Jet Attack on Iraqis Is Denied by Israel

By The Associated Press

Iraq said seven Israeli jet fighters attacked Iraqi troops in Jordan today, but Israel denied it.

An Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv said: "I completely deny this report. I don't know what gave rise to it. There has been absolutely nothing like this along the cease-fire line."

Newsmen on the Israeli side of the line saw no sign of unusual air activity.

Baghdad radio said the planes attacked Iraqi units east of the cease-fire line with Jordan and that one Israeli jet was seen to plunge to the ground in flames.

The Iraqi report said:

"At 11:30 Baghdad time this morning, seven Israeli planes launched an air raid against our units operating on the eastern front.

"Our antiaircraft guns shot down one attacking plane. It was seen with the naked eye crashing in flames over the occupied Syrian Golan Heights. There were no Iraqi casualties."

A Jordanian broadcast said two Israeli fighters had violated Arab air space over the Jordan River but were driven off by antiaircraft fire.

Iraq had charged yesterday that Israel was preparing an attack in retaliation for the hanging of 14 Iraqis, nine of them Jews, convicted Monday of spying in Baghdad and Basra.

There has been an outcry in Israel, the United States and several European countries, condemning the executions.

Iraq has an estimated 20,000 troops in Jordan. They had been there since the Arab-Israeli war of June 1967.

Israeli planes strafed and bombed the Iraqi forces Dec. 4, killing six soldiers, according to the Iraqis.

★ ★ ★

Israel yesterday denied charges by Iraq that it was massing troops for attack on the Iraqi force in Jordan. At the same time, Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan cautioned his country it must give the government of Iraq no excuse to do more harm to 8,000 Iraqi Jews.

Along with denial from the Israeli army, foreign newsmen in Israel observed no unusual troop movements. Rain and snow blanked Israel and Jordan, imposing quietness on the cease-fire line.

Bell Plans $20 Million for Pontiac Area Growth

By DIANNE DUROCHER

Future development in the Pontiac area by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. includes the investment of more than $20 million in the next two years, said Kenneth J. Whalen, president of the utility, speaking at last night's 59th annual meeting of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

There is a new dimension in the growing responsibilities of businessmen in community affairs called social concern, Whalen said.

★ ★ ★

"Every businessman must get involved in an effort to solve current social problems, not only the large corporations but also the small businessmen," Whalen told the gathering of about 400 business and community leaders at the Elks Temple.

Involvement goes beyond demonstrations and card-carrying, he said; it calls for education, training and understanding.

UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM

Unemployment is one of the biggest problems to be met, he said, offering some suggestions on how the Bell system seeks to hire the hard-core unemployed.

Whalen said these people usually must be sought out because they feel a sense of alienation and sometimes employment examinations or requirements must be reevaluated.

"A minor brush with the law or lack of a high school diploma should not ban a person from being employed with the company," he said. "The company policy regarding the hiring of these employes must be understood all the way down the line," he added.

Whalen said that this new social concern of business makes it imperative to provide customers with the good quality and service they require because good service is vital to the community life.

EXPANSION, IMPROVEMENT

Referring to future development planned in the Pontiac area by Michigan Bell, Whalen said the $20 million-plus the company will spend over the next two years will expand and improve telephone service in Pontiac.

The outlay for 1969-70 includes the new $12.4 million, five-story building addition for Pontiac, for which ground was broken Jan. 7. The figure includes more than $9 million for central office switching equipment, much of it in the new building.

Other expenditures, for further building improvements and land acquisition, will reach nearly $6 million. Almost $3 million will be spent for new outside plant facilities, such as exchange cables and inter-office trunklines. Station equipment phones and lines to serve customers will amount to another $2.5 million, he said.

Whalen said, "Michigan Bell's investment here is based on your business achievements and all I can do is salute you for it and tell you we have a lot of faith in the Pontiac area."

HISTORY MAKING

Commenting on the Jan. 7 groundbreaking for the new Michigan Bell addition, Whalen said, "As far as the records show, that's the first time in our company's history that we've broken ground twice for new central office facilities in the same community within a 10-month period."

He concluded that although the company is utterly committed to a new way of life in helping to solve the social problems of today it will not back off in bringing the best possible service to its customers.

"And I don't think any business should," he added.

U.S., Saigon Extend Peace Challenge

PARIS (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam challenged their antagonists today to get down to business quickly to find a road to peace, warning that propaganda speeches would prevent progress in the Vietnam talks.

North Vietnam's ambassador, Xuan Thuy, replied that military agreement is impossible without a settlement of political problems of South Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

The atmosphere suggested a long deadlock.

South Vietnam led off the day after the delegates seated themselves around the huge round table in the International Conference Center, for the second round of full-dress talks.

WARNS ABOUT PROPAGANDA

Ambassador Pham Dang Lam warned the North Vietnamese and Vietcong propaganda speeches which would impede progress and lashed the other side for its claims and accusations. He said their speeches at the first meeting last Saturday were negative.

Then U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge pleaded for the delegates to get down "to the serious business" of finding a way to peace, adding: "Let us begin today."

★ ★ ★

Explaining rejection at the opening session Saturday of concrete American proposals on military matters, Thuy said Hanoi's stand and that of the Vietcong's National Liberation Front on a settlement constituted "an indivisible whole" of political and military questions which could not be separated.

In a brief speech, Lodge repeated his demand of the first session that the conferees begin at once to examine questions of reestablishment of the demilitarized zone dividing Vietnam and other steps toward deescalation.

★ ★ ★

Lodge defended the U.S. presence in South Vietnam as an answer to the "request of the legal and legitimate government of the Republic of Vietnam," which he said had the right to defend itself.

Ex-CIA Chief Dulles Is Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allen W. Dulles, America's master spy who steered the Central Intelligence Agency through nine years of controversial international intrigue, died late yesterday. He was 75.

DULLES

Dulles, appointed CIA chief in 1953 by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, retired to private life in 1961 following the Bay of Pigs Invasion of Cuba — which with an earlier U2 plane incident was one of several controversial matters involving the intelligence agency under his command.

★ ★ ★

The White House denied at the time that the invasion fiasco, organized to a large degree by the CIA, was the reason for Dulles' retirement, saying his plans were known well in advance of that.

Since quitting government service, Dulles wrote four books.

SERVED WITH OSS

He began formal spy work during World War II as a member of the Office of Strategic Services, the CIA's predecessor.

Former President Harry S. Truman appointed him CIA deputy director in 1951 and Eisenhower elevated him to the top post two years later.

★ ★ ★

The late President John F. Kennedy, during whose administration the Bay of Pigs occurred, retained Dulles in his $22,000-a-year post when he took office.

Dulles later was a member of the Warren Commission that investigated Kennedy's assassination.

Top-Level Pentagon Study of Pueblo Case Is Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announced today he has ordered a high-level Pentagon study of the Pueblo case "to see that incidents of this kind do not happen again."

LAIRD

At his first news conference as Pentagon chief, Laird said he had appointed Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard to head the study and oversee matters involving the intelligence ship, whose capture is being investigated by a Navy court of inquiry in California.

The ship was seized by North Korean naval forces Jan. 23, 1968.

Laird said "the matter is being very carefully watched" by Packard—among other things, to see that the interests of its skipper and crewmen have been and are protected.

The new defense chief said the court of inquiry is "well in hand" but that he felt the widespread public interest in the matter required high level Defense Department attention to the situation.

Related Story, Page A-2

On other matters, Laird:

● Announced that Paul C. Nitze, his second in command, will conduct a wide-ranging review of the Johnson administration's defense budget, including whether some key programs should be decreased or increased to insure maximum national security at the lowest possible cost.

★ ★ ★

● Said he will be going to South Vietnam in the not-too-distant future.

● Said the military situation in Vietnam has "improved somewhat" in the past 12 months and that the South Vietnamese army is on the upgrade.

Laird declined to discuss possible U. S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam.

DST Trails by 550; Vote Probe Sought

LANSING (AP) — Daylight Savings Time still was losing by some 550 votes yesterday as state elections officials continued checking into the 1,501-vote margin by which the measure was defeated in the November election.

★ ★ ★

Some 220 more votes against the controversial issue were discovered in Delta County, reported an elections division spokesman. Some 85 precincts remained to be rechecked and recounts have already been conducted in some 2,600 precincts.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, a Republican state senator cited the recount on the controversial measure and asked for an investigation of matters relating to election precincts. Sen. Anthony Stamm, R-Kalamazoo, said "this condition raises doubts as to whether precinct sizes, staffing and procedures are adequate to meet the need for prompt and accurate reporting of election results."

Big Quake Shakes Philippine Islands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Earthquake Information Center said a major earthquake shook much of the Philippine Islands early today.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman said the tremor, measuring 7.2 on the Richter Scale, was centered southeast of Mindanao Island about 750 miles south of Manila.

The location is in the same area where a damaging earthquake occurred last Aug. 2.

7 Axed to Death in Canadian Wilds

BUFFALO NARROWS, Sask. (AP) — Four children, two men and a woman were found axed to death today in this wilderness community inhabited mainly by Cree Indians, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police reported.

They said a fifth child was in critical condition with ax wounds.

★ ★ ★

A man is in custody, but he was not immediately identified. Nor were the victims identified, except that they were two men, aged 32 and 48; a 30-year-old woman; two boys aged 6 and 5; and two girls, 3 and 9. The wounded child in a hospital at nearby Ile LaCrosse is 8, the police said.

'Spring' to Disappear

Springlike temperatures climbed from 37 at 2 a.m. yesterday to a balmy 50 at 3 a.m. today.

It was a week ago today that the mercury also soared to the 50-degree mark.

★ ★ ★

The weatherman predicts the temperature will fall to a low of 22 to 29 tonight with a chance of occasional snow flurries.

Partly cloudy and colder is tomorrow's forecast, and increasing cloudiness, with chance of snow, is the outlook for Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Probabilities of precipitation in per cent are 60 today, 20 tonight and tomorrow.

Forty-eight was the low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The 2 p.m. recording was 43.

Pueblo Skipper's Counterpart Calls 'Unarmed' Concept Good

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The skipper of a sister ship to the USS Pueblo says he still believes in the concept of unarmed intelligence craft, but he wouldn't again want to take one near Red China or North Korea.

Cmdr. Charles R. Clark, who commanded the Banner on missions off the mainland of Asia, outlined to a Navy court of inquiry yesterday a story that in some ways parallels the experience of Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher and the Pueblo, except the Banner was not seized by North Koreans.

SESSIONS ARE OPEN

Clark took the stand in open session—the first in four days — after Rear Adm. Frank. L. Johnson, who supervised the Pueblo, said he had no forces under his direct command to provide emergency help when North Korean gunboats surrounded her a year ago and that planes and ships from other commands were unavailable or too far away. Johnson said the Pueblo's two .50-caliber machine guns "did not appear to me to provide a significant defense capability."

The court goes into closed session today to hear classified information.

★ ★ ★

Johnson, commander of the U.S. Naval Forces—Japan at the time, said planes could not operate out of Japan because of an agreement with that country forbidding use of Japan-based aircraft in engagements with unfriendly forces.

After Johnson described the forces available to him, Rear Adm. Marshall White of the five-admiral court said: "Then we really had a contingency plan to use forces that didn't exist. There was no help available for her?"

Answer: 'No forces were available to me."

E. Miles Harvey, civilian attorney for Bucher, asked Clark: "Do you have any recommendations or thoughts or anything else that might bear on this investigation by this board?"

★ ★ ★

"Armament and weapons and how they are used have possibly been overemphasized," Clark said. "In my personal opinion, these ships should not have been armed.

"I don't think protective forces would do any good. I don't think they could have gotten there in time to be of any appreciable help."

FASTER IN FUTURE

Clark said he felt future intelligence ships should be faster and have compartmented construction so the ship would float in case of a ramming. Clark now is range safety officer at the Pacific missile range at Point Mugu, Calif.

Clark said he had been harassed by Chinese and Russian vessels.

Clark said he thought he had an excessive amount of classified material on board and that he did not have adequate means to destroy it.

Narcotics Raid in Detroit Nets 6 From County

Six area youths were among 15 arrested in a narcotics raid in Detroit last night.

Detroit police said the raid, which occurred in a Woodward Avenue apartment building at about 10 p.m., netted more than $75,000 worth of marijuana, LSD and other illegal drugs.

Police said Carol Ann Hamilton, 18, of 5871 Kenmoor, Bloomfield Township, was among three of the young people to be charged with narcotics law violations in Detroit Recorder's Court this morning.

Others to be charged with violating the narcotics law were Mark Johnson, 18, whose apartment was raided, and Mark Taylor, 19, of Mount Clemens.

LOITERING CHARGE

The other 12 arrested in the raid were to be charged in Traffic Court with loitering in a place of illegal occupation.

Police identified the area youths as Robert D. Peterson, 17, of 20306 Ronsdale, and Christopher Benson, 18, of 32440 Madison, both of Beverly Hills; William Lackner, 18, of 32577 Wing Lake, Franklin; James Mulhern, 18, of 460 Harmon, Birmingham; and Ronald Houser, 18, of 3190 Long Lake, West Bloomfield Township.

Others taken into custody included Paula Piccolo, 18; Terry Dougherty, 18; and Ronald Czarnecki, 21, all of the apartment building near Woodward and Bethune where the raid occurred; Diana Armistead, 18, of Monroe; and James Coblentz, 17, Andrew Cohen, 22, and Jenifer Cohen, 20, all of Detroit.

Police said the raid culminated a monthlong surveillance of the location, including alleged undercover purchases of narcotic materials.

A warrant for sale and possession of narcotics will be sought against Johnson, police said.

Expo Successor Folds

MONTREAL (AP) — Man and His World, the financially unsuccessful successor to Expo 67, will not open for a scheduled second season this spring.

Lucien Saulnier, chairman of Montreal's executive committee, told a surprised city council meeting last night that financial risks involved had prompted the decision.

28 Back Bill to Fill State's No. 2 Post

LANSING (AP) — A bill which would fill a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor — such as the one now existing in Michigan — was introduced in the Senate yesterday with bipartisan support.

Introduced by Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, and endorsed by Senate Democratic chief Sander Levin of Berkley and 26 other senators, the measure would make the president pro tempore of the Senate acting lieutenant governor when a vacancy occurs.

★ ★ ★

Currently, a vacancy is filled by appointment of the governor with Senate consent. But Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has ruled the post cannot be filled when a lieutenant governor becomes governor, as William Milliken did Jan. 22.

If the measure won legislative approval, Rep. Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey, Senate president pro tem, would become acting lieutenant governor and draw the post's $22,500 annual salary while remaining a senator.

LONGER TERMS

Another proposed constitutional amendment introduced would extend the terms of state representatives from two years to four — a touchy political issue that failed of adoption in the House last year.

Introduced by three Democrats and two Republicans, the Senate measure would provide that House members be elected beginning in 1972 in years when there are presidential contests.

★ ★ ★

House Republicans rejected such a proposal in 1968, fearing the narrowly balanced chamber would swing to the Democrats if members were chosen in presidential election years.

Democrats, meanwhile, voted down a four-year measure providing election of House members in off-years. State senators already have four-year terms and are elected in off-years.

Plane Toll Is 4 in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Four persons including Wisconsin's adjutant general and his wife, were killed last night when a giant tanker plane crashed and burst into flames one-half mile south of Gen. Mitchell field.

Seven persons were injured in the crash of the Wisconsin Air National Guard KC97L of the 128th Refueling Group.

Maj. Gen. Ralph J. Olson, 64, had been Wisconsin's adjutant general for 18 years. The other victims were T. Sgt. Gerald, L. Becker, 31, Milwaukee, and Army Capt. Jerry Jerreman of Sun Prairie.

The plane, on a flight from Key West, Fla., was attempting to land in fog and rain, piloted by Col. Thomas L. Bailey, commander of the 128th and a veteran flyer who holds the Distinguished Flying Cross.

NECK BURNS

Bailey, 47, was hospitalized in fair condition with neck burns and possible smoke inhalation. Five of the other six survivors also were burned.

The battered fuselage of the plane continued to burn more than an hour after the crash which occurred shortly before 6 p.m. CST.

The main section of fuselage slid along frozen ground for a quarter of a mile, its trail marked by skid marks and pieces of debris.

The tower at Mitchell Field said conditions for an instrument landing were "fairly normal but at the minimum" with a ceiling of 200 feet and visibility of half a mile.

Crash Hospitalizes 2 From Waterford

One woman is hospitalized in critical condition and another in satisfactory condition after the car in which they were riding collided with an auto in Avon Township this morning.

In critical condition at Crittenton Hospital in Avon Township is Mrs. Joseph Fouts, 39, of 3321 Warringham, Waterford Township.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Doris I. Hutchings, 28, of 6174 Wilson, Waterford Township, who is in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said a car driven by Harold F. Carpenter, 57, of Almont failed to yield the right-of-way and was making an improper turn on to Livernois from westbound Walton at 6:35 a.m.

★ ★

Carpenter was treated at Crittenton and released.

Carpenter's car collided with the Hutchings vehicle, which deputies said was going through the intersection on eastbound Walton at about 35 miles per hour.

City Man Mute in Murder Case

A young Pontiac businessman stood mute yesterday at his arraignment on an open charge of murder in the death of a truck driver nearly three years ago, according to police.

Harry J. Smith, 23, whose address is unreported, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Pontiac detectives at a clothes-cleaning business at 463 S. Saginaw. He is reported to be part owner of the store.

★ ★ ★

Smith was arraigned before District Judge Cecil B. McCallum who set a court examination for next Thursday. Smith is being held in Oakland County Jail without bond.

He is accused of being involved in the 22-caliber automatic pistol slaying of Caro truck driver Carlaroy W. Henry, 29, outside the Jet Bar, 714 Woodward, at about 2:20 a.m. April 15, 1966.

★ ★ ★

Henry, father of three children, was shot in the chest as he walked from a telephone booth in front of the bar back toward his diesel cab, police said. He had just checked it with the Detroit office of Central Transport Inc. on his way to Saginaw.

Detectives termed the shooting motive as robbery since they didn't find Henry's wallet.

FREDERICK J. POOLE

Exec Is Added to Bank Board

Frederick J. Poole, president and general manager of the F. J. Poole Co. was added to the board of directors of the Community National Bank at yesterday's annual stockholders meeting. His election brings board membership to 12.

Poole of 1238 Heitch, Waterford Township, is president of the board of trustees for the Pontiac Area United Fund and a member of the board of directors of the YMCA; the Michigan Childrens Aid Society, Oakland branch, and the Michigan Mental Health Society, Oakland Chapter.

★ ★ ★

Reelected to the board were Louis H. Cole, David B. Eames, Warren H. Eierman, Robert R. Eldred, Robert C. Fisher, Harold A. Fitzgerald, Alfred C. Girard, Alfred R. Glancy Jr., Alfred R. Glancy III, Harold S. Goldberg and Howard W. Huttenlocher.

Net operating earnings of Community National for the year ending Dec. 31 were $1,520,430, as compared to $1,309,460 in 1967. Capital accounts increased from $10,212,918 in 1967 to $10,925,265 last year.

At the year end, total assets for the bank were $234,268,272 compared to $223,405,300 in 1967. Total loans increased from $120,852,485 to $134,872,311 in 1968.

Immediately following the annual meeting, the board reelected all members of the official staff.

Birmingham

Planning Board Opposes Bid to Vacate Alley

BIRMINGHAM — The city's planning board will recommend to the City Commission that a request to vacate an alley west of Woodward between Quarton and Redding be denied.

The vacation request was filed by A. L. Kassabian, 3481 Gunn, Oakland Township.

The Planning Board based its recommendation last night on reports from city police, engineering and planning departments advising against vacating the alley. The alley is a 20-foot right-of-way that serves three businesses and two utility substations.

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Edward T. Conley of 6529 Perham has been named controller of Ford Tractor Operation's Royal Oak-Romeo industrial equipment plant.

He previously served as controller of Ford's Mexico City engine plant and as a product cost specialist and financial analysis supervisor at Ford Tractor's general offices in Birmingham.

A panel of students, parents, teachers and administrators will talk over such topics as drugs, Vietnam, government, dating, dress codes, smoking and drinking and curfews in a panel discussion at Groves High School Tuesday, at 8 p.m.

Both students and parents are urged to attend. The forum follows up a similar program last month.

The panel discussions are designed to give youths and parents an opportunity to exchange ideas and discuss problems which contribute to the "generation gap."

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The township board has received approval from the State Municipal Finance Commission to sell $365,000 in special assessment bonds for water mains and sanitary sewers.

The funds will be used for construction of a sewer line costing $191,000 on Franklin in the Hickory Grove subdivision south of Square Lake Road; a $28,000 water main in the Ward Orchards subdivision in the northwestern part of the township and a sewer line in the Cranbrook Hills subdivision on Lone Pine between Lahser and Telegraph costing $126,000.

A $21,000 water main will be built in the Hickory Knoll subdivision between Telegraph and Woodward.

Area Man to Be Arraigned Tuesday in Skyjack Try

By JIM LONG

A West Bloomfield Township man accused of attempting to hijack a jetliner to Cuba earlier this month, will be arraigned Tuesday in U.S. Federal District Court in Miami.

Kenneth McPeek, 31, of 5515 Middle Belt will appear on the charge before Chief Judge Charles B. Fulton. The hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m.

McPeek will be represented by a court-appointed attorney, Richard G. Taylor of Miami.

Held in the Dade County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond, McPeek can plead either guilty or innocent to the charge, attempted air piracy, when he is arraigned.

SENTENCING DATE

If a guilty plea is entered Judge Fulton will set a sentencing date and order a presentence report from the probation department.

A trial date would be scheduled if McPeek pleads innocent and, in all probability, according to a court official in Miami, he would undergo psychiatric tests on the request of his attorney.

★ ★ ★

The tests would be conducted to determine if McPeek is mentally capable of assisting his attorney during the trial. If he is, the trial possibly could begin sometime in March, the court spokesman said.

McPeek was taken into custody by Dade County Sheriff's officers after a reported abortive attempt to alter the course of a Detroit-to-Miami flight on January 13.

LANDED IN MIAMI

His order was disregarded and the Delta Air Lines plane landed moments later without incident at the Miami International Airport.

Accompanying McPeek was his 3-year-old son from a previous marriage. The youngster was later turned over to his mother.

★ ★ ★

When police boarded the plane, they said, they found the shotgun he had used to threaten the stewardess laying at McPeek's feet. It was empty, but a box of shells was found nearby.

McPeek, reportedly unemployed at the time, had formerly worked for his father, Carl, who operates several gas stations in south Oakland County, and most recently for the Grand Trunk Western Railroad in Pontiac.

Nixon Says There's Room for Dissent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told some 700 officials charged with carrying out his foreign policy that there is plenty of room in his "Forward Together" administration for any dissenting views they may hold.

★ ★ ★

"Where there are strong dissenting views on foreign policy, I want these views, too," the President told a gathering of State Department officials Wednesday as he continued a round of get-acquainted visits to Capitol Hill and federal agencies.

★ ★ ★

Nixon took a slight break from that routine today for two prayer meetings, a session with the Apollo 8 astronauts and a White House dinner with the three moon-trip veterans and their wives.

One of the breakfasts was started back in the Eisenhower administration in 1952, with the aim of bringing together the nation's top officials "in recognition of the moral and spiritual values which the nation is founded."

GOING TO BOTH

This year, though, there were two breakfasts and the President and his wife accepted invitations to both.

The first included cabinet, joint chiefs of staff and congressional leaders in a small private session. The other brought together 2,000 other officials and their wives in a hotel ballroom.

★ ★ ★

Nixon held a two-hour session with the National Security Council Wednesday in the White House, devoted mainly to a discussion of the nuclear-nonproliferation treaty. But there was no word on when there will be a move toward ratification in the Senate.

Along with visits to the Senate and the State Department, Nixon made one high-level appointment, naming Gerard Smith, a 54-year-old lawyer, as director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

JOB UPGRADED

Nixon said he was upgrading the job and that Smith, credited by President John F. Kennedy with originating the Washington-Moscow hot line, would have "direct access to the secretary of state and to the President."

Smith has been an atomic energy adviser in three administrations.

At the State Department, Nixon spoke to 700 employes before a two-hour meeting with 30 top policy makers in Secretary of State William Rogers' eighth floor offices.

At the Senate, Nixon had lunch in Minority Leader Everett Dirksen's office with 16 Senate leaders from both parties.

Then he came out on the floor for an ovation from his one-time colleagues and the public galleries. He noted it was his first trip there since he left the Senate as vice president eight years ago.

In a brief speech, Nixon made it clear the executive branch needs the advice as well as consent of the Senate and he would be "most appreciative of getting their views."

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said that as far as the Democratic side is concerned, "We will do everything we can to make you a good president because we feel if you are good, the nation will benefit."

WILLING TO LISTEN—Secretary of State William P. Rogers introduces President Nixon during a visit to the State Department yesterday. Nixon told career and diplomatic officials he welcomes both dissenting and majority viewpoints on foreign policy.

Coordination: New Gap for White House?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, working to close the old credibility gap, may face a new fissure—this one in coordination.

Coordination is a key task of Herbert G. Klein, director of communications for the new administration, but it didn't seem to work that way Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

The lines of coordination became a bit blurred after Klein ventured a forecast that Nixon could be expected to go abroad within the next few months, world events permitting.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, on the other hand, had told reporters at the White House Tuesday that Nixon had no plans for overseas travel.

Oxford Cityhood, Annexation Vote Called Mockery

By JIM LONG

OXFORD — The executive director of the Michigan Township Association last night assailed the Feb. 11 city incorporation election here as a "mockery" of the one-man, one-vote concept.

Joseph A. Parisi Jr.'s criticism was leveled at state election laws that will allow all voters in the village to decide the cityhood question, while only those Township voters living in the area affected by the proposal vote.

★ ★ ★

The incorporation proposal being considered by voters takes in about four square miles of the township surrounding the village. The area to be included in the new city is about half of the township's tax base.

Prisi, head of the township association for 16 years, was the featured speaker at an information meeting — attended by about 100 persons — at the Oxford High School.

OFFICIALS ON HAND

Both township and village officials were on hand to answer questions, with Jay Allen, acting village manager, serving as the village spokesman.

Parisi noted that there are twice as many people eligible to vote in the village as there is in the affected area of the township.

★ ★ ★

"That means that the township vote is only worth half as much," said Parisi.

"That's the law now, but not for long," he said. "I will do everything in my power to have it changed."

EQUAL POWER

Later, Parisi said that a bill now being drafted will give equal voting power to communities involved in incorporation votes of the type being held in Oxford.

He expressed amazement that the village had not conducted a comprehensive study detailing the advantages and disadvantages of cityhood. "It should be able to answer three main questions," said Parisi. "What do I get, when do I get it, and how much is it going to cost?"

★ ★ ★

Allen objected to Parisi's statement that no study was conducted, pointing out that a 12-member panel of residents from both the village and township had carried out a survey.

★ ★ ★

Township Supervisor Lee Valentine noted, however, that only five members of the panel eventually signed the recommendation for cityhood.

HOPES IT LOSES

He said that he hopes that the proposal loses by a 4 to 1 margin, thereby reflecting the attitude of the voters, "so it won't come up again each year."

★ ★ ★

Allen, who took over the duties of manager only last November, said he believed that if Oxford becomes a city, it would carry more weight in funding matters.

"For example," said Allen, "we were next in line to get funds for sewers, but we were told that we were too small and that some other community had priority."

★ ★ ★

In addition of doubling the tax base, Oxford, he said, would receive additional road funds, and residents would no longer have to pay township taxes.

SERVICE CUT EYED

Allen warned that there was a possibility that services may be cut back in the village if new tax base land wasn't added to the rolls. "As it is now, there's just so much money."

★ ★ ★

Servicing the township portion being eyed for incorporation would present no problems," said Allen. "It is mostly vacant property, and we can easily serve the few settled areas."

★ ★ ★

If incorporation is approved, it will require hiring only three additional employes, according to Allen.

2 Scouts Given Eagle Rank

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Albert Domroese, 13, and Michael Humphreys, 14, recently were presented the coveted Eagle Scout Award.

Albert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Domroese, 6938 Snow Apple, and Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Humphreys Jr., 6695 Laurelton, are members of Boy Scout Troop 126, sponsored by the Clarkston Methodist Church.

★ ★ ★

Both youths are also members of the Order of the Arrow, a Scouting leadership honorary society. The Scouts earned the Eagle Awards by completing requirements for 21 merit badges. A merit badge is presented for superior accomplishment in a specialized activity such as canoeing, reading, etc.

Albert is a student at Clarkston Junior High School. Michael is a freshman at Clarkston High School, where he is active in the freshman basketball team and varsity band.

Gravel-Pit Growth Is Hit in Groveland

GROVELAND TOWNSHIP — A large turnout of property owners made it clear to the township's zoning board last night they do not want an expansion of a gravel-processing operation in the township.

The property owners are objecting to a rezoning request filed by William Scramlin and Marshall Ballow, owners of a 325-acre parcel located between Dixie Highway and Jossman and running from Oak Hill to near Bald Eagle Lake Road in the southeastern part of the township.

J. P. Burroughs Co., a Saginaw-based gravel processor, has an option to buy the property, which is now zoned agricultural. Burroughs processes gravel on a nearby similarly-sized tract.

More than 100 property owners attended the public hearing to protest officially against the rezoning petition. Final action is expected to be taken by the Zoning Board at another hearing Wednesday.

DRAWBACKS CITED

Residents maintained that expansion of the gravel pit operation would seriously lower the valuation of approximately 16 homes located in the immediate vicinity; lower the water table; create shifts in the ground, harming house foundations; and create additional safety hazards for children.

Mrs. James Phillips, of 3920 Bald Eagle Lake Road, chairman of the Property Owners Association which has been organized to resist formally the rezoning request, said another gravel pit would mean establishment of a service road running into the area.

★ ★ ★

The additional road, she said, would mean increased truck traffic and create safety hazards. Mrs. Phillips noted the other two roads in the area of the gravel pit, Oak Hill and Wildwood, have already been seriously damaged by heavy truck traffic.

Property owners have also objected to the dust and noise caused by the gravel operation. They also argue the tax revenues coming from Burroughs are not considerably greater than revenues derived from other property owners.

★ ★ ★

The citizens committee will meet again Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Township Hall with their attorney Carl Karlstrom of Booth, Patterson, Hays and Karlstrom of Pontiac, to finalize their protest presentation for the next hearing.

Final action is up to the Township.

Stage Is Set for Salary Showdown

County Supervisors Get Questionnaires

Members of the new 27-man Oakland County Board of Supervisors were expected to open the question of salaries today with the distribution of two questionnaires regarding work loads, job costs, and what members feel salaries should be.

A salary survey undertaken by the County Board of Auditors on order from the full board was received yesterday by the personnel practices committee.

No action was taken by the committee and none is expected until Feb. 11 when members will have had time to digest the survey and to study questionnaire answers. It was expected that answers might be obtained by the Feb. 5 board session.

The full board is expected to consider the matter of salaries at a meeting called for 1:30 p.m. Feb. 13. Other meetings have been set tentatively for 9:30 p.m. Feb. 14 and also on Saturday, Feb. 15, if necessary.

Supervisors are bound by state statute to set their salaries by Feb. 15. Corporation Counsel Robert Allen ruled yesterday that if the salaries are not set by that time, and if the State Legislature does not act to postpone the deadline, it is quite possible that supervisors would have to serve a full two years without payment.

"There is a possibility that the old per diem pay scale of the previous board could be adhered to, however," Allen noted.

★ ★ ★

The survey taken by the board of auditors reveals a wide variation in pay scale for elected officials.

Samples have been taken from various counties in the state as well as across the country. Township board salaries are included as is the State Legislature.

GENESEE IS HIGH

Of those counties in Michigan which have set pay rates, Genesee appears high with a $7,500 base and $20 per diem.

Genesee, Kent, Ingham and Kalamazoo have populations much less than Oakland and budgets considerably smaller than the $25.8 million adopted here for 1969.

Average supervisor salary between the four appears to be $4,725 with $25 per diem and $650 additional for the chairman of the board.

One of the two questionnaires — regarding duties, estimated time on the job, and expenses — will require supervisor signatures. The second questionnaire asks members what they feel payment should be. The latter does not require a signature.

TAKEN TO TASK

James Mathews of Pontiac took the board to task for allowing the matter of salaries to go "right to the wire" without time for public hearings.

Said Fred Houghten of Rochester, "Public hearings . . . would open ourselves to confusion."

★ ★ ★

A member of the personnel practices committee, James Brennan of Berkley said he wanted a decision on salaries.

"I'm going to have to make some kind of a job change," said the Chrysler Corp. parts division comptroller staff assistant. "This job (as supervisor) is taking more time from my regular job than can be allowed. I will probably need part-time work, because any compensation proposed as of now would be a reduction from my present salary."

★ ★ ★

Regarding the problem of office space and secretarial service, former Board Chairman Delos Hamlin suggested that space be made available at the Courthouse and that one secretary be employed to handle all board business.

★ ★ ★

Some supervisors said such help would be valuable. Others indicated they would still need help in their home districts.

★ ★ ★

Whether mileage is to be included in the suggested salary and how supervisors' duties in relation to their represented local units of government may be compensated were also discussed.

German Measles Babies Crowd Facilities for Deaf

Oakland County facilities for training of the deaf, along with others in the metropolitan area, are being increased in the wake of the German measles epidemic of 1964, which caused deafness and other handicaps to children not yet born then.

The county has reportedly doubled its facilities for deaf and fied 14 of the 40 children in its preschool age.

★ ★ ★

The Detroit Day School for the Deaf has enrolled twice as many 3-year-olds.

Garden City said it has identified 14 of the 4 children in its preschool classes for deaf children as so-called "rubella babies."

IN 1ST 3 MONTHS

They are children whose mothers contacted German measles, a disease mild in adults, during the first three months of their pregnancies.

Other complications affecting children may include cataracts, heart or kidney conditions or mental retardation.

★ ★ ★

The year-long epidemic, worst in recorded history, began in the East in 1964 and spread. At the time, a doctor from the National Institutes of Health predicted 30,000 children born in the United States would be affected by German measles.

"We certainly have noticed the influx. We have had to add a second teacher to our preschool program," said a spokesman for the Oakland County Intermediate Board of Education.

'UNEXPLAINED RASH'

Mothers of 70 to 80 per cent of the children now being admitted have reported a history of German measles or an unexplained rash during pregnancy.

Bloomfield Hills High School plans to expand its program, expecting the number of students taking classes to increase from 11 to up to 60.

★ ★ ★

There are 52 preschoolers at the Detroit Day School, compared to 20 or 25 normally. Mrs. Harriet Kopp, the principal, said about 25 of these are German measles babies.

"It is important to begin stimulating their brains as early as possible. We want to get deaf babies thinking in language terms.

PATTERN SET

When you realize that children set their whole thinking pattern before they're five, you can see how much harder it becomes if we don't see deaf children much earlier than that," she said.

A vacine is still in the trial stage. Doctors hope it can be developed by 1970 or 1971, when another epidemic of German measles is expected.

SPEAKER—Sen. Philip A. Hart will speak at tonight's meeting of WOMAN (Women Opposed to Missiles and Nuclear Warheads), scheduled for 8 in the Gold Room of the Oakland Center building at Oakland University. WOMAN, a nonpartisan group, is seeking public hearings on proposed nuclear antiballistic missile sites in Oakland County. The meeting is open to the general public.

Charges Traded on Appointment

Charges of poor faith and unfulfilled commitments marked yesterday's Oakland County Board of Supervisors committee on committees meeting.

Christian Powell, R-West Bloomfield Township, and committee Chairman William Richards D-Royal Oak, traded the bitter accusations in regard to appointments to county boards being recommended by the committee.

★ ★ ★

The head-on collision between Democrats and Republicans arose specifically over an appointment to the three-man aviation committee.

Wallace Gabler Jr. of Royal Oak, a Republican, and Niles Olson of Lake Orion, a Democrat, were previously named to the committee.

THIRD MEMBER

Democrats proposed the name of Lee Walker of Madison Heights as the third member, while Republicans wanted Mahlon Benson Jr. of Waterford Township.

A trade was finally accomplished in which Olson was assured of the committee chairmanship with Benson being named the third man.

★ ★ ★

Republicans charged that their okay of Philip O. Mastin Jr. to the Department of Public Works Board had been contingent on Benson's appointment to the aviation committee.

The committee also approved the appointment of Democrat Willis Brewer of Sylvan Lake to the Board of Institutions. He will replace Joseph Forbes of Oak Park who is reportedly resigning.

Appointments must receive the approval of the board of supervisors.

Satellite City Plan Is Most-Favored at Farmington Parley

FARMINGTON — Citizens and city officials reacted favorably to a proposed growth concept encouraging new cities to grow as satellites around a core city, Detroit, at this week's information meeting conducted by representatives of the Detroit Regional Transportation and Land Use study.

Irving J. Rubin, director of the study, presented five possible growth patterns for the region to some 40 interested city persons.

★ ★ ★

Besides the central city concept, a corridor pattern — allowing for closer-knit higher-density housing along corridors designed to provide mass transportation and allow more open space — attracted the most votes in an informal show of hands.

★ ★ ★

In discussing urban-suburban problems, Rubin commented that, as a region, suburbia should have a responsibility to the poor.

★ ★ ★

He warned his listeners that without action and awareness, the city would end up with blacks concentrated in the center, poorer whites in a middle ring, and wealthier whites on the outer edges in suburbia.

Timetable Set in Algiers Murder Trial

MASON (AP) — A judge has ordered that a jury be seated May 14 to open the first murder trial stemming from the notorious "Algiers Motel Case" in which three Negro youths were slain at the height of the 1967 Detroit riot.

In the first trial proceedings Wednesday, Judge William J. Beer laid out a timetable in which a panel of prospective jurors will be formed May 12, the jury will be chosen May 13 and the first-degree murder trial of former policeman Ronald W. August, 29, will begin May 14.

★ ★ ★

Beer, meanwhile, bypassed any immediate ruling on a motion by a prosecuting attorney who asserted he can't trust some of his own witnesses to tell the truth.

The prosecutor, Avery Weiswasser, sought the right to crossexamine not only the defense but the state witnesses.

PERJURY ASSERTED

Weiswasser asserted there has been "out-and-out perjury spread upon the record" by at least one Detroit police officer testifying in preliminary hearings.

"I'll treat the problems as they arise," replied Beer, an Oakland County Circuit Court judge assigned to the case. He said Weiswasser's motion would remain pending.

★ ★ ★

August, who is white, is accused of the shotgun killing of 19-year-old Aubrey Pollard of Detroit. Pollard was found slain along with Fred Temple, 18, and Carl Cooper, 17, in an annex of the Algiers Motel in midtown Detroit on July 26, 1967, at the peak of the riot. Witnesses have testified Pollard and Temple were shot to death during a raid on the motel by uniformed police and national guardsmen hunting for "snipers." Cooper, whose death remains a mystery, may have been dead before the raid.

★ ★ ★

Defense attorney Norman L. Lippit won a motion Wednesday for a hearing on whether four statements made by August to his superior officers after the incident may be used as evidence in the trial.

★ ★ ★

Beer set Feb. 24 for the hearing but denied another motion by Lippit to suppress the former patrolman's statements from the public. Instead, Beer asserted he would keep all court files and hearings open to public scrutiny throughout the proceedings.

★ ★ ★

The hearing on admissability of August's statements will be held in the Oakland County Courthouse at Pontiac. Jury selection May 12-13 will be in Lansing. The trial, however, will be in Mason, a city of 4,500 chosen as a location after the defense protested earlier that it would be impossible to gain a fair hearing in Detroit because of "community antagonism."

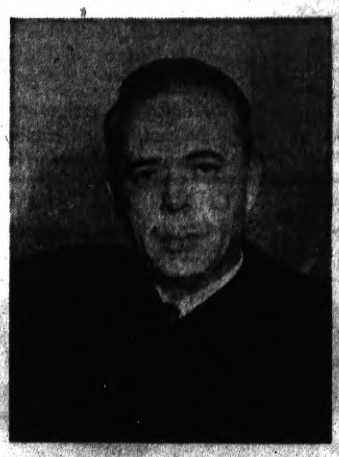

★ ★ ★

Only one of August's four statements was admitted in evidence in the preliminary hearing. In it, August said he shot Pollard after a struggle over the officer's shotgun.

★ ★ ★

The statement was allowed as evidence in the early hearings because August made it after having been advised formally of his constitutional right to remain silent. In two statements made before he had signed the document affirming that he understood his rights, August failed to indicate he shot Pollard.

Lippit said August, a father of two, was "placed in the dilemma of either making a statement to his superior officer or losing his job."

How to Choose a College—8

It's Time to Talk About Curriculum

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the eighth article in a series on the dos and don'ts to observe in selecting the right college for you.)

By ELLA MAZEL
NEA Publications

DECISION 7: Curriculum

It may seem strange to have gotten this far without hearing a word about curriculum.

★ ★ ★

Surely the very first thing you should have been thinking of is which colleges offer the courses you are most interested in. But — had you started from curriculum — you would still be floundering in a vast sea of possibilities.

★ ★ ★

Just about every liberal arts college offers majors in English, history, mathematics and the like.

★ ★ ★

If you are one of the 50 per cent of high school students who don't know yet "what you want to be when you grow up," and school providing a fairly broad selection of courses in the humanities (English, philosophy, languages), social sciences (economics, history, anthropology), and natural sciences (biology, chemistry, physics) will give you a solid educational foundation on which to build a future specialization.

CAREER-ORIENTED MAJORS

Carreer-oriented majors in fields such as teacher education, music, business, nursing, home economics, and engineering are offerred by hundreds of colleges and universities.

For the fields of law, dentistry, medicine, social work, and veterinary medicine, the ideal preprofessional preparation is considered to be a good liberal arts background — and your major is not important.

★ ★ ★

There are any number of chemistry majors who have gone into law, and economics majors who have become doctors. Most colleges have preprofessional advisers who will help you work out a combination of liberal arts courses that will qualify you for any graduate professional school.

★ ★ ★

If you are seeking a career specialization that is off the beaten track, you would first want to find out what few colleges offer it.

For example, music therapy is a new discipline available at present in just 21 colleges.

With such a particularized goal, you don't exactly have a problem of choice. But for most of the 25 areas covered in the Guide, you should first narrow the field on the basis of all the other factors, then check to see which colleges on your working list offer your chosen subject.

A LOOK TO FUTURE — This is what Michigan's new State Capitol would look like if the most recent concept were adopted. The facility—three separate buildings atop a fourth — would cost an estimated $48.9 million. The tall pylon in the center, with a glass observation cube at the top, could symbolize the "light of freedom," it was suggested.

New Concept for the Capitol Is Unveiled

LANSING (AP)—Legislators got their first glimpse yesterday of the most recent concept for a new State Capitol. It would cost an estimated $48.9 million.

Planning and construction would take about five years.

A model of the facility depicts a cluster of three buildings atop a main base building with a tall pylon in the center of the complex.

★ ★ ★

The pylon has a large glass observation tube on top, which was suggested, could symbolize the "light of freedom."

The main building would contain all the offices and allied working areas and meeting rooms for the buildings above. Each of the upper buildings would be for a branch of government: legislative, judicial and executive.

4-BLOCK AREA

The polished granite and reinforced concrete structure would occupy a four-block area four blocks west of the present Capitol, a mostly wood structure with an ornate dome.

Sen. Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, Senate Appropriations Committee chairman, said the model shows one of 15 designs for a contemporary Capitol.

"For the past two years we have searched for a new expression for Michigan's Capitol," said Sigmund F. Blum, director of design for the architectural firm working on the plan, Smith, Finchman & Grylls Associates.

Tiny Principality to Get $5 to Underwrite Military

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A Pennsylvania newspaper has agreed to underwrite the entire military budget of the Principality of Andorra — $5.

But a U. S. congressman has raised the question whether a private organization here can underwrite the military budget of any foreign power, regardless of size.

★ ★ ★

The Pottstown Mercury decided today to send Andorra a $5 check after reading the tiny principality's military budget would amount to only that much. The money is for ammunition for Andorra's 20-man police force to fire ceremonial salutes for visiting dignitaries.

Andorra is a 191-square-mile principality with about 5,200 population in the Pyrenees Mountains between France and Spain.

'WONDERFUL IDEA'

U.S. Rep. Lawrence Coughlin, R-Pa., said he thought the gift was a wonderful idea.

"Although I doubt whether the military armament purchased through this donation will ever be used to launch an attack on the United States, there is still a question of legality involved," he said.

★ ★ ★

The Mercury, in a statement to the Principality of Andorra, wrote in part:

"We do this in confidence that the sum will be used only for defense and ceremonial salutes and never to launch an offensive against the United States or its allies."

The newspaper said the check and its statement will be delivered to officials of Andorra.

Minnesotan Set to Push for National Park Again

By RICHARD P. POWERS
AP Regional Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to establish a 164,000-acre national park in the lakes and woodlands of northeastern Minnesota, killed when Congress adjourned last fall, is being prepared for reintroduction.

The prime sponsor of the proposed Voyageurs national park, Rep. John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., says he is optimistic that opposition to the plan in the affected area has been quelled.

★ ★ ★

Blatnik said he would confer with Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman of the House Interior Committee, before reintroducing the bill.

Aspinall, whose committee would consider the proposal, had indicated last year he was favorably disposed toward it, Blatnik said.

SHUNS CONTROVERSY

But, he noted, Aspinall has long been cool toward park proposals which are subjects of controversy in the area involved.

Segments of the timber and resort industries in northeast Minnesota have in the past opposed plans for establishing a park in the area.

★ ★ ★

Blatnik said his bill would have few restrictions on activities within the park except bans on hunting and timber cutting.

Provision will be offered for a land swap to compensate the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Co., owner of a large section of the proposed park, for its losses.

NO ACTION

Blatnik's original bill was introduced late in the 1968 congressional session, and no action was taken on it before Congress adjourned and all legislation then pending automatically died.

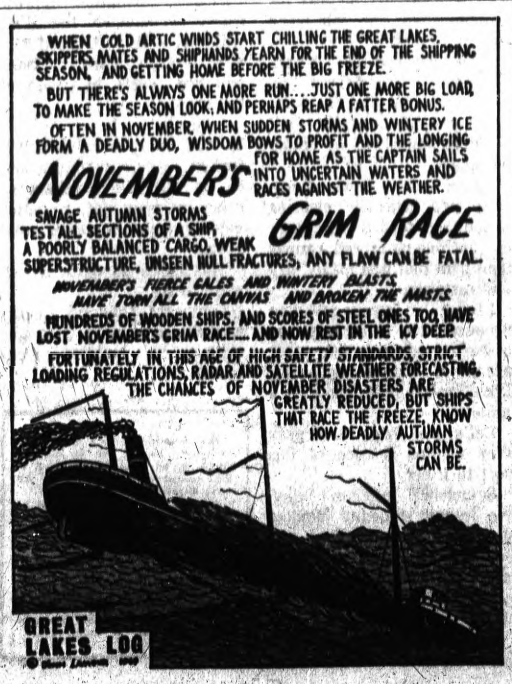

Blatnik said he hopes the bill will again have the bipartisan support of Minnesota's nine other members of Congress.

The Voyageurs park proposal was endorsed by the Interior Department last year but the position of the department's new administration, headed by Secretary Walter J. Hickel, is not known.

SHOESTRING OPERATION — Barbara Montgomery displays a check for $5, representing the entire military budget of the tiny Principality of Andorra, which the Pottstown (Pa.) Mercury has agreed to underwrite. However, U.S. Rep. Lawrence Coughlin, R-Pa., said there is some doubt where a private organization can pay for the military budget of a foreign power.

Press Rebuts Civil Rights Report

Spirited Pontiac citizens are refusing to take the gloomy, dismal picture painted by the MCRC lying down. This unexpected wallop has aroused a big flash of civic pride that is heartening to see.

City Manager JOSEPH A. WARREN and Police Chief WILLIAM K. HANGER immediately replied to the charges and did so in a positive and convincing manner. The Police Chief answered everything point by point, and left the belief that the MCRC criticisms lacked credence today.

Certainly this City isn't perfect. Certainly we have weak points that need study and strengthening. But businessmen, civic officials and manufacturers united in discrediting so much of this critical report it leaves one wondering.

★ ★ ★

General Motors Corporation immediately filed a rebuttal to the charges levied against it and citizens at large are accepting this word implicitly. We always have and we've never been fooled yet.

Just at a time when the City is negotiating for tremendous financial help from the Federal government in an effort to rebuild downtown, these charges can do great damage and undermine the work of months and even years.

Further, right as the area progresses handsomely with a magnificent presentation of the advantages of a domed stadium, Oakland is belted amidships as though we were a ghetto county instead of one of the most prosperous and progressive in the United States. Unless outsiders in top authority know the actual facts, this MCRC blast can do us incalculable damage.

If Pontiac rates this negative appraisal with our fine records, what will happen when this commission views some places like Detroit where several hundred million dollars worth of damage has been done. Julian Cook, co-chairman Michigan Civil Rights Commission, will have to order some cities abandoned, deserted and boarded up forever. These California colleges and the transgressors at New York's Columbia will be sentenced to prison by the tens of thousands.

★ ★ ★

This newspaper heartily applauds GM officials, our City Manager and Police Chief who sprang into action immediately and cited facts.

We may get the stadium yet.

Downtown can be rebuilt.

Industry can raise its head.

And in conclusion, we'd like to point out that each of these entities answered the charges immediately, although the flailing has been seven months in preparation and is outdated.

We certainly recognize that Pontiac has problems along with other cities and we must strive to solve them as soon as possible in an orderly and constructive manner.

Pontiac Mall Auto Show a 'Bang-up' Success

A hearty round of applause is in order for Pontiac Mall's 7th annual auto show, which wound up a 10-day exhibition last Saturday.

Sponsored by the Pontiac Automotive Trade Dealers Association and stage managed by association president CY PEARLMAN and Mall resident manager Mrs. RUTH MCCARTHY, the 1969 show displayed 65 captivating models of the latest passenger vehicles. A dozen dealerships displayed their products.

Interest in this annual event increases year by year, and the opportunity to view under one roof the automakers' creations amid a pervasive atmosphere of hospitality, is an irresistible magnet for thousands of buyers and lookers.

The PRESS commends the organizations and individuals who had a hand in making this year's Pontiac Mall Auto Show the outstanding success it was.

Reptiles Take Atomic Radiation in Slide

For five years, a team of University of California mammologists and herpetologists has been pouring radiation onto a 20-acre Atomic Energy compound in the Nevada desert to see what would happen to the wildlife.

They report that reptiles remain unaffected by massive radiation while mice have become sterile. Computer projections of their data indicate that all mammals in the area will eventually become extinct but that reptiles will survive.

Some scientists believe that changes in the sun's radiation had something to do with the ending of the 200-million-year reign of dinosaurs, possibly by drastically altering the climate. The passing of the dinosaurs paved the way for the rise of the mammals, of which man considers himself the ne plus ultra.

★ ★ ★

Creation's leading mammal can take scant comfort in the knowledge that should he decide to wipe out himself and all his evolutionary nearkin in a nuclear holocaust the world will once again be made safe for the reptiles.

Nixon Likely to Rely on Inner Staff

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—After being knocked down when it first surfaced in November, the notion has arisen again that newly installed President Nixon intends to use his White House staff as some sort of transmission belt but not as a generating force.

BIOSSAT

The fact is that even if the President had such a resolve, and there is no conclusive evidence that he does, it would probably not work out that way.

★ ★ ★

In recent regimes, the intrusion of the White House staff as a virtual fourth branch of government has developed from the realities of late-20th century government: the glacial character of the bureaucracy, the relative remoteness of many department and agency heads (even though only at the end of a telephone line), the instant utility of men close around the President whom he learns to trust and depend upon in the often swift-moving course of policy making.

★ ★ ★

Realists within the new White House establishment believe it will be no different this time. Even before they moved in, there were signs that some delays in planning were occurring because certain Cabinet heads could get no signals from a too-busy Nixon.

SPECIAL STATUS

Obviously, veteran personal advisers like Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and HEW Secretary Robert Finch hold special status. They are in effect extensions of the White House staff and, undoubtedly, will be in that building many times.

So, too, must exception be made for State Secretary William Rogers and Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, both old Nixon friends but also the heads of two of the most vital agencies. After all, Robert McNamara was no stranger to the White House in the Kennedy-Johnson era.

Fundamentally, however, the agency heads will need guidance from the President which he frequently will be too busy to give personally. The White House crew will have to supply that signaling service. Nixon has, in fact, already given his aides some idea of the ways in which they can speak in his name.

And the President's past performance, privately observed by some of his helpers, indicates that where doubt exists in an aide's mind, Nixon expects him to resolve it in favor of action rather than holding back.

FIERCE COMPETITION

Not only do his realistic assistants understand this, but for varying spans of time some have engaged in fierce competition for the top inside roles in guiding the course of the new administration.

Nixon has watched this competition with strong interest, yet without intervening. It is as if he wants to see who emerges from the fires, so he may put maximum trust in them.

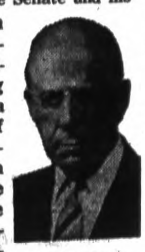

The Gift Horse!

David Lawrence Says:

President Is Wooing Congress

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, by his visits to the House and the Senate and his meetings with congressional leaders, is trying to establish a spirit of friendliness which might be helpful in the relations between a Republican chief executive and a Congress which has a Democratic majority in both houses.

LAWRENCE

Somewhat the same situation confronted President Eisenhower for six years, but Lyndon Johnson, who happened to be leader of the Democratic party in the Senate, cooperated with the White House, particularly on foreign policy.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Nixon's difficulty is that the committee chairmen in Congress — all Democrats — are not going to be influenced altogether by their party leaders.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark. for instance, is already exhibiting signs of dissatisfaction because the Nixon administration is in the main pursuing the same policy with respect to Vietnam that the Johnson administration did.

NO EASY SOLUTION

There is, of course, no easy solution to the Vietnam problem.

Chances of reaching a settlement have in recent weeks been described as better than ever before. But this is mainly due to the conviction in Hanoi that the United States is getting ready to pull out and that all the Communists need to do is to provide a face-saving device for this country.

★ ★ ★

Recent comments here and abroad hinting that the United States is about to withdraw some of its troops have encouraged the North Vietnamese to believe that the position of this country is weakening.

President Nixon drew attention on Monday to the risks and dangers involved in giving a wrong impression about American policy.

He said, in his news conference, that he does not think it is helpful "to make overly optimistic statements which, in effect, may impede, and perhaps might make very difficult, our negotiations in Paris."

So it becomes apparent that a very critical situation soon may face the United States outside of Vietnam, as various countries read statements in the press which imply that this country is willing to make almost any concession at Paris in order to permit an early troop withdrawal.

Bob Considine Says:

Forget About the Punks; This Is About a Man

NEW YORK — People . . . Places . . .

Sure, there are a lot of young punks loose in the land, and they receive too much publicity. Here's a story, however, that tends to balance matters.

CONSIDINE

It's about an Air Force sergeant named Steve Northern of Riverside, Calif. He's home after completing two tours in Southeast Asia as a pararescueman with the 3rd Aerospace Rescue & Recovery Group of the Military Airlift Command.

★ ★ ★

Steve, a good-looking kid barely old enough to vote, rescued the incredible number of 51 airmen shot down in enemy-held territory during his two stretches.

He jumped or was lowered into the jaws of enemy fire time after time, to find and rescue downed fliers who faced certain capture or death.

STARS

He made a practice of not only carrying the wounded to the waiting helicopter hoist but protecting the men by shielding them with his own body.

Result: four Silver Stars, believed to be a record and, of course, a few Purple Hearts.

★ ★ ★

Someone asked him how he felt, leaving Vietnam for Riverside.

"I'll miss it," he said wistfully.

P.S. — He went back to school.

Sudden thought: I wonder when the American Indian will get his civil rights?

Although the Russians beat us into space, and recently performed a remarkable transfer of cosmonauts from one spacecraft to another, they can still goof off in ludicrous ways.

The February issue of Atlas magazine, which specializes in the little things that happen overseas (as well as overseas comment on the big things that happen here), reports a scene of mad confusion in one of the kitchens of Moscow's new Hotel Rossiya. It is Europe's biggest and surely worst-run hotel.

★ ★ ★

A reporter named Mil'chakov, writing in the Moscow newspaper Trud, gives us the evidence:

"The atmosphere (in the restaurant) was calm and serene. But in the kitchen, on the next floor down, waitress Valya Zadonskaya was crouching near the escalator with a broken leg. Someone brought ice. Someone else called an ambulance.

'COULDN'T BELIEVE EYES'

Waitress Tamara Saltykova also went into a tail-spin, but she suffered only a bruised knee.

"I could not believe my eyes: dozens of waitresses, their trays loaded with dishes, were running down an escalator that was going up."

★ ★ ★

Fault of the planners, Comrade Krepotnay, managing director of the food service system, told Mil'chakov.

It is not known when Krepotnay's trial will begin.

Voice of the People:

'Citizens Should Defend Actions of Pueblo Crew'

It seems that for once the people of the United States would stand up and defend the men who fight so courageously for the freedom of this country. We have the conscientious objectors, draft-card burners and a lot of cowards who fall back on religion to keep them out of the service. We do not punish men of this caliber, just shake our heads and go about our business.

And then we come to the Commander of the Pueblo, and most likely his crew. A Naval Board of Inquiry is getting ready to nail these men to the cross because the skipper let persons of a foreign state come aboard his ship and take it captive in order to save the lives of his men. Where was the help they called for and did not receive?

★ ★ ★

If the people can stand by and see these men's lives and careers destroyed, who is more guilty, the people or the skipper?

MRS. MARCIA SIMPSON
467 Kenilworth

God knows our admirals have done a loyal, patriotic and self-sacrificing service for their county. Must they lose all good reasoning by convicting Commander Bucher because he refused to sink his ship? I am thankful the Commander had the good reasoning to realize his ship's complement of men was more important than being "gung ho."

Let's attack the real villain in this case, which is the snafu that has to be dealt with before the all-important decisions can be made. After all, this situation could have triggered the beginning of yet another war. I hope that something constructive can be learned from the capture of the Pueblo.

'Can City Clear Walks and Bill Owners?'

I agree with Victim and Another Victim in the Voice of the People. Those who shoveled their own walks or who had them plowed, have clean walks now. Those who didn't had ice for many days and it was dangerous and slippery. Can the City do it for the Scrooges and bill them?

STILL ANOTHER VICTIM

'Prayers at Inauguration Were Reassuring'

In these days of unrest, rebellion, crime and even violence only a hundred yards from our inaugural ceremonies, it was most reassuring to hear prayer for all of us and for our Country, that it may once more honor God and serve Him before we suffer the fate of Greece and Rome when they forgot Him.

We found no record dealers with listings by that title or by that artist. However, can you tell us where you heard it, or what company recorded it, or even more about the artist? Perhaps we can trace it that way if it's out of print. Or maybe a reader has some information that will help us.

'First Robin' Is a Rare Bird

By DICK SAUNDERS

DEPT. OF ODDS AND ENDS:

OK gang, let's hear it for Mrs. Eric Kretschmar, of 1050 Doris, Pontiac Township.

SAUNDERS

She's got the big bird story of the year. About 11 a.m. Jan. 14 Mrs. Kretschmar spotted a sweet bird of equality near her bird feeder. It was really the first robin of the year reported around these parts — but a truly rare bird indeed. This early arrival was clearly neither a segregationist nor a religious bigot.

★ ★ ★

He was spotted hanging around with several sparrows and a cardinal.

In any case, in this business we annually get loads of calls about No. 1 robin of the year. So, this is fair warning; sharp-eyed Mrs. K has beaten everyone to the punch.

It's not gonna be lily white around here much longer. Spring is just around the corner.

To take the squeezing and pinching out of testing apples, the government has come up with a hands-off method for accomplishing the job using sonic vibrations.

After considerable experimentation, researchers recently reported that the sonic responses substantiated what could be found out by eating an apple.

Apples that were juicy, crisp and generally pleasing to the taste tend to have higher machine-measured ratings than fruit that was mealy, dry and tasteless.

I bring this to your attention because such technology has a way of creeping into other areas of human endeavor. Like, for example, choosing a mate.

Let's just hope and pray they confine science of this sort to fruits.

Somehow I just can't imagine myself someday handing my son a sonic machine and saying: "Son, go out there and find yourself a juicy, crisp and generally pleasing wife."

Or having my daughter come home in tears because some hot shot machine rated her as slightly mealy.

Conventional courtship may not always lead to a happy marriage, but it's a fun trip.

Finally, Britain's newest prison, nicknamed the Ritz, will have cells with fitted carpets, bedside lamps, curtains and bed covers in colors of the inmate's choice.

Scheduled to be operational by 1973, the spacious cells will feature modern furniture and no bars on the windows so prisoners can get a better view through the shatter proof glass.

This came as quite a surprise to me.

I thought Oakland County was the only place that specialized in building ivory towers.

Battle Lines Drawn for State Dem Parley

DETROIT (AP)— Democrats will gather in Detroit this weekend to battle over resolutions, hear from four disputed delegations and elect a state chairman to replace outgoing Sen. Sander Levin of Berkley.

Some 2,300 delegates are eligible to attend the party's spring state convention, one of two statewide Democratic conclaves held each year. Republicans meet two weeks later at Grand Rapids.

★ ★ ★

Three candidates have announced themselves as interested in taking the party's helm from Levin, who has vowed not to seek another term. Levin, 37, has been chairman for about a year.

The declared candidates are James McNeely, Levin's deputy chairman; William Hettiger, deputy secretary of state; and Prof. Otto Feinstein of Wayne State University.

POSSIBLE CANDIDATE

Another possible candidate is Detroit city controller Bernard Klein. The name of party Vice Chairman Kenneth Hylton is sometimes mentioned, but he is thought less likely to run.

McNeely may benefit from Levin's undeclared support. Hettiger is backed by his boss, Secretary of State James Hare.

★ ★ ★

Feinstein, former state chairman of Sen. Eugene McCarthy's presidential effort, may be backed by the "New Democratic Coalition" of young liberal delegates.

Sen. Roger Craig, D-Dearborn, Wednesday announced formation of a committee to work for Feinstein. It includes himself, former party chairman Zolton Ferency, 6th district candidate for Congress James Harrison, and representatives of ethnic minorities.

NUMEROUS BATTLES

District and county conventions, previously held, featured numerous battles between the coalition and old-line party members and yielded four credentials fights which will ultimately be settled by the convention itself.

They are in Midland County, Saginaw County, the 18th Congressional District (Oakland County) and the Wayne County portion of the 19th District.

★ ★ ★

Democrats plan new procedures this year, hoping to save time in dealing with credentials disputes. A new preconvention credentials committee will meet Friday to try to informally iron out the squabbles.

The committee will be empowered to bar challenged delegates from Saturday's district caucuses. The regular credentials committee will make its determinations as usual, and its actions are subject to approval by Sunday's convention.

Woman Bills City for Break in Main

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. Carl L. Smith billed the city for $6.15 Wednesday because mud flowed into her washer after a city water main broke Monday leaving her laundry a mess.

"I figure the city owes me for the cost of the soap, 50 cents of depreciation on my washer and three hours' labor at $1.25 an hour," Mrs. Smith said.

UPSETS HOUSE DECISION—Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., is shown yesterday after she won a fight to change her House committee assignment. Because she represents a strictly urban district, she wanted no part of the agriculture committee. At a House Democratic caucus, she asked for the change—and won.

Mafia-Linked Rubino Guilty of Tax Fraud

DETROIT (AP) — Reputed Mafia leader Matthew (Mike) Rubino was convicted Wednesday by a federal court jury of evading $130,000 in income taxes.

The jury—six women and six men—deliberated 3 hours and 46 minutes before finding Rubino guilty.

★ ★ ★

Rubino was mentioned in a U.S. Senate crime hearing in 1963 as "one of the big men" in the Detroit-area Mafia.

The government contended Rubino and his wife filed joint income tax returns for the years 1958-1961, reporting income of $101,423 rather than the $331,731 Rubino allegedly actually earned.

TAX DISCREPANCY

Rubino paid taxes of $34,322 for the period, compared with the $164,462 the government said he owed.

The maximum penalty for conviction is five years in prison and $10,000 fine for each of four counts.

★ ★ ★

Although he has been arrested 30 times in the past 40 years, Rubino has been convicted only twice: once on a narcotics violation and once on a counterfeit money charge.

Officer's Tries to Remove 'Bad Leader' Tag Balked

DETROIT (AP) — Tom McGuire's efforts to eliminate what he feels is a damaging report on his character have been all but stymied.

A suit to remove the efficiency report from his Army record was dismissed and denied Wednesday without opinion in the U.S. Court of Military Appeals in Washington, McGuire said.

All that remains is what amounts to an informal appeal to President Nixon. McGuire refused to comment on the case, saying any comment would be improper.

★ ★ ★

He is an Army lieutenant who is scheduled to leave his Niles, Mich., home this weekend for jungle training in Panama, a prelude to assignment as a tank commander in Vietnam.

"On the one hand we have a fitness report that says he's a bad leader, immature and untrustworthy. On the other we have the Army sending him to Vietnam to lead young Americans into battle," said his Detroit lawyer, George C. Edwards.

The bad report, Edwards said, resulted from a charge leveled by McGuire that his regimental commander had attempted to influence his actions as a prosecutor in a court-martial involving a soldier charged with possession of marijuana. McGuire, a member of the Michigan Bar Association but not an Army lawyer, indicated he thought chances of successful prosecution of the case were slight because of what he felt as an illegal search of the soldier's car.

Casualties Reflect War's Steady Pace

SAIGON (AP) — Despite a relative lull in major ground fighting, the steady pace of the Vietnam war was reflected in casualty figures announced today which showed that 2,804 men were killed in action last week.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Command, in its weekly summary, said 190 Americans were killed in action last week and 1,224 were wounded, 488 seriously enough to be sent to hospitals. In the previous week, 196 Americans were killed and 1,277 were wounded.

★ ★ ★

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 264 government troops killed last week, 951 wounded and 60 missing. A week earlier, the South Vietnamese reported 292 men killed, 943 wounded and 32 missing.

★ ★ ★

The two commands said 2,350 enemy were killed in action last week. The enemy toll for the previous week was increased today from 2,420 to 2,451.

SMALL CLASHES

While there has been no sustained, large-scale fighting since last fall, U.S. officers attribute the continuing weekly tolls to hundreds of small clashes, shelling by both sides and air strikes. Thousands of U.S. and government troops carry out daily operations in search of the elusive enemy. Pushes also are being made into areas long held by the Vietcong, and in these, even when no opposition is encountered, there are casualties from mines and booby traps.

Today's report pushed the total count of Americans killed in action in Vietnam to 31,181 since Jan. 1, 1961. The total wounded for that period stands at 196,825, and another 1,256 Americans are listed as missing or captured.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. command's count of enemy killed in the eight years of war is 438,937.

'Loaded' Missile Delays Work

LEWISTOWN, Mont. (AP) — Lewistown residents proudly erected a Minuteman missile in their city park and planned to give it a new coat of paint in the patriotic colors. The work has been delayed, however—perhaps because of a sign on the missile. The sign read: "LOADED."

It really isn't.

Barkley Kin Claims He Hired Plane

Skyjacking Foolish, Says Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — An American writer, wanted in the United States on charges of hijacking a chartered plane and going to Cuba, said Wednesday anybody who makes unauthorized trips to Cuba these days is "out of his mind—he may wind up dead."

TRUITT

Alben Truitt, 35, grandson of the late Vice President Alben Barkley, said he has no personal knowledge of hijackers or hijacking — claiming he was innocent of the charge — but conversations in Cuba led him to regard it an extremely dangerous game.

★ ★ ★

He said he was guilty only of foolish conduct in hiring a chartered plane, ostensibly for a short southern Florida hop, then paying the pilot to take him to Cuba. The pilot claimed that Truitt forced him to fly to Havana by holding an explosive device to the back of his head.

In an interview, Truitt said, "I can't speak from personal experience, but from what I heard, I was led to believe the Cubans take a bloody dim view" of unauthorized journeys to the Communist island.

Truitt said that though he was not in the hijacking category, he was himself first held under house arrest in Havana after his arrival last Oct. 23. Then on Nov. 30 he went under solitary confinement in prison until his release late in January.

He said he went to Cuba in the hope of writing a book because, as a journalist, he was unhappy about the Cuban story being told to the American people. Instead he was finally placed aboard a France-bound Cuban ship, which he left at St. John, N.B. He made a brief swing into the United States, then reentered Canada and was detained in Montreal Jan. 17.

★ ★ ★

The Canadian Immigration Department denied Truitt's application for landed immigrant status Wednesday and ordered him deported. He is appealing the ruling and his detention. There was no immediate word on where he would be sent if the ruling is upheld.

Asked how Fidel Castro treats hijackers—earlier reports indicated he considered some of them, at least, a nuisance—Truitt replied:

"Since I'm not a hijacker, it is difficult for me to say, but . . . I heard that hijackers were given very rough treatment indeed. Some, I was told by people of the Department of State Security, were imprisoned immediately."

PRAISES CUBANS

Truitt criticized the U.S. blockade of Cuba and praised the drive and spirit of the Cuban people. But he said he doesn't like communism because, for one thing, it merely substitutes one class system for another.

Truitt said there may be some "merit" in a suggestion that he was a special case in view of his family connections but he hasn't reached a "perspective" yet on whether his treatment was worse or better as a consequence.

★ ★ ★

He received no rough handling at any time and, in fact, his weight rose to 167 pounds from 150. During the preprison period he resided under guard and incommunicado in a residence near the home of the Canadian ambassador.

He was allowed to go for walks and bus rides but always in the company of his "companeros," or companions, his term for his guards.

On his arrival in Cuba, the first questions he said he was asked by the authorities were: Do you believe in God? Did you rob a bank of kill somebody? Why do you make trouble for us?

On the Thanksgiving day, after several hijacked planes had arrived in Havana from the United States, a Cuban police official told Truitt he was lucky he arrived before "our minister decided to take a tough note."

★ ★ ★

Asked whether the Cubans entertained unauthorized arrivals they regarded as bona fide political refugees, Truitt said:

"No, I was told by an immigration officer that people who ask for political asylum are special cases—that the law which prohibits crossing borders without proper papers is suspended until a proper judgment can be reached on each and every case.

"However, if you're a bloody criminal, they'll throw you in jail."

He described as "categorically untrue" a report that the Cuban government, in the view of one highly placed aviation source, would like the world to assume that all hijackers are fleeing the United States because they are dissatisfied with the system.

★ ★ ★

"The Cuban government needs hijackers like it needs a hole in the head," said Truitt.

Son of Max Truitt Sr., a Washington lawyer, the writer was asked to put a label on his own political beliefs.

★ ★ ★

"I'm a man with more questions than answers," he said. "I found an incredibly high-spirited, wonderful people in Cuba, trying to make it . . . They eat much, but not well because of the damned blockade. I notice that when communications end between countries, trouble begins. They profess to be diametrically opposed to our democratic form of government in the United States, a democracy in which 25 million elected—well, I didn't give him the name 'tricky Dicky.' I notice that all my troubles here have arisen since the attorney general of the U.S. changed from Democratic to Republican after the election."

Snow, Rain Slow Travel, Close Schools in U.S.

By the Associated Press

Snow and freezing rain hampered travel in many northern states today and closed schools and curtailed business activities in parts of the West.

Fog and rain produced additional motoring hazards in the Midwest, the lower plains and the South and continued downpours brought flood threats to Indiana.

* * *

Hardest hit by heavy snows were the Pacific Northwest, portions of the central Rockies and the northern Plains. Bitter-cold weather worsened the hardships in the Northwest and in parts of the plains.

Schools in many areas of western Oregon remained shut down today.

FREEZING RAIN

Freezing rain glazed highways in parts of the great lakes region and extended eastward to New York for the second day in a row.

Icy sidewalks and streets kept ambulances busy in New York City. One of the victims, Herman Nejedly, 75, said "I just went out to buy a newspaper. I stepped off the curb and, boom, down I go."

* * *

Nejedly was in Lenox Hill Hospital with a fractured wrist and possibly a fractured hip.

Blizzard conditions lashed the Columbia gorge and sections of Oregon. State police closed an interstate highway for a time because of a 12-car pile-up and decreased visibility.

Loggers unable to get into woods because of deep snows left many lumber mills without logs. Other businesses suffered similar problems as customers simply stayed home rather than venture into the snow and cold.

STATE OF EMERGENCY

Washington Gov. Dan Evans declared a state of emergency in his state's Mason County, buried under 40 inches of snow in some places. National Guardsmen used special snow vehicles to deliver food to isolated farm families in Okanogan County, in north-central Washington, where a similar emergency existed.

Stockmen in west-central Oregon and in Washington expressed concern for cattle and sheep stranded in deep snows which have continued to mount in severe cold which has remained anchored over the Northwest for days.

* * *

Indiana rivers and streams flooded hundreds of acres of bottomland as mounting ice jams dammed up accumulations of rain and melting snow. Communities affected included Lafayette, Fort Wayne and Elkhart. State Police delivered sandbags for volunteers to try to keep water out of homes in the Elkhart-Bristol area.

Temperatures which have held below zero in Montana for two weeks brought more subzero cold to adjacent sections of Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

UP TO 23

The mercury edged up to -23 at the north-central Montana city of Havre at midday Wednesday, then toppled to -42 at midnight.

Ten inches of snow piled into the northern Utah and southern Idaho area before noon Wednesday. Many schools gave pupils an unscheduled holiday because of hazardous road conditions and drifts up to 4 feet deep. More snow was expected today.

* * *

Six-inch snows coated northwestern Iowa and much of southern Minnesota before nightfall Wednesday. Freezing drizzle was an added hazard in eastern Iowa. Numerous schools closed early in Iowa, and a state of snow emergency was declared in Minnesota by Gov. Harold LeVander.

Fog blanketed many areas and sharply curtailed air travel in and out of portions of the Southeast.

Thundershowers rumbled through the night from the southern Plains to the Ohio Valley, dumping 1 to 2 inches of rain into parts of the middle Mississippi Valley.

Cold rain fell across northern California, but southern counties hit by recent flooding and mudslides continued working toward recovery.

* * *

Some early morning reports: Boston 27 cloudy, New York 32 freezing drizzle, Philadelphia 34 drizzle, Washington 36 fog, Atlanta 42 cloudy, Miami 70 partly cloudy, Detroit 50 rain, Chicago 47 drizzle, Minneapolis-St. Paul 26 cloudy, St. Louis 38 drizzle, Kansas City 23 cloudy, Dallas 51 rain, Denver 28 partly cloudy, Phoenix 35 clear, Los Angeles 47 clear, San Francisco 44 rain, Seattle 25 snow, Anchorage 19 cloudy, Honolulu 71 cloudy.

PONTIAC TAX REBATE — C. A. McQueen, city income tax director, cheerfully hands a tax rebate of $2.41 to Linda R. Dean, 22, of 373 Tilmor. She was the city's first recipient, getting her tax form in early. Deadline for filing is April 3. The city raised an estimated $2.8 million via the income tax in 1968.

Oil From Undersea Well Nears California Beaches

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) —Oil seeping from an undersea well covers an estimated 75 square miles in Santa Barbara channel, the Coast Guard says.

The slick spread 10 to 15 miles along the coastline between Carpenteria and Ventura as it moved southward slowly toward the beaches, about three or four miles away at last report.

The Coast Guard cutter Point Judith, patroling the slick Wednesday, could not estimate its speed. But the prevailing ocean current moves toward the beach.

Union Oil Co. of California officials said the crude oil was flowing at the rate of 500 barrels a day, although there were efforts to stop the flow by forcing mud into the drill hole.

The lake occurred when a slant-drilling bit broke into a pocket of natural gas 3,000 feet below the ocean floor. The well was capped quickly, but gas pressure created breaks near the well's bottom and forced crude oil through cracks in the ocean bed.

Chemicals to break up the oil slick were in short supply and their use was restricted to the offshore area around the drilling platform where natural gas created a possible fire danger, the Coast Guard said.

Key Senate Pay-Hike Foe Hopeful of Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leading Senate opponent of a congressional pay hike is hopeful he can at least force a vote on the issue. But the calendar and the position of the leadership make it doubtful the increases will be stopped.

"I'm enough of an optimist to believe there are 99 fellows just itching to vote for it," said Delaware Republican John J. Williams after he took the first steps Wednesday to force a vote.

★ ★ ★

A less hopeful note was sounded by one of the most outspoken critics of the pay raises in the House.

"It appears the skids are greased for this salary grab," said Iowa Republican H. R. Gross in a floor speech.

TAKE EFFECT FEB. 14

Unless vetoed by either the House or the Senate, the increases take effect Feb. 14, boosting salaries of congressmen from $30,000 a year to $42,500 and also hiking the pay of federal judges, Cabinet members and other high-ranking federal officials.

★ ★ ★

Neither the Senate nor House post office committees has shown any indication of acting on moves by Williams, Gross and others, and Congress plans to adjourn at the end of next week for a 10-day Lincoln's Birthday recess.

★ ★ ★

Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., said Wednesday he would try to force action through his House Rules Committee, but most of its members are understood to be opposed to such a step.

★ ★ ★

Williams, one of the Senate's most outspoken economy advocates, rose in a virtually deserted Senate late in the day to set up two alternative courses to force a vote.

TWO RESOLUTIONS

He submitted two resolutions, one to reject the pay raises and the other to discharge the post office committee from further consideration of the matter, bringing it directly before the full Senate.

★ ★ ★

"All I'm asking—and I insist upon—is that we get to vote on this," Williams said.

★ ★ ★

By prearrangement and at the request of supporters of the pay raise, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., objected to immediate consideration of the two proposals.

★ ★ ★

But when the Senate adjourned until Friday, they both were put on the calendar, which means that any senator, including Williams, can move to bring them up for consideration.

HE'LL DO IT

He said he preferred to have the leadership schedule the question but indicated he would move by himself if necessary to force a vote.

★ ★ ★

Another route open to him, Williams indicated to newsmen, would be to offer the disapproval resolution as an amendment to or substitute for the routine resolutions due for action soon to provide funds to operate Senate committees.

★ ★ ★

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who favors the pay raises, was unavailable for comment after Williams acted.

★ ★ ★

But earlier in the day the Montana Democrat told reporters he thinks the issue should be voted on.

FAVORED BY LEADERS

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen also favors the pay raise as does House Speaker John W. McCormack.

An aide to Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the post office committee, said that as far as he knew no decision had been made on what to do about the matter. McGee plans to leave Friday for an international conference in England but might return late next week, the aide said.

★ ★ ★

One problem that might face Williams is that, with little business on the congressional docket, many members may be away next week, and it might be difficult to get a quorum.

Nigeria Executes 3 Ibos for Assassination Attempt

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — A Nigerian army firing squad executed three Ibo tribesmen in public in Enugu for trying to assassinate the commander of the army's 1st division, an army spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the trio packaged a bomb, addressed it to Col. Mohammed Shuwa, the division commander, and gave it to an Ibo watchman at Shuwa's headquarters. The spokesman said the package was opened at a checkpoint, detonating the bomb, and two soldiers were killed and two policemen wounded.

Several hundred persons witnessed the shooting of the three men Monday. The spokesman said the assassins had traveled to Enugu, disguised as refugees, from the headquarters of the Biafran secessionists in Umuahia.

Eyewitnesses said Shuwa told the crowd the army would get tougher with the civilians in Enugu, the former Biafra capital which the federals occupied Oct. 5, 1967.

SECOND REPORT

It was the second report from Enugu of a public execution at the army headquarters there.

Meanwhile, top military leaders continued meetings with the head of state, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, amid speculation the Nigerians were planning an all-out assault in the 19-month civil war against Biafra.

However, division commanders who met Gowon here Wednesday have returned to command troops encircling the secessionist enclave.

★ ★ ★

Brig. Hassan Usman Katsina, army chief of staff, denied a Biafra radio report that federal troops east of Onitsha had launched an attack backed by heavy artillery and armored cars on Abagana, trying to open a blocked supply road to Enugu.

4 Men Pull a Stickup at Harold's Bar

Four men held up a Pontiac tavern last night and escaped with about $238, taken from a cash register, four customers and a barmaid, according to city police. Witnesses said at least three of the men were armed with pistols.

Two of the holdup men entered Harold's Bar, 505 S. East Blvd., by the front door and two by the back, according to barmaid Barbara Henke, 37.

The two who entered the front door took wallets from the patrons, she said.

★ ★ ★

One man covered the back door while the other one went behind the bar and took about $200 from the register and the barmaid's purse, she told police.

IN BROWN PONTIAC?

The four men left by the back door, possibly escaping in a 1957 or 1958 brown Pontiac, a witness said.

All four stickup men were described as Negroes in their early 20s. One wore a red head scarf, another gray-speckled pants, a third man pink pants and the fourth green pants.

Since World War II, there have been 38 other wars fought in the world.

Broomfield Seeks Skyjacking Curbs

The curbing of skyjacking by international treaty was proposed today by Congressman William S. Broomfield, R-Royal Oak.

BROOMFIELD

Broomfield urged quick Senate ratification of a 1963 treaty which covers a wide range of air offenses and which specifically defines skyjacking as an international crime.

Recognizing that the treaty does not provide for the extradition of hijackers, Broomfield urged that the United States move for such an amendment at a United Nations sponsored conference on the subject next month.

In a letter to Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Broomfield noted that the 10th and 11th hijackings of 1969 occurred Tuesday, both within a 12-hour period.

The treaty Broomfield referred to was signed by the United States, but it has been pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee since last September awaiting ratification.

Early ratification of the treaty, referred to as the Tokyo Convention, would be a first step in demonstrating United States determination to help resolve the irratational skyjacking problem, Broomfield said.

Broomfield noted that he already has received assurances that the new administration will urge early ratification of the treaty.

Senate consideration of the treaty during a February meeting of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), the U.N. agency which sponsored the Tokyo convention, would enhance chances of reaching agreement on an extradition amendment, Broomfield said.

"If approved at the ICAO meeting next month, the amendment could be ratified by the Senate later this year and submitted to the United Nations General Assembly this September for consideration by all member nations," he said.

Broomfield said a thorough review of the problem has convinced him that an international agreement providing for the return of hijackers for trial is the only meaningful approach.

★ ★ ★

Broomfield noted that Congress has provided adequate laws to discourage skyjackers provided a way can be found to return them for trial. A 1961 law makes skyjacking a federal crime with penalties ranging from 20 years in prison to death.

Trudeau Honeymoon Over: Press, Political Criticism Mounts

OTTAWA (AP) — The honeymoon is over for bachelor Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

After nine months in office, Canada's prime minister is under fire.

His performance at the British Commonwealth conference in London was disappointing to many. Some were disturbed by his limited participation and some by his outburst at the press for its reports on his dates.

His London appearance was his first real test outside the country; the general reaction was that he had not passed with flying colors. One disturbing element was the rather poor evaluation given him in the British press.

FEW PROBLEMS

Until then, the 49-year-old Trudeau had enjoyed undiminished public support and had escaped serious criticism, even from his political opponents.

As recently as December an article in Maclean's magazine declared that the "prime minister is stronger today than he was last June."

★ ★ ★

The question now being asked is whether this appraisal will stand up in the coming months. There has been no measurable public reaction, but both the press and the politicians have challenged Trudeau's London role.

★ ★ ★

The most dramatic manifestation of this challenge was in Canada's House of Commons, where political foes reprimanded Trudeau for his publicized dates and for what Conservative leader Robert Stanfield described as "his attitude of casual noninvolvement and noncommitment."

'TOTAL ZERO'

Stanfield said that never in Commonwealth history had Canada "made a contribution less important and less useful." David Lewis, a leader of the New Democratic party, accused Trudeau of "uncommitted dilettantism" and said his London trip added "up to one big zero."

The British press had originally found Trudeau the most interesting of the heads of governments at the Commonwealth conference, but quickly turned sour on him when he failed to assume the role of mediator often taken by Lester B. Pearson.

PIERRE TRUDEAU

★ ★ ★

Canadian papers took issue. "Most of this critiqism is unfair and unrealistic," said the Toronto Star. "Mr. Trudeau's unconventional personality and his meteoric rise in Canadian politics seem to have aroused unreasonable expectations among some delegates and in British newspapers."

SLIGHT PRAISE

The Toronto Telegram said:

"It is surely too early to essay a verdict on his place in the framework of national and international associations. But even now it is clear that he brings a freshness of vision and a zest for life to his task which provides stimulus for working its power on both his followers and his opponents."

The press was not so charitable toward his assertion that reporters had behaved in a "crummy" way by trying to question the girls he dated in London. He called this an invasion of his privacy.

The Ottawa press corps reacted with some indignation, contending that they had always respected Trudeau's privacy and had reported only on his public appearances with girls. Anyway, some said, Trudeau had not been averse to publicity about his swinging dates and his girl-kissing when he was running for office.

THREATENS MEDIA

Newspaper editorials expressed the view that Trudeau had gone a bit overboard in his attack on the press and in suggesting that if newsmen looked into his private affairs, he might look into theirs.

Before the London visit, most of Trudeau's critics were those who had opposed him from the start, including his political foes.

The chief complaint of Conservative leader Stanfield had been that Trudeau was complacent because of his comfortable majority in Parliament and that, as a result, his lengthy policy reviews dragged on while major decisions were delayed. Trudeau's Liberal party holds 155 of the 264 seats in the House of Commons and seems to be sure of staying in power for three or four years no matter what happens.

At any rate, Trudeau doesn't seem much concerned. His approach is to take a long, fresh look at all existing policies—including foreign policy — before acting. The process includes reviews by task forces, dialogues with the public, debates in the Cabinet and in parliamentary committees, and finally decisions.

PROJECTED POLICIES

Under his timetable, policies should begin emerging by midspring, approximately one year after he succeeded Pearson as Liberal party leader and prime minister. Although he became head of the government in April, most of the time between then and the end of June was devoted to the election campaign.

★ ★ ★

Canadians are still waiting for concrete proposals to implement the "Just Society" promised in the campaign. They are looking to a new constitutional conference in February to see whether he has an acceptable formula for Quebec's future role in Canada.

And they are wondering what, if any, new foreign policies are forthcoming. Trudeau has said that he himself is not sure there will be any changes, although there is a general expectation that Canada will recognize Red China. No changes are expected in U.S.-Canadian relations generally. However, Canada's role in the North American Air Defense Command in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are among the things under study.

While the policy reviews are taking place, Trudeau has devoted much of his time to putting into effect a new set of rules to streamline parliamentary procedures. He also has revamped Cabinet procedures and made important changes in the operations of the prime minister's office.

★ ★ ★

Efficiency is the word. As one Ottawa correspondent wrote, Trudeau is now about to whip the government into a gallop.

Jake Winkman's pupils all manage to develop a reasonable amount of skill in dummy play. In today's hand we see Winkman as dummy.

South's final bid of four spades did not meet with Professor Winkman's approval As he points out South bid four spades all by himself and there was no reason for South to think that he would be able to make it.

Actually, North might have jumped to four spades after his partner's three-diamond bid but Winkman knows his pupils pretty well and was not going to fall into that trap.

West opened the king of clubs and continued. South ruffed and played the ace and queen of spades. There was really no point in trying to get to dummy for a trump finesse. West's double had clearly located the king of trumps.

West was in with the king and might well have led a heart but West took the easy route of continuing clubs.

South ruffed again and played his last trump in order to draw West's last one. East had been forced to discard twice and had played a diamond and his last spade.

★ ★ ★

South ran off his three high diamonds to discard one heart from dummy. Then he stopped to think awhile. Winkman could almost watch his mental processes.

Where was the king of hearts? West had shown up with ace-king of clubs and king of spades. East had bid twice. Would he have done it with just the queen of clubs and the heart jack? No, he wouldnt.

How can I make this contract with the king of hearts in the East hand?

Eventually, South worked it out. He led his fourth diamond and discarded another heart from dummy, East was on lead and had to play a heart. South let it ride around to dummy's queen and made his doubled contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three hearts over your two no-trump your partner has jumped to four hearts. What do you do now?

Blacks Are Slowly Gaining as Policemen

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The number of Negroes on big city police forces is slowly rising. How are the Negro policemen making out? What duties do they draw? Here's a report on their present status, based on a survey of major cities.)

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer

The Chicago police sergeant is black. He is well paid. And he is impatient for real equality on the force.

"At times, I feel almost like a brick in the structure of status quo," he said.

★ ★ ★

But after more than a dozen years on the Chicago police force, the sergeant isn't about to quit. For one thing, he earns $12,900 a year. Another reason may be equally compelling:

"It would be giving up ground gained," said the sergeant, who spoke on the condition that his name not be used.

GAINING STATUS

Negroes are slowly, sometimes painfully, gaining numbers and status on big city police forces. A survey of more than a dozen major cities shows only five that have 10 per cent or more blacks on active duty. More than half these cities have less than 5 per cent.

Baltimore has more than doubled the total of Negroes on its police force in two years. Now 11 per cent of its force of 3,333 is Negro.

★ ★ ★

Boston has added six Negro policemen in the past 12 months —to a total of 60 among 2,600.

In Chicago, 17 per cent—about 2,000—of the police force of 11,700 is black.

Philadelphia's police commissioner claims the best Negro percentage of any big city, 22.8 per cent—1,400 on a force of 6,750.

DROP AT MILWAUKEE

In March 1968 there were 1,475 Negroes on New York City's force and the Guardians, an association of Negro policemen, say 200 to 300 have been added since. There are almost 33,500 policemen in New York City.

But Milwaukee, a focal point of racial turmoil, has fewer Negroes on its police force than two years ago, despite a recruiting campaign.

Responsibilities assigned to Negroes on big city police forces have been expanding, also at an uneven rate.

"Only seven years ago, we couldn't have possibly put a Negro officer on duty at 12th and Main"—the heart of Kansas City's downtown business district, said Capt. E. L. Willoughby, head of personnel. "There wasn't even a place that would serve him food and the public would not have cooperated with him."

SITUATION CHANGES

Now:

"We have Negro officers in every division I can think of," Willoughby said. "They're in patrol cars, detectives, communications—even the K-9 Corps—and one is a helicopter pilot. They work in every part of the city."

In Charlotte, N.C., Negro officers formerly had to settle for tasks that would avoid placing them in contact with white citizens. Recently, for the first time, two of Charlotte's 23 Negro officers were assigned to motorcycle duty. Negroes are now assigned to every major bureau in the 395-man department, but only two have been promoted to sergeant.

★ ★ ★

"It tends to be demoralizing," a Negro officer said.

Being a policeman is a relatively new role for the Negro male. In many cities, he became a prime target for intense recruiting only after racial disorders brought attention to the need for better relations between the police and the Negro community.

The National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders said the "bad image of police in the Negro community" was one reason why more Negroes were not policemen.

STILL TROUBLESOME

In some black communities, that image may still be troublesome.

"They have no love for you," said Officer Willie J. Cunningham, 31, a recent addition to the San Francisco force, which includes 1,718 whites and 77 Negroes. "They think they'll have just as much trouble with black officers. They tend to think of you as a bigger 'pig.'"

"We're the 'honkies' to the militants in the black community," said Deputy Herbert A. Craigwell, the highest-ranking Negro on the Boston force.

"The general attitude of the black community toward the department is negative," said Officer Emmett Hill, a Negro who works full time as a recruiter for the Dallas police.

STIGMA ATTACHED

Eight Negroes joined the Dallas force in 1968. Dallas now has 24 Negroes on a force of 1,500 men.

Capt. John Kestler, commander of personnel and training for Indianapolis police, said that among Negroes, there remains "a stigma attached to being a policeman."

★ ★ ★

The stigma, said the Rev. Kenneth Bowen, a Negro minister serving as community relations specialist for the Milwaukee, Wis., police, is traceable in part to the rural South.

Substantial numbers of Negro families have roots there, and bitter memories of hostile police treatment, Bowen said.

HARDENS BAD CONCEPTS

"Then up here, they see police ride around with shotguns in their cars, or see them bust a boy over the head, or poke a woman in the ribs for not moving from a bus stop. All this does is entrench and harden already bad concepts of a policeman."

Milwaukee's force of 1,100 men included 50 Negroes two years ago. Now despite recruiting efforts, there are 35.

★ ★ ★

"There is a racist element in the police department," said Cleveland's safety director, Joseph McManamon. "I'm not saying that all the police department is racist, but there is a racist element."

Cleveland has 165 Negroes on a force of 2,150. The total includes six sergeants, 140 patrolmen, 19 policewomen.

DIFFICULT ASSIGNMENT

Oakland, Calif., a power base of the militant Black Panthers, has 27 Negroes on a police force of 647 men.

It isn't always easy for a Negro policeman to arrest another Negro, especially when he is one of only a handful of Negroes on the force.

★ ★ ★

"Don't go playing the white man's game" is the advice sometimes given to Charlotte's Negro officers in arrest situations, said that department's community relations officer, Rudy Torrance.

"You just have to turn him off by saying 'Yes, I'm your color, but I'm not your kind.'"

UNEQUAL ENFORCEMENT

The Negro sergeant in Chicago observed that the law is not always enforced equally in Negro communities.

"Certain adventure-seeking, thrill-seeking young officers," the sergeant said, "actually seek assignment to the ghetto."

★ ★ ★

One white officer, he said, carried with him a sawed-off shotgun until threatened with suspension.

"He still carries a high-powered pistol under his coat in addition to his other sidearm, plus weighted gloves. You know. The kind with lead in them. And he acts solely, singularly, against black men and he's still assigned to that area."

TYPE DIMINISHING

"This kind of thing is diminishing. There were times when it seemed that every other officer was that way," the sergeant said.

"We need more black officers," said San Francisco's officer Cunningham. "The black community feels that whites are against them. Black officers can deal with Negroes in certain ways that white officers can't."

SERVE IN NEGRO AREAS

Philadelphia Commissioner Rizzo apparently agrees. "Naturally, we try to assign Negroes to Negro neighborhoods, and most of the policemen serve there," he said.

★ ★ ★

Now Philadelphia is no longer conducting a special recruitment drive for Negro policemen. Rizzo maintains, "There has been a fantastic improvement" in police-community relations.

★ ★ ★

Said Officer Joseph Watts, 23, one of the latest Negro additions to the Philadelphia force: "The friends that I have who are considered very militant, and sometimes extremely antiwhite, feel that I am doing my job to protect people and that I will not be trying to take advantage of anyone, especially blacks."

"Our Negro turnover is not as high as the white turnover," said Supt. George Royal in Atlanta. Twenty per cent of Atlanta's force is Negro. The city began hiring Negroes in 1947.

GOOD POLICEMEN

"We're looking for good policemen. We're employing good policemen. Color is incidental," said Police Chief Herbert Jenkins, a member of the national commission that studied racial disorders.

Atlanta has been assigning Negroes through all parts of the department. Capt. Howard Baugh, a Negro, recently headed the night watch, supervising 160 men, black and white.

★ ★ ★

"I'd be tickled to death if my son became a policeman," Baugh said.

If he does, Los Angeles would probably like to hire him.

In that city, riot-wracked in 1965, a public relations campaign is under way to improve community relations and induce Negroes to join the force. Five per cent of the city's policemen are Negroes, a one per cent gain in two years.

SIMILAR CAMPAIGN

A similar campaign is being tried in Kansas City where a white-black team dubbed the "Brown Brothers" tours schools and youth groups and appears on billboards and posters.

"I always tell people the only difference between John (a Negro) and me is that John wears a moustache," said Officer Jim Brown, who is white.

★ ★ ★

In Baltimore, where stepped-up recruiting and improvement in community relations appear to have coincided, William R. Morrissey, director of public information, said the police are now getting support in the Negro press.

"This is because of the service the black community is getting now. It's equal service. There's been evidence of renewed confidence, their complaints being investigated and resolved," Morrissey said.

There may even be reason to believe that eventually black militants will no longer discourage Negroes from joining police forces.

"They still come around," said Patrolman Elton Huff, 28, a Baltimore policeman for the last eight months. "We still have parties and get-togethers. Only thing they do is constantly remind me which cause they have and remind me not to kick it."

★ ★ ★

"The name-calling has ceased," said the Chicago sergeant. "The vocal expressions like 'Uncle Tom' have lost their glamor.

"There seems to be a new maturity, an understanding that says, 'We'd rather have you there than one of them.'"

Nixon Plan Awaited on Volunteer Army

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press News Features

WASHINGTON — The men and women in military service will be watching with understandably keen interest to see how soon President Richard M. Nixon moves toward his goal of raising their pay sufficiently to attract "an all-volunteer Army."

BAULCH

In his election campaign, Nixon didn't spell out the timing or exactly what he has in mind, except to say his eventual aim is to end the draft when the Vietnam war is over.

Nixon said Korea probably was the last conventional war and that Vietnam demonstrates "that the wars which may threaten in the future will require highly professional armed forces, thoroughly trained in the new techniques of a new and more sophisticated warfare."

★ ★ ★

The draft, he said, "is simply not adequate to meet the needs of this highly professional force of the future. By raising military pay scales and ending the draft, we can have better military protection with a smaller force."

★ ★ ★

Nixon then went on to say that the recent Hubbell report "recognizes that even under our present system improvements must be made in compensation and promotional opportunities to hold good people in the military."

STRAIGHT SALARY

The Hubbell plan to which he refers was developed in the Defense Department under Rear Adm. Lester E. Hubbell. It proposes a straight salary system for military personnel instead of the present pay and allowances system. It also would give single men the same pay scale as married men and would make the military system a contributory one.

★ ★ ★

Nixon couldn't say whether he does or doesn't buy the Hubbell plan since it isn't yet complete. But he commented it does "point out the problems and inequities in current military compensation arrangements and its findings and conclusions should be given careful consideration in developing a revised compensation plan and in formulating more effective manpower policies."

★ ★ ★

The talk now is of getting the views of the various services on the Hubbell plan so a definitive program can be submitted to Congress by July.

By then Nixon may have formulated his own views in relation to it. And then of course the members of the armed forces committees in Congress, which in effect have the final say, will have strong views on the subject.

EMERGENCY SYSTEM

Nixon spoke too of the "inequities of the draft" and said the most effective way to cure these is to eliminate the draft except as an emergency standby system.

He hasn't talked of making any changes in the system, meanwhile, if the Vietnam conflict drags on or his hopes for an all-volunteer Army don't pan out.

★ ★ ★

Those who scoff at his idea say the cost would push the military budget sky high, even in peacetime. Nixon used the figure $5 billion to $7 billion in his speeches; his aides say it might run as high as $16 billion a year over present draft costs by 1973.

But whether or not Nixon presents any draft proposal to Congress next year, members of Congress are sure to offer their own, notably the once-rejected plan for a random lottery of 19-year-olds.

Pennsylvania Veterans Bonus

On election day, Pennsylvania voters made their state the sixth to offer a bonus to Vietnam war veterans. But unlike men in the other states, Pennsylvanians can't qualify with service outside of Vietnam.

To get the bonus they must have the Vietnam Service Medal, which is given to members of the armed forces who have served in Vietnam and contiguous waters and air space since July 3, 1965.

★ ★ ★

Vietnam veterans will receive $25 for each month, or fraction of a month, of active service in the war zone. But no one veteran can receive more than $750.

Kin of servicemen killed in the war, or who die as a result of disease or injury in Vietnam, will receive $1,000. Payments aren't expected to begin until next July.

★ ★ ★

Pennsylvania thus joins Louisiana, Illinois, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Deleware in offering bonuses to Vietnam era veterans.

In the other direction, Arizona voters, by an overwelming margin, knocked out its generous tax exemptions for all veterans except those of World War I and those who are disabled.

★ ★ ★

Another noteworthy election result was in Maine, where the voters relieved the governor of the authority to declare war independent of what the U.S. Congress does.

Sole-Surviving-Son Question

The Supreme Court is considering an appeal by an Illinois man who was stripped of his draft deferment as a sole surviving son because his mother had died.

The man, Jack Frederick McKart, 25, of Chicago, was sentenced to three years for refusing induction after he also sought deferment as a conscientious objector.

★ ★ ★

He had a sole surviving son deferment because his father was killed in World War II. His draft board changed his clasification to IA when his mother died in 1966 and he was given his draft notice.

Pearl Harbor Survivors

I raised the question several months ago about whether there is an organization of Pearl Harbor survivors — those on the scene Dec. 7, 1941. There is indeed a Pearl Harbor Survivors Association.

★ ★ ★

If you qualify and want to join, write secretary-treasurer John C. Berlier, 4209 Brown, Indianapolis, Ind. 46226. Or you may locate a chapter in your home town phone book.

★ ★ ★

There's also a Pearl Harbor Attack Veterans organization in many areas honoring those who died at Pearl Harbor. And there's also American Ex-Prisoners of War Inc.

Dry Army, Wet Air Force and Navy

Army Times reports that service clubs run by Army Special Services are sticking by the long-time "dry" policy. Beverages with any alcoholic content can't be consumed, sold or given away in or about the service club or any of its facilities.

The question was raised because the Air Force recently approved the sale of 3.2 beer at clubs on bases that have a shortage of drinking spots. Navy clubs have been serving beer for years.

Virgin Islands Police Focus on Profanity

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, V.I. (AP) — Police in the U.S. Virgin Islands have announced a crackdown on "profane and indecent language used in public."

The Polcie Department said this stems from a flood of complaints.

What constitutes an offense is subject to definition. Basically, a police official said, the campaign is aimed at the strongest and most common Anglo-Saxon expletives, not at the calypso terms which mean the same thing but are said with music.

"Most outsiders do not understand those terms anyway," a policeman explained. "So they probably won't even feel offended, and we won't bother the boys."

The penalty is a $100 fine or a maximum of 90 days in jail, or both.

French Crisis Slows ICBM Program

PARIS (AP) — France's economic crisis has not noticeably retarded its land-based and sea-borne nuclear-tipped rocket programs but will certainly delay the intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) with thermonuclear warheads.

This is the official military appraisal of the status of President Charles de Gaulle's nuclear "strike force" in face of the country's worst economic problems in a decade.

The economic crisis hit the defense establishment late last year in an $80-million cut in the 1969 budget, with $44 million lopped off the nuclear program. This eliminated 1969 tests aimed at putting into operational form the H-bombs that went off successfully in 1968.

So far the cut has had little or no effect on the purely atomic weapons programs and delivery systems, say spokesmen for the armed forces. The first generation—airplanes with A-bombs—is operational.

LITTLE EFFECTS

The second and third generations—missiles in underground silos, and Polaris-type atomic submarines—are far enough along, with money already appropriated, that the cut hardly touched them.

But the money had not been appropriated for "militarizing" thermonuclear warheads and fitting them to ICBMs, the proposed fourth generation of the "force of dissuasion," as it is offically called.

★ ★ ★

The first generation includes 62 mach-2 Mirage IV bombers with at least one A-bomb each, no doubt more, although the figures are secret. These twin-jet planes, scattered around about 10 bases, have only meidum range. But flights can be lengthened with a dozen American-built tanker planes, the spokesman said.

Completed in 1966, the Mirages were called back through 1968 for modifications to facilitate low-level attacks.

ON THE OLERT

Part of the Mirages are on alert at all times.

The second generation will be 27 missiles in silos in the Vaucluse region north of Marseille. They will carry a choice of A-bomb warheads ranging up to several hundred kilotons, the spokesmen said, and will be able to take H-bombs when available. The missiles' range is 1,700-2,000 miles.

★ ★ ★

The silos are approaching completion. Officials say each would have to take "practically a direct hit" by a nuclear explosive to be knocked out.

Although technical troubles earlier delayed this two-stage rocket by about six months, it is now on schedule.

Together with four-ton second stages, the submarine rockets will have a range of more than 1,300 miles. Their A-bomb warheads, adopted from those of the second generation, will be "as powerful as possible," meaning hundreds of kilotons.

ON SCHEDULE

The atomic-powered submarines are on schedule, and the crews are in training. The first, the Redoutable, should make its first dive this year and go into service, with 16 rockets in 1970.

The H-bomb-tipped ICBMs, with a range of 5,000-6,300 miles together with the Polaris-type submarines, would pretty much fulfill an ambition De Gaulle expressed in 1959: Retaliation capabilities "at any point on the globe."

★ ★ ★

Even if the thermonuclear-ICBM program is finally adopted—Parliament should vote on it in early 1970 at any rate—it would be nearly impossible to meet the deadline of about 1980. Merely the cancellation of the 1969 nuclear tests delays "the first steps toward thermonuclear weapons," said Defense Minister Pierre Messmer.

Red Insurgency in Thailand Parallels History of Vietnam War

Communist-led insurgency on a new third front has aroused ripples of alarm in Thailand. In the background is a question of what the United States might eventually be called upon to do about helping this country maintain its authority.

There is a suspicion among qualified Western sources that the new sector of the insurgency is controlled at long range by Peking, which of all the Communist countries has called most loudly for the destruction of the pro-American regime in Bangkok.

* * *

Generally speaking, the fighting zone is 250 to 300 miles north of Bangkok in an area of rugged mountains. Infiltration trails have been traced backward across the narrow northwestern part of Laos to Red Chinese military roads.

Developments in the area over recent months have raised doubts in the minds of some Western military experts over the Thai army's ability to handle a major upsurge in the guerrilla war without outside help.

OFFENSIVE STRATEGY

In Bangkok's view the most logical source of help is its ally, the United States, which is committed under the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) to Thailand's defense from outside aggression.

One Western diplomat said, "You know, it would be terribly easy for you Americans to slip into another Vietnam here, and much faster than any of us would have believed a year ago."

At present an estimated 4,000 terrorists are operating in Thailand's north, northeast and south. Against them the government has 100,000 under arms who in the minds of some experts are spread dangerously thin to prevent the guerrilla war from spreading.

Besides the guerrillas, there are unknown thousands of Communist political, administrative and propaganda cadre together with peasants that support the revolt.

GROWING THREAT

The new battle front causes the most alarm because, by the Vietnam war calendar, guerrilla activity has leapfrogged many years. Previously the northeast situation dominated the scene.

Sometimes called the Hanoi front because it is considered to be under North Vietnam's overall control, the northeast is most characterized by small encounters, generally poor weaponry among the insurgents and an emphasis on political offensives to improve the guerrillas' political base. This is roughly comparable with 1959 in Vietnam.

* * *

In the north, the government has reported some clashes involved 250 guerrillas using mortars, rocket grenades and AK47 automatic rifles—the same weaponry one finds in elite North Vietnamese units in South Vietnam. One battle involved a police post which had been surrounded and under siege for two weeks.

One government helicopter was shot down and others were hit getting food in and wounded out. Finally an armored column backed by fighter-bombers broke through and lifted the siege.

Change the names and you easily could have Vietnam in 1964 when the Communist-led forces were starting their third phase warfare.

* * *

The problem in the north is not widespread enough to warrant full comparison with Vietnam yet. No one really knows how many men have been committed to the Peking front, if that's what it is. But the number is probably fewer than 1,000 right now. Some who watch the war closely for their home governments say if the commitment is doubled or tripled, Bangkok's ability to cope would be in serious doubt.

* * *

If Peking indeed is running the show, such an increased commitment could be made with ease, they say. One of the arguments supporting the Peking theory, Western diplomats say, is China's open displeasure with Hanoi over the Vietnam peace negotiations and propaganda charges that the guerrilla war in the northeast was not being prosecuted vigorously enough.

Red China also is said to be far more worried about the six bases in Thailand, which hold some 40,000 Americans, than North Vietnam is. All the bases are Air Force, and one is a staging point for the B52s which were designed for nuclear war.

"RED MEOS'

Thailand already has moved through public announcements to brand the northern front a result of external aggression. It calls the guerrillas Red Meos and claims they were trained in Communist-held portions of Laos and in China and North Vietnam. The Meos are a hill tribe grouping that spreads from northern Thailand through Laos and into China.

U.S. sources decline comment on at just what point infiltration into Thailand from the north might be considered high enough to set SEATO machinery in operation.

* * *

Some diplomats recall that when South Vietnam called for major American intervention, on the ground North Vietnamese units were moving into the country, the charge was originally called unproven by U.S. officials.

* * *

At the same time U.S. military advisers pinpointed for reporters the base areas of one North Vietnamese division and several independent battalions. Once a political decision was made in Washington that it was in the American interest to send ground troops, "new" intelligence was presented that confirmed what U.S. advisers had called hard facts for months.

Junior Editors Quiz on PENNSYLVANIA

QUESTION: Why is Pennsylvania called the keystone state?

* * *

ANSWER: William Penn, born in 1644, was an English Quaker who had suffered persecution because of his religion.

The English king owed Penn's father a large debt, which young William agreed would be settled if he were given rights to some wilderness land in America. So he acquired Pennsylvania and promoted settlement based on the ideas of justice, brotherly love and religious freedom.

Penn's colony flourished and became the cultural center of the American Colonies. It was also the geographical center, lying between New York and New England on one hand, and New Jersey, Delaware and the Southern Colonies on the other.

The influence of Pennsylvania tended, in the stormy days of the Revolution, to unite these colonies.

When building a stone bridge (upper left), a large specially shaped stone is placed in the center to take the main weight and bind the other stones together. This is called the keystone. Since Pennsylvania acted as a keystone for the young American nation, it became known as the keystone state.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

GIVE TO THE MARCH OF DIMES

MOTHERS' MARCH

10,000 mothers are now marching to secure help in supporting the fight against birth defects. They will continue to march from now and until March 15. Give generously!

Help Needed—If you would like to March with Oakland Mothers in their worthy cause call 338-0411 or drop in at The March of Dimes Headquarters 921 West Huron Street at Telegraph Road, Pontiac.

That's the way it should be. Every child is entitled to a healthy start in life, but there are an estimated 250,000 American babies each year who are deprived of that right before they even see the light of day.

THE OAKLAND COUNTY STORY of the MARCH OF DIMES . . .

Oakland County's story of The National Foundation March of Dimes begins in 1939. This was only one year after the founding of the national organization for Polio victims. Since the discovery of the Salk Vaccine, Polio is virtually a thing of the past, although many post-Polio cases are still being serviced through your Oakland County March of Dimes. The Polio research program was supported entirely by the National Foundation.

Since that time, the March of Dimes has applied and used the knowledge, experience and volunteer leadership developed during the successful fight against Polio, to assist and help children handicapped with birth defects.

Birth defects are the nation's second greatest destroyer of life! 500,000 unborn babies and 60,000 children and adults die each year because of birth defects. An estimated 15 million Americans of all ages have one or more birth defects which affect their daily lives. One out of every ten families in Oakland County are affected by this tragedy.

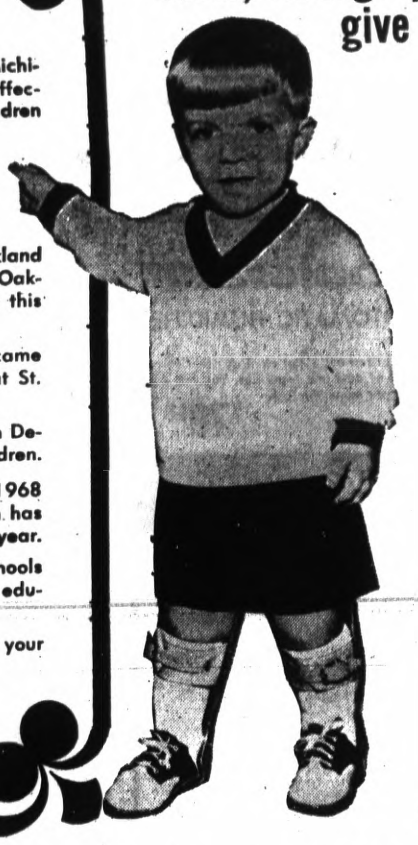

The Oakland County Chapter of The March of Dimes is one of 83 in Michigan and 3,100 in the United States concentrating on a program to fight birth defects. 25% of your Oakland County March of Dimes money goes to nationwide research, including the Salk Institute. Your Oakland County dollars are at work to support Oakland County people — — — — —

- A birth defect treatment center was established in 1958 at the University Hospital in Ann Arbor, Michigan. The center provides the best care and most effective treatment known to modern medicine for children with birth defects. These facilities are available to Oakland County people. Patients who can afford to pay for treatment do so, but your local Chapter pays for treatment of patients unable to afford it.
- A blood virus study became possible in Oakland County in January of 1967. Today there are 500 Oakland County women directly involved with this study.
- In July 1967, the Oakland County Chapter became active in support of the Cleft Palate Clinic at St. Joseph Hospital in Pontiac.
- This year a children's center will be opened on Detroit to help further serve Oakland County children.
- A new vaccine was made available in July 1968 which virtually eliminates the RH factor which has affected thousands of new-born babies each year.
- Educational materials are made available to schools as part of our youth program for public health education.
- Direct patient aid is also provided through your dollars.

The National Foundation March of Dimes is an independent unit and receives no financial assistance from the United Fund or any other organization. Therefore, YOUR HELP is needed to meet the $125,000 goal set for Oakland County this year.

Please give from your heart to provide . . . A NEW YEAR . . . A NEW LIFE . . .

Of all causes of child disability, birth defects account for one-half the total victims. To support the fight birth defects, through patients care and research, give to the March of Dimes.

Robert Edginton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Edginton, Riviera Street, Pontiac is pictured at the left. Robert is our 1969 March of Dimes Poster Boy.

4 Enterprise Crewmen Saved

HONOLULU (AP) — Four crewmen of the nuclear carrier Enterprise were rescued yesterday when a Coast Guard helicopter towed their craft to shore.

The four were paddling near the Pearl Harbor naval shipyard, where the Enterprise is undergoing repairs, when a choppy sea nearly scuttled the raft.

The Enterprise was damaged by fire and explosions that swept her flight deck Jan. 14.

TV Shakespeare Play Has Cinema Touch

NEW YORK (AP) — It has been nearly five years since commercial television has offered a full-scale production of a Shakespearean play.

Now, the CBS television network is bringing to the home screen the Royal Shakespeare Company's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

★ ★ ★

The production, starring Diana Rigg, David Warner, Ian Holm, Paul Rogers, Ian Richardson and Judi Dench, will be seen at 9-11:15 p.m. EST Sunday, Feb. 9.

This interpretation sheds the limitations of the stage and is filmed entirely with hand-held cameras on a 17th century estate in England.

CINEMA STYLE

The play is not materially altered, but is somewhat in the fashion of Franco Zeffirelli's "Romeo and Juliet," which has become an "in" film for young people.

"I have tried to use the advantages of the cinema without making a film in the accepted sense but in communicating Shakespeare's words," said the director, Peter Hall.

"I think the camera can make one appreciate the text more clearly and can bring out the earthy quality of the play. It is sweet and lyrical yet essentially earthy—basically, it is 'Beauty and the Beast.' "

Hall says it is "not a reproduction of a stage production."

DIFFERENCE IN ACTING

"It hasn't been adapted in any way," he contends. "But, of course, acting to the camera is different from acting in the theater. The camera records what the actor is doing and thinking, but he doesn't have to act to it, whereas in the theater he has to play to the audience."

Warner, who plays Lysander, starred in the motion pictures "Tom Jones" and "Morgan." Diana Rigg, who is Helena, is well known to American audiences as Emma Peel formerly of "The Avengers."

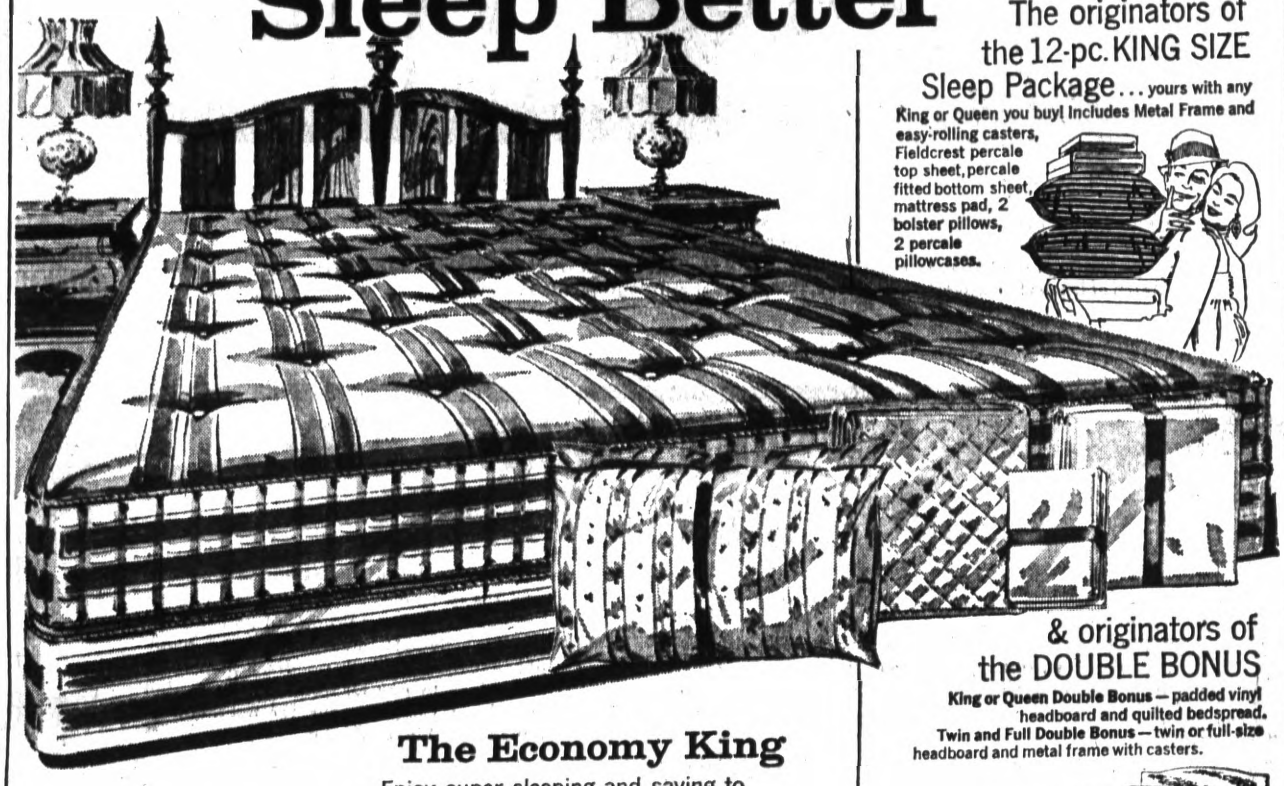

The Indian capital of New Delhi with a population of about 3.5 million, has 110,000 registered automobiles and 250,000 people having drivers' licenses.

How to buy a bedroom set

1. Be sure tops are solid core, not hollow. Listen for a solid sound when you tap. Sides must be wood, not masonite.
2. Check to see that legs are bolted on or are an integral part of the furniture. Legs that are merely screwed on permit case to shake when drawers are closed.
3. Open drawers and see that they are dovetailed front and rear. This means the wood is interlaced like fingers clasped. Drawers must have a center guide for smooth operation.
4. See that there is a dustproof shield between each drawer to keep contents dust-free and fresh.
5. Good mirrors are plate glass and, when mounted on dresser, must be held by steel supports.
6. If the set you choose does not have every item listed here, don't buy it!

In Valley Model for Communism

Cuban Farm Changeover Slow

SAN ANDRES DE CAIGUANABO, Cuba (AP) The government is making slow progress converting the private farmer to full communism in this model valley where Fidel Castro is creating his "new man."

"There is no problem with the sons and daughters," says a Communist official who works in the experimental plan. "The problem is their fathers."

★ ★ ★

Since Castro inaugurated the San Andres plan two years ago, 42 of the valley's 960 private farmers have turned over their property to the state. Communist leaders are confident the private farmer eventually will come around. They add that it has been Castro's policy never to put official pressure on the small farmer, a contention supported by the fact that more than 120,000 farmers still own small parcels of land in Cuba.

The paradox in San Andres is that the turnover to the state has not been more rapid in the midst of its Communist-oriented society.

AGRICULTURAL WOE

One possible explanation is the country's continuing food shortage.

The small farmer, whose per-unit production still exceeds the state's, can grow all the food he wants for his family before selling to the government. At the same time, his family is entitled to the benefits of nonproperty holders in San Andres—free education, medical care and entertainment. He pays no rent and gets free seed and fertilizer.

★ ★ ★

Prices at which he must sell his excess production also are a factor. The government, for example, pays him 4 cents per pound for malanga, a favorite root vegetable now available only to children. The government sells it for 7-8 cents per pound, the price the farmer would have to pay if he bought it in the grocery as a nonproperty owner.

Most of these farmers were sharecroppers before Castro came to power in 1959 and turned the land they were working over to them as part of his agrarian reform program. The biggest private farm is now about 70 acres and smallest about 15. Of the valley's 40,000 acres, about half are still privately owned. The land, in westernmost Pinar del Rio Province, formerly belonged to three owners, including one American.

PEOPLE'S WELFARE

Castro opened San Andres on Jan. 28, 1967, the birthday of Cuban revolutionary apostle Jose Marti. He called San Andres "what we hope to see in a great part of the country and if possible throughout the country by 1975." The other projects have been completed, but current hard times indicate a slowdown in such development this year.

Since San Andres began, the government has constructed 29 small schools, two boarding schools, nurseries and a health center, laundry, central kitchen, recreation center and 50 of a planned 600 homes.

★ ★ ★

It has organized 26 agricultural cooperatives, planted 1½ million coffee plants, 4 million hardwood trees, 2 million precious wood trees and set up a poultry farm with 30,000 chickens. A rabbit-raising program is under way. About 700 acres are devoted to hog production. The principal and traditional crop of the area is tobacco.

For adults, the government operates a literacy program. The average male earns $6 daily; the average woman, $3.50.

FREE PARTICIPATION

Private farmers and their families are eligible to participate in San Andres society without problems and do so, say Communist officials.

Education is heavily oriented toward Communism and the "new man," a selfless individual who works for the community good without thought of material reward.

★ ★ ★

"The traditional methods of punishment are of no value here," says a teacher. An offender, he adds, "may be deprived of the privilege of participating in common work."

This approach is reserved for the young, but the private farmer also gets his ideological dosage from the Association of Small Farmers, whose director is a member of the Central Committee of the Communist party.

★ ★ ★

A San Andres worker says he thinks "the pressure of our society" eventually will convince the private farmer to give up his land. A Communist official says the farmer's "revolutionary consicence" will turn the trick.

Study Shows Tire Failure Is Minor Accident Factor

DETROIT (UPI) — Three years ago, an executive of one of the world's largest tire companies claimed that tire failure was involved in less than 1 per cent of automobile accidents.

His claim has been borne out by a preliminary study made by an independent safety research organization.

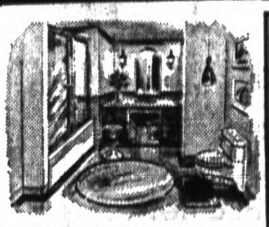

Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory at Buffalo, N.Y., which has been conducting research for 16 years, recently concluded an intensive 13-month study of tire conditions on a number of cars involved in injury-producing accidents.

The C-A-L researchers emphasized that since the study was concentrated in one rural area, in North Dakota, the findings might not necessarily apply to the condition of tires in all areas of the country. But it added "The results, however, do provide clues concerning the nature of the problem."

The study showed that about 10 per cent of the tires on cars involved in the injury-producing accidents were worn to unsafe conditions.

The researchers said the study suggested that tire failure, such as a tire blowout, could have been a factor in causing the accident in only about 1 per cent of the highway mishaps.

His Terms Include Nix on Marriage Ceremony

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am an attractive, intelligent, affectionate woman of 23. My problem is that I am ready to marry and settle down, but my 26-year-old boy friend, whom I've been seriously dating for a year, is not.

His reason: He says that all the males in his family (his father included) take common law wives. They don't marry! No one outside the family knows this, so there is no scandal. He claims that marriage kills "love" — that if two people really love each other, a few words mumbled by a minister won't make the union any more sacred.

I can't see myself going in for this kind of relationship. He claims he loves me and wants to live with me, but it must be on his terms. I don't want to lose him. What should I do?

WANTS MARRIAGE

DEAR WANTS: Tell him that if two people really "love" each other, a few words mumbled by a minister aren't going to make the union any LESS sacred, and if it's all the same to him, that's the only way YOU'LL have it.

If he doesn't see it your way, lose him and find a fellow whose father was married.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My son is nearly 12 years old and he doesn't know a thing about the facts of life. I think it is time he learned, but his father says, "Give him time. He will learn."

His father says HE learned late in life and it didn't hurt him any. (That's what he thinks. It didn't help any either.)

What is your opinion?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: What a 12-year-old boy doesn't learn at his mother's knee he is sure to pick up at some other low joint.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 27 years and have had a Chihuahua for eight years.

Three years ago I began having asthma attacks. Six months ago my attacks got worse, so after a series of tests with a specialist, he said I was allergic to dog hair and had to get rid of our dog.

My problem is my husband. He refuses to believe that this allergy is due to the dog because we've had the dog for so long.

My husband has always been a very thoughtful and considerate person, but lately he seems more concerned about the dog than me.

Don't tell me to have the doctor talk to him. He already has. What do I do now?

ALLERGIC

DEAR ALLERGIC: Surely a formerly "thoughtful and considerate" man who suddenly refuses to accept your doctor's diagnosis, can't be considered reasonable! I think your husband needs a few "tests," too, and a good place to start would be his head.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Why should one read Prince Valiant in the comics when real life, as reflected in your column is so much more exciting?

I have read and re-read that letter signed "GOT TO WATCH" (when his wife delivered their child), and the sheer drama of the event sent cold chills up my spine.

★ ★ ★

I can just picture the scene. The pitiful little woman weakly calling for help, and our stalwart champion engaging in hand to hand combat with THREE people, fighting to get to her side. (They tried to keep him out of the delivery room.)

Wow! Who says that America has turned into a gray flannel world? Not so. There is one hero left. I take my hat off to old "GOT TO WATCH."

The centennial birthday of PEO Sisterhood and Founders Day were celebrated Wednesday with a luncheon in the Birmingham Community House. Mrs. William Rudell, Nearbrook Street (left) is chairman of Oakland County PEO Cooperative, sponsor of the event. With her is Mrs. Leonard Jones, Royal Oak, luncheon chairman.

Fund Raising Takes on New Dimensions

Put a little fun into fund raising and you've got "Designers' Show House," the newest idea on the scene sponsored by Planned Parenthood League of Detroit.

For this latest brainstorm, co-chaired by Mrs. Eliot Robinson and Mrs. Edward Lawrence, the league has set up headquarters under the borrowed roof of a sprawling, unattended Grosse Pointe Farm Home on Lakeshore Drive.

★ ★ ★

Here, several designer studios of the American Institute of Decorators have been invited to choose a room and literally do their own thing in face lifting.

OPEN 3 WEEKS

Following completion, the home will be open for some three weeks, six days a week, Sunday afternoons and Wednesday evenings, beginning May 6.

A $2.50 admission charge covers a complete tour of the house, refreshments and a printed program noting the history and work of the Planned Parenthood League.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the project, the third floor will be devoted to an art gallery and assorted boutiques.

Mrs. Robert B. Webster and Mrs. Homer Sale are in charge of tickets with Charles P. Klingensmith and Jane McMillen, members of the American Institute of Decorators, co-ordinating designers.

★ ★ ★

The Planned Parenthood League sponsors two clinics in Oakland County. One is in Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak; the other is in the Riker Building in Pontiac.

Coming to help Oakland County PEO Cooperative members observe Founders Day and also the 50th year of PEO in Michigan are (from left) Mrs. M. A. Kopka of Royal Oak, past state president; Mrs. James N. Livermore of Pleasant Ridge, also a past state president and speaker of the day; and Mrs. C. H. Kippenhan, Detroit, second vice president of Michigan PEO chapter.

With the First Lady are Mrs. Hubert Humphrey, left, and Mrs. Spiro Agnew, wife of the vice president. The cake featured a greeting—"Welcome back Pat." Mrs. Nixon attended the Red Cross sessions when her husband was vice president.

'Heart of Gold' Volunteer Workers to Be Feted

Area women volunteers have circled Feb. 11 on their calendars.

That is the date they have been invited to join nearly 1,800 other Metropolitan Detroit women for a luncheon.

The occasion will be the year-old Volunteer Award Council's second annual recognition ceremony for outstanding women volunteers.

★ ★ ★

The event, scheduled for 11:45 a.m. in Cobo Hall, will provide community-wide recognition for all who give their time and talents to community betterment.

★ ★ ★

Chairman for the "Heart of Gold" awards luncheon is Mrs. Semon E. Knudsen of Birmingham, wife of the president of Ford Motor Co. Her vice chairman is Mrs. Joseph L. Hudson Jr. of Grosse Pointe, wife of the president of the J. L. Hudson Co.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Knudsen and Mrs. Hudson, well-known volunteers themselves, have issued invitations on behalf of the award council to volunteers from throughout the Wayne-Oakland-Macomb area.

★ ★ ★

Open to the public, the awards luncheon will salute a group of outstanding volunteers chosen for symbolizing all Detroit women who work without pay in community agencies and organizations.

Reservations may be made by telephoning the "Heart of Gold" ticket office, 963-3680.

★ ★ ★

A panel of community leaders is at work selecting from six to twelve volunteers for the "Heart of Gold" awards, each a heart-shaped charm bearing the "Spirit of Detroit" emblem and signifying noteworthy service.

JUDGES' PANEL

Serving on the panel of judges are Richard H. Austin, Mrs. Geraldine Bledsoe, Robert F. Bowers, Don F. DeGroot, Norman Ellis, William H. Frank, Edgar A. Guest Jr., Dr. Richard Hertz, F. C. Matthael Jr., Mrs. Dorothy Magee, Laurena Pringle who because of illness is being represented by Kay Savage, Harry Salsinger and Federal Judge Thomas Thornton.

★ ★ ★

They will screen the award winners from 137 nominations submitted by agencies, organizations and individuals in the three-county area.

SPEAKER

Principal speaker for the luncheon will be Abigail Van Buren, whose syndicated column, "Dear Abby," appears in more than 500 newspapers, including The Pontiac Press.

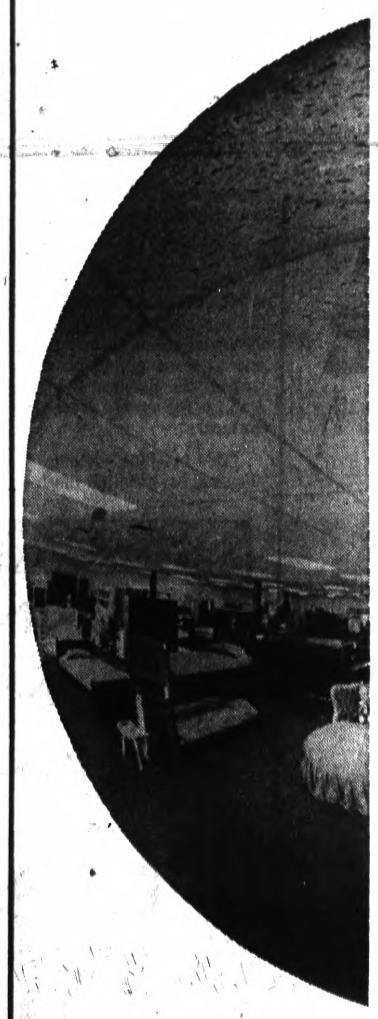

★ ★ ★

In addition to writing her column, making numerous television and speaking appearances, and authoring several books, she combines volunteer work with her roles as wife and mother.

★ ★ ★

Among the organizations for which she works are the American Red Cross and the Mental Health Society.

Create Award in Music at Cranbrook

Raymond Benner, musical director of Bach at Cranbrook, and L. James Schneider, chairman, announce the newly created Bach at Cranbrook Award.

This award, founded by Benner, will expose a specially gifted young violinist from the Detroit area to practical experience in diverse areas of the musical profession. It will be given only when a highly qualified talent exists.

★ ★ ★

Part one of the award will be participation in the violin section of the virtuoso Cranbrook Bach Orchestra at the annual May festival. Part two is an auditing scholarship including room and board to the Marlboro Music Festival in Brattleboro, Vt., Rudolf Serkin, artistic director.

REHEARSALS

There the recipient will attend Pablo Casals' master classes and will have special entree to the private rehearsals of chamber music with Rudolf Serkin, Alexander Schneider and others.

★ ★ ★

Part three will be an appearance at one of the concerts of the Cranbrook Music Guild Series. This part of the award is made possible by the Cranbrook Music Guild, William R. Brashear, president, and Mrs. Charles C. Betzner, program chairman.

★ ★ ★

The first award winner will be 17-year-old Sheila Feikowsky of Detroit. She is a student of Detroit Symphony violinist, Emily Mutter Austin, and has studied several summers with Ivan Galamian at Meadowmount, N.Y.

★ ★ ★

This past summer Miss Feikowsky was concertmistress of the Congress of Strings. She has made solo appearances with the Detroit Symphony, the Center Symphony and the Grosse Pointe Symphony. She will be the youngest person to attend the Marlboro Music Festival this summer.

Winter Colds Mar Beauty and Health

With all of the concern about the Hong Kong flu, that other wintertime malady, the common cold, seems to have lost its status. Don't be fooled. It is still very much with us. Health officials predict an average of four colds per year for each American adult; with children even more vulnerable.

Aside from the health factor, colds destroy the beauty picture. A red nose may be just right for Santa or even Rudolph but with milady it is noplace. And inflamed, teary eyes? Yecch!

The secret for avoiding colds seems to lie in maintaining general health with balanced diet and plenty of rest. If a cold is even suspected, medication should start at once. The drugstore has many fine cold relief preparations. Your doctor can prescribe what is best for you. Don't get overtired. Indulge yourself with a nap now and then.

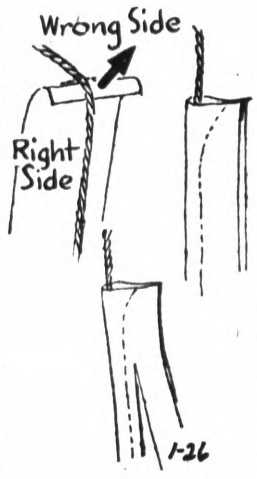

Cold relief in the 1960s is a far cry from what it was even as late as the 1890s. A book titled, "The Good Old Days," (the author had to be kidding) lists a few of the cold "remedies" popular in the last century. Would you believe "Saute a red onion in mutton suet, mix with honey syrup and take internally every three hours?"

Or, how about "Boil the bark of an oak tree, add vinegar and breathe the vapors?"

But here is the remedy surely worse than the disease. "Rub hot bacon rind on the feet, goose grease on the chest, and tie an asafetida bag around the neck." This may not have cured Grandpa's cold but it may be presumed he didn't pass his cold to anybody else — they wouldn't get that close to him!

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

I am repeating an extra little tip for use when you are making some covered cording for belts, spaghetti straps or Chinese ball buttons. When you intend keeping the cord in the finished covered cord, you must use twice the length of string or cord.

Sew the center of this cord firmly to the end of your bias strip of fabric on the WRONG side of the fabric. Next, bring the cord down the RIGHT side of the fabric, carefully holding the bias strip over the cord and machine stitch fairly close to the cord.

★ ★ ★

IMPORTANT: At the beginning of the stitching, stitch at a wide angle from the cord and gradually work in toward the cord. This makes turning much easier. For additional and more complete instructions on this kind of cording, send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper with your request for my booklet called "Spaghetti Straps and Chinese Ball Buttons."

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Larry Bonnema, Rock Rapids, Iowa is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

"When you are making a dress for casual wear that calls for belt loops to hold the belt in place at the waistline, simply buy the thin round elastic. Measure the width of the belt, double it and allow a little extra for the seam. Place the elastic on the seamline before sewing the seam. It can all be stitched in place at one time. The elastic 'gives' as you move without breaking the loop."

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I am very conscious of new sewing terms. Recently, I attended a sewing workshop and the instructor kept talking about the Hong Kong hem finish, but didn't tell us just what this meant. Could you please clear this little detail up for me?

Mrs. E. A.

Dear Mrs. E. A.:

The Hong Kong hem finish is found in many oriental garments. It is probably a result of not having the commercial lace or hem tape that we use and the fact that most of their clothes are so beautifully finished, you rarely see an unfinished seam.

★ ★ ★

Cut bias strips of lightweight silk about 1 inch wide. This is stitched about ¼ inch from the cut edge of your hem with the two right sides of fabric together. Next trim the hem and the bias strip to about ⅛ inch. Fold the bias over the raw edges and baste or pin in place. Last, machine stitch the bias silk strip to the garment fabric from the right side of fabric, exactly in the crease where the bias strip was stitched to your garment.

This machine stitching will not show if you are careful and does make a beautiful finish for any hem.

Those Calories Push Scales Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — That extra weight being carried around by Dad, Mom or even Junior might be the result of "calories that don't count," says Dr. Jerold Lowenstein.

Those are calories that are consumed, but pointedly ignored, by overweight people, Lowenstein, of the University of California's San Francisco Medical Centers, chided fathers who fail to count the calories "consumed off [illegible] and the children's plates" or those acquired "if they happen to eat lunch while standing up."

★ ★ ★

He cited housewives "who spend a good part of the afternoon sampling the evening meal while it cooks."

The moment of truth comes when the non-caloric-counter steps on the scales in the doctor's office, Lowenstein said. The scales count all calories consumed — [illegible] cooking.

Beth Peterson Updates Art Galleries Shop

The bouncy, personality-plus young matron in charge of the new sales area at Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries is admirably equipped for her job.

Mrs. John D. Peterson has a degree in fine arts, is a working artist whenever possible, has exhibited her paintings and has been associated with the Cranbrook scene long enough to be thoroughly knowledgeable.

In addition, Beth is bubbling with good ideas.

To begin with, the design of the new sales area is all her thinking.

"Museums tend to be cold, austere places," she explained. "This is particularly true of our Galleries with the magnificent but heavy bronze doors.

"The design of the former sales area didn't help a bit with everything under glass and the visitor completely separated from the articles. Furthermore, the selections were limited almost entirely to Cranbrook publications and a small line of museum note papers."

★ ★ ★

Beth determined the only way to make this a successful operation was to permit the visitor free access to browse. This, too, is in keeping with modern office trends in eliminating desks.

LET THEM TOUCH

"People who attend cannot touch the art on display, so if we want them to get the rhythm and style of the Galleries they must be allowed to handle things in our area," she said.

Beth also, in her ordering, is relying heavily on other museum publications, from the Museum of Modern Art and the National Gallery in Washington to cite a few.

★ ★ ★

Then there are books of poetry, reproductions, limited first editions available because she deals with small publication houses and some imported toys geared to the educational or whimsical.

While the average price of articles is $5 to $6, more expensive publications are available or can be ordered.

★ ★ ★

Basic philosophy of the area is not so much to make money as to present a real service to the community and Galleries visitors with the ready availability of hard-to-get art publications.

A native of Kansas City, Mo., Beth, 26, studied painting for two years at the Kansas City Art Institute. She enrolled as a painting student with Donald Willett, now head of that Cranbrook Academy of Art department, in 1963 and received her BFA in January, 1965.

CAMPUS ROMANCE

Here she met and married her then fellow-student and now assistant director of the Galleries, John. And then there was Marie, "Thumper," who will be four this Saturday.

Since graduation she has spent her time "mothering, housewifing, painting on the side and filling in at the Galleries desk" until a year ago when she took over her permanent post.

If she had the space in their campus apartment she would paint more "but I am limited to the kitchen table which prohibits anything over 10 by 12 inches." Consequently, she is confined to small, but exquisite, color drawings.

★ ★ ★

Both Beth and John are members of the newly formed Cranbrook Academy of Art alumni Association. In the recent first Alumni Exhibition, Beth showed paintings and John was exhibits designer in charge.

BETH PETERSON

Polly's Pointers

Good Wrapping Idea

DEAR POLLY — The following Pointer was a great hit with my grandsons last Christmas. I wrapped their gifts in solid colors of tissue paper and then glued bright, new pennies on each package in the shape of the child's first initial.

Of course, all three (or just two) initials could be done. They also can be put on in the shape of a bell or a Christmas tree and no expensive bows are needed. The pennies then go into their piggy banks. — MRS. G. T.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I would appreciate hearing from some reader who could tell me how to make the aluminum screens on my porch look clean. I have tried soap suds, vinegar and other cleaners. I alone know they are clean as they certainly do not look it. — KATIE

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — I have a great substitute for writing letters to a child away at school, in the service or anywhere away from home. I keep paper and a pen in a handy place in the kitchen where I spend most of my working hours.

Whenever I think of something the children would like to know I jot it down under the date of the day it happened. It is something like keeping a diary. After jotting down the day-to-day happenings for a week, I write a few extra words, sign and mail it. The kids all look forward to getting these and said they were more interesting than regular letters. —MABLE

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — While pre-Christmas shopping, I saw a bag of wooden blocks of various shapes from a commercial toy maker. About half the contents were spools. These could be added to the toy box for your own children or for little visitors.

★ ★ ★

Several years ago I received, in a gift exchange, a plastic pie-wedged-shaped box filled with hard candies. It was covered with green felt and decorated with sequins to look like a Christmas tree. The trunk was a large spool sprayed gold. Such boxes can be bought and decorated at home.

★ ★ ★

For years, my mother has strung our empty spools on cord (now I use nylon parachute cord) for the babies and toddlers. It is made about four feet long and the children enjoy it immensely. In their imagination this string of spools becomes a snake, a water hose, etc.—MRS. B. S.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

MR. AND MRS. FRANK PHILLIPS

Fete Couple on 50 Years

A party for family and friends Saturday evening will honor Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips of Walled Lake on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Hosting the event in Novi Community Hall, for the couple wed Feb. 5, 1919 in Detroit, are their two sons, George and Howard Phillips, both of Wolverine Lake. The honorees have three grandchildren.

To make a tastier and more appetizing meat pie, add three-fourths of a teaspoon of celery seed to the pastry recipe, using one and one-half cups of flour.

Beauty's Eye Is Focused on Lower Lashes

Beauty fashion continues to focus on the eyes, but there is a new center of attention — the eyelashes along the lower lid.

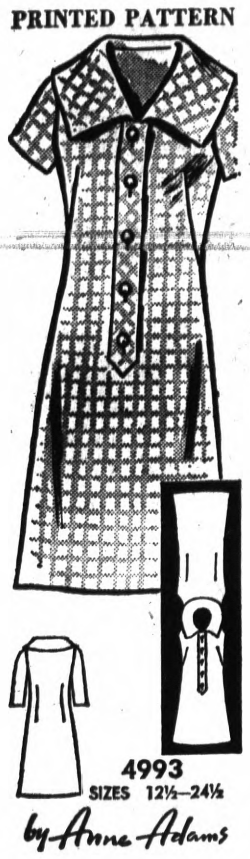

Fashion dictates that these lower lashes be made to appear as long and as full as possible — a look of beauty that is extremely soft and feminine.

★ ★ ★

A beauty authority suggests this technique to create the desired fashionable effect: Use fluid eyeliner, cake eye-liner or eyebrow eye-liner pencil in a brown shade to add a series of little dots or lines under your eyes. Intermittent markings create a softer effect than would a continuous, unbroken line.

Then, apply mascara carefully, but generously to your lower lashes — and the total effect will be simultaneously as new as tomorrow and as romantic as the violets and old lace of yesteryear.

Dental Care

Child's First Visit Has Lasting Effects

By Dr. HOWARD E. KESSLER

Teeth play a big role in a child's life.

An authority in the psychological aspect of child care tells me that "next to toilet training, children are more conscious of their teeth than anything else."

KESSLER

When the tot receives his first toothbrush, he usually feels that the event is a milestone toward becoming a big person.

★ ★ ★

The first few visits to the dental office and the first few visits to school are among the most important experiences in the young life of a child.

Educators try to make the first days in school as pleasurable as possible for the youngster. The first day in kindergarten usually is a get-acquainted time amid pleasant surroundings geared toward making the child want to return the next day.

In recent years the Head Start program gives the child a smooth acquaintanceship with school procedures before he even gets into kindergarten.

FIRST VISIT

Like the educators, dentists also try to make the first visits to the dental office as pleasureable as possible. It is advisable to have the youngster make his first visit to the dental office with nothing urgent needing to be done.

In this way the dentist and the young patient can get off to a good start in establishing a trusting, friendly relationship.

During this initial visit the dentist can show the child the mouth mirror and other little instruments that he will be using in future appointments.

If the youngster is permitted to hold a few of the instruments, they will be less strange when they are later used on him.

★ ★ ★

In some cases the dentist may want to clean the new little patient's teeth or take X-rays on this first appointment.

These beginning visits to the dentist are so very important because they are often remembered for a lifetime.

I have met adults who are reluctant dental patients because of some unfortunate thing that happened to them as a child when they went to a dental office for the first time.

★ ★ ★

For your child, would you like a little color-illustrated storybook about home care of the teeth and visiting the dentist?

You may obtain a copy free of charge by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Howard E. Kessler, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Added Information on 'Big Ten' Program

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Families of overseas servicemen and women who have been eager for more information about the 10 per cent interest paid on savings deducted from service pay will want to know this:

★ ★ ★

The name of this plan has now been changed from the "Uniformed Services Savings Deposit Program" to the "Big Ten" program. A new directive also clarified eligibility for participation in the program. This directive wasn't written until Oct. 1, I'm informed, and didn't come to information offices until some weeks later. So as of today, here's how the situation stands:

★ ★ ★

The basic program remains the same — 10 per cent compounded quarterly is paid on savings of those men and women eligible. These savings are deducted from service pay in amounts of $5 or multiples of $5.

ELIGIBILITY

In addition to these regular deductions authorized by the individual, personnel may also deposit a few dollars in cash which they may have leftover at the end of the month.

However, this means petty cash — not a sum equal to or exceeding the amount of pay the individual is authorized to draw. (This is a diplomatic way of saying that families at home can't get in on the act by sending their sons, daughters, or relatives money to be deposited at 10 per cent.)

Who's eligible for the Big Ten program? It's now clarified officially this way: Service personnel who are serving on permanent duty assigned outside the United States or its possessions.

"Permanent duty assignment outside the United States or its possesisons" means an active duty assignment which contemplates duty for more than 90 days outside the 50 states of the U.S., the Virgin Islands, Canal Zone, Guam, American Somoa, Puerto Rico.

ANSWERS

Following are some specific questions readers ask in today's mail:

Q. Is the interest on these savings taxable?

A. Yes, just as interest on savings in the bank at home is taxable.

Q. My son has just returned from Vietnam. Can he take advantage of this 10 per cent savings program now, since he says he wasn't aware of it while he was overseas?

A. No. He would have had to start while overseas.

Q. How long can a serviceman continue depositing part of his pay under this program?

A. For a 90-day period after he's back in this country.

★ ★ ★

Q. What banks at home follow this procedure?

A. None. In fact, one reader reports that a local banker she inquired of replied, "Lady, if any bank gave that kind of interest to all the servicemen, the banks would all go bankrupt." Only Uncle Sam can afford it.

Q. What type of savings is this and who handles them?

A. Regular savings account. Finance Officers in the Service handle the transactions.

Q. If a serviceman puts $25 a month into this savings program, what would it amount to at the end of a year?

Monthly savings	Interest at end of one year	Total
$10	$6.65	$126.65
25	16.63	316.63
50	33.26	633.26
75	49.89	949.89
100	66.52	1,266.52

Q. Where and how does a serviceman collect these savings after he gets home?

A. He makes application for the money to his own local Finance Officer, who forwards the request to the Finance Center, which sends the check.

A vinyl with a plush leather grain and attractive matte finish, "Scala" lends itself to soft-edge weltless cushions and deep plush tufting . . . other signs of this popular new lap-of-luxury look.

Chic and slim with smart tailoring is this Flex-O-Lounger recliner chair . . . and, it is soft and comfortable as well with a fully padded head roll, button tufted back and foot rest. Its trim profile and vinyl upholstery (shown in black) make it a selection for any of today's contemporary rooms. Complete with Flexsteel springs, it is available on casters.

Response Jolts Would-Be Robber

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — An armed would-be robber was so jolted by the response of Theresa Suarez when he attempted to hold up her variety store here that he ran out of the shop empty-handed.

★ ★ ★

He stuck a pistol in the ribs of Mrs. Suarez and told her to hand over her money. When she said: "Go ahead and kill me, then I won't have to work anymore," the man fled without a word.

Dr. Oaks Says:

Lower Calorie Intake Is Urged

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is another in a series of weekly articles issued by the Oakland County Medical Society. Dr. Oaks is the collective voice of the society.)

There are some trends that tell more than one tale. Here's a case in point.

The National Research Council, in its latest five-year revision, says that the recommended dietary for most American adults has dropped 100 to 200 calories daily.

This reduction in caloric intake is recommended because of our general lack of exercise — our sedantary habits.

Sedantary habits should be countered with an active exercise program. Thus, those who combine proper diet with increased exercise earn a double dividend.

This latter combination is not easy. For example, it takes the energy equal to a six-minute run to burn the calories in a single apple.

The characteristic American sedantary life contributes to degenerative arterial disease, obesity and diabetes mellitus. To be forewarned is to do something about it.

The research council recommends that a 22-year-old man of 154 pounds, living in an environment similar to ours and having only "light" activity, should consume 2,800 calories daily.

A woman of the same age, weighing 125 pounds, should have a caloric intake daily of 2,000 calories.

For each additional pound, men should add about 18 calories daily, while women should add 16 calories per pound per day.

However, there are exceptions:

- Increased energy needs during pregnancy requires an added 200 calories per day.
- Age is another area for exception, ages 22-35, reduce calories by five per cent: ages 35-55, reduce three per cent for each decade: and ages 55-75, reduce five per cent per decade. (Dr. Oaks suggests that for ages beyond 75, desire and enjoyment might be allowed license.)

* * *

There are still other exceptions, infants require a generally high daily caloric intake. For example, at birth a baby requires 120 calories for each 2.2 pounds up to the end of the first year when the requirement drops to 100 calories for similar weight equivalents.

Growing children of either sex require 80 calories for each 2.2 pounds of weight up to the age of 10. Through adolescence, boys require 50 calories for each 2.2 pounds, while girls need only 35.

These, of course, are averages for children. The caloric allowance should be altered to fit the individual, his growth and activity.

The council advises "dietary modifications" to lower levels of cholesterol.

One of the main conclusions of the research council is that a higher level of health would be reached if the population were more physically active — which is the tale that trends tell.

Nigeria Is Anxious About Nixon Stand

LAGOS, NIGERIA (AP) — When Pat Nixon stood on the steps of New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral recently and helped collect food for starving Biafrans, she gave federal officials in Lagos some food for thought—and worry.

Which side in the 19-month old Nigerian civil war does Richard Nixon really favor, they wondered. The federals or the breakaway Biafrans?

* * *

To find out, anxious leaders of Nigeria's military government are sending a delegation to Washington in the next month or so.

They wanted to have their delegation in Washington the day Nixon was sworn in, but the State Department tactfully advised them it would be wiser to give the new President a chance to settle in his new office first.

STRICTLY HUMANITARIAN

What worries Nigeria encourages Biafra about the United States attitude toward their war. Some examples:

- Mrs. Nixon's Jan. 11 appearance on St. Patrick's steps on behalf of the Biafran war relief drive. The first lady—apparently well-briefed—uttered not a word during her appearance and Nixon aides took pains to stress it was strictly humanitarian.
- A Senate resolution urging Nixon to send more aid to starving civilians in the war zone.

* * *

- The United States' sale of eight C97 Stratofreighter transports to relief agencies carrying supplies to Biafra.
- Outgoing Secretary of State Dean Rusk's note to the Nigerians, demanding they pressure the Equatorial Guinea government to permit Red Cross relief flights from Fernando Po to Biafra. Nigeria denies it is responsible for Equatorial Guinea's recalcitrance.

NEW SHIFT FEARED

Moreover, during the presidential campaign Nixon advocated sending aid to Biafra's starving civilians whether the Nigerians liked it or not.

And with Edward M. Kennedy, the new Democratic Senate whip and possible 1972 presidential contender, urging a cease-fire and bans on arms shipments to the federal government, the Nigerians fear a new American shift in support of the Biafrans.

* * *

Dr. Okoi Arikpo, Nigeria's foreign minister, spent most of the period of the U.S. presidential campaign in the United States. In an interview, he said he saw no prospects of a major change in official U.S. policy. But many other Nigerian officials are unsure. They're not even certain where the United States has stood until now.

Before Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu declared the former eastern region of Nigeria independent in May 1967, U. S. officials told him he could count on no American support.

When the federal Nigerians turned to the Soviet Union to buy jet planes in 1967, the State Department criticized the deal and enraged the federals. The latter were denied licenses to buy military hardware in the United States.

But official American support for a united federal Nigeria continued. It appeared to clash with American public opinion in 1968 when reports of Biafran children starving by the thousands aroused sympathy for the secessionists.

Stingy Giacomin Thwarts Red Wings, 2-0

Ranger Goalie Faces One Shot in 2nd Period

By the Associated Press

Ed Giacomin has this little ambition that most National Hockey League goaltenders share. He'd like very much to win the Vezina Trophy as the league's top goalie. Giacomin, who minds the New York nets, is no hog. He just wants to win it once.

The way to capture the Vezina is for your team to allow less goals than any other club in the league and the Rangers have allowed 115—best defensive figure in the NHL's East Division. Giacomin's 2-0 shutout over Detroit Wednesday night was his second in three games and the road to the Vezina is paved with shutouts.

★ ★ ★

The Red Wings could manage only a single shot on the Ranger nets during the second period, which prompted coach Bill Gadsby to mutter, "We were beaten by two blankety blank goals, but we didn't have any bite."

The Wings' big first line of Gordie Howe, Alex Delvecchio and Frank Mahovlich was particularly toothless, and failed for the first time in 12 games to get any score.

ONE PROBLEM

Giacomin has one little problem. It's called the St. Louis Blues and it's about 18 goals large right now. That's the margin Jacques Plante and Glenn Hall, who share the St. Louis netminding, hold over Giacomin in the Vezina race.

Plante beat Pittsburgh 2-1 Wednesday night as the Blues stretched their unbeaten streak against the West Division to 19 games.

★ ★ ★

In other NHL action Wednesday, Montreal blanked Minnesota 4-0. Boston and Oakland played a 3-3 tie and Los Angeles upended Toronto 3-1.

Giacomin faced just 23 Detroit shots and saw only one in the second period, recording his fourth shutout of the season.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

Vic Hadfield, who scored his 10th goal in 14 games, and Rod Gilbert accounted for the Ranger goals as New York stretched its unbeaten string to six games. The Rangers won their fourth straight under interim Coach Emile Francis, who replaced the ailing Bernie Geoffrion a week ago.

Plante, who has won six Vezina Trophies in his career and celebrated his 40th birthday two weeks ago, was St. Louis' key against Pittsburgh. He stopped 24 shots and lowered his league-leading goals against average to 1.8.

★ ★ ★

The Blues, who haven't lost to a West team since Nov. 2, grabbed a lead on Bill McCreary's goal in the second period. Gene Ubriaco tied it with Pittsburgh enjoying a two-man advantage in the third period but Ron Schock won it for the Blues with less than six minutes to play and two Penguins in the penalty box.

John Ferguson scored two goals and Gump Worsley blocked 25 shots as Montreal blanked Minnesota.

ASSISTS MONTREAL

Yvan Cournoyer picked up three assists for the Canadiens, who wrapped it up with second period goals 59 seconds apart by Jacques Lemaire and Ferguson.

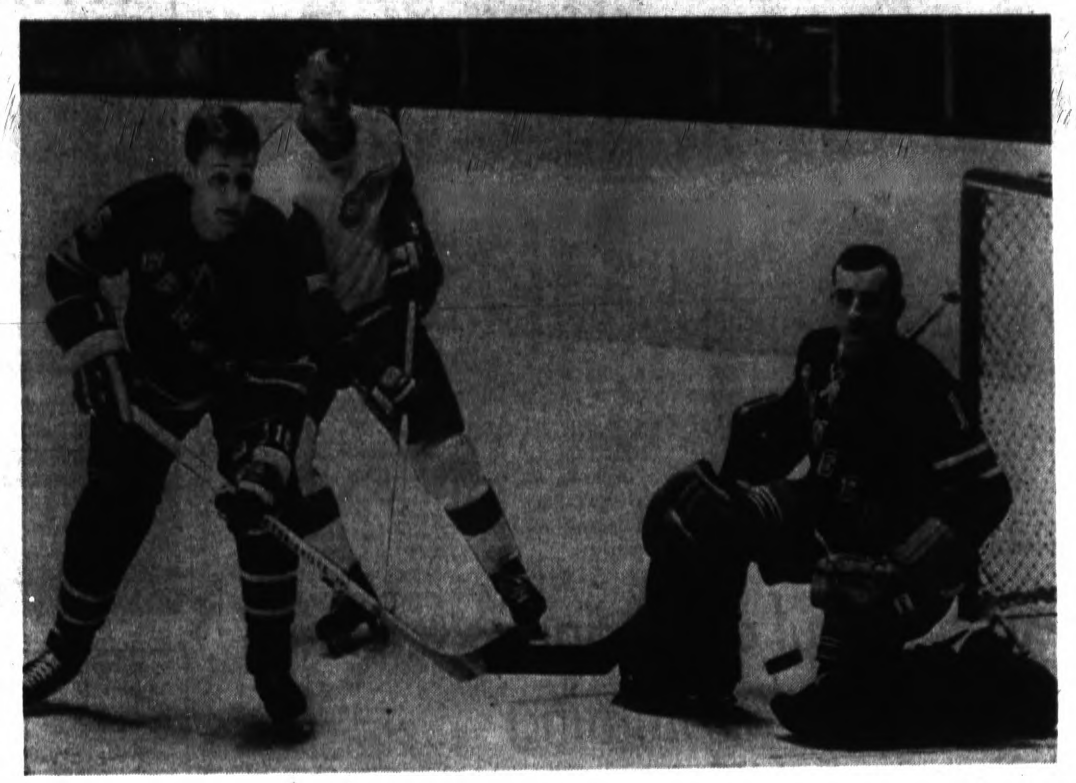

Boston pulled its goalie, Gerry Cheevers, with 33 seconds to play and the strategy worked as the Bruins salvaged a deadlock with Oakland. Ed Westfall produced the equalizer with 17 seconds left, enabling the Bruins to extend their unbeaten streak to 15 games.

John McKenzie and Ken Hodge scored the other Boston goals while Joe Szura, Ted Hampson and Gerry Ehman were the Seals' marksmen.

★ ★ ★

Los Angeles continued its mastery over Toronto at home, whipping the Leafs for the fourth time in four games at the Forum over two seasons.

Ed Joyal's power play goal snapped a 1-1 tie midway in the first period and Bob Wall added the clincher for the Kings early in the third stanza. Ted Irvine scored the other Los Angeles goal while Murray Oliver of Toronto spoiled goalie Jerry Desjardins' shutout bid.

NO GETTING THROUGH — New York netminder Ed Giacomin (right) is resting on one knee but nonetheless is alert to the direction of the puck (visible between his legs) during a first-period threat on the Rangers' goal by the Detroit Red Wings Wednesday night. Rod Seiling is the Rangers' defenseman ready to intercept the puck before it can reach Detroit's Gordie Howe (behind Seiling.) The Red Wings failed to penetrate the New York goalie all night in dropping a 2-0 verdict.

Highlanders Spoil Big Scoring Spree

Flint Junior College's Lee Palmer from Ferndale made like Wilt Chamberlain last night at Smart Junior High in Commerce Township.

However, like so many of Wilt's pro teammates have discovered, a one-man scoring binge doesn't always produce a victory. The 6-5 Palmer poured in 60 points, but Oakland Highland Lakes won the Junior College Conference game, 115-105.

★ ★ ★

Len Cole scored 28 points and Jim Ervin came through with 27 for the Highlanders who gained revenge for an earlier loss to Flint.

Auburn Hills missed a golden opportunity to score in the last 22 seconds and Macomb CC pulled away to an 81-76 victory in another conference test.

ORCHARD RIDGE RALLIES

Harold Lowe scored 36 points to lead Orchard Ridge to a come-from-behind nonleague decision over Highland Park JC, 97-91.

Palmer, a 1966 All-Oakland County star with Ferndale, is the top scorer in the conference. He went into last night's game with a 45.6 average.

★ ★ ★

He connected on 27 of 42 field goal attempts. Mel Bishop tried to help with 25 markers, but the Bears couldn't match the Highlanders 52 for 85 shooting. Flint connected on 45 of 80 tries.

Cole netted 12 of 20 shots and hauled down 20 rebounds.

The Highlanders moved to a 65-54 lead in the first half which ran about five minutes longer than normal because of a faulty time clock. In the last half they led by 20 markers on one occasion.

Auburn Hills hit 49 per cent of its field goal tries, but Macomb's superior rebounding began to pay off in the second half. The Nikes let a 46-34 halftime margin get away.

Auburn still had a chance with a half a minute to play and trailing 77-76. The Nikes had possession of the ball, but a shot missed and Macomb padded out the victory with four free throws.

Glenn Lenhoff led Auburn with 24 points.

Lowe, who became eligible for the second term after transferring from Toledo, sparked Orchard Ridge's second half rally with 23 points. Highland Park had gained a 43-39 advantage at the half.

Jake McCandless Is Princeton's 17th Grid Coach

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — J. L. "Jake" McCandless, a former reserve tailback and asssistant Princeton football coach, today was named head football coach at the university.

The 39-year-old 1951 graduate of Princeton became its 17th head football coach as he succeeded Dick Colman, Tiger coach for 12 years, who resigned last month to become director of athletics at Middlebury College.

McCandless moved up to the top spot after serving as number two man behind a pair of Princeton's outstanding football figures.

Several Pro Spots Open

QB Draftees May See Action

NEW YORK (AP) — Tapping a quarterback at the pro football draft very often turns out to be like buying an expensive piece of China—you wind up putting it on the shelf.

★ ★ ★

But the crop tapped this year, including top-rated Greg Cook of Cincinnati and two more Negro candidates, appears to have a far better chance of seeing action than the 1968 group.

★ ★ ★

Twenty quarterbacks were drafted last year, including highly touted Gary Beban, but just four saw considerable action—Greg Landry at Detroit, Dewey Warren at Cincinnati, Dan Darragh at Buffalo and Marlin Briscoe at Denver.

But Cook and his cohorts drafted over the two days of the selection meeting that ended Wednesday after 21 hours and 15 minutes of drafting, appear to be in better shape to break in than their predecessors.

SELECTION ORDER

First, let's take a look at how the Top Ten were picked, with name, college, selecting team, round, and over-all number selected among the 442 players picked:

1. Greg Cook, Cincinnati, by Cincinnati, round 1, 5th player.
2. Marty Domres, Columbia, by San Diego, round 1, 9th player.
3. Terry Hanratty, Notre Dame, by Pittsburgh, round 2, 30th player.
4. Bob Douglass, Kansas, by Chicago, round 2, 41st player.
5. Al Woodall, Duke, by New York Jets, round 2, 52nd player.
6. Onree Jackson, Alabama A&M, by Boston, round 5, 110th player.
7. Jimmy Harris, Grambling, by Buffalo, round 8, 192nd player.
8. Sam Havrilak, Bucknell, by Baltimore, round 8, 207th player.
9. Larry Good, Georgia Tech, by Baltimore, round 9, 232nd player.
10. Sonny Wade, Emory & Henry, by Philadelphia, round 10, 236th player.

★ ★ ★

Of that group, Cook, Hanratty and the two Negro candidates, Jackson and Harris, seem to have the best opportunity to break through while Domres Douglass and Woodall stand somewhat as surprising selections.

★ ★ ★

Cook will be competing for the job with the Bengals against veteran John Stofa and two holdover rookies, Warren and Sam Wyche—none of whom were significantly impressive during Cincinnati's first season in the American Football League.

★ ★ ★

Hanratty, although he didn't go until the second round, would seem to have a shot at playing at Pittsburgh, where only Dick Shinner and Kent Nix block the door. At the same time, the door also appears to be ajar for Jackson and Harris.

SECOND BEST

Jackson was rated as the second best college quarterback in the country by the Patriots, who last year were disappointed in the efforts of Mike Taliaferro and Tom Sherman. Harris, who has been highly regarded during his Grambling career, will be up against somewhat stiffer competition in returning Jack Kemp, out last season with injuries; Darragh, and Kay Stephenson.

★ ★ ★

Briscoe became the first Negro in the history of pro football to play regularly when he took over at Denver last year because of injuries. But it is expected he will be shifted back to a defensive back spot this year since his greatest potential lies there.

★ ★ ★

There is one other Negro candidate on the scene, Eldridge Dickey of the Oakland Raiders, who was schooled at the position during the entire 1968 season but did not play. He is, however, ready to make his debut.

Domres was a surprise because Ivy Leaguers have been snubbed in recent years. Douglass fit into that category because left-handers are frowned on. And Woodall stepped in to qualify because the Jets do have Joe Namath.

DETROIT'S DRAFT CHOICES

Alfie Taylor, running back, Utah State; Jim Yarbrough, tight end, Florida; Larry Walton, flanker, Arizona State; Jim Carr, tackle, Jackson State; Rocky Rasley, guard, Oregon State; Bob Bergum, defensive end, Platteville; Ron Walker, defensive end, Morris Brown; Bob Hadlock, defensive tackle, George Fox College; Wilson Bowie, running back, Southern California; George Hoey, flanker, Michigan; Fred Gough, linebacker, Arlington State; Ken Spain, defensive end, Houston; John Stahl, guard, Fresno State; Gary Steele, tight end, Army.

Skate Champs Trail in Meet

SEATTLE (AP) - Ron and Cindy Kauffman, U.S. pairs champions, found themselves a surprising second today after an off-form performance Wednesday night in the first half of their bid for a fourth successive title in the National Figure Skating Championshps.

The tall brother-little sister combination from Seattle and Lake Placid, N.Y., was edged out in the compulsory skating by this year's Pacific Coast championship pair, JoJo Starbuck and Kenneth Shelley of Paramount, Calif.

★ ★ ★

Each drew two first placements from the five judges but the Californians had three seconds, the Kauffmans only one.

First competition in senior men's singles is scheduled this morning with skating of school figures. Tim Wood of Bloomfield Hills is defending champion and favored.

John Baldwin, 18-year-old bellboy at the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs, Colo., took an apparently insurmountable lead in the junior men's school figures when he was placed first by four judges.

★ ★ ★

The halfway lead in junior ladies singles went to a 15-year-old New Yorker, Mary Lynn Golderman, who beat out Diane Garcia of Los Angeles and the Eastern champion, Louise Marie Vacca.

Jim Lemon Fired

Changes for 'New' Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert E. Short, who says he's impatient with failure, has moved quickly to bring new leadership to the Washington Senators, a baseball team without a winning season in 17 years.

★ ★ ★

In his first full work day after officially purchasing the American League team, the Minneapolis millionaire fired General Manager George Selkirk and Field Manager Jim Lemon.

★ ★ ★

Other personnel changes were also expected, and Short hinted that farm director Hal Keller may be next on the ousted list.

"Quite obviously, we may have to build up the farm system," said Short, who scheduled a meeting with Keller today.

★ ★ ★

Selkirk and Lemon were offered other jobs in the Senators' organization, and both said they had not decided whether to accept.

LAST PLACE

Lemon, whose rookie year as manager ended last season with the Senators entrenched in 10th place, said he had "an amicable talk" with Short and was not surprised by his dismissal.

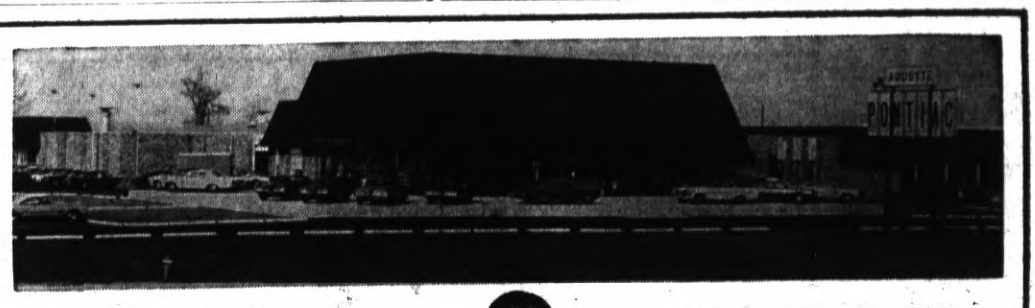

★ ★ ★

"I felt it was coming ...," he said.

Lemon said he was offered "a job which is a mixture between scouting and hitting instructor."

Orion Lays Title Hopes on Line Against Troy

Lake Orion's chances of retaining any or all of the Oakland A League basketball championship will be on the line Friday night when the Dragons entertain another desperate contender, Troy.

The Colts, like Orion, trail pacesetting Rochester by one game in the still close race. But neither of the chief pursuers can afford another loss.

Rochester, who will visit dangerous Clawson Friday, has only one remaining meeting with a contending quintet. The Falcons will visit Troy Feb. 14.

★ ★ ★

Last season Lake Orion and Romeo tied for the championship. But after a strong start, the Dragons wilted under the pressure of Troy and Rochester's defenses. They must gain revenge this week against Troy or join Romeo as a longshot hopeful.

SHARE FOURTH

The Bulldogs and Clawson share fourth place at 5-3, two games behind Rochester 7-1 pace. Clawson does have a home court upset win over Troy and hopes to ambush Rochester this week.

If so, the Trojans and Romeo — who will be host to Utica — should climb back into contention, and also the loser of the Troy-Orion game would have a chance.

The likelihood of a five-team race existing after Friday's outings is slim, however. Troy and Rochester appear to have too much of an edge and are expected to battle it out in their showdown two weeks hence.

The other O-A contest tomorrow will have Avondale entertaining Madison and this may be the week the Yellow Jackets break into the league victory column.

The young, improving Avon quintet has lost eight straight loop starts in coach Phil Kahler's initial season. Madison, who beat the Yellow Jackets by 20 in their first meeting, holds sixth place with a 2-6 record.

Ohio U. Gains 78-68 Win Over Western

McKee and McDivitt tallied 20 points apiece and paced the Bobcats to their ninth win against seven losses. Ohio is 4-2 in the MAC, good for second place.

Ellis Hull led a determined Michigan attack with 19 points, followed by Ray Schlaff with 14.

After a 35-29 halftime deficit, Western rebounded to within one point of Ohio at 42-41. The Bobcats then pulled away with eight straight points.

★ ★ ★

Western countered, cutting Ohio's lead to four, before the Bobcats surged to a 67-54 lead that put the game out of reach. Six of the 13 points scored in that spurt were by McDivitt.

Western is 5-11 in the season, 2-4 in the Mid-Am.

Handful of Changes in Area Swimming

Only a handful of changes were noted during the past week among times recorded by area swimmers.

Most notable of the changes that did occur, however, was a 2:07.9 clocking in the 200-yard individual medley that vaulted Larry Driver of Birmingham Groves into first place in that division.

And with that performance, Larry now holds the top spot in three of the divisions on the weekly statistical list compiled by coach Mike Lane of Bloomfield Hills Andover.

Larry's other top times in the county have come in the 100-0 yard breaststroke (1:03.1) and the 100-yard backstroke (:57.9).

An indication of the relative strength of some of the area teams could come in the swimming invitational at Wayne State University Feb. 8.

Alma Stopped by Calvin, 69-63

ALMA (AP) — Calvin College threw back a late game rally Wednesday night to defeat Alma College, 69-63, and strengthened its grasp on first place in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA).

★ ★ ★

Mickey Phelps led the winners with 24 points, as Calvin now sports a 5-0 conference and 9-3 overall mark.

Upset Win Changes Status

Andover to Be Cage Target

Bloomfield Hills Andover won the game it had to last week with a startling performance against high-flying West Bloomfield; now the Barons have made themselves targets.

Their big vicory elevated themselves and Milford within one game of the Lakers who were threatening to make a runaway of the Wayne-Oakland League hoop chase.

★ ★ ★

BHA, however, will visit Milford Friday night in a showdown for second place. Both are 5-2.

The host Redskins downed Andover by six points in their first encounter, and they will be anxious to repeat their success in the rematch. Milford slumped a bit after losing to West Bloomfield, but Andover's upset win has given the Redskins new hope in the race.

LOPSIDED WIN

WBHS' Lakers (6-1) dominated Clarkston by 21 points in their previous meeting. They went on to win six straight games in the loop until being sidetracked at Andover. The Lakers are 8-1 over-all, and are the eighth-ranked Class B power in the state.

The trip to Clarkston begins a string of five road starts in their next six league outings.

However, Clarkston has perked up, winning three straight. Fresh from an upset conquest of Milford, the Wolves (3-4) seem certain to give West Bloomfield a rough time in front of their Clarkston fans.

Should Clarkston fall again, Waterford Kettering (2-5) hopes to profit. Tied with Clarenceville for sixth place, the Captains are favored to make Brighton their third W-O victim.

POSSIBLE TIE

A win on the WKHS court tomorrow coupled with a West Bloomfield triumph at Clarkston would tie the Captains and Wolves for fifth place. Brighton is 1-6 and has lost six in a row.

Northville's fourth-place Mustangs (4-3) should handle C'ville (2-5) on the Trojans' floor, dropping them behind Kettering.

★ ★ ★

Should West Bloomfield and Milford win as expected, it would lead to another showdown between them on the Redskins' court next Friday.

Honors Taken in Car Show

Tom Myre of Union Lake picked up a handful of honors last weekend in the auto show at Cobo Hall.

Myre's 1935 Ford coupe was first in class, best creation of show, best metal flake paint, best engine custom and was first in most creative signs class.

LSU's Pete Maravich Threatens All Marks

NEW YORK (AP) — No season scoring records appear safe from Pete Maravich—not even his own.

The Louisiana State sharpshooter is closing in on the two-season, sophomore-junior scoring mark of 1,962 points set by Oscar Robertson in 1959-60 and the record two-year total of 2,095 by Elvin Hayes in 1967-68.

Maravich needs to average only in the mid-20s the rest of this season to shatter both marks.

★ ★ ★

Only a junior, Maravich also has his sights set on Robertson's career total of 2,973.

The 6-foot-5 forward presently is averaging 46.1 points a game in statistics released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services. However, it dropped to 44.2 after he was held to 21 points by Tennessee Monday night.

That puts him in position to crack the single season record average of 43.8 he set last year when he scored 1,138 points. He already has 553 points in 12 games this season.

Cal Murphy, Niagara's 5-10 jumping jack who came along at the wrong time, still is a distant second with a 34.3 average after finishing last season as runner-up to Maravich with a 36.2 average, the fourth highest in history.

★ ★ ★

Larry Ward of Centenary retained his free throw percentage lead at 94 per cent and Larry Lewis of St. Francis, Pa., held his narrow rebounding lead over Detroit's Spencer Haywood, 21.6 to 21.3.

But both Maravich and Murphy must play second fiddle to Lew Alcindor, UCLA's overpowering 7-1¾ giant who is closing in on a milestone himself. Alcindor, averaging 26.6 points a game for ninth place, needs only 23 points to join the select 2,000-point career club.

Big Lew also closed in on the field goal percentage leader, Al Kroboth of The Citadel, hitting 65.2 per cent to Kroboth's 65.4.

Patriots Eye Aide With Jets as Coach

BOSTON (AP) — Clive Rush, moulder of the attack which carried the New York Jets to pro football supremacy last season, was due to become head coach of the Boston Patriots today.

President William H. Sullivan Jr. of the American Football League club announced in New York Wednesday night that he had offered the job to the 37-year-old Jet offensive coach and that he fully expected him to take it.

He was the first assistant named by Weeb Ewbank when the latter became head coach of the Jets in 1963, and has been instrumental since then in building the offense which reached the pinnacle earlier this month with a 16-7 Super Bowl victory over the National Football League champion Baltimore Colts.

Thorpe Chosen

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Thorpe was picked in the 17th round by Los Angeles in the pro football draft Wednesday only because he is a running back with Hofstra. His ancesters had nothing to do with it.

Thorpe, you see, is not related to the famous late Jim Thorpe of Carlisle, one of the great football and track stars of all time.

New Mexico State Falls From Ranks of Unbeaten

By the Associated Press

Big Greg Howard is back in good standing at New Mexico but he's public enemy No. 1 at New Mexico State.

Starting for the first time since a six-game disciplinary suspension earlier in the season, the 6-foot-9 Howard poured in 35 points as the unranked Lobos shot the eighth-ranked Aggies from the unbeaten ranks Wednesday night 86-66.

★ ★ ★

The lanky junior from Pittsburgh connected on 16 of 18 floor shots and three of six at the foul line and pulled down 14 rebounds, twice as many as any Aggie.

New Mexico State had won its first 16 games and only trailed 38-35 at halftime before the Lobos, now 12-6, pulled away.

"They just beat us in all aspects of the game," conceded Coach Lou Henson of the losers. "We know they had the ability if they ever put it together and that scared us."

"This was the win we needed," said Howard. "We have eight games left and we can win them all now." Included is a return engagement with the Aggies Saturday on the Lobos' court in Albuquerque.

TWO SETBACKS

During Howard's suspension, the Lobos lost twice and he did not start in three more setbacks since his return.

The outcome Wednesday night left top-ranked UCLA and No. 3 Santa Clara as the nation's only major unbeaten teams.

New Mexico was the only member of The Associated Press' Top Twenty teams to see action Wednesday.

Coach Jeremiah, Ex-Hockey Pro, Receives Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Jeremiah, long-time hockey coach at Dartmouth College, has been selected second winner of the Lester Patrick Trophy for 1969.

The trophy, in recognition of long and meritorious service to hockey in the United States, will be awarded posthumously Feb. 18. Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks, will also receive the Patrick Trophy that night.

Jeremiah, who died at the age of 61 in 1967, coached for 30 years at Dartmouth following a professional hockey career that included stints with the Boston Bruins and the New York Americans in the National League. A native of Worcester, Mass., he is one of a relatively small number of American-born athletes to play in the NHL.

Third Straight Loss for Pistons, 133-126

By the Associated Press

A career high of 42 points by Jeff Mullins and 34 more from big Nate Thurmond stifled Detroit Piston comebacks Wednesday night as the San Francisco Warriors won a National Basketball Association game 133-126 in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Detroit rallied twice from deficits of 12 and 15 points but could not overcome Mullins and Thurmond. The loss was the third straight for the Pistons.

Detroit coach Paul Seymour, who got a technical foul and a $25 fine for his 41st birthday, admitted that Thurmond, at 6-feet-11 "intimidates the whole offense."

"That's the way he played when San Francisco won the division title a few years ago," said the Pistons' Bud Olsen, who was with the Warriors at the time.

OTHER TILTS

In other league action, the Seattle SuperSonics held up under a pounding by the Boston Celtics and triumphed 124-122 in a game at Philadelphia. In a later game, the 76ers defeated Atlanta 119-96, Phoenix stopped Milwaukee 111-107 and Los Angeles defeated San Diego 122-120.

Len Wilkens was the super Sonic against the Celtics, scoring seven points in the overtime. He and Bob Rule brought Seattle back from a 115-112 deficit to a 117-115 lead and the Celtics never caught up.

★ ★ ★

Philadelphia, outrebounding the Hawks 18-5 in the third quarter, jumped from a 58-53 and breezed in. Billy Cunningham had 29 points for the 76ers.

★ ★ ★

Gail Goodrich broke a 107 tie with a jump shot with 17 seconds remaining and then dropped two free throws after Neil Johnson stole the ball as Phoenix beat Milwaukee for the first time in four starts. Goodrich finished with 33 points.

★ ★ ★

Wilt Chamberlain saved the game for Los Angeles, blocking two shots in the final 10 seconds. The Rockets, behind by 25 points early in the third period, cut the deficit to two points with 26 seconds left on Don Kojis' jumper.

Elvin Hayes of San Diego led all scorers with 40 points while Chamberlain topped the Lakers with 30.

Lahser Edges Groves, 62-61

Third Quarter Spurt Helps Knights

Bloomfield Hills Lahser shot past Birmingham Groves in the third quarter and then withstood the Falcons' surge in the final three minutes of play for a 62-61 cage conquest last night.

★ ★ ★

The rescheduled game produced Lahser's fifth victory in its last six starts. Down at the intermission, 28-27, the Knights grabbed an eight-point margin entering the final three minutes, but two missed layups and a pair of missed charity tosses let Groves rally.

LAST SHOT

Scott Love's final-second desperation jumper was off target and the Knights claimed the victory. Rump, hitting 8 of 16 for the night, led the marksmen with 20 points while Love had 15 for Groves.

Bill West of Lahser pulled down 15 rebounds but saw limited duty due to personal foul trouble. Tim Graham made 5 of 10 tries to help Rump with 13 points.

Lahser (5-4) will visit Dearborn Annapolis Friday night.

★ ★ ★

The other area prep games played Wednesday saw Yale upend Harbor Beach, 64-57, in the Greater Thumb B League; and St. Francis de Sales thumped St. Rita, 94-65, in Northwest Catholic action.

KIMBALL GUARD — Playmaker Fred Shellnut has been a valuable contributor this season with his scoring as well as his passing in Royal Oak Kimball's bid to capture the Southeastern Michigan League crown after sharing it with two other rivals last season.

5-Year Contract for Alvin Dark

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have given manager Alvin Dark a five-year contract.

★ ★ ★

Indian president Gabe Paul said Wednesday Dark was given the extended contract in recognition of the "tremendous job he did last year," when he brought the Tribe from an eighth-place finish in 1967 to third in 1968.

★ ★ ★

Dark's salary under the new contract was not disclosed.

Ferndale Tests Kimball Five

Royal Oak Kimball has come to the crucial stage of its campaign to take charge of the Southeastern Michigan cage race.

The once-beaten Knights, co-champions of the league last winter, can take a major step toward the title by upending visiting Ferndale Friday night.

While those two are tangling at Royal Oak, Southfield will entertain Hazel Park in an effort to resolve their share of the three-way tie with Ferndale for second place.

Also tangling to break a deadlock will be Seaholm and Berkley at Birmingham. They share fifth place.

OTHER ACTION

Another Birmingham contest will find Groves, struggling to gain momentum, playing host to Northwest Suburban leader North Farmington.

Should runner-up Oak Park continue its skid when it visits Detroit Thurston, NFHS' Raiders could take a large step toward the league title.

Westland Glenn will travel to Livonia Franklin in the other loop contest.

TIE AT TOP?

A victory for Ferndale over Kimball would knot the SEMA at the top of the standings, again. However, a win for the host Knights — who must play four of their final five loop games away from Royal Oak — would leave only one serious challenger in the race.

That would be the Hazel Park-Southfield survivor who can be no worse than one game off the pace.

★ ★ ★

Seaholm coach Lew Perry continues to search for a starting unit that will score consistently. The Maples have a three-game losing streak and are 1-4 in the SEMA.

North Farmington stands two games in front presently and is riding a three-game winning streak during its 8-2 campaign. The Raiders (5-0 in the The Raiders (5-0 in the Northwest circuit) could move withn a game of a share of the title with help from Thurston.

Christian '5' Handed Jolt

Michigan Christian's bid to gain momentum as it enters the home stretch of its league schedule suffered a jolt Wednesday night when it lost a non-leaguer to Mercy College, 94-86.

The junior college quintet held a 24-19 lead in the first half, but Mercy spurted past the Warriors to go in front, 52-37, at the intermission.

In the final 20 minutes, MCJC cut its deficit from 20 points to 4 as Dan Ludwick of Rochester hit 17 of his game-high 29 points, and teammate Garth Pleasant from Flint added 15 of his 22.

The Warriors are now 6-7 over-all and go to Lansing tomorrow to play Great Lakes Bible.

Snowmobile Qualifying at '500'

Qualifying trials for the International 500-Mile Snowmobile Race Saturday at Sault Ste. Marie in the Upper Peninsula, plus the Canadian International Races Sunday at the lock site's neighboring sister city in Ontario will attract Pontiac entries.

The Manuel and the Clifton brothers have been joined on the snowmobiling race circuit by Bob and Don Castleberry, Wade Johnson and Howard Lovett.

All live in the Pontiac - Waterford - Clarkston area. Several have high hopes of qualifying for the International 500 Feb. 8 at the Sault.

Last weekend they claimed numerous prizes at the Lions' Club Snowmobile Trophy Races near Perry.

BIG DAY

It was a big day for Henry Manuel, particularly. He captured first place driving Sno Sports in Double-A, B-Stock and C-Stock. He also had a second in CC-Modified and a third in FF-Modified.

His brother John placed third in D-Stock in a Sno Sport.

Bruce Clifton, piloting an Artic-Cat, led the FF-Modified class and took third in D-Stock. Brothers Tom (A-Stock) and Keith (AA-Modified) both had seconds, and Keith added a third in BB-Modified.

★ ★ ★

Bob Castleberry had firsts in BB-Modified and CC-Modified on his Moto-Ski, while brother Don posted two thirds.

Johnson drove his machine to third place in AA-Modified, while Lovett was third in DD-Modified and B-Stock.

Top Pro Golfers on Hand for Big San Diego Open

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Eighteen of the top 20 money winners in professional golf in 1968, and the winners of the three major tournaments in this infant year, were on hand today for the initial round of the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

Leading the charge for the fat $30,000 winner's purse was San Diego's own Billy Casper, who bagged most of the swag—$205,168 last year—and a man who has read the tournament course like a book.

The setting is the Torrey Pines Municipal course, which has par 36-36—72. It will play about 6,800 yards when the PGA tournament officials get through recasting the third hole, which ordinarily is a par-3 158-yard test.

The only ones missing from the elite top 20 money guys are Tom Weiskopf and Arnold Palmer. Weiskopf is in the Army, and Arnie just decided to skip it.

BUSY TIME OF YEAR — Responsible for the welfare of the skiers at Pine Knob this winter are ski school director Walter De'Vigili (left) and new manager Karlo Heikkinen. "If you can keep the skier on the slopes happy, that's 95 per cent of the battle," Heikkinen advises. A general trouble shooter for A & A Asphalt Paving, one of the resort's backers, Heikkinen this season was appointed general manager of Pine Knob.

French Skier Injures Leg

Ann Famose Suffers Calf Fracture

ST. ANTOM, Austria (AP) — France's Annie Famose, World Cup leader, today fractured the calf and tore the Achilles tendon of her left leg in a bad fall in non-stop Alpine ski training.

Dr. Otto Murr, who gave her first-aid treatment and pronounced the diagnosis, said, "She is out for the rest of the season."

★ ★ ★

Miss Famose fell about halfway down the track. She apparently edged in the soft snow and had been the first to go down.

It was a bad day for the French girls. Michele Jacot dropped out because of the flu and Francoise Macchi also fell. It was not immediately known if Miss Macchi also was injured.

★ ★ ★

The skiers generally were delighted with the trial which was much less tricky than Wednesday. But the girls agreed that the snowfalls had slowed down the run considerably.

The key position appeared to be a narrow S-turn in the last third of the trail, in the so-called Baerensprung (bear jump) area. The turn was not overly difficult but if skiers failed to find the fastest line there, they lost time.

There still were light snowfalls during the non-stop run, but visibility was described as not too bad.

Among other top girls who fell was West Germany's Rosi Mittermaier, but she was not hurt.

Annual Prep Races Planned Saturday

The annual Mt. Holly Interscholastic Races are still planned for an 8 a.m. Saturday start with teen-age skiers from all over southeast Michigan expected to compete.

★ ★ ★

Already delayed one week, the annual Open Races at Mt. Holly are scheduled to begin 10 a.m. Sunday for the juniors and 12:30 p.m. for the adult entrants.

★ ★ ★

Forecasts of falling temperatures tonight have kept alive hopes that the two events will come off as planned without any further delay.

The leading prep and adult racers in this part of the state are expected to battle for honors each day.

TEAM RACES

All the teams in the Mt. Holly Prep Ski League are entering their boys' and girls' squads, and other units from Flint, Lansing, Ann Arbor and the Thumb belt may add to the list of Scholastic Race entries.

★ ★ ★

Sunday's competition will be strictly individual. All skiers 17 and under may enter the appropriate girls' or boys' junior class.

The adults will be divided into men's and women's open and senior classes. Seniors are 32 or older. Adults must be at least 18 years old.

★ ★ ★

Additional information is available from the resort.

Parent '5' Cage Victim

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — Lake Superior State scored eight straight points in overtime and got sweet revenge over its parent school, Michigan Tech, 121-115 in a nonconference basketball game Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

Brad Shouldice had 34 points —32 in the second half and in overtime — to lead Lake Superior to its tenth win of the season compared with eight defeats.

★ ★ ★

Michigan Tech, which defeated Lake Superior earlier in the season at Houghton, was led by Larry Grimes with 38 points. Tech has a 4-10 record.

Defeats Rivals

DETROIT (AP) — Taking a whopping 56-26 halftime lead, Detroit College breezed by Detroit Tech 107-79 in a nonconference basketball game Wednesday night.

Alpine Valley Lists Program

Races, Exhibitions Scheduled Sunday

Sunday will be a big day at Alpine Valley Ski Resort.

The annual pro instructors' races from the Southeast Michigan resorts are planned for 8 p.m. Mt. Holly's five-man team is the defending champion.

★ ★ ★

Corky Fowler of Sun Valley, Ida., renown for his fancy skiing routines, will perform on Alpine's central advanced slope at 2:30 p.m.

Resort owners Willis Stoick and Joe Kosik will be showing ski movies featuring resorts around the world continuously in the new Skyview Lounge.

★ ★ ★

The nightime team races will involve teams from Pine Knob, Mt. Holly, Apple Mountain, Mt. Brighton and Alpine. There is a trophy for the team champion as well as prizes for the top three individual racers.

★ ★ ★

Following the competition, Alpine's National Ski Patrol unit will stage the impressive, traditional torchlight parade down the slopes.

2 U. S. Netters Easy Winners

TOKYO, Japan (AP) — Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., and Bob Lutz of Los Angeles easily won their final matches Wednesday of a two-day goodwill tour of Japan by the United States Davis Cup team.

★ ★ ★

Ashe, U.S. Open tennis champion, defeated Ichizo Konishi 6-4, 6-4 and Lutz polished off Keishiro Yanago 6-3, 7-5.

A Funny Honey

She's Just a Comic Valentine

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Life magazine recently reported that when Warren Beatty met Elizabeth Taylor on a movie set in Paris he looked at her for a long time and then burst out laughing.

WEST

"I laughed because nobody can be that beautiful," Beatty was quoted as saying.

★ ★ ★

While reading about this incident I had a sudden flash of "deja vu," which is the feeling you get when you walk into a strange place and find that it somehow seems familiar.

Then I remembered having once seen a television show on which Richard Burton was telling about the time he first met Miss Taylor in Hollywood.

FIT TO BURST

Burton said his future bride looked so unbelievably beautiful that he burst out laughing.

It is obvious that Miss Taylor has set a new standard of pulchritude which renders inadequate ordinary male reactions to great beauty.

The ordinary male reaction is a dropping of the jaw, a glazing over of the eyes, a rush of blood to the head, a digging of the toe into the carpet of a low whistle.

★ ★ ★

In the future, however, the degree of comeliness a woman possesses likely will be judged by the amount of laughter she provokes. For example:

"There's a new secretary in the office down the hall, Charlie."

PRETTY?

"Is she pretty?"

"Well, she's good for a few chuckles, but she's nothing you would split your sides over."

"Not like the last secretary, huh? That girl had us all in stitches."

★ ★ ★

The Elizabeth Taylor beauty criterion could be adopted in a more formal way by the sponsors of beauty contests, such as the Miss America Pageant.

★ ★ ★

The present system of picking the winners is somewhat haphazard, or at least lacking in scientific exactitude. A more precise evaluation of the contestants' beauty could be obtained by equipping the male judges with laugh meters.

ROLLING IN AISLES

If Miss Rhode Island, for instance, has them rolling in the aisles, compared with only giggles for Miss Georgia, titters for Miss Texas and cackles for Miss Colorado, she would be crowned.

And if you want to flatter your wife, just tell her that her face is laughable. But be sure to smile when you say it.

Ohio Marine Is Sentenced

HONOLULU (AP) — A Dayton, Ohio, Marine who, along with a Marine from Texas once sought sanctuary at the University of Hawaii, has been sentenced to two years at hard labor followed by a dishonorable discharge.

Wednesday's sentencing of Lance Cpl. Thomas J. Met, 21, followed his general court-martial Tuesday in which he was convicted of disloyalty, being absent without leave and using marijuana.

★ ★ ★

Met also was reduced in rank to private.

Last week, Pfc. Young C. Gray, 19, of El Paso, Tex., received an identical sentence on similar charges.

★ ★ ★

Met and Gray showed up at the university last November and asked for "sanctuary." The Marines were chained to several students for five days before turning themselves in to military authorities.

The Great Lakes is the largest group of lakes in the world and the biggest body of fresh water, covering 96,000 square miles in surface.

Orbiting Observatory Program Rebounds From Early Troubles

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — America's once-troubled orbiting-observatory program is back on its feet, and its latest and biggest success is an outgrowth of its most dismal failure.

The family of astronomical, geophysical, solar and advanced weather satellites is proving its worth by providing scientists with a wealth of information about the sun, stars, the earth and the space around it.

★ ★ ★

But it took the program's most ambitious enterprise, a $75-million stargazing satellite launched Dec. 7, to demonstrate that all the old problems have been licked.

The Stargazer, orbiting astronomical observatory 2 (OPO 2), was declared an official success by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Jan. 7 when it met its 30-day minimum operating goal.

WORKING FLAWLESSLY

OAO 2 is still working flawlessly, using 11 telescopes to map the heavens from above the atmospheric blanket that obscures the view from ground observatories.

★ ★ ★

The Stargazer's success did not come easily.

The first astronomical observatory, OAO 1, failed shortly after launch in April 1966, and its orbital death was called by one official "a catastrophe felt throughout the scientific world."

The failure resulted in congressional criticism and prompted an investigation of the entire family of large and expensive orbiting space platforms managed by NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md.

FAILURES

The second most expensive and complicated satellite in the family, the Orbiting Geophisical Observatory (OGO) had stabilization problems, and two of three OGOs launched by the end of 1966 were classified as failures.

Another satellite in the program, the first Nimbus advanced weather watcher, stopped operating after a month because of control troubles but was called a success by NASA. A second Nimbus far exceeded its objectives.

★ ★ ★

The Orbiting Solar Observatory (OSO) member of the family has a flawless record — four straight spacecraft successes.

After a seven-month study, the NASA review board called for drastic action to salvage the $741.2-million observatory family. The panel reocommended a redesign of outmoded electronic equipment and called for better testing and better management.

The initial Stargazer was the only spacecraft that had failed to return any scientific data after reaching orbit, and it clearly was the satellite that needed the most attention.

★ ★ ★

It got it, but the overhaul cost the five-satellite project one mission and added $61 million to the total cost of the effort, bringing it to $378 million.

In the meantime, the stabilization troubles with OGOs were eliminated and the last two OGOs were successful.

The fate of the Stargazer portion of the observatory program, however, rested on the results of the rebuilt OAO 2. Project officials would not say before launch that they thought a failure would end the program, but they admitted the mission "does demand success."

★ ★ ★

When it met its success milestone Jan. 7, OAO 2 had collected 30 times more data on the stars than had been gathered in 15 years of sounding rocket launchings. Before OAO 2, sounding rockets provided the only way astronomers could examine some forms of starlight.

"OAO's performance up to now has been excellent," said project manager Joseph Purcell. No problems have occurred that would in any way limit its design life of one year. We look forward to many months of productive operation."

Income Tax Answers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: — The Internal Revenue Service has prepared the following answers to questions frequently asked by taxpayers.)

Q—Why did you use color on the 1040 tax form you mailed me?

A—Color is used to draw attention to the lines on the tax form that give people the most trouble. It is hoped that the number of errors made on tax returns will thereby be reduced. .., Last year, one of every nine income tax returns filed contained an error that slowed processing. If the taxpayer was expecting a refund, it was delayed until the error could be corrected.

Two-color forms were sent to about 30 million taxpayers. The balance of the forms mailed to taxpayers and those which will be available at local banks, post offices and IRS offices, are printed in black ink.

Q—I mailed a check to a charity in December but it was not cashed until this January. Does this mean I can't deduct it on my 1968 return?

A—You may take the deduction in the year you wrote and mailed the check. This means that a check dated by you in December 1968 can be deducted on your 1968 return.

Q—The label on the tax return I received in the mail is wrong. What should I do?

A—Draw a line through the incorrect part and put in the proper information. Return the corrected label with your return when you file so that your return will be properly identified and the needed correction can be made on your tax account.

Q—What insurance premiums are deudctible as a medical expense?

A—Premiums paid for policies providing medical care are deductible as a medical expense for taxpayers who itemize. No deduction can be taken for life insurance premiums or for those paid to provide weekly benefits in case of disability.

Don't forget that medical insurance premiums should be handled differently than other medical expenses. Most medical expenses need to be reduced by 3 per cent of the taxpayer's gross income before they can be deducted.

For medical insurance premiums, however, one-half of this cost up to a maximum of $150 may be deducted without regard to the 3 per cent rule. The excess is then subject to the 3 per cent rule. This is explained in the 1040 instructions.

Q — If I file for a refund of taxes withheld on a summer job, will my parents lose their exemption for me? I'm a college student and not married.

A—No, your parents will not lose you as an exemption, so long as they furnished over half your support. In this situation the same exemption can be claimed on two returns, yours and your parent's.

Q—Do you have to report as income insurance compensation for injuries received in an auto accident?

A—No, damages for injuries suffered in an accident are tax-free.

Navy Looking to 100 M.P.H. Nuclear Sub

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy is deeply involved in research toward building a superspeed nuclear submarine, and some experts already are thinking further ahead—to a sub capable of traveling at fantastic underwater speeds of 100 miles an hour or more.

The Defense Department first announced last July 11 the project to build a superspeed sub. Since then, official mention has been made of a still more advanced design that may be available within three years.

★ ★ ★

Experiments with solid lead test bodies by North American Rockwell's Ocean Systems Divisions on the West Coast meanwhile have indicated that substantially more than 10 m.p.h. should be possible for atom-propelled submersibles.

Exact figures are a closely guarded secret, but the most advanced submarines in the U.S. fleet at present are believed to have top speeds in the neighborhood of 30 knots (34.5 m.p.h.).

SURFACE CRAFT SLOWER

This alone would approach the maximum of the fastest surface warships. For reasons having to do with friction and turbulence, North American experts working under Navy contract believe submarines of the future will easily outdistance their nuclear-powered surface counterparts.

Official mention of an advanced and presumably faster design was included by Clark M. Clifford in his farewell message to Congress before handing over the job of defense secretary to Melvin R. Laird.

★ ★ ★

After detailing plans to start construction of three high-speed subs during the coming year and "several more" in fiscal 1971, Clifford said:

"By fiscal 1972 (which starts on July 1, 1971), the new design 'Conform' submarine should be ready for construction."

SERIES OF PROJECTS

Conform is short for "the concept formulation." Investigation disclosed that the Navy does not have a single "project conform" but rather a whole series of separate test programs working toward the new design.

In the West Coast experiments, streamlined lead test bodies dropped into the ocean were clocked at speeds up to 115 m.p.h. Electrically driven test vehicles are said to have exceeded 50 m.p.h.

★ ★ ★

Achievement of fantastic speed depends on the development over the entire length of the submarine of a largely frictionless condition known as "laminar flow." This is expected to call for a blunt nose, tapering like a cone toward the tail.

Additionally, power is needed and a balance must be brought between the advantages of speed and quietness. After wrestling with the problem for months last year, Clifford decided to build both a "superspeed" and a "quiet" sub.

★ ★ ★

The price tag on the three fast subs to be started during the next year is $536 million, with the "super" presumably getting the larger share. The "quiet" version will cost between $158 million and $200 million. Both projects will provide information helpful to the "conform" design.

Police Switch to Sportswear

BLYTHE, Calif. (AP) — Deputy sheriffs today discarded traditional uniforms in favor of green blazers, green slacks, green shirt and green tie and socks. They wear no hat, carry no visible weapons and their only identification is a simple three-line emblem over the left coat pocket reading "Service-Protection-Riverside County Sheriff-Order and Justice."

Why the change? It's a six-month test to determine if non-uniforms will allow law officers to communicate better with the general public.

★ ★ ★

But major lawbreakers should not rest easy: Sheriff's Chief Ben Clark says his deputies will carry guns under their sport coats, and helmets and other gear will be kept in patrol cars ready for use in case of need.

Exporting of birds or pets for research earned India $46,000 in foreign exchange last year.

HALIBUT JOINS COCKTAIL SET

HOT CHEESE AND TOMATO DIP

BLUE CHEESE WHIRLS

Advance Preparation Key to Easy Serving of Appetizers

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

"Please publish some recipes for hot and cold appetizers that can be fixed ahead of time."

The request came while we were in the midst of getting material out for the annual recipe section. We promised our reader that we'd answer her request as soon as Cooking School was over.

★ ★ ★

If you're a purist, you know that hors d'oeuvres are hot or cold dishes served as the first course of a meal. Canapes are bite-size pieces of bread or toast, or crackers covered with something and usually served with cocktails.

ALL INCLUSIVE

The word "appetizers" seems to be a catch-all American phrase that includes both the above and the ubiquitous dips. Really, nobody cares what you call that first course. When the occasion is a cocktail party, it's first and last course.

Homemakers with freezers are lucky. There are a great many snacks you can prepare and freeze. Most of them are popped briefly into a hot oven. My new electronic range cookbook has a number of such recipes for snacks to cook, freeze and then reheat instantly.

★ ★ ★

Our files yielded a number of other interesting suggestions. One calls for marinated fish wrapped in half a slice of bacon.

There are lots of foods you can wrap in bacon and broil. Cook them ahead of time and reheat; or stop the broiling just short of the final browning and finish by baking before serving. Some fillers might be a whole shrimp; a chicken liver; water chestnut; half of an artichoke heart; cube of cheese.

NOT LUKEWARM

Be sure to serve hot appetizers hot and cold ones really chilled. A warming tray is a handy appliance for the first; bowls of crushed ice under the latter will serve.

A paperback cookbook, the revised edition of one published in 1961, has just come to our desk. In it, you will find some excellent recipes for hors d'oeuvres of all kinds — and lots of other interesting recipes too.

The "Elegant but Easy Cookbook" by Marian Fox Burros and Lois Levine is publishel by Collier Books, costs 95 cents and should be available in paperback sections of bookstores.

When it comes to interesting appetizers, genuine North Pacific halibut has everything going for it.

HALIBUT PARTY PATE

¾ pound genuine North Pacific halibut, poached
1 (8 oz.) package cream cheese
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon crushed dill weed
Dash Tabasco sauce

To Poach Halibut:

In a skillet, bring enough salted water to boil to just cover halibut. Place halibut in boiling water. Add 2 to 3 slices each of lemon and onion, and 1 bay leaf. Cover and simmer 5 to 10 minutes or until halibut flakes easily with fork. Drain. Remove bones and skin. Flake.

For Pate:

Combine flaked halibut with cream cheese, softened at room temperature. Add lemon juice, grated onion and seasonings. Blend thoroughly. Press mixture into waxed paper-lined bowl or mold. Refrigerate several hours or overnight.

Unmold on serving platter, garnish with parsley. Serve as a spread with a variety of snack crackers. Makes about 2½ cups.

BACON WRAPS

1½ pounds halibut
¼ cup salad oil
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon oregano
12 strips bacon

Cut halibut into 1 inch cubes. Combine oil, lemon juice and seasonings. Pour over halibut and marinate overnight.

To serve, remove halibut from marinade. Cut bacon strips in half. Wrap each half around a cube of halibut. Secure with toothpicks. Place under broiler and cook, turning once or twice, until bacon browns and halibut flakes.

Serve immediately. Makes approximately 24 appetizers.

PICKLED HALIBUT

2 pounds halibut, cut in chunks
1 pint vinegar
1 cup water
¼ cup olive oil
1½ tablespoons salt
8 cloves
10 whole black peppercorns
1 lemon, sliced
2 onions, sliced

Combine vinegar, water, olive oil, spices and lemon in kettle. Bring to a boil and let simmer 15 minutes. Add halibut and onion and cook gently 5 minutes. Remove from heat.

When cool, place in refrigerator and marinate overnight before serving. Delicious with buttered, thinly sliced dark rye bread.

SAVORY SARDINE CANAPES

1 can (3¾ oz.) Norway sardines
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup milk
⅓ cup mayonnaise
½ teaspoon vinegar
1 tablespoon chopped stuffed olives
1 tablespoon chopped sweet gherkins
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 teaspoons capers
6 slices white bread paprika
salt, pepper to taste
lemon, sliced (garnish)
radishes, sliced (garnish)

Drain the Norway sardines and set aside.

Melt butter in top of double boiler over simmering water. Blend in flour. In a separate bowl, combine milk, mayonnaise and vinegar. Add gradually to the butter and flour, stirring constantly until mixture is smooth. Season to taste

Continue to cook until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and stir in chopped olives, gherkins, onions and capers.

Toast bread lightly on one side, trim and cut into thirds. Arrange a whole sardine on each toast strip and spoon over hot sauce. Sprinkle with paprika. Broil for 5 minutes, or until canapes are lightly browned.

Garnish with thin lemon slices topped with thin slices of radish. Serve piping hot. Yield: 18 large party canapes.

★ ★ ★

Hot Cheese and Tomato Dip is a combination of smooth process cheese melted with American blue cheese and spiked with hot pepper and Worcestershire sauce.

HOT CHEESE AND TOMATO DIP

8 ounces process cheese
½ cup American blue cheese (about 3 ounces, crumbled)
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of hot pepper sauce
¼-½ cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons minced chives
2 tablespoons minced parsley

In heavy saucepan or double boiler, melt cheeses. Stir in sauces. Thin to dipping consistency with tomato juice. Heat through. Stir in chives and parsley. Keep hot until serving time, over hot water. Serve hot in tomato cups with corn chips. Makes about 1½ cups dip.

Blue Cheese Whirls may look complicated, but they're actually easy as all roll up! If you can find a loaf of unsliced bread, trim off the crusts and cut thin slices across the length of the loaf. Lay the bread on a damp towel or waxed paper, spread with your favorite Danish Blue Cheese spread — see below — and roll away, beginning at the narrow end. Then slice into generously sized handsome pinwheels.

If you want dainty, partyish Whirls, roll the bread lengthwise, and slice off bite-sized morsels.

WITH SLICES

If ready-sliced bread is your choice, trim the crusts, spread with cheese, and roll like a cigarette. Or flatten the bread lightly with a glass or rolling pin before spreading it — then roll and cut the cigarette into two or three short lengths.

Wrap the Whirls for storage in the freezer — they will keep in prime condition for months. Or cover them with plastic wrap or foil to keep them moist and fresh. Either way, a scant minute under the broiler transforms the Whirls into crusty morsels that smell as good as they taste.

DANISH BLUE RELISH SPREAD

4 ounces Danish Blue Cheese (1 cup crumbled)
½ cup hamburger relish

Soften cheese at room temperature, mash well, and mix with hamburger relish. Use as a spread for sandwiches, toasted or plain. Makes about 1 cup spread.

Danish Blue Chili Spread

4 ounces Danish Blue Cheese (1 cup crumbled)
½ cup chili sauce

Soften cheese at room temperature, mash well, and mix with chili sauce. Use as spread for sandwiches, toasted or plain. Makes about 1 cup spread.

Danish Blue Cherry Spread

4 ounces Danish Blue Cheese (1 cup crumbled)
¼ cup finely chopped Maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons Maraschino syrup

Soften cheese at room temperature, mash well, and mix with chopped cherries and syrup. Use as spread for sandwiches, toasted or plain. Makes about 1 cup spread.

Artichoke Is Spread Holder

Chicken Artichoke Spread is an original recipe, elegant container, delectable taste all in one! Added extra — a colorful and deliciously edible centerpiece for your cocktail table.

Prepare a fresh artichoke as directed. Decorate leaves with spritely radish coin inserts. Blend lightly seasoned chicken spread, creamy sour cream, tiny grated radishes, and chopped artichoke heart into a smooth spread.

★ ★

Chill, then mound the spread into the artichoke shell. Serve with salted crackers or individual artichoke leaves.

CHICKEN ARTICHOKE SPREAD

1 artichoke, cooked
1 4¾-oz. can chicken spread
½ cup sour cream
½ cup finely chopped radishes
¼ teaspoon salt

Remove center artichoke leaves and cut away the choke (thistle-like center). Remove the heart, chop finely and combine with chicken spread, sour cream, radishes and salt; chill.

Serve in artichoke shell with salted crackers for spreading. Makes 1¼ cups spread, note: If desired, artichoke leaves may be pulled off the shell for the spreading — in addition to the crackers.

Wash, drain, and remove stem. Trim off thorny tip of each leaf, dip cut edges in lemon juice. Place upright in 1' boiling salted water with 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Simmer, covered, 30-45 min. until tender. Drain upside down.

CHICKEN ARTICHOKE SPREAD

Dip Hot Brown 'n' Serve Sausages

The passage of time is important to the hostess especially when planning a party. Your preparation time should be the least of your worries. And it will be, if you serve brown 'n serve sausages with hot and cold dips.

Instant Coffee Is Secret Note

If your next door neighbor is thoughtful, generous and an imaginative cook, consider yourself amply blessed. This unique Coffee-Coffee Cake comes from such a neighbor, the type of person who never serves a cup of coffee without a sampling of her latest creation.

Vicki's Coffee-Coffee Cake is, as its name suggests, a cake with a hint of coffee in the batter. Just a little bit of instant flavor and color of this simple homemade specialty.

★ ★ ★

Warm and fragrant from the oven, it is definitely a second-serving cake accompanied by another cup of freshly brewed coffee.

★ ★ ★

For really good coffee, use one Approved Coffee Measure (equal to two level measuring tablespoons) of coffee to each six ounces of water per serving.

VICKI'S COFFEE-COFFEE CAKE

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons instant coffee powder
½ teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, divided
1 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup crushed cornflakes
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Mix and sift first 5 ingredients. Combine 3 tablespoons melted butter, milk, beaten egg and vanilla. Stir into dry ingredients. Stir until blended. Turn into greased 8-inch square pan.

Combine cornflake crumbs, remaining 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 tablespoons sugar and cinnamon; mix well. Scatter evenly over batter in pan.

Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until cake tests done. Serve warm, cut into squares.

APPLE BREW IS — Sometimes recipes lose their original reason for being and become popular for their good taste. This warm apple pudding was invented by thrifty New England cooks, but now is made to be enjoyed on a wintry evening.

Pineapple Sauce Is Made Quickly

A honey of a pineapple sauce combines 1 (1-pound 4½-ounce) can crushed pineapple, undrained, with ½ pound miniature marshmallows, ¼ cup honey and a dash salt. Heat, stirring, until marshmallows are melted. Cool and serve as a topping for a banana split.

Apple Pie Filling Is Important in Recipe

Not many people know the dessert which early New Englanders called a Brewis. Maybe it was known only in Maine, at first but most New England cooks have heard of it, or cooked it for their families. It was invented to use up leftover brown bread which was usually made in large batches. It is something like Indian pudding in texture and flavor.

The new addition of canned apple-pie filling gives this warm dessert a tart-sweet flavor. Serve with cream, or as suggested at the end of the recipe with sweetened whipped cream.

APPLE BREWIS

1 can (1 lb.) New England Brown bread with raisins
2½ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
2 tabelspoons butter or margarine
1 can (1 lb. 9 ox.) apple-pie filling

Crumble brown bread into fine crumbs. Scald milk; add brown bread crumbs, salt and butter. Stir until butter melts. Simmer 5 to 7 minutes or until liquid is absorbed and pudding is smooth, stirring frequently. Remove from heat; stir in about ¾ of the apple pie filling. Turn into 1½-quart casserole. Spoon remaining pie filling on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Serve warm, with sweetened whipped cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

★ ★ ★

New England Brown Bread is packed in 2 sizes, 11 oz. and 1 lb. Be sure to get the 1 lb. size. If not available, use 1½ loaves of the 11 oz. size.

Buying citrus? Select lemons, oranges and grapefruit that are heavy for their size. The U.S. Department of Agriculture notes that smooth, thin skinned citrus usually are more juicy.

Ring of Salmon Holds Spinach

Canned salmon has a special affinity for almost any vegetable, but especially for spinach. Together they make a nourishing and delicious supper dish.

SALMON FLORENTINE SUPPER

2 10-ounce packages frozen, chopped spinach
4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1-pound can salmon
1½ cups milk and salmon liquid combined
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
¼ cup soft bread crumbs

Cook spinach according to package directions. Drain, stir in 1 tablespoon of the butter and set aside. In saucepan melt remaining butter. Stir in flour, mustard, salt and pepper.

Drain salmon liquid from can into measuring cup and add milk to make a total of 1½ cups liquid. Stir liquid gradually into flour mixture and cook over low heat; stirring constantly, until sauce is smooth and thickened. Stir in Tabasco.

Flake and stir in salmon and cheese. Cook for 2 minutes, or until cheese is melted, stirring constantly.

★ ★ ★

Arrange spinach around edge of a shallow 1½-quart baking dish. Fill center of spinach ring with salmon mixture and sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake in preheated 425 degree oven for 15 minutes. Serves 6.

Q. What's the name of this cut of meat?

A. Beef top loin steak.

Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?

A. It comes from the loin area after the tenderloin has been removed. In other words, this is the top loin muscle. Sometimes these steaks contain a part of the backbone. At other times, retailers remove the bone and sell them boneless. Top loin steak is also known as a strip steak, or hotel, Kansas City, New York, sirloin strip or key strip steak.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. Broiling, indoors or out. Broil on a grill or on the broiler rack in broiler pan of range. Total cooking time for cooking an inch thick sirloin strip steak is 15 minutes, but allow 20 minutes for medium. For a steak which is one and one-half inches thick, allow 25 minutes for rare and 30 minutes for medium. Thinner steaks (one inch thick) are placed on a rack two to three inches from heat while thicker steaks are placed further away, three to five inches. Keep broiling temperatures moderate. Season after browning.

BAKED CURRIED PEARS — If you are serving a rice dish, plan also to serve Curried Pears. This is a new way to introduce a touch of the Far East into your menu — with an exotic fruit compote.

Combine Fruits in Baked Compote

Fresh winter pears are on the market now in plentiful supply and will be available well into spring. All three varieties, Anjou, Bosc, or Comice, are suitable for Baked Curried Pears. They are among the favorite fruits of the winter months for out-of-hand eating, for salads and for the fruit-cheese-cracker tray.

The Bosc is a russet colored pear with a long tapering neck; the Anjou is an oval-shaped pear, green or yellowish green in color; and the Comice is a plump grenish yellow skinned fruit.

Fresh pears come from the three West Coast states of Oregon, Washington, and California. There the climatic and soil conditions are right for the production and growth of pears. From the West Coast pears are shipped, nationwide, that all may enjoy their goodness.

BAKED CURRIED PEARS

3 winter pears
¼ cup butter
½ cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 can (1 lb.) whole Kadota figs
½ cup seedless raisins

Halve and core pears. Melt butter. Add brown sugar and curry powder. Drain figs, place in 1½ quart casserole with pear halves and raisins. Add butter-sugger mixture. Bake at 325-degrees for 45 minutes, or until pears are tender.

Cool and refrigerate several hours to blend flavors. Reheat when ready to serve. Makes 6 servings.

Jefferson Served First U. S. Spaghetti

Of all the foreign cuisines, surveys show Americans first favor Italian dishes. Thomas Jefferson, America's extraordinary President of many talents, including that of being a great epicure, is credited with introducing into this country "Neapolitan maccaroni."

While Secretary of State, Jefferson sent his diplomatic courier, William Short, to Italy in 1789 for the express purpose of bringing back to him instructions and a mold for making pasta.

The mission accomplished, Jefferson served at a formal dinner for the first time in America, spaghetti (then referred to as "Neapolitan maccaroni") lavishly prepared with butter and Parmesan cheese. The dish became a favorite not only in the Jefferson household but rapidly throughout all America.

Cracker Crumbs Encase Honey-Brushed Ham

Ham takes on a new taste with a delicious graham and honey coating. You flavor the ham with graham cracker crumbs, spices, honey, onion and cloves. This easy-to-prepare main course will give you extra time to spend with your guests.

GRAHAM CRUSTED HONEY HAM

¾ cup packaged graham cracker crumbs
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cooked ham (12 to 15 lbs.)
¼ cup honey
1 tablespoon grated onion
Whole cloves

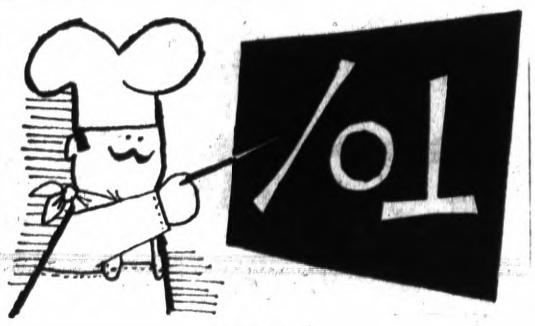

★ ★ ★

Mix crumbs, mustard, ginger and lemon rind well and set aside. In preheated 325-degree oven, heat ham, uncovered on rack in shallow pan for 10 minutes to each pound.

About 25 minutes before ham is completely heated, remove from oven; trim off and discard any remaining skin. With sharp knife, score entire ham ⅛ inch deep into diamond shapes.

Mix honey with grated onion and brush mixture on ham. Sprinkle and pat crumb mixture over ham, pressing firmly. Stud diamond pattern with whole cloves.

Return to oven and heat for remaining 25 minutes. Let stand 15 minutes before slicing. Yield: 12 servings, plus leftovers.

BONE UP

Shape of Meat Bone Clue to Tenderness

Bone up on how to buy meat and your studies will result in lower meat costs.

Betty Brownell, home economist for National Association of Food Chains, admits that women often are confused about the cost, tenderness and cooking methods of many meat cuts. A simple test of bone shape tells all!

T-BONE

Three bone shapes are easily recognizable in most cuts. The T-bone, shaped like a T, stands for tenderness. It usualy stands for higher cost as it is the tender, fast cooking cuts which cost more. T-bone steaks are an excellent example. They may, of course, be broiled to perfection in a very short time, the time dependent on the thickness and the degree of doneness desired.

ROUND STEAK

An O-shaped or round bone, indicates that the cut is somewhat less expensive and also less tender, requiring a longer, slower cooking method. Round steak has a round bone. Braising turns this less tender cut into a tasty morsel. Some recipies require that round steak be baked, again giving it the longer, slower cooking it needs.

BLADE BONE

A third bone shape to remember is the blade bone, a long slender bone, easily seen in the beef pot roast and other cuts. Again, slow cooking is a must for blade bone meat cuts. These cuts are less tender and less expensive.

★ ★ ★

While you're boning up, remember that less tender means before cooking, not after. Using the correct cooking method, you'll find that these cuts might turn into family favorite meats that they'll request again and again.

What's more tasty on a cold winter night than a delectable pot roast, simmered for hours in a large pot, with potatoes and vegetables added to the rich, brown gravy?

Your time is the deciding factor. If a meal can't take longer to prepare than 30 minutes to fit into your time schedule, steaks and chops it must be. But if you'll be home to give a less tender cut the time and loving care it must have, select a less expensive round or blade bone cut.

★ ★ ★

As prices rise, your knowledge of meat cuts must increase, enabling you to feed your family on a budget, according to your time schedule and with foods they'll like. One way to do it — bone up on meat cuts!

Better Add Oil to Cake Made With Pudding

It seems impossible to print a whole section of recipes like last week's Cooking School section without at least one error.

On page 47 is a recipe called "Tell Your Neighbor Cake." Left out of the ingredients was one-third cup salad oil. Here is the corrected recipe:

Tell Your Neighbor Cake

1 package German chocolate cake mix
1 cup water
1 package (4 serving size) coconut cream instant pudding
4 eggs
Cup oil

Combine ingredients in large bowl. Blend and beat 8 minutes at medium speed. Pour into 13x9-inch pan lined on bottom with brown paper.

★ ★ ★

Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes. Cool in pan 15 minutes; then remove and cool thoroughly on a rack. Frost as desired.

Avocado Sauce

Peel and remove seed from 2 large very ripe avocados. Put avocado through a sieve or blend. Stir in 3 tablespoons light corn syrup, 3 tablespoons lime juice. Chill. Serve with vanilla ice cream.

Campus Call for Black Studies Spreads

NEW YORK (AP) — A fast-spreading drive by American Negroes and their supporters for special treatment in the schools has brought campuses in many parts of the country to a boiling point.

Some student leaders in state after state are pressing for new "black studies" programs, lowered college enrollment standards for Negroes and other minority groups and more Negro faculty members. In some schools there are demands for autonomous Negro colleges within integrated universities.

★ ★ ★

The "movement," thus far without visible links among schools where it is in action, has spread even to high schools and grade schools in some cities.

The black militants say they are seeking to establish a Negro identity. They demand recognition of the Negro role in American history and culture. They want acknowledgment that the American Negro has problems peculiar to his race and unlike those of minority groups in other times.

STRUCTURE DENOUNCED

They denounce the existing educational structure as a scheme to extol and uphold a white power system in which Negroes are treated as an inferior people.

Despite the violence and disorder which has accompanied it, the campaign has won the sympathy of a considerable cross-section of educators.

Others regard some demands, and behavior, as arrogant and intolerable and are taking a firm line to restore peace on the campuses.

A third group of school officials, seeking to avoid future confrontation, has volunteered curriculum changes and expanded aid to minority students, particularly Negroes.

After months of study, and consultation with black student leaders, a Harvard faculty committee recommended establishment of a degree-level course in Afro-American studies. It would take its place in the Harvard curriculum along with the traditional majors of college students —languages, music, literature, sciences. It is expected to be put into effect in September.

Among those who consider that Negroes have justice on their side when they ask for black-oriented academic courses is Joseph Boskin, codirector of the American Studies Program at the University of California.

★ ★ ★

"A man who lacks historical identity is severely handicapped," says Boskin.

"A man who cannot relate his own experiences to a past in which the frailties and strengths, the follies and wisdoms are in part his own is bereft of perspective.

DENIED HISTORY

"To the disgrace of the United States, past and present, the Afro-American was the only individual who was denied his history.

"In contrast to the millions of immigrants who settled in the country, the African was prevented from retaining his culture, his language, his historic links with his continent."

★ ★ ★

Dr. Mark Shedd, superintendent of Philadelphia public schools, commented:

"Our black students asked us for the introduction of black history into the school curriculum. They were studying totally white curricula in totally black schools. To them a cirriculum that ignored the contributions of the black man to the development of the world was an irrelevant curriculum.

"We listened to them. We understood them. We agreed with them.

"Thus, we instituted Afro-American history courses in our high schools and are searching constantly for history books that give every man his due, no matter what his race, religion or color."

★ ★ ★

Elbert Walton, a Negro graduate student at Washington University in St. Louise, was asked what the student militants mean, in general, when they speak of a "black studies program."

"A black studies program is just that," Walton replied. "It's from the black perspective. And that would naturally require a black man to teach it.

EVERY COURSE

"Your'e going to have every course you have in the standard curriculum. You're going to have economics, but economics based on black economic development or exploitation.

"You go into a business course, you're going to deal with the black businesses that have developed and the problems they face. Most of our perspective is problems rather than success stories.

★ ★ ★

"In order to build up the ghetto you have to show them where the problems lie and how to deal with them. That is why you need a black studies program."

Some educators while expressing sympathy with black aspirations, have cautioned that continued violence will encourage widespread public antagonism.

113 OF 11,000

One of these was President Roger E. Guiles of Wisconsin's Oshkosh State University, where rowdy demonstrations by students demanded concessions for Negroes — only 113 in the student body of 11,000.

"I believe the university is very much interested in providing a good experience for anyone on campus," Guiles said.

"We have no desire to become an all-white university.

"But the university must provide a climate in which its appropriate activities can be carried on without the fear of intimidation and physical violence.

★ ★ ★

"Failing this, we accept the alternatives of mob rule or no rules at all. We can be quite sure that society as a whole has no intention of underwriting the latter with either their dollars or moral support."

OHIO STATE'S STEPS

Ohio State University cracked down on militants who seized an administration building and held several school officials as hostages. Of those accused of involvement, 34 — all members of the Black Students Union — were indicted on charges including illegal detention.

★ ★ ★

The university followed up by adopting new campus rules providing for a year's suspension of students who seize school property, detain or threaten any person or forcibly disrupt school operations.

★ ★ ★

Ohio State has 3,000 Negroes in a student body of 40,000.

Another school whose official patience recently reached exhaustion point was San Francisco State College, where militants disrupted classes with repeated demonstrations for such privileges as automatic enrollment of all students from racial minorities.

★ ★ ★

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, president of the college, called in 1,000 policemen to clear the campus. Gov. Ronald Reagan backed him up, saying, "There is no longer any room for appeasement or give."

The American Council on Education's Office of Research polled 301,448 freshmen at 435 colleges and universities and reported that 54.5 per cent felt campus administrators have been too lenient in dealing with militant disturbances.

Black militant groups often are only 1 per cent or less of the student body at schools where demonstrations have been staged.

★ ★ ★

The militants operate under a variety of names, including Black Action Society, Black Students Union, Afro-American Student Society, Association of Black Collegians, Black Student League and United Black Association. Their basic demands, however, tend to be much the same.

In response to student demands in New York City, the nine four-year municipal colleges and six two-year community colleges of the City University of New York now offer 102 courses on Africa and Afro-Americans.

SWAHILI TAUGHT

The City College of New York started a course in elementary Swahili, a trade and governmental language used in much of East Africa and the Congo.

An odd aspect of the student drive for black-oriented courses was reported from predominantly Negro Virginia Union University in Richmond, Va. There, black militants seized several school buildings demanding, among other things, the creation of courses in black culture.

Said the university's puzzled president, Dr. Thomas H. Henderson:

★ ★ ★

"We've had Negro culture courses for 35 or 40 years, but some of the students didn't seem to realize it. The enrollment is disappointing.'

Nature Warns Us About Our Vanishing Lakes

(Reprinted by permission from Natural History magazine.)

Algae, minute and one-celled, ride the summer waves of every waterway in America. They colonize in stagnant sloughs of rivers and gather in backwaters behind dams. Under a microscope, these tiny and rather attractive plants appear innocent enough, yet they can quickly cover a bay with scum, form hairy filaments to enslime a rocky shoreline, or clog an entire lake. With life-spans of only a few days, algae can make any lake grow old thousands of years before its time.

To realize their immense potential for harm, however, algae depend on man. It takes man to speed up natural eutrophication, the normal process of enrichment and aging undergone by bodies of fresh water. By fertilizing thenation's waters with the nutrients vital to algae growth and reproduction, primarily nitrogen and phosphorous, we turn eutrophication into an accelerated, cultural process — cultural in that we are perverting nature with municipal sewage, industrial wastes, agricultural drainage, and other odious byproducts of our civilizaion. Cultural eutrophication, therefore, is an aberration: a natural process running amok.

In enriching the water with the nutrients in sewage, groundwater, and urban and rural runoff, we promote the exponential reproduction of alga becomes 2 algae, then 4, alga becoes 2 algae, then 4, 16, 256 — multiplying until there are billions. And during such a population explosion, lakes become murky and fetid under the August sun, while wave-tossed weeds, bloated fish, and dead algae rot in shoreline windrows.

More than one-third of America's 100,000 lakes are showing signs of cultural eutrophication. The danger of accelerated eutrophication continues to grow as our population makes greater demands on natural water resources, and lakes continue to take on the eutrophication syndrome. Besides showing the symptoms of excess nutrients and algae bloom, they are characterized by the depletion of dissolved oxygen in deeper waters, a change from coldwater game fish to "rough" bottom feeders, and the encroachment of rooted vegetation from shore.

DEFINITE SEQUENCE

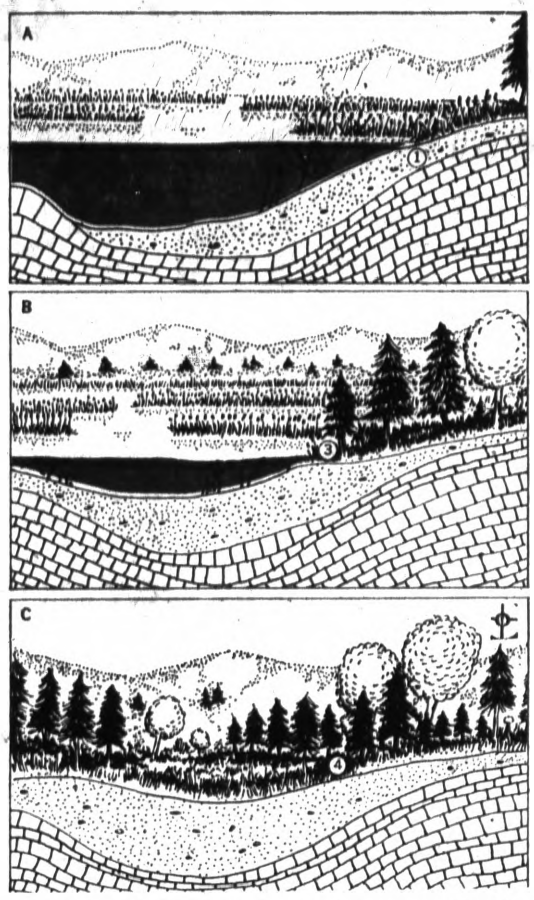

The appearance of these symptoms follows a definite sequence. First, the algae population skyrockets in a man-fertilized lake. Water fleas (miniature freshwater shrimp), the staple in the diet of fry and minnows, cannot eat enough algae to keep these plants in check. As a result, billions of algae live their languid lives, reproduce, and then die. As they drift toward the bottom, their decomposing bodies exhaust the deepwater oxygen supply. Trout, whitefish, and other fish species suffocate in the oxygen-thin depths.

The lake's ecology, initially upset by excess nutrients, then becomes totally upended, since bacteria can convert only some of the dead algae into plant and animal food. Therefore, generation after generation of algae settle on the bottom, adding layer after layer to the muck. The rate of sedimentation is most rapid in a northern lake where bacteria grow only during the summer while nutrients are added throughout the year. As erosion and sedimentation fill in the lake, shoreline vegetaion impinges on the open water. In time, the lake becomes so shallow and overgrown that it becomes a marsh or bog. The accelerated process of aging has taken its toll: the lake's life is ended.

Cultural eutrophication is not new, nor is it solely an American problem. Recent core samples of an Italian lake indicate that ancient Roman road builders caused eutrophication by exposing nearby nutrient-rich limestone strata to erosion.

By the latter part of the 19th century, a few scientists in Europe and the United States, alarmed about cultural eutrophication, issued warnings that went unheeded. In 1896, on Switzerland's Lake Zurich, the problem finally received notice, and during the 1920s and 30s worldwide scientific interest began to focus on the problem. But research without implementation is impotent, and by the 1940s eutrophication was no longer confined primarily to farm belts and urban areas. It had followed urban man in his quest for recreation into the wilds.

DEATH OF A LAKE—The aging and disappearance of a lake is shown in the above three pictures. Shore-line runoff (top) brings eroded soil and plant nutrients into the lake, aquatic vegetation (center) flourishes and dies to add to debris on the bottom, and marsh plants and water-tolerant conifers (bottom) grow on the shore and eventually the lake is filled with forest vegetation.

LAKE ERIE A SUMP

It took the visual (and olfactory) impact of a huge body of water, Lake Erie, suffocating as a sump for industrial waste, sewage, and urban and rural runoff to bring the problem of water pollution dramatically to the public eye. Some now pronounce Lake Erie "dead." We, however, extend hope for recovery. For if communities and industries in Lake Erie's drainage basin cease polluting and fertilizing its waters, and if a cleansing flow from Lake Huron is permitted to reach and "flush out" the lake via the Detroit River, Erie might show signs of recovery within a decade. True, our hope is contingent upon many "ifs." However, it cannot be too strongly emphasized that these situations are reversible — that bodies of water will respond when the right steps are taken.

There is reason to fear for the other Great Lakes, together the greatest reservoir of clean fresh water in the world. Although Lake Superior and Lake Huron bear only a few signs of eutrophication so far, alarming amounts of DDT and other persistent toxic pesticides have been detected in the highly prized flesh of lake trout caught in their waters.

★ ★ ★

Lake Michigan is also deteriorating rapidly from increasing effluents and may soon go the way of Erie. The stench of algae and weeds decaying on beaches, compounded by the wave-borne plague of dead alewives, makes eutrophication impossible to ignore in this once pure lake. Such cities as Muskegon, Gary, Chicago, Milwaukee, and Green Bay realize that the fate of Lake Michigan — to which they once owed their existence — is now uncertain.

Stewart L. Udall, former Secretary of the Interior, said a year ago that there is still time to save Lake Michigan, but warned that further delay in action would prove fatal. His statement is admittedly, and of necessity, vague, but it is correct.

OUTLOOK UNCERTAIN

The long-range outlook here is not encouraging because the mitten-shaped lake isn't in the mainstream of Great Lakes water circulation, and thus receives very little cleansing flow. Its tributaries carry heavy nutrient loads to its shallows, and consequently, along Michigan's southern rim scientists have found 44 times more phosphorus (in the form of sewage effluent and industrial waste) than the lake can handle.

Lake Michigan/s fate would have been decided long ago had Chicago's engineers and city fathers lacked the foresight and imagination to reverse the lakeward flow of the Chicago River and channel it into the Illinois River, a tributary of the Mississippi. The metropolis now draws water from the lake, and discharges sewage effluent into the altered river system. As is sometimes the case in such diversion operations, they have alleviated their own problem but have contributed to the water problems of St. Louis and other cities located farther down the Mississippi.

While concern for the future of the Great Lakes intensifies, distress is being voiced over eutrophication on many smaller bodies of water. Fishermen complain that dense mats of algae and rooted weeds make trolling for pike impossible, and that the few fish they do manage to catch are too tainted to eat. A summer cottager realizes that he will be landlocked if his bay becomes any shallower, and a concerned parent forbids her youngsters to wade in the green slurry of algae.

To stop cultural eutrophication, the sources of nutrients for algae growth and reproduction must be pinpointed. A 1967 survey, representative of the Midwest, indicates that 6 per cent of the nitrogen and 2 per cent of the phosphorus reaching Wisconsin waters come from septic tank seepage. Twenty-five per cent of the nitrogen and 56 per cent of the phosphorus come from municipal sewage treatment plants. Runoff from manured fields accounts for 10 and 22 per cent of these elements, while urban runoff supplies 6 and 10 per cent. Groundwater and direct rainfall on Wisconsin bodies of water contribute, respectively, 42 per cent and 9 per cent of the nitrogen, but together less than 4 per cent of the phosphorus. Industrial wastes which bypass municipal treatment are a source of trace amounts of each of these chemical substances.

EXHAUST, SMOKE

The nitrogen contribution of groundwater and rainfall will continue to be significant as long as automobile exhaust and industrial smokestacks keep spewing nitrogen into the atmosphere. Rain, in cleansing the air, picks up this nitrogen and deposits it directly into lakes and streams or indirectly in groundwater. Nitrogen-laden rain falling on land also percolates down to the subterranean water table, the level of groundwater.

It must be remembered that the natural rate of eutrophication is the base rate for cultural eutrophication. Moreover, the natural rate depends on whether the soil in a lake's drainage basin is rich or poor in nutrients. For this reason, thousands of lakes in a nutrient-poor belt stretching from northern Minnesota and Ontario to Maine and Quebec have changed very little since the last glacier retreated 10,000 years ago. Found in sandy or granitic terrain and unspoiled by man, these deep lakes have kept their gin-clear purity and their youth — they are oligotrophic. However, should we disturb their basins and fertilize their waters, they would immediately undergo cultural eutrophication.

Seepage from the septic tanks of just a few summer cabins and resorts, for example, is rich enough in nutrients to speed up the aging process. Cochran Lake, once a pure gem set in the northern Wisconsin wilds, has deteriorated so rapidly since the first of seven cottages was built on its shores ten years ago that it now looks like a 300-acre caldron of pea soup.

Lakes with large drainage basins in limestone terrain, which is usually high in phosphorus, are far more likely to show their age than lakes in granitic or sandy basins. Because of their high nutrient content, they become shallow and die under encroaching cattails, reeds, and marsh grasses. But even though such lakes are already highly fertilized through natural means, whenever man is present his actions become the determining factor in the rate at which lakes fill in. Unless septic tank seepage is stanched, Cochran Lake — and thousands of other lakes in the resort areas of north United States, Canada, Scandinavia, and the Alps — will be ruined.

MUNICIPAL SEWAGE

While faulty septic tanks are a major source of nutrients in rural regions, their over-all contribution does not approach that of municipal sewage treatment plants. It has been estimated that 260 million pounds of phosphorus and 511 million pounds of nitrogen reach the nation's surface waters in the form of municipal sewage each year. Substantial amounts of these plant nutrients are discharged in effluent even after sewage is treated. As much as 75 per cent of the phosphorus in sewage comes from detergents. In addition to phosphorus and nitrogen, vitamins, amino acids, and growth hormones have been found in effluent — substances which contribute to the growth of algae and weeds. These growth stimulants are synthesized inadvertently in the biological processes of sewage treatment.

Since cities and villages across the country are rather impartial in dumping their sewage, rivers too are receiving their share of nutrients for eutrophication. This is most obvious wherever rivers have been dammed and currents slowed enough to give algae a chance to multiply. Because most of the nation's rivers have been systematically converted into series of impoundments since the 1930's, cultural eutrophication in these man-made lakes is now a common problem.

★ ★ ★

Algae blooms foul many of the man-made lakes in the TVA system, as well as the backwaters of hydro-electric dams on the Missouri and Snake rivers. The Mississippi — "father of waters" — carries partially treated sewage from Minneapolis and St. Paul forty miles downstream to Lake Pepin where algae thrive on sewage nutrients. As algae die and settle to the bottom with other sediments, the sluggish lake become shallower, increasing the possibility of spring flooding at Winona, Minn., and other downriver towns.

Formidable as it is, cultural eutrophication isn't inevitable. For example, five years ago officials from 70-plus local government bodies became alarmed about algae slime at sewage outlets on Lake Tahoe on the California-Nevada border, touted as one of the clearest lakes of North America. With the entire Tahoe basin's livelihood — tourism and gambling — at stake, they banded together and consulted sanitary engineers and limnologists. The prescribed cure: sewage treatment and diversion.

STEP TAKEN

The South Tahoe Utility District, spurred by action committees of panicked businessmen, obtained a $10 million grant from Washington, raised another $9 million, and this year built a plant to treat sewage and a pipeline to carry effluent over a mountain pass to an irrigation reservoir. In diverting the effluent from the lake basin, the South Tahoe district provided California desert farms with nutrient-rich water. Meanwhile, the 42 voters of Round Hill, Nev., (most being gaming-house owners) floated a $5.8 million bond for their own sewage treatment-diversion project, fearing that smelly scum would hurt business at their lakeshore casinos and hotels. And if other Tahoe communities act right now, eutrophication should never smirch the lake's reputation for clarity — at least not for several thousands of years.

Diversion is currently the most effective measure we have to combat eutrophication, since it immediately deprives nusiance vegetation of nitrogen, phosphorus, and other nutrients. Moreover, until some technological breakthrough occurs in sewage treatment — now far from a completely effective process — diversion will continue to be the logical approach.

Sanitary engineers haven't yet found a process, chemical or bio-chemical, that offers an economical alternative to diverting effluent around lakes. Nevertheless, research is being pressed throughout the country. A pilot plant, for example, has been built to test a chemical process at Ely, Minn., the launching point for canoe trips into the Superior National Forest. Research teams have investigated the feasibility of using algae to remove nutrients from effluent. The plan is to grow algae in effluent-filled ponds until they have consumed all the nutrients. Then the algae would be harvested and the nutrient-poor effluent discharged directly into a lake, obviating the need for diversion. The researchers, in practice have been stymied by several technical problems: for one, how can algae be put to use? Unfortunately, there is no demand for algae as a fertilizer or as an animal food.

While the logic of diverting effluent is obvious, particularly in light of the shortcomings of sewage treatment, it often hasn't been accepted. Opponents of diversion in Madison, Wis., for instance, argued that run-off from manured farmland — not municipal sewage — was the chief cause of eutrophication in Lake Monona, one of four lakes linked by the sluggish Yahara River. Nevertheless, soon after Madison began diverting all of its effluent around Lake Monona in 1936, the amount of copper sulfate needed to kill algae dropped from carloads to a few handfuls by 1956.

SENSE OF RESPONSIBILITY

As Madison learned in the late 1930's, diversion requires a sense of responsibility and a regard for down-stream communities. That city, in sparing Lake Monona, poured its effluent into Lake Waubesa and indirectly into Lake Kegonsa. This half-measure promptly fertilized their waters. Residents, enraged by the proliferating algae that threatened to ruin their lakes, sued the city.

In 1941 legislators passed an antipollution bill aimed at Madison. Gov. Julius Heil, however, vetoed it on the ground that there was no consensus on the main cause of eutrophication. Although the bill was later enacted, it was not until 1959 that Madison's effluent was diverted completely from Waubesa and Kegonsa.

Foes of diverting sewage plant effluent around Seattle's Lake Washington to Puget Sound claimed that farm runoff was responsible for cultural eutrophication — just as had been claimed in Madison — even though the 24-mile long lake was absorbing the effluent of ten treatment plants by 1950. In this case, it took the lavender bloom of Oscillatoria rubescens, the same algae that discolored Lake Zurich, to awaken the public. Mass apathy dissolved, but a welter of conflicting opinions too its place and for a time threatened to defeat the attempts to divert sewage around Lake Washington.

Eventually, 5,000 women, backed by the Municipal League and the League of Women Voters, went from door to door, mustering support for a bond issue to be used for diversion. Recently, voters reversed the stand they took in 1956 and approved the bond issue and a charter for a new metropolitan governmental body that would cope with the sewage problem. Although the diversion project hasn't been completed, the picturesque lake is nearly as clear as it was eighteen years ago. Its clarity should continue to improve as its effluent is diverted to the tide-washed sound.

Diversion projects are sometimes condemned as costly boondoggles, since rainfall inevitably contributes so much nitrogen to lakes, whether or not diversion is practiced. Critics, however, fail to consider, or choose to ignore, the fact that municipal sewage — not rainfall — is the major source of phosphorous, the other stimulant of cultural eutophication.

NO STANDARD CURE

There is no standard remedy for ailing lakes. Diversion is no cure-all. It has disadvantages in addition to its expense and capacity for creating or aggravating water problems elsewhere. Diversion can negate itself, particularly in water-scarce regions where sources of clean water that might have flushed lakes clean have been channeled instead into diversion systems to carry away sewage effluent. Thus, the advantage of diverting effluent is sometimes offset by the disadvantage of diverting potentially cleansing inflows. Engineers, aware of this drawback, are exploring the possibility of using "infertile" water from the Columbia River to rinse Moses Lake in central Washington.

Harvesting weeds and fish to remove nutrients from fertilized lakes promises to supplement diversion projects very effectively. Seining crews, for example, hauled 40 pounds of carp per acre from Madison's Lake Mendota. Since the nitrogen and phosphorus content of fish flesh is 2.5 and 0.2 per cent, respectively, 500 pounds of carp harvested removed 12.5 pounds of nitrogen and a pound of phosphorus from the lakes. The 1966 carp catch yielded 16,000 pounds of nitrogen and 800 pounds of phosphorus. The nutrient "yield" of this method could be easily expanded in most eutrophic lakes with more intensive harvesting of carp and other rough fish.

A program to perfect weed-harvesting techniques and to evaluate their effectiveness was begun last summer on Lake Sallie, a densely populated lake in the vacation area of Detroit Lakes, Minn. By "cropping" one-third of the lake three times to a depth of five feet below the surface, the researchers expect to remove substantially more nutrients in one summer than enter the lake in a year. The outlook for harvesting algae on a large scale, however, isn't nearly as bright. No economical equipment has been developed to skim algae off lakes and impoundments.

While inventors are working on a variety of devices that "suck up algae like vacuum cleaners" or "strain algae scum from lakes," members of the National Eutophication Research Program are hunting for a herbivore, perhaps some water flea or fish, with a huge appetite for algae. The search may be extended abroad if no algae-craving counterparts can be found to the weed-eating snails used in the southeastern United States. Precautions, however, must be taken to screen out "exotic" species that could become nuisances. Also, of two viruses known to cause diseases among blue-green algae, one is being tested, and more virulent species are being sought.

CHEMICALS FUTILE

The best that can be said for spraying chemical poisons on lakes in the grips of algae and weeds is that it is usually a futile undertaking. Treating a lake with copper sulfate or other toxic chemicals is no more effective than taking aspirin for a brain tumor. It offers only temporary relief, masking the symptoms of cultural eutrophication. In the long run it makes a lake sicker. Poisoning algae and weeds simply accelerates the natural process of growth, death, and decay, thereby freeing nutrients for another cycle of plant production. This has been borne out by studies of blue-green algae in Oregon's Upper Klamath Lake, which first showed signs of eutrophication eighty years ago. In the peak growth month of August, Klamath algae contain within their cells three times as much nitrogen as is dissolved in the lake. Killing an alga therefore would release this nitrogen for further growth.

Chemical posions should be used only a a last resort, for once dumped into a body of water, they cannot be confined to one locality. They dissolve and spread far beyond the area treated. Dispersed eventually bv wave action throughout a lake, thev adversely alter the fragile fabric of aquatic communities of many species. Too little is known about the sublethal effects of such poisons to risk their use.

★ ★

We can take several steps — all more effective than chemical poisoning—to bolster the two-pronged attack of diverting effluent and removing nutrients. By separating sewer svstems for storm runoff and sewage, communities can forestall the lake fertilization that occurs when nutrient-rich combined sewers overflow after heavy rains. Damaging septic tank seepage can be curbed by passing legislation that would require that tanks be installed at a "safe" distance from bodies of water. Wisconsin legislators, for instance, recently decided that lakes and rivers would be safe from fertilization only if septic tanks are set back as far as 1,000 feet and 300 feet, respectively. They also set more stringent specifications for septic tanks themselves. The specifications vary with the porosity of the soil.

★ ★ ★

Livestock growers could also fight cultural eutrophication by adopting the European practice of fluidizing and storing manure in vats, from winter free-up until the spring thaw, and then spraying it on their fields when the soil can better absord it. The bulk of the manure now spread on frozen cropland runs off with spring meltwater to fertilize lakes and streams. This is significant considering the fact that the amount of manure, produced each year in the Midwest alone, is equivalent to human sewage of a population of 350 million. The chief drawback of the European method is its expense. Federal funds for water and soil conservation, however, could possibly be used to help farmers pay for costly storage tanks and spraying equipment.

We still have much to learn about the complexities of the eutrophication process. There is an urgent need for more research on such factors as a lake's depth, size, and configuration, its drainage basin and sources of nutrients, and its aquatic communities. But such research is complicated because biological and economical factors vary with every lake, pond, and reservoir. Systems analysis with computers promises to be the research tool that will enable us to supply precise data on the potentialities of eutrophication.

Improved research, however, is only part of the solution to this dilemma. Unfortunately there isn't time to raise an elightened generation to cope with eutrophication. Although we don't have all the answers, we must heed the warnings given by the waterways around us that have fallen into an advanced state of decay. If we delay, the price may be too dear to pay.

'More than one-third of America's 100,000 lakes are showing signs of cultural eutrophication. The danger of accelerated eutrophication continues to grow as our population makes greater demands on national water resources.'

Mart Recovery Gathers Steam

NEW YORK (AP) — A stock market recovery gathered some strength early this afternoon. Trading was active.

Gains outnumbered losses by only about 75 issues on the New York Stock Exchange, but blue chip gains bolstered averages.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon rose 2.98 at 941.07.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 358.2, with industrials up .5, rails up 1.2, and utilities up .7.

Chrysler, which has been battered recently because of its plans to cut back production in February, spurted more than a point as it reported record sales and earnings for 1968.

Other blue chips improved as the list moved to the upside after four sessions of very narrow irregularity.

★ ★ ★

Du Pont gained 2. Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar and Standard Oil of California rose a point or better. Owens-Illinois rose more than 2.

Some of the investment money which has been lying on the sidelines was coming back into the market, brokers said. Inflational developments were cited. Among these were the increase in consumer prices, a hint that an increase in the federal debt limit will be sought and the highest interest rate for a U.S. Treasury note since 1865.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. In a late opening block of 58,100 shares, Asamera Oil dropped 3 to 28● but pared a couple of points from the loss in later dealings.

Nigeria Wonders: After War, What?

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Federal leaders are deeply worried about what happens when Nigeria's civil war ends and 90,000 men who know how to shoot come home.

★ ★ ★

Nigeria already suffers banditry. Newspapers report cases such as these:

● Six uniformed men barged into a 40-year-old civil servant's office and demanded the keys to his safe, saying they heard he had illegal Biafran currency notes. He refused and tried to escape. The men shot him in the chest and leg, and they fled.

● Eight men—one in uniform—broke into a house in the early morning and shot its occupant before he could call for help.

★ ★ ★

● Police and army authorities ordered their men to shoot on sight "some armed robbers dressed in army uniforms" who had been raiding stores in Kaduna in the north.

The chief superintendent of police, E. J. Umoren, contends most of these incidents involve civilians, dressed in stolen uniforms using stolen weapons.

MANY CASES

"In Abeokuta province where I was before," he said, "there were many cases. They would come in, fire shots into the air to scare villagers . . ."

After the war, he added, it could be a serious problem.

★ ★ ★

One local paper quoted a Benin High Court judge as warning "Nigeria would have to fight yet another terrible war . . . directed against highway robbers who would be armed to the teeth during their operations, having acquired the knowledge of weapons from the current war."

Though foreign military observers describe the Nigerian army as well-disciplined with reasonable control over its arms, there is a brisk traffic in weapons.

IMMENSE PROBLEM

Frequent raids seeking "illegal goods" and countless military road checks indicate the depth of the problem.

A high-level committee in the cabinet office has studied the question but is secretive about its findings.

★ ★ ★

Authorities have been tough with convicted offenders. Special tribunals on armed robbery may prescribe life imprisonment. Military and police patrols occasionally have orders to shoot on sight, if they feel it necessary. Sometimes they do.

The government hopes to avoid the problem through a general demobilization plan when the 18-month old civil war ends. Much will depend on the settlement reached, but sources in a position to know say some 50,000 federal troops and 40,000 rebel troops will be released from ranks.

PROJECTS

Such measures as cooperative farms, civil-action projects and long "retraining programs" are under consideration.

Even if the men are kept occupied, their weapons must be rounded up as well.

★ ★ ★

"Nigerians don't like to kill each other," observed one foreign military officer, "but in every country you get that 2 per cent. You can let your imagination run wild as to what might happen after the war."

A number of Nigerian officers and police officials have served in the Congo, where badly disciplined armed men put on frequent demonstrations of what could happen. Informed sources in the Congo, for example, tell of arms captured four years ago still being sold across the border into Sudan. "Freelance roadblocks" are still an occasional danger in the Congo long after political stability broke the chain of crises.

Area Man Held in Rape Cases

PLYMOUTH (AP) — A 25-year-old White Lake Township man was arraigned yesterday after being accused of raping four women while posing as a young father looking for a baby sitter.

The man, John R. Ellis of 9125 Southeastern, stood mute at arraignment proceedings on armed robbery and rape charges in Plymouth Township District Court. He was ordered held in lieu of $50,000 bond.

★ ★ ★

Court examination was set for Feb. 3.

Farmington Township police arrested Ellis Monday, after a woman notified police a man contacted her saying he needed a babysitter. Detectives said a car fitting the description of one used by a man in the previous assaults was found outside the home.

SHORT CHASE

The car sped off and Ellis was arrested after a short chase.

Police and sheriff's deputies in Wayne County and Oakland County participated in the two-week investigation, after women reported being raped by a man who answered their ads in the Plymouth Observer newspaper for baby-sitting services.

Wayne County Undersheriff William Lucas said a man would call a woman placing an ad and say he had a 4-year-old son who needed a baby sitter. He then asked to visit the woman's home to inspect it.

The Wayne County sheriff's department began investigating after a 23-year-old Plymouth Township woman reported she had been raped at her home Jan. 13.

Four Acquitted of Ticket Fixing

Ex-Sheriff's Chief 'Acting on Orders'

DETROIT (AP) — A jury found Dan D. Martin, former chief of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department Road Patrol, and three former union officials innocent Wednesday of charges stemming from alleged ticket fixing in the sheriff's department.

The jury acquitted the four of charges of conspiracy and obstructing justice.

★ ★ ★

The 61-year-old Martin broke into tears after the verdict was announced before Judge George E. Bowles, climaxing the month-long trial.

Martin, suspended after the ticket-fixing charges were made public in 1965, said he would attempt to return to his inspector's post at the road patrol.

ACTED ON ORDERS

At the tiral, Martin testified he voided many traffic tickets issued by the road patrol, but said he did so on orders of his superiors.

In effect, the jury decided that Martin's voiding of the tickets did not constitute an illegal action.

★ ★ ★

The charges resulted from a grand jury investigation after Paul Paciorek, a former road patrol sergeant, said he hid 4,000 voided tickets in a chicken coop on his Brownstown Township farm.

The union officials were accused of getting tickets voided for members of their local. The three, former officers of United Auto Workers Local 182 at Ford's Livonia Transmission Plant, include Charles Gillette, Louis G. LeKar and John Moon.

'EVIDENCE LACKING'

Their defense attorney, Edward A. Khoury, said the prosecution failed to produce any evidence they acted wrongfully after being given tickets which local members had received.

"The union was the logical place for a worker to take an unjust ticket," the attorney said, adding "there is hostile attitude in every police station unless you know someone."

★ ★ ★

Prosecutor John Sheperd said he would have to consult with the Michigan attorney general's office before deciding whether to go ahead with trials of two other union men on the same charge.

Servicemen from Vietnam often spend their five days of rest and recuperation leave in Australia, which brings that country millions of dollars in revenue.

MOVING IN — The 100-story John Hancock Building in Chicago has its head in the clouds yesterday as tenants carry in personal belongings, including flowers and plants. The building is Chicago's tallest. Some offices were occupied for the first time yesterday, but parts of the buildings interior are incomplete.

Builder's Son 'Not Capable to Defend Self'

The son of wealthy Detroit builder Edward Rose yesterday was ruled "mentally incapable" of handling his own legal affairs and found in contempt of court for the second time in less than three months by Oakland County Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn.

The junior Rose has served time in jail on at least two other occasions rather than pay his wife's attorney fees in a divorce case.

Thorburn named Rose's father as his guardian and set Feb. 12 as the date for sentencing on the contempt citation. He ordered that the older Rose appear with his son at that time.

The judge acted after Rose, 39, of Detroit said he'd rather return to jail than pay $4,500 in fees to his wife's divorce attorney, Rowe A. Balmer of Bloomfield Township.

Thorburn sent Rose to jail for contempt last Nov. 13 after Rose refused to reveal his assets and insisted he would not pay other legal fees for his wife.

He was released Dec. 4 after the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled that Thorburn must hold new hearings in that case, which involved $20,000 in fees to another attorney.

Rose at his hearing has defended himself.

KOSYGIN

In 1967 Brooklyn Rabbi Abraham Barenboim unsuccessfully sought to hand a letter to Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin requesting that his brother and family be allowed to come to the United States.

Newspaper accounts of the incident prompted New York Mayor John V. Lindsay to write to Kosygin, citing the fact that the Barenboim brothers were the only survivors of a family all but wiped out by the Nazis during World War II.

Last year, Lindsay was informed by the Russian Embassy in Washington that Kosygin was working on the matter.

LINDSAY

Tuesday night, Rabbi Shloma Barenboim, his wife, two daughters and a son arrived by plane from Moscow to be reunited with Abraham Barenboim, who left Russia 28 years ago.

Yesterday they appeared at City Hall and presented the mayor with a bottle of vodka as a token of appreciation for the help he had given them.

Astronaut Schirra Honored by USC

SCHIRRA

Now it's Dr. Walter M. Schirra Jr.

Schirra, only astronaut to fly in the Mercury, Gemini and Apollo programs, received an honorary doctor of science degree from the University of Southern California yesterday in Los Angeles.

The presentation at USC's midwinter commencement cited Schirra's contributions to space research. He graduated from USC's Institute of Aerospace Safety and Management in 1957.

Art Carney Wants to Leave Sewer Behind

Television star Art Carney isn't interested in attending a sewage disposal plant dedication in Chandler, Ariz.

CARNEY

Carney, who has played sewer worker Ed Norton on the Jackie Gleason Honeymooners show for 10 years, turned down the invitation from Mayor George Nader because he "wants to dispel his association with the sewer man image," business manager William McCaffrey explained.

The mayor had even offered to engrave Carney's name on all the manhole covers in the city.

Victim of Rare Stroke Easter Seal Child

Seven-year-old Donna Kay Howell of Tallahassee, Fla., victim of a rare childhood stroke, has been named the 1969 National Easter Seal Child.

Choice of the pretty brunette was made yesterday by Sumner G. Whittier, executive director of the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

The society said Donna Kay has made a full recovery from a speech defect after a month of treatment.

The girl will join entertainer Carol Burnett, campaign chairman, in Washington, D.C., on March 1 to open the annual Easter Seal campaign.

Pakistan Leader Fears Starvation in World

Pakistan President Mohammad Ayub Khan, a strong advocate of family planning, says "the world is heading to a situation where it may not be possible to feed the entire population."

KHAN

Ayub spoke Tuesday before the opening session of an international family planning conference attended by 216 delegates from 30 countries.

Ayub, who has supported a family planning program in Pakistan despite opposition from conservative religious leaders, said developing countries were suffering most from harmful effects of population increases.

Dick Smothers Sued for Divorce

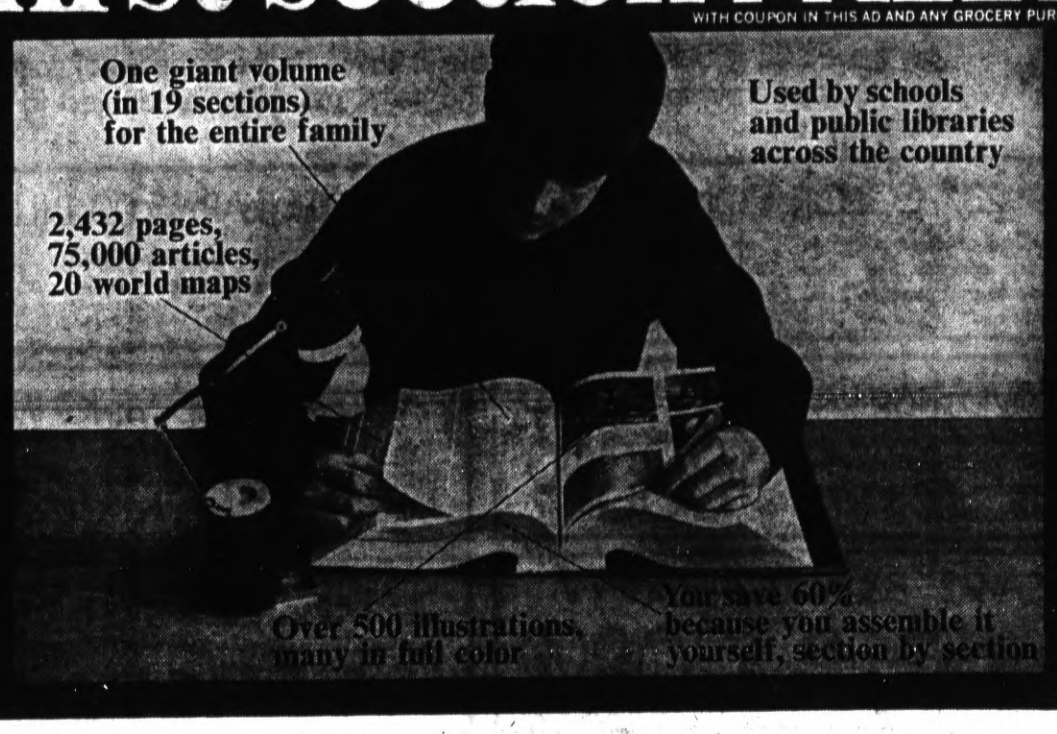

Singer-comedian Dick Smothers was sued for divorce yesterday by his estranged wife Linda, who charged mental cruelty. She said they were married in Salinas, Calif., in 1959 and separated in that city Nov. 25, 1967.

In the Santa Monica Superior Court suit, she asked support for herself and their children, Susan, 8; Richard, 4, and Stephen, 3. Mrs. Smothers also asked for custody of the children.

GI From Guam Cool to Snow

WEIDEN, Germany (AP) — When Sgt. Daniel Fejarang sees snow, he sees red.

Fejarang, 22, is from the warm island of Guam. He has gone to unusual lengths to avoid snow. The U.S. Army has been just as stubborn in bringing him back into contact with winter.

★ ★ ★

When he enlisted in the Army, he was sent to Germany after basic training.

"I was here three weeks when I knew this climate was not for me," he said. "So I volunteered for Vietnam."

EXTENDED TOUR

After a year in the 1st Division there, the Army again gave him orders for Germany.

"So I extended for another six months in Vietnam."

★ ★ ★

Then, more orders for Germany.

Fejarang was interviewed while on patrol along the Czechoslovak-West German border in the snowy Bavarian Woods. His teeth chattered and his nose ran but he kept a stiff upper lip.

"I've only got three months to go," he said, gulping hot coffee.

Bank to Serve as Trustee for Defense Aide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Bank of America said Wednesday it has been designated as trustee for the 3,550,150 shares of Hewlett-Packard stock owned by the new deputy secretary of defense, David Packard, and his wife.

Packard's large holdings in the electronics firm, which has many government contracts, was the subject of questions as to possible conflict of interest during Senate hearings on his confirmation.

★ ★ ★

The bank said the charitable trust, effective imediately, is for the duration of Packard's government service and for a minimum of two years and one month.

Control of the stock and all voting rights has been assured by the bank as trustee.

★ ★ ★

The announcement, made at Packard's request, said any increase in the capital value will be distributed to charitable and educational institutions and that the annual income of about $700,000 will be distributed to a score of colleges and other institutions.

Dock Strike Dents Baseball Supply

NEW YORK (AP) — If there is a shortage of baseballs when the cry "play ball" signals the start of the coming season, blame it on the dock strike.

It seems the Tober Baseball Co. in Rockville, Conn., is running out of its stock of baseballs because it is unable to ship the cores and cut leathers to Puerto Rico where they are sewn together.

★ ★ ★

The plight of the sporting goods manufacturer came to light in a shipper survey of industries affected by the 41-day-old longshoremen's strike.

Physicist to Talk

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. Samuel Devons, chairman of the physics department at Columbia University, will be the featured speaker at the Junior Science and Humanities Symposium to be held at Wayne State University Feb. 28. Devons will speak on "The Scientists's World and the World of Science."

Dig on Weather

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Montana's weather forecasters got an anonymous postcard which reads: "Sirs: I thought you would be interested in knowing that I have just shoveled three feet of 'partly cloudy' from my front steps."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Will Cary's Femme Fans Nix His Retirement Idea?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Has Cary Grant, who just turned 65, decided he should retire because he's now too old to get the girl?

His lady fans will rise up and yell "IMPOSSIBLE!" But Grant keeps telling friends that he might pack it in because he doubts whether it would be believable for a Mia Farrow (for example) to get excited over him.

WILSON

"After all, I'm eligible for social security and medicare," C. G. points out. Furthermore, he worries how he can be with his daughter Jennifer. Grant also enjoys his connection with Faberge, Inc. He's a director, has an office in the firm on W. 54th St., and makes personal appearances at sales meetings.

"They've asked me about doing 'La Mancha' but I haven't sung in years," he shrugs . . . So what do you girls think? Should Cary Grant be allowed to retire or should we force him to keep on making a loving?

Joseph E. Levine, whose film "The Graduate" has now grossed around $80,000,000 but can't get a hit Broadway show, took off for Acapulco prior to the opening of "The Mother Lovers" which he's backing. "Don't want to mar my record of unbroken flops," he reportedly said . . . Danny Stradella of Danny's Hideaway, "The Last of the Little Spenders" (5 feet 2), spends about $2,000 each time he takes those parties of 40 or so to the openings of Jack E. Leonard and others at the Copacabana.

(where he's a big hit) "Oh THAT Henny Youngmen" . . . Kids are picking it up and it'll become a catchphrase . . . George Hamilton and Elena Collins were striding down Broadway (outside the Ed Sullivan show) trying to decide which fancy restaurant to visit. They went to the Stage. George's off to Yugoslavia to film "Togetherness" with Peter Lawford.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Karl Malden's home in Mandeville Canyon, Hollywood, was threatened by the storm and he postponed a flight to NY en route to Spain to portray Gen. Omar Bradley in "Patton" . . . The TV Row jokesters who call the CBS Bldg. "Black Rock" now refer to the NBC-RCA Bldg. at 30 Rockefeller Plaza as "Dirty Rock" (from "30 Rock")

Gov. Rockefeller asked Pearl Bailey (at her USO Woman of the Year dinner at the 4 Seasons) to sing "Hello, Dolly." Pearl explained "that man in the mustache David Merrick)" wouldn't let her, "but if the governor asks me, I can't refuse." She sang it.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Fannie Flagg suspects a local restaurant isn't serving the freshest of foods. She opened a fortune cookie that read, "Best to you in '59."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's getting so, sighs Sam Levenson, that the only professional still making night calls is the burglar.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Genius is one per cent inspiration and 99 per cent perspiration." — Thomas A. Edison.

EARL'S PEARLS: There's talk of eliminating violence from TV. Well, there goes the 11 o'clock news.—Cobb Lake Breeze, Ft. Cobb, Okla.

Woody Allen admits he's not much of a drinker: "The other night I had two martinis, and tried to hijack an elevator to Cuba." . . . That's earl, brother.

Judge Denies 2 Citizenship

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Two women were denied citizenship by U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride who said that as Jehovah's Witnesses their religious beliefs show "they are not attached to the principles of the constitution."

MacBride said he turned down the petitions of Renate Marie Louise Nikola, 25, and Haesoon Koon Matz, 35, since they say they would refuse to vote, serve on juries, support a U.S. war effort or otherwise participate in governmental activities.

The judge said he could find no precedent to his Tuesday decision but "the granting of citizenship is a privilege and the burden is on the applicant to show his eligibility in every respect."

Mrs. Matz, a native of Korea, has lived in the United States since 1956. Mrs. Nikola, a German native, came here in 1950.

Teller: ABM Setup Needed

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Nuclear physicist Dr. Edward Teller said in Albuquerque Wednesday he still feels the United States needs a full antiballistic missile system.

But, he said, such a system might cost between $35 billion and $40 billion, and its deployment might be inaccurate.

Teller spoke at dedication of the world's two largest X-ray machines at the Air Force Special Weapons Laboratory at Kirtland Air Force base. He said the United States has "scandalously neglected civil defense. We are spending only one dollar on civil defense for every $1,000 we spend on other defenses," he said.

Portugal Town Gets Gold Rush

GOIS, Portugal (AP) — There's a gold rush atmosphere in this small village in the center of Portugal.

A gold streak was found nearby, would-be prospectors are flocking to the local registration offices and the town folk are dreaming of boom times.

★ ★ ★

Local inhabitants are hoping the find does as much for the town as the discovery of tungsten here did 30 years ago.

This is not the first time gold has been found in these parts. There is even a gold mine near Gois, but the company that owns it discontinued mining long ago because of the small profits.

★ ★ ★

Now the word is that the new discovery can lead to considerable exploitation, and might even prove important for the national economy.

Beekeepers in State Have Sweet Year

LANSING (AP) — 'Twas a sweeter year for Michigan beekeepers.

The State Crop Reporting Service says beekeepers report their 120,000 colonies produced some 9 million pounds of honey during 1968, nearly 5% per cent more than the previous year's small crop.

★ ★ ★

Crop value was set at $1.39 million, 54 per cent more than in 1967.

Yield per colony was 75 pounds, the service says, 25 pounds more than 1967 but only 1 pound more than 1966.

8th AMONG STATES

Colony numbers decreased 1 per cent from a year ago, and Michigan moved up three spots to eighth among all states in production of honey, the service reports.

Honey stocks on hand Dec. 15 for sale were estimated at 2.88 million pounds, 25 per cent more than on hand a year earlier, the service says. Beeswax production of 171,000 pounds was up some 40 per cent from a year ago.

★ ★ ★

The 1968 retail and wholesale extracted honey and all bulk honey prices averaged the same as 1967, 28 cents per pound for retail, 14 cents per pound for wholesale and 13 cents for bulk.

The comb honey price at 43 cents was 8 cents per pound above 1967.

A Look at TV

Campbell: a Good Time

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — If the quality of its comedy material can ever match the quality of its music, the new "Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour" will be one of the most attractive variety programs in television.

The premiere show of the CBS series opened with a hefty serving of song by Campbell, of course, and along came Bobbie Gentry and John Hartford. Before the 60 minutes had gone by they had covered most of the numbers that made their reputations and then some.

The Smothers Brothers were there—logically since they are not only the producers of the new series but it was from their summer replacement series that Campbell's career took off.

Campbell's attractive singing style and skill on the guitar are especially easy to take. Miss Gentry with her husky, true voice and John Hartford, whose sensitive, pensive face illuminates the sad lyrics of his ballads, are interesting to watch and hear.

A BETTER WAY?

The studio audience—or maybe it was a laugh track—screamed wildly at the comedy. However, it did seem that there must have been a better way to amuse the audience than to dress Tom Smothers in a cowboy suit and put him astride a real live hippopotamus which he treated like a horse. Or a better way to handle a monologue than to dress Pat Paulsen in an open-fronted shirt, put a guitar in his hands and make him read an overblown and almost desperate piece about the history of the folk song.

But as long as Campbell and his musical friends are prominently and actively in the program, it will be a good choice for Wednesday nights during the rest of the season.

The appearance of the Smothers Brothers on Campbell's show illustrates one of the curious convictions of producers who book guest stars on television shows. For some reason, they believe unanimously that it is a real treat for viewers to see singers and comedians who have weekly network series of their own as guests on other singers' and comedians' weekly series.

Thus we encounter Carol Burnett in a Lucy episode, and after awhile there's Lucy on Carol's show. Or Tom and Dickie Smothers show up on "Laugh-In." And pretty soon Dan Rowan and Dick Martin return the visit. The truth is, it's not much of a treat, and besides, it is bound to lead to overexposure of a special sort.

LONG SINCE STALED

Another TV custom which has long since staled is the business of having stars with a show coming up appearing on an assortment of programs on the same network for the sole purpose of plugging their project. The game shows and the early morning and late evening conversation shows are widely used for this purpose.

It seems that at least twice a week Johnny Carson must struggle with some performer awkwardly attempting to sell some TV product. Eydie Gorme was the most recent Carson guest with TV plugs on her mind, but she was better than most because she could at least sing a song or two. Too much of the time, the guest has little of interest to contribute—neither quick wit nor a good anecdote—and the viewer suffers right along with Carson.

Students of acting techniques will have an interesting demonstration tonight. Madeleine Sherwood will be seen in her regular comedy role in "The Flying Nun" on ABC at 8 EST, and an hour later she can also be seen in a serious, tragic role in CBS's rerun of the 1958 film, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

Jet Attack on Iraqis Is Denied by Israel

By The Associated Press

Iraq said seven Israeli jet fighters attacked Iraqi troops in Jordan today, but Israel denied it.

An Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv said: "I completely deny this report. I don't know what gave rise to it. There has been absolutely nothing like this along the cease-fire line."

Newsmen on the Israeli side of the line saw no sign of unusual air activity.

Baghdad radio said the planes attacked Iraqi units east of the cease-fire line with Jordan and that one Israeli jet was seen to plunge to the ground in flames.

The Iraqi report said:

"At 11:30 Baghdad time this morning, seven Israeli planes launched an air raid against our units operating on the eastern front.

"Our antiaircraft guns shot down one attacking plane. It was seen with the naked eye crashing in flames over the occupied Syrian Golan Heights. There were no Iraqi casualties."

A Jordanian broadcast said two Israeli fighters had violated Arab air space over the Jordan River but were driven off by antiaircraft fire.

Iraq had charged yesterday that Israel was preparing an attack in retaliation for the hanging of 14 Iraqis, nine of them Jews, convicted Monday of spying in Baghdad and Basra.

There has been an outcry in Israel, the United States and several European countries, condemning the executions.

Iraq has an estimated 20,000 troops in Jordan. They had been there since the Arab-Israeli war of June 1967.

Israeli planes strafed and bombed the Iraqi forces Dec. 4, killing six soldiers, according to the Iraqis.

★ ★ ★

Israel yesterday denied charges by Iraq that it was massing troops for attack on the Iraqi force in Jordan. At the same time, Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan cautioned his country it must give the government of Iraq no excuse to do more harm to 8,000 Iraqi Jews.

Along with denial from the Israeli army, foreign newsmen in Israel observed no unusual troop movements. Rain and snow blanked Israel and Jordan, imposing quietness on the cease-fire line.

Bell Plans $20 Million for Pontiac Area Growth

By DIANNE DUROCHER

Future development in the Pontiac area by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. includes the investment of more than $20 million in the next two years, said Kenneth J. Whalen, president of the utility, speaking at last night's 59th annual meeting of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

There is a new dimension in the growing responsibilities of businessmen in community affairs called social concern, Whalen said.

★ ★ ★

"Every businessman must get involved in an effort to solve current social problems, not only the large corporations but also the small businessmen," Whalen told the gathering of about 400 business and community leaders at the Elks Temple.

Involvement goes beyond demonstrations and card-carrying, he said; it calls for education, training and understanding.

UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM

Unemployment is one of the biggest problems to be met, he said, offering some suggestions on how the Bell system seeks to hire the hard-core unemployed.

Whalen said these people usually must be sought out because they feel a sense of alienation and sometimes employment examinations or requirements must be reevaluated.

★ ★ ★

"A minor brush with the law or lack of a high school diploma should not ban a person from being employed with the company," he said. "The company policy regarding the hiring of these employes must be understood all the way down the line," he added.

Whalen said that this new social concern of business makes it imperative to provide customers with the good quality and service they require because good service is vital to the community life.

EXPANSION, IMPROVEMENT

Referring to future development planned in the Pontiac area by Michigan Bell, Whalen said the $20 million-plus the company will spend over the next two years will expand and improve telephone service in Pontiac.

The outlay for 1969-70 includes the new $12.4 million, five-story building addition for Pontiac, for which ground was broken Jan. 7. The figure includes more than $9 million for central office switching equipment, much of it in the new building.

★ ★ ★

Other expenditures, for further building improvements and land acquisition, will reach nearly $6 million. Almost $3 million will be spent for new outside plant facilities, such as exchange cables and inter-office trunklines. Station equipment phones and lines to serve customers will amount to another $2.5 million, he said.

Whalen said, "Michigan Bell's investment here is based on your business achievements and all I can do is salute

Reds' Propaganda Hurts Talks—S. Viet

From Our News Wires

PARIS — South Vietnam warned the representatives of Hanoi and the Vietcong today that if they keep making propaganda speeches, there will be no progress toward peace at the Paris talks.

Saigon's Ambassador Pham Dang Lam lashed out at the opening of the second session of the four-party talks.

★ ★ ★

He told the delegates from North Vietnam and the Vietcong's National Liberation Front they had delivered "negative" statements at the opening of the conference last Saturday.

★ ★ ★

"I consider it necessary to remind you that we have come here not for disputes or propaganda, but in response to the legitimate aspirations for peace of the South Vietnamese people. If you persist in this negative attitude, no progress can be achieved on the road to peace."

ATTACKS CLAIM

He attacked the other side's claim to represent the Vietnamese of both North and South, charging that "they have placed themselves at the service of and under the domination of international Communism . . . imposed a severe dictatorship of the party . . and continued to reduce the population to growing poverty."

Today's peace talk session opened with an American pledge to quickly get down to business and consider "some of the real substantial questions."

★ ★ ★

Chief U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge told newsmen this morning that he would make three main points at todays meeting. They were:

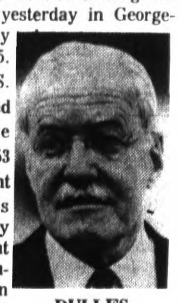

- Restoration of the buffer Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Vietnam. This was Lodge's opening porposal at last Saturday's first session, but the North Vietnamese turned it down.

★ ★ ★

- Withdrawal of both American and North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam.
- Exchange of prisoners.

Ex-CIA Chief Dulles Is Dead

WASHINGTON (AP)—Allen W. Dulles, former chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, died late yesterday in Georgetown University Hospital. He was 75.

DULLES

The former U.S. master spy headed the intelligence agency from 1953 until his retirement in 1961. He first was appointed chief by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and then asked to continue in his $22,000-a-year job by the late President John F. Kennedy.

job by the late President John F. Kennedy.

Dulles was a member of the Warren Commission that investigated Kennedy's assassination.

Dulles' resignation as CIA head came a few months after the Bay of Pigs fiasco. The White House said, however Dulles had planned to retire before the Cuban incident occurred.

BROTHER FAMOUS TOO

Dulles was a brother of the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Prior to his appointment as CIA head he served two years as deputy director.

A CIA spokesman said his death about 11 p.m. EST Wednesday resulted from complications following an attack of the flu and pneumonia.

Dulles earned his degree at Princeton University and entered the U.S. diplomatic service in 1916.

SERVED WITH OSS

He resigned in 1932 to enter private law practice in New York City. His first formal connection with intelligence work came during World War II when he served with the Office of Strategic Services, the CIA's predecessor.

House Committee Starts Tax-Law Review Feb. 18

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee, responding to mounting clamor for reform, has scheduled a sweeping review of the nation's tax laws.

Hearings expected to last several months are to start Feb. 18 with operations of tax-exempt foundations, already under congressional scrutiny, to be examined first. Deductions for charitable gifts will follow.

★ ★ ★

For later hearings, the committee announced an agenda, embracing the oil depletion allowance, stock options for executives, use of subsidiaries and trusts to reduce income and estate taxes, part-time farming losses charged off against other income and accellerated real estate depreciation.

The federal tax code has not been thoroughly restudied in 15 years.

DEMANDS BIPARTISAN

Demands for tax reform have taken a bipartisan look. Two days ago the Democratic National Committee announced it is preparing legislation to provide a minimum income tax for all high-income persons.

Today in New York, Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, top Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, added his support to reform, particularly to making all high-income recipients pay some sort of tax.

★ ★ ★

Alluding to a Treasury Department report that 155 tax returns showing incomes in excess of $200,000 resulted in no tax payments, Byrnes said:

"No matter by what device, no matter how laudable the nature of the deduction or exclusion that produces this result, the fact remains that there is no justification for these individuals being nontaxpayers."

★ ★ ★

Ways and Means chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., cautioned not to expect radical tax code revision this year.

But he added if the hearings disclose areas in need of change, the committee might go ahead with legislation on these without waiting for a full overhaul.

Big Quake Shakes Philippine Islands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Earthquake Information Center said a major earthquake shook much of the Philippine Islands early today.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman said the tremor, measuring 7.2 on the Richter Scale, was centered southeast of Mindanao Island about 750 miles south of Manila.

The location is in the same area where a damaging earthquake occurred last Aug. 2.

School-Race Policy Altered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch says the Nixon administration is against trying to force racial integration in schools by threatening to cut off federal funds.

Instead, Finch said yesterday, the policy will be to stress negotiations with local school districts.

★ ★ ★

The head of the Health, Education and Welfare Department laid down these guidelines in announcing that five southern school districts were being given an additional 60 days to comply with federal school-desegregation law.

As a result of action taken by the Johnson administration welfare secretary, Wilbur Cohen, federal funds were withheld yesterday from the schools in Mississippi and North and South Carolina because they failed to meet a deadline for desegregation plans.

★ ★ ★

Finch said formulation of his own policy came too late to halt the action.

The five schools systems involved are the Water Valley and South Panola school districts in Water Valley and Batesville, Miss.; Abbeville School District No. 60 and Barnwell School District No. 45 in those two South Carolina communities, and the Martin County School District in Williamston, N.C.

DST Trails by 550; Vote Probe Sought

LANSING (AP) — Daylight Savings Time still was losing by some 550 votes yesterday as state elections officials continued checking into the 1,501-vote margin by which the measure was defeated in the November election.

★ ★ ★

Some 220 more votes against the controversial issue were discovered in Delta County, reported an elections division spokesman. Some 85 precincts remained to be rechecked and recounts have already been conducted in some 2,600 precincts.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, a Republican state senator cited the recount on the controversial measure and asked for an investigation of matters relating to election precincts. Sen. Anthony Stamm, R-Kalamazoo, said "this condition raises doubts as to whether precinct sizes, staffing and procedures are adequate to meet the need for prompt and accurate reporting of election results."

Pueblo Skipper's Counterpart Calls 'Unarmed' Concept Good

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The skipper of a sister ship to the USS Pueblo says he still believes in the concept of unarmed intelligence craft, but he wouldn't again want to take one near Red China or North Korea.

Cmdr. Charles R. Clark, who commanded the Banner on missions off the mainland of Asia, outlined to a Navy court of inquiry yesterday a story that in some ways paralles the experience of Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher and the Pueblo, except the Banner was not seized by North Koreans.

SESSIONS IS OPEN

Clark took the stand in open session—the first in four days — after Rear Adm. Frank. L. Johnson, who supervised the Pueblo, said he had no forces under his direct command to provide emergency help when North Korean gunboats surrounded her a year ago and that planes and ships from other commands were unavailable or too far away. Johnson said the Pueblo's two .50-caliber machine guns "did not appear to me to provide a significant defense capability."

The court goes into closed session today to hear classified information.

★ ★ ★

Johnson, commander of the U.S. Naval Forces—Japan at the time, said planes could not operate out of Japan because of an agreement with that country forbiding use of Japan-based aircraft in engagements with unfriendly forces.

After Johnson described the forces availble to him, Rear Adm. Marshall White of the five-admiral court said: "Then we really had a contingency plan to use forces that didn't exist. There was no help available for her?"

Answer: 'No forces were available to me."

E. Miles Harvey, civilian attorney for Bucher, asked Clark: "Do you have any recommendations or thoughts or anything else that might bear on this investigation by this board?"

★ ★ ★

"Armament and weapons and how they are used have possibly been overemphasized," Clark said. "In my personal opinion, these ships should not have been armed.

"I don't think protective forces would do any good. I don't think they could have gotten there in time to be of any appreciable help."

FASTER IN FUTURE

Clark said he felt future intelligence ships should be faster and have compartmented construction so the ship would float in case of a ramming. Clark now is range safety officer at the Pacific missile range at Point Mugu, Calif.

Clark said he had been harrassed by Chinese and Russian vessels.

Clark said he thought he had an excessive amount of classified material on board and that he did not have adequate means to destroy it.

FREDERICK J. POOLE

Exec Is Added to Bank Board

Frederick J. Poole, president and general manager of the F. J. Poole Co. was added to the board of directors of the Community National Bank at yesterday's annual stockholders meeting. His election brings board membership to 12.

Poole of 1238 Heitch, Waterford Township, is president of the board of trustees for the Pontiac Area United Fund and a member of the board of directors of the YMCA; the Michigan Childrens Aid Society, Oakland branch, and the Michigan Mental Health Society, Oakland Chapter.

★ ★ ★

Reelected to the board were Louis H. Cole, David B. Eames, Warren H. Eierman, Robert R. Eldred, Robert C. Fisher, Harold A. Fitzgerald, Alfred C. Girard, Alfred R. Glancy Jr., Alfred R. Glancy III, Harold S. Goldberg and Howard W. Huttenlocher.

At the year end, total assets for the bank were $234,268,272 compared to $223,405,300 in 1967. Total loans increased from $120,852,485 to $134,872,311 in 1968.

Immediately following the annual meeting, the board reelected all members of the official staff.

Planning Board Opposes Bid to Vacate Alley

BIRMINGHAM — The city's planning board will recommend to the City Commission that a request to vacate an alley west of Woodward between Quarton and Redding be denied.

The vacation request was filed by A. L. Kassabian, 3481 Gunn, Oakland Township.

★ ★ ★

The Planning Board based its recommendation last night on reports from city police, engineering and planning departments advising against vacating the alley. The alley is a 20-foot right-of-way that serves three businesses and two utility substations.

Narcotics Raid in Detroit Nets 6 From County

Six area youths were among 15 arrested in a narcotics raid in Detroit last night.

Detroit police said the raid, which occurred in a Woodward Avenue apartment building at about 10 p.m., netted more than $75,000 worth of marijuana, LSD and other illegal drugs.

Police said Carol Ann Hamilton, 18, of 5871 Kenmoor, Bloomfield Township, was among three of the young people to be charged with narcotics law violations in Detroit Recorder's Court this morning.

Others to be charged with violating the narcotics law were Mark Johnson, 18, whose apartment was raided, and Mark Taylor, 19, of Mount Clemens.

LOITERING CHARGE

The other 12 arrested in the raid were to be charged in Traffic Court with loitering in a place of illegal occupation.

Police identified the area youths as Robert D. Peterson, 17, of 20306 Ronsdale, and Christopher Benson, 18, of 32440 Madison, both of Beverly Hills; William Lackner, 18, of 32577 Wing Lake, Franklin; James Mulhern, 18, of 460 Harmon, Birmingham; and Ronald Houser, 18, of 3190 Long Lake, West Bloomfield Township.

★ ★ ★

Others taken into custody included Paula Piccolo, 18; Terry Dougherty, 18; and Ronald Czarnecki, 21, all of the apartment building near Woodward and Bethune where the raid occurred; Diana Armistead, 18, of Monroe; and James Coblentz, 17, Andrew Cohen, 22, and Jenifer Cohen, 20, all of Detroit.

Police said the rail culminated a monthlong surveillance of the location, including alleged undercover purchases of narcotic materials.

A warrant for sale and possession of narcotics will be sought against Johnson, police said.

28 Back Bill to Fill State's No. 2 Post

LANSING (AP) — A bill which would fill a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor — such as the one now existing in Michigan — was introduced in the Senate yesterday with bipartisan support.

Introduced by Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, and endorsed by Senate Democratic chief Sander Levin of Berkley and 26 other senators, the measure would make the president pro tempore of the Senate acting lieutenant governor when a vacancy occurs.

★ ★ ★

Currently, a vacancy is filled by appointment of the governor with Senate consent. But Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has ruled the post cannot be filled when a lieutenant governor becomes governor, as William Milliken did Jan. 22.

If the measure won legislative approval, Rep. Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey, Senate president pro tem, would become acting lieutenant governor and draw the post's $22,500 annual salary while remaining a senator.

LONGER TERMS

Another proposed constitutional amendment introduced would extend the terms of state representatives from two years to four — a touchy political issue that failed of adoption in the House last year.

Introduced by three Democrats and two Republicans, the Senate measure would provide that House members be elected beginning in 1972 in years when there are presidential contests.

★ ★ ★

House Republicans rejected such a proposal in 1968, fearing the narrowly balanced chamber would swing to the Democrats if members were chosen in presidential election years.

Democrats, meanwhile, voted down a four-year measure providing election of House members in off-years. State senators already have four-year terms and are elected in off-years.

Plane Toll Is 4 in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Four persons including Wisconsin's adjutant general and his wife, were killed last night when a giant tanker plane crashed and burst into flames one-half mile south of Gen. Mitchell field.

Seven persons were injured in the crash of the Wisconsin Air National Guard KC97L of the 128th Refueling Group.

★ ★ ★

Maj. Gen. Ralph J. Olson, 64, had been Wisconsin's adjutant general for 18 years. The other victims were T. Sgt. Gerald, L. Becker, 31, Milwaukee, and Army Capt. Jerry Jerreman of Sun Prairie.

The plane, on a flight from Key West, Fla., was attempting to land in fog and rain, piloted by Col. Thomas L. Bailey, commander of the 128th and a veteran flyer who holds the Distinguished Flying Cross.

NECK BURNS

Bailey, 47, was hospitalized in fair condition with neck burns and possible smoke inhalation. Five of the other six survivors also were burned.

The battered fuselage of the plane continued to burn more than an hour after the crash which occurred shortly before 6 p.m. CST.

The main section of fuselage slid along frozen ground for a quarter of a mile, its trail marked by skid marks and pieces of debris.

The tower at Mitchell Field said conditions for an instrument landing were "fairly normal but at the minimum" with a ceiling of 200 feet and visibility of half a mile.

Crash Hospitalizes 2 From Waterford

One woman is hospitalized in critical condition and another in satisfactory condition after the car in which they were riding collided with an auto in Avon Township this morning.

In critical condition at Crittenton Hospital in Avon Township is Mrs. Joseph Fouts, 39, of 3321 Warringham, Waterford Township.

★ ★ ★

She was a passenger in a car driven by Doris I. Hutchings, 28, of 6174 Wilson, Waterford Township, who is in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said a car driven by Harold F. Carpenter, 57, of Almont failed to yield the right-of-way and was making an improper turn on to Livernois from westbound Walton at 6:35 a.m.

★ ★

Carpenter was treated at Crittenton and released.

Carpenter's car collided with the Hutchings vehicle, which deputies said was going through the intersection on eastbound Walton at about 35 miles per hour.

HISTORY MAKING

Commenting on the Jan. 7 groundbreaking for the new Michigan Bell addition, Whalen said, "As far as the records show, that's the first time in our company's history that we've broken ground twice for new central office facilities in the same community within a 10-month period."

★ ★ ★

He concluded that although the company is utterly committed to a new way of life in helping to solve the social problems of today it will not back off in bringing the best possible service to its customers.

"And I don't think any business should," he added.

Postal Strike in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Mail service in Britain's 19 biggest cities was brought near a standstill today by a 24-hour strike of postal employes. Nondial telephone service also was severely curtailed as the postoffice operates the telephones.

Area Man to Be Arraigned Tuesday in Skyjack Try

By JIM LONG

A west Bloomfield Township man accused of attempting to hijack a jetliner to Cuba earlier this month, will be arraigned Tuesday in U.S. Federal District Court in Miami.

Kenneth McPeek, 31, of 5615 Middle Belt will appear on the charge before Chief Judge Charles B. Fulton. The hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m.

McPeek will be represented by a court-appointed attorney, Richard G. Taylor of Miami.

Held in the Dade Count Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond, McPeek can plead either guilty or innocent to the charge, attempted air piracy, when he is arraigned.

SENTENCING DATE

If a guilty plea is entered Judge Fulton will set a sentencing date and order a presentence report from the probation department.

A trial date would be scheduled if McPeek pleads innocent and, in all probability, according to a court official in Miami, he would undergo psychiatric tests on the request of his attorney.

★ ★ ★

The tests would be conducted to determine if McPeek is mentally capable of assisting his attorney during the trial. If he is, the trial possibly could begin sometime in March, the court spokesman said.

McPeek was taken into custody by Dade County Sheriff's officers after a reported abortive attempt to alter the course of a Detroit-to-Miami flight on January 13.

LANDED IN MIAMI

His order was disregarded and the Delta Air Lines plane landed moments later without incident at the Miami International Airport.

Accompanying McPeek was his 3-year-old son from a previous marriage. The youngster was later turned over to his mother.

★ ★ ★

When police boarded the plane, they said, they found the shotgun he had used to threaten the stewardess laying at McPeek's feet. It was empty, but a box of shells was found nearby.

McPeek, reportedly unemployed at the time, had formerly worked for his father, Carl, who operates several gas stations in south Oakland County, and most recently for the Grand Trunk Western Railroad in Pontiac.

Blacks Are Slowly Gaining as Policemen

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The number of Negroes on big city police forces is slowly rising. How are the Negro policemen making out? What duties do they draw? Here's a report on their present status, based on a survey of major cities.)

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer

The Chicago police sergeant is black. He is well paid. And he is impatient for real equality on the force.

"At times, I feel almost like a brick in the structure of status quo," he said.

★ ★ ★

But after more than a dozen years on the Chicago police force, the sergeant isn't about to quit. For one thing, he earns $12,900 a year. Another reason may be equally compelling:

"It would be giving up ground gained," said the sergeant, who spoke on the condition that his name not be used.

GAINING STATUS

Negroes are slowly, sometimes painfully, gaining numbers and status on big city police forces. A survey of more than a dozen major cities shows only five that have 10 per cent or more blacks on active duty. More than half these cities have less than 5 per cent.

Baltimore has more than doubled the total of Negroes on its police force in two years. Now 11 per cent of its force of 3,333 is Negro.

★ ★ ★

Boston has added six Negro policemen in the past 12 months —to a total of 60 among 2,600.

In Chicago, 17 per cent—about 2,000—of the police force of 11,700 is black.

Philadelphia's police commissioner claims the best Negro percentage of any big city, 22.8 per cent—1,400 on a force of 6,750.

DROP AT MILWAUKEE

In March 1968 there were 1,475 Negroes on New York City's force and the Guardians, an association of Negro policemen, say 200 to 300 have been added since. There are almost 33,500 policemen in New York City.

But Milwaukee, a focal point of racial turmoil, has fewer Negroes on its police force than two years ago, despite a recruiting campaign.

★ ★ ★

Responsibilities assigned to Negroes on big city police forces have been expanding, also at an uneven rate.

"Only seven years ago, we couldn't have possibly put a Negro officer on duty at 12th and Main"—the heart of Kansas City's downtown business district, said Capt. E. L. Willoughby, head of personnel. "There wasn't even a place that would serve him food and the public would not have cooperated with him."

SITUATION CHANGES

Now:

"We have Negro officers in every division I can think of," Willoughby said. "They're in patrol cars, detectives, communications—even the K-9 Corps—and one is a helicopter pilot. They work in every part of the city."

In Charlotte, N.C., Negro officers formerly had to settle for tasks that would avoid placing them in contact with white citizens. Recently, for the first time, two of Charlotte's 23 Negro officers were assigned to motorcycle duty. Negroes are now assigned to every major bureau in the 395-man department, but only two have been promoted to sergeant.

★ ★ ★

"It tends to be demoralizing," a Negro officer said.

Being a policeman is a relatively new role for the Negro male. In many cities, he became a prime target for intense recruiting only after racial disorders brought attention to the need for better relations between the police and the Negro community.

The National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders said the "bad image of police in the Negro community" was one reason why more Negroes were not policemen.

STILL TROUBLESOME

In some black communities, that image may still be troublesome.

"They have no love for you," said Officer Willie J. Cunningham, 31, a recent addition to the San Francisco force, which includes 1,718 whites and 77 Negroes. "They think they'll have just as much trouble with black officers. They tend to think of you as a bigger 'pig.'"

"We're the 'honkies' to the militants in the black community," said Deputy Herbert A. Craigwell, the highest-ranking Negro on the Boston force.

"The general attitude of the black community toward the department is negative," said Officer Emmett Hill, a Negro who works full time as a recruiter for the Dallas police.

STIGMA ATTACHED

Eight Negroes joined the Dallas force in 1968. Dallas now has 24 Negroes on a force of 1,500 men.

Capt. John Kestler, commander of personnel and training for Indianapolis police, said that among Negroes, there remains "a stigma attached to being a policeman."

★ ★ ★

The stigma, said the Rev. Kenneth Bowen, a Negro minister serving as community relations specialist for the Milwaukee, Wis., police, is traceable in part to the rural South.

Substantial numbers of Negro families have roots there, and bitter memories of hostile police treatment, Bowen said.

HARDENS BAD CONCEPTS

"Then up here, they see police ride around with shotguns in their cars, or see them bust a boy over the head, or poke a woman in the ribs for not moving from a bus stop. All this does is entrench and harden already bad concepts of a policeman."

Milwaukee's force of 1,100 men included 50 Negroes two years ago. Now despite recruiting efforts, there are 35.

★ ★ ★

"There is a racist element in the police department," said Cleveland's safety director, Joseph McManamon. "I'm not saying that all the police department is racist, but there is a racist element."

Cleveland has 165 Negroes on a force of 2,150. The total includes six sergeants, 140 patrolmen, 19 policewomen.

DIFFICULT ASSIGNMENT

Oakland, Calif., a power base of the militant Black Panthers, has 27 Negroes on a police force of 647 men.

It isn't always easy for a Negro policeman to arrest another Negro, especially when he is one of only a handful of Negroes on the force.

★ ★ ★

"Don't go playing the white man's game" is the advice sometimes given to Charlotte's Negro officers in arrest situations, said that department's community relations officer, Rudy Torrance.

"You just have to turn him off by saying 'Yes, I'm your color, but I'm not your kind.'"

UNEQUAL ENFORCEMENT

The Negro sergeant in Chicago observed that the law is not always enforced equally in Negro communities.

"Certain adventure-seeking, thrill-seeking young officers," the sergeant said, "actually seek assignment to the ghetto."

★ ★ ★

One white officer, he said, carried with him a sawed-off shotgun until threatened with suspension.

"He still carries a high-powered pistol under his coat in addition to his other sidearm, plus weighted gloves. You know. The kind with lead in them. And he acts solely, singularly, against black men and he's still assigned to that area."

TYPE DIMINISHING

"This kind of thing is diminishing. There were times when it seemed that every other officer was that way," the sergeant said.

"We need more black officers," said San Francisco's officer Cunningham. "The black community feels that whites are against them. Black officers can deal with Negroes in certain ways that white officers can't."

SERVE IN NEGRO AREAS

Philadelphia Commissioner Rizzo apparently agrees. "Naturally, we try to assign Negroes to Negro neighborhoods, and most of the policemen serve there," he said.

★ ★ ★

Now Philadelphia is no longer conducting a special recruitment drive for Negro policemen. Rizzo maintains, "There has been a fantastic improvement" in police-community relations.

★ ★ ★

Said Officer Joseph Watts, 23, one of the latest Negro additions to the Philadelphia force: "The friends that I have who are considered very militant, and sometimes extremely antiwhite, feel that I am doing my job to protect people and that I will not be trying to take advantage of anyone, especially blacks."

"Our Negro turnover is not as high as the white turnover," said Supt. George Royal in Atlanta. Twenty per cent of Atlanta's force is Negro. The city began hiring Negroes in 1947.

GOOD POLICEMEN

"We're looking for good policemen. We're employing good policemen. Color is incidental," said Police Chief Herbert Jenkins, a member of the national commission that studied racial disorders.

Atlanta has been assigning Negroes through all parts of the department. Capt. Howard Baugh, a Negro, recently headed the night watch, supervising 160 men, black and white.

★ ★ ★

"I'd be tickled to death if my son became a policeman," Baugh said.

If he does, Los Angeles would probably like to hire him.

In that city, riot-wracked in 1965, a public relations campaign is under way to improve community relations and induce Negroes to join the force. Five per cent of the city's policemen are Negroes, a one per cent gain in two years.

SIMILAR CAMPAIGN

A similar campaign is being tried in Kansas City where a white-black team dubbed the "Brown Brothers" tours schools and youth groups and appears on billboards and posters.

"I always tell people the only difference between John (a Negro) and me is that John wears a moustache," said Officer Jim Brown, who is white.

★ ★ ★

In Baltimore, where stepped-up recruiting and improvement in community relations appear to have coincided, William R. Morrissey, director of public information, said the police are now getting support in the Negro press.

"This is because of the service the black community is getting now. It's equal service. There's been evidence of renewed confidence, their complaints being investigated and resolved," Morrissey said.

There may even be reason to believe that eventually black militants will no longer discourage Negroes from joining police forces.

"They still come around," said Patrolman Elton Huff, 28, a Baltimore policeman for the last eight months. "We still have parties and get-togethers. Only thing they do is constantly remind me which cause they have and remind me not to kick it."

★ ★ ★

"The name-calling has ceased," said the Chicago sergeant. "The vocal expressions like 'Uncle Tom' have lost their glamor.

"There seems to be a new maturity, an understanding that says, 'We'd rather have you there than one of them.'"

Rx from a Bedroom Specialist

How to buy a bedroom set

1. Be sure tops are solid core, not hollow. Listen for a solid sound when you tap. Sides must be wood, not masonite.
2. Check to see that legs are bolted on or are an integral part of the furniture. Legs that are merely screwed on permit case to shake when drawers are closed.
3. Open drawers and see that they are dovetailed front and rear. This means the wood is interlaced like fingers clasped. Drawers must have a center guide for smooth operation.
4. See that there is a dustproof shield between each drawer to keep contents dust-free and fresh.
5. Good mirrors are plate glass and, when mounted on dresser, must be held by steel supports.
6. If the set you choose does not have every item listed here, don't buy it!

In Valley Model for Communism

Cuban Farm Changeover Slow

SAN ANDRES DE CAIGUANABO, Cuba (AP) The government is making slow progress converting the private farmer to full communism in this model valley where Fidel Castro is creating his "new man."

"There is no problem with the sons and daughters," says a Communist official who works in the experimental plan. "The problem is their fathers."

★ ★ ★

Since Castro inaugurated the San Andres plan two years ago, 42 of the valley's 960 private farmers have turned over their property to the state. Communist leaders are confident the private farmer eventually will come around. They add that it has been Castro's policy never to put official pressure on the small farmer, a contention supported by the fact that more than 120,000 farmers still own small parcels of land in Cuba.

The paradox in San Andres is that the turnover to the state has not been more rapid in the midst of its Communist-oriented society.

AGRICULTURAL WOE

One possible explanation is the country's continuing food shortage.

The small farmer, whose per-unit production still exceeds the state's, can grow all the food he wants for his family before selling to the government. At the same time, his family is entitled to the benefits of nonproperty holders in San Andres—free education, medical care and entertainment. He pays no rent and gets free seed and fertilizer.

★ ★ ★

Prices at which he must sell his excess production also are a factor. The government, for example, pays him 4 cents per pound for malanga, a favorite root vegetable now available only to children. The government sells it for 7-8 cents per pound, the price the farmer would have to pay if he bought it in the grocery as a nonproperty owner.

Most of these farmers were sharecroppers before Castro came to power in 1959 and turned the land they were working over to them as part of his agrarian reform program. The biggest private farm is now about 70 acres and smallest about 15. Of the valley's 40,000 acres, about half are still privately owned. The land, in westernmost Pinar del Rio Province, formerly belonged to three owners, including one American.

PEOPLE'S WELFARE

Castro opened San Andres on Jan. 28, 1967, the birthday of Cuban revolutionary apostle Jose Marti. He called San Andres "what we hope to see in a great part of the country and if possible throughout the country by 1975." The other projects have been completed, but current hard times indicate a slowdown in such development this year.

Since San Andres began, the government has constructed 29 small schools, two boarding schools, nurseries and a health center, laundry, central kitchen, recreation center and 50 of a planned 600 homes.

★ ★ ★

It has organized 26 agricultural cooperatives, planted 1½ million coffee plants, 4 million hardwood trees, 2 million precious wood trees and set up a poultry farm with 30,000 chickens. A rabbit-raising program is under way. About 700 acres are devoted to hog production. The principal and traditional crop of the area is tobacco.

For adults, the government operates a literacy program. The average male earns $6 daily; the average woman, $3.50.

FREE PARTICIPATION

Private farmers and their families are eligible to participate in San Andres society without problems and do so, say Communist officials.

Education is heavily oriented toward Communism and the "new man," a selfless individual who works for the community good without thought of material reward.

★ ★ ★

"The traditional methods of punishment are of no value here," says a teacher. An offender, he adds, "may be deprived of the privilege of participating in common work."

This approach is reserved for the young, but the private farmer also gets his ideological dosage from the Association of Small Farmers, whose director is a member of the Central Committee of the Communist party.

★ ★ ★

A San Andres worker says he thinks "the pressure of our society" eventually will convince the private farmer to give up his land. A Communist official says the farmer's "revolutionary consicence" will turn the trick.

Study Shows Tire Failure Is Minor Accident Factor

DETROIT (UPI) — Three years ago, an executive of one of the world's largest tire companies claimed that tire failure was involved in less than 1 per cent of automobile accidents.

His claim has been borne out by a preliminary study made by an independent safety research organization.

Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory at Buffalo, N.Y., which has been conducting research for 16 years, recently concluded an intensive 13-month study of tire conditions on a number of cars involved in injury-producing accidents.

The C-A-L researchers emphasized that since the study was concentrated in one rural area, in North Dakota, the findings might not necessarily apply to the condition of tires in all areas of the country. But it added "The results, however, do provide clues concerning the nature of the problem."

The study showed that about 10 per cent of the tires on cars involved in the injury-producing accidents were worn to unsafe conditions.

The researchers said the study suggested that tire failure, such as a tire blowout, could have been a factor in causing the accident in only about 1 per cent of the highway mishaps.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK PHILLIPS

Fete Couple on 50 Years

A party for family and friends Saturday evening will honor Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips of Walled Lake on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Hosting the event in Novi Community Hall, for the couple wed Feb. 5, 1919 in Detroit, are their two sons, George and Howard Phillips, both of Wolverine Lake. The honorees have three grandchildren.

To make a tastier and more appetizing meat pie, add three-fourths of a teaspoon of celery seed to the pastry recipe, using one and one-half cups of flour.

Beauty's Eye Is Focused on Lower Lashes

Beauty fashion continues to focus on the eyes, but there is a new center of attention — the eyelashes along the lower lid.

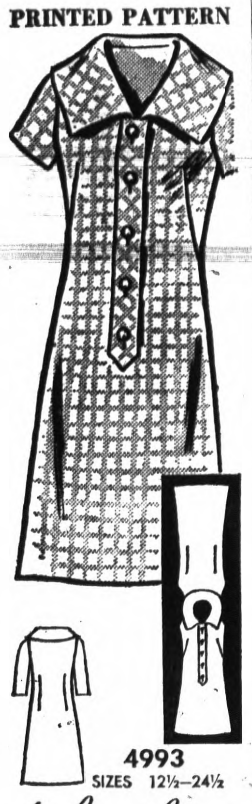

Fashion dictates that these lower lashes be made to appear as long and as full as possible — a look of beauty that is extremely soft and feminine.

★ ★ ★

A beauty authority suggests this technique to create the desired fashionable effect: Use fluid eyeliner, cake eye-liner or eyebrow eye-liner pencil in a brown shade to add a series of little dots or lines under your eyes. Intermittent markings create a softer effect than would a continuous, unbroken line.

Then, apply mascara carefully, but generously to your lower lashes — and the total effect will be simultaneously as new as tomorrow and as romantic as the violets and old lace of yesteryear.

Dental Care

Child's First Visit Has Lasting Effects

By Dr. HOWARD E. KESSLER

Teeth play a big role in a child's life.

An authority in the psychological aspect of child care tells me that "next to toilet training, children are more conscious of their teeth than anything else."

KESSLER

When the tot receives his first toothbrush, he usually feels that the event is a milestone toward becoming a big person.

★ ★ ★

The first few visits to the dental office and the first few visits to school are among the most important experiences in the young life of a child.

Educators try to make the first days in school as pleasurable as possible for the youngster. The first day in kindergarten usually is a get-acquainted time amid pleasant surroundings geared toward making the child want to return the next day.

In recent years the Head Start program gives the child a smooth acquaintanceship with school procedures before he even gets into kindergarten.

FIRST VISIT

Like the educators, dentists also try to make the first visits to the dental office as pleasureable as possible. It is advisable to have the youngster make his first visit to the dental office with nothing urgent needing to be done.

In this way the dentist and the young patient can get off to a good start in establishing a trusting, friendly relationship.

During this initial visit the dentist can show the child the mouth mirror and other little instruments that he will be using in future appointments.

If the youngster is permitted to hold a few of the instruments, they will be less strange when they are later used on him.

★ ★ ★

In some cases the dentist may want to clean the new little patient's teeth or take X-rays on this first appointment.

These beginning visits to the dentist are so very important because they are often remembered for a lifetime.

I have met adults who are reluctant dental patients because of some unfortunate thing that happened to them as a child when they went to a dental office for the first time.

Nature Warns Us About Our Vanishing Lakes

Algae, minute and one-celled, ride the summer waves of every waterway in America. They colonize in stagnant sloughs of rivers and gather in backwaters behind dams. Under a microscope, these tiny and rather attractive plants appear innocent enough, yet they can quickly cover a bay with scum, form hairy filaments to enslime a rocky shoreline, or clog an entire lake. With life-spans of only a few days, algae can make any lake grow old thousands of years before its time.

To realize their immense potential for harm, however, algae depend on man. It takes man to speed up natural eutrophication, the normal process of enrichment and aging undergone by bodies of fresh water. By fertilizing thenation's waters with the nutrients vital to algae growth and reproduction, primarily nitrogen and phosphorous, we turn eutrophication into an accelerated, cultural process — cultural in that we are perverting nature with municipal sewage, industrial wastes, agricultural drainage, and other odious byproducts of our civilizaion. Cultural eutrophication, therefore, is an aberration: a natural process running amok.

In enriching the water with the nutrients in sewage, groundwater, and urban and rural runoff, we promote the exponential reproduction of alga becomes 2 algae, then 4, alga becoes 2 algae, then 4, 16, 256 — multiplying until there are billions. And during such a population explosion, lakes become murky and fetid under the August sun, while wave-tossed weeds, bloated fish, and dead algae rot in shoreline windrows.

More than one-third of America's 100,000 lakes are showing signs of cultural eutrophication. The danger of accelerated eutrophication continues to grow as our population makes greater demands on natural water resources, and lakes continue to take on the eutrophication syndrome. Besides showing the symptoms of excess nutrients and algae bloom, they are characterized by the depletion of dissolved oxygen in deeper waters, a change from coldwater game fish to "rough" bottom feeders, and the encroachment of rooted vegetation from shore.

DEFINITE SEQUENCE

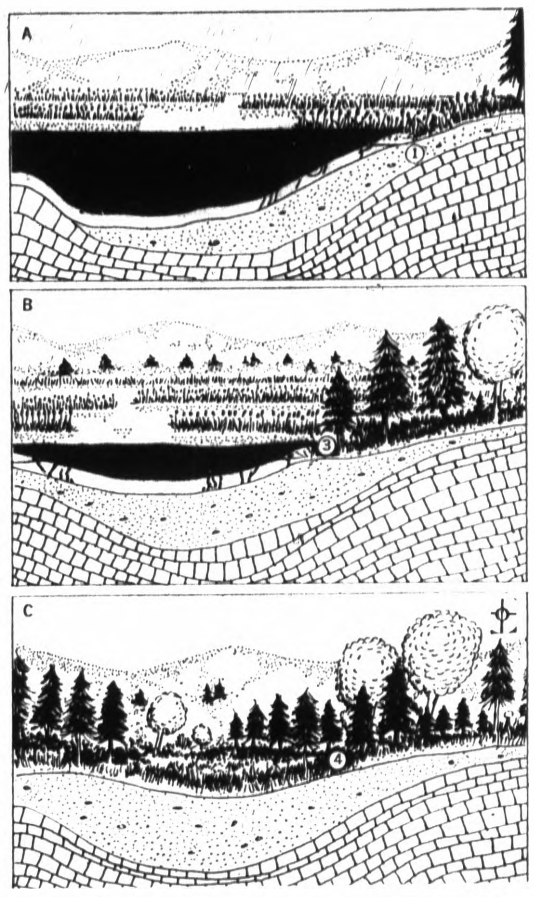

The appearance of these symptoms follows a definite sequence. First, the algae population skyrockets in a man-fertilized lake. Water fleas (miniature freshwater shrimp), the staple in the diet of fry and minnows, cannot eat enough algae to keep these plants in check. As a result, billions of algae live their languid lives, reproduce, and then die. As they drift toward the bottom, their decomposing bodies exhaust the deepwater oxygen supply. Trout, whitefish, and other fish species suffocate in the oxygen-thin depths.

The lake's ecology, initially upset by excess nutrients, then becomes totally upended, since bacteria can convert only some of the dead algae into plant and animal food. Therefore, generation after generation of algae settle on the bottom, adding layer after layer to the muck. The rate of sedimentation is most rapid in a northern lake where bacteria grow only during the summer while nutrients are added throughout the year. As erosion and sedimentation fill in the lake, shoreline vegetaion impinges on the open water. In time, the lake becomes so shallow and overgrown that it becomes a marsh or bog. The accelerated process of aging has taken its toll: the lake's life is ended.

Cultural eutrophication is not new, nor is it solely an American problem. Recent core samples of an Italian lake indicate that ancient Roman road builders caused eutrophication by exposing nearby nutrient-rich limestone strata to erosion.

By the latter part of the 19th century, a few scientists in Europe and the United States, alarmed about cultural eutrophication, issued warnings that went unheeded. In 1896, on Switzerland's Lake Zurich, the problem finally received notice, and during the 1920s and 30s worldwide scientific interest began to focus on the problem. But research without implementation is impotent, and by the 1940s eutrophication was no longer confined primarily to farm belts and urban areas. It had followed urban man in his quest for recreation into the wilds.

DEATH OF A LAKE—The aging and disappearance of a lake is shown in the above three pictures. Shore-line runoff (top) brings eroded soil and plant nutrients into the lake, aquatic vegetation (center) flourishes and dies to add to debris on the bottom, and marsh plants and water-tolerant conifers (bottom) grow on the shore and eventually the lake is filled with forest vegetation.

LAKE ERIE A SUMP

It took the visual (and olfactory) impact of a huge body of water, Lake Erie, suffocating as a sump for industrial waste, sewage, and urban and rural runoff to bring the problem of water pollution dramatically to the public eye. Some now pronounce Lake Erie "dead." We, however, extend hope for recovery. For if communities and industries in Lake Erie's drainage basin cease polluting and fertilizing its waters, and if a cleansing flow from Lake Huron is permitted to reach and "flush out" the lake via the Detroit River, Erie might show signs of recovery within a decade. True, our hope is contingent upon many "ifs." However, it cannot be too strongly emphasized that these situations are reversible — that bodies of water will respond when the right steps are taken.

There is reason to fear for the other Great Lakes, together the greatest reservoir of clean fresh water in the world. Although Lake Superior and Lake Huron bear only a few signs of eutrophication so far, alarming amounts of DDT and other persistent toxic pesticides have been detected in the highly prized flesh of lake trout caught in their waters.

★ ★ ★

Lake Michigan is also deteriorating rapidly from increasing effluents and may soon go the way of Erie. The stench of algae and weeds decaying on beaches, compounded by the wave-borne plague of dead alewives, makes eutrophication impossible to ignore in this once pure lake. Such cities as Muskegon, Gary, Chicago, Milwaukee, and Green Bay realize that the fate of Lake Michigan — to which they once owed their existence — is now uncertain.

Stewart L. Udall, former Secretary of the Interior, said a year ago that there is still time to save Lake Michigan, but warned that further delay in action would prove fatal. His statement is admittedly, and of necessity, vague, but it is correct.

OUTLOOK UNCERTAIN

The long-range outlook here is not encouraging because the mitten-shaped lake isn't in the mainstream of Great Lakes water circulation, and thus receives very little cleansing flow. Its tributaries carry heavy nutrient loads to its shallows, and consequently, along Michigan's southern rim scientists have found 44 times more phosphorus (in the form of sewage effluent and industrial waste) than the lake can handle.

Lake Michigan's fate would have been decided long ago had Chicago's engineers and city fathers lacked the foresight and imagination to reverse the lakeward flow of the Chicago River and channel it into the Illinois River, a tributary of the Mississippi. The metropolis now draws water from the lake, and discharges sewage effluent into the altered river system. As is sometimes the case in such diversion operations, they have alleviated their own problem but have contributed to the water problems of St. Louis and other cities located farther down the Mississippi.

While concern for the future of the Great Lakes intensifies, distress is being voiced over eutrophication on many smaller bodies of water. Fishermen complain that dense mats of algae and rooted weeds make trolling for pike impossible, and that the few fish they do manage to catch are too tainted to eat. A summer cottager realizes that he will be landlocked if his bay becomes any shallower, and a concerned parent forbids her youngsters to wade in the green slurry of algae.

To stop cultural eutrophication, the sources of nutrients for algae growth and reproduction must be pinpointed. A 1967 survey, representative of the Midwest, indicates that 6 per cent of the nitrogen and 2 per cent of the phosphorus reaching Wisconsin waters come from septic tank seepage. Twenty-five per cent of the phosphorus come from municipal sewage treatment plants. Runoff from manured fields accounts for 10 and 22 per cent of these elements, while urban runoff supplies 6 and 10 per cent. Groundwater and direct rainfall on Wisconsin bodies of water contribute, respectively, 42 per cent and 9 per cent of the nitrogen, but together less than 4 per cent of the phosphorus. Industrial wastes which bypass municipal treatment are a source of trace amounts of each of these chemical substances.

EXHAUST, SMOKE

The nitrogen contribution of groundwater and rainfall will continue to be significant as long as automobile exhaust and industrial smokestacks keep spewing nitrogen into the atmosphere. Rain, in cleansing the air, picks up this nitrogen and deposits it directly into lakes and streams or indirectly in groundwater. Nitrogen-laden rain falling on land also percolates down to the subterranean water table, the level of groundwater.

It must be remembered that the natural rate of eutrophication is the base rate for cultural eutrophication. Moreover, the natural rate depends on whether the soil in a lake's drainage basin is rich or poor in nutrients. For this reason, thousands of lakes in a nutrient-poor belt stretching from northern Minnesota and Ontario to Maine and Quebec have changed very little since the last glacier retreated 10,000 years ago. Found in sandy or granitic terrain and unspoiled by man, these deep lakes have kept their gin-clear purity and their youth — they are oligotrophic. However, should we disturb their basins and fertilize their waters, they would immediately undergo cultural eutrophication.

Seepage from the septic tanks of just a few summer cabins and resorts, for example, is rich enough in nutrients to speed up the aging process. Cochran Lake, once a pure gem set in the northern Wisconsin wilds, has deteriorated so rapidly since the first of seven cottages was built on its shores ten years ago that it now looks like a 300-acre caldron of pea soup.

Lakes with large drainage basins in limestone terrain, which is usually high in phosphorus, are far more likely to show their age than lakes in granitic or sandy basins. Because of their high nutrient content, they become shallow and die under encroaching cattails, reeds, and marsh grasses. But even though such lakes are already highly fertilized through natural means, whenever man is present his actions become the determining factor in the rate at which lakes fill in. Unless septic tank seepage is stanched, Cochran Lake — and thousands of other lakes in the resort areas of north United States, Canada, Scandinavia, and the Alps — will be ruined.

MUNICIPAL SEWAGE

While faulty septic tanks are a major source of nutrients in rural regions, their over-all contribution does not approach that of municipal sewage treatment plants. It has been estimated that 260 million pounds of phosphorus and 511 million pounds of nitrogen reach the nation's surface waters in the form of municipal sewage each year. Substantial amounts of these plant nutrients are discharged in effluent even after sewage is treated. As much as 75 per cent of the phosphorus in sewage comes from detergents. In addition to phosphorus and nitrogen, vitamins, amino acids, and growth hormones have been found in effluent — substances which contribute to the growth of algae and weeds. These growth stimulants are synthesized inadvertently in the biological processes of sewage treatment.

Since cities and villages across the country are rather impartial in dumping their sewage, rivers too are receiving their share of nutrients for eutrophication. This is most obvious wherever rivers have been dammed and currents slowed enough to give algae a chance to multiply. Because most of the nation's rivers have been systematically converted into series of impoundments since the 1930's, cultural eutrophication in these man-made lakes is now a common problem.

★ ★ ★

Algae blooms foul many of the man-made lakes in the TVA system, as well as the backwaters of hydro-electric dams on the Missouri and Snake rivers. The Mississippi — "father of waters" — carries partially treated sewage from Minneapolis and St. Paul forty miles downstream to Lake Pepin where algae thrive on sewage nutrients. As algae die and settle to the bottom with other sediments, the sluggish lake become shallower, increasing the possibility of spring flooding at Winona, Minn., and other downriver towns.

Formidable as it is, cultural eutrophication isn't inevitable. For example, five years ago officials from 70-plus local government bodies became alarmed about algae slime at sewage outlets on Lake Tahoe on the California-Nevada border, touted as one of the clearest lakes of North America. With the entire Tahoe basin's livelihood — tourism and gambling — at stake, they banded together and consulted sanitary engineers and limnologists. The prescribed cure: sewage treatment and diversion.

STEP TAKEN

The South Tahoe Utility District, spurred by action committees of panicked businessmen, obtained a $10 million grant from Washington, raised another $9 million, and this year built a plant to treat sewage and a pipeline to carry effluent over a mountain pass to an irrigation reservoir. In diverting the effluent from the lake basin, the South Tahoe district provided California desert farms with nutrient-rich water. Meanwhile, the 42 voters of Round Hill, Nev., (most being gaming-house owners) floated a $5.8 million bond for their own sewage treatment-diversion project, fearing that smelly scum would hurt business at their lakeshore casinos and hotels. And if other Tahoe communities act right now, eutrophication should never smirch the lake's reputation for clarity — at least not for several thousands of years.

Diversion is currently the most effective measure we have to combat eutrophication, since it immediately deprives nusiance vegetation of nitrogen, phosphorus, and other nutrients. Moreover, until some technological breakthrough occurs in sewage treatment — now far from a completely effective process — diversion will continue to be the logical approach.

Sanitary engineers haven't yet found a process, chemical or bio-chemical, that offers an economical alternative to diverting effluent around lakes. Nevertheless, research is being pressed throughout the country. A pilot plant, for example, has been built to test a chemical process at Ely, Minn., the launching point for canoe trips into the Superior National Forest. Research teams have investigated the feasibility of using algae to remove nutrients from effluent. The plan is to grow algae in effluent-filled ponds until they have consumed all the nutrients. Then the algae would be harvested and the nutrient-poor effluent discharged directly into a lake, obviating the need for diversion. The researchers, in practice have been stymied by several technical problems: for one, how can algae be put to use? Unfortunately, there is no demand for algae as a fertilizer or as an animal food.

While the logic of diverting effluent is obvious, particularly in light of the shortcomings of sewage treatment, it often hasn't been accepted. Opponents of diversion in Madison, Wis., for instance, argued that run-off from manured farmland — not municipal sewage — was the chief cause of eutrophication in Lake Monona, one of four lakes linked by the sluggish Yahara River. Nevertheless, soon after Madison began diverting all of its effluent around Lake Monona in 1936, the amount of copper sulfate needed to kill algae dropped from carloads to a few handfuls by 1956.

SENSE OF RESPONSIBILITY

As Madison learned in the late 1930's, diversion requires a sense of responsibility and a regard for down-stream communities. That city, in sparing Lake Monona, poured its effluent into Lake Waubesa and indirectly into Lake Kegonsa. This half-measure promptly fertilized their waters. Residents, enraged by the proliferating algae that threatened to ruin their lakes, sued the city. In 1941 legislators passed an antipollution bill aimed at Madison. Gov. Julius Heil, however, vetoed it on the ground that there was no consensus on the main cause of eutrophication. Although the bill was later enacted, it was not until 1959 that Madison's effluent was diverted completely from Waubesa and Kegonsa.

Foes of diverting sewage plant effluent around Seattle's Lake Washington to Puget Sound claimed that farm runoff was responsible for cultural eutrophication just as had been claimed in Madison — even though the 24-mile long lake was absorbing the effluent of ten treatment plants by 1950. In this case, it took the lavender bloom of Oscillatoria rubescens, the same algae that discolored Lake Zurich, to awaken the public Mass apathy dissolved, but a welter of conflicting opinions too its place and for a time threatened to defeat the attempts to divert sewage around Lake Washington.

Eventually, 5,000 women, backed by the Municipal League and the League of Women Voters, went from door to door, mustering support for a bond issue to be used for diversion. Recently, voters reversed the stand they took in 1956 and approved the bond issue and a charter for a new metropolitan governmental body that would cope with the sewage problem. Although the diversion project hasn't been completed, the picturesque lake is nearly as clear as it was eighteen years ago. Its clarity should continue to improve as its effluent is diverted to the tide-washed sound.

Diversion projects are sometimes condemned as costly boondoggles, since rainfall inevitably contributes so much nitrogen to lakes, whether or not diversion is practiced. Critics, however, fail to consider, or choose to ignore, the fact that municipal sewage — not rainfall — is the major source of phosphorous, the other stimulant of cultural eutophication.

NO STANDARD CURE

There is no standard remedy for ailing lakes. Diversion is no cure-all. It has disadvantages in addition to its expense and capacity for creating or aggravating water problems elsewhere. Diversion can negate itself, particularly in water-scarce regions where sources of clean water that might have flushed lakes clean have been channeled instead into diversion systems to carry away sewage effluent. Thus, the advantage of diverting effluent is sometimes offset by the disadvantage of diverting potentially cleansing inflows. Engineers, aware of this drawback, are exploring the possibility of using "infertile" water from the Columbia River to rinse Moses Lake in central Washington.

Harvesting weeds and fish to remove nutrients from fertilized lakes promises to supplement diversion projects very effectively. Seining crews, for example, hauled 40 pounds of carp per acre from Madison's Lake Mendota. Since the nitrogen and phosphorus content of fish flesh is 2.5 and 0.2 per cent, respectively, 500 pounds of carp harvested removed, 12.5 pounds of nitrogen and a pound of phosphorus from the lakes. The 1966 carp catch yielded 16,000 pounds of nitrogen and 800 pounds of phosphorus. The nutrient "yield" of this method could be easily expanded in most eutrophic lakes with more intensive harvesting of carp and other rough fish.

★ ★ ★

A program to perfect weed-harvesting techniques and to evaluate their effectiveness was begun last summer on Lake Sallie, a densely populated lake in the vacation area of Detroit Lakes, Minn. By "cropping" one-third of the lake three times to a depth of five feet below the surface, the researchers expect to remove substantially more nutrients in one summer than enter the lake in a year. The outlook for harvesting algae on a large scale, however, isn't nearly as bright. No economical equipment has been developed to skim algae off lakes and impoundments.

While inventors are working on a variety of devices that "suck up algae like vacuum cleaners" or "strain algae scum from lakes," members of the National Eutophication Research Program are hunting for a herbivore, perhaps some water flea or fish, with a huge appetite for algae. The search may be extended abroad if no algae-craving counterparts can be found to the weed-eating snails used in the southeastern United States. Precautions, however, must be taken to screen out "exotic" species that could become nuisances. Also, of two viruses known to cause diseases among blue-green algae, one is being tested, and more virulent species are being sought.

CHEMICALS FUTILE

The best that can be said for spraying chemical poisons on lakes in the grips of algae and weeds is that it is usually a futile undertaking. Treating a lake with copper sulfate or other toxic chemicals is no more effective than taking aspirin for a brain tumor. It offers only temporary relief, masking the symptoms of cultural eutrophication. In the long run it makes a lake sicker. Poisoning algae and weeds simply accelerates the natural process of growth, death, and decay, thereby freeing nutrients for another cycle of plant production. This has been borne out by studies of blue-green algae in Oregon's Upper Klamath Lake, which first showed signs of eutrophication eighty years ago. In the peak growth month of August, Klamath algae contain within their cells three times as much nitrogen as is dissolved in the lake. Killing an alga therefore would release this nitrogen for further growth.

Chemical posions should be used only a a last resort, for once dumped into a body of water, they cannot be confined to one locality. They dissolve and spread far beyond the area treated. Dispersed eventually by wave action throughout a lake, they adversely alter the fragile fabric of aquatic communities of many species. Too little is known about the sublethal effects of such poisons to risk their use.

★ ★

We can take several steps — all more effective than chemical poisoning—to bolster the two-pronged attack of diverting effluent and removing nutrients. By separating sewer systems for storm runoff and sewage, communities can forestall the lake fertilization that occurs when nutrient-rich combined sewers overflow after heavy rains. Damaging septic tank seepage can be curbed by passing legislation that would require that tanks be installed at a "safe" distance from bodies of water. Wisconsin legislators, for instance, recently decided that lakes and rivers would be safe from fertilization only if septic tanks are set back as far as 1,000 feet and 300 feet, respectively. They also set more stringent specifications for septic tanks themselves. The specifications vary with the porosity of the soil.

★ ★ ★

Livestock growers could also fight cultural eutrophication by adopting the European practice of fluidizing and storing manure in vats, from winter free-up until the spring thaw, and then spraying it on their fields when the soil can better absord it. The bulk of the manure now spread on frozen cropland runs off with spring meltwater to fertilize lakes and streams. This is significant considering the fact that the amount of manure, produced each year in the Midwest alone, is equivalent to human sewage of a population of 350 million. The chief drawback of the European method is its expense. Federal funds for water and soil conservation, however, could possibly be used to help farmers pay for costly storage tanks and spraying equipment.

★ ★ ★

We still have much to learn about the complexities of the eutrophication process. There is an urgent need for more research on such factors as a lake's depth, size, and configuration, its drainage basin and sources of nutrients, and its aquatic communities. But such research is complicated because biological and economical factors vary with every lake, pond, and reservoir. Systems analysis with computers promises to be the research tool that will enable us to supply precise data on the potentialities of eutrophication.

Improved research, however, is only part of the solution to this dilemma. Unfortunately there isn't time to raise an elightened generation to cope with eutrophication. Although we don't have all the answers, we must heed the warnings given by the waterways around us that have fallen into an advanced state of decay. If we delay, the price may be too dear to pay.

'More than one-third of America's 100,000 lakes are showing signs of cultural eutrophication. The danger of accelerated eutrophication continues to grow as our population makes greater demands on national water resources.'

Trade Moderately Active

Mart Opens Irregularly Higher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened irregularly higher today in moderately active trading.

The explosive atmosphere in the Middle East could put a damper on the list, but the generally favorable economic news background also is likely to be major influence.

* * *

Bright news included an 11 per cent rise in construction awards in December from a year earlier and the steady flow of higher corporate earnings reports.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI stock market indicator showed a gain of 0.15 per cent on 412 issues crossing the tape. There were 177 advances and 125 declines.

OILS EDGE UP

Oils edged up but aircrafts showed scattered weakness. Electronics were mixed.

Gulf Oil picked up ⅜, while Occidental gained ¼. Jersey Standard rose ½.

In the aircrafts, Boeing lost a full point, while Lockheed added ¼.

Motors showed a steady tone, with Ford and General Motors both holding unchanged.

DIPS SLIGHTLY

RCA dipped ¼ among the electronics, but Westinghouse picked up ½. IBM was unchanged. Litton eased ½.

U.S. Steel was steady, but Youngstown sheet & Tube fell ⅛.

* * *

Eastman Kodak and Du Pont were unchanged in their group. American Smelting was off ⅜ in heavy trading.

Area Manfield in Rape Cases

PLYMOUTH (AP) — A 25-year-old White Lake Township man was arraigned yesterday after being accused of raping four women while posing as a young father looking for a baby sitter.

The man, John R. Ellis of 9125 Southeastern, stood mute at arraignment proceedings on armed robbery and rape charges in Plymouth Township District Court. He was ordered held in lieu of $50,000 bond.

★ ★ ★

Court examination was set for Feb. 3.

Farmington Township police arrested Ellis Monday, after a woman notified police a man contacted her saying he needed a babysitter. Detectives said a car fitting the description of one used by a man in the previous assaults was found outside the home.

SHORT CHASE

The car sped off and Ellis was arrested after a short chase.

Police and sheriff's deputies in Wayne County and Oakland County participated in the two-week investigation, after women reported being raped by a man who answered their ads in the Plymouth Observer newspaper for baby-sitting services.

Wayne County Undersheriff William Lucas said a man would call a woman placing an ad and say he had a 4-year-old son who needed a baby sitter. He then asked to visit the woman's home to inspect it.

The Wayne County sheriff's department began investigating after a 23-year-old Plymouth Township woman reported she had been raped at her home Jan. 13.

Four Acquitted of Ticket Fixing

Ex-Sheriff's Chief 'Acting on Orders'

DETROIT (AP) — A jury found Dan D. Martin, former chief of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department Road Patrol, and three former union officials innocent Wednesday of charges stemming from alleged ticket fixing in the sheriff's department.

The jury acquitted the four of charges of conspiracy and obstructing justice.

★ ★ ★

The 61-year-old Martin broke into tears after the verdict was announced before Judge George E. Bowles, climaxing the month-long trial.

Martin, suspended after the ticket-fixing charges were made public in 1965, said he would attempt to return to his inspector's post at the road patrol.

ACTED ON ORDERS

At the tiral, Martin testified he voided many traffic tickets issued by the road patrol, but said he did so on orders of his superiors.

In effect, the jury decided that Martin's voiding of the tickets did not constitute an illegal action.

★ ★ ★

The charges resulted from a grand jury investigation after Paul Paciorek, a former road patrol sergeant, said he hid 4,000 voided tickets in a chicken coop on his Brownstown Township farm.

The union officials were accused of getting tickets voided for members of their local. The three, former officers of United Auto Workers Local 182 at Ford's Livonia Transmission Plant, include Charles Gillette, Louis G. LeKar and John Moon.

'EVIDENCE LACKING'

Their defense attorney, Edward A. Khoury, said the prosecution failed to produce any evidence they acted wrongfully after being given tickets which local members had received.

"The union was the logical place for a worker to take an unjust ticket," the attorney said, adding "there is hostile attitude in every police station unless you know someone."

★ ★ ★

Prosecutor John Sheperd said he would have to consult with the Michigan attorney general's office before deciding whether to go ahead with trials of two other union men on the same charge.

Servicemen from Vietnam often spend their five days of rest and recuperation leave in Australia, which brings that country millions of dollars in revenue.

The building is Chicago's tallest. Some offices were occupied for the first time yesterday, but parts of the buildings interior are incomplete.

Builder's Son 'Not Capable to Defend Self'

The son of wealthy Detroit builder Edward Rose yesterday was ruled "mentally incapable" of handling his own legal affairs and found in contempt of court for the second time in less than three months by Oakland County Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn.

The junior Rose has served time in jail on at least two other occasions rather than pay his wife's attorney fees in a divorce case.

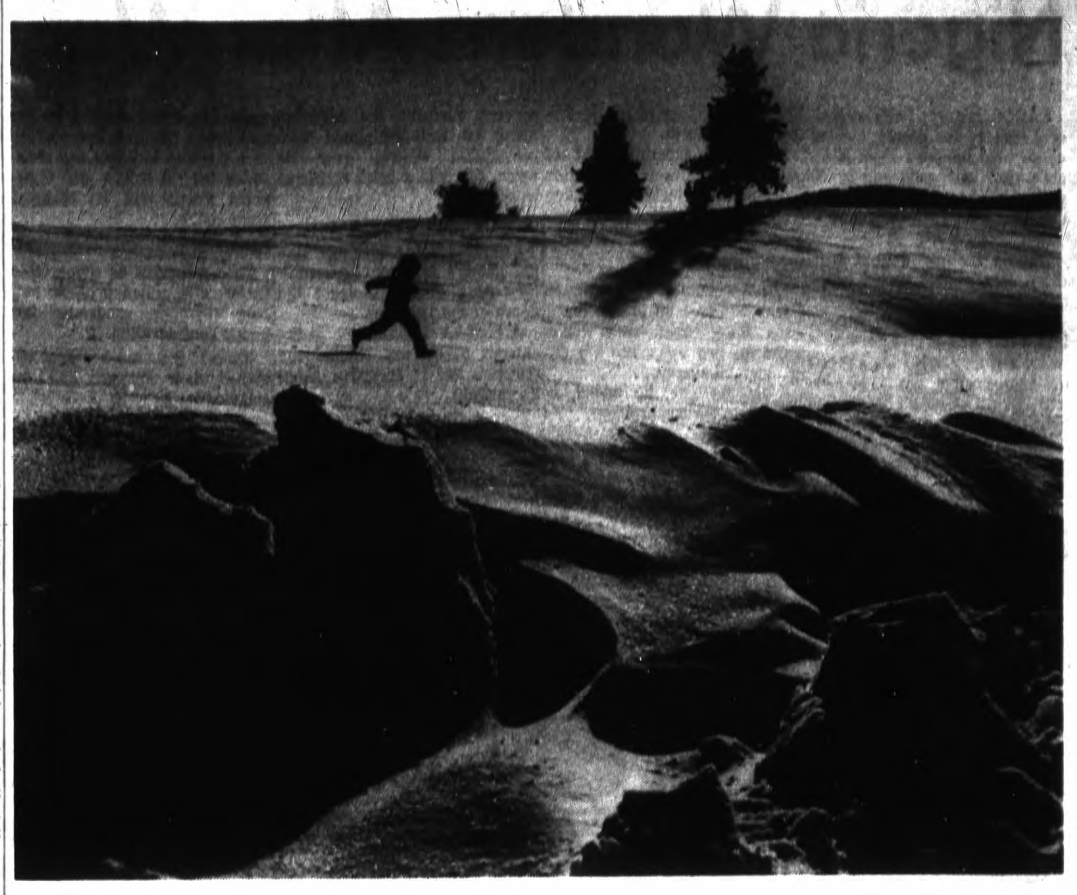

Thorburn named Rose's father as his guardian and set Feb. 12 as the date for sentencing on the contempt citation. He ordered that the older Rose appear with his son at that time.

The judge acted after Rose, 39, of Detroit said he'd rather return to jail than pay $4,500 in fees to his wife's divorce attorney, Rowe A. Balmer of Bloomfield Township.

Thorburn sent Rose to jail for contempt last Nov. 13 after Rose refused to reveal his assets and insisted he would not pay other legal fees for his wife.

He was released Dec. 4 after the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled that Thorburn must hold new hearings in that case, which involved $20,000 in fees to another attorney.

Rose at his hearing has defended himself.

KOSYGIN

In 1967 Brooklyn Rabbi Abraham Barenboim unsuccessfully sought to hand a letter to Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin requesting that his brother and family be allowed to come to the United States.

Newspaper accounts of the incident prompted New York Mayor John V. Lindsay to write to Kosygin, citing the fact that the Barenboim brothers were the only survivors of a family all but wiped out by the Nazis during World War II.

Last year, Lindsay was informed by the Russian Embassy in Washington that Kosygin was working on the matter.

LINDSAY

Tuesday night, Rabbi Shloma Barenboim, his wife, two daughters and a son arrived by plane from Moscow to be reunited with Abraham Barenboim, who left Russia 28 years ago.

Yesterday they appeared at City Hall and presented the mayor with a bottle of vodka as a token of appreciation for the help he had given them.

Television star Art Carney isn't interested in attending a sewage disposal plant dedication in Chandler, Ariz.

CARNEY

Carney, who has played sewer worker Ed Norton on the Jackie Gleason Honeymooners show for 10 years, turned down the invitation from Mayor George Nader because he "wants to dispel his association with the sewer man image," business manager William McCaffrey explained.

The mayor had even offered to engrave Carney's name on all the manhole covers in the city.

Seven-year-old Donna Kay Howell of Tallahassee, Fla., victim of a rare childhood stroke, has been named the 1969 National Easter Seal Child.

Choice of the pretty brunette was made yesterday by Sumner G. Whittier, executive director of the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

The society said Donna Kay has made a full recovery from a speech defect after a month of treatment.
