Kidnaped Baby Alive, Says Caller

Father Informs Phone Contact He'll Pay $2,000

New York Police to Aid in Safety of Infant but Must Stay on Case

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — The father of kidnaped Peter Weinberger today received a phone call from a person believed to have taken the month-old child. The father informed the caller he was prepared to meet the ransom demand.

Morris Weinberger, the father, received the call at 9:40 a.m. The only further information revealed was that he told the person on the phone:

"The baby is alive and well," said the voice.

"Am ready to meet your demand, awaiting your call."

Police have said they could not legally pull out of the case, but that their prime concern is the safety of the baby and they would do anything possible in this connection.

INCREASING FEARS

* * *

It is now almost two days since the sleeping infant was snatched from his carriage on the patio of the Weinbergers' handsome brick and clapboard ranch house in this Long Island suburb.

Weinberger was out for a drive with their other son, 2½-year-old Lewis, when the kidnap note was delivered and the baby taken.

Upon his return, he decided to ignore the death threat and summon police. Together, they went over the kidnaper's instructions.

* * *

Today, for the first time, the words "if he is alive" were used by police in discussing the case.

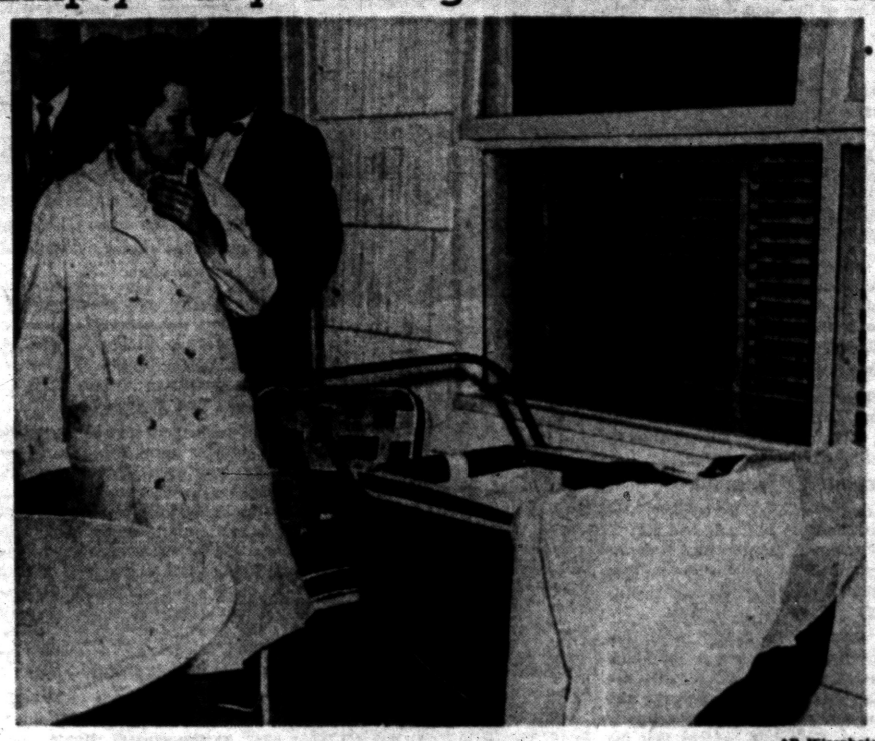

MONEY READY

Weinberger, a well-to-do wholesale drug salesman, told police he had real money ready to pay the demanded $2,000 ransom. He said he would go anywhere, do anything to see his tiny son again.

"HE WAS GONE" — Mrs. Beatrice Weinberger shuts her eyes in expression of anguish as she approaches the empty baby carriage from which her four-week-old son, Peter, was kidnaped after she had tucked him in for a July 4 nap. Tearfully telling her story to newsmen yesterday, she said, "I went out to adjust the netting. He was gone."

School Aid Bill Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans and Democrats sought to fix responsibility on each other today for House action burying a federal aid to education program under a 224-194 vote.

It was a defeat for President Eisenhower, who had strongly urged such a program to help ease a nationwide shortage of school classrooms.

Capping a day of rare confusion and reversals, the House yesterday killed off the bill which would have authorized $1,600,000,000 in federal grants for school construction in the next five years while denying aid to states which continue to segregate children by race.

The ensuing uproar over who was responsible promised to carry over into the fall election campaign.

Seldom has the House embroiled itself in such turmoil as that which ensnarled the school measure.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (INS) —President Eisenhower appealed to Congress today to revive the federal school aid bill, killed in the House after a bitter fight over segregation.

He also reaffirmed, through a spokesman, his opposition to making an anti-segregation amendment part of the bill to provide one billion, 600 million dollars in federal aid to education.

The President discussed the matter at his Gettysburg farm this morning with his news secretary, James C. Hagerty.

"The President believes as he has said many times that the children of our nation need classrooms.

"He has urged the Congress to pass such a bill. He will continue to urge Congress to pass such a bill before they adjourn."

Hagerty said the President has no present plan to send a special message to Congress on the subject.

He said Eisenhower will work to revive the bill through conversations with congressional leaders and administration lieutenants on Capital Hill.

Pot-O-Gold Prize Jumps to $600 as 3,118 Fail 5th

A heavy sigh was heard from the corner where a bursting POT-O-GOLD stands this morning as Press judges checked the last of more than 3,100 entries for Puzzle No. 5 and made another grim announcement: "No winner this week."

The absence of a correct solution raises the prize that will go to our first winner to $600, already being sought by the entries that are flooding in for Puzzle No. 6.

An analysis of last week's entries showed that a total of 3,118 readers tried —several came within one word of claiming the $500 prize and many missed it by only two or three.

Indications that some readers are readers only in name were raised when a study of the entries revealed that 21 missed the Tuesday night deadline, 43 came in envelopes and six belonged to an entirely different contest.

Pointers on what the puzzle-authors want can be gotten by looking over the answers and their explanations on Page 22 of today's Press. You'll find that what might seem to be a slight difference in the meaning of two words can be the margin between success and failure.

But, if you lost last week, don't banish that dream of winning a cash prize—turn to Page 31 and fill in Puzzle No. 6. It can mean $600 to you.

Area Resident Killed in Crash

Joseph W. Champion Dies in Collision as Three Others Are Hurt

A Waterford Township man was killed and three other persons severely injured in a two-car collision at an intersection late last night. A fifth rider escaped with only lacerations.

Joseph W. Champion, 24, of 2884 Davis Ct. a passenger in one of the cars, was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital following the crash, according to Waterford police.

Also in "poor" condition is Harold D. Melton, 24, of 1312 Scott Lake Rd., Waterford, the other driver. He suffered multiple internal injuries.

Sally Blake, 17, of Walled Lake, was reported in fair condition at the hospital today with head injuries and multiple bruises. Wesley D. Craig, 28, of 2850 Oldsmobile St., Waterford Township, was treated and released at Pontiac General for multiple lacerations.

The cars collided at Scott Lake and Pontiac Lake Roads, police said. From indications, Melton failed to stop for a sign at the intersection, it was reported by the police. Further investigation is planned.

Champion and Craig were passengers in the Melton vehicle at the time of the crash. Miss Blake was riding in the Hutchison car.

DET. JAMES LAPONSIE

ROBERT McGINNIS

Armed Fugitive Exchanges Shots in Police Trap

Detroiter Escapes Along Clinton River Bushes; 3 Companions Nabbed

By PETE LOCHBILER

Sought is freckle-faced Robert McGinnis, 25, of Detroit, who eluded Pontiac police in his sixth official escape from custody.

McGinnis broke away from a police trap in which a Pontiac man and three others, including a 17-year-old Pontiac girl, were nabbed.

Police had believed McGinnis and another companion also wanted by Michigan State Police, were hiding out here the past two weeks.

The gun play occurred at 2 a.m. when the five drove up to a 1947 black sedan parked on Paddock street just south of E. Pike street, which police believed belonged to McGinnis.

Dt. James Laponsie was staked out to watch the vehicle from one police car parked around the corner on Chandler street, and officers Gene L. Felker and William D. Lemonde were in another car on Chandler.

LEAPS FROM AUTO

Laponsie began driving up to the scene, when McGinnis leaped from the auto and started running.

Laponsie said he ordered the man to stop, then fired one warning shot in the air. McGinnis turned, pulled out a pistol and fired in return. Laponsie fired again before the man slipped into a maze of homes.

Laponsie believes the escape was made good in underbrush along the Clinton River at Richardson Park, a block away.

An all-night search by Laponsie, the two officers and other Pontiac policemen failed to locate the man. Oakland County Sheriff's deputies and Sylvan Lake police joined in scouring the neighborhood, mostly residential.

McGinnis is believed to be hiding out somewhere within the city. Det. James Emerey, who was assigned to the case with Det. Orville Johnston this morning, said McGinnis' companions may reveal

New Service Starts Sunday

Phone Users Here to Dial Many More Areas Direct

Some 35,000 Pontiac customers of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. with "FEderal" numbers will be able to dial direct to 65 communities in southeastern Michigan and adjacent Ontario, Canada beginning Sunday at 12:01 a.m.

Among the communities within the direct dialing range of Pontiac customers will be Detroit, Monroe, Ann Arbor, Wayne, Wyandotte, Port Huron, and Flint.

The calls will be routed through the Pontiac office to Detroit, therefore eliminating any large equipment or personnel changes in the Pontiac office.

The new system is a step toward eventual nation-wide toll dialing similar to service in Birmingham, company officials said.

Ray H. Storm, district manager for Michigan Bell, said person to person, reverse charge, and coin telephone calls will still be placed through the operator.

DIAL 112 FIRST

To dial direct to the new communities, "FEderal" users will first dial "112" and then the telephone number of the called party. For example, a Pontiac person calling Monroe, Michigan, CHerry 2-3456, would first dial "112", then "CH," and finally "2-3456" to reach the called party.

Storm indicated there will be no change in dialing two letters and five numerals for calls within the Pontiac area which includes Birmingham, Clarkston, Commerce, Drayton Plains, Lake Orion, Mayfair, Oxford, Rochester, and Walled Lake.

He emphasized that wrong number calls under the new system should be reported to the operator immediately to prevent them from being billed.

Ike Plans Quiet Day

Thomson Wins Open Third Year in Row

HOYLAKE, England (AP)—Peter Thomson of Australia won a third straight British Open Golf title today by shooting 72-74 on his last two rounds for a 72-hole total of 286. He was the first player since the 1880s to win the title three years in succession.

Joe Carr of Ireland, the only amateur to qualify for the final 36 holes, finished with a 77 for 306 and automatically won the medal as the tournament's low amateur.

America's two survivors were out of the championship picture. Frank Stranahan of Toledo, twice runner-up for the British Open title when he was an amateur, shot 72-76 over the 6,950-yard, par 35-36—71 Hoylake course to finish with a 296 total.

Debate Postal Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House debates whether to raise the cost of mailing letters today. Under consideration is President Eisenhower's proposal to raise 432 million dollars more yearly in postal revenue. The bill also calls for hikes in the rates on newspapers, magazines and books as well as boosting the ordinary letter rate to 4 cents and air mail to 7 cents.

To Query Gen. Twining

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Senate Armed Services Committee will quiz Gen. Nathan F. Twining next week on what he learned of Soviet airpower during his visit to Moscow.

Scouts Put Out Kitchen Blaze at Roundup City

"Be Prepared" was more than a motto Thursday evening at the Senior Girl Scout Roundup. One of the charcoal stoves used by a Texas patrol set fire to their outdoor kitchen.

The alert girl campers swung into action and had the flames under control before the camp fire department arrived. The fire destroyed a cupboard and damaged the tent slightly before it was put out.

The fire truck is stationed at the camp site with firemen on duty twenty-four hours a day, and fire lanes have been cleared throughout the living sections. The girls have had fire drills at various times.

Lew Hoad Captures Wimbledon Crown

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Lew Hoad won the Wimbledon men's singles tennis championship today by crushing his fellow Australian, Ken Rosewall, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4. They were the first and second seeded players in the tournament.

Hoad, who yesterday routed the last American in the tournament, Ham Richardson, dominated the match except in the second set and for a few games at the start of the third.

Nation Owes $272,750,813,649

Think You Have Debts?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government started the new fiscal year last Sunday with a national debt of $272,750,813,649.

The figure, announced by the Treasury Department, is $1,623,409,153 below the debt outstanding July 1, 1955. It still amounts to about $1,623 for each of the 168 million men, women and children in the nation.

The permanent debt limit as fixed by law is 275 billion dollars, but Congress has approved an increase of 278 billions for the current year, to meet needs when tax collections are low.

The temporary ceiling last year was 281 billions, and the debt came within 700 million dollars of that in reaching an all-time high of $208,310,000,000 last Jan. 4. A budget surplus is expected to reduce needs somewhat during the new year.

Curtice Denies Unfair Tactics as Anti-Trust Suit is Filed

(Special to Pontiac Press)

Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, today denied the corporation discriminates as regards prices, terms and conditions in the sale of GM buses.

He declared the federal anti-trust suit against GM appears to tell a customer he is not free to buy a product where he can get it to his best advantage.

Curtice's comment on the suit was issued just before noon, as the Justice Department filed anti-trust charges against General Motors, charging it with monopolizing the manufacture and sale of buses.

Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., said the department asked a federal court to block GM from controlling a major share of the nation's bus business and also requested numerous other actions against the company.

The complaint also charged that GM has conspired with four large bus operating companies in its monopoly attempts.

The government asked that GM be enjoined by court order from selling more than 50 per cent of the annual bus requirements of the four bus-operating companies.

Named as co-conspirators, but not as defendants, in the civil suit were the Hertz Corporation, the Greyhound Corporation, National City Lines, Inc., and Public Service Coordinated Transport Company.

GM was charged with (1) requiring other manufacturers to discontinue or curtail bus manufactur, (2) having a GM officer and director serve as board chairman of a principal competitor, (3) refusing to sell buses to competitors of favorite customers, (4) quoting preferential prices, (5) making loans to bus-operating companies and (6) using its financial subsidiary, Yellow Manufacturing Acceptance Corp., to extend preferential financing which competitors could not meet.

The suit also charged GM had induced officials of municipally owned transit companies to issue restrictive bus specifications which excluded other manufacturers from bidding, and had refused to sell various bus parts, including diesel engines, to competitors.

The Detroit court was asked to terminate the alleged restrictive agreements, require GM to sell bus parts to other manufacturers, give them the benefits of Yellow Manufacturing Acceptance Corp. financing facilities, and take appropriate action with relation to GM bus patents described in the suit as having been "abused" by the company.

Statement by the General Motors president follows:

"The position we have earned for ourself in the bus industry—whose current annual production is 3,000 units—is a measure of the faith and confidence all our customers have in our products and organization. We have built an outstanding product. We have provided a product that year after year produces substantial economic savings to our customers.

"We have contributed significantly to the ability of our customers to manage their properties efficiently and give good service to the public.

"As to the product, GM for 25 years has led the industry in introducing revolutionary engineering and design advances. Among the most outstanding GM innovations have been the Monocoque body, the two-cycle Diesel engine, the first hydraulic transmission and air-ride suspension. These developments represent importantly significant contributions to the safety and comfort of passengers and economy in operation.

"The economics of the motor coach industry are such that a fraction of a cent operating costs per mile can spell the difference between success and failure of the operator. Hence, economy of operations is a foremost requirement insofar as our bus customers are concerned.

"We have endeavored always to

'There Is No Question About Superior Quality of U.S. Airpower'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining's estimate that this country is ahead of Soviet Russia in the quality of its airpower and can stay ahead seemed unlikely today to still administration critics.

* * *

Twining, the Air Force chief of staff, reported to President Eisenhower at Gettysburg, Pa., yesterday on his eight-day visit to Russia and then told newsmen "there is no question about" superior quality of U.S. airpower.

He attached carefully worded time qualifications on his appraisal, however. He said the United States has a better Air Force "now," should be able to remain ahead in the "next few years" and that the administration's military aviation programs are satisfactory "at this time."

Twining said also that Russia might surpass the United States by 1960 if this country "does not keep moving."

'TOO SLOWLY'

"Gen. Twining's report sounds encouraging," said Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), senior minority member of a five-man Senate subcommittee trying to judge the relative air strength of this country and the Soviets.

* * *

But Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) who has maintained that the administration is proceeding too slowly to build up long-range striking power, said he has some pointed questions to ask when Twining appears again before the airpower subcommittee.

"There is no dispute about our being ahead today in airpower," Jackson said. "The controversy is how we will stack up in 1958, 1959 and 1960."

'WE WANT TO KNOW'

Jackson said the subcommittee wants Twining to "spell out what has been recommended for the Air Force to stay ahead of the Soviets in the next several years."

"We want to know what additional bases, what trained and skilled personnel and what research and development will be required," he said.

* * *

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said Twining would be asked to testify before that group early next week on his trip to Russia as a guest of the Soviet government. Meantime, Russell had no comment.

* * *

Twining said at Gettysburg the Soviets may have more jet aircraft than this country, but not more "modern" planes, and that the two powers are about equal in numbers when Navy, Marine and Coast Guard aircraft are counted along with those of the Air Force. He repeated his view that the Soviets have "a very competent, well-equipped air force."

* * *

Twining described his trip as profitable, although he said he was carefully shepherded by the Russians, and that he assumed Soviet air leaders will be invited here.

Registration Remains Open

Monday Night Deadline to Get on Rolls for August Primary

Un-registered voters in Pontiac have until Monday, at 8 p.m. to register for the Aug. 7 primary. That's the reminder from City Clerk Ada R. Evans.

To aid those who cannot register during the day, the City Clerk's office in the City Hall will remain open tonight until 8 p.m. The office will open tomorrow from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

The extended hours system used yesterday for the first time resulted in 55 registrations and numerous change of address applicants, Mrs. Evans reported.

In addition to the clerk's office, registrations can be made at the following places: both the Community National and Pontiac State Banks (during regular banking hours only), Oakland County CIO Council, 21½ E. Lawrence St.; Pontiac Motor Local 653, 382 E. Kennett Rd.; GMC Truck and Coach Local 594, 90 Mt. Clemens St.; Fisher Body Local 596, 821 Baldwin Ave.; and at 141 W. South Blvd.

THEY'RE NOT A-FEUDIN' — Almost a hundred years ago in Kentucky the Hatfields and the McCoys carried on a deadly feud, which claimed the lives of several members of both families. Ike's Aid Fund Cut $1.4 Billion

House Group Criticizes 'Vagueness' in Foreign Relief Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee voted today to chop 1,405,595,000 out of President Eisenhower's five-billion-dollar foreign aid money request for this year.

The 28 per cent slash, applying mostly to proposed arms aid for free world countries, went 300 million dollars deeper than previously voted House cuts which Eisenhower said would "seriously impair" U. S. and free world security.

Those cuts were made by the House in an authorization bill setting a ceiling on the program. The new measure, subject to House and Senate changes, would provide the actual money.

The committee approval of a $3,665,920,000 bill marked a sharp setback to strenuous administration efforts to win congressional passage of nearly the full amount Eisenhower sought.

The committee voted also a "thorough investigation" of foreign aid, saying there has been vagueness and a lack of information about the program.

The House group said the U.S. overseas assistance plans are frequently put together "with little or no consideration of the needs of the country or countries concerned."

It said the new bill plus $6,870,000,000 in previously voted funds still unspent would allow the program to continue another two to three years at its present rate.

Problem of Modern Age

SAGINAW (AP) — With cities moving into the country more every day, Saginaw experienced a conflict in jurisdiction this week. An 85-pound, yearling deer came out of the woods, crashed into a building and a truck in the city, before a citizen put the broken and bleeding animal out of its misery.

Girl Scouts Rehearsing for Americana Pageant

Rehearsals are in progress again today at the Girl Scout Senior Roundup at Highland. Campers are shaking out costumes brought with them, in preparation for the Americana pageant to be held Saturday afternoon in the open-air arena.

Over fifteen hundred girls will participate in a spectacle portraying 300 years of American history. They will be Indians, southern belles, pilgrims, cowboys and gold rush characters.

Stage coaches, made from Army jeeps will be driven. Sailors, soldiers, railroad builders and pioneers will be represented.

Marion Skedgell, a television and short story writer, wrote the script for this dramatic history of Americans on the move. Since early April girls have been practicing the parts they will take, as singers, actresses or dancers.

Governor G. Mennen Williams has been invited to attend as a special guest. The public is also invited.

High jinks reigned Thursday as the misty weather largely confined activity of the 6,000 girl scouts to the tents.

A group of Kansas and Missouri scouts were temporarily stymied in their efforts to break an old record for staff raising by lashing 10 five-foot poles together. The current record for the sport is nine poles, and the midwestern girls have twice tied that mark here.

The ninth pole split yesterday despite the expert efforts of Pat Knight, Judy Boresow, Vicki Sheldon, all of Kansas City, Mo., and JoLynn Swanson and Paula Pachlohofer, both of Mission, Kans., and Susan Renshaw, Overland Park, Kans.

The object is to keep the joined poles in the air as new lengths of the slender staffs are lashed on from the bottom.

Curtice Denies GM Tactics Are Unfair meet this requirement and in fact bus company records show that we have succeeded.

"As the president of a transit company operating in 14 cities has stated 'I know of no place or no other manufacturer to go to that will sell a bus that will operate as cheaply as the General Motors Diesel bus.'

"Studies made by this company show that GM buses have operated from 1½ to 2½ cents per mile cheaper than competitor's buses.

"Our technological contribution to the coach industry has been but a part of our total contribution. For example, we pioneered preventive maintenance, so important to low - cost operations. Also, for many years, we have made surveys of bus systems at the request of any bus operator for the purpose of analayzing and improving his operations. We know of no other bus manufacturer who makes available such highly important services.

"The foregoing facts add up to doing an outstanding job of anticipating and meeting the requirement of our customers. Here lies the reason for our success in the bus business.

"General Motors has no financial interest in any manufacturer or operator of buses. It has no requirement contracts with any bus operators.

"General Motors engages in no discrimination as regards prices, terms and conditions in the sales of its buses. We attempt to acquaint potential customers with the quality of our products and in so doing follow the normal procedures used by anyone with an outstanding product to sell.

"It would appear that the action seeks to regiment the customer, in effect telling him that he is not free to buy the product where he can get it to his best advantage.

"We have not seen the complaint which we are informed is to be filed today with the U. S. District Court for Eastern Michigan."

Wings Wear 'Gloves'

Loot Hardware Store of Guns, Ammunition

Theft of over $1,000 worth of firearms sometime Independence Day has been reported by Pontiac police.

Det. Olin Hoffman said the burglary occured at the Keego Hardware Store warehouse at 20 Osmun St. Ten rifles, four shotguns and a quantity of ammunition were reported taken.

Thieves entered through a small window. Also missing are six baseball caps and six pairs of brown leather gloves, he added.

Total loss in the burglary amounted to $1,101, according to a co-owner, Ralph T. Shell, of Lake Orion.

Fifty-eight boxes of rifle amunition, six boxes of .38 caliber revolver bullets and 14 boxes of .30-.30 caliber shells were taken, Shell reported.

Man, Father Burned When Gas Explodes

James Wood, 22, of 42 Bellevue St., was in "fair" condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today after suffering severe burns Thursday when gasoline exploded while he was pouring it into the carburetor of his car.

A hospital spokesman said the man had burns of the hands, arms, back and stomach. His father, Solomon P., 42, of the same address, was treated and released at the hospital for minor burns of the hands.

The older man was burned while helping his son beat out the flames. The engine reportedly was running when Wood tried to pour the fuel into the carburetor.

Stolen Baby's Dad Contacted by Phone

sobbingly implored the kidnaper to "please, please, please call anyone. Leave a note anywhere. I shall see that you get what you want."

She was near collapse as she broadcast an appeal for the return of her son.

"I am the mother of Peter Weinberger," she read from a written statement that fluttered in her trembling hand. "Whoever you are, please return my baby . . . I assume you are desperately in need of money . . .

"I am willing to cooperate in any way . . . I am most concerned of all for the welfare of my baby . . . He is only four weeks old . . ."

The next line in the statement was the most vital in the race against time. It contained the infant's formula. But she was unable to read it, and the note floated to the floor.

It was 3 p. m. on the Fourth of July that she last saw her baby. She had given Peter his formula at the prescribed feeding time, gone inside for a fresh diaper and returned to the patio to find him missing.

"Here," she cried to detectives. "You read this . . . I can't." Then, weeping uncontrollably, she dropped into a chair.

Detective Sgt. Edward Curran of the Nassau County police picked up the note and read the formula.

Police investigating the case said the ransom note, on foolscap paper, evidently was written by a fairly well-educated person and that the crime must have been well planned because of the timing.

Former house servants of the Weinbergers were under questioning and all tips from people who have seen suspicious persons with babies were being checked out by the police and FBI.

the location when they are questioned today.

One of the men, Eugene P. Bale, 39, of 2237 Harvard Rd., Berkley, this morning identified McGinnis by means of a police photograph. Bale is held on an open charge of parole violation. He is on two-years parole after conviction of bigamy.

Also held on open charges are Bale's brother, William, 24, of 63 Williams street and Edwin C. DeTamble, 22, of 8610 Central St., Detroit.

State Police on Tuesday had requested the arrest of McGinnis, DeTamble and any companions the pair may have. DeTamble also is wanted for parole violation.

The girl was released after question, LaPonsie said. William Bale is charged with investigation of aiding a felon to escape.

DESCRIBES MEETING

Eugene Bale, a trucker, this morning told police he had met the Detroit pair for the first time last night outside a downtown hotel where they may have been staying.

He said he drove them, his brother and the girl to the black sedan at McGinnis' request. He had met his brother and the girl earlier at the brother's apartment, Bale said, adding that his brother had asked him to drive to the hotel.

Police had attempted to pick up the Detroit men at Bale's apartment last week, believing that they had hidden there. Only Bale was home, however, and he was released after questioning, Emery said.

McGinnis was described as "dangerous" by state parole officers in Detroit. Leonnard Scharr, supervisor of the Detroit office, said McGinnis had been sought since his disappearance two weeks ago from an address in Plymouth, where he was ordered to stay according to his parole terms from Ionia State Reformatory.

He described McGinnis as five feet four, about 125 pounds, with blue eyes, red wavy hair and freckles.

McGinnis, he said, had since 1948 been sentenced to 2½-5 years in Jackson Prison for car theft in Detroit; from 1-5 years for breaking and entering in Detroit and from 2½-5 years for carrying a concealed weapon in Hillsdale.

He had been paroled from Ionia last December while serving the last sentence, Scharr said.

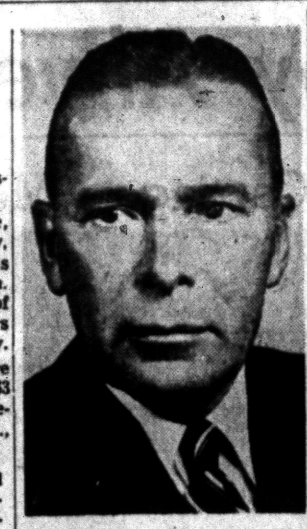

Police said DeTamble and the Bale brothers were not armed when arrested.

Oldster Ignores Safety to Save Blazing ($$) Mat

MEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Albert Goodrich, 86, showed much more concern for his burning mattress than for his own safety when police resuced him from his blazing apartment over his screaming protests.

When he got to the hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation, police learned the reason for his protests. He had $100 hidden in the mattress.

They returned to the scene of the fire and found the mattress, which had been thrown into the yard, with the $100 intact.

At the recent annual meeting of members and directors of Camp Oakland, Inc., officers and new directors for the coming year were elected and members viewed developments at the camp since its founding three years ago.

Officers are Walter Gehrke, president; Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore, Mrs. John T. St. Clair, and Fred A. Erb, vice presidents; Mrs. James B. Lansing, secretary; James W. Hunt, assistant secretary; Arthur F. Bassett, treasurer, and James A. Aliber, assistant treasurer.

The camp provides a year-round home for 20 boys under care of the Oakland County Juvenile Court and facilities to give 400 needy children two weeks of summer camping.

Milford Resident Hurt

Robert A. Volkert, 31, of Milford, was in "good" condition at Pontiac General Hospital today after suffering possible head injuries when his car struck a guardrail in White Lake Township last night.

The incident occurred on Ormond Road, according to Oakland County deputies.

The Day in Birmingham

Jacobson's, Peter Pan Slate Mid-July Opening

BIRMINGHAM—Opening of Jacobson's Beauty Shop and the new Peter Pan restaurant is expected about the middle of July, according to Wilbur Mason, manager of the burgeoning Jacobson's business here.

Jacobson's recently opened its addition to its home decoration shop, just to the north of that building, and the other two new buildings now being completed stand to its south.

The beauty shop emulates the successful shops that Jacobson's has operated through a former Grosse Pointe beauty shop owner in Ann Arbor, Grosse Pointe, Jackson and East Lansing.

The male and female operators will number about 15 at start, but space has been allowed for 25, Mason says.

The Peter Pan restaurant, second in the immediate area, will come under supervision of James Darling of Oak Park, who directs the chain's Northland, two Detroit and East Lansing spots, as well as the recently-opened one at Maple and Telegraph. The chain also has nine restaurants in Chicago.

Another Peter Pan is under way in Eastland. John Rivard, manager at the one at Maple and Telegraph, reports success with the operation there, saying about 1,000 steaks a week are sold. Quality in volume is stressed, he says.

If the Birmingham restaurant's opening is delayed until August 1, it will be because of equipment and personnel not being obtained in time, Rivard says.

The Children's Shop which Jacobson's will operate across Willitts from the Interior Decorations shop, is expected to open in the fall. It will provide clothes for tots to high schoolers, with teenage girls and "prep" boys clothes featured.

No Sign of Headway Seen in Steel Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Moving to assure continuance of the national defense program, the government today froze certain critical steel items as the six-day steel strike rolled on.

There was no sign of an early breach in deadlocked contract negotiations.

In Detroit it was predicted, Michigan's unemployment rolls will increase to 300,000 in August and 320,000 in September if the nationwide steel strike lasts eight weeks or longer.

Lloyd Copeman Dies; Invented Electric Stove

LAPEER (AP)—Lloyd Groff Copeman, who invented an electric stove and a host of other ingenious devices, died last night in Lapeer General Hospital. He was 74.

Copeman, who spent most of his life in the nearby Metamora area where he was born, earned a fortune through his inventions, which, besides the electric stove, included such items as the rubber ice cube tray and a "tamper-proof" envelope.

Funeral plans are incomplete.

Bob Considine Says:

Williams Points Out U.S. Educational Lag

NEW YORK (INS) — If we are losing the war of science to the Russians, some feel we are not losing it at the level of the plane, missile and bomb designers but, rather, at the level of the elementary and secondary school.

* * *

"Not enough of our young people are finishing high school," outspoken Princeton man G. Mennen Williams, governor of Michigan, said at the recent governor's conference.

"Just a little more than one-half of the children who completed the fourth grade are going on to finish all 12 grades," he continued.

"Of the young people who do finish high school, only about one-fourth go on to college. It is said that three-fourths of the really qualified and brilliant youth of America do not enter college.

* * *

"It has also been estimated that 40 per cent of the top one-fourth of the nation's youth do not go to college because of financial reasons — to put it bluntly because their parents cannot afford it.

"The nation is thus wasting a great potential of brainpower which will be of increasing importance as we go farther into the age of automation and atomic power.

ABILITY TO SURVIVE

"This situation is one that goes to the heart of our ability to further develop our free way of life, and even to our very ability to survive."

* * *

The superior size of the Red army is of comparatively small interest to Washington officials. The growing might of a group that is a tiny fraction of that army numerically speaking is of serious concern. Atomic Energy Commissioner Lewis Strauss has said:

"In five years our lead in the training of scientists and engineers may be wiped out and in 10 years we could be hopelessly outstripped. Unless immediate steps are taken to correct it, a situation, already dangerous, within less than a decade could become disastrous."

Williams told the governors, "Industry is unable to get in sufficient number the college graduates it needs. We are so short of engineers that our vital aircraft industry has had to look to Europe for the training and talents it must have.

"In the Soviet Union they have been turning out engineers at two and three times the rate of graduation from our American schools. In five years, it is estimated, the Soviets will be turning out 85,000 engineers a year, as compared with 38,000 in the United States.

The Williams' program would call for federal and/or state support of gifted students who might otherwise never finish school.

He points out that there were 20,000 applicants for the 100 General Motors national scholarship awards, and 58,000 applicants for the 504 National Merit Scholarship prizes.

Aside from potential or actual lead in the above field, Russia has scored another first, apparently.

Congress should order an investigation instantly. The Reds seem to be leading, if indeed they did not invent it, in the kickback.

Mother Russia's pre-eminence in this field was brought to light in the current "Krokodil," the Soviet Union's humor magazine named "Punch" and an American one named "The New Yorker."

* * *

Pioneering "Krokodil" reports that Muskovite cab drivers must surrender two rubles (four bits) a day to comrade inspector, or be ruled off the course.

Comrade Inspector I. A. M. Tayrovsky of Park No. 6, Moscow, whose salary is 1,000 rubles a month, recently bought a 16,000-ruble car and paid 59,000 rubles for a co-op apartment. What can we do to overcome these gifted people?

Moslem Workers End Algerian Strike

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Moslem strikers were back at work today after a 24-hour general strike. They claimed the walkout, called by nationalist rebels, was 90 per cent effective.

* * *

From the countryside came reports of a new wave of guerrilla activity in areas hitherto untouched. Trouble was reported west and northeast of the Titteri Mountains some 50 miles south of Algiers. Rebels attacked isolated posts and destroyed rich vineyards.

* * *

In the Miliana-Cherchell area, about 50 miles west of the capital, helicopter-borne troops rescued 12 Algerian auxiliaries taken in an attack on the post of Ain Romana.

Maryland Moonshiners Take to the Flatlands

BALTIMORE (AP)—When the revenuers creep up on the moonshiners in Maryland, the chances are they won't be comin' round a mountain. More likely, they'll be creeping across the flatlands.

Figures released by the alcohol and tobacco tax unit of the U.S. Treasury Dept. show that Maryland's moonshine activity has been increasing in the flat southern counties and has remained at a low level in the mountains of western Maryland.

Fire Hazard Is Great, in Spite of Much Rain

A wet Spring and frequent current rains is no excuse for lessening our vigilance in the matter of fire prevention.

Nor does the rampant growth of grass lessen the possibility of starting a fire in the dry grass through which it has grown.

Dry grass is a tinder box, even when it is concealed with a green topping. Both will burn under ordinary conditions.

Fire chiefs say that the warm weather and prevalent winds tend to quickly dry up any moisture, and a lighted match or cigarette finds ready fuel within a few hours after a deluge of rain.

The opening of the camping and picnic season brings new hazards. No campfire should be allowed to burn itself out after you leave it. Douse it out.

No cigarette should be thrown out, even on what you think is wet ground, until you are sure it is extinguished. Pinch the fire out of it.

Several fire departments in the Pontiac area have been called out to extinguish grass fires after there had been a heavy rain only the night before.

Our priceless trees, that cannot be replaced for a few generations, frequently are killed in grass fires. And trees in this section have become one of our most valued heritages.

Wild life usually perishes with its cover. There are many angles to consider when you are thoughtlessly careless with fire.

You tell your children not to play with fire. Do you?

Altogether, Men!

Jacob Solinger, of the Fashion Institute of Technology, says men will live longer if they change their clothes more often.

"Take a tip from women," says this New York fashion expert. "They habitually change dresses several times in a single day."

This change in clothing gives an individual a lift and helps to relieve the tensions of modern life. So says Mr. Solinger.

Next time the boss gives you a dressing down, (no pun intended) just slip into the men's room and change into a more colorful Bali outfit. You will feel as if he had given you an unexpected raise, and, who knows; he may feel a bit let down himself at the effect he has had on you.

At least he'll be surprised.

Or, if you are encountering domestic difficulties at home, try this new approach. After your wife has made what she believes to be a particularly devastating remark, maintain complete silence. Just slip out of the room for a moment and return in that new South Seas bathing suit you had smuggled into the house against the day of your coming vacation.

When she swoons at the realization that you are above and beyond the reach of such petty phrases, raise her gently from the floor and murmer your undying love into her ear. It will really make quite a man of you around the house. And if it doesn't; put on your coveralls. You have work to do.

Seriously, though, there would seem to be merit in what the man says. Anyone who has seen what miracles can be wrought by a mere change in a woman's clothing cannot but be intrigued by the possibilities that might lie in the same experiment when made by man.

Pontiac men who have gone for the sport shirt idea this Summer report a big lift in that experience. Maybe that was a good idea but just doesn't go far enough.

Wiffi Wins

New golfing honors came to a resident of Southeastern Michigan when nineteen-year-old Margaret "Wiffi" Smith of St. Clair won the British Women's Amateur Golf Championship. Only a short time before she had won the French Women's Championship.

Many male residents of this area have won honors on the links, but this is the most important golf title ever won by an area girl.

The way she won the British title was impressive. She took the 36 hole final round, eight and seven, from another American player. Her play on her European trip stamps her as one of this country's top women amateur golf stars.

My idea of a classic is the story told by

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson

Kicked by the Bucket

David Lawrence Says:

Should Congress Check Business?

WASHINGTON—What's good for the Eisenhower administration evidently isn't good for General Motors. An antitrust suit has just been filed by the Department of Justice seeking to break up a monopoly which the big motorcar company is alleged to have in the manufacture of buses.

Presumably in this political year this will disappoint, if not frustrate, the Democrats, who have been taunting their opponents with a campaign slogan taken from an abbreviated version of what Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson once said about what was good for General Motors being good for the country and vice versa. The Democrats conveniently leave off the "vice versa."

But the real question now is whether what the Department of Justice has done is good for the country. There's nothing in the antitrust laws, for example, which says that if 80 per cent of the buses bought are products of a single company, as happens to be the case this time, then there's a "monopoly."

LEAD TO CARTEL

General Motors for years has been getting a larger and larger share of the bus-making business, and this has been just as true under the Democratic administrations as it is today. If one company makes a better product or if, because of skill and efficiency, it can sell products at a lower price than competitors, must the government step in and, in effect, compel the buyers to purchase some other products when they might not prefer them? Does the large company now call in its sales staff and say: "Don't try to sell any more of our goods, help the competitor sell his line?"

The allocation of business volume by order of the government could lead to a cartel system such as they have abroad and which in Nazi Germany gave state capitalism the whip hand.

The competitors of General Motors would have a grievance if it is proved that General Motors has been pursuing any unfair trade practices. The principal allegation is that, since diesel engines are made by a subdivision of General Motors, these have not been available to other manufacturers of buses.

* * *

This is a point which presents some novel questions. Must a company which has invested its own capital in an enterprise share the fruits of that venture with a competitor? If so, then why shouldn't the government provide the capital for a joint enterprise in the first place and save the large company any of the risk or the costs of research and development, too?

The principles, moreover, which apply to big business apply equally to small business, and that's why any decisions reached in the General Motors case can affect business practices far and wide.

SIZES POSE PROBLEMS

The broad question, of course, which has been occupying the Department of Justice in recent years, is the size of modern businesses. Shall corporations be permitted to grow to the point where they have as much as 80 per cent of the business in a given industry? Do those corporations enjoy any privileged position in getting capital or in financing customers' purchases? How far shall companies be allowed to use their financial and economic power in a competitive way?

These points probably will be aired before the antitrust suit is adjudicated. But the way to more effective competition in America doesn't lie in the courts. Rather it is in the action that can be taken by Congress itself. Many members of the House and Senate talk a lot about "big business," but they are indifferent to the things that cause big business to get bigger and bigger.

Thus, under the Democratic regime, big business got its best breaks. The excess-profits-tax laws were written in such a way that the larger corporations paid relatively little tax because they had the benefit of large capital in the first place, whereas the smaller businesses were penalized heavily and were unable in their best profit years to accumulate needed capital for future expansion.

Even today the tax laws favor big business. Likewise, neither political party leadership has the courage today to do anything about the fixing of production costs which is brought about by the concerted action of labor unions in a given industry.

It's harder and harder for small business to compete because big business and big unionism have all the advantages in existing laws. Antitrust suits can do little to cure the situation. They merely penalize efficiency while Congress forgets that its own laws prevent competition from growing as it should under the private-enterprise system.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Why Do Drinkers Drink ---Inquires Pamphleteer

The other day I came upon this comment in a reader's letter and it bucked me up at a moment when I was feeling pretty low:

"I, too, signed the pledge about fifty years ago, not to use alcohol or tobacco, and have never broken it. I believe I've had more real enjoyment out of life than I could have if I were partly unconscious most of the time."

That's the idea I have tried to advance, but with little success, I fear. In fact, my efforts seemed to evoke resentment and I withdrew Little Lesson 19 from circulation—a booklet in which I tried to explain why a drinker drinks. My opening remark in the booklet was:

"I hope the Women's Christian Temperance Union will continue to inspire mothers and other women who have charge of children, to exact a pledge of total abstinence. This country needs more women who will see to it that their own children, at least, take such a pledge."

Now and then I received a letter from a member or an officer patting me on the back for my tribute to the W. C. T. U., of which, I thank God, my mother was an ardent member. Then again comes a letter from a member chiding me for occasional mention of the enjoyment I derive from my pipe.

But here, at last, was a letter from a man . . . let me see, where does the man live? We had to search a fat file but we found it.

In the pamphlet, now withdrawn from circulation, I quoted what a periodic drinker said, in a sober interval, when I asked him why a drinker drinks:

"At times I drank to excess because I felt the need of a stimulant, or rather I just wanted to feel better."

In view of the fact that alcohol is a narcotic from the smallest dose that has any appreciable effect to the greatest quantity a hardened drinker can consume and recover, it must be obvious that the drinker craves not a stimulant but a sedative for his "nerves" or a narcotic for his awareness of his inferiority, inadequacy, or weakness of character.

If he had life he'd feel just fine and dandy and he wouldn't want to take anything that would make him less conscious of that feeling or partly unconscious" of it.

Whether one feels just fine and dandy all the time or "just wants to feel better" sometimes, depends on nutrition.

Notwithstanding arbitrary assertions of doctors whose knowledge of nutrition is limited and dietitians subsidized by the vendors of refined foods, most Americans suffer from malnutrition, nutritional deficiency, manifestations, due principally to failure of the everday diet to supply sufficient calcium, vitamin D, vitamin B complex, and iodin.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I'm just an "ignorant woman," but I can't stand to read Dr. Brady's column anymore without a rebuttal!

I've just returned from a five-day vacation (?) in the hospital. I had a baby and Dr. Brady may accuse me of laziness, but if it hadn't been for the five-day sojourn, I probably would be taking up valuable space in a mental hospital.

Dr. Brady seems to regard childbirth as a brief lark, but the esteemed doctor doesn't inform mothers what they do with the other children during and following childbirth at home.

Lazy and ignorant . . . well, maybe I am. But I hope there's always a bed available for me when the next baby arrives at the hospital. I enjoyed not having to do dishes for a few days, not having to worry about Johnny falling out of a tree and the assurance that my new baby is being watched over by competent people who could help the baby in emergencies.

I'm rested and have returned to my home a much more capable mother and wife.

Poles Are Still Seething With Anti-Commie Anger

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Scattered shots still were heard in the Polish city of Poznan on the American Fourth of July, a full week after the anti-Communist uprising.

* * *

Polish tank troops crushed the revolt in the city which is about midway between Warsaw and Berlin, and it is estimated that at least 400 persons were killed.

But the revolt in Poland is not ended. Polish Communist leaders doubtless are in touch with Kremlin officials in Moscow to try to figure out how best to meet the seething conditions in their own country.

One significant fact has emerged in the Poznan rioting. This is that teenage youths and people under 25 years old had a big role in the riots against the Red government.

* * *

This is significant because it indicates that the Communist government has failed in the postwar molding of Polish youth groups.

In other words, the Polish nationalist feeling is still strong and is handed down effectively from father to son despite all the Communist attempts to re-educate the children.

STRONG UNREST

The Polish leadership itself admitted the existence of strong unrest among the workers for some time before the riots began in Poznan.

* * *

Last April Edward Ochab, the Polish Communist party secretary general, told a party meeting that the Communists had not met the challenge of raising living standards.

Economic conditions in Poland were so bad that Ochab, a man incidentally who had strong ties with the late dictator Stalin, acknowledged that "several hundreds of thousands" of workers still were earning less than 500 zlotjes a month in a nation where the average wage level is given as 850 zlotjes.

The Zycie Gosparacze journal on May 20 printed an article complaining that "a person who earns only 1,000 zlotjes a month cannot make ends meet." Masses of people, it added, "live in indescribable conditions."

Aside from the Polish hatred for the Russians, a foe of centuries, it would seem that the whole working class is in ferment in the country bordering the Soviet Union.

SEVERAL FACTORS

The fact that this worker unrest flared into violence in Poznan is attributed to several factors.

* * *

The city has an old tradition of independence and often its officials have defied Warsaw. It also is a main center of Roman Catholicism. And Catholicism in Poland still stands for the people against the Red rule.

Case Records of a Psychologist

'O-A-T' Biggest Health Threat

O-A-T is the keyword that indicates the greatest threats to good health, as well as successful marriage. And please note Dr. Morrison's startling data on the effect of fat on heart attacks. Better scrapbook this Case Record and re-read it occasionally. Or send it to heart victims in your family.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case S-305: Otis L., aged 47, recently had a coronary thrombosis, which means a plugging toward the far end of a coronary artery.

"Dr. Crane, I thought sure I'd die," he admitted. "Nobody was in the apartment with me, so I was scared doubly.

* * *

"I fell to the floor and thought a knife was twisting around under my breastbone. And I felt like I was suffocating.

"Then I remembered what you told our Rotary Club about administering quick first aid to your own heart during an attack.

"So I gritted my teeth and started breathing deeply. I don't know how long I kept it up. It seemed like years but probably was only a few minutes.

"Finally, the pain began to grow less sharp. And I remembered your remark about teaming up with God Almighty. It was pretty late for me to be doing so but I said: 'Lord, I'm done for. If you'll take over and help me I'll be your partner.'

"And I felt more relaxed immediately. Since I was not far from the telephone, I finally slid over and knocked it to the floor with my foot. Then I called the hospital.

"Well, that was three months ago. Now I am sound as a dollar. But what should I do now to keep in good shape?"

BEWARE OF O-A-T

The greatest threat to long life, as well as marital happiness, is contained in the symbol O-A-T.

Those letters stand for Obesity, Alcohol and Tobacco.

* * *

In previous Case Records I have explained that fatness, even without any hardening of the arteries, can zoom your blood pressure.

For each additional five pounds of fat causes three miles of extra blood vessels to sprout. And your heart must then raise the pressure to keep blood circulating in those extra miles of "pipes."

In the Journal of our American Medical Association for Dec. 10, 1955, Dr. Lester M. Morrison of Los Angeles compared 100 heart victims who had recovered from their original attacks.

They were divided into two groups of 50 each. One group was put on a low fat diet so the men lost 21 lbs. and the women 17. The other was allowed to eat as it pleased.

Notice the results for the 50 slender, low-fat eaters versus the 50 others who dined as they pleased. The results at the end of 3 years and at 8 years are as follows:

	3 years	8 years
Slender	43 alive	28
Fat	35 alive	12

BE SMART AND DIET

Our lush living scale and excessive eating seem to shorten our lives not just from the greater incidence of heart attacks, but also from apoplexy, diabetes, cancer, etc., all of which show a much higher incidence among the obese.

* * *

Furthermore, our love life declines and we become platonic marital partners, especially if we add alcohol and tobacco to an overweight chassis.

In previous articles I have warned that you cannot feel like a sports roadster with the chassis of a truck.

Tomorrow I'll elaborate more fully on the hazards of alcohol and tobacco as regards de-sexing human beings and producing impotence in males.

But to insure longer, happier lives, send for the booklet "How to Lose 10 lbs. in 10 days," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents.

* * *

Obesity can cut down your ardor and reduce your allure, so you can often prevent divorce as well as untimely death by using that dieting booklet.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

'He's Being Picked On - - Just Like We Are'

Teenagers View Presley as Their Martyr

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—Elvis Presley is not just a young man who sings in hiccups and moves in high gear.

* * *

He is a brother, a martyr, a god and a cause celebre to the teenagers of the land.

On my desk, piled in neat, angry stacks, are about 2,000 letters from youths of 8 up—all protesting eternal and undying loyalty to Elvis, the put-upon.

Many of the letters warn in dire terms that the old people of America are asking for trouble if they try to ban Elvis from performing.

* * *

"There will be," writes one 16-year-old girl, "a national revolution if anything happens to Elvis Presley's career. So beware. And remember, Phyllis, we teenagers will be rockin' and rollin' when you are dead."

ALARMING, AMUSING

It has been sometimes alarming, often amusing, and always revealing to read the letters that have poured in from the youngsters since I recently wrote—too candidly, apparently—some observations about Presley and his rock-roll style.

* * *

Hundreds of letters from teenagers have been reasonable. They have conceded that rock 'n' roll is "too exciting for old people" and will possibly die out on some strange far-away day.

But please, these letters plead, don't keep nagging at us. We kids like this music, so why can't you leave us alone?

Other hundreds point out that rock 'n' roll music is not a come-on for juvenile delinquency, but a deterrent to it.

* * *

"Rock is our main form of amusement," says a typical letter. "If you condemn it, or ban it, what would we do? Delinquency rates, I assure you, would rise to a new high."

NOTHING BUT GOOD

But the most startling revelation of the entire stack of mail, perhaps, is that not one youth who wrote in would say anything but good about 21-year-old Elvis — the boy whose vocal gyrations have us alleged old biddies stuffing cotton in our ears.

* * *

"You elderly cats say that Elvis makes us violent," writes one girl. "I would love to scream and jump around and get violent over him, but I hold myself in. So how can you say he makes us violent?"

* * *

Even some who had never seen Presley perform nor heard his records reported "but we have read enough about Elvis Presley to know that he's being picked on—just like we are—and we don't like it."

BUT SOME ANALYZE

Many teenagers are simply angry that their musical integrity is being challenged by adults. But some think deeper, and analyze. Like the one who wrote:

"Grownups are taking a big chance when they spend all this time trying to give us kids a bad name.

'Superior Explosive Power'

U. S. Tests 'Super Bomb' in Pacific, Japanese Claim

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's Meteorological Research Institute claimed today the United States exploded a "super uranium bomb" June 13 in the Pacific testing grounds.

The Institute said it based its report on an analysis of radioactive rain which fell between June 21 and June 23 in Tokyo.

"There is no mistake that a super uranium bomb was tested," the Institute said in a statement. "The date was June 13."

The Japanese Weather Bureau and other Japanese sources previously have reported that nuclear test explosions apparently took place in the Bikini area on May 28, June 26 and last Monday. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has refused to confirm or deny that tests were made on those dates.

They hinted there might be some new way of making much of this ordinary U-238 explode to boost the power or the radioactivity from the A-bomb itself. U-238 does not split spontaneously, as does U-235 or plutonium, either of which can be the explosive heart of an A-bomb.

An outer jacket of U-238 is reportedly used to make super H-bombs. An A-bomb is the trigger for the regular H-bomb, which fuses hydrogen atoms.

Eva Gabor's Husband Sued by Former Wife

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Dr. John E. Williams of Beverly Hills, Calif., who married Eva Gabor last April, has been charged by his former wife with failing to support their 9-year-old son.

In a complaint filed here, Mrs. Donna Jean Williams said she had not receivedy any support money since May 1955. She said the divorce settlement specified that he pay $100 a month. They were divorced in February 1955.

Israel Denies Troop Buildup

Labels Jordan Charge as Ruse to Conceal Arab Military Movements

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel again has denied any massing of troops along her Arab borders and charged that reports of such action are designed to cover Arab military movements.

* * *

Walter Eytan, the director general of the Israeli Foreign Ministry, last night called in the envoys of the United States, Britain, France and Russia to issue the latest denial.

The reports of Israeli troop concentrations along the Israel-Jordan border have come from a number of Arab capitals in the past two days.

* * *

Terming the accounts of Israeli troop movements fictitious, Eytan charged the Arab states had made "a concentrated war propaganda effort . . . based on spurious allegations of Israeli troop concentrations."

Reports from Arab Jerusalem said the Jordan army was being reinforced along the Jordan-Israeli armistice line.

A U.N. truce organization spokesman announced, however, there were no confirmed troop concentrations anywhere along the Israel-Arab armistice lines. He added that neither the Arabs nor Israel had complained to the U.N. about any such concentrations.

Ives Predicts Ike Is 'Rarin' to Run'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ives (R-NY) said today he is convinced President Eisenhower is "rarin' to run" for a second term despite his intestinal operation.

Ives, who recently underwent similar but more extensive surgery, disclosed that he and Eisenhower have compared letters on their symptoms, operations, diets and progress of recovery.

Ives said Eisenhower did not say in his letter that he was continuing in the race, but Ives added:

"I think he is rarin' to run again, will run again and will be elected. I feel fine after my operation and although the President is five years older than I, I suspect that he feels even better because his surgery was not as serious as mine."

West Bloomfield Plans School Expansion

CHANGING MILFORD — Karren Konsinger, Jerry Beadle and Thomas Smith play on the side of a hill that is being cut down some 20 feet to make way for increasing real estate development in scenic Milford.

124-Year-Old Milford Changing Rapidly

Natural Beauty Vanishes as Homes Rise

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
Milford Correspondent

MILFORD — This 124-year-old town is undergoing a drastic change as far as contour of the land is concerned. Hills are being leveled, old trees are bring torn out and new streets are appearing almost overnight.

At least eight real estate companies have purchased acreage in Milford and are in the process of building over 1,200 new homes in the medium price range. More plats are expected to be submitted to the village council for approval before long, according to Joseph Gerrard, village president.

There are several reasons for the "hill-topping" process, according to Harry Mead, village attorney, "If real estate companies did not reduce the size of hills for their developments, the town of Milford would be deluged with water and dirt pouring down into the town after a heavy rain," he said. "The higher the hill, the more difficult it would be to retain roads and facilities for the houses."

Another reason for changing the topography is that "you cannot build a flat house on a sloping lot." This comes from Arthur Sheppard, Chief Land Planner of the Federal Housing Administration, in the Detroit office.

President Gerrard feels that the town can be developed with minor grade level changes and not such drastic operations as to scar the beauty of Milford's landscape.

* * *

A $6,000,000 real estate development is being planned by Compass Realty Co. of Detroit. J. H. Cain, president of the firm, has told council members that although they must take the top off two of Milford's highest hills, they plan to retain as much of the natural beauty as possible.

Court Date Set for Accused Knife-Wielder

WOLVERINE LAKE—Alva Messer, 26, who led Wolverine Lake Police an all-night chase in woods near the house where Messer is said to have knifed his landlord, last weekend, goes to Circuit Court on Monday.

* * *

He is charged with assault with intent to murder. Chief Ted Robinson says a fight over Messer using the car of Carlton Kidd, 35, resulted in Messer slashing Kidd's neck. Both live at 1478 Ladd Road, in a home Kidd owns.

Messer was jailed, being unable to furnish the $2,000 bond set at his examination this week. He was arrested after the chief, auxiliary officers, a regular patrolman, and a councilman hunted the three-square-mile woods near the Kidd house for three hours.

Messer pleaded not guilty before Sylvan Lake Justice Joseph J. Leavy. Kidd had 17 stitches taken at Pontiac General Hospital from neck cuts, one of which doctors said narrowly missed the jugular vein.

Only Policeman to Leave Post

LATHRUP VILLAGE—Police Lt. Dave Bourgeois, sole full-time officer for this city, says he will hand in his resignation to the Lathrup council on Monday. He lives at 1723 Mortenson, Berkley.

* * *

Bourgeois says he agreed with the criticisms voiced Monday when Justice of the Peace Leonard V. Pylkas resigned. They feel that not enough police protection has been authorized.

Pylkas told the Pontiac Press "I've tried for two years to keep some semblance of order. The last few months, I just couldn't take being in the middle of these conflicting personal interests."

Pylkas said this morning that the chief problem is the inadequate volunteer police department, but that the council has insisted it was adequate.

* * *

He pointed to cases of breaking and enterings of homes that were not investigated until too late to do any good, since volunteers were not on duty when they occurred.

Board Meeting to Be July 16

To Discuss Expansion; Biggest Budget Okayed for District

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Plans for an addition to West Bloomfield High School will be reviewed and discussed at a special meeting of the Board of Education slated for 8 p.m., Monday, July 16, in the Roosevelt School.

In outlining expansion plans for the near future, Board President John C. Hall said that either six or eight rooms would be added to the present building with construction costs being the determining factor.

The board also intends to construct a new elementary school in the southern section of the school district along with an addition to the Scotch Elementary School at Commerce and Hiller roads.

Expenditures for the proposed expansion program will come from the $960,000 bond issue that was approved by the voters recently.

The bonds have not been issued to date, pending the completion of construction plans. It is hoped that the building program will get under way before Jan. 1.

The board is currently faced with the problem of how to "get by" with present facilities until the new school rooms are built. There is only a bare possibility that half-day school sessions will be necessary to alleviate the crowded conditions, Hall said.

The West Bloomfield district has experienced a gradual increase in school enrollments but no additional tax levy has been needed to meet operating costs, officials said.

LARGEST BUDGET

The board approved a $498,202.73 budget for the 1956-57 school year—the largest ever — at its latest meeting. The increase over the previous school year budget was due mainly to a boost in teachers' salaries.

Major items in the budget follow:

Instructional salaries and expenses, $380,950; administration, $22,100; operation, $56,432; maintenance, $8,500; insurance, $4,700; auxiliary services, (including transportation), $16,750; and capital outlay, $8,770.73.

Alter Meeting Place

The Oakland county Practical Nurses Assn. will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 487 W. Huron St. in a first class room, rather than in Pontiac General Hospital classrooms, as previously planned.

Contests for School Posts

Lake Orion, Royal Oak Slate Monday Elections

Lake Orion and Royal Oak Township voters are among those who will be voting on Monday for school board officials.

At Lake Orion, voting will be from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at three voting places. Precinct 1 voters go to the Village Hall; Precinct 2, Orion Township Hall; and Precinct 3, the Fire Station in Gingellville.

Two trustees are to be elected for three-year terms, Roderic Wiley and Daniel Abbey are seeking reelection and Hugh Brady is a challenger.

Monday evening at 8 at the high school gym, what may be the last public annual school meeting will be held.

Incumbents Lucille Taylor president, and trustee Dennison Bradford will be opposed for the three year term by Leon C. Green, Sidney Thomas and Lonnie Cash.

Bradford was elected to the board to fill out the unexpired term of Willie Young who died last year.

County Girls Share in Chicago Meeting

Among county delegates to the 1956 National Convention of Future Homemakers of America in Chicago this week are Lake Orion, Milford, Rochester, and Avon Township girls. The sessions opened Monday. Present are Dorothy Armstrong, of Lake Orion; Joyce Peters, of Milford, Mary Lou Pease, of Rochester High, and Nancy Riggle of Avondale High, both of Rochester, and Mrs. Gertrude Swartz, Pontiac woman who is advising the group. Britons consumed 18.6 per cent more cigarettes in 1955 than in 1945, when consumption hit a post-war low of 177,900,000 pounds.

Britain is using coal at the rate of nearly 215,000,000 tons a year—just about the same amount the country's mines produced in 1955.

Hal Boyle Says:

Allen Refuses to Relax With His Success

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"I get angry just looking at a row of books, knowing there won't be time to read them all," said Steve Allen.

"The biggest trouble with life is that it doesn't last long enough for you to do all the things you want to."

Steve, who quit college after six months to take a $40-a-week job as a radio announcer, at 34 has become a top figure in television, lives on Park Ave. and is married to a beautiful actress named Jayne Meadows.

Many an entertainer might feel content at this point to rest a bit on his oars and think he had it made. Not Allen, a man of many talents. He wants to explore new fields. Being a successful actor-composer-pianist-master of ceremonies-comedian isn't enough to keep him busy.

"I have a feeling that most of the jobs in the entertainment world really are only part-time," he said, thoughtfully. "Song writing, for example, is a part-time job—even if you're an Irving Berlin. It takes only a half hour to write a song. It's a real snap as a profession."

* * *

In the midst of these side chores he is still emceeing three "Tonight" shows a week and seeking to overthrow Ed Sullivan's virtual 8-year monopoly on Sunday evenings.

* * *

How can he keep so many irons in the fire without falling apart?

"I was born with a relaxed nervous system," Steve said, smiling. "I don't worry. And I get 9 hours sleep a night. Sleep is basically important to me.

"But, oddly, the thing that has done the most for me is the ability to sit in front of a camera and still feel and act like a human being.

"For some reason, very few can. Dave Garroway, Arthur Godfrey, Jack Paar, Garry Moore can, but it's hard to name more than half a dozen."

* * *

The NBC-CBS struggle for peak ratings on Sunday night doesn't seem to perturb Steve unduly.

"The two people who have the surest attitudes toward it are Ed Sullivan and myself," he said. "We are friends. Both he and I have the viewpoint that there is plenty of room on the air for good entertainment. The industry right now is too rating-happy. I don't care too much about my rating so long as it's recognized that I have a good show."

'Lost' Islands Being Claimed by Philippines

MANILA (AP) — Filipino Tomas Cloma, who caused an international dispute last May when he claimed the Spratly Islands, has announced establishment of a government to control the group.

The territory covers most of the Spratly chain of uninhabited islands, islets, atolls, banks, reefs and shoals in the South China Sea halfway between the Philippines and Indochina.

Cloma, who renamed the group Freedomland, said his government will make immediate representations for "protective status" under the Republic of the Philippines.

Cloma said, "We act on our own without committing or embarrassing the Philippine government."

The Blonde Cried MURDER

By Brett Halliday

THE STORY: Returning to his hotel to meet a frightened woman, Michael Shayne, the private detective meets another woman in the lobby of his hotel. The second woman wants him to meet a man who is at the Silver Glade, a night spot nearby.

VII

"That's him. Please hurry so you'll be waiting outside when he comes out. Then follow him wherever he goes."

Shayne shook his red head bluntly. "Sorry, but I'm already working. And if it's a divorce job—"

"What does it matter to you what sort of job it is? I can pay you. How much? Please. It probably won't be more than half an hour." She was digging in her bag again, and came out with a roll of bills. She began to peel twenties off it, pausing on the fifth to look at Shayne hopefully, then detaching two more as he kept on shaking his head stubbornly.

He held the photograph out for her to take back, but she pushed it away, saying fiercely, "You can't refuse. He'll be gone before I can get anyone else." Her voice became tremulous with supplication, and she pressed herself close to him, looking up into his eyes beseechingly and pouting her too-red lips invitingly.

PRETTY PLEASE

"Pretty please." She tried to force the seven bills into his hand.

He said, "No," shortly, wishing she were old enough to realize her too-blatant perfume wasn't as seductive as she probably imagined it to be. He pushed the man's photograph back into her hand and turned away impatiently, but she clung to him and tried to pull him back, sliding the photo into his jacket pocket and continuing to try and force the bills into his hand.

He kept on toward the desk, thrusting her aside impatiently, and she finally gave up and stood still, staring at him, her pale blue eyes glittering with fury.

"Is the one up in my room anything like her?" Shayne interrupted impatiently.

"Well, she's pretty all right, but you couldn't tell much about her, she was so scared." He lowered his voice and looked past Shayne. "This'n came in a few minutes ago, and she wanted to go up to your room to wait for you. But I wouldn't tell her."

"Fine," said Shayne impatiently. "Don't give her my number." He turned to the elevator where there was a car waiting.

* * *

Shayne's first impression of the girl who cowered at the other end of his sitting room was that she was quite young and pretty, a honey-blonde and practically frightened to death by his abrupt entrance.

She straightened herself, still tremulous as he closed the door firmly behind him, and asked quaveringly, "Are you Mr. Shayne?"

"Of course I'm Shayne," he said irritably. "This is my room. Who did you think would be coming in?"

"I didn't know. I've been so horribly frightened waiting. I thought he might have followed me here somehow."

Shayle said, "He?" She still stood flat against the wall as though she were afraid she couldn't stand up without some support, and her whole body trembled as though gripped by an uncontrollable ague.

"The man who — killed my brother," she gasped out.

"That is, I guess he did. I know he must have. If—if my brother is really dead. He must be, I saw him, I tell you. You'll believe me, won't you, Mr. Shayne? You won't think I'm crazy when I tell you?"

Shayne was close to her now. Close enough to stretch out a long arm and take hold of one of her wrists and pull her gently away rom the wall. He held her wrist tightly as he guided her to a deep chair and pressed her down into it. He made his voice calm and soothing as he said, "Of course I'll listen to you. What you need is a drink first. Close your eyes and relax. Stop worrying about anyone getting to you here."

He let go her wrist and turned to the wall liquor cabinet near the kitchen. "Brandy or sherry?"

DRINK THAT!

He got down a bottle of cocktail sherry and one of cognac, went into the smal kitchen and reappeared a few minutes later with a tray holding wine glasses and a tumbler of ice water. He moved a small table close to the girl's chair, put the tray on it and poured her a glass of sherry.

"Drink that first—before you say anything else." He filled his own glass with cognac and took a pleased sip of it, regretfully remembering the untouched glass he'd left in Lucy's apartment. He pulled another chair around so that it faced her, sat in it and waited patiently until she had completely emptied her sherry glass.

"No," he said, "Tell me about your brother. You say he's been murdered?"

"Yes. I tell you I saw him. Lying there dead, right in front of my eyes. But he wasn't there when I came back. He was gone. Just vanished."

She shuddered violently and flung out both hands. "But he couldn't be. Dead men can't just get up and walk away, can they?"

Rain Cools Off Red-Hot Jazz in Rhode Island

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — A hardy group of hot music devotees had to take their blues, barrelhouse and boogie with a mixture of rain, mud and wind last night.

* * *

Some 2,500 persons sat under dripping umbrellas and soggy blankets at Freebody Park as adverse weather marred the opening of the first outdoor session of the 3-day American Jazz Festival.

Backers of the third annual jazz conclave had expected a throng of 10,000, but they said that even a quarter of that number in bad weather was proof enough of the drawing power of jazz.

The singers and players walked on duckboards to a sheltered stage. The audience had to wade through mud, which in some places was two inches deep, to reach their watery and windswept chairs.

* * *

The driving music of Count Basie's orchestra kicked off the opening night jam session, followed through the evening by such jazz stalwarts as guitarist Eddie Condon, vocalist Sarah Vaughan, the Modern Jazz Quartet, the Charlie Mingus Jazz Workshop and foreign but hep pianistn Jutta Hipp and Miss Toshiko Akiyoshi.

With so many empty seats facing the performers, they probably never reached their full ability to provide improvisations, red - hot riffs ad free-wheeling musical breaks—but the munic, nevertheless was the true American jazz devotees swear by.

* * *

Some of the most interesting moments of the evening were provided by Miss Akiyoshi, dressed in Japanese costume. She was accompanied by drums and bass as she played, among other things, what she called the "Brues".

A second jazz session is scheduled for tonight and again the weather forecast is for fog and rain.

Tonight's program is headed by Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, vocalist Ella Fitzgerald, Dave Brubeck's Quartet, veterans Coleman Hawkins and Buck Clayton, the Jazz Messengers and the Trombone Twins of J.J. Johnson and Kai Winding.

Shepilov Anticipates More U.S. Contacts

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia's Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov says increased contacts between the Soviet Union and the United States are "most important" and that he is looking forward to meeting Secretary of State Dulles.

At his first news conference for Western reporters, the new foreign minister said he expects to visit the United States in November for the U.N. General Assembly. Referring to Dulles, he said:

"I am very interested in contacting him, among others, because all such contacts help improve the general situation."

Shepilov's meeting with Western newsmen was an informal conference at a reception for visiting U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Refusing to Permit Pass Causes Autoist's Death

PLAINWELL (AP) — Jerry R. Anderson, 23, of Grand Rapids, was killed yesterday three miles north of here when his car collided head on with a truck as he was attempting to pass another automobile on U.S. 131.

The Allegan County sheriff's office said the other automobile increased speed and would not allow Anderson to pull back in line in time to avoid the collision. The second car did not stop.

Detroit Woman Wins Journalistic Award

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Miss Margaret Winthrop of Detroit was named recipient last night of one of the headliner awards given annually by Theta Sigma Phi, national fraternity for women in journalism.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Every summer the Connecticut State Highway Department gives roads throughout the state what it calls a "bituminous treatment." Motorists who do their best to avoid the newly treated roads have a more common name for the process—oiling.

'Not Healthful for Republican Party'

Ike's Face to Replace Rodin's Nudes on Official Convention Program Book

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three rugged but dispirited bronze male nudes have been kicked off the cover of the official program for the Republican National Convention.

* * *

This was announced last night by Mayor George Christopher and Edmund O'Brien, executive director of the GOP Arrangements Committee, after a day in which Christopher's criticism of the photograph of sculptor Auguste Rodins statute of the three nudes brought out:

1. That Rodin created the statue, now at the Palace of the Legion of Honor here, for a Paris museum, to illustrate a passage from Dantes "Inferno."

* * *

2. That he called it "Les Tres Hombres, part of a group entitled "Abandon Hope, All Ye Who Enter Here.

* * *

2. That the three unclothed male figures, rugged in the Rodin manner of "The Thinker" but distorted with heads bowed sideways, were meant to represent "Three Shades at the Gate of Hell."

* * *

The tentative program cover had over the three figures the word "Unity," and beside them "Peace, Progress, and Prosperity."

"I don't think it's a very healthful picture for the Republican party," said Republican Mayor Christopher as he brought the subject to public attention. "I wouldn't have chosen it myself."

* * *

He added that he had received "a number of complaints" from people who had seen the cover, which already is in print at the local publishing house of Bruce J. Ellis.

* * *

Christopher talked with Edward V. Mills, chairman of the San Francisco citizens' committee for the convention, after which Mills issued a statement saying the cover was "only tentative" and that several others were being considered for final selection by July 15.

* * *

Ellis had said the local committee had approved the illustration only after the Republican National Committee itself had approved. Mills did not elaborate on this statement.

Twin Daughters Born by Woman Alone; All OK

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Alone and without help, Mrs. Betty Jordan, 25, gave birth to twin daughters last night in her small cottage.

"When you have to do something, you do it," Mrs. Jordan remarked a short time later to a policeman responding to her telephone call for aid.

Bob Crabbe, San Jose Mercury reporter, said Mrs. Jordan explained she asked for aid only because one of the babies seemed to have trouble breathing. A physician later said the infant was all right.

Mrs. Jordan said her husband is a serviceman in North Africa. She said she hadn't heard from him in some time and declined to give his name.

She told Crabbe the births took place "very quickly" in her bathroom. When Crabbe and police arrived, Mrs. Jordan sat in a black house coat on a sof beside her babies, wrapped in a blanket.

She told a physician she didn't want to go to the hospital, and he said, "She doesn't want to go and there's no reason to send her."

But the babies were taken to O'Connor Hospital Nursery.

Detroit Area Plans Rites for Air Victims

DETROIT (INS)—Memorial services for four of the Detroit-area victims of the Arizona air disaster have been scheduled and memorial funds established for two others who lost their lives in the crash.

* * *

A memorial mass was sung at St. Paul's Church, Groose Pointe Woods today for Mrs. Gertrude Book, of Grosse Pointe and a service will be held tomorrow for Wesslau G. Wright, of Pacific Palisades, Calif., a former Detroit resident.

On Sunday, services will be held at Temple Beth El for Walter and Stella Fuchs and at St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral for Russell A. Shields, Jr.

The Peter Whyte Memorial Fund has been established by friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Whyte in memory of their 15-year-old son who died in the crash.

Members of the Allen Park Grace Reformed Church have started a colege scholarship fund in memory of Floyd A. Nixon, of Allen Park, a member of the church, who was killed.

Detroit Girl, 14, Dies Drinking Anti-Freeze

DETROIT (AP) — Charlotte Englehart, 14, who drank anti-freeze at a teenage swimming party last Tuesday under the impression it was cider, died at a hospital last night.

* * *

Police said Charlotte and about 25 other boys and girls attended the swimming party at the home of Gordon Wybro, 14. During the evening six boys went to the garage where they had noticed two gallon jugs labeled "cider."

Det. Lt. Joseph Nufer said the boys admitted stealing one of the jugs, which actually contained anti-freeze drained from the automobile of the garage owner.

Several teenagers who sampled the "cider" quickly spat it out. But Charlotte and another girl, Delores Victor, 14 swallowed some of the fluid.

Charlotte complained of feeling ill when she arrived home Tuesday night and was admitted to a hospital the next morning. Delores, who apparently swallowed less of the poison, was treated at the hospital Wednesday and released.

THE NATION HAS A BIRTHDAY — 5
A Sailor and His Flag

America's first official national flag has been given many names, but the one generally accepted is the "Grand Union Flag."

On December 3, 1775, John Paul Jones hoisted it to the mizzen mast of "Alfred," the flagship of Commodore Esek Hopkins, to take its place beside the Rattlesnake Flag flying from the main mast.

It showed 13 stripes, 6 white, 7 red, typifying the 13 colonies in the union. In the field where the present day flag has stars there were combined the red cross of St. George, and the white cross on a blue ground of St. Andrew, to indicate the relationship with Britain.

Here is a boy sailor on one of the American ships showing his flag. Very young boys went into the new Navy, even though small, poorly equipped ships and bad food made the life a hard one. He wears a short blue jacket with brass buttons, a bright red and yellow scarf and a white shirt and pants.

(This idea was first submitted by Katie Wren, Wichita Falls, Tex. Junior Editors award $10 for useable ideas, so send your idea in care of this newspaper. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newsfeatures.)

Coffee Breaks Taken -Under Boss' Eye

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Superintendent of Pennsylvania's capitol buildings decided state workers were lingering a bit too long in the capitol cafeteria during the coffee break period.

So Secretary John S. Rice, of the Department of Property and Supplies, posted a notice in the cafeteria that tables would be occupied only during a 2-hour breakfast period and a 3-hour lunch period.

Crash Survivor Reported Okay

Teenage Girl Pinned in Wreck for 9 Days Has No Skull Fracture

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Doctors reported last night that X-ray pictures showed no sign of a skull fracture in Jean Margetts, the pretty girl too tough to die during nine days' imprisonment under a wrecked car.

* * *

The 18-year-old Sunnyvale, Calif., girl was found Tuesday night, pinned at the bottom of a 300-foot embankment in Parleys Canyon east of here. Twenty feet away, her fiance James B. Hixon Jr., 22, Salt Lake City, lay dead.

* * *

Last night's medical bulletin said her general condition remained satisfactory and added that "preliminary X-ray studies do not show evidence of a skull fracture which was previously suspected."

Although she was described as more alert, hospital attendants still would allow only her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Margetts, to see her.

* * *

He's Sore but Happy. After Lightning Strikes

HAZEL GREEN, Ky. (AP)—Ralph Lockard's body was sore today but he certainly wasn't sore-headed about the situation. He figured he was lucky to be alive.

* * *

Lockard said lightning struck him at his filling station Wednesday.

He said the lightning hurled him a slight distance, caused the soreness and a slight shoulder burn and stopped his watch.

Tries to End Wife's Pain

NEWCASTLE, England (AP) — They chatted about the future as he sat by her hospital bed. But Harold Mercer knew his cancer-stricken wife Sarah would not enjoy that future.

* * *

"It's nice to see you again, love," Sarah murmured.

Harold tried to hide the tears as she patted his hand.

He also hid from Sarah the fact that he faces trial on charges of trying to kill her with 13 sleeping pills to relieve her suffering.

Harold has pleaded innocent to the attempted murder charge, but guilty to another one—attempted suicide.

* * *

Sarah did not know her bricklayer husband had been in jail awaiting trial. She believed he had been in a hospital after collapsing from the strain of nursing her for four years.

Nor did she know that while Harold sat beside her two wardens from Durham jail waited behind the door.

The reunion was made possible by the efforts of two members of Parliament, a neighborhood petition and the consent of the jail governor.

* * *

"I'm so glad he's better," smiled Sarah, as her husband left to return to his jail cell.

Vet Dependents Take Bulk of Aid in U.S. Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the Revolutionary War up to now, veterans and their dependents have received more than 82 billion dollars in benefit payments from the government.

Reporting this today, the Veterans Administration said wartime service accounted for more than 81 billion of the total, the remaining billion going to peacetime veterans and their dependents.

Explaining the vast cost difference, the VA said wartime veterans have far outnumbered peacetime veterans and the latter are eligible for fewer benefits.

The following payments have been made to wartime veterans and their dependents:

* * *

Korea conflict, $2,600,000,000; World War II, $46,200,000,000; World War I, 20 billions; Spanish-American War, 4 billions; other wars, $8,900,000,000.

Church Bids Farewell to Pastor and His Family

Pontiac Press Photos

Representing the members who joined the First United Missionary Church during the Rev. George D. Murphy's tenure were (left to right) Earl English of North Sanford street, Walter Williams of Pine Grove avenue, Lester English of South East boulevard and Charles English of North Paddock street. They were photographed at the farewell reception for the Murphys held in the church Thursday evening.

Party Host Is Criticized by Mothers

He Allows Girls to Make Trip Home Without Escort

By EMILY POST

A young man writes me as follows: "The other evening I had a party to which the girls and men came separately — no one being paired off all evening. About 11:30 two of the girls said they had to go home.

"None of the men offered to see them home and I, as host, felt that I could not leave the party to drive them home.

"I have heard since then that the mothers of these two girls were very much upset because I allowed them to go home alone at night. Could I do anything else?"

Answer: It is the responsibility of guests to arrange for their coming to the party and their going home again, and unless you offered to do so, it was not your obligation to see them home.

"Dear Mrs. Post: How does a woman receive a man? When you have written that she should not assist him with his coat, I believe you have been referring to the house that has a maid to help him. But I am asking about a home where the lady of the house goes to the door herself."

Answer: If he is ill or in any way crippled, you of course help him. But if he is able-bodied, he certainly does not need anyone to help him take off his coat or to put it down for him wherever he is to put it.

If he hesitates, you simply say, "Will you put your hat and coat there?" and indicate where.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My brother is going to be married shortly. I married about six months ago and am no longer living at home. I would like to know if an invitation to the wedding should be sent to my husband and me."

Answer: Only if your brother thinks you will be interested in seeing the invitations.

Paper Reports Palace Nursery Being Fixed Up

LONDON (INS) — The London Daily Herald reported today that Prince Rainier of Monaco, who would like to have a son and heir, has ordered his old palace nursery redecorated.

* * *

A Paris dispatch to the newspaper said two rooms and bathrooms, which the prince and his sister, Princess Antoinette, had as babies, will be refurnished.

The Prince and American film star Grace Kelly were married in Monaco in civil and religious ceremonies last April.

* * *

Under an old agreement, Monaco needs an heir to the throne to keep the tiny tax-free principality from reverting to French control.

Like his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. George D. Murphy, David Murphy loves music. Prior to the farewell reception held in the First United Missionary Church to honor his family, David was playing the piano while two of his friends, Linda Butler of Sanderson street and Russell Bowman of South Paddock street, tried a little harmony. The Rev. Mr. Murphy is a member of a male quartet and Mrs. Murphy directs the church choir.

Murphys Are Feted at Reception

United Missionary Congregation Pays Tribute to Minister

By MARY ANGLEMIER

The Rev. and Mrs. George D. Murphy and children, Sharon and David, were honored at a farewell reception given Thursday evening in the First United Missionary Church by 150 friends and neighbors.

* * *

Pastor of the church for nearly seven years, the Rev. Mr. Murphy has accepted a call to the United Missionary Church of West Eckford in the Indiana Conference.

A program was held in the church parlors, with Harold Hall giving the opening prayer. Charles Cumberworth, a steward of the church, was chairman of the evening.

"Blueprint," a poem paying tribute to the Rev. Mr. Murphy, was read by Diane Williams. It was written by Ward Hart, a member of the congregation.

* * *

Burton Hewitt and Mr. Hart were featured in harmonica duets. They played the Murphys' favorite hymns, "Nearer to the Heart of God" and "Kneel at the Cross."

SOPRANO SOLOS

* * *

Asked by the committee to comment on the history of the church, Mrs. David Wells told of the three women who organized the church more than 50 years ago.

Mrs. Susan Bowman of Pontiac, Ella Ditty and Lenore Annabell of Port Huron first started a mission where the Lion Store now stands.

The daughter of former pastor, the Rev. R. M. Dodd, Mrs. Wells mentioned each pastor of the church, relating how she remembered him.

* * *

When called upon for a few remarks, David Wells, senior deacon, outlined what had been accomplished here by the Rev. Mr. Murphy. He said he wished the family "God speed wherever they go."

COOPERATIVE SPIRIT

Harold Hall, chairman of the board of trustees and junior superintendent of the Sunday School, said there was always a fine spirit of cooperation at the church. When members and pastor disagreed, they prayed together about the problem and a solution was always found, according to Mr. Hall.

* * *

"When we decided to make the church basement larger to provide more room for the Sunday School," said Mr. Hall, "George Murphy was here with his shovel to do his share."

He also noted that many new members have joined the church and Sunday School, a new organ has been purchased, a bus has been provided for those unable to come to the services, and all bills have been paid.

When presented with a purse from the congregation, the pastor said he was grateful for the friends and fellowship here, and he asked the group to pray for him in his new ministry.

* * *

His parting words were the 32nd verse from the 20th Chapter of Acts: And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.

Uneven Curves Embarrass Girl

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I have a problem which is very embarrassing. My right bust is larger than my left. It does not show when I have a bra on but is very noticeable when I have on pajamas.

"I have gotten to the point where I keep my bra on when wearing pajamas. I know it is not my imagination because my girl friends mention it. Please tell me what causes this and if there is any remedy. I am desperate!"

A. Few women have breasts exactly the same size although there is not usually enough difference to be noticeable. I do not know what causes this any more than I know why our faces are not exactly symmetrical. One side is generally a little different from the other.

You may improve the situation by taking exercises which develop the chest muscles on the small side only. For instance, try these two exercises using only the left arm:

* * *

Q. "I have very fair skin and very dark hair. For this reason the hair on my arms is most noticeable. Would you advise me to bleach the hairs or what should I do?"

A. If you wish you can bleach the hairs. Mix household ammonia and peroxide. Use 4 drops of ammonia with 3 tablespoons of peroxide. Pat this on with cotton and let it dry. I think the simplest thing is to remove the hairs with a good depilatory.

* * *

Q. "I am 17 years old and my bust development is only 30 inches. I am 5 feet 4 and weigh 104 pounds. I have tried exercises but they did not help. Please tell me what to do."

Here is an exercise to develop the left side of the chest only. Clench the left fist hard and turn the elbow in toward the body a little. Hold, relax.

A. Perhaps you did not try the exercises long enough or do them faithfully enough. This usually takes months. Also young women complete their development at different ages. Your bust may yet fill out.

One thing you CAN do is to gain weight. This always shows in the bust and you are underweight. You should gain for the sake of health anyway. Gain at least 10 pounds.

* * *

A. "Am I underweight? I can't get clothes to fit. I am 5 feet, 3½ and weigh 105 pounds. My bust measures 32, waist 21 and hips 32 inches. I am 25 years old."

A. You are very much underweight. Gain from 15 to 20 pounds depending on your build.

Exotic Prints Stress Far East Emphasis

NEW YORK (NEA)—The Far Eastern look continues into the summer in exotic prints and the sheath cut.

The obi creates a look of waistline slimness, and the side slit hemline carries out the Oriental look.

Frequently, the fabric from which the dress is cut has an exotic look in itself; it is touched with gilt or combines hot and cool colors with the glint of gold.

Jewelry Turns Brown This Season

NEW YORK (INS) — Costume jewelry has to be brown to be fashionable next fall, even if it's rhinestones.

* * *

Costume jewelry manufacturers showing off new fall styles in New York this week said that while white is the color for summer, brown is definitely the color for fall.

That's because wood and leather are the new high-style jewelry leaders — and they're naturally brown. Both wood and leather inserts in bracelets, earrings and necklaces, however, are going to be offered in many brown tones—from beige to butterscotch.

Even glitter jewelry is going brown. They are, honestly, making brown rhinestones.

The stone that's expected to be the tops in tint is the topaz. If you can afford the real thing, it will be the gem to buy. And if you can't afford the real, there will be fake topaz from $2 up.

* * *

So far pearls are about the only jewelry items that haven't gone brown-wild. But they probably will be by the time briwn jewelry is on store counters this summer.

A luncheon honoring Stacey Skelton, who is retiring as director of the Michigan Crippled Children's Commission in Lansing, will be held here Saturday at Elks Temple. Those planning the affair include former co-workers of Mr. Skelton, who at one time headed the Oakland County Emergency Relief Commission. Photographed (from left to right) are Clarabelle Amidon of Sanderson street, Geraldine O. Sloan of East Pike street and Mrs. Russell C. Perkins of East Pike street.

Older Boy Needs More Privileges

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Passing the open bathroom door, Mrs. B. saw that her older child had left his clothes in an untidy heap on the floor.

So as she entered the boys' room to say goodnight, she said, "Ted, go get those things you left in the bathroom and hang them neatly across your chair."

Then, as he obeyed, she went to the untidy heap of clothes her younger son had left on the bedroom floor—and began to sort and arrange them for him on his chair.

When Ted returned, he complained of this difference in treatment. His 8-year-old voice was edged with bitter resentment as he said, "Why do I have to pick up my clothes if Larry doesn't have to pick up his?"

"You're three years older than Larry," his mother said. "He's got to learn to put things away."

NOTHING EXPLAINED

This explanation explained nothing to Ted. It simply sounded like a justifucation of his mother's partiality for his little brother. It increased his jealousy of Larry.

Instead of encouraging him to take more responsibility as an 8-year-old person, it just made him wish that he was an irresponsible, 5-year-old person like his little brother.

For example, Mrs. B. puts no clear difference between the bedtimes of Ted and his little brother. As things are arranged now, the boys retire within a half hour of each other. Sending them upstairs at the same approximate time has seemed the convenient way to avoid new friction and bickering.

FOMENTS JEALOUSY

As his mother shows no respect to his 8-year-old growth, he himself distrusts it, becoming defensive and bullying whenever he asserts it.

Her contempt for growth has infected Larry, too. Living with a mother who's scared to grant any enviable privileges to his older brother, he has chosen to hold on to the ones he's got as a "little" boy—and remains a whining baby hard to get along with.

There's nothing mysteriously psychological about these bad results of Mrs. B.'s pretense that her older son is the same age as her younger one. Bad feeling always results from falsification.

Home Utensils Used as Games on Rainy Day

So says E. H. Regnier, University of Illinois rural recreation expert.

Regnier says rubber jar rings, paper bags, clothespins, magazines and other objects can brighten indoor play days for children.

The rubber rings can be used for a game popular with the small fry, said Regnier. Turn a chair upside down and toss the rings at the legs, trying to ring them. Each leg can be given a different value — five or 10—to count for scoring.

Or you can make a game board with five or seven nails driven in as pegs to catch the jar rings. In this case you can give each nail a point value. The children also can ring catsup or pop bottles.

With the aid of crayons, scissors, string and paste, you can teach the youngsters how to make puppets, helmets or masks from paper bags.

Children can try dropping clothes pins into a milk bottle or dressing clothespins as dolls.

Base Career Decisions on Facts

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Too many times, we base our decisions on fantasy rather than fact.

We decide that such-and-such will probably be dull or hard and we never get down to brass tacks and find out.

"I will be working as a secretary and going to college at night beginning in the fall," she tells me.

"I already have the job, which is not too bad, and I intend to register for the city college fall term.

"But I don't know what to major in.

LIBRARY WORK

"My high school adviser recommended library work, because he feels I have all the aptitudes for it. But isn't it too dull and confining?

"After all, you have to consider everything. I'm afraid library work would get tiresome and I might end up an old maid. But I have to decide on something.

"What about the hotel field? It seems to me a hotel would be much more interesting than a library."

So there Betty sits, in a city full of libraries and equally full of hotels. Yet it never occurs to her to talk it over with librarians and hotel people.

* * *

She could write a note to people in both fields, explain her dilemma and ask if they'd be good enough to give her a brief appointment to learn more about their work.

Most people are willing to lend a helping hand to a youngster and most people like to talk about their work.

Betty could have some firsthand information to base her decision on, not just a lot of vague ideas based on Grade B movies!

As a matter of fact, I know plenty of people in the hotel field who have dull, routine jobs where they never meet any "interesting people."

And I know librarians like, for example, Loda Hopkins in New York, who have the most exciting jobs imaginable.

She works out programs of discussion and study on all kinds of topics, gets volunteers to teach them and the bibliographies to back them up.

FASCINATING JOB

She is an attractive woman in a varied and fascinating job. And, incidentally, she's married!

If Betty could meet women like that, which she can, she would have some real basis for deciding her future.

If you'd like suggestions on doing that, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll send you my recommended list of books on job-hunting.

CHARLOTTE V. STARK

The engagement of their daughter, Charlotte V. Stark, to R. Heath Reeves is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stark of South Marshall street. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Reeves of Thorpe street.

Couple Wed at Church

Married June 30 at Marimont Baptist Church were Beverly Ann Plumb and Clyde Nelson White. Beverly is the daughter of the Charles B. Plumbs of West Beverly avenue. Clyde is the son of Mrs. W. G. White of Lewis, Kan. and the late Rev. White.

A floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over nylon tulle and satin was worn by the bride. Her Chantilly lace headpiece was trimmed with accordion pleated nylon tulle and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white stephanotis.

Bridal attendants were Alice Plumb, Mrs. Donald Plumb and Mrs. Jackie Dale Payne of Auburn Heights. Their gowns were of pink and aqua nylon net over taffeta.

Keep Immaculate if You Want to Look Cool

Looking fresh and cool on a muggy day is largely a matter of cleanliness. Even a hot face can look cool if the perspiratin and grime have just been washed off.

Clothes, too, are this way. A crisp, clean, freshly pressed dress look cool if the perspiration and as though she were wilting.

In shoes, this is particularly applicable. Those who live in areas where the dust rolls in in July and doesn't depart until October know how hot and uncomfortable dusty shoe tops look.

Those who live in a city know that shoes inevitably get dirty on the streets in summer, and that they wreck the looks of a clean, crisp costume.

Moist Cake Made With Bananas

Mrs. Reichert Uses Salad Dressing Not Shortening

By JANET ODELL

In the past few years several recipes have been published, calling for salad dressing in cake recipes. The one we give you today is for a Banana Cake and comes from Mrs. Frank Reichert.

The Reichert family are enthusiastic boat owners. Mrs. Reichert says she is learning to water ski. In addition, she enjoys working in her yard with flowers. She has four children to care for.

SALAD DRESSING BANANA CAKE
By Mrs. Frank Reichert

2 cups sifted flour
1 cup sugar
1 cup salad dressing
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups mashed bananas (use well ripened ones)
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup walnuts

Mix sugar and salad dressing together. Sift in dry ingredients. Then add mashed bananas, vanilla and walnuts. Pour into greased 9 x 12 cake pan and bake 25-30 minutes in a 375-degree oven.

Frederics Puts Feather in Cap for Hat Lure

NEW YORK (INS) — There's one New York hat designer who wants every woman to have a feather in her cap — preferably a whole collection of them.

One of the most striking of these new hats is a draped bandeau of white satin worn over the forehead like an Indian headdress. On one side is an upright shaft of white feathers almost a foot high, attached to the bandeau

The white has is typical of Frederc's color preferences for fall — they include black and white, either separately or in combination, as well as combinations of turquoise and blue and what the head of John Frederics inc. calls "The brandy colors"— Inc. calls "The brandy colors."

Frederics' hats generally follow the fashion trend toward large crowns, but the milliner makes a point of keeping them soft and crushable. He thinks a woman's eyes are her crowning glory, so his brims, even the down-dropping type, dip up at the front.

And he favors "chignon hats" and turbans. The turbans include velvet types with high points in back, while the chignon hats have a hole in the crown for a top knot to show through.

Give Hair Short Cut to Fashion

Top French Stylists Design Coiffures Close to Head

PARIS (INS)—According to top Paris hairdressers, women should cut their hair short for summer.

* * *

Guillaume, another of the "big four" Paris hairdressers, continues to style hair in the dancing mood of the classic Russian ballets.

For spring Guillaume showed the "ballerina style" with a middle parting, a smooth top and authentic coils on both sides at the height of the ears. For summer Guillaume achieves the same effect with shorter hair, puffed and teased out at the sides for the new ballerina look.

Antonio, most successful with brunette hair, has created a new style to match Empire fashions. With short hair he achieves a hairdo a la "Josephine de Beauharnais," Napoleon's wife who always wore high-waisted gowns.

* * *

Fernand Aubry shows a hairstyle suitable for women with a narrow face and pointed chin. He shapes the hair to make a head look triangular by leaving the top smooth and building the sides out to volume. For another hairdo he smoothes the hair on the top of the head with curls all around arranged in a "wreath."

Washing Directions for Cotton Knits

White cotton knits, like that T-shirt, can be washed in water as hot as one likes. The brightly-colored cotton knits should get warm water and warm rinses.

Black cotton knits should be spared washing or machine drying in company with light-colored lint-givers. Washing inside out protects the black and navy blue knits from any lint left in the machine from the last load of laundry.

Don't Turn Down That Fashion 'Find'

If you come across a real fashion find (a dress that you love, a hat that's just right for you, shoes that fit like gloves) buy two at one time if your clothes budget will stand for two.

Saves you hunting (usually in vain) later on for something that will duplicate the successful buy.

Rabbi and Mrs. Sanford Saperstein wave as they prepare to depart for a six-week trip abroad. The trip will include three weeks in Israel and the remaining three on the continent. The tour is a gift of the congregation of Temple Beth Jacob, honoring Rabbi Saperstein for his 13th year in the rabbinate and his seventh year as rabbi of the local temple.

Ceiling Fixture Returns

NEW YORK (INS) — Italian lamp designer Maurizio Tempestini says we have witnessed the return of the ceiling fixture.

It's all part of the "softening up" process modern furniture has been undergoing in the last couple of years.

HAVE NEW LOOK

"Ceiling fixtures as decorative lighting had to come back," Tempestini said, but added they now have a new look to them.

"With traditional crystal fixtures," said the man from Florence, "the crystal was part of the light. Today it is different. The trend is toward some kind of indirect light playing on the crystal. But they are separate fixtures.

"The idea is to do mobiles in crystal and shoot light against the crystal. You can have color in the mobile, too. This makes good lighting, but with a more cheerful, gayer effect."

Tempestini thought a little more, then added:

"Traditional lighting is beautiful but very bad from a light-giving point of view. What we want to do now is to have a bright and shining feeling, but with the lighting directed up, not downward.

"Perhaps the crystal could hang from the ceiling, with a bowl lamp beneath it so that shaded light would go into the room and strong light would play on the fixture and on the ceiling."

Thick frozen steaks and chops should be broiled more slowly than defrosted ones so the meat will be cooked to the desired degree of doneness without becoming too brown on the outside.

Study to Affect State's Colleges

LANSING (AP)—A mild-mannered man set to work today on a two-year study which could shape the destiny of higher education in Michigan for years to come.

* * *

He is Dr. John Dale Russell, chosen by the legislature's interim committee on higher education to find out how the state's colleges can avoid bursting at the seams.

Russell's record includes six years as assistant commissioner of higher education in the U.S. Office of Education, classroom teaching and a spell as a dean at the University of Chicago.

He has conducted similar surveys in several other states and more than 200 educational institutions.

* * *

Besides directing the Michigan study, he now is serving as chancellor and executive secretary of the New Mexico Board of Educational Finance.

'ISN'T ONE MAN JOB'

Russell set up shop yesterday in a fourth floor office in Michigan's capitol building. He'll stay there a week, then turn the study over to his assistant — Dr. Albert F. Scribner, vice president of Valparaiso University.

* * *

"This isn't a one man job," he says. "I haven't decided yet exactly how we will operate, but we will probably farm much of the research work out to other agencies such as colleges."

* * *

Russell will continue directing the survey on a part time basis, probably spending about 200 days on the study in the next two years.

The committee hired him at the rate of $125 per day actually on the job, plus expenses.

* * *

"One of the biggest problems as I see it is the question of extending the community college system," Russell says.

"You are way ahead in this field in Michigan. But there are several other communities where community colleges might be located."

* * *

"Another question," he says, "is the method of integrating the state's different efforts in the field of higher education."

* * *

This problem exists, in any state with more than one state-supported university governed by several competing boards, he says.

WHERE DOES MONEY GO

"In New Mexico, the problem was particularly acute because we had seven state universities —all of them vying for state funds and acting independently.

"The legislature had no way of deciding how much money to give to whom. There was duplication and overlapping."

The problem was solved by turning over budget matters to a nine-man board appointed by the governor.

Russell doesn't know whether such a board would be feasible in Michigan, but he intends to find out. Michigan has three state-supported universities governed by three separate boards and four teachers colleges regulated by the state Board of Education.

Russell also may get involved in the hot controversy over the need for a new medical school.

* * *

"I don't know whether that will be one of my problems, but if the problem exists we'll make some recommendation," he says.

Russell hopes to have some sort of report ready for the 1957 legislature—a report that could form the basis for legislation.

* * *

The final report, he says, will be ready for the 1958 session of the legislature.

He was picked by the gadget of the month club.

Harry Trumans Starting Home

ta31 eesszyy Truman mk6

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman leave by train today for their Independence, Mo., home. They have been staying at a h otel here since Tuesday, when they returned from a European tour.

* * *

The visitors included Carmine G. DeSapio, Democratic national committeeman, New York secretary of state in Gov. Averell leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization; New York State Democratic Chairman Michael H. Prendergast; and Mrs. India Edwards.

* * *

Mrs. Edwards resigned last week as vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee to work in Harriman's campaign for the presidential nomination.

DeSapio and Prendergast have been booming Harriman for the nomination for months — long before he announced his candidacy.

The former President, who has declared himself neutral between Harriman and Adlai E. Stevenson, told newsmen he "probably" would have lunch with Stevenson in Chicago before the Democratic convention.

* * *

Administrative Residents Join St. Joseph Hospital

Two administrative residents recently began a year's residency at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital toward obtaining Master Degrees in Hospital Administration.

Sister Mary Susanna, from Wichita, Kan., and Sister Marybelle from Duluth, Minn. have both completed nine months of graduate studies at St. Louis University and have joined the local hospital's staff for their residency.

The program under which the Sisters come to Pontiac has recently been added to many universities across the country, Sister Mary William, hospital administrator, explained.

The year's residency here is considered part of the educational program. Both Sisters remain students at St. Louis University during the training after which they receive the Masters Degree upon completion and certification of the course.

Prisoner in Maryland Gets Out the Hard Way

BALTIMORE (AP)—Doyle Delmar Royal, serving 20 years for holdups and auto thefts, got out of the Maryland Penitentiary the hard way.

The 21-year-old prisoner slipped away from a work detail and climbed 60 feet up a rain spout when it evidently broke. He fell to a macadam roadway and ended up in University Hospital with two broken legs, a fractured jaw and possible head and internal injuries.

Argentine Elections Predicted for Late '57

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Provisional President Pedro Aramburu scheduled a nationwide broadcast tonight and there were predictions he would announce a date for Argentina's first elections since ex-dictator Juan D. Peron was ousted.

Aramburu will speak after the armed forces dinner which traditionally precedes Argentine Independence Day.

The military-backed caretaker regime has been ruling by decree since the uprising which toppled Peron last September. Aramburu has vowed his sole goal was to eliminate Peron's influence, clean up election machinery and otherwise prepare Argentina for democratic elections.

Most Buenos Aires newspapers predicted Aramburu would set the election date for late in 1957.

Challenging Jobs

Volunteers Directing Girl Scout Operations

By JANET ODELL

One thousand volunteers paid their own way to come to the Senior Girl Scout Roundup at Highland Recreation area. They are the adults who are chaperoning and supervising the 5,000 girls in their first national encampment. They are the behind-the-scene workers, many of whom put in 12 to 16 hours a day.

They have varied backgrounds. Many are professional Girl Scout workers in their home communities. A good number are leaders of Scout troops. Still others are board members of local councils. In some cases, several members of a family are working at the camp.

Their jobs are challenging and varied. Take, for example, Mrs. Melvin Title of Hartford, Conn. She says she was "just a housewife" until she volunteered for service at Roundup.

NAMED DIRECTOR

About two years ago she was made director of food services. Now, after months of preparation, she still works long hours to keep the supplies of food flowing into camp and into the hands of the girls in a smooth and orderly fashion. She is responsible for about $100,000 worth of food.

One of her assistants is Alice Sanderson. Miss Sanderson is the homemaking adviser on the National Girl Scout staff. At the Roundup she spends her days visiting the food check-out areas and doing an expediting job.

Mrs. Henry Cooper of Denver, Colo., was trained as a bookkeeper. When she volunteered for two weeks in Michigan, she also was assigned to the food staff. Her job includes such details as ordering a ton of beef! "I'm going to take a copy of some of these orders home. Otherwise, people will never believe me when I tell them what I did at Roundup."

Florence Cochran of Terre Haute, Ind., is the local Girl Scout executive in that city. At Roundup she is a mail clerk. It's just the kind of job she wanted, one that would get her around with the girls, but one without too much responsibility.

Some 60 or more volunteers from the Pontiac area are known as the Commuter group. They serve as clerks in the Trading Post and attendants in the Snack Bar. Some work for just one day. Others are on duty for several days. Mrs. Evelyn Copeland, executive director of the Northern Oakland County Council, is a member of the Commuter group.

A similar group comes from Southern Oakland County and Wayne County each day. They act as hostesses and tour guides.

Tent City Engulfed in Highland's Vastness

Expect Approval of German Draft

Critical Third Reading of Compulsory Service Bill Begun

BONN (INS)—The West German Parliament began today the critical third reading of a compulsory military service bill which will determine whether free Germany rearms on a large scale.

* * *

Pushed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who returned to Bonn last night from Rome, the draft bill appeared assured of approval from the Bundestag.

Adenauer met with his coalition leaders before the final debate began to coordinate his majority line.

He will deliver the keynote address outlining major arguments in favor of the bill, particularly that approval is necessary before Germany can fulfill it commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

MASS WALKOUT

While the outcome of the debate appeared to be a foregone conclusion, both government and opposition leaders expressed concern which resulted in a mass walkout by the opposition.

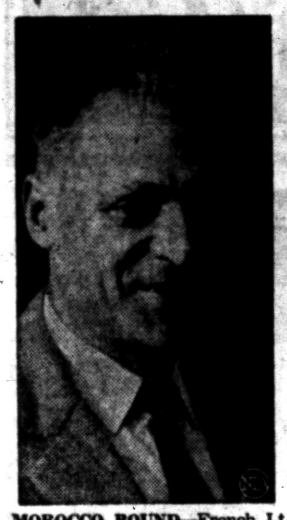

There was some fear that a major parliamentary difference over the draft bill might split the nation.

If the bill passes its third reading today, it still must go before the upper house which would consider it at a special session in two weeks' time.

After that the government would have a green light to establish machinery for the first draft since Hitler's day.

* * *

Drafting of some 360,000 young Germans would not begin, however, until their length of service was agreed upon after the parliamentary recess ends in late September.

Fried Chicken Delights Sight After 40 Years

In these words 66-year-old Lester C. Crismon of nearby Whitsett described the joys of being able to see again after 40 years of blindness.

Blinded in 1916 by iritis, an inflammation of the iris of the eye, Crismon, a farmer, lived in the world of the blind until an operation two weeks ago at Wesley Long Hospital here.

"It was the red-checked table cloth I saw first," Crismon told a reporter yesterday. "It was on the kitchen table and I could see the red and the green and the white in it. It was a Christmas present. And then I saw the green trees and cars going by the house."

Crismon is looking forward to four things. He wants to play baseball with his 10-year-old grandson, to take the youngster fishing, to see the sun rise again, and to throw away his white cane. It has served its purpose.

Wherever You Are, Happy Birthday!

Cheers, Gator -- It Was Just a Year Ago

* * *

One year ago today, boats full of perspiring newsmen criss-crossed the Bloomfield Township lagoon where Mrs. William O. Singleton and her son, Danny, 5, reported seeing the alligator.

It was the start of a glorious adventure — one that brightened the summer pages of papers during hot, dull days, and vented the pent-up imagination of reporters and editors.

Mrs. Singleton told reporters, "I've seen plenty of alligators while vacationing in Florida and Louisiana, and I'd judge by his head that the body would be six or seven feet long."

* * *

She had doubted the possibility of such a creature in this area when her son first reported spotting the 'gator swimming, but later saw it herself.

Then the mushrooming began.

Alligator experts loomed on all sides. A 'gator wrestler from Sarnia brought his sparring-mate, a toothsome seven-foot female alligator, Called Agnes, she was to lure the local menace from its hiding place.

The charms of Agnes were ignored, as were the dead chickens that some reporters towed behind their boats.

Final Traffic Death Count

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's one-day observance of Fourth of July brought violent death to 253 persons—137 of them in traffic accidents.

There was one fireworks death, in Wyoming. This matched the single fireworks death of 1955.

The traffic toll, which has been on the increase for 15 consecutive months, was higher than forecast.

The National Safety Council estimated in advance there might be 130 such deaths but expressed the hope the total could be held to 80.

Local Youth Thrill to Real Indian

Over 500 area children took advantage of an opportunity to meet a real Indian chief when they turned out to see and talk with Sioux Chief Red Fox during his two-day appearance at Tom's Market on Orchard Lake Avenue last week.

One of the visitors, 10-year-old Alicia G. Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller of 2487 Parcells Circle, had glowing comments on her conversation with him.

"I liked him. It was the first time I had been right up close to one," she exclaimed. Alicia said she had seen Indians on a visit to California but none like this as she went on to describe the attractive headdress and costume worn by Red Fox.

The local appearance was part of a tour being made by the chief in connection with a meat packing firm he represents. His colorful career has also included movie making in the early days of Hollywood and appearances with the Buffalo's Bill's Wild Circus.

Chief Red Fox is a proud descendant of Crazy Horse, one of the Sioux Chiefs who planned the famous massacre of General Custer at the Little Big Horn.

History books have always mentioned Sitting Bull as being the instrumental figure behind that battle but the Pontiac visitor told listeners Sitting Bull was only the medicine man at the time.

He explained that Crazy Horse and others were never questioned about the incident because they later fled to Canada.

Indian leaders are made, not born, according to Red Fox. He was elected to his title of Oglala-Sioux in 1904 and was made Fifth Indian District representative. Red Fox points out there are 54 such representative chieftains.

Red Fox was born in the Dakotas in 1870 and saw that territory become South Dakota at the age of 19. His home is now known as Pine Ridge Reservation, one of 10 reservations housing 38,000 Indians in the state.

The well-traveled and learned Indian attended Indian School in Carlisle, Pa., and later served in the government's Indian Department at Washington, D. C.

You're a Winner If You Got All of Them

Pot Spills Solution to 5th Puzzle

1. STEP is right. A difficult STEP (some move in business or life which presents you with a problem if it does not succeed) requires very careful thought. As for a pest, if you think of proceeding with one (accompanying, or doing business, with one), you must realize immediately that it is inadvisable. If it is a pest in an animal sense, then you would get an expert to handle the case for you, without having to think twice about.

2. WIG is right. While a wag, or consistent humorist, may now and then be guilty of causing laughter inadvertently, it would be wrong to say that this happens "often." A WAG intends to provoke laughter and devotes himself to this cause. A wig, by its very nature, can provoke laughter inadverently, as it has a tendency to be obviously a wig, to fall off, to lie askew, etc.

3. BOOT is right. It is not considered "specially constructed" if a boat is really waterproof. We have a right to expect every boat to have this quality. A BOOT (not all BOOTS need be rubber; many are leather), need not be guaranteed waterproof.

4. HACK is right. A jack (or jack-of-all-trades) need not be underpaid just because he is proficient in many fields. Some people are so versatile that they can do excellent work in a variety of different jobs. A HACK, however, is an ordinary uninspired workers, a mere drudge: such a person, doing odd jobs, won't get paid very much.

5. CLOD is right. Having patience with a cold is not "dealing with it." To deal with a cold you must treat yourself, as by going to bed, taking medicine, or following some program to combat its effects. You can deal with a CLOD or stupid fellow, by having patience. Impatience would certainly confuse and rattle a CLOD, to whom learning and doing do not come easily.

6. FREE is right. Oranges can be given away for a variety of reasons in certain places. At a company picnic, oranges and other food are given away to hundreds of workers and their families. In such a circumstance the oranges are FREE in a particular place, where they are given away. Because this may happen in a part of the country where oranges do not grow, they cannot be rife or prevalent there. Where oranges are rife is orange grove country: if oranges are raised for profit they must certainly not be FREE.

7. DIG is right. To dog is to follow something or someone that is on the move, and do this persistently. Ruined cities do not move around. To dog does not mean to haunt, or to frequent persistently. If archaeologists haunted ruined cities persistently they might well have a particular find in mind. If they DIG, then they are following their usual procedure, and are ready for any kind of find.

8. BOIL is right. It is an understatement to call the means to bail water rapidly a convenience on a small boat. Small boats ship water easily and provision for rapid bailing is most essential; either adequate containers or a pump. If a small boat had cooking facilities it would really be a great convenience.

9. TAR is right. The word "possible" in our definition implies that a doubt may exist. If there is doubt about a ship's sinking, for instance, a rat would not be involved. A TAR's reasons for leaving a ship suddenly are so varied that this suggestion of doubt points to TAR as the word to choose. A RAT will certainly leave a ship if it is sinking, if it's on fire, and no question of doubts will ever influence a rat. Only humans have actions that can be interpreted in ways suggesting doubt or speculation.

10. COP is right. In order to be a COP, or policeman, a man must have a good record. That is, he was on the straight and narrow path before he became a cop; his position should be a strong influence to keep him there. A con, or convict, may be obliged to stick to the straight and narrow while in the hands of the law. But the word "keep" implies that he was on the path before and is going to stay there. This makes it COP, not con.

11. RAKE is right. A person can be a fake without being dangerous to society. One who poses as an artist or actor, for example, will be more of an object of ridicule when he is found out. In any event, he harms only himself with his childish pose. A RAKE, or unscrupulous ladies' man, will surely be an object of reproach when he is discovered to trifle with people's affections.

12. SLUMP is right. If a business goes through a big SLUMP, it is quite normal for many people to place the blame at the door of the executives, saying that executive policy has caused the SLUMP. The word plums does not go well with the words "accused of being responsible for (them)." The executives may be accused of keeping the plums (choice jobs) for themselves; but not of being responsible for the plums in the way they can be accused of being responsible for a SLUMP, or bad times.

13. FINE is right. A FINE needle is so thin that use has a tendency to make it bend and stay bent. This doesn't always happen, as some FINE needles retain their straightness. The word "may" implies this possibility. Fine needles always curve or bend as they dry out.

14. FALL is right. As long as certain people work at night, or are presumed to be available at night for an emergency, it would not be startling for anybody (and anybody must include such people) to have a sudden call in the dead of night. However, it would startle anybody at all to have a sudden (a totally unexpected) FALL in the dead of night or any other time.

15. BANK is right. An airplane BANK is a maneuver that tilts the plane out of the horizontal position, and this may give the passenger an uneasy feeling since his balance is disturbed.. There is no reason why a passenger should not find great comfort in a modern airplane's bunk or sleeping quarters.

16. MASCOT is right. It ought to be obvious that a person who chooses a tomcat does so because he likes cats, and probably prefers a male because of the problem of kittens. This is too narrow a choice to be covered by the phrase "prefer a spirited animal." A person who chooses a MASCOT, an animal symbol or real animal, knows it must represent a group or organization; and thus a spirited animal is a most likely choice.

Swiss Climbers Arrive to Help

Scalers Reach UAL Crash

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (AP) — Two Colorado mountaineers, ferried to a tiny ledge above the Colorado River in a daring helicopter flight, today were to resume their hazardous probe of the shattered remains of a United Air Lines DC7.

• • •

The big airliner slammed into a desolate promontory in the Grand Canyon last Saturday, presumably after colliding in the air with a TWA Super Constellation. The disaster took 128 lives and was the worst in commercial aviation history.

Due here today to aid in the job of recovering bodies of the crash victims and bringing out wreckage are eight Swiss mountain climbers flown from Zurich.

• • •

David Lewis and Raymond M. Batson, members of the Rocky Mountain rescue group, were dropped off on the ridge yesterday as seven newsmen watched from across the canyon. One miscalculation during the landing might have meant a crash into the bank of the river 1,100 feet below.

• • •

Capt. Walter Spriggs of Smackover, Ark., pilot of the helicopter, said the breeze was ideal, but admitted he was wary of the wind swirling out of crevices in the canyon. "That disturbs our blood," he said after the risky flight.

United Air Lines reported that Lews and Batson collected the bodies of seven victims. The two climbers spent the night on the tiny ledge.

Wreckage brought out from the DC7 crash site appeared to strengthen the commonly held belief that the two planes had collided in flight.

There was a large piece of engine cowling identified by a UAL engineer as part of a Douglas aircraft, the type used by United, and a small red and white scrap of aluminum.

A TWA spokesman said the markings on the small piece were similar to those on his company's planes. The United engineer said he didn't know what the other piece was.

• • •

Justin Bowersox, aviation editor of the Kansas City Star, said the engine cowling and the red and white scrap were "wedged together" when they were unloaded from a helicopter after being removed from the canyon. He interpreted this as evidence that the two planes had collided.

Starts Mosquito War

JACKSON (AP) —Commissioner Leonard F. Dubus has started action to have the city sprayed by air to get rid of mosquitoes. He said the spraying has been successful in other cities, including Lansing, which sprays every season. Dubus asked the city commission to study the problem and the commission said it would make inquiries in Lansing.

Fine Irish Trio Reunites for 'The Wings of Eagles'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — That fine old Irish threesome, John Wayne, John Ford and Maureen O'Hara, is together again. The red-headed Maureen steps in as the femme lead in "The Wings of Eagles," the Ford picture for MGM which also has Dan Dailey in the cast.

Maureen plays the wife of Frank (Spig) Wead, the hero who was overlooked during his lifetime but who was one of the earliest advocates for Naval air power.

Every time these Irishers get together, it's lucky. The team made "How Green Was My Valley" and it won an Oscar for Ford.

They were also together for "The Quiet Man," made in Ireland, and it won accolades from the critics. All of which augurs well for this new try, begorra and begosh.

Shades of that actress of long ago—Olga Nethersol, whose portrayal of "Sappho" was her most famous role. Now Gina Lollobrigida and her husband, Dr. Miklo Skorfic, have chosen Alphonse Daudet's French classic for one of their independent pictures.

The story of Fanny Legrand, the famous courtesan who posed for a statue of Sappho and was the beloved of poets, sculptors and artists, was first published in 1884 and has been dramatized for the stage.

As the older women who gives up everything for the love of a young student, Gina will have a role that out-Ambers "Forever Amber."

REAL COMEDIENNE

I saw Virginia Gray at a party a few nights ago and I was reminded anew of what a wonderful sense of humor she has for a beauty who looks so fragile and dainty. Virginia can really hold her own with the best of the comics.

But she was quite serious when she told me, "At last I'm getting the part I've been waiting for—that of a shady lady charged with murder in 'Accused of Murder' at Republic."

She says that they want David Brian for the male lead—but so far the contract isn't signed. I'm glad Virginia is getting the breaks—couldn't happen to a nicer girl.

I am delighted at the way Buster Keaton looks these days. He paid me a visit at our staff luncheon last week and brought me a hat trimmed in film from one of his first pictures and a stop watch.

I told Buster we were all praying for him a few months ago when he was so ill and they thought he didn't have a chance.

He laughed and said, "You know what saved me, don't you? The producer of 'The Buster Keaton Story' came down to the hospital and said, 'Come on, get up Buster—there's $50,000 waiting for you. We want you to coach Donald O'Connor and act as technical adviser'."

'BUS STOP' RAVES

"Bus Stop" was previewed at Long Beach, and the audience cards gladdened the souls of all concerned.

As for Marilyn M. Miller, I'm told the little Monroe has never been as good. If the Strasberg school can do for her what apparently has been done in this picture, then it's obviously as good as everybody says.

Camera Brings Woes for Wilson in Russia

TBILISI—I got arrested in Joseph Stalin's hometown for taking pictures of people queued up for milk and meat.

But the police were very courteous. After detaining me in the little station-house with the big red flag on it for what seemed like years but was probably ten minutes, we shook hands and wished each other friendship.

In fact, it was the nicest arrest I ever had.

I'd come here to Tbilisi—which, by coincidence, means Warm Springs and is in Georgia—to see the colorful country where Stalin was a theological student.

STALIN

About 8 a. m. I strolled over to "Collective Farm Square" wearing a clever disguise consisting of a camera and lightmeter around my neck.

We'd been unable to get any milk for our porridge at the hotel, and I'd erroneously thought there might be a milk shortage.

So when I saw a truck unloading cans of milk for a waiting crowd I figured this would be a brilliant shot as it would prove milk was plentiful.

Producing my passport I murmured, "Americaneske."

I was within my rights. I'd been told I could photograph anything except docks and defense projects.

I was plenty scared. We were in the Middle East 750 miles east of Istanbul, where even a Diners Club card isn't good and the officer was elbowing me to the station-house.

He turned me down a dark alley and the tremor within me became an earthquake.

Suddenly a door opened. I stumbled through it.

The door closed behind me. I was alone at last with a dozen Russian police.

I began yelling, "Hotel Intourist." The arresting officer began yelling. I thought I'd had it.

At this critical moment a man with a red cap swung in and proclaimed to all concerned something that probably could be translated: "Let him go in the name of friendship."

The arresting officer led me out the door and waved to the crowd to break it up. Then I rushed right back to the hotel without taking any more pictures. Photography had sort of lost its appeal to me.

Later on a trip to the village of Gori, Stalin's birthplace, I got an insight into the milk situation. The cows and goats actually wear bras. That's so the milk supply can be protected from the calves and baby goats and be saved for the public. It's a Russian invention that I've never seen in America.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N.Y. . . .

Phil Silvers turned down $10,000 to play a round of golf and do one show in Syracuse. He explained, "It's my vacation, and besides, what can I do with the money—in my tax bracket!" . . . Tito to Assume Buffer Position

Campaign to Establish 'Third Power' Between East, West Expected

By HERB ALTSCHULL

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Western diplomats predicted today Yugoslavia's President Tito will soon launch an ambitious campaign to set up a potent third force between the East and West.

* * *

These sources said reports from Belgrade indicate Tito already has begun the preliminaries for such a grouping. He has scheduled conferences this month with Asian and Middle East leaders that are expected to center on cold war problems.

According to Tito's own statements, a third force would work on two basic principles:

1. It would be "neutral" in the sense it would be part of no bloc and would take orders from no one, but it would arm itself to protect its independence.

2. It would practice peaceful "active coexistence" with both ends of the Moscow-Washington pole and attempt to mediate the East-West differences that started the cold war.

* * *

In what is considered a campaign kickoff, Tito has invited the chiefs of state of two prominent neutralist countries — India and Egypt — to a series of conferences at his Adriatic island retreat of Brioni in mid-July.

SOME ANSWER—Actress Diana Dors, billed as Britain's answer to Marilyn Monroe, is now in this country. She's Hollywood-bound, where she'll co-star in a movie with comedian George Gobel.

Video Actress Wins Divorce From Actor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television actress Jean Howell, 28, has won a divorce from Larry Thor, 39, actor-announcer, on the assertion that he was seldom sober during their four-month marriage.

She testified in Superior Court that Thor, among other things, went to sleep on the floor while dinner guests were at their Malibu home, went to sleep under a neighbor's piano, and took a monkey to a bar and to work with him.

Two Prospectors Seeking Way to Claim Wreck

CEDAR BREAKS, Utah (AP)—As two uranium prospectors were standing and admiring the view in southern Utah's Cedar Breaks National Monument, their station wagon, trailer and drilling rig rolled over the rim of the jagged canyon. It came to rest some 475 feet down.

* * *

Now Vernon P. Parker and Earl Anderson are trying to figure out how to reclaim the wreckage. The park service says it must come out. It's against the law to leave it there.

"We had just gotten out of the jeep to take pictures," Parker says, "when Earl yelled that the outfit was moving. I turned around and made a grab for the door as the jeep went by but couldn't get it open. I had to let the whole thing go over the edge."

Tax Cut in Bonn?

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany's lower house of Parliament has approved a bill reducing income taxes 10 per cent for lower income groups and 5½ per cent for those in the higher brackets. The bill now goes to the upper house, where it faces strong opposition.

Maintain Good Healthy Lawn

Weed Killing Program Necessary, Says City Parks Supervisor

By WILLIAM AHO
Parks Supervisor
Parks and Recreation Department

Years ago growing a weed free lawn meant endless hours of back breaking work. Today we don't have to pull weeds by hand because modern science has given us chemicals to rid our lawns of competitive grass growth. The chemicals are relatively cheap and easy to apply.

The best means of combating weed growth is to maintain a healthy growth of grass which will crowd out the weeds.

Proper maintenance such as aerifying and fertilizing is the first step in weed control. If weds have invaded your lawn, then it's time to start your weed spraying program.

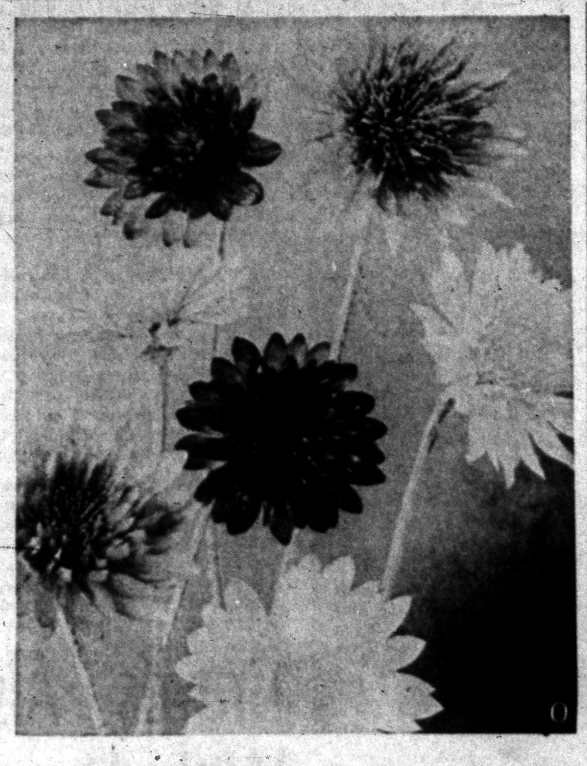

The most common chemical used on weeds is 2-4-D. There are others on the market such as the grandular form which is applied the same way as fertilizer.

Weed control chemicals kill weeds by changing their life processes and are available in different concentrated forms. Always check the manufacturer's direction on the label for the correct rate of application.

2-4-D will kill most of the broadleaf weeds without harming the grass. Always keep in mind that weed killers will kill shrubbery, flowers, vegetables, etc. so be very careful when applying the chemical. As as precautionary measure you can protect your plants by covering them with an old sheet or burlap prior to spraying.

You may spray weeds from spring to fall. A good idea is to apply the chemical in the spring or early summer and again in late summer or early fall.

If bare spots have developed in your lawn due to weed control, broadcast seed in the areas in August or September. If you don't, the weeds will take over again.

EVERLASTING CORNFLOWER — Here is an example of a neglected flower, Xeranthemum, easier called Everlasting Cornflower, that could become a garden favorite with proper handling. It is one of the very best flowers for dried winter bouquets, holding color and form all winter long.

Recipe Makes Possible Lasting Rose Garden

The fragrance of your lovelist roses will serve you long after their full life in the garden if you use this pecipe for rose petals.

Gather roses early in the morning and spread the petals out on a cool table to dry. Put a half inch layer of the dry petals into a one gallon lidded stone or china jar. Then add a very thin layer of salt.

Continue in this manner alternating the two until the jar is half full. Store the jar in a cool dark place for 10 days and stir the mixture each morning.

After 10 days, transfer the mixture from the jar to another container and grind and mix together an ounce each of cloves, allspice and stick cinnamon. Scatter some of the spices in the bottom of the jar from which you removed the petals and then put in a layer of the rose petal mixture.

Continue alternating until both are used up. Now set the jar in a cool dark place for three weeks.

In three weeks the stock is properly aged and ready for the final steps. Mix together ¼ ounce each of mace, allspice and cloves all coarsely ground, ½ a nutmeg, grated, ½ ounce cinnamon, one ounce powdered orris root and four ounces dried lavender flowers.

Fill the jar with alternate layers of the stock and this last mixture and pack firmly. Get a small vial of rose oil from the druggist and put a few drops on each layer.

Finally add an ounce of cologne to the entire mixture or in proper proportion to the size of the jar you are using.

A gallon crock half filled with salted petals will produce enough mixture to fill two quart jars allowing a space of about one inch at the top of each jar.

This space is essential, no matter what the size of the jar. To perfume the house, leave the lid off the jar for half an hour or so at regular intervals.

Sow Columbines Now

Time now to sow seed for next yera's columbines. Plant them in a seed-bed of fine soil, an eighth of an inch deep. They sometimes take a month to germinate. Once established, however, the plants seed themselves handsomely.

Gardens Will Suffer During Vacations

Gardeners who take mid-summer vacations have a recognized problem on their hands. "What's going to happen to the garden while we're gone?"

The best way to make sure the lawn gets mowed is to have a working agreement with one of your neighbors. You take care of his lawn on his vacation and vice versa.

You Can Be Overly Kind to Your Vegetable Garden

If the soil was well prepared in early spring with time, organic matter and fertilizer worked in ahead of planting, more harm than good can come from repeated side-dressing the growing plants with the average commericial fertilizer or one of the many highly advertised compounds "guaranteed to promote amazing growth."

When the weather is really dry, do a thorough watering job. Soak the ground to a depth of three or four inches. Then wait a week before applying water again.

Early blight, late blight ad septoria leaf blight are among the maladies that may lay your tomato crop low. And a dozen or more insect pests may do almost as much damage.

Sprays, Dusts Need Gardener's Check

WASHINGTON (INS) — Many all-purpose sprays and dusts have been developed for home garden use since the end of World War II.

These materials, according to the Federal Extension Service, are generally designed to control the most common garden pests, which include red spiders, chewing insects, rust, leaf spots and mildew.

Manufacturers of all-purpose dusts and sprays list the contents of their product on the package. The ingredients, however, officials caution, should be checked by the home gardener to insure the kinds of control they want.

In dusts, one of the better new all-purpose combinations is made up of malathion, DDT, captan, and karathane. However, other combinations do provide control. Experts say an all-purpose dust should contain at least one of the insecticides and fungicides listed in each category to control the most troublesome pests and diseases.

From the Garden Editor

Unusual bugs in the garden of Mrs. Herman Dennis, 168 E. Huron, have caused quite a bit of interest in the neighborhood and at the Oakland County Cooperative Extension service.

The offending members of her garden dine profusely on dead foliage of plants such as tulips. They have red bodies and black wings.

Mrs. Dennis says that the Cooperative Extension men said the bugs might be box elder larvae, but they didn't know for sure.

* * *

We had a call this week from a woman who wanted to know what commercial product comes nearest to good compost. She just doesn't have the room for a compost pile.

Our research discovered that a mixture of peat moss and processed dry manure added to the soil in equal parts will give a good substitute for compost.

Use DDT or Lead Arsenate to Kill Japanese Beetle

Lead arsenate and DDT are recommended for the control of destructive Japanese beetles. If they are particularly numerous they may also be dispatched by hand.

The easiest method of hand control for the squeamish gardener is a coffee can partly filled with water and a few drips of heavy oil to cover its surface.

The beetles drop easily into the can if the gardener makes the rounds in the evening when the beetles are sluggish.

Combine Lilies, Delphiniums

Yucca, Climbing Roses Reign in Tubbs Road Home

In bloom when we visited Mrs. Tubbs were delphiniums and Madonna lilies. The contrasting blues and purples of the delphinium formed an interesting background for the lilies.

Also in bloom were the Canterbury bells. Just about to blossom were several Yucca plants.

The desert-like Yucca has long been a mystery. Gardeners have tried to discover how it has become so widely distributed throughout the north as it is a Mexcan plant.

Mrs. Tubbs admits that keeping such a garden in good condition is a full time job. She spends all day every day working with the thousands of plants in her garden.

In addition to her active garden work, Mrs. Tubbs is a member of the Michigan Horticultural Society, Better Homes and Gafdens and Dirt Gardeners.

Defined by Association

Know the difference between a tree and a shrub? A tree usually is a woody plant over 10 feet tall, with a single stem and definite crown of leaves, says the National Arborist Association.

A shrub usually is less than 15 feet tall, with several or more stems and no definite crown.

Tigers Snap Home Jinx to Beat Tribe, 13-7

DETROIT (AP) — Two down-the-middle pitches cost Frank Lary seven runs, but the plucky little righthander from Alabama rode out the storm and brought a pair of unglorious streaks to a halt.

A 13-7 thumping of Cleveland's Indians yesterday gave the Detroit Tigers their first triumph at home in 16 contests and ended Lary's five-game losing streak.

The 25-year-old "little bulldog" was off to a slow start this season and when he defeated Kansas City on May 27 it was just his third win against five losses. He whipped New York four days later, 6-3, and was bearing down on the even-up mark when his pitching fell apart.

Since the Yankee victory, Lary failed to win or complete a game. Yesterday it looked like more of the same from the very beginning. After retiring the first batter, an error, a hit batsman and a walk loaded the bases. Then Jim Busby, a .220 hitter, sent a 3-2 pitch over the fence and the Tigers were four runs down and had to face Bob Lemon, one of the league's finest pitchers.

Al Kaline started it with a double. Then came singles by Ray Boone, Frank House, Bill Tuttle and Frank Bolling. The Indians called in reliever Art Houtteman, who promptly walked Lary to load the bases.

* * *

In the third inning it was more of the same as the Tigers belted out ex-teammate Houtteman. A pair of passes and an error loaded the bases, and Lary responded with a ground single bringing in two more runs. Kuenn unloaded his seventh home run off the third Indian pitcher, Cal McLish, to score three runs and make it 11-4.

Bolling, the service returnee who has hit near .300 since joining the Tigers a few weeks ago, singled across the 12th run in the fourth behind a double by House. Consecutive singles by Lary, Kuenn and Torgeson produced the final Detroit run in the seventh.

Lary served up another home run pitch to Al Rosen in the Indian 6th after walking Al Smith and Vic Wertz. Cleveland had just three other hits in addition to the home runs by Rosen and Busby.

* * *

Every man in the Detroit lineup hit safely, with Kuenn, Maxwell, House, Bolling and Lary getting two apiece.

The Tigers open a four-game series in Chicago tonight, and will have to face Harty Marion's aces—Jack Harshman, Dick Donovan, Billy Pierce and Jim Wilson.

Virgil Trucks will open the series for manager Bucky Harris. Billy Hoeft and Paul Foytack also will start and Harris said that Ned Garver, who hasn't started a game since the opening week of the season, may draw one of the assignments.

Garver said yesterday his arm still stiffens up when he first starts throwing but added he probably could start one of the games in Chicago.

Recreation programs in area communities are starting and ending. Bloomfield Hills, trying to get its program started for the first time, was forced to cancel the activities because of lack of participants.

"We started the program too late and too many families had already made their vacation plans which were conflicting with our dates," said Don Hoff, High School Athletic Director.

TIPPING HIS HAT — Frank Lary, Detroit Tiger pitcher is not really tipping his hat to the umpire in yesterday's game against Cleveland at Briggs Stadium. Lary holds on to the cap as he slides into home on Charlie Maxwell's hit. Detroit snapped a 15-game home jinx, 13-7.

Braves Also Plagued With Home Park Jinx

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Their own County Stadium, of all places, is fast becoming a "jinx" park for the Milwaukee Braves, who take over the National League lead on the road, then fall flat at home.

* * *

The Braves lost their grasp on first place again last night in a 7-1 defeat by the Chicago Cubs. It was the 12th defeat in their last 18 games at home (where they have only a 14-14 season mark) and shoved the Milwaukees 3 percentage points behind the Cincinnati Redlegs, who were idle.

What's more, the defeat left the Braves only 3 points ahead of the third-place Brooklyn Dodgers, who were rained out at New York in the only other NL game scheduled.

* * *

In their last home stand, the Braves lost 10 of 15 and tumbled from first to fifth before catching fire with an 11-game winning streak on the road. Now they've lost two of three on the current home stand.

An even worse home record came to an end in the American League as the Detroit Tigers — who had gone through 15 games without a victory at Briggs Stadium — laid the wood to Cleveland and Bob Lemon to win 13-7 and put the third-place Indians 5½ games behind first-place New York.

The sixth-place Cubs, who have taken six of their last nine, including 3-of-4 from the Braves, socked Milwaukee and Ray Crone with five runs after two were out in the seventh inning. Eddie Miksis' eighth homer started the uprising as six straight hits snapped a 1-1 tie. Don Hoak and Dee Fondy each had RBI doubles in the big frame while Gene Baker sliced a two-run single.

THE POWERHOUSE By JIMMY POWERS

Midwest golf authority reports the average American family is far healthier and much more active than a generation ago . . . "All good golf courses make a scientific survey of membership and limit it to 250 families because today an average of 4.7 persons per family uses the average club.

Grandpa, grandma, the children, wives and in-laws are unusually active, loading tennis courts, fairways and pools to capacity.

"Some of the more exclusive new clubs in Texas and Oklahoma put a 200-family limit because families today are larger and the percentage of over-65 age groups tends to remain very active.

The hardship lies in junior members who are restricted to 20% in most clubs. They are forced to branch out and, like their fathers, organize their own new layouts.

"This, in the long run, expands facilities in a community instead of overloading current ones of long standing."

GENERAL MANAGER KEYMAN OF BALL CLUB

"Occasionally, managers will come along like Bobby Bragan and Fred Haney and enjoy a spurt of success. Their winning percentages may even extend over several seasons, but the key man is the general manager whose function today is to correlate, supervise and discipline farm heads, scouts, and the big varsity team.

"He must prune even winning combinations, insert young blood and anticipate the inroads of age. He must see that morale is high. He must be a wise trader. The Yankees are so fortunate to have the all-time best—George Weiss."

A graphic indication of the economic growth of thoroughbred racing in recent years is found in the roster of leading money-winning horses now topped by two millionaires, Nashua and Citation.

Ten years ago, Whirlaway appeared safe at the top of the list with earnings of $561,161. This led the No. 2 horse, First Fiddle by $177,066. Today an even dozen horses have passed Whirlaway.

Aussies Rule Wimbledon

U.S. Netters Ousted

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — American tennis prestige was at a new low today.

For only the seventh time since big Bill Tilden whipped Wilmer Allison in 1930, there's not an American in the finals of the men's singles of the All-England championships today. Its strictly an Australian affair with Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad matching strokes for the title won last year by America's Tony Trabert, now a pro.

* * *

The situation in the women's singles isn't much brighter. It'll be Shirley Fry, 29-year-old Akron, Ohio, veteran now living in St. Petersburg, Fla., against Britain's attractive Angela Buxton tomorrow.

The entry of Miss Buxton into the finals marks the first time a British girl has reached the final round since the equally attractive Kay Stammers lost to America's Alice Marble in 1939. Ever since the finals have been an all-American duel.

A year ago Louise Brough won the women's title but she dropped out of the picture yesterday when Miss Fry turned back the Beverly Hills, Calif., veteran 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

America's hopes of placing a man in the finals were squelched by Hoad. He easily defeated Ham Richardson, Oxford student from Westfield, N.J., 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4. On Thursday Rosewall sidelined Vic Seixas of Philadelphia in five sets.

* * *

Richardson lost no time booking air passage for home. He said he would wed Mary Ann Kennington in New Orleans July 20 and then return to Oxford to continue his studies.

The United States, however, was still strongly represented in the doubles.

Althea Gibson of New York, who lost out in her bid to be the first Negro to win a Wimbledon singles title, still was in the women's and mixed doubles.

She was paired with Miss Buxton against Miss Fry and Miss Brough in the semifinals of the women's tandem competition today and teamed with veteran Gardnar Mulloy of Denver, Colo., in the semis of the mixed competition. Their opponents were Trever Fancutt, South Africa, and Daphne Seeney, Australia.

St. Thomas Oldtimers Come Here on Sunday

Pontiac's International Oldtimers league nine tangles Sunday with a Canadian club, in a home game at Wisner Field.

Manager Bud Leslie reports that George Bone, former ace city Class A league right hander, will start for the Pontiac club. He had no information as to St. Thomas' mound choice.

Sunday's game is set for 2 p.m. Pontiac players are requested to report not later than 1 p.m.

Dryden 9 Gets Field

Big Day for 'Outlaws'

A new baseball diamond will be initiated Saturday afternoon in Dryden.

Tomorrow at 2 o'clock the Dryden Outlaws, a Little League baseball team, will play the Oxford Yankees in the inaugural game on their recently-formed field.

The Outlaws, consisting of boys 7 through 12 years old, are unbeaten after four games under the leadership of manager Paul Hilliker. They have conquered Attica, Oxford Red Sox, Oxford White Sox and Leonard—all away from home.

Unable to schedule any games in their own back yard because no field was available, the Dryden little leaguers were forced to play in foreign pastures. But that was before last week-end when interested civic leaders swung into action.

Walter Hagle started the ball rolling by donating a plot of ground in the Atwell sub-division on Dryden's south side for use as a playing field.

Aided by cash donations from Dryden businessmen and with the boys themselves furnishing some of the labor, other citizens of the community went to work. A backstop was erected, bleachers and benches were built, and the field was readied for play.

So tomorrow is a special day in Dryden. The Outlaws now have a baseball diamond of their own.

DBC Wins Top Rowing Honors

Takes 82nd National Event, Other Awards at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Detroit Boat Club returns home from the 82nd National Rowing Championships with trophies symbolic of the National club championship and 1st place in the annual Fourth of July People's Regatta.

DBC's 114¾ points in the rowing championships brought the Julius H. Barnes trophy back to the Motor City for the 1st time since 1952.

The Anthony Gallagher Memorial Cup, top prize in the annual Fourth of July regatta on the Schuylkill River, went to DBC with 292 points.

Young Golfers Eye Kazoo, Seek State Jaycee Crown

A 12-man delegation, six representing Pontiac and the remainder bearing the Waterford standard, will invade Kalamazoo Monday and Tuesday for the annual Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce Golf Tournament.

The Kalamazoo County Club will be the scene of the two-day tourney, with a state championship and a berth in the National Jaycee outing at stake for each boy. The national tournament is scheduled August 20-25 at Fargo, North Dakota.

Representing the Pontiac Jaycee Chapter in the state tourney will be Dick Weyand of Birmingham, Russ Porteous of Clawson, and Dick Singleton, Dick Whitmer, and Dick Crean, all of Pontiac. Ray Lovell from Birmingham is an alternate.

Waterford Jaycee golfers who will be in action at Kalamazoo are Johnny Wettlaufer, Charles Kirken, and Cleland Charboneau, all from Waterford; Frank Syron, Jr., of Pontiac, and Ed Tokarsky of Milford. Waterford's Roland Harms is the alternate player.

Each boy earned his spot in the state event by virtue of qualifying play in local Jaycee tourneys at Pontiac Municipal Golf Course and Pontiac Country Club. Weyand and Wettlaufer were medalists of their respective tournaments.

The state title winner will be determined by individual total medal over a 36-hole route, 18 holes each day. Tee-off time is 8:30 a.m. on both days.

Bennington Gets Drake Cage Job

Was Aide to Forddy Anderson for 2 Years at MSU

EAST LANSING (AP)—John E. Benington, assistant basketball coach at Michigan State University, resigned today to become head basketball coach at Drake University.

Announcement was made by Biggie Munn, MSU athletic director.

Benington, who assisted Pete Newell for four years and Forddy Anderson the past two years at State, succeeds Jack McClelland at Drake. McClelland has resigned his dual position as basketball coach and athletic director to enter private business.

Munn said Benington's vacancy will be filled by Robert L. Stevens, present freshman coach, and that a successor in the spot Stevens is relinquishing will be named later.

Benington was captain and star forward of San Francisco's National Invitational championship team of 1948-49 coached by Newell. After four years at MSU, Newell returned to the West Coast.

Lakeland Pharmacy kept on the heels of league-leading Drayton Drug with a 13-1 rout of Thrifty Drug and Emmanuel Baptist stayed well up in the pack by defeating the VFW, 4-1, in Waterford Township softball games Thursday night at the Drayton Plains ball park.

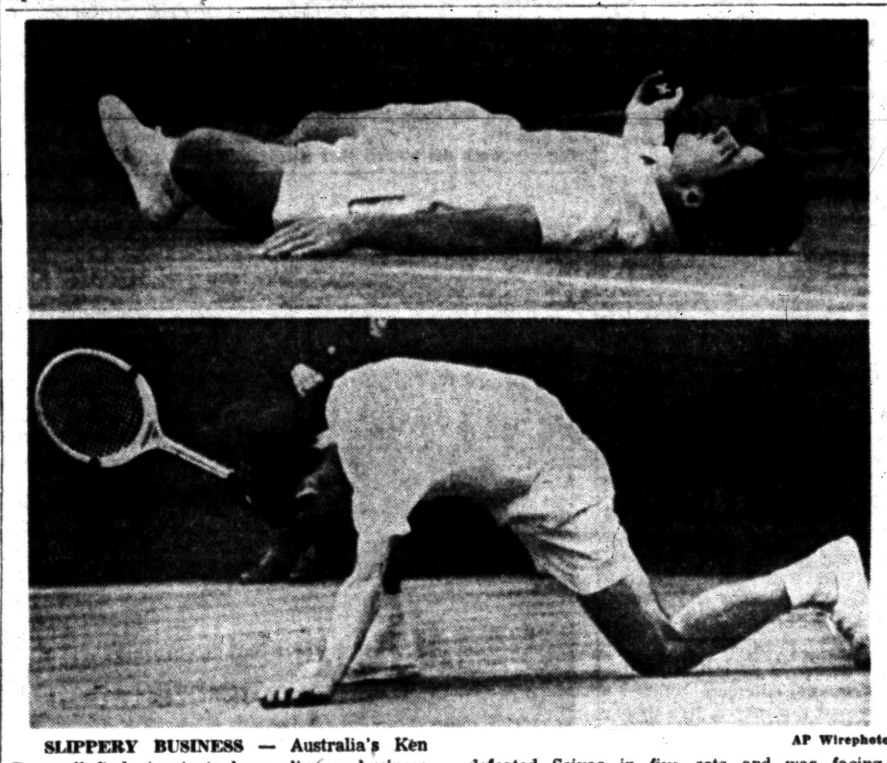

While pitcher Don Herr was effectively scattering seven safeties, Lakeland was socking a dozen hits of its own. The Pharmacy team scored in every inning but the 1st and each player tallied at least once. Newly-married Jim Long paced the attack with three hits, one a home run with two mates aboard.

The Baptist club scored all the runs it needed in the 1st inning. A walk, four errors and a single by Hodges handed Emmanuel three tallies. Harlan (Fat) Keith mowed down the opposition with one hit, a 2nd-inning single by Goff to score the VFW's lone counter.

Hoad reached the finals by eliminating the last American, Ham Richardson.

In Pinch-Hit Role

Mantle Out but Bat Ready

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle picked up a brace for his injured right knee today with the prospect of returning to action with the New York Yankees—at least in a pinch-hit role — within "two or three days."

* * *

The young slugger planned to rejoin the Yankees in Washington later today and a weekend test of the knee, injured Wednesday at Boston, will determine whether he will fill the starting role handed him by the fans for Tuesday's All-Star game in the nation's capital.

The blond, 24-year-old center fielder, bidding to break Babe Ruth's record total of 60 home runs, left the club yesterday in Boston and showed up here last night for an X-ray examination. It revealed sprained ligaments, which team physician Dr. Sydney P. Gaynor indicated were not serious. It was he who set the "two or three day" limit.

Their 7th victory in a row yesterday gave Athletics a share of the league leadership for the Federal Midget circuit, at Boys' Club field. The A's downed the Red Sox on a no-hitter by Bob Goff, 4-2.

In the other league contest of the day Tigers dropped their 4th straight to Yankees, 12-4. Dede Lufkin allowed only two hits for Tigers, and got fine sticking from Jeff Barnegul who had three hits in as many trips, for three RBIs.

Lands Five-Pounder in Own Back Yard

Russ Shade, 6135 Ashland street, Milford, didn't have to go far to get himself a big largemouth bass, last night. Casting from a dock on the Huron river, at the back edge of his property, Russ hooked and landed a five-pounder (20 inches long) on a dark jitterbug lure. A year ago he took a five-pound-13-ounce bass from the same spot.

This was his biggest bass of the season but he said today "there are even bigger ones in there."

Mixed 2-Ball Tournament Slated Saturday, July 14

The city's Mixed Two-Ball Foursome golf tournament, 2nd in a series of five summer tourneys sponsored by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, will be held Saturday, July 14, at Municipal Golf Course.

A strong field of male and female partnerships is expected for the annual alternate-shot event.

This year's shotmakers will be attempting to break the stranglehold of Glenn Harding, Pontiac insurance salesman, and Betty Sue Syron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Syron of Pontiac Country Club. Harding and Miss Syron have joined forces to win the tournament three consecutive years.

The winning team will be decided over an 18-hole distance and tee-off time is scheduled at 12 noon. Trophies will be awarded to champion and runner-up teams while golf balls go to 3rd and 4th place tandems.

Pairings and time of tee-off will be posted only for entries received by 6 p.m., Thursday, July 12. Post entries will be accepted, however.

Research Shows Lamprey Fight May Be Long One

LANSING (AP) — Conservation department says new evidence indicates that electrical fish weirs used in the lamprey control program may have to remain in place eight years to be effective.

The information jolted hopes that control could be achieved in half that time.

Lampreys stay in the Great Lakes as fish-killing adults at least one year, then migrate up inland streams and lay their eggs in gravel beds. The eggs hatch, and the young spend their larval stage in mudbanks.

Formerly, it was thought this larval stage lasted four years before the young moved downstream to continue the depredations of the species.

However, research by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the department's Institute for Fisheries Research has showed the larval stage is "at least seven to eight years and possibly longer."

That would be the length of time electrical weirs in some streams would have to stay in operation to hit all possible spawning lampreys and effectively check the predator.

Fisheries workers said the outlook is discouraging.

MISSED PUTT — Mike Souchak, American golfer, indicated the length of a short putt which he "blew" during the qualifying round of the British Open Golf Championship at Hoylake, England. Souchak had a 148 total which was enough to qualify him for today's final 36 holes.

Thomson Leads British Open

HOYLAKE, England (AP)—Defending champion Peter Thomson of Australia took a tight grip on the lead in the British Open Golf Championship today when he shot a one-over-par 72 on the third round for a 54-hole total of 212.

That gave Thomson a three-stroke lead over Flory Van Donck of Belgium, with only part of the field in, and apparently set up his third straight open victory.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, one of two Americans still in the field, also had a 72 and remained eight strokes back of the leader at 220. Stranahan was tied with Mexico's Roberto De Vicenzo, who fell back from second place when he took a 79 for the third round, and Angel Miguel of Spain.

Mike Souchak, the other American who also was eight strokes behind at the start of today's final 36 holes, took a three-over-par 38 on the front nine of Hoylake's par 36-36—72 course.

Thomson, playing confidently over the 6,950-yard Hoylake course in weather much better than yesterday's, had one bad hole on the front nine but reached the turn in par 35. He was bunkered a couple of times on the back nine.

The good-looking, affable Australian birdied the 8th and 16th holes. He went out of bonds at the 417-yard, par-four sixth and took a six there. At the short 13th he was in a bunker off the tee and took a four.

He went over again with a five at the 466-yard 15th when he was short with his second shot. But at the 513-yard 16th his second was at the edge of the green and he got a birdie four.

Thomson was in a bunker near the green at the 17th, but blasted out within three feet and sank the putt. He just missed a 21-footer on the last green.

Stranahan went out in par 36 after having trouble at the first and 6th holes and came back with one-over-par 36. He missed a chance to gain when he took three to get down from the edge of the green at both the 17th and 18th holes.

Middlecoff on—

Doctoring Your Golf Game

BY DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

DIAGNOSIS: Hitting too soon

Here again the shoulder turn is stressed. For emphasis, perhaps spin is a better word than turn. If you'll work to develop a one-piece swing, you'll soon appreciate the importance, the power and control that a full finish with the left side produces. Maintaining a straight line from the clubhead to the left shoulder on the backswing is the prime movement. Break the wrists too soon, kinking the left arm, and you'll ruin everything. The left side will hold instead of turn. The right hand takes over immediately, and you'll hit too soon—from the top. And of course left hip action—that forward, turning shift in the sketch—is totally nullified.

29 Years Offers No Consolation

Losing Hard to Take, Says Harris

DETROIT (AP)—"You get used to a lot of things after 29 years of it," said Bucky Harris. "But I haven't figured out yet how to get used to losing."

The 59-year-old manager, who started his big league managing career long before many of his Detroit Tiger players saw the light of day, was reflecting in the clubhouse yesterday after his club ended its prolonged home victory drought.

A 13-7 thumping of the third-place Cleveland Indians halted the Tigers' Briggs Stadium winless streak at 15. Twenty days and 20 games ago Detroit took a 5-2 decision from Boston. Since that time, they had played 15 games at home and their best effort was a 2-2 tie with Washington.

The usual home park advantage didn't help the Tigers. Instead, Briggs Stadium became a get-well-quick arena for other American League clubs while the Bengals slipped down to sixth place.

They have won only 10 games at home this season while dropping 27. On the road the Tigers have played .600 ball.

"Don't ask me to explain it," said Harris. "I'd like to know the answer myself. They've looked like two different ball clubs."

"I don't want this to sound like an alibi for myself or an excuse for the team. Maybe they're not as good as we thought they were. But a team can't lose the best shortstop in baseball and be short on pitching and expect to put together any kind of a record."

* * *

Harris pointed out that shortstop Harvey Kuenn, who was out of the regular lineup for nine games because of an ankle injury, still cannot go at top speed. The Tigers' 10-man pitching staff includes Ned Garver, who hasn't started a game since the first week of the season because of arm trouble, and bonus baby Jim Brady, whose earned run average for six innings of relief work is a huge 22.50.

* * *

"I think we would have won half these games we lost at home if we could have had Kuenn in there all the time—and at full speed," Harris commented. "And we have not had too much to fall back on in the bullpen and we knew from the start that our bench wasn't going to help us much."

* * *

Then the little manager touched briefly on "other pressures." He didn't bother to explain them, but the loud and long criticism of himself and Tiger coaches could not have helped the slumping club. In addition the club is up for sale and will have new owners by Oct. 1.

Stars in Texas!

U. S. Girls Set Tank Marks

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — America ought to have an impressive women's swimming team for the Olympic Games this year if what the girls are doing in the National AAU here can be taken as a criterion.

Stars like Pat McCormick, the Los Angeles veteran who won both dives in the last Olympics, Shelley Mann, Carin Cone, Nancy Simmons and Mary Jane Sears rewrote the record book last night. There were six events and when the splashing ended for the night, five AAU, three American, one American citizen and two world's records had been set.

Miss Mann, swimming for the Walter Reed Army Hospital of Washington, and Miss Cone, the 16-year-old Ridgewood, N.J. school girl contributed the world record performances, both breaking marks for 50-meter courses such as provided here.

Miss Mann whipped through the 400-meter individual medley in 5:52.5 to better the world's mark of 6:06.9, set by Marie Gillett of Indianapolis, two years ago. Miss Gillett, defending champion in the event, finished fifth with a time of 6:13.4, well off her own AAU and American record of 6:01.5.

Miss Cone repeating as champion of the 200-meter backstroke, turned in 2:43.8. This bettered her own AAU record of 2:45.6, which also was the American record, and the world's record set by Judit Temes of Hungary in 1951 and tied by Miss Cone with her 2:45.6.

Mrs. McCormick, swimming for the Los Angeles Athletic Club which took the lead in team points, easily won the 1-meter dive for the fifth straight time. She rolled up 481.30 points to beat out Ann Cooper, also of the Los Angeles AC, by better than 50 points. Miss Cooper had 428.75.

Princeton, Kent Still in Henley Race

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP) — Two U.S. crews — Princeton and Kent (Conn. School) —still were in running today for the coveted Thames Challenge Cup in the Royal Henley Regatta.

Princeton's lightweight eight met the Isis Boat Club of Oxford and Kent went against the British Vesta boatload in the semifinals. The finals are scheduled for Saturday.

Over the wind-swept Thames yesterday, Princeton defeated the Thames River Rowing Club by 1¼ lengths and Kent turned back the London Rowing Club. The Tigers had the best time for the mile and 550-yard course with a clocking of 7 minutes, 28 seconds. Kent was timed in 7:39.

Summer Basketball

Program Begins Monday

First summer basketball program in the city's history will get under way at the new "harditop" playing surface at Crofoot School playground, on Monday.

Art Van Ryzin, head PHS cage coach, will conduct the program with the help of Fred Zittel, his regular aide during the indoor season and a former Chief star himself.

Monday's start will simply be a preliminary, Van Ryzin explained today. "We hope to have a large turnout of boys interested in playing outdoor basektball, and learning the game from the ground up."

Van Ryzin was hopeful that the bulk of the boys who show up Monday at 6:30 p.m. will come from the junior high and the senior high age levels. However, he invited any one interested in the game to take part. Even those of city league or college age levels may get in, he says.

Purpose of the program is to set up a summer league for the various age levels. "Where this plan has been followed elsewhere," says Art, "It has been successful. If Pontiac boys who have been handicapped by not having outside sites on which to practice, take advantage of this program, we might be able to improve the shooting ability of many prospective high school players. Shooting bakets is the first fundamental of the game. Any number can work out at the same time. Courts (four of them) are available at any time at Crofoot."

A second workout will be held next Wednesday night at which time Van Ryzin hopes to begin his organization of leagues.

Lightweight Go Garden Feature

NEW YORK (AP) — The Friday night summer boxing schedule at Madison Square Garden brings out two lightweights tonight when Joey Lopes of Sacramento, Calif., and Paoli Rosi of Rieti, Italy, meet in the 10-round main event.

* * *

Only a few hundred fans are expected in the flesh but the bout will be carried on network radio and television (NBC), starting at 9 p.m. (EST).

Lopes, an 8-5 favorite, has won four of five this year. He outpointed Jorge Macias and Don Jordan and stopped Reuben Smith and Henry Davis. His lone defeat was a 10-round decision to Ludwig Lightburn, Jan. 12.

Campers Cheer as Fisherman Gets Big Bass

"That was quite a reception for me," said Isaacson. "The bass gave me a tough time for about 10 minutes. Folks up there, camping, watched me land it and cheered the finish."

The largemouth was five pounds five ounces in weight, 14 inches in girth and 21 inches long. It was taken on a nightcrawler rig from a boat, at 8 p. m. Wednesday night. The fisherman was alone. He took some bluegills and rock bass, too, but his "biggest bass" held top interest.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Heads of 27 minor baseball circuits will vote on a proposal to set up a $100,000 emergency fund to aid financially embarrassed minor league clubs.

George M. Trautman, president of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues, ordered an immediate vote on the matter after receiving a request yesterday signed by eight league heads.

A vote is mandatory under association rules when asked by seven loop presidents.

DETROIT (INS) — The annual Sports Guild championship rodeo, which will be held Sunday, July 29, at Hazel Park race track is expected to attract the largest crowd in its seven-year history.

Guild president Jim Hart says the Sports Guild will make a special offer to newspaper boys in the Wayne-Macomb-Oakland county areas.

The offer is open to carriers of weeklies as well as dailies so that every newsboy will be afforded a chance to attend the rodeo, biggest single event of its kind in the U. S.

Bare-back bronc riding, speed and action, and other western competitive events will be staged on the three-and-a-half hour program starting at 1:30 p.m.

Wininger Paces Canadian Open

Record - Equaling 65 Gives Bo Two-Stroke Edge Over Field

POINTE CLAIRE, Que. (AP) — Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City was the man to catch today as the field started the second round of the Canadian Open golf championship.

* * *

Virtually ignored in pre-tournament selections, the 33-year-old Sooner fired a record-equalling 65 over the par 72 Beaconsfield course Thursday to take the first-round lead by two strokes.

He followed up a respectable first-nine round of 35, one under par, with a withering six-under back-nine 30.

Winiger was two strokes up on a quartet of Americans who tied at 67. They were Dow Finsterwald, of Bedford Heights, Ohio; Dick Mayer, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Paul Harney of Bolton, Mass., and Art Wall Jr., of Elmsford, N.Y.

* * *

Defending champion Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., settled down after what he described as "a terrifying start," and ended up with a par 72, well down the list. In all 38 shotmakers bettered par.

Japanese Emperor Causes Police Spat

The National Police Board complained Tokyo police were turning their backs to the emperor. That, it argued, was reviving the prewar custom of considering the emperor divine and not to be looked upon.

Not so, said Tokyo police. Crowds turning out to see Emperor Hirohito are so great they just have to be watched.

So, unless the two police forces can get together, one will just have to look one way while the other looks the other.

Grain Dealings Remain Firm

* * *

In no cereal were gains very large. But selling orders were readily absorbed and there seemed to be a disposition on the part of local traders to get on the buying side of the market.

Best gain was made by July Soybeans, largely reflecting strength in soybean oil. This contract is far down from its seasonal high and brokers thought it technical positions had been improved.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was unchanged to ⅝ higher, July $2.06⅞; corn ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, July $1.48½; oats ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, July 68⅛; rye unchanged to 1 cent higher, July $1.24; soybeans 1¼ to 4 cents higher, July $2.79½; lard 10 to 28 cents a hundred lbs. higher, July $10.75.

Stock Market Moves Ahead

NEW YORK (AP)—Chemicals and oils joined aircrafts early this afternoon to widen the Stock Market's advance.

Gains of leading stocks ran generally from fractions to a point or so but a few stocks raced beyond this.

* * *

The market was higher from the start in fairly active trading with aircrafts showing vigor. The pace quieted soon and chemicals took over the starring role as aircrafts subsided below their best. Oils also turned in a string of good gains.

Aircrafts advanced following the government's freeze on critical steel items, thus allowing aircraft makers to stock up on aircraft quality steel from wharehouses.

Motors did little, generally, but Ford was up around a point. Rails were mixed. Sante Fe rose more than a point.

At noon the Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 70 cents to $184.90 with the industrials up $1.40, the rails up 30 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

Among chemical blue chips, Allied Chemical was the leader with a 3-point gain. Du Pont was up around 2 points and Olin-Mathieson a point or so. Union Carbide and Dow Chemical were other gainers.

Wife's 'Confession' Upsets Hermiz Trial

DETROIT (AP)—Maurice Hamilton, 21-year-old Iraqi immigrant, resumed the witness stand in his first degree murder trial today, openly confident that he will be found innocent.

* * *

Hamilton made no attempt to hide his elation over the sudden confession of Mrs. Victoria Hermiz, 35, yesterday that she killed her husband and that Hamilton is innocent.

Mrs. Hermiz, who has pleaded insanity in the fatal stabbing of her grocer husband, Asiz, last Feb. 10, startled the courtroom when she rose to her feet and announced:

"Judge, I kill my husband. Maurice innocent, Maurice innocent."

Recorder's Judge Frank G. Schemanske immediately ordered both defendants from the courtroom and adjourned the trial for the rest of the day.

Hamilton, co-defendant in the case who also is charged with first degree murder, leaped to his feet when he learned what Mrs. Hermiz had said and shouted: "God in Heaven, God in Heaven!"

Hamilton continued his testimony that his confession in the murder had been forced out of him by police. He contended officers beat him and starved him before he made his oral confession into a tape recorder.

NEA Rallies Forces to Push School Bill

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Smarting at defeat of federal school building aid, the National Education Assn. girded today for a fresh attempt to gain passage of the bill in the next Congress.

The NEA entered the final day of its convention here with the prospect of a floor fight over one proposed resolution on a discrimination issue, but another bearing on school segregation apparently had been sidetracked.

* * *

* * *

James L. McCaskill, director of the NEA legislative division, its lobbying arm, expressed disappointment at defeat of the measure at a time when it seemed the closest it has ever been to passage, but said the NEA would "move quickly" on it in the new Congress next January.

Dividends

DETROIT (INS)—A 35 cents per share dividend on Fruehauf Trailer Co. common stock has been declared by the company directors. The dividend is payable Sept. 1 to shareholders of record Aug. 15, 1956. In addition, the directors also set Sept. 28 as payment date for the next two per cent quarterly stock dividend to shareholders of record Sept. 7. On the four per cent preferred stock, the directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of one dollar, payable Sept. 1 to shareholders of record Aug. 15.

Earnings

EAST PATERSON, N.J. (INS)—Grand Union Co. today reported record net earnings of $1,163,000, equal to 55 cents per share common outstanding, for the first quarter of the fiscal year which ended June 7. Earnings a year ago were $703,376,, or 39 cents per share.

Sales of the 350-store grocery chain totaled $66.7 million during the quarter this year, a 35 per cent increase over a year ago.

NEW YORK (INS)—New York Central Railroad today reported earnings for the six months ending June 30 of $21,-566,000, a drop of almost $8 million from the corresponding period a year ago. The per share net this year was given at $3.32, compared with $4.11 in 1955. For June, net declined from $5,-392,000 a year ago to $3,903,000 last month. Operating revenue for the six months totaled $397 million this year, $29 million ahead of 1955.

Potter Asks Lift of Tax on Cars

Six-Month Suspension of Excise Charge Seen as 'Shot in Arm'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Potter (R-Mich) urged yesterday that Congress suspend for six months the 10 per cent excise tax on automobiles as a means of relieving unemployment in the auto industry.

He declared "a serious emergency exists" in Michigan because 220,000 are jobless in auto plants and related industries.

* * *

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Potter asked for quick action on his proposal by the House Ways and Means Committee, which originates tax measures, and by the Senate Finance Committee. Potter said he wrote Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn) of the House committee urging "immediate consideration."

"Under the most favorable circumstances," he said, "the federal government could expect to collect less than $500 million from the excise tax on autos during the next six months. This is small compared to the massive multi-billion dollar surplus the national budget will show."

Potter said the automobile is a necessity, not a luxury, so "there has never been a valid excuse for a luxury tax on automobiles."

He said defense contracts assigned to idle auto plants have brought "some relief" in Michigan but that the best answer to the problem "lies in getting automobile production back in a full-time basis immediately."

The federal tax amounts to $250 on a car priced at $2,500 at the manufacturer's level. Dropping the tax would reduce car prices and spur sales, Potter said.

Seven Michigan cities have been classified by the labor department as labor surplus areas. They are Detroit, Flint, Monroe, Escanaba, Iron Mountain, Marquette and Port Huron.

South Viet Nam Praised by Nixon on Arrival Today

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vice President Richard Nixon arrived here today on an official visit to South Viet Nam and described this young republic as a "symbol of independence for all people to respect."

A cheering crowd of 7,000 persons jostled under the hot tropical sun to catch a glimpse of the U.S. official and his wife at Saigon's airport. The Nixons flew here from Manila.

Nixon reviewed an honor guard and then made a brief speech at the airport. Official welcomes included Foreign Minister Vuu Van Mau, other Cabinet members and the diplomatic corps headed by U.S. Ambassador G. Frederick Reinhardt.

After less than five minutes on the ground here the vice president had learned to say "Hello, how are you?" in Vietnamese.

The Nixons went directly from the airfield to the home of the American ambassador for lunch. Thousands of Vietnamese schoolchildren lined the boulevards leading into the city. They waved tiny American and Vietnamese flags. Hundreds of banners were strung across the streets.

Detroit Woman Injured in Avon Township Crash

Mrs. Rose Curtis, of Detroit, was treated for bruises of the forehead and chest at Avon Center Hospital following a two-car collision at Rochester and Auburn Roads in Avon Township yesterday.

Mrs. Curtis was a passenger in a car, driven by her husband, Jimmie L., 43. The other vehicle was operated by Elonzo A. Krebiel, 76, of Rochester.

Investigating Oakland County Sheriff Department deputies said the Krebiel car was struck by the Curtis car after making a turn into Rochester Road.

Charge Waterford Man With Carrying Weapon

Charged with carrying a concealed weapon, Edgar J. Carter, 25, of 451 S. Telegraph Rd., demanded examination yesterday when arraigned before Justice Willis D. Lefurgy of Waterford Township.

Carter was arrested by state police Wednesday for allegedly speeding on Telegraph Road. The troopers reported that they found a loaded revolver under the car's front seat.

16 Short Words Can Win Cash in Puzzle No. 6

Like to play word games? — Well, even if you don't, you're bound to get a kick out of POT-O-GOLD in this summer's Pontiac Press. One big reason is that, aside from the fun you'll get from playing it, you have a weekly chance to win at least $100. Fill in the blanks below this week's puzzle, clip the whole thing out and send it to the address listed under Section 10.

The puzzle consists of (1) a number of circles which contain a few scrambled letters, and (2) a corresponding list of clues to these words printed below. The object is to arrange each group of circled letters into a word that best fits its clue. The word which you select for Circle No. 1, then would be the one which you would print in the space to the right of (1) below

You'll notice that some circles contain $ signs in pots of gold. You may use such a symbol as any letter you wish. However, it and all letters in that circle must be used. The $ sign, of course, can represent ANY letter in the word.

Do the same in all the other circles. Study the clues carefully and arrange all the letters into words that you believe best conform to these clues. Use your $ signs to help you spell out the right words.

That's all there is to it. Good luck!

Probe Deaths of 3 Tourists

Ontario Police Puzzled by Apparent Drowning of Detroiters

PEFFERLAW, Ont. (AP) — Police today investigated the deaths of three U. S. tourists who drowned in Lake Simcoe although they wore lifejackets and were not far from the safety of sandy shoals.

* * *

Bodies of the three men, all from Detroit, were found yesterday near their anchored outboard motorboat. Local residents said they could almost have waded to safety at that spot.

The victims were Reid D. Sturtevan, 35, a federal housing inspector, Frank S. Nowicki, 53, also a housing inspector, and James L. Murphy, 54, manager of the General Box Co.

They went fishing shortly before midnight Wednesday. Two bodies were retrieved from the lake 12 hours later. The third was found last night.

The boat was anchored 150 feet from the shores of Sand Islands, near this village about 45 miles north of Toronto. It did not carry oars or paddles.

It was not known how the men got into the water or how they died with their lifejackets on. The jackets were government-approved.

The men were staying at Sturtevan's cottage near Pefferlaw. Their families said Sturtevan and Murphy were familiar with the lake and were acquainted with the Sand Islands region, a favorite bass fishing spot.

* * *

Sturtevan, father of six girls, arrived here last Saturday for a week's holiday. The other two men had been here two weeks.

Associates Win Easily

Public Accepts Diverse Shows

Plenty of Spectaculars Placed on Schedule for Next Season

NEW YORK (AP)—Robert Sarnoff, president of NBC, says that "Everything important you do in TV programing is a public service."

* * *

Then he asked a good rhetorical question: "Is 'Meet the Press,' for example, any more of a public service than presenting the Sadler's Wells Ballet on television?" Obviously it is not. And obviously, as the young president of NBC went on to say, all good things make a part of a balanced TV programing structure.

He was not talking theory. For it is a fact that NBC-TV last season achieved a high, well-balanced level of programing dedicated to the proposition that the public is not composed of boobs.

* * *

"The public," said Sarnoff, "exceeded our expectations. It showed us that there is indeed a place for a diversity of programs in prime evening viewing hours."

Because the public enthusiastically greeted most of NBC-TV's ambitious programing efforts last season, it will be treated to some excellent viewing on the network next season.

* * *

A Friday night spectacular series is being launched Oct. 5 with a musical version of Robert Alan Arthur's "A Man's Game." Nanette Fabray is sought for the leading role of a girl pitcher. In this series Fred Coe will produce "Of Whales and Men," and Gordon Jenkins will produce "Manhattan Towers," a musical showing New York through the eyes of two young lovers.

* * *

The Saturday night spectaculars will begin Sept. 29 with Esther Williams' aqua spectacle. Others in the series include a Sonja Henie ice spectacle and a production of "High Button Shoes."

* * *

There are some interesting items on the schedule of Monday night spectaculars: A John Houston production of Aristophanes' "Lysistrata," starring either Marilyn Monroe or Katharine Hepburn; Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer in "Mayerling," a Sadler's Wells Ballet production—probably "Cinderella," another Sol Hurok "Festival of Music," a musical version of "Jack and the Beanstalk." The opener in this series, Sept. 17, will be "Rain, Rain," a musical featuring Kay Starr and Louis Armstrong.

Six "Hallmark Hall of Fame" productions will move into prime Sunday evening time. Among them will be Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman" and the mystery hit, "Dial M for Murder."

* * *

A new 60 and 90 minute color film series called "Telescope" will deal with important issues and interesting people of our time. Scheduled thus far are Maurice Chevalier's Paris, "Assignment: Southeast Asia" and "Doctor."

* * *

Slated under "Project 20" auspices are two 90-minute film studies: "The Great War" and "The Parable of Vienna." A special program of either 60 or 90 minutes is planned on the Earth Satellite and another on atomic energy.

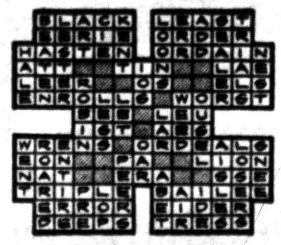

Prize Money Awarded in Pikes Peak Races

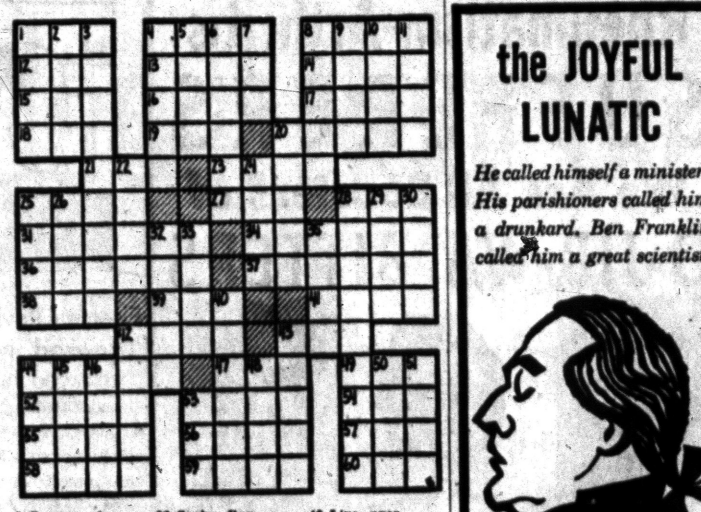

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Protests were disallowed and prize money was awarded yesterday to race car drivers on the basis of announced results in the Pikes Peak Hill climb Wednesday.

Lloyd Faddis, general manager of the Pikes Peak Hill Climb Assn. said the first seven race cars and the first four stock cars were disassembled and inspected after protests. Some drivers had claimed the top finishers did not meet race specifications.

Faddis said the examination showed all cars complied with the mechanical requirements.

TWA, UAL Pieces Jammed

Latest Evidence Proves Planes Crashed in Flight

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (INS)—New and conclusive evidence shows that two super air liners collided in the air over the Grand Canyon before they plunged 128 persons to their deaths in commercial aviation's worst disaster.

The evidence was two twisted, interlocked chunks of metal, one apparently from the Trans World Airlines plane which crashed with 70 persons aboard, the other from a United Air Lines DC-7 which disintegrated with 58 aboard.

The vital pieces of torn metal were given to Civil Aeronautics Board authorities today at Grand Canyon Airport search headquarters by daring helicopter pilots who had landed on a tiny, perilous ledge high on the mountain graveyard of the craft.

It reportedly was wedged into the other piece of metal, which was half of the engine cowling from the United plane. The airmen returning from towering Chuar Butte, which juts from the floor of Marble Canyon, said the scraps of metal were recovered from the UAL crash site.

"It demonstrates nothing at all right now."

Parshall would only admit that two pieces of wreckage came to him together. He would not say from which of the two crash sites they came.

A United spokesman hastened to point out that the DC-7 also carried the colors red over white on the tail. UAL colors are primarily blue and white.

EVIDENCE VERIFIED

A TWA spokesman said the piece of fuselage skin was the same as that on his firm's super constellation, which crashed about a mile south of the UAL craft on the jagged rock spire.

Most trained observers on the scene of the crashes have believed all along that the big passenger planes collided at an altitude of about 21,000 feet while both were trying to fly over a thunderstorm which boiled over northern Arizona.

The new evidence was brought up from the canyon by helicopter pilots Capt. Walter Spriggs and Chief Warrant Officer Howard Proctor, who were the first to land a mountaineer at the top of the sheer cliff on which the UAL plane's blackened remains lie.

Spriggs and Proctor said the pieces of metal examined by the CAB came from the UAL crash scene.

The pilots had landed on a tiny ledge high on a 1,000-foot sheer cliff and only a few yards from where the greater part of the DC-7 remains lay in a charred mass.

Reason for Decreased Drinking?

Britain Losing Barmaids

LONDON (INS) — John Bull's new addictions for soft drinks and television have been oft quoted as the twin causes of the decline of the British pub and the big drop in beer drinking.

But a much more logical and human answer—after all customers can get soft drinks and television at their pub—has emerged in the pages of the brewing industry's "Monthly Bulletin."

For this journal has revealed that the big, blonde, bosomy barmaid has disappeared from the pubs of Britain.

GOOD OLE DAYS GONE

"Gone are the days of the majestic figures sheathed in black satin with towering peroxide coiffure, cameo-brooch displayed on a noble bosom, and rings on every finger, who dominated the bars they adorned," bemoaned the Bulletin.

"Few young people want the job of serving behind the bar and it has to be done by the publican's wife."

After World War I barmaids became slimmer and more quiet in both manner and dress. By the end of World War II it became difficult to find any sort of barmaid.

FULL EMPLOYMENT

Why?

"Now that there are often as many women customers as men, the barmaid is no longer the cynosure of all eyes. The wives see to that.

"The barmaid's historic role as recipient of chaff from the tired working man or business man may be played out."
