U.S. Court Handed Petition for T-H Strike Injunction

Lindemer's Scalp Reported Asked by Summerfield

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit News said today that Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has demanded the dropping of Lawrence B. Lindemer as Michigan Republican chairman but has run into strong opposition from Henry Ford II and others of the GOP liberal bloc.

Will Muller, News political writer, said in a copyrighted story that Don E. Ahrens, state Republican finance director, was to deliver Summerfield's "terms for peace in the Michigan party" to Paul D. Bagwell today.

ARTHUR SUMMERFIELD

LAWRENCE B. LINDEMER

As a price for Lindemer's political scalp, the News said, Summerfield promised he would not be a candidate for any elective office in 1960, would not attempt to head the state's delegation to the 1960 GOP National Convention, and would not insist on naming any to the state Republican ticket next year.

Bagwell, defeated GOP candidate for governor in 1958, is titular head of the Republican Party in Michigan. Lindemer was named chairman with his blessings.

Summerfield is a former Michigan GOP national committeeman and headed the state's delegation to the 1952 convention that named Dwight D. Eisenhower as a candidate for President.

★ ★ ★

The News story said in part:

"Young Ford, an enthusiastic supporter of Gen. Eisenhower before he was nominated, has called Bagwell on the telephone and urged him to scorn the Cabinet officer's demand (for the dumping of Lindemer).

"It was learned that Ford, in addition, has promised to help Bagwell if the party money raisers try to starve him financially in a second try for the governorship, in retaliation for his keeping Lindemer.

HUDDLE CLAIMED

"The Detroit News learned today about a small huddle of Republican money raisers and contributors Summerfield arranged at the Detroit Club last Thursday morning.

"It was intended originally as both a 'dump Lindemer' and a 'dump Bagwell' meeting.

"After Summerfield clashed with Henry Ford II, he did not push his attack on Bagwell."

Besides Ford and Summerfield, those reported at the meeting were Ernest R. Breech, Ford Motor Co. chairman; John S. Bugas, a Ford Motor Co. vice president; Ernest Kanzler, former Ford vice president and chairman of the Wayne County Republican Finance Committee, Ahrens; a former General Motors vice president; James McEvoy Jr., lawyer and salaried director of the GOP Finance Committee, and Joseph M. Dodge, chairman of the Detroit Bank & Trust Co.

The News' story also said:

"The Postmaster General's plans for Michigan's Republican ticket in 1960 include State Sen. Carlton H. Morris of Kalamazoo, for governor, and Army Secretary (Wilber) Brucker, of Detroit for Senator, if a publicity man paid by the Summerfield segment of the party is worth his $15,000 salary.

★ ★ ★

"Frank Morris, of Detroit, launched these names this week in a column he writes 'for free' for Michigan weekly newspapers.

"Morris also said that Summerfield is after the scalps of National Committeeman John B. Martin of Grand Rapids and John Feikens, Detroit lawyer and former GOP state chairman."

Morris has been a spokesman for the Senate Republican majority in the state Legislature in the duel with Gov. G. Mennen Williams and other Democrats over taxes.

Bagwell's office at Michigan State University, where he is a faculty member, said only he was en route to the Detroit Club for a luncheon date.

Others mentioned in the News' story were not immediately available for comment.

Midwest Snubs Rockefeller Bid

Gov. Stratton of Illinois Says He Will Remain Neutral for Now

CHICAGO (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York appears to be waging an uphill battle today in his bid for midwestern support for the Republican presidential nomination.

He slammed into a wall of public indifference on his arrival here Monday for a two-day visit designed to test his chances of gaining support to challenge Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the GOP nomination.

The Midwest is considered a Nixon stronghold.

★ ★ ★

No organized support for the New York governor was apparent during the early stages of his Chicago visit. Nor were there any crowds interested in seeing the multi-millionaire governor who has been widely mentioned as a possible future president.

Illinois Gov. William G. Stratton, a Republican, met with Rockefeller but said he would remain neutral for the present in the Nixon-Rockefeller contest.

Rockefeller lined up meetings today with other midwest political leaders and businessmen.

The governor's schedule was designed for maximum publicity and political value.

★ ★ ★

But Midwest newspapermen who expected a sample of the famed Rockefeller personality were surprised when he turned somewhat testy during a news conference.

He complained several times he was finding it "tiresome" to be constantly subjected to questioning about the possibility he might run for the GOP nomination.

But he declined to eliminate himself as a potential candidate and said he still was in the process of making up his mind. He expects to make a formal announcement early next year based on the reaction he receives to public appearances and policy statements he plans in various parts of the country.

★ ★ ★

Rockefeller told his news conference that he was confident that any Republican candidate who conducted a forthright and courageous campaign would win the presidency next year. He said he "expected" Nixon would conduct such a campaign but Rockefeller declined to make an unqualified prediction the vice president would win if nominated.

Foot Dragging Hit as Reason Medaris Quit

Von Braun Assails U.S. Missile Program as Bogged in Indecision

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rocket expert Wernher von Braun said today that Maj. Gen. John Medaris resigned as head of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency (ABMA) because he was discouraged with "foot dragging" in the U. S. space program.

Von Braun himself assailed what he called indecision by "someone in Washington" and said there must be a long range program "if we don't mean to abandon the heavens to the Reds."

★ ★ ★

He said Medaris wanted to "pitch in and help" this country catch Russia in the space race, but was not given any "challenging task."

Medaris, 57, announced last night that he is retiring as head of the Army Ordnance Missile Command effective Jan. 31, three years before mandatory retirement age. He did not reveal his future plans after 38 years of military service.

Von Braun said he had no intention of quitting the agency at this time, but that he might get out and go into private industry unless the Army team is given important work to do.

★ ★ ★

He told a news conference that he, Medaris and others at the ABMA in Huntsville, Ala., want a "crash" program to develop the 1,500,000-pound thrust Saturn rocket needed to match the heavy loads Russia has boosted into space.

But he said the government has not thrown extra money into this project.

Von Braun said it was "quite possible" that the Soviets would have within two years a rocket which could put a "bus load of astronauts" into orbit around the earth.

NEED YEARS

It would take the United States four to five years to develop such a rocket under the present pro-

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Things were hopping yesterday at San Francisco International Airport. Twenty-six kangaroos arrived from Australia as gifts for the hometowns of 13 newsboys who visited Australia last year.

Overcast Skies Will Threaten Light Showers

Skies will be mostly cloudy tomorrow in the Pontiac area with a chance of light rain or showers. The high temperature will be 50 to 55.

The low tonight and tomorrow night will remain in the low 40s.

Northerly winds of eight miles an hour at 1:15 p.m. were expected to reach 10 to 20 miles an hour this afternoon. Small craft warnings are displayed.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 42 degrees. The reading at 2 p.m. was 60.

Detroit Bids for Hall of Fame

Knudsen Heads Group to Lure Pro Football Into Cobo Hall

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Louis Miriani proposed today establishment of a national football league hall of fame in Cobo Hall of Detroit's civic center.

The 35-million-dollar convention hall is scheduled to be completed next spring.

Miriani said his proposal was made in a letter to Austin H. Gunsel, acting NFL commissioner. The pro league, which will celebrate its 40th anniversary next year, has named a 12-member committee to study possible establishment of a hall of fame.

The mayor said he was aware that pro football originated in Latrobe, Pa., but said city officials there had shown "no interest in erecting a shrine for pro football." He added that Detroit stands ready "to activate a hall of fame which would be a credit to the league."

Miriani estimated a minimum of 11 million persons a year would visit Cobo Hall after it is opened. He pointed out Detroit has a 26-year record of pro football and that the first nationwide broadcast of a pro game originated here on Thanksgiving Day, 1934.

Semon Knudsen, general manager of General Motors' Pontiac Division, was named a co-chairman of the mayor's commission

Ike Aims to Get 500,000 Men Back to Work

Steel Union's Lawyer to Appeal; Meeting Is Set Tomorrow at 10

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The government today asked the U. S. District Court here to halt the 98-day nationwide steel strike with an injunction under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law.

The bulky petition was filed by U. S. Atty. Hubert Teitelbaum of Pittsburgh. It was brought here by George C. Doub, assistant attorney general who flew in from Washington.

James Wallace, chief clerk of the court, did not say what time a hearing would be held. However, Judge Herbert P. Sorg was reported standing by to preside.

President Eisenhower ordered the petition filed. It is aimed at getting a half - million striking United Steelworkers back on the job for 80 days.

United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald said the union's general counsel, Arthur J. Goldberg, will appear to appeal the government's petition.

APPEAL DUE

Goldberg said he will argue that the provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act which have been invoked are unconstitutional. He said he also will argue that the strike does not imperil the national health or safety within the meaning of the law.

McDonald said the union's decision-making 170-member Wage Policy Committee has been called to meet in Pittsburgh at 10 a.m. Wednesday. The union 33-member Executive Board already is in Pittsburgh.

McDonald said earlier that the union would fight the injunction

New Strike Legislation Seen Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two influential senators today predicted Congress may act on national emergency legislation if the steel strike is not settled by next January.

Sens. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, and Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY), spoke of the possibility.

Mansfield said in an interview that if steel workers go back on the job under an injunction and then walk out at the end of an 80-day cooling off period, Congress is almost certain to act quickly after it returns in January.

President Eisenhower Monday offered the Justice Department to seek a court injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act to halt the strike for 80 days. The steelworkers have said they would obey such an injunction if one is issued, but would walk out again at the end of the 80 days.

"I would think there would be consideration of legislation creating special labor courts which could act to ward off any strike that threatens the national security," Mansfield said. "It might be that the procedures of the Railway Labor Act for arbitration and conciliation could be brought into play for any basic industry such as steel."

Keating told an audience in Utica, N.Y., Monday night that in any event Congress is going to have to "take a long, hard look at the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act to determine to be provided to end strikes which threaten the national welfare and security."

"It may well be that the dangerous impasse of the steel strike will prod Congress to enact legislation which will provide some kind of arbitration when giant labor and giant management engage in these fight-to-the-finish disputes," Keating said.

Scouts, YMCA Need Its Aid

UF Vital to Boys' Groups

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of stories The Pontiac Press is publishing to show our readers where and how their Pontiac Area United Fund dollars are spent.)

Many of your United Fund dollars are being spent for the benefit of your children.

Among the agencies supported by the Pontiac Area United Fund are the Clinton Valley Council of the Boy Scouts, the Pontiac Boy's Club, and the Pontiac YMCA.

The Clinton Valley Council, with funds from the UF, is consistently striving to better its program of nature-lore, adventure, hobbies and good fun that aids the Boy Scouts in molding of good citizens.

The popularity of the scouting movement is attested to by the 243 units making up the council. There are 9,096 boys participating in the council's scouting program. Of these, more than 1,700 are from the Pontiac District.

★ ★ ★

Earning a variety of ranks and badges, boys can join the scouting movement as Cub Scouts at age eight, continue through the Boy Scouts, ages 11 through 13, and the Explorer Scouts, 14 and older.

Boys from all over the city pass daily through the doors of the Pontiac Boy's Club building located at E. Pike and Francis streets.

The building, erected in 1951, contains a gymnasium, library, woodshop, games room for different age groups, a print shop and dark room.

★ ★ ★

With 85 per cent of its operating budget coming from the United Fund, the Boy's Club concentrates on meeting boys' needs and interests in recreation, hobbies and social functions.

Cressy Larsen, director, estimates membership in the neighborhood of 1,500 youngsters.

The present YMCA program is an extensive one, covering activities for boys, girls and adults. The program now includes a summer fun club for boys and girls, club activities, learn-to-swim drives, organized father and son groups, hobby shop classes, and several sports activities for kids.

In Order to Testify for Publisher

To Ask Delay in Chessman's Execution

From Our News Wires

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—A new attempt to keep Caryl Chessman alive is planned so he can testify in defense of his literary agent, who is facing trial on a charge of smuggling one of the condemned man's book manuscripts from prison.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California refused Chessman clemency Monday.

A San Jose attorney, John Thorne, said Monday night he will ask the Supreme Court to delay Chessman's execution, now set for Friday.

The convicted Los Angeles rapist was condemned to death 11 years ago under California's Little Lindbergh Act on a technical charge of kidnaping involving a raped holdup victim.

★ ★ ★

Thorne is making the newest appeal for Chessman's life as attorney for Joseph Longstreth. The Richmond, Ind., literary agent is jointly charged with Chessman's attorney, George T. Davis of San Francisco, and the publishing house of Prentice-Hall with conspiracy to smuggle "The Face of Justice" out of San Quentin.

Thorne contends Chessman is a material witness in the case.

Meanwhile, the London, England Daily Sketch today addressed a public appeal to California Gov. Pat Brown to commute the scheduled execution of Chessman.

"To take his life after these agonizing years of doubt and delay is nothing short of bestial," the newspaper said in an editorial.

"In the name of humanity, Governor, stop the execution. In the name of God, have mercy," the Daily Sketch said.

The newspaper said the author-convict's crime did not warrant the death penalty.

FROM VATICAN PAPER

L'Osservatore Romano today suggested that Chessman's 11 years in a California death row had expiated his debt to society.

The Vatican newspaper's editorial, written by its chief editor, Count Giuseppe Dalla Torre, said that "it seemed a miracle" that Chessman had not gone crazy during that period.

L'Osservatore said that "this slow agony" is more punishment than death and that "nobody can deny that he has not expiated whatever his blame — howsoever grave — because a more severe penalty than this does not reasonably exist."

IT'S A POLITICAL ACT — Caryl Chessman gestured at San Quentin Prison in San Quentin, Calif. Monday as he held a news conference shortly after the announcement in Sacramento that California's Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown refused to commute to life imprisonment the death sentence hanging over him since 1948. Chessman, scheduled to die in the prison's gas chamber Friday, charged Brown's denial of clemency was the political act of a man who is "presidential timber."

2 Union Officials Face Indictment

Federal Grand Jury Also Names 2 Others in Contempt Charge

WASHINGTON — A federal grand jury today indicted four men, including two union officials, on charges of contempt of Congress for failing to give information to the Senate Rackets Committee last year.

The indictments named:

Maurice A. Hutcheson of Indianapolis, president of the AFL-CIO United Brotherhood of Carpenters.

William Fresser of Cleveland, president of Local 555 and Joint Council 41 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Peter Licavoli of Detroit, reputed leader of the old Detroit "Purple Gang," who was convicted of income tax evasion in May, 1958, and sentenced to 2½ years.

Ernest Mark High of New York City, editor of Spotlight Publications.

Acting Atty. Gen. Lawrence M Walsh, who announced the indictments, said each of the defendants had been subpoenaed to testify before the Senate Committee on improper activities in the labor and management field.

Hutcheson appeared in response to the subpoena in June 1958 but refused to answer a number of questions about union funds and his personal expenses.

Among other things, Hutcheson declined to say if he knew Teamster President James R. Hoffa and whether he had agreed to support Hoffa's fight to avoid ouster from the AFL-CIO in return for assistance from Hoffa. The Hutcheson indictment alleged 18 instances of contempt.

Presser responded to his subpoena in September 1958 and testified he had complied with the re-

Russia Jamming 'Voice' for 'U.S. Spy' Broadcast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington monitors reported today the Soviets apparently have turned on their radio jammers against the Voice of America's broadcasts of the Langelle affair.

Russell A. Langelle is the U.S. diplomat whom the Reds kicked out of the Soviet Union last weekend, saying they caught him in spy work. The United States has denied the spy accusations.

★ ★ ★

Langelle, who had been top security officer at the American Embassy in Moscow, is now on his way back to Washington with his family amid protests and counter-protests between the two capitals.

Soviet jamming of the Voice of America's Russian-language programs stopped for the first time in a decade when Premier Nikita Khrushchev visited the United States last month. It has been sporadic since.

TASS DIFFERENT

The story was published today for the first time in the Soviet Union, in a brief account by the Soviet news agency Tass. It briefly outlined the charges against Langelle and made no mention of the U. S. version of the incident.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. version is that Langelle was seized last Friday by five Soviets in civilian clothes as he alighted from a bus near the embassy who took him to a nearby building, and questioned and threatened him for several hours. They also tried unsuccessfully to get him to act as a spy for the Soviet Union.

★ ★ ★

Langelle, on his way back to Washington, said in Amsterdam Monday night he got "pretty rough treatment" from the Soviets. He didn't elaborate.

The version of the incident reported by Soviet newspaper sources is that passengers on the bus seized two men after one handed the other a large package that appeared to contain money. Authorities found one man, a Soviet citizen, had a package containing 20,000 rubles (about $5,000) and material for making secret inks. The other, Langelle, voluntarily handed over a notebook containing secret data written in invisible ink.

★ ★ ★

While disputing the Soviet account as complete fabrication, U.S. experts offered no ready explanation as to why the Communists acted as they did at this time.

One theory was that the Kremlin wants to have a chilling incident handy to ward off too warm a popular sentiment favoring America in the wake of the Khrushchev visit.

County Dems, Staebler to Plan

Closed Meeting Will Be a Strategy Discussion for 1960 Campaign

Local Democrats will huddle with State Democratic Chairman Neil Staebler in Pontiac tomorrow to plan the Oakland County campaign for 1960.

The evening meeting at the Roosevelt Hotel has been closed to the press.

Staebler, with members of state central committees, is stopping in Pontiac during a swing through the state tagged "Operation '60" and designed to formulate strategy for next year's national and state elections.

The drive began over the weekend in Escanaba when the party's policy planning state central members set down objectives for next year.

One is to win control of the House of Representatives and the other to win support for a constitutional convention based on House instead of Senate apportionment of delegates.

It is said by some that a local objective of the party is to find a top Democrat to match Oakland's Republican Sen. L. Harvey Lodge.

Tomorrow night's session, which is expected to attract the leading Democratic strategists in the county, will begin with a dinner at 5:30.

A major order of business will be Staebler's talks with prospective candidates for county offices and legislative posts.

ADMITS KILLING CHILDREN — Mrs. Ruth Urdanivia, who police said admitted killing her five children with overdoses of barbiturates, was to be charged with five counts involving murder today. The 41-year-old widow of a Peruvian diplomat, said she did it because she could no longer support them. She was found unconscious from gas fumes last night. Her wrists were slashed. Shown with her at a happier time are, from left front, Carol, 4½, and Christine, 12; standing, Luis, 9, Ruth, 10, and Anna Marie, 7. The overdose allegedly took place Wednesday, at Allentown, Pa., with the mother having slept the subsequent five days.

Buttonholes Delegates at U. N.

Brother Pleads for Dalai Lama

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A young man who looks more at home in an English suit than the monastic robe he occasionally wears is buttonholing U.N. delegates to plead the cause of his brother—Tibet's Dalai Lama.

★ ★ ★

Gyalo Thondup, 31-year-old emissary for the exiled Dalai, bears little resemblance to the quaintly garbed holy men one usually associates with Tibet.

★ ★ ★

Suave and immaculate, he mingles easily at receptions, sips aperitifs and converses in good English.

★ ★ ★

Thondup's visit to this country —timed to coincide with the Tibetan debate coming up in the General Assembly this week—is being managed in American style. Representing him are a public relations firm and Ernest Gross, an international lawyer. Thondup and his party are at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. They have been feting the press with luncheons featuring such delicacies as duck with wild rice.

★ ★ ★

Representatives of Thondup say the bill for all this is being footed by the Dalai Lama's exiled government. They hint that the ruler managed to take considerable money on his flight from Lhasa to India last spring.

CRUSADES FOR TIBET

Thondup appears to be a dedicated crusader for his oppressed land. He feels it is the duty of the U.N. to see that a peaceful solution is reached somehow between Tibet and Red China. He has indicated he would like to see the assembly set up a U.N. commission to restore conditions that existed before 1950, when Tibet was a sovereign state linked to both India and China.

★ ★ ★

Thondup is openly distressed at the reluctance of some Asian nations to help his brother's cause, but he says he realizes that countries bordering on Red China hesitate to give outward support for fear of endangering their own position.

★ ★ ★

Actually Thondup's knowledge of recent events in his land is second hand. Fearing for his life after the Red Chinese occupied Lhasa, Thondup went to India in 1952. He spent the seven years there as a student and unofficial liaison between India and Tibet.

Before the Communists seized power on the Chinese mainland in 1949, Thondup was a student in China and married a Chinese girl. They have three children.

Clarkston Boys Appeal Terms

8 Out on Bail While Awaiting Circuit Court Trial Oct. 27

Trial has been set for Oct. 27 for eight Clarkston area youths who have appealed 25-day jail sentences for malicious destruction of property to Oakland County Circuit Court.

★ ★ ★

Judge William J. Beer yesterday ordered the early trial when the appeals were added to the court's calendar.

The boys were part of a gang of 12 nabbed Oct. 8 when they made the mistake of tossing eggs at the car of a deputy sheriff.

Police also accused the vandals of barricading roads, building a bonfire in the middle of a road, spreading oil and sharpened cans on U.S. 10, letting air out of school bus tires and heaving other foodstuffs at motorists.

Independence Township Justice William H. Stamp sentenced 10 of the 12 to 25 days in the county jail. The 10 pleaded guilty Oct. 9.

Another boy, a high school student, was sentenced to four weekends in jail, and a 16-year-old turned over to juvenile authorities.

Appealing the jail terms are Gary P. Beach, 18, James B. Lowe, 19, Thomas E. Robey, 19, Kent R. See, 20, Kenneth F. Stock, 18, Jerry W. Terry, 18, James B. Price Jr., 19, and Cecil H. Weber, 17.

Paul D. Smith, 18, originally planned to appeal, but yesterday withdrew the appeal and was returned to the jail when Pontiac bondsman Guy Carter appeared before Judge Beer and withdrew Smith's $500 bond.

Smith reportedly wants to serve out his 25 days and then enter the Army.

The other eight who are appealing are free on similar $500 bonds.

OAK PARK — Little Harvey Weinhaus was buried yesterday, this city's first traffic fatality since June 26, 1957.

Harvey, 5, died Sunday five and a half hours after he was hit by a car in front of his home at 8740 Leroy Ave.

He had dashed in front of a car driven by Connie Sue Riggs, 16, of 22710 Rosewood Ave. The impact threw the tot into the air and he was hit a second time by the same car before the teenager was able to stop.

She has only been driving for the past three months.

Skid marks measured 78 feet. She told police she was driving at 30 m.p.h. No charges have been laid.

Surviving besides the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Weinhaus are three brothers all at home.

Burial was in the Hebrew Memorial Park Cemetery, Detroit.

Canned Laughs May Be Halted

CBS Reviewing Many Practices That Deceive TV Audience

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System is considering whether it should continue to use phony applause and laughter on some television shows.

A spokesman for the network said Monday night CBS is reviewing the use of "canned" applause and other practices in light of a recent statement by CBS President Frank Stanton.

★ ★ ★

Stanton said in New Orleans last Friday that all big money quiz shows were being eliminated by CBS and added: "We accept the responsibility for content and quality and for assurance to the American people that what they see and hear on CBS programs is exactly what it purports to be."

For years, even on the big radio shows long before TV was developed, loud applause and uproarious laughter on one show were recorded for use on other shows.

★ ★ ★

The CBS spokesman said the network also was reviewing the "spontaneous" interviews that actually had been rehearsed, and shows purporting to take place in one locale that actually had been filmed elsewhere.

The spokesman was Kidder Everard Meade Jr., executive director of the CBS Information Services. He spoke in answer to questions.

The New York Times today quoted Stanton as saying in a telephone interview from Texas that he planned to review all CBS shows personally to see if they were using any kind of deception.

The Times said Stanton declared that the time has come for each broadcaster to review his programming schedule to eliminate audio or visual misrepresentation. This includes the practice of dubbing recorded applause or laughter into the sound track of a completed program, he said.

★ ★ ★

The newspaper said Stanton cited the network's "Person to Person" program, which featured Edward R. Murrow last season and which now stars Charles Collingwood.

The program endeavored to create the illusion that it was spontaneous, but actually the guests were given questions in advance that they would be asked on the program, the Times said Stanton asserted.

Stanton also mentioned "The U.N. in Action" program, the Times article said, which might lead its viewers to believe that it was impromptu and that the CBS interviewer was free to ask any question. Actually, Stanton said U.N. diplomats insisted on receiving the questions in advance.

Champ Roller Skater Shot to Death by Wife

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—Earl Van Horn, 62, former roller-skating champion, was shot to death early today by his wife after a bitter argument in their home, police reported.

The wife, Jean, 35, is a onetime polio victim whom Van Horn induced to take up skating as therapy for her paralysis. She not only overcame her physical difficulties but in time became a skating star herself.

The cause of the couple's argument was not immediately disclosed but police said that after two hours of angry squabbling Mrs. Van Horn grabbed a shotgun and fired at her husband. The blast hit him in the stomach.

Amid the dispute, a 12-year-old daughter called out several times from her bedroom asking the parents to "keep quiet, I'm trying to sleep." The girl, Gretchen, telephoned police after hearing the shot.

Filipino Leader Embraces U.S. on Liberation Day

TACLOBAN, The Philippines (AP)—President Carlos P. Garcia said today the Philippines stands firmly beside the United States in fighting against communism.

Garcia spoke at ceremonies commemorating the 15th anniversary of the landing of U. S. troops on Leyte. This was the start of Philippines liberation in World War II.

The President, whose ruling Nacionalista Party has been campaigning on a Filipino first platform, said nationalism is now sweeping the country. But he assured the United States there is no threat to U. S.-Philippine friendship.

Personal Income Off; Strike Cited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Personal income went down again last month, the government says, largely because of strikes in steel, copper and meat packing.

★ ★ ★

Personal income was at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $379,600,000,000, a drop of 400 million from August. The decline was sharper in August, however, the first full month of the steel strike. The rate of personal income fell then by nearly 3½ billion dollars.

★ ★ ★

The Commerce Department said yesterday that for the entire third quarter personal income was at an annual rate of 381 billion dollars. This was the same as the second quarter. On an annual basis, wage and salary payments in September fell by 600 million dollars to $258,200,000,000.

The Day in Birmingham

Rubbish Contract to Save City $6,825 Per Year

BIRMINGHAM — City Commissioners last night approved a low bid, three-year rubbish collection contract for residents of Birmingham at a savings of $6,825 per year.

The contract was awarded to the Detroit Rubbish Co. for $153,000 over a three-year period and will go into effect Jan. 1, 1960.

The bid price is based on a lump sum bid for curb collections, and a unit price per week for rear-door garbage collection.

The charge per unit for rear-door garbage collection as stated in the bid will be 7½ cents. This constitutes a $6,825 annual savings over the present 25 cent cost per unit. Over a three year period, a savings of $20,475 could be realized.

Rubbish will be collected once a week throughout the city, while garbage will be collected twice a week between June 15 and Oct. 15, and once a week the balance of the year.

Four bids were received by the city for the collection contract.

The city presently is paying $168,000 for a three-year contract with the Painter & Ruthenberg Trucking Co. The firm submitted the second lowest bid at this time.

The city has about 7,750 homes in the city that require rubbish collection, and of this number approximately 750 pay an additional charge for the collection of garbage only from the rear door.

Registration for the second series of pre-school story hours at Baldwin Public Library, Birmingham, begins Tuesday, Oct. 27.

Mrs. Ann Burch, of the boys' and girls' department, advises those interested to call or visit the library at or soon after 9:30 a.m. Oct. 27.

★ ★ ★

The first meeting will be Nov. 17 at 10 a.m.

A blood bank, sponsored by the Birmingham Junior League, will be open to the public tomorrow at the Community House, Birmingham, between 2:45 p.m. and 8:45 p.m.

Betty Hall, chairman of the blood bank, said that so far appointments for 160 persons have been made to give blood. "We would like to go over the 200 pint mark," she said.

Anyone wishing to give blood can contact Mrs. Richard Craig, recruitment chairman, at MI 6-0032.

Fred T. Martin

Service for Fred T. Martin, 75, of 32695 Redfern Rd., Franklin Village will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday from the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co.

Graveside service will be held at Toledo Memorial Park Cemetery in Toledo, Ohio, at 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

As for rumors that he might resign to accept a job with private industry, Von Braun said at this time he has "absolutely no intention of quitting." But he said he might get out if the Saturn project is canceled, or if his team of German scientists at Huntsville is not given a challenging space project.

Von Braun said that Medaris' retirement is "in no way a protest resignation." But he said the general's "drive and determination will be sorely missed for a long time."

★ ★ ★

In a speech earlier before a breakfast meeting of the National Assn. of Food Chains, Von Braun lashed out sarcastically at the new U.S. space policy. He said the decision to give the Air Force full control of space projects shows lack of confidence "in a proven rocket team."

He said the shift threatens to throw this country even further behind in the race with Russia.

The German - born scientist headed a team which perfected the rocket that hurled the first U.S. satellite into orbit.

Official at Bell Doubts Threats

Vice President Resents Claim by Man Who Is Fighting Rate Hike

LANSING (AP)—A Michigan Bell Telephone Co. official questions whether any employe would "intimidate" company critics in the manner described by Kenneth Sharrard of Port Huron.

Sharrard, a union steward at the Mueller Brass Co., complained yesterday that a local utility representative pressured him to drop plans for marshaling opposition to Michigan Bell's rate increase application.

Sharrard, who went ahead and filed petitions listing 874 objectors to higher rates, told his story to the state Public Service Commission as hearings resumed on the requested multi-million dollar rate hike.

Henry W. Goodman, Michigan Bell vice president in charge of the rate case, said in a statement issued several hours later:

★ ★ ★

"I would seriously doubt that any employe of our company would indulge in any threat of intimidation in regard to any phase of our business.

"Michigan Bell is simply not that kind of an organization."

PCS Chairman Otis M. Smith said Sharrard's account will be studied with a view to determining whether the commission should take any follow-up action.

Smith chiefly had in mind Sharrard's complaint, relayed from a daughter, that she heard "racket" on the Sharrard telephone line after the pressure incident last March.

Sharrard quoted his daughter that the noise "sounded like a tape recorder or something." He said a serviceman called to look into the disturbance found nothing.

★ ★ ★

"We just might want the daughter to come down for an interview," Smith said.

The chairman in the past unofficially has frowned on Michigan Bell policy of seeking to discourage municipal officials and others so inclined from appearing in Lansing to oppose Bell rate petitions.

Sharrard related that a man later identified as Lon E. Kain, assistant manager at Port Huron, told him:

★ ★ ★

"If you don't withdraw it (the petition), the attorneys over there will pick it apart and throw it in your face."

The Port Huron subscriber also protested that the utility was spending heavily on advertising trying to show it was "going broke at a time when they were making a 6.6 per cent return."

As the rate case swung into its eighth month, W. R. Potter, chief accountant of the commission staff yesterday was kept on the stand for cross examination.

Atty. Albert J. Thorburn of Michigan Bell sought to shake Potter's advocacy of a 543 million dollar rate base in the present case as against the 588 figure urged by the utility.

Wounded Boy Still in Critical Condition

A 15-year-old Bloomfield Township youth shot by a Birmingham policeman while fleeing in a stolen sports car remained in critical condition today at William Beaumont Hospital.

James T. O'Leary of 2583 De-Pew St. underwent surgery yesterday, the hospital reported. The bullet went into the boy's neck, striking his spinal column.

O'Leary was shot by Patrolman Norman Propst in a two-mile chase down Woodward avenue at speeds up to 95 miles an hour.

Whatja Know! Weather Nice Everywhere

By The Associated Press

There were a few wet spots and it was cool in some northern areas today but generally pleasant weather was the rule in most of the nation.

The only areas of precipitation were along the northern Washington-Oregon coast and in the east coast of Florida. Heaviest rains in Florida were at Palm Beach, with about 1½ inches. Showers sprinkled other areas.

It was cool again this morning from New England to Virginia, with temperatures in the 30s and 40s, slightly below normal.

A fresh surge of cold air moved southward from Canada into eastern Montana and the Dakotas Monday and this morning temperatures ranged from the upper 20s to the low 40s, some 10 to 20 degrees lower than Monday morning.

Eisenhower Seeks T-H Injunction Today

"with might and main" but he added that "if it is issued, we will live up to the law of our country."

The President acted Monday only 3½ hours after receiving a special fact-finding panel's report that it had been unable to mediate the dispute and saw "no prospect for an early cessation of the strike."

The President's letter directing Rogers to seek an injunction said:

"It is essential to the national interest that production be resumed immediately in the steel industry."

"Free collective bargaining has not worked in this dispute despite the dedicated efforts of the federal government and the fact finding board of inquiry.

"In order to protect the interests of all the American people, this leaves me with no alternative except to seek an injunction under the existing law.

"America's hopes for a voluntary responsible settlement have not been fulfilled. It is a sad day for the nation."

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, the President can seek a strike-ending injunction if he feels the strike imperils the nation's health, welfare or safety. The President undoubtedly took into consideration the nearly 250,000 workers in allied industries who have been idled by the steel strike.

THE ISSUES

The two big issues in the steel talks have been the union's demand for a wage hike and the industry's demands for changes in working rules that would enable it to save money.

In its report to the President, the special fact-finding panel said it "cannot point to any single issue of any consequence whatsoever upon which the parties are in agreement."

Pickets Permitted Now at Sno-White

DETROIT (AP) — Circuit Judge Victor J. Baum has authorized renewal of picketing by the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union at the Sno-White dining room, where the Union is seeking a contract.

★ ★ ★

Judge Baum, however, ruled there must be no repetition of an Oct. 2 coffee sit-down in which unionists filed in at the rush hour, occupied all seats and ordered only coffee.

★ ★ ★

It was after this that Judge Baum ordered the Union to remove all pickets. He authorized renewal of picketing, four-at-a-time, after a four-day hearing that ended yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The Union authorized picketing of the northwest Grand River restaurant last March. Owner Walter Nau contends the Union does not represent a majority of his 48 employes.

Nothing Brewing . . . Staff Perks Up

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A disturbing rumor has just swept government buildings. At high levels, it was said, something was brewing to curb coffee breaks.

Not in years have our employes suffered such qualms. Specifically, not since 1953, the year a new Administration took office pledged to wipe out government waste.

That was the year Bertha S. Adkins, then assistant to the chairman of the Republican National Committee, told a victorious gathering of GOP backers government workers not only were coming in now a half hour earlier than before, but that they were working full time.

As a government institution the coffee break had been dealt a death blow, Bertha clearly implied.

That was also the year Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson planted his acres of offices largely to milk vending machines and passed out word he expected from each Agriculture employe a full day's work every day.

Many of Benson's employes took this as a hint to stay clear of the Department's snack bars and cafeterias except at lunch time. Some even switched from coffee to milk.

At the White House meantime Sherman Adams had so awed the help the girls took to hiding their percolators and hot plates in the ladies rooms. Everywhere spirits sank low in the government buildings.

Things were especially bad in the cavernous structure occupied by the Interior Department. The late Douglas McKay, then interior secretary, decided at last he had grounds to take action.

GOOD OLE' McKAY

One morning at 10:15 — peak hour of the pre-Eisenhower enthusiam for coffee — McKay popped down to the cafeteria, ordered coffee and sat down to drink it, chatting at length while he did so with some of his helpers.

The shocking report of his action spread around town like word of a pay raise. The coffee break revived and has thrived ever since.

The feeling has grown among top government officials that except for abuses, which are dealt with, whatever time may be lost is offset by improved health, education and welfare of the workers.

Speaking of health, education and welfare, Miss Adkins lately has occupied the post of undersecretary of the department of same. And her aides say she hasn't turned a hand to stop coffee drinking on government time.

In fact, it is known that Miss Adkins nurtures a percolator herself. It's installed in a closet, presided over by a messenger who periodically passes out steaming cups to her and her phalanx of officials.

★ ★ ★

So the shock waves radiated from one side of town to the other after what happened the other day at the big stone pile housing the General Services Administration, a government housekeeping agency better known as GSA.

For GSA workers, a main source of coffee supply is a ground floor snack bar. The favored procedure is for each coffee drinker to arrive with an empty out-box in his hand. He exits a few moments later with maybe a dozen cartons of coffee for distribution around his own office complex.

On the fateful day workmen appeared in the hall that leads to the snack bar. The device they began to install looked suspiciously like an electric eye. It was an electric eye, an eye with a counter attached, which immediately began to roll up an ominous toll of those who dared to pass by.

PLAYING IT SAFE

"What do we care?" some of the bolder types said. "It isn't taking our pictures."

"It isn't?" wondered timider types.

To be safe, some coffee drinkers ducked under the beam. Others waggled their fingers across it, running up wild totals in seconds.

Finally, the tension was eased. GSA announced it had laid experimental tiles on the corridor floor, and simply wanted a count of how many passing feet they survived.

This comforting word at last is filtering out and from one side of town to the other. I guess now it's just about made all the rounds.

Anyway, when I started calling to check on the rumors it was about 10:30 a.m., and mostly the girls who answered the phones said, "I'm sure he'll be back in a minute. Shall I ask him to call you?"

Never mind, honey. You already answered my question.

'Some Suicides Are Not Sinful'

Dr. Fisher, Who Heads the Church of England, Lists Three Types

LONDON (AP) — A Church of England committee says Britain's 30,000 annual suicide attempts should not be considered crimes and should not always be considered sins.

★ ★ ★

Instances when suicides would not be a sin include martyrdom, suicide committed by a virgin to escape rape, and by a prisoner of war to avoid brainwashing, the committee said.

★ ★ ★

The five-man committee, set up by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, said the person attempting suicide often needs sympathy or psychiatric care rather than imprisonment.

★ ★ ★

It urged that laws making suicide a crime be abolished, but recommended that one who unintentionally kills another while trying to kill himself be tried for manslaughter.

Dr. Fisher, who heads the Church of England, commented that the committee's conclusions were its own and not necessarily those of the church.

Operating Costs Down

DETROIT — The operating costs of automobiles in the U. S. have decreased by about 50 per cent or more since 1926.

London Traffic Isolates Airport 'Convenience'

LONDON (UPI)—They call it a convenience, but it is not. It is located on an island in the middle of a busy traffic circle and to approach it is at risk of life and limb.

The island is at the entrance to London Airport, just in from the main gate, and traffic swirls around it night and day, isolating it forever from mankind.

It sparkles in the sunshine in its fresh yellow paint, a memorial to inconvenience, a triumph of bureaucracy over nature or perhaps vice versa.

Once it was part of a row of office buildings and storerooms overlooking the busy bottleneck. But progress came to London Airport and with it wrecking crews and bulldozers.

The bottleneck was converted into a major traffic circle where five congested roads converge in some semblance of order. Most of the old office buildings are gone and this one would have been razed too except for the contract.

The future of the little building was guaranteed in fine print —it is the only one of its kind within the stipulated footage of the remaining offices and the contract said it must remain.

High level meetings were called. Ground plans and contracts were studied. Airline employes said it would spoil the entrance to the airport and that no one would dare brave the traffic to get near it.

★ ★ ★

Then came the final comment from the airport planning office spokesman: "Even if it's never used, the building will have to stay where it is. It's in the contract, you know."

★ ★ ★

And there it stands in the middle of the entrance, its white-painted "gentlemen" sign swinging from a white-painted signpost, relic of a bygone age.

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — A Boeing 707 intermediate jetliner, three engines torn loose in test maneuvers and trailing flames, crashed on a river sand bar northeast of here Monday. Four of the eight aboard apparently were killed.

★ ★ ★

An unidentified body was recovered by rescuers who worked late into the night searching the swift-flowing river and its wooded banks under the glow of emergency searchlights.

Witnesses said one engine of the plane, on a test flight for Braniff International Airways, fell in flames as the pilot tried to reach a pasture 200 yards from the crash site.

★ ★ ★

After talking to survivors, Boeing said three engines on the five million dollar plane were torn loose because of misapplication of controls during a violent maneuver at 12,000 feet. The company said its pilot, Russell H. Baum, 32, of Seattle, took over and was attempting a controlled landing with power from the remaining engine.

Firemen Cut Breaks for California Blaze

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Firemen Monday night hacked fire breaks completely around a brushfire which has charred 14,000 acres of watershed in the hills north of Los Angeles.

★ ★ ★

Two firefighters died fighting the blaze, which menaced two luxurious suburbs and a tiny mountain community. Two thousand firemen and a fleet of water-bombing planes saved all the threatened homes.

★ ★ ★

The fire started last Tuesday. It may take several days to gain control over the fire, officials said.

Bob Considine Plugs the Old Home Town

'64 Fair MUST Be in New York

NEW YORK—What's this nonsense about Washington, D.C. and Los Angeles trying to be named host of the 1964 World's Fair which New York City is willing and abundantly able to accept?

President Eisenhower's 3-man commission to choose the winner will hear the three presentations this week in Washington. It is composed of Messrs. Charles Sawyer, former secretary of commerce, Harry A Bullis, president of General Mills, and Ike's old Colorado trout-stream companion, Aksel Nielsen. A fine jury.

If the jury is out for more than ten minutes it can be only in the interests of sparing the feelings of Washington and L.A.

New York is so plainly the only logical place for a fair of the proposed dimensions that it seems superfluous even to have to go through the motions of listing its attributes.

★ ★ ★

This piece is not intended to downgrade either the nation's capital or the capital of the baseball world, except as world's fair sites.

★ ★ ★

The former may be able to handle the government of the United States and the latter can handle the Dodgers. But a world's fair is something entirely different and in its way bigger than either.

Neither city has the kind of transportation system nor the hotel, restaurant or entertainment set-ups capable of handling what could very well be 15,000,000 visitors over the 6-month period of the fair.

A world's fair in either town would be a shambles, with people walking endless miles, or sleeping in the streets. Or falling over with the heat.

New York was made for such a fair.

It is the world headquarters of the United Nations, whose member nations will present exhibits galore.

ALREADY HAS SITE

It has already committed a site, readily reached by subways, buses, cars and boats — the Flushing Meadows site of the World's Fair of 1939. The big administration building from that fair is still standing and in good shape. Billy Rose's Aquacade is as staunch as ever and has never ceased being active. The new LaGuardia Airport will be finished by then and provide facilities for much more domestic air traffic. It is within brassie range of the proposed fair grounds.

New York has 650 miles of waterfront, 519 hotels, 19 motels, 12 trunk railroads, 12,000 taxis, 853 movie theaters, 9,000 barbershops and beauty parlors, 4,700 women's clothing stores, 16,000 restaurants, 23,000 cops, 11,000 firemen, 13,000 sanitation men to clean up, 241 miles of subway track, 6,650 subway cars, and Toots Shor.

It has enthusiastic backing for the project, from Gov. Rockefeller and Mayor Wagner right down the line through the top business and professional people, and leaders in the arts and sciences.

If has the unrestrained cooperation of the most remarkable planner of the age, Robert Moses, and committees-in-being with such names as Dr. Carroll Newson, chancellor of New York University; Bill Robinson, chairman of the board of Coca-Cola; Al Periman, president of the New York Central, Jack Franklin, president of United States Lines, David Rockefeller, vice chairman of the Chase-Manhattan, Bernard Gimbel, the merchant prince and civic leader, and energetic, imaginative Tom Deegan, top public relations counsel.

The year 1964 will have more significance to New York than to either of the contenders. It will be the 15th anniversary of the laying of U.N.'s cornerstone, the silver anniversary of the great New York Fair of '39, and the 300th anniversary of the founding of the city.

By 1964 New York will have completed the world's largest and greatest jet airport at Idlewild, with arrival and departure buildings of stunning architectural beauty, and hardly 15 or 20 minutes away from the already allocated fair grounds. By 1964 there will have risen on what was once a west side slum, the superb Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, with its striking new Metropolitan Opera House, a concert hall for the New York Philharmonic and visiting orchestra; a Repertory Theater for drama; a Theater for the Dance; a new Juilliard School and a libarary-museum, among other structures.

Is this a bare-faced plug for the old town? You bet your boots. In the world's fair handicap it's like betting on Man O' War against two selling platers.

'We Like Van,' Students Chant to Quiz Whiz

NEW YORK (AP)—"We're with Charlie," proclaimed a sign hung by a group of students on the Columbia University campus Monday as English instructor Charles Van Doren returned to his class after a week's absence.

★ ★ ★

Some of the students chanted "We Like Van" to greet Van Doren, who won $129,000 on a television quiz show and is scheduled for an appearance before a congressional committee.

The National Broadcasting Co. suspended Van Doren from his $50,000-a-year consultant job Oct. 8 after a congressional committee turned up evidence that some TV quiz shows were fixed.

★ ★ ★

Van Doren, who has said he knew of no rigging on "Twenty-one," the show on which he won his money, took a week's leave from Columbia to "gather my thoughts."

He accepted a subpoena last Wednesday to appear Nov. 2 in Washington before the committee.

Van Doren, 33, did not discuss any of this with his students Monday.

★ ★ ★

"It's wonderful to be back," he told newsmen after the class. "This is the finest place in the United States for me to be today. I'd like to spend the rest of my life here."

Final Service Today for Mario Lanza

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Friends here will pay final respects to Mario Lanza at services today and Wednesday at Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church.

★ ★ ★

The Rosary will be recited for the tenor at 8 p.m. today and Solemn Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The 38-year-old film star died in Rome Oct. 7 of a heart attack. His funeral there attracted thousands. Other throngs filed past his glass-enclosed casket Saturday in South Philadelphia, where Lanza once attended church.

★ ★ ★

After the Requiem Mass the body will be entombed at Calvary Mausoleum in East Los Angeles.

British Drop Currency Curbs

Will Allow English Travelers to Leave With Any Amount

LONDON (AP)—The British government announced Monday that restrictions on the amount of foreign currency British travelers can take abroad are being abolished, effective Oct. 31.

★ ★ ★

Since 1957 British travelers have been allowed to take only 100 pounds ($280) in foreign currency when traveling overseas.

Now everyone will automatically be allowed up to 250 pounds ($700) and if any additional amount is required it will be authorized by the Bank of England on application made through private trading banks. The treasury said this check was necessary merely as a protection against the unauthorized export of capital.

Children, in the past entitled to only 70 per cent of the basic adult allowance, will get the same treatment as adults, the treasury said.

★ ★ ★

Travel organizations welcomed the government move and predicted a big upsurge in the number of Britons traveling abroad.

Cubans Shot by Accident

Castro's Soldiers Are Careless With Arms, Officials Worried

HAVANA (UPI) — In the stillness of a warm Caribbean evening, a shot rings out and a body slumps to the ground.

Police are summoned to the scene and quickly confirm that another Cuban has been killed or wounded by small arms fire.

Sometimes, the victim is a young schoolgirl; sometimes a balding businessman out for a late stroll. Sometimes, the victim is a bearded veteran of rebel forces who fought so many months in the Sierra Maestra mountains.

They were not the targets of any gang of terrorists working against the government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro. They had been shot — accidently — by members of the Revolutionary Army itself.

According to a count by Combate, one of the government's strongest newspaper supporters, 10 persons were killed and 35 wounded in Havana by such accidents within a recent three-month period.

The result has been an order by the Revolutionary Army restricting the display of arms without justifiable cause, under penalty of arrest and 30 days confinement. The army also declared an automatic 15 days in jail for anyone found drinking while carrying arms.

One ranking member of the Revolutionary Army explained what has been happening this way:

"The accidental shootings are not surprising, although very unfortunate. Most of our training was received in the hills where we fought as guerrillas, not as garrison soldiers. We kept our weapons ready for action at any moment."

Frequently these veteran fighters fondle their weapons while recalling dangerous moments in the mountains or to show a friend.

GREETS MRS. MARSHALL — Canon Luther D. Miller, former chief of chaplains of the Army, shakes hands with Mrs. George C. Marshall on the grounds of Washington National Cathedral Monday. The bareheaded man is Col. James Winn, the general's son-in-law. Gen. Marshall was to be buried today with simple military rites. He will rest in Arlington National Cemetery near the Tomb of the Unknowns.

Military Drum Roll Bids Gen. Marshall Farewell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Muffled drums tap out a soldier's farewell today for Gen. George C. Marshall.

President Eisenhower and former President Harry S. Truman were to attend the funeral service at the Ft. Myer, Va., chapel for the five-star general of the Army.

Marshall died Friday night at 78 after a long illness.

★ ★ ★

The general had served as Army chief of staff during World War II and later as secretary of state and secretary of defense. He was author of the Marshall Plan which helped war-weakened Europe along the road to economic recovery.

The body of the soldier-statesman rested in Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington National (Episcopal) Cathedral until time for the service at Ft. Myer, just across the Potomac River from Washington.

★ ★ ★

A simple funeral was planned in accordance with Marshall's wishes. Arrangements included army band music as the procession entered and left the Army chapel, the chapel service conducted by Canon Luther D. Miller of Washington Cathedral restricted to 200 persons, graveside service restricted to members of the family and pallbearers, burial in Arlington National Cemetery on a slope below the Tomb of the Unknowns.

Missionary Loves Eskimos

Has Ministered to Them for 29 Years in Frozen North

BAKER LAKE, Northwest Territory (UPI) —British-born Canon William J. R. James is an Anglican missionary who dislikes the mosquito-infested north, but has remained here 29 years for the sake of his Eskimo parishioners.

The 59-year-old churchman admits frankly that he would head south in a minute were it not for the spiritual welfare of the 450 Eskimos in his barren parish 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

"I love the Eskimos," he said in an interview. "That's the main thing.

"I've played the part of a dentist, a doctor and a school teacher for them."

The gray-haired bachelor, who lives alone in a small frame house on the lake shore, believes his long years in the north — he denies they've been lonely — have been rewarding.

He pointed out that he preached to a record congregation of 188 persons at recent service in the 30 by 24-foot wooden church he built himself.

Canon James said church attendance is 100 per cent when the Eskimos are in the settlement. He emphasized that they have a true appreciation of Christianity and don't come merely for the ritual.

He said the Eskimos had known only two years of Christianity when he arrived at Baker Lake from Wycliffe College, Toronto, in 1930.

He said there now are no pagan Eskimos in the area, all being either Anglican or Roman Catholic.

Canon James preaches three services every Sunday, two in Eskimo and one in English for the handful of white men stationed here.

The prayer and hymn books are printed in Eskimo, a language which the Canon speaks fluently.

Dressed in Eskimo clothing, he used to travel up to 30 days at a stretch by dogteam visiting the camps of nomad Eskimos. But he has cut out most of this as he is getting older and more Eskimos are moving to the settlement.

Canon James said he came to the North because it was a challenge. Looking back on his 29 years, he said he hasn't regretted the move. In fact, he plans to stay another five years.

Gets 5 to 15 Years on Robbery Charge

A Jackson Prison term of 5 to 15 years was imposed yesterday upon Vernell Cameron. The 31-year-old Ferndale man had admitted the unarmed robbery of a man in Royal Oak Township in June of last year.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer said Cameron, of 2350 Woodside Dr., had been in trouble off and on ever since 1946. Cameron pleaded guilty Oct. 1.

Sentenced to Prison on Narcotics Charge

Marion Yancy, 26, of 21626 Gilcrest Ct., Ferndale, was sentenced to 2 to 10 years in Jackson Prison yesterday by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty for possession of narcotics.

Yancy was arrested June 29 by police who were checking on a faulty headlight when they noticed Yancy toss a package out the window of the car. Analysis later proved the package to contain marihuana.

A Circuit Court jury convicted Yancy Sept. 24.

Rescues Firm by Age of 35

Young Paul Belmont Shunned Chemicals to Produce Oil

NEW YORK (UPI) — Paul N. Belmont is a young man in a hurry.

At 35, he already is a successful lawyer and businessman, having engineered the metamorphosis of a nearly bankrupt chemical firm into a profitable and growing oil producer.

★ ★ ★

Belmont, president of Hydrocarbon Chemicals Inc., has been doing things at top speed ever since he graduated from college at 19 with a B.S. degree in chemistry.

After a hitch in the Navy, he sailed through law school in two years and now is a partner in Van Riper & Belmont, a leading Newark, N.J., law firm.

"I'm the impatient type," he says. "When I get the urge to do something I get super-charged and can't seem to slow down until its done."

★ ★ ★

His efforts to build up Hydrocarbon are an example. Belmont travels more than 300,000 miles a year checking company installations and looking for new oil and gas leases to be developed.

★ ★ ★

"The oil industry is one of the most highly competitive businesses in the country today," he notes.

★ ★ ★

Belmont scoffs at the idea that a small business cannot survive in an industry dominated by giants.

"Our company, and many other small oil producers, have fared very well competing with the big oil companies. As a matter of fact, the big companies are among our best customers for the oil we produce."

Belmont says "there is plenty of opportunity in the business world today for the small company with efficient management and sound finances. Most business failures can be traced to inept management, not unfair competition."

★ ★ ★

Belmont took over Hydrocarbon Chemicals three years ago. At that time the company was on the brink of bankruptcy.

Gen. George Marshall

While General GEORGE C. MARSHALL gave his life for his country, it must be said that his actions were felt around the world.

★ ★ ★

The General was a career man. His country was his life. As a result the works and the things he fought so hard for made the world a better place for millions of people.

General MARSHALL guided us successfully through World War II. He was a master strategist and his ability as a soldier was never questioned. He had his assignment and he carried it out to completion with little or no fanfare.

★ ★ ★

This is as he wished it, feeling that he was only doing his duty for his country. When it came time to tackle other big posts such as Secretary of Defense and Secretary of State, he responded to the task and gave his all.

The Marshall Plan will long be remembered after the architect is forgotten. The General deserves the credit for this humanitarian plan. It was his theory that nations should help each other.

★ ★ ★

Unlike many austere men, Marshall was quiet and unobtrusive. He went about his work in a fashion unknown in Washington. He brought monumental integrity, a patient dignity and an orderliness of procedure to any job he accepted.

★ ★ ★

His passing will be felt by many and the dedicated greatness will be quietly remembered.

Passamaquoddy Again Interests Administration

Chronic power shortage resulting in loss of industries to New England has caused the Administration to take an interest in the Passamaquoddy project first proposed around 1930 and under study long before that.

★ ★ ★

Because the plan would involve the Province of New Brunswick, the International Joint Commission established by a U.S.-Canadian treaty in 1909, had made a survey. On Oct. 9 U.S. and Canadian engineers reported their findings on whether the tidal power would be economic. The result may not be made public but the commission will make recommendations to their respective governments.

★ ★ ★

The plan is to build certain dams along a chain of Canadian islands near Eastport, Maine, across to the south coast of New Brunswick. These dams would take advantage of the extremely high tides of the Bay of Fundy and impound the water which would then be released in a controlled manner to generate electricity for both Maine and New Brunswick.

★ ★ ★

Back in the 1930s Quoddy was one of several projects for which relief funds had been used without direct Congressional authority. The House Appropriations Committee was so incensed that in 1936 it cut off $5 million earmarked to study the plan and another $24 million for other projects not specifically authorized by Congress. Later that year the Senate defeated a proposal that the President appoint an engineering board to study the project. Only three Republicans voted for the survey, two of them from Maine.

★ ★ ★

In 1941 the Federal Power Commission reported adversely on the project. But along in 1954 the Senate authorized the just completed survey and the House by a voice vote in 1956. Canada has been interested in joint development for the project for many years.

Futuristic and Realistic

David Lawrence Says:

Dark Day for Collective Bargaining

WASHINGTON—If two groups of Americans with the same background of freedom and the same belief in the processes of reason, rather than force, as a means of settling disputes cannot do so, what chance is there for governments representing peoples of differing backgrounds to make peace?

LAWRENCE

This is the question that wistfully suggests itself as a heartbreaking period of nearly 100 days comes to an end. For, while "free collective bargaining" has had its fullest opportunity, it failed completely to end the war between the managers of the steel industry and the labor unions.

Economic power brings its wars, painful and costly, just as does military power. The mediation or conciliation process in the steel war has brought no solution by the parties themselves.

A third force has ordered governmental intervention. This means a compulsory abandonment of the strike for 80 days, as required by a 12-year-old law known as the Taft-Hartley Act. President Truman invoked it 10 times. President Eisenhower has used it seven times.

★ ★ ★

Inevitably, if the steel strike is resumed after the 80 days are over, Congress will vote to require both sides to submit to compulsory arbitration.

The nation simply cannot stand a continuance of the costly strike. It would mean incalculable damage to the national defense program as well as to the economic life of the country.

When two groups of citizens hold the fate of the nation in their hands and cannot agree to settle their disputes directly, the government, as the representative of the public interest, usually takes a hand.

HOPED FOR AGREEMENT

Knowing all this, why didn't the parties themselves reach some compromise settlement? The President withheld any action for a long time, hoping that the two sides would get together sooner or later. Labor leaders criticized him for failing to act sooner. But he did not wish to interfere with the collective bargaining process.

Indeed, in the interval since the fact-finding board was appointed on Oct. 9, the members of that group made every effort to act as mediators and to obtain some kind of settlement. But the result was a deadlock just the same, and the union leadership now announced that at the end of the 80-day "cooling off" period, it will strike again.

This means that the union demands unconditional surrender and is ready to help break down the nation's economy in order to get its own way.

Most unfortunate was the rejection by the union of the proposal of the steel managers that the issues unresolved be submitted to an impartial tribunal of arbitrators and that both sides be required to accept the settlement. This is a far-reaching proposal.

CENT APART

Indeed, the President's fact-finding board reported on Monday that basically the positions of the two sides "on wage adjustment, exclusive of cost-of-living escalation, leave them not much more than a cent apart."

What really developed was a fundamental divergence of view on what are called "working rules." This is a complex subject and will never be solved by name-calling or emotional outbursts.

It is the kind of thing that has to be settled by technicians and experienced arbitrators. It involves the right of managers to manage and operate their businesses and to require a full day's work for the pay given.

★ ★ ★

Labor unionism today seems to lack statesmanship as well as foresight. It has failed in a critical moment to arrange a compromise, and the net result is to be government compulsion. This is a defeat of reason. It is a reliance instead on sheer force—a sad moment in American history.

★ ★ ★

The man who in this world can keep the whiteness of his soul is not likely to lose it in any other.—Alexander Smith.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Birthmarks, Blemishes Are Difficult to Handle

Various small scars, birthmarks, pigmentations, moles, moth patches or "liver spots," which the physician may dismiss as incurable or unimportant are nevertheless important in the mind of the patient.

Such blemishes tend to destroy self-confidence and warp human relationships. Therefore, the patient who complains about any such blemish merits the best treatment the physician can give — provided the relationship of physician and patient is in good faith, that is to say the patient understands the physician cannot guarantee a satisfactory result but will only do the best he can under the circumstances.

DR. BRADY

If a doctor guarantees or seems to guarantee the remedy or treatment he's a good one to avoid. If a patient asks for such a guarantee the wise doctor will not undertake to treat him.

Pits or scars left by smallpox, chickenpox or acne pustules, keratoses (horny overgrowths), hypertrophied scars (keloids) and various pigmentations are more or less amenable to what is called controlled exfoliation, a planing or sand-papering of the epidermis, of course under anesthesia.

Small tattoo marks may be shaved off, just as a surgeon shaves off sections of skin to be used for skin grafting. The defect, of course, must be filled with a paring of epidermis from another area.

A mole is a pigmented birthmark — if not apparent at birth it becomes apparent when the baby is a few weeks old — yellowish, brown or almost black, smooth, or rough and warty, level with the skin or raised above skin-level, sometimes emitting an unpleasant odor.

The name mole is derived from an Anglo-Saxon word meaning stain and has nothing to do with the little furry animal.

The cause of moles is unknown, and so, like moth patches, "liver" spots and other skin blemishes they afford the fishwives good material for back fence stories.

"Liver" spots have nothing to do with the liver. They are just oversize freckles.

The application of dichloracetic acid with capillary tube, of course by the physician, is the most satisfactory treatment of multiple moles.

For a small mole, in which hairs grow, electrolysis may be the method of choice.

Eletcro-desiccation or electrocoagulation (surgical diathermy), solidified carbon dioxide or X-ray by a surgeon skilled in the use of these dangerous agents, is the method of choice in come cases of freckles, moles, port wine stains, moles, liver spots or moth patches.

Current Quiz Show Mess Prompts Readers' Letters

Why does the viewing public resent TV quiz deceptions? Inasmuch as we Americans tacitly agree that acquisition of money, however surreptitiously, is justifiable, this current attitude does not quite ring true. That is, with one important exception.

★ ★ ★

The TV fakery not only robbed the quiz programs of their normal appeal but incurred the public wrath by dint of the large numbers of people that were hoodwinked at one time. It was an intellectual fraud that was as embarrassing as it was disgusting.

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, fast talking swindlers are actually cheating the unorganized public out of large sums of dough every day without incurring public indignation. This is so because the average person thinks he is too smart to be tricked.

Ex-TV Quiz Fan

---

Networks have volunteered to "clean up" on the crooked quiz shows. This is better than having the Government do it, for we have too much Government in business already. The only time the Government should get into it is when the industry itself refuses to clean house or simply does nothing. The networks will do just what they say they will.

Responds to Letter About Cost of Labor

Mr. Buckner states the cost of labor all but takes the profits out of almost everything on the market. He must not have heard of automation, because speaking of manufacture of typewriters, they turn the things out like boxes of crackerjack.

I went through a plant just recently and watched refrigerators machined, assembled, painted and crated, all by machine. The trend nowadays is profit by volume, not get-rich-overnight, as some would like to do.

Like you say, the profit on an automobile may be two or three hundred dollars. Just multiply that by the millions of units by any of the giant corporations and there you may have profit in millions and millions. Sounds to me like Mr. Buckner must have had some carpentry work or plumbing done lately.

Writers Discuss Reuther Raise

Walter Reuther is with the wrong union. He should join the teamsters and they would give him as much pocket spending money as the tight fisted UAW gives him all told.

Solly

That increase for Walter Reuther is chicken feed compared with what he's done for us. Why can't they be as loyal and liberal with him as he has been with the membership? Other unions pay their officers more and other businesses as big as the union do, too. There aren't many firms that do as much business in dollars and cents as the union. The stingy penny pinchers that hold Reuther down always want him to get the very highest raise for the rest of us.

'Adult Movie Fare Too Much for Youth'

Adult fare is too much for a 12-16 year old to pay to see a show. I'm sure the theaters would find more children able to go if the price were lowered. I know a lot of parents feel the same way. In Royal Oak and through the South they charge an in-between price for what they call "Youths 12 to 16." I wish they would do that here.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

You Can Avoid Unhappy Marriage

Dora's case shows how a progressive newspaper can "vaccinate" people against divorce and lifelong misery. So scrapbook this clinical column and make your own textbook of Applied Psychology by binding the booklets for further use. Successful people are those who forearm themselves against future dilemmas.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-474: Dora G., aged 21, is the love drunkard mentioned yesterday who was infatuated with an older, married man.

DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane," Dora's best girl friend later informed me, "I took those 'Tests for Sweethearts' when I had lunch with Dora the very next day.

"And I let her think I was using them for my own boy friend. So we got to discussing the various items.

"Dora seemed quite interested in them, so after I rated my fiance I told her she could have the tests and use them herself on anybody she wished.

"Incidentally, my boy friend came out with a 'Superior' ranking on those tests.

★ ★ ★

"I knew Dora's married man would not rate very high but I didn't say anything along that line to Dora.

SHATTERED HALO

"A week passed before I had a chance to dine with Dora again. I wondered what had happened but hesitated to ask her directly.

"So I waited, hoping Dora would volunteer some information about those 'Tests for Sweethearts.'

"Fortunately, before we were through luncheon, she asked me again how my fiance had scored, and I told her he got 86, which meant he rated a 'Superior' classification.

"Then she brought the tests out of her purse and laid them on the table, telling me she had rated the married suitor thereon.

"And by her own admission, he scored only 45, which gave him a rating of 'Poor.'

★ ★ ★

"She said they had quarreled after he heard about the tests and now she was about ready to break up with him altogether.

"Finally, she began to cry and asked me what I thought she should do, so I suggested she date other men and stay away from him for a few weeks.

"And that's what she has done. Now I believe she is over her intoxicated state and I think she has broken off with him entirely.

"But if I had scolded her as her family has done, I'd have lost her confidence and probably couldn't have influenced her at all."

CRACKS IN ARMOR

It requires deft psychology to shatter the halo which a love smitten person has woven around the head of his sweetheart.

★ ★ ★

But by the casual method outlined above, you can help the victim see the cracks in the armor around her Shining Knight.

During the height of a torrid romance, we react to total personalities and ignore minor flaws. But the Rating Scale mentioned below causes love addicts to focus on those many facets of personality that make or break happy marriage.

Slowly, therefore, the victim begins to see that his or her sweetheart has faults.

And this shatters the hypnotic trance, letting the victim widen her outlook until she has a more impartial viewpoint.

This newspaper has thus helped thousands of emotionally intoxicated lovers sober up and break off their unwise romances, for I have the evidence in the thousands of letters you write me.

So send for the "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (nonprofit).

Somebody in your family may need them so be forewarned and forearmed with such psychological ammunition.

Boycott Causes Negro Removal

60 to 70 Whites Stage an Arkansas Sipdown at a Restaurant

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Negro male carhops have been taken off their jobs at a drive-in restaurant after a throng of white men boycotted the place and warned the owner to get rid of them.

Tommy Priakos, the owner, said the two young men, students at Arkansas AM&N College for Negroes, had not been fired.

★ ★ ★

"I'm just holding back until things kind of cool off," Priakos said Monday night. He said the suspension period is indefinite.

None of the boycotters showed up Monday night, and only a few were present after the Negroes were removed Saturday, Priakos said.

The white men, numbering from 60 to 70, first showed up last Tuesday night. They crowded the inside of the white establishment and jammed the driveways with their cars, lingering for hours over coffee and cheap soft drinks, Priakos said.

Priakos said the men would not tell him if they represented any segregationist group, but a police spokesman said some were members of the Dollarway Citizens Council, an anti-integration organization.

★ ★ ★

Segregationist feeling mounted here recently over an effort by three Negro students to enter the nearby all-white Dollarway school.

The school board is studying their petition.

Illness of Chief Justice Shouldn't Slow Tax Ruling

LANSING (AP) — The sudden illness of Chief Justice John R. Dethmers of the State Supreme Court was not expected today to hold up a decision on the constitutionality of Michigan's new 120-million-dollar use (sales) tax increase.

But there was little chance the high court's ruling would be announced before the Legislature returns tomorrow for its first meeting since Sept. 23. There was no court conference scheduled today.

Lawmakers scheduled the session primarily to start the wheels rolling on a new tax program if the court throws out the use tax law which took effect Sept. 1.

Dethmers, 56, was taken to Edward W. Sparrow Hospital here yesterday suffering from acute appendicitis. Dr. John M. Wellman, who performed an emergency operation, reported the chief justice in good condition and said he probably would leave the hospital in a week.

"But it's unlikely he will go back to work for two weeks after that," Wellman said.

★ ★ ★

Associate Justice Leland W. Carr, senior member of the high court, said Dethmers could take part in the use tax decision from his hospital bed.

In Dethmers' absence, Carr said he likely would confer with his fellow jurists on setting a time for their next conference. It very likely will be this week, he said.

A split decision is almost certain.

It was reliably reported that Justice Carr, one of three Republicans on the eight man court, had prepared an opinion supporting the constitutionality of the tax law. Justice Eugene Black, a Democrat, reportedly authored a dissent.

★ ★ ★

Court observers predicted the decision would deal only with the penny increase on items covered by the three-cent sales tax. It is the backbone of the new tax program and should yield 110 million dollars annually. The new four per cent use tax on hotel and motel rooms, and materials used in federal construction projects—worth a total of 10 million dollars—probably will not be touched, observers said.

Ignoring Illness May Cut Life Span

Are Men Too Devoted to Duty?

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)— Men die sooner than women, perhaps because men carry on through minor illnesses—right to the grave.

The women suffer or report more episodes of disabling illness during their lives, a team of physicians reported today.

But women can more easily take to bed with a cold, stomach upset, headaches or other ills. Women are more expected to do so in our culture, said Drs. Lawrence E. Hinkle Jr., Ruth Redmonth, Norman Plummer and Harold G. Wolff, of the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

"One is led to wonder whether the tendency of the American male to 'carry on no matter what' may not, indeed, have something to do with the greater longevity among women, but there is no easy answer to this speculation," they said.

RECORDS ANALYZED

They analyzed 25-year health and work records of 116 men and 96 women of comparable ages, background and economic status employed by the New York Telephone Co.

The women reported much more bona fide illness, the researchers told the American Public Health Assn. annual meeting here.

Their excess illnesses consisted mainly of colds, grippe, sore throat, stomach upsets, muscular pains, cuts and bruises, headaches, and minor upsets of mood, thought and behavior.

Men might well have had as much of these kinds of complaints but didn't go to doctors or stay home from work, Hinkle said.

Men had more of the serious, life-endangering types of illnesses than the women.

A dentist in another report said that eating between meals does seem directly connected with tooth decay in children.

★ ★ ★

The more frequently the youngsters took such snacks, the more decay they had compared with other children, said Dr. Robert G. Weiss of the U.S. Public Health Service, Washington, D.C. In his study the children snacked on gum, candy, soft drinks, pastries and ice cream.

One for Protestants, Catholics

Proposes Common Bible

NEW YORK — (AP) — A common translation of the Bible for both Roman Catholics and Protestants is proposed by the Catholic Weekly, America.

★ ★ ★

It "would be a great achievement in the history of Christianity," writes the Rev. Walter M. Abbott, associate editor of the publication.

He notes that Protestants and Catholics have cooperated extensively in recent Biblical research, and cited Protestant endorsements of the idea.

Major difference between Bibles of the two groups are in a few Old Testament books, included in Catholic Bibles as canonical, but considered by Protestants as apocryphal.

★ ★ ★

Some Protestant Bibles include them, however, but under a special heading.

California Schools Hope for Integration by 1964

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's state college presidents are out to ban discrimination in their campus organizations by 1964.

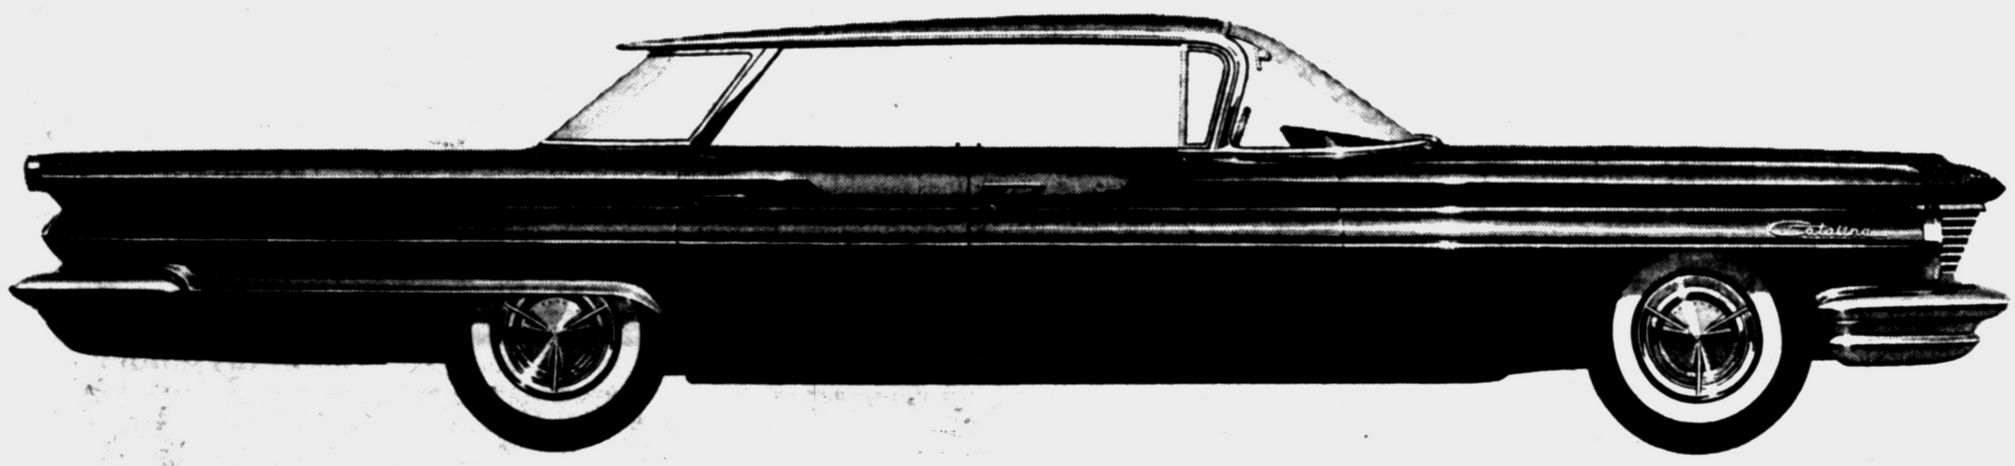

That is the deadline in a proposed "emergency regulation" adopted unanimously by the 14 college heads at a meeting here Monday.

It will be submitted for approval of the State Board of Education at its Nov. 5 meeting.

The regulation would outlaw state college fraternities, sororities or other campus groups which restrict membership on the basis of race, religion or nationality.

fresh new beauty
Wide-Track wheels!

A car is a living thing.

And all living things must change.

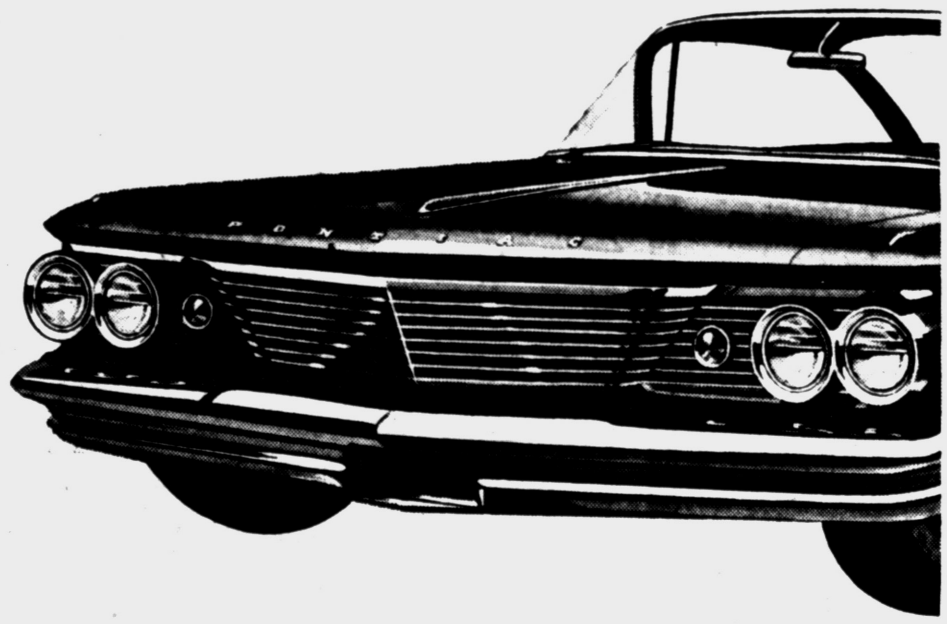

This is why the creative car builders of Pontiac took the proved principle of Wide-Track Wheel Design and surrounded it with fresh, exhilarating, totally new beauty for 1960.

The prow is styled for excitement.

The horizontal bars bear the artistry of the classical.

The perfect profile comes from just-right proportion, unity, rhythm.

The clean, graceful back contributes character where other cars seem only to reflect confusion.

With the widest track of any car, Pontiac's width is on the road—where it gives you better stability. Wide-Track widens the stance, not the car.

Its effect upon your attitude toward driving and owning cars can be quite radical.

For you cannot possess this automobile and be anything less than lighthearted. You cannot control it and be anything less than sportive about driving.

You cannot be seen in it and be anything less than buoyantly proud.

State Cleans Out Treasury Again

Meets Pressing Bills, Will Pay Employes but Skips Universities

LANSING (AP)—The State Administrative Board cleaned out the state's general fund treasury again today, bypassing the three major state universities for the second time this month.

★ ★ ★

The board distributed all nine million dollars in the general fund to meet the state's most pressing obligations.

The University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University probably will get their $6,500,000 October installment next week, said State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown.

"We consulted officials of all three schools yesterday and found out that their payrolls are not in immediate jeopardy," said Brown. "Sales and use tax collections should build up fast next week and we are very hopeful that we can pay the universities."

State Controller James W. Miller reported the state's cash shortage now stands at 76 million dollars.

★ ★ ★

Lt. Gov. John B. Swainson, presiding in the absence of Gov. Williams, allocated $1,400,000 for the payroll due Thursday to 26,000 state employes paid from the general fund.

★ ★ ★

Another three million dollars was set aside for a quarterly distribution of sales tax receipts to cities, villages and townships.

"He was the man of honor, the man of truth, the man of greatest ability.

Comic Makes Philip Laugh

Winks During Royal Rite

LONDON (AP)—Slapstick comedian Bud Flanagan today received a cherished British decoration in the splendid dignity of Buckingham Palace's throne room.

Flanagan is the rowdy leader of "The Crazy Gang," the zany comedians who have been entertaining British audiences with their bawdy humor for more than 30 years.

★ ★ ★

Spectators did not know whether to laugh or cheer when the Lord Chamberlain, the Earl of Scarbrough boomed out:

"Mr. Bud Flanagan."

Decked out in a frock coat and striped pants to fit the solemn occasion, Flanagan stepped forward and stood before Prince Philip.

The prince was representing his wife, Queen Elizabeth II. She has canceled all public engagements because she is going to have a baby early next year.

BUD WINKS

"I never thought I would have the pleasure of doing this," said the prince with a smile. "I wish the queen was able to do it."

The plush confines of a royal palace could not stop Bud.

He winked what was probably the first wink ever winked at a royal investiture.

"Are the rest of the boys here this morning?" asked Philip.

He referred to the other members of "The Crazy Gang" — Nervo and Knox, Naughton and Gold and, as he bills himself, Monsewer Eddie Gray.

★ ★ ★

"No, sir," replied Bud, "They can't get up this early."

Prince Philip fought back a laugh and hung the insignia of an officer of the Order of the British Empire around Flanagan's red neck. The decoration is in recognition of his long years of making millions laugh — including the royal family.

"Now this insignia," said Bud, eying the decoration, "we're going to take turns wearing it. I'm going to wear it on Sundays."

This time the prince did laugh.

Use Tax Notice Due Tomorrow

LANSING (AP) — Notice will be given tomorrow by the state Supreme Court when a decision can be expected on constitutionality of Michigan's 120 million dollar use (sales) tax increase.

Associate Justice Leland W. Carr, senior member of the high court, said notice will be given newsmen tomorrow morning when the court will assemble to hand down the tensely-awaited decision.

★ ★ ★

He said the court assembly will be at least 24 hours after the notice but gave no indication of the exact date.

★ ★ ★

This rules out the possibility the high court might announce the decision before the Legislature returns tomorrow for its first meeting since Sept. 23.

Lou Creekmur Answers Lions Call for Help

DETROIT (AP) — The winless Detroit Lions today persuaded tackle Lou Creekmur to return from retirement for the remainder of the 1959 National Football League season.

To make room for Creekmur, the Lions placed Ken Russell, a third-year tackle from Bowling Green (Ohio) on waivers.

The 6-foot-4, 255-pound Creekmur retired at the end of the 1958 season to become Detroit terminal manager for the Saginaw Transfer Co., with which he previously had worked during the off-season. Creekmur, 32, played pro football nine years following his graduation from Wilham & Mary.

Lawyer Loses Appeal of Year's Suspension

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan Supreme Court has been notified that Lansing attorney Walter O. Estes has lost his appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court from a year's suspension from the state bar.

★ ★ ★

Estes' appeal was from a February decision of the Michigan high court which upheld an Ingham County Circuit Court suspension of 1952.

The Circuit Court ordered the suspension on recommendation of a grievance committee of the state bar.

A charge was made that in an appeal brief to the State Supreme Court Estes improperly criticized a circuit judge who heard litigation involving the business failure of the Lapeer Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. Estes represented some of the company policyholders.

★ ★ ★

When the State Supreme Court upheld the Ingham Circuit court in February, it noted that Estes' suspension period had long since elapsed and suggested he apply for reinstatement in the bar.

Men Are Getting Beefier as Women Slim Down

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're 15 to 20 pounds underweight, you are likely to live longer than people of average weight—and a lot longer than people who are overweight.

This was one of the conclusions of a four-year study by the Society of Actuaries which Monday issued the first insurance industry report of its kind in 30 years.

The survey also developed new average weight charts to replace those they have been used in doctors' offices and on weighing machines since 1929. The charts indicate men are considerably beefier than they used to be and women more slender.

The study cost 2½ million dollars. It involved five million Americans.

"This study shows that insurance companies have been wise in setting higher rates for the overweight," commented Edward A. Lew, chairman of the study committee.

Other findings of the study:

Women are healthier than men.

Women carry high blood pressure and additional weight with less risk.

Extreme underweight 40 pounds or so below average—sometimes carries a higher mortality rate than overweight.

★ ★ ★

Overweight persons who reduce gain in life expectancy as long as they keep their weight down.

The mortality rate for women has declined much more than for men.

There is some advantage in slight overweight for teenagers.

The new weight charts show that men 5 feet 8 inches tall at 25 average four pounds heavier than they did 30 years ago—155 pounds; at 35, six pounds heavier, 161; at 45, five pounds heavier, 165; and at 55, three pounds heavier, 166.

The average woman 5 feet 4 inches tall at 25 weighs 125 pounds, 132 at 35, 140 at 45, 144 at 55, and 145 at 65. The report attributed her reduction in weight during the past 30 years to decreased weight of her clothes, some increase in the heights of heels on her shoes, and "particularly the greater vogue of slenderness."

Family of 4 Hurt as Car Hits Pole

Girl Critical, Mother in Fair Condition After Commerce Road Crash

All four members of a Waterford Township family were injured Monday, one critically, when their car left the road at Commerce road and Indian trail and struck a utility pole.

The William T. Medlen family of 374 South Winding Dr., was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital.

The hospital said that Kathryn Medlen, 10, is in critical condition with a skull and leg fractures.

Roberta, 32, the wife, is in fair condition with fractures of the jaw and ankle.

Both the father and son, William, 7, are in good condition with facial lacerations.

Orchard Lake Police Chief Elmer Peters that that the Medlen's car was traveling east on Commerce road when the father tried to maneuver a curve too fast at Indian trail.

Peters said that the car was going so fast that it broke the Edison Co. pole in three pieces.

Hollywood's Green Pastures Behind

Broadway Only Place for Farley

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—In Hollywood, Farley Granger felt like a bonus ball player.

At the age of 17 he was signed in as a big draw, at a huge salary, by a one-man whiz team named Sam Goldwyn.

He was the leading man in his first movie. A smash. Goldwyn was delighted, movie fans were ecstatic, Farley's banker was quietly pleased — but our boy, himself, was restless. He knew he should have had more training in the minors.

"I felt like more of an idol than an actor," he says now.

"I think the basic difference between being happy in Hollywood or on Broadway is how you see yourself. If you see yourself as an idol, then films are right for you. If you see yourself as an actor, you've got to go on the stage."

He was still in his twenties when the troubled Granger went to visit New York and saw his first Broadway show. It was "Annie Get Your Gun," with Ethel Merman. It was exhilirating. It was just as he imagined a stage hit should be. It did it.

Farley returned promptly to the land of the wide screen and the fat money, and quit. This required buying out his contract. It took much of the enormous salary he had earned from starring in a dozen top movies. But he wanted his freedom—the freedom to work and study the art of acting, an art that Hollywood never had demanded of him.

"Thank God, I stopped being a 'teenage thrill' and started becoming an actor."

★ ★ ★

The last five years have been, by comparison, lean years and hard. He has studied constantly, not only dramatics but dancing and singing. It was "exactly like starting over." Broadway has not supported him in the style to which he had grown accustomed, but fortunately TV opportunities have filled the gap in his pockets.

★ ★ ★

Tonight Farley opens in his second Broadway show, a drama called "The Warm Peninsula," costarring Julie Harris. His first, "First Impressions," lasted only three months; and he's praying calmly for a longer break in this one. Calmly, because he's "too tired to be nervous—we've been a long time on the road."

But if the show fails to have a lengthy Broadway run, he still will not consider returning to California, where he was born and grew up and was taken suddenly rich.

"Out there, people think you're crazy to waste your time in New York, where it's dirty and grubby. Here in New York, people think they're crazy to waste their time in Hollywood where everything's a bilious green, including the money.

★ ★ ★

"It's a form of snobbery on both sides, I would think. But what can I do? I'll tell you what I'd do. If I had a son and he wanted to be an actor, I'd tell him it's nice and wonderful and beautiful out in California—but if you want to be an actor, you'd better damn well learn the art first. And you do that by going on the stage . . .

In the new book, "Here Lies Leonard Sillman, Straightened Out At Last," the great producer describes the feeling this way:

"In the summer of 1923 I stepped off a train in Grand Central Station for my first visit to New York City. I took a deep breath. It was, as I figured it, the first free breath I'd ever drawn. I almost fell down in a faint. From joy, that is."

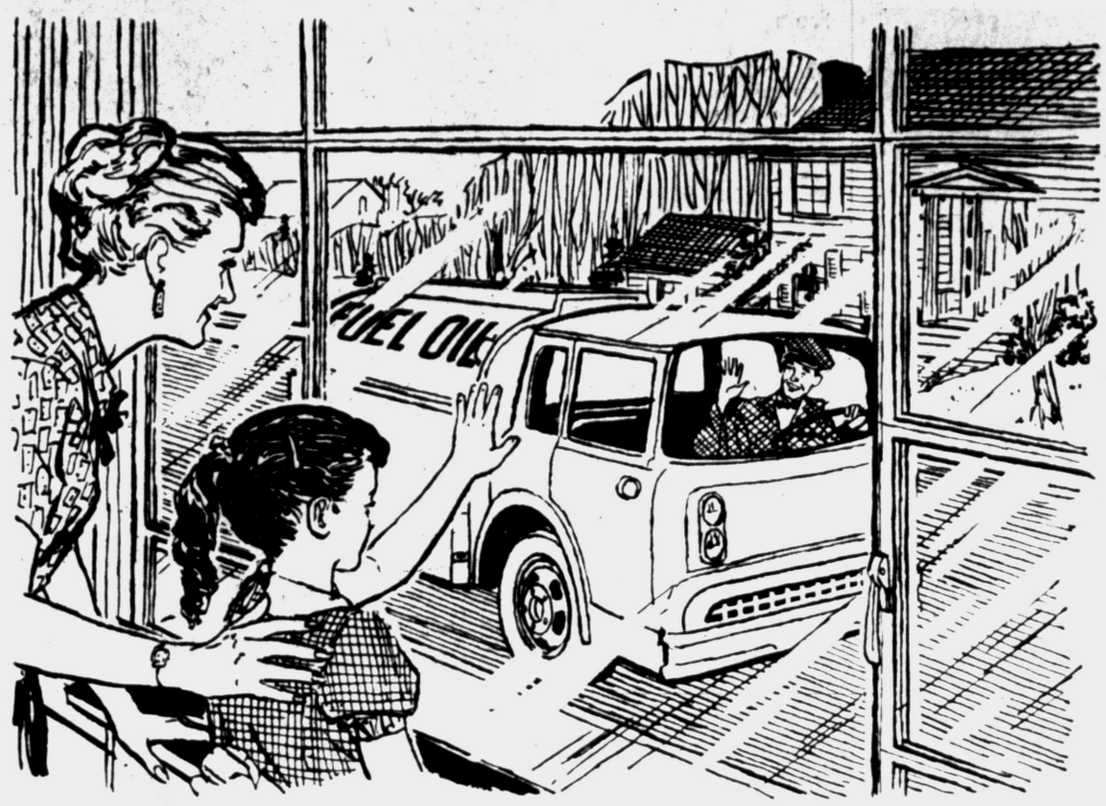

★ ★ ★

Some people, like Granger and Sillman, are destined to be Broadway stage addicts. For them, the only place existable is here.

Average Income Tax Is $450

WASHINGTON (AP) — What does the average taxpayer look like, in dollars and cents?

No one has ever come up with a precise answer but the Internal Revenue Service today provided a few clues. The service made public a study of income tax returns filed last year.

Americans filed a record 59,825,000 returns in 1958 covering income earned in 1957.

Of the toal, 46,865,000 returns showed taxable income. The amount was $149,400,000,000 — also a record.

Individuals paid income taxes totaling $34,400,000,000. This was another new high, topping the previous year by $1,662,000,000.

Mr. Average Taxpayer reported a gross income in the $4,500-$5,000 bracket. This was the median bracket, with about half the returns showing less income and half showing more.

After claiming exemptions for himself and his dependents and deductions for medical bills, contributions, taxes, etc., Mr. Average had a taxable income of $2,250. He paid an income tax of $450.

He was able to claim three exemptions.

It is difficult to carry the picture much further because the situations of individual taxpayers differ so widely. Still, a hazy image of Mr. Average emerges from the statistics.

$4,600 AVERAGE

For one thing, it is almost a sure bet he collected wages and salary during the year. If so, he probably reported about $4,600.

Mr. Average may also be able to claim he is a capitalist. The chances are one in ten that he was among the 4½ million Americans who reported a record $9,400,000,000 in dividends.

In two cases out of five, he filed a joint return with his wife. In fives cases in twelve, he itemized his deductions.

Taxpayers in the $4,500-$5,000 bracket who itemized were credited with total deductions averaging $947.

No breakdown is available for returns filed last year but the tax people have made public some figures on deductions for the previous year.

On returns filed in 1957, average deductions included $260 for interest paid, $315 for taxes, $263 for contributions and $188 for medical outlays. These figures are for all income brackets.

Taxpayers in the average bracket last year reported income from dividends which came to $31 per return. Capital gains average $14 and income from interest $25.

OK Thompson at Camp but Error Permits Car

From Our News Wires

LANSING — A rule violation enabled Teamsters' official Jack Thompson to buy a car while serving time for arson, but a Corrections Department official says there was nothing unusual about his being in a prison camp instead of in a walled institution.

★ ★ ★

Officials confirmed over the weekend that Thompson, former business agent of Teamsters Local 332 in Flint, sought a car from that Union in August.

Earl Burns, manager of the Secretary of State's branch office at Grayling, went to nearby Camp Lehman where Thompson is confined to complete the papers.

Thompson is serving 1½ to 10 years for setting fire to a Flint dry cleaning plant in which his fellow Teamster, Frank Kierdorf, suffered fatal burns.

The Supreme Court yesterday afternoon denied Jack Thompson's leave to appeal his conviction in Genesee County Circuit Court.

Thompson's attorney, James Haggerty, claimed Thompson was "wrongfully and erroneously" convicted of the cleaning establishment's bombing.

A breach of regulations by conservation officials assigned to Camp Lehman permitted the car transaction.

★ ★ ★

But John J. Spencer, assistant director of the state Corrections Department, said it is "not at all unusual" that Thompson is in a prison camp instead of behind bars.

The former Union official was convicted in April and assigned to Camp Lehman Aug. 18.

Spencer said incoming prisoners qualified for outdoor work are often assigned to prison camps within 30 to 40 days after their arrival.

Qualified prisoners must be in good physical condition, be free of sex crimes and sex deviations, have no history of mental trouble and no record of escape attempts. They may not be serving a life or long minimum sentence.

Spencer said Thompson met these qualifications and was automatically assigned to Camp Lehman.

"We have 200 to 300 camp vacancies opening up every month and are always looking for qualified men," Spencer said. "Some prisoners don't want to do the hard conservation work at the prison camps, but if they are qualified they are sent anyway."

Spencer said the typical prison camp inmate owns a house, has a family, is over 40 years old and won't run away because he has too much at stake.

All the state's prison camps are run in conjunction with the state Conservation Department.

The Corrections Department provides quarters, food and custody during non-working hours.

Conservation Department officers provide on-the-job supervision during which they are responsible for the inmates' custody.

Soviets Say U.N. Tibet Debate Illegal

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union today claimed the United Nations debate on Tibet is an illegal interference in Chinese affairs designed to break up growing friendship between Red China and other Asian countries.

★ ★ ★

A commentary by the official Soviet news agency Tass charged that complaints about the situation in Tibet were based on "lies and slander."

Tass said a "reactionary plot has taken place in Tibet and it was supported and directed from the outside.

★ ★ ★

"This plot not only threatened the further development of Tibet proper, but has created a seat of tension in the heart of Asia," the Soviet agency asserted.

Wants Shakeup in Foreign Aid

Sen. Mansfield Calls for More Self-Reliance From Other Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Complaints from Laos that the United States is stingy in doling out aid funds brought a proposal today for a shakeup in the foreign aid program.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana assistant Democratic leader and a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made the suggestion. He said the International Cooperation Administration "is to be commended for attempting to maintain close control over American funds" in Laos.

"It is time for a shakeup in the whole aid program and a reassessment of its value," Mansfield said in an interview. "Congress should act to get away from this continual dependence on the United States and to bring about more self-reliance on the part of recipient countries like Laos.

"The answer in Laos is for the Laotians to do more for themselves and to depend less on others. After all, it is their country, their survival."

In Vientiane the influential newspaper Voix de Peuple (Voice of the People) appeared to express a government view in complaining that American funds rarely are made available on time to pay the salaries of police. It said that under French administration this never happened.

Mansfield said that if there isn't enough money to pay the Laotian police, it isn't Congress' fault. He said funds had been appropriated to supply and equip a 25,000-man Laotian army and 3,200-man police force to help the tiny kingdom repel Communist challenges.

"I have always felt we were going too far in this matter," Mansfield said.

It's Presidential Nomination or Nothing—Brown

CHICAGO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California says he'd accept the Democratic presidential nomination if he were offered it, but he adds he has no interest in the vice presidential nomination.

★ ★ ★

The 54-year-old Brown, twice attorney general of California, told newsmen Monday that he still does not consider himself an active candidate for the presidency.

★ ★ ★

He was asked if his meeting with three powerful Democrats—Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, Adlai E. Stevenson and former President Harry S. Truman—meant that he was seeking their support.

"Not in the slightest degree," Brown replied.

Trading Stamp Probers to Hear Firms' Stories

LANSING (AP)— Representatives of various trading stamp companies will appear today before a House committee set up to probe trading stamp operations.

The committee chairman, Rep. Allison Green (R-Kingston) said the representatives would be asked to explain the practices of the industry.

The committee agreed last week that legislation is needed to curb trading stamp abuses and what some members called excess profits.

Tribal Chief Tells Gruesome Story

Soviet Laos Rebels Cutting Throats

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

PARSONG, Laos (AP)—"I'll join the army when I'm healed and kill them all," painfully whispered Plon, a Kha tribe village chief with a bandaged throat.

Pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels had tried to cut it.

On the next cot at the hospital lay his assistant, Sing, who was hit on the head with a club and stabbed five times in the chest and arm.

The attack on the two men typifies the rebel terrorism which broke opt in Southern Laos in mid-September.

South Laos military Commander Col. Phasouk Somly said five or six village chiefs have been killed.

Plon and Sing were brought from their village, Ban Khot Nhai, about 15 miles from Paksong.

"Five rebels came to my house and told me I was a spy, took me out and stabbed me," he told a newsman.

"There were another 20 Pathet Lao outside the village."

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile another group went to Plon's house, called him out and slashed at his throat. Plon ran away.

"They also took a teacher and four villagers into the forest," Sing said. "The teacher and two men came back, but two others didn't."

Asked what he thought of rebels and whether he would return to his village, Sing said "I don't want to see them or be near them. I will go back to settle my things, then leave my village."

The head of the village said he wouldn't return, but would join the army to kill all rebels.

They are being treated by Philippine doctors of "Operation Brotherhood" at this tiny, cool mountain town 30 miles east of Pakse, the chief city of Southern Laos.

Dr. Jesus Datu, 32, who sewed Plon's throat, said the 11-member Philippines team is now driving back to Pakse every night for security reasons.

Paksong has a garrison of one platoon and a police post of six men armed who always carry U. S. carbines and hand grenades on their belts. Policemen and local officials spend their nights in a military camp.

When this reporter drove to Paksong the taxi passed three army trucks on the way, carrying six soldiers, each holding carbines and automatic weapons in readiness.

★ ★ ★

One platoon of army troops with French helmets was strewn along a village with a machine gun pointed toward the jungle.

"The population is afraid of being killed by the Pathet Lao," the Paksong district chief said. "I am afraid, too."

Yearn for Red Trade

Strained Relations Ahead for U. S., Brazilians

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

The traditional bonds of friendship between the United States and Brazil are in for some severe strains in the coming months.

Some will be the results of next year's election campaign in which Brazilian nationalists and the nation's strong Communist party both will indulge in their favorite sport of flailing the Yanqui whipping boy.

The other will spring from Brazil's always-precarious economy and her attempts to cure those economic ills through flirtations with the Soviet Union, her satellites and Red China.

A hint of things to come was seen in a recent warning by the U. S. Ambassador to Brazil, John Moors Cabot, that overtures to the Communists could wreck the present "fruitful collaboration" between the two nations.

★ ★ ★

Cabot spoke only hard truths. The U.S. not only is Brazil's biggest buyer but it also has the greatest foreign investment in Brazil.

U.S. dollar aid was the main factor in preventing Brazil from going broke long before now.

Any close alignment with the Communist nations not only would be distasteful to the U.S. economically, it also would present a strategic threat. Brazil now has an agreement permitting U.S. missile tracking stations on Brazilian soil.

Despite optimistic Brazilian statements about the nation's financial condition, these are some of the conditions now existing:

Brazil ended the first half of 1959 with a balance of payments deficit of 150 million dollars.

★ ★ ★

Her trade deficit was 32 million dollars.

This year she must service the government's foreign debt to the tune of 250 million dollars.

The government bases part of its optimism on the fact that coffee exports have jumped some two million dollars monthly since July, and the fact that foreign investments in the first half of the year amounted to some 41 million dollars.

However, critics of the government contend that these developments simply stave off the evil day for the Brazilian economy, unless Brazil is willing to install a harsh austerity program.

Meanwhile, in a desperate search for new funds, the govenment has begun to look toward the Communist nations.

One of these is a billion dollar credit deal offered by Russia, including a bilateral trade agreement amounting to 280 million dollars.

In addition there have been reported deals with Poland and Czechoslovakia for ships and steel rails and a barter deal with Russia for 200,000 tons of crude oil. Red China has offered to buy 500,000 bags of coffee for cash.

Inside Brazil, nationalist and Communist forces are clamoring for legislation which would bear down heavily on the 500 million dollars in U.S. money already invested there.

One would permit the government to intervene in the nation's economy at any time it chose. This could mean expropriation.

Mines Produce Much

HELENA—Montana copper mines have yielded more than seven billion pounds of ore, representing about 17 per cent of the total output of the United States since about the year 1845.

The United States bought 20 per cent of Turkey's exports and supplied 18 per cent of her imports during the first seven months of 1959.

Apply Silent Treatment on HIM for a Change

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband gives me the silent treatment when he gets mad at me. I would much rather have him yell his head off and get it out of his system. He is in the third week of his silence and it is about to kill me.

ABBY

I follow him around and ask him what I did wrong but he doesn't say a word. He just gets up and walks out of the room. No one knows how aggravating this can be. He gave me the silent treatment for eight weeks once for losing his bank statements. I have no idea what I did wrong this time. Have you any solution? We've been married 52 years.

PUNISHED

DEAR PUNISHED: After living with this "silent partner" for 52 years you should know how to pry a little conversation out of him. Ignore him. When he realizes his silence is not producing the desired effect — you'll hear plenty.

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy of 15. My mother drives me to school every morning because I live to far to walk and there is no bus. When I get out of the car I always kiss my mother goodbye. The kids razz me about this. I feel embarrassed but I couldn't leave my mother without kissing her goodbye. Should I stop kissing her or not?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Continue to kiss her. Pay no attention to the kids.

DEAR ABBY: May I offer a bit of encouragement to the widow whose husband shot himself: You say you are confused because you thought you had a happy marriage, but now there are rumors to the contrary.

Psychiatrists tells us that suicides are people who are emotionally and mentally ill. This suicide need cast no reflection on your marriage. If you "thought" you were happy for 23 years, then you obviously were.

Rumor and gossip will accompany a suicide until we convert the ignorance of our society to understanding. Devote yourself to one other worthy cause beside your children. Try the mental health program. After all, who should help promote this cause but those who know?

And keep your faith in God. His love is broader than the measure of man's mind. Live with the memory of your 23 happy married years. Memory is a gift from God that neither death nor gossip can destroy. Every word that I have written is true because it is the story of my life. I am—

Tears Needed to Wash Away Vengeance

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

It's in Act II of William Shakespeare's King Lear: Though he has divided his kingdom between his two daughters, they have just announced that they are depriving him of what he believes are his rights as their father and benefactor.

Frantic, he cries out to them:

"I will have such revenges on you both . . . You think I'll weep. I have cause for weeping but this heart shall break into a hundred-thousand flaws or ere I'll weep." And turning to his faithful jester groans, "Oh, fool, I shall go mad!"

And mad he goes, indeed, as the frustrations of his vengeful anger at his disappointing children mounts.

Perhaps his tears could have saved his sanity.

This point is made by noted psychiatrist Dr. Harold F. Searles in his contribution to a new book titled, "Advances in Psychiatry."

May I recommend it to a Mrs. L. who writes:

"Three years ago my son married a divorcee with two children. He knew he had broken my heart because I warned him I would never have anything to do with his wife. Now he keeps begging me to visit them. Why should I let bygones be bygones when he has hurt me so?"

And when you don't want to relinquish the power to hurt him back?

Fortunately, Mrs. L., as King Lear discovered, mantaining vengefulness toward children who have hurt us puts an unnatural strain upon us.

Because what we really feel is not vengeful anger at all, but grief — grief for their lost dearness to us. And so long as we misinterpret our grief as anger, feeding it with bitter memories instead of crying the tears we need to cry, we're bound to feel as uncertain and mixed up as you feel. How else could it be? Tears belong to a "broken heart" just as blood belongs to a cut in our leg.

But in this odd world that so often divides us from ourselves, it can be very hard to feel our grief for the hurt a child has given us.

All our pride rises up to separate us from it. It keeps reminding us of what our son owed us instead of what he gave us. Try to remember what the boy gave, Mrs. L.

★ ★ ★

Let the memories of his dearness flood back and have their way with you. Weep your tears, and you won't have to ask me whether to let bygones be bygones.

GOP Women Plan Club

Republican women met last week at the home of Mrs. William H. Beatty in Birmingham to discuss plans for organizing a Republican Women's Club three and in Troy.

Expressing a need for a club in this area, Mrs. B. Minor Kingsbury said "The time has come for women to tackle the job of good government in the same way we have bettered our schools through our PTA's. We need a means of becoming informed on our government and then a means of informed, united action. Govermnent is politics, and politics is you."

The next meeting of the group will be Nov. 5 at the home of Mrs. Jean S. Greene in Birmingham. Any women may contact Mrs. Greene for further information.

Art From Morocco Will Be Displayed

An exhibition entitled "Children's Paintings from Morocco" will go on view at the Young People's Art Center Galleries at Cranbrook Academy of Art from Nov. 8 to Nov. 29. The 30 paintings are being circulated by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service.

They were selected from drawings by children aged six to 14 who live in five Moroccan cities.

Girls Carry Own Books at Times

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Quite frequently I walk home from school with a girl who lives on the same street as I do. I would like to know if I am supposed to carry her books for her? I was chided the other day by another schoolmate for not doing so. Is it considered ungentlemanly of me to allow her to carry her own book?"

Answer: If you have few or no books of your own and she is laden down with them, it would be ungentlemanly of you not to offer to help her. But if you yourself have many books, you would not be expected to add hers to yours.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it incorrect to put two kinds of foods in the mouth at one time? For example: One's dinner plate contains steak, baked potato and peas. Is it incorrect to gather a small amount of peas together with a small amount of potato on the fork and place them in the mouth at one time?

"I have witnessed people taking a small amount of peas and putting them in the mouth, then a little potato and puting it in the mouth and then a little meat and so on until a sufficient mouthful is obtained. This to me is not only incorrect but requires a lot of unnecessary motion."

Answer: It is not incorrect to take a small amount of both peas and potato with your fork at the same time and to do so is infinitely better than storing one food in your mouth and then adding another so that both may be chewed and swallowed together.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When two women and a man enter a taxi cab, how should they be seated? Do the two women sit side by side and the man on the end, or does he sit between them?"

Answer: He sits at the end, after having helped both the women in.

An Old Fashioned Cake With Hickory Nuts

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

We have been delighted with the number of recipes coming to us through the mail recently. This one comes from Mrs. Howard Hatt of Birmingham. She says old-fashioned Hickory Nut Cake is a "real treat for this time of year."

OLD-FASHIONED HICKORY NUT CAKE
By Mrs. Howard Hatt

¾ cup butter
2 cups sugar
1 cup cold water
4 egg yolks, well beaten
½ teaspoon each cinnamon and mace
3 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
2 cups blanched hickory nuts, chopped fine

Cream butter and sugar. Add cold water and beaten egg yolks. Sift dry ingredients and add. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Dredge chopped nuts with a little flour and add gradually to cake batter, stirring well all the time.

Pour into greased loaf cake tin. Cover with piece of oiled paper for first 30 minutes. This prevents cake from becoming too brown. Remove paper and bake another 30 minutes.

Frosting

1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup sour cream
1 cup hickory nuts

Boil cream and sugar until thick. Add nuts and beat until mixture is of spreading consistency. Spread on cooled cake.

Today's Story
"The Things You Did Last Summer"

Remember those great pictures you took on vacation this summer? Think you could put your hands on them right now? Probably wouldn't take more than five minutes of rummaging through your dresser drawer to fish them out.

And that's my point. Half the fun of taking pictures is having them handy to look at and show off. If you need a show place for your snapshots, we'll be glad to show you a complete collection of family-size albums.

And speaking of summer pictures. Did you ever send those extra prints to all the people you promised? Now's the time to do something about it. Just bring in your negatives and we'll help you clear up your conscience about it.

If you have a couple of shots you're particularly proud of, let us take a look at them. Maybe they'll look extra good as big enlargements, suitable for framing or sending.

All this jabbering about pictures reminds me of something I like to remind YOU of from time to time.

Whenever pictures or picture taking are the subject there's just one place we'd like you to head . . . to our counter. We're always ready to advise you on the purchase of a new camera for yourself or as a gift. And you can always bank on finding the latest in the world of photography on our shelves. Needs Treating

Some Baldness May Leave

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Yesterday I wrote about "pattern" or inherited baldness. There are several other kinds and many other causes. For instance there is premature baldness which usually starts soon after the 25th year or may appear even sooner. This may be due to an imbalance of hormones or poor care of the scalp and hair.

Gradual thinning or falling of the hair may come from deficiencies in the diet or from some glandular abnormality. Then of course, any dermatitis of the scalp such as acne or ring worm can cause a temporary or permanent loss of hair.

If such a condition is present, a skin specialist should be consulted immediately. When a gradual loss of hair occurs a physical check-up is in order.

Certain illnesses such as typhoid fever and scarlet fever or any long illness may cause the hair to fall. However, this kind of hair trouble is usually temporary since the hair grows back again when health is restored.

Then there is "area baldness." Suddenly one or more bald spots appear. The hair usually grows back. However, if this process is repeated medical help should be sought.

Light rays and mild chemical irritants sometimes are used in treating area baldness. This must be prescribed and supervised by a physician since there would be grave danger of injuring the hair follicles in the scalp if self-treatment were attempted.

GOOD NUTRITION

Good nutrition and scalp and hair hygiene will help you avoid some types of baldness. If you have noticed that your hair is becoming thin and falling out, you would be wise to see your family physician. He may feel that you need the help of a specialist and if so he will send you to one.

Except in the case of inherited baldness much can be done to stop the balding process if it is treated soon enough.

Auxiliary All Burned Up at Ax From Firemen

ORELAND, Pa. (AP) — Mary Bunting is all fired up today for her battle with the Oreland Volunteer Fire Co.

The company ignited the red-hot feud last June when it fired the Women's Auxiliary, of which Mrs. Bunting was president.

The auxiliary, composed of 35 women, recently hired a lawyer and went into Montgomery County Court seeking reinstatement on the grounds they could not be ejected because their 1959 dues had been paid and the action was in violation of their constitution.

The case is expected to come up within the next 10 days.

★ ★ ★

"We'll stand on our own two feet. Mrs. Bunting declared today. "We'l stalnd on our own two feet. It's the principle of the thing. They won't throw us out like they did the band and expect us to take it.

"We want to regain our privileges, our social standing. If the court upholds their action, we'll start a club of our own and help out such organizations as the Little League."

Since June there have been accusations and counter-accusations.

The women said a new guard of younger men officers was using "gestapo and dictatorial methods" in running the fire house.

★ ★ ★

The men charged that the women are interfering in the operation of the company.

They also accused the women of being extravagant in using auxiliary funds for a pleasure trip to New York and a fling at the Copacabana.

The big thing that really added fuel to the fire was the recent disbanding of the band. The women said it was done for no reason.

A company officer said the band was disbanded because members who used to march for nothing began seeking $10 to $15 per engagement.

★ ★ ★

"Besides," the officer added, "their uniforms were shabby and had to be replaced. They wanted us to buy the new uniforms.

"Our primary objective is running a fire company and fighting fires. We are not running a music place."

About the only thing the two groups have agreed on is that the fire company is doing an extremely efficient job of fighting fires—the other kind, that is.

With a Kazoom-Pow and Razmataz

Bouncing Betty Hutton's Back

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Everything is Coo-Coo and Razmataz with Betty Hutton.

"It's been a Kazoom-Pow day with a cherry on the top," says the blonde and bumptious star, in New York for general hi-jinks in connection with her new TV show. Wearing orange silk pants and shirt, she scampers about her hotel suite beaming:

"I couldn't wear these pants until I lost 15 pounds rehearsing for TV. It's great for the figure."

Betty's vocabulary has caused some confusion of late. So she explains:

"Coo-Coo can express almost anything —it's all in the intonation. Said like a dove it means you're swooning with joy, or 'Wow!' Said sharply it can mean something like 'You're crazy, or 'Oh, the heck with it.' A very useful word.

"Kazoom-Pow of course means the greatest, the tops, the living end. And when I say—'with a cherry on top,' I mean that's the ultimate final touch — nothing could be better."

Betty is a girl from the wrong side of the tracks in Battle Creek who started singing on street corners at the age of 11, to help her mother, and who crashed show business at 15, singing with an orchestra. She was almost a flop until she lost her temper one night and started jumping on top of the piano and screaming across the footlights. From then on she was a hit.

Betty went from the orchestra bit to Broadway and then to Hollywood, where she hit her stride as star of such hits as "Annie Get Your Gun" and "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Betty's mother has had all the strawberries and cream she can use for some years now, as daughter's fame grew in Hollywood. And Betty now is busy seeing that her two daughters, 12-year-old Lindsay and 11-year-old Candy, do their homework and take their vitamins.

Betty has been hunting for some time for the right TV vehicle, and now she thinks she has found it, as Goldie, the secretary who inherits a fortune and guardianship of a family.

Hunter-Farmer Relations Better

Small Party Has Good Chance to Get Owners' Permission

EAST LANSING — Sportsman-farmer relations in Michigan can be improved but the situation isn't as discouraging as some people believe, according to Charles Shick of the fisheries and wildlife department at Michigan State University.

"A survey made last year by the Michigan Dept. of Conservation," Shick notes, "shows that four out of five land owners allowed a party of two strangers to hunt game on their lands.

"And even during the early part of the small game season when pressure was greatest, about 60 per cent of the southern Michigan farmers allowed hunting."

The survey also indicated that many farmers allowed hunting even though their lands were posted against trespassing, Shick reports. "In most instances the land owner who had his place posted did so because of previous hunter-trespass problems."

★ ★ ★

Even with the favorable situation that is pointed out in the survey, the wildlife specialist believes that there is opportunity to improve hunter-farmer relations.

"Farmers," he says, "like to know the persons hunting on their lands. For this reason people should ask permission to hunt.

"Farmers do not like large hunting parties. Two and possibly three people with one dog will have a better chance to hunt than a party of four or five."

"Courtesy, safety and common horse sense," according to Shick, "will do much to create a friendship between sportsmen and land owners."

Rochester Gets Set for Gala Halloween

ROCHESTER — The Kiwanis Club of Rochester will join with area elementary and high school students and the community to make the village's Halloween celebration a bright, fun-filled and safe event, Robert Smitha, newly-elected club president, said today.

★ ★ ★

For the elementary school children, there will be classroom parties Friday, Oct. 30, with Kiwanis furnishing cider, doughnuts and crackerjack.

Attendance by junior and senior high school students at separate dancing parties Saturday night, Oct. 31, will swell student participation to over the 5,000 mark, Smitha said.

For these parties on Halloween itself, Kiwanis will provide orchestras from 9 to 11:45 p.m., refreshments and prizes.

Members of the community are invited to join in a 20-minute do-it-yourself Halloween flare period. The Rochester Volunteer Fire Dept. will sound the siren at 7 p.m. as a signal for residents to light flares in their front yards.

Well before Halloween, Kiwanians will sell flares throughout the Rochester area with the earnings earmarked for the parties and other youth work in the community, the president reported.

WILL GIVE $150

Avon Township and the Village of Rochester also will contribute $150 each for the students parties, he said.

Richard Huizenga heads the flare sale committee with Russell Williams as cochairman.

Jack Mitzelfeld is chairman of industry sales, and Williams is coordinating sales to businesses.

★ ★ ★

A committee headed by Carl Simon will sell flares to suburban homes Saturday. Visits to village homes will be next Monday. They will be coordinated by Huizenga.

★ ★ ★

Also serving on the general flare sale committee is Henry Mitzelfeld. And cochairman for industry is Emil Sell.

Roger Weymouth is in charge of plans for the classroom and dancing parties.

Hearing on Robbery Adjourned to Oct. 23

OAK PARK — The hearing on an armed robbery charge against a Detroit 15-year-old held in the shooting of an Oak Park man has been adjourned until Oct. 23. It will take place in Detroit Recorder's Court.

★ ★ ★

John Mays Jr. of 8840 Greeley St. has admitted shooting Joseph Weinman, 38, of 22110 Cloverlawn St. in his Detroit pawnship Sept. 29 during a holdup, police said.

Weinman, with a bullet wound in his stomach, is on the critical list at Receiving Hospital in Detroit.

Mays will be tried as an adult with an alleged accomplice, William Floyd Jr., 23, of Highland Park.

★ ★ ★

Sixty dollars was taken during the daylight robbery.

Flare Night Sale to Be Repeated

Exchange Club Group at Brooklands Works on Halloween Project

BROOKLANDS — Repeating a project which has received major attention the past several years in its service area, the Exchange Club of Brooklands is presently engaged in its annual Flare Night sale.

Members of the club, directed by Jack Fetterly, program chairma, are divided into two teams to sell the flares. Jeno Poli is captain for the area east of Dequindre road while Harold Weaver has been assigned to the section west of the Oakland - Macomb county line.

Flares are to be lighted at 7 p.m. on Halloween at the sound of the fire siren in both Brooklands and Shelby Township where residents will give a united demonstration of community interest in the project.

Being the only service club between Rochester and Utica, the Exchange Club hopes to have support of both residents and businessmen in the sale so that it may continue its service to the community, according to Michael Monicatti Sr., new club president.

Among the annual club projects are Halloween cider and doughnuts for the children of Brooklands, Avon, Gethsemane, Auburnshire and West Utica elementary schools. The Exchange Club regularly sponsors the Cub Scouts, and each year sends a boy to Wolverine Boys State.

An MSUO scholarship is being awarded as the most recent club endeavor.

Other officers who are beginning their new terms of office, besides Monicatti, are Jean High, vice president; the Rev. Norman Kuck, secretary, and Fetterly, treasurer.

VETERAN TRAINERS — These seven members of the training staff at Leader Dogs for the Blind, Avon Township, represent a total of 80 years of experience in the field of training dogs and blind persons to work together as a unit. From left are James Henderson, 7 years; Vincent Syracuse, 13 years; Dick Dodd, 13 years; John Webb, 6 years; Chuck Wilcox, 2 years; Dick Zika, 13 years, and Fred Maynard, 26 years. An international counselor in this type of work, Maynard has been associated with the local institution since it was organized in 1939.

Groups Would Cut Delinquency

Area May Be 10th in County Using Judge Moore's Project

KEEGO HARBOR—A resolution providing for child protection and youth assistance committees will be presented to the City Council here at their regular meeting tonight.

Adoption of the resolution would make Keego Harbor the 10th area in Oakland County to accept the program set up by Juvenile Court Judge Arthur E. Moore.

The purpose of the program, to be presented to the council by Keego Harbor Youth Officer Arthur R. Holmes, is to assist socially maladjusted families, children and youths at the local level.

"The whole idea," Holmes said, "is to stop delinquency before it starts."

"We already have some citizens interested in the program. At a meeting last Monday we had 27 persons there who said they favored the resolution."

The program set up by Judge Moore calls for the creation of two committees. One includes 10 citizens from the community and another committee would be made up of five case workers.

★ ★ ★

The citizens' committee would do no casework, nor would they contact any child or family.

Their purpose would be to formulate plans for the program, interpret it to the community, gain support for children's needs and aid in the conditions and facilities of the community for child welfare.

The case work committee would receive its work from the citizens' committee and work directly with the child or family.

This second committee would be made up of experts in the field of child welfare, such as school principals, nurses, juvenile officers, police officers, probation officers or recreational personnel.

Officer Holmes, who has been working on this program for the community for seven months, said it would "take time" to see the progress but that it has worked effectively in other communities.

Plan 'Anne Frank' Play Three Nights in Rochester

ROCHESTER — The curtain is about to rise on the Avon Players' production of "The Diary of Anne Frank" to be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at Rochester Junior High School. Curtain time will be 8 p.m. Thursday and 8:30 the next two nights.

Leading roles in the Pulitzer Prize-winning play are taken by Mary Stewart, who plays Anne, and Don Weston, cast as Anne's courageous father.

Other talented local thespians in the play are Don MacMillan, Mrs. Averyl Clute, Bonnie Stratton, Jim Jackson, Jack and Nancy Humphreys and Margaret Boyle.

Jack Bohr of Bloomfield Hills also is cast in an important role in the forthcoming production being directed by Richard McGowan.

★ ★ ★

"The Diary of Anne Frank," a forceful drama touched with pathos is expected to be one of the biggest box-office attractions yet offered by the local players' group, McGowan said.

Beyond its importance as an outstanding theatrical work of the decade, the moral implications speak out freely and strongly at injustices committed against minorities throughout the world, according to the critics.

Special student admission prices will be set for opening night. Student and regular tickets will be on sale at the door preceding the 8 p.m. curtain time on Thursday.

Regular performance tickets will be sold before 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the school and also at Purdy's Drug Store, Main street, Rochester.

Hitchhiker Beaten; Police Search for 3

State Police are searching today for three youths who allegedly beat up a college student and left him unconscious in a ditch on the Brighton expressway after giving him a ride.

Philip Petix, 20, of 31470 Bellvine Trail, Birmingham, a freshman at Michigan State University, told police that he was hitchhiking back to college Sunday evening at the corner of Grand River and Eight Mile road when three boys in a green and white 1955 Buick offered him a ride.

★ ★ ★

Petix, who got in the front seat because two of the boys were in the back, said the next thing he remembered was waking in a ditch near the Novi road ramp.

★ ★ ★

He told police that $5 was missing from his wallet, but his suitcase was next to him in the ditch.

Petix's father, Dr. Samuel C. Petix, said his son had bruises on his neck and back.

Judge Soon to Name Receiver in Dryden

Wanted: Lessee or Buyer for Elevator

DRYDEN — The move to try and put the bankrupt Dryden Farmers Elevator and Supply Co. back on its feet has hit a snag.

★ ★ ★

Richard J. Bahls, Lapeer attorney representing at least one of the major stockholders in the now-defunct company, consented yesterday to let the court appoint a permanent receiver.

Bahls had previously asked Lapeer County Circuit Judge Timothy C. Quinn for a two-week stay to allow him to see if he could stimulate any interest from potential backers who might want to purchase the firm.

Bahls said today that he had found a number of people who would be interested in leasing but nobody inclined to buy the business.

★ ★ ★

The attorney added that those interested in leasing with a view to future purchase could do so under a permanent receivership and there was no need to hold up court proceedings further on the matter.

Judge Quinn plans to review the candidates for permanent receiver before making the appointment, a court spokesman said today.

Robert C. Tripp, manager of the First National Bank branch in Dryden, has been acting as temporary receiver. He said he is not seeking the permanent position.

Stockholders and creditors stand o lose some $200,000 in the collapse of the Dryden concern. The elevator was closed Aug. 1 when no money could be raised to finance handling of the summer harvest.

Financial problems had started months before when the firm ventured into the implement business.

Acreage Increase Brings Record Output

Advise Farmers to Store Part of Corn Crop

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Michigan farmers wondering what to do with their record corn crop might be wisest to store much of it, according to one farm economist.

★ ★ ★

Michigan was one of the states that contributed to the national crop of about 4.4 billion bushels, said John Ferris, economist at Michigan State University.

A primary reason for the bumper crop was that farmers put more land into corn this year. This increased acreage was prompted by several things but largely because the government lowered price supports on soybeans, Ferris said, making corn more attractive.

Soybeans and corn compete with each other because they are grown on similar soils. When the government lowered the soybean support, farmers naturally turned more of their land over to corn.

★ ★ ★

This situation occurred not only in Michigan, Ferris said, but throughout most of the country's corn belt.

Coupled with this was a slightly higher support price for corn than was the case a year ago. Acreage allotments were abandoned in Michigan, Ferris said, and corn came under a support price of $1.13-1.16.

The increased acreage for corn was a reversal of the past trend. Ferris said total acreage for the past 10 years or so had been decreasing.

LOWEST IN YEARS

He said the elevator price for corn in the Lansing area was about 87 cents a bushel and was the lowest in five years with exception of about a week last year.

This price is for dry corn. Most corn right out of the fields now is about 20 per cent moisture, bringing the buying price down to about 75 cents.

The heavy production of corn helped offset some losses in other feed grains, Ferris said. He estimated 20 per cent drop in oat production was combined with losses in barley and grain sorghum.

So the total increase of these grains and corn only amounted to about 6 per cent, Ferris estimated, meaning more of this year's heavy corn crop could go for feed.

★ ★ ★

He predicted many people would be selling corn right out of the picker and that a lot of corn cribs would be overflowing.

Farmers can do well by storing their corn until after harvest. With support prices at $1.15 throughout most of the country, a farmer can come out ahead by putting his corn in commercial storage at a price of about 1.5 cents a bushel a month if his permanent storage space is gone.

At this rate, the advantage in storing and not selling now, would hold until prices jumped to a dollar bushel, Ferris said.

Besides commercial storage, farmers could make use of temporary facilities such as barn floors which are clean and strong. County extension agents have plans for economical pole-type cribs and snow fence structures, he said.

Heustis Named Head of Health Conference

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's health commissioner, Dr. Albert E. Heustis, has been elected president of the Conference of State and Provincial Health Authorities of North America.

Hollywood Headlines:

Bel-Air's Flowers, Birds Irk City Boy Red Buttons

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Filthy rich Bel-Air is no place for a one-time burlesque comedian to settle down — even if he can afford it.

Red Buttons, a New Yorker all his life and a veteran burlesque funnyman, decided last June to live it up on the sunny side of the hog. He plunked down a sizable chunk of cash on a $100,000 mansion in Bel-Air, near the homes of Jerrry Lewis and other big celebrities.

Too timid to take this plunge all at once, Red spent a few nights in the Bel-Air Hotel to accustom himself to the neighborhood.

"That's all I needed," Red said, a wry grin on his mobile face.

"I've got the house up for sale now. I never so much as spent a night in it. You wonder why? Because I don't trust the neighborhood."

Red warmed to his subject with a happy wink.

CREEPY FLOWERS

"The place is full of trees, flowers and grass and birds. It gave me the creeps. The first night in that hotel and I jumped outa bed at 2 a.m. yelling, 'What's that!' It was so quiet it woke me up.

"Then I couldn't get back to sleep because the neighbors were making too much noise counting their money.

"The next night I'm awakened by the Bel-Air Patrol — that's the private police force they got. The patrol wanted to know if anybody was robbing me," Red complained slyly.

"Funny thing about Bel-Air, it's so snooty they got the only police department with an unlisted telephone number.

"And there isn't any jail in the place. They send their criminals down to the slums in Beverly Hills."

Disenchanted with Bel-Air as a homesite, Buttons moved back to an apartment at 81st St. and Central Park West in New York City seven stories high.

★ ★ ★

"Now that's real livin'," Red grinned.

"I can hear all the traffic noises and the fire sirens. If things get dull I can look out my window and watch all the juvenile gang fights out in the street. The trouble with Bel-Air is they made me walk around unarmed. I'm a big city boy, I don't like that jazz.

"Come to think of it, there really is no Bel-Air. It's a never-never land, a state of mind. And this I don't need.

Guggenheim Museum, 'Wright's Folly,' Opens

NEW YORK (UPI)—The ultra-known to some critical New Yorkers as "Frank Lloyd Wright's Folly," will open its big glass doors to the public this week a dozen hectic years after the master architect created it on his drawing board.

★ ★ ★

Wright died last April at 89, but he had personally superintended all but the finishing touches on the cream-colored, spiraling showcase for modern art on upper Fifth Avenue.

It is the final monument to the talent and tenacity of the crusty old man who designed nearly 800 buildings during his career.

The Guggenheim museum is the first and only buidling in New York designed by Wright, who believed "medieval, outworn" Manhattan was dying and predicted that grass would be growing in its streets by 1975. Manhattan's current building boom, the greatest in its history, has proved Wright a false prophet.

★ ★ ★

The 2.5 million dollar museum will be dedicated formally Wednesday by Arthur S. Flamming, secretary of health, education and welfare. The ceremony will be attended by a host of national notables and city fathers, some of whom were opposed originally to the building's erection.

MUCH BICKERING

Construction was held up for the better part of a decade by bickering officials who claimed the museum would violate the building code and constitute a potential firetrap.

For years Wright and the Guggenheim board refused to budge, but finally they made a few concessions in order to obtain a building permit.

The exterior has been completed since early last year, but even blase New Yorkers haven't gotten used to its strange, topheavy architecture, rather aptly described by one sidewalk superintendent as "inverted potty style."

The building is closely surrounded by turn-of-the-century mansions and apartment buildings and suffers because it lacks space. Wright conceived it as "a little temple in the park," but all he got for his temple was a frontage on Central Park.

However, the interior is everything a museum should be and usually isn't. Paintings will be displayed along one third of a mile of ramp which rises gently six stories around the windowless interior walls of the cylindrical structure. Elevators all along the ramp provide exits at any level.

DOME IS GLASS

A huge cover-all dome of wire-supported glass will funnel a maximum of sunlight into the open center of the cylinder and onto the paintings along the ramp and sculpture exhibits on the main floor. The latest in museum lighting will be used to augment natural light.

The Guggenheim collection, which had been housed for many years in a converted mansion on the site, will be seen for the first time in its entirety.

It was begun by the late mining magnate Solomon R. Guggenheim and spans 70 years of modern art with emphasis on non-objective painting.

Guggenheim approved Wright's plans for the museum before his death in 1949. The project has been pushed to completion by Guggenheim's nephew, Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Solomon R. Guggenheim Foundation.

U.S. Output Hard Hit, T-H Injunction or No

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Industry across the nation continues to be hard pressed by the nationwide steel strike. And the anticipated court injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act to end the 98-day-old strike isn't expected to help much.

Industry leaders have said that even if the injunction brings the steel strike to a halt for 80 days it will take six weeks or so for the mills to reach 90 per cent of capacity. This leaves the industries with little hope of quick relief.

★ ★ ★

The strike has already idled more than 249,000 employes in the farm equipment, railroad and other industries. And more layoffs are expected each week, Taft-Hartley law or no Taft-Hartley law.

Hardest hit is the auto industry. Sources have indicated that more than 61,000 employes of the General Motor organization alone are furloughed. Almost all GM car production is due to halt by Nov. 1 because of a lack of steel. Most observers in the auto industry believe that even if the steelworkers go back to work deliveries of the many varied types of steel needed to build cars would lag.

★ ★ ★

Chrysler and Ford are better off. Both companies said they can assemble cars well into November and probably another month. American Motors and Studebaker-Packard apparently are even better off than that.

The strike is also taking a deep bite out of the national defense. The government — feeling the pinch—has ordered the steel industry to give top priority to items destined for use in missiles, launching sites and nuclear submarines as soon as the strike ends.

★ ★ ★

The construction industry isn't faring much better. The American Institute of Steel Construction was quoted as saying the steel strike is starting to hurt badly now. Construction activity fell 4 per cent during the month of September. It is expected to take an even greater tumble during the month of October.

★ ★ ★

Other industries hard hit by the strike are appliances and farm equipment. Mass shutdowns are expected to be necessary early in November in the appliance industry—injunction or no injunction. The reason—lack of a steel supply.

★ ★ ★

Operators of the Great Lakes ore fleet are expected to have their ships moving again within a few days if the steelworkers are ordered back to work. A spokesman for the Pittsburgh Division of U.S. Steel Corp., operator of the largest fleet on the lakes, said his firm hoped to have all 57 of the company's barges running within seven days if the injunction is put into effect.

Drive Aims to Spur School Aid Law

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Education Assn. has launched a campaign aimed at having the State Senate reverse its action in killing legislation which would have enabled Michigan to participate in the National Defense Education Act.

The MEA said its members were being asked to urge educators and interested citizens to contact senators this week, stressing the importance of a favorable bill.

Dr. E. Dale Kennedy, MEA executive secretary, said only Michigan, Wyoming and Arizona have failed to pass legislation allowing their schools to participate in the federal act. As a result, he added, Michigan schools lost out on almost $500,000 in federal monies this year.

Kennedy said passage of enabling legislation would put Michigan schools in line to accept nearly five million dollars in 1959-60.

★ ★ ★

The money would come in the form of grants for science, mathematics and modern foreign language equipment; establishment of programs of testing, guiding and counseling in secondary schools and improvement of school statistics gathered by state agencies.

Pistol-Packin' Widow

She Kidnaps Her Intended

ELKTON, Md. (AP)—An application for a marriage license at the courthouse went smoothly until the clerk, George Ellery, asked the prospective bridegroom:

"Now, will you raise your right hand and swear that the information in this license application is true?"

ROBERT K. WORRELL

"I won't swear," replied Robert K. Worrell of Moorestown, N.J., "until she gets that gun out of her bag."

★ ★ ★

That touched off a commotion and Sheriff Edgar Startt wound up arresting Angeline Sailer, 47, of Burlington, N.J.

The reluctant bridegroom, a 68-year-old retired seaman, told the sheriff Mrs. Sailer had come to his house with a gun Monday and forced him to accompany her to Elkton to get married.

★ ★ ★

"You're going to marry me or I'm going to kill you," he quoted her.

This city in northeastern Maryland is famed for its quickie marriages but state law now requires a three-day waiting period.

Mrs. Sailer was held in $500 bond on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. The sheriff found a .38 revolver wrapped in a fur piece in her car.

★ ★ ★

Another man with her, Alexa Jalmar Olson, 55, of Ocean City, N.J., was held for investigation.

Worrell told Sheriff Startt he had been going with Mrs. Sailer off and on for about 10 years but had said nothing about marriage.

He said the woman fired a shot into the ceiling of his home to prove her gun was loaded and Moorestown police checked the place and found a bullet hole in the ceiling. One shot had been fired when the sheriff found the revolver.

Senator Fong Urges Firm Stand on China

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The only U.S. senator of Asian descent today said the United States must defend Nationalist China's offshore islands.

★ ★ ★

"We must stand firm," said Sen. Hiram L. Fong (R-Hawaii), "on the lines now drawn—the 38th parallel in Korea and the offshore islands in the Formosa Strait.

"We cannot afford to let the offshore islands fall into the hands of the Communists."

★ ★ ★

Fong is making a tour of Asian and Pacific countries. He left today for Manila after a four-day stay on Formosa.

The senator said Formosa has all the makings of a tourist paradise and that its scenic beauty surpasses Hawaii's.

Switzerland's Glaciers Shriveling Up as Summers Growing Longer, Hotter

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—A gradual change in climate is threatening one of Switzerland's greatest tourist assets—the 95 big glaciers that girdle her Alpine peaks.

★ ★ ★

Like the "blue" Danube which turned a muddy gray many years ago, Switzerland's once ice-blue glaciers are getting progressively dirty.

And what is worse—they are shrinking at an ever increasing rate. More and more cracks are opening up on their big, round backs that bend down over the mountain sides.

A series of long, hot summers and a marked change in the Swiss climate are the main cause of a process that has alarmed many mountain-loving Swiss.

★ ★ ★

A recent study by the Swiss Alpine Club said that of 89 glaciers examined by experts last year, 83 had shrunk three to 783 feet in length in 12 months. Shrinkage during this abnormally warm year has been even bigger, although exact figures were not available yet.

What makes this especially sad from a tourist point of view is that those glaciers which protrude farthest into the valleys and are the most easily accessible are shrinking fastest.

The famous Grindelwald Glacier in the Bernese Oberland is "retracting" up the mountainside. The Fee Glacier in the Zermat region has shrunk by 1,337 feet within the last five years, and the Findelen Glacier by 1,567 feet in two years.

At the end of this summer, mountain climbers reported that the glaciers looked "awful."

★ ★ ★

"They are covered with dirt and dust," said Walter Kuhn, a scientist employed by the Swiss Weather Bureau.

"They are loosening up and are full of cracks."

Kuhn has been making special studies of climate changes in Switzerland.

"The average temperature in the Swiss Alps in the months from May to September—the period that affects the size of glaciers—has risen by as much as three degrees," Kuhn said.

"Once the glaciers started shrinking in the late thirties, the process was sped up progressively.

★ ★ ★

"As rocks and mountainsides were bared, they began to crumble away under atmospheric action, covering the glaciers with dust and small rocks.

"A dirty glacier melts faster than a clean one. The darker its surface, the more it absorbs sun warmth instead of reflecting it."

The shrinking of glaciers, in turn, influences average temperatures. The less ice there is around on a summer day, the higher the temperature.

Renaud reported in Die Alpen, the official oragn of the Swiss Alpine Club, that the area covered by Swiss glaciers has shrunk by 25 per cent in the past 83 years.

Shrinkage was 15 per cent between 1876 and 1934, and another 10 per cent in the 25 years since then.

Fasts to Protest Compulsory ROTC Training

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — An Air Force colonel's son has started a seven-day fast in protest against compulsory enrollment in the Reserve Officers Training Corps at the University of California.

Frederick Lawrence Moore Jr., 18, listed himself Monday as a conscientious objector to military training although he added that he is not a practicing member of any church.

★ ★ ★

The freshman mathematics student from Arlington, Va., circulated a petition and said he objected to "killing and any action aiding war or the purposes of war."

His father, who is assigned to the research and development division at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., was in Colorado on Air Force business but was expected to fly here. Young Moore said he would decide whether to continue the fast after talking with the colonel.

Robert Stayed in Russia . . . but WHY?

ZELIENOPLE, Pa. (AP) — Friends and relatives of Robert Webster searched for an answer today as to why the 30-year-old plastics specialist renounced his American citizenship for the Soviet way of life.

★ ★ ★

Webster's wife, Martha, seemed unable to cope with the situation at first. All she could say Monday was that she was shocked. Then she took her two children and went into a self-imposed seclusion. Mrs. Webster had come to Zelienople from the family's Cleveland residence two weeks ago.

★ ★ ★

"There is just no feeling for us at all," said Webster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Webster of Zelienople. Both were emotionally choked.

★ ★ ★

Webster appeared at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow last Saturday. He handed a signed statement to Consul Gen. Richard Snyder renouncing his American citizenship. He said he had been granted Soviet citizenship several weeks ago.

Webster went to Moscow last summer to work at the American exhibition as an employe of the Rand Development Corp. a plastics firm in Cleveland.

★ ★ ★

"At first he wrote regularly to us, but then in late July the letters stopped," said Webster's father. "Then, when the rest of the company personnel came home two weeks ago—without Robert — we knew something was wrong. The others said our boy had taken a tour of Russia. We continued in vain trying to reach him. And now this."

Rupert King, a fellow employe of Webster in Moscow, said Webster "had a girl friend of whom he saw a lot." King conjectured that this might have been one of the "reasons he deserted his country."

"You just couldn't ask for a better high school boy," said Webster's principal, Ronald Clouse of Zelienople High School. "Everybody is shocked. No one seems to know what to believe."

Senators Will Stay in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators won't move to Minneapolis this year.

Club owner Calvin Griffith announced last night his decision to remain in the capital, where the Senators have been since 1901.

His reason: He found out that some American League club owners refused to go along with the move. It would only take three no votes to blackmail the transfer.

Griffith did a tightrope act last year too about moving to Minneapolis. The Minnesota city has been trying to attract the Senators for several years, and has offered sizable guarantees.

Griffith said he agreed with his advisors that the latest Minneapolis offer "is for the best interests of all stockholders" of the club. Thus he seemed to be leaving the door open for another try next year to shift the franchise.

Will Change By-Laws to Admit 2 Teams

NFL Eager for Expansion

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Football League is so eager to expand by 1960 that it will even change its by-laws to suit the purpose.

George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears and chairman of the NFL expansion committee, yesterday announced plans to boost the league from 12 to 14 teams by next fall.

★ ★ ★

"We know we can't get a unanimous vote to expand in our January meeting," said Halas. "Therefore, we will change the by-laws that stipulate this and we know we can get the 10 required votes to do this."

Holding back unanimous approval for expansion is George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins. Marshall said in Washington "expansion is impractical, hasty, and definitely would hurt college football."

★ ★ ★

Halas said that he and acting commissioner Austin H. Gunsel held separate polls and learned that 11 of the 12 owners are in favor of immediate expansion. Halas said the owners also favored considering expansion to 16 teams by 1961 or 1962.

Dallas and Houston are the cities being wooed. Houston, however, must come up with a new stadium. If not, the franchise will go elsewhere, probably to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

★ ★ ★

Halas said the plans for expansion are "a culmination of five years of planning.

"Our intent," said Halas, "was to expand when competition among our clubs began to equalize itself on an extremely high level. We now have reached that plateau.

"Conditions for expansion never will be more ideal," the pro football pioneer continued. "Every team in the league is strong. There now is a sufficient backlog of experienced players available for the team in the new franchise city."

★ ★ ★

Halas went so far as to introduce the prospective owners of the proposed Dallas franchise at his press conference yesterday. They are oilman Clint Murchison Jr. and attorney Bedford Wynne. Halas also revealed the man behind Houston interests is Craig Cullinan who deals in oil investments.

Murchison said he felt Dallas is ready for pro football after having had years of it on television. In 1952, the Dallas Texans operated for one year and folded after losing something like $200,000.

★ ★ ★

The NFL's plan to move immediately into Dallas and Houston clash with those of the American Football League which plans to begin operations next year with the two Texas cities as key bases.

Lamar Hunt, Dallas oilman who is organizing the new league, said the NFL's plans do not "change our plans in the least."

In a report from Dallas, Hunt said "the NFL is making a serious mistake in bringing a club here—the competition is likely to cause both to lose money whereas one club here could operate profitably."

★ ★ ★

Hunt called the NFL's proposed move "sabotage."

"If you don't think it is sabotage," said Hunt, "consider that one of the NFL club owners made me and Bud Adams, the Houston franchise owner, a proposition to give up our league and take the Dallas and Houston franchises into the NFL."

Angry Wilson Ready to Fire Loafing Players

Coach Blasts Squad During Weekly Session With Fan Club

DETROIT (AP) — George Wilson is through coddling his winless Detroit Lions. From now on it's put out, or get out.

"We've got some ballplayers who are not giving out," Wilson said gloomily yesterday. "And they're not going to stay around here.

"I haven't warned anybody individually. But they're going to be told and I mean what I say. They better start producing right now, or else."

Wilson did not name the Lions in danger of being fired.

★ ★ ★

But he was extremely upset by the play Sunday — especially the blocking and protection for quarterback Tobin Rote. The Lions looked miserable in losing 34-13 to the San Francisco 49ers.

"We have no hustle, no blocking, no tackling," he told the Lions' Fan Club yesterday.

"The offensive line didn't do the job it was supposed to. It was one of the worst games we've played since I came here as an assistant coach in 1949. I'm not making any excuses — we just stunk."

★ ★ ★

Wilson's "put out or get out" ultimatum was the second of the young National Football League season. Mike Nixon warned 19 of his Washington Redskins their jobs were endangered three weeks ago. The Skins responded by winning their next two games before losing last Sunday.

The Detroit coach is hoping for the same response as the Lions leave for their annual jaunt to the west coast. They play the onsurging Los Angeles Rams Sunday and the 49ers again the following week.

The Fan Club, made up of undying loyalists, gave Wilson a rousing ovation. Sunday at Briggs Stadium Wilson and the Lions had been loudly booed.

★ ★ ★

"Our coaches are callous to booing," said Lion president Edwin J. Anderson. "I just don't want them to get used to it.

"I think our team has just been a little too nice this season. This club has to get rougher. It's been too docile."

Anderson charged that Joe Schmidt was deliberately kicked in the head by 49er lineman Ted Connolly in Sunday's game. Schmidt arose, swung wildly at Connolly and was ejected from the game.

"I hope some of our other players start taking a crack at somebody," Wilson said. "I just hope they don't get caught."

Evashevski High on List if 'M' Director Leaves

Veteran Athletic Boss Expected to Join New Pro Loop

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan may be in need of a new athletic director before the weekend for the first time in 18 years.

With Fritz Crisler reported ready to step down to become commissioner of the fledgling American Football League, a long list of possible candidates for the looming vacancy has appeared.

Prominent on the list is Forest Evashevski, one-time Wolverine quarterback under Crisler and already-resigned coach at Iowa.

Evy's resignation on his contract that runs through 1963 makes him available immediately after the end of the current season.

★ ★ ★

Sources at Michigan often have said Evashevski never could return to his alma mater "while Fritz is athletic director." But with Crisler gone, the way would be open for Evashevski to return.

Such a move would be immensely popular with Michigan's coaching staff—but perhaps not with segments of the alumni. Football coach Bump Elliott was an assistant under Evashevski at Iowa and remains a close personal friend.

Among others suggested as possible successors were Harry Kipke, Bennie Oosterbaan, Ivy Williamson, Elliott and Ernie McCoy. All have Michigan backgrounds and Kipke, Oosterbaan and Elliott have been head football coaches at Michigan.

Crisler, ex-Wolverine coach and athletic director since 1941, is prepared to accept a long-term deal at $60,000 annually to head the new AFL, said a reliable source.

★ ★ ★

The source added Crisler's announcement would come this week—probably Friday. A new athletic director could be named the same day. Michigan's Board of Regents meets Friday at Ann Arbor.

Crisler said he will be in Minneapolis Friday for a reunion with some of his old Minnesota football players. He coached at Minnesota before going to Princeton and in 1938 to Michigan.

Minneapolis is one of the six charter cities of the budding AFL, making it a logical location for any announcement by Crisler.

Crisler has declined all comment on the reports he would leave his nearly 40 years of college football work to go with the pros. Officials of the AFL likewise have declined comment pertaining to Crisler except that they have met with him.

Kipke was Crisler's predecessor as coach at Michigan. He currently is a highly paid executive with the Coca-Cola Corp. in Chicago. Kipke reportedly has influential alumni support.

Oosterbaan was Crisler's successor and coach of the Wolverines until this season.

McCoy is a former Crisler aide and now at Penn State.

Says 'Mistake' Hurt Against Sooners

Missouri Coach After Officials 2nd Week

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — "You can't give a team a 15-yard penalty and take a down away without it hurting," Missouri coach Dan Devine complained.

"That's what happened to us Saturday against Oklahoma. Of course, we were behind 9-0 and the penalty and lost down would have had no effect on that score, but I feel it did have an effect on the rest of the game."

Devine referred to a down that was lost when the teams switched goals at the close of the third quarter. The Missouri coach noticed the lost down immediately and ran on the field in protest.

Not only were his complaints ignored, but he was given a 15-yard penalty for interfering and delaying the game.

"I felt we were very much in the ball game until that time," Devine said, "but instead of having the ball with third down, we were faced with fourth down and a punting situation—and 15 yards deeper in our own territory."

He added: "We were behind Colorado 9-0 late in the game last year, but rallied to win. And we were trailing Michigan this year with less than a minute to go and won."

He admitted that the lost down was "a mistake," but he felt the officials should have rectified the error.

Oklahoma went on to win, 23-0, scoring two touchdowns in the last quarter.

It was the second time in as many weeks that Devine criticized officials. He blamed an official for a bad call in the SMU game a week ago, saying it was a "silly call" and adding that he thought it might have been the turning point of the game. SMU won, 23-2.

Films Indicate Official Erred on Vital Play

DALLAS (AP)—Abb Curtis, supervisor of Southwest Conference officials, said last night there was a strong possibility that the official missed a play in the Southern Methodist-Rice game that cost SMU a touchdown.

However, he added that he didn't know what could be done about it or if an official protest would be filed.

Curtis made his comment after viewing films of the game. The ruling was that Don Meredith, SMU passer, crossed the scrimmage line before throwing and the completed pass was canceled.

"From evidence of the film it looked like there is a strong possibility the official missed the play," Curtis declared.

But Curtis said he had no official complaint from SMU and didn't know whether it would be taken before the conference or not.

Last Barrier Down for Dodger Stadium

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The world champion Los Angeles Dodgers have cleared the last legal barrier against construction of their baseball stadium in Chavez Ravine.

The U.S. Supreme Court dismissed without comment yesterday the appeals of two taxpayers that would have blocked the city of Los Angeles from turning over the site to the Dodgers.

Work on grading the site started last month after the California supreme court upheld the transaction.

Kuenn Makes 2nd All-Star Unit

Kaline on Major League Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Nellie Fox, peppery second baseman of the American League pennant-winning Chicago White Sox, received the most votes for the 1959 Associated Press Major League All-Star team named today.

★ ★ ★

Fox was selected on 165 of the 173 ballots cast by members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America participating in the annual poll. Two White Sox teammates, catcher Sherm Lollar and right-handed pitcher Early Wynn, also were voted on the team.

Fox was one of four holdovers from last season's All-Star squad. The other repeaters were shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs and outfielders Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves and Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants.

★ ★ ★

Oddly enough, no member of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers was chosen to either the first or second teams. The National League, however, dominated the first team with six players as compared to four American Leaguers.

The remainder of the team included first baseman Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco, third baseman Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee, outfielder Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers and left-handed pitcher Johnny Antonelli of San Francisco.

Aaron was the second highest vote-getter with 163, followed by Wynn with 125. Then came Mathews with 119, Mays 118, Lollar 112, Banks 88, Antonelli 86 and Cepeda and Kaline 72 each.

★ ★ ★

Wynn, the American League's only 20-game winner, posted a 22-10 record for a .688 percentage. Antonielli won 19 and lost 10 for a .655 mark. Each pitcher wound up with identical earned run averages of 3.13.

D'Amato Denies Charges, Makes Some of His Own

NEW YORK (AP) — The little man who wasn't there denies all testimony at the state athletic commission hearings that implicated him in undercover shenanigans concerning promotion of the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight championship fight June 26.

★ ★ ★

Cus D'Amato, for whom the Commission searched fruitlessly before discovering he had sailed for Puerto Rico under an assumed name, last night through his attorneys issued a lengthy statement in which he not only denied accusations, but made a few of his own.

★ ★ ★

Not necessarily in order, D'Amato, who manages the dethroned Patterson said:

1—He was not hiding from the commission which sought to question him; he was just busy.

2—He never even knew, much less associated with, the unsavory characters whose names popped up at the hearings.

3—He never made a deal whereby he was to receive any remuneration from any manager of a challenger.

4—He charges the International Boxing Club with strangling the "little people" in boxing.

5—He was afraid the commission would not give him fair treatment at a hearing at which he was denied benefit of counsel.

6—The commission knew there was nothing sinister in the Harry Davidow case, but handled it in a sensational and injudicious manner.

7—The operation of Patterson Enterprises, Inc., including its TV contract with TelePrompTer, was strictly ethical.

D'Amato presently is under suspension by the commission and had been ordered to show cause why his license should not be revoked.

A prolonged search for a training camp for Patterson, and the necessity for his presence in Puerto Rico to condition another fighter prevented him from attending the hearings, D'Amato said in the statement released by Edwin S. Schweig and Julius November.

Horvath Still Top Scorer

MONTREAL (AP) — Bronco Horvath scored one goal in last week's play and still leads the National Hockey League's scoring race today, but his Boston line mates and a couple other Bruins have been scattered by the league's muscle men.

A week ago the Bruins were clustered around the top like a bunch of bananas. The new official statistics show Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of the Montreal Canadiens and Andy Bathgate of the New York Rangers have moved into second place only a point behind Horvath.

Terry Sawchuk of the undefeated Detroit Red Wings continues to set a blistering pace among the goalies. Sawchuk has been scored on only four times in five games and has a remarkable average of 0.80.

Holdout Dukes on Trade List

Giant Piston Back Home After Failing to Increase Pay

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Pistons have placed Walter Dukes on the trading block, the second time in eight months they've sought to unload one of their top stars.

Dukes, a bitter holdout, walked out of the National Basketball Assn. club's offices yesterday and said he was returning home to Newark, N. J.

Piston general manager Nick Kerbawy immediately went to work trying to trade the seven-footer to another club.

Late last season Kerbawy traded George Yardley to the Syracuse Nationals after the scoring star said he no longer wished to play for Detroit.

The Pistons won their 1959-60 season's opener, 106-105, over Minneapolis without Dukes.

Kerbawy said he and Dukes were $2,500 apart in their contract negotiations.

Bears Stole Colt Signals

A Spy in Baltimore Camp?

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts almost to a man are convinced the Chicago Bears stole their offensive signals, the Baltimore News-Post reported Monday.

"They have a better play book on us than we do ourselves," said quarterback John Unitas.

"I would take an oath that they got it," declared center Buzz Nutter.

"I got to think that there is somebody close to our team, some individual that we trust, who is telling the Bears everything we have," agreed Coach Weeb Ewbank.

Guard Alex Sandusky said the Bears in Sunday's game shifted defenses correctly on 90 per cent of signals changed by Unitas after lining up. "Do you think that's pure luck?" Sandusky asked.

Unitas also felt it was too much coincidence and changed the Colt system in the second half. The Colts led 7-0 at halftime, were tied 7-7 in the third quarter and scored twice in the last quarter to win 21-7.

Coach Ewbank is so concerned that the Colt system might have gotten so spread around that he is considering revising it completely for next Sunday's game with Green Bay.

Donitri Spassoff, the Bulgarian trainer of the Colts, has come up with an answer.

"I will call the check-offs in Bulgarian and that will confuse them," he suggested.

Duffy Sees Dogfight in Big Ten

More Optimism at 'M'

ANN ARBOR — It isn't often that a football team can find a silver lining wrapped around a defeat.

But with a team like Michigan, which is just beginning to make the long haul back to gridiron respectability, a good performance against an outstanding team can be indicative of better things to come.

That's how Michigan looks at its 20-7 loss to Northwestern, the No. 2 team in the country and the undisputed Big Ten leader.

It was the third straight game in which coach Bump Elliott's starless squad showed improvement. But the progress was most noticeable against the unbeaten Wildcats. As long as this improvement continues, there's reason for cautious optimism.

★ ★ ★

Whether the Wolverines were playing over their heads against Northwestern remains to be seen. The team undoubtedly was fired up trying to avenge last year's crushing 55-24 loss to the Wildcats. But its solid team effort leaves hope that it was part of genuine progress.

Proof will come Saturday when the Wolverines take to the road for the first time this season to play Minnesota, which has a 1-3 season record.

On the basis of comparative scores, the contest at Minneapolis this week should be a toss up. The Gophers, showing a strong defense, bowed to the Wildcats the week before, 6-0.

★ ★ ★

Michigan showed a weaker defense against the Big Ten leaders than did the Gophers, but the Wolverine offense clicked enough to make five serious scoring threats in the game—two in the final period which nearly pulled the game out.

The Gopher line, which averages nearly 220 pounds, presents a tough hurdle for Elliott's lightweight outfit. But Michigan's improving offense and three-team platoon system could offset Minnesota's big edge in size.

★ ★ ★

EAST LANSING (AP) "This could be one of those years two losses still would be good enough to win the Big Ten," mused Duffy Daugherty.

Not that the Michigan State football boss was doing any advance dreaming. But Daugherty sees the scores so far as an indication this will be another dog-eat-dog season in the conference.

"Northwestern is the team to beat and we get a chance at them later," observed Daugherty. "But right now we're pointing at Indiana."

Indiana and Michigan State share in the five-way tie for third with Wisconsin, Purdue and Ohio State on 1-1 conference records. Northwestern is tops with 3-0, followed by Illinois at 2-1.

Indiana has a better overall record than MSU with wins over Illinois, Marquette and Nebraska and only the single loss to Minnesota.

The Spartan pattern so far has been a bad Saturday followed by a good Saturday. The alternate down days were the 9-7 opening loss to Texas A. & M. and the 37-8 whipping by Iowa.

The up games both came when the Spartans were sky-high against traditional rivals—the 34-8 runaway over Michigan and the 19-0 shutout of Notre Dame.

Michigan State has been in the habit of kicking Indiana around since the series was revived in 1950. The Spartans won eight in a row through 1957.

Last year they were beaten 6-0 by the Hoosiers when Earl Faison blocked a field goal attempt, scooped up the ball and ran 92 yards for the single score.

The Spartans plunged into the rough stretch of their Big Ten season with the Indiana Homecoming game here Saturday. The following Saturday they meet Ohio State at Columbus, then are home for two games against Purdue and Northwestern.

Pheasant Season Opens With 250,000 in Field

By H. GUY MOATS

Bright, cool weather greeted Oakland County and Michigan pheasant and small game hunters today as the 1959 shooting season got under way. Ringneck shooting became legal at 10 a.m. and state conservation officials estimated that about 250,000 would be in the fields and woods during the day. The weekend is expected to more than double that figure.

Today also marks the start of the annual two-way Press "Pheasant Derby," with $50 and $25 in U.S. Savings Bonds the awards for Oakland County hunters entering the heaviest and longest birds, respectively. Derby closes on Nov. 10, with end of the season.

A pheasant take of about a million birds was the opinion of state game head Harry D. Ruhl, who indicated the conditions were not much changed from a year ago. Vic Jansen of the conservation department concurred in that estimate and added that "as far as the Oakland County area is concerned, there may not be as many birds this fall, but there will still be plenty to shoot at."

Birds are down in the Thumb area, but the outlook there, as well as in Macomb and Monroe counties, isn't too bad, Jansen says.

Best spots to look for birds, says Jansen, would be in general farming country. However, hunting pressure and lower temperatures may send the birds into marshlands where thicker cover is found.

Standing corn also may make the hunting somewhat harder in county areas.

Pre-season surveys indicated good hunting for grouse, rabbits, raccoons and squirrels.

Luplow Gets Chance With Cleveland Club

CLEVELAND (AP)—Al Luplow, the ex-Michigan State football player who signed a bonus baseball contract, will get his chance to make the Cleveland Indians next spring.

The Saginaw, Mich., youth, who was lured away from the campus amid howling from the Spartans' athletic family, was brought up to the Indians' roster yesterday.

Luplow played with Batavia in the Class D New York - Pennsylvania League in his first professional season and batted .310.

Blattner Resigns as Dean's TC Partner

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Buddy Blattner, who handled the game of the week on television with Dizzy Dean the past seven years, last night announced his resignation.

Blattner said he is considering offers from major league ball clubs and television networks.

Althea to Tour With 'Trotters

Miss Gibson and Karol Fageros to Play Tennis at Games

NEW YORK (AP)—Althea Gibson will play for cash instead of cups henceforth.

The Harlem tennis ace yesterday signed a professional contract calling for close to $100,000.

Making a simultaneous debut with the former Wimbledon and U.S. Champion is Karol Fageros, the "golden girl" from Miami, Fla., who will get $30,000 for opposing Miss Gibson in some 50 appearances on a four-month tour with the Harlem Globetrotters.

The first match will be held at Albany, N.Y., Dec. 29, as a preliminary to a Globetrotter game. The net contests will last from 40 minutes to an hour.

Abe Sapperstein, Globetrotter boss who is picking up the tab for the tennis players, is enthused over the prospects of a profitable tour.

Miss Gibson's contract is one of the largest ever paid a pro tennis performer, male or female.

Sapperstein said if the tour is a success he may renegotiate with the two girls for tours overseas.

Gray Market?... Tight Purse Strings?

Steel Strike Sure to Leave Marks

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The steel strike will have a dampening effect on industry and thus on the general economy for some time to come. And this in spite of any scramble to get steel again, which could bring on a gray market for a while.

The industrial slowdown gaining pace this month won't be easily reversed. For a time that pace would be the same whether the workers returned to the mills under a new contract or under a court injunction.

★ ★ ★

At first there would be a rush of steel shipments — products caught by the strike before they could move out of mills or struck warehouses. This would help a few companies but wouldn't last long.

Then on that day when the workers are finally back, there will be damaged furnaces to repair, and furnaces to heat up. There will be orders to be filled, left unfilled when the strike started. But that will take time. And new orders will be waiting—and waiting. For the little customer of the mills, it could be quite a wait while the big, steady ones get theirs.

Already the government has stepped in to order that steel for defense must be given top priority.

Those who opposed invocation of the Taft-Hartley Act calculated that at the best a court-ordered 80-day truce would give the mills about 60 days of top production. If no permanent settlement was reached during the truce, the mills would have to take days cooling their furnaces before the strike resumed.

★ ★ ★

But it is other industries that would go on suffering. Their stocks built up in expectation of the strike have been depleted. Many would have to close for a time after the mills started again because of the time lag in rebuilding these inventories.

★ ★ ★

And the economy in general would go on suffering for a time. There's the obvious drop in total personal income of the men on strike and those laid off because of steel shortages or the mills' lack of need for their products and services, coal and transportation.

There's the loss of purchasing power for the goods that other industries turn out and merchants sell. There's the probably tightening of some purse strings that merchants fear may affect what otherwise would be a record Christmas trade.

CONSTRUCTION DELAYED

Some projects — especially construction — have been postponed until steel shipments can be assured. There are those who wonder if perhaps many of these projects may have beeen cancelled because the incipient boom has been given a setback—no one can be sure whether the setback is temporary or not, or just how big a one it is.

★ ★ ★

But this is the long-term view. For the short term, the firing up of the furnaces should start up an inventory rebuilding spurt that will give industry's fever chart a big jump.

★ ★ ★

Iron ore boats would be racing against ice on the Great Lakes. The scramble for steel products now in short or even nonexistent supply will be a sight to see. The return of workers to jobs when their companies get the steel products they need will gladden every one's heart.

And that includes the U.S. Treasury. It has been losing income tax revenue—not only from the corporations affected but from the hundreds of thousands of individuals minus paychecks.

Suburbs Draining Off Eastern Cities' Vigor

NEW YORK (UPI) — A $600,000 study of the three-state New York metropolitan area warns that the suburbs are draining off much of the strength of New York City and other older cities within the area.

The first of nine volumes comprising the full report pointed to a population and industry shift from the center out into the suburban ring. The book, "Anatomy of a Metropolis," was published Sunday.

Industrial and residential blight already has set in in the focal areas, the report said. But it stopped short of predicting a complete withering away of the center.

One major cause of the shift is the automobile, which opened up the outer regions of the area ringing New York City to industrial and residential use, the three-year study said.

★ ★ ★

The report was directed by Harvard University and financed by grants from the Ford Foundation and the Rockefeller brothers' fund.

It was compiled for the Regional Plan Assn., an agency set up to promote coordinated development of the metropolitan area which includes parts of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

The report noted that more than a third of the jobs in the 6,900-square-mile area are supplied by a tiny core of less than 10 square miles in Manhattan's central business district.

★ ★ ★

It said the population and industrial movement to the suburbs not only kicked off the blight in central areas but also was spurred by that blight and the accompying growth of slums.

The economists, historians and political scientists who worked on the study expressed doubt that urban renewal projects would halt the trend.

They predicted, however, that the central New York City district would continue to be important for businesses which require face-to-face meetings. The city also will remain a hub for entertainment and culture, the experts said.

The eight further volumes in the study are to be published over the next nine months by the Harvard University Press.

Foreign Newsman Kept Out of Moscow

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Gustav Svensson, an Associated Press correspondent in Moscow since last November, has been barred from re-entering the Soviet Union.

★ ★ ★

Svensson was notified of this action after applying for exit and re-entry visas in order to visit his wife, recovering in a hospital here from an operation. He was told he would not be permitted to return, and in response to requests neither the Soviet Foreign Office nor police would give him an explanation.

★ ★ ★

Svensson, 45, is a Swedish citizen. He joined The Associated Press in Stockholm in 1946 and remained here until his assignment to Moscow. He was married in Helsinki early last September, at which time he was permitted to leave and return to Moscow, besides being granted larger living quarters.

Soybeans Rally After Declines

CHICAGO (UP)—Soybean futures rallied to move up fractions on the board of trade today after recent declines.

★ ★ ★

Demand for soybeans in early transactions was based principally on a firmer market for soybean meal and a higher hog market. Aside from these factors other developments were mostly bearish. The weather continues favorable for harvesting and reports from the country indicate more beans are being marketed.

The wheat market was dull and prices early in the trade were virtually unchanged from previous closes.

Transactions in corn too were on the quiet side with the trade waiting to see how much of the crop now being harvested will be brought to market.

Rye was a trading affair with prices little changed in early dealings.

★ ★ ★

Near the end of the first hour wheat was unchanged to ⅛ higher, December $1.97¾; corn unchanged to ⅛ higher, December $1.08⅜; oats unchanged to ⅛ lower, December 73¾; rye ⅛ to ½ lower, December $1.34; and soybeans ⅜ to ⅝ higher, November $2.12⅜.

Market Lively for Electronics

NEW YORK (UP) — Electronics and selected issues were lively and higher as blue chips wallowed in an irregular stock market early this afternoon. Turnover was moderate.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point dotted the list of key stocks which comprise the market averages. Gains of 2 or 3 points were posted by some of the "glamor" issues.

The pivotal industrials and rails moved uncertainly as the government's move for an injunction to halt the steel strike under a Taft-Hartley injunction was awaited.

The market was mixed in an active opening. An attempt at a rally erased some of the initial losses of steels but there was no carry-through to the upward drive. The steels were mixed while rails maintained a slight edge to the upside.

Most motors were higher. Chemicals and rubbers drifted off. Oils, aircrafts and nonferrous metals were spotty.

Because of the uncertainty in the steel industry until an actual settlement is reached, one big wire house removed all steels from its "recommended buy" list and the entire steel group was mildly depressed at the start.

In later dealings, Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin made fractional gains while Bethlehem was steady. U. S. Steel remained about a point lower and Youngstown Sheet more than that.

Studebaker-Packard, responding to a good earnings report and glowing forecasts, looked like the most active stock and was about a point higher. It rose ¾ to 20 on one block of 20,000 shares.

American Motors rose more than a point as Wall Street "guestimates" put its earnings this year at $12 a share.

Studebaker and some other stocks were also helped by short covering as monthly statistics on the number of shares sold short are expected after the close today.

Lear, newly transferred from the American Stock Exchange, eased below its latest closing price on the latter exchange.

ROLLING HOME — Everybody's heard of house trailers, but this is a trailer house in Parkin, Ark. A perfect compromise for people who want to travel but still want a comfortable home base, the house was built to fit around a trailer by carpenter and contractor M. M. Hendrix. When the trailer is backed into the center of the unique structure, it becomes living room, kitchen and bedroom. And when the owners get the urge to travel, they just hook the trailer to a car, pull it out of the house, and away they go.

No Objection to Street Lights

Waterford Sets Yearly Assessment at $2.50 Per Property Owner

Because there were no objectors at a street lighting hearing, at last night's weekly Waterford Township Board meeting, 88 property owners living on Paulsen circle will be assessed $2.50 annually for installation and operation of eight street lights.

The lights are expected to be installed in about three months, and will cost approximately $250 a year for operation.

Another street lighting hearing date for a large area in Waterford Township has been scheduled for Nov. 9 from 7 to 9 p.m. Bounded by Lansdowne, Wilson, Williams Lake and Airport roads, the assessment district would cover 473 pieces of property.

Cost of each assessment would be $5.12 annually for 80 lights, and total yearly cost would be $2,688. The township's portion of the yearly operation expenses would be $266.

★ ★ ★

In other business, the Board repealed a speed exhibition ordinance because a new ordinance now in effect regulates for race tracks and other privately operated vehicle exhibitions.

A request from the township electrical board to increase the registration fees of electrical contractors from $1 to $5 was approved. The hike will bring Waterford Township's electrical fee more in line with what other communities now charge, the board reported.

The Township Board approved the purchase of three $1,000 township revenue bonds, which had been placed on the open market.

Profit to the township for the transaction was $463 because owner of the bonds sold at a loss, according to a report from Kenower, MacArthur & Co. of Detroit, the firm handling the transaction.

Pleads Innocent to Charge in Fatal Accident

A plea of innocent was entered yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer's courtroom for a 21-year-old Madison Heights man charged with negligent homicide in a fatal traffic accident in August.

★ ★ ★

John F. Bulloch's attorney, David C. Pence, said Bulloch of 30445 Townley St. stood mute to the charge. Judge Beer entered the innocent plea and ordered Bulloch's trial for sometime this fall. He remains free on bond.

Bulloch's car struck the rear of another driven by Nicholas Stoffel, 70, of 1803 W. Farnum St., Royal Oak, police said.

Stoffel died Aug. 15 from burns when he was tossed into Woodward avenue covered with flaming gasoline spilled from the accident.

Cross Talks Bog, New Efforts Planned

MOUNT CLEMENS (UP)—Despite a discordant note at the end of their first session, negotiators in the 78-day-old Cross Co. strike say they plan a new effort within a week.

The first bargaining session between Cross management and the United Auto Workers in more than a year was broken off yesterday after about 90 minutes. UAW officials charged later that the Fraser automation firm was not ready to bargain.

The meeting in Detroit followed a ruling by the Sixth U. S. Court of Appeals that Cross management abide by a National Labor Relations Board order directing the firm to recognize the UAW as bargaining agent for Cross workers.

Teen-ager Injured by Unlicensed Driver

Sixteen-year-old Paulette Ellis of 549 S. Jessie St. suffered minor injuries yesterday when she was struck by a car while standing on a corner at the intersection of Jessie and Raeburn streets.

The car was driven by Margaret Moulina, 16, of 259 Raeburn St. Miss Moulina, police said, abandoned the car and fled from the scene.

She was later ticketed for not having a driver's license.

Damage to the home was estimated at $250.

Held in Death of 69 Babies

Police Claim Powder Contained Arsenic and Dealt Wave of Suffering

BORDEAUX, France (UPI) — Police charged today that 69 babies have died over the past three years after being sprinkled with the same brand of talcum powder.

Jacques Cazenave, manufacturer of the powder, which was said to contain arsenic, goes on trial Thursday for negligence in the 69 deaths and 234 other cases in which children became ill after being dusted with the powder.

The first deaths were said to have occurred three years ago. The infants would develop sores and burns which would not heal. Some died in terrible pain and their bodies looked "as if they had been dipped in boiling oil," police charged.

Mothers, watching their children writhe in pain, often sprinkled on still more of the death - dealing powder, it was charged, hoping to soothe the irritation. In some cases they simply sealed the fate of their own children.

★ ★ ★

Cazenave was not charged with purposely putting arsenic in the powder. The official reports on the case said it was most likely an accident that from Nov. 21 to Dec. 19, 1951, arsenic was mixed in large batches of the powder instead of zinc oxide.

He is charged with negligence in not detecting the mistake.

S-P Reports Good Quarter

Loss in Same Period of Last Year Reversed as Profits Mount

NEW YORK (UP) — Studebaker-Packard Corp. reports net income for the third quarter rose to $3,399,779 equal to 53 cents a share, compared with a loss of $9,218,316 for the same three months a year ago.

Sales mounted to $75,093,169 from $21,324,504.

For nine months, the independent auto company reported a profit of $15,473,060 or $2.39 a share. This compared with a loss of $22,532,511 a year ago. This year's sales to Sept. 30 rose to $284,909,940 against $92,005,696 for the same period of 1958.

Harold E. Churchill, president, credited the third-quarter profit to strong sales of the smaller Lark car.

Studebaker is the first automaker to issue a third-quarter report.

Ford and Chrysler are expected to issue third quarter results this week.

Studebaker-Packard built nearly 27,000 cars and trucks in third quarter of 1959 compared with about 4,500 a year earlier.

Men Are Taking to Wig Wear

Advice to the Fancier: Tell Wifey—Don't Keep It Under Your Hat

By CHARLES R. MORGAN

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—The number of men who wear toupees has doubled in the past 10 years, says a New Jersey wigmaker, who's found they're not as self-conscious about it as they used to be.

"All kinds of people wear wigs," said Louis Lehner of Clifton, N.J. "Jersey politicians as well as actors who want to impress the public, and a truck driver who wants to look as young as he can, or some big-shot executive trying to duck company retirement policies."

Women also wear hair pieces, Lehner confided—just as many women as men, in fact.

Lehner, a hefty 5-foot 7, Vienna-born wigmaker, has turned out several thousand wigs and toupees during his 12 years of doing business in Newark.

* * *

The toupees cost anywhere from $75 for a small piece to $350 for a full head of hiar. Wigs for the ladies — or "transformations" as Lehner tactfully calls them — generally cost from $200 to $350. A wig's average life is three years.

Hair for the wigs is cut from the head of fresh-cheeked peasant girls from small villages in the mountains of France and Italy, where the girls wear their hair long and preserve the necessary uniform color.

The booths in Lehner's shop have separate exits so customers won't recognize each other during their visits.

What advice does Lehner have for those who wear wigs? Although wigs cannot be distinguished from the real thing except by a practiced eye, he said, it is still not a good idea to keep a toupee secret from a spouse. He or she is bound to find out.

THE FAMILY AT HOME — The widow of actor Errol Flynn, Patrice Wymore, who was Flynn's third wife, sits with bowed head as she arrived at the Church of the Recessional Monday to attend funeral service for the 50-year-old actor. Sean Flynn, Errol's son from his first marriage to Lili Damita, sits beside the widow, with a grave look on his face. Errol Flynn's two daughters, by his second marriage to Nora Eddington, are shown being guided through the crowd by a mortuary attendant as they arrive at Forest Lawn in Los Angeles for their father's last rite. The one in dark glasses is Deidre, 15, and the other is Rory, 13.

First Two Wives, Miss Aadland Skip Funeral

Flynn's Children, Protege to Scrap for $1 Million

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The estate of Errol Flynn, who has aroused almost as much controversy in death as he did in life, figured today to stir up a battle between the actor's teenage companion and his family.

Beverly Aadland, 17-year-old protege of Flynn, has retained a San Francisco attorney to protect her "interests" in the estate.

The glamor-ladened actor, who died of a heart attack at 50 in Vancouver, B.C., last Wednesday and was buried here yesterday, was believed to have left at the most about one million dollars despite lifetime earnings of more than 10 million dollars.

Supposedly included in the estate, which was believed willed four years ago to Flynn's four children, were a 60,000-acre plantation in Jamaica with a copra crop to be harvested and $100,000 he received for the sale of his yacht only hours before his death.

The impending court action looms between the children and Miss Aadland. The children are Sean, 18, by Flynn's first wife, Lily Damita, Deidre, 15, and Rory, 13, by his second wife, Nora Eddington, and Arnella, 6, by his estranged wife Patrice Wymore.

Miss Aadland's attorney, Melvin Belli, refused to reveal if he planned litigation on behalf of his client. "It is a little too early for that," he said.

500 AT SERVICE

In contrast to the actor's stormy life, his funeral was a solemn affair attended by about 500 mostly elderly persons at Forest Lawn's Church of the Recessional.

About 150 onlookers grew disorderly for a few minutes when police lines held them from swarming to a walled area of the cemetery where the grave was located.

Two of the actor's former wives — Miss Damita and Miss Eddington — were absent from the services. Miss Aadland was also missing.

The pretty starlet, in San Francisco, said she had sent a single red rose to be placed on the casket during the ceremonies along with a card that said, "I'll love you always, Woodsie."

* * *

"Errol and I always gave each other a single flower whenever either of us went anywhere," she said. "Sometimes he would bring me a flower if he would just go for a walk."

Flynn's widow was braced by Sean at a five-minute graveside service. Yellow flowers blanketed the casket as it was lowered into a concrete vault.

PALLBEARERS LISTED

A century-old, 36-inch bronze statuette of a woman with flowers, titled "Flowers for Remembrance," sat near the grave. A Forest Lawn spokesman said it was obtained by the family for the burial site.

The copper-colored casket was opened only briefly upon arrival. It revealed the body dressed in a dark gray suit, white shirt and light gray necktie.

Actors Jack Oakie and Mickey Rooney, Flynn's attorney Justin Goldenbock, directors Raoul Walsh and Otto Reichow and restaurateur Mike Romanoff were the pallbearers. Among the others attending were Alexis Smith, Craig Stevens, Betty Furness, Ida Lupino and Howard Duff.

The Episcopal ceremonies began with a prayer by actor-singer Dennis Morgan, who also sang "Requiem" by Homer. The Rev. Kermit Castellanos read the 23rd Psalm and Jack Warner, head of Warner Bros. studio, read a brief eulogy.

"As I stand here I feel the word 'adventure' was written on his soul," Warner said. "His gallantry was of the spirit and not just of the motion picture script. His courage was as staunch as his manner was gay.

"Errol brought to his roles a quality that gave new life to an almost forgotten word, 'swashbuckling.' It was almost as though the word had been invented for him. He was the personification of gallantry, the essence of bravery — the great adventurer."

The Rev. Mr. Castellanos said in his prayer, "We thank thee for the pleasure and joy he brought to many; for his art and ability upon the stage and screen. He was endowed with great talent: may we too learn to use our lives to bring refreshment and strength to others."

Gifted Lad, 10, Still Finds Time for Mischief

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Andrew S. Morrison, 10, is described by his mother as just "one of these atomic-age children."

"He dreams about the moon, Mars, rockets and science," she says, "but he doesn't like to read the classics."

Andrew finds time for geology, chemistry, biology, astronomy, medicine, and his hobbies, which include history. He has stamp, fossil and rock collections, and he is probably the youngest ham radio operator in this city.

He runs two radio transmitters and receivers worth almost $425 and has made about 250 contacts with points as far away as Wales and Puerto Rico.

Although Mrs. Morrison feels Andrew is a "gifted child," she considers him pretty normal for his age. He gets into "as much mischief" as any 10-year-old she says.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The USO thought it would be a nice gesture to offer genuine English tea to crewman of the visiting British frigate HMS Scarborough.

A local importing company furnished 1,000 tea bags for a party, but after the affair there were almost 1,000 bags still left. The crewmen didn't drink the tea, but they exhausted the club's supply of milk.

Big Gun Show in Oklahoma Lures Many

BRISTOW, Okla. (UPI) — Guns hold an unusual fascination for people, as the Bristow National Gun Show proves every year.

* * *

More than 20,000 visited the 1958 show. They saw more than 10,000 guns valued at two million dollars displayed by about 200 dealers from 36 states.

This year's exhibit featured collections from some 250 dealers in 40 states.

The Bristow show was founded six years ago and since then it has become the largest gun show to be held outside Chicago.

Two Bristow sportsmen, Jim Weaver and Ted Herman, started it. The first one was held in an old school building with 30 entries.

* * *

The only charges connected with the show are for table rentals to the gun dealers who exhibit their collections. No admission is charged.

AT CROSS PURPOSES — No, this isn't a two-headed donkey. It is just a two-day-old African pygmy donkey standing under his pal, a week-old Mexican burro, as the animals get the feel of their legs under them at the Birch Hill Game Park near Brewster, N. Y. The baby donkey is being fed a bottle of milk by Janet Duprey, 5, of Harrington Park, N. J., while sister Dianne, 9, pets the burro.

This Was One Time It Paid to Be Stupid

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Be glad you're dumb—I am. If we'd been brilliant, we might have been quiz show winners — under subpoena. I always wanted to be a contestant, but I had a serious problem.

WILSON

I didn't know anything about anything.

"What could my category be?" I asked the Beautiful Wife. "What's my specialty?" . . . "Your specialty is messing up the house, especially the kitchen late at night," she said, acidly.

There's a lot of kidding about it around B'way—people were looking at Elaine Malbin's gorgeous figure at the Pierre Hotel "Evening With George Gershwin" last night and saying "Her figure's rigged"—but it turns out you didn't have to know so much to win.

Contest-bosses would give contestants a stack of books and say "Read these!"

The lucky contestant found certain pages were turned down or a card was sticking out of one part of one book. He took the hint.

"How would you like to become an expert on music?" one celebrated home run hitter was asked.

"I know absolutely nothing about music," he said.

"We'll take care of that. We'll make you an expert and you'll make a LOT of money," they said. He turned it down, considering it crooked.

Teddy Nadler was being built up on "The $64,000 Challenge" when Toots Shor opposed him on baseball. The program chiefs said all the information used would be found in Sporting News record books. When Toots lost, he searched the record books and found the information wasn't there.

ELAINE

He complained to the program that the information wasn't in Sporting News record books.

"No, but it was in the World Almanac," they said.

★ ★ ★

Charles Van Doren's defense may be that he had an amazing memory, which is true. He's also inordinately shy. A psychologist advised him to overcome his shyness by becoming a teacher—and going on a quiz show.

I don't want to be a holier-than-thou because I was on some small-time quiz shows on which I was asked questions prior to the program. Then, on the program, they asked me the questions they knew I could answer.

A good thing, too, because when they asked me some questions cold, I flunked. One question I answered, I remember, by saying, "France."

"That's close," yelled the m.c., embarrassed by my stupidity. "The answer is England." But suppose I'd won and gone on to other shows. Now I'd by squirming. Truly, it payeth to be ignorant.

EARL'S PEARLS: When a man doesn't gripe about taxes, he's either very rich or very poor.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: These days it's hard to keep a Hollywood marriage a secret. News of the divorce is bound to leak out. . . . That's earl, brother.

'The Miracle Worker' Honest Tear Jerker

BY JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — William Gibson's "The Miracle Worker" provides the most continuously moving theatrical experience that I can recall in many years of professional playgoing.

The tears will be flowing for a long time in the playhouse, where the drama was unveiled last night, and they will be honest tears induced by a beautifully conceived and executed script and two of the most devastating performances ever put together on the same stage.

The two players are Anne Bancroft and 10-year-old Patty Duke, playing respectively the roles of Annie Sullivan and the seven-year-old Helen Keller whom Annie turned from an animalistic blind deaf-mute into an educated and responsive human.

Offhand that sounds like strange material for a Broadway drama, and it is. But Gibson has whipped it into a taut and highly effective play that comes off as smoothly as though he were dealing with the simplest of situations. It is a brilliant job, following immediately after his other (and first) stage success, "Two for the Seesaw," a two-character live story now nearing the end of a 22-month Broadway run.

Lengthy Examination of Knight Continues

BRIGHTON (UPI) — Examination of Alvin W. Knight, one of the longest pretrial court proceedings in recent history, was scheduled to resume today in Justice Court.

Attorneys were to file briefs on whether the service revolver of slain State Trooper Albert W. Souden should be admitted as evidence in the case.

The examination before Justice Eric Singer was recessed last Thursday when Livingston County prosecutor Wilfred Erwin attempted to introduce the gun as evidence.

MOTHERS WEEP—Bob Oakes, left, employe of a Columbus, Ohio, trailer camp, consoles at Mercy Hospital the mothers of the three children who were killed Monday when a car jumped a curb and plowed into them while they were waiting for a school bus. In the center is Mrs. Arden Kline, mother of Randy, 7, and Raymond, 5. At right is Mrs. Jerry Bellah, mother of Jane, 7. Driver of the death car was Paul Graham, 22, of Columbus. It was a stolen car and it went out of control while being chased by the police. Graham has been charged with three manslaughter counts and one theft count.

Mother Hangs Herself After Leaving 2 Girls to Die in Basement

MERRICK, N. Y. (AP)—A 34-year-old housewife left her two small daughters in a home freezer to die Monday and then hanged herself in her home.

★ ★ ★

Police said Joan Anton placed the pajama-clad children, Barbara, 5, and Joan, 9 months, inside the unused freezer in the basement just after her husband Alfred, a painter, left for work.

Some time later, Mrs. Anton hanged herself from a beam in the attic.

★ ★ ★

When Anton returned home, he said he found the house "too quiet" and began a search that turned up the bodies.

Police said Mrs. Anton had a history of mental disturbance and had become increasingly despondent recently after several operations on her back.

★ ★ ★

There are two other children in the family, Alfred, 11, and George, 10, who are staying with Anton's sister for the school year in Hialeah, Fla.

'Gashouse Gang' Bubbles Over With Entertainment

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Gashouse Gang of show business, Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby and Dean Martin, floated through an entertaining hour of songs, dances and their special brand of "way out" utterances on ABC-TV last night.

It was very easy to take. Working in front of proper, dignified and sedate sets, the trio frolicked in a carefully carefree fashion and displayed huge quantities of personal magnetism.

These three men can entertain just by snapping their fingers.

Since it was called the Frank Sinatra Show, I'll begin by saying the celebrated chairman of the board was in command most of the way. The exceptions came when his untamed buddy, Dean Martin, upstaged him with some unabashed mugging.

Fortunately, the trio managed to avoid embarrassing, or ultra-inside ad libs. (The Sinatra-Crosby exchange of Sept. 29 is still a vivid memory.) There was only one loud plug and that was earned by Martin who laid down and raised a shoe to the camera to display a chalked advertisement for his restaurant.

★ ★ ★

The show had a comfortable pace, although it was slowed down by an uninspired dance featuring Mitzi Gaynor, the only lady guest on the show.

And, treasure of treasures, it even had a sock finish. As Frank, Bing and Dean imitated the Clayton, Jackson and Durante team of years ago—Jimmy Durante—in person—came on to join them. They all strutted off in triumph.

Another highlight was Sinatra pretending he was on a night club floor in front of the band. There was no need to think about the staging or the camera. Frankie just stood there and put down the songs in his authoritative way and it was fine stuff.

★ ★ ★

Prior to that Frankie sat in with a platoon of children (real looking ones) to sing. That, too, was a knowing show business touch that came off well.

STEP LADDER OUT

Producer-Director Bill Colleran managed the cameras with precision, catching the stars in fine closeups to punctuate their moves. Art Director Jim Trittipo provided an uncluttered stage and came up with, of all things, a monkey climb for Frank and company to recline on and dangle from. Guess the step ladder is through on TV.

★ ★ ★

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Harry Salter, producer of Name That Tune, has been asked by CBS-TV and the sponsor to come up with a suitable new show for the Monday time slot. "Tune" was kayoed by the network's new no-quiz policy.

Salter told UPI the new show, tentatively called Face the Music, would involve a panel guessing song titles, with George DeWitt as emcee. The CBS policy, beside banning big prizes, also prohibits contestants from appearing more than once.

Producer Walt Framer reports he, too, hopes to sell a substitute for his canceled show, The Big Payoff. Called Fun, Fashions and Music, Framer would costar Bert Parks and Bess Myerson. He said the show would offer "other non-quiz aspects" of Payoff.

★ ★ ★

Dane Clark joins Dean Stockwell, Ingemar Johansson, Glenda Farrell and Frank McHugh in the Thursday, Nov. 19, CBS-TV adaptation of Ernest Hemingway's "The Killers." . . . James Whitmore is cast as U. S. Grant, Melvyn Douglas as Mark Twain, and John Baragrey as Robert E. Lee for the Sunday, Feb. 21, NBC-TV drama in the Our American Heritage series. . . . Carol Kelly, sister of Jack (Maverick) Kelly, portrays a stripper in the Nov. 2 episode of ABC-TV's Bourbon Street Beat.

Flynn's Protege Plans Memoirs at 17

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—At 17, blonde Beverly Aadland is already planning her memoirs.

Miss Aadland also plans to resume her show business career.

★ ★ ★

"Show business is all I know," she said at the home of attorney Melvin Belli, a friend of Flynn's.

Miss Aadland said she has been asked to write a story of her life with the dashing actor-playboy.

"I've been thinking of writing the story of my life before that, too," she said. "I'd write it myself. I think I'm the only person who could do it."

★ ★ ★

Flynn was buried Monday at quiet ceremonies in Los Angeles. At about the same time, Miss Aadland, wearing a black sack dress, held a news conference at Belli's Telegraph Hill apartment here.

★ ★ ★

One reporter asked:

"Do you like sack dresses—or are you expecting?"

Flynn's young girl friend never quite answered.

★ ★ ★

"Errol bought me this dress," she replied with a smile. "He liked it very much."

★ ★ ★

"But are you expecting?"

"We had hoped for that very much," Miss Aadland said. "Just say that's one thing we wanted very badly."

Asked if she would contest Flynn's will, which reportedly left nothing to Miss Aadland, Belli said, "It wouldn't be polite to comment on that at this time."

Testify 5 Firms Set Salk Price

Sent In Identical Bids for Over Million Shots, Says Supply Agent

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—A government supply agent testified yesterday that five drug firms, including one from Detroit, had sent in identical bids on more than a million shots of Salk antipolio vaccine.

Reid M. Hovey, supply chief for the U.S. Public Health Service, said there was complete uniformity in bidding. He could not get lower prices even on a special contract in October 1956 when supply was more plentiful, he added.

On cross-examination by defense attorneys, he admitted that in April 1956 he was advised of a price cut by Merck, Sharp and Dohme of Rahway and asked Parke Davis & Co. of Detroit if it would meet the lower price.

The government has indicted the five firms on charges of a criminal conspiracy to fix prices on $30,000,000 worth of vaccine from early in 1955 through 1957. Other firms accused are Eli Lilly Co. of Indianapolis, Allied Laboratories (Pitman-Moore) of Kansas City, and Wyeth Laboratories of Philadelphia.

★ ★ ★

Defense attorneys insisted during cross-examination of Hovey yesterday that price uniformity was forced by the government. Contracts with the drug firms had a "most favored customer" clause that if the price were cut to any health agency, the price to the government would be reduced accordingly.

The government witness told the jury that the "most favored customer" clause was revised to include vaccine sold to all public agencies in late 1956, after reports that some dealers were dropping their price.

Continue Search for Missing Priest

DETROIT (AP) — The disappearance of a Roman Catholic priest between here and nearby Monroe remained a mystery today.

The Rev. Charles Callahan, head of the Holy Cross mission band at the University of Notre Dame, arrived here yesterday to aid in the search.

The Rev. John M. Sheridan, 40, vanished Saturday en route to a church in suburban Lincoln Park, where he was to conduct a two-week mission.

Father Sheridan has a rare disease which could cause him to fall into a coma, university officials said.

He was one of three priests who left the Notre Dame campus Saturday and arrived in Monroe. Father Sheridan was to continue his drive to Lincoln Park, leaving the other two priests in Monroe.

The Rev. Theodore Mehling said in South Bend that Father Sheridan suffers from a malarial-type disease which periodically causes him to "black out."

Green on Yellow Car Plate Tabs Go on Sale Nov. 1

LANSING (AP)—Green and yellow 1960 vehicle license tabs, to be attached to the current license plates, will go on sale Nov. 1, Secy. of State James M. Hare reported today.

Hare said supplies of the 3¼-by-1½ inch tabs will be in the hands of all his branch managers by next week.

★ ★ ★

They carry a serial number etched in the metal and the number "60" in green on a yellow background. This is the reverse of the 1959 plates which carry yellow numbers on a green background.

★ ★ ★

The serial numbers will not be identical with the two-letter, four-digit county designated license plates, but will run numerically starting at 1001.

The tab system is part of an economy program designed to cut production costs.

Still Find Gags to Public News

Papers Fought Hard for Freedom

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a group of articles in connection with National Newspaper Week, Oct. 18-24).

By the Associated Press

Today's newspapers may differ sharply on political issues, domestic problems, international affairs, but there's one area in which most would quickly join hands to fight a common cause—when they sense some action that abridges freedom of the press.

Newspapers have frequently expressed alarm at the manner in which some states and some government agencies restrict access to information. Reporters have been shut off from what they believe is public news.

But when the wall of secrecy is breeched and the news published, at least the editors and publishers can feel safe that they will not be thrown in jail.

A newspaper which criticizes the government—whether it be the person of the President or the chairman of a local water board—can do so without fearing reprisals.

Such was not the case from almost the moment the first American newspaper, Publick Occurrencies, was published in Boston in 1690 by Benjamin Harris.

The paper was suppressed after one issue, not because of libel, but because of the truth. Harris' report describing Indian allies as "miserable savages" was taken as criticism or colonial policy.

ZENGER SIGNIFICANT

The most significant milestone on the road to press freedom was reached in the case involving John Peter Zenger, a German immigrant.

Publishing the New York Journal, Zenger attacked William Cosby, governor of New York, and subsequently was charged with "scandalous, virulent and seditious reflections upon the government."

When the grand jury refused to return a true bill, and the New York Assembly refused to take separate action, Crosby prodded his council into taking action. Zenger was brought to trial in 1735 on a reduced charge of "raising sedition."

★ ★ ★

To defense attorneys who disputed the warrant against Zenger were disbarred, and the court appointed a defense counsel. But at the moment of the trial, Philadelphia lawyer Andrew Hamilton, entered the picture as counsel for Zenger.

DID NOT DENY PUBLICATION

He took a dramatic step by stating that the defense did not deny publication of the critical articles. His argument was that it is not libel to print the truth.

The jury responded to this argument and freed Zenger. Thus, one of the great steps toward press freedom was accomplished.

An equally big stride involved another Hamilton — Alexander. This was in the celebrated case involving Harry Croswell, editor of "The Wasp," a Federalist paper published at Hudson, N.Y. The paper was aptly named because Croswell managed to sting many a foe.

+ + +

He was indicted in 1804 and found guilty. Appealing the verdict, he again went to trial, this time with Hamilton defending. Like Andrew Hamilton, Alexander argued that the truth and truth alone was a defense in a libel action.

He stated that the press had "the right to publish with impunity truth, with good motives, for justifiable ends, though reflecting on government, magistracy, or individuals."

LAWS WERE MODEL

Following the case, new laws were passed using Hamilton's formula. Additionally, the laws stated that the jury had the right to determine both the law and the fact. These laws served as the model for the press guarantees of many state constitutions.

Prior to the Croswell case — during a period some historians have called the "Dark Ages of Journalism" — there was political and journalistic battle between the Federalists and anti-Federalists. So scurrilous were attacks by anti-Federalists, the Alien and Sedition Acts were passed.

The Sedition Act, directed against journalistic spokesmen of the anti-Federalists, stated in part "that if any person shall write, utter or publish . . . any false, scandalous and malicious writing . . . against the government of the United States, or either house of the Congress . . . or the said President . . . or to excite against them the hatred of the good people of the United States . . . or to resist or oppose, or defeat any such law . . . shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $2,000, and by imprisonment not exceeding two years."

LAPSED AFTER TWO YEARS

The weakness in the act lay in its administration, but some historians have interpreted it as really setting down legally for the first time the defense stated in the Zenger trial. The law did not forbid criticism of the government, it only attempted to curb malicious and false statements published to defame officials. But because of the way authorities abused it, the law was permitted to lapse after its two-year limit.

To many authorities, the battle flag in the crusade for press freedom was first raised in England by Poet John Milton, in his speech to Parliament in 1644. The speech, "Areopagitica," was an argument for the right to express himself in print without having that expression approved in advance. It was essentially a cry against precensorship.

EVEN THE "ROCKS"

taste BETTER!

SO TRUE! In its lighter, milder 86 proof, Old Taylor 86 is so rich and deep in flavor that you sip it right down to the bourbon dew on the ice!

It is the same in quality as our famous 100 proof bottled in bond Kentucky bourbon—which makes it the lightest full-flavored bourbon you can buy.

Try Old Taylor 86, see how good a light bourbon can be!
