Navy Stalls Quiz of Pueblo's Crew

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Navy officials changed their minds today and decided to delay until tomorrow the start of intensive interrogation of the 82-surviving USS Pueblo crewmen. That left a full day today for medical examinations.

The crew was restricted to two buildings for an estimated ten days of the examinations and debriefing.

Related Stories, Page A-9

One building contains sleeping quarters. The other, 20 yards away, is the pink-hued RX Club, the cafeteria-lounge where the crew and their families have spent most of their first two days at the U.S. Naval Hospital here.

The Navy refuses to describe the debriefing procedure, except to say the crew will be questioned about all phases of its conduct from capture through release.

CAREFUL REPORTS

Until the completion of the debriefing and a subsequent inquiry, described by the Navy as routine, crewmen have been advised not to discuss details of their experience with outsiders and to be guarded in what they tell their families.

Their relatives' main impressions thus far have been that despite reports of brutal treatment by the North Koreans the crewmen's spirits are high.

★ ★ ★

Physically, however, the men are changed. They lost from 20 to 40 pounds each. From their families' accounts, all were beaten at least once, and some may have been tortured.

Officials tried to stay in the background yesterday, providing what they called "a good old-fashioned Christmas" for the crew and families.

★ ★ ★

The crew's full 11-month pay was made available, and the sailors withdrew an average of $448 cash each. The post exchange was open and the crew bought presents — cameras, watches, toys, dolls, and a bow and arrow set.

DEBRIEFINGS 'NORMAL'

After the debriefings, the crew is to receive several days' liberty in the San Diego area. Then a court of inquiry into the Pueblo incident will open at naval amphibious base at Coronado, Calif. Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen will be presiding officer.

Such an inquiry, said Capt. Vincent Thomas, Pacific fleet public information officer, is "routine in all major incidents involving Navy ships."

Pseudo Preacher Surrenders in Girl's Abduction

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — Anthony Erthell Williams, charged with abducting blonde 10-year-old Pamela Powers on Christmas Eve, turned himself in to police today, but the girl remained missing.

MISS POWERS

Desk Sgt. Ernest Lester said a young man walked into the police station and said, "I'm Anthony Erthell Williams. I understand you're looking for me."

Detective Lt. John Ackerman said there was no doubt the man was Williams, a self-proclaimed minister who walked away from a state mental hospital in Fulton, Mo. in July.

Police charged Williams with child stealing after Pamela, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Powers, of Des Maines, disappeared from a junior high school wrestling tournament at the Des Moines YMCA.

'GENTLEMAN — TO US'

"He's very calm and cool," said Ackerman of Williams. "He's very polite and well-dressed and clean. And he's a gentleman, to us anyway. He knows his rights and has decided to remain silent."

Meanwhile, authorities searched snow-covered countryside near Grinnell, Iowa, 40 miles east of Des Moines, where bloodied orange stretch pants and white bobby sox were found in a roadside waste receptacle.

Pamela's distraught father yesterday identified the articles of clothing as those of his daughter.

Pamela has been watching her brother, Mark, wrestle in the YMCA tournament Tuesday and was with her parents when she went off to the lobby to buy some candy. She did not return,

POLICE PAY TAXI

Davenport police said Williams had four cents in his pocket when he turned himself in and police paid a $1 taxi bill for his trip from Rock Island, Ill., across the Mississippi River to the police station.

The search for Williams had centered in Davenport where his car was found abandoned Christmas Day.

Warrant Sought in Orion Slaying

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said today they are seeking an open murder warrant against a 38-year-old Orion Township woman whose husband was killed early Christmas day by a shotgun blast.

In custody is Mrs. Barbara Trudell of 881 Vernita, according to deputies.

She was arrested at the Trudell home about 2:30 a.m. when investigators — who were called to the scene by a neighbor — found her husband, Lyle E. Trudell, 34, dead in the living room.

Deputies said he had been shot once in the head.

GUNS IMPOUNDED

Officers said they impounded three guns, including a 12-gauge shotgun, at the home.

Capt. Leo Hazen, chief of sheriff's detectives, said Mrs. Trudell probably will be arraigned today. He refused to comment on what factors might have led to the incident.

Trudell, a carpenter, died instantly, according to Hazen.

There are five Trudell children ranging in age from 8 to 15 years. Four are Mrs. Trudell's by a previous marriage and the fifth is the victim's by a previous marriage, Hazen said.

Apollo Flies Home on Perfect Course

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Eager to return home after their historic orbit of the moon, the Apollo 8 explorers streaked faster and faster toward the earth today on a perfect course that is to land them in the Pacific Ocean tomorrow morning.

Related Stories, Page A-11

"We're happy to report the earth is getting larger," commander Frank Borman said this morning.

"Looks like you're going to hit the earth instead of Venus," joked astronaut Gerald Carr, the ground communicator.

At that time Apollo 8 was 138,000 miles from earth, zipping along at 3,600 miles an hour.

WELL-RESTED

Air Force Col. Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders reported they were well rested after lengthy sleep periods. It was the best shape they have been in since they started the momentous journey last Saturday.

They were extremely tired after completing 10 orbits of the moon Wednesday, and were told to get as much rest as possible for tomorrow's critical reentry through the earth's atmosphere.

★ ★ ★

The spacemen were in good spirits as they chatted with Carr this morning, receiving the daily news report from the "Interestellar Times," and hearing the latest about their families.

Lovell reported that his star-tracking navigation checks were matching ground computations extremely well.

CORRECTION CANCELED

"Do you want to turn off your radios and come in without us?" queried the ground.

Apollo 8 was on such an accurate course that a second mid-course correction maneuver planned today was canceled. Controllers said the craft would make a slight adjustment just two hours before reentry.

The astronauts are to slam into the heaviest part of the atmosphere tomorrow at 24,700 miles an hour.

If the craft comes in at too steep an angle it could break apart from the tremendous forces exerted on it. If the angle is too shallow, it could skip off the atmosphere, flinging the astronauts deep into space to a point where they would not have enough oxygen to survive another return trip.

Thai No-Man's Land Site of Hope Visit

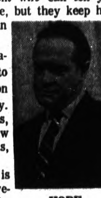
UNMENTIONABLE, Thailand—Today we paid our annual visit to one of the lush resort areas in no-man's-land. They have a travel agent who can tell you all about this place, but they keep him bound and gagged in a closet.



HOPE

The accommodations are enough to make Conrad Hilton wince with jealousy. Spacious quarters, all newly built—new termites, new rats, new snakes.

The vegetation is magnificent — lovely trees, rich mud— it's Connecticut in April. There's no trouble about transportation. No waiting in the stack as at New York Airport. The welcome mat is out—just fly in, get a Band-Aid, and fly right out.

And I don't think I'm giving away any secret information when I tell you this is one helluva show town. They really turned out for our way-off Broadway production. The gals got an ovation that could be heard clear across the Meking River—oops.

QUESTIONABLE COMPANY

That kinda slipped out. The location, while perfect for weather, leaves something to be desired when it comes to the company.

Why mince words. The neighborhood has gone to hell. There's a very low-

Skiers to Delight in Snow Tonight

Pontiac area skiers will welcome the forecast of light snow tonight with warmer temperatures and more snow tomorrow. The thermometer dipped to eight above zero early Christmas morning, a new low for the season.

Temperatures are expected to skid to 15 to 20 tonight and climb into the low 30s tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Snow or snow flurries and turning colder is the outlook for Saturday.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: 30 today, 50 tonight and 90 tomorrow.

Eleven was the low mercury reading prior to 8 a.m. today. The 2 p.m. temperature was 22.

Last Call for Press's First Ski School

Wouldn't you like to glide over the snow with the greatest of ease? The Pontiac Press Ski School can help you accomplish this goal.

Two sessions of a low-cost, four-week course for beginners will be held this winter at Mt. Holly, sponsored by The Pontiac Press.

★ ★ ★

The first session begins Jan. 8. Deadline for signing up for this session is Jan. 1, and its almost full now.

However, there are still plenty of openings for the second session which begins Feb. 5. Each session will meet every Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. for four weeks.

$2.50 PER LESSON

Class lessons are $2.50 each, and a special ski equipment rental price offers skis, boots and poles for $2.25 for the evening. These rates are only for The Pontiac Press Ski School ticket holders.

Certified instructors under the direction of Stan Kosha, head of the Mt. Holly Ski School, will teach the American ski technique to groups of 10.

★ ★ ★

The classes will last an hour, and students may ski on the tickets beyond the class time.

The ski school at Mt. Holly, 13536 S. Dixie, Groveland Township, is open to all persons in The Pontiac Press area.

'Power Struggle' Bodes Ill for County Roads

By JEAN SAILE

What appears to be a power struggle pitting the Oakland County Board of Supervisors against the Oakland County Road Commission spells poor roads for the county.

Set up under state statutes, the road commission is an entity unto itself and not subject to supervisors' domination. There is, however, a county roads committee made up of supervisors to provide liaison with the board of supervisors and the commission.

★ ★ ★

Funds under the present setup are limited.

Next year the commission expects to receive $7.7 million in state gas and weight taxes, another $1.4 million reimbursement from the State Highway Department and $600,000 from other sources.

$245,000 APPROPRIATION

Those other sources include a $245,000 appropriation made by the county board in its budget this year and earmarked by the commission for purchase of additional snow-removal equipment.

They also include the $15,000 set aside by supervisors for the new job of road commission coordinator. The job has never been clearly defined and it is viewed with suspicion by the members of the road commission as a sort of spy-in-the-sky arrangement.

While Oakland County has regularly toted up surpluses over the past few years, there are many citizens, including such organized groups as WHAR (Why Have Awful Roads? and the Oakland County Taxpayers and Homeowners Association, who think some of the surplus money should go to the improvement of roads. And unless this happens, they feel, county-operated roads will deteriorate even further.

The road commission would like to use the county's surplus funds too, but it is apparently loathe to yield any power in return.

COMPLETE ACCOUNTING

What the supervisors indicate they want is a complete accounting of all funds used by the commission.

The commission says it currently furnishes such information, but only in summary form. Commissioners indicate they do not feel they should be any more specific in their accounting for state monies (the source of most of their income).

★ ★ ★

The fact that a former road commission weighmaster was charged earlier this year with embezzlement has been noted.

The commission replies, however, that all accounts are subject to a regular state audit and that the state is the only party to which the commission is fully responsible.

MORE COOPERATION?

There is hope that a more cooperative climate may be attained with the incoming board of supervisors.

An attempt to get an additional mill approved by the voters failed last August.

The road commission, beset by public criticism on the state of its roads, and recognizably short of cash, feels one place to go is to the State Legislature.

A meeting was suggested for next Monday between roads people and area legislators to see if something can be

U.S. Forces Kill 53 Enemy After Cease-Fire Ends

SAIGON (AP) — Resuming offensive operations after a 24-hour Christmas cease-fire, U.S. forces caught more than 200 enemy troops on the move northwest of Saigon and killed at least 53 with bombs, rockets and artillery, the U.S. Command reported.

There were no American casualties.

* * *

The enemy soldiers were spotted in two groups last night and this morning by scouts from the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division leapfrogging in helicopters near the jungled borders of Cambodia.

U.S. planes and artillery went into action in an area 63 miles northwest of Saigon and only two miles from the Cambodian frontier. In addition to the 53 men killed, "numerous secondary explosions were observed," a U.S. communique said, indicating direct hits on ammunition stores.

BACK IN ACTION

The 24-hour allied cease-fire for Christmas ended at 6 p.m. Wednesday. The Vietcong had proclaimed a cease-fire until 1 a.m. Friday, but as soon as the allied truce ended, American bush patrols moved out into night positions, and U.S. B52 bombers swung back into action with four raids during the night.

At dawn today larger allied ground units resumed sweeping operations north of Saigon and in the populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang. A U.S. spokesman said 15 major American offensive operations were under way from the Mekong Delta to the demilitarized zone.

YANK DEATHS DROP

The U.S. Command announced that American combat deaths last week dropped to their lowest total in five weeks — 151, with 838 wounded — despite intensive allied operations to stave off the Vietcong offensive allied intelligence officers say may be shaping up.

A total of 202 South Vietnamese troops were reported killed, 12 more than the week before, while 2,118 enemy dead were reported, an average figure.

U.S. headquarters said that during the 24-hour allied Christmas cease-fire, 133 incidents of enemy activity were reported and 47 were considered significant because casualties occurred.

Terrorists Attack Israeli Jetliner

ATHENS (AP) — Two terrorists attacked an Israeli jet airliner with machine guns and hand grenades at Athens airport today, killing one passenger and injuring at least one.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, the same Palestine guerrilla organization whose members hijacked an Israeli airliner last July, claimed in Beirut that its commandos were also responsible for the attack in Athens.

* * *

Officials of the Israeli El Al Airline, said the two attackers were Arabs who were apprehended by police as they tried to flee.

The airline officials said the two terrorists ran out on the runway as the four-jet Boeing 707 was warming up for a flight to Paris and New York.

The plane was leaving for Paris with 37 passengers and 10 crew members aboard.

GRENADES, MACHINE GUNS

Machine-gun fire ripped into the plane windows and hand grenades blew up under the fuselage.

A fire broke out aboard the plane but was quickly put out.

* * *

A passenger was killed by a bullet in the head. Another was wounded in the back.

It was the second terrorist attack on an Israeli airline in the last six months. Last July 23, three members of a Palestine commando organization hijacked an El Al airliner, diverting it to Algiers.

The two Arabs who attacked the airliner in Athens also scattered pamphlets around the plane.

As an ambulance pulled up to the stalled flame-seared aircraft to take off the casualties, Deputy Premier-Interior Minister Stylianos Patakos arrived for an investigation.

The two terrorists were locked in the small jail at the airport.

Bus Flips, 3 Killed in Pennsylvania

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP)—A charter bus en route from Chicago to a church convention in Washington today veered off the Pennsylvania Turnpike, dropped down an embankment and flipped over, killing three persons.

Thirty-seven other persons on the bus were injured, but most were only jarred.

* * *

The bus was part of a two-bus charter which left Chicago last night and was bound for the convention. The second bus, unaware of the accident, continued down the highway.

"Most of the people were asleep," a woman said, "and awoke when it went off the road."

The bus dropped down a 20-foot embankment, continued for a short distance in an open field, then hit a small mound of dirt and overturned.

Killed in the crash were Bruce Blackman, 14, of Chicago; Mary Owen, 58, of Evanston, Ill.; and Vergie Evans, 76, of Chicago.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Snow flurries are forecast for tonight and tomorrow over a wide area of the nation's midsection from the Rockies eastward through the Ohio valley. Rain and snow are predicted over the Northwest while rain is also expected over the central Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the western Great Lakes. It will be warmer in the East with cooler readings expected in the West.

News Briefs off the Wires

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., announced today his candidacy for speaker of the House. He said he has the greatest respect for Speaker John W. McCormack but that new leadership is required.

Udall became the first announced challenger of McCormack although a number of dissatisfied younger members have been quietly plotting a revolt against the veteran Massachusetts Democrat.

McCormack is 77 and his age is offered as the main argument against his retention of the powerful House post when the 91st Congress convenes on Jan. 3.

3 Feared Dead on Jet

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A Pan-American World Airways 707 jet crashed at Elmendorf Air Force Base here on takeoff early today. The plane, on a charter mail flight, carried a crew of three. Their fate was not immediately known.

The four-engine jet crashed about 6:30 a.m. The plane's destination was not known, but the field is a regular stopover for flights operating between the states and the Far East.

Road Toll Nears Mark

By United Press International

Although Christmas traffic fatalities neared a record mark late yesterday, their number lagged far behind that anticipated prior to the holiday.

The National Safety Council had estimated from 280 to 360 persons would meet death on the highway over the 30-hour holiday. This figure was significantly higher than the record total for a one-day Christmas period set in 1963. That year 226 persons died in traffic mishaps.

Trailer Fire Kills Child

BAY CITY (UPI) — An oil stove in a house trailer exploded into flames early today, claiming the life of an 8-month-old girl in a post-Christmas tragedy.

Officials said the explosion of the faulty oil stove set the house trailer on fire, killing little Sabrina Sue Lambert.

The infant's father, Gary 23, was treated for shock and released from a local hospital while the mother Cheryl, 19, was hospitalized with shock and second-degree burns.

Noted Sheriff Shot

SELMER, Tenn. (UPI) — A legendary lawman who has been shot, beaten and stabbed by criminals in his storied career was slightly wounded Christmas night but gunned down his assailant with a single shot.

McNairy County Sheriff Buford Pusser killed Charles Rush Hamilton after Hamilton wounded him. Pusser's exploits were the object of a song "The Ballad of Buford Pusser."

Autopsy Shows Drug Trace in Employe of Jailed Doctor

An autopsy has turned up traces of sodium pentothal (truth serum) in the brain of a Detroit woman who worked for a Farmington Township physician, now serving a 3-to-5-year prison term for killing another assistant.

CLARK

Oakland County Assistant Prosecutor Bruce Leitman said today that Mrs. Hannah Bowerbank, 63, did not die of natural causes as asserted by Dr. Ronald E. Clark, 57.

Clark was found guilty by a jury June 28 of causing the death of Mrs. Grace Neal of Livonia by giving her an overdose of sodium pentothal.

Leitman will meet Monday with Dr. Richard Olsen, pathologist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, who performed autopsies on both women, and Dr. S. David Kutob, chief toxologist for the Michigan State Department of Health who discovered the sodium pentothal in Mrs. Bowerbank's brain.

'IN PERFECT HEALTH'

"If they can't establish the cause of death we can't issue a warrant," said Leitman. "We do know that she didn't die of a heart attack since the autopsy showed that she was in perfect health." Clark has listed her cause of death as a coronary.

Leitman said that the dosage of sodium pentothal found in the brain of Mrs. Bowerbank was "considerably less" than in Mrs. Neal, which during Clark's trial, was termed "massive."

* * *

Mrs. Bowerbank, who was Mrs. Neal's predecessor in Clark's office, died March 20, 1967. Mrs. Neal, 43, died the following Nov. 3 in Clark's clinic at 30735 Grand River.

Mrs. Bowerbank reportedly died at home, but authorities suspect her body may have been moved there from the clinic.

Her body was exhumed last month for the autopsy and toxology tests.

Clark, although in Southern Michigan Prison near Jackson, still retains his medical license. The State Board of Registration in Medicine has set a Jan. 16 hearing to determine if his licence should be revoked.

Service Station in City Robbed

Pontiac police are seeking an armed bandit who made off with more than $1,000 from a local service station early today.

An attendant at the Boron Station at 749 Featherstone told officers that a man came to the door of the station about 12:45 a.m., brandished a pistol and announced a holdup.

* * *

He said the bandit fired a shot into the door and demanded to be let into the building.

The gunman forced the employe to remove an estimated $1,193 from a safe, then ordered both the victim and his wife, who was waiting for him to leave work, into a rear room, police were told.

* * *

Officers said the victim left the room in time to see the bandit flee in what was described as a late model light-blue Pontiac.

The gunman was described as about 5 feet 8 and 165 pounds, wearing a brown suit and a black coat.

FBI Mum on 'Plot to Kill 9 Justices'

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The FBI today refused comment on a published report a federal grand jury was investigating an alleged plot by five men to assassinate the nine U.S. Supreme Court justices by blowing up their courtroom.

The report was in yesterday's edition of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The newspaper, quoting sources close to the grand jury, said the plot was to have been carried out Nov. 18 but was postponed for unknown reasons.

* * *

The sources said the five men planned to kill the justices because they allegedly opposed the high court's liberal leanings.

The plot was said to involve a former Chicago police officer; a onetime Wisconsin Ku Klux Klan officials; two Akron, Ohio, men; and a fifth man, the sources said.

According to the sources, the plot called for one man to run into the U.S. Supreme Court building in Washington and detonate explosives in the courtroom while the justices were sitting.

Millage Vote for Schools Recommended

BIRMINGHAM—A special election on a proposed 12.75-mill school operating tax package has been recommended by the Birmingham School District's Citizens' Advisory Committee.

Of the total, 7.5 mills would be renewal of an existing levy due to expire June 30. The other 5.25 mills would be added to the present assessment.

In a breakdown of the millage, .85 is necessary to maintain the status quo, according to school officials. Another 1.3 mills would be used for program improvement, including increased remedial staff, increased elementary counselling staff and improvement in the instructional materials.

Also, 2.6 mills could be used for salary improvement, and the remaining half-mill for research and development to investigate new programs, school officials said.

It will be the committee's responsibility to advise the school board on when they think will be the best time to conduct the millage referendum.

A March date is under consideration because it is far enough in advance of upcoming contract negotiations to permit an accurate analysis of the district's economic flexibility, according to a school official.

* * *

If a millage request is rejected, there would be sufficient time to observe the 90-day moratorium restricting the administration from bringing the same issue before school voters.

Sandys Help GIs 'Home'

class type moving down the trail just across the river. They used to move just at night, but since the bombing halt, it's 24 hours a day. Call them what you like — Vietcong, the NLF, Charlies — when they move in, property values just go to pieces, they're not neat . . they're not clean . . and they're not polite. They just don't know how to take care of a country.

* * *

But here, on our side of the river, we have some pretty good guys working for us. Like the Sandys, officially known as the 602nd Special Operations Squadron.

The Sandys are the fellows who fly A1 Navy planes built in 1947. Their job is to locate pilots who have been shot down in enemy territory and to lead the Jolly Greens, the famed rescue choppers, to the scene. According to Lt. Col. John Carlson, of Evanston, Ill., deputy commander of the Sandys, their mission is also to "make the environment hospitalbe for the rescue helicopters." Or to put it another way, annihilate anyone in the area that doesn't look too friendly.

PERFECT FOR JOB

Despite their vintage the A1s are perfect for this job because of their slowness and their maneuverability. However, their slowness also makes them extremely vulnerable to enemy ground fire. As a result, the Sandys have had some harrowing experiences.

Listen to Lt. Don Ewing, of Dayton, Ohio:

"Two days ago, while attempting to pick up a downed pilot in hostile territory, I was trying to destroy the guns that were shooting at us, and while pulling of the target I took a hit from a fairly large caliber gun. That blew a gaping hole in my wing, filled the cockpit with smoke, and set the wing on fire.

"I did all the technical things and got rid of my ordnance to keep that from blowing up the rest of the plane. Then, by sideslipping the aircraft away from the wing that was on fire, I managed to put the fire out and headed for home.

* * *

When I got over the field and attempted to lower gear, I couldn't get the gear down. Fortunately, the Navy A1s have a tail hook for landing on carriers and our runways have an approach ending barrier that is similar to restraining cables on carriers. And that's the way I came in."

Major Tom O'Connor, of Tacoma, Wash., another Sandy, recently had to bail out and landed in hostile territory. He contacted his wing man, who was still above, on his survival radio and a couple of friendly helicopters in the area were able to pinpoint his position.

"The first helicopter was hit and badly damaged and had to leave. The second had to get out of range.

For five hours, O'Connor hid from the enemy he knew was all around him. Finally jets were rushed in and saturated the area, silencing all enemy fire. Then the choppers scooped him up.

Maj. Stu Silver, of Anchorage, Alk, A Jolly Green, considers the Sandys his best friends "because," he says, "those are the people who really hand it out to keep us from getting shot."

* * *

He told of hovering 25 minutes over a badly injured, downed pilot. He said "If it hadn't been for the Sandys throwing everything they had at the Cong, none of us would have gotten out alive."

To both the Sandys and the Jolly Greens, there is no middle ground in their kind of work. As they put it "It's either grief or smiles. Grief when we lose a pilot — smiles when we haul him to safety. But God, how we hate to lose 'em."

20 Are Killed in Christmas Eve Crash of Airliner

AP Wirephoto

RUNNING FOR STRETCHERS—A rescue worker dashes for stretchers (left) while others (right background) remove a victim from the wreckage of an Allegheny Airlines plane that crashed Christmas Eve near Bradford, Pa., killing 20 of 47 persons aboard.

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — A young woman coming home to spend the holidays with her parents. A salesman returning from a business trip for a reunion with his children. Two members of a family of four going to meet relatives on the other side of Pennsylvania.

These are some of the 20 persons killed when Allegheny Airlines Flight No. 736 struck a mountain on Christmas Eve. Twenty-seven others were injured.

Christine Farlow, 20, an only child, left her parent's house in Copeland, Pa., nearly a year ago to take an office job with Allegheny Airlines in Detroit, Mich. She was coming home for Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Farlow were waiting for her at the Harrisburg Airport.

She never met them. Christine was killed when the twin-engine propjet crashed while approaching Bradford Regional Airport, a stop away from the reunion. It slammed into an icy marsh midway up the mountain and overturned.

BONFIRE STARTED

Volunteers in ambulances, trucks, jeeps and snowmobiles rushed to the downed craft. One of the survivors, Ron Van Pelt, 26, of Camp Hill, Pa., started a bonfire to keep himself and the others warm in the 10-degree temperature and its light helped guide the rescuers.

Waiting in Camp Hill, Pa., for Joseph King, were his wife and four of his five children. The fifth, 17-year-old Christine King, was riding in the plane with him.

* * *

The three older King children, a relative said, arrived earlier from Michigan and Detroit for a Christmas gathering.

DIFFERENT ROOMS

Lewis C. Angel Jr., 44, and his son, Lewis C. Angel III, 21, were in the same room Wednesday at Bradford Hospital. The bodies of Angel's wife and daughter were resting in the same funeral home 30 miles away in Kane, Pa.

The younger Angel, a senior at Gannon College in Erie, said the family was going to spend Christmas with relatives in York, Pa.

* * *

Another family was on the plane: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. O'Connor of Grass Lake, Mich. With them were their son-in-law, H. Craig Walz of Wayne, Mich., his wife, Janis, and baby boy, Erin.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor and Walz were killed. Mrs. Walz, 25, and the baby survived.

Train Jumps Track, Blocks M21 Nearly 3 Hours in Lapeer

LAPEER — Traffic on M21 near downtown was blocked for almost three hours Tuesday when a northbound Penn Central freight train engine jumped the tracks.

★ ★ ★

Officials blamed ice on the tracks for the derailment. The engine didn't overturn but blocked both lanes of traffic after leaving the tracks. No one was injured.

★ ★ ★

The engine was pulling about 20 freight cars at a low speed at the time of the mishap. The freight cars remained on the tracks.

The train was headed from Detroit to Midland.

Shelby Twp. Ready for More Talks on Detroit-Water Suit

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Another round of negotiations may be in store in this township's long-standing lawsuit against the Detroit Water Board.

Supervisor Kirby Holmes says that he is ready to negotiate again with representatives of the board in hopes of "getting a shovel in the ground" on a township water system.

"We have areas in the township which need water badly," Holmes asserted, "and we have to get moving as soon as possible."

The suit, which has been dragging on for over a year in Macomb County Circuit Court, came to light again last week when Judge Edward J. Gallagher denied a motion by the board's attorney, George Steeh of Mount Clemens, for a new trial.

2 WEEKS FOR APPEAL

A spokesman for the Detroit Water Departemnt said Gallagher's judgment, however, would be appealed. The department still has two weeks by law during which an appeal may be filed.

The suit against the board, begun in May 1967, alleged that department employes failed to obtain permits before crossing township rights-of-way in laying a 96-inch water transmission line in the west end of the township.

Township attorney Roy W. Rogensues charged in court that it would cost the township $43,000 to tunnel sewer lines under the main where it crosses rights-of-way.

★ ★ ★

The township also alleged in the suit that the department violated a contractual agreement by failing to provide tap-ins at 23 Mile and 25 Mile on the 96-inch line.

COMPENSATION CALLED FOR

Gallagher ruled in favor of the township on both allegations, directing the water department to furnish water at the 24 Mile opning of the line "upon the demand" of the township and to pay Shelby $88,358 in compensation.

The suit was held in abeyance early this year while a water committee appointed by the Township Board negotiated with Gerald J. Remus, department general manager.

At the time — nearly February — Holmes argued strongly for a settlement of the suit out of court, saying that the department had agreed to lay $30,000 worth of water lines at "no immediate cost to the tax payers" if the suit were dropped.

Holmes said that Utica Community Schools Supt. Phillip E. Runkel and local builder Roy Church were participating in the talks with Remus and that if schools, builders and other private township interests would pay for $150,000 worth of lines, the department would install another $150,000 worth free.

★ ★

The Township Board named a four-man committee including the supervisor to negotiate further, but when the committee balked at dropping the suit, Holmes said, the talks broke down.

Edison Vote Set in Keego Feb. 10

KEEGO HARBOR — Voters will decide Feb. 10 whether to approve a franchise allowing Detroit Edison Co. to continue operating in this city for the next 30 years.

★ ★ ★

The franchise gives Edison rights for "erection, construction and maintenance of towers, poles, mains, wires, pipes, conduits, apparatus, etc., requisite for the transmission, transforming and distribution for public and private use."

★ ★ ★

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The city clerk will be in her office Jan. 4, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., for voter registration.

Edison is paying the cost of the election.

Doctor Assails Firm on Vaccine

JACKSON (AP)—An officer of the Michigan State Medical Society has attacked Parke, Davis & Co. for selling about one-third of its first batch of Hong Kong flu vaccine earmarked for the Detroit area to Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Dr. Ross V. Taylor of Jackson, chairman for the society's controlling council, questioned the decision of the pharmaceutical firm to sell about 7,000 doses of the vaccine to the phone company while hospitals and elderly citizens were unable to obtain the shots.

★ ★ ★

First priority for the vaccine should go to elderly patients and the chronically ill, Dr. Taylor said in a letter to Parke, Davis, which has plants in Detroit and Rochester.

★ ★ ★

QUESTIONABLE POLICY

When the first batch was released Dec. 1, the firm announced that distribution would be based on "historical patterns." Sale of the vaccine is not regulated by governmental agencies. The telephone company said it used the vaccine to innoculate key employes in an effort to prevent loss of service.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, said he plans to introduce a bill next month before the legislature giving the State Health Department authority to take over distribution of vaccines or medicine needed on an emergency basis.

★ ★ ★

"It's incredible that one company, like Michigan Bell, could purchase the bulk of the flu vaccine needed around the state, while so many sick and elderly persons have greater need for it.

County Road 'Rift' Ominous

done about getting the county a larger slice of state gas and weight refunds. No meeting has been set; according to the commission.

DISCRIMINATORY?

Paul Van Roekel, county highway engineer, charges that the present distribution formula discriminates against Oakland County—that here roads receive one-third per mile what they do in Wayne County.

★ ★ ★

He admits that Oakland County is in a minority position among it sister counties—and that little help can be expected from that source.

★ ★ ★

What he and three road commissioners do point out, however, is that the minimum needs on major roads call for the spending of $17.5 million per year for the next 10 years.

At the present rate of income, only a small portion of minimum road needs will be met.

Anti-ABM Citizens to Meet

A meeting of citizens opposed to locating Sentinel antiballistic missiles in the metropolitan area is scheduled for Monday in Royal Oak.

Speakers will be Congressman John Conyers, D-Detroit, and Wayne State University physics professor Dr. Alvin Saperstein.

The meeting, slated for 7:30 p.m. at the Royal Oak Tribune Auditorium, is sponsored by Women Opposed to Missiles And Nuclear Warheads (WOMAN).

The group hopes to bring public pressure to bear against those who favor locating the Sentinel ABM missile system in Troy, Pontiac, Avon and Orion Townships.

MISSILE DANGER

"No matter how safe man tries to make the Sentinel antiballistic missile system, there will never be a 100 per cent guarantee of safety," said Susan Grossman, acting chairman of WOMAN. "And being 'pretty' safe is hardly good enough."

"We're going to do everything possible to inform of the risk to our families. We do not want the missiles here," she said.

★ ★ ★

She stated that a malfunction in this area could kill anywhere from 50,000 to 700,000 people, depending on the fallout.

"With each new missile, our nuclear odds get worse. And we are all aware of the near-misses that have already happened with nuclear weapons."

Fire Destroys 3rd Floor of Hotel in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — The third floor of a hotel in this village was destroyed in a Christmas Eve fire, village police reported.

★ ★ ★

According to police, no one was injured in the blaze, which began at 8:16 p.m. in the Ver-Wood Hotel, 54 S. Broadway.

★ ★ ★

Firemen from the Oxford, Addison Township, Gingelville and Rochester departments assisted the Lake Orion department. The fire was confined to the building, police said, and no estimate damage has yet been made.

The cause of the fire is under investigation, according to police.

Troy Sets Sign-Up, Classes for Winter Adult Education

TROY — School district officials have announced the schedule for registration and opening of classes in the adult education winter term.

From Jan. 6-9, Oakland Community College counselors will be available in the Troy High School lobby to conduct preregistration for all college credit courses in the term. Counselors' hours will be 6:30-9 p.m.

The college extension courses will open on Jan. 13.

Registration for all high school courses will take place Jan. 13-14, also from 6:30-9 p.m. Counselors will have information concerning high school diploma requirements. The term will begin Jan. 27.

A total of 101 classes and workshops will be offered during the term, including 38 noncredit courses, six workshops, 14 high school credit courses and 43 OCC extension classes.

New noncredit courses include advanced decoupage, iconage, Bishop sewing (double knit), working mathematics, karate, and beginning and intermediate organ.

A course in novels has been added to the high school credit curriculum and three new courses in a college program of applied management available.

The courses are numerical control, problem-solving in management and business communications. Other newcomers to the college credit curriculum include 14 courses ranging from salesmanship to music appreciation.

Registration may be completed by mail or in person at the adult education office, 3179 Livernois.

Clarion Owner Dies in Florida

AVON TOWNSHIP — Earl M. Seed, owner and publisher of the Rochester Clarion for the past 50 years, died Monday at his winter home in Winter Haven, Fla. He was 70.

Service will be 2 p.m. Saturday at Pixley Memorial Chapel, Rochester, with burial in Mount Avon Cemetery, Rochester. An Elks memorial service will be held tonight at 8 at the funeral home.

★ ★ ★

Surviving are his wife, Frieda; two sons, Charles G. and Donald R., both of Rochester; six grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Seed, of 1450 Livernois, succeeded his father, Charles S. Seed, who founded the Clarion in 1898, as owner and publisher of the newspaper.

★ ★ ★

He was a member of the Michigan Press Association and the National Newspaper Association, a charter member of the Rochester Kiwanis Club and Rochester Lodge No. 2225, BPOE, and a member of the Congregational Church of Rochester.

Memorials may be made to Criterion Hospital.

Traffic Mishaps Kill 7 in State

By The Associated Press

Seven persons were killed in separate traffic accidents in Michigan Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Four lost their lives Tuesday night, and three yesterday.

A former U.S. Naval officer, Coughlin holds a B.S. degree in marine engineering from the Massachusets Maritime Academy.

Dividend Set by Firm

SOUTH LYON — The board of directors of Michigan Seamless Tube Co., 400 N. William McMunn, has declared a quarterly cash dividend of 25 cents per share on the $5 par value capital stock payable Feb. 25, 1969 to stockholders of record Jan. 24, 1969.

Hospital Adjusts Exec Lineup

AVON TOWNSHIP — The top executive lineup for Crittenton Hospital, 1101 W. University, has been reorganized, according to Ormond S. Wessels, president of the board of directors of Crittenton Hospital, Detroit.

In the realignment A. Riley Allen, formerly administrator for the Avon and Detroit hospitals and the Florence Crittenton Maternity Home, was named executive director for all three facilities.

Wessels said that in his new position, Allen will handle long range planning for the hospitals, worked with the medical staff, establish policy and education procedures and handle all public relation for the hospitals.

James H. Duren of Rochester was named administrator of the Crittenton Hospital here, Wessels said.

★ ★ ★

In another appointment, the board named Richard Livernois of Rochester comptroller for all three Crittenton facilities. He will handle business affairs for all the hospitals.

W. Bloomfield Librarian Orders Book by Spouse

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The township library will soon acquire a book that is unique, at least to the head librarian, Mrs. Eunice Tuttle.

The book, "With Benefit of Architect," was written by her husband, architect Edward X. Tuttle Jr.

"The parts I have read are not bad, so I ordered a copy," said Mrs. Tuttle.

The book, published by the Macmillan Co., is a complete guide to client-architect-builder relations, according to its writer.

"I wrote it for those people — many thousands every year — who find themselves involved for the first time. The book is really addressed to everyone who has any say in the form a building will take," said Tuttle of 30801 Northgate, Southfield.

"In 15 years of practicing architecture, I have been involved with perhaps 100 people who wanted a new building built or an old one altered. Every one of those 100 displayed some serious misunderstanding of the role of architects and builders.

"What is worse, every one was also unaware of some of his or her own duties and responsibilities in the building venture," he added.

It's not the fault of the average person that he lacks knowledge of architects and architecture, according to Tuttle.

"It's up to the architect to educate his clients, and I can't understand why a book like mine wasn't written years ago.

Dr. Oaks Says:

Physicians Ill-Prepared to Treat N-Radiation Cases

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is another in a weekly series of articles issued by the Oakland County Medical Society. Dr. Oaks is the collective voice of the society.

Recent events have stimulated much discussion of proposed nuclear-armed antiballistic missiles. Ironically, talk of the ABM system comes during the season of peace on earth.

Current concern is focused on the effects of a nuclear warhead accidentally detonating in our collective back yards. Excluding the political ramifications of whether we should or shouldn't have an ABM network as a security blanket, let's consider some of the facets of this nuclear age.

When it became possible to split the atom in 1942, the nuclear age had arrived. The subsequent source of energy offered the world a tremendous potential.

Had our pursuits been solely peaceful, and they weren't, our present predicament might be considerably lessened. As it is, the world has had to come to terms with nuclear power and its death-dealing effects.

NEVER FACED

To the medical community, a nuclear explosion — accidental or otherwise — would present a situation never before faced and only faintly imagined in a science fiction novel.

The medical responsibility is awesome. To the usual casualties associated with disaster would be added those caused by radiation. The latter is something the physician right now is frankly ill prepared to combat.

In a nuclear explosion, casualties would be thermal — in effect burns — both infra red and radiation; casualties would be traumatic — fractures lacerations, concussion — from the blast.

It is the hazard of radiation that creates the greatest medical problem. The broken leg can be fixed. The cut can be patched. The effects of radiation can be serious and terminal.

100-MEGATON BLAST

Consider for example the detonation of a 100-megaton device, perhaps not yet technically possible. Such an explosion would level all frame structures within a 28-mile radius, and would destroy all brick buildings within a radius of 11 miles. Blast damage would be felt for some 6½ miles.

A lethal dose of radiation would hit an unprotected man up to three miles, and may be more depending on the wind.

The logistics of the medical problem created by such a disaster are obvious. How, for example, do you treat large numbers of injured without facilities? This problem would be insurmountable.

But, what of the greatest problem, namely, to whom shall care be given? This is the most difficult problem.

Immediate lethal effects are not the problem, that person unfortunately is dead. But the individual who has sustained a significant dose of raditaion cannot now be effectively treated, his death will surely follow.

These are the novel problems — many still unsolved — that need to be answered. The answers may well extend beyond the medical community. It may be something we all have to answer someday.

COLUMBUS, Miss. — N. H. Hairston of Flint, Mich., was one of two persons killed late Tuesday near Columbus in a two-car accident on Mississippi 45. The other victim was Lloyd D. Adams, 31, of Jackson, Miss., police said.

Escape Repeated by Prisoner Duo

CHELSEA, Vt. (AP) — Charles Partin, 21, and Guy Huntley, 19, who escaped from the Orange County jail the night before Thanksgiving, but were recaptured, escaped Christmas Eve.

Police said the pair, both of Randolph, used a hacksaw blade to break out of the jail, and remained at large today.

Partin had been convicted of breaking and entering. Huntley was awaiting trial on a charge of breaking and entering, police said.

The first paper money was probably issued in China over 1,000 years ago.

Irate 'Scrooge' Wounds 5

NEW YORK (UPI) — A man strolled into the Green Rooster restaurant in Brooklyn Christmas morning and regaled patrons at the bar while inserting 55 cents into what he thought was the cigarette machine.

It turned out to be a jukebox, and each time the man angrily repeated "I didn't want 'Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer,' I wanted a pack of Camels," it sent the other patrons into fresh gales of laughter.

WOUNDED 5 PERSONS

The man walked out and returned 15 minutes later with a 38-caliber revolver, squeezed the trigger and wounded five persons, one critically.

James London, 28, a truck driver, turned himself in at the Atlantic Avenue police station a short time later. He said he had shot the bar patrons, and handed the revolver to the desk sergeant.

★ ★ ★

Some State Hospital Rooms Unheated

It is unbelievable in this day and age that we could house hospital patients in rooms where there are no heat outlets. But that's what is happening right here under our collective noses at Pontiac State Hospital.

It would be easy to point the finger of blame at the administrators of the local mental institution, but that would be neither fair nor accurate. It would also be inaccurate to paint a picture which implies that all or a majority of the rooms at Pontiac State Hospital are without heat or electrical outlets.

But many ARE.

And we think the State should do something about it immediately. This is something that can't wait for legislative action six months from now—especially from a legislature that has allowed such conditions to exist for many years.

What is needed is immediate action by the State to make funds available to Dr. D. W. Martin, medical superintendent of Pontiac State Hospital, to alleviate these archaic conditions.

★ ★ ★

According to Dr. MARTIN, a program is now underway to equip all rooms with electricity—and even this is a year away from completion. Would it be unreasonable to expect electricity now instead of a year from now?

But the heating plant in a 90-year-old section of the hospital is beyond belief. This section houses an estimated 200 rooms. The inadequacies of the heating system are complex.

Many rooms have no heat outlets at all, but must rely on heat from outlets in the halls. In rooms where there are heat ducts, they are placed near the ceiling, rather than the floor, and much of the heat remains near the ceiling. In other words, heat circulation is poor.

Adding to the problem during winter months is the fact that window casings are in such disrepair in most rooms of this old section, that they freely allow cold drafts to invade patients' rooms. This situation is especially bad when it is windy.

In some rooms, these cracks are temporarily closed with masking tape, or have newspapers stuffed in them.

One result of these conditions is a vast contrast in heat. Halls are almost uncomfortably hot while many rooms are cool. According to attendants on these halls, many of the rooms are uncomfortably cold at night.

In some areas which house patients, large portions of plaster have fallen out of ceilings. Some are under repair and others are still awaiting attention from maintenance crews.

We feel the local administration should be able to arrange maintenance schedules so that leaky window casings can be caulked, thus offering some immediate relief to the situation.

★ ★ ★

However, the real solution is either a modern heating system or simply constructing new buildings to replace these Victorian structures being used to house patients.

Recently, Dr. MARTIN invited 64 legislators to the hospital to show and explain to them his urgent needs for more manpower and better facilities. Three showed up.

The PRESS urges the State Legislature to wake up to this situation which is not only a shame on our state, but a direct contradiction to the advances we have made in recent years in the treatment and cure of mental disorders.

Youth Seeks Higher Learning in Record Numbers

Despite the impression the headlines give, not all the action on campus these days is on the picket lines.

There is a lot going on at the admissions office also.

Enrollment in U.S. universities and colleges has set another all-time record this year — 4,092,234 full-time students, up almost a quarter of a million from last year, according to the national survey conducted annually by Dr. GARLAND G. PARKER of the University of Cincinnati.

If part-time scholars are added, the total comes to 5,521,963. The current survey covers 1,145 accredited four-year schools.

There may be much that needs reforming in the American system of higher education, the most accessible as well as the most extensive in the world, but it remains a vital national asset.

★ ★ ★

And the flaws in Old Main's facade obviously are no deterrent to millions of nondemonstrative young Americans eager to take advantage of what that system has to offer to their own and the Nation's future well-being.

Washington Notebook:

Capitol Is a Garden of Romance

By NOEL GROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Marble walls, cold statuary and breezy corridors may not be movieland's idea of the Casbah and Strom Thurmond may not pass for Charles Boyer, but you could not prove it by pretty Nancy Moore.

When the 66-year-old senator wooed and wed the 22-year-old former Miss South Carolina, it was continuation of a dream that is becoming more a reality in congressional halls. Nobody is about to compare it to Datacom or a swinging singles hangout, but as a matchmaker, Capitol Hill often serves as well.

Especially for female congressional job-seekers who see themselves swept off their feet by a dashing lawyer and becoming part of the Washington social whirl. Last year, four congressmen married secretaries on the Hill. This year, three widowers remarried.

Six eligible young bachelors were elected to the 89th Congress in 1964 and Cupid stung five of them. Some of their tales are the stuff of love novels. Rep. Andy Jacobs (Kansas) married his secretary. Rep. Bill Stanton (Ohio) married a pretty television news reporter who came to interview him.

★ ★ ★

In Thurmond's case, the shapely, blue-eyed Miss Moore joined his staff in 1966 as an intern, while still Miss South Carolina. After a month she returned to her studies, and was back the next year for three months, in which time she dated the aging but physically fit Republican senator. They announced their engagement this past November.

Three eligible bachelors joined the Hill club in 1966, but all are still holdouts. They are Rep. Donald "Buz" Lukens of Ohio, Rep. Sam Steiger of Arizona, and G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery of Mississippi.

Sorry, hopefuls, but the '68 elections didn't broaden the field. Not a single bachelor will be tossed into the mill come January.

At least one handsome senator and one congressman, however, are rumored on the verge of divorce, if you want to be vulturish about it.

Nearly all biographical material circulating after Robert Finch's appointment as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare listed gardening among his main outside interests.

★ ★ ★

"That's kind of an inside joke," laughed his wife, Carol, who has been house-hunting for the family in Washington. "He does like to plant, like a bed of pansies in the spring, but he'll walk away from it after that. Our daughters and I end up watering and picking them."

Even if he was a man of the soil, she added, it's unlikely he'd have much time to spend at it. For now, the secretary-designate is busy cultivating answers to the complexities of HEW.

Right At The Very Edge Of His Claim!

Bob Considine Says:

2,000 Years, but Still the Same

He had grown a bit older through the nearly 2,000 years. He had been working too hard. The phones had been going night and day for centuries. There were millions of newcomers He had not been able to meet as yet.

CONSIDINE

His mother was the first to notice the gray around His temples. Quietly, firmly, she suggested that He get away for a spell, and just before His birthday as a man the suggestion was accepted.

★ ★ ★

He went to the window of His study one clear night and looked things over, seeking a vacation spot. There were billions of places to tempt Him, but after a bit, a distant memory stirred itself, and searching the littered sky, He found a tiny, luminous cinder amid an obscure constellation out on the end of creation. And He remembered its name: Earth.

His mother was a bit vexed by His choice of a place to spend a holiday.

'BAD HOTEL SITUATION'

"The hotel situation is bad there," she reminded Him, "Don't You remember all that trouble we had getting reservations?"

★ ★ ★

He laughed a little in His kindly way and assured her that nearly 2,000 years can make a lot of changes in man's hostility to man. She went off to pack for Him, and pretty soon Michael, the swiftest of the archangels, walked in.

★ ★ ★

"I heard You're going on a trip," the archangel said. "I'll fly You down. In that way I'll be handy in case You need me."

★ ★ ★

"No thanks, Michael," He said. "I'll get down, all right. Besides, I've been wanting to try some of the transportation down there. Primitive, isn't it?"

JETS TO FLORIDA

And it came to pass that on the morning before Christmas, He arrived in New York City, bought some clothes that conformed to what the natives were wearing, and hopped a jet for Gold Beach, Fla. The travel poster had looked so nice.

An odd thing happened at the first hotel. "All booked," the clerk said, after a snobbish glance. It was that same way at the next four places, but the doorman at the last place took an interest in Him. Your best bet is a motel, Mac," the man said. "They're not so hoity-toity."

★ ★ ★

He did, indeed, find a room at a motel; a room and, astonishingly, an invitation to cocktails and dinner. The manageress "moonlighted" in supplying rich Gold Beach dowagers with extra men, there being a man shortage.

★ ★ ★

It was a grand party in a spacious old home and He found it stimulating. Nobody caught His name, but He passed that off as one of the indiosyncrasies of this odd little planet. The talk was fine: Certain political events had stirred the men; fashion events, the women.

QUESTION DISRUPTS

Everything would have gone nice, He supposed later, if the talk had not turned to, "Where are you from?" They were from an interesting variety of places that had sprung up during the split seconds of the last two or three centuries. Then, just before the party was to move on to the exclusive Wampum Club for dinner, somebody asked Him where He was from?

"I was born in Bethlehem," He said. "It's a small place."

★ ★ ★

"Bethlehem," his host repeated. "Spent a lot of time there when I was in steel.

'FINE TOWN!'

"Then we moved to a town named Nazareth and finally to Jerusalem," He said.

ROOM FALLS SILENT

To His wonder, that portion of the room fell silent. The host was the first to recover. He boomed for another round of drinks, took the Stranger by the arm and escorted Him to a sitting room.

★ ★ ★

"That's very interesting . . Bethlehem, Nazareth, Jerusalem," he said, lighting a cigar. "What's your profession?"

★ ★ ★

"I was a carpenter in those days," He said, with a smile. "Then I sort of went on the road, as you say."

"Salesman?"

"Yes, I guess you could call it that."

"We thought You were some kind of a writer, from the beard."

MUST FACE FACTS'

He shook His head. "No, I never got around to that. But I used to talk now and then."

The host thought for a long time. "I hope you won't be offended," he said finally. "But we've got to face facts in Gold Beach. Are You Jewish?"

"Yes," He smiled.

★ ★ ★

The host wheezed unhappily. "We were counting on You being an extra man at dinner at the Wampum. But, I'm sorry, it can't be done. There's a rule, see? Don't blame me, I didn't make it. If I bring You, and they find out, I'll be asked to resign from the club. It's the oldest and best club around here, and we've got to live here, see?"

★ ★ ★

The host's wife hovered impatiently over them. "We're late, Horace," she said. "Tell your friend goodby. You know how they are at the club about holding tables especially on Christmas Eve."

'LITTLE MORE TIME'

The guests crowded out on the curb and piled into their convertibles and limousines. The host stayed behind, momentarily, and put his arm around the Stranger's shoulders.

"No hard feelings?" the man asked.

"No hard feelings," He answered warmly.

★ ★ ★

Then He was alone in the now-darkened street. The air was tender in the palms. They reminded Him of the palms He had known as a Child, and the palms He had known for one brief Sunday, as a Man.

★ ★ ★

"Well, a little more time," He sighed. Then He clapped on His new hat, looked up at the star-studded heavens and cupped his hands around His sensitive mouth.

"Michael!" He shouted at the top of His lungs. "Oh, Michael!"

'Schools Teach Evolution While Bible Is Forbidden'

Our Constitution forbids the teaching of the story of creation, according to the Bible, in our public schools. And yet, we are forced to submit to the tearing down of that belief by an unproven theory which is in most cases accepted by our youth as truth. Evolution is, in a sense, a religion to many of its advocates, yet is taught in public schools. Why?

JIM KELLY

'Agree With Editorial on All-Year School'

I say "amen" to your editorial on using schools 12 months. Why do teachers get as much pay for nine months as most workers get for 12 months? How many other giant companies can afford to close their buildings for the summer months, the most economical time of the year to run these businesses? Some systems using the 12-month basis rotate vacations so that all families get vacations. Mr. Average Taxpayer, get behind the movement. Our children deserve the best education possible, but do we have to tax ourselves out of our homes to get it for them?

Letter Comments on High Taxes in Michigan

When important items such as school millage come up, people are afraid to vote them in because Romney has already drained us. The equalization factor on property tax brought the amount up about 25 per cent this year, not to forget the temporary boat registration, snowmobiles, pistols—you name it and there will be a tax on it. Anyone could pull Michigan out of the red by reaching deeper into the citizens' pockets as Romney has. We will remember Romney in Washington. I hope Milliken will help the man who has a family to raise and educate.

KENNETH SHARKEY
8130 CASA MIA, UNION LAKE

'Let's Show Concern for Starving Biafrans'

During the holiday season when joy and gaiety are the prevalent emotions, it is so comfortable to remain passive and turn our backs on the fact that this month alone 400,000 Biafrans perished of starvation. Next month the number will exceed 1,000,000. Most of the dead are children.

It is futile to argue whether the Nigerian restrictions or the Biafran demands are responsible for the mass starvation. The fact is that the war and food blockade have cost the lives of 2,500,000 people. Can we justify passively ignoring the fate of several million human beings?

Senator Edward Kennedy has suggested that the U.S. should identify itself with the demands for a cease fire and for an abrupt halt to arms shipments to both countries. Then food and medical shipments will reach the people. We feel that all responsible citizens should let their representatives in Washington know where they stand on this crucial issue.

Question and Answer

What are the duties of an elementary school principal? How much time should be spent away from the school in one week? What can be done to rid a school of a principal, if anything?

MRS. R. W.

REPLY

The principal is the chief school administrator and is responsible for its operation. No time limit has been set for a principal to be away, but he should never be away unless it's necessary. Contact the superintendent's office (FE 8-9151) regarding specific complaints. Those complaints will be considered and the complainant will be contacted.

REPLY

Salvation Army was founded in England 102 years ago. It came to the U.S. about 85 years ago and has been in Pontiac about 75 years.

Dad Goes to Bat for Tooth Fairy

By DICK SAUNDERS

"The tooth fairy is a drunk."

That statement, my friends, came tripping off the innocent lips of a sweet, little seven-year-old brown eyed blonde I call my daughter.

SAUNDERS

I know she really didn't mean it. She loves the tooth fairy. It's just that she was gripped with toothless frustration because the tooth fairy was late again.

In fact, the tooth fairy had been due four nights before and still hadn't shown.

★ ★ ★

I tried to explain.

"Look," I began, "You've got to take into consideration that this is a bad time of year for the tooth fairy (TF for short).

"What I mean is, TF is probably very busy trying to keep up with the holiday grind."

She reminded me that her girlfriend, Chris Boyer, had lost the exact same tooth on the same day and TF had been very prompt in Chris's case, leaving a quarter under the pillow.

★ ★ ★

It was also pointed out to me that Chris had split her tooth fairy take, buying herself and my daughter some chocolate balls. Naturally, the shoe was now on the other foot and my daughter was in a position where she had to reciprocate.

"Well, I'm sure of two things," I replied fatherly.

"First, TF will make good. Second, TF doesn't drink."

That last one brought a somewhat subdued chortle from my funny wife.

Then the two of them (daughter and wife) combined to really put the screws to me.

★ ★ ★

First, the kid suggested that maybe she had grown into a higher income bracket and that had something to do with the delay.

My wife agreed, adding that it probably necessitated more bookkeeping on tooth fairy's part to keep income tax deductions in line.

All mail subscriptions payable in advance. Postage has been paid at the 2nd class rate at Pontiac, Michigan. Member of ABC.

At this point I assured both of them that TF's expenses, if claimed on the annual income tax return, would bring immediate and very personalized attention from the Internal Revenue Service.

★ ★ ★

I can see it now:

Medical expenses	$568.00
Travel expenses	$342.00
Tooth Fairy	$2.25

Can't you imagine what that would do to a hard-working, all-business IRS employe? He'd never be the same again.

"No," I assured my daughter," you have it all wrong. The tooth fairy is a wonderful, beautiful, thoughtful person.

★ ★ ★

"It's just that tooth fairies are human, and they tend to be forgetful at times. But this should not detract from their wonderfulness."

"Gee, Dad," she said, fixing a curious eye upon me, "how did you ever learn so much about the tooth fairy?"

"I know good old TF very well, I replied. "In fact, I was talking to TF just the other day."

"Oh, Dad, please tell me what she looks like."

So, I took her on my knee and began my story:

"Well, first of all TF is a he. And right now, HE looks a little dissipated . . ."

Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, remarried last Friday after two divorces, says his successor as episcopal bishop of California has no right to bar him from performing church functions.

PIKE

To emphasize that view, Pike on Christmas Eve celebrated holy communion at St. Aidan's Episcopal church.

The congregation applauded Pike, 55, and his bride, the former Diane Kennedy, 31, when he introduced her.

Bishop C. Kilmer Myers, Pike's successor, made a personal request Monday of clergymen in his 10-county area to bar Pike from performing official church functions or holding any public services.

"He has no canonical authority to suspend me," Pike said of Myers' letter. "I'm as much a member of the diocese as he is."

Pike said he received a Dec. 10 letter from Myers saying his late union was "spiritually dead," leaving him free to remarry. But Myers said his letter was "not intended to be an approval or blessing of that marriage in any way."

Ohio School Closing Tries Pupils, Parents

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Jack W. Sullivan has three school-aged boys who are not in school. They are home underfoot, watching television and fighting boredom.

Mrs. Sullivan is one of thousands of parents in Youngstown whose children are at home without much to do. The Youngstown school system ran out of money last month, and schools have been closed to nearly 28,000 pupils since the day before Thanksgiving. They will reopen Jan. 2.

"Let's face it," said Mrs. Sullivan, who is president of the Parent-Teacher Association, "You just can't teach them at home. When they first got home, they thought the school closing would be just one big blast. Now they're bored to death.

"I just hope other parents are as tired of their children as I'm tired of mine and they are tired of me."

HOWEWORK

Mrs. Sullivan's children—Brian, 6, John, 13, and Tim, 15—brought their books home and have done assignments.

"They study ahead a little bit and practice their instruments, but mostly they watch television," their mother said.

But despite increasingly bored children and mothers busy trying to keep them occupied, authorities say there was little reaction to the closing of the schools.

"There is so much apathy here," said School Supt. Woodrow W. Zinser, "that the only way voters would understand that we're out of money was to close the schools."

NO RESPONSE

Zinser said there "was literally no interest in the school board meeting held prior to the closing."

"One of the local pastors attempted to organize a group of high schoolers for a quiet parade of protest, but because there was little or no response it was called off," Zinser said.

★ ★ ★

The school closing came after voters rejected six consecutive school levy proposals ranging from 5 mills to 12 mills.

Zinser attributed the defeats in this steel-making city in northeast Ohio to ethnic differences, racial problems, parents of parochial school children refusing to support public schools and animosity between steelworkers and teachers.

HIGHER SALARIES

Mrs. Sullivan said 75-80 per cent of a new mill would go for higher teacher salaries.

When money first really got tight, administrators cut out kindergarten and driver education. When voters continued to reject tax proposals, Zinser, superintendent here 14 months, felt students should not be cheated of more educational advantages.

He orderrd the quality courses reinstated and granted a $450 annual teacher pay raise. It gave teachers with bachelor degrees a starting salary of $6,250 annually.

In contrast, Toledo public schools, with 62,000 students and a school tax of 26.5 mills, passed a five mill tax increase to permit a teacher pay raise. It was granted before the tax vote but contingent on approval of higher levy. Toledo teachers, who threatened to strike if the raise was rejected, will have a base starting salary Jan. 1 of $7,000—highest in Ohio.

SPECULATION ON MILLAGE

Zinser said the school district will have to borrow against next fall's taxes to stay open until June 24.

Speculation is that the 12-mill tax proposal, already defeated three times, will be on the ballot in May.

★ ★ ★

"If the levy fails again we may not be able to open in the fall," Zinser said.

"The faith of the youngsters has been deeply shaken," the superintendent said. "Most children are upset because their education has been taken away from them."

And Mrs. Sullivan added: "My children feel cheated. They are disappointed and feel that the people have let them down."

Snow Covers West; East, Midwest Cold

By United Press International

Blankets of snow lay over much of the West today. Cold air pushed temperatures below zero from the upper Midwest to the Northeast.

A Pacific storm which ravaged the West Coast Christmas Eve dragged itself from California into the Southeast today. In the Sacramento Valley behind it were 23 inches of snow — heaviest snowfall since 1899.

★ ★ ★

S[illegible] of San Francisco, the storm yesterday dropped lightning bolts near Redwood City, smashing windows and causing power blackouts .

Four inches of snow were reported in a six-hour period ending today at Klamath Falls, Ore. It raised the total to eight inches on the ground.

SUBZERO READINGS

Readings fell below zero this morning from the upper Midwest to the Northeast. Temperatures were in the 20s to 40s in the deep south.

At 2 a.m., EST, readings ranged from 14 below zero at Massena, N.Y., and Montpelier, Vt., to 65 at Brownsville, Tex. Boston reported 1 below zero. Minneapolis, Minn., had 5 above. Chicago, at 18 degrees, had snow. New York City reported 12 above.

★ ★ ★

In New York, some 200,000 persons were in heatless homes on Christmas because fuel oil deliveries had not caught up with orders after a seven-day strike by drivers. "People are dying because of lack of heat," City Health Commissioner Edward O'Rourke said.

Pueblo Crewmen Tell of Fears

AP Wirephoto

GREAT TO BE BACK—A member of the crew of the USS Pueblo, held captive by North Korea for 11 months, gets a welcome he'll long remember upon his arrival in San Diego Tuesday.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Several members of the Pueblo crew say they feared they would be shot in the back as they crossed the bridge at Panmunjon to freedom.

Communications Technichian Sidney J. Karnes of Belleville, Ark., said the windows of the buses in which the 82 surviving crewmen were driven to the Bridge of No Return were covered with sheets.

* * *

Karnes said he "didn't know whether to walk or run" across the bridge. But, since he thought he would be shot if he ran—after 11 months of captivity—he says he took the longest walk of his life.

Official Navy journalists, reporting Karnes' statements since newsmen have not been permitted to question the Pueblo men on such topics, said others of the crew also believed they would be shot at the bridge.

SLOOP DESIGNS

The reports, along with others of a lighter nature about the long captivity, were made public by the Navy.

To while away the lonely hours, two crewmen drew detailed designs for a 90-foot sloop.

The plans were drawn by Communications Technician 3.C. Earl M. Kisler of St. Louis, Mo., and Communications Technician 2.C. Michael W. Alexander of Richland, Wash., using two-inch pencils which they had hidden.

The night before word of their release came, Seaman Robert W. Hill Jr. of Harrisburg, Pa., said he dreamed good news was on the way. He and the other men dreamed often "and you would be surprised how many of the dreams came true," he said.

LAUDS SOUTH KOREANS

When the prime minister of South Korea visited the crewmen shortly after their release last Monday, Quartermaster 1.C. Charles B. Law of Tacoma, Wash., told him that to be hated so much by the North Koreans, the South Koreans "must be the greatest people in the world."

"I love them," Law said of the South Koreans.

Every day, without fail, their North Korean captors gave each Pueblo crew member a pack of cigarettes, Lt. Frederick G. Schumacher of St. Louis, Mo., said—adding the food was "something else again."

"I couldn't bring myself to eat that turnip soup for days," said Schumacher. After eating nothing for 10 days, he said, he found the soup was "surprisingly pretty good."

NEW HABIT

Karnes said he rarely drank coffee before that January capture of the U.S. intelligence ship in the Sea of Japan. The day of his release, he said, he drank dozens of cups of coffee. Said Karnes: "Nothing tastes better than coffee."

On the C141 jet flight home to America, the freed men asked for magazines and a Bible.

LBJ Administrators Giving Pet Programs Final Shot in Arm

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the twilight weeks of the Johnson presidency, Democratic administrators are feeding farewell doses of federal funds to pet Great Society programs.

The objective, says one departing Democrat, is to create "plenty of momentum" to propel the programs past possible budget slashes in the early months of Richard M. Nixon's Republican administration.

* * *

The latest example came this week and involved one of the Johnson administration's favorite urban programs—Model Cities. Officials disclosed that Seattle, Wash., is receiving a $19 million bundle of federal grants to move its Model Cities program of the drawing boards and into action.

This was the first time the half-billion-dollar fund for supplemental Model Cities grants had been tapped, but Robert C. Wood, acting secretary of Housing and Urban Development, said, "Other cities with plans under review can expect a decision shortly."

IT'S POSSIBLE

Before Nixon moves into the White House on Jan. 20, officials said, it's possible that nearly a score of other cities will receive similar grants. These include Atlanta; Baltimore; Boston and Cambridge, Mass.; Charlotte, N.C.; Denver, Colo.; Detroit and Highland Park, Mich.; Huntsville, Ala.; Philadelphia; Portland, Maine; Portland, Ore.; Reading, Pa.; St. Louis, Mo.; Smithville-DeKalb, Tenn.; Tampa, Fla.; and Waco, Tex.

Funds for preliminary planning of Model Cities projects were exhausted a month ago when 22 cities were added to the 125 communities already charting federally sponsored attacks on urban blight.

* * *

While Great Society planners say that surge of grants was motivated by their belief that the Model Cities approach is the best way to upgrade city slums, they concede it will have the effect of firmly entrenching the program before the change in administrations. They believe Nixon and his lieutenants will feel compelled to continue allocations under standards set by the Democrats.

The momentum theory is being applied to other Great Society programs, too.

TRAINING EXPANSION

Take the Concentrated Employment Program. On Dec. 6, Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz announced that his department and the Pentagon had agreed to expand this program to train 5,000 hard-core jobless for government jobs at defense installations in 41 cities. Recruiting of the trainees will be under way before Nixon takes office.

* * *

At the same time, the Labor Department is renewing individual CEP contracts. While some of the department's news releases say the projects are being continued "for another year," investigation revealed that in most instances contract funds will run out next summer, when any decision not to refund the projects would generate political heat on the Nixon administration.

* * *

There's no indication the White House is the moving force behind the recent developments. Two weeks before Nixon's election, Budget Director Charles Zwick had sent a memo to all department heads urging them "to be considerate of possible needs of the incoming administration in January, leaving to them decisions on moves, purchases and other actions that can be delayed, so that such action can be tailored as closely as possible to the new administration's policies and programs."

* * *

Although Nixon himself has not publicly complained, Republican governors said they were acting with his blessings earlier when they adopted a resolution accusing the Democratic administration of rushing through "politically motivated" changes in government policy that would "hamstring and embarrass" the new President.

The resolution was not specific, but Gov. Ronald Reagan of California said the governors were unhappy about proposed changes in welfare rules and the highway program.

* * *

The administration's move to abandon investigations of most welfare applicants and substitute instead a simple declaration of need came two weeks after the election. Reagan said the change, to take full effect July 1 unless Nixon reverses it, would cost his state alone $40 million a year.

* * *

A week after the Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced the new welfare regulations, it launched another major program. This one, authorized by Congress a year ago, would finance legal aid for poor people with such problems as divorce, evictions or bill collections. HEW Secretary Wilbur J. Cohen said it would be impossible to estimate cost of program until states begin applying for funds. Asked why the program had been delayed a year, Cohen said it took that long to work out the details.

Republican governors also complained about a proposed change in federal regulations that would give opponents of planned interstate freeway routes a second hearing if they lose the first time. This, the state executives said, would unnecessarily delay highway projects.

28 STATES TO BENEFIT

Even as the freeway hearing dispute simmered, the Transportation Department announced that 28 states will share in a 1,500-mile addition to the Interstate Highway System. The $2.4-billion expansion, authorized by Congress in August, was originally opposed by the department.

* * *

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd also has frozen interstate highway allocations several times in the past two years as an anti-inflationary measure. In announcing the multibillion-dollar expansion two weeks ago, Boyd said the extra mileage will "lend more flexibility to the entire system to permit it to meet the tremendous changes in population and development since the original 41,000-mile network was charted."

NEW APPEAL — The surly look has replaced former ideas of handsomeness in movie men. This is Bekim Feymu, a Yugoslavian stage and screen actor who will star in the upcoming film, "The Adventurers."

Police, City 'Still Far Apart on Pay Pact'

Negotiations between the Pontiac Police Officers Association (PPOA) and the city for a new wage package are far from agreement after some two months, according to a PPOA spokesman.

The present contract, with its $9,000 minimum salary for a senior (three-year) patrolman, expires Jan. 1.

What would have been the fourth formal bargaining session between the two parties has been postponed because City Manager Joseph A. Warren became ill. No date has been set for another meeting.

The police officers and the city remain on the surface, $2,550 apart on wages alone.

WAGE INCREASES

Sgt. Hugh T. Stimson, PPOA vice president and a member of the bargaining team, said Warren has thus far offered a four per cent across-the-board salary increase, which would raise senior patrolmen to $9,450 minimum.

The one PPOA wage demand presented to date calls for a $12,000 minimum.

"However," Stimson said, "we are willing to talk."

Key to a compromise may be the recent contract reached by Oakland County Sheriff's Department personnel, which will establish a $10,000 minimum wage for senior deputies by next July 1.

Astronauts Prepare 6th and Last Telecast

By RICHARD BEENE
Associated Press Writer

The 15-minute television show was to begin at 3:51 p.m. (EST).

"What we thought we would do today was just to show you a little bit about life inside the Apollo 8," Apollo 8 commander Frank Borman said Wednesday. With it came a remarkable clear view of the interior of the ship.

"We've shown you the scenes of the moon and scenes of the earth, and we thought we would invite you into our home. It's been our home, at least, for four days."

For 10 minutes Borman described how the crew uses "handy dandy scissors" to open the spacemen's packaged food, how he and his teammates exercise daily in space, and how the ship's on-board computer "has done a fantastic job for us."

The crew, in one of its most jovial moods yet, made references to Christmas and the big dinners they probably would be enjoying if they were on earth.

* * *

"I hope you all had a better Christmas dinner today than this," said Air Force Maj. William A. Anders as TV viewers watched him fish through plastic bags of specially prepared cocoa, sugar cookies, orange juice, corn chowder and chicken and gravy.

The food aboard Apollo 8 is better than in past flights. It was made less sweet and more palatable after the Apollo 7 crew complained bitterly of the food.

COMMENDABLE FOOD

Borman, who made a point to wish everyone on earth a "very merry Christmas," called the food "generally pretty good."

In the next breath the Air Force colonel continued, "and if that doesn't sound like a rousing endorsement, it isn't—but nevertheless it's pretty good."

* * *

But the spacemen soon discovered a Christmas Day treat and the third astronaut Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr., radioed ground controllers shortly after the telecast:

* * *

"It appears that we did a grave injustice to the food people. Just after our TV show, Santa Claus brought us... a TV dinner which is delicious. Turkey and gravy, cranberry sauce, grape punch. Outstanding."

ASTRONAUT'S JOKE

The crew showed only the interior of Apollo 8. "We're going to have to do it (the telecast) inside," Borman told mission control minutes before the flight. "There's no good shots of the earth today."

Lovell quipped, "I think it's raining out there."

The picture seen on earth however, was much like the stark blue and white of the moon which Lovell described in Tuesday night's close-up telecast.

* * *

As before, each fast movement of the camera blurred the picture and mission control reminded the astronauts of this. "There's sort of a time delay. Any motion at all ruins our picture," said ground controller Michael Collins.

Today's List of Activities for Spacemen

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Here is the Apollo 8 schedule for today (all times Eastern Standard):

12 midnight: Spacecraft is more than 165,000 miles away from earth and traveling at more than 3,000 miles an hour. Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders are asleep. Air Force Col. Frank Borman is awake, monitoring systems.

5:51 a.m.—Borman eats his first meal of the day.

6:51 a.m.—Lovell and Anders awaken and eat. Anders sends biomedical data on himself to the ground

7:51 a.m.—Lovell performs navigation exercises.

9:51 a.m.—Midcourse correction burn, if needed, is performed.

10:21 a.m.—Lovell does more navigation, checking effects of burn.

1:51 p.m.—The crew eats together.

2:51 p.m.—Apollo 8 passes halfway mark on earthward coast.

3:51 p.m.—Final television transmission of Apollo 8.

5:51 p.m.—Lovell performs more star navigation.

8:51 p.m.—Lovell and Anders eat third meal of day.

9:51 p.m.—Borman awakens and begins eating. Lovell and Anders begin seven-hour sleep period.

11:36 p.m.—Borman places spacecraft in a gentle roll to evenly distribute the heat beating down on it from the sun.

12 midnight—As Thursday ends, Borman monitors systems while his crewmates sleep. The spacecraft is about 70,000 miles from earth and traveling at more than 5,000 miles an hour.

Friday:

4:51 a.m.—Lovell and Anders awaken and, after making navigational and biomedical checks, eat breakfast.

8:41 a.m.—Final midcourse correction.

9:31 a.m.—Crew begins final stowage of equipment for reentry.

10:31 a.m.—Command and service module separate.

10:41 a.m.—Command module enters earth atmosphere.

10:51 a.m.—Splash-down 1,000 miles south of Hawaii in Pacific.

POLLUTION SOLUTION—These Japanese girls laugh at a can with a label describing the contents as polluted air from Tokyo. The item sells for about 33 U.S. cents and is being offered as a souvenir for visitors from the country who want a taste of city life.

Development of Nuclear Desalination Seen at 'Key Point'

MADRID (UPI) — The day when mankind can tap the oceans for cheap and unlimited supplies of fresh water may be just around the corner.

At a symposium here on nuclear desalination, there were optimistic forecasts that large-scale desalting projects might soon move off the drawing boards and into the construction stage.

★ ★ ★

Among the optimists was James T. Ramey, head of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, who said nuclear desalting had reached a "key point" in its development.

He added scientists already have enough knowledge and experience to translate their theories on the subject into reality.

'WITHOUT DELAY'

Ramey called for "demonstration projects using different techniques and in diverse locations to start without delay."

Three hundred delegates from 27 countries attended the meeting, which was the first symposium on nuclear desalting to be organized by the International Atomic Energy Agency, a United Nations affiliate.

★ ★ ★

The Soviet Union, the only nation to have a nuclear desalting plant in operation—at Shevchenko on the Caspian Sea inexplicably was not represented. Soviet scientists were to have read papers describing the operation experience at Shevchenko, and their absence led to speculation the Russians may be having difficulties with the plant.

Host country Spain outlined one of the most promising projects discussed during the highly technical meeting. This was a $600-million plan to turn a bone-dry region of Almeria, southern Spain, into a vast garden.

Both Spanish and U.S. interests are combined in the Acuarius promoting group, which produced a feasibility study at the symposium.

For the first time, the plan and a similar one for Barcelona received official encourageemnt when Industry Minister Gregorio Lopez Bravo publicly backed the projects during the symposium.

The heart of the Almeria project would be a $200-million nuclear reactor eventually capable of producing six to seven cubic meters of fresh water per second at a cost estimated between 0.057 and 0.078 U.S. cents per cubic meter. This cost range is highly competitive even by present-day standards.

Once it reached its full capacity of 100,000 megawatts, the reactor theoretically would provide water to irrigate half a million acres of potentially rich farming land where rainfall rarely exceeds six inches a year.

The promoters also foresee a food-processing industry for the products of the irrigated land and a tourist complex making use of the electricity produced by the same reactor.

The Barcelona project was the work of the city water supply company and three other utility groups.

★ ★ ★

City planners forecast water rationing for Barcelona by 1980 unless a new supply is developed, and the plan is to build a dual-purpose nuclear reactor to produce fresh water and electricity before that date. The reactor initially would produce 600 megawatts of electric power and 2.2 cubic meters of water per second. The electrical output eventually would be stepped up to 1,000 megawatts.

★ ★ ★

Ruins of Nanmatol Remain a Mystery

WASHINGTON—In the United States trust territory of Ponape, 19,000 inhabitants vigorously disagree on the spelling of local place-names on their Pacific island.

For instance, the wehi, or section, called Net isn't always spelled that way, a local guide book explains. Among residents of the neighboring wehi of Kiti, sometimes spelled Kitti, "Net is not Net, it is Not; but in Net, Not is not Not, it is Net."

★ ★ ★

Ponape's best-known feature, the mystery ruins of Nanmatol, remains as uncertain in spelling as in origin, the National Geographic Society says.

Variously known as Nanmatol, Nanmatal, Nan Madol, and Nan Matol, the colossal stone ruins pose a classic archeological riddle in the tradition of Easter Island's statues, Stonehenge, and Angkor, the ancient Khmer capital of Cambodia.

SPREADS OVER ISLETS

Nanmatol, whose name means "in many openings," spreads over a hundred islets that fill a swampy lagoon in southeastern Ponape.

The 176-square-mile island, highest of the Pacific's Carolines, is part of the area known as Micronesia. Ponape belonged to Spain in the days of Spanish glory. In 1899, Spain sold its Micronesian holdings to Germany for about $4.5 million.

Japanese warships occupied Micronesia in World War I and, later, the League of Nations entrusted the area to Japan as a mandate.

Japanese control ended with the Allied victory in World War II. Some 2,100 Micronesian islands and atolls, including Ponape, became a trust territory administered by the United States. Recently, Continental Airlines' Air Micronesia jets have made the area accessible to ordinary travelers.

VIRTUALLY UNTOUCHED

Through war and peace, the haunting ruins of Nanmatol remained virtually untouched.

The mammoth building "logs" of basalt form primitive walls, an arsenal, a temple, and other structures still standing. They were quarried 15 or more miles away, a herculean task of transportation.

★ ★ ★

Scores of scientists and explorers, including Charles Darwin, have struggled through the ever-advancing jungle to delve in the ruins and evolve theories of their origin.

In 1963, a Smithsonian Institution expedition recovered charcoal that proved to be about 700 years old. Other archeologists have dug up ornaments and implements — shell axes, necklaces, bracelets, and shell needles — as well as human bones.

DYNASTY REIGNED

Tradition says that a dynasty of kings named Chau-te-Leur reigned in the ritual city before a savage intruder, Idzikolkol, wiped out the old civilization and abandoned the island metropolis.

In history or legend, more than two dozen chiefs ruled over the city. Folklore recalls some for a single characteristic.

★ ★ ★

Raipwenloko, the "Cannibal," was said to have the mouth of a turtle and an unusual fondness for obese people. Luhk en Ned managed to support 30 wives at one time.

Another chief, whose name has been lost, unintentionally married the humanlike daughter of a crocodile. His relationship with his mother-in-law was very cool, legend says.

THEY'LL FLY — New French aerotrains like the one at top can travel 225 miles an hour, according to Jean Bertin (right), inventor of the prototype model. With him is test driver Maurice Leblanc. They'll ride on monorails like the one at bottom, being constructed for the Paris-Orleans route.

French Ready to Go With Fast Aerotrain

PARIS (AP) — The French developers of air-cushion vehicles say they are ahead of all competitors in efforts to build rapid transit aerotrains for suburban and intercity use.

★ ★ ★

Three firms, which have been experimenting with the wheelless vehicles under private and government grant programs, say their latest model can travel faster than 225 miles per hour.

★ ★ ★

Two production models, an 80-passenger, 180-m.p.h. intercity coach and a smaller, slower suburban model, are under construction. The firms say they are ready to begin building a transit system as soon as they get an order and demonstrate the aerotrain for newsmen near Orleans Friday.

★ ★ ★

Jean Bertin, originator of the effort, said the firms have right-of-way options for a 60-mile overhead roadbed between Paris and Orleans and are awaiting government approval for further acquisition. They plan to begin operating an 80-passenger vehicle on a 10-mile test run near Orleans next May.

Bertin and his colleagues said none of their competitors in the United States, Britain or Japan are in a comparable stage of development.

The intercity aerotrains will be powered by three jet engines, one to provide the air cushion and two smaller jets to drive a rear-end propeller.

★ ★ ★

The smaller coaches, carrying up to 44 passengers, will be lifted by a 375-horsepower engine and propelled by a linear electric motor.

The roadbed is an elevated strip of pavement with a single, metal flange down the middle to guide the vehicles.

3 Ministries in India Start War on Rats

NEW DELHI (AP) — Rats still have the last laugh in India.

Every year the rats — by estimate over two billion of them — eat about 10 million tons of food-grains — just the quantity India imports at a cost of $750 million.

★ ★ ★

Three ministries have become involved. The food ministry, chief victim of the rodents, was reluctant to take over the responsibility for killing them. The health ministry came forward to shoulder the burden on the ground that the rodent is a health hazard. It appointed a committee to devise ways and means.

The commerce ministry, always searching for foreign exchange, has named yet another committee to explore the potentials of exporting rats — for research purposes and as food for cats and dogs.

The Delhi administration offered to buy tails of dead rats for a price. Thousands of tails poured in and sizable rewards were collected. Then thousands of tailless rats were seen moving about in Delhi villages.

Tis the Season -to Be Jolly???

LONDON (AP) — More unmarried British girls take pregnancy tests after Christmas than in any other time of the year, a laboratory director said today.

Dr. Brian Block, director of a group of laboratories which surveyed thousands of women this year, said: "The Christmas party must be one of the most dangerous events for unmarried girls."

Encyclopaedia Rich in History

Britannica Reference World's Best-Known

WASHINGTON — Two hundred years ago, three Scots founded a "Society of Gentlemen" to produce a dictionary of knowledge.

"I wrote most of it and snipped out from books enough material for the printer," boasted William Smellie, the 28-year-old editor who combined scholarship with an impressive thirst for whiskey.

* * *

Such were the colorful beginnings of what has become the world's most renowned reference source in the English language — the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

* * *

The first set, published in 1771, totaled three volumes. Today, the "bible for the curious" fills 24 volumes packed with 36 million words.

RICH IN PERSONALITIES

Although the reference set exudes solemnity and scholarship, the Britannica has been surprisingly rich in color and personalities, the National Geographic Society says.

* * *

The three founders were an improbable lot. Andrew Bell, a pint-sized man with an enormous nose, engraved names on dog collars. Colin Macfarquhar, a profit-minded printer, had been fined for pirating other books, including the Bible. Editor Smellie, according to his peers, was "a veteran in wit, genius, and bawdry."

* * *

Encyclopaedia Britannica began as a very Scottish work. England was described as "the southern division of Great Britain, situated in the Atlantic Ocean" and was given just nine lines. Edinburgh, the capital of Scotland, spread over two columns.

* * *

As the years went by, Britannica grew in size and scope. Scholars hailed it as "the greatest treasury of knowledge ever published."

CLASSIC BONER

With topics running the gamut from A to Zygote, errors were bound to occur. The classic boner was an abstruse physics formula. Printed upside down, it stood uncorrected until the author noticed it during a revision 15 years later.

Pat Neal...Subject Was Rosy

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN

NEW YORK (AP) — The subject was Patricia Neal.

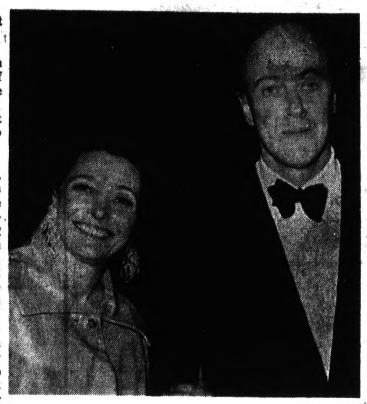
Roses.

The flowers of a woman blooming from the soil of tragedy. Blossoming in the love of her family and friends; basking in the warm spotlight of her successful return — to the screen, to acting, to life.

* * *

For actress Patricia Neal, looking down from a mountain of unhappy experiences, there was the promise of great happiness in the big, rambling house on a country lane in Great Missenden, England; with husband Roald Dahl and their four children; this time not with tragedy, but with triumph.

Except for a slight limp, one stubborn, unworking finger on her right hand, and some minor memory lapses, there was no trace of the three strokes that nearly killed her almost four years ago.



AP Photo

CAME BACK

With perhaps incomparable fortitude, she had regained the use of her paralyzed right side and her speech and had come back to the screen in the film version of "The Subject Was Roses."

* * *

The Pulitzer prize-winning play by Frank D. Gilroy, about a mother, father and son unable to communicate their love to each other, has unusual, ironic meaning in Miss Neal's life. It was only fitting it should be the film to mark her return. In a recent interview, she recalled its part in her life.

* * *

"I adored it," she said about making the film. "Jack Albertson. Martin Shean. The photographer. They were all heavenly. Jack Priestly, the writer."

When the play first opened on Broadway, Miss Neal was offered the role of the mother.

"But, our lives weren't very easy then," she said without a hint of self-pity.

'LIVES WEREN'T EASY'

". . . Weren't very easy then . . ." With a simplicity belying the tragedy, "not very easy then" meant daughter Olivia, then 7, had just died after complications from the measles. Son Theo, now 8, was then 4 months old and was being wheeled across Madison Avenue when a taxi struck the carriage, knocking it into the back of a truck. Theo suffered brain damage and has had numerous operations since.

* * *

So, Miss Neal did not go on Broadway with "The Subject Was Roses." Instead, a little later, she went to Hollywood and did a film called "Hud," with Paul Newman.

* * *

She played Alma, the housekeeper, and the protrayal won her an Academy Award in 1963.

SUFFERED STROKES

She was playing the role of a doctor in "Seven Women," filming in Hollywood in February 1965, when it happened. She collapsed at home after a day's shooting and was taken to UCLA Medical Center. She had suffered three strokes in succession and was in a coma for more than two weeks. She was pregnant at the time.

Surgery save her life, but the question remained as to how much brain damage had been done. Paralysis of the right side. Jumbled speech. How much could she regain?

* * *

She left the hospital and went home to England, where her husband began a steady program of tutoring, exercises, rehabilitation.

In a talk at a benefit for the New York Association for Brain Injured Children in March 1967, she recalled what those days were like:

"I saw two of everything. I remember looking down and seeing that I had four legs. And when they took me to the house, I discovered I had six children, instead of just three. All of them twins.

"When you keep seeing double all the time, you start talking double. That's known as double-talk. I became an expert at double-talk.

"I was an idiot, a complete idiot, like an enormous pink cabbage. A challenge is something my husband will always accept. My husband is a great man. I love him. He telephoned all our relatives and friends in the district. And he got up a roster. For every day in the week, a list of people which he stuck up on the kitchen wall. And these people came in for one hour each to work with me. Roald told them what to teach me. Reading, writing, arithmetic — the works.

* * *

"It was just like school all over again, only tougher. Much tougher. God, they were marvelous people."

She recoverd. Daughter Lucy was born in April 1965 — healthy.

'BEST CURE

Then, Dahl thought getting her back to work was the best cure in the world for her.

"When the producer Edgar Lansbury and director Ulu Grosbard came to me and asked me to do the film, I didn't think I could," she said of "Roses." "But my husband though I could."

She could. And she did. And, after a day or two of reluctance, she adored doing it.

* * *

Perhaps her own tragedies gave an extra dimension to her portrayal in "The Subject Was Roses," a depth, a realism. Or, perhaps a sympathetic audience saw it there. But it was there, brimming through those marvelously expressive, sad eyes, oozing through her husky voice, reaching out in her warm smile.

Grosbard: "From the first day in front of the camera, she was like a racehorse out to win. And she did it with such ease and such energy that only after it's all over can you realize the sheer magnificence of the woman."

Theater Group's Problem Odd

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW ORLEANS — An odd audience problem confronts the New Orleans Repertory Theater.

"We've proved the generation gap," says Stuart Vaughan, producing director of the company which was set up three years ago under an experimental federal venture into drama education.

★ ★ ★

Primarily aimed at providing high school students with a sustained opportunity to find out what live theater is all about, the project seeks also to develop a faithful throng of adult theater goers.

Things haven't quite worked out as expected, so far.

Through this season, 68,000 sophomore, junior and senior pupils will have regularly attended productions by the city's first resident professional troupe in a half-century. Attendance at public performances has just lagged along, barely reaching 51 per cent of capacity.

LOOKING FOR AN AUDIENCE — The New Orleans Repertory Theatre has won half its battle for support. An experimental federal venture into drama education, it has had 68,000 regular attenders this season among the city's students. But it is the city's first resident professional troupe in a half-century, and the adult audiences have not yet been won over.

MASS MOVEMENT

"We're getting into the majority of homes all over New Orleans and two neighboring parishes," Vaughan declares, "but parents aren't coming to the theater in any kind of expectable percentage."

The situation is of current concern because the five-play schedule from now through May 31 marks the windup of the pilot undertaking by the U.S. Office of Education — with $328,000 annually — and the National Endowment for the Arts — $100,000.

★ ★ ★

Similar projects are supported by the two agencies in Providence, R.I., and Los Angeles, the latter in its second year.

Vaughan and Walter Ryan, the troupe's general manager, are neither discouraged nor dismayed, however, by the prospects for survival.

ON THE LINE

"There's no evidence that the people of New Orleans are blind to our value," asserts Vaughan. "We're putting it right on the line," adds Ryan. "We're not stressing culture or the necessity of helping artistic effort, but on a factual basis that if they feel what we are doing is worthwhile, they have to support us."

★ ★ ★

All of the students in the participating 35 public, parochial and private schools (this year's total: 42,000) prepare for attendance with carefully worked out classroom studies prepared by district school boards.

★ ★ ★

"Pupils who started as sophomores when the project began," Vaughan points out, "will through this season have seen a dozen highly professional productions from Shakespeare to Ionesco. It is also significant that these young adults don't often meet cause-committed adults, and they get a feeling all the over-30 generation is dead. In the theater they become acquainted with some very committed people and this is one of the important values of this work."

POSSIBLE EXTENSION

Completion of the three-year Repertory Theater school-coordinated program may enable the company to branch out.

Vaughan and Ryan would like to see some kind of school participation continue, possibly with a half-dollar charge per pupil to help replace terminated federal assistance. Box office revenue from public performances is expected to continue at about the current $100,000 level.

★ ★ ★

Season subscribers are off a bit from last season's 5,000, a circumstance which Ryan expects will be counterbalanced by an upturn in single performance sales.

★ ★ ★

Keeping a lease on the playhouse is another large concern. When school boards last year banned the theater management from further intermission sale of popcorn and hot dogs, the owners upped the annual rental from $50,000 to $75,000. This year's rate is $65,000.

SEEKS STABILITY

Vaughan hopes to increase Rep stability by finding a summer home for the 16-player company "to extend the earning life of this year's productions and to give us a head start on rehearsal for next year."

Czech Situation Played Down

Soviets Hoping World Forgets

MOSCOW (AP) — Four months after the invasion of Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union is counting on its being forgotten or at least quietly accepted.

The official press still proclaims that the Aug. 20 intervention was necessary to keep Czechoslovakia Communist and to defeat an imperialist plot.

But after months of harping on mistakes attributed to Czechoslovak liberals, newspapers now rarely mention the subject, and the current Kremlin message is "Let's get back to business as usual."

The Soviet argument goes this way: The Czechoslovak intervention was a Communist family affair, and the strong reaction to it in the West and among some independent Communist parties is unjustified. Thus there is no reason for not going ahead toward talks with the United States about disarmament and missile limitation; with cultural exchanges and with a world Communist conference. All of these were disrupted or delayed in protest against the invasion.

For Soviet newspaper readers the emphasis is on economic plans for the next year, preparations for Lenin's centennial in 1970, China, the Middle East and the Vietnam peace talks in Paris.

Many Soviet citizens seem relieved to have Czechoslovakia disappear from the headlines. Uneasiness during the early days of the intervention came apparently from a deep-seated dread of war, rather than some general moral judgment. For most citizens, limited to Soviet sources for their information, it was enough that intervention did not lead to open conflict.

A Moscow man said the chief significance for him was that his son had been called to military duty. "He was awakened early in the morning by a knock at the door and told to leave immediately for active duty," the man recalled.

Now he has returned to civilian life, the father added with obvious relief.

BITTER MEMORY

But for many Soviet intellectuals and a small group of active dissenters, the invasion will long be a bitter memory.

Five who attempted a protest on Red Square in late August are serving prison or exile sentences. Their demonstration, quickly squelched by police, was the only open stand known to have been taken by Soviet citizens against the invasion.

Prominent individuals, alone or in groups, are reported to have written private letters to government or party leaders like Leonid I. Brezhnev, objecting to the action in Czechoslovakia. But their views have never been published here, and their protests, including one supposedly made by poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko, are not generally known. The only protest actions which Soviet citizens can get away with are those so private or low-keyed that they go practically unnoticed by the public.

An example of low-keyed protest was provided this month when 20 intellectuals gathered on a busy Moscow square and stood bareheaded and silent for about 10 minutes. There were no placards and no speeches. The average passerby had no idea that this demonstration was against curbs on intellectual freedom.

INFORMATION LIMITED

Unless Soviet citizens are interested or are in a position to hear foreign broadcasts, their only information on Czechoslovakia comes from the Soviet press and radio.

One unusually outspoken Soviet journalist suggested that the invasion had resulted in votes for Richard M. Nixon and his call for firmness in dealing with Communists.

Asked his view on the election, this man expressed this belief: "We elected Nixon. Brezhnev picked the next U.S. president."

Pros, Cons of Rule by Castro Weighed

HAVANA (AP) — On Jan. 1 Fidel Castro will have been in power 10 years. The decade has produced deep changes in Cuba, but the result so far is neither the shining example that Castro backers hoped for nor the widespread threat to the hemisphere that his detractors feared.

* * *

Pro-Castroites acknowledge that their revolution still has a long way to go, but contend that the Castro kind of government is a success. For many, it is enough that he is still around, after the U.S. economic boycott, the Bay of Pigs invasion and the 1962 missile crisis.

A look back shows evidence to support both viewpoints. A rundown on some pros and cons of 10 years of Castro government:

EDUCATION

The illiteracy rate is down and government figures show school enrollment is 2½ times what it was in pre-Castro days. An estimated 150,000 young Cubans are government scholars, with food, clothing and lodging furnished. The figure is projected to double in the early '70s. Per capita expenditures for education have risen about 400 per cent in 10 years.

The government faces a problem of accommodating those who want a university education. Present university enrollment is around 40,000, with the number eligible for college expected to be 10 times that in a few years. Most seem destined for technical schools, or, as Castro indicated in a Dec. 8 speech, headed for a work-study plan at the country's factories, hospitals and state farms.

Visiting experts working with college graduates say the government's insistence that university students be militant revolutionaries first and scholars second has killed the initiative of some.

HEALTH

The government has increased hospitals from 44 in 1959 to 177 in 1967. It has established 264 health centers not available before.

By concentrating on doctors, Castro has plugged the drain of physicians to the United States. Cuba's doctors now number 7,000 compared to 6,300 before the Revolution.

One of the requisites to graduate is that physicians serve two years in rural areas.

In preventive medicine, the government says it has not had a polio case since 1964 and no cases of indigenous malaria since June 1967. The Health Ministry says the infant mortality rate has been cut.

HOUSING

Families often crowd one house, and an apartment in Havana or elsewhere is almost impossible to find without official help. Many young couples are forced to live apart or at home.

The government has built thousands of prefab housing units, many in rural areas, but a fraction of those needed. Castro said that beginning in 1970, with increased cement production, the government hoped to turn out 100,000 units per year.

Reduction of rents to 10 per cent of income helped hundreds of thousands, but the luster has faded as repairs have become difficult and money less valuable. Most slums have been eliminated.

ECONOMY

In the opinion of most observers, the economy is the key to the Cuban revolution. There is disagreement whether Castro's latest ideas and planning will straighten up the economy or drag it down farther.

With $1 billion in nationalized U.S. inventory Castro started out emphasizing industry. Sugar production, which accounts for more than four-fifths of foreign exchange, suffered. In 1964, the emphasis was turned back to agriculture.

In foreign trade, Havana has continued to do most of its business with Communist allies while punching holes in the U.S. economic blockade. Most Western trade sources here view the Washington boycott as a nuisance for Castro but a propaganda tool for him. They say the real problem for Cuba is money. With it, Cuba can buy almost anywhere from almost anybody, regardless of the U.S. boycott.

Cuba continues to trade at a deficit with the Soviet Union, opening itself to Kremlin economic and political pressure.

* * *

Anti-Castroites are fond of saying that Castro has transferred Cuban dependence on the United States to the Soviet Union. This overlooks a basic difference in the relations the United States had with Cuba and the arrangements Havana enjoys with Moscow.

Trade figures, however, are surprisingly silmilar: Cuban trade with the United States in 1959 was $910 million; with Russia in 1968 it was about $912.5 million.

POLITICS

The Communist party of Cuba for all practical purposes, is the government. It is firmly entrenched in all ministries.

Party membership probably exceeds 50,000. Membership means honor, extra work and responsibility. At lower levels, privileges are almost nonexistent. High party leaders, the intellectual community and top officials clearly live better than the average Cuban. Castro, however, has never permitted high living and in today's tough times the living standards of leaders is far from luxurious.

Big Story in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)— Radio Havana, official voice of the Fidel Castro regime, rated Cuba's top news stories of the year in a broadcast Wednesday night. Among the front runners were 14 speeches by Prime Minister Castro and the hijacking of airplanes to Cuba.

Kenyan's Daughter in U.S.

Jane Kenyatta Divides Life

By EARLEEN FISHER
Associated Press Writer

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Jane Kenyatta has divided her life into two parts since coming to Indiana University.

There's the Jane whose father, Jomo Kenyatta, became Kenya's first president in 1964, four years after the British let him out of the prison where he was detained seven years during and after the Mau Mau revolt.

* * *

Jane doesn't talk much about the subject. She's proud of her homeland but she's unwilling to comment on its policies and politics.

Of her father, she says: "I don't feel good when people say things that are untrue about my father. Like any other daughter, I know him as a father, as one should know one's father.

There's another Jane, a self-reliant 20-year-old college freshman who preferred getting lost on campus her first week to having someone lead her around. She wants to be just another student.

Jane says she came to the United States to study and not to speak for her country.

* * *

"I don't want to be involved in politics; that is not my field," she said in careful, fluent English.

On one political matter she does speak out: the Asians who live in Kenya. The situation has been misrepresented, Miss Kenyatta says, and some people have the impression Asians are being chased out of Kenya.

'COLOR NO DIFFERENCE'

"If my father did not want them to mix, he would not have allowed people to stay in Kenya who are not black," she said. If Kenya were a black nation for black people, everyone could not be a citizen, and there are Kenya citizens who are not black, she said.

"To me, color makes no difference. I've been trained to believe that people are what they are," Jane said.

* * *

Jane wants to be treated for what she is and not what her father is.

Jane arrived at Indiana University last March and, less than 24 hours after arriving, conducted her first—and, she hopes, her last-news conference. She answered questions about herself and her educational objectives, but brushed aside questions about her father and her country.

CHAMPION RUNNER

Since the news conference, her interviews with local newsmen have been limited to Jane herself, what she is doing and not what she thinks.

Jane had been Kenya's junior champion in the women's 220-yard run in 1967. Running in Indiana proved more difficult than in Kenya.

"It's harder here because of the humidity. I felt as if I were fighting against the air," she said.

* * *

Jane thinks her major subject will be something in biological sciences. She plans to return to Kenya after graduation, perhaps to teach or do research.

Her academic adviser, Miss Ethl Miles, said, "Jane is unusually mature in some ways."

* * *

Until Jane came to the United States, she had not traveled outside Africa, spending most of her time at girls' boarding schools and at her family's farm at Gatundu about 40 miles outside Nairobi. She does not speak of the years when the British imprisoned her father on charges of aiding the antiwhite, terroristic Mau Mau.

JUST JANE — Jane Kenyatta, daughter of Kenya President Jomo Kenyatta, wants to be just another student around Indiana University. The 20-year-old freshman hopes to major in biological science and return to Kenya after graduation.

ANCESTRAL HOME — In June 1968, the restored ancestral home of the Mellons in County Tyrone, Northern Ireland, was opened. It is a memorial to Thomas Mellon, who emigrated to the United States, settled in Pennsylvania and began amassing the fortune his heirs enjoy today.

Wealthy Patriarch Eases Grip on Reins

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Whereas the Gettys and the Rockefellers have become household names there are very few who can identify Richard King Mellon. But this quiet man guides the fortunes — no pun intended — of one of the richest families on earth. Now he appears ready to turn the job over to someone else.)

By DOUG BAILEY

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Richard King Mellon, for more than 30 years the guiding force of one of America's greatest family fortunes, is slowly giving up the reins of leadership.

This year he has spent less than half the normal working days in the serene offices of T. Mellon & Sons—the clearing house for the immense family holdings and charities.

* * *

Although there is no doubt that he is still the family patriarch, he has relinquished, one by one, dozens of directorships in business and civic groups until he is down to only a handful. He plans to disengage further, possibly next year when he turns 70.

However, he will probably never retire completely.

'ONE GOES ON'

"Short of being hopelessly incapacitated, there is no such thing as retirement for a man of property," he told a reporter last year in one of the few interviews he has granted during three decades as one of the most important, but least known, men in American business and finance.

"One goes on and on, doing what one has done before, if only because all the other choices in the day seem less important," he said.

* * *

There are no public figures on the wealth of the Mellons. Fortune magazine estimates it at $3 billion, making them richer than the Rockefellers and probably exceeded only by J. Paul Getty.

The main holdings are:

Gulf Oil Corp., the world's third largest producer of crude oil and the nation's 10th largest company in sales. The Mellons control 25 per cent of the common stock, with a market value of $1.9 billion.

$490 MILLION IN STOCK

The Aluminum Co. of America, the nation's largest. The family owns 30 per cent of the stock, worth about $490 million.

The Mellon National Bank & Trust Co., one of the country's largest. The family's equity is about $200 million.

* * *

RICHARD MELLON

With such wealth, the Mellons can live as they please. And they chose to live in comfortable, quiet good taste almost totally insulated from the public.

MODEST APPROACH

A measure of their approach: The office of T. Mellon & Sons is listed only once in the phone book and that is in regular type, not bold face.

Except for a talk with Fortune magazine last year, Mellon has not given an interview to a reporter in years. Even J. Stanley Purnell, Mellon's assistant in charge of public affairs, goes weeks without seeing him when he is around and commuting daily from Ligonier, one of the nation's wealthiest communities, to T. Mellon.

* * *

Associates are guarded when talking to outsiders about Mellon. Nevertheless, it is known that he loves the outdoors and is an avid hunter and rider. He owns a game preserve on Laurel Mountain just east of Ligonier where he bounces around on a jeep to do his shooting.

And it goes without saying that he is a consummate businessman who has nutured the family fortune.

UNOBTRUSIVE IN BUSINESS

However, even in business, the Mellons are unobtrusive. They rarely take a direct hand in managing the various interests preferring to pick their men and let them do the job.

"They do what they want to and what they have to," says Purnell. "They don't have to care what people think."

In recent years the family, led as usual by Richard Mellon, has turned toward civic enterprise and charity. Richard Mellon is generally given credit for a key role, if not the main role, in starting the cleanup of downtown Pittsburgh through the powerful Allegheny Conference.

Millions have been poured into the city's colleges and universities and into conservation, through the Western Pennsylvania Conservancy.

$700 MILLION

Typically, however, there are no figures on how much the charity totals. One estimate is $700 million since World War II.

Richard Mellon's disengagement leaves the family without a natural financial leader for the first time since Judge Thomas Mellon founded the bank almost 100 years ago.

* * *

Richard's cousin, Paul, son of Andrew Mellon, one of the judge's two sons and secretary of the treasury under three presidents—has concentrated on art and philantrophy, especially the National Gallery in Washington, D. C. His only son is moving in the same directions.

Of Richard's two sons, both adopted, only one, Prosser, 26, is working in the bank. The other son, Richard, tried business but has now moved toward conservation, history and oceanography.

Richard Mellon now sits on only five boards—the bank, Gulf, Alcoa, General Motors and the Penn Central Railroad. He plans to leave Penn Central soon and the others eventually, except Gulf.

When he leaves completely, T. Mellon cannot take up the slack as it is presently constituted, a informal meeting place where the family gathers to talk over common interests. It has no power and not even a formal organization. "We all pitch in to pay the phone bills," says Purnell.

ELIZABETH KIRCHNER

New YWCA Director Finds a Populous Work Sphere

By JANET ODELL
Women's Editor, The Pontiac Press

From the impersonal world of the laboratory technician to the very personal world of group social work is a giant step. Elizabeth Kirchner, new executive director of the Pontiac YWCA, took this step when she assumed her new job.

Early last year, a pilot program jointly sponsored by the Camp Fire Girls and the Girl Scouts, offered a 10-week course to women college graduates who were interested in going into some form of group social work, but lacked the necessary training.

* * *

While lab work is essential and interesting, it is a lonely occupation. Wanting to work with people is what spurred Miss Kirchner to look around for something else. This course seemed the perfect answer.

Lectures and discussions at the Rackham Building alternated with observation in the field and later, an intern-like arrangement. Elizabeth completed the course and chose YWCA work. She succeeds Mrs. Virginia Jackson who resigned the first of October.

A native of Detroit, Miss Kirchner grew up on the east side. She's a graduate of Marygrove College.

During her two months on the job, she has been feeling her way — both within the YWCA program and in the Pontiac area itself. Although still commuting from Detroit, she expects to move closer to the job in the near future.

Her leisure time interests include reading, travel, bridge, occasional golf and 14 nieces and nephews.

Sensible View on Divorce Is So Important

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

I want to thank Mrs. Ross for her discussion of a problem faced by many divorcees and her sensible and generous viewpoint. I am delighted to send her a copy of Emily Post's Etiquette for her prize-winning letter of the week.

*

Too many people do "take sides" in a divorce and forget, as Mrs. Ross suggests, "that it is almost never one-sided." Tolerance is a wonderful virtue, and I hope her letter will serve to make many of you think of the loneliness and hurt caused by unthinking people who simply forget to look at all sides of a question before making a judgement.

* * *

A true friend is one who stands by when needed, whether he entirely approves of the other's actions or not. Families who do not "take sides" show more than the usual sense of fairness and understanding.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been involved in a divorce and have had many of the feelings that one of your readers, a Mrs. L., expressed. It is unfortunate that some "take sides." It is also true that many who appear to take sides really don't want to, but are forced to by family or friends.

* * *

What often happens is that friends of the couple — or relatives, for that matter — like both partners and continue to, even after the divorce. This doesn't seem unreasonable to me because, after all, people can be friends even though one may not like many things the other has done.

* * *

When people invite both ex-husband and ex-wife to a party, it may be construed by some as a mockery — but to others there would be room for both "ex's." The further thing, no matter how we hate to admit it (especially if we obtained the decree) no divorce is onesided!

I hope my ex-husband's family doesn't think my friendship with them is for spite or a betrayal of them to my ex-husband. I have dear, fond feelings for them and miss the family times together.

* * *

The few times we are together are warm and lovely, and in a way, make up for the void I feel because when we divorced I had to leave a family I had grown very close to. The situation seems only as difficult as some people want to make it. — Mrs. A. Ross

Design by Waterford Student Wins

Jeannette Sutherland, 16, sophomore at Waterford-Kettering High School, submitted the winning program cover design for the Meadow Brook Theatre's world premiere production, "The Second Coming of Bert."

Miss Sutherland will be awarded four tickets to attend the opening night performance Jan. 2 as a special guest of the theatre. Following the performance, she will be introduced to playwright Ronald Chudley backstage.

The play will continue through Feb. 2.

* * *

Debra Ledford, also a Waterford-Kettering student, has had her design for "Long Day's Journey Into Night" selected for use in an advertisement for that play which will appear on the inside back cover of the program for "The Second Coming of Bert."

A FIRST

This is the first time that Meadow Brook Theatre has used one of the submitted designs for this purpose.

The winning design for "Long Day's Journey Into Night" has not been announced as yet.

* * *

Miss Sutherland is the daughter of Mrs. Bruce Sosebee of Marston Street and Richard L. Sutherland of Oxford.

Miss Ledford's parents are Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Monk of Kempf Street.

* *

"The Second Coming of Bert" deals with an ineffectual man who stumbles into an isolated and fanatic religious colony. The members are awaiting the miraculous resurrection of their long-dead prophet and decide that the stranger is the prophet in another guise.

John Fernald says, "We are honored to introduce this new playwright. I believe Ronald Chudley will be judged to have given us a thought-provoking play as well as a good story for the theatre."

Chudley is a New Zealander who now makes his home in Toronto, Canada.

Ticket information about this play and "The Magistrate" which continues through Dec. 29, may be obtained by calling the box office at Meadow Brook Theatre, Oakland University, Rochester.

Pianist Istomin Starts Symphony Season January 2

Pianist Eugene Istomin will be the guest soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra for the first concerts of the New Year, on Jan. 2 and 4, at 8:30 p.m. in Ford Auditorium.

Sixten Ehrling, recently returned from guest appearances in Europe, will conduct.

Istomin will play Brahms' Piano Concerto No. 2. The orchestra will perform Wagner's Prelude to Act I of "Lohengrin" and Beethoven's Symphony No. 4 Thursday. On Saturday, Chavez's "Sinfonia India" will replace the Wagner selection.

* * *

Istomin began his concert career in 1943 when he won both the Philadelphia Orchestra Youth Contest and the Leventritt award. He has appeared 14 times with the Detroit Symphony, as a soloist and as a member of the Stern-Rose-Istomin Chamber Trio.

He was most recently heard with the Detroit Symphony at the Meadow Brook Music Festival in 1966, where he also taught a master class in piano.

* * *

An exhibit of color photographs of Sixten Ehrling and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, by Detroit photographer George Phillips, will be displayed in the lobby on the two concert dates.

Thrill Is All Gone Now; Why Not Throw Him Out

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 27, have been married and divorced twice. I have two small children who are being raised by my mother.

About a year ago I started going with a man. He was married, with a family, but he said he was getting a divorce so we started making plans.

He moved in with me to save on expenses. His wife found out about us and now she's giving him a bad time. She won't take him back, but he has to support her and the kids anyway.

He doesn't help me financially, and with him living here it keeps me from seeing other guys. To tell you the truth, the thrill has worn off, and I'd like to get rid of him. He's a very weak man. I feel responsible for this mess, but why should I be stuck with this guy? What should I do?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: Throw him out. If he has nowhere else to go, he'll probably go home and beg his wife to take him back. And if you're in the market for a man, next time choose a single one. They make the best husbands.

DEAR ABBY: My 45-year-old wife came home all smiles and said, "A truck driver whistled at me today!"

Why is it that when a truck driver whistles at a lady she takes it as a compliment and doesn't get mad, but just let any other strange man lean out of a car window and whistle at her and she turns up her nose and gets insulted?

SOLLY

DEAR SOLLY: In the first place, truck drivers are a handsome, masculine good humored breed of men who enjoy a reputation for being a good judge of women. Also, when a truck driver whistles at a lady she feels safe. She knows he's not going to leave his rig and pursue her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DISGUSTED IN ASHTABULA": I am all for helping people in their hour of need, but I, too, am disgusted with this business of handing over my tax dollars for the welfare of women who have one illegitimate baby after another for the sole purpose of picking up the welfare check.

At the risk of being thought "hard-hearted and insensitive," I must say that I think a woman who bears more than one child out of wedlock should automatically become ineligible for welfare.

I know that Jesus told the scribes and Pharisees who brought Him a woman who had committed adultery, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." But did He not also say, "Go, and sin no more"?

Interlochen Now Center for the Arts

INTERLOCHEN, MICH. — To the world at large, Interlochen has been just that — Interlochen — even though it has been two distinct entities, the National Music Camp (founded in 1928) and the Interlochen Arts Academy (established in 1962).

Now the board of trustees has adopted a new name, one which will cover not only the two operating units but also the third, the Interlochen College of Creative Arts—which was chartered by the state last year. The new name: Interlochen Center for the Arts.

The single name was adopted chiefly because it aptly describes the over-all operation. Within it each unit will continue to carry its individual name.

Yet to the public across the nation and in musical circles around the world this probably will continue to be known simply as "Interlochen".

Gal Producer Spends Time 'Mooning' Over Her Career

GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — A friend called Joan Richman one day to ask, "Are you interested in space?"

And thereby began an unusual career for a St. Louis born girl who's watched the United States' current lunar spectacular with as much fascinated interest as any one of the scientists and technicians at Cape Kennedy and the Houston Space Center.

Miss Richman, an attractive brunette of 29, is coproducer for the space television specials which Walter Cronkite has been doing since American manned shots began in 1961.

"Do you realize the whole import of this:" says Miss Richman of the Apollo 8 moon orbit. "Man is seeing the moon closeup for the first time. And man is seeing his whole earth for the first time too."

Miss Richman talked about "working" a space liftoff and follow through just before departing for Cape Kennedy and helping to put on the CBS network launch.

She'll be on the project, helping to mastermind telecasts from Houston and tracking stations around the world until Apollo 8 splashes down in the Pacific off Samoa Friday morning.

PRODUCER

Miss Richman is one of the few women producers in network television and probably the only one whose world has been dominated by space shows.

The world involves everything from deciding how many writers and technicians are necessary to stage the show to figuring placement of cameras and where special telephone lines must be strung. And most of all, it involves knowing right down to the atom what goes on with a space shot.

Miss Richman, who once was "a simple English major," can tell you that America's three astronauts — Frank Borman, James A. Lovell and William A. Anders — swung into earthly and then lunar orbit in an 83 foot long spacecraft, that the Saturn 5 which lifted the craft into the heavens is 59 feet taller than the Statue of Liberty, is more powerful than 92,500 locomotives, has the thrust of 115 Boeing 707s at takeoff, weighs in at 6,220,025 pounds, as much as the nuclear submarine Nautilus.

It was just by chance that Miss Richman is in space. Right out of Wellesley College in 1961, she landed a job at the network clipping newspapers for its library. Soon she was promoted to research.

Then a friend, in the special events department, hearing of an opening, called to ask if she were interested in space.

"I didn't know anything," Miss Richman recalled, "None of the technical side of space exploration. But I began a cram course of reading for myself, and of course as the program itself has developed, we all have learned.

She was reading up on the moon the day we talked.

Eight-year-old Janice Marie Hutcherson of Macon, Miss., smiles as she holds her favorite doll before leaving a New Orleans hospital Christmas Eve only 11 days after delicate open heart surgery. Remember When They Couldn't Walk?

By BETTY CANARY

It is a pleasant thing, watching all your children go off to school each morning. But, blessed as I am with an almost photographic memory, it seems only yesterday that I had a toddler tearing magazines in the hall while the baby chewed sofa pillows in the living room.

As a matter of fact, it WAS yesterday, because that's when my friend Claudia brought her two children for a visit.

"Isn't he a-DOR-able?" I cooed, pulling her two-year-old out of the fireplace. "Here, John," I pleaded, "don't you want to tear up another magazine?" He didn't want to. He didn't exactly say so, but the way he kept hitting me with my best silver candy dish led me to believe this.

"Did you read about the woman in California who went on strike??" Claudia asked.

"Yes, yes, I did," I replied from the closet where I was busily retrieving baby Kevin. "She wants better working conditions in the home," I said, brightly, scrubbing at the mashed bananas on my green chair.

"She is only 23 and has three children," Claudia said, mopping up the floor and dragging John into the bathroom.

"How old are you?" I asked. "I was 26 last August but some days I feel 80," she called from the basement, where she was trying to dissuade John from dismantling the furnace.

* * *

"I know what you mean," I answered as I nailed shut the basement door.

"It isn't that I don't love the kids," Claudia screamed, as she ran to get the baby off the top shelf of the closet, "and it isn't that I don't love my husband," she continued from the dining room, where John was rhythmically beating the stereo with a candlestick, "but, sometimes I wonder if I can get through another day!"

* * *

"The nights are what always bothered me," I remarked, rescuing Kevin from the garbage can.

"Yes, my husband always says, 'I can't get up and give the medicine I'm tired! I work all day!' "

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon O. Cogswell of Sunhill Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Anne Kathryn, to Philip A. Fitch. He is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Virgil Fitch of Spring Valley, Minn. The bride-elect is a senior at Pillsbury Baptist Bible College, Owatonna, Minn., her fiance's alma mater. They will wed in June.

Workshops for Nurses

Three one-day workshops on Jan. 7, Feb. 5 and April 2, 1969, will be presented by the Detroit District, Michigan Nurses Association at Mercy College, Detroit.

All workshops will deal with the care of the acutely ill patient.

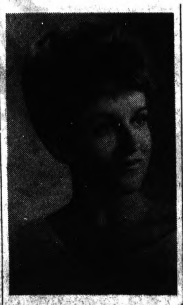
* * *

Registration is at 8 p.m. with morning sessions beginning at 9 a.m. Following a luncheon at 12:30 a.m., the afternoon session begins at 12:45.

The workshops are open to all registered nurses. Reservations should be called into the Detroit District, M.N.A., office Fisher Building, Detroit, by Dec. 27.

Dry Touch-Up

To keep hair always looking clean and well-groomed, invest in one of the instant dry shampoos. New in an aerosol form, they're excellent for reviving oily locks in a hurry. Just spray lightly, fluff your hair, wait a minute or two, then brush.



A May wedding is planned by Joann Marie Blain and Donald David Johnson. The bride-elect is the daughter of the James F. Blains of LeGrande Street and her fiance is the son of the Raymond F. Johnsons of Pontiac Lake Road.

'Relax at Mealtime' Parents Are Advised

EAST LANSING — To make mealtime pleasant for children, parents should put aside the cares of the day and come to the table in a relaxed and expectant frame of mind, according to Dr. Portia Morris, food specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University.

* * *

Dr. Morris says parents also should consider what the child is doing at the moment he is called to dinner. An advance warning that "dinner is just about ready" will not suddenly snatch him away from play or his favorite TV program.

"To reduce those times when the child comes to the table hungry and upset because of a late meal, try to serve meals as regularly as possible," suggest Dr. Morris. "Children, like plants and animals, thrive on regularity in nourishment.

If the meal must be delayed too long, you might feed the child in the kitchen as soon as the main course is ready. Then let him join the family for dessert."

* * *

The theory that children will eat when hungry is fairly safe, says Dr. Morris. Urging children to eat when they are not hungry only makes them more resistant.

Children sometimes lose their appetites because they nibble between meals. Some can wait until mealtime, while others require food more often. A mid-morning or mid-afternoon snack may be desirable over constant nibbling.

Despair Turns Adults Back

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A university of California psychiatrist says many adults today, "despairing of society's goals and finding little meaning in traditional middle-class values," are attempting to pattern their lives to those of adolescents.

* * *

Dr. Alan F. Leveton, professor of psychiarty and pediatrics at UC's San Francisco Medical Center, says, "The adolescent is creative, exploring, not yet rigidified into an 'establishment'-approved role."

HAS APPEAL

This life-style appeals to the adult who finds the "establishment" anti-human, dishonest, manipulative, empty, unworkable, or simply lacking in fun, says Leveton.

Sanitize Linens Following Illness

If anyone in your family has had a cold or flu, both pillows and bed-linens may harbor the pesky germs unless they are subjected to high-temperature treatment.

* * *

Many professional laundries provide a steam-sterilizing service for pillows, and a similar "health treatment" for blankets, sheets and pillow cases. Pillow-restoring is frequently offered as a special priced feature in connection with other laundry services.

Be Elegant in Pants

Pants are "in" for evening wear. They go along with the trend toward "casual elegance" that's revolutionizing the American scene.

The Fred Hassenzahls of Alberta Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Lawanda May, to Sgt. James D. Parker Jr., USAF. He is the son of Rev. and Mrs. James D. Parker of Newton, Kan. The bride-elect is a senior at Oakland University.

Polly's Pointers

Spools for Yule Tree

DEAR POLLY — Please ask the readers how they get model car glue out of their children's clothes. Washing does not do it, nor spot removers nor fingernail polish remover. The glue leaves white spots on their pants and shirts. With four boys making model cars, I really need help.—CAROLE

DEAR POLLY — Like Mrs. M. C. K., I, too, do a lot of sewing and I put my many empty spools to work as Christmas tree decorations. I painted the spools the bright traditional colors, ran a string through the spool and then through a big bead, broken earring or glittery button, larger than the hole in the spool.

Doubled the string back through the spool and added another bead, button, etc., at the top. Allowed enough string or ribbon at the top to hang this on the tree. With a little imagination you can go a long way with this basic idea.—MRS. H. W. N.

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. P. N. M. wanted to know how to brighten a stainless steel spoon that had accidentally been burned and from which the bad discoloration has been removed. I suggest cleaning the spoon with copper cleaner. This also works on stainless steel sinks and restores their original satiny finish.—MRS. R. C.

Younger Set Is on Dance Floor

"The Second Night of Christmas" will be celebrated by the BOPOF'Rs at a formal dance at Oakland Hills Country Club tonight. The "Chessmen" will provide music from 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Cochairing the event are Lenore Briggs, Steve Coyer, Phil DiMambro and Dan Tomlinson.

Plan to Wed

Mr. and Mr. Warren A. Schwartz of Rochester announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Lynn, to Randy Floyd Hinds.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd J. Hinds of Michelson Street, Avon Township. Feb. 22 vows are planned. He has attended Flint Junior College.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

The fabric shops have such glorious fake furs these days that I can hardly resist touching them. I am wondering just what they can be used for, surely everyone doesn't intend making full length fur coats. I'd buy some tomorrow if you'd make some suggestions.

Mrs. L. O. O.

Dear Mrs. L. O. O.

If you would look around your better shops, you would be surprised to find the many uses for these lovely fake furs. I'll try to name a few of them. Fake chinchilla and thick polar bear white fur make lovely muffs, collars, edgings on suits and coats for that Russian or Cossack look!

If you are young and have a great figure, they are also used for skirts, the new hostess slacks and vests. They make marvelous hoods, capes, pillows and belts. You can actually use every scrap for something. They seem expensive at times when the price is quoted by the yard; however, they are usually very wide, so don't be discouraged before you find out what the exact cost will be.

The fake ocelot, cheetah and pony make great bed throws for your boys' rooms or for vacation or weekend homes. They don't show soil and are practically indestructible, and besides, they are usually washable. I have also seen very attractive window shades and lamp shade covers made of fake furs.

These are usually finished with heavy braid trimmings. All you need is plenty of imagination and the courage of a designer or decorator and fake furs will open up a whole new world for you.

They are not problem to stitch on the sewing machine; simply pull out the fur hairs from the seams with a needle and you won't even be able to find the seams.

RE-VAMP

If you're suddenly faced with an invitation and haven't time to make something new, there are many tricks you can use to make last year's dress look new. You may add feathers to the hem, one of the new brocade ribbons for a belt a band of fur on the edge of the sleeves or the hem.

There doesn't seem to be "too much" one can add to a dress this year, the sky's the limit! I have seen lovely brocades with beaded, jeweled trimmings, plus fur bandings at the hem, collar or down the center front. Seems that everything goes — just look at your better clothes. Use your own imagination and add "flair" to your holiday dress.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

This week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner is Mrs. Richard Scranton, Pittsburgh, Pa. for the following sewing tip.

For women who like to put shanks on their buttons, but who find that a pin inserted on top of the button slips and slides out, I use a bobby pin which has arippled edge on it. The ripples hold the thread in place without sliding and can be removed quite easily.

Holiday Coffee for Two Groups

Groups — And II of the North Suburban Alumnae of Alpha Chi Omega will present a holiday coffee on Friday. Mrs. John Bartlett of Birmingham will open her home for this 10:30 a.m. event.

Cohostesses are Mrs. Edward Burroughs and Mrs. Donald Storck. Any Alpha Chis in the area may attend.

Top Off Costume

Colorful knit caps help keep heads warm through the winter months. For fashion diversion, try a cap of a different color to brighten up last year's outfit or to add extra spark to this year's ensemble.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Austreng of Elira Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Marie, to John Denison of West Huron Street. He is the son of Mrs. Clifford Chapman of West Palm Beach, Fla., and Clark Denison of Lake Orion.

B'nai B'rith Subs for Police

A dozen members of B'nai B'rith did patrol car duty and clerical work at the police station Christmas Day to give policemen extra hours off duty.

★ ★ ★

One of the men assigned to a patrol car with a regular policeman saw action during his tour. He directed traffic at the scene of an accident, police said.

A graduate of the Judges' School of Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, Mrs. Arthur Cox of Milford keeps her eyes open for natural treasures. The focus of this arrangement is a cherry bough, about which grape vines had entwined themselves to form the twisted effect. A wood base, cuttings of Australian pine and imitation poinsettia blossoms make an idyllic setting for a Madonna.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

So much is written about women and their problems in health and beauty and psychology! We tend to forget men also become overweight, grow older, and sometimes become frustrated or discouraged.

Its' about time we gave them more attention! While my column is written especially for women, many men read it since I often write about subjects interesting to both sexes. Therefore, several times a year I direct a column toward my masculine readers and their wives.

For years, men have been "bringing home the bacon," have been towers of strength for the little women to lean on, have been putting the children through college, and have worn almost exactly the same type of clothing season after season.

If they evidenced too much pride in their "figger" they were thought to be vain.

Fortunately, this has all changed. The informed man knows overweight is a health hazard. He is interested in his diet as a preventive measure gainst the threat of heart trouble as well as because of his figure.

Masculine clothing has become gayer, brighter, and much more varied than it was not so long ago. You see ruffled shirts and quite ornate custumes. AND, men have joined the hair revolution! Beards have become more usual and sideburns are spreading across the country like an epidemic.

Not only that, while his lady sports her wigs and falls and blinks her false eyelashes, the man in question can wear a flase mustache. Yes, these are now available. Isn't that great? A man (and his wife) can see if it is becoming without waiting for him to grow one.

He can wear it on special occasions as his wife does her extra hair pieces. Why not? I think it is time we gave the men a break

Don't throw away those plastic tops from small medicine containers. Use them for caps on spools of sewing thread to prevent tangled threads.

Money Management

Booklet Tells Secret of Housekeeping

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Maybe you've recently moved into the ranks of working wives, determined to keep your job, your house and your husband. But now you're finding out that keeping all three is more than a one-woman job.

The house is untidy — not even clean all over — and your husband's beginning to mention it. So you're wondering if hiring a once-a-week helper with the household chores would be a sound investment, even if it does mean one more bite out of your paycheck.

No question about it. It is — if your helper gives you a fair return for your money. And here's where you need to look at both sides of the employer-domestic situation. You won't be home when she's doing the chores. If she works for other businesswomen, they aren't home when she's working in their houses.

So who has the time to give her some on-the-job training? Keep in mind that some of the domestic workers in today's market, new to the job, are unskilled in the fine art of housecleaning, even though they're able and willing. They just haven't had the opportunity to learn the most efficient methods of planning and operation. Taking proper care of equipment and cleaning tools is something nobody's even taken the time to explain to them.

BOOKLET

Needless to say, merely griping about things left undone around the house will get you nowhere. There's a much better solution. It's a 15-cent booklet entitled "Simplified Housekeeping Directions for Homemakers," put out by the government's Department of Housing and Urban Development.

It tells in simple language — and shows with plenty of sketches — how all the chores can be done more easily and efficiently. All you need do is hand this booklet to your new helper, with the honest comment that it gives better directions more clearly than you could.

* * *

In fact, you'll want to read it yourself, page by page — because you're going to have to keep clean, six days a week, what your helper gets clean the one day she's there. Note the special tips on how to wash a refrigerator, how to cut an old whisk broom to the right shape to dust seams in upholstery, how to care for gas and electric ranges, how to wash woodwork — and how to clean the cleaning tools.

And equally important, how to plan the day's work so that more gets done in the right way.

There is a right way to do even the smallest job, so don't assume your domestic helper knows everything. Maybe you know how to boil an egg, but a lot of women who've been keeping house for years still don't.

* * *

They still take it out of the refrigerator, put it in hot water and boil it for three minutes — and wonder why the shell cracks and the egg's tough! Don't take it for granted that your helper necessarily knows how to wash a mop or take care of a carpet sweeper.

French Fashion Image Fading

PARIS (UPI) — One of the biggest shocks to Paris visitors is that the legendary chic Frenchwoman has all but disappeared.

It's even beginning to shock the French themselves.

A Paris panel of fashion experts got together recently and announced that too many of their countrywomen had too few dresses in their wardrobe and those were not particularly exciting.

★ ★ ★

The fault, they decided, was not so much with the women themselves as the French fashion industry — particularly the retailers who prefer the large profit of selling one expensive garment rather than two inexpensive ones.

The result is that the customer buys one expensive dress that will do for every occasion, rather than buying a daytime outfit and a cocktail dress, for example.

She will pay as much as a New Yorker who shops at exclusive specialty shops or department stores but her budget will generally be less than half that of her American counterpart.

The average Frenchwoman has two other alternatives. One, the traditional French seamstress, is becoming scarcer and scarcer, as well as more expensive.

SHODDY

The second is cheap, poorly made ready-to-wear garments primarily aimed at a young market. It is not at all uncommon for a dress in the $20 to $40 range to have an uneven hemline or some other equally blatant flaw that would immediately mark its wearer as badly dressed.

★ ★ ★

It is not surprising that many Frenchwomen seek a third way out — a quick shopping trip to London where they will have a large choice of dresses between $15 and $30 turned out by the efficient, imaginative ready-to-wear trade.

Punishment of Children Said to Affect Their Body Chemistry

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Man's poor adjustment to civilized life has been blamed for everything from stomach ulcers to warfare. According to theory, he has the adrenaline system of a primitive and the social needs of a civilized man.

★ ★ ★

The stress hormone — adrenaline — enabled primitive man to fight or flee for his life, but modern man can't express himself so easily that way.

This argument depends, however, on how stable the adrenaline system is and how impervious to experience.

According to a growing body of information, human adrenaline patterns are not at all immune to the effects of early experience. There is reason to believe that the kind of discipline a child receives in his early years greatly affects his adrenaline pattern, and not only the kind of punishment, but the specific age at which it is given.

Very early punishment — a good hard smack a day for children less than 21 months old — seems to create an adrenaline pattern suggesting aggressive traits. But later punishment at the same rate appears to have opposite effects — creating anxiety rather than aggressiveness.

★ ★ ★

The theory is that early punishment may habituate the child to stress, making him aggressive, while the same discipline given after a critical period results in intense reaction to stress, and a fearful child.

Evidence of such correlations between child discipline and adrenaline patterns comes from a cross cultural study of Swedish and Formosan children. The study is not yet complete.

An individual's adrenaline pattern can best be understood as the ratio between two substances, one called nonadrenaline and related to aggression; the other called adrenaline and related to fear. Much work suggests that these two substances represent very different, opposing functions, says Dr. Patsy Sampson, a physiological psychologist at Wellsley College in Massachusetts and one of the investigators in the cross cultural work.

RATIOS VARY

Apparently, the higher the ratio of nonadrenaline over adrenaline, the more aggressive the individual will be, says Dr. Sampson.

In Sweden and Taiwan, the ratios vary according to the kind of punishment a child receives and its timing.

Formosan mothers start punishment late, compared to Western practice, but it can be quite severe. Of 64 children studied by Dr. Arthur Wolf of Cornell University, about half were hit rather than scolded as dicipline. These children had high adrenaline levels. The others, typically scolded, did not.

In a first draft of their preliminary work, the authors, which also include Dr. William Lambert, Cornell sociologist, speculate that the combination of late and rather harsh punishment could raise adrenaline levels to a point where children are living biochemically like laboratory subjects under stress.

DIFFERENT RESULTS

The Swedish material gave quite different results and pointed up existence of a critical age period. Dr. Lambert found that those children who were consistently smacked prior to 21 months of age had much lower adrenaline levels than those whose punishment began later.

The findings reflect early adaptation to frequent punishment, says Dr. Lambert.

They can also, of course, reflect genetic differences between children or cultures, which in turn cause parents to use different punishment methods.

"That is always a possibility with correlation studies," says Dr. Sampson. But she points out that the data looks much neater if punishment is viewed as a cause rather than an effect of adrenaline patterns.

INTERESTING

"At this point, the material is suggestive and very interesting, but tentative," she says.

Further confirmation should come from analysis of actual behavior among the Swedish and Formosan children, now in process, and from experimental work on animals, which so far supports the findings.

Perhaps the main argument in its favor, however, is its logic. The adrenalines, along with other hormones of the nervous system, have now been thoroughly implicated in personality. The level of nonadrenaline, for instance, affects mood, and a common treatment for depression is to raise nonadrenaline levels with antidepressant drugs.

★ ★ ★

If the hormones are viewed as personality traits, it only makes sense that parents, in shaping the child's personality, also shape his biochemistry.

African Tribe Saved

Better Diet Doubles Population

WASHINGTON — Three square meals a day have done wonders for the El Molo people of Kenya. Their population doubled in five years.

One of Africa's smallest and most primitive tribes, the El Molo live along the bleak shores of remote Lake Rudolf in northern Kenya, the National Geographic Society says.

Unable to grow crops or graze animals on the parched, rocky soil, the tribesmen for centuries have lived almost exclusively on fish caught in the alkaline waters. Their monotonous diet is sometimes varied with crocodile eggs or turtles.

Five years ago, experts feared the El Molo would perish from malnutrition. The tribe had dwindled to about 150. Insufficient carbohydrates produced bone deformities and retarded muscular development. Nearly everyone suffered from rickets or scurvy. Many of the old men hobbled along on crutches.

FOOD SUPPLIED

Then the Kenya Government and private relief groups started sending emergency food supplies. Government officials persuaded the tribesmen to trade surplus fish for meat, milk, fruits, and vegetables.

A population explosion resulted. Today, the tribe numbers almost 300. A new school teaches some 70 youngsters about modern life.

★ ★ ★

The Kenya Government offered to resettle the tribe on more fertile soil where they could herd cattle, sheep, and goats. But Chief Langot and his subjects politely declined: "We are a water people and want to stay near our lake."

No one knows how long the El Molo have lived near Lake Rudolf. European explorers discovered the tiny settlement only 80 years ago, when Count Samuel Telecki and Ludwig von Hohnel first sighted the glittering lake.

ORIGINS MYSTERIOUS

The origins of the tribe are equally mysterious. Some anthropologists believe they were originally Masai, who later mixed with nearby Gelaba, Rendile, and Samburu. This would explain their language, a dialect of Masai.

Others believe the El Molo are the last survivors of an unknown people unrelated to any other Kenya tribe.

The El Molo live in huts of twigs tied together and covered with water weeds. Stones anchor the flimsy shelters to the ground as protection against gale winds that sweep across the lake at 90 miles an hour.

★ ★ ★

The women wear short palm-fiber aprons. Men wear nothing but a few crude ornaments made from the bones of their formidable fish.

★ ★ ★

The El Molo fish from tiny rafts made of palm-tree trunks, using crude spears or handmade nets. The prize catch, a Nile perch, may weigh 275 pounds. One of these giants can provide dinner for the entire tribe.

Book Is Bull Market for 4-Letter Words

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If bawdy books are your cultural bag, you are undoubtedly familiar with the publishing firm run by Bernard Geis.

WEST

It is responsible for something called the "Geis formula" —sexy novels in which the main characters remind you of actual show-business celebrities.

★ ★ ★

Under the Geis imprint, literature has been enriched by such zingers as "Valley of the Dolls" and "The Exhibitionist."

One of the writers from the Geis stable, Ira U. Cobleigh recently spoke here at the American Newspaper Women's Club, and I imagine he had the ladies blushing furiously before he finished.

BROKERS HOT-BLOODED

I imagine that because Cobleigh is the author of "Happiness is a Stock that Doubles in a Year," which is a book about Wall Street. And you know how hot-blooded those brokers are.

Cobliegh's work isn't a novel, however, although part of it sounds a bit fictional. It is one of those how-to-make-money-in-the-market books that people buy for light summer reading.

★ ★ ★

The most dramatic chapter lists 30 stocks that Cobleigh believes likely to double in a year. This is the part that sounds a bit fictional.

I asked Cobleigh how he had managed to fit a book of that type into the Geis tradition.

ON MANY PAGES

"Well, I use a lot of four-letter words" he said. "On almost every page you will find words like bond, loan, note, cash, fund, rate and term."

I said, "Those are real shockers all right. You don't hear them very often in mixed company."

★ ★ ★

"That's true." Cobleigh said, "A reader may be jolted the first time he sees 'bond' in cold print.

"But let's face it — Wall Street is an earthy place. I didn't feel I could honestly relate information about the stock market unless I used the vernacular. I wanted to tell it like it is."

I asked, "Have you encountered any censorship problems?"

PRECONDITIONED

"No. People have been preconditioned by foreign movies and late night television shows, so they will accept things that might once have been taboo."

I said, "I realize your book is intended for adult readers, but isn't there a possibility it might fall into the hands of curious adolescents?"

"Well they've got to find out about the stock market sooner or later anyhow." Cobleigh said. "It's part of growing up."

Who Are Money Speculators?

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The past year has been an active one for gold buyers and currency traders — persons associated with terrible financial crisis. Who are the "sinister" traders? Are traders and gold buyers evil? The following story paints a picture of the currency dealer and gold buyer.)

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — Popular legend portrays the currency speculator as some shady character who sneaks across borders with suitcases full of money to make a killing on the foreign exchange market.

"There are too many easier ways of doing it," scoffed one French banker.

★ ★ ★

And it turns out that the real "culprit" is not the small-time individual, but corporations conducting what they consider to be good business.

"Corporations" said a London banker, "are everything. Individuals nothing."

Swiss foreign exchange dealers maintain that main impulses in currency trading comes from regular commercial transactions—not pure speculation.

SPECULATORS

Any corporation—American or foreign—dealing in exports and imports deals in foreign currencies. And in pursuit of legitimate interests of his company, an importer can contribute to what is labeled speculation.

"Suppose you're the treasurer of a big international oil company or someone else who does a lot of foreign business," a British government financial official said. "You have a payment coming due in a few months to some Arab sheikhs or an African government.

★ ★ ★

"Meanwhile, you have half a million (pounds) or so in cash. You read the papers like anyone else. You see the mark might be revalued upward. So you keep your money in currencies that good sense dictates—like the mark. If you don't, and you miss a killing on something like revaluation of the mark, you'll get the chop from your board, and you'll probably deserve it."

He thus becomes a money speculator.

Americans speculate. But they do it on the stock market.

If, for example, one owns a 100 shares in a company that has not been earning much lately, he isnt going to feel very secure.

★ ★ ★

Then if he learns that another firm has just won an important contract and its earnings and growth will rise, good sense dictates that he sell the former and buy the latter.

It happens every day on the stock market—where more than 20 million shares can change hands on a hot day on the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW TRADE

Trading in the stock market is customary for many Americans. But trading or dealing in foreign currencies isn't.

Like foreign languages, Americans have little need for foreign currencies.

Between New York and Chicago everybody speaks the same language and uses the same money.

★ ★ ★

Travel the same distance in Europe and you can travel from Germany, through France, Luxembourg, Belgium and Holland.

Each country, furthermore, has its own language and currency.

And today, as travel within Europe increases and communications about influences on currencies improve, buying and selling of currencies increases.

FRENCH LESSON

A Houston resident visiting Paris during last months crisis would not have been prudent to convert all his dollars into French francs. The rate was about five francs to the dollar.

If he did, and the franc were devalued, when he left the country for home he might have had to pay six francs for every dollar he wanted.

However, if hed been in Frankfurt, he would have been prudent to convert his dollars immediately, just in case the mark-dollar parity was changed through revaluation of the mark. after revaluation he would have had to pay more than a dollar for the four marks he got before revaluation.

A wise Zurich banker observed that "even those who used to deal only in apples and oranges today concern themselves with the monetary situation.

PSYCHOLOGY

What starts a rumor? What causes people or corporations to start selling the money they hold in order to get a different currancy?

"An ambiguous statement by a poitician, a deliberate leak anything, said a money dealer. "There is no rumor center although the London city certainly often sets the pace. He added that "We do not create monetary situations we are the spectators but we feel all the reprecussions.

AGAINST LAW

In London you apparently cant find anyone who admits to being a speculator. First, its against the law for the British to use their own currency to speculate.

"If we could find. a speculator, we'd prosecute in a minute," said a financial official.

★ ★ ★ ★

Second, the treasury, the Bank of England and commercial bankers all agree that its almost impossible to tell a "speculator" from a "prudent man" who acts wisely.

The fact that just a word or two is enough to start the money markets spinning was discovered recently by David M. Kennedy. Kennedy takes over as secretary of the Treasury next month when the new administration moves into the White House.

GOLD POLICY

At his first press conference, Kennedy refused to be led into saying flatly whether the Republican administration would keep the price of gold in official transactions between nations at its guaranteed $35 an ounce.

It didnt take lnng for the price of open market gold to surge upward and the dollar to weaken on most European markets. The London gold market opened at $41.825 an ounce, an overnight increase of 60 cents to the highest level in six months, and went on to $42 by the closing. The price was up 50 cents at the morning fixing in both Frankfurt and Zurich.

★ ★ ★

The dramatic rise was only on the free gold markets that were set up to end last March's gold crisis under a two-tier system. There was no effect on the price of gold in the official market used by governments where the price remained at $35.

It took a statement from Nixons press secretary that no change in the price of gold was anticipated to dampen the speculative fever.

PROFIT SEEKERS

Although much of the nervousness of the money markets can be traced to individuals and corporations trying to protect themselves, there are those who play the money game in the hope of turning a profit.

The president of a major New York bank said these included "wealthy individuals, Middle East money, Far East money."

William F. Butler, Chase Manhattan Bank vice president, said, that for the rich, "Its not a bad bet to put $10 million into gold. You can't really lose — because the U.S. guarantees the floor — and you might win a little or a lot.

"You also can borrow money to buy gold, and this gives you leverage. Put in $10 million and then borrow $100 million on the strength of this. If it goes up, you can make a lot of money. If it doesnt go up, it just costs you for the interest."

SIMPLE EXPLANATION

Butler said the same approach applied to speculation in currencies.

"If the mark had been upvalued and you had a lot of money in marks, you would have made some money. You couldn't lose because you knew the mark wasn't going to be devalued. With the franc, yo were betting it would be devalued and knew it wouldn't be upvalued."

★ ★ ★

The greedy, the fearful, the big guys and the little guys all have been involved in past monetary crises and are likely to be involved in future ones.

A jet-powered belt has been developed and will be flight tested soon which can propel a man for miles over rooftops, treetops or any other kind of terrain.

Repetitive Winning of Land-Lease Lotteries Mystifying

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Some oil lease brokers are repeatedly beating long-shot odds in lotteries for mineral leases on federal lands in oil-rich Wyoming. Government officials say they can't explain why.

"Some people are just lucky, I guess," said a Bureau of Land Management official, Lewis T. Miller. Last year Miller made a brief review of repetitive winnings, but conceded "We didn't attempt to justify or indicate a reason for these long odds."

★ ★ ★

An Associated Press investigation of the government's method of awarding thousands of potentially valuable leases — a system that amounts to legally sanctioned gambling — discloses that:

● A few oilmen, their relatives, friends and family companies all file for the same lease, improving the chances that one in the group will win the draw. "It's a shenanigan, but it's a legal shenanigan," said Michael Giller, the BLM official who devised the lottery system a decade ago.

PORING OVER RECORDS

Bureau of Land Management officials have all but abandoned attempts to prove collusion in the multiple filings. General Accounting Office auditors are poring over BLM lease records in Wyoming and Montana, but the watchdog agency refuses to say what its men are looking for.

● "Abuses are inherent," in the system, said Thomas J. Cavanaugh, an Interior Department attorney, but "we haven't met with any overwhelming acceptance when we go to the Department of Justice" with examples. He didn't elaborate.

● There's widespread discontent within the government over the lottery system, but the Interior Department hierarchy has yet to act on a secret report, prepared five years ago by a special committee, recommending that the procedures by drastically revised.

● Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall halted the lottery system and other methods of awarding leases in Alaska, where, he noted, oil companies recently discovered "enormously rich deposits."

His action came the same day Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel was named by President-elect Nixon to succeed Udall. And it came the day after AP reporters began interviewing Interior Department officials about the lottery system.

In issuing the Alaska order, Udall said, "It is just not good management for the federal government to lease these lands noncompetitively at this time when they would undoubtedly bring bonuses running into the hundreds of millions of dollars if leased competitively."

NONCOMPETITIVE

The Interior Department defines its lottery system as a noncompetitive method of determining the "priority of applicants" for leases on "wildcat lands — those not within a proven oil field. Sealed competitive bids are used to award leases on land within producing oil structures.

But many of the leases dispensed through the lottery system in Wyoming lie near the Rocky Mountains' Powder River Basin, described by petroleum experts as "the country's most active oil-producing province."

One company drilling near Basin, Wyo., this year hit oil that flowed at a rate of 6,000 barrels a day, or $18,000 at the current crude price of about $3 a barrel.

With bonanzas like this beckoning, thousands of persons — from Manhattan millionaires to Florida retirees — enter the monthly BLM lease lotteries. The volume of entries has tripled in the past year.

22,000 ENTRIES

Last month, for example, the BLM office in Cheyenne received more than 22,000 entries — each accompanied by the required $10 nonrefundable fee — for 240 Wyoming leases at stake. The drawing, held early this month, it produced the latest in multiple, long-shot winnings.

The scene: A square, green-walled room on the third floor of the Cheyenne federal building.

★ ★ ★

As a clerk called out, "Parcel 42," she dumped 176 blue stubs, each bearing a different number, into a drum-shaped cage. Another BLM employe cranked the drum. Then another federal employe — by regulation, not from the BLM — plucked a stub from the cage and handed it to a fourth clerk.

"Number 83-1452," this woman intoned. Walter L. Morrison, Box 2412, Salt Lake City, had won.

CAGE IS EMPTIED

The cage was emptied, the clerk called out "Parcel 43" and dumped 409 new stubs into the drum. It was cranked several turns, and a stub withdrawn.

"Number 83-1453," the clerk called out. Walter L. Morrison had won again.

Within less than a minute Morrison had won — at odds of 176-1 and 409-1 leases on a 280-acre parcel and a 600-acre parcel.

"Isn't that odd," remarked A. L. Simpson, BLM land manager who supervises the Wyoming drawing, when a reporter pointed to Morrison's back-to-back draws on the list of winners. "Those odds ... they're astronomical."

'NO RIGGING'

Simpson said in an interview he couldn't explain the double win, but said he is certain "There is no rigging of the drawing from in the office." He added, however, that he would like to see some other leasing system devised "to eliminate the human element."

Walter Morrison likes the present system. The 69-year-old oil land buyer, as he describes himself, said in an interview that if the lottery method should be replaced by competitive bidding "it will turn it all over to the major oil companies ... I'll quit."

★ ★ ★

He didn't view his back-to-back wins as too unusual. He and his wife, Kathleen, together entered 93 stubs in the last Wyoming drawings, he said. He won twice and she won twice, at odds of 13-1 and 12-1.

Morrison has been lucky before, because, he said, he holds about 100,000 acres of leases "in my land inventory."

MANY SUCCESSIVE WINNERS

The Wyoming lotteries have produced many successive winners before.

Last February, for example, Patricia Taylor of Wichita, Kan., won a 640-acre lease at odds of 37-1. On the next spin of the drum, she won a nearly 1,240-acre lease at odds of 33-1. After one intervening draw, Fred Taylor of the same address won another 1,240-acre lease in the same township at odds of 43-1.

Miller said in an interview that his review centered only on those individuals and firms that win large numbers of leases. It did not, he said, deal with long-shot successive wins.

"We didn't attempt to justify or indicate a reason for these long odds — we felt it was just one of those things that happen," Miller said. "Some people are just lucky, I guess. We can't contol that."

SMALL SECTION

Irving Senzel, assistant BLM director, said the bureau has a small compliance section, but "we don't have the funds to police it, to sleuth around" keeping track of multiple filings and lease assignments.

A person answering Western States Geological Service's advertisements receives a form letter saying the BLM drawing "is the game for those who like to flirt with Lady Luck. It is absolutely legal, you can play it on a tax-deductible basis, the odds are far shorter and the payoff potentially far greater than the Irish Sweepstakes.

"Some of these lands have had a potential of over $500,000 in royalty income for the winner. A great many parcels have a potential income value of from $100,000 to $250,000.

Tom Jones Has Talent, Lots of Luck

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Singer Tom Jones is jumping into American television with both feet. The Welsh-born entertainer —Tom Jones is his stage name —starts with a network special in January and a series of variety shows beginning in February as a mid-season replacement.)

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Had there been no empire-shaking Profumo scandal in London five years ago, Tommy Woodward might still be singing for cakes and ale in Welsh pubs on Saturday nights.

And had there been no hit movie called "Tom Jones," Thomas Jones Woodward might still be calling himself Tommy Scott.

However, by an assortment of curious twists of fate, Thomas Jones Woodward is one of the top recording artists of the English-speaking world, a man of financial substance who is about to become an American television star.

Tom Jones, as he became known after the Finney film turned into a gold mine, has appeared on American television, but is not one of those familiar faces visible at regular intervals on the networks' variety circuit. He is the possessor of a big, rich baritone and a special, emotional way with lyrics that have made him a darling of the nation's young record collectors as well as their elders.

MARKED BY LUCK

The transition of Tom Jones British recording star, to Tom Jones, star of his own TV show, has been marked by the same kind of luck that kicked him off to his first recognition.

Tom, son of a miner, was born in 1940 in Pontypridd, South Wales. Welshmen are expected to be singers the way Italians are expected to be pasta-lovers and Frenchmen wine connoisseurs, and the male Woodwards were right in the tradition.

Tom, who married at 16 and now is the father of an 11-year-old, started by working as a hod carrier for a Welsh builder, picking up an occasional extra pound or two performing on weekends in local working men's clubs.

Eventually he formed his own musical group and handled the vocal solos. Opportunity, thoroughly disguised, knocked when Mandy Rice-Davies, a young woman who had received considerable international notoriety with her connection to the Profumo case and was making personal appearances, had to cancel a scheduled booking in Wales on short notice. Tom was her emergency replacement, and his performance so impressed talent manager Gordon Mills, in the audience, that he signed the young man on the spot.

FORGED AHEAD

Since his first professional appearance under Mills' aegis, Jones has forged steadily to the top, which includes selling more than 24 million records and buying a house for his wife and son.

This is a television year when just about every entertainer who can carry both a tune and guitar has made a special. Jones turned out one for ABC which is scheduled for Jan. 9 broadcast. The tape of the show — made in London — arrived here at a critical period, when ABC, with more than its share of ailing programs, was frantically looking for possible midseason replacements.

Network executives liked the show, evaluated Jones' appeal to the younger viewers and signed him forthwith for a series of 13 weekly hours which will start on Feb. 7.

While the series, if successful, can only enhance Jones' career, the ABC contract forced him to forego a lucrative tour of nightclub appearances, including a month at Las Vegas, a fortnight at New York's Copacabana and three weeks in Australia.

'BLUE-EYED SOUL'

Students of popular music diagnose Jones' sound as "blue-eyed soul," which simply means emotional music usually associated with Negro singers sung by a talented white performer. Pop music snobs may be somewhat dashed by Jones' own explanation of the source of his style.

"At the beginning, I suppose I was particularly influenced by Negro singers — blues and country music," he said. "And, of course, gospel songs. The first thing that I can remember, though, was the movie, "The Al Jolson Story" with Larry Parks. The songs in that made me see that a white man could get the Negro feel for the music and words.

★ ★ ★

"Then I was impressed by Tennessee Ernie Ford and Elvis Presley and Boogie Woogie and the Beatles and lots more. I picked phrasing from lots of good singers, including some from Wales."

How will his variety hour be handled?

NEW TALENT

"Oh, we'll make an effort to introduce some new talent and fresh faces," he said. "That's not hard since we'll be making the shows abroad. And then we'll fly over some American performers to help out, too."

That's the way it was done in the prototype special — a guest star is Mireille Mathieu, a French singer who Jones described as "Petula's rival," plus those Yankee favorites, the Fifth Dimension, Dick Cavett and Juliet Prowse.

HEADED FOR THE TELLY—Welsh pop singer Tom Jones, top British record star, has been tapped for a U.S. television series beginning in February. It will follow a special to be shown next month.

Boy's Self-Image Called School Achievement Key

A little boy's image of himself together with his teacher's evaluation of him have much to do with his ability to achieve in school.

Not so with a little girl — her teacher's rating and her self-evaluation do not necessarily affect her grades.

★ ★ ★

These conclusions were reached by Dr. Lois Lewis in a research project at Pontiac's Whittier School. She is an educational psychologist on the staff of the Oakland Schools Psychological Clinic.

★ ★ ★

She began the study with the hypothesis that self-concept was related to school achievement and that teacher rating of pupil behavior also was related to the ability to accomplish school tasks.

She found this true of boys, but not of the girls, in the second and third grade groups she studied.

Previous research studies have noted that teachers consistantly praise girls, whereas boys are generally praised only when their work or behavior is in line with teacher expectations.

Dr. Lewis suggests that girls become so accustomed to favorable reaction from their teachers that the relationship between achievement and self-concept is minimized.

Similar studies have been made at the high school and college level with similar findings, Dr. Lewis said. Her concern with younger children was to indicate some factors that might be modified early in the child's school career.

TRAINING ADVISED

She suggested that teachers should be trained to understand the components of the child's personality that affect his ability to learn.

Teachers must be made more aware that a consequence of

Panama Junta Uses Moral Uprightness as Revolution Prop

PANAMA (AP) — The no-parking signs are visible in Panama's downtown street for the first time in the memory of many motorists. This is because the cars usually parked in front of them are no longer there. It's against the law.

Moral uprightness is the main prop of a revolution Panama's new military masters are trying to apply to a country where governmental corruption has been almost institutionalized. Thus "no parking" means just that, as heavily fined motorists have learned.

* * *

Traffic control is one of the lesser public functions caught up in a moralistic purge that has blunted such long-entrenched bureaucratic malignancies as the official payoff or bribe. Government bills are being paid on time, and garbage is being collected before it ripens under the tropical sun.

The cleanup has stopped short of the Victorian refinements some military regimes have applied in other Latin-American countries. The revolution—it's called "revolution without dictatorship, freedom with order"—is not warring on hippies or miniskirts. Brothels are operating unmolested. The crusade represents the military regime's effort to justify the overthrow of President Arnulfo Arias Oct. 11 and its unprecedented assumption of full governing powers.

WIN PARTISANS

In past coups, the National Guard stepped in, then right out again after installing a civilian caretaker government. This time the junta's achievements have won many partisans and silenced some critics. The residual pro-Arias opposition and the antimilitary champions of constitutionality—not necessarily Arias fan—are being controlled through a combination of muscle and persuasion.

A predominant note in an otherwise tranquil scene is the concern among ally and adversary that the military leaders may become enamored of power and refuse to relinquish it as pledged early in 1970.

* * *

This concern has been aroused by the manner in which the guard has moved its own men and civilian friends into nearly every important phase of government.

So far, the results have been positive. The elimination of botellas, political jobs that require the employe to show up only periodically to collect his pay, has meant the saving of $1 million a month, officials claim. Much of this economy came from the shuttered Legislative Assembly payroll which listed 1,300 employes, or 30 for each of the 42 deputies. The deputies are among the best paid anywhere, each getting $1,300 a month salary plus $1,000 monthly for expenses during sessions.

OUT OF THE HOLE

Another source was the Social Security Institute, which paid out $15 million in salaries last year against $1.5 million for medicine.

"When we took over," says the new social security boss, Demetiro Basilio Lakas, 43, a Texas Tech-trained engineer, "we were $56,000 in the hole. There was nothing in the kitty except bills. Now we've just paid out $750,000 in medicines, money saved by reducing the payroll."

* * *

The Social Security Institute tried to borrow $1 million from the U.S. aid program to make it a nice Christmas for the help, he said, but was refused. As a result, the government is borrowing from commercial sources at higher rates, he added.

Lakas is typical of the caliber of civilians who have moved in to help the National Guard, giving up a good-paying private practice to earn $1,000 a month as a government minister.

'OLD BUDDIES'

"I'm doing it," he said in answer to a question, "because these fellows are old buddies of mine and I like what they're trying to do. I'll stay with them as long as they do it square."

Former President Ricardo J. Alfaro, a respected jurist who once served as vice president of the International Court at The Hague, has accepted the chairmanship of the advisory commission to the tribunal which is preparing regulations for the 1970 elections.

* *

Why elections so far in the future?

Foreign Minister Carlos Lopez Guevara, one of the government's most articulate spokesmen, said: "We hope by that time the hatreds that presently divide Panamanians will have disappeared. This is a time for reconciliation, not elections."

REAL BOSSES

Behind all this are the real bosses of Panama today, Col. Omar Torrijos, National Guard commander, and chief of staff Col. Boris Martinez. These two young officers led the coup that ousted Arias only after 11 days in office.

They turned the official leadership over to their ex-bosses, Cols. Jose F. Pinilla, as president, and Bolivar Urrutia as his deputy. For administrative guidance they turned to civilian professionals.

* * *

But their own weight and influence are undeniable. The participation at ministerial level of respected and influential civilians in a military government is viewed generally as a safeguard against whatever dictatorial probilities lurk in the background.

But the task ahead remains difficult.

Exiled Arias is waging what is regarded here as an efficient lobbying war in Washington. U.S. assistance is being doled out in dribbles.

* * *

At the same time, Arias partisans are trying to whip up guerrilla-type resistance in the mountains—without much success so far.

* * *

The guard also has alienated some independent sectors, it is believed, by arbitrary arrests.

Col. Torrijos denies claims that the country's jails, and especially the cells in National Guard headquarters, are filled with political prisoners. Those in jail will be booked for various and specific crimes later, he said, and others held are Communists detained for security reasons.

Paris Gets Tough on Those Who Prefer Tickets to Parking Lots

PARIS (AP) — A Frenchman will drive around and around the block, then take a chance on parking illegally rather than pay for underground garages placed at his disposal at great expense.

So the city council is going to try something new: hire a crew of the toughest men in town to extract hourly rates on thousands of legal parking spots now used free.

That's how much the French capital is suffering from automobilism. While it may not be alone, its experiences may be unique.

The statistics are suffocating all by themselves. Traffic engineers say there are 230,000 legal parking places in the city, and space for a maximum of 250,000 cars to circulate. Adding 250,000 places into which autos are squeezed illegally, they come up with accommodations for 730,000.

DAILY MOVEMENTS

But nearly two million cars are registered in Paris and the suburbs. The in-and-out movements alone sometimes climb to 800,000 per day.

★ ★ ★

With such a jam, you would think more people would use the subway. In fact, of every 20 persons who move about the city 10 take the subway, six take the bus, and one uses his feet. The traffic jams are caused by the remaining three out of 20 who decide to go by car, the French Institute of Public Opinion reported in France-Soir.

★ ★ ★

The motorists for years screamed for more off-street parking, so the city has created 20,000 new parking places all over town. Many are in deep underground garages in the richest downtown areas.

But many motorists think they cost too much, an average of 5-6 francs—$1 to $1.20—for all day.

SUBTERRANEAN HAUNTS

The underground garages have at times been only 10 per cent full. The best so far has been 55 per cent, and that in an area where night life crowds the streets almost as much as daytime activity.

★ ★ ★

Another poll found that 9 out of 10 suburban commuters never use the garages, and three-fourths of all drivers in the area are categorically against paid parking of any kind.

★ ★ ★

"Tickets cost less," many drivers told the pollsters.

Perhaps they do under the present system, which limits parking to an hour and a half during business hours in downtown areas.

★ ★ ★

The motorist has a "parking disk" which is a heavy square paper envelope with two openings. He revolves the disk inside so that his time of arrival appears in one opening, giving the time he must leave in the other.

AGED MEN

Enforcement falls to thousands of aged men, mostly retired policemen, who leave self-addressed cards as tickets. The offender need only buy a $2 special stamp at a tobacco shop, and mail the card. It works fine except that so many tickets have been written in recent weeks that the tobacco shops are out of stamps.

★ ★ ★

The disk system is so abused shop owners complain, that the bulk of the parking space is taken by persons working downtown rather than shoppers. They petitioned for a new system to increase turnover.

Approved in principle, the new plan is to rope off 16 large areas, including the place de la Concorde, where the U.S. Embassy is located, and the Avenue des Champs-Elysees.

Placed in charge of each area would be a former beef heaver —those husky, central market men who add blood-spattered folklore to the city's popular suburban Rungis and mechanized conveyors after-midnight restaurant area.

The beef heavers will be out of a job in March when the market, called Les Halles, moves to take over most of their work.

They will set up ropes at 8 a.m., issue timed tickets to parkers, and collect as the drivers leave. At 8 p.m. they will gather up their ropes and go home, returning the areas to free parking.

The rates are expected to be 50 centimes—10 cents—an hour for the first four hours, low enough to attract serious shoppers. The government hopes the parkers will spread out evenly among all the facilities.

The city council also thinks a motorist would be far less tempted to try to cheat a heavy beef heaver than a parking meter.

'Students Need More Leisure'

CHICAGO (AP) — Students ought to have more leisure, says Prof. Bergen B. Evans, who teaches English at Northwestern University.

★ ★ ★

Evans, who is also an author and lexicographer, told a meeting of educators:

"There's an overwhelming tendency in education to believe that somehow, if students just learn more, the quality of the education would be higher—which I don't believe."

★ ★ ★

"Students have almost no leisure," he said, adding:

"I believe that if students had more leisure to talk, more leisure to go to the library—if only just to prove that a teacher is wrong—this alone would be a tremendous education."

French Seek to 'Reform' Young Before They Can Break Law

PARIS (AP) — A French approach to "safety in the streets" is to hustle suspected children and youths off to reform schools before they can break a law, not afterward.

Although the delinquency rate keeps rising, French officials believe their procedure benefits the law-abiding majority of citizens to an extent outweighing the drawbacks, from a civil liberties point of view, borne by the troublesome minority.

* * *

Passed in 1958 after a sharp upturn of delinquency, the law covers all persons from birth to 21 years of age whose "health, security, morality or education are compromised."

With this law, a judge can pack off to "supervised education" any minor he considers in danger of delinquency.

MANY UNDER SIX

There are now as many cases of "in danger" juveniles as of convicted juvenile lawbreakers. One fourth of the "in-dangers", as they are called, are under 6 years of age. These extremely young "in-dangers" —ages 3, 4, and 5 are common —are often referred to judges by other social services which discover their plight while tending to problems in such areas as alcoholism, public housing, free medical care and payments to indigent mothers.

Often parents bring in their children. Officials say the causes are myriad, but in nearly half the cases they boil down to what they call "dissociated homes."

* * *

The delinquency rate in 1967 reached a record 6.73 cases per thousand population, compared to 2.5 in 1913.

Officials of the Justice Ministry therefore have a hard time explaining the benefits of the program. It has been in operation too little time for statistics.

Officials do not know, for example, whether the "in-dangers" will perform better or worse after they get out than freed juvenile convicts.

'WILL PROVE EFFECTIVE'

Jacques Selosse, director of juvenile delinquency research for France, believes that studies under way will prove the program effective "within the framework of general prevention."

Selosse and other French officials say flatly that streets in France are far safer than those of America, whether in big cities, racially troubled slums or small towns.

France, like all industrial countries, has seen its delinquency rate climb with the movement from country to city. Selosse says American youths tend toward violence and the French do not.

The French delinquent is a prodigious thief. Including "joy-riding" in a stolen car, theft is the charge in 70 per cent of all cases. They often filch cameras, records and other luxury items they see on television, Selosse said.

LEARNING TO EARN

Learning to earn money rather than steal it is the theme of the "supervised education." Despite a two-year academic lag behind the French average, the inmates have a better chance of learning a trade or preparing for college than they would on the outside, said one justice official.

* * *

While the convicted juveniles usually stay less than a year, the "in-dangers" are kept until their education is assured, usually two to four years. They are often given semiliberty status when things start going right.

* * *

Mixing the "in-dangers" with the convicted lawbreakers might alarm an American social worker. But an executive in the Justice Ministry said: "you can't tell the difference. They're all the same. Broken families. Absent or weak fathers. Or a hundred other reasons."

Extract All Juice

To get all the juice you pay for, heat the lemons in the oven until they are hot all the way through. Put them in a slow oven and leave them there about 10 minutes and you will be surprised at how much more juice they yield.

Czechoslovakian Leaders Look Forward to an Uncertain Year

PRAGUE (AP) — Four months ago Alexander Dubcek and other Czechoslovak Communist leaders were arrested and sent to an uncertain fate in Russia as Soviet tanks rolled through the nation to crush liberal reforms.

Despite an unbroken military occupation, Dubcek is back here in the same job, first secretary of the Communist party. With broad public support, he and other progressives are still struggling to salvage the reforms.

★ ★ ★

Little public optimism is evident. The enforced retreat from pre-August policies is clear. But virtually no one can yet say with certainty what the occupation has accomplished so far.

A regime of collaborators could not be formed, if that was the intention. The Russians were forced to return Dubcek and deal with him.

CONSERVATIVE LEADERS

There is strong evidence that Dubcek's position has weakened. Some rising stars in the party, notably Premier Oldrich Cernick and Deputy Premiers Gustav Husak and Lubomir Strougal, are generally regarded as more conservative than Dubcek.

But rumors that Dubcek would be replaced by Cernick as party leader in the first half of 1969 have consistently been denied in the controlled press.

★ ★ ★

And Cernik's thinking on major questions is still difficult to document. Under hard-line party boss Antonin Novotny, ousted in January, Cernick was regarded as relatively liberal, Cernick too was taken away in custody four months ago and later returned.

The press is back under censorship. Yet is it still outspoken when compared with its Soviet counterpart. Articles appear daily demanding action on stalled reforms.

ACTIVE IPPOSITION

There are no more political clubs. But workers, students, writers, farmers, and local officials continue to hold meetings supporting the reforms.

Perhaps more significant, these meetings receive widespread coverage in the press, indicating that at least some influential leaders give them tacit approval.

★ ★ ★

A correspondent of the official Soviet news agency Tass complained at a recent news conference that decisions of the party leadership in November to slow down reforms had still not been implemented. A conservative Communist leader, Milos Jakes, conceded party discipline here was weak.

A public opinion poll reported in the press Dec. 17 said that 91.2 per cent of those questioned approved of the pre-August policies.

FEARFUL OF RUSSIA

Progressives fear Soviet pressure eventually will start chipping away liberals in the leadership, with National Assembly Chairman Josef Smrkovsky a likely initial target. Workers have threatened a general strike if Smrkovsky goes. He assures visiting delegations daily that he plans to stay.

Action in the economic field is more positive. The party leadership promised after a December Central Committee meeting to continue next year with some economic reforms. It also promised to expand trade with the West as well as with the Communist East.

The capital lacks the look of an occupied city. Lighted Christmas trees and busy shoppers dominate the Prague scene.

The remaining Soviet forces, estimated at more than 70,000 men, keep largely to former Czechoslovak army barracks outside major cities.

Rumors of possible arrests by the local secret police were denied publicly by Interior Minister Jan Pelnar last week.

Travel to the West is again largely restricted.

A federal government system is due to take effect Jan. 1. Party sources say it will again be headed by Cernick as premier and contain no surprising changes.

Czechoslovaks appear uneasy about their future. But they warn the visitor against seeing the events of the year in clear black and white terms.

They say the reforms adopted in April were the result of a long process that began as far back as 1963, when people here first began to speak out openly on political questions, and were not the result of a sharp break beginning with Novotny's ouster.

Some concede that Soviet pressure is likely to force them back to the system they knew in January and they find this prospect tolerable. To them the real danger is a retreat further back to the Stalinist days of the early 1950s. Few admit this is possible.

Family's Car Destroyed; Man Saves the Day

SEATTLE (AP) — A Sunday auto collision destroyed the Alex Golinski family's car and forced them to cancel plans to spend Christmas at Disneyland.

Just after hearing about the family's plight on a radio station KIXI newscast, a man telephoned to offer the family the new car.

★ ★ ★

A station spokesman said the donor, who chose to remain anonymous, made arrangements later Wednesday to get the car to the Golinskis.

The family was released from a Vancouver Hospital Christmas Eve.

Six Americans Languish Hopelessly in Red Chinese Prisons

HONG KONG (AP) — There is a street in New Britain, Conn., named for John Downey, but many residents there must wonder who he is.

The street sign stands as one of the few reminders that Downey and five of his lonely compatriots are languishing this Christmas season in prisons somewhere on the vast mainland of China. Some have little hope of ever seeing home again.

★ ★ ★

Downey is now 38. He was sentenced to life in prison in 1954 two years after the Chinese Communists shot down a plane in which he was flying from South Korea.

Captured from the same plane was Richard Fecteau, 41, of Lynn, Mass. Fecteau drew a 20-year sentence.

AIR DROPS CHARGED

The Chinese charged that both men were making air drops to anti-Communist agents in Manchuria.

The others are Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh, 77, Cumberland, Md., who was sentenced to 20 years in prison on vauge espionage charges nine years ago.

★ ★ ★

Hugh F. Redmond, 49, of Yonkers, N.Y., a businessman in China, who elected to stay after the Communist take-over. He was sentenced to life imprisonment on similar charges 19 years ago.

Capt. Philip E. Smith, an Air Force pilot from Victorville, Calif., who was captured when his plane was shot down after it strayed over Red China's Hainan Island off the south coast in 1965.

PILOT SHOT DOWN

Lt. Robert J. Flynn, a navy pilot from Houston, Minn., who was shot down over Kwangsi Province when he accidentally flew over China in 1967.

The last two were on missions over North Vietnam when their planes strayed into Communist Chinese air space. American government officials in Hong Kong say they do not believe the two have been tried or sentenced.

★ ★ ★

A small piece of concrete evidence that all are still living comes from the International Red Cross, which maintains a semblance of communication with the prisoners through two 10-pound packages that are handed over to Chinese authorities at the Hong Kong-China border for prisoners once a month.

The men's despair may have been best-expressed by Bishop Walsh in 1961 when he told his visiting brother in Shanghai: "We will meet in heaven."

HOSPITALIZED

Bishop Walsh has been confined to a hospital bed since 1962.

Downey and Redmond have also seen relatives in the past, but it is unlikely that any of the prisoners will be permitted visitors from America under the present political conditions.

Mary Downey traveled from New Britain in 1962 to see her son in a Peking prison and Mrs. Ruth F. Redmond went to China from Yonkers to visit her son in a Shanghai prison in 1963.

Fecteau has not seen any relatives since his imprisonment 16 years ago in Peking. He may be the first of the six to leave China. His sentence will be completed in 1972, but whether the Communists will release him then is a matter for conjecture.

DURING VIET WAR

Smith and Flynn were captured after Chinese-U.S. relations deteriorated further because of the war in Vietnam. It is unlikely that the Communists would entertain special requests from two soldiers of the Vietnam war.

For these men, Christmas was just another of the hundreds of dull days they have spent without hope.

Except for Bishop Walsh, who is hospitalized, the others are held in lone prison cells. Persons who have visited the prisoners say their daily routine includes cleaning the cells each morning. They are permitted to walk outdoors during two halfhour periods each day. The rest of the day they are left to read Communist propaganda material or just to think.

The prisoners are not forced to do hard labor, and they are believed to be fed better than the average Chinese.

That the men are so relatively unknown must be attributed largely to the fact that diplomatic communication between their country and that of their captors is infrequent, usually secret and usually fruitless.

Scandinavians Alike, but Apart

STOCKHOLM (AP) — To a visitor from outside, the Scandinavians sometimes seem a bit odd.

As a sort of commonwealth of welfare states, more socialized than Socialist, they get along famously. At the same time, they often give the impression they can't stand one another.

* * *

They think alike, act alike, work alike and react alike to events in Europe and the world. They have a constant interchange of ideas, culture and customs, a common history, common institutions. They solve many mutual problems together in harmony through their Nordic Council.

A Finn can travel anywhere in Scandinavia without a passport. A Dane can go anywhere in Scandinavia and work. A Swede can enjoy the same social security benefits in Denmark and Norway as in Sweden. A Norwegian is just about as well off in civil rights anywhere in Scandinavia as he is at home.

ENJOY ANTAGONISMS

But Scandinavians seem to enjoy their built-in antagonisms. A competitive envy keeps them apart even where it might seem to be in their interest to act together.

Oslo complains to Stockholm that Swedish Lapps are allowing their reindeer to graze and fatten on Norwegian pastures and wants this stopped. The Swedes counter that their Lapps have a legal right to the grazing, dating from the 18th century. Sweden complains to Denmark about Danish fishermen catching under-sized salmon in the Baltic—salmon bred in Swedish rivers. Norwegians gag when the Swedes make them the butts of heavy-handed Swedish humor and talk about national insults.

* * *

The Finns have a new musical satire called "The Fence," in which they lampoon the Swedes, among others.

When Scandinavians think of sin and sex they think of Sweden. The Swedes say this reputation is unmerited: "It happens everywhere, only we don't keep it a big secret. We talk about it more openly."

GROUP SEX

Actually, Swedes seem to have advanced beyond simple, straightforward sex to group sex. Papers carry advertisements about sex clubs. One day, afternoon Stockholm newspapers carried banner headlines: "Pregnant through group sex—but who is the father?"

It was a good question. Three married couples were involved. The expectant woman had been married nine years without offspring. The father could have been her husband or a lawyer or an architect. Blood tests were supposed to have resolved the question, but the debate about group sex as such still rages.

* * *

Denmark has its own sex kick. A ban on pornography in literature has been lifted and now Parliament is acting to end a ban on filmed pornography as well and to abolish movie censorship for adults. But even the Danes balked when a leftist Socialist parliamentarian proposed putting all kinds of relationships, including homosexual and group sex—brother and sister households consisting of three or more persons unrelated to one another—on the same legal basis as regular marriages. Parliament laughed it down.

Norwegians reject the sex exhibitionism of Sweden and the "anything goes" attitude of the Danes. Norway limits the sort of books, magazines and movies which can be offered to the public.

DREAM OF HARMONY

For all their differences, the Scandinavians live with a dream of harmony—disturbed sometimes by the nightmare shadow of the enormous Soviet Union.

The dream involves a close-knit Nordic Economic Union, which could go as far as becoming a customs union.

* * *

Debated into oblivion over the last 25 years, the idea was revived on Danish government initiative last spring. Committees are studying the prospect in all its complicated details, under instructions to report next year for a political decision.

In 1959, when economic union last went on the rocks, Sweden, Norway and Denmark went into the European Free Trade Association. Within that framework, they achieved something they couldn't manage among themselves—a Nordic free trade area for industrial goods which has proved a boon to inter-Nordic trade.

COMMON MART GOAL

The thought is that a solid Scandinavian economic bloc—in effect a Nordic common market—would have a strong hand one day in negotiating entry into the wider European Common Market, the ultimate goal. But there are fears that the whole project will collapse again. Danish and Norwegian industrial interests seem to fear Swedish competition. Surprisingly, the Finns appear eager to push ahead.

Scandinavians are working on another problem of common concern—law and order. The Nordic Police Association, representing all the police forces, has drawn attention to the rise of a "mentality of violence" unknown before in countries generally regarded as law-abiding. It became an issue in the last Swedish election campaign.

* * *

The association blames the growing motor traffic across Scandinavia's comparatively open borders, crime syndicate operations, political demonstrations and narcotics traffic for confronting Scandinavian police with new problems and duties. In Sweden particularly, illegal dope-running is said to have risen to astounding proportions. Especially suspect, say the police, are the mysterious fishing trips in the Baltic—fishermen who are known to call at Polish and East German ports but regularly return home without a fish.

FEAR DRUG TRAFFIC

Norwegian authorities are worried about the extent of drug traffic—mainly in marijuana—from Sweden and Denmark. The dealers are said to be mainly non-Scandinavians. Norwegians have sharpened the penalties for drug smuggling.

As for the common nightmare, the Scandinavians are just about at the point of shaking it off and hoping it won't recur.

* * *

It was just as the first snows were about to fall that the political chill caused a shudder to run through the Nordic lands.

Scandinavia had not recovered from the shock of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia when word leaked out of a secret "fishing trip" of Soviet Prime Minister Alexei N. Kosygin with Finland's President Urho Kekkonen. Only a month before, Finns had been telling visitors their relations with Moscow never had seemed calmer.

RELATIONS SENSITIVE

The border between Lilliput Finland and giant Russia, and their relations generally, are highly sensitive. Now the Scandinavians began to wonder: What was Kosygin up to so soon after the occupation of Czechoslovakia? They remembered that Russians in June and July held major military exercises in the Arctic wilderness near the short border with Norway.

Norway's defense minister, Otto Grieg Tidemand, reminded his Parliament that the invasion of Czechoslovakia had been heralded by "maneuvers." While Kosygin and Kekkonnen conversed on an icebreaker, wild rumors ran through Scandinavia, nourished by the secrecy surrounding the meeting.

* * *

To ordinary Scandinavians it looked suspiciously like a replay of 1948, when, after the Communists seized Czechoslovakia, Joseph Stalin called the Finnish leaders to Moscow and dictated a mutual assistance treaty to them.

Scandinavian political writers speculated: Would the Russians demand the right to station troops in Finland?

Nothing concrete was announced. "Surely you don't plot evil while fishing," Kekkonen later told interviewers.

REMEMBER VISIT

But Swedes remembered that only a few weeks before the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, Kosygin had paid a visit to Stockholm, took Premier Tage Erlander for a row on a lake, and put his signature to a communique which spoke of a need to relax tension in Europe and the will for international understanding.

After the autumn nightmare, Swedish defense forces remained on limited alert. Norway began beefing up defenses. Popular sentiment in Norway and Denmark has swung back to support of continued membership in NATO.

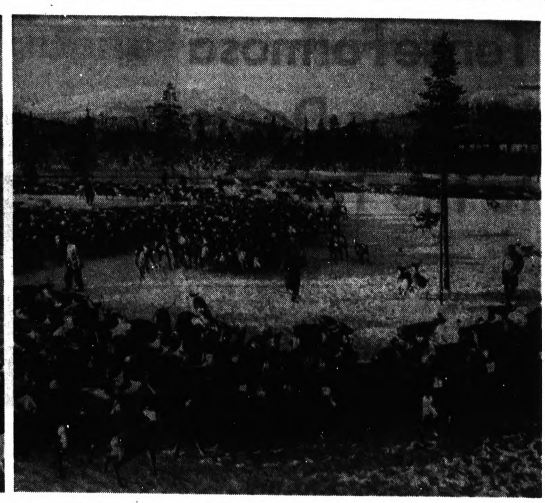
PICTURESQUE TOWN — Typical of a Scandinavian town is the fishing village of Alesund, Norway, which has a population of 19,000 and is located on Norway's west coast. As a sort of commonwealth of welfare states, more socialized than socialistic, the countries forming the Scandinavian Peninsula get along famously. At the same time, they often give the impression they can't stand one another.



AP Wirephoto

REINDEER ROUNDUP — Lapplanders sort their reindeer herds during roundup time in that far-north land. Later, the animals are branded and a certain number selected for slaughter. The Norwegians complain the animals graze on their pastures, but the Swedes counter by saying their Lapps have a legal right to the grazing, dating from the 18th century.

Tense Formosa Widens Doors to the Tourists

By PETER ARNETT

TAIPEI, Formosa — The maitre d' glanced at the tip left on the tray, drew in his breath with a hiss and let out a blood-curdling roar. The dozen other waiters at Taipei's Peking Duck restaurant took up the cry.

Roused from their well-fed drowsiness, the mortified customers jerked upright. Was the tip horribly insufficient?

★

No. It was the full-throated Pekinese way of saying thank you to the generous patrons.

That waiters could be so robustly joyful is but one of the dozens of unexpected reactions the world-weary tourist is finding in Formosa, lush island seat of the government of Nationalist China. For years, tourists were not really encouraged to visit Formosa because President Chiang Kai-shek was too busy planning to return to mainland China.

ATTITUDE RELAXED

He still dreams of going back, but his tight little island has relaxed its watchful attitude to foreigners, and the tourist floodgates have opened.

Last year more than one quarter of a million visitors jetted into Formosa, a convenient stopover between Tokyo and Hong Kong. Many more have visited this year.

★ ★ ★

What they discover is a microcosm of what mainland China used to be before the Communist regime, aided lately by the Red Guards, systematically went about dismembering traditional Chinese life.

Formosa lies 100 miles off the mainland coast and is less than one-third of 1 per cent of China's total territory. But its smallness has sharpened the flavor.

BROUGHT TALENTS

The two million mainlanders who fled the Communists in 1949 brought their talents with them to Formosa. The Chinese cuisine on the island is unsurpassed, according to well-traveled gourmets, with much greater variety than the generally bland Cantonese fare of Hong Kong, and much greater availability than on the mainland. In Peking only one reputable restaurant remains. There are 50 in Taipei.

The food is one of the great Formosan attractions. The scenery is another. In the old days the island, for the first 50 years of this century a Japanese colony, had a seamy reputation as a bachelors' paradise, particularly the numerous hot springs resorts along the mountain foothills.

Now businessmen can bring their wives to Formosa with them on weeklong forays into a hinterland that is as dramatic as any accessible in Asia. The newly opened east-west cross island highway is a 150-mile ride through fantastic gorges with abysses dropping below you and cliffs above, of hair-raising ascents to above 8,000 feet where you traverse escarpments like insects crawling across watermelons.

One 30-mile stretch hacked out of the side of a ravine is called "the promenade of suspense." It is a one-way road used by two-way traffic, even though the very occasional concrete fence posts give scant protection against 3,000-foot drops to the blue ribbons of river below. Yet, accents are said to be few. Either that, or they don't talk about them. Thirty peaks in Formosa's backbone of mountains exceed 10,000 feet.

HIGHER THAN FUJI

The high mountain spine of Formosa extends the length of the island with the highest peak that of Mt. Yushan, at 12,960 feet more than 500 feet higher than Japan's sacred Mt. Fuji, a fact not known until after the Japanese colonists left the island in 1945 because they wanted Fuji to be the highest peak in the Japanese domain.

Near Yushan is Sun Moon Lake, a Formosan honeymoon spot where some of the quarter of a million aborigine tribesmen of Formosa regale visitors with tales of how they beheaded the Japanese during World War II, apparently unmindful that more Japanese tourists visit Formosa now than any other nationality, particularly at Sun Moon Lake.

The island is surrounded with beautiful white beaches, but visitors are advised to resist the temptation to peel off and swim. Only a few areas are open for the public. Soldiers patrol the coasts, and in Formosa, when security confronts pleasure, security always seems to win.

Accommodations throughout the island are comfortable and of moderate cost. The prices are still right for most commodities, but there is a tendency for them to climb as the entrepeneurs shave off the rough edges of the tourist business and start getting sophisticated.

ABUNDANT ANTIQUES

The price reasonableness does not apply to Chinese antiques which are in abundance in the dozens of Taipei stores. Visitors with appetites whetted by the fantastically beautiful displays of Chinese art treasures at the National Palace Museum, just outside the capital, will find costs in the hundreds of dollars range for average-looking Ming and Ching Dynasty porcelain.

And even at these prices there is no guarantee of authenticity. Japan and Hong Kong are busily producing and exporting passable fakes of the Sung and Tang Dynasty porcelains.

However, the intrepid shopper will be rewarded by discovering a large array of fine Chinese scrolls available for reasonable prices. And there are many varieties of modern-day wood carvings, scrolls, lacquerware, porcelain, coral carvings, and paintings that brighten a den.

AP Photo

THE OPEN CHINA—Formosa, Nationalist China, is now welcoming tourists after a period of cautious reserve towards visitors. The island offers aspects of the traditional way of life which have been suppressed in mainland Communist China — 100 miles away to the west across the Formosan Strait — as well as a special flavor of its own.

Details of Red Blood Cell's Mysterious Interior Are Revealed

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — British scientists have stripped down human blood cells, atom by atom, to reveal details that can not be seen with the most powerful microscope.

Their technique, borrowed from the physicists, can also be used on other cells, including cancerous ones.

* * *

What they found in the red blood cells was an orderly network of filaments, dotted with irregular beading, that apparently provides a rigid frame for the cell in much the same way that steel beams frame a building.

The method is ion etching, in which materials are gradually eroded, atom by atom, by bombardment with high energy ions or fragments of atoms. It has been used primarily to reveal the structure of metals, polymers and glass.

USED THE METHOD

Dr. Michelle Lewis of the Royal Postgraduate Medical School in London and Drs. James Osborn and Peter Stewart of the National Physical Laboratory in Teddington now have used it to erode the membrane coat of blood cells and outline the mysterious interior.

Ion etching, the British scientists report, reveals ordered structures at different levels within the membrane, as well as in the interior cell, and shows that the two are clearly distinct.

* * *

Small etch-resistant circles dispersed over the membrane, similar in size and features and larger etch-resistant areas in the form of irregular plaques, require study, they say. So do indentations or pores prominent in the concave area of the cell.

Conceivably, membrane structure and function in this area differs from that at the outside.

UNEXPECTED

According to Dr. Makio Murayama of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., micrographs showing a clearly structured interior cell were unexpected.

Most scientists, he says, either had not expected such a filament structure or, whenever the question arose, "just tossed up their hands and said they didn't know."

In the body, red blood cells are known to be extremely flexible, able to stretch into long, thin forms to pass through narrow capillaries, suggesting a more amorphous than structured interior.

"Although the structure looks rigid in these specimens," the British team observes, "it is highly probable that in its natural state the material is plastic, at least to some extent, but it seems likely that the form shown represents a basic structural design."

Ion etched cells from patients with sickle-cell disease have a different structural pattern, with some filaments being entwined in a disorganized framework.

Dr. Murayama, who has done extensive research in sickle cell disease, says he sees in the picture of a sickle cell "the very thing I have imagined in support of my hypothesis that the mechanism of sickling involves the formation of microtubules within the cell." But, he cautions, "perhaps I am reading too much into the picture. I'll have to see."

ETCHING A BLOOD CELL—Using a stream of atomic particles to erode away the tough covering of a red blood cell, scientists have revealed for the first time the complex interior structure, resembling the beams in a building.

Sealab 3's Rival Craft Ready to Go

By Science Service

PHILADELPHIA — As Sealab 3 languishes on a California dock, stranded out of water by technical problems, four scientists on the East Coast are girding themselves for a far different underwater adventure.

Though Sealab will make it look like small pickings on almost all counts — depth, manpower, bugdet, publicity — an ocean-floor dwelling called Tektite 1 promises to be the scene of the longest continuous periods man has ever lived and worked beneath the sea.

Sealab 3, originally to have been placed 620 feet down on the continental shelf off California's San Clemente Island last Oct. 15, has been held up by repeated equipment problems until at least late January, according to the U. S. Navy, which runs it.

The big problem concerns Sealab's two 12-ton personnel transfer capsules, canisters to carry aquanauts up and down between the habitat and the surface. The capsules each were designed to have 1,000 pounds of positive buoyancy — tendency to float — so they would bob to the surface in an emergency and put less strain on the lowering gear. Instead, they turned out to be 2,250 pounds negative.

The biggest trouble came when one of the capsules was being lowered in a routine unmanned dive, intended simply to straighten out its cable on a deck reel. When the capsule was pulled up, it was full of water. The culprit, apparently, was an improperly sealed hatch.

By contrast, Tektite 1 has been going great guns. The General Electric Co. in Philadelphia, which is providing the habitat for research by the Interior Department, the Navy and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, began its final design only last February, and finished the habitat a month and a half ago. The residents are to take up occupancy Feb. 15.

Army Alters Training for College Grads

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—College grads are going to bypass some of the armed forces training routine. The military services are under order to take advantage of the tremendous increase in the number of college grads enlisting or being drafted and not to waste time and effort giving them unneeded training.

BAULCH

This doesn't mean they can skip the normal basic training nor will all be assigned where their college training best fits them. The needs of the services come first.

In the Army, for instance all are getting the grounding needed to become combat soldiers. And about 40 per cent in the enlisted ranks the being assigned to combat arms, which is just a bit below the 43 per cent level of those assigned to combat arms from Project 100,000, the program for training men in the lowest aptitude level.

The influx of college graduates in recent months was brought on by the halt of graduate study draft deferments except in the health fields.

20 PCT. ARE GRADS

The army which will get up to 80,000 of the 100,000 college graduates expected to enter service this fiscal year says that 20 per cent of those who enlist or are drafted are college grads compared with 5 to 8 per cent in other recent years.

Of the college graduates the Army is taking in, slightly over half of them are enlisting rather than waiting for the draft. By enlisting you get a choice of assignment. Thus the other services are able to keep filled with volunteers except for an occasional rare Marine Corps draft call.

★ ★ ★

Assistant Secretary of Defense Alfred B. Fitt set the pattern for getting the most out of college graduates in a memo he sent to the services in October saying:

"Each man should be provided the training he needs, but he should not be required to undergo any unnecessary training."

MONTHLY REPORTS

Fitts told the services to give him a monthly report on this program.

The Army is making use of its newcomers with degrees as assistant instructors while undergoing their basic and advanced individual training. Service schools are pinpointing those courses which are readily adaptable to these graduates.

Also, the Army says, those with language, scientific, engineering or other highly technical-acquired skills will be given minimum of advanced training and sent immediately to their units or jobs.

It's interesting to note that about one-fourth of the college graduates enlisting in the Army are volunteering for Officer Candidate School, which means the Army will have no trouble filling its quota of college men in OCS. The schools are supposed to have 80 per cent college graduates and 20 per cent without college degrees.

Higher VA Insurance Dividends

Most of the 4,250,000 World War I and World War II veterans holding GI insurance policies will get higher dividends next year. The average will be $97, which is up $18 from the 1968 average of $79. It will be paid as usual on the anniversary date of the policy.

★ ★ ★

And there's a surprise. The 193,000 veterans holding the new modified life insurance policies will get a first-time dividend, averaging $11. These policies are issued at a low rate under a permanent plan that does not go up every five years as the old term insurance and provides full insurance coverage until the veteran reaches age 65; then the face value of his policy is halved.

Early-Out Stirrings

The latest development in the fast-changing picture of early release from military service is the Army plan to release all 20,000 Reservists and National Guardsmen called to duty after the USS Pueblo seizure.

They're all due out by Dec. 15, 1969, perhaps sooner if Vietnam war developments permit. That means at least five months ahead of the two-year active duty maximum permitted under the callup.

★ ★ ★

Draft calls will be upped by about 3,000 a month from March through July to take up the slack, under present plans. But a letup in draft demands for Vietnam needs could wipe out this.

The Army his to figure its needs on the basis that it takes five months to get a draftee ready for assignment to a unit.

STILL IN WORKS

The Air Force is still planning to release by next June 30 all its 16,126 Revervists and Guardsmen mustered last January and May. The Navy has released 600 of the 1,600 reservists it called but nothing has been said abotu early release for the others, mostly Seabees.

The Marines have reduced to 18 job specialities those who are ineligible for its program that permits early release for those returning from Vietnam with less than six months of service remaining.

★ ★ ★

The new change also extends the early out to Marines hospitalized in the United States for disease or injuries resulting from Vietnam service, provided they are not headed for disability retirement.

The Army is continuing its five-month early-out program for Vietnam veterans and the same goes for the Air Force and its six-month early-out program.

The only thing the Navy has going in this area now is the regular 90-day early-out which all services have to enable a man to enter school at the start of a semester, whether he is in Vietnam or elsewhere.

The experts at the Bureau of Naval Personnel tell me there is no plan to continue the early out for those in the 2x6 reserve program, which is reverting to its normal two years of active duty. During the last three months of 1968 some were let out with 15 months to go, others with 18 months and others with a whole year left, but this was only a temporary economy move to meet the budget demands.

Early-Outs and NCO School

It appears the early-out program is making it difficult for the Army to get volunteers for its noncommissioned officer schools, but it's mostly a misunderstanding.

Most of the early classes in the year-old program were filled with volunteers fresh from advanced individual training. But now many feel the extra 24 weeks training before going to Vietnam will prevent them from coming back before normal separation time and they then will miss on the early-out.

★ ★ ★

The Army is telling them that those who go directly from advanced individual training to Vietnam will have more than 150 days of service remaining at the end of their tours and won't qualify for the early-out unless they extend. Or they may give five to six months stateside duty after AIT and they still won't qualify for the early-out program.

Cinema Becoming Focal Point for the Young

(EDITOR'S NOTE — They've been called the "first visual generation," the "reel generation." From cradle to college, they've seen more television and movies than most of their parents did in a lifetime. Youth's love affair with the movies seems to be consumated in "Romeo and Juliet," a bouncy film version made primarily for the young.)

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN

NEW YORK (AP) — In the name of youth, Franco Zeffirelli has taken loud liberties with Shakespeare for his film, "Romeo and Juliet," disturbing many a disciple of the Bard.

But, the audience it was created for—the young—take to it like lawns to the River Avon.

The success of the scrappy, boisterous, but above all youthful, version of the classic love story is a prime example of the all-encompassing effects youth is having on motion pictures.

* * *

Young people—say over 16 and under 25—make up the bulk of the movie audience and more films are being made with them primarily in mind.

"This is a young person's "Romeo and Juliet,"' said the 45-year-old Florentine director who caused a stir by making several changes in the play, from trimming speeches to altering whose scenes. "The kids in this story are like teen-agers today. They don't want to be, and yet they are, involved in adult hate and wars."

When an over-30 viewer told Zeffirelli he enjoyed the film, the director was surprised: "You must not be familiar with Shakespeare, then. It was not created for people familiar with Shakespeare. It is necessarily a vulgarization."

"LUSTY TEEN"

Juliet is now a lusty teen-ager having a passionate love affair with a handsome young lad, an affair totally against the wishes of their families. Their balcony scene is not purely a poetic exchange; it is a lovers' meeting with all the physical exuberance of young romance today.

In the wedding night scene, Romeo is shown nude—rear view—and Juliet is covered only by a bedsheet.

* * *

The title stars, for what is thought to be the first time in the history of modern professional productions of "Romeo and Juliet" are teen-agers themselves, creating still more of an identity with the youth audience. Leonard Whiting was 17 and Olivia Husey 15 when they were cast for the parts.

The whole spirit of the Zeffirelli film is the spirit of modern youth, of vitality, of today.

And it obviously is what film-oriented youth want. The proof has been at the box office.

TOP GROSSER

"Romeo and Juliet" has been on Variety's list of top grossers in major cities for several weeks and was 11th highest-grossing film in the nation for one week of November. With movie industry estimates of 41 per cent of the American movie-going audience between the ages of 16 and 24, this obviously is a success made by youth.

The same youthful audience has been credited with making huge successes of such films as "2001: A Space Odyssey," "The Graduate," "Bonnie and Clyde" and "Rosemary's Baby," among others, and in preventing some artistic films from becoming commercial disasters.

* * *

Youth has adopted "Space Odyssey" as a particular favorite, many of them returning to see it several times. Russ Ruso, manager of the Summit Theater in Detroit, reports his young audience for the film give him a count of how many times they've seen it each time they enter, promising to be back again the following week.

At $2-2.50-$3 a ticket, that's not just a college fad. George Stevens Jr., head of the newly organized American Film Institute—in itself the result of the exploding and increasingly sophisticated demands of youthful audiences for fine cinema—said: "Today there is in evidence a change of spirit. Producers, distributors and exhibitors of film are beginning to look at the colleges and universities for the audiences of today and the film makers of tomorrow."

This is a generation that teethed on television—spending 15,000 hours of viewing by high school graduation, according to one study—and matured with the growth of the artistic foreign film in America. Now, film is increasingly a course taught in colleges and universities—80,000 students are now enrolled in film courses in the nation's schools, according to one estimate—and is beginning to seep into high school programs.

With financial realism, the movie industry is taking cognizance of these facts and is opening its doors to talented young film makers, assuming they are "tuned in" to the desires of their peers.

* * *

Major film companies are taking chances now on young unknowns and are willing to invest considerable amounts of money on their as-yet unproved talents.

"Perhaps the industry was slow at first to respond to the call and need of youth," said Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, "but that time is over. Today, younger persons, mostly under 40, are invigorating the artistic and commercial streams of the industry.

CHANGING SCENE

"Hollywood is a changing community, a community where new faces are seen every day handling the cameras, building the props, setting the lights, writing the scripts, directing the actions and acting the parts," he said.

In the last two years, Valenti said, 35 producers, 39 writers and 57 directors got first-time credits for their work.

Ice Reported to Be Safe for Area Skaters

Ice on area lakes is safe for skating today said Lt. Donald Kratt of the Oakland County Sheriff's Water Safety Division.

Kratt warned, however, that at least two more inches of ice are needed for the lakes to be safe for snowmobiles.

Skaters, he said, should avoid spring-fed lakes and the mouths of channels since the constant flow of water prevents the ice from becoming thick.

Crash in Avon Injures Four

Four persons were injured — one seriously — in a collision early today at an Avon Township intersection.

Reported in critical condition in Crittenton General Hospital, Avon Township, is James M. McCracken, 31, of 956 Berwick.

* * *

His wife, Elaine, 27, is reported in fair condition.

They were injured about 1:30 a.m. when their car, driven by McCracken, collided with a car driven by Jean Ann Campbell, 22, of 5176 Solar, Utica, at Auburn and Dequindre, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Miss Campbell and Janis M. Zawinsky, 13, of the Solar address are reported in satisfactory condition.

Elected justice of the peace in 1935, Green served in that office until his retirement in December 1966.

Soviets Offer Arms to Jordan

AMMAN, JORDAN (AP) — The Soviet Union has renewed its offer to supply arms to Jordan and to assist it politically, economically and militarily, the semiofficial newspaper ad-Dustour reported today. The paper said Jordan's ambassador to Egypt, Mohammed Adib Al Ameri, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko met in Cairo early this week and Ameri gave an account of their discussions to the newspaper.

* * *

Gromyko reportedly told the Jordanian envoy that Russia is making efforts with other big powers to find a peaceful solution to the Arab-Israeli problem on the basis of the Security Council's Nov. 22, 1967, resolution.

The resolution calls for withdrawal of Israeli troops from territory occupied during the 1967 war in return for an end to the Arab state of war against Israel.

ALTERNATE PLAN

Ameri said he discussed with Gromyko what could be done if Israel refused to abide by the resolution, but he gave no details about this.

He reported he had explained the military situation to Gromyko and that Gromyko expressed the Soviet Union's readiness to support Jordan politically, economically and militarily.

Big Day Drawing Near for Boeing's Behemoth 747

By PAUL WELLS

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — Boeing's unbelievable bird—the giant 747—is built.

Longer than a 20-story building tipped flat. Heavier than a herd of 175 hippos. As powerful as 87 diesel locomotives. Able to carry up to 490 passengers in a cabin wider than most living rooms.

How will such a colossus—more than 2½ times larger than any commercial airliner in service—fly?

"Like an angel and safe as in church," promises tall, lean Jack Waddell, chief test pilot for the 747. His confidence is based on what Boeing calls the most complex, sophisticated and exhaustive test program ever carried out for a new airplane.

DIFFICULT TO GRASP

The scope of the tests, which began in 1965, is difficult to grasp.

Advanced technology, some of it evolving from space and missile work, has been incorporated in the program along with more conventional wear-and-tear type tests.

★ ★ ★

Computers, telemetry, data processors and analyzers, flight simulators, a pulse code modulation system, pulse duration modulation system, frequency modulation and fully automated instruments able to record 3,600 independent measurements are all used in the program.

When all test equipment has been installed in the first 747 and taxi runs have been completed, the gargantuan bird will be ready to try its wings — sometime in the near future.

POWER STEERING'

Waddell will have feather-light, hydraulic "power steering" and a computerized inertial navigation system — INS — which can fly the 747 automatically anywhere within its 6,000-mile range. This is the first commercial plane designed for fully automated INS operation.

The 747's maiden flight will mark the start of 1,400 hours of test-flying by five of the jumbo jets over 10 months to "wring them out" in every conceivable situation and prove them worthy of Federal Aviation Administration certification.

★ ★ ★

When the first passengers step aboard Pan American World Airways' inaugural 747 flight — scheduled for December 1969 — they will have little awareness of the tremendous, costly test program leading to that moment.

"We will have a vast store of documented knowledge of the behavior of this aircraft," Waddell said. "This is the great safety factor for the public."

TOTAL COST

R.E. McDonald, chief of the test program, places its total cost at about $250 million, with Boeing spending $165 million and subcontractors the rest.

For Waddell, a balding, 6-foot-3-inch, 185-pounder who grew up in Joliet, Mont., a little town of less than 400 near Billings, lift-off will be a pulse-pounding thrill, but at the same time almost anticlimactic.

"I have flown the plane, figuratively, nearly 300 hours already in flight simulators and our 'Iron Bird' test rig and know exactly how it will handle and land,' he explained.

★ ★ ★

"The results of nearly 14,000 hours of wind tunnel tests have been fed into computers of the highly sophisticated flight simulator at our Kent, Wash., Space Center and an older simulator at Renton, and I have experienced actual flight conditions there.

Waddell said the 14,000 hours "is about double the wind tunnel occupancy for any other airplane.

★ ★ ★

To gain all possible data, several specialized wind tunnels were used. They include NASAs advanced facility at Moffett Field, Calif., one operated by the Cornell Laboratory at Buffalo, N.Y., one at the University of Washington, a Convair wind tunnel and Boeing's own.

★ ★ ★

Sitting in the Kent simulator, Waddell can look through an exact scale model of the 747's windscreen at a three-dimensional televised landscape. Computers programmed with wind tunnel information reproduce the precise motion and feel of the plane and its controls during flight and landing, and show pictorially how the landing will appear from the cockpit.

"I feel as though I'm actually flying the airplane. You see the roll, the yaw, the pitch. It's very realistic, he said.

ANOTHER 'FEEL'

The Iron Bird, a structural steel contraption resembling a 200-foot-long truss bridge, gives Waddell another "feel of the 747—this one with actual flight control systems of the superjet.

★ ★ ★

"All the tubing, wiring, cables, actuators, control surfaces and cockpit controls are there, he said. Sitting in a pilot's chair at the front end, he can move all tail and wing control surfaces and see how they function through closed-circuit television.

★ ★ ★

When Waddell and his fellow test pilots are not using the Iron Bird, it automatically puts the control surfaces—rudder, elevators, ailerons, spoilers and trim system—through test cycles which already nearly match the average lifetime of airline service. The tests will continue "to destruction to measure endurance and reliability" of the components which control the plane's turns, banks, climbs and stability.

★ ★ ★

Another facility is the flight test rig, a movable mock-up duplicating the actual dimensions of the landing gear, the distance of the gear from the cockpit and the pilot's 29-foot height from the ground.

"Using this, I have had actual practice taxiing, and in docking for cargo loading through the tip-up nose of the cargo and convertible passenger-cargo versions of the 747," Waddell said. "You have to stick that nose within six inches of the loading ramp—and some people think parking a car is tough."

ANOTHER TEST

In another preflight test, engines are run from low to full power at three propulsion stands in this area to check their operation and noise level.

A set of two regular jet engines was replaced with one of the huge Pratt & Whitney JT9D-3 turbofan engines on a B52 and flown about 60 hours some of the time by Waddell. The 43,500 pounds of thrust developed by the JT9D-3 compares with 18,000 in the largest engines used on Boeings 707s.

For environmental control, a full-scale 50-foot forward section of the 747 complete with an air-conditioning system was tested in a thermal chamber with a temperature range from 65 degrees below zero to 180 above.

To learn the ultimate endurance and strength of the 747, two planes—complete air-frames—will be taken from the assembly line for lengthy static and fatigue tests.

LOADS, STRESSES

The static tests will simulate, by use of hydraulic jacks, loads and stresses to various sections of the 747 far greater than that to which they would be subjected in airline service.

The fatigue tests will put flight controls, cabin pressurization systems, wing flexibility—they can bend about 20 feet—and other movable parts through repeated operation for 60,000 hours—or about 17 years of average airline use. This is nearly double the life of present jetliners.

★ ★ ★

Both static and fatigue testing will be carried to the point where both planes are destroyed.

The 747 will produce many firsts, but perhaps none more important than the inertial navigation system, the computerized "brain" that can fly the superjet unaided and keep it on exact course.

PROGRAMMED

"We can program a flight, say from New York to London, figure out waypoint latitudes and longitudes, cruising speed, altitude, predicted wind velocities and directions, and feed it to the INS computer from any one of three 10-button consoles in the cockpit," Waddell said.

"The INS is integrated into the compass system, dual automatic pilots and radar system. It will keep the plane level, compensate for any outside forces such as shifting winds and fly you to the start of your landing approach where radio takes over with an airport instrument landing system.

★ ★ ★

"This is idealizing a bit, and there are always vagaries of flight that need human attention, but automated operation of a plane is really here."

Waddell said the 747 will be certificated for automatic approach and landing, in category 2—permitting landings with only 1,200 feet visibility.

"We have provided for changing from a dual to a triplicated flight system in the future, which will allow certification in category 3 and automatic landings with only 700 feet visibility," he said.

A preproduction INS was installed in a 707 tested on flights of more than 25,000 miles and 70 hours of air time. They were to such places as Samoa; Fairbanks, Alaska; Miami, and Boston. On the 10-hour, 5,000-mile flight to Samoa the system proved 80 per cent more accurate than design specifications called for.

Waddell plans to limit the 747's first flight to 2½-3 hours with a top speed of about 330 miles an hour and altitude of 15,000 feet. After several flights from Paine Field at Everett to prove the plane completely airworthy, tests will be moved to Boeing field in Seattle.

★ ★ ★

Next year, the first two 747s in the five-plane test stable will spend several months at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., for "heavyweight" tests—the severest of the program. They include rejected takeoffs and maximum load takeoffs.

Waddell heads a team of about a dozen test pilots, an equal number of instructor pilots and about eight flight engineers.

Commuter Ends 42½ Years of Riding to Work

COLD SPRING, N.Y. (AP) — After 42 and one-half years of traveling from his home here to his office in Manhattan, William A. Constantino has had his commuter's ticket punched for the last time.

When Constantino retired recently from his job with an oil company a committee of 45 of his fellow commuters on the Penn Central, formerly the New York Central, gave him a fitting sendoff.

★ ★ ★

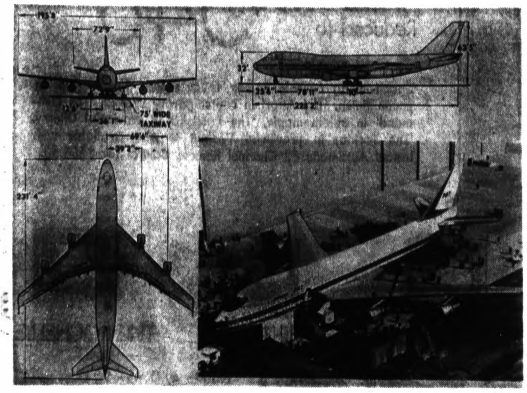
A party was held in a coach of the 5:02 p.m. out of Grand Central Station, and the railroad presented him with a certificate honoring his years of commuting.

★ ★ ★

Other features of the celebration included the gift of a book from his fellow commuters, "How to Play Bridge," and a silver cigarette box.

★ ★ ★

The Penn Central came up with the statistic that Constantino had spent $13,657.72 on commuter's tickets.



AP Photo

GIANT OFFSPRING—The Boeing 747 is shown here in all its impressive dimensions and (in the photo) outside the factory in Everett, Wash. on the occasion of its roll-out ceremonies. If Orville Wright had taken off from the nose of a 747 on his pioneering flight of 120 feet at Kitty Hawk in 1903, he would have landed a little more than halfway to the tip of the 747's tail—231 feet, 4 inches away.

Junior Editors Quiz on LIGHT

QUESTION: What does light consist of?

ANSWER: Scientists tel lus that light is one kind of radiant energy. We have tried to make this clear in our diagram. On the left, the wavy lines represent the sun, the principle source of heat and of the light by which we see.

The sun sends out an enormous amuont of radiant energy. All radiant energy is composed of electrically charged rays, which ascillate, or vibrate, back and forth. Some of these waves, or rays, are shorter, some longer, than others.

On our scale the shortest ones are at the top, the longest, at the bottom. The interesting thing to realize is that what we call light—that is, visible light, the light we see—comes from only a very small part of the scale of radiant energy.

Within the two cross lines for visible light lies the spectrum giving all the difefrent colors—the colors you see in a rainbow.

Notice that when the waves are longer than the light ones, they become heat rays. Heat and light waves come mainly from the sun; above and below these are waves of radiant energy from other sources, which we have suggested.

Cary's Former Wife Finds Own Niche

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD—"Thank God I had something to turn to, something to occupy my mind-acting. I feel sorry for the millions of divorced women who have to go it alone with nothing to help them keep busy."

THOMAS

Dyan Cannon described her state of mind on returning to film acting for the first time since her sensation-ridden divorce from Cary Grant. She is costarring with Natalie Wood, Robert Culp and Elliott Gould in "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice." Dyan is Alice. As you might guess from today's brand of film entertainment, the film concerns two married couples who change mates.

How did she get the role?

"I tested for it," she said rather proudly. "The producer, Mike Frankovich, thought so much of it, he showed it to a convention of theater men in San Francisco. So I guess I did all right."

PROVES A TONIC

The return to acting proved to be a tonic for her, said Miss Cannon, who admitted that the breakup of her marriage disturbed her deeply.

"For eight months I couldn't do anything," she recalled. "I was too stunned, to confused and upset over what had happened. Then one day something inside me clicked. I realized that I was not going to get anywhere sitting around and feeling sorry for myself: it was time for me to go out and get busy. I arrived at this decision myself, but of course I had excellent help getting there."

The help came from sessions with a psychiatrist. In the divorce trial she testified that she had been greatly upset by her husband's erratic behavior while apparently under the influence of LSD. For that reason she tried to deny Grant rights to care for their daughter Jennifer during vacations. The judge denied her request on the grounds that Grant no longer used LSD.

Miss Cannon remarked that her relations with her ex-husband are now more pleasant, and they occasionally see each other on social occasions. Only once did she hint of the acrimony that was displayed in the divorce trial. When asked if if she had to work to earn a living, she snapped:

"I surely do. I came out of that divorce without a house, without a car, without a bit of community property."

ALIMONY WILL END

Furthermore, her alimony will end after three years. Why such a relatively small settlement after three years of marriage and one child by one of Hollywood's richest men? She was advised to shun an out-of-court settlement in order to fight Grant's right to share custody of their daughter. But she lost in court.

That unhappiness behind her, Dyan seeks to revive the career she abandoned when she became Mrs. Cary Grant. She was helped along the way by a Broadway show she did earlier this year, "The 90-Day Mistress."

"The play didn't last 90 days, but I got excellent notices in it," she remarked. "That delighted me, because one witchy columnist had printed that I got part only because I was the wife of Cary Grant."

Dyan aims to make it on her own. She figures she has the experience, having toured as the female lead in "How to Succeed in Business," and appeared for a year in a daily soap opera and a flock of TV dramas.

Soldier's Ad Tells of Love for His Family

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A lonely American GI serving in Vietnam proclaimed his love for his family Wednesday in a front-page advertisement in the English-language China Post of Taipei.

Air Force T.Sgt. Charles L. Dickerson of Miami, Fla., placed the following ad:

"Merry Christmas to my wonderful family, Marie A. Dickerson, Patricia A. Dickerson and Christina G. Dickerson.

"I miss all of you, and I love you all very much.

"Love always, Charles."

Dickerson's wife and daughters are living in Taipei while he is stationed at Da Nang.

MARRIED IN 1958

Mrs. Dickerson is the former Mariko Uchida of Tokyo. She and Dickerson were married there in March 1958, and she took the name Marie Ann when she acquired American citizenship.

Patricia is 9 years old and Christina is 4.

Coal Mining Can Be Safer Than It Is

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Coal mining will never be completely safe — just as driving a car will never be. But today it is much more hazardous than it need be.

The problem, as described in a daylong meeting here, is simply shortage: shortage of knowledge, shortage of knowledgeable men, shortage of money, shortage of law and enforcement. The meeting, called by Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, followed the entombment of 78 miners in Mannington, W. Va.

* * *

One prime reason for unsafe mines is a lack of technical personnel. Charles T. Holland, dean of the school of mines of West Virginia University, states that "enough properly trained men to supervise our mines, to engineer them, and to inspect them and to carry out the safety provisions provided by our mining laws are not available."

* * *

W. G. Forester, dean of the college of engineering of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, sees the universities as the only source of highly trained manpower to attack the probem. To attract the good students, he advocates the use of fellowships, training and research grants and research contracts.

ENGINEER SHORTAGE

Inadequate emphasis on educating mining engineers has led to a shortage of mining engineers of emergency proportions, says Dr. John J. Reed, head of the department of mining engineers at the Colorado School of Mines, while Dr. Charles L. Hosler, dean of the college of earth and mineral sciences at Pennsylvania State University decries the lack of funds for research and education.

* * *

He blames a lack of government and industrial financial support to colleges to promote education and research in mining and mineral engineering for the lack of progress in mine safety.

The conference lasted all day, with the morning session devoted to expressions of sympathy, accusations, protestations of innocence, mea culpas, calls for more mining legislation and more enforcement.

* * *

Udall announced stricter enforcement procedures:

- A fivefold increase in the number of mine inspections.
- No advance warning of an inspection.
- Submission of a roof control plan for haulageways and roadways by each mine-owner.
- A reduction in the permissible methane level from two to 1.5 per cent.

Udall also described a proposal for new law. It would include:

- A new standard for coal dust, the cause of pneumoconiosis, or black lung, of 3.0 milligrams of dust per cubic meter of air.
- Elimination of grandfather clause, which permitted the use of nonpermissible equipment.
- Safety provisions to eliminate the nonexplosive accidents that cause most mining deaths and injuries.
- Removal of nongassy classification, making all mines subject to the same strict regulations.
- Increase in the authority of inspectors to issue citations and withdraw workers from a mine.
- Establishment of both civil and criminal penalties for violations by both mineowners and miners.
- Extension of the Secretary's authority to surface miners.

The afternoon session was devoted to the role of science and technology in mine safety.

MIXED BLESSING

As it turns out, technology in a coal mine is a mixed blessing. It can make a miner's life easier and increase productivity, but at the same time it can aggravate health and safety problems.

* * *

For example, continuous mining machines remove coal faster than conventional methods, but in so doing they throw more coal dust into the air, thereby increasing the risk of getting pneumoconiosis, as well as releasing more methane, the explosive gas.

High-velocity ventilation systems to keep up with the continuous mining machines increase suspended dust, which in turn increases the hazards of explosion and the risk of lung disease.

Three Roasts Offered on Buffet Table

A well-planned buffet meal is appropriate for serving anytime from 4 p.m. until after midnight. An especially easy meal to serve is one that uses modern boneless roasts that are delicious served either hot or cold.

Three easy to carve roasts for the buffet are the boneless pork loin roast, the corned beef oven roast and the fully cooked boneless ham. All are free of fat and bone. All go into a 325 degree oven; the pork and corned beef for roasting and the ham for heating only. The glaze and garnish for each give distinction for the hostess.

FOR SALAD

The Vegetable Marinade can be made ahead. It is an easy substitute for a salad and remains fresh and tasty during an extended serving time. Parsley buttered potatoes and crisp hot rolls complete the main course.

* * *

Holiday cookies are usually the only sweet touch needed for dessert along with coffee.

ORANGE GLAZED BONELESS PORK LOIN ROAST

5 pound lean boneless pork loin roast
½ cup orange marmalade
4 orange slices, ¼ inch think
Parsley

Place roast on a rack in a shallow, open pan. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees) for approximately 2¾ hours or to 170 degrees internal temperature as indicated by a roast meat thermometer.

To Glaze: During the last half hour of roasting time, spoon orange marmalade over the top of the pork roast. Serve hot or cold. Garnish platter with orange twists and parsley.

OVEN ROAST OF CORNED BEEF WITH PINEAPPLE-GINGER GLAZE

Corned beef for oven roasting
14½ ounce can sliced pineapple, drained (reserve juice)
1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup pineapple juice
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
Paprika or finely chopped parsley

Follow directions on the package for oven roasting corned beef. Meanwhile, combine brown sugar, pineapple juice, water, and seasonings in a saucepan. Boil 10 minutes.

Brush corned beef with pineapple-ginger glaze during the last half hour of the roasting time. Garnish with pineapple slices.

For a festive touch, coat edges of pineapple slices with paprika or chopped parsley by rolling slices over the paprika or chopped parsley. Serve hot or cold.

HOSTESS HAM WITH CHERRY SAUCE

Hostess Ham
1 pound can tart cherries, drained (reserve juice)
1 tablespoon plus 2 teaspoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Few drops red food coloring

Serve ham cold or use package directions for heating. Measure drained cherry juice and add water to make 1 cup juice. Combine cornstarch, sugar, and cinnamon in saucepan. Gradually add cherry juice to cornstarch mixture. Add lemon juice.

Bring to a boil, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and becomes transparent. Simmer 10 minutes. Add cherries (reserve a few for garnishing) and food coloring. Serve over ham.

POINSETTIA VEGETABLE MARINADE

1 small head cauliflower
9 ounce package frozen artichoke hearts
½ cup Italian salad dressing
Whole pimiento
½ teaspoon oregano

Remove leaves and core from cauliflower. Place on a rack in a large saucepan. Add water to one-inch in depth. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer about 25 minutes or until cauliflower is tender.

Prepare artichoke hearts according to package directions. Place cooked cauliflower and drained artichokes in a large bowl. Pour salad dressing over vegetables. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours.

Arrange artichoke hearts around cauliflower. Garnish cauliflower with pimiento cut into shape of poinsettia leaves. Sprinkle oregano over vegetables.

PUDDING CHRISTMAS TREES — In saucepan, sprinkle 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine on 1½ cups cold water. Stir over low heat until gelatine is dissolved. Remove from heat; gradually blend into 2 cans rice pudding. Add ½ cup finely chopped maraschino cherries, ½ cup finely chopped pecans, 4 teaspoons lemon juice and 12 drops green food coloring. Pour into 9 paper cups; chill 4 hours. To unmold, carefully tear away cup. Garnish top with whole cherries; trim with frosting, if desired. Makes 9 servings.

COFFEE MINCE PIE — Combine 2 jars (1 lb. 3 oz. each) of prepared mincemeat with 2 tablespoons instant coffee powder. Bring to boil; remove from heat. Add 2 teaspoons rum flavoring. Line 9-inch pie pan with pastry. Fill with mincemeat mixture. Cut 12 strips of pastry 12 inches long and ½ inch wide. Twist strips slightly. Arrange on top of mincemeat, lattice fashion. Trim and flute edge of pie. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 400 degrees, bake 15 to 20 minutes longer, or until pastry is deep golden brown.

Vegetable Trio Goes Well With Roast Chicken

Try this good combination of flavors.

CELERY WITH MUSHROOMS

3 tablespoons butter
2 medium onions (peeled, quartered and cut into thin strips to make about 1 cup)
1 can (6 ounces) broiled mushrooms, drained
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 cup boiling water
3 cups thinly sliced celery

In an 8-inch skillet over low heat melt the butter; add onion and cook, stirring often, until golden; mix in mushrooms and cook a few minutes to blend flavors; set aside.

* * *

In a medium saucepan, dissolve bouillon cube in water; add celery; bring to a boil; cover and boil gently until celery is tender-crisp — 8 to 10 minutes.

Drain off liquid — save it, if you like, to add to a soup or sauce. To celery, add mushroom-onion mixture and reheat. Makes 6 servings.

* * *

Note: Use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler to remove coarse strings from outer surface of celery ribs before slicing into crescents.

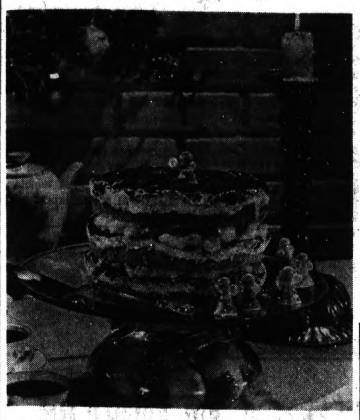
Shaved Chocolate Tops Meringue on Lemon Torte



AUSTRIAN YULETIDE TORTE — Entertain in the elegant Viennese manner with late evening coffee and a torte. Chocolate sprinkled meringue is baked on top of a lemony cake layer. Stack three of these layers together with a tangy lemon filling. Note the use of fresh lemons and tinsel as decoration.

Are you one of those hostesses who prefer to entertain in an intimate group rather than the usual holiday open house? It may be more work, but it has the reward of good fellowship and deeper satisfaction.

Follow the Austrian custom of after-dinner invitations. Guests arrive around 8:30 and are offered a glass of wine and perhaps some small finger sandwiches. Then about elevenish, black coffee is served accompanied with a delicious torte or strudel. Guests never go home on an empty stomach.

Austrian Yuletide Torte is a gastronomic delight. This delicious fresh lemony dessert, combined with spicy conversation, adds up to a fun filled evening. Try it.

AUSTRIAN YULETIDE TORTE
(3 layer torte)

½ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 cup sugar
4 egg yolks, well beaten
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
1 tablespoon freshly grated lemon peel
4 egg whites
⅔ cup sugar
¾ cup shaved chocolate
Lemon Filling

Grease and flour three 8 inch layer cake pans; line bottoms with circle of waxed paper. Cream butter; gradually add 1 cup sugar, beating until light. Blend in beaten yolks.

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk, beating until smooth and after each addition. Stir in lemon peel. Pour into pans, using about 1 cup for each; set aside.

Beat whites until soft peaks form; gradually add ⅔ cup sugar, beating at high speed until stiff, but not dry. Carefully spread meringue over batter, making certain to pull to sides of pan. Sprinkle each layer with shaved chocolate.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 degrees; bake 25 minutes longer. Cool completely in pans on wire rack.

* * *

With narrow spatula, carefully loosen from sides of pan; slip spatula under cake, and rase up enough to slip hand under layer to remove. Peel off waxed paper. Spread half of Lemon Filling between layers; chill before serving.

Lemon Filling

1¼ cups sugar
5 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
2 egg yolks
1 whole egg
1 teaspoon freshly grated lemon peel
½ cup freshly squeezed lemon juice
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

In saucepan, thoroughly combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add milk gradually, blending until smooth. Beat egg yolks and whole egg together thoroughly. Blend into cornstarch mixture along with remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly; boil 2 to 3 minutes.

Chill before spreading between layers. Makes 2 cups.

Mincemeat Confections

The "what to give" question is not a difficult one to solve for the imaginative cook, for she knows that homemade cookies and confections make highly personalized gifts bound to please any recipient.

* * *

One such offering is in the form of Chocolate-Mincemeat Confections. They are surprisingly easy to make and extra pleasing to taste.

* * *

With modern condensed mincemeat, the ball-shaped confections are quick and easy to make. Use flaked coconut or chopped nuts to coat them, and then package in a fancy gift box for tasteful and tasty giving.

CHOCOLATE-MINCEMEAT CONFECTIONS

2 cups (two 6-oz. pkgs.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 (9-oz. pkg.) condensed mincemeat
½ cup coarsely chopped nuts
½ cup miniature marshmallows
½ cup flaked coconut
¾ cup flaked coconut, or chopped nuts

Melt chocolate pieces in top of double boiler over hot, not boiling water. Break mincemeat with a fork. Add to melted chocolate. Mix in ½ cup coarsely chopped nuts, marshmallows and ½ cup coconut; stir after each addition.

* * *

Shape mixture by teaspoonful between palms of hands to form 1-inch balls. (If mixture seems too sticky, cool for several minutes.) Roll shaped confections in additional coconut or finely chopped nuts until completely coated.

CHILL

Place on greased cookie sheet. Refrigerate about 45 minutes, or until firm. Remove from refrigerator and arrange on serving dish about an hour before serving.

Hearty Appetizers Fit Winter Scene

Preparing appetizers that pique the palate and look exciting too, is the formula for launching a party successfully. Here are canape and dip suggestions from home economists that should be conversation pieces at your holiday party.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS

12 large mushrooms
1 tablespoon minced onion
¼ cup butter
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup soft bread crumbs
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
3 tablespoons chopped walnuts
1 tablespoon A.1 sauce
1 tablespoon water

* * *

Clean mushrooms, remove stems and chop. Saute onions and chopped stems in butter, until onions are golden. Mix sauteed onions and mushrooms with salt, crumbs, cheese, walnuts and A.1 sauce.

* * *

Stuff mushroom caps with this mixture, and place in shallow baking dish. Add water to pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 20-25 minutes until nicely browned.

* * *

Bean Dip

2½ cups cooked lima beans
2 tablespoons A.1 sauce
⅓ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon chopped scallion

* * *

Mash beans well with fork. Add remaining ingredients and blend to a paste consistency. Refrigerate, covered until ready to serve. Serve on crackers.

* * *

Broiled Crab Meat Sandwiches

1 6½ oz. can (1 cup) crab meat
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon A.1 sauce
6 bread slices (lightly toasted)
6 slices American cheese

* * *

Mix together crab meat, mayonnaise, A.1 sauce. Spread on bread slices. Top each open sandwich with slice of American cheese. Place under broiler until cheese is golden brown.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS — Large firm mushroom caps hold a tempting mixture of cheese and nuts. They are baked just before serving so get them ready early and pop them in the oven just before your guests arrive.

Store Turkey Casserole in Freezer

It is a poor holiday season without a few unexpected guests and it is a naive homemaker who does not expect them. When you have a repertoire of appropriate foods for the occasion, the whole game can be lots of fun and you can act as if you were always a short-order cook.

Devilish Turkey — merely a casserole of tasty sauce seasoned with Worcestershire sauce, poultry seasoning and lemon juice with cubes of cooked turkey roast and topped with buttered crisp bread crumbs — is one of your top tricks for lunch or dinner. You make it ahead of time.

FREEZE IN FOIL

Line individual au gratin or casserole dishes with foil and fill with Devilish Turkey. Seal and freeze right in the dishes. As soon as the food is frozen, remove it from the dishes, mark and stack in the freezer.

You will have the au gratins to use and when unexpected guests arrive, simply remove the foil, fit the frozen Devilish Turkey into the au gratins, cover with bread crumbs and heat. What could be simpler?

DEVILISH TURKEY

- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons and 1 teasoon melted butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teasoon seasoned salt
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ⅛ teaspoon poultry seasoning
- Dash cayenne pepper
- ¾ teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 cup milk
- 1½ cups cooked, diced boneless turkey roast
- 1 teaspoon chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons dry bread crumbs
- Paprika

Cook onion in 2 tablespoons butter until clear. All flour to form a paste. Stir in seasoned salt, Worcestershire sauce, poultry seasoning, pepper, lemon juice and milk. Cook over medium heat until boiling and thickened. Stir constantly. Add turkey and parsley. Heat 2-3 minutes or until hot.

Pour mixture into 3 au gratin dishes or small casseroles. Combine bread crumbs and 1 teaspoon butter. Sprinkle over turkey mixture. Sprinkle paprika over crumbs.

Place under broiler a few minutes or until crumbs are lightly browned. Serve immediately. Yield: 3 servings.

Add Smoke to Salmon for Party Spread

Canned salmon is a year 'round convenience food, as helpful to homemakers in these busy winter months as in the lazy days of summer. A one-pound can of salmon can be quickly transformed into a hot and hearty luncheon or supper dish to serve six.

But, in addition to being a family stand-by, it is an elegant food which can be served with confidence on the most formal occasions.

Smoked Party Salmon Spread

- 7¾-ounce can salmon
- ¼ teaspoon liquid smoke
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- Dash salt
- Freshly ground black pepper to taste
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped green onions
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- Capers (optional)

Open can of salmon. Add liquid smoke to the liquid in can. Cover top of can with transparent film and refrigerate for at least 4 hours, or overnight.

When ready to make the spread, drain off the smoky liquid, and flake salmon into a bowl. Stir in mayonnaise, salt, pepper, onions and lemon juice. Spread on crackers or on wedges of buttered pumpernickel bread. If desired top each canape with a few capers. Makes 8 canapes.

Sprinkle of Sugar Helps Brown Bird

The wishbone of the holiday bird was once called the "merrythought" from the merriment caused by persons pulling for their wishes from opposite sides of this v-shaped breast bone.

It takes more than wishing to roast the turkey, or other festive poultry, to an even, all over brown, succulence. Breasts tend to over-brown quickly; hollows and sides stay pale.

A sprinkle of white sugar over light surface areas, before roasting, will speed their browning. Or mix the sugar with a little butter and brush on the roasting bird where needed. When placed in dry oven heat or with hot fat, sugar caramelizes to a rich brownness, automatically.

Fat Is Heavier

When heavy cream is whipped, the volume obtained will vary according to the fat content of the cream. As the fat content increases, the volume decreases slightly.

Mix It Well

The secret of a good meat loaf every time is to mix it thoroughly so that all ingredients and seasonings are one unified mass. After thoroughly mixing, pack the mass down hard into the greased loaf pan so that the consistency will be firm, and not soft and filled with bubbly air holes.

Vanilla Continues as Elusive Flavor

Long before Columbus discovered America, the Aztecs enjoyed a drink called "Xoco-Latl" made from cocoa and vanilla beans. Even now, centuries later, no one has yet been able to completely identify all the components of vanilla.

It is known that vanillin is the major flavor constituent of natural vanilla; but, even by adding other flavor compounds to vanillin to produce imitation vanilla extract, the true delicate, well-rounded magic flavor of pure vanilla is not reached.

In 1963 the Food and Drug Administration published the Definitions and Standards of Identity for Vanilla Extract and Related Products. Only the true extract can be labeled "vanilla extract" or "extract of vanilla." If the bottle contains imitation vanilla extract, it must be clearly labeled as imitation.

★ ★ ★

Nothing takes the place of the bouquet of flavor that pure vanilla adds. It really is a bouquet for, in a sense, what is being added is the exquisite flavor from the fruit of a tropical orchid.

Ham Popovers

Blend 2 eggs and 1 cup milk, add 1 cup flour and ½ teaspoon salt; beat until smooth. Into well greased muffin cup pour 1 scant tablespoon of this delicious combination; top with 1 tablespoon deviled ham then, 2 tablespoon batter. Bake at 450 degrees for 35-40 minutes. Makes 8-10 golden brown popovers.

Year That Was—3

March Blew Change

By JOY STILLEY
Associated Press Writer

The withdrawal of Gov. George Romney of Michigan as a Republican president candidate on the last day of February merely foreshadowed March's political fireworks.

The first bombshell exploded in the New Hampshire primary March 12, where Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota took a surprising 42.2 per cent of the Democratic ballots cast, against a 49.4 per cent write-in vote for President Johnson.

Before the shock of this event had subsided, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York further confused the political scene. Having reexamined in the light of the New Hampshire results his oft-stated decision not to run, he declared on March 16: "I am announcing today my candidacy for the presidency of the United States."

There was more to come. On March 21 Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York amazed reporters by saying: "I am not a candidate campaigning, directly or indirectly, for the presidency of the United States." He softened the surprise, however, by conceding he stood ready to answer any true and meaningful Republican draft.

LBJ SHOCKER

But the real earthquake shook the country on March 31, when President Johnson casually tossed this stunner into a television and radio speech dealing mainly with the Vietnam war:

"I shall not seek, and I will not accept, the nomination of my party for another term as your President."

★ ★ ★

Across the Atlantic, Britons braced for their own series of shocks.

"We must have two years of hard slog," Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins told the nation March 19 as he announced a budget involving the heaviest tax burden in peacetime history.

To attain a $2.2 billion goal, excise taxes went up on everything from consumer goods to gambling and drinking.

There were still more serious money troubles. A jet-age-style gold rush precipitated a crisis in the world's monetary system. Speculative buying of gold surged, despite United States government pledges to support the price at $35 per ounce.

★ ★ ★

In just 10 days about 900 tons of gold changed hands, instead of the usual three to five tons daily. Prices reached $44.36 per ounce in Paris.

Members of the seven-nation international gold pool—the United States, Great Britain, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Switzerland—met at Washington in the crsis and achieved a temporary solution.

They established a two-price system for gold—$35 an ounce for transactions between member governments, and another price fluctuating with supply and demand on the free market.

In March also there was a solution to problems involving another metal—copper. A strike of 260 days, the longest in the U.S. industry's history, finally ended in mid-March. The unions failed to gain the company-wide contracts with common expiration dates they had sought, but they did win wage boosts ranging from 75 cents to $1.20 an hour.

Heart Switch for Infant Fails

CHICAGO (UPI) — An 8-day-old boy, the youngest heart transplant patient ever, died early today after University of Chicago medical team attempted to give him the heart of a 2-day-old infant.

Hospital officials said David Whippie, whose parents live in suburban Harvey, had been suffering "numerous congenital defects of the heart, non-correctable by any known surgical method."

He was given the heart of 2-day-old Joseph Orbochta, the child of a Chicago couple, who died yesterday evening of birth defects not involving the heart, officials said.

Previous, the youngest heart-transplant recipient had been a 2½-week-old boy at the Maimonides Medical Center in Brooklyn, N.Y., who died 6½ hours after receiving the heart of a 2-day-old mentally retarded child.

SECOND TRANSPLANT

That operation was the world's second transplant, coming three days after Dr. Christian Barnard placed another heart in Louis Washkansky.

The Whippie baby died five hours after last night's operation began. Because of his age, he had been sustained by the intermittent use of a heart-lung machine before he died, officials said.

The surgical team which performed the world's 102nd heart transplant was led by Dr. C. Frederick Kittle, professor of surgery and chief of the section of thoracic and cardiovascular surgery at the university's school of medicine.

Opening lead—♦ K

When Sidney Larard of New Orleans was told that his age of 40 made him the second oldest man on the 1969 American bridge team he replied: "It's frightening."

It is even more so to George Rapee who at 50 is by far the oldest man on this year's team. It rather pleases 66-year-old Captain Jacoby who recalls that when Americans won the first World's Championship in 1935, the team ages were from 32 to 36 and our team, the Four Aces, was just as successful in the '30s as the Italian Blue Team has been in the '60s.

★ ★ ★

In spite of their doddering old age, George and Sidney bid and play like 30-year-olds. Witness George's take-out double of South's one heart opening.

The bid made no difference in the final contract. North was going to four hearts from the moment his partner opened.

George led the king of diamonds and looked over dummy to find a way to beat the contract. Then he led his nine of diamonds!

★ ★

Sidney won a surprise trick with his jack and shot back the six of clubs. The defense had two diamond tricks in and were now sure of two club tricks to set the unfortunate declarer.

Had George simply cashed a second high diamond and shifted to a trump or a spade South almost surely would have made the game.

He would have drawn trumps, cashed all the spades, entered dummy with a third trump, led a low club and played the eight or nine.

★ ★ ★

George on lead, would be forced to give a ruff and discard or lead away from his king of clubs.

Of course, George's play was not guaranteed. South might have held the jack of diamonds. Then South would have made an overtrick but George was willing to risk it to beat the contract.

What do you do now?

A—Bid four diamonds. You feel as if you have a bear by the tail. You can't let go so you make the cheapest bid you can.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner continues to four hearts. What do you do now?

New Watch Style

Pearls are popular to rim a watch face or embellish a case, say the Watchmakers of Switzerland. At the Montres et Bijoux, Switzerland's big watch and jewelry show, there were even mother of pearl dials. In keeping with the trend to different dials, some were fashioned of precious stones such as lapis lazuli, jade or tiger's eye.

Astrological Forecast

By SIDNEY OMARR
For Friday

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Find out if one close to you is leaning too heavily. Means carry your fair share, not extra burden. Get fresh point of view. News received could cause revision of plans.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Information of value is gained. Heed voice of experience. One behind the scenes works on your behalf. Results are steady rather than sensational. Great ally today is patience.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take care while making home repairs. Short journey may be canceled. Be sure of messages, instructions. Avoid tendency to scatter forces. Word from relative solves dilemma.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Respond to challenge. Don't walk away with task not completed. Bit of concentration today is needed. Check details. Handle responsibility. Special assignment may be on agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Outline plans. Ideas. Build on solid base. One at a distance may have answers you seek. Call, write, keep communication lines clear. If you don't know—ask.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Strive for greater domestic harmony. Holiday pace has resulted in some frayed nerves. Be diplomatic. Use logic, not force. Money question can be favorably settled.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Mate or partner makes demands. Give a little, and you will also receive. See persons, situations, in realistic light. Avoid self-deception. Not wise to commit yourself to long-term agreement.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Conserve energy. Some tasks have piled high because of holiday activity. Take one thing at a time. No need to be discouraged. Moderation should be key. Maintain steady pace.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Display enthusiasm. Personal magnetism rates high. Opposite sex is attracted. Day for changes, creative activity. You get what you want—if you go after it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Best to be on familiar ground. If too far afield there are risks. Take care around machinery. Much is accomplished if you stick to facts. Leave fantasy to others today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Relatives may try to expedite journey or decision. Be receptive but stand up for principles. You've been holding your own. Continue. Get together with CANCER born individual.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be realistic where funds, savings, expenditures enter picture. Avoid waste. You may have to be firm where some requests are concerned. There are alternatives. Be versatile. Sense of humor aids.

IF FRIDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are attracted to fields which enable you to aid those in difficulty. Includes medicine and psychology. You have finished a relationship—new horizons due to open.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for ARIES, TAURUS, GEMINI. Special word to AQUARIUS who has serious intentions confides.

OPEN NEW YEARS DAY 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.

Added Honor for Earl

Thorpe Trophy to Morrall

NEW YORK (NEA) — On Earl Morrall's second official pass of the 1968 season, a huge San Francisco 49er tackle named Roland Lakes rose up and batted the ball into the air before it crossed the line of scrimmage. The ball nested in the arms of Stan Hindman, a 49er end, who galloped 25 uninterrupted yards to the end zone.

That was the debut.

Earl Morrall, who doesn't show emotion, let his dimpled chin droop slackly. It was, he said later, one of the most miserable moments of his football life.

This is the denouement:

Earl Morrall, a substitute in nine of his first 12 years as a professional quarterback, was today acclaimed the outstanding player in the National Football League — the recipient of the 14th annual Jim Thorpe Trophy.

He was chosen for the honor through a poll taken by Newspaper Enterprise Association of all the players in the NFL.

In his 13th season, the 34-year-old quarterback of the Baltimore Colts was new both to his job and his teammates when he threw that costly interception in the opening game.

UNITAS AILING

The Colts needed convincing this was the man who could lead them instead of the great John Unitas, ailing with tendonitis in his throwing arm. So did Coach Don Shula, who two weeks earlier had picked up Morrall from the New York Giants as a stop-gap substitute.

★ ★ ★

"I had a chance to get a couple of other guys in the league," admitted Shula, "but the reason I took Earl was that I remembered when he had opportunities to win football games at Detroit (where Shula was an assistant coach), he produced."

But Shula also remembered that when Morrall had starting opportunities, he wasn't a consistent quarterback. Now with the Colts, who had championship aspirations, he was a starter in their most sensitive position.

In the first quarter of that same opening game against the 49ers, Morrall notched his first claim to the Jim Thorpe Trophy. The Colts, trailing 7-0, had driven deep into San Francisco territory, but it was third down and 11 on the 19-yard line. Morrall called for Ray Perkins, split left, to run a post pattern cutting toward the goal post in the middle of the field.

As Morrall dropped back to pass, the 49er middle linebacker, Ed Beard, blitzed in without a hand touching him. The center was held up by another assignment. "Right then," said Shula, "Earl showed me something. Beard was in his face. Perkins hadn't made his move to the post yet when Earl was forced to release the ball. He really didn't know his receiver. Yet the ball was right on target, and Perkins made a diving catch to put us on the 1-yard line."

Tom Matte lunged over on the next play to tie the score. Then Earl Morrall threw two touchdown passes and drove the Colts within range for two field goals and a 27-10 triumph.

After that, it was all elation for Morrall this fall of 1968. As the Colts won 11 of their next 12 games, Earl threw 23 more scoring passes. In the only game they lost, to Cleveland, he was removed at halftime, and Unitas, his arm still bad, completed only one pass out of 11, had three intercepted, and put the game beyond salvation.

"The thing this guy (Morrall) has done," said Shula, "was fit into this football team, not only as a player, but as a leader."

And that's the biggest switch of all because Morrall had made a career out of being a mediocre quarterback, phlegmatic and uninspiring. The Colts were his fifth team in the NFL, and almost everywhere he played he had been supplanted as a regular — by Bobby Layne in Pittsburgh, Jim Ninowski and Milt Plum in Detroit, Francis Tarkenton in New York. In San Francisco, which had drafted him originally in 1956 as an All-American at Michigan State, he never got a chance behind Y. A. Tittle.

Now he has taken over for the man generally recognized as the greatest of the modern quarterbacks, Unitas. He kept the job while Johnny's arm improved, and he succeeded Unitas as the most valuable player in the league.

Morrall Follows Unitas

Penguins Outskate Red Wings

Pontiac Press Photo by Rolf Winter

SEEKING OUTSIDE HELP?—Could it be that Detroit Red Wing general manager Sid Abel and coach Bill Gadsby are concerned enough about the plight of the last-place Wings that they have turned to Santa Claus for help? Apparently the whiskered gent didn't have a prompt solution up that generous sleeve, because the Detroit skaters dropped a 6-3 verdict Christmas night to the equally struggling Pittsburgh Penguins.

Temple Challenger in Titans' Tourney

The 11th ranked University of Detroit Titans play host to the 17th annual Motor City Tournament Friday and Saturday, with Temple always a strong Eastern cage power, expected to give the Titans the toughest battle for the title.

Miami of Ohio, of the Mid-America Conference, and Mississippi State of the Southeastern Conference, are the other two teams in the tournament.

Temple and Miami will take the floor in the opener at 7:30 p.m. Friday followed by the Detroit-Mississippi State encounter.

Temple, with eight returning lettermen from the team which went to the NIT tournament last year, has senior 6-5 John Baum, who is bidding to become the school's 4th All-America selection.

★ ★

Temple goes against defense minded Miami, a team which competed in the tournament two years ago.

The Titans, led by All-America candidate Spencer Haywood who has paced U. of D. to an 8-0 record to date, could go into the major portion of their schedule with a 10-0 mark.

After the tournament, the Titans have a host of unbeatens and rated teams on the schedule including Minnesota, Marquette, Dayton, Notre Dame, Villanova, Duquesne, Toledo, LaSalle and Boston College.

The Detroit-Mississippi State game is expected to start about 9:30 p.m. The losers of the first night will play the first game at 7:30 p.m. Saturday with the championship game to follow.

Swami Craig, champion of the 1968 association of Grapevine Pickers, does a solo in picking the bowl games after his decisive margin of 389-130-21 record.

This was 20 games ahead of the nearest Swami competitor, Swami Spears.

Here's how the Grapevine finished:

Craig: 389-130-21
Spears: 369-150-21
Vogel: 369-150-21
Kearns: 367-162-21
Humphrey: 296-229-21

Swami Craig's Bowl Selections:

Search to Start for Coach at 'M'

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A search for a new football coach is underway at the University of Michigan.

Athletic director Don Canham said a list of candidates has been narrowed to "a couple of guys," one of whom would succeed Chalmers "Bump" Elliott as head coach.

Canham confirmed an earlier report in The Detroit News that Elliott is to become an associate athletic director for intercollegiate athletics, a new post.

★ ★ ★

Canham emphasized that Elliott remains as coach until a successor is found.

Michigan won eight straight games this season, only to lose decisively to Ohio State and miss a Rose Bowl bid.

The new post was created some nine months ago by the university's board of regents along with an equal companion post of associate athletic director for physical education and intramural athletics.

★ ★ ★

Names of candidates under consideration were not disclosed, but a spokesman said all now have coaching jobs and Michigan's assistant coaches were told they were under consideration. The spokesman said it was hoped a successor could be found sometime in January.

BATTLING GRAEBNER — Clark Graebner of the U.S. Davis Cup team makes a forehand return today in his singles match against Australia's Bill Bowery. Graebner lost the first set of his opening challenge round match, then rallied to give the U.S. a 2-0 lead.

Detroit Fails to Hold Lead in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The penguin, it has been said, is an unusual bird that lives in the Antartic and looks like a little fat man in a dress suit.

Not so.

There are Penguins grimly hanging on in Pittsburgh. They are last, to be sure, in the expansion Western division of the National Hockey League, but Wednesday they fought off a 3-1 Detroit Red Wings lead to win 6-3.

The victory was the seventh this year for Pittsburgh in 32 games and played before a few more than 2,000 fans. It also ended a five-game losing streak.

Gordie Howe, who scored his 700th career goal the last time in Pittsburgh, Wednesday night added his 704th.

Alex Delvecchio got the puck to Howe by stealing a face-off.

Howe slipped behind one Pittsburgh defenseman, faked another and fired a shot past goaltender Les Binkley. At that point the game was tied 1-1.

Jean Provonost scored the first goal for the Penguins.

Later, Detroit added goals by Dean Prentice, scoring his seventh, and Gary Bergman's sixth for the season.

Three failed power plays by Pittsburgh suggested a sure Detroit victory, but at 11:23 in the second period Penguin Charlie Burns outskated Bob Baun at the Detroit blue line, faked and beat goalie Roger Crozier to score.

Forty seconds later Keith McCreary scored again on a rebounded Wally Boyer shot that left Crozier prone on the ice. Some five minutes later, McCreary scored his second from the left side while Howe was in the penalty box.

Penguin teammates Ken Schienkel and Lou Agnoti added third period clinchers.

The game changed nothing for either team. Detroit, with 14 victories and four ties against 14 losses, has 32 points, which would place the team second in the western division but leaves it last in the eastern division. Pittsburgh has 20 points gleaned from seven victories and six ties against 17 losses.

The Wings return to Olympia tomorrow for an 8 p.m. game against Philadelphia, next to last in the western division.

Casimir Myslinski Selected Pitt's AD

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Frank Carver has stepped down as athletic director of Pitt and Casimir Myslinski, a long-time friend of chancellor Wesley W. Posvar, was named his successor Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Myslinski's first task will be to find a head coach to succeed Dave Hart, who resigned after three disastrous seasons, and then put some muscle into the Panthers' football fortunes.

★ ★ ★

Under Hart, Pitt won only three of 30 games and have faded badly since 1962 when they were No. 3 in the nation.

But Posvar, who announced Carver's resignation, said Pitt's football record over the past three years "had no bearing on this decision."

Myslinski, 45, was captain of the 1943 Army football team under Earl "Red" Blaik and a standout at center.

Hold 2-0 Advantage

U.S. Netmen Lead

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — Arthur Ashe Jr., poised and deadly as a swordsman, and Clark Graebner, fighting like an aroused bear, shot the United States into an imposing 2-0 lead over the inexperienced Australians today in a chilly and blustery Davis Cup Challenge Round.

Ashe, screwny 25-year-old Army lieutenant from Richmond, Va., who is rated the world's best amateur, toyed with Ray Ruffels, hard-serving Australian left-hander who never quit hitting bombshells, 6-8, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3.

Graebner, 25-year-old New York paper salesman, had the scrap of his tennis life before he finally subdued lanky Bill Bowrey, Australian champion in a three-hour, 10-minute marathon, 8-10, 6-4, 8-6, 3-6, 6-1.

The double victory, carved out in 20 miles per hour winds and 60-degree temperature before a disappointing crowd of 5,000, puts the heavily favored Americans in position to clinch the giant silver trophy in the doubles match Friday.

The match starts at 11:30 p.m. EST, today, with the United States sending its collegiate tandem of Stan Smith and Bob Lutz of the University of Southern California against possibly Australia's teen-age pair of John Alexander, 17, and Philip Dent, 18.

Major Hoople Sees Several Surprises in Bowl Games

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Football's Foremost Forecaster

Egad, friends, never have you been treated to a finer selection of football contests than this year's big Bowl matches.

Every team in the Top Ten with the exception of Notre Dame will see action in one of the eight big games. The seventh-ranked Irish have a self-imposed ban on post-season games.

"Fittingly, the Rose Bowl "daddy of the Bowls" has the top attraction — Ohio State (9-0), rated No. 1, vs. Southern California (9-0-1), ranked No. 3.

Running a close second in importance is the Orange Bowl nocturnal meeting of the nation's No. 2 eleven, Penn State (10-0), and the Big Eight powerhouse Kansas (9-1). The Sugar Bowl pits fourth-ranked Georgia (8-0-2) against 10th-rated Arkansas (9-1).

★ ★ ★

Our personal inspections of the contestants' secret workouts and private conversations with the coaches indicate—kaff-kaff—several startling surprises are in store.

Before bidding adieu to the '68 collegiate season, dear raders, let me take this opportunity to wish all of you a happy and prosperous New Year from your faithful correspondent and the other members of the Hoople Forecasting team.

Now fasten your seat belts, friends, and read the stupendous news — har-rumph!

GATOR BOWL
Dec. 28, Jacksonville, Fla.

Missouri 23, Alabama 21. A mild upset here as Dan Devine's lads hand Bear Bryant and his Alabama boys their second straight Bowl defeat. A rugged contest all the way!

SUN BOWL
Dec. 28, El Paso, Tex.

Arizona 20, Auburn 19. Arizona's Wildcats, humiliated by neighbor Arizona State in their last outing, will be out to prove they belong with the top teams. For Auburn, it will another heart-breaking loss — um-kumph!

PEACH BOWL
Dec. 30, Atlanta, Ga. (N)

Florida State 28, LSU 16. A new comer to the bowl line-up this year, the Peach Bowl promises to be a dandy. LSU is always dangerous but we believe Florida State conquerors of point-happy Houston, has too many guns for the Tigers!

BLUEBONNET BOWL
Dec. 31, Houston, Tex.

Oklahoma 26, SMU 22. In their last five victories, the Sooners averaged 35 points per game. The offense figures to keep rolling while the defense staves off the powerful rushes of the Mustangs.

ROSE BOWL
Jan. 1, Pasadena, Calif.

So. California 25, Ohio State 22. The upset of the day! O. J. Simpson, Heisman Trophy winner and the finest runner your scribe has seen in years, will close his career in a veritable blaze of glory. The big, bold Buckeyes will give it everything they've got but just fall short — har-rumph!

SUGAR BOWL
Jan. 1, New Orleans, La.

Arkansas 33, Georgia 25. Another upset here! Two evenly matched clubs, with the Hoople System giving the edge to the high-scoring Razorbacks — hak-kaff!

COTTON BOWL
Jan. 1, Dallas, Tex.

Texas 18, Tennessee 15. Boasting identical 8-1-1 records, the Longhorns and Volunteers were hard to separate. After running the statistics for both clubs over 10 games through the Hoople Computer, we came up with a three-point margin for Texas. Remember, you read it here first — um-kumph!

ORANGE BOWL
Jan. 1, Miami, Fla. (N)

Penn State 30, Kansas 28. A close contest from the opening whistle, this is the ideal game to ring down the curtain on the college season. When the lights go off in Miami's Orange Bowl, the Nittany Lions will have run their record to an impressive 11-0 with a pulsating conquest of the Jayhawks.

(N) — Night games.

SPARTAN HALTS 'MERCURY' — Eugene (Mercury) Morris (left), of West Texas State and the South team in yesterday's Shrine Game at Miami's Orange Bowl, is halted after making a first down by defensive back Frank Waters (43) of Michigan State's Spartans and the North squad. Morris was one of the country's outstanding collegiate runners this fall.

Determination Pushes Ex-Loser Bill Nelsen

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill Nelsen led Cleveland through a long, sustained Christmas Day workout for the National Football League championship game — and then pointed out that having been a loser for so long a time is what may have made him a winner in so short a time.

"Determination is part of me now," Nelsen explained. "Before this year, I went through a lot of seasons in high school, college and in the pros and most of them were losing. This helps — to feel how it is to lose — because it forces you to continue to struggle and to look upwards."

★ ★ ★

And it's that determination built in his years at Pittsburgh, coupled with the newborn confidence instilled in Cleveland, that will be Nelsen's greatest asset when he leads the Browns the field Sunday against the favored Baltimore Colts.

★ ★ ★

For Nelsen knows it will take determination to beat the Colts.

"I don't know how you can be daring against a club like Baltimore," Nelsen said after the Browns had jammed their usual two Wednesday drills into one mammoth four-hour session.

"You have to play them nose-to-nose and pound away at them."

★ ★ ★

Nelsen learned how to keep pounding away while he was pounded away at in his days with the Steelers, spending the better part of the last three seasons on the sidelines with leg injuries.

Bowl Games on Tap

Berlinski's Kick Wins for North

By the Associated Press

The North and the South began the last week of 1968 with a throwback to the old days of defensive football.

Michigan State's Dick Berlinski booted a 23-yard field goal in the first period Wednesday and the North made it stand up for a 3-0 victory in the Shrine's all-star game at Miami's Cotton Bowl.

That kicked off an eight-day holiday period during which 12 major bowl games will be played.

Next on tap is the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., Friday night between unbeaten and untied Ohio University, champions of the Mid-American Conference, and Richmond, which won seven of 10 games in taking Southern Conference honors.

SATURDAY CARD

Saturday's schedule lists four games—the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., between Missouri, 7-3, and Alabama, 8-2; the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., between Auburn, 6-4, and Arizona, 8-2; the East-West Shrine Game at San Francisco and the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala.

Monday night it's the Peach Bowl at Atlanta pairing Louisiana State, 7-3, with Florida State, 8-2. Tuesday Oklahoma faces Southern Methodist in the Blue Bonnet Bowl in Houston's Astrodome. Both teams had 7-3 regular season records.

The four big ones come up Wednesday, New Year's Day—Ohio State, 9-0, and Southern California, 9-0-1, in the Rose Bowl; Penn State, 10-0, and Kansas, 9-1, in the Orange Bowl; Texas, 8-1-1, and Tennessee, 8-1-1, in the Cotton Bowl and Georgia, 8-0-2, vs. Arkansas, 9-1, in the Sugar Bowl.

In the Christmas action, five pass interceptions and two fumble recoveries helped the North to victory. A slim crowd of 18,063 on a perfect sunshiny day saw the North win its ninth game of the series. The South has won 11 and there was one tie.

NHL Expansion Clubs Have Winning Holiday

In the spirit of the holiday season, the National Hockey League's expansion West Division gave it to the older East Division, but good on Christmas night.

There was Oakland socking it to Boston 3-1, and Pittsburgh celebrating with a 6-3 victory over Detroit. Philadelphia held New York to a 2-2 tie while in intra-division games, St. Louis shut out Minnesota 2-0 and Toronto shaded Chicago 4-3.

★ ★ ★

Billy Hicke scored a pair of goals and assisted on another as the Seals dropped Boston. Goaltender Gary Smith kicked out 36 Bruin shots and keyed the victory for Oakland.

Hicke and Johnny Bucyk traded first-period goals and then Mike Laugthon, with Hicke assisting, put the Seals in front to stay in the middle period. Hicke's two tallies gave him 12 for the seasons.

Harry Howell accidentally deflected the puck into his own net and then moments later set up Reg Fleming for New York's tying goal in a 2-2 standoff with Philadelphia.

Paul Henderson's second goal of the game gave Toronto its victory over Chicago and moved the streaking Maple Leafs within one point of second-place Montreal in the East Division. Norm Ullman assisted on all four Toronto goals.

Bobby Hull, the NHL's leading scorer, missed the third period when he was struck in the jaw by either a stick or puck and taken to a hospital for Xrays. His brother, Dennis, Pit Martin and Pat Stapleton scored the Black Hawks goals while Larry Mickey and Ron Ellis as well as Henderson, hit for Toronto.

Glenn Hall kicked out 18 Minnesota shots in the first period and went on to shut out the North Stars for St. Louis. It was the second shutout of the season for Hall, who finished with 29 stops.

AFL Rushing Champ Voted Top Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Robinson, who played only one year in college before becoming the American Football League's rushing champion, was an overwhelming choice today as the AFL's Offensive Rookie of the Year.

Robinson, the top rookie on a rookie team, receivd 24 votes for his play as the Cincinnati Bengals' halfback.

The other six votes from The Associated Press' panel of 30 sports writers and sportscasters went to another running back, Bob Holmes of Kansas City, who finished second in rushing.

Robinson gained 1,023 yards during the season, becoming the first rookie in the AFL to reach the 1,000 mark.

Pistons Post 119-113 Victory

By the Associated Press

Dave Bing and Eddie Miles rediscovered old forms Wednesday night and all was well with the Detroit Pistons who beat the Milwaukee Bucks 119-113 after trailing at one point by 13.

Bing and Miles each had 22 points, and Hap Hairston led the way with 24, although he was matched by Milwaukee's Guy Rodgers who helped make Detroit earn the victory.

The Baltimore Bullets, meanwhile, built their National Basketball Association Eastern Division lead to 3½ games over Philadelphia. They defeated Seattle 118-112 while the 76ers lost 110-109 at New York. Cincinnati defeated Chicago 103-98 and Los Angeles beat host Phoenix 119-99. Boston did not play.

ABA GAMES

In the American Association, Minnesota defeated Kentucky 129-118, Denver downed New York 129-110 and Oakland beat Los Angeles 127-122.

For Detroit, Miles hit 50 per cent of his shots from the field and Bing had six of eight free throws. The Pistons collectively shot 48 per cent from the field.

The Pistons put the game away after Miles sank two foul shots and ex-Knickerbocker Walt Bellamy, who had 14 points and 16 second-period rebounds, rammed home a dunk shot.

The Bullets have never had a winning season since they returned to Baltimore for the 1963-64 season, and some of those years have been disastrous. Only last season they had the worst record in the National Basketball Association at 20-61.

But this holiday season, the Bullets are flying higher than Santa Claus after beating Seattle 118-112 Wednesday, Christmas night, for their ninth consecutive triumph and a 27-7 record.

College Tournaments Tip Off

3 Unbeaten Quintets Play Tonight

By the Associated Press

Duquesne's debonair Dukes from Pennsylvania, Columbia's Lions from New York and Santa Clara's Broncos from California risk their unbeaten records in college basketball tonight as the merry whirl of Christmas holiday tournaments gets under way.

In the Motor City tournament which begins Friday in Detroit, Miami of Ohio meets Temple and University of Detroit plays Mississippi State.

The unranked Dukes from Pittsburgh, 7-0, go against Texas A&M in a first-round game of the All-College tourney at Oklahoma City. Columbia, 6-0, but also unranked, is pitted against Stanford in the first round of the Rainbow Classic at Honolulu.

Santa Clara, ninth-ranked in The Associated Press poll, also plays in the Rainbow Classic. The Broncos, 6-0, take on West Virginia's Mountaineers.

RATED JAYHAWKS

Once-beaten Kansas, 8-1, eighth-ranked in the AP poll, tries for its eighth straight against Nebraska in a first-round game of the Big Eight tourney at Kansas City. The Jayhawks also will be after victory No. 993 in the school's history.

★ ★ ★

The Far West Classic at Portland, Ore., the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., and the East Carolina Classic at Greenville, N.C., also start today after a two-day lull on the collegiate hardwoods.

★ ★ ★

The parade of tournaments goes into high gear on Friday featured by the start of the Holiday Festival in New York in which top-ranked UCLA meets which top-ranked UCLA meets Providence and No. 2 North Carolina tangles with fifth-ranked Villanova.

Tonight's tournament pairings; all first round:

Big 8 at Kansas City — Colorado vs. Oklahoma and Kansas vs. Nebraska.

Far West at Portland, Ore.—California vs. Brigham Young and Oregon vs. Yale.

Rainbow at Honolulu—Columbus vs. Stanford and Santa Clara vs. West Virginia.

★ ★ ★

All-College at Oklahoma City—Duquesne vs. Texas A&M and Tulane vs. Oklahoma City.

Gator Bowl at Jacksonville: Northwestern vs. Florida and Boston College vs. Georgia.

East Carolina at Greenville, N.C.: Virginia Tech vs. Delaware, Wm. & Mary vs. Baylor, Virginia vs. Air Force and East Carolina vs. Cornell.

Hank Stram Top Coach

KANSAS CITY (A) — Hank Stram, who kept the Kansas City Chiefs patched together with some masterful manipulation in midseason only to see his effort collapse in ruins at Oakland last Sunday, was named the American Football League's Coach of the Year Wednesday.

It was the second time in three years the dynamic little coach with the Napoleonic appearance has won the honor in the annual Associated ress vote of 30 sports writers and sportscasters—three from each of the AFL's 10 cities.

Stram received 16 votes, Weeb Ewbank of the New York Jets nine, Sid Gillman of San Diego three and Lou Saban of Denver two.

Stram expertly matched his available talent to the situation when injuries nearly took the Chiefs out of contention in midseason.

It was a totally different—and sad—day for the Chiefs last Sunday in the rubber match between Kansas City and Oakland however. At stake in the playoff game was the Western Division championship and a chance to meet Ewbank's Jets this Sunday for the AFL title and a Super Bowl berth.

Top-Ranked Prep Mat Teams in County Meet at OU

Three of the 10 top-ranked high school wrestling teams in the state will be on hand when the Oakland County Holiday Wrestling Tournament opens Friday at Oakland University.

Two days of wrestling are on tap, with the preliminaries slated for Friday and early Saturday and the finals on the Saturday night schedule.

Two sessions are set for Friday — 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. — and action will resume about noon on Saturday with finals at 7:30.

In all, 32 teams will take part in the tournament. "This event has blossomed from a small, eight-team event into the largest wrestling tournament in Michigan," commented Charles J. Skinner of Hazel Park, co-chairman of the tourney along with Calvin Webster.

★ ★ ★

One of the strong squads on hand will be defending champion Pontiac Northern, winner of the title for the past two years, but the Huskies won't be the favorite this year.

The favorite's role will be occupied by the Chiefs of Pontiac Central, who are currently ranked No. 1 in the state high school poll.

★ ★ ★

Coach Steve Szabo of PCH has come up with a veteran squad that has compiled a 3-0 record to date.

Pontiac Northern is ranked sixth in the poll, and another tourney entry, Detroit Catholic Central, occupies the No. 7 position.

★ ★ ★

Some others receiving votes in the poll who'll be on hand for this event are Walled Lake, North Farmington and Warren Fitzgerald.

Coaches have tabbed the Chiefs of PCH as the team to beat in the tourney, with PNH, Catholic Central and Walled Lake as the chief contenders.

OAKLAND COUNTY WRESTLING TOURNAMENT

Avondale, Berkley, Birmingham Groves, Birmingham Seaholm, Bishop Foley, Bloomfield Hills Andover, Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Clarkston, Clawson, Detroit Catholic Central, Royal Oak Dondero, Farmington, Ferndale, Hazel Park, Royal Oak Kimball, Lamphere, L'Anse Creuse, Madison, Milford, North Farmington, Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows, Pontiac Central, Pontiac Northern, Rochester, Southfield, Troy, Walled Lake, Warren Fitzgerald, Warren Lincoln, Warren Mott, Waterford Kettering, Waterford Township.

Catholic High Site of CYO Cage Tourney

Pontiac Catholic High School this week will be the scene of the first CYO Invitational Basketball Tournament involving seven teams.

St. Michael will play Lakeland at 6 p.m., St. William's will tangle with Sacred Heart at 7:15 p.m. and St. Benedict's will clash with Our Lady of Refuge at 8:30 p.m. in Friday's opening round games.

St. Frederick drew the bye. Saturday's slate will have two losers colliding at 1 p.m., and winnerss' bracket contests at 2:15 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.

The fifth place tilt will be 1:30 p.m. Sunday, third place will be resolved at 2:45 p.m. and the title contest is set for 4 p.m. The top two teams will receive trophies, as well as the members of the winning team.

Plans are to make the competition an annual affair.

East Boasts 2 Fine Backs

Duffy Daugherty Has Keyes, Johnson

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — No matter how much Duffy Daugherty juggles his starting line-up for Saturday's East-West Shrine football game at Candlestick Park, the East will wind up with a great running back on the bench.

He has four star running backs and plans to start three of them by junking the flanker.

The halfbacks are Purdue's Leroy Keyes and Michigan's Ron Johnson, who should be picked near the top in the college draft, perhaps No. 2 and 3 behind O. J. Simpson, who has a date with his Southern California teammates in the Rose Bowl.

★ ★ ★

Daugherty has two choices at fullback: Purdue's 217-pound Perry Williams and Army's Charlie Jarvis, a 205-pounder.

One of them must start the game sitting down, since common sense dictates the use of a quarterback, who will be Dennis Brown of Michigan or Fred Summers of Wake Forest.

Onlookers at East team workouts expect Williams to get the third starting running spot because of his blocking ability.

The East's primary receiver, if they need one, will be split end Charlie Wedemeyer of Daugherty's Michigan State team.

Charlie, 5-foot-7 and 175 is the younger brother of former St. Mary's star, Herman Wedemeyer.

Skaters From 5 States Enter Rolladium Meet

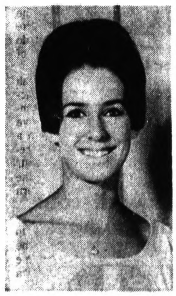
Roller skaters from five states will compete in the 14th annual Holiday Invitational Championships at Pontiac Rolladium Friday through Sunday.

Teams from Ohio, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Michigan and Colorado have entered.

* * *

There will be competition in singles, pairs and dance at various age levels. Judging will begin about 8 a.m. each day, continue to noon and resume again in the evening.

Several current and former North American champions are entered.



DIANE DOWNING
Former National Champion

Lex Kane and Robyn White of the Rolladium Skating club won juvenile boys and novice ladies NA titles, respectively, last summer and will be competing in higher classes.

Kane has moved up to junior and Miss White to senior ladies. Kurt Anselmi, the NA junior boys' champion, is now a senior. Former titlist Diane Downing is in senior figures.

* * *

Also entered is NA champion Linda Gyenese of Flint. She is considered one of the top all-around skaters in the country.

A highlight of the meet will be a race at 3 p.m. Sunday between a motorcycle and two Rolladium speed skaters. Kane and Howard McKerracher will match starts with the riding ability of Floyd Ranna.

The skaters are given the edge because of their better cornering ability on the rinks track.

STATE TEAMS

In addition to the host club, other Michigan teams are from Flint Rollhaven, Mt. Clemens Arena, Northland and Clawson Ambassador.

Rolladium manager Bert Anselmi also announced that the local rink will be the site of the 1969 Michigan State Championships during the Memorial Day weekend.

ENTERED IN MEET—Kim Anselmi and Lex Kane will skate as a team and individually in the Holiday Invitational Friday through Saturday at Rolladium. Kane is a current North American champion. They will represent the Rolladium Skating Club.

Wagering at Tracks Close to $5 Billion

By the Associated Press

Betting soared to a record $4,976,661,116 on legalized horse racing in the United States in 1968, but attendance declined for the second straight year.

Michigan was seventh among 24 states recording attendance and betting totals: Attendance at the state's tracks this year was 1,873,121 with $158,556,947 waged in all.

* * *

New York ranked first with some 7.1 million persons spending more than $723 million at tracks there. California was second followed by New Jersey, Illinois and Maryland.

CROWDS FALL

The fall off in attendance to 61,523,035 from 62,619,185 has caused some concern to track management.

* * *

"We must face the fact that thoroughbred racing is basically not increasing its portion of the entertainment dollar," said John D. Schapiro, the new president of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations, Inc.

"I know that young people have more money than they used to, but I wonder if it's enough more," Schapiro commented. "As soon as they marry, most of them begin having additional expenses. I'm afraid that racing is beyond the economic reach of most young people, young couples anyway."

* * *

The yearly figures for the thoroughbreds and harness racing, combined, came from a year-end Associated Press survey Wednesday.

They compare to the 1967 totals of 62,619,185 and $4,852,890,970 and to the 1966 aggregate of 63,391,608 and $4,654,149,033.

Of the 1968 total, 38,712,373 bet $3,365,371,524 on the runners and 22,810,662 wagered $1,602,289,529 on the pacers and trotters.

The breakdown on the thoroughbreds; ranked according to betting:

State	Attendance	Betting
1. New York	7,165,911	$ 723,630,004

Nancy Greene Tops Canada Athlete Vote

TORONTO (AP) — Nancy Greene, the Olympic ski queen from Rossland, B. C., has been named winner of the Lou E. Marsh Memorial Trophy as Canada's outstanding athlete for the second consecutive year.

* * *

It was the fourth year in a row the award, named for a former sports editor of the Toronto Star, has been awarded to a female athlete. Swimmer Elaine Tanner of Vancouver won it in 1966, and skater Petra Burka of Toronto in 1965.

At the 1968 Winter Olympics in Grenoble, France, Miss Greene won a gold medal in the giant slalom and a second-place silver in the slalom. She also won the first two World Cup skiing competitions in 1967 and 1968.

* * *

Last week she was named Canada's top female athlete in the year-end Canadian Press poll of sportswriters and broadcasters.

It is the second consecutive year she has won both awards. Miss Tanner won both in 1966.

Kentucky Five Remains No. 1

By The Associated Press

Unbeaten Kentucky Wesleyan won both its games last week to run its record to 7-0 and retain its hold on first place in The Associated Press' weekly small college basketball poll.

The Panthers from Owensboro, Ky., whipped Akron 74-54 and San Diego State 86-63, and accumulated 15 first-place votes among their 368 points in the balloting by a national panel of 19 sports writers and broadcasters.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes, records through last Saturday's games and total points. Points awarded for first 15 places on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Woodlots Become Prime Habitat

Excellent Grouse Hunting 'Goes Begging' in Thumb

By DON VOGEL

"Heads up! There goes one over the top," yelled Pete Petoskey as he bulled through the shintangle, vines and young popple growth in response to a call for assistance.

* * *

I heard the grouse rocket away, but never caught a glimpse of it. The three other hunters in our group were battling the heavy undergrowth trying to locate two downed pats. One was known to be hot-footing across the snow.

* * *

The emergency call was for Pete's weimaraner "SP" and beagles Della and Mitzi. Jeff Greene's beagle Ike already was on the scene. Howard Greene, Jeff's father, had dropped the wounded pat.

Stanley Osentoski was looking for one that had spiralled straight up and then fallen after a snap shot. The trio had flushed four and the one Pete moved made five.

"I could have shot," said the Lansing hunter, "but I couldn't see where the rest of you were."

VINE TANGLE

Stanley, who operates a farm near Ubly, found his pat in a vine tangle. Della and Mitzi ran down the thunderbird with the broken wing and were arguing over possession when Pete arbitrated the dispute with minimal damage to the bird.

We were hunting in northwestern Sanilac County. Pats were the primary targets with rabbits scheduled for a secondary role. Action started in the morning on Stanley's farm and moved a couple of miles southwest in the afternoon.

* * *

Jeff, who lives in Lansing, is Stanley's son-in-law and works for the Department of Natural Resources and attends graduate school at Michigan State. Howard and Pete are also with the DNR.

"We want to show you grouse hunting that is going begging," said Howard when he contacted me about arranging last week's trip. "A week ago we had 17 of 18 flushes and the same was true during pheasant season."

He had told me a year ago about the excellent grouse hunting in the woodlots of Thumb area farms, particularly in the Minden City-Ubly-Argyle sector of Sanilac County.

FARM WOODLOTS

Only dedicated grouse hunters make forays during the special December season in Southern Michigan. Some hunt the state land's in the Thumb, but the best shooting is in farm woodlots and swales.

"Most of the local people hunt fox and deer," said Stanley.

Sanilac county, like neighboring Tuscola and Huron, was once a pheasant hotspot. A few ringnecks can still be found, but not enough to attract the thousands of gunners of the 1945-49 glory years. I didn't see a No Hunting sign after we turned north on M-19 off M-46.

* * *

"It's rather ironic," said Howard Greene, who is district game biologist at Pontiac Lake, "that once prime pheasant habitat is fast-becoming one of the better grouse hunting spots in Southern Michigan."

The prime ringneck habitat — weedy fencerows and ditches — are gone. But the woodlots remain. "It used to be that these farmers ran a lot of cattle and the undergrowth in the woodlots would be grazed off," Howard explained. "There are few cattle around today and the brush is allowed to grow, making ideal grouse cover."

COLD START

And it's thick brush; hard to break through. But that's where the pats are located. We started out in nine-degree temperatures and the hoar-frost covering about everything. The sun shone bright, however, and the air warmed as the day progressed, but not enough to do away with about an inch of snow.

Whenever we spotted fresh grouse tracks in the snow, action wasn't far away. We flushed 15 birds during the five hours of hunting and quit with a couple of hours of daylight remaining. Three flushes an hour is well above average for the so-called hotspots in Northern Michigan.

* * *

A couple of rabbits tried to play the circle game with the beagles and will become hassenfeffer. They were a pleasant distraction.

"We have told a lot of people about the grouse hunting near Minden City and Ubly," said Howard. "But they don't seem to be interested.

"There should be no difficulty getting permission to hunt the woodlots. It takes about 45 minutes or an hour to hunt one woods and then you can move on to another."

Ubly is a two-hour drive from Pontiac. The season closes Dec. 31.

Salmon Fishing to Spread Out

Spawning Runs Due in Huron Streams

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Coho salmon should be more widely distributed next year and hopefully the fishermen will be too, says fish expert David Borgeson of the Department of Natural Resources.

The department closed three streams to fishermen this year because shoulder - to - shoulder anglers trespassed on private property, trampled stream banks and interfered with the fish habitat.

LAKE HURON

Borgeson said the big salmon should be found in more streams next year. He added half a million were planted this year in Lake Huron, while 1.1 million were turned loose in Lake Michigan.

Borgeson also cautioned fishermen not to wait too long to seek out the new sport fish. This year, he said, many anglers waited until Labor day and were disappointed.

* * *

"We did our best to apprise them that the best salmon fishing was in July and August," he said, "but they waited, and by Labor Day the best fishing was over.

"Next year," he added, "I think a lot of people are going to fish earlier and get the fish while they're in their prime."

Fishing, Skating, Sledding

H-C Parks Offer Winter Sports

A wide range of outdoor activities are available this winter at two area Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority parks . . depending on the weather.

Fishing and skating are popular at Kensington Park near Milford. Kent Lake is noted as one of the top crappie producers in the state. On several weekends the past few winters, more than 3,000 anglers have been on the ice at one time.

* * *

Although work is continuing on facilities at Stony Creek Park near Utica, the 3,500-acre site has several outdoor activities available.

Following is a rundown on winter sports at the two parks:

KENSINGTON — Tobogganing, ice skating, sledding, ice fishing and hiking.

Skating is provided in front of the boat rental building from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. The building has a heated lounge, restrooms and food service.

The winter sports area includes a warming shelter with fireplace and table, five tobogan tracks and a separate sledding slope. It is open from 8 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

Ice and snow conditions can be obtained by phoning Milford 685-1561.

STONY CREEK — The lake continues to improve as a fishing spot, being noted for pike. An occasional muskie may also come along.

Ice skating is available at the Winter Cove picnic area which has a shelter and restrooms. There are three sledding areas — Oakgrove, West Branch picnic area and the hills near the park office.

The park entrance is on 26 Mile, two and a half miles west of the M-53 freeway. Information on conditions is available by phone: 781-4242 (Washington exchange).

Both parks have winter hiking trails and Kensington has several areas favored by photographers.

Dog Show Deadline Jan. 7

The deadline is noon Jan. 7 for entering the annual Pontiac Kennel Club winter show.

A new location for the Jan. 19 event will be used this time. It is the Waterford Oaks activities building on Watkins Lake Road in Waterford Township.

* * *

The dog show will be the first event in the building since it was acquired by the county parks and recreation commission.

The Pontiac Press Trophy will be awarded for best-in-show. Nearly 800 entries are expected.

Entries are being accepted at Bow Dog Show Organization, 9999 Broad, Detroit. This will be an unbenched show and is open to all classes except chihuahuas.

For January-June

Park Business Bids Sought

Concessions at Highland and Holly recreation areas and Mears and Muskegon state parks are up for leasing under sealed bids being sought through Jan. 7, by the parks division of the Department of Natural Resources.

* * *

Leasing of these park operations will start with the 1969 season and bids for them may be made for one, three or five-year periods, the longer term being preferred.

* * *

Sealed offers are to be submitted to the parks division in Lansing on a per cent-of-gross basis. They cannot exceed 16 per cent of each concession's total sales.

* * *

Interested persons may obtain more details and bidding forms from the DNR's parks division in Lansing or directly from the parks involved.

FREE PARKING — MONEY REFUNDED IF YOU'RE NOT SATISFIED!

Phoenix, Las Vegas, Palm Springs Form Golden Crescent

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Three cities bloom now in the lonely deserts of the Southwest, each a new land of health and money, each with a vague chance of becoming part of a new supercity in the wilderness.

All they really need is water in an area where there is not enough water to go around. There never was.

★ ★ ★

Yet, before World War II, these towns—Phoenix, Las Vegas and Palm Springs—were only shadowy promises.

Phoenix, barely 15 square miles then, was ringed with citrus, lettuce, dirt roads, cactus, some dude ranches, and barely 65,000 people huddled in the desert quiet.

BLOCKS OF CASINOS

Las Vegas was little more than a few blocks of new casinos learning to live with a nine-year-old law that legalized gambling.

Palm Springs was a lively little strip, a movie star haven, a two-year-old town astraddle an Indian reservation.

★ ★ ★

Today—some 30 years later—each of these oases is a caricature of its past, aching with the stresses of modern growth and their own Western eccentricity.

Surrounded by satellite towns, Phoenix is one vast suburb in search of a city.

WELTER OF NEON

Surrounded by Howard Hughes, Las Vegas is a dazzling welter of neon in search of a suburb.

And gentle Palm Springs, little more than a suburb itself, is surrounded by 98 local Indians who hold almost 22 per cent of the city. The federal government gave it to them nearly 100 years ago, and now they won't give it back.

★ ★ ★

These three cities form the points of a triangle reaching across purple mountain and golden desert, a sunlit golden crescent through Nevada, Arizona and California.

They have air-conditioned the desert, carpeted it with green lawns, studded it with swimming pools and sprawling ranch-style homes. Yet each of these booming Western towns wants to be something it isn't.

WRENCHED BY CHANGE

Phoenix is wrenched with change. In less than 10 years, 500 industrial plants moved into town. Manufacturing now outsells the tourist trade 4-to-1. Now people come to Phoenix for jobs more than for the sun. They have created a city on wheels, built around more than 100 bustling extravagent shopping centers, a city of near strangers where six out of 10 families moved into new homes in just six years.

Las Vegas is a high-living nightclub with a yen to settle down. Its grocery stores, dry cleaners and casinos are open around the clock. The only machines that don't offer instant wealth are the public telephones and the parking meters. Long-legged showgirls strut through the latemorning shows in this new entertainment capital of America.

It is really two towns in one—The Strip people who mix the drinks, run the tables, count the money, fix the slots; and the other people who work 9-to-5 in offices and stores, a middle class, lights-out-at-11 kind of people who resent out-of-towners asking them how it is living in "sin city."

Palm Springs, the mecca of movie stars and presidents, has a reputation as a swinging town, but the swinging is more largo then go-go, more golf club than nightclub. It is a town where one out of four homeowners lives somewhere else most of the time, where expensive homes are built around dining rooms, where the day begins with a tee-off time. It has 21 golf courses, 3,900 swimming pools, and, of course, the surrounding Indians. But down the valley, and moving toward Palm Springs like the U.S. cavalry are a series of new, small towns, a possible omen of the future.

GROW AND GROW

Phoenix, Las Vegas, Palm Springs, each of them grows and grows and grows.

Spilling into their sandy valleys, they have tripled their population since 1950. The Las Vegas Valley has more than half the people of Nevada. Metropolitan Phoenix has more than half the people of Arizona. And Palm Springs isn't half as big as it could be.

★ ★ ★

The less than 1½ million people of these three valleys are host each year to over 18 million tourists, nearly 16 million in Las Vegas alone. Palm Springs, with a resident population of some 23,000, booms to 50,000 on weekends.

Many people who come for the fun or the sun are inclined to stay. These three valleys are catching the supercity backlash, the disillusioned, smog-weary expatriates of the West Coast and Midwest. Displaced Californians are the biggest single immigrant group to booming Phoenix. Displaced Chicagoans are next.

SPEEDS OF SUPERCITY

They may be bringing the seeds of a new supercity with them.

Metropolitan Phoenix is gaining 25,000 people a year. Quiet Scottsdale, outside Phoenix, had 10,000 people in 1960. It has 65,000 now. "We are a city of strangers," says Mayor Bud Tims. The Las Vegas Valley expects 60,000 a year for the next 12 years. Palm Springs and the Coachella Valley are growing by 5,000 a year.

★ ★ ★

But new homes and new people don't change old problems. In Palm Springs, the white man thinks it's an Indian problem. The Indian thinks it's a paleface problem. The Indians say, "After all, we didn't invite them here."

★ ★ ★

The Agua Caliente band of Indians have been here so long no one knows when they came. The Spanish found them scratching out a bare existence in the desert, and named them for the hot waters.

WHITE MAN'S GRID

In the 1800s the white man surveyed the land, broke it up into one-mile sections, drawing his grid lines over the desert valley and rising mountain. When he decided to build a railroad, he gave every other square-mile-section to the company, which sold the land to pay for track. Color these sections white.

Then the "great white father," perhaps for conscience, gave the sections in between the Agua Calientes as a reservation. Color these sections red.

★ ★ ★

The movie stars and the wealthy discovered the solace behind the San Jacinto Mountains which shelter Palm Springs from the noise and sprawl of southern California. They built homes. In 1938, they created a city on this wild checkerboard, and called it Palm Springs.

The city grew. The white man built on his land. Largely the Indian lay vacant.

In 1959, the federal government allowed Indian lands to be broken up into individually held plots which the Indians could sell or rent, secretary of the interior permitting.

Since then, the Indians have sold 30 per cent of their original 8,000 city acres, and leased another 16 per cent. Values have boomed.

★ ★ ★

The city is fairly well hemmed in by windblown sand and mountains. It also has a shadow law which holds down the height of buildings. It means that no building may cast its shadow on another.

So the city can't build up, and it can't build out. It has to deal with the Agua Calientes. The Indians still hold over 5,500 acres of undeveloped land in the city. Some of it sells for $200,000 an acre. If it were for sale. The Indians generally prefer to lease on 99 year terms, which fixes the annual rent at up to 8 per cent of the land's value, plus a percentage of the gross business conducted on the land. City Manager Frank D. Aleshire says the percentage runs from 2 per cent for a restaurant to 25 per cent and more on commercial buildings.

INDIANS NOT TAXED

The federal government oversees Indian transactions. The Indians pay no income tax on proceeds from these lands. They pay no real estate tax. The state of California has been able to tax only the leases.

The 98 members of the band netted $860,000 from their holdings last year. Some got little of the money. Homer Jenkins, head of the local office of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, says that largely the Agua Calientes are land-rich, but money-poor."

★ ★ ★

Las Vegas has a "great white father, too. He was a little late in coming.

Multimillionaire, toolmaker, pilot, showman, semiscientist, to Las Vegas, Howard Hughes is a man for all reasons. He's had a strong psychological effect. Las Vegas thinks of him as Wyatt Earp, John D. Rockefeller, or No. 36 on the roulette wheel, depending on individual hang-ups. In some mysterious hanguns. In some mysterious way, Hughes has given the valley the idea he has come to make it safe for middle-class mores.

NERVOUS LIFE

The valley has lived well on the vicissitudes of gamblers and tourists, but it's a nervous way to live. It's not that Las Vegas would ever dream of giving up gambling. After all, it pays the taxes, But citizens think of other things now. It happened before Hughes came. The new people who entered the valley formed civic groups, a League of Women Voters, and a solid, if unorganized voting bloc.

Politicians saw the signs clearly. Maybe it was in the "observers" from the League of Women Voters, the ladies nobody knew at the planning meetings, the county commission meetings. "Do you have anything to say, madam?", someone asked. "No, I'm just an observer," the lady answered. And she went home and wrote her report.

★ ★ ★

"It really bugged the politicians," said one League worker. Things have changed, as much in attitude as in fact. One politician says that anyone who has the slightest connection with The Strip could never be elected now. And when people talk about growth today, they don't necessarily mean another casino, another hotel. They talk about homes, industrial parks, electronics, aircraft, the kind of thing Phoenix has.

One city official estimates that the casinos will keep the one-third of the Las Vegas action they have now, but other enterprises will grow numerically greater. Against this backdrop entered Howard Hughes.

So these three desert cities wrestle with their identities, and problems that no one else has. Picturesque Scottsdale, outside of Phoenix, ruled that all city employes had to live in town. But the town was so expensive the garbagemen couldn't afford to live there. The rule was changed.

So realities clash with these desert dreams. They grow and grow, always wanting to be more than their circumstances will allow.

Based on Technical Reasons

Market Stages Mild Recovery

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a mild recovery early this afternoon after six straight sessions of decline.

Brokers saw the advance as mainly based on technical reasons rather than any major change in the news.

* * *

Gains outnumbered losses by a ratio of about 3 to 2. Trading was slack. The closing of the London stock market and the fact that many Wall Streeters were extending their Christmas holiday dampened activity.

Despite price increases by U.S. Steel for rails and other railroad products, U.S. Steel common was off a fraction, while other major steel producers showed little or no change.

AVERAGE UP

A slightly higher trend prevailed among motors, rubbers, electronics, rails, utilities and oils. Drugs backed away a bit.

* * *

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.3 at 360.8, with industrials up 2.2, rails up .8, and utilities up .3.

* * *

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.42 at 955.74.

The rise was attributed to the fact that after the battering the market had received recently, many stocks were "oversold" as Wall Street approached what is statistically the strongest period of the year, between Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange. Merrill Island Mining was a little ahead of Airlift International in the race to head the most-active list. Both were fractional gainers.

Morocco, with an area of 172,834 square miles, has a population of about 13,451,000.

U.S. Minicars Being Readied

Only Chrysler Hasn't Officially Set Project

DETROIT (AP) — American auto manufacturers, finally convinced that the car buyer's romance with small, improted autos is not cooling off, are readying minicars of their own to meet the challenge from overseas.

Ford, General Motors and American Motors all have subcompact car projects under way, with Ford's new offering due to hit the market first in the Spring.

* * *

Chrysler has done most of its planning for ts subcompact but has not given the go-sign for the project as yet. "We will be competitive in every sector of the market," was the comment of Chrysler's board chairman Lynn A. Townsend when asked about it.

* * *

In auto language, that meant Chrysler did not intend to be caught napping now that the other auto firms have decided to take a shot at the minicar market.

CHRYSLER HARD AT WORK

Chrysler is hard at work researching the project.

The decisions in high places in Detroit's auto circles came about because a parade of small, imported cars led by Volkswagen of Germany has attracted an increasing amount of attention from American car buyers.

* * *

* * *

American auto executives watched the sales curve of the import cars climb steadily upward for several years but adopted a sort of wait awhile and they will go away attitude towards the foreign cars.

OWN IMPORTS

The U.S. executive sought to whet the public's interest in small, foreign cars by bringing in their own overseas products. Ford, for example, marketed its English Ford; General Motors did likewise with the Opel car built by its German subsidiary; Chrysler with its Simca and Rootes products.

Now, for the second time in a decade, a decision has been made to bring out a domestic-built car to challenge the imports.

* * *

The situation is much like that of 1959 when General Motors introduced its compact Corvair, with Ford's Falcon and Chrysler's Valiant making the debuts at the same time.

The 1959 swing towards compacts was promoted not only by the success the imports were having then, but also by the way customers had gone for American Motors compact Rambler which hit the marketplace in 1957.

BET BANKROLL

Michigan Gov. George Romney, who then was president of American Motors, bet the firm's bankroll on the theory that customers were tired of what he called "gas guzzling dinosaurs" and that they wanted smaller, more economical transportation such as the small imports afforded.

* * *

AMC sales climbed upwards from 1957 through 1959 but slowed down when the Big Three auto firms got their compacts into the sales race too.

* * *

Through the intervening years, the "compacts" built by U.S. firms became a little less compact each year as they generally became longer, wider and more powerfully propelled through the years.

Using two measurements for comparison, this is a sample of what happened to the compacts through the years:

But May Never Be Satisfied

House Demand Builds

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

CUNNIFF

NEW YORK—A tremendous demand for housing is relentlessly building in the United States, but a variety of factors may prevent this demand from being fully satisfied.

As a result, those who presently own homes are likely to see their properties appreciate in value. Those who buy may be forced to pay increasingly higher costs.

* * *

The demand is due not only to growing population but to changes in its nature. The post-World War II babies are now marrying, and household formation, which averaged less than 900,000 a year in the 1960s, may reach 1.25 million early in the 70s.

Moreover, the unavailability of credit in the past couple of years or so, and its high cost since then, has delayed the plans of many young families to purchase single-family homes. Instead they have become apartment dwellers and renters.

BUILDING IMAGE

This has been reflected in the number of apartment units built compared to single-family homes. In 1960 apartment units accounted for about 17 per cent of housing starts. More recently that percentage has doubled.

* * *

Nevertheless, apartment vacancies are at very low levels, and rents are rising. Many young families are believed unwilling, or unable, to further postpone purshasing their own homes.

At the very time that demand is rising, literally hundreds of thousands of housing units are demolished or abandoned each year. One estimate, by the National Association of Home Builders, puts the demolition figures close to 600,000 a year.

So strong is the resulting pressure for new homes that earlier this year the president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, Lyn E. Davis of Dallas Tex. flatly predicted one of the greatest real estate booms in history.

GROWING PROBLEMS

This boom would seem assured except for those problems: land prices are rising, skilled labor is becoming not only more costly but less available, money costs are rising and so are the costs of materials.

In short the factors threatening to delay the housing boom are related to inflation. Should the Nixon administration successfully curb the trend, an amazing burst of activity might begin.

* * *

Despite the obstacles an upward trend in activity is already noticeable. The Commerce Department recently reported that November housing starts jumped to an annual rate of 1.68 million units from 1.56 million a month before.

The total number of units built in 1968 will be about 1.5 million plus another 300,000 or so mobile homes. By the end of 1969 industry sources feel the combined total will be at a rate of more than two million.

REASONABLE CRITIQUES

Critics of the industry feel that this rate might rise even faster than the growth and change of population would indicate if the housing industry displayed more initiative and creativity.

These critics argue that many new homes are drab in architecture, that new building materials such as prestressed concrete are ignored and that old-fashioned and costly production methods are clung to.

* * *

A good many potential home owners, the critics say are simply not motivated to purchase because houses appear to be built for utilitarian reasons only and that esthetics often are overlooked.

If these and other problems are overcome, there could be a burst of building activity unequalled since the 1920s. And even if the problems aren't solved, population pressures seem likely to create a miniboom. It's merely a matter of how big.

'Mart Immune to Money Ills'

Spear Cites World Crises, Tight Credit

BABSON PARK, Mass. — "The market gives strong evidence of having developed an immunity to world monetary problems, tight credit and high interest rates" states Roger E. Spear, president of Spear & Staff, Inc.

As supporting evidence he goes on to point out that "the European currency crisis in mid-November caused only a tiny ripple of selling, while the Dow Jones Average "celebrated" the recent upping of the Federal Reserve discount rate to 5½ per cent, and the increaee by commercial banks in their prime rate to a record 6¾ per cent, by actually closing up 4.23 points for the day."

* * *

"When the discount rate was raised to 5.5 per cent last April (it was lowered to 5¼ per cent in August)" Spear goes on to point out "the Dow immediately plunged 11.56 points the following day and an additional 5.66 points the next."

* * *

Some of the reasons given by Spear for the apparent immunity include the tremendous forward strides in and toward better international monetary management good progress toward straightening out our own fiscal affairs, further developments along the road to peace, surprisingly high corporate earnings, and the hopeful psychology engendered by Nixon's election victory.

* * *

"Meanwhile," Spear says "all signals are "go" for business, with high promise that the early part of the new year will present us with a fairly bright array of economic facts.

"Investors," emphasizes Spear, "should look forward to substantial capital-gain opportunities in various industrial groups and in a host of individual stocks as they rotate upward in response to rising earnings and the underlying bull market."

Envoys Renew Effort to Open Paris Talks

PARIS (UPI) — Diplomats today resumed efforts to open stalled Vietnam war negotiations.

American, South and North Vietnamese and Vietcong representatives resumed work after a one-day pause for Christmas. Diplomatic observers said the day off did nothing to raise hopes of the talks getting under way soon.

* * *

The negotiations already have been stalled for seven weeks on the two sides' failure to agree on such protocol matters including delegates' seating arrangements.

Hopes for progress had been raised before Christmas when the Vietcong said it would release three captured U.S. soldiers in South Vietnam. American and guerrilla representatives met in unprecedented session Christmas Day near Saigon but the U.S. officials came back without the three soldiers.

In Saigon, an informed source asserted that the meeting broke up when the Vietcong not only did not release the GIs, but did not even tell their conditions for the release.

Lansing FBI Investigates Romney Past

LANSING (AP) — "Check out Romney," Lansing FBI agents were ordered just before Christmas.

So, Christmas Eve and Christmas day, the admittedly embarrased agents were making telephone calls and compiling a report on the governor.

* * *

"We're embarrassed," one agent told a fellow police official. "But that is the order, and the report is due tomorrow at 10 a.m. The order came from the office of President-elect Nixon as part of the routine of any appointees."

The life and career of Romney, appointed by Nixon as secretary of Housing and Urban Development, is an open book and has been the subject of several books.

FBI EYES RECORD

But the FBI has to go by the book.

Among the things they are likely to report are his birth in Mexico — which made him an American citizen — his Mormon religion, his nonsmoking and nondrinking and his aversion to coffee.

Occasionally he goes out to the golf course and hits six balls at a time.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q —A professional woman, age 54, I'm still working irregularly and would rather quit. Social Security benefits will be minimal so for income I must depend largely on the enclosed list of stocks and interest from $7,600 in savings & loan.—C. W.

A — You've done very well in building a diversified growth portfolio of sound quality.

Whether you continue to work or quit I think you should sell Allied Chemical and Ronson, replacing them with two or three utilities offering a 5 per cent yield; Washington Water Power, Pacific Lighting, Potomac Electric and Duquesne Light are examples.

Hold your best income producers—CIT Financial, General Motors, North American Rockwell, Jersey Standard, Tenneco and Tri-Continental.

Whether you should now take your profits in Consolidated Foods, IBM and Radio Corp. to invest for more income is implicit in your retirement decision. I lean toward waiting for further capital gains and switching to income issues after you reach 65 when your tax status will be more favorable.

Q — Recently you discussed vending-machine companies. I own Coffee-Mat. Is it worth holding?—M.P.

A — Coffee-Mat has turnaround potential and might even become a sought-after takeover candidate. Therefore, I believe it is worth holding for another six months at least to check on the earnings trend from sales of its new restaurant fresh-brew dispenser and the products of its recent acquisition—Midway Co.

During 1968 the company faced several temporary problems. It changed to a March fiscal year from its previous calendar year, partially to mesh more readily with Midway's operations. It suffered from a five-week strike (culminating in new wage contracts) in June and July. This was presumably a critical period in production plans for the new restaurant dispenser, as the machine was introduced at a trade show in May when new orders were to be accepted. Sales and earnings were down sharply for the September fiscal quarter, but management apparently believes the worst is over.

Apollo Target Is Most Isolated Spot Yet for Recovery Attempt

ABOARD USS YORKTOWN (AP) — When Apollo 8 splashes down early Friday in the mid-Pacific Ocean it will be in the most isolated spot that a manned spacecraft recovery has ever been attempted.

"But we're in excellent shape for the splashdown and recovery itself," said John C. Stonesifer, chief of the recovery team and a veteran of 15 previous recoveries for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"I feel that if it is not too cloudy, we should actually be able to see re-entry because of the intense 5,000-degree heat generated," Stonesifer said. "I really believe, based on the progress and the success of the flight so far, that the spacecraft should land very close to the Yorktown.

"In fact, I'd have to say I think it will be within 10 miles, allowing for a quick pickup."

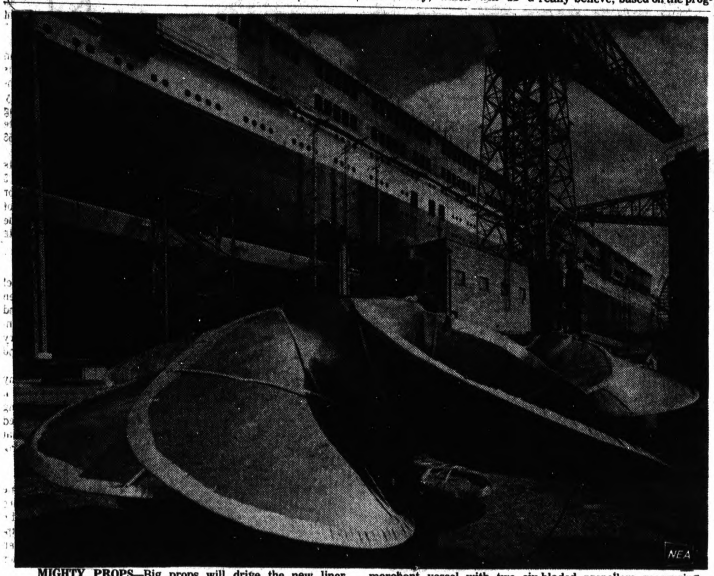
Mission control said Wednesday that weather in the planned landing area was expected to be satisfactory for the next three days, with moderate winds, seas of three to four feet and temperatures of 78 to 82 degrees with scattered showers.

Earlier, recovery ship meteorologists had said they expected seas of five to seven feet, with a good chance of rain and cloudiness which might cut visibility to as little as a quarter mile.

Stonesifer said another recovery problem is communications. The recovery site is more than 1,000 miles from regular land-based communication facilities.

"This is the most isolated manned recovery we've had yet," he said. "Therefore it is the most difficult from the communications standpoint. I really miss the mission reports and commentary, for instance. But we're in excellent shape for the splashdown and recovery itself."

The Yorktown and its accompanying communications ship, the Arlington, will provide most of the local operational communications and the radio isolation will not hinder the recovery itself, he said.



MIGHTY PROPS—Big props will drive the new liner Queen Elizabeth II, due to arrive in the United States in early 1969. The ship will be the world's largest twin-screw merchant vessel with two six-bladed propellers measuring 19 feet in diameter. Six-bladed propellers were chosen to keep vibration at a minimum.

Bypasses Law in Ann Arbor

Gang Roams, 'Doing Good'

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The Gillnet Gang roams the streets of Ann Arbor, acting in secret and sometimes bypassing the law. They call themselves "Guerrillas for Good."

★ ★ ★

Examples:

- A bridge, covered with obscenities, is painted one night.
- A condemned house popular with neighborhood children, but dangerous, is boarded up.
- Downtown Planters — unfilled because of debate over which group is responsible, business or government, are filled with flowers.
- A hedge thought to be hampering vision at a busy intersection is trimmed. The owner is angered.
- Trash along a portion of the Huron River is picked up.

GET THINGS DONE

Members of the gang are anonymous teen-agers who ask for no individual recognition. Their aim is to slice red tape, get things—good things in their opinion—done.

The organization has a faint religious overtone.

"It's sort of an ecumenical group," said an assistant professor at the University of Michigan who acts as an informal sounding board for the gang's ideas.

"The name is from St. Peter—the fisherman's net—but is remote enough not to be identified with any particular church.

"There's a thread of Robin Hood running through this thing," said the teacher who also prefers to remain anonymous. "A lot of their activities are 'extralegal,' when the system bogs down, they directly administer good rather than go through red tape channels."

People Run in Circles, Ask Who They Are

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Life today has been called a quest for identity.

BOYLE

Many people seem to be going around in circles plaintively inquiring of each other, like trebel-voiced lost birds, "Are you actually you?" and "Tell me the truth now, am I really me?" Others simply cling at every passing lapel and plead "Please help me find out who I am."

★ ★ ★

"Am I animal, mineral, vegetable or human?" That should be the initial question.

★ ★ ★

How can one tell if he is really a human being? Here is a simple fill - it - out - yourself questionnaire that might provide the answer.

IS IT A PLOT?

On a rainy night do you think everybody in the world deliberately jumps into a taxicab just so you won't be able to get one?

Do you throw an uneasy glance over your shoulder now and then because you have the feeling that you are being followed by someone other than Father Time?

★ ★ ★

Do you owe more than you are worth but still feel that you are worth more than you owe?

Can you lose your head while all those about you are keeping theirs screwed on real tight?

THE ONCE-OVER

When you are standing in a bank waiting for a friend to make a deposit or draw out some money, do you have the feeling that the guard is eying you suspiciously?

★ ★ ★

Naturally, like every other decent person, you are offended by the low moral tone of many modern movies, but don't you find yourself standing in line more often to see one of those films that don't admit anyone under 16?

★ ★ ★

If you had your life to live over again, are you honest enough to admit to yourself that you'd probably make an even bigger mess of it?

★ ★ ★

Doesn't your conscience mildly pang you now and then because you know you are getting away with something that you shouldn't? But you also still hope that you can go right on getting away with it, don't you?

REVENGE THOUGHTS?

If a fellow worker pulls into a prized parking space ahead of you do you spend the rest of the day and part of the night wondering how you can get even with him?

When you study that face you see in the morning mirror, aren't you consoled by the idea that, after all, in your case the increasing number of wrinkles only reflect a deepening of character?

If your answer to all these queries is a resounding "yes," then the verdict is clear. You're too normal to be inhuman. You are a very human being.

NOTICE OF HEARING
TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD
COUNTY OF OAKLAND

RE: Petition to locate, establish and construct an intra-county drain in the Township of Bloomfield, Oakland County, Michigan.

Notice is hereby given, that pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 20 of Act No. 40 of the Public Acts of 1956, as amended, a petition was filed with the County Drain Commissioner of Oakland County, Michigan, petitioning for the construction of relief drains to be located substantially as follows, to wit:

Beginning at a connection with the Nichols at 14 Mile Road and Lahser Road; Oakland County, Michigan; thence northerly along Lahser Road to a point approximately 550 feet south of Maple Road; thence easterly approximately 530 feet; thence northerly approximately 550 feet to Maple Road; thence easterly along Maple Road to Tuckahoe Road; thence northwesterly in Tuckahoe Road to Bradway Boulevard; thence northeasterly in Bradway Boulevard to Roland Street.

Also a Branch described as:

Beginning at Lahser Road approximately 700 feet south of Maple Road; thence westerly approximately 700 feet; thence northerly approximately 400 feet; thence westerly approximately 1330 feet; thence northerly approximately 500 feet to a point approximately 220 feet north of Maple Road.

Notice is further given, that the Drainage Board for said project has considered the said petition and has made a tentative determination that said petition is sufficient and that the said project is practical; has given the name "LUZ RELIEF DRAINS" as the name of said Drain and the name "LUZ RELIEF DRAINS DRAINAGE DISTRICT" as the name of the drainage district therefor; and has made a tentative determination that the following public corporations should be assessed for the cost of said project, to wit:

State of Michigan—on account of drainage to state highways

County of Oakland—on account of drainage to county highways.

Township of Bloomfield

Notice is further given, that the said Drainage Board will meet on the 15th day of January, 1969, at 11:00 o'clock A.M., Eastern Standard Time, at the office of the Oakland County Drain Commissioner, 550 South Telegraph Road, Pontiac, Michigan, for the purpose of hearing any objections to said project, to the petition therefor, and to the matter of assessing the cost thereof to the public corporations above named. At said hearing any public corporation to be assessed or any taxpayer thereof, will be entitled to be heard.

This notice is given by order of the said Drainage Board for the Luz Relief Drains.

DANIEL W. BARRY,
Chairman of the Drainage Board for the Luz Relief Drains
Oakland County Drain Commissioner

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY of Gerald S. Beamer, who passed away December 26, 1964.
They say time heals our sorrows,
And helps us to forget, but
Time so far has only proved
How much we miss him yet.
God gave the strength to fight it
And courage to bear the blow
But what it meant to loose him
No one will ever know.
Sadly missed by wife Dottie and children.

IN LOVING MEMORY of Vivian May Harbrueger, who passed away December 11, 1967.
God saw you getting weary,
He did what he thought best,
He put His arms around you
And whispered come and rest.
The golden Gate that opened
One year ago today.
And with farewells unspoken
You gently passed away.
Some day we hope to meet you
Someday we know not when,
To put our arms around you
Never to part again.
Sadly missed by husband, daughter and sons.

DEAR FRIENDS
We had a lovely Christmas, the kids seemed happy with their loot. Best of all was the big family dinner with all the trimmings. I don't think I'll eat again for a week. My sister and her family came over. She and the wife cooked all morning and we ate all afternoon. It's nice to get together like that, especially if you have some extra room to put everybody. If you haven't, you could.

A Look at TV

Holiday Fare Is Tasteful

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — As the strains of "Still Night" died away Wednesday night, Christmas songs on all television networks were replaced by "Auld Lang Syne," which will be having its annual workout during the next week.

The past holiday, from Christmas Eve through Wednesday, was notable for some extraordinary television programs—ones that came from a small, hand-held TV camera manned by a part-time photographer named William A. Anders as he and two companions whirled around the moon and hurtled earthward toward a Friday splash-down.

Christmas, however, is traditionally a time for music, for good feeling and, especially, for children. All three abounded in the special programs.

There was the Christmas afternoon concert by Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic orchestra on CBS, the first young people's concert of the season. It continues to exude a special kind of informal charm and pure sound. Bernstein's commentary on Richard Strauss's "Don Quixote" was, as usual, bright, witty, informative and added immeasurably to the enjoyment of the average viewer whatever his age.

'SILENT NIGHT'

Later, ABC showed a two-hour feature which occupied the network's movie rerun period, a rather charming if highly unlikely romance purporting to explain how "Silent Night" came to be written in Austria 150 years ago.

It was a strange little hybrid—part fantasy, part variety, part fable—and was a victim of poor timing. A film that was infinitely more appealing to children than grown-ups, it came along during the latter part of Christmas night, long after the last gifts had been unwrapped and when most tired small fry had been bundled off to bed.

★ ★ ★

"The World of Christmas," on the other hand, was shown by NBC early on Christmas Eve. It was a delightful hour loaded with music, children and dancing, with Victor Borge playing a gentle and charming host to a group of United Nations youngsters.

"The Smugglers," another of those NBC "world premiere" two-hour film features, was strictly Grade B international crime stuff. Despite the presence of Shirley Booth and Carol Lynley—in roles far beneath their talents—the story wandered around frontiers of Austria and Italy, and every time the action lagged, a few more corpses turned up. Miss Booth and Miss Lynley played a couple of naive American tourists innocently made the pawns in smuggling airplane parts across the borders.

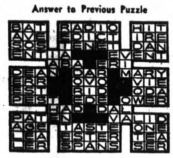
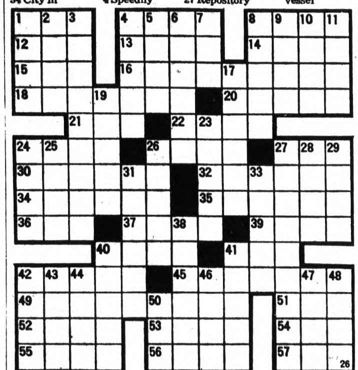
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Foreign Press Eyes U.S. Crime, Politics

By the Associated Press

British newspapers say the Paris peace talks will be stalled until President-elect Nixon takes office. A West German series on U.S. crime claims black slum dwellers own American streets after sundown.

These views turned up this week in a survey of foreign comment about the United States.

★ ★ ★

London's Daily Telegraph said: "It is clear now that no progress is possible at the Vietnam peace talks until Mr. Nixon is in the saddle.

"Apart from the Americans, no one could have dreamt of doing any real business on however small a scale until Mr. Nixon's policies were known.

RED CHINESE HINT

The issues were too important.

"If Russia is to persuade the North Vietnamese to stop bleeding the Americans, she will want a fat quid pro quo from the man who can deliver. China is hinting that she might be willing to come to terms with the Americans and ditch the Russians.

"So all that remained for the Communists was to fight and pretend to be willing to negotiate."

★ ★ ★

The Frankfurter Rundschau of Frankfurt said: "The Saigon government is now desperately clinging to a straw. The name of this straw is Nixon.

"Hoping for Nixon to take a tough line, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky is now making an all-out effort to sabotage the Paris talks. Thus no serious negotiations can be expected in Paris before Nixon assumes office."

SPLIT NOTED

The London Guardian noted a split between Saigon and Washington about what the substance of the peace talks should be.

"For the Americans, the primary aim now is to scale down the war and withdraw, and get the North Vietnamese to do the same. But for Saigon, what matters is the political future — whether the regime can survive the peace," it said.

Kai Hermann of Hamburg's prominent weekly Die Zeit wrote on crime in the streets: "Thousands of black youths moving through the big cities of the continent, robbing and sometimes murdering, have taught fear to the white middle class. Whites own the land, but to the black ghetto dwellers belong the city streets after sundown.

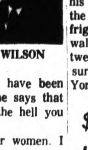
"The doorman in Detroit's Sheraton Hotel warns his guests not to go to the movies across the street at night. On New York's Broadway, theatergoers in mink and dinner suits tremble when they have to leave the light of the neon ads while fighting for a taxi.

"One is only surprised at the beginning by the policeman with his gun at the ready patrolling the subway. One soon becomes frightened if he is not in sight. A walk through Central Park between dusk and dawn is the surest way to suicide, New Yorkers claim.

Mason's Looking Forward to a Lonesome New Year's

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — James Mason has proclaimed his intention of remaining a bachelor but he confesses that a swinging single of middle years finds some nights — like New Year's — difficult to get through.



WILSON

"That night's a festival of noise, and if you're not with somebody rather close, it's beastly," he says.

"Christmas you can make terms with. I'll probably be invited over to Pamela's pad for Christmas," he said . . . Would he go? . . . Probably — IF he was invited . . . "One New Year's feeling displaced, lonely, sorry for myself, I went to a long movie. I am now looking for a nice long picture to watch this New Year's."

★ ★ ★

Urbane, a great name, good-looking, he could have been married frequently since he left Pam's pad. But he says that in marriage the lovin' you get isn't as great as the hell you get. (He has other ways of saying this.)

"Like many older men, I kind of like younger women. I also like younger actresses.

"All the best actresses I have worked with are young," he suddenly announced.

Vanessa Redgrave, 31, with whom he just did "The Seagull"; Lynn Redgrave, Helen Mirren, "just a kid."

"They are not predictable, stylized, or prefabricated like so many older actresses."

★ ★ ★

I named some famous older actresses. "No comment," he smiled. "I make it a rule not to make degrading remarks about other actors for fear they would do the same about me."

You say you are remaining a bachelor," I said. But I keep hearing reports that you aren't."

"Don't blame me for that, sir," he said. "Blame your fraternity."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Jackie Gleason didn't show up at the after-premiere party on a ship for his and Otto Preminger's picture, "Skidoo" — and everybody wondered why. Was it flu, maybe? (Flu cancelled Rock Hudson's flight to N.Y.C. for the "Ice Station Zebra" opening) . . . Gov. Rockefeller's Christmas shopping included 100 boxes of cigars, at $37.50 per box.

Historic Event Is Reenacted

WASHINGTON CROSSING STATE Park, Pa. (AP) — St. John Terrell has crossed the Delaware River in another Christmas Day re-enactment of George Washington's famous crossing of 1776.

Terrell, operator of a musical theater in Lambertville, N.J., has been portraving Washington's crossing since 1952. He shoved off Wednesday afternoon from Washington Crossing State Park on the Pennsylvania side of the river with about 30 "troopers" in a 40-foot boat.

★ ★ ★

Boats from the New Jersey Marine Patrol and the Pennsylvania Fish Commission escorted Terrell's craft across the choppy waves in 22-degree cold.

Last year the crossing was interrupted by youths from Council Rock High School in Bucks County, who portrayed Hessians in boats.

This year thousands of spectators lined both sides of the river, but the crossing was uneventful.

Police Limit on Sideburns

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Police received a mandatory New Year's resolution a week early: Sideburns cannot grow longer than the small fleshy knob at the front of the ear (tragus).

"Police are almost a military organization and the military has standards on everything," said Police Chief Lester E. McAuliffe.

$15,000 Raised to Pay Costs for Pueblo Families

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — About $15,000 had been either pledged or donated by Wednesday in a drive led by the San Diego Chamber of Commerce to pay costs of food and lodging for visiting families of Pueblo crewmen.

About $40,000 will be needed if most of the families stay here two weeks, the chamber said.

The cost of round-trip transportation to San Diego is being paid by the U.S. government. A Navy spokesman said about 200 relatives—not all members of the crewmen's immediate families—flew here at U.S. expense.

At least 200 more, most of them from Southern California, came at their own expense.
