"WE CAN'T WAIT" — And neither can 90 other eager Press readers who have submitted reservations for the 1937 Pontiac Press theater trip to New York City. Just ask Mrs. Mel Werden (left) of 5765 Edgewood Park Dr., Commerce Township. She and her husband went last year and were the first to submit applications for this fall's junket, Sept. 9 to 14. Joining with Mrs. Werden in displaying posters of just two of Broadway's five top plays travelers will see, is Mrs. Ivan C. Wilcox, of 2803 Old Orchard Trail, Orchard Lake. There are still some 60 spaces open.

Says Hoffa Paid $2,000 for Senate Data on Beck

WASHINGTON (U)—John C. Cheasty testified today that James R. Hoffa, vice president of the Teamsters Union paid him $2,000 for Senate Rackets Investigating Committee data on Teamsters President Dave Beck.

TURNOVER

Cheasty, a Senate committee staff investigator, said he turned over selected material from Beck's file to Hoffa personally on Du Pont Circle near Hoffa's hotel here.

"Hoffa took the papers and said 'I've got a couple of thousand for you,'" the witness said. "I said 'nobody ever says no to money, Hoffa give me a fast handshake.'"

MET LATER

Cheasty said he arranged to meet Hoffa later that night to get the Beck file material back. He said he told Hoffa it had to be back in the files the next day. Hoffa and Hyman I. Fischbach, Miami attorney, are charged with bribing Cheasty to feed Hoffa committee secrets.

Cheasty said he took the committee and the FBI into his confidence on the alleged deal with Hoffa and they let him pick some papers from the committee file.

Cheasty said the papers included documents showing that Nathan Schefferman, Chicago labor management consultant, bought some $30,000 worth of personal items for Beck over a period of years and was repaid by Teamsters Union funds as a public relations expense. This has since been developed in Senate committee testimony.

The indictment against Hoffa alleges that when he received this committee information from Cheasty he exclaimed that "Beck's goose is cooked." This has not yet been covered in testimony, however.

Previously Cheasty had given testimony that a Detroit Teamsters local was bought and sold.

Cheasty said part of the alleged sales price of Detroit Local 665, known as the "Juke Box Local" of the Teamsters there, was to put the wives of Hoffa and an associate, Owen Bert Brennan, on the local's payroll at $100 a week.

Cheasty, in his second day as chief government witness against Hoffa, said yesterday that while paid by Hoffa to spy on the Senate Rackets Committee, he let the committee in on the deal and was under constant surveillance by FBI agents.

Reverses Order to Put Romeos Back on Force

City Manager Suspends Policeman After Review of Charges

City Manager Walter K. Willman yesterday reversed an earlier decision and suspended Patrolman Louis Romeos in what looms to be the first test case before the new Civil Service Commission.

The Pontiac police officer was charged with insubordination by Sgts. Frederick J. Wirth and Telton E. Rogg.

Willman Tuesday afternoon overruled an earlier suspension of Romeos by Chief Herbert W. Straley and reinstated him. The manager questioned the legality of the chief's act.

Explaining his reversal, Willman said yesterday: "I needed time to study provisions of the Civil Service Act and the charges, which I saw for the first time in writing."

He referred to the act as "screwball," and subject to a different interpretation by whom ever might read it.

The official criticized the act for not giving the power of suspension to the chief. He recommended a thorough review of it by the Legislature.

MANY INTERPRETATIONS
Various interpretations as to who has what power to do what, and when, have been tossed about since Pontiac voters approved city policemen coming under the state law in April.

City Attorney William A. Ewart says the manager is within his right as appointing officer to suspend the officer.

"He (Romeos) now has five days in which to submit an answer in writing to the Civil Service Commission, which can affirm or deny the suspension," Ewart said.

The three commissioners, he (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

DETROIT (U)—Among other things Mrs. Marie E. Packer won with her divorce from auto-dealer William M. Packer Jr. yesterday was "a new car every year." Packer is a Pontiac dealer.

Packer, 31, agreed to the new auto in a property settlement with his wife, 29. She also gets custody of their two children, plus $970 a month and a home in nearby Birmingham.

Whirlybird Soars, Then Crashes

WHIRLYBIRD — James Cole (seated) needed a little help getting started from Dwight Holton, of 3265 Cooley Lake Rd., Milford, yesterday before taking to the air 10 or 12 times at Pontiac Airport in his one-man helicopter. He later crashed, damaging the craft slightly.

Flown at Pontiac Airport

One-Man Copter Tested

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
Of Our Waterford Bureau

A dare-devil flier yesterday made nearly a dozen test flights in his Gyro-Copter before making a forced landing just inside the Pontiac Airport boundary line.

James Cole, 33, of 4045 E. Commerce Rd., Milford, flew the first one-man whirlybird known to take off officially from any field in Michigan.

According to Homer Hoskins, Airport manager, there was a 25-a close watch on the flight ready for any emergency.

Each time that Cole left the ground, he became more accustomed to controlling the machine. "He did a pretty good job of teaching himself how to fly in less than an hour," McArthur said.

Despite the forced landing, Hoskings remarked, "This was a very successful test flight. The damage to the copter is not too severe and within a short time Cole should be back testing his one-man plane."

Damage to the $3,200 aircraft was estimated at $150.

Cole is the Michigan distributor of the Gyro-Copters, which are built in North Carolina.

Communities Stall Work on Orchard Lake Road

Widening of Orchard Lake road (M218) west of Pontiac has been completely stalled by the three communities involved.

Sylvan Lake, Keego Harbor and Orchard Lake all have refused to enter into their shares of the total cost with the State Highway Department.

Objections center on money and also on route.

As far as the present highway administration is concerned, plans to widen the road from two lanes to four lanes as far as western Keego city limits have been dropped.

What the future holds is still up in the air, since a new highway administration takes over Monday.

"However, the law requires local cost participation in trunkline highways, and as long as these communities object, the road would seem to be a dead issue," a spokesman for the outgoing administration said.

JOINS UNDERPASS
The improved state highway would hook on to the Orchard Lake-Telegraph road underpass, which should be completed in December.

The bridge which carries M218 over Telegraph provides for a four-lane highway. Highway planners have no doubts that M218 (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Ohio Governor Sees State as Auto Center

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (U)—Michigan's Gov. C. Mennen Williams has accused Gov. C. William O'Neill of Ohio of "trying to take advantage of a Michigan family argument."

Williams' statement last night was in answer to O'Neill's claim that Ohio "could well rival Michigan in automobile manufacturing and allied fields in the next generation."

"We believe the spread of automotive plants to Ohio is a snowball that's just beginning," O'Neill predicted. "Give us 10 or 15 years and I predict we will be the motor center of America."

O'Neill said, in an interview, that "our strategic location, our natural resources, our economic and governmental climate make Ohio a very attractive place for new industry to locate and old industry to expand."

"Our economic and governmental climate is more favorable than that of Michigan."

"We are expanding in industrial development at a very rapid rate," he said. "I believe that if this expansion continues, within 10 to 15 years Ohio could well be first in manufacturing."

"A great many automobile manufacturers have been locating new plants in Ohio with very substantial investments. Our economy is tied closely to the automobile industry, with rubber, glass and steel plants."

Williams said, "It would be natural for him (O'Neill) to try to capitalize on the irresponsible campaign which was started against their own state by some of our own people."

Several of Michigan's industrial and political leaders have contended that the state's tax structure is driving industry to other states. Williams has disputed this.

"The only serious thing about all this," Williams said, "is the fact that a few Michigan citizens are collaborating in this nonsense for purely political purposes."

JACK MURRAY

UF Public Relations Director Appointed

New public relations director of the Pontiac Area United Fund is Jack Murray.

The appointment of the 21-year-old Michigan State University graduate was announced today by William B. Hartman, president of the local fund.

Murray received a bachelor of arts degree in journalism from the School of Communication Arts at MSU this month.

Murray, formerly from Grosse Pointe, intends to reside with his wife, Mary Lou, in the Pontiac area. He succeeds Simon O'Shea, who recently resigned.

Judge Drops Charge Against Market Owner

Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan has dismissed a March charge against a local market owner because it is "unconstitutional."

Leo Metz, owner of Farmer's Super Market, 484 Auburn Ave., had been accused by Michigan State Food Inspector James McCollum of selling pulverized meats to other stores for resale without a proper license.

Finnegan said he felt Metz should not be penalized since he ground the meat for another grocer on one occasion when the second grocer ran out of ground meat.

Should you be afraid of lightning in summer thunderstorms? Will you be able to see the bolt that strikes you, if you're hit? There is no reason whatsoever to be afraid during a lightning storm. There is reason to be sensible, and to stay out of places where lightning is most likely to strike. But you will not see the lightning that hits you—if you're hit.

It's technically possible, of course, that if you were standing outside in the open and saw the streak of lightning high above, starting down toward the earth, that same bolt might hit you. But chances are that it wouldn't. And chances are that you'll see the discharge that strikes you are almost nil.

So there is no reason to fear lightning: if it hits you, you'll know nothing about it, and there will probably be no agony before-hand, if it's fatal. Therefore, take sensible precautions and do not risk unwise exposure, and then sit back and enjoy the great show that is lightning. If you'll spend some time at a window with a sweeping view, you'll find it is a magnificent sight.

Road Work Stalled by Communities

must eventually be turned into a four-lane highway all the way to its terminus at Grand River (US 16).

And the three lakeside communities, which experience all-day traffic bottlenecks every summer weekend, would like nothing better than a widened road. They each have big "ifs," however.

Sylvan Lake, for instance, can only laugh at its apportioned share of the cost. It's about $67,000, over half of the tiny city's annual budget.

BARRY SEES WAY

City Manager Louis Barry says frankly it would be "impossible" for the city to pay it. However, Barry sees a way out.

Under legislation signed into effect last week, Barry says, communities under 30,000 in population are exempt from sharing into costs of trunkline construction.

The little city of 2,000 might therefore be able to get its main traffic artery widened free of charge, Barry says. Naturally, Sylvan Lake is all for the road, if this is so.

In Keego and Orchard Lake, the argument centers over the route. Both communities would prefer a new road paralleling the Grand Trunk Railroad.

Keego thinks that if this route were followed, the construction would be eligible for federal funds.

Keego City Clerk, Mrs. Eileen Van Horn, says that with federal aid the city's share of cost would only be about 13 per cent. As the highway department conceives the widened road, over the present route, Keego's share would be about $31,000, or 40 per cent of the total cost.

ORCHARD LAKE — $6,700

The Orchard Lake portion of the proposed project so far only stretches from the western Keego limits to Commerce road, about half a mile. The local cost is about $6,700.

The village is aware, however, that the highway department will continue widening, someday, right through the village.

"It would be preferable," Village Clerk Mrs. Lucille M. Smith says, "to follow the straight, railroad route, because the present road always has had too many hills and curves to be safe."

Both Keego and Orchard Lake think that the state could obtain right-of-way along the railroad without too much difficulty.

Col. Nickerson Testifies

Defense Policies Scored

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (U. S. — Col. John C. Nickerson Jr. today testified that in national defense policies there had been "a gross over-emphasis on air power."

The lean and gray colonel took the witness stand in his own court-martial today and agreed to testify under oath.

Under court-martial procedure the Parks, Ky., born colonel could have offered an unsworn statement.

Nickerson already has pleaded guilty to 15 counts of laxity in handling secret defense data by permitting it to fall into the hands of unauthorized persons, chiefly those he wanted to enlist in his fight to preserve development of an intermediate range ballistic missile for the Army.

The 10-man court-martial is now hearing evidence which might incline it to leniency in fixing Nickerson's sentence.

The maximum punishment Nickerson could suffer is dismissal and those who hold the Army needs a balanced striking force of soldiers, sailors and airmen.

As he mounted the stand, Nickerson turned and smiled briefly at his attractive, blonde and willowy wife, Carol.

In an opening statement, which he had written out, the 41-year-old colonel outlined the now classic feud between advocates of air power as the first line of defense

The Day in Birmingham

Swing Into Summer Fun With New Teen Center

BIRMINGHAM — Summer recreation activities have gone into full swing, with one of the most featured items being the teen center started Monday at Eton Park.

Although only 30 teenage reported Monday, Robert Girardin, recreational director, said the evening's activities were well received. He said he felt the enthusiasm of this comparatively small group was sufficient to bring in others and increase the program nightly.

Girardin said there is room for many more. Sports equipment such as a pool table, ping pong, miniature golf and many other games are available. The nightly program from 7 to 10 p.m. Mondays through Fridays features dancing to records. Girardin added that efforts are now being made to have popular disc jockeys in the area make personal appearances at the teen dances.

This Friday the Birmingham High School new pool will be open for a special teen swim.

Continuing in the recreation field, Monday through Friday mornings from 9 to noon, the tennis instructions at Eton Park are meeting with marked success. Directors say would-be tennis players of all ages are participating.

Playground activities are open with the day camp at Springdale

Park running a special feature. Regular activities include athletics, crafts, and puppetry along with special events placed into the program on specific days.

For the month of May the Birmingham Police Department reported 45 accidents, a drop of 11 over May of 1936. Property damage last year, were estimated at $8,763.

Violations were indicated in 44 of the mishaps with "following too closely" leading the field.

Birmingham city commissioners have been requested to take the necessary action to vacate a 20-foot alley extending west from Edgewood avenue between Bird avenue and 14 Mile road. Residents of the area with representatives of the United Brethren Church have presented a signed petition.

STATE CHARGES

In a signed affidavit, Sgts. Wirth and Rogg, veterans of the department, charge Romeos with careless use of his equipment, including his service revolver, and refusal to return to work when ordered. The incident reportedly occurred on the afternoon of June 21.

In attempting to reprimand Romeos, the officers said he became "very loud and boisterous" and "continued a constant stream of bickering, fault finding, carping criticism and conduct which, in our opinion, was not becoming to a police officer or any other person."

Romeos, 28, has been a member of the department since Aug. 3, 1933. He could not be reached for comment.

Detroit Horse Show Goes On Despite Showers

Despite early showers and wet turf, the Detroit Horse Show this morning completed all but one of its scheduled events for the period.

Heaviest competition was among the juniors. One event was cancelled, one was moved to Friday (open equitation for 14 and under), and one had not been finished.

Joe Racine, 15, of Birmingham, won the Michigan Hunt's Perpetual Trophy, riding "Kora." Lynn Cartier of Chicago, a post entry, on "Blue Smoke" won the working hunter hacks event; "Triple Shot" (Mrs. Graham J. Graham, Bloomfield Hills) won model hunters; maiden equitation (juniors) was won by Peter Foley (Birmingham) nine years old; open equitation went to Renee Ross, Bloomfield.

Ponies under saddle class was dropped because of insufficient entries.

Legislature Meets to Finish Business

LANSING (U. S. — After a five-week layoff, the Legislature returned briefly to the capitol today to deal with tax, school, aid and sex offender problems — and then officially call it quits for 1937.

It appeared that developments on the question of how to proceed with a broad-gauge study of the state's tax structure held the greatest potential of importance.

An assortment of work possibilities confronted the lawmakers on their first reappearance since a May 25 adjournment following the windup of their main business session of the year.

However, they were expected to steer clear of attempts to override vetoes of bills by Gov. Williams and to pass up for the time being action on a series of minor appointments he has made. The time table called for sine die adjournment at noon on Friday.

Bob Considine Says:

Thanks, but Poodle and Boxer Would Fight

NEW YORK (INS) — With help from my friend James Waldo Fawcett, historian, I recently put together a piece on white animals. Now Viola Flannigan, of St. Paul, writes:

"How come you didn't mention the white boxers? I have two of them, and while they are called the outcasts they are just precious. My bitch just gave birth to four brindle colored boxers and four white ones, and I would be glad to oblige."

"I assume that you say and do as you please, or are you one who is afraid to voice your opinion on the white boxer?"

Not at all, my dear. I'm for the white boxer and against sin, but will have to hold that gift in obedience.

There is the little matter of how the white boxer would get along with Mimi, the black French poodle, who is about as stable as the French cabinet.

Mimi takes a dim view of everything, and when she hasn't anybody else to bite she bites herself. We wouldn't want to do anything without first consulting Mimi, Man's Worst Friend.

By 1975 there will be 90,000,000 vehicles operating along this country's streets and roads, with an annual mileage of one trillion miles. A Missouri Highway Department survey made last year on U.S. 71 showed 2,050 empty beer cans were picked up by a road crew in one mile (repeat, one mile) of roadside.

Man standing at the bar at the Press Box the other day was expounding the joys and conveniences of air travel. When the bartender moved away, the traveler turned to a quiet, bronzed man nearby.

"Only way to travel," he boomed to the silent one. "Beats every other method of traveling."

"I wouldn't think of traveling any other way. And the biggest thrill of all is to fly an ocean. If you ever get a chance to fly an ocean, do it, don't turn it down."

The man nodded and said he'd take it under consideration. He never got around to telling the glibly soul that his name is Clyde Pangborn. With Hugh Herndon Jr., Pangborn was the first man to fly the Pacific — 4,600 miles from Japan to the state of Washington, back in 1931.

Young Girls Give Prison 'Bad Name'

LONDON — Prisoners are entitled to privacy — they are not a zoo — says Duncan Fairn, a commissioner of England's Dartmoor Prison. He says the tourists, some of them scantily-clad young women, are becoming a "menace" at Dartmoor.

tourists come by car from all over the country," Fairn told the Discharged Prisoners' Aid Society.

"Not only do they drive right up to the prison but they get out and clamber up the walls. You can hear them shouting at the convicts." So embarrassing are the girls who hang around the gates that once an official had to go out and tell them: "Young ladies, I must ask you to move on or you will give this place a bad name."

To See What Can or Should Be Done

Court Decisions Under Examination

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee embarked today on an exploration of what can or should be done about controversial Supreme Court decisions which are drawing an increasingly explosive congressional response.

Senate comments on the court ranged from "power wild," "pro-communistic" and "tyrannical" on the one side to "courageous" and "defender of freedoms" on the other.

There also were warnings on the Senate floor about hasty, excited and abusive criticism of the court, in line with President Eisenhower's news conference opinion yesterday that "we should respect its duties and its responsibilities."

Eisenhower said he shouldn't forget this, or that the court "is just as essential to our system of government as is the President or as is the Congress," although "each of us has very great trouble understanding" some of the latest decisions.

These decisions, championing

Arsonists Cause
Blazes in Autos,
Firemen Told

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—If your car goes up in smoke and flames it's probably because an arsonist has been at work, the 29th annual fire college was told here today.

William J. Davis, manager of the National Automotive Theft Bureau, told the firemen assembled at the University of Michigan that auto blazes rarely are accidental.

Davis said laboratory tests show completely damaging blazes resulting from poor wiring and short circuits in the battery, headlights, ignition or generator are in the minority.

About the only accidental fires which totally destroy autos are ignited by collisions or burning garages, Davis said.

In another talk to the firefighters, M. M. Bergman of the Michigan Department of Conservation said the number of forest fires in Michigan has been reduced 50 per cent since 1945.

He credited organized methods of prevention and control with cutting the amount of timber blazes. The number of Michigan forest fires has dropped from more than 3,000 to about 1,500 each year, Bergman said.

The public, which Bergman said has become "more fire conscious," also was praised for reducing forest fires.

Elect Traverse City Girl
as U.S. Cherry Queen

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—Blonde, 18-year-old Kay Lahym of Traverse City has been selected the new national cherry queen.

Miss Lahym was chosen from 25 other northern Michigan girls last night by three judges, who included movie star Richard Arlen.

The pretty new queen will be crowned during the national cherry festival which opens July 10.

Stainless Steel
Used in All Homes

NEW YORK (AP)—It's a fact that the American housewife owes as much of her leisure time to stainless steel as to the can opener and the automatic washing machine.

Because of its labor-saving features she has brought it in some form into every room of her home.

Without fanfare stainless steel has revolutionized whole industries, and made possible new ones.

It is in relative abundance today! Americans use it lavishly. The rest of the world hoards it.

Every American knows stainless steel, and uses it directly or benefits from it. Yet, few people know what it is, what makes it stainless, and how it works.

Drives Family to Beach in Unsafe Automobile

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Antonio Petros drove his family to the beach yesterday, unaware that police were looking for him to tell him his car was too dangerous to drive.

A mechanic had left out two cotter pins from part of the steering mechanism. He notified police to tell Petros not to move the car. A sharp bump, he said, might result in steering failure.

When he arrived home and got the message from police, Petros said: "I'm glad I drove slowly all the way."

Londoners Adopt
New Ghana Dance

LONDON (AP)—The hip-swinging, high-life dance with which Ghana celebrated its independence day now has found followers in London. At a Knightsbridge dancing club they are doing a high-life, which is a more sedate version than the African one, but still with the compelling beat.

John Harris, who knows high-life rhythm well, has written the English music and lyrics. Once you have the basic footwork — something like a rumba — you can do what you like and move where you like. It's free-style dancing that no dance-hall manager could complain of. Already it has been tipped as the logical successor to rock 'n' roll.

In an average year about one of every four families in the U.S. changes homes.

Track Meet Foul-Up Is Par for Russians

For all around, international low mindedness, the Russians are first by 40 nautical miles.

They have no rival.

The United States set out to arrange a big dual track meet with these cheap, Asiatic chiselers in an attempt to win some good will both ways. The Russians were in favor. They'd spent four years developing a track team and they probably suspected secretly they might conquer the U.S. and thereby add to their tiny international prestige.

Remember, they "won" the Olympic games when you counted folk dancing, group singing for little girls and many other "events" in which we did not compete.

Negotiations started.

Then, abruptly, they terminated.

The Reds were adamant on two points. They refused to make a 50-50 agreement on the expenses. They wanted to assume the costs of our team "when it reached Moscow." This sounds like the typical Scrooge thinking one might expect from a cheap outfit like the Commies. Also, they refused to be fingerprinted, which is a part of our law. Perhaps there are valid reasons why Russian athletes shouldn't be fingerprinted outside of their own nation.

We don't know.

We aren't acquainted with the kind of athletes they possess. Maybe some of them have records that won't bear scrutiny. We do recall a gal discus thrower that went in for a little shoplifting in England.

Anyway, the whole thing is blowing up. The United States is still trying to work out a compromise.

But one thing is apparent. Once a Russian, always a Russian.

Red Crimes in Hungary

The United Nations committee report on Hungary reveals the stark brutality employed by Russia in suppressing the revolt last October and November.

The special committee set up by the General Assembly and barred from Hungary by Russia, held hearings in Geneva, Vienna, Rome, London and New York. It interviewed 111 refugee witnesses. Its report represents the unanimous finding of five nations — Australia, Uruguay, Tunisia, Ceylon and Denmark, and is a bitter denunciation of Russia.

In the beginning the Hungarian revolt was not one against Communism or Russia but a popular uprising of the people in an effort to redress their long standing grievances. It was not suppressed by the legitimate Hungarian authorities but by armed intervention of Russian troops, many of them Mongols and Tartars from Central Asia who thought they were fighting the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt.

Cruelty of the Russians and the barbarism of the secret police (AVD) are shown in the report repeatedly. With this mass of evidence no one could doubt the enormity of Russia's crimes in Hungary.

Ambassador Lodge has called a meeting of the 24 nations which sponsored the Hungarian resolution, to plan for action when the General Assembly meets in September. The Russian delegation then will have its chance to reply to the investigating committee's terrible indictment.

He Made Folks Smile

When JIM WILLIAMS died, millions of Americans were the losers. He was one of the great cartoonists.

Creator of the comic panel, "Out Our Way," he had brought a daily smile to countless Americans who looked forward to his panel in The Pontiac Press and other newspapers.

This newspaper at periodic intervals, checks up on its various features. Invariably, "Out Our Way" has ranked among the very top cartoons in these readers' polls.

J. R. WILLIAMS, as he signed his cartoons, used a variety of general subjects. They revealed detailed knowledge of cowboys, machine shops and boys. He had a remarkable ability to portray animals, particularly horses and dogs.

In his varied experience he had worked in a machine shop and operated a ranch in Arizona. He had been called the Will Rogers of the comic pages, for the two had the same common touch. To both these men, human nature was an open book. Each had the touch of genius.

JIM WILLIAMS is dead, but his spirit lives in his cartoons. It was an understanding, tolerant, friendly spirit, clean as the air on the Arizona ranch he loved.

Villages Find It's Much Better to Pull Together

Drunkenness: What can be caused by a severe shock, like being told the price of the liquor.

Neighboring municipalities often are outspokenly at odds, much to the detriment of both. But Holly and Fenton, although their village limits are little more than two miles apart, have learned better.

When both have celebrated July 4, the crowds were divided, some people went to both, celebrations, and the pavement between them was an accident trail. So they're doing something about it. The Fenton

Junior Chamber of Commerce is getting up a humdinger 1957 celebration, which they not only expect the eagle to burst its vocal cords, but also are planning to pluck its talons. And next year it will be Holly's turn.

Starting work as a cash boy in the Detroit city when he was only ten years of age, of 70 Washington St., Pontiac, later found time to work for the Grand Trunk Railway for 47 years. He has lived here since 1929.

John M. Kellner

This is the season when many of our readers request us to repeat the only safe warning.

"Leaves three; let it be," if you do not want a tussle with poison ivy.

The local army draft boards have a total of 35 men in their July quota. The Pontiac city board is asked for only five, and the out-county board for 30. The induction date for both is July 9.

The 50 years ago items in

A New Role

David Lawrence Says:

High Court Usurps Rights of States

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower unwittingly opened Pandora's box when he urged the Conference of Governors to assert the rights of the states. He said:

"Never, under our constitutional system, could the national government have siphoned away state authority without the neglect, acquiescence, or unthinking cooperation of the states themselves."

But the question now being asked is how can the states today assert their rights if the Supreme Court of the United States can pass "laws" or adopt "legislation" that takes away from the states the rights they always thought they had under the Constitution?

This capital today has in it many officials and legislators who are angry over the latest Supreme Court decisions—and many of them are in the administration itself. The President shows an outward calm and argues respect for the Court as an institution. He said, however, with remarkable restraint to his press conference this week that "possibly in their latest series of decisions, there are some that each of us has very great trouble understanding."

The Supreme Court has rendered decisions which many officials believe will endanger the security of the nation and make it easier for Communists to infiltrate the American government. Likewise, many officials believe the states have been rendered powerless to carry on effective law enforcement against criminals.

SENSE OF FRUSTRATION

Rarely has there been such a sense of frustration in government as there is today as the Supreme Court goes on releasing Communists as well as various types of criminals, including a confessed rapist, on technical grounds described conveniently as "individual rights." The idea that society as a whole needs protection against traitors and crooks is brushed aside, and the "individual right" is ruled to be supreme.

Congress is told by the Supreme Court that its investigating committees hereafter cannot punish the refusal by a witness to answer questions even if the Fifth Amendment isn't invoked. The edict also is issued by the Supreme Court that free speech includes the right to preach the forcible overthrow of the government and that, only when the conspiracy is well under way and there is an actual step taken to overthrow the government, can effective steps be taken to protect the nation.

Naturally this type of reasoning doesn't sit well with Congress, though here and there are so-called "Liberals" who are rejoicing over the decisions.

The FBI and police agencies of states and cities, moreover, are worried. For the Supreme Court says detectives' reports about any witness that the defendant's counsel asks for must be made public, or the right of the prosecuting attorney to use the witness must be forfeited. The difficulties this introduces for the law-enforcement agencies of the country are incalculable.

CONGRESS STYMIED

Congress doesn't know how to proceed with its investigations on any subject. For the court has said questions directed to a witness must be phrased with the same explicitness and clarity as is required in a law court. The witness must be told just what the purpose of any question is before an answer need be made and then, if the witness chooses, he can regard the question as not "pertinent" to the legislative purpose.

This is a virtual sabotage of congressional procedure. But it is also a crippling blow to investigating committees of state legislatures, cities and counties.

Senator Thurmond, Democrat, of South Carolina, has a direct solution. He has introduced legislation to define the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. The Constitution gives that power to Congress. A law which says what Federal statutes may be appealed to the high court and what actions by the supreme tribunals of the states can be accepted for appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States would be constitutional. It has been tried for brief periods before in American history.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Nutrition Authority Urges One Capsule 'D' per Week

A doctor asks whether I agree with Adele Davis that vitamin D is "stored" and that a 25,000 unit capsule once a week gives an adequate amount.

If she says 25,000 units of vitamin D once a week is enough she is probably right. She is a top notch nutrition authority.

Adele Davis is represented in my reference library by four books, notably Let's Cook It Right and Let's Eat Right to Keep Fit. It is in the latter that the author suggests a single dose of 25,000 units of D after breakfast Sunday morning is ordinarily sufficient.

However, the requirements are unusually high as during adolescence, pregnancy, and menopause, such a dose twice a week may be taken to advantage, the author says.

I first heard the name of Adele Davis in a medical meeting where the subject of nutrition was under discussion. After a number of the leading lights had shown their ignorance the chairman asked whether Miss Davis cared to comment — "Miss" Davis?

KEEN COMMENTS

I wondered — but I soon found out. Her comments made the doctors who had preceded her sound ridiculous.

Later "Miss" Davis called — with her latest book under one arm and her latest baby under the other. The baby was as happy as you would expect from

The Country Parson

"A man who is too tired to take another step can stumble on if he finds someone else he must carry."

This isn't the whole answer, but the movement to curb the Supreme Court is growing. Bills to provide for re-confirmation of Supreme Court justices by the Senate after four years of service, bills to provide for selection of only lawyers of qualified experience, and bills with other limitations are being introduced in Congress in a general revulsion of feeling against what Thurmond calls "judicial tyranny" and "judicial usurpation."

We're fortunate the bore doesn't talk about other people as he does about himself.

Saving for a rainy day quite often keeps trouble from reigning.

the author of Let's Have Healthy Children.

Yes, indeed, Doctor, if Adele Davis tells you something concerning nutrition you can bank on it.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 150 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Here's Way to Improve Memory,

Do you want to improve your memory? Well, you are never too old. It isn't primarily age but lack of proper motivation that makes you forgetful. So try the dime game with your wife, as outlined below. And then send for the Memory Booklet, too, which will offer a much fuller plan.

Case V-322: George B., aged 27, has the makings for a successful life insurance salesman.

"There is one thing I still lack," he admitted, "and that is a good memory for names and faces."

"It embarrasses me to be introduced to a man at luncheon and then forget his name within a couple of minutes."

"Dr. Crane, how can a person perk up his memory in a hurry?"

Anything that increases your interest, will thus add to the motivation power and thus increase your memory.

You married men can make a contest out of such a thing as seeing whether you or your wife can come home from a party and repeat the greater number of names of strangers whom you have both met.

To add more zest and thus whet your interest further, agree to pay each other 10 cents for each additional name the winner can remember.

You'll be surprised at how this little contest between husband and Letters will be condemned when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I wonder how people who call the dog warden to pick up children's pets can sleep at night. What must the children think when they go home and find their pets gone? Usually the pets don't even stray out of their own yards, let alone destroy others' property.

Advice to Wives Annoys Woman

Am I the only wife who gets sick of hearing and reading what the wife should do to preserve the marriage and what the wife should do to keep the husband at home and what the wife should do to make the husband feel wanted after he's been caught running around with other women? I've always thought that marriage was for two people, not just to make life as comfortable as possible for men, and I get sick of hearing it's the wife's fault when the husband starts straying. How about overlooking wives' extra-curricular activities and blaming it on the husband? Wouldn't a few of you other wives like to see some articles about what men should do to keep their wives happy?

Salesmen Ring More House Doorbells Than Ever

NEW YORK (NEA) — Winfield Cook didn't have much time. He was in a hurry, a lot of people to see, a lot of calls to make, but it was a relief to sit down.

As chairman of the board of the National Association of Direct Selling Companies, it is his responsibility to supervise the plans of the NADSC's 43rd annual convention. And rounding up the door-to-door sales companies means a lot of bells to ring.

"Of course," he said, "it's in my blood. Ever since I started out."

Along with Cook, who has his own direct sales company in Pennsylvania, there are 1,500,000 door-to-door salesmen and women in America today—more than ever despite the supermarket and shopping center boom. And while it is difficult to average their incomes, Cook estimates $15,000 for a full-time sales year.

"The thing is," he said, "that there is no limit to the working day or to the territory. Customers depend on how many people you can see. And how good you are at selling."

GOOD APPEARANCE

After 25 years in the business, he's got a summary of the qualifications for this kind of salesman.

"He or she needs a pleasant personality, a good appearance, must like people, must be able to stand discouragement, should be polite but also truthful."

And one very important addition, Cook said: "A good direct sales person must be a good showman. After all, he's selling something that must be demonstrable."

RECENT PERSONNEL

Where do you find people like this? NADSC members yearly spend millions of dollars in classified advertisements to recruit personnel. Today, many companies are making a pitch for college students with on-campus campaigns.

The result: About half work full-time; the overwhelming majority are married and sell in their own communities; about one-third are between 45 and 65 years old and about 40 per cent stay in the field a year or less (most of them are unmarried women working part-time).

It is this problem of employment which now faces the association.

"We're competing in a tight labor market," Cook said, "where there are plenty of weekly paycheck jobs. People just don't believe that there are rewards here. And when I think back to how I started in the depression, you didn't put your foot in the door in those days. You put your head in, so when they slammed the door you could keep on talking."

To buttress his arguments, Cook introduced Mrs. Marian Getz, one of Avon Cosmetics' 100,000 direct salespersons.

Mrs. Getz, working part-time, used to take her 4-year-old son on her day's journey. "He got to where he could deliver the speech as well as I," she said.

It took her a while to build her territory, she said. But now the community children know her on sight and open the doors to her.

"When you've got the kids on your side," she said, "you're in."

Today, Mrs. Getz has been promoted to a supervisory job with Avon. She will have a number of door-to-door saleswomen to train and counsel.

Broadway Couple Reverse Positions

NEW YORK (U) — This is how success finds players on Broadway.

Howard Caine is singing and dancing a lead role in the musical comedy "Damn Yankees."

His wife, Joan-Ellen, is making her Broadway debut in a straight role in "Hotel Paradiso."

But Howard started his acting career as a dramatic actor, and Joan-Ellen began as a singer. (He is 31, hails from Nashville, Tenn. She is in her mid-20's, is a native New Yorker).

When the young couple first met she taught him singing in exchange for acting lessons. To bind the knowledge exchange, Howard taught her the intricacies of cooking—now the chore of preparing a meal is interchangeable when either is between engagements.

Air Force Snubs Derby

NORFOLK, Va. (U) — The Air Force this year ordered its planes to stay out of a 100-mile area around Louisville, Ky., at Derby time. This followed the so-called Army "mistake" in inviting selected congressmen to a weapons demonstration at nearby Fort Knox—an invitation which was cancelled after some rhubarb about the timing.

"DIRECT SALESMAN" IN ACTION — It all depends on how many people you can see and how good a showman you are.

Takes Food to Hungry

U. S. Air Force in Europe Plays Ambassador Role

ATHENS (INS) — Feed a man when he's hungry. Give him an overcoat or a blanket if he's freezing.

Could there be a better or more human way of making friends?

These are not formal working rules of the United States Air Force in Europe, but the actions of the far-flung organization tell the story better than any written rules.

Of course the prime goal of all USAF operations is the continuous training of its combat units to keep them ready to carry out missions of defense, attack, support, transport or reconnaissance. But consider these good samaritan jobs:

Driving snow-storms in the northern Greek mountains marmooned hundreds. Food was short.

United States Ambassador Cavendish W. Cannon appealed to USAFE for help. Three C-119's of the 32nd Air Division parachuted 104,000 pounds of food and clothing to the snow-bound.

The worst winter in years brought suffering to thousands of Italians, Sicilians and Sardinians, cut off from normal food and fuel supplies by record snow storms. USAFE carried 700,000 pounds of food, clothing and blankets to the cold and hungry. It took 62 sorties by C-119's.

Again, a record two foot fall of snow isolated the inhabitants of Isle Denard, off the coast of France. The French government appealed for aid. A helicopter from the 7413th Air Base Group, Bordeaux, airlifted food and clothing to the islanders.

Airman 2.C. Richard C. Ihke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ihke, of 227 Shotwell St., received the Commendation Ribbon for meritorious achievement during a severe tropical hurricane in Puerto Rico.

Ihke volunteered to aid in efforts to save an inoperative B-36 aircraft from critical damage and possible loss. He remained at his post withstanding winds of 120 miles per hour and contributed toward the ultimate safety of the aircraft.

A 1955 graduate of Wallied Lake High School, he received basic training at Sampson Air Force Base, N. Y.

Also receiving the Commendation Ribbon for meritorious achievement was Airman 2.C. Harold E. Goshen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Goshen, of Drayton Plains.

As a post flight dock mechanic, Goshen remained at his post during the 120 miles per hour wind resulting in the safety of the B-36.

Goshen, a former Waterford High School student, enlisted in 1955, and also received basic training at Sampson A. F. B., N. Y.

Wave Patricia K. Haynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elias W. Chambers, of Oxford, recently completed nine weeks of recruit training at the United States Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md., and left to spend a leave with her parents.

A former Oxford High School student, she will be stationed next at Jacksonville, Fla.

Army Pvt. Richard R. Weir, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Weir, of 36 Fiddis St., is receiving eight weeks of basic combat training with the 4th Armored Division at Fort Hood, Tex.

He is a 1954 graduate of Pontiac High School.

Army Pfc. William E. Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Carlson, of 761 Cameron Ave., recently was sent from his base in Ft. Bliss, Tex., to Camp Drum, Watertown, N. Y., to instruct in the field of anti-aircraft and guided missiles.

Carlson, who will return to Texas in five months, is a 1956 graduate of Pontiac High School.

He received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Naval Airman Bill R. Wilbanks, son of Mrs. Alice Wilbanks, of 60 W. Tennyson St., recently reported for duty at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Norman, Oklahoma.

His training will include courses in general familiarization with aircraft, the use of emergency and survival equipment, mathematics, physics, blueprint reading, and the use of hand tools.

Wilbanks is a 1956 graduate of Birmingham High School. He may be written: Bill R. Wilbanks, AA 5163743, Co. 23, Bks. 72, NATTC, Norman, Okla.

Both are sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Mersino, of Oxford.

Another member of the Mersino family, Army Pvt. Dennis Mersino, also is receiving basic training at Fort Hood, Tex.

Dennis, whose wife, the former Laura French, resides in Oxford, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Mersino, also of Oxford.

A recent graduate of the Military Police Training Center at Fort Gordon, Ga., was Army Pvt. Donald E. Zimmerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Zimmerman, of 205 Josephine Ave.

Zimmerman, who graduated under the Reserve Force ZIMMERMAN Act program, is a 1957 St. Frederick High School graduate.

Army Specialist 3.C. John A. Orr, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Orr, of 256 S. Anderson St., recently participated in an Army Night-Training Test with the 5th Transportation Training Command B at Fort Story, Va.

Specialist Orr, a 1955 Pontiac High School graduate, entered the Army in May, 1955 and was stationed last in Korea.

Navy Ens. A. W. Krause, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Krause, of Birmingham, recently made his first solo flight at Pensacola, Fla.

He is receiving training in communications, navigation, engineering, athletics, aerology, and civil air regula-

Wins Highway Post on 1 Vote-His Own

NEW BUFFALO — Frank A. Castelluccio won the job of township highway commissioner in a recent election. The vote was 1-0. When he received his ballot, he says, he saw NO ONE was running for the job.

"We can't have this, I said to myself, so I wrote in my name, feeling sure there would be others."

There were no others.

Of course the job pays nothing, Castelluccio says, but that's all right because to the best of his memory, the highway commissioner does nothing either.

New Gas Turbine System to Blow Air Into Furnace

CHICAGO—The first gas-turbine blowing system to be used in America's basic steel industry for supplying air in blast furnace operations has been ordered by a Chicago mill.

More than five years' research went into the project to determine advantages over the conventional systems.

Research indicates the initial cost will be lower, operation and maintenance will be less, and the new system will take less space and use virtually no water.

Steel-mill blast furnaces now use systems in which combustible gas from the furnace is drawn off and used to fire steam boilers. The steam drives a turbine that powers a centrifugal compressor supplying air to the furnace. The new system eliminates the boiler and its auxiliary equipment.

California occupies more than one-half the entire coastline of the United States along the Pacific ocean.

Hope to Speed Process With Poisons Harmless to Other Fish, Men

WASHINGTON — Some 70 underwater electrical barriers erected by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service are spelling the end of the sea lamprey's piratical career in the Great Lakes.

From April to July, lampreys bound for their spawning grounds will swim into the screens and receive a lethal shock. Other fish, more sensitive to electricity, are diverted by a weak preliminary charge.

Confident of victory over the eel-like parasite, the Fish and Wildlife Service plans to restock the Great Lakes with lake trout, a noble species all but wiped out by the lamprey's vampire tactics.

The lamprey, or lamper eel, fastens its round, suckorial mouth to a fish, rasps off the scales and flesh with its 100 sharp teeth, and literally drinks the victim's blood. Experiments have shown that each lamprey, in adulthood, kills a minimum of 20 pounds of fish.

MIGRATED TO LAKES

The parasite is one of the oldest known vertebrates, says the National Geographic Society. It flourishes along the coasts and in rivers and lakes of temperate regions the world over.

Lampreys were first reported in Lake Erie in 1921, climaxing a long, slow migration up the St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario from the sea. The lampreys have since completely destroyed the lake trout fishery, once a thriving $5,000,000-a-year industry.

By eliminating one generation of adult lampreys annually, the barriers will require about seven years to bring them under control.

However, officials have high hopes for several poisons which may erase four generations of the fiendish parasites with a single dose. Eight such compounds, which selectively kill off lampreys while leaving other marine life—and man—unharmful, are now being tested in a pilot operation.

Suburban Trend Due for Turn?

Real Estate Firm Head Says Building Bonanza Away From Cities Over

PHOENIX, Ariz. (INS) — The post-war home construction boom into suburbia is fast becoming a Frankenstein, says the president of a Chicago real estate and investment firm. He's building a 16-story apartment house just a few blocks from the heart of downtown Phoenix to prove his point.

Ralph W. Applegate, 48-year-old president of the Applegate Realty and Investment Co., says the residential building bonanza into areas surrounding large cities has reached the saturation point. He explained:

"Phoenix and other cities of comparable size where expansion has been rapid in the past ten years have reached a point where further development on a horizontal plane must take place at the expense of long daily travel to and from work.

"With this growth, there has come a unique experience—unique to every city of major size; the traffic jam."

Applegate points to suburbia's inadequate public transportation facilities, its increasing distance from the business and social centers of downtown areas and the strangling traffic conditions that are resulting from the move away from "the big city."

"The time has come for Phoenix, as well as for literally scores of cities throughout the U.S., Applegate said, "to recognize a major reversal of the trend to suburbia." He added:

"Cities can expand just so far along the horizontal. After that they invariably bog down deep in their own mire of private transportation if they have any that fits the need.

"Fifty years ago, city planners—where you could find them—had no real conception of the potentially strangling volume of traffic destined to result as communities expanded ever outward in all directions."

The real estate man reasons: "There simply is—or soon will be—no where to go but straight up."

Plan Ham for Sunday, Also Fresh Fruit Salad

Pork is in the spotlight this weekend before the Fourth, with special features on beef expected early next week. In the poultry department turkey gives most for the money with chicken parts and stewers in close competition. Strawberries are not so plentiful for the peak of the 1937 crop has passed. Excellent quality long white potatoes and cabbage lead the vegetable value list.

MEATS

A number of pork cuts are 5 to 10 cents a pound lower than last week. Fresh, smoked and canned hams are receiving special emphasis.

The large 9 to 11 pound canned ham costs less per pound than the smaller sizes. It pays to read labels on canned hams for some require refrigeration. Just because ham is in a can, doesn't always mean you can put it on the pantry shelf and expect it to keep safely.

Smoked hams vary in price according to the cut, cure and amount of processing. The semi-boneless hams are easy to cut and serve. Per pound they cost more, but per pound there is more meat for your money. These are shankless, skinless and defatted with the skin bone (which always gets in the way when cutting) removed. Whole hams weighing 10 to 14 pounds usually weigh 8 to 10 pounds when processed this way, states Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, MSU Marketing Information Agent.

Steaks for grilling are more tender when you select U. S. Prime, Choice or Good grades or comparable packer grades. Club, sirloin, T-bone and Porterhouse are suitable cuts for the grill. Round steak makes good barbecue if first it is tenderized in an acid marinade in the refrigerator overnight.

The 1937 turkey crop will be even larger than last year's record of 77 million birds. Storage holdings are almost twice as high as last year at this time. These are two good reasons why you are finding low summer prices.

FRUITS

If you have "put off" freezing strawberries, don't. The peak of the season is already past, but good berries are still available. For freezing choose Premier, Dunlap, Catalina, Sparkle, Senator or the everbearing Gem variety. Pack with sugar or a syrup for better color, flavor and texture.

Peach, plum, grape and blueberry prices have changed about 10 cents a pound or 10 cents per unit since last week. Increasing seasonal supplies are bringing decreasing prices. Lemons are lower also. According to the Agricultural Marketing Service, the California lemon supply will be about 10 per cent above the past 10 year average; 9 per cent higher than last year.

Watermelon may be a favorite picnic dessert for 4 to 7 cents a pound depending upon whether the whole or part of the melon is bought.

EGGS & DAIRY

Egg prices are still reasonable with large Grade A priced at about 45 to 53 cents a dozen. Wise shoppers will hurry them into the refrigerator to keep their top quality.

Sees Pill Use for Diabetics

New England Doctor Says That Drug Oranise Won't Always Work

ROCKLAND, Me. (INS) — Pills replacing the needle for diabetics. This was the prediction today of Dr. Alexander Marble of Boston's Joslin Clinic, speaking at the 104th Maine Medical Association convention regarding the drug oranise, an outgrowth of sulphur drugs.

Dr. Marble cautioned, however, that diabetics from early childhood do not outgrow the need for insulin; those who develop the disease later in life are receptive to oral medication; the drug is still in the investigative stage and is not effective in cases of coma, infections or during and following major surgery.

He pointed out that the new oral compound has been researched successfully on 50-70 per cent of selected middle aged or elderly diabetics.

Patients transferring to the oral pill must be kept under close medical supervision by the doctor and remain on strict diet and a four-hour established test period can tell whether the patient is receptive to the pill.

In keeping with the convention's earlier theme of civil disaster problems and preparedness of the medical world to meet such an emergency, Dr. Marble asserted that this new drug, synthetically concocted, can easily be stockpiled in considerably less space than the insulin compound and its needles.

Look again for the many dairy products offered at special summer prices. Ice cream, cheese, and cottage cheese will substitute for part of the day's milk quota.

VEGETABLES

Supplies of late spring potatoes are larger than last year. Call-ries, yet potatoes have other vitamins and minerals needed in the diet, so you can expect good quality and better maturity. One medium potato is only 100 calories, yet potatoes have other vitamins and minerals needed in the diet, so you can expect good

British Colony Off Beaten Path

Honduras' Lusty Past Replaced by Isolated but Intriguing Country

WASHINGTON—People of Belize the old seaport capital of British Honduras, say buccaneers founded their town on a bed of mahogany chips and rum bottles.

Names of other settlements smack of the Crown Colony's lusty past: Gallon Jug, Orange Walk, Mountain Cow Water Hole in the Maya Mountains, Roaring Creek, Boon, and Butcher Burns.

Swashbuckling ended years ago, but fine cabinet woods still flow to world markets through Belize.

At present, Britain's isolated logging land on the eastern seaboard of Central America is soberly trying to bulwark its economy with more than trees, and to whittle away at its wild frontiers.

BELIZE BECKONS TOURISTS

Belize takes pride in its first resort hotel, a long, low modern structure overlooking the emerald-green waters of the Caribbean.

Offshore, trade winds rustle palms on a barrier of silvery coral isles or cays. Waters abound with tarpon, barracuda, mackerel—and fishermen.

A new road, Humming Bird Highway, links Belize with citrus and pineapple plantations in the interior. There, among fertile, underdeveloped valleys, savannas, and wooded mountains, lies the colony's hope for the future.

British Honduras is unique. It is the only colony and English-speaking entity in Central America: its mixed population consists of Maya Indians, clannish Caribs, African and European stock. Money is reckoned not in pounds, but in terms of dollars and cents.

ALTITUDE—ONE FOOT

Nearly half the colony's 60,000 people live in Belize, one of whose sections is called Mesopotamia. Because hurricanes often flood the town, white-frame houses rest on high supports. Belize's altitude: One foot.

No railroads or expressways connect British Honduras with Guatemala and its northern neighbor, Mexico. Waterways have always been the colony's road system, the Belize River its big turnpike.

British Honduras, though accessible by plane, is off the beaten track—its romantic lure for present-day adventurers as well as highwaymen of the Spanish Main.

Christmas Music Played in Illinois During Hot Spell

EVANSTON, Ill. (INS)—Housewives and motorists listening to Evanston radio station WNMP heard Christmas music all day yesterday.

They also heard announcements like these:

"Sleet and snow make for hazardous driving. The National Safety Council warns you to drive carefully."

"The Chamber of Commerce would like to remind you that in order to facilitate snow removal, all cars must observe the parking regulations in their zones."

Outside the station, the temperature was pushing toward the 80-degree mark.

Bob Burns, program director, said it was just an effort to give the listeners "something different." Usually the station plays classical music.

Reactions were varied:

A sailor at nearby Great Lakes Naval Training Station phoned to say he thought he had tuned in Marx, which is now in the midst of winter.

A listener just returned from Europe said she thought at first that she had been away much longer than she had planned.

A four-year-old child, missing from her crib, was found by her mother hanging up a Christmas stocking.

A business firm invited WNMP staff members to its next Christmas party and gave them six months in which to arrive.

State Cancer Society Will Move to Lansing

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—The Michigan division of the American Cancer Society has announced it will move its office from Grand Rapids to Lansing effective tomorrow.

The move was disclosed yesterday by Russell E. Bowers of Flint, president of the division.

Arthur L. Crampton, executive director of the office which has been in Grand Rapids more than 10 years, said the move was designed to provide a central location and closer contact with other Lansing activities.

Stage Doorman Writes Plays in His Spare Time

NEW YORK — Richard Reich, stage doorman at a Broadway theater, is finding spare time playwriting profitable.

Reich has written previously for television, now has had his mystery drama "The Tin Cup" optioned for stage production next season by Fred F. Finklehoffe. The play previously tried out at the Margo Jones theater in Dallas. The doorman, however, isn't tapering off, reports he has completed another script in which actress Eva Bartok has expressed a desire to play the lead.

John Adams lived to be the oldest former president of the United States. His age was 90 when he died.

Impersonator Goes on Summer Circuit

NEW YORK — One man's impressions of seven famous actresses will go on the summer theater circuit prior to a Broadway run next fall.

Producer Leonard Sillman is presenting T. C. Jones, the impersonator star of "New Faces of '36" in a show that will satirize Norma

Shearer as Juliet, Katharine Hepburn as Rosalind, Tallulah Bankhead as Cleopatra, Bette Davis as Lady Macbeth, Judy Holliday as Portia, Ethel Merman as Katherine in "Taming of the Shrew," and Marilyn Monroe as the Ophelia of "Othello."

He is survived by his son, Edgar, of Fenton, and one daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Parks of Holly.

Say One of 18 Smokers Gets Disease

British Council Connects Cigarettes, Lung Cancer

LONDON (INS)—Britain's Medical Research Council declared today one in every eighteen men who have been heavy lifelong cigarette smokers face possible death from cancer.

The statement noted that knowledge of the causes of lung cancer still is incomplete but declared: "No adequate explanation of the large increase in lung cancer has been advanced save that of cigarette smoking."

The research council said lung cancer deaths among non-smokers would be about one in 300 and that men who cease smoking in their early 40s reduce their chances of developing the disease by at least half.

The female death rate from lung cancer was said to be one in 180 but that the rate has increased considerably in recent years.

The report was made following a long investigation which found that smoking, particularly cigarette smoking, was mainly to blame for "a very great increase" in lung cancer in the last 25 years.

The American Cancer Society, announcing results of a 44-month study three weeks ago, found an "extremely high" association with cancer of the lung, larynx and esophagus and cigarette smoking.

In the Netherlands, Dr. C. Van Proosdij received his medical degree today after delivering a paper at the Amsterdam Municipal University which claimed smoking has "become a socio-medical problem of the utmost importance."

Dr. Van Proosdij claimed one of every 11 cigarette smokers at the age of 25 will die of lung cancer.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—His mother picked up George Wilkins, 3, to warm his seat for playing with matches and found it already was warm.

Firm in Flint Awarded Contract for Concrete

NEW YORK (AP)—Catsman Co. of Flint, Mich., today was announced as winner of a contract to supply concrete for completion of anchorage piers that will support the main section of the Straits of Mackinac Bridge.

Announcement was made by Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corp., general contractors for the structure of the bridge.

Completion of the anchorage piers, the company said, will require about 25,000 cubic yards of concrete, equal to about 1,500 railroad cars.

The Catsman firm is building two concrete mix plants, one at Mackinaw City and another at St. Ignace, and expects to have them in operation by July 1, the announcement said.

Deaths Elsewhere

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—C. DeForest Cummings, 77, Syracuse University football coach in 1911 and 1912, died Tuesday. His 1911 team upset Jim Thorpe's Carlisle Indians 12-11.

NEW YORK (AP)—John L. Irvin, 66, classified advertising manager of the New York Journal-American for 17 years, died Tuesday. He formerly was associated with the Cleveland Press, New York Telegram and Des Moines Register.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—George T. Eager, 70, assistant to the publisher of the Philadelphia Bulletin for 10 years, died yesterday. He was born in Rome, Italy, Oct. 18, 1866, the son of the Rev. John H. Eager, an American Baptist minister.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Herb Schulz, managing editor of the morning Fort Worth Star-Telegram, died yesterday. He underwent a heart operation at Houston's Methodist Hospital earlier in the week.

2 Deputies Quit
COLDWATER (AP)—Two Branch County sheriff's deputies, Sgt. Keith Wilhelm and Deputy Hugh Callahan, resigned after the Board of Supervisors refused a request by Sheriff Neil Post for a $1,000 budget increase. The money would have been used for higher salaries for the 11-man force.

Mrs. Clara Hines Dies

DETROIT (AP)—Funeral service will be held tomorrow for Mrs. Clara Hines.

Mrs. Hines' husband, Edward, was a pioneer in modern road building and ordered the world's first mile of concrete highway to be laid in 1908 on Detroit's Woodward Avenue from McNichols road to Seven Mile Road.

Mrs. Hines died yesterday. She was 88.

Hanley, 7; Theresa Springer, 7; Mary Jo Springer, 8; Raymond Springer, 10, and Michael. Michael is the 10-year-old nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Springer, of 9530 Mandon Rd., where he is visiting from his home in Grosse Ile. The Henleys live at 9543 Mandon Rd.

Flying Parson Covers Pacific Congregation

While the Rev. Bob Richards enjoys fame as the "Flying Parson" because of his pole vaulting prowess, a former Pontiac resident is enjoying life as a "flying parson" who really flies.

Maj. Russell C. Haggard, staff chaplain of the Southern Air Materiel Area at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines, thinks nothing of a short flight into the jungle and a two-day walk on his ministerial duties.

Maj. Haggard attended elementary and high school in Pontiac and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haggard, live at 34 N. Johnson Ave., in Pontiac.

The Air Force has a half dozen of these "flying parsons" who fly into the hinterlands to visit widely separated parts of their congregation.

The work is not all toil and trouble in reaching the far-flung airmen, however. Maj. Haggard has a bagful of tales about trips to Guam, Okinawa, Hong Kong and Taiwan (Formosa).

But the flying parson received his biggest "kick" from a pair of trips that were too close to home to require an airplane trip.

He recently retraced the route of the infamous Bataan "Death March" of early 1942 while on his way to the Bataan Oil Terminal, where an officer and six airmen constitute a part of his congregation.

While at Bataan, Maj. Haggard made a side trip by motor launch to the "Rock Fortress" of Corregidor, scene of one of the century's great sieges.

Both historic spots have been declared national shrines by the Philippine government.

Included on the trip, which took only 10 hours, were stops at a pair of native villages where the menfolk spend all day building canoes and cutting sea shells which are used in the manufacture of window panes.

Discussing the seven men at the oil depot, Maj. Haggard said morale was "high" for such a remote outpost. He said the men are avid spectators at the cock-fights staged by Filipino natives.

The Major reported that the seven men had bagged a six-foot python snake while doing repair work on a dock recently.

He described Corregidor as "grown over" with some old guns and emplacements still visible in the hills.

After his graduation from high school in 1931, Maj. Haggard studied at Moody Bible Institute of Chicago and Wheaton College.

He was pastor of Baptist churches in Geneva, Ill., and Fenton, Mich., before entering the armed services in 1942.

Since that time he has served three times in the Pacific theater of operations—in China, Burma and India during World War II, in Korea and Japan during the Korean conflict and now in the Philippines.

He is married and has four children, ranging in age from 5 to 14.

MAJ. RUSSELL C. HAGGARD

Saga of Bridge Topic of Book

William Ratigan Tells Story of Huge Span in New Edition

Eleven years ago writer William Ratigan moved from California to Northern Michigan to be in the midst of three historic events—the Soo Canal Centennial in 1955, the building of the Mackinac Bridge and the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

These events inspired Ratigan to write several books, starting with "Soo Canal!" in 1954, and now climaxed by his powerful saga, "Straits of Mackinac," the story of the giant steel span across the Straits.

In steering this book around the Straits and into port, the author looks through the eyes of the watchman of Mackinac Bridge. This is not only the story of a great bridge, but Ratigan writes the biography of the spirit that brought men to the Straits in search of a fabled Northwest Passage and that will continue to bring men to "The Crossroads of the Great Lakes."

The Territory of Michillimackinac is dramatized by the author as a state of mind—an unruly and rambunctious overflow of irresistible high spirits sweep all barriers and obstacles aside.

Ratigan's new book is an excellent profile of Michigan's newest marvel—the largest and greatest bridge of them all.

Detroit to Cut Down on Half-Day Classes

DETROIT (AP) — A plan to cut the number of Detroit school children on half-day sessions from 4,789 to 1,633 next September has been approved by the Board of Education.

Samuel G. Brownell, school superintendent, said the plan called for transferring students to one new high school and three elementary schools and also the conversion of certain special schools into elementary ones.

Sun Rays Make Deadly Driver

Autoist Dazed by Glare Forms Highway Peril, Says Doctor

Motorists who fail to protect their eyes while driving in bright sunlight or get behind the wheel of their cars at dusk after prolonged exposure to the sun during the day, are sufficiently "glare-fatigued" to be dangerous summer-time threats on the highway.

This warning has been sounded by Dr. Edgar W. Tillyer, director of ophthalmic research of the Sun Glass Institute.

"With today's wrap-around windshields, sun glare now dazzles the driver from three directions," Dr. Tillyer said. "The wider glass area, increased use of chrome trim, and light-reflecting colors on new cars produce a greater strain on the driver's eyes," he said.

The doctor added that "Sun-visioners help but they only eliminate overhead glare coming from eye level, at the sides or from reflections below."

Contributing to the problem, he said, are reflections from buildings. But the big problem is with night driving. Dr. Tillyer pointed out. The ability of vision to adapt itself to nighttime driving depends on adequate glare protection during the daylight hours. Scientific studies conducted by university ophthalmologists show that those who expose their eyes to excessive sunlight without the protection of sun glasses can lose as much as 50 per cent of their night vision.

This loss of night vision is dangerous to persons who drive home from a day in the bright sun, from beaches, pools or picnics.

Explaining this phenomena, Dr. Tillyer stated, "The sun burns up a chemical on the retina of the eye known as visual purple. Loss of this chemical, used up faster than nature can restore it, reduces the ability of the eye to see contrast. Because it is normally more difficult to see after dark under artificial light, the loss of vision from sun glare has its most serious effects at night."

The ophthalmologist pointed out that most people suffer from "glare-fatigue" without knowing it. After being outdoors all day in the bright sun, a motorist's 32 candle-power headlights seem only as effective as 5 or 3 candlepower, equal to ordinary flashlights.

The motorist believes this reduction in illumination is due to the fact that the night is extra dark and does not know the fault is in himself. This means he may see pedestrians or traffic hazards too late to avoid a serious accident.

Here is a simple experiment to illustrate the point:

Stare out of a window at a bright object for a minute. Now look back at a white object in a dark corner of the room. The white object will appear grey and dim at first and only takes on its normal brightness after a few minutes. The longer you look out of the window, the longer it takes to recover your normal vision in the dark corner.

Stroking Is Next for New Swimmers

(Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of learning to swim. This article deals with the front crawl stroke and water safety measures. The series will conclude Friday with a discussion of the back stroke and rescue methods.)

By GERALDINE IRWIN
FHS Swimming Instructor

Today I will discuss the American crawl stroke and combine it with the breathing and kicking methods covered in previous articles.

The hand over hand arm stroke used in this front crawl. Put one arm out in front of you and the other arm at your side, bent at the elbow.

ELBOW FIRST

Remember to bring your elbow out of the water first. Then reach out in front of you, straightening the arm and pulling downward toward the bottom. Let the arm drift back to the thigh and then lift the arm to where it began.

The arms pull alternately. The fingers should be kept together and the hand relaxed by dropping it a little at the wrist.

Do not pull across the water in front of you or you will lose power in the stroke.

Now is the time to combine the breathing and stroke as described yesterday. One cycle of breathing is done to one complete cycle of the arm pull.

BREATHE IN RHYTHM

The breath is inhaled as the arm

UP, UP AND AWAY — This test missile being fired at Patrick Air Force Base is an example of the many which must be launched for research purposes before a regular missile goes on the firing stand.

Air Force Besieged With Difficulties in Attempt to Build Guided Missiles

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Today, 50 years later, aviation history is repeating itself at the Patrick Air Force Base guided missile test range in Florida.

In 1907 the Wright brothers were trying to sell the airplane to the U. S. Army. They had a plane they knew would fly, having first flown one four years earlier. They understood the general laws of flight.

PLAGUED BY FAILURE

But they were plagued by failures and accidents because of a mass of aeronautical data they had not yet discovered.

This is essentially the situation at Patrick at the start of all-out testing of intermediate range ballistic missiles supposed to soar 1,500 miles, and intercontinental ballistic missiles with a 5,000-mile range.

There are several types of IBM and IRBMs ready to go at Patrick. The experts there know they can work. They understand the general laws of missile flight.

LACK OF DETAIL

But it is the lack of a large body of basic detail on the missile science and missile components which is plaguing them with failures and accidents.

The "screech" phenomenon is a typical, unsolved ballistic missile problem. It's a wild, high-pitched, throbbing noise which is heard above the normal roar of the missile when the fuel begins burning with a "vibratory combustion." When it happens, which is frequently, the missile is usually shaken to bits in a few seconds.

A spokesman for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, a top U. S. research agency which is working to solve these missile enigmas, explains: "Study shows that these high-frequency oscillations can take several forms, one reason why no general solution to the problem seems possible. We are studying the relations between injector design, fuel structure and combustion stability to try to learn more about the nature of screech."

Dr. James H. Doolittle, chairman of NACA, says, "before the ICBM can become a practical weapon a mare's nest of problems must be solved."

Perfecting a fuel pump is another unsolved problem. It's the only moving part on a ballistic missile. It must be light, able to pump a liquid which might be 424 degrees below zero Fahrenheit at a rate of about a ton a second with unbelievable accuracy.

"And if just one per cent of the propellant isn't used up at just the proper split hundredth of a second as a result of a faulty pump, the miss of your missile may be measured in hundreds of miles," Dr. Doolittle explains.

Just providing a satisfactory lubricant for such a pump is a major research problem getting top attention.

A pump supposed to meet these exacting specifications has been made. But its reliability is the big question. The fuel pump is the reason for many missile failures.

The reliability of the complex electronic systems of a missile is still a staggering problem, nagging the missile men. It's compared to trying to maintain split-second accuracy on an electric clock which depends on the perfect functioning of every electrical appliance in every home in a square mile of a big city.

Progress has been made in this field but much more work is needed to provide the 100 per cent electronic reliability required for missiles.

The Air Force hopes it has a solution for preventing the nose cone of a missile from melting from air friction as it comes down. A radical shape other than a needle-nose configuration is believed to hold the answer. But it's admittedly an educated guess, although based on untold thousands of hours of research.

If the guess is even slightly wrong untold thousands of more hours will be needed to provide the final answer.

The general shape of a missile and the material of the casing which holds it together present other unsolved basic problems on which there is continuing, enormous study.

NACA has an extensive test firing program going to try to improve the basic design of ICBMs,

Security Office to Open for Filing on Saturday

The Pontiac Social Security office will stay open Saturday as a special accommodation for disabled workers who wish to file under the new disability provisions of the Social Security law.

William E. LaRock, district manager, said today Saturday is the deadline for filing under the law and the office will be open from 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Anyone unable to visit the office should phone for a representative to make a personal visit to the home, LaRock added.

Three classes of persons are affected by the new law, he said. Those disabled for many years may suffer a reduction in monthly insurance payments if they do not file; disabled workers beyond 50 years of age may be entitled to monthly payments starting next month; and disabled workers under 50 should file to freeze their wage records.

To be eligible under the new law, a person who filed by June 30 must:

1. Be so severely disabled he cannot do any substantial, gainful work;
2. Have worked in five of the last 10 years before the disability began;
3. Have worked 1½ out of the last three years before the date of disability. The work must have been in social security covered employment or self-employment, except in some cases of railroad work or military service.

BOUNCE INTO BEAUTY — Little Susan Williams learns to do some bicycle riding to keep the figure trim. The teacher is her mother, swim star Esther Williams, a fine example of the benefit of exercise for figure trimming. They did this particular bit of "riding" prior to a recent tour of Rome, which they took on foot without benefit of bicycles.

CRAWL LESSON — A helping hand is important in learning the crawl stroke. With the helper holding you at water level, reach one arm straight out while the other is bent to recover, Pull the front arm down and back and up into the position of the back arm of this position. The head is rotated to the side for breathing while the arm is up and back in the recovery position.

Course to Probe Businessmen

Professor Plans Class Dealing With Culture, Ethics of Executives

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (INS) — The man in the gray flannel suit is going to college this year.

However, novelist Sloan Wilson's character will be the object of study, rather than a student, and chances are that he will be analyzed as a purposeless, misdirected individual, if not an outright villain.

Noting "a lack of deep vocational calling among many undergraduates," Professor Kenneth Underwood of Wesleyan University in Middletown will launch this September the first undergraduate course in the country dealing with culture, ethics and politics in American business.

"As a teacher," Underwood explained, "I am concerned by the great emphasis in America on work simply to meet consumption and leisure time needs. Our undergraduates going into the business world lack a sense of significance and purpose in the career they have chosen."

In all, he feels, this is a pretty accurate description of the man in the gray flannel suit.

"In the present day world of big business, where salaries are high and nobody is fired," the 38-year-old social scientist said, "real excitement about a career in an undergraduate is a dimension hard to find."

"In this new course," Underwood noted, "we are not going to attempt to judge any of the business operations, but rather to explore different managerial concepts in order to give the man who enters the big corporation a proper perspective from which to develop his 'raison d'être' in the business world."

Professor Underwood will require reading of modern books such as "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit" and A. C. Specter's "The Exurbanites," as well as works on the subjects of business men, theologians and social scientists.

Bartenders Aid to Psychiatry?

Good Source of Release of Repressed Feelings, Says Expert

LOS ANGELES (INS) — A mental health expert says that bartenders and ministers sometimes are as useful as psychiatrists as high-priced professionals.

The opinion was voiced by Dr. A. D. Schwartz, chief of the mental health service of the California Department of Public Health, in an address before the state medical association convention in Los Angeles.

Dr. Schwartz describes Boy Scout leaders, lawyers, teachers and police officers, as well as bartenders and ministers as "caretaker personnel" of a community who see neurotic people before they go to psychiatrists.

He says these lay people may have developed techniques for aiding people that professionals in mental health work might well learn.

Dr. Schwartz leans toward the bartender as perhaps being in the best position to dispense helpful advice. He explains the very nature of his business forces the bartender into the role of listener-counselor who has to bend an ear to the troubles of anyone who graces his bar with folding money.

"You may not be able to make your wife, your boss or your friends listen to you," the mental health expert says, "but you can get the ear of a bartender simply by paying for a drink."

And liquor, he adds, can break down the psychological barriers which prevent people from unloading their troubles. It can make them talkative.

Dr. Schwartz's aim is to make a missionary corps of bartenders, ministers and other "caretaker personnel" to detect mental illness in its early stages and refer the difficult cases to licensed psychiatrists.

Russians Poke Fun at U.S. Monkey Art

MOSCOW — Russian publications have seized upon the story of Betsy, a six-year-old chimpanzee, to make fun of Americans. Moscow reports. In Baltimore, Betsy was publicized as having a "one chimp" show at which $125 worth of her finger paintings, including "hell" and "cabbage worms," were sold. Far from seeing the artistic joke, the Russians are deriding the American way of life. "Soviet Culture" said that Betsy's paintings are "more restrained" than one canvas which was exhibited in New York's museum of modern art. Another paper printed a cartoon showing a monkey at work before a canvas being applauded by three ultra-art types.

Banana oil is not made from bananas at all, but is actually one of the by-products of the petroleum industry.

Where Antelope Play

LANDER, Wyo. (U) — It's a frequent sight in western Wyoming to see a rancher driving down the road, his speedometer registering 55 to 60 miles per hour, in a race with the antelope. And for short distances the antelope can keep up. "Cruising speed" for the spindleg-legged creatures is 35 to 40 miles an hour. They can hold that pace for miles.

Ignore Problems of Sanitation

Ancient Indian Sect Holds All Life Inviolable, Sacred

LONDON (INS) — The wealthy Indian merchant carefully set on the ground a cockroach which had been found in his kitchen and smilingly watched it scuttle away.

The merchant's kitchen, like the rest of his house, was scrupulously clean. But there were no brooms or vacuum cleaners and such modern conveniences as D.D.T. were strictly banned, for the merchant was a Jain and would injure no living thing.

Like other members of his ancient sect he would go to great lengths to avoid causing harm, even accidentally, to any animal, or insect or even to the bacteria in the air about him, for the Jains believe that all life is sacred.

Nobody, not even its followers, can say exactly how old Jainism is or precisely where it began. One branch of the sect, the digambaras or "sky-clad (naked) ones," have been traced back to the sixth century before the birth of Christ. The other chief branch, the svetambaras, or "white-robed-ones," are believed to have originated sometime in the fifth century A. D.

The Jains' beliefs, molded in the fifth or sixth century before Christ, remained virtually unchanged through the ages while empires rose and fell elsewhere in the world. The march of science has left them equally unimpressed, as British and American health teams have found when they attempted to introduce anti-bacteria campaigns in areas where the Jains are influential.

These areas are scattered through most of India's great southern peninsula. Though the sect is small compared with India's tremendous population—at the last count several years ago it totaled about 1,600,000—many Jain laymen are rich traders and the Jain social and moral influence is considerable in many villages.

The Jains recognize 24 prophets, but their beliefs are drawn mainly from Vaddhamana, better known as Maha-Vira, who lived at about the same time as Buddha. The Jains and the Buddhists do not see eye-to-eye on religious matters; the main point of difference being the Jain belief that everything—man, animals, insects, plants, air, water, fire and even particles of dirt possess souls.

LAYMEN LESS STRICT

The Jain layman, like the ordinary follower of any religion, is likely to take a broad view of his sect's teachings and trim his beliefs somewhat to fit the needs of everyday life.

He does not, for example, go naked as Maha-Vira and his disciples did, nor does he necessarily examine the ground carefully in front of him before taking a step, to avoid stepping on some insect.

The Jain layman may even wear shoes, although a Jain monk would never do so because the unslaking leather sole might crush some luckless ant or beetle. In modern times even devout digambaras are "sky-clad" only at meal times.

But the Jain monks live under one of the strictest religious regimes in the world. Like most monks they dwell in seclusion, avoiding any self-indulgence and never associating with women.

Even today the Jain holy man follows the teachings of Maha-Vira to the letter, scrutinizing the ground ahead "for the length of the body" as he walks, never washing his clothes or brushing his teeth for fear of killing some minute bacteria, and even, in some cases, wearing a gauze mask to filter the air so that no tiny organism will be breathed into his lungs.

There must be a careful examination of the ground, too, before a bucket of water is tossed away and a Jain monk would never throw anything aside casually—it might land on an insect.

D.D.T. got a cool reception in Jain districts. Faced with government decrees requiring spraying of homes and fields, the natives watered down the insecticide until it was no more than a mild sedative for flies and mosquitoes.

It is difficult for government officials not to sympathize with the Jains respect for all living things. But this belief can cause some headaches.

When food is scarce as it frequently is in isolated parts of India, the government faces a real problem when the natives insist on sharing the little food they do have not only with dogs, cows and horses, but with rats, vultures and other creatures which most people consider better off dead.

Significantly, the word the Jains use for "soul" is "jiva" which also means life. For to followers of this ancient belief good and evil—and the universe itself—are not abstract ideas, but realities which come into direct contact with the souls in everything.

New Zealand Wants All Girls It Can Get

WELLINGTON, New Zealand — "We want all the girls who will come here," said Ralph Haman, New Zealand's Minister of Immigration, in Wellington. He was commenting on a report that the country is accepting increasing numbers of German girls because not enough British girls are coming forward.

There is already a surplus of males in New Zealand and this imbalance is unfortunately duplicated in categories of immigrants entering the country, the Minister said. New Zealand has an agreement with Western Germany for 500 single women and 250 single men immigrants, he said, and with Austria for the same number of men and women.

Herring Catch Down

TRONDHEIM, Norway — Norway's herring fisheries this year produced 850,000 tons of winter herring and 283,000 tons of spring herring compared with 1,232,000 and 268,000, respectively, in 1956.

Explains 'New Look' of Britain's Army

LONDON — Britain's "new look" army will be made up of smaller units and guided weapons specialists, the House of Commons was told by Julian Amery, financial secretary of the War Office. Big formations now tend to become liabilities as they present a worthwhile nuclear target, he explained. "What is needed is the smallest formation containing infantry, armor, artillery and engineering elements capable of fighting a tactical battle, he said.

A new brigade group will number between 4,000 and 5,000 men and will be commanded by a brigadier. Under the circumstances the name might be changed to "light division." Reduction of manpower must be matched by improved weapons, Amery declared.

Coal was the only fuel to be used for the generation of electric power in Michigan during 1954.

Khadi-Making Leads Village Industries

NEW DELHI, India — Growing popularity, at home and abroad, of India Khadi — homespun cotton cloth — is making it the leader among village industries, New Delhi reports.

About 1,200,000 persons found full or part-time employment in making khadi and in other village industries last year, compared with 400,000 two years ago, an industrial survey showed.

The traditional khadi industry employed 79,000 spinners and weavers, and made the most striking progress. As against 421 production centers, 455 sales centers and 207 selling agencies in 1953-54 there are now 757 production centers, 731 sales centers and 602 selling agencies.

U. S., Canada Fight 'Art' of Poaching

CLEVELAND (NEA) — The ancient, if not honorable, art of poaching is running smack into solid U. S.-Canadian cooperation on Lake Erie.

Divided between the two nations, the lake is the continent's largest producer of fresh water fish. The watery boundary line often is not enough to stop a commercial fisherman from thinking that if he could "just move the nets a little farther out . . ."

TEAR GAS GRENADE

In the latest encounter, Ohio wildlife division agents used a tear gas grenade to capture a Canadian boat off Ashtabula. A year ago, agents fired across the bow of a Canadian tug before capturing its crew.

Still the war of wits goes on over the 9,300 square miles of the 13th largest lake in the world. Electronic devices work for the fishermen who spot flimsy movements. Airplanes and agents cover the vast expanse.

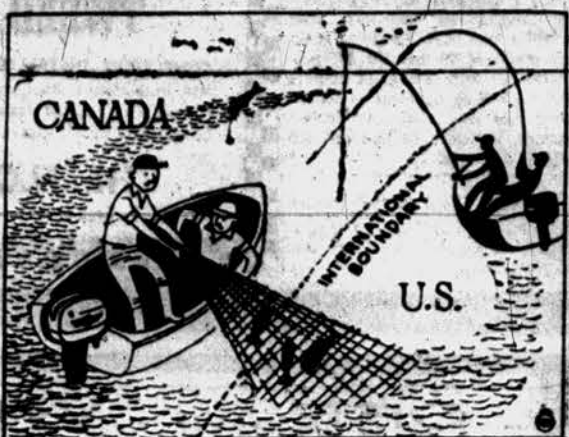

Wildlife officials on both sides are as worried about possible effects on relations between the nations as they are about the poaching.

FINE RELATIONS

"One thing we want understood," said William R. Farelyn, district law enforcement officer at Sandusky, Ohio, "is that we have the finest relations with Canadian officials that are possible."

Canadian Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, chief of Fish and Wildlife, Department of Lands and Forests, in Toronto, said:

"We have full cooperation and always have. Even the fishermen get along on the best terms."

Oddly enough, both departments reported that few protests about poaching are ever received from fishermen. Most poachers are discovered by airplanes or patrol boats.

Once a plane spots a boat or the highly mobile gill nets in the wrong spot, it radios the position to a patrol boat. The boat takes over and speeds to the location.

While poachers often are charged with fishing without a license, this is somewhat misleading. Actually, neither nation will license foreign fishermen to drop nets in its waters. There are no plans to do so.

"If the fish are in Ohio waters," Farelyn said, "then we feel it's a break for Ohio fishermen and they should get them."

Some of the hauls are large. In the last poaching episode, 6,000 pounds of fish are confiscated, but Farelyn called this "a drop in the bucket," compared to what an ordinary haul would be.

Shaking Hand of Actor Made Boy Theater Fan

NEW YORK (U) — In 1876 famous actor Edwin Booth shook hands with a 14-year-old boy. As a result the University of Texas today has one of the richest collections of theatrical memorabilia in existence.

The boy was Albert Davis of Brooklyn. Meeting Booth made him a lifelong theater fan and an avid collector of programs, photographs and other show business data.

When Davis died in 1942, his collection spanned more than a century of American show business. The data has now been purchased by the Hobbitts Foundation of Texas and placed on indefinite loan in the university library at Austin. Curators expect cataloging the material will take two years.

Hero Extinguishing Fire Given Parking Ticket

MILWAUKEE (U) — Ezra Evans, a truck driver, was passing a repair shop when he saw flames curling around the corner of the building.

He stopped, grabbed a fire extinguisher, sprayed the building and had the blaze under control by the time the fire department arrived.

When Evans returned to his truck, he found a policeman has given him a ticket for double parking.

Melvyn Douglas Known as Great Successor

NEW YORK (U) — Star Melvyn Douglas is becoming renowned as Broadway's Great Successor. Douglas has signed to take over next fall the key role in "Walt of the Toreadors" created by Sir Ralph Richardson. The comedy hit recently suspended when a throat ailment necessitated Richardson's return to England for an operation. Two seasons ago the versatile Douglas replaced Paul Muni in "Inherit the Wind" while Muni was out for an eye operation.

India Adds Ministries
NEW DELHI — Two Indian ministries have been abolished—Production and Natural Resources—and three new ones created: Transport and Communications; Steel, Mines, and Fuel; and Education and Scientific Research.

That's What Conflicting State Traffic Laws Are— License to Kill People on Highways?

POTENTIAL KILLER IN ACTION — In these sequence photos the Market Safety Camera captures a perfect example of how NOT to pass another car — (1) crossing double white line, (2) passing on a hill and (3) passing on a curve.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Just crossing a state line in your car this vacation could make you a dangerous, potential highway killer.

But don't worry about it. Your out-of-state license tag gives you special privilege to menace the lives of others on the road.

This bit of frightening sarcasm — unfortunately true — is now being studied by a congressional committee investigating highway in the face, ponds the table and shouts on the subject of the needless highway death toll because of conflicting, weak traffic laws among the states.

"In Virginia, for example, two non-parking traffic convictions gets your license automatically suspended," Market says.

"Yet a person from a state without that law, with a half-dozen speeding convictions and rated unfit to be behind a wheel, can drive all over Virginia," he explains.

NO UNIFORMITY
He explains another highway hazard resulting from no uniform traffic laws:

"Less than 25 states have compulsory vehicle inspections with the result that mechanically dangerous cars will be on roads all over the country. The lives of people driving in safe or inspected cars on their vacations this summer will be seriously endangered by this situation."

He wants to tie the code to the big federal road building program and have it administered by a Highway Safety Division within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Creation of such an agency is proposed in a bill sponsored by Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.).

A little more than half of the uniform code recommendations of the NCUTLO have been made into laws by the states.

Based on his work with trucking firms, which includes the rigid enforcement of uniform safety rules. Market believes the only solution to cutting the nation's traffic toll is federal legislation to force a uniform code on the states.

One of Market's contributions to traffic safety is a special camera mounted on car which takes pictures of driving violations. The speed of the offending car and the time of day automatically show on the picture. He uses the device to keep the drivers of his trucking clients in line.

OLYMPICS IN 1957 — Little John Saver, 6, moves a wheelbarrow loaded with athletic equipment in preparation for "Junior Olympics Day" tomorrow in Waterford Township. Linda Abner, 6, and John's brother, Dean, 10, aids in the haul.

Junior Olympics Slated for Waterford Tomorrow

Tomorrow is "Junior Olympics Day" for some 400 children in Waterford Township, registered on the eight elementary school playgrounds.

According to Paul Atkins, playground supervisor, games are scheduled at each of the following school grounds: Drayton Plains, Montclair, Covert, Donelson, Waterford Center, Burt, Stringham and Four Towns.

The "Olympics" will be modified to throwing of the javelin using straw, shot puts, using ping pong balls, disc throwing—using paper plates, backward races, accuracy events, dropping clothes pins in bottles, and shooting basketballs.

Approximately ten different events will be featured at each playground, Atkins said.

The programs are for the children, 6 to 14 years, that are residents of Waterford Township and school district.

Patenge was elected at the 42nd annual Kiwanis International Convention here which ends today.

Public Works Director Sought

Person Would Oversee Water, Sewer Projects, DPW Board Says

Oakland County should have an able and public relations-conscious administrator to head its new Department of Public Works.

The newly-elected DPW board decided this at its first organizational meeting today.

Engineering experience was considered a desirable, but secondary, qualification for the job of overseeing the department's anticipated plans for big, inter-community water and sewer projects.

The board voted to advertise immediately for applicants between the ages of 35 and 45 to fill the post. No salary has been set.

Elected as board officers were Delos Hamlin, chairman, Daniel W. Barry, vice chairman and Hiland M. Thatcher, secretary.

Norman R. Barnard, Board of Supervisor's clerk of committees, was elected deputy secretary, although he is not a board member.

Barry, who is drain commissioner; Hamlin and Thatcher, who are chairman and vice chairman of the Board of Supervisors; and the two other board members, John J. Semann, of Berkeley and Don R. MacDonald, of Sylvan Lake all were sworn in by County Clerk Lynn D. Allen.

The board adopted by-laws and requested Corporation Counsel Harry J. Merritt to draw up rules and regulations.

Meetings were scheduled for 10 a.m. the third Thursday of every month in the County Office Building.

Tractor Overturns, Youth's Condition Fair

A Rochester youth is in satisfactory condition today at Avon Center Hospital, in Rochester, after suffering leg and shoulder injuries when the tractor he was driving turned over yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Evans, of 4832 Rochester Rd., ran off Rochester road near Shortridge road, in Avon Township, toppling over the bank of a gully, according to Oakland County Sheriff's reports.

Witnesses told deputies the boy had glanced back at a car approaching rapidly from behind him. Evidently, bystanders reported, as he pulled to the right to allow the car to pass he didn't realize he was so close to the bank.

Amvets Name Delegates to 13th State Convention

The Pontiac Amvets, Jimmy Dey Post 12 and its auxiliary have named delegates and alternates to represent their respective groups at the 13th annual State Convention of Michigan Amvets, to be held at the Fort Shelby Hotel in Detroit this week.

Acting as post delegates at the convention which opens tomorrow and runs through Sunday are: Jacobyn W. Smith, 32 Bagley St., commander; Daniel T. Murphy Jr., 1023 Berwick Blvd.; and Louis Hadden, 42 Wisner St.

Post alternate will be: Edward Pompeian, 154 Mark Ave.; Lee Sirlin, 2596 Elsinore Dr., Waterford Township; and Ben Mirkin, 32043 Main Ave., Livonia.

Those named as delegates from the auxiliary are: Mrs. Rita Allen, 200 Marlborough Dr., president; Mrs. Freda Hadden, 43 Wimer St.; Mrs. Leona Hunt, 1165 James K. Blvd., Waterford Township; and Mrs. Betty Williams, 2385 Cheltenham Dr., Sylvan Lake.

Auxiliary alternates are: Mrs. Helen Pompeian, 154 Mark Ave.; and Mrs. Marguerite Houghton, 1254 Desaix Ave., Bloomfield Township.

Highlights of the three-day convention will be a parade to be held Saturday at 4 p.m. and the Miss Michigan Amvet Beauty Queen Contest which will be held aboard a Bob-Lo moonlight cruise leaving Detroit at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Representing the Pontiac area and the Bemis-Olsen Post 113 in the state contest will be Stephanie Hill, 17, of 4735 Elizabeth Lake Rd. Waterford Township, who is a junior at Waterford High School.

In addition the Amvets plan to draw up a platform and recommendations which, according to a spokesman, "will not only demand that Sgt. William Girard be tried by American authorities, but will seek revision of all treaty agreements with foreign nations."

One-third the province of Saskatchewan is forested.

Durand Man Pleads Guilty to Killing Wife

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—A Michigan auto worker unexpectedly pleaded guilty late yesterday after recess in his trial for first degree murder in the slaying of his wife.

William Ogden McMullen, 26, of Durand was immediately sentenced to a life term in prison by Circuit Judge Frank W. Tait.

McMullen's wife, Donna Marie, 34, was shot to death last Feb. 15 in the office of her father, James W. Deacon, who is business manager for the Aberdeen High School.

McMullen's surprise plea came after a recess when the defendant had completed an hour of testimony. He was the first witness called by the defense after the state completed its case earlier in the afternoon.

Only one of eight men registered for the draft in World War I actually became a member of the nation's armed military forces.

GUNLOCK by WAYNE D. OVERHOLSER

CHAPTER 23

Eric Brahm's cattle tally had been short this fall. Naturally, he blamed the settlers. Irv Costello had fanned his temper until it was ready to burst into flame. As for Costello, he had been in a hanging mood for weeks. If trouble did start, it might not stop until Mathers and Scott and all of them on the West Fork were dead or driven from the country. And my wife, Nela, was with Mathers, her father.

By the time I reached Canon City, I was in a torment of worry, but there comes a time when flesh reaches the end of its endurance, even under the quivering of the spirit. I weighed the eventualities and decided I had ample time. Costello would not move by himself. The others, including Brahm, would hesitate before attacking the colonists. Though my decision was forced upon me by compelling weariness, I hoped I was right.

I left my horse at a livery stable and then wearily climbed the stairs to Ben Sawhill's office. He said, "How are you, Will?" and shook hands with me, but I sensed at once that he was not his usual cordial self.

I was too tired to be tactful. I asked, point-blank, "What's wrong, Ben?"

"I was going to ask you that," he motioned to a chair. "Sit down."

I gave him the money I had brought from Leadville and sprawled into the chair. "Sarah told me to turn this over to you. You're to figure the profit, I guess."

"And divide it. That's what I was going to ask about. I thought you and Sarah would never have a falling out, but she writes that she's dissolving the partnership."

"You want to know the trouble?" "That's what I'm asking."

"Nela and I told her we got married the day before we started roundup."

Sawhill leaned back in his chair, puzzled. "What's that got to do with it? I mean, Sarah shouldn't object to your getting married."

"No, but she does," I motioned to the desk. "Go ahead. Do your figuring. I guess Sarah doesn't trust me."

I slept in my chair until he woke me. He had put the money into several canvas sacks. One he would deposit in the bank for Sarah, another was my share, and a third held the $500 I was to take to Sarah.

I got to my feet, a little groggy. I said, "Ben, Sarah gave me half the Box P. I'm going to hang onto that."

"Better think that over, Will," he said. "You came to the Box P empty-handed. You've had a home for eight years, a job that paid well, and now you've just been given half of the Box P's profit for the past year, and you've already received your regular wages. That's more than fair."

"You've been reading Sarah's letter," I said, "but you don't add it up right. I am to hang onto what's mine and fight for it. If I don't, she won't have anything."

As I walked to the door, he called out, "What in Heaven's name is happening, Will?"

I leaned wearily against the door casing. "Ben, Sarah Pardee is not the unselfish woman we have always thought she was. She's small and self-centered."

"Stop it!" He started toward me, his hands flisted. "Have you gone daft, Will?"

"You'll love her, no matter what you find out about her?" I asked.

"Of course! I'll never change, but—"

"Maybe you should pay a visit to the Box P," I said. "She's not going to marry John Mathers. And while you're there, give her some advice. She'll have to get along with me as a partner or sell out to me. I think she'd better sell. She hates the Box P, but it's different with me."

From Sawhill's office I went to the bank, barely reaching it before closing time, and deposited my money. Then I asked to see the president, and arranged for the backing I would need to buy Sarah's share of the ranch.

I didn't know whether Sarah would sell, but I had a hunch that Sawhill would go to the Box P and that Sarah would turn to him just as she had turned to John Mathers a year ago. Because he had no great obsession, except his love for Sarah, Ben would be the right man for her.

I had a meal in the hotel dining room, took a room, and went to sleep at once, sprawling across the bed with my clothes on. I was in the saddle on my way out of town before dawn, not even taking time for breakfast.

I was home hours earlier than either Curly or Red could have expected me, but they had been watching, and they were saddled up by the time I rode into the yard. As I swung down, Curly said: "That animal's about finished. Want me to saddle Roanie for you?"

"What's up?"

"Four of 'em colonists," Red said. "Crossed the line three days ago. Toss down your sign. Starting to put up cabins."

Funny, the way I felt inside. Here it was, the thing I had told myself what I would do. I had told Sarah and Mathers and my crew. Yet now I wanted no part of it. There would be women and kids down there, and somebody would get hurt.

"They won't be expecting you for another five, six hours," Red said. "I told 'em you'd gone to Canon City but that they'd better look out when you got back."

His words irritated me. He had no business saying anything to them. That was my job. I said, "You boys don't have to go."

Red flared back. "We don't want to hear no more of that crazy talk."

"All right," I said. "Saddle Roanie. Just be sure you don't start the trouble. I'll start it."

I walked to the house. Sarah was sewing near the window. She looked at me warily, as if not certain what I would say or do. She asked, "Did you see Ben?"

"I saw him." I tossed the money on the couch. "There's your $500."

"Thank you, Will. You can pack up—"

"Sarah," I said, "I'm not packing up. Either we go on being partners, or I'll buy you out. I can raise the money if you don't set an unreasonable price on your half of the ranch and stock."

I turned toward the door.

"Where are you going?" she asked.

"I've got a chore to attend to."

She guessed then, and cried out, "No, Will, no! I don't want you killed!"

But I went out of the house and crossed the muddy yard to where Roanie stood saddled and waiting. I asked "Who are they?"

"The first wagon belongs to Merle Turner," Red said. "The other three belong to Secore and Troy and Runyan."

The Anchor crew that had been with Turner and Dillingham all summer. I asked, "How about Gene Dillingham?"

"He ain't around," Curly said. "The devil he's not," I said, and swung into the saddle, my Winchester in the boot.

We left in a gallop, mud splattering behind us. Sarah, standing in the doorway, screamed, "Will! Come back! Will!"

I pretended not to hear her.

Will Beeson has not out to shoot some settlers. But he is riding toward hired killers who have him as their target. Continue "Gunlock" here tomorrow.

Still Searching for Flier Son After 8 Years

NORTH BEND, Wash. (U. S. A.)—A Tennessee mother, spurred by hope and faith, has begun her ninth summer of searching the Cascade Mountains for the flier son who never came home. Mrs. go. c. Maya of Clinton, Tenn. "Now there are only four. We want to take him home."

It was eight years ago that U. S. Navy Ensign, Gaston E. Mayes, 23, took off from Seattle with Lt. (j.g.) Benjamin O. Vreeland of Trenton, N. J.

The plane was never seen again. Civil and military aircraft spent hundreds of hours searching the area 35 miles east of Seattle, where residents had heard a plane that day. The search was eventually abandoned by all but the forts have been in vain, Mrs. family.

Undaunted, although all her efforts said: "I feel definitely encouraged each year."

On her first trip, in the late summer of 1929, Mrs. Mayes was accompanied by her husband and two other children, Bertram, now of Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Bernice, now Mrs. Maxwell Gilbert of Grand Rapids, Mich.

This summer, Mrs. Mayes is alone. She said her husband is ill and the two children now have children of their own.

Milk to Get No Vitamins, South Carolina Decides

COLUMBIA, S. C. (U. S. A.)—No vitamins are going to be added to whole milk sold in South Carolina, says the State Board of Health Executive Committee.

"If people need drugs or chemicals above the amount found normally in foods, they should seek the advice of a physician," State Health Officer Dr. G. S. T. Peoples says.

Farmer Blasts Plane From Air With Shotgun

LOCKHART, Tex. (U. S. A.)—The third time an Army liaison plane buzzed him while he walked in his field, farmer Robert Lee Bartling said, he picked up his .410-gauge shotgun and blasted the small craft full of buckshot. Bartling, 35, was charged in the Court of Justice of the Peace W. H. Hill with firing back to Camp Gary Army field.

Tour Through Mosque Will Tell

Does Ike Have a Hole in His Sock?

WASHINGTON (INS) — Should President Eisenhower have a hole in the toe of his sock on Friday, the entire free world will soon know about it.

That morning, after helping to dedicate the new Islamic center on Embassy Row, Ike will be expected to shed his shoes for an inspection tour of the exquisite mosque itself.

Unlike mosques in the Middle East, this one provides no grass slippers for a quick-change-over to hide the socks. The President, his cabinet and Congressional leaders will have to walk in their stocking feet over the 7,000 floral tiles which were brought from Turkey for the new Moslem center.

Secret Service men have already scoured every inch of the exciting new structure to ensure that no disgruntled crackpot can hide for a pot-shot at the President. They, too, have been doing their sleuthing without benefit of shoes.

Washingtonians are enchanted with the new addition to the capital skyline. Gleaming white in its heaven-ward climb, the 160-foot Minaret spirals gracefully through the shade trees can be seen for miles around.

USE LOUD SPEAKER

In contrast to some of the traditional mosques in the Mid-East, which retain their own muezzin, this Moslem center employs a loud speaker which five times a day carries the musical call to prayer.

As Ike and our governmental leaders tour the edifice Friday, they will see ten magnificent Oriental rugs specially woven by command of the Shah of Iran, carved pulpits and an enormous brass-and-silver chandelier from Egypt and tiles copied from the Blue Mosque in Istanbul.

The President's seven-minute speech may not be heavy in context, but it should provide a happy occasion for helping to cement our up-and-down diplomatic relations with the turbulent Arab world.

The million-dollar structure is the mutual project of all 14 Moslem nations whose ambassadors are in residence here. Each chipped in its share of the cost in identical ratio to its pro-rata contributions to the United Nations.

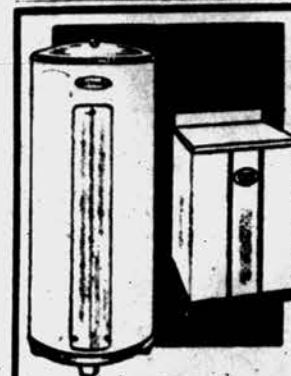

The President, who avoids exotic foods and strange concoctions whenever he chooses to please his doctors, will depart immediately after re-shodding his feet.

Some 400 other distinguished guests will, however, tarry for a lunch of sucking lambs, spiced meats rolled in grape leaves, and dozens of other delectable delicacies from the Arab world.

IN LIBRARY

The buffet table will be spread in the new library of the center, where American Moslems can go to study the teachers of the Koran and tourists can feast their eyes on a veritable treasure-house of mid-Eastern lore.

President Eisenhower's great good friend, King Saud of Saudi Arabia — richest of the Moslem rulers — not only contributed his country's share to the costs, but made a $50,000 supplementary gift and agreed to underwrite any remaining expenses.

SHOOTING SMOKE RINGS — A long way from Broadway's famous cigarette sign board, a large smoke ring forms above a three-inch gun mount on board the USS Philip, a Pacific Fleet destroyer. This unusual photograph was taken during gunnery competition among ships of Destroyer Squadron 25 off Oahu in the Hawaiian Islands.

Escaped Con Leaves No Forwarding Address

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U) — A letter sent to a prisoner at county penal farm was returned to the Memphis post office with a notation that the man had escaped.

So the post office mailed the letter back to the sender, bearing this stamp:

"Got some bad news last night. Our water heater sprung a leak."

SOMETHING NEW IN ELECTRIC WATER HEATING!

Only electric water heaters give you all these important advantages:

- ☑ Safest water heater built—flameless
- ☑ Plenty of hot water—24 hours a day
- ☑ Install anywhere—no flame, no flue
- ☑ Efficient—no heat wasted up a flue
- ☑ Cleanest—no soot, it's all-electric
- ☑ Cool to the touch—top to bottom
- ☑ Long lasting—built to rigid Edison standards

They add up to the finest hot water service ever offered in Southeastern Michigan

Dems Worried About Inflation

Joint Committee Warns Against Any Relaxation of Fiscal Restraints

WASHINGTON (U)—Democratic critics of the administration's hard money policies were left out on a limb today by a Democratic-dominated committee's warning against relaxation of present fiscal and monetary restraints.

A Senate-House Economic subcommittee, 3-2 Democratic, declared in a formal report yesterday that inflation poses "a grave economic problem" which does not warrant easing of tax burdens or credit curbs until government spending is "substantially" reduced.

The report ran counter to contentions of Senate Finance Committee Democrats that the Eisenhower administration's tight money policies and higher interest rates are hurting the economy and hobbling business. They have sought to buttress those contentions in questioning Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey at a committee hearing into money policies.

The report followed by a few hours a new declaration by President Eisenhower that there is real danger of inflation if industry and labor fail to curb their demands for price and wage increases.

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday that unless both sides show statesmanship in the period ahead, inflation constitutes a real threat to the economy of the nation.

Republicans on the Senate Finance Committee welcomed the subcommittee report as backing the administration's efforts against inflation.

Average Work Day Over Eight Hours

ANN ARBOR (U)—Those who think the 40-hour work week is normal practice in Detroit are in for a shock.

A University of Michigan survey of the Detroit area shows more than half the working population toils more than the standard eight-hour day, five-day week.

Using a cross section of 700 households in Wayne, Macomb and Oakland counties, the study discloses that professionals, proprietors, managers and officials put in the most time on the job. One employee out of three in these classifications works more than 51 hours a week.

Those who work the longest hours generally are self-employed, the survey says.

Also working longer hours are employees on jobs where there are few co-workers, according to the study.

The study additionally concludes that there is little indication that many workers hold two jobs.

Man on Relief in Prison for Earning $19,000

PHILADELPHIA (U)—For seven years caseworkers from the Pennsylvania Public Assistance Department always found Able Gibbs at home jobless and ailing. During that time he collected $13,994 in assistance for his wife and six children.

Today Gibbs was sent to jail after court testimony showed he had earned $19,000 during the same period from Nov. 4, 1948, to Nov. 5, 1955. He always appeared without work when the day caseworkers arrived because he had a job on a night shift, it was testified.

Of the total area of the province of Saskatchewan in Canada, about one-third is given over to forests, either under government or private control.

Logger's Son Shoots, Wounds His Baby Sitter

EUREKA, Calif. (U)—Authorities say 8-year-old Billy Barnes, son of a logger, shot and critically wounded his 12-year-old baby-sitter.

The girl, Terry Gerrits, told Deputy Sheriff J. C. Boyer that Billy shot her after an argument. She underwent surgery yesterday for removal of a portion of punctured intestine.

Billy insisted the shooting was an accident.

Official's Son Accused

LONDON (U)—Danny Chamoun, 23-year-old son of the President of Lebanon, today was named as correspondent in a divorce suit. Victor Silvester Jr., 32, son of a well-known dance band leader, cited Chamoun in suing his wife, Patti Morgan, 29, one of Britain's top models.

Stage Missile Doubleheader

AF Declines to Identify Either Shot; Reporters Give Only Details

MISSILE TEST CENTER, Cape Canaveral, Fla. (U)—A double-header rocket launching was staged at this experimental site yesterday but the Air Force declined to identify the missiles involved.

One flew aloft at 6:15 a.m., the other at 1 p.m. It was the first known time that two had been launched so closely together.

Only details on the launchings came from newspaper reporters who were in the area.

Mrs. Nina Joslin of the Orlando Sentinel news bureau said rocket No. 1 "went up with a white cloud trailing. It was a terrific white color and with the sun behind, it was beautiful. The sound was about as loud as the other shots."

"I was told that the one fired this afternoon came from the regular firing range and it apparently was another successful launching. There was another white cloud such as seen at regular launchings."

John Morton of the Miami Herald said neither missile was believed to be the reportedly successful intermediate range Jupiter, nor the intercontinental Atlas, one of which blew up after launching here two weeks ago.

Truck Runs Loose; Hits News Building

ANN ARBOR (U)—A runaway trailer-truck last night rolled 60 driverless yards before plowing into the front of the Ann Arbor News building.

The vagabond vehicle somehow zigzagged through rush-hour traffic without causing damage to cars or pedestrians before hopping the curb and crashing into the three-story newspaper plant.

The truck was slightly dented in the rear and a small amount of concrete and marble was chipped from the building.

Driver Jessie Ray Thomas, 29, of Jenison, said he got out of the truck to ask directions.

He said he took off on foot after the fleeing truck in futile pursuit when air apparently seeped from his brakes and permitted the truck to escape.

The truck belongs to the Haviland Products Co., a Grand Rapids chemical firm.

KNIGHT IN ARMOR

QUESTION: Did knights have to be bold?

ANSWER: The idea behind the bulletproof vests worn by soldiers in the last part of the Korean War was probably inspired by the knights of old. The knights wore armor from head to foot to protect them against sword blows. They were so well protected that they did not have to be as brave as we sometimes think.

The armor was beautifully made and awfully heavy. To get into his armor, the knight needed the help of his squire. To get on his horse, he would climb a platform. Later there were derricks and cranes to lift a knight onto his horse.

If the knight were ever thrown to the ground, he was as helpless as a turtle on its back.

FOR YOU TO DO: Ask your librarian to help you find the books that will show you some ancient weapons — like the cross bow, the bow and arrow, the old catapult. Make a list of these and see if you can write a story on how modern weapons developed. You may also color the picture above.

Stage Fright Can Help You Present
a Better Speech

ANN ARBOR — You're about to step out on the stage in front of an impassive audience. Your throat is parched, your knees tremble. You are suffering from stage fright.

You shouldn't be, says G. E. Densmore, a University of Michigan speech professor. But since you are, your speech will probably be better delivered, and better received.

He explains that knocking knees and butterflies are common among almost anyone who stands up to speak before a gathering of people.

"This fear simply means that the speaker is responding to the stimulation created by the presence of listeners," says Densmore.

more. "But the mind always does its best work when stimulated."

"If the speaker does not respond to audience stimulation, he is not functioning to the best of his ability. Since platform fear is a product of imagination, it can never be eliminated, but it can be reduced and controlled and be made to improve your speaking."

Densmore offers an antidote to combat the butterflies: Select a good subject. Make sure it is logically planned and organized. And keep it short.

Widow Proves SS Can Make Mistake

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

Mrs. Helenita Stephenson has proved that the Social Security Administration can be wrong. But it took almost two years, a lawsuit, and constant perseverance.

The story really started when her husband, Lt. Cmdr. Richard Stephenson, was returning to the aircraft carrier Philadelphia from a reconnaissance mission over Sicily in 1943. His plane was shot down and he was killed.

Besides his wife, Stephenson left three small children, the youngest less than a year and a half old.

Almost immediately Mrs. Stephenson and the children started getting monthly payments from the Veterans Administration due to her husband's death. They weren't eligible for Social Security payments.

MARRIED AGAIN

Then, in November, 1946, Mrs. Stephenson married Francis Hine. Three years later Congress changed the Social Security law making the Stephenson children eligible for monthly payments due to the death of their father. The mother couldn't get such payments because she had remarried.

In 1948, Mrs. Stephenson asked for and got an annulment of her marriage to Hine. The court gave the annulment on the ground of fraud because Hine hadn't told Mrs. Stephenson before their marriage that he had epilepsy.

The day after the annulment was given, Hine died.

The Social Security people told her she met all the requirements to be eligible, except that she had remarried and this disqualified her. They said the annulment didn't change the fact that she had remarried—at least in the eyes of the Social Security law.

Mrs. Stephenson then took the next step open to her. She went to court.

Early this month the court judge told the Social Security Administration its decision was wrong. He said the Social Security Act should be liberally interpreted and not thwarted by technicalities.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

U. of M. Contest Will Give Name

ANN ARBOR (U)—Two anonymous newcomers to Ann Arbor are looking for names.

The spanking new residents are two playful black bear cubs, each about four months old. One of the 35-pound playmates is a male, the other a female.

The little creatures pass their day away frolicking and dancing and wrestling in their cage at the University of Michigan's zoo.

The cubs were born in the Upper Peninsula and given to the zoo by the state Department of Conservation.

The University Museum is sponsoring a bear-naming contest, open to Michigan youngsters.

It closes midnight Sunday and only postcard entries mailed to the museum are permitted.

The winning youngster will receive a book—"The Mammals of the Great Lakes Area" by Dr. William Burt of the University.

H. P. Arnold Elected Kiwanis President

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (INS)—H. Park Arnold, 64-year-old Glendale, Calif., businessman, was elected unanimously today to a one-year term as president of Kiwanis International at the Kiwanis 42nd annual convention.

The retail lumber dealer and precision parts manufacturer was named by the nearly 15,000 delegates to succeed Reed C. Culp, of Salt Lake City, Utah. Arnold's term of office starts August 1.

In other actions, the delegates called for adoption and impartial enforcement by the states and provinces of uniform traffic laws as a means of cutting down highway accidents; good management and economy in government; conservation of human and natural resources, and constant improvement and expansion of our educational facilities.

ORANGE CUBE SALAD — It's a perfectly scrumptious salad that takes to any fruit. Not only does it look cool, but it tastes cool. No one will ever guess that this molded orange salad is made with buttermilk. Once tasted, it will immediately go on your list of favorite salads.

"Delightfully Different" Describes Tangy Gelatin

June and moon are Tin Pan Alley's classic rhymes for summer. But seasonal poetry for the kitchen suggests "Salad" and "Ballad" as a natural twosome too.

Summer salads can be something to sing about — colorful, luscious, gay with the fruits of the market and berry patch. Plan them with imagination, an eye to color, and a tasting tongue.

Here's one, for instance, which suits the mood of June to perfection—Orange Cube Salad garnished flavorfully with strawberries, blueberries and half cartwheels of orange, plus crisp greens.

The cool molded squares which distinguish this salad have a piquant, what-is-it flavor that leads guests to demand not only second helpings but the recipe as well. Secret of the piquancy is the addition of cool buttermilk to orange juice in the gelatin.

This intriguing member of the dairy family has a distinctive character all its own. Though buttermilk as a refreshing beverage is well known, not so many good cooks realize that its faint tang, never too sharp, nor too bland, gives many a salad just the right zest. Its flavor complements a wide variety of fruits as well as vegetables.

And since it is low in calories, and high in important milk nutrients, buttermilk belongs in the diet program of everybody counting calories. The distinction of flavor which it adds to many simple molded salads recommends it for Junetime's prettiest parties and most distinguished suppers.

Orange Cube Salad
1 package orange-flavored gelatin
1 cup orange juice
1 cup buttermilk

Dissolve gelatin in hot orange juice; add slowly to buttermilk, stirring constantly to blend. Pour into 4½ x 11" refrigerator tray. Chill until set. Serve cubed on lettuce greens; garnish with fresh strawberries, orange slices and blueberries. 4 servings.

Skillet Pop Corn on Outdoor Grill

There's a problem—and sometimes a delight—in keeping children out of harm and your guests' way during the outdoor grill season. A special treat for the youngsters can accomplish wonders. Here is one solution — a skillet full of popcorn. Simple and easy to prepare even out-of-doors, popcorn adds to any family get-together. It's especially good for that munching time at the end of a busy summer evening.

For those who like the extras, outdoor popcorn can bring a new taste when it's sprinkled with grated cheese while it's still hot. Here's the cheese popcorn recipe:

2 tablespoons salad oil
¾ cup unpopped corn
¾ cup melted butter or margarine
½ cup shredded process cheese
Heat the oil in a heavy skillet. Cover. Pop over low heat, shaking pan occasionally. When corn is popped, remove pan from heat. Remove cover and sprinkle popped corn with salt and pour on butter. Sprinkle with cheese. Place cover back and shake to coat evenly all of popcorn with butter and cheese. Yield: About 6 to 8 cups popped corn.

Food on Shelf Makes Nibbles

CHICAGO (INS) — An enterprising hostess comes up with tasty snacks to serve with cool drinks at impromptu backyard gatherings. And you can do the same without stocking up at a food specialty shop.

Here are some bite-size ideas that are quick and available from ingredients in most kitchens:

Cut sliced mild American, cheddar or swiss cheese to cover a saltine cracker; dot in the center with ketchup and broil until the cheese bubbles.

Dip bacon in sugar, wrap around saltine crackers, put on cake rack and bake in a 400 degree oven for 10 minutes until the bacon is crisp and brown.

Mix blue cheese and mayonnaise in equal portions, spread on rye crackers or crispbread and pop into the broiler until golden and bubbly.

Mix liver sausage with a bit of chopped onions, mayonnaise and prepared mustard. Put on small toast rounds, crackers or party rye bread slices and serve either cold or broiled for a minute or two.

Most cool drinks, incidentally, look better with a garnish. For lemonade, iced tea or coffee, the best touch is a sprig of mint. If none is available any pretty formed green leaf will do.

"Kabobs" are the latest cocktail glass adornment in Chicago. These kabobs are "strings" of stuffed olives, cocktail onions, ripe olives or pickle slices put together on toothpicks.

Brings $800 for CARE

Eight hundred dollars was the amount of a check to CARE from the state of North Dakota. What makes this sum unusual is that the entire amount was the price of just one loaf of bread, sold at auction recently in Minneapolis.

It was probably well worth the money; for the loaf of bread, baked as a stunt to publicize the state of North Dakota, weighed 500 pounds.

Local Strawberries Are Tops

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

After having some seventy-five quarts of strawberries to dispose of one way or another in the past ten days, my enthusiasm for strawberries has waned a little. However, I still think they are the best tasting berry we get all summer. This year there has been a bumper crop, as most of you know. The prices have been lower than usual. This means you can enjoy all sorts of strawberry treats.

Because strawberries are so fragrant and have good color and flavor, they demand special handling. As soon as you get them the freezer or the refrigerator home spread them out, remove any soft or spoiled berries and put the rest on a platter in the refrigerator. Don't wash them until you are ready to serve them.

I wash berries by placing them in a deep pan of water and swishing them around to remove all dirt. Then I drain them in a colander and repeat the process at least once more. Strawberries have been very sandy this year, probably because of the rain.

Last week I tried the recipe for uncooked jam. It makes an interesting jam that has good color and flavor. As soon as you get them the freezer or the refrigerator til used. You may like to try a batch. Remember that you should always make jam or jelly in small batches; never double the recipe.

Uncooked Strawberry Jam

2 cups prepared fruit
1 1/2 cups (17 pounds) sugar
1/2 cup water
1 box powdered fruit pectin
Crush berries thoroughly. You will need almost two quarts of berries to make the 3 cups of fruit. Measure sugar and set aside.
Mix water and powdered pectin in a small sauce pan. Bring to a boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Add to strawberries in large pan, stirring well. Then add sugar and stir briskly three minutes or until most of sugar is dissolved. There may be a few remaining crystals.

Ladle quickly into glasses or freezer containers, cover at once with tight seals or lids. Let stand 24 hours. Then store in freezer. This may be kept 2-3 weeks in the refrigerator. Makes 8-9 small glasses.

Strawberries are a good source of vitamin C. One cup of berries contains about the same amount of this vitamin as a 6-ounce glass of orange juice. One quart of fresh berries will make five servings. As we have done in previous years, we are giving the recipe for the best strawberry pie we have ever tasted. It is so easy to make.

Fresh Strawberry Pie

1/2 cup cold water
1 quart strawberries
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Wash berries before boiling, saving best ones for garnish. Put half the berries into a sauce-pan with sugar; crush them, using a pastry blender or potato masher.

Combine cornstarch with lemon juice and add to strawberry mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture has thickened and becomes transparent. Add remaining berries, which have been cut in half. Fold in gently.

Pour into baked pastry shell. Chill in refrigerator. Before serving, whip the cream and spread over top of pie. Garnish with whole berries.

Bavarian Cream makes a delicious dessert for a luncheon or dinner. Made with fresh strawberries, it is even better.

Strawberry Bavarian Cream
1 tablespoon gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
1 cup crushed strawberries
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1/2 cup confectioners sugar
Ladefingers or pieces of sponge cake
6 whole strawberries
Soften gelatin in cold water 5 minutes; heat over hot water, stirring until dissolved. Add to strawberries, mixing well and chill until slightly thickened. Fold in cream, sweetened with sugar, and chill mixture until thick enough to hold its shape.

Line parfait glasses with ladyfingers, or sponge cake, fill with gelatin mixture and top with a large berry. Chill. Serves six.
Strawberries also make an interesting cake frosting. At this time of the year you can have a pink frosted cake without the use of food coloring.

Strawberry Frosting
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 cups confectioners sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Beat butter and sugar together. Add lemon juice and beat until light and fluffy. Add strawberries and beat until well mixed.

Put Crunch Into Brownies

Dash of salt
1/2 cup fresh strawberry pulp
Cream butter or margarine until soft; gradually stir in one cup of the sugar, then the lemon juice and salt. Add remaining sugar alternately with the strawberry pulp, beating until smooth, after each addition. Add enough strawberry pulp for proper consistency to spread.

Coconut Topped Breakfast Cake

Such a good vegetable combination:

NEW POTATOES AND PEAS WITH DILL

1 pound small new potatoes
2 cups cooked green peas (fresh or frozen or canned)
Minced fresh dill
Butter or margarine
Salt and white pepper
Scrub potatoes but do not peel. Cover with salted boiling water; use 1/2 teaspoon salt per cup of water. Boil until tender when pierced with a fork in a covered saucepan — about 25 minutes.

Drain and peel. Mix with hot cooked peas and sprinkle liberally with minced dill. Add a couple of tablespoons (or more) butter, and salt and pepper to taste. Reheat gently in saucepan to blend flavors. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

If canned green peas are used, be sure to buy the tiny very early peas that are now being French-style in this country.

Try New Way to Coat Chicken Before Frying

CHICAGO (INS)—Fried chicken is a sure-fire hit but that's no reason for getting in a rut. It is easy to alter your recipe for fried chicken—as easy as putting salt and pepper on it.

For a change, try deviled chicken. Season with salt and pepper, spread with a prepared mustard, roll in bread crumbs and fry as usual.

After the chicken is dredged with seasoned flour and browned in the skillet, sprinkle on a favorite spice before cooking until tender. New flavors can include basil, thyme, rosemary, curry powder, garlic. In trying a new one keep the flavor subtle. Use no more than 1/4 teaspoon of an herb or spice for a 1 1/2 to three-pound fryer.

Cooks also have found that grating cheese into a bread crumb coating for fried chicken provides a tasty variation.

Another interesting, once-in-a-while change for fried chicken uses ginger. Dredge the chicken in 1/4 cup flour to which you've added one teaspoon of ginger. 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper. Brown in butter. Add the remaining seasoned flour, a bouillon cube, 1/4 cup water. Bring to a boil and then cover, simmering until tender. Stir in 1/2 cup cream and serve over peas or lima beans.

Spoon Chocolate Cream Over Cake

Nice for the gang for Saturday lunch.

Chocolate Pudding Sauce
1 package (4 ounces) chocolate-flavored pudding and pie filling mix.
2 cups milk.
1/2 cup heavy cream.

Prepare pudding according to package directions using the 2 cups milk. Cool and chill in a tightly-covered container. At serving time, whip the cream; fold into pudding. Serve over slices of frosted chocolate loaf cake. Makes enough sauce for 8 servings of cake.

You can add half a cup of well drained crushed pineapple to a standard 2-cups flour recipe for muffins.

AREN'T THEY BEAUTIFUL?—Oakland county strawberries are second to none when the season is at its peak. Press employee, Nancy Lewellen of Devonshire road and Mrs. Alfred Koop of West Ann Arbor street show off some of the larger berries which are grown locally. This is the time to enjoy strawberries and cream, strawberry shortcake, strawberry pie and to make strawberry jam. Take advantage of the big crop this year and use lots of berries.

Teenagers See Atomic Mushroom as Bright Portent

By EUGENE GILBERT
Pres., Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Growing up in the shadow of the atomic mushroom, most of today's teenagers hope it portends good rather than evil.

Three out of four youngsters say they are happy atomic energy was discovered.

One in three thinks the atomic bomb will end wars.

Only one in four thinks it's likely to destroy mankind.

At the same time, 55 per cent concede they do have fears for the atomic future. A Wisconsin girl sums hers up this way:

"Let's not talk about it. It sends chills up and down my spine—and I don't mean the kind you get for good than for evil.

when you look at a handsome boy, either!"

A 15-year-old boy, one of the non-frightened 38 per cent, takes a more fatalistic view:

"What's to be afraid of? You've got to die sometime—and I don't think one bomb is going to do it, anyway."

"People talk themselves into all sorts of stupid things," says another youngster. "The sky isn't going to fall down tomorrow but still some people worry about it."

Generally, the girls we questioned in a national survey were more fearful than the boys.

But, frightened or not, four out of five teenagers think atomic energy has greater possibilities for good than for evil.

"The atom can be a very helpful tool if we are wise enough to use it in the right way and not for destroying ourselves," says a Philadelphia girl.

"Unless the higher ups really go crazy, our civilization will stride forward because of atomic energy," observes a New Jersey boy.

"For me personally, the discovery of atomic power with its benefits to mankind is the major happening of the 20th century," enthuses an 18-year-old.

Speaking for the pessimistic minority, a Connecticut youth asserts:

"The forces of evil have caused the development of atomic energy. Perhaps the forces still left for good in the world will be able to drive it out before we all have to pay the penalty."

"I feel we would all be better off if it had not been developed because it can do more harm than good," adds a New Yorker.

On the question of whether there will be an atomic war, some 36 per cent say yes while 47 per cent say no.

"Nations will be too wary ever to fight a full scale war," says a Brooklyn boy hopefully.

"There will always be wars and more wars," counters a pessimistic Georgia youngster. "It will take more than a good scare to stop governments from wanting to crush other governments."

"It all depends upon nations' ability to cooperate and the role of power politics, but I am sure it will all work out," says a cautious optimist of 19.

While those feeling that atomic energy is likely to destroy mankind are in the minority, they state their case with blunt finality.

"I think we are destined to destroy ourselves," says a Sarah Lawrence College student.

"Everything points to the end of civilization as we presently know it," prophesies a college sophomore.

"I think it's already too late to stop the powers that be from causing our destruction and that of those around us," is the grim warning of a 15-year-old Los Angeles boy.

FINISH WITH BANG

"We're finished, man," says one young pessimist. "Whether we like to admit it or not. Maybe not today or tomorrow, but you can count on a big bang one of these fine days."

It is interesting to note that of that group five per cent foresee an end to mankind in five years, nine per cent in five to 10 years, 10 per cent in 10 to 20 years and 64 per cent in more than 20 years.

But, on the bright side, there are those who believe every bit as firmly that there is a future for homo sapiens.

"I think eventual fear of atomic energy will end war and atomic energy will be used to benefit mankind," predicts a New Haven, Conn., boy.

"Nothing can wipe us off the face of the earth," concludes a Chicago girl, with the faith and bright confidence of her 16 years.

Auxiliary Holds Membership Tea

The home of Mrs. John A. Reid on Cranbrook road was the setting Wednesday for St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital Auxiliary's annual membership tea.

About 100 members and guests attended the affair.

As part of the entertainment 20 girls in costumes participated in Grecian, Polish and Russian dances which were features of a recent recital. A "sailor's hornpipe" dance was also on the program.

Background music throughout the afternoon was provided by organist Frederick Gross.

Tea was served from a table spread with a Madiera cloth and centered with an arrangement of blue delphinium, fern and pink carnations in a silver urn. Silver candelabra held pale pink candles.

Hostesses included Mrs. James Q. Goudie, Mrs. George Baldwin, Mrs. H. Guy Moats and Mrs. Eva L. Richards. Mrs. Edward G. Rockwell, membership chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Mitchell E. Foster and Mrs. John P. Dacey in receiving dues and making out membership cards.

LeROY P. KRAFT
LeRoy P. Kraft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pius Kraft of Oliver street, recently received a bachelor of philosophy degree in political science from U of D.

New members include Mrs. E. P. Cranshaw, Mrs. P. V. Wagley, Mrs. John P. Dacey, Mrs. William R. Wise, Mrs. Arthur Kinney, Mrs. John S. Mahoney, Mrs. Palmer Bundy, Mrs. Charles Wagner, Mrs. Helen Reese, Mrs. G. L. Herrington, Mrs. Lyle Pasmore and Mrs. Arthur Robertson.

'Adam's Evening' to Open Friday

The Circle Players of Pontiac will present "Adam's Evening," the second production of the season, Friday and Saturday.

Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m. Performances will be given in the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building. The play is a comedy in three acts.

William Bowes Takes Bride in Wisconsin

Kathleen Elaine Jonassen became the bride of William Dale Bowes in Our Savior's Lutheran Church at Sheboygan, Wis. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Jonassen of Sheboygan, and William's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Teddy R. Bowes of Chamberlain street.

For her June 1 wedding, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The dress had a peplum over an underskirt of net ruffles and featured a Sabrina neckline with sprays of sequins.

A coronet of lace with pearl, sequin and rhinestone trim held her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of roses graduated in shades of pink and red.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Theodore W. Jonassen and Mrs. Gerald Fritz.

Gerald Fritz served his brother-in-law as best man, Theodore Clifton and Kenneth Jonassen were the ushers.

DR. JASON GOODE
The University of Michigan School of Dentistry has awarded Jason Goode the degree of doctor of dentistry. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Goode of Cherokee drive.

MR. AND MRS. D. E. WOLFGANG

Mary Flanigan Becomes Bride of Donald Wolfgang

Two hundred guests witnessed the marriage Saturday of Mary Eileen Flanigan to Donald E. Wolfgang. The Rev. M. J. O'Reilly performed the 11 a.m. Nuptial Mass at St. Michael Church.

The bride's gown of floor length embroidered organdy featured a Sabrina neckline and a straight center panel skirt with three tiers of embroidered organdy. The gown had short sleeves and the bride wore short white gloves.

A seed pearl crown held Mary's fingertip veil of French silk illusion, and she carried a cascade arrangement of carnations and stephanotis.

The bride's sister, Rose Marie Flanigan, served as her maid of honor, and Mildred Schwartz was the bridesmaid. Both wore gowns of waltz-length embroidered blue organdy, with full skirts and pleated shoulders. Short white gloves and fan arrangements of white and blue carnations completed their ensembles.

FLOWER GIRL IN BLUE

Another sister of the bride, Barbara Jane Flanigan, was the flower girl. She wore a dress of blue batiste which featured a white embroidered organdy pinafore.

Thomas G. Flanigan served as Donald's best man. Ushers were James R. Flanigan and Elton Sparks of Rochester.

Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Flanigan of Edison street, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Wolfgang of Riverdale are Donald's parents.

The bride's mother chose a dress of gray lace over pink tulle.

MRS. GLADYS MAYNARD

Mrs. Flora Ardelan of State avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Mrs. Gladys Maynard, to Arthur M. LaFave Jr. He is the son of the senior Arthur LaFaves of Washington street. The couple plans to be married Aug. 10 in St. Michael Church.

Farewell Dinner and Reception Honors Tiffanys

Mayor William Donaldson sent best wishes from the citizens of Pontiac last night to the Rev. and Mrs. Fred R. Tiffany at a farewell dinner and reception given for them at Rotunda Inn.

The Tiffanys, who are leaving for Chicago where both will attend the University of Chicago, heard Dr. Joseph Chapman of Bethany Baptist Church open with an invocation.

Acting as toastmaster was Richard Acree and reading the out-of-town testimonial letters and telegrams was W. C. Crawford.

Giving brief speeches were the Rev. J. Allen Parker of the Newman AME Church, Herman Stenback of Temple Beth Jacob and Judge H. Russell Holland.

Judge Holland presented a gift to the Tiffanys on behalf of the group present.

MR. AND MRS. ELMER J. FEZZEY

Friends and relatives gathered Wednesday at the Oakland County Boat Club to celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Fezzey of Pontiac drive, Sylvan Lake. Among the guests were their children Mrs. John Pierce of Birmingham, Mrs. Blanche Kindig of Sylvan Lake, and John of Berkley.

From left are Mrs. A. Floyd Blakeslee, Mrs. J. Standish Sibley, Mrs. O. H. Lundbeck and Mrs. C. R. Gately, who heads the Pontiac Branch of Women's National Farm and Garden Association and give flower arrangement instruction at Pontiac State Hospital.

To make a tasty topping for an angel food cake, pour 1/2 cup warm milk over the honey over sections of six oranges. Bake.

The Keola Klub has announced officers for the coming year: Lynne Benter is the new president; Ellen Taylor, vice president; Julie Blank, recording secretary; Vicki McLaughlin, corresponding secretary; and Sara Hetherington, treasurer.

The club's historian is Krista Kaasik, and the sergeants-at-arms are Mary Wood and Carol Esser. Donna Gravely and Sue Ullgen will handle publicity.

Overbaking Damages Beauty, Health

Be Cautious in Your Sun Worship

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This is the time of year when thousands of girls and women are busy baking themselves rather than three layer cakes. In fact some of them cook themselves three layers deep.

Every one of us has some of the Sun Worshiper in us. We love to bask in the sun's warmth. It relaxes and soothes. Undoubtedly the habit of taking sunbaths or spending hours in the sunny outdoors builds health.

But like every other good thing, too much of it can damage beauty and health. Extreme and unintelligent sunbathing even can endanger life.

From the standpoint of good health you should acquire your suntan gradually. Certainly this is true also if you wish to avoid extreme discomfort. For good looks, ditto. If you brown too rapidly you will blister and peel and look more like a zebra than a bronzed mermaid.

If you are one who is determined to get a beautiful, deep brown—go slowly. You should only sun 10 minutes to a side to begin with. You can also use one of the screening lotions when you go to the beach, and wear a shirt over your bathing suit after a while in the sun. For the sake of your appearance do this. Otherwise you will never achieve the smooth, rich brown you long for.

If you are one who is determined to get a beautiful, deep brown, go slowly. You should only sun 10 minutes to a side to begin with.

DRIES OUT OILS

Of course I believe that the woman who, year after year, indulges in too much sunbathing forfeits her right to expect a youthful skin at 50 or 60.

While sunlight is a beauty aid in that it improves health, nevertheless it dries out the skin's natural oils. These diminish with age anyway. The very young woman may get away with a deep brown each summer but the woman past 35 should be more temperate.

You can enjoy outdoor life without too great a penalty in looks if you will play golf and swim in the early morning or later afternoon rather than at mid-day. You can wear a big hat at the beach and an eyeshade which somewhat protects your face when on the golf course or tennis court. You also can use one of the screening lotions or an oily makeup base.

When you take your sunbaths at home you can lie so that your body is exposed to the direct rays and your head and shoulders are protected. Then if your brown legs are too great a contrast to your lighter face, you can use a suntan makeup during the summer months.

Be a Ready-to-Go Girl

The teenager who's always ready to go places and do things, who doesn't need a week's advance notice to get ready for a date, is the one who rates the most dates and the most fun.

If she gets stuck at home because she hasn't shampooed her hair, pressed a dress or sewed on missing buttons and snaps, it's her bad luck.

Because that's the way a girl learns that scraps of time in the evening can be put to good use. While her hair is drying after a shampoo, she can give herself a

MR. AND MRS. CLAY T. POWERS

Mary Chase Says Vows in Royal Oak Ceremony

Mary Chase and Clay T. Powers were married Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the First Methodist Church, Royal Oak. The Rev. Horace Thurston performed the double-ring ceremony.

Mary chose a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace. The dress featured a wide V neckline, a fitted bodice and pointed sleeves. The skirt was bouffant. A fingertip veil of illusion fell from a small cap of embroidered lace trimmed with tiny seed pearls.

To serve as matron of honor Mary chose her sister, Mrs. Leslie Langford. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Stanley Nancarrow of Chicago and Ruth Jo Gilmore of Toledo.

They all wore gowns of white dotted nylon over orchid taffeta. A cowl collar of taffeta and a Priscilla bow of taffeta were features of the gowns. Mrs. Langford carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and lavender pompons. The bridesmaids carried cascade bouquets of lavender pompons.

Janet Langford and Jeannene Langford, nieces of the bride, served as flower girls. Their dresses were of white embroidered cotton with bouffant skirts. They wore white gloves and pearls. White straw cone-shaped baskets filled with rose petals were carried by the girls.

ASSIST BRIDEGROOM

Clay asked his brother, Floyd Powers, to serve as best man. Ushers were Leslie Langford and Richard Sandberg. Charles Di Aconni, a cousin of the bridegroom, was the ringbearer.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. The former Miss Chase is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Chase of Oliver street. Clay's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Powers of LaSalle avenue.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Chase wore a street-length dress of Wedgewood rose lace with matching accessories. Her corsage was of orchids. Mrs. Powers chose a blue lace street-length dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was also of orchids.

For a wedding trip to Texas the bride wore a yellow embroidered cotton eyelet dress with black accessories. The newlyweds will live in Royal Oak when they return.

Toastmistresses Meet to Install New Officers

New officers were installed at a meeting of the Pontiac Toastmistress Club held Tuesday evening in the Hotel Waldron.

Mrs. Milton Freet installed Mrs. Ivan Wilcox as president, Mrs. George Gaches as vice president, Mrs. Sidney Olson as recording secretary, Mrs. Clayton Tibbals, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Howard Wheatley, treasurer.

Committees for the following year were announced. Mrs. Clayton will head membership; Mrs. Robert Bunce, program; Mrs. Robert Sutton, publicity; Mrs. George Gaches, education; Ruth Freeman, community service.

Helen Lapsch has charge of hospitality; Mrs. Evelyn Cole, historian; Mrs. Freet, parliamentarian and public relations; Mrs. Orben Wilkins, flowers; Mrs. George Stafford, reservations; and Helen Turek, timer and oscar.

Plans were announced for a picnic, to be held at the home of Mrs. Ivan Wilcox in August.

Hubby's Hat Big?

If your husband's favorite hat seems to be too big after your haircut, size it down without paper padding by turning the leather sweat band inside out and applying a four-inch strip of tape to the rough side. Add or subtract a bit of tape for perfect fit.

Meets for Breakfast

Mary Morton Chapter of the WCTU held a breakfast at the home of Mrs. Edward Bradley of Chapman street. Assisting the hostess was Mrs. Henry Reed.

It's a good idea if you're buying a hat to wear with a particular suit or coat to wear the costume for which it's intended while you're shopping. You'll know in a moment if the hat is right.

Workers in Horticultural Therapy Are Named Volunteers of the Month

Chosen as Volunteers of the Month, members of the horticultural therapy committee of Pontiac branch, Women's National Farm and Garden Association, are being honored in June by the Central Volunteers Bureau.

Formed almost four years ago, the committee has held continuous weekly flower arrangement classes at Pontiac State Hospital in the Occupational Therapy Department and one of the women's cottages.

Headed by Mrs. J. Standish Sibley as chairman, the present list of workers include the following women from the Pontiac garden club:

Mrs. Robert Armstrong, Mrs. A. Floyd Blakeslee, Mrs. O. H. Lundbeck, Mrs. C. R. Galley, Mrs.

Goodloe Rogers, Mrs. Kenneth Long, Mrs. Harry Pearce, Mrs. Ferdinand Gaensbauer and Mrs. Frederick Lowe.

Working with them are Mrs. J. Edwin Watson and Mrs. George Sieger of the Bloomfield Branch.

OTHER WORKERS

Non-garden club workers are Mrs. Robert Neinstead, Dorothy Backenstose and Mrs. D. C. McKay of Franklin.

Flowers are donated each week by a local florist. No formal instruction is given, but each hospital patient is given individual help as needed to make a corsage or arrange a bouquet for her hall or room.

The group has been given awards of service by Pontiac State Hospital and by the Michigan Division of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association.

Mrs. Haire Hostess for Trabajamas Tea

Sixteen members and guests attended the formal tea of the Trabajamas given by Mrs. Robert Haire of DeSoto street.

Also present for the recent affair were incoming members Muriel Upton and Helene Prizant.

North-South Wins

Winners of the master point game sponsored by Pontiac Duplicate Bridge Club Monday were North-South. Mrs. Norma Keller and Mary Malchie, East-West winners were Mrs. Tom Weeks and Lyle Maddox.

Lists Directions for Washing Orlon Blankets

Orlon blankets can be washed by hand or machine, but treat soiled spots and bindings with a soap or detergent solutions before-hand.

Catherine M. Sullivan, University of Illinois home management specialist, offers some general directions for women to follow in laundering orlon blankets.

In a machine, wash only one blanket at a time. Use warm water and wash the blanket five minutes. Cut the final spin-dry cycle to two or three minutes to avoid wrinkling.

The blanket can either be hung on a line or dried in a machine. If you use the drier, let the blanket tumble at low heat for 20 minutes.

To launder orlon blankets by hand, use warm water and also rinse in warm water until no suds appear. Squeeze out excess water gently, but do not twist or wring.

Don't Be Mercenary About Hobby

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Too many people feel that there's no point in taking on a hobby or a sideline activity unless there's money in it. A reflection of that nearly universal feeling can be seen in the following remark, made to me recently after a lecture.

"I'd love to write songs," a woman told me, "but anybody knows it's a field full of racketeers. The beginner hasn't a chance."

Of course, it's perfectly true that professional songwriting is a hard field to crack. You've got about the same chances as you have with a sweepstakes ticket.

Those who plod along, hoping to make a sale, are probably headed for frustration and bitterness. WONDERFUL FUN

But writing songs can be wonderful fun and it can do a lot to unleash your other creative faculties.

Anything which makes you express yourself creatively, brings out new facets in your personality and makes more exciting things happen to you.

Take, for example, Amy B.

Amy has a rather dull secretarial job, which pays decently and which she performs well. She's been wanting to branch out into something more interesting, but didn't know where to begin.

"I'm not the creative type," she told me, "I don't get really good ideas like the others do."

I could see that this wasn't true. Amy had evidently been brought up by overly "sensible" parents and had been given the idea that she was a good planning type, but lacked imagination.

MORE IMAGINATION

Actually, Amy's reactions and comments had led me to believe that she had far more imagination and creative ability than she credited herself with. But if we think we lack talent, for all practical purposes we do.

One of the clubs Amy belonged to was giving a big party and the program chairman asked Amy to do the placecards.

She decided to write short verses about each guest—and they were charming. In fact, she got so many compliments on them, she decided to try a hand at writing lyrics for songs.

She had always liked the idea, but had never had the confidence to do it.

Then, one day, another girl in the club, a musician, offered to write the melodies and, together, they turned out some pretty good songs.

DISCOVERED HERSELF

So far, nothing has come of the songs. No talent scout has miraculously "discovered" them and probably never will. But Amy has discovered herself—and that is pretty miraculous.

Once she began to feel like a creative person, her whole personality changed.

Now she is trying her hand at advertising copy for her boss and will probably soon be promoted to a creative job!

Any creative activity will pay its way, because it will develop your creative side.

If songwriting interests you, send me a stamped self-addressed envelope, care of The Pontiac Press, for my list of good books in the field.

Lace Takes Place in Sun or Moonlight

NEW YORK (NEA) — Joining up with wool and cotton as a year-around fabric is that lovely newcomer, lace.

It's a newcomer in the sense that it is used to be confined to certain seasons. Now it's blossoming out all over.

Not only is it present in all seasons, it's welcome daytime and evening, too. It even appears on the beach in the form of swimsuits and beach coats.

It's a natural for the dressy sheath with matching cashmere sweater that has its own lace trim.

It is often elegantly formal, of course, but it's for short evening gowns, cocktail dresses and dressy suits, too.

Sure, Money Grows on Shoe Trees

Money grows on shoe trees. At least, shoe trees can save you money by extending the life and good looks of your shoes.

Have a pair of trees for each pair of shoes and make sure to get either the correct size or trees that are adjustable to your size. The initial cost of shoe trees is well paid back by dividends of shoe savings throughout the years.

Save yourself travel woes by slipping an old pair of socks over the shoes you pack in your suitcase. This will prevent soiling your clothes and linen.

Modern Homes Provide Plenty of Chores for Kids

Wise Parents Make Teenagers Share in Keeping Up the Household

BY RUTH MILLETT

Nobody pretends that there is a single cause for the alarming rise in juvenile delinquency in the so-called "good times" our country is enjoying.

But most of those who have made a study of the breakdown of parental authority and the rise in juvenile crime point out that the "lack of chores" for children to do is one reason.

It's true that a child brought up in an apartment or in a house on a small suburban lot isn't needed as much to help with everyday chores as one brought up on a farm.

But in running any home there are still plenty of chores that have to be done every day.

It's not from a lack of chores to do that today's older children and teenagers are suffering. They are suffering from the modern notion of parents that their children must be free to have a good time, while the parents do all the drudgery.

HIRE SOMEONE

I'll wager you know parents with high school age sons who either hire someone to use a power mower or get out and do it themselves. Either way it is easier than telling Junior that keeping the lawn mowed and trimmed is his responsibility.

And many a housewife does all the yard work while her teenagers ride around in the family car "looking for something to do." It may be good for the housewife's figure, but it isn't very good for the character of her teenage children.

In any home today, no matter how many labor-saving devices there are, there is plenty of work that could be shared by every member of the family.

Sharing the work would not only keep children busy, it would make the leisure time they earn by doing their share of the work prized enough to be enjoyed.

With summer here, parents would do better to demand some help from their children than to turn them loose to simply have fun all day, every day.

Short-Cut Gets Nod

The short, short hairdo, round and with fringe bangs, is getting the nod from best dressed women since Mrs. William Paley (Number One on this year's official Best Dressed list) has been seen having hers cropped and curved.

MR. AND MRS. L. L. PEMBERTON

Lyman Pemberton Takes JoAnn M. Mabry as Bride

Jo Ann Marie Mabry became the bride of Lyman Lloyd Pemberton Saturday in the United Presbyterian Church. The Rev. H. J. McCann performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of French Chantilly lace and tulle with Sabrina neckline and fitted bodice. Long sleeves tapered to points over the wrists and the dress featured a bouffant skirt.

A tiara embroidered with sequins and seed pearls secured her fingertip veil of French silk illusion edged with Chantilly lace, and she carried an orchid on a white Bible.

Patricia Bale of Royal Oak served as the honor attendant, and Bonnie Jenkins was the bridesmaid.

The maid of honor wore a ballerina length gown of white nylon, embroidered with red flowers over satin and accented with a wide, red cummerbund. The bridesmaid wore a turquoise dress of the same design. Both carried cascades of carnations.

Jack Pemberton served as his brother's best man. Seating the guests were the bride's brothers, Roy and Bill Mabry.

JoAnn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Mabry of Auburn Heights and Lyman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Pemberton of Fairgrove drive.

RECEPTION GIVEN

For a reception which followed the ceremony, Mrs. Mabry wore a sheath of blue lace over satin with a jacket. Her accessories were white and her corsage was of pink and white carnations.

The bridegroom's mother chose a beige nylon dress with white accessories. She wore a corsage of pink and white carnations.

For a wedding trip to northern Michigan the new Mrs. Pemberton changed to a light blue suit with white accessories and wore the orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will live in Auburn Heights.

Match Texture, Too

The well turned out man matches textures as well as colors. For example, he wears rough grained shoes such as llama calf, buckskin, and Scotch grains with tweeds and chevrons. With flannels, he chooses rough or smooth grained leathers. It is safest, however, to stick with smooth calfskins and veals with the slick-surfaced worsteds like sharkskin.

MADE IN MICHIGAN

Miriam Summerfield, Washington Join in Mutual Admiration

(This is another article in which a noted Washington correspondent takes you behind the scenes on the capital's social circuit to meet the city's most exciting women.)

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (INS) — By all odds the most sparkling feminine member of President Eisenhower's official family is Mrs. Arthur E. Summerfield, wife of the postmaster general.

The brunette, brown-eyed Michigander who married in her teens remains modest, unassuming and full of sparkle despite the Horatio Alger type of Summerfield success.

The wealth and influence that Art and Miriam enjoy today are based on hard work and occasional heartbreak, not on inheritance. In fact, the future Cabinet officer at the age of 18 had a job delivering cars from Flint to Alma when he met Miriam on a blind date in that little Michigan town.

A year later, they were married in Flint where the Alma girl by then held an interest in a tiny retail business. During that war year of 1918, Arthur tested shells in the Chevrolet plant, but with peace the young couple opened their own real estate office, and Miriam kept the books.

A daughter was born in 1920, and Arthur Jr. two years later. Scrimping, saving and doing all of their own work, the Summerfields saved money enough to buy real estate, a piece at a time, and to sell it for a profit.

OLDEST HOUSE

Their first real home was the oldest house in Flint, a white elephant which came with one piece of land, and which they remodeled into a duplex so that they could rent out one side.

Miriam will never forget that Christmas of 1920 when, with overpowering pride, they gave each other ruffled curtains for their Yuletide exchange.

Arthur next acquired an oil distributorship and a brokerage license, and by 1929 had prospered enough to lose a considerable "fortune" — his life's savings — in the stock market crash.

That same year he also acquired one of the two Chevrolet distributorships in Flint and by 1933 could afford to take his family and ailing father to Florida. On arrival, Flint was calling. The banks had closed.

Art took one swim in the ocean and caught the next train to Flint. The family, confident that travelers' checks would be honored, prepared to drive home. It was a rude awakening. Only cash talked at that time, and they had none.

NO CASH AVAILABLE

At last, Summerfield telegraphed them money, only to discover that the Florida branch had no cash to pay off. Undaunted, Miriam spent the day in the Western Union office until a customer finally entered to wire money to his wife in Wisconsin. The teller paid her the cash and the sad trek home began.

With returning prosperity the Summerfields took a cruise to South America in 1936, and began spending summers at their lakeside cottage in northern Michigan.

Wendell Wilkie came to Michigan in 1940 to campaign for the presidency, and was belted with tomatoes and eggs. The Summerfields were shocked that any presidential candidate should be so abused in their home state.

Art expressed his feelings at a City Club luncheon and was persuaded to "do something about it." The future politician began by cleaning up the financial mess in the county, and then in the state. So successful was his drive for funds that he was soon knee-deep in national Republican finances.

Miriam hated the thought of political activities, and bridled when the headmaster of her son's school recommended that he major in political science.

Arthur soberly reminded her that in England a mother's dearest wish is for her son to serve his government. The next test came in 1952 immediately on their return from Florida, where Miriam had carried trays for her ailing father-in-law and recuperating husband.

Arthur announced that they were leaving for Paris to help persuade Ike to run for the presidency.

Miriam, exhausted and as yet unpacked from Florida, sighed that she couldn't make it, but she will never forget Arthur's reply: "It is little enough to do for your country."

They went, Ike ran, and Art became chairman of the Republican National Committee, with a promise to give up politics at the close of the campaign.

Instead, he agreed to become postmaster general "for one year," but is already well into his fifth. Mrs. Summerfield, prepared to dislike the hubbub of Washington, is enchanted with the people, adores the parties, and loves the "hard work" of a Cabinet wife's official duties.

Washington is equally enraptured with her piquant charm and zest for living.

The Summerfield's spacious Washington apartment is filled with antiques and china that Miriam has collected here and abroad. She sometimes pines for the fishing in northern Michigan, but if Art decides to bow out before Ike, it won't be because of his delightful wife's persuasion. Not now!

Pair Wed in Church Rite

Gail Maureen Barnett and Max Bowen spoke their nuptial vows in an evening ceremony Saturday at the Church of Christ here. The Rev. Milton Truax officiated at the service, solemnized before an altar decorated with white and pink carnations.

Gail is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Barnett of Cadillac avenue. Max's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Vester Bowen of Crescent street.

Some 250 guests watched the bride walk up the aisle dressed in a gown of satin and lace with scalloped neck and long sleeves of petticoat.

A spray of white flowers secured her fingertip veil, and she carried a cascade arrangement of white butterfly roses and nylon butterflies.

ASSIST BRIDE

Matron of honor was Gail's sister, Mrs. William Rowe. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. William Calendar, served as bridesmaid.

Ralph Bowen, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Max's nephew, Arnold Calendar, and his brother-in-law, William Rowe, served him as ushers.

A reception was held in Gingellville Community Center, following the service.

After a short honeymoon, the newlyweds will make their home on Columbia street in Pontiac.

CLARENCE N. FRANK

A bachelor of arts degree was recently awarded to Clarence N. Frank by the University of Detroit. He lives on Edgewood drive.

John Haaseth, Arlin Bernhagen Wed in Iowa

One hundred guests witnessed the marriage of Arlin Bernhagen and Arlin I.C. John M. Haaseth in St. John Lutheran Church, Waverly, Iowa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bernhagen of Milwaukee. John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer M. Haaseth of Middlebelt road.

For the June 16 wedding, the bride chose a floor length gown of nylon tulle ruffles over net and satin. The neckline was fashioned in a peplum effect and the fitted bodice was accented with Chantilly lace. The gown featured long fitted sleeves and a scalloped Sabrina neckline with aquila trim.

The bride's veil of elbow length tulle fell from a jeweled crown, and she carried an orchid on a white prayer book.

The bride's attendant was Dorothy Korte of Waverly, and Linda Liddle of Waverly served as the flower girl. Serving the bridegroom as best man was Marvin Nolte of Waverly. Marvin Tim and Robert Craton of Waverly were ushers.

Avoid Cold Showers

When murderously hot weather becomes front-page news don't make the mistake of taking a cold shower to cool off. This will afford only momentary relief, as the cold water will stir up your circulation so that you'll actually feel twice as warm as before, by the time you're thoroughly dried.

Take time out and enjoy a good soaking. Use a few drops of bath oil with a pine scent. Relax, then pat yourself dry. It's heavenly.

Mom Asks About Call on Visitors

Should She Greet the Parents of Her Daughter's Beau?

BY EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter met a young man several months ago through a mutual friend and she has been seeing him quite regularly ever since. He is working in this city but his home is in another state. Very shortly his parents are coming to this city for a visit with him and will stay at one of the hotels.

"They are complete strangers to me and my daughter. Shall I call on them while they are visiting here, or might this seem as though I were rushing things? Please tell me the correct thing to do in this situation."

Answer: If both your daughter and the young man would like you to, it would be friendly as well as correct to call on them at the hotel and invite them to your house to lunch or dinner or supper. If you can't invite them to a meal, then ask them to come in the afternoon for a cup of tea.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When having linens monogrammed with three initials, which initial should be in the center? I am confused as some say it should be my maiden initial and others say it should be the initial of my future husband's name. I am referring to the type of monogram which has a larger center initial."

Answer: The large center initial should be that of your future name with your two present initials smaller and on either side of it.

"Dear Mrs. Post: What is the correct name for a wife to use when she and her husband are separated, but not divorced?"

Answer: Usually she keeps his name. The fact that they have different addresses shows that they have separated.

The further fact that neither can remarry avoids the complication of ex-wife and wife No. 2 having duplicate names. This is the principal reason why the divorcee properly gives up her husband's first name and replaces it with her maiden name.

Knit Practical Travel Costume of Orlon Yarn

Any woman who is handy with knitting needles can create an ideal travel costume with orlon yarn. Created in a lacy pattern, the dress will be coolly comfortable yet elegantly suitable for hotel stop-overs.

Best of all, it can be sudsed, rinsed, and dried flat without blocking or shaping—and will dry while the owner takes a recuperative nap.

For women in a hurry, this sort of travel-dress can be purchased in machine-knit orlon lace at many fine stores that cater to travel-wise and fashion-conscious customers.

Cover Recipe Cards

Dog-eared and smudged recipe cards can be things of the past. To protect file cards around the home, cover with waxed paper envelopes. Simply fold paper over file card and seal edges with hot iron.

Reward Effort, Not Achievements

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A friend recently told me this story.

At 9, she conceived a passionate envy of another little girl who'd just had her hair cut into bangs. She wanted bangs, too—but her mother said no, because if they weren't becoming, you had to wait so long for them to grow out. But my friend's passionate wish for bangs persisted.

One night she was studying hard for a final test in arithmetic—her most difficult subject. So sympathetic was her mother that she was moved to ask, "Can I have bangs if I pass this test?" The answer was yes.

The following afternoon her mother was waiting for her after school. "We're going downtown right now to get those bangs cut," she said.

"But I don't know yet if I've passed my test or not!" protested the child.

Very gravely her mother said, "I am rewarding you, Kathi, not for what your teacher thinks of the hard work you did last night but for the hard work itself."

SUSTAINS HER

My friend's mother was murdered in a Nazi concentration camp. Recounting this childhood experience, the daughter said, "The memory of my mother's respect for my work instead of for its results is what has sustained me all my life since."

I do not understand parents' feeling that Johnny's schoolwork is meaningless to them until its value has been confirmed for them by promotion, graduation and other forms of worldly approval.

Their contempt for Johnny's effort is what distracts him from effort — and turns him into a chronically dependent neurotic always wondering what the other fellow is going to think of what he does.

So, with school over for the summer, I remind you that every holy book ever written for human enlightenment requires our disinterest in the results of effort to center purely interest on the effort itself.

Says our own Bible's Paul: "I planted; but God gave the increase." Says China's Lao Tse: "The wise man accomplishes without interest in credit." Says India's Song of God: "The ignorant work for the fruit of the action."

Don't Allow Acne to Get Head Start

The best time for a teenager to get after a case of acne is while it's still mild. Don't let it set in; it may become really serious.

And getting rid of acne takes discipline, self-control and accuracy.

Keep your skin scrupulously clean. Wash it at least twice a day with mild soap and warm water. Don't use makeup other than a little lipstick. If you must powder your nose, use clean cotton balls for each powdering.

Don't touch your face with your hands, ever. And do drink lots of water and get lots of rest. You know that you must avoid rich and fatty foods. Be out in the sun as much as you can.

Get plenty of exercise, which will help your circulation. And don't let up on the program for one single day if you hope to see improvement.

Graham Lashes Back at Critics

Asks All New Yorkers at His Garden Meeting to Declare Themselves

NEW YORK (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham gave an answer at Madison Square Garden last night to critics who he said had contended it wasn't New Yorkers who attend his nightly meetings. He asked the New York area people in the estimated crowd of 16,500 to stand up. An estimated 85 per cent rose to their feet, then sat down at his bidding.

Graham's text was Luke 23:42: "And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when Thou comest into Thy kingdom."

He said the Bible teaches that God forgets sins and he quoted this passage: "And their sins and iniquities I remember no more."

"All you have to do tonight," he said, "is confess to Christ that you have sinned and need forgiveness and that you need God, and he will answer you."

Total attendance since the meetings began May 15 was announced as 739,100. There were 559 "decisions for Christ," raising the total to 23,657.

Last night's meeting was the 41st at the Garden, and Graham's staff said the New York crusade now has run longer than any other event ever held in the arena.

The previous record was 40 consecutive days of performance by a circus.

Last night, 600 residents of the Louisville, Ky., area attended the service for the second consecutive night. They then left by special train for home. Another special train will arrive Saturday with a like number of Kentuckians.

Boy, 5, Escapes Death Under Wheels of Train

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Five-year-old David Klump of nearby Dexter had only a few scratches today to remind him of his narrow escape from death under the wheels of a freight train.

David toppled from his bicycle yesterday while crossing a grade crossing. As he lay there the fast-moving train bore down on him.

Ralph Chalst of Webster Township, who was sitting in his auto waiting for the train to pass, leaped from the car and snatched David to safety seconds before the train roared by.

The boy's only injuries were the scratches he suffered in the fall from his bike.

Embarrassed Youth Withholds Name

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A youngster rode his bike into a turnstile and got stuck in the lattice-like fingers of the gate. He yelled for help.

Firemen came and dismantled part of the bicycle so he could escape.

The embarrassed youngster refused to give his name — he just picked up the pieces and fled.

Russia OKs U.S. Plan at Arms Conference

LONDON (AP) — U.S. officials considered partial disarmament another step nearer today. Russia has accepted in principle an American plan for the big powers to transfer stocks of nonnuclear weapons to international control.

Long and complicated negotiations remained, however, before the plan could start working.

U.S. Delegate Harold E. Stassen proposed at yesterday's meeting of the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee the major nations draw up specific lists of their own armaments that they are willing to stockpile under international supervision. Later the weapons would be destroyed or converted to peaceful use.

The new formula was to meet British and French objections to previous proposals put forward by both the United States and Russia for cutting conventional arms by some fixed percentage. Britain and France felt the earlier proposals would work to their disadvantage because of their smaller armies.

Stassen's new plan was given qualified approval by all other members of the subcommittee — Britain, France, Russia and Canada.

Soviet representative Valerian Zorin said Russia would go along with the idea and prepare a list. But he asked that the United States prepare the first list. Stassen would not commit the United States on that.

Stassen's formula affects only one phase of the disarmament problem, reduction of conventional weapons. The five-nation subcommittee also is seeking ways to cut the size of armed forces and halt nuclear weapon testing and production.

Under the U.S. plan, the United States, Russia, Britain and France would draw up lists of planes, tanks, heavy guns, missiles, ships and other armaments they are willing to surrender. The lists would be presented to the U.S. subcommittee for agreement.

Once each nation was satisfied that the others were making a fair and proportionate reduction and agreement was reached on other points, the disarmament treaty could proceed.

Then each nation would place the specified weapons in depots under international inspection on its own territory. After a year, the weapons could be destroyed or converted to peaceful purposes under international agreement.

The victims of the alleged attack were Airman Jerry L. Probst, 17, Terrill, Iowa, and Airman

AF Tries Instructor Accused of Beatings

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The special court-martial of Airman 2.C. John S. Williams, 20, a basic training instructor charged with kicking and striking two recruits, opens today at Lackland Air Force Base.

The specifications allege that Williams, of Concord, N. C., came into a barracks he commanded June 1 "drunk and disorderly" and kicked one trainee and beat and attempted to choke another.

The victims of the alleged attack were Airman Jerry L. Probst, 17, Terrill, Iowa, and Airman

Beauty Contest Winner Unaware of Statistics

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Ever hear of a beauty contest winner who doesn't know her own measurements?

Patricia Burt, Miss Guilford County of 1957, knows she's 5 feet 5 and that she weighs 115 pounds. But as to the rest of her? "I just haven't bothered to find out," she says.

A year is actually 365.2422 days in length. The extra time is taken up each four years by a leap year which adds one day to make the total 366.

Disease Doesn't Seem Very Dangerous, but...

Flu Fuels Fears of Hypochondriacs

By PHYLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK (INS) — The latest word is that the Asian or Far Eastern flu virus may (or may not) hit (or seep into) America (but possibly not the U.S.) by autumn (or late summer).

The path of the virus itself is as undecided as a robin in March. But already, the hypochondriacs are boning up on information and fruit juices, and feeling an occasional chill 'neath the simmering sun.

Girl in the office was discovered in the ladies' room complaining that she simply couldn't eat a thing lately. "Guess it's love," she concluded weakly.

"You're not in love," snapped a pill-taker, "you've just got Asiatic flu."

It's the privilege of everyone who makes worry a leisure-time activity to put on her brooding cap at a time like this. Not only a privilege—a responsibility.

Some people, particularly of the easily alarmed sex, consider it inherently their duty to look after as much of the world as they can lay hands and advice on.

FILLS A CERTAIN NEED

Since, in the summertime, there are few forebodings to come by (except "watch out for poison ivy") the warning about the approach of a virus epidemic fills a certain need.

Scientists and doctors cannot see the virus, which is the smallest of all infectious agents and must be observed through the most powerful of microscopes. But the worrier and hypochondriac can.

She visualizes billions of small insects, ranging in size from flies to fly depending on the quality of her imagination, filling off ships from the Orient and swarming in buzzing hordes across the land.

It is all too reminiscent of a college experience I had back in the 1940s. A classmate suddenly was stricken with a light case of spinal meningitis, a serious and highly contagious disease, and was isolated immediately in a hospital room.

MSU Professor Named State's 'Vet of the Year'

Dr. Edward K. Sales, Michigan State University professor and a former resident of Franklin, has been named Michigan's "Veterinarian of the Year."

A veterinarian for more than 40 years and an MSU faculty member since 1919, Dr. Sales has taught courses for almost all 1,800 graduates of the university's College of Veterinary Medicine.

He is the director of the small animal clinic and head of the department of surgery and medicine. Dr. Sales is due to retire in 1938 and plans a cross country tour to visit many former pupils.

He received the award at the 75th annual meeting of the Michigan State Veterinary Medical Association in Detroit.

Lawyer Jenkins' Mission:

'I Try to Get the Facts'

By International News Service

During the Army-McCarthy hearings of 1954, the Senate's special counsel, Ray H. Jenkins, defended himself against criticism of his tenacious, almost belligerent questioning with the simple statement:

"I'm trying to get all the facts."

New Jenkins, once again involved with the U.S. Army, is trying to "get all the facts" in the court-martial of rocket expert Col. John C. Nickerson.

The bushy-haired, rasp-voiced lawyer pushed aside a thriving law practice in his native Tennessee to take over the defense of the 41-year-old officer. Nickerson has pleaded guilty to leaking guided missiles secrets in an effort to call public attention to Washington's decision to turn over all long-range rockets to the Air Force.

FORECAST LINE

When Jenkins took the case last March, he forecast his line of defense with the comment:

"This young man, in true crusading spirit, had the courage and fortitude to stand up and be counted, to talk out and try to do something about it."

Before Nickerson's trial is over, the court will have heard much more of the same, delivered in a booming voice with appropriate gestures.

The 60-year-old Jenkins has been perfecting his courtroom manner since 1920, when he opened his law office in Knoxville. One of the first cases he took was the defense of a man charged with murdering his wife in the presence of witnesses.

Jenkins got his client off with life imprisonment instead of death, which the prosecution had demanded.

That was the start of his repu-

Deckerville Man Dies

PORT HURON (AP)—Harvey Rich, 25, of Deckerville died in a Port Huron hospital yesterday of injuries suffered last Friday night in an automobile accident. The car in which Rich was riding went off a road and hit two trees near Deckerville.

The word of danger spread fast. The disease, fortunately, did not. The day after she became ill, the several medical authorities on campus, as I recall, were not unduly alarmed—but at least 500 girl students were.

ACHING BACKS

Not knowing the real symptoms of the disease, but letting their minds work on its name, "spinal meningitis," large numbers of young ladies suddenly suffered from aching backs. Classrooms literally were bachelor study rooms.

I have since learned that certain, surgically normal men can be greater hypochondriacs than women. But it's a tendency they develop later in life, when suddenly they are on their own without a mother to remind them about the poison ivy.

You cannot underestimate the potential threat to the U.S. physical well-being of Far Eastern influenza. From what we've read, however, it appears to be scarcely more dangerous and uncomfortable than the common gripe—which most people take in stride, as it comes, without suffering anticipatory chills and fever.

There seems a good chance, in fact, that fear of the virus can be a far more miserable experience than contraction of it.

So here is some probably wasted advice: Why not let the scientists and doctors continue their preparations for control of the influenza. Mrs. Hypochondriac, and worry about the more present problems...

Has your husband taken his salt tablets today? And do you really think it wise for your son to eat eggs fried on pavement?

Only Kill Few Million

Clean Bomb Almost Here

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — If we're lucky, in a few years we may have a nice, clean bomb which will kill just a few million people at a time, with no bad after-effects.

President Eisenhower said it may take four or five years to get an "absolutely" clean bomb. But we're in a pickle.

We're negotiating with the Russians to stop all nuclear tests. If we do that before we learn how to make clean bombs — we're going to be stuck with a bunch of old, dirty bombs in case another war comes.

A clean bomb is one which kills only those in range of the heat and blast, with no radioactive fallout. A dirty bomb kills in the immediate area with heat and blast and then kills people miles away through radioactivity carried on the winds.

So if we used dirty bombs on the Russians we'd finish a lot of them, for sure, but the winds might carry the radioactivity across Europe, killing our allies too.

Since we're in for the same thing if the Russians attack us with their dirty old bombs—before they learn how to clean them up—it might seem worthwhile to teach them how to make clean ones.

That would make it possible for us and the Russians to kill each other in a nicer way.

Those who watched Eisenhower yesterday at his news conference said he spoke with obvious enthusiasm when he told of the possibility of clean bombs in another four or five years.

He said two eminent scientists, Ernest O. Lawrence and Edward Teller, told him about it. Nevertheless, he said, this country would stand by its offer to the Russians to end nuclear tests now—under certain conditions.

MAY BE IMPOSSIBLE

But the Russians—judging from what they've said in the past about those conditions—may consider them completely impossible. So there's a good chance this country will go right on testing, trying for a clean bomb.

Not all scientists, however, agree with Lawrence and Teller. On May 27 Alvin C. Graves, a scientist at the Los Alamos atomic laboratory, told Congress there can be no such thing as a "completely clean" H-bomb.

Eisenhower, in the midst of his enthusiasm, said a clean bomb becomes "completely" military in its application. If you use it on the battlefield, you will have an effect only so far as its blast and heat waves reach.

This might indicate Eisenhower thinks in another war soldiers could make it a private fight among themselves, out in the country somewhere, away from cities where civilians might get hurt.

But a gray-haired grandmother who is also a newspaperwoman, Mrs. May Craig, recalled that the only two times atomic bombs were used in war they were dropped on cities, Hiroshima and Nagasaki, killing over 110,000 people. She asked: "Our first atomic bomb was dropped on a city. When you speak of battlefields in a nuclear age, what do you mean?"

That stopped Eisenhower. He said he couldn't answer.

The bomb dropped on Hiroshima was equivalent to 15,000 tons of TNT. But this country by 1954 had built a bomb—and used it in a test—equivalent to 15 million tons of TNT. The Russians, no doubt, are making them just as big.

By setting out to make the biggest possible bomb to kill the most possible people, we seem to have scared the pants off ourselves. Now we are hoping for the age of the clean bomb.

Such a weapon would let us—and the Russians too, if they had it or are interested—kill just as many people as we want to at any one time. We could get around to others later. But they'd have to wait their turn.

We may be more civilized than the Russians. For all we know, they may be content to go on making the same old dirty bombs unless we tell them how to be more genteel.

Action Near Formosa

TAIPEI (AP) — Action flared on both ends of the offshore island front today. The Nationalists said three Red gunboats shelled Tatan Island, near Amoy, firing more than 300 rounds. The Reds reportedly fired 191 shells from the mainland at tiny Kaoteng in the Matsu group.

Governors Hit 'Tight Money'

Urge Ike Act to Lower Interest Rates, Ease Burden on Taxpayer

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Republican and Democratic governors collectively have served notice on the Eisenhower administration that its tight money policy is pinching their efforts to finance school buildings and other capital expenditures.

In a unanimous resolution, the 49th annual Governors Conference at its windup yesterday noted that "bonds have been floated at higher and higher interest rates, thus increasing amortization costs."

It asked the President and Congress to "take cognizance of this additional burden on the taxpayers of America with a view of alleviating" it.

The governors met Eisenhower's request for a joint study with his administration of federal-state relationships by providing for a committee to work with the administration. The President had suggested such a study with an eye to rolling back to the states functions and revenues now controlled in Washington.

The conference named Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois as its chairman and designated Florida—probably Boca Raton—for next year's get-together. Republican Stratton succeeds Democratic Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia.

Thirty-two governors, in an action outside the conference, sent a telegram yesterday to the President urging a reduction of oil imports from the present ratio of 22 per cent. of America's national production to 16.6 per cent. At about the same time Eisenhower was creating a special Cabinet committee to study whether crude oil is being imported "in such quantities as to threaten to impair national security."

Rutgers Laying Eggs

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP) — Meg O'Day, a hen at Rutgers University, has laid an egg a day for 235 straight days. That's the best score so far in the 28-year history of a Rutgers-sponsored egg laying test.

Turner Examination Advanced in Ecorse

DETROIT (AP) — The examination of ex-convict Lawrence R. Turner on a first degree murder charge in the mutilation slaying of 6-year-old Mary de Caussin has been advanced from Monday to tomorrow afternoon.

The 50-year-old Turner originally was to face examination Monday but the date was advanced when a major witness, Wayne County Assistant Medical Examiner Dr. Robert J. Sillery, said he would be out of town Monday.

Turner, who is being held at the Wayne County jail, has admitted in a statement to police that he killed and assaulted the little Ecorse Township girl June 12. Her body was discovered the following day in a wooded area a few miles from her home.

Turner will be examined before Ecorse Township Justice Donald C. Nietzel.

The watershed of the Missouri river covers one-sixth of the U. S. tion.

like Names Special Unit to Examine Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has named a special committee to determine whether crude oil imports have reached levels which "threaten to impair" the security of the United States. The committee was ordered yesterday to report its findings and recommendations at "the earliest practicable date."

Sweden, Norway and Denmark were once united as a single nation.

U.S. Asks U.N. to View Hungary

23 Other Nations Urge Consideration of Report on Red Brutality

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U.P.)—The United States and 23 other nations are in unanimous agreement that the U. N. General Assembly should take up the special U. N. report on the Hungarian revolt as soon as practicable.

A five-nation U. N. investigating committee reported June 20 that the Soviet Union brutally suppressed a spontaneous uprising of the Hungarian people last fall and now keeps an unpopular government in power by force.

Some diplomats favor holding a special session to deal with the report a week or two before the regular Assembly session scheduled for Sept. 17.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge said foreign ministers planning to attend the regular Assembly could come to New York earlier, thus assuring "a bigger and more influential audience" for the Hungarian debate.

He added, however, that while the United States "is definitely in favor of a special session," it has an open mind about the date.

Lodge said the 24 nations who sponsored the resolution creating the special investigating committee on Hungary decided at a meeting yesterday that the Assembly should take up the report "as soon as it is practicable to do so, having regard to the interests of the Hungarian people and the issues involved."

There was no indication what action any of the nations might propose that the Assembly take.

Philip's Ex-Employee En Route to America

LONDON (U.P.)—U. S. Cmdr. Michael Parker, who lost his job as Prince Philip's secretary when the word got out he and his wife had split, is flying to the United States this week to visit his brother.

The brother is Australian naval attaché in Washington.

Parker resigned his palace post four months ago because the Church of England requires British royalty to disapprove officially of broken marriages. But he and the prince have remained firm friends.

Parker's trip to America was described as "purely private"—no connection with the visit Queen Elizabeth II and her husband will pay to President and Mrs. Eisenhower in October.

Britain's Answer to Marilyn, Jayne Seeks Divorce

MAIDENHEAD, England (U.P.)—Diana Dors, Britain's answer to Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield, said last night she has filed a divorce action "alleging adultery and cruelty" against her business manager-husband Dennis Hamilton.

Hamilton told reporters at Windsor he plans to file a similar suit against his actress wife, bringing the same charges. He has not formally filed suit, but said that he planned to see his lawyer today.

Neither named any names and Miss Dors' petition was not made public.

The bosomy blonde announced through her studio last Nov. 1 that she and her husband had separated. They have been married five years. Miss Dors is 25. Hamilton is 32.

AF Police Fight With Japanese

Force 60 Anti-American Demonstrators to Leave Runway on Base

TACHIKAWA, Japan (U.P.)—U. S. Air Force police clashed with about 60 Japanese demonstrators shouting "Yankies go home" at Tachikawa Air Base today, forcing them off a runway where an extension project is planned.

Four or five demonstrators were injured. The Air Force said none of its men were hurt.

The angry crowd was made up of landowners from nearby Sunakawa, bolstered by labor union members and leftist students.

They tore down 100 feet of fence and swarmed into the base in an effort to halt a 17-man Japanese survey team plotting the runway extension project.

The Air Force said about 15 air police, wearing pistols and night sticks, waded into the demonstrators after the Japanese blocked traffic on a cross-runway road, threw mud and stones at the survey team and police and tore up survey pegs.

An Air Force spokesman said the MPs "just shoved the crowd—they may have been carrying night sticks, but they didn't use them."

The requisition of land for runways at Tachikawa has been a sore point for two years. Bitter anti-American demonstrations broke out after plans were started to expand the base in 1955. Similar incidents occurred in 1956.

The protesting villagers have complained that they are paid only a pittance for their land.

Asks Police to Guard Against Sex Crimes

PRUDENVILLE (U.P.)—A psychiatrist urges Michigan police chiefs to watch for danger signs that could lead to sex crimes against children.

Dr. William H. Kelly, assistant director of the State Department of Mental Health, cautioned members of the Michigan Assn. of Chiefs of Police to keep an eye on men "who live alone and are lonely."

"A dangerous situation arises when children are noticed hanging around him," Kelly said. "He gives them candy. Sex crimes develop. Such men must be watched. They are dangerous."

Kelly said fear of punishment is no deterrent for many sex criminals, particularly for those who resort to murder.

"They have no control over their desires," he said. "They are mentally disturbed and when caught, accept punishment as a token."

Kelly said some people believe sex criminals should be "locked up and the key thrown away."

"I say," Kelly said, "lock them up and keep an eye on the key. They are not good material for society."

"Society must be protected at all cost. Some may suffer, but society has the right of protection."

An average automobile has 20 to 38 electric lights.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

When Shaw's, Pontiac's Class A championship softball team made the Associated Press wire services last week because the Jeweler pitching staff allowed only six hits in hurling 54 scoreless innings, the first rebuttal came out of Jackson Prison.

"The Spectator," which calls itself "The Nation's Leading Prison Weekly," refuted the Jewelers' record and claimed its own softball team, The Rockets, had a better mark of 59 scoreless innings.

The ace of the SMP (South Michigan Prison team) at Jackson is Eugene (Whiskey) Hunter, a southpaw who has compiled a 54-7 record in three years. He is also the team's leading hitter with a .500 average.

Besides, according to "The Spectator," the Rockets play all the top Class A softball teams in Michigan, and one of their victories was a 2-0 win over Shaw's June 2nd.

Anyone care to spend some time there to watch the Rockets? There's no charge!

CONFUSED BY THE LANGUAGE

If you're taking in the Horse Show this week at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club, don't let the terminology get you down.

If you hear about the "rat catcher," it's not a man who traps rodents, but the informal riding attire of the contestants. Don't let "hunting pink" fool you. It's not pink, but red, and it describes the red coats of the riders who have earned them in hunting performances.

"Stock" doesn't refer to the animals, but to the white necktie used in the formal riding attire; and "ambler" isn't the horse which strolls in last, but the mother of a thoroughbred; the "ground man" isn't a farmer, but one of the men who doesn't ride a horse; and the "hunting hack" isn't a writer looking for a job, but a hunting horse without martingale in a walk or trot.

The show goes on through Sunday. No horse show dictionary is really needed to watch this spectacular event.

POLO RANGERS START TO STIR

Jack Ivory's recreation area in White Lake Township is getting quite a play by picnickers and pony riders on the 140 acres.

Ivory has started his Ranger team working out on incompleting polo fields and he hopes to have some polo activity going by August.

There's a chance Ivory will hear plans of a polo league, representative of arch communities, including Pontiac, Rochester, Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills and a couple of others if enough players can be gathered up.

Many of his old polo players are now working out at Roy's Ranch. Ivory has also decided to sell the Ranger clubhouse at Eight Mile and Lahser and give more attention to completing the present site.

This area could be the polo capital of Michigan with a little stimulus.

Nosed Out by Thomas, 3-2

Pontiac Jets Lose Another

Thomas Die & Stamping scored three runs in the 1st inning, then fought off the rallying Pontiac Jets with a brilliant 7th-inning defensive maneuver for a 3-2 City League baseball triumph last night at Wanser Field.

It was Thomas' 2nd victory of the season and the 3rd straight setback for the slumping Jets, who at one time this year were tied for the league lead.

A walk, a hit batsman and singles by Rocky Fortin, Gary Funk and Chuck Moore counted three runs for Thomas in the 1st stanza. Jim Addis settled down to pitch about half the rest of the way for the Jets, but the damage had been done.

The Jets bunched three hits for two runs in the 4th frame, then made their bid to tie the score in the 7th. Ben Roberson, attempting to come home from 3rd on an out-field fly, was cut down at the plate by centerfielder Chuck Moore for the game's final out.

Gerry Reh hurled the distance for Thomas and effectively scattered eight hits. Addis gave up only four safeties.

BUNNING'S AIDE — Ray Boone didn't get back too soon for the Tigers, but he returned after a layoff to help Jim Bunning gain his 8th victory yesterday over Washington. Boone rapped a single and double in crucial spots to drive in two runs as the Tigers took a 4-1 decision from the Senators.

Ryder Points Goal in Western Open

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The 54th annual Western Open Golf Tournament was ready to get under way this morning under dark skies and rain at Plum Hollow's 6,800-yard layout and one thing is certain, the Michigan entries make up the greatest numbers.

A total of 59 pros and amateurs from the Wolverine State, out of the 170 entries, will be shooting for the coveted title which ranks among the top four tournament crowns in the country.

Champions from all of the leading PGA tournaments of the tour thus far will be out to get a slice of the $25,000 purse plus a package of points which could earn them a berth on the U.S. Ryder Cup team.

The Western Open is worth 85 Ryder Cup points to the winner and it ranks with the Master's Tournament in this regard.

The race for Ryder points in effort to make up the 10-man team which will compete against England's cup team in October is close.

Present leaders with more than 500 points are Doug Ford, Cary Middlecoff, Marty Fungul and Ted Kroil. Jimmy Demaret, Dick Mayer, Art Wall, Jack Burke and Tommy Bolt are others high in totals.

Burke, however, withdrew from the Western because of the hand injury he suffered in the Open and Bolt is not listed because of failure to submit entry.

Sam Snead, hoping to make the team, is in 12th place and needs to pick up some points in this tourney.

The tourney climaxes three hectic weeks in which Detroit has been the center of golf activity.

The National Open at Toledo, just 60 miles to the south of Detroit, and the Flint Open last weekend, which is 60 miles to the north of the Motor City has kept the area filled with the greatest names in golf ranks.

It won't be a surprise if another "unknown" walks off with the honors at Plum Hollow. Dick Mayer did it at Toledo, and Paul Hahn did it at Flint, but as in the case in every tournament, the favorites always come out of the ranks of the old pros.

Twenty-three tourneys have been held on the PGA circuit thus far this year, and 17 different champions have been produced.

Winningest man is veteran Jimmy Demaret, who "comes home" to Plum Hollow, where he was once the pro. Demaret has won three tournaments and four players have scored two wins each.

Mike Fetchick, the tournament champion in 1936 when it was held in San Francisco, hopes to turn the trick again. If he does, it will be Fetchick's first tourney win of the 1937 circuit, which has been quite unfruitful for him in purse earnings.

However, from past history, defending champions rarely have repeated in the Western Open. Ralph Guldahl was the only one to ever win it three times, in 1936, 1937 and 1938.

Snead won it twice in a row in 1949-50. Walter Hagen did it in 1926-27, Willie Anderson did it in 1908-09 and Jimmy Barnes accomplished the feat in 1917-19. (No 1918 tourney because of the war.)

Of the Michigan contingent, Pontiac's Gene Bone is hoping the course will be as good to him as it has been in the past.

Bone tied the course record of 64 in July of last year when he won the runnerup position at Plum Hollow in the State Assistant Pro's Championship. The other 64 was shot by Sam Byrd in 1945.

Tee-off time was scheduled to start at 7:30 a.m. with amateur Henry Hartwick of Southfield Township in the first threesome.

First of the area pros to go out was Mike Dietz at 8:45 a.m. Bone went out at 9:00 a.m. An interesting threesome was set for 11:30 a.m. when Wally Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Jack Fleck of Rochester, Ohio, and Jack Millard, Detroit.

These are the starting times of the leading golfers and area players in the Western Open for the second round Friday at Plum Hollow.

1:30 a.m. Walter Handlik, Livonia; Ben Loh, Grand Rapids; Pete Masur, Jr., Tonawanda, N. Y.

7:45 a.m. Larry Fentick, Ann Arbor; Tommy Shannon, Orchard Lake; and Henry Timbrook, Columbus, Ind.

8:00 a.m. Bill Bette, Detroit; Art Olla, Birmingham; and "Les Raymond," Toledo.

8:15 a.m. Bill Evans, Detroit; St. Clair Shores; Hans Merrill, Mogadore, Ohio; and Jack Millard, Detroit.

8:30 a.m. John Cleary, Hartford, Conn.; Tom Niesper, Cincinnati; and Elmer Fritsch, Pine Lake.

8:45 a.m. Jim Bartfield, Grand Rapids; Jim Gault, Harrisburg, Pa.; and Walter Lasky, Birmingham.

2:30 a.m. Gene Bone, Pontiac; Herb Deussen, Berkeley, Calif.; and Gene Coghill, Rochester, N. Y.

9:00 a.m. Mike Dietz, Lake Orion; Darrell and Hickok, Arlington, Ill.; and Jim Simpson, Fort Worth, Texas.

9:30 a.m. "Dick" Wilhel, Birmingham; Ralph Yankus, Birmingham; and Athan Zographos, Petoskey, Mich.

10:30 a.m. Ray MacGuire, Birmingham; Herb Marcussen, East Lansing; and Bill Barber, Tulsa.

Bunning Wins 8th With Boone's Hits

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a guy who went into the season with a reputation for lacking stamina, lanky Jim Bunning is setting the world on fire.

The 25-year-old righthander, a bullpen worker early in the season, marked up his eighth victory of the season by pitching the Detroit Tigers over the Washington Senators 4-1 here last night. He held the Senators to six hits, giving up the only run on Julio Becquer's triple and a sacrifice fly, to strengthen his bid for the starting role in the All-Star game at St. Louis July 9.

Bunning, who went into the game with an enviable 1.85 earned run average and came out with an 8-2 won-lost record, has shrugged off reports that he would be the starting pitcher for the American League All-Stars.

"I've got a three-day fishing trip planned," he said.

But Yankee manager Casey Stengel, who will guide the American League All-Stars, may have other plans. He's called Bunning the most improved pitcher in the American League this season.

Bunning joined the Tigers late last season from their class AAA Charleston farm club. Working mostly in relief — because of the theory that he didn't have the stamina to go all the way — he won five and lost one.

This year — still because of his reputed lack of stamina — he started out in the bullpen. He got promoted to a starting role because of the Tiger shortage of capable starters. Since then he has won seven of the eight games he started.

Bunning let the Senators have more than one hit in only one inning, the seventh when they got two hits and a walk to load the bases with two out. He squeezed out of the jam when Rocky Bridges fled out to Al Kaline.

Ray Boone, ailing much of the season with calcium spurs in his kneecap, led the Detroit attack with a double and a single in four trips, batting in two of the Tiger runs.

Chuck Stobbs, who won his first game since last season with the help of rabbit's feet in the hands of fans last week, was the loser. He now has a 1-12 record for the season.

The teams close their three-game series today.

CHIPPING AWAY — Lakepointe Country Club pro, John Dalrymple, former Keego Harbor High School sports star, practices some chipping in preparation for the Western Open slated to start today at Plum Hollow. His tee-off time was 9:38 a. m. in this morning's first round.

10 Points Separate Four NL Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That "hot" National League pennant race of last year begins to look like a "runaway" compared to what's going on these days, with no less than six teams scraping and no more than 10 percentage points separating the first four.

The whole league exploded under the pressure yesterday in what was exciting, if not brilliant, baseball — with 29 home runs (one shy of the major league record for a five-game day), 125 hits and 90 runs off 35 pitchers. Of the hits, 53 were for extra bases.

Three winners had to power from behind to do it. One game ended in a tie.

After the shelling, the St. Louis Cardinals retained first place by four points over the Cincinnati Redlegs. Both were beaten. Third-place Philadelphia, a half game behind, walloped the Cards 11-3; and the Redlegs were clobbered 17-7 by the sixth-place New York Giants, the latest club to declare itself "in" on the pennant fight.

Fourth-place Milwaukee, also a half game back and within two points of the Phillies, battered Brooklyn 13-9, leaving the Dodgers in fifth, two games behind — and only 4½ ahead of the Giants.

Pittsburgh quit the cellar in a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs, winning 15-3 to plunk the Bruisers back to eighth before a 5-3 tie called after 11 innings because of darkness.

Southpaw Curt Simmons got away with a nine-hitter for his seventh victory as the Phillies unloaded 16 hits, handing Lindy McDaniel a fourth defeat. Rookie Harry Anderson broke a 1-all tie with a homer that triggered a three-run sixth inning. The Phils led by Chico Fernandez, 4-for-5 and three runs batted in, got four more in the seventh, then tagged Bob Miller, an 18-year-old, $25,000 bonus kid making his debut, with three runs in the ninth on three hits and three walks.

Milwaukee crunched Don Newcombe with seven runs on five homers (one short of the major league record off one pitcher in one game), shelling the big guy as Hank Aaron, Eddie Matthews and Wes Covington hit successive homers in the fifth to narrow Brooklyn's lead to 3-1. It was the

A "whopping" half game remained the difference between 1st and 2nd place in the American League today with Chicago retaining its lead on the basis of a 7-5 triumph over Boston which offset at 3-1 defeat of Cleveland by the 2nd place Yankees.

Detroit rallied to beat Washington 4-1 and Baltimore nipped Kansas City 1-0 in the other AL contests yesterday. Connie Johnson won out over Arnold Portocarrero in a double three-hitter at Baltimore.

It was the third consecutive shutout by the Orioles' pitching staff in winning six of the last seven.

Watrous, Grace Still in NCAA

(Special to the Pontiac Press)

COLORADO SPRINGS—The remaining 32-man field in the 60th annual NCAA golf championships will be paired to eight after today's two rounds, which should produce a number of darkhorse favorites.

The natural match today was between the champion and runner-up to the 1935 NCAA meet, Purdue's Joe Campbell, a 21-year-old Walker Cup selection, was matched against John Garrett of Rice, the player he beat 4 and 3 for the college title two years ago.

Both players from Michigan, Tom Watrous of Royal Oak and Joe Grace of Southfield Township, stayed in contention with couple good rounds.

Watrous, University of Detroit golf captain, defeated Bernie Magnusson of Stanford 2 and 2, and played one of his best rounds.

The freckle-faced son of Oakland Hills Country Club pro Al Watrous, won the first three holes and never faltered. He three-putted only two greens, 15 and 16, and was putting the first hole for an eagle but settled for a birdie.

Grace won his match from Bob Goetz of Oklahoma A&M, rated one of the better players in the tournament. The Notre Dame ace was behind by one stroke going to the 18th hole, but he birdied it with a 7-foot putt and then birdied the 19th hole while Goetz took a par.

The tourney which ends Saturday took its toll in other close matches. Among the victims was comedalist Warren Simmons of Syracuse who set a course record of 69 in the first day of qualifying.

He fell before the long-ball accuracy of Ernie George of San Jose State, 4 and 3.

Another loser was national left-handed champion Harry Shoemaker of Florida State who fell to Jerry Pittman of SMU, 1-up.

Campbell won by the day's biggest margin, 5 and 4, over Houston's Stan Binion, and Garret went 1-up in 19 holes to defeat Ron Lucetti of Stanford.

Foes of Shaw's Jewelers returned to the shutout column after a two-game vacation and revived Elks No. 810 triumphed again in men's City League softball attractions Wednesday night at Beaudette Park.

League-leading Shaw's won its 11th decision in 12 starts, blanking Bismar Inn 2-0, behind the two-hit pitching of Jake Mazur. It was Shaw's 9th shutout of the season and the 3rd for Mazur. Two runs on two hits in the 2nd inning were enough to beat Bismar's Lynus Grant.

Stadium Inn collected 10 hits against the combined offerings of Ed Miller and Don Hill, but still bowed to the Elks 4-3. Stan Hester's 5th-inning single drove in the winning run off Ed McManus, who gave up only four safeties. Hill was credited with the win.

Mick Mora hurled a dazzling one-hit shutout at North Side as the Commerce Theater girls defeated the West Side Merchants 2-0, for their 5th straight victory.

CLEVELAND—The Cleveland Indians have dropped Eddie Robinson from the roster to make room for first baseman Joe Altobelli.

Area Women Finish High in District

Two area women finished in the top seven as Mrs. Susie LeClair of Ann Arbor won her 3rd straight women's district medal play championship at the Dearborn Country Club yesterday.

Mrs. LeClair clinched top honors with a final round 81 to give her a 54-hole total of 235, four over par.

State champion Sally Sharp of Birmingham, who finished tied for 4th at 253, was the only player to top Mrs. LeClair on the last 18 holes with an 80 in an early test after completing her studies at Michigan State. Miss Sharp defends her Michigan title July 15-19 at Orchard Lake Country Club.

Mrs. J. G. Israel of Bloomfield Hills ranked 3rd in the district tournament with 250. Mrs. S. W. Nunneley of Forest Lake had 278.

Error Gives Weldon Win in 11 Innings

A dropped throw on a routine grounder that would have ended the inning enabled Harry Dearborn to score all the way from 2nd with the winning run of a 6-5 victory for last place Weldon Thrifty over Gidley Electric last night in 11 innings.

The win moved Thrifty, which was held scoreless for nine innings after a 5-run 1st, one-half game away from climbing out of the cellar. Batting stars in the Waterford Softball League tilt were Jerry Walsh and losing hurler Arlo Fleisher with a total of seven for Gidley.

USET WINNER — Howard (Howdy) Miller, 17-year-old Rochester rider, yesterday took his mount, the eager "Flanigan," to victory in the day's 2nd event at the Detroit Horse Show at Bloomfield Open Hunt club. Miller, shown above on "Flanigan" won the USET equitation medal class in a strong field. Event is judged on all-around ability of horse and rider, in both dressage and jumping. Howard will be in action again tonight in the "fault and out" jumping event, and also on Friday in the tough professional horsemen's trophy class.

U.S. Delegation Still Strong at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (INS)—Vic Seixas, Herb Flam and Budge Patty — the big three of Uncle Sam's underdog delegation — launched third-round play of the all-England tennis championships today along with the powerful Australian brigade.

Seixas, the handsome Davis Cup veteran from Philadelphia who was Wimbledon king in 1953 and is seeded sixth this year, met Japanese champion Koshi Kamo, the first Japanese player to compete in the Wimbledon men's singles in 20 years.

Flam, past-sized, seventh-seeded player from Beverly Hills, Calif., took on Jack Brinkhurst of Belgium and Patty, the veteran Wimbledon in 1950, faced Myron Franks of Los Angeles.

Another young American, John Leach of Los Angeles, had the enviable job of trying to stop Australian ace Lew Hoad, the top-seeded defending champion, while Sid Schwartz of Brooklyn faced Sven Davidson, the fourth-seeded defending champion.

Young Ashley Cooper, who with Hoad forms Australia's powerful one-two punch, faced Frenchman Robert Haillet. Gardner Mulloy of Denver played Bobby Wilson of Britain and Mike Green of Miami played Hugh Stewart in another All-American match.

Althen Gibson, the lanky 28-year-old New Yorker who is seeded in the women's division, was to play A. Hellyer of Australia in another third-round match.

Seixas bested Indian Davis Cupper Nareesh Kumar, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4 while Flam went five grueling sets before disposing of Indian ace Ramanathan Krishnan, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5, 5-7, 6-2. Patty moved up by beating Mexico's Francisco Contreras, 6-4, 6-4, 6-0.

Hoad powered his way to a 6-4, 6-2, 6-1 win over Trevor Fancutt of S. Africa and Cooper, 28-year-old Australian champ, was even more impressive disposing of former titlist Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3.

In the all - America match, Schwartz outlasted Pablo Eisenberg of Maplewood, N. J., 16-15, 13-7, 7-5, 6-1.

Senior Prelims Sept. 17

NEW YORK (UP)—The third United States Golf Assn. senior amateur championship — open to players over 55 — will follow the pattern of the two previous tournaments with qualifying rounds by sections and again at the tournament site.

The USGA today set up 25 sectional qualifying sites where preliminary rounds will be played Sept. 17, except at Los Angeles and San Francisco, where they will be held a week earlier. These rounds will qualify 120 players for the championship proper at Ridgewood, N. J., Sept. 30-Oct. 5. A second 18-hole qualifying test at Ridgewood will send 32 players into the championship flight match play.

There also will be consolation flights of 16 for nonqualifiers and a one-day stroke play competition.

MSU Gets Swim Aide

EAST LANSING (UP)—G. Robert Mowerson, head swimming coach at Battle Creek Central High School, will join the Michigan State University athletic staff Aug. 1.

The university announced yesterday that Mowerson will become assistant swimming coach under Charles McCaffree Jr., himself a former Battle Creek swim tutor.

McCaffree led the Spartans to flights of 16 for nonqualifiers and a one-day stroke play competition.

Canadian Industries Surge Northward Into Frozen Areas

CHUTE DES PASSES, Que. (NEA) — By now the bears up here must be resigned to the mass invasion of their once-peaceful, frozen haunts by the restless northward surge of Canadian industry. Consolation for the loss of their chilly tranquility, however, could be the fact that each new step of the invasion sees more and more construction and industrial records smashed.

Expert Defends Their Use

'Speed Traps' Aid Safety

By RAY ASHWORTH
Director, Traffic Institute,
Northwestern University

It was 5:30 p. m. An ordinary citizen named George was driving home from work, tired and hungry. When he came to a clear stretch of road he instinctively glanced in his rear-view mirror — then accelerated a bit.

Three minutes later, a police officer handed George a citation for speeding, based on the findings of a roadside radar set.

"Wouldn't you know I'd get caught in some speed trap," he complained to his wife that night. "I wish the cops would spend their time catching real crooks for a change."

George's alderman agreed: "I believe the police should restrict themselves to conspicuous patrolling. It would prevent violations before they occur."

Summed up, their attitude is: "Speed traps" — radar, unmarked police cars, and other techniques of concealed enforcement — are unfair, and create ill will merely to provide easy revenue through fines. On the other hand, having the police plainly visible at all times would prevent reckless driving.

Let's examine these arguments. First, what is a speed trap? Legally, entrapment means to induce a person to break a law, so that evidence of lawbreaking can be obtained and an arrest made. This is unconstitutional; no court will accept such evidence. Now when George was arrested for exceeding the posted speed limit, was he somehow tricked into breaking the law? Did the officer induce him in any way to push down harder on that gas pedal? Or did he merely observe and measure George's behavior from a vantage-point where he would not be interfering with it?

Take the case of a driver who runs through a red light — after he is sure there are no police around. This driver is a public hazard — a hazard that (short of an accident) might well go undetected if the police were forced always to remain conspicuous. For by staying out in the open at all times, the police can apprehend only those few drivers who are willing to break the law in plain sight of the police. Other violators can go their way unhindered. Their driving behavior will be based not on what is lawful but what they think they can get away with.

If driver behavior is at the root of the accident problem, how can we improve it? Education is a big part of the answer, but education can never insure that there will not be on the streets at any given time some drivers who will find reasons for breaking the laws. A new motivation for safe driving is needed for these drivers: the fear of arrest.

If a driver must reckon with the possibility of arrest any time he commits a violation, he is far more likely to be a consistently safe driver. This is the great value of radar and other timing devices; the reason for putting officers in side streets or using unmarked cars. Besides multiplying an individual officer's effectiveness, such procedures help bring about the expectation, among drivers, that they can be arrested for unsafe driving whether they can spot a police car or not.

But what about the other argument — that violations and accidents could be prevented if there were enough police patrolling the streets in marked cars? The unfortunate fact, as we have discovered through studies, is that the effect upon law observance of a patrol car is limited extending about 600 feet ahead and 800 feet behind. Beyond this "halo zone" driving behaviors remains the same. Therefore to carry out such a plan would require a fantastic increase in police power.

For example, the five generators to be installed will be the largest ones man has ever attempted to construct. Each will have a capacity of 200,000 horsepower.

They will send 330,000 volts of electricity — another world mark — surging over the transmission lines to the new smelter. Electricity is a chief ingredient in aluminum production.

The gigantic generators will be housed in an ultra-modern, underground powerhouse being hewn out of solid rock. And here is where Jack Liddle, the lanky easy-going field administrator for Alcan, begins to apologize:

"We're carving out about three million cubic yards of rock for the six-mile tunnel and powerhouse, which I'm afraid is only the second biggest rock job in history. Some Niagara Falls project had a few thousand more yards, I'm told.

But this is far from the end of Alcan's activity in northern Canada. Parties of hydro engineers and geologists are already roaming far above here mapping and studying areas with potential power many times that which is being harnessed.

The portion of the expansion here at Chute des PASSES is a huge new hydro-electric plant. It will supply power to new aluminum smelters being added to Alcan's nearby plants, and end up making Alcan the biggest aluminum producer in the world by raising its annual capacity to more than one million tons.

To achieve this goal Alcan is having to break a couple of other world marks.

For example, the five generators to be installed will be the largest ones man has ever attempted to construct. Each will have a capacity of 200,000 horsepower.

They will send 330,000 volts of electricity — another world mark — surging over the transmission lines to the new smelter. Electricity is a chief ingredient in aluminum production.

If You Have a Grudge, Don't Blame the Judge

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Police here don't blame the judge for the grudge.

A check for $192 and a few odd cents turned up at a bank. The bank found the man's account low, called him and discovered the check was forged.

"I'll show this man my signature in its finest form, when you catch him," said Presiding Superior Judge John D. Cochran.

The check had been drawn by "John D. Cochran."

MR. AND MRS. JAMES H. BROWN

Honeymoon in Chicago

Dorothea Colombatto Wed

HUNTINGTON WOODS — at a 12:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday, Dorothea Colombatto became the bride of James Howard Brown, in St. Mary of Redford Church, Detroit.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Colombatto of Detroit, chose for her wedding a floor length gown of nylon organza. Nylon appliques studded the bodice and fitted bodice was embroidered.

Her fingertip veil was secured by a modified beaded pill-box, which cascaded over her straight-cut neckline. She carried a bouquet of white roses, surrounded by ivy with long streamers.

Attending as maid of honor was Patricia Abel of Detroit, while Marge Morrison and Mrs. Joseph Colombatto Jr. of Detroit served as bridesmaids.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Colombatto of Detroit, Kathy Jo, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Petrioli, Lisa, both of Detroit, assisted as flower girls.

An open house at the home of the bride's parents preceded the reception at Devon Gables, in Bloomfield Hills. The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brown of Huntington Woods, gave an open house following the reception. The couple is honeymooning in Chicago and will go to Indianapolis where the bridegroom will be stationed as a lieutenant in the army.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID C. FEIGHT

Rural Mail Route to Serve Milford

WASHINGTON — A rural delivery route will be extended to provide better mail service for residents of Windhurst road, Milford, announced Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County) today.

Broomfield said the route extension near Sugden road was approved by the Chicago Regional office of the Post Office Department after he requested the extension.

The improved mail service will go into operation Saturday. Broomfield said the extension of the mail route came about when a number of residents on Windhurst road signed petitions asking for the change.

Lisbon Is Destination of Dr. and Mrs. Blaney

MILFORD — Dr. and Mrs. Donald Blaney, married June 15, will be at home in Philadelphia Pa. next week after a wedding trip to Lisbon, Portugal.

The ceremony uniting the couple in marriage was held in St. Mary Catholic Church here, and performed by the Rev. Fr. Richard Haney.

The bride, former Arlene Joyce Buell who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon pleated tulle. The floor length costume featured a train, portrait neckline edged with bride-accents and seed pearls and a fitted lace bodice. Long, pointed sleeves and bouffant nylon tulle skirt over satin completed the dress.

Her cap veil also was encrusted with iridescent and seed pearls. She carried a white Mother of Pearl prayer book centered with an orchid.

Attending the bride were matron of honor, Mrs. Stanley Cook, and bridesmaids Mrs. Murray Durley, Gloria Jean Hall, Jan Beechler and Elaine Schwenberg.

Harry Blaney Jr. was the best man while Dr. Robert McDonald, Tom Conway, Don Gruber and Dr. Forest VanDam seated the guests.

Ring bearer and flower girl were Jimmie and Linda Burley.

A reception was held in Highland Manor for the pair, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buell of Brighton and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blaney Sr. of Cincinnati, Ohio.

May Realize Flood Stoppage

Board Decides Axford Drain Necessary for Bunny Run Area

ORION TOWNSHIP—The end of the springtime flood conditions in the Bunny Run Area, which caused some owners to vacate homes and created a health hazard, may soon be realized.

A board appointed by Oakland County Probate Court, comprised of H. M. Thatcher, Luther Heacock and John McDonald; after careful consideration and surveying the area have determined the Axford Drain a necessity.

Five years ago a similar action was planned but residents of the area rejected the drain because the assessments were considered excessive at the time.

The Drain Commission is securing the right of ways from all property owners through which the drain must go. Plans for the location were made and approved by the Oakland County Drain Commission.

Carol A. Yorks Speaks Vows

Northville Rite Read in Methodist Church on Saturday

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—In a 2 p.m. service on Saturday, at the First Methodist Church in Northville, Carol Ann York became the bride of David Clark Feight.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace with sequins and seed pearls. She carried a white orchid with satin streamers.

Attending as matron of honor was Carol Lee Segnitz, with Joan Andrews and Sharon Mathewson as bridesmaids.

Best man was Bob Freed of Northville with Richard and Keith Feight as ushers. Honorary ushers were Harold L. Harding and James Needham.

After the double ring ceremony a reception was held in Dublin Community Center. The couple will be at home in Mt. Pleasant.

Parents of the pair are Mr. and Mrs. Harry York of 9488 Cooley Lake Rd. and Mr. and Mrs. Glen B. Feight of Belleville.

Orion Township School Census Totals 4,949

ORION TOWNSHIP—The school census of the Lake Orion District records a final total of only 15 over the 1936 figure. This year 4,949 names were enumerated, with 1540 under five years of age, and 3,409 between five and twenty.

In the various areas the registrations were: Original Lake Orion district, 3,478, a loss of 100; Weber, 882, a gain of 40; Proper 667, same this year; Carpenter 309, a gain of 75; Eaton 84, a loss of 3; Howarth 29, a gain of 6.

Billie Joyce Inbel Weds at Waterford

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Billie Joyce Inbel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sharp of Waterford Township, became the bride of Robert L. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson of Walled Lake, in a recent afternoon ceremony.

Sally Hyde, of Pontiac, was maid of honor for the service held in the Christ Lutheran Church. Vern Rettsford of Walled Lake served as best man with Al Inbel, brother of the bride, and Jerry Johnson, brother of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

ard Murphy, associate chairman; and George Kovacs, Memorial gift chairman. The drive, to expedite the building of a convent, has received $44,000 in subscriptions to date, according to the Rev. Fr. John L. Foley.

To Decide on Charter, Officials

Wixom Will Vote July 15

WIXOM—A total of 18 candidates for village offices will be on the ballot when Wixom voters go to the polls on July 15 to approve or reject a proposed charter for incorporation as a village.

Only one member of the Charter Commission is running for an office. He is Everett N. Pearsall, chairman of the Wixom Civic Association; who is a candidate for village president along with Joseph T. Stadnik and Wesley E. McAtee.

The other 15 candidates are bidding for six positions on the village council. They are John S. Rynding, James F. Sereno, Mrs. Johanna Ware, Gunnar E. Mettala, Paul DePodesta, Edward E. Wendt, G. O. (Bill) Abrams, Vernon M. Spencer, Del H. Bourgeois, Reece Lacy, Jesse R. Birchard, Mrs. Lottie E. Chambers, Norman Brackett.

Robert C. Wagnits and Walter S. Tuck.

Those elected will assume office only if the charter is approved by a majority. Should the charter be rejected, it will be revised and submitted to voters for a second time.

Only voters who registered at Wixom will be eligible to vote on July 15. Registration with Novi or Commerce Townships does not make a voter eligible for the charter election.

All candidates have been asked to appear at the next meeting of the Wixom Civic Assn. scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday, July 11. Candidates are expected to outline their views and intentions during the meeting.

Voting machines will be set up in Wixom Elementary School, only precinct which will be open on July 15. Voting will take place from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. on that date.

Newlyweds to Make Home in Marlette

MARLETTE—Following a two-week honeymoon trip to northern Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Donald Kohmert will make their home at 2379 Julia Rd.

The couple was married June 15, at 3 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church in Marlette. The Rev. Harry Anderson officiated.

The bride, the former Marilyn Louise Appel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester P. Appel of Marlette, wore an embroidered net over satin gown with a portrait neckline and long, pointed sleeves. Her fingertip veil was of scalloped silk illusion. She carried an arrangement of white sweetheart roses, lilies of the valley and ivy streamers on a white Bible.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Leslie Wallace of Detroit while Scharia Rasmussen of Marlette, cousin of the bridegroom attended as bridesmaid. Junior bridesmaid was Paulette Appel of Marlette, sister of the bride. Another sister, Melinda, was the flower girl.

Plan 'Real Cool' Day

OXFORD — Friday is being hailed here as Bermuda Shorts Day. Nearly every business place will have its clerks wearing shorts and everyone has been invited to join in the fun by wearing their cropped pants wherever they go. Indications show that men and women alike are preparing to make the day a big success. Oxford is expected to look "real cool" on Friday.

Southwest Unit Ending Event

First Girls Day Camp Held at Proud Lake; Director Mrs. Huber

Approximately 125 girls comprising the Brownies and Intermediate Scouts of the Southwest District are completing their day camp today at Proud Lake Recreation Area.

Girls attending the first of two camp sessions are from Milford, Union Lake, West Acres, Westlakes, East Highland and Highland.

The outing is being held under the direction of Mrs. Herbert Huber, with Mrs. J. S. Goodell and Mrs. David Elcher as assistant directors.

Two features of the event have been the formal opening and closing flag ceremonies and an overnight camp, held last night.

Closing program today is entitled "Regional America, Our Country's Roots," and will feature skits, songs and dances from the various regions of the U. S.

Fifteen trained adults have provided the volunteer leadership for the camp, in its sixth day today. Another camp, for the other half of the Southwest District, will be held next month at Proud Lake, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Cox.

New Shipments of Salk Vaccine

State to Relay 147,000 Doses; Officials Deny 'Pressure' Charge

LANSING (U) — Two new shipments totaling 147,000 doses of Salk anti-polio vaccine were being broken down by the State Health Department today for relay to communities throughout the state.

"This will help relieve the pressure of demand," said Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner.

Dr. Heustis said yesterday's shipments, from the Pittman-Moreau drug supply firm in Indianapolis and Wyeth Laboratories in Cleveland, brought to nearly 300,000 doses the receipts so far this month.

The health commissioner said the state still was having trouble in getting vaccine supplies in the desired volume, but that the situation appeared to be improving.

SHARE FOR DETROIT

About 50,000 doses from the new shipments were allocated to Detroit, and the rest to other counties of the state on a percentage basis.

Ingham County, where complaints were voiced yesterday by organized doctors about an immunization program for state employees, was down for 5,000 doses.

Dr. George Sherman, president of the Ingham County Medical Society, charged that vaccine was obtained for the program by "procuring" while pregnant women and children went without.

The charge was denied today by Alfred B. Pitt, legal adviser to Gov. Williams.

Pitt said 3,150 doses of vaccine were obtained for the program from Parke, Davis & Co.

"Parke, Davis President Harry J. Loynd advised me that no pressure whatsoever had been applied, and that the order for the state employees had not been filled ahead of priority orders," he said.

MR. AND MRS. ALBERT PRIESTAPS

Albert Priestaps to Mark 50 Years With Open House

ROCHESTER—Celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday will be Mr. and Mrs. Albert Priestaps of 136 Griggs St. In observance of the occasion, the couple will be honored at an open house to be held at the Howarth Methodist Church on Silverbell Rd., Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Their children will be the hosts. They are: Mr. and Mrs. Norris Priestaps of Sylvan Shore, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Priestaps of Memphis and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Reeves of Rochester. All friends and neighbors of the family have been invited.

The couple was married in Port Huron. Mr. Priestaps was an Oakland County farmer for 40 years and is now employed at the National Twist Drill Co. They moved to Rochester three years ago and have four grandchildren.

Calls Argument in Miller Case

Judge's Move Based on Supreme Court Act With Watkins Contempt

WASHINGTON (U)—U.S. Dist. Judge Charles F. McLaughlin called up for argument today a motion asking reversal of play-wright Arthur Miller's conviction of contempt of Congress.

McLaughlin convicted Miller May 31 on two charges growing out of Miller's refusal to answer a congressional committee's questions about past acquaintances who had been Communists. Miller, 41, is the husband of screen star Marilyn Monroe.

The Miller motion is based on the Supreme Court's decision June 17 reversing the contempt of Congress conviction of John T. Watkins, a labor organizer of Rock Island, Ill.

Miller's chief counsel Joseph L. Rauh Jr. said in the motion that the Watkins ruling "fits the Miller case even more clearly than it fits the Watkins case in which it was rendered."

But Asst. U.S. Atty. William Hitz disagreed and announced he would oppose the motion.

"We are going to distinguish the facts in the Watkins case from the Miller case," Hitz said.

Both men were convicted of contempt for refusing to answer questions put to them by subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Track Star Willie Hollie Held as Army Deserter

DETROIT (U)—Track star Willie Lee Hollie, 23, was held by military police at Ft. Wayne here today on charges of deserting the Army.

Hollie was arrested by FBI agents yesterday as he stood on a downtown Detroit street corner.

The five-year Army veteran was accused by agents of deserting from Ft. Lewis, Wash., last March 6 shortly before he was to go overseas.

While serving with the Army in Germany in 1955, Hollie set a national track record in the hop-step-and-jump by going 50 feet, 6 inches in the event. Later that year he went to the Pan-American games in Mexico City with the American team.

Of Argentina's total area, only about one-third is suitable for farming.

Missile Controversy Wrapped in Mystery

What's Behind Nickerson's Trial?

By BEN PRICE

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (U)—So far the court-martial of Col. John C. Nickerson Jr. has raised more questions than it has answered. There apparently is more to this seemingly disjointed trial than the 10-year-old feud between the Army, Navy and Air Force over roles and missions.

Nickerson has said that he wanted to save the program for development of the 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM) for the Army. From whom?

The colonel said before the trial opened that someone was trying to put a curtain around him. He declined to say who.

Before the trial opened Tuesday, there were strong hints that the testimony was going to flip the lid on the Pentagon in Washington and give the public its first glimpse of a titanic behind-the-scenes struggle for control of the missile program.

Attack Speeders in Connecticut

Conviction Means Loss of Driving Privileges in State Campaign

HARTFORD, Conn. (INS)—DON'T SPEED, CONVICTION MEANS LOSS OF LICENSE.

Motorists entering Connecticut on any of 34 main highways pass this grim "welcoming" sign and as they let up on the accelerator—the traffic death toll comes down.

The seven word warning sums up the effective campaign against speed, the nation's number one highway killer, being waged by Connecticut's 47-year-old democratic governor, Abraham Ribicoff.

The attack is simple: It calls for a "no exception" 30 day license suspension for the first speeding conviction, and 60 days for the second. They are the stiffest penalties in the nation.

Governor Ribicoff has noted ironically: "The great mass of motorists won't slow down to save their lives, but they will slow down to save their licenses."

Republicans have openly sworn at both signs and the program. State Representative Charles Nash introduced a bill to remove "that damn sign," because it "lacks hospitality."

Democrats also have voiced their disapproval. The governor likes to tell of a town chairman, tried by the "no fix" term of the speed crackdown, who but-tressed him and asked:

"What kind of a guy are you? It's the job of a politician to do favors for as many guys as he can. If you don't do favors you won't be governor long."

Despite the political objections to the program, it has been overwhelmingly successful, and traffic throughout Connecticut is moving at a slower and safer pace.

Public Service Body Approves Edison Sale

LANSING (U)—The Michigan Public Service Commission has modified a previous order and approved sale by Detroit Edison Co. of 70 million dollars in 30-year bonds.

After a hearing yesterday, the commission raised the authorized amount of the total issue from 60 to 70 million and approved negotiated sale of 55 million dollars worth of the bonds of Blyth and Co., New York investment bankers, at an interest rate of 4½ per cent.

Commissioner James H. Lee said the Edison company applied for the additional financing to retire bank loans and for expansion purposes.

On the opening day of the trial the government suddenly dropped major charges against the colonel and he, in turn, pleaded guilty to 15 accusations that he was lax in the handling of secret documents.

With Nickerson's conviction, there remained only the introduction of evidence concerning his motives—evidence which might incline the court to leniency—before sentencing. This is going on now.

Yesterday the prosecution popped a seemingly peculiar question and left it hanging in the air.

Asst. Prosecutor Charles H. Taylor, an Army captain, asked

Dr. Werner von Braun, a former German and one of the foremost missile experts in the world, if he knew that Erik Bergaust, managing editor of the magazine Missiles & Rockets, planned a trip to Russia.

Von Braun, seemingly puzzled, shook his head and replied "No." Bergaust, Norwegian-born and now a naturalized citizen, is one of the men to whom Nickerson mailed some secret documents. Von Braun described him as a friend.

As the Nickerson trial enters its third day, there are hints, rumors, reports or what have you, that Nickerson may expose the internal struggle for control, or abolition of the ABMA, when he takes the stand.

This is problematical. Two days before his arrest Jan. 2, Nickerson told a friend that he was giving up his fight because he was getting no support from the Army—so the friend says.

The Nickerson trial at this moment seems to have no real focus point, but still there is the feeling that there is more going on than meets the eye.

One hard vital question which the trial is raising, intentionally or not: Is someone playing fast and loose with the whole missile program and, if so, who?

Winter Situation Boosts Wheat

CHICAGO (U-P)—An unfavorable winter wheat situation which is approaching a critical stage caused renewed buying which boosted wheat futures around a cent a bushel at times in early board of trade dealings today.

Thus wheat renewed its upward climb after a setback of just one day. Corn and oats held fairly steady and showed little change early in the session.

Soybeans started fairly firm in buying which apparently was a carryover from yesterday's late rally, but prices soon moved downward somewhat.

Near the end of the first hour, new style wheat was 1/2 to 1 cent higher, July $2.10; corn was 1/2 higher to 1/4 lower, July $1.25; oats were unchanged to 1/4 higher, July 66c; rye was 1/4 to 1/2 higher, July $1.24; soybeans were 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, July $2.34; and land was seven cents a hundred pounds lower to 15 cents higher, July $13.05.

Rescue Woman in Boat on Lake

Says Her Companion Jumped Overboard, Met Him in Bar

DETROIT (INS) — A 43-year-old divorcee, who said her companion had jumped overboard, was rescued yesterday from a speedboat drifting in Lake St. Clair.

Mrs. Ruth Kolins, of St. Clair Shores, said her companion on the cruise was Richard Keihl, 38, of East Detroit, an assistant sales manager for an auto dealer.

A passing boater discovered Mrs. Kolins "scared and wet" in the disabled speedboat drifting in a heavy sea about a mile off Metropolitan Beach.

Mrs. Kolins told Macomb County sheriff's officers Keihl, married and father of two, had invited her for a spin after meeting her in a St. Clair Shores bar and "having a few drinks."

She said they had been riding for a while when Keihl "mumbled something about trouble with his wife" and leaped into the lake.

Mrs. Kolins was ordered to return to the sheriff's office today to accompany deputies in an attempt to locate the spot where Keihl allegedly jumped overboard.

Court Upholds Right to Deny Passports

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. court ruled in the case of State Department's right to deny passports to persons who refuse to sign non-Communist oaths.

The court ruled in the case of Dr. Walter Breichl, Los Angeles psychiatrist, and artist Rockwell Kent.

Both had refused to sign non-Communist affidavits in connection with their passport applications.

The court divided 5-2 in each case.

Frogman's Adventure Continues to Intrigue

CHICHESTER, Eng. (INS)—Although the death of long-missing frogman Lionel Crabbs has been officially confirmed, the story of his final adventure today remained an intriguing public mystery.

A strong hint that the British government knows what Crabbs was doing, and why he was doing it, when he dived into Portsmouth Harbor near visiting Soviet warships 14 months ago was given yesterday by his lawyer.

The lawyer, A. W. Geddes, asked about reports Crabbs may have been working for the U. S. Secret Service, said:

"This very gallant gentleman died as he had lived, in the service of our country, and no other."

Geddes made the statements after a coroner ruled that the decomposed body of a frogman washed up at Chichester June 9 was that of the missing war hero.

MANY IDENTICAL FACTORS
The coroner said a scar on the corpse, the size of its feet, the shape of its legs and the color of its hair were identical with Crabbs'.

He pointed out that a diving suit manufacturer had sold Crabbs a suit identical to the one found on the corpse.

Police testified that no other person similarly dressed had been reported missing.

The Daily Express, a London newspaper noted for lively imagination, suggested Crabbs had been captured while trying to check the bottom of a Russian cruiser, taken to Leningrad and tortured to get him to divulge British underwater intelligence.

But, the Express said, Crabbs was tough and stubborn and the Russians probably killed him when they could not break him down.

The newspaper thought it highly suspicious that the corpse found at Chichester appeared only three days after a group of Soviet submarine passed through the English Channel.

Deadline for Cutting Weeds Is Monday

The deadline for the cutting all noxious weeds from private lots in the city is Monday, Seymour M. Gold, weed control supervisor of the Parks and Recreation Dept., warned.

Beginning Monday, Gold will inspect all lots throughout Pontiac. Those found uncut will be cut and the property owners charged 20 cents a front foot, or $10 for a 50 foot lot, for the work.

Gold said only about 30 per cent of the lots have been cut to date.

The City Commission passed an ordinance in 1955 calling for the removal of weeds from all lots.

OFF TO CAMP — Crippled children from all parts of Oakland County board the bus in Pontiac for two-weeks of summer camp. Seeing them off is L. C. Magee, president of the Oakland County Crippled Children's Society. Donations from a number of firms and individuals will pay the youngsters' camp fees. The society contacted special education teachers in all school districts to offer the camp opportunity to the children.

Pontiac Man Awarded Moose Degree of Merit

In ceremonies held at the Moose Child City, Moosehart, Ill., last weekend, a Pontiac man, Robert D. Godfrey, 38 S. Edith St., was awarded the Moose Pilgrim Degree of Merit, the highest degree of the Moose fraternity.

Godfrey, a member of Pontiac Moose Lodge 182, was one of 112 members from the United States, Canada and Great Britain to receive the degree. Only one of every 10,000 members can become eligible for the degree each year.

Fraternity officials said Godfrey received the award in recognition of his many years of "continued devotion to the philanthropic aims of his fraternity."

EAST LANSING (AP)—About 130 amateur figure skaters are expected to take part in the ninth annual Michigan State University summer ice session, starting Saturday.

The annual affair, providing summer training and instruction opportunities, will last eight weeks, with an ice show Aug. 22 climaxing the program.

ILO Expels Delegates From Red Hungary

GENEVA (AP)—Employer and worker delegates from Communist Hungary have been expelled by the International Labor Organization in an aftermath of the U. S. committee report that the Hungarian government is kept in power only by Soviet arms.

The action was taken yesterday at the organization's annual conference despite heated opposition from the Communist bloc.

The conference also voted 94-88 to expel the Hungarian government delegates, but a two-thirds majority was necessary.

Texas Committee Seeks Experts on Rebel Yell

KOUNTZE, Tex. (AP)—The Homecoming Committee is scrambling to pull out of a very embarrassing hole it dug itself.

Please, says the committee, does anyone know how the Rebel yell sounded?

The committee needs judges and coaches for a contest for the best Rebel yell. But it found that the last Kountze Confederate died 15 years ago. No one around here knows how the yell sounded.

The contest was to climax this year's Texas town's first annual War Between the States Centennial this fall.

And in case you think the committee dug itself two holes, the committee says it knows the war began April 12, 1861, and this is not precisely the 100th anniversary year.

"We're just jumping the gun," says Rocky Richardson, celebration chairman. Rocky is also police chief, fire chief and county commissioner.

Only three men still live who wore the gray and might know first-hand the Rebel yell.

But the three Confederates are either almost 110 or over that age, and they hardly could be expected to produce any battle cries.

The committee, seeing the hole it was in, decided it would take second-hand evidence. It's written in 11 chapters of the Daughters and Sons of the Confederacy in 11 Southern states for help.

All the committee knows about the Rebel yell is that it was a series of shrill, staccato sounds. But how long was it, how shrill was it, and how much did it differ from the cowboy yell?

Archer Fullington, publisher of the Kountze News, reports that scores of persons wish to enter the contest if they can just find out what the yell was like.

Murray Profits Dip
DETROIT (AP)—Murray Corp. of America reports profits of $1,608,825 for the nine months that ended May 31, equal to $1.46 a share. This compared with earnings of $1.93 a share in the corresponding period a year ago.

Teachers' Pay Hiked
GRAND HAVEN (AP)—Pay increases of up to $300 a year are provided for Grand Haven school teachers in a revised salary schedule. The board of education said the raises will add $20,000 a year to the school budget.

Dies in Bridge Leap
DETROIT (AP)—John E. Dmytryshyn, 42, of Detroit, plunged to his death from the Belle Isle Bridge Wednesday. Police said investigation showed he was deeply in debt. The body was recovered by harbor master police.

Television May Beat Movies to Jeanne Eagels Story

Recent Pictures Coming to Video

America's Total of TV Sets Finally Exceeds 40 Million Mark

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS) — Playhouse 90, which made the movies mad by beating them to the Helen Morgan story, may do it again with "The Jeanne Eagels Story," negotiations for which (via Jeanne Eagels' sister) are under way now with CBS.

United Artists will release to TV such nearly new major movies as "The African Queen" with Bogie and Hepburn, "Moulin Rouge" with Jose Ferrer . . . etc.

The U. S. total of TV sets finally passed the 40,000,000 mark . . . New York City has more than 10 per cent of same (4,750,000).

The new half-hour "Charlie Chan" series starring J. Carroll Naish is being billed as "The New Adventures of Charlie Chan." Multi-millionaire movie producer Edward Small is the money and imagination behind same.

The wonderful Hi Lo's, of the Rosey Clooney TV musicals, signed for five summer weeks on the Bob Crosby Show after they leave Birdland.

$5,000 FOR GUESTS
The Frank Sinatra Show (ABC-TV) will pay only $5,000 to its top guests.

Jackie Cooper wouldn't let his son do the TV "Skippy" role that made pop so famous.

"Bride and Groom" has asked radio-TV-vault veteran "Senator" Ford and his fiancée, Louise Grace, to be wed on one of that show's first TV programs when it returns next month.

The summer TV slump is on: Viewing is down about one-third.

Charles Van Doren may get his first regular TV show as star of "High Low," a quiz rumored replacing Tennessee Ernie Ford for a dozen summer weeks.

DEAN SIGNS UP
Dean Martin has signed with NBC for six TV shows next season.

The one time Hugh O'Brian got to kiss a girl during TV's "Wyatt Earp," the scene wound up on the cutting room floor.

If you've wondered what ever happened to radio's dialectician "Parkyarkarkas," he's now real-estate rich in Hollywood.

The Big Record, CBS-TV's big new jukebox show, offered Tommy Sands $10,000 for one appearance.

CBS sold the controversial Khrushchev interview in the Kremlin to an interesting and happily approving customer: The TV station in Red-held East Germany.

Detroit Father of Four Loses Life in Accident

DETROIT (U) — James G. Kosturko, 31, a Detroit father of four children, lost his life yesterday when his car collided with a cement truck in suburban Taylor Township.

Police said Kosturko struck the truck while returning home from his job in Trenton.

No Stunt Man for Pat in This Movie Scene

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—We talked to young Pat Boone—always a pleasure, because he's so nice—at the Steve Allen show . . . and he told us he and Shirley Jones fell off horses into a gravel pit while filming "April Love" in Lexington, Ky., the other day.

"I was supposed to grab her, but she was off balance and so was I, and down both of us went, with Shirley on top of me," Pat said.

"We didn't get hurt, but it was such a good shot, they're using it in the picture. And I'm sure the audiences'll say, 'Aren't those Hollywood stunt men and stunt women wonderful!'"

Pat, already the father of three daughters, was a beam-in because his wife Shirley, daughter of Red Foley, is expecting a fourth.

"Naturally we're hoping for a boy," Pat said. And so is Grandpa Red Foley out in Springfield, Mo.

Judy Holliday was at a party (with Syd Chaplin) looking very cool. "What is the material?" I asked her, and she replied, "I have the courage to wear organdie!" Women will understand (it makes you look heavier). Judy doesn't worry because in "Bells Are Ringing" she loses about 6 pounds a performance and after a show she looks very thin. "Not only that, it drains the salt out of me — and," she added, "on about one drink I'm cock-eyed!"

Jonathan Winters, the Dayton, O., boy, was a smash hit on Steve Allen's show and when he announced, "This summer my show goes off . . . for several summers," he wasn't kidding. NBC hasn't given this talented young man anything yet for fall. If you think they should, write a postcard to NBC. Might address it to Bob Kintner.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .
Frank Sinatra and Mike Romanoff and friends chartered a 105-foot boat for a fast cruise of the South Seas from Ensenada, Mexico . . . Bob Crosby's daughter Cathy gave up her L.A. apt. and moved back with the folks . . . Spencer Tracy's collecting $7,500 a week while waiting for "Old Man and the Sea" to resume . . . Elaine Drew will decorate the cover of the "Music to Hold Hands By" album.
Gisela MacKenzie turned down Meredith Willson's B'way play to stay with TV . . . Frankie Laine'll be Nat (King) Cole's first TV guest July 2.
The Harry Belafonte are hunting a N.Y. town house . . . Jack Lemmon will do a B'way show after his "Last Hurrah" film . . . Jazz star Illinois Jacquet found a great way to reconcile with his estranged wife—gave her a $1,700 diamond ring.
WISH I'D SAID THAT: The same man who takes five seconds to sign an important business letter takes five minutes to line up a putt . . . That's earl, brother.

Ina Ray Hutton Wins Uncontested Divorce

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (U) — Blonde bandleader Ina Ray Hutton, 41, has won a divorce from her trumpeter husband on grounds of cruelty.

Miss Hutton was awarded an uncontested divorce from Randy Brooks, 38, yesterday on her testimony that he objected to her career and criticized her in front of friends.

Brooks has a separate maintenance suit on file in Los Angeles asking $300 weekly support. He said he is unable to support himself since suffering a stroke. They were married in Northridge, Calif., in April 1949.

Conservation Officers Kill Hungry Black Bear

HOUGHTON, Mich. (U) — A marauding, 350-pound black bear who tried to rustle himself up some food by breaking into a resort food storeroom has been shot and killed by conservation officers.

The hungry bear came out of the woods at Copper Harbor, about 50 miles northeast of here, and barged into the storeroom through a screen door.

While he rummaged around inside the building, conservation officers climbed up on the roof and shot the big animal. They said the bear had been hanging about the resort for more than a week.

Woman, 75, Hit by Car Dies From Injuries

DETROIT (U) — Mrs. Laura Tennant, 75, of Highland Park, died yesterday of injuries she received three hours earlier when she was struck by a car while crossing a street near her home.

Thomas F. Ransom, 17, Royal Oak, the driver of the car, told police the elderly woman apparently became confused and ran in front of his car. Ransom was released after making a statement.

Bank Officials to Be Arraigned

Indicted by Grand Jury for Juggling Funds in Flint

BAY CITY (INS) — Federal authorities were preparing today to arraign two former bank officials and six others who allegedly juggled bank funds for personal gain.

The eight were indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury before District Judge Frank A. Picard.

The former bankers resigned March 1 while the investigation was in progress. They are, Edward E. Grochalski, a vice president of the Citizens Commercial and Savings Bank of Flint, and James Pascoe, 37, his assistant.

James R. Burroughs, senior vice president of Citizens Commercial and Savings, said: "The bank suffered no losses whatever because of the alleged violation by Pascoe and Grochalski."

Defense Attorney Howard Cline claimed the alleged offenses are merely technical violations of the Federal Banking Act.

He said: "There has not been any misappropriation of funds and there has been no loss to the bank or any customer or individual." U. S. Attorney George E. Woods said the group obtained Veterans Administration mortgage loans through false applications and wrongfully used bank funds to obtain capital to buy housing and other property, which they sold for a profit of $200,000.

Merit Pay System Urged for Teachers

WASHINGTON (U) — A Midland, Mich., chemical researcher who also is president of the National Assn. of School Boards says he favors a merit pay system for superior school teachers.

Everett N. Luce, in a speech prepared yesterday for the convention of the Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards here, said lack of a merit pay system forces many of the best teachers "into principalships or other jobs in order to make a reasonable living."

Luce also said that he did not favor teacher job security laws or contracts because they set up a probationary period which "may eliminate some people from the school system before they have an opportunity to fully prove themselves."

"Others," he said, "once they come under the provision, relax and do a minimum job for a number of years in complete security. Most professional people in industry work without contracts . . . if we are to have a highly respected teaching profession there is little need for legal tenure as such."

Princess Grace Again Reported Expecting Baby

PARIS (U) — For the third time in as many months, Grace Kelly today was reported pregnant, sources, "The French Press Agency," said.

Quoting "well-informed" sources reported from Monte Carlo that the Monaco princess is expecting her second baby in the fall.

Previous such newspaper reports in April and May were denied.

The former Hollywood movie star, wife of Prince Rainier II, gave birth to their first baby, Princess Caroline, five months ago. The family is spending the summer in Switzerland.

Mackie Plans to Reshuffle State Highway Department

LANSING (U) — A major face lifting of the State Highway Department expected to free 100 engineers from administrative duties awaits the inauguration Monday of commissioner-elect John C. Mackie.

Mackie, 36-year-old Democrat elected last April 1, disclosed some of his intentions yesterday in a talk to the Jackson chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers.

They included:

1—Separation of the planning division of the department from a combined unit also embracing traffic, and its elevation to a position of "prime responsibility."

2—Centralization of "strategic" control by the central office, and delegation of authority to key subordinate personnel.

3—A reduction in the present 11 divisions to an unspecified but smaller number of units.

4—A five year construction program "based on a formula which measures Michigan's overall traffic and geographic highway needs — not the intensity of local or area political pressure lobbies."

5—Increased emphasis on orderly and timely right-of-way acquisition so that, as Mackie put it, land purchasing activities no longer will be "literally only a few feet ahead of the bulldozers."

The reorganization, Mackie said, will be "anchored to the principle that all technical skills available will be fully utilized." He said there will be no attempt to shove capable men out, or into positions not commensurate with their capabilities.

On the problem of centralized control, Mackie said:

"I am amazed to find out that this year, with a 150 million dollar highway program, every purchase of $25 or more by the department must be approved by the chief deputy commissioner."

"This and other administrative log jams at our central office will be ended by reorganization and a delegation of authority to key personnel," he added.

He said the reshuffle is being worked out in close cooperation with the State Civil Service Commission.

AS it exists today, he said, the department's basic organizational plan is unchanged from the 1920s.

"Highway expenditures have grown more than 10 times in volume to what they were years ago," he said.

"New technological methods, new methods of finance, new theories of administrative management simply cannot be properly utilized within the existing organizational framework."

He said a study of the department reassured him as to the high degree of technical skill available, but that he wanted to see its more efficient employment.

Reorganization of the department was advocated by J. Carl McMonagle, former director of planning and traffic, at the time he left a year ago to join Michigan State University.

McMonagle, a nationally recognized authority on planning, now heads the MSU Traffic Safety and Research Center.

Reportedly, Mackie has considered an organizational set up grouping the finance, personnel, public information and possibly one or two other divisions under his new deputy director for administration, Sidney H. Woolner. Woolner is moving to the new post from his present job as deputy secretary of state.

Most of the other divisions would be coordinated under an engineering deputy, not yet selected.

The body of Clifford S. White, Houston, Tex., was spotted by Russell White, Marfa, Tex., a Civil Air Patrol pilot. Ground crews reached the body about an hour later and it was taken to Alpine.

Park Supt. George W. Miller said, "It was just a case of a couple getting stuck in an isolated place, becoming hysterical, and dying from exhaustion and heat. I don't understand why the couple wasn't together though." Authorities held little hope that Mrs. White might be found alive.

Park rangers estimated White walked 10 miles in scorching temperatures in an attempt to find help after their station wagon got stuck in the sand by the Rio Grande in this southwest Texas county. Temperatures reached 114 degrees in the area yesterday.

The last time the couple were seen, White was looking for cactus plants for his garden while she sat in the station wagon, about 45 miles from park headquarters. They had a cabin in the Chisos Mountains Basin.

Miller said the couple had been warned not to travel in the area along the Mexican border where the car was found. The 200,000-acre section is not patrolled and signs warn travelers to keep out because roads are impassable.

Both Mr. and Mrs. White were about 45 and had no children. They moved to Houston three years ago from Nashville.
