

End Seen to Guatemala War

Bank Robbers May Have Fled Via Motorboat

Canada, U.S. Police Scour River Following Trenton Area Holdup

DETROIT (AP)—A pair of masked gunmen, escaping with $11,460 from a suburban branch bank, were believed to have fled to Canada in a motorboat.

A witness told suburban Trenton police two men were seen running to a small outboard motorboat yesterday a short time after the holdup of the West Road branch of the Trenton State Bank.

A description of the boatmen matched that of the gunmen, police said.

Police were led to believe the gunmen had taken to the Detroit River in their flight when a car was found near where the boat was launched. The car, police said, had been stolen from a used car dealer's lot three days before the bank holdup. It was identified as the car this pair used when they fled.

The bank is located about a quarter mile from the Detroit River. A boat trip to the Canadian shore some three miles distant would include a detour around the nine-mile length of Gross Ile, located in mid-stream.

Canadian and Detroit police boats scoured the area but found no trace of the men. A police helicopter also was unsuccessful in the hunt.

Police then theorized the men might have crossed the river to Canada.

Bank manager Fred W. Pluskat said two men entered the bank shortly after its 10 a.m. opening.

The gunmen bound Pluskat and two women tellers with lengths of clothesline, after forcing the branch manager to open the safe.

Pluskat called police after freeing himself minutes after the gunmen had fled.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—The toughest aspect of the Guatemalan war is getting there, as the invaders found. I traveled as they did—25 miles by mule and on foot from the Honduran border village of Nuova Ocotepique to Esequipulas.

It was a reputedly 6 to 8 hours trip but it took me 13 hours.

A lean desperado in a battered straw sombrero agreed to supply himself as guide and two mules for $15.

But he turned up with only one mule and the statement that not for $1,000 would he go farther than the border, as he feared for his life in Guatemala.

So we started up the boulder path leading to the mountains with Enrique, the guide, trotting ahead. I, on the mule, followed. It was a brilliant, hot morning and at first the adventure had charms with the mule scattering clouds of vivid yellow butterflies. Even more brilliant yellow tropical birds flashed across the path.

Rio Grande River Overflows Banks

MEXICAN TOWN HIT—Mexicans at Ciudad Acuna evacuate foodstuffs and personal belongings to higher ground to escape floodwaters from the Rio Grande that have overrun their city. A portion of the city with water in the streets is shown above.

Thousands Flee Flood

LAREDO, Tex. (AP)—Police in this border city hurriedly evacuated residents of low areas today in the face of the Rio Grande's greatest flood.

Police said an expected 40-foot crest would send flood waters boiling into the business section of this city of nearly 52,000.

Across the steadily rising rampaging boundary river the twin Mexican city of Nuevo Laredo abandoned attempts to sandbag the levee. Workmen started moving everything possible, including the population, to higher ground.

Police expected the waters to envelope the already closed International Bridge at any moment. Thousands of people on both sides of the U.S.-Mexico boundary fled to the hills. Nearly 100 miles north of the Rio Grande, in the rich oil-and-cattle country of far west Texas, 14 persons were believed dead after flash floods swept through Ozona.

The Red Cross reported at 5 a.m. that six persons were confirmed dead and nine were missing. This varied slightly from other figures.

Flood stages 5 to 15 feet higher than ever before were expected in the border cities today. But an International Boundary and Water Commission (IBWC) spokesman, after a plane flight over the river, said:

"How much the river will rise after this crest passes is anybody's guess."

The IBWC had lost contact with its gauging points north of Langtry, some 60 miles upstream from Del Rio.

Back of the picturesque border river's churning, debris-laden crest were shattered bridges, flooded towns and washed-out railroads and highways. Thousands were forced from their homes, but—except for tragedy-ridden Ozona—there had been no loss of life reported.

River-wise city folks quickly evacuated their homes. Farmers had been warned and joined the thousands in the Mexican hills. Much of the Mexican side of the river is lower than the U.S. side. The rains, some up to 22 inches were spawned by last week's Hurricane Alice, which lashed the Texas-Mexican Gulf Coast for 12 hours last Friday.

Ahead of the rushing floodwaters lay the great international Falcon Dam, dedicated less than a year ago by the presidents of the United States and Mexico. It was expected to keep the damaging floodwaters from the lush vegetable and citrus-growing lower Rio Grande Valley and its big population.

For the lower valley, the great flood was a blessing. Beyond Falcon Dam, the river has been virtually dry. Now the flood will be used in future months to slacken the mammoth thirst of the orange and grapefruit groves, the vegetable farms and cotton-growing areas.

At least half of Ciudad Acuna, across the river from Del Rio, Tex., was under water. Some 15,000 people huddled in the Tamulipas Hills. Water, medical supplies, food and clothing were being flown in by the American Red Cross. The privately owned International Toll Bridge was swept away between Ciudad Acuna and Del Rio.

Fifty-five miles south of Del Rio, between Piedras Negras and Eagle Pass, the raging flood beat the city owned International Bridge to kindling about 9 p.m. last night. Eagle Pass' only hospital was isolated by the swift-moving flood waters and could be reached only by boat.

Both the United States and Mexico hurriedly marshaled forces to combat the mad waters. The U.S. 4th Army flew field kitchens, cots, blankets and clothing to flood-harried towns.

Large numbers of motorists were seen stranded along U. S. 90, the inundated highway which parallels the Rio Grande for miles along the border. At Del Rio, water was in the business district and Highway 90 was the only route open.

Eclipse of Sun to Begin at 5:10 A.M. Wednesday

Tomorrow's near-total eclipse of the sun here will begin at 5:10 a. m. and end at 7 a. m., according to Dr. Orren C. Mohler, assistant director of the McMath-Hulbert Observatory.

Mid-eclipse will occur at 6:30, Pontiac time, Dr. Mohler said. Partly cloudy skies are forecast.

"We'll need a very clear horizon to see the start which will occur just 15 minutes after sunrise," the astronomer stated.

He warned watchers to use a smoked glass or some other suitable light-cutting instrument when looking directly at the sun to avoid hurting the eyes. "The sun can be a very dangerous object when viewed with the naked eye," Dr. Mohler explained.

Don't use ordinary sun glasses, but the heavily smoked glass, welder's glasses, or strongly exposed photographic film.

"The eclipse will begin on the top side of the sun looking toward the horizon," he said. At the peak 87 per cent of the sun will be covered, Dr. Mohler added.

According to University of Michigan experts, there are many legends connected with eclipses. Two of them are:

Eskimos believe that household utensils should be turned upside down so they won't catch the "unclean essence" which falls during the eclipse.

The Chinese have thought that people should make all the noise (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Ike, Churchill United on Two Policy Issues

Chiefs Agree to Press EDC, Defense of Asia as Conference Ends

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill end their historic unity conference today in evident determination to avert a breakdown of British-American cooperation despite persistent disagreement on major Communist issues.

The two leaders scheduled the last of a series of meetings stretching over five days. A statement of "basic principles" was promised for shortly thereafter.

Then the 79-year-old Churchill takes off for a brief visit to Ottawa, Canada, on his way home to London.

He leaves behind a ringing appeal for a "real good try" at living peacefully with Soviet Russia.

Two accomplishments of the talks were set out yesterday in a joint statement by the American and British leaders.

"They agreed to 'press forward' plans for a collective defense against communism in Southeast Asia whether the Indochina war is settled or whether it goes on. And they agreed that the projected European Defense Community provides the best means for rearming West Germany, while telling France other means of doing this will be considered if French approval of EDC is not given promptly.

Churchill then replied to questions at a press luncheon attended by more than 200 newsmen and British and American officials and diplomats.

Some who heard him gained the impression that one of his motives in coming to the United States now was to deliver a plea for an all-out attempt at getting along with the Russians, as an alternative to what he termed the "doom-laden" condition of the world today.

It is no secret that many Britons fear U.S. policy toward the Soviet Union and Red China has become too rigid.

Churchill's appeal was built on the idea of establishing more contacts with the Russian people and on the faith that their interest in better living conditions would operate as a restraint on the policies of the Soviet government.

"I would like to make quite sure," he declared, "that the Russian people would not feel that they might gain far more by a quarter of a century of peaceful development in their own country than they would by pressing matters to a point where we should all be led to a situation which baffles human imagination in its terror but which, I am quite sure, would leave us victorious—but victorious on a heap of ruins."

He made clear repeatedly that in his opinion the basis of any effective policy by the Western Powers toward Russia must be the unity of the United States and Britain. He emphasized, as Foreign Secretary Eden had done a week earlier, Britain's interest in having a nonaggression guarantee for Southeast Asia.

City May Expect 90 Degree Heat, Thundershowers

Partly cloudy skies tonight, and scattered thundershowers along with a high from 88 to 92 Wednesday, is the weather prospect for the Pontiac area, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau.

A low tonight of from 60 to 64 is forecast. Although warmer weather is due tomorrow, a five-day forecast states that temperatures will average from 1 to 3 degrees below normal.

The mercury is expected to dip into cooler regions around Thursday and Friday, but rise again in time for the weekend. Showers are expected tomorrow and possibly Thursday.

Tuesday's temperatures ranged from a low of 55 to a high of 81 degrees in the area. At 8 a.m. today the mercury registered 70, but by 1 p.m. in downtown Pontiac the reading was 87 degrees.

Auto Accident Kills Mother

Widow's Car Hit Tree, Overturned Last Night on Haggerty Road

A Farmington widow and mother of two children died on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital Monday night after her car hit a tree and overturned on Haggerty road south of Maple road.

Mrs. Susan McClenaghan, 38, of 30785 Grand River, a secretary for a Farmington attorney, suffered a skull fracture according to hospital authorities.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy, Leonard Nelson, said Mrs. McClenaghan apparently lost control of the auto before it struck the tree and overturned.

The woman was identified by her mother, Mrs. William Sutton, 62, of 22810 Power, Farmington. Mrs. Sutton said her daughter and two children, James, 15, and Sheilah, 8, came here from Huntington, W. Va., about two months ago.

She will be taken to the Thayer Funeral Home in Farmington.

Col. Diaz Quits, Second Junta Ready to Deal

Events Moving So Fast That All Is Confusion in Capital City

(From AP & INS Dispatches) TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — The one-day-old Guatemalan regime of Col. Carlos Enrique Diaz resigned today and was replaced by a new junta ready "to deal" with the anti-Communist liberation army.

The move seemed to foreshadow an early end to the civil war.

An official Guatemala City radio announcement told of the fall of the military junta under Diaz when Diaz and Col. Jose Angel Sanchez resigned from the three-man body.

The announcement came after Col. Castillo Armas, leader of the anti-Communist rebels in the Guatemalan war, demanded "unconditional surrender" of the junta headed by Enrique Diaz.

It said Alfred H. Monzon, who was the third member of the junta headed by Enrique Diaz, now heads the new ruling group. The other two were listed as Jose Luis Salazar and Maurice Dubois.

The rebels under Castillo Armas had threatened to keep up their fight against the regime headed by Diaz. The Guatemalan radio said yesterday afternoon rebel planes had bombed Guatemala City, the capital. Then the station went off the air. A communique from the rebel headquarters made no mention of the bombing.

Diaz, former army chief of staff, took over Sunday night after the army-forced resignation of left-wing President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman. The new military regime promptly outlawed the Communist party, but this failed to placate the anti-Red rebels driving toward the capital from the Honduras border.

Associated Press Correspondent Jack Rutledge, in a dispatch from Guatemala City delayed 15 hours by censorship, reported that the junta had started a roundup yesterday of Communists. He said two Red members of Parliament had taken refuge in the Mexican Embassy.

He said among the first acts of the new military regime had been a shift in the top police command, with Jose Luis Morales Melgar named to succeed Rogelio Cruz Wer as chief of the civil police and J. Antonio Saravia supplanting Jaime Rosenberg as secret police chief.

Arbenz, Rutledge said, was confined under heavy guard yesterday to his private residence in the suburbs of Guatemala City, with an armored car stationed in front. However, the Guatemalan government radio in a broadcast last yesterday said the ex-President was flying to exile in Argentina.

The Argentine government announced in Buenos Aires last night that Arbenz's wife and two children had been given asylum in its Guatemala City embassy.

Rutledge messaged that developments in the capital yesterday were "so rapid that general confusion reigns." He said censorship, lifted Sunday night after Arbenz's resignation, had been clamped back on tight, "due mainly to the confusion."

Flint Gunman Terrorizes Neighborhood, Wounds 3

FLINT (AP)—Michigan's light heavyweight Golden Gloves champion was held today in a wild, one-man shooting spree in which three persons were wounded and a dozen endangered last night on a Flint street.

The boxer is Henry Williams, 18, who won the 1954 Golden Gloves crown at Grand Rapids. He was knocked out in the midwest finals at Chicago.

Police said he complained of headaches. He was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to murder.

Police estimated the gunman fired up to 30 shots from a 17-shot .22 caliber automatic rifle. Pedestrians and people in doorways were particular targets.

Williams, police said, emerged from his northern Flint home about 9 p.m. with the rifle and walked for North and Lee streets, where the shooting started.

Sammy Lee Cannon, 2, was grazed on the left cheek while standing beside his mother in front of a grocery store. Mrs. Gertrude

Restainer, who had stopped his station wagon at a traffic light, sped away as the rifleman (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Owners of Property Along East Maple Threaten Suit If City Refuses to Rezone

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — The threat of a law suit faced this city today after an attorney for several property owners warned last night that his clients might sue if the city refused to change zoning restrictions on their property.

Because of the long-time zoning dispute, attorney John Martz told the City Commission his clients will take legal steps to have their lots, which are on either side of the city property fronting on Maple — between Coolidge and St. Andrews — rezoned from single-family residence to business.

Action was postponed by the Commission until the opinion of City Attorney Forbes Hascall is obtained on whether the city has the legal right to restrict six city-owned lots to single-family residence zoning at the August 3 election.

The lots are back to back, three facing Maple and three Yorkshire, in the block bounded by Coolidge, Maple, St. Andrews and Yorkshire. Originally acquired by the city as a park site, the land may be sold only by public consent. A builder has stated he is prepared to purchase the property for residential purposes.

At the meeting, City Manager Donald C. Egbert stood by his conviction that the city lots should be sold for residential purposes and wanted the restriction included in the sale proposal.

Martz said his clients felt this was short-sighted and added that they intended to build up their own properties as business, even if it involved a law suit.

For the past several years, the Commission has turned down petitions requesting that property between Coolidge and St. Andrews on Maple be zoned for business. In other action, commissioners gave final approval to the open parking station licensing ordinance after making several revisions.

The ordinance governs operation of off-street parking lots. Clarence Brienman, local attorney was re-appointed to the Zoning Board of Appeals for a three-year term.

A former Cranbrook student and a Cranbrook Academy associate have received awards in competitions for playground sculpture sponsored by the Museum of Modern Art, Creative Playthings, Inc., and Parents Magazine.

Honorable mention went to John Pearl, a former student, for her multi-tunnel play sculpture. Miss Te Yun Chu, an associate, received a citation for a model of a child's playhouse.

Although the campaign has officially ended, funds are still being collected for Junior Achievement. Herbert H. Gardner, drive chairman, said this week.

The group's original goal was $8,000, and to date the total stands at $6,000, Gardner said.

It was hoped to increase the number of JA companies from 8 to 10 next year, but Gardner said the number will probably remain the same, with the same sponsors.

Under JA, stocks are bought by young people at the start of the school year and companies formed. At the close of school in June, losses or profits are declared from the sale of products that have been made and sold by the enterprisers.

Building permits thus far this year are slowly edging up to last year's total. With 87 permits issued last month the 1954 total stands at 249, as against 284 through May of 1953.

Of those issued in May, 35 were for single family residences and 23 for private garages. There were 18 for single-family residence alterations and two for new businesses.

Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley is attending the Michigan Assn. Chiefs of Police conference in Traverse City, which began last week end and ends tomorrow.

A neutral density filter 4.0 is recommended. It can also be made. Burn matches under a piece of glass, smothering it until sunlight can barely penetrate. Or use greatly over-exposed camera film.

Color film requires a filter and an exposure of 1/100th second at a lens opening of f-8. With a black-and-white slow film, a speed of 1/100 at f-16 is recommended.

With a fast film, close down another stop or shoot at 1/200th.

A tripod will permit multiple exposures on the same negative. Take exposures every five minutes, watching the sun's direction to see when it is necessary to change to another negative.

Condition Is Improved

Doctors Concerned About Truman's Drug Reaction

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman's condition was listed today as improved although doctors still indicated concern over his reaction to drugs.

The former President's recovery from an emergency appendix and gall bladder operation June 20 has been hampered by his hypersensitivity to antibiotic drugs needed in the treatment. His condition still was serious and he showed fatigue, Research Hospital reported.

A hospital spokesman said last night that there was general agreement among Dr. Wallace Graham, Truman's physician, and other doctors assisting in the case "that his condition is quite unusual and requires special bacteriological studies and treatment."

Two specialists in antibiotics have helped as consultants. They are Dr. Alan Wright and Dr. Frederick C. Fink of Brooklyn, N.Y. They are with Charles Pfizer & Co., a pharmaceutical research firm.

Dr. Fink was understood to have returned to New York with specimens for laboratory study in an effort to determine what drugs could be used safely in fighting infections.

The hospital's report last night said Truman had slept most of the day and that "his chemical and physiological balance has been kept within normal limits."

He was able to take soft and liquid foods, such as eggs, gelatin and broth. His temperature fluctuated during the day between 99.1 and 100 degrees.

Yesterday, Truman's 55th wedding anniversary a cake was prepared by the hospital. Mrs. Truman visited her husband and said he seemed to be in good spirits and more alert.

The United States has been cold to Eden's proposal from the start. No mention of it was made in yesterday's joint statement by President Eisenhower and Sir Winston Churchill on their talks aimed at settling U. S.-British Far East differences.

The committee amendment applies specifically to funds earmarked in the bill for Indochina. These amount to about $1,300,000.

The amendment bars use of the money "on behalf of governments which are committed by treaty to maintain Communist rule over any defined territory of Asia."

The amendment bars use of the money "on behalf of governments which are committed by treaty to maintain Communist rule over any defined territory of Asia."

Rep. John M. Vorys (R-O) said the State Department told the committee it had "no opposition" to the amendment.

The United States has been cold to Eden's proposal from the start. No mention of it was made in yesterday's joint statement by President Eisenhower and Sir Winston Churchill on their talks aimed at settling U. S.-British Far East differences.

The committee amendment applies specifically to funds earmarked in the bill for Indochina. These amount to about $1,300,000.

$200,000 Suit Goes to Jury

Judge Holland Tells Panel of 4 Verdicts on Bleacher Collapse

A $200,000 damage suit against Birmingham School District and a Detroit bleacher company ended today with a 90-minute charge by Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland to the jury of 10 women and two men.

Dr. Maurice Richards, a Royal Oak dentist, is seeking the damages for disabling injuries to his leg received when bleachers collapsed at a high school football game in 1948.

Judge Holland told the jurors they had four verdicts to choose from: negligence on the part of the school district; negligence on the part of the bleacher company; negligence against both or no cause for action against both.

It was the duty of the firm, Atlas Bleacher Co., to provide bleachers properly designed and constructed and to give notice of any known defect, the judge said in his charge.

He pointed out that the company could not be held liable if the bleachers collapsed because of faulty erection and that a verdict of no cause for action should be returned if the company carried out its obligations.

The school district has been charged with faulty erection, inspection and supervision. No supports were placed under the bleachers' frames to keep them from sinking into the ground, the plaintiff charged.

"It was the legal duty of the school district to exercise care and precaution in erecting the bleachers," Judge Holland said, "and if the school district was negligent then the plaintiff may recover."

"It must be remembered that the school district has used the same type of bleachers for many years and there has been no evidence to indicate school officials had any knowledge that the bleachers were inherently unsafe or deficient in design."

"If in your opinion you think proper care was used in erecting the bleachers you must return a verdict of no cause for action against the school district."

Nearly $5,000,000 Left to Charity by Woman

CHICAGO (AP)—Nearly five million dollars was left to charity by Mrs. Mary F. Southwell Worcester, 93, her will filed in Probate Court disclosed yesterday.

Mrs. Worcester, who died June 20, was survived by her husband, Charles H., retired president and treasurer of the Munising Paper Co.

The path was even more difficult here than on the Honduras side, at first we took off our boots to cross swollen rivers but later we did not bother—we were soaked anyway. We inspected empty huts abandoned by government troops.

We interviewed peasants about their politics. And time marched on faster than we.

After dark there was no more path—just a river in spate up which we plunged, our way dimly lit by two inadequate flashlights.

Across our first broad river was a precarious, slatted wood bridge, strung on wires, which I crossed dizzily while Enrique rode, swimming the mule.

The worst moment was awaiting him on the other side and wondering if he would turn the mule homeward. I had foolishly paid in advance. But after 15 minutes he appeared round the bend.

Hour after hour the going got tougher. I clung to the pommel of the high Mexican saddle as the mule slithered down precipices or struggled up sheer, white soapstone cliffs.

What path there was mostly in riverbeds, dry or wet. Even the mule balked at perpendicular rocky descents, so I dismounted. Enrique, the mule and I slid down on our seats.

Enrique urged me to use the single spur which he had attached to my borrowed American army boots, but I had a certain fellow-feeling for the mule and only pretended to dig in the spur when Enrique was looking.

About three miles from the border the mule gave up. We left him at a peasant's adobe hut and continued walking.

I missed my footing in the mud and plunged into the water, soaking myself and my baggage. My camera has been unusable ever since. Santivañ fell in, too, and lost his ammunition.

The night was hideous with raucous frogs, owls howling like abandoned dogs, and rushing waters.

The rain still lashed down. One broad river had a bridge, but it was another wire and slat structure tilted dangerously and broken in places.

Crossing this in the dark was jittery. I had only one hand to support myself—the other hand clutched my soaked baggage.

The last three miles were flat without precipices. But the path was a knee-deep, muddy river. It was even slower going.

Life's best moment was walking over the solid stone bridge into Esquipulas at 10 o'clock that night.

From Esquipulas I got a lift in a truck to Chiquimula, now headquarters of the rebels.

Chiquimula is a sprawling mountain town of white, pink and purple-washed, red-roofed houses. Now it is milling with picturesque, unwashed soldiery. When it is not raining, the central plaza looks like a fiesta, with crowds strolling beside a bright, tropical flower bed.

Papagos of Greece Visits West German Chancellor

By CHARLES M. McCANN

United Press Staff Correspondent
Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, premier of Greece, is taking another step in building up his ancient little country's importance in the Western alignment against Communist aggression.

He is to arrive in Bonn Wednesday for a six-day state visit to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

On the program for discussion will be closer political and economic cooperation between Greece and West Germany, and also military cooperation when Germany enters the Western defense set-up.

No world-shaking decisions are to be expected from the talks. But they will emphasize what Papagos has done to increase the prestige of Greece, which only a few years ago was in chaos.

Papagos is decidedly not a man of peace. He has been a hero in two wars and in Greek politics he is often than not embroiled in some sort of dissension.

Four Leading Generals Resign—King's Aide Hostile to Papagos Also Quits . . . Economic

Chief Resigns . . . Papagos Displaces Eight Cabinet Ministers.
Headlines like those come often out of Athens.

But Papagos is helping materially to build up the allied strength against communism and thus to strengthen the chance of peace.

He has entered an alliance with Turkey and Yugoslavia, once enemies of Greece. The pact with Yugoslavia was entered into despite the fact that it is a Communist country and that Papagos is one of the bitterest of anti-Communists.

The so-called Balkan Pact has had the effect of bringing Yugoslavia into active if indirect cooperation with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Greece and Turkey are members of NATO but Yugoslavia is not.

Papagos' state visit to West Germany is a return for the visit Adenauer paid to Greece last March. It is one of the few such visits Papagos has made. He is primarily a soldier, and at 70 he retains his military figure and vigor.

Papagos is six feet one inch tall, slim, with a neatly clipped mustache, with the reserve of a professional military man.

Twice he has been acclaimed a national hero. The first time was when Mussolini's vaunted "Seven Million Bayonets" invaded Greece in 1940.

To the amazement of the world, the little Greek army under Papagos sent the Fascists fleeing to the hills. Then came the German invasion.

That fight was hopeless. Papagos refused to leave after defeat and was kept in a series of Nazi concentration camps until American troops freed him.

Papagos came to the United States and returned to Greece in 1946. The Communist rebels were already becoming a menace. But it was not until 1949 that Papagos was asked to take the field against them. He routed them within a few months.

He entered politics for the first time in the 1952 election as head of the conservative party, and won by a landslide.

Union, Company Agree on Plans to Keep Operating

PORT HURON (AP)—Agreement has been reached on a program designed to keep 460 employees working at a nearby Marysville automotive parts plant.

Harold C. Davis, president of Local 689 CIO United Auto Workers, and John D. Leighton, executive vice president of Pressed Metals of America, Inc., made a joint announcement of the program yesterday.

Earlier, Davis had announced the local members had agreed to take a pay cut if it was necessary to keep the plant operating.

The program provides that the union agrees to withdraw strike action and settle 80 per cent of its grievances. These grievances have been under discussion since last January. The company also agrees to provide the local's bargaining committee with a complete contract of proposals which the firm feels are necessary for profitable operation.

Leighton advised the union last Friday that the company, manufacturers of automotive wheel suspensions and bushings, would be forced into liquidation unless a seven-point list of demands were met. The company recently lost Ford and General Motors contracts.

Making Check on Moth Spray

Traps Being Placed in Strategic Spots to See if May Job Worked

LANSING (AP)—The second phase of Michigan's intensive campaign to wipe out its infestation of gypsy moths was getting under way today.

Twenty-five part-time employees of the State Agriculture Department were placing traps over more than a million and a half acres surrounding Lansing.

The men, most of whom are high school biology teachers, will each be responsible for a territory of 100 square miles. Under supervision of state and federal experts, they will select locations for the placing of two traps per square mile.

Purpose of the program, which will last at least 60 days, is to determine if any gypsy moths survived the aerial spraying of 86,000 acres in the Lansing area early this month.

The larvae of the moths were found in Lansing in mid-May, the first occurrence of the devastating pest farther west than Pennsylvania.

The state "little Legislature" was called into emergency session to appropriate $150,000 for the spraying and the follow-up trapping program.

C. A. Boyer, agriculture department official in charge of the program, said that all the experts think the spraying knocked out the larvae before they entered the dormant stage.

Boyer also reported that summer campaigns against other plant pests are getting under way.

Sixteen part-time inspectors started to work yesterday in five southeastern counties to examine every elm tree in their territory for Dutch elm disease. Where it is found, the disease will be stamped out either by spraying or destruction of the diseased tree.

At the same time, other special workers were setting out 8,000 traps for Japanese beetle, a pest which has infected Southern Michigan for several years. The traps will be all located south of a line running through Grand Rapids and Flint.

Reps. Clifford Hope (R-Kan) and Harold Cooley (D-NC), will take to the nation's airways Wednesday night to answer charges made last night in a similar broadcast by Benson and Vice President Richard Nixon.

Nixon and Benson tore into the rigid, high price support program which the House Committee headed by Hope, voted to extend for one year.

The congressmen—the two most powerful farm spokesmen in the House—will tell the public why they believe a one-year continuation of 90 per cent of parity price supports on the six basic commodities is in the best interest of the nation.

Hope is slated also to tell part of his story Wednesday afternoon on another nationwide show, Benson will be guest of the same program today.

This action of a Republican committee chairman and the ranking Democrat on his committee getting equal time on the air to answer farm statements by a Republican vice president and a Republican secretary of agriculture is clear indication that the nationwide farm hassle knows no political lines.

It is undoubtedly true that more Democrats than Republicans favor the continued high price supports initiated by Democratic administrations.

At the same time, however, the Eisenhower proposals have been pushed aside in favor of continued 90 per cent supports by Republican dominated agriculture committees in both houses.

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Agricultural Marketing Service reports that Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson's imposition of a 1955 acreage reduction for wheat was a major factor in strengthening grain markets last week.

Other important factors were small open market offerings, some unfavorable quality reports concerning the Kansas crop, and reports of stem rust infection in the spring wheat area.

Benson said wheat acreage must be cut from 62 million acres this year to 55 million next year.
