

Interpretation of Annunciation

TESSAN, the great master of the Italian Renaissance, drew this interpretation of the Annunciation, a scene which Luke alone among the four evangelists recorded in his gospel. The learned Greek physician preserved for all time this and many other of the classic events connected with the Nativity, by careful and painstaking research.

Luke Digs Deep for Facts to Record Story of Christ

(The joyous Christmas story known today the world over might have been lost forever had it not been for one man. His name was Luke. He alone among the gospel writers recorded the dramatic and inspiring scenes of the Annunciation, the trip to Bethlehem, the manger, the shepherds. This is the first in a series of six articles about Luke and his legacy to the hundreds of millions who celebrate the birth of Christ. The stories are based on history, ancient church traditions, Scripture and the implications of these sources.)

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

THE STORY had not been told. It lay hidden out there somewhere in the autumn-tinted hills of Galilee and Judea where Jesus had grown up, lived, taught and died, but no one had ever set down just how it all began.

Luke was determined to find out. The task would not be easy. Jesus had been crucified nearly 30 years before. All kinds of unreliable tales about him, fabrications and fancies, were in circulation. Luke wanted the truth.

An urbane, lettered Greek physician of about 40, Loukas, familiarly called Luke, was a convert from paganism to "the way" of Christ. He had become an aide and traveling companion of the missionary Paul.

All during their journeys of teaching, organizing congregations and treating the sick, in Troas, Philippi, Thessalonica, Athens, Corinth and elsewhere, Luke felt the need for a full account of his new faith.

So far, intriguing questions about its origin remained unanswered.

Luke, by instinct, by his characteristic Greek curiosity for detail, by his historical bent, by his training in the scientific method of observation, experiment and verification, insisted on the particulars.

THIRSTED FOR FACTS

What were the circumstances surrounding the birth of the Lord Jesus?

Had his mother been aware of anything extraordinary? What were her feelings? Where, exactly, did it happen? Who was in attendance?

How had God become man? Were there any unusual signs?

Signal for New Launching Hoisted at Missile Test Site

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (INS)—The red warning signal ball, signifying an impending missile launching, was hoisted at the U. S. missile test center at Cape Canaveral again today.

There were reports that the Army will attempt to fire its modified Jupiter "C" rocket, the missile it will use in the attempt to place an earth satellite in orbit.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (INS)—The optimism stirred by the successful launching of an Atlas intercontinental missile was tempered today by a warning for the nation to expect new "busts" or apparent failures in future rocket firing.

The qualifying note was added by civilians and Air Force Rocket experts during an unprecedented news briefing at the Cape Canaveral Missile Test Center.

Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the test center, hinted strongly that previous tests labeled as failures by news media have, in fact, been almost totally successful.

Pointing specifically to the two Atlas firings which preceded yesterday's spectacular launching, Yates declared the Air Force had obtained "95 per cent" of the information it was seeking, although the launchings appeared to be "busts."

The graying general, flanked by other top-ranking Air Force rocket men and the top brass of the Convair Division of General Dynamics

Corp., builder of the Atlas, met with newsmen late yesterday to discuss the successful firing.

The session was prefaced with a statement by Yates that neither he nor his associates could answer questions which went beyond bounds of existing security regulations. Despite the limitations placed on reporters, it marked the first time they have been briefed on military rocket firing.

HAPPY AT RESULTS

The Air Force and civilian experts enthused over the launching and termed it "perfectly in order... successful in every respect." They refused, however, to be drawn out on the performance of the missile beyond the brief Defense Department's statement that the projectile was fired in a "limited range test of several hundred miles."

Part-Time Salesmen Appraise Holiday Shoppers

Are Men Helpless Buyers? Or Are Women Vague?

By SYLVIA deSTEIGER
"May I help you?" is a question which brings problems as well as a variety of answers to a part-time holiday salesgirl.

According to statistics, females purchase 85 per cent of the retail merchandise. But, when the men do appear on the scene to shoppers of all sizes and shapes in Sears' Toy Department leaves one rather limp, but keenly aware of these differences.

shop, clerks are probably glad they show up to buy only 15 per cent.

The only trouble is, they seem to wait to make their quota the last two weeks of the year during Christmas time.

Most men don't brave the storm of the holiday shopping rush alone. They bring along a buddy, their son, or in most instances, tag along with the wife and kids who usually make the decisions on what should be bought for whom with the money he earned.

WHO DECIDES?

Just who is a buyer and who is a looker is one of the problems this reporter had to figure out while posing as a clerk in the men's department of the Lion Store, 51 S. Saginaw St.

Since men are not the experienced shoppers, it seems obvious they aren't prepared when they undertake the task alone. Therefore, the real burden of actual shopping falls on the clerk while Mr. Shopper nods approval and finally pays the check.

This isn't the first time it has been inferred that men are helpless... and it probably won't be the last.

TOY LOWDOWN — Pontiac Press reporter Dick Saunders, posing as a clerk at Sears Roebuck & Co., 134 N. Saginaw, shows a toy to Mrs. Joseph Cadwallader, 4135 Fournure St.

For the most part men are "lookers" and women are "askers." Men, when asked if they have been waited on, either buy something outright or say they are "just looking."

This is because they usually know exactly what they want and have either found it or are looking for it.

They are easy to handle since they are either definitely going to buy or definitely not going to buy an item depending on whether or not they can find it.

Women are of a much more complex emotional and psychological nature.

They may have a vague idea of what it is they are after, but need the advice and reassurance of a salesman that this is really what they're after.

Because of this major quirk in their makeup, they are the true test of a good salesman and often go home completely happy and satisfied that what they got is what they wanted—even if the item in mind had never entered their mind before coming into the store.

City Employees Promised Raise by Christmas

Fringe Benefits Also Tentatively Okayed by Commission

Pontiac city employees were promised an early Christmas present last night when the City Commission tentatively approved a pay hike and other fringe benefits for them.

The biggest present was a $130-a-year increase per employee for those earning $4,300, and a 3 per cent boost for those making more than $4,300.

The salary hike and two other benefits were agreed upon Tuesday afternoon by City Manager Walter K. Willman and the Joint Council of Municipal Employees. The council represents 710 police, fire, city hall and other city employees.

The second benefit will be a ward hospitalization plan for each employee. The city will pay about $6.50 a month for each employee under the plan, which is expected to cost the city $35,000 annually.

The hospitalization and pay increases will cost Pontiac about $130,000 a year, Willman said.

The third benefit will be half days off preceding Christmas and New Year's Day.

The manager will bring the plan to the formal Commission approval next week. It is expected to become effective Dec. 22.

VOICES SATISFACTION

Elmer R. Fangbener, president of the council, said he was satisfied with what employees received.

Willman told commissioners that the benefits were "within the limits of the funds set aside in the contingency fund" for 1958.

Originally, the council sought a nine-point plan which would have cost the city around $307,000 annually. This was later narrowed down to a four-point request, totaling $131,000.

Missing again from what the employees received was a longevity payment plan. "This would be a very expensive program," Willman said.

Pontiac's 'Flop' a Terror at Willow Run

Starling-Chaser Makes Good

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Pontiac's starling-chaser machine hasn't proved to be a complete flop after all.

"It drove them nuts," was the brief comment of James L. Grafton, station manager for Eastern Airlines at the Willow Run Terminal.

Plagued for more than a year by droppings from above, Grafton noted from a newspaper account that Pontiac had a Bird-E-Viet machine designed to drive starlings from objectionable roosts.

It had flopped miserably here. Thousands of the winged creatures just fled from tree to tree to escape the screech of what is supposed to be thousands of fellow starlings in distress.

Eastern Airlines decided that since sirens, air horns and stuffed owls didn't budge flocks of starlings from an open hangar, maybe Pontiac's contraption might do the trick.

STARLINGS FLED

"It was uncanny," said Grafton after completing a four-day experiment. "It was the weirdest sound I have ever heard. And best of all it moved the starlings out, except for a few die-hards that must be immune to the racket."

The machine is a tape recording designed to amplify the distress calls. It was created by Pennsylvania Dr. Hubert Frings and Joseph Jumper. It cost Pontiac $99.30.

Although it keeps most of the birds off their usual beam roosts high in the hangar, when the racket is blaring, it doesn't discourage about 100 birds from returning when Grafton switches it off.

TILL BUY THAT!

Despite this fact, he is sure he has found the answer. "We intend to buy it outright, and after two weeks of steady treatment I bet my friends will be gone for good."

Meanwhile, workers at the field wonder what's going on. "They stand around in amazement when I turn it on," Grafton commented. "But not for long. They move as fast as the birds did."

He said the airline is only confronted with the invaders during the winter. "They must come down here from Pontiac for their winter vacation," the official remarked. To this members of the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department countered with: "Keep them the year round."

Merchant's 3 Youngsters Die in Detroit Home Fire

DETROIT (INS)—Three children of a Detroit furniture store owner perished today in a fire that destroyed their $30,000 home at 17550 San Juan.

Abraham C. Farris, 46, rescued a fourth child and alerted his wife Mary, 42, who managed to slide to safety down a metal awning. Both parents stood screaming in the street, unable to reenter the house to find their other children in the flames and smoke.

The victims were Abraham C. Jr., 13; Jessica, 19, and Michael, 8.

Rescued was the youngest of the Farris children, William, 5. He and his parents were treated at Mount Carmel Hospital for minor burns and shock.

William noticed the fire early this morning when he went for a drink of water. He called his father, Farris said he leaped out of bed, shouted to the other children and his wife then dashed downstairs and out of the back door with William.

He tossed the boy to a neighbor who had been awakened by the flames then ran back into the house. The father, owner of the Farris Brothers Furniture Co., said the flames and smoke on the first floor drove him back into the street, where he discovered his dazed wife.

Witnesses said Farris, unable to help the trapped youngsters, screamed: "My children, where are my children?"

A neighbor, Edward Slazinski, said, "I was awakened by the noise and ran outside. Just then Farris tossed William to me. Then he was wandering around in a daze calling for the other children."

Mrs. Jane Warner, an aunt, had taken the children to a Christmas party last night and brought them home about 10:30 p.m.

Farris and his wife went to bed shortly thereafter.

The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Leaders Agree to Make Direct Offer to Russia

Decisions Are Subject to Final Approval by Heads of Government

PARIS (INS)—The NATO summit conference agreed today to make a direct offer to Russia to negotiate disarmament.

The source of this information is a high conference informant who said that the NATO chiefs of government agreed to include in tomorrow's final communique a suggestion to the Russians that they resume disarmament talks with "a certain number of countries."

PARIS (P)—The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance, defying Russian threats and warnings agreed today to base U.S.-made nuclear missiles in Europe. The United States thus won its major purpose at the conference.

The price paid by the United States was an agreement under pressure to sound out the Russians on a cold war truce, including a new effort at disarmament.

Having been assured yesterday of the softening of the U.S. attitude by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen, and Prime Minister Hans Christian Hansen of Denmark went along with the basic military decision today.

The decision was subject to final approval by the heads of government, who were to receive a report from their foreign and defense ministers in a session this afternoon.

Reliable reports from the meeting of foreign and defense ministers this morning indicated that while the Alliance as a whole would endorse the principle of nuclear armament, it would be left up to the individual countries to accept the weapons.

The accord was reached at the morning meeting of foreign and defense ministers which opened the third day of the NATO summit talks. The meeting lasted almost three hours.

School Board Member
Glenn Griffin Begins
Testimony Today

Glenn H. Griffin, president of the Pontiac Board of Education, was still on the stand at noon today in the opening day of the trial charging segregation in Pontiac schools.

The trial, brought about by a lawsuit of Pontiac attorney Milton Levin, began in Federal Court in Detroit before Judge Theodore Levin.

Herman Stallings, partner with Henry in a Pontiac law firm, charged in an opening statement that it "has been the consistent policy of the Pontiac Board of Education to promote and continue predominant Negro schools," by setting up attendance boundaries specifying which school a student shall attend based on where he or she lives.

Judge Levin asked Henry and Stallings to produce, during the recess, any Supreme Court decision or law which gives the court the authority to direct the school board to increase integration by changing its attendance boundaries.

Extend Deadline in Yule Contest on Home Lighting

Due to the slow response in this year's Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce home Christmas-lighting contest, the deadline for entries has been extended from Dec. 19 to 5 p.m. on Dec. 23.

Chairman of the event this year, Robert Norberg, said only entries may be sent to him at the downtown Community National Bank.

Judging of the displays will be held Dec. 24 by a panel of four judges.

Prizes will be awarded to an east and west side winner, with a grand prize winner to be picked from the two.

Police Hold Husband in Stabbing of Wife

DETROIT (AP) — Hafford West, 46, an unemployed laborer, was held for investigation of murder today in the fatal stabbing of his wife, Jean, mother of three small children.

Homicide Detective Walter Stapleton quoted West as saying he killed his wife because "she bragged to me about running around with another man."

Mrs. West died of stab wounds in the chest yesterday two hours after she returned home after having been away for two days. She was employed as a cashier at a supermarket.

Stapleton said the stabbing climaxed a week-long quarrel.

Two of the children, Jackie, 4, and James, 3, were at home. Eight-year-old Terry Jean was at school.

'He's Fine,' Reporters Told Spotlight on Ike's Health

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

PARIS (AP) — The hourly state of President Eisenhower's health is rivaling momentous world problems for newsmen's attention at the NATO conference.

Many of the hundreds of correspondents covering the summit meetings are devoting most or almost all their time to reporting how the President is getting along.

Eisenhower's health is the subject of rumors of all kinds.

To all inquiries, both Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the White House physician, and press secretary James C. Hagerty have an almost never-varying reply: The President is "fine" or "very fine."

The President's every appearance and move are studied curiously by reporters.

PICTURES DECEIVING

In some pictures the President looks well, in others not. His features are highly mobile, and a tired-out look one second gives way in the next moment to a hearty, healthy smile.

Twice this week there have been developments which touched off new apprehension regarding the President's welfare.

The first was when he canceled plans to attend a dinner Monday night for NATO chiefs of government. Hagerty said the President was simply tired.

Yesterday afternoon it was announced Eisenhower would not be on hand for the beginning of the day's summit session. Hagerty and Secretary of State Dulles told newsmen that the President would delay his appearance because matters under discussion did not require his personal attention.

Newsmen asked whether the decision reflected any change in Eisenhower's health. Not the slightest, said Hagerty, who added that the President was fine and was just getting up after an hour's nap, a busy morning of meetings and a trip to the outskirts of Paris for a sentimental visit to his old NATO command post.

ATTENDED SESSION

Forty-five minutes later Eisenhower turned up at the summit session. Hagerty told questioners the President decided to appear.

State OKs U.S. Grant for Hospital in Jackson

LANSING (AP) — The State Office of Hospital Survey and Construction has announced approval of a federal grant of $350,000 to assist in construction of a four-floor addition to the Foote Memorial Hospital in Jackson.

Jordan J. Popkin, director of the state agency, said federal approval of the state recommendation is expected to be automatic.

The addition will include space for 60 general hospital beds and 33 beds for treatment of mental patients. Major portion of the construction funds will come from a bond issue approved by the voters last spring.

Dampness resulted from a low pressure disturbance in the middle Mississippi Valley which pushed a flow of moisture northward from the Gulf region into much of the nation's mid-section.

Drizzles covered much of the Western and central portions of the country, although some heavy rains were reported at Indianapolis and along the Ozark ridge in Missouri. Mountain Grove, Mo., reported almost 5 inches of rain.

Some sleet and rain occurred along the northern fringe of the rain belt in portions of western Ohio and northern Indiana.

Light snow mixed with rain resulted in extensive slippery sections on highways in the northeast lower Michigan.

Scattered slippery spots also are reported in Flint, Port Huron, Saginaw, Bay City and the Thumb area.

No abnormal driving conditions were reported from the Upper Peninsula.

Scattered rains continued from Washington state southward along the West Coast as the cool Pacific air pushed eastward across the Rockies.

Showers were expected to continue in the Pacific area, giving way to partial clearing and cooler weather. Showers and scattered snow flurries were forecast for the Rockies.

Mild weather was expected to remain from Texas eastward across the Gulf states into Florida while rain was forecast for the upper Mississippi Valley into Georgia and much of the Northeast tomorrow.

Snow mixed with rain was forecast from the Dakotas across the lakes region into New England and middle Atlantic states. Hazardous driving conditions were expected to develop in Pennsylvania.

NATO Nations to Accept Missile Bases in Europe

session, apparently because some questions were still to be resolved. As a result, the daily meeting of President Eisenhower and the other heads of government was postponed.

The government chiefs are to issue a final communique tomorrow.

German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss said the communique will declare the availability of missiles for NATO powers, although there will be no mention of which countries will have missile bases.

Countries to receive the new weapons will be recommended by Gen. Lauris Norstad, the NATO supreme commander.

Since the missiles are not expected to be available for a year or 18 months, the interim will be used for the great mass of necessary preliminary planning and for exploration of all possible avenues toward an agreement with Russia.

Such new attempts for an accord with the Soviets were demanded by various European leaders before the nuclear missiles actually were put on their bases.

An informant who reported the agreement said Denmark and Norway, the chief objectors earlier to going ahead with the nuclear plans, now had accepted the principle that the NATO area should be armed with missiles.

So far only Britain, the Netherlands and Turkey have said they would be willing to take missiles on their territory.

The allies gave approval yesterday to a guarded exploration of the latest Soviet bids for an East-West summit conference.

Many European leaders feel that until they have publicly proved that they have exhausted all possible avenues toward an East-West settlement opened up by the Kremlin, they cannot convince their people of the need to station U. S. missiles on their soil. Some U. S. officials have suggested that the Russians will continue to whip up hope of settlement to stall West Europe's decision further.

Any final agreement to build missile bases in Europe would probably include some reservations by war-nervous nations. Chief among the reservations would be an insistence that the host nation have half the say in triggering nuclear bombardments from her soil.

The West European governments thus hope to insure that no retaliation would be provoked against their crowded nations for actions they did not control to start with.

The foreign ministers agreed that Soviet offers of an end to the cold war would be assessed by two groups:

1. The foreign ministers of Britain, France, Canada and the United States will continue to represent NATO in an effort to restart stalled disarmament talks with Russia.

2. The NATO Permanent Council, at its weekly sessions in Paris, will examine the recent Soviet letters to see if they form the basis for new talks. Any talks that result will be by foreign ministers, not chiefs of government, diplomatic informants said.

Atlas ICBM Big Success

The Atlas ICBM reportedly was in the air slightly longer than six minutes and soared nearly 300 miles. It is believed the missile may have generated well over half the 16,000-mile-an-hour speed for which it was designed. And it may have reached an altitude of 300 miles.

The 100-ton rocket rose from its launching pad with a thundering roar at 12:38 p.m. (EST) yesterday, streaked into low hanging clouds and shot out over the Atlantic.

Yates refused to reveal exactly where the missile landed but did say no attempt would be made to recover it.

GOV INFORMATION

B. G. MacNabb, operations manager for Convair, said the firing produced "one quarter of a million individual information points" recorded on charts, graphs, tape machines, track cameras and other devices.

He said a highly specialized group of technicians were put to work unscrambling the data immediately and will work around the clock until the job is completed.

Another Atlas is known to be ready for firing on the Cape and there are reports it may be triggered later this week. An Air Force Thor and an Army Jupiter, both intermediate range rockets, also reportedly are set for firing.

Two Republican congressmen, E. P. Schriver of Kansas and Frank C. Osmers Jr. of New Jersey, witnessed yesterday's firing and conceded they were impressed.

Osmers found himself in hot water with reporters when he criticized the way news media handled the futile U.S. attempt to launch an earth satellite with a Vanguard rocket earlier this month.

He said accounts of the incident had done "incalculable harm" to the nation and called on publishers to formulate some sort of policy for "objectively" handling such situations.

Newsmen peppered him with questions for nearly one-half hour, urging him to spell out specific steps publishers should take. The issue died a slow death with no firm settlement reached.

DETROIT BUS CRASHES

Davis' empty livestock semi-trailer smashed into a side of the overpass which carries U.S. 112 across a railroad.

Pontiac Names New 'Ad' Head

Manager; Kimball in New Assignment

The appointment of W. E. Schoon as advertising manager of the Pontiac Motor Division was announced by Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager. The appointment is effective Jan. 1.

Schoon succeeds B. B. Kimball who will become assistant to the general sales manager and will handle special advertising assignments.

Schoon has been Pontiac's zone manager in Charlotte, N. C., prior to his new assignment. He joined General Motors in 1946 following service in the United States Navy during World War II. He has had extensive sales experience in both the retail and wholesale operations of the automobile business.

Kimball has one of the longest service records in Pontiac Motor Division's history, dating back to 1917. He became assistant advertising manager of the Oakland Motor Car Company in 1919 and held that position until 1947 when he became advertising manager.

One type of holiday buyer is the office or family grab-bag shopper. About the only thing he knows for sure is that he has to buy a "nice" gift for a person for three dollars and three dollars only, tax included.

With this information, the clerk's duty is spelled out. Show him about six suggestions, the best one first, keep smiling, be courteous, and that's what he will probably end up buying.

Men have always been difficult creatures to deal with. The lady customer may demand more service but the inexperienced male shopper needs help.

Even if they choose some hideous chair and fuchsia shirt, the clerk must remember her duty: Smile, be courteous, friendly, helpful and interested in each customer and above all, remember he's always right.

The Day in Birmingham Commission to Postpone Bills for Air-Conditioners

BIRMINGHAM — City Commissioners have adopted a "let's wait" attitude on the demand payment charges for companies using non-conserving water air conditioning systems in the city.

City Manager L. R. Gare reported that when the May billing period arrived the city had accounted for 26 units whose charges totaled $298.40.

Since that time, through an almost door-to-door inspection, as well as voluntary reports, an additional 45 units, with charges totaling $389.60, have come to light. The question now arises whether to collect on the earlier reported units.

Gare said that so far no bills had been sent by the Southeastern Oakland County Water Authority, but that the city already had made its collection.

To build the 45 additional non-conserving units seemed unfair, Gare said. Unit users had missed the opportunity to convert to the conserving type which would have meant a considerable saving to them, he said.

After much discussion, commissioners decided to report the entire 76 units to the authority and await its action. They expressed belief that the authority might waive the first year's fees in which case the city will make refunds to those who have paid their bills.

The resignation of former city manager Harold K. Schoon as Birmingham's representative on the North Evergreen Sewage Disposal Authority was accepted Monday night.

Schoon's successor will be Gare. A Milford woman refused medical aid after an accident at 7:40 p.m. yesterday at Hickory Grove and Telegraph roads, according to Bloomfield Township Police. They said she complained of injuries to her side and stomach.

Carolyn Estelien, 50, of 10053 Cedar Shores, Milford, told police she was traveling north on Telegraph when her car went into a skid. She said she applied her brakes, sending the car into a spin, and slid in front of an auto driven by Henry T. LeBuda, 31, of 4006 Malden Rd., Clarkston.

LeBuda was uninjured.

Police said Loretta M. Copenhaver, 47, of 30 W. Hopkins St., Pontiac, was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, after an accident at Telegraph and Baring yesterday. She suffered possible internal injuries.

Mrs. Copenhaver told police she was preparing to pass a truck when she saw a car ahead making a left turn. She applied her brakes, lost control of her car and went into the ditch.

Charles W. Mortensen, manager of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce has announced the acceptance of two new members, David E. Davis of the Triangle Furniture Co., and Leon D. St. Nicholas of Leon's Parisian Hair Dresser.

He also announced the resignation of Russell M. Downey as vice president and director of the chamber.

Walter L. Moreland was named vice president and John W. Knecht was appointed director to complete Downey's term, which expires April 30, 1959.

Members of the First Baptist Church Choir are asking any persons interested in joining their Christmas caroling program to leave their names at the church.

Carollers will leave the church at 8 p.m. Friday to sing for shut-ins in the city. Following the singing, there will be refreshments and fellowship at the church.

Time Plan for Taxes?

CADILLAC (AP) — Commissioner Drexel "Swartwood" has proposed that the next Cadillac City Commission consider his proposal that city taxes be made payable on a monthly installment plan. City Clerk Emil F. Meyer said such an arrangement has been operating informally among some 12 of 4,000 city taxpayers for about three years, but no formal pattern of payments has yet been adopted.

Liquor Commission Imposes Penalties

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission has imposed penalties and warnings on three owners of local concerns at hearings held recently.

Ralph and Edith Bowen, owners of the Bo-Inn, 1128 S. Lapeer Rd., Lake Orion, were charged with selling to a minor and allowing a minor to consume an alcoholic beverage at their inn.

They were fined $150. However no suspension of their license was ordered in view of the nature and appearance of the minor.

President Stresses NATO's Objectives

President EISENHOWER's keynote speech to the 15 nation NATO meeting in Paris emphasized not only the necessity for building up military strength but also his yearning for an end to the East-West cold war.

"We are here to find ways and means to apply our undoubted strength to the building of an ample and safer home for mankind here on earth... but its price will be high," he declared.

The President spoke of the West's misconceptions of Soviet strength and the belief that free nations were more productive than the totalitarian system. While the margin of power is still ours, he emphasized, we should make sure it will be kept so.

NATO nations comprise nearly 500 million people and have the most powerful military establishment in the world. But they seek ways to avoid war, negotiate differences and build up defensive strength against a greatly increased Soviet threat.

Fortunately, President Eisenhower has the support of the majority of the American people. Indeed, the whole free world is looking to him to restore confidence and point the way toward a greater degree of security.

Let's Keep Christmas Merry

Unless proper care is taken the Christmas tree is a real potential fire hazard. Selection of the tree, placement in the home and maintenance should all be observed carefully.

To play safe choose a small tree, one that can be handled comfortably in your house. Keep the tree outdoors until you are ready to set it up. This will keep it moist and fresh.

When you bring the tree inside and set it up, be sure that your standard will hold the tree in a firm position. Sometimes as an added caution, a piece of cord can be used to fasten the tree in a strong position so that it may not be accidentally knocked over.

With children and pets in a house, it is advisable to be doubly sure that the tree cannot be toppled over. This is one of the greatest causes of fire. In placing the tree in a room, it's best to avoid "hot spots," such as those near the fireplace, stove, television set, radiator or electric bulbs.

Never use untreated paper ornaments or untreated cotton batting or gauze for decoration. This is asking for a fire.

Only use electric lights, never candles. Be sure, too, that the wires are all in good condition and have been tested for safety. Frayed electric cords are a No. 1 fire hazard.

Be cautious of chemicals or other substances sold for fireproofing trees. In some cases this process is ineffective.

Above all keep plenty of ash trays handy during the holiday season. If you do not provide sufficient receptacles for ashes, your guests are not to blame for an accident due to smoking.

After you have opened your Christmas presents, remove all the gift wrappings and packing materials from your living room and dispose of them.

Your Christmas tree is like a box of tinder, so treat it with care and caution.

THE INTERNATIONAL Labor Organization of the United Nations works to improve standards of living around the world by teaching workers, employes and governments how to produce more and better goods, with no competitive advantage resulting from underpaid labor. Sparked by American labor, it has pioneered in exposing such violations of human freedom as slave labor which exists in many Communist countries.

With more than half the world's population underfed and undernourished, hunger is the special problem of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. This Specialized Agency works to raise living standards, improve nutrition, and to increase the efficiency of farming, forestry and fisheries.

Christmas Spirit Also Some Items Showing a Shameful Dearth of It

Winter: Not scheduled to arrive until Saturday—but sometimes under suspicion of delaying its schedule.

Some of the items coming to my notice, sorry to say, show the Christmas spirit in reverse. But they only make the true Yuletide atmosphere more invigorating.

Selling Christmas trees on a vacant lot on the Dixie Highway just northwest of Pontiac.

Ben Ogilthorpe counted his stock in trade when he went home the other night. He had 58. His inventory when he opened for business the next morning totaled 44.

A box containing $2.88 in pennies. Captain M. A. Michelson of the Salvation Army tells me was dropped in one of their downtown kettles, accompanied by a card telling that it was "A widow's mite for Christmas baskets."

A beautiful blue spruce tree in the yard of

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Miles at Walled Lake has long been admired by me, as I have one like it in my own yard at Holly. But Mr. Miles phones me that our Walled Lake admiration has ceased, as somebody cut down and carried away his tree the other night, although it was located almost under a street light.

Soon after each of them was born, Sheffield Thylman of Waterford planted a Christmas tree seedling for each of his six children. The eldest child now is 14, and the oldest tree graces their living room.

Winter officially arrives at an average time next Saturday, which my old weather watcher, Frans VanAntwerp of Pontiac Trail, tells me means that we'll have an average winter. After a long observation, Frans has found that when it enters before Dec. 21 we have a mild winter, but when it makes its bow after that date, it means a hard winter.

Word comes to me that V. H. Crankshaw of Hadley was born in a log cabin in 1877.

The family dog, a beagle, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Coughlin of Rochester runs down cellar when there's any shooting on radio or television.

A Bible printed in 1726, now in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Rodger Ketterman of Oxford, is nominated as the oldest in the Pontiac area.

Atlas Launching Cheers NATO

WASHINGTON — The big news Tuesday wasn't at the NATO conference table in Paris. It was in Florida where an Atlas intercontinental missile launched by the United States Air Force, got off the ground successfully. It landed "in the target area" somewhere in the south Atlantic.

This means that intercontinental missiles of at least 5,000 miles' range, capable of traversing the oceans to targets in the Soviet area, will be in full production before long. The secretary of the Air Force, James H. Douglas, says the intercontinental missile will be in operation "within two years." Considering production difficulties, this is believed to be a date far ahead of any other country.

AVAILABLE TO ALLIES

Also, it is announced now by Douglas that, within one year from this date, intermediate missiles will be available for use by our European allies. Such an achievement means a restoration of the position of strength of the Western allies, who will be able once more to rely on "deterrent power."

News of these developments in the missile race did more to boost the morale of American allies than all the speeches that President Eisenhower and members of the United States delegation could possibly deliver at Paris to the representatives of the nations assembled there.

For it is action that counts—not just words. But words out of Moscow recently seem to have enchanted many people in different parts of the world. The "Sputnik"—in itself not a military accomplishment—gave rise to the belief that Russia was far ahead in the contest to launch intercontinental missiles, though no known actual evidence was available to prove this.

GLOOM OBVIOUS

Since America's "Vanguard" test, however, had failed, the gloom here and abroad was noticeable. It caused pessimism among the allies at NATO and may have been responsible for a tendency to support plans for more "Summit" conferences and more talks with the Russians.

The cold truth, however, has prevailed. The NATO conference at Paris has disregarded the Soviet plea for more "Summit" conferences. For these are designed primarily as vehicles for the Communist propaganda of "peaceful coexistence." Translated into realistic terms, this means concessions by the West and eventual passive acceptance of Soviet imperialism and control over Europe, Asia and Africa.

The NATO conference has determined instead to meet the Soviet challenge by pressing through regular diplomatic negotiations for a disarmament program on nuclear weapons and by insisting on a plan to establish a free and unified Germany. This will give Moscow a chance once more to prove her good faith, if she really wishes to do so. All the disarmament discussions in the past have ended in failure because of the intransigence and stubbornness of the Russians.

BOLD STEP

What the NATO conference has decided upon is a bold step. It answers the blackmail tactics of Khrushchev's recent letters to the governments of the United States and of the other member countries of the NATO alliance.

It is, therefore, news of transcendent importance that a schedule of performance on the intercontinental missiles has been disclosed to the world. America has had some hard luck with her tests. But in the next two years there will be more and more heard about the missiles that the United States has been developing. There seems to be more confidence than ever now that success is ahead.

If America really concentrates on the job, as it has begun to do, it may surprise the world on the missile front. For there are all kinds of missiles in the laboratory development stage. Soon, when more tests are held, we shall perhaps be hearing a paraphrase of an old slogan: "When bigger and better missiles are built, America will build them."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Debunks Idea Cholesterol Brings On Heart Attacks

A Pennsylvanian asks, "Is it true that the fatty substance in butter, eggs and milk called cholesterol causes heart attacks? What in your opinion is the leading cause of heart attacks in so many men in the prime of life?"

Both questions call for my opinion. Remember also that I'm not an "eminent specialist" nor a "medical authority."

In my opinion, nothing in butter, eggs, milk or any other wholesome food causes heart attacks. I'll have to do a lot of thinking and research before I can answer the second question.

I do not hesitate to express my opinion about cholesterol. The theory that this fatlike, pearly substance (present in all animal fats or oils, milk, butter, cream, egg yolk, bile, blood, sheaths of nerve fibres, kidneys, liver and adrenal glands) may be responsible for heart, artery or joint disease is without scientific foundation.

Besides, these fats are necessary in a good diet because (1) they are a concentrated source of energy-giving calories, (2) they assist in the absorption of essential vitamins and (3) they supply the body with the indispensable fatty acids.

Some publicity-hungry "research scientist" conceived out of thin air the idea that cholesterol in the foods mentioned may be "deposited" in the arteries, producing a spot or spots of gruel-like softening, called atheroma. Other eager beaver medical "scientists" quickly converted this to atherosclerosis (arterial atheroma) and finally to atherosclerosis.

Atherosclerosis is over my head. Atherosclerosis means hardening of the arteries. Atherosclerosis means softening... So when you get atherosclerosis you're in a bad way with soft hardening or, if you prefer, soft hardening of the arteries. If this sounds silly, it is silly.

Unless or until we get scientific evidence that cholesterol causes or contributes to the development of heart and arterial degeneration or coronary disease, we should pipe down about it. Just remember; the blood of a healthy person always contains cholesterol.

Signed letters, not more than one page of 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Applies Psychology to Business

Notice Mrs. Crane's irate complaint below. Newspapers are an ideal medium for advertising. But after a store attracts a customer via its food ads, poor psychology within the store may alienate that buyer. And psychology involves not just deftness in using words, but honesty, cordiality and also quality merchandise at rock bottom prices.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case W - 375: Mrs. Crane, recently drove over to Crawfordsville from our farm home in Indiana.

After doing her primary shopping, she then decided to stop at a chain store and buy some dressed chickens.

Knowing that I dislike little fryers, she picked out the heaviest chickens she could find.

They were celophane-wrapped and frozen. She showed them to me when she got home for, like most wives, she wants to display her purchases when she comes back from a shopping spree.

But a little later, as she was getting one of the chickens ready for the skillet, I heard her exclaim irritably:

"Look what that butcher did to trick me!"

'Count All Your Blessings; They'll Exceed Any Gift'

As we come to another Christmas and the close of another year we all know that the majority of families has had a lot of sickness with flu, and in most homes Christmas probably won't be so abundant in gifts. But if we all take time out and count our blessings and give thanks, I'm sure we will find they far exceed any gift that may or may not be under the tree.

A fine tribute should be paid to our wonderful nurses and doctors as they no doubt had a very busy and firestorm year.

A tribute should also be given our merchants and salespeople, especially in our smaller communities. Experienced and congenial salespeople make shopping at this time much more pleasant.

Says Taxpayers Pick Up Check

Brewers don't have much regard for human life when they urge people to drink their brew, using a tantalizing picture of the Mackinac Bridge as if to tempt them to drive with a few drinks in them over the suspension cables.

I will leave the discoveries of the "goodness" of their product to those who have no care for the kind of treatment they give their stomach, brain or fellowmen. Of course, we taxpayers pick up the check. For every dollar paid in taxes by the liquor industry, we spend many times that to care for liquor-bred crime, poverty, disease, etc.

'Christmas Spirit Needed for NATO'

I hope a little of the goodness of the holiday season rubs off on all those at the NATO meetings. I'm sure a lot more would be accomplished if the Christmas spirit could be incorporated into the proceedings. I suppose it's too much to hope it would last all year, but even a little right now might accomplish wonders.

'Do Jail Conditions Need Attention?'

Recently I toured the Oakland County Jail and learned from inmates that 15 to 20 persons were using one toilet, shower and wash basin. A number said food was poor and they went hungry part of the time. Others said they had requested a doctor with no results.

I believe the law states that anyone committing a crime should be confined in a penal institution, but I don't think it states that they should be treated in this way, do you? Can we expect these men to live decent, respectable lives on the outside when it is not stressed while they are confined in our county penal institution?

Anyone interested in conferring with me on this subject can contact me.

An ounce of cheerfulness is worth a pound of sadness to serve God with. — Thomas Fuller.

Smiles

It takes a mighty good salesman to sell more new shoes than corns do.

But the combination of cheese at the end and shocks when it enters wrong alleys, produces the quickest learning.

BUSINESS BONERS
Business firms will spend thousands of dollars on good advertising in this newspaper to attract customers to their stores.
Yet a dishonest worker or a tactless clerk may drive away those very customers whose entrance to the store has cost a lot of money.

Salesmen out in the field thus complain that tactless credit men often queer a sale which the salesmen have worked for months to create.

Sometimes a blunt reminder statement of an overdue account will likewise strike an old customer the wrong way and cause him to quit the store.

So psychology is still worth at least 50 per cent toward business success. And it involves not just the skillful handling of words, but also honesty, cordiality and high quality merchandise.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 30c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Last Chance in 1957 for Early Watchers to View Sputnik II

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Sputnik II is making its last 1957 early morning appearances over the United States during the next few days, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory reports.

The rocket-satellite, with its dead dog passenger, is best visible in southern parts of the country.

Its crossings have become so far in advance of sunrise that the Soviet moon catches the rays of the sun only as it sweeps far south over the United States.

The satellite is due to show up in the evening twilight in several weeks, but will not appear as a morning visitor again until late next month, the observatory estimates.

Smithsonian Moonwatch teams in Milwaukee, Biloxi, Miss., New Orleans, Edinburgh and Fort Worth, Tex., all sighted the satellite as it swept over the Midwest.

The Russian visitor is passing over at about 500 miles altitude. It may be seen from distances of hundreds of miles away due to its height.

The Smithsonian listed these passages, all in a northwest to southeast direction, today and tomorrow, all times Eastern Standard:

The first crossing today began in the Oswego, N. Y., area at approximately 4:17 a.m., crossing New York State and leaving the coast south of New York City a minute later.

The next sweep began at 5:57 a.m., in northeastern Montana and crossed South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Eastern Texas before leaving the country over Western Louisiana five minutes later.

The last morning passage paralleled the California coast about 60 miles offshore, passing west of San Francisco at 7:41 a.m.

On Thursday the satellite is due to enter the United States over the Watertown, N. Y., area at 3:55 a.m., cross New York State and pass approximately over New York City a minute later.

The next passage begins near the northern boundary of Montana and North Dakota at 5:38 a.m. and crosses parts of South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas before leaving the country over Louisiana five minutes later.

The final morning passage begins near Cape Mendocino, Calif. at 7:21 a.m., sweeping down the California coast during the next two minutes.

Mamie Writes to TB Patients

Praises Michigan Boys Who Donated Pennies
for Christmas Seals

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Two young brothers, both tuberculosis victims, today proudly displayed a personal letter from Mamie Eisenhower praising them for donating their pennies to the TB Christmas seal drive.

The boys are David Marion, 9, and his brother Eddie, 10. Both were committed to Southwestern Sanatorium here last August after it was learned they had contracted TB.

The boys told their mother they wanted to spend their savings for TB seals rather than toys this Christmas.

Mrs. Eisenhower read a newspaper account of their generosity and sent the youngsters this letter:

"The President was glad to learn you have given your penny banks to help find a way to keep children from catching tuberculosis, but he was sorry to hear you were sick yourself. This makes your gift more meaningful, however, and while you are lying on your bed, you can find some comfort in thinking of how your money is helping other little boys and girls keep strong and well."

"Perhaps when you are feeling a little better you can start using the enclosed Christmas seals on the letters you write to your friends, and through your letters you can send greetings all over the country, just as I am sending my greetings to both of you."

Christmas

CUT AROUND ANGEL
AND STAR, HANG UP WITH STICKERS THROUGH INDICATED HOLES.

Question: Why did the new star in the East cause so much comment?

ANSWER: Something new under the sun always stirs comment. Look at the public interest in Sputnik, the barely visible Russian satellite. Imagine what would happen if a new star of major brilliance suddenly appeared and began moving across the heavens toward a fixed destination. That is what happened over Bethlehem. The ancients, who studied the stars closely and sometimes even worshipped them, knew that no fixed star moved more than one degree a day. But this new star, first seen in the East, was reported to have led the wise men across 1,200 miles of mountains, sea and desert, and then suddenly settled over the little town of Bethlehem. When the tyrant Herod learned that the star pointed to the birthplace of a new king, he flew into a rage and immediately ordered the slaughter of all male children under the age of 2.

FOR YOU TO DO: Here is a bright star and a golden haired angel to cut out and color for your Christmas crib. If you saved the first two parts of this Junior Editor's Christmas series, you now have a stable, a group of animals and some shepherd boys. New characters will be added tomorrow. By the end of the week, you will have a complete Christmas scene to put under your tree or to decorate your living room during the holiday season. Army Denies Target Areas

Has No Plans to Use Ft. Sill or Ft. Bliss as Missile Impact Site

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army says it has no plans to use either Ft. Sill, Okla., or Ft. Bliss, Tex., as missile test target areas.

Such a possibility was discussed Monday by two Army generals. In response to an inquiry at the Pentagon yesterday, a spokesman said: "The Department of the Army staff has no plans for using Ft. Sill or Ft. Bliss as an impact area for missiles fired from other Army areas."

In a speech at Altus, Okla., two days ago, Brig. Gen. John C. Hayden said the Army is seeking land near Ft. Sill which would be used as an impact area for missiles to be launched from Ft. Bliss and other points.

The Ft. Sill commander, Maj. Gen. Thomas DeShazo, told newsmen later the same day that such tests eventually would be conducted, but he didn't say when.

DeShazo added the Army's Redstone missile is "approaching" accuracy which would permit it to be tested by launching it from a base like Ft. Bliss to an impact area near Ft. Sill. The general did not mention any other types of missiles.

Indians Snafu Property Deal in New Jersey

EAST RUTHERFORD, N. J. (AP)—Here's one to top all complaints by landowners threatened with their property being condemned for new superhighways.

The Mercury Athletic Club bought property on Mozart street recently. It told the Borough Council Monday night that a search of title shows that an Indian trail nine feet wide right across the parcel of land is still deeded to the original redman.

Club members asked the council to do something about it. Council members said they don't know what they can do, that they are not certain who the Indians were, much less who their descendants are.

Marine Convicted, Gets Hard Labor

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A U.S. Navy court-martial today found Marine Pfc. Frank K. Pasternak Jr., Chicopee, Mass., guilty of mistreating prisoners and sentenced him to two months at hard labor.

The 22-year-old Marine was convicted on four counts. The court also ordered that he be reduced to private and fined $130. The sentence is subject to review by higher naval authorities.

He was one of 16 former Marine guards charged with mistreating prisoners at the Sasebo Navy base brig. Of the others, six have been found guilty, five acquitted and four are awaiting trial.

will be operated on, says half of the blood has to be the fairly rare type O Negative. The blood is needed because Richard suffers from hemophilia and bleeds profusely from even slight wounds.

To U.S. Missile Bases in Europe

Adenauer Leading Opposition

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Konrad Adenauer, now almost 82, believes that a chancellor of West Germany "must be both a good German and a good European."

And his long-time profession of the "good European" concept undoubtedly helped bring other European members of NATO to his side in the "Summit" conference Monday when he led opposition to proposed American missile bases in Europe.

LED NATION

Adenauer long ago had proved that he is a "good German."

He has led his nation from the depths of defeat and disgrace to a position of leadership and wealth perhaps unequalled by any Western nation on the continent. He has become, as Sir Winston Churchill said, "the greatest German statesman since Bismarck."

The chancellor was 73 when he became the leader of West Germany. His first nickname was "The Old Fox." But since then, his warmth and directness have reached through his political genius and hard-work. He is called "The Old Man," which in German ("Der Alte") has much the flavor of "The Grand Old Man."

STUDIED LAW

He was the son of a low-ranking civil servant, studied law and political economy at the Universities of Freiburg, Bonn and Munich. He became a court assessor, town deputy in Orling and finally lord mayor.

He held that job for 14 years, until Adolf Hitler removed him from office for opposing police to tear down some swastika flags. When the Allies took Cologne in World War II, he got back his old mayor's job.

But a British official later fired him for "inefficiency." That gave Adenauer freedom to travel and talk with new German political groups. On that foundation, he helped build the new Christian Democratic Party and his new political career.

He became the first chancellor of the federal republic in 1949, and has held that job ever since, most of the time also holding the portfolio of the foreign minister.

Adenauer was born in the Rhineland wine country, and it is only the people of that area, he says, who are "sober enough to rule Germany."

Needless to say, "Der Alte" is most sober of them all, neither smoking nor drinking.

Postal Worker Pleads
Guilty to Embezzlement

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Carl Brabon, 30, of Dowagiac, pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Raymond W. Starr of embezzlement from the mails and was continued on personal bond pending sentence Jan. 8.

U. S. Attorney Wendell A. Miles said Brabon, arrested Dec. 4 by postal inspectors, allegedly rifled about 100 letters while employed since January 1956 as a substitute carrier at the Dowagiac Post Office.

Suitcase 'Buzz Bomb'
Given Clean Report

NEW YORK (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Clark of Xenia, Ohio, heard a mysterious buzzing noise inside a suitcase as they were unpacking yesterday at the Hotel Roosevelt in Manhattan.

Police carried the suitcase to the hotel roof, fluoroscoped it and cautiously opened it.

They discovered the noise came from a small, battery-operated clothes vacuum cleaner which had accidentally clicked on.

Many Youngsters
Aim at Engineering

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A large number of high school students plan to pursue engineering or scientific careers on the college level, according to a survey of 35,000 young people enrolled in the nation's high schools.

The Educational Testing Service, which conducted the survey, estimated some 49,000 boys who are seniors in American high schools want to become engineers and are making plans in that direction.

The survey attempted to determine the college plans of high school students and relate them to such factors as family motivation, grades, ability and finances. The survey indicated that money remains a problem for some and that about 150,000 more advanced students would undertake college study if they had adequate financial support.

Dear Abby....

Sit Tight or You Won't Sit at All

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl 12 years old and have a little brother who is 5 and a big sister who is 15. My sister goes out on sitting jobs and gets 50 cents an hour. When she is gone I have to stay home with my little brother and I would call this "sitting" but I never get paid for it.

I don't think this is fair. Don't you think if I stay home with my brother when my sister and my parents are gone I should get paid like a sitter? I would like to get what's coming to me. Thank you.

KAREN
DEAR KAREN: If you got what was "coming to you"—you wouldn't be able to "sit" for a week. It's up to your folks to decide whether you should be paid for "sitting" in your own home.

DEAR ABBY: My wife got into an argument with another lady at a church bazaar. They drew quite a crowd as they were talking very loud. The deacon's wife finally broke it up. When we got home my wife started in on me because she said I should have taken her part.

I told her I thought I should have stayed out of it because it was a ladies' fight. Was I wrong or do you think I should have got into it? The other lady's husband also kept his mouth shut.

ALBERT
DEAR ALBERT: You (and the other gentleman) used good judgment in keeping out of it.

Women are more than able to fight their own battles.

DEAR ABBY: I am 41 years old and I am no "Miss America." A gentleman I have known (through two wives—he is now divorced) has been seeing me almost every night. He tells me he is through with marriage, but he likes my company enough to live with me.

I think a lot of him and am pretty sure if I agree to this,

Yule Observed by Music Guild

Members of Pontiac Music Guild held a Christmas party and brunch in the Auburn road home of Mrs. Lester Snell. Amy Hogle assisted the hostess at the Tuesday event.

A pantomime of a Christmas recital was presented by Mrs. Oscar Schmidt, Mrs. Hazel Gessinger, Mrs. Claude Kimbler, Marguerite Ballard and Elida Sutter.

Decorations were in the holiday motif.

2 Church Circles Conduct Meeting

Dorcas and Elizabeth Circles of First Christian Church met Tuesday in the Boston avenue home of Mrs. Howard Reynolds. Mrs. Harry Kunse was cohostess for the event.

Members brought gifts for the Oakland County Convalescent Home. Mrs. Brady Adams, Mrs. Allan Herse and Mrs. Paul Colton presented the program.

when his divorce is final and he is free to marry, he will marry me. He is well-to-do and you know the old saying, "Opportunity knocks but once." How should I answer him?

PAULINE
DEAR PAULINE: Opportunities for a solid marriage do not KNOCK—they come with a ring. Tell him!

DEAR ABBY: I am in my early 30s, but keep myself young because I go to dances almost every night. My problem is with men. They all like to dance close and I hate to dance close to men I have no serious intentions with.

Some men use dancing as an excuse to get close to you and the way some of them dance I could slap their faces. I see other girls dancing real close with men they never saw before in their life.

Is there something wrong with the way I think? Please straighten me out. Maybe I am too fussy?

LOVES TO DANCE
DEAR LOVES: You've got the right idea! Don't lose your head while you use your feet.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CHARLIE: Don't worry about strangers—keep your eye on your best friend.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

PAMELA GREEN

When the drama "The Broken Doll" is presented at Will-O-Way Apprentice Theater, Bloomfield Hills, the cast's youngest member will be a 5-year-old Pontiac miss, Pamela Green, daughter of Mrs. Vivian Green of Valencia drive, will make her appearance in the Christmas story to be presented Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Editor's Note: The following is a letter to the Women's Department of The Pontiac Press from famed dress designer Oleg Cassini.

Well, here it is, the time when everybody, as they say on television, pauses to take stock of the year just ending and looks ahead to see what the future holds.

I'm half inclined to go along—but only half. It's always interesting to predict what will happen next year

Tuesday Event Features Talk by Detroit Poet

Detroit poet Anna Campbell spoke on "Around the Christmas Tree" when members of Junior Child Study Club and their guests met Tuesday for a Christmas luncheon in the Tudor Room of Fox and Hounds Inn.

Mrs. Howard Powers and Mrs. Harold Kendrick were in charge of hospitality, with Mrs. Fred Hoensline and Mrs. Donald Robertson heading decorations and favors.

Mrs. Richard DeWitt took care of tickets and Mrs. Frank Copp headed publicity.

Soroptimists Hold Christmas Party

Soroptimists International of Pontiac met at the home of Mrs. Richard Paschke on Union Lake road for the annual Christmas party.

Assistant hostesses for the Monday affair were Talma Suroia, Mrs. Leon Glynn, and Mrs. Karl Schultz. Mrs. Clifford Todd, Bernice Berger and Mrs. Howard Decker were guests.

Yule Party Held

Mrs. Don Vincent, Mrs. Charles Simpson and Mrs. Albert Termarsh participated in the program when members of Albright Daughters of Evangelical United Brethren Church met Tuesday afternoon in the Hudson avenue home of Mrs. Dorothy Gaddes for a Christmas party.

Cassini Wants Forward Look Fashion

—provided, of course, no one confronts you with these same predictions 12 months from now.

But as to looking back, frankly, I think there's been much too much of that in the fashion industry lately.

FASHIONS OF THE PAST

First we looked back to the French Empire. Then we came a little more up to date with the look of the '20s—and right on its heels, the '30s.

At this rate, it wouldn't surprise me if next year, Rosie the Riveter, zip-up overalls and all, becomes a popular cover girl. That's not a prediction, just a horrible possibility.

I don't mean to philosophize. I haven't had that many egg-nogs yet. But I do think fashion, like everything else that has any significance, stems from the feelings of the time.

To take fashion out of context by imposing yesterday's look on today is as ridiculous as if the fashion magazines suddenly decided to print their issues on scrolls—and send them out by courier.

THEIR DAY IS GONE

The hobble skirt, knee-length sack or middie blouse "look" were fine in their day—but that day is over. They are as out of date as the sultana, the flapper or Tillie the Toller.

Today's woman, active, aware, independent, with many interests, yet always feminine, is very much a part of today's Jet Age. And she wants to dress the part.

So instead of looking back, I'm taking this moment to make some "forward look" resolutions of my own.

I resolve to create fashion that is in keeping with today's feeling and today's woman.

VIBRANT COLORS

I resolve to use colors that are vivid, exciting, vibrant and optimistic to fit the mood of our time.

I resolve to keep the real image of American women in mind while creating fashion—remember her many-faceted life, her love of travel, her many interests.

I resolve to select fabrics that match this spirit—textures with the look of pampered luxury but the stamina to withstand every element.

I resolve to treat every woman as an individual—who is guided, never dominated, by fashion.

I resolve to make no more resolutions.

And so resolved, let me join you in spirit with a toast to the New Year and another traditional toast—to the ladies, bless 'em.

Embassies Concocting Yule Food

Capital Chefs Fix Traditional Native Delicacies

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—As in many American homes across the land, spicy and inviting aromas are floating from kitchens on Embassy Row while diplomats' cooks bustle about preparing the traditional holiday goodies of their native lands.

Plum puddings, fruitcake, mince pies, buns and breads, and numerous little cakes and cookies of many different flavors, pretty to look at and good to eat, are being whipped up according to time-honored custom.

Most of the wives are hoping to have at least one holiday offering typical of the country they represent.

A SPECIAL TREAT

Mrs. Munthe de Morgenstjerne, wife of the Norwegian ambassador, has a special treat for guests during the Yule season. It's made weeks in advance and is called "Mother Magnus's Cake." Here's the recipe:

Two cups of melted butter, 2 cups sugar, 10 eggs, 3 cups white flour, 1 cup chopped almonds, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Mix like cake, in a shallow pan. Cover with chopped almonds and crushed cube sugar. Bake until light yellow in moderate (350-degree) oven. Cut in diamond shaped pieces and store in tins.

At the Swedish Embassy the holiday began with celebration of St. Lucia Day, Dec. 13.

Then Ambassador and Mrs. Erik Boneman have a party for children of embassy personnel and serve newly baked Lucia buns and cakes while they sing "Santa Lucia."

MARTYRED MAIDEN

Celebrated by Swedes everywhere, the festival honors a Christian maiden martyred under the Roman emperor Diocletian. Here, as wherever Swedes are gathered, a pretty girl is chosen to represent Lucia.

Attired in a white robe, with lighted candles in a wreath of greens circling her head, she leads the singing and serves the sweets.

Mrs. Francoise Chateau, pretty brunette wife of the new first secretary of the Swiss Embassy, expects to serve a traditional sweet of her country on this, her first Christmas here.

It's a light, rich cake flavored with cocoa, called "La Buche de Noel." "It looks like a piece of a log," she said. A "country chop" is the holiday dish of Liberia. Mrs. George Padmore, wife of the ambassador, tells me. This is native dish made of rice, chicken, meat, green leaf and oil from the palm.

In Detroit Hospital

Mrs. Claire J. Hinckley of Elsinore drive is convalescing at Woman's Hospital, Detroit, after undergoing surgery Tuesday.

MR. and MRS. THOMAS WALTON

Sharon Sutton Becomes Bride in Parkdale Church

Sharon Marie Sutton became the bride of Thomas E. Walton in a ceremony performed Saturday at Parkdale Church of the Nazarene.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Sutton of South Tilden avenue, and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walton of South Josephine avenue.

The bride chose a white velvet princess-style gown in ballerina length. Long sleeves ended in points at the wrist, and the neckline was filled in with nylon tulle.

She wore a single strand of pearls. A velvet headpiece held her fingertip veil of nylon net, and she carried white flowers on a white velvet muff.

Charlene Egges was maid of honor and Theresa Marie Sutton, the bride's niece, was flower girl. Both wore royal blue velvet princess-style ballerina-length gowns and carried white velvet muffs adorned with flowers. Ringbearer was Bruce Walton Jr., the bridegroom's nephew.

Bruce Walton was his brother's best man. Ushers were Richard Foling, C. H. Sutton Jr. and William Hillborn.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Sutton wore a steel blue satin dress with a red carnation corsage, while Mrs. Walton's choice was a royal blue dress with a red carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the Boys' Club. The new Mrs. Walton changed to a gray suit with black and gray accessories for the honeymoon trip. Upon returning the couple will reside on Ingewood avenue.

Married

Saturday were Sharon Sutton and Thomas E. Walton. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Sutton, and his parents are the Charles Waltons.

Don't Wipe Lipstick Off on Napkins

Removal of Stains May Be Damaging to Fine Linens

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My sister and I had an argument last night about a point of etiquette and would like you to settle it for us. She said that it is very bad manners — especially when dining in someone else's house — to get lipstick on a napkin.

"She claims that should it be necessary to wipe one's mouth, one should press her lips tightly together and turn them in so as to prevent getting lipstick on the napkin. I have never heard of such a rule.

"What are napkins for if not to be used? Certainly this same napkin is not going to be used again without being laundered, so what difference does it make if one does get lipstick on it. I would appreciate your commenting on this."

Answer: You should make every effort not to put any lipstick on your hostess' fine linen because many lipstick leaves nearly indelible stains and the linen may be damaged when an attempt is made to remove them.

"Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine insists that a lady precedes the gentleman with her into the elevator and out again; whereas I insist just as vehemently that she enters first but he, standing nearer the doors, leaves first. Who is right?"

Answer: Both, depending upon circumstances. She enters first and, when practical for her to do so, leaves first. But when the elevator is crowded so that trying to let her go in front of him would only result in blocking the way for her and possibly others, he should therefore step out quickly and she should follow.

"Dear Mrs. Post: In introducing a man in his early 30s to my mother, is it correct to say, 'Mother, this is Mr. Smith,' or 'Mother, this is Bob Smith,' or just what is the correct form of introduction?"

Answer: It depends upon how well you know him. A very intimate friend you would introduce as Bob Smith and one you know slightly as Mr. Smith.

HOLIDAY JEWELRY

Glitters and glows on the holiday scene with just the right touch of jewelry. With your costume in mind, do some careful planning with rhinestones, pearls, etc.

Remember that candlelight will catch the glow of your rhinestones and reflect Christmas magic. Since your hostess will avoid the use of lighted tapers before five . . . you'll find it easy to observe the after-five rule for rhinestones. Wear pins in new and interesting places . . . at your waist, in back or on your shoulder. Double a necklace around your wrist for a bracelet, use clip earrings on your shoes, do anything that is different . . . but we caution you to use good taste. The right piece of jewelry in the right place will do more than a whole carload heaped on!

Separates Flattering to Waist

PARIS (INS) — One way to enhance your waistline is to spruce up in separates.

Patou has a knack of combining dressy and Parisian separates. He shows a sweater-style blouse of black "point d'esprit" net veiling embroidered with delicate flower bouquets and worn with a pale blue tulle skirt.

An even more dressy outfit for a dinner party is also of black net veiling, smocked to a boat-necked blouse with three-quarter length sleeves and worn with a bell-shaped black satin skirt.

In the Dior boutique are elegant evening blouses made of patterned sari silk. They are made in simple, collarless, Chinese style and worn either with a skirt or slacks of black velvet as hostess outfits.

Henry A. La Penne proves that a simple sweater can become a smart after-dark style when trimmed and worn in the right manner.

He shows a sweater of delicate mauve wool worn with a bell-shaped satin skirt in matching mauve. The high neckline and three-quarter sleeves of the sweater are edged with mauve satin bands.

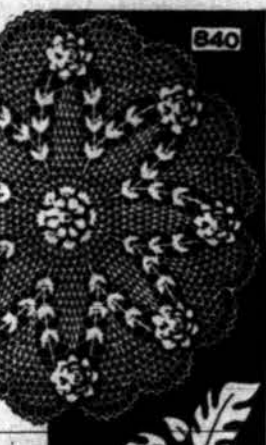

French woman designer Catherine Suave thinks a separate skirt for evening wear should be ground length to look feminine. She proposes a long, full skirt of soft velvet with a bold blanket plaid pattern. You wear it with a black sweater or with a low-cut black velvet top.

Shelly Group Meets

Mrs. Allan Monroe opened her Cherokee road home for a dinner meeting for members of Flora Shelly Group of First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. William H. Lehman, Mrs. W. C. VanRiper and Daisy Benedict assisted the hostess. Participating in the Friday program were Mrs. Olive Lord and Laura Cobb.

First Weeks on New Job Make Lasting Impression

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (INS) — The first few weeks of a new job are when you make the most impression, and the reputation you acquire can last your working lifetime.

Hard work always makes a fine impression and there's nothing like letting the boss know he will get his money's worth. But before you are well-known personally and have gotten a thorough grasp of your job, your personal appearance and habits will be people's guide to you.

Cleanliness is next to hard work, as are such simple points of good grooming as combed hair, clean fingernails, neat clothes.

In addition, don't chew gum, and even if smoking is permitted, don't get hidden behind huge clouds of smoke. Cigars and pipes are not a good idea, as many people find the smell offensive.

Don't make personal phone calls and warn your family and friends not to buzz you.

Be prompt in the morning, be careful not to overstay your lunch time and it doesn't hurt to stick around a few extra minutes at quitting time to prove you aren't a clock watcher.

For your own sake, be friendly to everyone but don't get overly chummy with any individual at first. Not only might you form an association you'd rather not be involved in, but you may be classified in the same league with an office undesirable.

Host and Hostess Placed on the Spot

"We always like to play for something, to make the game more interesting," said the guest who had been invited for a friendly game of bridge.

So the host and hostess who don't like to play for money felt they had to agree to make the guests happy.

Fingernails Lose Their Claw Look

Short, Round Cut
Now Preferred by Parisiennes

PARIS (INS) — Long, pointed feline nails for women are just out of date.

That's the decree from a Paris expert, who has some smart advice on how to give fingernails a professionally manicured look.

Madame Lucienne Vogel, head of a Paris school for professional manicurists, insisted: "Even the most elegant Parisiennes who lead lives of leisure now wear their fingernails shorter and round rather than pointed."

NEARLY SQUARE

"For women who typewrite or use their hands at home, we advise a nail shape cut and filed to a nearly square form, making the nail less fragile and breakable."

Madame Vogel said French women now prefer paler colors on their nails to match the lighter lipsticks being used in Paris.

Statistics, according to her, have shown that pale, pearly nail varnish is most in demand. Many elegant women even ask for a classic nail polish either colorless or just a little darker than the natural nail shade.

Here are some basic rules to give your nails a professional looking finish, Madame Vogel said:

Always use a nail-protecting and smoothening base before applying colored varnish.

APPLY THINLY

Apply base and the following two coats of nail varnish very thinly.

Don't ever do a retouch job on your nails. When your polish has chipped off, remove it altogether and start afresh.

"La mode" as far as nails are concerned includes some new typically French styles:

For city wear: Choose a very pale, pearly or true red shade of nail varnish if you want it to go with all modish colors.

For around-the-clock: Paint your nails in such a manner that the cuticles are visible and covered by the transparent base only.

BRONZE SHADED

For a brunette with a golden suntan: A new bronze shaded nail-varnish with a pearly finish.

High Fashion Now Spreads to Handkerchiefs

NEW YORK (INS) — Even hankies have to be high fashion these days.

So designer Jeanne Miller is making handkerchiefs "impressionistic" and colored to match dresses — tangerine, violet, green, purple, blue, pumpkin yellow and gray.

"I suppose white is always right for a hankie," says Miss Miller. "But the high-fashion look this season is color-coordinated, so I'm color-coordinating hankies with dresses."

The results are interesting: Instead of posies on a white background, there are handkerchiefs decorated in random patterns of hats, squash, birds and bramble berries.

According to Miss Miller, these hankies are also more practical. She says:

"My designs are printed on linen, which is soft. Ever tried blowing your nose on a hankie that's stiff with embroidery?"

Her hankies are also bigger than most — 15 inches square — because the designer believes a hankie should be "worn" like an accessory, especially with the new chemise silhouette.

Three of the most important rye-producing states in America are Minnesota and North and South Dakota.

"If this is what is required of me, I'll do it. What do you think?" I think that unless Mrs. E. moves for her own sake, the moving is unlikely to profit her daughter.

The daughter must feel much anxiety over this conflict between her mother and husband. If he wins it and her mother leaves his house as a self-sacrificing victim, I think she may feel guilt and bitterness as well as anxiety.

Thus, by moving "for her sake," Mrs. E. will be demonstrating her willingness to endure more suffering, rather than showing love for her harassed child.

ENJOY CONFLICT?

Why has Mrs. E. remained in this son-in-law's home so long? Does she enjoy conflict with him? Is it fun washing dishes and peeling vegetables for someone who doesn't want her around?

These are the fruitful years of her life. Why has she chosen to spend them in a place where satisfactions have been so meager?

Why doesn't she just admit the facts—that she herself dislikes her present situation and wants relief from it for her own sake?

Well, some of us think we don't rate anything better than perpetual hurt. We won't let go of a child no matter what holding on to him costs us in hurt. If we're forced to leave him, we just use our absence from him as we used our presence with him — to make ourselves miserable.

Our new home is not relief to us but another source of affliction. What we need is not physical movement so much as a new revolutionary respect for our right to joy.

Jesus said, "Love your neighbor as yourself."

By this command He condemned self-affliction for the other fellow's sake and said in effect: "Love for your child unbalanced by equal love for yourself is martyrdom, the enemy of love." With better love for herself, Mrs. E. will need nobody to tell her what to do in her present situation.

Get Ready Now—You'll Be Less Fatigued

Don't Put Off Yule Preparations

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It is about time for me to come to your rescue with some first aids to take care of your poor aching back and tired feet—which are results of CHRISTMAS SHOPPING!

I already have suggested that you will save yourself a lot of wear and tear if you know where you are going and what you are looking for, in most instances anyway, before you leave the house. However, even if you do, I know that this is a tiring time.

In planning for Christmas, the woman in the home has many things to do besides buying gifts. She is the one who is responsible for the Christmas dinner, perhaps preparation for houseguests or returning family, and stocking up on Christmas goodies.

The main thing is not to allow everything to gang up at the last minute. If you haven't ordered your turkey, do so today—don't wait for the day before Christmas. Put clean sheets on the guests' beds right now.

Also, many women go to the beauty parlor just a day or so before the holiday. No matter how you plan, the hecticness and rush mount as the 25th approaches. I think you will find it a relief to have your hair and nails done five or six days ahead of time. Unless you are badly in need of a permanent, you still will look lovely on that wonderful day.

ACCOMPLISH MORE

Then, too, you will accomplish more with less fatigue if you do not try to do too much shopping in one day or at one time. Short rest periods, lying down with your feet higher than your head, even 10 minutes at a time, make a BIG difference in how you feel at the end of a day.

For heaven's sake, wear comfortable shoes when you go shopping. Low or medium heels are wonderful for now. I do not see how women shop all day long in those stiletts. I don't care how they look, I bet their feet hurt like the dickens after a few hours of it! Also, be sure that your stockings are plenty long.

Before going to bed at night, and after your bath, take time to give your feet a good massage with a body lotion. This is most restful.

Here are three of the most relaxing exercises I know:

1. Make circles with your head, moving first in one direction and then in the other. Make the circles complete and do it slowly.
2. Make circles with your shoulders. Circle first in one direction and after a while in the other. Your arms hang at your sides.

Arouse the Tiger in Him With Safari Room Decor

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Want to bring out the tiger in him?

Try decorating his study in an African safari mood with vivid red velvets, sooty black woods, chalk white fabrics and fur-skin rugs.

Two small armless love seats in the lush red are pulled up in front of a white fireplace. Over the mantel hangs a black wooden antelope head with real horns. A leopard pillow is tossed on one loveseat, and the hearth rug is a tiger skin.

Taylor adds tall white floor lamps with twisted plaster stems, tiny black stools for individual tables and a long sofa in the red velvet.

Two armchairs in the same fabric, tufted, flank a black lacquer commode with a gray and white marble top and a collection of antique guns.

Wide white draperies, a red carpet and black wooden masks as wall hangings continue the dramatic jungle theme.

One subdued corner for serious activities offers an antique Italian desk with a high-backed white chair.

And the girl, costume coordinated to the room, wears a fitted fake-fur coverall with slim tapered pants.

imply. The circles are made with the shoulders.

3. Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Let your trunk, head and arms drop forward, arms dangling toward the floor. Raise the trunk and arms.

Arms move sideward to a side-ward-shoulder height position, palms toward the ceiling and head lowered backward. Do this in a rag doll fashion, limply and slowly.

Tomorrow: "Out of Money? Give Self for Christmas."

Lace Takes Top Spot in Fashion

Paris Highlights It in Styles for Next Spring, Summer

PARIS (INS) — Lace this season is one of the most fashionable materials for party dresses, theater wear and dances. A preview of styles for next spring and summer proved it will remain one of the favorites for 1958.

Paris designers propose two distinctly different styles for lace dresses. One, with a fitted waist and full skirt, is an ever charming, feminine and elegant fashion.

To make it new looking stylists now line the full skirt with a differently colored silk than the bodice. The idea is from Lavinia-Castille who shows a chocolate brown lace dress with the long-sleeved top lined in chocolate brown and the bell skirt contrasting on a pale beige petticoat.

It looks equally smart for a black lace dress with the top lined in black and the skirt in white.

The second style is—you guessed it—the "sack." Balenciaga and Givenchy have shown black lace sack dresses as THE most fashionable and avant-garde way to turn out for dinner.

Being semi-transparent, lace sacks only partly camouflage the figure. The silk base or slip underneath should be as fitted and sheathy as possible.

Bridge Club Meets

Donald Bowen and Donald Stephenson were first-place winners when Pontiac Duplicate Bridge Club met Monday evening in Elks Temple. Second-place winners were Mrs. Addison Oakley and Mrs. Ernest Guy.

The textile and apparel industries of the U. S. use more than seven million tons of bituminous coal per year.

Topping off a chinchilla cape is a slim evening dress of black silk matte jersey with a slipper satin bow at the neckline.

35 Women Holding Down Hard Mail-Handling Jobs

KANSAS CITY (U) — Working in the Kansas City Union Station as mail handlers, doing a man's job and drawing a man's pay, are 35 women, many of them grandmothers and veterans of 14 years with the terminal, one of the nation's busiest rail centers.

All were hired during World War II, none after 1945, and upon retirement are being replaced by men.

In fact, few thought the jobs they were filling "temporarily" would last as long as they have. More than 100 women were taken on by the railroad terminal to ease the wartime manpower shortage.

Typical of those remaining is Mrs. Faye Abbas, a happy grandmother with seven grandchildren.

"I didn't expect the job to last 14 months," let alone 14 years," she laughs.

KEPT HOUSE, TOO

In that interval, during which she lost her husband to illness, Mrs. Abbas maintained a home for her three daughters, reared them to adulthood and saw them married.

"I've got a lot to thank this place for," she recalls warmly. "They're nice people to work for, and I haven't regretted one minute of my hard work."

And it is hard work. Incoming and outgoing mail at the station is a 24-hour job. Each eight-hour shift is worked by 100 mail handlers—eight hours of lugging, lifting and slinging the bulky, dusty mail bags on and off an average of 60 railroad cars a day.

Baggage is handled separately each shift by a crew of 21 men. Both departments are operated by the Kansas City Terminal Railway.

The women hold their own and ask no quarter. "What bags I can't lift, I just pull on," Mrs. Abbas says. She wouldn't think of asking for help just because she's a woman.

Looking back, she has to concede the work was much harder during the war, then adds with a twinkle: "But I was younger then, and it didn't seem so hard at the time."

Women Can't Understand Male Love of Tiny Cars

Bragging Shifts From What Auto Has to What It Doesn't Have

By RUTH MILLETT

Men claim it is next to impossible to understand a woman's changing whims and fancies, her ever-changing enthusiasms.

But men aren't so easy for women to understand, either. Some of the same men who two years ago were falling in love with the longest, sleekest, fastest and most powerful cars on the road and talking horsepower, speed, power equipment and the joy of air-conditioned travel are now talking little instead of big.

Considerable numbers seem to have temporarily fallen out of love with power, speed and luxurious comfort—when it comes to automobiles—and in love with smallness, inconvenience and austerity.

Their bragging has now shifted from what a car has got to what it hasn't got.

A man is almost apologetic these days if his new pint-sized car has any gadget on it as luxurious as a gas gauge to warn him when it's time to fill 'er up.

If he takes you for a spin in his little put-putnik and asks you if you want to take a turn at the wheel, there's pride in his voice when he warns you to be careful not to get your knees tangled in the steering wheel when you edge under it.

And if the gear shift works like no other gear shift you ever before tried to guide into the proper slots, so much the better. That's all part of the fun.

While men have been known to tell some tall tales when it comes to swapping fish stories, those were just practice sessions for the tall tales they are telling now about the number of miles they get to the gallon in their Lilliputian cars.

Though they talk a lot about economy, economy alone doesn't explain all this sudden interest in the least car you can buy for your money instead of the most. In fact, you can't quite explain it to a woman at all.

Art Work Adorns Style Showroom

Larry Aldrich's showroom is becoming more like the Modern Museum every day. To the staggering treasure of Braque, Vuillard, Modigliani and other painters on the walls, Mr. Aldrich has now added a new masterpiece by Picasso, a bronze sculpture called "Up With Two Faces."

Turn Off TV Set

When you have drop-in callers in the evening, turn off the TV set when you welcome them. And that doesn't mean just turn it down and try to talk above it. To seem hospitable you must act as though you would much rather talk with friends than watch TV.

Students at Bagley Present Program

"The Toys Change Their Minds" was a play presented Monday by Bagley School students for members of Bagley School PTA. Participating in the play were Veta Smith, Michael Lee, Ruby Walker, Shirley Glazier, Phyllis Blount, Joseph Villa, Shirley Jean Whitfield, Evelyn Osley and Felton Johnson.

The mixed Glee Club, under the direction of Albert Shaw, presented music for the silhouette pantomime from "Christmas Oratorio" by Bach. Harriet Childress was narrator.

It's Better to Ask

It is better to ask a person's name than to neglect to make an introduction that should be made. By admitting you have forgotten a name, you are only admitting to a poor memory.

Keep Talk Brief

When you receive a long-distance telephone call, don't chatter away about unimportant matters the way you might if it were a local call. Remember that the person who put in the call has to pay for it.

New sudsable lace bridal gowns are last word in flattery.

Reach Control of Thermonuclear Energy British Advance in Nuclear Fission

PALO ALTO, Calif. (INS)—There is no question that the British have a major contribution toward the goal of controlling thermonuclear energy.

Although he, like Teller, refused on grounds of secrecy to state just what the British breakthrough consisted of, Colgate showed obvious displeasure of last week's news leak out of Britain.

He declared: "The British and Americans have worked together, sharing their knowledge and the plan had been to announce our findings together at an international meeting in Geneva next August. Then we could trade with the Russians."

Dr. Teller conceded that the British breakthrough was a major one but he pointed out that the final solution to the problem of controlling nuclear fusion may still take "from 10 to 1,000 years."

Nevertheless, he said, the goal is well worth seeking because it means an infinite source of power, since the heavy hydrogen in one gallon of water will provide the power in 265 gallons of gasoline.

Both scientists spoke to newsmen at the one-day international symposium at the Lockheed Missile System Laboratory in Palo Alto, which was attended by some 200 physicists, including a group from Russia.

Explosion Rocks AF Dining Hall

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A gas explosion rocked the main airman's dining hall at Kelly Air Force Base yesterday, injuring 12 civilian food handlers.

Mrs. Willie Lasher, 39, was listed in serious condition with second- and third-degree burns. Oscar Garcia, 29, was reported in fair condition with second-degree burns.

The blast tore an 8-to-10-foot hole in the kitchen floor and knocked out a wall in the basement below the kitchen. Base officials said it was caused by an accumulation of gas.

Chinese Junk to Sail on California Waters

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A 29-foot Chinese junk with a vivid sea dragon emblazoned on each side soon will be seen on the waterways of northern California. The vessel arrives today in a cargo hold of the liner President Hoover. It was bought in Hong Kong by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Duff of Calistoga, Calif., and was converted for pleasure cruising.

But this one isn't. In giving Smirnoff, you are giving in the royal tradition. For Smirnoff was the only vodka served in the imperial households of three generations of the Czars. Everything in its history—and everything in the bottle—makes it the one vodka for you. This year, give The Pinnacle—the gift that tops them all.

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Richard goes to the Green Ghouls to get a spool of golden thread for Santa. The Ghouls live in a little house and have a hundred arms. When Richard reaches the thread from his pocket, the Ghouls crush him with their arms.

Chapter 13 THE BLACK DIAMOND

Richard struggled in the many arms of the Green Ghouls. Using all his strength he twisted back the arms that held him. But it was no use. When he freed himself from two arms a dozen more took their place.

He bent back one, broke another, twisted a third. Still the arms crushed him. It was impossible to escape and all Richard's strength was useless.

Suddenly he got an idea. He thought, "Breaking away from each arm does no good. What I must do is strike at the Ghouls herself. If I conquer her I will, at the same time, conquer the hundred arms."

It was the first time in his life he had ever thought his way out of trouble. He felt happy and unafraid.

He took a big breath and punched his head into the stomach of the Green Ghouls. The mighty blow knocked the breath out of the creature and all arms collapsed.

Richard leaped away. He ran from the house and jumped to the ground. By the time the Ghouls recovered her breath Richard was a mile away. The Green Ghouls let out a roar of anger, a roar so powerful it caused a giant wind to sweep across the whole world.

But the wind only helped to carry Richard on his way and the roar didn't frighten him for he was far beyond the reach of the hundred arms.

On and on Richard ran, never tiring, until at last he came to Santa's house.

"I did it!" he cried as he burst through the door. "I brought you the thread!"

He put the spool of golden thread on Santa's desk and then he stood there happier and prouder than he had ever been in his life.

"You have done a good job," said Santa.

"Where is Patrick Tweedle-knees?" asked Richard. "I would like him to know."

"He'll be along presently," said Santa. "In the meantime you come with me."

He took Richard into the kitchen and there on the table were platters of doughnuts and ginger cookies and lemon pie. There was a big white pitcher filled with chocolate milk shake and a blue pitcher filled with cherry pop.

"You have done a good job," said Santa.

Richard reached for a piece of lemon pie. But at that very moment Patrick Tweedle-knees came into the room.

"I did it!" said Richard. "I brought Santa the golden thread." "So I heard," snapped Tweedle-knees. "But remember Santa said you must bring him two things and a coward like you will never get the second."

Richard's heart sank and all his old fears came flooding back. He thought he could not bear to meet the Phantom of the Sea.

(Tomorrow: The Phantom)

Richard put down the piece of lemon pie. "What is the second thing I must bring?"

"Now," said Santa, "you must bring to me a black diamond."

"A-and where will I find such a diamond?"

"From the third finger of the Phantom of the Sea."

"Who is the Phantom of the Sea?" faltered Richard.

"Who knows?" cried Tweedle-knees. "He has never been seen by any living creature. That is why he is called the Phantom."

"Then how do you know there is such a thing?" asked Richard. "And how do you know he wears a black diamond on his finger?"

"People have seen his giant foot prints by the side of the sea. They have heard his screams at night. And though they could not see his hands they could see and feel the black diamond on his finger."

Richard's heart sank and all his old fears came flooding back. He thought he could not bear to meet the Phantom of the Sea.

Station Attendant Acts Fast, Loses $114

DENVER (INS) — A service station attendant was shoved into the restroom of his Denver station by two young thugs with a gun. He told police he immediately locked himself in, but shouted out to the bandits instructions on how to operate the cash register. The thugs got $114, but the machine was undamaged.

Sum of $1,500 Putting Bulges in Pot-O-Gold

Several hundred dollars would come in handy right now for just about everyone, and here's an easy way to get it. Pick out the right numbers, write them in the blanks and send it to us on a postcard by the deadline date given in the rules. Could you ask for easier money?

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the puzzle-square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.

Reporter Permitted Look Behind the Scenes

How Army's Redstone Missile Is Built

Editor's Note — A tremendous concentration of know-how and skill goes into the making of the Army's Redstone missile. America's first medium range missile in full production. In the following article, a reporter permitted a look behind the scenes tells how the weapon is built.

By DWIGHT PITKIN

DETROIT (AP) — Here in the world's automotive center a new kind of factory is developing to meet the challenge of the space age.

Currently it is the production home of the Redstone—the largest and most accurate of our new operational missiles.

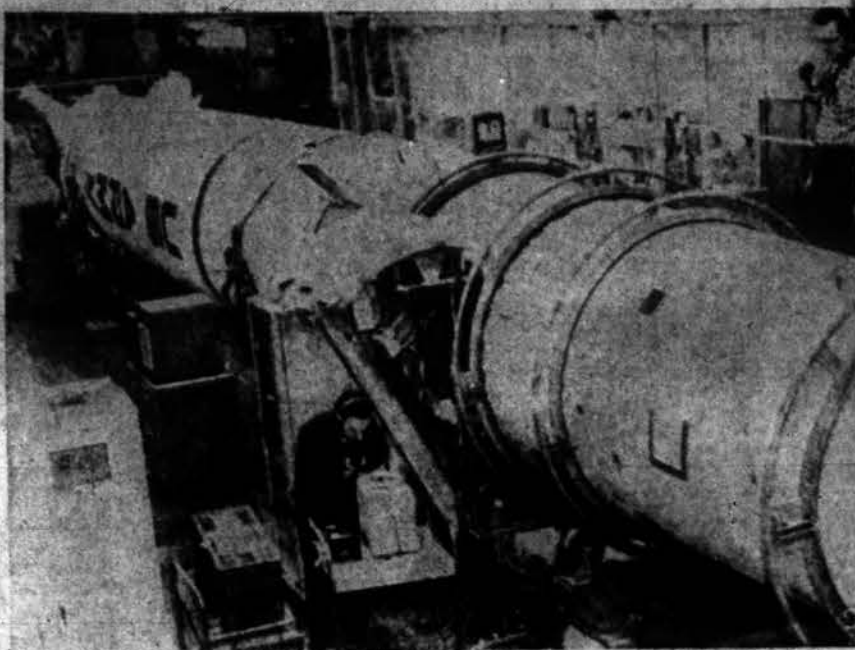

The Redstone is being built by Chrysler Corp. in a government-owned plant that covers an area about the size of 50 football fields. At present, only part of the huge plant is in use.

But, as C. A. Brady, operating manager of Chrysler's missile operations says, "It is certainly unique—first, in the ratio of technical people employed, and then we are in unique territory. We don't have a reservoir of experience to call on."

Some valuable experience, of course, has been garnered by Chrysler in executing its multi-million-dollar contract to develop and build missiles for the Army. Chrysler is expected soon to go into mass production of the Jupiter, the Army's intermediate range ballistic missile. One reason it will be in good position for the job is that many parts of the Redstone are interchangeable with Jupiter, sources in Washington said.

Chrysler is the biggest corporation engaged in ballistics missile production, though that business is a comparatively small part of its manufacturing.

The Army isn't saying what the daily missile output is at the plant here. A tour of the elaborate layout, however, gives the impression that the output is not large. Making missiles at the present time is not an assembly line job, even at this huge installation 16 miles north of the heart of Detroit.

MISSILE IN THE MAKING — Technicians make final inspection and pre-shipment checkup of the Army's Redstone missile, America's first medium-range missile in full production, at a government plant operated by the Chrysler Corp.

at Detroit. The 63-foot-long weapon, designed to carry a nuclear warhead with accuracy to targets over 200 miles distant, now is a tactical weapon in the hands of the troops.

An engineer-scientist quipped: "The paper used in making preparations to build a missile outweighs the missile."

The weight of the Redstone is kept secret. Its prototype—the German V2—weighed 17 tons at launching.

The giant robots emerging from this plant are made with the precision of fine watches. All parts are tested and retested.

A production supervisor said the goal is "reliability — something that never fails."

This striving for perfection has paid off in performance. The 63-foot-long Redstone now is a tactical weapon in the hands of the troops. It carries a nuclear warhead with accuracy to targets more than 200 miles away.

The current missile work force here is about 4,500, all highly skilled.

Operations boss Brady described the making of missiles as a team project.

By that he meant the missile factory has about 2,000 suppliers throughout the nation, including many small plants in the Detroit area. They in turn have many subcontractors.

$10 Million Bridge Replaces Old One Start Span at Houghton

LANSING (AP)—Construction will start today on a 10 million dollar bridge across the Portage Canal between Houghton and Hancock, the State Highway Department said today.

The new two-level span will replace a bridge considered outmoded and will carry both highway and railroad traffic. The upper level will carry highway and pedestrian traffic and the lower level trains.

Overall length of the new bridge will be 1,310 feet, including a 253-foot center lift span.

Al Johnson Co., Minneapolis, has a $4,304,633 contract for constructing the bridge and American Bridge Division of U.S. Steel Corp., was awarded a $5,933,887 contract for supplying and erecting structural steel.

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie is in the upper peninsula today for ground-breaking ceremonies.

As prime contractor for the Army, Chrysler provides engineering services, design and development, and final assembly.

Basic research for the Redstone was carried on at the Army's Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala. and that's how the missile got its name.

Research and development are continued at the factory.

The Redstone's nose is tested in a huge electric toaster that was developed at the factory. The oven looks like a giant hair dryer and simulates the consuming frictional heat the missile's cone has to withstand.

Entering the main office of the factory, you have the feeling of walking into a large school building. The operations manager re-

Sharp Accents Accompany Canned Pears

Canned pear halves are available for every purpose — portion ready. Often, they are used just as they come from the can, with a topping or addition of another component. Such desserts are found to have basic appeal.

Pears with Port Wine
Drain Canned Pears. To half the syrup, add an equal measure of Port wine. Pour over pears and let stand in refrigerator 2 hours before serving. Allow two pears per serving.

Pears with Sherbet

Pears with Sour Cream
Canned pear half, cut side up, with hollow filled with sour cream and cube of mint jelly.

Pear-Cheese Salad
Arrange four canned pears on bed of greens, round side down.

Fill each hollow with grated American cheese. Add crescents of avocado to make a star shape.

Softened 1/4 pound butter or margarine with the back of a wooden spoon in the top part of a double boiler. Beat in 3 egg yolks, one at a time. Blend in 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice. Stir in 1/4 cup boiling water.

Place over hot, but not boiling water and cook and stir until thickened, about 6 minutes. Season with salt and ground white pepper to taste. Serve over broccoli or cauliflower.

Tiny Meat Balls Good Appetizer

Easy to shape and quickly cooked, miniature meat balls really whet the appetite. The ground beef is tangy with garlic. Nuggets of blue cheese are buried in the center of each ball. Serve these with cocktail picks.

Miniature Meat Balls
2 pounds ground beef

2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 clove garlic
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 lb. 2 cubes wedge blue cheese
1/2 cup lard or drippings
1 cup breadcrumbs
Combine ground beef with eggs. Crush garlic with salt and stir into meat mixture. Shape about a tablespoonful of mixture around small cubes of cheese into balls size of large marbles. Dust balls with flour and brown a few at a time in hot lard.
Return browned balls to pan, add bouillon cover and cook over low heat 10 minutes. Serve in a chafing dish with cocktail picks. Makes 60 to 70 meat balls.

Crackers Top Crisp

One mouth-watering way to make use of this year's bounteous supply of apples is in Apple-Graham Crisp. Peel and slice apples, and place in a greased baking dish along with raisins. Sweeten and coat with ground cinnamon, and cover generously with buttered graham cracker crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven until apples are tender. Serve hot or cold, with whipped cream.

How to Freeze Cookies

You need never be out of freshly baked cookies if you bake ahead and freeze. Cool cookies after baking. Place plain or frosted cookies on baking sheet in freezer and "quick-freeze" for 1 hour; then, package cookies in moisture proof container, coffee or shortening cans. Separate layers of soft cookies with waxed paper. Seal and freeze. To thaw: defrost in their original wrappings at room temperature for 10 to 15 minutes.

Proud of Its Fishing

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Block Islanders call their home the "Fishing Capital of the World," and not without cause. The United States record tuna — 961 1/2 pounds — was taken in waters near the island. And 34 giant bluefin tuna have been boated there in 24 hours.

Ham is usually put in a slow (225 degrees) oven; but after it is cooked through and the glaze is added, put it back into a hot (425 degrees) oven.

Crunchy Sauce Tops Turkey

At this season of the year when turkey is on so many family menus, we recommend that you try slices of yesterday's turkey topped with Crunchy Sauce.

Cashew Nut Sauce
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
4 tablespoons butter
2 medium-size onions, chopped
1 teaspoon lime juice
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
2 cups liquidized instant nonfat dry milk
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup (8-oz. can) salted cashew nuts
Melt butter in large skillet; saute garlic and onions in butter until onions are lightly browned. Stir in lime juice. Place liquidized instant nonfat dry milk and Worcestershire sauce in deep 1-quart bowl; sprinkle flour, salt and pepper over surface. Beat with rotary beater until just blended. Add to onions. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in nuts. Serve hot over meat or rice.

It's a good idea to serve something crunchy with soup as texture contrast. Try celery wedges with cream of tomato soup, carrot sticks with black bean or cream of celery soup, crisp greens and ery soup.

Ever add a couple of teaspoons of instant coffee to chocolate pudding when you are preparing the latter from a mix?

Beaten Yeast Batter Baked as Muffins

Make sweet, dainty Holiday Raisin Buns from a simple beaten yeast batter. Bake them in muffin pans, and achieve a Christmas look with thin confectioners' sugar icing and a sprinkle of red sugar.

Holiday Raisin Buns
1 package of yeast, compressed or dry
1/2 cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
4 cups sifted enriched flour
2 eggs, beaten
1/4 cup melted shortening
1 cup seedless raisins
Soften yeast in water. Scald milk. Add salt and sugar. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour and beat well. Stir in softened yeast. Let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1 hour). Stir down. Add eggs, shortening and raisins. Add remaining flour. Beat or stir thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls into greased muffin pans. Let rise until doubled. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Makes about 24 2-inch buns.

Cheese Waffles Get Flavor From Crackers

Skating and sliding parties usually wind up in the kitchen with snow bunnies craving something more hearty than the usual loot from the refrigerator. Waffles, made this easy way, and baked to order are the perfect formula for the big thaw.

Cheese Waffles
2 eggs

2 cups buttermilk or sour milk
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons soft shortening
20 cheese crackers, finely rolled (about 1 cup crumbs)
Have waffle iron heating while mixing batter. Beat eggs. Beat in remaining ingredients until smooth. Makes 6 round waffles.

Creamed Ham:
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
4 slices processed American cheese
2 cups cubed cooked ham
Melt butter and stir in flour. Add milk and cheese. Stir until French dressing for a green salad.

cheese melts. Add ham and keep hot. Spoon generously over hot waffles and serve immediately. Serves 6 to 8.
For turning out perfect French omelets every time, keep a special pan which is wiped clean with paper towel after using; omelet tends to stick if pan is used for cooking juicy foods or is washed in soapy water.
If your family likes the flavor of poppy seed, try adding it to a French dressing for a green salad.

Once-Happy Korean Waif Placed in Limbo

War Orphan Caught in Family Conflict

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
CHARLESTON, S.C. (NEA) — His name was Lee Kyung Soo four years ago, a polite, perplexed, overawed little boy. He had been a Korean War waif, crying for love in the streets of slaughter when a seasoned U.S. Navy chief petty officer found him.

Together they had slipped through international loopholes and defied law with humanity. In New York, the chief adopted him. Lee was going to have a father and grandparents and uncles and aunts and cousins and be an American.

BOY PERPLEXED

I found him today, a polite, perplexed, overawed boy of 10 — in a temporary foster home which costs Charleston County $50 per month.

But don't get it wrong. He has not been abandoned. Nothing as quick and clean as that. He has merely been placed in limbo while a woman burns out with her own fury, and two families tease each other with scores that can never be settled, and a forgotten hero tries to make up his mind.

"Everything is all right," Lee said. His small voice mixes clipped Oriental with drawing Carolinian because little kids fall into their surroundings very quickly.

SCHOOL ALL RIGHT

"School is all right. There are four other children where I live. They're all right. We got chickens. I like them all right."

Everything is all right. Not wonderful. Not awful. Everything is monotone and he doesn't want anything for Christmas — or for any other time. Then his voice comes alive:

"Sure. I'd like to see them folks up in New York." Then his voice falls: "I haven't seen my daddy in three or four months."

I found "daddy," a lean, tense man — less than 15 miles away from his boy. This was Navy Bos'n Jim Paladino who took Lee into bed with him to keep him out of the Korean cold. This was the Four years ago an attractive little war orphan arrived in this country with a Navy petty officer who had rescued him from war-torn Korea.

He was adopted, went to an American school and his happy face beamed from countless newspaper and magazine pages.

Today that "happy ending" is being re-written in a South Carolina city where Lee Kyung Soo Paladino sits glumly in a foster home, caught in the swirling currents of conflicting human emotions and family interests.

FOUR YEARS AGO — Lee Soo radiated happiness as he arrived in New York in the arms of his new dad, Jim Paladino.

man whose love had cloaked an alien child with yellow skin and slanting eyes.

"I haven't seen him in nine-ten months," the chief says. He drags furiously on his cigarette and lets the smoke climb into his eyes.

"How can I put it?" he asked. "You're opening up a wound. You're waking the sleeping dogs. You're stirring up the water. This thing goes so deep, it's morbid. You'll never know..."

He still loves the boy, still has technical custody of him. But how can Lee live at home with him, the way things are. It can't work. And sure, his own family of brothers and sisters and parents in New York, sure they Paladinos want the boy.

"But I can't send him up there. We don't," and he pauses, swallows hard, "we don't understand each other any more."

He grinds the cigarette out. "It's hopeless. All of it."

I didn't have to find his wife. She found me and said into the phone with a husky, quiet voice:

"It had to come. You or somebody else. I knew somebody would be around here some day, asking questions. You better come out here."

The house is a small, brick bungalow on the outskirts of Charleston. Her husband has done a lot of work on it: painting, building a barbecue, reflooring. In the morning sun, the kitchen was sparkling.

Sally Paladino sat at the table, her hands shaking so badly she could hardly get her cigarette to her mouth. She is small, alert, good looking, with the kind of voice that could lure a seasoned sailor to the beach.

"I've been up all night," she says, "rehearsing what I'd say to you. But none of it wants to come out. My maiden name was O'Sullivan and we're supposed to be a hardy lot, but it doesn't show through in me."

She had married the chief after he had adopted Lee. She had two children of her own and he adopted them. She adopted Lee.

"And then I was married seven months and found I was pregnant. It was awful."

They had moved to Virginia. In school, the little kids ran after Lee, calling: "Chink, chink. You're mother's a Chinaman."

There were fights. Her own son, Mike, came home bloody and torn from defending the little Korean.

"I want that boy out of my life," she rasps. "He calls my husband 'Daddy' and it's like a knife in my heart."

She stops abruptly and swallows a pill with a glass of water. She takes four tranquilizers each day and sedatives each night but nothing seems to stop her fearful headaches.

"I've caused a lot of grief for my husband, Lee, my own children. And now my new baby. We both love her very much, but if that boy comes here to live or goes to the people in New York, I'm taking the baby and leaving forever."

She has a certainty that retribution waits for her. She feels inadequate to cope with life. Her first husband deserted her. Maybe she never should have married again. She knew before she didn't want Lee. She had said so.

"The people in New York? They only say they want him. What they really want is to drive a wedge between my husband and me. If Lee went there, he'd be a constant reminder. We've got to find another family for him."

In South Carolina it is easy to dispose of unwanted children. S. Marshall Sanders, director of the County Department of Public Welfare, asks apologetically: "Shall we call the laws... lax?"

A release of custody by the parents and a petition for adoption by new parents is practically the only requirement. It is also legal to deed a child away, like a piece of property.

"But," Sanders says, "the boy's father has to sign the papers. We can't do anything about it until he does."

And at the Catholic Charities of Charleston, Father Joseph Bernardini is concerned but helpless. "We've been asked to help," he says. "But we can't do anything until the boy's father makes up his mind."

In New Rochelle, N.Y., the chief's family is eager to bring the boy "back home," and terrified by what has happened and what might happen.

COME BACK

"We love Lee," Camille Paladino says. She is Jim's sister. "If there's no place for him down here, most of us have children of our own and what's one more mouth to feed?"

But her parents know nothing of Lee's plight.

"My parents are very old," she explains. "They've had 15 children. My mother has a bad heart."

They wonder why they haven't heard from Lee and hope some day he will be back.

"Never!" says the chief's wife in Charleston.

And the chief, in the same city — and the same limbo as his Korean son — mumbles:

New VA Head Named by Ike

Two Veterans Groups Express Satisfaction With Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sumner G. Whittier, a former lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, has been appointed veterans administrator.

The 46-year-old Republican has been head of the Veterans Administration's Insurance Division for less than a year. His new job pays $21,000 a year. Whittier succeeds Harvey V. Hingley, who resigned Nov. 13 to return to private life in Marinette, Wis.

President Eisenhower gave Whittier a recess appointment, subject to Senate confirmation.

Two Veterans groups — the American Legion and American Veterans of World War II (Amvets) — immediately expressed satisfaction with the appointment.

A native of Everett, Mass., Whittier graduated from Boston University. He was a Navy lieutenant in World War II and has served in the Massachusetts Legislature. He was lieutenant governor from 1953 to 1956.

In 1956, he was the GOP nominee for governor, losing to Democrat Foster Furcolo.

Whittier said that in taking over as VA chief, he would work with this general goal: "To carry out the wishes of a grateful republic trying to say 'Thank you' to its veterans, their widows and orphans."

Angels Get Him Off

QUINCY, Calif. (AP) — Jack D. Self painted wooden angels for Christmas decorations while serving 20 days in jail in lieu of a $100 fine for traffic violations. He gave them to the County Employees Assn., which was so impressed it collected $20 for him. Self used the money to pay the remainder of his fine.

Oklahoma City Residents Aiding Mail Confusion

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The madhouse that is a U.S. post office at Christmas time hasn't been helped much by various patrons in the Oklahoma City area.

Postal officials reported dealing with these cases in recent days: A man entered the post office with a fistful of cards in one hand and cancelled checks in the other. He mailed the checks, walked out with the cards.

A woman insisted that "fragile" be stamped all over her package, not because it was china but because, "It's a pair of socks. I just wanted them to be in good shape when daddy got them for Christmas."

A man notified the post office that his wife had mailed his weekly pay check along with the Christmas cards and wailed, "What do I do now?"

Navy Demolition Unit Disarms Big Mine

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Some 500 residents of a strip of beach breathed easier today after a Navy demolition squad disarmed a big mine that had washed ashore.

It was only a practice mine but nobody knew that when the mine was discovered at 8 a.m. yesterday.

Bathers were warned away from the beach and police evacuated 500 persons from a strip of beach half a mile long and two blocks wide.

A demolition team from the Navy squadron at Charleston, S.C., used a six-wheel drive boom truck to lift the huge ball-shaped mine. When it was removed, they found it was only a practice mine.

Police Answer SOS From Trapped Santa

EAST PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Police received a call from Santa Claus last night.

Santa told the officers he was changing into his everyday clothes at the children's apparel store where he works when all the other employees left and locked him in.

Police called the store manager, who let Santa out. Since this particular St. Nick refused to give his real name, the police blotter merely noted that a call for help had been received from Santa Claus.

Nigerian Contestant, Embarrassed by Quiz to Take His $64,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Theophilus Adepoju Aderonmu has decided to take his $64,000 and his entangled domestic problems out of the television limelight.

The 30-year-old Bible expert from Nigeria told a nationwide television audience on CBS-TV's $64,000 Question program last night: "I have been so embarrassed, I can't concentrate in what I'm doing."

After the show, he told newsmen he plans to enter Northwestern University in January to continue working toward a medical degree. Ultimately, he said, he wants to establish a hospital near his home in Oyo, Nigeria.

One of the things that apparently embarrassed Aderonmu was that he claimed to favor a reconciliation with a divorced wife without mentioning that he had married again since the divorce. He also is having trouble with the immigration service.

Before withdrawing from the quiz program, Aderonmu, whose usually beaming face is scarred from tribal ceremonies, had answered correctly all the questions put to him, about Bible subjects. He had gone as high as the $36,000 question and could have won as much as $56,000 but he said his embarrassment was so great that he would take the $64,000 and quit.

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The plea was guilty. The judge assessed a $15 fine and promptly paid it himself. The judge was the defendant. Municipal Judge Dale O. Pontiac Extends Time for Study

Supermarket Will Get Sewer System Service for 60 Days More

The ultimatum handed to Waterford Township last year regarding the annexation of the supermarket property at Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake roads was extended another 60 days by Pontiac city commissioners Tuesday night.

The extension will permit the city to continue studying possible extension of its sewer system as it will affect new contracts between the township and Sylvan Lake.

These two areas are the only fringe communities using Pontiac sewers.

In September of 1956, township officials were told to allow the parcel to be annexed to Pontiac, or to disconnect the supermarket from Pontiac sewers.

The decision followed a Supreme Court ruling which said the township had violated a 1935 agreement in the hookup.

The rewriting of the two contracts might indicate a broadening of making Pontiac a "core city" to serve outlying areas, Williams said.

This is based upon a study by the city's engineer consulting firm which showed it possible for Pontiac to handle approximately 3,000,000 more gallons of sewage daily.

This will hinge heavily on whether the State Water Resources Commission orders a second treatment plant built in Pontiac, the manager said.

Detroit Street Fight Ends in Convictions

DETROIT (AP)—A battle last summer between police and members of a Moslem religious group resulted yesterday in the conviction of eight Negroes on charges of resisting arrest.

Several police officers and Negroes were injured in the fight that followed an attempt to disperse a crowd of some 200 persons gathered around a soapbox orator at a downtown intersection last July.

Police said the speaker was inciting the crowd on racial subjects and blocking traffic.

The defendants claimed at their Circuit Court trial that the address concerned religious subjects. They claimed they were exercising their constitutional right of assembly and free speech.

A jury of six men and six women returned the guilty verdict. The defendants will be sentenced Dec. 31 by Recorder's Judge Gerald W. Groat. Defense attorneys said the case will be appealed.

WHALES COME IN TO DIE—About 75 pilot whales came on shore at Ormond Beach, Fla., to die. Apparently they were driven on the beach by a brisk northeast wind blowing off the Atlantic.

The whales thrashed about for some time before they died. Mrs. Norma Oury was one of many persons who waded out for a close look at the mammals, which ranged in length from 10 to 20 feet.

Williams Lauds Union Merger

AFL-CIO Unification Means Potent Political Voice, Governor Says

MUSKEGON (AP)—AFL-CIO unification will make labor a more potent political voice, Gov. Williams told a joint union meeting here last night.

Williams congratulated the local union councils for bringing about a united labor movement.

"The unity you are achieving here will make your political action more effective because you now speak with one voice," he said.

Williams charged that the national administration has no planned program for combating rising unemployment and has been encouraging increased interest rates.

"Michigan industry prospers when workers everywhere have the money to buy our goods," he said. National economic policies that depress buying power in any part of the nation and depress Michigan's prosperity.

"You therefore, have a legitimate right to be concerned, not only with collective bargaining for your own unions, but also with political action," Williams said.

Bombers to Fly Low-Level Route in Six States

LINCOLN, Neb. (INS)—B-47 strategic bombers from the Lincoln Air Force Base are slated to begin flying low-level navigational training missions over Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

A base spokesman says the medium bombers will fly pre-selected routes at altitudes of 500 to 2,000 feet during daylight hours. The routes have been planned to avoid heavily-populated areas and flight obstructions.

The spokesman stressed that the low-level flights would not result in "sonic booms" since the planes are not supersonic aircraft.

Colorado Sxlet De-Ices MSU, 4-2

EAST LANSING (AP)—Colorado College, winner by a 7-2 score last night, will try to make it two in a row over Michigan State tonight to fatten its chances for a repeat as the Western Inter-Collegiate Ice Hockey champion.

Colorado, also the NCAA finalist, The Western visitors scored two goals in the first period, three in the second and two more in the third.

Harry Harasyn and Ron Laughlin scored twice for Colorado. John Andrews, Jack Smith and Bob McCusker added a counter each.

Michigan State scores, in the last two periods, were by Ed Pollesel and Ross Parke.

American Allies Sit Up, Take Notice

Bulganin Letter to Ike Literary Sputnik

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Premier Bulganin's letter to President Eisenhower was a literary Sputnik. Of all the Russian letters to Eisenhower this last one was the best written, the shrewdest and the best timed.

In its way, it had the same effect as the real Sputniks: it made the American allies sit up and take notice. Letters similar to the one received by Eisenhower were sent to the other allies at the same time.

They were delivered at a moment when the Allies—then about to open their North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in Paris—were divided on what to do in the face of Russia's obvious military power.

The letter divided them some more.

The American reaction to Bulganin's note was the same as Eisenhower's first reaction to the Sputniks: an attempt to minimize its importance.

The administration hasn't yet answered the letter or issued a formal statement on it. Instead, it let two press officers dismiss it as propaganda before the State Department had even released a translation of it.

But this wasn't the reaction of the Allies. Some of them arrived at Paris wanting far more serious attention for the letter than a curt dismissal.

Their reaction—even though the letter upon testing may prove to be only propaganda—was: Let's take it more seriously than that and try to find out whether the Russians mean it.

In short, Bulganin said: The arms race gets worse and may end up badly for everybody. Before it does, the nations ought to disarm, or at least get down to talking disarmament, even if it requires another summit meeting.

This letter hit the West European at a time when they were still jittery over the realization—forced on them by the flight of the Sputniks—that Russia had missiles and that atomic-tipped missiles could flatten Western Europe.

They also realized, more than at any time since World War II, that the once big European powers were now only military pigmies between the two giants, the United States and Russia. The old order was gone.

So for them, the thought of disarmament now has more attraction than ever. Yet the Eisenhower administration brought to the NATO meeting nothing much more than proposals for even greater armaments.

The United States had to yield a little bit to the European desire to explore Bulganin's letter for a possible escape from the arms race. Yesterday NATO moved in two cautious directions, both a reaction to Bulganin's letter:

They talked of:

1. Setting up machinery to try for new disarmament talks with Russia. Such talks have been go-

State Senator Asserts Financial Plight Laid 'at Williams' Doorstep'

LANSING (AP)—Legislative budgeting policies were caught in a crossfire today, with Gov. Williams and Sen. Robert E. Faulkner (R-Coloma) firing the shots.

Williams touched off the duel Monday when he ordered his finance experts to draft a blueprint for cutting down on state spending. He voiced doubts on whether the state would have the funds to meet all authorized spending through the fiscal year ending June 30 and accused the Republican controlled legislature of failing to provide sufficient revenue to support appropriations.

Faulkner, countering yesterday, contended Michigan's financial plight "belongs on the governor's doorstep."

Williams' last budget recommendation of 411 million dollars, he said, topped 1956 expenditures by 93 per cent while Michigan's population was going up only 18 per cent and the cost of living 20 per cent.

Faulkner also contended Williams told the legislature to plan for 348 million dollars in sales tax revenues and the expected collections now are estimated at 312 million.

Williams, in turn, assailed Faulkner for "playing fast and loose with figures."

"When the legislature went home last spring it indicated itself that it anticipated a fiscal deficit and said that a fiscal deficit is a good thing," he said.

Williams cited a published report quoting Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton) as saying that the general fund budget approved by the legislature exceeded anticipated revenues by 16 million dollars.

State Controller James W. Miller said he would submit some "cut-back" proposals to the governor in a day or two.

His 'Vanguard' Fails to Go Up, Causes Injury

DETROIT (AP)—Like the Army's Vanguard missile, 14-year-old Larry Larson's "tiny Vanguard" failed to take off when he attempted to launch it.

His missile was about three inches long and three fourths of an inch in diameter. It was powered by a carbon dioxide cartridge.

Kneeling in an alley, Larry touched a match to it.

Boom! Back to the drawing boards.

Ike, Dulles Consider NATO TV Report

PARIS (AP)—White House press secretary James Hagerty said today President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles may make a joint television and radio report on the NATO conference after they return to Washington.

Hagerty told a news conference that the idea is being considered. He said if there is a report, it will not be before early next week.

The President plans to leave by plane for Washington early tomorrow night, Hagerty announced, and expects to arrive in the capital Friday morning. The presidential plane, the Columbine III, probably will make a refueling stop at the U.S. Air Force Base at Keflavik, Iceland.

Boy Falls Through Ice, Drowns in Green Lake

Djuana Wants Dutch Colony

'Free West New Guinea or Lose All Indonesian Property' Is Ultimatum

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Premier Djuanda said today Indonesia will "eliminate Dutch economic interests" from the island republic unless the Netherlands gives up West New Guinea.

Even if the neighboring Dutch colony is turned over to Indonesia, the Premier told a press conference, the Dutch will never regain the powerful economic position they held in Indonesia before the anti-Dutch campaign began about three weeks ago.

Djuanda asserted that some Dutch industries and businesses which have been taken over by his government—such as shipping, port facilities, electricity and gas—will remain nationalized. But he added that if West New Guinea, called West Irian by the Indonesians, is yielded by the Netherlands the Dutch will receive compensation for these enterprises.

The Premier's statement was the first official admission that these Dutch interests have been nationalized. Previously officials had said that only the Dutch-owned port facilities had been taken over permanently by the government. The earlier explanation was that the disposition of the other interests would be decided later.

Djuanda criticized the United States for abstaining when the West New Guinea issue came up recently in the United Nations.

"We regret the United States' remaining neutral in the current Dutch-Indonesian West Irian dispute," Djuanda said. "I think a nation like the United States should be more positive on such questions as this. Positive action by the United States would help stabilize the political situation in this area."

Reliable sources reported, meanwhile, that the government put down an attempted coup by army officers in the Molucca Islands of East Indonesia 10 days ago. Djuanda acknowledged there have been some arrests there but refused to disclose details.

Romeo Center Sets Rules

ROME — Commissioners of the Romeo Community Building Authority took two important steps last night in preparation for the formal opening Jan. 11 of the New Youth and Civic Center.

Rules and policy governing operation of the center—as recommended by the Advisory Board—were formally adopted. Copies will be mailed to all supporting organizations and churches in the area for their suggestions and approval.

Royal A. Holt, who has served as construction superintendent since building operations began, was named temporary director of the center, retroactive to Dec. 1. It will be his job to coordinate and schedule all activities in the building until a permanent director is hired.

A permanent rules and policy committee also was named to assist the director and his staff in their function. George E. McKeough heads the eight-man committee.

Already Romeo sixth-graders have held a dance in the new building. And last night Cub Scouts made use of the new facilities for the first time.

The next activity scheduled in the DeMolay Intercollegiate Ball Dec. 27.

HIS DAYS ARE NUMBERED — A 42-pound turkey's call draws smiles from Homer Gruenther and Patricia Nalley as the bronze bird destined for President and Mrs. Eisenhower's Christmas dinner appears to be posing for his picture Tuesday on the White House lawn. Miss Nalley, of Leonardtown, Md., was one of a delegation of St. Mary's County, Md., residents who presented the bird to Gruenther, special assistant to the President.

Star Attractions Planned for Dec. 28 Ex-Red Wing Abel Guest at Mill Pond Skating Party

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Sid Abel, former Detroit Red Wing hockey player, will be a guest at the family skating party at the Mill Pond in Clarkston Dec. 28. This is the first planned affair of the newly-formed Independence Township Recreation Commission.

The whole township has been invited to attend the party.

A comedy act on ice and several other star attractions have been lined up. Final details of the party will be made at the regular commission meeting to-night at the Community Center, Clarkston, at 8 o'clock.

Persons interested in assisting in the party have been urged to attend.

The commission is planning to form township hockey teams. Several ex-pro players will assist in forming teams and instructing players.

Figure skating, speed skating and safety on ice instruction will include both boys and girls. Personal safety and good sportsmanship will be stressed.

All skating activities will be supervised by adults. Skating, tobogganing and roller skating parties also are being planned.

Recreation Commission meetings are held every third Wednesday at the Community Center Building. All area residents are welcome to attend.

Grand Rapids OKs Higher Bus Fares

GRAND RAPIDS — City Coach Lines, Inc., had authority from the City Commission today to increase bus fares to meet wage demands of employees.

The Street Electric Railway and Motor Employees Union had threatened to strike.

Members of the union voted to accept a six-cent hourly wage increase and a $1.25 increase in monthly company contributions to a pension fund and a six-day driver week provided the City Commission authorized an increase in fares.

The bus firm said it needed a five-cent charge for transfers and an increase to 15 cents in student fares—currently 10 cents—to meet the demands of drivers and mechanics. The 20-cent adult fare remains unchanged.

Brings Plane Down in Farmington Field

FARMINGTON — Robert Rogell, 23, son of Detroit Councilman William Rogell, made a forced landing with his plane in a Farmington Township field yesterday afternoon.

A student at Michigan State University, he was flying home from East Lansing for the Christmas vacation.

Young Rogell told police a snowstorm forced him down. He was uninjured and his plane was undamaged.

Report on Space-Age Hearings

WASHINGTON (INS) — A new production speedup of both missiles and long-range bombers was predicted today as a likely result of the just concluded second round of Senate space-age hearings.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, who heads the preparedness subcommittee conducting the missile-satellite investigation, warned today that Americans must "work as though there will never be a tomorrow and everything must be done tonight" to overtake Russia in the space race.

Sen. Styles Bridges, N. H., GOP Senate leader and vice chairman of the committee, said he thinks new decisions accelerating the missile program will be made soon. He said the production speedup should include B52 long range jet bombers for the next two years.

Johnson, summing up the hearings thus far, declared that "one fact stands out like a sore thumb—the tremendous gap between talk and achievement, between words and deeds."

He said: "We have a long way to go and we must start at the earliest possible moment."

The committee recessed last night until Jan. 6 after a final day of Air Force testimony in which officials said the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile will be in operational use within two years and the United States "could even get to the moon by 1959."

The consensus of the well informed testimony was that America is behind Russia in the space age weapons race but is striving hard to catch up and can do it before the Iron Curtain tilts the balance of power.

One prominent witness, Air Force Vice Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, said, however, that there is "doubt in my mind that we can catch up before there is a general war—but I think we can try."

Orion Woman to Contest Will

Mother's Estate That Could Hit $500,000

LAKE ORION — Mrs. Amos Van Wagoner of 63 Sylvan, Lake Orion, has announced she will contest the will of her mother, Mrs. Helen A. Green, in an estate that Ionia Probate Judge Greer H. Smith says could amount to $500,000.

Mrs. Green, widow of Gov. Fred W. Green, died Nov. 16 at the age of 84. Mrs. Van Wagoner was their only child.

The four-times married Mrs. Van Wagoner was left $5,000 cash in the will of Mrs. Green, which was accepted for probate Monday by Probate Judge Lou C. McLaughlin of Charlotte.

Judge McLaughlin sat in place of Judge Smith, who disqualified himself because of legal connections with the family.

Mrs. Green left the estate, which includes a block of General Motors stock and other securities, to two grandchildren, Mrs. Joseph Foust of Ionia and Lt. Fred G. Bradley, a Navy officer now stationed in Japan. They are children of Mrs. Van Wagoner by previous marriages.

City Approves Bus Franchise

No Mention Is Made of Request Pontiac
Lease Company

It appeared likely today that the City of Pontiac wants to stay out of the bus business.

In a new operating permit approved for Pontiac City Lines, Inc. last night by the City Commission, no mention was made of a request of the bus company that the city lease it to help pull it out of the red.

The permit, effective today, was identical to last year's. City Manager Walter K. Willman said.

When asked this morning why the leasing provision wasn't included, Willman's comment was: "It just isn't included at this time." He would not say whether it would be in future permits.

In several informal "off the record" commission meetings, commissioners have indicated unfavorable reaction to the proposal. Officials of the bus company asked in October that the City lease the company because it was continuing to lose money due to lessening patronage over the year.

E. W. Dreasher, transportation superintendent of the company, said he was still awaiting an answer from the city.

Report on Gein Going to Judge

Psychiatrist Will Give Opinion on the Sanity of Wisconsin Ghoul

WAUPUN, Wis. — A psychiatrist's report on Edward Gein, admitted slayer of two women and grave robber, will be mailed today or tomorrow to Circuit Judge Herbert A. Bunde of Wisconsin Rapids.

Dr. Edward Schubert, superintendent of Wisconsin Central State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, said yesterday.

Dr. Schubert said the 30-day mental examination of the 51-year-old bachelor virtually has been completed.

Judge Bunde ordered Gein to the hospital Nov. 22 to determine whether the Plainfield, Wis., hantzman was fit to stand trial on charges of first-degree murder.

Gein was charged in the mutilation slaying of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58-year-old Plainfield widow who disappeared from her hardware store Nov. 16. Her body was found several hours later hanging in a shed at the rear of Gein's secluded farmhouse seven miles west of Plainfield, in Waushara County.

Gein admitted killing Mrs. Worden and also admitted the slaying of Mrs. Mary Hogan, 54, who vanished in December 1954 from her tavern in Portage County, a few miles from Gein's farm.

He also admitted plundering the graves of several women in the Plainfield area.

Practise Session to Prepare Jurors for Service Teen Court Rehearsal All Set

The scripts are prepared, the actors and audience have been selected and the directors are to stage the dress rehearsal of the Pontiac Teenage Traffic Court.

This afternoon from 1:30 to 5, a practice session of the court was slated for the City Commission chambers. The court is expected to begin regular monthly sessions in January.

The script is a 27 page handbook for jurors. In the audience were 20 jurors, all sophomores, junior or senior members of the Pontiac Central High School Student Council, and the actors were eight other students from the same groups who portrayed the roles of typical teenage traffic offenders.

The directors of the rehearsal included Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore, members of the County Juvenile Court staff and Pontiac Police.

The jury was expected to go through the procedure of hearing five typical cases today. The purpose of the rehearsal was to acquaint prospective jurors with the functions and procedures of the teenage traffic court.

Contract Clause of Union Illegal

'Hot Cargo' Provisions Ruled Not Applicable to Trucking Operations

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled today that the Teamsters Union's so-called "hot cargo" contract clauses are illegal when applied to trucking operations.

The "hot cargo" clause requires that an employer refuse to handle merchandise transferred from a firm involved in a strike or other labor dispute.

The commission ruled in the case of a six-week boycott of Galveston Truck Lines of Houston, Tex., by nine feeder truck lines in 1955.

In its ruling, the government agency declared that service to the public is an obligation of law and cannot be bargained away through labor contract provisions.

Referring to the nine companies which boycotted the Galveston firm, the ICC said: "They gave preferential effect to the demands of the union representatives over their duties and obligations to the public."

The commission added: "Their claim that their actions were in the best interests of the public as a whole, in that they were able to continue service to most of their many customers, is shallow indeed, even assuming that they had a right to make a determination as to which customers to serve and which to refuse."

The Teamsters Union frequently has invoked the hot cargo clause in an effort to persuade unorganized truck lines to accept a union contract. Under the clause, a trucking firm which refuses to observe the boycott is subject to a strike.

Michigan Invited

TRAVERSE CITY — Valerie Joy Straver of nearby Williamsburg, the presiding Miss Michigan, has been invited to take part in the 1958 Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City next September, she said Tuesday. She and other state queens will be guests of the pageant management throughout preliminaries of the 1958 contest, she said.

Delays OK on Bonds

MADISON HEIGHTS — The State Municipal Finance Commission yesterday delayed approval of a request from Madison Heights for the issue of $95,000 in special assessment bonds for street improvements. The delay is pending a check of engineering fees.

Aliens Reminded to Make Out Annual Report

All aliens in the Pontiac area have been reminded that under the Immigration and Nationality Act they must report their address each year during the month of January.

"This is required each year regardless whether the alien has changed his address from the last report," said Walter A. Sahli, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Detroit.

Alien report cards will be available at any Post Office or Immigration and Naturalization Service Office, he said. After filling in the card it must be left there and not mailed in, Sahli warned.

He said all non-citizens, except those in diplomatic status, foreign representatives of certain international organizations, and those admitted temporarily as agricultural laborers, are required to file the address report.

Alabama Votes to Erase County

Abolition Preferred to Risking Domination by Negro Residents

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Alabama voters have authorized the Legislature to abolish Macon County rather than see it come under Negro domination.

The decision came in yesterday's election on 25 proposed amendments to the state constitution.

It reflects the Deep South's fear that the civil rights bill enacted by the last Congress to enforce voting rights may lead to Negro political control of local governments. Macon County's whites are outnumbered 7-1.

The county may now be abolished by legislative act and its territory added to adjoining counties where whites are in the majority.

Returns from 1,690 of the state's 2,700 boxes gave 51,478 for the Macon amendment to 35,820 against.

That was an unusually light vote, even for an election of this type.

Macon's County seat, Tuskegee, is the home of Tuskegee Institute, famous Negro college. The Legislature this year narrowed Tuskegee's city limits to exclude most Negro voters. The town's white-owned businesses then were boycotted by Negro residents.

In the county, white voters outnumber Negroes about 2-1. On the abolition amendment, Macon voters favored its adoption by about 5-4.

OPEN The Door To Health

"After taking O-JIB-WA BITTERS for 30 days, I was able to throw away my cane, and walk again," says Mr. Harry Hall, East Detroit.

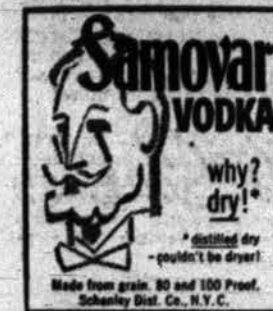

"I had rheumatism and arthritis in my knees so bad that I wasn't able to work for over five months. It was very painful and difficult for me to walk, even using a cane. Everyone I met told me to try something different, so I tried about every medicine made for arthritis. I was able to get rid of it, even trying some medicine advertised in Canada. My wife was bothered for several years with pains in her legs too. They ached so much that she couldn't sleep nights, and she also had an awful time getting around. She read in the paper that a lady in Detroit had used O-JIB-WA BITTERS for pains in her legs, and that it really helped. Well, my wife purchased a small bottle to try, and it helped her so much that she got a big one, and we both went to work using it up. About three weeks later, I told my wife that the O-JIB-WA BITTERS was helping, because I could walk on my own legs. After a month, I was able to throw away my cane and walk again. Since then, we both have recommended O-JIB-WA BITTERS to everyone we know that needed help. We are glad to have this chance to tell everyone how much this wonderful medicine has helped us."

Suspend Negro
at Little RockSchool Disciplines Girl Who Dumped Food on
2 White Boys

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (U.S. radio) A Negro girl, one of the nine Negroes at Little Rock Central High School, was suspended indefinitely yesterday for dumping her food on two white boys in a fit of temper, school authorities said.

Minnie Jean Brown was sent home from classes after the incident in the school cafeteria during a lunch period.

The minimum length of suspensions is three days and Virgil T. Blossom, superintendent of schools, said he did not know, pending full investigation, how long the Brown girl would be out. Christmas holidays begin Thursday.

The incident was described by Blossom this way:

"At lunch hour, there was an incident in which a student, a white boy whose name we're not giving out, backed up from a table and partially blocked the aisle. Another student pushed a chair back and helped partially block the aisle. The colored student lost her temper and dumped food on the boys."

Blossom said that the suspended student must come to his office "after the facts are known and then we determine the length of suspension. We can't determine it until that time."

It was the first incident at the integrated high school in which a Negro student was suspended. A number of white students have been suspended for incidents involving the Negro students.

'The Christmas I Remember Best'

Billy Graham Recalls Korean War

In this, the fourth of a series of articles to which well-known people describe the Christmas that remains most vivid in their memory, evangelist Billy Graham recalls a trip to a hospital in South Korea during the Korean War.

By BILLY GRAHAM
(Written Expressly for INS)

It was Christmas Eve. The entire countryside was white, quiet and beautiful with several inches of freshly fallen snow. To the West the sun had begun to sink. Lower and lower it sank until across the border of the western sky was one great bar of gold.

Then that path of gold turned to blood red, flushing all the sky with crimson and touching earth with its fire. But it seemed only a moment until the sky had turned to cold, ashen gray, and after that came night. Over to the East a full moon was beginning to rise, and the Korean mountains began to rise out of the shadows like colossal giants.

COPTER WHIRLS ON

The little helicopter whirled on. It was difficult to believe that two or three miles to the North were the Communist lines, and below us were American soldiers, six thousand miles from home, battling the elements and the enemy.

General Jenkins and his deputy, General Dewey, took us for a visit to the mobile army surgical hospital just behind the front lines. There were some Christmas decorations in the hospital, but the real decorations were the brave smiles on the faces of the men.

We went from bed to bed and talked and prayed with scores of these fellows, many who had been brought in after being wounded just that morning. As we went from section to section, we saw men in every condition. Some had minor wounds; others were just a few hours from death. Emergency operations were under way constantly. Blood transfusions were being given on every side.

We came to one young lad who lay face down in a canvas and aluminum rigging. The doctor whispered to me that he would never walk again. The night before he had stepped on a land-mine and had had a part of his spine ripped out. He would be paralyzed for life. Only his right arm could move.

I reached down for his hand, and he said, "Mr. Graham, we have been looking forward to your coming. This is Christmas Eve. I would like to have a Christmas gift."

Having some difficulty restraining the tears, I said, "What can I do for you?"

He said, "I want to see your face."

I got down on the sawdust covered floor and looked up into his face, and then asked him to join me in a word of prayer.

Then he asked to see the general. So General Jenkins also got down on his back to look up and smile and give a word of encouragement to one of his men. As he looked up into the lad's face, I saw a tear drop from the eyes of the soldier and fall on the face of the general.

When the general got up, even though he had been through many battles, I saw he was having difficulty controlling his emotions.

Somewhere in a hospital lies this unnamed soldier, and thousands of others like him. Many of them feel lonely and forgotten. They have paid a price that most of us will never know, for the liberties and freedoms that we Americans enjoy.

That Christmas I remember best of all.

Another Instrument in Highway Safety

State Remembers Your Traffic Violations

(Third of five articles on highway safety in Michigan.)

LANSING (U.S. radio)—Remember a couple of years ago when a cop nailed you for running a red light or for passing on a hill?

You probably admitted the mistake and paid the fine. But don't think the case was forgotten. Michigan has a long memory for traffic violators.

If the arresting police agency was on its toes, and most are, a copy of the traffic citation and its disposition was forwarded to Lansing.

Here, in a big room of the Steven T. Mason office building is what Secy. of State James M. Hare calls the "backbone" of the Michigan traffic safety campaign.

15 MILLION PIECES

This is the state's central records file and driver improvement section. In the files are more than 12 million pieces of information every one of Michigan's 3½ million licensed motorists.

For a good driver, there is only a copy of his operator's license. For others there are a half dozen or more citations ranging from driving with defective lights to negligent homicide. (Parking violations don't count.)

From throughout Michigan and 37 cooperating states, traffic violation records pour in at the state records pool in at the rate of 17,000 a month. The number is growing steadily as more and more law enforcement agencies regularize reporting procedures.

This vast filing system acts as a giant screen that sifts out the state's worst drivers so they can be chased off the highways. Its aim is to catch the small percentage of potential killers who cause the big percentage of accidents.

PROCESS STARTS

As traffic citations arrive, more than 100 file clerks sort them into the individual manila envelopes assigned to each motorist, checking the violator's driving record at the same time.

If it's the first time a driver has been in trouble, fatal accidents or serious violations excluded, there's usually nothing done.

But if it's a multiple-conviction envelope, the clerk scores the file by giving each type violation a specific rating based on its seriousness.

If convictions total so many "points," the erring motorist gets a form letter warning him to straighten out or face suspension of his license.

Nearly 21,000 such letters were

21 FIELD MEN

Some motorists, unimpressed by the warning, continue their errant ways. As soon as their record warrants, they are called in for a talk with one of 21 field men or with a staff man in Lansing.

The hearing officer may revoke or suspend a driver's license. Or he may let the driver off with a second, sterner warning.

Through this process, more than 12,000 drivers had licenses suspended or revoked last year, and more than 18,000 will be pulled off the highways this year—mainly because of the build up of data in the files.

In addition, nearly 20,000 applicants were denied licenses or license renewals in 1956 on such grounds as physical impairment or failure in a written driving test.

1,300 CANCELLED

More than 15,000 other licenses were suspended automatically for serious offenses that don't require a hearing, about two thirds for drunk driving. Another 1,300 licenses were cancelled.

100 Complete Course
in Ballroom Dancing

More than 100 Waterford Township teenagers and adults have just completed a 12-week course in ballroom instruction at the Community Activity Center, according to Recreation Director Thomas Belton.

This brings the total number of participants to more than 1,000 since the program was started four years ago, and each year the enrollment has increased, Belton said.

CONARC General
Planning to Retire

FT. MONROE, Va. (U.S. radio)—Gen. Willard G. Wyman, commander of the Continental Army Command, says that because of regulations he will end 39 years of service with the Army in March.

Wyman pointed out last night that he will then be 60, normal retirement age, and "that's what the regulations say." As to whether he would remain in the Army past retirement age, Wyman said, "I can't imagine it."

As commander of Conarc, Wyman is the Army's top ground commander. His command comprises six continental U. S. armies and the military district of Washington, a force of more than 400,000 men.

In Washington, the Army Department said last night it had no information on Wyman's retirement other than the fact he will reach retirement age in March.

Hal Boyle Says:

Launching Ocean Liner Frightening Task

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) — Thanks to 80 good men and a frightened stranger, the SS Brasil, the largest passenger liner ever built in the Deep South, was successfully launched here this week.

I was the frightened stranger — the trigger man — picked to send the big, handsome 22,500-ton vessel down the ways.

When a representative of the owners, the Moore-McCormack Lines, asked if I'd like to launch the new ship, largest built in this country since the SS United States, I realized it was a high honor for a lowly typewriter pecker.

"But," I demurred, "I've never put anything into the water bigger than a canoe."

"Oh, there's nothing to it," a New York spokesman of the line assured me. "All you have to do is push a button."

"Where's that little old button I have to push," I asked.

"What button?" came the answer. "There isn't any button. You have to push a lever."

I felt even more unsure when it was explained that the 80 trained workmen would knock out all but two pins holding the 26-million-dollar ship in place.

Promptly at 3 p.m. on the dot I had to move the lever that would release the two pins, and start the ship down the greased skids.

At 10 seconds to 3 o'clock, I heard a voice chanting, then "release trigger!"

I pushed the lever, nothing happened. I felt against it in a panic and felt it are forward.

For a fraction of a second that seemed forever, there was absolute silence down below while up on the official platform Mrs. Emmet J. McCormack, wife of the lines' board chairman, banged a bottle of champagne against the ship and christened her.

Something must have gone wrong. I could visualize the owners saying, "You bum, we spent 18 months on this ship and you ruined her in one second. Well, you'll have to pay for her yourself." I knew that if that happened I'd be in no position to collect an old-age pension until the year 2537.

Then came the sound of crackling wood almost like an explosion, and the huge vessel began to slide. Slowly at first, then faster and faster, creating a mighty wind, and then a cheer went up as her stern hit the river, and she rode the water as graceful as a gull.

It is a tremendous moment when a thing so vast and man-made first embraces its duty. It gives you a catch in the throat. In less than a minute this big dead conglomeration of metal had become a thing alive, full of a wave-borne beauty.

Three Sisters Reunited After 50-Year Separation

DETROIT (AP) — Christmas will have more than its usual share of joy this year for three sisters. For the first time in almost 50 years the three are together today.

They are Mrs. Beatrice Faull, 83; Mrs. Anna Blewett, 86, and Mrs. Edith Angove, 76. Mrs. Faull of suburban Highland Park and Mrs. Blewett of Flint, left England with their husbands and families 47 and 49 years ago, respectively.

The three corresponded regularly, but the sisters in America thought they'd never see Edith again. Last October the eight children of Mrs. Faull and Mrs. Blewett decided as a Christmas present to bring Mrs. Angove to this country for a visit. She arrived in New York yesterday aboard the Queen Mary and is in Detroit today after an overnight train ride.

The reunion was one of joy and tears. Besides the sisters, there were four of the nieces and nephews present.

Bennie Says It With Flowers -- Funny Like!

By PHYLIS BATELLE
NEW YORK (INS) — New York is a wonderful city to be sick in. That's partly because, when you're sick in New York, you have a delicious opportunity to lie on your back within penicillin shot of the maddest scramble in America. Which is like that magnificent contentment of smuggling 'neath a blanket while all hail breaks loose on the roof.

But another reason New York is so exhilarating for the ill is that Bennie Hubbard lives here.

Bennie is a floral designer for a big, rather costly outfit named

Irene Hayes Florists, and one of his specialists is sickbeds — and people who happen to habitate therein.

"Would you like," he sympathetically asks friends of the hospital inmate, "our bedpan arrangement, perhaps?"

ASPIRIN APPLIQUE?
"Or possibly you would prefer a blanket of minute orchids with and applique of aspirin tablets?" Bennie can do anything.

It all started several years ago when the Hayes horticultural office got an order for "something different" to cheer a victim of tonsillitis or some such thing, in a New York hospital. The person who placed this order was quite healthy, financially, so Bennie put his genius to work.

Having been ill as a child, with tonsillitis or some such thing, he figured that unless there is an incision which makes it devastating to guffaw, a patient needs humor. Also, to remind him that he is not losing his senses altogether, he needs color and odor.

So Bennie Hubbard sent out a bird of paradise, complete with eyes, winged collar and tie, and a profusion of flowers for feathers. All this, he grandly perched on a splendid, shiny bedpan.

Word gets around about things like this (all sick people yak a lot to keep their spirits up), and pretty soon the Hayes office was buying bedpans in two-dozen lots. "Decorative," explains Hubbard, "and useful later for washing miniature poodles."

Another posy problem he tackled some months later was an entire blanket made of rose petals. By this time, word had spread even further — as the person who rested under the rose coverlet was quite well known.

Another order came in for a Christmas tree for comedian Joe E. Lewis — a huge fir, trimmed with red ribbon bows and scotch bottles.

And from a man who shall remain anonymous, a gift for his girl: a lovely arrangement of anthurium, interwoven with the lacy look of 1,000 new-papery-smelling one dollar bills.

"That was an expensive one," explains Bennie. "We had to go out and buy the money."

Nowadays, he not only does local hospital jobs, but he complies with wire orders from all over the world. Sometimes the wired instructions, for off-beat arrangements, cost more than the flowers themselves . . . from those who care enough to spend the very best.

He has been advised by wire to: paint the centers of 3,000 daisies to look like black-eyed susans; construct a 35-foot ladder of rolling pins, for a 25th wedding anniversary; and make floral collars and swim-suit corsages for some of the doggiest dogs and women in the world.

Lumber cut in the United States in the past 140 years, it stacked into one pile, would make a cube exactly one mile in each dimension, and the cutting rate is increasing.

Retraining Considered for Young Unemployed

DETROIT (INS) — Councilman Connor said today he will confer with Mayor Miriani on the possibility of setting up a committee to plan the retraining of unemployed persons in the 25-44 year age group.

Connor's proposed conference followed a discussion yesterday in which members of labor, management, the State Employment Compensation Commission and the Detroit school board took part.

For a couple of the same age, the chances are 3 to 5 the wife will outlive her husband. There were three times more widows than widowers in the U.S. in the 1950 census.

Newspapers in Britain Give Big Horse Laugh to Angry Jim Hagerty

LONDON (INS) — Several British newspapers today gave a loud horse laugh to U.S. presidential press secretary James Hagerty, the former newspaperman who couldn't take a columnist's ribbing about his news conferences.

The columnist was humorist Art Buchwald, whose paper — the New York Herald Tribune — was the first major paper to endorse Eisenhower for the presidency in 1952 and which has never wavered in its devotion. Hagerty once worked for the New York Times. Buchwald, in a column published in the Herald Tribune and its Paris edition yesterday, recounted an imaginary press conference with presidential spokesman "Jim" spoofing many of the questions asked — and answers received — at such inquiries into the minutiae of the President's daily life.

Hagerty called a special press conference to describe the column as "unadulterated rot" and to assert that "at no time did the reports in the New York Herald Tribune even remotely resemble what I ever said at a public briefing."

"This incredible scene," the London Daily Express told its British readers, "resulted in the biggest shout of laughter since the NATO summit conference opened."

The Conservative Daily Mail commented: "The laugh is on Hagerty. . . . The (Buchwald) conference was imaginary — but not so imaginary it could not be identified as the sort of conference currently being given by Hagerty during the NATO talks."

The Laborite Daily Herald, which usually criticizes U.S. policy, said it understood Eisenhower had complained to the Herald Tribune. But the Mutual Broadcasting System, in a broadcast from Paris, said the President "laughed like mad" and told Hagerty, "Simmer down, Jim, simmer down."

Buchwald had a comeback. His column today published the "text" of a news conference held in the Crillon Bar, Hotel de Crillon, by Miss Jo Patrick, secretary to Art Buchwald.

Sample quotes: "Question. It was reported a few minutes ago, Jo, that one of Mr. Buchwald's readers said he wrote unadulterated rot. . . . Answer. No, that's not true. Mr. Buchwald had been known to write adulterated rot, but never to my knowledge has he written unadulterated rot. . . .

"Q. What is Mr. Buchwald eating for lunch?"

"A. He plans to have a very light lunch. Pea soup, eggs Benedict, duck with orange, soufflé potatoes, cheese, salad and crepes suzette."

"Q. Did the doctor put him on this regime?"

"A. No. Several sympathetic journalists offered to take him to lunch after the briefing on their expense accounts."

Ex-Heavyweight Champ Received Gloves at Yule

By GENE TUNNEY
(Written for INS)

The Christmas Day that I remember most occurred when I was 10 years old.

It was always the custom in our family to hang up our stockings . . . Long black for boys in those days . . . over the fireplace. As was the custom, I hung mine up and, on arising in the morning, ran out to see what Santa had brought. I found a long black stocking full of anthracite coal . . . Nothing more!

I was disappointed and terribly let down, and said to myself: "Christmas is nonsense, and I will never expect anything from it."

Several hours later at a turkey dinner, which my mother cooked, I found on the floor, beside my chair, a large package with my name attached on a little card saying: "Merry Christmas, Dad and Mom." I was not allowed to open it until after dinner.

In my eagerness to see what Santa had belatedly brought, I cut my hand on the string, but upon seeing the contents, my eagerness was well rewarded.

I had received the first set of boxing gloves I ever had. That present was the first step on the road to fame as a boxer.

Lions-49ers Happy With Past Trades

More Trades Possible Says Red Wings' Chief

DETROIT (U) — Fresh after an eight-player swap with the Chicago Black Hawks, general manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings said today his National Hockey League club still is "wide open for deals."

"I've tried some others and have a couple of bids out now," Adams told newsmen, adding:

"And we may bring up some deserving young players (from Edmonton) to help fire up the club. Right wing Billy McNeill is beginning to go out there."

Edmonton is a farm club of the fifth-place Red Wings, who must improve their NHL standing by at least a notch to make the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The Red Wings haven't missed the playoffs in 19 seasons and Adams says: "We're going to make those playoffs this year, too."

The Red Wings gave four-for-four in their straight swap with the sixth-place Black Hawks yesterday.

Going to Chicago were: Bill Dineen, Dutch Reibel, Billy Des and Lorne Ferguson. Coming to Detroit were: Nick Mickoski, Bob Bailey, Jack McIntyre and Hec Leland.

None of the four Red Wings shipped off was playing on a regular line, but Reibel was the key player so far as Chicago was concerned. It needs a veteran center; Reibel, 27, is one after five seasons in the NHL.

Charley Eckman Quits Pistons

DETROIT (U) — Charley Eckman resigned today as head coach of the Detroit Pistons pro basketball team. The club had won only nine of 25 games so far this season.

Rumors that Eckman would step out had circulated for several weeks and became stronger after the Pistons dropped a 106-88 game to the St. Louis Hawks last night.

The 36-year-old Eckman had a three-year, $12,000 contract which was to have run to June, 1960. He came to Detroit this year when the Ft. Wayne, Ind. franchise in the National Basketball Assn. was moved.

Sports writers had known for some time that Eckman and Fred Zollner, owner of the Pistons, have differed on how the club should be operated.

Eckman told a newsmen "only last week, 'Zollner and I are not getting along too well. He keeps coming into Detroit and telling me this and telling me that, telling me how to run my ball club. Last week he told me to play Bill Thibodeau, a kid who is 6-foot, 7-inches tall, at a guard position. Who the hell could be guard?"

Both Teams Get Ready for Title Playoff Sunday

Former Frisco Player Helps Detroit Against Ex-Teammates

SAN FRANCISCO (U) — Last spring's trade that sent John Henry Johnson to the Detroit Lions and Bill Stits to the San Francisco 49ers today finds both sides still happy.

As the two clubs prepare for Sunday's playoff for the Western Conference title in the National Football League, Johnson paces the Detroit rushers and Stits strengthens the 49er defensive backfield corps.

"Trades are healthy," declared the 49er Coach Frankie Albert. "Stits is a fine defensive back, as steady as anyone we have in the secondary. We needed defensive help."

With 621 yards gained on 129 carries for a 4.8 average, the 207-pound former St. Mary's and Tempe, Arizona State star ranks fourth among NFL rushers.

Stits' value can't be figured in statistics. He's broken up countless plays to help the 49ers to their 8-4 season record, far higher than pre-season dolesters placed the local club.

Albert concedes the 49ers traded away a solid running back, but declares, "You have to give something to get something. We needed a defensive back badly and we're happy with Stits' performance."

The former UCLA star played both offense and defense on occasion for the Lions but with the 49ers has been strictly a defender. "I like it better this way," he says.

Both Albert and Wilson called for private practice sessions the rest of the week. The 49ers stay at their regular training camp at Redwood City while the Lions work at Stanford.

Rain yesterday kept both clubs from any hard outside work.

Sunoco Wins First Waterford Loop Tilt

Opening action for the Waterford Recreation cage league last night found Sunoco on the winning end of a 37-32 count. Loser was Johnson and Anderson.

Count was tied at halftime 15-15, but Sunoco took the lead early in the 3rd period and never was headed. Top scoring was 14 for Sunoco's Don Thompson, with J and A's William Pealart getting 12.

White Swan vs. Eysen's (7:15) and Jaycees vs. Pontiac Coach (8:30) provide the opposition in Thursday's league games in Isaac Cray school, where all loop contests will be played.

Appoint Devine Missouri Coach

Ex-MSU Grid Assistant Moves From Arizona to Take New Post

COLUMBIA, Mo. (INS) — The University of Missouri today announced the appointment of 33-year-old Dan Devine of Arizona State (Tempe) as its new football coach, succeeding Frank Broyles, now at Arkansas.

Athletic Director Don Faurot, inventor of the famed split-T formation and head football coach at Missouri for 19 years, announced the appointment at a news conference today.

He said Devine agreed by telephone last night from Tempe to a three-year agreement, with a two-year option, meaning Devine, former Michigan State assistant, can stay for five seasons if he wishes.

St. Fred Cager Is Leader in County Point Parade

A 24-point per game average for two games by St. Frederick center Tom Derocher is the top scoring mark for Oakland County and the surrounding area following the opening weeks of the new basketball season.

Going into last night's action, four others had hit the hoop at an average of 20 or more, two of them in the county.

Pontiac's Hudson Ray and LeRoy Parks of Clarkston, members of the Pontiac Press All-County team last season, George Almsbury of Clarkston and Don Moos of Madison all have hit 18 or better this far.

Scoring records do not include last night's games.

Pontiac Central Gets Stiff Test at Flint Central

Another League Quintet Certain to Fall From Unbeaten Ranks

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Just as shoppers do in putting their Christmas gifts in layaway, the lead in the Saginaw Valley Conference basketball race will also be put in layaway until Jan. 7, 1958 after Friday's games.

Currently, three teams are tied with 1-0 league marks and after Friday night at least one and possibly two will suffer a first loss.

Most crucial game of Friday's SVC schedule is Pontiac Central's invasion of Ballenger field-house to meet the fast moving Flint Central Indians.

In other SVC games Saginaw visits Bay City Central and only an upset could knock Saginaw from the lead, and Flint Northern is at Arthur Hill. The league will then be idle until January.

While pre-season forecasts were pointing to Pontiac and Saginaw as the SVC favorites, no one was overlooking the nine returning lettermen who would put Flint Central in the thick of the race.

The Indians have posted a 4-0 mark in impressive fashion, their latest being an 83-41 romp over Bay City Central.

"They are very fast and they have one of the best shooting teams in the league," said Chief coach Art Van Ryzin, who also feels Pontiac will have to brush up its floor game for Friday.

The Chiefs lost the ball numerous for various violations in beating Arthur Hill last week.

Pontiac thus far has shown better strength in the front line than it had in previous seasons. Jim Skinner and Dick Whitmer at the forwards and Hudson Ray at center have been hitting and rebounding well in two games, but a big factor Friday will be speed.

Charley Barge at guard will be Pontiac's fastest man. The 5-8 junior has done fine job filling in for the graduated Larry Peet, who was the team's top floor man last season.

Barge is also scoring better than Peet which makes Pontiac a greater threat in this spot, however while one guard post has been strengthened the other has been weaker.

Last year's top scorer Dave Diehm is gone and neither John Randy nor Jerry Williams have hit with consistency to compensate for the loss.

Even so, Van Ryzin figures both have the potential and he expects one of them to break into a scoring rash one of these games.

Central's big gun is Felix Miller, the league's top pointmaker with 75 points. The 6-foot senior guard almost was Pontiac's undoing last year when he came in as a substitute and poured in 13 points forcing the Chiefs to rally in the last seconds before winning, 51-48.

FILLS IN WELL — Speedy Charley Barge, Pontiac Central guard who is filling the shoes of the graduated Larry Peet, will get his toughest test Friday night against fast-moving Flint Central in Flint. Barge has more than adequately matched Peet's floor play and he is scoring at an average of 11 points a game.

Coaching Is Good Job Temporarily—Walker

DOAK WALKER

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—There'll be no football coaching in the life of Doak Walker, the former Southern Methodist All-American halfback and professional star.

"Coaching is a pretty good job," Walker says. "In fact, it's about the best temporary job a man can get these days." He stresses the word temporary.

Asked if he'd like coaching, Doak replied:

"The coaching—yes. The pressure—no."

Walker, who started for the Detroit Lions from 1950 through 1955, now is making his home here and commutes daily to the Martin missile plant southwest of Denver where he works on a construction job.

Doak looks like any other construction worker. He wears a work shirt, loose-fitting trousers and tin helmet.

He admits his first year out of football was "pretty tough."

"But I don't have any plans to go back and play," Walker says. "I could have played longer all right. But I felt the longer I waited to get into business, the tougher it would be."

Actually, Walker is at the Martin plant site gaining field experience in his job with a Dallas, Tex., construction concern. About his work, he says "it's difficult to describe" and lets it go with that remark.

MAPS STRATEGY — St. Michael's cagers pay attention as Coach Bob Mineweiser maps some necessary strategy in the early part of last night's season opener at PCH gymnasium against Detroit Annunciation. Apparently the strategy was good, for Shamrocks soon began to wipe out a 8-5 first period lead for the Detroiters, and eventually own by a single point in overtime, 38-37. Players are (8) Art Robak, who with Bob Mineweiser (in background) flipped the winning counters in the extra period, (6) Mike O'Connell and (4) Pat Campbell.

Still No Red Carpet Out for Los Angeles Dodgers

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Will chapter in "just plain O'Malley—true life story of a man's search for a diamond surrounded by lots of paying customers."

A ray of hope was shed on the Dodger's soap opera-like search for a place to play when the Pasadena board of city directors voted 5-1 to enter into negotiations with the baseball club for use of the Rose Bowl for the 1958-59 season.

After the stormy city hall session yesterday, Mayor Seth Miller told the gathering:

"We are inviting the Dodgers here if we can get a favorable contract. This is my understanding."

The resolution simply instructed city manager Don McMillan to work out details with O'Malley for use of the 100,000 seat Rose Bowl 1 1/2 to 2 years.

The Dodger front office announced that O'Malley and McMillan will sit down immediately and try to agree on such problems as rent for the famed football stadium, concessions and cleanup fees. The contract would have to be approved by the city board.

McMillan said he doubted any formal contract could be worked out before the first of the year.

Denver Puck Team Edges U. of M. 7-6

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Denver scored five goals in the final period to edge Michigan 7-6 last night in a Western Intercollegiate Hockey League game.

Denver's Murray Massier, with his team one man short, scored the winning goal with a 25-footer in the last five minutes.

Clarkston Rips Skippers, 73-61

Wolves Settle Issue in Last Three Minutes

Late Surge Offsets Waterford Comeback; Ferndale Wins

By CHUCK ABRAHAM

Unbeaten Clarkston stepped out of its class to make Waterford its fourth hoop victim in a 73-61 triumph at home last night.

The game, however, was much closer than the final score would indicate as the Class A Skippers kept things interesting until the last three minutes.

Waterford showed plenty of scoring power despite the limited confines of the CHS court but could not match the combined efforts of Leroy Parks, Dick Lippert and Bill Niles.

The trio hooped 58 of the Wolves' points paced by Parks with 20. Also playing a key role was Leroy's brother John. He hit five of six shots in a stellar reserve showing that may have earned him a starting job.

"It was anybody's ball game until those closing minutes although Clarkston had led most of the way. A string of seven points brought Waterford within two at 55-53 but the Wolves went on a decisive surge after an exchange of baskets.

A free throw by Leroy got things started. Lippert scored twice in close and Leroy hit from outside to make it 64-55. A foul and goal by Niles and two more Parks' fouls enabled Clarkston to pull away more despite occasional Skipper successes on long heaves.

Waterford held a 12-9 edge after the first quarter paced by the John Herrington-Jim Devine combination but could not keep up the running pace set by the Wolves.

The Jackets never trailed by more than eight points until midway through the 4th quarter when quick baskets by Carl (Peasants) Montross and Gene Lothery put them out of contention.

Montross and Lothery combined for 28 of Rochester's total output, each one collecting 14. Only two other Falcon cagers broke into the scoring column, Chuck Ebersole getting nine and Bruce Ennis three.

Dennis Evans and Walker were tops for Avondale with nine points apiece. Center Jerry Hill, who was tremendous on the backboards for the Jackets in the 1st half before his performance tapered off, was limited to a mere two points.

Cohen Gets Denver Job
DENVER, Pa.—A familiar figure to Denver baseball, Andy Cohen, will replace Ralph Houk next season as manager of the Denver Bears in the American Assn.

Cohen's selection was announced last night by Bob Howsam, Denver president and general manager, shortly after Houk was named by the New York Yankees as a coach. Houk replaces the retiring Bill Dickey.

Lapeer Bows at Flint
Lapeer led big Flint Kearsley 14-13 after the 1st period but was never in contention the remainder of the game in bowing 69-44 last night. Jerry Kalar caged 14 and John McKillen 11 for the losers. Bud Eagl had 23 for Kearsley.

Bens Edge Eaglets

Overtime for Mikes

By H. GUY MOATS

Pontiac St. Michael cagers came too close to a licking for comfort in their season's opener, last night. Where they had expected a comparatively easy win, they ran into a rough and tough Annunciation squad that didn't know when to quit. Bob Mineweaver's Shamrocks barely got by, 38-37, in overtime.

Those Detroiters proved much tougher than the North Siders were led to believe. They were in front 8-5 at end of the first period, but lost the advantage at halftime 18-13 after the Shamrocks' Mike O'Connell and Pat Campbell began to hit.

Shamrocks were up against it in the finale when long Willie Duchene poured in nine points to knot the count several times, move into the lead at 34-32 with seconds left of regulation time.

But Mikes' Bob Mineweaver hooped two free shots 15 seconds from the end to send the tilt into overtime.

Midway in the extra frame George Drake hooked in a side shot to make it 36-34. Duchene sank two foul tries to again tie up the game. The clincher was Art Robak's bucket a half minute from the finish. Duchene slipped another single-pointer 15 seconds from the end, but that was all.

Duchene's 19 points was the top scoring effort of the evening, in a contest that showed up the lack of experience on the part of the Shamrocks.

In another thriller, played at St. Benedict's in Highland Park, Orchard Lake St. Mary's dropped the unbeaten Bens 30-23. Inability of Eaglets' ace, Goldszinski to shake loose from a double dose of guards, was one big reason why the Polish lads didn't win.

Goldszinski compiled only six points.

Victory was the third straight for the Bens, while St. Mary's dropped its first contest.

The final basket of the contest, with time just about finished, was the one that dumped the Eaglets. A missed layup by Moniusko was grabbed by Bens' Al Philion who galloped length of the floor to sink the winner.

LET'S GO, BALL! — Annunciation High's elongated Gerry Horn (No. 41) grabbed a loose ball during the Tuesday night encounter with Pontiac St. Michael and set sail for the Detroiters' bucket. He didn't quite make it, for Shamrocks' Bob Mineweaver (10) caught up with him. Other players are (31) Willie Duchene, game's top scorer with 19, and Mikes' (11) George Drake. Shamrocks pulled out a 38-37 squeaker win in overtime. Game was their first of the season.

Rochester Wins, 40-30

Falcons Cold, Avon Colder

By BILL CORNWELL

A cold Rochester High School basketball team handed an even colder Avondale quintet its first setback of the season Tuesday night, 40-30, on the new Rochester court.

The Falcons, tense and with their shooting eyes much chillier than the outside temperature, were thankful that Avon was just as tense and more frigid.

Rochester held the lead all the way to chalk up its 4th victory in five starts. The loss was Avon's 1st in three games.

Action moved at a rapid pace, but neither team could find the target with any degree of consistency in a ragged game.

Ritchie Paces 2nd Half Rally for Birmingham Against Southfield

After a frigid first half, Birmingham picked up steam in the final two periods by scoring 40 points to beat Southfield, 54-45, on the Maple court last night.

The Maples could manage only six field goals in the first half which ended with Southfield leading 24-14.

Forward Dave Ritchie then found the range for Birmingham with 14 of his 18 points, including four straight field goals, and with only three minutes left to play the Maples took the lead for the first time, 42-40.

Southfield lost its poise on the floor in the last quarter by throwing the ball away many times.

Birmingham, which had only a 14 per cent shooting mark in the first half, finished with 23 field goals in 82 attempts for 28 per cent.

Troy Wallops Oxford, 63-21

Nine different players took part in the scoring as Troy handed Oxford its fourth successive battering last night, 63-21.

It was never a contest as the visitors piled up a 38-8 1st half lead and coasted along from there paced by Dick Booth with 24 points.

Jim Brady topped eight Oxford point-getters with six as the Wildcats hit their season low for team scoring.

Oxford made only three field goals in the contest while connecting on 15 foul shots. The Wildcats made one goal in three different periods in the setback. Troy is now 3-0.

Almont Takes Early Lead in Southern Thumb Loop

Almont roared into the van as the leading contender for the Southern Thumb championship by wallowing previously unbeaten Memphis 45-32 last night for its 4th straight triumph.

Armada kept Dryden on its losing streak with a 57-32 win in another loop contest while Brown City was blasting Peck by a 53-28 count in a non-league game.

Game Often Proves Smarter

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

When the mighty hunter returns from the field, heavy of heart and light of game bag — and there's a direct relationship between the two — he is likely to give voice, as soon as there's an audience, to a lament with two anguished stanzas.

The first calls attention to what must be considered obvious: If the mighty hunter didn't shoot any game, then obviously it must be because there "ain't any game."

The second is a logical enough development from that springboard: If there "ain't any game," it's the fault of the game commission — who else? — and something ought to be done about it.

Any general observations, particularly by the game management, that the mighty hunter's game bag might possibly be empty because he isn't quite as good at hunting as the game is at being hunted has predictable consequences: It doesn't shake the mighty hunter's convictions about the first part of his thesis and it confirms him in the second.

Now, however, Michigan wildlife experts have come up with the results of what many a mighty hunter might consider a dirty trick: they didn't make any snide insinuations — they just went out and proved what they really knew all along. And that is: a man who is a hunter only on a part time basis can well expect to be outsmarted frequently by a deer who performs works at being a deer all the time.

The Michigan experts didn't even embarrass anybody, except possibly their fellow experts, in the process. They put a fence 11 feet high around 647 acres of hardwood forest and conifer swamp in Cusino wildlife experiment station in the state's wild upper peninsula, then put in 39 deer.

What happened was reported to the Midwest Wildlife Conference by R. C. Van Etten, one of the technicians involved.

In 1954, six veteran hunters entered the enclosure, knowing ahead of time that there were 7 bucks, 14 does and 18 fawns inside the fence.

But it took them four days — 15½ man-days of hunting — before they even saw their first buck. It took the six men four days to kill two bucks.

On the 15 days the area was hunted in four years, an average of seven hunters spent an average of five hours within the enclosure.

Here's what happened: on "buck-only" hunts, hunters saw almost one deer an hour, but only one buck in more than 10 hours. They spotted numbers equal to about one-fourth the deer present — but only one out of 10 bucks. During "any deer" hunts, hunters saw only 17 per cent of the deer known to be present, and only 3 per cent of the bucks. Fourteen hours were required to shoot any deer, and 51 hours to shoot a buck.

On Private Preserves

Still Good Pheasant Shooting

By JACK PATTERSON

Random December potshots: Anyone who entertains the quaint notion that pheasant shooting is done for the season ought to talk to Dr. Vern Abbott. As recently as last Wednesday Vern and Carleton Patterson enjoyed a good afternoon's shooting at a controlled preserve in Ohio. Fifteen birds up and 15 down was the score.

Since this 100 per cent performance considerably exceeds anything we've ever seen these two gentlemen pull in the field, we're sorry we weren't on hand to look for possible flaws in the scoring system.

By next fall it won't be necessary to go to Ohio for preserve shooting. It won't, if present plans materialize, be necessary to go much farther than a few rifle shots from the county courthouse.

Although, the legislation permitting preserve shooting in Michigan was hesitantly conceived and timidly executed, controlled shooting will be a reality in 1958.

Since sleeping is one of the five activities we consider worthwhile while we have studied the subject at some length, with particular regard to the sportsman who will be called upon, from time to time, to sack out in places devoid of central heating. Sleeping bags, and myths and misinformation concerning them, immediately come to mind.

Despite activity of researchers in Delaware and elsewhere and glib pronouncements of advertising artists to the contrary, wildfowl down remains the best filler for sleeping bags. It is the only filler that should be considered if the user plans to sleep outdoors in cold weather.

Whether it is a sign of the times or simply a matter of lack of ideas we couldn't say, but, for the first time in many years manufacturers have failed to come up with a host of new sporting gadgetry to bedazzle the Christmas trade. As a matter of fact we've discovered only one device that merits more than a ho-hum.

This item, available locally, is an ingenious folding landing net that stows in a small leather case which attaches to the belt. NET of that stows in a small case which attaches to the belt. The net springs into shape as it is withdrawn from the case. A twist of the wrist restores it to collapsed position.

Wanted: A local authority who can positively, and in words of one syllable, diagnose the illnesses of a poorly fitting gunstock. This paragon should, in addition, be able to effect a cure. If we can find such a man he'll probably be immediately shanghaied by Griffin & Howe and our work will be for naught. But it's Christmas time and we believe in Santa Claus and anything can happen.

Complete Plans for Trip

Area sportsmen interested in participating in the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club's seventh annual browse cutting trip in Gladwin County, Jan. 4-5 weekend, may still register.

Party will leave OCSC at 5:30 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 4. They will eat family-style breakfast in Pinning and then motor on to LaVern Bowman's Tittabawassee resort near Gladwin.

Purpose of the trip is to provide food for deer. The cutting is arranged and sanctioned by the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Cost for the week-end trip is small, includes meals and lodging. Transportation will be arranged by Sportsmen's Club.

All planning to make the trip should contact OCSC editor, Marshall Johnson, OR 3-7441.

Shooting will be held Sundays from 10 a.m. until dark. A handicapped system will be used on a team basis, with individuals shooting 25 targets each week.

The winter program is aimed toward the beginning skeet shooter so he may have a chance to learn to shoot and handle a gun properly.

Individuals wishing to enroll may sign up at the OCSC range house or by contacting a member of the OCSC skeet committee, OR 3-7441. The Club is widely recognized for its exceptional facilities with one of the most outstanding skeet and trap layouts in the nation.

State Forestry Chief Conference Keynote

LANSING — George S. McIntire, chief of the Conservation Department's forestry division, was keynote speaker at the recent 48th Western Forestry Conference at Seattle, Washington.

McIntire spoke at the opening of the three-day conference on "The Role of State Forestry in Developing a National Timber Supply."

Added Winter Sport

3-Months Long Season on Bobcats Under Way

Michigan Conservation Department suggests that there's some interesting hunting in the state's open season on bobcats, which got under way last weekend in the Lower Peninsula. The Dec. 15-March 15 period provides an extra winter sport for many outdoorsmen.

Hunters and dogs are especially active in the northeastern part of the Lower Peninsula, although 'cat populations are low—about the same as last year, state conservation department says.

Bobcats are much more abundant in the Upper Peninsula where these animals are considered predators and carry a price on their heads. Last year, 763 bobcats were bountied in the U. P. by hunters and trappers. The high bounty total continued in 1957, with 195 'cats bagged during October alone.

Bobcat hunting promises to be a popular sport in the Upper Peninsula in future years, due to the abundance of targets.

Mice, ground squirrels, rabbits, hares, small birds, frogs, crayfish and eggs of every sort seem to be the staple food of bobcats.

Bobcats purr, meow and screech like housecats—but louder. The kittens resemble domestic kittens, with two to four playful animals in a litter.

Pioneers Plan Annual Dog Field Trial for March 30

John Feldman of Lake Orion was handed two jobs at the annual meeting and banquet for the Pioneer Coon Hunters association, held at Bald Eagle Lake Inn, Feldman was named 1958 president of the veteran outdoors group, and also will be "top kick" for the annual coon dog field trials set for March 30 at Groveland Grange Hall grounds.

Other officers include vice president, Harold Smith, Pontiac; secretary-treasurer, Lewis M. Wrenn, Pontiac; and directors, Freeman Peace, Holly, Jack Hamilton, Orionville, Archie Radenbaugh, Orionville, Carl Kennaday of Oakwood, Ernest Lattimer of Drayton Plains and James Berden of Pontiac.

Besides Feldman, trial marshal, Hamilton, Kennaday and Lattimer make up the committee for the event.

The hunters and guests enjoyed 35 young, tender coons, with all the trimmings. Among the guests were conservation officers Harold Stoll, Guy Adams, Sheriff Frank Irons, deputy Steve Holick, Howard Shelly and blind coon hunter Vern Keller. Members and guests totaled 65.

A census of the hunters disclosed that 124 coons were taken by nine hunters for an average of 13.6 per man.

Kiddies' Yule Party

Annual kiddies Christmas party of Oakland County Sportsmen's Club will be held Sunday, Dec. 22, from 2 until 4 o'clock in the clubhouse at Waterford.

Children of OCSC members and their friends are invited to attend.

Metropolitan Beach Sets Annual Affair on Jan. 25

It didn't look like it today, but there has been enough freezing weather to coat most area lakes with a shell of thin ice, giving hope to hard-bitten anglers for some ice-fishing sport in the not-too-distant future.

But conservation officers warn fishermen not to rush the season — wait until the ice reaches at least four inches thickness.

Metropolitan Beach in the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Park area is looking ahead a bit, and today announced plans for the annual ice-fishing derby. Event, at Metropolitan Beach on Lake St. Clair, will be held Jan. 25, ice conditions permitting. The beach also conducts weekly contests for which many prizes are offered.

"Ice-fishing depends entirely on the weather," Metropolitan manager James J. Pompey said yesterday. "We will not allow fishermen on the ice unless we are reasonably sure it is safe. The lagoon has a half-inch of ice now, but it will be longer before Lake St. Clair ice is thick enough to be safe."

Skating areas at both Kensington Park and the Beach will be in use as soon as good ice is available, authorities say.

Kensington Park Offers Chance to Study Nature

Opportunity for studying nature in one of the area's fine park systems is afforded every day at the Kensington Park Nature Center near New Hudson. Chance to see wildlife, both indoors and out, is given here with mounted specimens of ducks, species familiar in the section, plus the live winged visitors that frequent the Audubon Society feeding station. Station is operated by Vic Knowles.

There are also live fish on display in the Center, species that are found in waters of the park.

Double Feature on M-L Program

Club Will Hold Ladies' Night, Election, Tonight at Clubhouse

Multi-Lakes Conservation Association holds its annual membership meeting tonight, along with the annual Ladies' Night, for a "double feature."

The program, in the M.L. clubhouse at Reed's Lake, Commerce, will include balloting for club officers, plus a fine motion picture. Officer candidates were named at a recent session of the club.

Dennis Glenn Cooper, Detroit lecturer and TV personality, will show his color film "Wonder Cruises on Our Inland Seas." Film reveals a Great Lakes trip that includes visits to Mackinac Island, Munising, Houghton, the Soo locks, Detroit, Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

OCSC Gets State Shoot '58 Skeet Event in Fall

Oakland County will again be the site for the Michigan Skeet Association's annual championship shoot, in 1958. Event is set tentatively for next Sept. 13-14 at Oakland County Sportsman's Club fine skeet grounds.

The award of the state's biggest skeet shooting classic was announced at the recent annual meeting of the association directors, held in Grand Rapids. Dates were also approved at that time for nearly a dozen other skeet events, starting with the April 20 White Oaks Open at Kalamazoo.

Bob Thieffels, OCSC shooter, reported that several new rules were adopted for the association, including provision for all shoot trophies by the MSA, with the host club adding $200 to the all-gauge purse. A $300 membership fee will be assessed each member of the association, payable at the first shoot, or by mail.

The MSA named a number of outdoor editors (including The Pontiac Press) honorary directors. The 1958 schedule of events: April 20 — White Oaks Open, Kalamazoo; May 4 — Maple Grove Open, Mt. Clemens; May 18-20 — Governor's Trophy Shoot, Lansing; June 1-3 — Motor State Open, Detroit; July 4-6 —

Trout Research Man Will Quit Michigan Post

LANSING — Thomas F. Waters, fisheries biologist in charge of the Pigeon River trout research station at Vanderbilt, will resign his conservation department post Jan. 1.

Waters will take up new duties with the Department of Entomology and Economic Zoology at the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture, St. Paul, Minnesota.

He joined the Michigan Conservation Department on a part time basis in 1951. After completing his Ph.D. work at Michigan State University, Waters was placed in charge of the Pigeon River station in 1956.

Turkey Shoot, Fox Hunt on OCSC Slate

Among many winter events scheduled for OCSC members during the next month or two are a turkey shoot and several fox hunts.

Shoot takes place Dec. 22, at the OCSC rifle range, with shooters firing at "luck" targets. It runs at the same time the annual Kiddies' party is held for children of club members and their friends.

Fox hunts are set for Jan. 2 and Feb. 26, with locations for the interesting outings not yet determined. However, all planning to participate in these hunts must have small game licenses.

Excellent Shooting for 3 Area Hunters

Three Oakland county bird hunters recently returned from a very successful hunting trip to South-eastern Missouri, where they took many birds. Their bag includes quail and mallard ducks.

The trip was considerable of a family affair, with all in the party related to one another. The hunters were Frederick Edwards, 100 Moreland, Pontiac and Bill Harrington and James Jarrell of Waterford. Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Harrington accompanied the hunters and all were guests of Mrs. Edwards' mother in Dudley, Mo.

PCC to Be Asked to Dissolve

SEATTLE (AP)—A sickly organization weakened by internal injuries and amputations, the Pacific Coast Conference is tottering like an octogenarian with one foot in the grave and the other on a banana peel.

The 42-year-old loop, cut from nine to six teams by the withdrawal of UCLA, Southern California and California last week, will soon be asked by Washington to dissolve by next June 30.

Prof. Donald H. Wollett, Washington's faculty athletic representative to the conference, said yesterday the Washington proposal will be submitted at a special conference meeting to be held in the "near future."

If the other five members of the conference refuse Washington's proposal, Wollett said, "Washington would have no choice but to withdraw."

A Washington withdrawal would leave only Oregon State, Oregon, Washington State, Idaho and Stanford in the conference, which has been best in recent years with a monotonous succession of internal squabbles.

The largest blowup, prior to last week's mass pull-out, came early in 1956 when the conference slammed USC, UCLA and Washington to the mat for illegal, undercover payments to football players.

The conference dealt out heavy fines and sweeping athletic eligibility penalties to the three schools in addition to banning them from the Rose Bowl, USC and Washington for two years and UCLA for three.

California was fined heavily for its indiscretions in the matter of illegal aid to athletes.

With that background of ill will, the conference staged its annual, winter meeting early this month in an effort to give the loop at least a touch of harmony.

The kiss of death was given, instead, when the conference turned down a five-point program proposed by the board of regents of the University of California, which governs the Berkeley and UCLA campuses.

The program, in brief, called for free scheduling of games, stricter academic standards for athletes, grants in aid for athletes on the basis of need, identical wage rates for athletes and nonathletes and policing of athletic rules by the individual schools rather than by the conference.

One of the largest is the future status of the Rose Bowl game, which this coming Jan. 1 will pit Oregon, the PCC co-titlist, against Ohio State, the Big Ten conference champion.

The tournament of roses, sponsor of the Rose Bowl game has a contract with the PCC which can be broken only on two years' notice the deadline for giving notice this year passed Nov. 30.

In addition, the PCC has a contract to meet Big Ten teams in the Rose Bowl, each year. That contract can be terminated by either conference only with notice of a year and a day, a deadline only 13 days away.

Mass. Boxing Commission Resigns, Then Slaps NBA

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts State Boxing Commission was an "outlaw" among the sport's governing bodies today after resigning from the National Boxing Assn. with sharp denunciation of NBA officers.

Acting chairman Henry Lamar announced the resignation yesterday after charging the national body's officers with acts detrimental to boxing.

In a letter to NBA president Gilbert H. Jackson, Lamar accused NBA officers of an "outright attempt to undermine and hinder boxing in the commonwealth."

The action followed by only a year and a half the Massachusetts commission's break with the New York State athletic commission. That resulted when Massachusetts granted Bill Daly, manager of Vince Martinez, a license despite the objection of New York chairman Julius Hallford.

The resignation from the NBA was the aftermath of a dispute over the Massachusetts Commission's sanction of a bout between Alkins of St. Louis and Tony De Marco of Boston for the welterweight title Oct. 29 at the Boston Garden.

The NBA and the New York Commission refused to go along, preferring instead to name several boxers for an elimination series to determine a champion to succeed Carmen Basilio.

Alkins knocked out De Marco in the 14th round. With the loss, the NBA and New York Commission dropped De Marco from their elimination plans.

The Massachusetts commission sanctioned the Alkins-De Marco fight on what Lamar called "decisions at the NBA national convention last July." At that time, Lamar contended, the NBA said that if Basilio won the middleweight title, De Marco, then the No. 1 contender, could meet any of the next three contenders for the title. The other contenders behind De Marco then were Isaac Logart, Gaspar Ortega and Alkins.

In his letter, Lamar said "the officers of the NBA have refused to abide by their own rules, regulations, decisions and resolutions of the executive committee" as specified in the constitution.

Rated St. Francis Falls to Titan 5

DETROIT (AP)—The University of Detroit snapped St. Francis' four-game winning streak last night and topped the 16th ranked Pennsylvanians from the list of unbeaten basketball teams.

The Titans won 75-73 by stalling the vaunted running attack of the tall Pennsylvanians.

Accurate shooting at the foul line also figured in the Detroit victory. The Titans made good 29 free throws out of 31 attempts.

Detroit moved to a 10-point lead early in the game and held a 41-33 halftime advantage. Ralph Uchison was top scorer for the Titans with 26 points followed by Mike Walsh with 24.

St. Francis tied the score at 54-54 early in the second half and then faded when four players fouled out late in the game.

It was the second straight win for Detroit over a ranked cage team. The Titans, now 4-2, defeated Louisville 68-64 last Saturday.

Several Upsets Mark College Cage Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — If West Virginia's Mountaineers were looking for a college basketball star to replace the graduated Rod Hundley they may have found him in Jerry West. But while Hot Rod left 'em laughing, the scoring soph leaves 'em in a cold sweat.

It was West, tops with 28 points, who hustled West Virginia from behind, as he slipped through with a layup in the last 3 seconds of overtime for a 76-74 victory over Richmond in a battle of unbeaten last night.

The 6-3 soph counted nine points in the last 5 minutes-plus, including an up-the-middle drive that tied the score at 67-all with 12 seconds left in regulation time. Then he scored seven of the Mountaineers' nine points in the extra session.

Old Crack Haunts Bragan

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—Cleveland Indian manager Bobby Bragan, who once referred to the Giants as "the worst team in baseball," may have to eat his words again.

The 1958 spring training schedule of games released today by the San Francisco Giants shows the Giants will hook up with Cleveland in a total of 20 exhibition games.

It is no secret that Bragan and Billy Rigney, manager of the Giants, have had little love for each other since Bragan made his "worst team" remark about the New York Giants at the start of the 1955 season.

In 1956, Bragan, then plotting the Pittsburgh Pirates, tempered the remark somewhat by calling the Giants "the worst team in the National League."

Rigney read the remarks and fumed. The Giant mentor saved his best shots for Pittsburgh, and the Blues tied for last place in the league while the giants placed fifth.

The Giants and the Indians meet for the first time on March 8 in Tucson, Ariz., and close out the spring season in Omaha on April 13.

South Carolina knocked off Duke 62-51, George Washington, winless in 11 games, whipped Wake Forest 67-45, Penn surprised LaSalle 67-56 in overtime and DePaul put on a late rally for a 60-55 job at Purdue.

South Carolina, winning its first in Atlantic Coast Conference play after being whipped by both North Carolina and North Carolina State trailed 26-22 at the half, then went on a second-half kick triggered by Mike Callahan's eight points.

Jim Darrow, a 5-11 soph, paced Bowling Green's 81-77 overtime victory against Duquesne, scoring 28 points, including six of the Falcons' 15 in the extra period.

Notre Dame overcame a five-point deficit late in the first half and went on to whip Loyola of Chicago 82-64. John McCarthy, high with 29 points, and Bob Devienne collected 20 of Notre Dame's 24 field goals and led a 10-point spurt that gave the Irish a 37-33 half-time edge.

Xavier of Ohio scored seven points in the last minute and 40 seconds, four by Hank Stein, and came from behind for an 85-82 victory over Fortham.

That's the most heartwarming thing I've ever seen," declared the East's head coach Rip Engle of Penn State as the husky players mingled with the eager young patients, many of them in casts or traction.

The youngsters, some not yet of kindergarten age, cheered the players as the 33rd annual visit was made to the hospital.

STRIKES AND SPARES

By Joe Wilman

There are two types of special grips in bowling balls:

1. Those drilled right into the ball itself such as the Ned Day Grip or Chuck Collier Grip.

2. Those cork or rubber grips which are inserted into the thumb and or finger holes such as the Ace Mitchell Shur-Hooks or the Steve Nagy Grips.

Both these types can definitely help some bowlers. Both can also hurt some bowlers. That's why I recommend having a qualified instructor prescribe what type of grip is best for you if any grip is needed at all.

Sometimes, because of faulty measuring, you have a grip drilled into your ball which actually hurts your game. It might put your fingers in an awkward position or cramp them.

East-West Gridders in Two-a-Day Drills

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Football players of the East and West knuckled down to two-a-day drills today after their inspirational visit to the Shrine crippled children's hospital here.

"That's the most heartwarming thing I've ever seen," declared the East's head coach Rip Engle of Penn State as the husky players mingled with the eager young patients, many of them in casts or traction.

The youngsters, some not yet of kindergarten age, cheered the players as the 33rd annual visit was made to the hospital.

Spartan Boxer Turns Pro

CHICAGO (AP)—Michigan State University's lightweight boxing star, Bob Jemilo, 22, has turned professional, a week after his graduation.

Jemilo signed a contract yesterday with Chicago fight manager Bernie Glickman.

Jemilo had a 40-10-2 record in collegiate boxing and placed third in this year's National Collegiate Athletic Assn. boxing tourney.

Glickman, who pilots such fighters as Bobby Boyd and Bob Satterfield, said Jemilo may make his first pro start next month. Jemilo has an army commission as second lieutenant and must report for service next June.

Jemilo said he plans to return to college for a master's degree.

Capac in First Win

A third period rally that wiped out a 20-16 halftime edge for New Haven, last night was the springboard from which Capac High went on to win its first Southern Thumb loop game of the year 44-36.

Capac's John Kersten, with 19 points, led the scoring. New Haven was paced by Keith Griffin with 12 and Bob Kjarraumgard with 11.

Host Capac held a 35-29 edge going into the finale, and maintained its margin rest of the way.

Hollywood's $64,000 Question

Bacall to Marry Sinatra?

By LEE BELSER

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Lauren Bacall and Frank Sinatra are the most talked-about romantic duo in Hollywood. But the question is: will they get hitched?

Movietown is about equally divided on the $64,000 question. Half say "yes" and half say "no." Some voice violent dismissal of the very idea, others believe the splicing will occur momentarily.

FRIEND OF BOGART

"Frank wouldn't marry Bacall," one pal said recently. "If she were the last woman on earth because he was such a close friend of Bogey's. He thinks she's a great gal, but he always thinks of her as his best friend's wife!"

Following Humphrey Bogart's death from throat cancer last January, Lauren refused to budge from her Hollywood mansion for weeks after the funeral. She and Bogey had been married for 13 years.

It was Sinatra, finally, who coaxed her out of her self-inflicted "retirement" and urged her back into the glamorous Hollywood spotlight.

She began going to a few private parties then, gradually, she began appearing in restaurants and at film premieres with Sinatra as her devoted companion.

But when you ask her if she and Frankie Boy are planning a walk to the altar, she merely shrugs and says, "That's crazy," or "That's the maddest!" or "Can you deduce what you please from that. Later, Sinatra was quoted as saying, 'We're not ready for marriage yet.'"

Then there are the wags who say, "Bacall will never marry Sinatra. She's waiting for Alvin Stevenson!" (She and Bogart supported the Stevenson-for-president campaign.)

MOVED OUT
Regardless of how she may feel about the sidmy-legged crooner, the actress a month ago picked up her two children, Leslie and Stephan Bogart, and moved out of the house she shared with Bogey for so many years.

"I don't want to forget the past or any part of it," she said. "But I think it would be easier for all of us to begin a new life in different surroundings."

Recently, she has been seen often with Sinatra and with no one else, but she visited him only once on the set of his new picture, "The Kings Go Forth." And she didn't visit him at all when he was on location with the picture in Carmel, Calif.

"But that doesn't mean anything," a friend exclaimed. "She has real big eyes for that guy. I think they'll be married before the year is out."

But another pal cut in: "They'll never do it. It's only a publicity stunt!"

People Fly North Now to Find Warm Weather

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The wife and I flew north to get warm. The whole Caribbean was colder than a subway rider's super. About the only sunshine in Havana was on the travel folders and some of California origin seen on the movie screen. We flew back by way of Miami and Palm Beach where everybody was using a four-letter word to describe the weather. It was "Brrrr!"

A Miami paper had a picture of a boy holding up an object, saying: "Mommy, what's this?" What it was, was an icicle.

sunshine to shoot craps, and, anyway, who ever goes outdoors? Besides, girls like Tybee Afra, the dancer, and Anita Ellis, the singer, heated up the atmosphere.

Havana remains my favorite touring spot — even seeing Cuba in an overcoat isn't bad.

Ernest Hemingway told us with a restrained shiver that he'd only seen it twice like this in Cuba — once in '39, when he had to wrap up in blankets in his own house. "I was writing 'To Have and Have Not' then," he said, "and that's how I could write those snow scenes so realistically here in Cuba."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...
The Freddie Marches'll take "Long Day's Journey" to London in '58... The McGuire Sisters report this is their biggest year; they'll gross $600,000... The weather wrecked B'way biz; for the first time brokers had to "eat" "Auntie Mame" tickets... Sal Mineo and Anna Maria Alberghetti—reported nearly wed once—met for the first time last week.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's easy to spot a hypochondriac. He's the guy who gives his friends gift certificates to the Mayo Bros. clinic. That's earl, brother.

Final Draft Due in Days
Pipeline Report Coming

The final, detailed report on the Southeastern Michigan Water Authority's proposed Lake Huron pipeline is expected by the end of the week, authority chairman Howard K. Kelley said today.

The $116,000 study was conducted by the Bechtel Corp., a San Francisco firm acting as the authority's engineer consultants.

The full report is expected to expand on a preliminary draft made public two months ago. At that time, engineers predicted the project was feasible from both an engineering and an economic standpoint.

The project could take care of all the water needs in north Oakland and Macomb Counties for years to come at rates favorable with Detroit's, or better, Kelley said.

Kelley said the task now facing the authority is that of selling the pipeline to water-hungry communities. He said he will seek contracts with individual communities for service beginning as early as 1961.

The report also will be used to obtain backing by bonding companies, Kelley said.

The authority expects to hire a finance consultant and bond counsel in the near future, he said.

Justice Edwards to Be '59 Candidate

DETROIT (AP)—George Edwards, a Michigan Supreme Court justice, told a testimonial dinner in his honor here last night that he will be a candidate to succeed himself in 1959.

"That's really more warning than you're accustomed to," Edwards said. He added: "I intend to remain in elective public service as long as the people want me. I am tremendously honored and somewhat awed by being a member of the Supreme Court of Michigan."

"I have every intention of doing my utmost to regain for that court distinction as one of the leading courts of final jurisdiction in the United States."

Edwards was appointed to the Supreme Court in June 1956 by Gov. G. Meinen Williams.

The testimonial dinner for Edwards was arranged by 13th Congressional District Democrats.

Pakistan's Noon Has Tough Job

New Prime Minister Must Attempt to Hold Coalition Together

KARACHI (AP)—Malik Feroz Khan Noon, Pakistan's new prime minister, will need his reputation for honesty as he tries to hold together a six-party coalition government until national elections late next year.

He also has a sense of humor and an ability to get people to work together. He occasionally makes "foot in mouth" statements. He was formerly foreign minister.

Noon's public career began 20 years before the creation of Pakistan when the British still ruled India.

His ability brought him a knighthood.

Along with many others entitled to use "sir" before their names, he rejected the title in the days of bitter agitation against British rule.

Noon has two wives. His first, a Pakistani about his own age, remains in Noon's native village, where he is a big landlord. They have five children.

Wife No. 2, substantially younger than Noon, was his secretary for some time.

Noon is 64 and six feet tall. He enjoys riding and in earlier days liked to hunt. His main hobby now is reading history and other fiction. He has a special fondness for Esquire magazine.

A lawyer, he has been in public service virtually every day of the last 30 years.

Doctor Urges Measles Parties for U.S. Women

NEW YORK (AP)—Young American women should take a cue from their British cousins and stage measles parties, says the Nassau County health commissioner.

In an article in a county publication, Dr. Earle G. Brown wrote that German measles have been found to cause deformities in babies if mothers have the disease during the first three months of pregnancy.

The commissioner suggested, therefore, that young women with measles who are not pregnant invite their friends in the hope they will contact the disease and get it over with. These parties, he wrote, are a current London fad.

Can Carry H-Bombs

Shirley Temple Reflects on Her Golden Childhood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What does Shirley Temple remember of her golden childhood?

A few cruelties, but mostly a wonderful life of continual make-believe.

She reflected on her early days as she sipped a soft drink in the Brown Derby after a day of preparation for her new TV show. Her memories go back to when she was barely 2½, she said.

"No, I don't think it's because my mother has told me things that happened," she remarked. "My earliest memories were of the Baby Burlesque series (1932) when the director wouldn't let the mothers on the set."

"He wasn't a very nice man. I can remember a short we did about Tarzan, in which I played Jane. He had a boy and me sit on an ostrich which had been hooded. Then he removed the hood while the camera was rolling and the ostrich ran. I was very scared."

After that, she did a series as the sister of Junior Coughlin, then was discovered by Fox. She recalled attending a preview of one of her shorts. She and her parents were accosted by a gang writer in the lobby. She auditioned in a music bungalow, singing "The Green Grass Grew All Around." Studio boss Winfield Sheehan put her in a musical number with James Dunn in "Stand Up and Cheer," then signed her to a contract.

"But for some reason, he put me into bit parts only," she said. "Paramount wanted me for 'Little Miss Marker,' but Mr. Sheehan wouldn't let me go. Paramount waited until he gave in."

"Little Miss Marker" made her a star. She did another film at Paramount, "Now and Forever," then returned to Fox to headline a series of films that established her as the No. 1 draw at the box office.

Nearly every film called for a crying scene, and legends grew up as to how it was accomplished. Recently it was printed that her mother spanked her to induce tears.

"Utterly untrue," she said. "All I had to do was go in a corner with my mother and concentrate. I didn't even think of anything sad. Pretty soon the tears would come, and my mother would cry too, out of sympathy."

"I can still do it today. My family didn't believe it, so I proved it to them at breakfast the other day."

"One director didn't know I could do it. He sent my mother off the set on an errand and then told me she had been horribly hurt in an auto crash.

Under David Selznick's direction, her career continued to thrive as an adult. Then Cupid intervened.

"In 1950, David suggested that I go to Italy for two years, change my name and start a new career as a serious actress," she recalled. "I said I would think about it on a trip I was taking to Hawaii. But on the trip I met Charlie (Black, her husband.)"

Does she have any regrets about her life?

"None that would make good reading in a story," she said obliquely.

I mentioned there was only one I could suggest.

"Yes, but Linda Susan is such a wonderful girl," she said, referring to her daughter by her first, ill-fated marriage to John Agar.

Teacher Shortage Brings Rule Change

KALAMAZOO 18 — A shortage of substitute teachers has forced the Kalamazoo Board of Education to liberalize its policy on maternity leave for teachers and other female employees of the school system.

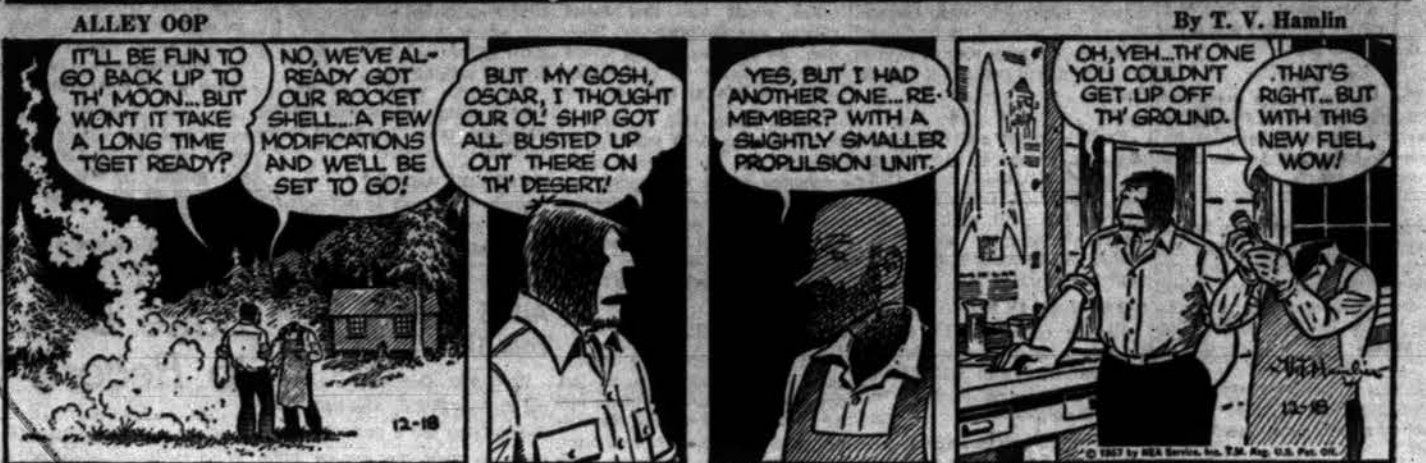

Formerly expectant mothers could work only until the fifth month of their pregnancy and could not return to work until a year after the child was born.

The new rules allow an expectant mother to work until the seventh month and to return to work three months after the baby is born, if her physician approves.

Dr. Richard Percy, director of school personnel, said that 450 of the city's 600 teachers are women. About one or two a week have been applying for maternity leave, he said.

Denver Voters Reject New Tax

Turn Down Proposed City Levy on Incomes by 5 to 4 Margin

DENVER (AP)—More than 100,000 Denver residents—the most ever to vote in a special city election—yesterday turned down a proposed city income tax by a margin of 5 to 4.

The unofficial vote in the 429 precincts was 57,775 against the tax and 46,114 for it.

If it had passed, Denver would have become the first American city to have five tax levels above property levies, counting the state and U. S. income taxes and city and state sales taxes.

Mayor Will F. Nicholson, a Republican, proposed the tax. It would have taken half of 1 percent of the first $5,000 of income, with the first $1,000 exempted for heads of families, and 1 percent of all income above $5,000.

Written to last three years, it would have affected incomes of all persons employed in Denver, including those living in suburban communities.

Nicholson said it was necessary to provide many city services.

Placed Soviets Third

PALEO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Hans Bethe Cornell, one of the world's top atomic physicists, places the Russians no better than third in nuclear physics. The Cornell University expert told a press conference America is way ahead of every other country and the British are second. However, Dr. Bethe described the race as close.

Dogs Taken to Movies

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Metropolitan theater went to the dogs at a premier. The movie was Walt Disney's "Old Yeller," a story about a dog. The only way humans could see it was to bring a dog.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

It requires an investment of not less than $3,000 to create a job for an average worker in an industrial plant.

Well, there's a scar on Jim's

The show has been second to "I Love Lucy" in what Madison Avenue calls the "captive audience" league and Graves, the star, says, "I expect it will go on forever."

PLEASANT FELLOW

But I really started out to tell you about this pleasant Graves fellow, who is 32 and who looks so much like Joel McCrea he played Joel's brother in the movie, "Wichita." Actually he's the brother of another TV Western star.

Know that big guy Jim Arness, who plays Matt Dillon on "Gunsmoke"?

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Well, at least one TV Western series, dedicated to home-sweet-home-on-the-range entertainment, is still being filmed for the kiddies who lost their seats with the arrival of the "adult Western."

After two highly successful years the show is proof, too, that even kids are bored with wholesale shooting, violence and "Let's head 'em off at the pass" riding.

The show is "Fury," on NBC-TV every Saturday at 11 a.m., and the stars are a horse named Fury, a youngster named Bobby Diamond and a handsome young blond actor named Peter Graves.

There hasn't been a fast draw or a busted saloon mirror in a wagonload of "Fury" films. Just nice, easy, quiet outdoor stories, usually with a moral. "Fury," in fact, is sort of a "Lassie" with a horse instead of a dog.

left leg. Peter Graves put it there. Plucked him off with an arrow when they were playing cowboys and Indians back in Minneapolis 20 years ago.

Their names were Jim and Peter Arness then and they were the sons of a Minneapolis salesman for a surgical instrument firm.

Jim's leg wound didn't require the use of any of Pop's surgical instruments but the brother vs. brother encounter in the "Western wilds" of Minneapolis cast a shadow of things to come two decades later in Hollywood, with both lads starring in TV Western shows.

PICK NEW NAMES

Jim was the first to strike gold in the TV West and the first to change his name from Arness to Arness. Peter followed him to Hollywood and, not wanting to be known as Jim's little brother—even though he's 6 feet 3 inches—he picked Graves for his last name.

Both had a tough time of it when they first arrived here. Until "Gunsmoke" came along, Jim was selling real estate and insurance to keep the wolf from the door after playing small roles in two movies.

After radio announcing in Minneapolis and studying drama at University of Minnesota, Peter hopped a train for Movietown, too. The year was 1931 and Hollywood was worried about becoming a ghost town with New York, and its live TV, capturing the nation's fancy.

Peter wasn't aware of the situation but his Pullman porter was. And he told him so when he discovered Peter was headed West for a film career.

"Boss," said the porter in a Rochester growl, "how come y'all is goin' West? All the actors are goin' East these days."

BECAME CABBIE

The young full-of-fire college grad thought little of it until he made the casting office rounds in Hollywood, talked to older brother Jim—and wound up driving a Hollywood taxicab.

His college sweetheart, a gal named Joan, didn't seem to mind, though, and they were married. Just in time to meet Lady Luck rushing through their front door.

Peter had been seen on a live LA television show by movie producer Frank Melford, who gave him the co-starring role with Rory Calhoun in "Rogue River."

Other parts followed, including the Nazi spy, "Price," in "Stalg 17."

Tuck cornucopias of ham or turkey slices filled with cold cooked green beans around the edges of a big green salad.

Brighten a bowl of cole slaw with juicy canned cling peach slices.

Mold apples, celery, walnuts and raisins in clear lemon gelatin and serve with mayonnaise.

Combine cooked green beans, whole kernel corn, celery, onion and pimiento with French dressing. Serve in lettuce cups.

Fill chilled cling peach halves with chopped celery, a dash of instant minced onion and mayonnaise.

Pour vinaigrette dressing over sliced avocado on crisp lettuce.

Will Britannia Rule the (Air) Waves?

British Turbo-Prop to Initiate Service

LONDON (INS) — Britain starts tomorrow transatlantic scheduled passenger services with the long-range Bristol Britannia "Whispering Giant" turbo-prop airliner.

The first flight will be between London and New York.

A few days later Israeli airlines El Al will start a similar service with Britannias. Already an El Al Britannia has flown the Atlantic in eight hours and three minutes, which is 23 minutes less than the previous fastest crossing by an airliner.

This will be the first regular commercial service on the transatlantic haul by a British-built aircraft. The Britannia will also be the first turbo-prop powered airliner to operate commercial services on the route.

BOAC's decision means that its technical experts and engineers are now confident that the long-range Britannia's motors are cured of the icing and other troubles which have delayed the start of this service.

The service will be once weekly in each direction—westbound during daylight hours, and eastbound during the night. The aircraft will have accommodations for 32 passengers—26 in deluxe sleeper seats and 26 in first-class seats. All flights are scheduled to be non-stop.

Scheduled time from London to New York will be 12 hours. From New York to London, it will be 9 hours 50 minutes. After the initial flight service will depart from London on Fridays and New York on Sundays.

The Britannia will be the only turbo-prop aircraft on the tough Atlantic haul until the American 707's start operations in the middle of 1959.

First 'Missile Airmen' Complete Training

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (AP) — The first class of U.S. "missile airmen," trained to fire intercontinental guided missiles, has been graduated.

Of the 105 class members, most are officers and men who will be assigned to the Strategic Air Command's first operational long-range missile squadron. Class members were trained at Northrop Aircraft, Inc., manufacturer of the 5,000-mile-range Snark guided missile.

Koreans Appealing for Students' Return

SEOUL (AP) — The South Korean government is appealing to Korean students abroad to return home upon completion of studies to help in the nation's reconstruction.

Emphasizing the nation's need for scientific experts, a statement urged all Korean students now abroad to consider their grave responsibilities.

The government appeal was prompted by statistics showing only 9 per cent of students who left the country in the past seven years have so far returned home. Of 4,381 students, including 1,644 girls, who went abroad, only 401 came back.

The vast majority of Korean students go to the United States.

Leads in Berry Output

ATLANTA — Strawberries were first grown commercially in the Southern states shortly after the Civil War. The greatest development has come in recent years in California, where 45 per cent of the nation's strawberry crop is now produced. Strawberries are grown in commercial quantities in 39 states.

His Wrong Turn Delivering Drugs Saves Tot's Life

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP) — A drugstore delivery boy made a wrong turn and saved a 2½-year old girl from drowning.

The girl, Patricia Bunnell, fell into a water-filled excavation ditch while playing with her brother and sister.

Shouts of the children attracted the attention of Edward C. Citterick, 20, as he approached in his delivery vehicle. He pulled her out.

Citterick said he meant to turn down another street.
