

U.S. Embassy Mobbed in Moscow by 20,000

They Struggle With New Crisis

CONFERENCE AT WHITE HOUSE—British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrive at the White House for an important conference with President Eisenhower. The British diplomat flew to Washington to confer with top United States officials on the stormy Middle East situation.

LODGE AT U.N. COUNCIL—U.S. Ambassador to the U.N., Henry Cabot Lodge, addressing the 11-nation Security Council said U.N. must cope with indirect aggression in the Middle East or "the world organization will break up." Lodge heads this nation's delegation to the United Nations.

RUSSIA DEMANDS ACTION—Arkady Sobolev, head of the Soviet delegation to the U.N. proposed that the Security Council discuss the Lebanon and Jordan situations together. He served notice Russia will demand General Assembly action if the council refuses to demand withdrawal of U.S. and British troops from the two countries. He called the Middle East situation "grave."

U.A.R. Warned on Intervention

U.S. Note Tells Arab Union Not to Attack Troops in Lebanon

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—The United States has served notice on Cairo that if United Arab Republic troops attack American forces in Lebanon, the consequences will be "of dangerous proportion."

U.A.R. Ambassador Omar Loutfi told the United Nations Security Council a note to that effect had been delivered by the United States to the foreign office in Cairo this morning.

The note said the landing of American troops was designed to uphold the independence of Lebanon and protect U.S. nationals. Loutfi told the Council, adding that it also expressed Washington's desire to withdraw the forces as soon as possible.

"It said that the U.A.R. must understand that if U.S. troops are attacked by troops of the U.A.R. or under U.A.R. control, and if the United States is convinced they have instructions from the U.A.R., then the consequences will be of dangerous proportion," Loutfi said.

The fourth day's debate on the Middle East crisis opened with a reply by Lebanese Ambassador Karim Azkoul to a number of minor points previously raised.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, replying to a question raised last night by Ambassador Abdul Majid Abbass, who was appointed by Iraq's late King Feisal, said the United States was prepared to withdraw its troops from Lebanon if this was requested by the Beirut government.

It appeared certain that the Council would reject—probably late today—rival American Soviet resolutions, calling respectively for the creation of a U.N. police force and for the immediate withdrawal of U. S. and British troops from the Middle East.

Boy Confesses in Drowning of Playmate, 11

Father Finds His Son's Badly Beaten Body in Pond Near Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A 14-year-old boy today confessed to severely beating an 11-year-old neighbor youth and drowning the bound boy in a pond near their home.

Sheriff Robert E. A. Lillie said Frank Hogan Jr. of nearby Pittsfield Township was held for investigation of homicide.

Hogan admitted beating and drowning John Thomas Winslow, after almost six hours of interrogation last night and today.

Lillie said Hogan told him the drowning occurred after the two boys went into the pond in a rural area on a raft. The sheriff said the boys had quarreled on shore before embarking.

"There was a lot of bitter blood between the two kids," Lillie said. "Hogan maintains the Winslow boy fell on the raft. He said he struck him with a homemade paddle and then pummeled him, apparently several times."

He said Hogan bound Winslow's hands behind him with his own belt and tied his feet with a rope.

"Hogan then held his head under and probably choked him, but saw that didn't work too well," Lillie said. "So he tied Winslow to the raft and pushed it over him."

The sheriff said Hogan scurried home, shed his wet blue corduroy pants and put on fresh clothing. "Then he casually went back to the pond to see what all the excitement was," said Lillie.

Young Winslow was found face up in three feet of water by his father, George, 44, about three hours after he was last seen last night.

The boy, eldest of three children, had been forbidden permission to go near the pond.

Hogan, one of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hogan's eight children, was picked up by Deputy Wayne R. Schulze within an hour after Winslow was found last evening.

"I'm not convinced he did it alone," Lillie said. "I'm not satisfied."

Rochester Pro Fined $100; Jay Hebert's 139 Tops for 36 Holes

HAVERTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Jay Hebert shot four birdies in a row today and posted a second round of 71. That gave him a 139 total and the early 36-hole lead in the National PGA championship.

He came in just one stroke ahead of Julius Boros, 1952 U. S. Open champion, who had a 68 for 140 and Sam Snead, who had a 67 that gave him 140.

Jay Hebert, whose younger brother, Lionel, won the PGA title last year, had been one stroke behind Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., after the opening round of the 72-hole medal play tournament yesterday. Finsterwald shot an opening 67, Hebert a 68 and five others, including the defending champion, had 69s.

Lionel and Finsterwald both shot 38s today on the front nine of the 6,727-yard, par 35-35-70 Llanerch Country Club and apparently had blown their chances of holding the lead.

Today's second round, played on a hot, sunny day with little wind, was marked by a 215-yard hole in one by Harry McCarthy, the first birdie on the rugged ninth hole so far in the tournament and the abrupt withdrawal of 1955 Open champion Jack Fleck.

'Get Out of Lebanon,' Rock-Hurlers Scream

Throng Bursts Through Russian Police Lines to Smash Windows

MOSCOW (UPI)—A mob of nearly 20,000 Muscovites screaming "Get out of Lebanon" burst through police lines and hurled ink bottles and stones at the U.S. embassy today, smashing nearly every window on the first floor.

In a nearby square another throng estimated at 50,000 to 100,000 held a mass rally to denounce Anglo-American intervention in the Middle East.

Some of the missiles hit the embassy walls as high as Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson's ninth floor office, indicating the Russians had used air guns and sling shots.

The embassy telephoned the Soviet Foreign Office and demanded protection. Troops were sent to reinforce harried Moscow police.

Still other demonstrations were held in front of the British Embassy. The embassies were well-prepared for the onslaught and there was no report of any injuries to staff members.

Three lines of police battled with the surging mob which waved banners and kept up a continuous chant of "Get out of Lebanon," "Shame on America" and "Aggressors, go home."

(In East Berlin, mobs of shouting, stone-throwing communists marched on the U.S. and British military missions in Potsdam. They pulled down the British and American flags. They defaced the American flag by writing "Ami (Americans) go home" and then hoisted it again. No one was injured.)

'HANDS OFF JORDAN' Demonstrators at the British Embassy carried placards with slogans "Hands off Jordan," "Hands Off the Arab countries" and "We demand the withdrawal of British troops from Jordan."

The city seemed alive with Muscovites who thronged to Vostanysky (uprising) Square to hear speakers, including factory hands and a dairy maid, denounce the United States and Britain.

United Press International correspondent Colette Blackmore reported from the scene: "The whole street as far as I can see is a sea of people and a forest of slogans."

Nothing of the kind had been seen in Moscow before. An estimated 15,000 to 20,000 persons jammed the street in front of the U.S. Embassy in addition to the throng in the nearby square. As soon as the half-hour meeting in the square ended, the mob surged toward the U. S. Embassy. Police struggled to fend the people off and finally pushed the crowd back across the street.

Sally Sharp of Forest Lake was well on the way to her second Women's Michigan Amateur Golf Championship today in the 36-hole match play final against Mrs. Harold G. Marquardt of Gowanee at Plum Hollow Golf Club.

Miss Sharp, the 21-year-old Michigan State University senior who won her first state crown in 1956, held a 4-up lead over Mrs. Marquardt after 18 holes. Sally was 3-up at the end of nine holes.

Airborne Gls Join Marines

From Our News Wires

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The United States Army flew paratroops into Beirut today to reinforce the U.S. Marines and the Jordan King Hussein was ready to take action to liberate Iraq.

The first detachment of paratroops recently stationed in Germany was flown here today from the secret NATO airbase in Adana, Turkey, in giant troop transport planes. They were equipped with jeeps for reconnaissance purposes.

Major U. S. Sixth Fleet reinforcements also arrived in Beirut today. The new force built up the strength of the U. S. force to about 5,400 men.

The new group is the 1st battalion of the 8th Regiment.

AMMAN, JORDAN — Big British transport planes ferried massive troop reinforcements from Cyprus to Jordan today in round-the-clock operations.

(The Jordan radio heard in Jerusalem said today that the Jordanian government will take action at whatever cost necessary to liberate Iraq. It stressed that King Hussein, as acting head of the Jordan-Iraq Arab Union, is the only person with authority to restore order in Iraq.)

The paratroops boarded jeeps and trucks at the airfield and were transported to an old royal air force base nearby where the brigade will be concentrated awaiting further orders.

ADANA, TURKEY—The United States self-contained nuclear air striking force at this airbase 500 miles south of Russia.

Bombers, fighters, reconnaissance planes, transports and paratroops moved in direct from the United States to form a nuclear "fire brigade" in the heart of the Middle East.

The Air Force calls it a "composite strike force." Its commander, Maj. Gen. Henry Bicelle, said it was prepared to operate either with nuclear or with conventional weapons.

Step-by-Step Pattern of Revolution

Seven Fateful Hours Which Saw a Kingdom Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took seven hours last Bastille Day for the Baghdad rebels to seize and secure power over Iraq. And then, for the rest of the day, the mobs took over.

That was the picture of the Middle East's fateful July 14, as shown in a chronology based on the best available publishable information here.

SKETCHY PICTURE

Officials informed on the situation assembled the pieces, some admittedly sketchy, this way:

Baghdad was sleeping. It was 5 a.m. and the first faint rays of another sun were just beginning to appear. Swiftly and silently, Brig. Gen. Abdel Karim el-Kassem led his 20th Brigade into the unsuspecting city.

Whispered orders. Detachments dropped off at the railroad, at the bridges, at the telegraph office, at main street junctions, at the post office, at Baghdad radio. Quietly, efficiently, the troops took over without firing their rifles and machine guns.

More whispered orders. This time, names of those to be arrested. Other detachments going around to the specified addresses, knocking and arresting, with orders to shoot if resisted.

In an hour the secrecy locked in the hearts of fewer than two dozen men for two months, was no longer necessary. It was 6 a.m. The first phase of a classic coup was over. Baghdad radio blared the city awake with the news: "Citizens of Baghdad, the monarchy is dead, the republic is here!"

And then, the names of 15 men, mostly young army officers. The 12-man Cabinet, headed by Kassem as premier, and the three-man Sovereignty Council, the new strategy-making supercabinet.

net, topped by Lt. Gen. Najib el-Rubai.

A detachment, led by two officers, went to the royal palace. By now, a mob was gathering, mystified, curious, excited. With the mob trailing, the soldiers forced their way into the palace.

They were brought up short by the sight of their young King. The 23-year-old Faisal, a pistol strapped to his side, stood beside his 46-year-old uncle Abdul Ilah, crown prince and ex-regent. With them, rifles drawn, were two members of the palace guard. They were ordered to surrender.

Abdul Ilah, also armed, was disdainful. He and Faisal had arisen early to fly to Ankara, Turkey, for a Baghdad Pact meeting — not to be arrested. He ordered his guards to shoot. The soldiers fired first and the guards fell dead. Abdul Ilah went for his pistol. Another fusillade and both he and Faisal crumpled to the floor.

The King was dead. But the prince might have been still alive. The mob surged forward, kept a respectful distance from the King but seized the prince.

DRAGGED BEHIND JEEP

Abdul Ilah, a meticulous man who liked pink shirts with gray pinstriped suits and hated crowds, was dragged through the streets of Baghdad behind a jeep. His body was hung on a building so all could see he was dead. The King's body was exhibited later, probably on a marble slab.

But the big prize got away. Premier Nuri Said, "the Old Fox," caught wind of the coup and fled to the suburbs. Angered, the military junta slapped a $28,000 price on his head. It was not until two days later that he was found, disguised as an old woman with a black scarf covering his face. He shot it out and fell dead. His body, too, was hung in display.

Nuri's reported lament to President Eisenhower in Washington last fall comes back now with prophetic irony. "I am a strong man," he told Eisenhower, "but I am 70 years old and there is no one to succeed me."

Ironically, too, Nuri apparently sealed his own doom. Only last week he supplied Kassem's brigade with ammunition to march to Jordan. There, it was to help Faisal's cousin King Hussein keep order after the June 22 smashing (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Hal Boyle Says:

Let's Pay Tribute to Tough, Fighting Fat

NEW YORK (AP)—This is a tribute to fat-fighting fat! Everybody in this country has been overpraising muscle — and low-rating fat — for a long time. Isn't it about time now—since we give even the devil his due—that someone said few kind words for fat?

Fat doesn't spell weakness. It spells power. What is the mightiest creature in the sea? The whale. And what is the whale? He is a mountain of blubber, nature's floating oil tank. But he rules the deep.

What creature on earth would willingly tangle with the elephant or the bear? Yet they both love to get so fat they waddle when they walk.

When you get right down to it, fat has a lot of virtues entirely lacking in muscle.

What makes you nervous and jumpy? What keeps you tense? Your nerves and muscles. But good old fat never gets excited. It is calm and soothing. It keeps telling you, "Take it easy. What's the hurry?" Fat is the voice of common sense.

Fat is faithful. Fat is loyal. It will stick to you through thick and try to cling to you through thin. After 40 you can't depend on your muscles much. Muscles are only the fair weather friends of your youth. But you can still count on your good old fat. It won't desert you. Fat is unselfish; muscle isn't. Fat will cheerfully feed and nourish a starving muscle in bad times. But muscles have no sense of gratitude. All they do in good times is groan to your fat, "Why do I have to carry you around? You're nothing but a dead weight."

When people want to look brave, they take a deep breath and flex their muscles. This is nonsense. They should take a deep breath and flex their fat. For fat is far braver than muscle.

In some situations your cowardly muscles seem to turn to water. But as any dieter knows, fat won't run off from anything—at least of its own volition. Fat is a born fighter.

Anyone who has ever tried to get rid of fat learns this quickly. My own experience is typical. Six months ago my doctor told me: "Your weight is up to 210 pounds. Some 30 pounds of it is fat. The other 180 pounds is bone and muscle. Get rid of the fat."

The solution seemed simple. wear it away by exercise. After all the odds seemed hopelessly in favor of the bone and muscle. They outweighed the fat 6 to 1.

But what happened? The fat wouldn't give up. In the last half-year I must have walked a distance from here to Timbuktu, done enough knee bends to need new joints, eaten hardly enough to keep a hummingbird humming.

The result: I have lost 15 pounds, at least half of which must be muscle. The fat has out-fought my muscles, pound for pound, every step of the way.

When I look in the mirror in the morning, there is that same old roll of blubber around the midriff—triumphant as ever.

And haven't you had the same result from dieting?

If you admire a fighter, you have to admire fat. If life is a survival of the fittest, you have to give fat full credit for its stubborn will to survive.

Fat is in some ways a man's best friend, and it should be appreciated more. I think I'll take mine out right now and give it a treat—a nice big meal.

Arms Get in His Way

LIBERAL, Kan. (AP)—The day before school was out, 12-year-old Gary Curry fell out of a tree. Both arms were broken below the elbows. He still was wearing casts this week when, while riding his bicycle he fell and broke his left arm again, this time near the shoulder.

Try to Save Girl, 4; 2 Drown With Her

MONHEGAN ISLAND, Maine (AP)—A 4-year-old girl fell from a cliff into the sea yesterday and her mother and another woman drowned with the child in rescue attempts.

The victims were Tina Hilko; her mother Mrs. Mildred Hilko, 40, Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Estelle Hoffman, 30, Elizabeth, N. J.

Mrs. Hilko's husband Peter is a New York fireman. The mother and daughter, vacationing on this island 15 miles at sea, had planned to return to New York today.

Norman Sacks, also of Brooklyn, brother of Mrs. Hilko, said Tina fell from some rocks as the party was viewing the surf.

He said the mother plunged in to the sea to try to save her child. A heavy undertow pulled her offshore. Miss Hoffman leaped into the ocean in an effort to save the pair and she too drowned.

Mrs. Jacqueline C. Lendean, 40, Long Island City, N. Y., who was with the party, went into the water and tried to float a raincoat to the two women, but it wouldn't reach.

Mrs. Lendean clambered back to the rocky shore and ran for help. She was hospitalized later in a state of shock.

Pledges Senate Troop Support

Sen. Russell Declares Authority, Money Set for Forces in Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said today that Congress will support the U. S. armed forces with authority and money in the Mideast crisis, wherever they are.

He said the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which he is chairman, will stand by to await developments and to consult at any time with the top defense command.

Russell told a reporter he thinks it would be unwise to reduce any of the armed forces below existing levels, as it contemplated in budget requests now before a Defense Appropriations subcommittee.

Russell said that when Congress winds up its work, it should be subject to recall by its leaders, so it could act in any unexpected emergency.

The unexpected overthrow of the pro-West regime in Iraq and the sudden dispatch of U. S. troops to Lebanon have bolstered the case of advocates of increases in Army and Reserve and National Guard personnel.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) told the Senate the call for U. S. troops came at a time when effective defense efforts were decreasing.

"Our government continues to place soft living and budgetary considerations ahead of national security," Symington said. He and others are advocating a stepup in administration requests for long-range bombers, missiles and other weapons.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), who has visited the Soviet Union several times, said in a separate interview, "I personally don't believe the Russians will step in."

Machines May Tell Whether Tax Forms Are Right

WASHINGTON (AP)—The time may not be far off when a federal tax agent can push a button and tell immediately which tax returns should be doublechecked.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Russell C. Harrington mentioned this possibility today in a statement discussing the big workload handled by electronic machines at Internal Revenue Service offices.

In addition to equipment already in use, Harrington said, his agency's planning and research unit is working on new ways to use electronics in processing tax data.

One such project, Harrington said, is aimed at developing an electronic means of identifying quickly "out of line" returns that need further study to determine whether taxpayers have overpaid or underpaid. He said considerable work already has been done on this project.

Harrington said equipment at three service centers is now doing a large part of the bookkeeping chores once handled by most of the nation's 64 district offices.

The three centers—at Lawrence, Mass.; Kansas City, Mo.; and Ogden, Utah—handled 38 million of the 60 million individual income tax returns filed this year.

This is 16 million more than were processed at these centers last year.

FLEET BOSS—Vice Adm. Charles R. Brown is in command of the U.S. 6th Fleet, America's watchdog in the Mediterranean Sea. The fleet, the most powerful naval striking force in the world, moved to the seething Middle East as a result of the Iraqi rebellion and landed some 5,000 Marines at Lebanon.

Slate Public Hearing on Lake Excavation

LANSING (AP)—A public hearing on a proposed excavating project in Lake Huron off Tawas City will be held July 30 in the House chamber of the state capital.

The hearing will give those interested an opportunity to testify for or against the dredging operation.

A shipping channel and turning basin is proposed for vessels hauling from the National Gypsum Co., south of Tawas City.

Dunbar and Sullivan Dredging Co., contractors for the project, have applied to the State Conservation Commission for permission to excavate the submerged lands.

Gerald E. Eddy, state conservation director, scheduled the public hearing before making a decision on the application.

Pride of Australian Navy Goes Wrong Way in Trial

MELBOURNE (AP)—The Australian navy's pride, the new submarine destroyer Vendetta, started on speed trials today—and went the wrong way.

Instead of backing away from her berth, the 3,700-ton destroyer shot forward by mistake.

She ripped through the heavy steel gates of a drydock, tore a 20-foot gap along her port side and a 25-foot gash to starboard, flooded the drydock with the destroyer Quickmatch in it, and gave the Australian navy a very red face.

Crippling Trade Bill Should Be Defeated

The Senate Finance Committee has sent to the floor Democratic Senator KERR's thoroughly unacceptable version of the House-passed bill to extend the Trade Agreements Act.

The Administration proposed five year extension was cut to three and crippling amendments were added to the bill. The most serious one would require the President to accept the tariff increasing recommendations of the Tariff Commission unless Congress by a majority vote supported his position.

The House amendment would permit Congress to overrule the President's decision in escape clause cases by a two-thirds vote. But the Senate amendment would put the burden on the Executive Branch to fight for support of its own rulings.

A basic principle of reciprocal trade philosophy is to remove it from congressional log rolling. It was felt that the President representing the whole nation, would have a larger view of the problem than would Congressmen who necessarily represent local interests.

Sen. KERR's amendment is a backward step toward protectionism and would hamper expansion of foreign trade. Senators who tried to save the Administration bill were Republicans CARLSON, KANSAS, and BENNETT, Utah, and three Democrats, BYRN, Virginia; DOUGLAS, Illinois, and GORE, Tennessee. Those who opposed were Republicans MARTIN, Pennsylvania; WILLIAMS, Delaware; FLANDERS, Vermont; MALONE, Nevada; JENNER, Indiana and two Democrats, KERR, Oklahoma and LONG, Louisiana.

Testifying at the hearings, A. B. SPARROW of Minneapolis, vice-president of Pillsbury Mills and official representative of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said:

"As the world's greatest trading nation, the U.S. has a tremendous stake in maintaining the most effective negotiating authority and bargaining power possible. Last year U.S. exports were valued at $19.5 billion and imports $13.2 billion. It has been officially estimated that 4.5 million workers in the United States are dependent on foreign trade for their jobs."

Five year extension also is needed to strengthen negotiations with the new European Common Market and to protect our export industry against any tendency from that source to raise higher tariffs against our goods.

The bill can be saved on the floor of the Senate if a majority of Republicans give it their support and if Majority Leader Johnson can line up the Democrats behind a policy which has more than doubled our world trade since the end of World War II.

Trinidad Base Issue Appears to Be Settled

A committee representing Britain, the West Indies Federation and the United States reports that it is not to the best interests of anyone that the United States abandon its naval base at Chaguaramas, Trinidad.

When the new Federation came into being six months ago, some West Indians thought the base would be a good site, in fact the only site, for a capital city. It was suggested that the U. S. base would make a nice birthday gift to the Federation and that Uncle Sam might be pleased to donate it.

The United States obtained a 99 year lease of the site in a destroyer-for-bases deal with Great Britain in 1940. It is particularly valuable in anti-submarine operations and has cost this country millions. With its modern offices, utilities and hospitals a good start would have been made on building a capital. The cry of "Chaguaramas or nothing" was raised by politicians and the matter got out of hand.

The country's attitude was well expressed by Sen. AIKEN of the Foreign Relations Committee. "It is asking a great deal," he said, "for this government to give up a multimillion dollar operating naval base and build another such base at a cost of $100 million, where there exist a number of alternate sites in Trinidad and elsewhere for the capital of the Federation. I am doubtful that the Congress would look with approval on any such action."

The three nation committee reported that there was no better site for the base and that it was impractical to consider relocation. To the credit of the Federation the finding was accepted. In any case it isn't likely that we would turn over this costly installation, which helps to protect the whole Caribbean area.

The Man About Town Come Over George Flint Mayor Has Experience With His Cops and Firemen

Vacation: Often a time for going broke with as many headaches as possible.

My good friend of nearly a half century,

Mayor George M. Algeo of Flint, has often told me that Pontiac was his second choice as a real live city in which to live, and do business. But at this week's meeting of the Flint city commission there were things that makes me wonder if he might elevate us a notch. They were to consider a request from the city policemen and firemen for an increase in pay, and about 100 of the law enforcement men and fire fighters were there to punctuate their demands. When the request was turned down they hooted, shouted and booed, and precipitated a riot. It was necessary for the commission members to solicit police protection in order to get out of the city hall and safely home.

Come over, George: Our cops and fire eaters are law-abiding citizens.

The first copperhead snakes reported in this area in many years are a pair recently killed by Russell Hassett near his home at 689 Lochaven Road. This poisonous viper is brown in color with a triangular bronze head and series of dark blotches. It has no rattles. They go in pairs. Those killed by Mr. Hassett were about 40 inches long. They're numerous in the south, but rarely found in Michigan.

Himself a local druggist, a clipping from a pharmaceutical magazine, sent me by Rawley G. Hallman, has added interest on that account. A recent adv. was headed

"Tranquillizer: No Prescription Needed," and the copy ran as follows: "Acquire the serenity and tranquility so needed in the world today by regularly attending the church of your choice."

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Acted in Time in Middle East

WASHINGTON — The United Nations has failed, in the face of an established record, to act promptly to prevent two member states — Soviet Russia and the Egypt-Syria "republic" — from attempting to impair the territorial integrity and political independence of three other member states — Lebanon, Jordan and Iraq.

The United Nations has for several weeks had its official "observer" team on the spot in Lebanon, but the secretary-general, Dag H. Hammarskjöld, split hairs and stated on July 3

LAWRENCE that there was no evidence of "mass infiltration." What difference does the degree or extent of an "infiltration" make if it proves effective in gaining its objective?

The "observers" conceded in the group's first report on July 4 that they had not been able to gain access to key areas along the border of Syria and Lebanon, and the report was widely criticized as a "guide to dictators."

In its latest report, the group states that, as of July 15, it has obtained "full access to all sections of the Lebanese frontier." Meanwhile, the secretary-general's statements have perhaps given unwitting encouragement to the rebel forces in both Lebanon and Iraq.

Documented evidence of "infiltration" and "indirect aggression" in Lebanon is presented in the formal summary report just submitted to the Senate Foreign Relations and the House Foreign Affairs committees by the State Department — and immediately broadcast to the whole world by the Voice of America.

REPORT CONVINCING It is convincing because it gives the exact dates and details of more than 125 such incidents from May 11 to June 21, and it shows the nature of the "indirect aggression" to which President Eisenhower referred in his message to Congress on Tuesday.

One wonders why the information wasn't made public before. It certainly would have demolished the pronouncement by Hammarskjöld about the extent of the "infiltration."

In the light of the factual record now available, the United Nations has a duty to denounce by resolution, as it did in the case of Korea in 1950, the offending member states — the Soviet Union and its Egyptian-Syrian ally. Because of the influence of the Communists among neutralist states, and their bloc of votes, military action by the U.N. itself, through the procedures prescribed in the Charter, will be hard to bring into being, though this is the logical step for the U.N. to take.

The charter of the U.N. deals explicitly with what has occurred. It says:

"All members shall refrain in their international relations from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any state, or in any other manner inconsistent with the purposes of the United Nations."

Certainly the facts show that the Soviet Union and its ally, Egypt-Syria, violated that provision of the Charter. But the Soviets have the right to veto in the Security Council any remedial proposals, and the General Assembly itself can do very little. So the situation reverts to the formula of collective action by individual member states. This is provided for under Article 51 of the U.N. Charter.

It is under this article that both the United States and Britain have already acted in the emergency this week.

A stalemate is likely to extend for some time now. The British troops in Jordan and the American Marines in Lebanon will stand guard until such time as the dispute is resolved by the U.N., when Britain and America have promised to withdraw their forces.

This perhaps may mean months of discussion, with things remaining as they are in the Middle East.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Ordinary American Diet Needs Added Vitamins

If the ordinary diet of Americans satisfied the requirements of good nutrition, there'd be little or no occasion for supplementing the diet with vitamins and minerals.

From time to time some mountebank proclaims that the who has a well-balanced diet gets in his food all the vitamins and minerals he needs.

If you take such DR. BRADY assurance seriously, it will sooner or later occur to you to ask why, then, representative medical and nutrition authorities approve the practice of adding nominal quantities of vitamins and minerals to white flour and vitamin D to milk?

Uninformed or half-informed Americans generally take for granted the boast that we in the U. S. and Canada have a higher scale of living than any other people, and this bunk keeps millions of persons from enjoying life. If you don't understand what vitamins mean, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the FREE pamphlet, Young Folks and Old Folks.

People who are jittery, nervous, restless or tense certainly haven't vit. Nor have people who possess "no pep" and do not feel strong enough to do their work.

"Your teachings on nutrition," writes a Kentucky lady, "have made me over from a tired, unhappy creature always complaining about my work into a cheerful matron of fifty ready at any time for a square dance or whatever's cooking. I feel more alive today than I have felt in many years."

"Doctors I consulted from time to time said I had pellagra, neurosis, allergy or nerve fatigue, whatever that may be. All my old symptoms have disappeared, and all I have to ask now is: Doctor, where have you been all my life?"

In a postscript the Kentucky lady says: "If I could only make my children understand the need of well balanced meals."

A good step in that direction would be to restore plain wheat to the everyday household dietary.

or enclose 50c for both pamphlets and the booklet, The 7 keys to VITE. The booklet contains the basic health, reduction, corrective protective, regeneration, rejuvenation diet, which make a fine pattern on which to construct your own everyday diet.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright 1958)

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Childhood Hurt Stunts Girl's Life

Sandra's case is a beautiful example of an attempt at sexual escape. Scrapbook it for future use and be sure to read the follow-up tomorrow. And notice the naive attitude of some American psychologists who disagreed with the printed statement below! We have them down in black and white in a stenographer's report so they can never wriggle out of their stupid position.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE Case Y-365: Sandra K., aged 23, is a graduate student at college.

"Dr. Crane, I wish you'd interview Sandra," her chemistry professor telephoned me recently.

"She is a brilliant woman. And down underneath her coarse exterior, I think she is quite feminine."

"But, she must have some sort of complex. For she tries to masculinize herself. She wears men's shirts and smokes like a fiend."

"I have heard that she tells vulgar stories and thinks she is a real pal of the men. She drinks hard liquor and affects a cynical sophistication."

"She deliberately tries to avoid being with other girls. I sometimes wonder if she isn't afraid of being a woman, so she is trying to run into the opposite sexual category to avoid odious comparisons."

Detroit Tells Experience With Sylvan Justice Court

In answer to Sylvan Lake Resident, I've had occasion to be a spectator in Sylvan Lake Justice Court, and it's evident, after listening to the cases, one doesn't have to exceed the speed limit to get a ticket, and your word isn't even considered.

I'll agree your police force is terrific. It must be to issue so many tickets on such a short stretch of road. The pavement is in such deplorable condition no one in his right mind would travel very fast on it. As for politeness of your officers, your standards of courtesy must not be high, for practically every defendant in court tried to protest the manner in which officers treated them and got nowhere, naturally. An officer has authority to give tickets, apprehend criminals, etc., but not to pass judgment or abuse a citizen.

You say you don't want or need motorists in your village. I don't believe people of Sylvan entirely support all businesses along Orchard Lake, and if your streets continue to be speed traps, your shopping areas will be avoided. Business is a good taxpayer, think that over. Having had considerable experience in juvenile court work in Detroit, I can readily recognize injustice when I see it.

U.S. Sixth Fleet's Power Bad News for Russians

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — If a Russian plane were to sweep over the Mediterranean today the pilot would have disheartening news to send back to the Kremlin. Below him, across a vast expanse of ocean, he would see perhaps the mightiest naval striking force in the world today — the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

On his long patrol, for the fleet in the age of the hydrogen bomb is widely dispersed at sea, the pilot might count up to 50 ships, from a guided missile cruiser and the biggest aircraft carrier afloat to small landing and assault craft and supply vessels.

The picture from the air is one of breathtaking power. I know because recently I spent some time with the fleet on the very maneuvers which served as the prelude to its present role in the Lebanese crisis.

This is a tough, flexible fleet ready for any kind of assignment from merely showing the flag to containing a localized incident or "brush war" or even fighting the biggest of all possible wars.

The fleet has what it prefers to call "atomic capabilities." Some of its 200 planes and heavy bombers. Even some of its light bombers are capable of carrying the heaviest weapons.

Said a briefing officer:

"We are capable of delivering in a single attack more destructive power than all of that unleashed by all of the air forces combined in World War II."

There is no secret about the general operational makeup of the Sixth Fleet whose colorful commander Vice Adm. Charles R. (Cat) Brown flies his flag on the heavy cruiser Des Moines. It has some 25,000 men, most of them assigned to one of three task forces.

Admiral Brown's big fist is the attack carrier striking force — Task Force 60—Under Rear Adm. Clifford Cooper who operates from the giant carrier Saratoga. He commands two carriers, two to three cruisers and 20 or more destroyers.

Admiral Cooper's carriers can and do operate their aircraft around the clock in any kind of weather. I watched 33-400 bombers land on 48 yards of heaving deck on a starless, moonless night with only minimum deck lighting to guide them in.

Then there is the amphibious force — Task Force 61. This is the outfit that made the landings in Lebanon. It is headed by an amphibious command ship and includes attack transport and cargo ships, mineweships and a variety of amphibious assault types.

Normally it carries 1,800 Marines — but these can be swiftly reinforced as was done for Beirut.

The fleet is supplied by Task Force 63 whose tankers, repair and provision ships enable it to stay at sea for indefinite periods of time.

It has no shore bases in the Mediterranean and scatters to many ports for shore leave — one of the lessons of Pearl Harbor.

At moments of crisis the fleet can be augmented by a special hunter-killer force, Task Force 66. It consists of a carrier with a specialized air group carrying advanced radar equipment and accompanied by destroyers, to seek out and destroy enemy submarines.

As far as is known Task Force 66 has not been activated in the present crisis.

The American flag is no stranger to the Mediterranean. It was flown during the war against Tripoli in 1802 and has been a familiar banner there almost continuously since then.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

While I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy name: those that thou gavest me I have kept, and none of them is lost, but the son of perdition; that the scripture might be fulfilled.—John 17:12.

We must not only read the Scriptures, but we must make their rules of life our own.—Hosea Balou.

characters. They are a disgrace to scientific psychology.

CHEMIST-PSYCHOLOGIST

Sandra's chemistry professor had diagnosed Sandra as well as any such Ph.D. university psychologists can hope to do.

For he was 100 per cent correct in saying she feared to be regarded as a woman. That was true.

She had been called ugly and unattractive as a child by a half-drunk housekeeper.

Sandra was so wounded in her ego that she felt she could never be a normal girl. So she subconsciously decided to flee from her own sex in so far as possible.

That's why she adopted male customs and clothing and liquor and vulgar stories. She was afraid if she were regarded as a female, she would suffer badly in comparison with other coeds, so she tried to escape from her own sex.

See tomorrow's follow-up and I'll explain how we re-trained her outlook.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long stamped self-addressed envelope and 30c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets. (Copyright 1958)

State Ore Mine Output Rises

1957 Iron Shipments Up 503,000 Tons Over 1956 in UP

DETROIT (AP) — State geologist Dr. H. J. Hardenberg says the 36 active iron mines of Michigan's Upper Peninsula produced 13,567,220 tons of ore last year—an increase of 503,000 over the previous year's yield.

Shipments, he said, were increased from 12,536,300 tons to 13,126,746.

Hardenberg, who also is appraiser of tonnage values, said in an annual report that cost per ton was $10.22. Completed at Lake Erie prices, with adjustments for sulphur analysis, the ore was valued at $11.68 a ton.

Dr. Hardenberg's summaries account for operations only up to Jan. 1.

The Marquette range, with an output of 6,655,946 tons, continued to hold the lead in production as well as in estimated remaining reserves, Dr. Hardenberg reported.

Its Mather A and B mines at Ishpeming, with high-grade underground workings, produced 1,350,201 and 1,296,499 tons, respectively.

Known reserves were computed by Dr. Hardenberg as 150,061,140 tons—64,027,580 in the Marquette area; 60,318,857 on the Menominee range and 25,745,703 in Gogebic and Dickinson counties.

For a number of years the State Geological Department has avoided estimates of the enormous quantities of partially developed taconite and Jasper low-grade ores.

A year ago, however, the geological survey of the United States Department of the Interior rated Michigan's potential in that field as 25 billion tons, highest in the nation.

Python in Zoo Seems to Miss Deer, Pig Diet

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Zoo has a new — and very long — arrival from southwest Asia, where he made his living munching on deer, pigs, chickens and the like.

He is a young reticulated python snake measuring 13½ feet. So far the python has not made himself at home.

"We are having trouble feeding him," said reptile director Frank Groves. He said the only solution has been to force-feed the snake once a week, not an easy task.

Groves said the python, just a baby now, will grow to 30 feet.

Want Easier Life

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The Hinds County Grand Jury put up a cry yesterday for cushier chairs and cushier pay. It demanded that more comfortable seats be installed in the room where it meets, and that the salary of grand jurors be boosted to equal that of state legislators attending special sessions.

Trade Bill Vote Expected Today

Senate May Knock Out Key Provision Curbing Ike's Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders pushed for passage of the reciprocal trade extension bill today. But first they expected to knock out a key provision curbing President Eisenhower's powers.

The chances of getting a final vote by tonight appeared to rest largely with Sen. George W. Malone (R-Nev.), a longtime foe of the trade program.

Malone was ready with a speech which some senators said they understood might run many hours.

The decisive vote was to come on an amendment offered by the two Senate leaders and four other senators. It would strike from the bill a provision inserted in the Finance Committee by Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.).

The Kerr provision is heavily opposed by the administration. It would end powers the President now has to override a recommendation of the Tariff Commission for relief to an industry claiming damage from imports, and often does so.

The House-passed extension bill, in a provision accepted by Eisenhower, gives Congress the right to veto a presidential decision against the commission by a two-thirds vote of both branches.

The Senate committee voted a three-year extension and put restrictions on the President's authority affecting other matters than Tariff Commission cases.

The House voted the full five-year extension asked by Eisenhower and left his hands relatively free.

In its first vote on amendments after two days of debate, the Senate rejected 85-4 a proposal of Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) to make the 24-year-old trade program permanent.

Miss Universe Contest Strikes a Snag Already

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Fifty foreign beauties flew into town for the Miss Universe contest — and before you could say "swimsuit" there it was: the contest's first crisis.

Miss Costa Rica read the registration rules, sighed sadly and confessed to the pageant director: "I'm not old enough."

The other 49 girls — chattering and giggling merrily — went to their rooms to be fitted into swimsuits.

Dark-eyed Eugenia Maria Valverde explained she won't be 18 until Oct. 8, 1958. Registration rules say she had to turn 18 July 1 to be eligible.

"Eugenia Valverde is one of the most honest girls I've ever met," said contest director Oscar Meinhardt. "She will remain here during the pageant as our guest, representing Costa Rica."

"But she cannot be judged for Miss Universe."

Miss Valverde rushed off to get fitted for her suit.

The rest of the 50 girls expected for the contest are due today.

Chill Saves Family as Flood Waters Rise

FORT SCOTT, Kan. (AP) — Jim Marshall of Mornan, Kan., visiting his mother, got chilly and reached down for a blanket on the floor near his bed.

His arm dipped into water up to his shoulder—water that was even with the mattress on the bed.

He routed out members of the family.

The water came from a back-up of Buck Run Creek, swollen by the Marmaton River, which flooded a large area of Fort Scott.

Just Exactly Who Suffers?

DALLAS (AP)—Technicians installed an oscillator and four speakers on City Hall, trying for frequencies that would drive away pigeons. When first tried, the solitary pigeon in sight took off—but only to return with three more.

"When tone frequency is cut down low enough to chase the pigeons, it hurts our own ears," said H. S. Garland, building engineer.

Clarifies Plan for Mentally Ill

Judge Moore Explains Why Some Oldsters Must Leave Hospitals

Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore today replied to a remark of Gov. Williams that old people would bear the brunt of a program to find hospital beds for mentally retarded children.

"We never insinuated that old-age mental patients be arbitrarily tossed out of the hospitals," said the judge. "The state could, with their resources, screen out in a very scientific job those patients who could be given the same kind of custodial care in other hospitals or rest homes."

Gov. Williams, in commenting on a plea of Judge Moore's to find space for 100 mentally ill children, said: "The suggestion that we arbitrarily throw out some old people and take in children simply won't work."

However, he said he would confer with members of the State Mental Health Commission on this problem.

Judge Moore agreed with the governor that it does not take more personnel to care for the children than that required for the older, senile patients. But he questioned whether it wouldn't be better to expend more money "to cure the kids who are still amenable to medical care."

Over 1,000 Die Yearly in Electrical Mishaps

CHICAGO — More than 1,000 persons are electrocuted each year in accidents largely due to a casual attitude about electricity which "verges on the suicidal," according to an article in Today's Health, the American Medical Association magazine.

The article says many of these accidents involve children and housewives and result from a lack of understanding about the use and upkeep of electric appliances.

Japanese Bride Calls Navy Fine

Chief Cuts Red Tape, Gets Her Citizenship, Permit to Join Mate

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Stranded here when her sailor husband was transferred overseas, a young Japanese wife found there is truth in the old saying, "the Navy takes care of its own."

Mrs. Kuniko Kuhn, 25, was close to tears when she entered the office of Chief Yeoman Al Lambert at the Naval Reserve Training Center here. Dumping a pile of government papers on his desk, she pleaded for help. She hardly knew what her problem was, much less how to solve it.

Lambert sorted through the papers and found out that Kuniko, the wife of a 2nd class lithographer, Harold Kuhn, had not been permitted out of the country to follow her husband to Morocco because she was not a citizen.

"It's hard enough for some Americans to understand all the red tape that goes into things like this," Lambert said. "Here was a Japanese girl, new in the States, and she didn't know where to turn."

Chief Lambert got the Navy into action and enlisted the aid of the Immigration and Naturalization Service in getting citizenship papers for Kuniko.

A few well-worded telegrams, a test in American history which Kuniko, aided by two years of college in Japan, passed easily, and the red tape was cut.

A special section of the citizenship law covering wives of servicemen permitted the waiver of the usual three-year waiting period, and within a few weeks Kuniko—now legally dubbed Kay, in keeping with her new nationality—took the solemn oath of loyalty to the United States of America.

When it was all over, Kay Kuhn, American 1st class, bowed politely again and again toward the judge who had administered the oath and toward Chief Lambert.

"The Navy is so fine," she said. "Please say thank you for Kuniko."

Bank Bandits Take $70,000

Trio of Masked Men Pull Cleveland Robbery Before Branch Opens

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three men garbed alike in tan coveralls and stocking masks forced the manager of an east side branch bank to clean out a reserve vault shortly before the bank's opening time today. The loot was estimated at $70,000.

Two women tellers, coming into the bank together, saw one of the men standing guard at the door. Letting out simultaneous screams, they ran next door to a grocery, where the manager called police.

But the robbers, armed with pistols, fled in a bank official's car which was found abandoned a half hour later.

"The robbery was at a branch of the Society for Savings Bank."

Police said the trio apparently tried to bore through from the basement. They abandoned this attempt and knocked a hole in the wall of the bank.

First to enter the office was

Mrs. Amy Mayer, a teller. She was forced to lie down.

Next came Richard C. Taylor, assistant branch manager. Two men forced him to open the vault where the bank's reserve cash was kept. They scooped the cash into a paper bag. The third man was guarding the door.

Vice President D. James Pritchard said he believed the robbers planned to take the contents of the main vault.

In the main vault, he explained, each teller has an individual vault containing his working cash. To get the entire contents, it would be necessary to force each teller to open a section. But when the approaching women tellers began screaming, the robbers left.

'No Hero,' Says Bravest Driver of Year

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — Like people of dubious digestion everywhere, Reuben C. Thomas of Enterprise, Alabama, does not like elevators.

"Durn monster," he remarked, lunging gingerly at the 14th floor. "she's jumpy as an alley cat. Why, I wouldn't drive one of them things fer all the tea in bags."

This statement was remarkable. Not only for its imagery, which is considerable, but for the fact that it was made by the most courageous driver of the year. Mr. Thomas had, in fact, only suffered the elevator in order to be interviewed on how it feels to drive a 45-foot trailer truck without accident for many years, and to save a dying woman's life at a good risk of losing his own.

"Now don't go calling me a hero," drawled the "truckdriver of the year," after sitting down and cooling off. "All I did was what anybody with courtesy would do. We call it 'courteous,' because it sounds nice. Really, we mean being smart — the other way from being stupid. There aren't enough courteous drivers, which is why so many accidents."

"But about saving that woman, I was scared. But you can't call me a hero cause I didn't much think it would kill me."

The valiant incident in question occurred on a rainy night about a year ago on U. S. 301, near Selma, N. C. Mr. Thomas, driving a truck load of peanut butter, saw a flash of light in his rear view mirror, then heard a loud crash.

He turned around, drove back a half-mile, and found a convertible burning, piled against a power pole. Three people had been thrown free, and lay on the road. A fourth, a woman, was trapped unconscious inside the wreck. A live line from the pole was draped over the car, and Thomas could "feel the electricity in the mud."

But "I'm that much of an electrician," he remembered, "that I figured it wasn't more than maybe 110 volts. I knew I was gonna get a good jar from it, but I didn't much think it'd kill me."

Four times he tried to wrench open the car door and was jolted back into the street. Finally, one of the wires burned in two, breaking the circuit—and he rescued the woman. She is recuperating today, although "still under bad conditions."

Thomas thought nothing more about the incident. He's used to accidents. Sees an average of two a month, and always helps where he can. But word was noised around, and today Reuben and his young wife are in New York for a week as the guests of the American Trucking Associations.

He got into the truck driving business to "see the world," Reuben says. "I like to be on the move—don't like to lay around the house too long. The wife makes me work too hard." But she's all right, he said.

"I wouldn't take a million dollars fer her, and I wouldn't give a dollar for another just like her," is how he put it.

Reuben says the biggest trouble with autoists is that "they get out on the road and say obey, I can go now." City drivers should give themselves refresher courses in highway driving before taking motor vacations: "To keep them from driving too fast and too close."

He also says he likes it fine in New York, but will be happy to get back to the truck "because that's where a driver belongs—with his hand around a wheel."

Then he tightened his belt, squared his shoulders and took on the elevator again.

It's Easier This Way

ANN ARBOR — Michigan's Grand River Avenue might have been called Wastenongabi Avenue if its original Indian name had been retained. University of Michigan history professor Ivan H. Walton said the highway takes its name from the Grand River which it parallels along its last half. The Indians called the river, one of the state's longest, "Wash-ten-on-gibi," meaning "the river that extends far off."

Dear Abby ...

She Was Unreasonable!

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 years old and my husband is 24. We've been married three years and have two children and one on the way.

ABBY

My mother-in-law had the nerve to call and ask me to bake six pies for the bakery booth for her church bazaar.

I told her my ankles were swollen and I'd be glad to buy six pies. She said she didn't want store bought pies she wanted home-baked pies, so I told her I was very sorry but that was the best I could do for her. She hasn't been civil to me since. Do you think I was unreasonable or was she?

DUE IN JULY

DEAR DUE: Your situation is understandable and your mother-in-law was unreasonable. Six pies is a lot of crust!

DEAR ABBY: Would you please tell me what you think of a college-bred man who sits at the table sideways in his chair with his feet sticking out on the side? Nobody can correct him because he is supposed to be very smart and educated.

When eating fish he also takes the fishbones and picks his teeth with them in front of everybody. Maybe they should have a course in table manners at college?

DEAR SIGGIE: If a person gets to college without having learned how to sit at a table and eat properly, an "on-the-spot" lesson is in order from his family or close friends.

DEAR ABBY: Once in a blue moon my wife breaks down and invites my business friends over for dinner. She thinks just because she goes to the trouble of making a company dinner she has to invite her mother and father, too.

I wouldn't mind so much but her mother has a very big mouth and takes up the whole evening talking about everybody in town. This makes a bad impression on my bosses. Don't you think my wife should consider me a little and leave out her parents when I have my bosses over? She admits her mother is a blabbermouth, but doesn't want to hurt her feelings.

HENPECKED

DEAR HENPECKED: Settle the argument and spare your wife's feeling by taking your bosses "out"—once in a blue moon.

Extra Meals Help

High Calorie Foods Not Greasy

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "Would you tell me if I should gain weight? And, if so, pounds."

In-between-meal snacks and snacks before going to sleep at night will help you gain weight.

how can I do it without touching greasy, rich foods? I am on a diet for my complexion. I am 5 feet tall and weigh about 95 pounds."

A. You're about 10 pounds underweight. You do not have to stuff yourself with rich, greasy foods in order to gain. Eat a well-balanced diet. Add extra little in-between-meal snacks, at mid-afternoon and before going to sleep at night. These could consist of items such as crackers and milk, milk and cheese and crackers and fresh fruit. There are plenty of dishes which are high in calorie count and still not extremely rich or greasy—rice pudding or prune whip for instance, also cream soups.

Be sure to get lots of sleep. Swimming is a good builder-upper and most relaxing. You also should ask your doctor about taking vitamin B complex. This often aids in gaining weight.

Q. "In your question box you had the following question from a reader: 'My husband tells me that he is in love with another woman. He is cross with the children. He doesn't want me to be close to him and never talks to me willingly. The only way I can get him to talk is to ask a question. Sometimes he answers and sometimes he just shakes his head.'"

"Please tell me from what address this came. Just write the name of the town. I will be looking for it."

A. Even if I knew I would not give the name of the town. I consider my readers' letters to me to be confidential. I receive around half a million letters a year. As soon as I answer them they are burned, except for a few especially nice ones I keep for myself. Therefore you can see that I could not possibly remember names and addresses with the volume of mail I get. And, again, letters are confidential.

Q. "I am 15 years old. I have always been overweight and have envied the adorable shapes of other girls. I am 5 feet and 1 inch tall and weigh 115 pounds. My bust measures 35 inches, waist 25 and hips 35 inches. How much should I lose? Also I want the muscles in my tummy to be firm. How can I accomplish this?"

A. I do not know why you should be so envious of other girls. Your measurements are in perfect ratio. You probably should lose five or six pounds. Take abdominal exercises.

Q. "I am 14 years old, 5 feet, 7 inches tall, and weigh 150 pounds. How much should I lose?"

A. About 20 pounds. Get the help of your family physician.

Tomorrow: "Don't Sulk; Be a Good Sport for Happier Living."

Have You Tried This?

Peanut Chunks Give Cookies Bumpy Look

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Do the youngsters raid the cookie jar every day and make it difficult for you to keep a supply on hand? We have no remedy for that, but here is a good new cookie recipe to fill up the jar. Mrs. William C. King of Commerce says it's been a favorite of hers for years.

We know Mrs. King as a patient, capable grade school teacher. She is a past matron of the Eastern Star and enjoys membership in an Extension group.

CHUNKY PEANUT COOKIES

By Mrs. William C. King

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon salt

- 1 cup shortening
- 6 tablespoons milk
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 cups raw oatmeal
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup peanuts (with skins off)

Rinse raisins in hot water and put through food grinder with oatmeal. Roll peanuts with a rolling pin until they are chunky pieces.

Cream shortening and sugar. Beat well. Add eggs and beat well again. Sift dry ingredients together and add to first mixture with milk. Add oats, raisins and peanuts.

Chill if desired for an hour. Roll out on floured board. Cut with cookie cutter. Place on foil covered baking pan. Bake 10-12 minutes in 350-degree oven. Peanuts will come to top of cookies and give them an irregular surface.

Ignoring Gifts Is Rude!

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Shouldn't the parents of young children take the responsibility of thanking friends for the gifts they send the young people? I've sent three presents lately and have never heard a word from the parents in any case. Two of the gifts were to young babies and the other to a little girl about eight years old."

Answer: Babies and very little children should always have notes of thanks written for them by their mothers. The little girl of eight should have written her own note of thanks, and her mother was very remiss in not seeing that she did so.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be maid of honor at a friend's wedding. Never having acted in this capacity before, I would like to know what my duties are, and (2) also if I am expected to give a shower for the bride-to-be. Someone told me that this last is one of the obligations of a maid of honor."

Answer: (1) At the beginning of the ceremony, you take the bride's bouquet and hold it for her. After the ceremony return it to her and then straighten out her train when she turns to go down the aisle. (2) Since being maid of honor means you are the bride's best friend, you are rather expected to give her a shower, if you can. But this is not an obligation.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My sister was married six months ago and up until now has not sent thank-you notes for any of her wedding presents. There is no real reason for it, except that she kept putting it off from one day to another and now she feels it is too late to write them."

"I think that thank-you notes should still be written even though six months has elapsed. What do you think?"

Answer: I very definitely agree with you, and I think she should start immediately and write every one of these overdue thank-you notes.

Jet Boat Sputters in Saginaw Bay Big Wave Ends Test-Run

BAY CITY (AP) — The first jet boat made in America has been launched and tested in Saginaw Bay. But the debut was not an unqualified success.

The 7,000-pound, 36-foot craft roared through a preliminary 20-minute test without mishap, under the guiding hand of its designer-builder, Les Staudacher of Kawkawlin.

But on the second run over the choppy waters, a rolling swell slammed into the boat as it thundered across the bay at a 50-mile-an-hour clip. The wave splashed water into the whirling turbines, and the test came to a sudden stop in a cloud of smoke. Staudacher reported: "When the wave hit... the boat throbbed. Then the engine blew when the cold water hit the turbines. With those blades turning up to 8,000 r.p.m., a drop of water might just as well be a rock."

The jet boat, as yet unnamed, is the third such craft ever built. The first carried John Cobb of England to his death while traveling more than 200 m.p.h. But on the second, the Bluebird, Britisher Don Campbell set a world's record of 239 m.p.h. Staudacher said he hoped to have an engine replacement installed and resume his tests by the end of the week.

The boat is powered by a 4,000-horsepower, 12-foot-long J35 engine of the type used in the U.S. Air Force's F84 jet fighters.

Once the tests are completed, Staudacher plans to try to better Campbell's Bluebird record.

Mr. Fernando is an Anglican priest and has been active in the student Christian movement in India.

Snakes Prefer Skunks to Soiled T-Shirt Odor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A T-shirt, worn for a few days, will repel a rattlesnake as effectively as the odor of a skunk, one of his natural enemies.

A UCLA herpetologist, Dr. Raymond B. Cowles, made this discovery after a series of laboratory experiments. Using a chemical that has an odor similar to the skunk's, he found that the rattler's heartbeat jumped perceptibly on an electrocardiograph machine.

But the snake's heartbeat really rocked when air was blown at him through a soiled T-shirt. Cowles' findings were reported yesterday by the university.

155 Girl Scouts Experience Outdoor Living at Rochester Day Camp Site

ROCHESTER—Today marks the close of the first week of the Oakland Day Camp for Girl Scouts. Called Camp Rolling Glenn, or Crisman Acres, it is located just south of Rochester.

Since Monday, 155 scouts have been living in tents, preparing their own meals and practicing scoutcraft while working toward merit badges.

Next week, girls from the section north of the Fifth-to-Goodison street line, will take over. In all 226 Girl Scouts will have participated in the camp session. This represents an increase of 20 since the camp was started four years ago, according to Director Mrs. James Curlette of 529 Lashley St., Rochester.

Assisting Mrs. Curlette this week has been Mrs. William Celler of 2821 John R Rd., co-director. Next week's co-director will be Mrs. Robert Curtis of 752 Elizabeth St., Rochester.

The camp, which has 17 tents, begins each day with flag-raising ceremonies. Among the most popular activities are leathercraft, taught by Mrs. Margaret Terry of Royal Oak, tumbling and archery.

One of the highlights of the session this week, Mrs. Curlette said, has been the daily visit to the Mrs. Elizabeth Case home at 685 S. Rochester Rd., where refreshments are served by the hostess.

Mrs. Albert Latendresse, county

Girl Scout Day Camp director, paid an official visit at camp this week to brief the girls and their leaders on the presentation of the well-earned merit badges. The awards, which will be made today, will wind up the camp for the first group.

'INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP'—This is the theme being carried out at Clarkston Girl Scout Camp this week at Bittersweet Farm near Clarkston. Under the direction of Mrs. John Jadin, 20 Buffalo St., Clarkston, the camp program was set up to have each troop represent a different nationality. Dressed in the

Disc Data and Chatter

Music in the Round

by Dick Saunders

As steady members of the clan know, I frequently pick a small recently established record company out of the hat for investigation. One such firm of record pressers is that which places the Golden Crest label on record shelves.

The young New York firm has done some very good things for recording. They've put out a top notch recording technically, searched dark corners for otherwise unnoticed talent, and they've given us Lou Carter — the singing cab driver.

"Louie's Love Songs" (CR-3018) has undoubtedly been one of their best sellers and most amusing and delightful LP's ever issued by any company.

Other worthies are a rollicking good album "Visit New Orleans With The Banjo Bums" (CR-3025) for lovers of the not-already-over-looked banjo numbers; and "Twenty-Four Short Dances For The Tired Businessman" (CR-3031) by an old hand, Hank D'Amico with licorice stick and orchestra.

FIVE ACES: It's really a tight one this week. Pontiac record buyers have bought "Poor Little Fool"

Boy, 7, Struck by Car, in Critical Condition

Terry Jones, 7, of 5495 Williams Lake Rd., Waterford Township, is listed in critical condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jones, suffered a fractured skull yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a car at Williams Lake road near Van Zandt road, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies.

The driver of the car said he had stopped for a road repair crew and was starting to proceed west when the boy ran into his path from behind a truck. He was not held.

Walled Lake Library Open Only Tuesdays

WALLED LAKE — The Walled Lake Community Library will be open only one day a week during the balance of July and throughout August, it was announced today.

Library hours will be from 7 to 10 p.m. each Tuesday during the summer vacation period.

Mrs. Dorothy Meagley, in charge of community relations for the library, said regular hours will be resumed in September.

In Death-Crash of Plane Charging Manslaughter

TROY — Clarence S. Bielby, 55, of Flint, has been charged with manslaughter in the crash of his low-flying plane July 11 at Higgins Lake which took the life of a 34-year-old Troy woman.

Chewing Over Toothpaste Ads

House Probers Calling for FTC Crackdown on False Claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House investigators called today for a federal crackdown on allegedly misleading toothpaste advertisements that promise prevention of tooth decay and bad breath.

The demands followed testimony by the American Dental Association, charging that deceptive "medicine show" toothpaste ads were endangering the health of millions of Americans.

Chairman John A. Blatnik (D-Minn.) of the House government operations subcommittee investigating toothpaste ads, said the Federal Trade Commission should tighten its regulations immediately.

The subcommittee summoned FTC Chairman John W. Gwynne and other FTC officials to testify today.

A major toothpaste manufacturer, the Colgate-Palmolive Co. promptly declared its advertising claims are "supported" by its research.

A colgate spokesman issued a statement noting that the company has financed studies not only in its own laboratories but also "by leading dental research authorities in university laboratories."

It said company researchers at Rutgers University in the course of basic research work also had discovered a new method for detecting cancer.

Rep. Martha W. Griffiths (D-Mich.), a subcommittee member, joined Blatnik in calling on the FTC to stiffen its regulations.

She said she doubted that anyone "actually believes" the toothpaste ad claims in most cases. But she said those who might should be protected.

Stolen Bikes Unclaimed at City Police Station

A notice to youngsters who have had their bicycles stolen to check with the police was issued today by juvenile officer Sgt. Henry O. Hoyt.

Sgt. Hoyt said he is holding several bicycles on which he has no theft report. He advised youngsters missing bikes to contact him at police headquarters.

Roscommon County Prosecutor John Hembree said testimony by State Police and the State Aeronautical Commission and witnesses showed the pilot was flying low and was reckless when his plane clipped tree tops and caught its tail section on a cabin roof.

The victim was Mrs. Elizabeth Mullen, of 3436 Alpine St., who with her husband, James, 35, was a passenger in the plane. Mullen was uninjured, but Bielby suffered a broken leg, cuts and bruises.

"I think we'll be able to prove Bielby was buzzing a friend when the accident happened," Hembree said.

Track Without Liquor Slows Down Patrons

DETROIT — A dry track may be fast for the horses, but it's slow on customers—if the dryness is in the liquor department, that is.

Or so contends the Michigan Racing Assn., which has filed a $100,000 damage suit against the Detroit Race Course.

The complaint, filed yesterday in Federal Court, charges attendance fell off at the track when the concessionaire, Sportservice Corp., lost its liquor license for an 18-day period for possessing adulterated and mislabeled liquor.

This not only hurt the gate receipts, the MRA complained, but also damaged the track's good will, reputation and business.

Milton Henry Pulls Out of Case Involving City

Milton R. Henry this morning appeared before Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams to announce his withdrawal as attorney for four Pontiac police officers who have brought a law suit against the city demanding promotions.

Henry, a city commissioner, also announced that notices of appearance as attorneys in his place would soon be filed by Emmett Traylor, Pontiac attorney, and Henry Cleage, Detroit attorney.

Ortonville Women's Club to Hold Luncheon-Meet

ORTONVILLE — The Ortonville Women's Club will hold a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Margaret Lockwood, 564 Sunset Dr.

The program will include a book review by Mrs. C. B. Crossman and a talk by Mrs. Maude Young on "Famous Libraries in the United States." Mrs. Rose Laing will conduct a white elephant sale.

Confusion of red and green is the most common form of color blindness.

OK Junior High for Southfield

Education Board Gives Tentative Approval to $2 Million Expansion

SOUTHFIELD — At a special meeting yesterday afternoon in the Southfield High School, the Southfield Board of Education discussed plans for a new junior high school at the northwest corner of 11-Mile road and Evergreen, and an addition to the John Grace Elementary School.

The two million dollar building program got tentative approval from the Board Monday night. Architects Odell, Hewlett and Luckenbach had estimated that the junior high would cost $1,830,470 and the Grace addition, $146,000.

Supt. Glen Schoenhals said the treasurer's report on the school district's 1958-59 budget will be made public July 24. He said he expected the budget would be balanced before the end of the fiscal year.

The board awarded bids on school bus insurance to the Conklin Insurance Agency in Southfield in the amount of $1,214.96. It will cover the complete fleet of buses and other school vehicles for one year.

The B. J. Pollard Co. was awarded the contract for improving and servicing the Lathrup High School tennis courts at a cost of $1,400.

The next meeting of the Board will be held Aug. 11 at 8 p.m. in the Southfield High School.

Fight Wixom 'Stop Work Order' Builders File Law Suit

WIXOM — An order revoking all building permits in the city of Wixom has become the grounds for a law suit filed yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Court by three builders of a trailer park in the city.

Peter and John Weiss, and Joseph Palicz said in the suit that a "stop work order," issued by Building Inspector Edward R. Wendt July 11, on all projects violates state and constitutional privileges.

They asked the court for a restraining order against Wendt and the city of Wixom to stop them from enforcing the order.

The men said the order came after they had received city and state building permits for altering two buildings which are planned as part of a trailer park on a 28-acre site at Charms and Wixom roads.

Couple United in Catholic Rite at Lake Orion

LAKE ORION—Philip M. Boberg claimed Alice Lucy Dexter as his bride in a ceremony at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Lake Orion.

Performing the rite before an altar decked with white carnations and gladioli was the Rev. R. Vincent Myrick.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dexter of Windsor, Ont. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boberg of 173 Grandview St., Lake Orion.

For her wedding, the new Mr. Boberg chose a white ballerina gown of embroidered nylon with a Sabrina neckline and tapered sleeves.

The molded bodice flowed into a full skirt and her shoulder-length illusion veil was fastened to a tiny tiara. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and gladioli.

Maid of honor was Gail Girard of Windsor, and best man was Charles T. Boberg, brother of the bridegroom. Patrick Herron of Dearborn and Albert Boberg of Lake Orion were ushers.

Following the ceremony, breakfast was served to the wedding party at the home of the bridegroom. An evening reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Windsor.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in the West.

The bride is a junior at the University of Detroit where her husband was an instructor last year.

Judges Assured of No 'Tyranny'

State Supreme Court Justice Soothes Circuit Jurists' 'Misgivings'

LANSING (U.P.)—Circuit judges have been assured the State Supreme Court has no desire to exercise "tyrannical" control over them.

Chief Justice John R. Dethmers of the State Supreme Court gave the assurance yesterday to central Michigan judges at another in a series of regional conferences on judicial administration.

Dethmers said "some misgivings" apparently developed among judges after a Saginaw jurist, Circuit Judge Eugene S. Huff, was disciplined for defying a temporary transfer order.

Huff was adjudged in contempt and fined $100 after an historic Supreme Court hearing. Later, he complied with a Supreme Court release of a 30-day assignment to the Wayne County circuit bench.

Dethmers said the high court has no disposition to "flex its muscles, show how powerful we are, or to be tyrannical."

Rather, he said, the justices conceive themselves as leaders of a judicial team whose goal is to improve judicial processes in the state and hasten proper administration of justice.

Eleven judges from Lansing, Flint, Ionia, Alma, Owosso and Hastings sat in on the meeting in the Supreme Court conference room.

Hopes to Refinance Straits Span Bonds

LES CHENEAEUX, Mich. (U.P.)—Prentiss M. Brown of St. Ignace, chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority, says he hopes to see a refinancing of the bridge bonds to allow for a reduction in interest paid by the state.

Speaking before the Les Cheneaux Chamber of Commerce, Brown reported that the bridge is doing well on finances, with June traffic up 50 per cent over a year ago and July traffic running 60 to 100 per cent better.

Brown said that if the increase continues, it would seem to be the sensible thing to call in the present 4.26 per cent interest bonds, and issue state-supported bonds at a lower interest rate.

He added that under the new bond system there would be a possibility of reducing the present $3.25 toll, which he described as still "somewhat of a barrier to traffic."

Two Youth Suspects Returned to Pontiac

Pontiac detectives yesterday brought back two youths arrested in Cheboygan to face auto theft charges here.

The youths are Dumitru G. Vess, 17, of 90 Blaine St., and Erwin Mullin, 18, of 195 Howard St.

Police said they stole a car in Pontiac and drove it to Petoskey. There they allegedly stole another car. Running out of gas, they stole a 1957 model station wagon, police said, and drove back to Pontiac where they ran the car into 80 feet of water on the north side of Terry Lake.

Stealing another car in Pontiac they drove back north and were arrested in Cheboygan, officers said.

Police are also questioning the youths in connection with a local burglary and theft of a motorcycle.

Sees Michigan Getting $400,000 in School Aid

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) says school aid for Michigan communities with heavy federal activity pours about $400,000 annually into the state.

McNamara made the estimate yesterday in urging Senate passage of a House-approved bill to continue the program.

"These laws are of tremendous assistance to education in Michigan," he said. "It is only proper that the federal government recognize its financial responsibility to school districts which are heavily affected by federal activities."

Eddie's Thump Stilled by His Last Ride

BORDENTOWN, N. J. (AP)—Everybody knew little Eddie O'Neill Rodgers, the crippled kid who thumped about on crutches swinging his braced legs before him.

He'd been shining shoes since he was able, a little hunchbacked 13-year-old hopping here and there in search of customers.

Hurrying, hurrying on his tortured way, he would raise his thumb for rides.

"I guess Eddie used to cover 20 square miles," said State Trooper Joseph Rogalski. "We knew he loved to hitchhike, but we sort of—you might say—didn't molest him."

Eddie hitched a ride last night with Airman John W. Souders Jr. of Philadelphia. Eddie was a favorite of servicemen at nearby Ft. Dix and McGuire Air Force base.

At Hedding, Souders' car spun out of control and off the side of the road. A utility pole sheared off the top. The two were pitched out.

Souders was in serious condition at Ft. Dix Hospital.

Eddie lay cramped beside the smashed auto. He was dead of head injuries.

Texas Millionaires Back John Wayne's Movie

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
HOLLYWOOD — Texas millionaires, headed by the fabulously rich Clint Murchison, have backed John Wayne's long-planned motion picture, "The Alamo," to the tune of six million dollars.

The financial end of the deal is set and construction of an exact replica of the Alamo has been started at Brackettville, where the entire picture will be filmed.

John said today that both Rock
Hudson and Bill Holden have reacted favorably to the possibility of starring with Wayne in the script
now being prepared by James Edward Grant for their final personal.
"The Alamo" will be a source of great pride to the Lone Star state.

Younger than springtime, France
Nuyen is definitely set for "The World of Suzie Wong"—on the stage, that is. Later, when it's made into a motion picture, she'll no doubt have her same role.

France, who is half French and half Chinese, is an delicate looking as a flower, and the men go for her like flies seeking honey.

In the Suzie Wong story she'll have Richard Basehart and the young actor William Shatner, who played Alex, the younger brother, in "Brothers Karamazov," opposite her.

All the words of extravagant praise about Elizabeth Taylor in
"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" are true, and Mike Todd would have been very proud of her. She has beauty, and moreover, she gives a finished performance as the young wife.

When I saw "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" on the stage, I hated it,
but MGM has done a great job

Lawn Steppingstones Lead to Yard Putter Project

By MR. FIX

You might as well relax—that cherished lawn of yours is going to get tramped on, one way or the other, but you can minimize some of the walking around that's bound to occur.

Install steppingstones in areas of heavy travel, and use them to make a patio-type installation if your family is given to out-in-the-yard come-all-ye's.

You'll save the lawn, your shoes

RELAX AND LIVE — Steppingstones to more enjoyment of your backyard are not too difficult to place for use as a walk or patio.

and what's left of your piece of mind.

Use large, flat stones, broken chunks of paving, or patio blocks. Lay them out on top of the grass before you do any digging.

Arrange units so that a person can step easily from one to the other without stretching. Allow for members of the family with short or long legs than yours.

Use a square-tipped spade to cut the turf along the edges of stones or blocks. Remove stones.

Dig out the turf to a depth equal to the thickness of the paving material.

FILL WITH SAND

For a better, more level fit, dig down another inch and fill the extra space with sand.

Set the stones in place. Make certain that the top of the material is perfectly level with the ground.

If the stones are level, you'll be able to run your lawn mower over the stones and thereby eliminate special trimming. Fill in any space around the stones with sand.

When you remove the turf, try to do so without breaking it.

The large, solid pieces are excellent for patching bare spots in the lawn, especially now, when it's too hot to seed.

Be sure to water sod often after transplanting.

Got those midsummer doldrums? The so-called "spring" jobs are done—or should be, jobs such as putting in a lawn and garden, putting up screens, repairing winter damage. And it's too soon for the jobs that need doing in the fall.

Too hot to paint the house; it shouldn't be done when temperatures hover in the 90's. And even if you could, who wants to tackle a major chore in the heat?

But if you look around, you'll find things to do—jobs that won't keep you out in the sun long enough to cause a collapse, jobs that will put the finishing touches on projects started long ago or give you a head start on things you'll be doing when the weather gets cooler.

Agent Discusses Poison Ivy, Oak, Sumac Plants

By WAYNE D. SEIFERT
County Agricultural Agent

Many families with small children find poisonous plants a serious problem, especially when undeveloped or woody areas are nearby.

Much uncertainty surrounds the problem of identification, and proves to be a problem of different words for the same plant. These two plants are both three-leaved. Both are equally poisonous. Both grow in woods and brushy areas. Yet some naturalists are convinced they really are slightly different.

Poison ivy usually grows as a vine on trees, boulders, walls and along the ground. Poison oak usually occurs as a low growing shrub. The branches are rather fuzzy, and the leaves are lobed, much like some kinds of oaks.

Occasionally when poison oak grows in wooded areas, it develops as a vine just as poison ivy will occasionally grow as a low shrub when in full sunlight.

Are some persons really immune? Where studies have been compiled, there appears to be a few cases of absolute immunity. It is merely relative. Some are more susceptible than others. The poison of poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac is the same. This poison is a part of the plant sap.

In the spring and early summer, when the plant is in full growth, it is most infectious. Many poisons can be traced to direct contact with the plant. Yet we know serious poisons can develop from contaminated clothing.

Often where a prolonged infection occurs, the sufferer is being re-poisoned from contaminated clothing. Pets may carry the poison on their fur for long periods of time and be a Trojan horse of your home. There are also known cases of smoke from burning plants carrying the toxin and causing severe cases of poisoning.

Once clothing, tools or pets have become contaminated, this poison is usually removed by thorough washing. Most dry cleaning processes remove the contaminant.

Precautions against poisoning should include a knowledge of your enemy. Where poison is a serious threat, our Cooperative Extension Office, 1200 W. Blvd., has a well written bulletin showing pictures of the various forms.

Several protective ointments are available that greatly reduce the chances of infection. Thorough washing with soap and water often removes the poison from the skin if done promptly. The soap does not destroy the poison but helps remove it.

HERE'S HOW — Mrs. Seymour Voorhes, of 3675 Romeo Rd., Romeo, shows us how she transplants the evergreens from the glass jars to the flats, a process in the raising of shrubs from cuttings.

Story of Raising Shrubs From Cuttings Continues

By MRS. SEYMOUR VOORHES
Romeo Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Assn., Inc.

(This is the continuation of Mrs. Voorhes' article last week which is the sixth in a series by a member of one of the 21 branches of the Women's National Farm and Garden Assn., Inc., printed on the farm and garden pages this year.)

The accompanying picture shows a section of the box most satisfactory for raising shrubs from cuttings. The lower branches of an old apple tree furnish most of the shade. Over a perfect rectangular area measuring three by four feet, the soil was removed to a depth of twelve inches.

The sides were lined with a four sided frame of scrap lumber which extended three inches higher than the surrounding ground. This prevents roots and soil from entering the rooting medium which in this instance is sharp sand such as used for plastering. It was screened and washed at the gravel pit before delivery. The box was filled to ground level, wetted down and planted.

Four corner stakes which are two feet high support light wooden slat frames on the east and south sides and over the top. These and the apple leaves usually supply enough shade, in fact the top section is off most of the time to let the rain soak in. Whenever needed water is sprinkled over the tops of the jars with a sprinkling can.

Any bare sand between jars should be mulched with a two inch layer of wood excelsior to conserve moisture. Do not use other materials as they deteriorate and contaminate the sand.

I have used my frame five years without changing or treating the sand in any way. If there are cuttings under the jars in November, mulch around and over them to a depth of six inches. Remove this mulch gradually during late April.

There are several materials which make good rooting mediums, namely: sharp sand, screened peat moss, shredded sphagnum moss, vermiculite, or a combination of these. As shown in the accompanying chart the one chosen for your case will depend upon the preferences of the shrubs to be rooted. If two or more kinds are needed separate with boards or put in individual flats.

Regardless of which medium is used, the rooting bed should be four to eight inches deep, tamped down, and thoroughly watered.

When well rooted the cuttings are transplanted into pots or flats in a soil consisting of equal parts of sand, loam and humus. They must be carefully handled and protected from wilting when first taken from the rooting medium.

At first they should be placed in a cold frame or place where the moisture and temperature can be kept similar to those where they were rooted. Keep them out of the wind.

I usually put mine in flats and place them in the garage on the floor where it is cool, moist and shaded. Gradually they are moved outside to the north side of the garage. In late September I plant them in a sheltered spot in the garden.

In late October berry boxes or fruit jars are placed over the more tender plants. Later on a mulch is placed over boxes. The boxes and jars are removed before growth starts in the spring, before the mulch.

Replace Dead Plants

Annual flowers should be kept handy to fill in bare spots where border plants have died. Shade new plants for several days if sun is hot, and water frequently with a galvanized steel sprinkling can because its fine spray will not injure the delicate leaves.

Grass Clippings Act as Mulch if Dried First

Mulching is a valuable asset to the amateur gardener because it conserves soil moisture, controls weeds, keeps the soil cool in hot weather and the surface loose and friable, prevents erosion and often contributes organic matter.

Grass clippings are one of the best mulches available, and can be collected easily after cutting the lawn.

It's a good idea, however, to sun dry the clippings for at least two days before applying them. Then the clippings can be raked up and put in a galvanized steel basket until they can be applied to the plants.

The dried grass clippings should be spread evenly over the surface of the soil between rows and around plants. Two to three inches is approximately the right thickness for this type mulch.

A first application should be mixed with the soil, and then more may be applied and built up to the proper thickness.

On the play, the ball bounced off Bauer's hand and Mantle caught it after first doing some juggling.

Foytack Opens 3-Game Bosox Series

Tigers Quit N.Y. After Dropping Second Straight

Bauer's 2-Run Triple in 6th Snaps 2-2 Tie for 4-2 Win

BOSTON (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers arrived here today for a series with the Red Sox, happy to be out of New York where the Yankees took two out of three from the Bengals.

Manager Bill Norman nominated Paul Foytack to open the three-game series for Detroit tonight. He'll be opposed by Bill Monbouquette, a young righthander recently called up from Minneapolis.

The Yankees took their second straight game over the Tigers yesterday, 4-2, restoring some prestige in the process. Despite losing two out of three here this week, Detroit still holds a 3-4 edge over New York this season.

A three-run explosion in the sixth inning climaxed here today for Hank Bauer's two-run triple gave the Yankees a come-from-behind victory yesterday.

Southpaw Billy Hoelt, who nursed a 2-1 lead and yielded only four hits going into the sixth, suddenly ran into trouble when Elston Howard and Jerry Lumpe opened the inning with singles. Norm Siebern then lashed a double inside first base, scoring Howard.

Hoelt retired Tony Kubek on a pop fly but was replaced by Herb Moford when the Yankees sent Don Larsen up to pinch hit for starting pitcher Art Ditmar. Both runners held as Moford threw out Larsen, but Bauer's third hit of the game—a long, high triple to left center—broke the tie.

Ryne Duren took over for Ditmar at the start of the seventh and held the Tigers to one hit the rest of the way. This was Duren's 16th "save" of the season. The victory was Ditmar's fifth against only one defeat.

As in Tuesday night's game, which Detroit lost 3-2, the Tigers got all their runs on a homer by Frank Bolling after Charley Maxwell had singled in the fourth.

The Yankees picked up their first run in the second inning when Howard slammed his eighth home run of the season. Howard's other hit helped him raise his season average to .338.

Cards' Ace Shines in 'Year of Defeat'

More Titles Beckon Musial

United Press International
What appears to be a year of defeat for the St. Louis Cardinals is almost certain to be one of towering triumph for Stan Musial.

The Cardinals seem to be drifting out of the National League race but there's no stopping Stan the Man who already has passed two milestones this season and has three more major goals within his grasp.

Musial, who earlier in the season joined the select group of players with 3,000 career hits, passed Lou Gehrig on the list of greatest extra base hitters when he blasted two homers in yesterday's 8-7 loss to the Milwaukee Braves. His career total of 1,191 extra base hits is surpassed only by the king of all sluggers, Babe Ruth.

But it looks like there are still more honors to come before the 37-year-old Musial is finished this season.

—With 397 homers he needs only three more to become the sixth player in history to hit 400 during a career.

—And, with his amazing all-around season, Musial rates better than an even chance to become the first player in history to win four Most Valuable Player awards.

Musial drove in five runs with homers in the first and third inning to give the Cardinals an early 5-1 lead yesterday but rickety St. Louis pitching couldn't hold the Braves. Homers by Del Crandall and Wes Covington and a run-producing double by Hank Aaron helped them tie the score and then Mel Roach singled home Felix Mantilla with the winning run in the seventh.

Low Burdette, who shut out the Cardinals for the last five innings, won his ninth game for the Braves who have a tidy four-game winning streak.

The San Francisco Giants came up with another of their sensational late-inning rallies, so reminiscent of 1954, to remain a half game behind the Braves with an 8-7 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies. The Giants went into the last of the ninth trailing, 7-5, but tied the score on rookie Orlando Cepeda's two-run double and won it when relief ace Dick Farrell wild-pitched the winning run across with the bases filled and one out. Marv Grissom, 41-year-old reliever, won his sixth game for San Francisco.

The Cincinnati Redlegs snapped a seven-game losing streak when they beat the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, and the Los Angeles Dodgers scored a 5-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in other National League action.

The New York Yankees remained 12 games ahead in the American League when they beat the Detroit Tigers, 4-2. The Boston Red Sox topped the Kansas City Athletics, 6-2, the Baltimore Orioles shut out the Chicago White Sox, 3-0, and the Cleveland Indians whipped the Washington Senators, 3-1.

Frank Robinson's two-run homer in the second inning and an unearned run in the eighth enabled the Redlegs to end the Cubs' five-game winning streak. Joe Nuxhall went the distance although tapped for 10 hits for his sixth win.

Don Zimmer, Gino Cimoli and Gil Hodges homered for the Dodgers while Hank Foiles and Roberto Clemente connected for the Pirates. Stan Williams gained credit for his sixth win with relief help from Clem Labine in the eighth.

Jimmy Piersall's tie-breaking single and a two-run single by Frank Malzone sparked a five-run Red Sox uprising in the fifth inning. Tom Brewer went 8-3 in his fourth game as Murphy Wall mopped up. Tom Gorman dropped his fourth decision against a single victory.

Billy O'Dell scattered nine hits for the Orioles to best Chicago's Billy Pierce in a duel of left-handed All-Stars. Two singles, a passed ball and a sacrifice fly produced two runs for the Orioles in the fourth inning and Brooks Robinson hit his third homer in the sixth.

Rocky Colavito drove in four runs with his 15th and 16th homers as the Indians beat the Senators behind Al McLish's eight-hit pitching. Minnie Minoso also homered for the Indians while Roy Sievers hit his fourth in three games and 24th of the year for the Senators.

Bill McCarthy, general manager of the Nashville Vols in the Southern Assn., said that without a check on home television of big league games "there won't be any minors" doing business in 10 years.

Both Johnson and McCarthy proposed a limit on the number of players major league clubs may control. Johnson suggested 40. Some teams now control more than 300 through their farm systems.

Johnson once headed the Western League. He favored reinstating a rule which organized baseball abandoned in 1951 after the Justice Department said it might be judged monopolistic. This was designed to prevent conflicts between major league TV and minor league games.

Former Sen. Edwin Johnson, Colorado Democrat, told the subcommittee yesterday that competition from major league telecasts has hurt the minors.

Tighter Exemptions Seen for Majors

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two former diamond greats, who toss words as easily as they once did baseballs, testify today before Senate sports investigators.

While chances increased that the subcommittee would bring out some kind of legislation before Congress adjourns next month, it also seemed likely members would tighten up the proposed antitrust law exemptions.

Since then several subcommittee members have taken a cut at some of its provisions, particularly one that would allow professional team sports to regulate TV-radio broadcast of their games.

The Senate Antitrust Sub-committee invited them to express their views on a House-passed bill to rid pro baseball, football, basketball and hockey of fears they may be violating antitrust laws.

MADE THE FINALS—Two ex-champs, Sally Sharp (right) and Mrs. Harold Marquardt, will decide today which is to be the next champion woman golfer in Michigan. Winners in yesterday's semifinals, they started a 36-hole battle for the title at Plum Hollow this morning.

Sharp and Marquardt in State Title Battle

DETROIT (AP) — Coed Sally Sharp and veteran Ryima Marquardt settled down to a 36-hole duel today that would give one of them a second State Amateur Golf Championship.

Miss Sharp, 21-year-old Michigan State senior who makes her home in Birmingham, won the title in 1956 and just two weeks ago won the Detroit district championship in 54 holes of medal play.

Mrs. Marquardt, Mt. Clemens housewife, won the 1953 crown after being ousted in the 1951 finals. Miss Sharp, too, lost out once before in the finals.

Both are among the younger stars of statewide competition and played a big part in shoving the older veterans to the sidelines.

In yesterday's semi-final matches, neither gave her opponent a chance to get the upper hand. Miss Sharp defeated Mrs. Keith Leclair of Ann Arbor 2 and 1. Sally won three of the first four holes, lost the sixth to a par and the eighth to an eagle—then came back to claim a four-hole margin.

Miss Sharp won three straight holes on the back, getting 10 with a birdie, 11 with a par and 12 with another birdie. Mrs. Leclair could not close the gap, although she won No. 12 with a par and No. 16 with her second eagle of the day.

Mrs. Marquardt won even more decisively at Plum Hollow's 6,347-yard layout, with a par 39-38-78 for the ladies. She whipped Mrs. John Labosky of Grand Blanc 4 and 3.

She went two up after three holes, lost the fifth to a bogey—then grabbed 7, 8 and 9 with pars. Mrs. Labosky won the 10th and 13th but Mrs. Marquardt closed out the match, winning No. 14 with a par and No. 15 with a birdie.

Shaw's Jewelers in Class A and Class B Talbott Lumber received good pitching and solid hitting yesterday to dispose of their City League rivals.

The Jewelers were given a five-hit pitching performance by Jerry Taylor and they gave him seven-hit support in return for an 8-2 victory over the Jets at Wineson Field.

Five different players made two hits apiece and Al Stone hurled a three-hitter as Talbott thrashed Pontiac Business Institute, 15-2, in "B" action at Jaycee Park. The winners collected a dozen safeties in all and enjoyed a 9-0 lead after just two innings.

In the Class A game, Shaw's spotted the Jets an early 2-0 edge, then erupted with five runs in the third inning at the expense of relief pitcher John Bonser who was charged with the defeat. After that uprising, the Jewelers merely coasted home.

Doctoring Your Golf

By Dr. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: Spotty Putting.
DIAGNOSIS: Regripping During the Stroke.

TREATMENT: Putting is a delicate operation that requires touch and finesse. Therefore the putter should be held rather lightly during the putting stroke—but not so lightly that you lose control of it.

Many putts are missed because the player regrips the putter at the end of the backswing. This is caused by taking too loose a grip in the first place.

Gently but firmly is the best way I know to describe the amount of grip pressure to be applied. Get the feeling that you have the putter firmly in control, particularly with the left hand. But don't clamp down so hard that you tense the muscles in the forearm.

If you've been missing some short ones lately, try gripping the putter a little more firmly.

Sno-Bol defeated Birmingham, 7-1, in exhibition play. Nu-Brite Plating had to forfeit to Rolladium in Junior League activity and Compton's hammered out a 15-3 victory over Ruth & Sybil's in the Little League.

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY

THE CASE OF A BAD NIGHT, NURSE!

By DONALD J. SOBOL

The bulb hung directly above the upturned hood of a white sports car. Through the open garage doors the dim yellow light reached into the night and illuminated the body of a man dressed in oil-splattered overalls, greasy wool shirt, and dirty blue jeans.

He might have been slumbering, except that his head was savagely crushed in.

"Roger Pratt, the socialite playboy," said Inspector Winters. "Mrs. Pratt's nurse saw the whole thing. It was she who summoned the police."

Inside the house, Bertha Tone, the nurse, repeated her story for Dr. Haledjian.

"I was with Mrs. Pratt all night. Mr. Pratt said she was not to be left alone. She's had a breakdown.

"About midnight I glanced through the bedroom window and saw Mr. Pratt step out of the garage. A woman slipped from behind those bushes and struck him with some instrument over the head."

"Didn't Mr. Pratt notice his assailant's approach?"

"It all happened too swiftly. As Mr. Pratt stooped to tie his shoelaces, the woman darted up behind him. I don't think he saw or heard her. I immediately called the police from the telephone in the bedroom."

"You didn't leave the house tonight?"

"No," replied the nurse, stiffening.

The nurse's statement was confirmed by Mrs. Pratt. "Bertha made a telephone call about midnight. Whispered so I couldn't hear."

"A little later she answered the doorbell. Otherwise she didn't leave me. What's the girl been up to?"

"She went downstairs to open the door for Inspector Winters and me," said Haledjian. "And she's been up to murder!"

WHAT WAS WRONG WITH THE NURSE'S STORY?

Involved in the crime. She had no reason to be unless Roger Pratt was wearing loafers. Bertha Tone lied deliberately, stooped over to the his shoelaces, in asserting the dead man

Polio Foundation
to Air Expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which has said for some time that it planned to widen its activities beyond the polio field, will make public next Tuesday its plans for a greatly enlarged program.

The foundation and the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation disclosed yesterday that a proposed merger had been rejected by the Arthritis Foundation.

The Arthritis Foundation also asked the Polio Foundation to keep out of its field for one year.

The Arthritis Foundation, which is headed by Floyd B. Odlum, chairman, and Gen. George C. Kenney, president, said basic differences in the organization and methods of operation of the two foundations seemed incapable of reconciliation.

In briefly referring to the planned announcement on Tuesday, the national foundation spokesman said "The shape of this expanded program does not and will not depend upon any proposed merger of the foundation with any other group."

Mideast Grain Influence Eases

CHICAGO (U) — Grain futures prices eased in early dealings today on the board of trade. In some instances the setback ran to as much as 2 cents a bushel.

Dealers said the market appeared to have exhausted for the present the bullish influence stemming from the Middle East crisis and that the moderate liquidation and profit-taking was a natural reaction.

However, some traders said there still was a fair demand and that all offerings were quickly absorbed.

Near the end of the first hour, wheat was 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 cents a bushel lower. July 190 1/2; corn unchanged to 1/4 lower, July 133 1/2; oats 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 65; rye 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 23 1/2; soybeans 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 23 1/2; hard 5 cents a hundred pounds higher to 20 cents lower, September $12.25.

The broad price advances this week came at a time when the market generally had little time to work itself out of counterpressures. With trading in the July contracts ending next Tuesday, few dealers felt very secure in taking on heavy short-commitments on which supplies for delivery are not too abundant.

Last-Quarter Boom in Autos Seen Likely

DETROIT (U) — Barring a strike, the auto industry will build approximately 1,425,000 cars in this year's October-December quarter, Ward's Automotive Reports says in its current issue.

That volume would compare with an indicated 704,000 assemblies in the July-September quarter.

Ward's says that while the projected total for October-December appears optimistic, "a robust target is becoming almost mandatory, particularly since third-quarter assemblies have been pared to the lowest point for that period since 1946."

"This in effect, is aimed at a virtual sellout of the '58 models and an earlier start on '59 model sales that will boost October car assemblies 40 per cent above a year ago."

Based on projected schedules, the agency says, passenger car output for calendar 1958 will total 4,371,000 units. In calendar 1957 the industry built 6,115,458 cars.

American Motors Pays Bank Loans

DETROIT (UPI)—American Motors Corp., thanks to the spectacular sales record chalked up by its Rambler model, has paid off the last of more than 60 million dollars in bank loans.

AMC, troubled by heavy losses, owed $69,330,000 to banks four years ago.

But the growing sales figures made by the low-priced Rambler enabled the company to cut the loans to $33,750,000 by last year.

George Romney, company president, said the last of its loans were paid off last week. Romney said net profit for the company's third quarter, which ended June 30, would be more than five million dollars.

AMC announced earlier this week that dealers in the first 10 days of the month sold 5,111 Ramblers. This was more than cars sold in the same period a year ago and nearly equal to last July's total sales.

SATURDAY STEPPER — Gretchen Wyler, song-and-dance comedienne of the Broadway stage, is featured with Bob Crosby on the "Bob Crosby Show" colorcasts on the NBC-TV network Saturday nights. The series is filling the summer time-spot of the vacationing "Perry Como Show."

Takes Gamble for the Future

Dancer-Singer Breaks Contracts to Appear in Summer Theaters

By JACK GAVEN
NEW YORK (UPI)—Sometimes you have to gamble in show business. Sometimes! All the time.

Anyway, blonde, shapely and talented Gretchen Wyler is taking a gamble that, for the time being, is going to take money out of her pocket. The payoff is calculated in futures.

Miss Wyler, a Broadway dancer-singer-comedienne favorite of recent years, is appearing with Bob Crosby all summer on the one-hour color variety show that is spelling the Perry Como program on NBC Saturday nights.

"This called for one of those decisions that requires a lot of soul-searching, yet you know all the time that there can be only one answer," explained Miss Wyler.

"I took pencil and paper, figured backward and forward and came to the conclusion that I'd be out about $200 for the summer, so here I am in Manhattan for the duration instead of in Vancouver, Atlanta, Kansas City, and so on."

"But come to think of it, I'll be in those places anyway. They have television sets there, don't they? They better had because that's one of the arguments I used to convince myself to do the TV show."

Miss Wyler's problem was that, being a musical comedy leading lady much in demand for summer work all around the country, she had signed contracts several months ago for 12 such engagements at a very substantial stipend.

"Then this television offer came along a short time ago, and it was obvious I couldn't do both," she continued. "I decided to cancel the stage engagements. My contracts provided penalty payments on my part in case of inability to appear. These payments amount to a week's salary in each case. So, what with agents' fees and other things, I'll wind up being out about $200 for the summer."

"But I figure it's worth it. Let's face it, I've done very little television work. If you haven't seen me on the stage, you don't know me. This show is giving me exposure for three months in one of television's top hours. I'll be called on to do a wide variety of things."

"This should help me in the future in television, either in the matter of getting another regular show or in being hired for guest shots on the big programs."

"As for the touring theater dates which I'm giving up this summer, the TV show can only make me better known around the country, and the theaters and productions will still be available next year. If I'm any sort of a draw in those places now, it seems only reasonable to figure that I'd do even better next year."

British Doctor Is Advocating Girth Control

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—A British diet expert is advocating more girth control. Tall, lean Dr. Hugh Sinclair says too many of Britain's children are too fat.

He told the British Medical Assn. yesterday youngsters are laying the foundations for heart and circulation diseases in later life.

"We send a bus to take a child a quarter of a mile to school while unlimited quantities of milk are poured down his throat before he returns home to sit in front of the television, perhaps smoking a cigarette."

"If he survives and goes into industry, his activity will become less and less for more machines will be doing his work for him."

"The underfed brat playing in the streets is likely to be more healthy."

Decline to Prosecute Bob Burns' Daughter

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The district attorney's office has declined to prosecute 20-year-old Barbara Ann Burns for forgery.

Miss Burns, daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns, was arrested last Friday when a merchant called police over a $55 check she offered. Police said the check bore a fictitious address.

Miss Burns told officers she found it easier to cash checks if she gave an address near the place she was shopping. The matter was dropped on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Miss Burns is free on appeal of a 90-day jail sentence for narcotics addiction.

Ottawa Indians Hold Pageantry in Michigan

HARBOR SPRINGS (UPI)—One of the most colorful displays of Indian pageantry in the Midwest will be presented today and tomorrow at the annual Ottawa Indian naming ceremony.

The traditional ceremony, staged in a huge stadium overlooking Lake Michigan, is given in honor of several nationally prominent men for their efforts on behalf of American Indians.

Those honored are selected at a spring council of Ottawa tribal leaders and are given Indian names during the pageant by Fred Etawageshik of Harbor Springs, as chief Pipi Qua, leader of the Ottawas.

A pageant telling the history of the Ottawas and their coming to Harbor Springs will be presented during the two day festival.

Gives Birth to Baby in Car Front Seat

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Jennie Fields, 28, gave birth to a girl in the front seat of her car plumb in the middle of a busy intersection last night.

Her husband slammed on the brakes when she said her time had come.

Police halted all traffic, and four of them assisted at the birth. Cars were held up for more than half an hour.

Mother and daughter were later taken to Paterson General Hospital, where both were reported doing fine.

Put the Papers Away

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Hagerstown cops now have the word: No smoking or newspaper reading in public while on duty. "It doesn't look good for a man to be directing traffic with a cigar or pipe," said the order from Police Chief Blair P. Overton, nor to see two men riding in a police car with one of them reading a newspaper.

Madball Comedian Has Las Vegas in Stitches

By EARL WILSON

LAS VEGAS — Up and down The Strip here, they're talking about the clowning of a madball comedian named Shecky Greene whose lunacy may be due to the fact that he begins his working day at 1:30 a.m.

Shecky, a Chicago boy, is a little like George Gobel with some touches of Jonathan Winters. He performs in a lounge which is jammed every night; sometimes the customers include George Gobel who has just finished his two shows and is now "relaxing."

"Do you like folk singing?" Shecky asks his audience — and just when you're feeling sorry that somebody's hollered "Yes," Shecky shouts, "O.K., I'll go get my folks."

"When most people hear the name 'Shecky Greene,' they say, 'Who's he?'" says Shecky, concerning his fame. "More people know me as 'Who's he?' than as Shecky Greene."

Shecky gets funny with all walks of life. He mentions the tourist who has been gambling here and, after a losing session, tells his wife, "Gimme the money I told you not to gimme!"

Then there's the riding-to-the-hounds set. "Lady Sibyl, are you ready?" says one of the socialite hunters. "Where's the fox?" asks Lady Sibyl. "What fox?" replies the hunter. "We're hunting YOU today."

Despite all his big success here, Shecky is sad. He wants to be on TV — with a Jack Paar type show — and in addition, he's gloomy about his triumph in Las Vegas. "I never thought I'd go over so big here," he says, "so I'm working at a very short price."

Puts Coin in Meter, Forgets His $5,000

LEESBURG, Fla. (AP)—A visitor was so intent on getting a nickel in a parking meter that he left a satchel full of gold and silver coins worth $5,000 on the sidewalk.

He had brought them to town to discuss them with Carlisle Rogers, a coin expert.

The satchel was found by a high school student and taken into a nearby store. The store owner had been talking with the coin owner and identified it. It was taken to Rogers, who returned it to the visitor.

Rogers wouldn't identify his friend who, in the course of things got a ticket for overparking.
