Hungary Agrees to Admit Dag Hammarskjold

Group to Study Fund Raising in City Area

Present Capital Drives Burden on Community, Says Chamber

With capital drive campaigns mentioned from many quarters, the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce has named a committee called the Pontiac Study Group to evaluate the situation and come up with recommendations.

"Proposed capital drives in the Pontiac area total some thirteen million dollars," said Chamber of Commerce secretary John W. Hirlinger. "If half a dozen are launched, all of them will be doomed to failure and the entire community will suffer along with the drives themselves.

"This whole committee is in favor of an orderly public improvement program in Pontiac. We must support and help capital expenditures."

Hirlinger's list shows the following in millions of dollars:

City Hospital	1
St. Joseph Hospital	6½
Civic Auditorium	4½
Total 13 million

"Certainly there should be some honest move to coordinate these drive and study the proposals," said Hirlinger. "This community simply cannot absorb any such fund raising. We just had several thousand workers taking part in the United Fund Drive and we raised about $600,000.

"No one of the entities mentioned here will muster as many workers as the United Fund, and raising twenty times that amount is absolutely impossible.

"We feel the Pontiac area United Fund has done a wonderful job in coordinating half a hundred drives and protecting the givers against a campaign a week. Now capital drives for building funds are appearing on so many sides, we believe another job must be done.

"The Chamber of Commerce feels the Pontiac area givers are entitled to some sort of an appraisal by a friendly group that is sympathetic to the raisers and the givers. Also, we feel it is important to see that these moves don't pile in together.

"Perhaps some projects should be modified slightly. Perhaps some should be modified drastically. Perhaps some should be abandoned for the present. Perhaps some deserve priority. A conflict between campaigns would work to the detriment of all concerned as well as the givers.

"The Chamber of Commerce is naming a committee to study the matter. It has no legal right to deny any movement the opportunity to start, but its object is to evaluate all the proposals and then come up with recommendations for the givers."

The members of the committee are: John W. Hirlinger, Frank S. Lyndall, Semon E. Knudsen, Fred V. Haggard, Alfred C. Girard, Philip J. Monaghan, Dr. William H. Marbach, Mrs. Forrest Brown and Harold A. Fitzgerald. "We have industry, labor, women, downtown area and the churches represented," said Hirlinger. The committee will meet some time next week.

Pontiac Rejects Gift of Beaudette Property

The Pontiac City Commission has rejected the offer of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Beaudette to deed their West Huron home and adjoining property for civic purposes.

The possible expenditure of one million dollars to complete the stipulations of the proposal, and the restrictive uses, have forced abandonment of the offer made in July, according to Mayor William W. Donaldson.

The Beaudettes agreed to deed their six-bedroom home at 269 W. Huron St., upon their death, and the surrounding eight acres of Beaudette property if the city would eventually convert the entire block into a park-library site.

The 15-acre block is across from Pontiac High School, and is bounded by West Huron, Williams, West Pike, and Franklin Boulevard.

The Beaudette offer was considered by city officials as the largest in city history. The property included in the proposed gift is estimated to have a value of several hundred thousand dollars.

After hearing of the offer, the city immediately moved to rezone 21 lots in the block to prevent further commercial establishments going up.

After hearing several objections from citizens, the City Planning Commission asked that the Beaudettes "liberalize" their offer because it was "a little too restrictive."

Students Revolt Against Food

Believe Demonstration Planned a Week Ago at U. of M.

ANN ARBOR (INS)—University of Michigan students who revolted yesterday against dormitory food were back in class today assured that their protests would be reviewed.

A demonstration, believed planned by five "ringleaders," lasted for several hours, but resulted in little actual damage and no personal injuries.

After massing on the campus at several intersections, fights broke out, firecrackers were exploded, and passing cars were pelted with snowballs.

Some 2,500 students in the demonstration marched on the home of University President, Dr. Harlan Hatcher, but were intercepted by Dean of Men, Walter B. Rea. He told the students to submit their complaints through proper channels and assured them of consideration.

Police believe the demonstration was planned a week ago by the leaders.

Israel Installs Mayor

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israel installed an Arab mayor and municipal council today in the town of Khan Yunis in the captured Gaza Strip. They will run municipal affairs under the eye of the Israeli military governor of the strip. The Israelis plan to turn over local administration to civil authorities in two other towns in the Gaza Strip shortly.

Pontiac Unveils 2 New Models for U.S. Show

Bonneville and Safari, GMC Tractor to Make Public Debut

Two new Pontiac models and a lightweight GMC highway tractor will make their public debuts Saturday when the National Automobile Show will begin a nine-day run at New York City's giant Coliseum.

The 1957 autos — the Bonneville convertible and the transcontinental Safari station wagon — will highlight Pontiac's display of cars in three series.

An eight-model exhibit of GMC Truck & Coach Division trucks will feature a highway tractor equipped with air suspension, a revolutionary GMC innovation which absorbs road shocks.

The Bonneville, a six-passenger sports convertible has a fuel injection engine that delivers over 300 horsepower, according to S. E. Knudson, GM vice president and Pontiac general manager.

From the massive chrome front bumpers to the louvered rear exhaust ports, the flashy Bonneville measures 213 inches. A car-length Star Flight accent panel, in fire red on the model at the New York showing, encases a long rear-fender blister molding that takes its aerodynamic styling from the twin-throat air intake of a jet plane.

The body of the Bonneville is finished in Kenya Ivory acrylic lacquer. Its custom interior is upholstered in red and white leather.

Knudsen said Pontiac would start production of the Bonneville sports convertibles early next year. At present, Pontiac is scheduling its production of the Bonneville convertibles with fuel injection for dealer use only.

The Bonneville will be available in limited quantity as Pontiac plans to produce only a small volume of the fuel injection engines at this time, according to Knudsen.

Dubbed the "transcontinental," the six-passenger Safari features custom interiors of hand-buffed leather and body finish of Pontiac's revolutionary new acrylic lacquer in 19 choices of glowing dream-car colors.

Take Mild Weather With a Grain of Salt!

Residents of the Pontiac area may take today's mild 50-54 degree prediction with a proverbial "grain of salt," as the U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts mostly cloudy and turning colder. The forecast says snow flurries are likely tonight, with a low near 32.

Tomorrow will remain cloudy and become much colder with snow flurries and a high near 32. Tomorrow night will be cloudy and cold with snow flurries and a low of 16-20.

The lowest temperature recorded in Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 37 degrees. At 2 p.m. the mercury read 45.

Greet Hungarian Refugees at Local Church Luncheon

Pontiac heralded the visit of the first group of refugees from tyranny-born Hungary today.

A group came from Detroit, where 43 more refugees arrived yesterday to begin life anew in Michigan.

They were welcomed at Five Points Community Church, 3411 E. Walton Blvd., where women of the community prepare luncheon for local businessmen and area residents.

Dr. Georgely Szappanyos, former obstetrician at St. John Hospital, Budapest, spoke briefly.

He and the Janos Szenerei family arrived in Detroit last week, among the first refugees. The Szenereis are from Gyor, midway between Budapest and Vienna.

It was hoped their appearance will interest local support to sponsor refugees here.

Rev. Gordon C. Lindsay, pastor of the Five Points Church, and Roy L. Hardy were in charge of the program. They represente the Hungarian Refugee Relief Committee in Detroit.

The group returned to Detroit after the luncheon to rejoin the first large contingent of refugees which arrived at Willow Run airport from the processing center at Camp Kilmer, N. J.

Today the newcomers roamed Detroit, wide eyed and amazed at their new-found freedom.

They included four families, an engaged couple and a number of young men who decided to flee Hungary when it became obvious Russian tyranny would put an end to the rebellion for freedom there.

The refugees will be quartered at a Detroit hotel for several days until a special refugee relief committee completes an orientation program. Some then will move in with relatives.

Bell to Build More Facilities

Slate Record Spending to Give Better Service to Area Phones

The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. will spend a record $3,900,000 for new construction to expand and improve service in the Pontiac area in 1957.

Local manager Ray H. Storm said throughout its territory, $98,000,000 would be spent, the largest construction program in the firm's history. To a large extent, the program must be financed through new money from investors, Storm added.

The huge outlay for 1957, he said, represents the company's best estimate as to what will be required to fill requests for better grades of service, to place in effect many of the technological advances which have been developed to make telephone service more convenient and useful, and to provide service to customers when and where they want it.

Breaking down the construction program in the Pontiac area for next year, Storm said the company would spend $392,000 for land and buildings; $1,386,000 for central office facilities to serve an additional 1,500 customers; $474,000 for telephone instruments and related items; and $1,677,000 for cable, wire, poles and other outside equipment.

Storm said the number of telephones in the local calling area have increased from 45,943 in 1948, to 78,240 as of September 30, this year.

Collision Kills Waterford Man

Five Severely Injured in Two-Car, Headon Crash on M15

Fred A. Bruske, 50, of 4311 Lessing Rd., Waterford Township, was killed and five others, including his wife and son and three Pontiac residents, were severely hurt in a headon collision on M15 near Davison Saturday morning.

Most serious of the injured is Mrs. Delpha Dement, 40, of 3251 Giddings Rd. She is reported in poor condition at St. Joseph Hospital in Flint. Listed as "fair" are Mrs. Febbie Bruske, 50, David B. Bruske, 12, Bobby J. Dement, 17, and 15-month-old Daniel Dement.

Bruske and Bobby Dement were the drivers of the vehicles involved, according to Flint State Police, who are still investigating the crash. Troopers said they were apparently trying to dodge each other when they collided.

A Royal Oak woman, Marjorie Tarr, 46, lost her life last night when a car she was riding in went off a dirt road and overturned three miles west of Ada, Ohio.

But Lodge Calls Commie Offer 'Unsatisfactory'

Reds Still Won't Allow U.N. Observers to See Revolt-Torn Nation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (INS)—The puppet regime of Hungary told Dag Hammarskjold today it will permit him to enter Budapest "at a later date" but the United States immediately branded the offer unsatisfactory.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the U.N. Assembly that the reply received from Hungary giving conditional entry to the secretary general — but refusing U.N. observers — is rank failure to comply with the U.N. Assembly's resolutions.

Lodge added:

"The assembly is confronted by a demonstration of complete contempt for the provisions of the charter and callous disregard for human beings."

He insisted that the Assembly send U.N. observers not only to Hungarian borders but also to Romania to check on the reported mass deportation of Hungarian patroits.

Lodge also insisted that the observers be able to check the fate and whereabouts of Imre Nagy, former Hungarian premier seized by the Russians and deported to an unknown destination.

Lodge hinted at the end of patience with Soviet and Hungarian defiance by declaring that "the time has come for one final appeal." He added that a deadline must be set for a showdown.

A similar threat of punitive action against Red Hungary was voiced by Netherlands Delegate M. C. Schurmann, who told the assembly that Budapest and Moscow will be given "this last chance" to admit U.N. observers and comply with other Assembly demands.

Meanwhile, Hungarian refugees, crossing into Austria during the night, reported today that an "anti-Communist independent state" has been founded by rebellious populations in Borsod, Gomor, Gyor, and Somogy counties.

The new state reportedly is being administered by members of all parties except that of the Communist.

The refugees said that the state is carrying out the reform program of former Premier Imre Nagy, now missing from Hungary.

Reliable sources from Budapest said that guerilla fighters were still clashing with the Soviet troops in scattered resistance pockets throughout the entire rebellion-wrecked country.

REPORT RED CASUALTIES

It was reported that nationalists at the Mecsek Mountains near Pecs caused heavy casualties by ambushes and lightning-like raids on Soviet troops stationed there.

Workers are said to be moving into the forests and mountain areas today to join the guerillas who supposedly are planning a large scale "winter offensive" against the hated Russian troops.

In addition to some 3,000 freedom fighters being organized at the Mecsek Mountains near the city of Pecs, it was reported other guerilla units are hiding out in the Bakony forests and at Satoroljauhely area in the northeast of Hungary.

Days Hurrying Past

Begin Yule Chores Now

By JANET ODELL

It's December at last. That means that the days until Christmas are numbered. It's time to clean the house, get out the boxes of Christmas stuff from last year, plan holiday food and go shopping.

After you have looked over your supply of tree ornaments, get any new ones you're planning to use. Stores are well stocked this early. Don't forget extra bulbs for the lights. Or larger bulbs for outside decorations.

Now is the time to buy your candles. If you use just red and green ones in all your candleholders, buy them by the dozen. If you are planning to decorate fancy-shaped candles, get them now before you can't find what you want.

Sequins, beads, gold and silver rick-rack and braid make good decorations; but you must get them now if you want any choice.

We saw candles in pastel shades that will fit your angel chime holders. They would be pretty in place of the more conventional white ones.

Not enough candle holders? Buy tin funnels in several sizes, fit them together with the wide part at opposite ends. Presto, you have a new candleholder.

Blocks and forms of styrofoam are available for trimming. This plastic lends itself well to painting or to decorating with other objects.

Now is the time to purchase Christmas handkerchiefs to make fancy aprons. It's time to buy the material you will need to make tiny holiday corsages. It's time to purchase fancy wrapping paper, ribbon, string, tags and the amusing little tie-on favors or trinkets with which to deck your packages.

It's time to buy the children Christmas coloring books and new crayons. Look for the ones that are washable and non-toxic—the crayons, we mean.

Now is the time to make lists and more lists, to read ads and to go window shopping. It's Christmas Time!

Will Set Wixom Election Date

In a meeting tomorrow afternoon called to ratify sale of Northwestern Highway bonds in Lansing, Oakland County supervisors also will set an election date for the proposed incorporation of Wixom Village and okay hiring of a coordinator for county drain projects.

Sale of the bonds, to finance the proposed extension of Northwestern Highway to a junction with U. S. 23 in Livingston County, is set for tomorrow morning.

The county's Board of Supervisors must okay sale prices. Under an agreement with the State Highway Department, the county will pay the state $90,000 a year for 20 years as its share of the $37 million project.

Federal and state governments will pay equal shares of the initial cost, with the county's share—five per cent of total cost—returning to the state government in annual installments.

Reviewing petitions for an incorporation election in Wixom village, supervisors are expected to set Feb. 5 as election date for the issue.

A resolution submitted by the Ways and Means Committee will ask supervisors to authorize advancing funds from the county general fund to pay for preliminary engineering and studies for proposed drain projects.

The money, to be repaid when funds for the projects have accumulated, would include a salary for a general project coordinator to handle details of the Farmington, Evergreen and other future drains.

Anton J. Berst, now coordinator of the $38,500,000 Twelve Town Drain, is expected to get the job.

A joint committee is expected to recommend hiring a full-time, qualified civil engineer to supervise the county's building, maintenance and utilities programs.

In other action, Harold K. Schone, chairman of the board's Legislative Committee, will report on legislation the board would like to see passed in the coming session of the state Legislature.

Supervisors will consider a resolution turning over control of the Knowles Drain, now under County supervision, to the city of Madison Heights.

A lease with the county Road Commission on the ground at the service center it now occupies is expected to be ratified by the board.

Supervisors will again consider a by-laws amendment on tax procedures rejected at a previous meeting, and consider another setting new terms for some county appointive offices.

The proposed lease by the city of Pontiac on the county Congagious Hospital is expected to be ratified.

City Rejects Offer of Beaudette Land

Walter K. Willman and Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of schools, to extend the offer for "cultural and educational purposes."

Use of the site for a field house, athletic field or parking lot, either for general or high school parking, was to be prohibitive in the agreement.

Only the Beaudette home and the nearby Palmer-Ward residence were to remain if the site was converted into a park. Beaudette suggested use of their home for the libarary.

This revised offer received a setback when Board of Education officials concluded that, for any educational institution above high school level, some 60 acres would be needed.

"This then left it squarely up to the city as to what could be done," Willman pointed out.

Other objections listed by the city included use of the block "purely a park or landscaped area without buildings, parking, play areas or picnic privileges."

The future planning of acquiring Civic Center property for a civic auditorium, one of the prohibitive uses listed by Beaudette, was another factor causing the plan to be scrapped.

Questioned by the city was the desirability of a park in the central area of the city.

Willman enumerated present projects being undertaken by the city, which would require financial priority before the expenditure of $1 million to acquire the remaining acreage in the block.

"The City Commission is very appreciative of the offer from you and Mrs. Beaudette and are sorry that the matter cannot be more adequately resolved in line with your wishes at this time," Willman said in a letter to Beaudette.

Teenage Girl Hurt in 2-Car Collision

A Birmingham teenage girl received minor cuts and her companion was shaken up in a two-car collision in Bloomfield Township Sunday morning.

Released after treatment at Pontiac General Hospital was Arlene Olszewsk, 19, of 6550 Whysall Rd., who was riding with Leonard K. Taylor, 22, of Detroit. The other car involved was operated by Elton Alpers, 45, of 519 E. Lincoln St., Birmingham.

Alpers told investigators he was making a right turn when struck from behind. Taylor told police he looked down to tune his radio and did not see the car ahead in time to stop.

Three Persons Hurt in Headon Collision

Three persons were slightly injured in a headon collision early today at Franklin road and W. South boulevard, Pontiac police said.

All were released after treatment at Pontiac General Hospital, authorities said.

One driver, Eugene Sylcox, 27, of 119 Omar St., suffered a cut mouth. Two passengers in the other car, Aretha Satterwhite, 58, of 42 Hibbard Ct. and John Threlkeld, 35, of 62 Utah Ave., both suffered cut chins.

The other driver, Arleathia M. Gamble, 28, of 48 Hibbard Ct. was not injured. She was turning left, police said.

Further, the British told Israel it should get out of the captured Gaza Strip as well as Egypt's Sinai Peninsula and permit the strip to be made a responsibility of the U.N.

In New York, U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold expressed hope the British and French forces will be out and the emergency U.N. police force will have taken command in Port Said by mid-December.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd notified the House of Commons Gen. Sir Charles Keightley, commander of the British-French invasion forces, has been instructed to meet with U.N. officials to work out a time table for the withdrawal.

"Given good faith on all sides, it can be carried out in a short time," Lloyd said.

In Paris, Foreign Minister Christian Pineau delivered a similar statement to the French National Assembly.

Lloyd's announcement made clear that the invasion failed to achieve what many members of Britain's ruling Conservative party had considered a prime objective: To restore the Suez Canal to international control.

He said Hammarskjold would soon promote negotiations on the canal's control among representatives of Britain, France and Egypt.

Report Rebels on Cuba Coast

Army Planes Attack Band Believed Led by Exiled Cuban Student

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The Cuban army said rebel troops landed on Cuba's south coast and government forces were advancing on them early today.

It said army planes had strafed an "enemy" band and scattered it, and that the navy had intercepted a yacht off the coast and found baggage believed to belong to Fidel Castro Ruz, a Cuban student leader who has been in exile in Mexico.

Rumors spread through Cuba that Castro had been killed. But the army said it could not confirm that the 30-year-old former Havana student was even in the country.

Frequently accused of plotting against the Batista government, he has been living in Mexico City. Mexican officials said Saturday he was still there and under police observation.

PLANES STRAFE 40

A dispatch to the Miami Herald said government planes bombed and strafed a band of 40 commandoes in a sugar field between Manzanillo and Nicaro on the south coast, killing Castro.

Earlier today Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Avila, army general adjutant, said the rebel band landed in Oriente Province, north of Santiago de Cuba, under the command of Castro. He did not give the rebel band's strength.

The army statement denying knowledge of Castro's whereabouts came later.

YACHT INTERCEPTED

The official statement said a Mexican - registered yacht had been intercepted by a Cuban navy unit near Cape Cruz on the south coast.

The uprising began early Friday with attacks by civilian bands on police stations in Santiago de Cuba. At least 12 persons were killed and more than 50 wounded.

Correct Band Name

In Saturday's edition of The Pontiac Press, the Avondale High School band was misnamed the Avon Township band, in a story on the downtown Christmas parade.

Flowers have a special meaning —beyond words

When grief strikes someone close to you, it is not easy to put into words the sympathy you feel. But the flowers you send carry a message far, far beyond words. Their beauty is a source of comfort and strength.

Twining Land Rezoning Again Faces Commission

BIRMINGHAM — A decision on rezoning of the Twining Property on Adams Street is due tonight, along with city commission's words on the Maple-Bates-Henrietta Alley and alterations in the city's sign ordinance.

The Twining problem had been put over from Nov. 13 by the commission.

Maps and sketches, as well as estimates of costs accompany several suggested plans for the Maple-Bates-Henrietta Alley included in the city manager's reports to the commission.

His other reports concern an agreement with the B/W Controller Corp. of Troy, and the city's employe recognition program. Need for parking for those attending the First Church Scientist if an addition is built onto the edifice is topic of a communication from Charles H. McIntyre to the commission. A zoning problem is involved.

Richard Chesbrough and August Jafano have written referring to an alley vacation in the Campbell subdivision.

Exchange club members on Friday plan a mystery bus trip, with members still signing up for the outing. Aaron Kershenbaum and Charles Walker are new members.

Child Study Club members will hear Mrs. T. H. Mabley of the Family Service Bureau talk on her organization's contribution to the community at their meeting tomorrow night at 8 at Mrs. George Talburtt's home, 612 Brookside St.

Seven composers' music will star at the "Third Sunday Musicale" set for Sunday at 4 p.m. at Ascension Lutheran Church.

Rehearsing is the choir under Mrs. Norman Krupp and Mrs. Wallace Blide, and a trio and a quartet of violin, cello, organ and trumpet players. A potluck supper will follow the public program, and a nursery will be open for young children's care.

A Yule party for Metropolitan auxiliary members is set for Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at Wilkin's on Orchard Lake road. Hostesses will be Mrs. Sam Snell, Mrs. Glenn Foltz, Mrs. Charles Reynolds and Mrs. Robert Schaule.

Tonight's the night when local stores open until 9 or 10 p.m. and reserve evening hours for male Christmas shopping.

Mrs. Ethel K. Robertson

Service for Mrs. Ethel K. Robertson, lifelong Detroit area resident who once made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Marion Feehan here, will be at Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. at 11 a.m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Elmwood Cemetery, Detroit.

Mrs. Robertson, widow of a Detroit insurance and political figure, Forbes Robertson, died at Van Dyke Memorial Hospital yesterday. She leaves her daughter, three sons, John and Forbes of Detroit and Capt. Bruce of the U.S. Air Force, seven grandchildren and a sister.

Death's Separation Lasts Only 2 Days

BIRMINGHAM—Mrs. Alice Hallock, whose husband, Charles J., was buried Saturday, died yesterday. The 90-year-old woman had been ill a long time, as was her husband, 88.

They leave their daughter, Dena, at home, 691 Ann St., with her husband of two weeks, Manley Tyson. Also surviving is another daughter, Mrs. Stephen Hickmott, of Milford; a son, Clark of Birmingham, four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The couple married in Cass City in 1898 and moved here in 1910. Mrs. Hallock belonged to the OES and the Philomen Club, her husband to the Masonic lodge here, and both to First Presbyterian Church.

Service for Mrs. Hallock will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Manley Bailey Funeral Home, with interment in Roseland Park.

Take Cash, Whisky in Breakin of Tavern

Coin machines were looted of $155 and six bottles of whisky stolen last night from a tavern at 262 E. Pike St., Pontiac police said.

Steal Tools, Chair From Garage in City

A table, chair and garden tools, valued at $75, were stolen last week from a home garage at 351 Nelson St., Pontiac police said.

The garage door was forced open they said.

Corday's wonderful way with Eau de Cologne

Here's an easy-to-hold push-button atomizer that delivers your favorite eau de cologne in a refreshing mist-spray of fragrance. Corday's Spraygrance is plastic-coated and therefore shock-and-shatter-proof. It's completely safe to travel with (even on airplanes). Spraygrance is leak-proof—the eau de cologne will not evaporate or lose its original odor. You'll never find an easier, more reasonable way to surround yourself with fragrance. Choose the two ounce or four ounce atomizer in any of five famous Corday scents.

Shotgun Toll: 1 Dead, 2 Hurt

Hunter Dies in Mishap; Another Loses 3 Toes When Weapon Fires

By International News Service

Three rabbit hunting accidents during the weekend have resulted in death for one hunter and injuries for two others.

Frank Gross, 21, of Niles, was fatally wounded yesterday in his side when a friend, 19-year-old Paul D. Yeager, also of Niles, accidentally shot him.

The hunters had stopped in Howard Township, Cass County, and were reaching into the back seat for their guns when the accident occurred.

Gross died in Pawating Hospital. Yeager was released.

Shotgun pellets from the father and Maistrie richocheted off a large stone and struck the boy. He was treated and released from Mercy Hospital in Jackson.

A 58-year-old Detroiter, Peter Jankowski, lost three of his toes when his shotgun went off as he was unloading it. His toes were amputated in Arenac Hospital in Standish where he was reported in good condition.

Personal Gift in Needlework

Sew-Kits Help Put 'You' in Yuletide Remembrances

Women who sew and knit gifts keep a watchful eye on their art-needlework and pattern departments. They eagerly snap up new items that seem to fit exactly the person they had in mind.

Argyle sock patterns, patterns for little sweaters, kits for cross-stitching tablecloths, all are available in almost every town.

And there are very few women who don't take greater pride in giving something they made themselves, providing the results are professional-looking.

Typical of the friends of women who make their own gifts is Mrs. Elsa Williams, of Massachusetts. Mrs. Williams manufactures sew-it-yourself kits that emphasize felt. Handbags in many different patterns, felt flowers to decorate sweaters in the fashion that's highly popular this season, felt stockings for children to hang by the fireplace with care—all come from Mrs. Williams' company.

The latest from the Williams Manufacturing Company is a hat kit. In three styles — camellia, carnation and pansy — this kit comes with printed felt pieces for flowers and leaves, a buckram form, veiling, beads, wire and instructions.

An interesting possibility for a grandmother or aunt who has a hard-to-please teen-ager to plan for, the kit has an accompanying handbag kit.

Like most of the products in the needlework department, these kits produce results that would cost more if bought ready-made. But, most important is the fact that they provide a real opportunity for a woman to put herself in her gift.

Christmas Parade Best to Date

Saturday's big Christmas parade, witnessesed by an estimated 30,000 persons, was an impressive and fitting introduction to the holiday season in Pontiac.

The thousands of people lining the parade route deserve a word of praise for the orderly manner in which they conducted themselves. They remained at the curb and allowed ample room for all moving vehicles participating.

Sponsored by the Retail Merchants Assn., with the help of other civic groups, the big parade has become traditional as the start of the year's most joyous period. This was the ninth, and in many ways the best yet.

The parade combined all the elements needed to please everyone.

Marching bands came from schools in the area.

Nineteen floats entered by churches of the city portrayed the religious themes of Christmas. Other floats, prepared by school groups, portrayed toyland themes so dear to the small folk.

Military Guard from the National Guard; a colorful group of Dancing Majorettes; a calliope . . . all added to the festive air of the occasion.

Parade Marshal Capt. A. J. Largent and executive director Gerald A. Poehlman deserve high praise for their work as do all others who contributed to the formation.

Pontiac Police, the city's Auxiliary Police and the National Guard deserve praise for a fine job of keeping the crowds orderly along the line of march.

Even the weatherman cooperated this year. All-in-all it was a grand celebration.

Farming Changes With Eating Habits

You would scarcely think that it matters to a farmer in Kansas whether or not your wife has that second piece of toast for breakfast; or whether or not she strikes pork from the family menu in favor of a lower fat item.

But multiply her choices by millions and you have a trend of consequence.

Millions of Americans, overweight, have taken to dieting in recent years. As a result U. S. Department of Agriculture experts believe there will have to be some drastic changes in what U. S. farms produce over the next 20 years.

Basically farm production today is geared to the American diet of 50 years ago. Eating habits of Americans, however, may be behind some of the farm surpluses we are building up.

There has been a decline in the per capita consumption of wheat products in the past half century. This may have a bearing on the tremendous supply of surplus wheat now in government bins.

On the other hand there has been a great increase in the demand for meat by Americans.

Looking ahead to 1975 the experts predict that demand for farm products will be up about 25 per cent, but the demand will not go up equally for all items.

Despite more people, a downward adjustment in production of food grains is anticipated. Only a moderate increase in cotton demand is expected, reflecting increased competition from synthetic fabrics.

The increasing demand for meat in the American diet will boost the cattle demand, which then will call for production of more feed grain, and the production of hay and forage also might see an upward trend.

With the shifting of acreage among crops, more acreage to crop and pasture lands, there also must be an increased yield per acre to meet food demands within 20 years, the department believes.

Your diet habits, which help set the demand for type of foods, are important factors in creating the market for the farmer, whether he grows potatoes in Maine, cherries in Michigan or wheat in Kansas.

The Man About Town

Big Trek Is On

Christmas Trees Comprise Much of Truck Haulage

Windy: When the men don't notice the ladies' hats.

One of the principal commodities now being hauled on the Dixie Highway, Telegraph Road, Grand River Road and other main highways in the Pontiac area is Christmas trees. The annual trek is daily assuming bigger proportions.

On the Dixie the trucks loaded with the greenery now are passing at the rate of about one per minute. The demand in Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland and other large cities is so good that the trucks are running overtime. One hauler is making two round trips per day between West Branch and Detroit.

And we haven't seen a tree on any of these big haulaways that can match those which we grow right here in Oakland County.

The work of preparing the preliminary drawings, surveys and a scale model of Pontiac's proposed civic auditorium is under way. According to

David Lawrence Says:

Kremlin May Goad U.S. Into War

WASHINGTON — Maybe this is a dispatch that the Kremlin's monitors who watch American public opinion ought to read very carefully. It may come as a surprise to them, as it did to this writer who gathered the information.

For the Soviets are playing with fire and probably don't know it can result in a blaze that would spread far and wide.

The other day, this correspondent began talking to the "man on the street" about the happenings in the world. One conversation out of several is, of course, not typical but, because it resembles so closely comments that became typical prior to the outbreak of two world wars, it is reproduced here for whatever point it may convey to readers here and abroad:

"What do you think of the world situation?" was my first question.

"Pretty bad, I'd say. I feel sorry for those poor Hungarians," was the reply of a taxi driver.

"Well, what can we do about it?"

"I don't know, but I don't like it."

"Would you have America go to war about it?"

WAR FAVORED?

"Would you favor sending our American boys into war in this situation?"

"Well, I was in the Second World War and in Korea, and there comes a time when you got to do something."

"Have you any sons?"

"Yes, two in the Navy and one in the Army."

"Aren't you worried about the big bomb — the one they say will destroy us all on both sides if it's used in war?"

"No — then we'll all be dead anyway — so what!"

The conversation may not by any means reflect present-day thinking in America. But it is significant of the way a determination to go to war slowly but surely develops over a period of time. It happened this way twice before.

There is something indefinable and even awesome about the way a nation makes up its mind to go to war. Having tried negotiation, having tried appeasement, having tried "coexistence," having tried everything, there comes a time when the demand is that military force be used.

It has been generally assumed in the last few years that because of the terrible destruction the hydrogen bomb could wreak on both sides there would be no global conflict again — neither side would allow it. History proves, however, that terror does not prevent war.

Indeed, before 1939, the bombing of civilian populations was known to be a certain consequence of the outbreak of any war. The people of England submitted to bombing for many years rather than surrender. The human spirit can bravely risk death if there is a basic conviction of the justness of the case.

BIG QUESTION

Just when do a peaceful people make up their minds to go to war? At what exact moment does their patience become exhausted and do they fling themselves almost recklessly into a war that they become convinced must be fought and won if human liberty and freedom are to survive?

Nobody can answer that question as yet, with reference to present day events. The men in the Kremlin are making the same mistake the Kaiser made in 1917 and that Hitler made in 1939. They both believed American military power would never be brought to bear on the side of Britain and France.

Unfortunately, part of the error of the Soviet Union's rulers today is based on an undue emphasis they can note in American policy statements concerning "renunciation of the use of force." This, however, must be read as a hope applied to all sides rather than a self-prohibition.

The most significant evidence of this is the overwhelming vote given by the Congress of the United States last year in authorizing the President under certain contingencies to use American military force in and around Formosa instantly — without further consultation. This was an unprecedented grant of authority and seemed imperative in a nuclear age.

Something of the same type of authority may some day be given to the President by Congress to act in Europe and in the Middle East if the Soviet Union keeps on arming small countries and inciting them to war, and persists in using its own army to destroy the freedom of small nations.

For, while a mission of liberation as such will probably never be initiated by the United States, there may come a time when the United Nations will authorize an international police force to act and then America will be going along with the other powers.

NO ILLUSIONS

A third world war isn't as impossible as it seems, and Soviet policy makers ought not to be under any illusions as to the manner in which a free people can be goaded into war.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Build Home Humidifiers for Better Health, Comfort

Lest some wise one demolish my teaching by cracking that it is easy enough for me, basking in the sunshine and balmy air of this paradise all winter long, to tell people up north to go out without overcoat or overshoes and take a brisk walk to get warmed up — let me say that I served many years in Upper New York before I ever gave a thought to change of climate. Even though I like it here, I still say living in New York State is not half bad.

Anyone with a little ingenuity or gumption can assure an ideal climate in his home all winter. I did so through the last few winters we lived in New York.

We lived in a three-story 12-room house heated by radiators circulating hot water.

On top of each of seven or eight radiators was a humidifier about as long and wide as the radiator, painted to match the radiator.

The humidifiers were boxes or tanks made of galvanized metal, the width of the standard radiator and of various lengths to fit the radiator. They were about 6 inches deep.

Each had a cover with flat top and louvers all around the sides to allow free circulation of air. The tank was fitted with a wire S frame to support many loops of wicking or Turkish towelling suspended over the water and dipping into it.

Each tank filled to capacity with from one to three or four gallons of water evaporated a gallon or more of water daily.

The humidifiers were marketed by a Minneapolis firm, but the firm discontinued making them. I'm no handyman but I'm sure anyone with what I said should be able to make his own.

LESS HEAT MINDED

We found the use of such humidifiers during the season when artificial heat was necessary kept us as comfortable with a household temperature of 68 as we felt with a temperature of 72 or higher without humidification.

Winter air, heated up to or above 70 by any means loses most of its natural moisture, becomes excessively dried out, actually as dry as or drier than the driest desert air.

No wonder it is hard on furniture, book bindings, musical instruments, growing plants, and the skin, and mucous membranes of occupants.

I confess I got pretty tired of toting water up and down the house every day to keep those thirsty humidifiers filled. But I suppose the only solution for this problem would be to plan and build in humidification when you plan and build your home.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Americans Seek Work—Will Hungarians Get Jobs?'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I have been reading and hearing that all of these Hungarian refugees are going to be given jobs, and even trained where necessary.

I have nothing at all against the Hungarians, but why is it there will be enough jobs for all of them when so many of our own are out of work and unable to find jobs?

Vet Forecasts Snowless Yule

I just wagered two neighbors we would not have a "white Christmas." I'm not opposed, but people get carried away by a few premature weather signs. We had a fairly consequential snow a little early and so they assume the snow's here for the whole winter. Mark it down in your diary now: "Christmas dawned with the mercury in the low forties and not a flake of snow on the Oakland County scene."

Puzzled

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

The case of the vanished Imre Nagy, former Hungarian Communist premier is an old one: The revolution devouring its children.

Who is Imre Nagy?

The Soviet-installed present Hungarian Red premier, Janos Kadar, calls him a traitor, meaning a traitor against Moscow because Nagy demanded that Soviet troops get out of Hungary and that Hungary be allowed to drop out of the Warsaw Pact.

The Russians promptly deposed Nagy and ordered the Nov. 4 tank crews that wrecked the beautiful capital city of Budapest and sent scores of thousands of Hungarians fleeing into asylum in Austria. Scores of thousands more are estimated to have been killed and wounded.

Nagy himself took exile in the Yugoslav Embassy. Soviet agents later abducted him after he had been assured safe conduct to his home. Kadar says Nagy voluntarily went to Communist-ruled Romania for personal safety—which will not be believed by the Hungarian masses.

COMMIE VETERAN

Nagy is a 60-year-old Communist veteran trained for years in Moscow, but who proved in the long run to be still a Hungarian nationalist, too.

In World War I he was an apprentice locksmith when taken into the Austro-Hungarian army on the Italian front. He was wounded in 1917. Upon recovery he was sent to the Russian front, where he was captured and sent to Siberia.

In the Russian revolution he joined the Bolshevists. In 1918 he became a Soviet citizen and returned to Hungary. He occupied a minor post in the Communist regime of Bela Kun, which was succeeded in 1921 by the regency under Admiral Horthy.

Nagy then fled to France. When he returned home a short time later, he was jailed. Upon release he again went to Russia. He stayed in the Soviet Union throughout World War II, broadcasting Red propaganda to his homeland.

Behind the Red Army battering ram that leveled Budapest he returned home again and took an important part in planning and enforcing Communist agrarian "reforms."

WON PROMINENCE

Nagy became speaker of the Parliament and a Politburo member. He became premier in 1953 after Stalin's death and the fall of Hungarian strong man Matyas Rakosi. Nagy favored emphasis on light industry, not war-potential heavy industry.

When Moscow switched back to a heavy industry policy in 1955, Nagy fell from grace.

But when the Hungarian workers revolted in October, Nagy again became premier. Of all the Communists he was the most respected among the workers.

When he backed Hungarian workers' demands, the Russians deposed him and then abducted him.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Can Dogs Sense Death Coming?

Trixie brings out a very intriguing question. Do dogs sense death? How did she know that she was within five minutes of breathing her last? And did our fox terrier in Chicago realize that our big collie dog was likewise at death's door? Was she trying to get help when she raced through the house in the middle of the night and awakened everybody?

BY GEORGE W. CRANE

Case T-337: Trixie, aged 13, was a fox terrier who was the family pet when Mrs. Crane was a girl.

But Trixie became very ill one day. That night she entered the bedroom and awakened Mrs. Crane's mother.

So Mrs. Crane's mother got out of bed and sat down in a rocking chair. Trixie then put up her paws and indicated that she wanted to be picked up.

Mrs. Crane's mother lifted Trixie into her lap and petted her for a few minutes.

Trixie curled up and within a few minutes she was dead.

"Surely Trixie must have known she was dying," Mrs. Crane said, as we were discussing our own two dogs recently.

"What kind of sensation do you suppose dogs have which lets them know when death is imminent?"

DO DOGS FEEL DEATH?

That is an interesting question. Do you millions of dog owners have any similar experiences bearing on this interesting point?

A few years ago a talented executive and scheduled me for an address before a large women's audience, and Mrs. Crane was to accompany me.

Several days before we left Chicago, however, our big collie dog named Wolfe had become very sick. But Mrs. Crane nursed him along and fed him little balls of liverwurst so he finally could walk again, though feebly.

"I feel that I shouldn't go with you to Detroit tonight," she said as I was planning to head for the train.

"I'm afraid Wolfe may need me. He might die and I'd hate to be away if that should happen."

DOGS SIXTH SENSE

As she was talking, Wolfe laid his head in her lap and seemed to indicate that he wanted to stay close to her.

We had had Wolfe for about 12 years, so we knew he was at a ripe old age. For he was fully grown when our children found him in the woods on our Indiana farm, half-starved and with an injured leg.

He had grown up with our five children and was like a member of the Crane family.

But I coaxed Mrs. Crane to accompany me, saying that my cousin Betty would look after Wolfe.

So Mrs. Crane reluctantly accompanied me to the train. Alas, her premonition was correct.

Wolfe had dragged himself to the front door as we said "goodby."

He then lay down and stayed there, after our departure, expectantly looking at the door, hoping we'd return any minute.

In the middle of the night, our fox terrier dashed madly all over the two floors of our home, apparently seeking us. She woke up Betty.

Wolfe was dying, though he made no sound. It was only a few minutes till he was dead.

How did our fox terrier know that he was at the point of death? Why did she race all over the house apparently in her frantic search for Mrs. Crane?

When we returned from Detroit next day, they had placed Wolfe lovingly in a nice new corrugated box.

"We ought to bury him at the farm," our younger boys said.

So we placed Wolfe in the car and the boys drove us to our farm.

Although it was winter, they dug a grave on the hill and we buried Wolfe with flowers and tears.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

$100 Million Spent Yearly to Keep Nation Fragrant

America Smells -- of Costly Perfume, That Is

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — If anyone were to tell you that the United States smells—never question his judgment.

Of all the aromatic nations in the world, including Scotland with its heather, Switzerland with its chocolate and India with its essence of Ganges water, the U.S. is the most flagrantly fragrant.

No less an authority than Miss Sherry Stone, executive director of the "Fragrance Foundation," has pointed out to me that close to $100,000,000 worth of perfume, cologne and toilet water should have been sold by the end of this year, to keep our native women delightfully damp behind the ears.

"Also the wrists and throats," added Miss Stone, "and why not try a drop or two inside the elbow?"

I personally cannot help feeling appalled at the thought of all that money going to the ears (and wrists, throats and elbows), but then big figures always have appalled me.

For that matter, so has perfume. Ever since the day Mother squirted something called Quelques Fleurs at me and remarked that I was her "little lady," I have been addicted to aromas . . . but utterly baffled as to whether or not I am properly scented. Or simply smelly.

The trouble is that, after reading the ads, I can never figure out what I want to be: Irrestible, unforgettable, zoot, shocking, a froth of spring; subtle as a zephyr or a mais oui girl.

It's a cinch I can't be all of them. Not at $35 or $40 an ounce, I can't.

"The best way to tell you how to handle the situation is to give you the advice we give men who want to buy perfumes for women," smiled Miss Stone with sweet—rose, I believe—tolerance.

"A man who is in love, or in the chips, or in the doghouse, doesn't care too terribly how much money he has to spend on a perfume or cologne for his woman. But he DOES care that he gets the right and proper scent for her.

"There has been so much material written and spoken about how a woman's perfume is an individual part of her that men are afraid of choosing the wrong one. And well they should be."

DESCRIBES THE GIRL

So, according to Miss Stone, the average man will go into a long description to the fragrance saleslgirl on what his girl looks like, hoping that way to get a good selection.

"This is the wrong approach, of course. It is not a woman's appearance, but rather her personality and personal interests, that decide which type perfume suits her.

"For instance, a housewife who goes to PTA meetings and lives in the country and raises children probably will like, and be suited for, a light-type perfume—flowery and fresh. Lavender and old lace.

"A social butterfly will want a heavier, Oriental smell," advised Miss Stone brightly, "musk and jasmine.

"Now you . . ." and she puckered her brow thoughtfully, "being a fast-paced businesswoman, need a heavy perfume too, but not necessarily exotic. Take what we call a 'modern blend,' sparkling and effervescent on the surface, with a woodsy-mossy-leafy undertone."

The heavier perfumes and those woodsy-mossy-leafy undertones generally last longer than the lighter fragrances, but in any case the average "staying power" of all the hundreds of perfumes put together is between three and four hours.

Well, that's how it ($100,000,000, that is) goes.

To Try British 'Spies' in Polish Court

WARSAW (AP)—Two men and a woman will go on trial soon charged as British intelligence agents, Interior Minister Wladyslaw Wicha annouced today.

He described the two men as foreign agents smuggled in from West Berlin.

"We have evidence that foreign agents are still being smuggled into Poland," he added.

Wicha is responsible for Poland's reorganized security services which, he asserted, will be confined to counteracting spying and "undergrouud activities." He said no Soviet advisers are now working in the security organization.

Snowing Again at Erie

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Highway crews concentrated today on clearing roads in this snow-weary community after its third big snow (7 inches today) in nine days.

How Sick Is Eden??

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev, ruddy-faced and bursting with laughter, summoned a western newsman into a little group of Soviet and Romanian leaders at a Yugoslav embassy reception last night.

"We have just been told a malicious anecdote," he chortled.

* * *

"Eden is sick. A council of doctors held a consultation and made a diagnosis. The diagnosis was that Eden is suffering from inflammation of the canal."

Ike to Press Button Lighting Christmas Tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower plans to deliver his christmas message Dec. 20 from a park adjoining the White House.

He also will press a button to light up a 68-foot national community Christmas tree, the capital's Christmas Pageant Committee announced.

* * *

Romulus Man Killed

DETROIT (AP)—Robert E. Christian, 47, of Romulus Township, was killed Friday night in a two-car collision near the Wayne County airport. His wife, Maxine, their son, Joseph, 20, and Morris G. Prater of Wayne, driver of the other car, were hospitalized.

Caledonia Man Killed

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A Kent County man, Ivan W. Shear, 34, of Caledonia, was fatally injured Friday morning in a two-car collision near Grand Rapids.

Right Answer on Pot-O-Gold Means $900

Loot in the Pot-O-Gold is piling up fast, reaching $900 with this new puzzle if no winner is found for last Puzzle No. 26. Better get started at it before someone beats you to the riches. Check the rules carefully, and be sure to have your entry postmarked before the deadline. You'll never know if you can win until you try it.

The puzzle consists of (1) a number of circles which contain a few scrambled letters, and (2) a corresponding list of clues to these words printed below. The object is to arrange each group of circled letters into a word that best fits its clue. The word which you select for Circle No. 1, then would be the one which you would print in the space to the right of (1) below.

You'll notice that some circles contain $ signs in pots of gold. You may use such a symbol as any letter you wish. However, it and all letters in that circle must be used. The $ sign, of course, can represent ANY letter in the word.

Do the same in all the other circles. Study the clues carefully and arrange all the letters into words that you believe best conforms to these clues. Use your $ signs to help you spell out the right words.

OFFICIAL CONTEST RULES

1. Anyone is eligible to enter the POT-O-GOLD contest with the exception of Pontiac Press employes or their immediate families.

2. A contestant may submit as many entries as he or she wishes but they must be on official entry blanks printed in this newspaper.

3. To submit an entry the contestant must print his answer words in the proper spaces, cut out the area enclosed by dotted lines and attach it securely to a 2-cent postcard. No entries will be accepted if they are in envelopes. Entries for Puzzle No. 27 must bear a Tuesday, Dec. 11, postmark (or before). No entries received after that time, whether mailed or delivered by hand, will be declared eligible. The Press is not responsible for entries lost or delayed in the mail.

4. Sorry, telephone calls or mail concerning details of the contest cannot be answered or acknowledged.

5. The Pontiac Press will award a cash prize of $100 a week to the winner of each weekly POT-O-GOLD contest. If more than one winning answer is received the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If any week or weeks should pass without any winners, the prize will be added weekly until a winning solution is submitted.

6. Winners will be awarded an extra cash bonus of $25 each if they are Pontiac Press subscribers of record on the day winners are announced. Only one such bonus can be awarded to each prize-winner, no matter how many weekly prizes may accumulate.

7. Each week's puzzle will be published Monday, Wednesday and Friday until the contest's end. Either or all will be considered as official entry blanks.

8. Winners and correct solutions will be announced each Friday of the week following individual contests. Official keeper of answers will be Frederick C. Ziem, prosecutor for Oakland County. Only the General Features Corp., originators of the puzzles, will know the solutions until after each contest is over. Answers will be delivered to the Press judges by Mr. Ziem after the final deadline.

9. There is only one correct solution to the POT-O-GOLD puzzle, and only that correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries become the property of The Pontiac Press and none can be returned.

10. Completed puzzles must be addressed to POT-O-GOLD, POST OFFICE BOX 58, Pontiac, Michigan. Winners will be notified either by telephone or in the mails.

New Legislative Program Urged

Ann Arbor Republican Bids for Leadership in State Party

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A 34-year-old legislator made an audacious bid last week to establish himself as leader of a movement to rebuild the Republican party in Michigan.

Rep. George W. Sallade of Ann Arbor, leader of the tiny group of "Young Turks" in the house, invited his 60 Republican colleagues to help translate "Modern Republicanism" into a state legislative program.

Thirteen lawmakers, five of them newly elected last month, turned out for the luncheon meeting.

Sallade, who financed the meal and did most of the talking, said he was "pleased."

"About 20 per cent of the house Republicans turned out. I think we made a good start" he said.

Time and again, Sallade admonished the group to stop concentrating on defeat of Gov. Williams' legislative program and work out a Republican legislative platform.

The young legislator distributed copies of letters sent to all Republican lawmakers which contained a list of 10 legislative fields in which he said the party should act in the coming two years.

The list included higher education, mental health, elementary and secondary education, conservation, welfare, governmental reorganization, labor, housing, capital improvements and problems of the aged.

Song Writer Succumbs

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Jean Schwartz, 78, oldtime songwriter who with the late William Jerome wrote "Rockabye Your Baby with a Dixie melody," made famous by Al Jolson, and nearly 100 other songs, died yesterday. He was born in Budapest.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES - 1

THEN AND NOW

You know the Olympic Games are now going on in Australia. But do you know when the first Olympic Games were held?

In 776 B.C. youths from various Greek city states were sent to Olympia to compete in athletic contests. For 1100 years the games were held, always at the end of each Olympiad, a period of four years.

Then the games were stopped. But a Frenchman named Baron Pierre de Coubertin worked hard to revive the games 1500 years later. In 1896 the first modern Olympic Games were held in Athens, Greece.

The modern player on the right wears the United States shield on his shirt and carries the Olympic flag — a white ground with five interlacing rings of blue, yellow, black, green and red, colors found in the world's flags.

Paste this picture on cardboard and color with crayons. Cut it along the heavy outline and fold down the middle on the dotted lines, for the start of our Olympics collection.

(First to submit this idea was Linda Evans, Kittery Point, Maine, who wins $10. If you have an idea for Junior Editors send it in care of this newspaper. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newsfeatures). 12-3

Welcomes Debate of Syrian Troubles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Golda Meir, Israel's foreign minister, says she welcomes a United Nations discussion of her country's troubles with Syria.

Syria, expressing fear that Israel might attack, has asked U.N. action. Mrs. Meir said during an NBC-TV interview yesterday that Israel had planned to bring up the same matter and added she is glad it is before the U. N.

Israel "feels threatened," she said, as a result of the military buildup in Syria and thrats from the Soviet Union. The situation, she said, is "very critical."

Cooper and Nehru Talk

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Senator-Elect John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky), here on a special mission for President Eisenhower, spent more than two hours with Prime Minister Nehru today. Cooper arrived last night to arrange Nehru's trip to the United States starting Dec. 16.

British People Resent U. S. Criticisms but Nations Will Surely Stay Friends

(Much of the British press and public have "been outspokenly bitter against the United States for what they feel is this country's lack of understanding of Anglo-French motives in invading Egypt. And much of the American press and public have been angered by what they consider a tendency by Britain to do as it pleases and then let the U. S. "pick up the pieces." In the following article a distinguished British statesman, long recognized as strongly pro-American, explains the British side of the argument and urges "simple common sense" on both sides to shore up the vital Anglo-American Alliance.)

By LORD VANSITTART
(Former Chief Diplomatic Adviser to the British Government)

LONDON (INS)—Let me begin by saying that the following is not controversial but explanatory. It is no counter-charge but simply a statement of feeling which, rightly or wrongly, has been growing in Britain.

I should like to see it abate and, in a recent article in the London Times, said: "The surge of anti-American feeling now evident will subside in time."

I hope it will. But among the British people—I am not talking of the politicians—disillusion is deep.

We Americo-philes cannot conjure it away. What we can do is attenuate the harm. We can only do so by candor.

Americans are entitled to complain they were not consulted before the Anglo-French venture in Egypt. The British might reply that, in the light of experience, they could not afford to be stalled in a matter they considered urgent.

The less we argue now the better. But there is a feeling here which Americans should know that, even if the American arguments are better than ours in regard to our action, in regard to what went before and after it our complaints are as valid as theirs.

The conduct of the Americans in the Near and Middle East long before this crisis is a tale we were wise not to stress. Its only importance now is that the resentment here is not sudden.

The "surge" has come since President Eisenhower became his own secretary of state. The thinking of most people here follows these lines:

1. The President and his advisers seem unable ot see that Russia has gone far in her design of dominating the Near and Middle East. On the contrary, by deriding the idea they make it more likely to succeed.

The State Department, by dismissing as propaganda the danger in Egypt while admitting it in the lesser Syrian field, irritates a country which fought part of a great war to prevent a totalitarian power from taking over in the Near East.

It feels in the main that it has taken a far smaller action to prevent another totalitarian power from doing likewise.

2. The United States has repeatedly aligned itself in the United Nations with its own enemies against its former friends. This seems, to average Britons, fantastic. They could have understood it once, even twice. But its persistence baffles them.

Surely, they say, abstention would have sufficed in later stages.

3. Many of our people now feel that the United States is trading solid British friendship for fickle Arab and Afro-Asian favor.

They say that we would not do this sort of thing to the Americans. It is anyhow a policy incompatible with international reality.

It remains to repair an indispensable connection. We cannot "forthwith" — a peremptory and impracticable word—get back to the 100 per cent relations suggested by Mr. Casey (R. G. Casey, the Australian foreign minister).

Something less will be sufficient. On both sides recognizing that anger is a brief madness, especially in high places, we can maintain our individual cordialities and affections. Nothing will alter mine.

On both sides, we can insure that the polemics are not hit too high.

We must both frankly acknowledge that great damage has been done; but it is certainly not irreparable.

Until wiser counsels prevail we must be careful not to exaggerate our rift for the Communists are gloating enough already.

Every Western feud pushes them toward the step too far. We must shore up an essential unity lest civilization perish.

This is a plea for simple common sense. It is an extraordinary reflection on the judgment of two great countries that they should let a man like Gamal Abdel Nasser (Egypt's president) come between them.

Gunfighting From Oklahoma to Texas Ends With Two Dead, Two Wounded

SHAMROCK, Tex. (AP) — A gunfight which started in Oklahoma, killed a teen-age member of a posse and wounded two officers ened in the Texas Panhandle yesterday with the capture of a gunman dozing beside his dead half-brother.

James William Whiteard, 21, of Phoenix, Ariz., told officers he shot Junior Bard Myers, 32, to death in the dark, thinking Myers was part of the posse which surrounded them.

Texas Ranger Jim Paulk said Whiteard signed a statement saying he shot Myers when he blasted with a sawed-off shotgun at a figure in the brush.

Officers said Myers had numerous aliases and a long arrest record in the southwest and on the West Coast. They said Whiteard apparently had no record, but also went under the name of James Hunter.

The men were trapped near here Saturday night in a 1,200-acre area of scrubby brush on the ranch of J. B. Stephens, the slain youth's father.

Officers surrounded the area while planes dropped flares. Bloodhounds were flown in. At sunrise they led mounted officers to the pair.

The chase started Saturday at Texola, Okla., after the men's auto hit another car and sped from the scene.

Deputy Sheriff Marvin Skinner of Texola chased the car. They fired and nicked Skinner's chin. He radioed to Texas officers.

Deputy Sheriff Luke Nenley and Patrolman N. M. Nix of Shamrock sighted the car on a dirt farm road and gave chase.

The fugitives fled into the brushy pasture.

Nix was lightly wounded in the arm. Henley's coat was torn by bullets but he wasn't hit.

Help was summoned and officers started into the brush. Young Stephens asked if he could come along. "I have a good rifle," he said.

"We were going up to a hedgerow with the Stephens boy out in front," Collingsworth County Sheriff John Rainey said. "I spotted one of the men hunched over hiding and told him to rise with his hands up . . . The other gunman who was up front cut the boy down with a rifle. . .

"Then both men opened fire. . .

Officers said Myers was wanted for questioning about bank robberies at Dover, Ark., and Hearne, Tex., and for assault to murder.

No charges were filed immediately against Whiteard.

Ingrid Applauded at Play in Paris

PARIS (AP) — Ingrid Bergman, barely out of bed after an appendix operation, opened last night in Robert Anderson's play "Tea and Sympathy" and received an ovation from a packed house.

She had many spectators in tears. The cast got 15 curtain calls.

The actress' husband, Roberto Rosselini, drove from Italy to be with his wife but was too nervous to see the performance. Afterward he went to the dressing room, where Miss Bergman dashed into his arms.

It was her second appearance playing a part in French on a French stage.

Even With Lessons Learns Hard Way

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) —A Los Angeles woman has been doing so well with her driving lessons that recently she and her husband bought a new car.

The car hit a dip in the road, climbed the hood of a parked auto and bounced onto the rear deck of another parked car.

No one was hurt. The Udings' shiny 1957 sedan, with only 1,012 miles on the speedometer, was wrecked.

Mrs. Uding, weeping, said she'd got her foot on the accelerator instead of the brake pedal.

Red Marshal Zhukov Gets Highest Honors

MOSCOW (AP) — Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, Soviet defense minister and wartime friend of President Eisenhower, is one up on anybody else in the Soviet Union.

For his 60th birthday, the government yesterday gave him the Order of Lenin and a fourth Gold Star Medal. That's one more gold star than any other Russian has ever received.

The medals are given to "Heroes of the Soviet Union."

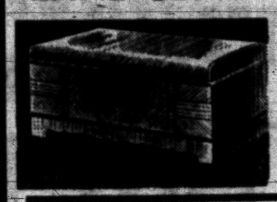

Tobacco also is a flourishing crop on the cold northern shores of Lake Erie, producing a $74 million annual crop.

GIGANTIC KRISS — Largest known Santa Claus in the world is shown being hoisted to his perch in a "chimney" atop a San Antonio, Tex., store. The giant Santa is more than three stories tall sitting down and waves a six-foot mitten in a 12-foot arc. Appropriately, he was set in place by the largest crane in the Southwest.

The Grand canyon of the Colorado is 278 miles long and has a maximum width of 13 miles and depth of 6,000 feet.

Ruptured Men Get $3.50 Truss

No Charge For It Now or Ever

Kansas City, Mo. — A doctor's invention for reducible rupture is proving so successful, an offer is now being made to give everyone who will test it a $3.50 truss at no cost. This invention has no leg straps, no elastic belts, or leather bands. It holds rupture up and in. Is comfortable and easy to wear. After using it many report entire satisfaction. Any reader of this paper may test the doctor's invention for 30 days and receive the separate $3.50 truss at no cost. If you are not entirely satisfied with the invention — return it, but be sure to keep the $3.50 truss for your trouble. If you are ruptured just write the Physician's Appliance Co., 4068 Koch Bldg., 2906 Main St., Kansas City, Mo., for their trial offer.

Ask High Court to Limit Inquiry

House Committee Hit for Procedure in Probe of Union Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has been asked to put a limit on the scope of congressional investigations.

John T. Watkins of Rockford, Ill., appealing his conviction on a contempt of Congress charge, contended in a brief that a committee "has no separate and distinct power of exposure unrelated to a legislative purpose," and added:

"When the sole or primary purpose of a congressional committee is the exposure of individuals to public scorn and retribution, the committee is engaging in a legislative trial in violation of the doctrine of separation of powers."

Watkins, an organizer for the United Automobile Workers Union, challenged the action of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in citing him for contempt. Appearing before that committee in March 1954, Watkins said he would tell it all about himself but would not inform on past associates who he said were no longer connected with the Communist movement.

He testified he had never been a Communist, but said he had cooperated with Communists in the Farm Equipment Workers Union some 10 years before.

Wassailing Traced From Anglo Saxons

Wassailing (pronounced wos'ling) is an old English Christmas custom of going from door to door singing. Many traditional wassailing songs, though not strictly religious in character, are counted as Chrstmas carols.

The word comes from the Anglo-Saxon toast "weshal" meaning "be in good health," and the reply was "drinkhail" — "drink good health." In olden days householders entertained wassailers with drinks from the wassail bowl, a warm cheering drink made with ale (or wine) flavored with spices, sugar, toast and roasted apples.

One of the oldest English wassail songs runs: "The roads are very dirty, my boots are very thin, I have a little pocket, to put a penny in."

New Wing Built to Hold Collection of 3,000 Mugs

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — All the members of the William Schwartz family collect things.

And when their house became too small an addition was built to make room for the 3,000 beer steins that the father collected.

Bill Schwartz, who operates a farm nursery, started his beer stein collection 10 years ago. It got so big he built a wing on his home where the collection now reposes. One piece, a hand-carved mug from an elephant's tusk, is worth more than $3,000.

Mrs. Schwartz collects star-pattern cut glass. Her 17-year-old son, William, Jr., has two collections—antique automobiles and curious looking pipes.

Troops Unafraid—of Girls

KURE, Japan (AP)—British Commonwealth troops manned this western Japanese port for 11 years. When they turned the base back to the Japanese last week, city officials counted up and reported 810 Kure girls had married Commonwealth servicemen during that time.

Hal Boyle Says:

Sock-Eating Cats Key to Human Habits?

That the average man may be worn down more by his clothes than his woes. His winter clothing—counting contents of pockets—weighs about nine pounds, that of the average woman only 2½ pounds.

That jaywalking moose are a railroad problem in Alaska. About 300 a year are killed by trains.

That President William Henry Harrison was the only occupant of the White House who kept his own milk cow.

That a survey of Ohio teen-agers showed half the girls and 29 per cent of the boys failed to eat breakfast regularly.

That postage stamps have been issued to honor all deceased presidents of the United States from George Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

That Americans hate to walk more than any people on earth, yet buy more shoes—better than three pairs a year per person—than any other country.

That cats have been known to eat socks out of a sheer boredom, which also may explain a lot of odd human eating habits.

That after childbirth in some South American Indian tribes it's the father who goes to bed and, feigning exhaustion, lies there while his wife arises and waits on him and the baby hand and foot. This custom may sound primitive—but they rarely lose a father!

That 6 of every 100 babies born in this country are now delivered by caesarean operation.

That an Australian physician says one of every five men who dies has some cancer of the prostate gland, although this is seldom the actual cause of death.

That the new 41,000-mile national highway system, although it will represent only 1.2 per cent of America's road mileage, is expected to carry 20 per cent of the traffic.

That about 209,000 automobiles will be stolen this year, and in 6 of 10 cases where arrests are made the thief will be a youth under 18.

* * *

That Bob Sweeney, costar of the CBS - TV network show, "The Brothers," used to drive a cab in San Francisco. Anyone know of an ex-trolley motorman who found the right track to stardom?

That the average American eats 15.8 quarts of ice cream a year . . . and one out of three drinks four or more cup of coffee a day.

That Canada, which now has a dollar worth several cents more than the U.S. dollar, is reported to have the welcome mat out for Americans who would like to move north and change their citizenship.

That arthritis has more victims among farmers—23 per cent—than in any other major occupation.

That a normal scalp hair grows at the rate of nearly half an inch a month. But I'd be happy if most of mine would just quit retreating.

That snakes sleep with their eyes wide open. Nature forgot to give them eyelids.

That it was the late Oliver Herford who observed, "A woman's mind is cleaner than a man's; she changes it more often."

ALUMINUM RIFLE—At the Army's Aberdeen, Md., proving ground, Richard Boutelle displays a radically new infantry rifle being tested there. Designated AR-10, and popularly called the "Armalite," it is made of lightweight aluminum alloy and plastics. It weighs only 6.8 pounds against the Garand's 9.5 pounds. Fully automatic, the AR-10 fires a .308-caliber bullet. It was invented by George Sullivan, Lockheed Aircraft Corp. patent attorney of Los Angeles, whose hobby is guns. Test models are being manufactured by Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp., of which Boutelle is president.

Israel to Begin Laying Oil Line

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) —The laying of a new pipeline to carry crude oil north from the Gulf of Aquaba is due to begin this week.

The eight-inch line will move oil 150 miles from Eilat, Israel's southernmost port, to Beersheba. From there the oil can be transported by rail to Haifa refineries.

This will facilitate direct imports from the Persian Gulf without requiring passage through the Suez Canal. It may also make Israel less dependent on imports from Venezuela.

The 'Fashion' in Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper of the Young Communist League suggests that Soviet people learn to dress tastefully. Komsomolskaya Pravda devoted two columns this week to describing new fashions.

CONSTIPATED?
new laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks
without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon. A "thrifty" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

TO REGAIN NORMAL REGULARITY two things are necessary. First, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it and so, excite its muscles to action; to a normal urge to purge.

ONLY A BULK LAXATIVE can 1) re-moisten this dry, shrunken waste and 2) supply vital bulk to re-create a normal urge to purge. And, of all bulk laxatives, COLONAID, the amazing new lavative discovery is so effective that it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, yet is so smooth, so gentle it has been proved safe even for women in the most critical stages of pregnancy.

SUPERIOR TO OLD STYLE bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; does not interfere with your absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; and in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other side reactions.

IT'S A PHYSIOLOGICAL FACT: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Whether occasional, frequent or chronic, whatever your degree of constipation, get COLONAID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! The price, only 98c for the economical 60 tablet package, brings you positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

About 700,000 Americans are now under treatment for cancer, according to current medical surveys.

17-Year-Old to Make Test

Foe of Integration Barred From Schools in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A 17-year-old schoolboy who says he's a foe of racial integration plans today to test an order barring him from any city - operated school.

Billy Branham, who arrived here with his mother two weeks ago from Detroit, yesterday was told he could not enroll by School Supt. Omer Carmichael.

Carmichael received praise from President Eisenhower for for the smooth integration of this city's public schools last fall.

Soon after arriving here, Branham visited Louisville Male High School and talked to students opposing integration. When he was refused enrollment there, he said he would carry on his segregation campaign away from school.

In a statement yesterday, Carmichael said, "We have no obligation for the education of a nonresident and are therefore free to deny admission.

"Billy has publicly stated his purpose to work against the established policies of our schools and confirmed this in a two-hour conference with William F. Coslow (assistant city school superintendent) and me."

Branham has given his address as an apartment house owned by Millard Dee Grubbs, chairman of the board of directors of the Citizens Council of Kentucky, Inc.

Informed of Carmichael's statement, Gruggs said, "It is a piece of impudence."

He said the boy has seen him, but that he has not given him any advice.

"But I am supporting him, just as I would support anyone else in a fight against a gang of Communists," Gruggs said. "I share Billy's view that Negroes should not be put in white schools.

Santa Claus Must Follow the Rules

There is much more to being a Santa Claus than having a red coat and some white whiskers. There are all sorts of ethical dos and don'ts that any self-respecting Santa must learn in order to do his job properly.

Every year around Thanksgiving, a school for Santas opens in New York. Here newcomers to the profession can learn the basic principles, and veterans can take a refresher course.

Run by the Volunteers of America in order to man their street corner "chimneys," the school graduates around 100 each year. Some of the tenets a good Santa must remember are: Keep your whiskers clean. Be patient with children. Don't drink, eat garlic or onions. Don't smoke or eat on duty. And never lean on your chimney.

One Man's View

During Puritan Oliver Cromwell's rule in England, fanatic Hezekiah Woodward published a tract calling Christmas day: "the old heathen's feasting day, the Papist's Massing day, the profane man's ranting day, the superstitious man's idol day, the multitude's idle day, Satan's working day, the true Christian man's fasting day."

City Employment Shows Increase

'57 Model Changeover Puts 2,500 Workers Back on Job

Pontiac area employment increased by 2,800 during the 30-day period preceding Nov. 15, according to a report released recently by the Pontiac branch of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The manufacturing gain was concentrated in the motor vehicle plants where 2,500 returned to work following the introduction of the 1957 models.

Although current non-farm employment is 75,600 and 4,900 above August's low, it is still 6,800 below that of November 1955.

At mid-November, unemployment was estimated at 3,300, down 2,000 from October and 5,500 less than in July.

Currently, the unemployed make up 4 per cent of the total labor force as compared to 6.5 per cent in October, 10.6 in July, and 2.4 per cent a year ago.

During November, the Pontiac office issued 5,771 unemployment insurance checks totaling $186,523. In October, 15,969 checks amounting to $558,309 were issued.

One Serious, 2 Die on Way to Funeral

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP)— Two persons were asphyxiated and another overcome by gas in a motel near here yesterday.

The dead were identified by Pike County Sheriff Alex Blackburn as Jerry Bach, 41, and Mrs. Ollie Thompson, 75, both of Detroit. Reported in serious condition at Methodist Hospital here was Mrs. Thompson's daughter, Mrs. Ruth Ellen Cox, 38, also of Detroit.

The bodies were discovered in the motel room five miles north of here on U. S. 23 by a motel employe.

Coroner John Call ruled the deaths were caused by carbon dioxide gas given off by a gas heater.

Blackburn said the three were en route to Bristol, Va., to attend funeral services for Mrs. Thompson's son.

Use Special Album to Save Memories

Christmas memories can be stored in a neat little album being offered this season. There are pages for snapshots, favorite cards. Guest register and the dinner menu among other things.

It makes a unique gift which is sure to grow in value the older it gets.

Roman Decorations

Decorating the home with evergreens and berries is a carryover from Roman times. The ancient Romans, in their celebration of the Kalends of January, decorated their homes with green boughs and gave them to friends as a token of good luck.

Cards for Royalty

The favorite Christmas diversion of King George III of England in the 18th Century was playing card games with the ladies and gentlemen of the court. He was following the example set by his grandfather King George II.

From DeLuca, one of the newest names on the Italian fashion scene, comes a convertible evening dress with a tiny floral pattern against a backdrop of black velvet. The strapless sheath, which stops at the ankle with a deep back slit for walking comfort, has detachable side panels (left) that can be worn as a stole (right) if the lady chooses. The flowers scattered over the gown are in attractive shades of blue and sea-green.

Holiday dresses go to all lengths in New York this season — including the newest ankle-length beige chiffon sheath by Ceil Chapman. It is bead-embroidered with snowflakes. A softly draped bodice knots with two long panels.

This gown inspired by the elegant Edwardian era from Gothe is destined to brighten the holiday scene. Ice blue pale pure silk, it has a jewel-embroidered corselette midriff. Flower motifs repeat around a gracious, floor-length skirt with back swept fullness. This is a New York collection.

An ingeniously-placed band of black velvet brings the Empire look to a festive dress of black and white from Paris. Designed for the winter holidays by Genevieve Fath of Paris, it is done in pure white silk, and festooned with tiny, glittering ruffles. The gala dress has broad straps of black velvet to match the high-placed 'belt.'

Pontiac High Sets Vocal Program

School, City Choral Units to Take Part in Dec. 16 Concert

A Community Christmas Concert will be presented at 3 p.m. Dec. 16 in the Pontiac High School gymnasium. Featured on the afternoon vesper will be the various groups of the High School Vocal Department, the Pontiac Women's Chorus and the MacDowell Male Chorus.

Massed numbers, which all of the vocalists will sing, will feature two chorals from the Christmas oratorio by Johann Sebastian Bach.

The Hallelujah Chorus by Handel also will be included in this group.

Five pages today in Women's Section

Nancy Durocher Wed in Ann Arbor

Nancy Louise Durocher became the bride of John P. Wacker Saturday afternoon at Salem Lutheran Church in Ann Arbor. One hundred fifty guests witnessed the ceremony performed by the Rev. Arthur G. Wacker, father of the bridegroom.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. Norman Durocher of Old Orchard drive and Mrs. Kathleen Taylor of Ecorse. John's parents are the Rev. and Mrs. Wacker of Ann Arbor.

For the four o'clock ceremony, Nancy wore a gown of Italian satin with imported French lace around the neckline. The full-length skirt extended into a chapel train.

A headpiece of sequins and seed pearls secured her fingertip veil of nylon net, and she carried white poinsettias. Her jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Harold Owings Jr. of Chelsea was matron of honor, wearing a red velvet waltz-length dress with a matching headpiece. She carried variegated holly with hollyberries and silver Christmas ornaments.

Bridesmaids were Shirley Swanson of Detroit and Mrs. Willard Thevrer of Saline, sister of the bridegroom. They were gowned identically and carried holly with hollyberries and red Christmas ornaments.

Richard Kolander of Ann Arbor served as best man. Other male attendants were Robert Thomsen, Paul Wacker and Arthur Wacker, brothers of the bridegroom, Dale Eisele of Ann Arbor and Edmond Durocher of Ecorse, brother of the bride.

For traveling the bride changed to a charcoal brown fitted suit with mink trim and brown accessories and a green velvet hat. On their return the newlyweds will reside in Ann Arbor.

Out-of-town guests attended the wedding from Milwaukee, Windsor, Ont.; Parma Heights, Ohio; Jackson, Lansing, Detroit, Pontiac, Flint and Saginaw.

Cream Aids Skin

If you're dressing to go out and your hands look red or blotchy, smooth in a very little foundation cream that matches your skin tone and blend it well up into the wrists. You'll be surprised at the wonders it works.

MRS. JOHN P. WACKER

Pick Wisely If Calories Important

When you're on a diet, the calorie count for the whole day is what counts. So, if you know you're going out to dinner, limit the high-calorie foods you eat at luncheon.

Far better to do this than pass up the mashed potatoes at dinner with the explanation that you're on a diet. A diet is an excellent thing when needed but few people like to hear about it.

The thoughtful thing for you, as a hostess, to do is to look out for the beauty needs of your overnight guest.

In the guest room, see that there are small sizes of cleansing and overnight cream, cleansing tissues, face powder, lipstick and hand lotion as well as aspirin, needles and thread, buttons and both straight and safety pins.

If you buy small tubes and boxes at the five-and-ten-cent store, the whole supply need not cost you much. Things like face powder, toothbrushes and cream can be replaced for each guest.

* * *

TEEN - AGERS have weapons with which to combat those burdensome twin problems of overweight and acne. They are daily helpings of milk, eggs, fresh vegetables and fruits in generous amounts. In addition, any one of these makes a fine between-meal snack rather than rich sundaes and banana splits, sodas and sweets. Don't cut down on the daily quart of milk; you need it and it's good for a clear, beautiful skin. If you don't want to drink it, eat it in custards, ice cream (plain), puddings and cheese. And use milk on your hot breakfast cereal.

June Reynolds, D. A. Brockmiller Speak Vows

Given in marriage by her brother, Daniel P. Reynolds of Massillon, Ohio, June Reynolds of East Pike street became the bride of David A. Brockmiller of Lake Orion. David is the son of Mrs. Mary Mulligan of Detroit.

The ceremony was performed Saturday by the Rev. George Ging of St. Joseph Catholic Church, Lake Orion.

The bride wore a sapphire blue satin dress with a white satin hat and white kid gloves. She carried a white missal with a white orchid and a pearl rosary.

Maid of honor Margaret Johnston of New York City wore Dior blue with a pink hat, and she carried pink Amazon lilies. Jerome DeSantis of Detroit was best man, and John Mulligan of Detroit and Walter Hannon of Moline, Ill., were ushers.

The wedding breakfast was held at Villa Inn in Lake Orion. The bride changed to a navy blue costume suit with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage for her wedding trip.

One in Four Marriages Fail--How's Yours?

Why does approximately one of every four marriages end up in the divorce courts? What can be done to cut down the shockingly high American divorce rate? Following is the first of a series of articles presenting case histories of marriage on the rocks and offering the advice and opinion of experts on what to do to prevent a marriage from breaking up. While the case histories cited are real, the names are fictitious.

By EDWIN DIAMOND
INS Science Writer

"There is nothing specific we can point to; it's just that life together any longer seems intolerable and life apart seems unthinkable."

Mrs. Howard subsided a moment and her husband, who had been pacing up and down the Family Service interviewer's office, exploded:

"What can we do? How can we work things out so the family will be as it should be and so we can make the children happy?"

The Howard marriage was faltering. They were seeking outside help in a last ditch effort to save it.

Their case, as they outlined it to the interviewer, was like so many others: Petty and seemingly causeless arguments, nightly tensions and bitterness.

In one important respect, the Howards were different from many couples whose marriages are in trouble. They were seeking a remedy short of divorce.

Case workers helped the Howards work out their marital problems by bringing them into the open. To illustrate how marriages like the Howards' get into trouble and what can be done about them, the Family Service Association of America provided actual case histories from its files for this series of articles.

They were determined not to become another statistic in the estimated 379,000 divorces recorded in the U.S. by the National Office of Vital Statistics in 1954, the most recent completed census year.

Not too long ago, these divorced couples were promising to "love, honor and obey . . . 'til death do us part." What happened to the moonlight and roses romance?

CITE 5 HAZARDS

The experts cite various causes of divorce to answer these questions. Lists vary from researcher to researcher, but all of them are in general agreement on these five rocky hazards to the matrimonial ship:

1. Early marriages — the average age at which couples marry for the first time has dropped steadily since census records first were kept. In 1900, the average marrying age was 26 for men and 22 for women. Today it is about 22 for men and 20 for women—and still dropping.

It is argued that early marriage usually means the youthful husband's small pay check hardly stretches to cover his family obligations. Another strain on the marriage tie frequently cited is the young couple's "emotional immaturity." A typical parental plaint being: "They are too young to know what they are doing."

'FOOLS RUSH IN'

2. Quickie courtships and movie-style romance — the way modern youth picks out marriage partners is another frequently cited divorce cause. Judges say they see the results of modern dating patterns, short engagements and "love at first sight" marriages in the parade of disillusioned couples filing through the divorce courts.

Love and marriage, it is argued, are quite different in reality from the versions served up by Hollywood and eagerly swallowed by young people.

3. Marriage of "unlikes" —at least three large-scale surveys indicate marriage is under greater pressure when the partners come from differing social, economic, cultural, racial or religious backgrounds.

A study of interfaith marriages, for example, indicates there are three times as many divorces in Catholic - Protestant marriages than among married couples of the same religious affiliations.

4. Sexual difficulties — sexual attraction is the powerful magnet bringing male and female together. But poor marital sex adjustment — to differing needs, moods, desires and capacities — can drive couples apart physically and emotionally.

Some studies rank a healthy, mutually satisfactory sex partnership as the most difficult — if not the most important — achievement in the happy marriage.

5. The "problem" of parenthood — surprisingly, the marriage experts have learned a disheartening number of marriages are undertaken by couples who lack understanding of what parenthood and being a mother or father means.

It has been estimated some 36 per cent of all births in the U.S. are "unplanned." Children may increase the marital strains rather than ease them; percentage-wise, there is little conclusive difference between the divorce rates of childless couples and couples with children.

Here then are five general explanations of unhappy marriages. It seems to follow marriages would be better if only young couples waited until they were older, dated the girl or boy next door, had longer engagements and studied up on love, life, children and marriage.

The Family Service Association provides professional counseling of America, sometimes known as the nation's marriage - menders, service on personal and family problems through its 256 member agencies in 225 cities.

35 Attend Musicale at Fisher Home

Joan Grahek, president, conducted the meeting. Theme for the meeting was the life of the composer, Handel, presented by Sandra Bowden and Marilyn Morris. A recording of Handel's "Messiah" was played.

New members auditioned and welcomed into the group were Carol Rapaport, Denise Patton, Margaret Cockle, Delta Mahan, Timothy Murphy and Douglas Eroh.

Mrs. H. D. Nicholie of Westlawn drive was hostess to 16 members of Inter-Lakes Extension Group at their recent meeting. Roll call was answered by each member describing a favorite Christmas centerpiece.

A lesson on "Accessories for the Home" was given by Mrs. Maurice Baldwin.

"Accessories should be useful, well designed and should make a definite contribution to the convenience and appearnace of the home," Mrs. Baldwin stated Mrs. Robert Scharf gave additional ideas and patterns for Christmas decorations.

Mrs. Carl Weber will serve as chairman of "Husbands Night," Dec. 12. Mrs. William Miller and Mrs. L. W. Pilcher will assist the chairman. Mr. and Mrs. Scharf will be hosts at the gathering in their home on Pine Lake road.

New Officers Selected by Sunset Club

Others elected were Mrs. Emma Sullenger, vice president; Mrs. Elva Ashley, secretary; Mrs. Anna Muha, assistant secretary and William Holthusen, treasurer.

Mrs. Marion Disbrow was reappointed publicity chairman and Mrs. Josephine Jenks was selected to head the flower fund. Mrs. Charles Little was chosen to head the sunshine committee.

Mrs. Lillian Hayes was a guest of the group.

The next meeting will be a Christmas party Dec. 13 at Wilson School when gifts will be exchanged.

Reality Tarnishes Career Dream

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Many of us spend years and years deploring some lack in our lives, some experience we wish we could have.

Actually, if we would only go out and get it, we might learn that it isn't what we want at all. That's how it was with Helen.

Helen is in her early 40s, is married and has four children.

"All my life," Helen told me, "I've wished I could have a job and be a career woman. I married right after school and had my babies in rapid succession, so there wasn't a chance for a career. But now the youngest is 7.

"All year I've been thinking, now is the time. So many of my friends have jobs, part-time or full-time, and they're certainly not all that much brighter than I.

"My husband thinks I'm crazy, because I have my hands full as it is, but he said he had no objections, if that's what I wanted.

BECAME TYPIST

"I brushed up my typing," she went on, "and then, three months ago, I got a job with one of those temporary bureaus, where they send you to a different office every week.

"I figured I'd be able to find out about all kinds of businesses and then I could decide what field I wanted for a permanent job.

"I had lots of enthusiasm and I did get inside information on all kinds of offices. Sometimes I'd do straight typing, but more often it would be part typing and part reception work, surveys or even sales work.

"And then the funniest thing happened!

"I found that the whole business world leaves me entirely cold. I get more satisfaction, more creative outlet from being a housewife! Even the money, helpful and all as it was, wasn't worth it. I found I'd rather stay home and economize.

"Suddenly I realized that, for 20 years, I've been feeling sorry for myself because I couldn't be a career woman!"

Many of us, it seems to me, go in for this kind of self-delusion. We hear friends complain they are discontented as housewives, and feel the need to "express themselves."

Soon we are thinking along the same lines. And while it's perfectly true that some women are far better off in jobs, it isn't true that all women are.

The answer, of course, is to do what Helen did. Instead of longing for the experience, get out and get it.

Chances are you'll find that you've been building a lot into it that just isn't there. But at least, you'll know!

Divided Visit Is Resented by Hostess

Guest Dashes Off to Call on Relative and Then Returns

BY EMILY POST

Today's first letter tells me: "A friend of mine who lives in the suburbs asked me to come out and spend the day with her. I have a relative who lives not too far from this friend whom I haven't seen in quite some time as I do not get out that way often.

"After lunch I asked my friend if she would mind if I went to see my relative. She said 'no' and so I went and spent about an hour or so with this relative.

"When I came back to my friend's house she seemed rather annoyed and I have a feeling that it was because I left to visit someone else. Will you please tell me if I was wrong to leave?"

Answer: To cut into your friend's visit was not very courteous as it kept her sitting at home waiting for you to return. I think it would have been better to have left your friend's house early and then gone to visit your relative on your way home.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Just what sort of entertaining is expected of a bride during the first year? Some people say the bride is supposed to entertain those who sent her gifts. Is this true?"

Answer: There is no fixed rule about this, but it is usually considered that the duty—if any—requires friends of the bridegroom, as well as those of the bride, to go to see the bride and invite her and the bridegroom to their houses.

On the other hand, the bride and bridegroom perhaps invite their friends first to a housewarming.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a bride wears gloves, what does she do with them when it is time for the ring to be put on her finger?"

Answer: She rips the under seam of the third finger of the lefthand glove halfway up and pulls the tip back when he places the ring on her finger.

Mrs. Arnold Honored

Forty-six guests attended the recent post nuptial shower honoring Mrs. Keith Arnold, the former Betty Nelson. Mrs. Irene Patenaude and Mrs. Robert Parrett were cohostesses for the affair held in the Patenaude home on Collier road.

You Need Your Own Vanity Table

Put it in bathroom, foyer, bedroom or in its own special powder room, and be prepared to use it.

The new look of elegance, with emphasis on beauty treatment, coiffure and makeup in the ladylike manner that is the mode of the moment, requires careful appraisal of grooming aids.

What are the important things to have on your beauty table this season?

A clear and unmuddied foundation cream that offers pearly luminescence is another must. Clear lipsticks and pale powder are two essentials. Ditto eye makeup.

Keep your cleansing cream handy. All makeup must be removed to get that all-clear effect. Cleansing tissues should be handy so you will not be tempted to sluff off the important job of removing every vestibe of makeup. New tissues a softer, more lint-free than before, available in a decorative gold and white striped box, a complement to any dressing table.

A chignon and chignon hair pins are other items that will probably be kept handily at the dressing table. The chignon is effective, too, for the short-haired girl who wants hurry-up glamor even though her hair is not the right length for the new hairdos.

You'll keep finger and toenail implements handy. Hands need to be graceful and well-groomed. The trend to sandal shoes for dates, and sheer hosiery that puts toes in the peek-a-boo category requires just as good care of toenails as fingernails.

3,600 Attend Floral Open House, See Yule Display

Jolly old Santa Claus found his place amid the beautiful display of wreaths and floral bouquets at Jacobsen's greenhouse Sunday in Lake Orion.

He was there to greet the 3,600 children and adults who flocked to the annual open house. But it wasn't only the children who were dazzled by the starlit ceiling with twinkle-lights.

Called Christmas Fantasy, it is a fairyland of sparkles and special arrangements. The entire ceiling was draped with black cloth, and the twinkle lights and tiny colored bells covered the immense area.

On one side were booths with special arrangements. One booth featured tropical plants and flowers. Another was a religious booth with Madonna and cathedral adorned with yuletide flowers.

TREE DRAWS INTEREST

A point of interest was a large pink artificial Christmas tree in a revolving holder. As the holder revolves, a Swiss music box sends forth Christmas carols. Shocking pink ornaments were used on the tree.

Pink has joined the Christmas colors and was used in many instances throughout the display.

Natural green wreaths with holly berries and pine cone trim, which have adorned homes throughout the years at Christmas time, were placed beside gold wreaths made of gilded magnolia leaves, gold bows and Hawaiian wood roses. Another wreath was formed of petals from a giant sugar pine cone and had gold ornaments and a matching ribbon.

Candles, always popular at Christmas time, were arranged in every conceivable manner. They came in pink, blue and white, and varied from old salt rope candles and snowballs to Christmas trees. One large pink snowball was trimmed with glitter and filled with red wax giving a glow as it burns.

An eyecatcher was a large apothecary jar, filled with glitter balls and decorated with artificial grapes and pine cones.

For those who like the Early American theme at Christmas, there was a large antique wooden bowl filled with assorted greens, bubble bush and styrofoam balls.

MODERN ARRANGEMENT

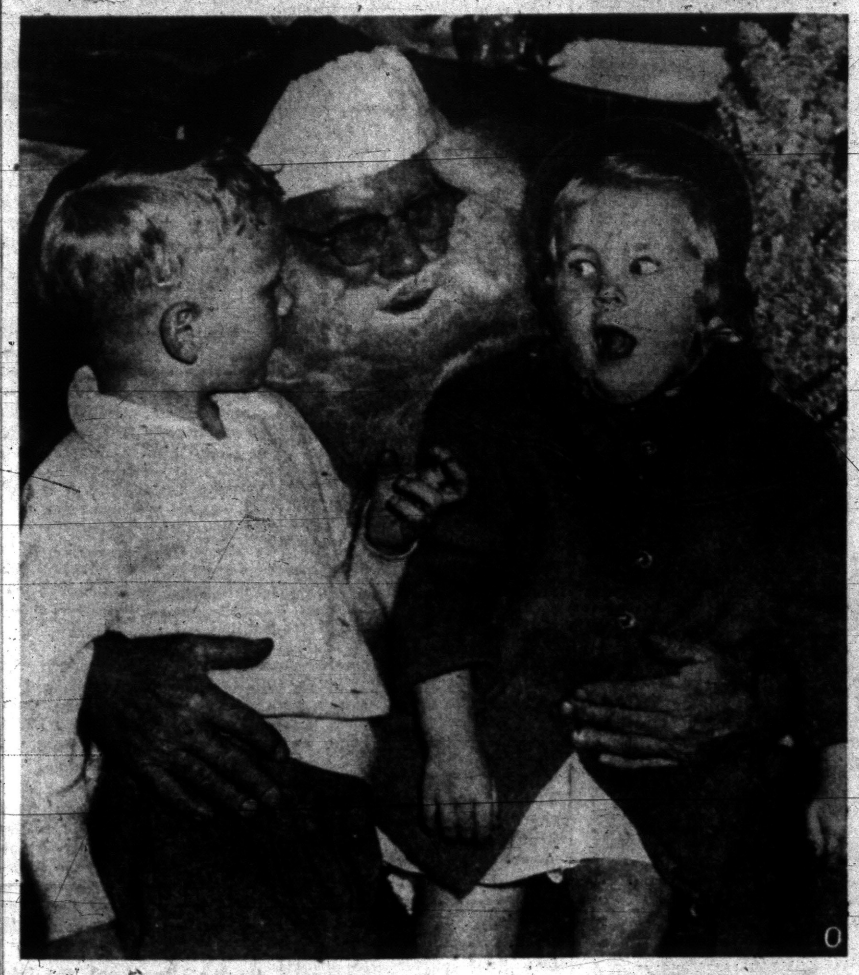

For the homemaker with a modern home, of special interest would be an unique arrangement featuring ceramic deer, natural-colored wood roses, driftwood and peach-colored bubble bush, with a touch of gold magnolia leaves for background.

An elegant arrangement of green and brown cymbidium orchids was centered around a Mojave branch and a variety of green foliage.

To some, the thousands of red and white poinsettias, cyclamen, azalea and chrysanthemum plants were the answer to a beautiful Christmas.

Others enjoyed the novelties such as apothecary jars filled with bright red squaw berry plants, the kissing rings with mistletoe trimmed with gay ribbons and the specially arranged bouquets in pitchers and crystal vases.

Santa greeted David and Deborah Rogers when they arrived at Jacobsen's Greenhouse in Lake Orion Sunday. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. William C. Rogers of Washington street.

It's Hard to Leave House That Has Become Home

Years of Family Living Are Required to Make Dwelling Really Yours

By RUTH MILLETT

With our new house almost finished I am beginning to feel sad at the thought of moving out and leaving the house that has been home for the last nine years.

All at once I am beginning to realize that it takes at least that many years of family living to make a house a home.

All at once I find myself thinking of the things we can't take with us:

The friendly neighbors with whom we shall no longer have such an easy, casual over-the-back-fence relationship once we have moved out of sight of their yards and houses.

The ivy, that after years of pampering is climbing on the house and trees.

BRIBED BIRDS

The pair of cardinals that has been bribed with sunflower seeds to hang around and delight us with flashes of vivid color.

The big live oaks whose twisted branches are by now easily outlined in the mind's eye.

The homelike feel of a house that has been lived in, gone away from and come back to, whose shortcomings have in time become corrected or finally accepted.

The new house is, of course, supposed to have none of the faults of the old, to be the answer to a family's increasing need for more space, convenience and privacy for each of its members.

Maybe it will do all that it is supposed to do. But it is going to take some years of living to make it fit snugly and safely around a family.

It's not easy to leave a house that has been a home. But you don't realize that until you are ready to move away.

Mrs. O'Ryan's 8 Children 'Nicer Than Pulitzer Prize'

By JOHN BARROW
(INS Staff Writer)

Yvonne O'Ryan, a pug-nose green-eyed Chicagoan who once aspired to newspaper work, is convinced she's found a niche more rewarding than a Pulitzer prize—motherhood.

She has eight children. They range from 5 months to 14 years old. And far from being overwhelmed by the chores and budget-stretching, Mrs. O'Ryan feels sorry for couples without children.

"Of course they aren't faced with the problems," she says, "but they miss the pleasures too. Without children I'd feel like I was living only on the surface, cut off from so much of life, like a hermit."

This view is seconded by her husband, Kevin, a telephone company employe. The children once were left with grandma while Mrs. O'Ryan has hospitalized and Kevin grew so lonesome that he brought them home with him each night after work.

OLDER ONES HELP

With the O'Ryans, their eight are easier on mom "than when I had only three." When the children are infants, even three "can run a mother ragged." Now, in emergencies and trips the older children keep an eye on the younger ones.

Yet Mrs. O'Ryan refuses to surrender the young children exclusively to the olders' cars. She says: "Each child should be allowed to play with his own age group — without having a toddler tagging along.

While daytime activities generally are family style, dad and mother "get out for an evening" regularly.

TAKES BUDGETING

Wise budgeting has enabled the O'Ryans in 15 years of marriage to approach final mortgage payments on their nine-room house.

* * *

As for more children, Mrs. O'Ryan says: "Kids are so fascinating. They're all so different. We'll have as many as God sends to us and it's wonderful."

Bride-to-Be Honor Guest at Shower

Mrs. John Keller and Mrs. Paul Maize were cohostesses at a bridal shower, held in the Keller residence on Davisburg road Saturday, in honor of Mary Turbush.

Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Turbush of Flushing, will become the bride of Charles G. Koella Dec. 22, in a ceremony to be performed in First Presbyterian Church in Flint. Charles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Koella of Woodland drive.

Luncheon table for the shower was covered with a Venetian lace - embroidered cloth, centered with an arrangement of pink and white carnations and evergreens.

Guests attending were Mrs. Turbush, Mrs. Koella, Ethel Bassett, Vera Bassett, Mrs. Arthur Warwick, Mrs. Ray Kemp, Mrs. Harry Windiate, Mrs. Basil B. Kimball and Mrs. C. O. Miller.

Now Leather Is High Style

NEW YORK (NEA) — Leather has, for some seasons now, been just about as elegant and, at the same time, as casual as it could be for country wear.

Now, it has moved onto the city scene and, further, has acquired fur trim. For some reason, leather is usually likened to butter. Actually, the new leather fashions have the feel and look of velvet.

With their softness and pliability, these leather fashions are as easy to wear as fabric.

New Card Series Created for Kids

A new series of children's greeting cards has been created under the direction of "Miss Frances" of television's famed "Ding Dong School."

The cards, large in size and bold in colors, have been designed to appeal to children from three to seven years of age.

WHICH WOMAN PASSED THE N.P.* TEST?
*Ninety Percent

The poised, smartly-dressed woman at the right of course. You can tell at a glance . . . and that's why the Ninety-Percent Test is so important. People judge you by what they see (sometimes that's all they have to go on) and ninety percent of what they see of you is what you wear. The fresh finish of drycleaned clothes is more than an extra touch . . . like a flower in the buttonhole. It's an integral part of good grooming. The state of your clothes tells volumes about the kind of person you are. In fact, your clothes never stop talking about you.

You buy your clothes to make a good impression. As you wear them, have them drycleaned often. A smart woman takes care to keep that impression fresh.

The young face can look romantic and fragile with hair puffed high and wide, but the mature face is prettier in a neat and tidy hairdo.

Take a good look, take a critical look: If your face has become comfortably padded, if there are permanent lines, then soft, natural waves that follow the shape of the face and do not direct the eye to a too dramatic hairdo, are most flattering.

Early, Sane Shopping Makes Yule Gayer

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Every single year during those mad days just preceding Christmas I solemnly swear to myself that I'll never do it again—wait until the last week or 10 days to do my shopping. Yet every year I do this as though I were completely dominated by some compulsion toward self-destruction.

That is just about what it is, too! A certain amount of last-minute rush and excitement is fun, but if you leave much of your important buying until the last you are doomed to fatigue and frustration. You will fight the crowds and wait for hours to be waited on, only to find that they are "sold out" of the article you were looking for.

I am doing better this year. At least I am writing about Christmas shopping earlier. There is still enough time to take advantage of some timesaving and sanity-saving devices which I will mention today.

For instance, you can do some of your shopping by mail. Many businesses and stores send out wonderful Christmas catalogues. If you are buying from a reliable firm, you can depend on the quality and packaging of the merchandise without seeing it.

You can send everything from gadget inventions, lounging pajamas, beaten biscuits, tropical fruit, toys and braided rugs to the latest thing in bird seed by simply enclosing your check along with the addresses and cards. Some of the loveliest gifts I have received have been of this kind.

TIME TO BROWSE

Also, there is still time for you to browse about the stores some. Later on this is fatal! Often you see something which is perfect for a certain friend or member of the family which never would have occurred to you. Then, too, there are always some new articles and products on the market.

Of course, the very first thing to do is to make a list of those you are going to remember. Take time with this so that you will not have to rush out at the last minute to grab "anything" for someone you have forgotten.

Another marvelous time-and-nerve-saving aid is the habit of letting the stores gift wrap and mail your packages for you. Of course, if you have a special talent for beautiful packages, you may wish to wrap the gifts yourself.

The ones I wrap always look like something a 2-year-old child created while in a fit of temper. It is also a great luxury to have the boxes mailed for you.

One little warning—do not try to do too much Christmas shopping in one day. You don't have to feel that pushed. If you attempt too much the whole thing will become a burden rather than a pleasure.

The very first thing to do is to make a list of those you are going to remember for Christmas.

Also, fatigue warps judgment so that your choices will not be so appropriate.

Make your list. Think your "victims" over carefully. Go at it steadily but easily.

Today I am writing to myself as well as to you. Let's not do it again! Do you remember some of those Christmas Eves and Christmas mornings when you were really too tired to enjoy the fun? I do!

THE 'WRONG' PRESENT FOR THE 'RIGHT' PERSON

I am an advocate of giving the wrong Christmas present to the right person. This may sound a bit confusing. My idea is this: I think we become too stereotyped in our idea of those we know and that this is reflected in the presents we give them.

A woman who cannot afford to buy many personal luxuries for herself is likely to get a bigger kick out of some fluffy bit of lingerie or an exotic perfume than she would out of a dozen potholders or a fountain pen.

Unless a man or woman has an unlimited amount of money there always are things we can give which they would not buy for themselves. Such gifts are most appreciated. Therefore, I suggest that we do not look at our friends and family with too practical an eye when selecting their Christmas presents.

Here are a few suggestions which may help you. Most hobbies cost some money and many of the most interesting ones are quite expensive. Why not give something which is connected with the hobbies of your friends or family?

Books make wonderful gifts for those who love to read if you know enough about the person's taste in literature. There are also many informative books about practically every hobby. There are books on wild life, gardening, hooked rugs, herbs, ceramics and so on.

MANY COSMETICS

Of course the possibilities in the cosmetic world are myriad. Each year there are more products available and tney are more imaginatively and beautifully packaged than ever before.

Also remember flowers when selecting your gifts this year. These are lovely messengers on Christmas Eve. There always are rewarding possibilities when buying for those who love music—records, record players, record racks and tape recorders.

If you are sending gifts to those you have not seen for some time, it is always helpful to ask their family or friends what they want or need. You just barely have time to do this with the hope for a quick answer.

I hope these suggestions strike fire some place on your Christmas list.

President to Launch Yule Event

Ike's Tree-Lighting Will Mark Opening of Peace Pageant

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — The capital is readying its annual Christmas Pageant of Peace, with President Eisenhower expected to press a gold key to light a 65-foot "National Community Christmas Tree" on the south side of the White House.

The ceremony launching the pageant, started three years ago as an international gesture carrying out the theme of "Peace on Earth to Men of Good Will," will signal the illuminating of similar community trees all over the nation and in our embassies abroad.

Asked to participate in the pageant, tentatively set for Dec. 20 to Jan. 1, will be representatives of the 48 states and five territories, plus the envoys of some 78 nations making up the diplomatic corps here.

The governors of the states and the diplomats all have been invited to send trees to be placed along "The Pathway of Peace," leading to the stage where the various holiday activities will take place.

Even non-Christian peoples are being invited to send a message in "keeping with the basic spirit of world fellowship" dominating the entire program.

SIX SERVICES

For the first time a committee of representatives of the Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox churches has been asked to set up a total of six services of their different faiths during the pageant.

Last year some 55 embassies and legations and a majority of the states participated in the program, which National Capital Park Police estimated attracted more than a half million people.

This will be the 34th annual lighting of a community Christmas tree by a President. Until three years ago, a tree growing on the White House lawn was used.

Since 1954, the tree has been donated by one of the states. This year a beautiful spruce is being sent by New Mexico.

More than 8,000 lights and hundreds of glittering ornaments are used to decorate the national tree. Throughout the season there'll be music by the Marine Band and choral groups.

There'll be a life-sized nativity scene, a traditional Yule log burning, and a Youth Corner with exhibits, games and folk dancing as well as a Santa Claus.

An estimated 40 per cent of alcoholic beverage sales are in hotels and cafes.

St. John Ladies Aid Elects 1947 Officers

Mrs. Hector McClellan was elected president of the Ladies Aid of St. John Lutheran Church when the group met Thursday in the church parlors.

Others elected to serve are Mrs. Hans Mickhelson, vice president; Mrs. Ray Taylor, secretary; Mrs. John Englund, treasurer; Mrs. Jack Frost, flower fund chairman and Mrs. Carl Nelson, program chairman.

Plans were made for the Christmas party scheduled for Dec. 27. Hostesses at the recent meeting were Mrs. Claude Kittner, Mrs. Carolyn Williamson and Mrs. John Berglund.

Parental Shyness Isn't Puritanical

BY MURIEL LAWRENCE

Two years later his pretty, pregnant Aunt Lisa came for a visit. Told her news, Alan was at first delighted with the prospect of acquiring a cousin. Then he became alarmed lest it be another girl.

At dinner he asked for reassurance. Turning to Aunt Lisa, he said, "Did you swallow a girl seed or a boy seed to grow this baby?"

Later, his parents admitted their obligation to instruct him in what sex education pamphlets call the "male role in conception." But they didn't admit their reluctance to instruct him. They were terribly ashamed of it, sure that it made them nasty-minded people with guilt complexes about sex.

So Alan's mother said, "I think it should come from you" and his father said, "Who? Me? You're his mother, aren't you?"

FROM FRUSTRATION

Their reluctance derives not from guilt but from frustration. If they'll start approving the frustration instead of condemning it, they will soon outgrow it.

It's to be approved because it is natural. Alan's parents are actively in love with one another. It is frustrating for them to feel obliged to explain adult sex activity to their 6-year-old son because this activity has emotional meaning for them it doesn't have for the son.

It offends them to have to disentangle it from the intense feeling they associate with it. In a very real way, sex instruction of their son means a kind of disloyalty to each other.

I think that parents' shyness in giving sex instruction to children is sometimes due, not to puritanical recoil, but to this kind of conflict between loyalty to adult feeling and loyalty to the child.

Let's remember that the professional people who think sex instruction should be very simple for us have been specially trained for remote, scientific interest in human behavior. When they speak of "sex activity," they are seldom thinking about their own.

We are. When a child wants it explained, we respond out of memory of our own, not out of our memory of other people's case records. And we may rush instinctively to protect the privacy of our personal experience in it.

If we accept this shyness as good and natural, so will the child. He'll wait comfortably until we have overcome it. How soon we overcome it depends on how soon we stop condemning our shyness as bad and puritanical.

No Cooking Is Needed for This One

Mrs. Madden Uses Pineapple Shreds in Rich Egg Mixture

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Young homemakers like simple recipes. They enjoy cooking for guests, but do not spend hours and hours in the kitchen. Mrs. Tom Madden of Rochester has an easy dessert recipe. It's rich, she says, but delicious.

Mrs. Madden has one small daughter. She belongs to the Jr. Women's Club. Liking all sports, she is especially interested in bowling.

GRAHAM CRACKER PUDDING
By Mrs. Tom Madden

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
½ cup shredded pineapple
½ cup nutmeats
¼ cup pineapple juice
8-10 graham crackers

For shredded pineapple, use pineapple tidbits and shred with a fork. Drain well. You may use crushed pinapple, well drained, also.

Cream butter and sugar. Add egg yolks, cream well again. Add pineapple and nutmeats. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Roll crackers into crumbs. Put a ½-inch layer of crumbs in a pie tin. Cover with filling. Add another layer of crumbs. Sprinkle pineapple juice over the top. Refrigerate several hours.

Serve with or without whipped cream and a cherry.

Jersey Anytime Is Good Taste

Jersey is endorsed for all-season wear, and the adaptability of the fabric is emphasized in two completely different silhouette themes by Larry Aldrich; one, a casual bloused-back coat dress; the other, a slender tunic with a moulded bodice.

Outstanding in his group of mid-winter wools, is a knife pleated dress with an easy skirt. Shown in navy, the pleats are carried up into a deep bertha collar that ties in a bow in back.

Baby Your Feet

Learn to baby those hard working feet of yours. When you're at home wear comfortable, arch-supporting slippers. Bathe the feet often. Relax them with toe and ankle exercises. Stimulate circulation by massaging regularly with a good quality witch hazel.

Let Home Decor Reflect Individuality of Owners

By LEE BELSER

NEW YORK (INS)—Eva Lynne Winston, young beauty contest winner turned decorator, says the best way to achieve a spacious effect is to color-scheme your entire home—not just a single room.

"So many women use one color scheme in the living room, another in the dining room, and still another in various remaining parts of the house," she declared.

"Actually," she continued, "this gives a home a cluttered-up look, makes it look smaller and rather disjointed, as though one part of the house has no relation to another."

Mrs. Winston, who won the first "Miss Israel" beauty contest in 1949, has decorated the homes of many prominent persons including the comedian Red Buttons.

"You have to think of the individual as well as the house when you are decorating someone's home," she admitted. "For instance, you wouldn't put fragile cut glass and dainty china in a bachelor's apartment, nor would you put massive mahogany chairs in a woman's boudoir.

REFLECT PERSONALITY

"Color is important too, and should extend the personality of the man or woman whose home or apartment you are decorating."

Mrs. Winston says the biggest trouble she has with clients is convincing them they should exhibit only one conversation piece at a time.

"People hate to get rid of relics and gifts," she said, "and they often have them all out at once instead of just one piece at a time."

The lovely dark-haired decorator, wife of comedian Jackie Winston, is currently writing a book called "Creative Interiors." And in her spare time helps design futuristic furniture.

ACCENT ON VERSATILITY

"Furniture should not only be functional, but it should be lightweight and therefore easy to move. It should also be made with interchangeable covers that zip right on to the pieces. That way you can change your entire color scheme in a matter of seconds—and in the long run, it's most economical."

Mrs. Winston says she is "experimenting" in plastic furniture.

"It's more practical and lighter than wood," she declared.

Surprise the youngsters with a pillow of the delightful Humpty-Dumpty! You'll have as much fun making him as the children will have showing him off. So nice for that extra touch of gaiety!

Send 25c in coins, your name, address and the pattern number to Anne Cabot, The Pontiac Press, 372 W. Quincy Street, Chicago 6, Illinois.

Now available—the colorful 1956 Needlework Album containing dozens of lovely designs from which to choose more patterns in crochet, embroidery and knit — plus three gift patterns, directions printed in book. Only 25 cents a copy!

Fabric Fashions and Silhouettes Newly-Changed

New silhouettes and new fabrics change the holiday fashion picture this year. The straight-as-an-arrow-sheath silhouette has been given softness and movement by various devices, chief among them the floating back panel.

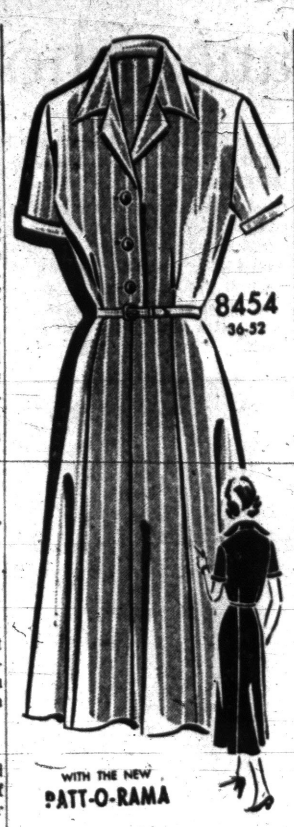

There's a look of feminine elegance to the dresses that will shine at holiday parties this season, with a new formality. Important in the fashion lineup is a new group of man-made fabrics as well as the standbys, silk, velvet and wool.

Sheer nylon georgette is used in gossamer party dresses often employing permanently pleated skirts or trimmings and sparked with jewel embroidery. Color-sealed acetate gives new brilliance to colors of festive gowns in such luxurious fabrics as synthetic peau-de-soie, taffeta and crepe.

The most brilliant season in many years calls for important formal dresses to do justice to holiday festivities.

Faille Is Washable

Will washing wonders never cease? Now even dark fall faille fashions will launder well—if the faille fabric is woven of "arnel," a new man-made fiber. Use warm soap or detergent suds and rinses, and a steam iron.

For the woman who wears a slightly larger size—a handsome, beautifully tailored shirtwaister that takes every occasion in stride.

No. 8454 with Patt-O-Rama included is in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52. Size 38, 4 yards of 35-inch.

For this pattern send 35c in coins, your name, address, size desired, and the pattern number to Sue Burnett, The Pontiac Press, 372 W. Quincy Street, Chicago 6, Illinois.

Send an extra 25 cents now for your copy of the Fall & Winter '56 issue of our complete pattern book, Basic Fashion—a complete sewing guide for every woman who sews for herself and her family.

Hungarians Chant Symbol, 'We Vow We Can Never Be Slaves'

(This is the tragic, inspiring story of the Battle of Budapest from its opening shot—and first, pathetic corpse—to its present terrible frustration, in which freedom is still the elusive goal, and Russian tanks and troops control the city.

The writer is an American reporter who was in Budapest during the rebellion. She is there again. From her own eyewitness experience, from the lips of survivors who fought, endured the terror and lived through it, Katherine Clark has pieced together to day-by-day story of one of the most appalling massacres—and great stands for freedom—of all time. This article is the first of a series of six.)

By KATHERINE CLARK
INS Staff Writer

On the day that launched Hungary's glorious and bloody revolution a light fog settled on Budapest but the air was vibrant with the spirit of freedom.

In a state-run machine shop on Csepel Island in the Danube, which divides the ancient cities of Buda and Pest, a 17-year-old apprentice named Emil leaned against his lathe and listened. The older workers were talking about events in Poland, where a new Communist government had stood up to the Russians and won new independence from Moscow.

At a curtained coffee shop in a side street off beautiful and spacious Andrassy street, an elderly man in a faded raincoat, with a heavy scarf around his neck, sat at a marble-top table. A cup of coffee grew cold as he read between the lines of the Communist newspaper Szabad Nep. This man, like most Hungarians, had no love for the Communists—a younger brother had been imprisoned on a trumped-up charge.

In the poorer section of residential Buda, a handful of women queued in front of a bakery shop—there had been a run on all food stores as the people tried to lay in supplies against some undefined eventuality.

Nearby, in a rundown four-story apartment building, six or seven teen-age boys and girls playing hooky from school huddled in an unusual posture of quiet and expectation.

At the Budapest University, at the Polytechnic and other colleges angry groups of students gathered and shouted, to no one in particular, a long list of complaints against 11 years of Moscow-dominated Communist rule.

This was supposed to be the Communists' "New Generation;" it became the flower of the revolution.

A few days before this historic Tuesday, Oct. 23, I had sat in a Budapest cafe with a young Hungarian intellectual who told me, "We are Communists but we intend to be free Communists." He described the meetings of poets and writers held in recent months to hear criticism of the "terrible economic conditions" in Hungary and added:

"It's very hard to know what to do."

Now, without knowing where it would lead them, the poets and writers, and college students were starting on an heroic adventure in man's eternal search for freedom.

At about noon, piqued by the government's cancellation of previously - granted permission to march to the Polish embassy and express sympathy with the Poles, the college students came together and marched ten abreast along the wide Danube quays to Petofi Square. Some wore red, white and green boutonnieres, some carried flags with those national colors.

The ranks of the marchers were swelled by children and older persons and soon, incredibly, there were 200,000 persons in the square, drawn magnetically to a shrine for Hungary's greatest hero — Sandor Petofi. The poet Petofi had sparked the 1848 Hungarian revolution against the Hapsburg Monarchy with a manifesto that declared—"We vow we can never be slaves."

That line was chanted now, 108 years later, by people who had known 11 years of servitude.

Word of the Petofi gathering spread throughout the beautiful city of 1,750,000 persons, and so did the spirit. Students seized a printing press and started turning out broadsides demanding "Russians go home!" . . . demanding release of imprisoned Josef Cardinal Mindszenty . . . demanding economic reforms . . . demanding freedom of the press and free speech and free elections . . . demanding a public trial for the ruthless Stalinist Matyas Rakosi, who had been ousted July 18 as Communist Party Secretary.

In the narrow cobblestone streets of Budapest, small groups of people gathered to sing songs of the 1848 revolution, and the "Marseillaise," song of the French revolution.

Students spilling out of Petofi square joined workers and housewives in ripping the Soviet Red Star from National Flags on public buildings. Then they headed along Stalin Boulevard for the most hated symbol in Budapest—a 25-foot bronze statue of Joseph Stalin.

Some of the workers, including 27-year-old Zsigmund Cacsery (now a refugee in the U. S.) returned to their factories, brought blow torches, ladders, wires and hammers and went to work on the statue. Cacsery used a blow torch; others pounded and pulled the statue until it crashed to the pavement.

It was at about this time that the people of Budapest became incensed at a radio broadcast by Communist Party Secretary Erno Gero condemning the demonstrations and hinting darkly at the use of Soviet Force. A hastily organized delegation of workers and students, young men and women, marched to the Budapest radio station.

And it was here that the demonstration became a revolution, spontaneous and leaderless.

When Hungarian security police, the dread AVH, arrested members of the delegation, the crowd of supporters swarmed towards the radio building. Jittery police opened fire with machine guns, small arms and tear gas, killing and maiming in a wild barrage against the unarmed.

News of this killing swept Budapest.

The people of Budapest, armed then only with courage, soon had arms of a more lethal nature. Hungarian troops sent to quell the mobs turned over their guns to the people in the streets, and army officers joined the revolution—so did hundreds of military cadets.

"The army is with us!" the people cried.

Many of those brandishing machineguns were teenagers who earlier in the day had been waiting for something to happen. Other teenagers went back to their dingy apartments, collected wine bottles from refuse piles, filled them with gasoline and stuffed the necks with rags — they knew about Molotov cocktails.

The Communists had taught these young people to hate the West, and the young people hated, but not always in the way they were taught.

The Communists for 11 years had sown the wind. Now they were to reap the whirlwind.

Two State Airports Receive U. S. Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Lansing, Mich., airport will get $150,000 and the Detroit city airport $86,500 under new federal aid allotments approved by the civil aeronautics administration (CAA).

The CAA previously had authorized $403,000 for a new terminal building at Lansing. The additional funds are for second-stage construction work on the building, the agency said yesterday.

Aides of Sen. Potter (R-Mich) said the Detroit allotment is for medium intensity lights on both runways and for resurfacing the northwest-southeast runway.

U. S. Soldiers Charitable

CAMP ZAMA, Japan (AP)—U. S. soldiers have contributed more than $500,000 to charities in Japan and Korea this year. The bulk went to orphans and underprivileged children. The 1st Cavalry Division alone is contributing to 21 Japanese orphanages.

Auto Show Viewers to See New Pontiac, GMC Models

SPORTS CONVERTIBLE — Highlighted by a fuel injection engine, the sleek Bonneville six-passenger sports convertible will be shown publicly for the first time Dec. 8 when the National Automobile Show begins in New York City. The Bonneville is slated for limited production early next year. It will deliver over 300 horsepower.

Car Industry Beats Show Drums

The biggest fanfare in history will back the opening of the National Automobile Show in New York City this Saturday.

Attendance at this first maker-sponsored event since 1940 is expected to exceed 500,000 during the nine-day display.

Exhibits will be entered in the show by every car manufacturer, and will run the gamit from 1957 models to spectacular stage shows.

Official opening will be signaled at noon in the Coliseum when, following a round of speeches, five auto company presidents and the head of a truck manufacturing firm will take their places at a giant "instrument panel."

The panel will be made up of six steering wheels attached to a mock dashboard — at a signal, each executive will press his wheel's horn button. The collective blast will open the doors to the first-floor exhibits and start escalators to the upper floors.

Participating in the ceremony will be Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors; Henry Ford II, president of the Ford Motor Co.; L. L. Colbert, president of the Chrysler Corp.; Harold E. Churchill, president of Studebaker-Packard; George Romn president of American Motors; and E. J. Bush, vice chairman of Diamond T.

Besides glamourous settings for the new cars, the show will feature a six-times-a-day musical revue entitled "America on the Move."

Written by Goodman Ace, the show will star the June Taylor Dancers, the Blackburn Twins and other musical performers.

First floor of the giant showplace will be devoted to 11 displays of 1957 trucks. In all, 66 trucks and buses will be shown.

Displays on the second and third floors will feature 15 new cars, 125 models in all. Another special display, a panorama of cars and trucks on the nation's highways, will be on the third floor.

Symbol of the show is an impressionistic figure that might be called a "cosmic car" which carries the theme "America on the Move." Used throughout the building, the symbol assumes its largest form over the third floor stage — a huge sculpture of aluminum and wood, 16 feet high and 58 feet wide.

After the first two opening days, the following days will be designated "Engineers Day," "Old Timers Day," "Ladies Day," "International Day," and "Suburban Day."

College English Course Revised

New Teaching Method for Freshmen Tested at Marquette

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Marquette University has embarked on an experimental program in English which it hopes will lead to a method for teaching larger numbers of students with a smaller staff of instructors.

The goal of the pilot project, which began with the current semester, is to show freshmen students how to learn more with less help from the professors.

Dr. Joseph Schwartz, assistant English professor who is directing the program, explained that "we hope to prove that if a freshman can be taught to comprehend better he will need less personalized attention later." If successful, this would help alleviate the shortage of teachers.

The experiment, which will run through the fall semester of 1957, is financed by an $18,000 grant from the Ford Foundation. Similar programs are under way in 40 other universities in the United States.

Marquette implemented the project by selecting at random 150 freshmen in the College of Liberal Arts.

During the current semester, Dr. Schwartz said, they will be subjected to more intensive instruction to help them acquire the tools for future study.

The class meets five times a week for two-hour sessions. The students write essays in class rather than work on them as outside assignments. There is equal emphasis on reading.

Have 'Special Importance'

GM's Curtice Says Shows Dramatize Model Changes

"Whatever helps the automobile business is very likely to help all business," General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice said in a recent statement setting forth corporation objectives in the upcoming National Automobile Show.

CURTICE

"Auto shows perform a function of special importance to our industry," Curtice said. "They help to dramatize model changes — and it is my considered opinion that annual model changes have been prehaps the most important single factor responsible for the growth of our industry."

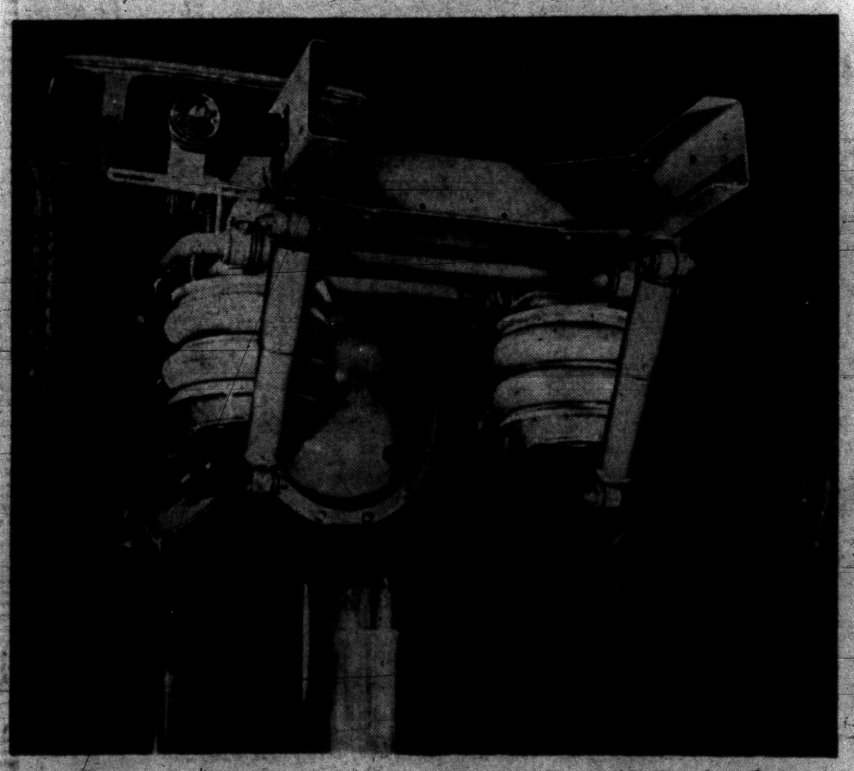

"Under the forced draft of these periodic changes, competition has been stimulated and technological progress speeded up. Efficiency has been increased and the level of buying power raised."

The GM chief added that the change's other function is to make available enough used cars to bring individual transportation within the reach of everyone.

"The new models for 1957 represent the most outstanding values our industry has ever offered," Curtice pointed out.

"The National Automobile Show gives the public an opportunity to inspect these values, and to compare the various makes of passenger cars and trucks, all under one roof."

AIR SUSPENSION — The rear of this GMC highway tractor shows the rear bellows of the division's air suspension system for heavy-duty trucks. The buoyancy of the compressed air in the rear and front bellows replaces steel in absorbing heavy road jolts and high-frequency vibrations. The combination gives the new-type vehicles the "softest ride ever experienced in heavy-duty trucking," according to GMC designers. Regular production of the new heavy-duty, lightweight models will begin next month.

Ready for East Coast Debut

distance travelers on this country's improving network of expressways and turnpikes led Pontiac to develop a car especially adapted for cross country trips," Knudsen said.

The Safari is powered by Pontiac's new endurance record breaking V-8 engine, with triple two-barrel carburetors for smooth, economical power. New shock absorber valving and new rear springs with special liners give level, untiring road qualities to the car.

The new styling of the four-door custom Safari features long wedge-shaped side moldings. The rearward sweep of the molding is accented by the lower rear-quarter covering of ribbed, anodized aluminum that has been vapor blasted to a satin finish. Special vaned wheel discs spark the 14-inch wheels that ride on lower pressure tires for improved passenger comfort.

The first of these Pontiac "transcontinental" Safaris, in New York for the National Automobile Show, is finished in Cordova Red with Kenya Ivory accent. It is upholstered in matching red and ivory hand-buffed leather. The new Safaris, now in production by Pontiac, will go on sale early in 1957 at Pontiac dealerships, Knudsen said.

The GMC highway tractor, model DRA 802, is rated at 55,000 lbs. G. C. W. and weighs only 9,434 lbs. including fifth wheel, trailer connections, 100-gallon fuel tanks and 21,000 lbs. rated rear axle. This low weight is as much as 600 pounds under that of competitive makes.

"This model is representative of our 1957 line of air suspension vehicles, the first ever to go into regular production by a truck manufacturer," said Philip J. Monaghan, vice president of General Motors and general manager of GMC Truck & Coach Division.

"The operating economies and mechanical efficiency of the GMC air suspension models will introduce an entirely new era in the trucking industry. Wide-spread use of these vehicles will substantially increase the profits of truck operators through increased payload potential, decreased freight damage and reduced maintenance expenses."

Monaghan said the GMC air suspension system, pioneered in GM coaches, is one of the most thoroughly tested developments ever introduced. It has performed flawlessly in millions of miles of coach operation and in gruelling proving-grounds and cross-country truck tests.

The shock absorption of the suspension permits the use of aluminum components in the lightweight cabs featured on 12 of the basic air suspension models. Liberal use of steel supplements the aluminum to give the cabs extreme strength and durability.

These cabs have short bumper-to-back-of-cab (BBC) dimensions for peak versatility. Cab-over-engine models have 72-inch BBC, while conventional units have 90-inch BBC.

Signals Correct Human Errors

General Motors Leads Way in Development of Safety Gadgets

For years comedians have joked about the way American motorists (male and female) make hand signals to indicate a left turn, right turn, etc.

The most well-worn one applies to the distaff sides:

"When a lady driver puts her arm out the window, it means but one thing — the window is open."

Science and engineering have made this a joke of the past. Now the modern car furnishes more reliable signals—whether the window is open or shut.

The greatest aid to predicting where the driver ahead is going to turn since the invention of the corner, directional turn signals on cars first appeared as standard equipment on the 1939 Buick.

With Buick and other General Motors cars lighting the way, directional turn signals quickly became essential parts of cars so that today, according to the Automobile Manufacturers of America, the car makers of the United States are putting turn signals as standard equipment on 98 per cent of all their products. That includes both trucks and cars.

The first turn signals in the automotive industry were developed for Buick's 1939 model by the Guide Lamp division of General Motors Corporation, at Anderson, Ind. Guide Lamp was the pioneer in the development of headlights for automobiles and of electronic devices that have engineered safety into modern GM cars.

Proving Ground for Auto Stylists

'Dream Cars' Give Peek at Future

Born in 1938 to give the stylist a tool for advanced research comparable to the laboratory and proving ground used by the scientist and engineer, the dream car has become a world famous symbol of the American public's ever-growing fascination with the life it can expect in the future.

The dream car has always been far more than a gleaming automobile on a pedestal—it has brought tremendous benefits to every motorist, GM officials say.

It has made possible better looking, more advanced cars produced years ahead of the time they would appear in normal evolution. Also, the dream car has given the motorist a positive voice in deciding the features he wants on his future cars.

PUBLIC REACTION

Harley J. Earl, General Motors vice president in charge of styling, originated the concept of a dream or experimental car to test public reaction to design and engineering innovations.

In 1938 he built the famous "Y-Job" in coooperation with GM's Buick Division. It began a parade of 36 dramatic GM experimental cars which have excited millions of people in America and abroad. Most recent of the group was the XP-500 free piston powered car announced earlier this year.

The dream car stimulates the stylist to creative thinking because it allows him to build in three dimensions the futuristic ideas he conceives which are too advanced to be applied to the design of next year's model. This catches and brings to life for the motorist many design ideas which might otherwise be lost.

Once built and exhibited, the dream car provides factual public reaction to its new features through customer research. Proof of advance acceptability encourages a manufacturer to spend the money to put an idea into production far sooner than he would if he had doubts about its acceptance.

The 1938 "Y-Job" had a host of "firsts" including the first electrically-operated convertible top, first power windows and first extension of fenders into the front doors. After being shown across the country and tested extensively, it was "retired" to Flint.

The LeSabre and XP-300 were the next GM experimental cars, built in 1951. LeSabre grew to be one of the most famous of all the dream cars. It featured the first panoramic windshield, now standard throughout the industry. It still is in use and has covered 50,000 miles in shows and demonstrations. Among LeSabre's famous passengers was President Eisenhower when he was NATO Commander in Paris.

In 1953, GM began giving dream cars maximum visibility by making them the automotive stars of a new traveling show called Motorama. Five cars were built and exhibited that year including the Chevrolet Corvette—an immediate hit which was later placed in production as America's first fiberglas sopts car.

The Motorama grew bigger in 1954, and GM built for it 12 special cars including the Firebird I, first gas turbine auto ever built and tested in the United States. Two dream station wagons, the Chevrolet Nomad and Pontiac Safari, became production cars the following year.

In 1955, seven new dream cars and a dream truck, the GMC L'Universelle, starred in the Motorama. One, the Cadillac Eldorado Brougham, has now gone into production and is being exhibited in the national automobile show.

In 1956, five more daring fiberglas dream cars were exhibited in the Motorama, plus the Firebird II gas turbine passenger car. With the Firebird II, GM Styling presented a concept of a safety electronic highway of tomorrow which delighted Motorama visitors.

It owuld be impossible to guess the total number of people who have viewed the three dozen dream and experimental cars created thus far by General Motors. The Motorama alone drew more than seven and three-quarter million people in its four years of national tour. In addition, some of the cars are still being shown individually in local shows and fairs both here and abroad. Others are now running on test tracks.

The myriad of styling and engineering features on current GM production cars has put yesterday's dream car into the hands of today's average motorist. And just as it has spearheaded progress in the past, the dream car will continue to search the future for automotive improvements.

Negro, White Churches Lower Racial Barriers

Two large Protestant congregations, separated by hundreds of miles and varying traditions, have lowered racial barriers to permit integration in their churches — one all white, the other all Negro.

In Minneapolis, the fashionable Hennepin Avenue Methodist Church opened its doors to members of a small Negro Methodist church which is to be torn down to make way for a redevelopment project.

And in the South, an all-Negro Baptist church in Louisville, Ky., has admitted 13 white persons to its congregations.

A delegation from the all-white, 4,000-member Methodist church in Minneapolis yesterday told members of Border Negro Methodist Church, "We invite you with sincere warmth." They said the Negroes need not decide immediately whether to accept.

Dr. Stanley Goors, Minnesota Methodist bishop, said the invitation was a "proposal of Christian love and fellowship."

The integration move in Louisville was believed to be the first by a Baptist church in Kentucky since slavery days.

The 13 white persons joined the Zion Baptist Church in the past month and the pastor, the Rev. D. E. King, said they "seem to be enjoying themselves."

Representing three families, the 13 became the first white members of the 1,522-member Negro congregation. The church is in a Negro-white neighborhood.

The Rev. Willard P. Macy, former pastor of an all-white church in Louisville and one of the 13 who joined Zion, said his association with the Negro church has been a "wonderful experience."

The Rev. Mr. King, the pastor, said his Negro members "have taken this as a normal thing."

Autoless Gas Consumer Puzzles Petrol Rationers

LONDON (AP) —The Ministry of Fuel and Power was presented today with a burning problem, name of Miss Priscilla Birt, 18. She only wants a gasoline ration book, but her need is gastronomic not vehicular.

Because of that unpleasantness along the Suez Canal, which has cut off oil supplies from the Middle East, Britain is about to start doling out motor fuel in small squirts, commencing Dec. 17.

The clerk asked her what kind of motor-driven vehicle she owns, and whether it is operated for business or pleasure.

Miss Birt replied that she does not own a vehicle, motor-driven or otherwise.

"I want to eat it," replied Miss Birt.

Pulling herself together, the clerk asked Miss Birt if she would care to amplify her explanation.

"Well," she said, "I am known professionally as Zahrat the Fire Eater and I am billed with Duffy's Circus as the youngest fire eater in the business.

"The raw material for the act is about a tumblerful of petrol for each performance. Without petrol my whole career will, so to speak, go up in smoke.

"I only need the cheaper commercial grade," she added reassuringly. "The high test stuff tastes too much of lead. About three gallons a month would do."

The post office clerk went into a huddle with her superiors but it was plain that the Ministry of Fuel and Power had goofed. Nowhere in the petrol rationing plan was there any specific provision for fire eaters.

The post office people passed the buck to the district fuel office with the observation, off the record, that while Miss Birt was well endowed in the chassis department it did not appear that she could qualify as a vehicle within the meaning of the regulations. No engine.

The district fuel officer got out from under by having Miss Birt fill in her application with "carriage or motor vehicle" crossed out and "fire eater" written in. Then he mailed it to the Ministry of Fuel and Power.

Could any offstage laughter coming from Miss Birt's press agent?

Crude Bomb Injures Six During Movie

NEW YORK (AP) — A homemade bomb exploded with a burst of flame and smoke in a crowded Brooklyn movie theater last night during a showing of "War and Peace." Six persons were injured.

Police said the bomb appeared to be the handiwork of the same "mad bomber" who has planted more than 25 other explosives in New York public places since 1940.

About 1,500 patrons were viewing the battle-punctured film version of the Tolstoy novel at the time.

The picture resumed after a few minutes.

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Motion Picture Editor

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Any edition you will probably hear that Eddie Fisher has signed for a remake of "The Clock" for Arthur Freed on Debbie's home lot, MGM.

This all happened since "Bundle of Joy," in which Eddie turned on the charm and song. No, it won't be with Debbie. She has "The Reluctant Debutante" to do.

Wonder if you remember "The Clock", which originally starred Judy Garland and the late Robert Walker in 1943.

Speaking of the Fishers, Debbie wheels Carrie Frances by my house in her perambulator every day. "And one of these days," says Debbie, "I'm going to stop by and interrupt your work." Well, that would be pleasant interrupting.

Fascinating is the description Elmer Rhoden, head of Fox West Coast theaters, gives of the new Cinemiracle process which is aimed as competition for Cinerama. Whereas Cinerama needs three camers and three projection machines, Cinemiracle will have only one camera and one lense, thereby eliminating lines, distortion and jiggle. A company has been formed with the Fox West Coast theatres, Gregson Bautzer and Thornton Sargent.

The first picture will be called "Cinemiracle Adventure." "We will make no travelogues," Mr. Rhoden told me. "Ours will be adventure stories, with Louis De Rochemont producing."

In spite of all the talk, Hal Wallis tells me that he is expecting both Jerry Lewis and Dean Martin to report for work in March for "Sad Sack."

Dean has promised me he will make the picture and before Frank Freeman left for New York, Jerry said that he would fulfill his contract. If they don't make this picture for me," Hal said, "They cannot go anywhere else because I have a firm contract."

Norman Taurog wants Dean for "Fuzzy Pink Nightgown," Jane Russell's Russfield movie and it's possible he will get Dean if "Sad Sack" is made first.

'EXCLUSIVE' CONFIRMED

I am vehy glad to be told by Dick Rogers that my exclusive story which said Rossano Brazzi would play the Emile De Becque role in the film version of "South Pacific" has come true. Rossano, who is in New York with his wife, has been in conference with Rodgers and Hammerstein. He will play the role created by Ezio Pinza, but who will play the Mary Martin part has not yet been decided.

"South Pacific" will be filmed in Todd-AO under the supervision of composer Richard Rodgers and lyricist Oscar Hammerstein, with Joshua Logan, who staged the original show on Broadway, directing the screen version.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Singer Gladys Swarthout had serious heart surgery at Roosevelt Hospital in New York, but is miraculously recovering.

Hustle and bustle at the MGM studio to welcome the Prince of Morocco, who had luncheon there Friday.

Lt. Gen. Pick Dies at Age 66

Former Engineer Chief Gained Fame Building India-China Road

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, whose name was linked with Army Engineer Corps activities both at home and abroad, died yesterday at the age of 66.

He was chief of engineers from 1949 until he retired in 1953. He gained wartime fame as the builder of the Ledo Road from India to China. The 438-mile jungle road was built in 57 days as a supply route for U. S. and Chinese troops in the China-Burma-India theater. It became known as Pick's Pike.

For four years after the war, he headed the Engineer Corps' Missouri River Division and helped formulate the Pick-Sloan plan for comprehensive development of flood control and water conservation projects in the Missouri Valley.

Death came at Walter Reed Army Hospital, to which he had been transferred after an operation Nov. 9 at Ft. Benning, Ga. The cause of death was not announced.

Funeral services and burial will be Thursday at Auburn, Ala., where he lived.

Since his retirement from the Army, Gen. Pick had been Alabama state director of industrial development and was named last year as chairman of the board of directors of John J. Harte Co., an Atlanta architectural and engineering firm.

Surviving are his widow and one son, Capt. Lewis A. Pick Jr. of the Army Engineers.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A man died yesterday in a cemetery where he had gone to place flowers on his mother's grave.

A caretaker found the body of Harry E. McIlvain, 41, Pasadena, in Mountain View Cemetery. Authorities said he apparently had suffered a heart attack.

Carney Refuses Money to Improve His Acting

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Art Carney, alias Ed Norton of the sewers, is brushing off a quarter to half a million bucks and his own TV show next year—to improve his acting.

Spurning TV offers in his '57-'58 plans, Art'll do a movie and B'way play . . . partly because Alfred Lunt has congratulated him on his superior stage skill. Art—says his agent, Bill McCaffrey, who is snubbing the TV wealth—"is a rare actor . . . he's not avaricious . . . and he doesn't know how good he is."

Sinatra Is Resting With Muscular Ills

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Frank Sinatra's press agent says the singer is resting at home with muscular pains in the neck and back that kept him from appearing on two television programs.

One was Jackie Gleason's TV tribute Saturday night to Senatra's onetime boss, bandleader Tommy Dorsey, who died last Monday.

The other was Ed Sullivan's show last night on which Sinatra was to have accepted a movie magazine's award as an entertainer.

Maybe Skunks Think That Honey Sweetens 'Em

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — There's a bunch of skunks in this Texas community that are eating their honey bees and all.

The skunks can't reach inside the bee hives, so they stand outside and scratch on the hive. The angered bees, with bits of honey on them, head for the entrance and as they swarm out they are picked off by the skunks.

"They chew the bees until the honey is gone," said Erwin Glew, Lamar County beeman. "Then they spit them out. We've found pile after pile of these dead bees just outside the hives."

Change Their Minds About King's Statue

WINCHESTER, England (AP) — The city fathers announced today they have changed their minds about erectinga statue of King Henry IIIin Hampshire County's new council building.

Councillor H. M. King did some research and found that the 13th century monarch — who styled himself "Henry of Winchester" — once remarked:

"The city and the district stink. I was born in this city and yet nowhere have I been so disgracefully treated. There is no county so infamous in England, none stained so deep in crime."

At a news conference Morse termed Israel a "child of the UN and the only foothold of freedom in the Middle East."

Drown While Fishing

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP)—Gilberto Guajardo, 55, businessman and well-known sportsman, and Luiz Munoz, Mexico City restaurant manager, were drowned yesterday while fishing near Zihuatanejo, resort port 125 miles north of here.

Guajardo was known to many U.S. tourists as the founder of one of Acapulco's first luxury hotels, the Club de Pasca.

Announces Lead Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) Italian actor Rossano Brazzi said last night he has been signed to star in the screen version of "South Pacific."

He will portra y the suave French planter, the role made famous by Ezio Pinza in the hit Broadway musical.

Singer Doris Day is reported to have the inside track for the part of the American nurse, played on Broadway by Mary Martin.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

Chapter 33

I turned back to the roof door of the cold water flat. Then, hastily, I crouched down behind a chimney. I tried desperately to think of what I would say to Wendell Kipp.

He was standing just inside the door, peering out onto the roof. He was just standing there; he hadn't seen me. He was afraid to come out on the roof and, perhaps, face the Waltzer. Then he backed away and disappeared.

I waited a moment before I went to the head of the stairs. I could hear him hurrying down them to the street. I started quietly after him. When I saw him again he was across the street, looking up at the roof. He was a man in an advanced state of acute indecision. Then, abruptly, he darted down Third Avenue.

I darted up Third Avenue, found a cab headed west and collapsed into it. I managed to tell the nice man where I wanted to go.

Leone was involved with some students at her desk. I went straight to Studio K. I hadn't time really to collect myself when my two o'clock pupil arrived. The poor fellow was rather perplexed by his teacher's demeanor.

He kept offering me a penny for my thoughts. They weren't worth that; they were, to put it mildly, disorganized.

The hour finally ended and I, Connie Barton, wife of the Waltzer, was alone. I took a deep breath. These were five minutes I might use to be of some help to Steve. I telephoned Leone from my studio to see if he had called; he hadn't.

The door of my studio opened and a little pixie of a man bounced into the room. The bright smile on his chubby, glowing face faded at the sight of me.

He said, "Sorry, my mistake. I'm supposed to be in Studio K.

"This is K," I said.

"Oh . . . but my dancing teacher is Miss Farrell. Is she ill?"

I gaped at the cherub. Did he live under a stone, couldn't he read, how in the world could he not have heard that Anita Farrell had been murdered?

"No," I said, "she's not ill, but . . ."

"But she won't be here?"

"No," I said, "she won't be here."

"And you're to give me my lesson?"

"Yes . . ."

"Splendid!" he said. "My name is Ralph Tolley."

I said, "Oh, my God!"

Mr. Ralph Tolley turned his head and looked over his shoulder. My reaction to his self-identification had been so violent that he couldn't believe it was just he who had caused it. I tried to cover my confusion.

"Oh, my God," I said again, but not quite so hysterically, "you're not the Ralph Tolley I've been hearing so much about?"

Now Ralph Tolley was pleased. "Heard so much about? Who from?"

"Oh, the other girls . . . teachers."

"I've always had Miss Farrell . . . except once. Then I had Hooray Rose."

"That's who . . . Hooray is mad for you!"

"Well! Well, well!"

I saw Ralph make a mental note in his mental little black date book. I was being mental, too. There were some things I had to find out about Mr. Tolley and it would take a little doing.

"Jeepers," I said girlishly, "you'd think Leone Webb or somebody would have let me know you were here so . . . so I could have put a flower in my hair."

He grinned and told me just what I wanted to hear. "I don't think Miss Webb or anyone knows I'm here. I came right into the studio here. I thought I was late."

"Oh. Well, then, I guess you didn't get Miss Webb's message? At your hotel, I mean."

"Message?"

"Yes, she left a message for you that Anita . . . Anita wouldn't be here today. In case you wanted to postpone your lesson."

Like a little angel, Ralph said, "Oh, I haven't been to my hotel. I checked my luggage at the station and came right here."

"Isn't this exciting!" I said. "I'm the only one in practically the whole wide world who knows you're back in town!"

"Why, I guess you are at that. But I don't see what's exciting about it."

"Well, thrilling then. Did you have a nice trip? Business or pleasure?"

"A combination of both."

"How fortunate you are that you can manage that combination!" I said heartily. "What business are you in?"

"Prospecting?"

"For uranium."

"Oh, of course. Then you've been in the wilds of Canada all week?"

"Oh, no, you don't!" the little man shouted.

"Don't what?" I inquired.

"Find out!" he exclaimed.

"Where."

"Where what?" I just inquired.

"Where I expect to make my strike. Down at the hotel they're always trying to find out where I go, but oh, no, I won't tell them."

"So nobody knows but you and your Geiger counter. Is it nice of you to keep all that uranium to yourself? Or haven't you found any yet?"

"Oh, no, you don't!"

I almost asked oh, no, I don't know what and started that routine again, but I checked myself. I didn't want to waste any more time than necessary.

Somehow I had to tuck this miner away out of sight until Steve had had time to prove he hadn't murdered Anita Farrell. Unfortunately, that wasn't for very long. It was, in fact, just fifty-five minutes until four o'clock when Bolling had called the meeting which would prove Steve was the Waltzer.

But if Bolling, or anyone else, got connected with Ralph Tolley, that meeting would not be necessary. Steve wouldn't even have his fifty-five minutes.

"But I'll tell you this much," Ralph was saying. "I was getting real close this trip. But I had to stop. I was coming down with the sniffles."

"The sniffles . . . oh, I'm sorry."

"Don't be upset. It was a false alarm. I wouldn't expect you to dance with me if I had the sniffles."

"Don't be silly."

I would have danced with Ralph Tolley if he had had the cholera. It had suddenly become very necessary for me to dance with him. I had just remembered a dirty little trick of Anita's that I could use to spirit Ralph away. I went to the music controls.

"What shall we begin with?" I asked.

"Well, my waltz is weak."

"Let's strengthen that waltz of yours."

What my pupil's waltzing lacked in technique was made up for in exuberance. If he brandished his Geiger counter with half so much enthusiasm, he was a cinch to be a millionaire by Christmas. It wasn't until the third time around the studio that I caught up to him, got close enough to him to double-cross him.

Arizona Teens Receive Shots

Aim to Cut Down High Polio Incidence With Mass Vaccination

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Operation Teen-ager — aimed at cutting down the high incidence of polio among Arizona's youngsters — starts tomorrow with the first of a series of citywide mass vaccinations. It is the first such program in the nation.

Dr. Clarence G. Salsbury, state health commissioner, said some 5,000 students at Phoenix Union High School will be the first to receive the free shots. Later, some 15,000 youngsters at 23 schools in Phoenix and Maricopa County will be eligible to participate.

Free shots will be given to anyone from 6 months to 19 years, but the main objective is teenagers.

More than 40 per cent of Arizona's polio cases last year were among teen-agers and young adults. A recent survey showed 75 per cent of the county's teenagers had not received unoculations.

Cooperating in the program with the State Health Department and the Maricopa County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are city and county health departments, parent - teacher associations and private physicians.

"We've been working on this program for a long time," Salsbury said, "and we have enough vaccine for about a half-million inoculations."

No Fuel Shortage Here: Gas Thieves 'Fill 'Er Up'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Gasoline thieves "filled 'er up." But police still are wondering just what it was they filled.

Six hundred gallons of gas — valued at $192 — was taken from a parked tank truck belonging to Kentucky Consumers Oil Co.

A company mechanic — Ira Kolter—said truck tracks and a hose were found near the parked tanker. He surmised the thieves drums.

The four major flyways which channel most of the migratory waterfowl are the Atlantic, the Mississippi valley, the so-called Central route, and the Pacific coast.

Killed by Freight Train

DETROIT (AP) — A southbound Grand Trunk Western freight train struck a car at an unguarded Macomb County crossing Friday night fatally injuring Angelo J. Nicotra, 31, of Roseville. Nicotra was thrown from his automobile. The accident occurred on Thirteen Mile road near M97.

CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY

MOST POWERFUL of all light-duty trucks

This one you have to see and drive. It's the phenomenal new GMC Blue Chip light-duty Money-Maker for '57.

It has 206 horsepower—one for every 15¼ lbs. of its weight. That's more engine than you'll find in most trucks four times its rated capacity.

So it can handle a tremendous amount of truck-work—do it day in, day out, without a struggle or strain. You'll marvel at its spirited response—even with a full load.

In fact, there's a real thrill awaiting every first-time rider in this new GMC. Blind-folded, you couldn't tell its serenely smooth and comfortable travel from that of a costly car. That's from GMC's exclusive RSD Suspension* that smooths the roughest roads—smothers the smallest bumps.

And you not only ride in comfort—you ride in style! For GMC Blue Chip lines are long and low—colors are dashing—cabs, luxuriously appointed. It's a brilliant new contender for the attention of station-wagon users.

Add them up: matchless appearance—incomparable roadability—huge reserves of power-stamina for extra years of service! In any kind of truck-work this GMC is a money-maker! Come see it—now!

Southfield Voting Today

Factions Cry Pro, Con Issues

Tax Rates, Ward Rule Cited in City Charter; Vote for Staff

SOUTHFIELD TOWNSHIP—This community, with rival factions citing tax rates, home rule and power of various areas, is voting today on adopting a city charter and a city government.

If Southfield becomes a city by today's vote, the elected officials will take their posts over an area that sprawls from Eight Mile road up to 14 Mile road and winds around various other municipalities.

"A ward system as provided by the charter guarantees representation for your community—your section of the city," says one pamphlet put in the hands of Southfield residents.

"Are you going to sit at home and let the people living in the north end of the township tell you what you should do?" asks Howard Coleman, president of the Southfield Citizens League in a get-out-the-vote effort mailed to southern-township voters. He is seeking the mayor's post.

In the area's second vote for a charter, voters this time are considering a system that would allow $5 of the $1,000 for tax use in the city, and a commissioner on the city governing body elected from each ward.

A city-operated police department and fire department are points which charter-advocates are citing. "Southfield as an incorporated city will regulate traffic and use of the streets by the public," says one faction.

Admission and routing of expressways can be determined by Southfield if it is a city, point out charter-advocates.

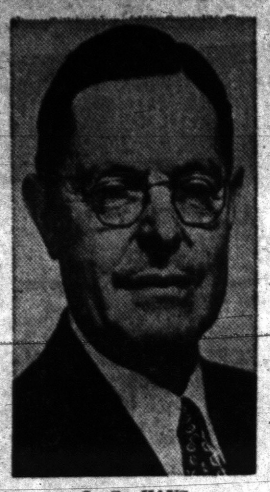

But zoning could become a problem for the new city, says yet another "neighbor" in the mailing flood that residents have received.

"The new city will be wide open for 'zone busting' unless you provide time for the Charter Commission to correct this oversight" says the letter, pointing to a circuit court ruling that "adoption of the former township ordinance by reference was illegal" in what they believe is a similar case, Madison Heights.

The interim before a city zoning ordinance can be enacted is worth worrying about, warns the writer.

To Sell Yule Trees

UNION LAKE — Union Lake School will be selling Christmas trees on Dec. 15 and 16 from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on the corner of Commerce and Union Lake Rds. The project is sponsored by the PTA and all proceeds will go for playground equipment.

J. G. HAYS

One of Michigan's foremost and best known humorists, J. G. Hays, will be the speaker at Oakland County's annual Dairy Banquet to be held at the Commerce Masonic Hall on Wednesday, Dec. 12 at 7:30 p.m. The event is open to the public. Mays' famous talk on the "Cardboard Cow" has been given many times throughout the nation and in foreign countries as well. Other numbers on the banquet program include the awards given to outstanding dairy herds for 1956, and recognition of three centennial farms. Sam Smith, chairman of Oakland County's Dairy Committee, is to be in charge of the program.

New Legislators Attend 'School'

Freshmen Get Preview of State Government in Mock Session

Newly elected State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge and three Oakland County freshman House members are attending a "Conference for New Legislators" today and tomorrow in Lansing.

Sponsored by the Legislature and the Michigan State University Institute of Local Government, the conference is intended to give freshman legislators "some idea of what goes on when we're in session," according to Pontiac representative Leslie H. Hudson, a member of the arrangements committee.

Attending from Oakland County will be Lodge, Rep. Loyd L. Anderson (R, Dist. 1), Rep. Farrell E. Roberts (R, Dist. 3) and Rep. Donald A. Brown (R, Dist. 5).

The two-day program will include Senate and House organization and rules, budgetary information, committee organization and procedure, a mock legislative session, and a tour of Ionia State Hospital.

In the Nov. 6 election, two new senators and 19 new House members were elected in Michigan. All are expected to attend the conference.

Lemburg Donation This Week

State's Retarded Tots Getting 80 Acre Camp

DETROIT (AP)—Thanks to the generosity of a wealthy builder, an 80-acre tract of land near Lapeer is to become a private camp for Michigan's mentally retarded children.

The property, which includes two small lakes, will be donated to the Lemberg foundation this week by Ben Lemberg, 54-year-old Detroit and Florida builder and philanthropist.

The trustees of the foundation will meet again within 15 days to turn over the property to the Michigan Assn. for Retarded Children.

Lemberg originally planned a million dollar housing project for the site, located 12 miles northeast of Lapeer. He discarded the plan, however, saying:

"I suddenly realized you only get out of this life what you put into it."

He found, though, that giving away land was not so easy. It took nearly a year before he was able to find "a worthwhile recipient."

* * * *

Finally a plan was worked out to make the site a camp which will be available to all retarded children, regardless of race, creed or color.

Banker Retains Citizens' Faith

Accused of Juggling Funds but Residents Still Have Confidence

ELLENVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Two hundred community leaders in this Catskill resort say they have "overwhelming confidence and faith" in bachelor banker Bill Rose.

FBI agents seized William Rose Friday night and accused him of juggling $580,000 while he was president of the Home National Bank. They quoted him as saying the money went to two local business firms needing help. He said he made no personal gain.

Rose resigned as bank president the next day.

Last night leaders in Ellenville's civic, political, veterans, fraternal and business groups held a rally to show that Rose is still esteemed.

Everyone present signed a letter to "Bill." The letter expressed "overwhelming confidence and faith" in him and reaffirmed the signers' "unique affection and regard" for him.

In addition, the leaders decided to set up a booth today in Liberty Square in the heart of this town of 5,000. Residents will be asked to sign a petition confirming "faith in the integrity" of Rose.

Rose, 51-year-old former Methodist Church treasurer and naval officer, was charged with violating the Federal Reserve Act by allegedly manipulating $580,000 in bank funds.

He is free on $25,000 bail.

Announce Six New Judges

Appointments Made for Wayne County and Monroe

LANSING (INS)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams today named four circuit judges in Wayne County, a new Common Pleas Judge and another Circuit Judge in Monroe.

The appointments were made last week before the Governor left for a vacation in South America, but the announcement was upheld pending the meeting today of the State Retirement Board.

The circuit appointments include:

Horace Gilmore, Deputy Michigan attorney general;

Victor J. Baum, young Detroit attorney and former chairman of the Michigan Young Democrats, and George E. Bowles, chairman of the State Labor Mediation Board.

They will fill vacancies created by the retirements of Judges Ira W. Jayne, John V. Brennan, Arthur Webster and George B. Murphy.

Common Pleas Judge Ernest W. Boehm, recently appointed by the governor, will be moved up to probate court bench and assistant prosecutor Elvin Devenport was named to common pleas.

Boehm will fill the probate seat vacated by Judge Patrick H. O'Brien.

Former University of Michigan law school classmate of Gov. Williams, William Weipert Jr., was named to the Monroe Circuit Court where he will succeed Circuit Judge Charles Golden.

The governor still has to appoint judges in Manistee and Ingham counties.

Senator George Will Continue

Agrees to Remain Ike's Representative to NATO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) said today he has agreed to continue as President Eisenhower's personal representative to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

He said the job has been made more challenging by crises which, he said, nearly wrecked the Western defense alliance against communism.

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, will end Jan. 3 a career of 34 years as a senator. He said he will shift then to a desk at the State Department.

Eisenhower named him to the NATO position, with an ambassador's rank, after George decided not to seek re-election.

There was an announced understanding that he would decide by the first of the year whether he felt his health and the prospect of making a worthwhile contribution would permit or justify his continuing in the post.

George, 78, told a reporter his answer to both questions is "yes."

The task before him, George said, is to help plan ways "to get NATO back on the track, and develop it in economic and political fields." His work does not deal with NATO's military phases.

George said he believes crises in Suez and Cyprus and the explosive Hungarian situation have taught NATO member nations new lessons about the risks of trying to go it alone.

Are Program Topics

NEW ROCHESTER RINK — Civic efforts pooled have yielded the youth of Rochester this 75 by 500 foot skating area at the side of Paint Creek at the foot of Oak and Pine streets. Already the shallow lagoon formed by excavations has frozen and is being kept smooth and over a week's skating has been seen.

Funds Go for Skating Fun

Rochester, Its Clubs and Youth Join for Ice Rink

ROCHESTER — Governmental, civic, and even youth groups have plunged into the effort of preparing and keeping in shape Rochester's new ice rink.

Formed with a 75-by-500-foot lagoon, it has had 75 to 100 skaters during afternoon and weekend hours since it was first declared ready for use a week ago.

A forerunner of what will be an extensive municipal park development, the rink is on a 12-acre site given by the Higbie company several years ago for a recreation area.

The Chamber of Commerce, taking up the sponsorship of the ice rinks, decided that all in the village would utilize it, and perhaps money could come from other sources in the town. About $2,000 was needed it became apparent as the lagoon's irregular shape was excavated.

So donations began to come in. Last spring, a circus gleaned about $800. Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis Clubs each gave $200.

Bud Taylor, who operates Sherwood Investment Co. gave $300, and Kenneth Fetters, owner of Fetters Drug Store, gave $100. Harold Milton, operator of a Mobilgas station, donated $150, and Dick Reitmen, in charge of the new Wrigley development, Parkland subdivision, gave $250.

An apple sale this fall was youth's endeavor to ean funds.

The Youth Canteen's teenage members conducted the sale and will put the proceeds, along with funds from a ticket sale for last spring's circus, into a public address system at the rink. Two amplifiers will be included.

Lions members have moved a warming house to the rink's edge, and the small building has been put into shape by village employes. The village will maintain the rink and light it, and will seed the area in the spring.

The area is at a former dam site along the Paint Creek, and has been excavated in such a way that half the water can be let out by gates and then the other half, all in about three hours time.

Long range plans for the recreation zone call for a larger warming house, as well as area for other sports being developed. Village officials are taking part in the planning for the use of the acreage, owned by the village.

Five Injured in 2-Car Crash

Weekend Accidents at Madison Heights and Romeo Hurt 6

MADISON HEIGHTS — All five passengers involved in a two-car collision at John R and LaSalle were taken to William Beaumont Hospital early this morning.

According to Madison Heights police, Dale Charlton, 23, of 497 West Lantz, Detroit, was going south on John R and made a left turn at the intersection, swerving into a car driven by Hazen Anthony Hubert Jr., 31, of 242 South Broadway, Mt. Clemens.

Names of the other injured, riding in Hubert's car are: Hubert's wife Florence, 26; Paul Dudash, 27, and his wife, Hazel, 26, of 29 Adrian St., Mt. Clemens.

When a car and a milk truck both overturned in a collision at the intersection of McKay and Elsling roads, four miles northeast of Romeo Saturday, driver Hartel Arbrit Hanson, 16, of 70311 Mellen st. suffered slight head injuries. His car was a total wreck, Romeo State Police said.

The milk truck, driven by Herbert H. Austin, 35, of Pontiac, was damaged to the extent of $1,000. Austin told police that due to ice on the road he was unable to stop for the stop sign. Police ticketed him, however.

Project Gives School Payment Without Taxing

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — The Royal Oak Township Homes today made payments of $36,631.30 to Royal Oak Township School District No. 1 (Carver School) and $1,579.73 to Ferndale School District No. 9 (Grant School) in full payment of "payments in lieu of taxes" due them for the current school year.

Elwood Dickens, Royal Oak Township supervisor, stated that payments were made from current project revenue and that although the project is tax exempt, it makes "payments in lieu of taxes" to all taxing jurisdictions including the county and township at the same rates and upon the same basis as private property owners in the township.

Holiday Season Perfume Time

New Assortments Are on Market in All Price Ranges

Among the choices on perfume counters at Christmas time are special boxes and presentations that the manufacturers have had designed for the big perfume-giving season. Some of these are elaborate and cost more than the plain product does, others are pretty boxes around the regular bottle and cost no more.

Yardley's Christmas entry is a perfumer for its Bond Street. It's metered. When the cap is removed and the top pressed down, the aerosol container releases a spray that turns off automatically.

The gold-finished flacon comes in a transparent package.

In the splendid category is Lancome's Magie. This fragrance comes in one, two and three ounce sizes, the single ounce under 50. The Christmas look comes from a twisted crystal flacon with a heavy stopper. It comes in a simulated white leather box.

For a daughter to give mother is the wonderful budget April Showers, by Cheramy.

Houbigant's presentation is a trio. The French fragrance house suggests their gift box of Chantilly (spicy), Quelques Fleurs (floral) and Flatteric (exotic). Chantilly box is gold and white. Priced at 10.

Among Bourjois' variety of suggestions is a large blue satin-lined gift box containing six different forms of their famous Evening in Paris; cologne, toilet water, talcum, perfume, purse flacon, face powder. Under nine for this.

Subtle femininity is the keynote of Renoir's Futur perfume. This sophisticated scent comes in a tall, round flacon in a white box with feminine flowers on it. Under 25.

Each Land Celebrates the Yuletide in Its Own Way

In Germany on the eve of St. Nicholas Day (Dec. 5) children place their shoes outside their bedrooms and hope to have them filled with candy in the morning.

The boys of Zurich, Switzerland pay tribute to "Samichlaus" by wearing white robes and cardboard masks. Equipped with horns or bells they stage huge parades.

South of the equator Christmas comes in mid-summer. A common scene in Argentina finds holiday shoppers eating ice cream. But the spirit is the same.

Tradition Is Part of Fun in Decorating the Home

Almost every home has some special Christmas decoration that's worn with age, but still remains indispensable for the Christmas spirit. It may be the first paper wreath the family ever had. It may be a big Merry Christmas sign lettered by a child now married.

Whatever it is, it isn't Christmas until it's been taken out of the box and put on display.

Many homes, in addition to this prized decoration, have decorative ideas that continue through the years, but are done anew at each holiday season. In one home, it's the nativity painting done on the living room window in tempera. In another, it's the creche that's added to each year.

A safe and enjoyable idea for the kids to employ in assisting with the decoration is painting with soapsuds. It's whipped up in a bowl with an eggbeater. The children may paint on oilcloth or on the window. Mistakes can be erased with a swipe of a damp cloth.

Displaying the cards is another example of the kind of decoration that goes on, year after year, each year different.

Some tack the cards on screens. Others pin them to the draperies. Other families devote whole walls to the cards, attaching them with cellophane tape. Considering the bulk of cards that's sent now, the mantelpiece is inadequate.

A nice idea for a home where a family reunion is going to take place is decorating with small family portraits.

A doorway or archway works well. So does a mantelpiece. The small portraits are first assembled. Then lengths of dime-store satin ribbon are cut. The portraits are pasted on the ribbon. Favorite cards or tree ornaments may be added. The lengths of rbibon are then hung from the doorway or mantel.

Across the top, "Merry Christmas" may be lettered in gold paper or in kids' alphabet blocks.

Small children who have large collections of toy animals and houses may want to arrange a Christmas scene under the tree or on an unused table.

Adults may fuss about incorrect proportion, but children don't mind and should be allowed to arrange the large sheep and the small man's figure together if they like.

Setting Christmas

In the 4th Century, Dec. 25 was set aside by the church as the official day of Christ's birth. In some of the Eastern branches of the church, Jan. 6 is still celebrated as the great holiday.

Twelfth Night Now Is Almost Forgotten

Twelfth Night, once one of the most joyous feasts in the English calendar, has almost died out except in name and in a few traditional customs.

In early times an English Christmas was celebrated continuously from Dec. 25 to Jan. 6, as indicated in the old song "The Twelve Days of Christmas" — recently warmed over in a more popular form. The last — or twelfth — night was always particularly riotous with feating and masques, and it was for one such celebration at Queen Elizabeth's court that Shakespeare wrote "Twelfth Night."

Now an English Christmas lasts only two days, and the only generally regarded tradition of the old feast is that Christmas decorations, greenery, and Christmas cards are not taken down before Jan. 6. According to legend it is bad luck to do so before Christmas "is over."

Yule Nordic Word

The name Yule is Nordic for the early winter period. After the harvest was in, count would be made of the cattle and the extent of grain binned. If it wasn't sufficient to carry the whole herd through the winter, some of the herd was slaughtered and a long period of feasting held. The feasting was called the Yuletide.

For Bigger Families

Games score high as aids to homework this Christmas. Go-To-The-Head-Of-The-Class provides quiz questions beamed at three different age levels, catering to the larger American family unit.

Sentimental File

Here is a tip for those busy mothers who find it difficult to recall all the friends and relatives who must be remembered at Christmas. Keep a "sentimental file," with a card for each person bearing pertinent information such as clothing sizes, favorite colors, hobbies, and gifts given in previous years. A note of the date of birth of younger additions is particularly useful. All these reduce the effort of thinking up gifts and of course, come in handy at birthdays, anniversaries and other special occasions.

Lions' Best Offensive Display Rips Bears, 42-10

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

DETROIT — The big bad Chicago Bears took the form of a band of meek baby cubs running from a pack of hungry Lions at Briggs Stadium yesterday.

The Lions put together their greatest aerial and ground offensive of the season to whip the Chicagoans 42-10 before 57,024 spirited fans.

As result, Detroit moved back into first place of the National Football League and set the stage for a showdown rematch in Chicago two weeks hence.

The Bears' high powered offensive attack led by quarterback Ed Brown, fullback Rick Casares and end Harlon Hill was handcuffed by Detroit's stubborn defense.

Dave Middleton made Hill look like a rookie as a pass receiver, and with Darris McCord, Joe Schmidt, Bob Long, Bob Miller and Ray Krouse crashing through repeatedly, Brown had little time to put any accuracy behind his aerials.

Hill caught only one pass for 13 yards, while Middleton grabbed seven for 146 yards and two touchdowns.

The first quarter started out in wide open fashion with the ball exchanging hands on the first two plays. Bill Stits took a pitchout from Layne and threw a long pass which was intercepted by J. C. Caroline.

The Bears immediately countered with a long aerial by Brown and it was intercepted by Jack Christiansen.

For the remainder of the period the offensive and defensive units of both teams came on and off the field a total of nine times as the Lions intercepted twice more and recovered a fumble. The Bears also intercepted a second time in the quarter, which ended scoreless.

Detroit's touchdown march started when Lary picked off a pass meant for Hill and returned it to the Bear 39. In four straight carries, Gene Gedman got to the five and just as the second period started Gedman went over from the one. Layne converted and it was 7-0.

The Bears got to the five and on a 4th down and four, George Blanda booted a 3-pointer from the 11-yard line.

With Bobby Layne hitting Dorn Dibble and Jim Doran on long passes and big Leon Hart ramming through the line, Detroit went 72 yards to score, with Layne going 15 yards after a fake pass.

Chicago came right back to make it 14-10. A pass interference penalty which brought continuous disapproval from the partisan fans was a big factor in the drive which was climaxed when Casares took a pass from Blanda for the TD.

The penalty gave the Bears possession on the Lion 22 for a 29 yard advance, and it took only three plays to score.

In the third period, Middleton outraced Caroline and took an overhead pass from Layne covering 48 yards to make it 21-10 and in the 4th stanza the roof caved in on the Bears.

One Chicago TD on a 65 yard pass play from Blanda to Don Bingham was nullified because a ineligible pass receiver, tackle Bill Wightkin, was downfield.

Don McIlhenny got into the game for the Lions for the 1st time in four weeks to start the 4th quarter. His running and Layne's 4th completed pass of the series to Gene Gedman added another TD after three minutes were played.

Determined to hold possession, Jug Girard went back to punt and instead passed beautifully to Dibble to set up the 4th tally on the 35. Bill Bowman later went over from the three and Layne converted to make it 35-10.

A Bear fumble started the Lions on a 35 yard march for the final score with Middleton, who stood all alone on the seven, taking a pass from Harry Gilmer and easily trotting over.

The Lions piled up 481 total yards rushing and passing and gave the Bears their worst beating of the season.

Chicago was hurt by the loss of halfback Bobby Watkins early in the game, but the Bears could not fool the alert Lion defensive unit no matter what they did. Chicago got only 70 yards passing.

Next week the Lions host the Pittsburgh Steelers at Briggs Stadium while the Bears tangle with the Chicago Cardinals in their intra-city rivalry.

If both the Bears and Lions are victorious next Sunday, Detroit will hold a half-game margin going into the "winner-take-all" game in Chicago December 16th.

Detroit: Touchdowns—Gedman 2 (1, plunge; 9, pass-run from Layne); Layne (15, run); Middleton 2 (48, pass-run from Layne; 18, pass-run from Gilmer); Bowman (3, plunge). Conversions—Layne 6.

Doak Walker Returns to Cheer for Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — It was a partisan crowd of 57,024 that watched the Detroit Lions roll over the Chicago Bears 42-10 at Briggs Stadium yesterday.

"I've seen the Lions three times now, once losing and twice winning. They have a great club and should go all the way. It's a good club all the way around, but that defense is really sound."

Asked what he thought of Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, the Ohio State halfback left with the task of filling Walker's shoes, Doak replied:

"He's a great one. Runs with the best of them, and he's doing a fine job for the Lions. He'll be even better with a little more pro experience."

Doak also praised Leon Hart, who has made a successful switch from end to fullback:

Near Eastern Title

Giants Whip Redskins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pro football clutch players like Frank Gifford and Bobby Layne aren't paid by the yards they gain or the touchdowns they score. But when the National Football League moguls lay out the big salaries, they expect the "big play" and the "big game." Sunday was dividend day around the circuit as the key veterans, most of whom could afford to toil on a touchdown-yardage rate, paid off aplenty.

Gifford, the former movie stunt man who usually plays like he wrote the script, scored three times and threw for the other Giant touchdown as New York all but clinched the Eastern Conference title by whipping the Washington Redskins 28-14.

Tobin Rote, the Green Bay signal-caller who runs like a halfback, scored three times on short sneaks after his passes had riddled the Chicago Cardinals in a 24-21 upset victory. The loss at Chicago all but eliminated the Cards from the Eastern race.

Lou (The Toe) Groza, an all-time great, kicked a field goal 37 yards with 29 seconds remaining at Cleveland to lift the Browns to a 17-14 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Capt. Elbie Nickel, with 33 years and 12 pro seasons behind him, steadied young Jack Scarbath in his first quarterback start, receiving two passes from Scarbath to lead the Pittsburgh Steelers in a 30-13 defeat of the Los Angeles Rams.

A pair of 28-year-olds with a total of 13 yards NFL experience did the job for the San Francisco 49ers at Baltimore, 20-17. End Billy Wilson twice took scoring passes from quarterback Y. A. Tittle. The second was a 77-yard play in which Wilson hurdled two Baltimore tacklers and went on to score and eliminate the Colts from the Western race.

Clemson's Selection Fills Bowls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clemson's selection for the Orange Bowl leaves only a belated windup game between Gator-bound Pittsburgh and unbeaten Miami before college football moves into its final postseason phase.

Pitt, looking forward to a rematch of last year's 7-0 Sugar Bowl loss to Georgia Tech, need not worry about the once-tied Hurricanes in their nationally televised meeting.

Rose: Iowa (8-1) vs. Oregon State (7-2-1).

Sugar: Tennessee (10-0) vs. Baylor (8-2).

Clemson got the nod to fill the last opening after defeating Furman 28-7.

The bowl situation, long entangled, crystalized quickly once last Saturday's results became evident.

Prior to that time only the Rose Bowl was set for a replay of a midseason 14-13 Iowa triumph over Oregon State.

Tennessee's completion of a perfect season with a 27-7 victory over Vanderbilt brought from the Vols an official acceptance of a Sugar Bowl invitation which apparently had been offered much earlier.

The New Orleans bowl officials, handicapped by the Louisiana law forbidding interracial athletic competition, struck a bonanza when their other prime candidate, Baylor, walloped Rice 46-13.

Other results last Saturday included: Holy Cross 7, Boston College 0; LSU 7, Tulane 6; Mississippi 13, Mississippi State 7; Missouri 15, Kansas 13; Hardin-Simmons 41, Texas Tech 14; Houston 39, Detroit 7; Sam Houston State 27, Middle Tennessee 13, Refrigerator Bowl; Southern California 28, Notre Dame 20; North Carolina 20, South Carolina 13; Auburn 34, Alabama 7.

LAYNE STOPPED SHORT — Detroit Lion quarterback Bobby Layne (22) plows his way through the Chicago Bears' line toward the goal line but he was stopped short by two yards. Halfback Stan Wallace (40) held on as Layne squirmed away from other tacklers. Layne scored once and passed for two touchdowns as the Lions routed the Bears, 42-10, to take over the lead in the National Football League. Detroit put on its greatest offensive showing of the season in rolling up a total of 481 yards.

The 1956-57 City League basketball season for Class A and C teams will start Monday, Dec. 10. Class D teams get under way Monday, Dec. 17. There are 14 teams in the A and C classes while the D group for boys 18 and under has 16 teams.

GRIM COACH — Notre Dame head football coach Terry Brennan was a grim man after the Irish lost a 28-20 decision to Southern California Saturday. Brennan was the target of former Irish coach Frank Leahy before the game. Leahy charged the team "was quitting." Notre Dame had its poorest season in its history with a 2-8 record.

Pontiac Pairs Win Skate Dance Tests

Senior dance contest for roller skaters at Rolladium was won last of the week by a Pontiac pair. Penny Money and John Beeding skated "The Fascination Fox Trot" for their victory. In Sunday's novice dance contest Cecilia Darimont and Kurt Kuhné of Pontiac skated "The Highland Schottische" to win.

Boys — Class A, Paul Umphrey; Class B, Clarence Burmeister; Class C, Ricky Hanson.

Diaper division — won by Tommy Rigdon.

YMCA Intramural Cage League Starts Tonight

The Pontiac YMCA Men's Intramural Basketball League will get under way tonight at the 'Y' gymnasium. Three games are scheduled starting at 7:30 p.m.

Six teams are enrolled in the league. Game time is forfeit time and only registered players may participate.

Hockey Pilots Meet Dec. 6

Plans for City's Puck Tourney Are Scheduled at Thursday Session

A managers' meeting for all ice hockey teams entering the city ice hockey tournament will be held this Thursday night at the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department office in City Hall at 7 o'clock.

Tournament plans are scheduled for discussion and rules and regulations will be established.

Any team wishing to enter must have a representative at this meeting. A minimum of four teams is necessary to hold the tourney. The tournament is open to all organized teams comprised of boys who have not reached their 19th birthday by March 1, 1957.

League games will be held on weekday mornings during the Christmas holidays at the North Side Ice Rink. Following the holidays, all games will be played Saturday mornings between 8 a.m. and 12 noon on the same ice.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Parks and Recreation Repartment, FE 3-7131.

Tuesday Last Day for Deer Entries

Tuesday noon, at 12 o'clock is the final time for making entries in the 1956 Pontiac Press "big deer derby."

For the first time in many years the contest this fall was a two-pronged affair. Previously it had been a 3-way tourney. Total U.S. Savings Bond jackpot, however is unchanged, with the individual division ante going up to $150.

Current leaders are: heaviest buck — 207 pounds (all entries are dressed weights), Rogers H. Davis, Pontiac. Widest antlers — 22 inches, entered by Leland (Lee) Walz of Davisburg.

Bethea Battles Folley

Shelley Mann Breaks Record

U.S. Girls Lead Swimmers

MELBOURNE (AP) — Australia's powerful 800-meter freestyle relay team beat Uncle Sam's men swimmers out of today's only Olympic gold medal today as American women advanced in the diving and swimming competition with brilliant performances in qualifying competition.

Shelley Mann of Arlington, Va., broke the world's record with a one minute 11.2 seconds victory in a qualifying heat in the 100-meter butterfly event. Two American girls, Carin Cone of Ridgewood, N.J. and Margaret Edwards of Portland, Ore., moved into the finals in the 100-meter backstroke event.

Mrs. McCormick, who won both the platform and springboard diving crowns at Helsinki in 1952, led all the way in the qualifying competition for women in the springboard event. She scored an impressive total of 76.80 points in six dives. Canada's Irene MacDonald was second with 73.25.

Barbara Gilders of Detroit, a 19-year-old diver from the Detroit Athletic Club, was third, with 71.47 points and Jeanne Stunyo, a 20-year-old University of Detroit student from Gary, Ind., was fourth with 71.02.

In addition to Miss Mann's record-breaking performance in the 100-meter butterfly, Nancy Jane Ramey, 16, of Mercer Island, Wash., and Mary Jane Sears of Chevy Chase, Md. also qualified for Wednesday's finals.

Australia's men's relay team set a world's record of 8:23.6, with the United States second in 8:31.5 and Russia in 8:34.7. The old Olympic mark was set by the U.S. in 1952 at 8:31.1. Russia was world record holder at 8.24.1, made last month.

The Aussies were in the lead at almost every check point in the relay. At the 100-meter mark, they were about one foot ahead of the Americans with Russia and Japan closely bunched for third.

There was not a full length's difference at the end of the first leg between Kevin O'Halloran of Australia and Dick Hanley of Evanston, Ill. John Devitt of Australia moved away to a one-length lead over George Breen of Buffalo, N. Y. at the 300-meter mark and stretched it to two lengths at the 400-meter mark.

During the afternoon preliminaries, two British swimmers, Judy Grinham and Margaret Edwards both were under Miss Grinham's pending world record of 1:13.4 for the 100-meters butterfly stroke, Judy did it first in 1:13.1 then Miss Edwards made it 1:13 flat.

In the first event tonight, Miss Mann automatically set an Olympic record for this new event on the program, and beat the listed world mark of 1:11.9 by Holland's Atie Voorbig. The Dutch girl, however, has improved on that just recently with a 1:10.5 time. The time has not been accepted.

Australia was in the lead at almost every point in the race. O'Halloran got out ahead in the first 100 meters and at the end of his leg had built up a small advantage over Hanley, the American leadoff man.

Bags His First Bear

For many years Charles Neldrett, 478 Midway, has hoped to bag a Michigan black bear. He just returned last of the week from the Seney area in the Upper Peninsula with his first bruin, a husky specimen estimated to be about two years old.

Bear was shot at Shingleton Friday morning as it came towards the hunters. Neldrett was with Lloyd Evans, 148 Cottage street, and Jay Jensen, Vinewood, Pontiac. The bear was the party's only prize.

Unknowns Star in Tournament

Name-Bowlers Leading Field, but Dark Horses Surprise at Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Although a pair of well known bowlers were leading the field at the half-way point in qualifying trials for the 16th annual National All - Star Bowling Tournament, spectators were beginning to wonder about the improbable places listed on the standings board.

It was easy to assume that Stan Thaden of Chicago and Marge Merrick of Detroit—a pair of well known bowlers would be leading the field, but spectators and officials found it hard to believe that bowlers from such places as Fern Creek, Ky.; Coon Rapids, Minn.; Twin Falls, Idaho, and Honolulu, Hawaii, would be standing so high in the "world series of bowling."

Thaden, who rolled 1,305 to give him a 12-game total of 2,544, and Miss Merrick, who shot 818 Sunday to go into the lead with 1,584, are veterans of the All-Star Tournament, but Jim Spalding who hails from Fern Creek, Ky.; Frances Klein from Honolulu; Bernice Weidell from Coon Rapids, Minn., and Bertine Langdon from Twin Falls, Idaho, are comparative unknowns in the ten pin sport.

Mikes Win Easily, 58-27

St. Agatha proved to be an insufficient test of St. Michael's strength Sunday afternoon at the St. Mike gymnasium when the Shamrocks walloped the Detroiters, 58-27, in the opening game of the 1956-57 basketball season.

St. Mike outscored the visitors in every quarter and held a 24-17 lead at halftime.

St. Agatha, coached by Joe Wright, held a brief 8-7 edge in the 1st quarter.

Nine Shamrocks saw action and seven of them scored. Forward Chuck Brown and center Jim Fox were tops with 15 points apiece, Ince was high for the Detroiters with 12 points.

Tom Dabbs scored 15 points and teammate Chuck Steinhelper added 13 as the St. Mike reserves trounced St. Agatha's junior varsity, 48-26.

Army, Navy Tilt 7-7 Tie; Middies Pass Up Bowl Bid

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 1956 Army-Navy football game is almost certain to be remembered as the game of the big fumble.

The experts say in a big game such as Army vs. Navy, one mistake can cost you the game. Army made eight mistakes—fumbles—and survived with a 7-7 tie. They also say the winning team has to be one of opportunists. Navy had at least four opportunities and cashed in on one.

While a tie may be unsatisfactory, both Army and Navy and their coaches, Red Blaik and Eddie Erdelatz, might well feel that in the year of the great fumble, a tie was not only most satisfying, but the only way this game should have turned out.

As Navy flubbed opportunity after opportunity, the Army lead looked like it would hold up. But Army fumbled once too often midway through the fourth quarter. Navy recovered on the Army 27, seven plays later the Middies scored and Ned Oldham converted the tying point.

The Navy decision to turn down the Cotton Bowl bid was announced by Rear Adm. W. R. Smedberg, academy superintendent, who told the squad in the dressing room that he did not think it in the best interest of the Navy to accept a bowl bid after the tie.

Hall Whitewashes Canadiens

Wings' Goalie Collects First Shutout of Year

Bill Dineen Returns to Action for Game-Winning Point

DETROIT (AP) — It was a long time coming but goalie Glenn Hall of the Detroit Red Wings had his first shutout of the season today.

Hall, who led the National Hockey League in shutouts last season with 13, was the only regular goalie in the loop without that distinction this year.

That is, until last night. The young net minder turned back 18 shots as the Wings blanked the Montreal Canadiens 1-0 before 13,637 fans at Olympia Stadium.

Dineen had been injured in the season Opener Oct. 11. This was his third game since his return to the lineup and he was getting only limited play.

The Wings needed last night's victory to keep pace with the league leading Boston Bruins who edged the Chicago Black Hawks 3-2.

Second-place Detroit dropped a stunning 4-0 decision to the fifth-spot Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday. It was the first Leaf victory over the Wings this season.

Plante made 52 saves in last night's hard fought game. He nipped Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay repeatedly.

Season's 1st Cage Foe Was Nightmare for PHS

Catholic Central has lost its entire starting unit from the team which won 14-3 plus a semi-final berth in the state playoffs a season ago.

The Shamrocks however will have five seniors in starting lineup, led by 6-2 center Tom Kramer. Kramer lettered at the forward post last year but the loss of center Dick Skrzycki by graduation prompted Coach Bill Foley to move Tom to the pivot spot.

Versatile Al Moran, 6-feet, and John Edwards, 6-feet-1, will be the Shamrock forwards. Moran, a running star on the football team and the best skater on the hockey team for two years, has not played with the cage team since the 9th grade. Coach Foley however said he expects Moran to be a big key for his court prospects.

"He has so much natural ability, it will be just a matter of a few games before he comes into his own," said Foley.

Foley figures his biggest scoring threat will come from the outside with two speedy and sharpshooting guards, Jerry Teahan, 5-feet-9, and Tom King, 5-feet-10.

Pontiac shackled Catholic Central easily twice during the 1955-56 season, but in the state quarter-finals the Shamrocks whipped the Chiefs handily to end any dreams of a semifinal berth.

Presently the front runners for the forward slots vacated by all-state Willie DeWalt and Rod Treais by graduation are Dick Whitmer, 6-feet-2, and Roosevelt Alexander, 6-feet-4.

Pontiac will waste no time getting into Saginaw Valley Conference action. Friday night the Chiefs travel to Saginaw Arthur Hill for a stern opening league tracas.

NBA Denounces Segregation Law

Louisiana Legislature Urged to Repeal Ban on Negroes in State

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Boxing Assn. condemned the Louisiana sports segregation act yesterday as "completely repugnant to the spirit of America."

The NBA Executive Committee urged the Louisiana State Athletic Commission "to prevail upon the state legislature to repeal this iniquitous statute."

The committee discussed the Louisiana situation before watering down a resolution proposed by Lou Radzienda of the Illinois Athletic Commission which would have expelled the Louisiana commission from the NBA if the sports segregation law were not repealed by the next legislative session.

However the resoluton stated that "unless in the forthcoming session of the Louisiana legislature the law is repealed, the National Boxing Assn. will recommend upon all boxers and managers under NBA jurisdiction to refuse to participate in any boxing or wrestling competition in the state of Louisiana under such offensive law."

All State Cage Teams but MSU Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All of the state's leading basketball teams, except Michigan State, emerged with a victory in Saturday's cage openers.

The University of Detroit, Wayne State and Michigan got off to rolling starts, while the Spartans were falling to a big Iowa State team, 60-53.

Bill Ebben dropped in 27 points for Detroit as the Titans outshot, out - maneuvered and outscored Assumption University of Windsor (Ont.) 75-41.

Ebben was the Missouri Valley Conference top scorer last season. Titan coach Bob Calihan pulled him in the third period and cleared the bench in the lopsided contest.

Ten men broke into the scoring column as Wayne scored a 74-62 victory over Case Tech in a Presidents' Athletic Conference game.

What was to be an easy workout in Michigan's basketball opener turned into a tense, bitter struggle.

The Wolverines, displaying their two vaunted sophomores for the first time, survived 79-68 over pressing Delaware, but it wasn't easy.

The newcomers, George Lee an M. C. Burton looked like veterans, as they scored 50 points between them to just about save the night for Michigan.

"We'll have to look better if we're going to do anything on our trip to Wichita and Nebraska this weekend," he said.

Two other Detroit schools opened their season. Detroit Tech ran up a 77-53 score against Aquinas with Bob Locher hitting for 22 points for the victors. Lawrence Tech, however, went under 99-64 before Adrian.

Tiger Trade for Kell Brews

Majors Begin Drafts

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Chicago Cubs were expected to select a catcher as their first choice in today's annual major league draft at the opening of the 55th minor league convention.

Because of the slim pickings in the thickly padded draft list, baseball men predicted this year's selection of eligible draftees would be even smaller than last year when the big leaguers plucked only 10 minor leaguers for the draft price ranging up to $15,000.

With that thought in mind, major league officials turned to the trade mart in an effort to plug their weaknesses.

The Cubs, direly in need of a first-string catcher, have made no secret of their desire to land Del Crandall, Milwaukee's highly regarded backstop. The Braves, surprisingly enough, are not unwilling to part with Crandall but reportedly have demanded second baseman Gene Baker and pitcher Bob Rush in exchange.

With the exception of the world champion Yankees, who apparently intend to stand pat, all clubs have expressed a desire to complete at least one deal either here or at the major league meetings in Chicago next week.

1. Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles has offered George Kell, veteran third baseman to the Detroit Tigers for pitcher Ned Garver and first baseman Jack Phillips. Manager Jack Tighe of the Tigers said he was taking the offer under advisement.

2. General manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians was prepared to name Eddie Stanky, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, as a coach under newly hired manager Kirby Farrell.

3. Fred (Dixie) Walker, who managed the Rochester Red Wings into the Little World Series last fall, is about to be named skipper of the Toronto club succeeding Bruno Betzel.

4. The New York Giants have asked Milwaukee for outfielder Bobby Thomson, second baseman Danny O'Connell, pitcher Ray Crone and a bundle of cash in return for star second baseman Red Schoendienst.

5. General manager Frank Lane of the St. Louis Cardinals has made a bid for Rush, of the Cubs. John Holland, new boss of the Cubs, has asked for a catcher, first baseman and centerfielder in return.

7. Pittsburgh has offered outfielder Frank Thomas and catcher Jack Shepard to Milwaukee for Crandall.

While the big leaguers were laying the groundwork for possible future deals, the minor leaguers were preparing for their legislative session beginning tomorrow.

Dietz, Burkemo Tied for Ninth at Palm Beach

Profit Taking Lowers Grains

CHICAGO (AP)—A feeling that the international situation had improved over the weekend was a factor in slipping grain prices on the Board of Trade today.

Demand was limited in all pits. Hedging and profit taking caused mark downs of a couple of cents at times. Dealings were active.

Largest losses were rung up in soybeans, which were independently firm last week.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ¼ to 1½ lower, December $2.42¾, corn ⅝ to 1⅝ lower, December $1.36½, oats ⅛ to ½ lower, December 79, rye unchanged to ½ lower, December $1.44, soybeans 1 to 1½ lower, January $2.61¾, and lard 15 cents lower to 2 cents a hundred pounds higher, December $15.77.

17 Lose Lives in State Traffic

Weekend Toll Includes Six Pedestrians Struck by Automobiles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The toll mounted with a double fatality in a car-truck collision on M47 four miles north of Owosso Sunday night. Killed were Fred Klatt, 49, and his son, Theodore, 15, of Corunna.

Traffic fatalities between 6 p.m. Friday and Sunday midnight included six pedestrians.

The percentage of pedestrian deaths usually increases at this time each year. Icy roads, shorter days and the Christmas shopping rush combine to push the death score upward.

The victims included:

Jacob P. Kolinski, 27, of Saginaw County.

George Swierkosz, 78, of Flint, a pedestrian.

Frank E. Estachowika, 38, of Emmett.

Mrs. John Tillson, 45, of Monrice.

Louis Vretos, 59, of Detroit, a pedestrian.

Roy A. Post, 51, of East Detroit.

Fred A. Bruske, of Waterford.

Mrs. Marie Tyler, 55, of Durand and Thomas Beachum, 18, of Swartz Creek.

Angelo J. Nicotra, 31, of Roseville.

Richard Sabo, 21, of Detroit, a pedestrian.

Robert Tobie, 54, of Detroit, a pedestrian.

Clerk Shoots Bandit Fleeing After Holdup

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— A holdup man fleeing from a pawn shop with $227 in cash was shot to death by a man who learned how during World War II.

A. R. (Al) Stevens, 45-year-old ex-GI who clerks in the pawn shop told police he was an army sniper and learned how to shoot in the dark at Anzio, Italy.

Stevens felled the bandit, William George Bayes, 35, of Charlestown, in a dark alley. Stevens said he shot in self defense when Bayes went for the revolver he had taken from the pawn shop.

Detectives Probe Unarmed Robbery

Oakland County detectives today are continuing their investigation of an unarmed robbery of an elderly man reported to have occurred late Sunday morning in Avon Township.

William Christenson, 78, of 2991 Hamlin Rd., has given varied stories as to how much he actually lost in the robbery. According to Det. Leo Hazen, the man first said he had $400 in cash and checks taken and later changed his mind and said the total amount stolen was about $2,000.

Christianson told county officers the incident happened at a dump he operates on his farm when a man about 25 years of age approached him about buying some old oil drums.

He said he took out his wallet to make change for a $20 bill when the man grabbed the wallet and ran away.

Just Hates Haircuts —Not Elvis Presley

LOS ANGELES (INS) — Superior Judge Burnett Wolfson has nothing against Elvis Presley — it's just that haircut.

The jurist exploded against "these punks with these Elvis Presley haircuts which make them look like sheepdogs" during the trial of a Los Angeles teenager charged with transporting Marijuanna. He said:

"It is rather a strange situation that in all of these cases every one has one of these haircuts."

Judge Wolfson said:

Killed in Turnover

FRANKLIN, Ga. (AP) — William Slechta, 70, of New Buffalo, Mich., was killed yesterday when the car in which he was riding went down an embankment and overturned about a mile north of Franklin on U. S. 27, the state patrol reported.

Steels, Oils Lead Advances

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — Steels and oils again paced the stock market to an advance in brisk early trading today.

The high-speed ticker tape ran a minute behind in reporting the rush of trading but caught up within four minutes.

The steels and oils were resuming their improvement of Friday. Prices were bolstered, brokers said, by the optimistic statements of Secretary of State Dulles on the Middle East and by the United States plans to help Europe with oil supplies.

Bethlehem Steel was up 2⅞ at 180½ on 7,500 shares, continuing its rise on last week's news of a 4-for-1 stock split proposal. Gulf oil rose 2½ at 107 on 4,000 shares, Royal Dutch 3¼ at 95¼ on 4,000 and Benguet was unchanged at 1⅝ on 10,000.

Alleghany Corp. dropped ⅞ at 6¾ on 7,000 shares as it announced an appeal of the SEC move blocking the firm's proposed exchange of convertible preferred for its outstanding 5½ per cent preferred.

Most leading rails were up fractionally. Boeing and United Aircraft gained a point or so. Coppers were up a point or more. Domestic oils posted gains ranging to a point or more. Motor issues were steady or up fractions. Chemicals showed a mixed tendency.

Other opening blocks included General Electric up ½ at 59¾ on 1,500 shares, International Paper up ¼ at 103¾ on 1,400 and Anaconda up ½ at 73¾ on 1,100.

For Want of a Wire!

TOKYO (INS) — Somebody who needed a piece of wire badly last night disrupted telephone and telegraphic communications between Sapporo, the biggest city on Japan's northernmost island of Hokkaido, and the rest of the island.

The unknown thief stole five feet of telephone cable.

CROCKETT, BOONE GET THEIR FOX — Woodsmen David, 15, and Ira Jackson, 17, literally ran down a fox yesterday in a three-hour chase through fields, swamps and woods near Ortonville. Spotting it with its foot injured in a trap, the boys chased it until they cornered it in a garage, then clubbed it to death. "I sure had sore feet," Ira said today.

Diphtheria War Begins Today

Inoculation Teams to Immunize Children in Critical Areas

DETROIT (INS) — The war against diphtheria began today as special inoculation teams of doctors and nurses undertook the job of immunizing school children in the most critical areas of Detroit.

City Health Department officials hope to inoculate over 50,000 children in 99 schools before the Christmas recess Dec. 21.

Health Commissioner, Dr. Joseph G. Molner, said physicians, nurses and clerks have been enlisted in the battle and many private physicians and nurses, some retired, have volunteed.

The teams are using needles and syringes stockpiled for the Salk Polio Vaccine campaign in the spring of 1935.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, State Health Commissioner, said Detroit has been supplied with 7,500,000 units of diphtheria antitoxin and 84,650 doses of diphtheria toxoid during November. The antitoxin is used for immediate, but temporary protection while the toxoid is needed for long-term protection.

Seven new cases, including one located outside the "critical" Grand Boulevard area, were reported during the weekend, bringing the year's total to 129. So far five have died from the disease compared to one death and only 18 cases in all of 1955.

Hearing Halted in Drain Suit

Troy, Southfield Seek to Be Released From 12-Town Project

Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland today adjourned a hearing in the Twelve Town Drain lawsuit brought by Troy and Southfield against the project to Jan. 8.

The hearing had been scheduled for Dec. 8.

Troy and Southfield are seeking to be released from the $35,500,000 relief drain project, claiming their assessments are disproportionate to the benefits they would receive.

Harry J. Merritt, county corporation counsel, asked the adjournment. Merritt has proposed amending complaints already filed with the court in an effort to streamline procedures of getting a supreme court ruling on constitutional questions involved.

DeSoto Prepares Boost in Hours

DETROIT (AP)—DeSoto Division of Chrysler Corp. is preparing to put its workers on a nine-hour day, and possibly a six-day week.

Vice President L. Irying Woolson, announcing the move yesterday, said the overtime assignments are necessary to hike production and meet the demand for 1957 models.

Woolson said it was the first time since shortly after World War II that DeSoto has gone on an overtime production basis.

During the past two weeks, he said, assembly lines worked at near capacity with output "exceeding 12,000 monthly."

"This number will now be increased considerably," he said.

Dividends

CLEVELAND (AP)—Directors of Eaton Manufacturing Co. have declared an extra year-end dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Dec. 21 to shareholders of record Dec. 10. It will bring payments for 1956 to $3.50 a share compared with $3 in 1955.

Leap From Truck Caused Boy's Injury

Witnesses, in response to a police appeal in The Press for information about the incident at W. Montcalm and Summitt streets, notified local authorites of seeing the youth get hurt when he jumped from a truck.

Arthur Monroe, of 298 W. Columbia Ave., has been under treatment at Pontiac General Hospital for a concussion since the incident. He reportedly jumped from the back of a truck being operated by John Hon, 34, of 247 W. Rutgers St., who told police he had no idea the boy was on the truck.

Three Persons Injured in 2-Car Smashup

Three persons received minor cuts and bruises when two cars collided in front of a Waterford Township market Saturday afternoon. All were treated and released by Pontiac General Hospital.

The injured were drivers William P. Keeler, 18, of 40 Dwight St., and James R. Crandall, 39, of 6940 Williams Lake Rd., Waterford Township, and Crandall's wife, Neva R., 38.

According to Waterford police, Crandall said his car was struck on the side as he was driving into the market parking area. Keeler told investigators he could not stop in time when Crandall cut across the road in front of him.

Crackdown Hits Balloon Peddlers at Yule Parade

Pontiac police cracked down on balloon peddlers without city licenses at Saturday's Christmas parade, making three arrests, Chief Herbert W. Straley said, and scaring off several others.

Straley, who made two of the arrests himself, said the crackdown came after information peddlers without licenses had sold balloons at a previous parade last month.

The three men, all of Detroit, pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum and paid $30 fines.

Saint Helm Pleads Guilty

Charged With Murder After Serving Time for Two Others

Saint Helm, 57-year-old former Pontiac man, charged with a 1924 killing after serving sentences for two other murders, this morning pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the third, before Circuit Court Judge Clark J. Adams.

Helm was accused of the first degree murder of Cora Wickwire at 56 Wessen St.

Before Pontiac Municipal Court Judge Cecil B. McCallum last week, a mother and daughter, now living in Ann Arbor, testified they saw the knife slaying.

Mattie Watkins and Mary Corley testified that Helm twice stabbed the woman in anger.

After the testimony, Helm was bound for today's arraignment in Circuit Court. Sentencing date was not immediately available.

Helm was arrested after his recent release from the State Prison of Southern Michigan where he had finished the remainder of a sentence for a 1918 shooting here.

He also served time in New York for a 1926 killing.

Business Briefs

Appointment of F. James McDonald as works manager of Detroit Transmission Division of General Motors, Ypsilanti, has been announced by General Manager O. W. Habel. The appointment is effective December 1.

McDonald has been manager of Central Foundry Division's Defiance, Ohio, plant since April 1, 1955, and previously was factory manager of that division's Saginaw plant.

Dulles Optimistic About Mideast

Says Peace Prospects Have Improved Greatly in Past Month

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles believe prospects for peace in the trouble-ridden Middle East "are now reasonably good."

Dulles, returning to the job after a month's convalescence from intestinal surgery, put it that way at the conclusion of a two-hour review of the general international picture with the President here yesterday.

"Certainly I think anybody must be indeed far gone in pessimism if he thinks the danger of the war in the Mideast area today is as great as it was a month ago," Dulles told a news conference.

But both Dulles and the President believe steps are necessary to bolster the North Atlantic Alliance, which they agreed has been strained as a result of differences between the United States on the one hand and Great Britain and France on the other in the Middle East crisis.

They also agreed that need for "unity and strength" of that alliance, fashioned to check the threat of Communist aggression has been "tragically demonstrated by Soviet action in Eastern Europe, particularly in Hungary."

That was a reference to Russian terrorism which crushed a revolt in Hungary and sent more than 100,000 residents fleeing into Austria.

Begin Collection of County Taxes on December 10

Bills totaling $1,798,000 — Pontiac's share of the 1956 county taxes — will go in the mail Friday, according to Walter A. Giddings, city treasurer.

Taxpayers may begin payment Dec. 10 at the City Hall, 35 S. Parke St., through Jan. 21, 1957 without penalty. After that date, 4 per cent fees will be tagged on through Feb. 28.

On March 1, all delinquent taxes, including 1956 city and school tax will be turned over to the county treasurer for collection.

"Once again we urge Pontiac taxpayers to make their payments early to avoid the penalties," Giddings stressed.

The treasurer's office is on the first floor of the City Hall and is open five days a week from 8 a.m. until 5. Parking is provided at the rear of the building.

Drop in Car Sales Reduces Sales Tax

LANSING (AP) — A slump in cars sales resulted in a three per cent drop in the combined sales and use tax for November, the state revenue department reported today.

Louis M. Nimms, State Revenue Commissioner, said the November collections totalled $26,802,951, down from $27,699,000 the previous month.

"The tax on automobile sales was down during the month but other business increased by about $700,000," Nimms reported. "Auto sales taxes dropped $1,600,000 from the previous month."

The state cigarette tax yield for November was $2,377,000, a slight increase. The business activities tax netted $6,702,000.

Spirit of Christmas Is Many Things in Many Lands

By AILEEN SNODDY

Santa Claus is a continental old chap with a flair for changing reindeer, costumes and his name from nation to nation.

As "Pere Noel" he rides a mule in his visits to homes of children in France. But, as in America, he is expected to come down the chimney.

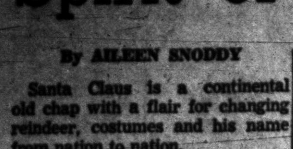

According to Pierre Chevalier, a United Nations press officer, French tots are tucked in bed early Christmas Eve. Thus they miss the "reveillon" or tradtional dinner with which Gallic adults greet Christmas. It comes in the wee hours of Christmas morn, after midnight Mass.

As "Jule Mande" or Christmas Man he pulls into Denmark where he may be greeted by the goblin or "Nisse." The Nisser (many Nisse) have been attached to Danish homes for more than 100 years. Mischievous sprites, they are about the size of Santa's helpers.

As goblins they represent the supernatural beings who were part of early Danish festivals when Christmas celebrations were midwinter festivals of pagan peoples.

In Scandinavia the "god of golden sunshine" known as Jule or Yule once was honored. Hence our name, Yuletime.

This costume is put on, Mrs. Ole Hanamm of Parkway Village, New York, explained, two days before Christmas, two days after Christmas and at New Year's.

In reminiscing about her Christmas days in Denmark, Mrs. Hanamm described the Jule Mande's dress. No respectable Jule Mante would be caught without a red tunic to his knees, gray trousers and boots.

Mrs. Hanamm pointed out how the German custom of the Christmas tree has spread to other countries.

In Denmark the tree is strung with live candles—alternating white and red. Small flags also fly in garlands around the tree. These flags are handed down from mother to daughter.

Another European added his memories of Christmas: Dr. Bohdan Dobias, formerly of Czechoslovakia, said Czech trees also glowed with candles. Added to the candle light are chocolates wrapped in colorful paper, glass decorations, nuts and fruits.

"Kezisek" or Jesus brings gifts to the impatient Czech children at the family party on Christmas Eve. But Czech children squirm because in Czechoslovakia the custom is to sing many carols around the tree, before presents are unwrapped.

The tree stands until the New Year and singing and dancing around the tree are nightly features. Then the children literally eat up the tree. The decorative candy, nuts and fruits are popped into eager mouths before a tree crowns the trash pile.

In the Dobias household there will be a choice of how to celebrate the Christmas season this year. Mrs. Dobias is from Peru. In Peru, she explained, the season is topsy-turvy and Santa probably would prefer bathing trunks to red flannel longies.

Along coastal Peru, for example, the thermometer may shoot to the 80s, she said. Of course, there is snow in the mountains at Christmas-time but the "bachamancas" or holiday picnics are often celebrated at the beaches.

Mrs. Dobias called Christmas in Peru a holiday for children. There is no tree and the general exchange of gifts isn't observed.

On Christmas Eve hot chocolate and paneton—bread with fruits and nuts—are served. Then the Misa de Gallo or Mass of the cock, she continued, is observed.

Before going to bed the children place a shoe under pillow or at the door. Into them go toys, cars and dolls.

Peruvian children are told to be good so Nino Jesus will bring toys. The sixth of January is like another Christmas for children in Peru, she explained. Those who didn't receive gifts at Christmas probably will find some then.

For the Peruvian Indians, Christmas may be a little bare. But the Birth of Christ is a great day of celebration and rejoicing for them.

In the smal towns high in the Andes families complete with their "nacimientos"—scenes of the Virgin Mary, Joseph and the Child. On Christmas Day villagers go from house to house to gaze at the beautiful nacimientos of wood, clay and plants, according to Mrs. Dobias.

The bachamancas or holiday picnics of Peru date from the era of the Incas. At the beach parties food is cooked in a pit lined with hot stones and covered with dirt.

A popular dish, papas a la huancaina, or potatoes baked in hot stones, includes a variety of meats. Also, beef, pigs or chickens are cooked in the pit. It takes about an hour and a half to cook this way and the picnickers dance around the pit and sing. Then everyone sits on the ground to feast.

In true French tradition, the Christmas party season lasts from December 1 to February 15. Family gifts may be given on New Year's Day instead of December 25.

The Arbre de Noel, Christmas tree, is an indoor display. The French do not like their trees to be decorated out-of-doors, Mr. Chevalier said.

Nearer the North Pole and on his last lap, Santa will spot young boys of Iceland dressed in scarlet as elves and dwarfs.

For 12 nights before Christmas these imps come down from the mountains to drop a little gift in children's shoes. Each child leaves one shoe in a prominent place—a window sill or doorstep—for his 12 little gifts.

Then there is the Christmas Cat of Iceland. One gift, tradition has it, must always be of wearing apparel. If something new to wear is not received, a big ugly, black cat will come and 'take you far, far away," grandmothers warn Icelandic offspring.

So with all of its religious significance, Christmas has a slight pagan hangover.

GIFT WRAPPING — This job can be delegated to the younger generation. This gal's imagination came up with a three-dimensional tree design topped with a fluffy bow. Zany clown on floor makes clever wrap for child's gift.

Rochester Resident Injured in Accident

A Rochester man, Lee Sumner Jr., 30, of 402 Second St. suffered forehead cuts, Pontiac police said, when his car rammed a fire hydrant early Sunday on Auburn avenue near Seward street.

Sumner, who was treated at Pontiac General Hospital, said another car forced him off the road, police added.

The City of Pontiac Ordains:

Section 1:

The Building Inspector of the City of Ponti: is hereby authorized to require the establishment of street and sidewalk grades in any locatio in the City of Pontiac where, in his opinion, such established grade is necessary and needed before the issuance of any Building Permit.

Section 2:

All grades for streets and sidewalks shall be established by the Engineering Department of the City of Pontiac with the approval of the City Manager. The grade so established shall be filed in a permanent record in the Engineering Department of the City of Pontiac.

Section 3:

Whenever the Buildine Inspector shall deem it necessary and advisable to establish street and sidewalk grades in any location he shall make his request in writing to the City Engineer and the Engineering Department of the City of Pontiac shall promptly proceed to establish such grades and make them available to the Building Inspector by written report in accordance with the provisions of Ordinance No. 685. Whenever such determination of grade has been requested no Building Permit shall be issued until such grade is established nor shall any person, firm or corporation construct any dwelling or building on any property in the City of Pontiac abutting on any public street before the street grade is furnished by the Building Inspector.

Section 4:

Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be subject to a fine of not more than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or to imprisonment in the Oakland County Jail for a period not to exceed ninety (90) days, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Section 5:

All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 6:

This ordinance shall take effect ten (10) days from and after its passage by the City Commission of the City of Pontiac.

Made and passed by the Commission of the City of Pontiac, Michigan, this 29th day of November, A. D. 1956.

WM. W. DONALDSON, Mayor

ADA B. EVANS, City Clerk

In Memoriam 2

BANE — In loving memory of Clara Jean, who passed away December 3, 1955.
You're not forgotten Jeannie Dear,
For never shall you be,
As long as life and memory last,
We shall remember thee.
Sadly missed by cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Deaver.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF JOHN H. Jennings, who passed away Dec. 2, 1954.
So many thoughts of you we treasure,
To see you would be such a pleasure,
To hear your voice and see you smile,
And have you with us all the while.
Sadly missed by wife Grace and Family.

Declines Colonel Offer; Doesn't Go for Hats

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Thomas Hart Benton, the artist, has declined an appointment as an honorary colonel on the staff of Gov.-elect James T. Blair Jr., because "I just don't go for those funny hats."

"As a colonel you have to buy a uniform with a hat that has feathers on it," Benton explained.

"I'm a colonel in the Confederate air force and it's a job I like," he added. "All I have to do to keep the rank is eat cornbread. I'd be a colonel for Jim if all I had to do was drink Missouri cider."

Vallee Will Star in Friday Show

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS) — CBS-TV wants Gene Fowler's John Barrymore biography, "Good Night, Sweet Prince," for a "Playhouse 90" performance . . .

Rudy Vallee will star in "Jenny Kissed Me" Friday on NBC's Matinee Theater. It's by Jean Kerr, a delightfully literate chatterbox on Jack Paar's program not too many smiles ago.

Roy Rogers gets $100,000 for a Chevy spectacular Feb. 22 from Houston, Tex., sort of over Dinah Shore's dead body. Dinah wanted that date for one of her own bright Chevy showings, but the sponsor mollified her by adding a June 6 date to her schedule.

The talk around CBS is about Gleason quitting weekly TV shows next season to concentrate on a few big specs a year. And will Art Carney get a show of his own?

RED TRIES AGAIN

Not only will "Mama" return to TV Dec. 16 but it probably will ring in the season's first TV Christmas tale, an affectionate Scandinavian fantasy about animals talking on Christmas Eve.

If NBC Opera's "War and Peace" picks up a sponsor, an extra $7,500 in royalties goes to Russia (for the Prokofieff music) . . .

OLD SWEET SONG

Cutiepie Jill Corey's Columbia Records' hotcake, "I Love My Baby," was written by Harry Warren in 1925—10 years before she was born . . .

Jack Lemmon's very pretty wife Cynthia has returned to the acting career (they're splitting up) which she quit when Jack became a screen star. She's doing well in TV films.

Five of the nine young comedy writers NBC signed a year ago now are assigned to regular NBC-TV shows . . . One's with "Stanley," three with "Washington Square," and one with "Tonight" . . . None of which assignments could precisely be considered job insurance.

Woman Escapes Desert Burial

Grandmother Digs Out of Grave in California; Police Hold Two

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Survival of a wealthy grandmother alone on the desert under 110-degree heat without food, water or clothing figures in the trial of two women starting today.

They are charged with kidnaping Mrs. Ruth E. Latham, 52, last Sept. 12 from her expensive San Diego home and attempting to bury her alive in Imperial County desert country east of here.

The defendants are Mrs. Beatrice Victoria Winn, 57, and Mrs. Lucille M. Whisenand, 36.

Mrs. Latham, associated in investment and real estate business with her husband George, said she pushed aside rocks which had been piled upon her in the shallow grave.

She had been beaten and stripped naked.

She staggered and crawled five miles across the desert, shielding her body from the blazing sun with tumbleweed and other sparse growth, she said. It took her 24 hours.

Mrs. Winn is involved in a civil suit with the Lathams over control of a building supply concern of which she was formerly manager.

Coed Paradise

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Vanderbilt University now has three male students for each coed.

"It won't be long," remarked Vice Chancellor Madison Sarratt, "until we can promise every girl who comes to Vanderbilt not only a diploma—but a husband!"

A Wounded Cougar Jumps Deer Hunter

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Deer hunter Kirby Allen escaped with a scratched neck, torn coat and damaged gun stock when a wounded cougar jumped him.

Allen said he shot and wounded the big cat while hunting deer in the Wasatch mountains.

He stalked the cat for a short distance when it turned and tore into him, then fled.

"It was all over before I had a chance to get scared," said Allen.

Kentucky Home Is Too Much for New Yorker

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The nostalgic strains of "My Old Kentucky Home," apparently were too much for a New Yorker.

A man identifying himself as Emmett Francis O'Rourke telephoned the police station from New York, played a recording of the song and then asked to speak to "somebody in Kentucky."

Switchboard operator Jean Baxter told him she, of course, was in Kentucky and asked whom he was calling.

"Just anybody in Kentucky," said the voice. "You'll do."

After six minutes of long distance music—and little else—the call was cut off.

Windshield Safety Test

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A committee of the Wisconsin Medical Society is going to peer through the tinted windshield situation to see whether it can spot some contributing factors to highway accidents. They plan to determine whether the color prevents effective vision by drivers.

Christmas Trees Grow Into $60 Million Business

NEW YORK (NEA)—By Christmas Eve this year, Americans will have bought, braced, tinseled, festooned and lighted 30 million Christmas trees.

And into the pockets of lumbermen, trainmen, truckmen and salesmen will go the cost of U. S. evergreen decor—$60 million.

In 1955 families paid from $4 to $6 for trees that swept close to the home ceilings.

As hallmarks of the Christmas spirit, gaily-bedecked trees are a tradition few families ignore. Use of a tree as part of the festive setting has grown since the Eighth Century when a missionary in Germany replaced sacrifices to the idols with decorated trees in honor of the birth of the Child.

Today, the U. S. states bordering Canada, with the exception of North Dakota, grow about 75 per cent of America's Christmas trees.

One leader in the Christmas tree industry, Roy Halvorson, brings more than a million diminutive holiday trees out of the forest wilds of northern Minnesota each year.

Depending on the section of the country, the Christmas tree may be Douglas fir, balsam, fir, black spruce, red cedar, white spruce and Scotch pine.

And if you are worrying about depleting our evergreen tree resources, don't. Foresters and conservationists agree that most trees cut for holiday use would have to be cut anyway to make room for other trees to mature.

HARVEST TIME — As the Christmas season nears a cutter carries trees out of the forest to corduroy roads. There they are picked up by sleds and headed to market.

2 Prisoners Escape, Another Is Caught

JACKSON (AP) — Two Southern Michigan prison trusty's escaped and another was caught yesterday.

The escapees from the Dalton Work Farm near the prison were Mexico Leonard, 23, sentenced last May to 1-15 years and Charles Friedline, 23, sentenced in 1951 to 3½-15 years. Both were sentenced from Monroe County for breaking and entering.

Caught was J. P. Morgan, who escaped July 27 from the prison's disposal plant. Morgan, 27, sentenced from Detroit to 2-15 years for breaking and entering in November, 1955, was caught by local police at Chelsea, 15 miles west of Ann Arbor, where officers spotted a stolen car in front of a home occupied by Morgan's relatives.

He was nabbed as he left the home and was returned to the prison last night.

Auto Plunges Downhill as Driver Keeps Cool and Saves Lives

WINDSOR, Conn. (AP)—Down the hill it came, hitting 70 or 75 miles an hour — a car gone crazy.

At the wheel, Cynthia Moran, 17, pounded furiously with her foot on the brake. Her 14-year-old brother David sat frozen to the front seat.

Crowds just a few blocks ahead were crossing Broad Street heading for church. Traffic Patrolman Robert Christensen was directing them across.

Something had happened to the car at the top of the hill. Suddently the engine had roared up and the car spurted ahead.

Cynthia couldn't stop it. The brakes didn't hold. She couldn't get the gears into neutral. Nothing happened when she turned off the ignition.

Patrolman Christensen shouted at the crowds to get out of the way.

Cynthia came to the intersection and by then managed to jam the gears into reverse. The car jolted and spun around, then slammed into Albert Turgeon's car, coming the other way.

The cars, hooked bumper to bumper, began to move again — in a slow, crazy circle. Christensen hopped onto the car Cynthia had been driving and pulled the wires from the coil in the engine, stopping it.

Police said they believed the linkage between the gas pedal and the carburtor in Cynthia's car had stuck.

"She did a remarkable job of handling the car," they said.

Early Yule Cards

Although Louis Prang of Boston is credited with creating the first commercial Christmas card in 1875 the practice of sending such cards was a fixture in England for 10 or 15 years prior to that time.

Prang, well known as a lithographer, produced cards of exceellent quality and design considered superior to the British. His cards became popular at once and dominated the market until 1890.

Birds' Yule Dinner

A quaint custom of the Norwegians is the practice of giving, on Christmas Day, a special dinner for the birds. On Christmas morning, every gate and barn door is decorated with a sheaf of corn place high on top of a pole. This is the birds' Christmas dinner.

Settle UAW Strike Just Before Deadline

FLINT (AP) — A treatened strike by 2,700 united auto workers at General Motors Corp. Fisher Body Division stamping plant at nearby Grand Blanc was settled 30 minutes before strike dehdline yesterday following a 40-hour marathon bargaining session.

UAW Local 581, which served strike notice last Tuesday, said the issues were over wages, seniority rights and working conditions.
