officials withheld immediate comment on what the White House discussions might bring.

Meanwhile, Britain froze Egypt's sterling balances and Suez Canal assets in the United Kingdom.

Prime Minister Eden's government moved in swiftly with the economic measures in retaliation for Egypt's seizure of the canal.

The canal company's assets in Britain were not disclosed, but Egypt has sterling balances in this country amounting to 364 million dollars. These balances were piled up to Egypt's credit in London for goods and services rendered British forces in World War II.

Eden also ordered his cabinet ministers and armed forces chiefs to remain on call over the weekend.

There is considerable concern in some official quarters here that Egyptain President Gamal Abdel Nasser could use his control over the canal to wage economic warfare against any country with which he became embroiled in political dispute.

He could, for example, stop movement of much of Western Europe's vital oil supply through the canal if he exercised control without restraint.

6 Youths Jailed in Station Row

Total Arrests Reach 12 as More Still Sought for Thursday's Rumpus

Six more members of a teenage gang who allegedly started a fight at a Pontiac fire station late Thursday night were arrested yesterday by Pontiac police, bringing the total to 12 now being held as a result of the near riot.

Three of the youths are juveniles.

* * *

Investigators are seeking another known member of the group and believe there may be more.

The charge against the eight minors now in custody is molesting and disturbing persons in pursuit of their occupation," Sgt. John DePauw, of the city Detective Bureau, said today.

Four firemen suffered minor bruises and two windows in the station, located at Glenwood St. and Montcalm Ave. were smashed by billiard balls in the melee.

The fight reportedly took place when the firemen refused to give the boys information about a man who had gone to the station to use the phone to call the police after he had reported being run off the road by another car.

Assistant Fire Chief Max Wells said there were two different fights, the second one lasting about ten minutes before the youths fled to avoid capture by police.

An attempt to secure the license number of the gang's car started the first scrap and resulted in the youths returning with a much larger gang to start the second battle, he told police.

'We Helped Ike's Record,' Democrat Boasts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) claimed today the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress gave President Eisenhower three-fourths of what he wanted.

But Sen. Knowland of California, Republican Senate leader, said it could have done better with Republicans in command.

* * *

The record of the two-year term which ended last midnight, shows that on some sharply disputed issues, the Democrats furnished the President the votes he needed to enact his programs into law.

On the other hand, the Congress killed, ignored, or altered many of his requests.

The record of the 84th Congress is sure to figure heavily in the political campaign ahead.

On domestic affairs, the 84th left three monuments which could greatly affect the life of the nation in the years to come. All passed in the second session concluded last night, they are:

* * *

1. A 33-billion-dollar highway construction program which, over 13 years and with state cooperation, will give the nation a network of superhighways extending coast to coast and border to border.

2. A bill broadening the 20-year-old Social Security law so that disabled persons 50 and older will get benefits for the first time and women can start collecting retirement payments at 62.

3. A soil bank plan designed to give the nation's farmers and the government the tools to tailor farm production to demand and ease the burden of price-depressing surpluses.

* * *

Democrats were particularly unhappy they could not give the voters an election-year income tax cut which some of their leaders predicted before the 1956 session began.

* * *

But, after they decided to challenge Eisenhower on the issue of defense spending and appropriated almost a billion dollars more than he asked for the Air Force, all idea of a tax cut went out the window.

* * *

The President said in his State of the Union message in January he would deal conservatively on the tax issue and put a modest reduction in the national debt ahead of tax relief.

As the fiscal year ended June 30, the Republicans found they had accumulated a bigger surplus than they expected, nearly 1¾ billion dollars. It was the first time the government finished in the black in five years.

A bill continuing government activity in the housing field was passed substantially in the form the President wanted, with 35,000 units a year of low rent public housing for two years in place of 135,000 sought by some Democrats.

* * *

Among the major items of Eisenhower's program rejected by the lawmakers were a federal school aid bill, postal rate increases, civil rights legislation, and Taft-Hartley Labor Law revision.

The lawmakers gave Eisenhower much of what he wanted in the military field. It extended the draft law four years, approved a pioneering reserve training program for youths, passed a military survivors bill greatly broadening payments and putting all armed forces personnel under Social Security, and improved medical care for military dependents.

* * *

The lawmakers voted millions of dollars in pay raises for civil service employes, postal workers, military personnel, federal judges, and top executives of the government. They also liberalized the retirement system of federal civilian workers and military personnel.

And they didn't forget themselves. Last year the senators and House members boosted their own salaries from $15,000 to $22,500 annually.

The Day in Birmingham

Local Ministers Vacation; One Slates TV Sermon

BIRMINGHAM — While many local ministers are on vacation and guest speakers are taking their pulpits here, one pastor, the Rev. Emil Kontz of First Baptist Church, is planning a television sermon.

Dr. Kontz has been invited to appear on the Detroit Council of Churches program, "Church at the Crossroads," Aug. 5. The 9 a.m. program over WWJ-TV, will also feature music by Dr. Nellie Huger Ebersole.

Dr. Kontz is a member of the council's radio-television committee. His topic will be "A Religion With Reserves."

At Embury Methodist Church, sermon tomorrow at the 10 a.m. service will be Mrs. Grant Dunlap, wife of a Detroit minister. Her talk has been arranged by the church's WSCS.

Next week, the church will welcome James Braid, of Pontiac, a student at Garrett Biblical Institute. The Rev. Reginald Becker will return Aug. 12.

The Rev. Thomas C. Henderson is guest minister this Sunday and next at First Congregational Church. Retired, he last served in Chesterfield, Ill.

* * *

At Northminster Presbyterian Church, guest speaker will be the Rev. George Jerome, chaplain of Maybury sanitarium and the State Hospital at Northville at the 10:30 a.m. service tomorrow.

Robert Stone will be guest speaker at the United Brethren Church at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

* * *

A Birmingham student, Bryce Arden Miller, 15, 24001 Lahser, has taken first place in the junior division of the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild model car competition. His model car also won best judging among juniors in Michigan and Ohio. Winners of the national judging will be announced soon, and $38,000 in university scholarships awarded.

* * *

Left-overs from Monday's council meeting that will be handled next Monday will be the salt purchase for the coming icy season, plans for an Eton Street sidewalk, and a program for Civil Defense Week Sept. 9 to 15.

Junior Chamber of Commerce members are working on the CD Week plans, with a fund drive expected to finance a siren. Such a siren may cost about $7,000 installed.

* * *

The city's insurance system has been maintained with probably the lowest possible cost to the city, according to a recent report submitted to city commissioners after a re-study of the plan.

In some cases, officials were advised that payment of premiums in advance would save some money.

Freeway Could Scrap Turnpike

But Higgins Will Not Abandon Plans Until Contract Is Let

George N. Higgins, Michigan Turnpike Authority chairman, told a Franklin Village rally last night the MTA would scrap its Rockwood-Saginaw plans only after contracts are let to complete the parallel Detroit-Bay City freeway.

* * *

Higgins, a candidate for Congress from Oakland County's 18th District, said that the latter route has been promised by Charles M. Ziegler, state highway commissioner.

The leading turnpike advocate said "I would be the first to recommend that the Legislature abolish the turnpike as not needed when and if contracts to complete this road (Detroit-Bay City) were let by the Highway Department."

But he added: "We will not scrap our program until the road contracts are let and the highway is under construction. There have been Highway Department plans for this road since 1941 but people can't ride on a plan."

* * *

The meeting, attended by some 100 persons, was sponsored by a group of Franklin Village citizens headed by George Wellington Smith.

Congress Votes $10,000 to Investigate 'Sea Safety'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House last night voted $10,000 for an investigation of "sea safety" regulations as a result of the collision-sinking of Italian's luxury liner Adrea Doria.

The Italian Line sought today to untangle a knot of conflicting reports on how many persons are missing in the disaster.

Meanwhile, the captain of the sunken Italian liner and the master of the Swedish ship Stockholm that collided with her kept silent about a possible cause of the crash.

Last night the Italian Line announced it has assigned 11 employes to the task of compiling an accurate tabulation of the passengers and crewmen rescued from the Andrea Doria before she plunged to the bottom of the Atlantic.

* * *

A cloud of confusion as thick as the fog on the night of the collision obscured reports of how many persons survived the sleek liner's death.

The line said there were 1,706 passengers and crewmen aboard the doomed ship. Coast Guard survivor figures indicate 34 are missing. The line's "rough" figures show seven not accounted for. On the basis of city police figures, no one is missing.

The Doria's known death toll stands at six. Five crewmen also died on the Stockholm.

* * *

Capt. Gunnar Nordenson, 63-year-old skipper of the Stockholm, told newsmen the radar on his ship was working before and after the fog-cloaked collision Wednesday night.

But the veteran seafarer declined, on the advice of counsel, to say whether the electronic eyes of his radar were probing the fog at the time of the crash.

He also declined to fix blame for the collision.

* * *

Capt. Pietro Calamai, 58-year-old Genoese master of the Doria, conferred with Italian Line officials yesterday. He, too, was tight-lipped about the cause of the disaster.

There were conflicting reports about the Doria's radar. A passenger reported the radar antenna was not rotating hours before the wreck. But a crewman said it was working.

The "hows" and "whys" of the collision apparently would have to await formal investigations. Four probes are planned in this country and abroad.

* * *

Some passengers said the first lifeboats away from the Doria were filled largely with crewmen. Other survivors said the crew performed ably in the emergency.

Crewmen bitterly challenged the charges they had failed in their duty.

THROUGH THE CANAL — The first convoy of ships to move through the Suez Canal since Egyptian seizure of the vital waterway, makes its way slowly from Port Said to Suez. Egyptian forces guarded both ends of the canal.

Because of Liner Sinking:

Airlines, Ships Mustering Aid for Atlantic Traffic Jam

NEW YORK (INS)—Commercial airlines are mustering forces to help alleviate the travel jam caused by the sinking of the Andrea Doria and the damaging of the Stockholm.

* * *

Some 6,700 Americans traveling in Europe who had booked homeward bound passage on the two ships for the next two months and thousands of others who planned to travel to Europe will have to find other means of transportation.

Owners of the ships called on the airlines to handle some of the heavy traffic. Most of the airlines flying the Atlantic have already responded to the call and are making their facilities available.

Other shipping lines also have been asked to help out. The Greek Line is delaying the sailing of the Olympia 24 hours to take care of passengers who had been slated to leave aboard the Andrea Doria on Saturday for the Mediterranean.

The Swedish-American Line's flagship, the Kunsholm, will take on some of the Stockholm's passengers when it leaves New York next week.

Transfer of 200 other persons from the Stockholm to the Norwegian-American Line's Bergensfjord is being arranged. Berths are also being made available on trans-Atlantic freighters which offer top accommodations.

Meanwhile, the Italian Line is trying to arrange to continue its Liner, Giulio Cesare on the trans-Atlantic run through September.

* * *

The ship normally makes the South America run, but was diverted to help handle the heavy summer trade.

Airliner Safe; Nearing Coast

Constellation With 91 Using 3 of 4 Engines Over Pacific Waters

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—A Constellation airliner carrying at least 91 military personnel or dependents neared the California coast today after reporting serious engine trouble 500 miles from San Francisco on a flight from Honolulu.

At 9:16 a.m. (PDT) a radio message from the plane reported it was 240 miles off the coast and proceeding toward San Francisco with three of its four engines in operation. It was maintaining an altitude of 5,000 feet and making a speed of 160 to 170 miles an hour.

Four Coast Guard planes from San Francisco and an SA16 Albatross amphibian from Hamilton Air Force Base had met the plane and were escorting it.

The CAA air route traffic control office in Oakland said "it looks like everything will be OK."

The plane, owned by Seaboard and Western Airlines, was making the flight on charter to the Military Air Transport Service.

First SOS messages reported one engine afire and another engine "feathered."

Later messages said the fire had been extinguished and this engine then "froze" from lack of oil but the other engine had been put back in service.

Ike Signs Funds Bill for Michigan Air Fields

WASHINGTON (AP) — Projects at four Michigan air fields are included in a bill signed by President Eisenhower yesterday appropriating $1,691,341,875 for military construction.

The total is about $437,000,000 more than the President had requested.

The bill provides $5,648,000 for Sawyer Airport, Marquette; $1,783,000 for Kinross Air Force Base, Sault Ste. Marie; $3,744,000 for Wurtsmith AFB, Oscoda, and $6,474,000 for Selfridge AFB, Mt. Clemens.

Governor Candidate, Racial Question, on Ballot as Texas Democrats Vote

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Democrats vote today for a new candidate for governor, ballot on three controversial racial referendum questions, and hold precinct conventions to determine control of the state party organization.

* * *

Today's primary climaxes a torrid and colorful campaign by six candidates for the gubernatorial nomination, tantamount to election in Texas, to succeed Gov. Allan Shivers, who is not seeking the post again.

The field includes Ralpy Yarborough, Austin attorney who has strong "liberal-loyalist" and labor support and U.S. Sen. Price Daniel, who has strong "middle-of-the-road" and conservative support. Bidding for the conservative vote are W. Lee "Pappy" O'Daniel, former governor and U.S. senator; Reuben Senterfitt, former State House speaker, and J. Evetts Haley, rancher and historian. The sixth candidate is J. J. Holmes, Austin businessman.

* * *

Desegregation has been a major issue in the campaign with Yarborough and Daniel urging "moderation." O'Daniel, Senterfitt and Haley have strongly advocated continued segregation while Holmes has endorsed integration of the public schools.

Eight congressional seats and a number of state offices are also at stake.

Today's precinct conventions were expected to be marked by the fight between rival forces of U.S. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, who has stressed party loyalty, and Shivers, who bolted the party in 1952 to lead Texas into the Republican column in the presidential election.

Thieves Loot Juke Box in Orion Township

Oakland County detectives today were investigating a report that a juke box and soda machine at an Orion Township store were looted sometime Thursday night.

'Williams Hitting Business on Head,' Legislator Says

LANSING (AP) — Rep. Robert E. Faulkner (R-Coloma), chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, has charged Gov. Williams "keeps hitting business over the head instead of encouraging business to provide more jobs."

Faulkner's statement was the most recent exchange between Faulkner's committee and the governor. It stemmed from the committee's hearing on charges that high taxes are driving business out of Michigan.

The governor had declared this was not so. He said some testimony was politically inspired and tended to give the state "a black eye" outside of Michigan.

DISCOURAGING JOBS?

"The facts are," said Faulkner, "that the policies of Gov. Williams are discouraging business expansions and, therefore, job opportunities in Michigan. That was the testimony of many witnesses before our committee."

"Governor Williams says, in effect," Faulkner declared, "'Let's sweep the dirt under the rug and don't let people outside of Michigan know how bad my antibusiness administration really is.'"

"Businessmen can read the papers," Faulkner said. "They know of Mr. Williams' grandiose schemes, which include an Automation Commission, Atomic Energy Commission and unemployment benefits that would, in many cases, make it more profitable to be unemployed than work."

Woman Credits Press for Saving Youngster's Life

An 11-year-old boy, who nearly drowned in downtown Milford yesterday, is alive today because Mrs. Fred Schroeder, 1186 Milford studied new lifesaving techniques printed in the Pontiac Press.

Mrs. Schroeder gave artificial respiration to Steve Brock, 11, 175 West Maple Rd. until firemen came. Temporary lifeguard Larry Eckert, 15, and children pulled Steve's body from the Huron River under the arch in Milford about 3:30 p.m. yesterday afternoon.

When Larry hesitated to begin artifical respiration on Steve, who observers say had turned blue and had no pulse, Mrs. Schroeder took over. Firemen who arrived soon afterward found Steve's pulse in action again and the boy reviving. They administered oxygen.

He called Martha in from the sandbox at 7:45 and gave her the candy. He called her at 8, and she answered.

When Martha's four older brothers and sisters—Mary, 12; Margaret, 10; Raymond, 9; and Richard, 6—returned from swimming, he asked them if Martha was still outside. They said she was not.

Congressmen Frolic as Session Winds Up

Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said Congress overrode "narrow" partisanship and gave President Eisenhower most of what he asked. Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California pronounced the legislative record "fair to good"—but he indicated strongly he felt a GOP-controlled Congress would have done better.

* * *

Final action on much of the major legislation of the 1956 session was crammed into the final hours last night.

The Social Security bill raises Social Security taxes, effective Jan. 1, from 2 to 2¼ per cent on both employer and employe, applying to the first $4,200 of a worker's annual earnings.

WIDER COVERAGE

Furthermore, it extends coverage to about 225,000 more persons, mainly in certain professional groups.

This Democratic-controlled 84th Congress defeated or ignored many bills asked by President Eisenhower.

Democrats pointed out today that many of these also failed to pass in the previous Congress managed by Republicans.

* * *

Important parts of the Eisenhower program either beaten or not acted upon included school construction, civil rights legislation, a postal rate increase and revision of thet Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

Romeo Bank Remodelling

More Working Space Sought; E. L. Broecker Does Drawings

ROMEO — More working space will be provided when current interior remodeling of the Romeo Savings Bank is completed, according to Bank President Lawrence M. Kelly.

Former Romeo resident Erwin L. Broecker, now of Battle Creek, is the architect.

The bank now has seven tellers' cages, only four of which are usable under normal conditions. New plans call for eight usable cages along the north side of the main lobby.

The entry-way will be expanded from its present six-foot width to 15 feet, Kelly said. The bookkeeping office and air-conditioning unit will be moved upstairs following the relocation of stairways he added.

New aluminum entrance doors will complement tellers' cage grills of the same material. The lobby floor and the lower section of the cages will remain marble but will be topped with mahogany, Kelly reported this week.

He said the expansion should take care of double the bank's current business.

He illustrated his point by describing remodeling plans for the basement designed to offer an ideal location for a large loan department.

Contracts for all the work, with but one exception, have been awarded to local businessmen. David E. Pettibone is general contractor. Marble work has been let to a Detroit firm.

Project completion date is set for Thanksgiving Day, bank officials reported today. The work is scheduled in stages, so that bank operations may be carried on without interruption.

Nasser's Bite on Suez May Be Too Big to Chew, Could Brew Crisis in Mideast

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Gamal Abdel Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal can plunge the Middle East into a crisis deep as any it has known since World War II.

* * *

If Egypt gets away with it, Nasser may emerge eventually as master of the Middle East. If he loses this gamble he can wind up on the rubbish heap of former dictators.

The long-range implications of Nasser's move are great.

First, the canal is a lifeline for Britain—and for Western Europe's trade. If developments should bring about a situation in which the canal were closed, this surely would lead to some kind of military action throwing the entire Arab world into a panic.

Egypt can operate the canal as it stands. There is no great trick to that. But the Suez Canal already was becoming outdated and obsolete in some respects, and it will soon be necessary either to widen and deepen it, or to build a parallel canal. Egypt would have difficulty doing either of these highly expensive things.

OIL PRICES HIT

If Nasser intends to accomplish what he says he will accomplish through the proceeds from the canal, he must double the tolls. This means the cost of transporting a barrel of oil through the canal would rise from the present 12 cents to 24 cents, with an immediate effect upon the world price of oil.

The effect would be felt in all countries, including the United States. There would be no adequate answer to it. An attempt to ship Middle East oil by other routes would cause a shortage of tankers and would be more expensive in any event.

Nationalization of the canal indicates clearly Nasser could not expect the Soviet Union to finance his Aswan Dam. Thus, committed to an economic program he could not hope to begin without substantial foreign aid, Nasser appears to have taken a desperate way out.

Overnight, the Nasser move created an atmosphere of crisis. It indicates to the Arab world immediately a further weakening of Britain—and of the West in general—in the Mediterranean area. This can mean even more trouble for the French in North Africa and for the Western powers in the Arab countries to the East.

The Egyptian decision is bound to bring new nervousness along the borders of Israel and the Arab countries. Historically, one such move on the part of an ambitious ruler has led to other equally spectacular moves, and the next one could be aimed at Israel itself. Nasser is determined to be the symbol of "Arab liberation."

Israeli leaders have felt all along that Nasser, balked in his economic schemes and egged on by political ambitions, might need dramatic moves to keep his grip on his own power in Egypt.

VITAL TRADE ROUTE SEIZED — Map locates Suez Canal, vital waterway link in the trade routes between America, Europe and Asia, seized by Egypt. President Gamal Abdel Nasser, of Egypt, said Egypt plans to use revenue from the canal to finance her billion dollar Aswan Dam project.

Girl, 4, Dies After Ship Wreck:

Dreams of New Life Ruined

BOSTON (AP)—Their dreams of a happy new home in the United States shattered, Mr. and Mrs. Turio Desandro went into seclusion today.

* * *

But their thoughts were only of their pretty, 4-year-old daughter, Norma, youngest victim of collision between the liners Andrea Dorea, and Stockholm.

* * *

The dark-haired youngster succumbed to a skull fracture last night — some 44 hours after the crash on the fog-shrouded Atlantic Wednesday night. She had undergone a brain operation Thursday night.

Later the parents received the dreaded news from an Italian-speaking Catholic priest in an adjoining hospital room.

The Desandros — near collapse from the harrowing experience of the ship collision and strain of not knowng whether Norma was dead or alive—arrived at her bedside early yesterday morning.

Earlier Norma's father told of the fateful moments aboard the Andrea Dorea, her hull ripped open by the collision.

He said he and his wife ran to the deck with Norma. "I thought we'd better jump," he related. "I didn't want to carry the baby in my arms. If she went with me she might have drowned."

In desperation, they decided to drop Norma the 15 feet into the arms of those in the lifeboat below.

"Maybe that's when she was hurt," he said. "Maybe someone dropped her, or she didn't land right. I don't know. I just don't know."

Today, their worldly possessions are somewhere in the depths of the Atlantic, their dreams of a rich new life gone.

Prisoners Rebel in Connecticut

Sit-Down Strikers Ask to Parade Grievances 'Before the Public'

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — About 250 inmates staged a sit-down strike at the State Prison last night "to bring our problems before the public." Gov. Abraham Ribicoff promised them the chance.

Ribicoff summoned the Board of Prison Trustees to a special meeting today to hear the complaints. The prisoners had asked and won a concession from Warden George C. Cummings that two Connecticut legislators would also be present.

The sit-down strike started last night when the prisoners refused to return to their cells after the evening outdoor recreation period. They sat down on the ground and demanded that four newspaper men be sent for to hear their grievances from a committee they had chosen. Cummings agreed and summoned representatives from the Hartford Courant, Hartford Times, New Haven Journal-Courier and the Bridgeport Sunday Herald.

As the newsmen arrived, the prisoners shouted demands for the release from "isolation" of Leroy Nash, 51, serving 25 to 30 years for shooting a Danbury police captain in 1947 while being questioned in connection with the theft of an automobile.

Nash was released and some prisoners drifted into the cell blocks while their committee, including two lifers and several other long-term convicts went with the newsmen to the prison chapel to tell their story.

Surrounded by guards and state troopers armed with machine guns, Cummings mounted the wall at one end of the recreation area and ordered the prisoners to their cells or face the loss of their chance to tell their story. They went.

This was shortly after midnight and prison auuhorities believed the difficulty ended until it flared anew shortly before 1 a.m. Then Cummings summoned state police.

Lyndon Johnson--Whirlwind in Action Despite '55 Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — No one watching Lyndon B. Johnson perform in the whirlwind windup of this congressional session would suspect that a heart ailment struck him down a year ago.

The "moderately severe" attack which hit the Senate Democratic leader July 2, 1955, caused Johnson's friends to fear that his active career in the Senate and in politics had ended.

Instead, slowly at first, he has returned to the demanding chores of his position and in the final month of Congress has been carrying them out with full vigor.

The majority leader always has been the pivot on whom senate business turns. Johnson, acclaimed by many of his colleagues as one of the greatest technicians to occupy the post in modern times, has added some extra touches of his own.

The 47-year-old Texan eased into his old role in the early weeks of the 1956 session after getting clearance from his doctors in December to continue as majority leader.

He has taken a few breaks at his Texas rapch. One trip home involved a short but intense battle with Gov. Allan Shivers in which Johnson overhwelmingly won control of the Texas delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

Since his last respite at the ranch early this month, Johnson has worked at the same pace he maintained before his illness.

He has scheduled many Senate sessions running 11, 12, or 13 hours and has restlessly prowled the floor throughout. He becomes so impatient at delays that he will leap ahead of a page boy to rush a senator's amendment to the clerk's desk if it will expedite business.

The moment one amendment is disposed of, he is on his feet reminding a colleague who has another to offer.

If the sponsor of a bill is not on hand when an opportunity offers to bring it up, Johnson often will handle it himself, reading the committee report, answering questions, and sometimes getting the measure passed before its author can get to the floor.

He has a complete set of hand signals to direct the work of Senate clerks.

If things are going well and the votes are at hand, he twirls his finger rapidly in a circular motion and the roll call proceeds at a fast clip.

If his aides are out looking for a Democratic senator needed in an important vote, Johnson pushes the palm of his hand gently downward, and the senators' names are called at a slow pace.

He also has resumed in this session a tradition he started in 1955 — winning the close votes from his opposition, even though he is operating with only a two vote majority.

Perhaps his greatest triumph this year was his behind-the-scenes work in securing adoption of the amendment putting a disability payments program into the Social Security bill. On this one, he faced a strong coalition of almost all Republicans and some conservative Democrats led by Sen. Byrd (D-Va).

But the amendment, sponsored by the retiring Sen. George (D-Ga) as "the most important question I have ever presented to the Senate," was put over 47-45 even though its foes were confident up to the final moment they had it beaten.

"Lyndon wins the close ones," sadly commented a senator who battled hm on this. "He knows where the votes are, and he knows how to get them."

The Blonde Cried MURDER

By Brett Halliday

XXVI

Now Lucy's legs and right arm were bound tightly to the chair and she was helpless. It was too late now to make any attempt. If Michael would only come or telephone again! She began thinking desperately of something she might say to him if he did call that would not arouse the girl's suspicions, but would tell him what she wanted to convey.

Her captor stepped back coolly to survey her work, and she nodded with a smile that held more venom than humor. She walked across to the sofa to drop the knife into her open bag and sat down, saying, "Now we're real comfy. Just so you don't try to say the wrong thing over the phone if it rings. If it's someone asking for Nellie or Miss Paulson just say I'm here and I'll take it from there. But if it's anyone else, be careful to stall them off. No matter what you scream over the phone or how fast they can get here—it'll be too late to do you any good." She leaned forward to pick up her drink, and smacked her lips with relish as she sipped it.

"I just don't understand," faltered Lucy. "Why did Michael send you here? Why did you come when—when—?"

"When the police are looking for me for murder?" The question came equably and with frightening calm. "You are perfectly right, darling. That is blood you saw on my little knife." The words came out purringly with hidden, deadly menace.

"Because he's a fool. Like any man I ever met, he falls all over himself for a smile and a sad story any girl wants to dish out. How I love to make suckers out of them. I'll tell you all about it because, you know, you're never going to repeat a word of it to anyone. I promise you that. Just something for you to think about, dearier, while I'm waiting for that phone call."

THAT'S WHAT I SAID

Lucy sat straining stiffly against her bonds. Get her talking! She might finally get hysterical and blow her top completely.

"I want to get it absolutely straight about the telephone call you're expecting," she said as placatingly, as she could.. "So I won't make any bobbles that'll get you mad at me. Is it someone named Lanny whom you expect to call?"

"That what I said, isn't it?"

"But when you made your calls I heard you ask for someone named Bert Paulson. And leave word for him to call his sister here. But if it's really someone named Lanny you want, will he ask for his sister if he calls?"

"Never mind about whose sister I am or anything." The girl on the sofa turned sullen. "Just you do what I said about answering the phone. If it's Lanny and if he asks for his sister or Nellie, or—Well, if he just says it's Lanny, you give it to me quick."

She fumbled in her bag, took out the knife and studied it fondly. "Oh shucks, why don't I tell you who I really am, and Lanny and all? Just show you how dumb your Michael Shayne really is."

11:20 P.M.

Chief Gentry was crying:

"You never change, do you, Mike? You've got some kind of complex that makes you pull things like this. High-and-mighty Michael Shayne sitting back and pulling the strings. Manipulating people like puppets to make 'em jump the way he thinks they ought to jump. If for once in your life you'd come down to earth and cooperate with the police, things would be better for everybody concerned."

"All right," said Shayne grimly. "So hind-sight says you're right. But things are no worse off right now than you thought they were 10 minutes ago before I told you I had her stashed at Lucy's. Chances are you'll have them both before he can get to her.

"But it won't be your doing if that's the way it happens."

"This isn't getting us anywhere," interpose Shayne. "Let's take this systematically. From what we know now, do you believe the dead man was seen by Nellie Paulson in the Hibiscus at 9:30 and then shoved out the window into the bay?"

I'M JUST LOOKING

Gentry had another cigar out and was chewing on it. "That's my guess. Even if some dame did try to place him alive in the Silver Glade at 10."

"All right. Taking that for a starter. Are you assuming that my scar-faced friend is actually Charles Barnes from New York, that the dead man is Bert Paulson as his sister insisted — and that Barnes switched identification after killing Paulson in his sister's room?"

"How else do you read it?"

Shayne shrugged.. "I'm just looking at all the possibilities. I guess we might assume Barnes was slated to be the next sucker in the Paulsons' brother-and-sister act, and he objected with a sharp knife."

"It's all theorizing at this point," grunted Gentry.

"But all we can do right now is theorize. I keep going back to what Nellie Paulson told me in my room. Why did she claim she and her brother were staying at the Roney when we know she'd had that room at the Hibiscus for two weeks?"

"You tell me."

"Yeh," said Shayne, "I guess you're right. It is my baby now." He pushed back his chair and stood up, rubbing his angular jaw thoughtfully.

Changeover Set in Auto Industry

Plant Shutdowns Seen as Result; Introduction Delay for New Models

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry's assembly line volume will level off sharply within the next couple of weeks, marking the start of the annual model changeover operation.

The switchover to 1957 model cars probably will extend over the next two to three months. For some makes the changes will be of major proportions; for others there will be only face-lifting alterations. But appearance changes in all instances will be sufficiently apparent to make the preceding models out of date.

In most instances the changeover shutdowns will be of brief duration, contrary to earlier estimates. Few companies will be out of production for more than two or three weeks, but actual introduction of new models may be delayed by some makers. This would permit dealers to liquidate stocks of outgoing models and build up inventories of incoming models.

LESS CONCERN

The over-all new car inventory situation apparently is giving the auto makers much less concern than it did a couple of months ago. Indicated for production in August are about 375,000 cars. Another 200,000 will be assembled in September.

There has been some tightening up of retail deliveries according to industry surveys. Nevertheless substantially more than 575,000 new cars will be sold in August-September. That means a further cut in 1956 model inventories.

Some industry sources are optimistic enough to say the stock of 1956 model cars will shrink to around 250,000 by Sept. 30. Of course there will be a goodly number of 1957 model cars in inventory by that time.

INVENTORIES DOWN

Inventories of the industry's current models stood at 664,000 units on July 1. They had been whittled down from a record-smashing 904,000 on March 1 through production cutbacks and intensified retail sales efforts.

Some industry sources are saying most 1957 models will be introduced between mid-October and mid-November. If this be true, the presentations generally will be somewhat later than they were last year. Virtually all the volume makes were out by early November a year ago.

Ford probably will introduce its Lincoln line first again this year, probably in September. No introduction dates have been discolsed by any car maker, but the lower-priced volume makes of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler should be on the market sometime in October.

Industry gossip, lacking any comment by the manufacturer, has it that Ford will present a convertible with a retractable roof as part of its Ford division line for 1957. However, it is not expected to be ready until around the year-end.

The strange cold light produced by fireflies is caused by ovidation of a substance called luciferin.

Pleas Avert Bridge Suicide

Jobless Man Gives Up Perch on Chicago Span After 2 Hours

CHICAGO (AP) — A 43-year-old man climbed down some 100 feet from the upraised span of a bridge over the Chicago River last night after threatening to leap for nearly two hours.

As thousands of persons watched, Stanley Greak, a jobless itinerant, defied orders of police and firemen to climb down from the span of the new Van Buren Street bridge which is under construction.

Fire Lt. Edward Moliter climbed up ladder like steps of the structure and pleaded with Greak for nearly an hour to leave the dangerous perch. The Rev. Wilfrid Cool of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church talked over a loud speaker to Greak, pleading with him not to jump.

"I'll come down head first," Greak shouted several times.

Finally, after the priest promised Greak would be given a job, he climbed down the steps with Moliter just ahead of him.

Greak was charged with disorderly conduct and held for arraignment in Police Court.

Good Deed Backfires for Gallant Gentleman

SAN PABLO, Calif. (AP)—Gallantry landed Lyle D. Rumple in a hospital.

Rumple, 28, was filling the gas tank of his steamroller last night when two young women asked him to push their stalled car.

Rumple went behind their car and pushed. The car backfired, igniting some gasoline that had spilled on Rumple's shirt. He was hospitalized with second and third degree burns on his chest and arms.

The car started.

Grenade Burns 45 GIs

F.T LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (AP) — A phosphorous grenade fell short of its mark and exploded during a demonstration for 150 Army trainees yesterday, slightly burning 45 trainees and two instructors. None was hurt seriously enough to require hospitalization.

Japanese Envoy Faces Soviets

Foreign Minister Set for Toughest Task Yet: WW II Settlement

TOKYO (AP)—For years Japan's one-legged foreign minister, Mamoru Shigemitsu, has been drawing some of the nation's worst assignments. Today he is en route to Moscow on one of the toughest yet—trying to reach a World War II settlement with the Soviet Union.

* * *

Friends and critics say the results may cost him his ministry, so slim are Japan's chances of getting all she wants. But Shigemitsu demanded and got a free hand at the talks beginning next week.

He left Tokyo pledging to strive for an acceptable treaty and implying Japan would continue to reject a West German-type formula of exchanging ambassadors now and settling the issues later.

* * *

Previous talks in London were deadlocked over Japan's demands for the Southern Kurile Islands of Etorofu and Kunashiri. Japan renounced sovereignty over the Kuriles in the San Francisco peace treaty, but claims an out because the territory was given no one else and because Russia snubbed the treaty. Japan also says 1,452 of her citizens are alive in Russia and 11,190 others are missing.

* * *

"I will do my best, as if this job were the last one in my career," said Shigemitsu.

Fungus growths are second only to insects in destroying farm crops.

The Atlantic Ocean hides the world's mightiest range of mountains, winding beneath the cold waters from Antarctica to the Arctic. Although peaks of the submerged chain average 10,000 feet, the National Geographic Society says, only the loftiest pinnacles emerge as islands above the sea.

Reflections

Words We Love to Read

J. L. VOORHEES

In spite of automation, electric typewriters and all the marvels of our time the scribbled note is the one we like best.

I can't imagine young people sitting down to a fast typewriter and composing a love letter; that is little more than cold type. A hand-written letter contains a little of the person writing it, each character conveys some small part of the heart, blended into a message we love to read. There's something intimate in a hand-written letter; it is warm and inviting and the surprising thing to me is that there are as many as there are. My mother once said. "I would rather receive a postal card, written by hand, than a long letter written mechanically."

Gina Detests Publicity Put on Pretty Figures

By EARL WILSON

PARIS—"The Figure," observed Gina Lollobrigida at lunch the other day, "is not everything in life!"

The Italian beauty who is becoming the whole world's pal was complaining to me about the emphasis that is now placed on—the pretty figure—by young girls, and also by young boys.

★ ★ ★

"All they seem to talk about or look at is the poitrine. And many young girls theenk if they have extraordinary bosom they can become a movie star. Ees not that important!"

This may seem a strange speech from a girl whose low neckline picture made her famous before her movies did.

GINA L.

But fundamentally Gina is a modest gal. For example, she's a little horrified about the trend of some movie actresses to come out and admit they've posed in the nude.

"Eet doesn't exist in Italy, it's forbidden," Gina exclaimed.

Her husband, Dr. Miklo Skofic, who likes to tease her, called from the other end of the table, "What she just said is news to me . . . Don't take information from her about that."

Gina dug into her beef stew and nodded.

"Een Italy also they don't make the strip-tease."

"Not in public," chimed in her husband.

"It's good," Gina said. "It's good for the young men so they know what a beautiful girl looks like. I think it will not go, though, een Italy. I take my mother to see one and I think my mother will come dead.

"The strip-tease," Gina continued, "is esthetic.

"But these other girls who just walk around naked is not good.

"I am a woman and I feel as a man about these girls but to me eez silly. They just walk around and say, 'Lewk at me.'

"I think women who do that . . ."

Gina pointed to her head, indicating that she thought they are mental cases.

"I think they are stupid. A beautiful woman can do something else better."

Gina's English teacher, Marta Labaar, formerly of West End Ave., New York, spoke up that maybe such girls had no talent.

"All right, when I start I was stupid, but I hope I learned some things. Some stars in some countries didn't learn and are still stupid."

Gina had a cable the day I saw her, from Bernie Kamber, New York publicist, about the box office success of her picture, "Trapeze," which only whetted her appetite to come to New York.

★ ★ ★

In "The Hunchback of Paris," she follows Theda Bara, Patsy Ruth Miller and Maureen O'Hara who played in the Victor Hugo classic before.

For much of the picture she wears a torn gypsy costume (low neckline) and very dark makeup. Gina lives at the Hotel Geoyve V, a hangout of Americans. She does her own movie makeup in her hotel room and then goes to the studio.

"Many Americans see me coming out of the hotel to go to the studio in my torn dress," Gina said. "They say, 'What kind of a hotel is the George V now? Geepsy clients!"

Corps Feared Sergeant Would Try Suicide After Death Hike

McKeon Clan Sticking Together at Court-Martial

JAMES L. KILGALLEN

PARRIS ISLAND S. C. (INS) — They thought S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon would commit suicide when he was arrested.

He had done what he acknowledged Friday was a regrettable thing. To instill discipline into the 74-man platoon he was training as a drill instructor, he took the men on a march to Ribbon Creek which resulted in the death by drowning of six young marine recruits.

They clapped him in the brig for seven weeks, and guarded him closely for fear he might take his own life in remorse. He spent from April 9 to May 23 in the brig.

Then he was suddenly released and assigned as a clerk to the Rev. Maurus Cook, Catholic chaplain at the base.

FATHER SAYS 'NO'

"Ridiculous" was Father Cook's comment on the idea that McKeon had ever contemplated suicide.

"If he was going to commit suicide" Father Cook said, "he would have done it that first night."

I had dinner last night with Father Cook, several other priests, and an ex-Army officer. The topic of conversation was the McKeon case as it is everywhere you go on the Parris Island Training depot.

The priest called attention to McKeon's deep religious faith as one of the things that is buoying him up now in his ordeal of court martial.

McKeon's friends, such as Father Cook, are convinced that somehow McKeon's action in taking his "laggard" platoon on the night march will be vindicated at the court-martial.

McKeon, who is accused of drinking on duty, oppression of recruits and involuntary manslaughter, is facing the court-martial with an outward stoicism that hides the deep hurt in his heart.

WILLING TO FACE IT

He says he is willing to take any punishment that may be meted out to him. He says his platoon was composed of "likable kids" and that he loved them even though he did discipline them for what he thought was the good of the Marine Corps.

While I was dining at Father Cook's house on the base, McKeon came in.

He did not seem depressed or worried. His attitude was philosophical, almost fatalistic. His friends support the idea he was the victim of circumstances and what they contend was an unfortunate "accident."

McKeon said he told the truth in the voluntary statement he signed the night of his arrest. One significant point in the statement was the fact he avoided mentioning the name of the sergeant he had been drinking with in the hours that preceded the "death March."

★ ★ ★

He was trying to shield a friend, and was accepting all the blame himself. Rallying to the support of McKeon are his three brothers — Edward, Francis and Jim — who are in Paris Island watching developments of the trial.

All of them are from Worcester, Mass., the defendant's home town. The McKeons are a close-knit family.

McKeon tells you his conscience is clear on one point — namely, he did not take his men on the disciplinary march because he was under the influence of liquor.

NAVY DOCTOR TESTIFIES

At Thursday's court-martial session, Lt. Robert J. Atcheson, a Navy doctor who examined McKeon for sobriety, said that in his opinion the sergeant was "not clinically drunk, intoxicated or under the influence of alcohol," even though his breath smelled of liquor.

Clinical tests showed an alcohol content of 1.5 milligrams per cubic centimeter in McKeon's blood three hours after the march. The Navy standard is that anything over 1.5 milligrams means some intoxication.

The prosecution rested its case Thursday and the defense will take over Monday morning.

In all probability, McKeon will be an early witness when the defense opens its case at the resumption of the court-martial.

In court, McKeon has been maintaining an inscrutable demeanor. He sits quietly at defense table, staring straight ahead, never consulting his lawyers and otherwise behaving in the most unobtrusive manner.

His facial expression is unreadable. His pretty, dark-haired wife, Betty, mother of his two small children, watches him closely from a seat among the spectators. While court is in session, he does not seem aware of her presence, but the minute a recess is announced he hastens from the courtroom to meet her in the corridor. She seems to idolize him.

RELATIVES BACK HIM

McKeon's relatives are 100 per cent behind him. Sitting at defense table, as a defense lawyer, is Thomas P. Costello of New York, his brother-in-law.

Costello is the Irish type and bears a strong resemblance to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin.

The drama of the court-martial moves on, with the McKeon clan hoping and praying that "Matty" will somehow get a break in this crisis of his life. McKeon himself is praying, too. Father Cook says he goes to communion regularly.

Because four great lakes serve as its reservoir, Niagara Falls has the steadiest flow of all the world's great waterfalls.

Legal Basis Lacking for War Assets Plan

It is difficult to understand why Senator Dirksen still is sponsoring a move in Congress to return U.S. seized German and Japanese assets to their original owners.

The plan is in the news again because it has been given the support of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Involved is about $600,000,000 worth of property seized by our Government in World War II. It has been held under the terms of an agreement with our Allies that we and they would accept such assets in lieu of German and Japanese reparations.

★ ★ ★

The only argument advanced in favor of the Dirksen plan is that this property originally was privately owned. Actually this is not the case. Instead, these assets were controlled by the two enemy governments.

The truth is that our Allies agreed to this arrangement under strong pressure from the United States and at heavy sacrifice to themselves. For example, the Netherlands didn't come even close to being repaid for its war losses. Among other things the Germans seized and spent 40 tons of Dutch gold.

As pointed out previously in these columns, these assets are used to pay the claims of our military personnel who spent time in prisoner of war camps. They also are drawn upon to pay the claims of our own nationals whose assets abroad were seized by Germany and Japan.

There is every justification in the reparations agreement as well as the Geneva convention for retention of these assets. But there is no legal basis for their return. The Illinois Senator's proposal should be given a quiet burial.

Rescue of 1,634 at Sea an Heroic Achievement

The speed with which 1,634 men, women and children were rescued after collision of two liners in a dense fog off Nantucket Light, will go down in history as an Atlantic epic.

The achievement is all the more remarkable because only seven lives were lost in the crash. Yet the force of it was sufficient to stave the bow of the 11,000 ton Swedish Motor Ship Stockholm, sink the 30,000 ton Italian Luxury Liner Andrea Doria and cause injuries to 200.

The Andrea Doria sent out its first SOS at 11.25 p.m. Wednesday. Hours before it sank at 10.09 a.m. Thursday, many rescue ships including the Ile de France, had reached the scene. Together they carried out one of the most brilliant rescue feats in the history of man's battles with the Seven Seas.

What puzzles maritime experts is why these two ships collided in the fog 200 miles northeast of New York. Both were equipped with every known navigational aid, including radar. The fact that disaster did result under such circumstances has led experts to believe that radar had failed both ships.

★ ★ ★

At least the question of such failure is certain to be explored during the investigation maritime officials of Sweden, Italy and the United States will conduct.

Loss of the $27,000,000 Andrea Doria is a severe blow to Italy's merchant marine and is only partly covered by insurance. Lying 250 feet under the Atlantic, the 697 foot liner is beyond hope of salvage.

Survey Shows Pontiac Favorite of Shoppers

There is much food for thought for merchants in a survey which shows Pontiac to be the favorite shopping place for most Oakland County residents.

The survey was conducted last year by the University of Michigan. Co-operating in the work was the Retail Advisory Committee of the County Planning Commission. Answers to questionnaires show that 24.7 per cent of the families polled do most of their buying here.

Also shown is that 90 per cent of convenience goods—small items—is bought within the County. Seventy-nine per cent of shopping goods—where a large selection is desired—also is purchased in this area.

Merchants should note that Pontiac ranked high in all three of the major classes covering 36 merchandise items—convenience, shopping and specialty goods. Likewise worth noting is that the City with 14.1 per cent stands third among those who regard parking as a deterrent to shopping.

The report should help merchants find out why even 16.9 per cent shop outside the County. Variety was listed by 29.6 per cent, price 21.2, quality 10.3, sales 9.3, parking 6.7, style 3.6, service 3.6, convenience 3.5, more modern stores 3.2 and courtesy by 2.3 per cent.

We commend the many facts revealed by this survey to the careful study of all retailers. Undoubtedly they will prove useful in planning for the future.

Williams Hurt?

Little Chance Expcted With Combination Ballot

BY ROGER LANE

LANSING (AP)—One of Gov. Williams' close advisers takes sharp issue with the widespread belief that combining presidential and state ballots is going to give Republican state candidates a big lift in November.

★ ★ ★

He doesn't argue that joining of the ballots, voted by the Republican-controlled legislature in 1955, is going to hurt the Republican cause Nov. 6—rather that the effect will be negligible.

In the long run, he says, the advantage will be with Democrats.

The presidential race was split off from state contests and put on a separate ballot in the political heydey of Franklin D. Roosevelt, champion Democratic votegetter of all time.

Many Republicans acknowledge that the reason was to try to keep Roosevelt's popularity from dragging down the Republican state ticket.

And, conversely, in putting the ballot back together they hope to capitalize on the great popularity of President Eisenhower.

Guesses of responsible Republican leaders as to what the move may mean for their candidate for governor range as high as a plus 150,000 to 175,000 votes, although some don't care to name any figure at all.

Some Democrats go along with their viewpoint basically, but say the extent of combined ballot influence will be considerably less than the more optimistic Republicans suppose.

The thinking of Republicans is that Eisenhower admirers among independents and Democrats will vote straight Republican to register approval of Ike, or else mark for him and then skip down the ballot, perhaps to some hot local contest, before crossing over to the Democratic column.

Thus, either Republican state candidates would harvest votes they otherwise would not get, or Democratic state candidates would lose votes they otherwise could expect.

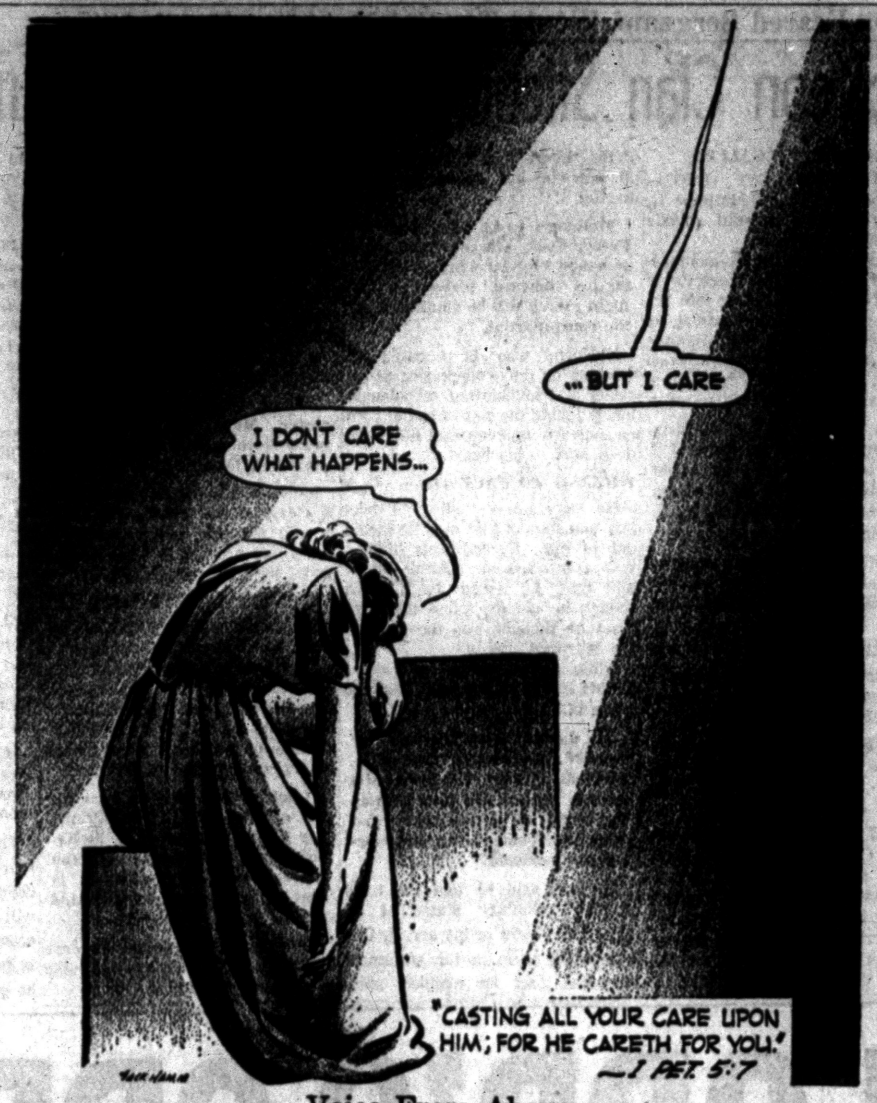

★ ★ ★

The Williams adviser, who prefers not to be named, argues that this analysis, might be valid if the Democratic state ticket were headed up by a political unknown.

Actually, Williams in Michigan has demonstrated popularity nearly, if not the equal of, Eisenhower's, and like Ike his appeal crosses party lines.

"There's no question but that in the long run it will benefit Democrats, given the fact that Eisenhower will not head the Republican ticket," he said.

This, he said, is because of the "natural Democratic tendencies in Michigan" in the past couple of decades.

Jesuits Observe 400th Anniversary

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

One out of every seven Roman Catholic missionaries is a Jesuit, that is, a member of Rome's largest order, the Society of Jesus. In 74 countries there are 32,000 members of the Society, operating more than 4000 schools.

* * *

The reason for bringing up all these statistics is that Tuesday is a very special day for the Jesuits: the 400th anniversary of the death of their founder, St. Ignatius Loyola. They have come a long way since the stern, dynamic, and ambitious ex-soldier, in 1524, gathered a half-dozen friends around him and began to devise the military type of spiritual discipline for which the Jesuits are famous.

* * *

Loyola's prominence as a churchman probably surprised him as much as it surprised anyone. What he really wanted was the glamorous life of a warrior, and it was for this that he trained himself. Born in Spain the year before Columbus discovered America, young Ignatius, the son of an impoverished noble family, grew up as a page in the court of Ferdinand and Isabella. He mingled with the knights and dreamed of the time when he could ride off to battle.

TURNING POINT

The military career he finally achieved was cut short when, in 1521, his leg was shattered in battle. The long period of recovery was a turning point in his life. Lying helpless, he could do nothing but read, and finding nothing else available, he read and re-read the life of Christ and the lives of the saints. These books, and his reflections about them, made him resolve to give his life to the service of God.

* * *

Into the religious life Ignatius brought the habits and psychology of the soldier. He developed a sort of mental manual-of-arms known as the Spiritual Exercises, a set of rules for posture, breathing, concentration and contemplation.

When perfected, these enabled him to say, "I can find God at all times, whenever I wish, and any man of good will can do the same." All Jesuits are still required to engage in the discipline of these same Exercises eight days each year.

* * *

Soldiers in those days were men of meagre education, and at 33 Ignatius went to college in Paris. It was here that he attracted his little group of six brilliant men (one of them was the famous St. Francis Xavier). Out of this group grew the Society of Jesus, set up like a military body, with Ignatius as "general."

* * *

By 1540, when Ignatius was 49, the Society had been formally approved and accepted by Pope Paul III. It had been assigned a special task—to combat the Protestant revolt that was sweeping Europe as a result of Luther's preaching in Germany. Wherever they were needed, Jesuits went to fight for the Catholic faith, disciplined soldiers in the spiritual wars.

* * *

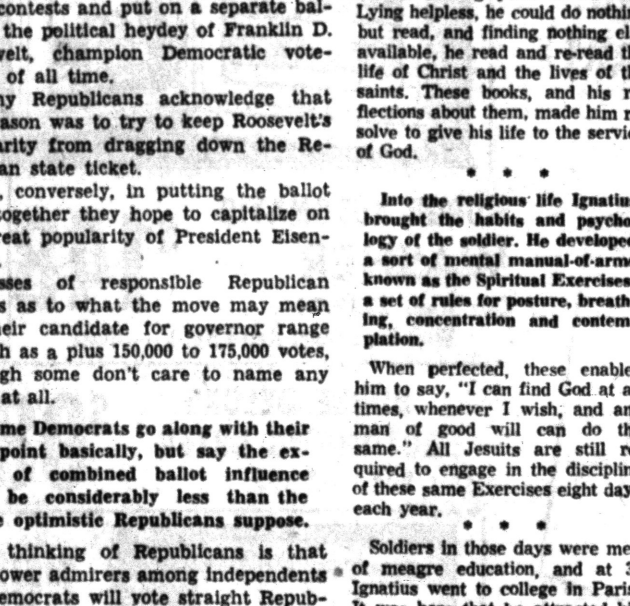

Although Tuesday is the actual anniversary of their first general's death, Jesuits are observing all of 1956 as the 400th anniversary year.

Friday, August 3 honors Nicodemus, the "master of Israel" who came to Jesus by night and engaged him in the famous discussion of "How can a man be born again?" St. John, in his third chapter, tells that this important personage, a Pharisee, obviously representing other Pharisees who did not come, appeared before Jesus on some sort of secret mission which he never got a chance to mention. The Lord dominated the conversation from its beginning, and we do not know what Nicodemus had intended to talk about.

We do know, however, from succeeding passages, that Nicodemus was much impressed. In John, Chapter 7, verses 50-52, it is stated that Nicodemus, through his high rank among Jewish authorities, was able to prevent temporarily the arrest of Jesus. In John, Chapter 19, verses 39-40, it is recorded that, with Joseph of Arimathea, Nicodemus got custody of the Lord's body, embalmed it and put it in the tomb.

The Church assumes, quite logically, that Nicodemus became a Christian.

Weather Committee Extension Requested

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

These days there is little talk of causing rainfall by seeding clouds with silver iodide, but I read an editorial in the Rural New Yorker, which indicated that farmers are interested in the plan of inducing rainfall during periods of dry weather. The editorial said:

"President Eisenhower in December 1953 appointed a scientific committee 'to find out whether it is possible to modify weather to the extent that important increases in precipitation and other benefits can be realized.'

"The committee has shown that the particles do produce 'substantial and economically important increases in precipitation,' at least on the Pacific Coast. There the increases are said to range from nine to 17 per cent. It is noted, however, that these gains occurred during winter and spring in moisture-laden mountain air of the western United States. In the Northeast, there has been little, if any, increase of precipitation from seeded air.

"Even though cloud-seeding in the Northeast is so far negative, there is no reason to believe that further research will not show us how to wring water out of the dry overland air which the prevailing westerlies bring to us from the West. It will be to farmers' advantage, as well as to that of the entire nation, if Congress enacts legislation extending the life of the Weather Control Committee for two more years until 1958."

Stassen Join Democrats? Goldwater Says He Should

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) suggested today that Harold E. Stassen go over to the Democrats and quit "creating dissension" among the Republicans.

Goldwater, a staunch supporter of Vice President Nixon, said in an interview that Stassen's move to replace Nixon on the GOP's 1956 ticket with Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts is disturbing the Republican party's drive to reelect President Eisenhower.

"We gave Paul Butler (Democratic national chairman) Wayne Morse," Goldwater said.

"I suggest that we now have another candidate in Stassen we might consider for a party transfer.

"While I recognize any Republican's right to suggest any candidate of his choice, Stassen's move is nothing but an attempt to gain personal publicity. Obviously he is trying to create dissension in an otherwise harmonious Republican party."

Sen. Morse (D-Ore) was elected to the Senate as a Republican. But early in the Eisenhower administration he soured on GOP policies and became an independent. Finally he joined the Democrats. He is opposed in the November election by Douglas McKay, former secretary of the interior in Eisenhower's Cabinet.

Goldwater's blast at Stassen, Eisenhower's special assistant for disarmament, added to the apparent drive of Republicans to disarm Stassen in his anti-Nixon campaign.

Sen. Thye (R-Minn), an old associate of Stassen, said he had told Stassen he regarded as "untimely" the presidential assistant's effort to replace Nixon with Herter.

The Minnesota senator said if Stassen wanted to bring up the matter of Nixon's renomination he should have done so before Eisenhower said he was delighted Nixon wanted to run again. This is as close as Eisenhower has come to outright endorsement of Nixon for renomination.

They said he believed Stassen had emphasized unnecessarily the matter of Eisenhower's health by suggesting that Nixon would weaken the Republican ticket.

Stassen has announced he is undertaking the new poll to shore up his claim that an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket would run 6 per cent behind an Eisenhower-Herter combination. Stassen expects the results of this poll to be ready by late next week.

According to Stassen, the original poll—on which he based his campaign to block Nixon's renomination — showed the vice president running last in a field of eight names. The results of this poll have not been released.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Milk — Best Riboflavin Source

I took riboflavin as you suggested, for cracks at corners of mouth, which I had had for some time. Almost immediately the cracks healed. After a few weeks I discontinued the tablets and now after two months time, they have reappeared. Would it be harmful to take the tablets all the time? (L. H. D.)

Answer—No. Riboflavin (vitamin B2) is food, not medicine. But the best sources of it are milk, skimmed milk, buttermilk, evaporated milk, dried milk, cheese, wheat, wheat germ, wheat bran, beef, greens, broccoli, eggs, peas, beans, spinach, turnip greens. A 5 mg. tablet of riboflavin four times a day is fine to correct the riboflavin deficiency manifest by fissures at the corners of the mouth, cheilosis (sore lips), irritation of eyes like sand in eyes and sensitiveness to sunlight. But correct your narrow diet to prevent development or recurrence of the deficiency.

Please send me your pamphlet on Acne, (Blackheads and Pimples) in the stamped, addressed envelope inclosed. The Brady Baby Book saved me untold worry in bringing up my daughter. (Mrs. D. S. J.)

Answer — For copy of The Brady Baby Book send thirty-five cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope. For the pamphlet on Acne send stamped, self-addressed envelope. No clipping, please.

Please send me your pamphlet on reducing. I am 15½, five feet, 6½ inches tall and weigh approximately 146 pounds. I play in all kinds of sports at school, and the physical ed. teachers say I am all muscle and I really need some more fat . . . (M. B.)

Answer—A girl in her 'teens should not attempt to reduce unless under the constant supervision of her physician.

Do you advise injection treatment of varicose veins? If so, where can one get such treatment? (H. G.)

Answer—Yes. From your physician. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for the pamphlet on Varicose Veins.

I am being treated for pyorrhea. Have you a leaflet on care of the teeth and gums? Is there anything I can do besides brushing the teeth and picking around them with toothpick? (Mrs. T. H.)

Answer—Send thirty-five cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope for booklet Save Your Teeth. It has chapters on pyorrhea and gingivitis (gum inflammation.)

I had a six weeks attack of gallbladder inflammation. Three doctors agreed about it, but none gave me any relief. I sent for your booklet, tried out the "non-surgical drainage" and it surely worked. I am feeing fine now, and I want to thank you . . . (L. R.)

Answer—The Booklet, So You Have Indigestion? is available to any one who asks for it in writing (not with a clipping) and incloses 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope. It is just as likely, Ma'am, that you'd be feeling fine now if you had never heard of non-surgical drainage.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Let us always remember that God has never promised to supply our wishes, but only our wants, and these only as they arise from day to day.—Dickson.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Bible Still Is Tops; Read It

Rev. Hulse presents a stimulating idea which was entirely new to me and to all Bible students whom I have asked since then. It deals with the Three Wise Men. For Rev. Hulse shows how these Wise Men saved Christ's life by their first Christmas gift. Discuss this in Sunday School tomorrow and don't let another week pass before you start regular Bible reading.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case S-324: Rev. E. Duane Hulse, aged 35, is called the "flying parson" of Wisconsin, because he has his own airplane and uses it to get to distant cities for speaking engagements.

* * *

"Dr. Crane, a new thought just came to me last Christmas," Rev. Hulse began.

"And it illustrates the familiar fact that no matter how many times you read your Bible, you can always get new and stimulating ideas from it.

* * *

"For example, I was re-reading the Christmas story. And as I perused the account about the Three Wise Men, a new thought suddenly struck me.

"Those Wise Men saved the life of Jesus! For the first Christmas gifts which men ever offered were the gold and frankincense and myrrh of the Three Wise men.

"And it must have been their gift of gold which enabled Joseph to take Mary and the infant Jesus into Egypt to avoid the vicious Herod.

"As an average carpenter, Joseph could not otherwse have afforded a trip abroad, which was what the journey into Egypt really amounted to.

"But the gifts of the Three Wise Men came at a very timely moment. By means of that gold, Joseph was able to finance the costly trip and the long sojourn in a foreign country.

"Dr. Crane, had you ever thought of it in that light before?"

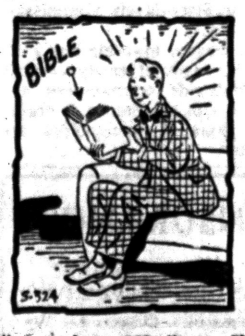

READ YOUR BIBLE

No, I had never heard of this stimulating suggestion before, though I have read the Bible from cover to cover many times and have been teaching Bible classes over 35 years.

* * *

And when I asked my mother about it, she, too, said it was a new but very logical suggestion.

My mother has read the Bible through from Genesis to Revelation perhaps 100 times. She kept regular count up to 72 times but has quit counting since then.

Since then I have asked many clergymen and public audiences this same question, but nobody has ever reported having thought about Rev. Hulse's idea before.

A year or so ago I reminded you that most of the Applied Psychology which I offer in this column, and even in my college textbook on that subject, came from the Bible.

For instance, I asked my mother what trade or profession the Good Samaritan belonged to. She said the Bible didn't indicate the answer.

But I reminded her that it did, for the Good Samaritan told the inn-keeper "When I come again, I will repay you."

That word "again" suggests it is usually a traveling salesman who makes a regular itinerary through his territory until he is well acquainted with hotel or motel keepers.

Gideon, too, started the compliment club idea which I have stressed in this column for years.

And Gideon also initiated the psychological screening of army recruits by his famous "water test." Gideon even asked God to submit to tests, to prove God's identity.

BIBLE LIVES

Earlier this week I told you to read the Bible instead of taking silly sleeping pills to combat your insomnia.

* * *

For the Bible is a living, useful book which is up-to-date and constantly offering new slants on human behavior.

It is not just the best seller, but also the most influential book ever written.

When dying, the famous author Sir Walter Scott didn't ask for any of his own famous books, but only for the Bible. That is true of all authors as well as newspapermen. We all know it is tops.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Confident Living

Texts From Bible Provide Ammunition for the Battle

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Are you afraid? Do you ever awaken in the night with your mouth dry, your body tense, and your being filled with a cold sense of insecurity? Do you sometimes have a sinister apprehension that something terrible is about to happen?

• • • • • •

If you do, you may be suffering from abnormal fear. There is a sharp distinction between normal fear, with which all of us are endowed, and abnormal fear, which we develop. Normal fear is a wholesome mechanism built into us by our Creator and is important to the exercise of good judgment. But abnormal fear is something quite different. It is an unhealthy thought pattern that causes us to live in a dark and shadowy world of terror.

PEALE

A good many people spend their lives groping in that pitiful condition. Dr. Lester L. Coleman, a distinguished medical authority on fear, has called it the most dangerous ailment of our times. And the late G. K. Chesterton wrote, "Fear is the greatest plague of mankind."

Only a few days ago I was talking to a woman who is a freshman advisor in one of our universities. "What is your greatest problem with your girls?" I asked.

HOW MODERN IT IS

"That's an easy question," she replied. "Fear. The poor things have all kinds of anxieties and worries. I wish I could learn to help them more effectively."

I was able to tell her that she already owns the greatest textbook ever written on the subject of overcoming fear. That book is, of course, the Bible. It contains so many answers to this particular problem that I always have difficulty choosing among its various texts. For example, the seventh verse of the first chapter of Second Timothy: "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." How modern the Bible is! Its writers understood so well the psychological conflicts of human beings.

This text suggests that to overcome fear, simply combat fear with the power of faith. There is only one power greater than fear, and that is faith. So, the secret of overcoming your fears is to cram the mind full of faith. It is that simple. Crowd fear out of your being by crowding your mind full of faith. This is not a quick or easy process, for long-held mental habits resist efforts to change them. But in time faith will displace fear.

COPY OUT OF THE BIBLE

A good way to accomplish this is to get a pencil, a piece of paper and a copy of the Bible. Go through the Bible and write down every passage that speaks about faith. Among these you will find: "If ye have faith . . . nothing shall be impossible unto you." (Matthew 17:20) "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid? (Psalm 27:1) ". . . be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for the Lord thy God is with thee withersoever thou goest." (Joshua 1:9) And many others.

Every day commit one of these dynamic and life-changing passages to memory. Say it aloud the last thing before you go to sleep at night. That will help it sink into your unconscious mind which operates during sleep to the exclusion of the conscious mind.

Day by day, drop these faith thoughts — and each day you will have memorized a new one — first in your conscious mind, and gradually they will absorb into your unconscious mind. When that happens your thinking will no longer be motivated by fear, but rather by faith.

• • • • • •

Do this deliberately and persistently and it will change your life. Faith will crowd out fear. You will then be free of this miserable thing that has brought you so much unhappiness.

Sixth Generation of Clerics Realized

With the ordination of the Rev. William Hector Sherertz as an elder in the North-East Ohio Conference by Bishop Hazen G. Werner on June 10, and his graduation from Oberlin Graduate School of Theology the next day, there entered the service of the Methodist Church a sixth generation of ministers and missionaries of the denomination.

Mr. Sherertz was appointed associate pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Portsmouth, Ohio. He traces his ministerial line back to the first Lambuth on his mother's side—when the name was spelled Lambeth—who was ordained by Bishop Francis Asbury.

William Hector Sherertz is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Dwight Lamar Sherertz, missionaries in Old Umtali, Southern Rhodesia, formerly serving in China. Mrs. Sherertz, born in China, was Margarita Mary Park before her marriage.

Urge Uniformity in Religion Plan

Educators Confabs Find Importance of Weekday System Is Growing

Some 300 delegates representing a score of Protestant denominations have called for a greater degree of uniformity in the organization, administration and supervision of the nation's 3,000 weekday "released time" religious education systems.

• • •

The religious educators, convened last week at Oberlin, O., for the four day First National Conference on Weekday Religious Education, also urged development of uniform new curriculum materials and the establishment of a national "clearing house" for the recruitment and placement of weekday teachers.

• • •

The conferees predicted that the weekday religious education program is on the threshold of becoming "a power in the nation" and that such moves would aid in making the programs a dominant influence in the adult lives of the estimated 3,000,000 U. S. school children now enrolled in the classes.

• • •

Said a summary paper: "The weekday program should promote understanding, respect, tolerance and good will on an interchurch and interfaith basis through the sharing of ideas and concepts. Each home and community should be well informed, especially of state laws recognizing the legality of weekday programs."

Asks More Aid for Indigents

Cincinnati Mayor Sees Economic Development Need Overseas

Charles P. Taft, Mayor of Cincinnati, warned last week that Americans must give more thought to the consequences of economic assistance to underdeveloped countries.

Speaking to 70 Protestant leaders from both sides of the Iron Curtain at a six-day conference sponsored by the World Council of Churches at Arnoldshain, Germany, Mr. Taft told them that it is "not really Christian for many of our good church people in the U.S. to say that farmers must produce all they can so long as anyone is hungry anywhere."

"They admit only grudgingly,' he said, "that surpluses forced on a country can depress local farm prices and take away the markets of nearby farmers in other countries."

Americans must use their brains as well as their hearts in planning aid, he declared. Although it is easier to "spread blue jeans and coca-cola" than qualities of mind and spirit, it is nevertheless "The mind and spirit and not the clothes and the gadgets that constitute our attitude toward our Christian obligations."

The U.S. church leader urged Christians to examine the process which produces Christian character both in individuals and in the community.

"Gifts must come to an end and people must be helped to help themselves," he continued. "That is what we Americans need to think more about. Too often we talk only about the radios, the telephones, the automobiles, television sets and bathtubs we own as evidence of progress. This is not the U.S.A. This is a result, not a cause or basic characteristic."

Rather, he said, the basic characteristics of the American people are "home work, a desire to excel, ingenuity, the free choice of individuals to participate in community life and generosity of spirit with sense of missionary obligations."

• • •

Taft addressed a session of a conference on "The Responsible Society in National and International Affairs," called by the Division of Studies of the World Council of Churches. A prominent Protestant Episcopal layman, he is chairman of the Department of the Church and Economic Life of the National Council of Churches. Countries represented at the conference included Canada, Czechoslovakia, East and West Germany, France, Great Britain, Hungary, the Netherlands, Norway and the U.S.

Senate Opposes Pacts Based on Discrimination

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Senate has passed a resolution opposing discrimination by foreign nations against U. S. citizens because of religious affiliations.

The measure, calls upon the State Department to make "every reasonable effort" to guard against such provisions in agreements with other countries.

It was sponsored by Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-N.Y.) and others as a result of U.S. pacts going along with Saudi Arabia's refusal to admit American Jews.

International Sky Pilots Aimed at Boys of World

Sky Pilots, a boys' group at Christian Temple, is an international organization aimed directly at the boys of the world with the objective of building them into pillars of the church.

General Elmer B. Sachs, founding director of Sky Pilots and a former police detective of Evanston, Ill. believes that a strong Christian character built into our youth is the greatest defense against Communism as well as the only sure method of breaking down juvenile delinquency.

A boy is believed by the Sky Pilots to be the most valuable asset we possess in our country.

He is the future professor of the colleges; the future Christian business man; the future politician to govern our cities, state and nation tomorrow; the leader of our churches; husband of our daughters and father of our children's children.

Sky Pilots use this Bible verse, Proverbs 22:6, "Train up the child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

Besides the Christian training, a program is set up to train the Junior Division of boys in all phases of aeronautics, photography and radio especially for missionary training.

Boys of the Senior Division are taught real flying, training Sky Pilot "Circuit Flyers" as missionaries for all parts of the world.

In Sky Pilots, the men of the church work with the boys, with two men designated to assist every five boys, both spiritually and in the missionary program.

The group at Christian Temple is known as Squadron No. 1653 and is comprised of 25 boys and 14 men. It was organized three years ago.

James R. Maddox is the lieutenant colonel over all squadrons in Michigan. The local group has June Gibson for its captain; Arthur VanZandt as chaplain and Harold McCrae, lieutenant, as secretary and treasurer. The six flights are headed by a first and second lieutenant.

Recently Captain Mitsuo Fuchida, the former Commander who led the air attack of Pearl Harbor, joined forces with Sky Pilots as Chief Sky Pilot of Japan. He intends to raise up and train the coming generation of Japanese leaders how to lead Japan in the Christian way of life.

More Grade Teachers Have College Degrees

CHICAGO — More elementary-school teachers than ever before are college graduates nowadays.

Records from states that have made a complete study of such teachers in service for the past seven years show that only 46 per cent were college graduates in 1949 compared with 67.7 per cent this year.

Tourists to See Religious Sites

Athens Market Place Where Paul Preached To Be Reconstructed

American tourists in Greece soon will have the chance to walk over the spot where the Christian apostle, Paul, preached a gospel which was entirely new to the world of about 1,900 years ago.

The Agora, ancient market place of Athens, was the site at which the great Christian missionary walked almost daily and preached about the teachings of Jesus Christ who had been crucified in Palestine about 50 years before Paul's visit to Athens.

The city was the cultural capital of the ancient world and a great seat of learning at the time of Paul's visit.

Thousands of historic objects, excavated from the market place, will be seen in the reconstructed Stoa of Attalos which will be dedicated September 3 as a museum of the Agora.

Aided by Rockefeller funds, the American School of Classical Studies has financed the restoration.

Paul's visit to Athens is described in the Bible in the 17th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles.

The Bible tells how Paul" . . . saw the city (Athens) wholly given to idolatry (and) therefore disputed . . . in the market place daily with them that met with him."

YOUTH BUILD WINDOW-WELL — Young people of the First Congregational Church have dug out the earth for a window-well at the church. Busy building the well-wall of cement blocks are (left to right) Bruce Bancroft of 2944 Edgefield Dr., Allan Olson of 916 Spence St., Terry Moore of 4882 Cass-Elizabeth Rd. and Carol Olson of 916 Spence St. The youth of the church have also been painting, laying tile and plastering. They work with the adult groups who are doing much of the finishing of the interior of the new sanctuary themselves.

Churches Construct New Buildings, Add to Old

Pontiac pastors are finding their pews so filled on Sunday mornings that some churches are holding two worship services.

Other churches have found it necessary to expand. Some are buying more property and constructing entirely new buildings while others are adding to the present structure.

The St. Paul Lutheran Church has a new church under construction at Third and Joselyn Ave. Built of brick, it will seat nearly 500.

The congregation of the Church of Christ on Joselyn Ave. has bought the First Free Methodist Church on Lafayette St. and the Methodists have acquired about two acres at Mt. Clemens St. and Crystal Dr. construction work has started on their new brick building.

The Church of God at 132 Wesson St. has plans underway for the new church on W. South Blvd.

An extensive building program is on the agenda of the Evangelistic Tabernacle. A new building has been erected at 2800 Watkins Lake Rd. where 19½ acres were purchased.

A separate dining hall, with kitchen and cabins for missionaries are in the future plans. A motel providing room for 40 families during camp meeting sessions will also be built. Most of the work is being done by members.

The Newman African Methodist Episcopal Church on Auburn Ave. is replacing the old church with a new one on the same location. The congregation has worshiped there for 90 years.

Apart from the heating, plumbing and electrical work, the construction of Perry Park Baptist Church of gray shingles with white trim, was the work of the congregation. It was dedicated in March.

The footings and foundations are in for the new Christian Missionary & Alliance Church. The Rev. G. J. Bersche states members will be helping with the building.

The new Pilgrim Holiness Church was dedicated in March. The congregation helped to finish the building.

Members of the First Congregational Church have completed much of their huge building program. The men and boys are doing a great deal of the interior work.

Started a year ago, the Columbia Avenue Baptist Church gray with white trim, will be dedicated in October. Men and boys have painted, plastered and helped with other interior jobs.

The Five Points Community Church, dedicated in March, was built by the congregation during the past year. The 32x40 ft. building has a full basement containing Sunday School rooms, kitchen and nursery. The sanctuary and pastor's office are above.

The First Open Bible Church is building a 40x50 ft. annex with full basement including a recreation room for a young people's youth center.

Because the men and boys are doing all the work, the building which will be valued at $30,000, will cost just $12,000.

The First United Pentecostal Church is in the process of constructing a new church and All Saints Episcopal and Marimont Baptist churches have made plans to add to their present structures.

Several other congregations have outgrown their present sanctuaries but have made no definite plans for the future.

According to the American Iron and Steel Institute report, the church building boom in the United States, which has boosted church construction to ten times the level of a decade ago, shows no signs of levelling off.

Within the next ten years, an estimated 70,000 new churches will be built, at a cost of $7 billion.

The large church building program is attributed to the rapid growth of suburban communities, the general rise in population and the increased interest in religion.

Special Service Slated

A special service will be held in the Bray Temple, 320 Rockwell Ave. at 3:30 p.m. Sunday. This is sponsored by the Stewards' Board.

Methodists Consecrate 40 Lay Speakers

When the North Arkansas Conference held its 121st session recently in Conway, Ark., a feature of the session was the consecration, as lay speakers, of 40 laymen of the conference. This was the first formal lay speaker consecration service in Methodist history. The consecration service, conducted by Bishop Paul E. Martin, was perpared by the North Arkansas Conference Lay Leader, Charles A. Stuck. It was held as a regular part of a morning business service and was conducted at the altar of the Conway Church.

FAITH OF OUR FATHERS

Faith of our fathers, living still
In spite of dungeon, fire and sword."

History reveals that throughout the centuries there have always been those who have stood true to the Faith. It has cost some the price of their lives. Others have suffered terrible injuries and injustices, but in spite of all this they have stood true to the Faith.

This "Faithof our fathers" was not a foggy, indefinable loyalty to a certain manner of life. It was not an emotional attachment to any organization. The Faith to which our fathers were true was the Bible message of salvation through Jesus Christ. This is what the Bible describes as "the faith which was once delivered unto the saints." (Jude 3)

Bible-believing Christians who took their stand on the Bible were willing to follow the truth wherever it led. They were willing to stake their lives on preserving the pure Bible message of salvation.

In our day, too, there are thousands of congregations of Bible-believing Protestants who have centered their lives in the Gospel of Jesus Christ. They are not trusting in their own moral standing or in the good deeds which they do. Their faith is founded on the Bible message of salvation through Jesus Christ, because they have come to understand that "while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." (Romans 5: 8)

The fathers of the Christian Faith demonstrated their complete trust in the death of Jesus Christ as the sole ground for their salvation—so do Bible-believing Christians today. The Bible clearly states that our attitude toward Jesus Christ is the determining factor in our salvation. "As many as received him (Jesus), to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." (John 1: 12)

You are sure to find a welcome wherever you find a Bible-centered congregation of Christians. The pastor and the members of such a congregation will be glad to help you understand the "Faith of our fathers."

Augustana Lutheran Unit Officially Changes Name

Through the adoption of a completely new constitution, setting up a concentrated General Board of 10 men,—eight laymen and two pastors,—the organization which was officially known as The Brotherhood of the Augustana Lutheran Church for over 30 years has now been changed to Augustana Lutheran Churchmen, this action having been voted at the biennial convention just closed at Bethany College, Lindsborg, Kansas, with well over 200 delegates in attendance from all parts of the country. Pastor C. Oscar Leonardson of Rock Island, Ill. serves as executive director for the Churchmen's group.

* * *

Instead of having one representative from each of the 13 Conference Units, plus the regular officers and committee chairmen, the new plan divides the Augustana Evangelical Lutheran Church into eight areas, with a layman elected from each such area, and with one pastor from the east and one from the west of the Mississippi River.

* * *

Another change was that the officers of Augustana Lutheran Churchmen have been elected from among the 10 General Board members.

Carl H. Jacobson of Cranford, N. J. was named as president, and also to represent the eastern part of the country, except New England. A. LeRoy Anderson of Forestville, Conn. will represent the New England States.

The Illinois and Superior Conference area will have Herman Nelson of Rockford, Ill. as its representative of the Red River Swenson of St. Paul will serve as vice president and Minnesota Conference representative.

* * *

Attorney Ray Holmquist of Warren, Minn. will be secretary, and representative of the red River Valley Conference and Canada.

Earl High of Bertrand, Nebraska represents the Iowa and Nebraska area, and Gunnar Alenius of Colorado Springs, Colorado will serve as treasurer and representative of the Kansas-Texas area.

* * *

The eighth layman is Harold V. Swanson of Seattle, Wash., named to represent the California-Columbia area. Pastor Frans A. Victorson of St. Joseph, and Pastor John R. Benson of Salina, Kan., will serve the eastern and western parts of the country, respectively.

Name Chairman for Bible Week

Sixteenth Observance Slated for Oct. 15-21 for All Faiths

NEW YORK — The Laymen's National Committee, Inc., an all-faiths organization, has announced that Melvin H. Baker has accepted their invitation to act as National Chairman for the sixteenth annual National Bible Week observance, October 15 - 21.

* * *

Mr. Baker is Chairman of National Gypsum Company in Buffalo, N. Y. and Vice President of the United States Chamber of Commerce. The announcement was made by George Peck, Chairman of the Committee.

In accepting the Chairmanship, Mr. Baker said, "I am happy to do this job because all people should study the Bible, which is the foundation for our civilization."

* * *

Continuing with his discussion of the plans ahead for this year's National Bible Week, the 1956 Chairman elaborated by saying, "Shortly we will be asking leading men and women in 500 different communities to become chairmen of groups in each of their respective communities.

Newspapers, magazines, radio stations, theaters, churches, schools and other public groups across the nation will be asked to take part in this great campaign."

* * *

"Aside from comfort to be had in our day-to-day troubles, much can be gained to bring peace if the people throughout the world approach the international issue through spiritual teachings of the Saviour. This can all be found in the Good Book."

Men's Conference Slated; to Proclaim Faith in God

In the first national convention of its kind, thousands of American men will gather in Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 14-16 to proclaim their faith in God and dedicate themselves to Christian living.

Coming from all points in the U.S., representing all walks of life and upwards of 30 different denominations, these "men in the pews" as well as in the pulpit will be delegates to the first National Convention of Christian Men, convened by United Church Men, a unit of the National Council of Churches.

The Rev. Billy Graham, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Mayor Roe H. Bartle of Kansas City and Congressmen Walter Judd are scheduled to address the convention. The program will also include a fellowship breakfast, workshop discussions of the role of the layman in the nation's religious life and a pre-convention luncheon with Ohio civic leaders.

* * *

Convention chairman J. Clinton Hawkins, St. Louis, Mo., business leader and national UCM chairman said primary emphasis will be on the importance of the laymen's role in church life.

"Outstanding advances and changes have usually been made by laymen, but in today's rapidly moving society too many men have lost touch with the real life of the church," he declared. "Their group interests have drifted into secular channels, particularly during the past fifty years.

"Now the church is attempting to recapture their interests and loyalties. Study groups and projects have shown men a new Life of the church' and pointed the way for their participation."

United Church Men was established in 1950 at the constituting convention of the National Council of Churches, in the same auditorium in which the Convention will be held.

WCTU Slams Vodka in U. S.

President Labels Drink 'Subversive,' Links It With Espionage

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—The president of the Woman's Christian Tempernace Union today urged a ban on the advertising and sale of vodka in the United States as a security measure.

Mrs. Glenn G. Hays said "sudden spiraling promotion and consumption of the notoriously strong Russian drink is creating new alcoholics and adding to the juvenile problem."

She said Interal Revenue reports showed an increase in American vodka consumption from less than 220,000 gallons in year ending in mid 1952 to about 6 million gallons in the year ending Jnue 30.

Mrs. Hays termed "men without conscience" as manufacturers and advertising of the Russian drink in the United States. She added that the drinks were being publicly advertised to the "alcoholic and gullible."

CITES MARINE CASE

The president also attacked the sale of vodka in the military service. "It was the drink of Sgt. Matthew McKeon before he led his platoon of mostly teenage marine recuits into a swamp where six drowned," she said.

"Russian big-wigs," Mrs. Hays said, "have been feeding the stuff to Western diplomats to dull their wits for years. Unless American consumption is curbed, it may result more disastrously than Russian espionage."

Graham Warns of Red Growth

Says U.S. Is a 'Nation of Neurotics' Needing Moral Return to God

NEW YORK (INS)—Evangelist Billy Graham returned to New York this week from a global tour and declared that Communism has not slackened but continues to penetrate every corner of the world.

* * *

The only way it can be stemmed, Graham added, is through a moral and spiritual return to God.

During his travels, the evangelist said he found great fears of atomic weapons and that "some madman may some day get into a position of power and explode the whole world into oblivion."

"The solution to the problem must be found now, not by future generations," Graham said, "for the bomb may fall before then."

WORLD—IS SICK

He addressed the opening of the 30th annual conference of the Independent Grocers' Alliance, at New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Graham noted that the "whole world is sick" with social, economic, racial, international and political problems.

The evangelist term America a "nation of neurotics" who need sleeping pills at night, pills to wake them and pills to keep them active at work.

* * *

The mind of man is where the danger lies, Graham asserted. He advised that "we must create a moral and spiritual force in the world whereby we can demand of our leaders that we have in our time the peace that is the world's hope."

Methodist Study Groups Increase Mission Funds

Methodist college students in 265 campus groups across the United States increased their giving this year to causes beyond their own campuses by 22 per cent or $6,245, the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church has announced. Total giving to such causes through the Methodist Student Fellowship Fund in the 1955-56 school year was $34,938, as compared with $28,693 given in 1954-55, the mission board said.

The Fund includes missionary, educational and interdenominational student projects. It is administered and promoted by the Board of Missions, the Methodist Board of Education in Nashville, Tenn., and the Methodist Student Movement (MSM), an organization for Methodist college students. The total amount given this year was almost 30 times the amount given in the Fund's first year, 1943-44, when receipts were $1,172, and the increase this year over last was the largest in any one year.

Chinese Resettled

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Free China Relief Assn. reports it has helped resettle 52,888 refugees on Formosa from the Communists since 1951. The association said it plans to set up new aid stations this year along the rim of Red China at Hong Kong, the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu and other points.

Baltimore Civic Pride Overflows a Little

BALTIMORE (AP) — Perhaps because younger cities have grown up and surpassed it in population and production, many Baltimoreans take a special interest and pride that the port here still is second in the nation for handling foreign tonnage.

Shipping is such an interesting subject, in fact, that Edward W. Heath and Frank T. Siejack are $50 the poorer for it.

Police broke up a fight between the two seamen—one armed with a knife, the other wielding a beer bottle—and both were later fined $50 in Central Police Court.

The trouble started, said Heath, in a discussion of the state of Baltimore shipping.

Artist Museum

FALMOUTH, Va. (AP) — The home of Gari Melchers, the noted artist, is being taken over by the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts and will be operated as a museum dedicated to his memory. It will assemble the largest display of Melchers' work in the world.

Sister Settles Claim Against Martin Estate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The sister of the late Glenn L. Martin has settled her claim against the aircraft manufacturer's 15-million-dollar estate for approximately 3½ million dollars.

A petition approved yesterday in Superior Court gave Miss Della Martin 70 per cent of the residue of her brother's estate after payment of $3,625,000 in specific bequests and eight million dollars in taxes.

Four cousins, 12 cousins once removed and four second cousins contended Miss Martin should not share in the residue because the will had set up a $50,000 trust fund for her.

Martin, 69, died last Dec. 4 in Baltimore. His sister has been in a sanitarium near here for several years.

3 Democrats Seek Nomination

This is the fifth of eight articles on Oakland County candidates for local, state and national offices in the August 7 primary election. Previous articles have discussed both Democratic and Republican candidates for county offices and the county's six legislative posts.

Three Democratic candidates have filed for nomination as State Senator from Oakland County, the 12th Michigan senatorial district.

They include one Pontiac candidate, city Commissioner Philip E. Rowston, and two from the southern end of the county, Daniel J. Connolly and Fred Elias.

Brief biographies of the candidates follow.

DANIEL J. CONNOLLY

A Royal Oak paint store owner, Daniel J. Connolly, 28, is one of three candidates seeking Democratic nomination as Oakland County State Senator.

Connolly, who has no political background, is a graduate of parochial schools. He is married and has six children.

He spent five years in the U. S. Naval Reserve, and is a member of the Ushers Club of Shrine of the Little Flower, Knights of Columbus and the Detroit Yacht Club.

Connolly is president of the Detroit Paint Salesmen's Club.

* * *

FRED ELIAS

A Hazel Park restaurateur, Fred Elias, 42, also seeks the Democratic nomination as Oakland County State Senator.

Part-owner of six drive-in restaurants in the suburban Detroit area, Elias was the Democratic nominee for the post in 1954.

A member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, Elias is on the Board of Directors of the Michigan Restaurant and Caterers Association. He is a past president of the Hazel Park Businessmen's Association and the Michigan Drive In Association.

A county resident for 15 years, Elias is married and has three children.

* * *

PHILIP E. ROWSTON

Pontiac City Commissioner Philip E. Rowston is the third county candidate for the Democratic nomination as State Senator.

Rowston, 34, of 24 Utica Rd., was appointed to the City Commission in 1955 and elected to the post from District 2 this year.

A graduate of Olivet College and Detroit College of Law, Rowston is a member of the Pontiac law firm of Beer, Rowston and Currah. He belongs to the county, state and national bar associations.

Rowston was appointed to the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board in February, replacing Harcourt S. Patterson, who was also his predecessor on the City Commission.

He is a director of the Pontiac Real Estate Board, a member of the Board of Deacons of the First Congregational Church, an Amvet, an Elk and a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

A lifelong Pontiac resident, Rowston is married and has two children.

MacArthur Pushed for Senatorial Post

NEW YORK (AP)—A petition has been circulated in Wall Street urging that Gen. Douglas MacArthur be nominated as the Republican candidate for U.S. senator from New York.

Workers, soliciting yesterday in the financial area, reportedly garnered more than 1,000 petition signatures in 90 minutes.

The petition was sponsored by a group of organizations, two of which listed themselves as "The United Americans Against Communism" and "The Lincoln-Taft Republican Voters League of Brooklyn."

MacArthur could not be reached for comment.

Island Prisoners Riot Over Food, Defy Police

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP)—Striking convicts perched on the roof of this Caribbean island's only prison last night, defying tear gas and fire hose attempts to bring them down.

Most of the 138 men confined at the prison went on strike yesterday, complaining about their food. They spent the day on the roof and shouted "we want justice" to crowds gathered around the prison walls.

More than 150 policemen sprayed tear gas on the roof and firemen doused the area with heavy streams of water, but the prisoners refused to budge.

Steel Peace to Increase Economy, Cost of Living

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Labor Peace in the steel industry will pack a one-two punch. The first will be a quick boost to the industrial division of the economy. The second will be a nudge to the rising cost of living.

Some view the steel strike as a bitter but corrective pill that trimmed inventories and put the industry in position for a heady fall and winter. As the furnaces slowly return to full production, many see a scramble to get steel. It may be three or four weeks after the fires are relighted before all the steel distribution pipelines are filled again.

Others look beyond this immediate shot in the arm to the long-range inflationary promise of a wage-price hike in basic steel.

During the strike steel prices went up by $8 or $9 a ton in anticipation of the settlement. And steel scrap prices jumped $6 a ton. Steel spokesmen have long contended that each $1 of added labor costs of their own spreads through the economy so that they have to pay out another $1 to their suppliers for materials and services.

Manufacturers and builders, faced with higher steel prices, will seek to raise their own prices whenever they can, depending on how much competition they face.

If price hiking spreads, increasing the demand for credit and exciting speculation, the Washington money managers are expected to move in and tighten the money supply as a deterrent.

Price hiking at the retail level comes considerably later. Some of the recent price hikes on consumer goods trace their lineage to long past increases in material and labor costs.

Pitch for Freedom Earns Fling in Jail

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP) — Pat Heaton Jr., Cheyenne County attorney, was in the midst of summing up a forgery case in District Court yesterday when a glass ashtray whizzed past his head.

It was thrown by defendant Rollo Long, 39, Sidney.

It just missed.

Long had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. He wouldn't say why he made the pitch at Heaton's head.

A jury found him guilty and he was sentenced to two years

Miss Michigan on Tour

MUSKEGON (AP)—Michigan, 19-year-old auburn-haired Shirley Swanson of Muskegon, started a 30-day tour of the state yesterday visiting Grand Haven, Holland, South Haven and Benton Harbor. The tour, sponsored by the Muskegon Junior Chamber of Commerce, aims to acquaint Michigan with its representative in the Miss America pageant at Altantic City in September.

There's No MAGIC in the Word "Guarantee"

Contrary to public belief, the mere fact that something is advertised as "guaranteed" is not particularly important. Here's what is important:

1. WHO IS THE GUARANTOR?
2. WHAT ARE THE TERMS OF THE GUARANTEE?

A guarantee is no stronger than the guarantor. A guarantee, in spite of its name, may not in fact be of any protection whatever. It depends upon its terms.

FUN ON THE FARM — 6

Lucky the Duck

Ducks are amusing creatures. On land they waddle along awkwardly, swinging from one big webbed foot to another. But the moment they reach water, they glide away with grace.

Thousands of ducklings are raised for market, and most farms have a stream or pond on which a few ducks are kept.

Here is Lucky Duck, a pet on the farm where Polly and Billy live.

Color this picture with crayons, making the duck yellow, with a bright orange bill and some dark markings on his wing tips. Paste it down on cardboard, and cut out the parts with care. Fold the lower panel forward at the dotted line. Cut along the heavy top lines of the clumps of grass in the foreground and fold them up at the dotted line.

Cut a slit for the heavy dotted line in the water. Cut the small slit in the duck's neck. Slip the bill through the slit in the neck and catch it in the small nick "X", which will hold it in place.

Slip the duck into the water in the dotted line until it rests on the table top. From the back you can move the wing by the curled down tip "Z", then the wing will move and the beak will open for food.

The couple took a week-end honeymoon trip following their wedding in the Ferndale Women's Club.

For the rites, performed by the Rev. Roy Lambert, pastor of the Drayton Plains Presbyterian Church, the bride wore a Chantilly Lace, ballerina gown and carried yellow roses.

Attending the couple were Barry Eugene and Ronald Adkins, both of Auburn Heights, and George Elrod and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dubovoy, all of Royal Oak. Mrs. Dubovoy was matron of honor.

McKeon Defense to Hammer Training

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (INS)—Marine Corps methods of training recruits at Parris Island will be spotlighted when the courtmartial of S.Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, 31, is resumed Monday.

The defense will open up its case, and try to show that McKeon wasn't the first drill instructor to take recruits into the swamplands and tidal waters of Ribbon Creek on nighttime disciplinary marches.

Six recruits lost their lives by drowning Sunday, April 8, when McKeon, annoyed at the lack of discipline of his 74-man platoon, led them into the swamps and tidal waters of Ribbon Creek.

McKeon is charged with involuntary manslaughter, oppression of recruits and two counts of drinking alcoholic beverages—specifically vodka—while on duty.

Defense Counsel Emile Zola Berman contends that nighttime marches to instill discipline and boost morale were the accepted practice at Parris Island.

Cutter Runs Aground

HOLLAND (AP) — A 186-foot Navy training ship, the PCE 877, ran aground on a mud flat in Holland Harbor Friday. The Coast Guard cutter Woodbine from nearby Grand Haven was attempting to pull the ship free. The vessel was en route to shore to discharge 70 seamen and officers for weekend liberty. Most of the shorebound seamen were Navy reservists.

Higgins' Fight for Govt. Economy Drew Wide Support

President Eisenhower receives Michigan Senate Resolution from George N. Higgins and fellow Senators.

As a State Senator, Higgins fought the opposition to a standstill in resisting "new taxes." A Pontiac Press editorial declared "In matters of state economy, Senator Higgins is the taxpayers' first line of defense." Of the over 100 laws authored by Higgins were bills which created a community hospital authority for Oakland County; increased the state's share of race track betting by two million annually to help schools and local government; plugged loopholes in the sales tax law to get tax dodgers; provided a homestead tax exemption for disabled veterans; and other benefits for deserving veterans.

Higgins Has an Outstanding Legislative Record

George N. Higgins, 56, has a record of accomplishment during his three terms as a State Representative and four terms as a State Senator unsurpassed, not only in Oakland County but in Michigan. He is one of the few men in State Legislative history to be the author of over 100 Bills which actually became law. It was Higgins' bill which gave Oakland County its own Congressional District and thus provided Oakland residents with a larger voice in Congress. After becoming known as a powerful force in the Legislature, Higgins voluntarily retired two years ago to await Congressman George Dondero's retirement.

Mr. Higgins (right) with retiring Congressman George Dondero and the late Senator Wadsworth

Higgins Is a Tireless Republican Worker

President Eisenhower and George Higgins campaigning.

George N. Higgins has often been called Oakland County's "Mr. Republican." For over 20 years he has worked on every organizational task from the precinct level on up. He was president of the Oakland County Lincoln Republican Club and was County Chairman of the Republican Party. He has been a delegate to county, state, and national GOP conventions. He managed the first successful U. S. Senate campaign of Homer P. Ferguson.

Higgins Helps Deserving Youngsters Through College

George N. Higgins never went to college. There were long, hard years as a farm boy in Pickford, Michigan, as a hired hand, drugstore clerk, Detroit auto production line worker, car salesman, and eventually he became owner of his own successful automobile agency in Ferndale. Although the demands of life deprived Mr. Higgins of the college education he had hoped for, he has been determined to do as much as he can for others who need help. To date, Mr. Higgins has helped finance over 100 youngsters through college, and the program grows every year. Twenty-nine are in schools of their choice, receiving help from the Higgins Foundation, this year.

George Higgins and two of his "kids," Rev. Carl Thomas, Lutheran minister, and Natalie Sayers, now a school teacher, who got help from the Higgins Foundation, Inc.

Higgins Has Achieved Personal and Business Success

Mr. Higgins with his sister, Mrs. Jane MacRoberts of Royal Oak, and former U. S. Senator Homer Ferguson.

From his boyhood days on an Upper Peninsula farm through years of hard work, George Higgins' native ability and ingenuity have established a record of success. He is an outstanding GM dealer whose labor policies and programs have attracted nationwide attention. He married Eva Isabelle Quayle of Ishpeming in 1920 and resides on a farm near Clarkston. The Higgins' have four children and 12 grandchildren. His family is well known in the county. Among many honors Mr. Higgins has received the Oakland County Medical Society Award for outstanding service and the Book of Golden Deeds Award of the Ferndale Exchange Club.

Higgins Has Fought for Better Roads

In 1955 Governor Williams surprised many political leaders by appointing Higgins to the Michigan Turnpike Authority, despite the fact that the two had bitter fights when Senator Higgins, as a legislator, opposed some of Williams' programs. Higgins was immediately elected Chairman of the Authority. He launched a vigorous program to negotiate route problems to make way for the Turnpike and the traffic relief it would provide on Telegraph Road, U. S. 10, and other parallel routes. Working long hours at this unpaid public job, Mr. Higgins has settled many problems trying to provide better, safer highways. Pontiac City approved the turnpike location and the Oakland Road Commission endorsed the project as badly needed.

Chairman Higgins gets Pontiac OK on Turnpike Route from Mayor and City Manager.

Leap Year Offers No Privileges

By EMILY POST

A girl writes: "Isn't it proper during Leap Year for a girl to reverse the usual procedure and invite a boy to go to the movies and dances with her?

* * *

"Several of my friends and I would like to invite the boys for dates instead of their asking us. My mother is shocked at this idea and says that this is not proper—even in Leap Year. Will you please give us your opinion?"

Answer: Except at a special Leap Year dance to which the girls do invite the boys, call for them, send them boutonnieres, stand in a doe line, cut in on the boys and take them to supper, Leap Year is a fable. Every day behavior at home, in school and even at parties is exactly the same as in every other year.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have been having an argument as to what is proper in the following instance:

"We live on the second floor of a two-family house. When we have visitors, is it necessary for either my husband or me to go down the stairs and open the door for them when they are leaving, or may we say goodbye to them at the head of the stairs and they let themselves out?

"I think someone should go down with them but my husband says this is unnecessary. We would appreciate hearing from you on this matter."

Answer: I agree with your husband.

Career Girl Watches Her Jewel Use

Charm Bracelet Out of Place in Business Office Work

The question of jewelry in the office appears often on personnel evaluation sheets, employer's interview records and the complaints of men who have secretaries.

It's curious that women who know exactly how to dress for office work often forget that jewelry is part of an office appearance.

Prime offender is the charm bracelet. This, of course, does not mean the "grandmother" bracelet with its small round discs. This refers to the big, bunchy bracelets with a handful of jingly, snag-prone gadgets, some of which burst out into the American flag if the owner isn't careful.

These are fine souvenirs to have and many women have collections of many years' standing. But they should not be worn in an office. They look immature, they catch on clothing and paper and they make what can often seem like a fearful racket.

Next offender is the long necklace or bead arrangement. A man feels pretty silly when his secretary bends over the desk and a long chain settles on his blotter.

Tremendous pins with your name on them aren't suitable for the secretary of a businessman This doesn't refer to the nameplates many women have to wear as part of their uniform. They indicate who is serving the patron. But a private secretary shouldn't wear anything too eye-catching or distracting.

A ballerina-length gown of white embroidered organdy was worn by the bride. The gown was fashioned with a square neckline, and short tucked sleeves, and had a bouffant skirt marked with a delphinium blue band ending in a back bow. Her small hat was of matching material.

* * *

She carried a white prayer book with stephanotis and spray orchids with variegated ivy streamers.

ATTENDANT IN BLUE

Mrs. Cassell Purcell of Jackson was her only attendant. She wore a delphinium blue organdy dress with an Empire waistline and carried a crescent bouquet of blue delphinium, florette stock and cornflowers.

Edward S. Rawlins of Indianapolis, Ind., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was his best man. Lt. Richard J. Barvlett of Muskegon and Dr. Lathrop F. Berry Jr., of Ann Arbor, seated the guests.

The bridegroom was graduated from Culver Military Academy and the University of Michigan Medical School. He is a member of Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity and Nu Sigma Nu Fraternity.

Suburban and casual walking sheers and cottons are gaining in popularity since country and casual clothes are becoming increasingly important with each new season. Easy, comfortable sportwear and separates are actually fashions for a way of living rather than for specific locales.

Develop Habit of Deep Breathing

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The complexity of our physical makeup and the precision with which our bodies operate are miracles. Let us think today of our breathing apparatus.

Each day we breathe in and out a tremendous amount of air. This passes through our noses, where it is warmed and where dust and dirt are filtered out. From there the air goes on through our bronchial tubes into our lungs.

The bronchi are somewhat like a tree, branching over and over again until they become quite small. These tubes have blood vessels and it is the blood which carries oxygen to our tissues. We take oxygen in when we inhale and throw off waste gases when we exhale.

We do not have to remember to breathe. There is a boss in our brain who says just how much oxygen we need. When we exercise we require more than when we rest or sleep. That is why we breathe more rapidly and deeply after physical exertion.

One value of exercise is that it increases our oxygen intake and speeds the elimination of waste products. Correct breathing and deep breathing exercises are important to everyone, but they have been found to be especially beneficial to the underweight or nervous person and to the insomniac.

Try to overcome the habit of shallow breathing and develop deeper breathing. Poor posture often causes a man or woman to breathe shallowly.

Here is an exercise for you to try. Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Raise your arms overhead, shoulder width apart, palms facing.

Inhale deeply as you bring your arms sideward and downward. Exhale as you raise your arms overhead again. Continue slowly.

If you would like to have my leaflet on breathing exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No.26. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Deep breathing exercises are important to everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Holmwood of Newport Beach, Calif., are shown beside their 1908 Locomobile. They visited here with their cousins, the Paul Hagles of Middlebelt road. They left California June 13 and stopped at Estes Park, Colo., to attend a four-day car meet. Leaving Pontiac today, for Tawas, they will attend a seven-day meet of the Veteran's Motor Car Club, then on to the New England states and to New York where they will meet their son when he returns from Europe in late August. The Holmwoods have 10 antique cars including an 1897 Ness-Steamer, 1901 Gasmobile, 1906 Model K Ford, 1908 Autobug, 1908 International Harvester, 1917 Dodge, 1923 McFarlan and two 1927 cars, a Franklin and a Chevrolet.

Barbara Neal Marries Lt. Walter C. McLaughlin

BIRMINGHAM — First Presbyterian Church was the setting this afternoon for the marriage of Barbara Neal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gerald Neal of Brookwood Lane, and Lt. Walter Clayton McLaughlin. Walter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Durham McLaughlin of Chicago.

White Italian peau de soie with a deep collar of heirloom duchess lace formed the bride's gown. A floor-length skirt billowed into a chapel train.

A tiny cap appliqued with the same lace held her fingertip illusion veil, and the bridal bouquet was of white rubrum lilies and stephanotis.

ATTENDANTS' GOWNS

The bride's attendants were gowned alike in waltz length white organza, embroidered in tiny pink satin motifs. Crushed waistbands of ice-pink satin formed small bows at the back, and pink straw crown hats completed their costumes. They carried pastel pink daisies.

Linda Neal was her sister's honor maid, and classmates at Smith College were bridesmaids. They included the Misses Charlotte Hine of Garden City, N. Y., Anastasia Ludlow of Easton, Md., and Mary Kearns of Chicago.

Mr. McLaughlin was his son's best man and ushers were Richard Hill of Kankakee, Ill., Duane Batista of Chicago, John Purvis of Grosse Pointe, and Joseph Graydon DeCamp of Cincinnati, Ohio.

RECEPTION AT CLUB

A reception was given at Orchard Lake Country Club.

Mrs. Neal wore pale blue peau de soie with a matching net hat and Mrs. McLaughlin wore toast silk organza with a matching hat. Both wore corsages of rubrum lilies pinned to their purses.

For her wedding trip to the Homestead, Hot Springs, Va., the bride wore a silk tweed dressmaker suit with a natural straw hat.

The couple will live at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Velvet Hat 'First for Fall'

PARIS (INS)—A bulky and vividly colored velvet hat will be the first autumn "chapeau" of smart women in Paris.

* * *

Claude Saint Cyr, milliner of Queen Elizabeth of England and noted Paris hat designer, says that such a hat is like a master key—it opens all doors to elegance.

MUST BE VIVID

"Choose a 'shock color'," Madame Saint Cyr advises. "You have time for a black hat later in the season."

* * *

The hat designer suggests bright red velvet for blondes, jewel green for brunettes and a vividly blue hat for women with blue eyes.

"Parisiennes," she explained, "choose their hats before the rest of their winter wardrobe.

Any chic French woman knows that she always will have a 'little black dress' and possibly a charcoal gray suit for winter. And with those fundamental clothes she can wear any shade and any style of hat."

* * *

According to Madame Saint Cyr, women in Paris are showing a new devotion to hats. She said:

"They choose hats with their hearts, while they decide about the rest of their wardrobe with the brain."

The tiny monkey-caps and the comma-shaped head ornaments are out.

* * *

"I see the elegant woman wearing her hair longer—down covering her ears. Necessarily the hats must be big and bulky, not flat."

Black Still Is Leader in Evening Dress Style

Though Edwardian colors come into their own at night for fall, far and away the fashion leader is black, generally high necked in front and low cut in back, even for afternoon.

* * *

Though they are high necked, they are so severely unadorned that it is unthinkable for them to be worn without a necklace. Jewels give them life.

Slim-as-it-can-get is a bad idea for overweight Junior. Soft pleats, away-from-body lines flatter the problem figure.

Softness, femininity, and control introduce fall dress fashions. Dresses with jackets for early wear in town and back-to-school, assure comfort when temperatures climb as dresses usually have cool-cut, sleeveless bodices. Pleats ease the sheath.

A modern space man is anyone who can find a parking space.

Harriman Gaining in Southern Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — State Rep. Paul Powell says New York Gov. Averell Harriman's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination is gaining support from downstate delegates to the party's national convention.

* * *

After a meeting of 17 delegates yesterday, Powell said some delegates who previously favored Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri were "switching to Harriman."

Among those present were former Gov. John Steele and former U. S. Sen. Scott W. Lucas, the leaders of a downstate revolt against Adlai E. Stevenson.

However, V. Y. Dallman, Springfield newspaper editor and a delegate-at-large, said in a statement yesterday that the "great bulk" of Illinois' 64-vote delegation will vote for Stevenson at the convention.

"Only five or six votes of the entire delegation are in doubt," Dallman said. He did not attend the Powell meeting.

Ike Campaign Backer Resigns

To Devote Full Time to Race for U. S. Senate as Competition Eases

DENVER (AP) — Dan Thornton, former Colorado governor and a golfing companion of President Eisenhower said he will resign next month as chairman of the National Republican Farm Campaign to devote all his time to a race for the United States Senate.

* * *

The 46-year-old cattle rancher disclosed the plan after he was assured of the GOP nomination for the Senate seat which Sen. Eugene D. Millikin is quitting because of ill health.

Thornton's November election opponent will be either Charles F. Brannan, Secretary of Agriculture in the Truman cabinet, or John A. Carroll, former Denver congressman and Democratic senatorial nominee in 1950 and 1954.

The two were designated by Colorado Democrats to fight it out for the nomination in the Sept. 11 primary election.

Thornton jumped into the Senate race less than 36 hours after the 65-year-old Millikin announced in Washington he is retiring.

Thornton said he will go to Chicago Aug. 4 to the farm headquarters. He will speak in Kane County, Illinois, Aug. 5, and spend the next two days in Chicago with farm leaders.

* * *

He plans to confer with Republican chairman Leonard Hall in Washington Aug. 8 to resign the National Campaign job.

Tigers Edge Nationals, 5-4

DETROIT (AP) — Frank Lary is a pitcher who gets himself in and out of trouble but sticks in there long enough to pitch more innings than any other Detroat Tiger moundsman.

• • •

The Washington Nationals got to the strong-armed Alabaman for 11 base hits last night, but eight strikeouts — six of them in the last four inning's—choked off scoring threats and preserved a 5-4 triumph for the Tigers before 17,298 fans at Briggs Stadium.

The Tigers got only seven safeties off lefty Bob Wiesler and reliefer Bud Byerly, but three of them thrown in with four walks in the fourth inning provided the Detroiters with all their runs.

The Tigers sent 10 men to bat against Wiesler in that inning and it was Harvey Kuenn's 19th two-bagger of the season with the bases loaded that wrapped it up.

Charlie Maxwell singled to lead off. A walk to Al Kaline and a single by Ray Boone — who was celebrating his 33rd birthday — filled the bases. Bob Kennedy's long fly to left scored Maxwell and sent Kaline to third.

Kaline came in as Frank Bolling bounced into a force play. Then Wiesler walked Red Wilson and Lary again load the bases. Kuenn came through with a two-out smash to right center to plate three runs.

Byerly checked the Tigers on two singles over the last four innings while the Nats tried to catch up.

They had—scored a single run in the second on Herb Plews' single and Jose Valdivelso's double, and two more in the fourth on three singles and a two-base-hit by Plews.

But Lary got stronger as the game progressed. He retired the side in order in the 5th, fanned two batters in the 6th and two more in the 7th.

Lary now has toiled 168 innings, or about three full games more than any other Tiger pitcher. Last season he led the club in innings pitched with 235.

Paul Foytack, who has won three straight, goes today against the Senators' young righthander, Pedro Ramos. Foytack has an 8-6 record, while Ramos has seven wins and seven losses.

'Ham Shoot' Sunday

Lake Orion Gun Club offers shotgunners an interesting 3-way competition Sunday at the outdoor range on Stanton road. Shooting begins at 11 a.m. and a field of around 100 is expected. Shooters will use both small and large bores, plus a round of trapshooting. The shoot is entitled a "ham shoot," one of a series of similar events during the season.

TAKES STATE HONORS — Sally Sharp, 19-year-old golf star from Birmingham, won her first big championship yesterday by rallying to win the State Amateur Golf Championship at Muskegon. Miss Sharp defeated Mrs. Jack Scripsema, 1-up.

Sally Wins State Title

MUSKEGON (AP) — Sally Sharp, a tournament veteran at 19, has indicated that the coming departure of Wiffi Smith may not leave Michigan without a rising star in the top circle of women's golf.

• • •

The smooth-stroking Michigan State University sophomore fashioned a one-up victory yesterday over Mrs. Dorrie Scripsema in the finals of the 40th annual Michigan women's amateur golf tournament.

It was the first major state title captured by the Birmingham coed. But she had served notice of her ability in several other tournaments.

Last year Miss Sharp was runner-up to Wiffi for the state amateur crown. Wiffi, winner of the British and French Women's Amateur laurels, plans to shift her base of operations from St. Clair to Texas early this fall.

• • •

The Sharp-Scripsema championship fight yesterday revealed some precision work with the putter and short irons.

Mrs. Scripsema, the Grand Rapids women's titleholder, proved deadly on and around the greens on the back side. She sank a 25-foot chip shot on the 14th to take the lead for the first time. She maintained the margin on the next hole by canning a 20-foot putt good for a half.

The two finalists halved the first six holes and Miss Sharp jumped to a 2-up lead by winning the 7th and 8th. Mrs. Scripsema won the first hole on the 9th with a par five.

• • •

They played even on the first three holes on the backside before Mrs. Scripsema squared the match on the 13th by sinking a 10-foot putt.

The Grand Rapids stylist took over the lead on the 14th with the 25-foot chip shot and held on to it through the 15th with the 20-foot putt.

On the 16th, a par 5, Miss Sharp squared the match with a five. Both drove into the rough on the 17th, but the MSU coed recovered well and went ahead with a par four.

• • •

They halved the 18th with par 5's, both conceding putts only inches from the cup.

Miss Sharp entered the finals after a 4 and 3 semifinal victory Friday morning over Mrs. E. O. Reynolds of Lansing.

Mrs. Scripsema got a shot at the title by eliminating Mrs. Keith LeClair of Ypsilanti, one up.

COURTNEY FAILS — Washington catcher Clint Courtney is out at the plate in yesterday's game at Briggs Stadium. He attempted to score when teammate Jim Lemon hit a double to left and when Charley Maxwell dropped the ball getting ready for the throw. # Young Boxers Please Fans in Benefit Wisner Bouts

By BILL CORNWELL

Where finesse was sometimes lacking, it was always replaced by an abundance of enthusiasm and vigor in Friday night's amateur boxing show at Wisner Stadium.

• • •

Approximately 600 spectators paid to watch 26 young battlers throw leather from every conceivable direction during a 13-bout card of three two-minute rounds each. Before the proceedings ended, there were two technical knockouts and one official knockdown.

Last night's show was staged for the benefit of the newly-organized Auburn Heights Boys Club. Proceeds from the program went to the Auburn Heights organization for the purpose of expanding recreational equipment and facilities.

Fighters from the Pontiac Boys Club, West Bloomfield Boys Club and Auburn Heights Boys Club, along with boxers from Ray Monnett's gym in Pontiac, participated in the bouts. The young pugilists ranged in weight from 60 pounds to the 190-pound heavyweight class

• • •

The two TKO's were scored by Dick Byers of West Bloomfield in the 135-pound class and Herb Harris of Auburn Heights in the same division. Byers stopped Ron Elam of Auburn Heights at 1:22 of the 3rd round while Monnett's Bob Morrow keeled over at 1:38 of the 2nd. Pontiac's Mike Denihan was credited with a knockdown in the 125-pound division when Auburn Heights' Tom Selhost went down for an automatic 8-count in the 3rd round.

Larry Lamphere, Pontiac Golden Glover from Monnett's gym, and Dave Blower of the Pontiac Boys Club fought a three-round exhibition scrap at 165 pounds to round out the show. Blower hit the canvas for a 9-count in the 2nd round and Lamphere gained a unanimous verdict.

A team trophy was awarded to the Pontiac Boys Club for compiling the most victory points. Trophies, donated by Sid Sacks of Pontiac, were presented to each boxer by Oakland County Sheriff Frank Irons.

Steve Kenjalo refereed the fights and Stan (Stag) Allen, Bill Sauer served as judges. Bill Bridges, Monroe Osmun and Phil Strange was the timer. Steve Navarre and Jim Savage, both from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, promoted the bouts.

Your Neighbor's House

Outdoor Living Areas Vary in Style

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Oakland county residents, with 400 lakes at their doorsteps, are understandably interested in outdoor living. They may have air-conditioned houses, but they like to get outside.

The day of the front porch is no more. If you have an outdoor sitting room, it will probably be at the side or the back of the house, hidden from the street and possibly the neighbors.

Modern homes often have a detached outdoor living area. Some people build extra space when they add a garage and screen it in.

Others may enclose the carport with screen, preferring family recreation space to shelter for the car.

* * *

Unscreened terraces and patios are common at lake homes. Occasionally the cooking and eating area is near the water, while the space for relaxed living is close to the house.

* * *

Grills are common appliances seen in yard after yard. These range from an old oven grate set over some bricks to the most elaborate grill. Picnic tables usually are placed close by, although some families have folding tables which are stored away when not needed.

* * *

Outdoor living areas are do-it-yourself projects, as a rule. The man of the house may not have built the house, but he cuts his building teeth on a screened porch or a patio.

* * *

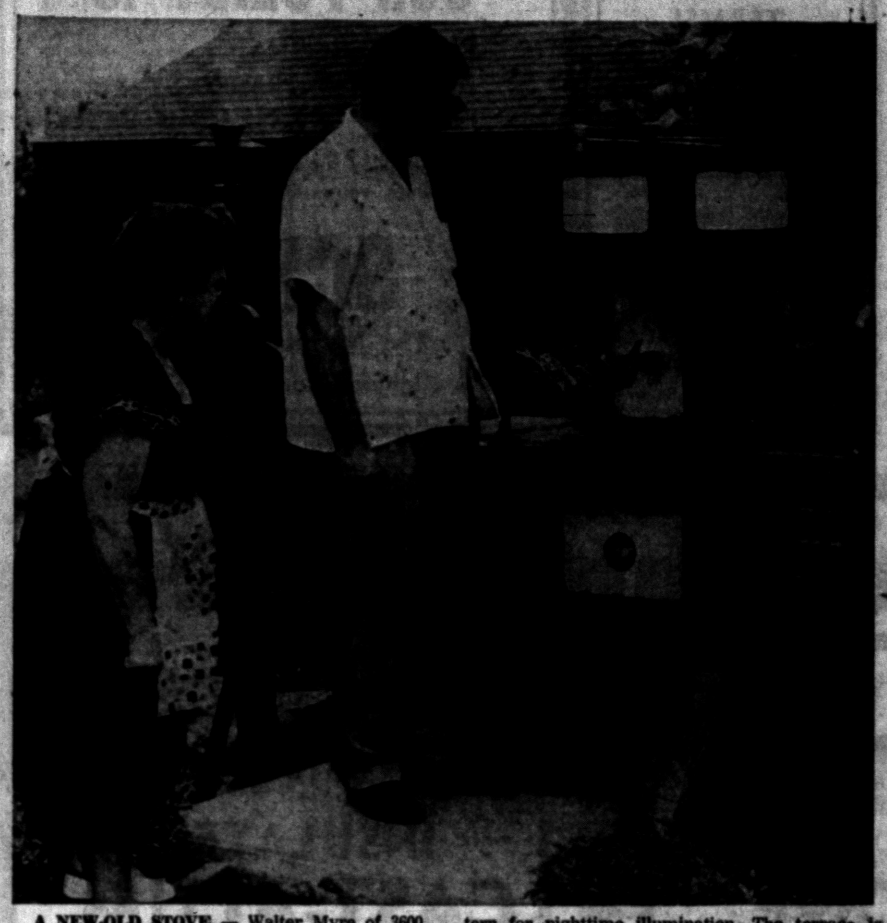

Materials used are as varied as the individuals who build the porches, terraces or patios. Coming into high flavor now are the colored cement slabs which lend a spot of color to the area underfoot. Other "flooring" material may be cement blocks set on edge, bricks, slate slabs, gravel or a regular cement floor.

* * *

Lawn furniture, of course, is used in most of the outdoor living areas. But sometimes the budget was strained to get the essentials, and discarded furniture from other parts of the house makes its appearance for the first year or two.

* * *

We're a nation of fresh-air enthusiasts and nowhere is it more apparent than it is in the Pontiac area on a warm summer day.

A NEW-OLD STOVE — Walter Myre of 3600 Lincolnshire, Lincoln Heights, used an old-fashioned range to make his outdoor stove. He has added a very modern touch with an electric revolving spit for barbecuing. One advantage of this range is that it gives more cooking surface. Beside the stove is a pump helding a small lantern for nighttime illumination. The terrace is concrete, with the bricked stove set a step above the eating area. Along each side are flowers, while entrance to this terrace is through a rose trellis. Mrs. Myre is the gardener. Both are shown in this picture, watching spareribs cook.

Glass Paneling for 'New Look'

Wall-height sliding panels of plate glass—because of their direct association with modern architecture—can do more than any other single improvement to modernize an old house, some architects feel.

* * *

Otto Wenzler, architectural consultant, says sliding window walls result both in a feeling of modernity within the house, and a look of modernity without. He lists these "modernizations" which can be accomplished through a single installation:

Room expansion—by allowing the lawn, patio or terrace to become part of the room's living area during fair weather.

Apparent room expansion—by extending visibility to include lawn and distant view, regardless of weather.

* * *

Heightened illumination, and lowered electric bills—by making as much use as possible of natural daylight.

Cool interior temperatures in summer and "natural" warmth in winter, especially if windows are properly oriented and equipped with overhangs, and if they use double-pane insulating glass.

Such windows allow the low lying sun of winter to warm the home, but block direct rays of the high summer sun.

"Smooth reflection" which gives a perfectly finished look to the house exterior. This results from high-precision "twin grinding" of the glass to produce straight-line almost photographic images when viewed from street or lawn.

SWINGING IN A HAMMOCK — Mrs. Norman L. Pattison, 4465 Motorway, Elizabeth Lake, takes life easy on a sunny summer afternoon. Tall trees shade the grassy terrace in front of her house and cast irregular shadows over the table, chairs and hammock. Stepping stones lead from the basement recreation room to the walk going down to the lake. In front of this section of the terrace is an outdoor fireplace. Behind it, in the background of the picture, is a rock retaining wall. The stepping stones are sunk into the grass and can be run over without injury by a lawn mower.

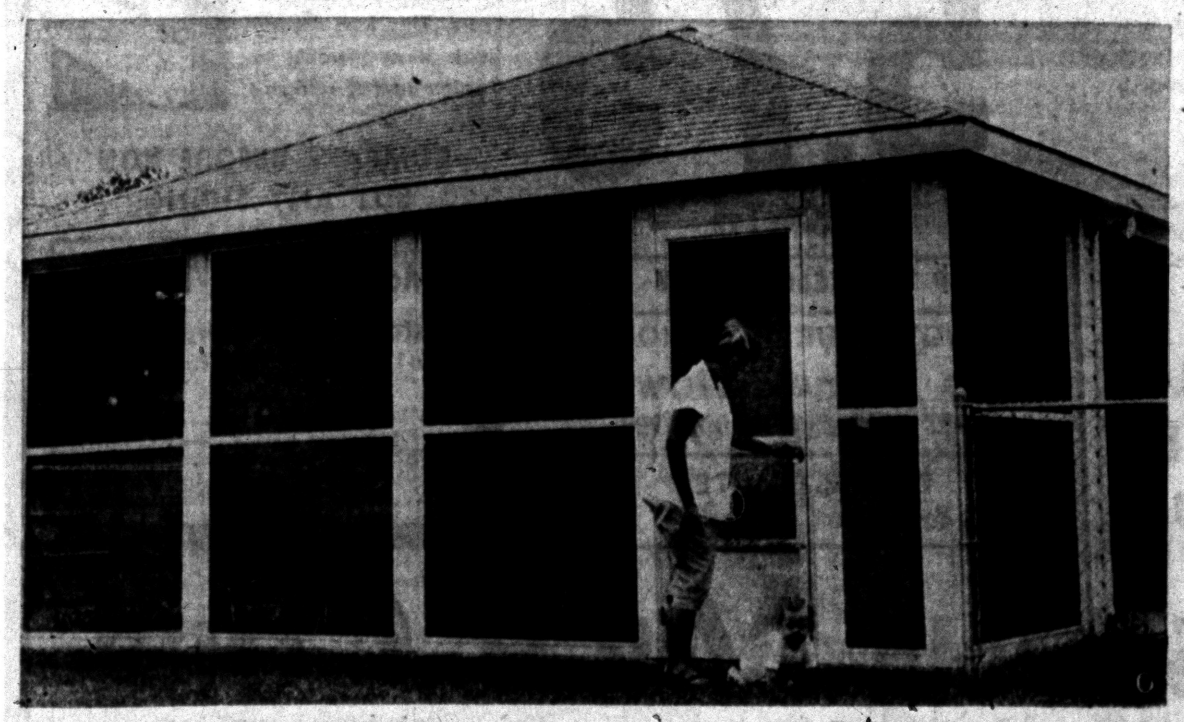

Pontiac Press Photos by Eddie Vanderwerp

MARBLE "TABLE" — Lloyd R. Walker, 2647 Edgevale, Drayton Woods, has built an elaborate patio for outdoor cooking and eating. The fireplace and walls are made of red reused brick, while the work surfaces are slabs of marble. The floor is a combination of marble, ledge rock and slate which Mr. Walker has waxed. A sloping concrete walk leads down to the garden below and to a tool shed, custom-designed by Mr. Walker. (See inside picture of tool shed.) Shown relaxing with builder Walker is a four-year-old neighbor, Susan Humphreys, daughter of the Gerald P. Humphreys, also of Edgevale drive.

BRICK PATIO — Mrs. Daisy Featherston, 2150 Richter, Drayton Woods, can do her reading in a comfortable chair outside her living room. Built of the same reused brick as the one-story house, the patio is completely hidden from the street. The paneled entryway in the right background shelters the inside door. Deep pink petunias in the brick planter box make the area below the garage windows a gay one. There is a plug in the wall for the portable grill. Just beyond the patio at the left is a picnic table under the trees. A rose garden edges this side of the patio. Spotlights provide adequate lighting for after-dark affairs.

"YOU'RE GOING THE WRONG WAY, JANIE" — Miss Barbara Jane Irwin, daughter of the John Irwins of Sylvan Manor, can get about on two feet — after all, she's nearly a year old! But when she really wants to make tracks, she scoots on all fours. Her mother is attempting to lure her into the Irwins' outdoor living room, but Janie has other ideas. When the Irwins added a white frame garage to their home at 2369 St. Joseph, they built a screened porch to use in warm weather. Their grill and picnic table are just outside the little living room. Bright summer furniture is in keeping with the informal atmosphere of the air conditioned sitting room.

MADE WITH KNOTTY PINE — Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Newman of 2328 Williams Lake Road are still building their garage. Mr. Newman, however, has almost completed the outdoor eating area between the garage and the house. He paneled the wall with knotty pine, added red brick planters, and the place has been used all this summer. Future plans call for screening this part of the garage. Three-year-old Corynne and her nine-year-old sister, Cynthia, make use of the picnic table for a mid-afternoon snack.

Virginia produced 23.5 million tons of coal during 1955, setting a record.

Give Bathroom Handy Vanity

Women Can Use Area for Applying Cosmetics While Sitting Down

A bathroom acquires special convenience for womenfolk when a vanity is built around the lavatory.

Because of the need for water for hair-setting, application of certain cosmetics and other phases of beauty care, women find themselves spending much time standing at the lavatory of the typical bathroom. After a busy day, such added standing can be especially tiring.

A few simple changes, however, can provide the bathroom with a vanity where one can sit and attend to beauty care comfortably and leisurely.

Ample counter space built level with the lavatory and preferably on both sides is one basic ingredient of the conversion. Built-in drawers under the counter will store supplies within easy reach. Where necessary, put locks on drawers to keep preparations safely away from small children.

LOWER MIRROR

That essential of any vanity, the mirror, will have to extend lower, of course, than the usual bathroom mirror to be visible from a sitting position. A new long mirror might be installed, or a smaller one fitted below one already in place.

Such an important bathroom improvement might well be accompanied by redecorating to achieve a fresh look.

A distinctive and tasteful decor can be gained by covering old or new walls with marble-patterned paneling of Marlite, a predecorated hardboard. Various authentic reproductions of imported marbles, besides wood grains and plain colors, are available.

Practical as well as attractive, this hardboard paneling has a baked plastic finish for protection against dirt, stains, moisture, wear and other abuse. Spilled cosmetics do not harm Marlite, so the paneling is suitable also as surfacing for vanity counters and cabinets.

It is sold at lumber yards.

Still in Use

A floor built of vertical grain Douglas fir in the world's largest log cabin at Portland, Oregon, is in excellent condition after 50 years of use and traffic from 1,500,000 people. The log cabin was built as a principal exhibit at the World's fair in 1905 and is a tourist attraction today.

FRENCH PROVINCIAL LOUNGE CHAIR — French Provincial, long cherished for its grace, elegant proportions and courtly air, is translated into the modern idiom in this grouping by International Furniture — lounge chair shown here. Subtle scalloping along the base and back, delicately shaped cabriole legs outlined in brass nailheads and sculptured arms highlight the new collection, which is available in a choice of specially designed provincial fabrics, as well as contemporary. New finishes in the French mood are fruitwood and pumice, plus ebony, walnut, mahogany and wheat.

Going on a Vacation? Leave a Clean House

If you are going on vacation, even for a week, be sure you leave a clean house.

Moths thrive in a nice dark, warm, comfortable place. Vacuum-clean your carpets and rugs thoroughly.

If you expect to be gone for a long time, apply an approved insecticide, using the "vac" sprayer for the purpose.

Hot water heating systems for homes are gaining in popularity. The Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau reports a gain of 13.7 per cent in the production of boilers in the past year. Comparative figures for cast iron low pressure heating boilers were 223,129 for 1955 against 196,219 for 1954.

Kitchens Bought Now in One Unit

Kitchens used to be bought piecemeal—the sink from a plumbing contractor-dealer, appliances from another dealer, cabinets from a hardware dealer. Floor and wall finish, electrical work and carpentry meant dealing with other trades and mechanics.

Now the plumbing contractor offers a one-stop remodeling service for kitchens, as well as bathrooms. That is, he handles the whole job from start to finish, planning the design, selling fixtures, cabinets and appliances, and subcontracting to other trades wherever necessary in finishing work.

Homeowners like the convenience of dealing with a single contractor and paying one bill for modernization work. Thanks to packaged remodeling, it is just as easy now to buy a complete new kitchen as a second family car. Extremely favorable financing plans are available for kitchen and bathroom modernization work, based on easy-to-make monthly payments.

In kitchen remodeling, it is customary to match cabinets with the color chosen for the sink. Or, sink and cabinets may be contrasted for an unusual color effect. Besides range and refrigerator, the fully-equipped modern kitchen will have a built-in dishwasher and food waste disposer attached to the sink drain.

If a laundry is included with the kitchen in a divided installation, there will be need for a clothes washer, dryer, water heater and water softener. All of this equipment can be included in a packaged kitchen, sold by and installed under the supervision of a plumbing contractor.

Dampness in Home Can Result in Mildew

The matter of mildew can become a serious problem in warm weather.

If there is dampness in the home there is much likelihood that mildew will find its way into your house. The molds that cause mildew grow on anything, and therefore wet or damp cloths or clothing should be given especial care.

Everything should be spread out to dry if it has even the least bit of moisture, and this includes even wearing apparel which has been worn on a hot day. If moldy spots are found on mattresses or upholstered material they should be removed at once with a vacuum cleaner tool.

PORTABLE PICNIC TABLE—This portable picnic table folds flat stows in a small space in the car, and does duty at the beach or on any picnic. Start by making two rectangular frames out of 1x1-inch lumber. The outside dimensions of each of these should be 15x30 inches, but can be larger if you want. Next cut two 15x30-inch panels of hardboard and attach them to the frames with small flatheaded screws to serve as the table top. Hinge the two frames together so that they fold closed like a suitcase. The legs also are hardboard panels, each 12 inches wide by 27 inches long. These are slotted in the center so they fit together to form an X—and also are cut out to fit over the center brace of the tabletop. You can see how they should be cut by looking at the small detail, where the legs are shown fitted inside of the table top. Paint the table to give it longer life. Use hooks and eyes to hold it closed, and attach a handle for easy carrying.

The height and comfortable reach of the homemaker determine the height and arrangement of her kitchen cupboards, work surfaces and built-in equipment.

Mirror manufacturers are now using seaweed, ferns and heather in frames. The plants are sealed in translucent plastic.

STAIRSTEP FENCE SECTIONS — Hillside sites become rare garden spots by using western red cedar fence sections to backdrop flowers and shrubbery. Retaining walls, also of cedar, form neat containers for the soil and a cap along the top furnishes a seat for the gardener while he is weeding. Fence screens are rough cut 1x4s nailed to a 2x4 across top and bottom in alternating board pattern. Supporting members are cedar or fir posts set in a cement footing.

Nuclear Furnaces Seen for Future Home Heating

Nuclear furnaces serving a whole community will probably be the first step taken in harnessing the atom for home heating.

The individual household reactor has been predicted in some quarters, but it is more in the realm of science fiction than fact, says Dr. Finn J. Larsen, research director for Minneapolis-Honeywell. Chief obstacle is the cost — currently about a million dollars for a small model — and the space required for the necessary safety shielding material.

Dr. Larsen explained that a rudimentary reactor could probably be contained in a pressurized container about the size of a five-gallon can. However, adequate shielding would require an area larger than the average basement of a home.

* * *

It may not be too long before we do have the use of atomic fuels in our homes, Dr. Larsen said, but he feels sure it will come from central community - wide nuclear power stations rather than private reactors. Dr. Larsen thinks the stimulus for the use of nuclear furnaces would come from the increasing electrical load problems in homes, and the eventual shortage of other fuels, rather than because of the unique properties of an atomic pile.

The annual power consumption of the average home is now 2,550 kilowatt hours as compared to 1,830 in 1950. The increased use of year-round air conditioning systems and more and more electrical appliances will further aggravate the problem, Dr. Larsen said.

As these current requirements grow, it may be economical to have nuclear sub-stations strategically located throughout a city to supply electrical power.

* * *

The scientist explained that community use of atomic energy has already been successfully demonstrated on an experimental basis. He cited Arco, Idaho (population 1,200) which received its entire supply of electricity for one hour from an experimental power plant operated by the Atomic Energy Laboratory. The experimental plant generates 2,000 kilowatts of electricity whereas commercial atom plants under way are expected to generate up to 700,000 kilowatts.

Dr. Larsen said reactors may be even more practical for household heating than they are as a course of steam for generating electricity. A reactor he explains, produces low - grade heat — at temperatures from 500 degrees to 600 degrees F.— which indicates they may be an efficient source for community heating during the winter.

But chances are, unless you have a gigantic home and are willing to spend a million dollars for a heating and air conditioning system, you won't have one in your own basement for a long, long time.

Postwar House Boasts Many New Conveniences

America's home designers have created a "revolution" in living comforts since the end of World War II, says one of the country's foremost experts on home designs.

* * *

"The typical modern home contains so many new features for convenient living that it bears little resemblance to houses erected before the war," says Albert P. Wittman, president of Home Planners, Inc., of Detroit, one of the country's leading sources of home plans.

Wittman says a survey marking the tenth anniversary of the resumption of home building after World War II reveals that dozens of features now commonplace in the smallest homes were rare or non-existent even in the most luxurious prewar houses.

Wittman has assembled the most popular modern designs in a new plan book, "300 Homes," just distributed to news dealers. This book makes construction blueprints available at low cost and it features homes by Richard B. Pollman, noted designer, and by Palmquist and Wright, Architects, A.I.A.

* * *

"Regardless of the basic style of these homes, whether they are ranch houses or split levels, Cape Cods, Colonials or contemporary, they all contain an amount of convenient living that is extraordinary by prewar standards," he says.

NEW FEATURES

Among the newly developed features commonly found in today's homes, he includes:

Full insulation with vapor barriers to combat the condensation problem so frequently encountered in older houses.

* * *

Adequate electrical wiring, designed to handle the many electrical appliances—washers, driers television sets, etc.—which have become postwar "necessities."

* * *

Labor-saving kitchens, often with built-in dishwashers, designed for efficient home-making and with modern materials like plastic countertops that resist stains and burns.

* * *

Built-in car storage—either carports or garages—which make the family automobile easily accessible on rainy days.

* * *

Adequate bathroom facilities with spacious storage facilities. Most new homes have two bathrooms instead of the one room common in prewar houses.

* * *

"Window walls" or picture windows "which bring the outdoors into the house" and accentuate the modern trend toward indoor-outdoor living.

* * *

Compact heating systems, which enable homeowners to use space formerly devoted to cumbersome heating plants for recreation rooms or workshop and which simplify room decorating.

---

Polished plate glass mirrors, which always reflect a "true" image, nevertheless can create illusions in the home. One placed in a narrow, dimly-lit hallway will create the illusion of spaciousness and light.

Cooking Food With Gas Can Put Moisture in Air

Not only does the steam from cooking food add moisture to the air when you cook with gas, but so does the gas itself.

When gas is completely burned, the products of combustion are carbon dioxide and water vapor. As much as 2,000 cubic feet of water vapor may be performed for every 1,000 cubic feet of gas burned. When condensed, this water vapor amounts to approximately 88 pounds, or pints, of liquid water.

Prevent this excessive moisture vapor from damaging your home and furnishings by properly venting stoves to the outside.

Japan Tourist Industry Expects 120,000 in '56

TOKYO — IN 1955 Japan welcomed some 106,000 visitors, who spent about $49,000,000. This was an increase of about 20 per cent over 1954 in both tourists and expenditures.

Japan is attracting more than twice as many vacationists as before World War II. The Tourist Industry Bureau expects nearly 120,000 visitors this year and estimates they will spend $54,000,000.

Geologists say the Great Smoky Mountains are among the oldest in the world, far older than the Rockies or the Alps.

Modern trailer homes have an average of 15 windows each, and many of them are fixed, double-glazed units.

Get Ready Before Painting

House-painting can be done very well if you dip into the barrel of experience accumulated by professionals and by the do-it-yourself folks.

• • •

One of the first rules in house painting is not to plunge right into the brush-work, but to spend some time getting ready. Each step in preparation can save much awkwardness later.

For example, there are the drop-cloths. The neatest of painters does some dripping and if you have bought or borrowed or improvised a cloth, or newspaper for proper coverage of shrubs, steps, awnings, sills, etc., you are spared much wipe-up work later.

The one-story ramblers present only a modest ladder problem, but the taller house requires serious planning for safe ladder or scaffold access. When lining up your ladder, make sure there are no old rungs that might give way. Make sure, too, you know where you are going to hang the paint bucket when aloft. Most paint and hardware stores have little brackets for the bucket and often a paint dealer will lend you one.

KEEP RAG HANDY

It's a good idea to keep a small wipe cloth in your pocket so you don't have to come down every time you want to remove a smudge.

Before starting a house-painting job, walk around it and visualize each ladder setting, making sure you have a good safe footing at each new ladder position and making sure you have enough room aloft so you don't have to lean precariously.

Homeowners have access to a number of techniques for painting windows without getting paint on the glass. Some go ahead and paint the mullions and frame without much regard for neatness, counting on one of the blade scrapers to take it off later.

• • •

Some prefer to buy a role of masking tape and do a preliminary masking of the edges of the glass before touching a brush. Some use a brush-on "liquid masking tape" which eases later removal of the paint. Finally, there are some craftsmen who like to show how neatly they can handle the one-inch sash brush without touching the glass itself.

It's sensible to provide a carton or can for discarded dirty cloths, waste wet newspapers, empty cans, empty turpentine bottles and the discarded stirring stick.

Overnight handling of the brushes can be a very simple precaution.

If using oil paints, simply immerse the brush in a can of turpentine. If using water-thinned outdoor paint, immerse the brush in water or wash out under the tap. Never forget the brush without cleaning it or immersing it because it can mean quite a softening job next morning.

BE CAREFUL

Painting neatly around doorknobs, doorbells, latches, light meters, etc., often can be done with technique used around window panes. The fixture can be masked or you can paint around it neatly with narrow trim-brushes. Sometimes fixtures that are set in with only a few screws can be removed and replaced after the paint is dry.

Finally, the extra-prudent, do-it-yourself man even figures out what he will do if caught by a sudden rain storm, that is, what equipment can stay in the rain, what he will carry indoors and in what order. If you can manage to visualize ahead of time every step in the painting process, the operation actually can be fun.

New Asbestos Roof Now on Market

A new addition to the family of asbestos-cement roofing shingles is now on the market.

Known as "ranch design" because of its suitability for use on today's popular low - rangy houses, it is 24 inches wide and 13 inches deep.

Moderate cost and easy application are among its economy advantages.

Like other asbestos shingles, those of the new ranch type will not rot, rust or decay.

CAN'T BURN

They cannot burn. Being rigid and sturdy, they offer exceptional resistance to wind.

Ranch design asbestos shingles, properly applied, can be used on roofs having comparatively low pitches—the kind found on many one-story houses currently in favor.

Builder to Pay if Buyer Idle

Something completely new is being offered to prospective home buyers in the Goodrich Farm Subdivision in Independence township. Models on Maybee road, east of Sashabaw, have been open for several weeks.

Neil N. Goodman, president of Wilshire Construction Company, announces the Goodrich Security Plans as an added feature with every home purchased in this new development.

The plan is a written guarantee. It declares that in the event any Goodrich Farm home buyer is laid off from work after closing the deal on the home of his choice, the builder will make all mortgage payments for him.

The offer is good up to six months after the closing date. The only requirement is that the purchaser show evidence of eligibility for unemployment compensation.

No stipulation is made that any such payments need to be repaid. They are considered the permanent loss of the builder.

"Our entire building company feel very strongly that all of America is in for a tremendous upward swing in the economy," says Goodman. "That's why we are taking no gamble at all by making this brand new offer . . . our purpose is to see that every potential home buyer is free from worry."

The houses offered under this unusual plan are three-bedroom brick ranch homes,with bath and a half. They are built on 100'x150' lots and sell for $12,900.

Save Builders Money

The economy of using prefinished hardwood floors is stressed by one of the leading producers. Builders save up to $100 per house, he claims, by using prefinished flooring which comes waxed and polished, because of a time saving of three to four days usually required for sanding, cleaning and varnishing.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

FOR IN-LAWS — This house provides a complete separate apartment upstairs. It also suits a growing family by utilizing the second floor kitchenette space for a study alcove. The first floor with a glamorous 26-foot living-dining room facing a garden terrace, can be finished first with the upstairs reserved for future expansion. This is plan P-336AP by Samuel Paul, architect, 89-51 164th St., Jamaica 32, N. Y. The house covers 1,031 square feet.

Construction Reported

Construction is the nation's largest single production activity. The present growth rate of the economy indicates an annual total surpassing $75,000,000,000 by 1956; by that time the gross national product is expected to exceed $500,000,000,000 a year.

Construction accounts for the employment of more than 15 per cent of the nation's total. The industry takes in a mass of varying trades, skills and products. Some products are very new, promising great things for the future. Others, like wood, brick or ceramic tile, have been in use since the beginning of recorded history.

Ingenuity Solves Household Jobs

So woman's work is never done and you're more or less resigned to eternal servitude. The situation isn't hopeless as long as woman's ingenuity is kept alive.

* * *

Apply your ingenuity to ways and means of easing the burden of house - and family - keeping and you'll find that storage space is often the answer to a homemaker's prayers.

The two main things to keep in mind about storage space are location and accessibility. Poorly situated closets, ceiling - high shelves and floor - level drawers are almost as maddening as no storage space at all. Locate space as near objects to be stored as possible and minimize necessity for reaching or stooping.

Besides location and accessibility materials also are important. For example, a clothes closet should be mothproof and a laundry locker should be moisture-proof. All storage spaces should be easy to clean.

To determine quantity of storage space needed, make an inventory of belongings of each member of the family. Approach the distribution problem by matching dimensions and character of individual storage facilities with the objects to be accommodated.

An ideal recreation room thus would contain at least one closet large enough to take bridge tables and other bulky articles. Motion picture projectors and phonograph records are vulnerable to dust and require cabinets. Other items and space indicated include musical instruments (shelves), reading material (racks) and playing cards, poker chips and other small articles (drawers).

Woodwork, Furniture Aided by Enamel Coat

A fresh coat of colorful enamel can make a big difference in woodwork or furniture, whether on new wood or on an already painted surface.

The new resins in enamels are really tough—they are both heat- and - water - resistant. And how easily and smoothly they flow from the brush — leaving that desired hard and lustrous finish.

One coat is enough for most surfaces. Sanding is recommended if the old surface has retained some of its gloss. This will provide better adhesion for the new finish.

* * *

Enamel undercoat should be applied before the finish coat if the wood is new, or if the new coating is much different in color from the old.

When homes are built near golf courses and children's play areas, it is possible to cut down the danger of window breakage by using a special heat-tempered glass, Tuf-Flex, which is five times as strong as regular polished plate glass.

Signal Is Indian Sign

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dick Albain, a special effects man working on the filming of a movie here learned about life in the rugged outdoors. While he was making Indian smoke signals with a pan of burning powder the wind shifted and blew the burning powder on him. He was hospitalized with first and second degree burns.

Modern major league baseball record keeping began in 1901.

Check Colors in All Lights Before Painting

MADISON, Wis. (INS) — In choosing a new color scheme, don't shut out the light.

Gertrude Hoffman, home furnishings specialist at the University of Wisconsin, said women should remember that daylight and artificial lighting affect colors differently.

"Before you plan a color scheme for a room, it's a good idea to see each color under both kinds of lighting," she said.

Next women should consider the time of day the room is used most. She said:

"Kitchens need to be the most attractive in the morning, when much of a woman's time is spent there. Living rooms are in use most often in the afternoon and evening, so colors for these areas should look well both by daylight and artificial light."

Bigger Bedroom in Same Space

Want a bigger bedroom? Then get to work right now! Of course, short of knocking out some walls, you can't actually enlarge the room. But you can make it appear more spacious and serve as well as many a room twice its size. Space-making is what you're interested in.

Here are a few suggestions. Naturally, they are centered around the most important item in any bedroom—the bed.

You might be interested in a smart new tester bed. Placed flush with the wall next to the door, it will leave more floor space free for other pieces of furniture. And it won't jut out like a sore thumb if you have a tailored canopy extending all the way down from the ceiling. (The canopy will give a wonderful touch of elegance, too.)

Dual purpose items have their place in a small bedroom, also. Besides taking up less space than a conventional bed, a small-scaled sofa bed, for instance, doubles the usefulness of the room by providing daytime lounging facilities.

Make arrangements to visit your favorite bedding store. When you get there, take a careful look around. Then choose the type of sleep equipment best suited to the dimensions of your room and your decorating taste.

Natural Look Ideal for Wood Cabinets

The 'natural look' of wood cabinets is prized in modernizing kitchens in older homes, a leading interior designer points out, because in most cases the new kitchen will be made visible from other areas of the home.

* * *

This may be done by removing a section of wall between the kitchen and adjoining dining room, creating a simple pass-through, adding a room to the kitchen or any other method of giving the remodeled home the popular open-plan arrangement.

* * *

Modern wood kitchen cabinets, factory-made in the same way as fine furniture, solve the problem by giving the new kitchen an aura of warmth and beauty. The natural wood grain is in harmony with furniture in other parts of the home, acting as a perfect background for bright, cheerful colors used in accessories.

HIS AND HER PLAN — This is the plan that the architect and his wife worked out to build an adequate house without spending a fortune. The extra bathroom near the entrance from the garage means gardeners and muddy children can clean up before entering the living areas.

Press House of the Week Doesn't Cost a Fortune

A house an architect designed for himself is shown in plan HW-10 for The House of The Week.

Covering 1,693 suare feet, with the garage adding 405 square feet, this house has been built in Oklahoma City for $20,500.

"That was my complete cost, including year-round air conditioning and wall-to-wall carpeting throughout," says W. H. Schumacher, the architect, who moved into his new home early this year.

No basement was needed, generous storage space being provided including large walk-in closets. Heating and air conditioning equipment is contained in a closet off the foyer.

The house is built on a concrete slab over membrane dampproofing. The entire slab is reinforced with welded wiremesh.

The exterior of the house is finished with oversize Roman facing brick—a brick that measures 16 inches long, 2 inches high and 4 inches thick.

All exterior woodwork above the masonry is California redwood.

Decorative wood paneling also is used extensively in the interior, including a high wood ceiling in the living room.

An especially attractive feature in the exterior design is a broad roof overhang to shade the windows.

A supplementary overhang in front is supported by sleek steel columns giving graceful vertical accents to the horizontal lines of the brickwork.

The floor plan is practical, compact and luxurious at the same time. A good sized kitchen, arranged for the most efficient use of modern equipment with counters and cabinets in a step-saving horseshoe group, is handy to the front door as well as to the service entry across the garage.

This kitchen is big enough to spare plenty of space for a semi-circular breakfast nook with a round table.

By placing the sinks under front windows, the housewife is given a view of anyone approaching either door.

The foyer opens into a spacious living area measuring 18 by 20 feet with sliding glass doors opening on a rear garden terrace.

A log burning fireplace set in a massive brick chimney base dominates the living room. Built-in book shelves and a built-in reading lounge flank the fireplace.

The ceiling of the living room is as high as the roof goes. It is completely paneled with decorative redwood boards which add to the informal hospitality of this big room.

Architect Schumacher used marble slabs for all window stools in his house, HW-10. A window stool is that part of the sill which is indoors. "Should any moisture get in from a window left open during a rain," he says, "there will not be the damage prevalent with wood stools."

* * *

By raising the end of the garage floor, a permanent bumper is provided to stop cars driven in. A platform is thus created for passage from the side door to kitchen, laundry and extra bathroom. This bathroom is a particular feature of the house. It substitutes for the mud room which is so important in a farm house. It also is a convenience that would appeal to any family with children playing in the yard.

* * *

"The reason for the shower bath in this location," Architect Schumacher explains, "is that when I work in the yard and flower beds, I can come into the garage, leave dirty shoes and some clothes and go directly into the shower bath to clean up and put on fresh clothes before going into the main part of the house.

This avoids tramping through the wife's clean house to a bath for a clean-up."

Incidentally, it also makes virtually a separate apartment out of the study or guest room — a nice idea if you can afford or find a sleep-in maid, or have the privilege of housing an in-law.

Main bedrooms with an adjoining bathroom and dressing room are segregated from the rest of the house in a quiet sleeping wing.

Sliding doors make it possible to separate the dressing room with its vanity counter lavatory from the rest of the bathroom.

HANDY TOOL HOUSE — Lloyd R. Walker, experienced Drayton Woods gardener, has a tool shed built behind and below his patio. Mr. Walker designed and put up this structure to house his collection of tools. The chimney of the outdoor fireplace can be seen rising at the extreme right. Mr. Walker's garden is but a few steps away; the photographer was at the edge of it when he took this picture. An acre in size, this garden is the only black dirt garden in the subdivision. A sloping cement walk leads down to the tool house from the patio above. Reused brick is the building material.

Planning Backyard Pool? — Don't Overlook Safety

Any old backyard is likely to spot a swimming pool these days. But sometimes in the anxiety of making the purchase, parents are likely to forget that safety factors are involved. Junior and all the other little neighborhood children are in danger, as long as the pool is not fenced in. Some communities forbid swimming pools that are not properly enclosed.

If you haven't a fence around your pool you may build one as a leisure time project. Even some of the smaller pools for tots may be dangerous if left around where SIs my fall in when no one is looking.

An attractive fence may be made in a woven geometric design with new jewel-tone plastic clothesline. It permits undiminished passage of light and air and a minimum of view obstruction.

A sectional panel frame of redwood or other suitable wood is erected and then the nylon cord is laced through screw eyes set at intervals in the frame and section dividers. This same principle may be followed in the construction of a pergola, trellis or to relieve the severe look of a carport.

Work out a pattern in a diamond, block or even a spider web design. Or lace your fence in horizontal, vertical or diagonal pattern. You may change the effect by placing screw eyes at different distances. A good standard balance may be achieved by placing screw eyes six inches apart.

Use ordinary household tools, frame lumber, and No. 110 zinc or cadnium plated screw eyes, which will weather and not rust. The clothesline comes in turqoise, sapphire, tourmaline and other jewel tones.

Make a spider web fence by starting with a circle of desired size in any position in the fence panel. Weave from position nearest the fence panel. Use short pieces of cord for th first tilings and then as the work expands, longer lengths may be used.

Starting from the center of the top panel frame, screw eyes are placed 6 inches apart, two on each side: Increase the distance to 8 inches for remainder of the distance to fence posts.

Screw eye distances are made progressively larger as the lacing is worked to the outer frame away from the circle. Random spacings throughout the outer circles make the pattern more attractive.

Nine Out of Ten Houses Should Have New Roofs

Nine out of 10 houses need new roofs—either because the old roof is worn out or because new roofing on a wing or addition makes the old material look too shabby.

Eight out of 10 need insulation. Even houses built in the last few years are not adequately insulated by today's standards.

Seven out of 10 need new or improved heating systems, new and relocated bathrooms, and more windows.

If the bottom of a wastebasket, garbage can or other household container for dry materials is broken, salvage the item by inserting a tight-fitting piece of

New Kitchens Emphasize Countertops

The counter-revolution — that's the kitchen story of today.

The new or remodeled kitchens that aspire to any degree of decorative charm and workaday sanity, countertops play a leading role. Without counters — and lots of 'em — there simply would not be modern kitchens.

* * *

Counters have replaced walls. The modern housewife doesn't want to feel isolated from the rest of the family. Counters provide practical separation without incarceration. They keep children out of the way of kitchen traffic lanes and at the same time permit Mother to keep an eye on them.

Three fairly recent developments have pushed countertops into the limelight — built-in appliances, creative use of surfacing materials, and the general acceptance of 'open-planning' in home interiors.

Virtually all kitchen appliances can be built right into the counter — cooking units, washers and dryers, freezers, ovens, sinks and automatic garbage disposers. This technique affords a great saving in space and lends more unity to kitchen design.

Lonesome George Works on Films During Summer

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lonesome George Gobel just doesn't have time to get lonesome any more.

* * *

The "Lonesome" tag is a holdover from George's days as a hillbilly singer on radio. He still hangs onto it for sentimental reasons, but it hasn't applied to his own life for the past two years.

Right now, when most TV stars are in other parts of the world getting refreshed for the fall channel wars, George is working over a hot movie stage. He is making for RKO "I Married a Woman." He also sacrificed his summer vacation last year to make "The Birds and the Bees."

* * *

George had a whole week between the end of his TV season and the start of the movie. So how did he spend it? By playing a night club date at Lake Tahoe. Reservations for the entire engagement were sold out before he even arrived there.

An aide told George he would have all of three weeks between the end of the picture and the start of the new TV season.

* * *

"Don't you believe it," the comedian replied skeptically. "Something will come up. Of that you can be sure."

Strangely enough, he didn't seem too upset by it all. Usually he is moaning and groaning about the time he has lost off the golf course, but he confessed, "I like making pictures. I get a big kick out of it."

* * *

He added that he was enjoying his work with his costar, England's most famous body since the Rolls Royce — Diana Dors. And not for the reason you wiseacres think, either.

"This girl is a really fine performer," George enthused. "She's going to fool a lot of people by proving she is a good comedienne."

Chicago Polio Cases Set New Record

CHICAGO (AP)—The number of polio cases reported in Chicago this year climbed to 359 today.

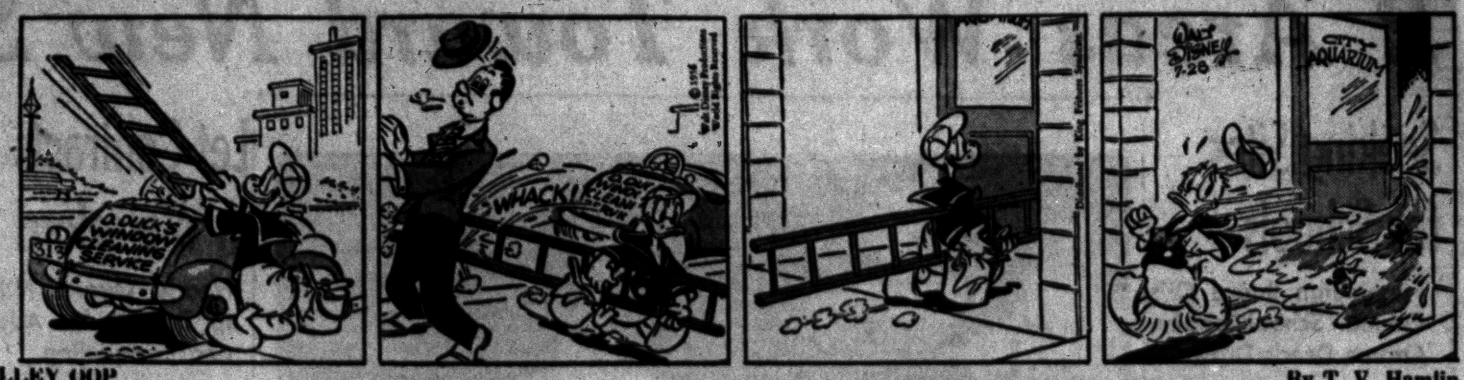

* * *

Eighteen new cases were listed. The total in Chicago—the hardest hit area in the nation—was more than five times higher than the total on the same date in 1952, Chicago's previous high year in polio.

* * *

Of the current cases 215, or 59 per cent, have occurred in children 5 and under. Only 26 cases have been reported in children who received Salk injections.

Seeking Sites for Schools

Farmington Board OKs German School Repairs; Orders Deeds Drawn

FARMINGTON — School officials here are planning repairs for an older school but are still looking around for more school sites.

The Farmington Board of Education at its regular meeting Thursday night agreed to some expenditures for repairs at the German School, but refused excessive repairs on the old building.

* * *

Douglas Hammial, trustee, pointed out that the school is to be abandoned as soon as space can be added at other schools to take care of the kindergarten classes now at German.

Bayard Tupper, board president, Leland G. Clifford, trustee, and O. E. Dunkel, superintendent, reported no progress from their meeting that afternoon with City Council members Z. O. Bates and H. E. Chapman.

The school board has attempted to purchase city-owned property on Farmington road for a school site and have been turned down by the city council.

Tupper reported that the city wishes to hold the property on Farmington road but "I think we convinced them we must have a site in the city."

Other possible sites were subjects of reports. The board authorized the school attorney to prepare deeds on two sites. One is two acres on the east side of the William Grace school, and the other is two acres to be added to six acres where the Kendallwood Elementary school is to be built.

The board also heard reports of progress on laying of tile under the athletic field and received quotations on costs of paving the high school parking lot.

Dunkel reported that the two million dollar bond issue, approved by voters last April, will be delivered August 6. After being signed by the board, the bonds will be turned over to Halsey, Stuart & Co., for re-sale. The interest rate will be 3.5389 per cent per annum.

92 Years Back Camp Session Set Near Romeo

ROMEO—Michigan's oldest camp meeting, the Holiness Camp Meeting, will open its 92nd annual ten-day program Thursday at Simpson Park, northwest of Romeo's village limits on Camp Ground road.

Three preaching services, at 10:30 a.m., 2 and 7:30 p.m. daily, will feature well-known ministers in every field of religious endeavor.

Missionary Day is planned for August 7 at 10 a.m. Dr. Eugene Erny, president of the Oriental Missionary Society, will speak. Other speakers of the day will include Dr. Lela G. McConnel, president, Kentucky Mountains Holiness Association; and Dr. George Warner, president, World Gospel Mission.

The non-denominational camp meeting will continue through August 12.

OLYMPIC BOUND — That is what is in store for 17-year-old Judy Goodrich of Lapeer, woman's fencing champion for the state of Michigan who qualified for the U. S. Olympic team earlier this year. She is shown above with her coach, Joseph Waffa, also of Lapeer, who has her on a strict training schedule in preparation for the competition.

Australia-Bound to Vie in Olympics

By VICKY MICU

Phenomenal is the word for Lapeer's 17-year-old Judy Goodrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goodrich, 1021 Cedar Rd., who in a few months will travel to Australia to compete with the U.S. women's fencing team in the 1956 Olympics.

(Fencing, the ancient art of swordsmanship has been brought up to date as a competitive sport with established rules and regulations.)

Judy has become one of the top women fencers in the country in less than five years, a feat normally requiring 10 and 15 years of experience. In doing so, she has rightly earned her title of fencing phenomenon.

Two factors are the biggest contributors to Judy's success — an outstanding love for the sport, and an outstanding instructor, Mr. Joseph Waffa, 544 Cedar Rd. An amateur fencer himself, he began fencing classes in the Lapeer High School gymnasium in 1950 for, as he says, purely selfish motives — "to have someone to fence with."

Judy began fencing in October of 1951 and qualified for the National championships the next year. She placed 31 out of 55. In 1954, '55, and '56, she captured the women's fencing championship for the state of Michigan.

This year she retained the Midwestern title she won in 1955, and took top honors in the Metropolitan bouts (competition for the region along the Atlantic coast.)

When she placed third in the Nationals this spring, she qualified for the Oympic team.

Under the close supervision of Waffa, Judy is on a strict training schedule. Three hours a day, five days a week, she must go through track work, calisthenics, drills and exercises, in addition to straight fencing.

The fencing team is expected to depart from Los Angeles for Australia early in November. Lapeer citizens are raising a fund which would enable Waffa to go also.

A senior at Lapeer High School, Judy plans on taking most of her school work with her, since she will be gone about a month. Life at school, she says, is uncomplicated despite her renown as a fencer. The only exceptions are the many phone calls and much mail she receives at the school.

* * *

Swimming and tennis vie with fencing as Judy's favorite pastimes She is interested in medicine and will continue her studies after high school. As to which college, well, "University of Michigan has a good medical course, but Michigan State has the best fencing team."

Since she started fencing, Judy has done a great deal of traveling —throughout the Midwest, Canada, and New York. It won't be long now for the biggest of them — "Australia for the Olympics."

Prize-Taking Area Girl Chalks Up Another 1st

DRAYTON PLAINS — Several "firsts" have been chalked up this summer by Carol Saul, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Saul, 4240 Roseberry Ct.

She received word this week that her entry in the United Presbyterian denominational temperance essay contest had won first prize for the 12-to-14 year age group in Synod of Ohio. This includes the seventy congregations in Michigan and Ohio.

Earlier this summer Carol had won the Bible reading contest in her own church, the Community United Presbyterian Church of Drayton Plains. She went on to capture the Detroit title and placed first in the Ohio Synod contest while attending the church in New Concord, Ohio.

She is now eligible for the national contests in both categories. Meanwhile she will be visiting relatives in Charleston, W. Va.

Carol enters the ninth grade at Isaac E. Crary Junior High this fall. A sports-minded young miss, she intends to be both a physical ed teacher and a missionary!

Helen Marie Auten Wed in Evening Ceremony

ORTONVILLE — The Baptist Church here was the setting for the Saturday evening marriage of Helen Marie Auten and Don L. Titsworth. About 250 guests witnessed the double ring ceremony.

The bride's brother, the Rev. Ivan Auten of San Point, Alaska, performed the rite assisted by the local pastor, the Rev. Perry Deyarmond.

Helen Marie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Auten of 525 Brandt Rd. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Murray Titsworth of 60 Baron Rd.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride approached the altar in a floor-length gown of lace and nylon. The all-lace bodice, trimmed with tucked tulle, featured an illusion neck line. Her long sleeves ended in points at the wrists.

The bride's veil of illusion was fingertip length, caught at the crown with pearls and pale pink and blue sequins. She carried an orchid with ivy and white streamers on a white Bible.

Evelyn Ross of Flint was the maid of honor, and Catherine and Camille Auten, nieces of the bride, carried baskets of lavender carnations as flower girls.

William Titsworth of Holly served as best man for his brother. Seating the guests were Kenneth Auten, the bride's brother, and Robert Terryah of Flint, cousin of the bridegroom.

A reception, immediately after the ceremony, was held in the church.

Following a honeymoon in upper Michigan, the newlywed couple will make their home at 60 Baron Rd.

End of Roadwork in Sight

Award M-181 Contract

METAMORA — Contract on blacktopping in its last coat on highway M181, from M24 to M53, through Metamora and Dryden, a distance of nearly 12 miles, has been let to the highest bidder, A. & A. Asphalt Co. of Birmingham, for $123,415.

The stretch of road has caused much controversy between Charles Ziegler of the State Highway Department and the Lapeer County Road Commission.

Before work was begun two years ago there was a verbal agreement. This spring the state claimed it was not to do the last coat.

The county road commission could not prove their contention as to the bargain until Representative Louis Cramton produced a letter he had received from Ziegler before the work was started, which proved clearly that Ziegler did promise a completed road.

During the past winter the highway developed great holes in its sealer coat, which were patched this spring.

Now, with curb and gutter work and the street widening jobs progressing through Metamora Village and the final blacktopping of the highway, residents look towards completion at last of the roadwork.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF HAZEL L. Frazier, who passed away July 29, 1954.
Do not ask me if I miss her,
For there's such a vacant place.
Oft' I think I hear her footsteps,
Or I see her smiling face.
For she left me broken-hearted,
Friends may think the wound is healed.
But they so little know the sorrow,
That is in my heart concealed.
The Husband, Son & Daughters.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE OF Clyde Sargent, who passed away 4 yrs. ago today.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sadly missed by Wife and Children.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY adorable mother, Margaret, who 1 year ago today, joined my dear father, Nicholas Schabitz.
Gone are the faces we loved so dear,
Silent are the voices we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Greatly missed by daughter, Helene and son-in-law, John MacDonald.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF JERRY R. Emeigh who passed from this life on July 29, 1952.
Happy are they, who reach the other side and waken in God's presence, satisfied.
Deeply missed by his wife, Mrs. Ellen S. Emeigh, and our five Children.

May Find Ways to Resist Cancer

Hopeful Clues Indicate Humans May Be Able to Avoid Disease

NEW YORK (AP)—There are hopeful clues now of finding ways to increase human resistance to cancer, through vaccines or other methods.

* * *

Six possibilities are described in a progress report just issued by the Sloan-Kettering Institute for cancer research.

None is anywhere near the stage of aiding human victims. But the studies indicate a real possibility that some natural immunity to cancer does exist, in low degree, and that it might be increased.

The clues:

A fatty material found in human cancer tissue induces protective antibodies against cancer when injected into animals. This might offer a means of increasing human resistance, or a blood test to detect cancer.

CANCER VS. NORMAL CELLS

Differences found in the protein make-up of cancer versus normal cells might lead to future drugs attacking only cancer cells.

Some evidence points to antibodies in the blood of cancerous animals. If such antibodies exist in humans, they might be increased through some form of vaccination.

* * *

A virus has been found to cause leukemia in adult mice, and a vaccine made from the virus seems to protect susceptible mice.

Certain adrenal hormones seem to help slow growth of some cancers.

Tests are underway, on human volunteers at Ohio Penitentiary, to learn whether living cancer cells will grow under the skin of persons free of cancer. Such cells do grow in cancer patients.

The results could help solve some puzzles of natural controls over growth and immunity mechanisms, and perhaps point ways of making cancer cells evoke strong natural resistance by the human body.

* * *

There is no danger for the human volunteers in these tests—any growths can be easily and completely removed.

DR. SILKINI RETURNS — In real life Jack Baker, Dr. Silkini comes back to Pontiac after many years to present three big horror shows on the Oakland stage. His show, scheduled Aug. 1, features mighty "Garganta," the giant gorilla. A double screen show is also billed. Dr. Silkini and his attractive assistants (above) will appear in 3:30, 7:30 and 9:40 p. m. shows Wednesday.

Casting TV Programs Has Become a Science

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Have you ever noticed how well cast television dramas are? Brothers so often seem to bear resemblances. Aristocratic old dames seem to have come straight to the studio from Park Avenue. Drunks surely came up from the Bowery.

Quite apart from the great acting talent involved, there is a lesser known but most important talent in the business of casting. The major dramatic shows and all the networks have casting directors, gentlemen who combine phenomenal memory and prodigious patience with a flair for negotiating.

Take Martin Begley, casting director for NBC, a veteran of 33 years in show business. Here's a pleasant fellow who has spent so many hours munching peanuts while watching all the TV dramas on the air that he's had to go on a diet. He also attends all Broadway shows.

When a show's script is set there's a huddle of producer, director and casting director. Each may have different ideas on who should be cast. They iron out their differences, then the casting director obtains the actors and actresses. While Begley's memory for names and talent is enormous, he reinforces it with a careful index filing system.

Among other memory aids Begley possesses a big looseleaf book containing the names of and important statistics concerning 10,000 actors and actresses. They are indexed under fascinating categories. Here are only a few: tall men, tall women, artist-poet types, old blowsers, aristocratic old dames, animal imitators, gossipy women, fast talkers, drunks, girls for color programs, dizzy dames, butlers, baby criers . . . On and on.

* * *

Begley recalls being stuck for talent only once — though only briefly. Martha Raye wanted a man at least seven feet tall for one of her programs. The only seven-foot actor in Begley's book was employed elsewhere. So Begley got an amateur — a seven-foot college basketball player.

Every year thousands of hopeful youngsters from all sections of the country come to New York and knock on NBC's door for acting jobs. The most talented are given auditions. And the most talented in auditons are filed for possible future roles. But these hopeful youngsters worry Begley.

"For every one who succeeds," he says, "thousands are knocking themselves out against a stone wall. Naturally we need and always shall need new talent. But does a good high school baseball player try to sign up with the Yankees? He needs seasoning. So do young would-be actors. My advice would be to get training — in summer stock or anywhere possible. If you have talent it's bound to be recognized eventually."

Congress OKs Lake Diversion

Chicago Wins Approval to Pump More Water as Tempers Soar

WASHINGTON (AP) — After angry debate in the harried pre-adjournment hours, the Senate last night passed a bill to permit Chicago to divert more water from Lake Michigan.

* * *

The bill, sent to the White House, consumed much of the time and drew the harshest words as the chamber pressed to finish its business and wind up the 84th Congress.

A roll call vote of 43-33 carried the bill after an intermittent argument in which acid exchanges on the floor drew laughter from the galleries packed with persons on hand for adjournment of the 84th Congress.

Vice President Nixon at one point had to use his gavel and call the visitors to order.

The House-passed measure, vetoed in another version by President Eisenhower in 1954, would authorize the Chicago Sanitary District—for a three-year test pierod—to draw 2,500 cubic feet of water a second from the lake. It now takes 1,500 feet a second.

* * *

The city uses the water to disperse treated sewage in its sanitary canal system.

It is opposed by other Great Lakes states, whose spokesmen maintain it might lower lake levels and thus harm lake shipping. Another argument against the bill is that Canada has an interest in the lakes and opposes the increased diversion at Chicago.

Hodge Fund Tapping Shown by Vouchers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (INS) — Assistant state's attorney J. Waldo Ackerman said today he has a list of vouchers which show that between July, 1953, and April, 1956, ex-state auditor Orville E. Hodge paid more than $17,500 in household expenses from state funds.

Ackerman said the money paid for whisky, beer, soda, lobster, shrimp, oysters, dry cleaning and even a fence for Hodge's plush Lake Springfield home.

Meanwhile, 26 employes of the state auditor's Chicago office have been told they were not needed and they resigned.

Magsaysay Willing to Run for 2nd Term

MANILA (AP)—President Ramon Magsaysay says he is available for a second term.

The announcement, made in reply to questions yesterday, was not unexpected.

"That is up to the people to decide," said Magsaysay. "I am ready to serve."

He was elected President in 1953 for a four-year term.

Pacific Typhoon Sighted

GUAM (AP)—A typhoon with surface winds of 92 miles an hour is moving west at approximately 12 miles an hour 480 miles northwest of Guam, navy weather observers reported today. The typhoon, dubbed Wanda, will not affect Guam, the Navy said.

Believes Socialism Winning Germans

DETROIT (AP) — Stellanova Osborne, widow of the late Michigan Gov. Chase S. Osborne, said today she believes the West is "losing the German people to socialism."

Mrs. Osborne, a member of the board of governors of the Atlantic Union, just returned from a 10-week tour of Germany. She leaves for visits with government leaders in Iceland in September.

Atlantic Union is seeking public support for a stronger North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It is also sponsoring a resolution in Congres for a convention to explore ways of strengthening NATO.

Mrs. Osborne said, "The next six months will be critical ones. The German people are going toward socialism and the next step will be talks with the Kremlin on unification."

Mrs. Osborne plans to spend a few weeks at her home on Duck Island in the St. Marys River near Sault Ste. Marie. She said she will also visit her winter home at Possum Poke, Ga., before going to Iceland.

Farm Prices Take Dip Below Mid-June Level

WASHINGTON (AP)—A six-month upward trend in farm prices took a reverse twist in mid-July and dipped 1 per cent below the mid-June level.

The Agriculture Department said yesterday lower prices for fruits, meat animals and commercial vegetables accounted for the drop. Prices for milk, chickens and potatoes increased.

Despite the drop, the mid-July level was 8 per cent above that for January. Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse said department economists still expect farm prices for the remainder of the year to average higher than in the corresponding period of last year.

2 Poles Steal Plane, Crash Iron Curtain

VIENNA, Austria (AP)— Two anti-Communist Polish air cadets flew across the Iron Curtain in a stolen military plane today and asked for political asylum.

* * *

They landed the small training plane at Oberbergern, a village near Krems in lower Austria, and told Austrian police they fled to escape "unbearable living conditions" in their Communist-ruled homeland.

* * *

The airmen said they were stationed at an air field near Warsaw and took off in the two-seater plane last night intending to fly to Munich in West Germany. They ran out of fuel and made a forced landing in Austria after flying 380 miles.

* * *

The Poles gave their names as Bogdan Biskupski, 21, and Karol Kruk, 20, both cadets at a Polish air force training school.

Baby Falls Off Bed Into Pail and Drowns

LYMAN, N. H. (AP)—One year old Joan Aldrich drowned last night, police said, when she rolled off a bed and fell head first into a pail of water.

The baby was at the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Irene Mackey. Police quoted her as saying she left the pail of water she was using to wash the floor near the sleeping child's bed.

She left the room momentarily, police said she told them, and returned to find the child head first into the pail.

Role of Red Leaders Still Necessary — Zhukov

LONDON (AP) — Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, Soviet defense minister, says the "struggle against the personality cult does not mean the denial of the role of leaders."

Moscow radio reported Zhukov's statement on the current Kremlin campaign against the Stalinist cult of the individual. Zhukov spoke at the Polish defense ministry in Warsaw.

"Sometimes the personality cult is confused with the question of individual authority in the army," the marshal said. "This is a grave error."

Zhukov is visiting Poland with Premier Bulganin and other top Soviet officials.
