Johnson Maps Broad Social Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has advised the Democratic majorities of House and Senate to give a sympathetic hearing to President-elect Nixon's program but to push ahead resolutely with legislation for social reforms.

Johnson, who sends a $195.3-billion budget to Congress today, said in a sentimental farewell to the nation last night that the prospects for peace in Vietnam are better now than they have been in the four years since Hanoi sent regular troops into the South.

But Vietnam was quickly passed over in Johnson's 44-minute final report on the State of the Union, a prosperous nation that sorely needs, he said, to repair urban blight, end racial discrimination, improve educational opportunities and guarantee the safety of its streets.

In his nationally televised and broadcast address to a joint session of Congress, Johnson had some cogent advice to his fellow Democrats and supporters who led the applause that interrupted his speech 53 times.

BROAD SOCIAL ADVANCES

He outlined to his Democratic listeners — and such Republicans as might take note — a broad program of social advancement calculated to write a party record for the 1970 congressional elections and a challenge to Nixon's reelection in 1972.

Johnson, who was said to have consulted Nixon on the major points of his speech, called for:

- A 13 per cent over-all increase in Social Security benefits, with attendant increases in payroll deductions. During the campaign Nixon called for linking benefit increases with the cost of living.

Related Stories, Pages A-2, A-3, A-7, A-12, B-7

- Funds to build 500,000 homes for needy families, with establishment of an urban development bank to make low interest loans on such dwellings.
- Reorganization and revitalization of the antipoverty program, continuing it "until we have broken the back of poverty in our land."
- Implementation of the Fair Housing Act and extension of provisions of the Voting Rights Act.
- A full $300-million appropriation to carry out the Safe Streets Act and legislation to require the licensing and registration of firearms.
- An increase in congressional salaries from the present $30,000 a year to $42,500.

As forecast, Johnson also asked for continuance of the 10 per cent income surtax to permit the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 to show a $3.4-billion surplus.

★ ★ ★

White House aides made it clear that all of Johnson's proposals will go to Congress in the form of draft bills from the Budget Bureau, and said it will be up to the Democratic majorities to determine that such programs as Head Start for underprevileged preschool children are "here to stay."

CARRIER BLAZE FOUGHT — Seamen fight fire on the flight deck of the USS Enterprise yesterday in waters off Hawaii. Several explosions ripped the vessel, the world's largest warship, resulting in at least 24 deaths. Eighty-five were injured, and 17 crewmen are missing.

Nixon Supports LBJ's Plea for Keeping Surtax

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Nixon, about to take charge of a war-swollen federal budget, has pledged to support President Johnson's recommendation that the 10 per cent income surtax be continued — until "the facts we face" permit repeal.

"It remains my conviction that the surcharge should end as soon as requirements for the war, the budget outlook and economic conditions will permit," Nixon said last night. "It is my understanding that President Johnson shares this same view."

★ ★ ★

The words Nixon used in a statement to describe his position, and those Johnson included in his farewell State of the Union message were virtually identical.

Nixon and Johnson discussed the tax in a telephone conversation Sunday, and the President clearly received his successor's endorsement at that time.

REPEAL URGED

Since his election, Nixon and his advisers had said repeatedly the tax should be repealed as soon as economic and budget conditions would permit.

As a campaigner, Nixon at one point said flatly he wanted the $15 billion levy to end on June 30, when it is due to expire unless Congress acts.

But generally, he linked its elimination with an end to the financial burdens of the Vietnam war.

The tax statement was Nixon's only public business yesterday — and it was prepared even before he flew to Key Biscayne Monday night. There were no announced callers on his schedule today, and no staff aides were with Nixon.

He was said to be working in solitude, and taking the sun now and then, in preparation for his inaugural address next Monday.

N-Carrier Blasts, Fire Kill 24; 17 Are Missing

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — The U.S. Navy counted 24 dead, 85 injured and 17 missing today after a series of explosions and fire swept the flight deck of the nuclear aircraft carrier Enterprise on a training exercise.

The 85,000-ton carrier, world's biggest warship, made it back to port yesterday from the scene of the disaster 75 miles southwest of Honolulu.

★ ★ ★

A Navy source first attributed the initial explosion to a bomb falling from an airplane landing on the carrier. Later a Navy spokesman stated the cause of the blasts was unknown.

The ship's nuclear power plant was not affected.

BOMBING EXERCISE

Planes from the Enterprise were in an exercise Tuesday morning at Kahoolawe, an uninhabited island used as a bombing range, pending redeployment to the Western Pacific. The Enterprise has been in action off Vietnam.

The Enterprise, known to her 5,400 men as the "Big E", had launched one flight of planes and was preparing to launch a second group armed with live bombs and rockets.

★ ★ ★

The first explosion apparently occurred in or near an F4 Phantom jet parked near the stern of the ship.

"I was walking forward on the flight deck when the first explosion knocked me down," said Petty Officer Billy Hawk, 25, of Austin, Tex. "I picked myself up, ran to a fire station and started getting out gear.

MAN DISAPPEARS

"A fire unit went by me into the scene. There was another explosion and the man who had the end of the fire hose wasn't there any more."

At dockside following arrival of the Enterprise, Navy officials said there were at least 10 explosions. Most of the missing apparently were blown into the 76-degree water.

Chief Warrant Officer Jim Helten, 36, of San Diego, Calif. said, "There was a multitude of heroism."

The fire was brought under control nearly three hours after it began.

A search of the scene for survivors was carried on by Navy ships and by Navy and Coast Guard aircraft.

The blasts tore three holes in the deck. One penetrated into three lower decks, where bodies were found.

★ ★ ★

The 14 planes in the carrier's first launch were ordered to land at Barber's Point on Oahu.

Fifteen aircraft on the flight deck were destroyed and others damaged.

MEDICS LIFTED TO 'BIG E'

Helicopters took 16 medics to the Enterprise to help care for wounded. Those most seriously injured were taken to Tripler Army Hospital near Honolulu.

Doctors at Tripler ordered 10 men suffering from serious burns airlifted to Brooks Army Hospital in Texas.

Red Spacemen to Switch Ships?

MOSCOW (AP) — Four rookie Soviet cosmonauts, riding Soyuz 4 and Soyuz 5, began maneuvering in space today for perhaps the world's first crew transfer in orbit.

A telecast from aboard Soyuz 5 reported about an hour after its launching today that the "splendid" craft was functioning normally and the three-man crew was feeling fine.

★ ★ ★

Earlier cosmonaut Vladimir Shatalov, flying alone in Soyuz 4, reported all was well aboard his craft. Shatalov was launched about 24 hours before his companion ship.

There were unconfirmed reports in Moscow that the two ships would link up, and one of the men from Soyuz 5 would climb aboard Soyuz 4. As usual, space officials kept silent on plans for the four-man mission.

ANOTHER 'FIRST'

The cosmonaut transfer would give the Soviets another "first" in space, and also would mark the first time they matched the U. S. feat of manned docking in orbit.

★ ★ ★

Ship commander Boris Volynov reported in the telecast from Soyuz 5 that he and his two fellow crewmen withstood the launch "very well" and had begun unspecified "joint experiments" with Shatalov's craft.

Vote Proposal Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., endorsed today proposed legislation to require that electoral votes be counted on a proportionate basis.

★ ★ ★

Talmadge, calling Electoral College reform "imperative and pressing," said he would co-sponsor a constitutional amendment proposed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C.

Congress Is Handed $195-Billion Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson submitted a farewell $195.3-billion spending budget today with a $3.4-billion surplus achieved through a proposal to extend the 10 per cent income surtax until June 30, 1970.

The President said there had been "a record-breaking period of prosperity" for the last eight years covering his administration and that of John F. Kennedy.

This had brought, he said, an increase of 31 per cent in real per capita spendable income, adjusted for price increases, creation of 10 million more jobs, and a $24-billion rise in corporate profits after taxes.

Johnson said recent sharp price rises underscored the need for a stronger effort to control inflation. He said this was one important reason for his proposal to continue the surtax. The other, he said, was uncertainty over the Vietnam war.

SOCIAL SECURITY HIKE

In addition to recommending bigger Social Security benefits, Johnson proposed that Medicare be extended to 2 million disabled persons, that an additional $2 billion be put into the state-run Medicaid program of health care for indigent families, that unemployment compensation payments be increased both in weekly amount and duration, and that new health protection be given low-income families starting with prenatal care for a mother through complete medical services during the first year of her child's life.

His proposal for a 13 per cent average boost in Social Security would include a basic 10 per cent increase for all 25 million Americans now on the rolls, a hike in the present $55 monthly minimum payment to $80 covering 2 million beneficiaries, and a $100 minimum for individuals who have paid Social Security taxes at least 20 years.

As in previous budgets, Johnson insisted the amount he was recommending "represents our minimum requirements to fill urgent needs at home and abroad."

Dense Fog Lifts; Area to Warm Up

The dense fog that rolled into the Pontiac area lifted late this morning leaving skies mostly cloudy.

★ ★ ★

All flights from Oakland-Pontiac Airport were canceled this morning due to the heavy ground fog.

The weatherman predicts warmer temperatures. The low is expected to be 15 to 20 tonight.

Tomorrow's forecast is: cloudy and a little warmer, with a chance of brief freezing rain early in the morning and occasional light rain in the afternoon with a high of 29 to 34.

The low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 8 degrees. The mercury recorded 26 at 2 p.m.

City Budget Gets Preliminary Approval

By ED BLUNDEN

Pontiac's City Commission gave preliminary approval last night to a record $10,177,620 budget for 1969. This is an increase of about $2 million over last year.

The expanded tentative budget was made possible by increased revenues from the city income tax and the per capita share of the state income tax. Indications are that income would be adequate and no tax increase necessary.

The budget for 1969 was presented late due to the installation of data processing equipment used in its preparation. A public hearing on the budget was set for 8 p.m., Jan. 28 at city hall, East Wide Track and East Pike.

The proposed budget was prepared by the staff and some changes could be made by the City Commission before or after the public hearing.

Reporting on the budget, City Manager Joseph A. Warren said it is "the first budget in many years of Pontiac history that can be prepared on a basis that provides reasonable, adequate operation for the city's services."

Related Stories, Pages A-7, A-8

Just a year ago the city faced a financial crisis and many cutbacks in services were threatened. The revenue from the city's income tax changed all that.

The budget report shows about $2.8 million in income tax came into the city's coffers during 1968. This was about $400,000 above that expected. The extra windfall is attributed largely to the huge payrolls in the year at the General Motors plants.

In 1969 an estimated $4.1 million on incomes will be collected, some $1.3 million above last year. This much higher figure will be achieved because

SOBELL COMES HOME — Morton Sobell, 52, and his wife, Helen, are assisted by police to a taxicab after they were reunited at a bus terminal in New York last night. Sobell, convicted of conspiring to pass atomic secrets to the Soviet Union, was released hours earlier from the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., after serving 17 years of a 30-year sentence.

Rosenberg Spy-Case Figure Is Freed After 17 Years

NEW YORK (AP) — Morton Sobell, released from prison yesterday after serving 17 years for conspiring to sell atomic secrets to the Soviet Union, has returned home and says he has "a lot of living to do."

Sobell, 52, stepped out of the federal penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., yesterday afternoon, hours after the U. S. Court of Appeals in Manhattan ordered him freed. He took a bus to New York City to rejoin his family.

"I have a lot of living to do, and I'm going back to school," Sobell said as he arrived, clad in what prison officials call "dress-out clothing" — a gray suit, white shirt and tie.

★ ★ ★

Sobell, who was sentenced in 1951 to 30 years in jail, avoided newsmen waiting at the bus station and left for an undisclosed location.

MET BY FAMILY

Meeting Sobell at the bus station were his wife, Helen, 51; their son Mark, 19; their daughter, Mrs. Sydney Clemens, 29; and Sobell's mother, Rose, 74.

Mrs. Sobell said she had heard of her husband's imminent release on the radio and called to tell him. She said he did not know until her phone call. She said her husband wanted to study engineering.

★ ★ ★

Sobell, a radar expert, was convicted along with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg who were executed in June 1953. The Rosenbergs were convicted of committing wartime espionage as well as conspiracy.

Although sentenced to the maximum term, Sobell had been due for release Aug. 24 because of good behavior. The appeals unit ruled he should be credited with 7½ months he spent in jail for inability to post $100,000 bail prior to sentencing in 1951 and thus enabled the earlier release.

SPECIFIC CHARGE

Specifically, Sobell was convicted of conspiring to commit espionage by transmitting to the Soviet Union documents, writings, sketches, notes and information related to national defense.

Illinois Dem Hits ABM Locations

CHICAGO (AP) — An Illinois congressman said Monday many congressmen would not have approved an antiballistic missile system for the nation if they had known beforehand that the Army would locate the missile sites in heavily populated areas.

Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., told more than 200 persons attending a public hearing on the proposed nuclear missile site near suburban Libertyville:

"The missile system could have serious consequences for our economy, the domestic climate and national security. The possibility of an accidental explosion of a nuclear missile, either in or above its silo, affects the whole area."

Appearing in behalf of the Army were Robert Jordan, general counsel, and Col. Robert C. Marshall of the Sentinel command system who said the chances of an accidental launching of a Sentinel missile are "substantially nil."

NATIONAL WEATHER — Rain is forecast tonight from the southern and central Rockies to the Mississippi River. Snow is expected in the northern Rockies with a mixture of snow and rain in the Pacific Northwest. Freezing rain is due in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and northern Iowa.

Land-Sea Sweep Aims to Break Cong Bastion

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. Marines participating in an 8,200-man amphibious operation on the Batangan Peninsula got their first taste of action today as they tightened their noose on a Vietcong stronghold 340 miles northeast of Saigon.

★ ★ ★

Rear Adm. W. W. Behrens Jr. of Harrisburg, Pa., reported the Leathernecks repulsed an enemy attempt to break out of the cordon, suffering two dead and seven wounded in a fierce exchange of small arms fire. Enemy casualties were not known.

Earlier, four Vietcong were killed in another small skirmish and two guerrilla soldiers defected to the Americans, Behrens said. He also reported the Marines destroyed several tunnel complexes, captured 600 pounds of rice, corn and flour, and rounded up 700 suspects for interrogation by a South Vietnamese pacification team.

Behrens said the aid is to separate the peninsula's Vietcong "activists" from the general population, estimated between 5,900 and 10,000.

HISTORIC LANDING

Two Marine battalions swept ashore on Batangan Monday in what the U. S. Navy said was the biggest seaborne assault since the 1950 Inchon landing of the Korean War. About 5,200 troops of the U. S. Americal Division and the South Vietnamese 2nd Infantry Division joined up with the 3,000 Leathernecks yesterday.

Navy patrol boats have ringed the peninsula, sealing off the enemy's last escape routes as the ground troops push seaward. They hope to trap an estimated 800 North Vietnamese regulars and an unknown number of Vietcong guerrillas.

"We want to minimize Vietcong influence in the area and neutralize his efforts," said Behrens. "We will do everything in our power during this operation to protect the villager, and we intend to offer him enough support to remove his fear of Vietcong domination."

Infantry units in the cordon reported encountering only sporadic sniper fire.

State Junior Miss Pageant Nears

Great expectations are nurtured by the 24 finalists in the Michigan Junior Miss Pageant to be held Friday and Saturday at Pontiac Northern High School.

A reception tomorrow at the Community National Bank Building, will mark the beginning of weekend activities for the attractive and talented teen-agers.

The winner of the state Junior Miss Pageant, sponsored by the Pontiac Area Jaycees, will receive a trip to the national finals in May in Mobile, Ala.

Four area Junior Misses will be competing for the state title. They are Patti Dell of 201 Draper, Pontiac; Pamela Munger of 2506 Little Trail, Commerce Township; Karyn Everly of 3440 Quick, Holly Township and Linda Oldershaw of 28425 Peppermill, Farmington Township.

★ ★ ★

The girls will be judged on scholastic ability, individual interviews, poise and appearance, physical fitness and talent performance.

Tickets for the Friday talent presentation and the finals on Saturday may be purchased at the door or obtained in advance by contacting Richard Brown, 124 Illinois, Jaycee ticket chairman.

Highlights of LBJ Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are some of the key topics covered by President Johnson in his State of the Union message:

VIETNAM — He said the prospects for peace are better now than at any time in the past four years.

SOCIAL SECURITY — He recommended an over-all increase of at least 13 per cent in benefits, and that the minimum rate of $55 a month be raised to $80.

★ ★ ★

SURTAX — He said his recommendation that the income surtax be continued will be supported by President-elect Nixon until the Nixon administration and Congress have had time to gauge what should be done.

BUDGET — The President reported the budget for the fiscal year ending June 30 will show a surplus of $2.4 billion, and that the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 will provide a surplus of $3.4 billion.

DRAFT — He repeated his 1967 recommendation to Congress that it adopt a fair and impartial random selection system.

ANTIPOVERTY — The President suggested reorganizing portions of the program and transferring them to other agencies.

HOUSING — He advocated increased support for the model cities program and called for the construction of 500,000 housing units for needy families.

URBAN DEVELOPMENT — The President proposed the creation of an urban development bank that would issue taxable bonds and lend money to communities for schools, parks and other facilities.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS — He advocated early ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty and a resumption of talks with the Soviet Union on the limitation of offensive and defensive missile systems. He also declared the United States supports the resolution of the U.N. Security Council on the Middle East.

Part of Midwest Tasting Freeze

By the Associated Press

Warnings to travelers were in effect today over a broad section of the Midwest as a developing weather disturbance touched off freezing precipitation.

Freezing drizzle and freezing rain or sleet fell throughout an area from Iowa and Northeast Nebraska to Minnesota and North Dakota.

★ ★ ★

The disturbance and its accompanying front are moving eastward and were expected to spread freezing precipitation across Wisconsin and northern Illinois and Indiana.

Heavy snow warnings were posted for the mountains of western Colorado.

SPREADING RAIN

A large low that has been anchored in the Pacific northwest of Washington continued to spread rain and snow showers over western Washington and Oregon.

Southerly winds brought warming temperatures into areas of the Midwest and arctic air over the eastern third of the nation continued to moderate.

Early morning temperatures ranged from one below zero at Pellston, Mich. to 67 at Brownsville and McAllen, Tex.

Other early morning temperatures and conditions were—Boston 24 clear, New York 27 clear, Philadelphia 31 cloudy, Washington 30 clear, Atlanta 35 cloudy, Miami 58 cloudy, Detroit 18 cloudy, Chicago 23 cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 27 freezing drizzle, St. Louis 33 cloudy, Kansas City 43 cloudy, Phoenix 56 drizzle, Los Angeles 55 cloudy, San Francisco 44 clear, Seattle 35 cloudy, Anchorage 6 below clear, Honolulu 68 cloudy.

No Postal Politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William A. Steiger announced today he has taken steps to remove from partisan politics the appointments of postmasters and rural carriers in his Wisconsin congressional district.

★ ★ ★

Steiger, a Republican, said he is requesting that any postal vacancy in his district be filled by appointment of the top-ranking applicant on a list of those eligible. The list would be established after an open, competitive examination.

Detailed Quiz for Sirhan Jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Prospective jurors in the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan murder trial are being asked in greatest detail about their attitude toward psychiatry, their views on the death penalty, and the effect of pretrial publicity on their opinions.

Defense of the 24-year-old Jordanian accused of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is expected to feature a sophisticated, legalistic tactic which admits Sirhan fired the fatal bullet.

Exhaustive and repetitious probing by both defense and prosecution has centered on questions designed to show how the prospective jurors would react to such a defense.

Four jurors, all women, were tentatively seated by the close of yesterday's session. Both sides hope to begin testimony within a month.

SIRHAN 'SATISFIED'

Sirhan watched the proceedings intently and was quoted by one of his attorneys as saying, "I am satisfied with the way things are going."

Prospective jurors are being asked if they can set aside their revulsion to the crime itself and deliberate instead on Sirhan's state of mind at the moment he pulled the trigger.

★ ★ ★

They are also being asked if they can forget the victim's world renown.

Birmingham

Architectural Control Unit Will Be Aired

BIRMINGHAM — This city's planning board will discuss the possible establishment of an architectural control committee at tonight's 8 p.m. meeting.

The City Commission has requested the planning board to designate a committee or review board to work out guidelines toward continuing to implement the "Birmingham Look" in the city.

★ ★ ★

Maintaining the "Birmingham Look" has been defined by Planning Board chairman John Jickling as an attempt to preserve the pedestrian atmosphere and distinctive quality of Birmingham rather than establishing an identifiable consistent architectural style in the community.

"Actually the Birmingham Look is more of a mood than a look," Jickling said.

Almon J. Durkee of Rochester and a principal officer with Luckenbach, Durkee and Associates of Birmingham, has been elected to the board of directors, Michigan Society of Architects, for 1969-70.

He is currently serving on the board of directors for the Detroit chapter, American Institute of Architects, and is past officer and charter member of the Detroit chapter, Construction Specification Institute.

Mrs. Perliana Butler, coordinator of preschool education for the Pontiac School District will speak on early childhood education at Pembroke School's January meeting PTA at 7 p.m. Monday.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Butler served as a reading clinician at Oakland County Reading Center for one year and was an elementary school principal for nine years. As a principal, she was instrumental in initiating preschool programs in Pontiac.

The Birmingham Kiwanis Club formally inducted its new officers for 1969 last night at the annual Installation and Ladies Night dinner held at the Birmingham House Motel.

Officers are: Ralph R. Watts Jr., 592 Bird, president; Darry L. Bruestle, 571 Bird, first vice president; William B. Woodburn, 929 Harmon, second vice president; Theodore Paczas, 1295 Forest, treasurer; and Jack A. Daugherty, 570 Bird, secretary.

★ ★ ★

Robert W. Montgomery, 1517 Shipman, 1968 president, will be responsible for increasing the Birmingham Club's membership and aiding in establishing new clubs in Division Six in 1969.

Richard E. Devore of 29 Academy Way, head of the ceramics department of Cranbrook Academy of Art, has been invited to show his work in three national exhibitions.

One of his trays has been selected for display in the National Invitational Exhibition scheduled for February at the Honolulu Academy of Fine Arts.

★ ★ ★

In April he will be represented in the 25th Scripps College (Claremont, Calif.) Invitational. A sculptured piece has been purchased for the new Johnson Wax collection, which will tour the country.

Oklahoma's Harris Elected Dem Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fred Harris shouldered the dual burdens of U.S. senator and Democratic national chairman today and set out in pursuit of party strength and $9 million to repay party debts.

Harris, 38, was unanimously elected party chairman at a meeting of the national committee.

★ ★ ★

Selection of the Oklahoman to succeed the resigning Lawrence F. O'Brien had been a foregone conclusion since Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, as titular head of the party, publicly gave Harris his support over the weekend.

State Senate 'Raring to Go' While House Marks Time

LANSING (UPI) — The State Legislature was a one-house body of sorts today. The Senate was the only chamber at work.

House members won't return to their Capitol desks until Jan. 27, when they are expected to flood the hopper with bill introductions.

★ ★ ★

Sixteen bills and some strongly worded resolutions await Senate action. But the big issues of the session — state aid to schools, teacher strike legislation, budget increases and taxes — remain in the background.

"We're ready to tackle any and all matters," boasted Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood. "The question is, when will the House be ready?"

House Speaker William A. Ryan maintained the lower chamber needs a two-week recess to complete organizational chores necessitated by the Democrats replacing Republicans as the House majority party.

"We need time to get organized — set up committees, hire secretaries and allocate office space," he said.

★ ★ ★

Chairman Oscar E. Bouwsma R-Muskegon, of the Senate Labor Committee called on the membership of both houses to get down to work immediately, five days a week, and finish legislative business by midsummer. Otherwise, he warned, the session could drag into next fall and possibly next winter, with little accomplished.

"I am being paid, like the other legislators, as a full-time legislator and I feel we should be working in high gear rather than in a haphazard fashion as we are doing now," he said.

PLANS SNUBBED

But leadership plans to clean up fast and adjourn by late July or early August were already being discounted. Typically, neither House nor Senate had any serious work planned in January, except to hear governor-to-be William G. Milliken's first budget address.

★ ★ ★

Milliken's budget is certain to be considered in the light of his state of the state message urging legislators to walk a prudent spending path this year.

Johnson Asks $81.5-Billion Defense Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday to spend $81.5 billion for defense in the coming fiscal year, slightly reducing Vietnam costs but warning of the need to "counter a wide range of potential military threats."

His spending proposals for the 1970 fiscal year topped those of the current year by $500 million, despite a cut of $3.4 billion in the cost of supporting 639,000 fighting men in Southeast Asia.

★ ★ ★

Vietnam alone accounts for nearly one-third of the proposed military spending, but the accent in Johnson's final defense budget is on beefing up the fighting power of forces elsewhere in the world and on developing new weapons and equipment.

He urged the increased defense spending—the largest in any year since World War II—to continue the military "momentum achieved during the last eight years."

The President attributed reduction in Vietnam spending to "changing combat patterns and revised supply requirements." Large-scale operations have been reduced and the bombing of North Vietnam has been halted.

★ ★ ★

But his proposal to finance an additional 5,000 men by June 30, 1970, in the Southeast Asian area, including Thailand, the Philippines and support bases farther afield, held no hint of beginning a phased manpower cut from Vietnam, as has been rumored in Saigon.

The new budget, subject to changes by the Nixon administration and the Congress, provides for 3,455,000 men and women in uniform on active duty, 32,000 below peak strength in the current year.

The Army will absorb most of the cut, 26,000, mostly through the release of reserves. The Air Force will drop 8,000, more than offsetting a 2,000 increase for the Marine Corps and a near-1,000 net rise in Navy manpower.

SAME STRIKE FORCE

The Army will have the same number of divisions—18—and its air unit roster is unchanged at 218. The Marine Corps will field the same four divisions and three air wings as it does in the current year.

The budget will enable the Navy to sail its present 15 attack aircraft carriers. It will have one less antisubmarine carrier and air group and 16 fewer amphibious assault ships. But the operating fleet of nuclear-powered attack submarines will expand from 41 to 47 next year.

★ ★ ★

The Air Force budget includes money to operate the first two squadrons of the new C5A jumbo-size air transports, buy more FB111 fighter-bombers and short range missiles for that aircraft, and 24 squadrons of B52s. Thirty squadrons of the big bombers are now in service.

The cost of running the Selective Service System next year is pegged just under the current $70 million annual level "despite an anticipated increase in draft calls."

DRAFT CHANGE URGED

Johnson reminded Congress of his earlier "intention to develop a fair and impartial random system of selection" for drafting men, a plan thwarted by Congress in 1967. He used his farewell budget message to plead for a law providing for a variation of a lottery system for selecting men to bear arms.

★ ★ ★

In other areas covered by the defense budget, the President called for a slight increase, to $551 million, in military aid, and a $120 million rise in Atomic Energy Commission outlays, to $2.6 billion, for improved nuclear weapons and atomic power plants for warships in fiscal 1970.

Partly offsetting increased spending in most defense fields are proposed cuts in outlays for military construction, dependents housing and civil defense.

The number of intercontinental and submarine-launched ballistic missiles is unchanged in the new budget, but their destructive potential would be vastly increased by replacing the Air Force's Minuteman I with Minuteman III, and the Navy's Polaris with the Poseidon, both with multiple hydrogen warheads able to strike several targets at once.

IMPROVED SYSTEMS

The budget also seeks congressional authority to start spending over several years to improve Poseidon and the Sentinel system, already under construction, to provide limited defense against oncoming enemy ballistic missiles.

The largest single authority to obligate funds in fiscal 1970 for general purpose forces is for a $2.4-billion new ship construction program for the Navy.

This authority if granted would give the Navy five more nuclear-powered vessels. Three would be of a new class of "very fast" submarines. Also envisioned is the first of a new design guided missile ship to escort nuclear attack forces and a second Nimitz class nuclear-powered carrier.

Also planned are five of a new class of conventionally powered destroyers and the first three of a projected fleet of 15 fast-deployment logistic ships.

The budget proposal calls for continued long range buying by the Air Force of the F111A, attack version of the FB111, and once known as the TFX.

Afro Panel Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to establish an 11-member national commission on Afro-American history and culture was introduced Tuesday in the House by Rep. James H. Scheuer, D- N. Y., and 22 co-sponsors. Scheuer said Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., is sponsoring a companion proposal in the Senate.

Here's a Tip on Hats---They Tell a Lot About Man Underneath

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

"Standing on the corner, watching . . ." is usually a sport reserved for men. But the regulations were ignored yesterday long enough to make a first-person survey of winter cranial coverings of the male species.

FRIEDLAND

"A man buys a hat that reflects his personality—often without even knowing it," a headgear salesman said in a presurvey cram course.

After staring at examples passing through Pontiac Mall corridors, I had to agree with him. Most of the male hat-wearing shoppers appeared concerned with looks, not with warmth. Few hats actually covered the ears.

★ ★ ★

A hat can look like part of the flesh on one man while it appears a silly piece of cloth caught by the wind in the hair of another.

One hangdoggish-looking specimen passed by wearing a weatherbeaten brown cloth model with a 2-inch brim following his hairline and the sag of his ears.

Another man, apparently opting for the spy effect, literally slouched past the fountains with his black cap pulled low over his forehead.

Several dapper younger men strode by with sporty versions of felt or fur angularly perched.

★ ★ ★

Older men, often out shopping with their wives, however, were mostly hatted in traditional creased long oval cloth models.

The only neutral model viewed by this staring reporter was the council hat—looking like Russian army surplus hat — appropriate for duty in the Arctic.

Always in a dark color, the long oval top with fake — or real — beaver sides, sits on any man's head without changing or adding to a personality. A hat for individuals, the council model is this year's most popular item.

An hour's viewing merely supports the belief that a hat doesn't make a man — but you can learn a lot about the man by the make of his hat.

Troy Vandalism Report Given

TROY — The board of education last night received a report on last week's vandalism damage at Troy High School and Baker Junior High.

Damage at the high school, according to Principal Clyde D. Peterson, included breakage of numerous panes of glass, both in windows and in hall display cases.

★ ★ ★

Other damage included:

• Office machines — an electric typewriter in the main office and the main console of the central public address system.

• Food and machines in the cafeteria. Six hundred servings of apple crisp were destroyed, at a cost of $90, and the cash register, a fan, and fruit and juice machines were damaged.

• Fifty pounds of clay in the art department, "damaged beyond use."

★ ★ ★

Miscellaneous fixtures and equipment found in hallways. Four clocks were destroyed or damaged, three fire extinguishers were emptied, two hall lights were broken and a bulletin board outside the principal's office was pulled off the wall.

★ ★ ★

Junior high school damage primarily consisted of broken glass and scattering of contents of desks and shelves around rooms.

Classes were canceled Friday at both schools after the vandalism, which resulted in an estimated total damage of about $10,000, according to school officials.

Sewer Costs Down in Bloomfield Twp.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Final costs of two new sewer assessment projects approved recently by the Township Board proved to be less than estimated.

Board members approved extension of Lone Pine Village sanitary sewer at a total cost of $29,900 or $2,300 per site. The sewer line would run along Ranch Lane off of Lone Pine Road.

★ ★ ★

The second project, the Inkster-Lone Pine area sewer, will cost property owners a total of $19,200 or $1,600 per site.

★ ★ ★

In other recent business, the appointments of John Gnau, 3894 Peabody, and Thomas H. Dickson, 5649 Pebbleshire, to the planning commission for three-year terms were approved by the board. They replace Victor P. Sutt, 2390 E. Hammond Lake, and Andrew Snively, 1433 Kirk Way. Sutt's term expired while Snively moved out of the area.

SEWER PROJECTION

A petition was accepted for a 14-site sanitary sewer near Wing Lake Road, south of Maple. Cost is estimated at $28,800. The first hearing is scheduled for Feb. 10 at 8:30 p.m.

Other sewer petitions accepted include Inwoods, Lochslea subdivision; W. Lochslea No. 1 Apple Lane and Blossom Lane Braes of Bloomfield No. 3 (Bryn Mawr and Ballantine).

★ ★ ★

A request by W. C. Scott to rezone property on Maple from R-2, one-family residential to P-1, vehicular parking, was approved. The property is located near the intersection of Maple and Lahser.

★ ★ ★

The board agreed to participate with West Bloomfield Township and the Oakland County Road Commission in a matching funds project for paving of Inkster extending from Maple south to Beacon Hill. The two townships each will furnish $33,000 with the road commission assuming the balance of $69,000.

Troy Engineering Firm Adds Partner

TROY — Bruce A. King Jr. has been named a principal partner in the consulting engineering firm of Holforty, Widrig, O'Neill and Associates Inc., 177 W. Big Beaver.

KING

His appointment was accompanied by a change of the firm's name to Holforty, Widrig, O'Neill, King and Associates, Inc.

King, who will assume the position of director of mechanical and electrical engineering at the firm, previously was director of facilities for Oakland Community College.

★ ★ ★

He received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Illinois, where he majored in atomic physics. He is a registered mechanical and electrical engineer in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

His background includes 33 years of engineering experience, 12 in private practice under the firm name of B. A. King and Associates, Inc.

Bond Issue Vote Is Likely in June

Holly OKs Plans for New Junior High

HOLLY — Preliminary architectural plans for a new junior high school building have been tentatively approved by the board of education here.

Cost will not exceed $3 million, according to school officials.

The board expects to hve final building plans and cost estimates prepared in time to hold a special bond issue election in June.

Supt. of Schools Russell Haddon said the board will concentrate on the junior high school project, delaying the needed addition to the elementary school and improvements to the high school until later bond issues.

'NEEDED IN 2 YEARS'

He added that funds for improvements to the two existing schools would have to be appropriated within two years or the school system would face serious overcrowding and building condition problems.

★ ★ ★

An earlier bond issue for $5 million, which would have provided funds for improvement of the high school and elementary buildings in addition to the proposed junior high, was defeated in October 1967.

★ ★ ★

Architects Reibe & Weiland of Ann Arbor are developing a campus-type, open space style junior high building plan. The new facility would house 36 to 42 classrooms and serve grades 7-9.

★ ★ ★

Haddon explained the open-space building concept would prove to be more functional since classes and departments would be centered according to subject in specific areas of the school.

LARGER ROOMS

The campus plan also eliminates considerable corridor space and provides larger classrooms.

★ ★ ★

Tha administrator added that the campus-type building plan eliminates unnecessary space and reduces building costs.

Projected Kresge Co. Relocation Boosts Troy Development Plans

TROY—Plans for a multimillion-dollar business - shopping development in this city have received a major boost as a representative of S. S. Kresge Co. confirmed yesterday that the firm intends to relocate its headquarters here.

★ ★ ★

Russell E. Duncan, head of the Kresge construction department, has informed the City Commission of the firm's plans for a 500,000-square-foot office building on 30 acres of a 60-acre site owned by the Biltmore Development Co. northwest of Big Beaver and Coolidge.

★ ★ ★

The commission unanimously approved rezoning of the entire 60 acres from single-family residential to office usage Monday night.

Biltmore, developer of Troy's huge Somerset apartment complex, previously had received approval of a rezoning request for 52 acres northeast of Big Beaver and Coolidge for commercial usage.

'REGIONAL CENTER'

At that time, officials of the development company said the land would be used for a "regional shopping center."

Also, the company has developed a high-fashion shopping center southeast of the Big Beaver-Coolidge intersection, with Saks Fifth Avenue and Bonwit Teller the principal tenants.

★ ★ ★

Norman Cohen, Biltmore attorney and a partner in the firm, has estimated tax revenue from the office complex and regional shopping center at $1.5 million annually, roughly five times anticipated income from residential property.

W. Bloomfield Will Continue Hearing on Sewer District

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Township Board will continue Jan. 27 the public hearing on the sewer assessment district for Knollwood Heights. A decision concerning whether or not to disband the current sewer assessment district and begin creating a new one will probably be made at the meeting, to be at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall.

★ ★ ★

The Committee for the Preservation of Knollwood — a group of residents against the current sewer assessment district — is seeking legally to void the council's actions to date.

★ ★ ★

The committee claims that many residents signed petitions on the basis of false information and later asked that their names be withdrawn, but that the township refused to do so.

The estimated base cost of the sewer based on engineering done so far is about $337,711. The estimated base cost per home owner would be about $3,400.

★ ★ ★

Additional cost would include connecting fees of about $600 per home owner and cost of a hookup to the house from the street. Residents are also responsible for restoring their own landscaping.

Planning Unit Adds 2 in Independence

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Mrs. Gordon Bray of 9375 Pine Knob and Glen Brokenshaw of 5592 Pine Knob have been appointed to three-year terms on the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Both were approved by the Township Board on the recommendation of Supervisor Duane Hursfall. They replace Richard Johnston and John Lynch, whose terms expired.

Huber and 17 Seek Probe of Colleges

LANSING (AP) — State Sen. Robert Huber, R-Troy, who last month said Oakland University was "going to pot," yesterday found 17 allies in calling for an investigation into left-wing student activities at state-supported universities.

★ ★ ★

Huber and his allies — 15 Republicans and two Democratic state senators — signed a resolution calling for a five-man investigating committee to find out why students print dirty words in their newspapers, take off their clothes in class and what the role of Students for a Democratic Society really is on the campuses.

★ ★ ★

Huber last month made headlines by raising a ruckus over an Oakland student who removed his clothes in a poetry class.

Yesterday he renewed his charges about Oakland, saying University Chancellor Durward B. Varner was trying to hide the situation. Oakland officials denied the charge.

★ ★ ★

Principal sponsor of yesterday's bill was James G. Fleming R-Jackson. Fleming headed a special committee that studied the Detroit riot of 1967 and said he is confident the State Senate will approve the proposed investigation.

CHILLY DIP — Sgt. Medward Tessier off duty from the sheriff's Department enters the icy waters of Union Lake yesterday to attach a cable to a truck which broke through the ice Jan. 3. The truck, which was in 48 feet of water, was not recovered yesterday. However, another attempt was scheduled for this morning. A service station tow truck will be used to haul the truck to a shallow area near the lake's edge, where it will be pulled through another hole in the ice.

LBJ Delivers Last Official Address

Breaking a precedent that had stood since 1801, President LYNDON B. JOHNSON last night appeared personally before the Congress and chief dignitaries of the Government and military forces to deliver his sixth and last State of the Union address.

JOHNSON

It was, as he termed it, both a philosophical and a sentimental appearance, since it marked his official farewell as a national political figure after 26 years as Congressional representative, senator, vice president and President.

★ ★ ★

The 3,000-word message consisted mainly of a resume of Johnson's five years in the Presidency and, as he saw them, the social and economic gains the Nation had made during his tenure. It stressed, too, the benefits that, in his belief, had accrued to the disadvantaged under the aegis of the Great Society, and his efforts, regrettably unsuccessful, to bring America's involvement in Southeast Asia to a peaceful conclusion. And the President credited the effectiveness of Foreign Aid in solidifying the international position of the United States.

★ ★ ★

Looking ahead, LBJ importuned the Congress and, by implication, incoming President RICHARD NIXON to continue the programs his administration had initiated, while proposing other national and international goals. These included:

- Federal aid to state and local governments in implementing effective programs to quell the rising prevalence of crime.
- A flat 13 per cent increase in Social Security benefits with a higher minimum level.
- Prompt approval of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons.
- Resumption of talks with the Russians related to control of offensive and defensive weapons systems.

On the fiscal front, JOHNSON predicted that the 1969 budget, that runs through June 30, would show a $2.4-billion surplus instead of the $8-billion deficit foreseen, and that the 1970 budget ($195.3 billion) would produce a $3.4-billion surplus. Both favorable results were attributed to the imposition and retention of the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

★ ★ ★

Furthermore, said JOHNSON, the continuing deficits in the U.S. balance of payments account have been halted, and that a surplus would be realized for the past year.

It is too early to appraise the efficacy of LYNDON JOHNSON'S Presidency in the light of history. But there can be general agreement that he was a patriotic American dedicated to the welfare of his country.

We wish him well as he becomes America's third living ex-President, with release from the awesome responsibilities borne by the Chief Executive of the world's greatest nation.

Cubans Continue to Flee Castro's Benevolence

CYRUS EATON, Cleveland industrialist, gentleman farmer and unofficial ambassador of good will to the Communist world, has returned from a visit to Cuba full of praise for the island's maximum leader.

"Cuba never had a real chance since COLUMBUS discovered it until now," says EATON. "CASTRO is dedicated to the country and the people. You can condemn him for other things, but not for that."

The same could never have been said about FULGENCIO BATISTA, Cuba's previous dictator, who was dedicated to nothing but his self-aggrandizement.

★ ★ ★

Strangely, though in the days of Batista, bad as they were, one never heard of people risking their lives in small boats just to escape from their home land.

There was no such thing as a refugee airlift to Miami, with a waiting list of tens of thousands of Cubans hoping to get on it and willing to pay the price of leaving behind everything they own but the clothes on their backs.

★ ★ ★

It must mean something when 81 men, women and children — and a hundred or so others who didn't make it — travel 600 miles by truck and brave bullets and dogs to make a dash into Guantanamo naval base and are afraid to give their names lest reprisals be taken against their relatives.

★ ★ ★

Evidently they just don't understand what the dedicated Castro is trying to do for his country and his people. Perhaps Eaton can explain it to them.

Nixon Nominees Reflect Pragmatism

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — It is now clear the Nixon administration will depend heavily on craftsmen in high places.

CROMLEY

This would seem to confirm predictions that Nixon will seek pragmatic rather than doctrinaire solutions to hairy foreign, defense and domestic problems.

Take the State and Defense departments as examples:

The reliance on craftsmen is seen in the unprecedented appointment of veteran foreign service officer U. Alexis Johnson to the No. 3 post in the State Department and the selection of career diplomat Robert Yost as ambassador to the United Nations.

★ ★ ★

It is seen again in the appointment of David Packard, head of Hewlett-Packard electronics, as deputy secretary of defense and scientist Robert C. Seamans, former deputy chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, as secretary of the Air Force.

★ ★ ★

It is apparent in the reappointment of the skilled negotiator, Ellsworth Bunker, as ambassador to South Vietnam and the selection of Henry Cabot Lodge, former ambassador to the United Nations and two-time ambassador to South Vietnam, as chief negotiator with Hanoi in Paris.

PROFESSIONALS

Except for Lodge, these men are professionals in their fields, not politicians. Lodge, of late, by his considerable service in Vietnam, the United Nations and West Germany, has also become a professional.

In addition, President-elect Nixon has made it clear Secretary of State-designate William Rogers was picked in considerable measure because of his technical skill at negotiating.

Taken together, these appointments have significance.

In his Defense and State Department selections, Nixon is bringing the United States closer to the British and Japanese systems.

In those countries, permanent undersecretaries provide continuity and great technical skills at high levels of the government, regardless of the party in power.

In foreign affairs at this time, pragmatic professionalism may be just what is needed.

★ ★ ★

For despite their doctrinaire fixations, Leonid Brezhnev, Ho Chi Minh and Mao Tse-tung are quite pragmatic men in their own way, especially when faced with serious problems.

But it will take highly skilled, hard-headed practical U.S. negotiators to winnow grain from the chaff and prevent the United States from being "taken" by these experienced opponents.

'Spare That Tree!'

David Lawrence Says:

LBJ's Advice Not Too Relevant

WASHINGTON — Although President Johnson goes out of office next Monday, he nevertheless decided to deliver in person a State-of-the-Union address to both houses of Congress and to submit the following day a budget message telling the next administration, in general, what it should do about the management of the fiscal affairs of the country.

LAWRENCE

Few people will read in detail the ponderous document giving advice on how the public funds should be spent and what new taxes should be collected.

For the fact is that Mr. Johnson, after a few days, will no longer have the responsibility for making public policy, and his advice to Congress will not be necessarily relevant.

Mr. Johnson wants the 10 per cent tax surcharge to be continued beyond June 30, and his successor is likely to do this for the simple reason that $10 billion a year can be collected by that particular method of taxation.

It is too large an item to relinquish, especially with the huge expenditures which have already been authorized and which cannot be readily curtailed by the new administration.

SEEMS UNAWARE

Mr. Johnson urges increases in various kinds of taxes, including Social Security.

He seems to be unaware of the higher levies being imposed concurrently by the states and cities throughout the country. There are millions of voters who would not relish the idea of more increases in tax rates.

Mr. Johnson insists, however, that the country is making progress because there has been a growth in the gross national product and an increase in the total amount of profits by corporations.

As long as the Vietnam war continues, there will, to be sure, be substantial amounts spent in what might be termed unproductive ways. Since population is increasing, moreover, expenses for public welfare will be enlarged.

HARD TO TELL

Until the policies of the new administration are clearly set forth to the nation — which may take at least a month or two — it will be hard to tell whether there will be any surplus in the budget this year or even next year.

Certainly tax revenues will be substantially affected by a drop in income if there should be a recession.

But, for the moment, the outgoing President seems to be trying to convince the people that the last eight years have been an era of real progress and that, if any adversity occurs, the blame — politically speaking — must fall on the new administration.

Mr. Johnson is saying, in effect: "You have never had it so good."

Rickenbacker Forecasts Golden Days for Aviation

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, one of the last American knights, maintains his eagle's sight as he scans the future of commercial aviation.

CONSIDINE

The 78-year-old "Ace of Aces," honored guest here at this remarkable training school, said, "There's no place for the industry to go but up. The airlines are only just now coming into their own. Railroad passenger service is about finished except for commuter trains.

★ ★ ★

"As for automobile travel over any sizable distance, that's falling off, too.

"Cars are killing 50,000 Americans a year and injuring many times that figure. Flying is the safest means of transportation: safer than walking."

TURBULENCE AHEAD

He sees turbulence ahead, however:

"The jumbo jets are going to start rolling off the production lines before a lot of airports and cities are equipped to handle their passengers. If a dozen of those babies arrived simultaneously, at Kennedy or O'Hare or Los Angeles, right now there would be a bumper-to-bumper traffic jam all the way into the centers of the cities.

★ ★ ★

"I think I am responsible for the airports of at least 50 cities in this country," the legendary hero said. "But in every case I told the people concerned that the day would come, sooner than they expected, when the fields would no longer be capable of handling the traffic and the land would become so valuable they could sell it for a great profit and buy all the cheaper land they needed, farther out in the sticks.

"Forty or 50 miles out of town, I told them, and I guess some of them thought I was daffy. But it's coming around to that for the bigger cities.

TOUGH QUESTION

"The question then is, How do you get the passengers into town? There are three basic land approaches: subway, which would be too expensive; monorail, which is too dangerous and too slow; and vacuum tube, which could be relatively inexpensive because it could be built on the surface.

"Who will want to arrive in the area of his destination at just under the speed of sound — and later he may be arriving at two or three times the speed of sound—and then creep into town at fives miles an hour, if that?

★ ★ ★

"Vacuum tube cars, propelled by air and riding on air rather than wheels and a track, could reach smooth speeds of 500 miles an hour without any trouble. It would be a much safer form of transportation than a bus or a cab. The advantage of this system would be that some future New York airport, let's say it was 60 miles from Times Square, or even more, would be as close, time-wise, as LaGuardia is today."

Citizen Has Praise for Governor Romney

Regarding Romney's speech, he is speaking as he sees it. As usual, in this changed modern people's world, people can't stand teachers you can learn the most from. The realist in these days seems to be an outcast. Almost everything I've heard Romney say is more down-to-earth and real than any other politician I've heard. We need men like Romney by the dozen.

'Disagree With Romney's Stand on Schools'

It seems that the Governor dropped a bomb on the people of Michigan. His farewell speech was an outrage to the intelligence of citizens. How does he know what is taught in parochial or public schools? He'd never take the time to visit a school unless it meant publicity for him. I'm not for parochial schools but I do believe in the freedom of choice given us by our Constitution. It looks like Mr. Romney tried to stir up trouble in our State as a parting gesture. Is he trying to get even with someone?

'Little Dog Was Killed by Driver in a Hurry'

To the young woman in the 1969 Pontiac traveling east on Walton near Rochester about 9:30 a.m. Jan. 4, I hope you had an enjoyable day. You were going at such a high rate of speed that you had no guilty feelings about hitting that little black dog that was trying to cross the street. You could have slowed down and missed him but you were in such a hurry. The least you could have done was stop to see how badly the dog was hurt. You killed the dog.

Question and Answer

In April 1968, I went to an attorney and started a divorce, at which time I also paid him $60. The papers weren't served for several weeks and a few months later I canceled the divorce. Now my husband has been ordered to pay the attorney $200 for the divorce, even though it was canceled. Why?

MRS. P.

REPLY

It is standard procedure at the beginning of divorce proceedings for the court to order the husband to pay $200. If the case becomes unusually complicated, the fee can be raised. This is to insure the attorney payment for conferences, preparation of pleadings, filing, telephone calls, etc., all of which take his time whether the divorce is canceled or not. You can't expect a lawyer to put in hours of free time just because you change your mind. And incidentally, your lawyer says you've never officially canceled the proceedings. It's supposed to be done in writing.

Question and Answer

What are the wages of a serviceman with two dependents compared to that of a woman on welfare with two dependents?

WONDERING

REPLY

Army Recruiting tells us a private would get $102 plus an additional $60 for dependents, and if he's living with his family, $39 subsistence. Allotment increases with rank. A mother on ADC with two children receives $124 plus rent. Both receive some additional health and hospitalization benefits.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Faster, But . . .

Milwaukee Journal

When the world's first turbine powered train began operating last week over the 335 miles between Montreal and Toronto, the Toronto Star decided to try to settle a familiar argument: Which actually is faster — a sleek, high speed train or an airplane with the inevitable delays getting from airport to city center?

★ ★ ★

One reporter used the 100 mile an hour Turbo Train, the other went by Air Canada. The man on the plane won — but only by 10 minutes, largely because the experiment went awry.

Flying time was only 58 minutes. But total time from downtown to downtown was 3 hours 54 minutes. Some 40 to 50 minutes were taken up changing planes at Toronto after the original plane was found to be "unserviceable."

★ ★ ★

The point of it all is that train travel can be comfortable, convenient and fast if there is the will to make it so. In an age of growing congestion in the air and on the highway, trains can offer an acceptable alternative for travelers.

With Canada pointing the way, perhaps transportation planners in this country can find some incentive for implementing, with a greater sense of urgency, the long talked about experimental runs with high speed trains between Boston and New York and Washington.

Teachers Beware

The Chicago American

Maybe you think schools have problems now? In Manhattan an 11-year-old boy, Joshua Mamis, has filed suit in federal District court in connection with his campaign to oust his school's principal.

Joshua had been circulating petitions among his classmates calling for the ouster of Saris Cohen, principal of intermediate School 44. Cohen, he says, called him into the office and told him to stop it and according to Joshua's parents, this action "intimidated and frightened" their son.

So Joshua is asking the court to rule that rights guaranteed by the first amendment to the Constitution, including the right to circulate petitions, apply to juveniles like himself.

He is being supported by lawyers for the National Emergency Civil Liberties committee (no relation to the American Civil Liberties Union), who profess to see far-reaching legal effects in Joshua's suit.

Judges' Pay OK'd to Maximum Total

The Pontiac City Commission went all the way last night in providing its new District Court judges with annual salaries of $27,500 each.

The new judges, Cecil McCallum, James Stelt and Maurice Finnegan, serve the Pontiac area in the newly formed District 50. Under the statewide realignment, the system replaces most of the justices of the peace, Municipal Court functions.

Related Story, Page A-8

Under the plan, the state pays the judges' salary up to $18,000 per year. Communities can add up to $9,500 to this sum for a total of $27,500 yearly. Last night the commission agreed to do this. Payments into insurance and retirement plans and other frnige benefits will have to come out of the $9,500 supplement, however.

Most communities near Pontiac provide the entire supplement, it was pointed out. However, other state communities have approved lesser amounts or have not yet approved any supplement.

LAUDITORY NOTE

In other action, the commission received a letter of commendation on its adoption of the Pontiac Plan for urban renewal land from the Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC).

★ ★ ★

The plan, approved last week, calls for a multiuse development of the 27-acre tract in the downtown area. It proposed a $100-million privately developed project with a hospital, hotel, convention center, restaurant, stadium, apartments and other facilities all served by an underground parking lot.

★ ★ ★

Approval and expediting of the Pontiac Plan is now under way with the office of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The commission also set four public hearings for 8 p.m. on the following dates:

- Jan. 28 — For a $106,950 construction of curb, gutter and paving of Kenilworth from Featherstone to University.
- Jan. 28 — For presentation of special assessment roll for sewer on Auburn from Eastway to 100 feet east of railroad.
- Feb. 4 — Rezoning of four lots on south side of West Kennett east of Stanley from single family to low-rise multiple to provide for construction of 8 two-unit dwellings. (Petitions with 31 protests are on file.)
- Feb. 18 — For vacation of Carlisle Street north from Sheffield to the railroad.

The commission also decreed this week as "Michigan Junior Miss Week." The state Junior Miss Pageant will be held at Pontiac Northern High School Friday and Saturday.

REZONING

In other action the following rezonings had final public hearings and were approved:

- Nine lots zoned low-rise multiple on the west side of Dewey between West Kennett and Dearborn.

★ ★ ★

- Triangular parcel on Madison near Arlene to low-rise multiple.
- A parcel north of Michigan between Anderson and Edith to multiple dwelling.
- Two railroad properties on South Boulevard near Square Lake Road to manufacturing.

In addition, city public works officials are to meet Feb. 3 with officials from the State Public Service Commission on the possible closing of Franklin Road over the Grand Truck Western tracks.

Traffic signals are to be installed at Perry and Glenwood, it was announced.

Budget Hike 'Mostly for Social Aid'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told Congress today the biggest share of the $11.6-billion increase in his fiscal 1970 budget over the current year will go for domestic social programs.

He said that $4.5 bill ionof the increase is allocated to proposed Social Security expansion, to be financed by a major boost in payroll deductions.

★ ★ ★

Another $3.4 billion will go into other major social programs in the fields of housing, education, health and job training.

The only other big item in the increase is $2.8 billion for a federal pay raise. National defense, by far the biggest segment in the total budget, will be increased to $500 million.

INFLATIONARY DEMANDS

Nevertheless, the President and his budget director, Charles J. Zwick, made it clear that they had been forced to drastically hold down funds for domestic programs.

The inflationary trend in the economy and the Vietnam war dictated a tight budget, they said.

As an example, Johnson again allocated $1.2 billion to Title One programs for aid to schools with large numbers of low-income pupils. Congress has authorized more than double the President's allotment, and school superintendents have said they could use three or four times as much as Johnson allowed.

In another field, Johnson proposed $214 million for grants to help cities build waste treatment plants to control water pollution. Members of Congress who have been struggling with this problem, notably Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, have said more than $1 billion is needed by 1970.

BASIC INCREASES

The President's Social Security proposals would give a basic 10 per cent hike to all 25 million persons now on the rolls, while to those receiving the minimum $55 monthly payment would get a 45 per cent increase to $80.

In addition, Johnson would extend Medicare to two million disabled persons regardless of their age.

Sewer System Trouble Brings Appeal to Legislature

Pontiac may face future problems with development of its sewer system, it was reported to the City Commission last night.

The commission appealed to the State Legislature for help.

Endangered are federal and state funds for future projects. Pontiac and six other communities in the metropolitan Detroit area have been informed they are not complying with regional planning and therefore may not receive grants.

In immediate jeopardy is a share in the $335-million bond issue approved by state voters in November.

DRAWING UP RULES

JOSEPH E. Neipling, public works and services director, told the commission that the State Legislature is now drawing up rules for granting of the funds for prevention of pollution.

It is feared Pontiac, Warren, Ann Arbor, Rochester, Ypsilanti, Riverview and Trenton, will not be eligible because they do not conform with a regional sewer plan adopted by the Supervisors' Inter-County Committee in 1964. The committee is now defunct but it has been superseded in its functions by the six-county Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (COG).

Neipling said the 1964 report is outdated. It relies on all the communities being hooked up to an expanded system provided by the Detroit Water Board. At present one of its projects, the $27-million Clinton-Oakland Interceptor Sewer, is now under construction and will serve the townships surrounding Pontiac on all sides except the south.

Pontiac did not join the system and chose to independently its own.

ASK FAIR TREATMENT

A resolution adopted and forwarded to the Legislature assures it of the city's determination to provide adequate pollution control with its system and asks for "fair play and equitable treatment."

In a related matter, Neipling reported the State Water Resources Commission has failed to provide the city with standards for sewage treatment. He said that in order for the city to complete its master plan for sewage it must be provided with a firm commitment on ultimate requirements.

A resolution proposing a meeting was forwarded to the state body.

City Affairs

Broker Named PGH Trustee

Victor Woods, 51, of 1200 N. Telegraph was appointed by the City Commission last night to the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees.

WOODS

Woods, a real estate broker, formerly served five years as a city-appointed member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors and chaired its civil defense committee.

His term on the 11-man board will end this June. He replaces Joseph Benson who moved from the area. No salary is attached to the position.

★ ★ ★

Woods also serves on the city's retirement board and is a World War II veteran. He is an associate minister of the East Side Church of God. Woods and his wife, Mary, have two sons.

Tentative City Budget OK

the withholding taxes come into the city treasury in quarterly payments and only three quarterly payments were received in 1968.

CITY'S SHARE

Income from the city's share of the state income tax in 1968 was $193,000 and this, too, will rise because of four payments in 1969 to $260,000.

Revenue from the state sales tax in 1968 was $861,000 and this is expected to rise slightly to $900,000.

Because of the city income tax, the commission lowered the city property tax from 10 to seven mills last July.

Warren pointed out these factors concerning the proposed budget:

- It anticipates that the record level of economic activity in the community will continue and that the city's assessed valuation will increase.
- It continues the higher level of police opeations put into effect last fall when 24 officers were added to the staff. (In addition, three cadets are to be added this year.)
- Six more firemen are to be added at a cost of $66,000.
- A subsidy to Pontiac Transit system for bus service will continue to be necessary at a preliminary cost of $85,000.
- Major pay adjustments will be made to employes (some 85 per cent of the total budget goes to salaries).
- The Housing Code Enforcement Division will be able to continue and increase its expanded operations to fight housing code violations.
- Better recreation service will be offered.

Study Is Asked of TV Violence Effect on Viewers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A joint resolution introduced in the House today would direct the Federal Communications Commission to make a study of the effects of violence in television programs on viewers.

Rep. Fernand J. st. Germain, D-R.I., one of the sponsors, said a report on the study would be due within 30 days after passage of the resolution.

The FCC also would be directed to consider what public policies should be adopted concerning violence on TV and how such policies should be placed into effect.

St. Germain said there is a growing evidence TV violence has a harmful effect on the viewers' attitudes toward violence and acceptance of it.

Years in Public Eye Prepared Pat for First-Lady Role

By JOY MILLER
AP Woman's Editor

WASHINGTON — For Pat Nixon, the American dream will be fulfilled when she moves into the White House. It is a dream, she says, that all Americans can hang on to and make come true for themselves, too.

But being First Lady will also mean taking on one of the toughest jobs — and unpaid, at that — afforded a woman in this country.

★ ★ ★

Essentially a private and modest woman, Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will live in the public gaze for four years, with her every word and action a matter for discussion in households across America.

Her first duty, of course, will be making a home in the historic mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue for her husband and unmarried daughter, Tricia, 22.

More than most men, perhaps, a president needs the comfort and understanding of a devoted wife as he ponders decisions that will make history. Pat Nixon knows this.

During the recent presidential campaign she said she thought her greatest contribution to her husband was this: "I don't nag him. The best I can do is cheer him up."

These days, though, the First Ladyship requires of a woman more than domestic tranquility.

She must be a hostess of charm and tact and imagination to make the innumerable receptions, parties and state dinners at the White House something Americans can take pride in.

And she must have a project, a "thing," — preferably several — that she will pursue indefatigably, for the good of the country.

★ ★ ★

Her social duties Mrs. Nixon feels she can take in stride. "I've had so-called on-the-job training when Dick was vice president," she has said. During President Eisenhower's illness Dick took his place and I did the First Lady chores then. And whenever Mrs. Eisenhower wasn't feeling well she'd call on me."

As for First Lady projects, Mrs. Nixon gave a good deal of thought to the matter as she crisscrossed the nation on the campaign trail in 1968.

LOTS OF IDEAS

"I have some very good ideas!" she told inquiring reporters, and ticked off the ideas in general terms: quality education for all, massive on-the-job training programs, community self-help undertakings, and youth projects.

"The main idea is that I'd like to assist my husband in what he wants to do. There's so much to be done, I'm sure I'd keep busy."

When someone wondered aloud that maybe her husband might downgrade welfare projects, she spiritedly replied.

"Dick doesn't want to cut off anything, but to give people pride and dignity. Why not be owners of little businesses? Give people a chance to do it. Give tax incentives. Train people for jobs that exist. People have to have dignity and goals; they have to be motivated."

★ ★ ★

National polls and surveys, she says, have convinced her that there is a large percentage of the citizenry that would volunteer to help improve their communities. "I would like to give support to those and to help spread the program to others."

Mrs. Nixon realizes that it's the First Lady stamp that will provide the needed boost to many of her pet projects. But since she likes to work behind the scenes, this constant display in the forefront of her good works may prove something of a private trial.

SHE'S 'TOUGH'

At 55, Pat Nixon possesses formidable energy and endurance. When duty is involved, she shrugs off ordinary human frailties. She can go all day on a cup of coffee or stand for hours on a sprained ankle to shake hands, confessing quite honestly that hardship and pain don't bother her. "Creature comforts don't matter," she says.

She is organized, efficient and unflappable. She knows what guests were served what and when from file cards she started keeping back in her husband's early Congressional days.

"I can't do a thing without trying to do it well," she has often said.

In the last few months she has moved serenely through the rigors of campaigning and the election; the marriage of her younger daughter, Julie, 20, to David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Eisenhower; the resettling of the family home in Key Biscayne, Fla., after five years in a New York City apartment, and, finally, the historic move to the White House.

★ ★ ★

"I only cross bridges when I come to them," she says. "I live one day at a time. If I have a problem I keep it to myself."

Many times over the years that the Dick and Pat Nixon political team has flourished, the masculine half has remarked how much he respects his wife's judgment and relies on it.

She says: "I talk to people and get their opinions. I am eyes and ears for Dick. And I fill him in on what women think."

It's possible that the brown-eyed Californian has had more contact with, and understanding of, the average American and grassroots citizen, than any other First Lady entering the White House. For 20 years Pat Nixon has been shaking hands and listening.

Yet her power, in view of her self-effacing nature, will probably be exercised largely offstage, and her greatest achievements may not be laid at her door. Already, though, there are those who see a gentle Pat Nixon nudge behind the invitation to the cabinet wives to sit in on the first meeting of the Nixon cabinet last Dec. 12.

There among the wives, listening and making friends, was Pat Nixon, looking more relaxed and younger and prettier than she did, say, back in 1960.

Her slim figure — 5 feet 5½, 110 pounds, size 10 — is admirably suited to the well-cut, understated designer clothes she wears now.

Mrs. Nixon's fashion taste has kept pace with her husband's rise in income and political fortune. Gone forever are the silk print jacket dresses and the fussy little lacy evening numbers that she used to rush in and buy off the rack when she needed something. Now she wears smart, younger-looking clothes in elegant fabrics and flattering colors, many of them by Ruth Matthews, a California-based designer.

★ ★ ★

On her strawberry blonde hair she used to wear flowers and veils and straw sailors, but now her short and lighter blonde coif is seldom covered.

Not long ago someone joked to her that if she kept on going bareheaded the millinery industry would be very unhappy. She looked almost stricken, and cried: "But I love hats! I would like to wear them again."

May Hostess Remind Guest About Seating?

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: Guests at a buffet luncheon have their names written on cards with a table number where they are to sit, but one guest disregards the hostess' wishes and sits where she pleases.

This upsets the arrangement, and another guest finds himself without a seat when he returns from the buffet. How should the hostess handle this situation? — Ruth

★ ★ ★

Dear Ruth: A hostess sometimes has to be firm to keep her party going as she wishes. If the seating arrangement makes no difference she should ignore the switch, but if it upsets the man-woman ratio, or puts uncongenial people together, she should speak up.

"Tilly, would you mind sitting where your card is — I especially wanted you to get to know Mrs. Newcomer."

TIPPING GUIDE

Dear Mrs. Post: We recently took a guided tour of a city and paid fee. Now I am told that we should have tipped the guide of six persons. Is this true, and if so, may I now send a gift to the lady? — Mrs. F. N.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. N.: Most people who have enjoyed a tour express their appreciation by tipping the guide. However, since the occasion has passed, it is not necessary to send a gift.

Auditions Slated for New Play

Interested persons are invited to audition for roles in Lakeland Players' next production for children, "The Elves and the Shoemaker," scheduled for two performances on March 8.

The three act play by Nora MacAlvay and Charlotte Charpenning, requires a cast of 13, including three elves, the shoemaker, his wife, daughter and townspeople.

Claudia Meyer will direct. Tryouts are slated Wednesday from 6:30 to 10 p.m. on the stage of Mason Junior High School.

'Sick Situation Exists in Household' Says Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a father who encourages his 10-year-old daughter to give him long, hard kisses on the lips? If she gives him a little peck on the cheek he pulls her back and says, "What kind of kiss do you call THAT?"

I will be honest and admit that he gets very little affection from me. You see, Abby, I don't especially care for my husband. Ever since I married him I have had to help him make a living and I am sick and tired of it. But I still don't think there is any excuse for his acting that way with his own daughter, do you?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Your husband should NOT be kissing his daughter in the manner you describe, no matter how little affection he gets from you. If you don't "especially care for him" — clear out and take your daughter with you. If you remain, you are encouraging a sick, sick situation.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman whose husband had not come near her in two years — since she'd had a hysterectomy. (She said he was the kind of man who went around their property, cutting down all the imperfectly formed trees.)

When I was a boy, I recall we had two apple trees. One was beautiful and perfectly formed, but it bore no fruit. The other bore fruit and showed it by its bent and broken limbs. Dad eventually cut down the beautiful but worthless one.

My wife bore me five beautiful children. Her breasts now droop and her belly shows not-so-lovely stria-gravida ("stretch marks") and plenty of them. But she will not be "cut down." She has born fruit, and to me hers is the most beautiful body on earth.

Sincerely,
An "M.D." in PASADENA, TEX.

★ ★ ★

DEAR DOCTOR: Please convey a message to your wife for me. Lady, you have a wonderful husband!

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: You don't often pull a boner, but when you do it's a lulu. You mentioned the wives of a lot of men who had to get their hands dirty, among them were Thomas Edison, Charles Lindbergh, Walter P. Chrysler, and of all people THE WRIGHT BROTHERS. Abby, for your information, both the WRIGHT BROTHERS were bachelors!

Sincerely,
JACK H. in L. A.

Gals Pack All but Kitchen Sink for Annual Bob Hope GI Tour

If someone were to tell you that they were taking snow boots, formal gowns, parkas, sleeveless drip-dry dresses, tennis shoes, typewriters, culottes and carbon paper on a two-week trip, you'd probably look at them in disbelief and wonder just what kind of jaunt they were planning to make!

These, however, were just a few of the items packed by Onnie Morrow, Joan Maas and Betty Lanigan when they accompanied Bob Hope on his annual tour of G.I. bases overseas.

Joan and Betty have made a good many trips like this before. They are the all-important women who work behind the scenes making sure that every last minute detail is taken care of.

Onnie, the show's coordinator, hasn't had Christmas dinner with her husband and family for 10 years. Joan, an assistant to the producer, has gone overseas with her boss 10 times.

Betty, a member of the NBC press department assigned to the show and relatively new to the game, has traveled with Hope three times.

RULES

The girls, by now, all know the rules of the game:

- Never get off a plane in slacks. They may be worn on the plane but not when departing or arriving.
- There are no sky-caps. Remember that you'll probably end up carrying all your own luggage so pack accordingly.
- Be prepared for rain, freezing cold and blazing heat.
- Be prepared for parties on military bases. The fellows like to see the girls dressed up.
- Carry a special small fold-up bag to take the base necessities along to such off-the-beaten places for women as an aircraft carrier.

But most important of all are the supplies for the job. This means typewriters, pounds of paper, carbons, pencils, lists and lists and more lists.

For all three women each trip is more than just a memorable adventure. It is also an open acknowledgement of involvement with the world and the people in it.

When they have a moment off from their jobs, the girls take upon themselves the tasks of doing errands and sending pictures and writing letters from the fighting men to the folks back home. They visit the hospitals and they talk — and they listen.

The trip means hard, hard work and often going without sleep, but none of the three would miss it for anything.

Singer Josh White Jr. Slates Concert at OU

Folk singer Josh White Jr., will return to the campus of Oakland University on Saturday to present a cabaret concert in Vandenberg Hall cafeteria.

A 20-year-stage veteran at 24 years of age, White is in the midst of a return engagement swing around the nation's colleges and universities. He appeared here a year ago on his first major tour, after extensive experience as a club performer and concert artist.

★ ★ ★

Sharing the billing at OU will be Detroit area folk singer and guitarist, Ron Coden.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Events of Interest at Interlochen

Interlochen — "An Evening with Karl Haas," originally scheduled for Saturday evening, at the Interlochen Arts Academy, has been postponed to March 16.

The reason: Dr. Haas, president of Interlochen, wishes to leave the weekend open entirely for the concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday when Jorge Mester, music director of the Louisville Philharmonic Orchestra, is to conduct the Arts Academy orchestra in a challenging program of Mozart, Respighi and Schumann's Second Symphony.

★ ★ ★

Because of Dr. Haas' talents as a pianist and radio host, his program has been eagerly anticipated. He has described it as "something mainly for the kids" and as "sort of an artistic clambake."

The art of two young men regarded as having great promise is to be shown in an exhibit in the Visual Arts gallery of the Interlochen Arts Academy, opening Friday evening and continuing through Feb. 2.

★ ★ ★

The artists are Fred Woell, a student at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, who will show sculpture and jewelry, and Richard Adams, who is to show graphics and prints. Adams, who holds a master's degree from Cranbrook, is a lecturer and also is serving as a visiting instructor in graphics at the academy here.

Jane Armbruster Wed in Commerce Church

Jane Louise Armbruster and Jon R. Larson spoke vows Saturday in Commerce United Methodist Church.

For the early evening ceremony, the bride chose a traditional gown of Chantilly lace over satin with wrist-length sleeves and chapel train. She carried a cascade of pink and white carnations with baby rosebuds.

Laura Himes was maid of honor for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Armbruster of Commerce Road, Commerce Township. Belinda Brown served as bridesmaid.

Best man was Morgan Tallman with Fred Nuttall, Gary Contesti and John Himes as ushers.

Chris Austins Speak Vows

First Congregational Church was the setting Friday for an exchange of vows uniting Bonnie Jean Fish and Chris Lee Austin.

For the evening nuptials, attended by the immediate family, the bride chose a day length crocheted gown, complemented with a Dior bow and short veil.

Her nosegay was white carnations centered with pink rosebuds.

Barbara Puckett was maid of honor for the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Harold V. Shaw of Berwick Boulevard with Gordon C. Bovee as best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Almon Austin of Steephollow Street, White Lake Township.

Ronald Austin ushered.

How do you choose from among all these beautiful patterns? The job of selection goes to Mrs. Royal Clark of Exmoor Street, (from left), Mrs. Al Goff of East Kennett Road and Mrs. Eugene Clines of Eldridge Street. The colorful china will be used for table prizes at the annual card party of Areme chapter No. 503, Order of Eastern Star Friday at 8 p.m. in the Roosevelt Temple.

Guest Pianists Play in Detroit

Duo-pianists Aloys and Alfons Kontarsky will join the Detroit Symphony for concerts Thursday and Saturday.

The concerts will also feature the world premiere of American composer Benjamin Lees' Symphony No. 3, a work commissioned by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Sixten Ehrling will conduct, beginning at 8:30 p.m. in Ford Auditorium.

★ ★ ★

The Kontarskys, whose repertoire includes all music for two pianos and for four hands on one paino, will play Mozart's Concerto for Two Pianos and Orchestra, E-flat major, K. 365.

Neutralize Odor

To remove onion odor from your hands after peeling onions, rub the cut end of a celery stalk on your hands and finger tips. Let cold water run on them for a few minutes, then dry.

Terry Washables Fine for Bachelor

Robes and loungewear made of cotton terry cloth are ideal gifts for the bachelor who has to handle his own laundry.

Terry cloth — the original no-iron fabric — can be tossed into a coin-op washing machine, then tumble-dried, and worn right away.

Give him a terry cloth beach or bath robe, an after-bath wrap-around or a terry jumpsuit (great costume for jogging). For the traveler, wrap up packable terry scuffs with rubber soles.

All BIP Losers Take Note of Menus

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Since you are going to have a limited number of calories each day, what is the best way to divide them? This is an individual matter and to some extent depends on personal taste. However, it has been found that women lose weight more successfully when they do not skip a meal.

Too long a time without food leads to fatigue and the reducer more than makes up for it at other times.

★ ★ ★

It has also been discovered that some women lose weight most successfully when they divide their daily food intake into five or six small meals. I call this "scientific nibbling." Just be sure that you eat the same food, calorie-wise and nutrition-wise, that you would have had if you had eaten the three traditional meals a day.

★ ★ ★

Even those of you who prefer the three meal a day plan might profit by saving a piece of fruit or a glass of milk for in between times.

Here are today's menus.

BREAKFAST

½ small grapefruit sprinkled lightly with dried rosemary.

An omelet (made with one egg) cooked in a non-stick frying plan in 1 tsp. low cal. Italian dressing; folded over ¼ of 1 broiled chopped, green pepper.

8 oz. glass skim milk

LUNCH

A Mixed Cold Cut Platter
2 slices of bread
1 oz. of bologna
1 oz. ham
1 oz. Swiss OR American cheese lettuce
mustard
1 large dill or sour pickle carrot sticks (½ carrot)
celery sticks (1 stalk)
coffee or tea artificially sweetened

DINNER

4 oz. scallops, broiled briefly, basted in lemon juice, garnished with a lemon wedge and freshly chopped parsley

3 stalks celery, sliced; braised in chicken bouillon

1 baked potato, dressed with 1 tsp. butter; sprinkle with paprika

Dessert: 1 slice canned pineapple

BEDTIME SNACK

Mix ½ cup orange juice, ⅓ cup pineapple juice, unsweetened, ★ cup skim milk

Flower Talk

FLOWERS IN WARS

In 1453 in England, flowers were as popular as they are now. They were so popular then that one of the greatest struggles in England was named after them. The conflict was called the War of the Roses. It was called this because the House of York, one house in the struggle, grew white roses, and the House of Lancaster opposition to the other house, grew red roses. The struggle ended, however, when a power from one house married a beautiful princess from the other and united the throne. Everyone was then happy.

Flowers stand for many things, when you want them to speak for you, call FE 2-0127 and we will deliver them to your door.

LBJ Budget Asks $1-Billion Foreign Aid Boost for 1970

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to offset its sharp cuts of the last two years and provide $2.35 billion in foreign aid funds for 1970—a boost of almost $1 billion over 1969 levels.

★ ★ ★

In his final budget message, he declared:

"I have faith that America will not now fail in its resolve, nor founder in its responsibility to press ahead for freedom and justice at home and abroad."

He assured Congress that U. S. economic assistance would be largely concentrated in 11 countries which have been self-reliant in taking difficult steps for sustained development.

Although they were not named, aid officials indicated the countries were Vietnam, Laos, Thailand, Indonesia and South Korea in East Asia; India, Pakistan and Turkey in South Asia and the Middle East; and Colombia, Chile and Brazil in the Western hemisphere.

Apparently hoping to lessen certain resistance from the aid foes in Congress, Johnson gave assurance that the United States balance of payments would be protected. He said that some $1.84 billion — or 92 per cent of the $2 billion the Agency for International Development expects to expend in the year starting July 1 — would finance the exports of U. S. goods and services abroad.

★ ★ ★

In addition he promised that special measures would be taken to see that AID-financed exports did not take the place of regular U. S. commercial exports.

The Johnson program is subject to revamping not only by Congress but also by the new administration. Johnson sought to put the emphasis on social progress and economic growth as the yardstick for development.

MORE FOR VIET

The major assistance programs would include $440 million for Vietnam, a boost of $114 million over 1969; $240 million for the other East Asian aid countries; and $679 million for South Asia and the Near East — which would almost double the heavily cut 1969 level of $352 million for this area.

Johnson asked $668 million for expanded education, agriculture and health programs in Latin America. He also sought $300 million to beef up the Inter-American Development Bank.

★ ★ ★

The Johnson request almost fulfilled the U.S. pledge to contribute $1 billion dollars annually in support of the Alliance for Progress to aid Latin America.

In requesting $185 million for aid to African countries, he said 65 per cent would be in technical assistance and capital to countries making significant economic progress. The rest will be conentrated on regional programs.

GLOBAL OBLIGATIONS

Other programs, including contributions to the United Nations and other international organizations and to special contingency funds, brought the request for new funds to $2.35 billion, an increase of $966 million.

Once again Johnson asked Congress to provide $160 million to the World Bank's International Development Association and $25 million to the Asian Development Bank.

He estimated that military assistance to needy allies would boost the aid figures $375 million to a total of $2.72 billion.

Johnson reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to nations struggling to provide a better life for their peoples. The Nixon program for aid remains to be unfolded, but the President-elect and the Republican party have urged that it be tied more closely to U.S. policy objectives.

Johnson Puts Brand on Spending Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lyndon B. Johnson has left the nation something to remember him by in a book entitled "The Budget Of The United States Government."

More deeply than he would ever brand a steer on his Texas ranch, the departing President burned LBJ into the substance of the bulky document containing the government's spending plans for the 1970 fiscal year.

★ ★ ★

The theme of the message is the Johnson view of the Johnson presidency. He concludes: "The record of achievements of the past five years is an impressive one."

"In my first budget message five years ago, I stated: 'A government that is strong, a government that is solvent, a government that is compassionate is the kind of government that endures.' I have sought to provide that kind of government as your President. With this budget, I leave that kind of government to my successor."

REFERENCE TO NIXON

That was Johnson's sole reference to the fact that Richard M. Nixon will be taking over the presidency.

Harry S. Truman, by contrast, pointedly reminded Congress in 1953 that he was leaving office soon and that the incoming President "will be entirely free, of course, to propose changes" in the budget.

Truman emphasized he was proposing no new programs in his final budget, but both Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1961 and Johnson this year offered new recommendations. Eisenhower also indulged in some prideful reviewing of his own record.

Johnson came on somewhat stronger than that in today's message.

"We have witnessed a period of unprecedented economic growth, with expanded production, rising standards of living and the lowest rates of unemployment in a decade and a half," he wrote.

Inside the book, on details of the budget, Johnson compares his new proposals with the level of federal spending when he took office late in 1963.

Baby Found Dead

SPARTA (AP) — The dead body of a newborn boy was found Tuesday in a trash bucket near a car wash in Sparta, Police Chief Gene Heugel said. A post-mortem to determine cause and time of death will be held at Blodgett Hospital in Grand Rapids. The body was discovered by Thomas Welsh, owner of the car wash.

PATH BLOCKER — Sophomore Don Brown (55) of Clarkston, promoted to the varsity this week, looks for a lane to the basket but finds his path blocked by Kettering's Bob Gratz (53) during their game on the Kettering floor last night. Brown scored 11 points in Clarkston's 70-54 victory.

Clarkston Ends Drought Against Kettering

Wolves Gain 70-54 Win; West Bloomfield Rolls

By FLETCHER SPEARS

It's strange what a win will do for you.

Take coach Bud McGrath of Clarkston. He managed a rare victory over a neighborhood rival last night and was so overjoyed that he could wind up all wet if he has to fulfill a promise.

"Let's throw him (McGrath) in the shower," yelled center Chuck Granger after he and his Clarkston teammates had knocked off Waterford Kettering for the first time in five years, 70-54.

'NOT TONIGHT'

"Not tonight," Bud yelled back, in good humor now, the kind of humor that comes after you've beaten someone for the first time. The last time the Wolves beat Kettering was in tournament play back in 1963 and Dom Mauti was head coach then.

★ ★ ★

Still savoring the win, Bud yelled back at Granger, "You guys win a title and you can throw me in the shower. Make that a league title or a district (tournament) title."

STRANG THINGS

The likelihood of McGrath getting all wet from that particular promise is remote, but then, stranger things have happened.

This one did break the ice for Clarkston. It was the Wolves' first win in Wayne-Oakland League play and only their second (2-5) decision of the season.

Elsewhere on a busy night in the W-O, unbeaten West Bloomfield (6-0) upped its league mark to 5-0 by downing Livonia Clarenceville (1-4); Milford (4-1) raced past Brighton (1-4), 85-69; and Bloomfield Hills Andover (3-2) trimmed Northville (3-2) in overtime, 73-71.

★ ★ ★

"I've waited five years for this one," said McGrath as he cooled off in the hallway leading to the Wolves' dressing room. "In the three times we've been over here the spread was only five points for all three games," he said.

LINEUP CHANGES

Both McGrath and Kettering coach Joe Duby made some personnel changes and one of Bud's really paid off.

★ ★ ★

He brought up sophomore Dan Brown from the junior varsity and the 6-2 forward responded with 11 points and teamed with Granger (6-5) and Eric Hood (6-3) to give the Wolves a 49-35 edge in rebounds.

Granger and Hood managed 19 points apiece and guard John Craven added 13 more, but the real story in the scoring department was the Wolves' work at the charity line.

★ ★ ★

They made 26 of 34 while Kettering managed 10 of 16. "We spent 45 minutes on free throw shooting Monday evening," said McGrath. "We've lost three games on free throws."

COACH PLEASED

Over-all, McGrath was pleased. "We looked better and a lot steadier tonight," said Bud. "Here, I'll show you," he said pointing to a statistics sheet. "We had only 16 turnovers and we've been averaging 27 a game."

★ ★ ★

After a slow first quarter, Clarkston opened up and took a 34-24 lead at intermission. The Captains, now 2-3 in league play and 2-4 over-all, narrowed the gap to five points but they couldn't keep the pressure on long enough to take the lead.

Ross Evans led the Captains with 19 points and sophomore Bob Gratz added 9. Duby brought Dennis Wilson up from the reserves and the sophomore picked up seven markers.

★ ★

"They're better than some think they are," said West Bloomfield coach Art Paddy of Clarenceville's Trojans. The visiting Trojans gave the Lakers a scare in the third as they pulled within two points, but West Bloomfield quickly regained the upper hand to extend its unbeaten string.

RANKED EIGHTH

The Lakers, ranked eighth in the Class B state AP poll, held a 27-19 lead at intermission. John Hamill, a junior, had his best night of the season as he tossed in 16 points to pace the Lakers. Curtis Britton picked up 11. Dave Brandemihl collected 15 for Clarenceville.

★ ★ ★

Free throws by Tony May and Bob Foreman with just seconds left in overtime gave Andover the nod over Northville.

Earlier it was a basket by May with eight seconds left in regulation that enabled the Barons to tie the game at 65. May wound up with only eight points, but they were all timely. Tim Weddle led the Barons with 19 markers, Foredman tossed in 14 and Bob Reid added 12. Jeff Taylor tossed in 23 for Northville.

TWO POINTS — Kettering's Ross Evans (23) drives in for two points in the second half against Clarkston last night. Too late to make the defensive play are Don Brown (55) and Jeff Keyser (44). Evans scored 19 points to lead the Kettering attack.

'Big O' Sparks East Five

Cincinnati Star Top NBA Player in 123-112 Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — "It's still a thrill to win this one," Oscar Robertson said after he had led the East All Stars to a 123-112 victory over the West in the 19th annual National Basketball Association classic.

"Not the biggest thrill," he added, "but one of them."

★ ★ ★

Robertson provided plenty of thrills for the fans, though, as he turned in a brilliant all around performance which earned him his third Most Valuable Player trophy in the eight All Star games he has played in since breaking into the league eight years ago.

Gene Shue, who coached the victorious East squad, attributed his side's victory to the East's greater height. "The West team was really small," the Baltimore Bullets coach said.

COACH AGREES

Asked if he agreed with the selection of Robertson as the game's Most Valuable Player, Shue replied:

"Of course I do. Oscor is the greatest. He can do so many things. We had a lot of great players out there, but Oscar is the greatest."

Shue said the East cinched the game in the final quarter "when our fast break was working to perfection with Oscar getting a couple of three-point plays..."

★ ★ ★

The East led comfortably at the quarter, 35-19, on the twisting jump shots of the Bullets' Earl Monroe, and the team work of Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas and the agressiveness of Boston's John Havlicek.

But the West, on the springy play of little Lennie Wilkens of Seattle and Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles closed the margin to seven at the half and finally pulled even midway in the third period. After the team passed the leac back and fourth for a time, they stood knotted, 77-77, with 3:39 left in the period.

SEVEN POINTS

Within two minutes, Wes Unseld rang up seven of his game total of 11 points and the east had an 86-83 bulge to carry into the last 12 minutes.

Things got tight a g m in the last five minutes, but Gus Johnson, Monroe and Havlicek pulled the East out of reach.

Players Chide Colts, Give Morrall Ovation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The kidding was good-natured but it was obvious the wounds are deep for National Football League players following the New York Jets' 16-7 triumph over Baltimore in Sunday's Super Bowl.

The best of the NFL's best were gathered at the annual Pro Bowl luncheon, pointing toward Sunday's 19th annual East-West All-Star game.

GETS OVATION

Earl Morrall, the Colts' losing quarterback, received a warm ovation when introduced.

★ ★ ★

"You look great," said master of ceremonies Frank Bull.

"I wish I felt great," said Morrall, smiling weakly. "But you can't change the scoreboard."

As for the game coming up, Morrall said, "We've got to play a lot better. We'll be facing better material."

Morrall and the Los Angeles Rams' Roman Gabriel will quarterback the West. Don Meredith of the Dallas Cowboys and Fran Tarkenton of New York's Giants will pilot the East. Gabriel was asked for a prediction on the Pro Bowl outcome.

★ ★ ★

"Well," said Gabriel, "I predicted the Rams would play in the Super Bowl and the Colts would clobber the Jets. As for a Pro Bowl prediction, I don't want to start the new year off wrong."

In 63-55 Upset

Country Day Shines

One of the area's longest winning streaks came to a close last night and playing the role of villain in the affair was Detroit Country Day.

Defending Class C state champion Detroit All Saints took the floor at Country Day with a string of 35 victories behind them. When it was over, the host Yellow Jackets had a 63-55 upset.

SWEET VICTORY

The victory was a sweet one in two ways for coach John Hannett and the Yellow Jackets. Breaking the long streak was one, of course, and the other was a bit of revenge. Two years ago, All Saints chased the Yellow Jackets off the tournament trail by taking a 58-54 win in the quarter-finals.

★ ★ ★

Some heads up play in the fourth plus some sharp shooting at the free throw line brought victory for Country Day.

Trailing 46-42 heading into the final period, the Yellow Jackets then outscored the visitors, 21-3, to set it up.

Jack Zwemer, who led Country Day with 17 markers, broke free several times underneath the bucket in the fourth and he made 10 points in the final frame. Mike Page aided Zwemer with 16 markers.

LA Kings Contribute to Rangers' Slump With 3-1 Conquest

By the Associated Press

Can the New York Rangers, who once headed the East Division of the National Hockey League, however briefly, halt their rapid plunge toward the division cellar?

The Rangers gave no assurance they could last night as they lost 3-1 to hard-skating Bill Flett and the Los Angeles Kings on the West Coast.

★ ★ ★

Flett scored in the first and third periods and former Ranger Gordon LaBossiere insured the victory with a third Los Angeles score in 7:15 of the finale.

Vic Hadfield registered the New York goal in 58 seconds of the second period on a pass from Jean Ratelle and Rod Gilbert.

★ ★ ★

The contest was the only league game scheduled.

The Blues, with 45 points, are teetering one-point above last place Detroit in the standings. The Rangers are idle today. Detroit plays at Montreal.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Dayton Gems took first place in the International Hockey League Tuesday night as they walloped the Muskegon Mohawks, 10-2. The Gems had been tied for the first spot with Toledo.

Tigers' Pilot Gains

Mayo Eyes 'Fat Cats'

DETROIT (UPI) — Mayo Smith himself is typical of the problems facing the world champion Detroit Tigers going into the first year of divisional play in the American League.

"I should be looking well," the jovial Smith replied to a statement of his physical appearance Tuesday. "I'm about 10 pounds overweight."

★ ★ ★

You'd have to have a lot of fingers and toes to count the number of ballplayers who put on weight in the winter from all those post-season banquets, especially if the team won the World Series as the Tigers did.

"We're going to have to keep from becoming 'fat cats,' " Smith told the Detroit Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America at its annual dinner.

PLAYED AS UNIT

"Our ball club last year learned to play as a unit," the manager of the year said. "And this is what we must do again . . . 40 games we won in the seventh inning or later — this is the true test of a ball club."

But an example of what Smith has to cope with when Detroit opens spring training Feb. 22, was the absence of Tigers' 31-game winner, Denny McLain.

McLain was scheduled to appear at the banquet to accept the "Tiger of the Year" award voted him by the Detroit writers but he was in Indianapolis, Ind., to keep a prior concert date at the "Divisional play means we'll have to look at things differently," Smith said, adding "but they're going to play the game with the same ball and bat."

Smith shattered his conservative image before the World Series by shifting regular center fielder Mickey Stanley to shortstop.

Annual Father-Son Sports Banquet Set Tomorrow at Elks

One of the county's largest social-sports events featuring the largest array of sports figures assembled locally will be held Thursday with the annual Father and Son banquet at Pontiac Elks Lodge, 810.

Sports figures representing all phases of athletics will be in attendance for the event which is annually attended by a capacity crowd of 1,200.

Toastmaster will be Vince Desmond of the Detroit Tigers, director of special events and promotions, who will have the film of the 1968 World Series between the Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals.

★ ★ ★

Among some of the sports figures expected to attend are Hal Newhouser, Don Lund, Jack Masterson, Gary Balliet, Doak Walker, Hank Aguirre, Jim Ninowski, Ed Flanagan, Alex Karras, Sonny Grandelius, Sonny Gandee, Bob Calihan, Chuck Davey, Terry Sawchuk, along with coaches and players from Michigan and Michigan State, and coaches and players from local prep schools.

FIRST MISS

Earl Morrall, who has attended the affair for the past seven years, mailed his regrets from Miami, prior to the Super Bowl, informing Elks officials that he would not attend because of the Pro-Bowl game Sunday in Los Angeles, where he will be competing.

★ ★ ★

Morrall, the NFL's Most Valuable Player of the Year in 1968 played in Sunday's Super Bowl, lost by the Baltimore Colts to the New York Jets, 16-7.

Other sports figures from Detroit pro teams are expected to confirm their attendance before Thursday.

A few tickets were still available yesterday at the Elks Temple. Dinner is scheduled to start at 7:00 p.m.

Ortonville Ace Hits 40 Points

A 40 point performance, setting a school record, by Leland Loutzenhiser paced Ortonville to a 93-80 triumph over Linden in a league game last night.

The 6-5 junior also picked off 25 rebounds as he passed the individual school scoring record by one point.

Ortonville led 48-42 at halftime and then pulled ahead by 15 points early in the third quarter and finally pushing the margin to 23 late in the period.

Linden suddenly came to life in the fourth quarter as Ortonville reserves took the floor and Pat Starrs hit 12 fast points of his 28 point effort.

Three other players joined in double figures for Ortonville which is now 5-2 for the season and 3-1 in league play.

Clawson Upsets Troy

Rochester, Orion Keep Going

The torrid race in the Oakland A League shows little sign of letup although only two teams are now supplying the heat.

* * *

Lake Orion and Rochester continued their winning ways last night with league decisions, but Troy's Colts were corralled by Clawson's Trojans, 63-55.

ORION IN SQUEAKER

While that upset was taking place, Lake Orion (5-1) was squeezing past Utica 1-5), 42-38, and Rochester (5-1) was halting Avondale (0-6), 56-40.

* * *

Troy's loss left the Colts (4-2) sharing third with Romeo (4-2), a 69-55 winner over Madison (2-4).

DECISIVE POINTS

Orion's 6-8 center Gary Mize, who led all scorers with 20 points, scored a basket with 27 seconds left to give Orion a 40-38 lead over Utica and he canned a pair of free throws with a second left to ice the decision.

* * *

Robin Dilday led Utica with 16 markers and Gary Pikley collected 15.

EASY TIME

Rochester, which entertains Orion, Jan. 24, had an easy time with Avondale. The Falcons rolled up a 33-13 lead at intermission and coasted.

Fred Harrison and J. R. Nowels led the Falcons with 10 points apiece, and Mike Scalley, making his first appearance since recovering from a football injury, picked up four points.

Randy Pilasek collected 23 for the Yellow Jackets.

Trailing 33-31 at intermission, Romeo's Bulldogs gained a 23-7 edge in the third stanza to break the game open. The tide turned when the Bulldogs moved from a zone defense to a man-to-man.

* * *

Dan Burzynski led the Romeo attack with 20 points and he hauled down 12 rebounds. Mike Semp acced 15 markers. John Havrelko collected 13 markers and Dave Frizell added 12 to pace the Madison attack.

Some sharp work at the charity line enabled Clawson to pin the loss on Troy.

Both clubs manged 21 field goals, but clawson hit on 21 of 37 free throws while Troy had only 13 of 28. Rod Halonen collected 20 points and Chuck Currey 12 to lead Clawson. Ron Boyd's 20 markers led Troy.

Farmington '5' Nips Plymouth in Overtime

Farmington's Falcons hit a hot streak in overtime and squared their season record last night at 5-5 by downing Plymouth, 61-54.

Paul White, who scored 16 points for the evening, pushed in a bucket with 30 seconds left in regulation to force a deadlock at 52-all, and he collected four points in the extra session as the Falcons outscored Plymouth, 9-2.

TIDE TURNS

The Falcons appeared on their way to an easy victory as they raced to a 36-25 lead at intermission, but Plymouth came back with a 16-7 edge in the third stanza and a 11-9 edge in the fourth. The losers held a four-point lead late in the fourth before Farmington caught fire and tied it on White's bucket.

Teen-Age Girl May Receive Jockey License

MIAMI (AP) — Barbara Jo Rubin, the teen-ager seeking to become the first girl jockey at an American parimutuel, race track, has been named to ride a horse in today's fourth race at Tropical Park.

But the horse, Stoneland, is on the also — eligible list and may not get to run.

The Tropical season ends Thursday and action then shifts to Hialeah.

If the 19-year-old exercise girl performs capably in her first race she will be issued a riding license.

Falcons Down Cranes, 65-60

Winners Get Help From Soph Love

Birmingham Groves shook off the effects of a two-game losing streak last night to knock off Cranbrook's Cranes, 65-60.

Sophomore center Scott Love turned in a sharp game for the Birmingham squad in both the scoring and rebounding departments. He tossed in 19 markers to lead the scorers, picking up seven of those points in a hectic fourth quarter.

Cranbrook jumped off to an 11-10 first quarter lead, but Groves, now 2-6 for the season, found the range in the second frame and opened up a 30-26 advantage at intermission.

* * *

The second half was a seesaw affair with Cranbrook slicing a point off the deficit in the third and then falling behind again as the Falcons came in with a 19-17 edge in the fourth.

FIFTH LOSS

The loss was the (0-5) fifth in a row for the Cranes, who visit Detroit Country Friday.

Helping Love with the scoring chores were Kevin Burke (15) and Jim Cameron (14). Burke came off the bench and picked up three field goals in the fourth stanza.

Setting the scoring pace for Cranbrook were Matt Sigler (11), Rod Fonda (11) and Jim Williams (10).

Football Company Board Planning Annual Meeting

The Board of Directors of Pontiac Sports, Inc., owners of the Pontiac Football Company, are meeting today to plan their agenda for the annual meeting of stockholders to be held next month.

* * *

Harold Cousins, president of the company, said the directors would re-evaluate the position of the Pontiac Firebirds in the Midwest Football League and make recommendations to the stockholders at the annual meeting.

Cousins said the Firebirds lost money in gate receipts last season when attendance fell from first place in the MFL with a total of 21,000 in 1967 to 15,000 in 1968, which put Pontiac 4th in the MFL behind Lackawanna, Dayton and Hamtramck.

* * *

The Firebirds finished in third place tie with Flint with a 7-5 record last season.

The drop at the gate meant $9,000 deficit for the football company, and Cousins indicated, "this is something we must evaluate when we look to future."

"There is no doubt in my mind that this caliber of football is good for the city, said Cousins, "and it is certainly good publicity for our town to have the Pontiac Firebirds get the attention on the sports pages in Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and New York, where MFL franchises are located."

"However, if we do not get the support of the local fans, business and civic people, then we must assume they do not care about the good it can bring by staying in the league."

LEAGUE CHANGES

Meanwhile, the MFL office of John Abel, has indicated that the league will probably have a two-division setup this year pending the admission of new franchises.

The prospective league realignment looks this way for 1969:

WEST DIVISION: Pontiac, Flint, Lansing, Grand Rapids.

EAST DIVISION: Dayton, Lackwanna, Hamtramck, Fort Wayne.

The Ypsilanti franchise is expected to be shifted to another city, and there is a possibility of another new franchise joining the entry of Grand Rapids this year, which could bring the league to form two 5-team divisions.

The MFL has a schedule meeting slated for early April.

Hawkeyes Overcome MSU Five

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Iowa's Chad Calabria dumped in a jump shot with a scant six seconds to go here Tuesday night, giving the Hawkeyes a 77-76 Big Ten basketball victory over Michigan State.

Calabrias heroic shot touched off a wild final five seconds in which Michigan State was given a three additional seconds to make up for the time-keeper's mistake and Spartan Rudy Benjamin lobbed in a last ditch shot which referees disallowed.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State called time with four seconds remaining but the time keeper, hindered by noise created by Hawkeye partisanship, couldn't hear and didn't halt the clock until just one second was left.

The referees intervened and awarded the Spartans three more seconds of play. The officials then ruled Benjamin let his shot fly just an instant too late after the buzzer.

HAWKS TRAILED

Iowa, now 2-1 in Big Ten play, clung close to the visitors throughout but never gained a lead until in the second half Calabria's jumper with 3:59 to go.

Calabria was the Hawkeye's shooting leader with 24 points including ten for ten from the free throw line. Benjamin, who held only a 5.8 scoring average coming into the game, had 26, including 19 in the first half.

At Kennedy Park Municipal golf course where some played, only 17 holes were usable.

Wisconsin, Indiana Win

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin staged its first basketball victory of the Big Ten season Tuesday night by turning back Minnesota 68-61.

The Badgers, who dropped their first three conference starts, took advantage of the Minnesota lapses late in the second half. They scored five straight points after Gopher star Larry Mikan had fouled out with the score tied at 53.

Wisconsin led at the half 32-29. The lead see - sawed after that and the Badgers forged to the front for keeps at 54-53 with slightly more than six minutes to go on a free throw by Jim Johnson.

Missouri Valley Cage Contenders

Tulsa, Drake Reversing Trend

By United Press International

There's a new look this season in the prestigious Missouri Valley Conference.

Tulsa and Drake, who have won just one co-championship each since 1955, are running 1-2 in the race for the 1969 basketball crown.

Meanwhile, such normal powers as Cincinnati — which has won or tied for the crown in seven of the last 11 years — and Louisville and Wichita may not be in the race.

Drake handed Cincinnati its third conference loss and all but knocked the Bearcats out of contention with a 69-64 triumph Tuesday night. Drake is now 4-1 in the conference while idle Tulsa, the 11th-ranked team, leads with a 5-0 mark. Every other club has at least two losses. Cincinnati is 9-4 over-all but only 2-3 in the conference.

Drake's only conference loss came by an 86-78 count to Tulsa last Saturday night. Drake, now 12-2 over-all, will try to avenge that loss on Feb. 22.

Tulsa tied St. Louis for the 1955 crown and Drake tied Wichita for the 1964 championship but those are the only conference crowns Tulsa and Drake have been able to claim in the last three decades.

Drake took a 14-point lead in the second half and then withstood a Cincinnati rally to grab the win. Drake had a balanced attack with four players in double figures, led by Willie McCarter's 19 points. Don Ogletree led the losers with 22.

In other action, North Carolina trounced Georgia Tech, 101-70, Marquette beat the Milwaukee branch of Wisconsin, 118-60, and Columbia topped Georgetown, 103-62.

ROMP ALONG

Charlie Scott scored 30 points and Bill Bunting added 22 as North Carolina romped past Georgie Tech to boost its record to 12-1. The Tar Heels jumped to an 89-50 lead in the second half and most of the regulars sat out the rest of the game.

Heywood Dotson scored 22 points to pace Columbia to the triumph over Georgetown. Columbia took a 55-27 halftime lead and coasted to the victory.

Rod Laver Easy Victor

SYDNEY (UPI) — Rod Laver, the No. 1 tennis player in the world, advanced into the quarterfinals of the new South Wales Open tennis championships Tuesday with an easy 6-3, 6-2, 6-1 victory over Ray Moore of South Africa.

with an Ariens SNO-THRO

Put yourself BEHIND an Ariens Sno-Thro — then . . . let it snow, let it blow, let it drift . . . let that weather get just as mean as it wants to get. Your worries about "getting out", shoveling, and missed appointments or work need never bother you again.

Ariens gives you "self-propelled" operation. No pushing, jamming or bucking into drifts or plowed-in driveways. With four speeds, you work at the pace you want to work and a reverse allows you to turn around without pushing and pulling. Two stage design principle handles heavy wet snow, drifted packed snow or light little flurries . . . with equal ease. Four, five, six or seven horse power engine and directional chute will move snow up to 30 feet . . . where it need not be handled again. NEW LOCK-OUT DIFFERENTIAL: Switch from differential wheel action to straight through power train traction — simply, quickly. Prevents one-wheel spin during operation.

When you see this sign . . . You're at the right place . . . Just walk in and ask to see an Ariens SNO-THRO.

BOWLING

Hazelton Lettering wrapped up the first-half championship of the North Hill Lanes Classic last week with a convincing victory over Rochester Robo Wash.

Karl Van DeMorrtell started the winners on the right track with a rousing 279 game that sparked an 1153 opener for Hazleton. Robo Wash had 898 and was never able to catch up.

City Glass Service clinched third place over North Hill Lanes despite a 226-206—626 by the losers' Sam Felton. Merle Aemisegger hit 245-223—638 for National Twist Drill to offset Hal Marsh's 243—613 for The Brass Lamp.

Rocky Kimball of North Hill Texaco rolled 243-224—653, Ken Campbell posted 226-215—647 figures for Young's Men's Wear and Tom Hutsko hit 226-214—619 for Martin's Insurance.

SPLOTLINGHT

Last week's 300 Bowl Classic spotlight fell on McCullough Realty as it took eight points and moved within five points of pacesetting Denis Market.

Mutt Morse posted a pair of 241's in rolling 645; Mark Bowers registered 206-240—640; Bob Lowry had 210-236—631 and Red Breeding bowled a 201-254 duo in a 627. Bob Murphy hit a 246 and Bill Knoll listed a 232 on his sheet.

Township Team Sets 5-0 Pace

Struble Gets Forfeit; L. L. B. Wins, 46-44

Mike Murphy and Ron Stafford combined for 38 points last night in leading Don Murphy Inc. to a 53-44 win over Buick Warehousemen in Waterford Township recreation basketball.

Both of those National League clubs own 2-3 records. League-leading Struble Realty (5-0) gained a forfeit win over Booker Brothers Concrete (0-5), and in the other game, the L.L.B.'s (4-1) stayed a game off the pace with a 46-44 decision over Lakeland Hardware (2-3).

LEADS WAY

Murphy tallied 22 points, 16 in the first half, and Stafford notched 10 of his 16 in the second half to pace the Murphy Inc. victory. Houck Kherkher tossed in 20 for Buick.

★ ★ ★

The L.L.B.'s held a 21-20 lead at halftime and managed to hold off Lakeland in the seesaw affair.

Trailing 44-43, teh L.L.B.'s got a basket by Parvin Lee and a free throw by Barry Kushner to pull it out. Ed Gorney picked up 12 for the winners, while Bob Perry and Jim Spadafore tossed in 10 each for Lakeland.

Russian Six Withdraws From Canadian Schedule

WINNIPEG (AP) — The Russians — leaving themselves an opening for reversal — have pulled out of a scheduled series of hockey games in Canada, just as they canceled the U.S.-Russia track meets a few years ago.

The reasons, however, are entirely different.

The USSR cancelled the U.S. track meets in protest over American participation in Vietnam.

This time they say they won't play because the Canadian opposition they're scheduled to meet is inferior. The Ottawa or Winnipeg team, or a combination of both was slated to represent Canada. The first game was to be played in Montreal Friday.

Diplomats and hockey officials worked desperately to determine whether the Russian decision was based on a misunderstanding that could be cleared up quickly so as to permit start of the tour on schedule.

★ ★ ★

If it can't be cleared up, council members of the International Ice Hockey Federation were in a position to act on a cable from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association asking "immediate and full suspension" of the Soviety Hockey Federation for its "unprecedented" action.

★ ★ ★

Further, international suspension would prohibit the defending champion Russian team from competing in the world hockey championship in Stockholm the last two weeks in March.

Lakers Prep for 4-Team Ski Contest

West Bloomfield warmed up for its invitational quadrangular Friday afternoon against powerful Grayling, Rochester and Traverse City St. Francis with two easy wins over Clarkston yesterday on the ski slopes at Mt. Holly.

★ ★ ★

The West Bloomfield girls trimmed Rochester, 124.0-189.2, by capturing the first four places led by April Welch's :38.3 timing.

★ ★ ★

Clarkston's boys team could only qualify three skiers on the slalom course and handed a no-contest decision to the Lakers. Dan Hartman, Al Musser, Kim Woodruff and Robin Brennan each covered their two runs in less than 35 seconds for West Bloomfield.

GIRLS' RESULTS
West Bloomfield 124.0, Clarkston 189.2
1. April Welch (WB) :38.3; 2. Mary Demboer (WB), :41.4; 3. Marti Stevens (WB), :44.3; 4. Katy Oldenberg (WB), :45.6; 5. Denise Meyers (C), :51.5.

BOYS' RESULTS
West Bloomfield 130.8, Clarkston 0
1. Dan Hartman (WB), :30.9; 2. Alan Musser (WB), :32.1; 3. Kim Woodruff (WB), :33.1; 4. Robin Brennan (WB), :34.7; 5. Craig Hutchins (C), :35.1.

State Hoop Tournament Will Rotate Title Sites

LANSING (AP)—State high school basketball tournament finals, held at Michigan State University since 1940, will be held at the University of Michigan in odd—numbered years beginning in 1971.

In addition, the tourney will be conducted over a four-week period instead of the traditional three weeks, the Michigan High School Athletic Association ruled Tuesday. The MHSAA decision was made in November and revealed Tuesday.

Tourneys will be conducted at MSU's Jennison Fieldhouse in even-numbered years, the MHSAA said.

The four-week tourney schedule will go into effect in 1971. District tourneys will be held during the first week and the regionals will be played the second week, the association said.

Quarter final games will be played on Thursday of the third week at 14 to 16 locations throughout the state. Semifinal games will be played on Saturday.

The finals will be held on the Saturday of the fourth week, the MHSAA said. The ruling affects teams in all four classes.

Asked about the change, Allen W. Bush, state director of athletics, said, "We have been very pleased with MSU facilities, but the new facility at Michigan has a greater seating capacity. And Michigan is, after all a state school too.

"Our major interest is to use the best possible facilities."

1,050 Dogs in Sunday Show

Harriers Highlight PKC Entry

If Pontiac Kennel Club members seem a little more harried than usual these days, it's because of five Harriers entered in Sunday's annual winter show.

Six Welsh springers also are a factor. So are enough Great Danes, St. Bernards, Collies, German Shepherds and Huskies to hold a medium-sized show of their own.

There will be 1,050 dogs competing for The Pontiac Press best-in-show trophy at the Waterford Oaks activities building on Watkins Lake Road between Pontiac Lake and Scott Lake roads.

Judging will begin at 9 a.m. and is expected to continue for 12 hours. This is an unbenched show which means the dogs do not have to be in the building until their judging time and can be removed after being eliminated.

SURPRISE ENTRY

The Harrier entry caught PKC officials by surprise.

"This may be the first time Harriers have been shown in Michigan," said Mrs. E. A. Kraft, long-time secretary of the kennel club. "I can't remember any."

The Welsh springer spaniels also are rare Michigan show entrants.

★ ★ ★

The appearance of the Harriers and Welsh springers indicate the magnitude of the show. There will be 93 breeds represented. An additional judge had to be secured and the breed judging schedule changed.

Raymond H. Beale, Orchard Park, N.J., has joined the judge's panel which also includes William H. Ackland, Washington; Joseph Faigel, Detroit; Nelson R. Groh, Poland, Ohio; Haworth F. Hoch, Villa Rodge, Mo.; and Glen M. Sommers, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Sommers will select best-in-show.

SITE CHANGE

The entry tops by 400 the previous high for a PKC winter show. Last summer's outdoor show drew over 1,200 dogs. A change in sites for the indoor event boosted the entry.

Shows the last few years have been at the CAI building. But its size limited the entry to around 650 dogs. The new county-owned building on Watkins Lake is larger and the winter show restriction was lifted.

"We expected about 800 dogs," said Mrs. Kraft. "Most of the professional handlers are on the winter circuit in Florida and don't attend this show. A majority of our winter entry comes from Michigan and nearby states.

★ ★ ★

"The entry this time indicates how interest in dog shows is growing, particularly in this part of Michigan." PKC members do not enter dogs in their show.

German Shepherd entries top the field with 64. There will be 58 Irish setters, 28 Great Danes, 27 St. Bernards, 23 Rough Collies, 32 Siberian Huskies, 26 Golden Retrievers, 27 Shetland Sheepdogs and 56 Doberman Pinschers.

Most of the smaller dogs — terriers and toys — will be judged in the morning. The larger dogs will strat entering the rings during the afternoon and early evening.

There will be no obedience trial. Junior showmanship is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

'For the Umpteenth Time, Charlie, the Big Ones Are in Deep Water'

Siberian Question: Will Rifle Shoot?

MOSCOW (UPI) — It was 68 degrees below zero. Eleven American hunters walked across frozen marshlands of Siberia toward a bear's lair.

"There were three bears. I could see them and as I was aiming I got worried about my rifle. But we all cleaned our weapons well that morning, so I pulled the trigger."

John Haban of Racine, Wis., recalled geting "my first Soviet bear" and the excitement of a Siberian bear hunt as he sat in his hotel room.

"A drop of oil inside your rifle and the weapon freezes up at minus 68 Fahrenheit. We washed them in carbon tetrachloride and it cut the oil out of them," he said.

EXTRA FEE

Haban and 10 other Americans paid $3,500 each to make the Siberian journey. They also had to pay $600 for each bear they killed.

John Magor of Orchard Lake and Dan Jarke of Chicago, angered by their "poor hunting luck" in Siberia, flew to South Africa Monday hoping the change in climate would improve their hunting chances.

★ ★ ★

But Haban claimed all participants of the trip "enjoyed themselves very much."

"It was so cold you had to wear a mask when you went outside," he said, adding he was preparing to try his hunting luck in the Caucasus before returning home.

Quieter Winds Aid Fishermen

The stiff winds that blew a cold chill on ice fishing finally quieted last weekend and anglers have been on the move since. So have the fish.

Pike were active on Stony Creek Lake and Lake St. Clair's Anchor Bay. Good catches of bluegills were reported from the St. Clair Flats, Orchard, Union, Tipsico, Orion, Commerce and Walled lakes.

★ ★ ★

Some perch are being caught at Pontiac and Sugden lakes. Splake fishing on Maceday has been inactive. Most of the splake are well under the 10-inch size limit.

Fox hunters are out, but deep, fluffy snow continues to hamper man and dog. The same holds true for rabbit hunters. The short-legged beagles bog down in a hurry. A warming trend will settle the snow and make it possible to move about much easier.

Solunar Tables

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's SOLUNAR TABLES. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

Added Funds Boost Wild Life Projects

Additional $638,290 in federal Pittman-Robertson and Dingell-Johnson funds have been earmarked for Michigan's wildlife improvement programs covering the 1968-69 fiscal year through June 30, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

This state's latest allotments of P-R and D-J aid supplement about $824,000 apportioned last summer and raise such federal support for game and fish work in Michigan to a record $1,462,273 during the current fiscal year.

Canine Training Class to Start

Openings still remain in the special dog training class for adults being arranged by the 4-H Canine Training Club.

Training sessions begin next Tuesday in the block building at the 4-H Fairgrounds. Additional information can be obtained by phoning FE 5-7296.

Duck Hunters to Meet

Members and guests of the Oakland County Duck Hunters Club will be put through a waterfowl identification quiz tonight at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club. "Wood Duck World" also will be shown. The meeting starts at 7.

Kensington Is Leader

Record Use of H-M Parks

Over 6,789,900 persons visited Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority parks in 1968 to set a new record.

This was announced today by David O. Laidlaw, director of the authority which has eight parks serving the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne.

★ ★ ★

Laidlaw noted that the 1968 figure tops the previous high of 6,373,100 set in 1966 and is also a major increase over the 1967 figure of 5,884,700 visitors. Three of the four major Huron-Clinton parks reported record-breaking attendance in 1968 and one park's usage declined.

Kensington Park reported record attendance in 1968 with over 2,367,000 visitors compared to 1,761,300 in 1967, which was the lowest figure in 10 years. The previous record was 2,190,000 persons set in 1966.

PREVIOUS HIGH

Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens reported a record 1,709,050 patrons in 1968, which tops the previous high of 1,585,600 set in 1966. The 1967 patronage was 1,517,000.

ON TARGET — Lloyd Berry, 370 Waldon, Orion Township, was on target last weekend at Lake St. Clair. The Pontiac Motor Division engineering employe speared these northern pike while participating in the Fairhaven festival. The 19-pounder at the left took top honors.

Long, Cold Winter for Northern Deer

If conditions stay the way they are for a prolonged period, it could be a long, cold and "troublesome" winter for Northern Michigan's deer herd.

With last month unleashing the most severe conditions for whitetails in many years, deer in several northern parts of the state were forced into their winter yarding areas three to four weeks earlier than normal.

★ ★ ★

Unless there is some thawing weather to settle the deep snow and unlock deer movements, the animals may face a longer pinch period than usual in yarding areas where their winter food supplies are "tight."

Game men from the DNR's Crystal Falls district in the Upper Peninsula report that December's combination of snow and cold was the hardest on deer since the winter of 1950 when the state's northern herd suffered large losses.

OTHER AREAS

In the department's Gaylord district conditions for deer to date are described as "tough." Similar reports come from the Cadillac and Gladwin districts.

In the latter area the rest of the winter could be "plenty troublesome" for deer if present snow conditions hold.

Making the early going all the harder on deer is the fact that the deep, fluffy snow is keeping commercial loggers from getting into yarding areas where browse from their cuttings is needed to help pull many animals through the winter.

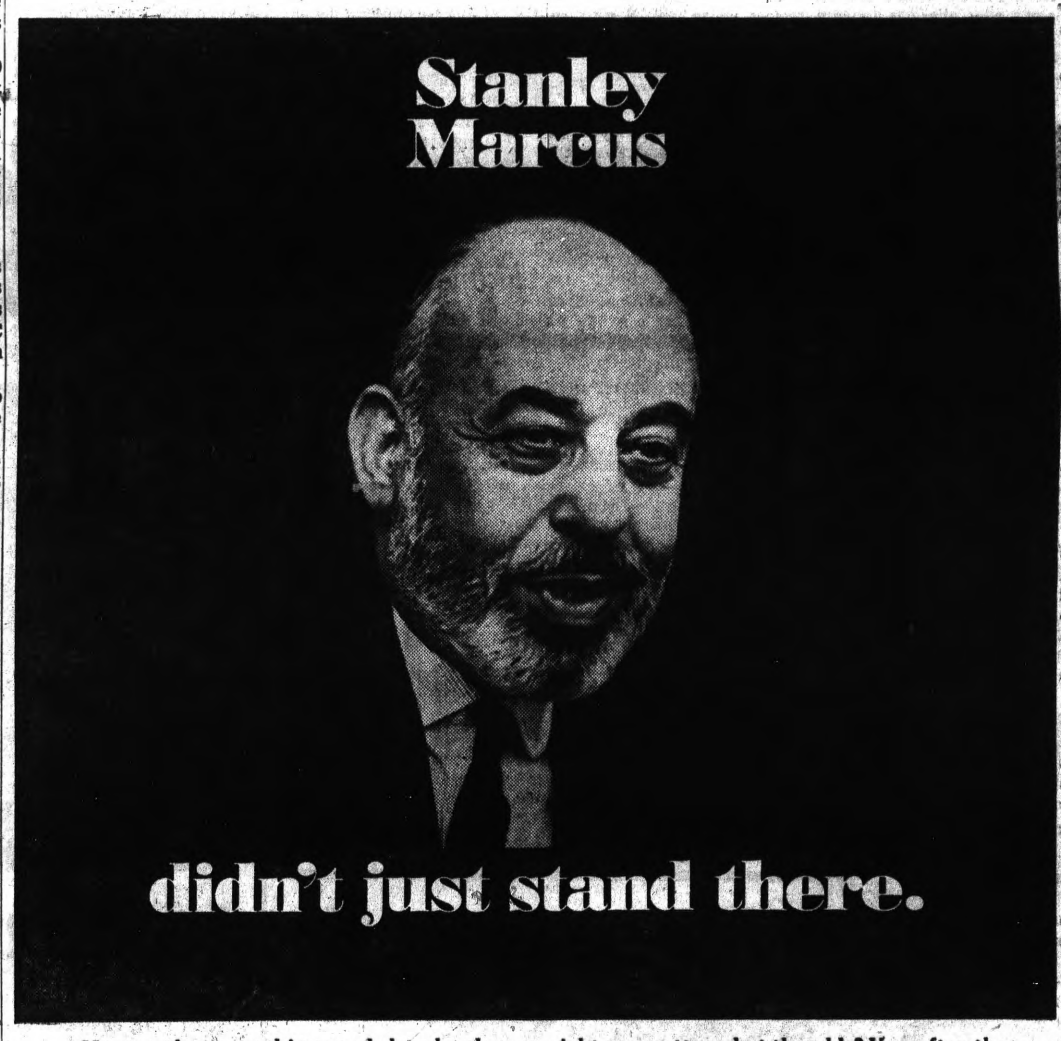
Tip-Up Town, USA, Slated on Weekend

Houghton Lake's annual Tip-Up Town, USA, festival will be held Saturday and Sunday.

The Snowmobile Grand Prix races will be the following weekend.

Fishing contests, dances and entertainment will be held on the ice during the festival which is expected to attract 20,000 persons.

However, snow-covered slush has made it difficult for fishermen and snowmobilers to get on the lake the last two weeks.



He saw that something needed to be done and he did it.

He suggested that his company, Neiman-Marcus in Dallas, one of the world's great specialty stores, take a stand with their suppliers, declaring they would favor those with an equal-opportunity employment policy.

The officers of Neiman-Marcus unanimously endorsed his suggestion. It wasn't easy. They knew they'd be criticized—and they were. Especially Stanley Marcus. They lost customers. Some very good customers. But they knew that they were helping Americans everywhere achieve their just rights. So they stood their ground.

Where does it come from—the moral courage to do what's right, no matter what the odds? Very often the place it starts is a church or a synagogue.

Your faith has ideas as old as time and as modern as tomorrow about the right of the moral situations we face every day.

More than that, when you practice your faith, putting it to work every day, you find you're not alone. You find you have strengths you never dreamed of. The strength, for instance, to take a stand.

Ask somebody who's tried it.

Somebody like Stanley Marcus.

Pound Can of Salmon Feeds Four

CURRIED SALMON LOAF—Baked in a layer cake pan, this salmon loaf is only one of many nourishing and interesting dishes that is quickly made from a can of economical salmon. Garnish with hard-cooked egg, lemon wedges and parsley clusters and serve with a delicate egg sauce.

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

Canned salmon is listed by the USDA as one of January's plentiful foods.

Is your first reaction "No, it's too expensive"? It does seem expensive to pay nearly a dollar for a one-pound can of fish. But it isn't really. There is no waste or shrinkage and you can serve four people.

★ ★ ★

What will you do with a can of salmon? Buy the pink salmon which is less expensive than the red and make Curried Salmon Loaf. Don't mistake this for the ordinary kind of salmon loaf.

CURRIED SALMON LOAF

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1 teaspoon good curry powder
- 1 large apple, peeled and chopped
- 2 tablespoons chopped preserved ginger from a jar, or chutney, or candied ginger
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 pound can salmon
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup milk
- 1 hard-cooked egg for garnish

In saucepan heat butter or margarine and in it saute onions for 5 minutes, or until onion is transparent. Add curry powder, apple, ginger, salt and pepper and cook for 3 minutes longer, stirring frequently.

Empty mixture into a bowl. Drain salmon, reserving liquid for sauce, and flake salmon into the bowl. Add bread crumbs and toss lightly. Combine eggs and milk and stir into salmon mixture.

Line bottom of an 8-inch layer cake pan with waxed paper. Oil pan sides and paper. Pack salmon mixture into the pan and bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 45 minutes, or until loaf is firm.

Remove from oven and let sit for 5 minutes, then unmold onto warm serving platter. Garnish with hard-cooked egg, lemon wedges and parsley. Serve hot with Egg Sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Egg Sauce

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup hot milk
- Salmon liquid from a 1-pound can
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup light cream
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

In saucepan melt butter. Stir in flour and cook, stirring, until butter-flour mixture is bubbling. Add milk, all at once, and stir vigorously until sauce is smooth and thickened. Stir in remaining ingredients. Makes about 2 cups sauce.

Using either pink or red salmon, make a large pot of salmon chowder for your family's dinner. Serve with crisp crackers, or hot biscuits, a fruit salad and dessert.

SALMON CHOWDER

- 1-pound can salmon, undrained
- 1-pound can whole-kernel corn, undrained
- 1 cup raw rice
- 10½-ounce can condensed tomato soup
- 1 quart water
- 1 teaspoon salt, or to taste
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- Dash Tabasco
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ cup chopped celery leaves

Put all ingredients except milk and celery leaves in a large heavy saucepan. Mix well. Bring mixture to a boil, cover and simmer for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Stir in milk and celery leaves. Cover and simmer for 15 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

★ ★ ★

Creamed salmon is always good. This time, we suggest the red salmon for color. Biscuits bake on top of the creamed-mixture in individual casseroles.

SPEEDY SALMON COBBLER

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1½ cups milk
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- Pinch each dry thyme and basil
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1-pound can salmon
- 1½ cups cooked, diced potatoes
- Biscuit mix

In saucepan melt butter or margarine. Stir in flour. Gradually stir in milk and cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until sauce is smooth and thickened.

Stir in mustard, lemon juice, herbs, salt and pepper. Stir in salmon and potatoes and cook over low heat for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Set aside.

★ ★ ★

Make drop biscuits using 1 cup biscuit mix and following directions on package. Divide salmon mixture into four individual casseroles or au gratin dishes and drop a large spoonful of biscuit batter on top of each.

Bake in preheated 400-degree oven for 15 minutes, or until sauce is bubbling and biscuits are golden brown. Makes 4 servings.

New Recipes Help Fill Cookie Jar

Homemakers with a feeling of tradition like to use familiar family recipes. But often grandmother's recipes are complicated and time consuming.

Some take ingredients not easily found today. Even such staples as flour, sugar and shortening have changed enough so that the old recipes no longer give the same results.

So it's a wise cook who uses some of today's new recipes.

PRAGUE TEA SQUARES

- 1½ sticks (¾ cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon allspice
- 1 cup chopped almonds
- ½ cup strawberry jam
- Powdered sugar

Cream butter and sugar. Add egg and vanilla; mix well. Stir in flour, allspice, and almonds. Spoon about one-half of the mixture into a 9 inch square pan. Spread with jam and top with remaining dough. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes, until delicately browned. Sift powdered sugar over the surface. Cut into 36 squares.

SUGAR MERINGUE DELIGHTS

- 2 sticks (1 cup) butter
- ¾ cup sugar
- 3 egg yolks
- 3 cups sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
- 3 egg whites
- ½ teaspoon cream of tartar
- ¾ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- Decors

Cream butter and ¾ cup sugar together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks; beat well. Add flour, salt, and orange rind to creamed mixture. Shape into rolls 1½ inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and refrigerate overnight. Slice dough ¼ inch thick and place on cookie sheet.

Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy. Gradually add ¾ cup sugar and beat until stiff, but not dry. Fold in almond extract. Drop teaspoonfuls of meringue onto cookie slices. Decors may be sprinkled on top, if desired.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes, just until delicately browned. Makes about 5 dozen.

MOLASSES-ALMOND TWINS

- ½ cup vegetable shortening
- 3 tablespoons molasses
- 1 teaspoon instant coffee
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 1½ cups sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon soda
- ½ cup vegetable shortening
- ½ cup powdered sugar
- ½ cup chopped almonds

Cream together ½ cup shortening and molasses. Mix in coffee and vanilla. Sift together flour, salt and soda. Stir into creamed mixture. Wrap dough in waxed paper, forming into a roll 1 inch in diameter. Chill 2 hours or longer. Combine rest of ingredients. Shape into a roll 1 inch in diameter and wrap in waxed paper. Chill. Cut each roll into ¼ inch thick slices and place almond layers on top of molasses slices on cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 7 to 10 minutes.

Allergics Have Special Cookbook

For those who must eat without certain familiar staples a new book by Billie Little called "Recipes For Allergics" which toasts future good-eating for persons with allergies to corn, eggs, milk, wheat, and any combination of these basic foods, has recently been published.

Written in collaboration with allergy authority, A. Chesmore Eastlake, M.D., this book will make happy reading for persons who must severely restrict their food intake because of allergic reactions to these foods.

★ ★ ★

In fact, all of the 20 million and more, Americans who suffer each day with discomfort and illness, may be unaware a food, which they could avoid, is at the root of their suffering. For these, as well as those who know how eating "a forbidden fruit" may affect them, many points of interest are within the 372 pages of "'Recipes For Allergics."

The book includes a primer for allergics, lists of corn, eggs, milk and wheat contacts, other major allergens, disorders caused by allergies, shopping hints, and hundreds of gourmet recipes which will be most appropriate for festive and holiday occasions.

In addition, many of the recipes contained therein are those for preparing fancy meats, salads, and vegetables, in order to permit the cook to prepare a meal from "soup to nuts." If the tiredness, itching or headaches one might have is caused by an allergy to eggs or milk, for example, the sufferer has only to turn to the no eggs or milk section of the book to find a kitchen-proved recipe which he, as well as nonallergic company, can eat happily and safely.

WIDE VARIETY

The book, carefully indexed, offers a wide variety of dishes which will please the Epicurean as well as the Spartan. A good example is the famous Cabinet Pudding (used at the White House) which now can be concocted to enable those allergic to any of the offenders to partake of this scrumptious dessert.

For people who find eating causes a headache or a rash, Recipes For Allergics ($7.50) can mean helpful, healthful, delicious dining ahead.

The book may be ordered from: Recipes For Allergics, Room 1101, Clearmark Building, 16408 South Broadway, Gardena, Calif. 90247.

Siamese Candy

Sweet potato, preserved in a clear, sugar syrup, was a royal sweetmeat in Siam long before Anna arrived to teach the King's children. The candy is still made in much of the East Indies but no longer at extravagant cost. Sugar, once so dearly priced even where grown, as in Siam, is one of today's lowest-cost foods.

BREAKDOWN ON BUDGET — This chart shows the federal government's expected revenues and projected expenditures for the fiscal year 1970. As usual, the major revenue producer will be individual income taxes, and the largest chunk of the outlay will go for defense. It isn't shown here, but 13 cents of every dollar is projected for the Vietnam war.

LBJ Presents 'Unfinished Business'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five days before leaving office, President Johnson left a bulging bundle of legislative requests on the doorsteps of Congress and the new Republican administration of Richard M. Nixon.

Johnson's outgoing budget message carried more than a score of specific proposals for action, ranging from extension of the 10 per cent surtax to authorization for U.S. participation in an Israeli water-desalting plant.

★ ★ ★

Congress and the president-elect can ignore the entire list if they wish. But a number of the proposals probably will get friendly attention in the Democratic-controlled House and Senate.

Nixon has already acquiesced on the surtax proposal, which would include presidential authority to cut or eliminate the 10 per cent extra charge when conditions warranted.

Congress might buy some of Johnson's other proposals, such as a new and bigger federal hospital aid program, a big Social Security benefit increase and broader coverage of existing workmen's compensation and unemployment insurance programs.

But it did not seem likely that Johnson's renewed request for a federal gun registration and licensing law or a basic change in the Selective Service System to assure random drafting of young men would find receptive audiences on Capitol Hill or in the White House.

The President recommended that the postal system be placed under a new type of nonprofit public corporation and proposed establishment of a federally assisted urban development bank to make long-term loans to big and little cities.

Some proposals were specific, and probably controversial, including a request that the president be given authority to raise or lower income taxes—subject to congressional veto.

Broadcasters Honor Fetzer

SAN JUAN (AP) — John E. Fetzer, a veteran broadcaster and the owner of the Detroit Tigers, was named Tuesday as winner of the 1969 distinguished service award of the National Association of Broadcasters, meeting in Puerto Rico.

The award will be presented to Fetzer at the NAB annual convention in Washington, D.C., March 24.

Fetzer, who is president of Fetzer Broadcasting Co. of Kalamazoo, Mich., was first chairman of the NAB television code review board and helped establish TV code in the early 1950s.

He also was chairman of the broadcasting committee which helped set up nationwide telecasting of baseball games.

COMMITTEEMAN

Fetzer was selected by the NAB convention committee. The committee met in San Juan as part of a series of sessions being held by the association's board of directors.

Priority issues before the board include community television, satellite broadcasting, copyrights, and a controversial market proposal by the Federal Communications Commission.

Jackson Adopts City Income Tax

JACKSON (AP) — The Jackson City Council Tuesday adopted a resolution calling for a city income tax of 1 per cent on residents and ½ per cent on nonresidents working in the city. The adoption marked the third time such a proposal had been accepted by the council. The two previous times, once in 1965 and again last year, the tax was defeated by overwhelming margins in public referendums.

County Race Is Recounted

A recount involving the county supervisor's race in District 27 on the west side of Oakland County is being conducted today by election officials.

Ray Lahti, 53, of 240 Nalone, Wixom, petitioned for the recount in an attempt to overcome the 50-vote margin by which he was defeated in the Nov. 5 election by Lew Coy.

★ ★ ★

Votes in six precincts in the district are being reviewed by canvassers for Lahti, while inspectors are checking one precinct requested in a counterpetition by Coy, 48, of 2942 Loon, Wixom.

One precinct is being checked in South Lyon, Northville, Novi, and Lyon Township, and three in Commerce Township.

Election Clerk Mabel Child said that the recount should be concluded today.

Waterford Schools Calendar to Be Set

Plans for the 1969-70 school year will be discussed by the Waterford Township Board of Education at tomorrow night's meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the board office, 3101 W. Walton.

Letters from school district residents regarding needed millage also will be discussed by the board in the wake of last month's defeat of a 9-mill operating tax and a $10.8-million bond issue by voters.

★ ★ ★

The agenda also includes appointments to vacant positions on the board of canvassers, recommendations for staff appointments and the issuance of activity passes to senior citizens.

Recital by Coed Set for Saturday

Linda Schultz, a senior at Muskingum College in New Concord, Ohio, will present her senior voice recital at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church, 404 Oakland.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Schultz of Davisburg, Miss Schultz is the winner of the Presser Music Scholarship for 1968-69 from her college.

★ ★ ★

Her accompanist will be Virginia Watkins, a piano major also studying at Muskingum.

The Pontiac Press announced the wrong date for the recital last Saturday.

Lazaros Case Suspect Faces Extortion Trial

A reputed Mafia leader was free on $5,000 bond today after being bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court to stand trial on charges he tried to extort money from Peter Lazaros, a self-admitted Mafia informer from Troy.

Peter V. Cavataio, 38, of Grosse Pointe Park appeared before Southfield District Judge Clarence A. Reid Jr. on the charge yesterday.

★ ★ ★

At the preliminary hearing, Lazaros, who was released from prison in December to appeal a 1962 fraud conviction, testified that Cavataio threatened to harm members of his family unless he gave up attempts to collect on a $5,000 loan which he made to Cavataio to buy a restaurant.

Since gaining his freedom, Lazaros has been under 24-hour guard by State Police. He reportedly has been describing the activities of the underworld organization to police.

Cavataio was one of several alleged Mafia chieftains in the Detroit area named in Senate testimony by former Detroit Police Commissioner George Edwards.

Cavataio will be arraigned on the extortion charge Jan. 31 before Circuit Judge Robert L. Templin.

Drivers Are Upset

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Protesting the city's insistence they continue to wear jackets, ties and long pants in summer, Montevideo's bus drivers refused Tuesday to allow passengers in shorts to board their vehicles.

Ring Is Stolen at City Home

A diamond ring valued at $1,500 was reported stolen from a Pontiac home, according to Pontiac police.

★ ★ ★

Charles A. Wood, 55, of 93 E. Iroquois told police yesterday that the ring was taken from the top of a dresser. He said the ring has a three-quarter-karat diamond and six small diamonds on each side.

★ ★ ★

Police said there was no sign of forcible entry of the home.

Big-4 Call on Mideast Mulled

PARIS (AP)—France will formally propose within the next few days a Big Four foreign ministers' conference under U.S. auspices to seek a solution to the Middle East crisis, French government sources said today.

★ ★ ★

They reported the foreign ministers of the United States, France, Britain and the Soviet Union should consider how to put into effect the U.N. Security Council's resolution calling for Israel's withdrawal from territory occupied in June 1967, and a general peace settlement.

The French government has banned arms shipments to Israel.

The French Cabinet, meeting today under President Charles de Gaulle, discussed the Middle East situation and the Soviet memorandum outlining a possible basis for a solution. Information Minister Joel le Theule later told newsmen the Western Big Three were consulting through diplomatic channels on their reply to the Russian proposals.

Asked about reports that France has promised military assistance to Lebanon in case of attack, Le Theule declined to answer directly, but said: "In deciding the embargo on arms shipments to Israel, France considers that it served Lebanon's interests."

★ ★ ★

Premier Maurice Couve de Murville told a French television interviewer today it was too much to hope for peace in the Middle East through direct negotiations between Arabs and Israelis, and, for this reason, the Big Four should intervene to put an end to the crisis.

In another development, Iraq announced its rejection of the 1967 U.N. Security Council resolution for a Middle East settlement. That Arab nation maintains 20,000 troops near the Jordanian-Israeli cease-fire line.

★ ★ ★

A broadcast by Radio Baghdad quoted Foreign Minister Abdel Karim al Shaikhaly as saying recognition of Israel is "contrary to what Iraq believes."

MSU Researcher Turns Back Clock on Time Furor

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Michigan would rather fight than switch when fast time is the issue.

According to a Michigan State University researcher, Wolverine State residents have ignored, reversed or rebelled against almost every attempt to place Michigan in its natural Central Time Zone or on Daylight Savings Time (DST).

★ ★ ★

It all started in 1885, said Dr. David I. Verway in a research article in a school newsletter, when Michigan was legally placed on Central time by the Legislature.

"In 1914, the city of Detroit, taking advantage of a home-rule privilege, adopted Eastern Standard Time by city ordinance," he said. The rest of the state followed suit in 1931.

ICC IGNORED

"Michigan simply ignored the Interstate Commerce Commission order of 1918, as Detroit had done, which placed the entire state in the Central Time Zone," Verway added.

In 1936, he said, the ICC issued an order placing the Lower Peninsula in the Eastern Time Zone and leaving the Upper Peninsula on Central time.

★ ★ ★

That arrangement seemed satisfactory until Congress established "war time" for the entire country by requiring clocks to be set an hour ahead of standard time.

"The Michigan Legislature acted swiftly to frustrate implementation of that law by shifting to Central Standard Time," Verway reported. "After the war, the state went back to Eastern Standard Time."

The current furor over fast time began in 1967 when the state elected not to observe DST in accordance with the federal Uniform Time Act of 1966. But the decision was suspended when fast-time forces were successful in petitioning for a referendum.

DST has since been observed in Michigan pending outcome of the vote. Certified totals showed fast time losing but a recount is now under way.

★ ★ ★

Verway suggested the "happiest possible solution might lie in returning all of outstate Michigan (outside the Detroit area) to the Central Standard Time Zone and observing Daylight time throughout the state."

He said part of the problem is that the easternmost part of the state lies on the median which serves as the theoretical boundary between Eastern and Central time zones.

★ ★ ★

"Although every major city in the state except Port Huron lies naturally in the Central zone, Detroit, because of its strong commercial linkage with cities east of Michigan, has good reason for preferring to observe Eastern time," Verway said.

Police Pay Raise

DETROIT (AP)—Police in Harper Woods will receive $11,000 annual salaries, making them among the highest paid in the nation. The Detroit suburb's city council approved the pay hike Monday night. The pay raise becomes effective July 1, 1970.

Fruehauf Exec Gets MESC Post

LANSING (AP)—Raymond M. Lyons, 35, Grosse Pointe vice president for the industrial relations at Fruehauf Corp, Tuesday was named to the Michigan Employment Security Commission, it was announced by acting Gov. William Milliken.

Lyons will fill the unexpired term of the late Chester Cahn, serving until Jan. 8, 1972.

Tax Is Rescinded; Need to Be Studied

WYOMING (AP) — The unbelievable has happened — the city commission rescinded a tax.

Wyoming's City Commission Monday night rescinded the city's income tax so that a special finance committee could determine if the tax is really needed.

★ ★ ★

The tax would have brought about $1.4 million to the city.

Official Guilty, to Testify in Bribery Case

A former Royal Oak Township supervisor who yesterday pleaded guilty to accepting a bribe will testify against four codefendants in a case stemming from grand jury indictments 2½ years ago.

Oakland County Prosecutor Thomas G. Plunkett said a motion will be filed to have Edward Kennedy endorsed as a witness in the trial of the others when it begins Tuesday before Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem.

★ ★ ★

Ziem accepted Kennedy's plea and set his sentencing for Feb. 18.

Kennedy admitted to receiving a bribe by a public official, punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

BROUGHT CHARGES

Circuit Judge Philip Pratt brought the charges against Kennedy and the other four in June 1966, while serving as a grand juror in an investigation into crime and corruption in the township.

The four others accused of bribery and conspiring to commit bribery are former Royal Oak Township Trustee Marshall Taylor, Tatum Eason, then chairman of the township's poverty program, and two officers of the Atlas Sand Co., Carmen Jacoboni and Angelo Delesanto, both of Detroit.

★ ★ ★

It was alleged in the indictments that Jocoboni and Delesanto paid $2,650 to four township officials, including Kennedy and Taylor, in return for the purchase and removal of sand from the township and the extension of their contract.

Several other indictments were leveled against Kennedy during the yearlong inquiry, but most of the charges still are pending. The grand jury ended in June 1966.

Kennedy was found guilty in two of the cases that have gone to trial so far. In one of them, however, his conviction for perjury was later overturned by the Michigan Court of Appeals. The other conviction on conspiracy and bribery involving a demolition firm is pending in the review court.

Lining Up Pontiac Press Ski School Students For Their First Lesson At Mt. Holly Is Instructor Gary Edwards, Shown Here Demonstrating The Gate Position

Beginning Skiers Bravely Take to Slopes

By MARY SUNDSTROM

Five hundred beginners! All out for their first adventure into the wonderful world of skiing.

It was bitter cold last Wednesday night as they lined up, 10 at a time, for their first Pontiac Press Ski School lesson at Mt. Holly Ski Area, 13536 S. Dixie, Groveland Township.

★ ★ ★

Certified instructors under the direction of Stan Kosha, head of the Mt. Holly Ski School, taught the beginners how to put on their skis, how to hold their poles, and how to walk on the flat.

★ ★ ★

Also included in the first lesson, is learning to turn on the flat, sidestep up the hill, then to turn on the hill.

STARTING POSITIONS

Finally, beginners learn the snowplow position, and begin to start gliding, skidding, tumbling and rushing down the hill.

★ ★ ★

Patient instructors praised those who made it down the hill successfully, dust off those who didn't and called out, "bend ze knees," "pull in your fanny," and "lean forward, — keep your weight on the balls of your feet."

★ ★ ★

They fell, collided and got up to try again, laughting all the time. Most had boots or gloves or ski pants filled with snow, but they forged on for more, grinning over their chattering teeth.

"Watch out!" yelled one snow bunny, swooping crazily down the hill. She explained that the only way she could stop was to fall down or run into someone. Luckily, no one was seriously injured.

EARLY RETREAT

Some of the would-be skiers gave up the slopes early, retreating to the Mt. Holly Lodge Bar, to warm up.

★ ★ ★

The bar's atmosphere was quite congeniel. All comers were immediate friends with at least one thing in common — "We're learning how to ski!"

The garb was not outlandish; some wore bluejeans, but one stiff-legged girl said she wouldn't wear them again skiing — her jeans were frozen solid.

The next lesson for Pontiac Press Ski School ticket holders will include a review of the first lesson, and the snowplow turn — and practice, practice, practice.

Due to the large number of people enrolled in the January session (700), Pontiac Press Ski School tickets will be honored both Wednesday and Thursday nights for the remainder of the month.

★ ★ ★

A special booth will be set up these nights in the Mt. Holly Lodge where skiers may trade their coupons for lesson and tow tickets.

★ ★ ★

A second beginner session of the school starts Feb. 5, and there are still plenty of openings. Those interested may call The Pontiac Press, ski school extension, for further information.

★ ★ ★

Class lessons are $2.50 each, and a special ski equipment rental price offers skis, boots and poles for $2.25 for the evening.

The school is open to all persons in The Pontiac Press Area.

THIS IS YOUR LEFT SKI — Instructor Werner Zanier gives Mrs. Pat Musgraves of 98 E. Rutgers, her first lesson in naming ski equipment. Mr. and Mrs. Terry Kaines of 3656 Percy King, Waterford Township, observe.

SKI RHUMBA? — Mrs. Jean Bell of 3030 Garden, Pontiac Township, gets by with a little help from friend instructor Gary Edwards, a GM Tech student from Waterford Township. The question is: did she fall, or did he catch her in time?

SKI BOOTS THAWING — Joanne English (left) of 201 Commerce, Commerce Township, and Sharon Kinkade of 7137 Wedworth, Waterford Township, exchange ski stories while warming near the lodge fireplace, with Richard Gray of 815 Baldwin, Oxford, and Stanley Feldman (right) of 558 Clarkston, Orion Township.

SO YOU RAN INTO ME! — Pontiac Press Ski School students, June Reigle (left) of 919 Spence, Esther Gearhardt (center) of 3370 Ardreth, Waterford Township, and John Nelson of 2131 Lovington, Troy, meet in the Mt. Holly Lodge Bar to discuss their evening of ski lessons.

THREE-POINT LANDING — This first-time skier executes a nearly perfect landing, as she has seen many skiers before her come to a stop. This is one way to stop. Other beginners run into trees or other skiers.

PICK YOUR POLES — Two gallant young men give expert advice or selection of ski equipment to a pair of earger snow bunnies attending the first session of The Press ski school.

Junior Editors Quiz on FIRE

QUESTION: Is fire a solid, a liquid or a gas?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Fire is mysterious; for something so comforting, it can hurt you so much. It doesn't seem like a thing, and yet it can destroy solid things in a remarkably short time. A primitive girl and boy, squatting in front of their fire, may have thought of it in the same way Jeannie and Terry are thinking in our drawing.

The ancients had many theories and myths concerning fire.

It was not understood until 1774, when the great French chemist Lavoisier demonstrated its true nature. We know today that all the natural things around us are to be classed as either matter or energy.

Fire is a form of chemical energy, giving off light and heat. It is produced when the oxygen of the air, which is a form of matter, is combined with some burnable fuel, such as paper, wood or coal, also forms of matter.

But the fire which burns them is not matter but chemical energy, so we can not speak of it as being either a solid, a liquid or a gas. The discovery of fire was one of the most important and useful ever made. But fire can be extremely dangerous: never play with it.

★ ★ ★

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Backers of Lower Voting Age Hopeful

LANSING (UPI) — Forces supporting a constitutional amendment to lower the Michigan voting age from 21 to 18 feel they are stronger, by far, than ever before.

They've introduced a resolution in the newly convened State Legislature to get the proposition on the 1970 general election ballot.

★ ★ ★

Three years ago, a similar amendment lost by 500,000 votes at the polls. But sponsors of the effort aren't disheartened.

"Attitudes have changed since then," said Rep. Jackie Vaughn III, D-Detroit, chief author of the new amendment. "The influence of the young in the 1968 presidential campaign has helped a lot."

Presently only four states — Georgia, Kentucky, Alaska and Hawaii — allow persons under 21 to vote, though all U. S. presidents since Harry Truman have advocated extending the franchise to 18-years-olds. President-elect Richard M. Nixon also favors a lower voting age.

★ ★ ★

"These young people are mature enough to hold a job, pay taxes, go to war, get married, appear in adult courts, be sued and make wills," said Vaughn.

"So it is inconsistent that we do not let them become involved in the vital responsibility of voting."

★ ★ ★

Opponents of a lower voting age argue that 18-, 19- and 20-year-olds are generally too immature to cast ballots intelligently.

★ ★ ★

Vaughn is certain the 1969 Legislature will put the question on the ballot. It takes a two-thirds vote in each house to put a constitutional amendment before the voters. Gov.-to-be William G. Milliken, a Republican, and Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, a Democrat, support the effort.

'ADULT EDUCATION'

Vaughn said this time sponsors of the amendment plan an extensive "adult education" campaign to inform voters of the proposition's merits and dispel myths.

"The whole key to this thing lies in educating adults as to the ability and knowledge of our young people today," he said.

★ ★ ★

"It's very frustrating to young people when they go out and work for a candidate and then aren't allowed to vote for him. I'm sure if they were given the right to vote, it would do a great deal to close the generation gap and channel their energies into constructive areas."

★ ★ ★

Vaughn said House Speaker William A. Ryan of Detroit is working closely with him in setting up a committee to coordinate the informational drive.

★ ★ ★

"We plan to use the talents of our youth in this campaign," he said. "We hope every voter in this state will be contacted at least one by a young person so that person can realize how important an issue this is."

Sign Is Deflated

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Passing motorists got a smile out of a truck stalled on an expressway here when they saw a sign painted on a panel reading: "Front End Specialists."

★ ★ ★

The truck was stalled on the expressway because both of its front tires were flat.

He Felt Like a King--- but He Was Too Square

By JOE WING
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Back in Lincoln, Nebr., where I come from, there used to be an old cigar store, not far from the center of town, that featured chess and sandwiches.

The sandwiches were all right and you could get a pretty good lunch for two bits but the chess was extraordinary. Nothing cloistered about it.

★ ★ ★

To play in that company, the special skills required were temporary deafness, to shut out the exhortations of kibitzers, and ability to figure out chess combinations under the pressure of outspoken heckling. If you were a weak character you might even find the kibitzers moving the pieces for you.

★ ★ ★

When the proprietor decided to make the best of a raucous situation by charging a dime a game, the customers thinned out a little. But I never did get up the nerve to play chess there.

PULL OF CHESS

It was only natural, nevertheless, that when I came to New York I should gravitate to the chess parlor on the third floor of a dingy old building near the center of town at 42nd and Broadway. I still go there.

There, after pushing through crowds of tourists and mincing homosexuals and gawkers and ladies on the prowl, you find a large bare room lighted by unshaded bulbs and strewn with chess tables and players and empty coffee cups and kibitzers.

★ ★ ★

You can buy sandwiches at the parlor, too, and while away an evening watching characters thrust and parry across the chess boards, at 40 cents an hour apiece, while taking an occasional glance at other characters straggling into the girlie movies across the street.

Some of the players look as if they might feel more at home in the Bowery. Others are aggressive types from the Seventh Avenue garment district around the corner. Or college students who have brought time clocks to simulate tournament conditions. There are also business men relaxing . . . unidentified strays . . . and me.

BRAVES A GAME

After some thousands of hours spent on the weaker side of a chess board, I have the nerve now to ask the man in charge to arrange a game for me. "Beginner?" he asks.

"About medium," I reply cautiously.

He points to a haggard, unshaven, rumpled old man, who sizes me up quickly.

"Dollar a game," he says.

I know immediately I've had it. Anybody under those glaring lights who proposes a dollar a game certainly has no expectation of losing his dollar.

TOOK HIS QUEEN

But it's Friday night and you're rich so you accept the challenge. The game hasn't advanced 10 moves before you're in more difficulties than you can account for. Ten more, he grabs your queen and it's all over.

"Gotta catch a train," you explain hurriedly despite his protests, dropping a dollar bill and starting down the two smelly flights of steps. And going to the subway you wonder why in the last 35 years or so you haven't pushed aside less essential matters, like holding down a job, and really sharpened up on your chess.

A Year After Quake, Sicilians Still Suffer

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Thousands are still homeless, fighting cold and humidity in shacks, tents and prefabricated shelters a year after a devastating earthquake struck western Sicily.

Nearly 300 persons were killed by the quake Jan. 15, 1968. Several towns were flattened, and the already deeply depressed economy of the area suffered a disastrous blow.

Quake refugees blame official red tape for holding up rebuilding of their towns. They say that after the first months of quick and efficient government action, they have been nearly forgotten.

To emphasize their difficulties, thousands staged a 48-hour general strike in the quake area Tuesday and today.

ESSENTIAL NEEDS

The main problems of the shanty towns are water, electricity and mud. The water is scarce because the towns are built in open fields, where there are no aqueducts. Water supplies come mainly from nearby communities.

Electricity is being supplied to the refugees free by the state-run electricity agency. The refugees contend the maximum power allowed is not enough. They have offered to pay to get more, but say red tape is holding up the request.

★ ★ ★

When stoves are plugged in at night to heat the shacks, the light goes off.

"Sometimes it takes up to a week or 10 days to get the light back," said farmer Nino D'Antoni. "In some communities a compromise solution has been reached, with each shack using its stove every second night. So we have one warm night and one cold one."

RAIN

When it rains, the situation is tragic. The roads become mud fields, the tents are full of water, and communications come to a near halt.

The Italian government has announced plans for reconstruction of the area. Two large cities are scheduled to replace the several scattered towns destroyed by the quake. Towns only damaged will expand on safer grounds.

★ ★ ★

The plans include the construction of industries capable of pulling the area out of its economic slump. There will be an airport, improved port facilities and new roads with two highways. The work is scheduled to start later this year and be completed in 1973.

Tot Set Free in Kidnap Try

Pair 'Chickened Out,' Got No Ransom Cash

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) — "Two bad men" who kidnaped Paula Ann McGinnis released the 2½-year-old girl unharmed Tuesday night without receiving any ransom.

Her father, Frank McGinnis, said he received a telephone call demanding $200,000 ransom a short time after two men, posing as telephone repairmen, abducted the tot Tuesday. They left the housekeeper bound.

★ ★ ★

"Two bad men took me," the girl told her parents after she was found wandering along a street in nearby LaMirada less than 12 hours after her abduction.

"They apparently chickened out," said McGinnis, owner of a small tool and machine company.

PARENTS NOT HOME

McGinnis was at work, and his wife was shopping when they learned of the kidnaping.

He said the first phone call came soon after he returned home.

★ ★ ★

"They told me the baby was all right, and to get $200,000 together," he said. "They called back three or four times, but didn't reply when we said, 'hello.'"

He said he received no instructions on how to pay the ransom. News of the abduction was carried widely, but nothing was said of a ransom.

'THEY PANICKED'

"They must have panicked when they heard nothing about the ransom," said McGinnis.

The men tied up Mrs. Ruth Mitchell, 58, before taking the blonde tot who was clad in a light blue sleeper outfit.

The housekeeper freed herself in about half an hour and notified police.

EXPLOSION AFTERMATH — An underground pipeline exploded at the Lima, Ohio, sewer plant late Monday, causing an estimated $200,000 damage to the plant. Almost 8,000 persons were evacuated in the city after sewers filled with crude oil and fumes spread over a large area. More than 1,000 homes were endangered and 1,800 persons spent Monday night in schools, an armory and a Salvation Army facility.

Italian Film Makers Invade Russia

MOSCOW, — (AP) — Lured by low costs and spectacular settings, Italian film producers have come to Russia to make four movies featuring such stars as Claudia Cardinale and Sophia Loren.

Miss Cardinale is in "The Red Tent," an adventure story now being shot. The other pictures are scheduled to begin shooting this year.

★ ★ ★

A joint Italian-Soviet production of "Waterloo" will star Rod Steiger as Napoleon. Its producer Dino de Laurentis is also planning to film Alexander Pushkin's love story "Dubrovsky," and has asked Julie Christie and Warren Beatty to star.

The fourth picture is "I Girasoli" ("The Sunflowers"), a drama starring Miss Loren and Marcello Mastroianni.

FINCH STARS

In "The Red Tent," which began filming last February, London- born actor Peter Finch stars as Gen. Umberto Nobile, the real-life head of a 1928 Italian dirigible crew stranded in the arctic after a crash and rescued by a Soviet crew.

Nobile is a controversial figure because he left the survivors to try to bring help, and was later accused of cowardice.

★ ★ ★

"It is a great part," Finch says. "It brings into question the whole concept of courage."

Having spent Christmas in the West, Finch is to resume shooting in Moscow this month. Miss Cardinale is due here later this month to complete her scenes.

PLAYS NURSE

She plays a Norwegian nurse in love with one of the crewmen, played by Soviet actor Edict Marseivich. The film's producer is Miss Cardinale's husband, Franco Cristaldi.

Among other top names connected with it are Soviet director Mikhail Kalatozov, famed for "The Cranes are Flying," and British scriptwriter Robert Bolt, of "A Man for All Seasons," "Dr. Zhivago," and "Lawrence of Arabia".

The Italians producing "Red Tent" have learned that the Soviet way of making films, while relatively cheap, takes much longer than in the West.

"I really dig working with them," says associate producer Paul Maslansky, an American, "but you have to get used to the bureaucratic, slow process.

'DIFFERENT CONFUSION'

"It's a different kind of confusion from the individual panic you get in the West, making a picture. The Russians are very patient. They can wait for a river to freeze."

One frozen scene was shot near the Baltic port of Tallin. "Usually such shots are incredibly expensive, but here it was not," Maslansky said.

★ ★ ★

Total cost of the film is $13 million, he added. With the Italian share about half of that, it is comparatively little for such a lavish production.

One of the ways the Italians save money, while achieving spectacular effects, is to use the Soviet army for extras. The army made up many of the 15,000 red-banner-waving, cheering Russians used in a dramatic Leningrad crowd scene to show the departure of a Soviet rescue ship.

When completed the Western version of the film will run about 2½ hours "but the Russian version will be more than three hours," Maslansky said. "They're used to longer pictures, at a slower pace."

While the Italians are attracted to the joint venture with Moscow's film studio, Mosfilm, because of low costs and spectacular settings, the Soviet interest in the joint production is apparently more ideological. It's a chance to encourage the making of a Western movie in which Russians look heroic.

★ ★ ★

In the second joint venture "Waterloo" Italian producer De Laurentis has received Soviet permission to use a full division of Soviet troops — 12,000, — for three summer months of recreating the famous battle, his brother Luigi said.

The battle scene will be made on the Czechoslovak border in the Soviet Ukrainian city of Uzhgorod.

NOTED DIRECTOR

This scene alone will cost $5 million of the film's budgeted $25 million, he said. The Italians pay half.

The Soviet director is Sergei Bondarchuk, who gained experience with battle scenes in his Russian "War and Peace," a box office and critical success in the West.

★ ★ ★

"Dubrovsky," the other 1969 De Laurentis production to be jointly made with Mosfilm, will be shot in Russia and Italy and directed by Soviet film maker Grigory Chukhrai, who did "Ballad of a Soldier."

In "I Girasoli," to be produced by her husband Carlo Ponti, Sophia Loren plays an Italian wife who comes to Russia searching for her missing soldier husband after World War II.

Pontiac Mall's Auto Show Starts Tomorrow

By DIANNE DUROCHER

For auto enthusiasts the sight, sound and even the smell of a brand new car holds a unique fascination. Even the average spectator is interested in novel designs.

About 65 models of 1969 automobiles will be on display beginning tomorrow at the Pontiac Mall, Elizabeth Lake at Telegraph, for the Mall's 7th annual Auto Show.

★ ★ ★

The show, which runs through Jan. 25, is sponsored by the Pontiac Automotive Trade Dealers Association. Exhibition hours will be concurrent with those of the Mall.

"We intend to give the people of Pontiac and the area an opportunity to view the new cars in the most convenient possible manner," said Cy Pearlman, general sales manager for Jerome Cadillac Co. and president of the Pontiac Automotive Trade Association.

He added that salesmen will be on duty at all times at each display.

In addition to the new models, there will be displays of new car parts contributed by the various automotive plants.

Pearlman expressed appreciation for the cooperation given by Mall resident manager Mrs. Ruth McCarthy in coordinating the show.

Dealers participating in the show are Autobahn Motors, Inc., 1765 S. Telegraph; Matthews-Hargreaves, Inc., 631 Oakland; Jerome Cadillac Co., 675 Saginaw; Pontiac Retail Store, 65 University; Best Oldsmobile, 550 Oakland; and Grimaldi Import Car Co., 980 Oakland.

Others include Grimaldi Buick Opal Co., 210 Orchard Lake; Oakland Chrysler-Plymouth, 724 Oakland; John McAuliffe Ford, Inc., 630 Oakland; Spartan Dodge, Inc., 855 Oakland; and Hillside Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., 1250 Oakland.

Big-Car Buyer Key Target

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — The new car buyer with big car tastes and a pocketbook to match is the main target of auto companies this year.

Length and luxury are the key words in describing the new top-of-line 1969 offerings of the four U.S. auto companies.

★ ★ ★

Two years ago, so-called personalized cars like the Mustang got most of the attention in new car planning; last year it was the intermediate sized cars.

This time around, the big car is in the spotlight.

TWO EXAMPLES

The big Imperial Chevrolet, for example, is the longest car Chevvy every built — five inches longer than a year ago; American Motors' Ambassador has four inches more in its length and wheelbase.

The trend toward long hoods and short decks which developed in the industry three years ago is now much more pronounced. Pontiac claims the longest hood in the industry in its new Grand Prix J model; Cadillac says its hood is 2½ inches longer than a year ago.

★ ★ ★

One thing certain is that the man who pilots an airplane will feel right at home when he climbs behind the wheel of most of the 1969 autos. The trend is towards new airplane cluster type arrangement of instruments with all the dials and knobs grouped within easy reach of the driver. Bucket seats add to the airplane motif in many cars.

Ford, for example, points out that its new airplane panel arrangement has given it more leeway in designing the rest of the dashboard so that it seems to taper off, leaving more leg room for the one or two other people who might be riding on the front seat.

★ ★ ★

Much of the estimated $1 billion that the industry spent in bringing its new cars to market was spent on new bodies for the big cars and for jazzed up, smarter interiors for all cars.

Safety remains a strong word although it did not get as much attention as it did a year ago when the auto companies really went on a safety kick.

CUSTOMER COMFORT

This time around, customer comfort is a big item and the industry dangles many an option before him.

As has become the tradition in the industry, companies show little hesitation in borrowing each others' ideas.

★ ★ ★

The concealed windshield wiper blades, which Pontiac introduced two years ago, are available on competitive cars this time; Ford's swingout station wagon tailgate, which opens either up and down or sideways is obtainable this time on some other wagons.

Head rests are the big item on the safety front for 1969 so far as federal requirements are concerned. Others involve reflectors on the side of the car and a rubber necked fuel tank for better fuel retention and for prevention of spills.

RECEPTION A QUESTION

Auto men assert that only about 50 per cent of motorists use this federally required seat belts and wonder how big a reception the head rests would get.

In some cars, head rests look like an extention of the back of the front seat; in others, they look more like the pillow type rest the barber slides under your head when he is giving you a shave.

American Motors is installing head rests right from the first 1969 car that rolled off the line, even though the federal regulation requires only that such installations be made on all car made after Jan. 1. "We figured we might as well get started right off the bat," an AMC official said.

Detroit auto circles are not too concerned about increased price tags. They believe the American people, taking note of increased wages negotiated by the United Auto Workers Union and increased costs of materials, are ready to accept them.

WARRANTY CUTBACKS

Another item in the customers' future seems almost certain to be a reduction in new car warranties under which the auto companies guarantee parts of the car against wear. Industry leaders generally feel they have overextended themselves in such warranties.

Something old, something new, something borrowed . . . might well be the theme of Detroit's auto firms for 1969.

★ ★ ★

For example, vent windows are passe this time around . . "New" are ventless windows which were standard as recently as in the days just before World War II.

The argument for ventless windows is that the car is quieter and that the air conditioning and other types of ventilation systems installed in autos function bettter with a solid window.

★ ★ ★

If you remember back to the 30s and 40s when auto locks were on the steering wheel post, you will be perfectly at home in many of the 1969 cars.

The new GM cars, for example, has an ignition switch built into its new energy absorbing steering column. When the key is in the off position, both the steering mechanism and transmission are locked.

GM JUMPED GUN

This is a federal standard which will go into effect on 1970 cars but GM jumped the gun a year. Federal men who have pushed the idea say half the cars stolen had keys left in the ignition switch by a careless driver. Under the new system, with the steering wheel and transmission both locked, will find thievery more difficult.

Among safety items sure to get a lot of consideration from potential car buyers are GM's improved energy absorbing steering column and side impact bars on many of its cars.

★ ★ ★

The steering column has been improved so that in the event of an accident the column telescopes even more readily than it did last year.

The side impact bar is a concealed two inch wide steel beam designed to take much of the impact in event of a smashup.

NEW FORD FRAME

Ford has a new energy absorbing frame in which, in event of a severe impact, much of the energy would be expended in bending the front part of the frame. It is lossely referred to as a collapsible front end but Ford people prefer to call it an impact absorbing frame.

Among the host of standard items and options offered as bait to car buyers this year, here are a few examples . . .

★ ★ ★

Thunderbird has an electric powered sun roof which slides towards the rear of the car when the motorist gets the urge for fresh air.

Pontiac, among others, has an electrified rear window deicer which looks like a strand of tiny toaster wire running across the biack window.

American Motors offers a 390 V8 engine with a four barrel carburetor as an option on the AMX and Javelin. It is the hottest engine ever offered by American Motors. AMC dropped all convertibles from its line this year as industry reports continued to show convertible sales on the decline.

Plymouth is among those which have installed a warning buzzer to alert a driver who opens his door while the car's headlights are on.

★ ★ ★

Chrysler's Town and Country line comes up with a roof air deflector which blows a constant stream of air over the rear window to keep it from becoming dusty or water covered.

★ ★ ★

Dodge Polara features a third headlight positioned right in the middle of the radiator, controlled by the driver and available to him when he needs extra light on freeways or especially dark roads. It operates only on low beams so it should not be bothersome to oncoming drivers.

CONCEALED ANTENNA

Pontiac provides a concealed radio antenna, a tiny wire which runs through its windshield and connects at the lower end of the windshield to the radio itself. It is billed as an industry first.

★ ★ ★

These are just a few of the options to tickle your car buying fancy and get you in the mood to reach for your wallet.

Nearly 106 million driver's licenses were in force at the end of 1968, according to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. This represents 12 million more drivers than there were five years earlier, an annual growth of 2.4 million.

Fuel Result of Complex Enterprise

AP Newsfeatures

Out of 12.4 million barrels of crude oil consumed in the United States daily, almost half is in the form of motor fuel.

What started out 50 years ago as a simple formula of heating crude oil, capturing the condensation formed at the top of an enclosed tank and using that liquid as fuel, today has become a complex scientific enterprise.

In the laboratory, this condensation (gasoline molecules), is separated chemically. Custom-made molecules, not counting chemical additives, are injected until, as gasoline purchased at the nearest station, 20 per cent is original condensation; 80 per cent is man-made.

The various additives from today's laboratories include antirust compounds, to protect the fuel system against corrosion; anti-oxidants and inhibitors, to prevent formation of gum deposits in the engine; detergents to prevent and remove deposits in fuel systems and carburetors; ignition control compounds, to keep gasoline from pre-igniting and anti-knock compounds, to remove or reduce engine noise when fuel is improperly burned.

A measure of the gasoline's quality is its octane number. By comparing an unknown fuel under specific conditions with fuels of known composition the octane number can be obtained.

The higher the number, the higher the fuel's antiknock characteristics.

Due to automotive developments that create higher compression ratios, companies engaged in fuel production spend millions of dollars yearly to add one more octane number through the arrangement of gasoline molecules in their progressively sophisticated and expensive processes.

★ ★ ★

From 1925 the octane number of premium gasolines rose, until last December, from 71 to 100.1.

TEST MODEL — This lightweight plastic model of a Camaro is a prototype for structural design. After static and dynamic tests on the small model, a full-scale prototype is constructed.

Law Violators Cause Most of Accidents

By the Associated Press

The chief cause of accidents today is the person violating a law while driving a vehicle.

If everyone followed highway rules and traffic laws continually, experts say there would be few accidents, and traffic safety would become a minor problem for police officials.

★ ★ ★

Most accidents needn't happen. But they do, and in increasing numbers. The reasons as varied as the individual driver, often are emotionally based and the major cause of accidents.

The driver who takes such emotional instability behind the wheel is simply an accident looking for some place to happen.

SUITS MOOD

This type of thinking disregards the law and, in self-justified rationalization, makes laws to suit the mood.

The results are tragic.

★ ★ ★

Today's motorist, refusing to recognize his potential contribution towards safer roads and freeways, looks upon the car as an extension of himself and drives by that theory.

Since most people consider themselves thoroughly capable of handling their lives, they also consider themselves just as capable in handling a car.

It's not always ture.

EASILY LULLED

One is easily lulled into feeling secure with the power and convenience and comfort of today's vehicles. But at speeds past 20 miles per hour, a car is a lethal weapon.

How can modern drivers be sure they are safe on the highways?

They can obey the law at all times, even if it seems senseless to do so: they can be continually alert to conditions around them and drive accordingly; they can realize they might be driving under an emotional confict and, behind the wheel, taking it out on the road, the car and others; and they can show respect and courtesy towards their fellow drivers.

The two largest truck registration states are California and Texas, with 1,740,729 and 1,283,686 vehicles, respectively. Together, they have 19 per cent of the total, or about one of every five trucks in the United States.

Autos' Impact Is Widespread

Thousands of Firms Help to Supply Parts

The economic importance of companies that mass-produce the nation's cars and commercial vehicles extends well beyond the actual production process.

The industry operates 522 facilities in 226 cities in 36 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia. These facilities include assembly plants, parts factories and warehouses.

★ ★ ★

In addition, thousands of other firms across the country serve as suppliers of original equipment and replacement parts.

The motor vehicle industry depends on more than 60,000 firms to supply it with the goods and services needed for its yearly output of vehicles, according to recent estimates.

15,000 PARTS

About 15,000 different parts go into the assembly of the average new automobile.

More than 100 varieties of steel alloys are made by the iron and steel industry to produce automotive steels. Copper, zinc, lead, tin and aluminum are other important metals used in such essential components as ignition and lighting systems, radiators and batteries.

★ ★ ★

During the course of a year, the industry calls on suppliers to provide 41 million gallons of paints and lacquers.

Sixty per cent of all rubber used in the United States is for automotive purposes.

14 MILLION WORKERS

About 14 million workers are employed in industries built around the manufacture, distribution, servicing and use of motor vehicles.

Included are 17 per cent of the 4,850,000 companies doing business in the U.S., or one-sixth of the nation's total.

WE JUST GAVE BACK $174,352.90 IN LOAN PAYMENTS

We call it an interest refund. Again this year we are returning 15% of the interest which each borrower paid on his loan in 1968. This money is deposited in the member's share account. As you can see, a 15% interest refund reduces our already low loan rates even further.

And Check These Services

- On every loan you receive life insurance coverage automatically and at no extra cost
- If you are selling your present car yourself, or buying a used car, you are welcome to check the prices in our copy of the dealers' guide book.
- There are no extra charges of any kind — no pre-payment penalty.
- The same low new car rates apply to used car loans, too.

Mustang Models Added, Ford Is Altered

By the Associated Press

Among the new features offered by Ford Motor Co. in 1969 are two new models in the Mustang line and a major revision in the big Ford.

The following is a breakdown by model of the Ford offering for 1969.

MUSTANG — One of the most changed cars of the 1969 line, Mustang is longer lower and comes in five models — two more than in the 1968 model.

★ ★ ★

While its 108-inch wheelbase reamains, nearly four inches have been added to the over-all, making it 187.4 inches long. The extra length was on the front overhang area, emphasizing the long-hood, short-deck proportions of the car.

★ ★ ★

Ventless side glass, new dual headlamps and simulated side air scoops add a racing flair to the auto.

In addition to a hardtop, fastback and convertible, Mustang added a new Mach I fastback, which has the option of a hot 428-cubic-inch Cobra Jet engine with a special handling package including higher rate front and rear springs and higher capacity shock absorbers.

★ ★ ★

For the fellow with a bigger pocketbook and a Mustang taste, Ford is offering a Lincolnized Mustang which includes an extra 55 pounds of insulation to deaden sounds simulated teakwood instrument panel, an upgraded rear suspension system and personalized interior and exterior trim.

FORD — The big Ford got a major revision for 1969 with increased wheelbase and over-all length and a new S-type, steel, energy-absorbing frame.

The wheelbase was upped two inches to 121 while the over-all height was down about an inch (to 53.5 on the convertible).

★ ★ ★

Averaging about an inch longer (214 inches on the two-door sedan for example), Ford has a new body shell, ventless side glass windows new interior trim and an instrument panel that features an airplane type array of instruments and knobs.

The car has a lower profile tire as standard equipment and its track is about an inch wider than a year ago.

Engine options range from a 240-c.i.d six to a 429-c.i.d V8

FALCON — Only minor stvling changes were made in the Falcon, whose wheelbase and over-all length remained unchanged. A wrap-around front bumper features parking lights and turn signals which are recessed in the bumper.

THUNDERBIRD — An electric-powered sun roof is available as an optional item on the '69 T-bird whose major specifications are unchanged.

The sun roof feature, operated from a fingertip control on the instrument panel is designed for the buyer who wants the open air advantages of a convertible while still retaining the solidness of a hardtop.

The sun roof operates on a hidden track between the headliner and the roof.

An electrified rear window de-icer is another T-bird option as is a buzzer which sounds if the drivers door is opened while the car headlights are on.

A new transistorized voltage regulator with simplified circuitry is one of the car's engineering features.

FAIRLANE — New grilles and dual horizontal headlamps emphasize the low, wide look of the Fairlane whose over-all height was lowered about an inch through suspension changes.

Model availability was upped to 16 with the addition of a Cobra two-door hardtop formal and a Cobra fastback.

★ ★ ★

The Cobra grille has a non-glossy racing black sporty look with a coiled Cobra emblem on the front fender.

The car has as standard a 428-c.i.d. V8, four-speed manual transmission and competition suspension including heavy-duty springs and shocks. The Cobra also has wide oval belted tires.

MERCURY — Mercury reshuffled its car line drastically as it aimed at a bigger segment of the upper-medium price market.

The traditional lines of the Lincoln Continental were transferred to the '69 Mercury offerings. Two wheelbases, 121 inches and 124, are included in the new Mercury line.

COUGAR—L-M's entry in the sporty personalized car field, has a new body design with 3.5 inches more length and almost three inches more in width.

It has a standard 351-cubic-inch V8 and offers fresh-air fans the choice of a convertible or sun roof models. The Mercury Montego offered a new 250-cubic-inch six-cylinder engine.

LINCOLN-CONTINENTAL — Over-all length of this top-of-the line offering of Ford Motor Co. is 3.2 inches more than last year or about 224 inches.

A 460-cubic-inch V8 powers the car, whose riding characteristics include fully rubber cushioned front and rear suspensions and extra large shock absorbers.

The Mark III, introduced only last February, is virtually unchanged.

Race-Complex Work Proceeds

After months of delay, work is proceeding on a new motor racing complex near Long Pond, in Pennsylvania's northeastern section.

When completed, the Pocono International Raceway will include a 2.5-mile championship oval, a 3-mile Grand Prix road course, a 1.5-mile road course, a three-quarters mile oval and a drag strip.

It will have 10,000 grandstand seats and facilities for 25,000 spectators. Completion is expected in the summer of 1969.

Tire Accidents Few

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Blow-outs and flat tires are relatively negligible causes of highway accidents, according to a recent study, but the chances of an accident in such cases increase 22 times if the driver is a girl under 20.

A 12-month survey on the Illinois Tollway showed that 60,000 flat tires contributed to no more than 36 and possibly as few as 13 accidents.

★ ★ ★

This compared with 75 accidents caused by cow and deer jumping into the fenced expressway.

The survey was conducted by the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University.

LESS A FACTOR

It showed that tires are less a factor in accidents than drivers think and also uncovered an area where women drivers are more likely to be involved in accidents than men.

Of the 60,000 instances of flat tires, 99.94 per cent of the drivers successfully coped with the disablements at expressway speeds. The Illinois Tollway maximum is 70 m.p.h.

★ ★ ★

The Traffic Institute reported that 2,196 autos were involved in 1,486 Tollway accidents during the survey period.

In five of 13 accidents which definitely followed tire disablement, girls under 20 were at the wheel.

MORE LIKELY

Women, the survey said, are four times more likely to have an accident after a tire disablement than men.

If the female driver is under 20 the possibility of an accident is 22 times greater. All drivers under 20 were reported five times more likely to have an accident.

★ ★ ★

The study noted that power steering affected the accident figures. Seventy per cent of the vehicles not having accidents after flats were equipped with power steering.

Only 48 per cent of the cars which had accidents had power steering.

NOT SUFFICIENT

The report concluded that a tire disablement alone cannot be considered sufficent to cause an accident.

To cause an accident, a tire disablement must be combined with some driver inadequacy.

★ ★ ★

The Traffic Institute said that the data collected in the $87,000 study made for the Rubber Manufacturers Association did not indicate specifically what the driver shortcomings might be.

The ratio of flats per miles driven equaled one for every 22,000 miles according to the report.

The proportion of tire-related accidents in total miles driven on the Tollway in 12 months amounted to one in 36 to 100 million.

Race Driver Tells How to Pamper Family Car

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Buddy Baker, son of a famed race driver, is one of NASCAR's "young lions" of stock car racing. Among his race victories to date are the "World 600" and the "National 500." He earns in excess of $50,000 a year as a driver of racers and tire-testing vehicles.)

By BUDDY BAKER
Written for Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — My wife, Coleen, and I are a two-car family.

I drive a Dodge Charger to match the one I use in racing. Coleen uses "the other brand," a Cadillac that we call the family car.

★ ★ ★

It's big enough for the children, the groceries, the dog and anything else she wants to stack into it. And it's unbelievable sometimes how she does stuff it.

Like most other families, we have car "problems" from time to time. I'm not a mechanic.

FAMILY TRADITION

But I grew up in auto racing and some of the knowledge about cars and engines rubbed off on me from my dad, Buck Baker, who still is one of the best race drivers around.

Since I'm not a mechanic, I leave maintenance of the racing machine to my car owner, Ray Fox, who is known to be one of the best car engineers in the business.

★ ★ ★

Just like you, I have to depend on the downtown garage for repairs to our two cars. And, just like you, I scream at the repair bills.

But, being a race driver, and otherwise a private car owner dependent upon the knowledge and ability of others, I know the value of keeping our cars in good running shape at all times.

UNDERSTANDS NUANCES

And, just like my neighbor who is an accountant, I have learned to recognize the "signs" and the "noises" that indicate there may be trouble under the hood.

Just like you, I tended to ignore the car manual the salesman gave me when I purchased a new car. That is, I did until I took the time to read the one I got with the Charger the Dodge people gave me after I won the National 500 last fall.

★ ★ ★

I found then that we shouldn't ignore the digest containing millions of dollars' worth of experience.

The top engineers in the company which built your car had a part in compiling that little booklet.

'STARTING POINT'

And it is the starting point for you in the operation and maintenance of the rather heavy investment you made when you purchased the car.

Just like the signpoints on the highways, there are little signs you should look for when driving your car that will indicate there may be trouble brewing. And, like the highway signs, you shouldn't ignore them.

★ ★ ★

The little knocks, squeaks and noise may mean that you need a routine grease or lubrication job.

They also may be warning signs. They should be heeded.

From my knowledge of autos, here is some advice I can pass along to the average car owner:

● When you are driving, watch the gauges on the dash. They will tell you of overheating, low oil pressure, and whether your generator or alternator is charging or discharging.

Driving at excessive speeds particularly can cause overheating, and air-conditioning adds to the engine pressure.

● Your brakes provide the only effective method of stopping the car. Linings should be changed every 15,000 to 20,000 miles, regardless of what the guarantee on them says.

Watch for slight drifts to the right or left when you apply brakes. This may mean a simple slick spot on the lining, caused by oil or grease.

It also may mean the lining has worn thin at that spot. In any event, the drum should be removed and the linings checked by an expert.

★ ★ ★

● Shocks can become dangerous after 17,000 - 18,000 miles. They may still ride good—as a matter of fact, you may have a "softer" ride — but the safest car is one which has its "shoes" on the pavement at all times.

Worn shocks can lead to any number of other ills, including irregular tire wear, bad wheel balance, weakening of springs, etc. When you replace them, go for the best, installed by a good shock absorber man.

● Engine tune-ups should be done after 10,000-12,000 miles, or twice a year. Most auto makers recommend that they be made with the change of season, in other words for winter driving and for spring-summer use.

SPARK PLUGS

Spark plugs should be checked more often, cleaning for better contact and better performance. Change oil regularly, as your operator's manual specifies, and use only the best grade material.

Always have the attendant check the filter and clean or replace it as its condition indicates. Check the air cleaner regularly. It can mean the difference in whether you run cool or hot.

★ ★ ★

Whether you like it or not, eight-cylinder engines perform best on medium to high octane gasoline. Some makers advertise that some of their engines run on standard gasoline. But I wouldn't count on it, over the long haul.

● The way your car "handles" on the road can mean as much to you as the way my race car "handles" on the track—life or death, in my case.

Don't tolerate too much play in the steering wheel, with or without power steering.

Have the front end checked regularly for correct alignment — toe-in and camber, etc. It costs only a dollar or two to have front wheels balanced; do it regularly.

FRONT END COUNTS

Improper front end set can not only throw you off the road at the slightest provocation, but it affects the wear of your tires, the ride you get; the general stability of your car is wrapped up in the front end.

More expensive items like "A" frames need replacing occasionally, but this more expensive trouble can be prevented by regular front end care, including replacing of ball joints, overhauling of wheel cylinders, etc.

★ ★ ★

● Tires also should be checked regularly, too. None of them is built for 95 m.p.h. speeds. Tire companies test at 65-75 m.p.h., unless they are testing race tires at race speed—like the 185 m.p.h. I turned for 2,600 consecutive miles at Daytona Beach last fall.

Ironically, the tires I use on my race car wouldn't get you around the block safely.

First place, they're 13-14 inches wide on the treads.

Second place, racing tires have very thin sidewalls, can't stand the wet and handle awfully unless your car is set up to handle them, which it isn't.

DANGEROUS TIRES

Beware of "4 for 64 dollar" tire bargains if you do much road driving.

Most tire companies make these tires only because there is a market for them, but in most cases they accept no responsibility for them once they're put on your wheels.

Always try to trade your tires for new ones while you still have acceptable tread depths left. You'll get more money for them.

And, by all means, keep air pressure at proper levels regardless of whether you're using them for street driving or road work. Higher pressure is desirable on long trips — saves gas and wear and tear.

★ ★ ★

These are a few things I'd recommend in keeping your car in good running shape. Chances are you paid $3,000-$4,000 for it.

That's quite an investment, and those $100-a-month payments come awfully quick. So, to protect your investment, it stands to reason you should cut down on repair costs whenever you can.

The best way to do this is to practice "preventive medicine." Get with it when the little "signs" show you need a check-up.

Red Flag Means Traffic Situation Is Under Control

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — A passing motorist sees a wrecked vehicle but doesn't stop to investigate on the assumption the accident has been investigated.

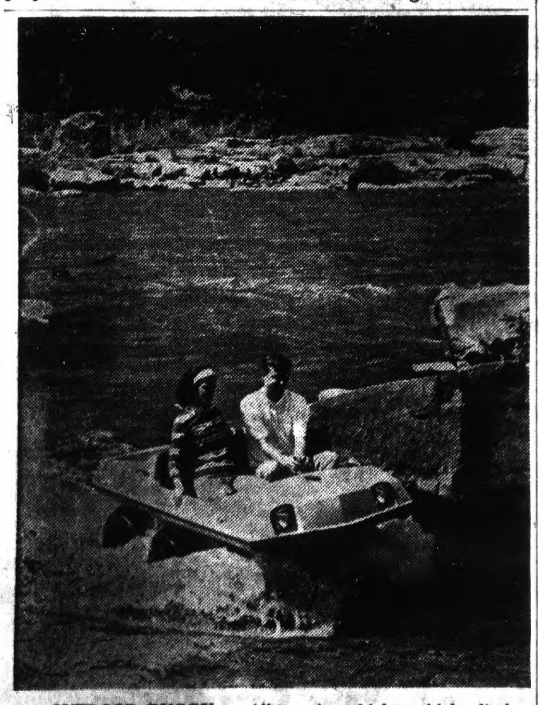
But occasionally the assumption is incorrect and results in injured persons not receiving prompt medical attention, says the North Dakota Highway Patrol.

★ ★ ★

To meet this situation, the patrol has announced it will use red flags to identify stalled, abandoned or wrecked vehicles that have been investigated by its officers.

Thus, a passing motorist will be able to tell by looking for the red flag if the wreckage has been visited by a patrolman.

Forty-six per cent of passenger car trips are for the purpose of earning a living; 29 percent for family business errands, such as shopping and trips to the doctor or the dentist; eight per cent for educational, civic and religious purposes and 17 per cent for social and recreational purposes.



OUTDOOR BUGGY — All-terrain vehicles which climb mountains and propel themselves across streams and lakes are becoming increasingly popular with outdoorsmen. One of the new models is this Attex.

Americans Put Wheels on Leisure

By The Associated Press

The hit-the-road trend continues unabated. More than 400,000 recreational vehicles, ranging from $80,000 land yachts to tiny camping units, were added in 1968 to the nation's fun boom.

Estimates are that motorists paid out almost three quarters of a billion dollars this year to join the increasingly large number of owners of recreational vehicles.

★ ★ ★

Accurate figures on the size of the so-called RV sector of the auto market are hard to come by, since different states have different ways of registering such vehicles. In one state, a self-contained recreational unit might be registered as a truck and in another as an auto.

Peter R. Fink, president of the Recreational Vehicle Institute, estimates there are between 1.5 and 2 million RV units on the road today.

A FAR CRY

Most are a far cry from the stripped down units which hunters and fishermen used years ago when the RV trend was just picking up.

One of the first motor homes of record is a 1910 unit, a body finished like the Pullman cars of those days and set on a three ton Packard chassis with a four cylinder engine. The unit had sleeping accomodations for 11 persons and even had a set of planks to bolster any bridge encountered on the roadways of that era.

★ ★ ★

Today Michigan, Indiana, California, Iowa and Ohio are the centers of the RV building business which turns out units as costly as $150,000. These are the rare motor yachts that are the glamor units of the growing industry.

More common are units costing $10,000 to $15,000, equipped with everything from air conditioning to stereo; from self-contained kitchens to toilet and shower facilities.

EASILY TOWED

Travel trailers ranging up to 27 feet in length and easily towed behind the family car represent the bulk of the market.

Woman's place in the rolling home is a prime consideration of the RV people, for they know only too well that most housewives no longer are content to sit at home while hubby climbs into his camper and heads off on a hunting or fishing vacation.

One survey showed that women now go along on 90 per cent of the RV trips. With 36 million woman drivers in the nation, RV builders have kept their comforts and convenience very much in mind.

In self-contained units, such as the Dodge Motor Home, or those towed behind trucks or tractors, special consideration has been given to making driving easier for women. Power brakes and power steering, automatic transmissions and more comfortable seats and car interiors are commonplace.

FOOD FIRMS, TOO

Even food companies have gotten into the RV field. Campbell Soup Co. and Hunt Wesson Co. are just two of the big food firms that recognize the market for easilycooked foods for the mobile family. Campbell has published a booklet of kitchen recipes and hints, called "The Pampered Camper."

One of the big problems in the rapidly expanding RV field is that of finding enough parks and camping sites to handle the increasing traffic. Federal and state officials are working on that.

Fink predicted the RV usiness would hit the $2 billion a year mark by 1980 as more and more people take to the road for vacations or for retirement.

RV industry leaders are convinced that the surge in demand for all types of recreational vehicles is no short term matter. The fun boom is on in a big way and it is going to stay, said one.

'69 AMC Cars Resemble '68's

By the Associated Press

Aside from some styling refinements and longer lines in the Ambassador, American Motors Corp. has come up with a 1969 line that looks pretty much like the '68 model line. There have been few exterior changes.

The following is a brief summary of the changes to be found in AMC models for 1969:

● AMBASSADOR — AMC's top-of-the-line Ambassador is four inches longer than last year (at 206.5 inches for sedans and hardtops) in overall measurements. The wheelbase, upped to 122 inches, also is four inches more than last year. Air conditioning remains a standard item on the Ambassador line, which features new front sheet metal treatment grille and bumper.

● RAMBLER — Formerly known as the American, this five car line has been redesignated as Rambler. Only small items, such as hood ornaments and front-fender bars, were changed in line with AMC's announced policy of giving the compact series a continuity in styling.

● REBEL — The car's dimensions — 114-inch wheelbase and 197-inch overall length — are unchanged. Styling refinements include a new grille and headlight assemblies, a new deck lid and new tail-light units. Convertible models have been dropped from the line. The identification as the Rebel line has been strengthened by use of Rebel lettering on hood, front fender and deck lid or tailgate. A new rear suspension and steering linkage head engineering changes in the car.

● AMX and JAVELIN — Introduced as a 1968½ model, the AMX has few external changes.

Brakes Can Be Hazard to Driver

By JAMES BRESCOLL
AP Newsfeatures

An automobile in motion is difficult to stop. Charts based on extensive research and testing indicate a car moving -- needs feet

M.P.H.	to stop

40	149
50	243

Given poor road conditions, foul weather, bad reflex action or a host of other complications and these distances increase.

★ ★ ★

For the average driver, with little understanding of the mechanics of an automobile, the fastest method to slow or stop a car is through breaking. There are several dangers involved, however, which can turn the car into a lethal weapon.

The first is brake fade, a condition in which brake temperatures rise, the brake linings glaze and do not provide the necessary position.

HOW IT CAN HAPPEN

This can happen IF - -

● The "play it safe" driver keeps his left foot on the brake pedal to beat "reaction stopping time" and this creates heat.

● The brakes rather than low gear are used extensively to slow the car on a long downgrade.

● The brakes are improperly adjusted, grease-impregnated or worn.

★ ★ ★

Though brake fade is frightening and, in some instance, dangerous, it is a condition which rapidly cures itself through cooling of the brakes.

There is no such quick cure for wet brakes, either from water or fluids forming on the brake linings. This causes sluggish or weak brake response, if any, accompanied by erratic handling or left-right pulling.

FOREIGN SUBSTANCES

When the brake linings become impregnated with brake fluid, road oils or other foreign substances, they will become less effective.

A third problem involved with brakes is deterioration. Brakes are one of the major parts of an automobile and are continually under strain. There are three main parts, each one affected differently through wear and tear.

● Brake Drums — Supposed to be perfectly round, they can become misshapen through too much hard driving and thus not fit the brake linings.

● Brake Lining — If it becomes worn irregularly, the bare metal beneath the lining can score the drums and necessitate expensive repairs.

● Brake Hydraulic System — This is the unit which forces the lining into operation and is comprised of moving parts which receive continual use.

★ ★ ★

Each time the brake pedal is depressed, these three units are worn slightly. After a while, the entire assembly should be thoroughly checked for safety's sake.

When a part in one wheel needs replacing, the opposite wheel part may well be replaced. Otherwise, one brake lining replaced can cause the car to pull severly to one side or the other through imbalance of the brake lining thickness.

INSPECTIONS ARE TELLING

In some 30 states, periodic motor vehicle inspections reveal 10 to 25 per cent of cars on the road have improper and dangerous braking systems. Yet on top of this there are several road conditions which seriously influence brake action.

★ ★ ★

One is the wind. Since braking ability depends on brake temperature, a wind blowing on one side of the vehicle will maintain a lower temperature on the brake on that side.

★ ★ ★

If applied hard, the cooler side brake will be more effective and the car will tend to pull to that side. If the driver is unprepared for this, he can react in desperation and, go off the road or into oncoming traffic.

Another problem is road surface. On hot days, many roads tend to develop a surface slickness. This can create an increase in effective braking distance.

GRAVEL, MOISTURE

At other times, loose gravel, moisture or other materials can cause the tire to ride above the road at high speeds, unable to stop sufficiently in an emergency.

Delayed brake fade is a more serious problem which seldom gives advance warning. As in the normal brake fade, it is caused by heat build-up in the braking system.

★ ★ ★

This heat, however, may build up through constant use or overloading. Then if the brakes are not allowed to cool, even if not actually used, the driver may suddenly depress the brake pedal and find an unexpected change in pressure needed, causing an instant which could cause disaster.

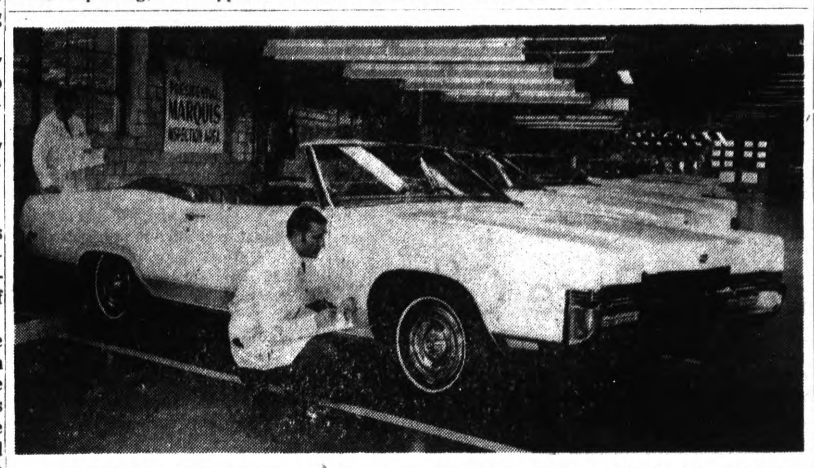
Overheated brakes are not unusual, nor limited to any season or surface. Here are several suggestions to reduce strain on the brakes and perhaps save that extra few feet between hitting or not hitting something.

● In mountains or overcrowded road conditions, the word is slow. By driving with the car in a low gear, the engine will take the strain of maintaining a safe speed and remove the stress on the brakes.

● In approaching stops, use more distance to brake. The harder the brakes are applied to stop, the higher the temperature and the quicker the chance of brake fade.

● When brakes become wet, drive slowly and apply them steadily until the car stops smoothly. Do not attempt to drive fast when you know the brakes have become wet.

● If the brake pedal reacts sluggishly or tends to pull left or right, take the car to a repair shop immediately. A trained mechanic can tell in a quick check your brake's condition and will make the necessary suggestions for repairs, if needed.



INAUGURAL SPECIALS — Thirty 1969 Marquis convertibles, bound for the inaugural day parade in Washington, D.C., receive the finishing touches at Ford Motor Co.'s St. Louis assembly plant. The cars, all white with red interiors, are being shipped to the nation's capital where they will be stored until their important trip down Pennsylvania Avenue Monday.

'Vehicle Miles' to Rise in '69'

The U. S. Department of Transportation estimates motor vehicle travel in the United States in 1968 will be 1,010 billion vehicle miles, a 4-7 per cent increase over 1967.

Passenger cars usually account for 80 per cent of travel, trucks 19 per cent with buses and motorcycles accounting for the remainder.

Thirty seven per cent of travel is on main rural roads, 13 per cent on local rural roads, and 50 per cent on urban streets.

In 1967 average annual miles traveled per vehicle was estimated at 9,582 for passenger cars, 3,962 for motorcycles, 34,508 for commercial buses, and 7,523 for school buses. Single unit trucks averaged 9,611 miles per year while truck combinations traveled 40,695 miles annually.

Montego. So reasonably priced you can easily afford air conditioning.

(Not to mention power steering and other luxury options.)

Mercury Montego may be the best way there is to get 6-passenger luxury without paying a lot for it.

The money you save over buying a size-larger luxury car can be used for many of the luxury options you want.

And most of these options, happily, cost you a bit less, too. That's because the optional units don't need to be quite as big as in a size-larger car.

For example, Montego air conditioning costs you about $45 less than in some full-size cars. Power steering about $20 less. Automatic transmission about $40 less.*

At savings like these, you may want to add everything.

But don't get us wrong. The Montego is a well equipped, very luxurious car to start with. It's got that unmistakable touch that only the makers of the Lincoln Continental could create. You'll be very happy without any options. But it's nice to know that Montego's reasonable price makes them so easy to own.

EMBLEMATIC OF SAFETY—Protecting motorists from rear-end collisions with slow vehicles on streets and highways is the aim of these special new emblems. A fluorescent center glows vividly in daylight (left) while the reflective border bounces light back to oncoming cars at night (right).

Slow Movers' Emblem

AP Newsfeatures

Say you're tooling down a highway at 50 or 60 miles an hour and see a triangular emblem like the one above on the rear of a vehicle ahead. What should you do?

★ ★ ★

That sign is the "Slow Moving Vehicle Emblem" developed at Ohio State University after three years research under an Automotive Safety Foundation grant.

It is designed to be placed on the rear of all vehicles operating regularly at speeds of 25 miles an hour or less. Several states have passed legislation requiring or permitting its use.

16x14 INCHES

The emblem is 16 inches wide and 14 inches high. It combines a yellow-orange fluorescent center and a border of red reflective sheeting.

It is supposed to be visible at 500 to 1,000 feet under any driving conditions at any time of day.

★ ★ ★

The Ohio state studies brought out that there are 12 million slow-moving vehicles operating regularly on American highways. In a typical year, seven or eight thousand are involved in rear-end collisions which result in injuries or death for 2,000 persons.

Three-quarters of the vehicles are farm tractors or machinery, 20 per cent are street and highway maintenance equipment.

★ ★ ★

Nine out of 10 of the accidents happen in daytime. There has been a 250 per cent increase in the number in this last decade of high-speed automobiles.

Dodge Likely to Race Charger in 1969 Stock Car Competition

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Dodge will probably race its new Charger 500 in stock car competition this year. The car, unveiled at Atlanta recently, looks much like the standard Charger but has two major design features.

One major innovation compared to the standard Charger gives the racing machine's rear window a new slant to make it flush with the rear window pillars.

This eliminates the "channel" or "slot back" rear roof deck, and is calculated to give the Charger 500 a distinct aerodynamic advantage over the standard car for high-speed track purposes.

Another design change has the grille mounted flush with the front end to improve air flow.

This will eliminate a drag or "heavy" front end problem that showed early in the 1968 stock car racing season, when engineers had to mount a spoiler at the botton of the front end to help keep the race car on the track.

★ ★ ★

The Charger 500 shown at Atlanta was turned over to a NASCAR technical crew, which is constructing body configuration templates for use in technical inspections next season.

Driving Cost Depends on Many Factors

By the Associated Press

While the average American drives his car 12,000 miles yearly, the amount of money it costs to drive depends on many odd factors.

One thing is agreed upon, however, in two recent studies: the price per mile of driving is up.

★ ★ ★

The cost of buying a car has gone up almost 10 per cent since 1965, and the operating cost has risen similarly — from the 1965 total of 10 cents per mile to 11.4 cents per mile in most American cities.

This, says the Automobile Legal Association report, is based on figures which take into account the fixed costs built into operating a car (depreciation, insurance, taxes, license) plus daily expenses (gas, oil, repairs).

ONE FACT

One fact brought out was that the person who drives less than 5,000 miles per year may average 33.1 cents per mile in a large metropolitan area, while driving 30,000 per year can bring this down to 8.2 cents per mile ($1,650 per year for 5,000 miles; $2,460 per year for 30,000 miles).

The second study, by the management consulting firm of Runzheimer and Co., of Rochester, Wis., indicates standard-sized cars are not the least expensive to operate.

Rather, their cost is roughly 12 per cent higher than the so-called specialty cars.

★ ★ ★

Basing figures on 20,000 miles per year, the Runzheimer study also concluded the lowest-priced cars aren't always the cheapest in operating costs.

Bigger, but more specialized cars (Mustangs, Camaro, etc.) are called cheaper.

Spark plug output in a recent year amounted to 528.6 million units, according to the latest census of the manufacturers, conducted by the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

Farmers own 3.1 million trucks, nearly three times as many as they did in 1940.

Service Can Be a Racket

Car-Repair Adviser Helps

By CHET CUNNINGHAM
Associated Press Writer

Paula Anderson pulled in at a big-brand service station for gasoline. Two neat, clean and well scrubbed attendants washed her windshield and filled her tank. Then one came back from where he had been looking under the hood.

"That top radiator hose is about ready to blow out, miss. And you're way overdue for a clean air filter. Shall I change them?"

★ ★ ★

"Well, I don't know," said Paula. "I've never had any trouble at all with this car."

"Comes all at once, Miss. Hose blows out, all the water drains out of the radiator and then your engine could seize."

CHOKE DOWN

Paula blinked rapidly, and tried to choke down that small round ball of fuzz that tried to crawl up out of her stomach. She certainly didn't want her engine to seize, whatever that was! The attendant's slight frown was very reassuring.

He was concerned about her car! The nice boy! He was trying to help her! She nodded.

★ ★ ★

"If it won't take more than 15 minutes. I have an appointment."

"Yes, ma'am, you won't even have to move it."

Fifteen minutes later Paula Anderson drove out of the filling station and on to her meeting. She was reassured. Her air cleaner had been changed and she had a new strong radiator hose. And now her engine wouldn't seize, whatever that was.

HONEST-SOUNDING

What happened to Paula was that she was oversold, and in reality cheated out of about $10. She was the victim of the honest-sounding man, who can con almost any woman and lots of men into buying some unneeded service for a car.

If even men fall for this racket — how can women steer clear of it?

★ ★ ★

The only answer is, rarely trust a stranger to service your car.

If you are a Miss or a Mrs. who has no Mr. around to help you keep your car running in reliable condition, you need a reliable, honest and capable auto adviser.

SUCH A KNIGHT

Where is a girl in Chicago or Ipswitch or Broken Elbow or Los Angeles going to find such a knight in shining armor?

Let's say you drive a Ford. Your best bet is to find a middle-sized franchised Ford dealer near your home and deal with him. Get started by taking your car in for a free safety check.

★ ★ ★

The first man you meet at most automotive dealerships is a man known as a service writer, or sometimes a service adviser.

His job is to listen to your complaint, help you figure out what probably is wrong with your car, and tell you what needs to be done to fix it, and about how much this will cost and how long it will take to do.

DON'T KNOW

This man, or one like him, is going to be your auto adviser. Tell him your situation, that you don't know a differential from a dashpot, and that you need someone to help you keep your car running reliably.

Usually such a man will be more than glad to help you out. Tell him you will always come to him for your service work. He will like this because he works on a commission. The more "steady" followers he has, the more he earns.

★ ★ ★

Your first time there, tell him you want him to look over your car, listen to it and find out if there are any problems you need fixing right now.

If you have a relatively new car there may be nothing wrong with it. But there may be some regular servicing that needs to be done.

A WARRANTY

Remember on any new car you have a warranty. This means there are certain items on your car that the maker guarantees to fix if they break or if anything goes wrong.

To keep this warranty in effect, you must follow certain service and maintenance schedules in your owner's manual. Your service adviser will tell you if these are up to date or not.

Make it very clear to this man that you are going to rely on his judgment to keep your car running, but that you don't have unlimited finances so you can't spend a penny more than is required.

If he doesn't understand or sympathize, or if you don't like the way he talks or smiles or advises you, ask for another service adviser at that dealership, or go to another dealer.

PROTECTIVE SHIELD

Once you have established this auto-adviser relationship, you have a protective shield against the sharp character who says your carburetor needs an overhaul because the needle valve is sticking in the thumbscrew.

Most women have a car for one reason: convenient transportation. You probably don't care if it has four or six or 89 cylinders or what grade of gasoline it burns, or whether it has overhead valves or valves at all — as long as it gets you there and brings you back.

★ ★ ★

If you have an older car, your main thought should be reliability. You don't want to get stuck getting your six-year-old sedan started.

You don't want to have a flat tire or a blowout, and you don't want to run out of water on a hot day climbing a hill.

Tell your auto-adviser that you want your car to be reliable, but that it doesn't necessarily have to be in tip top, Detroit-fresh, driving shape. You want a good battery, good charging system, good starter and a motor that will run.

NOT ON CIRCUIT

Almost any older car COULD have an engine overhaul. But remind your auto-adviser you're not on the Grand Prix circuit. He'll get the picture.

If you do have a new car, it will be simpler to keep in good condition and less expensive. Your major consideration is to have service work done to keep your warranty in effect.

★ ★ ★

No matter where you go for service work, it will cost you about the same. Most filling stations that do service work these days charge almost as much as the auto dealerships.

All work from what is known as "book rates." These rates cover the amount of time that a mechanic is allowed to do a particular job. If he can do it faster he makes more money by saving time for another job.

SAVE MONEY

The way you save money on auto service is by NOT having service work done that is not needed. This is where your auto-adviser relationship comes in for a test.

If he plays the game fairly with you, he'll tell you what must be done at once, what would be good to do soon, and what can wait until next year.

If he tells you your brakes should be relined, it is a MUST NOW job, because it affects the car's safety. If he says you'll need a major engine tune-up ($25 to $40) in about six months, that is one that will wait a while.

If he tells you your car would look better if you had that ding taken out of the fender — that one can wait forever and not effect the running ability of your car.

There are excellent filling station mechanics but the filling station man often is in business on a shoestring — which means that sometimes that shoestring breaks. The filling station's main job is pumping gas and selling oil, and that's what you should rely on it for.

BIG SPLASH — Not only are the new models from Pontiac Motor Division making waves in the 1969 sales picture, but they also regularly make a big splash at the General Motors Proving Ground as shown above. As part of their scheduled 35,000 mile durability run, a 1969 Firebird, Bonneville and LeMans plow through the "bathtub," a test to study the splash protection of brakes, seals and air intakes. Other tests, all conducted before the new models go into production, include body, steering, engine and transmission, and suspension.

We've found a way to make Chevrolets an even better buy than other cars in their field.

And out of their field.

We've been able to drop the price of several extras. Not cat-and-dog extras, but those you'd like to have.

An automatic transmission costs you less, whether it's Powerglide or our 3-speed Turbo Hydra-matic.

The cost of adding a larger V8 is less.

The cost of new advanced-design power disc brakes has been cut practically in half. And so has the cost of head restraints, which are now figured into the base price of the car as standard equipment.

So for the '69 Impala shown above with a 300-hp V8, Turbo Hydra-matic, power disc brakes, whitewall tires and wheel covers, the price is $101.00* less than it was in 1968.

(Those whitewalls even cost you a little less than they did last year. And the 300-hp V8 costs $40 less than it used to cost to add a V8 with only 275 hp.)

In '69 you get a better ride with Impala, too. A better Astro Ventilation system. Solid steel "guard rails" built into the door. A lock for the ignition, steering wheel and shift lever, offered only by Chevrolet in its field.

The value goes up. The price comes down.

You know, if we were the competition, we'd never show up for the Showdown.

*Based on manufacturer's suggested retail prices, including federal excise tax and suggested dealer new car preparation charge.

Car Medicine Chest Really Is Necessary

By The Associated Press

Though most families have a well stocked medicine cabinet at home, few seem to consider one necessary for their cars.

As traffic increases and accidents rise, the need for an all-purpose medicine kit in a car seems evident.

★ ★ ★

After an accident, abrasions, burns and other injuries often must be treated on the scene. Recent developments have created painless micropore dressings which also provide antiseptic care for the injury.

An accident kit, should contain such items as gauze bandages and pads, a small pair of scissors, antiseptic cream or disinfectant, burn ointment, adhesive tape.

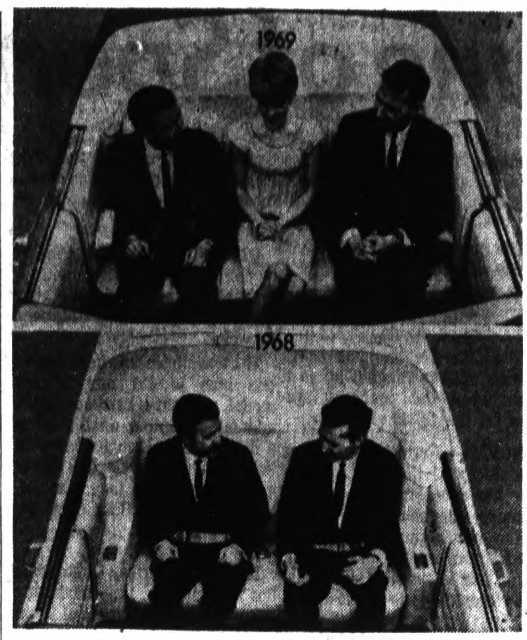
AUTO ESSENTIALS

Ailments that crop up during a trip may be minimized with the help of aspirin, calamine lotion (for rash, poison ivy or oak, insect bites), motion sickness tablets, eyedrop for eyestrain, antacid pills, premoistened paper towelettes, ammonia tablets for fainting, chewing gum for alertness.

While there may be no need for a medicine kit during long miles of travel, it takes only one emergency or one accident to make its worth appreciated.

★ ★ ★

One last word: if anything in the kit is used, see that it is replaced immediately and, after a six-month period of nonuse, check over everything to insure it is still fresh and able to do the job.



MORE SPACE — Rear seat space in Ford and Mercury convertibles has been increased more than 10 inches by relocating the top mechanism. Anchorages for the top frame were moved behind the rear seat from their previous positions at either side.

Don't Teach Wife Yourself

Driving Lesson for Hubby

By The Associated Press

One piece of information that driving school instructors give without being asked: Husbands make lousy driving teachers and wives make lousy students when taught by husbands.

"The wife does not sincerely involve herself when instructed by her husband," says Elvin E. Tharp, an auto driving school chief. "She is more involved in the way he speaks, the impatience he shows, the unwillingness to patiently instruct her properly."

★ ★ ★

Take her to a driver training school, however, and chances are she will be able to handle the family car expertly within two months. The reasons are simple.

● The instructors have patience, enabling them to help the wife shed her nervousness and replace it with confidence and determination.

● The instructor is a stranger, relieving her of emotional attachment and allowing her to concentrate on the lesson.

● The instructors understand the sometimes irrational whims of the woman driver ("I can't drive down 14th Street; my friend lives there and I don't want her to know I am learning.")

ONE BAD TRAIT

With both male and female drivers, however, there is one trait that does age instructors: the penchant for doing just the opposite from what is told. Why some students do this is one of the unknowns of the business.

Another problem, according to Charles Corn, director of Corn's Auto Schools scattered throughout New York City, is some of those who want to rent a car for a state road examination.

★ ★ ★

When asked how much experience they have had, they answer "Oh, I've never driven a car, but I've watched my friends drive for almost 20 years and know exactly what to do."

When they find out they do not know what to do after all, the training is made easier.

RECURRING PROBLEM

For men, a recurring problem is overconfidence. He tries shortcuts and tricks. Sometimes it takes one or two close calls before he realizes driving is an art that requires slow and steady effort.

Underconfidence, or no confidence, in the female, is a problem instructors deal with daily. She feels she may not be able to handle the big piece of machinery and is flustered by the slightest thing wrong.

★ ★ ★

"The solution," says Tharp, "is intensive training." Children, having learned the rudiments from parents or older friends, are impatient with the slowness of learning.

At the same time, however, they are worried they might pick up a citation while learning. Again, a patient instructor helps out.

SIGNIFICANT FACTOR

A minor, but significant, part of driver training is that involving the handicapped.

Louis Salzman, district supervisor of the University of the State of New York, Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, says: "driver training has for more than 15 years done an invaluable job in the training and development of a significant number of handicapped individuals as safe drivers. This has enabled these less fortunate persons to make a wonderful new life for themselves as productive citizens of the community."

Grand Prix Leads the Line of Sporty GM '69s

By The Associated Press

General Motors Corp. has put the emphasis on sporty lines in styling of its 1969 models, and right at the top of line is Pontiac's Grand Prix.

The following is a capsule summary of GM's offering this year.

GRAND PRIX — A lot of Pontiac's 1969 planning went into a new version of the Grand Prix Model J, which GM calls "the blue chip of the specific sports car field."

★ ★ ★

The car boasts the longest hood in the industry and will be available in only one body style — a hardtop coupe — on a 118-inch wheelbase (up two inches) and with an over-all length of 210.2 inches, down six inches from last year.

★ ★ ★

Innovations include a concealed radio antenna, which is a tiny wire .005 inches in diameter and fabricated through the windshield.

A wire at the lower end of the windshield connects the antenna to the radio. The basic engine is a 400-cubic-inch large valve V8 with floor-shift manual transmission and options up to a 428-cubic-inch job.

FIREBIRD — The wheelbase of this Pontiac personalized sporty car is unchanged but the over-all length has been upped three inches, to 191.1.

Exterior styling is highlighted by front-bumper extensions made of a new tough polymeric material which is body color.

★ ★ ★

Wider bucket seats and a new instrument panel are among interior features.

The split grille is compartmented and is integrated and protected by a new bumper.

TEMPEST — Built on two wheelbases—112 inches for two-door models and 116 for four-door models—the Tempest accentuates the long-hood, short-deck silhouette.

Tempest rear ends have a new appearance with a different arrangement of tail-light arrangements.

★ ★ ★

The standard engine is the 250-cubic inch overhead camshaft six. Tempest continues a Pontiac innovation of a portable air pump which runs off the car's engine for use in inflating tires in a hurry.

PONTIAC — A new split-bumper look complements Pontiac traditional split grille, new roof line and removal of vent windows from all Catalina, Executive and Bonneville models.

Catalina models are an inch longer over-all, while Bonneville is up half an inch and Executive models remain unchanged in length.

★ ★ ★

Moulded instrument panels of a sweeping one-piece design with heavy energy absorbing padding mark the 1969 Pontiac interiors.

BUICK — The major styling changes in the Buick line come in the LeSabre, Wildcat and Electra 225.

All-new bodies with sculptured sweep-lines mark the line. Side-window vents are eliminated and the cars given a new suspension. A new instrument panel cluster is one of the interior highlights.

★ ★ ★

Electra's wheelbase remains at 126 inches, Le Sabre's at 123 and Wildcat is down three inches to 123 as the car emphasizes the long-hood, short-deck motif. New bumpers, grilles and lamps mark all three cars.

BUICK SPECIAL — A new grille and a redesigned rear bumper are styling headlights of the Buick Special. The Buick Special deluxe has a 116-inch wheelbase and 204.7-inch over-all length, the same specifications as last year.

The Special Deluxe has a 250-cubic-inch six as standard power, with a 350-cubic-inch V8 as an option.

RIVIERA — The front appearance of the Riviera has been modified somewhat with a new grille and hood ornament, but the basic Riviera lines remain unchanged.

The car continues with a 119-inch wheelbase powered by Buick's 430-cubic-inch V8 engine with four-barrel carburetor. Side market lamps and new back-up lamps are added.

CHEVROLET — The big Chevrolet is the longest in the division's history—215.9 inches, an increase of 1.2 inches over last year.

The wheelbase remains unchanged at 119. The car has an all new body, one-piece loop-styled bumper, a new grille, full door-glass styling and rectangular taillights built into the bumper.

Interior dimensions are unchanged. Seven engine options range up to a 427-cubic-inch Turbo Jet V8.

CAMARO — The wheelbase remains unchanged at 108 inches, but the car's over-all length has been upped 1.4 inches to 186 and the width has been increased 1.7 inches to 74.

The car has a new grille, new sheet metal, new rear panel and bumper.

There is heavy emphasis on stripe and rally-group options which enable an owner to add his personal touch to the car's looks.

CORVAIR — The same three models reappear, with basic specifications unchanged.

A utilized body and curved side windows are among the car's features as are improved security for brake lines and fuel lines through new type clips.

CORVETTE — The '69 Vette is slightly longer and narrower this year.

Its new styling features include a black grille, concealed outside door handles, new tail-light and back-up lamp and a longer sloping hood with concealed windshield wipers.

CHEVELLE — Chevelle will continue to be built on two wheelbases—112 for coupes and convertibles and 116 for sedans.

★ ★ ★

The car has a new grille and restyled bumpers and taillights with considerable emphasis on new interior trim and instrument-cluster design.

The Chevelle line has seven engine options ranging up to a chambered dual exhaust system on the SS396 model.

NOVA — Formerly known as the Chevy II line, Nova's interior and exterior dimensions are virtually unchanged.

The car is available in two models, a coupe and sedan. Some use is made of additional body mouldings to dress up the car's appearance and the interior features new trim, instrument cluster and steering wheel design.

OLDSMOBILE — The Olds 98 is completely restyled, with a longer looking hood and rear deck and greater luggage capacity.

The wheelbase has been upped one inch to 127 and a new model, a luxury hardtop sedan, added. An option on the 98 is a divided front bench seat with independent controls for driver and passenger so they may select the seat position each desires.

★ ★ ★

In the '88 series, Oldsmobile has simplified its marketing setup by designating all of them as Delta 88s.

The Delta wheelbase has been upped an inch to 124 and the car makes use of chromed front-fender side louvers, exterior paint striping, a vinyl top as standard equipment and a new door ornamentation.

OLDS F85 — An all new three-speed automatic transmission combined with a lower axle ratio are the main engineering claims of the F85.

The grille is new and has cleaner lines; changes in the rear involve new ornamentation, tail lamps and bumper.

★ ★ ★

Interiors emphasize youthfulness and sportiness. The 4-4-2 high performance unit is an F85 option again.

TORONADO — The chopped off deck effect on the old Toronado is eliminated in the '69 Toronado which is 3½ inches longer, is clean tailored and has a new deck and rear quarters.

Use of a new wood-grain applique has made the car interior richer.

CADILLAC—Cadillac features a hood which is 2½ inches longer than last year but the basic dimensions of the car are unchanged.

An all new grille has horizontal dual head lamps which combine with new parking lamps to present a new front-end look.

★ ★ ★

The car has a new front bumper and vent windows have been eliminated. The car is powered by a 472-cubic-inch 375-horsepower engine and turba hydra-matic transmission are standard.

ELDORADO — The front-wheel-drive Eldorado features a newly-styled grille which extends to dual head lamps.

Stationary head lamps are part of the body design while a chrome bumper bar divides the grille.

★ ★ ★

Driver controls have been replaced so every instrument is within easy reach or sign of the driver, with groping at a minimum.

One unusual Cadillac safety feature is a built-in receptacle in the front seat below the center arm rest in which unused seat belts may be stored to eliminate the front seat clutter.

★ ★ ★

The Cadillac frame is 7½ inches longer even though the basic car specifications are unchanged.

Mobility Helps U.S. Gourmets

By The Associated Press

Each area of our nation has its specific foods: regional delicacies like southern fried chicken, northern lobster, western steak and eastern baked beans.

Included in this list, of course, must be the nationalized foods: Mexican tortillas in the Southwest and Polish sausages in the Northeast; Italian pizza everywhere.

★ ★ ★

But outside these known regions and ethnic delights, down in the small towns and villages where the pioneer spirit is still strong, these are other true American dishes.

You can find deep-fried ravioli with tomato sauce and grated cheese; steak wrapped about lobster tails; cheese and sauerkraut, or a Reuben sandwich filled with corned beef and cabbage.

VASTLY VARIED

You will find yourself served by waiters of vastly varied costumes and cultures: slender lasses in bikinis or heavy-set, cartoon-type-males wearing dirty undershirts; gaily-dressed Scandanavian waitresses or quiet dignity in evening gowns.

Whether you walk in, drive in, float in or fly in, your food may be served via model train cars, conveyor belts, overhead pulleys or miniature handcarts.

★ ★ ★

While eating, you can look down the inner body of an airplane, study the panels of a redesigned passenger train or feel the gentle tug of waves inside a converted boat.

And if that doesn't set your eyes looking, the names of some eating establishments may tickle your taste buds: there has always been a "Hamburger Haven" and the "Roll-In-Restaurant" but have you tried "Ted's Tender T-Bone Tidbits" in Utah or "Spike's Special Spaghetti" down in Georgia?

FRANCHISE FIRMS

This is not to overlook the franchise firms that sparkle the highways with their yellow arches or blinking dachshund eyes or 26-flavored ice-cream cone comes-ons.

More than 4.5 million vehicles in use today are 15 or more years old. More than half of these are motor trucks.

Grand Prix Is a Stylish Car

Only minor changes were made to the front appearance of the 1969 Grand Prix from the clay model shown top left to the finished prototype below. Pontiac stylists were looking at two different headlamp possibilities on the clay model.

The horizontal headlamps on the left were plain while the ones on the right are surrounded with square bezels, the final decision. Also noticeable is the absence of a regular mast radio antenna, long a sore point with automotive stylists who favor uncluttered lines. The Grand Prix antenna consists of two very thin wires concealed in the windshield.

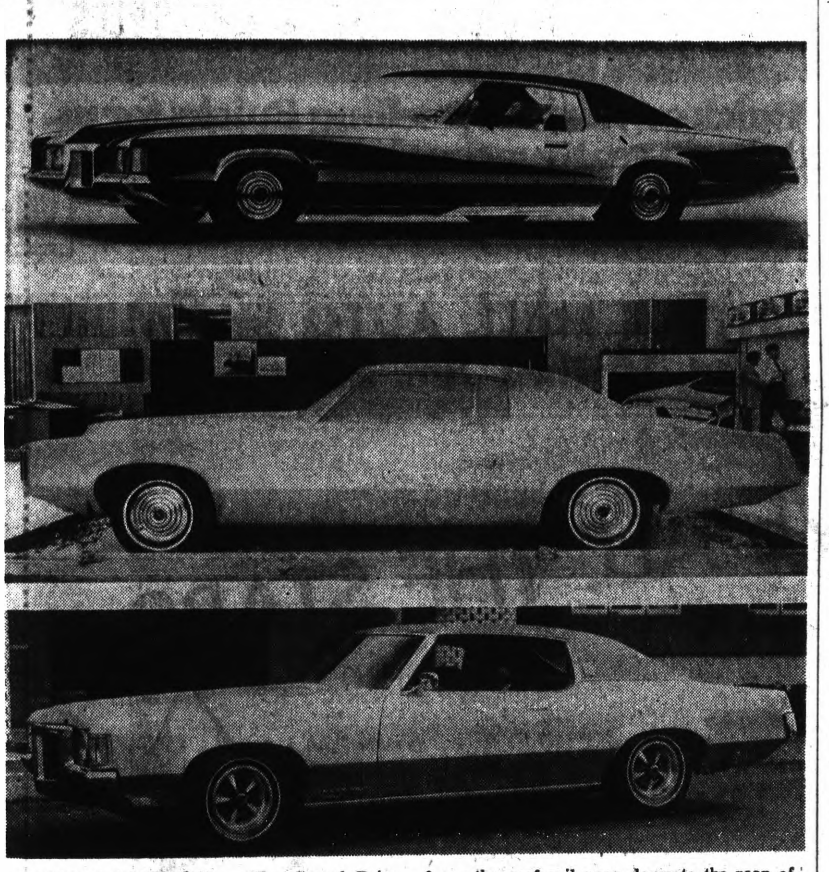
The large parking lamps also serve as side markers and extensions of the front fenders. The fine-lined aluminum grille is recessed within the bold peripheral bumper.

The early stages of the Grand Prix rear view (top right) show twin ventilation scoops near the back glass, removed from the production models (below). Also the GP initials on the rear deck were replaced by block letters spelling out Grand Prix.

The rear lights were made wider with the taillamps in a single, five-compartmented section the full width from the license plate to the outboard ends of the bumper. The fine lines in the rear glass of the production model are another Grand Prix feature, an electrically heated window defogger.

With the introduction of the new Grand Prix, Pontiac officials have predicted first year sales of some 120,000 units.

This would be a 400 per cent increase over the 30,000 sold last year.



START TO FINISH — The Grand Prix side view features uncluttered lines from sketch (top) to clay to metal (bottom). If the hood seems to be stretched out, it is. In fact, the Grand Prix now has the longest hood in the industry. In addition to removing the radio antenna, Pontiac stylists used flush outside door handles. Development changes noticeable in the three photographs include moving the Grand Prix nameplate from the roof sail area down to the rear of the front wheel housing. The large parking and side marker lamp replaced the two vertical openings as seen on the clay front fender. However, this theme did show up for rear side markers as evidenced by the three openings above the rear wraparound bumper on the production model. The Grand Prix has an exclusive body on an also exclusive 118-inch wheelbase.

Some Attention Now, but . . .

Exotic Motors Far Off

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — Exotic engines, some steam-powered, others electrically driven, got some attention this year but don't look for them in your autos for at least a decade.

Engineering circles in the auto industry are convinced the conventional gasoline piston engine is here to stay.

★ ★ ★

Electric-powered cars, which got a lot of headline attention in 1967, did not attract as much publicity in 1968, but the steam engine proponents took up the slack.

One reason behind the drive for steam or electric engines is that gasoline engines, despite recent improvements, still spew a lot of noxious fumes into the nation's already polluted air.

BIG PUSH

Supporters of exotic power plants are numerous and vocal. One estimate is that at least 200 small firms are experimenting with various types of steam engines for the autos of the future.

A Senate subcommittee has heard considerable testimony about the feasibility of steam powered autos. Ford Motor Co. objected to the complexity of the team engine as against the typical internal combustion engine; General Motors objected to the size, weight and bulk of the steam engine.

★ ★ ★

Ford told the senate it has teams working on the electric battery, gas turbines, steam engines and a stratified version of the internal combustion engine (ICE) — which would permit burning of a very lean mixture of fuel and air.

Advocates of steam powered autos were cheered in mid-August when General Motors retained Besler Development, Inc., an Oakland, Calif. engineering firm, to build and install an experimental steam power plant in a Chevrolet Chevell passenger car.

HISTORIC FIRM

The Besler firm has more than four decades of steam experience and the Besler steam car was considered by many to be the most advanced steam car built before steamers passed from the automotive scene in early 1900s.

William D. Thompson of San Diego, a former automotive engineer, is one of the leading advocates of steam powered engines which have no gears or transmissions and less than 15 moving parts in the powerplant.

★ ★ ★

He said American Motors, had shown some interest in his steam car.

Thompson currently plans to build three — small, medium and luxury prototypes. The luxury car will have a 136-inch wheelbase, weigh about 5,000 pounds and cost about $35,000.

"These cars will go only to enthusiasts — the kind of people who buy old classical cars for $15,000 or $20,000 and spend $10,000 to restore them," said Thompson.

There have been scores of versions of steam engine plants. The simplest was that of the Stanley Steamer automobile.

One of the most unusual steam cars was developed by a Sarasota, Fla. firm called Kinetics, Inc. Its basic power comes from Freon, an ordinary commercial refrigerant like the one that keeps your refrigerator going.

Freon boils at 75 degrees Fahrenheit and the Freon vapor, hermetically sealed closed cycle engine reportedly would work at temperatures ranging from 90 to 390 degrees F. The firm has experimented with a 350-horsepower engine mounted in a Volkswagen bus.

COSTLY ADVANTAGES

Walter Wallace L. Minto of the Florida firm said he plans to market the Freon-powered car in the $20,000 to $25,000 range next year. He predicted it would accelerate from 0 to 60 in less than six seconds and would be quieter than a Rolls Royce.

General Motors, for its part, reported it had made some progress in developing a high performance battery for electric vehicles.

GM said it had been at work on a lithium-chlorine molten salt battery since 1964, Thompson Bradley, a GM research engineer, said the experimental cells had been operated in the laboratory for over 2,000 hours. He warned that even though some progress had been made in the laboratory, "our end goal, a power plant which is competitive in vehicular application, is still a long way down the road."

'Mustang Market' Is Slipping

DETROIT (AP) — One of the big questions in the auto business is whether a cool-off in the car buyers' romance with Mustang-type cars is just temporary.

These sporty, compact autos, featuring the now familiar long hood and short deck, caught on in a hurry when Ford's Mustang galloped onto the scene three years ago.

★ ★ ★

Since then the field has become pretty well packed with Chevrolet's Camaro, Plymouth's Barracuda, American Motors' Javelin and Pontiac's Firebird among the dozen entries.

Mustang sales zoomed to nearly 550,000 in 1966 but dropped to 380,000 in 1967 as Camaro and the others joined the race, and then in 1968 started to slip further.

LOTS OF REASONS

The 1969 model Mustangs may of course change the picture.

A lot of reasons were given for the slack-off.

★ ★ ★

One was that a lot of young people who bought them two or three years ago are now married and in the market for intermediate-sized cars with more room for everything from babies to groceries.

Another is that over 500,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam represent a real big chunk of potential buying power which would show a lot of interest in the so-called Mustang market if the GIs could look through auto catalogs instead of along rifle barrels.

ON TARGET

Auto company marketing experts — the fellows whose job it is to anticipate customer buying trends a year or two ahead of time — were right on target in the 1968 run when they figured intermediate cars were going to get the big play, rather than the Mustang type or other compacts.

★ ★ ★

Most of the attention was concentrated on the middle-of-the-line offerings in styling, engineering, advertising and promotion, and the effort paid off as the intermediates grabbed about 25 per cent of the market, the biggest slice they ever had.

The intermediate market was well populated with 26 models, ranging from the Fairlane, Chevelle, Belvedere I, Rambler Rebel, to the Fairlane GT, Le Mans, Skylark, Cutlass and Chevelle SST.

★ ★ ★

Customers spent more for their intermediates, both in the basic car and in outfitting them.

★ ★ ★

This time around, marketing experts have figured that the big buying push is going to come in the big cars, and that is where the bulk of the money was spent in readying the 1969 line for the marketplace.

★ ★ ★

The reasoning remains the same — that times are good, people have big-car tastes and pocketbooks to back them up.

Five states — California, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas — have 35 per cent of all registered passenger cars in the United States. California alone has more than nine million or 11 per cent of the total.

Tire Revolution Is Unending

By BLOYS BRITT

Charlotte, N.C. (AP) — A tire revolution has been going on in the world of auto racing in the past 10 years.

It not only has transformed racing tires, but more important, the data learned from the in-fighting between the major tire firms at the tracks has spilled into the equally competitive passenger tire production. And the family car owner stands to gain.

In the late 1950s, when racing's new surge of popularity began, tires for race cars were not much different in appearance from the tires used on passenger cars of the period.

But take a look at the racing rubber of today. How would you like to bolt a 16-inch-wide tire onto your current copy of the pride of Detroit?

The barrellike width of the modern breed is only one of many changes which have taken place in racing tires in the last decade, says Larry Truesdale, general manager of racing for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

As a matter of fact, about the only thing that hasn't changed is the air inside the tire — and in some racing setups, even this is now carried in two separate compartments.

The two-compartment tire for racing was developed for use on cars racing on NASCAR's superspeedways in the South, where numerous deaths and injuries gradually had exploited the dangers of racing.

The inner liner tire is now mandatory for all superspeedway races.

TUBELESS DEVELOPED

But while Goodyear was developing the inner tire for NASCAR, it also came up with a tubeless tire for Indianapolis-type race cars.

Why an inner liner for one tire and a tubeless operation for another, when both tires are raced at speeds approaching 200 miles per hour on similar tracks?

★ ★ ★

"It's a matter of weight and performance requirements. The weight of a tire and wheel assembly is not too important for a stock car that may have a total weight of 4,000 pounds.

But the additional weight of an inner liner hanging on the slim suspension of a 1,350-pound Indy car could create problems within a few miles at racing speed."

Also, the heavy stock car hurtling into a turn on a superspeedway at 190 miles per hour would be in serious truble if a tire were damaged.

This is the reason NASCAR drivers are unanimous in agreeing the inner liner is one of the greatest safety innovations introduced to their sport in many years.

GOOD INSURANCE

On the other hand, Truesdale says, the light, highly agile Indy cars are more controlable in the event of tire trouble.

"Yet, in spite of the many differences, all race tires are the same in many respects," according to Truesdale.

"They all have the same prime requirements—adhesion, heat resistance, traction, wearing ability and a huge safety factor. The design of any race tire, and similarly the passenger car tire, is necessarily a compromise of all of these requirements with the exception of safety, which is always the first consideration of any tire for competition or for highway use."

★ ★ ★

This, says Truesdale, is where skills in rubber compounding, tread design and construction are so important.

The wear factor is of vital importance from the "win or don't win" standpoint, tire engineers say, because an extra pit stop to change a tire could make a difference in the outcome of a race. The other factors are considerations in how well a tire will perform.

Tread pattern and design are the principal controling factors in the heat buildup in a racing tire, says Truesdale. The tread pattern must be tight for adhesion, but open enough to permit cooling air circulation.

The rubber must also be as thin as possible to prevent heat buildup, and this is the main reason racing tires are not suitable for street use.

"At the same time, though," Truesdale said, "we learn much from racing tire development which can be valuable to the development of better tires for passenger cars.

★ ★ ★

"For example, the use of belts under the tread of racing tires led to the development of the new Polyglas tires, which have bias-ply polyester cord body construction with fiberglass cord belts under the tread.

"Belts in a racing tire help keep the tread flat against the track for maximum traction and longer tread life. This benefit has also now been incorporated into passenger tires through new technology developed in racing."

TIRING COMPETITION

Tire development has become a highly competitive area at the nation's racetracks, and there is constant pressure to design a tire better than the other fellow's, Truesdale says. A good many factors have to be considerd.

So, the next time you watch an auto race and notice a little wisp of blue smoke coming from the right rear tire as your favorite driver roars through a turn, you will know three things are happening:

★ ★ ★

The driver is on the ragged edge of losing control of his car, the compound of the tire has reached the melting point, and somewhere in the pit a tire designer is getting a few more gray hairs.

California and New York continued as the biggest passenger car markets in 1967. New Cars registered in these states amounted to 19 per cent of total U.S. automobile registrations.

TWO IN ONE — This big race tire being used this year on the championship car circuit is wider than two corresponding passenger car tires. The racing tire has a tread width of about 16 inches, compared with 6.7 inches for the wide tread passenger tire.

How to Turn Family Car Into Racing Machine

By H. PAUL BRUNS
Chrysler Corp. Engineering
Written for the Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — The inevitable question asked about a sporty or racy looking car is, "How fast will it go?"

But we who engineer cars for racing events must also know "How long will it go?" and "How safely will it go?" when we are trying to get a winner.

★ ★ ★

Let's look at these three factors and see how we can convert the family "stocker" into a drag or circuit racing vehicle.

Since the manufacturers are spending considerable money in their performance programs, this may give you some indication of where the money goes.

OBVIOUS WAY

First, let's consider the question of speed. The obvious way to make a car go faster is to increase the engine horsepower.

Within the framework of racing rules, this is accomplished, generally, by improving the volumetric efficiency of the base engine.

★ ★ ★

We can boost the charge density and volume by increasing valve and port sizes, improving airflow through the intake system by proper tuning and by developing a value gear that can operate at very high speed.

★ ★ ★

A conventional engine design, such as a 426-cubic-inch wedge engine, reaches peak horsepower at about 4400 rpm and then begins to lose horsepower with increased speed.

HEMI ENGINE

The hemi engine which powers our drag and circuit race cars continues, on the other hand, to climb in horsepower with increasing engine speed and is still climbing at the 6,000 rpm point.

Properly tuned, exhaust headers also contribute greatly to the engine's ability to make more horsepower.

★ ★ ★

As the speeds in racing climb higher each year, the aerodynamic characteristics of the car play an ever-increasing role.

For example, top qualifiers in the most recent Daytona "500" ran in the 184-189 m.p.h. range. At these speeds, seven horsepower are required to make the car go one m.p.h. faster in the straightaways and about 25 horsepower in the curves.

In order to reduce these horsepower requirements, we have to reduce the aerodynamic drag of the race car.

CAR HANDLING

The wind tunnel helps us understand aerodynamic problems before production cars are built and also tells us the best body style to use for racing.

★ ★ ★

Car attitude and the application of suitable "spoilers" also help the aerodynamic and handling characteristics of the car

You will better understand the aerodynamic importance of race cars when it is pointed out that most of the horsepower available from the engine is used up by air resistance on the track, as it is in your car on the road.

The ability of a race car to negotiate turns rapidly or get a good straight run on the drag strip is associated with the broad category called "car handling."

PRECISE CONTROL

Here we endeavor to select chassis components which will make the car "stick like glue" and also give the driver the feeling that he has precise control of his car. We spend considerable time with the tire companies testing the latest tire designs and compounds.

Race suspensions must remain stable irrespective of track roughness or irregularities. The steering system must give the driver a feeling of precision.

★ ★ ★

Now, the question "how long will it go?"

The durability requirements of a race car are dictated by the kind of racing in which the car will engage. On the quarter-mile drag strip, a nitro burning fueler, for example, races for only about seven seconds and the engine turns only a little over 800 revolutions.

EXTREMELY HIGH

But since this engine delivers in the neighborhood of from 200 to 1500 horsepower, the loading of the parts is extremely high and we would expect only a few runs before the engine needs overhaul.

★ ★ ★

Stock class drag cars, on the other hand, should be able to race almost the whole season before any major engine work is required.

The hemi engines used on the NASCAR and USAC stock car racing circuits must be capable of running full bore — at about 550 to 600 horsepower — for over 600 miles.

These various engine requirements are considered by our engine designers and metallurgists who leave no stone unturned in assuring that each part of the engine is carefully screened for durability characteristics exceeding those required to run the race.

Stress analysis techniques are employed to assure optimum usage of the materials in the race engines. Possible cracks or failure points are checked after the races with magnaflux or magnaglo equipment.

CRITICAL POINT

Another critical point in "how long will it go" is the car's suspension system. Suspension loadings of several "G's" in magnitude require springs having rates seven or eight times over our passenger cars.

Extremely stiff sway bars are also used on circuit race cars to offset the extreme roll couple.

★ ★ ★

How safely will it go?

The rules committees of stock car racing associations have wisely permitted certain modifications to stock production cars in the interests of safety.

Wheels and suspension components, brakes and steering system are generally oversized or reinforced to withstand the severe loads and forces involved.

Driver protection is accomplished by the installation of a square roll cage and roll bars. This cage, coupled with the conventional crash helmet and shoulder harness, is the reason most stock car drivers walk away from rather severe crashes.

Tire safety has improved markedly in the past few years since NASCAR and USAC made the inner liner tire mandatory on high-speed ovals.

★ ★ ★

Fire safety has also taken a big step forward in these circuits.

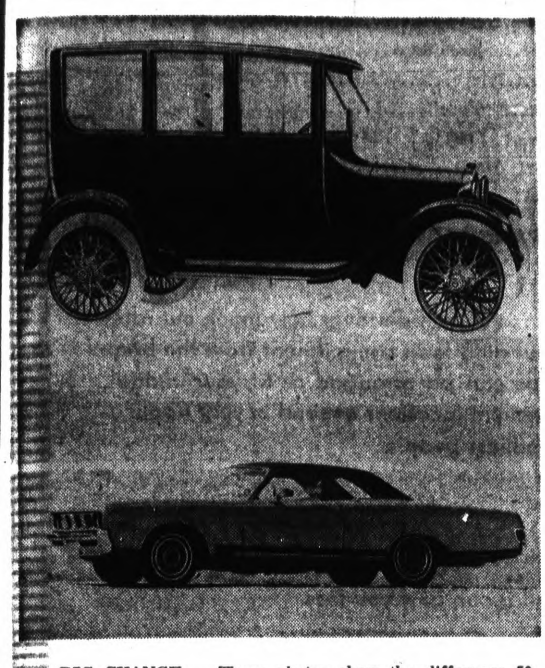
Cars are required to have rubber fuel cells, and to avoid fuel spillage in an upset the fuel lines and fuel vents must have check valves.

★ ★ ★

The things I've mentioned, along with many others, are considered in our own engineering programs to make the family stocker into something which can run fast enough to win, last long enough to win and bring the driver into the winner's circle safely.

★ ★ ★

Many of the things we've learned from auto racing have been showing up in the design of the family vehicle during the last few years and are continuing to be an integral part of our efforts to build a safer family car.



BIG CHANGE — These photos show the difference 50 years of automotive design have made between the 1919 Dodge Brothers Four (top) and the 1969 Dodge Polara 500. The older model sported three doors, two on the rightside, and a wheelbase of 114 inches. The current model is a two-door hardtop and a 122-inch wheelbase. The 1919 had 35 horsepower and genuine mohair velvet upholstery. Polara 500 has 290 horsepower and vinyl upholstery. Both cars have 12-volt electrical systems.

Big Figures Tell Roll of U.S. Vehicles

The nation's motor vehicle industry produced 10.9 million passenger cars and commercial vehicles during the 1968 calendar year. The total includes 8.9 million cars and nearly 2 million trucks and buses.

The industry has offered 359 models for the 1968 model year, excluding the many engine and performance options available.

★ ★ ★

Enthusiastic response of the public to the new models gives promise that 1969 will be a highly successful model year.

During the past year ownership and use of motor vehicles established an all-time high.

100 MILLION REGISTERED

At the end of 1968, motor vehicles registered in the United States were nearing the 100 million total.

Automobile registrations increased by more than 2 million over 1967, pushing the total to 82.2 million. Trucks and buses make up the additional 17.1 million registrations.

★ ★ ★

The number of U. S. households owning automobiles numbers 46 million, or four of every five. Fifteen million households own more than one.

The number of licensed drivers in the nation reached a new high of 105.7 million — an increase of more than 21 million in the past 10 years. Four of five adults are licensed to drive.

ONE TRILLION MILES

Further evidence the nation is expanding its reliance on cars, trucks and buses and the highway transportation system is reflected by the more than one trillion miles driven by U. S. motorists in 1968.

Americans now drive their vehicles an average of 10,000 miles per year, and in 1968 used 81 billion gallons of fuel for highway purposes.

★ ★ ★

Motor vehicle owners paid 14.2 billion in special state and federal highway user taxes during the year. One-third of the total was paid by trucks.

About 16.3 billion was spent on roads and streets in the U. S. in 1968. Receipts for highways hit a record of 17.8 billion, including bond issues.

OPEN TO TRAFFIC

Over 26,500 miles of the 41,000-mile Interstate Highway System, authorized by the Federal Highway Act of 1956, are open to traffic with an additional 6,043 miles under construction.

★ ★ ★

The Interstate system is financed entirely by taxes on motorists. Since 1956, $34 billion of highway-user taxes have been spent through the Federal Highway Trust Fund for construction of this vast road network.

★ ★ ★

The companies that produce the nation's cars, trucks and buses are the center of a huge network consisting of more than 800,000 businesses.

These enterprises are involved in the manufacture, sales, service and use of motor vehicles. They employ more than 14 million workers and indirectly account for the employment of millions of others.

★ ★ ★

Metal manufacturers are large suppliers to the motor vehicle industry. The industry purchases 20 per cent of all U. S.-produced steel, 51 per cent of the lead and 35 per cent of the zinc.

In addition, the motor vehicle industry consumes 62 per cent of the synthetic rubber manufactured.

A survey taken by the Bureau of the Census shows that in the peak travel months of July, August and September, 167 million travelers from 55 per cent of the nation's households took trips. Of these jaunts, 86 per cent involved the use of the auto.

Minicars Face U.S. Challenge

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — Minicars are getting almost as much attention as miniskirts in automotive circles these days.

It has come about because a parade of small imported cars, led by Volkswagen, has attracted an increasing amount of attention from U. S. car buyers.

★ ★ ★

American auto companies watched the import sales for several years with a sort of wait-a-while-and-they-will-go-away attitude.

It has become evident, however, that the car buyers' love affair with VW, Fiat, Volvo, MG, Renault and a host of other small imports is not cooling off.

FOREIGN INVASION

One of the standard questions at practically every automotive news conference in the past three or four years has been, "What are you going to do about the other imports. . . ?"

The usual answer was that the cost of tooling up an American automobile to build a minicar or subcompact would be so high that it would be unprofitable.

★ ★ ★

Ford traditionally pointed out that it its English Ford is available in the U. S. market for those who desire a car smaller and less expensive than the U. S. compacts.

General Motors says the same of its Opel and Chrysler of its Simca and Roote products.

★ ★ ★

The simple fact, is, however, that VW is still dominating an ever growing import market and the U. S. firms are moving now to meet the German's car penetration of the market.

FORD CAME CLOSE

Ford came close to introducting a subcompact back in 1962. It even had the name "Cardinal" all picked out for the line when Henry Ford II changed his mind at the last moment and vetoed the project.

Since then various U. S. auto companies have flirted with the subcompact idea.

★ ★ ★

Ford is working now on a subcompact car project which has the code name Delta. It involves a 2-door sedan with a 103-inch wheelbase, compared with VW's 97 inches.

The Delta reportedly is longer, lower and 400 pounds heavier than VW but will be a challenger aimed directly at it.

PLANNING STAGE

American Motors also is reported to have a subcompact in the planning stage, as does GM.

Details of the cars have been kept secret but word has leaked out that their dimensions will be much like those of Ford's Delta, with GM's perhaps a bit smaller.

★ ★ ★

Chrysler reportedly is considering a minicar which might be built in a Canadian plant but no final decision has been made, informants said.

It's a virtual certainty, however, that next year's car buyer will have a choice of several U. S.-built minicars.

Motor Vehicles Near 100 Million Registered in U.S.

The number of registered motor vehicles in the United States reached nearly 100 million in 1968, according to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The nation's 99,958,000 registrations represents an increase of 3.1 per cent or three million more vehicles than in 1967.

★ ★ ★

Truck and bus registrations are estimated at 17,137,000 — an increase of about four per cent over last year's total of 16,530,696. Passenger cars total approximately 82,821,000 or 3.0 per cent more than 1967's total of 80,414,180.

Since 1958 the nation's motor vehicle population has increased 40 per cent.

★ ★ ★

California leads the nation in total vehicle registrations with 11,215,000. Vermont in 1968 showed the largest percentage increase in vehicle registrations, an estimated 5.1 per cent.

'68 Model Year Is Third Largest for Car Industry

DETROIT (AP) — The 1968 auto model year went into the record book as the third largest in industry history — topped only by the 1965 and 1966 model years.

★ ★ ★

Preliminary figures showed that 8,405,940 of the '68s were built, about 9.7 per cent ahead of the 7,664,440 built in the 1967 model run.

★ ★ ★

The industry record was the 8,849,032 cars built in the 1965 model year with 1966's model year accounting for runner-up spot with 8,611,776 cars.

Ladies—Do Your Thing!

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMS
AP Newsfeatures

Lady drivers: don't try to imitate the men! The best thing you have going for you is your feminine intuition!

That's the advice of Mrs. Lucille Treganowan, a comely mother of three who is also an expert mechanic. A partner in a Pittsburgh, Pa., garage, Mrs. Treganowan initiated a course, "Powder Puff Mechanics" which has been televised, to teach women the fundamentals of automobile repair and maintenance.

★ ★ ★

"In the classes I teach," she says, "I tell the gals to use common sense. Many times a husband will say, "Nothing's wrong. 'You're imagining it' to a wife who complains that something just doesn't seem right even though the car appears to check out."

If that happens, she says, a woman shouldn't be afraid or embarrassed to follow her intuition. "If you drive the car every day, no one's going to laugh if you drive into a garage and say, 'The thingamajig doesn't sound right.' "

CAUTION PAYS

What is important is how the repairman answers you.

Make sure the serviceman checks before he says you need a new anything, she advises. For example, if your battery goes dead, be very leery if he recommends a new generator without checking your car thoroughly.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Treganowan cautions women in particular to beware of bait advertising and low, low estimates. "Good mechanics are hard to find and labor is high for dismantling and reassembling major parts," she notes.

"If it doesn't seem possible that a particular job can be done that cheaply, it probably can't and you may end up paying much more because of not mentioned 'extras.'

"And always insist on an itemized bill and ask to see any part that was replaced."

Before you pull into any old service station, she says, check its physical appearance. "No garage can be immaculate but it should be neat and clean. And once you find a reliable garage — stick to it."

Twelve years ago Mrs. Treganowan didn't know "anything" about auto. While taking night courses toward a degree in English at the University of Pittsburgh, she applied for a part-time job as a bookkeeper in a garage.

Her love affair with engines began shortly thereafter.

Mrs. Treganowan is surprised that most women, even those who have a car of their own, know nothing more about it than how to drive it. "And day to day maintenance is so important."

Here are her basic tips on how to keep your car in good running order:

Change of oil is definitely on a time element. Oil should be changed every 60 days. This especially true for women who act as the family chauffeur because oil breaks down much faster on short hauls.

The engine oil should be changed every four months and a car should get a chassis lubrication every 60 days.

Many automatic transmission failures are due to failure to change the transmission fluid.

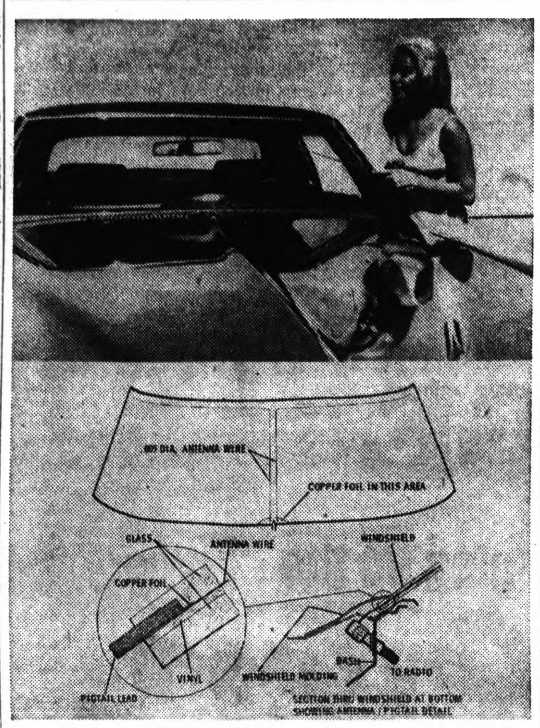
Actually she estimates that this accounts for 75 per cent of all automatic transmission breakdowns. In most cases, the fluid should be changed every 12,000 miles.

CLEANED BEARINGS

Most women are unaware that their cars have front wheel bearings. These bearings should be cleaned and repacked about once a year or before going on a long trip.

And if you notice any strange noises, a change in the feel of the brake pedal or see any excessive oil leakage anywhere under your car, it's a sure sign that your car needs to be checked by a competent mechanic.

On the average, the shortest passenger car trips are the 3.8-mile one way journeys for shopping purposes. At the other extreme, vacation trips average 296 miles one-way.



HIDDEN ANTENNA — Standard on Pontiac Grand Prix models this year is a hidden radio antenna. Using a regular mast radio antenna as a pointer, Vickie Hurley points to where the new antenna is concealed in the windshield. As shown in the diagram, the new antenna consists of two lengths of .005-inch-diameter wire sandwiched between two layers of laminated safety glass.

Study Advises Seat Belt Use

8,000 Lives Yearly Said to Be at Stake

Universal use of seat belts when traveling in motor vehicles could save 8,000 lives a year in the United States according to a recent study by the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory.

The Cornell study also showed that belted occupants are injured far less frequently and far less severely than nonbelted occupants.

★ ★ ★

Part of this saving from death and injury results because belts all but eliminat ejection from the vehicle — the single, surest route to death or injury.

In roll-over accidents, belts also reduce the amount of buffeting about to which drivers and passengers are subjected.

BELTS HOLD BODY

Traffic accident injuries to the thorax, the body above the hips, could be cut 30 per cent by proper seat-belt use because it prevents the body from being launched like a projectile after the initial collision of the vehicle.

Properly worn, the belts prevent most accident victims from contact with the windshield, sharply reducing lacerating injuries from the head striking and breaking the glass.

The 15-year-old Cornell Automotive Crash Injury program receives major support from the Automobile Manufacturers Association as part of a continuing program of industry-sponsored research.

Control Eyed for Junk Yards

LANSING (UPI) — Proposed rules and regulations for administration of the Michigan Junkyard Control Act of 1966 will be considered at a Jan. 23 public hearing conducted by the State Highway Department.

The session will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the new highway department auditorium in Lansing.

The Junkyard Control Act regulates and restricts the establishment of junk yards in areas adjacent to interstate and primary highways.

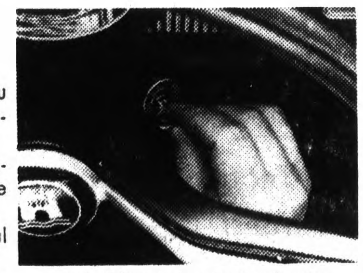
Introducing the 1969 Volkswagens.

They're harder to take than ever.



Once upon a time, you couldn't give away a Volkswagen.

But with all the improvements we've made over the years, things have changed.

Now people actually steal them.

To help stop this, we're putting a new ignition/steering wheel lock in every 1969 VW.

When you shut off the ignition and remove the key, it locks the front wheels in position.

So if someone ever breaks in and jumps the wires, he'll probably wind up just going in circles.

He may even end up going straight.

Of course, this isn't our only improvement for '69.

There are 28 others.

Including an optional fully-automatic transmission for the Fastback and Squareback.

(The bug and Ghia have our optional automatic stick shift. Which we introduced earlier this year.)

Whichever VW suits you best, the best way to see all its changes is with a test drive.

Because, as usual, most of our improvements aren't on the outside where you can look at them.

They're deep down inside.

Where they make new VWs run better.

And where they don't make old VWs look obsolete.

Car Industry Is Catering to Women

The relationship between petticoats and passenger cars has come a long way since the early days of the automobile.

A woman's influence then was limited largely to complaining about the dust, mud, noise and innumerable other nuisances that were a part of the rides Father conducted on a Sunday afternoon.

★ ★ ★

For the most part the ladies were content to remain in the passenger seat, but they soon suggested it be more tailored to their needs.

The car interior gradually became a woman's mobile parlor. Better upholstery and springs aided riding comfort. Window shades and curtains were added, and in some models even flowerpots and vases.

SIGNIFICANT INVENTION

The invention of the electric self-starter removed the need to hand crank the engine.

This perhaps did more than any other single thing to move women into the driver's seat and expand their influence from interior design to other areas of the automobile.

★ ★ ★

Today more than 42 per cent of the nation's 106 million licensed drivers are women, and auto manufacturers are paying close attention to their wishes in designing each year's new models.

As both passengers and drivers, women constantly challenge the skills of automotive engineers and designers. Since styling lines, colors, interior fabrics and trim features have long felt the woman's touch, her influence is now showing up in other areas of the automobile.

KEY QUALITIES

A woman automotive executive, whose assignment is to determine the marketing preferences of women, lists safety, dependability and maneuverability as the three most important qualities a woman looks for in an automobile today.

The trend toward power assists such as power steering and brakes, automatic transmissions, electric seat adjusters and air conditioning has been given a big push in acceptance because of women.

★ ★ ★

Electrical door locks with a central locking system available only to the driver are popular safety features to women with children.

JAUNTY JAVELIN — Black hood scoops are a new feature included in the optional "Go" packages available on American Motors' 1969 Javelin. The twin hood scoops run nearly the full length of the hood and provide the Javelin with an added look of performance. The "Go" packages also feature a choice of 343- or 390-cubic-inch four-barrel V8s, dual exhaust system, disc brakes, E-70x14 red-line, fiber glass-belted, wide-profile tires, 6-inch rim width wheels and a handling package.

Vehicle Control System Studied

AP Newsfeatures

As a forerunner to automatic highways the Ford Motor Co. is beginning studies into two electronic vehicle control systems.

The programs, called "Automatic Headway Control" and "Minigap" are intended to result in fully automatic car-roadway controls.

★ ★ ★

The "Automatic Headway Control" is essentially a computerized brake and throttle control unit operating much like the conventional speed-control device.

The difference however, is that the approach of an AHC car behind another will set in motion, via an optical beam reflected back to an electronic processer, signals which change the accelerator and brake settings to maintain a safe following distance.

★ ★ ★

If another car dodges in between the two vehicles, the AHC car will be braked until the new safe distance is established. Thus drivers would be relieved of making decisions on stopping or slowing; they would merely have to steer.

ELECTRONIC LINK

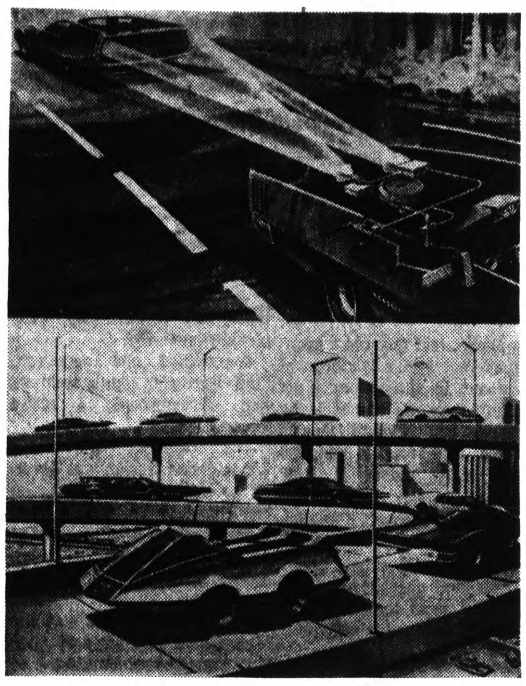
The second experimental system, "Minigap," would provide an electronic link between cars traveling together in convoys to alleviate congestion.

★ ★ ★

Such "trains" of cars, directed by lead vehicles would free the driver of any operating chores. Each auto would run on its own power, yet an automatic steering system would be in charge.

★ ★ ★

Both systems would permit the mixing of such vehicles into today's traffic with or without the system.



ELECTRONIC CONTROL CONCEPTS — Farsighted ideas in electronics range from automatic headway control (top), with invisible beams automatically insuring preset safe following distances, to Minigap (bottom) in which cars are linked together by invisible beams into highway caravans that follow "leader" vehicles. Camputers inside the cars would take over control of brakes, accelerators, and steering from motorists, who would be freed from driving as long as they were hooked up. Ford research engineers are trying out these ideas.

Trucks represent 16 per cent of the total vehicles registered in the United States and pay 33 per cent of the total special motor vehicle taxes.

Motor trucks and buses make up eight per cent of toll road traffic and pay 27 per cent of toll charges.

Volkswagen leaps into the present.

With a fully automatic transmission.

If you bet a friend we never would, we almost didn't.

10 years ago the decision was made. To design a fully automatic transmission. The kind you put in drive and forget.

Our aim was to make things easy, but for us changes aren't easy to make.

Especially in this case. There were certain things we just didn't want to lose.

Like horsepower, and our reputation for being economical.

What we've ended up with is a 3-speed automatic transmission that's pure Volkswagen—designed from scratch to get the most out of the VW with the least expenditure of effort.

It has the fewest moving parts.

It's the lightest per horsepower output. And it's incredibly sensitive. (A model airplane engine is powerful enough to turn it.)

So come see how far Volkswagen has come.

The Squareback and Fastback. Both have disk brakes, an electronically controlled fuel injection system, and now, a fully automatic transmission.

If you're interested, it's available as an option on our '69 models.

If you're not interested, we sure went to a lot of trouble for nothing.

Chrysler Cars Have Wraparound Bumpers

By The Associated Press

Chrysler Corp. has come up with a bevy of new features for its 1969 models, including wraparound bumpers. The following is a summary of the model changes for 1969 in the Chrysler line.

CHRYSLER — The big Chryslers have undergone radical changes for 1969, with five inches added to the new over-all length of 224.7 inches. Rear-seat leg room is up three inches over last year and in both front and rear seats, shoulder room has been increased three inches.

Styling changes include a big wraparound bumper, concealed windshield wipers and elimination of vent windows.

★ ★ ★

Side glass on all models is curved gently to stress the airplaine like contour. On the Town & Country line, an air deflector is integrated into the rear of the roof line to deflect a constant stream of air over the rear window and prevent dust and water from accumulating on the window.

IMPERIAL — The wheelbase of this top of the line offering of Chrysler Corp. remains at 127 inches but the over-all length has been raised five inches, to 229.7 inches.

A 440-cu. inch V8 is standard and engineering improvements include automatic brake adjustors, fiber glass belted tires and a transistorized voltage regulator.

Headlamps are concealed behind shutters which serve as part of the grill texture.

DODGE DART — A new two-door hardtop, called the Swinger and aimed directly at young car buyers, highlights the Dart line for 1969.

★ ★ ★

A special bright red color and a distinctive "Swinger" bumblebee stripe mark the car. Nine body styles, one more than in 1968, are available in the Dodge compact line with engine choices ranging from a 170-cu. inch Slat Six to a 340-cu. inch job. Basic specifications of the line are unchanged.

DODGE CORONET — A new grille and taillight treatment mark the five series of the Coronet, Dodge's entry in the intermediate field.

An automatic brake adjuster, larger tires and automatic speed control device are among items the buyers may select. The performance-attuned Super Bee, introduced last spring, is available in both a coupe and two-door hardtop in the '69 run.

★ ★ ★

The package size remains basically the same in 1969 — 117 inch wheelbase, 207 inch over-all length and over-all width of 76.7 inches.

DODGE POLARA and MONACO — The wheelbase remains at 122 inches but the over-all length is up an inch, to 220 and car width is down about an inch to 79.3 inches.

PLYMOUTH FURY — This entry in the standard-size car field is longer (1.5 inches), wider (almost two inches) and has an inch longer wheelbase (120) than the 1968 models.

The emphasis has been on aerodynamic styling with a new windshield shape, greater side glass curvature and front and rear bumpers which, combined with a new front grille, give the car a longer, leaner look.

PLYMOUTH BELVEDERE — Two new models, a Road Runner convertible and a four-door Sports Satellite sedan, have been added to Plymouth's intermediate line.

No one has tampered with car's basic specifications. The big change is in the number of new optional items — new seats, new axles, new colors and new performance equipment.

★ ★ ★

A warning buzzer is offered to alert drivers when the car is parked with the headlights on. The V8 318-cu. inch engine is standard on the Belvedere, Satellite and Sports Satellite with options up to the 383, two and four barrel.

PLYMOUTH VALIANT — Basic specifications of the Valiant, the Plymouth compact, are unchanged. Styling changes include new taillights and a modification of the car's concave rear-window design.

Optional items include body side moldings and deluxe trim inside, and fiberglass-belted tires.

PLYMOUTH BARRACUDA — The overall length and wheelbase of Plymouth's sports specialty cars are unchanged this year.

A performance series, called the 'Cuda 340, has been added to the lineup. It has a 340-cu. inch engine as standard, an option of a 383-cu. inch power plant; four speed transmission, bucket seats and sports suspension.

★ ★ ★

The lines of the '69 Barracuda hood have been kept clean and it has a new grille and rear deck treatment.

Both cars accentuate the aerodynamic theme in styling and the driver-oriented cockpit interior treatment. The rear deck is shortened slightly.

Hidden windshield wipers and ventless windows are among the innovations.

An industry exclusive is the Super-Lite, a high-powered 40,000 candlepower light which bridges the gap between high and low beams and reportedly does not cause excessive glare to oncoming drivers.

★ ★ ★

The Super-Lite is like a third headlight positioned in the middle of the grille and controlled by the drive. It gives additional visibility on freeways and other roads.

CHARGER — Charger, Dodge's family-size sports car, has about the same proportions as the 1968 car but features new grille and tail light treatment which bolster its sporty car image.

Interior refinements include a plush leather interior called Special Edition.

10.2 Million in '68

U.S. motor vechile production in the 1968 model year approximated 10.2 million units. Manufacturers turned out 8.4 million passenger cars and 1.8 million commercial vehicles.

Motor vehicle travel in 1968 was one trillion miles, nearly double what it was 15 years ago.

Rust Is Enemy of Car Makers

Many Steps Taken to Fight Its Ravages

Rust is one of the greatest enemies of motor vehicle bodies, and manufacturers continue to find new methods of combatting this formidable foe.

The battle, as typified by one company's procedures, begins when the body steel arrives at the stamping plant. It is first subjected to a scrubbing operation with heavy-duty rotary brushes that removes rolling-mill oil and incidental dirt.

The cleaned steel is coated with a soap-type drawing compound, which makes the metal slide through the stamping process easier, and then oven-dried.

After body panels have been formed and the drawing compound washed away, inside surfaces of fender peaks, corner ends of adjoining panels and similar vulnerable areas are coated with zinc-rich paint.

After assembly, the body is dipped into a hot alkaline cleaner while the upper part is covered by high-pressure sprays to make sure no part is missed. Next the body is dip-sprayed twice in separate rinses.

Now the entire body is phosphatized. The phosphate solution reacts with the metal to form a nonmetallic rust-inhibiting coat that provides an excellent base for the primers and enamels to follow.

It is applied in two stages — first by spray, then by dip-and-spray. The first spray helps finish coats adhere better to galvanized surfaces. Again the body is oven-dried.

While still warm, the body is dipped into a water-reducible primer to make certain all interior surfaces are coated.

★ ★ ★

This primer is washed off the the exterior so no trace of an immersion line will show through finish coatings, and the body is oven-dried.

Two more primer coats are sprayed on. The first is a red primer that fills all minor surface imperfections and dries to a hard finish. The second is a gray primer, applied to all body parts that will receive finish enamel.

The gray primer, softer than the red, can be easily wet-sanded to a smooth finish, and the contrasting red underneath acts as a visual check against sanding too deeply.

Finally mirror-smooth chip-resistant acrylic enamels are applied in two coats of finish color.

Some body parts — such as body sills — get extra protection. They are galvanized, dipped into molten zinc to give rust protection for the life of the car.

Others get extra primer coats, and some a thick layer of wax.

100 GM Gals Go to Auto School

WARREN (AP) — Agnes Lewis, a secretary here, recently drove into a service station and told the manager:

"I want a tune-up, and please have them check the heat riser valve on the manifold. Also note on the service order that I would like the hot spark plugs replaced with cooler ones."

★ ★ ★

Unusual? Not for the 100 women employes of General Motors who just completed a unique eight-week course at the General Motors Training Center here.

The girls spent two hours one night a week looking under hoods, inspecting chassis, learning how to change tires, and getting a quick but comprehensive briefing on proper maintenance of their automobiles.

ACTUAL INSPECTION

The course was set up by Paul E. McDonald, head of GM Training Center, and included actual inspection of each woman's car, on the ground and on the lift, with a running commentary by top Training Center instructors.

As a bonus, each car was used as a "guinea pig" to show the effects of proper and improper maintenance.

★ ★ ★

Women drivers now comprise about 40 per cent of the motoring public, and there is a growing interest in the workings of their cars by these women, not because they are mechanically minded, but because they've learned that proper maintenance means money in their pockets.

During the inspection of each car, wheels were removed, brake shoes inspected, transmission fluid checked, mufflers examined, tires tested for toe-in and tie rods explained.

MORE CONFIDENCE

As the sessions wore on, the women gained more confidence and soon began asking questions that earlier they were afraid were silly.

Commented one secretary, "the instructor didn't treat us like nimcompoops. I really learned a lot."

★ ★ ★

One entire session was devoted to showing how a woman can change a tire with a minimum of effort. Another went to reviewing the owner's handbook and discussion of new car warranties.

McDonald says GM may try to duplicate the course at other Training Centers, limiting it to GM employes.

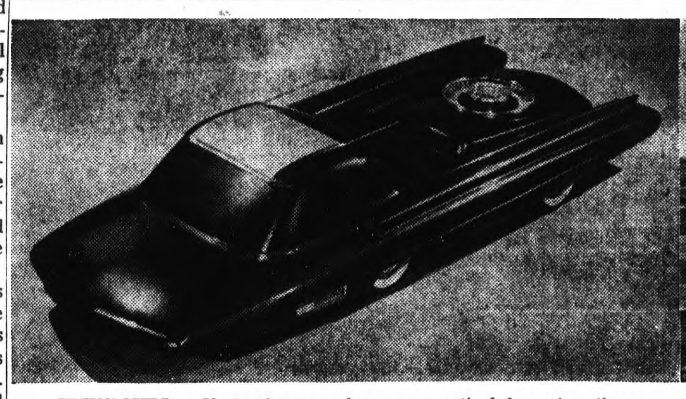
Many women have expressed interest in a short course on maintenance which would be included with the purchase of a new car.

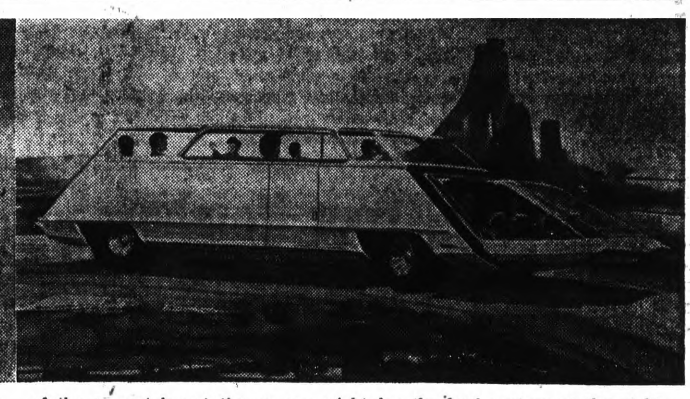
But at the present time, McDonald says, such a program could prove costly and time-consuming for already overloaded car dealer service personnel.

★ ★ ★

However, one Chicago dealer did conduct a onetime session on his own and was jubilant over the results.

"This is the kind of publicity you can't buy," he said. "What's more, it's already netted me one new car sale I wouldn't have made otherwise."





FUTURISTIC — If atomic power becomes practical for automotive use (and engineers say it definitely is not at the present), an atomic-powered car of the future might look like the model at the left. A possible descendant of the present-day station wagon might be the land cruiser at the right, with facilities for sleeping and cooking within its air-conditioned interior.

Tips Are Given on How to Park

By The Associated Press

In parking today's large-sized cars, the average driver does much body-shifting throughout the operation. Clothing, be it a heavy overcoat or a clinging girdle, hampers the free movement needed and can cause irritation, anger and perhaps even a dented fender or two.

Drivers should realize the car-parking hazard and prepare themselves as best possible in wearing apparel.

★ ★ ★

There are other impairments to parking which also should be considered: children, window stickers, the sun's reflection, good luck medallions, bottles or "baby's shoes" that hang throughout, or upon, the car.

Assuming, however, all things are to the best advantage when parking, the recommended method is to pull parallel with the front car, aligning the back bumpers.

If the parking space has four feet of movable room besides your car length, parking should be easy.

TURN LEFT

Turn the steering wheel to the right slowly and enter the space. About halfway in, swing the wheel to the left and slowly ease the car back.

During this, do not depend on the rear-view mirror, as optical distortions and a limited view of where you are going can be better observed looking over your shoulder.

★ ★ ★

Once the car is in the space, slight maneuvering can bring it as close as desired to the curb while leaving sufficient room between front and rear cars to allow for departure room.

Night parking, while following these same principles, necessitates using both turn and hand signals to indicate your desire to park. Once the roadway is clear, parking should be done as rapidly as possible.

PRACTICE HELPS

Practice on deserted streets will improve parking ability. With traffic rapidly increasing on the highways, a smooth and fast parking job can minimize traffic tie-ups or potential accidents.

Doing it correctly might prevent you from hearing someone say later: "I didn't see that car sticking out in my lane of travel."

Statistics Show Value of Belts, Harnesses

By The Associated Press

Statistics being compiled by auto safety groups indicate the value of wearing both seat belt and shoulder harness while driving on today's roads.

★ ★ ★

Though more and more cars are coming equipped with these safety features, fewer people tend to use them. Here are some excuses:

1. They wrinkle the clothes — (the steering wheel or windshield might wrinkle bones in event of serious impact).

2. Too much effort to find them or use them — (10 seconds in doing so might save 10 weeks in the hospital or 10 minutes from mortuary to cemetery).

3. For the distance, why bother — (statistics show four of five accidents happen within 25 miles of home).

4. They're uncomfortable — (adjustments are easily made so the seat belt is snug; the shoulder harness so secure that a clenched fist fits beneath it snugly).

★ ★ ★

5. I don't drive that fast — (an unrestrained child would be smashed against the dash panel severely if the brakes were fully applied at 15 miles per hour).

6. There's a better chance if thrown out — (a recent study of 177 fatalities showed ejection the main cause of death).

★ ★ ★

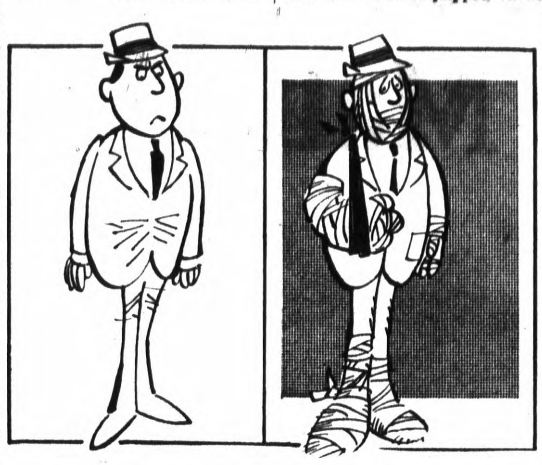
7. I don't like to be tied down — (flying loose in an out-of-control car can tie a person down to a hospital bed or a casket very effectively).

8. It's suggestive that I'll have an accident — BELIEVE IT THEN!

PURPOSE OF BELT

The purpose of the seat belt and shoulder harness is intended to keep the occupant from flying forward into the dash panel or windshield in event of accident.

There are, however, other benefits: the seat belt acts as a support and brace during long drives and, on hills or turns, the shoulder harness will keep the person upright against gravitational pull.



Wrinkled Suit Or Wrinkled Bones

Why then, in a 1967 survey which showed two thirds of the cars examined equipped with seat belts, did only 38 per cent of motorists questioned indicate they used them?

Why, in 1967, when 10,000 accident victims might have survived had they used their belts, did they instead suffer?

The answer is something within the individual, using the reasons above or any other reason from within.

Facts do remain: with a seat belt, 40 per cent of the 250 fatalities studied by the University of Michigan would have survived; with a seat-shoulder combination, 53 per cent would have survived.

Advertising has begun to emphasize the necessity for both seat-shoulder belts which, if listened to by the driving public, might drastically reduce the number of fatalities yearly.

All it takes to begin is the driver of the car asking one important question before moving one slight inch:

"Seat and shoulder belts fastened?"

BIG WHEEL — The new deluxe steering wheel, available as standard equipment on most of Pontiac Motor Division's 1969 models, not only provides the driver with a more secure, comfortable grip, but also complements the interior color and texture theme. Pontiac's new soft-squeeze steering wheel is fully molded from a specially developed compound which is soften than present steering wheel material. This soft compound is combined with solid Madrid grain vinyl to provide a surer grip. Featuring a new shallow dish design, it is available in shades to match all Pontiac interiors, permitting greater flexibility in color and texture coordination.

Signs a Safety Factor

AP Newsfeatures

Leading factors in the rising accident rate throughout the country are hard-to-see, undersized and confusing roadway signs or, worse, no roadside signs at all.

A motorist, entering an intersection without proper signs, will tend to slow down, change lanes or back up, thus creating a major traffic hazard.

★ ★ ★

This problem of poor signs is becoming increasingly a subject of research by traffic control, transportation and safety experts and insurance companies. panies.

In recent years, liability payments made due to lack of proper road signs have spurred insurance companies to require guaranties from communities covered that road signs are up according to specific listings found in the U.S. Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices.

ONE EXAMPLE

One example of what can happen to a community involves Ossining, N.Y.

When a stop sign knocked down by Halloween pranksters at a crucial intersection there was not replaced, a subsequent accident resulted in a $66,000 judment against the village.

★ ★ ★

The National Safety Council estimates that 70 per cent of the two million miles of roads under county jurisdictions have substandard signs.

Studies authorized by the U.S. Department of Transportation indicate that adequate signs must not be clustered, must be sufficiently large, must be clear rather than ambiguous.

★ ★ ★

Most warning, speed and stop signs today are too small and are not visible 24 hours.

A recommended minimum size for all signs is 30 inches. At the same time, the use of reflector material will allow a driver to see them anytime.

★ ★ ★

A four-year Michigan State University study on traffic signs, the first to examine thoroughly the recognition values inherent in sign background color versus natural background color relationship, found:

- Brilliant green performs best in most situations, especially against grass, dark hills or trees, buildings and highway bridge backgrounds.

★ ★ ★

- A sign with poor contrast against the natural background has to be twice as big to provide an equivalent impact and meaning at the same distance.
- For night contrast, all distance - and - direction highway signs should have reflectorized backgrounds for sharp contrast against night scenes. Lack of such contrast will reduce sign effectiveness up to 50 per cent.

EDUCATION NEEDED

The Safety Council notes that people generally should be educated on the subject. The value and need for proper road signs, in good condition, must be underscored.

★ ★ ★

Otherwise, hunters and pranksters will continue to use roadsigns for target practice where possible; destroyed signs will not be as quickly replaced; hazardous areas will remain so and the number of highway accidents will continue to rise.

ROADSIDE HAZARD — Studies have shown that the scene pictured here can spell double trouble — for both motorists and municipalities. A broken stop sign, when not immediately replaced, is a frequent cause of accidents and sometimes results in a lawsuit against a municipality.

School Bus Her Teacher

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Despite an adult education course in driving nine years ago, Mrs. Mary Manley says she really "learned to drive when I was a school bus driver."

Now, as the first woman to pass a civil service exam and receive an appointment as New York State road test examiner, she works within the Garden City Park, Valley Stream and North Bellmore area of Long Island.

To her position she brings a relaxing influence on nervous students taking their tests.

She represents many things to her charges: to the men, a reaction of surprise and curiosity; to women, a steadying influence; to youths, who do most of their practicing with their mothers, a reassurance.

When off duty and not raising her three children, she attends Suffolk Community College part-time. Her husband James is a New York City policeman.

Her boss, William P. Connors, says "she's not easily shaken."

Gurney's Pride Is Sleek Eagle

By BLOYS BRITT

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — There isn't likely to be an Eagle in your garage anytime soon, but if you're a car buff you can start licking your chops now.

The Eagle is the pride and joy of one Dan Gurney, internationally known race driver, car builder and salesman. The cars are produced in his sprawling shops in this city near Los Angeles.

★ ★ ★

Tall, boyish and bashful is the description they usually pin on Gurney, and it's accurate. But he's not bashful about the Eagle. Talk to him about it and you never find him at loss for words. He's a pretty good salesman.

Trouble is, you have to be in the race car market to have any real use for an Eagle. And at prices ranging from $11,000 to $29,000, less engine, you have to be well-heeled to afford one.

27 BUILT SO FAR

Gurney's All-American Racers plant here has produced 27 of the Eagles. Thirteen of them were first generation Indianapolis-type cars, seven were 1968 models, two are U.S. Formula A machines, four are for the Formula I international racing circuit, and one is a show model.

At Indianapolis in May, Eagles finished 1-2-4. They have won six of the other USAC championship races, they have won three out of four on the SCAA's Formula A circuit, and they've been doing well in European Grand Prix competition, including two to date.

★ ★ ★

Like most car makers whose product costs a little more than the opposition's, Gurney acknowleges the Eagles are expensive but insists that you get what you pay for in the racing car business.

"The other makes may start out at a lower initial figure, but by the time one of those cars gets on the track you've got that much money in it."

ANY ENGINE FITS

Aside from the initial $11,000 to $29,000 outlay, engines to power the cars can cost up to $40,000. But with the Gurney Eagles, anything will fit.

With this lineup, you can practically name your ticket for getting in the racing business — a field in which many have tried and many have failed.

★ ★

Gurney figures it costs $150,000 per car to be competitive at Indianapolis. You'd have to win to break even. Gurney, for instance, won an Indy-type race at Mosport, Canada, in June. First prize was $7,500, against a $29,000 car and an engine that was worth twice as much as the top payoff.

The Eagles are mean-looking little machines, low, flat and brutish.

SUBTLE APPROACH

"It's a more subtle approach to the turbine wedge car concept," Gurney says. "We've paid attention to simplicity, strength and lightening, and general structural integrity. I know how important it is for the driver and crew to have faith in a product."

Gurney, of course, tests every car his factory produces, using the nearby Riverside International Raceway's road course. He observes and evaluates behavior patterns of the machines and passes this on to his designers and to buyers.

★ ★ ★

While Gurney, a 37-year-old veteran who has driven every type racing machine, including motorcycles, hopes to corner the U.S. market in on open-wheeled race cars, he's looking ahead to the future.

Next year he plans to field a couple of new Eagles in the Group Seven sports-racing category, where foreign-made McLarens and Lolas with Chevrolet power have been dominant in recent years.

CANADIAN RACE EYED

Lacking cars of his own make and design, he and a rookie driver, Swede Savage, will compete in the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series for sportsracers this fall — in foreign-made vehicles.

Further into the future are plans that may produce an Eagle series for purely street use. That's what a lot of sporty car buffs are waiting for. Of this, Gurney says only: "We're working on it."

Filling Stations Pumped Record in Fuel in 1968

American filling stations pumped a record amount of motor-vehicle fuel in 1968, the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads reports.

The bureau estimates that nearly 81 billion gallons of fuel were consumed by the nation's motor vehicles during 1968 — an increase of 4.2 per cent over last year.

★ ★ ★

More than 75 billion gallons of gasoline and more than five billion gallons of diesel and other special fuels are included in the total.

★ ★ ★

An additional four billion gallons of motor fuel was used for nonhighway purposes — pushing the total fuel consumption to 85 billion gallons.

$8 BILLION SPENT

It is estimated that state and federal highway-user fuel tax revenues will exceed $8 billion for 1968. Federal revenues on motor vehicle fuel are expected to total about $3 billion.

The BPR estimated state taxes on motor vehicle fuel at over $5 billion.

The most popular passenger car body type is the two-door hardtop, currently accounting for about 44 per cent of total production.

Highway vehicles now consume about 81 billion gallons of motor fuel in a single year in the United States.

Safety Posters Go Psychedelic for Youth

By The Associated Press

Latest phase in the current poster rage is, of all things, "psychedelic" safety posters designed to help keep the in-crowd from freaking out on the highway.

Although the far greater majority of young motorists are careful and responsible drivers, according to safety experts there are some members of the "now generation" who seem bent on becoming the "then generation."

★ ★ ★

Four times as many people between 15 and 24 years of age die in auto accidents than from any other cause.

The real shocker is that more young people cashed in on the highways last year than were killed in Vietnam in the previous five years.

A LOT OF ATTENTION

Finding ways to keep the young set in gear gets a lot of attention from public safety specialists and safety educators.

One thing they have learned. Young people are too full of life and living to be influenced by any up-tight statistics rattling.

★ ★ ★

How then to get across messages which will help keep the groovy ones alert and alive?

The National Education Association which, through its Safety Commission, is responsible for driver and safety education in the nation's high schools, thinks it has found one good way. Posters. Not just posters, but way-out safety posters which will get a message across without turning off the audience.

ENTHUSIASTIC RESPONSE

In fall, 1967, the Safety Commission sent posters to 16,000 high schools. So enthusiastic was the response of students and educators that an additional distribution of 35,000 was necessary to fill the demand.

With the beginning of the 1968-69 school year, 90,000 sets of six posters were distributed to high schools, colleges, state patrols, safety councils and a number of other youth-oriented safety organizations.

★ ★ ★

Each poster socks-it-to-'em in terms and situations to which young drivers can relate.

★ ★ ★

Driving hazards treated are among the most prevelant causes of under-25 auto accidents and each was recommended for treatment by safety educators.

Design, printing and distribution of the posters has been financed by the National Coffee Association as part of its traffic accident prevention programs.

Sets of six, of the full-color, contemporary posters using such swinging lingo as "Life's A Gas" and "Keep Your Cool" are available free to individuals or interested safety-oriented youth groups through Safety Posters, 300 E. 44th St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Car Increase Told

In the seven-year period from January 1960 to January 1967, the number of households owning two or more passenger cars increased by almost 5.2 million, while the number owning just one increased by less than a million.

SLEEK AND SPORTY — This is the 2+2 version of the 1969 line of Jaguar Series 2 XKE sports cars. Other models of the car are a convertible roadster and a coupe. The 2+2, available with standard or automatic transmission, and, for the first time, offering unique power-assisted rack and pinion steering, also features a sharper angled windshield than the previous model, improving the profile of the car and enhancing its aerodynamic qualities.

Ohio Plans Center for Transit Research

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state of Ohio is planning a $25-million transportation research center that may have a profound effect on the nation's highway system.

Several million dollars have been spent already on the project and if the voters provide sufficient funds a complicated set of facilities will be established on a 5,400-acre tract of land 45 miles northwest of Columbus, just south of the village of East Liberty.

★ ★ ★

Planned facilities will include a high-speed track and interchanges for driver-vehicle research; a three-mile track for intermediate speeds; an area 600 to 1,000 feet in diameter for studies of interchange design and operation; two straightaway tracks parallel to U.S. 33 to bring the public motorist into research; special tracks for studying vehicle accessories, fuels, traffic controls and road materials.

JET AIRSTRIP

There will be a 6,000-foot airstrip for twin-engine jet aircraft; a complex of offices, laboratories, workshops, garages and computer and medical facilities.

The huge complex was first conceived in 1964 by two Ohio State University research engineers, Robert Tait and Dr. Johannes Schwar. Since then it has been fostered by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

In September of 1966 the Ohio Department of Highways signed an agreement with OSU for acquisitiop of the land and for giving the university control over establishing the center, since its research departments already had $2.7 million available in federal highway research contracts.

The school already had underway a federally sponsored $600,000 study to determine the feasibility of automated cars. Fine testing on a fully-automated car is expected to be done at the center.

GOALS FOR CENTER

As the engineers conceived the center, they noted that the nation's transportation systems cannot be operated, maintained, improved and expanded without research, and that no such overall facility existed.

All departments of the university, in one way or another, will participate in the research.

Gov. Rhodes believes the center will open up new job opportunities by attracting new industry and assist existing industries.

Tait reports that some manufacturers may consider the center a threat to their control over design and use of their products, but he does not feel this is valid.

REACTION GOOD

he adds, and some who have expressed interest in the facilities say "Wonderful; how soon can we get in?"

Car Planning Is a Year-Round Job

PRELIMINARY PLANNING — Two-dimensional manikins are used by auto designers to determine critical statistics for head room, knee room, leg room, head-to-windshield header clearance and such vital considerations as accessibility of foot pedals and angles of vision.

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Within the 493,000-square-foot Design Center of the Ford Motor Co. Research and Engineering complex, some 200 craftsmen use the many elements of product design to create a concept the public may never see.

The central idea is the "package," a list of specific requirements on vehicle needs: how many passengers the vehicle will hold and space alloted, where engine and drive-line components will be, how much room will be required, luggage space needed, length, width, height, wheelbase and other dimensions.

Following discussion of exploratory sketches by engineers, design executives, product planners and others, the best sketches are then selected and rendered as more detailed illustrations.

At the same time, preliminary three-dimensional work begins in the craft shops.

2 PHASES AT ONCE

Two separate phases of this three-dimensional work proceed at once: one, the body mock-up, built of clay applied to a wood-and-styrofoam, wheeled armature.

The second phase is the creation of interior components, also of clay, including instrument panels, seats, door panels, headlining and floor coverings.

The materials used for these projects, on a continual basis, are tremendous: in a 12-month period, the fabrications consume more than 58,000 feet of lumber, 75,000 gallons of resin, 2,500 gallons of paint, nearly 3,000 sheets of plywood and hardboard and over 150 tons of clay.

The trim shops use some 13,000 yards of vinyl, 9,500 yards of cloth, 1,200 yards of carpeting and 5,700 square yards of leather hides yearly.

Once the clay model is finished and sculptured to satisfy the designer, application of a decal-like paper directly to the clay provides a realistic appearance.

Dark-colored paper simulates windows, aluminum foil represents chrome and other bright-metal exterior components while lettering and ornamentation add the final touches.

* * *

If, at this stage, the design executive in charge is satisfied, a fiberglass reproduction or a "see-through" fiberglass greenhouse (which can be placed on the clay underbody) is ordered.

With simulated interior visible through the window space, either finished work closely resembles an actual vehicle.

COMPLETE INTERIOR

The fiberglass models are fitted with complete interior and, at times, an engine for test runs. During this work, designers continually confer with product planners and engineers to make sure their effort fits the "package" needs.

When it is all through, however, and the final decisions are made in relation to what the next year's models will conform to, the work is dismantled and new ideas are advanced. It is a continual cycle.

CLAY MODELS — Because it allows fast changes of lines and contours, clay is the logical medium for preparing three-dimensional proposals for new automobiles (top). Clay models (bottom) are also sculpted in the interior design office at Ford Motor Co. to see how designs for seat, door panels, arm rests, etc., will merge in the final product.

Drivers Total 105.7 Million

Licensed drivers in the United States now total nearly 106 million, according to estimates released by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The record total of 105.7 million drivers almost equals the total U.S. population in 1920 — 105,710,000.

* * *

The largest group of drivers is between the ages of 20 and 24, which accounts for 12 per cent of the nation's total. Drivers in the 25 to 29 age group comprise 10.8 per cent of the total, followed by the 40 to 44 age group with 10.4 per cent and the 35 to 39 age group with 10.3.

The District of Columbia has the highest ratio of licensed drivers to private motor vehicles with 1.44 drivers per vehicle.

NEW YORK SECOND

New York is second with a ratio of 1.33, followed by Massachusetts with 1.27 and Connecticut with 1.24 drivers per motor vehicle.

Highway Jam to Grow

AP Newsfeatures

If you think America's highways are jammed now, hang around a few years and see what happens.

That is the conclusion reached in several independent studies of the future of the auto industry, which is looking forward to a 12-million-car sales year in 1970 — a tremendous jump over last year's 9.6 million sales.

* * * *

All the surveys indicate the auto will remain the nation's basic transportation, at least during this century. There are strong indications, however, that improved mass transportation, small electric autos and mechanically operated superhighway travel will play their parts in the years ahead.

One current survey by R. L. Polk & Co., auto industry statisticians, unearthed the fact that the present rate of increase of autos on the road — 3 per cent a year — is higher than the nation's birth annual rate increase of 2 per cent.

FIRST COMPLETE STUDY

Polk, which collects auto registration figures and a host of other data in 50 states and Puerto Rico, recently released results of its first complete study of the car population.

* * *

It showed that nearly 88 million cars and trucks — 87,956,177 to be exact — were registered in the U.S. in 1967. This was a jump of over 2 million units above the preceding year.

* * *

Oddly enough, the District of Columbia with 301 cars registered per mile of paved highway, won hands down in the race for the unenviable honor of having the most cars per mile of paved roads. California was second with 68.

The statistics show that Californians own the most vehicles — nearly 9.4 million. New York is second with 5.7 million, and Texas is close on its heels with 5.2 million.

STATES WITH FEWEST

States having the fewest registered cars and trucks are: Alaska, (81,616), Vermont (176,708), Wyoming (203,397), Delaware (257,352), and Hawaii (292,199). The mean state total compiled by Polk on a national basis is 1,759,124 vehicles per state.

In a people-per-car survey, Kansas and Colorado proved to be the most motor-oriented states, averaging one car for every 2.30 residents. Next was Nevada at 2.31 and Iowa at 2.33. Alaska with a ratio of 4.5 to 1 and New York and Mississippi, each with 3.5 people per auto, were those states that seemed least dependent upon the automobile.

* * *

Comparing U.S. totals with those of other countries, Polk reported that West Germany and Denmark had 6 people per car; Kenya, 199; U.S.S.R., 249; South Viet Nam, 470, and Pakistan, 1429.

The Polk auto census also showed that, on a national average, there are 26.28 cars per mile of paved road in the U.S.

States with the highest potential car-road density are: New Jersey with 90.26 cars per mile; Rhode Island, 80.67; Hawaii, 79.52; California, 68.21; and New York, 55.41.

WIDE OPEN SPACES

North Dakota has the fewest cars per mile of paved road with 3.6. Wide open spaces were also indicated for sister state South Dakota with 4.54 cars per mile of paved road, Montana, 7.08; Wyoming, 8.59, and Nebraska, 8.96.

In making public its auto census, the Polk company pointed out that the "need to know" how many cars there are and their location is becoming increasingly important in this motorized age.

* * *

"In order to assess accurately the extent of such problems as traffic congestion, overcrowding, air pollution and mounting highway fatalities, correct up-to-date information is vitally needed," an official of the company said.

Polk began compiling auto registration information in 1922.

Traffic Lights Are Put in Focus

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — In multiple-lane, crisscrossing traffic, a driver sometimes finds himself confronted with signal lights that seem to indicate counter directions and stop-and-go orders all at once. Then, if the sun is right, there are "ghost" reflections that make a signal seem "live" when it isn't.

To try and correct this, so that the driver sees only those signals which involve his movements, the 3M Co. has developed a new type traffic signal which focuses light exactly where traffic is supposed to see it.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Here's a football puzzler for you . . . Twice, the annual Rose Bowl was won by a team that was NOT a college team . . . Can you explain? . . . Most football fans don't know that for the 1918 and 1919 Rose Bowls, service teams instead of college teams played, and thus, the 1918 game was won by the Mare Island Marines and the 1919 game by Great Lakes Navy.

* * *

What was the strangest thing that ever happened in a big-time football game? . . . Many experts vote for an incident that happened in the 1954 Cotton Bowl game . . . You might remember this one . . . Dick Moegle of Rice was running down the field for a touchdown . . . But a substitute on the Alabama bench jumped off the bench, ran on to the field and tackled Moegle as he went by! . . . Officials gave Moegle a touchdown, crediting him with a 95 yard run even though he ran only 53.

* * *

Did you know that many of today's post-season bowl games were known by different names in their early years? . . . For instance in the first two years of the Orange Bowl, it wasn't called the Orange Bowl at all . . . It was known then as the "Festival of Palms Game" . . . The Gator Bowl started as the "Alligator Bowl" . . . And the forerunner of the Cotton Bowl was called the "Dixie Classic".

U.S. Remains Firm on Laos' Neutrality

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The United States has taken an extremely tough position on what the Vietnam peace talks must eventually mean for landlocked Laos.

Many senior Western diplomats here agree with the U.S. argument that no peace in Vietnam can be guaranteed without somehow defusing the Communist insurgency here and insuring the withdrawal of 40,000 North Vietnamese troops estimated to be in the country.

★ ★ ★

These sources say the problem is that vital and strategic interests of Red China, North Vietnam and, to a lesser degree, the Soviet Union, are involved. Because of this, the United States almost certainly will have to compromise on its minimum demands, these sources believe.

Basically Washington's demands amount to a return to the 1962 Geneva accords which were supposed to have settled the Laotian problem by setting up a neutralist government, including Communists and royalist right-wing elements. Washington and Hanoi were to pull out their troops.

REDS' VIOLATION

The 1962 agreements were doomed from the start. The Communists refused to merge their troops into government regiments, the government was not allowed access into territory controlled by the Communist Pathet Lao, and North Vietnam instead of pulling out troops reinforced heavily.

Even in 1962, there were many warnings that North Vietnam would not disengage in Laos. The North Vietnam position seems to have hardened.

One American diplomatic source said, "North Vietnam has a holy grail complex about Laos and all of French Indochina."

The Communists likely feel they are riding high in Laos. The government has barely been able to hold its own against only a fraction of the pressure Hanoi is believed able to turn on almost at will.

KEY FACTORS

It has not, American sources suggested in the past, because of priority for the Vietnam war and the desire to preserve some basis for the argument that coalition government does not necessarily mean Communist takeover.

To force the Communists to return to the 1962 Geneva agreements propably would require commitment of U.S. ground troops, one Western military expert says. The U.S. Embassy repeatedly has told Premier Souvanna Phouma's government that this will never happen.

Washington sees the Laotian and Vietnam questions as inseparable. Southern Laos flanks South Vietnam's northern provinces and contains the Ho Chi Minh trail truck routes that pour supplies and men into South Vietnam.

An agreement in Paris for the withdrawal of U.S. and North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam would be almost valuless without neutralizing the area.

On the other hand, Laos is important to American strategic interests in Southeast Asia because of its common border with Thailand, a country the United States is committed by treaty to defend.

Already, hundreds of Communist-commanded troops and large quantities of war material have been moved through Laos into Thailand.

The United States is known to believe that the old International Control Commission of three members would be next to worthless in policing neutrality in Laos.

Aside from Peking's and Hanoi's desire to spread communism through Southeast Asia and to provide themselves with buffer zones, they also have historic claims to Laotian territory.

China has built roads into northwestern Laos aimed at the Thai border, and Peking is the chief supplier and supporter of Pathet Laos troops in this area which old maps show as part of China. Two old northeastern provinces formerly were administered from Hanoi and sit astride one of the best natural invasion routes into North Vietnam. The importance of this route led the French to set up their ill-fated fortress at Dien Bien Phu.

Rio Hut Planned to Accommodate Traveling Indians

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The construction of an Indian-style hut is planned near the Rio international airport for those Indians in transit who find it more comfortable to sleep on the floor than on a bed.

★ ★ ★

The hut is to be built by the Indian Foundation as part of the House of the Indian in Transit, which provides accommodations for Brazilian Indians traveling through or living in Rio.

★ ★ ★

The house can take care of as many as 25 people, but some of the more primitive Indians find the facilities too modern.

★ ★ ★

Indian Foundation officials feel that a familiar-looking hut might give the Indians added security in confronting their new world.

Stolen for Collectors?

Rome Statues Beheaded

ROME (AP)—A lot of ancient Romans have been losing their heads.

The city's superintendant of antiquities reports that 15 old marble statues in city parks have been decapitated since 1962.

The big Villa Borghese Park in the center of Rome lost heads of a satyr, two Hermes statues, and half a dozen ancient consuls, senators, warriors and orators.

Not much can be done about it. The statues are scattered along miles of walks through parks and in odd nooks and corners of ancient Rome which are unguarded at night.

Authorities doubt if the beheading is the work of vandals or even souvenir hunters. They believe it's done by thieves specifically commissioned to supply antique statue fragments to a clandestine market.

Some heads eventually are recovered in and around Rome, decorating modern villas. The best fragments and most of the heads probably find their way into the hands of collectors abroad.

The beheaded statues are left standing—headless. They do not look particularly out of place that way.

What with the wear and tear of time, and the depredations of the early barbarians, Rome has many ancient statues as armless as the Venus de Milo and as headless as Winged Victory of Samothrace.

But one Rome newspaper, Il Messaggero, expressed some fears for the future.

"If this keeps up", the newspaper said, "The time will come soon when there won't be a personage in Rome—at least in marble— with a head on his shoulders."

Army Brass Eyes 'Pot' Problem

NEW YORK (AP)—Nearly 9 out of 10 young servicemen courtmartialed for military offenses in Vietnam had smoked marijuana before they joined the service, the Defense Department says.

Frank A. Bartino, chairman of the department's Drug Abuse Control Committee, said there was serious concern in the Pentagon over use of marijuana in the armed forces, which he described as "the reflection of a national social ill which has the potential of affecting all youth and not just members of the armed services."

★ ★ ★

His comments came in response to an article in the January issue of McCall's magazine on the problems of returning veterans. The article said the veterans thought Pentagon figures on the use and possession of marijuana by servicemen were very low.

One problem, Bartino said in a letter to McCall's was that marijuana grows wild in Vietnam and so is readily accesible.

ARMY FIGHTS DRUGS

He said the Pentagon had initiated an educational program on drug abuse.

"No military etablishment, where security is always vitally critical, and relying as it does on the team concept, can chance having one member even momentarily mentally unbalanced through the use of any dangerous drug," Bartino said.

Bell Promotion

DETROIT (AP) — Donald J. Gillard, general community relations manager for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. since 1964, has been promoted to assistant vice president in the firm's public relations department. Gillard was a newsman with the old Detroit Times from 1950 to 1960.

Negroes Force College to Drop 'Huck'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"Huckleberry Finn," the Mark Twain classic has been dropped from the required reading list at Miami Dade Junior College—a victim of Black Power.

★ ★ ★

Ambrose Gardner, a school official, said Negro students complained that the novel of 19th century life on the Mississippi River embarrassed them.

★ ★ ★

Gardner said the book appears to create an emotional block for black students that inhibits learning. He also said members of the English department voted 26-11 in favor of keeping the book on the ground it was "a considerable whack at prejudice and discrimination . . ."

★ ★ ★

In his preface, Twain, who died in 1910, wrote: "Persons attempting to find a motive in this narrative will be prosecuted; persons attempting to find a moral in it will be banished; persons attempting to find a plot in it will be shot. By order of the author."

Mart's Woman Marks 1st Year

Female Broker Enjoys Wall Street Rivalry

NEW YORK (AP) — Muriel Siebert, who recently celebrated her first anniversary as the only woman member of the New York Stock Exchange, is one of those rare individuals who is bored by talking about herself.

But ask this diminutive blonde with the girl-next-door manner about the stock market and she settles back into a deep leather chair and offers her opinions slowly and thoughtfully in a low voice.

★ ★ ★

She thinks the Securities and Exchange Commission's strictures on against insider trading are too vague. "It's got everyone worried — some companies are afraid to talk to securities analysts."

She questions the exchanges' policy on volume discounts. "It's a good idea in theory, but it's taking profitability away from the firms at a crucial time. It's coming right out of my own net income."

But ask her about her rise from the daughter of a Cleveland, Ohio, dentist who came to New York in 1954 with a little accounting experience to her position as one of America's top businesswomen, and diversionary action begins.

She's clearly bored.

"Hey, where's that tape," she said suddenly rummaging through her desk. "You know I have the most disorganized desk in the office."

The tape, she explained, was a piece of ticker tape with her name written on it that she'd saved from a college visit to the Exchange.

Her equity in the Exchange has grown from the bit of tape kept for sentiment's sake to a seat on the Exchange for which she paid $445,000 on Dec. 27, 1967.

She made every dime herself, starting in New York with about $500 and a job as a research trainee at Bache & Co.

Her net worth today?

That's between me and Uncle Sam," she says.

As a member of the Exchange she employes four persons at her firm, Muriel Siebert, broker.

Conservation Awards Due to Be Given

The Soil and Water Conservation and Tree-Farming awards will be presented tonight at 7:30 at St. Benedict's Catholic Church, M59 at Voorheis, Waterford Township.

Robert McCrory, member of the Oakland County soil conservation district board of directors will present the conservation award and Al Phillips, district forester, the Tree-Farming awards.

Former director Harold Mitchell of Holly Township and Art Stack of Groveland Township have been nominated to the county director race. One director will be elected at tonight's meeting.

A motion picture on Hawaii will be shown by Don Turner of Chelsea.

S. S. KRESGE COMPANY

Three Days of Inauguration Festivities Will Cost $2.5 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Milhous Nixon will become the 37th president of the United States Jan. 20 at the climax of three days of inaugural festivities combining the best and worst features of a coronation, a circus and a political victory celebration.

Nixon's inaugural will be the most expensive in U.S. history, with an estimated cost of $2.5 million. By comparison, Lyndon B. Johnson's inaugural in 1965 cost $2.1 million, and John F. Kennedy's in 1961 cost $1.6 million.

★ ★ ★

Only $400,000 of the inaugural's cost will come out of the taxpayers' pockets. That is the sum appropriated by Congress for the official swearing-in ceremony on the steps of the capitol, at which Nixon will take the 35-word oath prescribed by Article II of the U.S. Constitution:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

PRIVATE MONEY

The remaining $2.1 million will be spent by the inaugural committee, a private group headed by innkeeper J. Willard Marriott, on such traditional trimmings as the inaugural gala, the inaugural concert, the inaugural parade, and the inaugural ball. The committee hopes to recoup this outlay from admission charges to these events and from the sale of official souvenirs.

★ ★ ★

Not included in the $2.5-million price tag are the hefty sums that individuals will spend on hotel rooms, meals, entertainment, transportation, new clothes and hairdos. No great extravagance would be required for an out-of-town couple to pay upwards of $1,000 for the privilege of saying, "I was there."

More than 20,000 faithful and presumably allfluent Republicans from every state in the union already have booked hotel rooms, and the housing committee reports that some rooms are still avilable for latecomers.

★ ★ ★

Hotels are refusing to accept reservations for any period shorter than three days (four days in some of the plusher hostelries). Some are adhering to a public pledge to hold the line on room rates but others have quietly jacked up their charges from 10 to 25 per cent above normal.

INVITATIONS MAILED

Official invitations to the inaugural, which have been mailed to about 200,000 persons, are intended purely as souvenirs. These men-sized invitations — expensively printed on heavy vellum embossed with the presidential seal — won't get you into anything except the city of Washington, for which no passport is required.

★ ★ ★

To attend any of the major events, inaugural visitors will need special invitations, usually free, or tickets costing from $4 to $100, depending on the event and the location of the seat.

On the free list, but very hard to come by, are invitations to the official swearing-in ceremony on the capitol steps, which will get under way at 11:30 a.m. EST Monday, Jan. 20, and last for about one hour. This is the event at which Nixon and Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew will take their oaths, and Nixon will deliver his inaugural address.

★ ★ ★

Temporary stands erected in the capitol plaza will provide seats for about 18,000 invited guests.

LIMITED AVAILABILITY

Invitations and standee tickets are available only through members of Congress, officials of the incoming administration' or heavyweight Republican politicians.

The second most coveted and hard-to-get invitations are to the inaugural ball, which will be held in six different sections — at five big hotels and in the Smithsonian Institution — on the night of Jan. 20. These will be formal affairs, with ladies in long ball gowns and gloves, gentlemen in tails or dinner jackets. Nixon plans to go white tie, but word has been passed that black tie also is "acceptable."

★ ★ ★

About 30,000 people will be able to squeeze into the six sites of the inaugural ball. They'll pay $70 a couple for the privilege of getting a glimpse of the new president and Mrs. Nixon, who've promised to drop in on each of the six parties during the long evening.

Three major inaugural events are open to the general public in the sense that anyone can attend who's willing to shell out the price of a ticket. They are the inaugural gala, to be held in the National Guard armory on Saturday night; the inaugural concert, constitution hall on Sunday evening; and the inaugural parade, down Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol to the White House, following the swearing-in ceremony on Monday.

STAR-STUDDED SHOW

The gala will be a star-studded variety show, produced and emceed by television's Ed McMahon, and featuring such performers as Johnny Carson, Dinah Shore, Lionel Hampton, James Brown, Hugh O'Brien, Joel Grey and the entire company of the hit Broadway musical "George M."

Tickets for the gala range from a $100 top down to $10. Purchasers of the lower-priced seats will be well-advised to bring field glasses and transistor radios. Washington's National Guard armory is a very big place, and not famous for good acoustics.

★ ★ ★

The Sunday night concert will feature the national symphony orchestra and the famous 350-voice Mormon Tabernacle Choir from Salt Lake City, Utah.

The cornerstone for the Washington Monument in Washington, D.C., was laid July 4, 1848.

Silver Star Presented to Waterford Marine

A young Marine sergeant from Waterford Township has earned the Silver Star medal for heroism in Vietnam combat.

Twice in one day, Sgt. Andrew Gray, 21, braved North Vietnamese army gunfire to destroy a pair of enemy bunkers in Quang Nam Province.

★ ★ ★

Maj. Gen. E. B. Wheeler, commanding general, Marine Corps Base and 2nd Marine Division, pinned the Silver Star on Gray last week at Camp LeJeune, N.C.

Gray's wife, Judith, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gray of 3892 Percy King, Waterford Township, were present for the ceremony. Gray and his wife are 1965 graduates of Waterford Kettering High School.

'COVERED WITH SWEAT'

Speaking of his heroic experience, Sgt. Gray said, "I was scared and covered with sweat. My canteen was full of bullet holes and the leg strap of my gas mask was shot off. I hoped the ground was low enough so they would fire over me."

Under the attack of intense enemy fire, Gray, serving as acting platoon sergeant with Company G., 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines, 1st Marine Division, Vietnam, crawled within reach and blew up an enemy bunker by tossing grenades into it.

★ ★ ★

He then returned to his platoon and helped evacuate casualties from the area.

Once again the Marines came under enemy fire and again Gray began another hazardous crawl to the enemy bunker; killing the soldiers inside and capturing their weapons.

Gray entered the Marine Corps in 1966. He was stationed in Vietnam from September 1967 to October 1968. Currently he is stationed at Camp Lejeune.

REWARD FOR BRAVERY—Marine Sgt. Andrew Gray (left) of Waterford Township receives the Silver Star and congratulations from Maj. Gen. E. B. Wheeler of the Second Marine Division. Gray was awarded the medal for heroism in Vietnam fighting.

Gold-Smuggling Curbs in Laos Costly to U.S.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Gold smuggling was off in 1968, so it cost the American taxpayer more money to keep the Laotian government solvent. It was one of those tangled paradoxes of the U.S. aid program.

And since the smuggling from Laos helps undermine the economies of Thailand and South Vietnam, countries U.S. aid money also is supporting, the taxpayers' total contributions to the three economies probably was more effective in the long run, Western economic experts say.

Normally, Laos imports up to four tons of gold a month from London, Zurich and other world markets. Importers pay 8.5 per cent duty and this in turn makes up 40 per cent of the government tax income. Nearly all the gold is re-exported by smugglers to Vietnam and Thailand.

Last year's major offensive in Vietnam and generally tighter policing by Vietnamese and Thai customs drastically cut the gold trade.

ALLIED SUPPORT

The United States and several other countries support whatever budgetary deficit the government incurs indirectly through a currency stabilization program.

★ ★ ★

Since Vientiane drags its feet on other taxes and the gold flow dropped to a trickle at times, it probably will cost U.S. taxpayers an extra $2 million or so for the currency program, which will run $24 million in U.S. contributions during the current fiscal year.

Recent Jet Crashes Raise Crucial Query

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Allegheny Airlines propjet easing down toward a landing at a Bradford, Pa., airport on Christmas Eve slammed into a mountainside.

Twenty persons died.

★ ★ ★

Two weeks later, another pilot for Allegheny, flying the same model Convair 580 propjet into the same airport crashed.

Eleven persons died.

THIRD TRAGEDY

In between the two tragedies was yet another. A North Central Airlines Convair 580 landing at Chicago's O'Hare Field Dec. 27 suddenly veered off course, and smashed into a hangar.

Twenty eight persons died.

★ ★ ★

On Dec. 2, a Wien Consolidated F27 crashed into an ice-covered lake in Alaska.

Thirty eight persons died.

In sum, four airline accidents in 36 days claimed 97 lives. In the last 13 months, there were 16 accidents, with a total of 362 deaths — the highest airline death toll since 1960.

VITAL QUESTIONS

Why are airlines less safe now? Does disaster run in cycles? Is it an airport problem? Congestion? Pilot error?

The National Transportation Safety Board, whose job is to find the causes for airline accidents, sees no new trend.

★ ★ ★

The Air Transport Association, the trade organization for the scheduled airlines, is justifiably proud of the fact that in 1968 the airlines will have flown some 114 billion passenger miles. This puts the airline fatality rate at less than one death per 400 million passenger miles.

Where, then, is the problem? Safety experts agree that weather still is the key factor in most airline crashes. For example, they point out that weather was involved to some extent in the last four airline crashes. A survey conducted by the safety board for 1965 showed this kind of a breakdown on accident causes:

CAUSE BREAKDOWN

Weather, 24 per cent, personnel, 20 per cent this figure includes both maintenance men and management personnel who are responsible for operational procedures; pilot error, 18 per cent; copilot-connected error, 3 per cent; power plant failure, 7 per cent; airport and airways facilities, 5 per cent; landing gear problems, 9 per cent; electrical and hydraulic failure, 7 per cent; all others, 7 per cent.

Many of the commonly-voiced opinions by laymen on accidents fail to hold up under examinations. For example, mountainous areas were once believed to have more accidents. Not so, according to statistics. Nor are there more accidents in the winter than in the summer, even though weather is a factor in accidents.

★ ★ ★

Then there are always those who tend to blame fate for tragedies, claiming they run in cycles.

Edward Slattery, a spokesman for the safety board, terms this idea nonsense.

NO MATHEMATIC CONNECTION

"It is an old wives' tale to believe that accidents run in threes. There isn't any way you can connect a rash of accidents to any mathematical progression," Slattery said.

As for safety improvement, the list is long and growing longer.

★ ★ ★

The airlines expect to employ computerized collision avoidance systems in airliners shortly. Fog dispersal techniques are making a practical break-through, along with grooved runways to help airliners brake to a stop. And, most importantly, Congress is under increasing pressure to appropriate more money for airport and navigational aids.

3 Elected Dems Turn Republicans

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Collier County voters elected a Democratic county commission, sheriff and county judge in November, but they're getting Republicans instead.

Sheriff E. A. (Doug) Hendry and County Judge Dick Stanley changed their party affiliation to GOP this week. Commission Chairman Les Whitaker shifted to the GOP several weeks ago, giving Republicans the majority vote on the board.

Prostitutes Abound at Resort

Poland Hotel Really Swings

WARSAW (AP) — The most fashionable hotel in Poland's most fashionable seaside resort has been called a hopping hub of prostitutes, currency traffickers and card sharps who practice their arts on foreigners.

The visitor with dollars, Scandinavian crowns or pounds is king. The Polish customer paying local currency, if he is allowed to be a guest, is at the mercy of employe's whims.

★ ★ ★

This image of the elegant Grand Hotel of Sopot — a Baltic Sea spa popular particularly with Swedes — emerges from an article in Law and Life, periodical of the Polish Lawyers' Association.

The description hardly corresponds to the norms of a state-run enterprise in a Communists nation.

'FLESHY BLONDES'

Aleksander Rowinski, author of the article, pictured the prewar environs of the hotel bustling with "an abundance of variety" of prostitutes: "mostly flesh, blondes, red-haired and raven-haired, generally in very esthetic foreign wrappings."

"Hotel rooms resound with their gay giggle and a currency blackmarketer, a smuggler, a card sharp, a whole mutual adoration society operates near at hand," he wrote.

★ ★ ★

"They work as a harmonious team and even outclass hotel clerks by their knowledge of foreign languages.

"You may look long in the world for another place of this sort in which so young, so inexpensive ladies are stored in such luxury."

ON THE BEACH

The girls, Rowinski said, are found on the hotel beach during the warm days, the hotel verandas and cafes in the afternoons and in the ballrooms at night.

In fact, he asserted, "no other ladies except prostitutes are seen evenings in the dancing rooms."

The director of the hotel said: "I've tried to fight it, but how can you fight it, if there is no prostitution in Poland?"

That is the official line.

★ ★ ★

The truth of the matter, Rowinski suggested, is why should she be discouraged when she helps run up the bills and extracts Western currency — an extra welcome item in Poland — from a guest?

★ ★ ★

Describing the actitivites of the illegal money traffickers, who offer foreigners normally more than triple the official exchange rate, he said they "don't allow the respectable visitor to pass along avenues leading to the Grand, nor to stop in its lobby in peace."

★ ★ ★

"Well-known card sharps, prostitutes and private businessmen are guests in high season, when government officials are refused lodging, he reported.

AMC Denies Plotting With Auto Big 3

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. today denied charges it had conspired with other automobile manufacturers to delay the installation of anti-smog devices.

The automaker was accused in a civil antitrust lawsuit filed by the U.S. Justice Department of joining in a conspiracy with the automotive Big Three — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler — to delay the development of exhaust emission control equipment.

★ ★ ★

"American Motors Corp. categoricaly denies engaging in any combination or conspiracy, engaging in any action to delay or attempt to delay at any time the installation of any motor vehicle air pollution control equipment," the firm said in a statement, adding:

"The unfortunate decision by the Department of Justice to institute the unwarranted lawsuit can only serve to delay and impede further progress of the automobile industry under its valid cross-licensing agreement in its program which has been so successful from its inception.

The other auto companies issued similar statements earlier.

Mart Extends Winning Streak

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market forged ahead today, extending its winning streak to two days after last week's sharp plunge. Trading was moderately active.

Shortly before noon, the UPI stock market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, was up 0.80 per cent on 1,478 issues crossing the tape. There were 937 advances and 305 declines.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrials picked up 609 to 934.42.

The upswing was described as a continuation of the technical adjustment which got underway in the previous session. However, some additional constructive economic news also encouraged investors.

RECORD OUTPUT

Included were record industrial output in December reported by the Federal Reserve Board, and a Commerce Department report that the nation's output of goods and services reached a record level in December for the second consecutive month.

★ ★ ★

Aluminum group issues ranged to more than a point higher in response to spreading price hikes in the industry. These issues also were quite strong yesterday.

Illness Derails Career of Young Area Intern

By DIANNE DUROCHER

For the past 15 months, the career of an aspiring young doctor has been at a standstill.

Richard Traicoff had completed four years of medical school at Wayne State University and four months into his internship when he became ill 18 months ago.

TRAICOFF

He underwent surgery and, as the result of a reaction in his system to medication, his blood-producing capacity has been reduced to submormal levels.

Traicoff, 27, of 1798 Cass Lake Front, Keego Harbor, was hospitalized eight times during his illness. During November and December, he received 200 blood and platelet transfusions. Platelets are a part of the blood which help it to clot to prevent bleeding, he explained.

200-PINT DEBT

He now has a 200-pint debt to the Red Cross and has sought the aid of friends in replacing it.

A bloodmobile will be at Waterford Township High School Friday from 2 to 8 p.m. and friends have asked that teachers and students wishing to contribute blood for Traicoff specify it is for the E. R. Club, Pontiac. This is the account opened for him by the Pontiac Red Cross.

★ ★ ★

Traicoff and his wife, Connie, are graduates of Waterford Township High School. They have three small children.

Traicoff, who has received up to 17 blood transfusions in one day, said, "I have made some progress in recent months. With the aid of further transfusions and medication I can hopefully return to the study of medicine."

'Courtly' Kiss Draws Blast From Judge

DETROIT (UPI) — A Wayne County Circuit Court judge Tuesday accused a defense lawyer of "improper conduct" because he kissed a prosecution witness in a hallway outside the courtroom last week.

Judge George E. Bowles ordered the jury out of the room in the ticket-fixing trial of a suspended Wayne County Road Patrol inspector and four men. He then told defense attorney Marvin Blake "I did not appreciate your conduct concerning the witness (Mrs. Dixie Armstrong)."

★ ★ ★

A bewildered Blake said "I don't think that's such a terrible thing. I gave her a kiss upon the cheek. I have known her a long time."

Bowles said Blake put himself into a "very ambiguous position with the witness."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Armstrong was earlier excused Tuesday as a prosecution witness after she repeatedly said she could not remember testifying at a pretrial examination that her boss, former inspector Dan D. Martin, had envelopes from United Auto Workers Local 182 in Livonia containing tickets to be "fixed."

Four present or former officers of the local are on trial along with Martin on charges of conspiring to obstruct justice.

Goods Stolen From Cottage

Furniture, clothing and tools were reported stolen from a two-story cottage in Independence Township.

Janet Scheinfield of Detroit told Oakland County sheriff's deputies yesterday that the cottage at 4563 Lakeview was found broken into after being unoccupied for several weeks.

★ ★ ★

Articles were taken from a front room, four bedrooms, dining room and kitchen, she said. Total value is unknown at this time.

Police Action

Pontiac police officers and Oakland County sheriff's deputies investigated 94 reported incidents and made 13 arrests the past 24 hours.

A breakdown of causes for police action:

School Board to Mull New Hiring Policy

Several recommendations in the Equality of Educational Opportunity report will be made at tomorrow night's Pontiac Board of Education meeting

Included in the proposals will be a number of recommendations on hiring practices aimed at trying to achieve a better racial balance in the school system personnel, according to Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer.

★ ★ ★

Other proposals recommend new administrative positions for minority group members, as well as new recruiting practices.

Also on the agenda is a proposed resolution that the board require all its contractors to sign a statement of compliance with the board's policy of nondiscrimination.

OTHER ITEMS

Also before the board tomorrow night will be:

- Progress reports by Dr. Whitmer on the development of the Human Resource Center program.
- A report on transportation problems concerning Herrington School and other schools in the district, presented by Vernon Schiller, school business manager.
- A report on volunteer service in the school district by assistant Supt. William J. Lacy.

★ ★ ★

The meeting is at 7:30 p.m. at 350 Wide Track.

Lawyer Is Chairman of County Planners

Attorney Thomas J. Dillon of 2067 Devonshire, Bloomfield Hills, has been named chairman of the Oakland County Planning Commission to replace Donald A. Kalmbach of Birmingham. A two-year member of the commission, his term as chairman is for one year.

Kalmbach remains a member of the commission but declined to seek reelection because of an impending business transfer.

★ ★ ★

John A. Cooper of Birmingham was elected vice chairman, replacing Ralph A. Main of Birmingham. Main became secretary, replacing charter member J. Robert F. Swanson of Bloomfield Hills. Swanson remains a member of the commission.

Chris Craft Is Expanding

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Chris Craft Industries Inc. has purchased the Argonaut Taiwan Corp., a boat building firm in Taiwan, and acquired a substantial interest in a Bahama Islands resort, it was announced Tuesday at the annual shareholders meeting.

Sailboats and power cruisers will be manufactured at the Twaiwan facility, officials said. Purchase of shares in Carl G. Fisher Co. Inc. near Nassau will enable the firm to develop a floating hotel using houseboats, officials added.

★ ★ ★

In Michigan, Chris Craft operates plants in Algonac, Holland and Detroit.

Syria's oil industry plans to sell $50 million worth of petroleum on the world market in 1969.

Woman Hurt in 3-Car Crash

A Groveland Township woman is hospitalized in satisfactory condition following a three-car accident in Independence Township yesterday afternoon.

Hazel M. Voorhees, 26, of 3535 Jossman is being treated at Pontiac General Hospital for injuries she suffered.

★ ★ ★

An auto driven by Nancy A. Riess, 18, of 6611 Balmoral, Independence Township, was stopped in front of 5901 Dixi to make a left turn when two cars behind her collided and struck her car, according to Oakland County sheriff's department.

The car behind the Riess car was driven by Charles E. Giles, 66, of 5921 Hatchery, Waterford Township, according to police. Giles suffered a minor injury.

The Voorhees car crashed into the rear of Giles' auto, police reported.

Installation Tonight for OCC Trustee

David M. Preston will be installed as a member of Oakland Community College Board of Trustees at its meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Student Commons Building, Orchard Ridge Campus, Farmington Township.

Preston of 560 Chesterfield, Birmingham, was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Ralph F. Tyndall in September.

★ ★ ★

Also on the agenda are several recommendations for bid awards and recommendations for approval of agreements to establish extension centers in Shrine High School, Royal Oak, and in Lamphere public schools.

Linguists Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Information Agency said Tuesday it is looking for 60 personable young Americans who speak Japanese to serve as guides at the American pavilion at Japan's world exposition in Osaka next year. The job will pay a minimum of $5,742 and will provide travel expenses and housing in Japan

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY of husband and father, Charles T. Lange. Sadly missed by wife Edith and family.

IN LOVING MEMORY of our son and brother, Jimmy Richardson, who passed away January 15, 1966. It broke our hearts to lose him. But he did not go alone. For a part of us went with him The day God called him home, God gave us strength to bear it. The courage to take the blow. But what it meant to lose him, No one will ever know. When the evening shadows are falling And we sit here alone. To our hearts there comes a longing, If he could just come home. Sadly missed by Dad, Mom and Mike.

COPIER SALESMAN

Sell your way into a management job.

If you want a career in sales that can lead to more than sales, come to Pitney-Bowes. Particularly in our new Copier Division — our newest and fastest-growing separate division.

Right now Pitney-Bowes is making a dramatic entry into the copying machine field. The man who make the sales can't help but be noticed. And since the Copier Division is forming its own separate management and separate field sales force, there's a great opportunity for promotion into management.

We offer you a protected territory, generous commissions, a distance bonus for travel AND one of the most extensive packages of company-paid benefits in industry.

Sales experience is preferred, but the right man with no experience can qualify. Call today for your personal interview.

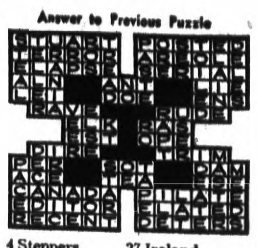
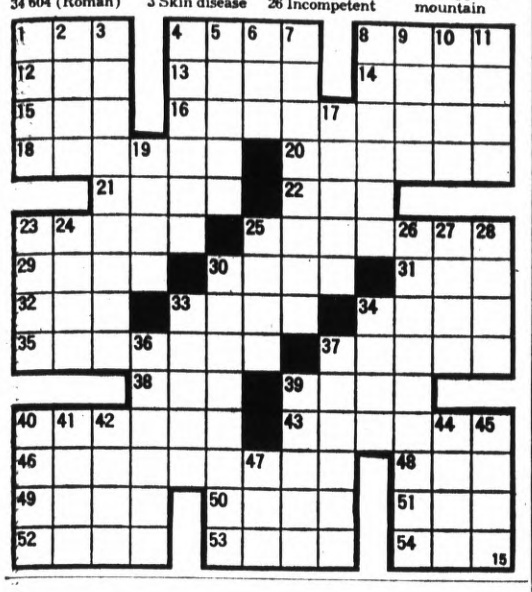
Answer to Previous Puzzle





People in the News

By the Associated Press

Prince Charles, who began flying last summer and has logged 14½ hours in the air, made his first solo flight yesterday in a small trainer aircraft over eastern England.

His father, Prince Philip, has flown more than 2,000 hours in more than 40 types of aircraft.

Ex-Public Enemy No. 1 Paroled

Alvin Karpis, who was public enemy No. 1 in the 1930s as coleader of the Karpis-Ma Barker gang, was paroled yesterday from McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary in Washington after serving 32 years in prison.

"I can't understand what all this hoopla is about," said Karpis, now a thin white-haired man, as reporters and photographers gathered around him. "I'm not anybody. I never was anybody."

Friars Name Barbra Top Entertainer

MISS STREISAND

Entertainer Barbra Streisand has been named "Entertainer of the Year" by the Friars Club, the famous all-male theatrical organization. She is the second woman to be so chosen in the club's 65-year history. Dinah Shore received the honor in 1960.

Kiwanian Picks Strange Time to Miss Meeting

Phil Kjaglien missed this week's Kiwanis Club meeting in Fergus Falls, Minn.

It was the first time he had missed a meeting in 22 years, and it was designated a meeting to present him with a perfect attendance award.

Canada's Trudeau Escorts Actress to London Play

Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau escorted attractive actress Jennifer Hale to a performance of the play "Hadrian VII" at the tiny Mermaid Theater in London last night.

TRUDEAU

Trudeau, the most eligible bachelor attending the Commonwealth Conference in London, went backstage afterwards to meet the star of the show, Canadian actor Douglas Rain.

Then the 47-year-old premier and Miss Hale joined the Mermaid's founder, Bernard Miles, for drinks in the theater restaurant overlooking the River Thames.

During the London conference, Trudeau has lunched privately with Queen Elizabeth II and gone dining and dancing with society girls.

Photographers clustered round Trudeau and Miss Hale as they tried to leave the theater. "What do you want me to do?" he asked. "Fall over?"

'Silent Night' Gal Reveals How Her Nudity Paid Off

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — You shrink from being moralistic nowadays . . . if you dare speak out for good against evil, millions will label you a mental antique . . . a hopeless square.

So I got to thinking, what could I say real, real bad about Barbara McNair, a favorite of mine, that would help her?

WILSON

My memories of her were the boiling sun of Vietnam, Christmas Week, 1967. She was singing "Silent Night" to GIs often numbering 25,000 sitting on their handbags and their helmets, wanting to cry, just out of their homesickness. She did these shows twice a day, her own eyes misting. And when they came back she was a standout on the Bob Hope USO specail.

But that's all rather corny, isn't it?

★ ★ ★

So we come to the biggest thing that happened to Barbara in 1968 going into 1969. Her nude pictures in Playboy!

Now we're getting someplace!

"I was overwhelmed by the response," Barbara said. We were pretending to be at a party at Palm Beach, Fla. In a tight-fitting, low-necked, body-clinging white outfit, she was actually at the Riverside Plaza Hotel at 73d and Broadway. She was waiting to do some scenes in the movie "Stiletto," with Alex Cord and Britt Ekland.

"I never had any taboos against nudity," Barbara said. And when they wanted to film some rather naked scenes from "If He Hollers, Let Him Go," Barbara said "O.K."

Her husband, Jack Rafferty, operator of a San Francisco club? "He was basically the one who told me to do it," Barbara said.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Phil Ford and Mimi Hines made a triumphal return to town (at the Waldorf Empire Room) with both Totie Fields and Kate Smith quivering in their applause. The big crowd loved everything Mimi did including when she fell down on the floor as if in a faint and when (as somebody said "Sssshhhh") she said, "But I'm singing as quietly as I can."

Street singer Arthur Tracy is having a knock-down fight with Penny Singleton over the AGVA strike at the Latin Quarter. Tracy, vice president of the local, sides with the chorus girls who don't want to strike. He and Miss Singleton ordered each other out of their offices.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Larry Mathews hears that Gov. Reagan may not run again: "He's not sure he wants to do a sequel."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The lazier a man is, the more he plans to do tomorrow."

EARL'S PEARLS: A visiting Hollywood producer told at Hawaii Kai of another producer's sneakiness. "He hit a new high in low blows."

Jackie Kannon asked Dean Martin how his New Year's Eve party was, and Dean said, "How can you tell, until it's over?" That's earl, brother.

A Look at TV

LBJ Talk Moving Event

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — The appearance of President Johnson to deliver his sixth and final State of the Union message to the Congress Tuesday night was a warm and moving occasion which most of the nation was able to share through television.

The retiring chief executive, serious of mien and obviously feeling the significance of the moment, received an especially enthusiastic reception upon arrival in the House of Representatives chamber.

★ ★ ★

"A brief accounting of his stewardship," Eric Sevareid later called his speech, "the valedictory of a proud man." When the President recalled his 38 years, first as an employe and later as a member of the Congress, his voice softened and warmed, and it became a sentimental occasion.

The President's decision to present his own final State of the Union address not only broke precedent, but the time raised hob with the evening schedules of two of the three networks.

RERUN POSTPONED

NBC, postponed a rerun of the 1962 film, "The Miracle Worker" and after the President finished, network correspondents commented on various aspects of the speech. When they ran out of steam, the remainder of the second hour was filled by a review of the five Johnson years.

CBS merely pre-empted its scheduled 9-10 EST show.

ABC was in the worst bind in covering the presidential address. It had started live coverage of the National Basketball Association East-West All Star game a half hour before.

The network cut away from the basketball game at 9, but spent little time on analysis and went back to the second half of the game fast when the President finished speaking.

'LAUGH-IN' DROPS

NBC's "Laugh-In" which usually tops television's hit parade, dropped into second place during the recent holiday period, and CBS' "Gomer Pyle" jumped into the lead, according to the most recent Nielsen ratings report.

"Family Affair," another CBS comedy, was in third position.

★ ★ ★

During the Dec. 30 through Jan. 2 period, there were few specials in the evening schedules. CBS was the winner in the averages, with 21.7, followed by NBC with 20.7 and ABC, 16.1.

Meanwhile, NBC's research department, projecting audience sizes from nationwide samples, asserts that last Sunday's Super Bowl football game was the most widely viewed sports event in history—more than 60 million—and that close to 80 per cent of all sets in use during the time were tuned to the game.

Consultation With Nixon Aides Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget Director Charles J. Zwick told newsmen there had been frequent consultation with Nixon administration officials on the 1970 budget presented today.

"I believe it is correct to say that Mr. Nixon's economic advisers are in agreement with us as to the appropriateness of a surplus such as we have in this budget, but they are not committed to the specifics of the budget," Zwick added.

★ ★ ★

Joseph W. Barr, undersecretary of the Treasury, said there had been talks with congressional leaders and that they, too, had endorsed the idea of a surplus based on extension of the income surtax, particularly in the light of strong inflationary trends.

★ ★ ★

He said he did not think Congress would cut the budget appreciably and indicated he doubted if the new administration could do it.

Proud GI Sends 'Greetings' to His Wife and Baby

CHESAPEAKE, Va. (AP) — A soldier who couldn't be present at the birth of his son because he was in Vietnam showed his wife he was thinking of her with a newspaper advertisement and a big bunch of roses.

Spec. 4 Walter T. Marshall arranged by mail to take out a seven-inch, two-column ad in the Norfolk Virginia-Pilot.

★ ★ ★

The ad, which appeared a couple days after the baby's birth, announced, "It's a boy," gave the vital statistics about Walter T. Marshall III and finished with, "I love you, Penny."

A second surprise—also prearranged—greeted Mrs. Marshall upon her return from the delivery room. Her husband had sent a huge bouquet of red roses.

Crash Kills Man

INKSTER (AP)—Ronald M. Henderson, 31, Inkster, was killed Tuesday when his auto collided with two parked cars in Inkster, police said.

Fire Claims Man

DETROIT (AP) — Stephen J. Koller, 60, Detroit, died Monday when fire broke out in his home. Authorities said the fire apparently started by a lighted cigarette.

Speaker Ban Ruled Illegal

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — A three-judge federal panel Tuesday declared unconstitutional the so-called "speaker ban" policy imposed by Mississippi's Board of Trustees of Higher Learning.

The panel gave the college board 60 days to draw up new regulations and resubmit them for court approval.

★ ★ ★

The decision came in a suit filed by the Young Democrats Club of Mississippi State University.

Under the regulations, Negro leader Charles Evers had been barred from a speech to that university last fall.

NO STANDARDS

The court held that the board regulations, which among other things bar from speaking at colleges and universities those in disrepute in their communities, were unconstitutionally vague because they did not set standards.

Grand Rapids Rift Healing Sought

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Grand Rapids Mayor Christian Sonneveldt Tuesday requested that a meeting be held with the city's six-member parking commission, which resigned en masse last Tuesday following a dispute with the city commission.

The parking commission members had submitted their resignations after the city commission overruled a recommendation on who should operate two city-owned parking lots.

'Libby' Out to Better Female Job Lot

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — Elizabeth Koontz, named to head the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, sees the labor situation for women workers as "a real issue among social problems."

The problem is most acute for Negro women, she says.

Mrs. Koontz, the first Negro to serve as president of the National Education Association, said in an interview the job will enable her " to have a hand in doing something about what I think many people have been working for for a long time."

The Salisbury teacher, whose appointment by President-elect Nixon requires Senate confirmation, said she feels the job will give her an opportunity "to really make an impact for women."

PARENTS WERE TEACHERS

The slim, soft-spoken Mrs. Koontz comes from a family of educators. Her late parents, were teachers. A sister is registrar of Livingston College in Salisbury and a brother once served as president of the school.

Another of her five brothers was a Washington commissioner before the District of Columbia adopted the mayor system of government. Mrs. Koontz' husband, Harry, is a high school teacher in the Rowan County system.

★ ★ ★

She said that when she was told of her appointment "I was torn between fulfilling my responsibilities in the job to which I have been elected and considering this as a service to the country."

As head of the NEA, she is the nation's first lady of education. Since her election she has been on leave of absence from her teaching job in a Salisbury high school. She has no children.

MOVING TO WASHINGTON

Mrs. Koontz and her husband plan to move to Washington.

She is a graduate of Livingston College and has a master's degree from Atlanta University. She has done graduate work at other universities, including Columbia.

Mrs. Koontz, called "Libby" by her friends, will be succeeding Mary Keyserling. The bureau's mission is to promote the welfare of wage-earning women, improve their working conditions and advance their opportunities for employment.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Koontz has not said whether she will resign her NEA post once the bureau appointment is confirmed, but it is expected that she will. She was elected president of NEA in Dallas last July.

Mediator Is Named in School Dispute

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—Robert Mason Tuesday was named state labor mediator to enter the dispute over a contract between the Grand Rapids Board of Education and the Grand Rapids Education Association, who have been at an impasse in negotiations that started last October.

Among the major issues are salaries and a union shop for the 1,600 teachers in the system.

★ ★ ★

Mason is a member of the State Labor Mediation Board staff here.

Rover Rescues Fat Cat

BLACKBOURTON, England (AP)—Pedigree is all very well until something goes wrong with the blue blood. Then, as usual, it is the good red blood of the workers that is needed to put things right.

Take the case of Gigi, a superior Siamese cat which lives with the Shaw family in this rural Oxfordshire village. She was dying of a rare blood disease and the fact that she was something of an aristocrat was not much help.

★ ★ ★

Along came Cuddles, a homeless stray being looked after by a cat lover, Betty Munford, who already had 40 strays in her home.

★ ★ ★

Cuddles is a democrat, not the least concerned that Gigi was born on the other side of the tracks. Cuddles gave Gigi two transfusions of good red blood and saved her life.

CATTY HEROICS

Miss Munford is now seeing if Cuddles qualifies for an award.

"Other animals get awards for saving lives," she said. "But Cuddles' best reward would be for someone to give him a loving home."

Opening lead—♥A

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

There were plenty of chances for decision on today's hand. West and North had no problems at first. Both passed.

East might also have passed or he might have opened with one heart. Instead he decided to make things difficult for the man with the spade suit and opened three hearts.

This bid didn't keep South from naming spades but it gave him a problem. Should he bid three or four spades? Finally South decided that he would be cold for four if his partner held trump support and a side trick, so South jumped to game.

★ ★ ★

West really did not have enough to go to five hearts after his partner's pre-empt but West was a pretty smart player and felt certain that a five-heart bid would not be doubled so he got into the act with five hearts.

Now North felt that he had so much strength that a five-spade bid was clearly indicated. He bid five spades and it was up to South to try to make it.

West opened the ace of hearts and continued the suit. South ruffed and drew trumps. Then he led the six of clubs!

★ ★ ★

The first few plays had been made rapidly and West's play of the eight of clubs came just as quickly.

The next play took a lot of time. South couldn't lose the hand if West held both the ace and queen, he couldn't make it if East held these cards.

If they were divided, it was up to South to decide which player held which card. It is no problem for us. We see the cards, but it was quite a problem for South.

As a matter of fact he studied so long that we went away and still don't know if he guessed right or wrong!

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
			1♠
Pass	4♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠KJ654 ♥AKQ98 ♦54 ♣2

What do you do now?

A—Pass. Your partner has shown very good spade support but not much in the way of high cards.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding four spades your partner bids two diamonds over your one spade and jumps to four hearts over your two heart rebid. What do you do now?

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Thursday

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Choose career obligations over personal desires. Means today exertion of will power is of paramount importance. Key is to separate the real from the imagined. Know yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Delay actually works to your benefit. Avoid brooding; ride with the tide. Don't push for immediate decisions. Your long-range desires are being seriously considered.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You need all the help you can get in connection with money, legal questions. You have been hanging on to "draining" situation. Today — set new policy.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): New viewpoint is beneficial. But partnership obligations should not be neglected. There are matters which have been "hanging on." Today take definite steps. Clear away debris.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Some distract you. But key is to complete basic chores. Relative in transit may appear inconsiderate. Individual who teaches can help your cause. Know this — express respect, appreciation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have fun but there could be apprehension concerning funds. Day features exploitation of intellectual curiosity. Means discovery is made; profit accrues if you are inventive.

LIBRA (Setpt. 23-Oct. 22): You are restless where locale, residence is concerned. But there are family obligations. Fulfill them. Pace is slow, but steady. You are gaining more than is imagined. Stick to it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You get news which is contradictory. Apply past lessons. Key is to be analytical. Take nothing for granted. Accent on dealings with relatives, short journeys.

Sagitarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Keep track of goal. You may be tempted to go in different direction. Stick to known course. Money is involved. You are due for reward. But you need security of family backing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Avoid tendency to brood. Perfect techniques. Superior acts in unusual manner. Value your own abilities. Know your worth. One at the top is reluctant but eventually sees things your way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be aware of basic requirements. Best to be discreet. Don't tell all you know. Cooperate in charity project. Be subtle. Let others grab spotlight. One you aid today repays much.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Some of your hopes, wishes can be fulfilled. But there is a certain amount of self-discipline necessary. Involves the way you handle money. Maintain sense of balance. Then you win.

★

IF THURSDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you tend to be introspective, idealistic. Adjustment in home is upcoming. In short time you can make residential change if so desired. Otherwise, there is home improvement at current abode.

★ ★ ★

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for CAPRICORN, AQUARIUS. Special word to LIBRA: give due respect to parent, older individual.

VP's Exit From Public Office Seen as a Mere 'Interruption'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After more than two decades in the vortex of national affairs, Hubert H. Humphrey's political time has run out. It is an occupational hazard the vice president tried hard to avoid and probably will seek to remedy two years from now.

The indications are that the inauguration of Richard M. Nixon as President marks not the end of Humphrey's public career but merely an unwanted interruption.

Persons close to the vice president, even some who traveled with him to Norway on his last mission abroad, contend Humphrey has talked little about his personal political plans since Nixon defeated him.

But they say there is a definite chance Humphrey will run for the Senate in 1970 and added that obviously no decision has been made about a second race for the Presidency in 1972.

23 YEARS IN OFFICE

Humphrey's departure marks the end of 23 years as a public official — three as mayor of Minneapolis, 16 as senator, and four as vice president.

But even without a formal portfolio, Humphrey remains the titular leader of the Democratic party and therefore the ranking, active Democrat.

★ ★ ★

The 57-year-old vice president, normally hyperactive, has already mapped out a busy schedule for his immediate future.

As soon as Spiro T. Agnew becomes vice president, Humphrey plans a one-week vacation with his wife before beginning his new, many-faceted career.

COLLEGE RESIDENCE

He will take up residence in a house provided by the school at Macalaster College in St. Paul, Minn., where he will teach political science. He will divide his educational endeavors between Macalaster and the University of Minnesota.

★ ★ ★

He also has been named to the board of Encyclopedia Brittanica.

In addition, Humphrey plans very shortly to hit the lecture circuit, speaking to college groups, organizations, and associations and at fund-raising dinners designed to wipe out the huge party deficit run up in the election.

★ ★ ★

Humphrey's base will be in Milwaukee but he plans to keep an office in Washington — courtesy of the government for the first six months — and keep his apartment in the capital city.

IN GOOD HUMOR

Aides say that Humphrey's dejection at losing the election "comes and goes" but they add that "he does not seem to be depressed. He is in good humor and spirits."

★ ★ ★

Humphrey considers the major accomplishments of the Johnson-Humphrey administration to be the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the 1965 Voting Rights Act, the 1968 housing act, the landmark education legislation, the poverty programs, and conservation of the environment.

★ ★ ★

The biggest regret was the inability of the administration to achieve peace in Vietnam although Humphrey feels the mechanism for peace has been put in motion by the administration.

Cong Still Holds the Southern Tip of Vietnam in Its Iron Grip

CA MAU, Vietnam (AP) — Ca Mau is a tough place, and things go downhill as you get out of town. This is the capital of An Xuyen Province, which makes up the southern tip of Vietnam, jutting into the South China Sea and the Gulf of Siam.

"It's fair to say we do not enjoy national precedence," is the understatement of one U.S. adviser. That translates: Hold on best you can.

★ ★ ★

An Xuyen has been called the forgotten province—the Viet Cong grip is so strong that military and aid effort is thought to be better invested elsewhere.

During the Tet offensive the Vietcong set up their command post in the provincial hospital, 300 yards from the American advisory compound. Before and since there has been a neat, four-page newspaper published by the guerrillas for local readers.

GUERRILLAS BUSY

Last October the guerrillas floated a dud 500-pound U.S. bomb, wired with fresh booster charges, down the main canal through town. The blast sank five Vietnamese navy landing boats. A few nights later the military fuel dump went up in flames.

One of the few American aid sallies, a new market place, stands vacant in the middle of town. All the action is over in the old market which fronts on a canal, the chief way farmers get around in the Mekong Delta. The new market is several blocks away, over land, and not worth it, the farmers say.

★ ★ ★

There are six outlying districts. Last March, Nam Can district headquarters was overrun by Vietcong. Immediately, a town closer to Ca Mau was renamed Nam Can and announced as the real district headquarters. The district headquarters at Don Doi was folded and moved to nearby Cha La. Song Ong Doc on the gulf is another district headquarters and the only hamlet of 29 there the government says it has under control.

Even the new Nam Can headquarters, where there are three U.S. Army advisers, can only be visited by helicopter—with a mandatory chopper gunship escort.

CONG IN CONTROL

The government estimates the Vietcong control all but 35 per cent of the 225,000 people and all but 10 per cent of An Xuyen's 225 square miles.

It was against this background a fortnight ago that 5,500 government troops assaulted by helicopter into the U Minh forest stronghold of the Vietcong. The U Minh, which fills much of the province, serves as the main supply dump and headquarters for an estimated 19,000 guerrillas.

The U Minh campaign was made possible by the increasing number of U.S. helicopters being made available in the Mekong Delta. The effect is to give Vietnamese troops more mobility.

It has been relatively quiet lately in the province so several government propaganda teams have ventured out of Ca Mau. A modest pacification plan is being worked on.

"I even slept one night in a hamlet," an Army psychological warfare officer says in a somewhat incredulous tone. "The people at least seemed happy to see us."

Birds of Feather

WESTBROOK, Maine (AP) — It took a Crowe to help save a blackbird. Mrs Arthur W. Crowe spotted the bird entangled in red twine on a tree limb and called the local fire department to free the captive, which appeared to be in danger of freezing.

Add up to $10,000.00 to your health protection for only 25¢

(TO ENROLL ENTIRE FAMILY FIRST MONTH)

ACT NOW—YOU MUST MAIL ENROLLMENT FORM BELOW BY MIDNIGHT, SAT., FEBRUARY 1, OR IT CANNOT BE ACCEPTED

Here are the questions you'd normally ask your insurance man. But we answered them instead . . . so you would be able to insure yourself, right from this page. (You'll be amazed how much it saves you.)

1 When can I collect up to $10,000.00?

Every time you go to the hospital you collect $100.00-a-week to a maximum of $10,000.000 cash. Not just once, but for every new confinement! And you collect cash not just for yourself, but for every covered member of your family — including spouse and children!

2 How can I collect up to $7,000.00 extra cash—if I'm over 65?

If you are over 65 we pay you $70.00-a-week extra cash in addition to Medicare. This is extra. You collect it for each illness or injury—each time you go to the hospital. Right up to $7,000.00 extra cash!

3 How can I collect up to $5,000.00 additional—for a registered nurse at home?

You collect an extra $100.00-a-week cash—up to $5,000.00—any time you have been in the hospital 3 days or more and your doctor tells you to employ a full-time registered nurse at home within 5 days after you leave the hospital. This money is extra. You get it on top of any other money we pay you.

4 When do I collect up to $2,000.00 extra cash for accidents?

We pay you $1,000.00 extra cash for complete accidental loss of one hand or one foot or sight of one eye, and $2,000.00 extra cash for loss of both hands or both feet or sight of both eyes—even if it happens as long as 3 months after the accident. This is all extra money. You collect it on top of any other benefits we pay you. Not just for yourself, but for every covered member of your family!

5 What if I am hospitalized by the same illness—again?

Don't worry. You still collect to the maximum of $10,000.00. And if you've already resumed full normal activities for just 90 days—we call it a "new confinement". Which means you can collect all over again, up to another $10,000.00!

6 If I collect more money than my medical bills cost—do I keep the extra cash?

You certainly do! We pay you $100.00 cash every week—even if your bills add up to just a fraction of that amount! So it's possible to come out of the hospital dollars ahead!

7 If I already have some health insurance—will you pay me anyway?

Of course! Never mind what you collect from Blue Cross, or Major Medical, or Workman's Compensation, or Medicare, or any other insurance you may have. (Even for the same illness!) We still pay you $100.00-a-week extra cash income to the maximum of $10,000.00 cash. So if other insurance has taken care of some — or even all — of your medical bills . . . you still have that extra cash income from Presidential. Maybe hundreds of dollars extra. Isn't that a nice way to end an illness?

8 Do you pay me cash even for my children too?

Yes! And not just once, but every time they go to the hospital too! Under the Family Plan you receive $50.00-a-week extra cash to a maximum of $5,000.00 for each eligible dependent child between the ages of 3 months and 19 years old.

9 Will "future" children be protected too?

They surely will! And at no extra cost. Under the Family Plan with Maternity you simply notify us when your "new addition" is 3 months old. We cover him or her (or them) automatically.

10 Will you pay me $100.00-a-week cash—even for pregnancy?

Yes, even for pregnancy! Other health plans DON'T cover pregnancy. But we do. Under the Family Plan with Maternity you collect $100.00-a-week to a maximum of $10,000.00 cash for each pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage that results in a hospital stay when both parents have been enrolled in the plan for the entire period of pregnancy.

11 When does my estate collect an extra $1,000.00 accidental death benefit?

In case of accidental death to any covered member of your family—even if it happens as long as 3 months after the accident.

12 Why do you pay me higher cash benefits every year—without charging me a higher rate?

Because medical services cost more every year. So we feel you should be paid more every year. The first year we pay you $100.00-a-week. But the second year we increase that—automatically — to $103.00-a-week. The third year to $106.00-a-week. And so on, all the way up to a full $130-a-week the eleventh year and thereafter. That way your cash benefits rise to meet the rising cost of living. But the low premium you pay doesn't rise one penny (even though the price of everything else may be skyrocketing)!

13 Are there times I might collect even more than $10,000.00?

Yes, there are! If you and your spouse are both hospitalized. Or one of you goes more than once. Or even both of you more than once. Or if a child gets sick. Or someone has an accident — or whatever — you could very possibly collect not just up to $10,000.00 cash but as much as $20,000.00 . . . $30,000.00 . . . even $40,000.00 or more! We hope it never happens, of course, but isn't it reassuring to know you are fully protected if it does?

14 Can I spend my cash benefits any way I please?

Certainly! You can even put them in the bank as a "nest egg" for retirement. It's your money!

15 Does all cash come straight to me?

Yes, straight to you. NOT to the doctor or hospital. (Unless, of course, you ask us to.)

16 Must I pay taxes on the money you send me?

Certainly NOT! Every dollar is 100% tax-free.

17 Can I ever stop paying premiums—yet still remain fully covered?

Yes, indeed! All premiums that come due after you are in the hospital just 6 weeks or more . . . do not have to be paid! Not ever! We pay all premiums for you as long as you are hospitalized. You simply go right on collecting your full $100.00-a-week extra cash just as if you were paying the premiums yourself.

18 How can you give me so much—for so little?

Because you deal direct with the company — direct with Presidential itself! You virtually "write your own policy". Right off this page. No middleman needed! Costly "processing charges" are eliminated. So is "red tape". You do each simple step yourself — in your own home . . . in your own good time . . . by making up your own mind. And of course, dealing by mail is confidential. No one need know your personal affairs — except you!

19 Doesn't enrolling by mail take away the "personal" touch?

Certainly not! We give you more personal service, not less. But instead of getting it when you sign up — YOU GET IT WHEN YOU WANT TO MAKE A CLAIM! That's where it really means something. And that's where Presidential gives you plenty of service.

20 All right, now that you mention it—how do I go about making a claim?

As a Presidential policyowner you're entitled to contact FAST CLAIM HEADQUARTERS direct. From anywhere in the country! Entirely at our expense! No frantic attempts to locate your broker. No anxious waiting. If you have an accident or want to make a claim, don't hesitate—CONTACT US DIRECT! Even if you only have a question—CONTACT US DIRECT! Don't worry about "inconveniencing" or "annoying" anyone. WE ARE ALWAYS READY AND HAPPY TO GIVE YOU THE PROMPT, COURTEOUS AND DIRECT ATTENTION YOU ARE ENTITLED TO AS OUR POLICYOWNER!

21 How else do you save me money by cutting "red-tape"?

No long complicated applications or embarrassing personal "investigations"! The short Enrollment Form on this page tells us all we need to know. Notice it doesn't ask for a medical examination. Or set an age limit (we don't care if you're over 100!). Most important, we enroll many persons simultaneously! Not one policy at a time, the old-fashioned way — but thousands at once. Using all the economies of mass printing and latest computer techniques. That's how we can give you so much for only 25¢.

22 Now tell me what's the "catch"—what doesn't my policy cover?

Get ready for a welcome surprise. Your policy covers absolutely EVERYTHING except conditions caused by (a) war or act of war; (b) mental disorders, alcohol and narcotics; (c) where care is in a government hospital; (d) pregnancy, except as provided under the maternity benefit provision; and (e) expenses resulting from any sickness or injury you had before the effective date of your protection—but even this "exclusion" is done away with after you've been a policyowner for two years. Everything else is definitely covered. (Item "e", by the way, is a real help if you already have a health problem. It means that even if you were sick before you took out this policy—yes, even if you are sick right now, today—you will still be covered for that condition after the policy has been in effect for 2 years.)

23 If I'm hospitalized less than a week—do you still pay in full?

Of course we do! Regardless of whether you are in the hospital for as little as one day — or as long as a week, month, year or more — you always collect the full amount you are entitled to!

24 Is there any "waiting period" before I can start collecting?

Sickness has no "waiting period"—so neither does Presidential! You start collecting as soon as you enter the hospital.

25 Will there be a "penalty" if I have too many claims?

No — positively not! Regardless of how many claims you make . . . or how much or how often you collect . . . your low rate will never be raised and your valuable protection will never be cancelled for any of these reasons.

26 What about "advancing age" —will I have to pay more?

Again — positively not! Even if you are age 100 we will not raise your rates. Nor will we cancel your protection because of age.

27 Why do I need this $100.00-a-week cash protection?

Because U.S. Government figures show that in the past few years alone . . . medical costs have TRIPLED! Yet few people have anywhere near enough protection to meet these soaring doctor and hospital bills. How much would a long hospital stay cost you? Or a loved one? How would you ever pay for costly X-rays, doctor bills, medicines and drugs not covered by your present insurance? Would you be able to afford the quiet and dignity of a private room and a private nurse? Or a telephone to keep in touch with loved ones. Or the rental of a TV set to help pass the lonely hours? And who would pay for rent, food, clothing, and household expenses — all the non-medical bills that keep coming in at home even though you are in the hospital without an income? Many folks have lost their life savings, their cars, even their homes trying to meet such expenses. And no one knows whose turn it will be next—yours or mine. But we both know that once the doctor says it is your turn to enter the hospital, it is too late to buy coverage at any price. That's why this special protection was designed to give you "extra help" you need — when you need it.

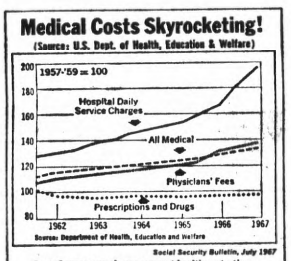
Medical Costs Skyrocketing!

(Source: U.S. Dept. of Health, Education & Welfare)



Social Security Bulletin, July 1967

Govt. figures reveal your present health protection... may no longer protect you against today's rising medical costs! Don't leave your loved ones defenseless! Act at once to add up to $10,000.00 to your health protection for only 25¢ for entire family.

28 When may I apply for this protection?

The question is not "when may" but "when must". YOU ABSOLUTELY MUST APPLY BY THE DATE SHOWN ON THE ENROLLMENT FORM ON THIS PAGE. YOUR 25¢ AND COMPLETED FORM MUST BE POSTMARKED NO LATER THAN THAT DATE. OR IT CANNOT BE ACCEPTED

29 Why do I have to apply before the deadline date?

Because, as explained in Question 21, we must receive your Enrollment Form the same time as all the others in order to give you the savings that come from processing many policies simultaneously. For this reason we simply cannot extend the date shown on the Enrollment Form.

30 When will my policy arrive?

Right away! We mail your policy as soon as we accept your Enrollment Form and 25¢. Examine it in the privacy of your own home. It's a very short document and you'll be pleasantly surprised to discover—THERE IS NO "FINE PRINT"! If you wish, show it to someone you trust—perhaps your lawyer, accountant or banker. Better still, show it to your own insurance man—even though he may very well be working for another insurance company. If he is a personal friend, he has your best interest at heart. So you can believe him when he tells you there is no better bargain available anywhere—at any price.

31 What if I change my mind—can I get my money back?

You certainly can! Even after you mail your Enrollment Form . . . even after you examine your policy in your own home and talk it over with anyone you wish . . . even after all this you are still free to change your mind. Simply return the policy within 15 days and your quarter will be refunded, at once. There will be no obligation whatever. Meanwhile all during the 15 days you are making up your mind, you will be protected by $100.00-a-week extra cash benefits from the effective date on the policy — even if you finally decide to return the policy and get your quarter back. But we don't think you'll want your quarter back. We think, instead, you'll want to continue your valuable protection at Presidential's amazing low rates. Just choose the Plan below that's best for you.

Plan I — Individual(s) Only Plan:
If you want to cover yourself — or yourself and one or more adult dependents (including your spouse) — then this is the Plan for you. Each person must be 18 or over, and shall pay (per person) the rate applicable to his or her age.

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium
18-39	only $3.95
40-49	only $4.95
50-59	only $5.95
60-74	only $6.95
75 and over	only $8.95

Plan II—Family Plan With Maternity
This plan is for the family that is still growing. To the total of the monthly premium for the adults to be insured, just add $5. This entitles you to all maternity benefits. It also covers all your unmarried, dependent children between the ages of 3 months and 19 years who live at home. Future dependent children will be covered when they reach 3 months of age and without any additional charge.

Plan III—Family Plan Without Maternity
This plan is for the family that is no longer growing. To the total of the monthly premium for the adults to be insured, just add $3. This covers all your unmarried, dependent children between the ages of 3 months and 19 years who live at home.

NOTE: The regular Monthly premium shown here (for your age at time of enrollment) is the same low premium you will continue to pay; it will not automatically increase as you pass from one age bracket to the next. Once you have enrolled, your rate can never be changed because of how much or how often you collect from us—or because of advanced age—but only if there is a general rate adjustment, up or down, on all policies of this type in your entire state.

32 How do I enroll?

If what you have read on this page makes good honest sense to you . . . if you find yourself agreeing with thousands of other Americans who welcome this sensible way to save money by "insuring themselves" — then by all means act on your own good instincts and mail the Enrollment Form with 25¢ now! Please act without delay. NO SALESMAN WILL CALL. And you'll have plenty of time after you mail the Enrollment Form to change your mind. (There's a money-back guarantee with no-obligation.) Please mail it NOW — because once accident or illness strikes — it's TOO LATE to buy protection at any price. Remember, the sooner you mail your Form, the sooner your protection will start. So act today—before anything unexpected happens.

Controversy No Stranger to Nixon Choice for Interior Dept.

By THAD POULSON

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—If Walter J. Hickel's two years as governor of the largest and most undeveloped state in the nation are any indication, he could be an innovator and an activist as head of the Department of the Interior.

★ ★ ★

Already, the plainspoken Alaskan's few public statements concerning his new position have made him the most controversial of President-elect Nixon's cabinet appointees.

Controversy is no stranger to Hickel, who as Alaska's governor has frequently opposed policies of Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall.

Characteristically, he has said he looks forward to the sharp questioning he faces today at the hearing of the Senate Interior Committee.

His widely-publicized statement that he is against "conservation for conservation's sake" follows his belief that Alaska's development has been hampered by unrealistic federal restrictions.

At the interior committee hearing he will likely air his views that Alaska's situation is unique, that different policies may well be in order for other parts of the country.

★ ★ ★

A case in point would be the federal water standards developed by the Interior Department under Udall that would have required steams that have never been used for industrial purposes to be maintained at exactly the same standard of purity.

These standards would make expansion of the pulp industry in heavily forested southeastern Alaska impossible, Hickel said last year when pressed by the Interior Department for adoption of the controls.

HOLDING OUT

The state has continued to hold out for what officials believe would be a more reasonable standard.

Hickel said after his appointment that Nixon was well-aware of the governor's interest in developing Alaska, and that 50 per cent of Interior's holdings are in Alaska.

★ ★ ★

Getting the multibillion barrel oil field in Arctic Alaska into production has been one of Hickel's prime goals.

As secretary of the interior, Hickel will be able to lift the "freeze" imposed by Udall on selection by Alaska of the 103 million acres to which it was entitled by the Statehood Act.

HE'LL DO IT

He has declared he will do just that.

The freeze was imposed to protect the natives' aboriginal rights until a federal settlement is made with them by Congress.

★ ★ ★

Hickel has indicated he has far-reaching plans to overhaul the Interior Department, which he contends has become a sort of "catch-all" agency through the years.

★ ★ ★

Among Hickel's plans is separation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs from the interior department in the interest of administrative efficiency, since it is the only branch that is not concerned with natural resources.

★ ★ ★

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare would be a more logical place for it, Hickel said.

★ ★ ★

He also espouses establishment of a cabinet-level department of fisheries and a national agency for raising the United States from its position as fifth in the world in fisheries production.

N. Viet, VC Paris Negotiators Lead Tranquil, Austere Lives

PARIS (AP) — The peacemakers from North Vietnam and the Vietcong have been hitting a Ho Chi Minh trail in Paris.

The wispy-bearded president of North Vietnam was here first in 1914, then in the 1920s, finally in 1946. He was one of the founders of the French Communist party, and used to attend jamborees of the now-defunct Communist Internationale as a French party delegate.

★ ★ ★

Ho's old stamping grounds and dwelling places have, for many of his devoted followers, taken on the quality of shrines.

And with delays in the four-way peace efforts, some delegates from North Vietnam and the southern Vietcong have had time on their hands.

None has his wife with him.

'POINT OF HONOR'

"It's almost a point of honor," one of their entourage explained, "for our people to avoid normal lives while our land and our compatriots are suffering."

Therefore, the bright lights and glitter of Paris are things to shun.

★ ★ ★

One favorite outing that attracts many of them—especially among the young officials—is to spend parts of their weekends and vacations visiting Ho's old quarters.

Among his Parisian lodgings: at 6 Rue des Gobelins in the eastern sector; at 9 Impasse Compoint, in Clichy near Montmartre; at 3 rue de Marche-des-Patriarches behind the Patheon.

He once worked as a photographer's retoucher and put an advertisement in a Communist paper saying:

"You who want a living souvenir of your parents, have your photographs retouched at Nguyen Ai Quoc's. Beautiful portrait and frame for 45 francs."

★ ★ ★

At the time, Ho's name was Nguyen Ai Quoc, meaning "Nguyen the patriot." Hanoi and Vietcong envoys, led by Xuan Thuy and Tran Buu Kiem, also do a lot of reading. They organize cultural occasions where folk-dancing and singing are highly popular. They play volleyball to keep fit—the Hanoi delegation's headquarters in the suburb of Choisy-le-Roi, an hour out of Paris, has a court.

COMMUNIST HIDEAWAY

Their villa's owned by the French Communist party. The North Vietnamese team of about 60 live almost like a commune.

★ ★ ★

The top brass of the Vietcong group live in a villa at Verrieres-les-Buissons, southwest of Paris. Having arrived much later and more hurriedly than their northern friends, their accommodation problems were more difficult. The rest of the delegation lives within half a mile in the residential district.

★ ★ ★

Many of the older members of the two groups know Paris fairly well. A few were here as students or officials during the years before 1954 when all Indochina was a jewel in the French empire.

Almost all speak French.

One of the unrecorded battles going on between the Communist-inclined delegations and their rivals from Saigon is for the minds of the 45,000 Vietnamese who have settled in France. Vietnamese students enrolled in French universities are targets for their attentions, too. Some of these younger, uncommitted Vietnamese have been spotted at both Saigon and at Hanoi functions.

On the whole, the rule among the men from Hanoi and the Vietcong is to trust no non-Reds. Reds.

★ ★ ★

Even the drivers who pilot their automobiles are members of the French Communisty party.

The North American wild turkey, still found in about 21 states, can fly at speeds up to 55 miles per hour despite its size.

Johnson Maps Broad Social Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has advised the Democratic majorities of House and Senate to give a sympathetic hearing to President-elect Nixon's program but to push ahead resolutely with legislation for social reforms.

★ ★ ★

Johnson, who sends a $195.3-billion budget to Congress today, said in a sentimental farewell to the nation last night that the prospects for peace in Vietnam are better now than they have been in the four years since Hanoi sent regular troops into the South.

But Vietnam was quickly passed over in Johnson's 44-minute final report on the State of the Union, a prosperous nation that sorely needs, he said, to repair urban blight, end racial discrimination, improve educational opportunities and guarantee the safety of its streets.

In his nationally televised and broadcast address to a joint session of Congress, Johnson had some cogent advice to his fellow Democrats and supporters who led the applause that interrupted his speech 53 times.

BROAD SOCIAL ADVANCES

He outlined to his Democratic listeners — and such Republicans as might take note — a broad program of social advancement calculated to write a party record for the 1970 congressional elections and a challenge to Nixon's re-election in 1972.

Johnson, who was said to have consulted Nixon on the major points of his speech, called for:

- A 13 per cent over-all increase in Social Security benefits, with attendant increases in payroll deductions. During the campaign Nixon called for linking benefit increases with the cost of living.

Related Stories, Pages A-2, A-3, A-7, A-12, B-7

- Funds to build 500,000 homes for needy families, with establishment of an urban development bank to make low interest loans on such dwellings.
- Reorganization and revitalization of the antipoverty program, continuing it "until we have broken the back of poverty in our land."
- Implementation of the Fair Housing Act and extension of provisions of the Voting Rights Act.
- A full $300-million appropriation to carry out the Safe Streets Act and legislation to require the licensing and registration of firearms.
- An increase in congressional salaries from the present $30,000 a year to $42,500.

As forecast, Johnson also asked for continuance of the 10 per cent income surtax to permit the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 to show a $3.4-billion surplus.

★ ★ ★

White House aides made it clear that all of Johnson's proposals will go to Congress in the form of draft bills from the Budget Bureau, and said it will be up to the Democratic majorities to determine that such programs as Head Start for under privileged preschool children are "here to stay."

CARRIER BLAZE FOUGHT — Seamen fight fire on the flight deck of the USS Enterprise yesterday in waters off Hawaii. Several explosions ripped the vessel, the world's largest warship, resulting in at least 24 deaths. Eighty-five were injured, and 17 crewmen are missing.

Nixon Supports LBJ's Plea for Keeping Surtax

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Nixon, about to take charge of a war-swollen federal budget, has pledged to support President Johnson's recommendation that the 10 per cent income surtax be continued — until "the facts we face" permit repeal.

"It remains my conviction that the surcharge should end as soon as requirements for the war, the budget outlook and economic conditions will permit," Nixon said last night. "It is my understanding that President Johnson shares this same view."

★ ★ ★

The words Nixon used in a statement to describe his position, and those Johnson included in his farewell State of the Union message were virtually identical.

Nixon and Johnson discussed the tax in a telephone conversation Sunday, and the President clearly received his successor's endorsement at that time.

REPEAL URGED

Since his election, Nixon and his advisers had said repeatedly the tax should be repealed as soon as economic and budget conditions would permit.

As a campaigner, Nixon at one point said flatly he wanted the $15 billion levy to end on June 30, when it is due to expire unless Congress acts.

★ ★ ★

But generally, he linked its elimination with an end to the financial burdens of the Vietnam war.

The tax statement was Nixon's only public business yesterday — and it was prepared even before he flew to Key Biscayne Monday night. There were no announced callers on his schedule today, and no staff aides were with Nixon.

He was said to be working in solitude, and taking the sun now and then, in preparation for his inaugural address next Monday.

N-Carrier Blasts, Fire Kill 24; 17 Are Missing

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — The U.S. Navy counted 24 dead, 85 injured and 17 missing today after a series of explosions and fire swept the flight deck of the nuclear aircraft carrier Enterprise on a training exercise.

The 85,000-ton carrier, world's biggest warship, made it back to port yesterday from the scene of the disaster 75 miles southwest of Honolulu.

★ ★ ★

A Navy source first attributed the initial explosion to a bomb falling from an airplane landing on the carrier. Later a Navy spokesman stated the cause of the blasts was unknown.

The ship's nuclear power plant was not affected.

BOMBING EXERCISE

Planes from the Enterprise were in an exercise Tuesday morning at Kahoolawe, an uninhabited island used as a bombing range, pending redeployment to the Western Pacific. The Enterprise has been in action off Vietnam.

The Enterprise, known to her 5,400 men as the "Big E", had launched one flight of planes and was preparing to launch a second group armed with live bombs and rockets.

★ ★ ★

The first explosion apparently occurred in or near an F4 Phantom jet parked near the stern of the ship.

"I was walking forward on the flight deck when the first explosion knocked me down," said Petty Officer Billy Hawk, 25, of Austin, Tex. "I picked myself up, ran to a fire station and started getting out gear.

MAN DISAPPEARS

"A fire unit went by me into the scene. There was another explosion and the man who had the end of the fire hose wasn't there any more."

At dockside following arrival of the Enterprise, Navy officials said there were at least 10 explosions. Most of the missing apparently were blown into the 76-degree water.

Chief Warrant Officer Jim Helten, 36, of San Diego, Calif. said, "There was a multitude of heroism."

The fire was brought under control nearly three hours after it began.

A search of the scene for survivors was carried on by Navy ships and by Navy and Coast Guard aircraft.

The blasts tore three holes in the deck. One penetrated into three lower decks, where bodies were found.

★ ★ ★

The 14 planes in the carrier's first launch were ordered to land at Barber's Point on Oahu.

Fifteen aircraft on the flight deck were destroyed and others damaged.

MEDICS LIFTED TO 'BIG E'

Helicopters took 16 medics to the Enterprise to help care for wounded. Those most seriously injured were taken to Tripler Army Hospital near Honolulu.

Doctors at Tripler ordered 10 men suffering from serious burns airlifted to Brooks Army Hospital in Texas.

Red Spacemen to Switch Ships?

MOSCOW (AP) — Four rookie Soviet cosmonauts, riding Soyuz 4 and Soyuz 5, began maneuvering in space today for perhaps the world's first crew transfer in orbit.

A telecast from aboard Soyuz 5 reported about an hour after its launching today that the "splendid" craft was functioning normally and the three-man crew was feeling fine.

★ ★ ★

Earlier cosmonaut Vladimir Shatalov, flying alone in Soyuz 4, reported all was well aboard his craft. Shatalov was launched about 24 hours before his companion ship.

There were unconfirmed reports in Moscow that the two ships would link up, and one of the men from Soyuz 5 would climb aboard Soyuz 4. As usual, space officials kept silent on plans for the four-man mission.

ANOTHER 'FIRST'

The cosmonaut transfer would give the Soviets another "first" in space, and also would mark the first time they matched the U. S. feat of manned docking in orbit.

★ ★ ★

Ship commander Boris Volynov reported in the telecast from Soyuz 5 that he and his two fellow crewmen withstood the launch "very well" and had begun unspecified "joint experiments" with Shatalov's craft.

Vote Proposal Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., endorsed today proposed legislation to require that electoral votes be counted on a proportionate basis.

★ ★ ★

Talmadge, calling Electoral College reform "imperative and pressing," said he would co-sponsor a constitutional amendment proposed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C.

Congress Is Handed $195-Billion Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson submitted a farewell $195.3-billion spending budget today with a $3.4-billion surplus achieved through a proposal to extend the 10 per cent income surtax until June 30, 1970.

The President said there had been "a record-breaking period of prosperity" for the last eight years covering his administration and that of John F. Kennedy.

This had brought, he said, an increase of 31 per cent in real per capita spendable income, adjusted for price increases, creation of 10 million more jobs, and a $24-billion rise in corporate profits after taxes.

Johnson said recent sharp price rises underscored the need for a stronger effort to control inflation. He said this was one important reason for his proposal to continue the surtax. The other, he said, was uncertainty over the Vietnam war.

SOCIAL SECURITY HIKE

In addition to recommending bigger Social Security benefits, Johnson proposed that Medicare be extended to 2 million disabled persons, that an additional $2 billion be put into the state-run Medicaid program of health care for indigent families, that unemployment compensation payments be increased both in weekly amount and duration, and that new health protection be given low-income families starting with prenatal care for a mother through complete medical services during the first year of her child's life.

His proposal for a 13 per cent average boost in Social Security would include a basic 10 per cent increase for all 25 million Americans now on the rolls, a hike in the present $55 monthly minimum payment to $80 covering 2 million beneficiaries, and a $100 minimum for individuals who have paid Social Security taxes at least 20 years.

As in previous budgets, Johnson insisted the amount he was recommending "represents our minimum requirements to fill urgent needs at home and abroad."

Dense Fog Lifts; Area to Warm Up

The dense fog that rolled into the Pontiac area lifted late this morning leaving skies mostly cloudy.

★ ★ ★

All flights from Oakland-Pontiac Airport were canceled this morning due to the heavy ground fog.

The weatherman predicts warmer temperatures. The low is expected to be 15 to 20 tonight.

Tomorrow's forecast is: cloudy and a little warmer, with a chance of brief freezing rain early in the morning and occasional light rain in the afternoon with a high of 29 to 34.

The low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 8 degrees. The mercury recorded 24 at 12:20 p.m.

City Budget Gets Preliminary Approval

By ED BLUNDEN

Pontiac's City Commission gave preliminary approval last night to a record $10,177,620 budget for 1969. This is an increase of about $2 million over last year.

The expanded tentative budget was made possible by increased revenues from the city income tax and the per capita share of the state income tax. Indications are that income would be adequate and no tax increase necessary.

The budget for 1969 was presented late due to the installation of data processing equipment used in its preparation. A public hearing on the budget was set for 8 p.m., Jan. 28 at city hall, East Wide Track and East Pike.

The proposed budget was prepared by the staff and some changes could be made by the City Commission before or after the public hearing.

REPORTS ON BUDGET

Reporting on the budget, City Manager Joseph A. Warren said it is "the first budget in many years of Pontiac history that can be prepared on a basis that provides reasonable, adequate operation for the city's services."

Related Stories, Pages A-7, A-8

Just a year ago the city faced a financial crisis and mnay cutbacks in services were threatened. The revenue from the city's income tax changed all that.

The budget report shows about $2.8 million came into the city's coffers during 1968. This was about $400,000 above that expeted. The extra windfall is attributed largely to the huge payrolls in the year at the General Motors plants.

In 1969 an estimated $4.1 million on incomes will be collected, some $1.3 million above last year. This much higher figure will be achieved because

SOBELL COMES HOME — Morton Sobell, 52, and his wife, Helen, are assisted by police to a taxicab after they were reunited at a bus terminal in New York last night. Sobell, convicted of conspiring to pass atomic secrets to the Soviet Union, was released hours earlier from the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., after serving 17 years of a 30-year sentence.

Rosenberg Spy-Case Figure Is Freed After 17 Years

NEW YORK (AP) — Morton Sobell, released from prison yesterday after serving 17 years for conspiring to sell atomic secrets to the Soviet Union, has returned home and says he has "a lot of living to do."

Sobell, 52, stepped out of the federal penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., yesterday afternoon, hours after the U. S. Court of Appeals in Manhattan ordered him freed. He took a bus to New York City to rejoin his family.

"I have a lot of living to do, and I'm going back to school," Sobell said as he arrived, clad in what prison officials call "dress-out clothing" — a gray suit, white shirt and tie.

★ ★ ★

Sobell, who was sentenced in 1951 to 30 years in jail, avoided newsmen waiting at the bus station and left for an undisclosed location.

MET BY FAMILY

Meeting Sobell at the bus station were his wife, Helen, 51; their son Mark, 19; their daughter, Mrs. Sydney Clemens, 29; and Sobell's mother, Rose, 74.

Mrs. Sobell said she had heard of her husband's imminent release on the radio and called to tell him. She said he did not know until her phone call. She said her husband wanted to study engineering.

★ ★ ★

Sobell, a radar expert, was convicted along with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg who were executed in June 1953. The Rosenbergs were convicted of committing wartime espionage as well as conspiracy.

Although sentenced to the maximum term, Sobell had been due for release Aug. 24 because of good behavior. The appeals unit ruled he should be credited with 7½ months he spent in jail for inability to post $100,000 bail prior to sentencing in 1951 and thus enabled the earlier release.

SPECIFIC CHARGE

Specifically, Sobell was convicted of conspiring to commit espionage by transmitting to the Soviet Union documents, writings, sketches, notes and information related to national defense.

Illinois Dem Hits ABM Locations

CHICAGO (AP) — An Illinois congressman said Monday many congressmen would not have approved an antiballistic missile system for the nation if they had known beforehand that the Army would locate the missile sites in heavily populated areas.

Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., told more than 200 persons attending a public hearing on the proposed nuclear missile site near suburban Libertyville:

"The missile system could have serious consequences for our economy, the domestic climate and national security. The possibility of an accidental explosion of a nuclear missile, either in or above its silo, affects the whole area."

Appearing in behalf of the Army were Robert Jordan, general counsel, and Col. Robert C. Marshall of the Sentinel command system who said the chances of an accidental launching of a Sentinel missile are "substantially nil."

Land-Sea Sweep Aims to Break Cong Bastion

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. Marines participating in an 8,200man amphibious operation on the Batangan Peninsula got their first taste of action today as they tightened their noose on a Vietcong stronghold 340 miles northeast of Saigon.

★ ★ ★

Rear Adm. W. W. Behrens Jr. of Harrisburg, Pa., reported the Leathernecks repulsed an enemy attempt to break out of the cordon, suffering two dead and seven wounded in a fierce exchange of small arms fire. Enemy casualties were not known.

Earlier, four Vietcong were killed in another small skirmish and two guerrilla soldiers defected to the Americans, Behrens said. He also reported the Marines destroyed several tunnel complexes, captured 600 pounds of rice, corn and flour, and rounded up 700 suspects for interrogation by a South Vietnamese pacification team.

Behrens said the aid is to separate the peninsula's Vietcong "activists" from the general population, estimated between 5,000 and 10,000.

HISTORIC LANDING

Two Marine battalions swept ashore on Batangan Monday in what the U. S. Navy said was the biggest seaborne assault since the 1950 Inchon landing of the Korean War. About 5,200 troops of the U. S. Americal Division and the South Vietnamese 2nd Infantry Division joined up with the 3,000 Leathernecks yesterday.

Navy patrol boats have ringed the peninsula, sealing off the enemy's last escape routes as the ground troops push seaward. They hope to trap an estimated 800 North Vietnamese regulars and an unknown number of Vietcong guerrillas.

"We want to minimize Vietcong influence in the area and neutralize his efforts," said Behrens. "We will do everything in our power during this operation to protect the villager, and we intend to offer him enough support to remove his fear of Vietcong domination."

Infantry units in the cordon reported encountering only sporadic sniper fire.

State Junior Miss Pageant Nears

Great expectations are nurtured by the 24 finalists in the Michigan Junior Miss Pageant to be held Friday and Saturday at Pontiac Northern High School.

A reception tomorrow at the Community National Bank Building, will mark the beginning of weekend activities for the attractive and talented teen-agers.

★ ★ ★

The winner of the state Junior Miss Pageant, sponsored by the Pontiac Area Jaycees, will receive a trip to the national finals in May in Mobile, Ala.

Four area Junior Misses will be competing for the state title. They are Patti Dell of 201 Draper, Pontiac; Pamela Munger of 2506 Little Trail, Commerce Township; Karyn Everly of 3440 Quick, Holly Township and Linda Oldershaw of 28425 Peppermill, Farmington Township.

★ ★ ★

The girls will be judged on scholastic ability, individual interviews, poise and appearance, physical fitness and talent performance.

Tickets for the Friday talent presentation and the finals on Saturday may be purchased at the door or obtained in advance by contacting Richard Brown, 124 Illinois, Jaycee ticket chairman.

Highlights of LBJ Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are some of the key topics covered by President Johnson in his State of the Union message:

VIETNAM — He said the prospects for peace are better now than at any time in the past four years.

SOCIAL SECURITY — He recommended an over-all increase of at least 13 per cent in benefits, and that the minimum rate of $55 a month be raised to $80.

★ ★ ★

SURTAX — He said his recommendation that the income surtax be continued will be supported by President-elect Nixon until the Nixon administration and Congress have had time to gauge what should be done.

BUDGET — The President reported the budget for the fiscal year ending June 30 will show a surplus of $2.4 billion, and that the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 will provide a surplus of $3.4 billion.

DRAFT — He repeated his 1967 recommendation to Congress that it adopt a fair and impartial random selection system.

ANTIPOVERTY — The President suggested reorganizing portions of the program and transferring them to other agencies.

HOUSING — He advocated increased support for the model cities program and called for the construction of 500,000 housing units for needy families.

URBAN DEVELOPMENT — The President proposed the creation of an urban development bank that would issue taxable bonds and lend money to communities for schools, parks and other facilities.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS — He advocated early ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty and a resumption of talks with the Soviet Union on the limitation of offensive and defensive missile systems. He also declared the United States supports the resolution of the U.N. Security Council on the Middle East.

Part of Midwest Tasting Freeze

By the Associated Press

Warnings to travelers were in effect today over a broad section of the Midwest as a developing weather disturbance touched off freezing precipitation.

Freezing drizzle and freezing rain or sleet fell throughout an area from Iowa and Northeast Nebraska to Minnesota and North Dakota.

★ ★ ★

The disturbance and its accompanying front are moving eastward and were expected to spread freezing precipitation across Wisconsin and northern Illinois and Indiana.

Heavy snow warnings were posted for the mountains of western Colorado.

SPREADING RAIN

A large low that has been anchored in the Pacific northwest of Washington continued to spread rain and snow showers over western Washington and Oregon.

Southerly winds brought warming temperatures into areas of the Midwest and arctic air over the eastern third of the nation continued to moderate.

★ ★ ★

Early morning temperatures ranged from one below zero at Pellston, Mich. to 67 at Brownsville and McAllen, Tex.

Other early morning temperatures and conditions were—Boston 24 clear, New York 27 clear, Philadelphia 31 cloudy, Washington 30 clear, Atlanta 35 cloudy, Miami 58 cloudy, Detroit 18 cloudy, Chicago 23 cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 27 freezing drizzle, St. Louis 33 cloudy, Kansas City 43 cloudy, Phoenix 56 drizzle, Los Angeles 55 cloudy, San Francisco 44 clear, Seattle 35 cloudy, Anchorage 6 below clear, Honolulu 68 cloudy.

No Postal Politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William A. Steiger announced today he has taken steps to remove from partisan politics the appointments of postmasters and rural carriers in his Wisconsin congressional district.

★ ★ ★

Steiger, a Republican, said he is requesting that any postal vacancy in his district be filled by appointment of the top-ranking applicant on a list of those eligible. The list would be established after an open, competitive examination.

Detailed Quiz for Sirhan Jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Prospective jurors in the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan murder trial are being asked in greatest detail about their attitude toward psychiatry, their views on the death penalty, and the effect of pretrial publicity on their opinions.

Defense of the 24-year-old Jordanian accused of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is expected to feature a sophisticated, legalistic tactic which admits Sirhan fired the fatal bullet.

★ ★ ★

Exhaustive and repetitious probing by both defense and prosecution has centered on questions designed to show how the prospective jurors would react to such a defense.

Four jurors, all women, were tentatively seated by the close of yesterday's session. Both sides hope to begin testimony within a month.

SIRHAN 'SATISFIED'

Sirhan watched the proceedings intently and was quoted by one of his attorneys as saying, "I am satisfied with the way things are going."

Prospective jurors are being asked if they can set aside their revulsion to the crime itself and deliberate instead on Sirhan's state of mind at the moment he pulled the trigger.

★ ★ ★

They are also being asked if they can forget the victim's world renown.

Birmingham

Architectural Control Unit Will Be Aired

BIRMINGHAM — This city's planning board will discuss the possible establishment of an architectural control committee at tonight's 8 p.m. meeting.

The City Commission has requested the planning board to designate a committee or review board to work out guidelines toward continuing to implement the "Birmingham Look" in the city.

★ ★ ★

Maintaining the "Birmingham Look" has been defined by Planning Board chairman John Jickling as an attempt to preserve the pedestrian atmosphere and distinctive quality of Birmingham rather than establishing an identifiable consistent architectural style in the community.

"Actually The Birmingham look is more of a mood than a look," Jickling said.

Almon J. Durkee of Rochester and a principal officer with Luckenbach, Durkee and Associates of Birmingham, has been elected to the board of directors, Michigan Society of Architects, for 1969-70.

He is currently serving on the board of directors for the Detroit chapter, American Institute of Architects, and is past officer and charter member of the Detroit chapter, Construction Specification Institute.

Mrs. Perliana Butler, coordinator of preschool education for the Pontiac School District will speak on early childhood education at Pembroke School's January meeting PTA at 7 p.m. Monday.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Butler served as a reading clinician at Oakland County Reading Center for one year and was an elementary school principal for nine years. As a principal, she was instrumental in initiating preschool programs in Pontiac.

The Birmingham Kiwanis Club formally inducted its new officers for 1969 last night at the annual Installation and Ladies Night dinner held at the Birmingham House Motel.

Officers are: Ralph R. Watts Jr., 592 Bird, president; Darry L. Bruestle, 571 Bird, first vice president; William B. Woodburn, 929 Harmon, second vice president; Theodore Paczas, 1295 Forest, treasurer; and Jack A. Daugherty, 570 Bird, secretary.

★ ★ ★

Robert W. Montgomery, 1517 Shipman, 1968 president, will be responsible for increasing the Birmingham Club's membership and aiding in establishing new clubs in Division Six in 1969.

Richard E. Devore of 29 Academy Way, head of the ceramics department of Cranbrook Academy of Art, has been invited to show his work in three national exhibitions.

One of his trays has been selected for display in the National Invitational Exhibition scheduled for February at the Honolulu Academy of Fine Arts.

★ ★ ★

In April he will be represented in the 25th Scripps College (Claremont, Calif.) Invitational. A sculptured piece has been purchased for the new Johnson Wax collection, which will tour the country.

Oklahoma's Harris Elected Dem Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fred Harris shouldered the dual burdens of U. S. senator and Democratic national chairman today and set out in pursuit of party strength and $9 million to repay party debts.

Harris, 38, was unanimously elected party chairman at a meeting of the national committee.

★ ★ ★

Selection of the Oklahoman to succeed the resigning Lawrence F. O'Brien had been a foregone conclusion since Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, as titular head of the party, publicly gave Harris his support over the weekend.

State Senate 'Raring to Go,' While House Marks Time

LANSING (UPI) — The State Legislature was a one-house body of sorts today. The Senate was the only chamber at work.

House members won't return to their Capitol desks until Jan. 27, when they are expected to flood the hopper with bill introductions.

★ ★ ★

Sixteen bills and some strongly worded resolutions await Senate action. But the big issues of the session — state aid to schools, teacher strike legislation, budget increases and taxes — remain in the background.

"We're ready to tackle any and all matters," boasted Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood. "The question is when will the House be ready?"

House Speaker William A. Ryan maintained the lower chamber needs a two-week recess to complete organizational chores necessitated by the Democrats replacing Republicans as the House majority party.

"We need time to get organized — set up committees, hire secretaries and allocate office space," he said.

★ ★ ★

Chairman Oscar E. Bouwsma R-Muskegon, of the Senate Labor Committee called on the membership of both houses to get down to work immediately, five days a week, and finish legislative business by midsummer. Otherwise, he warned, the session could drag into next fall and possibly next winter, with little accomplished.

"I am being paid, like the other legislators, as a full-time legislator and I feel we should be working in high gear rather than in a haphazard fashion as we are doing now," he said.

PLANS SNUBBED

But leadership plans to clean up fast and adjourn by late July or early August were already being discounted. Typically, neither House nor Senate had any serious work planned in January, except to hear governor-to-be William G. Milliken's first budget address.

★ ★ ★

Milliken's budget is certain to be considered in the light of his state of the state message urging legislators to walk a prudent spending path this year.

Here's a Tip on Hats---They Tell a Lot About Man Underneath

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

"Standing on the corner, watching . . ." is usually a sport reserved for men. But the regulations were ignored yesterday long enough to make a first-person survey of winter cranial coverings of the male species.

FRIEDLAND

"A man buys a hat that reflects his personality—often without even knowing it," a headgear salesman said in a presurvey cram course.

After staring at examples passing through Pontiac Mall corridors, I had to agree with him. Most of the male hat-wearing shoppers appeared concerned with looks, not with warmth. Few hats actually covered the ears.

★ ★ ★

A hat can look like part of the flesh on one man while it appears a silly piece of cloth caught by the wind in the hair of another.

One hangdoggish-looking specimen passed by wearing a weatherbeaten brown cloth model with a 2-inch brim following his hairline and the sag of his ears.

Another man, apparently opting for the spy effect, literally slouched past the fountains with his black cap pulled low over his forehead.

Several dapper younger men strode by with sporty versions of felt or fur angularly perched.

★ ★ ★

Older men, often out shopping with their wives, however, were mostly hatted in traditional creased long oval cloth models.

The only neutral model viewed by this staring reporter was the council hat—looking like Russian army surplus hat — appropriate for duty in the Arctic.

Always in a dark color, the long oval top with fake — or real — beaver sides, sits on any man's head without changing or adding to a personality. A hat for individuals, the council model is this year's most popular item.

An hour's viewing merely supports the belief that a hat doesn't make a man — but you can learn a lot about the man by the make of his hat.

Troy Vandalism Report Given

TROY — The board of education last night received a report on last week's vandalism damage at Troy High School and Baker Junior High.

Damage at the high school, according to Principal Clyde D. Peterson, included breakage of numerous panes of glass, both in windows and in hall display cases.

★ ★ ★

Other damage included:

- Office machines — an electric typewriter in the main office and the main console of the central public address system.
- Food and machines in the cafeteria. Six hundred servings of apple crisp were destroyed, at a cost of $90, and the cash register, a fan, and fruit and juice machines were damaged.
- Fifty pounds of clay in the art department, "damaged beyond use."

★ ★ ★

Miscellaneous fixtures and equipment found in hallways. Four clocks were destroyed or damaged, three fire extinguishers were emptied, two hall lights were broken and a bulletin board outside the principal's office was pulled off the wall.

★ ★ ★

Junior high school damage primarily consisted of broken glass and scattering of contents of desks and shelves around rooms.

Classes were canceled Friday at both schools after the vandalism, which resulted in an estimated total damage of about $10,000, according to school officials.

Sewer Costs Down in Bloomfield Twp.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Final costs of two new sewer assessment projects approved recently by the Township Board proved to be less than estimated.

Board members approved extension of Lone Pine Village sanitary sewer at a total cost of $29,900 or $2,300 per site. The sewer line would run along Ranch Lane off of Lone Pine Road.

★ ★ ★

The second project, the Inkster-Lone Pine area sewer, will cost property owners a total of $19,200 or $1,600 per site.

★ ★ ★

In other recent business, the appointments of John Gnau, 3894 Peabody, and Thomas H. Dickson, 5649 Pebbleshire, to the planning commission for three-year terms were approved by the board. They replace Victor P. Sutt, 2390 E. Hammond Lake, and Andrew Snively, 1733 Kirk Way. Sutt's term expired while Snively moved out of the area.

SEWER PROJECTION

A petition was accepted for a 14-site sanitary sewer near Wing Lake Road, south of Maple. Cost is estimated at $28,800. The first hearing is scheduled for Feb. 10 at 8:30 p.m.

Other sewer petitions accepted include Inwoods, Lochslea subdivision; W. Lochslea No. 1 Apple Lane and Blossom Lane Braes of Bloomfield No. 3 (Bryn Mawr and Ballantine).

★ ★ ★

A request by W. C. Scott to rezone property on Maple from R-2, one-family residential to F-1, vehicular parking, was approved. The property is located near the intersection of Maple and Lahser.

★ ★ ★

The board agreed to participate with West Bloomfield Township and the Oakland County Road Commission in a matching funds project for paving of Inkster extending from Maple south to Beacon Hill. The two townships each will furnish $33,000 with the road commission assuming the balance of $69,000.

Troy Engineering Firm Adds Partner

TROY — Bruce A. King Jr. has been named a principal partner in the consulting engineering firm of Holforty, Widrig, O'Neill and Associates Inc., 177 W. Big Beaver.

KING

His appointment was accompanied by a change of the firm's name to Holforty, Widrig, O'Neill, King and Associates, Inc.

King, who will assume the position of director of mechanical and electrical engineering at the firm, previously was director of facilities for Oakland Community College.

★ ★ ★

He received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Illinois, where he majored in atomic physics. He is a registered mechanical and electrical engineer in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

His background includes 33 years of engineering experience, 12 in private practice under the firm name of B. A. King and Associates, Inc.

Bond Issue Vote Is Likely in June

Holly OKs Plans for New Junior High

HOLLY — Preliminary architectural plans for a new junior high school building have been tentatively approved by the board of education here.

Cost will not exceed $3 million, according to school officials.

The board expects to hve final building plans and cost estimates prepared in time to hold a special bond issue election in June.

Supt. of Schools Russell Haddon said the board will concentrate on the junior high school project, delaying the needed addition to the elementary school and improvements to the high school until later bond issues.

'NEEDED IN 2 YEARS'

He added that funds for improvements to the two existing schools would have to be appropriated within two years or the school system would face serious overcrowding and building condition problems.

★ ★ ★

An earlier bond issue for $5 million, which would have provided funds for improvement of the high school and elementary buildings in addition to the proposed junior high, was defeated in October 1967.

★ ★ ★

Architects Reibe & Weiland of Ann Arbor are developing a campus-type, open space style junior high building plan. The new facility would house 36 to 42 classrooms and serve grades 7-9.

★ ★ ★

Haddon explained the open-space building concept would prove to be more functional since classes and departments would be centered according to subject in specific areas of the school.

LARGER ROOMS

The campus plan also eliminates considerable corridor space and provides larger classrooms.

★ ★ ★

Tha administrator added that the campus-type building plan eliminates unnecessary space and reduces building costs.

Projected Kresge Co. Relocation Boosts Troy Development Plans

TROY—Plans for a multimillion-dollar business - shopping development in this city have received a major boost as a representative of S. S. Kresge Co. confirmed yesterday that the firm intends to relocate its headquarters here.

★ ★ ★

Russell E. Duncan, head of the Kresge construction department, has informed the City Commission of the firm's plans for a 500,000-square-foot office building on 30 acres of a 60-acre site owned by the Biltmore Development Co. northwest of Big Beaver and Coolidge.

★ ★ ★

The commission unanimously approved rezoning of the entire 60 acres from single-family residential to office usage Monday night.

Biltmore, developer of Troy's huge Somerset apartment complex, previously had received approval of a rezoning request for 52 acres northeast of Big Beaver and Coolidge for commercial usage.

'REGIONAL CENTER'

At that time, offioials of the development company said the land would be used for a "regional shopping center."

Also, the company has developed a high-fashion shopping center southeast of the Big Beaver-Coolidge intersection, with Saks Fifth Avenue and Bonwit Teller the principal tenants.

★ ★ ★

Norman Cohen, Biltmore attorney and a partner in the firm, has estimated tax revenue from the office complex and regional shopping center at $1.5 million annually, roughly five times anticipated income from residential property.

W. Bloomfield Will Continue Hearing on Sewer District

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Township Board will continue Jan. 27 the public hearing on the sewer assessment district for Knollwood Heights. A decision concerning whether or not to disband the current sewer assessment district and begin creating a new one will probably be made at the meeting, to be at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall.

★ ★ ★

The Committee for the Preservation of Knollwood — a group of residents against the current sewer assessment district — is seeking legally to void the council's actions to date.

★ ★ ★

The committee claims that many residents signed petitions on the basis of false information and later asked that their names be withdrawn, but that the township refused to do so.

The estimated base cost of the sewer based on engineering done so far is about $337,711. The estimated base cost per home owner would be about $3,400.

★ ★ ★

Additional cost would include connecting fees of about $600 per home owner and cost of a hookup to the house from the street. Residents are also responsible for restoring their own landscaping.

Planning Unit Adds 2 in Independence

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Mrs. Gordon Bray of 9375 Pine Knob and Glen Brokenshaw of 5592 Pine Knob have been appointed to three-year terms on the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Both were approved by the Township Board on the recommendation of Supervisor Duane Hursfall. They replace Richard Johnston and John Lynch, whose terms expired.

Huron Valley Board Changes Meeting

The Huron Valley School Board of Education has changed regular board meetings to the fourth Wednesday of the month.

The meetings, which were formerly held on Monday, will still be at 8:30 p.m. at Milford High School.

Huber and 17 Seek Probe of Colleges

LANSING (AP) — State Sen. Robert Huber, R-Troy, who last month said Oakland University was "going to pot," yesterday found 17 allies in calling for an investigation into left-wing student activities at state-supported universities.

★ ★ ★

Huber and his allies — 15 Republicans and two Democratic state senators — signed a resolution calling for a five-man investigating committee to find out why students print dirty words in their newspapers, take off their clothes in class and what the role of Students for a Democratic Society really is on the campuses.

★ ★ ★

Huber last month made headlines by raising a ruckus over an Oakland student who removed his clothes in a poetry class.

Yesterday he renewed his charges about Oakland, saying University Chancellor Durward B. Varner was trying to hide the situation. Oakland officials denied the charge.

★ ★ ★

Principal sponsor of yesterday's bill was James G. Fleming, R-Jackson. Fleming headed a special committee that studied the Detroit riot of 1967 and said he is confident the State Senate will approve the proposed investigation.

The truck, which was in 48 feet of water, was not recovered yesterday. However, another attempt was scheduled for this morning. A service station tow truck will be used to haul the truck to a shallow area near the lake's edge, where it will be pulled through another hole in the ice.

Years in Public Eye Prepared Pat for First-Lady Role

MAKE-OVER PAGES

By JOY MILLER
AP Woman's Editor

WASHINGTON — For Pat Nixon, the American dream will be fulfilled when she moves into the White House. It is a dream, she says, that all Americans can hang on to and make come true for themselves, too.

But being First Lady will also mean taking on one of the toughest jobs — and unpaid, at that — afforded a woman in this country.

★ ★ ★

Essentially a private and modest woman, Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will live in the public gaze for four years, with her every word and action a matter for discussion in households across America.

Her first duty, of course, will be making a home in the historic mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue for her husband and unmarried daughter, Tricia, 22.

More than most men, perhaps, a president needs the comfort and understanding of a devoted wife as he ponders decisions that will make history. Pat Nixon knows this.

During the recent presidential campaign she said she thought her greatest contribution to her husband was this: "I don't nag him. The best I can do is cheer him up."

These days, though, the First Ladyship requires of a woman more than domestic tranquility.

She must be a hostess of charm and tact and imagination to make the innumerable receptions, parties and state dinners at the White House something Americans can take pride in.

And she must have a project, a "thing," — preferably several — that she will pursue indefatigably, for the good of the country.

★ ★ ★

Her social duties Mrs. Nixon feels she can take in stride. "I've had so-called on-the-job training when Dick was vice president," she has said. During President Eisenhower's illness Dick took his place and I did the First Lady chores then. And whenever Mrs. Eisenhower wasn't feeling well she'd call on me."

As for First Lady projects, Mrs. Nixon gave a good deal of thought to the matter as she crisscrossed the nation on the campaign trail in 1968.

LOTS OF IDEAS

"I have some very good ideas!" she told inquiring reporters, and ticked off the ideas in general terms: quality education for all, massive on-the-job training programs, community self-help undertakings, and youth projects.

"The main idea is that I'd like to assist my husband in what he wants to do. There's so much to be done, I'm sure I'd keep busy."

When someone wondered aloud that maybe her husband might downgrade welfare projects, she spiritedly replied.

"Dick doesn't want to cut off anything, but to give people pride and dignity. Why not be owners of little businesses? Give people a chance to do it. Give tax incentives. Train people for jobs that exist. People have to have dignity and goals; they have to be motivated."

★ ★ ★

National polls and surveys, she says, have convinced her that there is a large percentage of the citizenry that would volunteer to help improve their communities. "I would like to give support to those and to help spread the program to others."

Mrs. Nixon realizes that it's the First Lady stamp that will provide the needed boost to many of her pet projects. But since she likes to work behind the scenes, this constant display in the forefront of her good works may prove something of a private trial.

SHE'S 'TOUGH'

At 55, Pat Nixon possesses formidable energy and endurance. When duty is involved, she shrugs off ordinary human frailties. She can go all day on a cup of coffee or stand for hours on a sprained ankle to shake hands, confessing quite honestly that hardship and pain don't bother her. "Creature comforts don't matter," she says.

She is organized, efficient and unflappable. She knows what guests were served what and when from file cards she started keeping back in her husband's early Congressional days.

"I can't do a thing without trying to do it well," she has often said.

In the last few months she has moved serenely through the rigors of campaigning and the election; the marriage of her younger daughter, Julie, 20, to David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Eisenhower; the resettling of the family home in Key Biscayne, Fla., after five years in a New York City apartment, and, finally, the historic move to the White House.

★ ★ ★

"I only cross bridges when I come to them," she says. "I live one day at a time. If I have a problem I keep it to myself."

Many times over the years that the Dick and Pat Nixon political team has flourished the masculine half has remarked how much he respects his wife's judgment and relies on it.

She says: "I talk to people and get their opinions. I am eyes and ears for Dick. And I fill him in on what women think."

It's possible that the brown-eyed Californian has had more contact with, and understanding of, the average American and grassroots citizen, than any other First Lady entering the White House. For 20 years Pat Nixon has been shaking hands and listening.

Yet her power, in view of her self-effacing nature, will probably be exercised largely offstage, and her greatest achievements may not be laid at her door. Already, though, there are those who see a gentle Pat Nixon nudge behind the invitation to the cabinet wives to sit in on the first meeting of the Nixon cabinet last Dec. 12.

There among the wives, listening and making friends, was Pat Nixon, looking more relaxed and younger and prettier than she did, say, back in 1960.

Her slim figure — 5 feet 5½, 110 pounds, size 10 — is admirably suited to the well-cut, understated designer clothes she wears now.

Mrs. Nixon's fashion taste has kept pace with her husband's rise in income and political fortune. Gone forever are the silk print jacket dresses and the fussy littly lacy evening numbers that she used to rush in and buy off the rack when she needed something. Now she wears smart, younger-looking clothes in elegant fabrics and flattering colors, many of them by Ruth Matthews, a California-based designer.

★ ★ ★

On her strawberry blonde hair she used to wear flowers and veils and straw sailors, but now her short and lighter blonde coif is seldom covered.

Not long ago someone joked to her that if she kept on going bareheaded the millinery industry would be very unhappy. She looked almost stricken, and cried: "But I love hats! I would like to wear them again."

May Hostess Remind Guest About Seating?

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: Guests at a buffet luncheon have their names written on cards with a table number where they are to sit, but one guest disregards the hostess' wishes and sits where she pleases.

This upsets the arrangement, and another guest finds himself without a seat when he returns from the buffet. How should the hostess handle this situation? — Ruth

★ ★ ★

Dear Ruth: A hostess sometimes has to be firm to keep her party going as she wishes. If the seating arrangement makes no difference she should ignore the switch, but if it upsets the man-woman ratio, or puts uncongenial people together, she should speak up.

"Tilly, would you mind sitting where your card is — I especially wanted you to get to know Mrs. Newcomer."

TIPPING GUIDE

Dear Mrs. Post: We recently took a guided tour of a city and paid fee. Now I am told that we should have tipped the guide of six persons. Is this true, and if so, may I now send a gift to the lady? — Mrs. F. N.

★ ★ ★

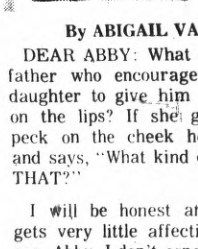
Dear Mrs. N.: Most people who have enjoyed a tour express their appreciation by tipping the guide. However, since the occasion has passed, it is not necessary to send a gift.

Auditions Slated for New Play

Interested persons are invited to audition for roles in Lakeland Players' next production for children, "The Elves and the Shoemaker," scheduled for two performances on March 8.

The three act play by Nora MacAlvay and Charlotte Charpenning, requires a cast of 13, including three elves, the shoemaker, his wife, daughter and townspeople.

Claudia Meyer will direct. Tryouts are slated Wednesday from 6:30 to 10 p.m. on the stage of Mason Junior High School.



'Sick Situation Exists in Household' Says Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a father who encourages his 10-year-old daughter to give him long, hard kisses on the lips? If she gives him a little peck on the cheek he pulls her back and says, "What kind of kiss do you call THAT?"

I will be honest and admit that he gets very little affection from me. You see, Abby, I don't especially care for my husband. Ever since I married him I have had to help him make a living and I am sick and tired of it. But I still don't think there is any excuse for his acting that way with his own daughter, do you?

★ ★ ★

DEAR CONCERNED: Your husband should NOT be kissing his daughter in the manner you describe, no matter how little affection he gets from you. If you don't "especially care for him" — clear out and take your daughter with you. If you remain, you are encouraging a sick, sick situation.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman whose husband had not come near her in two years — since she'd had a hysterectomy. (She said he was the kind of man who went around their property, cutting down all the imperfectly formed trees.)

When I was a boy, I recall we had two apple trees. One was beautiful and perfectly formed, but it bore no fruit. The other bore fruit and showed it by its bent and broken limbs. Dad eventually cut down the beautiful but worthless one.

My wife bore me five beautiful children. Her breasts now droop and her belly shows not-so-lovely stria-gravida ("stretch marks") and plenty of them. But she will not be "cut down." She has born fruit, and to me hers is the most beautiful body on earth.

Sincerely,
An "M.D." in PASADENA, TEX.

★ ★ ★

DEAR DOCTOR: Please convey a message to your wife for me. Lady, you have a wonderful husband!

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: You don't often pull a boner, but when you do it's a lulu. You mentioned the wives of a lot of men who had to get their hands dirty, among them were Thomas Edison, Charles Lindbergh, Walter P. Chrysler, and of all people THE WRIGHT BROTHERS. Abby, for your information, both the WRIGHT BROTHERS were bachelors!

Sincerely,
JACK H. in L. A.

Gals Pack All but Kitchen Sink for Annual Bob Hope GI Tour

If someone were to tell you that they were taking snow boots, formal gowns, parkas, sleeveless drip-dry dresses, tennis shoes, typewriters, culottes and carbon paper on a two-week trip, you'd probably look at them in disbelief and wonder just what kind of jaunt they were planning to make!

These, however, were just a few of the items packed by Onnie Morrow, Joan Maas and Betty Lanigan when they accompanied Bob Hope on his annual tour of G.I. bases overseas.

Joan and Betty have made a good many trips like this before. They are the all-important women who work behind the scenes making sure that every last minute detail is taken care of.

Onnie, the show's coordinator, hasn't had Christmas dinner with her husband and family for 10 years. Joan, an assistant to the producer, has gone overseas with her boss 10 times.

Betty, a member of the NBC press department assigned to the show and relatively new to the game, has traveled with Hope three times.

RULES

The girls, by now, all know the rules of the game:

- Never get off a plane in slacks. They may be worn on the plane but not when departing or arriving.
- There are no sky-caps. Remember that you'll probably end up carrying all your own luggage so pack accordingly.
- Be prepared for rain, freezing cold and blazing heat.
- Be prepared for parties on military bases. The fellows like to see the girls dressed up.
- Carry a special small fold-up bag to take the base necessities along to such off-the-beaten places for women as an aircraft carrier.

But most important of all are the supplies for the job. This means typewriters, pounds of paper, carbons, pencils, lists and lists and more lists.

For all three women each trip is more than just a memorable adventure. It is also an open acknowledgement of involvement with the world and the people in it.

When they have a moment off from their jobs, the girls take upon themselves the tasks of doing errands and sending pictures and writing letters from the fighting men to the folks back home. They visit the hospitals and they talk — and they listen.

The trip means hard, hard work and often going without sleep, but none of the three would miss it for anything.

Singer Josh White Jr. Slates Concert at OU

Folk singer Josh White Jr., will return to the campus of Oakland University on Saturday to present a cabaret concert in Vandenberg Hall cageteria.

A 20-year-stage veteran at 24 years of age, White is in the midst of a return engagement swing around the nation's colleges and universities. He appeared here a year ago on his first major tour, after extensive experience as a club performer and concert artist.

★ ★ ★

Sharing the billing at OU will be Detroit area folk singer and guitarist, Ron Coden.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Events of Interest at Interlochen

Interlochen — "An Evening with Karl Haas," originally scheduled for Saturday evening, at the Interlochen Arts Academy, has been postponed to March 16.

The reason: Dr. Haas, president of Interlochen, wishes to leave the weekend open entirely for the concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday when Jorge Mester, music director of the Louisville Philharmonic orchestra, is to conduct the Arts Academy orchestra in a challenging program of Mozart, Respighi and Schumann's Second Symphony.

★ ★ ★

Because of Dr. Haas' talents as a pianist and radio host, his program has been eagerly anticipated. He has described it as "something mainly for the kids" and as "sort of an artistic clambake."

The art of two young men regarded as having great promise is to be shown in an exhibit in the Visual Arts gallery of the Interlochen Arts Academy, opening Friday evening and continuing through Feb. 2.

★ ★ ★

The artists are Fred Woell, a student at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, who will show sculpture and jewelry, and Richard Adams, who is to show graphics and prints. Adams, who holds a master's degree from Cranbrook, is a lecturer and also is serving as a visiting instructor in graphics at the academy here.

LBJ Budget Asks $1-Billion Foreign Aid Boost for 1970

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to offset its sharp cuts of the last two years and provide $2.35 billion in foreign aid funds for 1970—a boost of almost $1 billion over 1969 levels.

★ ★ ★

In his final budget message, he declared:

"I have faith that America will not now fail in its resolve, nor founder in its responsibility to press ahead for freedon and justice at home and abroad."

He assured Congress that U. S. economic assistance would be largely concentrated in 11 countries which have been self-reliant in taking difficult steps for sustained development.

Although they were not named, aid officials indicated the countries were Vietnam, Laos, Thailand, Indonesia and South Korea in East Asia; India, Pakistan and Turkey in South Asia and the Middle East; and Colombia, Chile and Brazil in the Western hemisphere.

Apparently hoping to lessen certain resistance from the aid foes in Congress, Johnson gave assurance that the United States balance of payments would be protected. He said that some $1.84 billion — or 92 per cent of the $2 billion the Agency for International Development expects to expend in the year starting July 1 — would finance the exports of U. S. goods and services abroad.

★ ★ ★

In addition he promised that special measures would be taken to see that AID-financed exports did not take the place of regular U. S. commercial exports.

The Johnson program is subject to revamping not only by Congress but also by the new administration. Johnson sought to put the emphasis on social progress and economic growth as the yardstick for development.

MORE FOR VIET

The major assistance programs would include $440 million for Vietnam, a boost of $114 million over 1969; $240 million for the other East Asian aid countries; and $679 million for South Asia and the Near East — which would almost double the heavily cut 1969 level of $352 million for this area.

Johnson asked $668 million for expanded education, agriculture and health programs in Latin America. He also sought $300 million to beef up the Inter-American Development Bank.

★ ★ ★

The Johnson request almost fulfilled the U.S. pledge to contribute $1 billion dollars annually in support of the Alliance for Progress to aid Latin America.

In requesting $185 million for aid to African countries, he said 65 per cent would be in technical assistance and capital to countries making significant economic progress. The rest will be conentrated on regional programs.

GLOBAL OBLIGATIONS

Other programs, including contributions to the United Nations and other international organizations and to special contingency funds, brought the request for new funds to $2.35 billion, an increase of $966 million.

Once again Johnson asked Congress to provide $160 million to the World Bank's International Development Association and $25 million to the Asian Development Bank.

★ ★ ★

He estimated that military assistance to needy allies would boost the aid figures $375 million to a total of $2.72 billion.

Johnson reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to nations struggling to provide a better life for their peoples. The Nixon program for aid remains to be unfolded, but the President-elect and the Republican party have urged that it be tied more closely to U.S. policy objectives.

Johnson Puts Brand on Spending Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lyndon B. Johnson has left the nation something to remember him by in a book entitled "The Budget Of The United States Government."

More deeply than he would ever brand a steer on his Texas ranch, the departing President burned LBJ into the substance of the bulky document containing the government's spending plans for the 1970 fiscal year.

★ ★ ★

The theme of the message is the Johnson view of the Johnson presidency. He concludes: "The record of achievements of the past five years is an impressive one."

"In my first budget message five years ago, I stated: 'A government that is strong, a government that is solvent, a government that is compassionate is the kind of government that endures.' I have sought to provide that kind of government as your President. With this budget, I leave that kind of government to my successor."

REFERENCE TO NIXON

That was Johnson's sole reference to the fact that Richard M. Nixon will be taking over the presidency.

Harry S. Truman, by contrast, pointedly reminded Congress in 1953 that he was leaving office soon and that the incoming President "will be entirely free, of course, to propose changes" in the budget.

Truman emphasized he was proposing no new programs in his final budget, but both Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1961 and Johnson this year offered new recommendations. Eisenhower also indulged in some prideful reviewing of his own record.

Johnson came on somewhat stronger than that in today's message.

"We have witnessed a period of unprecedented economic growth, with expanded production, rising standards of living and the lowest rates of unemployment in a decade and a half," he wrote.

Inside the book, on details of the budget, Johnson compares his new proposals with the level of federal spending when he took office late in 1963.

Baby Found Dead

SPARTA (AP) — The dead body of a newborn boy was found Tuesday in a trash bucket near a car wash in Sparta, Police Chief Gene Heugel said. A post-mortem to determine cause and time of death will be held at Blodgett Hospital in Grand Rapids. The body was discovered by Thomas Welsh, owner of the car wash.

HEADING DOWN — Clarkston's Steve Warman (31) heads for the floor after being fouled by a Kettering player (not in the picture) during the second half of their game last night. Kettering's Joe Beseau (21) goes for the ball at left. Coming in behind Warman is Chuck Granger who tossed in 19 points in the 70-54 Clarkston win. Warman came off the floor on this play to sink two free throws.

Clawson Upsets Troy

Rochester, Orion Keep Going

The torrid race in the Oakland A League shows little sign of letup although only two teams are now supplying the heat.

★ ★ ★

Lake Orion and Rochester continued their winning ways last night with league decisions, but Troy's Colts were corralled by Clawson's Trojans, 63-55.

ORION IN SQUEAKER

While that upset was taking place, Lake Orion (5-1) was squeezing past Utica 1-5), 42-38, and Rochester (5-1) was halting Avondale (0-6), 56-40.

★ ★ ★

Troy's loss left the Colts (4-2) sharing third with Romeo (4-2), a 69-55 winner over Madison (2-4).

DECISIVE POINTS

Orion's 6-8 center Gary Mize, who led all scorers with 20 points, scored a basket with 27 seconds left to give Orion a 40-38 lead over Utica and he canned a pair of free throws with a second left to ice the decision.

★ ★ ★

Robin Dilday led Utica with 16 markers and Gary Pikley collected 15.

EASY TIME

Rochester, which entertains Orion, Jan. 24, had an easy time with Avondale. The Falcons rolled up a 33-13 lead at intermission and coasted.

Fred Harrison and J. R. Nowels led the Falcons with 10 points apiece, and Mike Scalley, making his first appearance since recovering from a football injury, picked up four points.

Utica Tankers Down Rochester

Utica Stevenson handed Rochester its second loss against three wins, 58-47, in a swimming meet yesterday. Mike Karas won the individual medley and swam on the winning medley relay team for Rochester.

100 Breaststroke — Warne (R), Foxlee (R), Grutze (S) 1:10.4.
400 Freestyle Relay — Rochester (Capaldi, Gibson, Vizena, Couture) 3:59.9.

Randy Pilasek collected 23 for the Yellow Jackets.

Trailing 33-31 at intermission, Romeo's Bulldogs gained a 23-7 edge in the third stanza to break the game open. The tide turned when the Bulldogs moved from a zone defense to a man-to-man.

★ ★ ★

Dan Burzynski led the Romeo attack with 20 points and he hauled down 12 rebounds. Mike Semp acced 15 markers. John Havrelko collected 13 markers and Dave Frizell added 12 to pace the Madison attack.

Some sharp work at the charity line enabled Clawson to pin the loss on Troy.

Both clubs manged 21 field goals, but clawson hit on 21 of 37 free throws while Troy had only 13 of 28. Rod Halonen collected 20 points and Chuck Currey 12 to lead Clawson. Ron Boyd's 20 markers led Troy.

Farmington '5' Nips Plymouth in Overtime

Farmington's Falcons hit a hot streak in overtime and squared their season record last night at 5-5 by downing Plymouth, 61-54.

Paul White, who scored 16 points for the evening, pushed in a bucket with 30 seconds left in regulation to force a deadlock at 52-all, and he collected four points in the extra session as the Falcons outscored Plymouth, 9-2.

TIDE TURNS

The Falcons appeared on their way to an easy victory as they raced to a 36-25 lead at intermission, but Plymouth came back with a 16-7 edge in the third stanza and a 11-9 edge in the fourth. The losers held a four-point lead late in the fourth before Farmington caught fire and tied it on White's bucket.

Mark Lynott sparked the Falcons' attack with 19 points, while Greg Corrigan tossed in 17 for Plymouth.

Teen-Age Girl May Receive Jockey License

MIAMI (AP) — Barbara Jo Rubin, the teen-ager seeking to become the first girl jockey at an American parimutuel, race track, has been named to ride a horse in today's fourth race at Tropical Park.

But the horse, Stoneland, is on the also — eligible list and may not get to run.

The Tropical season ends Thursday and action then shifts to Hialeah.

If the 19-year-old exercise girl performs capably in her first race she will be issued a riding license.

Losing Streak Ends for Groves Cagers

Falcons Down Cranes, 65-60

Winners Get Help From Soph Love

Birmingham Groves shook off the effects of a two-game losing streak last night to knock off Cranbrook's Cranes, 65-60.

Sophomore center Scott Love turned in a sharp game for the Birmingham squad in both the scoring and rebounding departments. He tossed in 19 markers to lead the scorers, picking up seven of those points in a hectic fourth quarter.

Cranbrook jumped off to an 11-10 first quarter lead, but Groves, now 2-6 for the season, found the range in the second frame and opened up a 30-26 advantage at intermission.

★ ★ ★

The second half was a seesaw affair with Cranbrook slicing a point off the deficit in the third and then falling behind again as the Falcons came in with a 19-17 edge in the fourth.

FIFTH LOSS

The loss was the (0-5) fifth in a row for the Cranes, who visit Detroit Country Friday.

Helping Love with the scoring chores were Kevin Burke (15) and Jim Cameron (14). Burke came off the bench and picked up three field goals in the fourth stanza.

Setting the scoring pace for Cranbrook were Matt Sigler (11), Rod Fonda (11) and Jim Williams (10).

Walled Lake Trips Seaholm Wrestlers

Walled Lake, the recent Oakland County tournament champions, added its 5th dual victory to its slate in seven matches by defeating Birmingham Seaholm last night, 37-13.

The Vikings and Maples had two draws in the 103 and 120 pound classes, but an outstanding performance was turned in by Don Muzik, a 112 pounder who pinned Seaholm co-captain Dave Forester, a third place finisher in the Oakland County meet.

Muzik has been primarily a jayvee wrestler this season.

The Maples stand 2-4 for the season.

Ferndale Survives Scare

Lowly Oak Park (3-4) gave unbeaten Ferndale (7-0) a scare before bowing in overtime last night, 68-65.

The Eagles, who share the No. 6 rung on the Class A Associated Press ladder with Flint Central, were behind in the third stanza but rallied to tie the game at 61 in regulation play.

But in the overtime session, Mike Staton checked in with two free throws, Bill Screws added a basket and a charity toss on a three-point play and Gordon Daziel managed the final Ferndale basket with a tip-in.

★ ★ ★

Tyrone Lewis led Ferndale with 22 for Ferndale, while Staton picked up 12 and Screws 13.

TOPS SCORERS

Larry Sherman led all scorers with 23 markers while teammates Rick Seid and Paul Kutnick picked up 16 and 15, respectively.

★ ★ ★

In Southern Thumb League action, Anchor Bay took over the top spot by ousting Armada's Tigers, 65-54.

OTHER GAMES

Elsewhere in the league, Capac and New Haven joined Armada in a three-way tie for second at 4-1. Capac turned back Almont, 79-75, while New Haven pinned a 69-52 setback on Richmond.

★ ★ ★

In the other game, Memphis ran its record to 2-3 while handing Dryden its fifth straight loss, 75-73.

PACES ATTACK

Jerry Martin's 21 markers and Mike McCombs' 19 points triggered Anchor Bay's victory. The Tars visit New Haven Friday in what shapes up as another showdown.

Sag in Fourth Dooms Oxford

Oxford's Wildcats faded in the fourth period and wound up on the short end of a 63-52 score against Marine City Holy Cross last night.

The two were deadlocked at 44-all as they headed into the fourth frame, but Holy Cross then gained a 19-8 edge to put it in the win column.

The loss was the fourth in a row for Oxford and left the Wildcats with a season mark of 2-5.

Greg Davidson tossed in 13 markers and Marty Ostrander added 10 to pace Oxford. Dennis VanTrem led Holy Cross with 20.

Roeper Loses but Outlook Gets Boost

Roeper School of Bloomfield Hills lost a 73-59 basketball verdict to Grosse Pointe University School last night, but received a bright outlook for the future as Jim Teasley, a 6-foot freshman came through with an outstanding performance.

Teasley scored 20 points, 14 of them in the third quarter when Roeper whittled the score down to one point deficit, 47-46.

University School led 32-26 at halftime and the winners finished wtih three players in double figures. Greg Carter led Roeper with 23 points. The Hills school now has a 6-3 season mark.

Football Company Board Planning Annual Meeting

The Board of Directors of Pontiac Sports, Inc., owners of the Pontiac Football Company, are meeting today to plan their agenda for the annual meeting of stockholders to be held next month.

★ ★ ★

Harold Cousins, president of the company, said the directors would re-evaluate the position of the Pontiac Firebirds in the Midwest Football League and make recommendations to the stockholders at the annual meeting.

Cousins said the Firebirds lost money in gate receipts last season when attendance fell from first place in the MFL with a total of 21,000 in 1967 to 15,000 in 1968, which put Pontiac 4th in the MFL behind Lackawanna, Dayton and Hamtramck.

★ ★ ★

The Firebirds finished in third place tie with Flint with a 7-5 record last season.

The drop at the gate meant $9,000 deficit for the football company, and Cousins indicated, "this is something we must evaluate when we look to future."

"There is no doubt in my mind that this caliber of football is good for the city, said Cousins, "and it is certainly good publicity for our town to have the Pontiac Firebirds get the attention on the sports pages in Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and New York, where MFL franchises are located."

"However, if we do not get the support of the local fans, business and civic people, then we must assume they do not care about the good it can bring by staying in the league."

LEAGUE CHANGES

Meanwhile, the MFL office of John Abel, has indicated that the league will probably have a two-division setup this year pending the admission of new franchises.

The prospective league realignment looks this way for 1969:

WEST DIVISION: Pontiac, Flint, Lansing, Grand Rapids.

EAST DIVISION: Dayton, Lackawanna, Hamtramck, Fort Wayne.

The Ypsilanti franchise is expected to be shifted to another city, and there is a possibility of another new franchise joining the entry of Grand Rapids this year, which could bring the league to form two 5-team divisions.

The MFL has a schedule meeting slated for early April.

Mustang Models Added, Alter Ford for '69

By the Associated Press

Among the new features offered by Ford Motor Co. in 1969 are two new models in the Mustang line and a major revision in the big Ford.

The following is a breakdown by model of the Ford offering for 1969.

MUSTANG — One of the most changed cars of the 1969 line, Mustang is longer lower and comes in five models — two more than in the 1968 model.

★ ★ ★

While its 108-inch wheelbase reamains, nearly four inches have been added to the over-all, making it 187.4 inches long. The extra length was on the front overhang area, emphasizing the long-hood, short-deck proportions of the car.

★ ★ ★

Ventless side glass, new dual headlamps and simulated side air scoops add a racing flair to the auto.

In addition to a hardtop, fastback and convertible, Mustang added a new Mach I fastback, which has the option of a hot 428-cubic-inch Cobra Jet engine with a special handling package including higher rate front and rear springs and higher capacity shock absorbers.

★ ★ ★

For the fellow with a bigger pocketbook and a Mustang taste, Ford is offering a Lincolnized Mustang which includes an extra 55 pounds of insulation to deaden sounds simulated teakwood instrument panel, an upgraded rear suspension system and personalized interior and exterior trim.

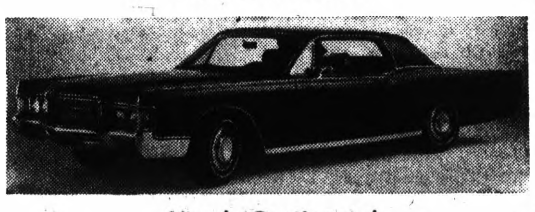
Ford Custom 500



Lincoln Continental

FORD — The big Ford got a major revision for 1969 with increased wheelbase and over-all length and a new S-type, steel, energy-absorbing frame.

The wheelbase was upped two inches to 121 while the over-all height was down about an inch (to 53.5 on the convertible).

★ ★ ★

Averaging about an inch longer (214 inches on the two-door sedan for example), Ford has a new body shell, ventless side glass windows new interior trim and an instrument panel that features an airplane type array of instruments and knobs.

The car has a lower profile tire as standard equipment and its track is about an inch wider than a year ago.

Engine options range from a 240-c.i.d six to a 429-c.i.d V8

FALCON — Only minor styling changes were made in the Falcon, whose wheelbase and over-all length remained unchanged. A wrap-around front bumper features parking lights and turn signals which are recessed in the bumper.

THUNDERBIRD — An electric-powered sun roof is available as an optional item on the '69 T-bird whose major specifications are unchanged.

The sun roof feature, operated from a fingertip control on the instrument panel is designed for the buyer who wants the open air advantages of a convertible while still retaining the solidness of a hardtop.

The sun roof operates on a hidden track between the headliner and the roof.

An electrified rear window de-icer is another T-bird option as is a buzzer which sounds if the drivers door is opened while the car headlights are on.

A new transistorized voltage regulator with simplified circuitry is one of the car's engineering features.

FAIRLANE — New grilles and dual horizontal headlamps emphasize the low, wide look of the Fairlane whose over-all height was lowered about an inch through suspension changes.

Model availability was upped to 16 with the addition of a Cobra two-door hardtop formal and a Cobra fastback.

★ ★ ★

The Cobra grille has a non-glossy racing black sporty look with a coiled Cobra emblem on the front fender.

The car has as standard a 428-c.i.d. V8, four-speed manual transmission and competition suspension including heavy-duty springs and shocks. The Cobra also has wide oval belted tires.

MERCURY — Mercury reshuffled its car line drastically as it aimed at a bigger segment of the upper-medium price market.

The traditional lines of the Lincoln Continental were transferred to the '69 Mercury offerings. Two wheelbases, 121 inches and 124, are included in the new Mercury line.

COUGAR—L-M's entry in the sporty personalized car field, has a new body design with 3.5 inches more length and almost three inches more in width.

It has a standard 351-cubic-inch V8 and offers fresh-air fans the choice of a convertible or sun roof models. The Mercury Montego offered a new 250-cubic-inch six-cylinder engine.

LINCOLN - CONTINENTAL — Over-all length of this top-of-the line offering of Ford Motor Co. is 3.2 inches more than last year or about 224 inches.

A 460-cubic-inch V8 powers the car, whose riding characteristics include fully rubber cushioned front and rear suspensions and extra large shock absorbers.

The Mark III, introduced only last February, is virtually unchanged.

Race-Complex Work Proceeds

After months of delay, work is proceeding on a new motor racing complex near Long Pond, in Pennsylvania's northeastern section.

When completed, the Pocono International Raceway will include a 2.5-mile championship oval, a 3-mile Grand Prix road course, a 1.5-mile road course, a three-quarters mile oval and a drag strip.

It will have 10,000 grandstand seats and facilities for 25,000 spectators. Completion is expected in the summer of 1969.

Tire Accidents Few

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Blow-outs and flat tires are relatively negligible causes of highway accidents, according to a recent study, but the chances of an accident in such cases increase 22 times if the driver is a girl under 20.

A 12-month survey on the Illinois Tollway showed that 60,000 flat tires contributed to no more than 36 and possibly as few as 13 accidents.

★ ★ ★

This compared with 75 accidents caused by cow and deer jumping into the fenced expressway.

The survey was conducted by the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University.

LESS A FACTOR

It showed that tires are less a factor in accidents than drivers think and also uncovered an area where women drivers are more likely to be involved in accidents than men.

Of the 60,000 instances of flat tires, 99.94 per cent of the drivers successfully coped with the disablements at expressway speeds. The Illinois Tollway maximum is 70 m.p.h.

★ ★ ★

The Traffic Institute reported that 2,196 autos were involved in 1,486 Tollway accidents during the survey period.

In five of 13 accidents which definitely followed tire disablement, girls under 20 were at the wheel.

MORE LIKELY

Women, the survey said, are four times more likely to have an accident after a tire disablement than men.

If the female driver is under 20 the possibility of an accident is 22 times greater. All drivers under 20 were reported five times more likely to have an accident.

★ ★ ★

The study noted that power steering affected the accident figures. Seventy per cent of the vehicles not having accidents after flats were equipped with power steering.

Only 48 per cent of the cars which had accidents had power steering.

NOT SUFFICIENT

The report concluded that a tire disablement alone cannot be considered sufficent to cause an accident.

To cause an accident, a tire disablement must be combined with some driver inadequacy.

★ ★ ★

The Traffic Institute said that the data collected in the $87,000 study made for the Rubber Manufacturers Association did not indicate specifically what the driver shortcomings might be.

The ratio of flats per miles driven equaled one for every 22,000 miles according to the report.

The proportion of tire-related accidents in total miles driven on the Tollway in 12 months amounted to one in 36 to 100 million.

Americans Put Wheels on Leisure

By The Associated Press

The hit-the-road trend continues unabated. More than 400,000 recreational vehicles, ranging from $80,000 land yachts to tiny camping units, were added in 1968 to the nation's fun boom.

Estimates are that motorists paid out almost three quarters of a billion dollars this year to join the increasingly large number of owners of recreational vehicles.

★ ★ ★

Accurate figures on the size of the so-called RV sector of the auto market are hard to come by, since different states have different ways of registering such vehicles. In one state, a self-contained recreational unit might be registered as a truck and in another as an auto.

Peter R. Fink, president of the Recreational Vehicle Institute, estimates there are between 1.5 and 2 million RV units on the road today.

A FAR CRY

Most are a far cry from the stripped down units which hunters and fishermen used years ago when the RV trend was just picking up.

One of the first motor homes of record is a 1910 unit, a body finished like the Pullman cars of those days and set on a three ton Packard chassis with a four cylinder engine. The unit had sleeping accomodations for 11 persons and even had a set of planks to bolster any bridge encountered on the roadways of that era.

★ ★ ★

Today Michigan, Indiana, California, Iowa and Ohio are the centers of the RV building business which turns out units as costly as $150,000. These are the rare motor yachts that are the glamor units of the growing industry.

More common are units costing $10,000 to $15,000, equipped with everything from air conditioning to stereo; from self-contained kitchens to toilet and shower facilities.

EASILY TOWED

Travel trailers ranging up to 27 feet in length and easily towed behind the family car represent the bulk of the market.

Woman's place in the rolling home is a prime consideration of the RV people, for they know only too well that most housewives no longer are content to sit at home while hubby climbs into his camper and heads off on a hunting or fishing vacation.

One survey showed that women now go along on 90 per cent of the RV trips. With 36 million woman drivers in the nation, RV builders have kept their comforts and convenience very much in mind.

In self-contained units, such as the Dodge Motor Home, or those towed behind trucks or tractors, special consideration has been given to making driving easier for women. Power brakes and power steering, automatic transmissions and more comfortable seats and car interiors are commonplace.

FOOD FIRMS, TOO

Even food companies have gotten into the RV field. Campbell Soup Co. and Hunt Wesson Co. are just two of the big food firms that recognize the market for easily-cooked foods for the mobile family. Campbell has published a booklet of kitchen recipes and hints, called "The Pampered Camper."

One of the big problems in the rapidly expanding RV field is that of finding enough parks and camping sites to handle the increasing traffic. Federal and state officials are working on that.

Fink predicted the RV usiness would hit the $2 billion a year mark by 1980 as more and more people take to the road for vacations or for retirement.

RV industry leaders are convinced that the surge in demand for all types of recreational vehicles is no short term matter. The fun boom is on in a big way and it is going to stay, said one.

'69 AMC Cars Resemble '68's

By the Associated Press

Aside from some styling refinements and longer lines in the Ambassador, American Motors Corp. has come up with a 1969 line that looks pretty much like the '68 model line. There have been few exterior changes.

The following is a brief summary of the changes to be found in AMC models for 1969:

● AMBASSADOR — AMC's top-of-the-line Ambassador is four inches longer than last year (at 206.5 inches for sedans and hardtops) in overall measurements. The wheelbase, upped to 122 inches, also is four inches more than last year. Air conditioning remains a standard item on the Ambassador line, which features new front sheet metal treatment grille and bumper.

● RAMBLER — Formerly known as the American, this five car line has been redesignated as Rambler. Only small items, such as hood ornaments and front-fender bars, were changed in line with AMC's announced policy of giving the compact series a continuity in styling.

● REBEL — The car's dimensions — 114-inch wheelbase and 197-inch overall length — are unchanged. Styling refinements include a new grille and headlight assemblies, a new deck lid and new tail-light units. Convertible models have been dropped from the line. The identification as the Rebel line has been strengthened by use of Rebel lettering on hood, front fender and deck lid or tailgate. A new rear suspension and steering linkage head engineering changes in the car.

● AMX and JAVELIN — Introduced as a 1968½ model, the AMX has few external changes.

Brakes Can Be Hazard to Driver

By JAMES BRESCOLL
AP Newsfeatures

An automobile in motion is difficult to stop. Charts based on extensive research and testing indicate a car moving -- needs feet

M.P.H.	to stop
20	47
30	88
40	149
50	243
60	366

Given poor road conditions, foul weather, bad reflex action or a host of other complications and these distances increase.

★ ★ ★

For the average driver, with little understanding of the mechanics of an automobile, the fastest method to slow or stop a car is through breaking. There are several dangers involved, however, which can turn the car into a lethal weapon.

The first is brake fade, a condition in which brake temperatures rise, the brake linings glaze and do not provide the necessary position.

HOW IT CAN HAPPEN

This can happen IF --

● The "play it safe" driver keeps his left foot on the brake pedal to beat "reaction stopping time" and this creates heat.

● The brakes rather than low gear are used extensively to slow the car on a long downgrade.

● The brakes are improperly adjusted, grease-impregnated or worn.

★ ★ ★

Though brake fade is frightening and, in some instance, dangerous, it is a condition which rapidly cures itself through cooling of the brakes.

There is no such quick cure for wet brakes, either from water or fluids forming on the brake linings. This causes sluggish or weak brake response, if any, accompanied by erratic handling or left-right pulling.

FOREIGN SUBSTANCES

When the brake linings become impregnated with brake fluid, road oils or other foreign substances, they will become less effective.

A third problem involved with brakes is deterioration. Brakes are one of the major parts of an automobile and are continually under strain. There are three main parts, each one affected differently through wear and tear.

● Brake Drums — Supposed to be perfectly round, they can become misshapen through too much hard driving and thus not fit the brake linings.

● Brake Lining — If it becomes worn irregularly, the bare metal beneath the lining can score the drums and necessitate expensive repairs.

● Brake Hydraulic System — This is the unit which forces the lining into operation and is comprised of moving parts which receive continual use.

★ ★ ★

Each time the brake pedal is depressed, these three units are worn slightly. After a while, the entire assembly should be thoroughly checked for safety's sake.

When a part in one wheel needs replacing, the opposite wheel part may well be replaced. Otherwise, one brake lining replaced can cause the car to pull severly to one side or the other through imbalance of the brake lining thickness.

INSPECTIONS ARE TELLING

In some 30 states, periodic motor vehicle inspections reveal 10 to 25 per cent of cars on the road have improper and dangerous braking systems. Yet on top of this there are several road conditions which seriously influence brake action.

★ ★ ★

One is the wind. Since braking ability depends on brake temperature, a wind blowing on one side of the vehicle will maintain a lower temperature on the brake on that side.

★ ★ ★

If applied hard, the cooler side brake will be more effective and the car will tend to pull to that side. If the driver is unprepared for this, he can react in desperation and overcompensating, go off the road or into oncoming traffic.

Another problem is road surface. On hot days, many roads tend to develop a surface slickness. This can create an increase in effective braking distance.

GRAVEL, MOISTURE

At other times, loose gravel, moisture or other materials can cause the tire to ride above the road at high speeds, unable to stop sufficiently in an emergency.

Delayed brake fade is a more serious problem which seldom gives advance warning. As in the normal brake fade, it is caused by heat build-up in the braking system.

★ ★ ★

This heat, however, may build up through constant use or overloading. Then if the brakes are not allowed to cool, even if not actually used, the driver may suddenly depress the brake pedal and find an unexpected change in pressure needed, causing an instant which could cause disaster.

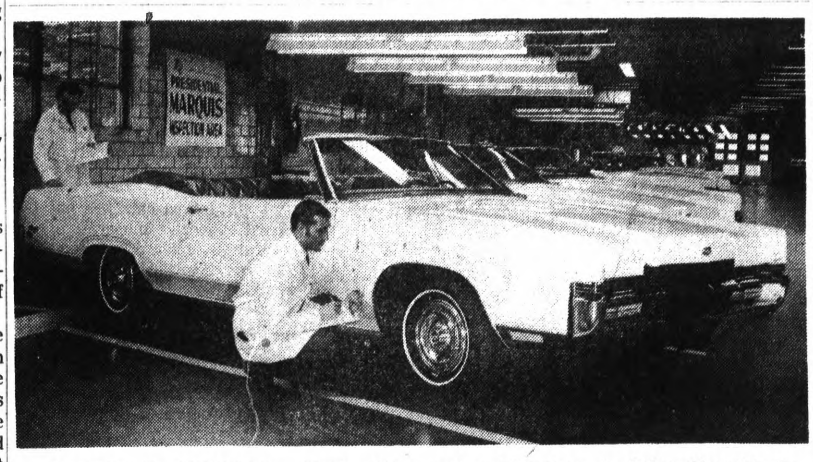
Overheated brakes are not unusual, nor limited to any season or surface. Here are several suggestions to reduce strain on the brakes and perhaps save that extra few feet between hitting or not hitting something.

● In mountains or overcrowded road conditions, the word is slow. By driving with the car in a low gear, the engine will take the strain of maintaining a safe speed and remove the stress on the brakes.

● In approaching stops, use more distance to brake. The harder the brakes are applied to stop, the higher the temperature and the quicker the chance of brake fade.

● When brakes become wet, drive slowly and apply them steadily until the car stops smoothly. Do not attempt to drive fast when you know the brakes have become wet.

● If the brake pedal reacts sluggishly or tends to pull left or right, take the car to a repair shop immediately. A trained mechanic can tell in a quick check your brake's condition and will make the necessary suggestions for repairs, if needed.



INAUGURAL SPECIALS — Thirty 1969 Marquis convertibles, bound for the inaugural day parade in Washington, D.C., receive the finishing touches at Ford Motor Co.'s St. Louis assembly plant. The cars, all white with red interiors, are being shipped to the nation's capital where they will be stored until their important trip down Pennsylvania Avenue Monday.

'Vehicle Miles to Rise in '69'

The U.S. Department of Transportation estimates motor vehicle travel in the United States in 1968 will be 1,010 billion vehicle miles, a 4-7 per cent increase over 1967.

Passenger cars usually account for 80 per cent of travel, trucks 19 per cent with buses and motorcycles accounting for the remainder.

Thirty seven per cent of travel is on main rural roads, 13 per cent on local rural roads, and 50 per cent on urban streets.

In 1967 average annual miles traveled per vehicle was estimated at 9,582 for passenger cars, 3,962 for motorcycles, 34,508 for commercial buses, and 7,523 for school buses. Single unit trucks averaged 9,611 miles per year while truck combinations traveled 40,695 miles annually.

Montego. So reasonably priced you can easily afford air conditioning.

(Not to mention power steering and other luxury options.)

Mercury Montego may be the best way there is to get 6-passenger luxury without paying a lot for it.

The money you save over buying a size-larger luxury car can be used for many of the luxury options you want.

And most of these options, happily, cost you a bit less, too. That's because the optional units don't need to be quite as big as in a size-larger car.

For example, Montego air conditioning costs you about $45 less than in some full-size cars. Power steering about $20 less. Automatic transmission about $40 less.*

At savings like these, you may want to add everything.

But don't get us wrong. The Montego is a well equipped, very luxurious car to start with. It's got that unmistakable touch that only the makers of the Lincoln Continental could create. You'll be very happy without any options. But it's nice to know that Montego's reasonable price makes them so easy to own.

EMBLEMATIC OF SAFETY—Protecting motorists from rear-end collisions with slow vehicles on streets and highways is the aim of these special new emblems. A fluorescent center glows vividly in daylight (left) while the reflective border bounces light back to oncoming cars at night (right).

Slow Movers' Emblem

AP Newsfeatures

Say you're tooling down a highway at 50 or 60 miles an hour and see a triangular emblem like the one above on the rear of a vehicle ahead. What should you do?

★ ★ ★

That sign is the "Slow Moving Vehicle Emblem" developed at Ohio State University after three years research under an Automotive Safety Foundation grant.

It is designed to be placed on the rear of all vehicles operating regularly at speeds of 25 miles an hour or less. Several states have passed legislation requiring or permitting its use.

16x14 INCHES

The emblem is 16 inches wide and 14 inches high. It combines a yellow-orange fluorescent center and a border of red reflective sheeting.

It is supposed to be visible at 500 to 1,000 feet under any driving conditions at any time of day.

★ ★ ★

The Ohio state studies brought out that there are 12 million slow-moving vehicles operating regularly on American highways. In a typical year, seven or eight thousand are involved in rear-end collisions which result in injuries or death for 2,000 persons.

Three-quarters of the vehicles are farm tractors or machinery, 20 per cent are street and highway maintenance equipment.

Nine out of 10 of the accidents happen in daytime. There has been a 250 per cent increase in the number in this last decade of high-speed automobiles.

Dodge Likely to Race Charger in 1969 Stock Car Competition

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Dodge will probably race its new Charger 500 in stock car competition this year. The car, unveiled at Atlanta recently, looks much like the standard Charger but has two major design features.

One major innovation compared to the standard Charger gives the racing machine's rear window a new slant to make it flush with the rear window pillars.

This eliminates the "channel" or "slot back" rear roof deck, and is calculated to give the Charger 500 a distinct aerodynamic advantage over the standard car for high-speed track purposes.

Another design change has the grille mounted flush with the front end to improve air flow.

This will eliminate a drag or "heavy" front end problem that showed early in the 1968 stock car racing season, when engineers had to mount a spoiler at the botton of the front end to help keep the race car on the track.

The Charger 500 shown at Atlanta was turned over to a NASCAR technical crew, which is constructing body configuration templates for use in technical inspections next season.

Driving Cost Depends on Many Factors

By the Associated Press

While the average American drives his car 12,000 miles yearly, the amount of money it costs to drive depends on many odd factors.

One thing is agreed upon, however, in two recent studies: the price per mile of driving is up.

★ ★ ★

The cost of buying a car has gone up almost 10 per cent since 1965, and the operating cost has risen similarly — from the 1965 total of 10 cents per mile to 11.4 cents per mile in most American cities.

This, says the Automobile Legal Association report, is based on figures which take into account the fixed costs built into operating a car (depreciation, insurance, taxes, license) plus daily expenses (gas, oil, repairs).

ONE FACT

One fact brought out was that the person who drives less than 5,000 miles per year may average 33.1 cents per mile in a large metropolitan area, while driving 30,000 per year can bring this down to 8.2 cents per mile ($1,650 per year for 5,000 miles; $2,460 per year for 30,000 miles).

The second study, by the management consulting firm of Runzheimer and Co., of Rochester, Wis., indicates standard-sized cars are not the least expensive to operate.

Rather, their cost is roughly 12 per cent higher than the so-called specialty cars.

★ ★ ★

Basing figures on 20,000 miles per year, the Runzheimer study also concluded the lowest-priced cars aren't always the cheapest in operating costs.

Bigger, but more specialized cars (Mustangs, Camaro, etc.) are called cheaper.

Spark plug output in a recent year amounted to 528.6 million units, according to the latest census of the manufacturers, conducted by the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

Farmers own 3.1 million trucks, nearly three times as many as they did in 1940.
