Storm Leaves 2,500 in Area Without Power

Lightning cracked, thunder rolled and approximately one inch of rain fell during the scattered thunderstorms that plagued Oakland County early this morning.

Detroit Edison reported that some 2,500 customers were without service as a direct result of the storms.

Areas hardest hit included the Fox Hills Subdivision, Square Lake and Opdyke roads, 100 families without service; the Long Lake and Adams roads vicinity, 400; and Addison Township and part of Oakland Township, 1,000.

The Fox Hills service interruption was due to underground cable failure. It began at 2 a.m. and service was still out at 9 a.m.

Customers in the Long Lake and

Adams roads vicinity were without electricity from 4 a.m. to 8:10 this morning.

RESTORED THIS MORNING

Lightning burned down a substation supply line affecting the service to the Addison Township and part of Oakland Township customers, including the residents of Lakeville and Leonard. Interruption at 4 a.m., service was restored this morning by 6:45.

Heavy rain and lightning put out some 40 phones in the Oxford and Orion areas plus 10 in Waterford Township according to Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

All cases of storm-caused trouble should be fixed by this afternoon, Bell officials said.

Consumers Power Co. reported no interruption of service due to the storm.

There were a few reports of washed out roads in scattered areas, but none too serious, said Loomis.

WORKING THROUGH NIGHT

The Oakland County Road Commission reported it had crews working throughout the night to remove fallen trees from across roads in a half dozen locations.

Blocked or partially blocked by trees or limbs were roads in the vicinity of Milford, Lake Orion, Union Lake and Addison Township, according to Oscar Loomis, chief of maintenance.

There were a few reports of washed out roads in scattered areas, but none too serious, said Loomis.

7 OTHER STATES HIT

Seven other states were hit as the violent thunderstorms rolled from Wisconsin to Oklahoma dropping fresh snow into the north central Plains.

Residents of the city of 17,000 escaped injury as the twister skipped across the community. But Betty Matthews, 42, was treated at a hospital for shock after winds overturned her trailer home.

He said at least two main arteries

Other damaging twisters were reported in South Dakota, Wisconsin, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Moon-Probe Craft Launched

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Packing its own little shovel to plow the moon's soil and crack open lunar rocks, America's Surveyor 3 sailed through space today aiming to softly land Wednesday at a site chosen for U.S. astronauts.

The 10-foot-tall spacecraft—most complex robot ever tossed toward the moon by the United States—was blasted off at 2:05 a.m. EST today aboard an Atlas-

Centaur rocket to begin a planned 65-hour, 237,000-mile trip.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said sensors aboard the craft successfully locked onto the sun. The sun and the star Canopus were to guide Surveyor 3 to the moon.

Several hours after launch, project officials said the craft's trajectory to the moon "looks extremely good." A spacecraft motor needs to make only a "very small midcourse correction" to send it on a bullseye course toward Surveyor 3's target zone, officials said.

"It looks like we have an excellent bird," a project spokesman said.

TWO-WEEK STUDY

Plans called for the 2,283-pound craft to fire a braking rocket about 7 p.m. Wednesday and gently set its tripod legs on the lunar surface, ready to spend at least two weeks taking pictures and digging into the soil.

Speck Convicted in Killings, Will Appeal Death Verdict

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — The question of who murdered eight nurses in a Chicago town house last summer apparently was resolved when a jury convicted Richard Speck and recommended that he die in the electric chair.

But the questions of why the eight nurses were chosen as the knife-wielding strangler's victims and why eight young women quietly submitted to being tied, robbed, separated and slain may never be answered.

an appeal. State law requires all death verdicts to be appealed.

Getty told newsmen yesterday he plans to base his appeal on the prosecution's use of "horror pictures" of the slain girls, which he said were shown to inflame the jurors. He also said he would argue that Speck, 25, could not receive a fair trial in Peoria due to public prejudice.

ANY OTHER DEFENDANT?

"With any other defendant, and with only one victim, there would have been an acquittal. There certainly wouldn't have been a death penalty," said Getty, who has never lost a client to the electric chair in 400 other capital cases.

Except for the shovel and two additional mirrors to expand the camera's field of view, Surveyor 3 was almost identical to the Surveyor 1 which achieved this nation's first soft landing on the moon last June 2 and returned 11,150 photographs.

Surveyor 3 was aimed for a spot in the moon's Ocean of Storms, located on the right side of the moon's visible face and slightly below the equator.

The target zone, about 300 miles west of where Surveyor 1 landed, was chosen as a candidate landing site for moon-bound astronauts after photographs from Lunar Orbiters 1 and 3 showed it to be relatively smooth.

The seven men and five women jurors retired at 2:41 p.m. Saturday and announced they had reached their verdict at 3:30 p.m.

Judge Herbert C. Paschen scheduled post-trial motions for today. Gerald Getty, Cook County public defender who represents Speck, will file a motion for any other defendant.

"It's a way in which a city can eliminate the decay of hopes and dreams as well as renew itself physically," said Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, Pontiac superintendent of schools.

'RENEWAL OF HOPE'

"Maybe it's more renewal of hope than anything else," he commented.

The craft's digging device consists of a scoop about the size of a man's hand. It is attached to an expandable arm which can be manipulated, much like a small steam shovel, by radio signals from the ground.

"Surveyor 1 put man's eyes on the moon," said Benjamin Milwitsky, Surveyor program manager. "This gadget will put his hands and arms on the moon."

County Lake Levels Rising

Due mainly to last winter's heavy accumulation of snow, lake levels in Oakland County as well as in the Great Lakes are higher now than they were a year ago at this time.

A spokesman for the Oakland County drain commissioner's office said that 10 of the 12 lakes whose levels are controlled by dams are higher now than in April 1966.

The upward level differential ranges from one inch to 11 inches.

Five other county lake levels are controlled by the drain commissioner by pumping and 21 more inland lakes are in the process of receiving established legal levels which will be controlled by the drain commissioner.

UPWARD TREND

No measurements relating to sea level are taken on county lakes other than the 38 now controlled or in the process of being controlled by the drain commissioner, but observation indicates a general upward trend in levels.

How many lakes does Oakland County have?

It depends on what is defined as a lake. If any body of water with an area of one-tenth acre or more is termed a lake, the county has 1,650. If only named lakes count, the total is about 400.

Human Resources Center: Exciting Idea

By DICK SAUNDERS

The seeds of culture have been sown at the doorstep of Pontiac's urban renewal area.

Educators and city planners are hard at work trying to bring forth the bloom of human betterment through establishment of a human resources center in the southeast quadrant of Pontiac.

The concept was hatched last summer by Pontiac School District administrators. It began as a plan for replacing McConnell Elementary School.

The 63-year-old building at 245 S. Padlock is deteriorating. School administrators were also faced with the fact that nearby Wilson Elementary School, 511 S. Sanford, and Central Elementary School, 101 E. Pike, are also nearing the day when they will have outlived their usefulness.

richment programs not usually seen in elementary schools, such as a homemaking center, arts and crafts, general shop for adults and youngsters and a theater for training in the dramatic arts.

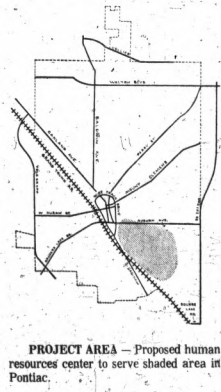

A community school program for parents to satisfy adult needs for education, cultural expression, self-improvement and recreation.

- Physically redeveloping a residential area so that it's attractive; giving the inhabitants some of the environmental factors they'd get in suburbia.
- Coordination of programs of people-serving agencies.

On this last point, Whitmer explains: "We want people to look at this as a place to go for human needs."

"We have many agencies to answer these needs. . . . Office of Economic Opportunity, welfare and health departments, the Urban League, various United Fund agencies to name a few."

RIVERS HIGHER

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which charts the Great Lakes levels, reports that river and ground water levels also are better than a year ago. They predict an increasing improvement in the next six months for the Great Lakes which implies that inland lakes also will maintain higher levels for this period.

Sen. Fulbright Urges U. S. to Cut Europe Force in Half

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright said today the United States ought to cut its European troop commitments in half in recognition of relaxing East-West tensions.

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee predicted in an interview a special committee of which he is a member will find substantial reasons to back a resolution calling for a reduction of the six American divisions now there.

"It seems to me," the Arkansas Democrat said, "that conditions in Europe are such that we could withdraw half of our troops there without endangering Western Europe's security."

"The Russians seem to be doing everything they can to relax tensions in Europe, even though they continue to make things difficult for us in Asia."

A mixed special panel of foreign relations and armed services committee members will begin April 26 an inquiry into the need to keep six divisions there when three closed session testimony from Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

Human Resources Center: Concept Excites Officials

"But they are all scattered," Whitmer noted.

"A central office in the complex to coordinate these services to people is generally what we have in mind."

The concept was endorsed by the school board in August and the City Commission in September.

Since then the following steps have been taken:

- Five days after City Commission approval, the city and school district received a $10,000 grant from the Mott Institute for Community Improvement of East Lansing, to hire personnel to initiate a study of the idea.
- In December, B. C. VanKoughnet, community action director for the Pontiac School System, was named codirector of preliminary planning for the resources center project.
- In February, J. David VanderVeen was named codirector of planning for the project by the City Commission.

The two are meeting with residents of the affected area, attempting to set up block clubs and similar organizations designed to test community interest and response to the concept.

"The plan has been explained to numerous service clubs in Pontiac."

VanKoughnet and VanderVeen are actively drafting proposals to get federal grants to finance more detailed planning of the center, including the areas of educational and cultural programming.

"We've gone far enough to know there's lots of interest in the center," said Whitmer.

Clearly, city and school administrators are excited about the concept.

"It's the first serious effort on a large scale to tie a school program to a major neighborhood improvement program," commented James L. Bates, director of planning.

"From then on, we would have to depend on additional voted millage."

While the initial beneficiaries of a human resources center would be residents of the McConnell School area, followed by those in the Wilson and Central school areas, its impact could be far reaching.

"The possibilities are exciting and almost limitless," Whitmer concluded.

2 Pontiac Areas Are Blacked Out

Temporary interruptions of Consumers Power services in two Pontiac locations caused a blackouts, affecting about 215 customers yesterday and this morning.

A flashover, electricity jumping between insulators, in the underground vault at W. Lawrence near Saginaw interrupted service today to some 15 customers in the immediate vicinity.

The power failure, reported at 9:27 a.m., was corrected within two hours, according to a company spokesman.

Yesterday's power failure was caused by a car hitting a utility pole on Telegraph north of Orchard Lake Road at 4:14 a.m., a company official said. The resulting blackout affected some 200 customers in the surrounding area. Service was resumed by yesterday afternoon, according to a spokesman.

SAFETY POINTERS

Inspection should include seeing that the seat is adjusted parallel to ground and directly above or slightly behind the crank when they are in vertical position, grips should be neither loose nor worn, handlebars should be tight and parallel to one's arms and the bell or horn should be audible 100 feet away.

Also fork, pedal, sprocket, and wheel bearings should be lubricated. The mud guards should be tight, and the spokes should be straight.

Tires should have correct air pressure and valves should be capped. Wheels should be properly aligned to prevent wobbling.

CHECKUP TIME—Thomas Nadenoff, 9, of 253 W. Ann Arbor and Catherine Morin, 12, of 151-Norton listen as Officer James L. Ockerman of the Pontiac Police Traffic Department explains the need to give their bikes a safety inspection. During National Bicycle Safety Week which began today, local police and civic-minded citizens are making an intensive effort to acquaint bicyclists with the importance of licensing, registering and keeping bikes in safe riding condition.

Bike Safety Checks Start at City Schools

Pedal pushers began lining up their bikes today for a safety check by the Optimist Club, which is issuing to every child a card that includes the bike's license number and description, plus the child's parents name and address. Although these cards are not required by law, police urge bikers to carry them.

Pontiac Police Traffic Division men supervising working groups from the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce Traffic Safety Committee, the Optimist Club and the Parents Teachers Association will visit 36 schools by April 26.

Students wishing licenses and safety checks on their bikes will be waiting with completed registration forms which they received through school previously.

Youngsters who leave their bikes at home will be issued licenses and given safety inspection forms for their parents to fill out.

"If a boy's bike is stolen and he thinks he's found it, the boy can claim it with the aid of this identity card, he added."

"Also, if an officer sees a bike he suspects may be stolen, he may check the boy and bike. If the boy has no registration card, time must be taken to check the ownership with the boy's parents."

Bikers who register for a license this week will be eligible for one of two new bicycles to be given away by the Optimist Club April 27. The license number of one girl and one boy will be picked in a drawing.

ORDINANCE

City ordinance 962 requires the licensing and inspection of all bicycles. The ordinance also requires citizens to assist police in preventing theft and recovering lost or stolen bikes, according to Ockerman.

Penalty for violating this ordinance is a $5 fine or a judgment of parent or guardian not to exceed five days; removal of bike license; impounding the vehicle for more than 30 days, or a combination of all.

Bike licenses are available at the Pontiac Police Department driver's license bureau. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to noon Saturday.

City to Weigh Zoning for Connected Homes

BIRMINGHAM — A new zoning classification that would allow rows of connected homes will be considered by the City Commission at tonight's meeting, 8 p.m., city hall.

To be called attached single-family zones, the classification was outlined at a previous meeting of commissioners and city planners.

The objective of allowing rows of connected homes, a familiar site in eastern cities such as Boston and Philadelphia, is to "conserve land and encourage development."

The proposed classification would allow no more than six homes in one row. It would also provide for a common rear lot and adequate parking.

The report cites the Purdy, Lincoln, Landon area for initial study.

A five-day program to stop smoking is being sponsored this week by the Farmington Seventh-day Adventist Church at the Birmingham Community House, 380 S. Bates.

The program, which consists of educational films, medical lectures, methods of developing will power and short films on weight control, is being held through Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Previously held in Livonia and Farmington, the program is conducted by a team of doctors, headed by former Pontiac surgeon Dr. Arthur Weaver, now on the staff of Wayne State University and Veteran's Hospital.

King, who said he had "perhaps more experience than the New York police" in estimating crowds challenged the official figure of 125,000 here, and fixed the turnout at 300,000 or 400,000.

The San Francisco rally, he said, drew at least 15,000 more demonstrators than the police total of 60,000.

Of concern in the protests, Rusk said, was "that the authorities in Hanoi may misunderstand this sort of thing, and the real effect of these demonstrations will be to prolong the war and not to shorten it."

'Message From Guevara' Revives Speculation

By FENTON WHEELER
HAVANA (AP) — The announcement of a message from Ernesto (Che) Guevara seems an obvious sign in Cuba's campaign to foment revolution in Latin America, but it does little to solve the mystery of the bearded guerrilla leader who dropped from sight more than two years ago.

The question remains: Where is Che and what is he doing?

Speculation about Argentine-born Guevara was revived Sunday when the Communist-Leninist Organization of Solidarity of the Peoples of Africa, Asia and Latin America — OSPAAAL — distributed a message it said was sent by him.

The 5,000-word statement urged world revolution against imperialism, with the United States the No. 1 target.

HATED ELEMENT
"Hated is an element in the struggle," the statement said. It mentioned events as recent as last month, Guevara's last recorded public appearance was March 14, 1965.

In pamphlet form, the message contained photographs presumably of Guevara without a beard and sporting a trim haircut. One bearded photograph of a man in guerrilla uniform could have been almost anybody, but two other pictures were close likenesses to the former key aide and close friend of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

In three other photographs, a bearded Guevara was easily recognizable.

counted it. Guevara's message did not clarify this but said: "New Uruguay, Honduras and Haiti uprisings shall take place in supporting Castro's speech and these and other countries of our

Fear for Girl's Safety Eases in Hillsdale

HILLSDALE (UPI) — Police have theorized a struggle between an unidentified man and woman Saturday night, thought to be an abduction at first, was nothing more than a fight between a college coed and her boyfriend.

Late Saturday a Hillsdale man reported seeing a struggle in which a man forced a girl into his car and drove away.

Police immediately began investigating the possibility of a kidnapping.

"The man was reported to be driving a light-blue convertible," a police spokesman said.

"We searched every convertible, blue or otherwise, at roadblocks and on parked streets in Hillsdale County and found nothing."

NO REPORTS FILED
Police reported yesterday that no missing person reports had been filed.

Police reported that occupants of a light-blue convertible had tried earlier Saturday to force two Hillsdale boys into their car.

At Bridgeport, about 100 miles away, police reported the driver of a similar car tried to lure two young girls, aged 10 and 11, into his car.

Police, at first, thought there might be a connection in the three separate incidents. "But this Hillsdale hassle just looks like a little boy-girl problem in a college town," a state police spokesman said.

By Wednesday, officials said, most stores, factories and warehouses should have their accumulated goods delivered to their customers and distributors.

Truckers resumed operations at the request of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who asked Friday that negotiators for 4,700 trucking firms and 56,000 drivers and workers on docks and in warehouses meet Tuesday in Washington with Wirtz to seek a solution to their contract dispute.

Union drivers in the Chicago area have demanded a 90-cent hourly wage increase, about 20 cents an hour more than drivers in other sections of the country would receive under terms of a tentative national agreement reached last Wednesday that involves 250,000 Teamsters union members.

Chicago unionists refused to be bound by the national settlement.

Dairyman Ed Fodick Says Farewell To His Prize Holstein

Dairy Farm Luxury He Couldn't Afford

By JEAN SAILLE

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP — Ed Fodick, a dairy farmer here for the past 32 years, had an opportunity to sleep late the last two mornings.

The reason? He sold his 55-head Holstein dairy herd at an auction Friday.

"There was no one around to take care of the cows any more. Labor has become a big problem," the 53-year-old farmer said.

Fodick who lives with his father, Royal, and a daughter, Lina, at 1516 Snell hasn't quite made up his mind what he'll do next.

One thing he knows is that his kind of dairy farming was a luxury he could no longer afford.

INVESTMENT NECESSARY
"It would take a $100,000 investment to put in automatic equipment to turn this into a money-making proposition," he said.

Fodick is not alone in his decision to get out of the dairy business.

According to auctioneer, Paul Hillman of Armada Township, there's an increasing number of such sales.

"These small farmers needed that 2 cents a quart raise that the National Farmers Organization fought for.

COULDN'T AFFORD HELP

"If Fodick were to hire the kind of help he needs to run this place, he couldn't afford to pay more than $1 an hour and he wouldn't have anything left over for himself.

"On top of that the rising property taxes are hurting these farmers," Hillman declared.

Fodick volunteered that his property taxes have gone up $300 in the last year to more than $1,200.

A member of the Michigan Milk Producers Association for years, Fodick took no part in the recent NFO milk holdback.

"TOO BUSY"

He was probably too busy. A dairyman, he revealed, rises at 5 a.m. seven days a week and doesn't finish the evening chores until 7 or 8 p.m.

A farm the size of his with 37 milking cows could easily use three hired hands.

"I had some, but they all went off to the Vietnam war," he said.

The buyers came Friday mostly from the north and the west. There are few dairy herds left in Oakland County.

Now all Fodick has to worry about is his 172 acres of cropland and pasture — and one dog and one cat.

Milk Price War Is Over

By ED BLUNDEN

IMLAY CITY — The "milk war" has come to an end with heavy losses on both sides and no apparent victor.

The National Farmers Organization (NFO) put up a good fight, apparently winning on some fronts but losing on others.

At this headquarters, where one of the large Michigan Milk Producers Association (MMPA) warehouses is located, things were lively for a while with reports of shootings — at milk trucks — and dynamiting last month.

It was also the command post (a trailer) for the NFO milk withholding action in the area. The withholding action ended early this month and despite all efforts, the price of milk remained exactly where it was — $5.50 per hundred pounds.

Neil Crawford of Lam, Lapeer County chairman of NFO, said today he believes a milk increase will eventually be granted. "I can see it coming," he said.

Leland Martus of Brown City attended a department of Agriculture hearing on the price of milk last Thursday in Cleveland and was not as optimistic.

Members of the NFO and the MMPA testified on the need for a higher government-set price. The increase sought was 40 cents, 60 cents short of the NFO goal.

"I didn't hear anyone testify against the need for the raise," Martus said, but added "It's not enough."

Huron Valley OKs Budget

Preliminary Figure Is Put at $3,555,900

MILFORD — A $3,555,900 preliminary budget, which represents an increase of $516,488 over the current budget, has been approved by the Huron Valley Board of Education.

The largest single item in the budget, instruction, is estimated at $2,450,170 or $349,528 more than in the current budget.

The increase, according to school officials, is the result of normal staff increments based on this year's salary schedule and additional personnel for a new elementary school and increased services.

Other expenses include administration, $144,948; plant operation, $276,074; maintenance, $175,827; transportation, $243,810; health service, $3,450; fixed charges, $139,050; capital outlay, $83,330; community service, $11,000; food services, $20,000; and outgoing transfers, $6,061.

Revenues are expected to total $3,817,900.

Leonard Council Meets April 24th to Act on Budget

LEONARD — The Village Council will meet April 24 for the purpose of acting upon a preliminary budget.

Items to be included, as discussed at a recent council meeting, will be the repair of village streets and construction of a chloride storage shed at the village garage. It will also include the laying of a cement floor in part of the present garage.

Councilmen have ordered a crackdown on junk removal within the village.

Group Is Forming to Aid Mongoloids

UTICA — Parents of mongoloid children and other interested adults are invited to a 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow at West Utica Elementary School.

The purpose of the meeting is the organization of a Mongoloid Children's Association helping children of Oakland, Wayne and Macomb Counties.

Sponsorship of the organization has been promised by Roseville Judge Raymond Cadden and Dr. Yeha A. Shavky, a Warren pediatrician.

Principal Quits at Milford High

MILFORD — James Druce, principal of Milford High School, has resigned his position, effective at the end of the school year.

He is resigning, he said, because of long distance he must drive to work each day from Royal Oak.

He said he is unable to move at this time and wanted to give the board time to find a replacement.

On School Budgets

Officials Turn Fiction Writers

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor—Suburban

Taxpayers will little note and care less, but school superintendents and township supervisors frolic about this time each year as fiction writers.

Through the use of their automated adding machines, the township and school chiefs fabricate their respective budgets for submission to the County Tax Allocation Board, the object being the annual division of the 15-mill tax limitation.

The 15 mills, which translates to $15 per $1,000 valuation, is that amount set aside by state law to be shared by local school districts, the county school district, townships and county government.

Normally, and fortunately for the financial health of all the governmental units concerned, the split rarely varies drastically from one year to the next.

The fiction is found in the budgets submitted to the allocation board. Budgets for townships begin around the first of April, while the schools begin their fiscal year on July 1.

GUESSWORK
Early spring is too early for anything other than educated guesswork. Too many unknowns exist.

For example, in most school districts negotiations — if under way — are not yet complete. Thus, the school chiefs can only guess what employees will wrangle out of them.

Secondly, the tax base for governmental units will not be known until late May. Hence, there is an obvious difficulty in projecting how much return a unit will have from its tax rate.

Still another complication for schools is state aid — a per head allowance paid by the state. While enrollment can be projected, the actual dollars to be received are not finally known until after a head count on the fourth Friday in September.

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN

Further, the state legislature has a hand in devising state aid. Just about anything can happen when the legislature is involved.

Despite the best estimates, the budgets almost without exception have to be revised in June. All of which, explains how come "tentative" and "preliminary" adjectives are employed to describe the current budget folly.

White Lake Residents to Air Zoning Objections

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — makes a recommendation to a hearing on a new zoning ordinance, the proposed ordinance will then be sent to the Oakland County Board of Zoning and Planning, which will hold a public hearing on the ordinance at 8 p.m. at Dublin School, 9620 Planning Committee for a recommendation.

The meeting, to hear objections to the proposed ordinance, was delayed after a number of residents objected to the changes.

The delay was one point sought by those who opposed the ordinance.

Designed to update zoning classification for all property in the township, the new ordinance would replace the current one adopted in 1956.

Roosevelt Dime Is Ideal Coin From a Collector's Standpoint

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn. The 1460-S, 1951-S, 1955-S and John Sinnock designed the D and the 1955 may require a Roosevelt dime. It was issued little "mining" but they can be in 1946 to stimulate support of dug up.

SHOULD BE EASY

The balance of the series should be a cinch. Coins in uncirculated condition are always desirable and investors should strive to that end—but it is absurd to believe that anything less is not a collection of value. Its worth depends entirely on the efforts put forth by the owner.

Although there are no rarities in this series it does have its fair share of scarce and key coins.

One key, the 1949-S, will probably show up fewer times than any of the others—but is still being found by the series collectors.

A No. 1 set can be had by putting together a series of lesser-grade coins and selling or trading until the perfect set has been assembled.

175 Gone in State in Past 2½ Years

Case of the Disappearing School Districts

By PHIL BROWN

LANING (AP) — At least 175 school districts in Michigan have disappeared in the past 2½ years, resulting in some sadness, some higher taxes and — ideally — better education for thousands of pupils.

The districts disappeared as a result of the K-12 law of 1964, which aimed at arranging school districts so that each offered the full range of grades from kindergarten through 12th. The disappearing districts of 1964 were elementary grades only, and their 13,736 pupils were transferred to districts which included high schools, too.

The aim was to expand the size and tax base of the high school districts, which cost more to run, and allow them to provide a fuller range of courses.

MUST DEVELOP PLAN

The law doesn't force K-12 districts on any area, though, it merely requires that a committee in each of Michigan's 60 intermediate school districts develop a plan for rearranging local districts so that each would offer K-12.

Residents of the affected districts voted on the plans, and in many cases they decided to leave the districts alone.

Some elections still are pending, but 40 intermediate districts have completed all requirements of the law. Voters in at least 27 intermediate districts have rejected all or part of the proposed reorganization plans, but these districts include some which must vote again.

The law provides that if an intermediate district's master reorganization plan is turned down, the smaller consolidations within the master plan must be voted on separately.

BACKACHE & TENSION KIDNEY IRRITATION

Common Kidney or Bladder Irritation means many men and women feel tense and nervous from frequent burning or itching irritation night and day. Secondly, you may lose sleep and have headache. Backache and feel older, tired, depressed. In such cases, CYS-TEX usually brings relaxing comfort by curing irritating agents in and out and quickly ridding you of pain. Get CYS-TEX at drug stores.

The State Department of Education reported that elections so far have eliminated many school districts which it considered inadequate, but said that after all the law's requirements are met, many still will remain.

In many cases, taxes will go up for residents of districts which disappeared "as they begin to pay their full share of high school costs," said Roger Boline, a consultant with the department.

K-12 consolidation was intended to reduce this problem by providing a larger tax base for the struggling districts, said Boline.

Non-high school districts send their high school-age children to neighboring districts on a tuition basis but, Boline noted, have no voice in the operations of the education is more costly than high school district.

Even with tuition charges, high school districts often end up paying a share of the cost of educating youngsters from outside the district, he said.

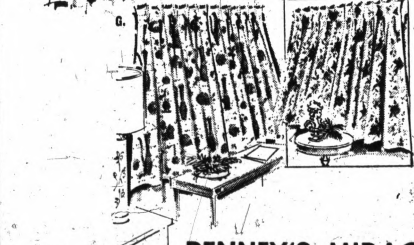

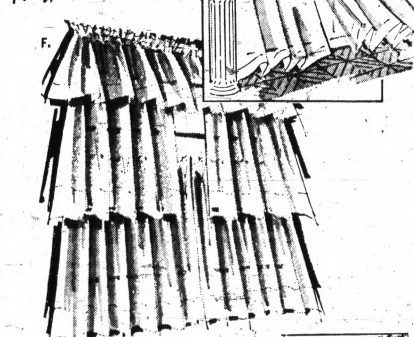

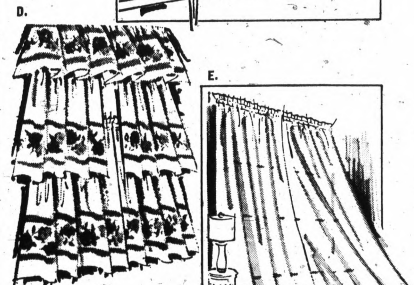

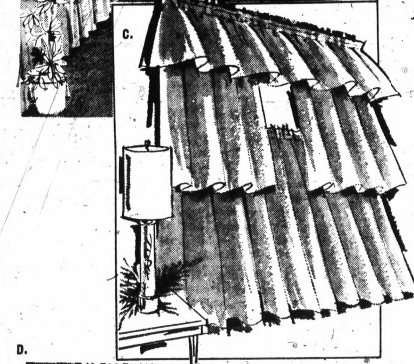

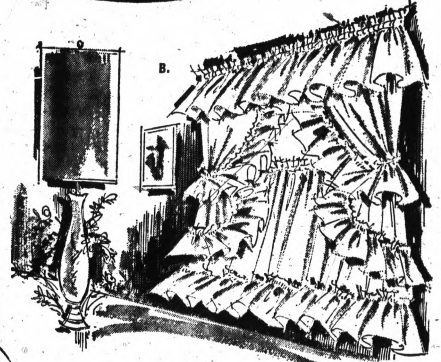

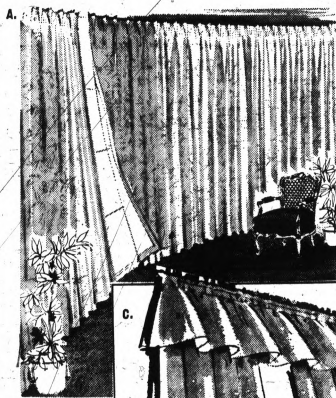

Besides higher taxes in some places, there often is an emotional issue, too.

"Many areas get very worked up when people think of having to close the building where grandpa went to school, and they lost their local board of education," Boline said.

"They like to keep this little unit of government," he said, "but unfortunately it doesn't take care of the total educational program."

Soviets Boosting Mao's Foes

By FRED SPARKS

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK — The surprising new strength of the opposition to dictator Mao Tse-tung reported in the last few days is due partly to direct and indirect Soviet intervention in China's civil strife.

Moscow is openly and secretly giving encouragement and aid to those trying to depose Mao, who is as fanatically anti-Russian as he is anti-American.

Moscow assists the rebels in three ways:

- By financing some of the anti-Mao forces inside China;
- By opening its borders for anti-Mao refugees, training them in the fine points of insurrection, then returning them to China;
- By broadcasting — on short and long wave — propaganda denouncing Mao and his cultural kiddies and urging the Chinese to be rid of them.

I was told about these Soviet moves to stiffen Mao's enemies when I talked informally in Moscow recently with Russian newsmen and foreign diplomats.

INCREASING RESISTANCE

Premier Kosygin himself practically admitted Russia's aggressive activities the other day when he said at a Moscow ceremony: "We are convinced that the increasing resistance (to Mao) will triumph in China."

Why is Moscow taking such considerable risks to press for a change in Peking?

- It hopes that a new Chinese ruler would end Peking's violent anti-Soviet policy that, it fears, is on a collision course.
- It hopes whoever comes after Mao would work with Moscow to negotiate the war in Vietnam before Russia has a perilous confrontation with America, perhaps over sea-borne deliveries to Haiphong.

• It hopes that Mao's successors would resume good relations with Russia and so repair the now splintered world Communist movement.

Speaking before Russia's Communist elite in Moscow's ornate Bolshoi Theatre in March, Kosygin said: "There seems little chance for rapprochement (with Peking) as long as Mao Tse-tung remains as chairman of the Chinese Communist party."

ALL-OUT BROADCASTS

During the last few weeks Russia's Chinese language broadcasts have gone all-out to smear Mao and fan disorders.

These broadcasts, beamed at particular parts of China in Mandarin, Cantonese or whatever is the local dialect, accurately tell where anti-Maoists are in power.

They suggest that the natives support the rebels with demonstrations and, if need be, with arms.

Some broadcasts have been monitored in Tokyo, Hong Kong or Seoul and they are often wild.

AGREES WITH U. S.

One attack on Mao said: "By criticizing peace proposals put forth by the North Vietnamese, the present Chinese leadership has, in effect, agreed with the position of the United States."

How does Russia directly help the anti-Maoists inside China?

First it must be remembered that the KGB (Russia's CIA) has been established in China since the early '20s when Russia helped launch China's Communists.

The KGB's roots are so deep it has been able to maintain contact with the pro-Soviet Chinese even since February, when Mao cracked down on all suspects after his final break with Moscow.

The KGB is now passing funds to the rebels, one or more of the clandestine anti-Mao radio stations and printing presses in China are bankrolled by the Kremlin.

These funds are being channeled through Hong Kong through overseas Chinese who regularly travel to the mainland from Singapore and Rangoon.

Russian funds to anti-Maoists were channeled through Soviet and East European diplomats until the February crackdown.

Then Mao sent most Soviet diplomats packing and he now has the East European embassies in Peking so well-guarded no Chinese, who cares to die in bed, will approach them.

SLIPPING INTO RUSSIA

Anti-Mao Chinese have been slipping into Russia steadily for the last seven years, more often than not one step ahead of execution squads.

Thousands are now concentrated, under government control, around Alma Ater, west of China's Sinkiang Province.

Hundreds of the mentally and physically agile refugees, who convinced the Soviets they hate Mao, have been trained and are now being assisted to reenter China.

The tantalizing question is: How much further will the Kremlin go to break Mao?

MOMENTOUS DECISION

Suppose, for instance, anti-Mao forces seized a neighboring province and appealed to Moscow for military support. Would the Red army march?

Moscow is most eager to avoid ever having to make such a momentous decision.

It wants to see Mao removed — if he can be removed — by a palace revolution or an assassin's bullet, not by armed foreign intervention.

Senator's Efforts to Retain Campaign Aid Worry LBJ

By PATRICK J. SLOAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Russell B. Long's dogged effort to save the presidential election campaign fund law from repeal is beginning to cause the Johnson administration some anxious moments.

No one is quite sure where the mercurial Louisiana Democrat will strike next in his battle to overturn the repeal the Senate voted last week.

And that is what worries the administration. The repealer was an amendment to the Presidents' top priority bill to restore to businessmen a 7 per cent investment tax credit suspended last fall as a move against inflation.

The reinstatement bill whisked through the house in a matter of child attending college.

days. But today marked the third consecutive week it has been before the Senate.

The reason for this sluggish pace is Sen. Albert Gore's successful effort to tack on to the measure a "rider" repealing the campaign fund law.

CLOSE TO TEARS
Some of Long's tactics to eliminate the repealer have the Budget Bureau close to tears.

At Long's invitation the Senate last week voted another tax credit which would cost the Treasury an estimated $60 million in lost revenues.

Approved was a bill sponsored by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., to give parents a tax credit of up to $325 for each child attending college.

Hoffa's Presence to Be Felt as Son Seeks Election

DETROIT (AP) — When athlete at nearby Cooley High School.

young James P. Hoffa was deciding to run for the Michigan Legislature, he went to Lewisburg, Pa., to seek the advice of his imprisoned father. It was: "Run and run hard."

James Riddle Hoffa, who parlayed a load of fresh strawberries into the presidency of the 1.8-million-member Teamsters union, is in prison, but his presence will be felt this month in Detroit.

That will be on April 25, when the son puts the famous name before the voters in Detroit's 19th District in a special Democratic primary.

Young Hoffa is seeking the House seat vacated by the recent death of Joseph Kowalski, former Democratic speaker.

U-M GRADUATE
At 25, candidate Hoffa is a graduate of the University of Michigan Law School. He wears tweed coats, button-down shirts and conservative ties.

His world is a far cry from the truck docks where a block-hard James R. Hoffa began to make his mark.

The youngster also is taller and slimmer than his outspoken father, but there is a touch of the elder's features in the son's slim, angular face.

TESTED SENTIMENT
With the displaced Teamsters boss serving an eight-year prison sentence for jury tampering, young Hoffa toured the district testing voter sentiment to his possible candidacy.

"Everyone was very nice," he said. "The warm response helped me."

After deciding to run, he made his first jittery foray into shopping center electioneering, and reviewed it this way: "A cold reception would have set me back, but it didn't happen."

PLEASED WITH RESPONSE
"There wasn't one of my cards thrown to the ground. I was surprised, and, of course, pleased."

People, he son has seen, often have strong opinions about James R. Hoffa—not always approving opinions even in this center of Teamsters' strength.

Candidate Hoffa grew up in a neighborhood just north of the 19th District on Detroit's West Side. He was a top student and

California Art Lovers Face a Big Put-On

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A square-faced and grimacing figure, the doors of the staid Pasadena Art Museum CRACK open next Tuesday, art lovers will be treated to the stark, POWER of Roy Lichtenstein's POP creations.

BIGGEST PUT-ON

The exhibition will feature 42 Or, perhaps Lichtenstein's most SMASHING put-on — an attractive blonde telling her suitor that she is a "Mistake."

The tearful face of a pretty young woman about to sink beneath angular, symmetrical waves: "I'd rather sink than call Brad for help."

critics and connoisseurs get at the museum, says: "The whole point is that we may be so offended by the commonness of the subject matter that we fail to partake of the artistry."

Says the exhibit catalogue:

"By making significant paintings out of what is considered to be trivial material, Lichtenstein not only challenged the conventional acceptance of abstract expressions, but he also asserted for another generation the radicalism of the artistic will-power and insight."

Not to be outdone, Gretchen Glicksman, a research assistant

Socialists Say Antiwar Protests Futile

DETROIT (AP) — The Socialist Labor party of Michigan says anti-Vietnam war demonstrations such as those Saturday in New York and San Francisco are both futile and dangerous.

The party's state convention adopted a resolution Sunday saying that such demonstrations are futile because they have "no means of implementation to bring a change."

And it held them dangerous because they "expose followers to rabble-rousers, demagogues and those of anarchist tendencies, and tend to expose the working class to dictatorship by the capitalist class."

"Protesting," the resolution said, "will in no way diminish the scale of war nor prevent future wars."

CAPITALIST CAUSES

"The protesters have failed to note that the social order arising from capitalist production for profit causes war; that today capitalism can function only by preparing for war, rebuilding after a war, or while fighting a war of increasing proportions..."

those "who would put an end to war to diligently study and assess the political and industrial program of the Socialist Labor party."

Mrs. Georgia Cozzini of Milwaukee, Wis., the party's vice presidential candidate in 1960, told the convention that "peace, freedom and the enjoyment of abundance can be realized when workers unite to place the ownership and control of industry in the hands of society under a government based on industrial democracy."

Lurleen Is Ignoring Handwriting on Wall

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR., Executive Director of the National Urban League

There seems to be little that can be done to save Southern extremists from their suicidal rush to feed federal laws and the consequences of the nation.

In the face of growing awareness by Southern moderates that they must speak out and lead a prosperous future marked by racial peace, the diehards clinging to their dreams of a racist past and, clutching the Confederate flag, prepare for their ultimate defeat.

The latest gesture of defiance comes from the governor of Alabama, Mrs. Lurleen Wallace, wife of former Gov. George Wallace.

She recently addressed the state legislature and proposed that Alabama's schools be turned over to her control to avoid compliance with a federal court order desegregating them. To back her threats, she talked of enlarging the state police force.

The winds of change are swirling through the South, but Mrs. Wallace refuses to come out and feel the breeze.

Southern-style segregation is doomed, and demagogic appeals to defy federal and judicial authority will only be met with counterforce.

HANDWRITING ON WALL
Most responsible leaders in the South have read the handwriting on the wall and are preparing to lead the South back into the Union. Alabama cannot stand alone in defiance of the U.S. Constitution.

A recent report issued by the Southern Educational Reporting Service documents some of the progress which has been made.

Last year only 6 per cent of Negro schoolchildren in the South were attending school with white youngsters. Now, 16 per cent of the 3 million Negro students in the region attend desegregated schools.

Of course, this is far from a satisfactory number, but the strides taken in the past year have been rapid.

WOULD BE HIGHER
The figures would be higher but for the intransigence of Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama, where less than 3 per cent of Negro students attend schools with white children.

An indication of the need for progress here is the fact that more Negro students are enrolled in all-Negro schools than in 1954, when the Supreme Court handed down its school desegregation decision.

The U.S. Office of Education is trying to help Southern school districts comply with the law by setting guidelines which measure the progress in desegregating the schools.

The court decision which so encouraged Alabama's governor upheld these guidelines and left no doubt that the federal courts will tolerate nothing short of full compliance.

'FREEDOM OF CHOICE'
Many Southern districts would like to do away with the guidelines and replace them with "freedom of choice" in which Negro parents could "choose" to have their children attend white schools. We all know that such a "free choice" often ends in beatings or firing from a man's job.

The court said that the aim of the law is "to bring about an integrated, unitary school system in which there are no Negro schools and no white schools—just schools."

It went on to say that "If Negroes are to enter the mainstream of American life, as school children they must have equal educational opportunities with white children."

This is obvious, as obvious as the will of the federal government to enforce the laws of the nation.

MUCH CAN BE LOST

Nothing can be gained and much can be lost by appeals to use force to close the schools rather than integrate them or by campaigns of slander against the government and federal officials sworn to carry out the law.

In 1963, Gov. George Wallace reached deep into the bin of outmoded ideas and came up with the pre-Civil War doctrine of the "interposition" of state power against federal power.

He made a grandstand play for the television cameras by blocking the door of the University of Alabama to prevent registration of a Negro student. He had to back down then and the governor will have to back down in this fight.

I only hope that an ugly confrontation can be avoided, for it can only make a serious situation more tense and encourage racists diehards to flout the law.

I can't help wondering why some people in high office in the South go on in their "lost cause" when the only outcome of their illegal behavior is to weaken local government and bring about the very federal activities they profess to fear.

New Uniforms

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's 57 water meter readers today began their rounds wearing new, blue uniforms with labels on the shirt pockets. Gerald J. Remus, general manager of the Detroit Water Services, said he hopes the new uniforms will help reduce the number of unread meters which he said cost up to $40,000 a year.

Forest Acreage Shows Increase

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — Maurice K. Goddard, Pennsylvania secretary of forests and waters, says the forest acreage in the nation's third-most populous state has increased from 13 million to 17 million in 1930 to 29 million now.

He told a recent timberland resources conference that most of the growth in number of trees can be attributed to abandoned farm and more economical use of land.

Improved farming methods and use of chemical fertilizers have enabled U.S. farmers to increase corn production 60 per cent in just 20 years.

'New Steering Columns Save Lives'

DETROIT (AP) — Two professors making separate studies how well "the collapsible steering column has worked."

from what we've seen thus far, new, collapsible steering columns "are going to prove real lifesavers."

The two researchers also agree windshields in 1966 and later model cars represent "a tremendously marked improvement in the cause of safety."

The two are Dr. Donald F. Huelke, associate professor of anatomy in the University of Michigan school of medicine, and Prof. Lawrence M. Patrick of Wayne State University of Detroit.

Patrick said Sunday night he was "very pleasantly surprised" as did Patrick with Huelke's view that windshields on later model cars "are working just beautifully."

"We do not get the deep, slashing type injury," Huelke said. Less severe injuries usually are concentrated about the forehead, and while multiple, usually are minor and frequently do not require suture (stitching)."

The two said a major reason was that lamination between the sheets of glass has been doubled and that adhesion between glass and laminate has been markedly improved. Present-day glass, Patrick added, is of higher impact strength.

The new adhesion prevents much of the previous separation of glass and laminate," Huelke said.

Huelke said he was about midway in a new study of auto safety, but that the improved safety in windshields is "one of the things in which improvement is obvious" and worthy of comment now.

The University of Michigan professor was director of a four-year study completed last year of 139 accidents in which 177 persons were killed. That showed ejection from the vehicle the major cause of death, with impact against the sides second and injury from the steering column third.

Woman Campaigner Stresses Air Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — To Phyllis Stewart Schlafly, contender for the presidency of the National Federation of Republican Women, the big worry is a sneak Soviet missile strike from space.

She says she wants to alert American women to "the biggest issue of the day — antimissile defense" — and pledges that is what she will do if elected May 6 to head the 500,000-member GOP political action organization.

Attractive, personable, self-assured, ardent anti-Communist Mrs. Schlafly, professor of an appealing and disarming smile, is a formidable opponent for Gladys O'Donnell, businesswoman and Powder Puff Derby pilot from Long Beach, Calif., the choice of the federation's nominating committee.

TACTICS Mrs. Schlafly, federation first vice president, says she didn't want a fight, but "ugly tactics" of opponents got her into it. So, she will launch a floor battle at the federation's May 5-6 biennial convention here, with more than 5,000 delegates expected, the largest turnout ever.

At 40, Mrs. Schlafly is a trim mother of six children ranging from two to 16 years old. She is of medium height, with short, brown hair and cool, gray eyes. Her husband, corporation attorney Fred Schlafly, 58, of Alton, Ill., also is active in anti-Communist causes.

Both Mrs. Schlafly and Mrs. O'Donnell are veteran GOP party workers.

But unity of the big female organization is an issue, especially for the 1968 campaign year. Mrs. Schlafly says, she sees no reason why there cannot be "unity without unanimity."

Mrs. Schlafly is co-author of two books warning about the Eastern "establishment" of presidential kingmakers and the Communist nuclear threat.

The engagement of Linda May Osmun to Larry Gene Childers is announced by her parents, the Arthur Osmuns of Brown Road, Pontiac Township. His parents are the Orbin Childers of Sarasota Street.

Old, New Celebrate Fate

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently received an invitation which read: "The Old Mrs. John Doe requests the pleasure of your company at cocktails and supper for the NEW Mrs. John Doe, etc."

It floored me. I knew our friends John and Mary Doe had gotten a quickie Mexican divorce, and it was rumored that John was interested in a lady from New York, but how about this?

Do you think it is normal for an ex-wife to be such a good sport?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: No, it's not "normal" — but it's nice. The absence of bitterness could indicate that everybody's happy. (P.S. Don't be surprised if the New Mrs. Doe entertains the Old Mrs. Doe and a newly acquired John.)

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is in the fourth grade and she recently had a birthday party. She took the invitations to school and passed them out to the classmates she wanted. There were 41 kids in her class and she wanted only 38 of them at her party.

After the party her teacher called me and told me that my daughter should NOT have passed out her invitations at school unless she invited ALL the kids in her class.

Since when does a school teacher have the right to tell a pupil WHOM to invite to her birthday party? I would like your opinion in print!

DEAR MOTHER: Three cheers for the teacher! She is obviously much more understanding than you. The pain of having been left out will remain with those six uninvited children long after the fun has been forgotten by those who attended.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Quality Priority

Less fad and more quality in selection of jewelry is cited. Pierced earrings are growing ever more popular and new designs meet the quality demand.

One expected to be a favorite is the "wedding ring" earring, a gold-filled hoop that doesn't jangle or swing. Pendants featuring in jade, onyx and tiger eye.

Candlelight Ceremony for Karolyn Knisley

The Thomas Bertram Frielings were wed Saturday evening in a candlelight ceremony in the Four Towns Methodist Church, Union Lake.

For her vows, the former Karolyn Kay Knisley wore an Empire gown of white linen embellished with Venise lace and featuring a detachable court train.

Her three tier veil of silk illusion was secured by a petal headpiece of matching lace. She carried a cascade of white carnations and an orchid with ivory.

Mrs. John Seaton was matron of honor for the daughter of the W. Harold Knisleys of Orchard Lake and Kay Kuchemann of Portland was the attendant.

Junior attendant was Peggy Knisley, sister of the bride. James Cruickshank of Ann Arbor served as best man for the son of the bride, Theodore Frielings of Ada. Thomas Layher of Ann Arbor was an usher with his brother William of Madison, Wisc.

Following a reception in the home of the bride's parents, the couple left for a honeymoon in Hawaii. They will reside in Los Angeles, Calif.

Bell Ringers Still Need More Funds

A contribution of $550 from the Junior Pontiac Women's Club is the largest single contribution received so far by the Eastern Junior High School Bell Ringers.

Invited by the Restoration Arts Theatre of Detroit to participate in the "American Festival in Britain" this summer, the group is seeking to raise $12,000 to defray expenses for the 17 members, director and chaperones.

On Friday the fund had reached $1,485.

The group must give an answer to the Detroit organization by May 1. This leaves about two weeks in which to raise the necessary funds.

A benefit concert with proceeds going to the tour fund will be given next Monday evening at Pontiac Central High School.

In addition to the Bell Ringers, William Condon, a Pontiac area magician, will perform.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the Bell Ringers tour fund should make checks payable to Eastern Junior High Bell Ringers.

Super Bikes for Twins

MODESTO, Calif. (UPI) — There are high-wheeling twins riding tricycles to the market these days. One is a great-grandmother.

Mrs. Roy Copeland, 71, and her twin sister, Mrs. Roy Panina, got two oversized three-wheelers last year because they did not own a car "and wanted to get out."

"The women, both widowed, don't slack and plaid shirts and ride the bikes a half mile to the market "all the time." They avoid busy streets. "We don't take any chances," said Mrs. Copeland. "We want to live longer."

One of the biggest fashion mistakes is over dressing. Your best bet is to strive for simplicity and good lines.

Why Grow Old?

There is something about spring which does things to us! There is a feeling of new life in the very air we breathe. The birds sing from sheer happiness, and miracle happen all about us, with buds bursting into leaves and flowers. All nature is having a rebirth.

This is one reason why women enjoy spring cleaning, and they do, even if it means a lot of work. This feeling also makes us wish to be lovelier. It's just in the air!

Therefore, I bring you my Nine Day Reducing Diet each year at this time. Tens of thousands of my readers watch for it each spring in order to lose from five to 10 pounds in just nine days. This diet has been tremendously popular! The following note came to me when it was being published last year.

Dear Mrs. Lowman, I thought you might like to pass this little tip along to those readers who like to repeat the Nine Day Diet periodically, so they won't panic before you reprint it again.

I, too, had been waiting to see the diet in the paper again, so this year I am putting your menus on recipe cards and filing them in my recipe box—no more waiting.

For the next nine days the menus for the following day will appear in this column. If you wish to do so, you can follow this reader's suggestion or if you would like to have the complete diet in permanent booklet for this is available.

Here are the menus for tomorrow, Tuesday:

BREAKFAST
Half grapefruit
One thin dry piece of "whole wheat toast"
Black coffee

MID MORNING
Glass of tomato juice

LUNCHEON
Green salad with lemon or reducing dressing,
1 slice lamb roast (Don't eat the fat)

One glass skimmed milk

MID AFTERNOON
Glass of tomato juice

DINNER
One piece of lean meat, steak or roast (five or six ounces)

One-half cup squash (yellow preferable)
One-half cup string beans
One glass skimmed milk
One apple

Each morning measure and put aside two teaspoons of butter or margarine to use as you wish in seasoning vegetables or on bread and egg.

If you want to lose from five to 10 pounds in just nine days and would like to have the complete "Nine Day Diet" in booklet form, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

HEALTH FOODS

Eat Better—Feel Better
What Are Natural Foods?

How Do They Improve Your Good Health?

"Vitamins act as catalysts in the system, speeding up chemical reactions without becoming a part of that chemical. Without vitamins one cannot use the food that is eaten."

The human body itself cannot manufacture a vitamin, but plants can, and animals obtain vitamins by eating plants. Therefore, our sources of vitamins depend upon the potency of vitamins in the foods we eat.

Today's modern methods of processing, storing—and preparation in the home—drain the precious vitamin content from our foods. Supplement your daily food intake with vitamins from natural sources. Make good nature your way of life!

Empire Style Is Chosen by Bride

Wed Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church were Linda Kay Seiber and Kenneth Dale Haake of Moreland Street. Parents of the newlyweds are the Walter L. Seibers of Gateway Drive and the Lester K. Haakes of Hickman, Neb.

EMPIRE GOWN

The bride wore an Empire gown of silk peau with re-embroidered Alencon lace appliques trimmed in seed pearls and a detachable chapel train. A cap of Alencon lace petals held her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white miniature carnations with white and pink Cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. James Heister of Kalamazoo was her matron of honor with Kathy Haake of Valparaiso, Ind., Gail Yick and Shauna Weaver as attendants. Best man was Vern Hovis. James Heister, William Lightcap John Gallardo and Ronald Weaver were ushers.

Following the reception in the church parlors the couple left for a honeymoon in the Pocono Mountains.

Must Think of Others on Street

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: After reading "Inconsiderate Parking Annoys Neighbor," I have to write to you and would like to title mine "Selfish Neighbor Annoys Neighbor."

How could anyone be so selfish as to ask one not to park across the street from their drive when without a doubt there is a house across the street and the neighbor has no alternative but to park in front of his house.

Many people are inconvenienced in this regard, people without garages and little space in front of their house. No one owns the street and the one I call selfish neighbor should herself learn to be considerate.—A Reader

Dear Reader: The crux of this situation is really not who parks where, but the relationship between neighbors. If tempers are kept under control, and an honest attempt is made to reach a solution, there should be no need for any drastic action.

Something can be worked out: the family across the street may be able to park a few feet one way or the other, the one with the driveway may widen it a bit so she can make the turn more easily.

Whatever it is, to sit down over a cup of coffee and discuss it rationally is the only approach within the realm of good taste and the true meaning of etiquette.

VISITING BEREAVED

Dear Mrs. Post: Can you please tell me what the right approach is when you visit a bereaved family? Should you shake hands with male relatives of the deceased and kiss the female relatives, or do neither? Julie L.

Dear Julie: At a time which is fraught with emotion it is better to avoid kissing any one except your closest friends or relatives. A warm handshake and sympathetic word or two to both men and women is sufficient, and less likely to open the flood gates of tears that may be barely held in check.

Crochet a Scotch Doll for Lucky Little Girl

Be a doll! Make one for your favorite living doll. Whether she belongs to you or the lady down the block, your best little girl is sure to fancy a cuddly new friend and the woman who made it.

Girls and dolls have kept steady company for centuries. In fact the doll was the world's second toy; the rattlebox, a noisy mixture of rattles and clappers came first.

But if wouldn't be surprising if dolls were invented by someone's mother — one who wanted a little peace and quiet.

Actually, the very first dolls were for adults. They were idols and statues.

The oldest toy dolls on record come from ancient Egypt and Greece, and some historians say the term "doll" is a contraction of idol.

Most of the ancient dolls were crudely made, although wealthy children played house with dolls made of well-modeled clay, wood, marble, ivory, even gold and silver.

Regardless, right through the ages, when tiny tots had their choice, they'd hug a floppy rag doll. Roman children played with rag dolls as far back as the third century.

Here's a new version of the old favorite. This rag doll has a new complexion. It's crocheted — in big, easy stitches. The doll is a Scottish lassie, will be 19 inches high, complete with crocheted tam and tiny plaid skirt.

It's stuffed with inexpensive cotton batting and crocheted in colorful Red Heart yarn (by Coats and Clark).

Give the lovable lassie a pair of big blue eyes, a smiling mouth, (easily made of felt), and watch for the smile on your own little girl's face.

Also, the resultant smoke tinges everything in your kitchen faintly obnoxious.

Do not believe that housewives really can fix everything with a hairpin. When the washer is sullenly bubbling dirty water onto the floor, what you need is a repairman.

Do not when something thumps or makes that curious grinding-cracking sound under the hood of your car. Forget that story about your sister-in-law jabbing about under the hood of her car.

Your car probably has an overhead-cam hemispherical engine so let the mechanic fix it with HIS hairpin.

When your sofa pillows or the kid's toys filled with shredded foam rubber grow limp, do not rip them open to put in more shredded foam rubber.

Shredded foam rubber only comes out. It never goes IN.

Do not let the water boil away when making hard-boiled eggs. The ensuing explosion embeds eggshell into the walls above your stove.

Do not say to a child, "Yes, you can have anything you want for your birthday supper."

Then, when he orders roast for sandwiches, you won't have to go through all that quarreling.

The day you decide to boil all your odd nylon stockings in order to make them one color, meet your husband at the door and tell him BEFORE he tastes what's cooking on the stove.

When your mother-in-law walks into one of those cubbyholes hanging from the living room ceiling, be ready to say to the children can watch the spiders build their little homes isn't nature study WONDERFUL.

World Recorded Services Are Varied

BOSTON (AP) — Recorded telephone announcements are available in Boston for the bird watcher, in Paris for the lover, in Germany for the parent in need of a fairy tale and in Switzerland for the deer of crossword puzzles.

The New England Telephone Co. came up with a worldwide survey of these recording services by drawing upon several sources, including the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

New York began the service in 1928 with recordings that gave the time. That particular service has spread throughout the world and in most countries is called "the talking clock."

One of the most popular of Boston's services is Mrs. Arthur W. Argue's "Voice of Audubon," which tells about the latest sightings of meadowlarks in Gloucester and towhees in Dover.

Doctor Finishes 5-Year Study

Foster Care Upgrading Urged

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. Douglas A. Sargent, director of a recently completed five-year study of emotionally disturbed foster children, says "The whole foster care system requires upgrading."

Dr. Sargent, a psychiatrist who headed the Detroit Foster Homes Project of Merrill-Palmer Institute, said the study convinced him that the foster home program, "as it exists today, is a shabby, threadbare, pinch-penny system tinged with magic and irrationality."

Sargent's team used federal grants totaling $900,000 in its five-year work with 15 foster children judged incapable of living in foster homes because of emotional problems.

Most of the children in the study had been in four or more foster homes before they were eight.

ORIGINAL HOMES

Despite original incorrigibility, Sargent said all but two of the boys in the project stayed the full five years, with nine remaining in their original foster homes, and the rest changing homes only once or twice.

All who stayed with the project improved in school work, Sargent said, adding that three have been adopted by the foster parents assigned to care for them.

What the project children got that most foster children don't get was around-the-clock attention from professionals. Social case workers continually intervened in family crises, counseled parents, demonstrated child-care techniques by example, carried and even sat on children when necessary.

A remedial tutor worked with each child three days a week. Children were given summer camp experiences and enrolled in neighborhood programs such as YMCA or recreational department programs.

$6,000 BARGAIN

Sargent estimated the project cost $6,000 a child each year, but he called the price cheap.

"To keep a patient in a state mental hospital costs roughly $12,000 a year, and prison costs $11,000," Dr. Sargent said. "This is a bargain."

He said he was hopeful that agencies and county officials will find the money to institute similar therapeutic foster home projects, adding that the alternative will be finding more money to invest in mental hospitals and prisons.

Foster parents in the project got $25 per week per child, compared with $10 to $16 a child paid by governmental agencies.

DIP INTO POCKETS

Clothing and some medical and dental expenses are reimbursed or provided by agencies, Sargent said, but few foster parents can maintain a child without dipping into their pockets.

The psychiatrist said this frequently caused foster parents to either skip necessities for the child in order to live within their allotments, or develop resentments because of the financial burden.

Science Shrinks Piles
Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain
...Except In Unusually Severe Or Persistent Cases.

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a substance with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop burning itch and relieve pain without surgery except in unusually severe or persistent cases.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, very striking improvement was reported and verified by doctors' observations. Pain and itching were promptly relieved. Then this substance starts right in to gently shrink hemorrhoids.

Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by doctors in New York City, in Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so. And it was all done without surgery, injections, narcotics or astringents of any kind.

The secret is Preparation H®—the only formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids that contains Bio-Dyne®. Preparation H also lubricates to make bowel movements less painful, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. Preparation H comes in ointment or suppository form. No prescription is needed.

Service Paper Survived War Perils

Stars and Stripes Going Strong at 25

By JOHN BAUSMAN

DARMSTADT, Germany, (AP) — Stars and Stripes, a brass tabloid begun during World War II with the idea that its life would be short, is going strong at the age of 25.

First published in London in the spring of 1942, the newspaper survived the perils of war to bring news to thousands of soldiers on the front lines. When a German shell destroyed its presses in Carant, France, the staff moved to Cherbourg and brought out the First Continental Edition July 4, 1944.

At the end of World War I, the American Expeditionary Force came home and the newspaper's World War I counterpart disappeared. But since World War II, the United States has kept hundreds of thousands of troops overseas, and Stars and Stripes is still publishing.

It distributes 150,000 copies a day to soldiers and diplomats in 50 nations from Iceland to India. A separate Pacific edition serves U.S. forces in the Far East.

ENRAGED PATTON

To the vexation of many officers, the wartime Stars and Stripes championed the rights of GIs. Bill Mauldin's unkempt and irreverent GI cartoon heroes, Willie and Joe, so enraged Gen. George S. Patton Jr. that he threatened to ban the newspaper from his 3rd Army area. The headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander, ordered Mauldin and Patton to talk out their differences. Mauldin said afterward that neither's views were changed but "I came out with all my hide on."

According to one story, Eisenhower once complimented an editor on Stars and Stripes' fairness.

"Sir," the editor replied, "we figure a general has every bit as much rights in the Stars and Stripes as a private does."

EDITOR AN OFFICER

Stars and Stripes receives no government funds, but its editor-in-chief has always been a U.S. Army officer on active duty. The present editor is Col. James W. Campbell, under the command of the Army's European headquarters.

The editorial staff was drawn from the armed forces during the war, but today only Campbell and an assistant are military personnel. The newspaper is edited by civilians, including many with experience on major American newspapers.

During the war, Eisenhower strictly forbade military censorship of Stars and Stripes except in cases of security.

Controversy arose this year when military officials ordered the newspaper to kill a news service story relating that Ambassador George C. McGhee's son was arrested in California and charged with driving under the influence of LSD, the psychedelic drug.

NOT SERIOUS PROBLEM

Campbell, a former civilian newsmen, said military interference in editorial matters has not been a serious problem in the past, but today only Campbell and an assistant are military personnel. The newspaper is edited by civilians, including many with experience on major American newspapers.

But Stars and Stripes publishes little that is potentially controversial. It has no editorials or syndicated columns of political opinion. Its 24 pages a day offer international and American news, military news, sports, features, two pages of comics and no advertising.

Campbell has lived up to the paper's appearance and has encouraged originality by the staff in an effort to attract new readers.

Headquarters of the European Stars and Stripes is a former German air force base at Griesheim, near Darmstadt. There Campbell oversees a publishing, printing and sales operations that goes far beyond the newspaper itself. Last year it employed 1,700 persons and had revenues of about $13 million.

More than $9 million came from sales of books and periodicals and less than $3 million from sales of the newspaper.

The books and magazines permit Stars and Stripes to keep the newspaper price at five cents, less than half of its publishing and distributing costs, and still show a profit. In 15 years, the concern has contributed $3 million to Army and Air Force welfare funds in Europe, where all its profits are required to go.

Despite possible U.S. troop cutbacks, Stars and Stripes expects to be in business for a long time. It has begun a $1 million program to improve and expand its 17 buildings, 204 delivery trucks and newsstands that goes far beyond the newspaper itself. Last year it em-

Firemen Late for Big Event

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It was a false alarm for firemen — but not for Carol Ross.

Her husband, excited about the imminent arrival of their new offspring Sunday, pulled a fire alarm.

Firemen rushed to the scene, found the baby had been born with the help of Mrs. Ross' mother, and there was nothing for them to do.

Mother and son were reported doing well at Mission Emergency Hospital.

Boy, 9, Pulled From Cave-In

GRAND RAPIDS, (UPI) — Nine-year-old Michael J. Van Antwerp was reported in good condition in Grand Rapids Osteopathic Hospital today after he was rescued from suffocation in sand cave-in yesterday.

The boy was playing in the backyard at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Van Antwerp, and he and a group of children had dug two holes in a large pile of wet sand.

It suddenly collapsed on him, but Michael's younger sister, Lisa, told Mrs. Van Antwerp and she was able to dig the boy out in time.

Midnight Deadline to File Tax Return

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clear off the kitchen table, dig out those old receipts, sharpen your pencils, dad, and tell the kids to cut out that racket — you've got to figure out your income tax by midnight tonight.

If your middle name isn't procrastination, maybe you can go to a movie tonight, relax with a long cool one or swing those golf clubs you've already bought with your refund check.

But for up to one-third of U.S. taxpayers, even with an extra two days for figuring, it's down to the wire with tax calculation — and then down to the post office to get a postmark by midnight.

Customer Loyal to Country Store

USTICK, Idaho (AP) — Ralph Jackson was five years old when the Ustick Mercantile Co. was established here to accommodate area farmers and he often walked over from his home to spend his pennies for candy there.

Now, 66 years later, the 71-year-old Jackson is still a customer of the country store.

Struggle Against Tipping Goes On in Soviet Union

By JOHN WEYLAND
MOSCOW (AP) — Fifty years of communism have not eliminated tips, but the struggle against this "survival of capitalism" goes on in the Soviet Union.

The paper Moskovskaya Pravda carries a vehement attack on the practice, repeating the argument that it "insults human dignity."

But the tone of the article indicates the trend is to more tipping, not less.

"We close our eyes to tips, as if we do not see anything," the paper says, urging Soviet citizens "to get rid of the old morality."

INCIDENT DESCRIBED

It describes what happened when the check was presented to a young couple at a Moscow cafe. The man handed the waitress a ruble note — nominally $1.11. When she reached in the pocket of her apron for change he stopped her with a gesture of the hand.

The paper calls this a "refined, landlord's gesture."

"Maybe he thought, let her see that I'm not a petty type," it comments. "Maybe she was glad of his lavishness, anticipating that he would not stint on anything for her."

The indignant writer, A. Yefimov, admits that he sometimes gave tips himself. He tells how a taxi driver once counted out 30 kopecks change one kopeck at a time, "subjecting me to torture by slow fire."

His resistance collapsed with the 15th kopeck and he told the driver to keep the rest. The kopeck is worth a little over a cent.

Yefimov tries to demolish any possible argument in favor of tipping. He says people tend to justify the practice on the ground that the tip takers need the money to supplement their salaries.

This, according to Yefimov, is nonsense, because taxi drivers earn up to 140 rubles a month and "waiters get as much as highly qualified mechanics."

The average Soviet salary is about 100 rubles, or $111, a month.

Senator 'Flavors' Trip

By DICK WEST

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Coincidentally with President Johnson's trip to the Punta del Este conference, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, the Senate's most Actually, of course, the sun never sets on our Latin American policy. Or at least not more than once a day.

TRADITIONAL TRIP

Ellender traditionally makes a trip to distant places during the congressional adjournment period to gather information about U.S. foreign operations. His most recent odyssey was to Central and South America.

It would have been better if the far-flung Louisiana Democrat had waited a few weeks to release his report on the journey. That way it wouldn't have been so overshadowed by the President's trip.

But what's done is done, and we shall have to make the best of it.

Ellender writes a report the same way he makes shrimp gumbo.

He throws in little geographical, historical and social tidbits that add flavor to what might otherwise be a sticky mess.

A keen observer, he notices things the average congressional fact-finder might overlook.

In the section on Mexico, for example, he dutifully reports that Mexico City "is the capital of the country."

Such information helps make our foreign operations more efficient.

As we travel along with Ellender, we learn that the mayor of Maipú, Chile, "speaks fluent French" and that the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pablo Pardo Satayana of Uruguay "is knowledgeable in animal husbandry."

Giant Desalting Plant Is Eyed

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — The U.S. government and Mexico are studying the feasibility of constructing a billion-gallon-a-day desalination plant, nearly seven times as large as any previously contemplated.

Such a plant might serve California and Arizona and the Mexican states of Sonora and Baja California. The International Atomic Energy Agency is also participating in the study.

Where Hippocrates Was Born

Greek Medical City Blooms

By CHRIS ELIOU

ATHENS (AP) — The seeds of a plane tree said to be 2,500 years old are helping build a medical palace on the picturesque Greek island of Kos.

The seeds, says retired Athens surgeon Spyridon Economos, are being sold at $5 apiece. Proceeds will be a symbolic assistance toward construction of the Palais de Medecine on Kos.

The 81-year-old Economos' plan for the project visualizes a medical school to be founded with other countries setting up national houses so that Kos will have a complete international medical city. The Palais de Medecine is the first building of the projected international medical city, with a school in which young doctors taking the Hippocratic oath would be trained and licensed to practice in any country of the world.

$4 MILLION PROMISED

Economos said the Greek government has promised $4 million toward the project, expected to be ready by 1968.

King Constantine, then a crown prince, laid the cornerstone in 1962.

Hippocrates, the ancient Greek called the father of medicine, was born on Kos in 460 B.C. It is said he held classes beneath the branches of the tree. It now engulfs most of a central square on the island, which contains the ruins of Asclepion, one of the world's earliest hospitals.

Plane trees are of the genus platanus, which includes the American sycamore.

ORIGINATOR OF IDEA

Prof. William C. Gibson of the University of British Columbia, on a visit to Kos, originated the idea of selling the seeds. An editorial last year in the journal of the American Medical Association helped launch Gibson's plan.

The seeds have been successfully germinated at the University of British Columbia after four months in a greenhouse. Requests accompanied by $5 bills have been pouring in from many countries.

"So far we have sold $4,000 worth of seeds and we have 25,000 more ready for sale," Economos said.

One Rifle Dates to 1400s

Gun Collector Has 'Museum' at Home

By ROBERT PROCTOR

MIDLAND (AP) — Have you ever seen a triple-barreled shotgun?

Elmer Caywood of nearby St. Louis has been collecting antiques for nearly 40 years, and has come up with a dazzling assortment of guns, clocks, powder horns, watches, walking sticks and many more items including a triple-barreled shotgun.

He collects "only what I like" and has a flair for finding items that would make an antique dealer's mouth water.

Many of his guns date back to before the Civil War, and he owns a Japanese matchlock rifle dating to the 1400s.

How did Caywood acquire them?

"Just looked around," he says.

"I went to all the gun shows and kept my eyes and ears open for anything I didn't have."

Ten years ago Caywood had 150 guns. Now his collection has nearly doubled, and he's finding it hard to make room for new additions.

ANOTHER COLLECTION

As you enter his house, a collection by Mrs. Caywood of salt-and-pepper shakers — hundreds of them — are the first hint of them. They carried it in huge ornate powder horns, and in turn issued it to their men. Caywood has city and some in their original state, cut-glass dishware and old clocks.

Upstairs, Caywood has a collection of gambler's guns, some hand-loaded and other with the old style rimfire cartridges.

Caywood's powder horn collection is amazing in its scope of history. Several date to the Revolutionary War, and others were used in great battles in history. Caywood says that in the old days gunpowder was severely rationed during battle, and the only men who were issued any great amount were the sergeants.

They carried it in huge ornate powder horns, and in turn issued it to their men. Caywood has city and some in their original example of a sergeant's powder horn, and it would probably weigh 20 pounds when filled with gunpowder.

CLASSIFICATIONS

Caywood classifies his rifles into the Winchester collection, the Kentucky deer rifle collection, military rifle collection and "other guns."

Caywood's collection includes an 8-gauge triple-barrel shotgun, originally constructed with Damascus steel barrels. With the advent of high-powered modern gunshells, the craftsmen rebuilt the gun with less sensitive metal and added to the ornate engraving on the sides.

Caywood says that the Japanese engravers at the time most were by far the best engravers in the world. An example of a hunting scene on the side of one over-and-under shotgun shows a hunter bringing down a bird. Under a magnifying glass, the spread of the feathers is plainly visible.

One of his oldest historical pieces is a blunderbuss, "like the Pilgrims brought with them." Its short muzzle and stock give little hint of the vital role its counterparts played in the daily lives of early American settlers.

Caywood says he never expected his collection would have such wide appeal. A guest book shows visitors have come from as far as Africa.

Wayne Jones just made the neighborhood Hall of Fame

Hands down.

You better believe it! If you don't, then try to tell the small-fry that the Michigan Bell Installer-Repairman isn't twelve feet high. Try to convince them there's no magic in his tool-loaded belt. Or that he's not the kind of man who goes out of his way to bring down a snagged kite or treed cat.

They know better.

Does Wayne Jones like being a hero? Why not? He's got children of his own. He likes and understands kids. But that's just part of his job in the Big Rapids area. There are new lines to install, repairs (sometimes emergency) to be made, and as Michigan grows, new areas to service. He likes all of it. The outdoors. His work. And the kind of future he can look forward to. If Wayne has to be a hero, he'd rather it came from the small-fry. Less embarrassing that way.

NEW MISSION FOR ROCKET — The Saturn 1 booster rocket originally scheduled to orbit America's Apollo 1 astronauts is lowered onto another Cape Kennedy launch pad for a new mission. The rocket, made jobless by the Apollo tragedy, is now scheduled to orbit the first lunar-landing vehicle on an unmanned test flight in September.

Bellwether Bomber Beats Bad Weather

By JOHN LENGEL

ABOARD USS ENTERPRISE (AP) — Night in and night out and in the worst of weather, two-man crews in the Navy's new A6 Intruder are carrying the bombing load in the air war over North Vietnam.

The Intruder goes anywhere anytime in the North, hitting power plants, rail yards, bridges and truck traffic.

The B52, billed by the Strategic Air Command for years as the nation's all-weather bomber, seldom moves north of the 17th Parallel. These eight-engine planes would be more subject to MIGs, the surface-to-air missiles, and rings of flak guns that protect North Vietnamese targets.

F4 Phantoms, F105 Thunderchiefs and A4 Skyhawks of both services are most effective when the pilots bomb visually. With months of monsoon weather socking in the North, the bulk of these aircraft attack only when it clears for a few hours or a hole can be found in a cloud bank.

SORT OUT PROBLEM

But every day two squadrons of A6s sort out the air defense problem.

"We use bad weather like a security blanket," says Lt. (jg) Kelly Patterson, Long Beach, Calif., a bombardier with VA35, the Intruder squadron aboard the Enterprise.

The aircraft is 60 feet long with a bulbous nose and canopy hunkering over two engines. It tapers slimly to a fine tail with sail-like stabilizers and rudder. Its stubby wings have retracting flaps and flaps which allow for stable and seemingly endless flight — for jets — at low or high altitudes. Ordnance men hang about 15,000 pounds of bombs and rockets on an A6 belly and wings.

Inside, the pilot and bombardier sit side by side, contemplating eight square feet of radar scopes, a television set, defensive gear, dials, gauges, radios, and assorted indicators.

NAVIGATION SYSTEM

An inertial navigation system need only be told where it's starting from and where the target is. It will tell the crew how far away the target is and when they can expect to be there, and cue the bombing radar.

With all this working for them, Intruder crews often take out a line, pushing after targets 100 miles up the Red River Delta, encountering flak and missiles sometimes for six minutes at a stretch.

Patterson's pilot is Eugene McDaniel, Oceana, Va., a father of three.

Patterson and McDaniel have 58 missions.

Lt. Cmdr. Everett (Hoot) Foote and Lt. John G. Griffith, both of Oceana, fly every day and have 52 and 55 missions respectively.

San Juan Mixes Historic Old, Growing New

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — Even veteran voyagers get a thrill out of the first landfall after days of sailing through empty seas and skies.

So, despite rain and the early hour, passengers lined the rails as the Greek Line's Olympia sliced through choppy seas to watch the island of Puerto Rico rise slowly out of the Atlantic Ocean.

Spanish-flavored San Juan was the first port of call for the 23,000-ton liner on a five-island, 13-day cruise of the Caribbean. The 1,600-mile run down the Atlantic from New York took slightly less than three days.

we neared the harbor entrance and passed almost under the shadow of the grim weather-beaten stone walls of El Morro, the fortress built by the Spaniards in the 16th century to protect the city against marauders.

A harbor pilot and two tugs helped ease the Olympia alongside the pier at the foot of Calle Marina where hordes of souvenir hawkers, tour guides and taxis waited.

18 HOURS

The Olympia spends about 18 hours in this city founded nearly 500 years ago.

Actually there are two San Juans — the historic old city and the fast-growing new.

Our trip included both as well as a visit to El Conquistador Hotel and club atop a hill overlooking the tiny fishing village of Las Croabas on the east coast — about an hour's drive through the lush countryside from San Juan.

The owners are spending nearly $8 million in expanding the hotel and its facilities. New wings are going up, an 18-hole golf course is being added, as are a second pool, health spa, marina, nightclub and casino.

AT THE BEACH

Improvements also are under way at the beach which is reached by a funicular from the hotel, about 250 feet above.

In Old San Juan, our first stop was El Morro, built in 1539 and now a national monument.

We squeezed through narrow passageways into sentry boxes jutting out from the top of the thick walls, walked through huge arched chambers where ammunition and other supplies once were stored and posed for pictures alongside ancient cannon still pointing out to sea.

On the land side, the fortress is flanked by a 50-foot-wide, 25-foot-deep moat, now covered with grass and (civilization marches on!) serving as one hole of the golf course of nearby Ft. Brooke.

RESTORED CONVENT

Another highlight was El Convento Hotel, an authentically restored 17th century Carmelite convent furnished with antiques and modern furniture designed to recreate the atmosphere of the Spanish Renaissance period.

Guest rooms are air-conditioned and balconies front on a delightful patio with tropical flowers, shrubs, trees and fountains.

On one side of the courtyard is a high-ceilinged dining room, a chapel in the old days, hung with huge tapestries. There also is an intimate bar in what once was the choir loft.

Just across the narrow street is the Cathedral San Juan Bautista, built in 1527, where lie the remains of Juan Ponce de Leon, first governor of Puerto Rico who discovered Florida in his quest for the "Fountain of Youth."

GLITTERING ARRAY

New San Juan is a glittering array of luxurious high-rise hotels on the beach and lagoon, fine nightclubs and restaurants with top-notch entertainment, modern shops and swank homes.

We dined at El San Juan's Club Tropicana under a canopy of realistic vines, palm fronds and other tropical vegetation made of plastic which revived fond memories of the Tropicana Club outside Havana in pre-Castro days.

The tables also were crowded in the casino, a vast lushly decorated room with huge crystal chandeliers. Gambling is legal here.

Take time out to visit the hotel's Hong Kong room, a remarkable replica of a back street in the city half-a-world away.

EXPLOSION-FIRE IN OHIO — This is the scene Saturday at a Circleville, Ohio, drugstore after an explosion set off a fire that spread over part of a block. Three persons are missing and presumed dead. Several others are still unaccounted for. The explosion was believed caused by a homemade bomb carried into the store.

Frenchmen Get First Look at American Comic Strips

PARIS (AP) — "Frenchmen are getting their first look at what American youth and their parents have been chuckling at for years—the funny American comic strips and their creators are the center of attraction at an international exposition here in the Louvre, one of the world's most famous museums.

The exposition is sponsored by the Museum des Arts Decoratifs and will run through June 12. An extension is being planned, however, in view of the public smiling response.

"We are highly encouraged by attendance so far, both from the public and professional circles," said Claude Moliterni, director of the French Society of Research in Illustrated Literature. "This is an exciting climax to the 18-month campaign we have been conducting to inform the French public on American comic strip concepts."

More than half of the exposition's 40 display rooms is devoted to American comic strips, their artists and scriptwriters.

The exposition also traces the evolution of figurative drawings from carved Trojan columns to space-travel funnies. The technical production of comic strips and their influence on art are given equal emphasis.

"The psychological and political orientation of most American comics is virtually unknown in France," said Moliterni, pointing to such American exhibits as Peanuts, Miss Peach, Steve Canyon and Terry and the Pirates.

"French comic-strip thinking is at least 40 years behind the American counterpart," he added.

Modernistic and illuminated panoramic strips are displayed to emphasize characteristics of particular artists. Slide projections and blowups have been assembled to give impact and clarity.

The exhibits, from most European countries, as well as Argentina and Mexico, were assembled by Miss Isabelle Contro, who spent several weeks designing and preparing the displays.

The stage-by-stage illustration of comic strip production brings home to visitors the complex and serious nature of assembly. Burne Hogarth, Mel Lazarus, and Lee Falk, among Americans on hand at the opening ceremonies, hailed the exposition's acceptance at the Louvre as a major step in recognizing the cultural and artistic impact of comics, both in the United States and abroad. Milton Caniff is to visit the exposition next month.

"Some French artists are re-visiting their thinking, and this is directly attributable to American influence," said Moliterni. "This exposition and the large contribution by American creators will go a long way toward developing this trend in France."

The exposition is scheduled to go to Switzerland, Belgium, the Netherlands and Italy this year and early in 1968. Negotiations are in progress for it to go to New York by the summer of 1968.

Junior Editors Quiz on VITAMINS

QUESTION: Where do vitamins come from?

ANSWER: Vitamins are complicated substances important to us because, as our picture suggests, they help to give that feeling of well-being which makes us delight in living just for the fun of it.

Also shown in the picture are some of the foods which provide these vitamins. Some vitamins dissolve in fat, others in water.

Vitamin A is an important fat-soluble vitamin which we get by eating carrots, milk, sweet potatoes, spinach, egg yolk, liver and green and yellow vegetables.

It helps in growth because it builds body cells.

About 15 vitamins which dissolve in water are called, as a group, the Vitamin B Complex. These contain important substances such as thiamine, riboflavin and niacin, all needed in our bodies to keep them working well.

Manufacturers extract vitamins from various substances and make them into pills or capsules. Doctors may prescribe these in special cases, but usually, people get all the vitamins they need by eating a good variety of food.

'Brain Injections Transfer Learned Data in Mice'

CHICAGO (AP) — Evidence that specific information can be transmitted from one animal to another by means of brain extract injections was reported by two separate research groups today.

The experiments were with laboratory rats and mice, but Dr. Georges Ungar of Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston, Tex., said the findings "probably can be extended to some of the more complex mental processes" in humans.

Both research groups reported their results at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Ungar said the probability of his findings being due to chance was "less than one in 1,000."

STATISTICALLY SIGNIFICANT

Dr. Walter B. Essman and Dr. Gerald M. Lehrer of the Department of Psychology, Queens College, City University of New York, the other research team, described their results as "very statistically significant."

Both experiments tested the ability of mice to escape from a maze.

Ungar trained a group of rats to escape from a Y-shaped maze by an arm lighted by an electric bulb. The other arm was dark and charged with electricity.

Extracts prepared from the brains of these trained animals then were injected into untrained rats or mice. A second group of rats and mice was given extracts from the brains of untrained laboratory animals.

Before the injections, slightly more than half of each group chose the lighted escape route.

In later tests, more than three-quarters of the mice who had received brain extracts from trained animals chose the lighted or shock-free escape route. The other mice followed the same escape routes they chose before injections from untrained animals.

"Over 400 animals have now been tested in various learning situations and over-all results indicate a very high probability that some specific learned information has been transferred from the trained donors to the recipients," Ungar said.

Essman and Lehrer used the same extract injection technique to test the effects on animals seeking a left or right escape from their maze. They obtained from the brain cells of trained mice an extract of ribonucleic acid, a substance involved in the transmission of hereditary traits.

They found that the majority of mice which were injected with extract from the brains of mice taught to select the left-hand escape route followed that path. A right-handed pattern prevailed among mice receiving extract from mice taught to leave by that route.

Scene in New York ...

COSTUMED DEMONSTRATOR — Bearded and robed Charlie (Brown) Artman, once a candidate for the Berkeley (Calif.) City Council, holds a staff as he rides atop a truck during Saturday's peace march in San Francisco.

STRONG ARMS OF THE LAW — A New York Policeman is shown grabbing a youth who was allegedly throwing eggs at demonstrators protesting against the Vietnam War during their peace march Saturday. The incident occurred two blocks from the U. N. Building.

BACK TO NORMAL(?) — The hippies of the Haight-Ashbury section of San Francisco were back to normal yesterday after Saturday's peace march.

The scene is the Panhandle section of Golden Gate Park where it flanks the Haight-Ashbury section.

UNHELPING HAND — A flag-carrying spectator gets a hand—right in the face—after announcing that he was planning to charge into a line of war protesters during Saturday's march in New York. The big man at right apparently decided to take matters into his own hand.

CROWD FILES OUT — With the crowd fast disappearing behind her, Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., herself, prepares to leave San Francisco's Kezar Stadium where she was featured speaker at an Anti-Vietnam rally Saturday. About 60,000 persons gathered to hear her.

FACES IN THE CROWD — These are four of the thousands of people gathered in New York's Central Park Saturday at the start of a massive peace demonstration. The odd headgear exemplifies the attire worn by many of the protesters.

ANOTHER VIEWPOINT — On their march through New York City Saturday, peace demonstrators passed these counterdemonstrators. One carries a sign urging bombing of Hanoi, while another says, "Uncle Ho Wants You, We Dont!"

MOTLEY MARCHERS — Flower-carrying hippies — itinerants who espouse bizarre garb and communal living — swarmed onto Market Street in San Francisco by the thousands Saturday to swell the ranks forming a parade protesting the Vietnam War.

Environment-Cancer—1

External Danger Eyed

(EDITOR'S NOTE — By Presidential proclamation, April is Cancer Control Month. According to the American Cancer Society, one of the most promising areas of cancer investigation is the study of environmental factors which can cause cancer. This is the first of a three-part series.)

By MICHAEL GIRSDANSKY
NEW YORK (NEA) — "A much higher proportion of human cancer than we had even recently suspected — perhaps amounting to as much as 80 per cent — may be due to environmental causes."

These words are those of Britain's Sir Alexander Hadow, president of the International Union Against Cancer, speaking at the Ninth International Cancer Congress held in Tokyo last October.

To those who have devoted their careers to the study of cancer, the figure of 80 per cent was probably less of a surprise than it was to the general public — But was jolting enough, even so.

It need not have been, however. Three years earlier, Dr. Wendell Scott, famed radiologist and 1963-64 president of the American Cancer Society, stated, in addressing the society's annual meeting: "Collectively (tumors influenced by outside factors) account for more than three-quarters of human cancers."

Obviously, the potential causes or encouragers of cancer in our surroundings are many — and dangerous.

WORLD AROUND US

Accepting the 75-80 per cent figures mentioned by Scott and Hadow implies that, in the United States, somewhere between 435,000 and 464,000 new cases of cancer discovered in 1967 will be due to factors in the world around us.

A serious situation — but far from a hopeless one. For, as Scott observed in the sentence immediately following the one quoted above: "Thus it appears that the majority of human cancers are potentially preventable."

The idea that specific influences in the environment can cause cancer is not a new one. As long ago as 1775, British physician Percival Pott noted that cancer of the scrotum containing the male sex glands was unusually common among the chimney sweeps of London.

STRONG SUSPICION

The science of organic chemistry was at then unknown, but, in, addressing the society's annual meeting: "Collectively (tumors influenced by outside factors) account for more than

It was more than 150 years before a team of researchers — themselves British — was able to produce cancer by the application of a chemical compound derived from coal tars.

Today, more than 500 chemical substances are known to cause cancer in various animals.

The majority of these substances are organic compounds; that is, they contain atoms of the element carbon. And because carbon atoms have the ability to link with one another, the number of possible organic compounds is, to all intents and purposes, limitless.

SUBJECT OF RESEARCH

Which of these compounds — many of them manmade and not found in nature — are carcinogenic (cancer-causing) is the subject of much present-day research.

And, of course, the problem is not simply the question of which substances — organic or inorganic — cause cancer in laboratory animals. Much more to the point is which of them can and/or do cause the disease in man.

It is not only chemical material which can cause cancer, however. Still another significant carcinogenic factor is radiation.

The term "radiation" has become largely a byword since the first nuclear explosion took place in the summer skies over Hiroshima more than two decades ago.

SPATIAL ENERGY
But, in fact, "radiation" is not confined to atomic bombs or atomic power plants. The word simply refers to any type of energy which passes directly through space.

One of the most common types of radiation is the ultraviolet which pours down every instant upon the earth from the sun.

It is this "invisible light" which stimulates pigment-containing cells within the skin, producing a tan.

But, as long ago as 1894, it was strongly suspected that excessive exposure to ultraviolet could also cause skin cancer and, since that time, mounting evidence has turned that suspicion into as close a certainty as there can be in medicine.

(NEXT: How Cancer Is Caused.)

JUST WAITING — The sign on which these vervet monkeys are perched does not refer to finances, but to the fact that a river bank in Nairobi was closed by flooding.

Urban Traffic Report Issued

Indirect Causes of Accident Are Cited

DETROIT (AP) — A study of urban traffic flow by two General Motors Corp. engineers has turned up indications that an accident may have been caused indirectly by something miles away.

Stuart Perkins and Joseph Harris said they spent 3,000 hours since last May studying traffic at more than 50 intersections in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

They found in one instance that changing signal light timing at one intersection sharply reduced near collisions at the next intersection three miles away.

While watching traffic at one intersection, they said their results were thrown out of balance by a policeman a mile away.

'TRAFFIC CONFLICTS'

"At 9 a.m., we noted several traffic conflicts, but by 9:20 they had all stopped because the policeman had issued one ticket," they said.

Perkins and Harris defined "traffic conflicts" as evasive action — braking and weaving — to avoid collisions.

They said they found also that red light violations increased where a "prepare to stop" sign was installed.

Another conclusion was that roads that are flared for a separate turn lane in only one turning direction have more rear-end conflicts on the side which does not have the flare.

One source of rear-end conflicts at an intersection was traffic backing up from a shopping center drive beyond the intersection, they found.

Driver impatience increased the frequency of red light violations and the number of potential accident situations, they said.

Harris and Perkins said one reason for the study was to systematize traffic conflict situations that occur under given conditions in order to predict what will happen at intersections and build improvements.

Boy's Leg Broken When Hit by Auto

A 1-year-old boy is in satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital after being struck by a car on Chandler west of Shirley about 5:15 p.m. Saturday.

Miguel A. Elizondo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Elizondo of 50 S. Shirley, suffered a fractured leg when hit by a car driven by Clara V. Stephens, 56, of 3176 Caroline, Pontiac Township.

She told police she didn't see the boy, but heard a thump and saw him lying in the road when she looked back.

Another highlight of the day will be a talk by Dr. Donald W. Martin, medical superintendent of the local state hospital, on "The State Hospital — Chronic Disease Center or Hub of the Community Mental Health Program."

2 Bodies Found in Lake Huron

By the Associated Press
The bodies of two men, believed to have drowned when the freighter Daniel J. Morrell sank last Nov. 29 in a Lake Huron storm, were recovered near Southampton, Ont., over the weekend.

One body, believed that of a man about 28 years old, was found at the mouth of Horseshoe Bay. One-half mile south of Southampton.

The other body washed up on the shore of Chantry Island, about a mile west of Southampton.

Twenty-eight seamen lost their lives in the catastrophe, including a Waterford Township man, Ernest G. Marcotte of 2210 Rosewood.

One survivor was Dennis N. Hale, 28, of Ashbula, Ohio.

Gunman Robs 2 City Brothers

Two Pontiac brothers were robbed at gunpoint and beaten about the face by a holdup man, city police were told yesterday.

Paul Ramioez, 21, and his brother Frank, 17, told officers they were stopped for a traffic violation at Joseph E. Piaszka home, 7445 Grete, Shelby Township, when a pedestrian asked Township, was the cause of an arrest.

The hitchhiker pulled a small-caliber revolver when he entered the car and ordered the brothers to get out. The brothers, but Sgt. Gerald told to Lorraine Van Epps reported a beat and Cart, police were told.

After taking their wallets contents of the garage de-taining some $55 in cash, the brothers fled.

Smoke bandit reportedly beat both victims in the times with his gun, then fled on foot.

Time Is Running Out for DST Advocates

LANSING (AP)—Time is fast running out for Michigan's fast-time advocates, but they're still hoping they can put the state on Daylight Saving Time this summer.

There are still legal hurdles to clear—and 123,105 valid signatures to collect—but Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, head of a statewide initiative drive for Daylight Time, says he is confident of success.

Dzendzel reports the signature-seeking got into full swing less than two weeks ago, when the total number of petitions in circulation reached about 65,000. Already, he adds, they are being returned with the needed names.

He predicts, though, that a larger flood of signatures will start pouring in early this week.

ASKING FOR MORE

"Requests are still coming in for petitions," he said. "People are coming in every day with filled petitions and asking for more."

But even if Dzendzel's fast-time forces get the 123,000 valid signatures they need, their efforts still face challenges in the courts. The first round could be fought Tuesday.

Detroit attorney Tom Downs, like Dzendzel a labor and Democratic stalwart but an opponent of the senator on the time question, has asked the State Court of Appeals to issue an order Tuesday that Dzendzel's group can't file its petitions before April 30.

Downs, representing groups of farmers, theater owners and bowling alley proprietors, is prepared to argue the group can't file them until the Legislature adjourns (now scheduled for June 29) and also that if they're filed after April 30, they won't do any good.

SOME BACKGROUND

Here is some background on the time controversy:

In 1966, Congress passed the Uniform Time Act, providing that all states will set their clocks ahead one hour April 30 and keep them that way for six months—unless a state exempts itself by following the procedures it uses to pass a law.

Michigan did just that. Both houses of the Legislature passed and gave immediate effect to a bill to keep Michigan on Eastern Standard Time, where it has been for more than 20 years. Gov. George Romney signed the bill into law last month.

The next step for advocates of Daylight Time was Dzendzel's referendum petition drive aimed at putting the new law to a vote of the people in the November 1968 election and at keeping it from taking effect until then.

REQUIREMENTS

The State Constitution permits referendums on most legislative acts. It sets the number of petition signatures needed and says the law must be invoked "within 90 days following the final adjournment of the legislative session at which the law was passed."

The first string in Downs' legal bow is his contention that that language—"within 90 days following"—means Dzendzel's petitions can't be filed until after the Legislature adjourns. Dzendzel and the state attorney general's office disagree. The question is for the appeals court to answer.

Downs also says the petitions will be meaningless if filed after April 30—the date Daylight Time begins under the federal act.

The act provides only for a state to exempt itself from Daylight Time, Downs says, and not for a repeal of the exemption once it takes effect. "It doesn't say a state can 'unexempt' itself," he said.

STILL THERE

Dzendzel disagrees. "The State Constitution gives you this right," he argues, claiming the referendum machinery is still there whether the federal act includes it or not.

That question, too, is one for the courts to unravel.

Besides the Dzendzel-Downs clash, there are other legal questions surrounding the troublesome time issue—such as what should be done about the Upper Peninsula and what can be done about Michigan communities who ignore the new state Standard Time Law.

Romney and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, realizing the federal government has the power to put the U.P. in the Central Time Zone, have petitioned the federal Department of Transportation for a formal ruling that all of Michigan can remain under Eastern Time.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Sol Bienenfeld, who has been handling the time issue for Kelley's office, says a federal reply to the petition may take a couple of months.

Meanwhile, two Michigan communities at opposite ends of the state—Menominee, a river's mouth from Wisconsin, and Littleton, a small town near Toledo, voted last week to go on Daylight Time April 30 to keep in step with the Ohio communities on which most of the residents depend.

St. Bernard Pup Needs Country Home

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Barry, a St. Bernard pup weighing 285 pounds and still growing, was back at an animal shelter today, looking for a new home.

Barry's second master returned him to the shelter Sunday after he discovered "he hates cats," C. Raymond Naramore, director of the Monroe County Humane Society, said.

"We're not going to let him go to a city home anymore," he said.

"The king-size canine is basically 'a very gentle dog' whose owners found they could not handle him," Naramore said. "Whoever walks him on a leash takes off with him when Barry begins to run."

"He has to go out into the country. He needs exercise and he needs a lot of room to run."

"Barry," the society director said, "is the biggest St. Bernard I've ever seen. He's easily over six feet when he stands up."

The pup, now 18 months old, "should be full grown in another half year," Naramore said.

LA's Cultural Complex Is Composed of Jewels

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
LOS ANGELES — "Aren't these buildings beautiful," Mrs. Norman Chandler said to a guest at a gala marking the premiere of the music center. "Each one is like a jewel; each one has its own personality. I love them all."

THOMAS

Mrs. Chandler had good reason to be proud. It was largely through her dynamic leadership that the $43-million cultural complex was built. The opening of the second and third theaters last week brought the project to a dazzling conclusion, thrusting Los Angeles into first rank in facilities for the living arts.

Each theater is indeed jewel-like and positioned in a proper setting. The majestic Pavilion, named the Dorothy Chandler, has been in operation since December 1964. Its gold and crystal interior give it the elegance needed for a hall to accommodate symphony, ballet, opera and concerts, as well as the big Broadway musicals that fill its 3,250 seats almost nightly for half the year.

The Ahmanson Theater at the other end of the complex is smaller — 2,100 seats — and more stark, its simple lines painted black. The proscenium is relatively small for a theater of its size, and attention is not diverted from simple frame.

DESIGNED FOR DRAMAS

The theater, named after its chief donor, savings and loan magnate Howard Ahmanson, is designed for dramatic plays and the more compact musical comedies, and for intimate ballet, opera and concerts.

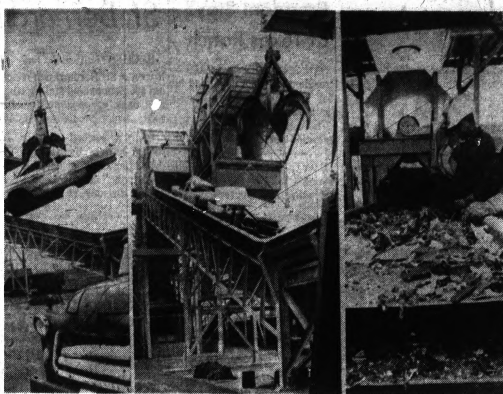

The Mark Taper Forum, named for another Los Angeles philanthropist, is the most beautiful of the three theaters. It is a circular building set in a reflecting pool between the other two. Its facade is covered by a sculptured mural in white concrete.

The Forum is also the most adventurous design. It is compact — 750 seats that wrap around the stage in the style of Shakespeare's Globe. It is the home of the Theater Group, recently transferred from its base at UCLA.

The group will offer drama of an experimental type, for which the Forum is ideally suited. The thrust stage practically puts the action in the audience's lap, and the various ramps and levels allow for diversified staging.

FULL SPEED

Last week the Music Center started operating at full speed. The national company of the Metropolitan Opera was appearing in the Pavilion. The Broadway stars of "Man of La Mancha," Richard Kiley and Joan Diener, were performing the show in the Ahmanson. The Theater Group presented John Whiting's "The Devils" in the Forum.

CHEWS UP CARS — A huge new automobile shredding machine, built at a cost of more than $3 million, has gone into operation at Philadelphia, and the city hopes it will solve the abandoned car problem. Five hundred feet long and three stories high, the machine hoists an abandoned car onto a conveyor belt (left). Cars go up in the shredder (center) and come out in small pieces, with salvageable material coming out (right).

Surgery Fails to Restore Carpenter's Space Status

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Astronaut M. Scott Carpenter gambled on the operating table six months ago, but he neither won nor lost. So, he says he'll never fly in space again.

Carpenter, one of the original seven Mercury spacemen, had hoped the surgery would restore ability to fully rotate his left arm, broken just before the elbow in a 1964 motorcycle accident in Bermuda.

Doctors had told him that if he was to get back on space-flying status the arm must be mended. However, the operation would be a delicate one and he stood a chance of losing even more movement in the arm.

"I took that chance," Carpenter said.

NOT MUCH CHANGE

"But it didn't really do too much good. It didn't change my flight status any. I saw it wasn't improved much as soon as I got the cast off. It improved a little bit, but I think it's probably at a standstill now."

Navy Cmdr. Carpenter, who will be 42 in two weeks, said in an interview that, apparently nothing more can be done to correct the situation.

Asked if this meant that he had given up all hope of flying again, he replied: "In a spacecraft, yes."

The problem is not serious enough to knock the former Navy test pilot off jet flight status.

Views of Bobby, Mansfield Prolonging the War--Nixon

SAIGON (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon accused Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., of "prolonging the war" in Vietnam by opposing the Johnson administration's war policy.

"They are raising false hopes for peace in the United States and prolonging the war," Nixon said as he completed his seventh visit to Vietnam and flew to Indonesia. He was in Saigon three days.

Nixon said Kennedy and Mansfield were "misinformed but well-intentioned."

The Republican leader said the Vietnam war will be debated during the 1968 presidential campaign.

ECONOMIC PRESSURE

"The subject of the debate," he continued, "will not be how the United States can negotiate a defeat but how the United States can put overwhelming military and economic pressure on the enemy."

He said a third-party peace candidate "might very well emerge" but would not receive many votes.

"It's pretty hard for a peace-at-any-price candidate to get votes," Nixon said. He said North Vietnam is suffering from "monstrous delusions" about the American people's support of the war.

State Hospital Bed Capacity Is Cut Again

Pontiac State Hospital's bed capacity has been reduced by another 69 beds, Dr. D. W. Martin, the hospital's medical superintendent, announced today.

The facility now houses 2,411 beds, a drop of 713 beds since the all-time high of 3,124 in 1955. Martin explained, the reduction was approved by the Department of Mental Health.

Martin said the change is part of a systematic program to reduce state hospital capacities throughout Michigan. More than 500 beds at PSH have been removed in the past three years.

"The most recent reductions have served a variety of useful purposes," he said, "including: relief of overcrowding according to fire marshal's standards, improvement of efficiency with the Medical-Surgical Division and the creation of interviewing rooms."

It will also enable ward receiving B to serve as the new emergency inpatient unit of the Pontiac State Hospital Community Mental Health Center.

Carson Considers Return to Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson, who left his "Tonight" show during the AFTRA strike, then decided not to come back, is reconsidering.

"Money was not the main consideration," Carson said Sunday in an interview, "although naturally, this always comes up. There might be some changes in personnel on the program."

Car That Glows in Dark Stolen

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Kalamazoo police are looking for a car that glows in the dark. It is an experimental 1963 Plymouth valued at $30,000 and taken from Western Michigan University's Industrial and Engineering Technology Building over the weekend.

It has a plastic top and a blue fluorescent body that will glow in the dark.

The vehicle was donated to Western Michigan by Chrysler Corp. It was taken by someone who broke into the building and took keys for the car from an office. The theft was discovered Sunday.

SPECIAL LIMITED ENROLLMENT! EXPIRES MIDNIGHT, MAY 14, 1967

Now...for people of all ages and families of all sizes—

Board of doctors announces a remarkable new extra cash hospital plan—expense-free, tax-free extra cash paid direct to you over and above any other insurance or Medicare—and, regardless of your age or size of your family, you can enroll for only $1.00!

AT LAST, HERE IS A PLAN THAT ACTUALLY PAYS YOU: ■ extra cash for sicknesses ■ extra cash for accidents ■ extra cash for maternity ■ increased extra cash for cancer, heart attack or stroke ■ extra cash doubled when husband and wife are both injured ■ all in addition to any other insurance or Medicare!

Now, during this Limited Enrollment Period, you can enroll yourself and all eligible members of your family with no red tape and without any qualifications whatsoever—but you must mail your Enrollment no later than Midnight, May 14, 1967!

Think of it. Now, simply by the stroke of your pen, you may enjoy the expense-free, tax-free protection of The Doctors Hospital Plan—the new "bonus" plan that pays extra cash direct to you when a sudden accident or an unexpected sickness hospitalizes you or a covered member of your family! And you may enroll during this Limited Enrollment Period—without having to see a company representative and without any red tape whatsoever!

Why You Need The Doctors Hospital Plan In Addition To Ordinary Hospital Insurance

The unique Doctors Hospital Plan was created by Physicians Mutual Insurance Company, an insurance company run by doctors. It has specialized in health and accident protection for physicians, surgeons and dentists exclusively for more than 65 years. Now this fine old "doctors company" has created this remarkable new "extra cash" plan—and at a cost substantially less than you might expect!

Doctors know that ordinary hospital insurance—even Medicare—simply will not cover everything. Actually, even if your ordinary hospital insurance covers all your medical and hospital bills, what about all your other expenses—the bills that keep piling up at home—the tremendous and costly up to your budget, your reserves, and your family life? Consider for a moment:

If you, as husband, father and breadwinner are suddenly hospitalized, your income stops, your expenses go up. Even if you have some kind of "salary insurance" it probably won't come close to replacing your full-time pay. Where will the money come from for the rent or mortgage? For food, monthly payments, and all the other bills that keep coming in while you're hospitalized?

If your wife is suddenly hospitalized, who will look after the family, do the laundry, the marketing, the cleaning? You may have to take time off your job or hire full-time domestic help—to take care of things at home.

If one of your children is suddenly hospitalized, you will certainly suffer no expense. As a parent, you would expect to think of the cost.

If you're over 65 and are suddenly hospitalized, Medicare, fine as it is, won't pay all of your hospital expenses or any household expenses. Most senior citizens won't want to use savings it may have taken a lifetime to accumulate...they want to retain their independence and not become a "burden" to their children or community.

Without "extra cash" protection, a hospital emergency leaves you with a debt you can't pay, peace of mind shattered—and even recovery can be seriously delayed!

Now, thanks to the valuable new plan created by a board of doctors, you can stop worrying!

How The Plan Protects You And Your Family

Now, with the unique "extra cash" protection of The Doctors Hospital Plan, you can avoid these worries—because you can be assured of extra cash income when you or any covered member of your family goes to the hospital. No matter how large your family, no matter what your age or occupation and without any qualifications whatsoever, you can choose any of four low-cost plans, specially tailored to suit your family's needs.

CHOOSE THE PLAN THAT SUITS YOU BEST—You can enroll for only $1.00!

$10,000 MAXIMUM—ALL-FAMILY PLAN: $100 a week ($14.28 a day) extra cash for you, $75 weekly ($10.71 daily) for your wife, $50 weekly ($7.14 daily) for each of your eligible children.

$7,500 MAXIMUM—ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN: $100 a week ($14.28 a day) extra cash for you, $50 weekly ($7.14 daily) for each of your eligible children.

$7,500 MAXIMUM—HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN: $100 a week ($14.28 a day) extra cash income for you, $75 weekly ($10.71 daily) for your wife.

$5,000 MAXIMUM—INDIVIDUAL PLAN: $100 a week ($14.28 a day) extra cash for you.

If you are a young, growing family, we recommend the All-Family Plan, for you and your wife are covered at once for accidents, for new sicknesses after 30 days, and for maternity benefits after 10 months. And all your children (including future additions) 3 months of age and under 21 are included at no extra cost as long as they are unmarried and live at home.

If you are the only parent living with your children, we suggest the One-Parent Family Plan. This covers you and all unmarried children living at home between 3 months of age and under 21. Under this plan, of course, future additions are not included since no maternity benefit is provided in the One-Parent Family Plan.

If you have no children, or if your children are grown and no longer dependent on you, you will want the Husband-Wife Plan. Or, if you are living by yourself, choose the Individual Plan.

On all plans, your "extra cash" benefits are paid from the very first day you enter the hospital, for as long—and for as many times—as you are hospitalized, right up to the maximum (Aggregate of Benefits) of the plan you select.

SPECIAL EXTRA BENEFITS!

Whichever plan you choose, you get:

50% INCREASE IN YOUR CASH BENEFITS... If you or any member of your family is hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease), heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion), or stroke (apoplexy).

DOUBLE CASH BENEFITS if both you and your wife are injured and hospitalized at the same time: You get twice the amount—$350 A WEEK!

Important: Here is another real "plus"—If you have been told that anyone in your family is "uninsurable!" Even if one of your covered family members has suffered from chronic ailments in the past—ailments that come back again and again, or are likely to recur—you will be covered for these pre-existing conditions after your policy has been in force for two years!

Naturally, The Doctors Hospital Plan will cover any new accident or sickness. Accidents are covered immediately. After your policy is 30 days old, you are covered for sicknesses which begin thereafter. There are only these minimum necessary exceptions: pregnancy or any consequence thereof (unless you have the All-Family Plan which covers maternity after the policy is in force for 10 months), war, military service, nervous or mental disease or disorder, alcoholism or drug addiction, or if something happens "on the job" and covered by Workers' Compensation or Employers Liability Laws.

You are free to go to any hospital of your own choice that makes a charge for room and board, with these exceptions only: nursing homes, convalescent or self-care units of Federal hospitals, or any hospital primarily for treatment of tuberculosis, alcoholism, drug addiction, or nervous or mental disorder.

In addition to the extra cash hospital benefits, you get all these valuable "Health-Bank" features:

How Your "Health-Bank Account" Grows Each Month

Here's a wonderful benefit, no matter which plan you choose—almost like having an extra "Bank Account." When your policy is issued, your insurance promises up to $10,000, $7,500, or $5,000—depending on the plan you choose. This is your "Health-Bank Account."

Then, every month your policy is in force, a sum equal to your regular monthly premium (including your first month's premium actually added to your maximum! When you have claims, your benefits are subtracted from your "account." It's much like putting money in and taking it out of a bank account.

Enjoy Peace Of Mind And Security

For as long as you live and continue to pay your premiums, we will never cancel or refuse to renew your policy for health reasons—and we guarantee that we will never cancel, modify or terminate your policy unless we decline renewal on all policies of this type in your entire state or until the maximum (Aggregate of Benefits) of your policy has been paid.

You Get Paid In Addition To Your Other Insurance Or Medicare

Yes, The Doctors Hospital Plan pays you in addition to any other company's health insurance you carry, whether individual or group—even Medicare! Furthermore, all your benefits are tax-free! In some cases, you may come out hundreds of dollars "ahead." Of course, you may have one like policy with Physicians Mutual.

Surprisingly Low Cost

Membership in The Doctors Hospital Plan costs considerably less than you might expect. You pay only $1.00 for your first month's coverage (regardless of your plan), then only $7.95 a month for the All-Family Plan; only $5.95 a month for the Husband-Wife Plan; and only $3.95 for the One-Parent Family Plan; only $1.95 for the Individual Plan. (When you become 65—or if you are over 65 now—special Senior Citizen rates apply. See the modest increase in the box following.) And remember, regardless of age, size of family or the plan you select, you get your first month for only $1.00!

SPECIAL NOTE IF YOU ARE OVER 65

Even though Medicare will pay most of your hospital expenses it will not cover all of your needs. During this limited enrollment, you can get the extra cash protection you need during the high-risk senior years without any qualifications just by using the form below!

It's a fact that people over 65 are greater risks. They go to hospitals more often and have larger hospital bills than any other age group. That's exactly why senior citizens need extra cash protection! And that's why some hospital plans won't admit them or charge rates beyond their means. But The Doctors Hospital Plan not only accepts you regardless of age, it gives you easy-to-carry protection for your entire life. If you are 65 now, or even 65 now, or even 65 now, the following modest monthly increase applies. (This is the only increase that can ever be made as long as you continue your policy in force!)

Female on All-Family or Husband-Wife Plan $2.25
Female on One-Parent or Individual Plan 3.00
Male on Any Plan 3.00

19 Important Questions Answered

ABOUT THE NEW DOCTORS HOSPITAL PLAN

1. What is The Doctors Hospital Plan?

The Doctors Hospital Plan is a brand-new, low-cost health protection plan that pays extra cash direct to you when a covered accident or illness hospitalizes you or a covered member of your family.

2. Why do I need The Doctors Hospital Plan in addition to my regular insurance?

Probably your present hospital insurance won't cover all your hospital expenses, but even if it does, you will still need help to cover all your household expenses when you are hospitalized.

3. Can I collect even if I carry other health insurance?

Yes, The Doctors Hospital Plan pays you in addition to any health insurance you carry, whether individual or group—even in addition to Medicare! And all your benefits are tax-free! Of course, you may have only one like policy with Physicians Mutual.

4. Is there a lot of red tape to qualify?

None at all! Your only qualification is to complete and mail your Enrollment Form by the deadline date shown.

5. Which plan should I choose?

You may choose any of four low-cost plans—you can actually select the exact plan that suits you best!

If you are a young, growing family, we recommend the All-Family Plan. You and your wife are covered at once for accidents, for new sicknesses after 30 days, and for maternity benefits after 10 months. All your children (and future additions) between 3 months of age and under 21 are included, at no extra cost as long as they are unmarried and live at home.

If you are the only parent living with your children, we suggest the One-Parent Family Plan. This covers you and all unmarried children living at home between 3 months of age and under 21. Under this plan, of course, future additions are not included since no maternity benefit is provided in the One-Parent Family Plan.

If you have no children, or if your children are grown and no longer dependent on you, you will want the Husband-Wife Plan.

Or, if you are living by yourself, choose the Individual Plan.

On all plans, your cash benefits are paid from the very first day you enter the hospital, for as long—and for as many times—as you are hospitalized, up to the maximum (Aggregate of Benefits) of the plan you choose.

7. How much can I be paid?

Each plan has its own "Aggregate of Benefits," what we call the maximum.

Under the All-Family Plan, the maximum is $10,000—$100 a week ($14.28 a day) extra cash income for you, $75 weekly ($10.71 daily) for your wife, $50 weekly ($7.14 daily) for each of your eligible children.

Under the Husband-Wife Plan, the maximum is $7,500—$100 weekly ($14.28 a day) for you, $75 weekly ($10.71 daily) for your wife.

Under the Individual Plan, the maximum is $5,000—$100 a week ($14.28 a day) for you.

As for any "deductible" cash benefit included in The Doctors Hospital Plan?

Yes, you receive a 50% increase in cash benefits if you or any covered family member is hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease), heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion), or stroke (apoplexy).

What are the "double" cash benefits?

If you and your wife are both injured and hospitalized at the same time and are covered by the All-Family Plan or the Husband-Wife Plan, you get double cash benefits. You get twice the amount—$350 A WEEK!

Can I drop this plan at any time?

Yes, you will be covered in any hospital that makes a charge for room and board, except nursing homes, convalescent or self-care units of hospitals, Federal hospitals, or any hospital primarily for the treatment of tuberculosis, alcoholism, drug addiction, or nervous or mental disorder.

What does my policy go into my hospital?

It becomes effective the very same day we receive your Enrollment Form. Accidents are covered on that date. After your policy is 30 days old, sicknesses which begin thereafter are covered. Under the All-Family Plan, childbirth or pregnancy or any consequence thereof is covered after your policy is in force for 10 months.

What if someone in my family has had a health problem that may occur again?

Even if one of your covered family members has suffered from chronic ailments in the past, pre-existing conditions are covered after the policy has been in force for two years.

'Winded' Tipton Misses Records

Pontiac Central's 'Orange Streak' Impressive in Ohio

By DON VOGEL
MANSFIELD, Ohio — One Oakland County track coach calls him a "machine." A Cleveland sports writer penned that he is "poetry in motion."

To most of the spectators and athletes here Saturday for the 38th annual Mansfield Relays, Bill Tipton of Pontiac Central became the "Orange Streak."

And it took a fifth place finish to put across the message that the orange-shirted PCH senior has few, if any, peers as a high school hurdler. The Midwest had on threat among the 2,100 thinclads in the relays. Tipton won the 120-yard high hurdles by 12 yards in 13.3 and took the lows by six in 18.3.

WINDY DAY
However, neither time will go in the books as a Mansfield record.

Because of the classy field, a wind meter was used for the first time in hopes of having a national prep record or two certified. The wind velocity was well in excess of the 4.673 mph maximum.

The wind was clocked at eight miles an hour for the low hurdles and 20 mph for the highs. Gusts up to 35 were recorded and several times the cross bar at the pole vault pit blew off.

Larry Highbaugh of Indianapolis and George Washington also lost meet and possible national scholastic marks in the 100 and 220 because of the wind.

But he did lead the Indiana school to the team championship with 24 points. Warren Harding was second with 20, then came defending champion Cleveland Glenville with 15, Eminence, Ky., with 14 and Pontiac Central with 13. There were 217 schools represented. Tipton was responsible for all the PCH points.

Coaches and other hurdlers were highly impressed with Tipton during the two races he won for 12 points. But it took a fifth by PCH in the shuttle hurdle relay to convince the others at Meckhof Field.

There are four members to a team and each hurdler runs a 120-yard leg over the low standards. Because of the large number of entries, the relay was run in heats against time. All 10 lanes on the highly-rated composition track were used in each heat.

Bruce Turpin, Bob Johnson and Carey Wiley fell well off the pace and anchorman Tipton started in sixth place 15 yards behind the leader.

He showed why he is a "machine." But most of all, he is an Orange Streak as he sped down the track like the hurdles didn't exist and finally overtook the leader two steps before the finish to give PCH a beat win in 58.2. The time was the fifth best in the event.

Coaches in the stands who had watched said he ran the 120 yards between 12.2 and 12.4, depending on the watch.

Coach Dean Wilson of PCH was asked by other managers just how fast Tipton can run the 100 without hurdles to bother with. They never received an answer.

The smiling Wilson said that "we use Bill now and then in a (220) leg of the 880 relay."

TURNUED DOWN
Wilson appealed to meet director Harry Mehek to have meet records. But he was turned down.

"They never had wind instruments before in this meet," said Wilson, "and records were approved regardless of the wind velocity or other weather conditions."

Tipton set the high hurdle mark of 14 seconds last year and was after the 19-second low hurdle standard of Farmington's Rex Crawley set in 1959.

Ironically, a new record in the 880 relay of 1:23.7 by Cleveland Glenville was allowed because the participants ran with and against the wind. The same held true for Warren Harding's record-equaling 56.2 in the shuttle hurdle relay.

Highbaugh and Jim Green staged stirring duels in the 100 and 220 with Highbaugh edging his Eminence rival by a whisker in both events. The winning time in the 100 was 9.2 and the time in 220 was 20.4.

Green ran a 20 flat 220 in the preliminaries. He also won the 440 final in 50.2.

Mel Cole of Pontiac Northern placed fifth in both hurdles. He was timed in 14.5 for the highs and 19.1 for the lows. He just missed placing in the high jump.

He was among five of the final six who went out after clearing 6'3" (a PNH record) but didn't make fifth because he had more misses. The lone survivor and defending champion, Barry Lintz of Erie, Pa., set a record by clearing 6'7 1/2."

Earl Polk of PCH and Larry Bickney of Waterloo both cleared 13'3" in the pole vault, but failed to place. Deny Davis of PNH set a school record by going over the bar at 12'9."

Birmingham Seaholm picked up six points on Chuck Loko's third place in the shot put with a heave of 56-2 1/2 and a third place in the discus relay. The shot with a heave of 61-11 1/2.

The pole vault was taken by Jim Teter of Lawrence, Ind., Central with a record 14-4 1/2.

Ron Strange of Detroit Lutheran ran successfully defended his mile championship in 4:23.1. Southfield's Kim Hartman was third in 4:24.1. Larry Sharley of Hazel Park beat out Cole for fifth in the high jump.

Ailing Oriole Hurls One-Hitter

Steve Barber started off making a pitch for job security and little doubt he's ready to re-wound up making a grab for claim his spot in the Orioles' immortality. The injury-plagued left-hander, whose arm troubles almost cost him a spot on the Baltimore varsity this spring, missed a no-hitter by a whisker Sunday in pitching the Orioles to a 3-0 victory over California.

It was the first American League appearance for Barber since last Sept. 23, when he was lifted by Manager Hank Bauer after holding the Angels hitless for five innings.

SORE ARM
Tendonitis in his left elbow kept the 28-year-old veteran out of action for most of the second half of the 1966 season and sidelined him during the Orioles' four-game World Series sweep over Los Angeles. He took a 10-7-6 on Joe Pepitone's run-scoring record into the All-Star break.

New York and Boston had more difficulty going the second nine in an 18-inning marathon which they lost 1-0 to the Yankees. The Chicago White Sox trimmed Washington 7-3, then labored 16 innings for a 4-3 victory that completed the doubleheader sweep. Detroit split a doubleheader with Kansas City, winning 6-3 before bowing 11-7, and Cleveland nipped Minnesota 4-3 in a single game.

76ers Ahead in NBA Playoff Finals, 2-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Coach Bill Sharman hasn't given up on his San Francisco Warriors in the National Basketball Association playoffs, but he looks something less than a picture of confidence after falling behind 2-0 in the best-of-7 championship series.

The Warriors virtually were blown off the court Sunday as they lost 126-95 to the Eastern champion Philadelphia 76ers. It wouldn't be an exaggeration to say it was no contest.

The Western champions were held under 100 points for only the second time this season as they shot only 29.6 per cent from the field and were out-rebounded by Wilt Chamberlain and company, 101-83.

The only other time the Warriors, who average 122.4 per game, were under 100 was last Feb. 3 when they lost 129-80 to Los Angeles.

As Sharman put it: "We couldn't put the ball in the hoop and you can't give that team 18 more rebounds and hope to win."

WIBC College Title Decided

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Pamela Fryer of Arizona State University won the over-all title and teamed with Susan Pfeffer of Boston University for the doubles crown Sunday night in the Association of College Unions International Bowling Championship.

The tourney was held in conjunction with the Woman's International Bowling Congress Tournament.

Miss Fryer shot the highest single game and the highest three-game total in the four-day WIBC competition. She had 255-642 in the doubles, where she and Miss Pfeffer, with 506, rolled a 1148 total.

Miss Fryer fell off to 494 in individual rolling, but her 1136 easily won the over-all title.

Kodak Meet Set

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Holy Cross will compete in the fifth annual Kodak Basketball Classic Dec. 29-30 at Rochester's War Memorial Auditorium.

Other teams named during the weekend to complete the field were Cornell, Navy and Rochester.

NEVER BEHIND

The 76ers never trailed as they led 26-17 after the first period, 37-46 at halftime and 85-69 heading into the final quarter.

San Francisco made a mild bid in the third period with a nine-point spurt that sliced a 22-point deficit to 13. But the 76ers turned it on again, and at one point led by 33 in the fourth quarter.

Coach Alex Hannum of Philadelphia refused to predict a four-game sweep as the teams headed for San Francisco and Los Angeles.

STRIKES SILVER — Frank Beard (left) holds out his hands to catch some of the 20,000 silver dollars he won for capturing the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas, Nev., yesterday. Beard sank a birdie putt on the 18th green to beat out Arnold Palmer (center) with a total of 278. Allard Roon, golf tourney chairman, does the honors.

Golfer Beard in Close Shave

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — the amazing comeback round by Frank Beard faced this decision after one of Arnold Palmer's spectacular rallies of the $100,000 Tournament of Champions. —Should he try for a birdie-4 on the final hole Sunday and break a tie with Palmer or should he play it safe for a par and gamble for a playoff with Arnie and his Nevada army?

Beard agreed today he made the correct decision as he and his brother golf pros headed for the Dallas Open this week. Beard got the birdie, the $30,000 winner's purse and married had 75 for 288.

U.S. Open champion Billy Casper's 73 gave him 292, and Masters' champion Gay Brewer had 75 for 288.

FIVE BIRDIES
Palmer, playing well ahead of Beard, a personable pro from Louisville, Ky., shot an eagle-3 on the first hole and added five birdies before he finished the front nine for his 29.

"I don't think I ever shot a 29 before on a par-36 nine," said Palmer. Palmer's second nine was something else. He four-putted the 14th for a double-bogey-3, but on the very next hole he had an eagle-3.

On the last three holes he was bogey-par-birdie. Beard lost a stroke to par on the first hole, parred the next 10 and eventually came to the 18th deadlocked with Palmer.

It is a par-5, 540-yard hole and some 13,000 or more paces paraded along the green.

Frank Beard $25,000, Arnold Palmer $15,000, George Archer $4,700, Bobby Nichols $4,700, Doug Sanders $4,700, Jack Nicklaus $4,700, Ben Cline $3,325, E.H. U. S. Chooses Best Women in Swimming

California Champs Dominate Selections for Pan-Am Games

CLEVELAND (AP) — Santa Clara's Swim Club retains its National AAI Women's Indoor Swimming Championship for another year, and California girls stood out in a field of talent that set records in 13 of the 45 events in the three-day competition concluded Saturday.

Because the records were in a 55-yard pool, they are not recognized as world marks. But they do bode good for the U.S. team in the Pan-American Games at Winnipeg, Canada, July 22. Twenty-two of the 291 swimmers who performed here were named to go to Winnipeg.

While Santa Clara was winning for the fourth time in the last five years, rolling up 136 points and sweeping the relay events, Arden Hills of Sacramento, Calif., was runner-up with 88.

Arden Hills' 57-year-old Coach Sherman Chavoor was picked to coach the divers, who did not compete here and whose Pan-American line-up still is incomplete.

The an-american team is to report to Minneapolis July 16 for practice.

Home Building in U.S. Viewed

Report on '66 Spotty, Shows Improvements

NEW YORK (UPI)—Home construction at a glance:

NORTHEAST — New England experienced a decline in home building in some areas which resulted in layoffs of carpenters, bricklayers and stonemasons.

Escalating interest rates frightened off some buyers in 1966. Tight money generally was blamed for the slowdown but some delays on housing starts were a result of the weather.

The outlook for 1967 is for an improvement with the easing of tight money.

Housing starts were much lower in New York State, especially on Long Island. The New York State Department of Commerce reported home building fell off sharply last year but not as great as the national level.

MIDDLE ATLANTIC — A 12 to 14 per cent decline was reported in the Pittsburgh area. Skilled workers were scarce in Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia noted a 10 per cent drop in home building despite a belief viewed early in 1966 that there would be an increase.

A bank spokesman said there has been only a slight increase in business even though interest rates are now lower.

SOUTH — An industrial boom in the South during recent years has offset lags in home construction.

A home builder in Montgomery, Ala., said President Johnson had helped the home-buying market by easing mortgage conditions.

Skilled labor was so short in the Richmond, Va., area as a result of the industrial boom that labor was being imported.

CENTRAL STATES — The number of building permits was down in Illinois.

Construction workers in Illinois became the largest group claiming unemployment benefits.

There was a 40 per cent decline in Cleveland during 1966 but conditions were reported to be better now.

SOUTHWEST — Conditions were reported to be improving gradually in Oklahoma. Oklahoma City noted a 33 per cent increase in home starts in January.

In Tulsa, which suffered a slump in the last six months of 1966, there was a good pickup in January.

ROCKY MOUNTAINS — Home production was active in Denver but slow in other parts of Colorado.

Volume in the FHA office has increased because of the easing of the mortgage money market.

FAR WEST — Washington, Oregon and Northern California cut lumber production.

There were some layoffs in Washington's lumber mills and reduction of the work-week in others.

Home production was down about 10 per cent in Portland. Indications are favorable in Oregon.

Business was reported bad in the Marin County, Calif., but optimism was generated by the lowering of interest rates. San Diego spokesmen said 1966 was its worst year for home building since the end of World War II with no indications of improvement.

Mammals range in size from the blue whale, weighing about 200,000 pounds to the smallest, the masked shrew, weighing no more than three and one half grams.

Pupils Vote for Paddling

BENTON HARBOR (AP) —

The newspaper at a local elementary school decided to get to the bottom of the question of paddling and found most pupils approve.

The "Bard School" surveyed students in the fifth through eighth grades at the Benton Township Bard School and found that 73 per cent of those answering favored paddling when discipline required it.

Bard Principal Paul Foss said about 175 out of 200 students answered the survey.

Eighty-one per cent of the girls answering favored the paddle and 61 per cent of the boys.

Foss said the paper is the organ of the student council, is aided by faculty members and is largely run by pupils Tim Matthews and Terry Vaughn.

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

One comment published by the paper said, "That's what's wrong with school today. We don't get enough punishment."

There were dissenters, however. One opponent to paddling, presumably speaking from experience, wrote:

"Those paddles hurt."

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) —

The Bureau of Indian Affairs has announced a new summer work program for Indian youths who live both on and off reservations. Indian Agent Ben Quigley said Sunday that transportation to the work centers at Albuquerque, N.M., and Phoenix, Ariz., will be paid. Indian youths between 16 and 22 are eligible.

Two Police Midwives for Early Baby

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Robert

John Brooks III wasn't about to wait, so two Gratiot County policemen acted as midwives Sunday in a Police Department parking lot.

Marlene Brooks, on her way to St. John's Mercy Hospital, stopped at the police station and asked for an escort. The police said they would get an ambulance — but they never got the chance.

Instead Sgt. Thomas Moonier and Patrolman Donald Hassel-dick used police assistance, training to deliver 6-pound-9-ounce Robert III.

Mrs. Brooks said she hadn't expected Robert for another week.

Mother and child were reported in fine condition at the hospital.

There were some layoffs in Washington's lumber mills and reduction of the work-week in others.

Home production was down about 10 per cent in Portland. Indications are favorable in Oregon.

Business was reported bad in the Marin County, Calif., but optimism was generated by the lowering of interest rates. San Diego spokesmen said 1966 was its worst year for home building since the end of World War II with no indications of improvement.

Hollywood Gets Snow Job to Blot Out the Usual Smog

By EARL WILSON

'SNOWBOUND IN HOLLYWOOD' — We're shivering here in Beverly Hills, knowing that Miami Beach and other places will be thrilled with the news that real snow fell the other day in Burbank.

"They were real snowflakes!" exclaimed people at the Warner Bros. studio when I arrived there to see Vanessa Redgrave and Richard Harris, filming "Camelot."

"People ran out of the offices to look. Of course, the flakes melted when they hit ground—but in 20 years I've never seen it snow before."

One of the grips, shivering in his thin coat, said, "It hailed! And it was sure cold out on the back lot."

Seldom before had people here sneezed for any reason except the smog. In hotel rooms were lighted fires in the fireplaces, and wondering why we hadn't brought heavy coats out here from cold New York to balmy Beverly Hills.

The temperature in mid-afternoon was around 50. It was the most exciting news we had while recovering from the Oscar hangover, with a few people criticizing Elizabeth Taylor and Paul Scofield for not attending.

They had sent word that picture work prevented it, but Liz admitted she stayed in Nice because Richard Burton didn't want her to leave him.

"That's a good enough reason," said Vanessa Redgrave, who did attend and, of course, didn't get an award.

"I know I wouldn't go if my husband asked me not to."

Bob Hope's remark was widely quoted: "They didn't come here to get an Oscar—and I flew to Greensboro, N.C., to be 'Chitlin' of the Month!'"

And the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner said, "Makes one wonder what all the fuss was about if even the winners can't bother to come."

THE MIDNIGHT EAR . . .

Mamie Van Doren shucked off some more clothes in her act in a N.Y. burlesque show; she's now wearing a net bra over pasties . . . Harry Belafonte, Tony Perkins and Lauren Bacall were in the mob at the "Ilya Darling"—Melina Mercouri party.

"Barbara Parkins, who is shown undraped in Playboy, may have a nude scene in 'Valley of the Dolls.' At El Morocco: Ina Balin with Londoner Gerald Abrams.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Alex Cohen suspects a local couple isn't getting along. "They don't talk to each other—even during arguments."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The real egotist is the guy who can't help exaggerating to everyone about how good business is — even to Internal Revenue.

EARL'S PEARLS: Alimony—that's when husbands who were bounced have to send checks that are good.

Training at American Bases

U.S. Lonely, Confusing to S. Viet Airmen

NEW YORK (AP) — To a young South Vietnamese airman far from home, America can be a lonely, cold and confusing place. He thinks the girls are beautiful, but he has a hard time meeting any.

Americans are kind to him, but it is difficult for him to understand their language and, anyway, everybody talks too fast.

Compared with the uniform climate of his native land, American weather is unpredictable and almost always too chilly.

American food?

"No smell," says Nguyen Vinh, 22, of Saigon, one of 242 South Vietnamese learning to fly helicopters or fighter planes at four U.S. air and Army bases. "I can eat it, but I smell nothing."

Vinh is one of 172 cadets learning to fly fighter planes at Randolph Field, Tex. Thirty more are training on helicopters at Ft. Wolters, Tex., and Ft. Rucker, Ala., and 40 are finishing the fighter course at Eglin Air Force base in Florida.

The rigorous, whirlwind training tour is financed under the military assistance program. The cadets are guests of the U.S. government.

"They are an extremely dedicated group," said Capt. Richard Timmermeyer, the allied liaison officer at the Army's primary helicopter center at Ft. Wolters.

"They realize the importance of their mission over here and the responsibility they have to their country. They work very hard."

Through an active, highly successful sponsorship program at each base, the young cadets visit frequently in civilian homes, exchanging views and learning how Americans live.

"The weather here is quite different than in my country," said Tran Van Ngoc, 21, spokesman for the Ft. Wolters group.

"In my country there are just two seasons. Wet and dry. Rainy about five months. About seven months is sunny. At first we couldn't get used to weather here. It is too cold."

A diminutive companion, Tran Quang Hung, was impressed by the pace of living, observing that "most of the Americans hurry. I think Americans have good ideas. They try hard at what they do."

DO OWN COOKING

A kitchen is available to them at Ft. Wolters and they do much of their own cooking, mostly rice, the basic food of their country. Doughnuts, hamburgers and barbecue rank among the top American delicacies.

"Over here they eat meat much," said one. "In my country they eat rice much. I couldn't get used to it at first."

And girls?

"Over here having a girlfriend is quite different," said Ngoc. "When you speak to a girl, she answers immediately. In my country, the girls are very shy. So shy, they keep quiet."

They view American prosperity with amazement.

"I think your country is very comfortable," volunteered Nguyen Van Khanh, explaining: "If you want to have something, you just go buy!"

BIG STEP

At Randolph Field, young Vietnamese airmen who a few months ago did not even know how to drive a car will be winging off this summer in solo flights in fighter craft.

Most of the vietnamese had never operated mechanical devices more complicated than a motor bike before they got to Randolph.

"We bring their mechanical knowledge from the 18th to the 20th century," one Air Force official said.

At the Ft. Rucker helicopter school, trainees Pham Van

LIKE PART OF FAMILY

The Matlicks, who have three daughters, say Than and Nam are like part of the family.

"The kids love them," says Matlick. "Robin, who is 3 years old, insists on calling Nam 'Vietnam.'"

Storm Cuts Power for 2,500 in Area

ONE COLOR

MAKE OVER PAGES

Lightning cracked, thunder rolled and approximately one inch of rain fell during the scattered thunderstorms that plagued Oakland County early this morning.

Detroit Edison reported that some 2,500 customers were without service as a direct result of the storms.

Areas hardest hit included the Fox Hills Subdivision, Square Lake and Opdyke Roads, 100 families without service; the Long, Lake and Adams Roads vicinity, 400; and Addison Township and part of Oakland Township, 1,000.

The Fox Hill service interruption was due to underground cable failure. It began at 2 a.m. and service was still out at 9 a.m.

Customers in the Long Lake and

Adams Roads vicinity were without electricity from 4 a.m. to 8:10 this morning.

RESTORED THIS MORNING

Lightning burned down a substation supply line affecting the service to the Addison Township and part of Oakland Township customers, including the residents of Lakeville and Leonard. Interrupted at 3 a.m., service was restored this morning by 6:45.

Heavy rain and lightning put out some 40 phones in the Oxford and Orion areas plus 10 in Waterford Township according to Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

All cases of storm-caused trouble should be fixed by this afternoon, Bell officials said.

Consumers Power Co. reported no interruption of service due to the storm.

WORKING THROUGH NIGHT

The Oakland County Road Commission reported it had crews working throughout the night to remove fallen trees from across roads in a half dozen locations.

Blocked or partially blocked by trees or limbs were roads in the vicinity of Milford, Lake Orion, Union Lake and Addison Township, according to Oscar Loomis, chief of maintenance.

He said at least two main arteries were flooded because of the heavy rains and insufficient drainage.

Water covered the Dixie Highway just south of Silver Lake Road in Waterford Township, and Walton Boulevard east of Joslyn, according to Loomis.

NOT TOO SERIOUS

There were a few reports of washed out roads in scattered areas, but none too serious, said Loomis.

A tornado, spawned by the same storm lashed Owosso in central lower Michigan late last night, damaging buildings, automobiles and airplanes.

Residents of the city of 17,000 escaped injury as the twister skipped across the community. But Betty Matthews, 42, was treated at a hospital for shock after winds overturned her trailer home.

Trees toppled and power lines snapped,

7 OTHER STATES HIT

Seven other states were hit as the violent thunderstorms rolled from Wisconsin to Oklahoma dropping fresh snow into the north central Plains.

The tornadoes, created by the collision of warm and cold air masses, dealt their worst blow at Kesaqua, Iowa, late yesterday killing one person and injuring a dozen more.

Other damaging twisters were reported in South Dakota, Wisconsin, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Today's forecasts call for windy weather with a chance of locally severe thunderstorms.

Moon-Probe Craft Launched

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Packing its own little shovel to plow the moon's soil and crack open lunar rocks, America's Surveyor 3 sailed through space today aiming to softly land Wednesday at a site chosen for U.S. astronauts.

The 10-foot-tall spacecraft—most complex robot ever tossed toward the moon by the United States—blasted off at 2:05 a.m. EST today aboard an Atlas-

Centaur rocket to begin a planned 65-hour, 237,000-mile trip.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said sensors aboard the craft successfully locked onto the sun. The sun and the star Canopus were to guide Surveyor 3 to the moon.

Several hours after launch, project officials said the craft's trajectory to the moon "looks extremely good." A spacecraft motor needs to make only a "very small midcourse correction" to send it on a ballseye course toward Surveyor 3's target zone, officials said.

"It looks like we have an excellent bird," a project spokesman said.

TWO-WEEK STUDY

Plans called for the 2,283-pound craft to fire a braking rocket about 7 p.m. Wednesday and gently set its tripod legs on the lunar surface, ready to spend at least two weeks taking pictures and digging into the soil.

Except for the shovel and two additional mirrors to expand the camera's field of view, Surveyor 3 was almost identical to the Surveyor 1 which achieved this nation's first soft landing on the moon last June 2 and returned 11,150 photographs.

Surveyor 3 was aimed for a spot in the moon's Ocean of Storms, located on the right side of the moon's visible face and slightly below the equator.

The target zone, about 300 miles west of where Surveyor 1 landed, was chosen as a candidate landing site for moon-bound astronauts after photographs from Lunar Orbiters 1 and 3 showed it to be relatively smooth.

DIGGING DEVICE

The craft's digging device consists of a scoop about the size of a man's hand. It is attached to an expandable arm which can be manipulated, much like a small steam shovel, by radio signals from the ground.

"Surveyor 1 put man's eyes on the moon," said Benjamin Milwitsky, Surveyor program manager. "This gadget will put his hands and arms on the moon."

an appeal. State law requires all death verdicts to be appealed.

Getty told newsmen yesterday he plans to base his appeal on the prosecution's use of "horror pictures" of the slain girls, which he said were shown to inflame the jurors. He also said he would argue that Speck, 25, could not receive a fair trial in Peoria due to public prejudice.

'ANY OTHER DEFENDANT'

"With any other defendant, and with only one victim, there would have been an acquittal. There certainly wouldn't have been a death penalty," said Getty, who has never lost a client to the electric chair in 400 other capital cases.

Speck, who appeared unmoved by the eight verdicts recommending he die for the July 14 slayings, will return to Cook County Jail today, said Peoria County Sheriff Willard Koepfel.

Speck Convicted in Killings, Will Appeal Death Verdict

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—The question of who murdered eight nurses in a Chicago town house last summer apparently was resolved when a jury convicted Richard Speck and recommended that he die in the electric chair.

But the questions of why the eight nurses were chosen as the knife-wielding stranger's victims and why eight young women quietly submitted to being tied, robbed, separated and slain may never be answered.

The seven men and five women jurors retired at 2:41 p.m. Saturday and announced they had reached their verdict at 3:30 p.m.

Judge Herbert C. Paschen scheduled post-trial motions for today. Gerald Getty, Cook County public defender who represents Speck, will file a motion for

Last Winter's Heavy Snow Raised Level Of Elkhorn Lake In Orion Township

County Lake Levels Rising

Due mainly to last winter's heavy accumulation of snow, lake levels in Oakland County as well as in the Great Lakes are higher now than they were a year ago at this time.

A spokesman for the Oakland County drain commissioner's office said that 10 of the 12 lakes whose levels are controlled by dams are higher now than in April 1966.

The upward level differential ranges from one inch to 11 inches.

Five other county lake levels are controlled by the drain commissioner by pumping and 21 more inland lakes are in the process of receiving established legal levels which will be controlled by the drain commissioner.

These lakes as well as all others in the county generally are higher than last year.

UPWARD TREND

No measurements relating to sea level are taken on county lakes other than the 38 now controlled or in the process of being controlled by the drain commissioner, but observation indicates a general upward trend in levels.

How many lakes does Oakland County have?

It depends on what is defined as a lake. If any body of water with an area of one-tenth acre or more is termed a lake, the county has 1,650. If only named lakes count, the total is about 400.

The Great Lakes average a higher level now than a year ago with Lake Erie registering the most increase, six inches.

RIVERS HIGHER

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which charts the Great Lakes levels, reports that river and ground water levels also are better than a year ago. They predict an increasing improvement in the next six months for the Great Lakes which implies that inland lakes also will maintain higher levels for this period.

Truck, Backing Up, Fatally Hurts Tot

A 15-month-old Pontiac Township boy died yesterday in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after being run over by his father's pickup truck in the driveway of his home.

Darrin Clay Mehlberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Mehlberg of 3709 Havens Lane, was injured fatally when his father backed out of the driveway about 1 p.m., according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said the boy was playing in the yard when he apparently strayed behind the vehicle as it started back.

Human Resources Center: Exciting Idea

By DICK SAUNDERS

The seeds of culture have been sown at the doorstep of Pontiac's urban renewal area.

Educators and city planners are hard at work trying to bring forth the bloom of human betterment through establishment of a human resources center in the southeast quadrant of Pontiac.

There's a great tendency to call it an educational project, but education is only part of the total concept for a human resources center.

Likewise, it cannot be looked upon as merely another urban renewal-oriented program because of the over-all concept.

"It's a way in which a city can eliminate the decay of hopes and dreams as well as renew itself physically," said Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, Pontiac superintendent of schools.

'RENEWAL OF HOPE'

"Maybe it's more renewal of hope than anything else," he commented.

The concept was hatched last summer by Pontiac School District administrators. It began as a plan for replacing McCornell Elementary School.

The 63-year-old building at 245 S. Padlock is deteriorating. School administrators were also faced with the fact that nearby Wilson Elementary School, 511 S. Sanford, and Central Elementary school, 101 E. Pike, are also nearing the day when they will have outlived their usefulness.

That's when administrators began talking about the possibility of something like a human resources center — a complex of buildings — first to replace McCornell; then, later, Wilson and Central.

4 BASIC ELEMENTS

Whitmer points to four basic elements involved in the total concept for a human resources center:

• Building a large school complex and putting into it an extended educational program (nursery school, longer school day and year, etc.) plus enrichment programs not usually seen in elementary schools, such as a homemaking center, arts and crafts, general shop for adults and youngsters; and a theater for training in the dramatic arts.

• A community school program for parents to satisfy adults needs for education, cultural expression, self-improvement and recreation.

• Physically redeveloping a residential area so that it's attractive; giving the inhabitants some of the environmental factors they'd get in suburbia.

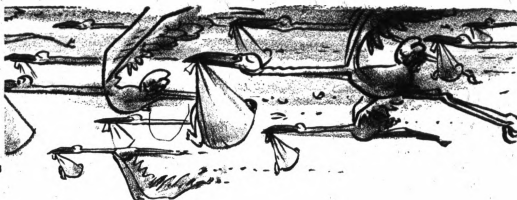

• Coordination of programs of people-serving agencies.

On this last point, Whitmer explains: "We want people to look at this as a place to go for human needs."

"We have many agencies to answer these needs . . . Office of Economic Opportunity, welfare and health departments, the Urban League, various United Fund agencies to name a few. (Continued on Page 2-A, Col. 1)

Voice of the People:

Misconceptions Hinder Law Enforcement Effort

An attorney who can "outwit" the law on behalf of a client involved in a sensational crime is an absolute mastermind in the eyes of many. However, the gradual build-up of laws that favor the accused has greatly simplified matters for the defense council. He no longer needs the consummate skill of a Clarence Darrow to win his case.

Public sympathy for the accused on the grounds that his misguided behavior was the result of normal human weaknesses, punishment for which would be uncharitable and revengeful, is unrealistic and dangerous to our society.

As long as such misconceptions about crime and punishment persist law enforcement is bound to suffer.

'Teen's Conversation May Contain Answer'

While waiting for my teen-age son after baseball practice at Clarkston High School recently, two young fellows came out — no long hair or tight pants — and I overheard this conversation: "My folks keep telling me to get out of the house and keep it up the way, so right after supper I go outside and shoot baskets or fool around until 8:30 or 9 o'clock. By then, my dad's in bed and he doesn't have to talk to me or see me."

The big question all of us hear today is "what is wrong with our young people?" I think this boy's statement sums it up very well. His parents may very well wring their hands and ask "why?" if their son goes astray. Could this be your boy?

Question and Answer

The car safety inspection is discriminatory, because they pull over certain cars and let others pass. Wouldn't it be fairer to set up stands where you could go at your convenience and then show proof of the safety check before getting license plates?

REPLY

Permanent safety check stations are being planned, but how this will be implemented and what rules will govern such an operation have not yet been determined.

Shoddy Work

Chicago Daily News

A team of expert investigators ruled out sabotage as the cause of the fire that killed three astronauts in their Apollo space capsule last January. But the inquiry disclosed in such shocking carelessness in the manufacture of the spacecraft and the conduct of the fatal test that this finding becomes an exercise in semantics.

An enemy could have done no worse than the thoughtless "friends" within the space program.

The astronauts, and Americans in general, had steeled themselves to the hazards inherent in space travel. This is a great leap into the unknown, and such exploration inevitably demands a price in human life.

But it was no lack of knowledge at the frontier of research that cost the lives of Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee. It was disregard of simple, common-place precautions.

Now that three astronauts are dead and the space program set back by at least a year, the recommendations of the investigators will doubtless be followed and procedures tightened up.

But why did it take this tragedy to enforce safety rules and superior workmanship?

Shoddy workmanship, carelessness, a lack of pride in craftsmanship — the very ingredients that merged into the Apollo disaster — pervade modern society. Perhaps we shouldn't be surprised that they show up even in the Apollo.

Yet our prestige as a nation rides with Apollo, and with all the more mundane wonders America has given the world as well. The ride is going to be bumpy, if not disastrous, if pride of workmanship is lost along the way.

As expected, Adam Clayton Powell has won reelection overwhelmingly to his seat in the House of Representatives. The small turnout of voters, however, suggests that the ordinary citizens of Harlem are a good deal less indignant about Mr. Powell's punishment by the House than many leaders of Negro organizations had urged them to be.

David Lawrence Says:

Postal-Tax Checkoff Preferable

WASHINGTON — If the citizen is going to be permitted to indicate on his income-tax return that a dollar may be used for political contributions, maybe the same device or a slight variation could be utilized to help the impoverished.

LAWRENCE Post Office Department to get enough money to modernize its equipment and assure better mail service.

One extra dollar for each thousand dollars of gross income could be added to the tax bill of individuals, and paid to the Post Office Department. For businesses, the fee could be three dollars per thousand of gross income.

Everybody deserves benefit from the postal service — not just the senders of letters, but the recipients, too. Likewise, the postal service distributes publications of educational value and constitutes a daily system of communication for the people.

Surely, a few dollars a year — far less than highway tolls amount to be in twelve months — would be a relatively small sum for the citizen to add to his tax bill in order to modernize the Post Office Department and improve the mail service.

Under such a plan, the contributions of individuals and corporations would provide the federal government with a total of $3.9 billion annually for the postal service. This would be more than enough to take care of the deficit of the post office department and make unnecessary any increase whatsoever in postal rates.

COST TO BUSINESSES

The Post Office Department has urged that all postal rates be increased somewhat.

The average user would have to pay an extra cent of postage on first-class mail, but the rise in cost to businesses would create a severe burden because of the higher rates proposed for other classes of mail.

There are some businesses, for instance, which would have an added expense of at least $300,000 or $400,000 a year.

because of the hike in mail rates.

This can only mean that the recipients of mail would have to be charged higher prices for the products and services of those companies. Thus the inflationary trend in America would be accelerated.

ENOUGH MONEY

The assessment, however, of a few dollars for each taxpayer once a year and the payment of a small fee by each corporation could produce enough money to avoid the necessity for rate or price increases, and at the same time would provide a much more efficient postal service through the modernization of equipment.

In the long run, this would substantially improve the mail delivery schedules as a whole by land, sea and air.

'My' Book Brought Out the Walter Mitty in Me

ALAMEDA, Calif. — Every reporter knows in his heart that he has a book inside him demanding to be liberated — just as every fat man knows there's a thin man in residence within, desperately hammering to get out.

I wrote a book once upon a time for a pilot named Ted Lawson.

He was (and is) one of the 15 daring young pilots who followed Jimmy Doolittle's B25 down the bucking storm-splattered deck of the carrier Hornet and stung the Japanese warrior caste with America's first counterpunch after we had been decked at Pearl Harbor.

That was just a quarter of a century ago, April 18, 1942, to be specific.

Lawson's comrades are back today in the town from which they took off, so long ago.

They have their big memories. I have my small ones — memories of "my" book, which was never in mine of course.

Helping Ted Lawson write it brought out all the Walter Mitty in me, all the Snoopy playing the World War I pilot. Ted lived through an adventure that had few parallels.

After his 30-second bomb run over Tokyo, he flew to the China coast, ran short on fuel and tried to land on the beach of an offshore islet. But his engines coughed out on the over-water approach.

Ted went through the windshield, seat and all, nearly drowned, made it to the beach, was picked up by friendly Chinese, carried on a litter for endless miles, had his gangrenous left leg amputated by the mission's flight surgeon, Capt. Tom White — and somehow made it back to Ellen, his wonderful wife, who was great with child.

It Seems to Me . . .

Gov. Romney Is Succeeding in His Unofficial Campaign

Michigan's GEORGE ROMNEY helped his presidential cause when he came forth with his declaration on Vietnam. He offended the fewest number of Republicans and Democrats, as he stands basically with the President, plus a few personal modifications.

Right now, astute observers such as our Theodore Yntema, believe that Governor Rockefeller, the political sage from New York, looms as our Michigan man's greatest opponent.

For a considerable period of time, Richard Nixon stood forth as the greatest challenger, but currently there has been a quiet shift to the New Yorker. Meanwhile, Governor Romney continues his successful but unofficial campaigning with public appearances everywhere.

Our Governor is a personable man. Make no mistakes about that — and he appeals to voters everywhere. And this applies to men and women of all persuasions. Certainly he is bolstered by a tremendous background of business success which is something no President can claim for several decades.

Reasons for the current ascendancy of Rockefeller can probably be attributed to the fact that he's better grounded in the wives and intricacies of national and international politics. Also, the New Yorker is more acquainted with the Washington scene — inside and outside — although in this particular connection, Richard Nixon stands first. It's just possible that some ignorance of the inner conniving in the District of Columbia might be an advantage in the eyes of the average voter.

Personally, I feel sure our Oakland County man is the number one prospect. The scene will naturally shift several times between now and the day the convention assembles. There will be perceptible and imperceptible swings in several directions.

Some people doubted whether Rockefeller commanded the gigantic New York State delegation, but this has been dispelled by significant soundings of late. Otherwise, he faced an early round knockout. Insider's Newsletter says LBJ is more afraid of Rockefeller than he is of any other Republican, but this is merely the President's notion at the moment.

It's a great game. It's exciting. And they play for keeps. Personally, we stand staunchly, squarely and unequivocally behind George Romney.

Light Rap of Justice

To absolutely nobody's amazement, this skulking, conniving BOBBY BAKER escaped with a prison sentence that let him off with "from one to three years." OLIVER GASCH was the solemn judge who thus cuffed him ever so lightly on the wrist.

BAKER was convicted on seven counts on charges of income tax evasion, conspiracy and theft. The "sentence" was one to three years on EACH COUNT but this Gasch person says they run concurrently.

Many Washington newsmen say the former protege of President Johnson had enough political dynamite in his hands to rip things wide open for a whole host of very influential people in the Capitol. But he took the rap alone and thus "bravely" faces his prison term as a silent and unsung "martyr."

Mr. Taxpayer, what do you think YOU would get on these same charges?

No wonder the figure of justice is blindfolded.

Lurleen Is Ignoring Handwriting on Wall

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR., Executive Director of the National Urban League

There seems to be little that can be done to save Southern extremists from their suicidal rush to defy federal laws and the conscience of the nation.

In the face of growing awareness by Southern moderates that they must speak out and lead their region to a prosperous future marked by racial peace, the diehards cling to their dreams of a racist past and, clutching the Confederate flag, prepare for their ultimate defeat.

The latest gesture of defiance comes from the governor of Alabama, Mrs. Lurleen Wallace, wife of former Gov. George Wallace.

She recently addressed the state legislature and proposed that Alabama's schools be turned over to her control to avoid compliance with a federal court order desegregating them. To back her threats, she talked of enlarging the state police force.

The winds of change are swirling through the South, but Mrs. Wallace refuses to come out and feel the breeze.

Southern-style segregation is doomed, and demagogic appeals to defy federal and judicial authority will only be met with counterforce.

HANDWRITING ON WALL

Most responsible leaders in the South have read the handwriting on the wall and are preparing to lead the South back into the Union. Alabama cannot stand alone in defiance of the U.S. Constitution.

A recent report issued by the Southern Educational Reporting Service documents some of the progress which has been made.

Last year only 6 per cent of Negro schoolchildren in the South were attending school with white youngsters. Now, 16 per cent of the 3 million Negro students in the region attend desegregated schools.

Of course, this is far from a satisfactory number, but the strides taken in the past year have been rapid.

WOULD BE HIGHER

The figures would be higher but for the intransigence of Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama, where less than 3 per cent of Negro students attend schools with white children.

An indication of the need for progress here is the fact that more Negro students are enrolled in all-Negro schools than in 1954, when the Supreme Court handed down its school desegregation decision.

The U.S. Office of Education is trying to help Southern school districts comply with the law by setting guidelines which measure progress in desegregating the schools.

The court decision which so enraged Alabama's governor upheld these guidelines and left no doubt that the federal courts will tolerate nothing short of full compliance.

'FREEDOM OF CHOICE'

Many Southern districts would like to do away with the guidelines and replace them, with "freedom of choice" in which Negro parents could "choose" to have their children attend white schools. We all know that such a "free choice" often ends in beatings or firing from a man's job.

The court said that the aim of the law is "to bring about an integrated, unitary school system in which there are no Negro schools and no white schools—just schools."

It went on to say that "If Negroes are to enter the mainstream of American life, as school children they must have equal educational opportunities with white children."

This is obvious, as obvious as the will of the federal government to enforce the laws of the nation.

MUCH CAN BE LOST

Nothing can be gained and much can be lost by appeals to use force to close the schools rather than integrate them or by campaigns of slander against the government and federal officials sworn to carry out the law.

In 1963, Gov. George Wallace reached deep into the bin of outmoded ideas and came up with the pre-Civil War doctrine of the "interposition" of state power against federal power.

He made a grandstand play for the television cameras by blocking the door of the University of Alabama to prevent registration of a Negro student. He had to back down then and the governor will have to back down in this fight.

I only hope that an ugly confrontation can be avoided, for it can only make a serious situation more tense and encourage racists diehards to flout the law.

I can't help wondering why some people in high office in the South go on in their "lost cause" when the only outcome of their illegal behavior is to weaken their local government and bring about the very federal activities they profess to fear.

New Uniforms

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's 57 water meter readers today began their rounds wearing new, blue uniforms with labels on the shirt pockets. Gerald J. Remus, general manager of the Detroit Water Services, said he hopes the new uniforms will help reduce the number of unread meters which he said cost up to $40,000 a year.

Forest Acreage Shows Increase

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — Maurice K. Goddard, Pennsylvania secretary of forests and waters, says the forest acreage in the nation's third most populous state has increased from 13 million to 17 million in 1930 to 29 million now.

He told a recent timberland resources conference that most of the growth in number of trees can be attributed to abandoned farm and more economical use of land.

Improved farming methods and use of chemical fertilizers have enable U.S. farmers to increase corn production 60 per cent in just 20 years.

'New Steering Columns Save Lives'

DETROIT (AP) — Two professors making separate studies of automobile safety agree that "from what we've seen thus far" new, collapsible steering columns "are going to prove real lifesavers."

The two researchers also agree windshields in 1966 and later model cars represent "a tremendously marked improvement in the cause of safety."

The two are Dr. Donald P. Huelke, associate professor of anatomy in the University of Michigan school of medicine, and Prof. Lawrence M. Patrick of Wayne State University of Detroit.

Patrick said Sunday night he was "very pleasantly surprised how well" the collapsible steering column has worked.

IMPACT REDUCED

While the column doesn't collapse sufficiently to prevent injury, Patrick said "it knocks force off the chest and keeps it within the human tolerance range."

Huelke agreed with this view as did Patrick with Huelke's view that windshields on later model cars "are working just beautifully."

"We do not get the deep, slashing type injury," Huelke said. Less severe injuries usually are concentrated about the forehead, and while multiple, usually are minor and frequently do not require suture (stitching)".

The two said a major reason was that lamination between the sheets of glass has been doubled and that adhesion between glass and laminate has been markedly improved. Present-day glass, Patrick added, is of higher impact strength.

The new adhesion prevents much of the previous separation of glass and laminate," Huelke said.

Huelke said he was about midway in a new study of auto safety, but that the improved safety in windshields is "one of winners.

the things in which improvement is obvious" and worthy of comment now.

The University of Michigan professor was director of a four-year study completed last year of 139 accidents in which 177 persons were killed. That showed ejection from the vehicle the major cause of death, with impact against the sides second and injury from the steering column third.

Woman Campaigner Stresses Air Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — To Phyllis Stewart Schlafly, contender for the presidency of the National Federation of Republican Women, the big worry is a sneak Soviet missile strike from space.

She says she wants to alert American women to "the biggest issue of the day — antisile defense" — and pledges that is what she will do if elected May 6 to head the 500,000-member GOP political action organization.

Attractive, personable, self-assured, ardent anti-Communist Mrs. Schlafly, professor of an appealing and disarming smile, is a formidable opponent for Gladys O'Donnell, businesswoman and Powder Puff Derby pilot from Long Beach, Calif., the choice of the federation's nominating committee.

TACTICS Mrs. Schlafly, federation first vice president, says she didn't want a fight, but "ugly tactics" of opponents got her into it. So, she will launch a floor battle at the federation's May 5-6 biennial convention here, with more than 5,000 delegates expected, the largest turnout ever.

At 40, Mrs. Schlafly is a trim mother of six children ranging from two to 16 years old. She is of medium height, with short, brown hair and cool, gray eyes. Her husband, corporation attorney Fred Schlafly, 58, of Alton, Ill., also is active in anti-Communist causes.

Both Mrs. Schlafly and Mrs. O'Donnell are veteran GOP party workers.

UNITY But unity of the big female organization is an issue, especially for the 1968 campaign year. Mrs. Schlafly says she sees no reason why there cannot be "unity without unanimity."

Mrs. Schlafly is co-author of two books warning about the Eastern "establishment" of presidential kingmakers and the Communist nuclear threat.

The engagement of Linda May Osmun to Larry Gene Childers is announced by her parents, the Arthurs Osmuns of Brown Road, Pontiac Township. His parents are the Orbin Childers of Sarasota Street.

In 1964, her first self-published paperback book, "A Choice Not an Echo," was distributed in behalf of Goldwater. It sold three million copies and Mrs. Schlafly got the label "Goldwater conservative."

In 1960, a publication of the far right John Birch Society called her "a very loyal member."

In an interview, Mrs. Schlafly says that "I'm not and I have never been" a Birch member. She resents labels and points to her "100 per cent record" of supporting every GOP presidential nominee since 1945.

GRASS ROOTS Denying any ambition for political office, Mrs. Schlafly explains: "I'm only working to make sure our children and grandchildren grow up in a free and independent America."

Possessor of a masters degree from Radcliffe in political science, and a Phi Beta Kappa member, Mrs. Schlafly is an effective and assured public speaker.

Old, New Celebrate Fate

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: I recently received an invitation which read: "The Old Mrs. John Doe requests the pleasure of your company at cocktails and supper for the NEW Mrs. John Doe, etc., etc."

It floored me. I knew our friends John and Mary Doe had gotten a quickie Mexican divorce, and it was rumored that John was interested in a lady from New York, but how about this?

Do you think it is normal for an ex-wife to be such a good sport?

ABBY

DEAR SHOCKED: No, it's not "normal" — but it's nice. The absence of bitterness could indicate that everybody's happy. (P.S. Don't be surprised if the New Mrs. Doe entertains the Old Mrs. Doe and a newly acquired John.)

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is in the fourth grade and she recently had a birthday party. She took the invitations to school and passed them out to the classmates she wanted. There were 44 kids in her class and she wanted only 38 of them at her party.

After the party her teacher called me and told me that my daughter should NOT have passed out her invitations at school unless she invited ALL the kids in her class.

SHOCKED Since when does a school teacher have the right to tell a pupil WHOM to invite to her birthday party? I would like your opinion in print!

HER MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: Three cheers for the teacher! She is obviously much more understanding than you. The pain of having been left out will remain with those six uninvited children long after the fun has been forgotten by those who attended.

Quality Priority

Less fad and more quality in selection of jewelry is cited. Pierced earrings are growing ever more popular and new designs meet the quality demand.

One expected to be a favorite is the "wedding ring" earring, a gold-filled hoop that doesn't jangle or swing. Pendants remain top teen favorites, particularly in jade onyx and tiger eye.

Candlelight Ceremony for Karolyn Knisley

The Thomas Bertram Frieling was wed Saturday evening in a candlelight ceremony in the Four Towns Methodist Church, Union Lake.

For her vows, the former Karolyn Kay Knisley wore an Empire gown of white linen embossed with Venise lace and featuring a detachable court train.

Her three tier veil of silk illusion was secured by a petal headpiece of matching lace. She carried a cascade of white carnations and an orchid with ivy.

Mrs. John Seaton was matron of honor for the daughter

Junior attendant was Peggy Knisley, sister of the bride.

James Cruickshank of Ann Arbor served as best man for the son of the Theodore Frieling of Ada. Thomas Layher of Ann Arbor was an usher with his brother William of Madison, Wisc.

Following a reception in the home of the bride's parents, the couple left for a honeymoon in Hawaii.

They will reside in Los Angeles, Calif.

Bell Ringers Still Need More Funds

A contribution of $50 from the Junior Pontiac Women's Club is the largest single contribution received so far by the Eastern Junior High School Bell Ringers.

Invited by the Restoration Arts Theatre of Detroit to participate in the "American Festival in Britain" this summer, the group is seeking to raise $12,000 to defray expenses for the 17 members, director and chaperones.

On Friday the fund had reached $1,485.

The group must give an answer to the Detroit organization by May 1. This leaves about two weeks in which to raise the necessary funds.

A benefit concert with proceeds going to the tour fund will be given next Monday evening at Pontiac Central High School.

In addition to the Bell Ringers, William Condon, a Pontiac area magician, will perform.

Super Bikes for Twins

MODESTO, Calif. (UPI) — There are high-wheeling twins riding tricycles to the market these days. One is a great-grandmother.

Mrs. Roy Copeland, 71, and her twin sister, Mrs. Roy Farnin, got two oversized three-wheelers last year because they did not own a car "and wanted to get out."

The women, both widowed, don slacks and plaid shirts and ride the bikes a half mile to the market "all the time." They avoid busy streets.

"We don't take any chances," said Mrs. Copeland. "We want to live longer."

One of the biggest fashion mistakes is overdressing. Your best bet is to strive for simplicity and good lines.

Why Grow Old?

There is something about spring which does things to us! There is a feeling of new life in the very air we breathe. The birds sing from sheer happiness, and miracle happen all about us, with buds bursting into leaves and flowers. All nature is having a rebirth.

This is one reason why women enjoy spring cleaning, and they do, even if it means a lot of work. This feeling also makes us wish to be lovelier. It's just in the air!

Therefore, I bring you my Nine Day Reducing Diet each year at this time. Tens of thousands of my readers watch for it each spring in order to lose from five to 10 pounds in just nine days. This diet has been tremendously popular! The following note came to me when it was being published last year.

Dear Mrs. Lowman, I thought you might like to pass this little tip along to those readers who like to repeat the Nine Day Diet periodically, so they won't panic before you reprint it again.

I, too, had been waiting to see the diet in the paper again, so this year I am putting your menus on recipe cards and filing them in my recipe box—no more waiting.

For the next nine days the menus for the following day will appear in this column. If you wish to do so, you can follow this reader's suggestion or if you would like to have the complete diet in permanent booklet form this is available.

Here are the menus for tomorrow, Tuesday:

BREAKFAST
 Half grapefruit
 One thin dry piece of whole wheat toast
 Black coffee

MID MORNING
 Glass of tomato juice

LUNCHEON
 Green salad with lemon or reducing dressing.
 1 slice lamb roast (Don't eat the fat)

One glass skimmed milk
 One thin dry piece of whole wheat toast

MID AFTERNOON
 Glass of tomato juice

DINNER
 One piece of lean meat, steak or roast (five or six ounces)

One-half cup squash (yellow preferable)

One-half cup string beans
 One glass skimmed milk
 One apple

Each morning measure and put aside two teaspoons of butter or margarine to use as you wish in seasoning vegetables or on bread and egg.

If you want to lose from five to 10 pounds in just nine days and would like to have the complete "Nine Day Diet" in booklet form, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

HEALTH FOODS

Eat Better—Feel Better
What Are Natural Foods?
 How Do They Improve Your Good Health?

Vitamins act as catalysts in the system, speeding up chemical reactions without becoming a part of that chemical. Without vitamins we cannot use the food that is eaten.

The human body itself cannot manufacture a vitamin, but plants can, and animals obtain vitamins by eating plants. Therefore, our sources of vitamins depend upon the potency of vitamins in the foods we eat.

Today's modern methods of processing, storing—and preparation in the home—drain the precious vitamin content from our daily food intake with vitamins from natural sources. Make good nutrition your way of life!

Glover Wins Golf Playoff

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Randy Glover is over the hump — he has his first major PGA golf tournament victory and will use his $5,000 first place check to pay for the new car he bought a week ago.

The sturdy 25-year-old Florance, S.C., professional showed Sunday why he is co-holder of the PGA record of 19 putts in a round as he rallied from a shaky start to outlast Joe Campbell in a two-hole sudden death playoff in the $35,000 Azalea Open.

Glover played 20 holes Sunday and made only two birdies. But one came on the second extra hole from 10 feet and opened the doors to the lucrative extras of touring golf life that are available only to tournament winners.

Reply Brings Rebuff for Ice Ref

TORONTO (EP) — Referee Vern Buffey of the National Hockey League will be fined for publicly replying to criticism of a fellow official from Bill Jennings, president of New York Rangers.

"Vern has already been disciplined and he will definitely be fined," Scotty Morrison, NHL referee-in-chief, said Sunday night.

Raytown, Mo., was the high scorer for the U.S. with 13 points.

because the terms of his employment state he must not sound off in the manner he did." Phil Goyette of New York.

Buffey, a senior official in the league, publicly defended the work of his colleague John Ashley.

Jennings criticism of Ashley's word came during the semifinal series between the Rangers and Montreal, which the Canadiens won in four straight games.

Ashley worked the third game of the series, won 3-2 by Montreal, and Jennings said Ashley's errors in the game included the disallowing of a goal by Phil Goyette of New York.

Jennings was quoted as calling Ashley a "bush-leaguer" and "incompetent."

In a published rebuttal, Duffey said:

"It is ridiculous that Jennings can rap officials like he does. How dare he brand an official such as Ashley a bush-leaguer and incompetent? Ashley has forgotten more about hockey than Jennings will ever learn."
