THANKSGIVING DINNER — Fredrick Blaney, 2, holds tightly to a turkey leg that's almost as big as he is. He and other youngsters were treated to the turkey at a Louisville, Ky., elementary school where they went for medical examinations.

Day for Sharing Across the U.S.

By the Associated Press

From senior citizens invited to the White House to the child with drumstick at the family table, Americans today observe Thanksgiving. Many share their bountiful board with the lonely and less fortunate.

It is a day of religious observances, family reunions and the traditional rich repast that has marked the occasion since the Pilgrims in Plymouth Colony gave thanks for their blessings in December 1621.

President Nixon and his family invited 225 senior citizens from Washington homes for the aged to share Thanksgiving dinner at the White House. "These folks are dancing on air," said the superintendent in one home.

"I just want to see everything I can see—even if I don't eat," said Lessee Zier, 75, from White Plains, Md. "I'll never get a chance like this."

The Salvation Army planned to dish out 2,500 turkey dinners to needy New Yorkers and had a ton of turkey ready to cook in Chicago. The Union Rescue Mission set places for 700 lonely men in Los Angeles.

In Huntington, W. Va., a family of 13 will have turkey, dinner and all the trimmings thanks to policeman Kenneth Marcom, who says he tries to help the hungry because he remembers the Depression.

Known as the "Doughnut Cop" because he passes out the sugared cakes to children along his beat, Marcom found the mother, grandmother and 11 children in need and told a doughnut shop, which collected the money for the inner.

Police in Chicago's South Chicago district were handing out 100 $20 bags of food free to the aged in a "Try a Little Kindness" program. Each of the 243 policemen in the district gave one dollar and merchants donated 100 hams and 75 pumpkin pies.

Holiday Preempts Work on Ed Reform

LANSING — Turkey and trimmings took precedence over education reform negotiations today as bargaining lawmakers recessed their closed-door discussions for the Thanksgiving holiday.

But talks were scheduled to resume tomorrow with a revised version of the $1 billion-plus state school aid bill—still including $25 million for parochial—ready for presentation to the 24-member committee.

Separate discussions also were planned on tax measures to pay the school-aid price tag.

House Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit, said the talks "probably" would continue for at least one day over the weekend, as lawmakers try to prepare something "substantial" to present the Legislature when it reconvenes Tuesday.

The aid bill as tentatively agreed on by bipartisan negotiators would add some $4.8 million to the version already passed by the Senate. Increases would be mostly in the area of "specials"—school districts, transportation and a special education.

DISADVANTAGED FUNDS CUT

In addition, the subcommittee working on the aid bill revision reduced the $22.5-million Senate figure for culturally disadvantaged areas by $5 million and specified that amount be used solely for remedial reading programs.

The parochial-aid appropriation figure remained unchanged.

Another subcommittee decided yesterday to refer the question of local school district reorganization to the House Education Committee—a group both Ryan and House Minority Leader Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, said has "most expertise" to study the matter.

The subcommittee also decided to refer the controversial question of what to do with the State Board of Education Milliken wants to abolish it—to the entire negotiating committee.

Egypt Rejects U.S. Peace Plan

By the Associated Press

Egypt has officially rejected the latest U.S. proposal for peace in the Middle East, a Cairo newspaper reported today. The authoritative newspaper, Al Gomhuriya said Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad had sent U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers a note saying Egypt totally rejects "the principle of a piecemeal settlement" and believes any acceptable peace proposal must deal with the Middle East issue as a whole.

The United States has not made its proposal public, but sources in Cairo say it calls for a bilateral settlement between Israel and Egypt, followed by talks to reach agreements among Israel and other Arab nations.

The United States presented the proposal to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin in Washington on Nov. 4. There has been no report of a response by the Soviets.

The Israeli military command said today Arab guerrillas shelled an Israeli settlement on the occupied Golan Heights last night, while at the Suez Canal two Israelis were killed and three wounded in a mortar exchange.

Syrian artillery opened up on the farmer-soldier settlement of Nahal Golan at the southern end of the Golan Plateau, but caused neither damage nor casualties, a spokesman said. The Israelis returned fire, he added.

Meanwhile, the military said an Arab guerrilla was killed in a clash with an army patrol in the Jordan valley 27 miles north of the Dead Sea.

There were no Israeli casualties in the skirmish, a spokesman said. At the southern sector of the Suez Canal, mortar and light arms duels throughout the afternoon killed two Israeli soldiers and wounded three others, the military said.

Israeli jets thundered across the Canal today to hit Egyptian targets in the central and southern sector, a spokesman said later. He added all the planes returned safely.

Apollo 12 Moon Rocks Larger

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Scientists say rocks brought back from the moon by the Apollo 12 astronauts are larger than those returned by the Apollo 11 crew in July.

The first part of the collection is dominated by softball-sized stones and includes some more than six inches long and five inches in diameter. All are covered with fine gray dust.

"The astronauts were asked to bring back big rocks if they could, and they didn't cheat us one bit," said Dr. Dan Anderson, curator of the Lunar Receiving Laboratory.

The first of two chests filled by Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean was opened at the laboratory last night. Inside were two bags of rocks, a 14-inch core tube that had been pushed into the lunar soil to gather subsurface material, and considerable dark moon dust.

Included in the collection were two of the largest lunar crystalline rocks seen so far. Each was more than five inches in length and weighed between three and four pounds.

OU's Varner Will Speak at Kingswood

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Durward B. Varner, Oakland University chancellor, will address Kingswood School students Dec. 3 during the school's career-day seminar, "The Modern Woman in the World of Work."

Representatives from 12 professional fields of work available to women will also address the 10th through 12th grade girls from 8:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. in the school's auditorium.

They will discuss their general backgrounds, including education and experience and job opportunities available to women.

Frances Donohue Hanson, Kingswood School headmistress, said, "We anticipate that this day will be an excellent adjunct to our college counseling program as well as an event of great meaning in itself."

AN OPPORTUNITY

"The total presence of these women cannot be other than formative as well as informative to young girls seeking models for their future," Mrs. Hanson continued.

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell and Mrs. Donald E. Young are program coordinators.

Each student will attend one seminar on either the performing or the environmental arts. Among those representing these fields are Mrs. Irving Berg, modern dance teacher; Mrs. Basil Briggs, photographic model; Ruth Joyce, fashion designer; and Mrs. Linn McGlade, curator at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Students may then choose seminars in two of three fields to attend. They are education, business and government social service.

Members Of The 4th Infantry Division Pray On Thanksgiving Eve In Vietnam

Way Seen Clear for New Secret Talks in Paris

From Our News Wires

PARIS — Diplomatic sources said today Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has cleared the way for new secret peace talks involving only U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators.

Lodge's remark yesterday that the United States was willing to discuss with Hanoi a coalition government for South Vietnam was the signal of readiness to resume private talks interrupted last August, the sources said.

Within hours after Lodge's statement, a South Vietnamese government spokesman in Saigon said South Vietnam would never accept a coalition without free elections. The Vietcong said it would approve new secret talks.

Lodge's statement after the 44th session of the Paris talks yesterday followed allegations by Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy that earlier private talks broke up in August because Lodge refused to discuss anything but mutual troop withdrawals.

READY TO TALK

"We are ready to talk about anything and obviously we are ready to listen to anything," a Lodge spokesman said.

Lodge said in a prepared statement later he wanted to clarify the statement about a coalition.

"I definitely was not advocating that we negotiate the imposition of a provisional coalition government on the South Vietnamese," he said. "I was trying to show that while nothing about South Vietnam can be negotiated without the South Vietnamese government, anything, including political measures, can be talked about between North Vietnam and ourselves."

Meanwhile, in Washington, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam is "irreversible."

OUT OF COMBAT

"We are withdrawing troops. We are going to Vietnamize the war. We are going to get American soldiers out of combat. And that is irreversible," Rogers said Wednesday.

Commenting on the war in an interview for the National Educational Television Network, the secretary said the United States has learned this lesson in Vietnam.

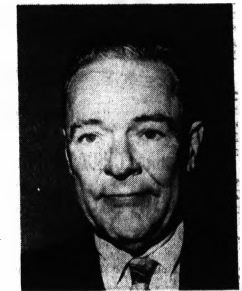

"We are not going to fight any major wars on the mainland of Asia again... unless we have the American public and the Congress behind us."

In Vietnam, about 100 American GIs and a handful of military doctors and nurses at an Army hospital in Pleiku skipped Thanksgiving Day dinner today to protest the Vietnam war.

HOT TURKEY DINNERS

A spokesman said there were no reports of similar incidents elsewhere as thousands of U.S. troops paused for hot turkey dinners that helicopters took to forward bases.

The U.S. Command reported light fighting across the country, but in its weekly report said casualties on all sides increased last week.

HENRY CABOT LODGE

1-Day Furlough for Some at GM

About 13,000 General Motors Corp. employees in Pontiac's three plants will be off work tomorrow as a result of a GM decision to close 13 of its assembly plants across the country for the day.

Another 23,000 will work a normal day following their Thanksgiving holiday.

The production cut back was termed "schedule adjustment" by GM, but other automotive sources described it as a move to bring rising inventories in line with sales.

At Pontiac Motor Division, the short workweek will be in effect tomorrow only, according to personnel and public information department spokesmen.

LESS THAN HALF

Less than half of the hourly rated employees — or about 8,000 workers — will be affected. The one-day layoff does not affect salaried employees and some 8,000 hourly workers, according to company spokesmen.

Fisher Body, which supplies the bodies for Pontiac cars, is geared to Pontiac Motor production and will cut back accordingly. About 4,000 employees will be affected.

GMC Truck and Coach Division is expected to operate nearly a normal weekday tomorrow, with only 1,000 of its 13,000 employees affected in the cutback.

All employees not working tomorrow will draw 80 per cent of their paycheck, providing they've been employees a year, a company spokesman said.

OTHERS AFFECTED

In eight other GM assembly plants the work schedule was unaffected. In those cut back tomorrow, the normal workweek is expected to resume Monday.

Car sales have been running behind production in recent months. A trade publication estimated dealers began November with 1,357,833 unsold cars in stock.

This represents a 45-day supply, compared with a 35-day supply on Nov. 1 a year ago, it was reported.

Thanksgiving Scene Re-created in 1969

"Over the river and through the woods to grandmother's house we go..." Remembering the nostalgic refrain and taking time out to re-create the scene are Mrs. Robert S. Talles (center) and her daughter Sally of Williamstown, Bloomfield Township; and their driver, William Attaway of the Greenfield Village staff. The sleigh, the horse and the site were provided through the courtesy of Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum.

Waterford Students Get Advice

Waterford Township school officials are advising juniors and seniors in high school to get good grades if they want to get into a college.

This advice comes in the wake of Tuesday's defeat of a proposed school tax hike.

If the one-year, 9-mill proposal had passed, secondary students would have returned to a six-hour day in January, according to Dr. Gene Megivern, coordinator for secondary schools.

Because of a shortage of funds, 8,496 junior and senior high school students are on five-hour schedules for the second straight year. They are missing one elective per semester.

1,100 TO GRADUATE

Secondary students will continue on shortened schedules, school officials have said. About 1,100 students, including adults, in three high school are expected to graduate in June.

But it is almost definite now, says Megivern, that Township and Kettering high schools will lose accreditation in March. And school officials say they won't be able to apply for accreditation for the new Mott High School.

"What this means for students expecting to graduate this June is that they will have more difficulty getting into colleges," Megivern said.

"Most of the graduates — excluding the exceptional ones — may have to take extra tests to get accepted. If there are two students of equal ability, one from an accredited high school and the other from a nonaccredited school, the accredited school's student will get accepted."

SAME PREDICAMENT

High school juniors will likely be in the same predicament unless a millage increase is passed before next summer, according to Megivern.

The coordinator said the regional accrediting agency — North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools — has indicated to him the two high schools would lose accreditation at the agency's annual meeting in March unless additional millage is passed.

It usually takes one year from the time of application to get accreditation back, he pointed out.

Waterford high schools have received two warnings from the agency that they aren't meeting the minimum standards of six hours per day.

VOTE CERTIFIED

In a related item, the school board of canvassers met last night to certify the election results. They made only minor changes.

The official results are:

Two Inches of Snow Expected

Thanksgiving Day travelers are warned of possible hazardous driving conditions due to snow flurries today.

According to the weatherman, about two inches of snow is expected. Tonight's temperature should dip down between 15-20.

For the next five days, temperatures will average five degrees below the normal high of 35 to 42 and normal low of 20 to 28.

A warming trend is forecast over the weekend, then temperatures will turn colder the first part of next week.

Precipitation for the period is expected to total around one to two-tenths of an inch in showers and snow flurries over the weekend.

Senators Charge Cover-Up of Massacre, 300-700 Toll

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two senators charge that military officers in Vietnam deliberately covered up the alleged My Lai massacre, and one says the ultimate count may be 300 to 700 dead.

The senators, members of the armed services committee, made their charges after Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor gave committees of both houses the most definitive official account to date of the March 1968 incident.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., said after the closed-door session he is convinced there was a "premeditated cover-up of this incident." He added, however, that he thought the cover-up does not go to the ultimate top leadership in Vietnam. It does go fairly high up the chain of command in the field structure.

'300 TO 700 CIVILIANS'

Sen. Stephen Young, D-Ohio, said officers in Vietnam told men of the 11th Infantry Brigade who were in the My Lai area not to write to their congressmen. The senator said officers "whitewashed it," but that "murder on such a huge scale, 300 to 700 civilians, cannot be whitewashed."

Resor said the Army is still investigating "the extent to which the members of Company C were acting pursuant to orders from their company commander or higher headquarters when they destroyed My Lai's buildings and fired upon its unresisting inhabitants."

The secretary said the question of orders was one of the "critical issues" remaining to be resolved.

Resor said it may be several months before all the allegations in the incident are evaluated.

ADEQUACY OF PROBES

Lt. Gen. William R. Peers is seeking to determine "the adequacy of both the original investigation and its subsequent review," Resor said.

One officer, 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., has been charged with premeditated murder in the case. S. Sgt. David Mitchell has been charged with assault with intent to kill and "There are at least 24 former members of Company C, nine of who are still on active duty, who must be deemed subjects of the continuing criminal investigation," Resor said.

The secretary said the original investigation, right after the March 1968 incident, ended when "the brigade commander (Col. Oren K. Henderson) concluded that approximately 29 non-combatants had been inadvertently killed by preparatory fires and in cross fires between friendly and enemy forces, and that the reports of unnecessary killing of civilians were merely another instance of a common Vietcong propaganda technique and were groundless — a view apparently shared with the Vietnamese district chief."

We Give Thanks Today

Of all America's annual observances, Thanksgiving Day is that whose significance lies within one's spirit. It commemorates no national hero, no specific date, nor does it glorify, like Christmas, the symbol of Christianity.

What have we to be thankful for this year? A great deal, we think.

True, we are bogged down in a vicious war in Vietnam, there is social unrest and outbreaks at home.

But thankfulness cannot be measured in tangible terms, nor is it susceptible to standards that justify thankfulness in one individual and not in another.

Regardless of the state of material or physical welfare, there are few living in America today who have not cause for sentiments of felicity and thankfulness. Those who feel their lot is a sorry one have only to look beyond the seas to millions whose lives are living death.

Americans, by and large, enjoy a standard of living undreamed of a few decades ago while, physically, their lives are being prolonged and made more benign by the amazing progress of medical science.

It was in 1623 that Massachusetts Gov. WILLIAM BRADFORD decreed a three-day period of feast and prayer. This followed a dreadful winter that killed half the colony's inhabitants, but which was followed by reborn hope as the harvest proved bountiful. It was not until 1941 that Congress declared Thanksgiving Day a legal holiday to be observed on the fourth Thursday of November.

A cynical might question what the Country's early settlers had to be thankful about, just as a skeptic might ask what have we to be thankful for today.

But the questions would stem from abysmal ignorance that our blessings reside in our consciousness of and faith in a Deity whose ways, though unfathomable, are the constant source of man's euphoria — be his state lowly or exalted. Let us be thankful today.

Lodge Quits Peace Talks

The resignation of U.S. chief Vietnam peace negotiator HENRY CABOT LODGE and his top deputy, LAWRENCE E. WALSH, does little to buoy hopes that a Vietnam peace formula will emerge from the Paris peace talks initiated in May 1968.

Negotiations in the French capital have been stalemated virtually from the outset, with nothing settled, as an observer put it, besides the shape of the conference table.

Certainly the United States has had its top diplomatic talent involved in the Vietnam talks. A career diplomat and former ambassador to South Vietnam, the 67-year-old Lodge was ideally fitted to resolve some of the sticky issues at the bargaining table. And his predecessor, AVERELL HARRIMAN, was no less skilled in the delicate designs of international diplomacy.

That both were unable to get a Vietnam settlement, or even get a meaningful one under way despite unilateral concessions by the United States, is clear indication of the intransigent attitude of Hanoi and its peace representatives.

The fact that no successor to Lodge was announced and the implication that President Nixon will leave future peace negotiations in the hands of State Department diplomats can be construed in two ways:

● That the Administration has given up on settlement of the war through the diplomatic process.

● That the President is serving notice on Hanoi that he has had his fill of the negotiations deadlock prolonged by the North Vietnam government and will await tangible evidence of its good intentions before resuming top-level peace talks.

CABOT LODGE's withdrawal from leadership of America's earnest effort to liquidate our Southeast Asia involvement is regrettable, but in light of the unproductive results that have characterized Vietnam peace overtures, his action is not surprising.

Call for Prison Reform Merits Support

NEA—Clamor over the handling of the war in Vietnam has been so pervading that churchmen may have been distracted from some exciting developments in areas of social concern.

The Nixon administration may not be popular with the universities and the denominational headquarters but a recent proposal deserves very high points and broad support.

The first is prison reform. The President's request that the attorney general and the Justice Department start a 10-year program to reform the federal prison system was nearly drowned out during the demonstrations for and against the Vietnam conflict.

His message was precise and direct: The prisons in America are not providing correction and rehabilitation. Just the opposite. People who are in prison are more apt to return.

Young men in prison have the highest return rate of all and the population of our correctional institutions is getting younger every day.

HALF ARE UNDER 21

In New Jersey, for instance, half of those serving time are under 21.

The President's request coincided with the report of the Joint Commission on Correctional Manpower and Training.

Historically, the public has yawned in the face of prison reform. Lock them up and throw away the key. Yet crime increases and human lives are crushed in a system that prolongs anger, tension, hate and violence.

Our federal institutions hold about 20,000 inmates. Nearly 250,000 are in our state and county jails.

Like all systems, reform has to start at the top and the money has to come from the Congress if meaningful change is to happen.

One thing is clear: At least two-thirds of the prison population does not need to be locked up in a dirty old jail that has the appearance and smell of a medieval tomb.

Many of these inmates can work and study outside of prison during the daytime hours.

Many more can reenter society through the formation of halfway houses that provide counsel and supervision as individuals get back on their feet.

Of all the groups in our society, the local church should be the first in line to support the President's leadership and give time and energy to see that change takes place. Even a visit to the county jail might be a hesitant first step.

We are living in a day that requires strong leadership and bold strokes. In the midst of so much anger and unhappiness over the war, it is pleasant to note some areas of progress and reform. It couldn't happen at a better time.

Still So Much to Be Thankful For!

Welfare Project Points the Way

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis. — Angry cries of "put them to work" are heard around the country but nowhere has the task of finding work for welfare recipients been tackled more thoroughly than in a significant experiment here in Woods County.

BARTLETT

The idea was to reach further than anyone had reached before to furnish rehabilitation counsel to people barred from employment by cultural, mental, and physical handicaps.

A team of counselors has demonstrated after spending five years and $1 million that all but a hard-core handful of welfare recipients want to work if someone takes the trouble to show them how to get started.

The heartening lessons of the experiment in Woods County are surfacing in time to influence Congress, which must decide in reforming the welfare system whether to impose a work requirement on those who apply for income support. This notion was scorned by a study commission headed by Ben Heineman.

BETTER IDEA

The zealous young team which whittled away at the welfare roll in Woods County sides heavily with Heineman. "It's far better to persuade these people that it's in their interest to go to work," says John Roemer, the project chief. "We'll tell them that we can arrange the training but in the end they are the ones who will have to want to get up in the morning when the alarm goes off."

Roemer and his chief associate, John Cadeux, argued that most of these unemployed have the same motivations as any member of the work force. The young girl with an illegitimate child wants the dignity of normal home life. The disadvantaged reject middle-class values only because they fear they can't attain them.

"The rehabilitation counselor has first of all to get rid of the idea that these people are lazy," says Cadeux. "Nobody is just lazy. They're lazy because they've been turned down 40 times in 8 years, because they've lost 7 jobs, because they have a backache. There is always a 'because'."

Saturation counseling, as Roemer's team developed it in his county of 60,000 people, means searching out the silent poor, inspiring them to want the independence of private employment, and persuading them that they're capable of securing and holding jobs.

WILLING TO WORK
After a day-care center was opened, the counselors found ADC mothers susceptible to persuasion that their lives would be fuller if they went to work.

The ultimate targets of saturation counseling are the passive poor who are isolated by their skepticism. These are persons normally ignored by vocational rehabilitation because they require guidance all the way to the prospective employer's office.

"These people can be reached only if there are enough counselors to take the time to find them and see them through."

In Woods County, some 1,339 persons were rehabilitated and the per case cost averaged $1,060. The county's relief fund fell from 145 cases to 35.

It is projected that the culturally disadvantaged will earn in their lifetimes $70 for each $1 that was spent on their training.

Bob Considine

Veteran Film Producer Isn't Afraid of Pay-TV

NEW YORK — Joe Levine, who turned the make-believe of films into the reality of a $40-million sale of his studios company, takes a midlevel view of the current dialogue raging between the motion picture exhibitors and the champions of Pay-TV.

"Our industry is not dying," he told the New York Sales Executive club the other day. "We are on the threshold of the greatest upsurge our business has ever seen, backed as we are by new technological advances — Pay-TV, free TV and CATV."

"These alone, even without theater distribution, will open the floodgates of untold millions of dollars for those companies which have carefully nurtured their libraries of films."

Levine, who once bought an Italian picture named "Hercules" for $25,000 and spent $1.6 million advertising it the day he mass-released it through the world, sees a day in the near future when a new $10-million film will return the entire production cost on Pay-TV and the other electronic boons in a single night.

CHANGING TRENDS

Speaking of the changing trends in movies, the producer of "The Graduate" said:

"I have produced, co-produced, imported and financed over 300 films in my life, running the gamut from 'Hercules' to 'Fellini's 8 1/2', from 'The Carpetbaggers' to 'Two Women', from 'Harlow' to 'The Lion in Winter', from 'Romeo and Juliet' with Nureyev and Fonteyn to 'The Producers.'"

"Eighteen months ago we presented to a staid industry, a fresh young art form, revitalized by fresh new directors, new story material, new acting talent, starting with Mike Nichols."

"We signed Mike as a film director, first, but he became much more. His 'The Graduate' won him an Oscar, and along the way we invented Dustin Hoffman. We signed Mel Brooks, a first-time director, for 'The Producers' — another Academy Award winner. Tony Harvey, another first-time director of a full-length film for 'The Lion in Winter,' which won another Academy Award for Katherine Hepburn."

"These three pictures will gross, worldwide, about $150 million. The total cost of making these pictures was less than $6 million. For years I have advocated that you don't need studios, you don't need stars, you need only good story material properly directed. William Shakespeare said, 'The play's the thing.' This is as true today as it was when he said it."

'Three Cheers for Agnew Who Tells It Like It Is'

Hooray for Agnew! It is refreshing to have someone in high office who is not afraid to call a spade a spade, and tell it like it is. The panel of intellectuals who find it necessary to break down and digest every morsel of a speech and then laboriously explain in detail just what the speaker meant is an insult to the intelligence of the American people.

It was amusing to hear the indignant outcries reverberating throughout the Nation by members of the various news media and quickly echoed by members of the political opposites.

I believe less publicity should be given to the radical and un-American elements in our society. After all, notoriety is what they thrive on. There is a lot that is right in our Country and good news reporting can do a lot toward building a still better America.

H. D. ROLLISON
1828 SHERWOOD

Vice President Agnew has struck pay dirt. The self-righteous bleatings of much of the news media, including The Pontiac Press, indicate they firmly believe that the public is basically stupid and too naive to recognize the slanting and bias being fed into it. Fairness and objectivity are being demanded. The challenge has been issued.

C. E. P.

The people in the news media know how to dish it out but can't take it. Vice President Agnew was right about the little voice inflections, sarcasms and innuendos. It is too bad the news media can't accept the criticism and try to search for a little insight into what they are doing.

'No Help for Parents of Handicapped Girls' What is the beautiful new Oakland Schools Building used for?

Our three girls are handicapped perceptually (vision, hearing and motor control). Oakland School officials tested them and confirmed their condition — then said, "Sorry, there's nothing we can do for you." Apparently, the only handicap they tackle is speech.

We think it's a shame that our taxes have to be spent for an expensive building while we can get no help for our children.

'Hit Song Shouldn't Be Permitted in USA'

For centuries we've celebrated the traditional annual Thanksgiving Day—thanking our Lord for His abundant blessings. In the midst of this thankful season, many people will become aware of the newest hit song, "And When I Die," which is being played almost constantly on our radios and supermarket speakers. This song should never have been permitted in a country which was founded on the faith of our fathers and has a motto "In God We Trust."

Will we ever get back to writing and singing songs like "God Bless America"? Surely the younger generation doesn't understand all the songs it hears and plays.

Questions and Answers

(Q) I've been trying to get a refund from Ortho-Maternal Company, but I've heard nothing, and telephone calls have been disconnected from their stores. Do you know anything about the company?
MRS. H. M. L.

(A) Just that it has ceased all operations in the Detroit area. However, if you will write Gerald Parks, Detroit Better Business Bureau, 150 Michigan Ave., Detroit 48226, he will handle your problem. He has direct contact with the company, and anyone with problems involving that company should write to him.

(Q) I've waited since June for a Medicare payment. What can we senior citizens do? Also, how does one find out what doctors will take Medicare patients?
M. B. JACKSON
22 CARLTON CT.

(A) For problems or unusual delays with Medicare, visit the Social Security office in Glenwood Plaza. They will check it through to see if some error or omission is holding it up. All doctors supposedly take Medicare patients, but some say they don't have the personnel to handle all the paper work involved. The only way you can find out is to call the ones you're interested in and ask.

(Q) I'm in high school and interested in doing something for water pollution and preserving wild animals. Where can I write for information?
BETH STREMAN
DRAYTON PLAINS

(A) For a start: Education and Information Division, Mason Building, Lansing; Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C.; State Water Resources Commission, Lansing; and go to see Dr. Philip Clappitt or the librarian at Cranbrook Institute of Science. Dr. Clappitt says you'd be most welcome to use whatever information they have available.

Waterford Lake Apartments to Boom

By DICK ROBINSON

Land fronting on four of Waterford Township's more than 26 lakes has been rezoned for large apartment complexes in the past two years.

Township Planning Director Robert Dieball says it is unusual for such rezonings of lakeside property.

But he points out that more apartments on lakes are unlikely because "there isn't that much lakefront land available. Most of the lake frontage is occupied with single-family homes," he explains.

The Township Board has given final rezoning approval to permit:

- 398 apartment units on some 30.2 acres — some under water — and a shopping center on about nine acres on the southwest corner of Cass Lake and Cass - Elizabeth Lake roads at Cass Lake on Dec. 18, 1967.

- 196 apartment units on about 22.6 acres and about a 65,000 - square - foot shopping center on some 9.4 acres at Dixie Highway and Midland on Elizabeth Lake on April 1, 1968.

- 216 apartment units on about 25.3 acres — some under water — at Cass Elizabeth Lake and Cooley Lake roads on the southwest shore of Elizabeth Lake on Aug. 26, 1968.

- 128 units on 9.2 acres on the northwestern shore of Loon Lake on Oct. 6, 1969.

Dieball explains the reasoning for the rezonings this way: "Not everybody can afford a $10,000 or $15,000 lakefront lot."

"And when the conditions are such that it wouldn't be harmful to surrounding properties, the planning commission thinks people should be given the opportunity to live on and enjoy lakefront property."

There was public opposition for all but the proposed Cass Lake project. None of the projects are yet under construction.

NO TROUBLE

The Cass Lake request to change the zone from neighborhood business and single - family to general business and multiple housing had no trouble passing the Township Planning Commission and Township Board.

Filing the request were owners Mr. and Mrs. Royal F. Pazik of 1120 Cass Lake and joining the proposed site, and purchaser Albert A. Evangelist Inc. of Southfield, Dieball said.

It took almost a year from the time of application of the Elizabeth Lake project were passed by the board 8 to 1 with the condition that boating be prohibited. It received a unanimous recommendation from the planning commission.

The rezoning applicant was listed as architect Hershel Laster Associates of Birmingham. Owner of the land was listed as Mary L. Chapman of 14 Mark, Pontiac, and the purchasers as James Mathers and Charles Tobel of Livonia.

In 1965, the rezoning petition

Eagle Lake proposal before the Township Board passed it, mainly because of efforts of another developer to get access to adjacent landlocked property.

The board passed the proposal to rezone the single-family land by a 4-to-2 vote. Approval was unanimously recommended by the planning commission.

HELP FOR TOWNSHIP

"The cost of development is too high to warrant a residential area," trustee Ted McCullough Jr. said. "The proposed apartment - commercial site would certainly help the township."

Records show the application was signed by owners Elia and Flora Wager of 5065 Dixie Highway and purchaser broker Donald E. White of 2891 Dixie.

Plans for the Elizabeth Lake project were passed by the board 8 to 1 with the condition that boating be prohibited. It received a unanimous recommendation from the planning commission.

The rezoning applicant was listed as architect Hershel Laster Associates of Birmingham. Owner of the land was listed as Mary L. Chapman of 14 Mark, Pontiac, and the purchasers as James Mathers and Charles Tobel of Livonia.

had been defeated by the board because it felt more boats on the lake would create traffic problems.

In a more recent controversy, the township board gave approval Oct. 6 to rezone a single-family area to permit 128 apartment units on Loon Lake and, on adjacent land, 22 homes. The apartments are to prohibit boating on the lake and are not to house children.

Questions were raised when it was learned that four public officials were involved in the land purchase prior to rezoning.

The officials are township trustees Herbert C. Cooley and McCullough and planning commissioners James Clarkson and Dr. John Naz.

'A MISTAKE'

Cooley has said his name was mistakenly placed on a county document dated Sept. 2 as one of the purchasers of the land contract.

Waterford Township has been getting increased apartment rezoning requests since 1963, according to Dieball.

A total of 898 apartment units in 25 projects have been built or are being built as of last month, Dieball said. The maximum additional apartment units which could be built under existing zoning laws is 4,102, Dieball reports.

He said many apartment developers are waiting for sanitary sewers to go in before they open for business. Developers can build 18 units per acre where sewers are available and 12 units per acre with on - site septic disposals.

Future Loggers May Zap Trees

VANCOUVER (AP) — Zap, zap will be all the sound a logger of the future using a laser will make, if Nand Kishore Jehman of Vancouver can prove his laser logging theory. His idea is simple: A logger would sit on a hill using a telescope to focus his laser at the base of a tree up to three miles away. He presses the button and the tree tumbles.

Mr. Jehman says the first laser logger would cost about $100,000 and weigh about half a ton because of the power supply but mass production could bring the cost down to $10,000 and the weight to 50 pounds, about what a power saw weighs.

There are more than 18,000 vocational schools in the country, offering courses to about 7.5 million youths and adults.

Order: Coe Must Go

U.S. Wants Junkpile

KEYSVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Some people collect tin foil. Some save string. And then there's Al Coe.

He saves everything, and that's his problem.

Al is a lively 72-year-old with a belly-length beard and a peppy disposition. For 33 years he's been collecting junk and plastering it over a hillside in this tiny community near Lake Isabella in the High Sierra.

Now the Federal Bureau of Land Management says Al and his treasures — including more than 350 cars, 20,000 board feet of lumber and two tons of reinforcing steel — have to go. Even if it takes $30,000, which is the bureau's estimate of moving costs.

MINING CLAIM

Al and his junk, the bureau says, are illegally occupying an abandoned mining claim. Were Al mining there would be no problem. He isn't, the bureau says, so he must move. The bureau wants the secluded area of Sequia National Forest for a public campground.

Al has hired an attorney to fight the bureau and a court injunction forbidding him to bring in more junk.

"How can the bureau be so powerful in this great land of liberty?" he asks.

He maintains he has a right

Fog Forces Plane Onto B.C. Highway

REVELSTOKE, B.C. (AP) — Fog was enveloping a light plane over the Trans-Canada Highway Saturday, and the pilot, John Eccles decided he had to set down for safety's sake.

So his passenger, Gordon Patrick White, parachuted to flag down traffic while Eccles landed on the highway.

White landed in a snowbank, and when he waved down a passing car it happened to be carrying a Highway Department patrolman who helped White stop traffic so Eccles could use it for a landing strip.

With police cars in the lead, Eccles then taxied the plane 13 miles down the road between snowbanks to a place where it could be parked off the highway.

New Draft Lottery: How Does It Work?

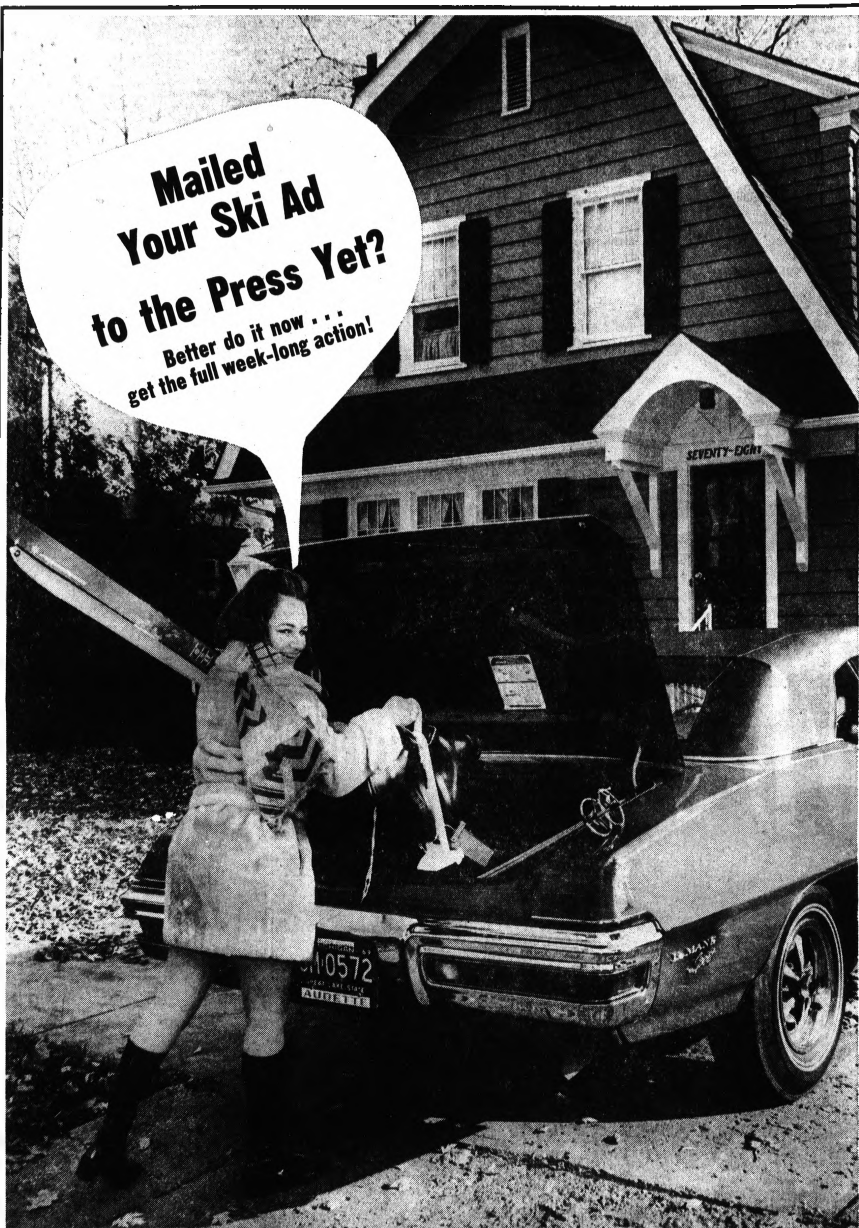

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here's how the new draft lottery will work.

Someone will draw one by one — presumably from a hat, the first date drawn will be something like 1-1-3-6-6, called first, the second date will be 1-1-3-6-6, called second, and so on. Those in the province of a draft board (in likely be called. Those in the top few dates definitely will, calling) who are called according to one birth date will be lined up according to the first letter of their last name. A lottery drawing also will be held among the 26 letters of the alphabet. All persons within the province of a draft board (in the same letter, the same order

During the first year of operation (1970), all draft ages (19 through 25) will be subject to the lottery. Beginning in 1971, only those with 19th birthdays during the year will be vulnerable.

Missing Hawk Being Sought by Illinois Prof

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—If anyone sees Missy Bell, she is a 2-year-old red-tailed hawk with a three-foot wingspread and the pride and joy of Herbert Koepf-Baker.

Koepf-Baker, a Southern Illinois professor, was flying Missy Bell when a gust of wind caused her to lose her bearings and then sight of her master. Koepf-Baker hasn't seen the bird since.

Koepf-Baker is one of the few practitioners of the ancient sport of falconry in the United States.

Puerto Rico Young Get Double Holiday Treat

SAN JUAN (AP)—Christmas in Puerto Rico is a mixture of Spanish and American, of Santa Claus and Three Kings, of Christmas trees and grass for camels, of carols and of songs warning of the effects of too much rum.

Envious youngsters from the U.S. mainland feel Puerto Rican children are among the luckiest in the world because they receive presents on Christmas Day, and again on Three Kings Day, Jan. 6.

But whether it is an asalto, an aguinaldo or a roast pig, there is something for everybody in the holiday season in this U.S. Caribbean commonwealth of 2.8 million people.

To the Miguel Matos family, who live in a small wooden house in the country outside San Juan, it is a season to forget hard times and to rediscover family, traditions, home, and life itself.

SERENADING

To Miguel, a messenger in San Juan, it is a time to take a guitar off a hook and round up his buddies for serenading, drinking and visiting.

To his wife Amelia, it is time to prepare native dishes and to give the house its annual cleaning and painting.

To his two youngest children it is the time to revel in the island's dual personality which affords presents from both Santa and the Three Kings.

And for his teen-agers, it is a time when "everyone is different" — when a 14-year-old girl can dance until dawn without being censured and when her 13-year-old brother can upple a little rum without risking the back of his father's hand.

TRADITIONAL

Despite strong U.S. influence, Puerto Rico probably has one of the most traditional Christmas celebrations in the Western Hemisphere, combining the medieval Spanish tradition with intensely patriotic jíbaro elements.

Puerto Ricans are proud of the term "jíbaro" — or man of the soil. They apply it to their most cherished customs, their favorite foods and their most basic emotions.

At Christmastime, even the most sophisticated Puerto Rican has a little jíbaro in him. Even those who profess to prefer European cuisine get hungry during the holidays for authentic Puerto Rican dishes.

Amelia Matos and other housewives of all economic levels spend days in the kitchen preparing pasties — individual meat-filled masses made with banana meal and wrapped in banana leaves. Using fresh coconuts, they make a variety of sweets and a special fermented drink called toquillo.

The culinary highlight is the lechón, asado, or roast pig, which has usually been fattened since the previous Christmas. In some communities, several families cooperate to roast the large pig all day over an open fire.

With the larger stocked with native delicacies, the family is ready for any number of "asaltos" — or surprise serenades. Any number of neighbors can make up a chorus to tour the barrio, singing Christmas songs called parrandas or aguinaldos.

Someone usually can play the guitar, and anyone with rhythm can play a guiro, a washboard instrument made from a gourd. The songs, which everyone knows — combine the medieval religious influence with gentle jíbaro humor.

They are emotional, patriotic, and above all, loud.

An asalto can occur at any hour of the night. The "victim" may be in bed, but he certainly will invite the group in and bring on the rum-spiked toquillo. Regardless of how many houses a serenader has visited, he never refuses the rum.

One improvised verse of the parrandas is suited for such an occasion.

TOO MUCH RUM

"Tell your father," Amelia might sing to 13-year-old junior, "not to drink so much rum."

A higher form of im-provision which has been perfected through the centuries is the singing of declamas.

Miguel plays the guitar and his companions join in, the less gifted listening as the singers improvise ten consecutive verses of octosyllables.

Singing and eating go on for days, and assaults are usually reciprocal — or retaliatory.

If Miguel has knocked on several doors late one night, he can be sure he will get no sleep if he stays home the next night.

In recent years, poor children in the city have varied the parranda tradition by visiting well-to-do neighborhoods singing aguinaldos in exchange for coins, much the way U.S. children do on halloween.

REDISCOVERIES

During his Christmas peregrinations, the Puerto Rican strays further from home than usual, rediscovering the beauties of his island as well as his friends, his traditions and his faith.

With the misa de gallo, or midnight mass, on Dec. 24, the chain of religious and secular celebration begins.

Early on Christmas morning, the four Matos children, like those in many other areas of the world, look under the tree for presents from Santa Claus.

In recent years, most Puerto Rican children have accepted

Santa. Casting logic aside, they depict the warmly dressed old man as flying in a sleigh, despite the tropical island's lack of snow, reindeer and chimneys.

The imported pine tree has also become firmly entrenched here, even in the rural areas. Stockings are rarely hung, but a boot full of candy is usually left for Santa.

KINGS PREFERRED

With the same logic of youth, 6-year-old Lourdes Matos and her friends prefer the Kings to Santa since three men from the Orient can carry more presents than one old man from the North.

On Jan. 5, children all over the island comb the fields for the greenest and the most tender grass to leave for the camels carrying the Three Kings.

The grass, along with a bowl of water, is carefully left for the hungry and thirsty camels. And a note of toy requests is attached for the three gift-bearing kings. Their requests are like those of any U.S. child — with guns and dolls leading the list.

The nativity season in Puerto Rico is a unique balance of levity and seriousness, or reverence and revelry. But on Jan. 6, the special dishes are packed away and the guitar is hung up on the wall. And another baby pig is selected for fattening.

Mrs. F. James McDonald of Bloomfield Hills timed her turkey just right for the 'men' as they arrived home from today's contest between the Lions and the Minnesota Vikings.

The Arthur Nicholies of East Iroquois Road planned dinner early today so that grandchildren, Debbie and David Rogers, could spend more time visiting. The children's parents, the William Rogers also of East Iroquois Road joined the festivities.

As birds go (and you can just bet this one did) the one prepared along with a standing rib roast, by Mrs. Howard O. Powers of Cherokee Road, was a beaut.

She and her husband played hosts today to Mr. and Mrs. Powers who came from Orchard Lake with son, John.

Then too, Michigan State University student, Rob Powers was home to help with clean up duty. Other guests included the Robert Colts with son, Dick of Dearborn, Mrs. Mary Metes and Orville Powers, both of Pontiac and Mrs. Mae Dalton and Mrs. Margie Neimeyer of Dearborn.

Earlier in the day, the women pampered the bird while the men trudged down to Tiger Stadium for the "big one."

All the grandchildren in the Douglas Roche home in Birmingham were on hand today to help their parents entertain grandparents, the James Roches of Bloomfield Hills at a family holiday meal.

Judge and Mrs. Cecil McCallum of Cherokee Road are spending the day today at their daughter and sons-in-law's home in Taylor. Helping their parents with host duties are the three Edward M. Green children, Heather, Erin and Kevin.

Witnessing the tussle between the Lions and Vikings today was first order of business for Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Goad of Bloomfield Hills. Their son, David, of Birmingham and grandson, Douglas C. Goad, were cheering with them.

Later the group traveled to Ann Arbor to share Thanksgiving dinner with host Henry Carter Adams II, uncle of their daughter-in-law and son, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Goad.

The Junior Mrs. Goad's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams of Birmingham residents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams Jr. with children, Peter and Mary Karin, to complete the family gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gougasian of East Iroquois Road are off to Columbus, Ohio, for the holiday, along with their two children, still glowing from Michigan's victory over Ohio State.

Rep. and Mrs. William P. Hampton of Bloomfield Hills welcomed his parents, the Verne C. Hamptons, also of Bloomfield Hills, and brother, Verne C. Hampton II of Grosse Pointe, at their first Thanksgiving celebration since little William Bradley joined sister Mary Elizabeth in the family circle.

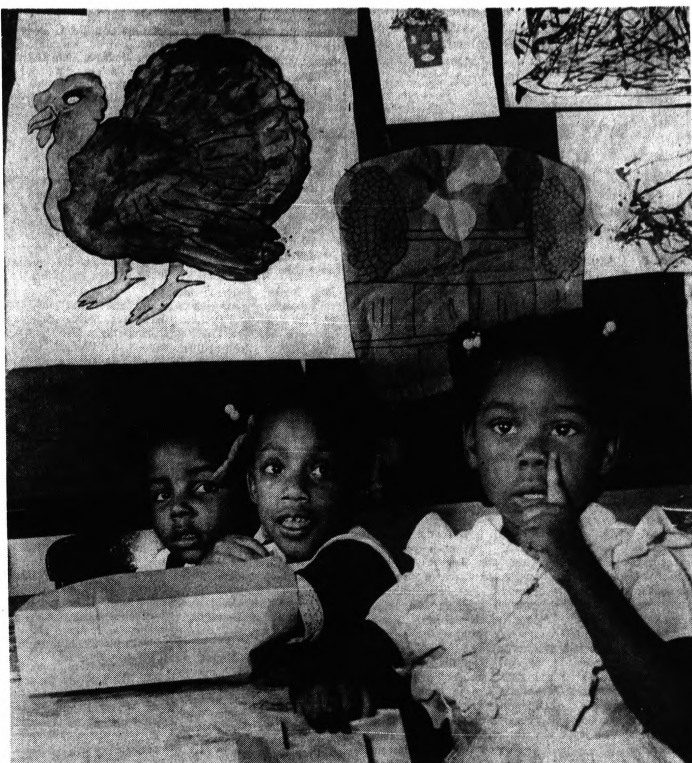

Dinner out and fine conversation with friends is the order of the day Thursday for Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Hansen of East Iroquois Road, who are getting together with the S. Hortons of Independence Square.

Why Grow Old?

by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

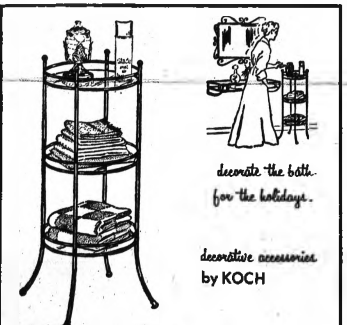

Household chores may be work, but they don't take the place of special exercise. The woman who does all of her own housekeeping will probably be in better condition than the one who spends most of her time sewing, or at a bridge table, or a desk. Studies have indicated that it even helps if the woman in the home must go up and down steps many times each day. While the work you do taking care of your home may tire you, it may also leave you underexercised.

Nothing is quite so fatiguing as just standing. If you stand while ironing or at the kitchen sink, or in other occupations such as a clerk in a store, walk in place once in a while. Also periodically bend your knees slightly then straighten them, over and over again, in a bouncing motion.

If you sit much of the time, be sure to get up frequently for a quick little walk around. Also when sitting at a desk or table, straighten your right leg out in front of you and point your toe. Return foot to place. Do this several times with your right leg and then with your left.

Isometric exercises are helpful but isotonic (the more active kind) should be part of everyone's life. These whip up the circulation, strengthen the heart and improve the vascular system. If you do not indulge in a sport, try to plan for a half hour of brisk walking. An hour is better of course. Or, dance to music with abandon when you are at home alone.

The following exercise is an exaggeration of walking in place. It is an easy and excellent abdominal and leg exercise. Stand tall, hands on hips, toes pointing forward. Walk in place but lift your knees high up in front of you like a drum major. Point your toes.

Who's Who Needed to Tell Relationship

SHERIDAN, Mich. (AP) — The relationships of the Rev. Kendall C. Downing and his wife are going to change materially when he completes a marriage ceremony in his First Congregational Church of Christ in this mid-Michigan village Thanksgiving Day.

They will become step-brother and step-sister, as well as husband and wife, and uncle and aunt to their own children.

The reason is the Rev. Mr. Downing is performing the wedding ceremony for his father, Chancy Downing, 75, of Middleville, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Marion Deltrich, 67, of nearby Pompell.

The bride and groom-to-be are widow and widower, and long-time friends, whose families used to picnic and vacation together. Their son and daughter have been married 26 years.

John Downing of Grand Rapids, a son of the minister, will be soloist at the wedding and also will give his grandmother to be married to his grandfather.

Among other "confusing circumstances" that will arise, the Rev. Mr. Downing noted his father will become his father-in-law and his mother-in-law will become his step-mother.

He also will become a brother-in-law of his brothers and sisters and of his own wife.

And if one wishes to carry the mixed relations still further, the minister said he guessed he'd become his own brother-in-law.

A Thanksgiving dinner for the two families will follow the wedding.

"Secrets" is a brand new free booklet giving the "how to" of hair removal from the Gillette Safety Razor Company, of Boston, Mass., the leading authority on the subject. Here are just a few of the many facts it contains.

- Women have been removing hair for ages, at least as far back as Cleopatra.
- Shaving does make hair grow thicker or denser... this is a process that comes with age.
- Hair removal is highly recommended from the viewpoint of health and hygiene, as well as for the sake of appearance.
- Over 50,000,000 of the fair sex prefer to remove unwanted hair by shaving, and among these the razor and blade are preferred by three of every four.
- It's best to combine hair defuzzing with shower or bath. Hair softened by hot water and sudsing is skimmed off easily.
- Dry hair is as tough as copper wire of the same size... and as difficult to cut!
- As you shave, use very little pressure on your razor.
- After shaving, lavish on body lotion to make skin soft and silky.

Today it is estimated that more than 40 per cent of women over the age of 13 use some form of hair coloring regularly. In 1955, the estimate was that only about 7 per cent of American women colored their hair and often were considered to be in about the same category as a woman who "painted" or smoked cigarettes in the years before World War II.

"Thanksgiving for a former doth invite God to bestow a second benefit," Robert Herrick.

NEW YORK—It all started 348 years ago when the Pilgrims commemorated their bountiful harvest with a three-day festival, inviting the Indians to join them in feasting on fowl, deer and other trimmings.

Through the years, the day was observed in the colonies and, during the revolution, George Washington proclaimed a national day of Thanksgiving. But the annual institution that we know today as one for family gatherings, feasting and worship didn't become official nationally until 1863.

Then President Lincoln issued a proclamation which read in part: "The year that is drawing toward its close has been filled with the blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies..."

It had been a year of travail for a nation torn with the civil war—a war of "unequaled magnitude and severity," as the 16th President said.

But the presidential proclamation reminded that "peace has been preserved with all nations" and that "needful diversion of wealth and of strength from the fields of peaceful industry to the national defense have not arrested the plow, the shuttle or the ship..."

"No human counsel hath devised, nor hath any mortal hand worked out these great things," the President continued. "They are the gracious gifts of the most high God..."

"It has seemed to me fit and proper that they should be solemnly, reverently and gratefully acknowledged as with one heart and one voice by the whole American people..."

And so, the lonely man from Illinois sat in the White House more than a century ago to speak of the nation's reasons for gratitude.

RENEW BLESSINGS

Tomorrow, we pause again on another Thanksgiving Day to review the blessings of the years. Join me if you will in making your list.

I would begin with thanks for a nation sufficiently strong to take on the struggle for freedom for smaller nations and repeat a prayer that long before this time next year the debilitating, divisive war in Vietnam will have ended.

Give thanks for precious liberty, the freedom we too often take for granted until such as Vietnam and the Berlin wall remind us of its unmatched blessing.

Give thanks for good health.

Offer thanks for love and being loved. Be thankful for friends whose closeness grows through the years.

Give thanks for family, home and fireside. Be thankful for a solid, inherent patriotism though it often is shaken with the voices of dissent.

Offer thanks for the beauties that surround us, a clear November dawn or sunset, the everlasting hills and plains, the stars above, the grass beneath. Give thanks for an inner peace that faith can bring.

Be grateful for a sense of humor, for work and achievement.

Shy Girl Learns Rewards of Thinking of Others

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Not long ago I was shy, not groomed correctly, never smiled, unhappy and boyfriendly. I wrote to you, and you gave me the best advice I ever received in my life so far. Here it is:

"The key to being popular with both sexes is: Be kind. Be honest. Be tactful. If you can't be beautiful (or handsome), be well-groomed, tastefully attired, trim of figure and KEEP A SMILE ON YOUR FACE!"

"Be clean in body and mind. If you're not a 'brain,' try harder. If you're not a great athlete, you can be a good sport. Try to be a standout in something. If you can't dance or sing, learn to play an instrument. Think for yourself, but respect the rules. Be generous with kind words and affectionate gestures, but save the heavy artillery for later. You'll be glad you did."

If you need help, ask God. If you don't need anything, thank God."

Love,
Abby

I have followed your advice step by step, and kept it handy when I felt down. I am now president of the sophomore class, and play the guitar. Smiling comes naturally to me, and I love life. I have a boyfriend who plays football, and he is kind and respectable. My grades are better, and I have more friends than I ever dreamed I'd have.

Abby, you're not the only one who helped me. God helped me. He answered my prayers.

HAPPY IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR ABBY: I am now in my 10th year of marriage, and I can truthfully say that every year gets better. I have three wonderful children.

To be frank with you, when I was first married I looked on sex as a duty, or something I had to put up with to please my husband. Naturally, I didn't make a very satisfying partner.

When I became pregnant with my first child I went to a very wise and understanding doctor, and we began to talk. I told him how I felt about marital relations, and the advice he gave me changed my life.

He said, "Try being an actress in the bedroom. Pretend you are the most beautiful and seductive woman in the world. YOU make the first move, whether you feel affectionate or not, and before you know it, you will actually FEEL affectionate."

Abby, I tried it, and it worked. In fact, it's still working, but I find I'm "acting" less as time goes on.

I'm not saying that a good sexual relationship will cure all the ills of marriage, but when a man and his wife can communicate well on this level, it helps communication in other areas.

Pass this on. I can tell ONLY you. But if you print it, it may make a million women happy.

"ACTRESS"

DEAR "ACTRESS": And if it makes a million women happy, it will bring happiness to the same number of men. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: While my husband and I were dinner guests recently in the home of a friend, before dinner our host said "grace." I thought it was such a beautiful gesture than when we had this couple to our home for dinner I said to the man "Will you please say the grace?"

He said, "This is YOUR home, why don't YOU say it?"

Abby, I became so flustered, I couldn't think of a thing to say, so my guest finally sensed my embarrassment and HE said it.

Can you give me a "grace" to say? We aren't very religious people and I'm ashamed to ask my clergyman, as he doesn't see us in church except on Christmas and Easter.

"ACTRESS"

DEAR GRACELESS: Here is mine. Be my guest:

"O, Heavenly Father, We thank Thee for food, and remember the hungry;

We thank Thee for health, and remember the sick.

We thank Thee for friends and remember the friendless.

We thank Thee for freedom, and remember the enslaved.

May these remembrances stir us to service,

That Thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen."

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving!

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: You say a lot in your column about "adopting kids." How about a word about the "unadoptable?" After having two of our own we adopted three. These are children of mixed blood, the last ones to be adopted if they ever are.

Thirteen years ago we were warned that we were headed for heartbreak when we adopted the product of a Filipino barmaid and an American GI. She was sick, half starved, and not a very pretty child when we took her. The Red Cross and the military doctor where we were stationed told us she might turn out to be mentally retarded. But we adopted her anyway.

A year after we returned to the states we adopted another little girl. She was half Negro. The next year we adopted a Mexican boy one year old.

Our half Filipino daughter is now 16. She is a very good student and a raving beauty. Her half Negro sister leads her class in straight A's and in a few years she will be as beautiful as the older girl. The boy is an average student, affectionate and outgoing.

Abby, please ask your readers who are thinking of adoption to consider these "unadoptable" children. I promise them happiness, not heartbreak. Sincerely,
M. B., PORTLAND, ORE.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Try 'Tie-Dyeing' of Plain Fabrics for Exotic Effect

"Tie-dyeing," an ancient method of coloring cotton fabrics, is currently enjoying a revival.

In tie-dyeing, says the National Cotton Council, fabric is gathered up at measured intervals and tied in knots with a string or rubber band. Fabric knots are then dipped in liquid dye. Color takes on only those parts of the fabric that are not tied up. The result is a unique print with an exotic wavy coloring.

A white cotton sheet is ideal for your first attempt at tie-dyeing. Use two bright colors together, like orange and coral or lavender and yellow.

The sheet, dyed with cowbeeb patterns of color, can be used for curtains or a bedspread.

Hearing Set on Suit Over Harding Love Letters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A suit by relatives of former President Warren G. Harding to keep his love letters in a married woman from publication will be heard in court here in January.

The suit, filed by Harding's nephew, Dr. George T. Harding III, in 1964 on behalf of all Harding's heirs, claims the publication of the letters would cause "extreme humiliation, embarrassment, mental suffering and anguish."

The suit was filed soon after it was revealed that more than 250 letters had been written by Harding to Mrs. Carrie Phillips, wife of a Marion, Ohio, merchant.

The letters were found by the guardian of Mrs. Phillips in 1958, two years prior to the woman's death.

In 1963, the guardian, Donald Williamson, turned the letters over to Kenneth W. Duckett, an employee of the Ohio Historical Society, and Francis Russell, an author doing research on Harding.

Russell sent excerpts of the letters to American Heritage Publishing Co., which paid both him and Duckett for stories about the letters.

The articles appeared in the February 1965 magazine, but the letters were not quoted.

A story quoting the letters appeared in the July 10, 1964, New York Times.

The suit named Russell, Duckett, American Heritage, The Times, McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. and Glenn John Thompson of Dayton, then a trustee of the Ohio Historical Society, as defendants.

McGraw-Hill maintains it did not have a copy of the letters and that the Russell book about Harding, "The Shadow of Blooming Grove," which it published, does not quote them.

Freight handled by the nation's railroads during the first eight months of 1968 totaled about 500 billion revenue ton miles, about the same as in 1968.

GOLDEN ACRES — Miss Daisy Hulland and her brother, Ernest, take a walk outside their cinder-block home in Rockville, Md. A court yesterday appointed a guardian to look after her 14 acres of land, which may be worth $1 million.

Pensioner Is a Rich Woman

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — She almost lost the land when the transaction was voided. She likes to be called Miss Daisy. She is skeptical eyes in a wrinkled face, a gray hank of hair, a soiled skirt, men's overcoat and boots. She scavenges at times for food in the trash dump next door, drinks water from a stream, and draws $43 a month old-age pension money.

She's worth a lot of money, some say, maybe a million.

The Washington Post reports it all came out Wednesday when a county judge appointed a legal guardian to look after Daisy P. Hull's 14 acres of property in this suburb of Washington.

The men kept them stacked with groceries, helped out with house mending, took her down to straighten out some Social Security problems.

Miss Daisy had doubts about the 1968 sale, went to the court, from the dump.

Rail Cool-Off Ending; Strike Threat Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The threat of a nationwide rail shutdown has been renewed as unions and railroads prepared to enter marathon bargaining sessions aimed at reaching a wage agreement before a government-imposed no-strike period runs out next Wednesday.

William W. Winkinsinger, chief negotiator for four shopcraft unions seeking higher wages from the nation's railroads, has alerted local officers across the country to "be prepared on extremely short notice to launch one or more strikes."

The unions, whose plans to strike last Oct. 3 were voided by a presidential declaration of emergency, contend talks with management thus far have been fruitless.

A spokesman for the railroads, however, said there has been "significant progress" at the bargaining table. The Labor Department, which has mediated in the dispute, said it will call both sides into marathon talks beginning Friday.

The unions, representing 48,000 workers, are free to strike next Wednesday when the 60-day cooling-off and mediation period imposed by President Nixon expires.

The railroads, vowing to oppose what they term "whipsaw" tactics, of the unions in targeting for strikes only a few lines to gain industrywide concessions, have said all will shut down if any are struck.

The government, having exhausted the emergency provisions of the Railway Labor Act, has no further authority to stop a strike without a special act of Congress.

A compromise wage settlement proposed by a presidential emergency board was rejected by the unions. It gave workers a 2 percent wage increase retroactive to last Jan. 1 and a 3 percent hike retroactive to July 1, plus 20-cent-per-hour increases for top skilled men.

But a spokesman for the National Railway Labor Conference, which represents management, said of daily talks between the parties: "To date, significant progress has been made in these meetings. We believe both sides are anxious to reach an agreement."

In addition to the Machinists, unions involved are the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Sheet Metal Workers and Boilermakers, all AFL-CIO.

County Schools Set Handicap - Aid Test

A suit seeking a declaratory judgment on the constitutionality of a section of the State School Aid Act pertaining to handicapped children will be filed in Oakland County Circuit Court by Oakland Schools Board.

The Oakland Schools Board of Education decided yesterday to file the suit against the state. The suit seeks a declaration that the full appropriation to which per cent interest for the loan judgement on the constitutionality of the fixed limitation. As a result, the intermediate district has had to make up almost $1 million from its own funds to its local districts for special education programs during these two years.

The district expects that it will receive only 95 percent of its share under the state aid formula this year.

Circuit Court will be asked only for a judgement of constitutionality of the provision; the suit does not ask for court action, according to Oakland Schools Counsel, Pontiac Attorney General Peter Mann.

There is no fixed - dollar action, according to Oakland Schools Counsel, Pontiac Attorney General Peter Mann.

The county board maintains that the fixed limit for special education aid is discriminatory and thereby unconstitutional.

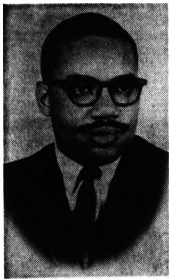

NOT FULL AMOUNT

Oakland Schools, which represents the 28 local districts in the county, has not received the full amount of $300,000 from the state, has not received the full amount of $300,000 from the state, has not received the full amount of $300,000 from the state.

Engineering reports for a $1.94 million three-state project to convert U.S. 25 in Mount Pleasant to a one-way street system and a $307,000 project to replace a 75-year old bridge carrying M71 over the Shiawassee River in Owosso were also approved.

Chicago Trial Judge Won't Call Sinclair

CHICAGO (UPI) — The judge in the Chicago riot-conspiracy trial yesterday refused to call a convict from prison to testify for the defense.

One defendant called the decision "fascism" and another asked the judge, "Why don't you gag us all?"

The dispute erupted after defense attorney Leonard Weinglass asked U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman to issue a writ of habeas corpus to bring John Sinclair from Marquette Prison in Marquette, Mich.

Weinglass said Sinclair, who was in charge of arranging rock bands to entertain demonstrators at the 1968 Democratic Convention, could testify to the "peaceful purposes" of the Youth International party before and during the convention week.

"MANY OFFENSES"

Hoffman said there were many other persons who could testify on the matter and denied the writ.

Defense attorney William Kunstler told the judge the defendants were "stunned by this denial" and charged Hoffman had rejected the request "out of hand."

"Out of hand?" Hoffman replied. "I did it out of research."

"It's fascism. That's what it is," defendant David Dellinger muttered.

"A FASCIST COURT"

"It's David Dellinger," Dellinger said, rising, "and I think your ruling is arbitrary. I think that's acting like a Fascist court."

Defendant Rennie Davis, before the turmoil quieted, challenged Judge Hoffman to "gag us all," and defendant Abbie Hoffman told the judge, "You can't respect the law when it is tyranny."

As the trial neared a Thanksgiving recess, the judge said he was sorry the jury would not be able to spend "your holiday in the normal way."

Hoffman ordered the jury sequestered after some members reportedly received threatening letters.

Prize Turkey Rescued From Jaws of Death

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There's one turkey who won't come to a drumsticks-to-finish today.

A local variety store has paraded a healthy bird in its display windows for days. Customers were asked to guess its weight, the closest estimate winning the turkey.

Employees of the store became attached to their new feathered friend. Condemning him to a hot oven was more than they could bear.

The person who came closest to guessing the 23 pounds, 7 ounces the turkey weighed won a frozen bird from a supermarket instead.

Brother Tom will live in the "petting section" of Lion Country Safari, a West Palm Beach tourist attraction.

Milliken Picks Ex-County Aide for Youth Setup

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has named Daniel Gillespie of Brighton as program manager for juvenile problems on the Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice.

Milliken called the appointment "a significant step in the critical area of juvenile problems planning, part of the total planning process to improve Michigan law enforcement."

Gillespie has been director of group care and counseling for the Green Oaks unit of the Boy's Training School at Whitmore Lake since 1968. He also served as a casework consultant for the St. Peter's home for boys in Detroit and was a child welfare worker in Oakland County for the State Social Services Department.

Red Chinese Consider U. S.-Soviet Arms Limits Talks a Plot

By CHARLES R. SMITH
HONG KONG (UPI) — Communist China, the world's newest nuclear power, is opposed to strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"The way the Peking regime sees it, the SALT talks are merely pawns of a Russian-American plot against China, plus being an attempt to maintain their 'nuclear monopoly'."

What's more, the talks fall far short of what China has proposed for international nuclear arms control, no matter what they ultimately achieve.

China has declared repeatedly since it became the world's fifth nuclear power in October, 1964, that it will accept nothing less than "total and complete prohibition and destruction of nuclear weapons."

COMMENTARY OFFERED
Any nuclear arms control agreement short of that impossible dream is a fraud and only benefits the two super-powers, according to the Chinese.

In a commentary shortly before the opening of the SALT talks in Helsinki last week, the official New China News Agency had this to say:

"The U.S.-Soviet talks on the 'strategic arms limitations' are monopoly and conduct nuclear aimed at further developing their nuclear military alliance following the conclusion of the 'Partial Nuclear Test Ban Treaty' and the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty."

"Their vain attempt is to maintain their nuclear monopoly and conduct nuclear blackmail and nuclear threat against the Chinese people and the people of the world."

"Richard Nixon openly said at a press conference on March 14 this year that the U.S.-Soviet nuclear talks were designed to jointly cope with what he called potential Chinese Communist nuclear threat."

"From their conclusion of the 'Partial Nuclear Test Ban Treaty' in 1963 to their recent deliberations on the 'strategic arms limitation' talks, the United States and the Soviet Union have not at all slackened their nuclear arms expansion and war preparations."

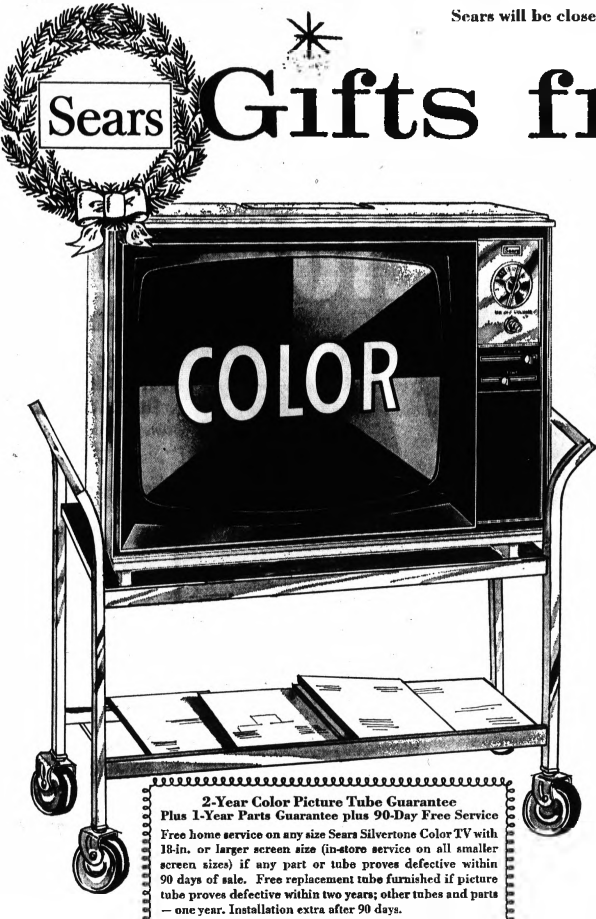

Throughout the latter half of the 1950's, China called for a nuclear free zone in the Pacific and said in 1958 that a ban on nuclear testing would be an acceptable "first step" to complete nuclear disarmament.

Partial Test Ban Treaty signed in Moscow in 1963 and, following their first successful atomic explosion in 1964, had this to say: "Some people say that the complete prohibition of nuclear weapons can begin with the stockpiling, import, export and complete banning of nuclear weapons. On the face of it, such a ban sounds slightly better than a partial ban. In actual fact, there is little difference . . . it will have no positive significance whatsoever if it is not accompanied by the prohibition of the use, production, stockpiling, import, export and proliferation of nuclear weapons."

Love of Lights Brightens Yule

NEW YORK (AP) — Ever since the Germans dreamed up the Christmas tree and decorated it with slender homemade candles, Christmas has been a festival of lights.

In 1969 the trees may be made of polyethylene and the lights may come in boxes with a bow to Thomas Edison, but that almost pagan love of light to brighten a holiday appears stronger than ever.

"For the last 10 years there has been a boom in lighting for Christmas and this year will be as good or better," said Fred Parthe of Consolidated Novelty Co. in New York.

Parthe said the boom was in part attributable to the artificial tree. A lot of people who wouldn't buy real trees because they considered them messy or expensive are decorating with trees made of plastic. This puts them back in the market for lights, bulbs, tinsel, angels, stars and all the other holiday trimmings.

VARIED LIGHTING
Christmas lighting this year will be both traditional and up to the minute.

Best sellers, according to Larry Gold of Prandl Associates Inc., will be strings of flickering lights that give the holiday tree almost a psychedelic effect.

The miniature lights are increasingly gaining favor over the standard bulb size, Gold said, partly because the heat generated by the larger bulbs may damage artificial trees.

Multicolor strings of lights remain the most popular but clear lights are often chosen by businesses to decorate buildings and surrounding trees.

COLOR PREFERENCES

Gold said color preferences vary from region to region. In New England red lights on green trees are preferred. In the Midwest it's gold lights on a white tree or blue on green, and on the West Coast people decorate their white or green trees with pastel lights.

For those bored with traditional lighting, there are the novelty lights in the form of angels, flowers, lollipops, Christmas packages, nativity scenes, old-fashioned lanterns and countless other shapes.

Gold said novelty lights, which generally are imported from Japan, have never been big sellers, partly because they are more expensive than regular lights. But they do provide variety for the more affluent.

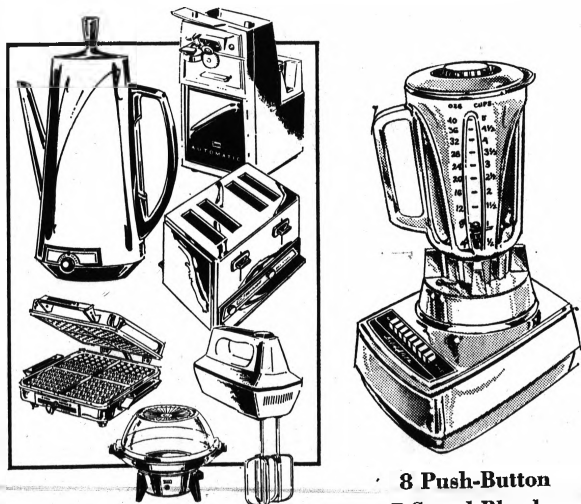

Industry officials estimate most people spend between $10 and $15 on lights per tree.

Club Is Hoping to Stamp Out Debt

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Somerset County Cricket Club, more than 16,000 pounds ($24,000) in the red, hopes to clear off most of its debts by a sale of stamps.

A life-long Somerset fan died recently and left his stamp collection to the club. "They have been auctioned, and we hope to receive more than 10,000 pounds ($24,000)," said club secretary Richard Robinson. "We never thought that stamps might help cricket."

Mafia's Take From Detroiters Is Put at $500 Million a Year

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Gov. William G. Milliken has proposed creation of a statewide investigation force to look into organized crime in Michigan. UPI's Carole Eberly has written a two-part series detailing organized crime's status in Michigan.)

By CAROLE EBERLY
LANSING (UPI) — It would take you 25 years of around-the-clock counting to reach the number 500,000,000.

With that amount of dollars you could buy a $3,000 car every six hours for the next 100 years and still have $60 million in change.

Seen like a lot? It is. But state crime busters say the Mafia takes this much money from Detroiters alone every year.

Detroit isn't the only Michigan city hit by organized crime, either.

FAST BUCKS

"If it's possible to bet on the horses in your city then you've got organized crime," says Vincent Piersante, head of Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's organized crime control division and an internationally known expert in the field.

"Anywhere there's a fast buck to be made, you'll find pieces of organized crime," Piersante said.

According to Kelley and Piersante, two methods are used to take over Michigan businesses. One method is to force a person to give up his restaurant and motel industry, he said, but it's not because of establishment through harassment, threats or cutthroat competition.

"The image they're trying to create of being nice guys just trying to live down their past is over from the inside. It's estimated the Mafia has between three and five times the resources of General Motors Corp.," Piersante said. "When a businessman is competing against that kind of money, it's hard to win."

TAX COVER-UP

While legitimate businesses provide some measure of income for gangsters, it doubles as a tax cover-up.

"They have to explain to the Internal Revenue Service how they get their money to live in palatial homes," he said. "Legitimate businesses give them an alibi."

Mafia-owned businesses also allow gangsters to be accepted in the communities where they live. All the neighbors know about the criminal is that he is a respectable businessman contributing to the economy of the area.

However, the Mafia in Michigan still depends heavily for its take on its traditional areas of narcotic sales, prostitution and gambling.

PROFITABLE

Loan sharking also has been a profitable area for organized crime.

However, last year the Legislature passed the criminal usury law providing a felony for persons who charge more than 25 per cent per annum on a loan. Until that time, convictions centering around loan sharking had to be made on an extortion charge.

During the past three years, more than 150 reputed Mafia members have been indicated in the state. Investigations are continuous.

"We want to make Michigan the most unprofitable and he said.

The stakes in this war run into hundreds of millions of dollars but they also go to the concept of an ordered society in which we believe. We cannot afford to take any course of action other than a full scale and unremitting attack on this menace." The stakes are high, Piersante agrees.

"It all boils down to who's running this country — the Mafia or the U.S. government," he said.

Yule Tradition Unaffected by College Strife

NEW YORK (AP) — In an era of student protests and radical skepticism, a festive Christmas tradition remains unchanged at Columbia College.

It is the lighting of a "yule log" at a gathering of student dormitory residents and faculty members shortly before winter vacation begins.

Each year collegians and their dates crowd into a holly-bedecked dormitory lounge as the president of Columbia University lights the heavy "Yule log" in the fireplace.

Student choral groups lead the audience in singing Christmas carols, and a professor reads the Christmas poem "A Visit From St. Nicholas."

EUROPEAN CUSTOM

The log lighting based on a medieval European custom, first took place at Columbia on Christmas night of 1911.

University President Nicholas Murray Butler suggested the festivity that students who could not go home for the holiday.

Some aspects of the ceremony have remained unchanged over the years. Today, as then, several students carry the log into the room, as others serenade them with Christmas carols.

Other parts of the ceremony have been added in recent years. Now, the log lighting would not seem complete without the reading of the Christmas poem, which begins with the words, "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Its author, alumnus Clement C. Moore, was the son of one president of the university and the cousin of another.

READS POEM

History Prof. Dwight Miner generally reads the poem from one of the university library's rare old manuscripts.

"The thing I can't get over each year," he said, "is that these sophisticated kids like their Christmas and their Santa Claus. As I read the poem, their eyes glister . . . they're so full of Christmas. As I think they return to their earlier days for a short few hours."

Two OU Coeds Taking Political Route to Battle the System

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES
Where have all the children gone? For starters they've turned in their idealistic flower crown for black arm-bands.

Secondly, many are walking — eight and ten abreast, in open display of their discontent and dissent with the System. Another avenue of recourse, however, is the time-tried-and-tested two-party campaign route.

CURRENTLY IN LIMBO
This is the course for two Oakland University coeds currently in limbo while waiting for orders from the Muskie for President campaign headquarters in Maine.

Although it's a bit early — politically — to make any big waves, the two Deyna Mondshine of Oak Park, and

News Analysis

Joan Weinschelbaum of Detroit, are already planning student strategy for when the call comes.

The OU freshmen have been waiting two months to receive notice from the senator's unofficial headquarters.

The girls chalk off the lack of response from Maine as par for the political course according to their experiences in the two preceding presidential campaigns.

INITIAL STEP

Deyna took the initial step by joining the Democratic teen club for Johnson.

Four years later both girls found themselves on the same party line, but working from different battle fronts — Joan favored Sen. Eugene McCarthy while Deyna backed Hubert Humphrey.

However, despite his staunch dovish stand on Vietnam, Joan came to the disillusioning conclusion that McCarthy was as much in the dark about his plans to direct the country as were his young loyal supporters.

As a result she eventually switched over to Humphrey's camp.

WHAT'S ROUTE LIKE?
What's the campaign route like?

According to Deyna there is the regular door-to-door salesman, the envelope folder, the literature pusher. And then there is the Humphrey girl who wears the straw hat and a big smile at every political rally.

In addition to door-knocking, Joan and Deyna successfully engineered a candle march through Oak Park.

Looking back on the pandemonium among rank-and-file members that took place on the convention floor, both agree that they were discouraged with their first lesson on the fine art of politics or the "power struggle" as Joan puts it.

"The only realistic way to work within the system if you really want to see positive changes," said Joan.

"That's why they'll be right behind Muskie's handwagon on the convention floor as well as the home front."

"We'll be there in 1972," says Deyna.

"Probably getting our heads busted," winced Joan.

Realistic Toys Are Defended

NEW YORK (AP) — A good toy is one that best stimulates a child's imagination, says Saul Robbins, former president of Toy Manufacturers of America Inc.

Children have far more fantasies than do adults, he says, because they live in a constantly suppressing environment dominated by grownups who strictly proscribe their conduct.

"The best way to satisfy children's fantasies is to give them more realistic tools for doing so," said the board chairman of Remco Industries Inc. "The subject matter should be as close to the real thing as possible."

For example, instead of giving a child some blocks and telling him to pretend they are a railroad train, Robbins suggests giving him a toy train. Thus the child is able to use his creativity to build bridges and tunnels and scenery instead of devoting all of his energies to making the mental association between the blocks and a "choo-choo."

FORMER QUALITIES
Robbins admits that in order to build realism into toys, some former qualities must be eliminated. But the result, he says, is a "far superior plaything."

A doll that walks and talks, for instance, cannot be stuffed because of its technological nature. The doll thus loses its cuddly aspect. But it gains personality.

"The older doll had 'softness,'" Robbins said. "It appealed to the sense of touch. The new doll appeals to hearing and sight. It becomes more human."

Some parents are highly critical of today's sophisticated toys, contending that older toys generated more involvement and stimulated more creativity. Robbins sees this as an unrealistic "nostalgic drawback."

PARENTS CRITICAL
"Parents generally criticize or evaluate in terms of the toys they had when they were young," said Robbins. "Fifty years from now our current toys will be considered extremely primitive, and parents then will be nostalgic for the old toys, too. But society changes and toys emulate society."

With these changes, Robbins says toy manufacturers have an obligation to duplicate them as realistically as possible. And parents, when buying toys, have an obligation to think about the world in which their children live rather than that of their own childhood.

Workers Find Pre-Christian Greek Tombs

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Workers digging a foundation for a new building in downtown Athens have uncovered a large pre-Christian era cemetery with most of its tombs intact.

Archaeologists believe the cemetery was used by the ancient Athenians to bury non-residents.

Excavations came to a halt after the tombs were found in order to give the Greek Archaeological Service an opportunity to carefully excavate the site and sift through the ruins.

The cemetery, archaeologists claim, was in use from the classical era — 5th and 4th centuries B.C. — to the post-Roman era — 3rd Century A.D. Most of the tombs opened revealed skeletons and various objects including alabaster and ceramic vases, pots and urns.

7-Year-Old Girl's 'Thank You' Means Millions to UNICEF

By MILTON BESSER
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — In a rural schoolroom in Czechoslovakia 20 years ago a 7-year-old girl painted a picture of five children dancing around a maypole.

Her name was Jitka Samkova, and the picture became the first Christmas card of the U.N. Children's Fund (UNICEF).

The sale of cards became a major source of revenue for UNICEF — about 60 million cards are now sold annually in 105 countries.

But Jitka dropped from sight, and nobody knew until recently what happened to the little Czech girl in the rural school room in Rudolfo.

ASKED TO SEARCH

Dr. F. Stehlik, head of the U.S. Information Service in Prague, was asked to search for Jitka.

He found her, now Mrs. Jitka Vejnova, in the town of Budjovice in southern Bohemia — a 27-year-old attractive, happily married mother of two children.

Jitka's original card was done as an after-hours classroom project to show thanks to UNICEF for food, medicine and public health equipment sent to Rudolfo to help alleviate the ravages left by World War II.

In 1949 the picture was made the first official greeting card of UNICEF. Dozens of other pictures by children have been selected for cards since then.

Many noted artists have donated designs for the cards.

GRATEFUL GIRL

Twenty years ago, when she was 7, Jitka Samkova (above) painted a thank-you picture (right) in gratitude for the food and medicine she got from UNICEF. The Czechoslovak girl's artwork became UNICEF's first Christmas card.

In 1960 the sale of $7.5 million vaccine to protect 15 children cards netted UNICEF $3.75 million, and this year it is hoped the profit will go well over $4 million.

WORK OF 14

This year the work of 14 celebrated artists from nine countries are represented in 19 cards with varying mood and background.

Critics had raised some objection in the past to the lack of religious themes in the cards.

Free Medicine Proves Costly

Four of the 1969 cards are definitely religious in nature. They are titled "Heard Angel," "Nativity," "The Magi" and "Rest in Flight."

The last named is by the 16th century German artist, Lucas Cranach and was contributed by the State Museum of Berlin.

UNICEF — the traditional initials for the agency — maintains programs for aiding children and mothers in 128 developing countries.

EMERGENCY AID

This year emergency aid was provided for children in Nigeria both in Biafra and the federal-controlled areas. Similar aid was provided in the Middle East and South Vietnam, where war brought suffering.

UNICEF officials say the sale from one box of cards provides

And it all started with Jitka 20 years ago.

Christmas shoppers will use $20 million worth of ribbon to garnish packages this year, says Edward E. Barr, senior vice president of Sun Chemical Corp., a major producer.

They estimate that sale of two boxes will provide 200 children with three servings of corn-soya-milk blend, a highly nutritious food, and that 20 boxes can enable the stocking of nine village ponds with fish for a potential supply of protein.

The industry, which has doubled its production in the past 10 years will sell an estimated 4 billion yards of synthetic ribbons and pre-tied bows.

That's enough to circle the globe 100 times. And it doesn't include the increasingly popular decorative stars.

Psychodelic pinks, yellows and oranges and geometric designs in black and white rival the traditional Christmas colors in gift wrappings again this year, according to CANBERRA (AP) — "Free" medicine cost the Australian government $9.92 Australian dollars ($11.11 U.S.) a head in the year ended June 30, according to a report presented to Parliament.

Many antibiotics and other Norcross lifesaving drugs are on the "free" list. They are available will be the old favorites of only on a doctor's prescription polished foils, tinsel-frosted and at a nominal charge of 50 wraps and velvet flocked patients (55 cents U.S.) for each terns in red, green, blue, silver prescription filled.

Chiefs Favored in West Division

If the Saginaw Valley Conference was still one league instead of two divisions, there would be nine fingers pointing toward Pontiac Central as the No. 1 team. They would belong to the nine other basketball mentors in the association which is really two loops, regardless of what the powers that be want people to believe.

PCH has four of five starters back and is heavily favored in the Western Division. Saginaw looks strong in the East.

Campy Russell, 6-6 junior center, could become one of the best basketball players in PCH history. He was the regular pivot last season and since has added an inch and 20 pounds.

"Campy is up to 190 pounds and is more aggressive," said Grubb.

Saginaw Valley

regular pivot last season and since has added an inch and 20 pounds.

"Campy is up to 190 pounds and is more aggressive," said Grubb.

But there is much more to the Pontiac Central team. Bloomfield Lahser will be the first to find this out tomorrow night when PCH invades the Knights' gym.

Senior forwards Monty Herring (6-1) and Jerry Ratliff (6-2) were regulars last season and both proved they can score over 20 points if they aren't closely watched. In addition, both are strong rebounders.

Junior Anthony Styles gained valuable experience as a regular guard during 1968-69. He is an exceptional playmaker and very capable scorer.

Filling the guard vacancy left by graduated Clayton Burch has been Grubb's top problem. Bill Glover, who moved up to the varsity late last season, is being groomed to fill the back-court slot.

Myron Brock, who gained considerable experience as a sophomore, is pushing for a starting berth. Brock played guard last season, but Grubb feels his potential may be at forward.

DEPTH PROBLEM

The rosy outlook starts to wilt a little after these six players.

"Our big problem will be a lack of experienced reserves," said Grubb. "And we can't afford any injuries."

Flint Northern is expected to be PCH's major challenger in the West Division. The Vikings will be hampered early in the season because several cagers are on the football team which doesn't wrap up its season until today.

Included in the grid list is 6-3 forward Larry Banks who uses his 210 pounds to good advantage around the boards. He is Northern's top player with center Tom McGill, 6-4, only a shade behind.

Bay City Handy could be ready to make some basketball noise in the Valley and Arthur Hill is looking to rebound.

Flint Northwestern returns only Mike Horton.

TROJANS STRONG

Saginaw appears ready to regain the top, this time in the East Division. The Trojans have good size and experience.

Guard Ed Roberson, one of the best in the state, starts his third season as a regular as does 6-6 center Ted Prince. Among the supporting cast are Tom Slade, Dan Evans, Dave Carter (6-4) and Mat Robinson.

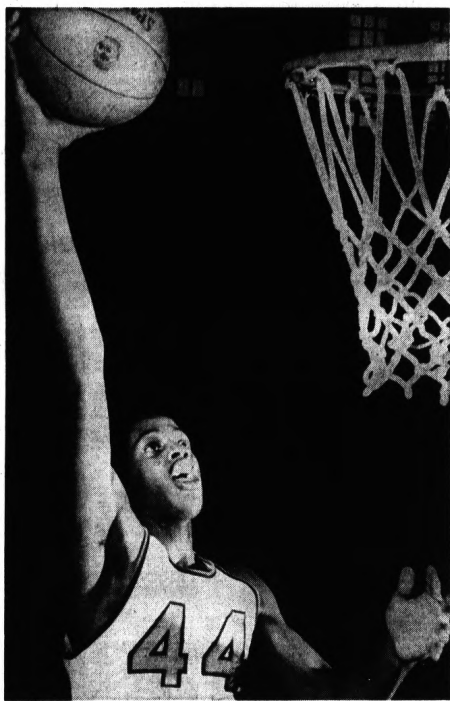

Midland, as usual, shows promise and Flint Southwestern is eyeing an improved season. Ray City Central doesn't have a letterman listed on its roster and Flint Central was hard hit by graduation.

Pontiac Central's home-and-home dates with Flint Northern and Saginaw during January and February could very well rank among the state's best games. Flint Northern will have shaken all of the football kinks by the Jan. 23 first meeting and the season finale at Flint could very well determine the West championship.

Inter-division games do not count in the standings.

CAMPY'S CAPER—This will be a familiar scene around high school basketball courts but Pontiac Central's Campy Russell will have very few peers if any when it comes to putting the ball in the basket as he does so well. The Chief's are looking for one of their finest seasons with the 6-7½ Russell leading the strong array of veterans.

Pontiac Press Photos by Ron Untermahr

READY TO GO—Coach Ralph Grubb has every reason to smile as Pontiac Central gets ready for the 1969-70 season. The Chiefs, who lost in the state quarter-finals last year to Mumfords, have most of their starting five back including co-captains Campy Russell (background) and Anthony Styles (right).

Roeper Boasts Leading Scorer

Return of the starting lineup, including last season's Oakland County scoring champion, is buoying the basketball outlook at Bloomfield Hills Roeper.

Centering the Roeper quintet will be 6-4 senior Greg Carter who topped all county scorers with a 30-point average. Other regulars are forward Tim Treasley, who averaged 18 points as a freshman, and Dale Searlett, a senior guard who connected at a 10-point clip.

WAIT UNTIL LATER — Whatever Pontiac Northern coach Dick Hall said must have been on the light side judging from the reactions of Dave Clancy (left) and Chuck Moncrief. However, trying to defend their share of the Inter-Lakes title won be a laughing matter for the Huskies who must contend with co-champion Livonia Stevenson and hopeful Farmington.

Pontiac Northern coach Dick Hall is taking a "guarded" view of the Huskies' chances to retain the No. 1 spot in the Inter-Lakes League basketball chase.

PNH and Livonia Stevenson, last season's co-champions, are expected to be the frontrunners with Farmington waiting in the wings. Southfield Latrup should head the second division followed by Waterford or Walled Lake Central.

“Our problem has been finding two Class A guards,” said Hall. “We have no lettersmen at the position and may have to move Chuck Moncrief to the backcourt on occasion.”

Moncrief, a 6-0 senior, is starting his

There is a real basketball scrap going on at Ortonville Brandon.

Seven juniors and two seniors are battling over four starting berths. The center spot has been locked up by senior Leland Loutzenhiser. Final judge will be coach Ed Donaldson and he is having difficulty rendering a verdict.

 "Some players haven't been as effective as we know they can be," said the coach, "while others have shown more than we expected from them."

Except for 6-5 Loutzenhiser, the Black Hawks will be on the small side. Only juniors Mike Wilcox (6-0) and Phil Betz (6-1) top the six-foot mark. Senior Eddie Westerby probably would be set at one starting spot, but he has been slowed by an ankle sprain suffered during football season.

Alex Turnbull, the other senior, and juniors Dennis Ball, Ron Wagner, Steve Teare, Rod Hitchcock and Don Bowen are the others in the running.

Lake Fenton and Hartland appear to be the strong teams in the Genesee Suburban C League, but Donaldson figures "we should win our share of games."

"We still haven't jelled, but if we do . . ."

He let the sentence end there and went back to the business of trying to decide on the starters for Tuesday's opener at Oxford.

If nothing else, Waterford Mott basketball coach Ray Robinson can boast of one special distinction that a lot of coaches would like to have as the cage season gets under way.

Leading the Corsair scoring efforts this season should be the team's top scorer from last year, Rodger Strader.

As a junior Strader scored 222 points from his guard position for a 13 point

The Corsairs, who finished with an overall 5-12 record in their first year of varsity competition last season, will hope to improve on that mark with experience of nine returning lettermen.

Offensively the Corsairs are striving to better last winter's .360 shooting percentage, which netted them an average of only 53.1 points per game.

Although optimistic of having at least a 500 season this year, Robinson and the Corsairs will have a tough independent schedule facing them.

CONNECTS — Mott's senior man-

Rodger Strader is one reason for optimism for the Corsairs' forthcoming basketball season. Strader is one of nine lettermen and he had a 13 p.p.g. average last season.

KNIGHTLY CREW — Lahser high school didn't look for a breather to start the season tomorrow night. Coach Bill Ullenbruch and the Knights will host the Pontiac Central Chiefs at Lahser, and figured to be among the starters are Tim Graham (52), Paul Hancock (32), Bernie McPhely (34), Bob Roehrig (30) and Ken Rump (42). Lahser is a member of Oakland-A's South Division.

WOLL, St. James Rate Nod in Catholic Action

"Good things come to those who wait."

This old and familiar saying could well be the theme of the final winner of the Northwest Catholic basketball league this winter.

From the standpoint of returning lettermen and varsity experience, Ferndale

N. W. Catholic

Rice, Shrine, Titans Ready

It looks like its going to be another great year for the area team representatives in the first division of the Catholic basketball league this season.

Pontiac Catholic, who split last year's Northwest Parochial (second division) league crown with Orchard Lake St. Mary, each with final 11-3 standings, lost four men to graduation but will have seven returning lettermen with two year's experience-plus to work with this season.

The Titans were elevated up to the A-West bracket of the first division this fall.

Seniors Sam Brady (6-4) and Herb Larson (6-1), each with three years varsity experience, give the Titans depth while Kellie Dean (6-1), Steve Hoffman (6-5), Gerard Holland (6-7) and Barry Bruce (5-9) will add depth.

WARRIORS ON WARPATH

Birmingham Brother Rice, always a tough in the First Division's Central Bracket, has its eyes again on winning the league crown outright this season instead of sharing it again.

Last year the Warriors finished up co-champions with U. of D.

Coach Bill Norton lost four players including star Jim MacAlon.

Among those expected to pace the Warriors are guard Steve Jones, a three year veteran; 6-4 senior center Bill Hart; Kevin Keating, 6-1 senior forward; junior Bill LeBar, and 6-3 forward Deryl Carter.

Carter is new to the Rice lineup this season transferring from Detroit Cathedral where he lettered twice in basketball.

Norton will have back up men Mark Olesnavage, 6-4, forward, Joe Springer, 6-4, center, Paul McGill, 6-3 guard and Mark Hafeli, a 6-1 junior forward to rely on also.

SHRINE STRONGER

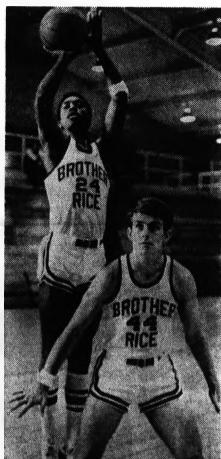

Royal Oak Shrine, another local First Division power has the highest number of returning lettermen with nine, as against five losses.

Shrine's prospects of stepping up from last year's second place finish were increased when guard Tom Switalski joined the Knight lineup.

Switalski, a three year veteran, transferred over from Detroit Cathedral where he was one of the higher scoring players with an average of 16 points per game.

The Knights opening game against Detroit Austin Friday night.

COMBINED FAVORITES
A. Avondale	B. Brother Rice
C. Catholic Central	D. U. of D.
E. Sacred Heart	F. U. of D.
G. U. of D.	H. U. of D.

AIMING HIGH — Brother Rice has its sights set on the Central Bracket title in parochial First Division and a couple reasons are Deryl Carter (24) transfer from Detroit Cathedral and lettermen Bert Hulgrave (44). The Warriors shared the title last year but are solid favorites to claim the crown this season.

Romeo Called Kingpin of Oakland-A

Andover Favored in W-O Chase

If the future comes to pass as the head basketball coaches in the Wayne - Oakland league predict, then Bloomfield Hills Andover won't have to battle it out with West Bloomfield for the league crown this season.

Instead, the Barons will have to fight off Northville for the No. 1 position according to what the mentors expect.

Andover (11-3), which finished second to winner West Bloomfield (13-1) last season, is looked upon to be the power despite having only three returning lettermen.

The Barons will have Dick Souther, a 6-3, senior forward and Scott Roley, a 5-10 senior guard, each with two years varsity experience behind them, along with 6-2 forward John Schmidt who is after his second varsity letter.

Head coach Hal Henderson has three prospects to fill the remaining positions in Bob Reid, 6-1 junior forward, Pete Bowers, 6-1 junior guard and Larry Allingham, a 6-2 senior center.

MANY LETTERMEN

On paper, Northville looks to be the strongest in the league with 10 returning lettermen and a team averaging 6-1.

The Mustangs lost five to graduation, but will be led by returning lettermen Ron Hubbard, Fred Holdsworth, Richard Adams and Terry Mills.

Hubbard (6-2) and Holdsworth (6-1) will get the probable nod at forward, while Adams (6-1) and Mills (5-10) will start at guards.

Mustang coach Bob Kucher has a difficult decision every coach wishes he had, trying to decide whether to start Kerry Cushing (6-6) or Todd Hannert (6-5) at the center position.

Despite losing eight lettermen, West Bloomfield can still be considered a contender.

The Lakers have a fine experienced veteran in 6-5 junior center Don Johnson, the only player returning with an appreciable amount of playing experience.

Seniors Randy BeVier, John Hammell and Wally Alix could give coach Art

Paddy the much needed playing experience in the Laker's backcourt.

Brighton and Clarenceville will be out to make strong bids for the league title this season as each has at least seven returning lettermen.

Neither team did well in league play last season, Brighton (1-13) and Clarenceville (4-10), but the Bulldogs and Trojans will be out to pull their share of upsots this basketball season.

Milford, Clarkston and Waterford Kettering, with a limited amount of returning lettermen between them will have to scramble to keep out of the league basement this season.

WAYNE-OAKLAND FORECAST:
1. Bloomfield Hills Andover	2. Northville
3. Brighton	4. Waterford Kettering

Wayne-Oakland

Northwest Suburban Favorites List Oak Park, Groves Quints

The Northwest Suburban League could be a county - divided race this year in basketball.

The three Oakland County representatives, Oak Park, Groves and North Farmington, are rated as the top three in that order, with the three Wayne County schools, Thurston, Franklin and John Glenn bringing up the second half.

Oak Park coach Terry Callaway saw his team finish 7-10 last year, but six of those losses were by a total of only 13 points, twice to SEMA champ Ferndale.

ON PROWL — One of four returning lettermen at Clarkston is 5-10 senior guard Dan Hallman. The Wolves, who had a record of 7-8 last year, are not figured too highly in the Wayne Oakland race this season.

N.W. Suburban

Four of the five starters are back and depth is the key factor for Oak Park at 6-6, forwards Kevin Burke, 6-1 and Bob Heuer at 6-2. Love is just a junior and he carried a 15.9 average last season.

Steve Court and Joe Minc are the other returnees and depth comes from Larry Foote and Dennis Bowles, both 6-2.

Groves is on its way back after a disappointing 4-13 campaign and 4th place (3-7) in the league.

There's height with center Scott Love at 6-6, forwards Kevin Burke, 6-1 and Bob Heuer at 6-2. Love is just a junior and he carried a 15.9 average last season.

Junior newcomers include Tom Rex, 6-1, Ron Roberts, 6-1, Mike Pagano at 6-0 and Drew Jackson at 6-2, along with returnees Bill Marx, 6-11 and Dave Logan, 5-10.

NORTH FARMINGTON

Then there's defending champion North Farmington, highly rated in the state with a 19-3 over-all record and 10-0 in the league.

Coach Dick Wilson has six returnees and some promising newcomers but seven varsity players are gone. Ken Kilka, an 11 point per game scorer who stands 6-5, will be moved from forward to center, Drew Mahalic, one of the stars of North Farmington's surge into the regionals at forward.

Doug Gilmore, Pat Hickey and Bob Hughes will fill the other positions in the starting lineup.

LEAGUE FORECAST:

1. Oak Park	2. North Farmington
3. Groves	4. Thurston
5. John Glenn	6. Livonia Franklin

South Division to Have Closer Cage Challenge

Romeo, Romeo!

That's the cry of the basketball teams in the North Division of the Oakland-A conference.

In the southern half of the conference the eagles of Troy with a challenge from Lahser is the way the coaches see the race.

The Bulldogs of Romeo are blessed with height, depth and top returning scorers led by guard Tom Lerchen and 6-7 senior Dan Burzynski.

Oakland-A

BIG FRONT LINE

With Burzynski, Romeo will have a front line of Jerry Richie at 6-5 and Randy Rankens at 6-4.

Lake Orion may have lost six of its first seven men including big Gary Mize, but the Dragons along with Avondale and Utica are rated as the top challengers to Romeo.

Orion will have another Mize, Terry at 6-1 and Ed Kubius a 6-2 junior at the forwards. Among the lettermen are Gary Roberts, Jody Hollens, Ray Rogers and Joe Kopecek.

Randy Palasek, a 19 points per game scorer returns for Avondale who should improve greatly on the dismal 1-13 league mark last season.

Palasek is one of seven lettermen returning, but height will be a hurting factor.

Utica has 7 lettermen and the second and third scorers back in Gary Pokley and Bruce Brennan. A 6-4 soph Henry Lorin is the top newcomer.

Adams and Oxford are of unknown quality and are figured to bring up the rear of the division.

Adams might be taking the court for the first time with only Greg Holmes a lettermen at Rochester Central as top returnee, but the Highlanders have some height among the newcomers including 6-7 Greg Reus, 6-4 Tony Paskus and 6-3 soph Mark Campbell.

Griddle Mike Hall, 5-9, is also a guard candidate.

The Oxford Wildcats won only two of 13 last year and it doesn't appear that there will be too many happy nights this season with only three lettermen returning.

CLOSER RACE

The southern half of the league should have a more interesting race.

Troy has eight lettermen at good height and the Colts should be long on experience with five senior players, led by 6-2 Fred Billings and 6-2 Steve Larson, along with 6-5 Rick Stewart who will be out in the first weeks because of a football injury.

After a 19-5 record last season, Lahser again will have play and coach Bill Ullenbruch can start with six lettermen including 6-3 Tim Graham and 6-8 Bob Roehrig as the best returning pointmakers.

Mike Israel a 6-4 center is moving up from the reserve team.

Look out for Madison as the darkhorse say the coaches.

The Eagles are adding 6-6 junior Roger Miller to their big frontline of 6-5 John McWilliams and 6-4 Dave Balabuch.

JACKET BROTHERS — Chris Verron (10) joins brother Pete (14) on the Avondale basketball team this season. Chris is a 5-11 sophomore and Pete is 6-10 senior and one of four lettermen on the Yellow Jackets squad.

Ferndale as Usual SEMA Cage Choice

The big question in the Southeastern Michigan Association basketball league is, "Can Ferndale win back to league championships?"

The Eagles, who tied for the league title with Southfield, each with final 7-3 standings, have perhaps, the best chance to repeat as the 1969-70 SEMA champions this year.

Included in the returning starters are veterans Tyrone Lewis, Bill Screws, Bill Hickman, Gordon Dalziel, Don McNeal, Mark Staton, and Gary Brandt.

Has head coach Roy Burkhardt put it, "barring unforeseen problems, this should be a good team."

CHALLENGERS

However, Birmingham Seaholm, Kimball and possibly Southfield could be one of those "unforeseeable problems."

Seaholm, which lost only two men has seven returning lettermen and a new coach in Tom Vilemure who will attempt to better the Maples fifth place finish last season.

Four of the five key starters from last year's Seaholm squad are back including Jim Hagen, John Bratton, Carl Charles and Jeff Keller.

KIMBALL VETS

Kimball, although losing six lettermen, has an equal number of veteran returning this season.

The Knights will have ample heights in senior center Phil Weaver, 6-8, senior forward Steve Hebold, 6-4, and senior forward Ed Peltz, 6-3.

Southfield, last year's co-champion, is a challenger, although the Bluejays have only three returning lettermen.

The Jays have height in the favor with 6-7 center Brad Allen, along with Scott Miller, a 6-4 senior forward.

Senior guard Dave Hoffman, 6-1, completes the Jays trio of returnees this season.

Berkley and Hazel Park will take their lumps this season and are not expected to be serious contenders for the league crown.

The Parkers, who finished sixth in the league last season, lost 10 men to graduation and have just one returning veteran in senior center John DeCosta, a four-year lettermen standing 6-5.

Good Skiing Reported

There's good skiing at Caberria this weekend with a 10 inch base, and snow making machines in operation. The area is open from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily.

Will Capac Spoil New Haven's Fun in Thumb Loop?

The obvious question in the Southern Thumb Conference is not whether New Haven will repeat as champion, but just how far will the Rockets advance in the state tournament?

The obvious, however, may not come true. Coach Harry Moore at Capac could spoil everything over New Haven way by directing the Chieftains to the throne room.

Dryden may have something to say about the eventual outcome. Almont is destined for the second division.

Ten of 11 lettermen return at New Haven led by 6-6 Scot Belt and 6-1 Eli Sims. Capac has seven veterans on hand with Dave Hoover (6-2) and Dave Vanish (6-2) the potential top scorers.

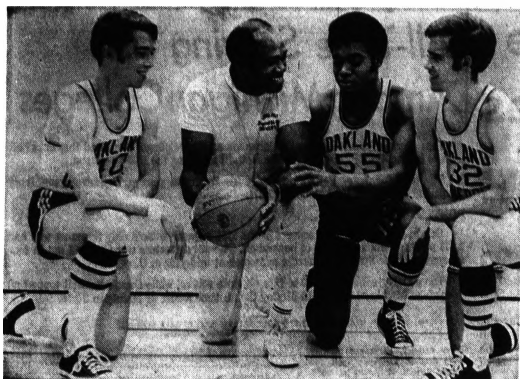

Dryden will have an experienced quintet, but the Cardinals lack the height to be rated along with the frontrunners. George Baker (6-1) is the tallest regular.

Others on hand with considerable experience are Bob Mason, Greg Howard and Dave Wilcox.

Almont was hard hit by graduation and only three lettermen are back led by Dave Wade who saw limited action last season. The Raiders must visit Dryden Dec. 5 in their opener.

Dim Outlook at Dondoro

New Coach Inherits Just 2 Lettermen

Coach Bill Gappy, former freshman coach at Eastern Michigan University, takes the reins at Dondoro this season with two lettermen and a prayer.

Jon Gordon, a 6-5 senior center and Rick Webster, a 5-9 senior guard are the extent of the experience which Gappy inherits.

Twelve of last year's team are gone, so Gappy in his first season must consider this a building year.

Barry Argenbright at 6-4, Benny Harper at 6-3, Mark Jackson at 6-3 are the tallest of the eight juniors who will make up the nucleus of the team.

Also trying out for the team is Tom Jonsson, a 6-2 exchange student from Sweden.

Grosse Pointe is expected to be the strong team in the Border Cities league with Highland Park, Wyandotte, Monroe and Fordson following in order, leaving the last spot for Dondoro.

"We'll have to win a few on pride and desire," said Gappy.

Best Season Expected at Country Day

Coach John Hannett, who has had the five most successful basketball seasons in history in his seven years at Country Day with a 78-13 record, is looking ahead to the 1969-70 with the prospects of having the best team in school's history.

Playing an independent schedule, Country Day finished with a 14-4 mark last season and has eight lettermen returning along with several outstanding newcomers and transfers.

Top scorer Mike Page, a 6-1 guard is back for his junior year as is 6-3½ forward Mitch Hansen who was second on the team in rebounds last year.

Reed Bohne, a 6-5 center who pulled down 14 rebounds a game and Jim Thorsen, a 6-2 forward add height to the squad with good depth in Ray Strombeck, 6-4½ center.

Randy Field, a transfer from Oak Park will be eligible in the second semester, and Ian Levinson, a 6-1 junior forward transferring from Pennsylvania is added depth.

Playing in Class C ranks, the Yellow Jackets might be already pre-planning the trip to Lansing for tournament play.

OU at Albion Monday

Pioneer Cage Coach Is Cagey

Anyone listening to Oakland the next breath he'll start coming to Albion. Coach Gene Boldon discusses the lack of progress the team is making.

"When the starting five is picked," said the optimistic one minute the coach is Boldon, "and has proven that it's brimming with optimism, but in can beat the second and third stringers, then it will have defeated one of the best teams on our schedule."

With the opening game at Albion College next Monday drawing near, the worried Boldon claims:

"Although we have shown some progress, we have not come along as expected. The potential is still unexplored and we have had the problem of sustaining a high plateau through six weeks of practice. "But we should have all the loose ends tied together by Monday."

FOUR STARTERS

Reason for the optimism is the return of four starters from last season's team — Boldon's first at OU — that posted an 11-10 record.

Senior guards Gordon Tebo (6-4) and Ed Holloman (5-11), senior center Tom Allan (6-6) and sophomore forward John Eley (6-4) probably will get the starting nod against Albion.

The battle for the fifth spot is wide open with letterman Darryl Iwankovitch (6-4) and freshmen Carvin Melson (6-4) and Craig Coney (6-2) the top contenders.

There is plenty of experience on the bench. Guard Glenn Beier has started on occasion during the last two seasons and Mike Clancy saw considerable action as a freshman.

Another letterman guard is Richard Wall while Bryan Harbin returns at forward and could sneak into the starting lineup Monday. Transfers John Sneed and Ron and Don Kirkwood were junior college regulars.

Another top frosh prospect is 6-5 center Ronald Brown. The Pioneers play seven games on the road before opening at home Jan. 7 against Albion.

Year of Fenton Tiger in Metro Cage League

Could this be the year of the would seem to be forward? Dennis Ostyn and Dennis Boschers along with guard Leroy Lampy.

Holly and Lapeer are not to be taken lightly in the race for the Metro crown this season also.

Holly lost just two games and will try and improve on last season's fifth place finish with five returning veterans.

Two big guns for the Bronchos, in size as well as play, are L.M. Thomas, forward, and Gratton Moore, forward, 6-2.

Both juniors, Moore carried a 14.5 average while Thomas was 12.3 per game.

Lapeer lost eight men, but counts among the four returning Clarke Adams, a senior forward who was voted the league's most valuable player last season.

New head coach Mike Halstead will undoubtedly take advantage of Adams shooting eye, (23.25 average last year), along with the hustling type play of guards Rick Schland (5-6) and Walt Sierakowski, (5-11) in the Bronchos title bid this year.

Walled Lake Western Has Court Edge

When Walled Lake Western opened its doors for the first time in September, the division of football talent with Central, left the new school with a big edge.

Although the available basketball talent was much thinner, Western appears to have again come out on top.

The one player who makes the difference is Marvin Gross, a 6-9 senior, who set a Walled Lake Central rebounding record with 28 in one game last season. He's also a good outside shooter.

Two other letterwinners followed Gross to Western where coach George Evans is "hoping to hold our own."

Rick McClellan is the tallest at 6-3 and probably will start at center. Bob Zaebst lettered as a guard at Central last season. Cecil Gross, a junior and Marv's brother, could break into the starting lineup at guard.

Greg Emanuel is a contender for the open forward berth along with Doug Bond and Les Cooper. The Warriors will play an independent schedule.

The top boy and girl swimmer will be selected, and medal awards will go to the top six places in each event.

A special award will be made to PNH principal, Phillip Wargelin, for his contributions to the youth program.

The public is invited to watch the swimmers.

New Cranbrook Coach Optimistic of Season

Despite losing seven lettermen from last year's team, it could very well turn out to be a successful year for the basketball team at Cranbrook High School this season.

National AAU Meet at Cranbrook

An entry list of 300 to 400 runners are expected to participate in the 1969 National AAU cross country championships being hosted by Cranbrook school Saturday.

The 10,000 meter race awarded to the Michigan AAU two years ago, will be run on Saturday, on the 5,000 meter track starting at 2:00 p.m.

The leading distance runners in the United States, Canada and Mexico will run in the event, headed by defending champion John Mason who has been competing for the Pacific Coast Club since leaving Kansas State.

The individual winner, if an American, will be selected to run in the Sao Sylvestre 5,000 meter race to be held in Sao Paulo, Brazil, December 31st.

Villanova, last year's team champion, is also expected to be on hand to defend its crown.

Barb Howe Shows How in Pontiac Open Doubles

Barb Howe, who with her husband Less co-owns Howe's Lanes, has shown the women in the Pontiac Open Bowling Championship something to shoot for.

Barb and Steve Olisek Sr., teamed up in the Mix 'n Match Doubles for a 1508 total last Sunday to take the early lead in this feature event.

Barb did not bowl with the defending champion Steve Olisek Jr., as reported earlier. Steve Jr., has not yet qualified and he will attempt to hit his target score of "600" or better this weekend at Howe's Lanes.

ADDED PRIZES
All women bowlers are reminded that there is no added cost to match a doubles score for the $50 added prize. When submitting their entry they need only to add the name of a male bowler who is howling in the same house and on the same lane, on the back of their entry sheet.

Their scores of that squad will be totaled.

The same holds true for the Mix 'n Match team, which can be mixed or all men or women. The doubles must be a man and woman.

Qualifying continues this weekend at nine area houses. Firebird Lanes and Cooley Lanes are adding Saturday times. All bowlers should call any of the nine houses participating to reserve squad times for Sunday.

Bowlers are urged to attempt their qualifying this weekend to avoid the final week's rush. Last year some of the qualifying houses were unable to complete all the qualifying on the final Sunday because of conflicts with their respective leagues.

The Mix 'n Match doubles champs of last year are Rose Davis and Larry Angott.

Another added feature, along with the $200 for the top woman finisher, outside of the top five are top qualifying trophies and cash prizes: high game and high actual scores in the qualifying houses; cash prizes in the semifinals; a TV for last week's Early Bird special, plus an awards dinner for the top money winners.

The dinner will be held Monday, Dec. 21 at Airway Lanes for the presentation of checks and trophies.

Only Sunday, Dec. 7, remains for qualifying after this weekend.

DON CARTER'S BOWLING TIPS

TAKE YOUR TIME

I'm certainly opposed to slow bowling—meaning the time-wasting habits of some beginners—but that doesn't mean I think bowlers should race through the act of throwing the ball. The few seconds needed for a proper delivery are vital for good bowling, and they will actually contribute to a speed-up for they will produce more strikes.

North Dakota State National Champion

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Dakota State reigned as the nation's top small-college football power Wednesday, finishing atop The Associated Press' final weekly poll with a comfortable margin over runner-up Montana.

But the unbeaten Bison of Fargo, N.D., still will have to prove it to Montana's Grizzlies when the two small colleges meet in the Dec. 13 Camellia Bowl.

Decorating a Tree Isn't All Fa-La-La

By DAVID NYHAN
BOSTON (AP) — I found my old Christmas tree stand. It was in the carton marked "lights." Now I have two stands. I also have extra lights. The two strings I borrowed last year from the rear of my father's tree were discovered in the shopping bag marked "ornaments."

You can always use the extra lights, I learned. You'd be amazed at how many drug stores, by Christmas Eve, have run out of spare bulbs. I was amazed, last year, but I learned, which is why I will not spend this Christmas Eve saying "Merry Christmas" to eight druggists.

I do need some ornaments, though. My son either ate last year's, or else rolled them up on the windowsill and pushed them over. I hope he doesn't pull down the tree like he did last year. I almost rolled him over the windowsill.

At least the cat is gone. Last year he developed a fondness for tinsel. We still find tinsel in the winter clothes.

WIFE LIKES IT TOO
My wife developed a fondness for tinsel, too.

She bought 10 pounds of it the day after Christmas. I'm thinking of mailing it to friends in eight-ounce packets instead of sending Christmas cards.

My wife, got a terrific post-holiday deal, too, on cards. One thousand printed up "for a song." That "song" should have been a full-fledged opera. Now the cards are no good. We moved, and they're printed with the old address.

With the cat leaping up to paw the tinsel, we had the only "live" tree in our old apartment building.

SWIPE AT TREE
Last Christmas morning I took a swipe at the quivering tree with the broom I was using to sweep up fallen pine needles. Good thing I missed it wasn't the cat this time, but my son, the electrician, who had his teeth clinched around one of the lights and was trying to swallow it. The kid will eat anything red.

I didn't know last year you should shake your tree when you buy it to see if it's dried out. Had I done that last year, I would have denuded the one brought home. So many needles fell that my mother commented my wife on "that nice green rung under the tree."

A dry tree is a fire risk. We didn't have any fires last year, but by Christmas night we didn't have much of a tree either. Between the baby and the cat, it was almost naked. When I dragged it out to the trash truck later, the driver squinted at the tree and said, "Hey, pal, that looks like one we missed last year."

Survey Points to Cutback in Buying Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — American consumers have cut back on their plans to buy cars, homes and major appliances, according to a consumer survey conducted for the National Industrial Conference Board (NICB).

The NICB attributes the belt tightening by consumers to the impact of the government's anti-inflationary measures.

Earlier this year, according to the NICB, consumers indicated that they planned to buy durable goods in anticipation of higher prices later.

"The latest survey — conducted in September and October — suggest that this psychology no longer prevails to any significant extent," the Conference Board said.

In the current survey, 8.4 per cent of families responding planned to buy a new or used auto over the next six months compared with over 10 per cent in the July-August survey.

Interest in purchasing new cars alone has held firm, however, at just over 5 per cent.

Families planning to buy a house within the next six months declined to 2 per cent of respondents in the September-October survey from 2.7 per cent in the previous survey.

In both the summer and fall surveys, about 38 per cent of the respondents planned to buy major appliances compared with 44 per cent in May-June.

Postal 'Santas' Help the Needy

NEW YORK (AP) — Santa Claus has a secret.

He's about the only guy around who gets unstamped letters forwarded by the Post Office without "postage due."

In the New York Post Office, Santa is played by corporations, charitable organizations and private citizens who want to make the holidays happier for underprivileged children and their families.

In 1958, some 2,800 letters addressed to Santa wound up in the hands of local postal officials. Some 2,500 were received the previous year.

FROM FLORIDA
From Hollywood, Fla. came a letter addressed to "Santa Claus":

How is it in the cold North Pole? I hope you are not tired of making toys, for the children that have been good all year and the children that have no mothers or fathers. I like toys, but will you please send the toys to the poor people? Will you do me a favor and bring my cousin back to my aunt for Christmas? God, I hope you have a nice birthday.

Love and Kisses, Your Friend
Mary Ann

Other letters are equally as plaintive:

I am a girl of 6 years old and I know my mommy don't have much money for Christmas. I would like to have some clothes and toys if you can come to my house so please come to my house. My brother is helping me write this letter to you. He is 10 years old. If you can bring him to he would like it. Thank you.

BEST OF HEALTH

I hope when you receive this letter you are in the best of health. My father is sick and may not work for two months or three and I cannot buy anything for my sister and my brother. I don't want anything. I just want something for my sister and brother. So that it will be a happy Christmas for them.

If you don't send something then it will be a sad Christmas for them and if you send something thank you very much. My sister is 8 and my brother is 10 and I am 12. Yours truly.

On a predetermined date in December, some of the letters are sent to firms, organizations and individuals requesting them. Others are kept by the Post Office. Unsolicited financial donations buy food and toys for the letter writers and their families.

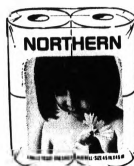

Also the New York Post Office Employees Recreational and Welfare Fund provides the means to purchase additional toys and foodstuffs for the needy whose plight is brought to light by an unselfish child.

Beef Burgundy is only one of several favorite entrees which can be prepared from a basic beef-with-gravy recipe developed in the test kitchens of Republic Molding Corporation, Chicago, manufacturer of boilable plastic food containers.

1/2 cup flour
2 teaspoons salt

3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup chopped onion

Even when guests arrive unexpectedly, and the beef is still solidly frozen, it's no problem if you've packaged it in new boilable plastic containers. For defrosting, these containers may be placed directly in boiling water and simmered until completely heated or until mixture melts around the edges and heating can be completed in a heavy saucepan or double boiler.

Handy round containers which hold pint-size portions (allowing for expansion) are recommended for this recipe. Quantity may then be easily adjusted for a crowd or for the smaller family.

AUTUMN VEGETABLES — Glossy autumn vegetables used in these new green peppers and ruby red beets are two variations of traditional favorites.

Join Vegetables, Gravy Mixes

Stuffed Peppers is a superb dish for all reasons. It's short on preparation and cooking time and long on flavor and eye appeal. Further, it's another way to use economical ground beef. This recipe is especially easy, too, since the zesty sauce is made quickly with an envelope of brown gravy mix and tomato juice.

Every one of the central European countries has its own recipe for Borscht — the hearty beet soup that can be served hot or cold. This recipe, rich and robust, achieves its beefy flavor with an envelope of au jus gravy mix eliminating the need for long simmering with soup bones.

STUFFED PEPPERS

1 envelope (¾ oz.) brown gravy mix

1 cup tomato juice
1 pound ground beef
1 egg
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
4 or 5 green peppers

Empty contents of gravy mix envelope into a small saucepan; stir in tomato juice. Heat just to boiling, stirring constantly. Combine remaining ingredients, except peppers; add ¼ cup of the prepared gravy mix and well.

Remove tops and seeds from peppers; fill with meat mixture. Place in a shallow baking dish. Cover and bake in 375 degree oven 45 to 50 minutes or until tender.

Transfer peppers to serving dish; heat gravy and pour over peppers. 4 to 5 servings.

BORSCHT

3 medium beets
1 cup finely chopped carrots
5 cups water
1 cup finely shredded cabbage
1 to 2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 envelope (¾ oz.) au jus gravy mix
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
Dairy sour cream

Boil beets 15 minutes in enough water to cover; drain, remove skins, and dice. Place beets, carrots, and water in saucepan. Cook for 20 minutes, covered. Add cabbage, lemon juice, contents of gravy mix envelope, and onion.

Heat to boiling; reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes, covered. Serve hot or cold. Garnish each bowl with a tablespoon sour cream. 8 to 8 servings.

Creamstyle Corn Is Surprise in Stew

This is a canned soup combination that's different and delicious.

OYSTER CORN SOUP

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed oyster stew
1 can (8½ ounces) creamstyle corn
1 cup milk or light cream
¼ cup loosely packed minced parsley
Pepper to taste
Into a 1½-quart saucepan turn the oyster stew, corn and milk. Bring to a boil, stirring often. Add parsley and pepper. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

PEACH-MALLOW PUDDING — Drain a 16-ounce can peach slices, reserving syrup; cut into pieces. Add ½ cup orange juice to syrup, or enough to make 1½ cups. In saucepan, sprinkle 1 envelope unflavored gelatin over syrup mixture. Stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until very thick; beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until fluffy and double in volume. Fold in 1 can (16½ oz.) peaches and ½ cup miniature marshmallows. Pour into 4-cup mold. Chill until firm. Makes 4 servings.

Use Tea and Curry in Uncooked Relish

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

A friend of ours concocted an interesting no-cook fruit relish made with little sugar, and she brought us a jar for tasting. We think the recipe is worth passing along to you.

The main part of the relish is made with dried apricots, raisins and onion. The marinade contains curry powder, salt, sugar, red wine vinegar — and tea! Don't be surprised at that tea; it adds excellent flavor and color. Old fashioned cooks used to steep prunes in tea and that's what inspired our friend.

WITH PORK

This relish is fine to serve with a pork loin roast. And here's where we'd like to remind you that government cooking and research specialists now tell us that pork loin needs only to be roasted to 170 degrees to be safe to eat. The recommended temperature used to be 185 so nowadays you can cut down on roasting time.

A pork loin roast that weighs 3 to 5 pounds and is at refrigerator temperature can be roasted at 325 degrees to a temperature of 170 degrees for 2 to 3½ hours.

CURRIED DRIED FRUIT RELISH

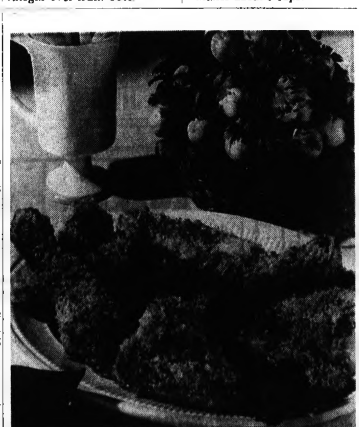

1 package (11 ounces) ten-derized dried apricots
1 cup raisins
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
2 cups boiling water
3 tea bags
¼ cup red wine vinegar
Into a medium bowl mix apricots into 5 or 6 pieces each; mix with raisins and onion. Sprinkle with mixture of curry powder, salt and sugar.

In a small bowl pour boiling water over tea bags, cover and brew for 5 minutes; discard bags. Four tea and wine vinegar over fruit. Cool.

Marinate, covered, in refrigerator for at least 18 hours, stirring once or twice. Keeps well for weeks in refrigerator.

Nice stored in wide jar or jars (ceramic or glass) that can be brought to the table. Makes about 3 cups.

TATER-TERRIFIC CHICKEN — Wash pieces of a 3 to 3½-pound frying chicken and pat dry. Sprinkle with salt. Combine 2 cups instant mashed potato flakes, granules or puffs with 1 tablespoon barbecue spice. Beat 1 egg slightly and dip chicken pieces into it; roll in dry potato mixtures until well coated. Place on well-greased, shallow baking pan; do not crowd. Drizzle with 2-3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes or until golden brown and tender. Makes 4 servings.

Chocolate Is Fruit Coating

Fondue is THE THING this year. Fondue pots are turning up everywhere, in every conceivable size and shape. But if you don't have one, just melt the semi-sweet chocolate over low heat or hot water. It will keep warm and melted for some time in a heavy bowl.

This novel treat won't sit around very long anyway. Not when everyone tastes the delicious combination of tangy bright pineapple chunks and rich smooth chocolate.

CHOCOLATE-PINEAPPLE FONDUE

2 (1 1/2 ounce) cans pineapple chunks
1/2 pound semi-sweet chocolate
1/2 pint whipping cream
Vanilla wafers

Drain pineapple chunks thoroughly. Place chocolate in fondue pot over low heat until melted. If using a ceramic bowl place over hot water to melt chocolate. Stir in cream. Keep warm.

Spear each pineapple chunk with fondue fork or bamboo skewer. Dip in melted chocolate mixture to coat. Dunked pineapple is ready to eat. Vanilla wafers make a good go-along. Makes 6 servings.

Garlic and Spices Lend Mexican Note to Meat

What smells so delicious down Mexico way? Undoubtedly one of that country's hundreds of piquant sauces mingling the aromas of tomatoes, onions, garlic, herbs such as oregano, parsley or bay leaf, the whole resident of one or more of Mexico's great variety of chili peppers.

When the Spaniards arrived in Mexico almost five hundred years ago they found an amazing treasure of new fruits and vegetables. Spices, too, allspice and peppers of "innumerable kinds, the variety whereof is known by their leaves and flowers," according to an early record.

In exchange for these, Spaniards brought hogs, cattle, sheep, goats and chickens to the New World. Old World spices, too, anise, cinnamon, clove, cumin, coriander, saffron, mint, sesame and perhaps best of all, onions and garlic.

Hogs gave them lard, a preferred fat when frying the ground chilis, onion, garlic and tomatoes which are basic to so many of their sauces.

Not all Mexicans adore hot pepper sauces. Some don't, but many do and for those there are

MEXICAN MEAT LOAF

2 1/2 pounds ground meat loaf mixture
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
3 tablespoons dry bread crumbs

In a large mixing bowl combine eggs, tomato sauce, minced onion, pepper flakes, chili powder, salt, red pepper and minced garlic. Add meat; mix thoroughly but do not overmix. Press into lightly buttered 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Drizzle top with melted butter. Sprinkle with bread crumbs.

Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 degrees) 1 hour or until done. Let rest in pan 10 minutes before slicing. Yield: 8 portions.

Peanuts, Honey Star

When is a brownie not made of chocolate? When it's flavored with nutritious peanuts and honey!

Golden Peanut Brownies have the sunny taste and color of "bee"-licious honey. Smooth, creamy peanut butter is blended in for extra protein. Chopped peanuts add crunch texture. These brownies are easy to prepare and can be made by youngsters themselves.

They keep well — brownies are a perfect picnic and outdoor party food. They ship well, too. Each chewy bite of a Peanut Brownie is as healthy as it is flavorful with the nutritional bonus of enriched flour. At no cost to you, three essential B-vitamins, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin and the mineral, iron, have been added during milling.

PEANUT BROWNIES

1 cup enriched flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup salted cocktail peanuts, chopped
1/2 cup creamy peanut butter
1/4 cup honey
2 eggs

Combine flour, baking powder and salt in a separate bowl, mix together sugar, peanut butter and honey until smooth. Beat in eggs, one at a time; gradually add flour mixture. Stir in peanuts.

Spread in greased 9-inch square pan. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes, or until cookies begin to shrink from sides of pan. Cool 15 minutes.

Cut into squares. Cool completely before removing from pan.

Liked Red Look

Venetian women, circa 1500 A.D., most prized a strawberry blonde hair color and tried to achieve it by lengthy basking in the light of the sun and — believe it or not — the moon.

PIZZA MEXICANO — Bake one frozen cheese pizza according to package directions. Shred 1/2 head lettuce and mix with 1 teaspoon chervil and 1/4 cup bottled Italian dressing. Place in a serving dish. Serve on top of each portion of pizza pie. Makes 6-8 servings.

Old Toys Enjoyed by Adult Collectors

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — Pat Ruhl, Davenport antique dealer and collector, has been amassing a private collection of antique toys for more than 20 years, and he says "the toy century cost very little in their own time. Today, they gladden the hearts of adult collectors at a fancy price."

"The first pieces I found were cast iron fire engines and fire trucks. Such items were scarce that I turned to tin Germany. A manufacturer who mechanical toys, and now they're scarce too. The cast iron toys flourished from 1880s until the first World War, when metal was diverted to other uses."

"Tin mechanical toys were on the scene from the 1880s until about 1930. A few things were made after that, but I never buy anything beyond 1930."

PRICES VARY

"The toys are found in attics, antique shops, and secondhand stores. The price varies with the locality, but the quarter toy of yesterday commands multiple dollars today."

"The hardest to find are the Lehmann toys made in Germany," says Ruhl. "Weedon and Marx were other German companies that made wonderful metal toys. Marx eventually moved to this country."

"The early Ives Co. made good mechanical toys," he added. "I've only seen one boat made by them, and I have it."

"Miniature toys are scarce — bright, little automobiles. I only have two of those."

IN EARLY 1900s

In the early 1900s, cast iron hook and ladder rigs were sold a dozen to the box for a pittance. Today, you're lucky if you can find a fraction of a dozen at any price."

"Comic toys are getting scarce, now, too. Charley McCarthy, Krazy Kat."

"The last toy I found was a Victorian man and woman who stroll along together when you wind them up."

"Most of the toys are historical. Who would remember the Hess mobile without the small, tin auto with forward, reverse and neutral gears? When you open the hood, the pistons go up and down and the crankshaft turns."

MODEL T COUPE

"I also have a 1914 Locomobile two-seater and one of the first Buddy L steel Model T coupes."

"American cast iron toys were very good, but the best mechanical tin toys came from Germany. Fine wooden toys came from Schoenhut in Germany, a manufacturer who moved to Philadelphia. They specialized in jointed wooden animals, and I have a Schoenhut elephant and donkey."

"England is noted for lead soldiers, but my finest are five Russian soldiers that bear the original Russian labels. In Germany, they have clubs for collectors of toy soldiers, and they have a great time at their bestests."

"The toys of today are not likely to become antiques, Ruhl believes. Plastic and battery-driven, they are not built to survive. Also, kids have more and they treat what they have more carelessly, he adds."

Old Capitol

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) — Wheeling was West Virginia's capital until May 1, 1885, when the seat of government was moved 175 miles southeast to Charleston.

CHESTY IDEA — Taking a cue from the Old World original of a French semainier is a linen storage chest by Kemp to organize daily clutter. These once had each day of the week stenciled on drawers, with Sunday's prayer book in the first and Saturday night's evening gloves in the last drawer. Ideal Christmas gift for any room or age, it comes in Mediterranean pecan and nutmeg finishes or avocado green, antique white, teal blue and topaz yellow.

Early Settlers' Yules as Diverse as People

By ELIZABETH BASSETT

1607. The original group of 100 Columbus Christmas got off had been decimated to less than 20 by a bad start when his ship grounded on a coral reef off Santo Domingo in 1492. He and his crew were saved by Indian natives and spent Christmas day feasting with the chief. He named the fortress he built near La Navidad, Spanish for The Nativity, in honor of their salvation.

Christmas-time feasting was traditional even pre-Columbus. The Indians of the Pacific Northwest and Alaska celebrated the winter solstice — which occurs just a few days before Christmas — with gift giving. And one North Dakota tribe traditionally had hung gifts from a cedar tree.

America is many Christmases, the result of many peoples bringing the customs of their homelands and passing them down from generation to generation.

COMPILES HISTORY
Ruth Cole Kalnen has compiled a history of these traditions in a book titled "America's Christmas Heritage," recently published by Funk & Wagnall's.

One of the traditions is Christmas cooking, and the 256-page book is liberally sprinkled with recipes from myriad sources.

She writes that St. Nicholas (who was designated a doubtful figure by the Roman Catholic Church earlier this year) arrived in New York Harbor with the first boatload of Dutch settlers.

He was the figurehead on the ship "Goede Vrouw" which landed in the New World on Christmas Day. Each group of settlers had its place before midnight mass, the Dutch gave gifts on Dec. 6, St. Nicholas Day. The English and French Huguenots exchanged gifts on New Year's Day.

IMPRACTICAL
The long holiday period was fun but impractical and a compromise was effected. In 1525, the English finally adopted the Gregorian calendar, instituted by Pope Gregory 200 years before.

This meant 13 days had to be skipped, so Christmas was moved up to Dec. 25 from its former date, Jan. 7.

Some branches of the Eastern Orthodox Church still haven't adopted the new calendar. The Armenians and some Ukrainians celebrate Christmas the day after the 12th day of Christmas.

The Christmas tree came over with the Germans. But the first time it was called "Christmas tree" was in 1830, in a newspaper story about a public tree in York, Pa.

SWEEPS COUNTRY

Within a few years the idea of decorating trees for the holiday swept the country and today we put up more than 40 million Christmas trees a year.

A German Catholic Church of the Holy Trinity presented what is believed to be the first American Nativity play.

Dressed in Oriental costumes, they marched singing down the aisle of the church and stopped before the Nativity scene. There they handed priests gifts for the poor.

The first settlers in Jamestown, Va., had nothing except prayers for Christmas in

PRAY FOR HELP

They prayed that reinforcements would arrive before the end of the year. Their prayers were answered at about the same time their leader, Capt. John Smith, returned telling about his rescue by Chief Powhatan's daughter, Pocahontas.

The following year the Virginians ate Christmas dinner with one of Powhatan's sons.

The night of the 12th day of Christmas is the beginning of Mardi Gras. Revelers in French New Orleans choose the festival queen by cutting a special "gâteau des rois" (king's cake) containing a golden bean.

The custom of choosing a king and Queen of the Bean on Epiphany still exists in some French and Spanish-speaking homes.

NEW MEXICO YULE

The Spaniards of New Mexico celebrated Christmas long before the Puritans reached Plymouth's rocky coast. Coronado and his men spent Christmas at a winter camp near Albuquerque in 1540.

Franciscan monks introduced Christ's birthday to the Indians of Arizona and New Mexico. They celebrate also with great festivity the King's day, "el Día de Reyes," which is the day of the Three Kings to the Christ Child," wrote Padre Tor bio de Motolinia sometime before 1568.

Because the old Pueblo Indian feast days and Christmas holy days fall at the same time, Indian festival dances are allowed in church on one night only, Christmas Eve, some taking own day for gift giving. The place before midnight mass, the Dutch gave gifts on Dec. 6, St. Nicholas Day. The English and French Huguenots exchanged gifts on New Year's Day.

Swedish-Americans begin their Christmas season on Dec. 13, when the oldest daughter of the family dons the white robes and candle crown of St. Lucia, a Christian martyr who died at the stake in 4th-century pagan Sicily.

APPEARED TO PEASANTS
The story says that during the middle ages she appeared before a group of famine-ridden Swedish peasants sailing atop a ship laden with food.

Croatian-Americans plant a pot of wheat on St. Lucy's Day. Twelve days later it is a Christmas table centerpiece, a symbol of thanks for plenty.

Grain is part of the Christmas ritual for Americans of Serbian, Lithuanian, Polish, Ukrainian and Bulgarian descent, who traditionally scatter straw throughout the house to honor Christ's birth.

As the settlers moved westward, so did their traditions.

Now Christmas is firmly entrenched all across America. From the Yukon where they have community feasts of moose stew and bear meat to the carol sings in countless small towns to Hawaii where everyone greets his neighbor, "Mele Kalikimaka!" — Merry Christmas!

Look over the patterns pictured. There's sure to be one that will please your fancy. They are all easy to make and come in full-size patterns that you simply lay out, trace, cut and construct. Even the newest amateur will be pleased with his success.

To be certain that the patterns arrive by the fastest route add 25 cents per pattern for air mail delivery with the exception of the Snow family add 80 cents and Mr. and Mrs. Santa and the Elves add 50 cents for each pattern. The five elves are considered as one pattern.

Because of the volume of holiday requests, the mail service is apt to be slow if you do not have the patterns shipped via air mail.

NATIVITY SCENE

A nativity scene (not pictured) may also be purchased for construction by sending $7.50 for pattern number C-7 plus $1.50 for air mail delivery to Steve Ellingson.

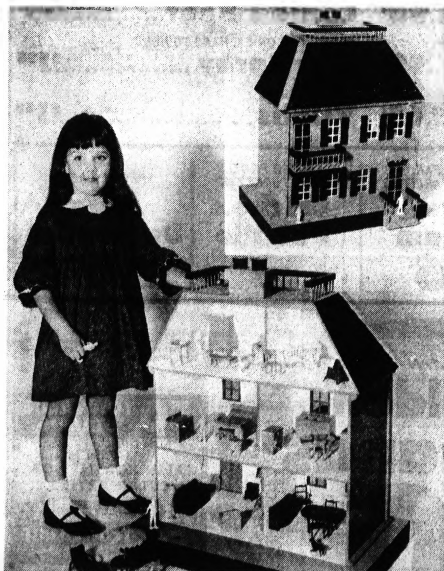

Be sure and state the number of the pattern you wish correctly, include the proper amount of money by currency, check or money order and mail to Steve Ellingson, The Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., P. O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

To obtain the full-size bedside table pattern number 344, send $1 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson.

To obtain the full-size doll house pattern number 411, send $1 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson.

Tenants Escape Fire at Pontiac Apartment

Tenants of a Pontiac apartment building, which had their lives threatened by a fire, were rescued by firefighters. The fire broke out in the kitchen of a two-bedroom apartment on the second floor of the building at 1100 N. Lincoln St. The fire was caused by a gas stove. The fire spread quickly, but the tenants were able to escape. The fire department arrived within minutes and extinguished the fire. The building is owned by the O'Neill Realty Co.

Assistant Fire Chief Charles Metz estimated damage at $20,000 to the building and $10,000 to the contents of the apartments. "They lost everything they had," said Metz. "But it could have been worse."

FAST WORK
Fast work by fire fighters, he said, kept the blaze from spreading to all the apartments. "The fire was out in 10 minutes," said Metz.

The only injury sustained was by a fireman, Thomas Ames, who was treated for a burned hand. The fire started in a second-

Burglars Flee With Only Part of Loot
Burglars escaped with $100 but were thwarted in their attempt to steal six television sets and a stereo record player from Joe's Appliances, 567 E. Walton, early today.

Police answering a burglar alarm at 1:25 a.m. found the merchandise in a car parked at the rear of the store.

Other officers arriving on the scene saw a man run from the rear of the building, but lost him in the dark. A tracking dog from the Bloomfield Township police department located a scent, then lost it a couple of blocks away.

The store owner, Merlin J. Doran, 33, of 3776 Marine, Waterford Township, told police that the money had been in the cash register.

Police said they have been unable to determine if the car found at the scene was stolen.

German Firm Sells Life-Size Toy Animals

NEW YORK (AP) — A life-size tiger and a moose with a six-foot antler spread dominate a playroom.

They're not trophies from a safari-stuffed by a taxidermist. They're toys "stuffed" by a German company and purchased — at $1,200 — by an adult.

"Our fastest growing market segment is split between teenagers, and believe it or not, grown men and women," said a spokesman for Steiff Toy Co. of Germany.

Little stuffed animals have long adorned little girls' bedrooms and big girls' campus dormitories. But why the demand among adults for the life-size versions as well as the miniatures?

WOMEN OF ALL AGES

Steiff credits collectors with part of the boom — women of all ages who own as many or as few as 30 toy animals.

The motivation behind this collecting, Steiff learned from psychologists, is that in every big girl there is an element of the little girl.

Also, stuffed animals provide an outlet for the woman who wants to "play the kitten." The favorite toy with this group of women, says Steiff, is the tiger.

As for the buyers of the giant animals bearing giant price tags, Steiff says they're usually doting parents or grandparents and those persons who enjoy giving unusual presents no matter the price.

After all, what does one give to a friend who already has a banyo-shaped swimming pool, custom Excabur automobile and his own jet?

Homemade Handiwork Adds a Touch

Hobbies Can Make Yuletide Nicer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Every young person should have a hobby," says Mrs. Howard Sherman. "You never know when you might need it."

Mrs. Sherman speaks from experience. She's 73 and one of 2,000 Elder Craftsmen in America.

They receive 65 per cent of the sale price, which last year totaled $60,000. The balance of the money, in addition to private contributions, is used to defray expenses of the organization manned by 30 volunteers.

In addition to selling their own handiwork, the Elder Craftsmen will finish needle-point, knitting and other projects a ambitious housewives started then put away and forgot. They also execute special orders for individuals and interior decorators.

The New York shop is filled with hand-painted wood figures of Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy, Santa Claus, a wooden soldier and a pink ballerina. Each is 5 1/2 inches tall and costs $1.50.

Christmas decorations are abundant, too, since the bulk of the sales are during the holiday season.

There are felt tree skirts, glass wreaths, scented candles, Christmas stockings, a corn husk creche and religious mobiles.

The focal point, however, is a Christmas tree laden with handmade ornaments. In addition to sequined balls, from gingerbread boy and girl and a cherub smoozing on a cloud.

Mrs. Sherman, who stopped at the shop to chat with Mrs. Eleanor Bonoff, executive director, said she had been at her craft.

SPECIAL ORDERS

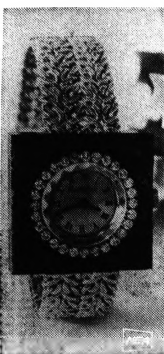

The Elder Craftsmen is a national organization of men and women over 60 years of age who have turned their hobbies into a business. They learned long ago, into incomes to supplement their pensions.

Not only does she stitch for the Elder Craftsmen, where she made $1,200 last year, she also taught her skill to young people.

"I know almost every needlepoint stitch there is," she boasted, adding that she spends about eight or nine hours a day at her craft.

TREE TRIMMERS — A national hobby time fun and profitable by turning out such holiday decorations as these.

STILL BEST — Diamonds are still a girl's best friend, especially when they're surrounding a Roman numeral dial set into a square of lapis lazuli. The "braided" bracelet is 18-karat yellow gold. The ladies watch was designed by Buechi Girod.

Pakistan Ruler Appears Eager to Return Nation to Democracy

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan
(AP) — Eight months after he took over the government, President Yahya Khan is sounding more and more like a man eager to give it back to the politicians.

Military associates, remembering his more carefree, high living days as army chief of staff, note his travail as president of this geographically divided land of about 125 million Moslems.

The geographical split, and a racing birthrate are only parts of the problem. The list of political parties waiting to take the place of what Pakistanis call the martial-law regime is enough to make the head of any military man swim.

There are the Awami League, the National Awami party, the Pakistan People's party, the People's Democratic party, the Pakistan Muslim League, the Quid-i-Azam Muslim League plus a litter of splinters.

WILL STICK TO IT

In spite of the political confusion, Yahya said in October "I have every intention of sticking to the program of elections and transfer of power." That was after students at the University of Dacca broke martial law regulations to demonstrate.

"The government shall set up the process of democracy very soon," he said this month, adding only, "depending on circumstances."

Most politicians agree the country must have elections or blow up. They cannot agree if three major issues should be settled before or after a vote. One issue is the breaking up of the 310,000 square miles of West Pakistan, now one unit, into several states based on ethnic and language divisions. Another is the granting of greater regional autonomy.

Get-Together Set

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Gov. William Milliken and former Gov. G. Mennen Williams plan a get-together in Lansing Monday. Williams, who also served as undersecretary for Africa affairs, wants to present Milliken with a copy of his new book, "Africa for the Afri-canians." Pressure is building up to solve the matter of methods and get on legislative seats on Yahya's election commissioner. Judge Abdus Sattar, said in September he didn't think the work of voter registration would permit elections before December 1970. But his current timetable indicates that en-ment could be finished by March. Such a schedule would permit holding elections before the May-June rains turn East Pakistan into a swamp, virtually preventing campaigning and voting.

LEGISLATIVE EQUITY

There is still confusion over what voters would vote for. According to Z. A. Bhutto, the former foreign minister whose defection one year ago helped speed Mohamed Ayub Khan's collapse after 10 years of rule, Gen. Yahya once favored a referendum and apparently is toying with permitting a constituent assembly to create a civilian-rule constitution.

MAJOR ROLE

Air Marshal Asghar Khan, former air force chief who also played a major role in bringing down Ayub, believes a Socialist, but he has attracted numerous wealthy supporters, including such financial giants as G. M. Adamjee.

Road Is Opened

LANSING (AP) — A slightly more than three-mile section of the nearly 12-mile portion on I-496 serving Lansing, East Lansing and Michigan State University was opened to traffic Tuesday. A 1904 curved-dash Oldsmobile participated in the dedication ceremony. Highway department officials attending included state Highway Director Henrik Stafseth and Wallace Nunn of East Tawas, vice chairman of the highway commission. The Pakistani Mujibur Rahman, 52-Swami party shows signs of Beauty Parlor Turns Out 'Living' Dolls

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a beauty parlor in New York that cuts and sets hair and gives a complete facial in 15 minutes flat. Although none of the 20,000 daily customers leaves a tip, the beauticians don't complain. They know they'll never be back anyway.

The salon is for dolls and is part of the Ideal Toy Corp. factory in Hollis Queens.

"We know that to a little girl a doll is more than a plaything," said Lionel Weintraub president. "It is an extension of her own personality as she hopes to be."

So hundreds of women clip curl and paint to create dolls of little mothers' dreams.

Each doll undergoes at least five steps in the makeup process — eye shadow eye lashes lipstick color reflects the doll's mood as well as her wardrobe.

"The shape of the lips is determined by the personality. Two hair specialists work fulltime developing styles to keep pace with the fashion world of the grown-ups. Current models range from the tightly curled coiffure to the bangs and straight shoulder-length hair to a short razor cut.

Each doll's hair made of a washable synthetic is rooted on special machines combed and brushed straightened with moisture when necessary and cut.

Hairpins and curlers are used when the style demands. A polyethylene "hair net" is added to maintain the style.

LEARN KNACK

Although many of the employees are licensed beauticians not all of them are.

Weintraub says it doesn't take long for the newcomers to the business to learn the knack. And often what they learn about the beauty treatment of dolls is reflected in their own appearance.

"Any woman who has worked with our dolls for a season or more tends to show a little extra care and sensitivity in the selection and application of her personal cosmetics," he said.

FINISHING TOUCHES — Beauticians apply the finishing touches to the twin pony tails of Betty Big Girl, one of 20,000 customers who pass through Ideal Toy Corp.'s beauty salon each day.

No More Need to Dread Shopping for Your Man

NEW YORK (NEA) — This shopping next year. He'll pre-season the uninhibited male can baby change.

do his own thing where dress is concerned. And that should ease the burden of the gals in his life at Christmas gift shopping time.

Conservatism is not the rule of men's fashion this year. "Shall I buy him a wallet? A trim warm scarf? A serviceable pair of gloves or a nice white shirt?" are no longer the only questions to be considered when it comes to choosing the right gift for the right man.

AUTOMATIC FOCUSING

One new projector has automatic focusing. After the first slide is focused the autofocus system takes over and repositions the projection lens for subsequent slides only if they need refocusing. It has jam-proof gravity loading and an 80-slide revolving tray fits on the top and lens gravity lower slides gently into the tray.

Tools for the weekend carpenter make another welcome gift. A new saw, for example, designed by Brian Asquith, silversmith to the British royal family, has an easy-to-grasp polypropylene handle, molded directly to the back, which is immovable and back seat to wide, flamboyant art deco prisms.

This time around a whole other world has opened for the girl with a special guy in mind.

SEMI SEE-THROUGHS

The white shirt has moved over to make room for deep colors, patterns, stripes — even voile semi see-throughs. The handle, molded directly to the back, which is immovable and back seat to wide, flamboyant art deco prisms.

Sweaters run the gamut from skinnies, tucked-in-to-the-waist change in raw design in candelabras. Rust-resistant teeth numbers or back-belted models make sawing easier. But this item has double value as a gift. It makes a handsome wall decoration, too.

Fishing and skiing gear and accessories over the gray apparel also make handsome yuletide gifts. And at-home wear is becoming as big a thing in a man's life as it is in a gal's.

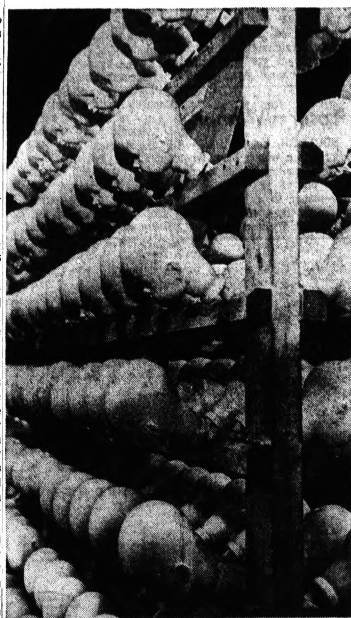

KNOW YOUR MAN

Shopping for the men in your life, because of the advances in technology which enlarge the scope of products available for the hobbyist and also because of the incredible acceptance by many men of colorful clothes and accessories over the gray apparel also make handsome yuletide gifts. And at-home wear is becoming as big a thing in a man's life as it is in a gal's.

WORD OF CAUTION

One unit offers two combs and a brush and is designed so that hot air is blown into wet hair from an electric system contained in the Hot Comb handle.

But a word of caution — If you're stuck once again sound out your man before you let yourself go on that shopping spree. He may be one of the last battalion of Ivy League conservatives. If he is you'll have to hope for happier WAITING THEIR TURN — Customers at Ideal Toy Corp.'s beauty salon wait their turn for a facial and hairdo before greeting little girls on Christmas morning.

Old Wrappings Reborn as New Yule Decoration

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't throw away those wrappings after all the gifts are opened. Cut 12 pieces of construction paper 4 by 7 1/2 inches and score at 2 inches, 2 inches, 3 inches and 1/2 inch.

Cut 12 4 by 4 inch squares of "Christmas Cameos." Cement to the 4-inch section of the construction paper.

Just to make sure you'll know what packaging materials to keep. Norcross provides some paper as a guide. Cement pink guide lines and instructions on the remaining portion of construction paper. Fold on score lines and glue flap to inside of the 4-inch square. Make 12 triangles this way.

Cut one each of the 12 angel-ettes in block form. Glue to white construction paper and cut around figures carefully. Glue colored toothpicks to backs of angels. Glue bottom end of toothpick inside fold of triangle, centering triangle in the circle opening. Triangles may be stacked as desired, used as place cards or 10 may be cemented to pasteboard, with the 2 extras flanking the tree shape at the bottom.

Von Braun Eyes Future of U.S. Space Program

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Dr. Werner von Braun has been in the forefront of the U.S. space program since it was only a dream. In the following article, written especially for The Associated Press, the director of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center tells what directions the space program may take in the future, what it means for the man in the street and what benefits it holds for mankind.)

DR. WERNER VON BRAUN

By
DR. WERNER VON BRAUN
Written for the Associated Press
The purpose of the space program, how it will benefit man, and where the program is headed in the future are three often-asked questions now that Americans have landed on the moon. Despite monumental achievements, many persons still do not know the answers to these questions, answers which, as taxpayers, all Americans rightly deserve.

The space program does cost money and this raises concern among some Americans who feel that the money spent on space could be better utilized at present on problems here on earth. In this regard I think we must realize two things, first, the space program is not an isolated program which is separate from the rest of America, and second, the space program is not expensive in terms of potential benefit.

In fact, during the brief period of time that the space program has been in existence we have already shown significant immediate returns. The money spent on space has contributed both directly and indirectly to improving the conditions of life here on earth. The money is, in fact, spent on earth and has resulted in jobs and "spin-offs" in almost every area. These "spin-offs" range from a wide spectrum of weather forecasting, communications and TV broadcasting, to specific applications in intensive care cardiac units, sight switches for paraplegics, and integrated circuits to name some of the areas where man has already benefited tremendously. These are direct and immediate technological benefits.

ENORMOUS POTENTIAL

As important as these physical benefits are, I think that the space program has taught us something more. Something which is applicable to every major challenge we will face, whether it be poverty, congestion, pollution, or defense. It has taught us how to harness our resources and capabilities, how to attack a problem. The new and innovative management techniques developed to effectively undertake and implement an incredibly large and complex Apollo program have universal applicability.

The space program has enormous potential for improving human welfare, both through advancing technology to give us better means for combatting our social and economic problems and by developing the management systems and techniques necessary to implement the desired solutions.

We see then that the real purpose of the space program is to enhance the general well-being of the people who are paying the bill, and, through them, all mankind.

We plan to accomplish our future goals in space by concurrent exploitation of five major areas that offer the public the most promise both in terms of immediate benefits and long-term achievements. These five areas are (1) the development of space transportation systems, (2) the establishment of permanent manned space stations, (3) the further refinement of nuclear propulsion systems, (4) expanded lunar exploration, and (5) planetary exploration.

KEY OBJECTIVE

One of the most important immediate objectives for our space program should be the creation of a space transportation shuttle system that operates from the surface of the earth to earth orbit and back. By back, I mean fully recoverable and reusable.

We plan on reusing the same shuttle as many as 100 times. We want to be able to conduct shuttle flights to an orbit as easily as an airplane flights cross the ocean to another continent. Since the shuttle will return to earth in a runway-type landing, there will no longer be a requirement for the large sea recovery forces currently necessary for manned flights.

between lunar orbit and the lunar surface, trips to the moon cannot be made more safely and economically. In this manner, we can make full use of all that the moon has to offer.

We would use nuclear propulsion systems for leaving earth orbit on the 270-day trip to Mars. The space program provides more than the and for braking into orbit means for exploring the vast would remain in Mars orbit. The space program can and about three months. During this time two three-man laboratories would be sent to the surface for a month's exploration. Nuclear rockets would be fired to bring the spaceships from Mars orbit, on a swing-by of the planet Venus, for return to earth. Nuclear engines would retrofire to park the voyagers in earth orbit, where they would catch a shuttle vehicle for home. We have tons of steel and a ton of the manned Mars expedition. It is steel, valued at $14,000, was stolen while it was loaded on an But we must realize that express company truck. Russia's Favorite Variety Show Is Its Answer to 'Laugh-In'

By JAMES O. JACKSON
MOSCOW (UPI) — The jokes are never racy, and to a Westerner they are barely funny, but Russia's equivalent of the U.S. television show "Laugh-In" is the biggest thing on the screen.

The semiweekly show—called "13 Chairs" and set in a fictitious Polish restaurant—occupies a prime Sunday night time slot and regales Soviet viewers with dated rock and roll music and wisecracks about bureaucrats.

The Soviet Union has nothing like America's rating system, but Russians agree that "13 Chairs" is everybody's favorite variety show and probably draws a huge audience.

The apparent reason for its popularity is a slick sheen of miniskirted modernity, even including some American music, and a patter of jokes that poke gentle fun at some of the Soviet government follies.

PANTOMIME

In a typical show, a Russian comedienne with long hair and short skirt twirled around the tables miming an American rendition of "Gypsy in my Soul."

Earlier, a pair of actors put on a skit in which a writer went to a small town with a mandate from the writers' union to work there. A bureaucrat from the union, obviously hoping the writer would not have it and would leave him in peace.

When the certificate was produced, the bureaucrat demanded more certificates, each one more difficult to obtain. They included a document proving he was married and one proving he had not been married to anybody else, papers testifying to his good health, and even one detailing the diseases he had in childhood. Finally the writer went away, defeated.

QUICK JOKES

Beside these short skits, the favorite part of the show for Russian televisioners comes at the end when, similar to America's "Laugh-In" show, all the members of the cast deliver quick jokes while dancing.

Sample:

"I woke up last night and saw somebody taking money out of my purse, and I nearly clubbed him with a hammer."

"But why didn't you go ahead and do it?"
"I didn't want to become a widow."

Another typical joke dealt with a man trying to breed an animal to replace mechanical cranes.

"We finally bred a giraffe with a very long neck," he said. But it didn't work out. He starved to death."

"But why didn't you feed him?"
"Because we couldn't find a crane big enough to get the food up there."

It breaks them up in Moscow.

There are at least 21.3 million more Americans today than there were in 1960.

Saga of Rockefeller Center Spectacle

Tree Amid Debris Started NY Tradition

A small tinseled tree moved across the street to be placed shortly after Thanksgiving. The Plaza Skating Pond and to provide a backdrop for the Channel Gardens, the Fifth Avenue entrance to the Plaza.

Workmen clearing land for skyscrapers gathered around the tree on Christmas Eve, 1931, to collect their pay.

The informal ceremony where Rockefeller Center would rise provided inspiration for a holiday spectacle second in fame only to the National Christmas Tree in Washington, D.C.

Celebration of Christmas in the center began formally in 1933 when a tree was decorated, under the supervision of center officials, in front of the 70-story RCA Building, then only 6 months old.

ACROSS THE STREET.

The site for the tree later was

From that first tiny tree rose majestic firs, pines and spruces that topped 90 feet in height. The lighting of each one signaled the start of the holiday season in midtown Manhattan.

Planning for the tree and other holiday trappings in the area is nearly a year-round operation.

New decorations must be tested to withstand weather, often on building rooftops in mid-summer.

MUST CHOOSE TREE

A new tree, too, must be selected, cut and transported

Once it is in place, a six-story scaffold is built around the giant of the forest and workmen wind through its massive boughs up to 6,000 small white lights and 1,200 illuminated red, green, blue and gold bells, each 10 inches across.

Topped with a four-foot white star, the tree awaits the ceremonial throwing of the switch that sets it aglow, usually on the first Thursday of December.

A host of celebrities, choristers, skaters and religious leaders take part in the 15-minute tree-lighting ceremony, a time, too, when the other decorations in the center come to life.

DECKED OUT

For the past four years the

They included a town crier, musicians, men and women bearing food-laden platters and small children dancing merrily around miniature Christmas trees.

Towering candelabras and wrought-iron 18 mps and evergreen entwined with white lights help to light the area.

Only during World War II lights dimmed. But the holiday spirit continued, despite the blackout, with trimmings made from materials not vital to the war effort.

SPECTACULAR

From that first Thursday in December until Sunday after New Year's Day, some 2.5 million midtown office workers, other New Yorkers and tourists view the spectacular tree and its surrounding beauty.

But the story of the green giant doesn't end when its lights go out.

Last year, for example, the trunk and large limbs were donated to the New York area Camp Fire Girls who converted them into rustic bird feeders during summer camp. Instruction was provided by the National Audubon Society.

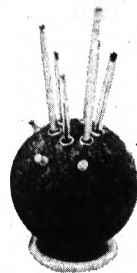

The gift of the logs was in keeping with custom established many years ago when Rockefeller Center began offering the firewood from the famed evergreen to youth organizations for recreational purposes.

In the past the Christmas tree logs have been utilized by such groups as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and a children's home.

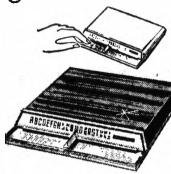

WHITE CHRISTMAS—Even if there's no cooperation from the weatherman, holiday skiers at Aspen, Colo., have snow. Their genial hosts provide the stuff, artificially.

French Mansion for U.S. Envoy Is Far From Finished

PARIS (AP) — It's been called the "Rothschild mansion" and that monstrosity. And though it has consumed nearly all of an $875,000 congressional appropriation, it's still a couple of years and maybe more than a million dollars away from being ready to a state fit for the U.S. ambassador.

The 30-room, three-story mansion on Rue du Faubourg St. Honoré is about a block away from the U.S. Embassy on Avenue Gabriel and less than 100 yards from the Elysee Palace. Perhaps for those reasons successive ambassadors have coveted it as a residence. Bought from the French Rothschilds in 1948 for $1.9 million, the mansion provided office space for more than 100 embassy staff members until 1967.

TOO LITTLE MONEY

That was when the House Appropriations subcommittee agreed to a long-standing request for money to restore and redecorate the mansion as the ambassador's residence.

$875,000, a great deal less than originally requested by the State Department, and much too little to do the job.

At appropriations subcommittee hearings in Washington last March, Frank T. Bow of Ohio, the ranking Republican on the committee, wanted to know "what happened to that monstrosity called the Rothschild house."

What's happened, the Associated Press discovered in an investigation initially marked by official evasiveness, broken appointments and unreturned phone calls, is roughly this:

$1.7 MILLION SHORT

Of the $875,000 appropriations, $810,045 has either been spent or is committed to contractors. One expert estimate is that it will require $1.7 million more to finish the job.

Embassy officials are hopeful that the funds needed to complete work on the 129-year-old house can be raised by private subscription.

If they can't, the State Department will have to leave the property vacant, go back to Congress for the money, or sell it. It's worth nearly $5 million on today's market.

The State Department's building office in Paris let $188,556 in contracts between February and October 1968 for work on the mansion's roof, exterior walls and some plumbing.

This work has been completed and was paid for in alarmed at the prices paid. The Germans recently spent $5 million to restore an 18th-century palace for their ambassador.

Then last May and June further contracts were negotiated for plumbing, heating, electrical wiring, an elevator and a dumb waiter.

These totaled $294,527. The latest contract, for $226,862, was signed Oct. 21 for mechanical work on the interior structure.

This phase of the work should be finished Nov. 24, 1970. With all this work there will remain the enormous and expensive task of redecorating, plastering, painting and furnishing the interior. If the money is raised, whoever is move in in 1972. People aware of the cost of doing business in Paris are not Aides of Ambassador Sargent Shriver stress that the project was conceived "several ambassadors ago" and that Shriver has no great desire to move into the Rothschild house.

The first contract on the work was let three months before Shriver came to Paris.

He now lives in a residence near Trocadero, a couple of miles from the embassy. That house cost $900,000 in 1924 and is worth more than $2.4 million today by State Department reckoning. It would be sold when the Rothschild mansion is finished.

Swiss Making Watches to Please Any Taste

NEW YORK (AP) — lady's watch with handmade works and a case encrusted with diamonds.

So do the prices. There are watches with the soft look, the integrated look, the unisex look. Watches for daytime and evening. For doctors, architects, skiers, mountain climbers, yachtsmen, auto racers, skin divers and world travelers. And the colors may be coordinated with nearly every costume.

The cost: from $30 to $30,000. The $30 watch is the "Flipper," with a changeable bezel or rim that holds the watch crystal to its setting.

INTERCHANGEABLE The case is plastic — either in black, white, yellow, blue or red, with five interchangeable outer rings.

The pulsometer permits rapid reading of the pulse. The tachometer indicates speed, the parking meter ring shows the time lapse on the meter and the universal ring, the various relative times of the world's major cities. The fifth ring is a simple silver band for all occasions.

The $30,000 timepiece is a Feb. 28 when it rolls around.

January Tradition in North Carolina

'Old Buck' Is Another Holiday Visitor

By The Associated Press
Christmas in Dixie, for the most part, is a time of homecoming for adults, wide-eyed excitement for kids and many hours in the kitchen for Grandmother.

But along North Carolina's Outer Banks, it's the time of "Old Buck." And it doesn't arrive until January.

While many southerners dream of a "White Christmas" or actually experience it, "Jingle Bells" and "Dashing Through the Snow" are merely phrases in a Christmas melody. The Christmas season swings into high gear about a week before Dec. 25 with the usual shopping, stocking of the pantry, bringing home a tree (from a supermarket or roadside stand) and putting up the decorations.

PREPARATIONS

Grandmother spends Christmas Eve baking pies and getting ready for her big Christmas dinner, all the while worrying about the "children" battling the throng of homewardbound travelers.

By nightfall on Christmas Eve, the pace has slackened. Families gather in the home to snack on assorted goodies, talk over old times and events since last year and perhaps sample a cup of Christmas cheer.

Christmas morning comes too soon for the adults and agonizingly late for the kids. But the reward is worth the wait, for Christmas morning belongs to the children. There are stockings to be emptied, new toys to be tested and the general bedlam that goes with such activities.

Meanwhile, Grandmother is the adult, and excites the children, and then is gone for another year.

Old Buck's arrival is announced by the beating of a drum. Some say it's been that way since 1776. Some residents also observe Christmas on Dec. 25.

TRADITIONAL TURKEY

For many families, it's the traditional turkey, although baked ham is also popular. And there are oyster roasts along the Outer Banks.

Traditionally, the turkey is not stuffed, as is the custom in other areas. Instead, a savory dressing of bread crumbs, seasoning, turkey drippings and perhaps oysters or chestnuts for variety is cooked in a heavy, black iron container and served alongside the meat.

Dessert may be mince pie or fruit cake, served with ambrosia, a delightful mixture of chopped fresh citrus fruits and grated coconut.

Christmas is over in the rest of Dixie before it begins at Rodanthe, a fishing village on the North Carolina Outer Banks.

Christmas there is celebrated Jan. 5, the eve of the so-called "Old Christmas," or Twelfth Night, of medieval days.

ORIGIN UNKNOWN

No one knows exactly why it's celebrated on that date at Rodanthe, but it's been that way for centuries. Perhaps it's because Rodanthe was settled by the English, and some Outer Bankers still have cockney accents.

At any rate, gifts are exchanged and Santa comes. But the most unusual figure is "Old Buck," the legendary bull of the Cape Hatteras woodlands, who appears only on Old Christmas.

He prances around, amuses

MDs Fight Superstition to Heal Viet Peasantry

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A woman doctor who served with the U.S. armed forces in Vietnam says trying to heal the peasantry is an uphill fight against superstition ingrained for centuries.

Lt. Col. Anna M. Brady, the only orthopedic surgeon of her sex in the Army, cited some odd beliefs she encountered during 10½ months at a hospital in Chu Lai.

• Multiple births are bad luck. A Vietnamese mother who bore twins or triplets might walk off and leave them at the hospital.

• Window screens and baby crib nets intended to bar malarial mosquitoes also prevent the passage of spirits. "They would take them off to let the good spirits in and only put them back to keep the bad spirits out."

Col. Brady, 55, said Vietnamese cultural taboos which hinder doctors often stem from ignorance of what is going on in the modern world.

Many Vietnamese can neither read nor write and there is no radio or television in provincial areas, she said.

Some Vietnamese who reach U.S. Army field hospitals receive medical care for the first time, she said, because there are only 800 physicians in the country.

Col. Brady, who headed an eight-member orthopedic surgery team, said the Vietnamese who come to the Army hospitals are given the same care as the GIs and U.S. taxpayers "are footing a tremendous bill."

"It costs $50 a day to keep someone in an Army hospital and some of the Vietnamese have to stay there a year."

Col. Brady said malaria, intestinal parasites and tuberculosis are the major diseases in Vietnam.

Engineering Confab Set

Area automotive style and body engineers, mechanical and highway design engineers, scientists and educators will meet the Oakland University Dec. 4 and 5 for a two-day conference.

The topic of the Sixth Engineering Dedication Conference is "Photogrammetry, Lasers and Holography," sponsored by the Bendix Research Laboratories, the American Society of Photogrammetry and Oakland University's School of Engineering and Division of Continuing Education.

More than 20 noted speakers and panel members are expected to participate in the conference.

Items of discussion will include the laser interferometer, flatness gauge, noncontacting probe and the industrial laser scanner.

Photogrammetry applications will include laser comparators, point marking, altimeter and a complete laser terrain profile recording system.

Designers and engineers interested in attending the conference may contact the Oakland University Conference Department for registration and information.

Computers Choose Christmas Cards

KANSAS CITY (AP) — What's conceived in a computer, approved by committee and costs about $4 billion a year?

It's your little old Christmas card.

Actually there's nothing little about the Christmas card business. The industry figures on selling about $4 billion worth in the United States alone this year.

The average family is expected to send about 75 cards before the season ends.

And it's not really an old business, either. Henry Cole, and imaginative Englishman, sent the first Christmas card in 1843.

TOP OF GAME

At the top of the greeting card game today is Hallmark Cards Inc., founded in Kansas City by Joyce C. Hall in 1915 and still based here.

Hallmark is a private company and doesn't talk about its money, but outside observers rate its sales at about $200 million a year or better.

And although Hallmark in recent years has branched into "social expression" items like candles, books, puzzles and paper dresses the main business remains greeting cards.

It's a rather a strange trade, a shadowy blend of artistic talent and cold business logic — sort of like a mating of Leonardo

Duncan with J. P. Morgan.

LOOK AHEAD

Like many other businessmen, Christmas card makers have to look ahead. In this case it means anticipating fashions, colors, humor economic conditions, public taste and dozens of other factors some two years in advance.

Hallmark uses computers to help them decide what sort of Christmas greetings the buyers will want two years hence — how many 35-cent contemporary juveniles, how many 50-cent religious.

The firm, incidentally, still makes it a point to provide a five-cent Christmas card, even though few people buy them any more. The best sellers go for around 35 cents apiece, although more expensive ones are available.

Computers not only tell the manufacturer how many cards of each type to make but inform the dealer what he should stock for maximum sales.

FACTORS

The machine takes into consideration such factors as the shop's location, ancestry and economic status of customers and other data.

Christmas cards depicting snow scenes, the computer cautions, don't sell very well in California.

In the Hallmark organization, executives called "line planners" use the computerized advice to decide what Christmas cards to produce.

Then one of about 75 editors writes some lines suitable to fit a general theme. The editor may make up his own verse — or "sentiment" as it's called in the trade — or borrow one from Shakespeare, Kipling or somebody else.

HARD TO FIND

"Actually when you get right down to it," admitted one executive, "it's hard to compose a Christmas greeting that beats what you can find in the Bible."

Messages on Christmas cards

today tend to be short, perhaps only a single line, and avoid the ponderous, ornate phrasing of Grandfather's time. Hallmark this year is even selling cards with a designed cover but blank inside, allowing the sender to write his own season's wishes.

A staff of some 300 designers and artists provide the exterior of the cards after the "sentiment" is composed. Some of the work is original, and some is based on a painting, sculpture or other art work.

Most of the writers and artists are young people. Most of them have a background in literature, English or the arts, although some list such diverse prior occupations as scientists and mathematicians.

SENTIMENT

"We find the buyers are attracted by the outside design, but it's the sentiment inside that determines if they buy the card," said a Hallmark official. "The message has to be what the buyer wants to say — in the way he would say it. We call it the 'me to you' sentiment."

Each card design must win approval of the firm's "style committee" comprised of about 40 tough-minded supervisors. They examine the card carefully to make certain it is in good taste, doesn't contain any unintended double entendres and is worth the price.

If the committee doesn't like the card, it's scrapped or revised until it does pass inspection.

BOLD COLORS

As always, Christmas cards for 1969 rely heavily on traditional scenes of mangers, fir trees, Santa Claus and other familiar patterns. But there's more use of bold, bright "hot" colors such as pink, orange and green.

There also are more cards this season emphasizing the peace theme with doves and so forth. But Hallmark spokesmen are quick to emphasize Christmas has always been associated with the idea of said.

peace, and there's no political intrigue involved.

"Naturally we experiment some each year," said an official of the firm, "but it's limited. We're in the business of satisfying what the public wants."

Although they dream up Christmas cards the year-around, employees of Hallmark customarily devote about a week during the holiday season to this task — simply because the merry atmosphere is thought conducive to good ideas.

GRINDING OUT MORE

So while you're buying, signing and mailing all those 1969 Christmas cards, the people who made them are busy grinding out more — for 1971.

Multiuse Forests May Solve Lack of 'Inner Space'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Multiuse forests are the best answer to this country's dwindling supply of "inner space," a wood resources authority has told a national conservation conference.

Three acres of productive forest land now exist for every U.S. citizen, but population growth will cut this ratio in half before the year 2000, according to Vernon Knight, director of natural resource management for Kimberly-Clark Corp.

In addition, portions of existing commercial woodlands are gradually being converted to new uses as industrial complexes, highways, airports and residential areas.

"The best means of serving more people with less land is a multiple use policy that can provide clear waterways, sufficient wildlife habitat and recreational opportunity as well as tree production," Knight said.

Neiman-Marcus Chief Sees a Peak Gift Year

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A Dallas, Tex., institution has been playing Santa Claus to thousands around the world since it first mailed 25,000 Christmas catalogues to customers in 1941.

This year 600,000 copies of this elegant collection of present-giving ideas went out. And according to the top Kris Kringle for Neiman-Marcus, Edward S. Marcus, board chairman, this will be a peak gift year in the United States.

But there will be a slight difference, Marcus feels. He was in Manhattan to introduce their No. 1 gift offering — a Honeywell 316 minicomputer. Just a little something for the housewife to use to plan her menus or keep tab on her favorite charity's records. All for $19,600.

OF, FOR THE TIMES

The computer, Marcus explains, was chosen because it is an item of and for the times.

It represents the season's buying mood and the catalogue has fewer extravagant, nonsensical gifts than previously despite things like a baby elephant for $5,000 or a tank truck with 100,000 gallons of "his favorite cologne" for $5 million.

"It may seem fun to throw money away," he said. "In view of the times, shopping will be more serious this Christmas. But people are looking for things they don't have and want to be tantalized, such as hankies that are excitingly packaged."

Marcus' favorite off-beat gifts this year are an old-fashioned gumball machine filled with Gelsil, a Mason jar of mint peas and an Italian glass cutting board in smoked gray. That's how shopping will go via Dallas. In Wapakoneta, Ohio, home of astronaut Neil Armstrong, they're selling "moon" cheese.

U.S. Agency Reviving Old-Style Coffeehouse in Vienna

VIENNA (AP) — The U.S. Information Agency is reviving a tradition by turning part of its Amerika Haus into a Vienna coffeehouse.

The coffeehouse once was a cultural center in this Danube city. Franz Schubert and other famous composers wrote music in such places. The waltz began its triumphant tour of the world from the "concert cafes" which dotted imperial Vienna.

In postwar Vienna the colfeehouse became more functional, a place to drink a quick cup of coffee. One after another youngsters can sit down on the floor and discuss things.

The new coffeehouse at the Amerika Haus seeks to be a meeting place in the old tradition. Other attractions will be exhibits, a lecture-concert hall, a library and a room where

New Dolls Do Almost Everything

NEW YORK (AP) — Ten years ago Barbie had just been born. A few baby dolls could say "mama," some drank and wet, a few could walk with help. Most lay mute and motionless in their cradles or little mothers' arms.

They've come a long way since then. Now, there's little they can't do.

The 1969 versions throw kisses, kick up their heels, shake their rattles, grow hair, take showers, walk, talk, swing, sing, dance and laugh.

There's even one, named Pitter Patty, whose heart beats.

THROWS A KISS
Baby Throw-a-Kiss, a Horseman product, brings one hand up to her pursed lips and throws a kiss, making that smacking noise, too.

Baby Kicks, when her arm is squeezed, throws up her legs just like a real baby.

Ideal's Beautiful Crissy grows hair that can be styled anywhere from a short bob to wavy tresses that touch her toes.

April Shower splashes in her tub, bobbing her head from side to side. After she's all soapy, she is rinsed with a shower. Her hair is short for easy shampooing.

NO STRINGS ATTACHED
Betty Big Girl, also born at Ideal, is 31 inches tall and walks, talks, sings and laughs without strings to pull or buttons to push.

Mattel's 1969 line includes three new babies.

Swingies moves her arms and turns her head from side to side as she walks, strolls and breaks into a dance step set to her own tune.

Bouncy Baby is an 11-inch cuddler who waves her baby rattle, nods her head, kicks her heels and swings her arms.

IN FLUFFY TUTU
Dancerina, however, is Matel's pride and joy. She's 24 inches tall, attired in a fluffy tutu, dancers' tights, laced toe shoe and a magic tiara that controls her every graceful move.

To a recording of "The Song of the Flutes" from "The Nutcracker Suite," Dancerina toe dances, turning her head from side to side, pirouettes on either toe, assumes the "Passer le jambe" position with one knee bent and bows gracefully at the end of her performance.

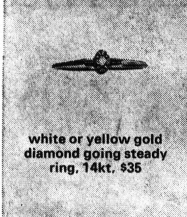

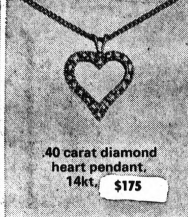

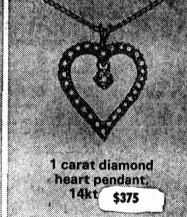

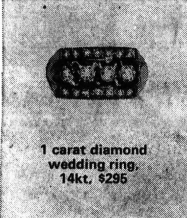

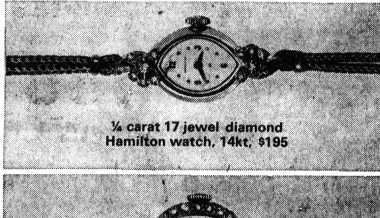

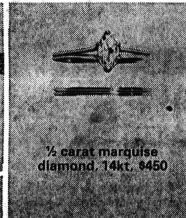

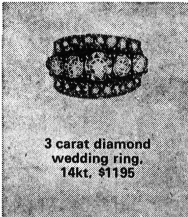

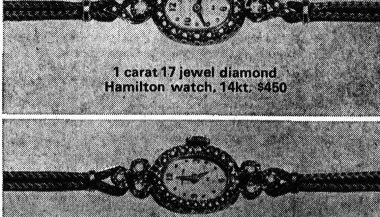

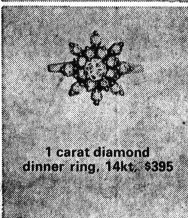

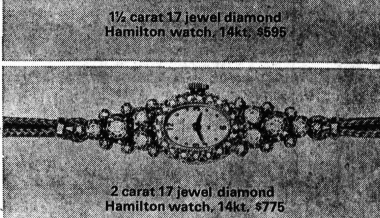

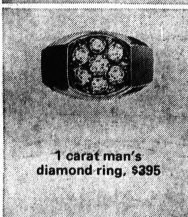

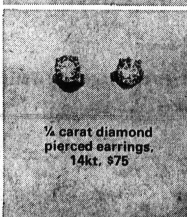

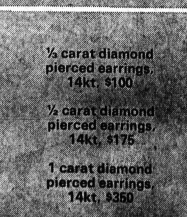

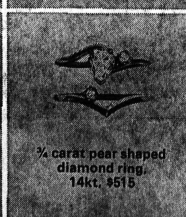

Barbie celebrates her 10th birthday with a movable waist. She, as well as friends Stacy and Christies, can now swing.

And Ken this year will be able to join them in chatter with groovy suggestions for an evening out.

QE 2: What a Way to Travel

for the "in" set who can't live navy communications satellites without the mod trappings of and Italian computers and a life, the QE2 can become a tiller the size of your thumb. home-coat and, Hugh Mulligan, who recently took off for England, traveled aboard England's latest ocean queen and reports on the experience in the following.

By HUGH MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

ABOARD RMS. QUEEN ELIZABETH 2 — For the while kumckie flyer who must go down to the sea again, there is something decidedly new on the North Atlantic run.

Instead of a stiring quarter, sawing away in the salon, there is a rock 'n' roll singer blasting off an all amps in a discotheque, called the "736 Club," forward on the boat deck.

Along with the cathedral hush of the first class library and the cool elegance of the card room, there is now a laundemat, an American-style coffee shop, an art gallery peddling $48,000 seascapes and a boutique pushing Mary Quant body stockings.

The Episcopalian bishop in gaiters, en route to Scotland for the grouse season, still shows up on the boat deck aft for trip shooting, but when he takes turn about the deck, he's apt to fall in with the three go-go dancers or a group of American hippies.

OTHER CHANGES

Other things have changed since Bobby Shaftoe and Somerset Maugham went to sea.

The barriers have come down between first and tourist class, which are now called "deluxe" and "standard," and there is no more cabin class.

The barber has longer hair than the beautician, and so do most of his clients.

LOTS OF TRIPS

By the time the QE2 converted to a one class ship and on to the crew from favorite entered the highly competitive Cunard liners. Beyond the 12- Caribbean cruise field on Nov. 14, she had crossed the Atlantic to contemplate the affection that the British aristocracy has for the serving classes.

Equally heartening is the loyalty they demonstrate to British ships. One grand dame, in her 90's, spent the entire summer plying back and forth between Southampton and New York on the WE2.

Many silver haired matrons however, particularly of American stock, salute the QE2 as a ship with lots of daylight. All the public rooms and all the restaurants are located high in the Plimsoll line, and her 6,000 square yards of deck space provide the largest sheltered open area on any passenger ship.

Some of her kinder rooms, like the discotheque and the all-night theater bar with its bright-red grand piano, elicit criticism from the more traditional minded.

EARLY ODEON?

One called her architecture "early Odeon cinema."

But on the whole the QE2's interior design is done with taste and elegance, salubly lit, beautifully carpeted, dramatically reducing enormous spaces to exquisite rooms — as in the two-deck-high Double Room, the largest public room afloat. Surely the Queens Room; with its white trellised ceiling and flame tweed upholstery, set off by the discreet opulence of its airy draperies, is one of the loveliest.

The ship's lounge anywhere, even if it is the green bust of the Queen does appear to some people "lo make her look slightly seasick."

The younger set, whom chief design coordinator Dennis Lennon mainly had in mind as did the Cunard auditors, finds the QE2 a swinging ship, one that "doesn't die at midnight," even on the eastbound passages when clocks are advanced an hour a night.

Mini-skirted disc jockeys Diana and Sue and a Cockney caterwauler who bills himself as "Russ Clevedon and the New Sound" have become as much a part of the QE2's daily routine as the giant whistle blasts for lifeboat drill and the stately teatime melodies of Basil Stutely and his orchestra in the Queens Room.

ALWAYS AN OUT

Those who like neither or none can always retire to their rooms and select their own music or news from any of six radio channels piped in from the sound control room.

Proof that she has attained her boats of being the swiftest ship on the seven seas is found in the sudden popularity of the Lookout Bar, a far forward nook that was designed to give the amateur navigator the same view as the captain gets from the bridge.

In keeping with this concept, a microphone film reader was installed so the passenger could flick a switch to read a chart of the area through which the ship was passing. The bar has found its main popularity, alas, as an outpatient clinic for hang over sufferers.

A Bittersweet Experience

Carl Reiner Comes Home

By HENRIETTA LEITH
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Someday Carl Reiner is surely going to write a movie or a television show about a kid growing up in a near-slum in the Bronx—playing stickball in the streets, being robbed of his milk money, running to tell a lady four flights up she had a telephone call in the candy store, so she'd give him two cents for candy.

In fact, he wrote the script in a few hours the other day, on location. It was a lot of laughs, but it was also a little sad.

The dingy brick tenement at 665 E. 179th St. is still there, and the candy store is still there, though boarded up, and the delicatessen where he ran every Sunday morning with a nickel to buy a hot dog and sauerkraut is still there, and even the man who sold him the hot dog is still there, but little Carl Reiner isn't there any more.

He still loves hot dogs, but he buys them 50 pounds at a time from Nathan's and imports them by air to California.

"BEING USED"

Reiner went to the Bronx, as ways leave you a nickel to get he frankly told the drama class home at Evander Childs High School, for some publicity shots for "There's where I spent most of the 'Comic,' which he co-wrote with his time-Oakland Place thorod, coproduced, directed There's the dentist's office—he and acted in, with Dick Van Dyke.

"You're being used," he told the kids, and they loved it. But a visit to the old neighborhood was a highly personal experience. His mother and father lived out their lives in the neighborhood, moving from East 179th Street when he was 13 to a new place only four blocks away on Arthur Avenue, and he didn't escape the Bronx until he was a big doorstop in grimy and the tall, stringy youth ready to go to paint is peeling off the ceiling and there are no names on the neighborhood. Reiner gets nosed one it was. It's open, and he, taking passing the Bronx Zoo, looks inside—'No mail.'

where his brother was 'one of the first guys that could talk to animals' across the hall from the old Reiner apartment is the apartment where he was bar-mitzvahed. "We valued—it was vacant and my mother mother didn't want the mess in used to pack us lunch, and she'd tell us 'I'll meet you by the door.'

"And there's the street I used to have to walk to junior high school. That's where all the Mafiosos come from I went to a school where there were very few Jews, mostly Italians, and every day for several years I was robbed. But they would all knave every cage. My mother mother didn't want the mess in used to pack us lunch, and she'd tell us 'I'll meet you by the door.'

Reiner went to the Bronx, as ways leave you a nickel to get he frankly told the drama class home at Evander Childs High School, for some publicity shots for "There's where I spent most of the 'Comic,' which he co-wrote with his time-Oakland Place thorod, coproduced, directed There's the dentist's office—he new principal but Mike Arlen, who taught him health education—which definitely didn't include sex education—is still there. And a boy and a girl who were in his class are now the head of the English department and dean of girls respectively.

He tells the drama class they're lucky.

"For three years I was in this high school and I passed a room that said 'Drama' and I was always secretly interested in drama, but I never told anybody." It wasn't depressing, he insisted, just sad, and only that because all the memories of the two people who were the most important figures in a small boy's life are there, but they are both gone.

But he probably won't go home again. "I'm lucky I came when I did. Another couple of years it'll all be gone."

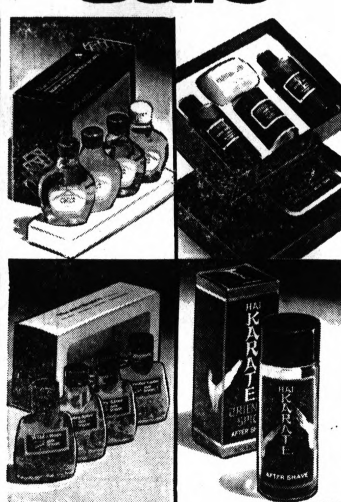

At the high school there's a years it'll all be gone."

Fete for Film Mogul Honors Past Glories

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You couldn't call it a love feast, because Jack Warner wasn't the kind of boss who inspired love. Indeed, none of the men who built movie empires were considered lovable.

But they came out of respect—and a sense of history. The respect was expressed when the screen lit up with great moments of film: Al Jolson in the first sound movie . . . Paul Muni as Zola . . . Humphrey Bogart asking Dooley Wilson to "Play it again, Sam" . . . Errol Flynn dying as Gen. Custer . . . Bette Davis, James Cagney, Judy of the Warner University Class Garland, etc., at the peaks of 1930. He recalled the days their careers

Jack Warner was potentate of Warner Brothers studio when all those achievements were filmed. And so a thousand industry leaders went to the studio last week to give him honor.

They also seemed to be bidding farewell to an era of Hollywood greatness now closed with ed: "Dorothy Parker once remarked that the thing most responsible for the 'good old days' was a poor memory. I disagree. I'm here to pay homage to my professional father."

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who spent 13 years under contract to Warner, gazed over the assemblage and cracked to his old boss: "Look at all those dress extras. This must be costing you said, the dinner was in honor of "a man who has done a great deal for what is left of the motion picture industry."

Jack Valenti, as president of the Motion Picture Producers Association, recalled his tussle with Warner over the salty language in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" Said Valenti: "How I have longed for sweet, delicate 'Virginia'—longed for first sound movie . . . Paul Muni as Zola . . . Humphrey Bogart asking Dooley Wilson to "Play it again, Sam" . . . Errol Flynn dying as Gen. Custer . . . Bette Davis, James Cagney, Judy of the Warner University Class Garland, etc., at the peaks of 1930. He recalled the days their careers when he, Bogart, Flynn and Muni "used to sit around exchanging X-rated anecdotes about our commander-in-chief."

"There aren't many of us left," Bette Davis said ruefully.

PAYING HOMAGE

She had known years of battle with Warner, but she commented with a smile: "Dorothy Parker once remarked that the thing most responsible for the 'good old days' was a poor memory. I disagree. I'm here to pay homage to my professional father."

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who spent 13 years under contract to Warner, gazed over the assemblage and cracked to his old boss: "Look at all those dress extras. This must be costing you

Some Work While Most Play

Yule No Holiday for Many

By DON BATTLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're a fireman working on Christmas Day in the East Village's hippie haven here, you probably cook a turkey dinner in the firehouse and sing carols to ease the lonely feeling of being away from the family.

If you're a conductor punching tickets during Christmas Eve on a Penn Central train in Philadelphia you may receive a smile and a wish for a "Merry Christmas" from cheer-filled passengers who are stone-faced any other time.

"I wish they were warm that way all year round," commented one railroad employee.

"Christmas is a very special day and you get a special feeling of personal service," commented Mrs. Emily Biel, Chicago telephone operator. "I especially enjoy assisting the aged on their holiday calls to their families, often in remote places you never heard of."

TIME OF GIVING

And from Mrs. Marcel Bliske, another Chicago phone operator: "Christmas? It's a time of giving and I feel like I've helped wrap a gift when I complete a call, particularly when it's a serviceman calling home.

Telephone operators, unlike other workers, are probably at their busiest on a holiday — especially Christmas. In Illinois, department officials, are assigned to work both Christmas Eve and Christmas day.

For hospitals across the land, it's just another day with maybe a Christmas tree or wreath in the lobby serving as a gentle reminder of the season.

At Central Receiving Hospital, one police sergeant. "Many in Los Angeles, Christmas represents a paid holiday with a the clerical staff, but just regular shift work for medical workers with no overtime. Extra help is added and an official says an extra eye is kept on the sobriety of the staff: "No use two drunks getting together."

A NICER WORLD

"The world seems nicer on Christmas," comments a New York policeman. "It's just a nice time of the year for most people. No stores are open, and there are no stickups."

Both the firemen and policemen in New York work with a full complement on Christmas and follow a work schedule that has both family and single policemen working on a paid holiday.

"We can swap tours," said cloistered.

Indiana Students Revive Dinner Tradition

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — The scene is a madrigal dinner, a tradition that dates back to the 16th century in England. Each Christmas about 5,500 members of the Indiana University community are on 3,100 pounds of roast beef, 1,410 pounds of flaming turtles and the Atlantic Ocean to plump pudding and wash it down an era of lace and velvet, with 210 gallons of wassail. Litter bearers bring in the main courses as madrigal singers serenade the audience with songs descriptive of the food. All the participants wear plush costumes with ruffled collars and sequined stitching that are worth more than $1,000 each.

SOMETHING TO SING ABOUT — Two Indiana University music students sing the merits of wassail during one of the dozen madrigal dinners the school sponsors each holiday season.

The series of 12 madrigal dinners, which annually sell out the first day mail orders for them are accepted, easily are the most popular history course on the Bloomington campus. The lesson can be eaten as well as seen and heard.

Nothing at a madrigal dinner is done without pomp and ceremony. Soon after the audience is seated, a phalanx of trumpeters barks out a fanfare into Alumni Hall at the I. U. Memorial Union Building.

The madrigal singers, all students at the IU music school who receive academic credit for their participation, enter the hall and the choruses begin. Ears sensitized by rock 'n' roll receive a lesson in close harmony and vocal purity, as little or no instrumental accompaniment is used.

Throughout the dinner a minstrel roams the hall, serenading individual tables and singing special requests.

HUMBLE START
The first madrigal dinner was staged in 1947 for 300 persons. There were no costumes. The tradition grew through the years and expanded to 12 dinners each holiday season which are attended by about 5,500 persons.

"We could sell twice that," said Harold W. Jordan, director of the I.U. union, "but the students don't have the time."

The idea, originated by Jordan and a music school faculty member over a cup of coffee, set the pattern not only for an Indiana tradition but for about 20 other schools throughout the country.

Yule Sparkles at Tiffany's

NEW YORK (AP) — "Polish the silver, Brigitte, and don't forget the toothpaste tube key in the bathroom."

You may not have a Brigitte, or a closet full of Tiffany sterling, but there are status silver stocking buffers that won't strain the budget.

Many of them are at that store on New York's Fifth Avenue. That store where the adventurous, with the wide-eyed, wearment of the Golightly, press their noses to the glass but shy at crossing the threshold.

It's not all 12-carat diamonds.

MANY BAUBLES
Sure, there are many baubles inside that only the wealthy can afford. But there are some things that even they can't have.

Like the Tiffany Diamond black dolls — Baby Nancy, Baby Dee Bee and Dreamy Dee Bee. Baby Dee Bee wears African print clothing.

Shindana was formed in 1968 in the Watts section of Los Angeles as part of Operation Bootstrap. The company is owned, managed and staffed by blacks. Since it opened it has tripled production.

"Our sales have increased, not only because of black awareness," said Herman Thompson, Shindana's marketing manager, "but because we have sold to a good proportion of white customers, too. Many white parents use this as just one way of teaching brotherhood to their children."

Elsewhere in the store are gifts appealing to women, though not in sterling. A place setting of china costs as little as $3 (or as much as $300). Among other gifts are a pair of 14 carat gold earrings for $10 and a china frog for $5.

Jones, Jones, Etc.

HENDERSON, Tenn. (AP) — The Jones boys may be trying to take over Freed-Hardman college here, as five brothers are on the campus with more on the way. The Jones boys, from 19 to 30 years of age, all are from Greenville, S.C., and expect to be joined by Don Jones, another brother, who will enroll in January. Their father, James Jones, will enroll next fall. Four of the five now on the campus are studying for the ministry with one taking engineering.

Now she can be sure that she doesn't have to be blonde and blue-eyed to qualify as the all-American girl."

Other manufacturers of black dolls include Ideal, Remco and Horsman.

BLACK BETSY
Ideal's black dolls include Giggles and an old favorite, Betsy Wetsy. Horsman has about a dozen black dolls from babies in bunnings to dolls that walk and the "teenie bopper."

Remco Industries Inc. formed a separate division to produce ethnic dolls. The 1969 line, called Brown-eye, includes Tumbling Tomboy, Baby Bunny and Baby Know-It-All.

Another toy company, Shindana, which means "competitor" in Swahili, makes three black dolls — Baby Nancy, Baby Dee Bee and Dreamy Dee Bee. Baby Dee Bee wears African print clothing.

MADE IN WATTS — Formed last year as part of operation Bootstrap, Shindana, an all-black firm, finds dolls like this are selling to blacks and whites.

Yule Gifts Reflect 10 Years of Change

NEW YORK (AP) — the demands of an affluent thousands of gifts that didn't exist a decade ago still exist a decade ago will change. find their way under this year's Christmas trees.

Advances in technology, realistic, safer and more changing consumer tastes and sturdy.

Phony fur that looks like the real thing, self-cleaning ovens, infrared broilers, portable refrigerators, facial sauna baths, synthetic wigs and wiglets, panty hose, miniskirts and instant loading, and instant printing cameras have been developed to ease the workload of today's housewife and aid her in good grooming.

STAY FRESH

Drip-dry shirts stay fresh and crisp while the men putter around on sit-down lawn mowers or fiddle with miniature circuit tape recorders, watch cordless portable TVs, clean family cars with portable vacuum cleaners or play tennis with aluminum tennis racquets on synthetic grass courts.

The greatest developments over the decade have been in textiles," said a spokesman for the National Retail Merchants Association.

Technological breakthroughs have made drip-dry, wash and wear fabrics popular for daily clothing. Ten years ago they largely were used for travel apparel.

Women's panty hose, now a top seller, were made possible a few years ago by the development of lighter deniers. In 1959 their closest counterpart was the heavier weave leotards, the spokesman said.

ACCOUNT FOR CHANGE

Industry spokesmen also say developments in the manufacture of plastics and electronic products accounted for much of the product change.

Toys that previously were made of metal or wood now are made of durable plastics that hold their color. Plastics also found their way to items like tableware, games, furniture and iceless backyard skating rinks.

The advent of microcircuitry has given rise to small portable radios, televisions, tape recorders, electric watches, automobile tape decks and intercoms for the home, that when plugged into electrical outlets that allow mothers busy in the kitchen to tune into babies' cries upstairs.

This year video tape recorders will be marketed on a limited basis. They turn on automatically, record a favorite TV show then play back both picture and sound at the viewer's convenience.

SPECIALTY FOODS

Do-it-yourself kits enable hobbyists to build everything from a tiny AM-FM radio to secret surveillance equipment.

There are many specialty foods available now that 10 years ago were unheard of in this country, according to the National Association for the Specialty Food Trade.

These include hippopotamus, bear and elephant meat, french fried butterflies and non-alcoholic champagne. But canned rats' tails have fallen victim to 10 years of change.

Many exercise items that in 1959 were either nonexistent or available only in gymnasiums now are being marketed for the home — balance boards, stationary bicycles, rowing machines and reducing belts, to mention a few.

PHYSICAL FITNESS

The increased interest in physical fitness is reflected in the comparison of Sears Roebuck and Co. mail order catalogs. Ten years ago the major item was bar bells. Today they run the gamut.

Although the exact number of new products developed in the past 10 years is incalculable, one indication of the changes is a recent estimate by the J. C. Penney Co.

Penny's says 80 per cent of the soft goods it sells today did not exist even five years ago.

Silent Alarm Fails to Help

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Porter, an actor, reporter having had a spat with his wife one evening with the result that they were not speaking.

When they retired for the night, Porter wrote a note to his wife asking that she call him at 8 a.m.

The next morning, when he awoke at 8:30, he found a note from his wife saying: "It is now 8. Get up."

Early Thanksgivings Celebrated in Wild Fashion

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — 1700's, say some history books, preferred drinking, romancing Indian women, singing in taverns, even ribald occasions for carrying on in Tom Jones fashion.

The preachers, public officials and proper Philadelphians didn't want it that way.

But the American men of the tion, the one on July 24, 1744, stemmed from a news event of national significance.

Gov. George Thomas, thankful for the victory of troops of King George II over rebellious Bonnie Prince Charles of Scotland, penned a statement and ordered it printed, perhaps by

"I do hereby order that the majestates and other officers of justice be especially careful to prevent all immoralities or riotous disorders whatsoever."

The proclamation precedes by 43 years the proclamation of the first national Thanksgiving on Nov. 26, 1789.

WITH SOLEMNITY

The proclamation continued: "And that the said day may be observed with a solemnity becoming our Christian profession, and not as has been too often the practice with drunkenness and other kinds of licentiousness, to the dishonor of God and to the reproach of the Christian name . . .

Watch Is Hot

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — None of the visitors noticed the new watch worn by 5-year-old Donna Evans. Finally, the child turned to her mother and remarked: "Oh my, it's so hot in my new wristwatch."

Magnavox TOTAL AUTOMATIC COLOR TV

Since the dawn of Color TV, man has been plagued by green and purple people. Night after night, they haunt millions of TV viewers—transforming warm human beings into ghouliah creatures. Now a minor miracle has happened. Magnavox developed a truly remarkable innovation called Total Automatic Color. TAC keeps the color right all the time—automatically. Even when you switch channels or the scene changes (headache time on other makes, because that's when color usually turns bad). TAC eliminates the nuisance of jumping up and down to fix the color. TAC also keeps all pictures perfectly tuned—automatically. Just set it and forget it. And, the new Magnavox Bright Tube makes pictures a lot brighter. So green and purple people needn't haunt millions of viewers any longer—only other TV makers!

THE WINNER — Leonard Sampiere is shown holding his picture of a snowman that was the winning entry in a Christmas card contest sponsored by the National Association for Retarded Children. His snowman has green eyes and a red nose, and white snowflakes are falling against a white background. This card and several other prize winners are being sold nationally in a fund-raising effort.

Christmas Greetings Created by Retarded

NEW YORK (AP) — Leonard Sampiere's mind isn't quite so sharp as that of most other 11-year-olds. But he's a whiz with paints and brushes — at least good enough to win a national art contest.

Leonard's picture of a snowman with green eyes and red nose and white snowflakes falling against a white background was the winning entry in a Christmas card contest sponsored by the National Association for Retarded Children.

His picture and those that took second and third prize joined 16 commercial artists' Christmas greetings being sold by the NARC to raise money for research.

The 20-year-old organization first sold Christmas cards in 1968 but got a late start so only grossed $10,000. With the original art added this year, and even more expected next year, NARC hoped to match the $500,000 annual sales of its British counterpart.

THROUGHOUT NATION

Children in special classes, institutions and sheltered workshops throughout the nation tried their hand at the easel.

The entries from 1,300 local chapters were then narrowed to 24 finalists — two from each of 12 regions.

'Bowl Blackout' Victory for Bleary-Eyed Wives

By CHARLES MOREY

The apocalyptic news that the networks have canceled all New Year's Day football bowl telecasts sent shock waves through the nation.

In New York, Madison Avenue reacted immediately. Agitated account executives and alarmed sponsors stretched the usual two-hour luncheon period to four to discuss the emergency. Wall Street recoiled but rallied at the close.

At the United Nations, which momentarily forgot its other problems, delegates from the African and Asian countries, where women play a lesser part than in the U.S., expressed their sympathy.

In the lounges, however, many Afro-Asians were rejoicing over the fact that they have no problems, either with television or wives.

HAILED AS VICTORY

The bowl blackout was hailed as a clear-cut victory for the militant organization known as "Bleary Eyed Wives of America," a group formed two years ago when 14 football games were shown on TV on a single weekend.

Thousands of cheering women, all believed to be BEWOA members, stormed through the streets of New York in a victory parade while men, single or otherwise, watched in sullen silence.

Other interested organizations were careful in their comments. BOOMS, the benevolent order of single men, issued a succinct statement: "See!"

BLAH, a group of single gals who believe "Bachelor Ladies Are Happier," took a more politic stand. A spokesman said

Restaurant Thieves Treated Roughly

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — In the past five years, Harry Sam's fish-and-chips cafe here has been broken into 22 times.

Sam has shot dead seven of the intruders. Nearby shop owners, mystified that attempts to steal from the cafe continue, believe some sort of dare must be involved — "a form of Russian roulette." Said one:

"No burglar in his right mind would break into that shop. We have never been troubled by burglaries in our shop, and I can only think it's a kind of game the shopbreakers have," said one.

The shootings have caused considerable controversy. In Parliament, Mrs. Helen Samman referred to Sam as "trigger-happy" and called him "a self-appointed execution squad."

that while BLAH members did not care too much for football, they saw no reason to interfere with the leisure hours of American men.

'DEPLORE COERCION'

"At least not at this time," she added significantly.

The statement from the American Civil Liberties Union struck some observers as being a shade ambivalent.

"We deplore the kind of coercion the BEWOA used," the statement noted "but most of us are married men also."

The national headquarters of the BEWOA in New York jubilantly reported requests for British Auxiliary from soccer-weary women in England, Wales and Scotland. The Irish however were censoring all dispatches dealing with the firm.

SWAMPED WITH OFFERS

In Buckeye, Ohio the petite matron who kicked off this unique cause celebre one short week ago Melody Bligh was swamped with offers for endorsements and personal appearances on TV.

A neighbor said the strawberry blonde who is only 4 feet 10 and 90 pounds, told her, "I'm giving the captain one more chance to change his mind about New Year's Eve."

Capt. Buck Bligh, Melody's husband and a former commander of a Great Lakes tugboat was said to be standing firm.

Capt. Bligh touched off the controversy when he told his wife he could not take her out on New Year's Eve so that he could rest his eyes for football TV on the holiday. The matter quickly escalated and became a bitter dispute.

NO ANSWER

One official of the Buckeye chapter of BEWOA told a huddling to agree on a future newspaperman, "When the poor policy with a view toward negotiation with the BEWOA for a night out so they could band us, she was on the verge of next New Year's Day. There together and form one.

None of us had an answer when Mrs. Bligh sobbed, "What's keel-hauling anyway?" Mrs. Bligh's problem was put before a hastily convened national board of directors of the BEWOA in New York and the now-celebrated ultimatum was served on the networks.

The "Nets" capitulated before the solemn promise by the wives that they would never watch daytime television again if the bowl games were televised on New Year's Day.

Network heads are reported huddling to agree on a future organization, along the lines of the BEWOA. However, they were having difficulty in getting a night out so they could band us, she was on the verge of next New Year's Day. There together and form one.

was some doubt about their chances for an agreement, however. Thousands of triumphant wives were talking about new targets.

"BASEBALL VULNERABLE" "We've always considered baseball vulnerable," said a BEWOA official. "I personally don't know a single wife who thinks that the reserve clause is constitutional."

One of the results of the big blackout is expected to be the formation of a husband's organization, along the lines of the BEWOA. However, they were having difficulty in getting a night out so they could band us, she was on the verge of next New Year's Day. There together and form one.

Man Can Find Hope Amid Strife

By THE REV. ROBERT C. DODDS

(Mr. Dodds is director of ecumenical affairs of the National Council of Churches.)

What relation, if any, exists between the ancient, oft-affirmed Christmas hope and the contemporary turmoils which are shaking so many churches to their foundations?

The questions, if we can look at it honestly, may clarify both the essence of Christianity and also the nature of the turbulence in the churches.

Honesty is one of the nerve ends at issue. Grave questions of credibility exist; an apparently kept clergy, paid to affirm what chokes in many modern men with disbelief; a laity demanding personal ease and comfort from a religion originating in controversy; a church claiming faithfulness to a Lord who had no earthly possessions and who was killed in ignominy, while it guards rich properties and lives respectfully. Can we be honest about matters such as these?

The best publicized turmoils in Christianity have to do with such volatile issues as priestly celibacy and social justice and papal pronouncements.

Meanwhile, the quiet agonies of many churchgoers may form reservoirs of unrest which are equally serious.

LOOKING FOR HOPE

The hundreds who are looking for hope and reaching for reality in belief, who are troubled by Christian triumphalism, who find it hard to sing the words of most hymns — can we be honest about the situation of the thoughtful and devout people who wish they could be Christians?

Pope John XXIII popularized the notion that, while truth is eternal and immutable, it must always find expressions which are credible to particular people in specific places and times.

Perhaps we are living in a land and at a time when fresh expressions of Christianity are struggling to be born. The season of Christmas should remind us that agony accompanies any birth.

If we can be honest, we may find ourselves recovering lievable simplicities out of the Gospel: that the Mighty One has chosen a child rather than an army as his instrument, that silent and hidden forces work their beautiful mysteries, that it is possible to trust, that there may be something real which the numbed heart can recognize as love, that these are the matters which invest life with meaning and which prevail even over death.

TIMES OF TURMOIL

If our times of turmoil return us to what is good, though apparently frail, then we will be aware of the genius of the Christmas hope. And we can be grateful for the turbulence that brings hope to life.

Tourists who visit Taiwan are mostly Japanese, followed by Americans and Chinese from overseas.

NY Cathedral Shares Mass With Millions

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Patrick's Cathedral becomes the parish church for millions on Christmas Day as Catholics commemorate the humble birth of Jesus Christ with midnight mass.

An estimated 3,000 worshippers gather inside the Fifth Avenue church for the first mass of Christmas Day while viewers in more than 150 cities throughout the United States watch the ceremonies on television.

Iced poinsettias decorate the cathedral's high altar. Huge green wreaths adorn its thick stone pillars. The flames of six giant red candles flicker in the sanctuary brightly lit for television cameras.

The 78-man Cathedral Choir fills the cavernous block-square church with Christmas carols.

MASS TELECASTED

The incongruity of 12-foot high scaffolding for color T.V. cameras and lights amid the front pews is lost after 20 years of telecasting midnight masses.

Worshippers in the cathedral who once thought the makeshift platforms were a distraction now take satisfaction in sharing the liturgical ceremony with viewers at home. Three other cameras — in the choir loft, behind the pulpit and in front of the sanctuary — also go virtually unnoticed as the Christmas spirit unites all in Christian kinship.

Seating for the mass is by invitation only. After the pews are filled, some 700 other worshippers crowd into the side aisles and rear foyer.

Hundreds more, heavily bundled against the cold, stand behind police barriers outside, content with hearing the prayers and hymns over a loudspeaker.

INVITATIONS

Those with invitations are mostly parishioners who work in the nearby midtown Manhattan offices and department stores. Others include out-of-towners who request tickets two months in advance.

At midnight, the five concelebrants of the Pontifical Mass march in a procession to

Man Is Attacked by Frenzied Birds

FRANSCHHOEK, South Africa — Frenzied birds attacked mountaineer Roy Allen as he crouched under a rock overhang high on a mountainside.

Allen said he was about 300 feet from the summit of a mountain above his farm near here when the birds, similar to swallows, swooped down on him "like diver-bombers" for 15 minutes. "It was a terrifying experience. Fortunately I was sufficiently sheltered for them to veer within a foot of me, but it was rather uncomfortable while it lasted."

CREATIVE TOUCH — This year, neckwear is the creative touch in any man's wardrobe. Ties are more fun to buy because there is so much more variety in color and pattern than in the past. Surface interest gives the material depth. The new ties are beauties.

LET'S TALK TURKEY.

Peacock Revolution Puts End to White Christmas

NEW YORK (AP) — For conviction that he would receive after have lotion with all the generations the male animal (three ties, each to be worn delicacy of formaldehyde. has gritted his teeth and face) and; a white shirt with sleeves. But the fashion breakthrough in the Christmas season with grim too long or too short, and an of the last decade — a period in which the average man began to accept cosmetics, hairstyling, brightly colored shirts, stylish lounge suits, shaped hats, fitted coats and distinctive footwear — protends more satisfying harvests.

LEISURE-TIME FOOTWEAR — An elegant velvet at-home slipper, boots in hand-stitched curry calf or fleece-lined pigskin, the classic evening pump and a suede sneaker round out the style-conscious man's leisure-time footwear wardrobe.

Shopping Can Be Fun, Fellas

NEW YORK (NEA) — It hits: The promise - her - anything slogan still holds this season. Different places — for some it's at Perfume leaves her and you an important board meeting, for others, on the jam-packed commuter train or at their mother-in-law's house.

Suddenly the word "Christmas" leaps into mind, the image of a wife or cooat will warm her heart. Fake sweetheart flits past and the old fur bags and hats make her sinking sensation hits the smile, too. Short skirts are here to stay and nothing accents them better than shining, shimmering panty hose. These make a great gift.

Christmas, Everyman reasons, is a time of joy and peace and happiness. Then why are his palms sweating?

Because he views the world of women's gifts as an impenetrable jungle set with frightening traps for male shoppers: Sweet little old ladies who turn into umbrella-wielding monsters in a department store; counters of outrageously priced, unidentifiable objects; crowds of careening females who all look as though they know where they're going, so why doesn't he?

USE IMAGINATION Listen, fellas, Christmas doesn't have to be that way. All you need is a vivid imagination: "If you were a woman, what would you want for Christmas?" Then fit your imagination to your budget.

With the Age of Aquarius, look returns the argyle. The Ashears has been shipping by lot difference: materials that stretch or dry quickly so there are no pinched toes as with many of the old woolen argyles.

Differences between Brand A and Brand B may be only in the product of advertising art, so it sometimes comes in packaging to sell socks. Here, Burlington Mills has come up with socks in a six pack or in a wicker basket.

The National Footwear Institute says shoe styles are fun, refreshing and have a range appealing to the ultraconservative businessman or the most adventurous young Turk.

BURSTING COLORS Ralph Lauren, Mr. John and Christian Dior are among the houses with ties four to five inches wide. The fabrics, colors, designs are too many to describe, but they have brains.

WITH A BUDGET But for those with apple trees and a budget to consider, take heart. The great designs are there in the ready-to-wear field with such imposing names as Christian Dior, Pierre Cardin, Bill Blass and John Weitz. And at prices one can afford. Not cheap by any means, but for someone special, well...

The Cardin label is inside his standard blazer in the traditional blue or new oatmeal. And his emblem is on the outside — the buttons have the horse's head motif associated with the Cardin house.

Of special excitement, though, is Cardin's knitted, bleated suit. Dior has something new this season that set fashion editors all abuzz, as they say in the trade. It is a handsomely fashioned double-breasted suit called a six-button, one-to-button. The coat is closed only with the bottom of the half-dozen buttons. The jacket also may be worn with sport slacks.

SHIRT SUIT Ralph Lauren, creator of the four-inch Polo tie that multiplies much of its line up through the neck section to create a longer knot, has branched out. Among this season's creations is a shirt suit — matching shirt and trousers to be worn with or without a blazer.

Pendleton, an Oregon firm, has come up with a combination for the cold weather sports spectator. It's a woolen glen plaid belted coat with well-pockets and bal collar. It has a matching stadium blanket packed in a handy carrying case.

The big thing on inner (or next to skin) man this year could be underwear in the shades of all the widest colored studded skate key on a chain/shirts. BVD and Reis are for display, not use. Chain belts, among the manufacturers who vinyl raincoats and signature have come out with what scarves also are "with it" for amounts to a rainbow selection of shorts and knit shirts.

Now, when Christmas comes to mind, you can tell your stomach to relax.

Spools and Imagination Team Up for Good Gifts

Whether the teen-ager of the Telephone dialers, candle house is a 4-ft. champion sticks, straw flower holders, seamstress or just keeps a rivets, bulletin board push pins, sewing kit handy to catch rip-toys and gift wrappings may be shed seams and replace buttons, whipped into whimsical gifts for she has the makings for some family and friends, says Ann imaginative, inexpensive Christmas gifts. The basic ingredient is the cast-off thread spool.

Tree Provides Holiday Feast for the Birds

This Christmas tree is strictly for the birds. Dried bread often thrown on snow-covered lawns will keep birds from starving during the winter months but it doesn't contain the proteins, vitamins, fats and carbohydrates needed to keep them in good health. Nor does it help them to feather well to withstand the rigorous weather.

So on a favorite outdoor corner tie popcorn balls filled with bird seed. Add doughnuts, cookies, apples and suet for a feast for the fine feathered friends.

An alternative to that smorgasbord is Bird Chleb, made and sold by the Pauline Fathers and Brothers at the National Shrine of Our Lady of Czestochowa near Doylestown, Pa.

INGREDIENTS Bird Chleb contains coarse whole wheat; pumpernickel; crushed cracked corn; crushed nuts; suet; a blend of millet, milo and sunflower seeds; sugar; salt; raisins and dried fruit.

It also contains ground oyster and egg shells that provide calcium and phosphorus and serve as grit which birds need to aid digestion.

If a confeder isn't available, the bird treats may be hung from a window or sill or on the porch or patio so the whole family may enjoy watching their guests.

"THANKSGIVING DINNER" — Frederick Blaney, 2, holds tightly to a turkey leg that's almost as big as he is. He and other youngsters were treated to the turkey at a Louisville, Ky., elementary school where they went for medical examinations.

Day for Sharing Across the U.S.

By The Associated Press
From senior citizens invited to the White House to the child with drumstick at the family table, Americans today observe Thanksgiving. Many share their bountiful board with the lonely and less fortunate.

It is a day of religious observances, family reunions and the traditional rich feast that has marked the occasion since the Pilgrims in Plymouth Colony gave thanks for their blessings in 1621.

President Nixon and his family invited 200 senior citizens from Washington homes for the aged to share Thanksgiving dinner at the White House. "These folks are dancing on air," said the president's press secretary.

Just want to see everything I can get? Even if I don't eat," said Lessee Mae, 75, from White Plains, Md. "I'll get a chance like this."

The Salvation Army planned to dish out 2,000 turkey dinners to needy New Yorkers and had a ton of turkey ready to cook in Chicago. The Union Rescue League set places for 700 lonely men in Chicago.

Huntington, W. Va., a family of 13 will have a turkey dinner and all the trimmings thanks to policeman Kenneth Marcom, who says he tries to help the hungry because he remembers the Depression.

"Known as the 'Doughnut Cop,' because he passes out the sugared cakes to children along his beat, Marcom found the mother, grandmother and 11 children in need and told a doughnut shop, which collected the money for the inner.

Police in Chicago's South Chicago district were handing out 100,000 bags of food free to the aged in a "Try a Little Kindness" program. Each of the 243 policemen in the district gave one dollar and merchants donated 100 hams and 75 pumpkin pies.

Holiday Preempts Work on Ed Reform

LANSING UP — Turkey and trimmings took precedence over education reform negotiations today as bargaining lawmakers recessed their closed-door discussions for the Thanksgiving holiday.

But talks were scheduled to resume tomorrow with a revised version of the $1 billion-plus state school aid bill—still including $25 million for parochial—ready for presentation to the 24-member committee.

Separate discussions also were planned on tax measures to pay the school-aid price tag.

House Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit, said the talks "probably" would continue for at least one day over the weekend, as lawmakers try to prepare something "substantial" to present the Legislature when it reconvenes Tuesday.

The aid bill was tentatively agreed on by bipartisan negotiators would add some $4.8 million to the version already passed by the Senate. Increases would be mostly in the area of "specials" including added funds for intermediate school districts, transportation and special education.

DISADVANTAGED FUNDS CUT

In addition, the subcommittee working on the aid bill revision reduced the $25 million Senate figure for culturally disadvantaged areas by $5 million and specified that amount be used solely for remedial reading programs.

The parochial appropriation figure remained unchanged.

Another subcommittee decided yesterday to refer the question of local school district reorganization to the House Education Committee — a group both Ryan and House Minority Leader Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, said has "most expertise" to study the matter.

The subcommittee also decided to refer the controversial question of what to do with the State Board of Education — Milliken wants to abolish it — to the entire negotiating committee.

Egypt Rejects U.S. Peace Plan

By The Associated Press
Egypt has officially rejected the latest U.S. proposal for peace in the Middle East, a Cairo newspaper reported today.

The authoritative newspaper A I Gumihrayya said Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad had sent U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers a note saying Egypt totally rejects "the principle of a piecemeal settlement" and believes any acceptable peace proposal must deal with the Middle East issue as a whole.

The United States has not made its proposal public, but sources in Cairo say it calls for a bilateral settlement between Israel and Egypt, followed by talks to reach agreements among Israel and other Arab nations.

The United States presented the proposal to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin in Washington on Nov. 4. There has been no report of a response by the Soviets.

The Israeli military command said today Arab gunners shelled an Israeli settlement on the occupied Golan Heights last night, while at the Suez Canal two Israeli vessels were killed and three wounded in a mortar exchange.

Syrian artillery opened up on the farmer-settlement of Nahal Golan at the southern end of the Golan Plateau, but caused neither damage nor casualties, a spokesman said. "The Israelis returned fire," he added.

Meanwhile, the military said an Arab guerrilla was killed in a clash with an army patrol in the Jordan valley 27 miles north of the Dead Sea.

There were no Israeli casualties in the skirmish, a spokesman said.

At the southern sector of the Suez Canal, mortar and light arms duels throughout the afternoon killed two Israeli soldiers and wounded three others, the military said.

Israeli jets thundered across the Canal today to hit Egyptian targets in the central and southern sector, a spokesman said later. He added all the planes returned safely.

Apollo 12 Moon Rocks Larger

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Scientists say rocks brought back from the moon by the Apollo 12 astronauts are larger than those returned by the Apollo 11 crew in July.

The first part of the collection is dominated by softball-sized stones and includes some more than six inches long and five inches in diameter. All are covered with fine gray dust.

"The astronauts were asked to bring back big rocks if they could, and they didn't cheat us one bit," said Dr. Dan Anderson, curator of the Lunar Receiving Laboratory.

The first of two chests filled by Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean was opened at the laboratory last night. Inside were two bags of rocks, a 14-inch ore tube that had been pushed into the lunar soil to gather subsurface material, and considerable dark moon dust.

Included in the collection were two of the largest lunar crystalline rocks seen so far. Each was more than five inches in length and weighed between three and four pounds.

OU's Varner Will Speak at Kingswood

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Durward B. Varner, Oakland University chancellor, will address Kingswood School students Dec. 3 during the school's career-day seminar, "The Modern Woman in the World of Work."

Representatives from 12 professional fields of work available to women will also address the 10th through 12th grade girls from 8:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. in the school's auditorium.

They will discuss their general backgrounds, including education and experience and job opportunities available to women.

Frances Donohue Hanson, Kingswood School headmistress, said, "We anticipate that this day will be an excellent adjunct to our college counseling program as well as an event of great meaning in itself."

AN OPPORTUNITY

"The total presence of these women cannot be other than formative as well as informative to young girls seeking models for their future," Mrs. Hanson continued.

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell and Mrs. Donald E. Young are program coordinators.

Each student will attend one seminar on either the performing or the environmental arts. Among those representing these fields are Mrs. Irving Berg, modern dance teacher; Mrs. Basil Briggs, photographic model; Ruth Joyce, fashion designer; and Mrs. Linn McGrade, curator at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Students may then choose seminars in two of three fields to attend. They are education, business and government social service.

Members Of The 4th Infantry Division Pray On Thanksgiving Eve In Vietnam

Way Seen Clear for New Secret Talks in Paris

From Our News Wire

PARIS — Diplomatic sources said today Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has cleared the way for new secret peace talks involving only U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators.

Lodge's remark yesterday that the United States was willing to discuss with Hanoi a coalition government for South Vietnam was the signal of readiness to resume private talks interrupted last August, the sources said.

Within hours after Lodge's statement, a South Vietnamese government spokesman in Saigon said South Vietnam would never accept a coalition without free elections. The Vietcong said it would approve new secret talks.

Lodge's statement after the 44th session of the Paris talks yesterday followed allegations by Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy that earlier private talks broke up in August because Lodge refused to discuss anything but mutual troop withdrawals.

READY TO TALK

"We are ready to talk about anything and obviously we hope they are ready to listen to anything," a Lodge spokesman said.

Lodge said in a prepared statement later he wanted to clarify the statement about a coalition.

"I definitely was not advocating that we negotiate the imposition of a provisional coalition government on the south Vietnamese," he said. "I was trying to show that while nothing about South Vietnam can be negotiated without the South Vietnamese government, anything, including political measures, can be talked about between North Vietnam and ourselves."

Meanwhile, in Washington, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam is "irreversible."

OUT OF COMBAT

"We are withdrawing troops. We are going to Vietnamize the war. We are going to get American soldiers out of combat. And that is irreversible," Rogers said Wednesday.

Commenting on the war in an interview for the National Educational Television Network, the secretary said the United States has learned this lesson in Vietnam:

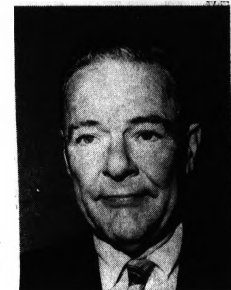

"We are not going to fight any major wars on the mainland of Asia again unless we have the American public and the Congress behind us."

In Vietnam, about 100 American GIs and a handful of military doctors and nurses at an Army hospital in Pleiku skipped Thanksgiving Day dinner today to protest the Vietnam war.

HOT TURKEY DINNERS

A spokesman said there were no reports of similar incidents elsewhere as thousands of U.S. troops paused for hot turkey dinners that helicopters took to forward bases.

The U.S. Command reported light fighting across the country, but in its weekly report said casualties on all sides increased last week.

1-Day Furlough for Some at GM

About 13,000 General Motors Corp. employees in Pontiac's three plants will be off work tomorrow as a result of a GM decision to close 13 of its assembly plants across the country for the day.

Another 23,000 will work a normal day following their Thanksgiving holiday.

The production cut back was termed "schedule adjustment" by GM, but other automotive sources described it as a move to bring rising inventories in line with sales.

At Pontiac Motor Division, the short workweek will be in effect tomorrow only, according to personnel and public information department spokesmen.

LESS THAN HALF

Less than half of the hourly rated employees — or about 8,000 workers — will be affected. The one-day layoff does not affect salaried employees and some 8,600 hourly workers, according to company spokesmen.

Fisher Body, which supplies the bodies for Pontiac cars, is geared to Pontiac Motor production and will cut back accordingly. About 4,000 employees will be affected.

GMC Truck and Coach Division is expected to operate nearly a normal workday tomorrow, with only 1,000 of its 13,000 employees affected in the cutback.

All employees not working tomorrow will draw 80 per cent of their paycheck, providing they've been employees a year, a company spokesman said.

OTHERS AFFECTED

In eight other GM assembly plants the work schedule was unaffected. In those cut back tomorrow, the normal workweek is expected to resume Monday.

Car sales have been running behind production in recent months. A trade publication estimated dealers began November with 1,357,833 unsold cars in stock.

This represents a 45-day supply, compared with a 38-day supply on Nov. 1 a year ago, it was reported.

Waterford Students Get Advice

Waterford Township school officials are advising juniors and seniors in high school to get good grades if they want to get into a college.

This advice comes in the wake of Tuesday's defeat of a proposed school tax hike.

If the one-year, 9-mill proposal had passed, secondary students would have returned to a six-hour day in January, according to Dr. Gene Megivern, coordinator for secondary schools.

Because of a shortage of funds, 8,498 junior and senior high school students are on five-hour schedules for the second straight year. They are missing one elective per semester.

1,100 TO GRADUATE

Secondary students will continue on shortened schedules, school officials have said. About 1,100 students, including adults, in three high schools are expected to graduate in June.

But it is almost definite now, says Megivern, that Township and Kettering high schools will lose accreditation in March. And school officials say they won't be able to apply for accreditation for the new Mott High School.

"What this means for students expecting to graduate this June is that they will have more difficulty getting into colleges," Megivern said.

"Most of the graduates — excluding the exceptional ones — may have to take extra tests to get accepted. If there are two students of equal ability, one from an accredited high school and the other from a nonaccredited school, the accredited school's student will get accepted."

SOME 'PREDICAMENT'

High school juniors will likely be in the same predicament unless a millage increase is passed before next summer, according to Megivern.

The coordinator said the regional accrediting agency — North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools — has indicated to him the two high schools would lose accreditation at the agency's annual meeting in March unless additional millage is passed.

It usually takes one year from the time of application to get accreditation back, he pointed out.

Waterford high schools have received two warnings from the agency that they aren't meeting the minimum standards of six hours per day.

VOTE CERTIFIED

In a related item, the school board of canvassers met last night to certify the election results. They made only minor changes.

The official results are:

Two Inches of Snow Expected

Thanksgiving Day travelers are warned of possible hazardous driving conditions due to snow flurries today.

According to the weatherman, about two inches of snow is expected. Tonight's temperature should dip down between 15-20.

For the next five days, temperatures will average five degrees below the normal high of 35 to 42 and normal low of 20 to 29.

A warming trend is forecast over the weekend, then temperatures will turn colder the first part of next week.

Precipitation for the period is expected to total around one to two-tenths of an inch in showers and snow flurries over the weekend.

Senators Charge Cover-Up of Massacre, 300-700 Toll

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two senators charge that military officers in Vietnam deliberately covered up the alleged My Lai massacre, and one says the ultimate count may be 300 to 700 dead.

The senators, members of the armed services committee, made their charges after Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor gave committees of both houses the most definitive official account to date of the March 1968 incident.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., said after the closed-door session he is convinced there was a "premeditated cover-up of this incident." He added, however, that he thought the cover-up doesn't go to the ultimate top leadership in Vietnam. It does go fairly high up the chain of command in the field structure.

'300 TO 700 CIVILIANS'

Sen. Stephen Young, D-Ohio, said officers in Vietnam told men of the 11th Infantry Brigade who were in the My Lai area not to write to their congressmen. The senator said officers "whitewashed it," but that "murder on such a huge scale, 300 to 700 civilians, cannot be whitewashed."

Resor said the Army is still investigating "the extent to which the members of Company C were acting pursuant to orders from their company commander or higher headquarters when they destroyed My Lai's buildings and fired upon its unresisting inhabitants."

The secretary said the question of orders was one of the "critical issues" remaining to be resolved.

Resor said it may be several months before all the allegations in the incident are evaluated.

ADEQUACY OF PROBES

Lt. Gen. William R. Peers is seeking to determine "the adequacy of both the original investigation and its subsequent review," Resor said.

One officer, 1st Lt. William L. Cabey, Jr., has been charged with premeditated murder in the case. S. Sgt. David Mitchell has been charged with assault with intent to kill and "There are at least 24 former members of Company C, nine of who are still on active duty, but must be deemed subjects of the continuing criminal investigation," Resor said.

The secretary said the original investigation, right after the March 1968 incident, ended when "the Brigade commander (Col. Oren K. Henderson), concluded that approximately 20 non-combatants had been inadvertently killed by preparatory fires and in cross fires between friendly and enemy forces, and that the reports of unnecessary killing of civilians were merely another instance of a common Vietcong propaganda technique and were groundless — a view apparently shared with the Vietnamese district chief.
