Auto Firms' Offers Ask Some UAW Cutbacks

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry today offered the United Auto Workers Union what one company termed its best contract package ever, but asked the union to cut back on some key provisions won in previous years.

A union spokesman said there would be no comment immediately on the united front presented by General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., and Chrysler Corp.

The union, however, was expected to reject the proposals, first answer made by the companies to demands that the union itself has called its most ambitious in 30 years of industry bargaining.

The industry's economic offers, based on a proposed three-year contract, come after two months of bargaining and with only eight days remaining before a strike deadline.

★ ★ ★

Contracts covering 650,000 workers at the Big Three expire at midnight Sept. 6 although only the company selected by the union as a pattern setter would be struck.

13 CENTS AN HOUR

The three companies estimated their package at 33 to 51 cents an hour over the next three years, including a flat 13 cents an hour hike now and 2.8 per cent a year in the following two years.

All three, however, asked the union to modify a cost-of-living escalator clause based on the government cost-of-living index which has brought union members increases of 18 cents an hour since 1964.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has said he would brook no tampering with the clause and that an attempt to change would be a strikeable issue.

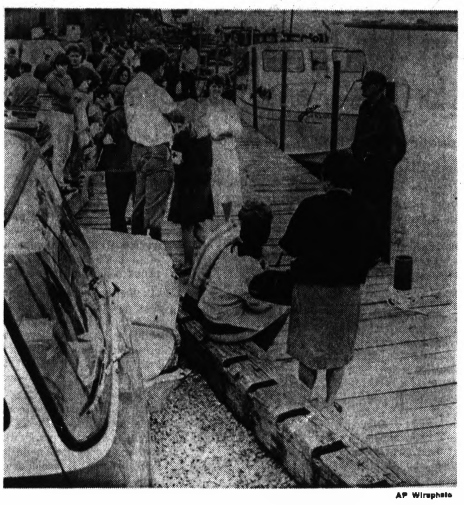

The industry also offered the union an increase of from 62 per cent to 80 per cent in the supplemental unemployment benefits — the benefits that supplement a laid off worker's state unemployment compensation.

This apparently was far short of the demand made by the union for a complete guaranteed annual income.

Louis G. Seaton of General Motors has estimated that union demands made at the start of bargaining in July would cost GM at least $4 an hour.

The industry also offered additional wage boosts for skilled workers, an issue that has caused some dissension in the union.

Nothing was said by any company about the union demand for parity for Canadian workers.

KEEPING VIGIL — Relatives and friends of 14 sky divers lost in Lake Erie Sunday are shown yesterday as they waited and watched for signs of search craft which might bring answers to the tragedy. Searchers are continuing dragging operations today but Coast Guard officials feared there was little chance the sky divers could survive. See story Page A-2.

Teachers Approve Waterford Pact

A proposed two-year contract for teachers of the Waterford Township School District was ratified by a 3-1 margin last night at a general membership meeting of the Waterford Education Association (WEA).

The board of education is expected to take action on the contract at its 7:30 p.m. Thursday meeting.

Last night's vote was 214 in favor of the contract and 72 opposed, according to Robert G. Crumpton, WEA executive secretary.

The two-hour meeting was held at Waterford Kettering High School.

★ ★ ★

Crumpton said the first year of the contract will amount to about $350,000 in increases for the total package, compared with about $700,000 the second year.

SALARY RANKING

Second-year wage increases will lift Waterford teachers from the lower third to the middle third in salary rank among Oakland County districts, according to Crumpton.

Teachers with bachelor degrees will earn between $8,100 and $9,500 the first year of the contract and $6,700 to $10,500 the second year.

The range for teachers with master's degrees will be from $6,500 to $10,500 in 1967-68 and $7,100 to $11,500 the following year.

Teachers with a master's degree plus 30 credit hours will earn from $6,900

MPs Enforce Rockwell Ban

CULPEPER, Va. (AP) — The hearse bearing the body of American Nazi party leader George Lincoln Rockwell was barred from Culpeper National Cemetery today as federal troops arrived to enforce an order banning Nazi insignia and uniforms.

Military policemen armed with pistols and night sticks arrived in helicopters and buses. They were led by Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner, Army provost marshal.

"I am going to protect federal property," Turner told newsmen as the hearse waited outside the gate of the little military cemetery. "No one will be permitted in here with Nazi uniforms and insignia."

There appeared to be about 50 mourners, some dressed in full Nazi uniforms bearing swastikas. Five of those in uniforms said they were to be pallbearers.

★ ★ ★

Among the floral pieces was a large swastika composed of red carnations and a Nazi flag in red, white and black flowers.

LICENSE PLATES

License plates of cars carrying the mourners, some of whom brought children with them, were from California, Ontario, Canada, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania.

★ ★ ★

A young man in an Army private's uniform said he was "here to mourn my real commander in chief—Rockwell." He identified himself as Pfc. James G. DeWitt of Mount Pleasant, Mich., stationed at Ft. Gordon, Ga., headquarters of the military police corps, headed by Turner.

GOP Hits Brown, Carmichael

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican congressional leaders said today the time has come to "slam the door . . . and slam it hard" on black power leaders Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael.

★ ★ ★

Accusing the Johnson administration of heading into "full retreat" in the war against crime, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., joined in calling for greater protection of law-abiding citizens.

Ford sounded the call for a crackdown on activities of Brown and Carmichael, the fiery speech-makers who have been blamed by some for racial violence in various parts of the country.

"When a Rap Brown and a Stokely Carmichael are allowed to run loose, to threaten law-abiding Americans with injury and death, it's time to slam the door on them and any like them — and slam it hard," Ford said.

In reply to questions at his weekly news conference with Dirksen, Ford said the House-passed antiriot bill could be used against Brown, now free on bond after being accused under a state law of inciting Negroes to riot in Cambridge, Md.

CASTRO' GUEST

Carmichael has been out of the country for some time — most recently in Havana as a guest of the Fidel Castro government.

News Flash

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—Shirley Temple Black, the onetime child movie star, announced her candidacy for Congress today, following in the political footsteps of two former co-stars, U.S. Sen. George Murphy and Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Stokely in Hanoi

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. Black Power advocate Stokely Carmichael arrived in Hanoi yesterday for a visit to North Vietnam, the North Vietnam News Agency reported today.

The agency said Carmichael was invited by the Vietnam Asian-African Solidarity Committee.

Romney on Riots: Left Ignorant

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (UPI) — Michigan Gov. George Romney charged today that federal control disrupted the National Guard during the Detroit riots and left him ignorant of what was going on.

Romney told the Midwestern governors conference that in the initial phases of the riots he found himself faced with "civil guerrilla warfare" over 139 square miles.

He charged that federal takeover of the National Guard left him with only state and local police to provide protection.

The Michigan Republican spoke after the conference had adopted a resolution calling for the broadening of National Guard training guidance and for possible interstate use of the guard in crises arising from either riots or natural disasters.

A resolution calling on the department of defense to "take immediate action to provide additional new training guidance and techniques designed to deal with new types of internal security problems" was adopted unanimously.

APPEAL TO DEFENSE DEPT.

The same resolution called on the Defense Department to provide the necessary special equipment to cope with "violent domestic upheavals.

Such recent upheavals throughout the nation, the governors said, represent "new dimensions in the area of civil disturbance never before experienced by military forces of this country.

"Interstate use of the National Guard would be accomplished through an interstate compact with whatever accompanying state legislature was necessary."

Thundershowers Possible Tonight

Partly sunny and warmer is the forecast for Pontiac today with a high ranging from 83 to 87.

Clouds are expected to move into the area tonight with a likelihood of thundershowers to dampen the mild weather. The low is expected to reach 54 to 60.

Cooler temperatures will return tomorrow accompanying cloudy skies and showers. The outlook for Thursday is fair and continued cool.

The low recorded in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 57. By 2 p.m. the temperature climbed to 80.

Pontiac Hears About New Haven

One City Battles Urban Decay

By BOB WISLER

Take a 140,000 population city with massive urban problems, provide a concerned, inspired leadership willing to conduct a long, all-points campaign, throw in massive amounts of federal and private aid, and allow for an "awful lot of time" and you have part of the story of New Haven, Conn., during the past 13 years.

And yet, there's much more, according to Thomas Cecil, one of the new breed of experts, the urban expert. Now the deputy director of New Haven's Community Progress, Inc., and soon to be a top official in New Jersey's newly created department of community affairs, Cecil told of New Haven's efforts to combat urban decay at a joint meeting of the Pontiac Board of Education and the City Commission last night at the Holiday Inn.

Cecil is the second urban expert in a series to speak to Pontiac officials about possible solutions to the problems afflicting all urban areas. His two-day trip as a consultant here was financed by the Ford Foundation and ties in with a planned Pontiac program to provide a "human resource center" for the southeast section of the city.

This "center" — in the planning stage — would be designed to replace at least three elementary schools — McConnell, Central and Wilson — with a new facility, a type of community school which would involve the surrounding community and provide impetus for local social services, new housing and shopping facilities.

In explaining New Haven's approach to its problems, Cecil offered hope and yet spoke forebodingly of the results of waiting too long to undertake the rehabilitation of the sick cities.

PRIME REQUISITE

Leadership is the prime requisite to fashioning a workable program to cure the illnesses, he said. He spoke glowingly of the spirit and enthusiasm of the local governmental leaders.

"Because of the ideas I've heard, the staff, the general positive attitude, I would say Pontiac has the potential to produce an effective program of major national importance," he said.

He compared Pontiac today with New Haven of 10 to 12 years ago, a city with problems against which it was just beginning to wage total war.

★ ★ ★

He led commissioners and board members through the steps since 1954 when renewal really began in New Haven to a point where today the city has a much increased tax base (up 25 per cent in the last 4 years), a revitalized downtown area — which boasts two large department stores, 40 specialty shops, an 18-story hotel, the beginnings of a 23-story

Report on Taubman Due Tonight

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. is expected to deliver a report tonight on the status of the city's downtown urban renewal project.

Taylor agreed at last Tuesday's meeting to make the report and to relate the progress of developer A. Alfred Taubman in securing major tenants for a downtown regional shopping center.

District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin, long an opponent of the Taubman plan of redeveloping the downtown business area, made the request.

Taubman has been considered as a developer for the shopping center under an agreement made last September. The agreement calls for him to be sole developer if certain conditions are met.

★ ★ ★

These conditions entail that he be able to secure major tenants — notable department stores — to "anchor" the proposed center.

The agreement was originally for six months but was extended by a 6-1 vote, Irwin dissenting, for another six months early this year. It loses effect Sept. 27.

Schools Face Rights Challenge

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of a three-part series describing Pontiac School District's problems and plans as a new school year is about to begin.)

By DICK ROBINSON

Educating minority groups, paying teachers and financing school operations are Pontiac's biggest school headaches.

Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, who has headed the Pontiac School District for 13 years, reported that these three problems are equally the district's most pressing.

"Civil rights is an extremely complex problem," he said. "Schools are under tremendous pressures to reach an adequate educational level for minority groups."

Teachers and other school employes seemingly always ask for more money than the school district feels it can give them, Whitmer said, pointing out the district's second problem.

And thirdly, the school system needs more money to provide better education for more students in more schools and to give its employes better salaries.

The challenge to satisfactorily respond to the pressures of the civil rights movement has never been more present in Pontiac.

One of the 10 largest school districts in the state, Pontiac has more than a 27 per cent nonwhite school enrollment out of about 24,000 pupils.

"The civil rights movement of today and the historic struggle of Negroes to enter the main stream of American life constantly remind the Negro youth of goals not yet achieved," Whitmer commented.

"These problems are added to the growth problems faced by all youth and provide a special challenge to public schools and teachers.

'NOT ON THE FIELD'

"A professional educator who today is not involved in this important and multifaceted problem is not on the field where the future of America is to be determined. The challenge is one of involvement in the most significant problem of our time, and this is where the greatest challenges always lie."

Whitmer, the handsome 54-year-old superintendent, shook his head as he remarked that preschool programs, a 12-month school year and extended school days are needed for "disadvantaged" children to bring them up to the achievement level of a middle class child.

But only if the money was available . . . .

Some Negro parents in Pontiac have stated that they feel their children are not getting as good an education in predominately Negro schools as whites are receiving in predominately white schools.

Pontiac school administrators, however, feel that equal educational opportunities exist in all schools.

But the U.S. Civil Rights Commission reported: "Negro children suffer serious harm when their education takes place in public schools which are racially segregated, whatever the source of such segregation may be.

"Negro children who attend predominantly Negro schools do not achieve as well as other children, Negro or white."

Of Pontiac's 36 elementary and secondary schools, 24 are predominately white and 7 predominantly Negro with five more or less, racially balanced.

PUPIL POPULATION

Nearly 80 per cent of Pontiac's Negro elementary school population attends predominately (over 80 per cent) Negro schools, while more than 50 per cent of all Negro pupils attend predominantly Negro schools.

Local educators agree that it is best to have a school population of one-third Negro and two-thirds white. Only three Pontiac schools meet this criteria.

All of Pontiac's segregation is de facto segregation — created naturally by racial housing patterns.

* * *

Although the U.S. Supreme Court has clearly ruled that separate school systems for whites and Negroes are unconstitutional, de facto segregation has until now seemed beyond the reach of the courts.

A U.S. Court of Appeals judge recently ruled in Washington, D.C., in which 90 per cent of the students are Negro, that de facto segregation is just as unlawful as the kind imposed on Negroes by Southern legislatures.

It is with these thoughts in mind that the Pontiac Board of Education is studying a proposal of its citizens committee on human relations to change the Jefferson (mostly Negro) and Washington (mostly white) Junior High School attendance areas to achieve better racial balance.

There are many items to study but a report is expected to be completed before January.

Still another board-appointed citizen committee on equality of educational opportunity is studying racial aspects of the schools and is also expected to have a report during the winter.

And teachers are busy too studying about desegregation and minority groups through in-service programs during the school year.

Senators Okay Funds for Cities

Appropriations for 2 Programs Clear Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration got the full $40 million it asked for rent subsidies and $537 million for its model cities program in votes by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

President Johnson has said the two programs are vital elements of the administration's "pledge to bring hope and progress to the nation's cities" through the application of "the newest ideas and wisest advice" of urban experts.

* * *

Democratic leaders scheduled for Wednesday floor action on the measures, part of an omnibus $10.4-billion appropriations bill.

Officials of the Housing and Urban Development Department have estimated the $40-million subsidy program will allow financing of 44,500 housing units for low-income families.

The committee voted Monday to allow $537 million for the model cities program. The President had asked for $662 million but the House provided only $237 million.

The program gives federal aid to cities that draw up comprehensive plans to improve housing, health, recreation and sanitation in slums.

The rent subsidy program provides that a low-income family pay no more than 25 per cent of its income for rent. If more money is needed to secure adequate housing, the cost would be met by the government.

Birmingham Area News

Panel Approves Concept for Five-Deck Parking

BIRMINGHAM — The City Commission last night approved a concept for the design of a second parking garage in the central business district.

A preliminary plan for the facility was presented by the architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach, of Birmingham. The plan calls for a five-deck garage with a capacity of 740 cars.

The city's only other parking garage, on Woodward north of Willits, has a capacity of about 650 cars. It was completed last summer.

Of the five decks for the proposed new facility, one would be partially below ground, one would be at grade level and three would be above grade level.

* * *

The new facility would be located on the southeast corner of the intersection of Pierce and Merrill, across the intersection from the police and municipal office building. It would extend south to Brown St.

COST ESTIMATES

The commission directed the firm to proceed with construction drawings and return to the Sept. 11 commission meeting with cost estimates for the project.

In other action, the commission decided against constructing sidewalks on Yankee and Columbia streets between Yosemite and Villa streets.

A hearing was held to hear objections to the creation of a special assessment district to defray cost of constructing the sidewalks.

* * *

On the objections of abutting property owners, the commission shelved the project.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A dog ordinance with a leash law and provision for a dog warden was approved by the township board last night.

The ordinance will become effective in 30 days. The township has received numerous complaints in the last few years of dogs roaming loose and of children being bitten.

The board also signed a joint resolution with the Bloomfield Hills School District on the improvement of Lahser between Long Lake and Square Lake roads.

* * *

The two groups agreed to pay their "fair share" toward widening and paving of the street.

ROAD ON BORDER

The road is on the border of the township and the city of Bloomfield Hills, which is also expected to participate.

Sky Diving Survivor Tells of Nightmare

HURON, Ohio (AP)—"It was really quite a nightmare," said Robert Coy, one of two known survivors of the worst sky diving accident in history.

Coy, from Springfield, Ohio held onto a slim hope that some of his 14 fellow Ohio parachutists missing in Lake Erie would be found alive.

Searchers continue dragging operations today for the 14 who fell into the lake Sunday.

The National Safety Transportation Board took over the investigation of the accident.

Seventeen men and one woman — all expert divers — bailed out of a converted World War II bomber from 20,000 feet Sunday, not knowing they were over the lake.

Coy and Bernard Johnson, 30, West Richfield, Ohio, survived.

The jumpers missed their target—Ortner Air Service Field at Wakeman — by 10 miles.

Coy said his first thoughts were "to open the parachute a little higher than I normally would, hoping that the wind would blow me as close to shore as possible.

"As soon as my foot hit the water, I immediately unhooked that last strap to get free of all the gear. Then I floated on my reserve parachute, holding it in front of me until it became full of water and it sank.

"Then I floated on the helmet . . . I took my helmet and used it like an upside down cup and it gave me buoyancy.

"Then I saw a boat coming and I said, 'Thank God' and waved my arms and hollered and still didn't know if he saw me because the waves were so high.

"But the men in the boat saw me and picked me up."

Judicial Panel to Study Dismissal of Tax Suit

PORT HURON (AP) — A three - judge federal panel took under advisement Monday a motion by the State of Michigan to dismiss a suit to stop the state's 2.6 per cent income tax becoming effective in October.

* * *

"The motion will be acted upon as rapidly as possible," said Clifford O'Sullivan, Circuit Judge for the U.S. Court of Appeals.

* * *

The motion to dismiss was presented by Robert Derengowski, state solicitor general, and argued by William Dexter, assistant attorney general.

* * *

The suit was filed by Pontiac attorney Richard Kuhn, brother of State Sen. George Kuhn and a longtime foe of income taxes.

ALLEGED VIOLATION

Kuhn alleged in his suit that the state income tax violates both the state and federal Constitutions because the people were not allowed to vote on the proposal. He asked for an injunction to halt implementation of the tax and for a hearing on its validity.

* * *

The state argued that the federal court was without jurisdiction and that Kuhn had not raised substantial federal questions nor attempted to find relief in the state courts.

* * *

Dexter said Kuhn did not show he would suffer irreparable injury or be deprived of any privilege under the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

* * *

Kuhn replied that he resorted to the federal court because under the state income tax law, state courts cannot grant an injunction when the assessing and collecting of taxes is involved except in cases of fraud.

STATE'S ARGUMENT

The state's rebuttal argument was that most all tax laws contain such a restriction and the courts were not going to give up their injunctive rights.

LAST YEAR'S RANGE

Last year's salary ranges were from $5,800 to $9,000, $6,200 to $10,000 and $6,500 to $10,800.

Among the noneconomic provisions of the contract are a guaranteed duty-free lunch period of 30 minutes and required attendance at not more than two parent-teacher organization meetings a semester.

Next year, negotiations will reopen only on noneconomic issues, according to WEA officials.

Worst U.S. Air Toll for 7 Days Recorded

SAIGON (AP) — The United States suffered its heaviest losses for a seven-day period in the air war against North Vietnam—16 planes—between Aug. 21 and Aug. 27, the U.S. Command announced today.

The 16th plane—a Marine A6 intruder—was lost on Sunday due to "unknown causes," the command said, but announcement of the loss was delayed for security reasons.

* * *

The two Marine fliers were listed as missing in action, bringing the total of missing fliers for the seven-day period to 24. Three were rescued. In South Vietnam, the stepped-up Communist campaign of shelling and bridge destruction in the northern war zone was met today by three heavy B52 raids on Red staging bases inside the demilitarized zone.

Military headquarters said Communist sappers blew up nine bridges in the past 24 hours—eight of them in the northern area and one in the main Mekong Delta city of Can Tho.

CONCENTRATION SITES

The B52s dropped about 450,000 pounds of bombs on concentration sites and gun positions from which the Reds have staged heavy blows against U.S. Marine positions in the past few days. The three target areas were all just above the big sandbagged Marine fortress at Con Thien which guards the main infiltration route south.

The heavy attacks by the B52s followed intensive tactical air strikes by Marine and Air Force pilots on the gun positions where the Reds have dug in their heaviest weapons—152mm guns with a range of almost 20 miles.

These big guns opened up with heavy barrages on Marine positions two days ago, and since then Marine fighter-bomber pilots claim to have destroyed 14 fortified pits housing the big truck-drawn field pieces.

The increase in Communist shelling, bridge-blowing and terrorism was evidently intended to demonstrate Red muscle during the South Vietnamese presidential election campaign which ends Sunday. The Communists appear to be concentrating on terrorism in Saigon and on disrupting traffic along coastal Highway 1 in the northern sector and the main paved road south from Saigon to the big cities of My Tho and Can Tho in the Mekong delta.

Just after midnight Monday Communist sappers used the same technique to blow important bridges in Can Tho, and just below Da Nang in the north.

Senate Sees LBJ Pushing Viet in U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bloc of former senatorial delegates to the United Nations is confident President Johnson will try to initiate U.N. debate on Vietnam early in September.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, who led a show of support in the Senate Monday for such a move, said in an interview the next move is up to the President.

* * *

"The President is interested in bringing the matter before the Security Council and we were trying to demonstrate that he would have public backing if he undertakes to get action," he said. "The decision, of course, is up to the President. I am confident he would like to have the matter brought before the United Nations." He indicated no move would come before the South Vietnamese elections Sept. 3, however.

One by one, former members of American delegations to the U.N. got up to say the best route for breaking the stalemate on peace negotiations is through the international organization.

Inquest Called in Death of Brian Epstein

LONDON (AP) — Brian Epstein, the man who managed the Beatles, apparently died from unnatural causes, a corner's spokesman said today.

A postmortem on Epstein was held at Westminster. As a result of the pathologist's findings, Westminster Coroner Gavin Thurston ordered an analysis of Epstein's blood and the contents of the stomach.

* * *

"This is a normal practice, to order an analysis, when no natural cause of death can be found during the postmortem," said a spokesman for the coroner's office.

* * *

Epstein, 32, was found dead in bed at his luxurious home near Buckingham Palace Sunday afternoon.

An inquest into his death will be formally opened Wednesday to defer action until a State Senate committee investigation on metropolitan government is completed.

LOCAL DECISIONS

"We want you to decide what is good for us, not someone from another community," said a woman.

Treasurer L. Catherine Wolters said she didn't agree with everything in the structure of COG and wanted to find out why one township recently decided to withdraw from the organization. She did not identify the township.

* * *

"I would like to know more about it," said Mrs. Wolters. She said if the township joined COG and paid the required $1,000 fee, it would forfeit the funds if it later decided to withdraw from the unit.

Waterford Twp. Group Against Joining COG

A group of Waterford Township residents opposed to the community's entry into the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (COG) were somewhat appeased last night when the Township Board postponed a decision on COG membership for one month.

COG is an organization being set up to cope with mutual problems facing county governments, local governments and school districts in Southeast Michigan. It has no taxing or legislative powers.

The previous township board indicated its intent to join the organization, but no formal action has been taken.

The opposition is skeptical of COG and feels it would do the township more harm than good.

No Decision Yet on Suit Over Fluoride

No action was taken yesterday by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams on a request for a temporary injunction to halt the addition of fluoride to the water supplied to the City of Pontiac by Detroit.

Adams indicated no decision should be made until all facts are presented and all parties heard, according to John T. Rogers, attorney for the complainants.

Rogers said the case will be continued when all parties have completed filing legal papers.

Adams did approve a motion by the Detroit District Dental Society and the Michigan State Dental Association to intervene in the case as defendants with the City of Detroit, the City of Pontiac and the Detroit Board of Water Commissioners.

The complainants are Barbour Williams, Freda C. and Harley E. Woody, Neva G. Stewart, Anna R. Dover and Maude Lamoreaux.

Rogers said their rights have been infringed.

"They voted against fluoride years ago, and there is still a city ordinance in effect that prohibits the addition of fluoride in water in Pontiac," said Rogers.

One City Fights Decay

office building — a cultural nucleus with three legitimate theaters, new middle income housing, and at least one formerly all-Negro neighborhood which has become, through an influx of whites, 60 per cent Negro, 40 per cent white.

FAMILIAR GOALS

The goals New Haven tried to reach are familiar—"downtown revitalization" . . . "jobs, housing and education" . . . "to see that everyone has the opportunity to be able to choose" . . . "to find new ways to coordinate human renewal" . . . "to take the people out of the slums and the slums out of the people."

This required making use of all available resources including people, ideas and money, especially money, Cecil related.

Community Progress, Inc. (CPI), a nonprofit organization was the vehicle chosen to carry the campaign. New Haven Mayor Richard Lee, who Cecil credited with providing "dynamic leadership," and his fellow planners and aides chose a nonprofit organization, the urban expert said, "to get around the snares of local government" . . . "to get around the red tape of civil service" which would have nullified attracting top personnel, and to create an agency "which would not be on a par with other agencies of local government" but one which would have some extra power, "some muscle."

* * *

The CPI director was answerable only to the mayor. The 16-member board of directors which formed policy, consists of nine persons appointed by the local officials, including the mayor, school board, and fund raising agencies, and a member elected by each of seven "target" areas.

COORDINATED SPENDING

The CPI was the local agency for antipoverty funds and it coordinated spending of funds for 50 projects and 30 different social agencies.

"In 1954 New Haven was a dying city," Cecil said. "The upper income group was fleeing, there was an influx of low income minorities, the downtown was dead. It was the slum on the way to get to Yale."

In this type of situation, he said, "everything has to be done at once; nothing can be neglected."

* * *

Inspired by leadership, he said, New Haven didn't wait or try to achieve complete consensus of opinion. "If you wait for that you won't ever get anything done.

FREQUENT ERRORS

"We didn't wait for a final plan. We planned from 'the shoproom floor,'" he said, admitting that there were frequent errors and mistakes but also progress.

He said the city started with relatively easy problems to win confidence. "We tried to show something."

He also told of almost coercive efforts to change teacher salary schedules — "abysmally low" — to attract talented teachers, to change welfare office thinking, to get other social agencies away from "self-interest" thinking.

* * *

Integration, per se, was not a primary goal, he said, although major efforts were made to stabilize neighborhoods which were ready to become black and to build new integrated neighborhoods.

SCHOOLS LED

"Although the schools can't do it alone," Cecil said, the schools were the keystone of the whole operation. The city has rebuilt, or will, 15 of its 39 schools accompanied by new housing and parks, sewers, sanitary facilities.

* * *

These "community schools" are open around the clock, day-in and day-out, all year 'round, he said.

And yet all the accomplishment, and Cecil said it is considerable, required large doses of time and money.

* * *

The program didn't cost the local homeowners or taxpayers, but since 1954 CPI spent nearly $250 million and is operating this year on a $7 million budget.

FORD GRANT

But, where does the money come from? According to Cecil, CPI started with a $2.5 million Ford Foundation grant. All administrative expenses and the program have been continued by federal funds, 70 per cent; state aid, 15 per cent; and foundation grants, 15 per cent.

Getting funds is part of the secret, Cecil said. The CPI has eight full-time staff members who do nothing else but attempt to secure funds from a variety of sources including six U.S. departments.

Cecil, who will soon work in New Jersey under noted urbanologist Paul Ylvisaker, a former director of Ford Foundation, (and a brother of Dr. John Ylvisaker, Bloomfield Hills surgeon and developer of housing in Pontiac), candidly admits that despite this massive injection of money, ideas and effort New Haven is "a long way from having met the problems" of the fractured city.

* * *

Yes, he said, the city is still losing upper income groups and is drawing the low-income minority. The population has dropped from 152,000 in 1960 to 139,000 in 1967.

Despite a strong open housing ordinance which calls for subpoena powers by a fair housing commission and stiff fines for violations, there "is little movement of Negroes into white neighborhoods."

This is because, he said, Negroes still don't have the necessary income and because there still is built-in prejudice and resentment and because sellers and renters are able to get around the ordinance. "There are many ways to subvert it," he said.

And, New Haven, the model city, has recently been scarred by race tension, civil outbreaks and violence. "The riots show we haven't reached the seriously alienated, the seriously deprived and the seriously hostile young people," he said.

* * *

Admitting he has no easy answer, he said New Haven's rehabilitation was a success (in community spirit and in physical renewal) as far as it went, but New Haven has not done enough, has not done it fast enough and has not done it effectively enough.

"No city has done enough," he said.

Holly School Board Head Asks Voters' Support, Pride

HOLLY TOWNSHIP — William B. Darnton, president of the Holly School District Board of Trustees, has called upon district voters to remember "community pride" as they cast ballots in Thursday's school millage election.

"The reputation of the community is at stake," he said. "Holly has always been justly proud of its schools and we can't afford to change that now."

The voters will be asked to approve a board request for a 7-mill levy. It marks the third time a millage proposal has been put to the electorate in as many months.

About one-fifth of the district's funds are at stake.

* * *

In June and July, 10-mill requests were refused by the voters. Approval of the current proposal would only renew a seven-mill, five-year levy that expired earlier this year.

NOT A NEW TAX'

"A lot of people don't seem to understand that this millage request is not a new tax, but a continuation of one that expired," Darnton said.

"They also may not be aware of how severely the program will have to be cut in order to continue operations with such limited funds," he said.

WILLIAM DARNTON
School Board President

All extracurricular activities, including organized sports, will be eliminated, he said, in the event of a millage failure.

* * *

Other facets of the austerity budget would include a curtailed adult education program, and extensive cuts in purchases of books and supplies, and building improvements and maintenance.

LESS THAN ADEQUATE

The school system would be forced to operate with 10 fewer teachers than are considered adequate.

He pointed out that five additional teachers will be needed this fall to adequately handle an expected enrollment increase of 150 students.

The schools, he said, are already about five teachers short and some classes as a result are overcrowded.

* * *

The cutbacks will force a number of trained people to leave the school system, Darnton said.

'NO ALTERNATIVE'

"People don't seem to think we're going to do all of this but we will. We will have no alternative.

"Students have certain basic educational needs," he said, "and we'll try to avoid cuts in those areas. We'll try to do the best we can with what we have.

He pointed out that a good school system is important to all other functions of a community and without it the growth and attractiveness of the area to development would be severely impaired.

* * *

The board president issued his appeal on both a "personal" basis and on behalf of the other elected members of the board of trustees.

'WOULD BE POOREST'

"If this millage request fails, Holly people will find themselves in the poorest district in the surrounding area.

* * *

"Maybe we can't afford to have the best, but I'm sure we don't want to be the lowest," Darnton said.

MODERN EDUCATION — Huron Valley's Northwest Elementary teachers have been meeting to discuss the newest in teaching methods. Among the four consultants helping guide the discussions are (from left) Emily Girault and Ronald Lippett of the University of Michigan, and Huron Valley Assistant Superintendent of Instruction Bill Force, who organized the conferences.

For Opening of Northwest Elementary

Teachers Mull Innovations in Education

More than the building will be modern when the Northwest Elementary School in Huron Valley District opens this January.

Recently, the 20 teachers spent two weeks hearing how to be modern themselves.

Modern, in educational circles, includes team teaching, ungraded classrooms, mixing of ages and increased involvement of teachers in the educational process.

The some 550 students to attend Northwest have a good chance to be part of this progressive type of education.

* * *

The new school is under construction on 20 acres on North Milford near Wardlow, north of M59 in Highland Township.

DISCOVERIES MULLED

The teachers are now mulling over what they discovered about teaching innovations from the four educational consultants they met with from Aug. 14 through 25.

The consultants hired by the district were Wendell Hough, professor in the College of Education, Wayne State University; Ronald Lippett, professor with the Center for Research on Utilization of Scientific Knowledge, Institute of Social Research (ISR) at the University of Michigan; and Emily Girault and Jere Johnston, both with the School of Education, University of Michigan.

Northwest's new principal, Gerald McAdams, regards the development of teamwork among the teachers as the major result of the two-week conferences.

* * *

"The teachers now have a desire to help one another, to cooperate in the educational effort. They know each other," McAdams said. Such conditions facilitate such new teaching methods as team teaching.

TEAMS ORGANIZED

During the conferences, the teachers organized into teams which are expected to continue throughout the school year, guiding the implementation of some new teaching methods.

The four teams are: evaluation and feedback for the programs, study of cross-age groupings for instruction, human relations and a steering committee. Recommendations from the teams will go from the steering committee to Principal McAdams and other administrators for approval.

Most significant work so far has focused on classes of mixed ages. The team is now deciding how to implement this new teaching idea, reported McAdams.

* * *

One way to carry out this method is putting two teachers with pupils of different ages, allowing older pupils to help instruct the younger ones.

SECOND METHOD

The second way to use this cross-age method is to have only several older pupils enter a class of younger pupils.

About 10 hours are needed to train older pupils to help the younger ones, said McAdams. He estimated that within about three weeks after the Northwest Elementary opens, the training will have begun.

The human relations committee is planning to draw up a petition to install a traffic light at the intersection of M59 and Milford Road. The committee is hoping to team up with parents on this proposal, reported the principal.

The evaluation committee has already been at work, having distributed evaluation sheets almost every day of the two-week conferences.

STEERING UNIT

The steering committee, said McAdams, will promote cooperative efforts and information flow among the staff and between it and the administration.

The teachers will have a chance to try out these new methods the first semester, when the Northwest pupils will attend classes in the Highland Junior High School building. They will be sharing the building with the Highland Elementary students.

At that time, the students who would have gone to classes at Highland Junior High, will share Muir Junior High School with regular Muir students. Both groups will attend classes for five hours in different shifts.

The possibility of trying out new teaching methods was influenced by the Northwest Elementary building. Firstly, the elementary teachers initially helped plan the building.

SUITS TEACHING

Secondly, they planned a building which lends itself easily to new teaching methods, observed Assistant Superintendent Gerald Kratz.

* * *

Each grade will have three adjacent classrooms whose walls can be easily drawn aside. Teachers standing in the front of the center classroom can be seen by students in all three rooms.

Permits Show Slight Decline in Construction

Residential construction during the first six months of 1967 in the Northern Oakland County area was down slightly from last year, but the city of Troy forged ahead in its building boom with 1,399 permits issued.

Multi-unit apartment type buildings account for 932 of Troy's permits — well ahead of any city in the four-county metropolitan area, according to a report issued by the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission.

Pontiac, however, issued only 30 permits — all for single family dwellings — and is 27 units less due to the demolition of 57 units.

In comparison, Detroit was on the minus side with 1,896 units destroyed and only 757 permits issued.

* * *

Other leaders in the Northern Oakland area include Farmington Twp. with 332, Bloomfield Township with 305, Rochester with 304, W. Bloomfield with 281, Avon Township with 255, Waterford Twp. with 187 and Birmingham with 110.

AREA NEWS

Political Storm Erupts During Budget Session

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — What was billed as a budget session here last night turned into a four-hour political storm as township trustees debated vacation pay for fire dispatchers, measures to eliminate pollution, and membership in the Council of One Hundred.

Split votes defeated extra vacation pay for the three dispatchers, who have found it necessary to double up during absences due to vacation.

The same three defeated voters — Treasurer Goldie B. Mallahn and Trustees John C. Richardson and Walter G. Smith — were again defeated in their bid to keep the township out of the proposed association of governments for the metropolitan area.

Trustee Smith raised objections to engineering costs in regard to sanitary sewer laterals proposed to hook into the Clinton-Oakland Interceptor.

* * *

Said he, "When I see confirmation of an outlet for this interceptor then I will not object to going ahead with plans for our sewers."

MACOMB INTERCEPTOR

The proposal by the Oakland County Department of Public Works is to empty the interceptor into a Macomb County interceptor which would discharge the flow into the Detroit sewer plant.

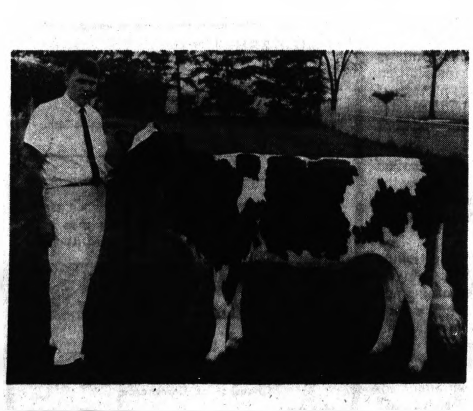

The township is under citation by the State Water Resources Commission for pollution to the Clinton River and has been given until Dec. 1 to come up with plans for its elimination.

Three Area 4-H'ers Win Trip

Among the 40 4-H members who won trips to Chicago at last week's State Show at Michigan State University at East Lansing were three from the area.

Making the trip this week are Linda Van Dyke, achievement; Malcolm Barclay of 3818 Cichl, Metamora, forestry; and Dan Campbell of Romeo, achievement.

Among the other area winners were Hess of Holly, second place driving skill; Pam Barnes of Oakland Township for horse reining; and L. C. Scramlin, with the junior champion Ayrshire.

4-H WINNER — L. C. Scramlin of Holly shows his Ayrshire named junior champion at the 82nd annual 4-H State Show at Michigan State University in East Lansing. Scramlin was previously named king of the Oakland County 4-H Fair.

School Agreements Are Reached

Negotiations between school boards and teachers associations continued today with several districts reaching agreement as the summer vacation period goes into its last week.

Following is the progress reported in some districts:

BRANDON

Both the Brandon Teachers Association and the school board have ratified a one-year contract giving raises as high as $1,400 to some teachers.

Formal signing is to take place later this week. An unfair labor practice charge brought by the teachers against the district on alleged unfair bargaining is to be dropped, association officials announced.

The package changes pay scales for bachelor degrees from the former rate of $5,600 to $8,000 up to $6,200 to $9,925 and from masters degrees from the former $5,900 to $8,300 up to $6,600 to $10,325.

* * *

The agreement also calls for complete medical insurance to be paid by the district.

ROCHESTER

The board of education last night ratified a contract approved by its teachers last Friday which provides for substantial increases in salaries and other benefits.

A beginning teacher with a bachelor degree will receive $6,350 as opposed to last year's $5,550 — the scale running to a maximum of $10,002. Teachers with master's degrees will range in salary from $6,800 to $11,002, the top step providing for about a $1,400 increase.

* * *

Full medical benefits were won by the Rochester Education Association and sick leave days were increased from 10 to 12 with an accumulative total of 112 days. Salaries for extra-curricular activities and summer school were also raised.

The school calendar was extended a week providing for a full week's vacation over Easter.

Schools Supt. Douglas Lund said he believed the contract to be a reasonable package and competitive with those in surrounding districts.

Though the budget reflects more outgo than income, Lund said the district should end the financial year in the black as the result of a surplus carried over from last year.

* * *

School begins Sept. 6 with half-day sessions, the first full day of classes being Sept. 7.

AVONDALE

The need to go for increased operating millage next year in Avondale School District was confirmed by Schools Supt. John W. Dickey whose board last night ratified a contract with its teachers.

He said the district would hopefully end the year financially sound with the aid of a $289,835 surplus from last year. Outgo is figured at $2,413,692.

Of the total budget 84 per cent is marked for salaries for all personnel.

* * *

Local taxes are expected to produce 37.66 per cent of the budget with 58.16 per cent coming from state aid and the remainder made up from federal, county and other monies.

The district levies a total of 30.10 mills.

Students will report to classes Sept. 6.

WALLED LAKE

The Board of Education studied at its meeting last night the teachers' contract only tentatively agreed upon and sent it to the board's attorney for review.

The board does not expect to take formal action on the contract until next week, said Supt. George Garver.

The teachers plan to vote on the contract the evening of Labor Day.

* * *

Last June, the teachers voted that if they would not have a settled contract by the opening of school, they will not report for work, said the Walled Lake Education Association President Herbert Norgrove.

NOVI

A tentative agreement has been reached between the negotiating teams of Novi Board of Education and the Novi Education Association during the day-long session yesterday with a mediator from the Michigan Labor Mediation Board.

The agreement, however, has yet to be ratified by the teachers who will meet Thursday. The board plans to take its action after the teachers have met.

The agreement calls for an increase in the beginning salary from $5,500 to $6,175 for the bachelor of science degree and from $5,800 to $6,575 for the master's degree.

Top salaries would be reached in 10 steps to $9,153 and $9,760 respectively. Annual sick leave was increased to 12 days per year to accumulate to 120 days in 10 years.

Longevity pay was approved at two and one-half per cent of the salary at the 15th years.

Man Is Accused of Barn Burning

BRUCE TOWNSHIP — A Romeo man has been charged with arson in connection with the burning of a barn.

Robert C. Warick, 21, was arraigned on the charge yesterday and was being held in Macomb County jail in lieu of $2,000 bond.

He is accused of starting a fire that destroyed a barn in Bruce Township at 12795 33 Mile 7:30 a.m. Sunday morning.

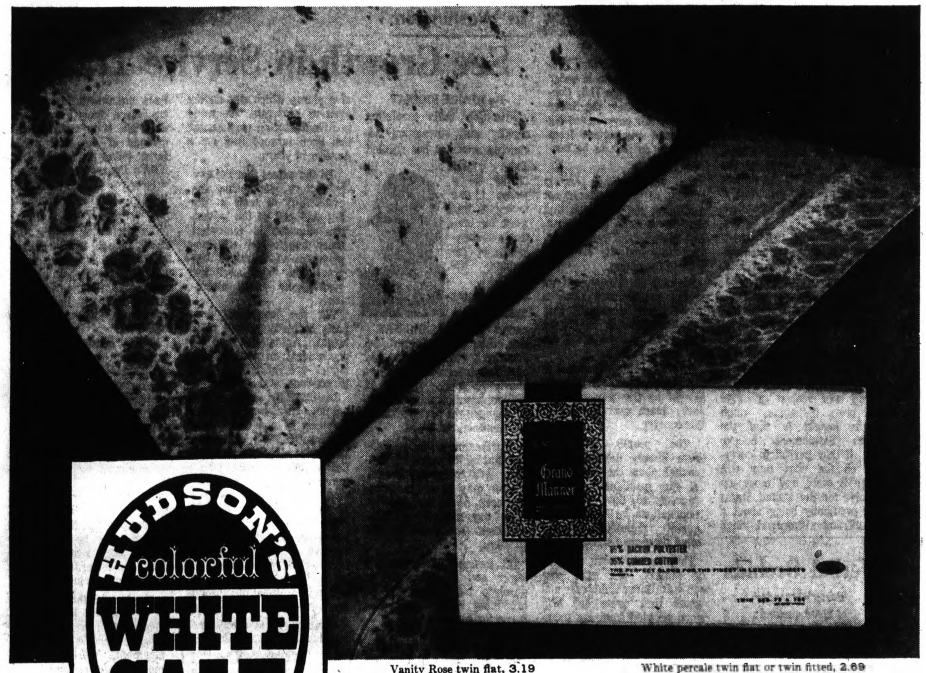

The burning of two other barns in the area on Saturday were attributed to arson by Romeo State Police.

'Open Housing' Ambiguous Ideal

What is open housing? There's been a good deal of talk about it at recent Pontiac City Commission meetings. Civil rights groups have requested that city commissioners adopt a local open housing ordinance. But there may be many who don't fully understand what this general term, "open housing," actually means.

★ ★ ★

Pure open housing is simply legislation prohibiting discrimination in the sale or rental of housing on the basis of race, color, creed or national origin. Applying this to Negroes, it means simply a law that prohibits anyone from refusing to sell or rent living quarters to a Negro because he is a Negro.

★ ★ ★

Open housing laws are sometimes referred to as fair housing or open occupancy laws, but regardless of their title, their basic purpose is to make it illegal to use racial discrimination as a basis for refusal to sell or rent property.

There you have a definition. However, a definition alone does not determine the effectiveness of any open housing law.

★ ★ ★

Two questions must be answered before the import of a state or local law can be assessed.

- What exceptions does it allow?
- How is it enforced?

★ ★ ★

For example, only Michigan, Alaska, Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands laws have no exceptions. All housing, public and private, in those jurisdictions is covered.

Most other states exempt owner-occupied rooming houses where only a few rooms are for rent, and homes maintained by religious, fraternal or social organizations. In about 10 states where there are open housing laws, more housing is exempt than is covered.

★ ★ ★

The provisions for enforcement are even more troublesome. In some states they are vague. In others enforcement involves an approach that is so time-consuming that in practice it has made the laws virtually meaningless except when developers of large housing tracts are involved.

If Michigan's open housing law suffers anywhere, it is in enforcement.

★ ★ ★

The Michigan Civil Rights Commission was given broad powers to combat discrimination through issuance of "cease and desist" orders which could be enforced in the courts. That process is often time-consuming.

★ ★ ★

The role of local civil rights agencies was further clarified in a policy devised by the state attorney general's office and civil rights commission whereby cities may enact open housing laws which impose criminal sanctions, as distinguished from the commission's civil enforcement procedure.

While this created a legal basis for strong civil rights programs, it still leaves the question of effective enforcement in the hands of local officials. How effective such enforcement is, can only be answered by time and experience.

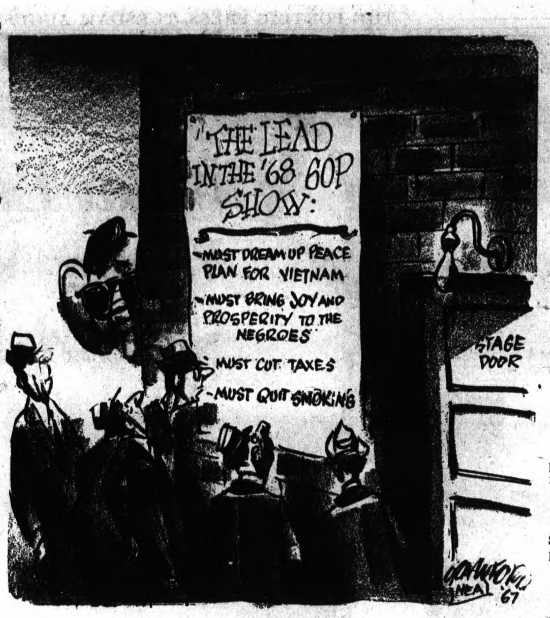

★ ★ ★

Underscoring the legal uncertainties still existing over the civil rights commission's power is a case now pending in Oakland County Circuit Court. It involves a developer who refused to sell a home in a Birmingham subdivision to a Negro. The civil rights commission intervened. The developer has challenged the commission's right to intervene. Until a decision is rendered, the legal powers of enforcement vested in the civil rights commission are in doubt.

★ ★ ★

Even the state legislature has failed to clear such doubts. Earlier this year a proposal was introduced in the legislature. It would have clearly defined the commission's role as an enforcement agency. It has not been passed to date.

Thus, it is obvious that even the most comprehensive open housing laws can be bogged down by vague powers of enforcement.

'Plans for Downtown Should Include Parks'

In "The Quiet Crisis" Stewart Udall urged that city planners take into consideration the real human need for contact with nature by designating areas for parks and "village greens" in all new city or suburban areas, as well as in cities undergoing urban renewal. Perhaps downtown could benefit if two or three blocks on the west side of Saginaw bounding the Clinton River could be so used, somewhat like Central Park in New York.

★ ★ ★

If our submerged river could be resurrected and cleaned up and a beautiful parkway planted along either side, it would do so much to enhance Pontiac. I wonder if either of the urban renewal plans for Pontiac call for any parks in the downtown area.

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Hesitance on Viet Evident

WASHINGTON—If anything were needed to convince the North Vietnam government that they can gain their ends by prolonging the war, it is the news that comes over the wires nowadays from Washington.

LAWRENCE

Not only is it clearly evident that the hands of the American armed services are being tied and that they are being prevented by the secretary of defense from using maximum power to win the war, but the enemy is being informed, in effect, that the United States is hesitant to take the steps which could lead to victory.

Portions of the testimony before the preparedness subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee now have been made public which indicate that the military chiefs do not relish the restrictions imposed on them in fighting the war.

Gen. Wallace M. Greene, commandant of the Marine Corps, told the committee, for example, that the United States "must make it as difficult and costly as we can for Hanoi to support the war."

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, chief of staff of the Army, testified that the aerial assault has "contributed significantly" and is essential to the success of the military effort in Southeast Asia.

The controversy between Secretary of Defense McNamara and the heads of the armed services on the subject of strategy has produced a sense of frustration in Congress.

Some senators who have been urging a procedure that amounts to what has been called in the past "peace at any price" now feel encouraged to intensify their efforts along the same line.

Thus far the Hanoi government has shown no signs of coming to the peace table.

The only reason given in the press dispatches which seems logical is that the North Vietnamese believe that, if they persist in carrying on the war, they will make it more and more expensive for the United States and eventually bring about a humiliating withdrawal which would be hailed throughout the world as the biggest defeat that the United States has ever suffered. Communist imperialists everywhere would then rejoice.

Recently the theory has been advanced that, when the elections in South Vietnam have taken place, the United States will turn the whole problem over to the government in Saigon and let it try to conduct negotiations on its own.

This, of course, would hardly prevent North Vietnam from adopting a domineering role.

★ ★ ★

What isn't generally realized is that if the Vietnam War should have such a tragic result, another war in Southeast Asia could break out after a short interval, and the United States might become directly involved with Red China.

Bob Considine Says:

Ky's Rebuke of Congress Over Honesty Justified

NEW YORK — It must have been with some misgivings that President Johnson appointed a group of his fellow citizens to fly to Vietnam to observe the Vietnamese go to the polls next Sunday.

CONSIDINE

No matter how discreet our poll-watchers are as they make their rounds in a land where a sullen war is raging their presence will smack of big brotherhood.

It seems to me that Premier Ky was quite in order when he told the U.S. Congress by letter the other day that his government did not need any advice from anybody on how to be honest.

He exercised a certain amount of good taste in not reminding the Congress that there have been voting scandals in just about every American state and city since the birth of the nation.

Richard M. Nixon will go to his grave many decades hence firmly convinced that vote manipulation in Cook County, Ill., robbed him of the presidency in 1960.

The Van Thieu-Ky ticket is as overwhelming a favorite to win as the Johnson-Humphrey team was in 1964 in this country.

The people of Vietnam simply do not know enough about the remainder of the candidates in the race, do not have the communications facilities to acquaint themselves with what these men stand for.

They are, in short, a bunch of Millers, the man who ran with Barry Goldwater and whose first name has long since receded from my memory.

Thieu and Ky are familiar figures to the electorate all the way from the DMZ down through the Mekong Delta and it is they the people will vote for.

Apparently to the astonishment of some of our military and diplomatic brass stationed in Vietnam, both Thieu and Ky have been found to be almost sternly honest in their dealings with their American counterparts.

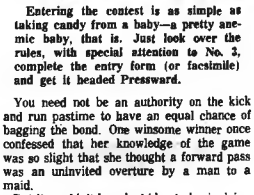

Some of their colleagues and most of their predecessors became wealthy by adhering strictly to the old Vietnamese proverb: honesty is not the best policy.

Ky takes particular pride in the modest materialistic progress he has made in life and it was when that pride was wounded that he got off his tart retort to the doubting Thomases on Capitol Hill.

Odds Are Even in Press Grid Game

This will not be news for those who read the kick-off announcement of The Press' Annual Football Contest that will qualify some lucky entrant for the winner's award of a $500 U. S. Savings Bond.

But for the benefit of those who came in late, the newspaper's grid game that yearly serves as a curtain-raiser to the Nation's pigskin pyrotechnics is off and running. (Note to editor: How's that for mixing a metaphor?)

Entering the contest is as simple as taking candy from a baby—a pretty anemic baby, that is. Just look over the rules, with special attention to No. 2, complete the entry form (or facsimile) and get it headed Pressward.

You need not be an authority on the kick and run pastime to have an equal chance of bagging the bond. One winsome winner once confessed that her knowledge of the game was so slight that she thought a forward pass was an uninvited overture by a man to a maid.

But it wouldn't be a bad idea to begin doing a little gridiron homework through the medium of our sports pages to add punch to your hunch.

As Confucius might have said: "He who burn midnight oil on contest make self hot contender."

CONTEST RULES

1. Every man, woman and child is eligible to enter contest (except Press employes and close relatives) but are limited to one entry each. All members of families may participate, subject to the same limitation.

2. To enter, you simply check your prediction of the winner of each of the 16 games below (to indicate a tie, leave both boxes blank), sign entry form, and dispatch.

3. Entries may be deposited in The Press' Huron Street drop box or mailed. If mailed, they must be enclosed in envelopes (THE POST OFFICE WILL NOT ACCEPT POSTAL CARDS WITH ATTACHED ENTRIES) and addressed to: THE PONTIAC PRESS FOOTBALL CONTEST, P.O. Box 777, Pontiac, Michigan.

4. The contestant who correctly predicts the consecutive outcome of the most games will be awarded a $500 U.S. Savings Bond.

5. Contest deadline is Friday noon, Sept. 15, and entries must be on hand at The Press by that time. Those arriving later, even though postmarked prior, will not be considered.

6. Judges' decisions on all questions relating to contest will be final

See Growth in Service Trades

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

With job skills escalating rapidly and automation advancing apace, it has seemed there could hardly be a worse time to try to find work for hundreds of thousands of untrained Negroes.

BIOSSAT

A few years ago, a science magazine editor named Gerard Piel accurately calculated that, out of a then total work force just above 70 million, barely 12 million Americans were directly engaged in the production of manufactured goods.

Furthermore, Piel predicted that by the year 2000, factory workers in the United States may be as scarce as farmers. At the time of writing, the number of U.S. farmers was down to six million.

His forecast, then, was that fewer and fewer people, in absolute numbers, would be producing more and more goods for America.

At the moment, however, the prophecy looks faulty. Labor Department figures for 1966 show that the country is currently employing some 14.2 million workers directly in production, a gain of more than two million over the level (for 1961) noted by Piel.

Labor Department officials suggest Piel may have been reading as long-range signs what were in fact the marks of a slump which was ending even as he wrote. The trend in manufacturing employment has been upward now for a number of years.

To the extent that the rise in factory jobs means the availability of some at the low-skill end of the ladder, the situation is somewhat more hopeful for the employment of untrained Negroes who today swell the unemployed ranks alarmingly.

Yet the long-range prognosis is really not all that bright. Automation and improvements in worker techniques are, of course, going to continue at high rate.

In 1965, the average U.S. employe turned out goods and services in one hour which were worth $4.18. In terms of 1960 prices, by the year 2000 the comparable figure is estimated by the National Planning Association as likely to be $10.50.

Even with greatly expanding population, therefore, the relative demand for production workers will, it is expected, have declined in percentage terms if not in absolute numbers.

The NPA evidently defines manufacturing workers more inclusively than did Piel. It puts their percentage of the total work force today at around 25. NPA's figures are useful as a forecast, and they suggest that by 2000 the percentage will be down to 18.

The interesting thing is that this change is indicated even though it is also anticipated that the work week will by then have shrunk to only about three-fourths of its present length. A 31-hour week is looked for.

NPA's crystal-gazing suggests that in about 15 years considerably more Americans will be engaged in the service trades than in goods-making. And by the turn of the century, as many people may be employed in federal, state and local government as will be employed by manufacturing firms.

So, if the focus is put just on factory jobs, the immediate outlook for Negro opportunities, may be better than seemed likely a few years ago — but the long-range prospect is still not cheerful.

If, though, the expansion of government is looked at along with the continuing rise of service trade employment, there may be more reason for hope.

The need may be less to break down factory jobs into low-skill segments than to invent, deliberately on an unprecedented scale, hundreds of thousands of new service jobs to absorb the legions of unemployed. This is where the growth is, anyway.

2 Planning Contracts Approved

Waterford Township's third year "701" planning program and a supplementary project are ready to go.

Last night, the Township Board approved two separate contracts with the Michigan Department of Commerce and planning consultants Driker Associates of Birmingham for the federally-assisted and local-funded phases of the undertaking.

Some $8,619 in township funds was appropriated for those parts of the program deleted by the state because of a shortage in federal funds.

Driker Associates will perform the phases of the program eliminated by the state.

★ ★ ★

This consists of the public relations phase of the project, which entails publication and distribution of brochures to township residents and presentation of slides to the public.

PICTORIAL EXPLANATION

The brochures and slides will explain the township's comprehensive development plan.

Federal funds will be used to plan for future industrial development in the township, capital improvements and the upgrading of commercial-industrial frontage on the three major thoroughfares — M59, Dixie Highway and Elizabeth Lake Road.

Driker Associates also was hired to provide an interim part-time township planner until a new planning director is named.

★ ★ ★

The resignation of Planning Director Vernon Wiggins was accepted by the board las night. Wiggins' last day is Friday. He has accepted a planning position in Alaska.

OTHER RESIGNATIONS

Other resignations accepted last night were William Shunck from the planning commission and Michael Patterson from the library advisory board.

Annual fee to the township will be $10.

The public hearing for a proposed special assessment district street-lighting project was changed from 7 to 9 p.m. at the board's Sept. 11 meeting. Two lights would be installed on Prairie Lawn.

Beekeepers Are Abuzz

By HUDSON WILLSE

Just how far away should beehives be?

Beekeepers and their supporters came in numbers to the Waterford Township Board meeting last night to thwart a proposed township ordinance which, if adopted, would have restricted the owning, raising and keeping of bees to agricultural areas.

The board, instead, tabled action on the ordinance for two weeks to determine, with the help of an expert, just how far away beehives should be located from residences so as not to constitute a nuisance.

It also was indicated that the "agricultural area" restriction may be deleted from the proposed ordinance.

★ ★ ★

Democratic Trustee Robert E. Richmond, who made the tabling motion, said he feels that beekeeping operations in the township should not be limited to agricultural areas.

3-3 DEADLOCK

In an initial vote, Richmond's motion met defeat via a 3-3 deadlock. However, after reconsideration, the board passed Richmond's motion unanimously.

Attorney Wallace D. McLay, who represented the beekeepers, contends the proposed ordinance is unconstitutional, citing a few cases to bolster his claim.

He said that it is their position that beekeeping does not constitute a nuisance, public or private, consequently making the ordinance unfair.

★ ★ ★

Several beekeepers from various communities in Southeastern Michigan commented on the issue. They were in accord that honey bees will not sting unless they are bothered.

IMPORTANCE OF BEES

They emphasized the importance of bees from a pollination standpoint.

Quoting another source, one of the beekeepers said a shortage of bees will prevail by 1980 which, he stressed, will have an adverse effect on 80 crops.

One of the beekeepers said that only 20 deaths a year are attributed to bees, wasps, hornets and yellowjackets in the U.S.

★ ★ ★

Another man opined that cigarette smoking is more hazardous.

POINTED REMARK

Someone else from the good-humored audience, directing his remark to Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson, chimed in, "Say, Elmer, could you throw flies and mosquitoes in that ordinance."

Another man, doubting the constitutionality of the proposed ordinance, suggested that dogs might next be declared a nuisance.

Residents living in the neighborhood of a North Winding beekeeping operation where the issue stemmed remained firm in their contention that the bees represent a hazard to their children.

★ ★ ★

McLay estimated that 20 or more township residents currently are raising bees for honey.

Viet Hopeful Says Campaign Improved

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's leading civilian candidate for president said today he is satisfied that the campaign is going "normally" and that "pressures and intimidations of the local authorities against our campaign workers have been reduced."

"In the past two weeks," former Premier Tran Van Huong told his final campaign news conference, "the electoral campaign has unfolded normally in spite of too great a discrepancy between the means available to the civilian tickets and to the two generals," Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

* * *

Huong said the improvement in the campaign atmosphere, "does not mean that the coming election will be entirely honest, because intimidating the campaign workers is one thing and cheating at the election is another. We shall have to watch and see how the authorities behave during election day to pass any judgment."

Aslo watching will be observers from more than 40 nations, including 22 prominent Americans sent by President Johnson, and some 600 newsmen.

There have been increasing reports that Huong's position is strengthening while that of Thieu and Ky is being eroded. Thieu and Ky are still considered the best bets to win in the voting Sunday, but victory for Huong is no longer considered impossible.

Huong said he would refuse to serve as premier if Thieu and Ky won and that he would not appoint either of them if he won.

He said negotiations to end the war could be held only with North Vietnam and not the Vietcong, and that the United States and other foreign allies would play only an advisory role in such negotiations.

"I am not saying we do not trust our American friends," Huong said, "but the principal role in negotiations will be North and South Vietnam and we would only discuss the matter with our allies."

President Johnson's panel of observers was due in Saigon late today. Two new members were added to it—Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church in Washington, and Ed Monroe of Seattle, Wash., president of the National Association of Counties—and Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, accompanied the group as adviser, coordinator and escort officer.

U.S. and South Vietnamese sources said, meanwhile, that captured documents and intelligence reports show a country-wide plan by the Vietcong to sabotage the election.

If the election fails, one document said, it would provide "momentum to force a new political crisis."

The plans call for propaganda meetings in villages and hamlets to warn people not to vote, training of youths to handle explosives "which can be placed in polling places," destroying public buildings, and assassinating government personnel and kidnaping civilians to get their identity and voting cards for Vietcong workers to use.

* * *

In one province east of Saigon, the sources said, the Viet Cong plans to ambush voters on their way to the polls, attack polling places and seize the ballot boxes.

Sure, it's too early to go hunting. But Mrs. Charles A. Murray, and Mrs. George J. Auchterlonie, both of Birmingham, are making plans for a game dinner. Their services in preparing such a dinner for 10 will be one of the items to be auctioned Sept. 23 by the Junior League of Birmingham. This is the first event of its kind sponsored by the League. Gal Should Call Fiance, Apologize for Being Tied to Mother's Apron

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The other evening I was ready to go out with my fiance when he asked me to please change my dress. He said he didn't like me in "pants." Abby, I wasn't wearing pants. I was wearing a divided skirt, called "culottes."

ABBY

My mother said I couldn't go out with him unless I wore the culottes, so there I was, torn between my fiance and my mother.

Then my mother told my fiance he should apologize to me, and he said he didn't have anything to apologize for, that he should have the say in what I wear when I go out with him. My mother said after we were married maybe, but not until.

Well, my fiance left, and I haven't heard from him since and it's been four days. Abby, I love him and I'm worried, but I don't think I should break down and call him, do you? We've been engaged six months.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Call HIM and apologize. You don't say how old you are, but a woman who's been engaged for six months should be able to run her own love life without coaching from her mother. If your fiance accepts your apology, marry him before he changes his mind. A man who insists on wearing the pants in his family can't be all bad.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 13 years old, another girl and I were caught taking a wallet from the dime store. The manager caught us, made us give him our names and addresses and said he was going to call our parents. He told us never to set foot in his store again. We didn't. Fortunately he never called our parents. We promised ourselves we would never steal another thing, and we have kept that promise.

Years have passed and now our problem is, in filling out job applications, where it asks, "Have you ever been arrested?" Should we say YES or NO?

Please answer in your column as we are too ashamed to sign our names. Thank you.

TWO 18-YEAR-OLDS

★ ★ ★

DEAR TWO: You were only caught and warned. This is not the same as being "arrested." That you would ask, however, is a good sign.

DEAR ABBY: The letter you published from the mother of a retarded child moved me to tears, for my husband and I have also walked through this valley.

Our second child was severely retarded, and we were also crucified by thoughtless people.

One woman (a total stranger) came up to my door and said, "I hear you have a baby that's an idiot. I've never seen an idiot and I came to see yours."

I told her that my son was not on display to anyone of her cruel curiosity.

Although we were also blessed with two normal, brilliant children who have brought us much joy, our little retarded son has given us depth of love and understanding we never could have known without him.

What we considered at first "a cross to bear" has become one of life's richest blessings. If you feel that this will bring a little bit of courage to new parents of a retarded child, please print it.

MOTHER OF A RETARDED CHILD

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday night I had a date with a guy I'll call Joe. It was supposed to be a double date with another couple I'll call Jim and Sue.

Sue had a headache, or so she said, and couldn't make it, so Jim came along with Joe and me.

I felt sorry for Jim without a girl and all, so I tried to make it up to him and I danced half the dances with him and half with Joe.

Joe got mad at me, and now he won't even speak to me. Who is wrong? If I'm wrong I'll apologize as soon as I see Joe again.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Since Jim didn't have a date, he was rather presumptuous to have gone along with you and Joe. You may have meant well, but I'm afraid you went too far trying to give both Joe and Jim a pleasant evening. Apologize to Joe. If he doesn't forgive you—well, there's always Jim.

She Enclosed an Acceptance Card Stamped

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I know how you feel about writing a reply to any formal invitation (especially wedding), but unfortunately most people either do not know this is the proper thing to do, or perhaps they do not wish to take the time to write an answer.

My wedding reception included a formal dinner where it was imperative that we know a reasonably exact number of guests attending. Therefore, I sent along with my invitations a small engraved card stating number attending and name. We did include engraved, stamped return envelopes for the cards. Many people failed to return the cards.

To my surprise, some of these came to the reception which caused a great deal of confusion as I had not prepared for them; others did not come.

As you can see, Mrs. Post, our society is either far too busy or far too unconcerned to simply write a number and a name on a reply card, so how can we ever expect them to write an acceptance letter for an invitation? — Mrs. D.T.

Dear Mrs. T.: It is discouraging to think that people are so ill-mannered or so lazy that they cannot fill in a line on a response card. I wonder how many fewer would have written answers if you had not enclosed cards. In many ways more people have better manners than ever before, but an effort of this sort seems beyond them.

And sending answer cards is not the solution. Whatever the mechanics, people must return to the era of thoughtfulness in which no one would think of neglecting to answer an invitation.

"SHERBET"

Dear Mrs. Post? I was not surprised to see the word "sherbet" mispelled in the letter addressed to you in your column, as it is misspelled and mispronounced by many people, but I was rather shocked to see the same misspelling in your answer to the problem.

There is no such word as "sherbert." Please set your readers straight on this word? — Mrs. L.

Dear Mrs. L.: Thank you for calling attention to my error, and I will certainly set my readers straight. The correct spelling, as Mrs. L. says, is SHERBET.

Dear Mrs. Post: A male friend of mine recently received an invitation to a backyard Sweet Sixteen party which suggested that he bring a date. I know the girl as a school acquaintance.

If my date brings a gift, is it necessary for me to bring one also? — Kathleen

★ ★ ★

Dear Kathleen: Yes, I think you should bring a gift, unless you and your date wish to take a gift together with a card signed by both of you.

Saturday Vows for Jerry A. Reeses Are in Candlelight

Sharon Kay Norberg and Jerry Allen Reese were wed Saturday evening in a candlelight ceremony at Aldersgate Methodist Church.

White glamelias with yellow sweetheart roses were carried by the bride.

Her silk organza sheath featured kabuki sleeves and a Chantilly lace border. A Dior bow held the bustle back of her cathedral length veil.

An arrangement of carnations and seed pearls secured her veil.

Nancy Norberg was maid of honor for her sister. They are the daughters of the Melvin S. Norbergs of Lake Angelus.

Bridesmaids were Susan Norberg (another sister), Mrs. Edward Theriot and Mrs. James Hobson.

Feminine Fun Is Fare for Her

LAKE OZARK, Mo. (UPI — The first ladies of 13 Midwestern states focused their attention on fun, fashions and food Monday while their husbands labored over the common problems shared by chief executives.

Guests of honor at a lavish luncheon at the Lodge Of The Four Seasons, the governors' ladies dined and watched while Missouri paraded its fashion best.

Mrs. Betty Hearnes, wife of the home state governor, served as hostess.

The state's biggest department store showed off dozens of Missouri-made dresses, shoes and hats in fashionable fall styles.

The models' parade of fashions ranged from sparkling cellophane knit cocktail dresses to calico print "granny gowns" and bloomer nightwear and from scrumptious furred woolens to tattered shirts over kilt-length skirts.

Beige wool demi-tents for governors' daughters blended with soft gabardines designed for their mothers.

Although colors spanned the rainbow, the accent was on cream, orange and brown shades.

Models moved among tables keyed to an orange and hot pink motif and tended by waitresses attired in paper dresses and matching headscarfs, all trimmed in bright yarn and all in the same design as place mats and napkins.

A Kansas City dress manufacturer presented the wife of each governor with a dress of her own choosing.

Mrs. George Romney of Michigan selected a heavy textured dacron in ivory color and accented with gold buttons. The A-line dress features long slim sleeves.

Concerts Are Planned

Arthur Fiedler will conduct all of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's 1968 Cabaret "Pops" Concerts.

Eight concerts are scheduled for the 1968 series, which will be given in April in Detroit's Light Guard Armory.

Fiedler, who has been conductor of the Boston Pops since 1930, led four of the Detroit Symphony's Cabaret "Pops" on his first visit to the Orchestra here last April.

"We set our sights on obtaining Mr. Fiedler for our full 1968 series at that time," said Symphony general manager, Howard Harrington.

"He generated a great deal of excitement, and we know he will be bringing some fresh concepts to these programs."

★ ★ ★

The Symphony inaugurated its Cabaret "Pops" in 1964. Since then it has given eight concerts, over a two-week period, each year at the Light Guard Armory on East Eight Mile Road.

Music by candlelight, seating at tables for four, a festive decor and the availability of light refreshments, including beer, wine, and liquor, are hallmarks of the concerts.

PROGRAM FORMULA

Fiedler's programs, which have met with enormous success, follow a consistent formula of a selection of symphonic classics, a featured appearance by an instrumental soloist, and a group of pop favorites, always leading into a round of encores.

"Mack the Knife," "Batman," "I Wanna Hold Your Hand," and TV Western themes were among some of the pop specials Fiedler presented to Detroit audiences last spring.

★ ★ ★

Fiedler, 72 years old, is a native Bostonian. He had been a violinist and then a violist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra before becoming conductor of the Boston Pops.

A renowned fire buff, he was made an Honorary Fire Chief in Detroit when he appeared with the Detroit Symphony earlier this year.

The performance dates for Fiedler's 1968 appearances with the Symphony are April 17, 18, 19, 20, 24, 25, 26, and 27.

Tickets will be placed on public sale approximately six weeks prior to the concerts, though the Symphony already is involved in making special arrangements for groups of 100 or more persons.

Many Detroit organizations utilize these concerts in conjunction with their own fund-raising or entertainment programs, as is done at the Boston Pops and New York Philharmonic "Promenades."

'Friend' Doesn't Really Want Your Help

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I have a friend who is always saying things you can take the wrong way. When you get hurt he acts surprised. Nor will he ever explain what he really meant.

His parents are divorced, and he has a very unhappy home-life with a mother who is blunt to the point of insult. Incidentally, he's inclined to take everything I say the wrong way and becomes very cutting and sarcastic. Please tell me how to help him with his problem of poor communication.

ANSWER: You cannot help him. He doesn't want your help. He doesn't want his "communication" improved. He thinks it's fine the way it is. And from his point of view, he's right.

It is perfectly suited to his need to maintain other people in the wrong and himself in the right. It enables him to hurt you, and then by putting on his act of "surprise," accuse you of oversensitivity. It also enables him to cut you down with sarcasm by taking everything you say the "wrong way."

So this is a most useful form of "communication" to anyone as vindictively angry as is this young man of yours. Such people can never be asked to explain their meanings. After all, asked to explain their meanings, they can't very well say to us:

"Marvelous as I am, I am entitled to hurt you whenever I feel like it. But you, poor unmarvelous thing that you are, are not entitled to ever hurt me. Your function is worship and adoration.

Life may put discipline on this young man of yours. But neither you nor I can do it. So my question has to be, "How come you imagine your 'help' is wanted by this so 'help' is wanted by this so royally privileged youth?"

To want anyone's help we have to come to some kind of terms with our deficiencies. But this young man of yours hasn't got any. It's poor peasants like you and me who have them. We're the weaklings, who can be intimidated into taking anything his vindictiveness chooses to do to us.

So just how come can you imagine that you, the weakling, the inferior, have anything of value to offer this proudly royal youth of yours?

It's certainly very sweet to want to 'help' people. But when we undertake to help someone who must be the master of all situations, we are probably pretty interested in mastery ourselves. Our desire to "help" him is only too apt to be desire to master the master.

So look to yourself, child. You're not going to bring this young man to heel. The sooner you acknowledge your insufficiency, the sooner you'll quit wasting your time on him. You're pretty royal yourself you know.

In the United States some 85 per cent of those persons married less than a year moved to a new home during the past year.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. Which is best, jumping rope before a meal or after a meal? Can you lose any calories jumping rope before a meal?

A. So far as the number of calories which are used in exercise, it doesn't matter when you take the exercise. However, strenuous exercise should not be taken until several hours after a meal.

* * *

Q. Please, for those who are losing 50 pounds, there is help needed, namely for the flab resulting from the loss of a double chin. How does one firm this while in the reducing process?

A. Exercise is important for toning and firming while a woman losses weight. Neck exercises should be done during the reducing period. Do these two exercises. Lower your head backward as far as you can. Raise your head and try to touch your chin to your chest. Continue, lowering backward and touching chin to chest.

Another, turn your head so that you are looking up toward the sky, over your right shoulder. Return head to normal position. This time turn your head to the left and look up and over your left shoulder. Continue, alternating right and left.

* * *

Q. Please answer this through your column. I have real bags under my eyes. I know these can be removed by plastic surgery. Can I reduce these by massaging them gently every night?

A. No. I think that even gentle massaging might make the situation worse because it might stretch the skin. However it might help to pat in (gently) an eye cream under the eyes. This will not banish the bags, but it will help with the wrinkles or fine lines under the eyes.

* * *

Q. I read your article about dermabrasion for acne scars, but you said it wasn't worthwhile trying it for wrinkles. Can't any wrinkles be removed with this method?

A. The result would be temporary, and for deep wrinkles is not recommended. However, I understand that the very fine wrinkles which older women often have can be successfully treated with this technique.

* * *

Q. Can bunions on the feet be successfully operated on? Mine are becoming crippling.

A. Yes. Consult a well-qualified podiatrist or chiropodist.

The wig base should have plenty of room for comfortable fit or be large enough to be able to size it. By sizing we find the best method is tucking. The wig base can be shrunk or stretched one inch, but we take up any excess wig base by sewing a tuck which can later be let out if the wearer wishes to wear longer hair under it. You will not be aware of this tuck since it is laid flat and stitched to the wig base. It will not be visible to the eye, or felt by the wearer.

The temples of your wig base should have a tiny point, similar to your sideburns in front of your ears. The wig base should fit within one and one half, to one inch inside your hairline and not touch the top or back of your ears for the greatest comfort. These are the things to look for in a good fitting wig. When purchasing a wig, always be sure to have it sized, you are paying for this service. All new wigs have firm bases. After wearing a few weeks, we quite often must resize your wig if it rides on top of your ears. Like new shoes a wig becomes much more comfortable after several wearings, and likewise should be worn by the one it was sized for.

Thieves Miss Bank Loot

ALTON, Ill. (UPI) — Two men robbed the bank of Alton of about $22,000. As they fled they passed a woman employe coming from the vault, but they ignored her and sped on. The woman was carrying out some $20,000 in $20 bills.

Tornado Turns House's Stance

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Mrs. Mary Vanesler's two-story home leans to the right. Not as far as the leaning tower of Pisa, but it does lean some.

Mrs. Vanesler didn't notice it much when she moved into the house 21 years ago.

But now, the electric light pole in front of the house is out of line with the structure.

Old time neighbors of Mrs. Vanesler say the house was damaged in a tornado back in 1927.

Easy-to-Make Baby Bib Gifts

Baby bibs of terry towelling make nice gifts for the new baby.

If you are not an old hand at the job, cut a pattern for the bib from an oblong china platter placed upside down on wrapping paper.

Then cut out the neck hole about two and one-half inches from one end.

Mark this all around before cutting. Cut an opening through the straight line at the back.

Finish by binding with bias tape, leaving the tape extending on each side of the back of the neck for tying.

The engagement of Karen Maxine Coleman to Cpl. Kenneth Robert Meyer, USMC is announced by her parents, the Max G. Colemans of Grizdale Road. He is the son of the E. A. Meyers of Union Lake. An early autumn wedding is planned at the Marine Base in Jacksonville, N.C. where Cpl. Meyer is stationed.

New Pill Can Have Unusual Result

Don't say anything to your husband about this.

It seems there's a new anti-alcohol pill being distributed in England, according to Chemical Engineering. The nasty little pill is said to reduce entry of alcohol into the blood by up to 50 per cent.

In other words, four drinks and a pill would about equal the effect of two drinks without it.

The pill has Britishers worried because it could foil legal tests for drunken drivers. You see, it's possible drivers could trick the breath analyzer into indicating they had imbibed less than they really had.

One thing is not yet clear however. If the alcohol doesn't go into the blood stream, where does it go?

Won't Help Him at Polls, Though

LBJ Hails Monetary Accord

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration is unlikely to convert two major international achievements into massive support at the polls next year.

But both will help shape the lives and leisure of many Americans for years to come.

Earlier this summer, U.S. officials reached agreement to cut tariffs on thousands of items over a five-year period in return for cuts by other non-Communist nations.

And last weekend the United States agreed with nine leading industrial nations on a framework for creating new money to help pay for new trade.

Both moves have bipartisan support but lack massive voter attention given such questions as the Vietnam war and trouble in the cities.

Yet government officials consider them so important to the country's future that they've spent four to five years trying to resolve problems surrounding each.

President Johnson called last weekend's agreement "the greatest step forward in world financial cooperation" in two decades and said it will advance the welfare of all Americans.

The reduction of tariffs and the means to finance more trade will mean more jobs for Americans, the administration contends.

The government estimates that every $1 billion in exports means 127,000 jobs for Americans. Government officials expect the successful round of tariff talks to increase exports although they hesitate to say by how much.

Foes of specific tariff cuts contend these could lead to increased imports which could affect some U.S. jobs.

With the machinery for monetary reform taking place, the non-Communist world is expected to have the money to pay for growing trade.

It took four years to draft the monetary reform outline which now must be approved by the International Monetary Fund and ratified by participating countries. Approval from 85 per cent of the 105-nation fund is required to put any plan into effect.

If finally approved, this contingency plan would be the first major revision in the way the world does business since the end of World War II.

The tariff agreement, whose first cuts don't go into effect until Jan. 1, stemmed from five years of talks with other nations. It could mean lower prices for many imported products. Intensive negotiation on money reform began two years ago after two years of study.

PRAISES MONETARY AGREEMENT— President Johnson yesterday lauded the new monetary agreement arrived at in London last weekend. In a brief outline at the White House, Johnson said the basic agreement represents advances that will affect the welfare of all Americans. Father of 'Monopoly' Is Dead at 78

OTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The man who gave people $200 every time they passed "Go" and put Boardwalk and Park Place on the map is dead at age 78.

Charles B. Darrow, inventor of the game Monopoly, died Monday at his Bucks County farm.

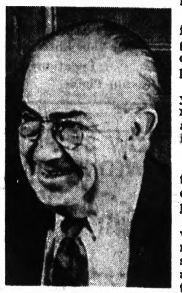

★ ★ ★

During the Depression, Darrow, a stove salesman and heating engineer, made little green houses and red hotels and put them in a complicated game which was won by ending up with all the other guy's money.

To help pass the nights Darrow and his friends sat around the original Monopoly board—a circular piece of linoleum—buying railroads, building hotels and going "directly to jail."

TWO A DAY

The game caught on among the friends and Darrow began turning out two a day. But after making about 100 sets, "It became imperative that I seek other methods," he once recalled.

CHARLES DARROW

Trying to sell the game to toy manufacturers was about as successful as trying to peddle Baltic Avenue in the low-rent section of the Monopoly board.

★ ★ ★

"They told me that there were too many players. That it was too complicated, that it took too long and that it would wind up in families fighting with each other," he said.

So Darrow began producing the sets himself, selling them store to store and soon he was strong enough to bargain with manufacturers again.

He took "an attractive offer" from Parker Brothers, the game manufacturer, for a never disclosed cash amount and a percentage on every set sold.

Darrow retired at 53. Five years ago he estimated he had made $1 million from the game and royalties continued to pour in.

★ ★ ★

"Monopoly was the biggest thing to ever hit Parker Brothers," Robert B. M. Barton, company president, said.

Darrow is survived by his widow, the former Ester Edmondson Jones. They had two sons and two grandsons. Funeral services will be Thursday at the Reed Funeral Home, Doylestown.

Storm Threat Is Weakening in E. Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) With the hurricane season about to close out its third quiet month, satellite pictures of the latest tropical depression showed Monday that the weather pattern was growing weaker as it thrashed about in the eastern Atlantic.

The depression, with winds of 30 miles an hour, popped up during the weekend about 2,000 miles east-southeast of Miami, but weathermen said Monday that cloudiness in the area was decreasing and "there is no apparent organization."

★ ★ ★

Hurricanes often spring from such tropical weather patterns but none of the season's four depressions has spawned a big storm.

Not since 1941 have the first eight months of the year failed to produce a hurricane. Forecasters say a ridge of high pressure is undercutting the development of tropical storms.

Hart Seeking Federal Aid on 'Big Mac' Financing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D - Mich., proposed Monday that the federal government help finance the Mackinac Bridge, which connects the Upper and Lower peninsulas of Michigan.

The government, he said, should also embark on a program of scenic roads as the interstate highway system nears completion.

★ ★ ★

The 41,000 - mile interstate highway program, financed by federal gas taxes, originally was expected to be finished by 1972, although it is behind schedule in some areas.

"Plans for federal help on the bridge were first put forth a number of years ago," Hart said.

'AGREED WITH PAT'

"At that time I voiced opposition because I agreed with the late Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich., chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee) that funds earmarked for the interstate program should not be diverted.

"But as federal funds are freed by the completion of the interstate system, I think we can turn our attention to these other pressing problems."

★ ★ ★

Hart said the Mackinac Bridge is an essential transportation link, serving an area that has not fully participated in national prosperity.

From Continual, Bitter Fighting

Cantonese Reported Fleeing

HONG KONG (AP) — Thousands of residents are fleeing from Canton, South China's largest city, and Chinese border troops have tightened their guard to prevent an exodus to Hong Kong, Chinese arriving from Canton reported today.

★ ★ ★

The Cantonese are fleeing because of almost continuous fighting between opponents and supporters of Communist party chairman Mao Tse-tung as well as among the nominally Pro-Mao Red Guards, the travelers said.

★ ★ ★

"The residents fear true civil war will erupt in Kwangtung Province," one returning Hong Kong Chinese said. "And the army seems to fear that there will be a mass exodus of refugees attempting to get out of China to Hong Kong."

★ ★ ★

He said Canton residents told him at least 50,000 persons were trying to make their way to the Hong Kong border. However, Hong Kong officials said they had "reasonably good" information that the Cantonese were fleeing to their home villages in Kwangtung's rural areas.

NO EVIDENCE

"We have had no indication of refugees massing for a border crossing attempt," a top official reported.

★ ★ ★

Travelers from Kwangtung said Red army soldiers were standing guard with fixed bayonets at all railway stations between Canton and the Hong Kong border and stopping all Chinese without travel permits.

They also reported that soldiers on guard duty aboard trains were making multiple checks of passengers' documents.

★ ★ ★

One Chinese woman said her papers were checked three times during the 40 miles between Canton and Hong Kong.

BITTER FIGHTING

Most travelers reported bitter fighting every day between rival gangs of Red Guards and between the Red Guards and opponents of Mao.

Some reported they had seen street proclamations purportedly signed by Premier Chou En-lai demanding that all organizations regardless of political affiliation surrender their weapons to the army.

★ ★ ★

Some of the travelers said they suspected this was a trick by some Red Guard units to get weapons away from other Red Guard factions.

Boy Questioned in State Shooting

DETROIT (AP)—Police Monday questioned an unidentified 16-year-old boy in the apparent accidental shooting of Thomas Abrams, 17. Abrams and two 16-year - olds were visiting the night attendant at a gasoline station early Monday when one of the boys picked up a 22-caliber rifle and it fired, police said.

Gospel Singer Postpones Concert

At the advice of her doctor, gospel singer Mahalia Jackson has postponed indefinitely a European concert tour to avoid the possibility of a heart attack. "I want to sing," she cried, wiping her wet eyes yesterday. "Oh, how I want to sing. What about all those people who have paid money to see me? Will they understand?"

Dr. Rolf Schroeder, cardiac specialist at the West Berlin Westend Hospital, said. "The burden of performing would have been a great strain on her heart and could have led to a heart attack."

Miss Jackson, 55, who suffered a heart attack three years ago, said: "I had a little fever last week. I caught a chill from an open door in my dressing room. But now I feel all right.

"I have sung for 40 years and this has never happened to me."

NY Man Plans to Visit Spy

Burton Silverman of New York is en route to Moscow with hopes of renewing acquaintances with his old Brooklyn neighbor, Emil Goldfus.

Goldfus is better known to the world as Col. Rudolf Abel, the Soviet master spy who was exchanged in 1962 for U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

"He was a fascinating man . . . even before I learned he was a spy," recalled Silverman yesterday. Before Goldfus' true identity became known the two Brooklyn neighbors became fast friends.

Silverman, 39, a Manhattan artist, took note when Abel recently reappeared in public on Russian television and decided to try to see his old friend.

"None of the officials either here, in Washington or in the Kremlin said it could be arranged," he said at the airport. "But they did say, 'Why don't you go to Moscow and see.' So I'm going."

Expo Traveler Richer 2 Ways

NEWTON, Kan. (AP) — Mike Ryan is ending his summer $100 richer in cash and much richer in experience because he wanted to see Expo 67 at Montreal, Que.

When school let out last spring, Ryan, 17, loaded a back pack, got himself a good pair of shoes, put $20 in his pocket and headed for Montreal-hitchhiking.

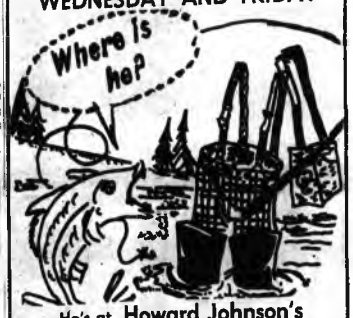

★ ★ ★

He worked at odd jobs all the way from a resort in Missouri to a farm in Vermont, met a French family in Montreal who put him up for two weeks and gave him a grand tour of the fair, and returned home via New York City where he visited a grandmother he had never seen.

★ ★ ★

When he arrived home, Ryan figured he had traveled 4,500 miles and said he had $120 in his pocket—savings from various jobs.

Brigade, Copter Crews Set Up 'Camp Instant'

KINH XANG CANAL, Vietnam (AP) — They haven't named it yet, but it could be called Camp Instant.

Almost overnight, troops of the U.S. 199th Light Infantry Brigade and Army helicopter crews have put up a semipermanent base camp in this area 15 miles west of Saigon. Manned by a combined combat team of 199th soldiers and South Vietnamese rangers, the base will be a hub for running patrols and ambushes aimed at knocking out Vietcong attacks against Saigon and the nearby Tan Son Nhut air base.

* * *

The 199th Brigade has been assigned to working the perimeter around Saigon since its arrival late last year and now is conducting an intensive integration campaign of operations with South Vietnamese troops.

The building of the base camp here at the intersection of a river and a major canal, both named Kinh Xang, began after a combined force swept into the area long considered Vietcong territory. The allied troops met little resistance, and the building of the camp began.

INITIAL PREPARATIONS

Before the clearing operation started, 26 wooden bunkers were built and 84,000 sandbags were filled at Long Binh, a big U.S. Army installation about 12 miles north of Saigon. The bunkers and sandbags were trucked to Duc Hoa.

* * *

Giant, double-rotor Chinook helicopters picked up the camp materiel in slings and lifted it to this area five miles south of Duc Hoa. On the first morning the big birds were putting down a load every three or four minutes.

* * *

Standard bunkers were set on the perimeter, which runs about 1,800 yards. Larger command bunkers were positioned in the center.

* * *

The sandbags, in cargo nets slung beneath the Chinooks, were lowered next to the bunkers, where troops immediately put them in place on and around the sturdy wooden structures. Also lifted in were footbridges and roll after roll of barbed wire.

MATTER OF HOURS

It was all done in a matter of hours. The work even moved ahead of the planned schedule because of the lack of enemy opposition.

* * *

"Yes, you could call it an instant camp," said Lt. Col. W. A. Ross of Columbus, Ga., commander of the 3rd Battalion, 7th Infantry, and the man in charge of the project at the scene.

* * *

Looking over the construction site, another officer said the Vietcong probably were "a little surprised and a little confused" by all the activity at first.

"They undoubtedly have figured it out by now, though," he added, "and it probably won't be long before we can expect a nighttime visit."

Last Taste of Varnish

By Science Service

KERALA, India — More than 200 persons have died from drinking varnish in Madras, in southern India. But instead of giving up prohibition, the Government has decided to enforce its dry policy more strictly. Madras, like many other Indian localities, is dry.

* * *

The Government of Madras has ordered immediate seizure of all spirit preparations in the entire state, and immediate suspension of the sale of varnish as a temporary measure pending chemical examination.

This is not the first time that the poorer citizens of Madras have drunk a varnish preparation as an intoxicant, but nothing ever happened on a mass scale before. The varnish drink was prepared by dissolving salt in water and adding varnish containing alcohol to give it intoxicating properties. The solution was poured gently without disturbing the sediment, then mixed with soda or carbonated water before it was consumed.

Jordanians in Suspense, Await Action

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordan is in a state of suspense, as one official describes it, but it is in better condition than many foresaw two months ago after the Middle East war.

It faces crushing problems: It lost its richest land and its 28-plane air force. Its 56,000-man army was knocked out. It has 230,000 refugees to be fed and housed.

* * *

And if it becomes clear that Israel intends to keep all the Jordan-claimed territory west of the Jordan river, Arab political circles say, King Hussein's regime could face an upheaval.

There is evidence that Jordan is trying to prevent any efforts to explode armed resistance in the territory occupied by Israel.

Jordanian officials and Western diplomats here say there is no incitement and point out: Not one Israeli has been reported killed on the west bank since the Middle East war and no riots have erupted.

One European diplomat observed: "Jordan wants to keep the resistance passive."

It has reason for wanting quiet on the west bank. Chaos or terrorism, or Israeli reprisals that could follow an uprising, would send countless more refugees fleeing into eastern Jordan.

An Arab resistance campaign, the government calculates, would give Israel an excuse to refuse permission for the present refugees to return to their homes.

Since the refugees began trickling back, with reluctant Israeli permission, the government's radio has toned down its broadcasts. King Hussein's officials have ordered newspapers not to stir up trouble.

* * *

Declarations of support for the regime and the unity of Jordan have been welcome reassurance to Amman, coming from the Palestinian part of the country which has always chafed under Jordanian rule.

"We are in a state of suspense waiting to see what decisions the Arab summit conference will take, and waiting to see what Israel is willing to give up," said an official. "In the meantime, no real moves are being made here."

For the first time since 1948, however, Jordan and Israel are openly holding conversations.

Daily at the Allenby Bridge, an Israeli and a Jordanian colonel discuss the return of refugees. An International Red Cross delegate acts as referee.

Former Foes Unite on Pearl Harbor Film

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — "Toro; Tora; Tora;" shouted exultant Japanese pilots as they flew away from the flaming wreckage of Pearl Harbor.

THOMAS

They were using the code word — meaning tiger — to signal their superiors that the Dec. 7, 1941, mission had been successful. Now "Tora, Tora, Tora!" will be the title of a unique film coproduction involving the two countries that became mortal enemies on that historic day.

* * *

Filming is scheduled to begin next January on the Japanese portion of the Pearl Harbor attack. Japan's foremost director, Akira Kurosawa—"Rashomon," "Seven Samurai" — will make that part with his own film company.

Next summer, 20th Century-Fox will film the American side of the encounter in Hawaii. Directing will be Richard Fleischer, an expert in the big, complicated production—"20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," "Fantastic Voyage," "Dr. Dolittle."

PROGRESS REPORT

Fleischer recently returned from a meeting with Kurosawa in Hawaii, and he reported on progress of the production:

"We are in the process of trying to get the script down to workable size. Right now it runs 386 pages, and we must cut down at least 150. Our writer, Larry Forester, does the script here, and then it is sent to Japan, where Kurosawa and his people change it into the Japanese idiom.

* * *

"This is a very slow and tedious process. The Japanese script has to be done by hand in their calligraphy style, and this results in a great many pages. Their script comes to us in wheelbarrows."

Fleischer met Kurosawa for the first time in Hawaii and was surprised to find him a six-footer. Communication was not easy, since the Japanese director speaks no English and is inclined to be withdrawn, at least in American company. But Fleischer indicated that he and Kurosawa agreed on basic fundamentals.

The project originated with producer Elmo Williams, who persuaded 20th Century-Fox to buy "The Broken Seal," a book about the breaking of the Japanese diplomatic code. Then Williams found a greater treasure trove concerning the beginning of the Pacific war: "Tora, Tora, Tora!" by Dr. Gordon Prang, history professor at the University of Maryland.

Dr. Prang had been appointed a special historian by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and he produced an immensely detailed account of the events on both sides before, during and after the Pearl Harbor attack. The volume was published in Japan and excerpted in Reader's Digest; it is scheduled for release as a book in this country next year.

* * *

In order to make some sense out of the wealth of detail, the film makers asked Dr. Prang to make a chronology of the important events.

"He used a staff of students to prepare it," said Fleischer. "The result was a long document, but you can't stop reading—it's like eating peanuts."

The American and Japanese film makers are now coming to grips with the enormous logistical problems in reproducing the start of the war.

SHUT OUT ON ZEROES

"We have searched all over the world and cannot find a single Japanese Zero that can fly," said Fleischer. "We'll have to revamp American planes to make them look like Zeroes. So far we have found flyable American planes to use in the picture."

"An even greater problem is ships. There are absolutely no Japanese ships available; virtually all were sent to the bottom of the ocean. Many of our World War II ships are now in mothballs. There are some battleships being used at naval museums, and we'll photograph them from carefully planned angles so they will not seem anchored.

* * *

"A real problem is finding aircraft carriers with straight flight decks, like those used in the war. There is a chance that some will be demothballed by the time we start shooting."

"Tora, Tora, Tora!" cannot make use of documentary footage, because it wouldn't match the color and size of the newly shot film. The movie will need to rely on miniatures for some of the action sequences. "But some of our 'miniature' ships will be 60-80 feet long," said Fleischer.

He added that cooperation for the film venture is being sought from the Department of the Defense. Use of naval vessels is crucial to the project, he said.

"Tora, Tora, Tora!" will not be one of those name-charged epics in which famous faces appear as officers and GIs said Fleischer: "We'll go for unknowns, profiting from the experience with 'The Longest Day.' The only major criticism of the picture was that the appearance of big stars detracted from the reality."

What will be the cost of "Tora, Tora, Tora!"?

Fleischer shuddered. "I'd rather not think about it. Just say it will be one of the most expensive films of all time."

Ex-Castroites See Fidel's Plans Failing

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — "Fidel Castro is playing his last card in a losing game, but he doesn't know it. He just doesn't know how desperate bad things are going for violent revolution."

The speaker was Ramon Vargas, 25, former comandante or major—the highest rank—in a Castroite urban guerrilla unit. With him was an equally disillusioned comrade in arms, Juli Romero, 24. Both were arrested last March in a crackdown by Digepol, the Venezuelan secret police.

Wearing casual civilian clothes, they sat in the office of Dr. Nelson Lehmann, 30, the boyish-looking head of Digepol—General Directorate of Police—and talked freely if acidly about Castro's program for hemispheric political violence laid down at the recent Havana conference.

The pair also spoke authoritatively.

GUERRILLAS BATTERED

Vargas, a university sophomore, had been in the urban guerrillas since 1960, he said, and his superior was Douglas Bravo, Castro's No. 1 guerrilla leader in Venezuela. Bravo and Luben Petkoff boss what's left of the battered Armed Forces of National Liberation or FALN, the Castroite guerrillas in the mountains.

Romero, a militant in a Marxist splinter of the ruling Accion Democratica party, said he served a two-year hitch with the mountain guerrillas before joining the urban ranks.

* * *

Neither has been in Cuba but their colleagues' experiences there are well known to them. Venezuelans attending the Havana conferences, they said, give their Cuban hosts distorted accounts of the situation at home.

BLOWN-UP PICTURE

"Fidel gets a blown-up, inaccurate idea of what's really going on," Vargas said. "The whole thing is being done only to justify the enormous subsidies they receive, as much as a million sometimes."

A million dollars?

"Yes," he explained, "and sometimes less. Petkoff once returned from Cuba with 60 men and $700,000."

* * *

The entire Venezuelan guerrilla movement, Romero estimated, has less than 1,000 men under arms split into small groups.

"The movement will collapse of its own weight," he said.

"There is a poverty of ideology with bitter rivalries for hegemony among various groups. Everybody wants to be boss and few want to fight. Finally, an infantile left has moved in, young fellows interested only in terrorism."

Castro's strategy is bound to fail, Vargas asserted, "because of the lack of support from the Venezuelan Communist party and the lack of a real political base."

The terrorist murder this year of Julio Iribarren Borges, brother of the Venezuelan foreign minister, was one of the movement's costlier blunders, Romero declared. "It caused a wave of revolution even at the university and there were many defections."

MILITANTS WITHDRAW

The university, he emphasized, had been "the motor, the ideological and logistical center, the seedbed of the entire movement. And now some of the most militant fighters have withdrawn, some for ideological reasons, others because of the useless violence."

The revolutionary movement suffered its severest reversal in late 1965, Romero said, when the Venezuelan Communist party's Politburo, following the Moscow line, decided on a peaceful revolutionary course.

* * *

"This split the movement into various factions," he said, "and seriously weakened the national liberation forces."

Despite this, he added, there are plans to intensify urban and mountain warfare in December in another attempt to disrupt the national elections next year. A similar effort failed in 1963.

The Venezuelan government says persons arrested for attempting to subvert national security—such as Vargas and Romero—will be tried under military law. The maximum penalty is 30 years.

Tigers Show Flag Potential; Bosox Turn Howard Loose on NY

Lolich Shuts Out California, 10-0

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Now the Tigers look more like a pennant powerhouse in both hitting and pitching.

Mickey Lolich regained his magic at the mound and Detroit's sluggers found the range from the batter's box as the Tigers overwhelmed California 10-0 Monday night.

The victory zipped the Tigers into third place in the American League, 1½ games behind Minnesota and Boston.

It was the third shutout this season for Lolich, but only his eighth victory against 12 losses. He limited the Angels to five hits.

Leftfielder Lennie Green paced the team's 14-hit assault, driving in four runs on his two singles and a double.

The Tigers opened the floodgates against California starter Jack Hamilton, a former Tiger, in the second inning.

Jim Northrup walked, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Bill Freehan's bouncing single. Green drove in Freehan — and at the same time drove Hamilton off the moound.

The next two runs came on Norm Cash's double.

In the fourth inning, Green drove in Ray Oyler with a grounder that was fielded by Bobby Knoop who tagged out Lolich. Dick McAuliffe singled to center to score Green.

The Tigers picked up their seventh run in the next inning as Northrup ran home on Freehan's double.

Lolich got into slight trouble in the sixth, walking Knoop and striking out the next man. Jose Cardenal forced Knoop at second. The Tigers hurler walked Jim Fregosi but Cardenal was thrown out at the plate, trying to score on Bubba Morton's single.

In the seventh inning, Freehan rapped a double that scored Eddie Mathews and advanced Northrup to third. Green's single brought in Northrup and Freehan.

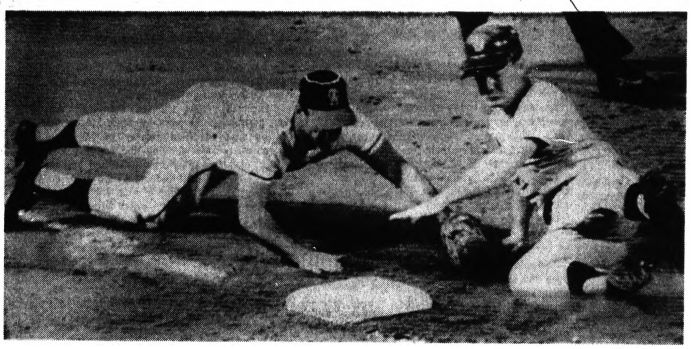

The Tigers pit Denny McLain (16-14) and John Hiller (2-0) against George Brunet (11-16) and Rick Clark (9-9) in tonight's twinight doubleheader.

SAFE REACH—Detroit Tiger first baseman Norm Cash reaches for the bag ahead of California's Woody Held at third base after advancing on a single by Dick McAuliffe in the 4th inning. Cash was ruled safe.

Boston Winner; Twins Victors; Chicago Falls

By The Associated Press

Elston Howard spent all afternoon figuring out how to beat the New York Yankees. He spent all evening doing it.

Howard, recently traded to Boston after more than 12 years with the Yankees, made his return to New York an auspicious one, singling in a run in Boston's 3-0 victory, easing rookie Al Lyle through three innings of great relief and even throwing out Mickey Mantle.

* * *

"I spent all day at home figuring how to get this guy out and how to get that guy out," the Red Sox catcher said after the game. "I was a little nervous, thinking about playing against a team I'd never played against before."

When Lyle got two strikes on Steve Whitaker in the one-out, bases-loaded situation into which he had been thrust in the sixth inning, the benefits of Howard's pre-game thinking quickly became apparent.

Howard went out to Lyle on the mound where "I told him he was going to throw a breaking ball and he did. And he got him out."

In other American League games, Minnesota edged Baltimore 3-2 to remain one percentage point up on the Red Sox in the white-hot pennant race, Washington dumped Chicago 2-1, Detroit downed California 10-0 and Cleveland outlasted Kansas City 8-7 in 11 innings.

When Mantle attempted to steal in the fourth inning, Howard was a bit surprised, but not enough to keep from throwing out the Yankee slugger. Mick left the game with a jammed right knee.

"I hope he didn't hurt his leg bad," said Howard. "That's the last guy I would want to get hurt."

THROWN AWAY

The Twins got the chance to stay ahead of the Red Sox when Pete Richert, the Orioles' pitcher, threw a possible double play ball into centerfield in the seventh inning, allowing Rich Rollins to score the go-ahead run. Zoilo Versalles hit a two-run homer for the Twins.

The White Sox, meanwhile, fell into fourth place, two games off the pace, on Ken McMullen's two-run homer for the Senators. Bob Priddy got the victory, although he was in constant trouble and needed ninth-inning help from Dave Baldwin.

The Indians and Athletics played Alphonse and Gaston in the late innings till Cleveland mustered a two-run homer in the 11th from Max Alvis.

The Athletics had taken a two-run lead into the ninth, only to see the Indians tie it up and Cleveland had a two-run lead in the 10th but Kansas City tied the score before the final runs.

Dan Sikes Fires 62 to Share Lead of Rich Golf Tourney

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI)—Ailing Dan Sikes found a rainbow Monday in the monsoon at the $250,000 Westchester Classic but weary Mason Rudolph seemed on the verge of drowning.

It wasn't necessary to build an ark, after all, at the Westchester Country Club Monday as the rain finally stopped after washing out the second round of the world's richest golf tournament for three consecutive days.

The sun came out and smiled on Sikes, who came back after withdrawing twice to fire a course record round of 62 on the soggy, par-72, 6,648-yard layout.

The amazing comeback after an opening round of 72 last Thursday enabled Sikes to tie for the 36-hole lead at 134 with the luckless Rudolph and lefthander Bob Charles.

The determined Rudolph, who fired rounds of 69 and 67 Saturday and Sunday which were washed out, came back with a 68 to gain the tie.

Sikes sounded like he'd just been rejuvenated for today's third round.

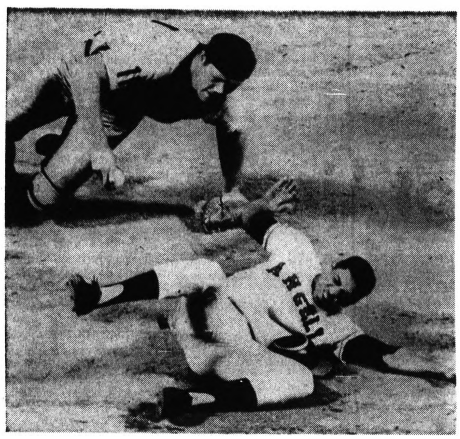

"For this kind of money, you've got to keep trying," he smiled.

* * *

Feeling a big dizzy and frustrated after shooting four-over-par for nine holes, Sikes withdrew from the tourney Saturday — only to have the round rained out. He came back Sunday but shot a 75 and, figuring he wouldn't make the cut, went back to his hotel room and packed — only to have the rain again wash out the round.

Sikes started out Monday by collecting birdies on the first four holes even though he wasn't hitting the ball well. On his second shot on the second hole, the ball went through a tree branch and landed on the green.

Junior Guard Moved to Defensive Unit

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Middle guard Jon Kramer moved to the first string defensive unit Monday as the University of Michigan football squad continued heavy practice sessions.

Kramer, a 6-foot-3, 215-pound junior from Toledo lettered at defensive end last year and was moved to the No. 2 middle guard position during spring practice.

Manager Recalls '51 Season

Boston Sees Race to Last Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Boston manager Dick Williams sees "this thing" going down to the last day of the season.

And if it does, he prays it won't wind up the same way "that thing" did.

By "this thing," he means the present American League pennant race in which the Twins, White Sox, Tigers and Red Sox are bunched tighter than a pack of wolves fighting to get inside the same door.

* * *

By "that thing," Williams means the last such heart-stopper he was involved in — the 1951 National League race.

When that race went even past the final day of the season into a playoff, Williams was a utility outfielder with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Maybe you remember that day at the Polo Grounds. Williams does. Exceptionally well.

"I was sitting on the steps of the dugout near where they kept the trunk for the bats when he Bobby Thomson came up to bat," says Williams.

"The first pitch was between the belt and the letters and Thomson took it for a strike. He stepped out of the batter's box and kicked at the dirt. I think he was mad at himself for taking the pitch.

* * *

"The next pitch was up and in, and he chopped at it. He hit a line drive and it was bye-bye for us."

"IT'D BE NICE"

Williams remembers walking across the field to the centerfield clubhouse, head down and chin on his chest. If he can possibly help it, he doesn't care to do the same thing this year.

"This could easily go right down to the final 48 hours, probably even to the last 24," says the Red Sox manager. "We play Minnesota the last two days in Boston."

The natural advantage of that plus the fact his Red Sox will be playing in friendly Fenway Park through most of September is not lost at all on Williams.

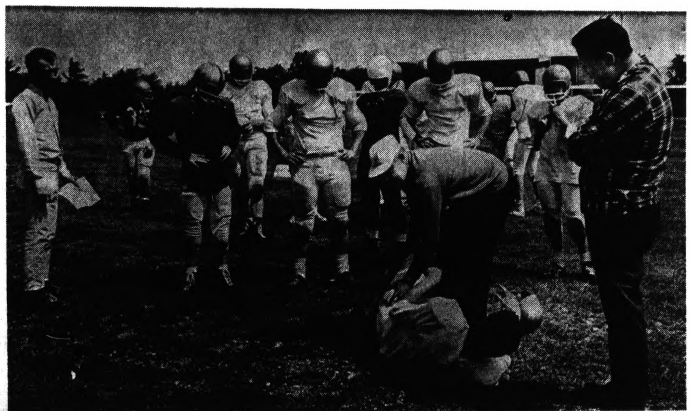

"Naturally, I'm all for that," he laughs. "I've said all along we'd win more games than we'd lose. Now that we've come this far I'd be some kind of fool if I didn't believe we could win it all. I most certainly do. It would be the greatest thing for the city of Boston since 1914 when the 'miracle' Braves won."

* * *

It wouldn't be such a bad thing for 38-year-old Dick Williams, either. It would be the first time in baseball history that a first-year manager took over a ninth-place club and won a pennant right out of the box.

That isn't lost on Williams, either.

"I would be nice, but I don't think about it. All I think about is the game on hand," he says, talking exactly like a manager again. "I don't think about winning the pennant or losing it. People might not believe it, but a manager doesn't think about those things. Not at a time like this anyway."

Oberg's assistant (right) is Gordon Schils, elementary school coordinator. Both were acting as stand-ins for the varsity coaches who won't be at practice until the teachers gain a contract agreement with the school district. "It's the first time since the 1940's for me," said Oberg of his coaching duties. About the teachers' contract, Oberg says he expects an agreement soon.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elick K. Shorter of Western Michigan University Monday was cut from the roster of the Washington Redskins. Shorter, a former Pontiac Central star and brother of the Redskins' defensive back Jim Shorter, was a rookie linebacker.

150 Amateurs Vie for National Title

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — One hundred and fifty of this continent's best amateur golfers tee off on the mountain-surrounded Broadmoor Course Wednesday in the 1967 U.S. Amateur tournament with Ron Cerrudo, the handsome and happy Californian, among the top contenders.

Since 1964 the 22-year-old San Jose State student from San Rafael has been in the upper echelon of the play-for-fun set. This time he is playing on a course tailor-made for his precision style.

Also threatening will be Marty Fleckman, the young lumberman from Port Arthur, Tex., one of the longest hitters among either the amateurs or pros.

These two youngsters, plus 23-year-old Bob Dickson of Muskogee, Okla., who is the 1967 British Amateur king, made up a powerful brigade which will try to return the title to the United States. It has been held for the past year by Gary Cowan, the Kitchener, Ontario insurance man. He is the first non-U.S. citizen since 1932 to have worn the crown and is here to defend it.

Father of Steve Juday Succumbs This Morning

Richard H. Juday, 48, father of former Michigan State All-America Steve Juday, now quarterback with the Ypsilanti Vikings of the Midwest Football League, died this morning at his cottage near Central Lake in Northern Michigan.

Casterline Funeral Home in Northville is making arrangements for the funeral to be held at 2:00 p.m. Thursday.

Schedule Welterweights

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Two young men, described as "really nice guys who just don't say anything except with their fists," are scheduled for a 15-round fight here Oct. 2 for the world welterweight championship, claimed by both.

★ ★ ★

For Curtis Cokes, 30, recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association, his $42,500 guarantee will be his biggest payday in 10 years of fighting.

He also will get 40 per cent anything above a $140,000 net gate.

Charley Shipes, 25, of nearby Hayward, is recognized as world champion by the California Athletic Commission—which withdrew from the WBA two years ago—and as No. 1 contender by the WBA. He is guaranteed $11,000 plus 2½ per cent of anything over $80,000.

★ ★ ★

Both the WBA and California Commission Monday approved the fight for the championship.

Wings' Home '67 Schedule Has 37 Games

Six New Teams Listed for Dates at Olympia This Season

Two extra games and six new teams highlight the 1967-68 hockey schedule of the Detroit Red Wings, announced today by General Manager and Coach Sid Abel.

The Wings will play their biggest home schedule of all-time at Olympia — 37 games, compared to 35 for the past 17 years. Twelve dates will be against teams from the National Hockey League's new Western Division.

Abel said the home slate will open and close against a traditional rival from the NHL's Eastern Division, the New York Rangers. The opener is set for Sunday, Oct. 15, and the finale for Saturday, March 30.

Weekends will be the busiest time on the calendar, with 20 games to be played on either Saturdays or Sundays. The breakdown is 12 Sundays, including one matinee, and eight Saturdays, with two matinees.

Thursday is the single biggest day on the slate, with 16 games scheduled. One Monday also is on tap — Christmas Night, Dec. 25.

Ferris Institute Gets Grid Aide

BIG RAPIDS (AP) — Roger Elford, a 1966 graduate of Western Michigan University, has been named an assistant football coach at Ferris State College.

Elford earned a master's degree at Bowling Green State University where he served as an assistant football coach. He is a former Flint Southwestern High School football player.

Green Bay Routs Cowboys, 20-3

Jets' Joe Namath Accused of Assault

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, quarterback of the New York Jets, apparently has not heard the last of his unauthorized Aug. 3 trip to New York.

Namath left the Jets' camp at Peekskill, N.Y., without permission because of what he said were personal matters and when he returned to the team, owner Sonny Werblin said he would be fined. Later, Coach Weeb Ewbank said "action has been taken."

Now, Charles Parmiter, the sports editor of Time Magazine, has filed papers in Supreme Court alleging that Namath and two other men assaulted him in an East Side bar at 3 a.m. on the morning of Aug. 4.

Parmiter's court action, filed by his attorney, Stuart M. Speiser, asks that Namath and Murray Schaaff, owner of the Open End Bar where the incident allegedly took place, reveal in court the names of two men Parmiter says helped Namath assault him. The application is returnable Sept. 7.

CO-DEFENDANTS

According to Speiser, the identities are needed so that the two men can be included as co-defendants with Namath and Schaaf in court action which Parmiter said he intends to start.

In a supporting affidavit, Parmiter says the incident occurred after he recognized Namath at the bar, greeted him and offered to shake hands.

"Without any warning or provocation," the affidavit continues, Namath grabbed Parmiter by the lapels, slammed his head back over the top of a cigarette machine and held him there "approximately the next 10 or 15 minutes."

Parmiter's affidavit adds that another man, who Namath called Mickey, struck him during this period and that a third man prevented others from interceding.

Namath returned to the Jets' camp on Aug. 4, apologized to his teammates for having left without permission and then helped that night in a 55-13 exhibition victory over Boston at Bridgeport, Conn.

Toledo's Hopes Blooming Late

Tigers' Farm Team Hottest IL Club

By the Associated Press

International League baseball teams close their regular seasons one week from today and — barring a miracle that would bring them the pennant — nobody will be sorrier than Toledo's Mud Hens.

There's no hotter team in the league than the Mud Hens at the moment. Since Aug. 13 they've won 15 of 21 starts, slashing their distance from first place from 10 to 4½ games.

★ ★ ★

Time, however, is running out for Toledo, and in all probability the Mud Hens will have to be satisfied with playing king-maker in the struggle for the flag between Richmond and Rochester.

They took a solid whack at Richmond's pennant hopes Monday night by edging the Braves 3-2, cutting the Braves' margin over idle second-place Rochester to a single game.

THREE SHUTOUTS

The victory was Toledo's seventh one-run decision in the last 16 days, a span in which Mud Hen pitchers have spun three shutouts.

In other Monday night action, Columbus moved into fourth place by defeating its rival for the final berth in the post-season Governor's Cup playoffs, Jacksonville, 7-2, and Buffalo swept a pair from last-place Syracuse by 4-3 scores, the second game in 10 innings.

★ ★ ★

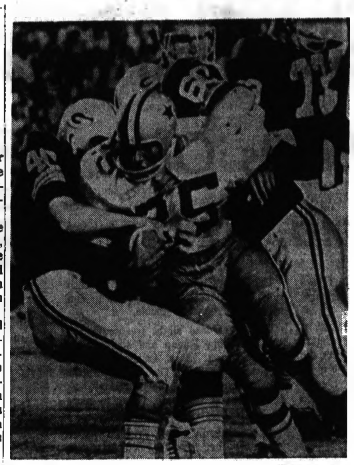

Toledo collected all its runs off Jim Britton in the sixth inning on Wayne Comer's double, singles by Don Pepper and Bill Heath and an error. Winner Daryl Patterson and two ninth-inning relievers held the Braves to five hits.

Aussies Rule U.S. Doubles

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Australians John Newcombe and Tony Roche were favored to add another big prize to their collection in a showdown with countrymen Bill Bowrey and Owen Davidson today for the U.S. National Doubles Tennis Championship.

The windup of the 87th annual championships marked the first all-Aussie final since 1960, when Roy Emerson and Neale Fraser defeated Rod Laver and Bob Mark on Longwood's grass courts.

Newcombe and Roche swept through their semifinal Monday by defeating Cliff Drysdale and Ray Moore, unseeded upstarts from South Africa, 6-3, 11-9, 7-5.

SWAMPED — Les Shy (25) of the Dallas Cowboys is swamped by a host of Green Bay Packers led by Tom Brown (40) and Ray Nitschke (66) after an 11-yard gain in the exhibition game in Dallas last night. The Packers won the game 20-3 before 75,000 Cotton Bowl fans.

Firebird Coach Puts Emphasis on Blocking

Unshaken by Saturday night's 25-0 setback at Mount Clemens in the MFL season opener, head coach Tom Tracy of the Pontiac Firebirds will send his squad through workouts Wednesday evening at Wisner practice field with one big goal in mind.

"We've got to shakeup and bolster our offensive line," said Tracy. "That's where we made most of our mistakes.

"The game was not as bad as the score indicated. Our defense was a little shaky at the start, but they did a good job when they settled down."

Three pass interceptions and six fumbles in the heavy downpour were big factors in the defeat, "and when we thought we had something going on offense a penalty always came into the picture," he said.

The F-Birds suffered key injuries to center Dennis Rehder and offensive tackle Jim Kennedy, but they have the week off and will be waiting for the visit of the strong Ypsilanti Vikings in the home opener, Saturday night, Sept. 9.

Ypsilanti is considered the strongest challenger to Mount Clemens for the MFL crown and one indication is the fact that the Vikings ran over Dayton 25-0 in their last exhibition game a week ago.

Ypsi was idle last week and this Saturday the Vikings open their season against the same Dayton team which routed the Detroit Downriver Steelers, 55-0 last Saturday.

LOOKING AHEAD

"I expect we'll be in much better shape for Ypsilanti," said Tracy, "and when we get some experience under our belt we'll mold into a good ball club."

Season tickets for six games are still on sale at Osmun's, Griff's Grill, Bob-Ken's and the Firebirds downtown office. Adult season tickets are $12.50.

Students can purchase season tickets for $3.00. At the gate student tickets sell for $1.00 per game, which means a saving of $3.00 on the season plan.

Golfing Lauers Reigning Over Edgewood Links

Father and daughter golfers dominated the club championship at Edgewood CC over the weekend as Ed Lauer won the men's title and Bonnie captured the women's club title.

Lauer fired a 54 hole total of 76-74-73—223 in winning his 4th Edgewood crown since 1959. He won in 1960 and 1964 also.

★ ★ ★

Runnerup honors went to Bob Schwarz with 225.

Bonnie, 16, won the women's title with a 54 hole total of 82-84-78—224 with Dorris Schorr far behind in second place with 269.

Men's first flight over 36 holes was John Ferry with 157, while women's first flight winner over 54 holes was Ann Peterson with 313.

Zeke Dazzles Large Crowd

Green Bay Errorless in Cotton Bowl

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — It was only an exhibition but the Green Bay Packers looked as good as they did last January when they won the National Football League championship as they whipped the Dallas Cowboys 20-3 Monday night.

★ ★ ★

On this same field—the Cotton Bowl—Green Bay beat Dallas 34-27 for the NFL title.

Dallas had everything back, Green Bay didn't have fullback Jim Taylor. But the Cowboys couldn't even score a touchdown Monday night. Not since 1965 had this occurred to the high-powered Dallas offense.

★ ★ ★

The Packers played a perfect game—no pass interceptions, no fumbles. Their defense was so good crusty old Coach Vince Lombardi said, "I'm real proud of it—when you hold a team like Dallas without a touchdown you've gotta be proud of them."

SECOND LARGEST

The crowd of 78,087—the second largest in Dallas football history—also couldn't understand why Zeke Bratkowski was only a backup quarterback.

The big fellow from Georgia, a seven-year veteran, stepped in when the great Bart Starr had to leave in the first period because of a wrist reinjury, and proceeded to pass and run Dallas dizzy.

★ ★ ★

Bratkowski passed for a .611 percentage, he ran for 14 yards to set up a field goal, his passing sent the Packers winging on 73 and 69-yard touchdown drives and, after Herb Adderley had intercepted a pass, his running and passing set up another field goal.

Veteran quarterback Don Meredith of Dallas managed only 38.1 per cent on his passing, had one intercepted and three times was trapped for losses. Jerry Rhome, who is fighting Craig Morton for the Dallas backup job did much better, passing for 71.4 with five out of seven for 111 yards and had two touchdown throws nullified.

FIELD GOAL

Don Chandler's 27-yard field goal scored first for Green Bay. Dallas tied it up on a 31-yard field goal by rookie Harold Deters. But Green Bay got a touchdown on a 2-yard smash by Elij Pitts to lead 10-3 at the half.

★ ★ ★

Green Bay increased it to 17-3 in the third period on a one-yard smash by Jim Grabowski and wound up the scoring early in the fourth period when Chandler kicked a 42-yard field goal.

On Thursday, Baltimore meets Washington in an NFL game while Buffalo plays New York in an American Football League contest.

★ ★ ★

The Baltimore Colts placed veteran safetyman Alvin Haymond and defensive end Claude Brownlee on waivers. Haymond recently underwent shoulder surgery and Borwnlee spent last season on the Colts' Band Squad.

Pistons Slate Dischinger for 'Rookie' Camp

DETROIT (AP)—Capt. Terry Dischinger reports to camp next week—the Detroit Pistons' early training camp "for rookies and war vets."

* * *

Dischinger, 26, returned to Detroit Monday after two years duty as an instructor in chemical, biological and radiological methods at the Army's Schofield Barracks at Oahu, Hawaii. He was discharged Aug. 8.

* * *

"I'm not concerned about being away," said the 6-foot-7 Dischinger, who piled up a three-year National Basketball Association average of 21 points a game.

MORE AT HOME

"I don't feel I've lost anything. They (the Pistons) told me in a letter a long time ago I'd be moving back to forward and that suits me — I feel more at home there."

* * *

Dischinger also spent his two years in the Army as player-coach in the Hawaiian Armed Forces League, both championship seasons.

Ex-MSU Ace Has Weight Woes

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Apparently George Webster toted his troubles with him when he left Michigan State.

Webster, a two time football All America and No. 1 draft choice of the Houston Oilers, seems to spend more time in the Oilers' training room than on the practice field.

"The first week I had a lot of trouble with the heat," Webster said. "I caught a cold at the All Star game in Chicago, and when I came here, the heat was getting me down.

* * *

"I want to gain weight, but I've been losing it instead. I'd like to weigh 230, 235. I did weigh 223, but I'm afraid to get on the scales to see what I'm down to.

"I haven't been able to eat. I've been having trouble with my stomach. It seems that something's always wrong with me."

But the ailments are nothing new.

"When I was in college, I always complained," the bespectacled Webster said. "I always had something wrong with me. I wouldn't call it sickness. I just didn't feel well.

SOMETHING WRONG

"When I didn't complain, they thought something was wrong with me. Our defensive backfield coach, Vince Carillot, always asked me before a game how I felt. If I said I felt fine, he'd say, 'You couldn't feel fine. You sure there's nothing wrong?'"

The Oilers hope there's nothing wrong with their rookie. They're counting heavily on Webster to perk up the defense and help improve last year's 3-11 record.

* * *

"I know a lot of people are watching me," Webster said. "being thrown in like this as a rookie is tough, but it's a challenge and I hope I can do the job.

"I want to play football, and I'd rather play than sit on the bench."

* * *

If Webster's college days are any indication, he won't miss any playing time because of injuries.

"I never really had any serious injuries," he said. "I hurt my ribs in the East-West game. I've pulled hamstrings, and I had a couple of teeth knocked out. But that wasn't anything."

Phils Set Pace as Runner-Up

By the Associated Press

A six-day sprint has swept the Philadelphia Phillies to the head of the pack in the National League's Runner-up Derby.

Now they're trying to drum up a match race with St. Louis swifties . . . but Manager Gene Mauch isn't looking past the next nine innings.

* * *

"We're still looking for one in a row," Mauch said Monday night after the Phillies edged Cincinnati 3-2 for their eighth straight victory . . . and displayed the first symptoms of pennant fever.

The Phils' winning streak has vaulted them from sixth to second place in less than a week. They lead the Reds and Chicago Cubs by one percentage point . . . but trail the league-leading Cardinals by 11 lengths.

St. Louis divided a doubleheader with New York Monday night, taking the second game 6-0 behind ex-Met Jack Lamabe after the tailenders had won the twilight game 4-2 to break an eight-game losing string.

San Francisco pelted Los Angeles 7-0, Pittsburgh nipped Atlanta 4-3 in 10 innings and the Cubs shaded Houston 6-5 in other NL games.

TIE-BREAKER

John Callison's 13th homer snapped a 1-1 tie in the sixth inning at Cincinnati and the Phils added another run on a bases-loaded balk by Gerry Arrigo on the way to their 21st triumph in 29 starts.

Cleon Jones' two-run single was the big blow in a four-run fifth inning flurry that carried the Mets past the Cards in their opener. Winner Jack Fisher blanked St. Louis until the eighth, but needed help from Ron Taylor in the ninth.

* * *

A two-run homer by Tim McCarver and two-run singles by Orlando Cepeda and Dal Maxvill backed Lamabe's five-hit hurling as St. Louis bounced back in the second game.

Roberto Clemente poled his 19th and 20th homers, the second one breaking a 3-3 tie in the 10th to end a four-game losing streak for the Pirates. Atlanta had tied the game with two runs in the eighth on Rico Carty's double and singles by Felipe Alou, Tito Francona and Hank Aaron.

DODGERS STYMIED

Gaylord Perry stymied Los Angeles on three hits and fanned nine, leading the Giants to their 10th victory in 13 games against the Dodgers this year. Willie Mays knocked in two runs with a third inning single and scored from second base on a wild pitch in the Giants' three-run sixth.

Adolfo Phillips doubled in the sixth inning, took third on a bunt and scored on Dave Giusti's wild pitch, giving the Cubs their one-run margin over the Astros. Giusti and rookie Doug Rader homered for Houston.

Driver Gets 'Locked' in Race

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Imagine going along and having all four wheels of your car lock.

That's how it feels sometimes to Art Hult, driver and trainer of Speed Model, a temperamental filly

* * *

* The big, brown daughter of Speedster ranks with three colts — Dazzling Speed, Speedy Streak and Keystone Pride — as top favorites in a field of a dozen 3-year-old trotters going in the $122,650 Hambletonian Wednesday.

"If things don't set just right, Speedy Model puts on a bucking act," says Hult, who at 26 could become the youngest driver ever to win the Kentucky Derby of harness racing.

"She acts up for no reason at times and then again it takes something definite to set her off. At Vernon Downs a clod of mud flew up and hit her in the stomach and she started bucking like a bronco.

"At Goshen, just as the mobile gate closed and the race started, she set all four feet and came to a squealing stop.

"We've put cups on the sides of her eyes and that seems to have helped. She can look around but not back.

"She's a peculiar filly. When I take her out it's always back in my mind that I didn't know what to expect. When she wants to go she can go with the best of them."

FIVE VICTORIES

Speed Model has won five of 15 starts this year. Several times in her theatrical tantrums she even has tried to kick Hult out of the sulky.

Lately she has been on her good behavior, finishing second and fourth in two heats of the Review Futurity in Springfield, won by Dazzling Speed and Speedy Streak, and capturing one division of the split American National at Chicago's Sportsman's Park.

Hult, who only six years ago was a groom starting apprenticeship under veteran Frank Ervin, also has trained Speed Streak, to be driven by Del Cameron.

"Streak is a perfect gentleman," says Hult.

Hult has been handling most of the stock this year for Ervin, who has been ill. He is from Youngstown, Ohio, attended Ohio State University for one quarter and always has been interested in horses.

U.S. Cagers Rout Thailand, 120-46

TOKYO (AP) — The United States trounced Thailand 120-46 Tuesday in a drive to retain its basketball crown at the 1967 Universiade Games.

The United States captured the title at the 1965 Budapest Universiade Games and is favored to win it again at the Tokyo championships.

Brazil, expected to give the United States its strongest battle for the gold medal, defeated Hong Kong 143-43.

Eight Americans scored in double figures as they built a 68-17 lead at halftime.

The top American scorers were Joe White with 18 points and Russell Critchfield with 17.

Crescent Lake Captures Fourth Playoff Crown

Crescent Lake RLDS didn't play up to championship form during the regular season, but came through as in the past in the Waterford Church Softball League playoffs.

RLDS, third place finisher in regular play, downed Our Lady of the Lakes, 8-3, yesterday to win the Division A playoffs for the fourth straight year. Wayne Janks hurled a two-hitter for the winner and was backed up by Earl Koonce's two doubles that produced four runs.

In Division B, central Methodist tumbled Elizabeth Lake Church of Christ into the losers' bracket, 7-6, behind the hitting of Herc Renda and Larry Mattingly who had two hits apiece.

Donelson and Elizabeth Lake play tonight with the loser being ousted.

Friendship Fire Runs Out of Gas

TOKYO (AP) — The Flame of Friendship, lit ceremoniously in the opening of the World University Games Sunday, flickered out Monday.

Officials discovered that someone had forgotten to fill the gas tanks under the flame's dias. Fresh tanks were ordered and the flame re-lit.

Army Officer in Historic Coastal Swim

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 41-year-old Army officer says he finished his historic swim from the Farallon Island to the California coast here Monday on a wing and a prayer.

Lt. Col. Stewart A. Evans, who took 13 hours and 46 minutes to become the first to swim the estimated 22 miles through icy waters, said he somehow wrenched his left arm eight hours after stepping into the ocean.

"The pain just kept getting worse," said the grey-haired, crewcut officer. "At about 10 a.m. I thought I wouldn't make it. I said a prayer and I guess it was answered."

Before wrenching his arm — he said he didn't know how it happened — he had used an Australian crawl. After that he used a side stroke.

Two hours later Evans grinned wearily as he crawled and stumbled out of the surf at Bolinas, 15 miles northwest of here.

Stewardess Tells of Rowdy A's

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A former United Airlines stewardess, who is now married, has what she calls a "nightmare recollection" of a trip she made last season with the Kansas City Athletics to Baltimore.

Mrs. Michael Sheridan, now living in Milwaukee, a suburb of Portland, said she spoke out because of the recent publicity over the firing of Manager Alvin Dark and owner Charles Finley's disciplinary efforts.

* * *

Of the Athletics, she says, "they came on the plane with a rush, and shouting for beer. I and the other hostess weren't able to serve it fast enough to suit them and they became quite rough about it.

"They wouldn't fasten their seat belts. They decided to play cards, so some of them sat on top of the seat backs and we couldn't get them down.

DEMANDED MORE

"Always they wanted and demanded beer, more beer and still more. They'd throw the cans on the floor and we hostesses were almost crying in our despair. We couldn't even get down the aisle without a struggle, players were sitting with their legs across it and wouldn't move.

* * *

"The flight captain tried to key them down and how rude they were to him! They called him 'bussy,' meaning 'bus driver.' The time came to eat and that was a dreadful experience, with all of them yelling to be served at once.

"No one seemed to be in charge, though there were two or three who were coaches." She said she didn't think Dark was present.

Guy Carter Victor by Single Stroke

Guy Carter won the Clarkston Golf Club annual open golf tournament over the weekend by posting a 36-hole 139 total.

Defending champion Ron Rothbarth finished one stroke behind at 140.

* * *

First flight honors went to Ron Campbell who had 160 while Bill Scribner finished with 166.

Gino Scarpelli led the second flight with 178 and Harry Fox was second with 182.

Rose Township Still Resists Urban Sprawl

PICTORIAL STORY
By JOE CRAWFORD

Rural townships in fast-developing Oakland County are a fading breed.

A tide of urbanization, pressed by a surging metropolitan population, has made the pastoral scene something of a scarcity in a county that 50 years ago knew little else.

One community that has not shared in the trend is Rose Township, located in the northwest section of the county, just south of the village of Holly.

It has maintained a completely rural character, seemingly untouched by the growth pressuring urban areas to the north and south.

* * *

However, Rose is not primarily a farming center. The number of farms in the township has been diminishing steadily in recent years to the point where now only about 25 per cent of the township's 35.8-square-mile area is used for agriculture.

LAND VACANT

The bulk of the land is vacant and nonproductive, say township officials. Farmers have left it and turned to other occupations, finding it too difficult to hire farm workers and to extract a living income from the farm.

Township Supervisor C. Milton Nelson estimates there are less than 30 working farms left in the township, and that within 10 years all may be gone.

Most residents, Nelson said, now work outside the township, principally in Flint, Pontiac and Wixom. There is virtually no industrial or commercial development inside the township.

* * *

Its lack of growth in this regard is due largely to its location, just outside the metropolitan areas of Detroit and Flint.

QUESTION OF TIME

The township lies approximately 25 miles north of the Detroit city limits and 20 miles south of Flint.

Nelson said, however, that it is only a question of time before Rose Township feels the full impact of growth booms from those areas.

Expansion in the township in the last six years, although minor when compared to most other county communities, indicates that greater change is definitely on the way.

* * *

The Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission estimated the township's July 1966 population at 1,890, a 28 per cent increase over the 1960 census figure of 1,492.

Agricultural Development Came Swiftly

Agricultural development came swiftly to Rose Township following its formal establishment by the legislature as a separate governmental unit in March of 1837.

* * *

County records reveal that by 1874, population of the township had grown to 1,084 and 231 farms had been settled. It had become, by that time, one of the county's more prosperous agricultural areas.

A population decline set in toward the end of the century, however, as farmers moved from the township to locate closer to market centers to the south.

By 1940 population had slipped to 797. The trend reversed itself during the war years.

* * *

The township was first settled by Dan Danielson in 1835. For 112 years it had a post office, which was located on the north side of Buckhorn Lake in an area known as Rose Center.

Rose Center was the site of Buckhorn Tavern, erected in 1847 by Ahasuerus Buell. The tavern was an overnight mail and stage stop and did a big business for many years until the railroad supplanted the stage route.

The post office was discontinued in 1949 and township residents are now served by the Holly post office. A general store was located at Rose Center; however, it burned down about 20 years ago. Railroad passenger service stopped about 30 years ago.

The only buildings standing there now are the township hall and a few homes.

* * *

Principal among the many township lakes, is Tipsico Lake, named in honor of the Indian chief who lived upon its shores, and Buckhorn, so called because the first settlers found on its banks the locked antlers of two bucks who evidently had met in mortal conflict.

Nelson noted that recent purchases of large tracts of open land by developers are sure signs of impending expansion.

A number of small housing clusters has grown up in recent years, chiefly around the lakes with which the area abounds.

Most of the township's 525 homes, however, are still strung along graveled section line roads and are widely spaced.

With an eye to the growth the future promises and the problems it will create if it is not planned for, the township this year began drawing up a new zoning ordinance.

AIM OF ORDINANCE

Nelson said the aim of the new ordinance is to "preserve the natural resources and beauty of the township and to provide for orderly development."

The nearly completed ordinance has been designed so that it eventually will fit into a master plan for the township. Geer Associates Planning Consultants, Inc., of Bloomfield Hills has been contracted to assist in drawing up the zoning map and to aid in the community planning.

The township's rolling terrain, many wooded areas and numerous lakes make it one of the most naturally attractive communities in the county.

* * *

Mrs. Esther Downing, a township resident for 42 years and township treasurer since 1939, noted that the lack of development, the quiet country life, and the uncrowded conditions contribute to the desirability of the community.

TAXES RELATIVELY HIGH

"I'd like the township to stay just as it is," she said, "but you can't stop progress and it's certainly coming this way."

Tax rates in the township are relatively high due to low assessments. Most property is assessed at 10 to 25 per cent of true market value.

Nelson, who is also township assessor, is reassessing approximately 2,000 pieces of property in the township to bring the rate up to the 50 per cent rate required by the state constitution.

* * *

Most taxpayers, he said, pay in excess of $100 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. The township has an equalization factor of 3.08 and is allocated one mill by the county. There are no special assessments.

SCHOOLS, POLICE

The township is served by the Holly and Fenton school districts, although no schools are located in the township itself.

Police protection is provided by the county sheriff's department and the township contracts for fire protection with departments in Highland Township, Holly, Fenton and Davisburg.

Five camps are located in the township, embracing about 1,000 acres of land and enjoying a tax-exempt status. They are operated by church groups and youth organizations.

* * *

Although no major highways are located in the township, the community enjoys easy access to most urban areas to the south and north.

I-75 NEAR TOWNSHIP

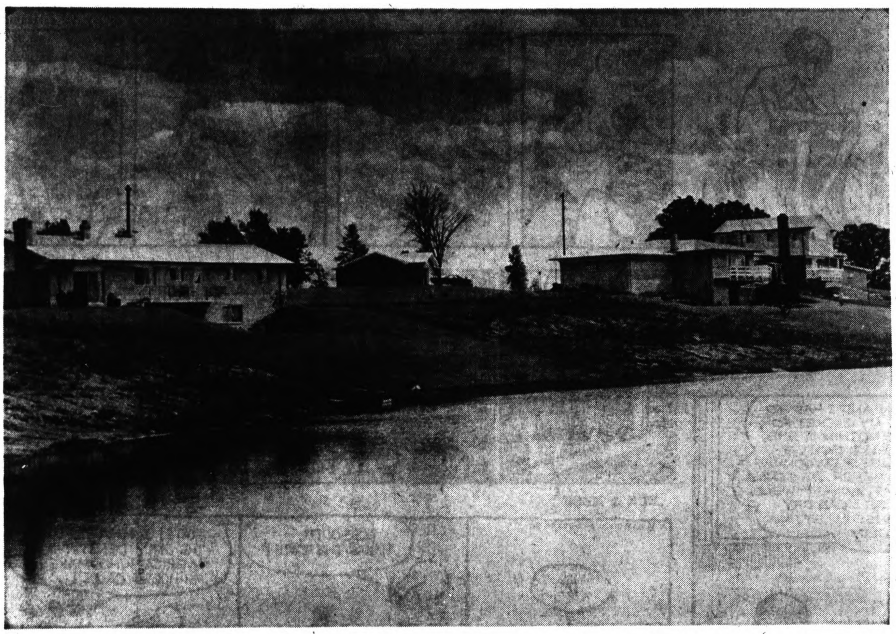

Interstate 75 is located just three and one-half miles to the east of the township; M59, four miles to the south and U.S. 23, three and one-half miles to the west.

Milford Road, one of three paved roads in the community, runs through the center of the township, connecting it with the village of Holly to the north.

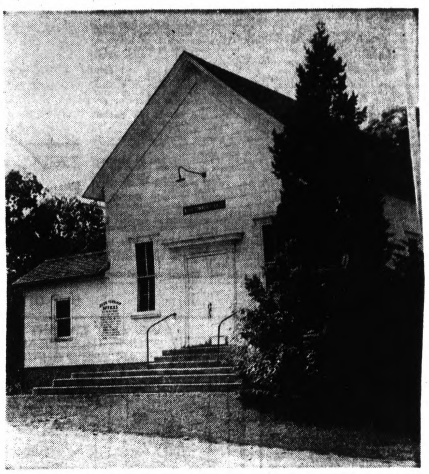

Undoubtedly the highways, combined with the many natural attractions the township has to offer, will play a major role in leading the township out of the rural isolation it has enjoyed for so long.

* * *

Long undulating hills that for a century were carved by farmers' plows are ready now for the subdividers' pencils that will carry the township into another era.

SINGLE BUSINESS—The lone year-round business establishment in the township is Phil's Store, at the intersection of Rose Center and Hickory Ridge Roads. Operator of the combination gas station-grocery store is Phil Gibbard. There are several other business establishments in the community, but they do not operate throughout the year.

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

South's three-no-trump contract looked as if it had been glued together with dishwater.

JACOBY

South should merely have raised one heart to two but he had elected to respond one spade and, instead of dropping the bidding at two spades after his partner's raise, he went to two no-trump.

North might have been satisfied to quit at two-no-trump because his opening bid was about as minimum as possible but he decided there was no real play for two no-trump and if you were going to be set you might as well go down at a worth-while contract.

Fortunately for North and South the defense was not equal to the occasion and South managed to gather nine tricks.

West started helping out by opening the ten of hearts. Dummy's jack lost to East's queen and East played the ace and ten of clubs. The ten was allowed to hold the trick and East shifted to a diamond. South won that. He couldn't afford to let West in at this point. West signaled with his jack of diamonds.

South played his nine of hearts and let it hold the trick after West discarded a club. Then South led a spade toward dummy and finessed the jack.

At this point South was sure of eight tricks and would make nine if he could pick up the whole spade suit. He ran off dummy's hearts.

East made a friendly play here. He had to make one discard and let his last spade go. Meanwhile South was discarding his last two clubs and West was getting rid of his clubs and the deuce of diamonds.

South cashed dummy's ace of spades, noted that East did not follow suit and led a diamond. West was in with the king of diamonds and had to lead a spade up to South's king-ten.

Stock Market Mixed

Leading Auto Shares Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The leading auto shares were higher in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Gains outnumbered losers but an indifferent performance by some of the blue chip industrials dampened some averages.

* * *

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.33 at 893.38.

General Motors, which fell 1⅞ Monday, recovered most of this loss after news came of its counter offer to union demands in current labor negotiations. GM called it the biggest contract proposal ever, but asked the union to cut back on some benefits won in previous years.

* * *

Ford, Chrysler and American Motors were all ahead fractionally.

Steels took a string of minor losses, however, and the advance throughout the list was somewhat irregular.

Among larger gainers, Boeing rose 3, Hess Oil 2, IBM and Xerox more than 2 each.

* * *

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .1 at 332.2 with industrials off .7, rails up .4 and utilities up .6.

Twentieth Century-Fox sank nearly 3 points following news that directors would meet Thursday to consider a stock split, calling of its 4¼ per cent debentures and issuance of new debentures.

Military, Civilians 'at Odds'

Bombing Policy Split Is Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's top military leaders apparently are in conflict with their civilian chiefs over U.S. policy toward bombing Communist North Vietnam.

That was the inference Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee drew from the testimony of Gen. Wallace M. Greene, commandant of the Marine Corps, and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, during yesterday's closed hearings on the air war.

The panel was to hear today from retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Gilbert L. Meyer, who formerly served as deputy commander of the 7th Air Force in Saigon.

Greene, in a statement made public shortly before yesterday's hearings, declared that the Communists have "opened a second front" along the demilitarized zone (DMZ) and urged a "stronger air campaign" against the north to slow the southward flow of men and supplies.

"The enemy, by directly committing large segments of the North Vietnamese regular army from the DMZ sanctuary, has opened a second front," he said.

"As you well know, I have long been an advocate of a stronger air campaign against North Vietnam, and I remain convinced that such must be a necessary part of our strategy," Greene said.

"I would emphasize that, in my view, we must make it as difficult and costly as we can for Hanoi to support the war.

"Of prime importance in accomplishing this task is reducing to the minimum their importation of war-supporting material," the Marine commandant said in an apparent reference to the thus far relatively untouched Communist port of Haiphong.

Johnson's public statement was not as strong as Greene's but his later testimony led Stennis to declare that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were "in clear and direct conflict" with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

APPROVAL WITHHELD

McNamara told the panel last Friday that intensified bombing could not win the war. He said the conflict ultimately would have to be resolved by ground forces in the south.

Stennis said that military witnesses before the subcommittee have "stated very clearly and strongly that they have not been able to gain approval to strike militarily important targets which they have recommended."

McNamara, he said, "went to considerable pains to deprecate the importance or significance of the unapproved targets which remain on the target list.

Talks Slated on Garrison Harassment

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A federal judge has scheduled a pretrial conference Sept. 4 on a request by two television newsmen that Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison be enjoined from harassing them because of their criticism of Garrison's Kennedy assassination probe.

U.S. Dist. Judge Alvin Rubin ruled Monday that the allegations by Walter Sheridan, an investigative reporter for the National Broadcasting Co., and Richard Townley of NBC's New Orleans affiliate, WDSU-TV, were sufficient to require a hearing.

The judge, at the same time, decided that Sheridan does not have to appear before the Orleans Parish grand jury, which is helping Garrison investigate what he claims was a plot hatched in New Orleans to kill President John F. Kennedy, who was slain Nov. 22, 1963 in Dallas, Tex.

He said if Sheridan was required to appear before the grand jury he would be forced to match legal wits with Garrison without an attorney.

Brown, free on $15,000 bond, was arrested in New York on Aug. 19 and charged with two counts of transporting a firearm across state lines while under criminal indictment. Authorities said he carried a .30-caliber carbine from New York to New Orleans and back.

Red Scheme to Start Third Party Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Daily News says government security agencies have unearthed evidence of a Communist party scheme "to seize direction of the National Conference for New Politics as a vehicle for a new third political party."

In a Washington story in today's editions, the News said, "These agencies believe the Communists hope to turn the 'New Politics' movement into a political front as a successor to the defunct Progressive Labor party."

William F. Pepper, executive director of the national conference, replied in a statement that convention delegates will be accredited "only if they have been chosen democratically by a local constituent organization in an open meeting. Therefore, no single organization could possibly dominate the convention."

Designed to form a coalition of peace activists, the five-day convention opens Thursday in Chicago with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. scheduled as keynote speaker.

THIRD PARTY TICKET

There have been reports that the convention may form a third party ticket with King for president and Dr. Benjamin Spock for vice president in 1968.

The News said in its story: "Security agencies here say that the Communist party has launched a nationwide campaign to send undercover delegates to the conference to grab control.

* * *

"For several weeks, party organizers have been issuing what they call 'word-of-mouth' instructions to members: 'Attend the convention, become a delegate, obtain key positions on steering committees or convention commissions. Above all, do not allow your Communist membership to become known.'"

The News also said: "The Communist delegates have been instructed to try to sharpen expected conference goals of U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam, support for militant elements in riot-plagued cities, and finally, the creation of a 1968 third party ticket."

Under the highway trust fund, a federal tax on gasoline goes into the fund.

UAW Wins Vote

EAST JORDAN (AP)—Workers at the Mount Clemens Metal Products Co. have chosen the United Auto Workers Union to represent them in contract bargaining talks. The vote announced Monday by Kenneth W. Robinson, regional director of the UAW, was 161 in favor and 82 against. Of the 270 employes eligible to vote, 251 cast ballots in the National Labor Relations Board-conducted election.

'HOW'S THAT AGAIN?'—Lt. Col. Stewart Evans clears water from an ear as he faces cameras and microphones on the beach at rugged Point Bolinas, Calif., where he came ashore after the first successful swim from the off-shore Farallone Islands. His time was 13 hours and 45 minutes. Starting late Sunday night, he made the beach at noon yesterday.

Scholarship Set

MARQUETTE (AP)— Northern Michigan University has established an Edgar L. Harden Scholarship program to honor the retiring NMU president. The initial awards will grant $1,000 scholarships to three outstanding high school seniors and will build to a maximum of a dozen such scholarships over a four-year period.

State Woman 105

DETROIT (AP)— Mrs. Anna Oberschulte was busy today sorting out congratulatory telegrams received over the weekend from such notables as President Lyndon Johnson, Gov. George Romney and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh. Mrs. Oberschulte was 105 years old Friday.

Traffic Safety Institute Eyes Biomechanics

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The relatively new science of biomechanics may soon come to the aid of highway accident victims.

The University of Michigan's Highway Safety Research Institute has announced plans to publish a new journal to serve as a medium of exchange of research information.

* * *

It will be published by Pergammon Press of New York and London, with two University of Michigan scientists serving as editors in chief. They are Drs. Verne Roberts and F. Gaynor Evans.

"Biomechanics—the application of the principles of mechanics to biology — is a form of bioengineering developed over a period of many years," said Roberts.

The new journal will publish analytical as well as experimental papers dealing with fluids, materials, prosthetics and orthotics, dentistry, ergonomics and solid mechanics.

The university's institute is backed by a $10 million gift to the U-M from the auto industry to develop a comprehensive research program in highway safety.

New York Judge Gets Call as Jury Prospect

NEW YORK (AP) — Chief Judge Sidney Sugarman of the U.S. District Court was checking cards on prospective jurors when he handed one to the jury clerk.

"Look up the record and see how many times this fellow has been excused before," he said Monday.

* * *

Clerk William Borman blanched as he read the name: Sidney Sugarman. Then the judge broke the silence with laughter.

The notice ordering Sugarman to appear had been delivered five days before while the judge was on vacation.

Borman, unaware that the judge had moved from the Bronx to Manhattan, had assumed the Manhattan Sugarman was a different man.

Coolness, Rain Hurt Farmers

LANSING (UPI) — Below normal temepratures and uneven amounts of rainfall troubled Michigan farmers last week, the Michigan Crop Reporting Service said yesterday.

It said killing frosts were reported in the western end of the Upper Peninsula for the third consecutive week and some frost hit in the western Lower Peninsula.

Rains in the northern two-thirds of the state aided crops but cool weather hampered their maturation.

The service said oat harvest was 80 per cent complete and that pear and peach harvests were in full swing. But, it said, three weeks of warm weather would be needed to mature the corn crop that in the southern part of the state has been slowed by dry weather as well.

The report of corn, dry field beans, potatoes, soybeans and sugar beets ranged from "fair to good," the service said.

Emergency Loans for Riot Victims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Impoverished residents of Detroit's riot area will be able to take out emergency loans at credit union rates under a $100,000 federal grant to the Mayor's Committee on Human Resources Development, it was announced Monday.

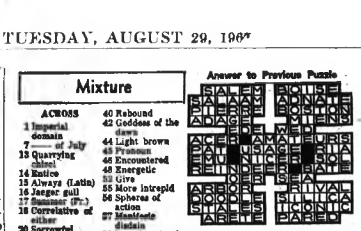

The grant, from the Office of Economic Opportunity, will provide a guarantee fund for the Michigan Credit Union League, which is carrying on the program. Loans will be administered by the Ferndale Cooperative Credit Union.

Grant to Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mercy Hospital at Grayling, Mich., has been awarded a $350,000 grant by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for a 40-bed addition.

Love-In for the Hippies Fills Host Duke's Pockets

WOBURN, England (AP) — The flower people—45,000 of them—grooved on joss sticks, rolled on the grass and got to do their thing all weekend long on the dream-deep lawns of stately Woburn Abbey. The duke dug it—at $2.80 a head.

With 10 per cent of the $70,000 profit from Britain's first mass love-in, the Duke of Bedford says he'll be glad to open his ancestral estate again next year to the hippies.

* * *

The duke turned to the flower power business over the long weekend as part of his relentless commercial campaign to pay off $16.8 million in death duties on the estate he inherited. Normally his customers are run-of-the-mill tourists, though he once was host to a paying nudist encampment.

The love-in crowd was smaller than expected—organizers had predicted 100,000—but they came painted, beaded and feathered to listen to continuous rock 'n' roll music, buy buttons and bells and make friends.

* * *

"We came because its nice to be together with people who don't mind if you are eccentric," said Robert Wilkinson, 18, who was wearing a flower on his forehead and silvery bells around his neck. "I'm a restful type."

* * *

Twelve karate experts were on call with a team of tracker dogs, but most of the hippies did their thing peacefully. The only incidents were a few fires, started by the bored and unflowerlike, and quickly doused.

DUKE IGNORES DEBRIS

The love-in ended with the lawns strewn with champagne bottles, plastic cups, beer bottles and soft drink cartons. But the duke was not perturbed.

Junior Editors Quiz on KEROSENE LAMP

QUESTION: How did the old kerosene lamp come to be invented?

* * *

ANSWER: The old kerosene lamp was once the smartest thing around (top picture). Kerosene, a product of petroleum, came into use after Abraham Gesner, a Canadian chemist, had patented a distilling process in 1854.

Wicks had been used since the times of the ancient Egyptians. In the 1700s it had been discovered that flame gives more light when burning under glass, leading to the use of the lamp chimney.

By the mid 1800's, these inventions were put together to produce the highly practical and successful kerosene oil lamp. Before this, whale oil had been widely used as fuel, but kerosene was cleaner and more easily obtained.

The use of the lamp chimney made a clear, easily-adjusted flame possible. It must, indeed, have seemed that this was man's perfect way of lighting. But those who thought so reckoned without Thomas A. Edison. He invented his electric light in 1879.

Why bother to clean a chimney and wick and fill a lamp when you can simply flip a switch? Although the kerosene lamp still glows faithfully on in a few places, the world as a whole has turned to electricity for its lighting.

Most Arrested in Detroit Riot Are Released or Free on Bail

DETROIT (AP) — The vast majority of persons arrested in the Detroit riot are back on the streets—mostly on bail.

But about 150 defendants in riot - related cases remain in jail, held to face charges filed against them before the riot.

* * *

"Some are held for parole violation, some for probation violation, some for failing to appear for trial on charges that existed prior to the riot," said Judge Donald S. Leonard of Recorder's Court.

More evidence of previous criminality among riot defendants came from the Records Bureau of the Detroit Police Department, which reports that of 7,207 adults arrested in the riot, about half—3,595—had records of previous criminal offenses.

MAJORITY FROM DETROIT

Authorities also say more than 90 per cent of those arrested in the late July riots are from Detroit with no evidence of any significant number from outside Detroit.

According to police statistics, a composite picture of the "average rioter" would show a man, a Negro, age 20 to 28, arrested in the riot on a charge of looting, with a 50-50 chance that he had a previous criminal record.

* * *

As in the riot in Newark last month, nearly 50 per cent of those arrested in Detroit's riot were over 25 years of age.

In Detroit, as in Newark, about 75 per cent of the felony indictments stemmed from the process of stealing or receiving stolen property.

But another reflection of the severity of the Detroit riot is that 255 persons were held on Detroit on charges involving weapons or explosives, compared to only 91 in Newark, where 27 were killed, compared to 43 riot deaths in Detroit.

Although 3,595 of those arrested in Detroit had previous criminal records, some of those were on offenses as minor as traffic violations.

Of the 7,207 people detained by police during the riot, 3,363 were charged with felonies, including seven charges of murder, one of which has been dismissed for lack of evidence. This charge was against police patrolman Robert Paille in the death of a Negro youth at a motel.

In 95 other cases, the charge is assault with intent to commit murder, 26 of which police list as snipers, five of whom are women.

There also were 52 persons charged with possession of explosives—Molotov cocktails, the gasoline-fueled firebombs rioters lobbed into homes and businesses.

Among the felonies, the most frequent charge is entering without breaking — looting—filed against 2,139, with 318 others charged with larceny from a building and 225 charged with possession of stolen property.

* * *

The only other felony charges against 100 or more riot defendants were 203 charges of carrying a concealed weapon and 150 charges of breaking and entering.

Auto Firms' Offers Ask Some UAW Cutbacks

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry offered the United Auto Workers Union what one company termed the best contract proposals ever today, but asked the union to cut back on some demands won in previous years.

The industry presented a solid and united front in answering for the first time demands the union itself has termed the most ambitious it has ever made.

Quick rejection of the industry proposals by the union was expected.

The industry's economic offers, based on a proposed three-year contract, come after two months of bargaining and with only eight days remaining before a strike deadline.

★ ★ ★

Contracts covering 650,000 workers at the Big Three expire at midnight Sept. 6 although only the company selected by the union as a pattern setter would be struck.

13 CENTS AN HOUR

The three companies estimated their package at 33 to 51 cents an hour over the next three years, including a flat 13 cents an hour hike now and 2.8 per cent a year in the following two years.

All three, however, asked the union to modify a cost-of-living escalator clause based on the government cost-of-living index which has brought union members increases of 18 cents an hour since 1964.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has said he would brook no tampering with the clause and that an attempt to change would be a strikeable issue.

★ ★ ★

The industry also offered the union an increase of from 62 per cent to 80 per cent in the supplemental unemployment benefits — the benefits that supplement a laid off worker's state unemployment compensation.

This apparently was far short of the demand made by the union for a complete guaranteed annual income.

Louis G. Seaton of General Motors has estimated that union demands made at the start of bargaining in July would cost GM at least $4 an hour.

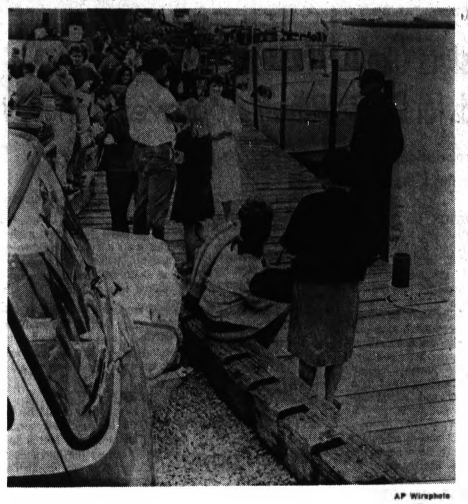

The industry also offered additional wage boosts for skilled workers, an issue that has caused some dissension in the union.

★ ★ ★

Skilled workers have demanded increases of at least $1 an hour more than the rest of the workers get.

The three companies did not specify how much they would give the industry's 200,000 skilled workers and said only it was negotiable.

Nothing was said by any company about the union demand for parity for Canadian workers.

KEEPING VIGIL — Relatives and friends of 14 sky divers lost in Lake Erie Sunday are shown yesterday as they waited and watched for signs of search craft which might bring answers to the tragedy. Searchers are continuing dragging operations today but Coast Guard officials feared there was little chance the sky divers could survive.

Surviving Sky Diver Tells of 'Nightmare'

HURON, Ohio (AP)—"It was really quite a nightmare," said Robert Coy, one of two known survivors of the worst sky-diving accident in history.

Coy, from Springfield, Ohio, held onto a slim hope that some of his 14 fellow Ohio parachutists missing in Lake Erie would be found alive.

Searchers continue dragging operations today for the 14 who fell into the lake Sunday.

But Coast Guard officials and others feared there was little chance they could survive.

★ ★ ★

The National Safety Transportation Board took over the investigation of the accident.

MISSED TARGET

Seventeen men and one woman — all expert divers—bailed out of a converted World War II bomber from 20,000 feet Sunday, not knowing they were over the lake.

Coy and Bernard Johnson, 30, West Richfield, Ohio, survived.

The jumpers missed their target—Ortner Air Service Field at Wakeman—by 10 miles.

Authorities were seeking the answer to why the plane, a B25 Mitchell, was over the lake. It reportedly was operating on radar.

Coy said his first thoughts were "to open the parachute a little higher than I normally would, hoping that the wind would blow me as close to shore as possible.

"As I hit the water, I had completely taken off my reserve chute and I unfastened my helmet strap and undid all my straps, except one leg strap to hold me in the water.

"As soon as my foot hit the water, I immediately unhooked that last strap to get free of all the gear. Then I floated on my reserve parachute, holding it in front of me until it became full of water and it sank.

★ ★ ★

"Then I floated on the helmet . . . I took my helmet and used it like an upside down cup and it gave me buoyancy.

"Then I saw a boat coming and I said, 'Thank God' and waved my arms and hollered and still didn't know if he saw me because the waves were so high.

"But the men in the boat saw me and picked me up."

Thundershowers Possible Tonight

Partly sunny and warmer is the forecast for Pontiac today with a high ranging from 83 to 87.

Clouds are expected to move into the area tonight with a likelihood of thundershowers to dampen the mild weather. The low is expected to reach 54 to 60.

Cooler temperatures will return tomorrow accompanying cloudy skies and showers. The outlook for Thursday is fair and continued cool.

Winds are from the south to southwest 10 to 20 mph shifting to northwest later tonight. The precipitation probability in per cent is: today 20, tonight 60 and tomorrow 50.

The low recorded in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 57. By 1 p.m. the temperature climbed to 80.

Governors Due to Ask Delay in Guard Changes

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (UPI) — Midwestern governors today were expected to adopt a resolution urging the Pentagon to suspend proposed reorganization of the National Guard.

The resolution, drafted at a closed-door meeting of the Mideast Governors Conference at the Lake of the Ozarks yesterday would seek, instead, additional Guard training in riot control.

Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, head of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, said the resolution was similar to one adopted at the National Governors Conference.

The proposal would ask President Johnson, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and the appropriate congressional committees that proposed reorganization of the Guard "be suspended until reevaluation of the plan can be properly considered in light of the current internal conditions."

Gov. Robert B. Docking, D-Kan., also planned a resolution commending the Guard after he criticized Michigan Gov. George Romney for saying Guardsmen during the Detroit rioting "were young, untrained kids."

Docking, who recently returned from a 10-day tour of pacification programs in Vietnam at the request of President Johnson, said the Guard "has been severely criticized for a lot of things that were not its fault."

Romney, a Republican and one of 13 governors attending the conference, had told newsmen yesterday, "We did the best we could with what we had in Detroit, but they (Guardsmen) were 17- and 18-year-olds and lacked proper training."

"The Michigan governor apparently does not hold his Guard in as high esteem as I hold my Guard," Docking told reporters. "I think there should be a resolution adopted here commending the Guard."

Nazis to Defy Ban at Burial

CULPEPER, Va. (AP) — Swastikas were barred from the Culpeper National Cemetery today as the body of American Nazi party leader George Lincoln Rockwell reached the small military cemetery 65 miles south of Washington.

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—George Lincoln Rockwell goes to his grave today as the small band of young storm troopers who called him fuehrer vowed to defy the Pentagon and honor him with a full Nazi ceremony.

The Department of the Army ruled last night Rockwell, a Navy veteran of two wars, is entitled to burial in a national military ceremony.

But, it said, "unseemly demonstrations" and the wearing of Nazi uniforms or the display of fascist emblems or flags would be forbidden.

At American Nazi party headquarters in this Washington suburb, a spokesman said the uniformed procession of Nazis to the small military cemetery 65 miles away at Culpeper, Va. will "proceed as scheduled" to give Rockwell "the kind of burial he would have liked and wanted."

★ ★ ★

The spokesman said the Army could not produce regulations barring the use of Nazi uniforms. Consequently, he said, "we are going ahead as a legally constituted political organization."

HEAD FOR CEMETERY

Rockwell's coffin, draped with a U.S. flag and surrounded by flowers, left the funeral home in a black hearse about two hours before his scheduled burial.

A three-wheeled police motorcycle, its red light blinking but its siren silent, led the hearse through the morning rush of commuter traffic.

Following the hearse was an unmarked police car containing two detectives.

★ ★ ★

Rockwell's heir apparent, Matt Koehl, and another tall young man police identified as a Nazi party member rode in the front seat of the hearse with the driver, a funeral home employe.

REGISTRATION BLUES — University of Michigan students formed the longest registration lines in history as they signed up for classes which begin Thursday. Some 37,500 students are expected to enroll at the U. of M. this fall, with morg than 30,000 at the Ann Arbor campus. Last year the fall enrollment totaled 36,063. The registration lines extended almost entirely cross the U. of M.'s original 40-acre campus.

Teachers Okay Waterford Pact

A proposed two-year contract for teachers of the Waterford Township School District was ratified by a 3-1 margin last night at a general membership meeting of the Waterford Education Association (WEA).

The board of education is expected to take action on the contract at its 7:30 p.m. Thursday meeting.

Last night's vote was 216 in favor of the contract and 72 opposed, according to Robert G. Crumpton, WEA executive secretary.

The two-hour meeting was held at Waterford Kettering High School.

★ ★ ★

Crumpton said the first year of the contract will amount to about $350,000 in increases for the total package, compared with about $700,000 the second year.

SALARY RANKING

Second-year wage increases will lift Waterford teachers from the lower third to the middle third in salary rank among Oakland County districts, according to Crumpton.

Teachers with bachelor degrees will earn between $6,100 and $9,500 the first year of the contract and $6,700 to $10,500 the second year.

The range for teachers with master's degrees will be from $6,500 to $10,500 in 1967-68 and $7,100 to $11,500 the following year.

Teachers with a master's degree plus 30 credit hours will earn from $6,900

Pontiac Hears About New Haven

One City Combats Urban Decay

By BOB WISLER

Take a 140,000 population city with massive urban problems, provide a concerned, inspired leadership willing to conduct a long, all-points campaign, throw in massive amounts of federal and private aid, and allow for an "awful lot of time" and you have part of the story of New Haven, Conn., during the past 13 years.

And yet, there's much more, according to Thomas Cecil, one of the new breed of experts, the urban expert. Now the deputy director of New Haven's Community Progress, Inc., and soon to be a top official in New Jersey's newly created department of community affairs, Cecil told of New Haven's efforts to combat urban decay at a joint meeting of the Pontiac Board of Education and the City Commission last night at the Holiday Inn.

Cecil is the second urban expert in an expected series to speak to Pontiac officials about possible solutions to the problems afflicting all urban areas. His two-day trip as a consultant here was financed by the Ford Foundation and ties in with a planned Pontiac program to provide a "human resource center" for the southeast section of the city.

This "center" — in the planning stage — would be designed to replace at least three elementary schools — McConnell, Central and Wilson — with a new facility, a type of community school which would involve the surrounding community and provide impetus for local social services, new housing and shopping facilities.

★ ★ ★

In explaining New Haven's approach to its problems, Cecil offered hope and yet spoke forebodingly of the results of waiting too long to undertake the rehabilitation of the sick cities.

PRIME REQUISITE

Leadership is the prime requisite to fashioning a workable program to cure the illnesses, he said. He spoke glowingly of the spirit and enthusiasm of the local governmental leaders.

"Because of the ideas I've heard, the staff, the general positive attitude, I would say Pontiac has the potential to produce an effective program of major national importance," he said.

He compared Pontiac today with New Haven of 10 to 12 years ago, a city with problems against which it was just beginning to wage total war.

He led commissioners and board members through the steps since 1954 when renewal really began in New Haven to a point where today the city has a much increased tax base (up 25 per cent in the last 4 years), a revitalized downtown area — which boasts two large department stores, 40 specialty shops, an 18-story hotel, the beginnings of a 23-story

Report on Taubman Due Tonight

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. is expected to deliver a report tonight on the status of the city's downtown urban renewal project.

Taylor agreed at last Tuesday's meeting to make the report and to relate the progress of developer A. Alfred Taubman in securing major tenants for a downtown regional shopping center.

District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin, long an opponent of the Taubman plan of redeveloping the downtown business area, made the request.

Taubman has been considered as a developer for the shopping center under an agreement made last September. The agreement calls for him to be sole developer if certain conditions are met.

★ ★ ★

These conditions entail that he be able to secure major tenants — notable department stores — to "anchor" the proposed center.

The agreement was originally for six months but was extended by a 6-1 vote, Irwin dissenting, for another six months early this year. It loses effect Sept. 27.

Schools Rights Challenge

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of a three-part series describing Pontiac School District's problems and plans as a new school year is about to begin.)

By DICK ROBINSON

Educating minority groups, paying teachers and financing school operations are Pontiac's biggest school headaches.

Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, who has headed the Pontiac School District for 13 years, reported that these three problems are equally the district's most pressing.

"Civil rights is an extremely complex problem," he said. "Schools are under tremendous pressures to reach an adequate educational level for minority groups."

Teachers and other school employes seemingly always ask for more money than the school district feels it can give them, Whitmer said, pointing out the district's second problem.

And thirdly, the school system needs more money to provide better education for more students in more schools and to give its employes better salaries.

The challenge to satisfactorily respond to the pressures of the civil rights movement has never been more present in Pontiac.

One of the 10 largest school districts in the state, Pontiac has more than a 27 per cent nonwhite school enrollment out of about 24,000 pupils.

"The civil rights movement of today and the historic struggle of Negroes to enter the main stream of American life constantly remind the Negro youth of goals not yet achieved," Whitmer commented.

"These problems are added to the growth problems faced by all youth and provide a special challenge to public schools and teachers.

'NOT ON THE FIELD'

"A professional educator who today is not involved in this important and multifaceted problem is not on the field where the future of America is to be determined. The challenge is one of involvement in the most significant problem of our time, and this is where the greatest challenges always lie."

Whitmer, the 54-year-old superintendent, shook his head as he remarked that preschool programs, a 12-month school year and extended school days are needed for "disadvantaged" children to bring them up to the achievement level of a middle class child.

But only if the money was available . . . .

Some Negro parents in Pontiac have stated that they feel their children are not getting as good an education in predominately Negro schools as whites are receiving in predominately white schools.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITIES

Pontiac school administrators, however, feel that equal educational opportunities exist in all schools.

But the U.S. Civil Rights Commission reported: "Negro children suffer serious harm when their education takes place in public schools which are racially segregated, whatever the source of such segregation may be.

"Negro children who attend predominantly Negro schools do not achieve as well as other children, Negro or white."

Of Pontiac's 36 elementary and secondary schools, 24 are predominately white and 7 predominantly Negro with five more or less, racially balanced.

PUPIL POPULATION

Nearly 80 per cent of Pontiac's Negro elementary school population attends predominately (over 80 per cent) Negro schools, while more than 50 per cent of all Negro pupils attend predominantly Negro schools.

Local educators agree that it is best to have a school population of one-third Negro and two-thirds white. Only three Pontiac schools meet this criteria.

All of Pontiac's segregation is de facto segregation — created naturally by racial housing patterns.

* * *

Although the U.S. Supreme Court has clearly ruled that separate school systems for whites and Negroes are unconstitutional, de facto segregation has until now seemed beyond the reach of the courts.

A U.S. Court of Appeals judge recently ruled in Washington, D.C., in which 90 per cent of the students are Negro, that de facto segregation is just as unlawful as the kind imposed on Negroes by Southern legislatures.

It is with these thoughts in mind that the Pontiac Board of Education is studying a proposal of its citizens committee on human relations to change the Jefferson (mostly Negro) and Washington (mostly white) attendance areas to achieve better racial balance.

There are many items to study but a report is expected to be completed before January.

* * *

Still another board-appointed citizen committee on equality of educational opportunity is studying racial aspects of the schools and is also expected to have a report during the winter.

And teachers are busy too studying about desegregation and minority groups through in-service programs during the school year.

Senators Okay Funds for Cities

Appropriations for 2 Programs Clear Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration got the full $40 million it asked for rent subsidies and $537 million for its model cities program in votes by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

President Johnson has said the two programs are vital elements of the administration's "pledge to bring hope and progress to the nation's cities" through the application of "the newest ideas and wisest advice" of urban experts.

* * *

Democratic leaders scheduled for Wednesday floor action on the measures, part of an omnibus $10.4-billion appropriations bill.

Officials of the Housing and Urban Development Department have estimated the $40-million subsidy program will allow financing of 44,500 housing units for low-income families.

The committee voted Monday to allow $537 million for the model cities program. The President had asked for $662 million but the House provided only $237 million.

The program gives federal aid to cities that draw up comprehensive plans to improve housing, health, recreation and sanitation in slums.

The rent subsidy program provides that a low-income family pay no more than 25 per cent of its income for rent. If more money is needed to secure adequate housing, the cost would be met by the government.

Birmingham Area News

Panel Approves Concept for Five-Deck Parking

BIRMINGHAM — The City Commission last night approved a concept for the design of a second parking deck in the central business district.

A preliminary plan for the facility was presented by the architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach, of Birmingham. The plan calls for a five-deck garage with a capacity of 740 cars.

The city's only other parking garage, on Woodward north of Willits, has a capacity of about 650 cars. It was completed last summer.

Of the five decks for the proposed new facility, one would be partially below ground, one would be at grade level and three would be above grade level.

* * *

The new facility would be located on the southeast corner of the intersection of Pierce and Merrill, across the intersection from the police and municipal office building. It would extend south to Brown St.

COST ESTIMATES

The commission directed the firm to proceed with construction drawings and return to the Sept. 11 commission meeting with cost estimates for the project.

In other action, the commission decided against constructing sidewalks on Yankee and Columbia streets between Yosemite and Villa streets.

A hearing was held to hear objections to the creation of a special assessment district to defray cost of constructing the sidewalks.

* * *

On the objections of abutting property owners, the commission shelved the project.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A dog ordinance with a leash law and provision for a dog warden was approved by the township board last night.

The ordinance will become effective in 30 days. The township has received numerous complaints in the last few years of dogs roaming loose and of children being bitten.

The board also signed a joint resolution with the Bloomfield Hills School District on the improvement of Lahser between Long Lake and Square Lake roads.

* * *

The two groups agreed to pay their "fair share" toward widening and paving of the street.

ROAD ON BORDER

The road is on the border of the township and the city of Bloomfield Hills, which is also expected to participate.

Mississippi Dems Vote in Runoff Today

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi votes today in a Democratic primary election runoff where unassessed Negro voting strength and the ballots of a defeated hard-line segregationist could decide the governor's race.

In local contests, the state may elect its first Negro sheriffs since Reconstruction. Four candidates for sheriff are among the 21 Negroes seeking county office against white opponents.

* * *

A Democratic congressman from Detroit was in Mississippi to observe the voting and to encourage participation of Negroes. Rep. John C. Conyers, a Negro and a member of the House Judiciary Committee, said he would file a report with his committee although his visit was unofficial.

He said the report was prompted because "the Justice Department is literally flooded with complaints" about past Mississippi elections.

EARLY RETURNS

The question of the Negro vote was whether it would form behind state Treasurer William Winter or U.S. Rep. John Bell Williams for governor. Each candidate claimed the conservative, segregationist banner and attacked the federal government.

First primary returns indicated that Negroes, with registration estimated at about 185,000, split among the candidates much as white voters did.

* * *

The other factor was the pool of more than 124,000 votes won in the first primary by Jimmy Swan, a Hattiesburg country singer who captured third place with a pledge to open private segregated schools.

Judicial Panel to Study Dismissal of Tax Suit

PORT HURON (AP) — A three - judge federal panel took under advisement Monday a motion by the State of Michigan to dismiss a suit to stop the state's 2.6 per cent income tax becoming effective in October.

* * *

"The motion will be acted upon as rapidly as possible," said Clifford O'Sullivan, Circuit Judge for the U.S. Court of Appeals.

* * *

The motion to dismiss was presented by Robert Derengowski, state solicitor general, and argued by William Dexter, assistant attorney general.

* * *

ALLEGED VIOLATION

Kuhn alleged in his suit that the state income tax violates both the state and federal Constitutions because the people were not allowed to vote on the proposal. He asked for an injunction to halt implementation of the tax and for a hearing on its validity.

* * *

The state argued that the federal court was without jurisdiction and that Kuhn had not raised substantial federal questions nor attempted to find relief in the state courts.

* * *

Dexter said Kuhn did not show he would suffer irreparable injury or be deprived of any privilege under the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

* * *

Kuhn replied that he resorted to the federal court because under the state income tax law, state courts cannot grant an injunction when the assessing and collecting of taxes is involved except in cases of fraud.

STATE'S ARGUMENT

The state's rebuttal argument was that most all tax laws contain such a restriction and the courts were not going to give up their injunctive rights.

No Decision Yet on Suit Over Fluoride

No action was taken yesterday by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams on a request for a temporary injunction to halt the addition of fluoride to the water supplied to the City of Pontiac by Detroit.

Adams indicated no decision should be made until all facts are presented and all parties heard, according to John T. Rogers, attorney for the complainants.

Rogers said the case will be continued when all parties have completed filing legal papers.

Adams did approve a motion by the Detroit District Dental Society and the Michigan State Dental Association to intervene in the case as defendants with the City of Detroit, the City of Pontiac and the Detroit Board of Water Commissioners.

The complainants are Barbour Williams, Freda C. and Harley E. Woody, Neva G. Stewart, Anna R. Dover and Maude Lamoreaux.

Rogers said their rights have been infringed.

"They voted against fluoride years ago, and there is still a city ordinance in effect that prohibits the addition of fluoride in water in Pontiac," said Rogers.

Worst U.S. Air Toll for 7 Days Recorded

SAIGON (AP) — The United States suffered its heaviest losses for a seven-day period in the air war against North Vietnam—16 planes—between Aug 21 and Aug. 27, the U.S. Command announced today.

The 16th plane—a Marine A6 Intruder—was lost on Sunday due to "unknown causes," the command said, but announcement of the loss was delayed for security reasons.

* * *

The two Marine fliers were listed as missing in action, bringing the total of missing fliers for the seven-day period to 24. Three were rescued. In South Vietnam, the stepped-up Communist campaign of shelling and bridge destruction in the northern war zone was met today by three heavy B52 raids on Red staging bases inside the demilitarized zone.

Military headquarters said Communist sappers blew up nine bridges in the past 24 hours—eight of them in the northern area and one in the main Mekong Delta city of Can Tho.

CONCENTRATION SITES

The B52s dropped about 450,000 pounds of bombs on concentration sites and gun positions from which the Reds have staged heavy blows against U.S. Marine positions in the past few days. The three target areas were all just above the big sandbagged Marine fortress at Con Thien which guards the main infiltration route south.

The heavy attacks by the B52s followed intensive tactical air strikes by Marine and Air Force pilots on the gun positions where the Reds have dug in their heaviest weapons—152mm guns with a range of almost 20 miles.

These big guns opened up with heavy barrages on Marine positions two days ago, and since then Marine fighter-bomber pilots claim to have destroyed 14 fortified pits housing the big truck-drawn field pieces.

The increase in Communist shelling, bridge-blowing and terrorism was evidently intended to demonstrate Red muscle during the South Vietnamese presidential election campaign which ends Sunday. The Communists appear to be concentrating on terrorism in Saigon and on disrupting traffic along coastal Highway 1 in the northern sector and the main paved road south from Saigon to the big cities of My Tho and Can Tho in the Mekong delta.

Just after midnight Monday Communist sappers used the same technique to blow important bridges in Can Tho, and just below Da Nang in the north.

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's official New China News Agency (NCNA) today released what it said was a portrait of American pilot Robert J. Flynn and his identification card with the service number 636219. His home town was not given.

* * *

It also released two photographs which it said were of wreckage of the two U.S. planes shot down over China's Kwangsi Province bordering North Vietnam on Aug. 21.

* * *

NCNA said Flynn was captured from one of the two planes shot down by the Chinese army over Kwangsi.

U.S. authorities have said two American planes were presumed lost that day over China during raids near the border between North Vietnam and China.

Senate Sees LBJ Pushing Viet in U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bloc of former senatorial delegates to the United Nations is confident President Johnson will try to initiate U.N. debate on Vietnam early in September.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, who led a show of support in the Senate Monday for such a move, said in an interview the next move is up to the President.

* * *

"The President is interested in bringing the matter before the Security Council and we were trying to demonstrate that he would have public backing if he undertakes to get action," he said. "The decision, of course, is up to the President. I am confident he would like to have the matter brought before the United Nations." He indicated no move would come before the South Vietnamese elections Sept. 3, however.

One by one, former members of American delegations to the U.N. got up to say the best route for breaking the stalemate on peace negotiations is through the international organization.

Waterford Twp. Group Against Joining COG

A group of Waterford Township residents opposed to the community's entry into the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (COG) were somewhat appeased last night when the Township Board postponed a decision on COG membership for one month.

COG is an organization being setup to cope with mutual problems facing county governments, local governments and school districts in Southeast Michigan. It has no taxing or legislative powers.

The previous township board indicated its intent to join the organization, but no formal action has been taken.

The opposition is skeptical of COG and feels it would do the township more harm than good.

* * *

A spokesman urged the board to defer action until a State Senate committee investigation on metropolitan government is completed.

LOCAL DECISIONS

"We want you to decide what is good for us, not someone from another community," said a woman.

Treasurer L. Catherine Wolters said she didn't agree with everything in the structure of COG and wanted to find out why one township recently decided to withdraw from the organization. She did not identify the township.

* * *

"I would like to know more about it," said Mrs. Wolters. She said if the township joined COG and paid the required $1,000 fee, it would forfeit the funds if it later decided to withdraw from the unit.

2 Planning Contracts Approved

Waterford Township's third year "701" planning program and a supplementary project are ready to go.

Last night, the Township Board approved two separate contracts with the Michigan Department of Commerce and planning consultants Driker Associates of Birmingham for the federally-assisted and local-funded phases of the undertaking.

Some $8,813 in township funds was appropriated for those parts of the program deleted by the state because of a shortage in federal funds.

Driker Associates will perform the phases of the program eliminated by the state.

★ ★ ★

This consists of the public relations phase of the project, which entails publication and distribution of brochures to township residents and presentation of slides to the public.

PICTORIAL EXPLANATION

The brochures and slides will explain the township's comprehensive development plan.

Federal funds will be used to plan for future industrial development in the township, capital improvements and the upgrading of commercial-industrial frontage on the three major thoroughfarts — M59, Dixie Highway and Elizabeth Lake Road.

Driker Associates also was hired to provide an interim part-time township planner until a new planning director is named.

★ ★ ★

The resignation of Planning Director Vernon Wiggins was accepted by the board last night. Wiggins' last day is Friday. He has accepted a planning position in Alaska.

OTHER RESIGNATIONS

Other resignations accepted last night were William Shunck from the planning commission and Michael Patterson from the library advisory board.

Named by the board as replacements were Paul O'Neil to the library board and Robert Lawyer to the planning commission.

In other business last night, the board raised no objections to some street name changes proposed by residents of Ideal Country Club Subdivision.

★ ★ ★

Subject to final action by the Oakland County Road Commission, the changes are: Ida Terrace to Pillar Boulevard, Tuxedo to North and South Tuxedo, Desmond to North and South Desmond and Sunderland to North and South Sunderland.

MEETING DATE

Also last night, the board reset the date of its Sept. 4 meeting to Sept 5 at 7:30 p.m.

Approved last night was a request to transfer ownership of a 1967 B-hotel and SDM license with a dance permit and two bars from Old Mill Tavvern, Inc., 5838 Dixie, to C.D. J., Inc.

Also approved were an apple blossom sale Sept. 7, 8 and 9 for Oakland County Barracks 49 and a forget-me-not sale Sept. 15 and 16 for the Pontiac Chapter of the Michigan State Department of Disabled American Veterans.

★ ★ ★

First notice was read on a request to transfer ownership of a 1967 SDM-licensed business at 6500 Hatchery from Kramp's Market to Charles and Marjorie Martin and Lee and Marlene Stark.

TO JOIN COUNCIL

In other business last night, the board voted to join another metropolitan group — the Beautification Council of Southeastern Michigan.

Annual fee to the township will be $10.

The public hearing for a proposed special assessment district street-lighting project was changed from 7 to 9 p.m. at the board's Sept. 11 meeting. Two lights would be installed on Prairie Lawn.

★ ★ ★

The board agreed to continue its policy of paying the erection cost ($4 per sign) for traffic control signs in the township.

CLASSIFICATION APPROVED

Also last night, the board approved the classification of clerk-typist II for an attendant who will operate the new telephone switchboard in township hall.

Beekeepers Are Abuzz

By HUDSON WILLSE

Just how far away should beehives be?

Beekeepers and their supporters came in numbers to the Waterford Township Board meeting last night to thwart a proposed township ordinance which, if adopted, would have restricted the owning, raising and keeping of bees to agricultural areas.

The board, instead, tabled action on the ordinance for two weeks to determine, with the help of an expert, just how far away beehives should be located from residences so as not to constitute a nuisance.

It also was indicated that the "agricultural area" restriction may be deleted from the proposed ordinance.

★ ★ ★

Democratic Trustee Robert E. Richmond, who made the tabling motion, said he feels that beekeeping operations in the township should not be limited to agricultural areas.

3-3 DEADLOCK

In an initial vote, Richmond's motion met defeat via a 3-3 deadlock. However, after reconsideration, the board passed Richmond's motion unanimously.

Attorney Wallace D. McLay, who represented the beekeepers, contends the proposed ordinance is unconstitutional, citing a few cases to bolster his claim.

He said that it is their position that beekeeping does not constitute a nuisance, public or private, consequently making the ordinance unfair.

★ ★ ★

Several beekeepers from various communities in Southeastern Michigan commented on the issue. They were in accord that honey bees will not sting unless they are bothered.

IMPORTANCE OF BEES

They emphasized the importance of bees from a pollination standpoint.

Quoting another source, one of the beekeepers said a shortage of bees will prevail by 1980 which, he stressed, will have an adverse effect on 80 crops.

One of the beekeepers said that only 20 deaths a year are attributed to bees, wasps, hornets and yellowjackets in the U.S.

★ ★ ★

Another man opined that cigarette smoking is more hazardous.

POINTED REMARK

Someone else from the good-humored audience, directing his remark to Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson, chimed in, "Say, Elmer, could you throw flies and mosquitoes in that ordinance."

Another man, doubting the constitutionality of the proposed ordinance, suggested that dogs might next be declared a nuisance.

Residents living in the neighborhood of a North Winding beekeeping operation where the issue stemmed remained firm in their contention that the bees represent a hazard to their children.

★ ★ ★

McLay estimated that 20 or more township residents currently are raising bees for honey.

Gal Should Call Fiance, Apologize for Being Tied to Mother's Apron

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The other evening I was ready to go out with my fiance when he asked me to please change my dress. He said he didn't like me in "pants." Abby, I wasn't wearing pants. I was wearing a divided skirt, called "culottes."

ABBY

My mother said I couldn't go out with him unless I wore the culottes, so there I was, torn between my fiance and my mother.

Then my mother told my fiance he should apologize to me, and he said he didn't have anything to apologize for, that he should have the say in what I wear when I go out with him. My mother said after we were married maybe, but not until.

Well, my fiance left, and I haven't heard from him since and it's been four days. Abby, I love him and I'm worried, but I don't think I should break down and call him, do you? We've been engaged six months.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Call HIM and apologize. You don't say how old you are, but a woman who's been engaged for six months should be able to run her own love life without coaching from her mother. If your fiance accepts your apology, marry him before he changes his mind. A man who insists on wearing the pants in his family can't be all bad.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 13 years old, another girl and I were caught taking a wallet from the dime store. The manager caught us, made us give him our names and addresses and said he was going to call our parents. He told us never to set foot in his store again. We didn't. Fortunately he never called our parents. We promised ourselves we would never steal another thing, and we have kept that promise.

Years have passed and now our problem is, in filling out job applications, where it asks, "Have you ever been arrested?" Should we say YES or NO?

Please answer in your column as we are too ashamed to sign our names. Thank you.

TWO 18-YEAR-OLDS

★ ★ ★

DEAR TWO: You were only caught and warned. This is not the same as being "arrested." That you would ask, however, is a good sign.

DEAR ABBY: The letter you published from the mother of a retarded child moved me to tears, for my husband and I have also walked through this valley.

Our second child was severely retarded, and we were also crucified by thoughtless people.

One woman (a total stranger) came up to my door and said, "I hear you have a baby that's an idiot. I've never seen an idiot and I came to see yours."

I told her that my son was not on display to anyone of her cruel curiosity.

Although we were also blessed with two normal, brilliant children who have brought us much joy, our little retarded son has given us depth of love and understanding we never could have known without him.

What we considered at first "a cross to bear" has become one of life's richest blessings. If you feel that this will bring a little bit of courage to new parents of a retarded child, please print it.

MOTHER OF A RETARDED CHILD

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday night I had a date with a guy I'll call Joe. It was supposed to be a double date with another couple I'll call Jim and Sue.

Sue had a headache, or so she said, and couldn't make it, so Jim came along with Joe and me.

I felt sorry for Jim without a girl and all, so I tried to make it up to him and I danced half the dances with him and half with Joe.

Joe got mad at me, and now he won't even speak to me. Who is wrong? If I'm wrong I'll apologize as soon as I see Joe again.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Since Jim didn't have a date, he was rather presumptuous to have gone along with you and Joe. You may have meant well, but I'm afraid you went too far trying to give both Joe and Jim a pleasant evening. Apologize to Joe. If he doesn't forgive you—well, there's always Jim.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HEARTBROKEN PARENTS: Equip your child to be as independent as possible in the sightless years that lie ahead. "It is not miserable to be blind, it is miserable to be incapable of enduring blindness." (John Milton)

She Enclosed an Acceptance Card Stamped

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I know how you feel about writing a reply to any formal invitation (especially wedding), but unfortunately most people either do not know this is the proper thing to do, or perhaps they do not wish to take the time to write an answer.

My wedding reception included a formal dinner where it was imperative that we know a reasonably exact number of guests attending. Therefore, I sent along with my invitations a small engraved card stating number attending and name. We did include engraved, stamped return envelopes for the cards. Many people failed to return the cards.

To my surprise, some of these came to the reception which caused a great deal of confusion as I had not prepared for them; others did not come.

As you can see, Mrs. Post, our society is either far too busy or far too unconcerned to simply write a number and a name on a reply card, so how can we ever expect them to write an acceptance letter for an invitation? — Mrs. D.T.

Dear Mrs. T.: It is discouraging to think that people are so ill-mannered or so lazy that they cannot fill in a line on a response card. I wonder how many fewer would have written answers if you had not enclosed cards. In many ways more people have better manners than ever before, but an effort of this sort seems beyond them.

And sending answer cards is not the solution. Whatever the mechanics, people must return to the era of thoughtfulness in which no one would think of neglecting to answer an invitation.

"SHERBET"

Dear Mrs. Post? I was not surprised to see the word "sherbet" mispelled in the letter addressed to you in your column, as it is misspelled and mispronounced by many people, but I was rather shocked to see the same misspelling in your answer to the problem.

There is no such word as "sherbert." Please set your readers straight on this word? — Mrs. L.

Dear Mrs. L.: Thank you for calling attention to my error, and I will certainly set my readers straight. The correct spelling, as Mrs. L. says, is SHERBET.

Dear Mrs. Post: A male friend of mine recently received an invitation to a backyard Sweet Sixteen party which suggested that he bring a date. I know the girl as a school acquaintance.

If my date brings a gift, is it necessary for me to bring one also? — Kathleen

★ ★ ★

Dear Kathleen: Yes, I think you should bring a gift, unless you and your date wish to take a gift together with a card signed by both of you.

Feminine Fun Is Fare for Her

LAKE OZARK, Mo. (UPI — The first ladies of 13 Midwestern states focused their attention on fun, fashions and food Monday while their husbands labored over the common problems shared by chief executives.

Guests of honor at a lavish luncheon at the Lodge Of The Four Seasons, the governors' ladies dined and watched while Missouri paraded its fashion best.

Mrs. Betty Hearnes, wife of the home state governor, served as hostess.

The state's biggest department store showed off dozens of Missouri-made dresses, shoes and hats in fashionable fall styles.

The models' parade of fashions ranged from sparkling cellophane knit cocktail dresses to calico print "granny gowns" and bloomer nightwear and from scrumptious furred woolens to tattered shirts over kilt-length skirts.

Beige wool demi-tents for governors' daughters bleeded with soft gabardines designed for their mothers.

Although colors spanned the rainbow, the accent was on cream, orange and brown shades.

Models moved among tables keyed to an orange and hot pink motif and tended by waitresses attired in paper dresses and matching headscarfs, all trimmed in bright yarn and all in the same design as place mats and napkins.

A Kansas City dress manufacturer presented the wife of each governor with a dress of her own choosing.

Mrs. George Romney of Michigan selected a heavy textured dacron in ivory color and accented with gold buttons. The A-line dress features long slim sleeves.

Concerts Are Planned

Arthur Fiedler will conduct all of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's 1968 Cabaret "Pops" Concerts.

Eight concerts are scheduled for the 1968 series, which will be given in April in Detroit's Light Guard Armory.

Fiedler, who has been conductor of the Boston Pops since 1930, led four of the Detroit Symphony's Cabaret "Pops" on his first visit to the Orchestra here last April.

"We set our sights on obtaining Mr. Fiedler for our full 1968 series at that time," said Symphony general manager, Howard Harrington.

"He generated a great deal of excitement, and we know he will be bringing some fresh concepts to these programs."

★ ★ ★

The Symphony inaugurated its Cabaret "Pops" in 1964. Since then it has given eight concerts, over a two-week period, each year at the Light Guard Armory on East Eight Mile Road.

Music by candlelight, seating at tables for four, a festive decor and the availability of light refreshments, including beer, wine, and liquor, are hallmarks of the concerts.

PROGRAM FORMULA

Fiedler's programs, which have met with enormous success, follow a consistent formula of a selection of symphonic classics, a featured appearance by an instrumental soloist, and a group of pop favorites, always leading into a round of encores.

"Mack the Knife," "Batman," "I Wanna Hold Your Hand," and TV Western themes were among some of the pop specials Fiedler presented to Detroit audiences last spring.

★ ★ ★

Fiedler, 72 years old, is a native Bostonian. He had been a violinist and then a violist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra before becoming conductor of the Boston Pops.

A renowned fire buff, he was made an Honorary Fire Chief in Detroit when he appeared with the Detroit Symphony earlier this year.

The performance dates for Fiedler's 1968 appearances with the Symphony are April 17, 18, 19, 20, 24, 25, 26, and 27.

Tickets will be placed on public sale approximately six weeks prior to the concerts, though the Symphony already is involved in making special arrangements for groups of 100 or more persons.

Many Detroit organizations utilize these concerts in conjunction with their own fund-raising or entertainment programs, as is done at the Boston Pops and New York Philharmonic "Promenades."

Father of 'Monopoly' Is Dead at 78

OTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The man who gave people $300 every time they passed "Go" and put Boardwalk and Park Place on the map is dead at age 78.

Charles B. Darrow, inventor of the game Monopoly, died Monday at his Bucks County farm.

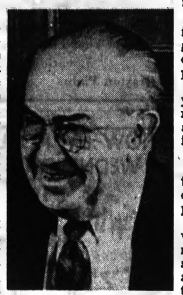

* * *

During the Depression, Darrow, a stove salesman and heating engineer, made little green houses and red hotels and put them in a complicated game which was won by ending up with all the other guy's money.

To help pass the nights Darrow and his friends sat around the original Monopoly board—a circular piece of linoleum—buying railroads, building hotels and going "directly to jail."

TWO A DAY

The game caught on among the friends and Darrow began turning out two a day. But after making about 100 sets, "It became imperative that I seek other methods," he once recalled.

CHARLES DARROW

Trying to sell the game to toy manufacturers was about as successful as trying to peddle Baltic Avenue in the low-rent section of the Monopoly board.

* * *

"They told me that there were too many players. That it was too complicated, that it took too long and that it would wind up in families fighting with each other," he said.

So Darrow began producing the sets himself, selling them store to store and soon he was strong enough to bargain with manufacturers again.

He took "an attractive offer" from Parker Brothers, the game manufacturer, for a never disclosed cash amount and a percentage on every set sold.

Darrow retired at 53. Five years ago he estimated he had made $1 million from the game and royalties continued to pour in.

* * *

"Monopoly was the biggest thing to ever hit Parker Brothers," Robert B. M. Barton, company president, said.

Darrow is survived by his widow, the former Ester Edmondson Jones. They had two sons and two grandsons. Funeral services will be Thursday at the Reed Funeral Home, Doylestown.

Storm Threat Is Weakening in E. Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) With the hurricane season about to close out its third quiet month, satellite pictures of the latest tropical depression showed Monday that the weather pattern was growing weaker as it thrashed about in the eastern Atlantic.

The depression, with winds of 30 miles an hour, popped up during the weekend about 2,000 miles east-southeast of Miami, but weathermen said Monday that cloudiness in the area was decreasing and "there is no apparent organization."

* * *

Hurricanes often spring from such tropical weather patterns but none of the season's four depressions has spawned a big storm.

Not since 1941 have the first eight months of the year failed to produce a hurricane. Forecasters say a ridge of high pressure is undercutting the development of tropical storms.

Hart Seeking Federal Aid on 'Big Mac' Financing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D - Mich., proposed Monday that the federal government help finance the Mackinac Bridge, which connects the Upper and Lower peninsulas of Michigan.

The government, he said, should also embark on a program of scenic roads as the interstate highway system nears completion.

* * *

The 41,000 - mile interstate highway program, financed by federal gas taxes, originally was expected to be finished by 1972, although it is behind schedule in some areas.

"Plans for federal help on the bridge were first put forth a number of years ago," Hart said.

'AGREED WITH PAT'

"At that time I voiced opposition because I agreed with the late Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich., chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee) that funds earmarked for the interstate program should not be diverted.

"But as federal funds are freed by the completion of the interstate system, I think we can turn our attention to these other pressing problems."

* * *

Hart said the Mackinac Bridge is an essential transportation link, serving an area that has not fully participated in national prosperity.

From Continual, Bitter Fighting

Cantonese Reported Fleeing

HONG KONG (AP) — Thousands of residents are fleeing from Canton, South China's largest city, and Chinese border troops have tightened their guard to prevent an exodus to Hong Kong, Chinese arriving from Canton reported today.

★ ★ ★

The Cantonese are fleeing because of almost continuous fighting between opponents and supporters of Communist party chairman Mao Tse-tung as well as among the nominally Pro-Mao Red Guards, the travelers said.

★ ★ ★

"The residents fear true civil war will erupt in Kwangtung Province," one returning Hong Kong Chinese said. "And the army seems to fear that there will be a mass exodus of refugees attempting to get out of China to Hong Kong."

★ ★ ★

He said Canton residents told him at least 50,000 persons were trying to make their way to the Hong Kong border. However, Hong Kong officials said they had "reasonably good" information that the Cantonese were fleeing to their home villages in Kwangtung's rural areas.

NO EVIDENCE

"We have had no indication of refugees massing for a border crossing attempt," a top official reported.

★ ★ ★

Travelers from Kwangtung said Red army soldiers were standing guard with fixed bayonets at all railway stations between Canton and the Hong Kong border and stopping all Chinese without travel permits.

They also reported that soldiers on guard duty aboard trains were making multiple checks of passengers' documents.

★ ★ ★

One Chinese woman said her papers were checked three times during the 40 miles between Canton and Hong Kong.

BITTER FIGHTING

Most travelers reported bitter fighting every day between rival gangs of Red Guards and between the Red Guards and opponents of Mao.

Some reported they had seen street proclamations purportedly signed by Premier Chou En-lai demanding that all organizations regardless of political affiliation surrender their weapons to the army.

★ ★ ★

Some of the travelers said they suspected this was a trick by some Red Guard units to get weapons away from other Red Guard factions.

Boy Questioned in State Shooting

Abrams and two 16-year - olds were visiting the night attendant at a gasoline station early Monday when one of the boys picked up a 22-caliber rifle and it fired, police said.

Gospel Singer Postpones Concert

At the advice of her doctor, gospel singer Mahalia Jackson has postponed indefinitely a European concert tour to avoid the possibility of a heart attack. "I want to sing," she cried, wiping her wet eyes yesterday. "Oh, how I want to sing. What about all those people who have paid money to see me? Will they understand?"

Dr. Rolf Schroeder, cardiac specialist at the West Berlin Westend Hospital, said. "The burden of performing would have been a great strain on her heart and could have led to a heart attack."

Miss Jackson, 55, who suffered a heart attack three years ago, said: "I had a little fever last week. I caught a chill from an open door in my dressing room. But now I feel all right.

"I have sung for 40 years and this has never happened to me."

NY Man Plans to Visit Spy

Burton Silverman of New York is en route to Moscow with hopes of renewing acquaintances with his old Brooklyn neighbor, Emil Goldfus.

Goldfus is better known to the world as Col. Rudolf Abel, the Soviet master spy who was exchanged in 1962 for U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

"He was a fascinating man . . . even before I learned he was a spy," recalled Silverman yesterday. Before Goldfus' true identity became known the two Brooklyn neighbors became fast friends.

Silverman, 39, a Manhattan artist, took note when Abel recently reappeared in public on Russian television and decided to try to see his old friend.

"None of the officials either here, in Washington or in the Kremlin said it could be arranged," he said at the airport. "But they did say, 'Why don't you go to Moscow and see.' So I'm going."

Expo Traveler Richer 2 Ways

NEWTON, Kan. (AP) — Mike Ryan is ending his summer $100 richer in cash and much richer in experience because he wanted to see Expo 67 at Montreal, Que.

When school let out last spring, Ryan, 17, loaded a back pack, got himself a good pair of shoes, put $20 in his pocket and headed for Montreal-hitchhiking.

★ ★ ★

He worked at odd jobs all the way from a resort in Missouri to a farm in Vermont, met a French family in Montreal who put him up for two weeks and gave him a grand tour of the fair, and returned home via New York City where he visited a grandmother he had never seen.

★ ★ ★

When he arrived home, Ryan figured he had traveled 4,500 miles and said he had $120 in his pocket—savings from various jobs.

Red Scheme to Start Third Party Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Daily News says government security agencies have unearthed evidence of a Communist party scheme "to seize direction of the National Conference for New Politics as a vehicle for a new third political party."

In a Washington story in today's editions, the News said, "These agencies believe the Communists hope to turn the 'New Politics' movement into a political front as a successor to the defunct Progressive Labor party."

William F. Pepper, executive director of the national conference, replied in a statement that convention delegates will be accredited "only if they have been chosen democratically by a local constituent organization in an open meeting. Therefore, no single organization could possibly dominate the convention."

Designed to form a coalition of peace activists, the five-day convention opens Thursday in Chicago with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. scheduled as keynote speaker.

THIRD PARTY TICKET

There have been reports that the convention may form a third party ticket with King for president and Dr. Benjamin Spock for vice president in 1968.

The News said in its story: "Security agencies here say that the Communist party has launched a nationwide campaign to send undercover delegates to the conference to grab control.

★ ★ ★

"For several weeks, party organizers have been issuing what they call 'word-of-mouth' instructions to members: 'Attend the convention, become a delegate, obtain key positions on steering committees or convention commissions. Above all, do not allow your Communist membership to become known.'"

The News also said: "The Communist delegates have been instructed to try to sharpen expected conference goals of U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam, support for militant elements in riot-plagued cities, and finally, the creation of a 1968 third party ticket."
