

Petition Calls for Vote on Waterford Cityhood

Collect Names of 700 in Drive to Incorporate

Campaign Begun Last Month to Protect the Existing Boundaries

A petition containing about 700 signatures calling for a vote on incorporation of Waterford Township as a city was filed with the County Clerk's Office yesterday.

Jane Windeler, president of the Greater Waterford Community Council, which spearheaded the drive for signatures, filed the petition along with the $500 filing fee.

The community council launched its campaign a month ago, primarily to protect the existing boundaries of the township pending completion of an incorporation study by a committee of civic leaders.

Indications are the incorporation study committee will finish its report before mid-January.

The petition will be referred to the boundaries committee of the County Board of Supervisors, which will then prepare a report for the board. No action can be taken by the board within 30 days of the petition filing.

How soon the board acts will determine whether the proposal will be on the February or April ballot. It must, however, be put to a vote within 90 days of approval by the Board of Supervisors.

Waterford Township residents became incorporation conscious during July when the village of Union Lake filed a similar petition and announced plans to take a section from each of four surrounding townships including Waterford.

FORMED BODY

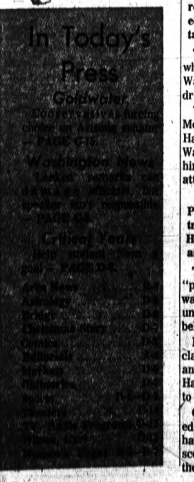

This led to the formation of the incorporation study committee on Aug. 12. The township board appointed committee members on the recommendation of the township planning commission.

The community council, fearful that area boundaries might be in jeopardy while the study was in process, later launched their drive. Filing of the petition automatically prevents encroachment by surrounding communities.

Community council members seeking signatures reported generally favorable reaction from citizens contacted. Most expressed interest in learning the results of the incorporation report.

A minimum of 471 names was required for filing the petition. This represents one per cent of the township population according to 1960 census figures.

Waterford Township's clerk will be notified of the appropriate election procedure by the Board of Supervisors.

Most Before Christmas

Gitmo Kin Will Return

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth announced today that a majority of Navy and Marine Corps wives and children evacuated from the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba, at the outset of the missile-and-bombers crisis will be allowed to return before Christmas.

About 1,400 of the more than 2,800 military dependents and families of civilian workers who were pulled out on short notice Oct. 22 are expected to return by first available transportation, the Navy said.

Some are expected to leave by air from Norfolk, Va., Friday. Most will move by military air transport or surface ships starting Dec. 11.

Air flights will leave from Norfolk and sea transportation from New York. The military dependents being allowed to return are those of Navy and Marine personnel whose tours of duty at Guantanamo extend beyond next April.

Korth had visited Guantanamo Thanksgiving Day—two days after President Kennedy ordered the Cuban missile blockade lifted—and indicated base families might be back before Christmas.

Families of men due to be transferred out of Guantanamo between now and next April 1 will not be returned, the Navy said.

Officers said the 1,400 expected to go back to the base include about 720 wives and children of Marines and 600 dependents of civilian workers.

The Navy some time ago authorized a relocation allowance to these dependents to compensate for the hardships they experienced.

The Navy said there will be no effort to recapture these allowances, which came to $250 for each adult and older child and $144 for each child under 11.

Over-all, the relocation allowances are estimated to total about $465,000.

Recommends No Action Against Officer in Fight

City Attorney William A. Ewart last night recommended that no action be taken by the city against Pontiac Police Lt. William K. Hanger in connection with a fight Nov. 10 between Hanger and a Pontiac man.

In a report directly to the City Commission, Ewart produced testimony of witnesses that cleared Hanger of causing or prolonging the fight with James B. Walker, 27, of 383 Emerson Ave.

Commissioners accepted the report and city officials indicated no further action would be taken.

The fight in question took place when city police were booking Walker on a charge of reckless driving.

Walker's attorney Wallace D. McLeay said his client argued with Hanger while being booked, and Walker claims Hanger challenged him, then took him in a room and attacked him from behind.

Walker spent eight days in Pontiac General Hospital under treatment for internal injuries. Hanger received a broken nose and hand in the fight.

The city attorney said his facts "point to one finding: Lt. Hanger was defending himself against an unprovoked attack by a violent, belligerent opponent."

Ewart said that two witnesses claimed Walker "without warning and in a violent rage, struck Lt. Hanger on the nose and continued to throw blows at him."

Other witnesses, he added, stated that Walker was belligerent and had threatened Hanger at the scene of the arrest as well as in the station.

Jury Eyes Future of Project

A jury of 11 women and one man retired to deliberate on the fate of Pontiac's first urban renewal project yesterday afternoon, but its decision is not likely to be final.

Pontiac attorney Milton Conroy said he will appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court if the jury in the urban renewal condemnation hearings before Circuit Judge William J. Beer decides the urban renewal project is a necessity.

Conroy represents 12 of the 250 property owners whose 73 parcels of land the city wants to condemn.

Indications are the city would appeal a verdict that the R20 zoning is not needed.

Jury Deliberates 1½ Hours

Topp Guilty of Murder

Seventeen-year-old Sheldry Topp was found guilty of first-degree murder yesterday for the May 16 slaying of Oakland County's First Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles A. Davis.

The verdict was returned by a Circuit Court jury of six men and six women who deliberated an hour and a half at the end of the week-long trial before Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams.

Judge Adams will sentence the 17-year-old Topp to life imprisonment. The verdict carries a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment.

Dr. William A. Gordon, a Detroit psychiatrist, testified in rebuttal to a defense contention that Topp was insane at the time of the slaying.

States Silent on Revamping of the Reserve

Governors Hold Fire as Pentagon Unveils New Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Governors held their fire for the most part as the Pentagon unveiled its program designed to get more ready-to-go combat punch into fewer National Guard and Army Reserve units.

An outcry had been predicted by some. It still may come.

But Tuesday's announcement by the Defense Department drew only a request by Gov. Albert D. Rosellini of Washington that his colleagues withhold approval of the National Guard proposals until after a Pentagon meeting with state adjutants general next Monday.

In Lansing, Gov. John B. Swainson said Michigan's Army National Guard would be cut by 2,948 troops in a new allotment program proposed by the Pentagon—but no state armories would be closed.

Declaring he believes in principle with the new program for overhauling the nation's guard units, Swainson indicated that he would not protest the proposed reduction in Michigan's troops.

Under the law, a governor must approve any changes in the guard within his state.

The governor said that the new plan would result in an actual decrease of only 903 men because present units are not up to their full authorized strength.

"Natural attrition will take care of the reduction," he observed.

Remember Winter? ... It's Back Again

Oh! Man Winter hasn't forgotten us yet.

The weatherman said today that near average temperatures will prevail in the Pontiac area for the next five days with the highs near 37 and the lows about 26.

He said we may have snow flurries and a low of 32 tonight. Tomorrow will be mostly cloudy with snow flurries and a high of 40.

Thirty-eight was the low recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The thermometer reading at 2 p.m. was 41.

Gunman WARREN SWANSON

Adlai for Blockade, Opposed Invasion

NEW YORK (AP)—United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said today he approved the blockade of Cuba three days before the decision was reached and that he also opposed an invasion of Cuba.

Stevenson said further that he never advocated that the United States give up bases abroad in return for elimination of Soviet bases in Cuba. He said he advocated that the United States develop well in advance its position concerning such a suggestion by the Russians.

The ambassador appeared on the NBC-television program "Today" in reply and commented on a Saturday Evening Post article dealing with his part in the Cuban crisis.

"It charges that I opposed the President's policy on Cuba, and that I was the only one to dissent from the consensus of the President's advisers," Stevenson said. "To put it mildly, this is false."

"I emphatically approved the blockade on further arms shipments to Cuba."

"What the article doesn't say is that I opposed, equally emphatically, an invasion of Cuba at the risk of world nuclear war until the peace-keeping machine had been used."

"This was the policy adopted by President Kennedy. This is the policy that has worked so successfully that the nuclear menace from Cuba has been removed and war avoided, and at no cost to the United States."

"I hope the time hasn't come when we can do it."

Development of Lot Halted

Temporary Injunction
Binds Courthouse Site

Circuit Court Judge Frederick C. Ziem last night granted a temporary injunction halting development of the old county courthouse site into a free parking lot in downtown Pontiac.

Judge Ziem ruled in favor of the Outdoor Parking Co. of Pontiac in preventing the lease between the county and the Downtown Pontiac Business Association (DPBA) from taking effect and enjoining the DPBA from taking possession of the property.

"The injunction will last until Judge Ziem makes a final determination in the suit brought by the parking firm to nullify the lease agreement, which was signed Nov. 19 at a rental of $1 for a six-month period."

Judge Ziem said the agreement was "not for the general benefit of the county." He added, however, that the county will have a chance to prove general benefit before his final determination.

Laborer Fires Pellet Barrage at Union Chief

Gunman Is Mauld After Being Floored by Unhurt Teamster

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Washington, D.C., laborer, who said he "had a vision" a month ago to shoot Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa, dashed into U.S. District Court today and fired several pellets from an air pistol at the labor leader.

Hoffa, being tried on a million-dollar conspiracy charge, suffered only pellet marks on the back and left arm.

U.S. Marshal Elmer Disspayne identified the gunman as Warren Swanson, who arrived here Tuesday. Disspayne said Swanson told him he did not know Hoffa but added: "I had a vision a month ago that told me to do it."

Swanson, bruised and bloody from a mauling he received from marshals and spectators, was taken to a hospital for treatment. His condition was undetermined immediately.

Hoffa was not injured.

"I saw the gun," Hoffa said. "I knocked him down."

Hoffa said he saw the tall slender man approaching and that the man was aiming a pellet gun at him.

"I DUCKED," Hoffa said. "I saw him coming and I'm all right and I'm not hurt."

"It was some jerk with a pellet gun."

A pellet gun is a small air gun which fires shots similar in size to shotgun pellets. It normally is not lethal.

The man, not identified immediately, was beaten and subdued.

Estes Reports Record Sales for November

Record sales of Pontiacs and Tempests for November were reported today by E. M. Estes, General Motors vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division.

Estes said Pontiac dealers delivered 54,881 cars during the month. This, he pointed out, was 27 per cent ahead of the previous record of 42,283 cars established last year.

In addition, Estes said, a record—breaking 18,007 cars were sold in the final 10 days of November. A year ago in the same period the figure was 14,258.

The current demand for Pontiacs represents an all-time high for the company, Estes said.

He added that Pontiac sales in the last six consecutive 10-day sales periods have set new highs—the first time in Pontiac's history that this has happened.

Dean Says Pledge May Come Soon

K Plotting Another Test Ban Trap?

From Our News Wires
GENEVA — U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean said today Soviet Premier Khrushchev soon may try to trap the West with another unilateral pledge to stop testing nuclear weapons.

Dean told the 17-nation disarmament conference the Soviet Union appears to have abandoned "all pretense at actual negotiations to reach agreement" on a nuclear test ban.

The Soviet Union clearly has decided it does not want a test ban at all, Dean said, "but is trying to maneuver the West in every possible way into some sort of unspecified, uncontrolled moratorium arrangement."
Dean stressed that the West would be again be trapped into the position of September 1961 when Russia suddenly broke its own moratorium on testing, in which the West had joined.
"Ever since the Soviet Union broke the last unilateral pledge it made in the person of its highest authority... it has undoubtedly realized the great value to itself of broken pledges on nuclear testing," Dean said.
"It appears to me that the Soviet Union is once more heading on such a course...
"We may once again be greeted with a unilateral pledge on the part of the Soviet Union. Maybe this pledge will come again from the highest authority, just as similar pledges were given by the leaders of the Soviet Union with regard to a recent situation in the Caribbean with which we are all familiar."

Smog Blanket Grips London

Health Officials Warn of Potential Dangers

From Our News Wires
LONDON — A dense blanket of sulphurous yellow smog gripped the British capital for the second day today, raising a threat to health and making thousands late for work.
Metropolitan police said at least 32 deaths had been reported since midnight Monday, most of them due to smog. The normal death rate for the 700-square mile area is six to eight.
As commuter trains crawled toward the heart of the city, health authorities warned that babies and old people should be kept at home.
"The situation is potentially serious," said a spokesman for the Medical Research Council. "Smog particularly affects the very young, the very old and people with weak hearts or chests."
London's last great exposure to smog was in 1957 when 1,000 people died from chest and heart ailments during a three-day siege.
Ten years ago the toll from an eight-day smog was at least 4,000, and by some estimates 12,000.
The capital's great airport was still idle after some 30 hours of inactivity. Shipping was tied up on the River Thames and cars were abandoned around the whole metropolitan area. Rail schedules had been discarded.
Fog blanketed much of the rest of England and spread into the west of Scotland.

Child Raped, Flung to Death

Dropped From Roof of 14-Story Building

NEW YORK (AP)—A 3-year-old girl was raped and flung to her death Tuesday from the roof of a tall apartment house in Brooklyn as police were en route there to check a report that another child had been molested half an hour earlier.
The dead girl, Lourdes Bass, had been home for lunch and had started back to parochial school just 10 minutes before her death plunge.
Mrs. Mattie Arnold, a tenant, happened to be looking out a window when a blurred form flashed by, followed immediately by a crash.
In the courtyard below, Mrs. Arnold and other residents found the girl's body, nude except for shoes and socks.
Almost every bone in her body was broken in the fall, an autopsy showed.
Lourdes' clothing was found in a heap in a stairwell just below the roof.
SHE LIVED in a city housing project, Farragut Houses, in the Brooklyn Navy Yard section, with her father, Carlos, a porter; her mother, Margaret, and six brothers and sisters.
They shared an eight-floor apartment, six floors below the roof.
Scuffed gravel near the roof parapet indicated she had put up a struggle.
"It is not likely that the child jumped," police said. "We are assuming this is a homicide."
White, Negro and Puerto Rican residents of the 10-building, 1,000-family housing project had complained previously of women and children being molested and had pleaded for more police protection.
Detectives had been sent to investigate a report that another child had been molested.

Dean apparently was referring to Soviet assurances early in the Cuban crisis that no Russian missile bases were located in Cuba.
Earlier, the West had offered to sign an unspecified test ban treaty "tomorrow" if the Soviets could prove that international inspection is unnecessary.
British delegate Sir Michael Wright made the offer but it was clear he had little expectation it would be taken up.
Wright told the conference that if the Russians have scientific evidence which proves that on-site inspection is not necessary to police a nuclear test ban, they should deposit it at once with United Nations Secretary General Thant.
"If they do that we are prepared to sign an unspecified treaty tomorrow," he declared.
He noted, however, that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin had told the United Nations recently the Russians would not disclose their information because of the "state of international tension."

Vice Squad Head on Spot as Raid Tactics Blasted

Mayor Robert Landry last night said he would ask that the head of the Pontiac Police Department Vice Squad be fired if any one of 32 persons arrested in a raid last Saturday were exonerated in court.
His statement came in the wake of a bitter denunciation of Lt. William Nesbitt, vice squad head, by City Commissioner Milton R. Henry.
Police and sheriff's deputies raided the Green Door Bachelors' Club in the Branch Hotel.

One person was charged with maintaining an illegal liquor place, two with aiding and abetting and four with loitering.
All 32 pleaded not guilty.
"If just one of the 32 persons is found not guilty," Landry asserted, "this Commission should move to fire the head of the vice squad."
Landry referred to Nesbitt's methods as "a buddy-buddy system inherited from George Eastman" (former public safety director).
Henry ordered City Manager Robert A. Storer to "see that the furniture taken from the place by police is returned first thing in the morning."

He indicated legal action would be taken against the city if his request was not granted. Henry, an attorney, represents the club members.
In a report filed as a result of a complaint from a citizen and that warrants were obtained from Municipal Court before the raid, Nesbitt said it came as a result of a complaint from a citizen and that warrants were obtained from Municipal Court before the raid.
Henry upheld the objectives and community interests of the club, charging that police did not have a way necessary for the removal of furnishings.
Henry charged Nesbitt used "gangster style" tactics. "If he doesn't think he's removed," Henry said.

County Poll Machines Released to Precincts

Rusk Will Meet With British, French Aides

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk will meet with Britain's foreign secretary Lord Home and Maurice Couve de Murville, foreign minister of France, in Paris next Tuesday. High ranking informants said today.
Rusk is leaving for Paris on Dec. 10, to attend the ministerial council meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, scheduled to convene Thursday, Dec. 13.
The three foreign ministers will use the two days prior to the NATO conference to review the international situation in general and NATO's specific problems in particular, informants said.
They said meetings of the three foreign ministers are customary in advance of bigger international conferences.

Katanga City Taken, Says Congo Official

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The central Congolese government today claimed capture of the north Katanga town of Katanga, where about 1,500 gendarmes loyal to Katanga President Moise Tshombe had been holding out since February.
Gen. Joseph Mobutu announced his central army troops general, the town last Friday and that it is now under his control. But diplomatic circles here thought it likely the Katangans still held the section on the east bank of the Lualaba River.
Two spans of a 500-yard road and rail bridge linking the two parts of the town have been blown into the river, and it was believed the Leopoldville troops controlled only the main part of Katanga and the airfield on the west bank.
Kongolo, scene of the massacre of 19 Roman Catholic priests and two other Europeans by drunken central army soldiers in January, was recaptured a month later by Katanga armed forces.
Capture of Kongolo could help to bolster Premier Cyrille Adoula's Leopoldville regime in the face of strong parliamentary opposition attacks.
Adoula owes much of his power to support from the army, which had needed a victory to raise morale.

3 French Poodles Die in Area Garage Fire

Three miniature French poodles valued at $310 perched in a fire yesterday in a garage at 136 Star Street, Waterford Township. Damage to the building was estimated at $1,500.
Radiant heat from an electric heater was cited as the cause of the fire in the building that also contained an apartment.

Liberal Expenses Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Eugene J. Keogh, D-N.Y., a member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said today the Internal Revenue Service could refute charges that Congress and the administration are antithetical by further easing proposed expense account regulations.
The congressman, testifying at the second day of IRS hearings on suggested rules aimed at ending expense account abuses, said the tax agency should "show restraint and understanding in effectuating the will of Congress."
The new rules were drafted to implement the 1962 tax law which calls for stricter accounting of deductions claimed by businessmen for travel, entertainment and gift expenses.
When the two-day hearings began yesterday, IRS Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin announced that the rules proposals already had been liberalized because of a flood of written protests from businessmen.
Caplin said all controversial features of the proposals would be reconsidered in the light of hearing testimony.
Keogh said that "this Congress and this administration have been accused in some quarters of being anti-business."

BERNARD TRESNOWSKI

Researcher Fills Hospital Post Here

A 30-year-old research associate of the University of Michigan has been named assistant administrator of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, it was announced today.
Appointed to the newly created position was Bernard R. Tresnowski.
Until he assumed his new duties this week he had been affiliated with the Bureau of Hospital Administration of the U. of M. Graduate School of Public Health.
His superior at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital will be Sister Mary Xavier, administrator.
A native of East Chicago, Ind., Tresnowski, prior to his work at the University of Michigan, had been assistant director of the Albert Einstein Medical Center in Philadelphia from 1958 through 1961.
A graduate of U. of M. with a bachelor of science degree, Tresnowski received his masters degree from the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Public Health.
He is a nominee of the American College of Hospital Administration and a member of the American Public Health Association and the American Hospital Association.
Tresnowski, his wife Beverly, and their four children live at 303 Elven Drive, Bloomfield Township.

Architects Appointed for Church Facilities

BIRMINGHAM — The Congregational Church of Birmingham has announced the appointment of O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach Associates as architects to plan its new church facilities.
Selection of a building site is now under way and construction is scheduled to begin in 1964.
A successful fund crusade this year made possible the proposed 325-seat church building and church school which will cost approximately $350,000, church officials said today.

The Birmingham architectural firm contracted to build the church has designed many others, including St. John's Episcopal Church in Royal Oak, St. James Chapel and Sunday school in Birmingham and St. Sarkis Armenian Apostolic Church in Dearborn.
The firm is also the architect of the Oakland County Court House in Pontiac, the Pontiac Public Library, the Edsel and Henry Ford Auditorium in Detroit and many schools and hospitals throughout the area.

Slated to Fill School Post in Waterford

Union Head Hoffa Shot At in Court

died by U.S. marshals and taken into custody.
The incident occurred while U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller was on the bench but while the jury was out of the room. The gunman came through the rear door of the small walnut-paneled courtroom, and walked down the aisle to a swinging gate separating spectators from lawyers and principals in the trial.
He lunged through the gate, pulled the weapon from beneath his coat and headed toward Hoffa, seated at the defense table.
Three defense lawyers ducked to the floor as the man opened fire. The shots made small popping sounds.
Hoffa ducked, then lunged at the man and knocked him to the floor. Several marshals piled on top of the assailant and several spectators ran through the swinging gate and started kicking the man. The spectators withdrew at Hoffa's insistence.
LED FROM COURT
U.S. Marshal Elmer Disspayne led the man, blood streaming from his head and face, from the courtroom and would not permit newsmen to question him.
Judge Miller, who watched the drama abruptly unfold, ordered a recess and told the marshals that he wanted a full and complete report of the incident.
There were approximately 50 or 60 spectators in the courtroom at the time. They were listening to attorneys argue whether certain testimony in the $1 million conspiracy trial should be continued.
Miller ordered Hoffa to be examined by a doctor to make certain he was not injured.
Daniel Maher, a defense attorney, said he looked up and saw the man standing over Hoffa and pointing a gun at the union leader. Maher said:
"I saw the man fire pellets and they bounced off Hoffa. I saw the pellets hit him in the face and chest and bounce off. Hoffa then struck at the man."
When Miller called a recess, Hoffa asked the judge to have the blood wiped off the floor before the jury came back into the courtroom. Miller said that would be done.
About 15 minutes after the outbreak, the man was taken in handcuffs to General Hospital for treatment of head injuries. Bethesda Hospital yesterday for selling his wares on the street without a city license.
He told police he owned $3,000 in U.S. savings bonds and had traveled through out the world on his proceeds from selling pencils.

U.P. Artist Finds Own 3-D Art Style

LAKE LINDEN (U)—Beautiful Lake Superior scenes are all but being brought to life by Ina-Iona Myers—who uses actual rocks, driftwood and even sand from the shores she depicts in a most unusual art form.

An added touch of authenticity are tree trunks made from real limbs of trees that stand in the scenes she paints and builds-in three-dimensions on a styrofoam base.

She is one of a growing colony of Upper Peninsula artists. Her trademark is a bit of native copper ore to be found imbedded with pieces of stone or pebbles that characterize virtually all her work.

Lawrence Fleischman, president of the Detroit Fine Arts Commission, looked at one of Mrs. Myers' montages that hangs in the home of a Redford Township daughter, Mrs. Gene Davis, and told a reporter: "I like it."

'SHE HAS TALENT'
To the daughter, this author: "Ask your mother to send me three or four. I'd like to get them in some galleries here. She has talent."

The 56-year-old Mrs. Myers, whose four children now are grown and gone, spends her summers sketching Lake Superior beauty spots of the Michigan Copper Country and gathering chips of stones, driftwood, sand and other materials that will make the scene all but come alive.

She developed her three-dimensional form of art in 1960, "trying to make something pretty" out of shells a daughter, Mrs. Davis, sent back from a Florida honeymoon.

"First," she recalls, "I tried silk, then wood for a background. I wasn't satisfied with either one."

"Then I tried a sheet of inch-thick styrofoam. I wasn't satisfied with that either, but it gave me an idea for one of the most satisfying things of my life—what I'm doing now, re-creating beauty and just as it is, as nearly as I can."

WORK EXHIBITED
Her work has been exhibited in Upper Peninsula shows and art shops and can count purchasers in six states.

She carves little niches for the rocks and tree trunks and driftwood and deftly glues them in with a special mixture concocted after many trials and many errors.

If a chip she knocked off the boulder it will represent in the painting has moss on it, the moss must face the same way in the picture. She is that meticulous.

Some one suggested a birch tree would look better in one painting than a pine. "But," she interrupted, "it is a pine tree; not a birch."

The leaves, the skies and the sky-blue waves of Superior she paints in, along with an occasional seagull, one of which caught Fleischman's eye as "very well done, indeed."

MIXES SAND IN
At the beach's edge she often mixes sand with her paints and shades it off into what looks and feels like—and truly is sand—held to the styrofoam by a glue you can't see.

Mrs. Myers knows the country she paints. Some of its most vivid scenery she recalls from childhood. Of Finnish stock, she was born in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. So was her husband, Brockway.

But they met in Detroit, where as a young woman she was employed in the art department of an advertising agency handling a General Motors account and he was an automobile factory worker.

The Upper Peninsula, its beauty and its wide open spaces, lured them back to rear their family here.

He worked, and still does, at a sawmill.

This winter she hopes to put together "a great plaque—4 feet by 3 feet or more."

She wants to have it ready to depict the beauties of the Copper Country for Michigan Week next year.

'K Perhaps Armed Cuba to Prove Taunters Erred'

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A British diplomat says Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev may have armed Cuba so that he could declare "I told you so" to opponents in the Kremlin who felt the United States never would get tough.

Sir Reader Bullard, veteran of 38 years in the British Foreign Service, expressed the theory on a visit here.

Final Goodby to Clyde LONDON (UPI)—Mrs. Mabel Holmes was a divorcee from her husband, Clyde, on grounds of desertion. She said Clyde left her in 1932.

TAX TALK — Mortimer M. Caplin, Internal Revenue Service commissioner, said yesterday the IRS is easing proposed tax regulations aimed at ending "expense account living."

The nation's 63 million passenger cars used 58 billion gallons of gasoline in 1960.

Teen Hitchhiker Steals Her Car at Gunpoint

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — A Midland woman, Mildred Cernals, reported to state police here that a young hitchhiker stole her car at gunpoint yesterday.

She said the youth, about 16 years old, forced her to stop on U.S. 10 near Midland. Police said she had given the thief a ride from the Saginaw area.

Workmen 'Unwater' One of Soo Locks

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — With the end of all Great Lakes 1962 shipping near at hand, workmen yesterday began "unwatering" the Davis Lock on the St. Marys River.

The "unwatering," a lockmen's term, is the pumping out of the water preparatory to cleaning the lock for another season's use.

The Davis is one of three on the American side of the river. The others are the MacArthur and Sabin. The old Fox lock has been removed. Construction of its 1,000-foot successor starts next year.

Knitted cotton garments, such as sweatshirts, can now be made waterproof.

Fewer Motorists Sent Traffic Points Warning

LANSING (AP) — Warning letters to Michigan drivers piling up violation points were 405 less last month than the 3,555 sent out in October, the secretary of state's office reports.

One major reason, the department said, is that as towns get by-passed by interstate freeways the number of convictions from the small towns' lessens.

Grandmother Has Triplets

HALIFAX, England (AP) — A grandmother with eight children (3 pounds 2 ounces each), and Paul and Peter and two grandchildren gave birth Tuesday to boy triplets. "I had no idea that triplets were on the way," said Mrs. Coultter. "But naturally I'm delighted."

Question First Lady's Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Should Mrs. John F. Kennedy pay for her own meal at White House dinners honoring foreign dignitaries or is this a legitimate business expense of the President of the United States?

This question was raised Tuesday by a St. Paul, Minn., businessman who challenged tax regulations proposed by the Internal Revenue Service to implement a new law designed to curb expense account abuses.

Testifying at public hearings on the suggested rules, Henry G. Fousard, president of the St. Paul area Chamber of Commerce, argued that wives attending business dinners have as much right to eat on the expense account as does the First Lady and wives of American ambassadors.

President Kennedy and U.S. ambassadors are given special funds to help finance official entertainment.

Wesley M. Chandler, a St. Paul manufacturer of burial-vaults predicted dire results if a new tax law is interpreted as prohibiting expense deductions for the cost of having wives attend business entertainment functions.

"I do not think it was the intention of our lawmakers to create a situation whereby they encouraged a sales representative to go out for the evening with his customer without their wives. This could be an aiding factor to the moral decay of our country," Chandler said.

Elect Mackie President of Highway Group

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — John C. Mackie of Michigan, the nation's only elected state highway commissioner, was elected president for 1963 of the American Association of State Highway Officials.

Mackie succeeds J. C. Womack, California chief highway engineer. Mackie is serving his second six-year term in Michigan.

Picks Secretary for Candidate

Claims McNamara Is '68 President Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said yesterday he regards Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as "the leading choice right now for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1968, although he apparently is not a Democrat."

McNamara came into the Cabinet of President Kennedy as a registered Republican, but a pro-fessed independent who has contributed to Democratic funds. He is a former president of the Ford Motor Co.

Proxmire said the Democratic party will have a big supply of men of presidential timber in 1968. He named Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and wives of Kennedy's brothers, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"But right now," Proxmire said in a statement also delivered in a broadcast over Chippewa Falls, Wis., radio station WAXX, "Secretary McNamara would have to be the outstanding candidate."

He added, however, that he does not know whether McNamara would be willing to "touch the job with a ten-foot pole."

Proxmire said he and McNamara have differed at times but he regards the secretary as the ablest member of the Cabinet.

Zone Ruling Up to High Court

To Review Earlier OK of Residential Use

A ruling that local government can legally zone property with "aesthetic considerations," recently handed down by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer, will be reviewed by the Michigan Supreme Court.

Five owners of property in the village of Bingham Farms—where all property is zoned residential—have appealed Judge Beer's Nov. 9 ruling against their suit to have the zoning declared unconstitutional.

Judge Beer said "village authorities can legally 'keep the village free from business and solely for residential purposes, including aesthetic considerations.'"

He said Bingham Farms' zoning was not unreasonable, arbitrary and unconstitutional in a ruling that could prove to be an important precedent in zoning law if not reversed by the Supreme Court.

Harry N. Dell of Royal Oak, attorney for the property owners, predicted that the ruling will be overturned if the Supreme Court follows its previous opinions on the subject.

Dell said the Supreme Court has held in the past that aesthetic considerations are not a proper basis for zoning.

At issue in the case is some 50 acres on Telegraph Road south of 13 Mile Road whose owners sought a rezoning to commercial for use as a shopping center.

Traditional Toys Get Revamping for '62 Holiday

New on the Christmas scene will be an interesting array of new designs of traditional toys that delight generation after generation.

A new version of the three bears installs these old favorites in a house and utilizes a curly fiber for their pelts that comes out just as curly, even from an automatic washer.

The telephone, a basic playroom favorite, is mobile this season and qualifies for the push-and-pull category.

The megaphone, a time-honored aid to cheerleaders, now is geared to utilize electronics and can be heard 300 feet away.

The classic jumping rope is now mechanized, providing new conveniences for the kids who like to jump, but tire rapidly when swinging the old-fashioned rope.

Mowers Imitate Goats

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—The Kentucky Department of Highways is using four self-propelled machines with mountain goat characteristics to cut grass and weeds along steep slopes of interstate and turnpike routes in Eastern Kentucky. The mowers will cut going up-hill at angles approaching 90 degrees and down-hill at 80-degree angles.

NOTICE OF TAXES CITY OF PONTIAC

The 1962 County taxes in the City of Pontiac will be due and payable at the office of the Pontiac City Treasurer, December 10, 1962 through January 21, 1963, without fees.

On January 22, 1963, a collection fee of 4% will be added to all County taxes paid through February 28, 1963.

On March 1, 1963, all unpaid County and 1962 City and School taxes will be returned to the Oakland County Treasurer's office and must be paid there with additional fees. Payments made by mail must be postmarked not later than January 21, 1963 to avoid penalties.

Area Man Named to Boy Scout Post

Bloomfield Township advertising executive, Edwin L. Karpick, has been named chairman of the Trust Promotion Committee for the Clinton Valley Council of Boy Scouts of America.

Karpick resides with his wife and five children at 5659 Kingsmill Drive.

His appointment was announced by John W. Hunt, council president. Karpick is an account executive at Gray and Kilgore, Inc., of Detroit.

In his position as new scout volunteer-executive he will direct the council's efforts in promoting its long-range program to foster and develop trust agreements as an in-major city around the world.

Pickpockets Need Extra Christmas Shopping Money!

By PHYLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—In a lot of ways professional pickpockets are just like anybody else.

They like to be warm and comfortable while they work. They prefer the company of exhilarated, excited, well-dressed people. They find it stimulating to rub elbows with people who drink.

At Christmas time, your handy neighborhood pickpocket is never much farther away than—well gee, than your wallet. He shops in the best stores and, when the shops close, he likes the club atmosphere of bars and bus railroad terminals.

After Christmas, if Santa and the cops gave them a good time, the pros head down to the sunny south. They like Florida, particularly the race tracks, and who can blame them?

The pickpockets that didn't have a very prosperous Christmas season have to stay up north, of course; they join the crowds looking for post-Christmas bargains, or mingle sadly at airports and docks with prospective clients heading for resortlands.

Come spring, and it's coast-to-coast time. The pickpockets like the out-of-doors like the rest of us, so they go to the races—or the amusement parks—or the fairgrounds. (They can hardly wait for opening day of the New York World's Fair; fun, fun, fun.)

Easter is a season the pickpockets hold dear, like Christmas, even if they have to spend a lot of time indoors at shopping centers.

The summer travel season finds the pickpockets back at the major airports and bus and train terminals, vicariously seeking out the tickety vacationers.

But they do go in for recreation too. They like the baseball parks, although the ball parks are tough work for pickpockets because the cops are savvy to them; therefore, they must appear to be intensely preoccupied with the game, even while their minds and hands are on their occupation.

After summer comes football, basketball, and the theater. But it is not a lucrative time of year, all in all, and most pickpockets are joyous when the Christmas season comes around again—Christmas with all its holly and folly.

For this, dear shoppers, is the biggest season of all for pickpocketing activity... After all, they need Christmas money too.

Authority for this saga of the sneak thief is Ben Cunningham, a former FBI agent, now chief inspector for American Express.

Cunningham heads a worldwide detective organization which was formed to ride herd on millions of dollars worth of travelers' checks and into circulation by traveling Americans.

He claims (not surprisingly) that people who shop with a great deal of cash on their persons are in for a sad, Santa Clausless holiday unless they comport themselves, and their purses, with utmost caution.

In November and December, he says, the number of professional men out to "take" you are triple the number you might counter in any other single season.

Cunningham advises women to "keep a hand over the opening of your pocketbook while walking, standing or examining merchandise."

"When you're in a restaurant or other public place, keep your purse on your lap."

As for men: "Carry cash in a flat, this wallet inside your inside jacket pocket." And feel for it occasionally, to make sure it's still there.

If it ISN'T, don't kick yourself!

What Do Doctors Do When They Suffer HEADACHE PAIN?

New York, N.Y.—Most doctors live under constant nervous tension, pressure and mental strain. It's not surprising they, too, often suffer from miserable headaches.

But now—it can be revealed what doctors, themselves, take to relieve headache pain.

A survey shows many doctors take the fast, pain-relieving ingredients in Anacin®. In fact, three out of four doctors recommend this same type of relief to their patients.

Anacin Tablets are stronger yet safer. They give fast, long-lasting and more complete relief from tense, nervous headaches than aspirin or aspirin with buffering. You see, pure aspirin or buffered aspirin contains only one pain reliever. But Anacin is different. Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of medically proven ingredients recognized for their effectiveness by the highest medical authorities. Anacin gives extra medication that not only relieves pain fast, but also its nervous tension, pressure and depression.

After taking Anacin—pain goes in minutes! The sufferer feels great again.

Despite their strength and effectiveness—Anacin Tablets contain no narcotics, do not form a habit or leave one depressed. Anacin may be taken as directed as often as needed without upsetting or irritating the stomach.

See if the extra medication in Anacin doesn't work better for you. Change to Anacin for fast, long-lasting, more complete pain-relief.

Fuel Stations Wait 'Out There' for Spaceships

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Hydrogen clouds known to exist in interstellar space will provide extra fuel for future spaceships leaving the solar system, Hungarian space scientist Professor Gyorgy Marx predicted yesterday.

The sparse quantities of hydrogen would be collected by some "mouth" in the spaceship, possibly working on a magnetic principle, and turned into helium by atomic fusion, Marx told reporters. This would then provide extra power for the rocket engines.

Interstellar flight will require vast amounts of energy because speeds close to that of light — 186,000 miles per second — will be required if even the nearest stars are to be reached.

Princess Hospitalized for Operation on Teeth

LONDON (AP) — Princess Alexandra of Kent was admitted to a hospital Tuesday night and court informants said she will have an operation for the removal of impacted wisdom teeth.

Envoys Battle Through Cocktail Parties

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—It's grim enough dealing with Cuba or the Congo all day," said the diplomat, staring glumly at the milling throng of drinkers. "To fight your way through this every day is a bit too much."

BACKGROUND

With 110 member nations determined to wine and dine each other before the General Assembly session ends soon, the average delegate usually winds up his day being fuddled about a smoke-filled room.

The envoy first must stand in line up to half an hour to pay his respects to the host ambassador. Then he is free to battle his way through the packed room in search of a cocktail tray.

If the drink gives him courage to try the buffet, the guest attaches himself to another long line inching past the food tables. After receiving a plate of spiced beef or one of the volcanic curries that most U.N. parties feature, he has the final problem of finding a place to sit.

'RUGGED' LIFE
After a three-week round of U.N. receptions and banquets during the 1962 visit to the assembly, Soviet Premier Khrushchev told a newsmen: "This life would make a stone sick."

Ten years ago the United Nations had fewer than 60 members. A delegate averaged a couple of small parties a week during the session. Now he often attends two or three affairs in one evening.

By the time the assembly is over he has gone to more than 80 such functions and consumed enough spiced food and strong drink to turn the ordinary stomach to stone.

He faithfully makes the rounds because diplomatic etiquette requires it, and he hopes to pick up useful information chatting with fellow delegates.

The late Dag Hammarskjöld avoided social functions, but he once described the U.N. reception as a fruitful field for quiet diplomacy.

His successor, U Thant, goes to parties when time permits and engages in informal exchanges he could never fit into his busy work schedule.

With the rapid growth of the United Nations, receptions have become so jammed that it is difficult for a just delegate to indulge in any quiet lobbying.

ACUTE PROBLEM
The growth of the world forum has posed an acute problem for the U.N. catering staff which handles parties at the East River headquarters.

"We can't accommodate more than 750 persons in the main dining room at one time," said Frank W. Reickert, who runs the network of bars and restaurants.

"When Algeria gave a party in honor of Premier Ahmed Ben Bella in October, the attendance was so large we had to open the west terrace for the overflow."

Most countries like to entertain during the first six weeks of the session, while their foreign ministers are still in town. Reickert may get six applications for the dining room the same night.

"We have to take them on a first come, first served basis with no favoritism," he said.

Some of the wealthier African and Latin-American nations also hold lavish outside affairs.

The big powers usually entertain at their own missions and restrict the guest list to a small group.

The United States has stepped up its entertainment schedule since it built a new headquarters with a spacious penthouse.

The Soviet Union goes all-out each fall with its October revolution party. The Kremlin keeps a tight grip on the purse strings.

After the first half-hour caviar, champagne and vodka are replaced by highballs and sandwiches.

Despite the problem of elbow room, most nations try to hold $5 a head. At the top hotels they would pay $10 to $12 for the same thing.

"We don't attempt to make any profit," said Reickert, "so we can serve a complete hot and cold buffet with drink set-ups for about tax—about one-third retail price—under diplomatic status. The U.N. lets them do this, but most hotels impose a corkage charge which cuts sharply into the saving.

SUPPLY OWN LIQUOR
Most U.N. members prefer to supply their own liquor, since a complete hot and cold buffet with drink set-ups for about they can get it free of duty and grounds to let delegations serve alcoholic drinks. Most observe the ban only on national holidays.

Algeria served soft drinks at its huge party. When Ben Bella heard how much liquor would cost, he substituted fruit juice, one insider reported.

It happened that the Saudi Arabian party, replete with champagne and cocktails was held the same night. Some thirsty delegates who had heard of Ben Bella's decision headed there first to stake-up on liquid refreshment, then attended the Algerian dinner.

Inmate's Wife Creates Own Parking Problem

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An Oklahoma City woman's mistake was the selection of a parking spot when she went to visit her husband in jail.

Police said she parked a car with a stolen license plate, loaded with stolen goods, in the sheriff's parking lot, in the path of a policeman scribbling parking tickets.

First 25 Wedded Years Are Hardest

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—A man's word is his bond.

For a long, long time I had been promising my wife, Frances, that on our silver wedding anniversary I would bring her breakfast in bed.

So when the great day finally came, I leaned above her by the dawn's early light, and tenderly asked "What'll you have, dear?"

"Just orange juice, toast, scrambled eggs and bacon and tea," she murmured sleepily.

"Well, then, get up and fix it!" I told her.

"But all these years you promised you'd serve me breakfast in bed on our 25th anniversary," protested Frances. "Some years that prospect is about all that kept me going."

"I do intend to serve you breakfast in bed. But first you have to get up and cook it, don't you?"

But she padded out to the kitchen, fixed breakfast, then climbed back into bed, and I served it to her—according to plan.

REMINISCING
Then, as married people do on such occasions, we fell to reminiscing about the past.

Frances remembered everything about our wedding at the "Little Church Around the Corner" here in 1937—who was there, what she wore, what I wore, who said what to whom.

All I could recall about the ceremony was that—my bride brought me only a dowry of $100—we either had to forego having the candles at the altar lit, $2, or the organ music—was it $5 or $10?

"Our wedding dinner was spaghetti, meat sauce and a bottle of wine," said Frances. "It cost $2. I remember I had to lend you the money."

"And the bedstead in that quaint little hovel in Greenwich Village you brought me home to didn't even have legs. It was supported by four stacks of bricks."

"Whatever became of those bricks?" I demanded. "I hope you haven't thrown them away. We may need them again sometime."

Discussing our quarter century of marital experience, I asked my wife:

HARDEST YEARS
"What do you think now are the hardest years of marriage?"

"The first 25," she replied promptly, then added fervently, "I hope!"

Actually, the wear and tear of the years shows more on me than on her. I have grown fat and partly bald from weathering a depression, two wars and recessions.

But my wife, who had a streak of premature gray in her hair at marriage, now shows no sign of silver threads among the gold.

Some years back her hair suddenly turned blonde, an occurrence which is still known to other dwellers on our apartment house floor as "The Miracle in Apartment 8-F."

"If you had it to do all over again, would you marry me?" I inquired.

"Probably," Frances answered, after a long pause. "After all, looking back, 1937 wasn't exactly a vintage year for husbands. And I'm really glad you're still around."

"Because any husband, no matter what his faults are, is better than any husband, no matter how good, who is no longer there. It's nice to have a man in the house—that is, when he remembers to come home."

"When I was courting you," I reminded her, "you were always humming 'I'm Getting Sentimental Over You.' What's your favorite tune now?"

"That Old Rugged Cross!" said Frances promptly. "Now get to work Rover, and earn me a living."

Wayne State University has announced it will offer four courses at Pontiac Northern High School during the winter quarter. All classes will begin Jan. 8.

There will be no scheduled registration period at Northern for these courses as in the past.

Included in the offerings will be a course in child psychology (Educ. Psych. 7733) open to those individuals admitted to graduate courses in historical geography of the United States, adult and parent education, and individual hygiene.

Details may be obtained by contacting the office of Off Campus Programs, 469 Education Building, Wayne State University.

Club to Sponsor Children's Fair

Mothers Set Penny Carnival

The Mothers Club of the Boys' Club of Pontiac will sponsor a Children's Fair and Penny Carnival Saturday from 12 to 8 p.m.

Hundreds of gifts will be available. Christmas stockings, aprons, handmade doll clothes, recipe holders, cutting boards, pin cushions, toys and coin purses are among the many items offered for sale.

Also featured will be a gift wrapping service, homemade bake sale, treasure chest, refreshments, fish bowl and side show attractions.

A big Penny Carnival, Boys' Club style, in the gym will be a main attraction with parents who would like to leave the children in one spot while shopping.

Church Fair Friday

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Joslyn and Third Avenues will hold their annual bazaar and fair, Friday, 5 to 8 p.m. A family-style roast beef dinner is included.

Yule Setting Backdrop for Teachers' Dinner

The Pontiac Federation of Teachers gathered for a dinner meeting in a Christmas setting Tuesday at Pontiac Northern High School.

John Keimert gave the invocation, and Rosamond Hae-berle, president of the PFT welcomed the assembly.

Charles Cheng introduced the speaker, Dr. Henry Herrmann, professor of humanities at Wayne State University, who chose for his subject: "Will Public Education Benefit by the Unionization of Teachers?"

Dr. Herrmann commented on the purpose of education as making available to many what was enjoyed by a privileged few in the past.

LIVING LABORATORY

"Schools are the living laboratory of democracy," he said. "Intelligence must be used to direct our lives. Only teachers who are themselves free are fit to teach freedom."

The speaker also stressed the dignity of teaching and the strength gained in the struggle for a cause.

In a musical interlude arranged by Eldon Rosegarr, Michael Dempsey directed "The Norsemen," a senior boys' vocal ensemble from the school.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools William J. Lacy and Mrs. Lacy were guests.

Brooks Robertson and Mr. Cheng were in charge of arrangements, and Mrs. Virginia Maeyens was decorations chairman.

Demonstrates Toys for Women

Mrs. Lester Pilcock gave a toy demonstration for the Fashionette Club Tuesday evening at the Adah Shelly Library.

Members will gather for a cooperative dinner and Christmas party Dec. 18. Gifts will be exchanged.

Mrs. Arthur Evans won the trophy for losing the most weight during the week.

The nominating committee met at the home of chairman Mrs. James H. King. Assisting her were Mrs. John Reichert and Mrs. William Augs. Election of officers will be held Tuesday evening.

City Musicale Plans Christmas Concert

Pontiac Tuesday Musicale will meet for its Christmas concert Dec. 11 at 1:30 p.m. at Fellowship Hall of Grace Lutheran Church.

The Tuesday Musicale Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Ferdinand Gaensbauer, accompanied by Mrs. Walter A. Schmitz, will present the main part of the program.

Deanna Relyea, pianist, and Lyle Vette, percussionist, will also perform.

Deanna, the club's 1962 Interlochen scholarship winner, is a student at the University of Michigan. She is continuing her studies with Benning Dexter.

Lyle is a tenth grader at Pontiac Central High School. For the past two years he has held first chair in the Interlochen State Band and has won first division honors in state music festivals. He is a member of the Pontiac Central Band.

The chorus will open the program with carols: "God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen," arranged by Hallstrom; "O Bone Jesu," by Palestrina, arranged by Saar; "The Little Drummer Boy," arranged by Simeone; "The Virgin's Slumber Song," by Reger; and "The Angels and the Shepherds" by Kodaly.

For the second group of numbers, Deanna will play the first movement of the "Pastoral Sonata" by Beethoven and "Scherzo in D Minor" by Chopin.

A quartette from the chorus will sing "Swiss Sking Song" arranged by Krone; then the chorus, accompanied by Lyle Vette, will present "The Sleigh Ride" by Anderson-Parish. Lyle will also play during "The Little Drummer Boy."

Concluding the program will be a duet by Mrs. Victor Lindquist and Mrs. L. G. Cox, "Never Was a Child So Lonely," an Appalachian folk song arranged by Niles.

'Appreciation' for Birds

'Old-Fashioned' Idea OK

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I had a date with a sailor, and he was a doll.

He is my girl friend's steady's shipmate and it was a fixed-up date. I had a marvelous time. When he took me home he asked for a good-night kiss.

I told him I didn't believe in kissing a boy on the first date, and that a kiss was meant to show "love," and I didn't know him that well. He said a kiss was meant to show appreciation and I was "old-fashioned."

Was I wrong, Abby? Do girls really kiss boys to show their "appreciation"?

My girl friend said he liked me a lot and would call me again. If he does, should I go? I am 16 and he is 19.

DIMPLE ON MY CHIN
DEAR DIMPLE: If he calls you again, go. It might indicate that he respects your "old-fashioned" ideas. But if he insists that "affectionate gestures" mean "thank you," kiss him "goodbye-forever."

DEAR ABBY: In the interest of one's health, do you think it is wise to bathe during the winter months?

A. L.
DEAR A. L.: Out of consideration for one's FRIENDS, I would recommend it.

DEAR ABBY: We are a family of eight adults. Our father passed away years ago and our mother is 80. She is senile and has been in a sanitarium for six years. Only one of my sisters and I visit her regularly and attend to her needs.

Mother will not be with us much longer, and I am wondering if my sister and I should waste the time and money to notify our brothers and sisters when mother dies.

They never write to us, or call to ask how she is. She was a wonderful mother and doesn't deserve to be forgotten this way.

A DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: Yes, notify them when your mother dies. And don't be surprised to see the ones who did the least for her when she was living cry the loudest at her funeral.

Dealer Unit Holds 14th Yule Party

Rotunda Inn was the scene of the 14th annual Christmas party of the Pontiac Plumbing and Heating Dealers Association and its women's auxiliary Tuesday evening.

General chairman of the affair, held in the Pinewood and Rotunda rooms of the inn, was Mrs. Ezra Mason. Assisting were auxiliary president Mrs. Gerdon Compton; decorations committee head Mrs. Curtis Thompson; and her assistant Mrs. Oscar Ferrell.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Conrad, Mrs. E. J. Duffy, Wilfred Fleming and his daughter, Mrs. Harry Cwikel.

Children Good Detectives

Don't Keep Guns Around

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE #485: Freddy G., aged 4, almost committed murder. "Bag, bang," he said as he came up behind his mother, who was busy at the kitchen sink.

She thought he was playing cowboys and Indians, so ignored him. "Bang" went a third explosion but DR. CRANE this time it was not verbal.

For Freddy had found his grandfather's revolver tucked under a pillow. And he pulled the trigger. A cartridge exploded. And his unsuspecting mother was shot on a level with his aim. Luckily, the gun was pointed not at her heart or head but at her seat.

A surgeon later removed the bullet but she was unable to sit down for a week. Otherwise, no further harm resulted. But all parents should be sure they do NOT leave loaded guns around the house, even in supposedly hidden places.

For children are often superb detectives. They can ferret out hiding places not only of hidden Christmas gifts, but also of guns.

LIFE-SAVER Indeed, it would save many lives every year if nobody had any loaded gun in the house!

But if you must keep lethal weapons, at least don't put the bullets in the gun or where the youngsters can get access to them.

Several other simple "horse sense" safety measures should also be mentioned at this point. For example, teach yourself to use the back burners on your kitchen stove in preference to the front burners. For hundreds of children die because they reach up for the protruding handle from a stew pan that is filled with scalding hot liquid.

Most of the burns that children receive would not occur if their mothers stuck to the safety habit of using the back burners when only one or two are needed. Even if all the burners on your stove occasionally are required, be sure to turn the handles backward, out of reach of curious toddlers.

And don't leave lye or acids or pills and liquid poisons around the house, for children thoughtlessly may drink them.

Or they may think the colored pills are candy. Even an overdose of aspirin can kill a child, so clean out your medicine cabinet.

Most of you don't need those drugs, anyway, for you are simply "worry warts" or hypochondriacs. You swallow pills "on general principles."

MAKE SWITCH Millions of Americans have this, simply shifted from a rabbit's foot or four-leaf clover to pills and tranquilizers, using the drugs largely as psychological crutches for their fearful ego.

As additional safety insurance, don't drive nails in the wall where they are at the level of human eyes, either of children or adults.

And don't allow leaks in the hot water faucets, for many people get burned by stepping under a shower and turning it on, not realizing the very first drops may be scalding hot.

Also, beware of backing your car, for toddlers are often invisible as they stand behind it, so you may crush a youngster.

And auto seat belts save thousands of people from death—or severe cuts and mutilation.

But fasten your seat belts snugly or your head may hammer down on the dashboard despite the seat belt when you have an auto wreck.

Finally, never leave a baby in its bath as you answer the telephone for it can drown in an inch of water, if face down!

Color String to Save Time

When moving, use the same color of string to tie up all cartons containing items for the living room. Then change the colors for boxes for the kitchen, bedroom and other rooms. This will be a great help at unpacking time.

Protect Shoes With Shellac

Two thin coats of shellac over the toes of your child's shoes will help prevent scuffing. A further protection is a polish of paste floor wax over the shellac.

Consider the Floor Plan Before Buying

"A labor-saving appliance installed without adjacent work space is like an orphan in the kitchen," says Margaret Spader, home service consultant. If you are planning to buy a new range or a refrigerator, give some thought to the arrangement of your kitchen. Shifting one or two cabinets, or adding a heatproof counter next to the range may save many steps and accidents. It helps simplify preparing and serving of meals, too.

JUST SAY "Charge It"

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer,
"What in the world is a 'doughnut skirt'?" I have seen them advertised in ready-to-wear and they are quite expensive. Is it possible to make one yourself?" Mrs. V. K.

Dear Mrs. V. K.:
A "doughnut skirt" is cut from a large piece of fabric in a complete circle, as the name implies. There are no side seams. Simply cut out a circle for the waistline and clip one side for the side fastener closing.

Be careful when cutting the center for the waistline; it is very easy to cut it too large. I would suggest you machine stitch your proposed seamline, clip the curved edge and pin to your waistband. If it is too small, you then cut the center a little larger.
These skirts usually can be cut from wool that is 60 inches wide or felt that is 72 inches wide. Most wool material is not wide enough for this type of skirt—except in small sizes.

WINNER OF THE WEEK

"I have found a way to shorten machine knitted garments. I machine stitch about 3 times just above the place where the skirt is to be cut off. A row of single crochet on the bottom edge finishes the garment."
Since I don't know how to knit or crochet, I can only pass this "tip" on to you for what it is worth. Mrs. Grace Shockey, Highland, Mich., is the winner of this week's Tailor Trix pressing board for this suggestion. If anyone has other suggestions about shortening knitted garments, please send them to Sew Simple, in care of this newspaper.

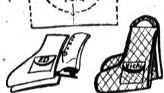

NEAT LOOK

"Dear Eunice Farmer,
"Now that most women are wearing dresses made of heavy fabric, what can we do to prevent a thick look at the faved edges?" Mrs. W. J.

Dear Mrs. W. J.:
If your wool is heavy and scratchy, you probably will be underlining it in a China-silk type of lining. It is best to use a firm, woven type interfacing for the neck edges (cut the same size as the facing).
If the pattern is one in which the facing doesn't show, cut the facing from a matching taffeta, firm satin or any similar fabric. It will feel much better next to your body. Another advantage is that this type of fabric can be pressed nice and flat and won't leave a thick appearance at the neckline.

ICE SKATE CADDY

Here's something you can whip up for a Christmas gift. A pair of ice skate caddies can be made from any heavy, firm fabric with a lining of plastic.

Cut fabric and plastic lining in shape shown in the diagram, making them slightly larger than the skates.
Place the plastic on the wrong side of each piece of fabric and baste the two pieces together around the outer edge.

Bind the straight edge first. Place the two sections over each other with the plastic inside. Then bind the edges shown in broken lines. You will be binding four thicknesses.

You may attach a handle by a narrow fold of the fabric and stitch it to each side of the fold. This should be done before you bind the outer edges.

A small pocket may be put on the outside before basting the plastic in place—or you may wish to decorate the material with a name.

HEM LIKE ROPE
"Dear Eunice Farmer:
"How do you hem a coat without it looking like a rope?" Mrs. G. McG.

Dear Mrs. G. McG.:
This time of year usually brings on a rash of letters about the hems of coats and suits. If you follow the simple instructions, you will be more than rewarded with a smooth, firm hem.

Cut a strip of firm fabric about 3 inches wide on the bias grain. This should be catch-stitched to the fold line of the hem. Next, fold the hem of the coat in place and press carefully.

Now catch-stitch the cut edge of the hem to the bias strip, not catching your stitches through the coat. If the bias strip extends more than 1/2" past the edge of fabric, cut off the excess.

The bias strip may now be catch-stitched to each seam to hold in place. This will hold the hem in place until the lining is applied. This same technique is used in the hem of sleeves also.

Club Plans to Observe Christmas

The Woman's Literary Club of Pontiac met Monday at the Cherokee Road home of Mrs. J. W. Green.

Plans were outlined for a Christmas party for the State Hospital and a collection of clothing for the Indians of the Mount Pleasant area.

A delegation of members made plans to attend the meeting of the Oakland County Federation of Women's Clubs Jan. 4 in Royal Oak.

Mrs. Gerald Augsburgser entertained the group with a Christmas reading entitled, "As Ye Sow."

Mrs. J. W. Green and Mrs. Augsburgser served a silver tea.

A German Tradition

Germany has many charming Christmas traditions—but one of the most "delicious" is the little pink pigs made of marzipan that are as much a part of their Christmas as Kris Kringle. Add to your Christmas tree this year with dozens of little pink suckling pigs made of marzipan climbing over it.

Human Qualities Offset Human Failures

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My divorced brother is making a fool of himself over his 16-year-old boy. He is so afraid that his ex-wife is poisoning the boy's mind against him that on weekends when the lad visits him, he will spend $100 trying to give him a good time. If the boy gets up from a chair or leaves the room, he'll say "What's the matter, Phil?" What he can't see is that all this attention is driving the boy further away from him.

ANSWER: Your brother needs professional help with his problem of guilt.
If it is not resolved, he may end by convincing Phil that he is the sinner he believes himself to be.

His son has a right to his doubts about his father's love.

His father certainly has doubts about the boy's.

But there's no use making this moral point to a parent whose hunger for reassurance is so desperate that he can't respect the child's right to withhold it.

Yet it is just this kind of respect—his capacity to honor a child's struggle to arrive at his own conclusions that is always the loving responsibility of the divorced parent.

If we are overwhelmed with self-accusation, we cannot fill it. We lack the self-trust that enables us to sustain the uncertainty about the child's final judgement of us. Sometimes we can only repair the damage done to our self-trust by a marital failure through professional help.

CONSIDER FAILURE

However, it might be pointed out to your suffering brother that the intensity of his shame over his marital failure calls for serious consideration.

It suggests that failure of any kind holds special humiliation for him. Although success in marriage is certainly a tribute to our good judgement, our patience, flexibility and other enviable virtues, the discovery that we lack them in full measure should not fling us into black despair of ourselves.

Although the qualities that make for success in marriage may need to be developed, we certainly possess other qualities that rate our respect—courage, for instance, and honesty, both of which are often the assets of those of us who withdraw from a bad marriage.

We all fail; some of us in one way, some in another. The common human experience of failure is what constitutes the brotherhood of Man.

To resist it as arduously as your brother does suggests that his problem is not divorce but his terror of human weakness.

Those Asian Beauty Methods Will Stand Your Hair on End

By GAY PAULEY
UPI WOMEN'S EDITOR

BANGKOK, Thailand—Getting one's hair done in some southeast Asia cities often is enough to make it stand on end.

And with some of the techniques used in combing by beauticians I've encountered, it does.

Also, unless the female tourist has fingers to spare, she might well take along manicuring needs.

In Manila, as one manicurist clipped away at nail cuticle, I said "ouch," so often I know she thought that it was English for "thank you." Because she smiled, nodded — and dug deeper with the sharpest scissors this side of an operating room.

But, keep the nails and hair done one must — not only for appearance's sake, but for morale.

Nothing lifts the spirit of this traveler more than a clean head and freshly-painted nails, even if I'm scalp and bald bleeding in the process.

If I wanted to get into politics (and I don't), I'd suggest that the Kennedy administration could do a lot for under-developed countries by offering some beauty technicians for a stay.

Recruit Mr. Kenneth (Mrs. Kennedy's hairdresser) for the Peace Corps.

Test some of you start criticizing and figure "she's just one of those travelers who expects everything to be the way it is state-side," I say not at all.

WANT TOURISTS

Simple facts are, southeast Asia is just as anxious as Europe to lure tourists. All I'm doing is to try to be helpful.

And one way to get the female tourist talking favorably about a country, once she's home, is to start her talking about the beauty shops.

"She's more apt to tell her neighbor, next year's tourist, about the bangup hair style she got in Bangkok than she is to tell her counterpart here digs ditches to help support her family.

Take the technique of hair teasing, for instance. As done in the shops I've visited in this part of the world, the process of reverse combing to add body is carried to the extreme.

Properly done, the hair is teased in the direction of the curl as it comes off the roller.

The shops use American-style rollers in setting all right. But as soon as the dried hair is unwound, forth come the teasing combs. No brush out in the morning. When the hairdresser is standing on end. The head resembles that of a bushman who's just seen the ghost of an ancestor.

How this tatch ever is converted into a civilized result baffles me. But with brush and comb skirting the surface, the works is smoothed out. On the surface that is.

It is three or four hours later, or the next day, when you try to comb your hair on your own that you find tangled into a two-inch deep pile.

No, I didn't get my hair tinted. I figured the artificial blonde would have to last until my return — so all right I'm going back to the United States with an inch of brown at the roots.

TWO COLOR

A Chinese hairdresser in Hong Kong took a look at the blonde top, the brown base, and called a couple of other hairdressers over. "Look," he said, "two color."

One New York business-woman I encountered in Manila asked to have the yellow in her blonde hair toned down. She came out brunette.

But the greatest thing in their favor is the prices.

Except in Tokyo, where a shampoo and set cost the same as in the United States, you can't afford, financially, not to pamper yourself.

At a top-rated Hong Kong hotel, shampoo and manicure cost me less than $2 (U.S.), and the manager suggested that if I tip, it be not more than 18 cents each (the equivalent of a Hong Kong dollar) for manicurist and hairdresser.

Here, at a leading Bangkok hotel, the hairdo and manicure combined cost less than $1 (U.S.). Tip, two baht, or the equivalent of 10 cents.

They Increase Yearly Fight Figure Problems

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Without exercise and diet control, figure problems increase as the years pass. Many women drop sports as they grow older. After they marry they take pride in providing delicious food for their husbands.

Also they sample while they cook and may indulge in more between snacks than they once did. This is natural since they are around the house more and are less active outside of their homes.

Then comes the first baby who is a darling but who may also be a threat, not only to the figure but to marital happiness.

If a woman neglects her husband because of this enveloping, magic, new experience, and does not adopt some figure reconditioning after the birth of her child, figure and husband "problems" may result.

AS YEARS PASS

If you neglected yourself in your thirties you will have more problems than are necessary in your forties. If you neglected yourself in your forties you will have greater handicaps in your fifties, and so on.

However, no matter how long you have been careless, you can always make great improvement, much more than you will believe until you try.

Our muscles deteriorate and lose their elasticity without regular exercise. The change in the figure from a youthful one to a matronly one is due to this factor as well as to the accumulation of fatty deposits.

Today I want to give you a few simple exercises for the mature woman who has not been indulging in a daily exercise routine.

1. Stand tall. Raise your arms overhead. Stretch toward the ceiling, reaching up with your arms as you sway from side to side.
 - Before swaying, take a deep breath and hold it while you move to the left — the right — the left and the right. After this, exhale and drop your arms to your sides. Repeat several times. Remember to stretch upward.
2. Stand with your left side toward a wall or place your left hand on a chair top. Swing your right leg forward and backward as far in each direction as you can comfortably reach.
 - After a while turn your right side toward the wall and swing with your left leg. You can do this just as lazily or as briskly as you wish, depending on your condition.
- Just the habit of holding your abdomen in, or pulling your abdominal muscles toward your back bone and holding while you count to ten, is a wonderful abdominal exercise.
- You can do it whenever you are sitting. Remember this several times a day.

Pair Lives in Pontiac After Rites

Mrs. and Mrs. Loyd Henry Grimes, who exchanged vows before Rev. Arnold Hashman in the First Assembly of God Church are making their home on Pine Street.

The former Virginia Lee Jones is the daughter of Mrs. Opal Teem of Hospital Road and the late Gordon Teer. Ruth Ann Saunders of Flint attended the bride at the Nov. 24 ceremony.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Grimes of Thompson Court, had John C. Burgess for his best man. Donald Hayes and Wayne Garrett were ushers.

A reception in the Lake Angus Road home of the William Cloutiers followed the afternoon vows.

Local Opti-Mrs. Club Has Holiday Program

Mrs. Jack Tiberg of the MSU home extension service presented a program on Christmas decorations to the Pontiac Opti-Mrs. Club at their December meeting Tuesday evening.

The demonstration followed the group's annual cooperative dinner at the home of Mrs. Robert Bradley of Garland Avenue. Assisting as hostesses were Mrs. Ray Brach and Mrs. Russell Woodbury.

Mrs. N.H. Blood of Coppas Cove, Texas, Mrs. James Anderson, Mrs. Alice Dowhan and Mrs. Rose Stratton were guests.

Mrs. DeLisle Wilson, program chairman, announced that the club will meet at Pontiac General Hospital Jan. 8 for a tour of the laboratories and other medical facilities.

President Mrs. Julian Galan asked members to begin collecting their favorite recipes for a cookbook to be published by the club.

Pontiac Panhellenic Has Holiday Dinner

The annual Christmas dinner of Pontiac City Panhellenic was held Monday at the Fox and Hounds Inn. Chairman of the event was Mrs. Wayne Pyke, assisted by Mrs. Robert Crandall and Betsy Carnall.

Following a brief business meeting, the Pontiac Central High School Choralaires presented a program, including many Christmas songs.

Sue Eckley, scholarship chairman, introduced the group's scholarship award winner, Frances Hoopgarner. Miss Hoopgarner is a sophomore at Eastern Michigan University at Ypsilanti, majoring in Elementary Education.

A graduate of Pontiac Central High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hoopgarner of Seward Street.

A Christmas selection entitled "Cynthia and the Unicorn" was read by Mrs. C. S. Packard, accompanied at the piano by Sue Eckley.

A gift exchange followed and the evening was closed with the community singing of Christmas carols. JoAnn Vantassel of East Iroquois Road will be hostess for the Jan. 7 meeting.

Put Papers in Freezer

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I have been told by insurance agents to tell you that for several years we have been putting all important contracts, policies, etc., in a cellophane bag and then keeping the bag in the freezer. In case of fire, they would be safe. My candles are stored there, too.

MRS. R. M. DEAR POLLY—Cover a steam iron with an old sock to take the shine off pants or jackets. Better than a pressing cloth as you see your work as you iron. Slit open the sock about two thirds of the way to the toe. Slip the toe over the tip of the iron and pull tight. Tie in back of iron. Use only cotton socks.

S. N.S. DEAR POLLY—Keep a roll of cellophane type and facial tissue in the baby's room. When someone has a cold, fold several tissues in half and put a piece of tape at each corner. Makes a fine disposable mask. My 5-year-old gets credit for this; she got tired of her tie mask slipping down. M. C. DEAR POLLY—Replace six feet of your clothesline with a piece of chain. Here all drip-dry garments can be hung on hangers with no worry about the hangers sliding along the line or falling off on windy days.

MRS. D. M. Share your favorite homemaking ideas . . . send them to Polly in care of The Pontiac Press. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

Daughter Still Critical

Mother, 21, Dies of Burns

WALLED LAKE — A young mother of two — critically burned in a fire and explosion in her home here Monday — died yesterday afternoon in Pontiac General Hospital.

Mrs. Betty Seckman, 21, had been hospitalized with first-, second- and third-degree burns over most of her body.

Her young daughter, Judy, 14 months old, remains in critical condition in the same hospital with burns over 60 per cent of her body.

The woman's father, Donald Wilkinson, 49, is credited with saving the Seckmans' older daughter, 3-year-old Michele, from the burning home at 1706 Scheffe Road.

The fire in the Seckman home was touched off by an explosion late Monday afternoon.

GAS CAN TIPPED

Wilkinson told local police that minutes before the fire he had set a two-gallon can of gasoline in a hallway of the home.

Little Judy, crawling around on the floor, knocked over the can, spilling the gasoline on the floor and on her diapers.

The father said he then took the can outside. Shortly after he came back inside, the explosion shook the house.

Wilkinson quickly wrapped a blanket around his daughter's older child and, with her in his arms, jumped to safety through a bedroom window.

Meanwhile Mrs. Seckman had grabbed Judy and fought her way through smoke and flames and smoke in the rear of the home.

Her father and a neighbor carried her to the front lawn. Another neighbor carried the severely burned infant across the street to Mrs. Ralph Weaver.

Mrs. Weaver revived the child with artificial respiration. Then both the mother and baby were rushed to the hospital by ambulance.

Mrs. Seckman's husband, Ronald, 24, manager of a service station, took his older daughter to the hospital after being notified.

Michele and her grandfather suffered minor burns. Wilkinson also was cut when he jumped through the window.

Police believe that fumes from the gas can caused the explosion when they were ignited by the pilot light of a gas fired hot-water heater in the rear of the home.

Damage was estimated at about $4,500 by Walled Lake firemen, who were assisted by the Commerce Township department in quickly bringing the blaze under control.

12 From Oakland County Enter Livestock Exhibits

Twelve Oakland County 4-H Club members are participating in this year's Detroit Junior Livestock Show, now under way at the Michigan State Fairgrounds, Detroit.

Lambs, hogs, steers and carcass entries began arriving Monday. Judging of livestock was to start this morning.

Bud Williamson, 1121 Bielby St., Waterford Township, and Bonnie Rose, 670 N. Adams Rd., Avon Township, were to have pens of three sheep each ready for judging then.

Carol and Robert McFadden, 6343 West 1 Mile Road, and James Smith, 28312 Dixboro Road, both of South Lyon, had individual Angus steers to lead into the judging circle.

Competing for the blue ribbon given to the best Hereford steer were to be David Goodell, 5665 Cedar Island Road, 5665 Cedar Island Road, both of Milford, and Pamela Oslin, 41390 13 Mile Road, Walled Lake, assisted by Pamela Blomberg, 2808 Meadowbrook Road, Novi Township.

Floyd and Jim Uphugrove, 2151 Orion Road, Orion Township, each entered a pen of three hogs and Ardis Storm, 1434 S. Lapeer Road, Orion Township, was competing with her short-horn steer.

Larry Lustig, 3700 Joslyn Road, Pontiac Township, had primed his pig for the big annual event but unfortunately wasn't able to enter it as the animal caught pneumonia.

The young exhibitors were vying for $2,500 in cash, scholarships, trophies and prizes. Tonight they will attend a banquet in the Veterans Memorial Building, Detroit.

Clash Over Avondale Recall

By ROGER SRIGLEY

The two citizen's groups' embroiled in a dispute over the move to recall four officers of the Avondale School Board clashed in a verbal battle but resolved few issues at a public meeting last night.

The "defenders," opposing the recall, staged the meeting to "tell the truth" about the Avondale School District.

Representatives of the Avondale School District Improvement Association, who are attempting to recall the four, were also present.

Most of the four-hour meeting was taken up with rehearsing the questions about former School Supt. LeRoy R. Watt's resignation, a charge of illegally obtaining federal funds and the conduct of the ASDIA and the board.

The ASDIA is attempting to recall board members Floyd L. Cobb Jr., president; David W. Hackett, vice president; Raymond N. Baker, secretary; and Mrs. Genevieve Porter, treasurer.

2 AT MEETING

Cobb and Hackett were present at the meeting and were introduced to the audience.

Following the presentation of prepared statements on the school district's history, accreditation, curriculum, building program and the recall movement, the audience participated in a question and answer period.

Cobb was asked to clarify his statement that a "deal" was made between Watt and a citizen's committee working on the bond issue passed by district residents in June.

"The deal was that a school would be built in a specific area," he said.

ASDIA President Thomas B.

Rocker said that many people on the citizen's committee had differing opinions on the proper location of a new school.

BOARD HAS FINAL SAY

Another ASDIA member pointed out that the board of education has the final say in the location of new schools so there would be no reason for a deal of that nature.

The question of Hackett's charge that the school district illegally obtained $80 under Watt's jurisdiction and that of former board president R. Grant Graham was again brought up.

Hackett earlier charged that a request to the state for reimbursement of counselors' salaries had been falsified.

Rocker said that Watt had discussed the reimbursement in Lansing before requesting it.

He stated it was obtained to pay Mrs. Raymond Baker for periods she did not actually come because she was ill.

He said this was necessary to order for her to retain her teaching certificate.

Hackett said that Graham had earlier suggested that everyone on the board resign. According to Hackett this was suggested so "people wouldn't find out about his (Graham's) dealings."

Much of the meeting was taken up with residents airing their personal gripes, ranging from personality clashes with the former superintendent to ethical objections to the board's and the ASDIA's actions.

Free Prisoners Early for Yule

Over 250 in State Due for Release Get 'Gift'

LANSING — More than 250 Michigan prisoners scheduled for release during the next month will be home early for Christmas.

"We think it's a terrific morale factor," explained William J. Eardley, assistant director of the State Corrections Department in charge of pardons and paroles. "It means a lot to the men released and those still in prison."

Department policy is to release any prisoners cleared for parole or who have completed their full sentences in time for the Christmas holidays. They must be eligible for release between Dec. 12 and Jan. 14.

"We work hard trying to complete all the details," said Eardley. "A parole, for instance, must have a home and a job. Some might be too old to work but we still must be assured of their care."

The same theory applies to a man who has served his complete prison term.

"We make sure they don't go out broke too," said Eardley. "Most prisoners save a little money in prison working at some job. We have a fund that can loan them up to $40. The rate of payment is very high in these cases."

The largest batch of prisoners will be freed from the parole camp opposite the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson next week. Others will break out legally from branch prisons or camps with releases scheduled through the end of the month as arrangements are completed.

The governor, traditionally, gives a sympathetic ear to granting commutations of life sentences in the Christmas season. Gov. Swainson already has announced several lists of commutations under the so-called life law.

Santa to Ride Stage Coach in Rochester Yule Parade

ROCHESTER — Santa will give his reindeer a break Saturday, when he arrives here riding "shotgun" on a stagecoach in the 2 p.m. Christmas parade.

Commission Gets Development Posts

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — The entire nine-member White Lake Township Planning Commission has been appointed to represent the township on the advisory board of the Southeastern Michigan Development Corp.

Purpose of the development corporation is to bring more business and industry to the five-county area of Oakland, Macomb, Wayne, Washtenaw and Monroe counties.

Since the purpose of the planning commission is much the same locally, Township Supervisor Edward Chevz said the Township Board had agreed to appoint all commissioners to the Southeastern Michigan organization.

Beginning at the North H. I. Plaza, the parade will travel down Main Street to Second Street.

Local organizations and businesses will sponsor nine decorative floats in the parade, also scheduled to feature the spirited music of four bands.

Rochester High School's Homecoming Queen, Mary Jo Zumwalt, will ride a special float while she reigns as queen of the parade.

A Detroit television personality, "Jingles," will also be featured on a float designed to please the children, young and old, who gather to watch the annual affair.

Four marching units will keep pace with the bands and viewers will see area fire-trucks and polished for the event.

The color guard of the Homer Wing Post, American Legion, is scheduled to step out and lead the parade.

Since its beginning 12 years ago the parade has drawn out thousands to view it annually.

General chairman of this year's parade is Harry Preston. It is sponsored by the Rochester Area Chamber of Commerce.

Union Leaders Set Gathering

To Talk of Labor's Rule in Changing World

ANN ARBOR — More than 100 union leaders — including teams from Indonesia and Bolivia — will meet at the University of Michigan tomorrow for a two-day conference on the role of unions in a changing world.

Among the topics up for discussion will be emerging nations, the challenge of communism and the answer of democracy, and the roles of the United Nations and the American labor movement in the changing world.

The conference is sponsored by the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations of the U. of M. and Wayne State University, the school of labor and industrial relations of Michigan State University.

Cooperating in sponsorship are the Michigan State AFL-CIO, the United Auto Workers, United Steel Workers, United Mine Workers, and the Wayne County AFL-CIO.

Speakers include Victor Reuther, administrative assistant and brother of Walter Reuther, UAW president; Jaime Benitez, chancellor of the University of Puerto Rico; C. S. Krishna Moorthi, minister for economics of the Indian embassy; Aminu Kano, a member of the Nigerian parliament and the Nigerian U.N. delegation; and Norman Thomas, chairman of the Postwar World Council.

1,444 Dead in Traffic

EAST LANSING — Traffic accidents have killed 1,444 persons in Michigan so far this year, provisional figures compiled by state police showed today. The toll day Sunday, until Christmas.

Compensation to Minors Defies 30-Year Precedent

LANSING — A 30-year legal precedent, was shattered yesterday by a Michigan Supreme Court ruling that two minors who lied about their ages to gain employment were eligible for double compensation payments for injuries suffered on the job.

In a decision that split the court 5-3 along party lines, three previous cases were overruled and a state law passed in 1927 was opened to new interpretation.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Theodore Souris and signed by three other Democratic-nominated justices, held that the court had erred in earlier interpretations of the law — first in 1932 and twice in 1945.

Justice Eugene Black disagreed with Souris on several points but concurred to avoid a 4-4 split that would have automatically affirmed the State Workmen's Compensation Appeal Board in denying double payment in one case and awarding it in the other.

Chief Justice Leland H. Carr authored the dissent, joined by the other two Republican-nominated justices.

At issue was the meaning of the 1927 state law which provides that minors receive double compensation for on-the-job injuries unless, in applying, they falsify their age with bogus birth certificates or working permits.

In the earlier cases, the law was interpreted to deny such awards to all minors who lied about their ages to get jobs.

Fire in Office Stalls Traffic

ROCHESTER — Fire broke out shortly before 8 p.m. yesterday in the second-floor office of Dr. Arthur B. Mulso, 333 Main St. and attracted a crowd of on-lookers causing a temporary tie-up of traffic here.

The fire started from faulty radio wiring and spread to the office floor, breaking through the ceiling of Case's Hardware on the floor below.

Fire Chief Lyle Buchanan said damage to the office equipment and the hardware merchandise was minor because most was contained in the space between the two floors.

Valerie Bell Weds

Payne Rites in East

ROCHESTER — Married Saturday at Ft. Devens, Mass., in Army Chapel No. 4 were Valerie Joy Bell and Pfc. A. Leon Payne.

Chaplain P. Davis officiated at the afternoon rites.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bell, 327 Fernside St., and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Payne, 2089 Greenwood St., Avon Township.

The bride's veil, held by a head-piece of sequins and pearls, complemented her ballerina-length gown of white satin which was designed by her mother.

She wore a jacket of Chantilly lace and a pearl pendant which was a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The couple was attended by Dawn Eckler and Pfc. Lacy Newcomb.

A reception was held in the Bull Run Inn in Ayer, Mass., immediately following the ceremony.

The bride is spending two weeks in Ayer, after which she will live in Pontiac while her husband is assigned to duty overseas.

PREPARE FOR PARADE — Holding the heads of "animals" which will bedeck Michigan's float in Rochester's 12th annual Christmas parade Saturday, are two of the students working on the float.

Seniors Sue Ludwig and Dwight Reynolds are members of Rochester High School's Art Club, which is building the float as a group project. The parade is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. and proceed south on Main Street.

Romney Just One Branch on Prodigious Family Tree

SALT LAKE CITY (U)—George Romney brings another prodigious family tree into the field of big time politics with some influential brothers and successful cousins by the dozens.

The new Republican Governor of Michigan, whose roots are in Utah, has all kinds of relatives in everything—local government, medical research, heavy construction, education, physical fitness, and tackle football.

Name it and somewhere you find a Romney, usually in Utah. And there are even some Romney Democrats. In fact the most successful political Romney—up to now—is one.

Great-grandfather Miles Romney and his family came to the U.S. from England in 1841 as converts to the Mormon Church (Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints).

Gov.-elect Romney, former President of American Motors, can trace the family name back to another transportation stylist—John Romney, credited with adding spokes to the wheel in the 18th century.

Also on the Romney tree is English artist George Romney, a contemporary of Gainsborough and Reynolds.

And in the field of political administration, William Romney was installed as lord mayor of London four centuries ago.

FAMILY CHARACTER

Characteristics of the Romneys are described in a book, "Life Story of Miles Park Romney," by the late Dr. Thomas C. Romney, author and educator. The book says:

"Intensely frank and aggressive, almost to the point of combativeness, they have been thought by some to be opinionated and dictatorial, but fundamentally they are Democratic and possess a fair measure of humility."

The big "D" Democrat of the Romney family is cousin L. (Loezno) C. (Clark) Romney, a Salt Lake City commissioner since Jan. 1, 1944.

He is only 44-years-old and was elected at the age of 29. L. C. was elected to the Utah Legislature at the age of 27.

His only defeat was in 1956 when he was the first Romney to try for a governorship and lost in a three-way race.

BROTHERS AND SISTER

George Romney has three brothers and one sister. His stepmother, Mrs. Gaskell Romney, 72, Salt Lake City, said "everyone of them is just as fine in character and in their profession as George is in his."

The oldest brother, G. Maurice Romney, 64, runs the contracting firm here once headed by their father.

Another brother, Miles, 58, is a mining engineer and executive secretary of the Utah Mining Association.

The youngest is Charles, a Salt Lake City attorney and businessman, who is also a Democrat.

Mrs. Meryl Romney Ward, a civic leader in little Bloomington, Idaho, is George's only sister. The local pride of the Republican Romneys is Vernon B. Romney Sr., 65, who served five terms as GOP state chairman in Utah.

And he prides himself that he has cast the number-one ballot in his voting district in each election for the past 31 years.

The Romneys also have an athletic branch. Five Romney brothers—George's cousins—formed a basketball team after World War I and toured Utah.

The brothers all were stars at the University of Utah in basketball and football.

They included G. Ott Romney, now consultant, Area Readjustment Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., and former coach and athletic director at Montana State University, Brigham Young University and the University of West Virginia; E. L. (Dick) Romney, former coach and athletic director at Utah State University and Skyline Conference commissioner for 12 years; Wilford (Woody) Romney, a bank vice president in Salt Lake City; Milton (Milt) Romney, whose nickname is "Milt"; and George Romney for his son, former coach at Texas University, now in business in Philadelphia; and Floyd Romney, now supervisor of history in the Salt Lake City school district.

AND COUSINS

There are other cousins like: Golden Romney, dean of the School of Physical Education and former athletic director at Washington State University; Orrin Romney of Salt Lake City, hotel and motel executive.

William Romney, with the Century Press; Darold Romney, manufacturer of gaskets in Spokane, Wash.; Dr. Murline Romney, can-cil of Twelve Apostles of the LDS church; Gordon Romney of El Paso, Tex., operator of Romney Implement Co., and owner of large apple orchards in Mexico; Miles Romney, professor of education at the University of Oregon; Ernest Romney, trucking business in Phoenix; Anton K. Romney, dean of education at Brigham Young University.

There are also the Romneys' in Mexico where the family went in 1885 to avoid prosecution for being polygamist. George was born there.

"I've never heard of any Romney's going to jail," said Miles Romney, the mining official.

"And I've never heard of any of them starving to death. And certainly a very high percentage went to college."

And now one's a governor.

Chinese Head for Cuba

TOKYO (AP) — A Communist Chinese cultural delegation left Peking today for a visit to Cuba, Peking radio reported. It said the delegation is making the visit at the invitation of the Cuban National Cultural Committee.

Ex-Aide of Kennedy Senator, Apparently

PIERRE, S.D. (UPI) — George McGovern, former food-for-peace director in the Kennedy administration, apparently will go back to Washington — as a U.S. senator from South Dakota.

After a month-long hassle over the vote totals in the Nov. 6 elections, McGovern yesterday had a margin of 516 votes when a recount was completed in all of the state's 37 counties.

Republican incumbent Joseph Bottom, on the basis of United Press International tabulations, polled 127,631 votes to 127,547 for McGovern.

State Levy Law Ruled Illegal

'59 Amendment to Use Tax Law Split Classes

LANSING (AP) — A 1959 amendment to the state use tax law was declared unconstitutional here yesterday because it arbitrarily split tax exemption classifications for government contractors.

Lansing Circuit Court Judge Marvin J. Salmon issued the opinion in a suit against the State Revenue Department brought by the L. A. Davidson Co. of Lansing, a road contractor doing business with the state.

The Davidson firm challenged the legality of the amendment and also sought a ruling saying it should not have to pay $214,000 in use taxes from 1955 to 1959.

Judge Salmon held the 1959 amendment unconstitutional because he said it removed from a previous tax exemption all contractors doing business with the state but did not remove contractors doing business with other political units, such as county government.

"It is impossible for the court to reasonably conceive of a tax in this case to sustain this classification so that road contractors doing business with the state should pay the tax and road contractors doing business, for example, with a county should not pay the tax," the judge said.

Judge Salmon ruled, however, that the Davidson firm is liable for the 1955 to 1959 tax levy on materials and equipment used in road construction which were not entirely consumed in the fulfillment of a single contract.

He said this in general would involve the use tax as it applies to such items as tractors, trucks and bulldozers used in construction of a highway but not actually becoming a part of the real estate.

Employees to Get $100-Million Payoff

DETROIT (AP) — Salaried office workers at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler are slated to take part next month in a savings payoff which may reach as high as $100 million in benefits.

The three auto manufacturing firms have similar programs which offer some 75,000 salaried office workers an additional 50 cents for each $1 they invest in savings bonds and corporation stock.

The distribution would be the second made under the plan, which was instituted in 1955. Some $76.5 million was paid last year based on five years' savings by the employees.

Hourly workers are not included in the plans because they were rejected in 1955 when the United Auto Workers was bargaining for the guaranteed annual wage principle.

Haven't We Met Before? The Dents Look Familiar

HONOLULU (UPI) — Mervyn C. Thompson, Robert Smelker and traffic investigator William Kamikaua held a reunion yesterday at an intersection here.

Kamikaua wrote a citation for Thompson, whose car struck one driven by Smelker — just as the officer had done a year ago when he was called to an intersection where Thompson's car collided with Smelker's.

Cuban Exiles Switch Their Brand of Cigar

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of Cuban exiles in the Miami, Fla., area now are smoking Philippine cigars, the Philippine tobacco board reported yesterday.

It also said Manila cigars are selling well in Cuba at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

Judge Burns Like Yule Log

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UPI) — The municipal judge had just sentenced the drunk to 30 days in jail when he piped up with a seasonal proposition:

"Say, Judge, I want to be home for Christmas. I'll buy you whatever you smoke."

The judge gave him an extra 10 days and a $50 fine for attempted bribery of the court.

Victim's Mother Gets $65,000

A Circuit Court jury yesterday awarded a $65,000 judgment to the mother of a 24-year-old man who has been in a coma since an automobile accident 2½ years ago.

However, Mrs. Clark Inman, 1232 Cloverlawn St., whose son, Gerry V. Inman, lies unconscious at the Oakland County Medical Care Facility, may not be able to collect even half the money.

The defendant, Herman B. Bem, 39, of 3363 Elder Road, West Bloomfield Township, reportedly had only $25,000 in insurance coverage and is currently unemployed.

After the trial before Circuit Judge Stephen G. Dondero, the jury also returned a verdict of gross negligence against Bem, a former salesman and the father of six children.

Bem was driver of one of the two cars in the head-on collision in Union Lake that also killed a Pontiac coupe in May, 1959. He was accused in the suit of driving on the wrong side of the road.

Mrs. Inman's suit sought $500,000 damages, the same amount she is seeking in another suit against a bar owner who allegedly served drinks to Bem on the day of the fatal mishap.

Now, There's Low Blow

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) — The Scottish Tour Board said yesterday it received a letter from the United States addressed to the "Scottish Tourist Board, England." The letter asked about vacationing in Wales.

a 25-foot wide hole in its bow, and the liner had a similar gash of 18 feet in its bow. Fog was blamed for the collision outside the harbor. Both ships made port without assistance and there were no casualties.

Take a Little Time to Check New Items

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Before we get involved in all the holiday preparations I want to call your attention to some of the new foods on your grocer's shelves and one new cookbook that might make a good Christmas gift.

Homemade french dressing is more or less clear. But some french dressing you buy is creamy. Now you can duplicate that kind at home with the new creamy style salad dressing mix. The tenth in a line of similar mixes, it has a bit of onion and garlic in it.

Another kind of mix comes from the people who make corn flakes. They have introduced a green onion and a chili con queso mix. You make them up with sour cream, cream cheese or cottage cheese.

New in the TV dinner section of the frozen food counter is a fish 'n' french fries plate. This combination has breaded deep fried haddock fillets, french fried potatoes and green peas.

Not only does one of the country's leading flour mills put out flour, cake mixes and cookbooks, but at present they are offering sets of aluminum bakeware in standard sizes. You may get the basic set or a "round out" set and have the right size pans for all baking occasions.

PANCAKES

Now for that cookbook that was published about a month ago. Ruth Ellen Church, food editor of the Chicago Tribune, has written a book devoted entirely to pancakes. Its title is "Pancakes Aplenty" (Rand McNally & Co., $3.95).

Reporter Can't Quote Official Who 'Leaks' Remarks

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last of a series of three analyses on government information policies.)

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — News from President Kennedy's administration isn't always handled in a goldfish bowl.

Kennedy himself is probably more accessible to reporters who want to see him than any president. The resulting stories, as this writer sees them, are not always happy, however, because of the rules covering such meetings. By not revealing what they were obtained in an interview and by not even indicating the President did the talking, they sometimes serve as simple publicity pipelines for Kennedy's views without his having to be responsible for them. The practice is not new. Other presidents have done the same in one way or another. Off-the-record dinners or lunches with government officials are a kind of Washington folk custom. Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, more and more has developed the habit of talking to reporters for background only, meaning what he says can't be attributed to him directly. SOME ARE HELPFUL

At the same time, other sources in the White House, within the bounds of any highly sensitive situation, have been accessible to reporters and occasionally very helpful. Tuesday night in Pittsburgh, Salinger said, "Information has never been more accessible in Washington than it is today." He took newspapers to task for what he called their failure to deal objectively with responsibility within their own ranks.

But there is also within the Kennedy administration the kind of story that is fed or leaked to reporters and damages key people around Kennedy. Two examples: The case of Chester Bowles and Adlai E. Stevenson.

Back in 1961 Charles L. Bartlett, close personal friend of Kennedy and Washington correspondent of The Chattanooga Times wrote that Bowles, then undersecretary of state, but not for long, had created a sense of disorder in the State Department and would continue to do so while he kept his job.

OCTOBER DAYS
Bowles wasn't dropped immediately. But from then until he was removed, and given a job as special adviser to Kennedy, rumors persisted he was on his way out. Now in this week's Saturday Evening Post, Bartlett, but this time along with Stewart Alsop, who is said to have fine contacts within the administration, reported on the "barred, secret" October days when Kennedy and his advisers decided on a showdown with Russia over its missiles in Cuba.

Secret though all this was supposed to be, Bartlett and Alsop report on who said what to Kennedy. But when they get to the part played by Stevenson, U.S. or Stevenson.

ambassador to the United Nations, they quote a "nonadmitted" official as saying Stevenson "wanted a Munich" by making concessions to Russia.

A new storm broke: Was the administration getting ready to bounce Stevenson, as it bounced Bowles? Unless Kennedy now publicly backs Stevenson his value at the United Nations seems badly damaged.

Nothing here is intended to suggest Kennedy himself did the leaking or leaking about Bowles' removal. But somebody was no crisis, that "access to news sources" under the Kennedy administration is "managed" because Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara attempts to "determine who and under what circumstances newsmen interview or contact officials."

McNamara tightened up almost from the time he took office in 1961. So it was only a reminder of a standing order when, during the Cuban crisis, Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, instructed all Pentagon officials to report to him the substance of all interviews with newsmen. That order still stands.

The State Department issued similar instructions to its officials during the Cuban affair, but later withdrew them. This writer has been pretty reliably informed that an order similar to Sylvester's was given to all division chiefs in the Department of Justice, not in writing but verbally.

That department is headed by Kennedy's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. The public affairs chief there is Edwin Guthman. When this writer sought to reach them Tuesday, for confirmation or denial, the answer was that both were out of town.

Russians Get Wrong Idea of Yankees — Broomfield

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Moscow's man-on-the-street believes the average U.S. citizen is greedy and self-seeking, and there is little hope for improving that picture soon, Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-Mich., said yesterday.

"U.S. citizens wouldn't recognize their image in Russian eyes," he said in an interview on his return from a three-week European tour under auspices of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, of which he serves.

Broomfield was one of four congressmen on the trip to Bonn, West Berlin, Copenhagen, Stockholm, Moscow, Warsaw, Krakow, Vienna, Czechoslovakia, Madrid, Malaga, Gibraltar, Lisbon and the Azores.

It was his first trip behind the Iron Curtain and he was not prepared for the general tension and general unfriendliness he said he found in Moscow.

Broomfield cited a recent Russian cartoon which depicted a U.S. citizen lying injured on a city street and waving a $100 bill in hopes of attracting an ambulance.

He also told of a committee staff member who waited in line at a newsstand to buy a paper. A Russian called out to the vendor, "Don't wait on that American until you've waited on the Russians," Broomfield said.

Crowds around newsstands demonstrated the Moscovites' hunger for information, he said. But they find little reading material from the United States, he said.

"There's no question that we must give a better picture of what this country is and what it stands for," he said. "But I don't know how we can do this as long as the Soviet Union restricts circulation of U.S. publications."

Broomfield said he was impressed by "the terrific service rendered under very difficult circumstances" by U.S. Embassy personnel.

He was convinced the three-week tour had armed him with invaluable background for his committee work.

Building Permits Up but Valuation Drops

Despite a slight increase in building permits issued in Waterford Township last month—compared to November, 1961—permit valuation dipped considerably.

During the past month 58 permits were issued by the building department with a total value of $210,363 while 56 permits valued at $335,831 were issued during the same month a year ago.

Last November, 15 residential permits valued at $240,520 were issued, compared to only four in the month just ended. Total were valued was $78,360.

Permit Valuation for the first 11 months of this year stands at $6,210,676 compared to $9,525,530 for the comparable 1961 period.

Badge Doesn't Protect From Woman Driver

KENDAL, England (UPI) — Policewoman Joan Booth, 25, was fined $14 yesterday and banned from driving for a month after her police car hit another car, a truck and another police cruiser while she was chasing a speeder.

Start Selling New Air Mail 8-Cent Stamp

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new eight-cent air mail postage stamp will go on sale today more than a month before the effective date of new postal rate increases.

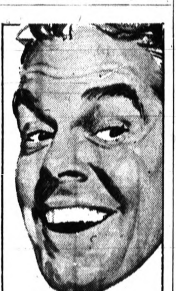

The one-cent boost in the present seven-cent air mail and four-cent first class mail rates will go into effect Jan. 7.

But Postmaster Gen. J. Edward Day and a group of airline executives will participate in ceremonies dedicating the new air mail stamp Wednesday in a downtown Washington hotel.

The ceremonies will be held in connection with a conference of air transportation industry leaders.

The stamp will go on limited sale at a special postal station in the hotel immediately after the dedication, with general sale beginning Thursday at post offices throughout the nation.

The stamp, designed by Henry K. Benschaf of New York City, shows a jet plane flying past the dome of the National Capitol.

Ask Caution in Cosmetic False Ads

CHICAGO (UPI) — A skin doctor called for caution and conservative publicity "on the effects of hormones in cosmetics."

Dr. John S. Strauss of Boston University's School of Medicine said such hormones "have yet to show any great effectiveness and may be dangerous."

Strauss told the American Academy of Dermatology, at its annual meeting, that hormones found in cosmetic chemistry are the sex steroids (estrogens). One of their chief uses has been in the attempt to remove wrinkles.

"Despite unsupported advertising claims and the use of such words as 'life-giving' and 'rejuvenation,' there is usually no scientific data to support such claims," he said.

Strauss conceded that in some instances the use of "life-giving" induced changes "that might tend to reduce wrinkling by increasing the skin's elasticity, causing it to thicken slightly."

But he said the measurements are only "a few microns" and mean little to the average woman "who does not walk around with a micrometer to measure wrinkles."

Strauss cited studies indicating that even the minute wrinkle changes that do occur are seen only in older women.

"Estrogens seem to have no effect" on women of premenopausal age or on men of any age, he said.

The dermatologist said estrogens can enter the body by absorption through the skin. He said it is unlikely that small amounts of estrogen produce any harmful side effects to the body.

But he cautioned against the excessive use of cosmetics containing hormones.

Say Promotion of Michigan Is 'Pathetic'

GLADWIN — The chairman of the house Tourist Industry Committee says that Michigan is "way behind" Florida in promoting its tourist industry and announced some plans to remedy the situation.

Rep. Walter Nakula, a Gladwin Republican, returned from a 10-day trip through Florida with six members of his nine-member committee, saying, "We're so far behind Florida it's pathetic."

Nakula said he intends to encourage the State Highway Department, Liquor Control Commission and other agencies to work more closely with the state and regional tourist councils to promote the tourist industry.

"We've got to generate more interest in tourism on the local as well as the state levels," he said.

Waterford Fire Fighters Respond to 47 Alarms

Waterford Township fire department answered 47 alarms during November bringing the total for the year to date to 696. In the same month a year ago 40 calls were handled.

A total of 604 alarms were received during the first 11 months of 1961.

PARDONED — Howard Cook, 54, and his wife listen as his attorney pleads yesterday to the West Virginia State Board of Probation and Parole for an unconditional pardon for Cook. He fled from a West Virginia prison road gang 10 years ago while serving 30 years for a 1931 bank robbery. The pardon was granted several hours after the hearing. Cook will return to his former home in Washington.

Junior Editors Quiz on CLOWNS

QUESTION: What is the story of clowns?

ANSWER: — The ancestors of clowns were actors in Greek and Roman days who wore padded clothes, were baldheaded and acted stupidly to amuse the audience.

Kings of many countries made a habit of having gay entertainers, such as the jester whom we show, with his cap and bells. These "fools" were often very smart and held their position in the king's household by sharp wits as well as by silly jokes.

The famous character of pantomime, "Harlequin," with his traditional costume covered with large diamond-shaped blocks of color, began to be seen in Italy in the 1500's and paved the way for the appearance of the true clown.

Joseph Grimaldi, the original of the circus clown, was the one who started the tradition of painting the face white. His nickname Joey became so famous that circus clowns are often called Jokeys. Clowns provide relief between the daring acts of the circus.

They are always trying to do impossible things; the regular performer succeeds in what he attempts; the clown fails, which is one of the main reasons why he is funny.

FOR YOU TO DO: Each clown has his special "face," or way of making up to make himself look funny. Make a drawing to give your own idea of what would be a funny face.

Announce Sale of Ethyl Corp.

General Motors Corp. and Standard Oil Co., New Jersey, stockholders in the Ethyl Corp., have announced they have completed sale of the firm to the Albemarle Paper Manufacturing Co.

The sale brings to a conclusion the negotiations which followed receipt of a recent offer from Albemarle to buy Ethyl Corp.'s capital stock.

The total purchase price paid to GM and Standard Oil for the 313,648 shares of outstanding capital stock of Ethyl Corp. amounted to approximately $116.4 million.

This included 54 per cent subordinated notes due in November 1967, in an amount of $20 million. Ethyl Corp. is the world's largest producer of antiknock compounds for gasoline.

Studebaker Introduces

Less-Expensive Model

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Studebaker yesterday introduced a less-expensive Standard series of its Lark passenger car.

The company said the models, which range in price from $1,756 for a two-door six to $1,971 for a four-door eight, are designed for fleet purchasers. Lark prices presently start at $1,867.

All prices are factory retail and do not include federal, state or local taxes, transportation or dealer handling charges.

Highly organized human societies did not appear on earth until 10,000 years ago, but the ants were organized and active societies 50,000 years ago.

Resumes War Against State Officials

LANSING (AP) — A former state parole board member yesterday resumed his hit-and-run war with state officials over charges that the board was "pressured" to expedite freedom for two men serving life for murder.

John A. MacLellan hit them with a press release and then, following the same tactics he used after first making the charges last Friday, he ran.

MacLellan let off his 500-word press release by saying he did not intend to elaborate on his request to the parole board to withhold action in the two cases, "nor to answer any questions." Newsmen seeking to find out exactly what MacLellan was talking about were told by his hotel that he had gone to Jackson for the day, and couldn't be reached.

MacLellan has dodged all attempts by newsmen for amplification of his charges that the parole board was subjected to "insidious influences" in its consideration of commutation of sentence for ex-Purple gangster Philip Keywell, 55, and Jack Budd, 57, State Corrections Director Gus

Harrison announced, meanwhile, that the corrections commission will meet tomorrow to discuss the two cases and MacLellan's allegations, which imply special consideration was given to the Keywell and Budd cases.

Parole board hearings were held last week to determine whether their sentences for first-degree murder will be commuted by Gov. Swainson, making them eligible for immediate parole.

MacLellan, who was fired from the board last year for a conflict of interest with his alleged lobbying activities for Michigan Hospital Association, asked the board to delay recommendations in both cases until after Gov. Swainson leaves office Jan. 1.

Failure to do this, he said, might well lead to an investigation by the legislature or a grand jury.

In yesterday's statement, MacLellan said he has not questioned the parole board's "integrity, honesty or intelligence," but believes he has lost its independent character in making decisions.

He accused Harrison and the "controlling faction" of the corrections commission with invoking policies affecting the board's ability to administer its program, exposing board members to accusations that they are "ingrates" or "insubordinate."

N-Scientist and Defector to Russ Named for Prize

MOSCOW (AP) — Bruno Pontecorvo, the Italian-born nuclear scientist who defected to the Soviet Union in 1950 from a job in Britain, has been recommended for a Lenin prize, the Soviet news agency Tass announced today.

Tass did not say why he was being recommended.

Judges Join to Stop Colleague's Return

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Judge Virgil A. Poelker said Tuesday he was going back to work but nine fellow judges of the St. Louis County Circuit Court ordered him to stay away.

Poelker, convicted of filing a false income tax return, sent a letter to the circuit judges announcing his intention of returning to the bench and asking for case assignments.

The other judges met in an emergency session. They issued two restraining orders instructing Poelker not to perform any duties of a circuit judge as long as a conviction of a criminal charge or a criminal indictment is pending against him and not to try to use any courtroom or office.

19-Month-Marital Law

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The South Korean military junta today lifted martial law, in effect since the May 1961 coup that brought the military rulers to power.

The action came 12 days before a new constitution proposed by the junta will be put to a referendum.

Priscilla's Beauty Speaks for Self, Wins Queen Title

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Miss Priscilla Alden of Route 1, Berrien Springs, was chosen last night as the new Michigan State Apple Queen for 1963.

Miss Alden, who represented Berrien County, was one of six finalists in the contest. All were queens from their own areas.

Runnersup were Gayle Robinson of Kent City, representing Kent-Ottawa County, and Marjorie-Boyce of Kalamazoo, representing Kalamazoo County.

Veteran Political Jungle Fighter Apparently Out to Get Stevenson

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The word in the political jungle today is that someone better armed than most is gunning for Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson.

The word persists despite a shower of denials. These were denials of a story in the current Saturday Evening Post accusing Stevenson of proposing during the recent Cuban crisis that the United States trade Turkish, Greek and British military bases for the bases established by the Soviet Union in Cuba.

An official, unidentified, is quoted in the story as having said "Adlai wanted a Munich," and then to have outlined the missile trade proposal.

Thus accused of being an appeaser in the deadly tradition of the British Neville Chamberlain, Stevenson instantly replied that the story was inaccurate and untrue. Some hours later the White House issued a statement on the story.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Stevenson strongly had supported President Kennedy's hard missile base policy.

In any event, these denials were predictable. Stevenson scarcely could have remained long as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations if the President had failed forcefully to deny that his ambassador had wanted to appease the Communists.

To permit such an indictment to stand against Stevenson unchallenged would have invited a powerful campaign to drive him out of public life.

There would be no place in any U.S. administration for a man successfully tagged as an appeaser, a Munichman.

Too many remember the pre-war meeting between Hitler and Chamberlain that was to have brought peace in our time.

The Saturday Evening Post story was written by Stewart Alsop, Washington Editor of the magazine, and Charles L. Bartlett, Washington correspondent for the Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times, a pair of skilled and experienced newsmen.

CLOSE TO PRESIDENT

More than that, Alsop and Bartlett enjoy unusual connections, news sources and such. Bartlett long has been an intimate of the President's family, a close friend.

Their connections, their standing in the community and their long experience in the ways of the political jungle combine to give a story under their joint by-line a very substantial claim to credence.

If their story was a phoney, as claimed by Stevenson, then Alsop and Bartlett have been taken in by a shrewd hoaxer.

If so, then the hoaxer must have considerable standing in the community, himself, and be in some way identified with the Kennedy administration.

Else the experienced newsmen would not have been hoaxed because they easily could check the facts as presented to them.

Stories such as the Alsop-Bartlett piece do not just happen. The source of their information and the magazine writers themselves certainly were aware of the fact that the story would jeopardize Stevenson's position at the United Nations.

Aware, also, that it would have to be denied from the top down if Stevenson were to survive.

Correct or not, the information had to come to the writers from what they would regard as a solid, reputable, well-informed source. Such a source would have to have administration connections. The jungle folk will expect further developments in the Stevenson story. It must be killed, dead, or else.

They Line Hollywood's Bauble Belt

Yule Gifts for Star Who Has Everything

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — You'd better watch out. Santa Claus is coming to town.
Matter of fact, his helpers already have arrived at the emporiums of Beverly Hills, where the movie stars do their Christmas shopping.
Oh, it is a grand display of baubles, bangles and beads to entice the modern-day Magi. Here you can find the answer to the perplexing problem of what to give Frank, Dean, Peter and Sammy.
I took a walk along the glittering byways of Wilshire Boulevard and Rodeo Drive, the heart of bauble belt. Even such a prosaic location as a drugstore (the Beverly Wilshire features its perennial luxury gift: the wild-boar bristle hair brush at $500.

Kerr's sporting goods offers everything for the sport. Does he shoot? How about the Merkle over-and-under shotgun with gold engraving at $4,500? Gift wrapped, of course.
THOMAS, GAMES
Does he chess? Then how about a hand-carved and painted Italian chess set at $350 sans board? Does he game? There's a $395 $12.50.

game chest with everything from craps to checkers.
Does he press duck? The duck press goes for $77.50.
On to Saks, where you can pick up a sable coat for $10,000. You might have just enough left over to buy the ultimate in caps for man: in vicuna at $20. Or, for the diffident, in cashmere at $12.50.

Now for the kiddies. The gift buyers for the Hollywood small fry is Uncle Bernie's Toy Menagerie. And what goodies Uncle Bernie has to offer this year! Like a scale-model Model T Ford that really runs! It can be had for $400. F-e-e-l boumy? There's a trampoline for $340.
The 3-h.p. cycle and sled with the fringe on top is selling like hotcakes at $25. There is a monorail set in the city of tomorrow at $95. Or a model train set in today's world at $700.

BIG TIGER
Like a life-sized tiger at $325? The lion, equally tame, is $350. Uncle Bernie also has some wacky rabbits from Italy at $69.95 with a rocking giraffe at $90.
There's a doll house at $100; furnished, $200. Toy soldiers, painted under magnifying glass, run $16 apiece. Or you can get a cage with singing birds at $300.
The London Shop offers a game with flash at $27.50, for those who get thirsty on walks. Gifts for Men (that's a store) is featuring a brightly brocade theater coat for a man at $150.

But my favorite offering is at Dunhill's, which advertises "the ultimate executive gift." It is a private airplane—"choice of models, choice of interiors—seats up to seven—from $72,000." No sense in getting it for Frank. He's got one.

Michigan Supreme Court Rejects Insurance Suit

LANSING (AP) — A civil suit contesting the merger of a Detroit insurance company owned by former State Sen. Charles C. Diggs of Detroit and a Kentucky firm was refused a rehearing yesterday by the Michigan Supreme Court.

The high court, in one of 22 decisions handed down, affirmed the action of Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moynihan Jr., of Wayne County, in refusing the suit rehearing on grounds he lacked jurisdiction.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Lida Glover of Detroit was a policyholder in the Detroit Metropolitan Mutual Life Insurance Co., which merged with the Mammoth Life and Accident Insurance Co., of Kentucky.

She contended the merger, resulted in heavy personal gain for Diggs and his son, U.S. Rep. Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., at the expense of policyholders.

Moynihan had dismissed the suit on grounds it lacked the inclusion of the firms that should have been included as defendants along with Diggs Sr., Diggs Jr., and former State Insurance Commissioner Frank Blackford.

The state supreme court unanimously affirmed a Wayne County court ruling in favor of the cities of Dearborn and Highland Park, who sought to assess personal property taxes on buses owned by the City of Detroit but stored at barns inside their borders.

The Wayne ruling, by Circuit Judge Theodore R. Bohm, had overturned a State Tax Commission which held the buses were not subject to such taxes.
Dearborn appealed the case and Highland Park was added as a plaintiff after it also won a Circuit court case — moving Detroit to appeal to the high court.

The U.S. Army expanded from a small peacetime force of 270,000 to a modern, well-equipped Army of over eight million in World War II.

Mayor Stuck With Office

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Holt has ruled that Joe Cloud is still mayor of Gillett, Ark., despite the fact that Cloud refused to run for another term in the Nov. 6 general election.
Holt says state law provides that elected officials remain in office until duly replaced. That means all Gillett city officers must stay in office because no body ran for a city job.
Cloud said the job carried too many headaches for the $25 a month it paid.

State Treasury in Black past month was $158.4 million and aug was $157.2 million. T he LANSING (AP) — Income into Treasury balance at the end of the State Treasury during the month was $57.7 million.

Goldwater Backers Pushing Him Onto Political Hot Spot

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (U) — Republican who want Barry Goldwater to head their 1964 presidential ticket may have moved the Arizona senator onto a hot political spot.

While he has about a year to weigh the idea of making a bid for the presidential nomination, Goldwater eventually is going to have to decide whether the effort would be worth giving up the chance for six years more in the Senate.

It has been Goldwater's position that Arizona voters will not go along with the kind of parlay Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson managed in getting elected in 1960 both in the Senate in Texas and to the vice presidency.

Goldwater has said over and over again that he wants another term in the Senate and isn't interested in seeking the presidential nomination.

Goldwater obviously is having some second thoughts about his future course as the result of a secret meeting of party conservatives in Chicago last Sunday. If this group expands into a national organization that demonstrates it can assemble a campaign war chest and throw its weight around he probably would be happy to go along with it for a while to see what happens.

He indicated as much by his comment that while he still plans to run for the Senate, "things change and it's too early to be certain."

This left the road open to make some mileage for the conservative viewpoint within the party, without committing him to go all-out after the nomination. The senator has said repeatedly his objective is to guide the conservatives a stronger voice in the drafting of a platform and in the choice of a nominee.

Goldwater knows as well as anyone that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is going after the presidential nomination with the kind of vigor that won't permit much dallying by potential opponents.

This means the New York governor will be primed for presidential primary contests. Goldwater feels that any venture into the primaries on his part would be tantamount to telling the Arizona voters he wasn't interested in another Senate term. He would have to make a decision on the primary matter late in 1963.

continue seeking until the 1964 convention picks its nominee.

New AID Director in Rough Spot

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (U) — The least envied official in Washington today is Budget Director David E. Bell.

When President Kennedy has tapped to head the gargantuan Agency for International Development (AID).

In the fourteen years of its existence, the foreign aid program has defied the Montgomery best efforts of nearly a dozen administrators, although it has been reorganized five times under different names.

Changing the name does not change the spots, however, and Congress is becoming increasingly reluctant to vote funds for the thankless agency that has dispersed the colossal sum of nearby a hundred billion dollars abroad since 1948.

Bell, when he takes office later this month, will be the third director appointed by President Kennedy in less than two years. He succeeds Fowler Hamilton, who displaced Henry Labouisse.

The first and most successful foreign aid administrator was Paul Hoffman, a Republican industrialist whom the late GOP Senator Arthur Vandenberg insisted that President Truman name to head the Economic Cooperation Administration, as the Marshall Plan was called.

Hoffman bowed out two years later, and in 1961 ECA became the Mutual Security Agency. This lasted two years, until President Eisenhower reorganized it as the Foreign Operations Administration.

That title also was short lived. In 1955 Ike again reshuffled the program, and called it the International Cooperation Administration.

President Kennedy subsequently directed another major reorganization and last November AID was born.

Some drastic surgery will obviously be required, if the agency's ever-increasing appropriation demands are to escape the congressional ax next spring.

Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, JFK's brother-in-law, has said that the AID administrator will need "new authority and extraordinary emergency powers" if he is to do a "constructive" job, but Congress is notoriously jealous of granting such powers.

The General Accounting Office charges that we have been squandering multimillions of dollars worth of military equipment in four Asian nations investigated, and we have foreign aid missions in 73 other countries besides.

Many legislators are becoming convinced that it is "hopeless" for America, with a population of only 150 million people, to bolster the economies of such a vast assortment of nations, with their teeming billions.

Added to the "hopelessness" of the situation is the staggering population explosion in Asia. A House subcommittee looking into the insubstantial problem has heard expert testimony that by the year 2000 Asia's population will have increased by four billion people.

This increase is more than the present population of the entire world.

Interestingly enough, our foreign aid projects are adding to the population explosion in backward nations. We are teaching sanitation and health care, which reduces the death rate, but we are doing nothing to reduce the birth rate.

An official spokesman for AID, queried about his policy, said the agency is not permitted to supply birth control information, even if requested.

All such requests, he said, are referred to the United Nations, to other governments, or to private foundations.

It is the American taxpayer, however, who foots the AID bill for the already over-populated nations of the Orient.

Sad Seminole Speaks

MIAMI (UPI) — "The hunting is beginning to go. Our children will not be able to live off the land."

Buffalo Tiger spoke sad words, but his eyes showed pride in the new one-room school the county and the federal government built for his Indians off Tamiami Trail about 40 miles west of Miami.

Buffalo Tiger, head of the tribal council of the fiercely independent trail Indian branch of the Miccosukee Seminole tribe, came out of the Everglades yesterday to see 19 Indian children, ranging in age from 7 to 16, start their first formal schooling.

SHUN RESERVATION

For years his trail Indians resisted life on the reservations, where schools have long been in operation. They preferred to build their chickees in the Everglades, live off the land and sell trinkets to the tourists.

But hardships softened the attitude of the tribal leaders. They asked for the school.

"There is a feeling we can trust the white man more. We have been promised some things and the promises kept," said Buffalo Tiger.

Arrested for Threat on President's Life

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — James B. Hubka, 20, Birmingham, has been arrested on a charge that he threatened the life of President Kennedy in a letter.

In a hearing Tuesday before U.S. Commissioner Louise O. Charles, Hubka admitted writing the letter and said he knew he shouldn't have done it.

Secret Service agents who arrested Hubka said the letter was sent to J. Walker Vagley of the Internal Security Division of the Department of Justice.

White Whizzes Through Game of 'Family' Football

NEW YORK (AP)—Touch football, often called the sport of the New Frontier, was thrust suddenly into the fore of the National Football Foundation's annual Hall of Fame festivities by no less a personality than Byron (Whizzer) White, associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Justice White, a former All-America at the University of Colorado and later a professional star halfback with Pittsburgh and Detroit, received the foundation's Gold Medal Award for outstanding contribution to football Tuesday night.

While tracing the history of football from ancient times until the present, Justice White suddenly changed his theme.

FAMILY GAME

"Then came a major development—the game of touch football was popularized by a family in Massachusetts," he said.

The crowd of more than 1,500, including President Kennedy's two brothers, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy and Massachusetts senator-elect Edward (Ted) Kennedy, broke into laughter.

"The rules of the game are vague," continued Justice White, and again the crowd laughed. "This tight little group has the right to change the rules in the midst of a game."

"I have never seen it because spectators are barred," he added, as the crowd roared again. "But they say that even women are allowed to play."

"However, we will continue to watch developments of this game for some time to come."

Justice White, who was President Kennedy's first appointee to the Supreme Court, spoke out against the critics of football for demeaning the sport because of injuries.

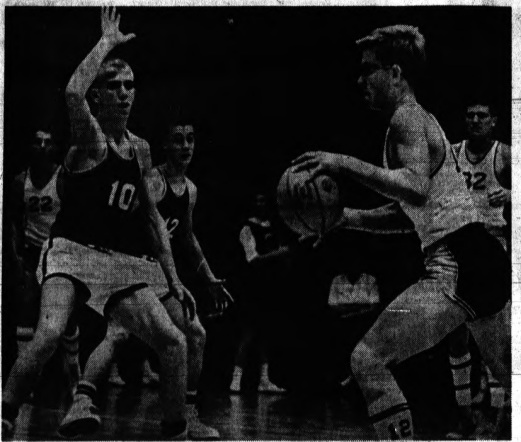

SOME DANGER

"No game can carry on without accompanying dangers," he said. "Voices have been raised and they are very learned voices who view the problem well. They realize that to cure a toothache, you don't kill the patient, but rather pull the tooth. It is the same in alleviating the dangers in football."

Justice White also spoke out against "commercialization" and an uncontrolled "will to win." He drew the analogy of the ancient Greeks who made athletics part of their culture, but later destroyed their culture and themselves with "a desire to win, specialization, prizes and accompanying corruption."

Justice White called for more facilities and encouragement for the "average fellow who does not put athletic performance high on his priority list," a reference to more intramural participation.

Twelve new members were inducted into Football's Hall of Fame. They were Benny Boynton, Williams, 1917-1919, 1920; Guy Chamberlain, Nebraska, 1913-1915; Dan Hill Jr., Duke, 1936-38; Cal Hubbard, Centenary 1922-24 and Geneva, 1926; Phil King, Princeton, 1930-33; John McEwan, Army, 1915-16; John Mims, Penn., 1924-25; Pat O'Dea, Wisconsin, 1927-29; Joseph Routh, Texas A&M, 1933-37; William Spears, Vanderbilt, 1923-27; Andrew Wyatt, Bucknell, 1928-29; Chicago 1922-24; and Tuss McLaughry, coach at Westminster, Amherst, Brown and Dartmouth, 1916-1924.

DIRECTING TRAFFIC—Oxford's Jim Bates seems not to notice the stop signal Kettering's Earl Hook (10) is waving his way in third quarter action last night at Oxford. Hook didn't do much stopping either as he hit 16 points to lead all scorers in the opening game for both squads. At right is Oxford's Ernie Rouse while Dan VanVleet (23) is at far left. Number 12 for Kettering is Rickey Pankey.

Two Good Quarters Help Kettering Win

By JERE CRAIG

Kettering's Captains parlayed two quarters of basketball into a 44-32 triumph at Oxford last night.

The fact they only needed to play two quarters of roundball to produce a 12-point victory is not indicative of the caliber of ball played by the winners, although it is a fairly good reflection on the exhibition by the Oxford squad.

Any team which can only score two and four points in successive quarters with no apparent intention to hold down the score isn't playing winning basketball—but the Captains did win.

Oxford, with or without seven foot Dana Marlowe in the game, wasn't impressive. Afterwards, coach Duane Cain was mourning the lack of a junior high school basketball program at Oxford and perhaps it would have been an improvement.

Certainly, a junior high school team can be excused for only scoring one point in a quarter which is what the Wildcats' defense in the final quarter accomplished in the second stanza last night.

STAGE RALLY

Things weren't all bad in the game.

Kettering pumped 21 points through the weary Wildcats' defenses in the final quarter to give some respectability to its total. Bob Bogart led the push with eight points, six of them coming in a row, to pull the visitors from a 28-25 deficit to a 31-28 lead which they never relinquished.

Backliner Earl Hook then offset a bucket by Oxford's Dan VanVleet with two baskets and the Captains spurred to a 42-29 lead with less than a minute to play. Hook topped all scorers with eight field goals for 16 counters.

He scored eight points in the first quarter (and the winners' only two in the second session) as both clubs played their best ball. The visitors took the lead at 6-4 and moved to a 15-8 advantage only to have the Wildcats narrow the gap to four points, 17-13, at the end of the quarter.

Hook scored early in the second session and then began a succession of mistakes and giveaways, and an exhibition of poor shooting by both clubs which was culminated by Oxford blowing three layups and seeing a fourth attempt by Marlowe blocked by Bogart, 13 inches shorter than the tall center.

The home club finally tallied on a foul shot by Roger Fox with one minute remaining before the halftime.

Two field goals early in the second half moved Kettering to a 23-18 margin but the Wildcats came back to score 18 straight points in the quarter and held the visitors scoreless the rest of the way. Two short one handers by Marlowe put the homesters ahead 26-23.

Marlowe and VanVleet both tallied four field goals and two fouls for 10 points while Robert was the only other Captain in twin figures with 10. For the seven-foot Marlowe, it was his highest scoring night on the Oxford varsity. He is the only senior starter for coach Cain.

It was the opening game for both teams. Kettering coach Joe Duby, after the contest, expressed concern for the team's chances in the Tri-County League.

MYERS PUMPED in 15 and Bob Kilbourn 11 for Orionville. John Beasley and Gregg Brown each scored 14 for the winners.

Madsen outscored Cranbrook 25-13 in the final quarter to pull out its victory. Ron Morgan notched 16 points. Madison, Joe Kimble hit 13 for the Granes.

Fordson led Berkley 26-21 at the intermission and pulled steadily away in the last half. Fordson had a 20-13 field goal margin.

Ron Chandler dropped in 16. Dennis Kubrak hit 13 and Stan Janik 10 for the Tractors. Dick Ramsdell was high for Berkley with 11.

Holly, Hawks, Cranbrook Have Court Difficulties

It was a bad night on the basketball court for Holly, Orionville and Cranbrook yesterday.

Fenton made it a double poor night for Holly by clipping its archrival, 46-42.

Orionville lost to Morrize 52-43, and Madison dumped Cranbrook, 61-54. It was the opening game for all four teams.

Dearborn Fordson led all the way while whipping Berkley, 57-40.

Holly carried a one point edge into the fourth quarter, but the Tigers came up with a full court press in the final two minutes that produced several easy layups.

The Broncos had trouble getting across the center line against the press and Fenton players stole the ball enough for the go-ahead points before 1,500 fans at Fenton.

Jim Ray of Holly led all scorers with 15 points. Teammate Jack Bennett added 11.

Orionville's lack of experience depth showed up in the fourth quarter against Morrize. The Black Hawks led 37-35 going into the final eight minutes.

Then regulars John Myers and Ed Giroux fouled out. The Hawks couldn't handle the pressure with these two experienced players on the bench and Morrize pulled away.

Myers pumped in 15 and Bob Kilbourn 11 for Orionville. John Beasley and Gregg Brown each scored 14 for the winners.

Madsen outscored Cranbrook 25-13 in the final quarter to pull out its victory. Ron Morgan notched 16 points. Madison, Joe Kimble hit 13 for the Granes.

Fordson led Berkley 26-21 at the intermission and pulled steadily away in the last half. Fordson had a 20-13 field goal margin.

Ron Chandler dropped in 16. Dennis Kubrak hit 13 and Stan Janik 10 for the Tractors. Dick Ramsdell was high for Berkley with 11.

Lapeer Falls, 55-43

Phil Becker had a red hot second half in scoring a 55-43 victory over Lapeer last night. Leading 24-22 at halftime, Becker hit 18 of 24 shots in the second half, led by Dick Fellers with 13 and Tim Dillon with 12 in the night.

Lapeer got double figures from Dennis Morrill with 20, Tom Gallo with 15 and Ernie Howell with 12.

PNH Dunks PCH, 53-52

Pontiac Northern won only four firsts, but the Huskies amassed 29 second place points to nip Pontiac Central, 53-52, in a red hot swimming meet at PCH last night.

It was the first time PNH had won in the PCH pool in five tries and it was the second swimming victory over the Chiefs in 9 meets.

Last year in the PNH pool, the Huskies swamped PCH 61-44, but in return at PCH, the Chiefs won 55-49.

Pontiac Central got double victory from Bob Lorenz in the 200-yard free style and 100-yard butterfly events. Lorenz won the butterfly in 1:18.3.

The sweep of 1-2 places in the 400-yard free style and 100-yard for Northern, but the victory was Bob Basinger's triumph over Paul Phillips in the 40-yard free style event. Basinger and Phillips were both timed at 20.1 but the Northern swimmer got the judges' nod.

In the 400, Skip Erwin swam away from the field in 4:45 with Don Chambers taking second in 5:07.5. In the breast stroke, Carl Cascardian also finished well ahead of second place finisher Alex Hiller. His time was 1:18.4 with Hiller at 1:15.

The backstroke race between Mike Jenkins of Central and John Bilkey of Northern ended with Jenkins winning in 1:09.5. Bilkey's time was 1:11.4 with Rick Johnson of PNH coming in third at 1:12.4.

DIVING WIN

Alex Hiller, the Northern diving ace, scored the other first for the Huskies.

After the 8th event, PCH led 42-33, then the 1-2 sweep in the 400 free style made it 43-41. Hiller's second place in the breast stroke pushed Northern ahead 49-44 and the Huskies needed only a second in final free style relay to clinch it.

Phil VanHull, Mike MacNamara, Chuck Hubbard and Gordon Kaufman made up the PCH winning free relay team.

The two teams will meet again Feb. 13th in the PNH pool.

QUESTION OF HEIGHT—Kettering's Chuck Hayland (42) appears to be outjumping seven-foot Dana Marlowe of Oxford while the latter managed to straighten his arm soon enough to claim the tip on this jump ball, but Kettering grabbed the ball. Kettering grabbed enough loose basketballs last night to post a 44-32 victory on the Wildcats' floor.

It's Good for a Laugh Plum vs. Bulldog Turner?

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—There is a comic getting yuks on the night club but pines for the slaughter-house sounding stars of the past such as Bronko Nagurski, Bulldog Turner and others of their ilk.

"And today," he shrugs, "we have guys like Milton Plum."

The diemay he puts into "Milton Plum" usually brings down the house.

But, as one who believes firmly that the old-timers would have trouble in the current muscle man's, I'll go with the "Milton Plums" and spot you three touchdowns.

Jim Lee Howell, the former New York Giant coach, summed it up by looking back at his own grid career. He was an all-league and in his time.

"But today," he admits, "I'd be too slow for offense and too light for defense."

FEAR SOME FOURSOME

You can believe it when, as a sample, you look at the Detroit Lions defensive line known as the "Fearsome Foursome." They include Roger Brown, 300 pounds and six feet, five inches; Alex Karas, 245 and 6-2; Darrin McCord, 250 and 6-3, and Sam Williams, 235 and 6-5.

Not only that, each one of them moves like a frightened ballet master. So, cherish your memories of the Jim Thorpes and the Nagurskis, but, as one pro grid aficionado summed it up:

"If Thorpe ever threw a hip at Brown, he'd drop it off."

It's the same in modern which direction you look.

Call the basketball guys "balding peeping Toms" if you will, but anybody who knows a round ball from a pumpkin will bet you all the coal in Serrano that there never has been anybody to touch Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, and that includes the original Celtics.

Sonny Liston destroyed Floyd Patterson in as crushing a manner as anybody in the fight racket can remember. Now it's true that Patterson doesn't figure to rank among the all-time top heavyweights. But the award fight Mob figures that Liston will, and maybe he at the very top before he's finished.

Along these lines we have the greatest fighter of all time in boxing these days. Fellow named Cassius Clay. And if you don't believe it, just ask him.

McGuire Gets Victory From Pistons, 130-129

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons won a game for Dick McGuire last night.

They gave their coach, rumored to be on the firing line, a 130-129 win over the Syracuse Nationals in a National Basketball Association game. Detroit's record is now 6-16, the chief reason for McGuire's less than solid footing.

Frank McGuire (no relation), former basketball coach at North Carolina and the Philadelphia Warriors, reportedly is in line for Dick's slot.

Syracuse, which led 64-62 at halftime, barely missed pulling the game out of the fire when a last-second shot by Paul Neumann rimmed the basket and fell out. The Nats claimed Neumann was fouled on the play but referee Mendy Rudolph ruled the foul came after the final buzzer.

Three foul shots by Bob Ferry in the last 34 seconds proved decisive.

Ferry sank the first of his three clutch points to increase the Pistons lead to 128-125. His pair of conversions with seven seconds left made it 130-127 and the Pistons gave free passage to the Nats' Johnny Kerr for Local No. 653, Columbia Avenue Baptist and the Bachelors' Club garnered victories in recreational basketball activity last night.

The Baptists gained a last quarter win, 29-28, over the Michigan Bell team in the night's closest contest. The Bachelors broke a 20-20 deadlock with a 16-point third quarter and increased their margin in the last quarter for a 48-41 triumph, while Local No. 653 led from the beginning for an easy victory against UAW No. 594.

Michigan Bell led the Baptists 17-9 at halftime but the churchmen's defenses tightened in the second half and they made up the deficit. George Rattledge scored seven field goals for the winners who held the losers to three points in the final stanza.

Wille Ratliff (18) and Charles Johnson (16) led a two-pronged attack for the Bachelors while the night's top scorers honors went to Larry Peet of Local No. 653 with 19. Four others also hit double figures for the union men.

Memphis bombed St. Augustine of Richmond 28-15 last night in Class D action in the winners' court.

Hazel Park Routs Fitzgerald, 68-22

Eastern Michigan League 'cellar dweller' Hazel Park battered Oakland A defending champ Fitzgerald 68-22 last night on the Vikings' court.

Fitzgerald suffered from bunt-fingers and couldn't stop the fired-up Hazel Park group even after the half when H.P. coach John Magiera emptied the bench.

Bill Daniel connected on nine from the floor and one from the free throw line to take honors for the night with 18.

Teammate Bob Hubbard came off the bench to 12 and John Michalski hit 10.

John McCullum tallied seven for the losers.

WINNING SMILE—Bob Basinger has the winning smile for Pontiac Northern after the Huskies nipped Pontiac Central in their swimming meet last night in the PCH pool, 53-52. Basinger and Paul Phillips had the closest race in the 40-yard freestyle with both coming in at 20.1. Basinger got the judges' decision.

McGuire Gets Victory From Pistons, 130-129

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons won a game for Dick McGuire last night.

They gave their coach, rumored to be on the firing line, a 130-129 win over the Syracuse Nationals in a National Basketball Association game. Detroit's record is now 6-16, the chief reason for McGuire's less than solid footing.

Frank McGuire (no relation), former basketball coach at North Carolina and the Philadelphia Warriors, reportedly is in line for Dick's slot.

Syracuse, which led 64-62 at halftime, barely missed pulling the game out of the fire when a last-second shot by Paul Neumann rimmed the basket and fell out. The Nats claimed Neumann was fouled on the play but referee Mendy Rudolph ruled the foul came after the final buzzer.

Three foul shots by Bob Ferry in the last 34 seconds proved decisive.

Ferry sank the first of his three clutch points to increase the Pistons lead to 128-125. His pair of conversions with seven seconds left made it 130-127 and the Pistons gave free passage to the Nats' Johnny Kerr for

The 11th Frame

Marge Goike, a 164-average bowler who lives near Romeo, posted the highest actual series for a member of the Pontiac Women's Bowling Association this year when she rolled 222-245-171—638 last Wednesday in the Shelbyettes League at Shelby Lanes in Utica.

Mrs. Goike's previous high series was a 597 that she hit in the Deer Widow's Tournament at the same lanes recently. She had accepted her trophy for first place in the tournament just prior to posting her 638.

The 245 game, also, topped by one pin her previous high series.

Mrs. Goike has bowled for five years but only began participating twice-a-week this season.

Another high for the year went to Jean Bethann, also last Wednesday, in the Airway First Bowling League. She posted a 251 actual game for the top one this season, and a 544 series. Her performance helped J&M Hardware stay within a half game of Manville District team.

The leaders received strong contributions from Gerry Fuller (227-539) and Iris Kitts (220-578). Other good scores in the loop were Marian Luttman's 210, Lydia Dykman—211, Georgetown Billingsley — 221, and Isabelle Hanson's 532 series.

MO, MIKE TOUR

Monroe Moore, who fired a 689 actual in The Press Bowlerama to actual series honors Sunday at Howe's, is happy he made the qualifying field in his first attempt.

He left Tuesday for Atlanta, Georgia where he will compete in the first of eleven PBA tournaments of the winter tour. From Atlanta, "Mo" heads for Charlotte, North Carolina to compete in the Charlotte Open, Dec. 11-14.

Also on the tour for the opener is Mike Samardzja who failed in his qualifying attempt at Howe's Sunday.

AIRWAY LADIES

In the Thursday Night Ladies circuit at Airway, Jeanne Jacobs' 201 game fell only four pins short of the high actual for the season by Clarine Good. B-W Controller has only a one-game advantage over the rest of the six-team loop.

Low-average kegger Bonita Fournier of the No Accounts gave a good accounting of herself last Wednesday in the Airway Angels League. She hit a 227-543 actual combination and, in the process, set season marks for the high game and series with handicap. Agnes-Wolf of the Gutter Dusters rolled a 202 actual.

In Airway's Lutheran Mixed circuit, Floyd Harroun scored with a 210 and Alvin Nicholson posted a 544.

There was a 234 rolled by Frank Bilyeau in the Monsignor Sharpe No. 600 K of C Council competition last week. Charles Ribard had 215-224—631 and Ervin Barnowsky 222-213—609.

Lakewood Lanes had 265 and 626 scores for Frank Tinka in the House circuit. Bill Ball rolled 218-248—634 and Sam Pesto of the Jet Bar squad broke 200 for the first time with a 222. Lakewood's Wednesday Women's League is led by Ushan's with a five-point margin.

Pat Treacy, like Bull, didn't fare so well in the first qualifying round of the Bowlerama, but he did bowl the strikes last Tuesday in the Sylvan Senior House League. Treacy recorded a 652 series (212-261).

Bill Webster rolled a 235 and Emil Hestman had a game only one pin below Webster's high. Clint Nichols at Sylvan posted a four game series of 214-216-200-828.

Steeler Improving After Heart Attack

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Rudy Hayes, 26, linebacker for the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League, remained in fair condition today after suffering a heart attack while hunting deer.

However, a spokesman said the condition of the Pickens, S.C., player was improving.

Hayes, a four year NFL veteran, was stricken while hunting Tuesday near Uniontown, about 50 miles south of here. He was in a party that included teammates Buzz Nutter and Clendon Thomas.

Hayes, a former Clemson star, had been inactive most of the season because of a knee injury.

1st Bowlerama 'Failures' Re-Enter Again for Sunday

If you don't succeed try again. This holds pretty true in the Pontiac Press Bowlerama for the first time. Those who failed to make the qualifying grade last week at Howe's and North-West Lanes.

At least 30 of those who did not qualify the first time are trying for the second time at Westside or at Cooley this weekend.

The biggest field thus far is expected at Westside on Sunday where the squads are slated to start at 11:00 a.m. and continue through 6:00 p.m.

Howe's ran through 186 bowlers last Sunday with many of the high average bowlers competing for teams in the "house trophy" race unable to make the grade.

BIG NAMES

Such names as Bill Bull, Ron Rothbarth, Joe Bonfiglio, Gene Shell, Joe Puertas, George Chikovsky, Mike Samardzja, Don Martell, Dick Carmichael, Joe Foster, Jim Walker, Pat Tinson, Bob Lory and Paul Horie were among the casualties.

Bull, the highest average bowler in the tournament, has made his re-entry and will try again at Westside Sunday.

Also among the first week's casualties were former Actual's champions Bob Gormong, Paul George, and former actual's qualifying champs Bob Lawson and HE'S IN—Bill Knoll doesn't have to worry about qualifying this Sunday at West Side or Cooley Lanes for The Press Bowlerama. He made it last weekend with a 639 series and will bowl Dec. 23 in the finals at Airway Lanes.

'Big 10' Coaches Meet

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Ten football coaches will hold a meeting behind closed doors today but the conversation could be stimulating, especially when the matter of officiating is discussed.

Officiating, recruiting, financial aid and eligibility rules are certain to be discussed in the meeting called ahead of the Dec. 13 conference scheduled for faculty representatives and athletic directors.

On two occasions this season, officiating in the Big Ten game has been a problem. Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State complained publicly about calls against his team and then was ordered to apologize by Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed. The volatile Hayes complied but wasn't happy in doing so.

Then on Nov. 24 in the Minnesota-Wisconsin game on which the championship hinged, two officials' decisions against Minnesota helped Wisconsin to a 14-9 victory.

TWO PENALTIES

In the closing minutes of the game with Minnesota ahead 9-7, the Gophers drew a 15-yard penalty when tackle Bobby Bell was called for roughing passer Ron VanderKelen. Another 15-yard penalty came when the Minnesota bench protested the call against Bell. This put the ball on the Gopher 13 and Wisconsin took the ball in for the game winning score.

The meeting was called a week ahead of the regular sessions because most of the coaches have other commitments. All recommendations by the coaches will be submitted to the athletic directors for further action.

North Branch Wins 2nd Straight Game

North Branch romped to its second victory in a still young season last night stopping Elkton-Pigeon 77-66.

The visitors came within five points at the half, 34-29, but North Branch pulled away under the steady steering of Len DeGraw and Ray Stuewer.

DeGraw was high man for the night with 35 and Stuewer second with 16. Asa Thompson got 10.

SAW ANTONIO, Tex. — June Lull, Chas. 132, Mexico City, stopped by the 200 ft. BAKERFIELD, Calif. — Irish Wayne Williams, 170 lb. From, scored 100 and Tiger Williams, 180 lb. Long Angeles, 9.

1961 champion, Jack Frushour tried and failed Sunday.

Past champs Joe Tinson, P-4 Myers, Ken Leese and Dick Cork are not among the entries this far.

Bowlers who must have specific times for Sunday should denote

BOWLING

Two junior bowlers did themselves proud last Saturday morning at Howe's Lanes although only one of them made it count in league play.

Bob Haskins, a 137 average bowler, started with his average in the first line, boosted it to 189 the second time and topped off his efforts with a dandy 249 for a 575 series in the Bloomfield High School loop.

Gary Billington carries a 182 average in the same league but he made his noise when he hit a 253 score during a warmup game.

The Tuesday Night House League at 300 Bowl recorded 201-213 duo for Ray Devine. Vern King scored big with a 267 game and a 626 series. Irv Gray had a 223 game and Walt Lucas a 216.

SISTERS

Quik Eart Coney tops the 300 Trio circuit after last Thursday's action. Sisters Lorene Compeau and Nora Jones are having quite a battle for league honors this year. The latter rolled a 222 game last week to set a new season high and is tied for the high-game-with-handicap honors with Betty Meier at 253.

Her sister leads the high-series, with handicap category with a 650, only 10 pins above the high actual series of Nora.

The 300 Bowlers League had a 202 by Charlene Egres last week and a 204 by Vivian Owens. Eva Charkroff's 540 topped the actual series.

At the Elks Temple, the Thursday Night Ladies League saw Geneva Bradley bowl a 205-518 combination. Wiggs Colony Shop's 37 points is eight above second place Chuck's Shack.

Sylvan Lanes' league for the Sylvan Lake men reports a 2820 team series for Tom's Hardware squad.

Judy Hancock scored a 209-522 duo in the Montclair Ladies' Trio loop while Betty Loulakis rolled a 214 to take over season honors for high game with hand-

Alison Cram Wins Overall Championship

BOH Riders Sweep State Titles

Horses and riders from the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club swept all nine state championships in the Junior Hunter - Junior division of the Michigan Horse Show Association's annual awards.

One of the remaining five divisional championships also went to BOH, giving it a total of 10 out of a possible 14 titles.

Eight of the 14 reserve championships also went to BOH riders, easily making it the dominant force in the 1962 state-wide equestrian competitions.

Leading all riders is Miss Alison Cram, 15, of Birmingham, who accounted for four major horseman titles, including the Over-all Championship. Hard on her heels rode Miss Deborah Wilson, 13, of Bloomfield Hills, who took three titles and was runner-up behind Alison for the Over-all.

Alison and Debbie came close to making a sweep, with only two junior titles escaping them.

JUNIOR JUMPER

One, the Junior Jumper Championship, went to Rick Cram, 16, for the second consecutive year (he is Alison's brother). The second, the Professional Horsemen's Trophy for Junior Hunters, went to 14-year old Christine Jones, of Bloomfield Hills.

Both Chris and Rick are members of BOH, completing the sweep.

None of the local youngsters are strangers to championships. Alison was the state's first junior in history to take a National Championship at Madison Square Garden, Debbie, for two consecutive years, has ridden her horse to first place for Junior Hunter Hacks in the National Horse Show.

Rick also has been highly placed in national competitions, and holds state championships from former years. Chris Jones, still another national competitor, has also won state ribbons in former years.

In the Regular Working Hunter Division (open to both senior and junior competitors), the horse Blue Monday took top state honors for his Open Hunt, owners, Susan and Peter Foley, of Birmingham.

Susan, now 18 and out of the junior competitions, alternated with 14-year old brother Pete throughout the season to bring the big grey horse in well in front of all others.

According to a spokesman for the Association, 1962 was the most successful campaign in history for BOH, and further establishes the local organization as the leading equestrian center in the Midwest.

The presentation of the championship trophies will be made in Lansing's Civic Center on Sunday on the occasion of the Association's annual meeting and awards banquet.

One of the highlights of this year's awards will be the first presentation of a new trophy: The Grants' Perpetual Trophy for Over-all Championship - Horseman.

This trophy was donated to the Association in December of last year, for 1962 competition, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Grant of Birmingham.

The first name to be engraved on it will be that of Alison Cram - a Grant student.

CHRISTMAS-GOOSE — Ronald Greening Jr. of Lake Orion holds Christmas dinner. He shot the 14½-pound Canada goose recently while standing in his backyard. It may be a state record for the 15-year-old pinner.

Downs Honker 'On Schedule'

Lake Orion Teen-Ager Bags Large Goose

Three Canada geese formed a bad habit this fall — and one paid the penalty.

The honkers made a daily habit of flying over 341 Indianwood Road, Lake Orion, each morning and late afternoon. Ronald Greening Jr., 15, decided it was time he killed his first goose.

For two afternoons he stood in the backyard of his home, a 16-gauge shotgun in hand. The honkers failed to show.

Then on the third day they returned to their original schedule and swept over the house at the prescribed late afternoon hour.

One stayed for Christmas dinner, invited by a charge of No. 4 shot.

Fishing Licenses Ready This Week

Michigan's 1963 fishing licenses and stamps will be available at all dealers in the state by the end of this week, the Conservation Department reports.

Final shipments are being made this week by the department to supply some 4,000 license dealers with approximately 1,500, 000 fishing licenses and 250,000 stamp licenses. Copies of the state law digest are included in the distribution.

The new licenses and stamps will be valid from Dec. 1 of this year through Dec. 31, 1963. Anglers may fish on their 1962 licenses and stamps through the end of this year.

The state's fishing fees for 1963 will be same as this year. Sportsmen are reminded they will need trout stamps to fish rainbows during the special winter season.

Canadian Five Leads International Meet

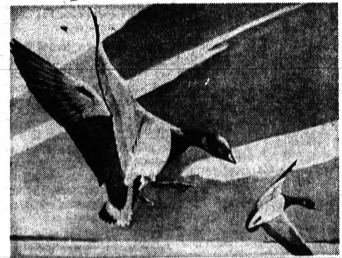

MANILA (AP) — Canada's Lethbridge Nationals took sole possession of first place in team standings by beating winless Australia 59-52 in the Invitational International Basketball Tournament tonight.

Canada's victory placed the Nationalist China 68-57 in the second game.

Canada's victory placed the Nationals on top of the heap with a 3-0 state. The United States, 2-0, is in second place, followed by the Philippines, 2-1.

Rainbow Trout Fishing Halted by Lack of Ice

Open water fishing for rainbows on designated lakes in Michigan ended last Friday.

Now a new designation takes over—"through the ice"—from now until March 1 on many bodies of water in Oakland County and other parts of the state.

Ice fishing for 'bows became legal Dec. 1, but a definite lack of ice gives the trout a couple of weeks of legal respite.

Three lakes have been added to list open for ice fishing in

Oakland County Tax Land Sale Set Dec. 17

Nearly 400 tax-reverted land parcels in Wayne, Macomb and Oakland Counties will be offered for sale at public auctions to be held Dec. 11-13 by the Conservation Department.

The three-day sale, involving mostly platted lots, will begin Dec. 11 in the county office building at Pontiac where 113 land units in Macomb and Oakland Counties will be open to bidding.

Some 284 parcels in Wayne County will be offered for sale Dec. 12-13 in the City-County building at Detroit.

Each of the sales will open at 10 a.m. All revenue collected during the three days will be turned over to counties in which the auctioned lands are located.

Lists describing land units to be offered may be obtained from treasurers of the three south-eastern counties.

Coon Club Banquet

Dec. 15 at OCS

The Pioneer Coon Hunters Club will hold its 20th annual banquet and meeting, 7:30 p.m. Dec. 15, at Oakland County Sportsman's Club house in Waterford.

Coon meat will be served. Tickets can be obtained at the club house or from officers of the Coon Club.

MUCC Lobby Makes Plans

Department to Seek General Funds

LANSING (UPI) — One of the efforts by the Conservation Department to get the legislature to relieve pressure on the depleted fish and game protection fund will get strong support by a major lobbying interest next year.

James L. Rouman, executive director of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), has voiced strong support for the department's attempt to get part of its administrative costs paid from the state general fund instead of the fish and game protection fund.

"For many years the sportsman has contributed heavily to the fish and game protection fund only to have much of it diverted to pay all administrative costs of the department," the expert of the conservationists, clerical help, parks and recreation land costs, forest lands, and the regional offices," Rouman said.

"It also pays for the administration of all accounting, the office services section, the personnel office, and much of the education and information section expenses."

The fish and game protection fund is built up from license fees collected from hunters and fishermen. In recent years license sales have been decreasing.

"We don't mind paying our share," Rouman said, "but in view of the new emphasis in recent years on all these other places of conservation work, it is becoming more unreasonable."

Mexico Reaches Davis Cup Final Against Aussies

MADRAS, India (UPI) — The Mexican Davis Cup team went through the formality of completing its interzone finals with India today, but all further thoughts were centered on Australia.

Challenge earned a berth in the Mexico round for the first time in history yesterday by taking an unbeatable 3-0 lead over India in the best-of-five series.

Rafel Osuna, the U.S. collegiate champion from the University of Southern California, completed his singles match with India's Ramanathan Krishnan and finally won in five sets, 2-6, 2-7, 6-8, 6-4. The match had been halted in the fourth set on Monday because of darkness.

Osuna then teamed with Antonio Palafox to beat Jaidit Mukerjee and Premjit Lal, 10-8, 12-10, 6-4 in the doubles to clinch the series.

Reynard Can Expect 'Squealing' Trouble

If predator call sales are any indication, red foxes in the area are going to have a "squealing" bad time.

"We had 11 predator calls the middle of last week," said a clerk at a Pontiac sporting goods counter, "now they are all gone."

"We ran out two weeks ago and can't get any to fill orders," commented a wholesale salesman who was in the same store.

Outdoor magazines have been carrying stories for the last year describing how easy it is to call up side 50 yards. Best weapons are a 22 rimfire Magnum rifle or a shotgun loaded with buckshot or No. 2s.

In the Oakland County area the fox will be the main target.

UNDER WAY

The general idea is to grab a call and rifle, or shotgun, head where a fox might be hanging out — usually near farmland wooded areas in good peasant country — pick a hiding place, preferably on a hillside, facing downwind or crosswind.

Start with about five minutes of high-pitched squeals and then taper down to low moans. Records are available to help learn the proper calling technique which is very important.

If nothing shows within a half hour, move to another location. The hunter must remain motionless until ready to shoot or the best calling will go to waste.

Most of the shooting is done in the afternoon. Best weapons are a 22 rimfire Magnum rifle or a shotgun loaded with buckshot or No. 2s.

The English setter is owned by Richard Wilson of Walbridge Lake and handled by Dave Grubb of Lake Orion. Grubb also directed the Arkansas Violator, another English setter owned by E. C. Juniper of Fraser, to second place behind Melody.

Both dogs turned in good performances in several recent trials in Ohio.

Unchained Melody Wins River Raisin All-Age

The Unchained Melody posted four finds on the way to winning the open-all-age stake of the Raisin Valley Field Trial near Manchester last weekend.

Drifting Isn't Good

Goals Can Be Formed in Junior High

By LESLIE J. NASON, E.D.

Professor of Education,

University of Southern California

When a student reaches the junior high school level in Europe, his educational future is mapped out by the state or the school authorities.

The student is directed toward training in the professions or in the trades on the basis of his previous record. After this point any change is difficult.

In the United States all paths are left open to those who can qualify. The decision on which path to follow rests on the individual.

We provide counseling and guidance, aptitude tests and interest inventories to help students choose the best goals which they seem capable of reaching.

Pupils who choose goals and work out plans for their future in cooperation with their parents are happier and more successful than those who drift.

Drifting leads to poor mental health, lack of responsibility—and lower grades. Such drifting results in a million young men and women between the ages of 16 and 21, being out of school and out of work, unskilled and untrained. They are a problem to society and to themselves.

These young people did not prepare themselves well enough. Schools gave them the opportunity, but failed to start them working toward a constructive future.

The junior high years are critical years. At a time when a boy is still a child in many ways, he must make decisions which will affect the rest of his life. At the end of the seventh and eighth grades, students must be ready to select courses which will remain part of their records as long as they live.

Their future in high school, the possibility of college, and the place in life are all at stake to a certain extent at this point.

A student needs the understanding and approval of his parents and the other adults in his life. Although the choices are his, they are too important to be left entirely to the whims of a teen-ager.

His goals need to be unchangeable. Our flexible society allows the student to shift his ultimate goal at any time throughout his life.

I know one man who changed his objective from technician to engineering design at the age of 33. Starting from a fifth-grade education, he acquired an engineering degree through evening school work and now is a chief design engineer for a large corporation.

Every effort should be made, nevertheless, to start junior high school students off toward goals in which they will be happy, successful citizens. Conferences between parent, pupil, counselor or teacher lead to understandings on this.

Parents must help students adopt reasonable goals within their capabilities.

Teachers and counselors must analyze the causes of underachievement, a major factor in lack of goal choices.

Students must give thought to their own efforts and develop skills of learning which will keep them eligible for the paths leading to the position in life for which they are best suited.

Until a student pictures himself as capable of success in reaching a goal, he will avoid setting a goal.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

It didn't require much imagination for North to win the slam after South's opening bid.

The method of approaching the that North adopted meets with full approval. He started by checking for four kings. When South showed only one king North wisely settled for the small slam.

His bidding did not preclude a grand slam bid by South. When the Blackwood convention is used properly a five no-trump bid which follows a four no-trump not only asks for kings, but also guarantees that the partnership holds all four aces. Hence, South could go to the grand slam if he thought he had sufficient additional values. There is nothing to the play of the hand, from the expert standpoint that is. South plays dummy's ace of hearts at trick one, draws trumps, runs the three clubs and plays a second heart.

It does not matter to him which opponent wins the trick. If a diamond is led, it solves all problems about the queen of diamonds. If anything else is led, South will discard a diamond from one hand and trump in the other.

The average player can be taught from the expert's play.

CARD SENSE

Q.—The bidding has been:
South West North East
1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass

What do you do?
A.—Bid five no-trump. This asks partner to bid a slam somewhere. A jump to six hearts is a close second choice.

Lack of JFK's Support May Hurt Adlai in U.N.

MAKE OVER PAGES

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The future of Adlai E. Stevenson as President Kennedy's ambassador to the United Nations rested under a cloud of uncertainty today—a cloud which only Kennedy himself can dispel.

Unless the uncertainty is cleared up soon Stevenson's effectiveness in dealing with other diplomats in New York may be impaired.

His prestige and persuasiveness depend upon the faith foreign envoys place in the President's confidence in Stevenson. That seems, for the moment, to be the central issue the President must now deal with.

Some well-placed officials expect that Kennedy will speak out publicly in support of Stevenson. Associates of the ambassador say privately that the President already has assured him of his full support and that Stevenson is planning to carry on as usual.

News Analysis

Unless Stevenson was convinced of Kennedy's complete backing, one informant said, "he would have resigned already."

Stevenson said today that he had approved of the naval blockade of Cuba at least three days before the government decided to impose it.

Reiterating his denial that he had opposed the blockade, Stevenson said on the NBC television "Today" show: "I was emphatically in favor of it."

In official quarters two other questions are coming into focus: How much tolerance is there at the White House for disagreement in policy making? Should anonymous but apparently authoritative criticism of a high official be interpreted as evidence that his resignation would be welcomed by the President?

STARTED SUNDAY

Stevenson's troubles began Sunday with the disclosure in New York of an article in this week's edition of the Saturday Evening Post.

The article was written by Charles Bartlett, a reporter for the Chattanooga Times and a very close friend of Kennedy, and by Stewart Alsop, the Washington editor of the magazine who is reputed to have excellent contacts within the administration.

The point of the article which attracted immediate attention was a report that Stevenson had dissented from the general agreement within the executive committee of the National Security Council last October that a naval blockade should be imposed around Cuba to block the flow of Soviet nuclear weapons into Cuba.

In a statement Monday the White House denied the report and declared that Stevenson had in fact "strongly supported" Kennedy's decision for the blockade.

Families Expect Return to Gitmo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth announced today that a majority of Navy and Marine Corps wives and children evacuated from the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo, Cuba, at the outset of the missile-and-bombers crisis will be allowed to return before Christmas.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Navy wives and children evacuated from Guantanamo Bay naval base at the start of the Cuban missile-and-bombers crisis will be permitted to return soon, informed sources say.

A Navy announcement is expected shortly—perhaps today.

About 2,500 wives and children of men stationed at Guantanamo were rushed back to the United States by ship and airplane on Oct. 22, just before President Kennedy announced the naval quarantine of offensive arms shipments to Communist Cuba.

Because of the burden on base facilities, withdrawal of some of the Marine reinforcements flown to Guantanamo to defend the base during the crisis was understood to be one precondition for return of dependents.

At the United Nations, U.S. officials are reported confident that Soviet jet bombers will be out of Cuba before the Dec. 19 date promised by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

SAILING DATES TOLD

Informed sources reported the U.S. expectations after Soviet officials yesterday gave U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson information on ships and sailing dates and the number of Soviet bombers being removed.

States Silent on Revamping of the Reserve

Governors Hold Fire as Pentagon Unveils New Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governors held their fire for the most part as the Pentagon unveiled its program designed to get more ready-to-go combat punch into fewer National Guard and Army Reserve units.

An outcry had been predicted by some. It still may come.

But Tuesday's announcement by the Defense Department drew only a request by Gov. Albert D. Russell of Washington that his colleagues withhold approval of the National Guard proposals until after a Pentagon meeting with state adjutants general next Monday.

In Lansing, Gov. John B. Swainson said Michigan's Army National Guard would be cut by 2,000 troops in a reauthorized strength under a new allotment program proposed by the Pentagon—but no state armories would be closed.

Declaring he believes in principle with the new program for overhauling the nation's guard units, Swainson indicated that he would not protest the proposed reduction in Michigan's troops.

Under the law, a governor must approve any changes in the guard within his state.

The governor said that the new plan would result in an actual decrease of only 903 men because present units are not up to their full authorized strength.

"Natural attrition will take care of the reduction," he observed.

Jury Deliberates 1½ Hours

Seventeen-year-old Sheldry Topp was found guilty of first-degree murder yesterday for the May 18 slaying of Oakland County's First Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles A. Davis.

The verdict was returned by a Circuit Court jury of six men and six women who deliberated an hour and a half at the end of the week-long trial before Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams.

Judge Adams will sentence the verdict carries a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment.

Dr. William A. Gordon, a Detroit psychiatrist, testified in rebuttal to a defense contention that Topp was insane at the time of the slaying.

Italian Reds Condemn Chinese

From Our News Wires

ROME — Italy's Communist party, the biggest in Western Europe, bluntly condemned Peking today and pledged solidarity with Moscow.

Giancarlo Pajetta, one of Italy's top Reds, turned to a Chinese delegation at the Italian Communist congress here and said his party unanimously "condemns your unjust position."

The 900 delegates rose to their feet in a cheering ovation that left no doubt where Italy's Communist party stands in the Moscow-Peking ideological dispute. The men from Peking remained seated, silently scribbling on a pad.

Pajetta's speech was the sharpest and most open denunciation of the Chinese since the congress opened Sunday.

Party chief Palmiro Togliatti ended Sunday.

Party chief Palmiro Togliatti launched the attack Sunday, and at 1 p.m. was 43.

Soviet observer Frol Kozlov carried it forward Monday. Then Tuesday the Chinese delegation took the floor to lash the position of the Italian and Soviet Communists in the Cuban crisis and toward Albania.

But all their words were couched in the usual Communist phraseology. The pro-Kremlin Reds attacked China by naming Albania. The Chinese attacked the Soviet Union by naming Yugoslav President Tito.

Pajetta stripped away the camouflage. He talked openly of the Chinese Reds.

Temporary Injunction Binds Courthouse Site

Circuit Court Judge Frederick C. Ziem today granted a temporary injunction halting development of the old county courthouse site into a free parking lot in downtown Pontiac.

Judge Ziem ruled in favor of the Outdoor Parking Co. of Pontiac in preventing the lease between the county and the Downtown Pontiac Business Association (DPBA) from taking effect and enjoining the DPBA from taking possession of the property.

The injunction will last until Judge Ziem makes a final determination in the suit brought by the parking firm to nullify the lease agreement, which was signed Nov. 19 at a rental of $1 for a six-month period.

Judge Ziem said the agreement was "not for the general benefit of the county." He added, however, that the county will have a chance to prove general benefit before his final determination.

He added that Pontiac sales in the last six consecutive 10-day sales periods have set new highs—the first time in Pontiac's history that this has happened.

Drive Yields 700 Signatures; Filed in County

Campaign Begun Last Month to Protect the Existing Boundaries

A petition containing about 700 signatures calling for a vote on incorporation of Waterford Township as a city was filed with the County Clerk's Office yesterday.

Jane Windler, president of the Greater Waterford Community Council, which spearheaded the drive for signatures, filed the petition along with the $500 filing fee.

The community council launched its campaign a month ago, primarily to protect the existing boundaries of the township pending completion of an incorporation study report by a committee of civic leaders.

Indications are the incorporation study committee will finish its report before mid-January.

The petition will be referred to the boundaries committee of the County Board of Supervisors, which will then prepare a report for the board. No action can be taken by the board within 30 days of the petition filing.

How soon the board acts will determine whether the proposal will be on the February or April ballot. It must, however, be put to a vote within 90 days of approval by the Board of Supervisors.

Waterford Township residents became incorporation conscious during July when the village of Union Lake filed a similar petition and announced plans to take a section from each of four surrounding townships including Waterford.

Estes Reports Record Sales for November

Record sales of Pontiacs and Tempests for November were reported today by E. M. Estes, General Motors vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division.

Estes said Pontiac dealers delivered 54,881 cars during the month. This, he pointed out, was 27 per cent ahead of the previous record of 43,293 cars established last year.

In addition, Estes said, a record-breaking 18,407 cars were sold in the final 10 days of November. A year ago in the same period the figure was 14,258.

"The current demand for Pontiacs represent an all-time high for us," Estes said.

He added that Pontiac sales in the last six consecutive 10-day sales periods have set new highs—the first time in Pontiac's history that this has happened.

Recommends No Action Against Officer in Fight

City Attorney William A. Ewart last night recommended that no action be taken by the city against Pontiac Police Lt. William K. Hanger in connection with a fight Nov. 10 between Hanger and a Pontiac man.

In a report directly to the City Commission, Ewart produced testimony of witnesses that cleared Hanger of causing or prolonging the fight with James B. Walker, 27, of 393 Emerson Ave.

Commissioners accepted the report and city officials indicated no further action would be taken.

The fight in question took place when city police were booking Walker on a charge of reckless driving.

Walker's attorney Wallace D. McWay said his client argued with Hanger while being booked, and Walker claims Hanger challenged him, then took him in a room and attacked him from behind.

Walker spent eight days in Pontiac General Hospital under treatment for internal injuries. Hanger received a broken nose and hand in the fight.

The city attorney said his facts "point to one finding: Lt. Hanger was defending himself against an

Dean Says Pledge May Come Soon

K Plotting Another Test Ban Trap?

From Our News Wires
GENEVA — U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean said today Soviet Premier Khrushchev soon may try to trap the West with another unilateral pledge to stop testing nuclear weapons.

Dean told the 17-nation disarmament conference the Soviet Union appears to have abandoned "all pretense at actual negotiations to reach agreement" on a nuclear test ban.

The Soviet Union clearly has decided it does not want a test ban at all, Dean said, "but is trying to maneuver the West in every possible way into some sort of unspected, uncontrolled moratorium arrangement."

Dean stressed that the West would never again be trapped into the position of September 1961, when Russia suddenly broke its own moratorium on testing, in which the West had joined.

"Ever since the Soviet Union broke the last unilateral pledge it made in the person of its highest authority... it has undoubtedly realized the great value to itself of broken pledges on nuclear testing," Dean said.

"ONCE MORE..." "It appears to me that the Soviet Union is once more heading on such a course..."

"We may once again be greeted with a unilateral pledge on the part of the Soviet Union. Maybe this pledge will come again from the highest authority, just as similar pledges were given by the leaders of the Soviet Union with regard to a recent situation in the Caribbean with which we are all familiar."

Dean apparently was referring to Soviet assurances early in the Cuban crisis that no Russian missile bases were located in Cuba.

Earlier, the West had offered to sign an unexpected test ban treaty "tomorrow" if the Soviets could prove that international inspection is unnecessary.

British delegate Sir Michael Wright made the offer but it was clear he had little expectation it would be taken up.

Wright told the conference that if the Russians have scientific evidence which proves that on-site inspection is not necessary to police a nuclear test ban they should deposit it at once with United Nations Secretary General Thant.

"If they do that we are prepared to sign an unexpected treaty tomorrow," he declared.

He noted, however, that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin had told the United Nations recently the Russians would not disclose their information because of the "state of international tension."

Adlai U. N. Prestige May Suffer

There were apparently authoritative critical articles written about Chester Bowles a year ago before the President accepted his resignation as undersecretary of state and reassigned him to the special White House advisory role on foreign policy. Criticism also appeared about the work of Fowler Hamilton prior to his recent resignation as director of the Foreign Aid Administration.

Reports that the President did not get on well with West German Ambassador Wilhelm Grewe came out in advance of the disclosure that Grewe was being recalled some months ago.

Against this background Washington newsmen and officials immediately saw a potential significance in the publication of a report that Stevenson was a dissembler on the first and most important administration decision for meeting the Soviet challenge in Cuba.

The White House denial and Stevenson's own declaration that he supported the blockade measure have only partially succeeded in dealing with the issues.

These officials seem to have no doubt that Bartlett and Alsop obtained their information on the various opinions expressed in secret meetings of the NSC executive committee from persons the newspaper considered to be fully competent and highly authoritative informants.

This generally accepted view of the authoritative nature of the sources for the article has raised speculation Stevenson was being subjected to the same kind of treatment as other officials have experienced.

Architects Appointed for Church Facilities

BIRMINGHAM — The Congregational Church of Birmingham has announced the appointment of O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach Associates as architects to plan its new church facilities.

Selection of a building site is now under way and construction is scheduled to begin in 1964.

A successful fund crusade this year made possible the proposed 325-seat church building and church school which will cost approximately $550,000, church officials said today.

The Birmingham architectural firm contracted to build the church has designed many others, including St. John's Episcopal Church in Royal Oak, St. James Chapel and Sunday school in Birmingham and St. Sarkis Armenian Apostolic Church in Dearborn. The firm is also the architect of the Oakland County Court House in Pontiac, the Pontiac Public Library, the Edsel and Henry Ford Auditorium in Detroit and many schools and hospitals throughout the area.

The State Municipal Finance Commission has approved the issuance of $2,415,000 in bonds for the Birmingham School District.

Community council members seeking signatures reported generally favorable reaction from citizens contacted. Most expressed interest in learning the results of the incorporation report.

A minimum of 471 names was required for filing the petition. This represents one per cent of the township population according to 1960 census figures.

Waterford Township's clerk will be notified of the appropriate election procedure by the Board of Supervisors.

Waterford Township's Board of Education may reach a decision tonight on filling the superintendent's job, schools position vacated Aug. 18 by William Shunk.

The board's personnel committee will present a recommended contract for consideration of the full board at the 7:30 p.m. special meeting.

Members of the personnel committee made their selection from some 20 candidates interviewed for the top administrative post.

The identity of the proposed superintendent has not been disclosed. James DenHerder, former assistant to the superintendent, became acting superintendent when Shunk assumed duties as head of Wayne County schools.

Cooney's motion for a mistrial following the charge to the jury was denied by Judge Beer. Cooney claimed the jury erred in its instructions to the jury on constitutional law.

Smog Blanket Grips London

Health Officials Warn of Potential Dangers

From Our News Wires
LONDON — A dense blanket of sulphurous yellow smog gripped the British capital for the second day today, raising a threat to health and making thousands late for work.

Metropolitan police said at least 32 deaths had been reported since midnight Monday, most of them due to smog. The normal death rate for the 700-square mile area is six to eight.

As commuter trains crawled toward the heart of the city, health authorities warned that babies and old people should be kept at home.

"The situation is potentially serious," said a spokesman for the Medical Research Council. "Smog particularly affects the very young, the very old and people with weak hearts or chests."

London's last great exposure to smog was in 1957 when 1,000 people died from chest and heart ailments during a three-day sleep.

Ten years ago the toll from an eight-day smog was at least 4,000, and by some estimates 12,000.

The capital's great airport was still idle after some 30 hours of inactivity. Shipping was tied up on the River Thames and cars were abandoned across the whole metropolitan area. Rail schedules had been discarded.

Fog blanketed much of the rest of England and spread into the south of Scotland.

Dropped From Roof of 14-Story Building

NEW YORK (AP)—A 9-year-old girl was raped and flung to her death Tuesday from the roof of a tall apartment house in Brooklyn as police were en route there to check a report that another child had been molested half an hour earlier.

The dead girl, Lourdes Blass, had been home for lunch and had started back to parochial school just 10 minutes before her death plunge.

Mrs. Mattie Arnold, a tenant, happened to be looking out a window when a blurred form flashed by, followed immediately by a crash.

In the courtyard below, Mrs. Arnold and other residents found the girl's body, nude except for shoes and socks.

Loures' clothing was found in a heap in a stairwell just below the roof.

SURVIVED BY 8
She lived in a city housing project, Farragut Houses, in the Brooklyn Navy Yard section, with her father, Carlos, a porter; her mother, Margaret, and six brothers and sisters.

They shared an eighth-floor apartment, six floors below the roof.

Scuffed gravel near the roof parapet indicated she had put up a struggle.

"It is not likely that the child jumped," police said. "We are assuming this is a homicide."

White, Negro and Puerto Rican residents of the 10-building, 1,400-family housing project had complained previously of women and children being molested and had pleaded for more police protection.

Detectives had been sent to investigate a report that another child had been molested.

Katanga City Taken, Says Congo Official

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The central Congolese government today claimed capture of the north Katanga town of Katanga, where about 1,500 gendarmes loyal to Katanga President Moise Tshombe had been holding out since February.

Gen. Joseph Mobutu announced his central army troops penetrated the town last Friday and that it is now under his control. But diplomatic circles here thought it likely the Katangans still held the section on the east bank of the Katanga river.

Two spans of a 500-yard road and rail bridge linking the two parts of the town have been blown into the river, and it was believed the Leopoldville troops controlled only the main part of Katanga and the airfield of the west bank.

Kongolo, scene of the massacre of 19 Roman Catholic priests and two other Europeans by drunken central army soldiers in January, was recaptured a month later by Katanga armed forces.

Capture of Katanga could help to bolster Premier Cyrille Adoula's Leopoldville regime in the face of strong parliamentary opposition attacks.

Adoula owes much of his power to support from the army, which has needed a victory to raise morale.

Pope Tells Crowd He's Getting Well

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII appeared in his apartment window today and told a crowd of bishops and Romans in St. Peter's Square that he is getting well.

It was the 81-year-old pontiff's second public appearance since he was confined to bed eight days ago by a stomach ailment and anemia.

The Pope stood in his open window for almost seven minutes at noon to give his benediction to the crowd below—a substitute for his regular Wednesday general audience which his illness had forced him to cancel last week and again today.

BERNARD TRESNOWSKI

Researcher Fills Hospital Post Here

A 30-year-old research associate at the University of Michigan has been named assistant administrator of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, it was announced today.

Appointed to the newly created position was Bernard R. Tresnowski.

Until he assumed his new duties this week he had been affiliated with the Bureau of Hospital Administration of the U. of M. Graduate School of Business Administration.

His superior at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital will be Sister Mary Xavier, administrator.

A native of East Chicago, Ind., Tresnowski, prior to his work at the University of Michigan, had been assistant director of the Albert Einstein Medical Center in Philadelphia from 1958 through 1961.

A graduate of U. of M. with a bachelor of science degree, Tresnowski received his masters degree from the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Public Health.

He is a nominee of the American College of Hospital Administration and a member of the American Public Health Association and the American Hospital Association.

Tresnowski, his wife Beverly, and their four children live at 303 Ellice Drive, Bloomfield Township.

Jury Eyes Future of Urban Renewal

As a result, the project, already held in abeyance for several months pending the outcome of the hearings, probably will face an even longer wait regardless of the decision.

The jury began deliberations after hearing instructions from Judge Beer that, while they were the judges of the law and the judges of a condemnation hearing, this did not include passing on the constitutionality of the urban renewal law.

Cooney's motion for a mistrial following the charge to the jury was denied by Judge Beer. Cooney claimed the jury erred in its instructions to the jury on constitutional law.

Ewart said that two witnesses claimed Walker "without warning and in a violent rage, struck Lt. Hanger on the nose and continued to throw blows at him."

Other witnesses, he added, stated that Walker was belligerent and had threatened Hanger at the scene of the arrest as well as in the station.

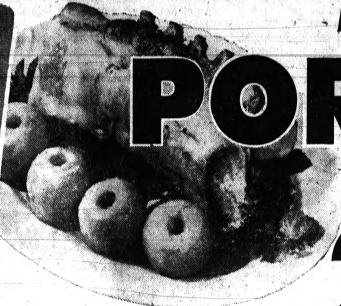

Yellowstone Park has about 100 geysers and about 300 nonperpetual hot springs as well.
