SEMINOLES VOTE — Two aged and colorfully garbed Seminole Indians of the Dania, Fla., reservation, Sam Huff, 94, and Louise Bills, 71, cast ballots to decide on whether or not to adopt a tribal form of government. Such a government would have a charter forming a business corporation to represent the tribe.

Detroit Boy, 14, Fatally Stabbed Outside Dance

Deadly Fracas Started in Church; Police Hold Youth, Seek 2 Others

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

DETROIT—A 14-year-old Detroit boy was stabbed to death last night by another teenager in a fight outside a church dance.

Norman Holmes, 15, was held for investigation of murder in the death of Lloyd Pennington.

Police said Holmes admitted taunting Pennington inside the church and later stabbing the boy in the street.

Holmes claimed, according to police, that he was handed the murder weapon—a pocket knife—by another boy, Bob Fortin, who is being sought.

Officers also were looking for Ray Garney, 16, who Holmes said also handed him a knife.

Detective Sgt. John Zimmerman said Holmes told him: Eight other juveniles rounded up at the scene were held by police as witnesses.

Holmes was captured by an unidentified citizen after a block-long chase following the killing.

Pennington, stabbed once in the chest and twice in the back, was dead on arrival at a Detroit hospital.

"He was pounding me with his fists and I lost control of my temper. Then someone pushed a knife into my hand," Zimmerman said the fight started accidentally by another youth's cigarette.

After an argument Holmes and Pennington left the dance and went to a vacant lot across the street with a crowd of youths following, Zimmerman said.

Both boys are white.

The church dance was held to combat juvenile delinquency.

Bloomfield Man Dies After Car Accident

What appeared to be a minor property damage accident yesterday afternoon at Maple and Telegraph roads, in Bloomfield Township brought death to Charles R. Bartsch, 59, of 5050 West Maple Rd.

Investigating police officers of Bloomfield Hills, after the rear-end collision between Bartsch's auto and a car driven by Joseph Magee Jr., 31, of Detroit, ordered the vehicles removed to the Reeves Service Station nearby.

Shortly afterward, Bartsch complained of chest pains. An ambulance was called and he was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

Attending physicians said Bartsch was suffering from asthma and diabetes, which, coupled with shock, is believed to have caused coronary occlusion.

EXCLUSIVE, TOO — Looks like a not-so-happy birthday party in Denver for three-year-old Wendy Winkler (right) who apparently can't have her cake or eat it, either, as it's held outside the window of her home. But the tears turned to joy later, when the cake was brought inside. For obvious reasons, the guest list was restricted to fellow mumps victims, but there seemed to be plenty of co-sufferers in the neighborhood. The celebrants are (left to right) Debbie Ivey, 3½; Johnny Penn, 3; Willie Small, 3; his brother Benny, 1; and birthday-girl Wendy.

Blast's Victim Hangs On to Life

Keego Harbor Woman Remains on Critical List at Pontiac General

The victim of yesterday's home explosion was holding her own in Pontiac General Hospital today.

Mrs. Gloria Ann Bray, 23, remained in critical condition with severe burns suffered when exploding gas ripped apart her frame home at 2818 Virginia Ct.

COVERED BY BURNS

First, second and third degree burns cover half her body.

Gas began leaking into the house yesterday when a Consumers Power Co. line was damaged by well-diggers about 8:30 a.m. Mrs. Bray went inside about 9 a.m. to answer the telephone call from her mother. The blast occurred seconds later.

Keego Harbor police, who are continuing an investigation into what touched off the gas, discounted the possibility that answering the telephone triggered the blast.

ANSWERED PHONE

"She had already answered the phone and was talking on it when the blast happened," they explained.

The victim's mother, Mrs. George Long, was weeping today from an all-night vigil at her daughter's bedside. Her father, George Long, of 2146 Willow Beach Rd., Keego Harbor, said the phone call had been about "nothing important."

Mr. and Mrs. Long left the hospital shortly before noon today, after learning that their daughter might remain unconscious in a state of shock for another 48 hours. Other relatives remained in the hospital room.

A neighbor girl, Jackie Anthony, 4, of 2923 Virginia Ct., who had been playing near the house yesterday, was the only other person injured. She was treated at the hospital for a minor cut inflicted by flying debris.

Mrs. Bray's daughter, Cheryl, 3, also was playing outside and escaped injury. Her husband, Frederick, was at work at Pontiac Motor Division.

Boy Falls Into Deep Well Hole, Rescued After 5-Hour Ordeal

BIG RIVER, Sask. (P) — A few minutes after a farmer stopped at the 17-foot mark drilling a well test hole last night, his 2-year-old nephew tumbled into it.

Five hours later volunteer rescue workers brought the walling child out through a tunnel from a trench hastily dug beside the 10-inch hole.

NOT A SCRATCH

The child, Kimdale Smith, didn't have a scratch on him and doctors said he was in "very good condition." Nurses said the lad was cheerful. When his mother momentarily left his bedside in a hospital afterward, Kim bounded out of bed to follow her.

Kim was wearing only short pants and shoes as he played with his 11-year-old sister, Beverly, about supertime. She saw him toddle to the opening, stumble and disappear.

His arms were partly raised and tightly pinned, his hands about at face level. He could move his head and as he wailed up the hole, his mother told him from above to kick his feet to keep warm in the chilling night air of west-central Canada. Two inches of water filled the bottom of the hole.

CRAMPED POSITION

Because of the cramped position a noose of rope couldn't be slipped over his shoulders and anyway, a Royal Canadian Mounted said later, it was "too dangerous an operation."

Predict Sunny Skies Through Saturday

Fair is the word on weather for the Pontiac area tonight. The low will be around 60 degrees.

Sunny and pleasant is the outlook for tomorrow. The mercury is expected to reach a high of 83. The evening low will be from 60 to 63 degrees.

The outlook for Saturday is continued fair.

In downtown Pontiac the lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 a.m. was 55. At 1 p.m. the mercury stood at 79.

Chummy Talks With Racketeers Put in Record

Hotel Payment Survey Involves Union Funds From Detroit Area

WASHINGTON (P) — The Senate Rackets Committee planned to play more wire-tapped telephone conversations today to jog James R. Hoffa's memory on alleged dealing with New York racketeers.

Hoffa, Midwest Teamsters boss, is the odds-on choice to succeed Dave Beck as president of the giant truck drivers union.

He was recalled for a third day of quizzing on ties the committee says he had with Johnny Dio and other hoodlums.

Already in evidence is one recorded phone talk between Hoffa and Dio, back in February 1953, in which they called each other "Jim" and "Jack." The recording was made by New York police under court order.

One investigator testified yesterday that Teamsters Union locals paid $5,159 on the bills run up by boxer Joe Louis, two alleged racketeers, and others who

Brewster Sentenced

WASHINGTON (P) — Frank W. Brewster, Western boss of the Teamsters Union, today was sentenced to a year in jail and fined $1,000 for contempt of Congress. Brewster's conviction June 28 grew out of his refusal to produce records and answer questions before the Senate investigations subcommittee in January.

Carmine S. Bellino, accountant-investigator, said records of the Woodmen Hotel here show a bill for $152.39 in that period for O. Byrum Hurst, "a law associate of Mr. Shelton of Little Rock, Ark., brother of the judge presiding at the trial." He said Hurst paid that bill himself.

The judge in the recent federal court trial which acquitted Hoffa of trying to bribe a lawyer to spy on the Senate rackets investigating committee was Judge Burnita Shelton Matthews.

(In Arkansas, Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs, an attorney and state senator, commented on the Bellino statement: "I have never had any connection with Mr. Shelton. We are good friends, being practicing lawyers of the same bar. I paid my hotel bill via my own check.")

Testifying before the senate committee, Bellino said the hotel bills for the persons he enumerated totaled $9,366.70. Of this he said $5,259 has been paid by various Teamster locals in Detroit, St. Louis and Chicago, and about $2,200 still remains unpaid on the hotel's books. Presumably, individuals paid the remainder.

Bellino said one of the bills charged to the union was for a Robert (Barney) Baker. Bellino described him as "a New York hoodlum — a stench bomb thrower and union goon in St. Louis and New York," now a union organizer here.

Bellino said Baker's bill came to $1,619.42.

He said another was for Richard Kavener, "a Midwest hoodlum, known for rough stuff." He said Kavener had been involved

Search Walled Lake for 2 Missing Boys

Skin-divers today are searching the bottom of Walled Lake for the bodies of two missing Detroit boys, believed drowned.

Both State Police and Sheriff's deputies are investigating the mysterious disappearance of Robert Sego, 16, and Richard Malo, 18, reported missing yesterday.

A car belonging to Malo was found near the lake at Novi Park. Inside were the youths' clothing, wallets and personal possessions.

The investigating officers theorize the boys went for a midnight swim and never returned.

Five state troopers from the Redford Post, all members of a skin-divers club, and William Jackson of Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. started their search this morning.

The use of hooks was ruled out for now to avoid stirring up the lake bottom and obscuring the divers' vision.

Malo's parents were reported today to be mystified by the disappearance of their son. They said the youth left the house Wednesday evening without saying where he was going and, when he failed to return home, they became alarmed and called the police.

When no witnesses appeared, Judge Gilmore dismissed the action. Earlier he had found that his court had no jurisdiction in the dispute unless violence could be shown.

The publishers had asked that the independent International Mailers Assn. and the Teamsters Union be enjoined for alleged conspiracy on grounds of "illegal interference" with publication at the News.

HONORED PICKET LINE

The IMU set up picket lines at the News Saturday to protest what it said was the firing of a number of its members by the News. The Teamsters honored the picket line and the Times and Free Press stopped publication shortly afterward.

DNPA officials also were scheduled to meet today with a 10-man committee representing craft and other unions in the newspaper industry and give their answer to a committee plan calling for immediate resumption of publishing by the three papers.

The plan called for the committee and the DNPA to jointly select an arbitrator to rule on the discharge of 67 mailers by the News. The IMU claims 87 mailers were fired.

While the arbitrator is making his decision, the plan calls for the Times to hire 33 of the fired mailers and the Free Press to take on 34, with mailers from these two papers working at the News until a settlement is reached. No agreement has been reached on the arbitration.

Twin City Ups Bus Fare

ST. JOSEPH (P) — The city commission has approved 5-cent increases in Twin City Motor Coach bus fares, effective Sept. 1. Present rates are 20 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. Benton Harbor earlier approved the fare increase request, which bus officials said was needed to overcome losses recorded in the past three months.

Oakland County Sheriff Frank Irons, on the other hand, has stated his department would help guide plans for the project although they could not sponsor it.

Bill Martin, 21, of 1704 Crescent Lake Rd., Waterford Township, who has participated in legal drag racing more than a year, was elected president of the group last week.

He met with other officers last night to form a set of by-laws to present for approval at the group's next meeting August 29.

They drew up the following: "It shall be the duty of every member to help build this sport by following the by-laws of the association and traffic laws of the state, thus proving to the general public that not rodding is a safe sport . . . and strive to change public opinion to the favor of the sport. Our prime objective will be to see that all competition shall be organized and carried on in a safe way."

Both Moore and Straley charged racing is dangerous. Martin claims in the seven-year history of the new sport, "only one person has been fatally injured."

"That was because of the fellow's own ignorance. He was required to have a seat belt and he didn't fasten it," according to Martin.

Answering Moore's accusation that in drag racing, "there is a serious problem of supervision and insurance, Vice President Dale Chaffee, 21, of 335 Walton Blvd., explained the National Hot Rod Association, to which the local group would belong, offers an insurance program designed to specifically cover drag strip racing events.

Promotes Safe Driving, Backers Say

Defend Plans for Area Drag Strip

Answers to unfavorable comments by a local probate judge and police chief published in yesterday's Press regarding a proposed drag strip came today from four enthusiastic officers of a group pushing the movement.

The organization in question, the Oakland County Timing Assn., and their goal, an organized drag strip, was frowned on by Oakland County Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore and Pontiac Police Chief Herbert W. Straley.

Oakland County Sheriff Frank Irons, on the other hand, has stated his department would help guide plans for the project although they could not sponsor it.

Automakers Draft Replies to UAW, Anti-Inflation Plan

DETROIT (P) — The Big Three are keeping a tight-lipped silence on what their replies will be to Walter P. Reuther's proposal that they cut prices on 1958 cars this fall and in return the United Auto Workers will go easy on wage demands next year.

Reuther called it a plan to stop and reverse the inflationary trend.

The hush-hush attitude—"nobody is leaking a word"—is a sign of the respect top industrialists have for the forensic and bargaining talents of the UAW chief.

The best talent at General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. apparently is at work on the task of phrasing a reply to Reuther's 6,000-word letter.

In saying no to Reuther, the companies have to convince the public they too are against inflation.

The impression here is that the auto industry regards Reuther's proposal as a clever propaganda maneuver. Reuther says it was a sincere proposal — not a publicity device.

LABOR COSTS HIGH

Industry circles say price tags on 1958 models, when they are introduced this fall, will go higher because of already mounting labor and material costs. They say the present contracts with the UAW have built-in inflation. The contracts provide cost-of-living and also automatic annual wage increases.

The auto industry has spent 1¼ billion dollars in styling and engineering for 1958 models. This is the largest investment ever made for model changes in a single year.

The replies of the companies to Reuther's anti-inflation plan probably will follow the pattern of their replies earlier this year to Reuther's proposal for joint union-management talks to explore "the many phases of the problems related to the reduction of the work week" and "expansion of purchasing power."

GM said the proposed talks on a shorter work week, with greater take-home pay, amounted to starting new contract talks nearly a year ahead of time. Present three-year contracts run out next June 1.

Chrysler said its rejection was based on "careful consideration of all factors."

Ford's industrial relations chief, John S. Bugas, personally informed Reuther by telephone that Ford didn't care to get into a public debate on the merits of the shorter work week.

Winner of 1957 Pontiac to Be Chosen Monday

The winner of the 1957 golden anniversary Pontiac, on display in front of the Oakland County Courthouse, will be chosen Monday night by a panel of judges.

Making the selection will be Mayor William W. Donaldson, Sheriff Frank Irons, Police Chief Herbert W. Straley, Andy Wilson, president of GMC Local 594, UAW; Vic Hoerath, promotion committee chairman, Downtown Pontiac Assn.; Monroe Osmun, director of the Downtown Assn.; Sydney Barnett, president, Retail Merchants Assn.; and a housewife, still to be selected.

The choice of a winner will be made at 6 p. m. in the city hall, and the affair is open to the public.

The car will be presented formally at the huge variety show to be staged Tuesday evening at Wisner Stadium.

Entry blanks in the car-contest and tickets to the show are both being given away by downtown merchants until Monday evening.

Both the contest and the variety show are part of Pontiac's celebration of the 50th anniversary of Pontiac Motor Division.

Dems Hold Up Foreign Aid Bill

Senate Appropriations Group May Postpone Action 'Until Monday'

WASHINGTON (U)—Democratic leaders kept President Eisenhower guessing today over how much of his battered foreign aid money bill may be salvaged. They postponed a showdown in the Senate Appropriations Committee.

With the House involved in maneuvering over the controversial civil rights measure, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas appeared in no hurry to have the mutual security appropriations bill come up in the Senate.

The Appropriations Committee turned to working on an atomic energy appropriations bill amid indications it will put off further action on foreign aid, probably until Monday.

Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz.) said some of the committee members have indicated they want further time to study figures on unspent aid funds available from previous years. These figures were submitted to the committee yesterday, and copies of that transcript will not be available to committee members before tomorrow.

Johnson announced yesterday he will vote for restoration of at least some of the $809,650,000 in new aid funds slashed by the House. Johnson said he believed a majority of the Senate will support an adequate increase over House figures.

But he did not say how high he would go.

Sen. Ellender (D-La.), who favors cutting below the $2,524,760,000 in new foreign aid funds voted by the House, told a reporter Johnson's stand made the prospect doubtful.

"But I am convinced the committee will not vote a cent above three billion dollars in new appropriations," Ellender said.

Eisenhower told newsmen yesterday he hoped the Senate would vote the full amount of the previous authorization bill, $3,367,000,000, and then get as much as possible out of a conference with the House.

To Attend Tree Parley

Pontiac City Forester Donald E. Nagel will attend the National Shade Tree Conference beginning tomorrow and running through Aug. 27 at Philadelphia.

By E. H. SIMS

Why is it that, in most areas of the country, winter brings with it so many long, rainy spells?

Winter produces more rainy spells of several days' duration than summer for several reasons. One of the main reasons is that winter's colder earth and ever-present cold air creates more of the cloud-forming or cooling action that makes for cloud and rain.

Warm air moving into cold winter air (a warm front) can set up a rainy area for hundreds of miles. Since a warm front moves forward more slowly than a cold front, this mass of cloud and rain takes several days to pass overhead.

Occasionally a warm front or an occluded front will become stationary over an area and in winter this usually means several days of bad, rainy weather. These frontal systems are of long duration but produce little lightning and thunder.

Confidential Investigator Says: Men Involved in 'Affairs' Signed 'Truth' Statements

LOS ANGELES (U)—Investigators for Confidential magazine substantiated stories about singer Dorothy Dandridge and actress Mae West with signed statements from the men involved, a defendant in the libel trial has testified.

Fred Meade, who with his wife Marjorie operated Hollywood Research, Inc., said yesterday that bandleader Dan Terry gave him an affidavit about a purported affair with Miss Dandridge. Meade said this was the basis for a Confidential story entitled "What Dorothy Dandridge Did in the Woods."

And Meade said he and private detective Barney Ruditsky obtained a statement from the late boxer Chalky Wright that he lived in an apartment with Miss West for a year. The Confidential story was titled "Mae West's Open Door Policy."

Meade testified that he interviewed boxers about "Miss West's affinity for prize fighters."

Meade, who is being tried along with his wife and Confidential and Whisper magazines on charges of conspiracy to commit criminal libel, said he also got a signed statement from Hollywood play girl Gloria Wellman that she and five other women cavorted in the nude at the home of actor John Carroll.

PAINTS PICTURE
Meade, 33, painted a detailed picture of Hollywood Research's wholesale sifting of movie scandal reports.

He said that in the year and a half he and his wife operated Hollywood Research, they checked out about 750 possible stories.

"Most of them failed to develop," he said.

PAID DETECTIVE
Meade said he paid a private detective, Fred Otash, $35,000 in 18 months to run down rumors of scandals that had come to his ears.

Under questioning by defense attorney Arthur J. Crowley, Meade denied that he "ever offered any girl or woman anything to go out and entice anyone into an embarrassing situation."

The prosecution charges that Confidential and its agents used "girl traps" to produce scandalous grist for the magazine.

Meade said he had obtained information from prostitutes "only about four times."

Earlier, the defense failed twice in efforts to show that Confidential performed a public service by publishing certain types of stories.

John D. Odum, a member of the Georgia Legislature, was not permitted to testify about stories he had written for Confidential.

Judge Herbert V. Walker ruled that he had no connection with stories read into the trial record by the prosecution.

The defense also was refused the right to read to the jury a long list of articles on such subjects as social security, cancer cures, a milk coat racket, telephone blackmailers and the like.

DENIALS ISSUED
Outside the courtroom, two movie stars who were subjects to Confidential stories issued denials.

French actress Corinne Calvet said the story telling of her purported amorous demands on actor John Bromfield when he was her husband and later on actor Jeff Stone was "absolutely untrue."

katchewan where towns begin to become scarce.

For a while after he was found, he was silent. But as volunteers rallied in for a desperate attempt to reach the boy in time, he began a wailing that at least was reassurance he was still conscious. Oxygen was forced down the hole to him.

His mother Mrs. Fred Smith kept up a reassuring conversation with the lad as the rescuers started to sink a shaft parallel to the hole. All others were kept away from the top of the hole to prevent possible cave-ins around the mouth.

The ground is hard clay soil and there was no problem of earth slides or collapsing walls such as have plagued other rescuers in similar emergencies.

With a doctor standing by, the men worked beneath hastily rigged lights to dig down 17 feet. Then they tunneled over to the boy.

Hustled out carefully, Kim was rushed to the hospital and pronounced not much the worse for the experience.

Workers Bring Up Bodies in Tunnel

OSWEGO, N. Y. (U)—Workers today reached the surface with the bodies of three construction men entombed Sunday in a tunnel under Lake Ontario.

The three were killed in an explosion when they were about 5,000 feet inside the tunnel, preparing for a dynamite blast that was to put the tunnel into use as part of the city water supply system.

During early efforts to reach the bodies, one man perished for lack of oxygen and many other workers were overcome by gas.

The dead were: Phil Aylor, 33, of Aylor, Va., foreman of the tunnel construction; Linwood P. Heister, 47, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., general superintendent; and John Lago, of Oswego, an electrician.

The man asphyxiated while trying to reach the bodies was Lloyd Matteson, 32, of nearby Scriba.

Whistler Told to Go Ahead—Later in A.M.

CLAREMONT, Calif. (U)—Chief of Police Ted Swoveland got in touch yesterday with O. A. Batcheller, an instructor at California Polytechnic Institute at Pomona, and told him to go right ahead and whistle—but not too early in the morning.

Neighbors had complained about Batcheller's whistling. Police served him with an abatement order requiring him to stop it.

Batcheller equipped himself with gumdrops. You can't whistle with a gumdrop in your mouth, he explained.

Things were not so sweet for Chief Swoveland. He started getting telephone calls—persistent, irate, abusive letters, many of them routed through Gov. Goodwin Knight.

Someone asked if he also planned to abate carols at Christmas time.

Chief Swoveland got in touch with Batcheller and lifted the abatement.

"I like to whistle myself, when I'm happy," the chief said. "You can quote me that I haven't been very happy on an occasion such as this."

The Day in Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM (U)—Sept. 5 marks the opening of the school term for Bloomfield Hills. Following the Thursday half-day sessions, regular classes for high school grades will start the next day from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Enrollment at elementary schools is now in operation, continuing through Aug. 30. Information sheets and transportation routes are now available at the schools.

The teachers' workshop is scheduled for Sept. 3 and 4. School lunches will be served after Sept. 6. Elementary students will pay thirty cents, with junior and senior high school groups paying thirty-five cents.

All sixth graders will be transferred from the Vaughan School to Hickory Grove School to relieve overcrowded conditions.

The latter school has extra classrooms and new equipment and will provide the best in educational facilities, according to Eugene L. Johnson, superintendent.

Johnson reports work is progressing satisfactorily on the new junior high school, with occupancy expected for the 1958 term.

He said, "total bids were underestimated bids, by over $60,000 approximately 5.6 per cent under budget plans."

Johnson added that students no longer will be charged fees for special subjects. This includes chemistry, physics, shop, art, typing, homemaking, physical education and lock fees.

An obliging intruder gave an involuntary assist to Birmingham police last night.

Officers said Ernest J. Morris, 46, of Detroit, was in the Richard Steing home at 930 Larchlea Rd., when he awoke members of the family.

In trying to escape, Morris missed a turn in the stairs and crashed into a wall, knocking himself unconscious. He is being held a police prisoner in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

The committee placed in evidence a check for $290 Kennedy said was drawn on funds of the Michigan Conference of Teamsters to Cawling, and dated June 5, 1957.

On the matter of the hotel bills, Bellino told the committee his own inquiry shows that a personal check was issued by Hurst in the amount of $773.73 to cover his bill. Bellino left unexplained the difference between this sum and the $752.39 total of Hurst's bill, beside which was a notation "paid by Hurst personal check."

All together, he said, $441.43 of the $9,366.70 total was paid by personal check, leaving $8,925.27. Bellino said he supposed is the total for which the union is footing the bill.

Bellino said there also was a check from George Fitzgerald for $167.70 in payment of Fitzgerald's bill. He said this was Hoffa's lawyer whose bill was $408.09. Fitzgerald's father, William Fitzgerald, also was here, and Bellino said the elder Fitzgerald's bill was $421.73.

Many of the names of those in the rooms were not identified. Bellino said they included Paul C. Allen, of the Riggers Union Local 875, for $111.96; William Buckner, head of Teamster Local 985 for $614.89; Bert Brennan, head of Detroit Local 337 and a business partner of Hoffa, $628.70.

He listed others as Al de Lamie, a former Detroit police officer now a private detective, $42.73; F. E. Fitzsimmons, business agent of Local 279 in Michigan, $160.24; Harold Gibbons, St. Louis Teamster boss, $453.95; and Hyman Fischbach, Hoffa's co-defendant, $27.65.

He said the bills covered various periods from June 17 to July 19, during Hoffa's trial.

Bellino said he has been unable yet to learn who authorized the union to pay the bills, or who arranged for them to be charged to the Teamsters. He said the arrangements for Louis' stay at the hotel were made on July 15 by Baker.

Bellino testified that Hoffa's own bill for a $27 a day room and other charges came to $1,337.62. He listed these other bills:

All Squires, of Local 299 in Detroit, $45.15; Pete Saffo, a former business agent for the Central Conference of Teamsters, $43.66; Robert Holmes, secretary-treasurer of Local 337 in Detroit, $265.69; M. Jefferson, identified by Bellino as "a Negro attorney from the West Coast," $14.28.

Stuart King, "a Teamster employee" $285.19; Mr. Kehoe, "an ex-investigator for the district attorney's office," presumably in Detroit, $57.90; Donald Peters, named only as a Teamster of St. Paul, $65.74.

S. Robbins, not otherwise identified, $422.31; Stephen Schultz, business agent of Local 283, $207.20.

Bellino said another item was for the $112.64 bill of a Joseph Prebenda, who Bellino said is head of the newspaper and periodical drivers local in Detroit.

Missing Girl Found
Lodged in 8-Inch Crack

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (U)—Missing 3½-year-old Eileen Fahey was found today lodged in an 8-inch crack between a dwelling and garage.

Officers said the child was still alive and appeared in fair condition. They said she apparently had been lodged in the crack all night.

Workers were tearing out the garage wall to extricate the child who cried out when a searcher touched her arm.

They Have a Reason

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—The First Federal Savings and Loan Association says one of its advertisements shouldn't be taken too literally. A billboard ad shows a man dropping Confederate bills into the association's savings account. It doesn't accept Confederate money, but the Secret Service said it couldn't allow U. S. bills to appear on the sign. About 10 per cent of all fire calls are false alarms.

Lights Hasten Growth

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Lights gleam all night from an eight-foot square cupola atop the former administration building of the Old Soldiers Home here—keeping some tobacco plants awake. The plants are being used in research on tobacco protein. A continuous supply of new plants is required, hence the lights to keep them growing at a double pace. Safety glass was first used in automobiles in 1926.

Expands Trade in India

NEW DELHI — The State Trading Corporation, incorporated as a private company, has quickly established itself as the largest single concern in India's export-import business and is rapidly expanding its activities. The total value of contracts entered into by the corporation in its first 10 months exceeded $26,000,000 for imports and $54,000,000 for exports. Yosemite national park is about the area of Rhode Island.

Heat Massager Is New

ADAMSVILLE, Pa. — A new massage unit has been developed by an Adamsville concern, which says that it combines for the first time in a single unit both heat and massage treatments and that it can be used while performing normal daily activities. The device consists of a foam-rubber pad with a built-in massage motor and a heating element. The average life of a human hair is five or six years.

Intricate Construction in Capsule

Balloon Flight Took 4 Years to Plan

FARGO, N. D. (AP)—Operation ManHigh, the Air Force's project that sent Maj. David G. Simons to a record altitude for manned balloons, was the result of months of work and years of planning.

The project was started four years ago at the direction of Col. John P. Stapp, the man who risked death on a speeding rocket sled. Winzen Research, Inc., which built Simons' balloon and gondola, began experiments in 1953 with high-altitude flights carrying laboratory animals to test their endurance.

Convinced a chamber could be built and an "artificial atmosphere" created inside it to sustain man at high altitude for long periods of time, Otto Winzen, head of the balloon firm, and Stapp agreed to go ahead with the ManHigh project.

They fabricated a thin polyethylene plastic balloon 280 feet long, capable of holding three million cubic feet of helium; one which would inflate to a diameter of 202 feet.

Winzen's firm built a gondola to be suspended from the big balloon, and a huge cargo parachute for landing.

The gondola, described as a "vacuum bottle" because of its construction, was needed to protect Simons from heat, cold and the deadly lack of air at the 100,000-foot altitude he reached this week.

Installed in the aluminum capsule was an air conditioner, an air regenerator, a device to remove excess moisture and a myriad of instruments to test his physical reactions during the flight.

Fifty pounds of dry ice were carried to cool the little capsule. Heat generated by Simons' body would be suffocating.

On the exterior of the gondola, heavy, crinkled foil was wrapped around to reflect the sun's rays. Since the high altitude flight needed an extra thin balloon fabric and since the flight was the most critical ever attempted, the "aerostat," as balloon and capsule were called, was launched from a deep, open pit iron mine at Crosby, Minn.

The mine, the H. M. Hanna Co. Portsmouth installation, is a mile long, a quarter of a mile wide and 425 feet deep. It provided an ideal launching site.

The balloon thus was protected from possible damage by winds, to the Air Force soon a plan to gondola to altitudes similar to Col. Stapp said he will present send four or five men in a large those reached by Maj. Simons.

House Party Chiefs Won't Compromise on Rights Bill

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The two party leaders in the House, both in their 70s, have acted more like a couple of old-timers having a wait by themselves than legislators seriously seeking a compromise on the civil rights bill.

For days Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, 75, and boss of the House Democrats, and Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, 73, and captain of the House Republicans, have been saying of each other to newsmen but not to each other: "He can come to me if he wants to work out a compromise."

Neither went to the other. This is the first time in the memory of newsmen covering Congress that Rayburn, with 44 years in the House, and Martin, with 33 years there, have not been speaking to each other on a piece of major legislation.

Each has sat tight, waiting for the other to make a move to break through the wall that has grown up between the two parties in the House on the civil rights bill.

Democrats and Republicans are anxious for as much credit as possible—both have their eye on the Northern Negro vote—if a civil rights bill is passed this year.

And if it isn't passed, the party which could plausibly blame the other would have a handy issue in the 1958 congressional elections.

The bill—until yesterday—had been in a kind of coma since the Senate passed it 15 days ago and sent it back to the House for agreement or compromise. The House previously had passed a different version of the civil rights bill.

House Democrats had been willing to make a compromise.

But Republicans said the Democrats didn't go far enough. They didn't even tell this to each other. They told it to newsmen.

Under present procedure in federal courts a man can be tried for contempt and jailed by a judge.

But the Senate said: For criminal contempt there must be a without a jury trial. The House bill would let it stay that way, so there would be no jury trial for criminal contempt even in voting rights cases.

But the Senate said: For criminal contempt there must be a jury trial not only in voting rights cases but for any kind of criminal contempt in any kind of case coming before a federal judge.

Republicans, from President Eisenhower on down, objected to the Senate bill. They argued the bill was intended to protect voting rights but that a jury trial in contempt cases weakened a judge's power to enforce his orders.

But worse than that, they said, applying a jury trial to every kind of criminal contempt would weaken the whole federal court system.

House Democrats suggested the House and Senate could work out a compromise by limiting jury trials on criminal contempt charges to voting rights cases.

At first the Republicans wanted none of that. None was firmer than Martin. They wanted no jury trial in any kind of criminal contempt case.

Then they sounded just a tiny bit less firm. Yesterday Martin—newsmen but not directly to Rayburn—proposed a Republican compromise. This was it:

Knock out jury trials for every kind of criminal contempt case except when it involved voting rights but—even then the judge would make the decision on whether to try the case himself or let a jury do it. If he tried it himself, the maximum penalty on conviction would be less than if the defendant stood trial before a jury.

Democrats suddenly clammed up. They needed, they said, time to think. It was reported today that Democratic leaders are cool to the new GOP plan.

Local C. of C. Plans Drive for 150 New Members

A four-day campaign to add 150 new members to the rolls of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce will begin Sept. 10, it was announced today by William L. Belaney, assistant manager of the group.

The 1957 drive will be kicked off at a breakfast Sept. 10, and conclude at noon on Sept. 13.

Two teams of 50 Chamber members, directed by team captains Dr. Lynn Allen and Raymond Stern, will compete to see which team can sign up the most new members from a prospective list of 300. Prizes will go to individual winners.

A similar drive last year produced 100 new members, Belaney said. Chamber membership now numbers 1,100, representing some 800 business firms.

General chairman of this year's drive is Harry J. Woodman.

See Extra Wrecking

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mrs. Amentris Hooks, 32, and her daughter Yvette, 4, were on the sidewalk watching the demolition of a next-door church. A 105-foot crane boom went out of control and smashed into their house. It knocked off part of the roof and gouged a large hole in the bedroom wall.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The International Assn. of Auto Theft Investigators winds up its annual conference today. Edward Leestma, a police officer from Grand Rapids, Mich., was elected president yesterday.

Say All Quiet in Levittown

No Crowds Demonstrate Against Negro Family in Development

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP)—There were signs today that the week-long demonstrations against the first Negro family in this eastern Pennsylvania housing development were nearing an end.

For the first time in nine nights, no crowds gathered last night to voice their protest over the presence of William E. Myers Jr. and his family.

State Police Maj. William Ruch said violence might be at end, but his men will remain as long as necessary.

The Bristol Township commissioners met last night without taking action on a request by Township Police Chief John R. Stewart that a curfew be imposed on children 16 and under.

It would take 20 days for a curfew ordinance to become effective, under township law, and apparently the commissioners felt the need for a curfew would have ended before then.

Police kept pedestrians and automobiles moving in the neighborhood of the Myers home last night. Ruch had announced the previous night, after a township police sergeant was felled by a stone, that from then on no gatherings of three or more persons would be permitted.

New Flying Machine Toyed With by Brucker

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker playfully stepped to the controls of a powerful one-man flying platform yesterday but didn't fly it.

The machine isn't slated to be test flown until next month.

Brucker declined to say if the Army will order quantity production of the machine being manufactured by the Hiller helicopter factory here. It will be eight feet in diameter, have three engines and carry a single soldier with 60 pounds of equipment.

Coffee Ring Is a Quickie

The neighborhood coffee break seems to be increasing in popularity. In some areas hostesses compete with one another for new things to serve. A coffee ring is an easy thing to make when you use unbaked caramel-nut rolls that you buy in a tube and keep in your refrigerator. It is a nice treat anytime.

Caramel-Nut Coffee Ring

2 cans caramel nut rolls
2 tablespoons water
Spread packets of topping around a greased, 9-inch ring and sprinkle with water. Arrange rolls over topping, side-by-side and standing on end. Bake at 375-degrees for 30-35 minutes. Turn out immediately and serve while warm.

CARAMEL-NUT COFFEE RING — Your turn for the neighborhood coffee break? Serve an old-fashioned Caramel-Nut Coffee Ring baked the new fashioned way. You can keep tubes of unbaked caramel nut rolls in your refrigerator and make them up at a moment's notice.

Tasty Cooked Beet Salad

Toss cold diced cooked beets with a combination of sour cream and mayonnaise thinned down with a little fresh lemon juice, chopped fresh dill, salt and ground black pepper and serve on lettuce to all those who appreciate a refreshing salad.

Use Some Underripe Fruit

To make jelly, a fruit must have, in the proper proportions, pectin and acid. These change with the maturity of the fruit; they both decrease as the fruit ripens. So, for best results use a mixture of slightly underripe and ripe fruit. The underripe to furnish pectin and acid and the ripe to contribute flavor and color.

Tangy Shrimp Broiled in Buns

What wonderful sandwiches they make—for lunch, Saturday night supper, a snack before the TV, or at a teen-age swing session!

They're flavorful as can be, with good-sized chunks of tender shrimp, crunchy mushroom slices and salty olives, chopped—blended together with tangy sour cream, mustard, and a suggestion of garlic.

The frankfurter buns are split, buttered, and toasted lightly under the broiler. Then the shrimp burger mixture is generously spooned onto the lower halves and broiled until golden brown. Serve at once, while still warm. Ummmmmm! Good.

Shrimp Boat-Burgers

1/4 cup sour cream
1/4 cup dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup chopped mushrooms
1/4 cup chopped olives
1 10-oz. package frozen shrimp, thawed and diced
6 tablespoons butter, softened
6 frankfurter buns, split
In mixing bowl mash garlic. Add sour cream, dry mustard, salt, lemon juice and blend together.

SHRIMP BOAT-BURGERS — Shrimp Boat-Burgers are as crunchy and flavorful as their ingredients. And their ingredients happen to include tender shrimp, sliced mushrooms and chopped olives, enhanced by a dressing of garlic-kissed sour cream. This savory mixture is spooned onto buns, and broiled till golden brown. They make mighty tasty eating!

New Flavor for Dressing

Stir in olives, mushrooms, and shrimp. Butter frankfurter buns and toast lightly under broiler. Remove top halves of buns from broiler rack. Spread shrimp mixture on bottom half of bun and broil 2-3 minutes. Place toasted tops on sandwiches and serve immediately. Serves six.

"It's a dressing that adds new flavor to vegetable, meat or fish salads. Dissolve a package of herb salad dressing mix in 1-3 cup tomato juice. Add 3 tablespoons canned lemon juice and 2-3 cup salad oil. Shake well and chill."

Miniature Wheat Biscuits Base for Cheese Toppings

Salads know no season but there is a definite upswing in their popularity during the summer months. Crisp, nutritious, low calorie vegetable salad, meal-satisfying kidney bean salad, and the bright, fruit-of-the-season salad are all favorites. It is a new salad accompaniment, junior-size shredded wheat biscuits, that accent the salad interest.

Cottage Cheese Cereal Biscuits

1/2 cup creamed cottage cheese
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 tablespoon sour cream
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
12 junior-size shredded wheat biscuits

Mix the cottage cheese, salt, sour cream, onion, and Worcestershire sauce together. Spread this on top of the small shredded wheat biscuits. Garnish the tops with chopped parsley or paprika. Makes 12 biscuits. Each cottage cheese topped wheat biscuit is about 26 calories.

Ham and Cheese Cereal Biscuits

2 tablespoons prepared mustard
12 junior-size shredded wheat biscuits
4 (5" sq.) slices cooked ham
12 (2"x1") slices cheese

Start oven at 350 degrees. Spread the cereal biscuits with the prepared mustard. Place a piece of cheese on top of each biscuit. Cut the ham slices into thirds and roll each third around a cheese topped small shredded wheat biscuit. Fasten with a toothpick.

Place on a baking sheet and bake for 10 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 12 ham and cheese biscuits. Each ham-cheese shredded wheat biscuit is about 72 calories.

Toasted Cheese Cereal Biscuits

1/2 cup creamed cottage cheese
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
12 junior-size shredded wheat biscuits
8 (2"x1") pieces sharp cheese

a pinch of salt to cold milk and beat. Top with whipped cream or ice cream.

Tomato Juice Cocktail. Stir tomato juice into cold milk; season with onion flavoring and celery salt.

Hawaiian Make Believe. Crushed pineapple and mint added to cold milk. Thicken with vanilla ice cream, if desired.

Honey and Orange Cooler. Add frozen orange juice concentrate to cold milk; add beaten egg and liquid honey. Serve very cold.

Fine clam chowder can be made at home in practically any part of the country now because canned and frozen clams of high quality are generally available.

Set oven at 375 degrees. Mix together the mustard, tobasco, oregano, thyme, and seasoned salt. Spread the mixture on the small cereal biscuits. Top with a slice of cheese. Bake for 10 minutes or until cheese has melted. Makes 8 toasted cheese cereal biscuits. Each cheese shredded wheat biscuit is about 30 calories.

Refreshing Punch Starts With Tea

Big lawn party at your house? Then you'll want a good punch recipe.

Cosmopolitan Fruit Punch

1 quart boiling water
1/2 cup loose tea (or 15 tea bags)
1 1/2 quarts cold water
3 cups orange juice
1 1/2 cups lemon juice
1 1/2 quarts ginger ale
2 cups simple syrup

Remove boiling water from heat. Immediately add tea. Brew uncovered five minutes. Stir and strain into a bowl containing the remaining ingredients except the simple syrup. Gradually add enough simple syrup until the sweetness of the punch suits your taste. Add ice cubes. Garnish with thin slices of lemon and maraschino cherries.

Spicy Raisin Sauce Is New

A sundae sauce that is unusual and yet easy to make is this one that includes white raisins, walnuts and crystallized ginger. Its spicy flavor is especially good on plain vanilla ice cream or may be served on most any of the wide variety of flavors in stores today. The sauce may be served either cold or hot depending on preference, and may be stored in the refrigerator for future use if it is not used at once.

Ice cream is a nutritious dessert and contains most of the nutrients of milk except in different proportions.

White Raisin Sauce for Ice Cream

1 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup white corn syrup
Few grains salt
1 cup white seedless raisins
1/2 teaspoon chopped crystallized ginger

2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine sugar, water, corn syrup, salt and cook over medium heat, stirring until mixture boils. As soon as sugar dissolves add chopped raisins, lemon juice and rind. Cook until mixture thickens slightly, about 5 to 7 minutes. Add nuts and blend thoroughly. Serve hot or cold with ice cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Angel Cake Sandwich

Slice a bar angel food cake from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department into three even layers. Cut one pint of slightly softened chocolate ice cream and one pint of strawberry ice cream into four even slices each.

Place one layer of cake on plate. Arrange slices of the chocolate ice cream on top. Add another layer of cake and arrange slices of strawberry ice cream on top.

Cover with top layer of cake. Bar may then be cut into two smaller portions, wrapped securely in foil and stored in the freezer until ready to serve.

Soda Fountain Milk Drinks Please Children

One pleasant, painless way to see that everyone at your house gets more milk is to use recipes that call for milk in soups, sauces, in main dishes, vegetables, bread, and of course milk drinks. With youngsters, especially, there's a special appeal in playing soda fountain and fixing up all kinds of drinks that add flavor and color to wholesome milk.

Cook Fresh Beets Fast

Combine 3 cups shredded fresh beets, 1 tablespoon boiling water and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a skillet or saucepan. Cook, covered, until tender, about 6 minutes. Season well with salt, ground black pepper and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

'Chetana' Wards Off Loneliness

Indian Wives' Club Breaks Strangeness of Washington Life

By ANNETTE DAVIS
(For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON — Washington can sometimes be a lonely place for wives whose husbands' official duties bring them here from other countries.

To acquaint the newcomer from their land, the women of India have formed an Indian Women's Assn. or, as they call it, Chetana. Translated, this means "awakening" or "inspiration."

The idea originated with Mrs. Hilda Raj whose husband is director of the Asian section of the International Monetary Fund. Before coming to Washington, Mrs. Raj taught anthropology at the University of Delhi and now she is working on a Ph.D. in sociology at American University.

FEELS A NEED

But, she said, despite this activity, she feels the need to meet with other Indian women in the area.

The group was formed, she says, "to give us a chance to forget ourselves and get together as Indian women. Otherwise we might never know one another in Washington."

At present there are 82 members of the association. They meet once a month in the Indian Chancery, sometimes to talk, other times to plan outings.

Last year they toured the FBI, the Pentagon, the museums of Washington, and a flour mill.

CHARITY WORK, TOO

At Christmas they dressed dolls in Indian clothes and sold them for charity to American friends.

Smaller groups within the organization have formed music, drama, and cooking circles.

Mrs. Saudamini Mehta, wife of the Indian ambassador, is president of the group. She has organized several fashion shows to exhibit the brilliant hues saris worn by Indian women.

The sari is a straight piece of cloth five or six yards long with a designed border along the selvedge. It is wrapped around the waist and draped over the shoulder.

Party saris are made of silk woven with gold thread but many of the saris worn in Washington are made of nylon. Unlike her American counterpart, the Indian woman does not discard her clothes because of style. "The fashion change," Mrs. Mehta told me, "but only in the borders of the sari."

Circle Meets

Naomi Circle of CWF of First Christian Church met Tuesday evening at the Richards street home of Mrs. Ray Patton.

Bruce, Stephen and Hodge. The boys' father is the late Dr. Peter Crabtree. Mrs. Crabtree and sons will return to their home in California next week.

Climber or Genius, Fairbanks Smiles While Making Money, Winning Friends

Editor's Note: A man of many talents, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., an American, has become a favorite host for Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, her husband. While English socialites meet and tell him social climber, Fairbanks smiles his way through British life, busily making money and winning friends.

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (U.S.A.)—As actor, producer, businessman, amateur diplomat and socialite, 47-year-old Douglas Fairbanks Jr., has one of the best known faces in the United States and England.

The son of the late silent film star Douglas Fairbanks Sr., he has appeared in scores of movies, more than 200 television films and acted in many plays.

Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, have dined as his guest not once, but twice, a double-barreled social accomplishment that turned certain hostesses green with envy.

SINGLED BY ROYALTY

The fact that royalty has singled Fairbanks out in almost unprecedented fashion has churned up a wave of acid criticism in his wake as he sails through London society. "Social climber?" sneered one envious matron. "Why, the man's the Hillary of them all." (Sir Edmund Hillary scaled lofty Mount Everest in 1953—but he did it only once.)

"When they call me a socialite," said Fairbanks, "I often wonder what the word really means. I entertain about three times a year. I dine out about once a fortnight. Does that make me a socialite?"

Born in New York City in December 1909, son of the swashbuckling actor and Anna Beth Sully, of Providence, R. I. he made his first trip to Britain when he was five months old.

Over the years he has returned regularly to England. Now he lives here.

Fairbanks is an enthusiastic Anglophile, dedicated to fostering better understanding between Britain and the United States.

His London home is a lovely house in a fashionable section of town. Fairbanks claims it's an unpretentious place, but it has an inside telephone system with 10 outlets.

Fairbanks' detractors—and he has them as any man in his position would—claim that with the house as his base he embarked on a relentless hunt for big social game.

He begged them—unquestionably. But, it is probably unfair to a handsome, charming man with a busy life, a pretty rich wife and three growing daughters, to blame a big, elegantly furnished house on social ambition.

Fairbanks is a busy man. Three film companies list him as director. He's also the director of a camera company and a ball point pen business and runs a consultant company on imports-exports.

"Now and again I do an odd job for the government," he says.

UP AT 6 A.M.

He gets up about 6 a.m. five days a week and hurries off to a studio to work on his television films, which are shown in this country and the United States.

Often, he doesn't return home until 9 p.m. And then it's for more work.

His daughters are Daphne, Victoria and Melissa. It was at Daphne's coming-out party this summer that the Queen, Prince Philip and Princess Margaret stayed until dawn. Guests called it the party of the season.

Fairbanks topped off this tremendous social success by appearing at Royal Ascot Race Course the following afternoon, looking as smiling and relaxed as if he'd been on a vacation.

STANTLES SOCIETY

The Queen started court circles by inviting the Fairbanks to the Royal Enclosure—a place from which divorced persons are supposed to be barred—and telling them how much she enjoyed the party.

Both Fairbanks and his wife have been divorced.

Born in Bluefield, W. Va., 44 years ago, Mrs. Fairbanks was the daughter of a dentist, Dr. Giles Epling. In 1932 when she was teaching kindergarten in Cambridge, Mass., she ran off and married George Huntington Hartford, the 20-year-old heir to a 200 million dollar grocery chain fortune.

In 1938, their childless and well-publicized marriage broke up. In the divorce settlement, Mrs. Hartford reportedly received more than 1 1/2 million dollars. She married Fairbanks shortly afterward.

Fairbanks inherited what his friends say was about $600,000 from his father's estate. Fairbanks had married Actress Joan Crawford in 1923, and was divorced in 1933.

Fairbanks is a bright conversationalist and a friendly man. He says he has friends in all walks of life, but the signed photographs on his walls include only well-known people.

Looking down on his enormous desk are pictures of Sir Winston Churchill, the late King George and Queen Mary, and former President Truman.

MADE KNIGHT

King George VI made Fairbanks a knight of the British Empire. If he were an Englishman, this would give him the right to be called Sir Douglas and his wife, Lady Fairbanks. Fairbanks served the United States with bravery and distinction in World War II.

Foreign governments have decorated him with everything from the Southern Cross of Brazil to the Star of Italian Solidarity.

As a naval officer in the war, Fairbanks earned so many decorations that when he wears them it looks as if he's walked through an explosion in a paint factory. They represent an outstanding war record.

Not Those Half His Age

Astaire Won't Be 'Chased' by Gals!

By JAY AXELBANK

TOKYO (INS) — Actor Fred Astaire is "through" being chased on the screen by girls less than half his age.

"For 15 years I avoided romantic interest pictures like the plague," said the 58-year-old dancer, "then what happened?"

In his latest movies genial, fit-as-a-fiddle Fred becomes involved in screen love affairs with Audrey Hepburn and Cyd Charisse—both in their twenties.

And a couple of years ago Fred was the sought-after hero of Leslie Caron, also in her twenties, in "Daddy Long Legs."

"Funny Face," with Audrey, and "Silk Stockings" with Cyd "are positively the last romantic interest pictures I'm going to make," Astaire said emphatically.

Interviewed in a Tokyo hotel where he is vacationing in Japan with his 15-year-old daughter Ava, Fred snorted: "I don't like love scenes. They bore me. The only reason I took the roles in 'Daddy Long Legs' and 'Silk Stockings' was because in both of them I get chased by the girls. I'm the innocent bystander."

But when asked about "Funny Face," in which Fred is not an innocent bystander but actually woos Audrey, Fred laughed, then said seriously:

"It had to happen sooner or later. This is about the first time in 15 years of running away from movie romance that I have more than a casual interest in the leading lady."

When asked why he wanted to avoid further Romeo reels if he can get away with it, Fred explained:

NO MUSH

"Ever since I broke into movies in 1933 I have never been a big ladies' man or lover in pictures. I would say I never played a mushy love scene in all my years in pictures."

For Fred love was confined to his life off-screen. He married his wife, Phyllis, the same year he broke into movies and they were among the most devoted couples in Hollywood until her death three years ago. Since then he has lived a lonely life. Practically his only interests outside his career are his daughter and 21-year-old Air Force son, Fred Jr.

Fred said he would like very much to make a picture without dancing scenes but doubted he "could get away with it."

"If I made a picture and didn't dance, the people would say, 'What's wrong with Fred? Is he crippled or something?'"

Paris Cool to Japanese Home Show

By SID WHITE

PARIS (INS)—Paris critics have denounced a display of Japanese architecture and household goods as being "too cold."

The denunciation was sounded in most major Paris newspapers following the showing of a Japanese house at this year's Household Arts Exhibit.

Newspaper critics termed the Japanese house exhibit "too cold," "impractical" and "entirely unsuited to French life."

Unlike the warm reception of Japanese architectural and household styles in America, the Japanese display was viewed with general disinterest by Parisians.

Observers felt the display was presented with little of the spirit and beauty of a genuine Japanese house.

The Paris exhibit, for example, was unlike the exhibit of a Japanese house in New York wherein an entire house, including garden, was displayed.

The Paris house merely consisted of two stripped-down rooms enclosed by a concrete walkway which was lined with clinical and unappetizing collections of household goods and pictures.

Paris newspaper critics generally blasted the display, in sharp contrast to expectations.

The criticism was also in contrast to a prevailing Japanese consciousness in Parisian clothing and hair styles and in some furniture and household fixture trends.

Observers felt the introduction of Japanese architectural styles, so widely adopted in modern American homes, would be slow in coming to Paris as a major trend.

This One Found Substitute for Motherhood

Career Girl Needn't Be Frustrated

By ANNE HEYWOOD

In fiction, nowadays, the saddest of all is the unmarried career girl whose friends are married and have children. She is pictured as thin, tense, hysterical and perpetually, tragically, watching the world go by.

Yet the career girls I know, and the ones who write me, bear no resemblance to that picture. I guess truth is not only stranger than fiction—it's more up-to-date!

For example, about a year ago a friend of mine told me about a girl named Kate.

A WONDERFUL GIRL

"She's got the best Saturday job," my friend told me, "and she's such a wonderful girl." Kate did indeed turn out to be wonderful.

"I'm 33," she told me candidly. "I was never very pretty, or terribly popular, but I've always had a job I like and a lot of good friends."

"Don't get me wrong," she grinned, "I haven't given myself up as an old maid! I'm convinced I'll eventually get married, but I may never be able to have children of my own. So instead of just grieving or envying others, I decided to do something about it."

FRIENDS COMPLAINED

"It all started when my married friends began complaining. They all have kids, and it seems that chauffeuring them around, to the dentist and to get shoes and heaven knows what, can be a terrible bore."

"If I could just have one day off, now and then," they kept saying.

"So I thought of a way of giving them a day off: and giving me a day with the kids which I otherwise might not have.

"I offered to use my car and take the children of my four best friends for the day, every Saturday."

"There are six kids in all and, fortunately, they're all about the same age. I pick them up after breakfast and take them to the dentist, barber, shoe and department stores. We always have lunch at a nice cafeteria."

KIDS LOVE IT

"The children love it, because it's a chance for them to be all together with a new grownup."

"The mothers love it because they get a holiday. And I love it because I get an opportunity to play with children."

"The mothers pay me nicely, but," she added, "just between us, I'd do it for nothing."

Now there's a girl who is smart, attractive, contented and calm. She has a good life, which she enjoys. I'm ready to bet that before long she'll have a husband, too, because it's the people who love their own lives who attract others. They make them want to share their happiness. If you're fond of children, and would like to work with them, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll send you my pamphlet.

Cargo Aircraft Catches Fire

Odd Takeoff Accident Forces Crew to Leave Spinning Plane

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A big four-engine cargo plane made like a merry-go-round in a freak takeoff accident, spinning on the ground for half an hour before catching fire.

The three-man crew escaped by sliding down a rope while the plane still was circling yesterday. Minor rope burns were their only injuries.

Capt. Mike Moore, 39, San Carlos, Calif., said the American Airlines DC8 had just left the ground at International Airport when the right inboard propeller flew off. "It sounded like a tire blow-out," Moore said.

The propeller ripped into the fuselage and one blade came out the other side and slashed into the left inboard engine nacelle.

Moore set the plane down safely on the runway and cut all power. But the left outboard engine continued running. Its controls had been sheared off by the propeller which smashed through the fuselage.

The plane went off the runway and started to spin clockwise while Moore and his crew frantically tried to shut off the runaway engine.

For 25 minutes they struggled. Then the left inboard engine caught fire, and Moore, First Officer Mack Haines, 32, Sunnyvale, Calif., and Flight Engineer I. B. Smithson, 35, San Mateo, Calif., decided to leave—without getting the brass ring.

They slid to safety down a rope dropped from an escape hatch.

The plane continued circling like a top for five more minutes while firemen extinguished the flames. Finally the plane came to a stop—by itself. Why, no one yet knows.

Says Nuclear Tests to Stop in 3 Years

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Testing of nuclear weapons, says a noted German clergyman, will cease throughout the world within three years.

"Public opinion in the next two to three years will be so strong no state will be able to continue nuclear weapons testing — even Russia," Dr. Martin Niemöller said yesterday in addressing a luncheon club.

Niemöller was the churchman who defied Hitler and was imprisoned for nine years. He said he expects to see his native land reunited "in this generation."

"Reunification means Germany will hold all the uranium deposits in Europe," he said. These deposits, in East Germany along the Czechoslovakian border, comprise Russia's sole source of the element, he added.

BRIG. GEN. C. T. EDWINSON

Assumes Command of Air Defense Unit

At official ceremonies Monday at Willow Run Air Force Station, Brig. Gen. Clarence T. Edwinson took over command of the 30th Air Defense Division.

Gen. Edwinson, in assuming command of the division, becomes responsible for the defense of one of America's most vital industrial areas from enemy attack. He has been a member of the military since 1933.

A combat veteran of World War II and Korea, he is rated Command Pilot with approximately 7,000 flying hours in 52 conventional type aircraft plus numerous jet aircraft.

Among his decorations are the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, Commendation Ribbon with one cluster, and the French Croix de Guerre with Palm.

Sgt. York Rests After Exhaustion From Ceremony

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. (AP)—Sgt. Alvin C. York rested at his mountain home today after exhaustion forced his departure from Sgt. York Day ceremonies yesterday.

The 69-year-old hero of World War I was presented a new, black automobile by the 82nd Airborne Division Assn. after words of praise from dignitaries including Gov. Frank Clement. York is the 82nd's only living Medal of Honor winner of the 1917-18 era.

It was the first time the famous sharp-shooting squirrel hunter had left his Wolf River home near here since a stroke paralyzed him almost three years ago. The new car is equipped to carry his wheel chair.

During the final speeches, York's energy waned and he was taken home in an ambulance, smiling reassurance to an obviously concerned crowd. His condition was not believed serious.

He was the most talked-about hero of the time after singlehandedly killing 25 Germans and capturing 130 in the Battle of the Argonne.
