Action on Survey of City Hospital Gets Under Way

Special Session Held by Board of Trustees on Recent Study

Harmony replaced hassle as the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees met last night in a special session to take action on a recently completed management study of the city hospital.

Last Thursday night, dissent among trustees sent one member out of the 3½-hour meeting and brought a demand of action from Mrs. B. B. Roush as hassle after hassle prompted adjournment.

The first recommendation which the board will suggest to the City Commission involves "strengthening it (the board) by the addition of persons with large scale legal, business, industrial and financial experience." This was recommended by the consultants who conducted the $5,707 survey.

The hiring of an assistant director, as suggested by the analysis, was given top priority by the trustees. Miss Lauretta Paul, director, said she had received from 25 to 30 applications for this position.

She was instructed to submit her recommendations from the applications in two weeks.

TO EVALUATE PROGRESS

The trustees decided to evaluate the progress made in the James A. Hamilton report with reference to Miss Paul "one year from the date the assistant director begins work."

The report suggested "the director be allowed a reasonable period of time in which to strengthen the executive management and improve the internal operations of the hospital."

Harold B. Euler argued against setting any time limit on which

A Few Last-Minute Bills Slow Finish for Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—This may be adjournment day for the 84th Congress. But a couple of Senate-House disputes remain to be resolved first.

They involve housing and a minerals purchase program.

The House has passed a bill calling for construction of 70,000 units of low-rent public housing in the next two years.

The Senate, which once approved many more units, has voted to go along but has insisted on other provisions which the House doesn't want.

The Senate last night rejected the conference report on a compromise $2,161,629,438 miscellaneous appropriations bill because it omitted $5 million dollars the Senate had approved for a minerals purchase program.

The flood insurance and river and harbor bills are in conference, where no trouble was expected in adjusting differences.

The compromise $3,766,570,000 foreign-aid appropriation bill and the Social Security measure were passed by the House and await Senate approval.

The Social Security bill, among other things, would allow women to draw retirement benefits at age 62 and would give full benefit to disabled workers at age 50.

With many members having bought rail and plane tickets for home, an air of compromise prevailed.

Britain's Eden Tense but Quiet

Egypt Seizes Suez Canal to Get Aswan Dam Funds

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt has served notice she is taking over full control of the Suez Canal and will use the revenue from the vital waterway to finance her billion-dollar Aswan dam project.

The United States and Britain last week withdrew offers to help build the giant dam.

"We don't have to seek American and British aid for building our dam," President Gamal Abdel Nasser declared last night in a speech in Alexandria's Liberal Square.

"We'll build the dam ourselves and with our own money."

Minutes after Nasser announced nationalization of the internationally controlled canal, officials seized offices of the Suez Canal Co. in Cairo, Ismailia, Port Said and Suez.

Nasser accused the United States and Britain of trying to use the Aswan project as a lever to gain domination over Egypt.

He predicted that by taking over the great Suez waterway linking the Mediterranean to the Red Sea, Egypt could derive 100 million dollars in annual revenue.

"This money is ours," he declared. "The Suez Canal belongs to us. The Suez Canal was built by Egyptians and 120,000 Egyptians died building it. Thus we shall build the high dam our own way. We shall rely on our own strength, our own muscle, our own funds."

It has been estimated that the dam would cost $1,130,000,000.

British Prime Minister Eden was tense but remained silent on suggestions from some members of Parliament that Britain might have to use force against Egypt. But he said his government was considering stopping shipment of all British arms to Egypt.

The British aircraft carrier Eagle, major unit of the British navy closest to Egypt remained at Naples, Italy.

The People vs. 16 Words

An elusive assortment of 16 words dodged through 7,225 Press readers again last week and, despite a severe mauling, climbed safely back into its secret niche. Oh miserable week — there was nobody to stop its headlong flight to the jar in which Pot-O-Gold keeps its prize money.

But, if it's any consolation, the bruised and battered contestants who fell in its wake will have a better reason for wanting to snare this week's words, for the prize jumped today to $200 — plus the $25 bonus to subscribers.

The eight who missed by one word — and the some 7,200 who were further away — can find out what happened by turning to Page 12 for the answers.

Another 110 won't be able to take much more than an academic interest, however — they either missed the deadline, or sent their entries to us in envelopes.

Finally, on Page 23 is the last official entry form for Puzzle No. 9 — conquer it and you'll be the winner of that $200.

'All the City Weeps' in Home Port of Liner

GENOA, Italy (AP)—"When a ship like this sinks, all the city weeps." Those words from a gray-bearded sea veteran today expressed the feeling of this port city at the loss of the Italian luxury liner Andrea Doria off Nantucket. The Andrea Doria was built in Genoa and this was her home port.

NEW YORK (INS)—The Ile de France is steaming toward France today, 36 hours behind schedule. The ship sailed at 8:30 last night. French line officials are hopeful that the lost time will be made up on the liner's return trip to New York.

NEW YORK (INS)—The Italian Lines, which owned the ill-fated luxury liner Andrea Doria, will pay all extra expenses for the passengers and crewmen rescued from the sunken ship. The Red Cross, Travelers Aid and Italian welfare agencies are assisting the Italian Lines in welfare work for passengers who lost everything when they abandoned the Doria.

DETROIT (AP)—The Norseman, a revolutionary new Chrysler Corp. "Idea" car, was lost in the sinking of the Italian liner Andrea Doria yesterday. The experimental car was built for Chrysler in Turin, Italy, and was being shipped to the United States for its first public debut. The Norseman cost about $150,000, including a year's engineering work. It was insured.

Battered Swedish Liner Flounders Into New York

Death Toll Mounts to 7, 23 Still Unaccounted For, 43 in Hospitals

NEW YORK (INS)—The battered S.S. Stockholm moved slowly through New York Harbor today with the last group of survivors from the Italian liner Andrea Doria.

She was expected to tie up on Manhattan's West Side between 10 and 10:15 a.m. Pontiac time.

Aboard the Stockholm were 553 survivors from the "unsinkable" Andrea Doria, now 37 fathoms deep in the Atlantic.

The Stockholm, her bow crumpled by a fatal thrust through the starboard side of the giant Italian luxury liner, was expected to dock at Pier 97, from where she sailed gaily Wednesday morning with 535 passengers and 215 crew members.

The exact number of the dead and injured in the fog-shrouded collision off Nantucket Island was expected to be determined when the 12,600-ton motorship docked.

At least seven persons were reported dead.

Thirty-nine were in hospitals in New York and four critically injured had been rushed to Boston hospitals.

An estimated 23 persons, apparently all crew members, were unaccounted for.

The Coast Guard stressed that some of these may never have boarded their ships.

By midnight 1,116 men, women and children had been put ashore at New York by four mercy vessels.

Survivors told a grim story of panic, heroism, prayer and finally escape from their doomed, topsy-turvy ship.

While some of the battered and weary survivors charged bitterly they were abandoned by crew members who left them to their own fate, others lauded the crew for trying to calm panicky passengers.

In various stages of dress and undress and with heads bandaged, the survivors dramatically told of terrified men and women and of song-singing to help keep up courage as the ship rapidly tilted toward its destruction.

The greatest number of survivors — 753 — was brought to safety by the huge French liner Ile de France yesterday evening. The French ship, which performed gloriously in the rescue operations, sailed for Europe again less than four hours after completing her heroic mission.

Five critically injured Andrea Doria passengers, including a four-year-old girl, were picked off the deck of the Stockholm

Steel Settlement Expected Soon

Union Boss Predicting New Pact by Weekend, 50-Cent Hike Hinted

NEW YORK (AP)—A settlement of the 27-day nationwide steel strike was announced today but a formal end to the strike will not come until sometime early next week.

By The Associated Press
Negotiators in the 27-day-old basic steel strike are meeting again today in New York City.

Optimism prevails that a new contract will be worked out soon. David J. McDonald, president of United Steelworkers, predicts settlement before the weekend.

The sub-committee continued to work last night, apparently ironing out last minute details of the contract which has to be entirely re-written as the old contract expired completely July 1.

This apparently held up final settlement as negotiators had to work out many details in addition to a wage increase.

Reports persist the final contract drawn will be for three years with a no-strike clause and calling for an approximate 50-cent hourly package increase over the 36 months.

Muskegon Heights Men Uncover for Summer

SHORTS AND SPORT SHIRTS—Muskegon Heights has leaped far ahead of Pontiac in the current move towards masculine comfort on the ninety-plus days in the summer.

The men are moving into Bermuda shorts, headed by the Mayor.

"The Pontiac step is right as a starter," said an unofficial spokesman. "We compliment our brother from southeastern Michigan in making the first move to combat the heat by casting aside the constricting tie and the choking collar. We extend the bare arm and hand of fellowship.

"But, Muskegon Heights is moving onward and upward. Even though Pontiac trails conservatively behind in 1956, we'd like to think the progressive element there will step along further in 1957. Bermuda shorts are the coming thing.

"We're willing to serve as one of the pioneers." Above, a group of Muskegon Heights men are being outfitted for the hot summer days.

ARE YOU THERE, MR. FISH?—Dawson Mill Pond in Beaudette Park was the setting of the 1956 edition of the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept. "Fishing Rodeo" held yesterday afternoon. Some 450 kids turned out with poles, bobs, and cans full of worms to try for 100 prizes offered by the city department. There were other activities for the non-fishing children. And as it turned out, these kids had most of the fun for Mr. Fish just wasn't there, as compared to previous "rodeos."

Fishing Rodeo Has Big Turnout

400 to 500 Youngsters Compete for 100 Prizes at Dawson Mill Pond

There were plenty of children but not many fish yesterday at the 1956 "Fishing Rodeo" sponsored by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept.

Leonard T. Buzz, recreational supervisor of the department, estimated from 400 to 500 kids turned out at Dawson Mill Pond to try their luck for 100 prizes.

Carol Bialik, 12, of 64 S. Anderson St. captured top honors for the girls when she hauled in a five-inch blue gill. Ronnie Slaght, 13, of 55 Edison St. took top prize for the boys with a 6½-inch blue gill. Both winners received complete fishing kits donated by the Better Fishing, Inc. of Chicago.

LESS CAUGHT
Buzz declared that "last year the kids averaged 10 to 15 fish each while this year only one fisherman managed to land five." Donald Gracy, 8, of 421 Howard McNeil St. won the "most fish prize" with five.

Other winners in the tournament were:

LeRoy Campbell, 13, of 323 Branch St. and Thomas Baker, 9, of 14 Edison St. placed second and third respectively in the largest fish caught by boys with 6 inch and 6½ inch blue gills.

In the largest fish caught by girls, Karen Stratton, 11, of 31 Hillside Dr. and Mary Edwards, 11, 189 Wolfe St. pulled in four and two-inch blue gills for second and third prizes.

Allen Lawrence, 12, of 574 LeBaron Ave. and Charles Humphrey, 12, of 670 Bloomfield Ave. took prizes for the most fish caught with four and three respectively.

Christine Bass, 9, of 545 Alton Ave. and Eugenia Goff, 11, of 29 Hillside Dr. proved tops in the girls division for most fish caught with four and two.

3 Arrested in Attempt to Steal Car Batteries

Three Pontiac men were arrested after they were reportedly caught attempting to steal six car batteries from vehicles parked at Finkle's Auto Sales, 350 S. Saginaw St. The value of the batteries was set at $50.

Held under investigation for grand larceny are Leon Cobb, 40, of 51 Hibbard Ct., Jessie Cook, 40, 292 Gillespie St., and Andrew Thomas, 33, of 36 Hibbard Ct.

General Hospital Addition Likely to Get U.S. Aid

Chances of securing federal aid in the construction of the new addition at Pontiac General Hospital were declared good last night by Willis M. Brewer, chairman of the property committee of the Board of Trustees.

"I am quite well satisfied we will get our money," Brewer said. He had conferred with officials of the State Hospital Survey and Construction office in Lansing.

He added that the board must submit a statement indicating the city could match the estimated $75,000 in federal aid.

Trustees of Hospital Begin Survey Work

Members agreed to the survey recommendation that officers on the board be limited to serve not more than three years "within any one office."

A new executive committee, composed of the four officers, a nominating committee, and public relations committee will be established. They will be added to the list of the finance, building, personnel and joint conference committees.

In addition to the assistant director, a personnel-public relations director and controller will be hired as recommended.

The analysis of the medical staff will be studied by the joint conference committee composed of three members of the board and Chief of Staff Dr. Harold Furlong, the past chief of staff and chief of staff-elect. Their findings were instructed returned to the Board of Trustees.

The executive committee and Miss Paul are to meet to decide what should be contained in monthly reports to trustees.

"I assume we are going to watch carefully the progress of these recommendations," Trustee Harold S. Goldberg questioned. He was assured by Babcock they would be.

The director was instructed to prepare a record of duties of the administrative assistant and report to the personnel committee. The survey suggested this position be eliminated.

The board accepted the suggested chart of re-organization at the hospital with the major change being the additions of the new positions and committees.

A recommendation that the president of the hospital's woman auxiliary be added to the Board of Trustees will be made to the City Commission. The commission appoints members for four year terms.

The survey chapter on fiscal management was referred to the finance committee for study. Another meeting will be held Aug. 6 to study the last chapter of the report on departmental operations.

The change from last week's stormy session was evident when Goldberg exclaimed at the end of last night's session: "I think the progress on what we did tonight was fabulous."

A repeat performance of last week's uproar seemed to be ensuing when Chairman of the Board William P. Babcock declared at the start of last night's session: "A number of things have happened since the last meeting and I want some explanation before I continue as chairman."

Babcock was referring to a statement made by Mrs. Roush last Friday claiming no election of board officers was held according to parliamentary procedure.

Mrs. Roush continued her plea for a voice or ballot vote. "You can't elect without naming officers," the Pontiac school teacher said. "There should be a voice taken on each member."

Pontiac Deaths

Robert Morris

Word has been received of the death of Robert Morris of Pontiac at 5 o'clock this morning in the hospital at Hart. He was ill in the hospital three weeks.

Mr. Morris was a former resident of Woodbine Drive and had been employed at General Motors Truck & Coach Division.

He leaves his wife, Ruby; a son, John of Chicago; a daughter, Mrs. Marie Burdette of Pontiac and eight grandchildren.

The funeral will be in Pontiac at 5 p.m. Saturday.

Robert L. Sanford

Robert L. Sanford, 54, of 34 W. Walton Blvd. was dead on arrival yesterday afternoon at Pontiac General Hospital. He had been ill three weeks.

He was born in Anniston, Ala. on Sept. 9, 1901, the son of Frank and Polly Findley Sanford. Coming here from Alabama in 1928, he had been employed at the Fisher Body Division.

Besides his wife, the former Goldie Blade, he is survived by five children, Mrs. Juanita Kirk of Alabama, Shirley Sanford at home, Mrs. Nellie Lafear, Robert Sanford and Mrs. Dolly Horbathall, all of Pontiac. His sister, Mrs. Dolly Thompson, is living in Gadsden, Ala.

Service will be at 7 p.m. Friday from the Huttoon Funeral Home with Dr. Tom Malone of the Emmanuel Baptist Church officiating. Mr. Sanford's body will then be sent to Gadsden for burial.

Leo J. Wagner

Leo J. Wagner, 55, of 230 S. Parke St. died yesterday in Pontiac General Hospital. He had been in ill health two years.

He was born in Alpena on Feb. 8, 1901, the son of Alfred and Cecelia LeFebvre Wagner, and married the former Harriet Fox on Ontario 31 years ago.

Mr. Wagner had been a resident of the Pontiac area 46 years coming here from Alpena. He was employed at the General Motors Truck & Coach Division.

He leaves his wife and mother; the following sisters and brothers, Mrs. Eva Bass of Miami, Fla., Odina Wagner of Gingsville, Mrs. Edna Asselin, Alfred O. Wagner, Mrs. Mary Philena Terroux, Mrs. Della Smith, Mrs. Della Downer, Mrs. Stella Mason, Wilfred Wagner, Maurice and Arthur Wagner, all of Pontiac.

Service will be at 2 p.m. Saturday from the Melvin A. Schutt Funeral Home. Dr. Tom Malone of the Emmanuel Baptist Church will officiate with burial in Perry Mount Park Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 o'clock this evening.

Sewing Machine Stolen

A portable sewing machine in a white case has been missing from a Clark street home since last week, according to Pontiac police. Ann Whiting, of 73 N. Francis St., reported the loss to the police yesterday. She said the machine was taken from 39 Clark St.

Battered Stockholm Reaches New York

by helicopter and flown to Nantucket. One died later in a Boston hospital.

Two of the known dead were seamen on the Stockholm. The others were passengers on the Italian flagship.

The bodies of three of them—New York Times Madrid Correspondent Camille M. Ciarra and his two daughters—still were aboard the Andrea Doria when it plunged to the bottom.

Waiting with anxious relatives and friends for the Stockholm to arrive were marine authorities who hoped Capt. Gunnar Nordensson could shed some light on the puzzling collision.

WHAT ABOUT RADAR

The key question in this modern sea mystery was how the collision could have occurred—even in a dense fog—in this day of advanced radar, sonar and other new aides to ocean-going travel.

Marine authorities talked uncertainty of "radar blindness." Others guessed human failure had been involved.

The skipper of the Andrea Doria, Capt. Piero Calamai, arrived in New York late last night aboard a transport.

He refused to answer questions concerning the collision until he had talked to officials of the Italian Lines who already have blamed the Stockholm for the tragedy.

They pointed out that the Swedish ship did the ramming and was some 20 miles north of the course normally traveled by Europe-bound vessels.

BITS OF GOOD FORTUNE

Capt. Calamai warmly pressed "the full brilliance of the American Navy, Army and Merchant Marine" in the fantastically successful rescue maneuver that began almost immediately after his beloved ship flashed an SOS at 11:22 p.m. Wednesday, two minutes after the collision.

Cold-blooded Pontiac residents are saying... at long last. Predicted high-temperature for today is from 86 to 92 degrees.

This breaks a chilly spell that has cooled Pontiac since July 1. The temperature reached 92 degrees on that day and has ranged in the 60's and low 70's ever since.

One year ago today during the over 90 degree weather that plagued the country, the temperature was a sizzling 99 degrees. The weatherman forecasts partly cloudy weather with scattered thundershowers today. He predicts partly cloudy and cooler weather tonight and Saturday.

Winds will be light southerly all day becoming northerly tonight.

The lowest temperature reading in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 70 degrees. The mercury rose to 90 degrees at 1 p.m.

The Day in Birmingham

Plans for Over 250 Set for 'Don's Day' Sunday

BIRMINGHAM — Many more than the 250 who have made reservations are expected at two events Sunday honoring Don C. Egbert, who concludes his service as city manager on Tuesday.

Egbert is leaving the city to become secretary-manager of two authorities in Oakland County. His post is to be filled by Harold Schone, who is leaving his Oakland Park city managership on August 15.

From all over southern Michigan, friends of Don Egbert will be coming to pay him honor as he concludes over 25 years of service in Birmingham. He has been manager for nine years.

Toastmaster for the supper program Sunday night at Devon Gables will be Dana Whitman, assistant city manager. Already 148 reservations have been tallied, and more are expected. City employees and former workers on the city staff are to attend.

An open house at the Community House Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m. is open for all of Egbert's friends, with the host group being the city commissioners.

Acceptances to invitations already tally about 130, the committee members reveal, but anyone is welcome to attend.

Among those expected are the city's first mayor, Harry Allen, whose son is the present mayor; local school board officials; library board members; Community House trustees; a sizable delegation from Rotary (he was one-time president of Rotary here) and local supervisors of the county.

From out-of-town, acceptances

Fire Ruins Rubber Manufacturing Firm

ARMADA — A $25,000 blaze destroyed the building and contents of Armada Rubber Mfg. Co. at 2456 Armada Ridge Rd. last night.

Four fire departments, from Armada, Memphis, Romeo and Richmond, were summoned to fight the blaze which lasted several hours, according to Romeo State Police.

Vice president and general manager Laurence Weymouth of 3140 31-Mile Rd., reported the fire started in a storage shed where waste rubber and paper cartons are stored.

No definite cause of the fire has been determined, police said.

School of Barbecue

A Barbecue school will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 p.m. at the 4-H Fair Grounds on N. Perry. Lyle Abel, Oakland county Agricultural agent, and Bob Deans from Michigan State University will demonstrate various foods suitable for barbecuing and methods of cooking. The public is invited.

Rescue Story: From Luxury to Chilly Sea

NEW YORK (AP)—There were 760 of them. Most were half clad. Some were still dazed and many were numb.

Passport requirements were waived for their arrival and public health inspection was suspended. There was no need for customs; they had no baggage.

Through shivers or wept as they arrived last night aboard the French liner Ile de France. They had left Europe amidst comfort and splendor of the luxury liner Andrea Doria. They arrived haggard and worn out, survivors of the collision that sent the Andrea Doria to the bottom of the Atlantic and damaged the Swedish ship Stockholm.

Their stories were different. Some told of nerves of steel, of heroism, of sacrifice. Others recalled screams and chaos.

There were stories of death too. Dr. T. S. Peterson of Upper Montclair, N.J., told how his wife was crushed to death in the collision and he was unable to free her.

In the next cabin, he said, he discovered the bodies of Camille M. Cianfarra, Madrid correspondent of the New York Times, and his daughter and stepdaughter. As for Peterson's wife, "She went down with the ship," Peterson said.

There were also stories of mothers and their children in the face of disaster.

"I was sure that I was going to die, that everything was all over," recalled Mrs. Rose Adagna of Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I rushed five decks below to grab my daughter (Olivia, 2) from her bed, and then it took me a quarter of an hour to get to the main deck because of the list."

"I kept thinking of my husband and my boy at home. The baby kept crying for her milk bottle that I had left behind. I remember thinking that I couldn't possibly go back for the bottle."

Actress Ruth Roman met newsmen aboard the French liner clad in an improvised costume of a white polo shirt and men's trousers—gifts of Ile de France passengers.

"It was just like an explosion," she said. "Nobody fell but it sounded like a very big firecracker."

"I threw off my shoes because of the high heels and ran two decks below to the cabin to my son Dickie, who is only 3½. He and his nurse were barely awake."

"I pulled out three life preservers and dragged both of them to the upper deck and told them to stay near the grand staircase."

"Dickie was not crying. He thought it was terribly exciting. I kept telling him it was a picnic. I found a balloon and a rug and told him to blow it up."

The actress continued: "Dickie was on my lap and I handed him to a sailor who strapped him to himself. They got into the boat, but it left before I could get aboard." She and her son were later reunited.

Two-year-old Maria Donner survived the crash because her mother is a good swimmer. Mrs. George Donner, 24, of Arlington, N.J., plunged into the water after the child fell overboard. For a few minutes they were alone in the sea. Then a lifeboat pulled alongside and took them aboard.

Many parents and children were separated in the mad scramble for lifeboats.

Tullio de Sandro tossed his 4-year-old daughter into the arms of a stranger in a lifeboat. He and his wife later were picked up by another boat and brought into New York by the Ile de France. The girl was located later at a Boston hospital.

Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia and his wife were among the survivors aboard the Ile de France.

Dilworth spoke calmly of the crash:

"We turned in about 10 o'clock. We were suddenly awakened and knocked to our feet. Anne (his wife) said, 'We must have hit an iceberg—it's like the Titanic story.' There was an immediate bad list and when I opened the door to the hall, there was heavy smoke."

"We put on our lifejackets, crawled to the boat deck. There, six boats were being lowered. They couldn't get any more into the water. We went down a rope ladder as near as we could to the boats and hung on until the women and children were taken off the ship."

"About 4 a.m., we got into one of the last boats and at 5:30 we were aboard the Ile de France."

"There was no panic and very little screaming."

But passengers from lower decks recalled screaming, fight and terror as the big ship started to go down.

Mother Drops at Bedside of Lost Girl From Liner

BOSTON (AP)—A dazed Italian mother who was rescued from the liner Andrea Doria, identified a seriously injured victim of the marine tragedy as her 4-year-old daughter today—and then collapsed.

Mrs. Filomena di Sandro, 29, mumbled in her native tongue what sounded like "That's my baby" and then fainted in the arms of her husband Tullio, 35, after he restrained her from taking the child in her arms.

The little girl, Norma, had lain unidentified since she was taken by helicopter from the scene of the disaster.

She did not see her parents on their arrival after a fast automobile trip from New York. The child has been unconscious since she suffered a fractured skull during her rescue after the Andrea Doria collided with the Swedish vessel Stockholm Wednesday night.

"The child was asleep and my wife and I were about to retire for the night when the crash happened," the father said.

"We heard the cry to abandon ship while the three of us were rushing to the deck."

"Quickly I looked over the rail and saw a lifeboat in the water 15 feet below. I shouted to one of the men and threw Norma into the boat. I saw her land inside."

Di Sandro continued: "Then I helped my wife jump into the water and followed her myself. It was not until I was picked up and taken aboard the Ile de France that I saw my wife again. We searched everywhere for the child, but could not find her."

Meanwhile, the child had been taken aboard the Stockholm, transferred by helicopter to Nantucket and then to the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in Boston.

She was unconscious and could not be identified. A doctor aboard the Stockholm had pinned a note on the child's night clothing that she was an Italian child and was to be treated for a head injury.

On the child's wrist was a bracelet with a ram's horn charm.

It was that bracelet that led the Di Sandros to their child.

A remark by a woman on a New York dock that "There's a 4-year-old girl in the hospital in Boston gave them their first clue their child was still alive."

The identification was just about complete when they learned the child was wearing the distinctive bracelet.

The child's condition is listed by the hospital as serious. Doctors have operated on her head to relieve the pressure caused by the fracture.

Throughout last night and into the early morning the hospital switchboard was jammed with calls from persons offering their blood if it could save the baby's life.

Others offered their homes and loving care if the parents were not to be found.

"Everything humanly possible will be done to save her life," a hospital employee said.

The Di Sandros had left their home in Milan, Italy, to reside with relatives in Providence.

Travel Tax Lifted

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan travelers will save about a million dollars a year in travel costs under a new law halting the 10 per cent federal tax on trips to the Caribbean, Central America, Alaska, Hawaii, and parts of Mexico and Canada, the Automobile Club of Michigan said Thursday.

Angry Survivors Say Italian Crew Deserted Them

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of survivors of the Andrea Doria have accused the ship's personnel of "complete negligence" at the time the Italian liner collided with the Swedish motorship Stockholm.

Many other passengers had different versions and words of praise for the crew.

The accusation was made in a typewritten statement last night addressed to news media. It was signed by 90 persons brought here aboard the freighter Cape Ann, and was given to a newsman by Arthur Fisher of New York City, who is in the textile business.

The statement said, "There existed a state of complete negligence on the part of the crew and officers toward its obligations and responsibilities to the safety of the passengers of the ship."

Still Fighting Over Civil War

Ring Made of Shin Bone Has State Officials Kicking

LANSING (AP)—A man's ring fashioned from the shin bone of a Confederate soldier was on view in the basement of the state Capitol yesterday while officials and legislators blamed each other for the display.

The shin bone is part of a collection of Civil War relics viewed by thousands of school children and other visitors every year.

Dr. Lewis Beeson, executive secretary of State Historical Commission, said he is aware of the shin bone but that he can't do anything about it.

"In fact, I close my eyes every time I walk through there. I can't stand to look at the stuff," Beeson said.

FROM OLD COLLECTION

Beeson offered this explanation: The shin bone is part of a collection of relics contained in the state's old war museum, set up shortly after the Civil War when feelings were running high and gruesome objects of war were commonplace in museums.

The historical commission inherited the collection and intended to weed it out.

In 1952, the state comptroller ordered the whole collection replaced with a graphic display of state government organization.

The commission removed the display. Veterans organizations squawked. Fred M. Alger, Republican candidate for governor, accused Gov. Williams of having no interest in the state's rich historical heritage. The Legislature passed a resolution requesting the State Administrative Board to return the exhibit.

The resolution said in part:

"The historical memorials and mementoes which formerly graced the rotunda of the state Capitol should be replaced in order that present and future generations may have the opportunity of reflecting on the beauties and the significance of the historical background of the state of Michigan."

"Our hands are tied by the resolution. We can't do anything," Beeson said. "We are perfectly aware that some of the material is not suitable."

DENIES RESTRICTIONS

Sen. Harry F. Hittle (R-Lansing), who sponsored the resolution, said he was not aware of the shin bone, but that it obviously has "no historical significance."

"We didn't say the commission couldn't make substitutions," he said. "I have no objection to removing the object."

Beeson said the commission will ask for a $1,000 appropriation to buy display cases with locks.

"Then we could put in some relics of value," he said.

"We would like to have a display including relics from the wars in which all Michigan men and women fought."

Beeson said the Commission has received many complaints about the display. Many of the objects in the exhibit are mislabeled, he said.

The shin bone rests beside a neatly labeled card which says: "Bone ring made by Merwin W. Goodrich, 15th Penn. Inf. while in hospital room from shin bone of a Confederate on battlefield of Pittsburg Landing."

Fun Prevails at Fairway Club Picnic

Annual Event Held at Earl Stevenson Residence

Following the regular weekly round of golf at Pontiac Country Club Thursday, members and guests of Fairway Club traveled to the home of Mrs. Earl Stevenson on Motorway drive for their annual cooperative picnic luncheon.

Golf prizes were presented members and guests for low net score, low gross and low putts, by Mrs. Lee Lysinger and Mrs. Philip Sauer.

Stunts and games, including a cleverly devised "Golf Bingo" were part of the afternoon fun. A "before" and "after" luncheon contest for waistline measurements was another of the unique afternoon activities.

Serving on the party committee were Mrs. Lysinger, Mrs. Sauer, Mrs. John Wilson, Mrs. Robert Bradley, Mrs. John Heitsch and Mrs. Stevenson.

Guests included Mrs. Charles A. Weedon, Mrs. Wilfred Thompson, Mrs. Virginia Lake, Mrs. Clifford Mason, Mrs. Frank Tote, Mrs. Gerald Blaylock, Mrs. Sydney Baer, Mrs. Jack Greenhouse, Mrs. Leslie A. Hutchinson, Mrs. Lloyd Wallace, Dorothy Knight, Mrs. Jack Reese, Mrs. Edward Pritchard, Mrs. William Bull and Mrs. Jack Bender were also guests.

Another highlight of the league's summer schedule will be the annual husbands' party to be held August 19.

Ingrid's Daughter Gets School Fund

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Actress Ingrid Bergman's 17-year-old daughter was given judicial permission today to take money from her personal estate for a college education and a car.

Superior Judge Walter H. Odemar approved a petition filed on behalf of the girl, Pia Lindstrom, by her father, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, former husband of Miss Bergman.

The judge allowed Pia to take $2,500 a year from her $50,000 estate for an education at Stanford University, plus $1,000 for a car.

Judge Odemar limited his approval to only one year, however, and said he would like to review the expenditures from Pia's estate after that time before continuing the program.

Miss Bergman is now the wife of Italian screen director Roberto Rossellini.

It was a close score and Mrs. Clarence Lawson of Elizabeth Lake road (left) and Mrs. Glen Hickson of Preston avenue wondered if theirs would take the prize for the low net score at the Fairway Club's annual guest day event, held Thursday at Pontiac Country Club.

Fresh New Styles Appear in Leather

The fresh new styles in which leather will appear were revealed at the annual fall fashion preview held recently in the New York headquarters of Leather Industries of America.

Costumes ranged from middie and tapered pants for lounging to long elegant formal coats for evening wear. In between these two extremes were a host of suits and coats for casual every-day wear.

Most were all-leather, but others featured combinations of leather with knits, worsteds, silk paisleys and — for cold weather — wool shearing and even furs. Fur was also used as trim on many of the more formal coats and suits.

Leather jackets were shown in Norfolk, boxy, mandarin, cocoon and Eisenhower styles, many of them with zip-out interchangeable linings, one of fur and another of plaid or striped jersey or alpaca. Car coats reached to the waist or hips or appeared in traditional three-quarter or seven-eighths lengths. In the shorter versions, the boy coat seems most popular — it's double-breasted with self buttons, patch pockets and a turned-back cuff, real or simulated by stitching.

Suits combined leather with tweed, cashmere or knit. They were in all colors from pastel to vivid hues with the fabric-trimmed and lined leather jacket matching or contrasting with the leather-trimmed fabric skirt.

"Cowgirl" outfits that would hardly be at home on the plains, included jeweled leather shirts and frontier pants of glimmering gold and silver kidskin.

Long coats were straight-fronted with fullness falling from the shoulders.

MAKE OVER PAGES Dior Line May Be 'Trial Balloon'

PARIS (INS) — Christian Dior, the French fashion dictator who eight years ago brought about the "new look" with the long skirt may be doing it all over again.

Dior's collection opened the summer Paris fashion showings and his line featured two new highlights — the lengthened hem and the "magnet" line.

Many fashion experts think the long look is a trial balloon and predict that future styles will all be long.

A group of eight outfits in the collection had skirt hems seven to eight inches off the floor in styles reminiscent of 1912 fashions.

The second major fashion point made by Dior was his abandonment of slinky, slim silhouette clothes in favor of the rounded "magnet" look.

The "magnet" motif begins at the top of the head with hats that are rounded, high-crowned and pinched in at the temples.

The suits and dresses measure a more usual 16 inches off the ground. Suit jackets are shorter than they have been for the last few years, and Dior favors heavy but soft wools.

The "magnet" shape is brought out in the new long outfits as well as in conventional length clothes.

One black suit that combines both looks features a waist-length, loosely fitted jacket, kimono sleeves and shoulder seams dropped to the middle of the upper arm. It is worn with a sleeveless chin-high top and skirt with hip tuck for a gathered, rounded look.

SKIRTS PEGGED The rounded look of the "magnet line" includes busts as well as hats and hips and shoulders. Skirts are pegged so that they are narrower recent guests of Marilyn

Some of the "magnet" suits are worn with suede blouses. Many have matching coats or capes and many of the coats also have adopted a "Sherlock Holmes" style.

For evening wear, Dior wants women to look very feminine — something he accomplishes very simply by exposing a good deal of bosom with an 18th century type decollete draping over full skirts. He also reintroduced the bust-shaping strapless top.

Hats are often fabric-matched to the ensemble they are to be worn with. Daytime headgear comes in Dutch boy or mixing-bowl shapes, with many of them pulled down to the eyebrows.

For evening wear hats come in wide coolie and lampshade shapes, often given that added touch of glamor with glittering spangles on the underside of the brim.

Aidful Hints to Preserve Wool Fibres

Let Woolens "Rest" Between Wearings to Keep Shape

Wool has a tendency to return to its original form after it has been creased, if it is allowed enough time to do so. That's why the British allow woolen garments to "rest" between wearings.

If wool fibre is subjected to steam it becomes pliable and can be molded or shaped. A more or less permanent set can be obtained by applying pressure when the fibre is in a plastic state.

But here's a warning: If heat is applied after the moisture is gone the fibres become harsh and brittle and the garment won't give good wear. So pressing should always be finished while the fabric is still steaming.

Washable woolens will launder well if a few simple rules are followed:

1. Start by removing all serious stains and mending any rip or tears.
2. Use lukewarm water (it should feel almost cool to the hand) and soak the garment just long enough for the fabric to absorb all the suds. Too much soaking weakens the fabric.
3. Use plenty of neutral soap, not strong or caustic soap which will harden the fibre.
4. Work under water; the weight of the water may distort the shape of the garment if you lift it out frequently. Squeeze the suds gently through the garment; don't pound or rub, since this makes the fibres cling together and become "matted."
5. Rinse thoroughly to remove all soap, squeezing the water out gently by hand since a wringer can also cause matting. Never hang woolen garments to dry near a radiator or in the sun; the heat will cause the fibres to become brittle and break.

HEAVY NAP BEST When the time comes to press the garment, you should have a smooth board with padding that is firm and not too soft.

A heavy nap woolen pressing cloth is best, since the use of wool against wool will help to prevent "shin" in the garment. Cheesecloth or thin wrapping paper over this will prevent the iron from sticking.

A padded roll helps in pressing the sleeves and seams — you can make one quickly by wrapping a towel around a rolled-up magazine. Do your pressing with a light touch, and avoid holding the iron in any one place too long, since overheating not only hardens the fabric, but is one of the causes of "shine."

When you get to the hems, place a piece of garment material at the top to equalize the thickness; this will prevent edge marks from showing.

Press lightly at first until steam has formed, then use a little more pressure. Baggy areas at the knees of trousers, and shininess can be corrected while pressing to a certain extent by light pressure or steaming through a moist cloth.

New Citizens Feted at Party

Members of Janice Antona's Citizenship Class who were naturalized Tuesday were honored at a party and program at Pontiac High School Wednesday evening. Class members still attending citizenship classes were hosts at the party.

Mrs. William Todd, Americanism chairman of the General Richardson Chapter, DAR, and Mrs. Joseph Phillips, Americanism chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary, Chief Pontiac Post, attended. They spoke briefly and presented the graduates with American Flags and Flag codes. Those honored at the affair were Cynthia Sheffield, Kate Mathews, Irene Chambers, Kay Holloway, Joan Deacon, Gerhardt Bruhl, Hector Chambers and Sam Calabrese.

At a tense moment the photographer caught Mrs. Delbert Hammett of Going street (left) and Mrs. Sydney Baer of Pine Bluff drive. They were competing with other members of Fairway Club for low putts at the club's annual guest day event, held Thursday at Pontiac Country Club. Mrs. Baer was a guest for the day.

Two Women Solve One Problem

By ANNE HEYWOOD

There are more ways than one to skin a cat, as the saying goes, and there are more ways than one to solve a job problem.

But too often our minds get in a rut. We lack the imagination to see any way but one.

For example, Ruth is a young woman with two school-age children. She had a part-time job, in a small office, which she just loved. She worked from 1 to 5.

It had taken a long time to find this perfect spot and so, when the boss said he would have to replace her with a full-time worker, Ruth was desolate.

"He was right," she admitted. "His business had grown and he really did need somebody from 9 until 5. But I'm sick about it, because I can't work full-time and I'm afraid I'll never find a spot as good."

Most people would have left it at that—but Ruth began to think about it and at least to entertain the idea that there might possibly be some alternative, some other way out.

"It looked hopeless at first," she admitted, "but then I thought of a plan."

"My friend, Anna, wanted a part-time job, too. She could work in the mornings from 9 until 1 and then I would take over."

"Anna was delighted with the idea, but I knew it might be hard to convince my boss."

"I mentioned it to him—the possibility of Anna taking over mornings and me afterwards."

SEE COMPLICATIONS

"At first he said no, because it would complicate the payroll and bookkeeping and taxes and things. But he does like me, his customers are at ease with me and it might take a long time for a new woman to catch on to things, and so forth."

"I told him I would teach Anna as we went along, so he'd have less of a training problem. Also, I pointed out that if either one of us got sick or the kids got chickenpox or anything, the other could, in such an emergency, cover the whole day."

"He thought it over and weighed the advantages against the payroll mess and he decided to do it! And now both Anna and I are having the time of our lives!"

Next time a problem faces you, don't admit to just one possible path to take.

Even if you see only one possibility, try hard to open your mind and dig up just one alternative. It could change the whole picture.

Kiss Curl 'New' Again

LONDON (INS) — The kiss-curl of the 1920's is back in hairdos this season.

Hair stylist Dumas of London is featuring the kiss-curl, a little spit curl just in front of the ear, in new short summer pageboy hairdos.

The curl is like the one worn years ago by Clara Bow and the Boop-Boop-a-Doop girl.

Hubby Isn't Self-Sacrificing Angel

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
As an impressionable child learning what was what, Mrs. J. grew up with parents who could assert no self-interested demands.

If her mother bought a new dress, it was never because she wanted one but because some old one was "falling apart."

If her father went off on a fishing trip, it could never be for fun but for therapeutic "change." If they had roast beef for Sunday dinner, it was not because they enjoyed it but because it had been a sale special.

For reasons embedded in their own training, these poor people simply could not ask anything for themselves without first trying to make the demand appear morally impressive and self-sacrificing. Recently, Mrs. J.'s baby caught a cold. For several days he snifled and bubbled protest against its discomfort. One morning toward dawn, it awoke him—and he began to cry.

Do Parents Go Along on Party?

By EMILY POST
A mother tells me: "My daughter will soon celebrate her 16th birthday and she would like to give a party. We live in a small apartment and it would be impossible for us to accommodate the number of boys and girls she would like to invite. 'We agreed to let her have it in one of the restaurants here in town. I would like to know if it will be necessary for my husband and I to be present to chaperon the group. I would appreciate hearing from you on this matter.'"

Answer: If it's a restaurant where they're well known I see nothing improper in their going unchaperoned. Otherwise you should go.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Whose name is said first in this introduction—'John, this is my Aunt Mary' or 'Aunt Mary, this is John'? John is my fiancé and he and my aunt have not met each other. When the phrase 'this is' is used, should the woman's name be said first anyway?"

Answer: Although "Aunt Mary, this is John" would be more correct, the phrase "John, this is Aunt Mary" connotes so much more affection for Aunt Mary as to make it natural and therefore not improper.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am a single girl 23 years of age and share an apartment with another girl. 'Would there be any harm or possibility of gossip if I invited a young man to my apartment for dinner about 6 in the evening, when the girl with whom I share the apartment is out for the evening? I would greatly appreciate hearing from you on this matter.'"

Answer: It depends entirely upon the reputation you have. If you are well-behaved in every way, no one would criticize you, but if you tend to be careless, it might be questionable. If you are really afraid to be criticized, it would probably be best to abstain.

Through veils of sleep and resistance, his mother awoke too; and reaching for her robe, groped her way down the hall to his room.

DAD COMPLAINS

On her return, Mr. J., who had a tough day ahead of him, aroused long enough to mutter, "Can't a guy ever get a decent sleep in this house any more?"

Mrs. J.'s heart froze into cold distaste for her husband. Unaccustomed as she is to any self-interested assertion, she was shocked by his claim to a sleepfulness denied to her.

Because at 4 a.m. he spoke out of instinct instead of altruistic devotion to her comfort, she seemed a monster of callousness to her. She thought, "Never, never, will I feel the same toward George again."

One wonders how long Mrs. J.'s marriage can survive this kind of assault by overly romantic expectations.

Sociologists like to blame our high divorce rate on our disappointed expectations of romantic love.

PARENTAL LOVE

But a child's expectation is always rooted in his experience of romantic parental love. The teenage girl who's content to moon over a handsome unattainable movie star is a child of people who've accustomed her to unsatisfying, unattainable goals.

The young husband who recoils from diapers in his apartment bathroom is a youth whose Mom has been shielding him from consequences all his life.

The young wife who shudders at her husband's demand for a good night's sleep is a person who expects to live with self-sacrificing angels.

If we Americans are ever going to rid ourselves of this pernicious cult of unreal romantic love, parents are going to have to begin to assert their self-interests more honestly.

Martha will married Aug. 24 to Paul L. Penfield Jr. of Birmingham. Another Birmingham party for Miss Dieterle will be given Aug. 12 by Mrs. Benjamin Micon and Mrs. Edward S. Reid Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo C. Hesse have announced the engagement of their daughter, Rosemary, to William Michael Hefferan. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hefferan.

Fath Uses Capes, Drapes to Accent Feminine Curves

Molded Sheaths Have Siren Touches of Puffs, Cascades; Capelets Aplenty

PARIS (U. S. P.) — Capes and drapes filled the Fath collection, opening the second day of the new Paris fashion season this morning. Wide skirts dropped two to three inches. Tightly draped sheaths might have been designed to show off the curves of a Marilyn Monroe.

Russian Cossack caps in fur and onion dome headgear in shiny feathers struck a diplomatic political note—or perhaps only echoed the popularity of the Moscow circus and Russian ballet on their recent Paris visits.

The longer, mid-calf skirts in the Fath show did not cause the sensation that Dior's nearly ankle-length tweedy day dresses stirred up yesterday. The Fath version is inconspicuous because it is restricted to dressy afternoon, cocktail and evening skirts, where it is not much of an innovation.

The Fath skirts are about 16½ inches from the floor in slim skirts and 14 inches in full ones.

While Dior says "Down with sheaths," Genevieve Fath is still turning them out like mad. Great puffs of drapery bows, loops and cascades perch here and there.

Think of Needs
Away from home, on a vacation trip, you are often tempted to buy wearing apparel. Before you do, ask yourself: Could I buy this at home? Do I need it now, or will it just add to my luggage?
Fath uses all the variations on capes, and adds a few of her own invention. There are shoulder capes, waist-length capes, hip-length capes, tunic-length capes, full-length capes, half capes, full capes, envelope capes, and even one version called a "jump-in-the-boat cape," to translate literally from the French.
While suits are rather plain and classic, dresses are almost fussily furnished with drapes, bows, loops, flounces and so on.
Big Scotch plaid is used for great coats and capes, and velvet and chiffon are favorites for cocktail and evening creations. Fur trimmings are plentiful.
Some big ball dresses combined a bustle with a winged cape.
Some Paris newspapers today called Dior's long day skirts a "knock-over sensation," and said they recalled the mode of 1912.
Another French fashion editor, denying a revolution, described the Dior dresses as "just a little firecracker to give us the impression of big fashion news."
Most American and English fashion editors saw the ankle-grazing skirts as a test to be filed for future reference.

Nylon Hose Dyed to Match Costume
Today's dyed-to-match nylons are, of course, a far cry from the old-fashioned stockings. Fabulously sheer, this fall's nylons are the ultimate in exquisite and glamorous leg flattery.
They are dyed in crystal-clear costume colors and are designed in styles to enhance the legs and add the look of smart perfection with every outfit around-the-clock.

Woman Named Acting City Manager, Clerk at Keego

Township Post Held 10 Years

Eileen Van Horn Was Treasurer for West Bloomfield

KEEGO HARBOR—Eileen Van Horn has been unanimously named the new Keego Harbor city clerk and acting city manager, with all powers as outlined in the city charter, at a special meeting of the Keego City Council.

The appointment, to become effective Aug. 1, still must undergo the formality of adoption by resolution of the council, however, Mayor Jack Loveland said today.

Mrs. Van Horn has been the West Bloomfield Township treasurer for the past 10 years and was the first woman ever to sit on the township board.

With her experience in this capacity and having been a resident of Keego Harbor for the past 20 years, she has a very descriptive knowledge of the tax properties of the city, Loveland said.

Mrs. Van Horn is a past president of the Keego Harbor Business and Professional Women's Club and was recently named "Woman of the Week," in the area.

Keego Harbor, still in the process of organization after being chartered over a year ago, has had no previous city manager. Former city clerk, Edward Hermonian, resigned at the council meeting last night.

Mayor Loveland said today that "all city department heads are very happy over Mrs. Van Horn's appointment."

The new official with her husband, Homer, and their two sons, Robert (now married) and Edward, purchased their home at 2415 Hester Ct. 18 years ago.

Mrs. Van Horn told The Press today "I have enjoyed working for the people of West Bloomfield as well as the personnel. They have been ideal."

Detail Need, Propose Sites for Orion Center

LAKE ORION—Choosing "Orion Community Center" as name for the proposed community house, the house's planning committee last night eyed five possible sites and outlined building plans.

The building will be a one-story structure with a basement. Youth activities will require, the committee decided, a dance floor, recreation room, kitchen, storage rooms, bandstand, and possibly a snack bar and ticket booth. These will be on the lower level.

The main floor should have a ballroom, cloak room, kitchen, stage and possibly some meeting rooms, members decided. Overall site suggested is 80x150.

Membership fees were set at one dollar, and the secretary assumed duties as treasurer. Membership enrollments and fees are to be taken by mail to the Orion Community Center Membership Fund, Box 265, Lake Orion. Name, address and telephone number should be listed.

Ceremony Honors Romeo Police Aides

ROMEO — Recipients of Auxiliary Civil Defense police badges in recent ceremonies held in the Romeo Village Hall were three officers and seven patrolmen.

They were Captain James Burke, Sergeants Donald Throp and Richard O'Neill, and Patrolmen Raymond Justus, Roy Frost, Harvard Eberling, Ed Alkman, Milton See, James Stein and Gus Melser.

The auxiliary police team under the direction of Auxiliary Police Chief Charles Meeker Jr. and on call at any time for local emergencies, twice aided regular officers at fires during the past eight months. They served during the D and C Store fire in December and the spring conflagration which destroyed the waste mill of the W. Rumsey Company.

Luther League Sets Swim, Drive, Social

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Three midsummer events have been scheduled for next week for members of the Luther League, the young people's organization of Christ Lutheran Church.

The first, a swimming party, will be held Sunday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Judy Jacobson, 5683 Williams Lake road; a door-to-door paper drive is planned for Aug. 4; and an ice cream social on the grounds of the church is planned for Aug. 5.

Proceeds from the latter events will be used to send delegates to the national Augustana Luther League Convention in 1957.

Holly School Census

HOLLY — The annual census in the Holly Area Schools has been completed. It shows a total of 3,433 children of school age. This is an increase of 234 over last year.

Taylor Downs School Hopes

Kills Metamora-Dryden Merger Plan; Officials Face Problem

METAMORA—Hopes for a new high school district in the Dryden-Metamora area collapsed this week when State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clair Taylor, refused permission for a vote on the question.

He stated that it was the unanimous opinion of his committee on reorganization that the area has neither the financial nor the human resources necessary.

This decision was not unexpected, as it has been known that he proposes creating larger high schools rather than allowing small ones in new districts.

A few weeks ago Metamora district No. 4, in which Metamora village is located, voted 130 to 33 in favor of the Dryden plan rather than annexing to Lapeer. The plan originally included eight rural districts in addition to Dryden and Metamora. A new high school would have been built somewhere between Dryden and Metamora.

In a few more weeks schools will be opening, and a decision must be made regarding Metamora's high school students. Dryden would welcome them; Lapeer has stated that transportation will not be furnished for students in unannexed districts.

Drayton Group Slates Variety Games Night

DRAYTON PLAINS—A summer variety games night has been planned by the Women's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church.

The event will be held at 8 p.m., Aug. 2, in the church. Donations will be a dollar per person. Table prizes and refreshments will be included in the order of the evening.

Proceeds will go toward the church building fund.

Orion, Milford HS Bands to Go to State Fair

The Lake Orion and Milford High School bands have been asked to participate in a musical program at the Michigan State Fair Aug. 31 through Sept. 9, according to Cleighton P. Melin, acting musical director.

The Lake Orion 54-piece band is directed by David F. Leith and the Milford 60-member unit is directed by Philip Haddrell.

Each will put on a half-hour concert and will be invited to march in the grand opening day parade on Thursday as well as in the daily parade on the Fairgrounds.

Orion members will give their concert on Sept. 5 and Milford, on Aug. 31.

As guests of the fair's general manager Donald L. Swanson and fair commission members, the band members will attend many fair attractions and will be given guest cards to one of the food concessions on the grounds.

Orion Band Slates Concert Tonight

LAKE ORION — The summer band will present a concert from the village band shell tonight beginning at 7:30.

This week's concert features a cornet solo, "If I Loved You," by Shirley Forbes. Other numbers will include "Melodic Caravan," "It's a Grand Night for Singing," "Broadcast from Brazil," "Night Beat," and three marches.

The audience at the last concert was from 150 to 200.

Plan Open House for Californians

ROCHESTER — An open house on Aug. 5 will honor Mr. and Mrs. Orville Stuart and family, who have arrived from Duarte, Calif., to visit his parents, the W. J. Stuarts of First St. and her aunts, Mrs. Stella Travis and Mrs. Mable Honeywell.

Mrs. Honeywell will give the open house at her home, 329 First St.

MARLETTE — The appointment of Norman F. Smith, as Marlette Postmaster has been confirmed by the Senate.

Holly Playground Draws 700; Set Beach Schedule

HOLLY — The local playground attendance has passed the 700 mark, according to its director, Reese Protz. Its various projects will mostly be continued until Aug. 10.

Latest additions to the program are checker and ping pong tournaments, just starting. Archery lessons are given Wednesday. In the arts and crafts, basket weaving and work in leather are being featured.

A new schedule in swimming lessons is in prospect at the municipal beach at Bush Lake, under the guidance of Vasil Kerenaky.

Plan V-J Day Celebration

Three Veterans Groups Include Queen Contest in Aug. 11 Fete

WALLED LAKE — A day-long V-J Day carnival is being planned for Aug. 11 by the Wallied Lake Post No. 3952, its auxiliary, and the Dads of Foreign Service Veterans.

The carnival will be held at the L. A. Sims Memorial Home, at 2632 Loon Lake Rd., Hickory Hills.

Cash prizes will be offered for children's races in the forenoon, with free ice cream being given all children. That afternoon, three separate queens will be chosen during a beauty contest.

A bake sale, bazaar and white elephant booth are planned by the auxiliary members. Special committees with members from all three units are arranging for other food concessions.

The public is invited to join members for the celebration.

Walled Lake KCs Set 'Dance of Year'

WALLED LAKE — Our Lady of the Lakes Council No. 4664, Knights of Columbus, is sponsoring its "Dance of the Year" Aug. 4 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Walled Lake New Casino Ballroom. Richard Maltby and his orchestra will provide music.

Advance sale tickets are being donated to the Knights of Columbus by the Casino Management. Information may be obtained from Jack Tomalis, K. of C. publicity chairman.

Round-the-Clock Guard Placed on Marlette

MARLETTE — A third patrolman has been added to the Marlette Police Department, which will give Marlette round-the-clock police protection.

William J. Wood, for the past 19 months has been with the Holly department. He formerly lived in Marlette and was on the city volunteer fire department.

New Charter Is Adopted by Southfield Commission

SOUTHFIELD—A second charter for this proposed city has been adopted by charter commission members and a rough draft will be printed and put in the hands of citizens by Sept. 1, Charter Commissioner Russell H. Cullen said this morning.

The charter commission met last night to finally vote on the document. Its completion was due at last night's deadline. Official deadline was Monday but the commission finished wording of the charter's provisions last night.

In about three or four weeks, there will be a public hearing in order to get a consensus of public opinion, Cullen said today.

Voters will cast their ballots Oct. 22 to accept or reject the new charter. The first was turned down last September.

CHARTER PROVISIONS

Some of the most important features of Southfield's proposed government are:

It would limit the tax rate to five dollars on each $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Six separate wards would be maintained, with a councilman being elected from each ward, and a councilman president being elected at large to preside over council meetings.

A mayor would be elected at large, and his only power would be to veto council measures. It would take five of the seven councilmen to override his veto. The mayor's main duty would be as the city's official greeter.

The city clerk and city treasurer would be elected rather than appointed. In most South Oakland cities, they are appointed.

Southfield would not have a city manager, but would have an administrator. He could not hire or fire city employees; that would be the job of the council. The administrator would coordinate city affairs.

A justice court would be held by the city for the first five years of its existence. Then, it would automatically switch to a municipal court with broader powers.

Cullen said parts of the new charter were borrowed from Ann Arbor, Berkeley, Royal Oak, Detroit and other communities.

In talking about the low tax rate, Cullen said that when Southfield residents are ready to demand more costly services, they may petition to increase the tax rate.

He also said he believes that

Southfield industry, if the city borders are kept intact, will help support city service. Northland alone would provide a good tax source for the new community.

The proposed city boundaries include the whole of the former Southfield Township.

Fire-Hit Factory Cleaning Up Today

ROCHESTER — The Oakland Foundry & Machine Co. here is still cleaning up today after a $100,000 fire wiped out a third of its entire plant early yesterday.

J. H. Gardener, president and general manager of the concern, said that the cause of the blaze is still undetermined. He added that the plant expects to get back into partial production inside of one week.

SUSAN McKNIGHT

The betrothal of Susan McKnight to John F. Tuscany, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald F. Tuscany, 6161 Middle Lake Rd., Clarkston, was revealed at an engagement tea yesterday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin H. McKnight, of East Lansing. She attended Albion College and was graduated from University of Michigan. She belongs to Alpha Chi Omega and the Junior League. Her fiancé is a graduate of Michigan State University.

Hollywood Headlines

Mark Tony Perkins Well — He's on His Way Up

By DOROTHY MANNERS
HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Henry Fonda returns to Hollywood by Oct. 1 to start "The Tin Star," a glorified western, for William Perleberg and George Seaton at Paramount. And the boy who is coming up the fastest of any young actor in Hollywood, Tony Perkins, also is in this picture.

Mark this Tony Perkins well. Not that I want to be clobbered by the loyal fans of James Dean, but since Jimmy has there been a young actor with the talent and appeal of this boy.

By the time he starts the Perleberg-Seaton picture he should be established as a full fledged star. He has a backlog of big pictures: "Friendly Persuasion," (with Gary Cooper), "The Lonely Man," (Jack Palance), "The Actress," with Jean Simmons and "The Jim Piersall Story" to put him over.

Ava Gardner's new heartbeat, good-looking Italian Walter Chiari, gets the comedy role in "The Little Hut," and if she didn't like him she wouldn't have him around that close, you can bet on that.

Chiari plays the chef, shipwrecked at the same time with Ava, Stewart Granger and David Niven, who pretend he's a native and demands Ava as his own, saying it's an old tribal custom.

Heavenly Day! First a minister's daughter, Carol Morris, wins the "Miss Universe" contest and gets a U-I contract, and now a minister's wife, Marie Cheseboro, wife of the Rev. Alan Cheseboro, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Sherman Oaks, is being tested by Hal Wallis.

Mrs. Cheseboro, who is blonde and very pretty, is a summer vacation neighbor, along with her husband, of the Wendell Coreys at Malibu. When Wendell, who is in "The Rainmaker" for Wallis, found out she has acting ambitions he told Hal about her.

Here and There: Houseguesting with Diana Dors and her husband Dennis Hamilton in their new Beverly Hills home is Raymond, famed hair stylist and TV coiffeur from London. He's brought with him the sketch for a new hair arrangement for Diana called "what else—" "The Diana Dors Do." It's for blondes only.

Valerie French has decided that movie making at Columbia is talent at Columbia, has set up a Bob Francis scholarship as a perpetual memorial to Francis, who was killed in a plane crash. It's for actors between the ages of 19 and 25 for one year.

If your feet hurt you'll appreciate these lines of dialogue from "The Burning Hills." Natalie Wood says to Tab Hunter, "What do you want out of life?" says Tab, "I just want to get to the place where I can take my boots off."

Hollywood in Shorts: Gordon Scott is back in the hospital for minor surgery and, of course, his bride, Vera Miles, is at his bedside.

Judy Garland continues to smash records at the New Frontier in Las Vegas—sensational business.

Rhonda Fleming spends her birthday Aug. 8 on the road, boating the ton-ton for "Queen of Babylon," the movie she made in Italy a year and a half ago.

Edward G. Robinson checked into the Beverly Hills Hotel. His friends will be glad to know that Luis B. Mayer is much improved recuperating at home.

Gloria Grey sings just one number, "One Way Track," in the show at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, but it's starting to pay off big in film offers.

Find Rifle in Lake, See Link to Gorham Slaying
MUSKEGON (AP)—Sheriff's men are trying to determine if a .22 caliber rifle found in Lake Michigan off Muskegon State Park holds clues to the unsolved slaying of Boy Scout Peter Gorham. The 12-year-old Evanston, Ill., lad was fatally shot after he vanished from a nearby camp last July. His body was found Aug. 14. Police said he was the victim of a light-caliber gun, but neither bullet nor weapon was found. The rifle under inspection was found Wednesday by Dawn Johnson, 13, and Karen Meinke, 14, while wading about 50 to 75 feet offshore. The spot is about four miles from where Peter's body was discovered.
