4 GOP Tax Votes Hinge on Election

LANSING (AP) — House Republican leaders apparently can pick up at least four crucial tax votes by agreeing not to collect a state income levy unless the people approve it in a special election this fall.

★ ★ ★

Four of the six maverick Republicans who have previously refused to vote for the House GOP tax package said last night they would support it if it contained the referendum petition. The other two said they were thinking it over.

If the self-styled "Little Six" add their votes to the 50 already thought to be in hand, the House Republican package — with its 2½ per cent personal income tax — could pass without Democratic help.

A vote could come as early as today if Republican leaders accept the referendum proposal and decide it can attract the needed 56 votes.

Expected to weigh against the idea was the fear that if voters reject the income tax in September — after lawmakers have passed the billion-dollar budget expected in fiscal 1967-68 — it could leave the state in serious financial trouble.

The popular-vote scheme emerged yesterday as five of the six reluctant Republicans met with either Gov. George Romney or his aides.

Romney was described as not enthusiastic about the proposal. However, he reportedly did not reject it.

The four Republican holdouts who said they would vote for the package if it contained a referendum provision were Reps. Lionel Stacey of Benton Harbor, Edson Root of Bangor, Robert Stites of Anitou Beach and Donald Holbrook of Clare.

Rep. Frederic Marshall of Allen said he and Rep. Don Pears of Buchanan were "thinking it over" and might not make up their minds for "another day or two."

"We haven't said yes," Marshall told newsmen, "and we certainly haven't said no."

Detroit Police Call In Sick

DETROIT (AP) — A rash of policemen's sick call-ins cut into the strength of the Detroit Police Department today in the wake of a crackdown by top brass on a slowdown in traffic ticket writing by officers.

★ ★ ★

Forty-two ordered off motorcycle and scout car duty and placed on foot beats by Commissioner Ray Girardin because of an 80 per cent fall-off in ticket-writing since the slowdown began May 17.

The sick call-ins from policemen began last night on the heels of Girardin's order and continued today.

Girardin made no immediate comment.

A subordinate in the commissioner's office reported in mid-morning, however, that the sick call-ins were running "above normal."

'170 CALLED IN SICK'

The Detroit Police Officers Association, policemen's union, said 170 men called in sick, including 123 on the day shift today and 47 on the night shift.

Carl Parsell, 43, veteran patrolman and union president, accused Girardin of a "pressure tactic" in placing the 42 men on beat duty.

He termed the situation "quite serious."

The police boss reportedly was preparing to bring allegedly offending officers before a police trial board on charges of neglect of duty.

Girardin, supported by Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, said he disciplined the traffic policemen because they had failed to enforce the traffic laws.

"Since they have not been doing their duty, I felt it only right that they be placed in assignments where they will," he said.

Detroit's police force has 4,000 men.

The 42 disciplined officers were removed from duty in the Motor Traffic Bureau and the Accident Prevention Bureau.

Mayor Cavanagh ordered city doctors examine policemen reporting ill and said if any man was found not to be ill Girardin would "take the necessary action, including suspension."

The policemen's union said it did not support the ticket writing slowdown.

However, Parsell said the union felt officers had the right to use their own discretion.

The police union has been demanding more pay for officers. Cavanagh says the city budget does not permit this.

955 Graduate at Three High Schools

List of Graduates, Page C-6

Dr. Lewis Norris, president of Albion College, addressed 499 Pontiac Northern graduates in the school gymnasium. His speech was entitled "Your Eureka Moments."

Monroe M. Osmun, president of the Pontiac Board of Education, introduced the speakers.

Also addressing the class and spectators was Ronald Fritz, class president. Principal Philip J. Wargelin presented the class awards. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of Pontiac schools, awarded diplomas to day and night school graduates.

F. W. Bennetts, assistant director of public relations for Oldsmobile Corp., Lansing, spoke to Waterford Township High School graduates on "Where Do You Go From Here?"

COVALEDICTORIANS

Some 440 students, including 36 in adult education courses earned diplomas.

Brent Barnes and Linda Yonke, covaledictorians, and Michael McGinty, class president, also spoke.

Diplomas were awarded by Robert E. Field, president of the Waterford Township Board of Education, whose daughter Joann graduated with the class of '67.

★ ★ ★

Mothers of two graduating seniors earned diplomas with their sons. They are Mrs. Edward Webster and son Terry and Mrs. Roger A. Kidwell and son Steven.

271 Cong Killed by Yanks, S.Viets

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. and South Vietnamese forces, seeking out Vietcong troops within 90 miles of Saigon, claimed today they killed 271 Communists in two major battles which broke a two-week lull in the ground war.

★ ★ ★

Units of South Vietnam's crack 21st Infantry Division reported 211 killed in a Vietcong battalion they had been tracking for months deep in the Mekong Delta. They said their own casualties were "extremely light."

U. S. Command said 60 Vietcong and seven American infantrymen were killed and 19 Americans were wounded in war zone D 47 miles northeast of Saigon.

The renewal of larger scale ground fighting coincided with the announcement that U. S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara would make his ninth trip to Vietnam next week.

Violence Rips Two Ohio Cities

By The Associated Press

A white teen-ager was shot by Negroes in a passing car although racial rioting was eased generally last night in Cincinnati, Ohio. Violence hit another Ohio city after a Negro leader promised "to make white men get on their knees."

Cincinnati police said James Shirk, 15, was shot and was in poor condition at a hospital.

Fire bombs were used in several places, police said, and unruly crowds formed, then dispersed as cruisers and National Guard jeeps raced to the scene.

Police said 70 persons were arrested in spots as far as 11 miles apart although trouble calls came at a slower rate than the previous night and reports of injuries were fewer.

Meanwhile, vandalism, at least two arson fires and window breaking cropped up in Dayton, Ohio, where three white persons were beaten when pulled from their cars.

FOLLOWED MEETING

The violence followed a militant civil rights meeting where H. Rap Brown, who recently replaced Stokely Carmichael as head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, asked Negroes "how can you be nonviolent in America, the most violent country in the world?"

U.N. Session Likely on Israeli Pullback

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N General Assembly probably will begin an emergency session this weekend to debate a Soviet demand that Israel withdraw from the Arab territory it conquered.

Secretary General U Thant began polling the 122 U.N. members on the Soviet request for the session after the Security Council refused yesterday to approve a Soviet resolution condemning Israel's "continued occupation" of Egyptian, Jordanian and Syrian territory taken in the war last week.

The Russians wanted the council also to demand that Israeli troops pull back to the lines they held before fighting began June 5.

Thant must call the assembly session within 24 hours after receiving affirmative responses from a majority of the members — 62 nations. Diplomats generally believed that a majority would agree by tomorrow and that the session would begin Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Speculation continued that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin would attend the session. Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in his letter requesting the meeting said the Soviet delegation would include "leading statesmen of the Soviet Union," and AP Correspondent Henry S. Bradsher reported from Moscow that Kosygin was likely to be among them.

★ ★ ★

The Soviet Union based its call for the emergency session on the "Uniting for Peace" resolution which the United States pushed through the assembly in 1950 to circumvent the Soviet veto in the Security Council.

The procedure permits assembly action on a threat to peace when the Security Council is paralyzed by lack of unanimity among the big powers. The Russians in the past called the procedure illegal.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg told the Security Council during its debate yesterday that his government was "not interested in maneuvers" such as the Soviet move to the assembly but rather wanted to work in the council for real peace in the Middle East.

Palmer Falters at U.S. Open

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Pretourney favorite Arnold Palmer struggled and scrambled over the first nine holes in the opening round of the United States Open Golf Championship today, made the turn one over par and let a rookie pro and an amateur provide the early excitement.

★ ★ ★

Palmer, who was listed as the favorite until Jack Nicklaus blasted out a spectacular 62 in his last practice round, had bogeys on the first and ninth holes, and a birdie 3 on No. 8.

He was one of the early starters in this 67th National Open over the 7,015-yard, par 70 Baltusrol Golf Club course.

Gary Player, the little South African who won in 1965, was even par after seven, with one bogey and one birdie.

★ ★ ★

Deane Beman, a two-time U.S. Amateur champion who recently turned pro, and his replacement on the U.S. Walker Cup team, Marty Fleckman, were the early leaders.

EAGLE ON FIRST

Beman holed a No. 4 wood shot from 220 yards out for an eagle 2 on the first hole.

He matched bogeys on the sixth and 11th holes with birdies on the 10th and 12th to remain two under.

Fleckman reeled off a string of three straight birdies on the second, third and fourth holes, before taking a bogey on the seventh.

★ ★ ★

He got that back with a birdie on 11 and was again three under par.

Nicklaus and defending champion Billy Casper were among the late starters in the field of 150.

Bill Restricting Police Unionism Is Kept Alive

LANSING (AP) — House Republicans overcame an afternoon defeat and a freewheeling desk-pounding evening filibuster Wednesday and kept alive a bill forbidding policemen to affiliate with unions not restricted to public employes.

First ruling Democratic opponents of the bill out of order then ignoring their chorus of angry shouts, Speaker Robert Waldron forced a vote on the controversial labor measure just minutes before the midnight deadline for passage of most bills this session.

The wild hour of filibusters, specious amendments, procedural squabbles and other time-consuming maneuvers came after the House thought it had cleared its calendar of Senate bills.

Members were putting their coats on and getting ready to adjourn when GOP Floor Leader William Hampton, in a surprise move, forced reconsideration of the bill. It had been defeated 55-49 earlier when three Republicans refused to vote for it.

ROLL OVER OBJECTIONS

With the three—Edgar Geerlings of Muskegon, Gustave Groat of Battle Creek and newcomer Anthony Licata of Detroit—back in line, Hampton's Republican machine rolled over Democrats' objections and sent the bill to the House Appropriations Committee.

That procedural step means the bill can still be passed, since Republicans can report it back to the floor and call it an appropriations bill. That would allow them to act on the bill despite the midnight deadline which otherwise would have killed it.

* * *

As approved by the Senate, the measure would have limited policemen and deputies to unions which represent only them and public safety and federal civil service employes.

The House amended the bill to allow affiliation with unions representing any county, state or federal employes — but it still would forbid joining a union which represents workers in private industry.

Two Michigan communities would be immediately affected by the bill. In Escanaba, police are Teamsters Union members, and in Alpena—home town of Republican Rep. Joseph Swallow, chairman of the House Labor Committee — policemen are affiliated with the Stoneworkers Union.

Lansing Has Clash Again

LANSING (UPI) — Gangs of rock-throwing Negro youths clashed with police on the city's south and west sides early today.

Two policemen and a woman were injured. There were two arrests.

About 40 policemen patrolled the areas searching for groups of youths who darted from dark side streets, hurling rocks at passing cars.

One woman was injured when she was hit by a "thrown object" while riding in a car in the troubled area, police siad.

OU, OCC Get Library Grants

U. S. Rep. Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District, today announced that the Office of Education has approved four grants totaling $23,272 for purchase of books and library supplies at Oakland University and Oakland Community College.

Under Title II of the Higher Education Act, two grants totaling $17,924 were made to the university and two grants totaling $5,348 were approved for the community college, McDonald said.

Loan Extensions Will Allow AMC to Launch Its '68s

CHICAGO (AP) — Troubled American Motors Corp. will be granted an extension of its multimillion dollar loan so the auto company can launch its sporty 1968 product line.

Board Chairman Roy D. Chapin Jr. indicated in Chicago Wednesday that AMC had reached an understanding with bankers that would allow the loans to be extended.

American Motors originally owed 24 banks some $95 million, but that debt has been reduced through the sale of the auto firm's finance subsidiary, Redisco Inc., to Chrysler Corp. Chapin said most of the proceeds from the Rediscо sale, estimated at $30 million, were applied to the short-term loans.

Firemen Pay Up $800 Yearly

BIRMINGHAM — Firemen gained an approximate $800-per-year pay boost plus substantial fringe benefit increases in a contract approved by the City Commission.

The firefighters association, in their second contract with the city, boosted their maximum pay from $7,704 to $8,435. Officers' pay was also increased with lieutenants getting $9,264 and captians $9,684.

Longevity bonuses were increased proportionately. They are five years, $169 or 2 per cent of salary; 10 years, $377 or 4 per cent; 15 years, $506 or 6 per cent; 20 years, $675 or 8 per cent; 25 years, $843 or 10 per cent.

This would put maximum pay with longevity at $9,880 for an ordinary fireman under the present agreement.

The fire fighters are entitled to reopen wage talks in one year.

* * *

In addition, the firemen gained increased hospitalization benefits which has the city paying 75 per cent instead of 50 per cent for protection.

Figures on the total cost to the city were not available. City manager Robert S. Kenning and George Rickey, personnel manager, bargained for the city.

The pact is effective July 1.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The police department has been hounded by complaints of roaming dogs and a door-to-door campaign to enforce the city ordinance is under way, police announced.

Man Robbed by 2 Women

An Orion Township man was robbed at gunpoint by two women in the parking lot of a bar on Franklin Road, it was reported to Pontiac police early today.

Donald Davenport, 29, of 72 S. Eagan told officers he was sitting in his car about 2 a.m. when the women approached and one brandished a small black pistol.

They took $28 in cash and a $70 check, then fled on foot, he said.

County Okays Loan for Two Land-Fill Pits

A $200,000 loan to the Oakland County Road Commission for the development of two land-fill pits for garbage and rubbish disposal was authorized today by the ways and means committee of the County Board of Supervisors.

The pits in Commerce and Pontiac townships would serve most of the county not presently serviced by a municipally operated land-fill or incinerator.

Both pit sites are owned by the road commission. The 45-acre Commerce Township site is at Sleeth and Benstein, and the 55-acre Pontiac Township site is at Bald Mountain and Dutton roads.

Proposed by the road commission as an emergency procedure, the land-fill operation will be implemented within 30 days, at the Commerce Township site, and within three months at the Pontiac Township location.

* * *

The loan approval came at a joint meeting of the ways and means, drain and roads committees of the supervisors. The action does not infringe upon the supervisors' prior designation of the county drain commissioner as official agent conducting a comprehensive garbage and rubbish disposal study.

$90,000 Paid in Ether Death

A $90,000 out-of-court settlement was reached this morning in connection with the accidental death of a young Pontiac mother at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital in November 1965.

Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer approved the settlement for Gerald Covington, 436 Roland, and his two children. Each is to receive an equal share.

Covington's wife, Lurea, 24, was one of three patients at the hospital who died after being given an injection of ether from a bottle believed to have contained another anesthetic, Surital.

The other victims were Kimberly Ann Bruneel, 8 of West Bloomfield Township, and Michael Ketchum, 12, of Ferndale.

Lawsuits started by both their families also were settled out of court, with the Bruneels receiving $35,000 and the Ketchums, $30,000.

Covington's attorney, George Fulkerson of Birmingham, filed suit against the hospital and several staff members in February 1966, asking $1.25 million in compensatory and punitive damages.

Meeting Slated on Avon Sewer

Monies Collected Will Start Project

AVON TOWNSHIP — A meeting has been set here for 9:30 a.m. Monday to collect monies which will get the township's Sargent Creek Sewer construction and the first phase of its water system under way.

Developers located in the affected areas are expected to contribute towards the estimated $161,000 cost of engineering the projects. The balance will have to be met by the township's general fund, according to Mrs. Thelma Spencer, clerk.

The Township Board meeting recently resolved that the property owners advancing funds for the project will enjoy a priority towards use of the capacity in the existing MSUO treatment plan "in direct relationship to the amount of money advanced."

The Sargent Creek Arm, given top priority with the idea of completion by July 1969, runs north from the city of Rochester along Paint Creek to Tienken Road. It would be ready to tie in with the proposed Clinton-Oakland Interceptor once the countywide project is constructed.

★ ★ ★

FIRST PHASE

The first phase of the water program is somewhat extended, including also the subdivisions of Brabach Orchards, Rochester Knolls, Avon Heights, Stratford Knolls, Christian Hills, Glydwell, Sunnydale Garden, Homestead Acres and South Boulevard Gardens.

Mrs. Spencer, said 651 existing homes and 532 platted vacant lots would be served by the proposed sewer arm. She said 1,315 homes and 2,232 platted lots would benefit from the water plans.

People with corrected vision of 20-200 or worse are considered legally blind. There are 42,000 such persons in the U.S.

SCHOOL'S OUT — Summer vacation is here as you can tell by the look on Doug Walls' face as he hangs gleefully out the window of Decker Elementary School, Walled Lake. School ended for the summer yesterday in Walled Lake. A second grader, Doug lives at 1678 Ashton, Walled Lake.

Holly Plans New Vote on Millage for Schools

HOLLY — The school district will try again for new millage. after a 10-mill proposal was defeated earlier this week, it was decided last night.

The new election will be sometime late in July.

The millage question lost by less than 50 votes, 377-328.

The district was seeking an actual 3-mill increase in taxation with renewal of a 7-mill levy due to expire.

The money, about $100,000 was quested to: add 10 teachers; pay higher and "more competitive" salaries; buy books and supplies; and support a higher student population.

'STAYED HOME'

Robert Brummeler, board president who was reelected in Monday's election, said he felt "too many voters stayed home, thinking the millage would pass.

"Those that always vote 'no' made sure they voted," he said. "I'm sure there are at least 50 more persons concerned with education who will show up at the next election."

In other business, the board was advised by its attorney, John Thomas, that district funds could not be spent to join the Council of Governments.

All government bodies in the six-county metropolitan area have been asked to join the group, concerned with centralizing planning and development.

NO ACTION TAKEN

No action on the matter was taken by the Holly board.

A program of training of teachers in sex education was approved. State Department of Health personnel will assist the district next fall, the board announced.

Swimming Lessons Start Soon

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Some 500 youngsters of the township will be able to get free swimming instruction at Oakland University under a township-sponsored program.

Beginning Monday, students in the 9th through 12th grades will attend 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. sessions.

Children in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades will participate in 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. classes and those others who are 54 inches or taller in classes from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The program will continue through Aug. 11.

RED CROSS

Instructors say American Red Cross swimming progressions will be used. All participants will be tested and assigned to skill groups after the first few days.

Family swimming will be permitted from 6 to 8 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays at a minimal charge.

Avon Township Passes Vandalism Ordinance

AVON TOWNSHIP — An ordinance providing penalties of up to $100 and/or 90 days in jail for loitering or vandalism on school property will go into effect here next month.

The Township Board last night adopted the ordinance which becomes effective 30 days after publication.

The measure is expected to curb disturbances created by dropouts loitering around schools while classes are in session as well as affording protection during the summer months.

The ordinance, similar to the one passed by the City of Pontiac, was requested by the Avondale School Board.

★ ★ ★

Supervisor Cyril Miller last night told the board that the boundaries committee will consider a public hearing date on the matter of incorporation of the township at its session tomorrow morning.

OFFERED DATE

He said an offered Oct. 23 date for the public hearing has been rejected.

Petitions received from 70 residents of Eysters Avon Estates, south of Avon, between Livernois and Crooks, resulted in their being deleted from Phase I of the township's sewer and water plans.

Residents contended present wells and septic tanks were adequate.

★ ★ ★

NEW BOUNDARIES

Clerk Thelma Spencer outlined the new boundaries as follows:

What is left of Precinct Nos. 2 and 8 has been combined as No. 2 including the area bounded by Hamlin, Rochester, Mead and Dequindre.

Precinct No. 1 contains that left of the old Precinct No. 1 plus a portion of No. 3 including the area bounded by Rochester, South, Livernois and Walton.

★ ★ ★

Precincts 3 and 4 remain with extractions of the city and that encompassed in Precinct No. 1. Precincts No. 5 and 6 remain the same, as do Nos. 9 and 10.

PRECINCT 7

Precinct 7 has been split to include a new Precinct 8 which takes in the area bounded by Dutton, Brewster and Walton.

The board approved rezoning to allow construction of townhouses on Walton between Rochdale and Rochester Knolls subdivisions. Zoning petitions for a gas station adjacent to the proposed M59 freeway at Nawakwa and for a mobile home park on 55 acres in Section 13 were tabled for further study.

Highland Sets Millage Vote to Renew Fire Station Levy

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — Township voters will be asked Sept. 12 to renew a 1-mill tax levy to build and equip a new fire station.

The new building would increase the number of fire stations in the township to three.

There is one located on Livingston Street and one on Duck Lake Road.

Township Supervisor Louis Oldenburg said the new one, if approved, would be placed near the township hall on John Street.

Oldenburg said the 1-mill will raise about $20,000. The township currently levies 2 mills for roads plus .77 of a mill allocated from the county.

The vote was set for September, Oldenburg said, so that residents would be more likely to be back from their summer vacations.

CLARKSTON — Two women have been commissioned as cadet officers in the Clarkston Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

Karen Hawkins of 6457 Snowapple and Cathy Witherup of 6723 Chickadee were given the rank of cadet 2nd lieutenants.

Promotion to master sergeant and a certificate of proficiency was awarded Timothy Morris of Pontiac.

The first cadet to complete flight training in the squadron T. Sgt. Pete Worden of 237 Hurondale, White Lake Township, recently earned his private pilot's license.

Township to Explain Pollution Steps

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The township has been requested to appear before the State Water Resources Commission in Lansing on June 29 to outline steps taken for the elimination of pollution in regard to the Clinton River.

The Township Board voted Monday night to make renewed efforts to obtain federal help on the costs of engineering sewage laterals which would hook up with the proposed Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor.

Construction on the latter is expected to start in May 1968.

Land Hassle Is Studied

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The City Commission is studying its rôle in a three-way legal hassle over a piece of property in the city.

The land concerned is nine acres at Opdyke and Hickory Grove that has on it an old office building and a home.

The legal battle, now 18 months old, is among the original owner, the George A. Bee Co, Oakland Community College (OCC) and nearby property owners.

The adjacent residents fear development other than single-family residential, for which the property is zoned.

They filed a $1-million damage suit against the property owners.

A pretrial date was set for Oakland County Circuit Court on June 21.

However, a tentative agreement was reached between the three parties and presented to the city commission.

City Attorney David Pence said the agreement entailed guarantees that the property would not be further developed.

The attorney claims the city will maintain control of zoning to prohibit further construction, other than that already prescribed.

However, the school claims it is outside city jurisdiction as a state institution, Pence said.

A complication of the issue is that an office was built on the land in the 1940s after a permit for a garage had been granted, city officials said.

After a long hassle, it was agreed to grant the property owner a "variance" for office use.

The city fears what future use the property could be put to. A second lawsuit is pending to enjoin development of the property, Pence said, making the way dispute.

city a fourth party in the three-

However, if the city commission is agreeable to the present tentative agreement, a court battle could be averted and the lawsuit dismissed, Pence said.

The sale of the property to OCC by the George Bee firm depends on the suit.

Orion Township, Lake Orion Discuss Coordinate Planning

ORION TOWNSHIP — A joint meeting last night of the planning commissions of Orion Township and the Village of Lake Orion paved the way for future cooperative efforts in the direction of master planning.

Both the township and the village have filed applications for federal grants to finance master plans under the 701 Planning Program. The two groups agreed last night that it would be to their mutual benefit to coordinate planning efforts.

Village President Wallace C. Crane said, "Let's talk on a reasonable basis. That means the whole of the township, including the village."

He suggested that the best possible plan would aim toward incorporating the entire township as a single governmental unit.

★ ★ ★

There is a definite danger, he said, that if action is not taken soon, the township will divide into a number of separate municipalities, producing needless and costly duplication of services. "This can happen," he said. "It happened to Royal Oak Township."

ADVANTAGES

"If the township and village were joined, as the City of Orion, for example, we would have one group of administrators, one school district, and single police and fire departments. People would derive many more services than they would get with a number of separate cities."

Village Manager John Reineck agreed, saying "I think this should be looked into. It would be cheaper in the long run and would provide better services."

Richard Beer, chairman of the Township Planning Commission, suggested that the two groups should plan further discussions in this direction, with representatives of the district school board in attendance.

★ ★ ★

The suggestion was agreed to although future meeting dates were not set.

What Price Progress?

2 Areas Suffer Growing Pains

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor — Suburban

Advice from previous generations has been that "progress is often painful." How true. Two recent incidents, happening at opposite ends of the county, offer proof.

Latest of the two cases in point occurred in Avon Township.

A meeting, called for at the township's annual meeting in April, was conducted over the manner in which property taxes are determined in the township and subsequently paid by home owners.

A group of self-admitted "disgruntled taxpayers" sought the public airing of the township's method of property assessment, contending assessing was not done on an equitable basis.

★ ★ ★

According to reports, the autopsy on assessments was not entirely conclusive. However, there was one conclusion to the effect that Avon taxpayers are experiencing something akin to progress.

VALUES CLIMBING

More specifically, it was pointed out that real estate values are climbing while the percentage of value to be taxed (the alleged 50 per cent of market value) is also tending upward. And taxing rates are remaining the same to meet governmental budgets also on the upward spiral.

Thus, so far as the taxpayer is concerned, a two-headed monster is created.

Increased land value, of course, is the form progress takes.

★ ★ ★

Meantime, on the other side of the county, the Walled Lake City Council was on the business end of some loud and bitter remarks when they rezoned two parcels of real estate to provide for some projected apartments.

VOCAL ABUSE

Accusations were reportedly hurled by residents who objected to the apartments. The vocal abuse was heaped up. For a time, it was unpleasant for those on the receiving end.

What price progress?

★ ★ ★

The Walled Lake incident is noteworthy in that the city fathers of that community have embarked on an ambitious program to revamp the city's image. An extensive physical revamping is contemplated eventually.

Enough for at Least 480 Weapons Annually

AEC Tells N-Plants' Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Information made public by the Atomic Energy Commission after 25 years of secrecy indicates the AEC's three gaseous diffusion plants are producing enough materials for a minimum of 480 nuclear weapons annually.

An AEC statement Wednesday gave information for the first time on the plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Portsmouth, Ohio; and Paducah, Ky.

The AEC made no specific mention of the number of nuclear weapons that could be produced from high-quality uranium-235 manufactured at the plants. Instead it dwelt on the total output of the plants of a lower-quality uranium-235 used to fuel nuclear power plants.

The total was announced at 2.61 million kilograms at the present rate of production. But an AEC spokesman, in response to a question, indicated this included about 48,000 kilograms of the high-quality uranium-235.

PREVIOUS REPORTS

Previous reports have indicated it requires 2 to 100 kilograms of high-quality uranium-235 to produce an explosive fission.

* * *

Based on that assessment, the plants are producing enough for a minimum of 480 and a maximum of better than 20,000 nuclear weapons each year.

* * *

Using the same figures as a yardstick, AEC figures indicated that at peak production in 1956-57, the plants were producing 82,000 kilograms of the high-quality uranium-235.

The AEC announcement said the information was made public to allow "the nuclear power industry in the United States and other countries to make judgments concerning the adequacy of the commission's three gaseous diffusion plants to meet worldwide nuclear fuel requirements for power reactors."

* * *

The agency said the information was declassified from secret after a determination it would not hurt national security. But the AEC said it will keep secret the details about the gaseous diffusion process itself.

New Home for 2 City Sisters

Two elderly sisters found living in a substandard, bathroomless house in Pontiac's south end last month have settled in a three-room unit in the city's Lakeside Housing project.

* * *

James L. Jackson, relocation officer for Pontiac's department of planning and urban renewal said the sisters are "quite happy" with their new home.

Mrs. Frank Gordon, 82, and Miss Blanche Armstrong, 65, had been living at 418 Howland in a house built in 1928 by Mrs. Gordon's late husband.

The women were somewhat reluctant to leave their old house, R. Clayton Jones, assistant housing director, said, but since moving into their new home seem "well satisfied."

* * *

Their former house had a single cold-water tap on a rear porch and an outside privy. It is believed to be the only house in the city without bathroom plumbing indoors.

TO CONDEMN HOUSE

City Sanitarian Charles A. Cohen said the city will take steps to condemn the house and have it razed. Certain legal steps will have to be taken before condemnation notice can be posted, he said.

The Lakeside unit has a bedroom, living room, bathroom, kitchen with a modern range and refrigerator, a storage space — all on one level — and a fenced-in back yard, Jones said.

It was necessary to find accommodations on the ground level because the elderly sisters are unable to climb stairs.

Rent on the unit is $47 per month.

City Housing Unit Elects Ex-Leader

Karl A. Walter of 990 Argyle, president of the Pontiac Housing Commission from 1954 to 1961, has been again elected to that post by fellow commissioners.

* * *

He succeeds Vernon M. Page of 199 Rockwell who served as president for the past two years.

* * *

Elected vice president was Mrs. Harry F. Killian of 119 Lincoln. She was commission vice president from 1961 to 1963, president from 1963 to 1965.

* * *

Other commission members are Theodore E. Wiersema of 316 West Iroquois and Mrs. Joseph Howard of 18 Gillespie.

U.N. Seen Adrift in Global Current

Regardless of the settlement of the short-lived war in which Israel scored an unexpectedly swift and brilliant victory over a coalition of Arab enemies, the United Nations stands convicted as a fumbling, impotent body incapable of decisive action requisite to forestall hostilities that were plainly imminent.

On the contrary, the organization's secretary general, U THANT, on the demand of Egyptian President NASSER supinely withdrew the 4,000-man U.N. peacekeeping force that had occupied the Gaza Strip and kept the lid on the boiling pot of international hatred. If any one act can be charged with touching off the Middle East powder keg, THANT'S incredible move eminently qualifies.

True, the comparatively insignificant force was of little military consequence, but it represented the prestige of the world organization and hence stood as a strong influence on the side of peace.

Because the organizational structure of the United Nations is weak in many respects, the result of impairing compromise at the time of its formation, a dynamic and resolute secretary general is paramount if U.N. is to fulfill to any extent its vital role of keeper of the world's peace.

The first holder of the office, TRYGVE LIE, was such a leader. So was his successor, the late DAG HAMMARSKJOLD. The incumbent is not.

Vacillation and at times a most inappropriate public position against the global objectives of the United States have characterized THANT — traits which, no doubt, make him especially acceptable to the Kremlin, which his predecessors were not.

Many thoughtful observers see the United Nations at the crossroads of its usefulness if not indeed its existence. Its part in the resolution of the Middle East entanglement is yet to be seen. But recovery of popular respect will depend upon its influence in the establishment of a workable climate in the embattled region and implementation thereafter with meaningful and effective measures.

Among The Walking Wounded!

Drivers Can Help Break the Soaring Auto Thefts

Motorists across the Nation are being asked to help law enforcement officials reduce automobile thefts.

Among the steps drivers can take are removing keys from the ignition and locking doors when parking; using well-lighted and well-traveled parking areas when possible; and putting items worth stealing—such as clothing and cameras — out of sight in car trunks.

Nearly a score of national organizations are cooperating with the U. S. Department of Justice in a National Auto Theft Prevention Campaign to combat the appalling prevalence of auto thievery.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation reports that car thefts have more than doubled since 1955. Of the more than 500,000 cars stolen in 1966, about 80 per cent were unlocked. Four out of 10 had the key in the ignition.

Of the persons arrested last year for car theft, 88 per cent were under 25 years of age, and more than 50 per cent were under 18.

Americans, for whom slogans have great appeal, might well heed one that will favorably affect car theft: Lock To Block.

A Position as College President, Anyone?

How would you like to be a college president?

Prestigious title, inside work, nice office, campus climate, important social action, captive student audiences who at least have to pretend they are listening (or at least they used to). A real fine white-collar deal.

★ ★ ★

And 200 two-year junior or community colleges now being formed in this country need you—IF you can qualify.

The qualifications?

Well, you must, of course, have the necessary educational background and attainments—the right degrees, a good alma mater.

And, naturally, you must be a scholar, an administrator, a firm but fair disciplinarian, a financier, a diplomat, a teacher, a public relations whiz, of dignified yet genial mien, of above average courage and durability—and in many instances a knack for raising a buck.

★ ★ ★

Oh, yes—you must not be afraid of long hours and hard work under fairly heavy pressure.

And oh, yes again — you should have a tough, tough hide.

That's all there is to it. And if you do land the job and manage your work schedules right, you just might be able to take a few days off sometime during the summer!

Idealism, Realism Snarl High Court

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON—Sometimes the Supreme Court gets idealism and realism mixed up. It happened this week when it tightened the screws even further against police "bugging" — electronic eavesdropping — in criminal investigations.

The court MARLOW threw out the bribery conviction of Ralph Berger, a Chicago public relations man. The decision was a tight fit, 5 to 4. It was a good example of how nine justices can look at the same problem and draw opposite conclusions.

The key in this case is how the Constitution's Fourth Amendment was interpreted.

That amendment says: "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall be issued, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized."

★ ★ ★

With these constitutional requirements in mind, New York State passed a law which says police can bug if they get permission from a judge, provided they swear under oath there is "reasonable ground to believe that evidence of crime may be thus obtained."

ADMISSION

Under this law, police did their bugging in the Berger case and the state later admitted that, without the eavesdropping, a conviction could not have been obtained.

Before he returned Monday, Justice Tom Clark wrote the majority opinion, throwing out Berger's conviction. Why? Clark gave various reasons. He found fault with the New York law which said a judge could permit bugging if the police gave him "reasonable ground" to believe it might unveil evidence of a crime.

Clark said this was too broad, too sweeping, that New York's "reasonable cause" phrase wasn't good enough since the Fourth Amendment talks about "probable cause."

★ ★ ★

The security of one's privacy against arbitrary intrusion by the police, Clark said, is at the core of the Fourth Amendment and is basic to a free society.

'CAN'T FORGIVE'

He said, "We cannot forgive the requirements of the Fourth Amendment in the name of law enforcement . . . Few threats to liberty exist which are greater than that posed by the use of eavesdropping devices."

He clearly did not ban all use of electronic eavesdropping, for he pointed out that the court "under specific conditions and circumstances" in the past sustained the use of eavesdropping devices.

Question and Answer

Is the City of Pontiac or the State Highway Department responsible for that horrible one-way Oakland Avenue? And what did they intend to accomplish by the change?

REPLY

The City traffic engineer tells us it was a joint agreement between the City and State, made eight years ago when Wide Track Drive was being planned, and just now being implemented. The purpose of the change is to separate local and through traffic.

David Lawrence Says:

Dictated 'Peace' Not the Answer

WASHINGTON — A "cease-fire" doesn't always bring peace, and this time more fighting could ensue.

LAWRENCE

The Israelis have unequivocally stated that they wish to negotiate directly with the Arab governments only and will not accept mediation from the outside.

This is the traditional position of the victor, but it does not guarantee that the vanquished will remain quiescent.

Efforts to gain allies and to bring the Soviet Union and other countries into the fray will be pursued by the Arab nation.

A dictated "peace" does not remove the threat of more war. It merely marks the beginning of a buildup to get revenge.

Meanwhile, the United Nations is preoccupied with accusations and counteraccusations as well as palpable maneuvers on the part of the Communist governments to get some propaganda advantage out of the adoption of a resolution of condemnation by the General Assembly. Obviously a partisanly phrased declaration will not gain the vote of the United States.

The United States itself is trying to steer a tactful course, and will avoid becoming involved in any threats of military action to preserve peace in the Middle East.

As long as Israel demands direct negotiations for peace, the Arab governments are bound to refrain from making any agreement, because they will expect to get better terms through a United Nations intervention.

It may well be that the Israeli government insist on a dictated peace through direct negotiations.

As of now, however, the Arab governments are faced with a flat statement by the Israeli foreign minister that under no circumstances will Israel accept mediation by a third party.

The Soviets have an opportunity to cooperate in the making of a real peace in the Middle East.

If, however, they persist in their charges and accusations, this will merely exacerbate feelings and worsen rather than improve their relations with the United States.

There are so many obstacles and so many barriers toward the making of peace between Israel and the Arab countries that no good cause will be served by a continuance of Soviet partisanship.

What is necessary is that both the United States and the Soviet governments lend their influence toward an impartial settlement to be devised by the diplomatic representatives of the major powers in the United Nations. This is the only hope for peace, though it may not be fully realized until more fighting breaks out. A cease-fire is, after all, only a preliminary step.

The realistic question is whether both sides will make concessions and bring about a settlement that will be enduring.

U.S. Got Terrible Snub --Left Out of Mideast War

NEW YORK — How dare the Jews and the Arabs hold a war without inviting us to join in? Who do they think they are?

Anyhow?

CONSIDINE

It's one of worst snubs this country has been forced to swallow in a long tithe. And after all we've done for both sides!

There we were, perfectly able and willing to step in and spend a great deal of money, knock down and rebuild both sides, air-condition the Suez Canal and double-deck the Road to Damascus, but neither side wanted us.

Russia must feel equally embarrassed. LBJ and Kosygin were in touch with each other on the hot-line while we were both sweating out an invitation to plunge in.

My man at the White House has rushed me a text of one of their exchanges:

Kosygin — Mir I druzhba, Lyndon baby. I was just wondering if you've received your inwite to the war.

LBJ — Not a peep out of either side, boy. Could be the mails, of course. They might have left the Zip Code off the invite. Or, worse, they might have sent it special delivery. That really slows up a letter!

Kosy — I've got a funny feeling that we're not wanted.

LBJ — So do I. Now we know how Stella Dallas felt.

Kosy — What beats me, Lyndon, is how they expect to get any kind of spread in the history books without us in there in some way — shootin' and talkin'.

LBJ — Beats me. I can't understand either of them. Here we are, ready and able to do anything we can to help to class it up and we don't get a tumble.

Kosy — Well, you can't win 'em all.

LBJ — You can say that again.

Kosy — Well, you can't win 'em all.

Ready Reserves Prove Value

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The efficiency and quick-reaction ability of Israel's army raises doubts about some of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's military cost effectiveness methods.

CROMLEY

These doubts are especially pertinent at this time when McNamara is again attempting to remodel the Army Reserves.

The Israeli army that performed so well against Egypt was largely an army of reservists. Israel's standing army was only 80,000 men.

The 200,000-man army that swept into Egypt and Jordan was almost two-thirds citizen reservists, 120,000 of whom were mobilized from their civilian jobs and in action in a few days.

These reservists thus served immediately as integral parts of the Israeli combat forces and, in fact, formed the bulk of the combat troops.

In the Israeli army there is no differentiation of status between reserves and professional soldiers, reports one U.S. Army officer with astonishment. Professional officers are obtained from the ranks.

Israeli draftees are called in at age 18. Then, after 26 months of service, they go into the reserve where they have 31 days of active duty a year, plus an extra day a month for special training or security duty.

This goes on until age 39. Then, from 40 until age 45, the reservists have 14 days of active duty a year. Reserve officers have even more training.

Israel's reserve officers, noncommissioned officers and enlisted men thus are technically and tactically up-to-date.

Their reserve training is intensive. Promotion standards are rugged.

One U.S. officer reports "mobilization exercises are held frquently and all units can be assembled, equipped and moved out, ready for combat, in less than 48 hours.

"Equipment for each reserve unit is maintained in such a state of readiness that the unit can perform its wartime mission immediately upon assembly."

Thus up to 250,000 men can be mobilized, equipped and ready for combat in a few days.

Pentagon plans call for some U.S. units to be ready for field combat in weeks — some in months.

McNamara regards the reserves, even the technical and specialized reserves, as a last resort.

Most reservists are sincere, conscientious men who want to do a job. But more than half of McNamara's Army reservists are given neither the training nor the equipment to keep up with their specialties. In fact, about half the Army reservists aren't even in units. They're in a "pool" or in the Standby Reserve.

Under McNamara's newest Reserve revision plan, most combat veterans likely will go into this pool, where their military skills will gradually deteriorate. Most will not keep up their military specialties. Few will keep up with technical advances.

It is common talk in the Pentagon that a heavy chunk of Reserve officers will not be called up in any expected crisis if the Department of Defense can prevent it. The Defense officials quote case after case of officers so out of date in their knowledge that they would be of little use in war.

This is not fair to the loyal Reserve officers, noncommission officers, enlisted men or to the country. The case of Israel shows that this need not be so.

Girardin Seeks to Break Ticket Slowdown

42 Detroit Police Ordered to Foot Patrols

DETROIT (AP) — Forty-two Detroit policemen were pounding beats today after being ordered off motorcycle and scout car duty by the police commissioner in an effort to end a ticket writing slowdown.

Commissioner Ray Girardin Wednesday assigned 42 men from the Motor Traffic Bureau (MTB) and the Accident Prevention Bureau (APB) to beat duty because he said ticket issuing has fallen off by 80 per cent since the strike started May 17.

"The primary job of MTB men is to enforce traffic laws," Girardin said. "APB men are also involved in traffic violation work. Since they have not been doing their duty, I felt it only right that they be placed in assignments where they will."

Girardin's disciplining move prompted rumors at police headquarters and the city's 13 precincts that policemen would retaliate by calling in sick in large numbers.

Police officials reported today no abnormal amount of men calling sick for the shift beginning at midnight.

This was disputed by some officers.

"I've normally got 12 men going out at this time," said Sgt. Willard Kohler at the motor division's main garage. "But there are only two out now.

A patrolman in the first precinct in downtown Detroit said, "We've got two or three cars out tonight. Normally we have five out at this time. I don't know anything about an organized sick call, but there seem to be fewer out tonight than there should be."

"City doctors will be sent to the homes of any policemen calling in sick. If it is determined that a man is not ill Commissioner (Ray) Girardin will take the necessary action, including suspension," Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh said.

Cavanagh said he had no plans to call for National Guard assistance.

"We have a lot of supervisory personnel who can take over vital assignments," he said.

The Detroit Police Officers Association, which has not endorsed the ticket writing slowdown, has been pressuring for months for higher pay for Detroit policemen.

It filed charges of unfair labor practices Tuesday with the State Labor Mediation Board, accusing Cavanagh of threatening DPOA members and urging them to abandon its cause.

Cavanagh, whose 1967-68 budget, which goes into effect July 1, provides no pay raises for policemen, termed the charges "absured and ridiculous."

Probable Boost for Its Local Programs Seen

Cleveland First Summer Rights Target

CLEVELAND (AP) — Local civil rights leaders view the announcement that national rights leaders plan a joint summer effort to calm racial tensions in Cleveland as a probable boost for programs already in effect.

Leaders of nine national rights organizations announced Wednesday, following a secret summit conference near New York, the plan for concentrating their full powers in one city at a time across the nation.

It would be the first joint venture of its kind.

The leaders said this city had been picked as the initial target because "the underlying causes of unrest and despair among urban ghetto Negroes as well as clear indications of their grim, sobering and costly consequences are found in classic form in Cleveland."

Following the announcement, Ernest Cooper, director of the Urban League here, said he welcomed any constructive help the city can get but added it would not change the local program.

George Livingston, executive secretary of the Cleveland branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said his group would continue with its programs in the fields of education, employment, housing and political action while cooperating with other groups working in these areas.

And Arthur Evans, a national vice president of the Congress of Racial Equality, said the summer plan would be good if the emphasis is on "strengthening local chapters and producing the kind of unity the movement needs."

In their statement, the national leaders said "Cleveland is an example of many communities in which racial tensions and the probability of renewed violence are increased."

Last July, Cleveland was hit by five nights of rioting and fire bombing in the Hough Negro slum area on the city's east side. Four persons were killed and property damage was estimated at more than $500,000.

Mayor Ralph S. Locher, who announced Tuesday he would seek a third term in November, said he had no comment on the announced summer program. Critics have scored his urban renewal program and police department human relations program in the slum areas.

A spokesman for the national leader's group, Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, said Wednesday details of the summer program had not been worked out but he indicated that demonstrations were not part of the preliminary plan.

Clark stressed that anything the organizations did would have to be in cooperation with the local groups in Cleveland and other cities.

He said the lessons learned in Cleveland in the fields of voter registration, housing, political action, union integration, urban renewal, education and economic boycotts would be applied in turn to other cities.

The leaders who attended the meeting at a Suffern, N.Y., motel Tuesday included Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Floyd McKissick of the Congress of Racial Equality, Roy Wilkins of the NAACP, Jack Greenburg of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, Dorothy Height of the National Council of Negro Women, Whitney Young of the National Urban League, Bayard Rustin of the A. Philip Randolph Institute and representatives of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

It was the second time the leaders had met secretly in an effort to bring more unity to the movement. On May 27 they met at the Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y., home of Clark.

He is president of the Metropolitan Applied Research Center, which was formed in March to deal with urban and civil rights problems.

In their statement the national leaders attributed racial tensions in Cleveland to "a mayor and a city administration that are tragically uncooperative and unresponsive to the needs of all citizens.

"Rather than face the problems that underly and prolonged the racial unrest, and seek solutions to them, they substitute the threat of force.

"Among other things, they have turned aside offers from the business sector and other parts of the community to help find ways to alleviate the situation and to play basic community-supported solutions."

House Set to Pass New Draft Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — New draft legislation requiring deferments for most college undergrads who request them and indirectly recommending that 19-year-olds be inducted first is two short steps from becoming law.

The compromise measure cleared the Senate Wednesday and shared priority in the House with a bill aimed at halting a railroad strike scheduled for next week.

★ ★ ★

House leaders hoped to pass both measures today, with the strike bill having the right of way. If the draft bill wasn't acted on today, the leaders said it would be considered next week.

After passage it would go to the President for signature.

BASIC CHANGES

The draft proposal would go into effect for four years starting July 1 and would make several basic changes in the Selective Service Act of 1948.

It would require local draft boards to grant deferments to undergraduate college students requesting them and meeting scholastic and other school requirements.

★ ★ ★

The deferment would end when the student reached age 24, left school or completed his undergraduate work, whichever came first. The student then would go to the top of the group available for induction, ahead of the 19-year-olds.

Student deferments are discretionary with local draft boards under the present law. Most boards have granted them, with a requirement that the student stay in the top half of his class.

GRADUATE STUDENTS

The proposed new law would provide no mandatory deferments for graduate students, but the President by regulation could permit them for students in dental or medical schools or for those pursuing studies in critical fields. Local draft boards would have the final say.

While the legislation does not require the induction of 19-year-olds ahead of all others, Congress has endorsed in formal reports the President's announced plan to put them at the top of the priority list. This would be a reversal of the present system of first drafting older men in the 19 to 26 age group. The President could change the priorities if he wanted to.

Other proposed changes would:

- Direct the National Security Council to designate critical skill areas for occupational deferments.
- Prohibit the President from changing the present selection method by imposing such procedures as the national lottery he has proposed.

- Speed up final action on appeals from draft board orders and on court action involving them.
- Limit service of local draft board members to 25 years and make them ineligible to serve after age 75. It rejects a presidential commission proposal to consolidate the boards and eliminate state headquarters.

Junior Editors Quiz on NEPTUNE

QUESTION: Who was King Neptune?

ANSWER: The ancient Greeks invented a group of mythical gods and goddesses which allowed them to give some kind of explanation for the mysterious things in nature.

One of these, called Poseidon, was the god of the sea. He was the brother of Zeus, king of the gods. Poseidon controlled all the water of the earth.

The Romans took over the Greek gods but changed their names. Zeus became Jupiter, Poseidon was called Neptune.

In ancient art, he is shown as a big man with flowing beard, carrying a three-pronged trident, and usually riding a sea shell-shaped chariot. This was sometimes drawn by sea horses, sometimes by dolphins, as our artist has chosen to show.

The boy beside Neptune is his son Triton, who was also a sea god. Triton lived with his father at the bottom of the sea; he also carried a trident. It was his particular pleasure to stir up waves by blowing on his trumpet.

When you see a picture of some surfer in California riding the crest of a huge wave, remember Triton who was supposed to have had the same thrill thousands of years ago.

Cairo Returns to Normal, but Signs of War Remain

CAIRO (UPI) — Life returned slowly to normal in this city of 4 million today. Bars and restaurants were open once again to long after midnight, stores blazed with lights and public transport was running as usual.

Some signs remained of the war, however. Windows and auto headlights were still painted blue in case authorities decided to reimpose wartime blackout conditions.

Newspapers heaped abuse on the United States and Britain. Officials pressed ahead with diplomatic activities aimed at strengthening the Arabs' postwar position.

The semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram led the anti-American attack with a charge that Washington exerted strong pressure on African governments to side with Israel at the forthcoming anticipated United Nations General Assembly debate on the Middle East.

★ ★ ★

The newspaper claimed, however, African states were refusing to shift their neutral or pro-Arab positions.

HIGH-LEVEL DELEGATION

Al Ahram said Egypt would send a high-level delegation to the United Nations if the General Assembly meets. It did not identify any of the members.

In a war-inspired move, authorities began arranging the evacuation of 1,576 tourists, including 65 Americans, 123 Britons and 100 Frenchmen. They were trapped in Cairo when the shooting began.

Some of the tourists, it was announced, would be driven to Libya. Others were leaving by sea.

Representatives of International Airways and Egyptian civil aviation authorities scheduled a meeting today to consider the reopening of Cairo International Airport, closed since the war began.

AIRCRAFT BAN

Informed sources said Egypt is considering banning all American and British aircraft from the airport.

On the diplomatic front, Al Ahram said, President Gamal Abdel Nasser received an "important" message from the Soviet Union. Its contents were not disclosed. Nasser also met the Soviet ambassador.

Officials said aid from the Communist bloc included 50,000 tons of wheat from Romania, the price to be agreed on later.

Fire Tragedy Widows Adjust to Pain

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's a strange feeling, thinking he's just at work and tonight maybe he'll be home. Then the night comes and the house is quiet. The kids are in bed. But he doesn't come home. He never comes home."

And Virginia Higgens knows he never will.

Walter Higgens, battalion chief, New York City Fire Department, died last Oct. 17 with 11 other firemen in the worst tragedy in the department's history.

In the boiling black smoke and the stench of burning chemicals, the weakened floor of a 75-year-old building collapsed into an incinerating fire, dropping the men in after it.

SCAR HEALED

The block-long scar of gutted buildings at Broadway and 22nd Street has long since been healed by bulldozers and covered over with an asphalt parking lot.

But for 12 widows and 36 children, the pain cannot be pushed away or covered over.

★ ★ ★

"It's the way they died, that's what keeps you awake," said Mrs. Joseph Priore. "That was the hardest adjustment to make."

Jeanette Kaminsky, who lost her husband, Rudolph, after 15 years of marriage, has found some comfort in her two daughters, Glorianne, 12, and Rose Marie, 13, who have done their best to make the adjustment easier.

DADDY'S NAME

"Rose Marie isn't the type to break down, but every once in a while she goes to her room and closes the door," Mrs. Kaminsky said. "It got to Glorianne too. Her father used to have pet names for her and once, by mistake, I called her by one of those names. She said, 'Mommy, please don't call me that. That was Daddy's name for me.'

"They hear in school what their friends are doing with their fathers and they come home and tell me. That's when I can see their misery although they try to hide it because they're trying to bolster me. It's especially bad now that Fathers Day is coming. That used to be such a celebration in our house."

★ ★ ★

Daniel Rey, 26, was a probationary fireman who followed his father and older brother into the department. He had never been called out on a big fire before.

For eight months, Virginia Rey has been haunted by the question, "How did he know?"

DEATH PREMONITION

She recalled: "He used to say to me, 'You know honey, I know that when the first big fire comes, I won't come home. I know I'll never come back.' He knew he was going to die in the Fire Department.

"The night of the fire his mother called him at the fire house. He told her, 'Nothing big has happened yet but I have the feeling it'll be tonight. The big one's going to come tonight.'

★ ★ ★

"How did he know?"

People who never knew that a Walter Higgens or a Thomas Reilly or a William McCarron or a Carl Lee had existed lined the streets to pay respects—and sometimes to weep—as flag-draped fire engines bore their bodies to funeral sites.

People who had never met John Finley, John Berry, James Galanaugh, Bernard Tepper or Joseph Kelly felt instinctively that their wives and children might need help.

$646,000 FUND

Thousands sent their checks and their dollars and their coins to help ease the financial crisis. The resulting fund, which now totals more than $646,000, will provide an average of nearly $54,000 per family.

But along with these thousands of people, there also was a share of sick ones, the type who make anonymous, profane and insulting telephone calls.

★ ★ ★

Several women reported a rash of calls after the fire. Dorothy Tepper changed her telephone number three times and finally had it unlisted.

But in comparison to those who genuinely wanted to help, the sick ones were few.

TOO MUCH TIME

The fund, plus Social Security and pension payments, will permit most of the women to remain with their children instead of going to work. But in some cases, that freedom also gives the women too much idle time to think.

Ethel and John Finley celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary last Oct. 14. Three days later their marriage died in the fire. Three of the four Finley children are grown and away from home. Only Joseph, 11, remains.

★ ★ ★

"There just wasn't enough for me to do," Mrs. Finley said. "I'd sit around and be miserable most of the time. So I took a job two days a week as a volunteer nurses aide. It helps to get your mind off your own grief and concentrate on somebody else's pain."

For Marie Reilly and Dorothy Tepper, remembering is so terrible that they won't talk about it. "We still expect him to come home," Mrs. Reilly said. "I'd rather not talk about it. I'm not that strong yet."

LOSE CONTROL

Some who think they have the strength, find that they're wrong.

"Yesterday I saw the monument on his grave for the first time," Grace Priore said softly. "You think you have full control and then something like that comes up. It's the little things that shake you."

★ ★ ★

Often the little things are the children.

Winifred McCarron has three sons, the youngest aged 3.

"The baby talks about him constantly," she said. "It doesn't bother me unless I'm having one of my bad days. Then I'll break."

OLD ENOUGH

Ann Kelly's son, Darin, is 6.

"I thought he was still too young to really know," Mrs. Kelly said. "But once in a while he'll come across things we have in the house that remind him of his father. He remembers how his father taught him how to move the typewriter carriage back and forth. Sometimes he walks to the desk and just stands there moving it, over and over.

★ ★ ★

"Those are the times I think he hurts."

Terrence Lee is 7. His brother Lance is 6.

"They're not doing as well as they should in school," Betsy Lee said. "It's like the heart got kicked out of them. They don't talk about it very much, but sometimes you can see it in their eyes. When they're thinking about their father, you can see the sadness all through them."

TIME PASSES

These moments of anguish, the women all say, become fewer and fewer with the passing of time.

Nightmares are fewer. Sleep comes easier.

Laughter is at least a remote possibility.

And somehow, they go on living.

THEY REMEMBER—Five widows of the 12 New York City firemen who were killed battling a blaze on Oct. 17, 1966, attend the dedication of a plaque to the men in the station house of Engine Co. 18. A Slice of Rare Drama in Senate, of All Places

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Visitors who take the guided tours through the U. S. Capitol must play congressional roulette.

At some point during the tour each group makes a brief stop in the Senate chamber. A few hit it lucky.

You probably think I am going to say the lucky ones are those who happen to visit the chamber when the Senate is in recess.

Shame on you for having such thoughts. That is not what I mean at all.

I mean only a few groups are lucky enough to be in the chamber when something noteworthy is going on.

Tuesday was one of those days.

★ ★ ★

Each group that filed into the public gallery for the customary five-minute exposure witnessed a small slice of a rare senatorial drama.

SITTING ON TACK

The Senate was sitting in judgement on one of its peers, which is an act with a pleasure-pain ratio roughly comparable to sitting on a tack.

Sen John Stennis, D-Miss., keynote speaker at the opening of censure proceedings against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., used variations on the theme of "this hurts us more than it does you."

Any comfort that may have brought to Dodd was not visible to the naked eye.

I have no idea what impressions the tourists may have formed during their short spans as onlookers.

If, however, they harbored the notion that the scene was typical of the way the Senate conducts its business, they were totally misled.

For one thing, the attendance figure was unusually high. There must have been about 75 senators on hand for the morning session.

Ordinarily, if as many as 10 senators are in view at any one time, the joint seems crowded.

Secondly, the dropout rate was incredibly low.

MASS EXODUS

Almost any senatorial oratory will produce a mass exodus to the cloakrooms and some can clear the floor more quickly than an air raid. But now many stood their ground.

Thirdly, the senators were attentive. This was a sure sign that something exceptional was transpiring.

The standard procedure when one senator gets the floor is for the other senators to begin conversing among themselves.

Fourthly, no speaker discussing the censure resolution was asked to yield so another senator could inject into the record a tribute to the best drum and bugle corps in his home state.

★ ★ ★

In sum, the session was highly irregular. I hope the tourists weren't too badly confused by it.

Finland Jails Overflowing With Drunks

HELSINKI (UPI) — Finland is having trouble finding a place to keep all its drunks, prison officials complained yesterday. The jails are overflowing with them.

The trouble began earlier this year when the government decided that anyone sentenced to more than three months for drunken driving would have to serve his time in jail.

Previously almost all sentences for drunken driving were served in special work camps engaged in airport maintenance and road work.

Finland's drunken driving laws are among the strictest in the world and sentences of more than three months — particularly for repeat offenders — are frequent.

As a result, the jails are jammed.

★ ★ ★

Things may get worse. A government committee is considering the possibility of closing the work camps entirely and having all persons convicted of drunken driving serve their time in jail.

Do-It-Yourself Hotel Plan

MELBOURNE (AP) — Hotels might soon offer a 10 per cent rebate if you make your own bed, says American Professor Robert A. Beck.

You might also get an even higher cut by cooking your own breakfast, rather than having it delivered to your bedside, he adds.

Professor Beck is Dean of the School of Hotel Administration at Cornell University. He told a seminar on hotel management that hotels in the United States were experiencing serious staff shortages.

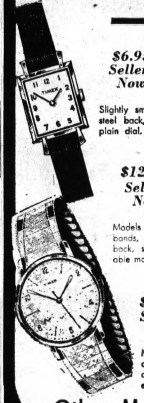

Injured on Bike, Milan Girl Dies

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Amy Lentz, 13, of nearby Milan died Wednesday in an Ann Arbor hospital of injuries suffered last Friday when a bicycle she was riding was struck by a car. Another girl, whose bike also as struck, escaped injury.

The Lentz girl was Washtenaw's 20th traffic victim of 1967.

Buddhist Rebels Lacking Cause

HUE, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnam's militant Buddhists, who once could put tens of thousands of demonstrators into the streets, are now a weak, divided force without a cause.

The opinion of Vietnamese and Americans who have been watching the Buddhists is that the militant segment never recovered from the loss of face last year when an all-out effort failed to topple the regime of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. They have become even more fragmented since then.

* * *

The leader of the militants, Tri Quang, is now virtually powerless.

His attempts to stir up trouble during Buddha's birthday celebration in May, which included a parade and the imolation of a Buddhist schoolteacher, drew scant attention.

UNINTERRUPTED YEAR

For the first time since 1963, when the Buddhists launched the first "struggle movement" that led to the overthrow of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime, Hue University is finishing an uninterrupted school year.

Hue, the ancient capital of imperial Vietnam, remains the center of militant Buddhism, with other pockets in Saigon and Da Nang.

* * *

The robed monks who are followers of Tri Quang are shadowed by government police and are not allowed to travel between the major Buddhist centers. Some have been stopped at airports and sent back to the city from which they came.

Tri Quang, a native of Hue, has been at the An Quang pagoda in Saigon for almost a year and has been forbidden by the government to return to Hue.

LEADERS DIVIDED

There are also divisions among the leadership of the militants.

Tri Quang and the leader of the "moderate" Buddhists, Tam Chau, joined in the opposition to Ky last year but are now at each other's throat. Tam Chau calls Tri Quang "Communist-inclined," and Tri Quang accuses the Tam Chau Buddhists of "treason and open collusion with U.S. dollars."

* * *

Tri Quang's group remains vehemently antigovernment. Tam Chau appears to cooperate openly with the Ky government. Ky and other government officials appear at Buddhist ceremonies, and the government permitted Tam Chau to organize a parade of 10,000 persons through Saigon on Buddha's birthday.

It is hard to number South Vietnam's Buddhists, who are the largest religious group in the country, but generally they can be divided into three main groups.

BEST ORGANIZED

The militants, from central Vietnam—northern South Vietnam—are the best organized and strongest and are concentrated in Hue, Da Nang, Nha Trang, Quang Tri and other northern cities as well as in Saigon.

The Tam Chau group, centered around Saigon, has strong influence in the south and in the Vietnamese army. Many are refugees from North Vientam.

* * *

The most numerous southern-born Buddhists have a poorly organized leadership and are not a cohesive force.

All three groups, although nominally united for a time during the campaign to overthrow Diem, started to pull apart shortly after that and now are completely divided.

FEW IN NUMBER

It should be noted that the hard-core militant Buddhists are extremely few in number. It has been their ability to exploit a "chinh nghia," or righteous cause, and draw mobs into the streets that made them a threat to any South Vietnamese government.

It is generally agreed, however, that the Buddhists provide only the theatrics that preceded the downfall of a government. Other more powerful forces, usually the military, caused the actual changes.

* * *

Although the decline of the militant Buddhists can be attributed mainly to their fragmentation, other forces are at work to keep them in check.

Ky has lived up to the promises he made to the Buddhists last year: a constitution is in effect, a provisional assembly has been elected and it is drafting laws for the election of a president, vice president and a two-house legislature later this year.

* * *

"The Ky government has gained credibility," said one informed source. "It's the first government since the revolution against Diem which has kept its promise to hold elections.

"The Buddhists really don't have their 'righteous cause.'"

Ship Refloated

PORT HURON (AP) — The danger that the St. Clair River might be blocked to shipping ended Wednesday when the sunken freighter Sylvania was refloated. She was rammed and sunk less than two weeks ago at the Peerless Cement Dock by the Canadian freighter Renvoyle. The Sylvania's owners have filed a million-dollar lawsuit against the owners of the Renvoyle.

Railroad Asks to Quit Ferry

Frankfort-Manistique Service 'Not Paying'

LANSING (AP) — The State Public Service Commission reports it has received notice of a request to abandon car-ferry service between Frankfort, in Michigan's Lower Peninsula, across Lake Michigan to Manistique, in the Upper Peninsula.

The Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad, operators of the ferry, contends there is not enough demand for the service or sufficient revenue to make it profitable. The railroad is a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

★ ★ ★

Peter Spivak, commission chairman, said the same railroad earlier had talked of seeking abandonment of car-ferry service between Frankfort across Lake Michigan to Menominee, in the southern tip of the Lower Peninsula bordering on Wisconsin.

Spivak said the operators reported traffic on this ferry has since picked up and abandonment is not being asked at this time.

In the same application, the railroad asked permission to abandon dock facilities at Manistique and to shut down service on some 41 miles of track of the Manistique and Lake Superior Railroad. The railroad extends from Manistique to Shingleton and Doty, in Alger County, and carries freight only, mostly to the ferry.

Spivak said the abandonment application was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A date or location for a hearing has not yet been set, he said. Spivak expressed hope, however, that the hearing would be held in the Upper Peninsula.

The Seafarers Union and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen have expressed opposition to dropping the service, Spivak said. The railroad union, however, reported only two men would be affected.

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce also has expressed an interest in the matter, Spivak reported.

Spivak indicated the State Public Service Commission probably would intervene in opposition to the proposal if there is enough local sentiment against cancelling the service.

Damage Light as Quake Felt in LA Area

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The sprawling Los Angeles area was shaken by an earthquake late Wednesday night. No serious damage was reported.

Police said plaster fell from the ceiling of a house in north Los Angeles.

In Long Beach, south of the metropolitan center, and west of Los Angeles, residents said windows shook. The tremor was felt on the beaches.

Dr. Charles Richter, seismologist at the California Institute of Technology's seismological laboratory, said the shock was small and probably did no damage.

Richter said he would not attempt to measure the intensity of the shock for several hours.

A second tremor was reported by many Californians, just after the first.

"It had a strong, east-west roll," said a resident of Temple City, 15 miles east of Los Angeles. "Then, a second and similar shock hit and woke up the children."

Mom Flies Off; Chevy Gets Truck Back

DETROIT (AP) — A flighty mother in Texas no longer has the country's largest auto maker up in the air.

The mother, a wren, built her nest and laid her eggs on the back of a pickup truck owned by the Crawshaw family of West, Texas.

Fifteen-year-old Susan Crawshaw asked Chevrolet if the family could borrow a truck so the mother would not be disturbed until after her young had grown.

* * *

Chevrolet sent a truck. Shortly after the truck arrived, the mother wren left her nest and hasn't been seen since.

* * *

"Wrens are shy and there must have been too much commotion," said an official of the Detroit Audubon Society, "she is probably building a new nest somewhere else.

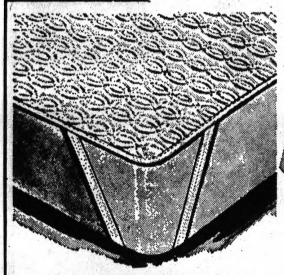

Susan told Chevrolet to stop worrying about the wren and moved the eggs into a farm incubator, where they will stay until they hatch.

* * *

When Husband Bolts She Revolts--- Meal Situation Is 'Eating' at Pair

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I must write this while I am still in a state of near hysteria.

My husband eats so fast, it's ridiculous. Abby, I spend hours preparing a tasty meal, setting a nice table, and it's practically wasted because he's finished with his meal in five minutes. It's not due to boredom, either. We always have plenty to talk about, but he races through his meal and rushes me so that he can have his coffee.

ABBY

It finally got my goat so I asked him what his problem was and he said to ask Abby. So I'm asking you.

MRS. P.

DEAR MRS. P.: It's probably due to habit. At one time your husband acquired the habit of bolting his food, and he continues to do so even though there's no need for it. If you can subtly remind him to slow down without starting a civil war, do so. (It will be better for his digestion.)

★ ★ ★

And for Father's Day, get Old Speedy an electric coffee maker, set it on the table and let him help himself to coffee while you're still cooling your soup.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Since most of the younger set are preoccupied with sex, here's an old timer's rating of the facts of life after 27 years of marriage and a slew of kids:

Sex . . . 0

Comfort and companionship . . . 100

Guys, find a girl you enjoy talking to.

★ ★ ★

One who likes to cook and keep house, and if she looks like a gunny sack full of pumpkins, so what? Life with a beautiful woman is sheer purgatory, they tell me. I wouldn't know, and I'm glad of it.

Crystine Jones Rides With Equestrian Team

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

Mrs. Ernest Jones returned from New York on Monday just in time to partake in the luncheon festivities honoring Mrs. David DiChiera. Mrs. Edward Wellock and Mrs. Lewis Fykse were joint hostesses in the Fykse home.

Last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Jones saw their daughter, Crystine, board the plane for Europe where she is part of the U.S. Equestrian team.

The first stop will be Cologne and Aachen for six weeks. Then Crystine will spend two weeks at the Hickstead Jumping Derby in England where she will be the houseguest of the captain of the British Olympic team and his family.

In the Fykse family, son Dean has just come home from Mchigan State University.

Next week Mrs. Fykse's mother, Mrs. Harry Umphrey, leaves for her summer home at Sebago Lake in Maine. Mrs. Umphrey has been visiting the Fykses since her return from Florida this Spring.

For the 4th of July the Fykses' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Olsen of Louisville, Ky., will be visiting their parents.

At a recent luncheon in the home of Mrs. T. E. Olson, the Minnesota University Alumnae Association made known its officers for the coming year.

They are: Mrs. J. R. Strang, president; Mrs. Harold Nyberg and Mrs. John S. White, vice presidents; Mrs. Delbert Peterson, secretary; Mrs. Steven Ekholm, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. John Joyner and Mrs. H. John Costello, treasurers.

Some time ago, friends of Mrs. James Goodman and Mrs. R. C. Scott received an invitation to come to their "Hukalau" luncheon at the Village Woman's Club last Friday.

Conversation centered around the happy times Mesdames Goodman and Scott had in February and March traveling in the Hawaiian Islands. There they also visited the Wellocks whose home in Honolulu is a welcome spot for their many friends.

Year Ends for Group II

Group II of the Oakland County Alumnae of Delta Zeta sorority will have their final meeting of the year at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Farr Hill Drive home of Mrs. Laurence Trevarrow Jr.

A barbecue is planned and all area Delta Zetas and their spouses are invited.

Those interested may call chairman Mrs. Richard Kyro.

Cancer Unit Awards Pins at Luncheon

Office and branch volunteers of the North Oakland County unit of the Michigan Cancer Foundation were honored at a luncheon in the home of Mrs. Thomas Seavey, Rattalee Lake Road, Rose Township, on Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

E. W. Tuescher, Executive Vice President of the Foundation, presented awards for service and expressed appreciation to all dedicated area volunteers.

A 15 year pin was presented to Mrs. Herschel Asbury who is service chairman.

Ten year pins were presented to Mrs. George Booth, Mrs. Harlan Fogal, and Mrs. Harvie Little.

FIVE YEARS

Five year pins were given to Mrs. Joseph Emmerth, Mrs. Raymond Johnson, Mrs. Emery Fair, Mrs. Geroge McCorkle, Mrs. Burt Rewold, and Mrs. Oral Womack.

Mrs. Thomas Seavey Sr., chairman of volunteer activities, received a 100-hour pin along with Mesdames Sol Newhouse, Victor Nelson, Arthur M. Noell, Clergue Webster, Redvers Williams, Walter F. Brown and Leora Stevens.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

This is the time of year when women want to make a splash, not just at social occasions or in their bathtubs, but somewhere else like in a pool, river, lake or surf.

Water is always soothing. Even the sound of it, whether it comes from a bubbling brook, a waterfall, a gentle wave rippling on a shore, the patter of rain on a roof, or the rhythmic pounding of breakers on a beach.

Water is also cooling. If you will swim in it rather than splash in it, this builds health and is one of the greatest of all figure molders. By swimming I do not mean lying on a float and drifting about but using your arms and legs, your abdominal muscles, in fact, practically all of your muscles. Relax in between periods of activity.

AGE CONSCIOUS!

Swimming isn't age conscious, only you are! This is one sport you can take down the years with you, or begin at a much later age than that allowed for other sports. It is excellent medicine for nervous tension because it is so extremely relaxing. It often acts as a cure for insomnia.

It is too bad that so many women have catalogued swimming as an activity for children and very young folks only. Don't you often hear a woman say something like, "Oh, I used to swim all the time, but I just got out of the habit," or, "I always planned to learn to swim, but I just never did and I certainly am not planning to learn at my age."

I had an extremely rewarding experience when I was head of a department of physical education. I taught a class of middle-aged and older women to learn to swim. Some of them were truly frightened at first. They had been afraid of water all of their lives.

PRIDE IN WINNING

You cannot imagine their pride in winning out over this feeling. Sometimes just conquering one fear will change one's entire outlook. These women added a lot of fun and a lot of health to their lives, and they felt younger, and therefore, looked younger.

★ ★ ★

Swimming is also a sport entire families can enjoy together, from toddlers to grandparents. If you used to swim and "got out of the habit" or if you have never learned, why not start again or learn this summer? Don't put it off!

If you want a painless and reassuring way to learn to swim you may wish to have my leaflet, "Learn to Swim!" If so send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Button Beauty

Buttons are to be seen, not covered up. They add color, life and sparkle to a garment. Put buttons on the cuffs or pockets of a suit jacket; sew them along the shoulders; accent a seam curve, or hold down a coat lapel — put them where they add beauty to the lines of the garment. Buttons this spring have the new military look for sportswear or the light jeweled look for evening. Ball and domed effects continue as favored shapes along with varying geometrics.

Only Auto-Suggestion?

By Dr. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-512: Gerald H., aged 24, was a graduate student at George Washington University when I was teaching there.

DR. CRANE

"Professor Crane," he explained during a seminar in psychology, "aren't a lot of the effects of drugs due merely to auto-suggestion?

"For example, we scheduled a formal fraternity dance a few weeks ago.

"And we had a big bowl of punch.

The fellows told a number of the vivacious coeds that the punch was spiked!

★ ★ ★

"But I had prepared the punch myself, so I knew positively that it contained no alcohol whatsoever.

"Yet several of those girls began to act giddy and loud. They even staggered.

"And when some of the men took them home, the men seduced those girls.

"For the coeds apparently figured they had an acceptable alibi, namely, that they were intoxicated and thus not responsible for their actions."

DOPEY DUPES

Gerald is quite right in saying that many of the so-called bizarre effects of drugs are simply self-induced by the subconscious mind.

One of our prominent psychiatry professors at Northwestern University Medical School used to pooh pooh the idea about dope addiction.

"It's chiefly in their heads!" he would state.

"For you can switch the medication and give them normal salt tablets for their shots, yet they will react as if they had received morphine."

That seemed a bit farfetched to many of us medical students at the time.

But since then I have often seen it demonstrated in private practice.

For example, a prominent Chicago banker was receiving big shots of morphine to curb his bouts of apparently almost intractable pain which he alleged was due to a surgical amputation.

He had been on morphine for months.

But a new doctor decided to fool him.

So he gave the nurse small white tablets of normal salt.

One day I visited the banker at 1:55, and he was fit to be tied, to use the popular expression.

He was yelling: "Nurse, nurse, where is my morphine?"

He couldn't even carry on a normal conversation.

Agitated, jittery and with his face showing terrific paroxysms of pain, he was trembling and unstrung.

The nurse informed him he could not get his shot of morphine till 2 o'clock.

WRECK

By that time, he was almost a physical and nervous wreck!

He watched her take the tiny saline tablet and dissolve it in some distilled water in the syringe.

Then she injected the supposed morphine into his arm.

He relaxed at once and within 3 minutes (by my watch; he was ignoring my questionning and was snoring in sound slumber, as relaxed as a healthy infant after its bottle of warm milk.

Yet this banker was familiar with morphine! For he had been taking it every 2 hours before the switch!

★ ★ ★

So view modern dope addicts with a lot of suspicion. They are often twins for the coeds who thought they had imbibed "spiked" punch!

Bride Wears Lace Tiers at Ceremony

Linda Faye Curton and Ronald Eugene Berry were wed recently in the Apostolic Church of Christ.

Lin Belote was best man. Ushers were Melvin Kitchen and Michael Belote.

Ringlets Gaining on Straightaway

Curls, curls, curls . . . they're the strongest look in hairstyles this year, according to the Toni Hairstyling Center. Ribbony ringlets or soft curls you can ruffle and toss — let your entire head swirl with curls.

★ ★ ★

The variety is practically endless — half-curls, whole curls, tassel curls, kiss-curls, springy corkscrews, minicurls, giant sausage curls — any size and every shape. These new curlydos are different, feminine and carefree.

Cover for Cookbook

When you purchase a new cookbook, protect its covers from food splashes. Apply a layer of press-on transparent plastic. Use a lathered sponge periodically to swab off finger marks and stains.

Set Will Resist Air Moisture

Want a carefree coif this summer — one that looks just as pretty at dinner as it did at morning coffee?

★ ★ ★

Sounds like a dream? With just a little know-how and the right equipment, you can easily achieve a professional-looking hairstyle that will stand up to those summer villains, heat and humidity.

★ ★ ★

The trick is to wind your hair on the rollers so that it clings smoothly. Then when it's brushed out there are no crimped, frizzy or straggly ends. This is when Dippity-do comes to the rescue. The clear, fresh setting gel makes home hair setting faster, easier and neater. It spreads evenly from scalp to ends so the hair can "hug" the rollers when winding for a set.

★ ★ ★

Just dip your finger in the pleasantly scented gel, stroke it on a strand of hair, either wet or dry, comb through and wind. There's no dripping.

You can brush a hairdo into place easily and it will keep its shape much longer. Best of all, the unique setting gel has a special holding ingredient in the formula which gives your hair extra body plus a silken sheen.

★ ★ ★

Dippity-do may be used on either wet or dry hair, after a swim or for a quick re-set of a tired, droopy coif. It's a natural for setting after your shampoo. If you have hair that's really difficult to manage, use the green gel for extra-holding power. For regular hair, it's the pink gel.

Sweet Adelines to Host Party

The Utica-Rochester Sweet Adelines will sponsor a card party Monday, 7:30 p.m. in the Avon Park Pavilion.

Tickets are available at the door.

Anyone interested in membership may contact Mrs. William Taylor of Warren.

Protect From Cuts

When dusting venetian blinds, work from the top down and clip the cleaned slat to the one immediately above it. This eliminates the possibility of cut fingers.

How to Establish Credit While Away

By MARY FEELEY

After you've rented your summer cottage, the next step to consider is how you can manage to operate without keeping a lot of cash around.

MARY FEELEY

Running back and forth to your own bank back home is out of the question.

So you'll need both check-cashing facilities and credit at the stores in the vacation area. How easy is it to establish credit where you aren't known?

I was talking about this to a banker in a small community which attracts its quota of summer residents. He made these points:

If you open a special checking account for the summer at a local bank, paying 10 cents a check, you indicate that you're a substantial citizen. While the local bank may be obliging enough to cash your checks on an out-of-town bank, the local bank makes no profit whatever on the service, but pays the teller's salary to extend this courtesy.

★ ★ ★

Opening a general checking account for a limited holiday is of no value to him or to you. The Special Checking Account is a more practical procedure. Allow a week's time to have it authenticated.

Or, you might do as summer residents do in many areas—open a savings account with, say $100. This gesture shows that you could if necessary cover the small checks you may write on your permanent account, and which the local bank has agreed to honor.

Few banks, he says, are willing to write a letter of credit for the small amount of money that would be involved in a summer residency. It's a sort of nonsense-thing they just don't bother with. Letters of credit are for large sums and/or foreign travel.

In establishing credit with local merchants, your driver's license is, of course, a good start. And if you also have an identification from your company, plus your picture on the card, that's good. A union card helps, too.

To tie it all up satisfactorily, if your landlord brings you in and introduces you to the local bank and stores, the community assumes you're a good risk — surely the landlord would have checked your credit before you came.

Dear Miss Feeley: We received a notice from the Veterans Administration as to how the payments on my husband's G.I. insurance are going to increase, and I'm wondering what to do. My husband is 50 years old and has carried this $10,000 policy since World War II.

They give you the choice of keeping it as it is or converting to modified life or ordinary life. With the ordinary life, our payment would be $32.70 a month from now on—with full $10,000 protection. With the modified life it would be $16.50 from now on, with the protection reduced to $5,000 at the age of 65.

I know we should do something, and right now I think modified life at $16.50 a month would be the best. But would the payment remain $16.50 from now on? And is it immediately, with the first payment, a $10,000 coverage in case of death? Mrs. F. F., Canton, O.

Dear Mrs. F.: If you convert this policy to Modified Life, the $16.50 monthly payments would remain level from now on. You'd have $10,000 coverage to your husband's age 65, at which time it would drop to $5,000.

Polly's Pointers

Do A Good Deed

DEAR POLLY — I am a 12-year-old Boy Scout and like to read the Pointers because I learn how to be more helpful around the house.

I want to help Mrs. S.A.W. with her problem of newspapers stacked in the closet. Boy Scouts have paper drives, so she could telephone her local Scout headquarters and ask that they be picked up. She would be doing a good deed while getting rid of the papers. She could have a fire with all that newspaper laying around.—B.W.

How right you are on all counts, B.W.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. S.A.W. could lay a stack of old newspapers out flat (do not separate the pages) and roll them into logs. They can be rolled to be four, five or six inches in diameter, then tied with heavy cord, thin wire or brown gummed tape.

A kit can be ordered from a mail-order novelty house to help in rolling them. They also have a paper cover to put around the roll to make it look like a wood log. Use these logs in an open fireplace instead of wood to get rid of the papers, save money and have an enjoyable fire to toast the shins by. — HELPFUL HANNAH.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite homemaking idea, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Strengthen Ties by Confiding Failings

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Now nearing 60, I am realizing how my fears and mistakes have affected the lives of my dear children. As a child myself, the year I lived with my grandmother is the only happiness I remember. After my separated parents got together again. I remember only my mother's criticism, the cracks in the face my father would give me and how the relatives we lived with made fun of me.

I married a man who was a hitter like my father, so I never dared leave the children alone with him. Sometimes I feel a terrible trembling inside of me . . .

ANSWER: Have you ever told your children about these hurts?

Maybe you should. Because, although our grown-up children are aware of how our mistakes influence their lives, they can't understand why we made them unless we tell them why.

They may resent our giving them a hitting man for a father. But when we tell them that hitting men were the only kind we knew about; when we tell them about the helplessness and bewilderment we felt as a beaten child ourselves — why, then our choice of a bad father for them becomes understandable and touching.

Suddenly there is a new and common humanness between the children and us, love and mutual tenderness instead of resentment and guilt.

What's trembling inside of you is the fluttering of unspoken words that want to voice themselves to your dear children.

Look. We parents can no more help making the mistakes we made than we can stop the rain from falling. That's why guilt over them is, in its way, proud and arrogant. If we've hurt our children by infecting them with our sense of worthlessness — well, we got infected by our own parent's self-hate, too.

That's how it is and always has been ever since the old Greeks wrote their tragic plays about the down-passing of hurt from one generation to the next one. And not a thing can we do about it until, like you, we're brave enough to see that it's happened. Then we can say:

"Darlings, this is how it was for me and how it may now have to be for you. It's bad but it is much less bad now that we can see the cruel down-passing together."

The real tragedy is not the inherited hurts. It's the fact that our children and we don't talk of them together. So they get the lonely notion that they are solitary in their experience of remembered hurts.

You've taken a big step by confiding your hurts to me. And look what you've got back from me, a stranger! Appreciation. From those dear children of yours who have witnessed your struggles, who's to know what new closeness you'll get back if you'll just show yourself to them?

Christine Leigh Sharpe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sharpe, of Royal Oak, and Robert Lee Dodd are engaged. His parents are the Robert Dale Dodds of Clarkston.

UN Agrees Work Load Is Heavier for Women

NEW YORK (WMNS) — Now there's proof that woman's work is less often done than man's. A 14-nation study by a United Nations agency shows that mothers, both working and non-working, in Communist and capitalist countries alike, have less free time than their husbands. Here are the facts:

* * *

In the U.S., the working mother has an average of 2.8 hours of free time on weekdays and 7.1 hours on Sundays. The non-working mother has about 3.5 hours free on weekdays and about 7.5 hours on Sundays.

* * *

The working father, in contrast, has about 4.1 hours leisure time on weekdays, and 8.5 hours on Sundays. What is meant by free time? Time available for education, organizations, spectator activities, sports, walking, social life, radio, television, reading, conversation, resting.

RELIC OF BONDAGE

Commenting on these statistics, the project director observed, "Let's say that the last state of human bondage still persists, even if its burdens have been considerably lightened."

Ex-Resident Gets Literary Honor

EVALINE NESS

This year's winner of the Caldecott Medal for a distinguished book for younger children, Evaline Michelow Ness, is the illustrator of a new book published today.

"Mr. Miacca," an old English folk tale (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, New York, $3.75) is a humorously-scary folk tale set in Victorian London.

It concerns one Tommy Grimes who goes around the corner when he has been told not to.

Tommy is caught up by Mr. Miacca and taken home in a sack to be served up for supper.

His ingenious ways of escaping from the Miaccas' supper pot are well known to English children, but new to American readers.

Research on the life of the times results in completely authentic protrayal of costumes, architecture and byplay.

FORMER RESIDENT

The artist grew up in Pontiac and graduated from Pontiac Central High School in 1929 as Evaline Michelow.

She worked in the Pontiac City Library from April 1929 to July 1931.

Adah Shelly, retired librarian, knew her and was the source of the material in this article.

Miss Shelly says, "The Caldecott . . . and the Newbery medals (for an older children's book) have come to carry about the same weight in the public library field that the Oscar and Emmy awards do in their fields.

"These medals were donated by Frederic C. Melcher, editor of the Bowker firm of The Publishers' Weekly and are awarded annually at the national convention of the American Library Association."

WEST COAST

Mrs. Ness will receive her medal at the Newbery-Caldecott award dinner, June 27 in San Francisco.

Her award is for a previous book, "Sam, Bangs and Moonshine," a story she both wrote and illustrated.

The Pontiac Library has a number of her illustrated volumes in the children's room.

Mrs. Ness makes her home in New York City. She is a sister of Mrs. Marshall Smith of Okemah Road.

"Tommy Grimes . . . never went around the corner again till he was old enough to go alone." From Mr. Miacca, an English Folk Tale, illustrated by Evaline Ness. Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.

Could I Really Be a Princess?

By BETTY CANARY

My friend Helen and I were discussing the kind of reading our children enjoy now, compared to the books we loved. The old fairy tales seem to have held their own, we agreed.

Helen, who has been married eight years and has seven children, sighed over the phone, "There are times when I feel that I live in a fairy tale. Sometime . . . somewhere, I was a beautiful princess. Then I got kissed and turned into a frog!"

COMES TO ALL

Most mothers have that old froggy feeling at one time or another. No matter that the television cuties whirl around waxing floors while decked out in chiffon gown and spangled slippers; no matter the wide-screen mother who swabs ointment on her darling's chest, twittering "It's the lovingest!" while the child smiles sweetly and takes deep breaths.

★ ★ ★

We know the usual reaction and anyone who doesn't should take a quick turn with a three-year-old and a bottle of nose drops! They don't breathe deeply! They flail at the covers and hit you and scream, "I'm stwangling!"

★ ★ ★

After a few years of this harassment, combined with heaving clothes baskets and scouring pans and cutting your own hair because who has time to go to the beauty parlor . . . well, a frog looks good in comparison.

There comes a time, however, when every woman looks into the mirror and decides that, really, she has to do something to bring out that old princess in her again.

Either she finds that first shining gray hair, or she admits for the first time she cannot keep on calling those wrinkles "laugh crinkles."

HUH?

I can pinpoint the exact moment it happened to me. It was the day young Stuart waved his hand as he ran down the steps and yelled "Goodby pop . . . and mop!"

I started by going to the hairdresser. Then, I discovered all those creams and lotions and facial masques that I am sure have been on the cosmetic shelves for years — while I was on the other side of the store picking up nose drops.

At night I first use my cleansing cream, then my firming lotion, then pat on my night cream, followed by my eye cream. Then I use the cuticle cream, hop into bed and smooth on my hand lotion and foot massage.

I don't know what all this is doing for my wrinkles, but, confidentially, I sure have some nasty bruises.

You see, I haven't figured out yet how to keep from sliding out of the bed.

Trust Kelly Arden to come up with just the right focus on fashion's newest whimsy . . . the canny culotte dress with its "now-you-see-it, now-you-don't" divided skirt. Kelly does it with a neat, side-wrap pleat that plays it like a skirt 'til you set it all in motion; then you uncover that mobile, culotte cut that swings right along with you. Swinging with you, too . . . that rhythmic chevron print in bright colors with white, just right for the lines of this sleeveless, low belted culotte-dress. In easy-care Arnel jersey.

Pill Debate: Prevention or Abortion?

NEW YORK — Is it contraception or abortion? This is th question lawyers are trying to decide about the "morning-after" pill which is being used with increasing frequency as a birth control agent.

According to The Insider's Newsletter, lawyers are wondering whether the use of the pill, which is now being administered in the United States to women claiming rape, runs contrary to existing abortion laws.

The pill is basically a large dose of estrogen taken within 48 hours after intercourse and every day thereafter for a period of four to six days. It brings on a woman's menstrual period, thereby preventing a fertilized egg from attaching to the uterine wall.

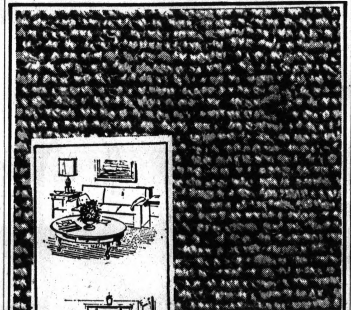

To some lawyers, this ejection of a possibly fertilized egg sounds very much like abortion and, under most existing laws, anyone selling or administering a pill (even to herself) with "intent" to abort or miscarry might be liable to prosecution.

UNTESTED

On the other hand, The Newsletter says a number of doctors are of the opinion that until a fertilized egg has actually implanted in the uterus, a woman cannot be considered pregnant. Therefore, they say, the pill is really a contraceptive rather than an abortive agent.

Although the pills are available everywhere by prescription, no one yet has tried to test the delicate issue in court.

Big Changes Are in Store

Automatic dishwashers may be in for dramatic changes — perhaps within a decade.

Scientists anticipate a machine with two separate compartments, each with its own soap or detergent dispenser and hot water supply, but both operating at once to wash everything from fine crystal to heavy pots.

They even foresee a "silver sanctuary" which will not only wash and clean, but will also polish silverware!

Lifesaving Role of Collapsible Steering Column Cited

SAGINAW (AP)—Field studies show that the collapsible steering column is performing its task of saving lives far beyond the expectations of its designers, a General Motors Corp. official said Wednesday.

"The collapsible steering column and shaft may have changed the steering column from a killer into a lifesaver," said Joseph E. Godfrey, general manager of GM's Saginaw Steering Gear Division.

★ ★ ★

"In conjunction with the safety seat belt, the energy-absorbing steering column is one of the best safety devices on modern cars," he stated.

"The belt holds the driver in his seat and the wheel absorbs the forward impact," Godfrey explained.

WILL BE MANDATORY

General Motors introduced the safety feature on its 1967 models. Godfrey said there are about four million of them on the road.

The collapsible column will be mandatory on all 1968 cars under the federal safety law.

The GM column has been under development for six years, Godfrey said.

★ ★ ★

He said studies had been made of 200 accidents across the country, including head-on collisions, cars hitting trees and light poles and broadside collisions.

NO FIGURES

"The results show that the collapsible column saved many lives," Godfrey said. He gave no figures, however.

Some of the columns only collapsed one-eighth of an inch, while in other accidents they gave the full designed limit of eight and one-quarter inches, he said.

The federal traffic safety director, Dr. William Hadden, described the column as "a major breakthrough of importance to both the industry and the public," in a letter to Godfrey.

Four and seven tenths million color television sets were sold in the U. S. in 1966.

Immolate Selves

EAST LONDON, South Africa (UPI) — Two teen-age African girls died from burns they suffered by setting fire to themselves because their fathers refused to let them marry, police said today.

★ ★ ★

The girls were identified as Elsie Yawa, 19, and Miriam Skade, 13.

Firemen Fight Bingo Ban

WEST MIDDLESEX, Pa. (AP) — Tempers are growing hotter after police shut down a bingo game at a firemen's carnival and now it looks as if there may be no one around to put out fires.

The firemen are so incensed they are threatening to resign on July 14 unless the borough council gets rid of the mayor, who backed the police action.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Arthur Pantall says bingo is illegal and the firemen will have to raise money for a new firehouse in some other way.

Israel Economy Picture 'Bright'

War Cost Estimated at $13 Million a Day

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Unofficial figures estimated Israel spent $13 million a day waging war against its Arab neighbors. Financial experts assessing the war's effect on Israel's emonomy have concluded it could have a positive effect.

French financier Baron Edmond de Rothschild of the famous banking family said last night that there are good prospects for a period of new prosperity in Israel.

The estimates on the war's cost said the five days of fighting may reach a total of $65 million. The figure took into account mobilization and the cost and maintenance of weapons and vehicles and physical damage Israel incurred.

It has been estimated the United States spends $34 million per day fighting the Vietnam war.

★ ★ ★

De Rothschild said the critical days of the war and the tense two weeks before it brought no disorganization to the Israeli economy. Although the Israeli pound climbed to a rate of 4.05 to the dollar during the war, it is now back to under 3.45 to the dollar.

INCREASED BUYING

The Israeli stock market has climbed 20 per cent in the past few weeks, and investors are buying at an increasing rate. Foreign investment has also given a quick shot in the arm to the Israeli construction industry which has dropped to a low point in months before the war.

Another major Israeli industry that promises to soar as a result of the war is tourism.

The war also brought hopes of expanded commerce with the reopening and securing of the port of Elath, briefly blockaded by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, and the possibility that the Suez Canal might be eventually opened to Israeli shipping.

New markets are now opened to Israel with the capture of the West bank of the Jordan river. The nation of Jordan always has needed manufactured goods and has always sought markets for its agricultural products.

At one fell swoop, all the barriers restricting trade between Jordan and Israeli were torn down. Israeli officials now believe Israel can trade with the whole west bank region of Jordan to the mutual benefit of both nations.

Hormones Can Cure Sterilizing Disease

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A painful female disease that often prevents conception can be successfully treated with two female hormones and a third substance that is a male hormone.

The disease is endometriosis, in which the lining of the uterus, or endometrium, grows abnormally, not only within the walls of the womb, but outside it.

The lymph system can carry wildly growing (though not cancerous) cells throughout the body, producing growths in the abdomen, the fallopian tubes, the bowel, the lung, even on the outside of the scalp, a University of Chicago professor of gynecology declared here today.

Dr. Albert B. Lorincz addressed the Clinical Congress of Abdominal Surgeons, "The longer a woman puts off pregnancy," he said in an interview, "the more likely she is to get endometriosis."

After six months treatment with one of the three hormones, he said, the condition is likely to disappear, and in many cases a woman of child-bearing age can become pregnant.

Stilbestrol, an estrogen, is the substance Dr. Lorincz uses, building up to daily doses of up to 300 milligrams for six months or more, after which the disease symptoms melt away. As with all hormones there can be side effects such as nausea and breast tenderness.

Program Nears First Anniversary

Medicare Winning Bill Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medicare's top administrator says delays in payment to patients and doctors are being overcome rapidly as the health care program nears its first anniversary.

While conceding Medicare has encountered this and other problems, Robert M. Ball, Social Security commissioner, told reporters Wednesday that Medicare has improved—and in some cases prolonged—the lives of Americans 65 years of age and older.

Ball said problems were inevitable in what President Johnson called "the largest civilian management effort this nation has undertaken in recent decades." It began July 1, 1966.

Ball said delays in government payments constitute the major source of complaint. But now, he said, doctors' bills on average are being paid in less than 21 days in areas where 90 per cent of all beneficiaries live.

LESS THAN 21 DAYS

The average payment time is less than 21 days in all of the program's 59 insurance company service areas except Maryland and Iowa. Some complainants cited months of delay.

Ball said studies are under way in his agency and in Congress to meet the complaint that some elderly persons have suffered hardship in raising money to pay doctors who refuse to accept assignment of the charges to the government. In such cases, patients must send in a bill marked "paid" in order to get their money back.

★ ★ ★

Ball said when the program was set up "it was expected that physicians generally would be willing to handle the bills directly with the carriers insurance companies in instances where their patients had difficulty advancing the funds."

But Ball added that even doctors who refuse to accept assignment increasingly have been helping their patients recover their payments.

The commissioner said about 57 per cent of doctors accept assignment at least in some cases. But he said the practice varies widely across the country.

Ball listed Ohio, Louisiana and Illinois as areas of greatest resistance. Assignment has best been accepted in part in California, North Dakota, New Hampshire, Colorado, part of New York and South Dakota.

Ball said the agency is studying ways to alleviate hardship cases. He noted that the American Medical Association—which opposed enactment of Medicare—proposed a change in the law to permit patients to be reimbursed on the basis of an itemized doctor's bill—before it has been paid.

Congress currently is considering the proposal and other minor changes.

TOTAL PAYMENTS

Ball said by the end of Medicare's first year, four million people will have received in-patient hospital services under the program. Total payments will be $2.4 billion.

Under the voluntary, $3-a-month supplementary plan, 25 million bills will have been processed, of which 90 per cent are for physicians' services. The cost will be $640 million.

★ ★

Ball said health care standards have been raised as a result of Medicare requirments for participation and that racial barriers have fallen so that in many localities "minority group members now have access to high-quality care for the first time."

'Grass Roots' Head Named

LANSING (AP) — Wayne County Circuit Judge Edward S. Piggins has been named to head a Republican-sponsored campaign to finance a summer camp program for 150 underprivileged Detroit children.

The program, part of the Republicans' "Project Grass Roots," seeks to raise $5,250 to send the children to Tau Beta Camp at Columbiaville, near Lapeer.

Piggins' selection was announced by the project cochairmen, Lt. Gov. William Milliken and GOP State Vice Chairman Earl Kennedy.

Ski Enthusiasts Storm Aussie Slopes

SUNTANNED SKIERS — A group of skiers await their turn to practice during a lesson on Mt. Kosciusko in Australia. Note the short-sleeved shirts on the girls in the foreground: the warm sun beating on the snow helps skiers keep their tans year-round.

SYDNEY (AP) — Every weekend for the next few months, 10,000 or so Australians will be skiing in snow country in the southeast corner of the continent.

For most the thrill of skiing is new, because this is the fastest growing sport in Australia. Every year there are thousands of new participants, many of them the young men and women of Syndey and Melbourne who spend the summer riding the breaker on their Pacific surfing beaches.

Australia has thousands of square miles of snow country — tourists officials say proudly the area is larger than the whole of Switzerland (15,944 square miles).

Before World War II skiing was a sport for the rich with only one hotel and a couple of chalets in the Southern Alps near Canberra in the area of the Victoria-New South Wales border.

* * *

Today there are alpine villages, scores of hotels, motels and chalets, and hundreds of private ski lodges, plus ski lifts, beauty salons and laundry services.

$67 A WEEK

Package trips are available for as little as $67 for six days or half that amount for a weekend; or it can be more expensive with first class accommodation in a hotel or private chalet.

Many skiers drive from Sydney or Melbourne for a weekend in the snow leaving Friday night, and returning Sunday night. You reach snow country 250 miles out of Sydney and 120 miles out of Melbourne.

Some Sydney girls take to the snow country the bikinis they've been wearing on Bondi Beach during the summer. There's nothing like a winter sun blazing down on snow out of a cloudless sky to maintain the summer tan — or burn yod up if you missed the summer sun.

* * *

The snow came early this year, and some were skiing before May was out. Normally there is enough snow for skiing from June until October or later, with August being reckoned the best month.

Open House Set

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Open house is scheduled today and Friday at the denominational building of the Christian Reformed Church Publishing House marking the opening of an addition housing the denomination's home missions and foreign missions departments.

Dangers Are Seen in Changing Genes

By Science Service

NEW YORK — Oversimplification by scientists studying human inheritance could lead to futile and dangerous attempts to alter human life.

Dr. Barry Commoner of Washington University, St. Louis, told an audience at the New School for Social Research here that ready acquisition of beauty and wisdom, immortality and the creation of life, now given as the goals of molecular biology, are highly unlikely.

Deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) is believed to be the source of each individual's inherited uniqueness. The genetic code is believed to operate universally in all types of living things.

"Since there are known chemical methods to convert individual DNA nucleotides into different ones," he said, "it should become possible, given the foregoing conclusions, to fashion artificially DNA to specify a given inherited feature."

Claims have been made for future control of the sex of off-spring as well as his height. Such troubles as arthritis, obesity and allergy will be easily handled, and there will be genetic therapy for cancer, diabetes and mental defects.

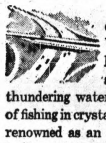

But already misleading oversimplification in detecting and treating PKU has led to laws in 37 states requiring tests for the disease in all newborn children, Dr. Commoner pointed out.

JUDGE FROWNS ON MINISKIRT — Judge A. A. Scott of Los Angeles Superior Court took one look at the miniskirt worn by Gwynne Schaffer (center), 23, yesterday and refused to listen to her plea for a divorce. She explained she was on her way to work in a shop which sells miniskirts and that such attire is mandatory, but the judge told her to come back next week more suitably clad. With her is her witness, Roni Bress, 19, and attorney, Mitchell M. Geffen.

'Hippity-Hoppity' Bugs Out; Children Blue

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Twenty-five kindergarten pupils graduate from the West Side Elementary School today with heavy hearts.

They're saddened because their class pet—a grasshopper—is missing.

Nicknamed "Hippity-Hoppity" by the children, the grasshopper first appeared in the classroom three months ago.

His egg was apparently in some plants the teacher, Mary Jackson, brought to the classroom. Then one morning Hippity appeared, a quarter of an inch in length. He grew to one-and-one-half inches.

FED BY STUDENTS

The first thing the children did when they arrived each morning was look for Hippity. After a few minutes of calling, Hippity appeared, received a few blades of grass from the children, and then spent most of the morning bouncing around geraniums and window ledges.

But Hippity's favorite activity seemed to be jumping on the children, crawling along their arms and sometimes onto their foreheads.

"The children loved it," Mrs. Jackson said. "They all drew pictures of him. Even the children from the other classes visited Hippity."

But then during a heat spell this week a door was left ajar and apparently Hippity hopped out.

★ ★ ★

The children gingerly canvassed the lawn looking for their pet but to no avail.

Court Rejects Appeal of 28 Viet Protesters

LANSING (UPI) — The State Court of Appeals yesterday upheld the conviction of 28 Ann Arbor and University of Michigan demonstrators on charges of trespassing on federal property during a 1965 anti-Vietnam war sit-in.

In a 2-to-1 decision, the court ruled there wasn't any infringement on the free speech or assembly rights of the demonstrators.

The court threw out an appeal of the demonstrators who said their protest was protected under international law. They said the war in Vietnam is an immoral war by international legal standards.

"The questions sought to be reviewed are so unsubstantial as to need no argument or formal submission," the court said in rejecting this argument.

The demonstrators were convicted in Ann Arbor Municipal Court of refusing to leave the city's Selective Service office after closing hours. Most of the protesters received fines of $50 and jail sentences of between 15 and 20 days.

CIRCUIT COURT

They appealed their case to the Washtenaw County Circuit Court where the convictions were upheld and then later to the State Court of Appeals.

Appeals Judge Thomas G. Kavanagh dissented from yesterday's order. Voting to uphold the convictions were Judges Timothy Quinn and Louis D. McGregor.

★ ★ ★

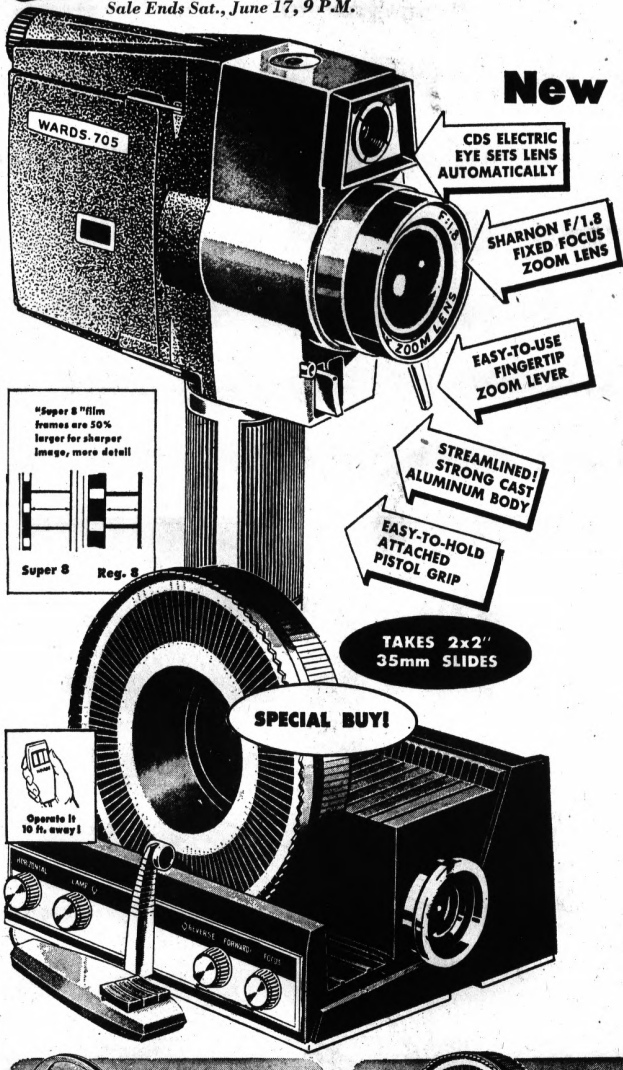

The demonstrators still can appeal to the State Supreme Court or ask for a rehearing in the appeals court.

Added Benefits Likely for World War I Veterans

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—A lot of World War I veterans ask me what GI benefits are available to them now and if Congress is thinking about providing additional ones.

Several bills are being considered that would increase pensions and other benefits for veterans of all wars, dating back to the Spanish-American War. And some added benefits are sure to win approval.

Also, there are several proposals, with little chance of approval, to put the veterans of World War I vintage in the same pension category as Spanish-American War veterans, who have special status.

Although the Spanish-American War is fading into history, there are still over 9,000 surviving veterans and more than 54,000 dependents on the Veterans Administration's pension rolls.

* * *

These veterans, unlike those of World War I, World War II and Korea, don't have to be disabled to receive full pensions.

A Spanish-American war veteran who served at least 90 days service receives $135.45 monthly and if only 70 days he receives $88.04 monthly. Several bills in Congress would raise this.

The proud boast of the Spanish-American War men is that they constituted the only completely voluntary army in modern history.

In view of their advanced age, they get special consideration for prompt admission to VA hospitals.

Bills before Congress to put the doughboys of World War I on the same plane would provide pensions ranging as high as $300 a month.

TREMENDOUS COST

As in past years, congressmen have gone to bat for these proposals, but they run into the brick wall of the tremendous cost. Nearly two million World War I veterans are still alive and even a $100 monthly pension would cost the taxpayers $200 million a month.

Moreover, demands that more be done for these veterans have subsided somewhat since the futile bonus march of 1932, designed to force Congress to cash the 20-year endowments voted in 1924. It was two years before Congress arranged payment. Up to then the World War I veterans had received little federal help except for a few "old soldiers homes."

But by the end of World War II the philosophy of federal help to veterans was more liberal under New Deal influence, and a massive program came into being. World War I veterans came partly under the umbrella.

* * *

There has been a change in emphasis on demands to Congress as World War II veterans and later those of Korea began taking from World War I veterans the leading roles in veterans organizations. Now coming into the picture is the new veteran—the man of the cold war and Vietnam.

There have never been any educational or home loan or small business benefits for World War I veterans, but relatively few needed them even in the late 1940s when the program was born. Their average age now is 72.

With phasing out this summer of the home loan program for World War II veterans, their benefits are coming more into line with those of World War I.

But veterans of World War I and World War II—along with those of Korea—remain eligible for pensions if they served 90 days and if their income is as low as $1,800 a year for a veteran with no dependents, or up to $3,000 for a man with more than three dependents. And there is a separate program for disability compensation.

Hospital benefits are available to all veterans in VA hospitals, but there are priorities. Veterans disabled in line of duty get first chance at bed vacancies. Next are veterans retired or discharged for a disability and who need treatment for non-service connected ailments. Last are veterans with a non-service connected disability who state under oath they cannot pay the cost of treatment elsewhere.

Any VA office can tell you whether you're eligible.

Liberal Abortion Laws Pushed by AMA Trustees

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A national effort to create more liberal abortion laws will be urged on the American Medical Association's House of Delegates next week in Atlantic City.

The AMA's Board of Trustees will recommend to the delegates that abortions be legalized in accordance with the Model Penal Code of the American Law Institute.

Laws reflecting these provisions have recently been enacted in Colorado and North Carolina.

Instead of limiting abortion to cases which threaten "death of the mother or serious impairment of her physical and mental health," the laws would add these considerations: that the child would likely be born with grave permanent physical deformities or that the pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

Dr. Robert E. Hall, Columbia University obstetrician and gynecologist, and president of the Association for the Study of Abortion in New York City, is expected to stress the need for new laws.

Current Books

INTO THE MAINSTREAM, CONVERSATIONS WITH LATIN - AMERICAN WRITERS, by Luis Harss and Barbara Dohmann. (Harper & Row $7.95): Latin-American authors are entering into the mainstream of literature and this presents a critical appraisal of 10 from Argentina, Mexico, Colombia, Peru, Cuba, Guatemala, Uruguay and Brazil.

Two reporter - critics, Luis Harss and Barbara Dohmann, toured the continent to interview eight writers and visited two others in Europe.

"Into The Mainstream" shows the diversity of Latin-American writing, the influence of European and North American authors in a region which had no very strong traditions only 20 or 30 years ago but is now reeling in self-discovery and the effects of reading William Faulkner and John Dos Passos."

There is a general impression, the reporter - critics say, that the final stage of a process has been reached: "The mid-sixties are beginning to look like a turning point . . . It is too soon to say whether the few figures of real distinction that are emerging from underdevelopment are a freak or a promise."

HO CHI MINH: SELECTED WRITINGS, 1920-66 (Praeger, $6.95): These selections tend to support what the late Bernard Fall said in his foreword, that some leaders have time to write well and some do not and "Uncle Ho" belongs to the latter group.

Of course there are exceptions. The straggly - bearded communist president of North Vietnam in 1962: "I'm an old man, a very old man. An old man likes to have a little air of mystery about himself. I like to hold on to my little mysteries."

Charming? Well, it came from Ho and anything less than thunderbolts from a warlord is usually remarkable.

For the record — and that, I suppose, is what this book is for — there are his drumbeat denunciations of progressing American policy in Vietnam. But again none of it adds much or is newly instructive on what to expect in Vietnam.

As he said, Uncle Ho likes to hold on to his little mysteries.

THE SAVAGE AND BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY. By Alan McGlashin, Houghton, Mifflin. $4.

Here is a quiet account of an expedition into the sometimes fascinating, sometimes terrifying world of man's mind.

It cuts across many intellectual categories — theology, philosophy, mythology, science, anthropology, psychology and many others — but its chief concern is with the unconscious mind in its present state.

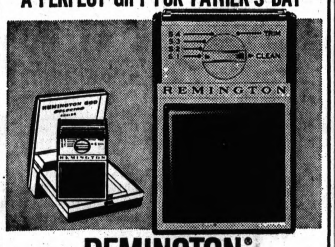

The author is a psychiatrist well schooled in many aspects of knowledge, yet his exposition is clear and comprehendable for the layman.

The interesting thing is that in the midst of his erudite but quite clear exposition, the reader often finds himself muttering, "Yes, that rings true," or "I'd often wondered about that," or "That's putting it into words I've been feeling."

* * *

This is a contemplative book, suggestive of ideas that raise new questions. It creates sparks in the mind that glow long after the pages have been turned.

Irishmen Get Glimpse of Kennedy Trio

SHANNON, Ireland (AP) — With an Irishman named John F. Kennedy pointing out the sights, Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her two children drove through the Irish countryside in a large bus with big glass windows to give the people of her late husband's ancestral homeland a glimpse of his family.

Mrs. Kennedy, 9-year-old Caroline and 6-year-old John arrived by Irish airliner at Shannon Airport to begin a vacation in Ireland.

★ ★ ★

"There are thousands of people who want to see you," Foreign Minister Frank Aiken told the President's widow. "We have a large bus with big glass windows. It's very comfortable and it would be very gracious of you, Mrs. Kennedy, if you should decide to travel by the bus."

Smiling, Mrs. Kennedy readily agreed and took the first seat beside the door for the 85-mile ride to Waterford. There she and her children will stay at Woodstown House, 10 miles down the Barrow River from Dunganstown, from which the President's great-grandfather Patrick Kennedy emigrated to America.

NO CLOSE KINSHIP

The 34-year-old John F. Kennedy in charge of the bus claimed no close kinship to Mrs. Kennedy's husband, but airport officials said he had recently visited the United States and had seen members of the Kennedy family.

Mrs. Kennedy's plane from New York was delayed 40 minutes by fog.

★ ★ ★

Stepping off in a belted blue coat with the hem three inches above her knees, she said: "I'm just happy to be here with my children in the land my husband loved so much.

"It's a bit like coming home. I do hope we will come back again and again."

GREEN CARPET

A crowd of 300 to 500 — including some relatives of the Kennedy family — applauded repeatedly as the President's widow and her children walked across a green carpet to an airport lounge.

"That kind of reaction is very rare here," said an airport official.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Kennedy is making her third visit to Ireland but it is the children's first.

They were accompanied by their host, Wall Street broker Murray McDonnell, his wife and seven of their eight children. McDonnell has rented the 20-room mansion near Waterford where the party will stay.

NOT RELATIVES

Two other Kennedys also were on the flight — Tom Kennedy, public relations man for the Irish airline, Aer Lingus, and David Kennedy, the flight crew's first officer. They are not relatives of the late President's family.

Mrs. Kennedy was hatless, her brown hair hanging to her shoulders. She wore low-heeled shoes and white gloves and carried a brown bag.

★ ★ ★

Caroline was in a gray coat with a white ribbon in her hair. Neatly pressed despite the hop over the Atlantic, John had on fawn shorts and a matching jacket. He and his sister wore red sandals.

70-Foot Fall Fatal

New Romney Brochures Hail 'Winning Ways'

LANSING (UPI) — Slick campaign literature promoting Gov. Romney as the best man to be the next Republican presidential candidate soon will be distributed throughout the nation.

A Detroit printing firm is printing 250,000 color brochures hailing Romney as "a winning Republican."

All of the brochures will be sent to the national Romney for President office in Washington, D.C., which is headed by Leonard Hall, former national Republican chairman.

A four-page leaflet produced by the Michigan Republican State Central Committee was sent to Hall this week for national distribution.

★ ★ ★

The leaflet, which had a printing of 38,000, is to be included in the latest Romney for President newsletter mailed to Republican leaders throughout the country.

'THE ROMNEY WAY'

Called "The Romney Way to GOP Victories," the leaflet extolls Romney's success in helping two novice politicians win seats in the Michigan House of Representatives in special elections.

One Romney-backed candidate upset the son of imprisoned Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa in a normally solid Democratic district.

Throughout the leaflet, Romney is shown campaigning with the GOP candidates in his usual style — shirt sleeves.

★ ★ ★

About 2,000 of the Romney leaflets will be distrubted to young Republicans at a convention in Omaha, Neb., June 23. Romney will be a convention speaker.

IN VARIOUS STATES

An aide to Romney said the color brochures will be distributed to the new "Romney for President" offices springing up in the various states. Such offices already are being operated in Alaska, Iowa, Utah and Wisconsin.

A large, portrait-size colored photograph of Romney, taken in February during a six-state Far West trip, dominates the brochure.

Eight short paragraphs of written material, each topped with a headline booming Romney's role as a governor and private citizen, tell the Romney story.

★ ★ ★

Under the heading "Proven Administrator," Romney is portrayed as "one man who knows how to get results in the American system."

Romney, elected governor three times, also is credited with cleaning up the "financial mess that made Michigan the laughing stock of the nation" in 1959.

★ ★ ★

Other highlights of the brochure feature Romney as a civil rights leader, a man with longtime interest in international affairs and a successful business leader as president of American Motors during its heyday and "his proven appeal to younger voters."

U.S. War Toll for Week Hits 2-Month Low

SAIGON (AP) — American casualties in the Vietnam war last week were the lowest in nearly two months, and those of South Vietnamese and enemy forces also dropped.

The decrease reflected a general lull in the ground fighting.

★ ★ ★

U.S. military headquarters said 176 Americans were killed and 928 were wounded in the week ending last Saturday. These figures compared with 214 killed and 1,161 wounded in the previous week. They were the lowest since the week ending April 2, when 148 were killed and 1,031 were wounded.

U.S. Command reported 1,156 Communist troops killed compared with 2,420 the previous week.

FIRST FOR S. VIET

The South Vietnamese command said 215 of its men were killed last week compared with 235 a week earlier. Vietnamese headquarters began announcing for the first time on a regular basis the number of wounded government troops, giving the total for last week at 496.

Casualties among other allied forces in Vietnam totaled 18 killed and 26 wounded last week, compared with 15 killed and 29 wounded in the previous week.

The week's casualties brought the total number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war to 10,956 by unofficial tabulation and the total wounded to 66,130.

U.S. Command reported 15 American servicemen missing in action last week, compared with one the previous week. South Vietnamese forces said there were 38 government troops missing; there were 55 the week before.

U.S. troop strength in Vietnam rose by 1,000 men last week to a total of 463,000. The strength of other foreign allied forces remained unchanged at 54,000 while enemy strength was estimated to have increased 2,000 to a total of 294,000 North Vietnamese and Vietcong troops.

Hitchhiking Con Chooses Badly

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Leslie Norwood Carter, 21, of Memphis, who walked away from state prison Tuesday during a baseball game, was hitchhiking through Nashville Wednesday when a motorist stopped for him.

The driver was Allen Berry, a correctional officer at the prison. Carter was back behind bars a short time later.

Needed by Dirksen to Beat 1-Man, 1-Vote

Georgia's Petition to Congress Is Lost

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Georgia legislative petition, one of those which Sen. Everett M. Dirksen hopes will force Congress to call a constitutional convention, appears lost in the mails, misplaced or otherwise astray.

Neither the House nor Senate Judiciary Committee has an official communication from Georgia filing such a petition, though it apparently was in Washington at one point. These committees are where such petitions are supposed to wind up.

★

The Senate Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional amendments does have what it understands is an accurate copy of the resolution which cleared the Georgia Legislature in March 1965.

After the legislature acted, the Library of Congress here received the Georgia call for a convention.

MAILED BACK

The Library mailed it back, noting it should have been sent to Congress.

Apparently there has been no official communication to Washington from Georgia on the matter since then.

★ ★ ★

Georgia is one of the 32 states which Dirksen counts as officially aligned behind his drive for a constitutional convention on the Supreme Court's one man-one vote ruling.

The Illinois senator and Republican leader has failed twice to get the required two-thirds backing in the Senate for a proposed constitutional amendment to permit one branch of a state legislature to be apportioned on a basis other than population.

★ ★ ★

His support for a constitutional convention is an attempt to reach the same goal by a different route.

The constitution directs that Congress shall call a convention on application from legislatures of two-thirds of the states, or 34 of the 50 states.

TWO MORE

Dirksen's declared intention is to move in the Senate that Congress call a convention when, and if, two more states ask for one.

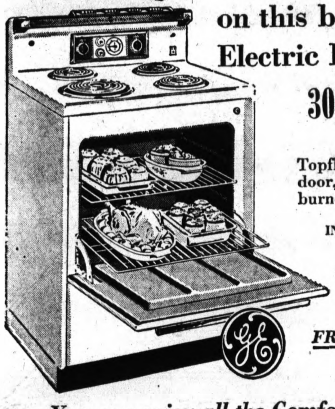

When the apparent absence of an official document from Georgia was called to the attention of Dirksen's aides, they took the attitude this was of no consequence in the present situation — that the Georgia Legislature's action was established by its record.

★ ★ ★

Asked the prospects that two additional states might ask for a convention, they repeated what they have been saying for weeks — that action by additional — but unspecified — legislatures was likely in the next couple of weeks.

Introducing the American beer with a German accent.

It's not every day that we get to use the word "introducing" in the beer business.

In fact, sometimes it's not even every century. (You can count the significant changes in the history of beer on the fingers of your right hand.)

Today is the day for Drewrys.

It all started a few months ago, when we received some astounding news from Germany.

It seemed that a hundred brewmasters over there—men who've been brewing great beers the old-world way generation after generation—were suddenly changing their way of brewing.

It was hard to believe.

So we did some double-checking. And sure enough, brewmasters in Munich, Frankfurt, Stuttgart, and in other cities from one end of Germany to the other, were changing.

What they were changing to, we discovered, was Durch-fliessen; a new technique in brewing that, incredibly, makes German beer taste even better than before.

Right then and there, we knew that if Durch-fliessen could make their beers taste even better, it could make our beer taste even better.

So we brought it home to Indiana and put it to work on Drewrys.

And after tasting the first batch (not to mention the second, the third, and the tenth) everybody at the brewery agreed. "It does make our beer taste even better."

So from now on, we'll be brewing the Durch-fliessen way.

And what we'll be ending up with is a traditionally light American beer, plus a little something German in the taste department.

That's what the American beer with a German accent is all about.

Think of it this way:

If you drink American beer most of the time, and German beer some of the time, here's the beer you can drink all the time.

Compromises on Advanced-Study Requirement

School Board Acts on Teacher Code

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education Wednesday reached a compromise with the attorney general's office on the number of semester hours of advanced study to be required for a permanent teaching certificate.

This was the only major change in a new teacher certification code tentatively adopted by the board on May 24.

The board approved revision of the code to require 18 instead of 20 semester hours beyond a bachelor's degree for permanent teacher certification.

The reduction represents a compromise between what the attorney general's office believes is legally supportable and the number of hours asked by some Michigan educators and teacher organizations.

The Michigan Education Association and the Michigan Federation of Teachers had urged 30 semester hours be required for permanent certification. This, the teacher groups said, would upgrade the quality of the state's teachers.

Many school superintendents, particularly in the Detroit metropolitan area, said the stiffer requirement would make it too difficult to recruit teachers.

The attorney general's office first held only 15 semester hours should be required.

★ ★ ★

Another change, recommended by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, requires school superintendents to affirm under oath that they have made all reasonable efforts to hire certified teachers before taking on a teacher with a substitute permit.

'GREAT IMPROVEMENT'

Board member Marilyn Jean Kelley of Ann Arbor termed the code "a great improvement over the 1939 version."

"The ways children are taught and the knowledge they receive are changing elements and the code absolutely must not be out of date," she said. "I am proud of this accomplishment."

Portions of the code will become effective July 1. The section affecting the number of semester credits required will not become effective in Michigan teacher training institution until July 1, 1970.

Boy Swimmer Loses His Leg

BRIGHTON (UPI) — An inboard motorboat struck a young swimmer last night, severing his left leg and severely lacerating the other.

Doctors said Tim Kovach, 9, Brighton, faces possible amputation of his remaining leg.

State Police said the boy apparently was swimming in Woodland Lake when he was hit by the propeller of the boat owned by his father.

The father, Thomas, and his wife went into shock and could not be questioned about the accident, police said.

Ike Talks to Kin's Class

BRYN MAWR, Pa. (AP) — Well wishes from grandfather Dwight D. Eisenhower made commencement day more memorable today for 65 young women at Shipley School.

★ ★

Former President Eisenhower was called on for the main address to the graduating class that included his attractive 18-year-old granddaughter, Anne Eisenhower.

★ ★ ★

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Eisenhower, and her grandmother, Mamie, joined other proud relatives in congratulating the graduates at the ceremonies on the campus of Bryn Mawr College in this Philadelphia suburb.

★ ★ ★

YOUNG COMMUTER

Anne has been attending Shipley's College Preparatory School for the past two years, commuting from her parents' home in nearby Phoenixville, Pa. She plans to attend the University of Massachusetts.

Third Radiation Source in Space

Carbon Suspected by 7 U. S. Astronomers

By Science Service

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis. — The third element broadcasting radio waves from a heavenly object has been detected, the American Astronomical Society was told here Tuesday.

The newly discovered radiation probably comes from carbon, according to studies by six Harvard College Observatory astronomers and one from the National Radio Astronomy Observatory in Green Bank, W. Va.

This discovery could enable more complete and detailed maps of the Milky Way galaxy to be made of the Milky Way's spiral structure in greater detail than was possible optically.

Scientists will also be able to use the newly found radiation in calculating abundances of the elements in the universe.

★ ★ ★

Besides hydrogen, the other element previously known to emit radio waves from sources in the sky is helium. Deuterium, a heavy form of hydrogen, has been sought and reportedly detected by the Russians, but this has not been confirmed.

EMIT RADIATION

They hydroxyl ion, a charged combination of the elements of hydrogen and oxygen, has also been found to emit microwave radiation.

The radio waves from carbon were discovered when the astronomers were looking for radio emission at a frequency (5009 megacycles) where they expected to find further evidence of helium, or possibly for hydrogen.

They found five helium sources, but they also detected two other objects sending out radio waves believed unlikely to be from either helium or hydrogen.

★ ★ ★

These objects broadcast at a slightly different frequency (5011.33 megacycles), which was far enough from the expected frequency so that the scientists are fairly sure it was not simply an error in observing helium or hydrogen.

BROKE SIGNALS

The radio wave observations were made using the National Radio Astronomy Observatory's 140-foot antenna, equipped with a 21-channel spectral-line radiometer which broke the incoming signals down into their different frequencies.

Drs. P. Palmer, B. Zuckerman, H. Penfield and A. E. Lilley of Harvard, with Dr. Peter G. Mezger of the NRAO, made the observations, reported to the meeting by Dr. Palmer.

The theoretical basis for assigning the measured radio wave line to carbon was worked out by Dr. Leo Goldberg, director of Harvard College Observatory, and graduate student Andrea K. Dupree.

★ ★ ★

Both the observations and the theoretical studies were supported by the National Science Foundation, which also finances the NRAO. Additional support came from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ahh, technology!

Carnegie Tech recently demonstrated a suitcase-size computer console that can be plugged into any computer in the country by telephone.

Tale of Woe in British Columbia

His Plans for Driveway Are a Washout

RICHMOND, B.C. (AP) — Curtis Eystone decided replacing some of his lawn with concrete would cut down on his mowing. Now he has a lake and wishes he had some lawn left to mow.

Eystone planned to fill in a big chunk of his half-acre lawn with a large, curved driveway leading from a new bridge over a ditch in front of his property.

★ ★ ★

As the last load of concrete arrived Tuesday, the old wooden bridge collapsed under the 21-ton truck.

Firemen arrived and began trying to wash out the six tons of hardening concrete.

CRANE FAILED

A crane tried to lift the truck and the cable snapped, plunging the truck, nose down, deeper into the ditch.

Two more cranes came and moved the truck. But in the process they chewed up the driveway, knocked down fences, uprooted trees — and broke the water main leading to the house, creating the lake.

★ ★ ★

When Eystone's wife and 2-month-old son Michael got home, they found about 200 spectators outside and no water inside. They moved to a hotel.

The lake in Eystone's front yard still was growing Wednesday night, fed by water from the main flowing down foot-deep ruts.

LOT OF DIGGING!

"We don't know where the main broke," Eystone said, "so we're going to have to dig about 170 feet from the main to the house, and there goes what's left of the lawn.

"My yard looks like a Second World War battlefield. Damage is about $5,000 to the place, and $25,000 to the truck, but the trucking firm says to go ahead and have repairs made, so that's one problem off our minds.

★ ★ ★

"I don't like mowing grass, and I don't like concrete any more, either, but I haven't figured out which is worse."

Inmate Finds Love Recording for Blind

NORFOLK, Mass. (AP) — The Massachusetts state prison has a program in which inmate volunteers record books and papers for use by blind persons.

One of the inmates did several recordings for a girl student so well that the girl came to meet him at the prison.

The inmate fell in love with the girl and, in spite of prison walls, he did a pretty good courting job. Prison officials say he will marry the girl when he wins a parole in a few months.

Divorce Fight Spills Dirt

CHICAGO (AP) — A Circuit Court ruling that onions can live in peace beside roses has expanded the togetherness idea to include "his" and "hers" gardens.

Frances Virgilio filed for divorce from her husband, Michael, in March, alleging cruelty. Judge Hyman Feldman issued an injunction forbidding them from interfering with one another.

Mrs. Virgilio charged in court Wednesday that her husband of 30 years violated the injunction by heaving flowers she planted near his vegetable patch into a garbage can. Virgilio was accused of then planting corn, peas and other edible s where the flowers were.

Virgilio said his wife had never grown flowers until he started a vegetable garden.

★ ★ ★

Judge Feldman told the couple to go home, measure the garden plot and to return to court so he can arrange for "his" and "her" gardens.

State Tourism Chief Reports

Business Is Needed Year-Round, He Says

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan must become a winter, fall and spring vacationland as well as a summer playground if the state is to assure continued growth of its tourist industry, says the director of the State Tourist Council.

★ ★ ★

Seventy per cent of the state's annual tourist business now is done between May and September, says William McGraw.

"We expect that 1967 will find Michigan with more than 13 million tourists," he said, "and the vast majority will come in the summer when our existing accommodations are in greatest demand.

★ ★ ★

"Without significant investment for new motels, resorts and additions to camp grounds, the greatest potential lies in utilizing existing facilities during less crowded periods of the year."

ASSESSMENT

McGraw's comments are contained in an assessment of the state's tourist industry in the current issue of the Michigan State Economic Record, a publication of Michigan State University's Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

★ ★ ★

Vacationers in Michigan have increased spending from $650 million to $1 billion in the past five years, McGraw reports. The Tourist Council has set its next five-year goal at $1.5 billion.

Bank Holdup Suspect Held in Kalamazoo

VICKSBURG (AP) — Donald A. Broadhead, 21, of Pritchard, Ala., named in a federal warrant charging bank robbery, was held at the Kalamazoo County Jail under $50,000 bond following his appearance Wednesday before Federal Commissioner Lloyd Fayling of Vicksburg.

★ ★ ★

Broadhead is one of two men allegedly involved in a $40,000 holdup of the McKinley Branch of the American Bank and Trust Co. in South Bend, Ind.

Fayling said Broadhead was attempting to obtain a lawyer and was to appear in court later to either demand or waive examination.

★ ★ ★

The federal warrant also charges that Broadhead assaulted Noel Knutson, a bank employe, with a gun.

POLICE CHASE

Broadhead and a companion, William Carey Edwards, 36, of Garden City, Mich., were apprehended in Three Rivers following a police chase and gun battle, police said. Edwards apparently suffered a bullet wound of the wrist and underwent an operation Wednesday in Three Rivers Hospital, where he was under police guard.

★ ★ ★

Police and hospital officials have declined to comment on Edwards' condition or the operation.

GREETS SECRETARY'S CHILDREN — President Johnson bends over to greet the three children of Alexander Trowbridge, his new secretary of commerce, before their father took his oath yesterday at the White House. Principals Are Appointed at 3 Elementary Schools

Pontiac School Affairs

Three elementary school principals were appointed by the Pontiac School District Board of Education last night.

Hired by the board after recommendations from the administration were:

● Francis W. Staley, former Pontiac Central High School principal, as head of Webster Elementary School. He replaces Mrs. Edith Roach Snyder who voluntarily retired.

● Laurence Beamer, former teacher at Webster School and past Pontiac Education Association president, to principal of Crofoot Elementary School. He succeeds Thor Petersen who has been made coordinator of elementary-secondary Community Action Programs.

● George Martuneac, principal of Carleton and Loren Eyler elementary schools in Airport, as principal of Wilson Elementary School. He replaces David Crawford who accepted an elementary school principalship in Walled Lake.

Other appointments okayed by the school board were:

● Edward Dauw from administrative assistant at Pontiac Northern High School to assistant principal at Central High. He takes over for Wesley Mass who has been made director of secondary education.

● Graham Lewis from vocational adjustment program in special education to assistant supervisor of special education-mentally handicapped program. It is a new position.

● Loren Sutton from a data processing supervisor in the U.S. Air Force to manager of data processing. It is a new position under director Melvyn Staebler.

★ ★ ★

Board member Dr. Robert R. Turpin called for information in advance on the selection of administrative candidates rather than rubber-stamping the administration's selections the night of the meeting. He emphasized, though, that he was not against these recommendations.

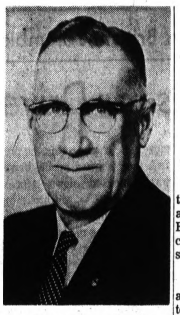

He received support from two other members but Russel L. Brown explained that the current procedure is standard practice almost eveywhere.

Martuneac, 39, was among 15 candidates for the three elementary positions. He has headed the two elementary schools and the federal proverty program in Airport for six years.

He was characterized by the administration as having an "excellent biracial teaching and administrative" background, "a very affable personality and keen interest in the Wilson community."

★ ★ ★

Martuneac was hired at a salary of $13,000 and Sutton, 27 of Waterford Township at $7,200 for the school year.

More Teachers Will Be Hired

To Cut Class Sizes at Elementary Levels

Eight teaching positions for the coming school year were added by the Pontiac Board of Education last night to reduce class sizes at elementary schools.

★ ★ ★

The extra teachers will be unassigned when hired and will go to elementary schools where needed to reduce first- and second-grade class sizes and to take care of additional students beyond projected enrollment figures.

A total of 467 elementary teachers were already planned for the coming school year.

This total would provide for estimated average pupil-teacher ratios of 25.6 to 1 in kindergarten, 25 for first grade and 29.4 for second through sixth grades.

★ ★ ★

Asst. Supt. Richard Fell said he hopes six of the extra teachers will reduce the first and second grades to about 25 students per teacher.

NOT INCLUDED

He told the board the other two extra teachers would take care of students who were not included in the forecast of enrollments.

Elementary enrollments in the past two years have surpassed estimates by 257 and 371 pupils.

More than $51,000 will be included in the 1967-68 budget for salaries for the eight teachers.

★ ★ ★

In other business, the board commended 22 instructional and three noninstructional personnel, who are retiring, for many years of faithful service.

★ ★ ★

And Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer was authorized to apply for a $120,000 grant under Title 3 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act for planning and development of the human resources center.

Instruction Program Is Target

PCH Faculty Workshop Set

A 10-day workshop for faculty of Pontiac Central High School will begin this month to help improve the school's instructional program, it was announced at last night's Pontiac Board of Education meeting.

Administrators, teachers, sociologists, students, parents and citizens will study and discuss the following topics at half-day sessions from June 26 to July 11:

● Pupil behavior.

● Civil rights as related to human rights and the implications for instruction.

● The school program as it existed in 1966-67 and the school program as perceived by students, parents and citizens.

● Blocks to disadvantaged students realizing their potential.

● Appropriate instructional methods and techniques for working with disadvantaged students.

Numerous problems concerning students, teachers and parents at Central High came to a head last January when a fight erupted after a basketball game.

Wesley Maas, former assistant principal at Central and now director of secondary education, will be workshop director.

★ ★ ★

Dr. David Booth of Oakland University's sociology department will serve as consultant and discussion leader.

Board Vice President Russell Brown remarked that more time should be spent informing parents at such conferences rather than concentrating on students.

The workshop was approved as part of the 1966-67 Elementary and Secondary Education Act Title I funds.

In other business, the board approved a $12,000 teacher's in-service program on the contribution of minority groups.

The board's human relations citizens committee had recommended a course at Michigan State University, instructional materials will be prepared and books and audio-visual materials will be purchased during the next year.

Four members were tentatively approved by the board to be added to their 28-member human relations committee.

The committee recently caused a stir when they proposed integration of two junior high schools.

★ ★ ★

The names of John C. Coates of the Civic Association of Hammond Lake Estates, Charles Elliott of Washington Park Association, Mrs. Lucille Mihay of Upper Long Lake Woods Civic Association and Mrs. Nenner S. Buckhaulter are to be sent to the human relations committee for their reaction.

Mrs. Buckhaulter, 183 Crystal Lake and a group of "concerned Negro parents" have been invited to the board meeting June 28 to publicly express their views why the committee's proposal should be adopted.

Last month the board ruled that they will not desegregate Washington and Jefferson junior highs by changing attendance boundary lines until the proposal has been studied.

Police, Residents Meet on Warren Racial Crisis

WARREN (AP) — More than 200 people sat in a sweltering school auditorium Wednesday, mostly baiting police and city officials for their handling of a near-riot in an integrated subdivision of this otherwise all-white Detroit suburb.

About 100 others, mostly teenagers and children, kept a quiet vigil sitting on curbs—behind police barracades near the previously damaged home of Corado Bailey.

★ ★ ★

"Everything that has happened until last night has been a complete fiasco," said home owners leader Robert Haynes, "both our group and the city need to take a stand.

"You people can protest to your little heart's desire, legally without interfering with anyone else's rights. We are here to find out how to do it," Haynes said.

WHITE WIFE

Bailey, a Negro skilled tradesman, moved into the area 10 days ago with his white wife and their children.

A Negro family moved into the subdivision a little more than two years ago.

Haynes said the greatest fear of the home-owners association is that any trouble would allow "outsiders to come in and give our people trouble."

Windows have been broken and telephone lines cut at the Bailey home. Tuesday night police moved in a riot squad to clear the area. People claimed they were orderly and the squad should not have been used.

AMID CATCALLS

"I have been very patient with you people," Acting Police Commissioner Charles Groesbeck said in the midst of a storm of boos and catcalls. "I've had pressure groups breathing down my collar since they moved in. I've kept uniformed policemen and marked cars out because I had confidence in you people.

"Things went all right for three and one-half days, then the trouble started."

He told the group, which had to show identification to homeowners representatives to get into the meeting, that the laws would be strictly enforced.

He said the police department had been put on a 12-hour day and all leaves canceled.

20,000 Students Pelt Police in Seoul Violence

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — An estimated 20,000 high school students threw barrages of rocks at riot police today in the fourth straight day of violent demonstrations against last week's parliamentary elections.

Police equipped with clubs and tear gas arrested 616 students in a series of clashes throughout the city.

★ ★ ★

The South Korean Education Ministry closed high schools where students were demonstrating.

Ten of the capital's 13 college campuses already have suspended classes, and reports reaching Seoul today disclosed thet colleges in four provincial towns have shut down.

mended a program to set up materials related to minority contributions to American history and the forces which have contributed to the denial of equal development of minority groups.

State Woman Dies; Mother of Admirals

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Mrs. George Engel, whose twin sons, Arthur and Benjamin, are admirals in the U. S. Coast Guard, died Wednesday in St. Mary's Hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 90.

★ ★ ★

Her sons both were promoted to the rank of rear admiral last Dec. 16. Arthur Engel is commandant of the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn. and Benjamin is commandant of the 14th Coast Guard District at Honolulu.

Another son, Carl of Kalamazoo, also survives.

CARLISLE, England (UPI)—Geoffrey Graham, 16, became British Army's youngest known war pensioner recently when he was given a medical discharge six months after enlisting in the Royal Artillery.

He broke out in a rash whenever he donned the khaki uniform of the service and was found to be incurably allergic to the dye used in the cloth.

Chicago's Blood Center Is International Lifesaver

CHICAGO (UPI) — Robert Gilbert gets telephone calls from all over the world asking for blood. Almost always, it's a matter of life and death.

Gilbert is a medical technician at the American Association of Blood Banks' rare blood center in Chicago's Michael Reese Hospital. His job is to find rare blood.

He is on call 24 hours a day and his services are essential to thousands of persons with rare blood throughout the world.

In an Evanston, Ill., hospital recently a woman suffered complications after delivering a child. Doctors were doing what they could to save her life but her chances were growing slim.

★ ★ ★

During one operation, she needed 20 pints of blood. That was the entire quantity of her rare blood type left in the Chicago area. Still she needed more.

DOCTOR'S PLEA

"Can you get any of that blood from anybody?" a doctor asked Gilbert. "We want to take her back to surgery to save her life. She's bleeding like crazy."

The rare blood center, which has been headquartered at Michael Reese since the beginning of the year, contains a file of nearly 7,000 names of readily available donors from around the world with precious rare blood.

Combing through the file, Gilbert found donors in Milwaukee and Minneapolis who had the unique combination of blood elements needed. But it would take too long for Minneapolis hospitals to get the blood. So Gilbert asked a Milwaukee hospital to defrost its frozen supply of the rare blood.

★ ★ ★

In the helicopter of a business associate, the woman's husband picked up the blood. In a matter of hours it was at the Evanston hospital.

WOMAN DIED

The blood was on time and it helped," Gilbert said. "But it wasn't enough — the woman died. Although we don't deal with them face to face, we are dealing with people and that's something we can't get away from."

But in the business of saving lives, one life means 100 per cent success. And the blood trackdown by the rare blood center in Chicago has saved countless lives around the world.

A 17-year-old boy in Buenos Aires was suffering from a blood disease known as thalassemia. He needed a transfusion but his blood was so rare it could only be found in one out of 150,000 persons.

Again an emergency call came into the rare blood center. Two donors were found, one in Nova Scotia and one in Pueblo, Colo. Their blood was shipped to Michael Reese, then repacked for international travel.

CALL FROM PAIRS

In Paris, a mother was in critical condition with a kidney failure. She needed a transfusion but her blood type could not be found.

An emergency transoceanic call came into Michael Reese. A donor with the woman's blood type was found in Cicero, Ill. within hours, a jet was en route across the Atlantic with a pint of the needed blood.

There are 26 ways of grouping blood types. A standard system is the ABO grouping designed by the letters O, A, B and BA. Group O is the most prevalent and occurs in about 46 per cent of the United States population. Group A takes in 35 per cent, B 15 per cent and AB about 5 per cent.

But, Dr. Aaron M. Josphson, executive director of the Michael Reese Blood Center explains, there are also 25 other blood systems. Each, also with subdivisions, identifies separate elements in the blood with letters like U, D, RH-HR, P and MN and others.

'Inactivity Cuts Longevity'

By Science Service

CHICAGO — Americans spend four times as much money for health now as they did in 1949, but in almost 20 years, their life expectancy has not gone up at all.

These are startling statistics, but no one pays enough attention to them, Harvard nutritionist Jean Mayer said recently.

"We're living a life for which our bodies were never intended," he told the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology meeting here. "Desk sitting has not been bred into the human species."

According to Dr. Mayer, Americans lost about five years of life expectancy because of their great inactivity. In 1949, this country ranked 11th in the world for life expectancy. Now it ranks 37th.

Lack of exercise is responsible for high cholesterol content in the blood, weakened heart, stiff arteries and obesity — all of which can lead to heart attacks, he said.

BALANCING ACT — Carrying boxes of fish balanced on their specially reinforced caps, two Billingsgate porters stop to light their cigarettes. The London market area is famous for its fish and foul language.

DRYING-OUT PROCESS — A Billingsgate porter dries out his heavily made boots in front of a bonfire. Bonfires are lit to dispose of unwanted wooden cases and to ward off the early morning chill.

Raucous London Fish Market

Billingsgate: Not for the Prissy

LONDON (AP)— Fish and foul language dominate the scene at Billingsgate, the venerable fish market of London.

Between the Tower of London and the Monument, Billingsgate is a raucous testimonial to John Bull's enduring appetite for his fish and chips.

Four hundred tons of cockles and mussels, as well as eels, squids, lobsters, kippers, cods, mackerels and a whale steak or two, pass through Billingsgate each day.

Coming from all the British Isles, Scandinavia and the low countries, the fish are distributed throughout London from Billingsgate.

★ ★ ★

The market opens at 5 each morning and fish heads and insults are tossed about with equal abandon.

NOTORIOUS WORKERS

The fish porters, who move the fish from market to truck, have long been notorious for their slightly less than prissy attitude.

Balancing five boxes of fish on his head, the porter bears down on an obstructive visitor with all the delicacy of an irate whale.

"Aout of the wey, mate," he bellows and pity the man who doesn't move.

The Oxford dictionary defines "billingsgate" as rough, abusive language.

NOT IN DICTIONARY

A good part of the market's language wouldn't even be found in a dictionary.

"Billingsgate is no Sunday school," snuffed a former superintendent of the market, "but the lad's language is no worse and may be better than in other places where a lot of tough men work together under exacting conditions.

"And," he added, "it was probably the fishwives fighting over the pickerings left by traders who gave rise to the market's reputation of abusive language.

As the language catches the ear, the porters' unique hats attract the eye.

MADE TO LAST

Resembling flat-topped bowlers with the brim turned up all the way round, they are made to last 50 years.

Each hat is constructed from 30 yards of waxed thread, five pounds of leather and 400 brass cobbler's rivets.

New, they weigh seven pounds. After years of fishy water seeping into them, they weigh about 15 pounds.

★ ★ ★

The porters can balance up to 200 pounds of fish on their hats and though trolleys are available, most porters still prefer to use their heads, if only as a point of pride.

In a year the porters cart and carry 120,000 tons of fish.

Before the war, 1,000 men worked at the job, but fewer men today are attracted to what is necessarily a dirty, unappetizing job.

In all, 4,000 men work in the market and, in the early morning hours, its medieval aura is disturbed only by the careening trucks that dash in and out of the twisting lanes that lead into the market.

The market itself is dotted with pubs, cafes, and barber shops that cater to the men who work while the rest of London sleeps.

Even the post office at Billingsgate opens at an early hour.

By 8 most business is finished and by noon only the smell of fish marks the morning's activities.

Most of the 170 retail and wholesale firms are "and sons" concerns and, like the hats, the traditions of the market are handed down from father to son.

The market itself goes back to pre-Christian times andwhen a new pier was built, excavators discovered hundreds of tons of oyster shells that had been tossed away by the Romans.

PORT OF LONDON

By the 13th century Billingsgate had become the port of London.

Dues of a half-penny were levied on small vessels, four pennies on larger hulks.

In 1850 the motley collection of sheds that comprised the market were torn down and the vast hall that stands today was erected at a cost of 270,000 pounds ($756,000).

Even at the height of the German blitz, the men at Billingsgate managed to keep the fish moving and nary a box of kippers was delayed.

Today the market is a masculine stronghold of roaring commerce. It will broabaly continue as long as there are fish in the sea.

INSTALLMENT No. 4

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Remo Davis, an ex-pugilist and would-be writer, was hired as a bouncer in a discotheque in Paris. The first night there he aided a dark-haired woman, a stranger to him, who wanted to make a phone call, and things began happening.

Within the week a man, Max Marchat, pressed Davis' employer and his landlady with inquiries about Davis. Afterward, when Davis learned of Marchat's approaches to his friend, Louis le Buc, they went to Marchat's business address and they discovered Marchat had been dead for a month.

Next a certain Claude de Gonde offered Davis a job as tutor and arranged a meeting.

CHAPTER 4

THE CAR that pulled up before the pension was a magnificent gray limousine. Its chauffeur, a hard-faced, leathery man of about fifty, wore a gray livery.

"I'm Georges Devesoul," he said curtly when I gave him my name. He jerked a thumb toward the seat beside him. "Let's go. Company's waiting."

"You're Monsieur de Gonde's chauffeur, aren't you?" I said.

"Yes."

"Is it his son I'm supposed to be tutoring?"

"His nephew. Madame Anne de Villemont's son. Didn't he tell you?"

"No."

"That's who it is. A real case, too. He'll wind up as crazy as his mama, if she has her way about it," he said bitterly.

"Monsieur de Gonde mentioned something about her being a problem."

Georges made a grimace. "Problem? That's a pretty fancy word for someone who's had to put in time a Charenton!"

That meant time in an insane asylum.

"That bad?" I said.

"That bad. She had too many troubles and just cracked up under them. She's soft. No backbone."

"What kind of troubles?"

"I suppose the worst kind for a woman. Her husband was an officer in Algeria, a fine man, one of the best, and I know, because I was his orderly there. She and he were wild about each other, they were like a pair of honeymooners. Then those stinking Algerian mobsters caught up to him. One morning Madame kisses him good-bye when he leaves the house. Two minutes later, he's spattered all over the street in front of her eyes by a bomb tossed into his car.

"Then when we moved to Paris," Georges said grimly, "she got into a mess with a young fellow who went for her big, a real wild-eyed type. When she put him in his place, he killed himself. Drowned himself in the Seine. That's how it goes with her. She's got fifty million francs in the bank, and all it seems to buy is bad luck. She knows it, too. That's why she cracked up. If it wasn't for the family, she'd probably have been put away for keeps by now."

"Does Monsieur Claude live near Madame de Villemont?" I asked hopefully.

"They all live together. The whole family. Except the grandma, that is. Madame Cesira. She says she can't stand the mausoleum we're stuck in, so she's got herself this apartment on Ile Saint-Louis."

"Mausoleum?"

Georges grunted. "We pulled out of Algiers in a hurry when everything blew up there, and this was the only furnished place big enough for our whole gang. Half the rich colons out of North Africa headed in the same direction, but we had to be the ones stuck with this miserable stone-pile."

Colons. The late Max Marchat had led an investigating commission in Algeria in 1960, so he must have know the leading colons there, the long-time French settlers who virtually owned the country. That would explain the connection between him and de Gonde, although not why de Gonde had posed as Marchat for my benefit.

Georges turned off the boulevard and pulled the car to a halt before an enormous stone building. A high wall surrounded it, and the huge arched doorway in the wall was barred by a wooden carriage gate solid enough to repel an invading army.

"Well," he said, and gave me a sly, sidelong look, "what do you think of it?"

"Why so big?" I asked. "How many are there in the family anyhow?"

"Enough. Madame de Villemont and the kid have one apartment. Monsieur Claude and Madame Gabrielle — she's Madame Cesira's older daughter —have another. Monsieur Edmond and Madame Matilde — she's Madame Cesira's younger daughter — have still another. That's three apartments big enough for a regiment apiece just to keep them all out of each other's hair.

"Then there's this Bernard Bourdon, Monsieur Claude's private secretary and a real pain in the neck, who likes plenty of room for himself. And up there on the top floor under the eaves are the rooms for the permanent staff. Right now there are eight of us, so when you move in it'll make nine."

That jolted me. "Move in? Do you mean I'm supposed to live here?"

"Why not? If you're to take over the kid—"

"As his tutor, not his nursemaid."

"Go on," he said coldly, "don't tell me you really figured to collect three thousand a month for sitting with the kid over his books a couple of hours a day. You couldn't work that kind of swindle on anybody, even in America."

* * *

When I entered the mansion I found myself in a vast rotunda, big enough for a circus, whose ceiling was the roof of the building itself, three stories above my head. On either side of me were open doors revealing a succession of spacious chambers, and before me was a broad marble staircase which ascended to the pillared entrance of the second-floor landing.

Jeanne-Marie, a youthful domestic, was delegated to lead me to Monsieur Claude's apartment where the family was waiting, and as I followed her, I wondered how long it would take me just to learn my way around this labyrinth.

Our destination turned out to be a wrought-iron cage containing the traditional French elevator, a car barely large enough for two passengers.

"What's Madame de Villemont like?"

"She's like somebody who gives ideas to men who ought to know better."

"What does that mean?"

"Nothing. Just don't you get any ideas about her like that last character they had taking care of the kid. Then you won't have to go drowning yourself in the dirty old river. That would be a terrible waste, big boy."

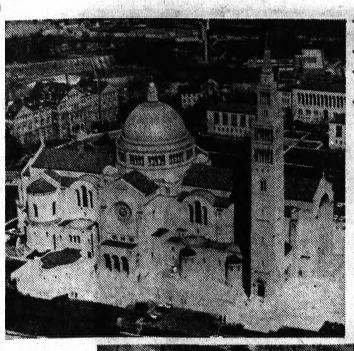

So it had been the child's last tutor who had killed himself over Madame de Villemont. Hard to believe that in this practical day and age men were still capable of such idiocies, but if ever a place seemed capable of inspiring them, it was this gloomy castle on the rue de Courcelles.

I braced myself against surprise when Jeanne-Marie knocked on a door and announced us and was told to enter, but not against the one surprise that awaited me.

There, of all the company gathered in the room, the first to catch my eye was the girl of the Club Barouf, the distracted American I had rescued from her tormentors the night I started work there, and in that instant of recognition I knew who Madame de Villemont was.

D.C.'s Famous Buildings

Seen from the window of an airplane, most cities look pretty much the same, except Washington, D.C. The difference lies in unique structures, some of them outstanding examples of architecture. The nation's capital doesn't claim to rival New York's skyline, but a wealth of interesting monuments and buildings make it a special place to visit.

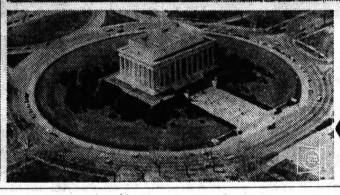

From the air, the White House looks much smaller than it really is.

Arlington Cemetery's famed tomb of the U.S. Unknown Soldier draws thousands to pay respects to it and other graves of war dead.

Five-sided Pentagon is typical of Washington's long, low buildings.

Lincoln Memorial is in a particularly scenic area of the city.

Quakes Tied to Disposal of Wastes Underground

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — The earthquake that rocked Denver this spring may have been an effect of underground waste disposal practices at the nearby Rocky Mountain Arsenal.

More than 1,000 earthquakes between 1962 and 1966 have been linked to the now discontinued practice at the arsenal of pumping liquid wastes into deep wells for permanent disposal.

Monday's quake, estimated at around 4.5 to 4.7 on the Richter scale, was apparently centered almost directly under the arsenal in Commerce City, a suburb about five miles northeast of Denver. The arsenal stopped its underground disposal just over a year ago in response to congressional pressure.

Apparently, a spokesman for the National Earthquake Information Center here said, liquid wastes lubricated rock layers deep in the ground, making it easier for them to move under stress.

Don't Invite Burglars, Police Tell Vacationers

By MEL NEWMAN

There is no way to be certain your home won't be burglarized while you're away on vacation, Pontiac police officials concede, but they hasten to add: "Don't invite burglars."

Precautions can be taken that would: 1—make a home less likely a target; 2—make a burglary attempt less likely to be successful; and 3—prevent a successful burglary attempt from being a gold mine for the culprit.

The cardinal rule in taking preliminary precautions is creating the appearance that everything is normal even when the house is not occupied.

Precautions include:

- Stop newspaper and dairy deliveries so papers and bottles don't pile up on the porch — a sure sign of a vacationing family. (It may also be wise to have a neighbor clear the mailbox of circulars and other throwaway material.)
- Have the lawn kept in normal condition. Overgrown yards that are usualy well-cared-for also tip off the potential burglar.
- Install an electric timer that will switch lights off and on in various rooms at regular intervals to create the illusion of family activity.
- Notify the police department, in person if possible, when the house will be vacated, when the family will return and whom to contact in case trouble does occur.

NIP CRIME

If, despite these efforts, a burglar does choose to chance an entry, another precaution can nip his crime in the bud,

Neighbors alerted to keep an eye out for suspicious activity could reach police in time to nab a burglar in the act.

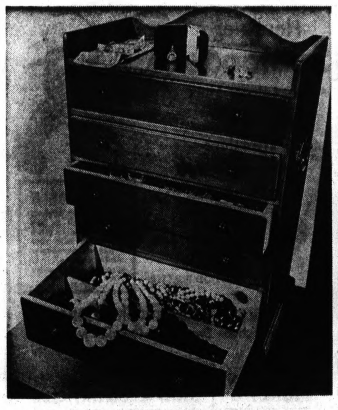

Police officials linked this idea to the CHEC program, in that citizen-police cooperation and communication is stressed.

One final step can prevent a successful burglar — one who has entered a house despite all precautions and has escaped detection — from becoming a suddenly-wealthy criminal.

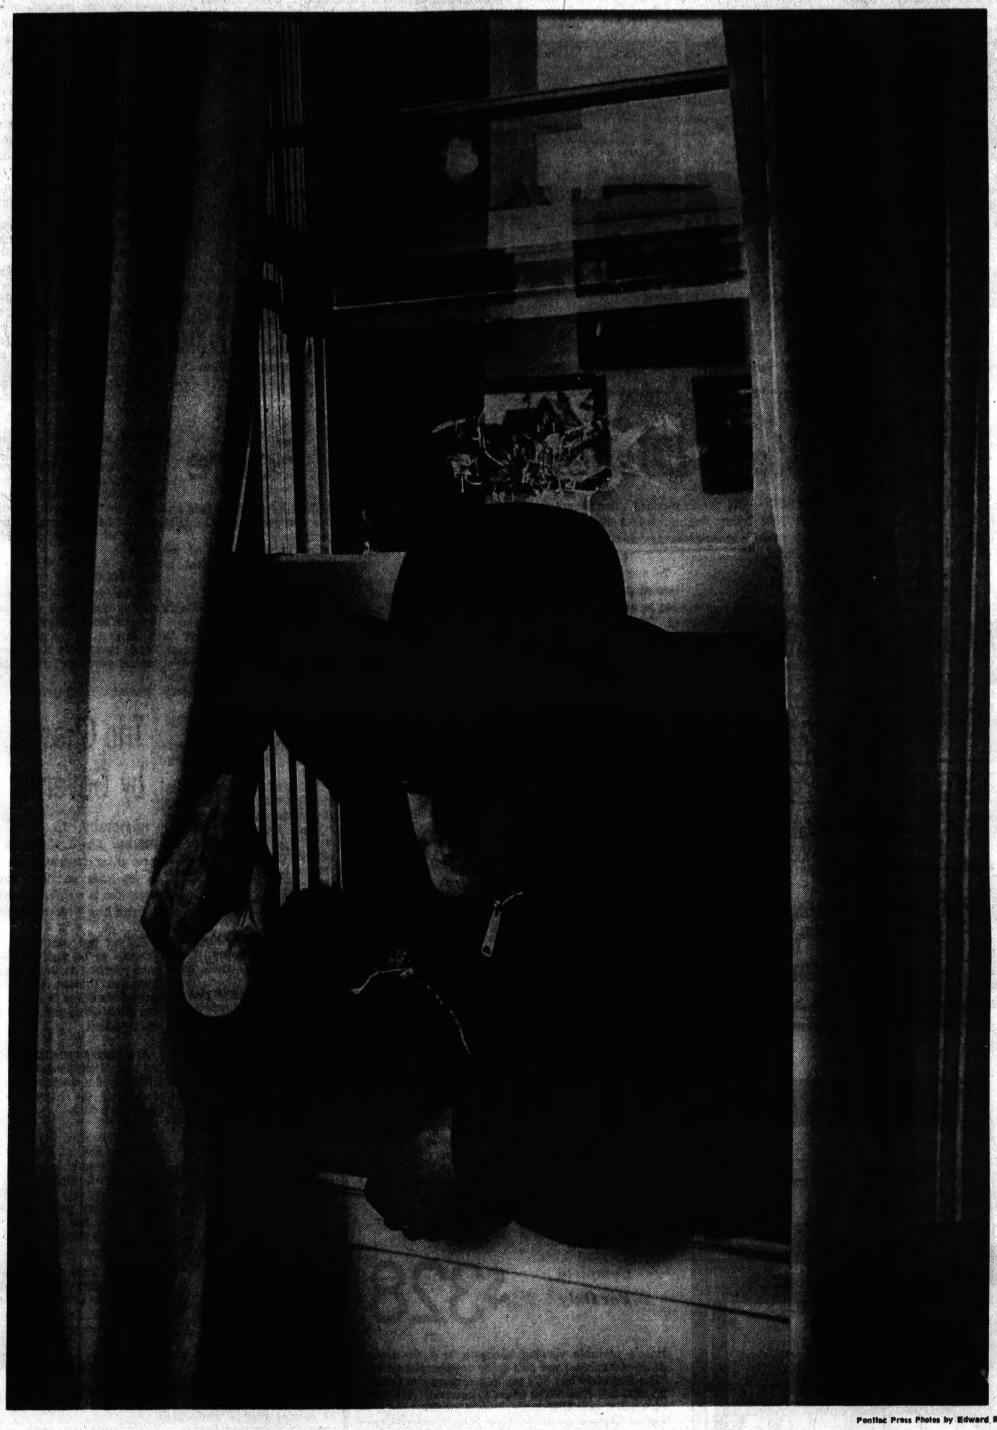

Persons leaving on vacations should, when at all possible, store all goods of value, such as jewelry and cash, with a neighbor, relatives, or perhaps in safety deposit vaults.

Who Will Head Vietnam's Democracy?

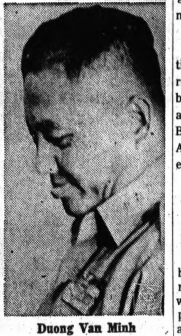

Politicking has come alive in South Vietnam, with the approach of elections promised in the nation's new constitution. Potential candidates for president include the following, pictured below: Current Premier Nguyen Cao Ky; Chief of State Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu; Phan Khac Suu, chairman of the constitutional assembly; and Tran Van Huong, who served five months as prime minister and still retains wide popularity and support. Not pictured is Ha Thuc Ky, leader of a clandestine, middle-class party, who has already declared his candidacy. Undeclared, but popular in many Vietnamese circles is Gen. Duong Van Minh (Big Minh), who was chief of state for a while in 1963 and 1964 before being ousted.

Newspapers Preferred for Ads and Information

NEW YORK (UPI) — Newspapers are the preferred source of Americans for information and advertising, according to a national survey.

★ ★ ★

A group of advertising executives meeting here were told the results of the survey this week by Leo Bogart, vice president and general manager of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

"The study clearly documents newspapers' position as the number one medium for information and advertising," Bogart said.

The survey was conducted by the bureau among 2,000 randomly selected adults who were asked to indicate their preference for information and advertising among newspapers, television, radio and magazines. It was sponsored by the newsprint information committee.

★ ★ ★

Each subject in the survey was shown 24 subjects, 12 of them advertising and 12 non-advertising. Bogart explained, and asked to indicate his interest in the items and say what medium he considered the best means of finding out about them.

★ ★ ★

BEST SOURCE

Of the news items, the survey showed, newspapers were said to be the best source 59 per cent of the time. Of the advertising firms, newspapers were rated the best source for further information 75 per cent of the time.

The survey showed that television ranked second as a source for news, with 29 per cent believing it to be best and the remainder about split between radio and magazines.

The survey showed newspapers won out among all age, education and income groups. Bogart said television and radio bulletins caused more persons to read newspapers.

Walt Disney Still Big Force

HOLLYWOOD — Six months ago today, Walt Disney died, leaving an entertainment empire without the creative force that shaped its destinies for 40 eventful years.

THOMAS

Walter Elias Disney had been the innovator and driving genius behind an enterprise that grew from Mickey Mouse cartoons to diversified entertainment for uncounted millions in almost every nation.

★ ★ ★

To many observers, his loss seemed crucial to the company that he and brother Roy founded. Yet such was his restlessly forward-looking nature that his plans continue to propel the Disney empire, and will for years.

There have been changes, of course. Key decisions do not come with the crackle of finality, as when Walt was in charge. Now policy matters go to committee, with consequent delay and watering down.

HAS FAULTS

Yet top executives are still so attuned to Walt's way of thinking that decisions new to his philosophy. Brother Roy, 74 next week, admits the committee system has faults:

"It is not logical for the long pull, but it is logical for this period we are going through. The system is working, and everyone is in perfect harmony. As long as that continues, we're all right.

★ ★ ★

"But some day one of the guys may grab a project and skyrocket with it. Then we'll turn and make him leader. But it won't be another Walt; I don't think anyone will ever be."

Roy continues as president and board chairman of Walt Disney Productions, and makes command decisions that once were Walt's. Roy was always the money man, content to remain in the shadow of his spotlighted younger brother. His new position as solo head has required adjustments.

NOT EASY

"I've tried hard not to do any thing that I didn't do before, but it hasn't always been easy," said the bespectacled balding Roy.

"I want to stay out of the show world; that's not my field. I couldn't possibly fit in Walt's shoes."

The committee on which he relies for decisions in the show world field consists of eight men, all studio bred. During most of their adult lives they worked closely with Walt; all are passionately devoted to the Disney cause. Two are related to the Disney family.

The committee:

Bill Anderson, long No. 1 aide to Walt in the movie field and now vice president in charge of production.

Roy E. Disney, son of the president and well-versed in studio departments.

★ ★ ★

Ron Miller, husband of Walt's daughter and now a producer.

Winston Hibbler, expert in nature films, which he narrates.

Bill Walsh, who assisted in creation of the Mickey Mouse Club, "Shaggy Dog" and "Mary Poppins."

Jim Algar, a cartoonist turned producer.

Harry Tytle, a 30-year veteran now producing television shows.

Card Walker, marketing vice president with a vast knowledge of what will and will not sell.

"The system is working well," says Bill Anderson, the hearty chief of production. "We've had a couple of knock-down, drag-out fights, but that's healthy. We had 'em with Walt, too. Walt taught us how to fight and get along.

"There is no backbiting here, there are no cliques. That's something Walt would never allow."

Anderson remarked that the system was little different from before—"Walt very seldom made a policy decision without discussing it with some of us first. The difference is that now producers are getting more latitude."

The loss of Walt as a decision maker is felt by many of the studio hierarchy.

PROFILE OF ACTOR

"We all miss the man," remarked Ron Miller, who has the size of a professional footballer which he was and the profile of an actor which he wasn't.

"If any of us had a major problem, we could take it to Walt and all of a sudden we had no problem. He solved it."

In another office of the animation building you can find producer Bill Walsh, director Robert Stevenson and story man Don DaGradi working on a new fantasy, "Boy-Car-Girl."

DaGradi laughed as he recalled how Walt stayed ahead of his film creators: "We used to be puzzled that he seemed to understand the story boards — pinned-up-sketches of proposed scenes before we could explain them—or he would ignore whole sections of them.

"Finally he admitted that he would come into our offices the night before and look at the story boards to see what we were up to. He even went through the wastebaskets!"

"Walt had the habit of coming up with properties that nobody had ever heard of," continued British-born Stevenson. "Just when it seemed that we had nothing to work on, he'd reach into his bottom drawer and produce something worthwhile."

Trio Chased by Governor

GRAMERCY, La. (AP) — With Gov. John J. McKeithen in a car giving chase at speeds up to 100 miles an hour, three young men in a stolen car were captured here Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

The car had roared by the governor as he and his aides were returning to Baton Rouge from New Orleans. McKeithen ordered his driver to step on it. The driver did so and also radioed the police.

★ ★ ★

As the stolen car sped through the road block, policeman Carl Spizale fired a shotgun. The car veered off the highway and landed in a ditch.

★ ★ ★

Police identified the three as Eddie Lee Bell, 18, and Earl J. Smith, 17, both of Baton Rouge, and Mervin L. McMahon, 22, a sailor police said was AWOL from his Navy post at Boston, Mass., who had hitchhiked a ride with the other two.

AUTO THEFT

Bell and Smith were charged with auto theft. McMahon was taken to New Orleans by armed forces police.

Man Robs Bank to Settle Dispute

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was only a small bank holdup — $41.98. Police said the bandit was a customer, who told a teller Wednesday that he had a complaint.

★ ★ ★

A court order delivered earlier to the bank attached the man's account and the bank deducted a check for $41.98 as a result.

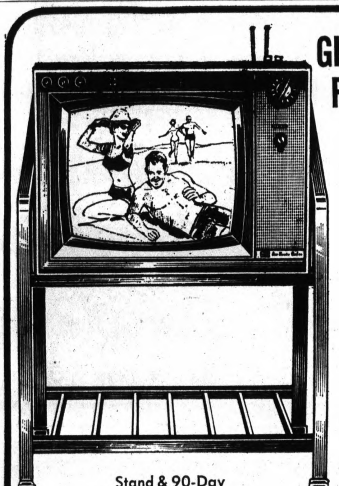

★ ★ ★

"I want my money back," the man demanded.

When the teller refused, he left but returned with a pistol, took the $41.98 at gunpoint and fled.

Plan on Chicken for Father's Day

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

The old dream of a chicken in every pot is more likely to be two chickens in every pot. Chicken is one food item that is less expensive today than in the past.

Chances are that the man of the house still thinks of chicken as a favorite food. Why not make it the star of dinner for Father's Day?

Just choose the way you think he'll like it best. Here's a variety of recipes.

A teen-age boy entered this first recipe in the National Chicken Cooking Contest in Dover, Del., last year. This year's finals are next week.

CHIP 'N' DIP CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, 3-3½ pounds, cut up
1¼ cups crushed potato chips
1—8-oz. container prepared onion dip
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Wash chicken; drain. Season chicken with salt and pepper; then coat with onion dip which is at room temperature.

Roll in potato chip crumbs, coating well. Place on foil-lined cooking sheet. Place in preheated 350 degree oven; bake for 1 hour. Will serve 4.

Broil chicken halves in the oven or on the outdoor grill and serve them with a zesty tomato sauce. It's a simple one with soup as the base.

TOMATO MUSHROOM PIQUANTE

1 can (2 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 medium clove garlic, minced
1 small bay leaf, crushed
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed tomato soup
½ cup water
½ teaspoon aromatic bitters

In saucepan, cook mushrooms, onion, green pepper, garlic, and bay in butter until vegetables are tender. Stir in soup, water, and bitters. Cook over low heat 10 minutes; stir now and then. Makes 1½ cups sauce. Serve on broiled chicken.

★ ★ ★

Elegant eating is yours when you serve boned chicken breasts. Follow the diagrams and directions on this page and soon you'll be an expert at boning.

SUPREME OF CHICKEN WITH CUMBERLAND SAUCE

6 whole boned, skinned chicken breasts
1½ teaspoons salt, divided
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
2 teaspoons parsley flakes
2 teaspoons dried leaf tarragon
Paprika
1 tablespoon slivered orange rind
1 cup orange juice
6 tablespoons currant jelly
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons cold water
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Sprinkle inside of chicken breasts with 1 teaspoon of the salt. Cream together 3 tablespoons of the butter, onion, parsley flakes and tarragon. Spread mixture on the inside of each breast.

Overlap the edges and secure with wooden pick. Sprinkle the outside lightly with remaining ½ teaspoon salt and paprika.

Melt remaining 3 tablespoons of the butter in skillet; brown chicken breasts over moderate heat, turning once. Add rind, orange juice, jelly and mustard. Cover and simmer 20 minutes.

Blend together water and cornstarch. Add all at once to sauce and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Yield: 6 servings.

Finally, a method of baking crisp chicken offers you freedom from kitchen duty, once you have the chicken parts in the oven.

OVEN CRISP CHICKEN

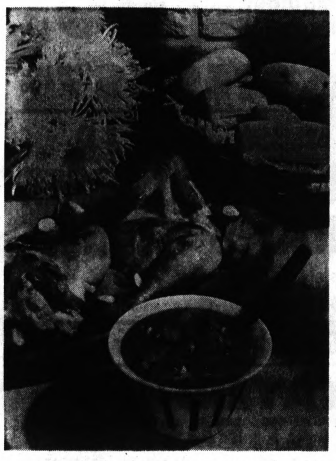

1 pint sour cream
4 tablespoons lemon juice
4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons paprika
1 teaspoon garlic salt
2 teaspoons celery salt
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
3 pounds chicken breasts, legs, thighs
1 package herb-seasoned stuffing
Melted butter

Mix together sour cream, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, paprika, garlic salt, celery salt, salt and pepper. Dip chicken pieces in this mixture; roll in stuffing.

Arrange chicken in a shallow greased baking dish. Brush with melted butter, and place uncovered in a 350 degree oven for 1 hour, or until chicken is tender and a crusty brown. Serves 6.

CHIP 'N' DIP CHICKEN

PIQUANTE SAUCE FOR BROILERS

Tuna Souffle Is 'Bacony'

Tuna is a wonderful budget balancer. This next recipe will put only a small dent in the food money, but will provide delicious eating.

Tuna Bacon Souffle

6 slices bacon
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped celery
⅓ cup butter or margarine
⅓ cup flour
1 cup milk
1 can (6½ or 7 ounces) flaked tuna, drained
½ teaspoon Worcestershire
¼ teaspoon basil
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
4 eggs, separated

Cook bacon in skillet until crisp; drain on paper towels and crumble. Drain drippings from skillet, reserving 2 tablespoons. Saute onion and celery in reserved drippings until crisp-tender; set aside with bacon.

★ ★ ★

In medium saucepan, melt butter; stir in flour. Gradually add milk and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils 1 minute.

Remove from heat; stir in reserved bacon, onion and celery, tuna and seasonings. Lightly beat egg yolks and stir into tuna sauce.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; fold into tuna sauce. Pour into 1½-quart buttered souffle dish. Bake in 350 degree (moderate) oven 45 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Correct Recipe

In the recipe for Honey Lemon Whole Wheat Bread published in Wednesday's paper, the amount of honey was omitted. It is one cup.

Keep Heat Low

If you plan to use bacon drippings, make sure you cook the bacon at low heat so that the drippings will be white-looking and have the mildest possible flavor.

Sharp Knife Is Essential

For ease in boning use whole breasts the weigh from 12 to 16 ounces. A breast weighing about one pound will have approximately 2 ounces of skin and 6 ounces of bones. Use sharp knife with 6" blade. The thinner and sharper the blade, the better for boning.

Place chicken breast, skin side down, on cutting board. With knife cut just through white gristle at neck end of keel bone (dark bone at center of breast). Bend back and press flat with hands to expose keel bone.

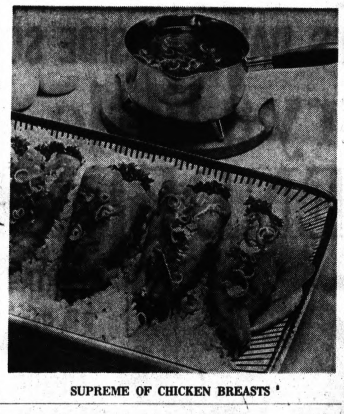

Loosen keel bone by running tip of index finger around both sides; remove in one or two pieces.

Working with one side of breast, insert tip of knife under long rib bone. Work knife underneath bone and cut free from meat.

Lifting bone away from breast, cut meat from rib cage, cutting around outer edge of breast up to shoulder joint and then through joint. (This removes entire rib cage.) Turn breast around and repeat method on other side.

Working from ends of wishbone, scrape flesh away from each piece of bone; cut out bone. Slip knife underneath white tendons on either side of breast to loosen and pull out.

Remove skin if desired.

SUPREME OF CHICKEN BREASTS

Marinate Broilers in Wine

Marinating chicken before you cook it on the grill gives it a delightful flavor. This recipe calls for white wine and the herb, rosemary.

It's a winner from the National Chicken Cooking Contest Finals.

Tipsy Chicken

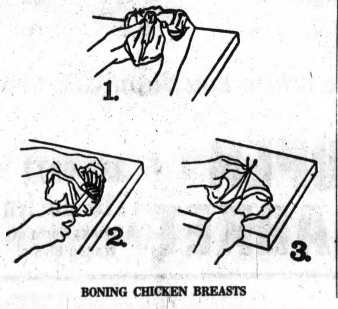

2 2-3½ lb. broilers, split for barbecue
1 cup salad oil
2 cups dry white wine
1 tablespoon rosemary leaves, dried
1 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons salt
2-3 green onions, sliced

★ ★ ★

Marinate 45 minutes in wine and oil to which onions and rosemary leaves have been added. Broil over coals, turning to brown; brush with oil and wine mixture.

★ ★ ★

When golden brown and cooked through, salt and pepper to taste. Serves 4.

BONING CHICKEN BREASTS

Crunchy Top for a Dessert

For a crunchy fruit dessert, combine ¼ cup of sifted all-purpose flour, ½ cup of firmly-packed brown sugar, ¾ cup of soft butter and 1 cup of quick rolled oats, uncooked.

Spoon 1 (1 pound 6 ounce) can of fruit pie filling into an 8-inch round baking pan. Top with crunchy mixture.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven about 20 minutes. Serve warm or cold with ice cream, to 6 persons.

Fish Sticks Put in Sandwiches

Is it your turn to chef for your husband' poker crowd this week? If so you're probably thinking BIG — all about those big, big appetites and how to fill them while the winner's raking in the chips.

★ ★ ★

One answer, of course, is to take a tip from Dagwood and really stack up some he-man sandwiches for the fellows. That's always a good idea, and if you can introduce a brand new man-appealing twist to the sandwich tower — so much the better.

★ ★ ★

One suggestion that you serve hearty Baked Fish Stickwiches for the occasion.

These can be easily made with thick slices of buttered French bread spread with tartar sauce, then layered with American cheese, crisp, filling fish sticks, and fresh tomato slices. You can use cooked bacon slices to crown the stack-ups, too, if you like.

Then, after they've been heated through in the oven, add a final dollop of tartar sauce.

What makes the sandwiches different and GREAT is the fish sticks — so easy to use because breaded, and ready to heat and serve.

They're chock-full of protein and make for the kind of eating that pleases the men every time.

Baked Fish Stickwiches

1 package frozen fish sticks
French bread slices or hamburger buns
Tartar sauce
Sliced American cheese
Sliced tomatoes
Bacon slices, cooked (optional)

Allow 3 fish sticks and 1 slice of French bread or ½ bun per sandwich.

Spread bread with butter and arrange at one end of baking sheet. Place fish sticks in a single layer at opposite end and broil for about 10 to 15 minutes until bread is browned and fish heated through.

Spread bread with tartar sauce. Top each with slice of cheese, 3 fish sticks, tomatoes and, if desired, bacon. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes or until cheese melts slightly. Garnish with additional tartar sauce and serve.

Gingerbread Is a Treat

Early American cooks used molasses by necessity. Today's cooks use is because they like the flavor.

Oldtime Gingerbread

1 cup sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon each salt and cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon each nutmeg and cloves
½ teaspoon ginger
1 large egg
Dairy sour cream
½ cup dark molasses

Butter bottom and sides of a square 8-inch cake pan; line bottom with buttered wax paper. On wax paper, sift together the flour, baking soda, salt and spices.

Break the egg into a 1-cup glass measure; add enough sour cream to make ½ cup; turn into a mixing bowl; beat to combine; add molasses and beat to combine. Add sifted dry ingredients; beat gently just until smooth — about 1 minute; batter will be thin.

Turn into prepared pan. Bake in a 350-degree oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 25 minutes. Turn out on wire rack; remove paper; turn rightside up.

Entire Breakfast Is Baked into Yummy Cookies

If your youngsters feel less than enthusiastic about breakfast, fresh cookies add a treat feeling to the first meal of the day. Whether the children eat a hearty breakfast or have a "make-do" meal on a busy morning, cookies and milk will be most welcome on the table.

Best of all, these Breakfast Cookies contain nutritious breakfast foods. Into the batter go bits of crisp bacon, cold cereal, and an egg.

The chunky cookies taste great and getting the children to eat them is absolutely no problem — for when do children need urging to eat cookies?

You can make a fresh batch in the morning, or prepare the dough a day ahead and keep it in the freezer. In the latter case, eight or 10 minutes in the oven is all the cookies require.

Breakfast cookies are great for breakfast, but don't stop there. Because they are so delicious, they vanish from the cookie jar at all hours — for the after-school milk break, mealtime desserts, evening snacks.

Breakfast Cookies

1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon soda
½ cup crisp well-drained bacon bits*
(½ pound before cooked)
½ cup soft-type margarine containing liquid safflower oil
1 egg
2 cups corn flakes, grape-nuts flakes, 40% bran flakes or raisin bran

Measure flour, sugar and soda into bowl; mix. Add bacon, soft-type margarine and egg. Mix until well blended. Stir in cereal.

Drop by tablespoons 2 inches apart on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in 350-degree F. oven 13 to 15 minutes, or until cookies are lightly browned but still soft.

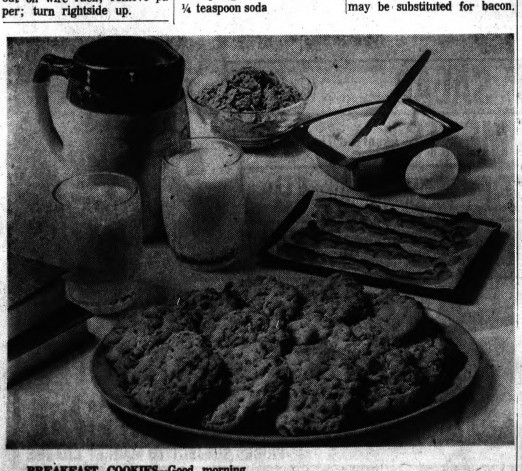

Cool slightly before removing from baking sheet. Yield: 2 dozen.

Freezer Cookies: Divide dough into 2 parts. Placed on waxed paper and press firmly into rolls 2 inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper, twisting ends to hold roll in shape.

Place in freezer for several hours or overnight. Cut into ¼-inch slices. Place on ungreased baking sheet.

Bake in 400-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes, until lightly browned.

*½ cup finely chopped Canadian bacon or fully cooked ham may be substituted for bacon.

BREAKFAST COOKIES—Good morning, have a cookie . . . When there's a morning rush, Breakfast Cookies and milk are most welcome. Cookies are made with cereal, egg, bacon bits.

New Sauce Mixes Elegant on Desserts

What turns ice cream into sundaes or parfaits, and makes a slice of cake or a mixture of fresh, unsweetened fruits into a dessert of distinction?

A sauce, of course — the lush kind that used to have to be homemade. Now introduced is a pair of dessert sauce mixes which can be stirred up in minutes any time to glamorize a company dessert or add a touch of luxury when it's "just the family."

Lemon Sauce Mix has the natural, tangy flavor you'd expect if you squeezed the lemons yourself — it's especially good with fruits. And Chocolate Fudge Sauce Mix, with real chocolate, can't help but please fans of that favorite flavor.

In either case, additions and preparation couldn't be simpler. Water and butter are combined with Lemon Sauce Mix, milk and butter with Chocolate Fudge Sauce Mix.

Each is stirred while being brought to a boil, then simmered for a minute or two, and served.

To store, cover and refrigerate. Reheat Chocolate Fudge Sauce before serving again. Lemon Sauce may be stirred and served cold or heated again.

Just two of the wonderful way to serve the sauces are these dessert waffles:

Lemon-Blueberry Waffles

12-ounce package frozen blueberries, thawed
1 package Lemon Sauce Mix
12 to 16 waffle sections, baked

Drain blueberries, reserving syrup. Add enough water to syrup to make 1 cup liquid. Prepare sauce mix as directed on package substituting the 1 cup blueberry liquid for water. Stir blueberries into prepared sauce. Serve warm over waffles, stacking sections in pairs with sauce between and on top. Makes 6-8 servings.

Mexican Waffles

8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 teaspoon dry instant coffee
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
12 waffle sections, baked
Chocolate Fudge Sauce Mix

Blend cream cheese, instant coffee, cinnamon and confectioners' sugar until smooth and creamy. Spread small amount of cream cheese mixture between two waffle sections. Put cheese mixture on top, using a pastry bag if desired.

Repeat with remaining waffle sections.

Prepare Chocolate Fudge Sauce as directed on package. Pour warm sauce over each serving. Makes 6 servings.

SAUCY WAFFLES—Waffles become dessert fare when they're treated to fillings and topped with luscious sauces, homemade from a pair of new mixes for Chocolate Fudge Sauce and tart, fresh-tasting Lemon Sauce.

Restores Coconut

If you live in a dry climate, you may find that shredded coconut hardens after it has once been opened, before you have a chance to use it all. You can restore it to its original freshness by heating it in the top of a double broiler over boiling water.

British Wine Made of Grapes Grown at Old Monastery

BEAULIEU, England (AP)—The British have failed to put a man in space, but they have finally succeeded in producing a fine wine.

At a recent London dinner of wine connoisseurs, which included a French grower famous for his Bordeaux wine, the English wine was served blind.

Asked to identify it by taste alone, the unanimous verdict of the tasters was:

"A classic French rose, probably from the Loire."

Loire your French foot. It came from County Hampshire.

In the spring of 1957 the distinguished playwright, lawyer, author and soldier, Lieut. Col. Robert Gore-Browne and his wife Margaret planted their first vines outside their lovely home.

They were undaunted by the fact that their vines were sunk in ground that is parallel with Labrador, north of Lake Baikal in Siberia and just to the south of Omsk.

"The decision was my wife's," said this amazing 74-year-old man, who in addition to be coming a wine grower in damp England, is a lawyer by profession, the author of seven plays, four novels and three biographies.

More than 750 years ago the Cistercian monks grew grape vines at Beaulieu, on the very ground on which the Gore-Brownes are growing them.

"My wife said that if the monks could do it, we could too," said Gore-Browne.

"It was pretty terrible wine, from the accounts of history," said Mrs. Gore-Browne.

History says that King John once visited the Abbey and the monks naturally served him their best wine.

The king took one taste, screwed up his face, and shouted to his steward:

"Send ships forthwith to France to fetch some good wine for the Abbot."

Laughing about the incident, Mrs. Gore-Browne said:

"But that didn't discourage us. Mind you, we approached this thing professionally. We got some of the best advice available. We also had the soil tested and we did other things.

"After our first year we decided to go the whole way, to produce wine commercially and we're now doing it."

How much are they producing?

"We're doing about 5,000 bottles a year," said Lieut. Col. Gore-Browne. "When we're in full swing we hope to produce 20,000 to 25,000 bottles a year."

The wine is called Beaulieu Abbey Rose.

Mrs. Gore-Browne has become so absorbed in wine making that she is just completing a book called: "Let's Plant a Vineyard."

★ ★ ★

To be published here this summer, it encourages her fellow Britons to start growing wine.

The Gore-Brownes have gone a long way in 10 years.

Today their winery contains the most modern wine-making equipment on the market. Again, they sought professional advice and bought the best.

But what about that very first crop of wine grapes?

★ ★ ★

"Do you know what I did," said Lieut. Col. Gore-Browne. "I was then but 64 and I hopped in the big open cask where the grapes were laid out, and I pressed them with my bare feet."

★ ★ ★

And what did his wine master say?

"He asked me if I had washed my feet," replied the owner of England's largest vineyard, "and I told him that I had."

Spicy Slices of Apple Top Pork-Rice Casserole

Almost main course and dessert in one dish is the way some folks would interpret Rosy Pork and Rice Squares, a new and delicious family-style main dish.

But don't raise your eyebrows — if you like a brown sugar glazed ham or pork chops with applesauce, you'll like—practically dote on—Rosy Pork and Rice Squares.

An ideal family dish, this combination is bound to please every hungry sweet tooth in the family, from Grandma and Dad through the pre-school meat eaters.

Rice adds a lot to this savory meat dish, whether brown, regular milled white or parboiled is used.

Rosy Pork and Rice Squares

- 4 large cooking apples, peeled, cored and sliced
- ⅓ cup brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon candies (red hots)
- ¾ cup water
- 4 or 5 drops red food coloring, optional
- 2 pounds diced lean pork
- 2 cups cooked rice
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- Dash of cayenne pepper
- ½ teaspoon garlic powder

Cook apples in ½ cup water 7 or 8 minutes. Heat brown sugar, red hots, ¼ cup water and food coloring until red hots are melted. Pour onto apples and cook 2 minutes longer. Brown pork, drain excess fat, and mix meat with remaining ingredients.

Turn into an 8"x8"x2" baking dish. Arrange apples on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Golf's Quiet Man Defending

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (AP) — Billy Casper, golf's quiet man, set out in defense of his United States Open Golf Championship today, a sedate, almost obscure figure in the glamor field of the world's best shot-makers.

He's a two-time Open champion, the 1966 PGA Player of The Year, No. 2 on the all-time money-winning list and —if not unknown—probably the most under-rated golfer in the world.

"It doesn't bother me in particular," Casper said. "Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus get the publicity — I still get my share of the checks."

The figures back him up. The one-time fat man has career earnings of $621,152.09—second only to Palmer — and almost total anonymity.

So complete is his obscurity that one writer once reported that "an empty car drew up beside the club house and Billy Casper stepped out."

While huge crowds, Arnie's Army and Jack's Pack, surround Palmer and Nicklaus at their every appearance on the course, Casper enjoys the solitude of a used-car salesman from Topeka.

"People simply don't recognize me," Billy said.

It's true. At least part of it, however, is due to an exotic diet that enabled him to go from a blubbery 230 pounds to his present 175. It created a marked change in his appearance and gave him his only bit of color.

BUFFALO MEAT

"I had won a U.S. Open," Billy quipped, "But I had to eat buffalo steaks to get my name in the papers."

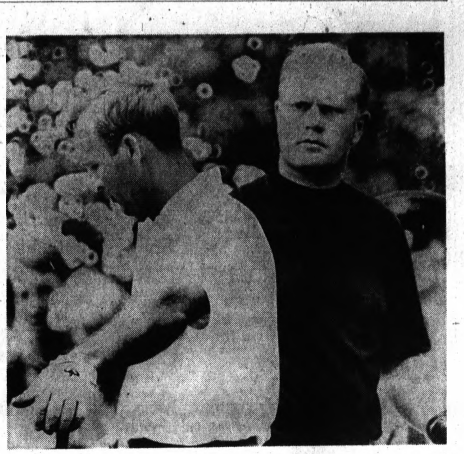

That was three years ago, when Casper discovered he had a series of allergies and was forced to go on a diet that included such items as buffalo, blueberries and bear meat.

"I got more publicity out of that than anything else, unless it's my putting," Casper said, "And that's in error, too."

Casper, 35 and a pro for 14 years, has had a minor reputation as the best putter in the game since he won his first Open championship in 1959. He used only 114 putts over 72 holes at Winged Foot Country Club.

Casper was one of the late starters as the field of 150 began the first round over the 7,022 yard, par 70 Baltusrol Golf Club Course. He was paired with Bobby Nichols and Tom Jacobs at 1:18 p.m. EDT.

The field will be cut to the low 60 and ties after Friday's second round. The final two rounds are scheduled for national television coverage. ABC-TV will televise 5-6:30 p.m., EDT Saturday and from 5-7 p.m. Sunday.

PALMER WON'T LOOK — Jack Nicklaus, in dark shirt, carefully follows the flight of a ball hit by Arnold Palmer, but Arnie looks away during practice round at Baltusrol Golf Club yesterday. They're prepping for the 67th U.S. Open Golf Championship which gets under way here today. Nicklaus shot an 8-under-par 62. Palmer didn't keep score but said, it was an absurd practice round, I didn't do a thing."

Catcher Sparks Attack as Twins Whip Tigers, 7-0

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —Jerry Zimmerman may not strike fear in the hearts of American League pitchers, but don't low-rate the veteran reserve catcher around the Minnesota Twins, clubhouse.

The reason is obvious: The Twins win when Zimmerman catches. As a matter of fact, they have won eight of 10 games with Zimmerman behind the plate since deposed Manager Sam Mele started catching him semi-regularly May 28.

★ ★

Zimmerman clubbed a two-run homer and added two singles to drive in another run in the Twins, 7-0 victory over Detroit Wednesday night.

It was only Zimmerman's third major league home run and his first this season. Until Wednesday night, he had gone hitless in 28 times at bat.

Zimmerman stroked his homer off Earl Wilson, the Tiger starter who also gave up two-run blasts to Harmon Killebrew and Rod Carew in the first two innings.

The homer barrage staked Jim Kaat to a 6-0 lead after two innings, then Zimmerman made it 7-0 by singling home a run in the fourth.

That was much more than Kaat needed to breeze to his third victory in 10 decisions.

★ ★ ★

Wilson, who took the loss to make his record 8-8, was replaced by Pat Dobson in the second.

He was followed by Larry Sherry and Mike Marshall, who gave up three hits.

Joe Sparma 6-0 will be on the mound for Detroit today facing Dave Boswell (3-4) of the Twins.

AL President Nixes Game Protest Filed by Windy City Nine

BOSTON (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox announced last night that the protest of a May 30 loss to the Detroit Tigers had been disallowed by American League President Joe Cronin.

The White Sox had protested when umpires permitted Tiger pitcher Joe Sparma to leave the game after Detroit manager Mayo Smith visited the mound twice while Pete Ward was at bat.

The umpires rectified the mistake by ordering Sparma out of the dressing room runway and back to the mound to complete pitching to Ward.

The White Sox had protested both Sparma's removal and the fact that he was given warmup pitches when he returned to the mound.

In disallowing the protest, Cronin cited the rule which said the umpire must direct the proper pitcher to return to to the mound if an improper substitution is made.

Detroit Horse Show Set for Sunday Start

By JERE CRAIG

Some of the best horses ever to perform in Oakland County will return this weekend to the Bloomfield Open Hunt on East Long Lake Road.

They're entered in the 37th annual Detroit Horse Show, slated for its 31st visit to the BOH, that will begin 9 a.m. Sunday — a day earlier than in the past.

The prestigious show will run eight days this year. Thus it will overlap the Grosse Pointe Hunt Horse Show that begins this morning and will run though Sunday.

Many of the impressive thoroughbred show horses will compete at both sites, but this isn't expected to cause many problems.

Sunday's Detroit Horse Show classes will be dressage events in which the rider and horse work together using unseen commands.

There are no dressage events at the Grosse Pointe show, whose Sunday events will be concentrated on hunter and jumper stakes, plus the awarding championships in those divisions.

The hunters and jumpers will not begin competing on the BOH grounds until Tuesday. In hunter classes, it is the horse that draws the judge's primary attention.

PREMIER EVENT

Jumper events pair horse and rider against obstacles and are the most crowd pleasing. The Detroit Horse Show's premier event is the June 24 (Saturday night) North American Jumper Classic.

This event involves $2,000 of the show's $27,000 in prize money, ribbons and trophies. It annually lures the best jumpers in the Midwest and South.

The Detroit Horse Show is the largest outdoor show in the Western Hemisphere as well as one of the wealthiest in the United States.

It will include — in addition to the dressage, hunters and jumpers classes —equitation competition in which only the rider is judged, and junior jumping action.

Two Teams Move Into 1st Place in American Legion

Clarkston and Waterford came up with victories yesterday to move into a tie for first along with Troy in the American Legion District 18 baseball race.

Rick Johnson scattered seven hits and clouted a two-run triple as Clarkston (2-1) trimmed Southfield, 3-1. Teammate Dan Fife drove in the other run with a double. Southfield has a 1-1 mark.

A run-scoring triple by Steve Golt followed by a 360-foot homer by Dick Miceli sparked Waterford (2-1) to a 5-1 nod over Berkley (1-2). Bruce Mihalek went the distance and struck out 10.

In other games, Walled Lake (1-1) downed defending champion Farmington, 11-8, and Troy (2-1) turned back Milford, 3-1. Milford and Farmington are 1-2.

★ ★ ★

Bill Welsh triggered a five-run second inning for Walled Lake with a bases-loaded triple and the squad maintained the lead to square its record at 1-1.

David Wakefield flipped a four-hitter and fanned nine in leading Troy to victory.

Petty Sets Speed Mark for One Mile Course

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP) — Richard Petty, Plymouth's ace driver, broke the one mile stock car speed record for a one mile closed course Wednesday, but turned in only the second fastest average time for the day.

Petty set a single lap record of 117.225 miles per hour in time trials for Sunday's $75,000 Carolina 500 stock car race at the North Carolina Motor Speedway at Rockingham, but his four-lap average was below that of Dick Hutcherson's four-lap qualifying average of 116.486 m.p.h. Petty averaged 116.401. Both drove light weight engines.

Aussie Ace Fails in Record Attempt

TORONTO (AP) — Ron Clarke of Australia said yesterday that teammate Kerry Pearce hurt his chances for a record-breaking three-mile run in the Ontario Centennial international track meet, but added he could blame no one but himself for his "poor performance."

Clarke easily won the three-mile event in 13 minutes, 4.6 seconds, more than a second off his Canadian mark and 14 seconds off his world mark.

After the race, he apologized to the crowd of 2,500 for his performance and said he would like to come back some day and establish a world mark.

"He (Pearce) promised me he was going to run and make the pace in the early going, however he lagged badly," Clarke said. "Nevertheless, I must admit I didn't run well tonight and wouldn't want to blame anything for not doing better."

Cougars Lose Soccer Tilt as Brawl Terminates Play

DETROIT (AP) — The Commissioner of the United Soccer League declared Houston the winner of last night's game with the Detroit Cougars after the two teams and a handful of fans engaged in a brawl on the field.

Hostilities broke out with 17 minutes remaining in the game with Houston, actually Banki of Brazil, holding a 2-0 lead.

★ ★ ★

A 2½-hour meeting was held after the game with Commissioner Dick Walsh, game officials and representatives from both clubs attending.

Walsh declared Houston the winner after the meeting and said the result will count in the standings "pending receipt of written reports from the referee."

The fight began with Detroit, represented by Glentorans of Belfast, Ireland, was awarded a free kick 10 yards outside the Houston penalty area.

"Houston's fullback Luiz Alberto laid out Detroit's Tommy Jackson cold with a kick to the kidney," said Cougar's publicity director Gordon Preston.

"Then players from both teams swung into the melee," said Preston. "The benches emptied and several men were injured in the all-out kicking and fighting."

★ ★ ★

Nobody was hospitalized, he added.

Officers from both teams rushed into the fighting and about 20 of the 7,196 fans rushed onto the field and joined in the ruckus.

Referee Eddie Clemens finally blew the whistle to end the game.

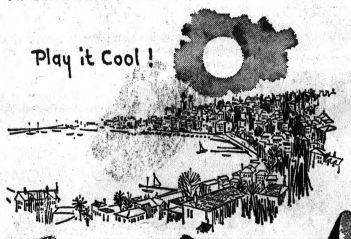

Shoulder Surgery Set for Red Wing Ullman

DETROIT (UPI) — Red Wings Center Norm Ullman entered University Hospital at Ann Arbor Wednesday for a shoulder operation.

Doctor planned to remove the end of his collar bone to correct an injury suffered during the last hockey season.

Ullman, 31, has been with Detroit 12 years. He scored 26 goals and was credited with 44 assists last season.

White Sox Yell 'Foul' After Ump's Call

Lose Decision on Long Blow; Game to Bosox

Kansas City Hurler Stops Orioles; New Record for Mantle

By DAVE O'HARA

BOSTON (AP) — If the Chicago White Sox lose the pennant by one game this year, they'll probably blame the home run that wasn't on the night of June 14th in Fenway Park.

★ ★ ★

The White Sox, in general, and manager Eddie Stanky particular, were boiling mad Wednesday after being forced to settle for a split of a twi-night doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox.

★ ★ ★

The American League leaders built an 8-5 advantage on a 16-hit attack and hung on in the ninth inning to take the opener. Then they dropped the nightcap 6-1 after a disputed call of a long drive by J.C. Martin into the right field stands.

★ ★ ★

In other American League games the Minnesota Twins blanked Detroit 7-0, Kansas City belted the Baltimore Orioles 9-2, California nipped Cleveland 3-2 on Bob Rodgers two-run single in the ninth inning and New York split with Washington, winning 7-1 and losing 3-2.

With Chicago trailing 2-0 and a runner on first with two out in the seventh, Martin lined a shot down the line. The blast appeared to go out well inside the right field foul pole.

STAYED AWAY

However, first base umpire Larry Napp stunned the White Sox — and many observers, including Red Sox players — by ruling the ball foul. Plate umpire Jerry Neudecker stayed away as Stanky argued vainly with Napp.

Martin then grounded out to end the inning and the Red Sox came back in their half to nail down the decision with four runs. After two hits started the uprising, Stanky came out to summon a pitcher from the bullpen.

★ ★ ★

Stanky, his old fiery self, took his time and then engaged Neudecker in a violent argument. The White Sox manager finally was ejected — and was showered by paper debris as he left the field.

Martin said Red Sox first baseman George Scott "told me the ball was fair by 18 feet."

Many of the Red Sox players agreed that the ball "was fair by five feet."

★ ★ ★

And, as one Boston spokesman said, "I think the umpires made the right call." He had been sitting in a position to see Martin's ball all the way — and he smiled while backing the umps.

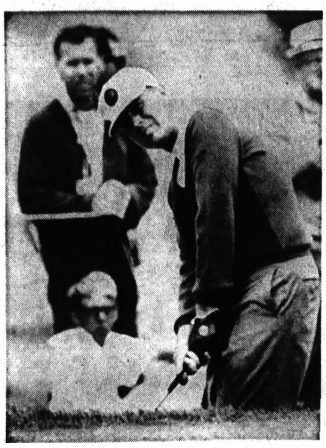

OUT OF ACTION

Chuck Dobson, also coming strong for Kansas City' stopped the slugging Orioles on one run before a jambed finger on his pitching hand forced him out in the seventh inning. Entering the game with two straight shutouts, he allowed only five hits in six innings to raise his record to 4-2.

Mickey Mantle broke Lou Gehrigh's Yankee record for games played when he appeared as a pinch hitter in the second game, his 2,166th.

DEFENDING CHAMPION — Billy Casper, golf's quiet man, practices yesterday at Baltusrol Golf Club in Springfield, where he sets out today to defend his U.S. Open Golf Championship. Casper defeated Arnold Palmer in a playoff to win the 1966 title.

Stalemate Continues in Pro Golf Dispute

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — There appears no immediate solution to the bitter fight between the Professional Golfers Association and tournament players for control of the $4.5 million tour.

Predictions in informed golf circles today were that Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Bill Casper and some 150 other touring pros would strike out on their own next month after the PGA National Championship Tournament, scheduled at Denver.

★ ★ ★

The question is: Can these transient pros run their own show?

The players gave the PGA until today to accede to their demands for greater control of the tour, including the privilege of setting tournaments, handling television proceeds and naming administrators for the tournament bureau.

The PGA insists it won't give in. "We can't live with that kind of arrangement," said PGA President Max Elbin of Washington, D.C., who has given golf lessons to three presidents at the Burning Tree Golf Club.

The PGA has issued an ultimatum of its own — effective also today. Under it, the 150 players who have signed a protesting petition must remove their names or be subject to possible suspension and withdrawal of playing privileges.

The players say they won't do it.

So the U. S. Open Championship, not affected by the feud because it falls under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Golf Association, will proceed as scheduled with the player revolt temporarily shelved.

The day of accounting may not come until the PGA Championship at Denver July 20-24, although Elbi and the PGA Executive Committee have invited the players to air their grievances at an open meeting in Cleveland next Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

The players indicated they may boycott it. "We have asked for meetings before and they won't listen to us," Doug Ford, a member of the four-man tournament committee, said.

If the players boycott the PGA Championship, as threatened, they will face suspension under an ethical provision of the PGA constiution.

Then sponsors of subsequent PGA events, with hundreds of thousands of dollars invested, will face the dilemma of playing outlaw competitors or cancelling the tournament.

Managers Gamble and Lose

By the Associated Press

Let's play baseball manager. It's early in the game, there are runners at second and third with a tough hitter at bat and a lesser threat on deck. You issue an intentional walk, right? Wrong.

Harry Walker of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia's Gene Mauch played the obvious strategy of the deliberate base on balls Wednesday night and both regretted it later.

★ ★ ★

Walker ordered Mike Shannon passed in the first inning against the Cardinals and then watched Tim McCarver wallop a grand slam home run that triggered St. Louis' 7-4 victory over the Pirates.

Atlanta's Joe Torre got the intentional treatment from Mauch in the fourth inning and then trotted home behind two other runners when Clete Boyer unloaded a grand slam that helped the Braves to a 16-7 triumph over the Phillies.

In other National League action, New York's Bob Shaw shut out first place Cincinnati 4-0, Houston downed San Francisco 7-4, and Los Angeles ended an eight-game losing streak with a 4-3 victory over Chicago.

Left-hander Billy O'Dell was working for the Pirates so after Orlando Cepeda's double put runners at second and third with two out in the first, Walker ordered Shannon, a right-handed hitter, walked to pitch to lefty-swinging McCarver.

SIXTH HOMER

The homer, on an 0-1 pitch, was McCarver's sixth this season and his third career grand slam. Cepeda drove in two more Cardinal runs later and Bob Gibson survived an 11-hit Pirate attack to go the distance for his eighth victory.

★ ★ ★

Hank Aaron's one-out double following an error put Mauch on the spot in the fourth inning of the Phillies-Braves game. He had Larry Jackson walk Torre, a much tougher hitter than Boyer, who was on deck.

The slam was the fourth in Boyer's career and his ninth home run this season. Aaron added his 17th later and Tito Francona, traded by Philadelphia to Atlanta only Sunday, socked his first against his ex-mates.

Shaw scattered six hits and Tommy Davis drove in three runs as the Mets defeated the Reds.

UNEARNED RUN

New York pushed across an unearned run driven in by Davis' sacrifice fly in the first against Jim Maloney and Shaw made it stand up until the eighth when consecutive doubles by Ken Boyer and Davis produced three more.

Houston jumped on Gaylord Perry for five straight hits and five runs in the first inning and then held off the Giants.

★ ★ ★

Jim Wynn's two-run triple and a two-run single by Bob Aspromonte were the key blows in the Astros' spurt. Aspromonte drove in two more runs with a sacrifice fly and a single as Don Wilson scattered eight hits and struck out 13 Giants.

Ron Perranoski, the Dodgers' fourth pitcher against the Cubs, got Lee Thomas to ground into a bases-loaded double play choking off a Chicago rally in the ninth inning.

Len Gabrielson and Dodger starter Claude Osteen homered in the fourth while Ernie Banks and Ron Santo connected for Chicago.

ONE ARMED LITTLE LEAGUER—Lloyd Hickey, 11-year-old player on the Pirates Little League baseball team in Sacramento, has proved to his coach that he isn't any different than any other boy on his team, even though he only has one arm. Lloyd, who's right arm was severed by a hay mowing machine when he was two, is shown as he throws and bats during a recent game. He is credited with one pitching win so far this season and is batting .290 when Lloyd isn't pitching he plays first base.

O'Brien Cards 152 to Pace Big Field

Age isn't slowing the golfing swing of John A. O'Brien of Plum Hollow.

The 68-year-old O'Brien carded a 36-hole score of 152 in play Tuesday and yesterday to lead a field of 322 in the annual Michigan Seniors Golf Association tournament at Ann Arbor.

★ ★ ★

In third was Detroiter George Haggarty, former U.S. Seniors' champion.

Oldest player in the field was W. C. Hammond of Kalamazoo who carded a 109-110-219.

Allows Only Two Hits

Lefty Pitches Team Into 1st Place

Lefty Jack McCloud pitched M.G. Collision into a share of first place last night in City Class A baseball league action.

McCloud gave up a single in the fourth and a two-run double in the seventh in checking CIO No. 594 (4-2), 11-2, with the loss dropping CIO into a tie for third with Cranbrook (4-2), a 6-1 winner over UAW 653 (0-5).

The victory boosted M.G.'s record to 4-1, giving the squad a piece of first along with the R. T. Clippers who were idle last night.

While McCloud was checking the CIO bats, his teammates sprayed 13 hits around the Jaycee Field park. The winners scored three in the first and broke it open with four in the fourth.

The McDonald boys and Jerry Harkey sparked the attack. Bruce McDonald went three-for-three and scored three runs, while Denny came in with a pair o, hits and Dave added a single in three trips. Harkey picked up three singles and chased home a pair of runs.

ERASE DEFICIT

Cranbrook pushed across three runs in the fourth to wipe out a 1-0 UAW lead and added a single marker in the fifth and two in the sixth to wrap it up.

Bob Heavenrich, Mike Burkow and Larry Kirchner paced the attack with two hits apiece.

Al Levy scattered five hits and fanned four in picking up the decision.

Driver Wins Pole With Ford Fairlane

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Dick Hutcherson posted a near record 116.486 miles per hour in a Ford Fairlane Wednesday to win the pole position for Sunday's Carolina 500 stock car auto race.

★ ★ ★

Hutcherson, a Keokuk, Iowa, native, who lives at Camden, S.C., used a light-weight 374 cubic inch engine to whip the one mile North Carolina Motor Speedway oval.

His four-lap speed was just under the track qualifying record of 116.684 set last year by Smith.

Aussies Whip U.S. Local Pros in Net Tourney

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Top-seeded Ken Rosewall and second-seeded Rod Laver, both of Australia, eliminated local pros with ease Wednesday night in the first round of the $19,000 U.S. Professional Hardcourt Tennis Championships.

Rosewall breezed to a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Larry Miller, a St. Louis pro. Rosewall, seeking his third victory on the U.S. pro tour, forced many mistakes with his accurate placements and took advantage of Miller's nervousness.

Laver, the top money winner on the tour with $31,827, whipped Dick Horwitz of St. Louis, 6-2, 6-2. Horwitz surprised the red-headed Australian by taking the first game in each set.

Ring Title Bid for Welshman

CARDIFF, Wales (UPI) — Welshman Howard Winstone was the sentimental favorite, but world champion Vicente Saldivar of Mexico carried the betting money for tonight's featherweight title bout.

Winstone, the 28-year-old boxing master from Merthyr Tydfil, will enter the ring amid an explosion of national emotion and a massed choir of 40,000 voices in a second attempt to wrest the crown from the southpaw with "la mano de oro" the hand of gold.

But Saldivar, 24, has pared down to the 126-pound limit, looked good in training, and is expected to finish the fight inside the distance.

Canadian Team Signs 2 Players

CALGARY (AP) — The Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League today signed Mike Harker and Gerald Kwapisz.

Harker, a 220-pound linebacker, is from Colorado State University, where he was picked on the All-Rocky Mountain team.

Kwapisz, 240-pound center and two-way tackle from the University of Windsor, played one year at the University of Tulsa and one year at North Michigan University.

Track Squads Shoot for NCAA Championship

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Rain sprinkled the Brigham Young University stadium as a number of top collegiate athletes warmed up for tonight's start of the NCAA championships.

★ ★ ★

The Weather Bureau said it expected a clearing trend by the start of field-event qualifying at 5 p.m. MDT. The temperature has been in the mid-50s much of the week.

Distance star Gerry Lindgren was expected to give Washington State the early lead in team competition, which again shapes up as a battle among West Coast powerhouses such as Southern California, Oregon and defending champion UCLA.

★ ★ ★

Lindgren won both the three-mile and six-mile runs last year, and is superior to all competition this year on the basis of times. The six-mile, which starts at 10:35 p.m. MDT, is the only final tonight. The others will be Friday and Saturday nights.

★ ★ ★

The 4,500-foot altitude, which causes many distance runners to suffer from aching lungs and heavy legs, was mentioned by some as a possible hope for Lindgren's competition.

NO CONSOLATION

It was little consolation, however, to Ambrose Burfoot of Wesleyan, who ran in the NCAA College Division meet at a similar altitude in Ogden, Utah, last week. Burfoot said "smart distance runners like Lindgren" would handle the altitude.

The rain, while understandably bothersome to the practicing athletes, had no harmful effect on the all-weather, rubberized asphalt track. If anything, the surface appears to suffer more from softness in hot, dry weather.

Vern Wolfe, the Southern California coach who got world record-breaking performances last week from his 440-yard relay team and pole-vaulter Bob Seagren, said he expected Oregon and UCLA to be USC's main challengers for the team title.

He also listed San Jose State, Kansas and Villanova as possibilities.

"This is the pressure cooker," he said. "You never can tell."

Wolfe said he expected the weather and the altitude to have no effect on the outcome of the meet.

Trotter Race Favorite

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Adios Vic, who ended Romeo Hanover's 21-race winning streak in the Good Time Pace last week, is favored to win the $50,000 National Championship Pace at 1½ miles at Yonkers Raceway tonight.

KEEPING HIM HONEST — Detroit Tigers' first baseman Norm Cash (25) reaches for the ball as Minnesota Twins' Cesar Tovar dives back in time during a pickoff attempt in the second inning of the game in the Twin Cities last night. Tigers' pitcher Earl Wilson tried to catch Tovar off the base and fired to Cash but Tovar beat the throw. The Tigers lost 7-0.

Penn Crew Is Favored to Win Title

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Pennsylvania's strapping heavyweight crew was cast in the unfamiliar role of the favorite Wednesday to unseat defending champion Wisconsin in the 65th annual Intercollegiate Rowing Association championship on Onondaga Lake Saturday.

The Quakers, beaten only by Harvard's "Wonder Eight," and Norm Sonju's traditionally late developing Badgers boast a large number of veteran sweepswingers.

★ ★ ★

Penn, which has not won the coveted Varsity Challenge Cup since 1900, has seven oarsmen back from last year's fifth-place crew. The Badgers have five returnees, including stroke Tom Sy.

Unbeaten UCLA, the Western sprint champion, and a surprising Northeastern crew join perennial powers Cornell, Navy, Washington and California as top contenders in the varsity field of 16.

A record 41 crews from 16 colleges will compete in the three races.

OTHER ENTRIES

Other varsity crews entered in the gruelling, three-mile event are Brown, Columbia, Dartmouth, MIT, Princeton, Rutgers, Stanford and Syracuse.

Fourteen crews will vie in the jayvee race, also at three miles, and 11 boats will row in the freshmen two-miler.

Only three times in 37 years has a crew from a school other than Cornell, Navy, Washington or California rowed away with the IRA crown, and each time it was Wisconsin.

Jockey Wins 5 Races

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Jorge Velasquez rode five winners at Monmouth Park race track Wednesday.

Horse Show Set for BOH

The affair at BOH is the only eight-day horse show in the state. A change has eliminated the final Sunday night jumping class.

★ ★ ★

Competition at the BOH will be under way by 9 a.m. each day except the final Sunday morning when the judging will start at 10 o'clock. Beginning Tuesday, there will be jumper classes starting by 7 p.m. each night.

A highlight of the jumping competition will be the return of the Canadian Equestrian Team whose members last year dominated the big jumper results.

Show manager F. E. (Gene) Rawlins has announced that no admission will be charged during the first three days of the show. Beginning Wednesday, general admission $1 for adults and 50 cents for children and reserved seats will be available.

Probable Video Pact Puts League on Solid Ground

PITTSBURGH (AP) — With a single stroke, the fledging American Basketball Association says it's gaining financial equality.

How? Television.

Without dribbing a ball, the new league says it has a national television network offer that will place it on a financial footing equal to the established National Basketball Association.

★ ★ ★

George Mikan, ABA commissioner, described the offer Wednesday as "healthy and substantial," but declined to name the network or the terms.

The ABC network has a contract with the NBA.

Gabe Rubin, who holds the Pittsburgh franchise in the ABA, said, "It will be quite an achievement to obtain a national TV contract in our first year, considering the NBA took several years to break into national television."

Mikan, a former great in the NBA, spoke at a news conference prior to the opening of a three-day meeting of the ABA's 11-member board of trustees.

★ ★ ★

Among the matters up for discussion, said Mikan, is what position the league should take on litigation involving player raids between the two leagues.

BACK-AND-FORTH

After the ABA was formed, several NBA players jumped over to the new league, only to be grabbed back by former owners through reserve clauses in their contracts.

The courts will decide on the legality of the reserve clauses, said Rubin.

Arizona State Nine Keeps Record Intact

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — "I felt before the tourney we'd have to beat Stanford twice and we're still playing it that way," said Coach Bobby Winkles after his Arizona State baseball team stopped Stanford 5-3 to become the only unbeaten team in the 21st College World Series.

★ ★ ★

"We're going to have to be ready to beat Arizona State twice," said Dutch Fehring, veteran Stanford coach.

Both coaches hedged on their pitching choices for tonight's NCAA fourth round, but both admitted they hoped to save their top pitchers for each other.

Stanford, 35-5, will face Auburn, 32-9, at 6 p.m. CDT, with Arizona State, 51-11, meeting Houston, 20-10, at 8:30.

Auburn and Houston are certain to have pitching problems, while Stanford and ASU have some talented second-liners, so Fehring and Winkles won't be gambling heavily.

POWER HITTERS

A little-known, little-used Arizona State relief pitcher, Larry Gura, and a pair of well-known power hitters, Houston's Tom Paciorek and Auburn's Scotty Long, were the third-round headliners.

★ ★ ★

Gura had excellent control of a good fast ball in holding Stanford to three singles — two of them infield scratchers — through 7 2-3 scoreless innings. He hadn't pitched since April 21 when California Western rapped him for three runs in two innings. His season earned run average was 4.01 for just 24 innings.

★ ★ ★

"He was just great," Winkles said. "He had looked real good in recent intra-squad games." Gura, a sophomore lefty, said he was "scared stiff at first," but had no trouble the rest of the way.

Paciorek hit the first pitch in the last of the 13th for a 380-foot home run, giving Houston a 3-2 victory over surprisingly stubborn Boston College in a four-hour battle.

The 210-pound Paciorek took a .452 average into the game but was 0-for-6 before his 10th homer of the year and second of the Series. The pro scouts stop talking when he comes to bat.

★ ★ ★

Long was hitless until the last of the ninth when he pulled a towering drive off the fence in the left field corner for a double, beating Rider of New Jersey 4-3.

"You might not believe this, but this is the same type of finish we've been having all year," said Paul Mix, Auburn coach.

Houston Coach Lovette Hill could say the same. The Cougars were down to Texas 3-0 with two out in the ninth but won 4-3 in the district finals. They beat Ohio State 7-6 with three in the ninth Tuesday, getting the last two after two were out.

OLYMPIC CHAMPION DIES — Edward P. F. Egan, above, who won the Olympic light-heavyweight boxing championship in 1920 and then won an Olympic medal in bobsledding in 1932, died yesterday in New York's Roosevelt Hospital. Egan 69, was chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission from 1945 until 1951.

Four Champs Among Entries in Gals' Golf

SPRING LAKE (AP) — Four former champions are among the more than 60 entries for the 46th running of the Spring Lake Women's Open Golf Tournament at the Spring Lake Country Club June 18-22.

Mrs. Edgar Fonnie Reynolds of Lansing has three titles to her credit — 1952, 1955 and 1962.

Miss Patti Shook, playing out of the Saginaw Country Club, first took the crown in 1959 as a 16-year-old Saugatuck school girl and repeated in 1960.

Mrs. Jack Scripsema and Miss Cynthia Claus of Grand Rapids were winners in 1958 and 1963, respectively. Mrs. Scripsema lost out in the finals to Miss Sharon Wilder of Grand Rapids a year ago.

Long-Distance Hits Highlight Contests

Long-distance blows highlighted play last night in city Slow-Pitch League action, while the defense took the bows in an American League contest.

In Slow-Pitch, MGM Cleaners-Shalea Lounge (5-1) moved into second place by downing Fisher Local 596 (1-5), 12-9, while the Sportsmen (4-2) trimmed Artco (2-3), 11-7, and Moose (3-3) downed Sport-O-Rama (1-5), 24-5.

In the lone AL game, slick fielding by the Local 594 (4-3) defense paved the way to a 2-1 verdict over Orchard Lanes (2-5).

Shortstop Dave Simmons, third basemen Earl McKee and right-fielder Don McConner were the defensive standouts for Local 594 which pushed across two runs in the fifth to sew up the win.

The winners managed only four hits, with two of them — a double and triple — coming in the two-run fifth. Jerry Dennis picked up a pair of singles for the losers.

★ ★ ★

Ed Freeman clouted a home run and teammates Bill Waun and Bob Cheza came through with three hits apiece to pace the MGM-Shalea attack. Chester Williams sparked the losers with three safeties.

TWO-RUN BLOW

Sam Sheehy cracked a two-run homer for the Sportsmen who broke up a tight game with four runs in the seventh. Craig Medlen and Chuck Devereaux checked in with three hits apiece for the winners, while Tom Condee picked up a homer and a double in a losing effort for Artco.

★ ★ ★

Al Jenks, Bob Wright and Don Jones banged homers as Moose broke loose for 31 hits. Jenks and Wright each connected with a mate aboard in the second frame and Jones hit his with one in the fifth.

★ ★ ★

Wright had five hits, icking up two singles, a double and triple to go with the homer.

U. S. Net Star Moves Ahead

BECKENHAM, England (AP) — Mrs. Billie Jean King, the Wimbledon champion from Long Beach, Calif., and three British Wightman Cup players advanced to the quarter-finals of the Kent Lawn Tennis Championships Wednesday. Mrs. Donna Fales of New York was eliminated.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. King, turning up on grass courts for her coming Wimbledon defense, easily downed Sweden's Igrid Loefdahl 6-1, 6-2.

★ ★ ★

Christine Truman led the British trip by rallying for a 5-7, 6-1, 6-2 victory over Mrs. Fales.

The other British winners were Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones and Virginia Wade. Mrs. Jones, a left-hander, trounced Australia's Helen Gourlay 6-1, 6-2. Miss Wade beat Russia's Anna Dmitrieva 7-5, 6-3. The Russian had eliminated Rosemary Casals of San Francisco Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Two Russians reached the quarter-finals in the men's singles. Alexander Metreveli ousted Colin Stubbs, Australia, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. Vladimir Korotkov advanced when Australia" Ray Ruffels retired with a knee injury while trailing 2-5 in the first set.

Big, Small Bouts on Clay's Schedule

DETROIT (UPI) — If Cassius Clay is feeling the pressure of the biggest and smallest fights of his life, coming up only four days apart, he's keeping it to himself.

Clay faces two unknown fighters — Alvin "Blue" Lewis of Detroit and Orville Qualls of Chicago—in three-round exhibition fights tonight and will fly to Houston Sunday night for his big bout in federal court over refusing induction into the U. S. Army.

The once-recognized king of the heavyweights was confident Wednesday that he could knock out either Lewis or Qualls despite the protective headgear and the pillow-like 16-oz. gloves he'll be wearing. He wouldn't predict a double knockout, however.

Starts Where She Left Off in Golf Play

If business weren't so demanding, Mrs. Midge Cova of Novi might just win every time out in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association outings.

She captured the WMGA's initial tournament this season, and yesterday, after a four-week absence, she came back to take a five-stroke victory in leading a field of 81 at Salem Hills.

★ ★ ★

Despite her trouble with her putter, Mrs. Cova manages six pars on the front and five on the back. She needed 16 putts for the first nine and 19 coming in.

Heat, Tough Foes Await Southern Cal in Net Play

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Southern California Coach George Toley, whose team is favored to capture the national collegiate tennis title this week, decided several days ago that this is going to be a hot tournament in more ways than one.

Toley knew about the heat that would come from second-ranked UCLA, the number one rival to the Trojans for the supremacy of college tennis for the last two decades.

★ ★ ★

He also was aware of an adjustment his players would have to make to a somewhat different climate.

"I thought our players might wear down a little in this humidity so we got here three days early just to get accustomed to it," said Toley. "We've even practiced at the hottest times of the day to make sure we were ready."

Temperatures soared to near the 100 mark in this southern Illinois city and the humidity was wilting Wednesday. But Toley dismissed it with simply the comment that "it was as hot on one side of the net as it was on the other" and the Trojans moved out in front of UCLA for the first time in their bid for a ninth team crown.

★ ★ ★

Southern Cal grabbed the lead with a victory in the day's most crucial match a 6-2, 6-1 triumph by the Trojans' third-seeded Bob Lutz over UCLA's Steve Tidball. It was the first clash of the meet between the two titans.

Although Southern Cal enjoyed a 20-19 edge going into the fourth day of play today, Toley was concerned about the possibility of his team losing the lead.

Quarter-final pairings in the singles division today are:

Stan Smith of Southern Cal vs. Gary Rose of UCLA.

Jaime Fillol of Miami vs. Robert O'Brien of Mississippi State.

Brien Cheney of Arizona vs. Bob Lutz of Southern Cal.

Joaquin Loy Mayo of Southern Cal vs. Ian Crookenden of UCLA.

Military Boxing Finals Moved

FT. MEAD, Md. (AP) — The semifinals and finals of the International Military Boxing Tournament have been shifted from New York's Madison Square Garden to Ft. Meade.

The shift was made, an official said Wednesday, because of the withdrawal of previously committed nations from the tournament.

★ ★ ★

The list of nations now entered include West Germany, France, Ivory Coast, Cameroon, South Korea, Thailand and the United States. Only West Germany and the U. S. have entered competitors in all 11 weight classes.

Early Trade Is Mixed

Mart Moves Up in Afternoon

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved higher early Thursday afternoon following an initial period of hesitation. Trading was active.

The market was mixed in early trading following the decline Wednesday which cut off a series of six straight daily advances.

Elements of strength as well as weakness stood out as the market was groping for a trend.

Additional buying was attracted by the performance of some of the new favorites and this fanned out to a plurality of stocks traded.

★ ★ ★

Gainers had the edge over losers by a margin of around 3 to 2 but so many issues were unchanged in price that the advancing stocks actually constituted less than a half of the issues traded.

Aerospace issues showed renewed strength after some days of indifferent performance.

★ ★ ★

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Dome Petroleum gained about 3, LTV Electronics 2. Up a point or so were Gale Industries, Scurry Rainbow Oil, APL Cor., Gulf Sulphur and Aero Flow. Goldfield was an active fractional loser.

Preoccupation with match point scoring has made American minor suit slam bidding very ineffective. Our match point experts have found by experience that they can get reasonably good scores by making over-tricks at a no-trump or a major suit game.

JACOBY

Thus they tend to avoid the danger of getting a bad score by going down at a minor suit slam.

Boris Raymond and Jimmy Caine of New York are match point players who are willing to get to minor suit slams. They reason that the slam bonus is worth-while even at match points.

Their bidding of today's hand brought them a well-deserved good score when most of the field settled for bidding three no-trump and making five.

Note that Jimmy, sitting North, did respond one heart to start. He wanted to explore all possibilities. Boris might have rebid one no-trump with his mere 13 high card points but Boris does not like to barge into no-trump with a singleton even if his partner has bid the suit.

Jimmy also avoided no-trump and jumped to three diamonds. This gave Boris the chance to make the key bid of three spades. This was a dual-purpose bid. It gave Jimmy a chance to try three no-trump if he wished and also gave a mighty good indication that Boris held only one heart.

Jimmy's bid of four clubs took the hand out of the three no-trump range. Boris held only one heart.

Jimmy's bid of four clubs took the hand out of the three no-trump range. Boris temporized with four diamonds. Jimmy's four spade bid showed the king of spades and allowed Boris to jump to six diamonds with complete confidence.

The slam might have gone down with really bad breaks in trumps and clubs but it certainly was a good one and made easily against the actual distribution.

'Ex-Principal Attempted to Incite Unrest'

The dismissed principal of Emmanuel Christian School, 825 Golf, allegedly returned to the building yesterday to incite unrest among teachers and students but was unsuccessful, according to a school spokesman.

Dismissed as principal June 7 was Roger Sykes of 2968 W. Huron, Waterford Township.

The dismissal, according to School Superintendent Dr. Tom Malone, was due to dereliction of duty, admitted disloyalty, violation of Sykes' personal word and failure to follow administrative orders.

Contacted today, Sykes said he had no comment on the matter.

The Emmanuel Baptist Church school facility is located in one building and provides classes for kindergarten through 12th grade youngsters.

Emery Rips Court in NY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harried New York City motorists found an unexpected ally yesterday in the person of a visiting Michigan judge.

Municipal Court Judge John C. Emery Jr. of 1025 E. Maple, Birmingham, said the impression he got after inspecting a New York traffic court was one of "a mumbling judge," a shouting clerk and a clanging cash register."

Emery, addressing the Atlantic regional traffic court conference at Fordham University, declined to identify the traffic court he inspected, but described it as "disgraceful." He tempered his criticism somewhat, however, by adding that it was typical of equally disgraceful traffic courts in many parts of the United States.

Comics Galaxy Highlights 'Stars for Israel' Benefit

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The comedians were warned to keep it dignified and not tell jokes at the enormous "Stars for Israel" fund raising at Madison Square Garden—but nobody thought to tell Bobby Kennedy.

WILSON

"Shalom!" cried the Senator, waving to the audience, which had donated heavily. "Thank you for that very touching reception. I understand," he smiled, "you've been touched also." A moment later, he began coughing. "I had an Arab cup of coffee before I came here," he explained.

* * *

Red Buttons stood in the back waiting to go on, a sheaf of papers shaking in his hand.

"Look at all these wonderful jokes they won't let me tell! Seltzer is stronger than oil . . . The Arab army is just the Mets with guns . . . The Jews wouldn't live in Egypt. They haven't got one Chinese restaurant . . . Mohammed Ali is changing his name to Cassius Clay."

Suddenly a UJA official told Red, "It's all right, you can tell a couple of jokes."

And so the bars were down, but you'd have been proud of the comedians for their restraint: Buddy Hackett, Soupy Sales, Alan King, Corbett Monica, Zero Mostel.

"This show," Sam Levenson said, "has already been running longer than the war did."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Merv Griffin may open the new Statler Hilton Plaza Hotel in Miami Beach Dec. 14 as star of the supper club . . . he has an offer exceeding Las Vegas' top bid. Elvis Presley has been offered $85,000 for 10 days. About every other public room in the hotel is named for Jackie Gleason, who's a "consultant."

Hedy Lamarr gets flaming mad at people who believe she had anything to do with her supposed autobiography: "They wrote it behind my back—I'm suing everybody!" Hedy, who came here for her son Anthony Loder's marriage to Roxanne Clase, may do a film here.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Arnold Glasow suggests an eleventh commandment for teen-agers: "Humor thy father and mother."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "I sprained my wrist swinging a racquet," writes Arthur N. Fisher, "—and I call that game 'tennis the menace.'"

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "If a nation values anything more than freedom, it will lose its freedom. And the irony of it is that if it is comfort or security that it values more, it will lose that, too."—Somerset Maugham.

EARL'S PEARLS: "Home is where you go when you're tired of being nice to people."—Pic Larmour.

"Well, here it is June," writes Bob Orben, "—the month the Yankees used to print their World Series tickets." . . . That's earl, brother.

Stripper's Aide Forced to Quit: Bit Too Much

LONDON (UPI) — Strip teaser Adele Warren told her Soho club boss she'd quit if he didn't make Rahni stop nipping at her as she undressed for the customers.

Rahni is a horse, supplied by the club, whose job was to stand still while Adele peeled. But Rahni kept getting into the act, the girl complained, by reaching around and nipping away bits of costume on his own initiative.

All was made well when Rahni was muzzled during performances.

Pontiac Press Photo

TOWNSHIP PROCESSIONAL — Seniors at Waterford Township High School begin marching toward their seats prior to the graduation ceremony last night on the school's football field. Some 440 received diplomas during the exercises, including 36 adult education students.

LANSING (AP) — House Republican leaders apparently can pick up at least four crucial tax votes by agreeing not to collect a state income levy unless the people approve it in a special election this fall.

★ ★ ★

Four of the six maverick Republicans who have previously refused to vote for the House GOP tax package said last night they would support it if it contained the referendum petition. The other two said they were thinking it over.

If the self-styled "Little Six" add their votes to the 50 already thought to be in hand, the House Republican package — with its 2½ per cent personal income tax — could pass without Democratic help.

A vote could come as early as today if Republican leaders accept the referendum proposal and decide it can attract the needed 56 votes.

Expected to weigh against the idea was the fear that if voters reject the income tax in September — after lawmakers have passed the billion-dollar budget expected in fiscal 1967-68 — it could leave the state in serious financial trouble.

The popular-vote scheme emerged yesterday as five of the six reluctant Republicans met with either Gov. George Romney or his aides.

Romney was described as not enthusiastic about the proposal. However, he reportedly did not reject it.

The four Republican holdouts who said they would vote for the package if it contained a referendum provision were Reps. Lionel Stacey of Benton Harbor, Edson Root of Bangor, Robert Stites of Anitou Beach and Donald Holbrook of Clare.

Rep. Frederic Marshall of Allen said he and Rep. Don Pears of Buchanan were "thinking it over" and might not make up their minds for "another day or two."

"We haven't said yes," Marshall told newsmen, "and we certainly haven't said no."

U.N. Session Likely on Israeli Pullback

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N General Assembly probably will begin an emergency session this weekend to debate a Soviet demand that Israel withdraw from the Arab territory it conquered.

Secretary General U Thant began polling the 122 U.N. members on the Soviet request for the session after the Security Council refused yesterday to approve a Soviet resolution condemning Israel's "continued occupation" of Egyptian, Jordanian and Syrian territory taken in the war last week.

The Russians wanted the council also to demand that Israeli troops pull back to the lines they held before fighting began June 5.

Thant must call the assembly session within 24 hours after receiving affirmative responses from a majority of the members — 62 nations. Diplomats generally believed that a majority would agree by tomorrow and that the session would begin Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Speculation continued that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin would attend the session. Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in his letter requesting the meeting said the Soviet delegation would include "leading statesmen of the Soviet Union," and AP Correspondent Henry S. Bradsher reported from Moscow that Kosygin was likely to be among them.

★ ★ ★

The Soviet Union based its call for the emergency session on the "Uniting for Peace" resolution which the United States pushed through the assembly in 1950 to circumvent the Soviet veto in the Security Council.

The procedure permits assembly action on a threat to peace when the Security Council is paralyzed by lack of unanimity among the big powers. The Russians in the past called the procedure illegal.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg told the Security Council during its debate yesterday that his government was "not interested in maneuvers" such as the Soviet move to the assembly but rather wanted to work in the council for real peace in the Middle East.

He said "the council has far from exhausted its possibility of contributing" to that end.

WASHINGTON TALKS

Goldberg went to Washington yesterday afternoon to consult with the State Department.

The provision in the Soviet resolution to condemn Israel received the votes of only four council members — the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, India and Mali. The 11 other council members abstained.

The affirmative votes of nine members are required for adoption of a resolution.

The provision calling for Israeli withdrawal was supported by six members—the four that voted for the first provision plus Ethiopia and Nigeria. The other nine council members again abstained.

The council gave unanimous approval, however, to a resolution sponsored by Argentina, Brazil and Ethiopia calling on all governments concerned to treat war prisoners and civilians caught in the war humanely. It also asked Israel to facilitate the return of refugees from the fighting.

OU, OCC to Receive $43,272 for Libraries

U.S. Rep. Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District, today announced that the Office of Education has approved four grants totaling $43,272 for purchase of books and library supplies at Oakland University and Oakland Community College.

Under Title II of the Higher Education Act, two grants totaling $17,924 were made to the university and two grants totaling $5,348 were approved for the community college, McDonald said.

Yanks, S. Viets Kill 271 Cong

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. and South Vietnamese forces, seeking out Vietcong troops within 90 miles of Saigon, claimed today they killed 271 Communists in two major battles which broke a two-week lull in the ground war.

Units of South Vietnam's crack 21st Infantry Division reported 211 killed in a Vietcong battalion they had been tracking for months deep in the Mekong Delta. They said their own casualties were "extremely light."

U. S. Command said 60 Vietcong and seven American infantrymen were killed and 19 Americans were wounded in war zone D 47 miles northeast of Saigon.

The renewal of larger scale ground fighting coincided with the announcement that U. S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara would make his ninth trip to Vietnam next week.

★ ★ ★

AP Military Writer Fred S. Hoffman reported from Washington that a further increase of U. S. forces is expected to result from McNamara's trip, with Pentagon sources predicting increases varying from 25,000 to 100,000 men.

But Premier Nguyen Cao Ky told newsmen today that 600,000 U. S. troops — 138,000 more than were reported in the country last week—are needed to handle the 390,000 Communist troops he estimated are in the country.

Ky's estimate of the enemy was nearly 100,000 more than the estimate of 282,000 made by U. S. headquarters for the past few weeks.

Cincinnati Teen Is Shot as Violence Rips Dayton

By The Associated Press

A white teen-ager was shot by Negroes in a passing car although racial rioting was eased generally last night in Cincinati, Ohio. Violence hit another Ohio city after a Negro leader promised "to make white men get on their knees."

Cincinnati police said James Shirk, 15, was shot and was in poor condition at a hospital.

Fire bombs were used in several places, police said, and unruly crowds formed, then dispersed as cruisers and National Guard jeeps raced to the scene.

Police said 70 persons were arrested in spots as far as 11 miles apart although trouble calls came at a slower rate than the previous night and reports of injuries were fewer.

Meanwhile, vandalism, at least two arson fires and window breaking cropped up in Dayton, Ohio, where three white persons were beaten when pulled from their cars.

FOLLOWED MEETING

The violence followed a militant civil rights meeting where H. Rap Brown, who recently replaced Stokely Carmichael as head of the student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, asked Negores "how can you be nonviolent in America, the most violent country in the world?

"You better shoot that man to death; that's what he's doing to do to you" Brown said.

Afterwards, Willie Ricks, SNCC official said he and Brown were in Dayton "to make the white man get on their knees."

National Guardsmen patroling Cincinnati were under orders from their commander, Lt. Col. Francis B. Folk that "if fired upon, return fire and shoot to kill."

LOOTING, DAMAGE

Damage from looting, fires and smashed store windows Tuesday night was estimated at more than $1 million.

In contrast, more than 120 young Negroes in Tampa, Fla., apparently ended the violence which had disrupted Florida's second largest city for three nights.

Striving to maintain an uneasy truce with National Guardsmen and police reinforcements held out, white-helmeted members of the "City Youth Patrol" popped up in front of bars, on troublesome corners and in restaurants to urge that Negroes "cool it. We don't need any more trouble."

The action followed official warnings that serious trouble would bring massive police retaliation.

Romney Signs Bond Sale Bill

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Romney signed 10 bills into law yesterday, including one aimed at stimulating the sale of job-producing revenue bond issues.

The law change is expected to clear the way for the sale of three bond issues for projects which will create additional job opportunities.

A major change would allow the bonds to be discounted at a rate not exceeding 10 percent, to be included in a maximum interest rate 7 per cent.

Bond issues affected are:

$33 million by Allied Supermarkets of Livonia, expected to result in 2,000 more jobs; $12.5 million by Beechnut Lifesaver of Holland, expected to result in several hundred jobs, and $8.8 million by Budd Corp. of Clinton, also expected to produce several hundred jobs.

★ ★ ★

The governor also signed bills to:

- Eliminate the Jan. 1, 1968, expiration date from the election code which permits the use of any type of voting machine approved by the secretary of state.

LEASING ARRANGEMENTS

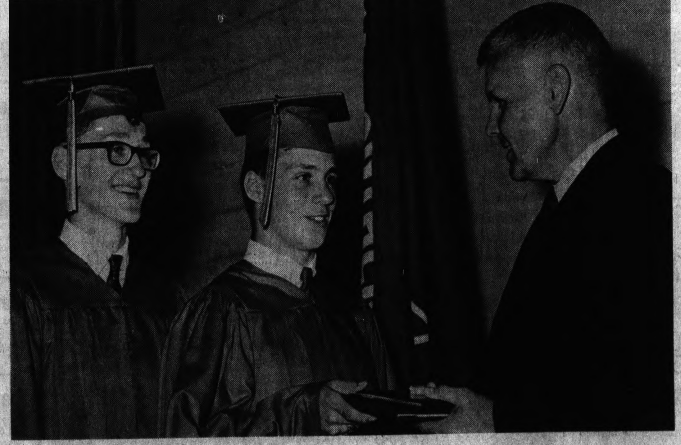

- Provide that the State Aeronautics Commission can enter into leasing arrangements for nonaeronautical uses of the low land area at the Houghton Lake State Airport.
- Extend to community college districts the authority now held by boards of education and school districts to request a municipality to adopt a local ordinance covering operation, parking and speed of motor vehicles.

★ ★ ★

- Require a person to have U. S. citizenship to obtain a permanent teaching certificate.
- Allow foreign corporations not admitted to do business in Michigan to purchase any loans and mortgages on property within the state.

FOR OPERATION

- Provide that local units of government may appropriate funds for the operation as well as for capital outlay purchases for child guidance clinics.
- Make it a felony for off-duty security guards to carry concealed weapons except in compliance with their license restrictions.
- Extend from 24 hours to five days the time in which a voter registration clerk has to notify another voting district of the cancellation of the registration of a voter who has registered in a new district.

Bill Restricting PoliceUnionism Is Kept Alive

LANSING (AP) — House Republicans overcame an afternoon defeat and a freewheeling desk-pounding evening filibuster Wednesday and kept alive a bill forbidding policemen to affiliate with unions not restricted to public employes.

First ruling Democratic opponents of the bill out of order, then ignoring their chorus of angry shouts, Speaker Robert Waldron forced a vote on the controversial labor measure just minutes before the midnight deadline for passage of most bills this session.

The wild hour of filibusters, specious amendments, procedural squabbles and other time-consuming maneuvers came after the House thought it had cleared its calendar of Senate bills.

Members were putting their coats on and getting ready to adjourn when GOP Floor Leader William Hampton, in a surprise move, forced reconsideration of the bill. It had been defeated 55-49 earlier when three Republicans refused to vote for it.

ROLL OVER OBJECTIONS

With the three—Edgar Geerlings of Muskegon, Gustave Groat of Battle Creek and newcomer Anthony Licata of Detroit—back in line, Hampton's Republican machine rolled over Democrats' objections and sent the bill to the House Appropriations Committee.

That procedural step means the bill can still be passed, since Republicans can report it back to the floor and call it an appropriations bill. That would allow them to act on the bill despite the midnight deadline which otherwise would have killed it.

As approved by the Senate, the measure would have limited policemen and deputies to unions which represent only them and public safety and federal civil service employes.

The House amended the bill to allow affiliation with unions representing any county, state or federal employes — but it still would forbid joining a union which represents workers in private industry.

Two Michigan communities would be immediately affected by the bill. In Escanaba, police are Teamsters Union members, and in Alpena—home town of Republican Rep. Joseph Swallow, chairman of the House Labor Committee — policemen are affiliated with the Stone-workers Union.

3 Plead Guilty in Plot Case

The trial of a Livonia couple and their son Tuesday in Oakland County Circuit Court on an alleged murder-for-hire plot was concluded when the defendants admitted attempting to conspire to commit murder.

Facing prison for up to 2½ years each are Mr. and Mrs. John V. Sorna and their son, Jules, 25.

Following a recess in the trial before Circuit Court Judge Farrell E. Roberts, the three defendants asked to plead guilty to a reduced charge.

Just before the recess, witness Bert Davis of Detroit testified that the younger Sorna offered to employ him to murder a Farmington Township party store owner.

The original charge against the Sornas was conspiring to commit murder.

Assistant Prosecutor Michael M. Pantel and Farmington Township police had no objection to a charge of attempted conspiracy which carries half the maximum five-year penalty.

The younger Sorna was arrested Nov. 21 in connection with the holdup of Mrs. Victoria Gogates, who operates a store at 28734 Grand River, Farmington Township.

Davis testified that he and Sorna met March 11 in a Detroit bar and that Sorna offered him money to kill Mrs. Gogates so the defendant could avoid prosecution for the $35 holdup.

Sentencing will be July 5.

Lansing Has Clash Again

LANSING (UPI) — Gangs of rock-throwing Negro youths clashed with police on the city's south and west sides early today.

Two policemen and a woman were injured. There were two arrests.

About 40 policemen patrolled the areas searching for groups of youths who darted from dark side streets, hurling rocks at passing cars.

One woman was injured when she was hit by a "thrown object" while riding in a car in the troubled area, police siad.

At least four squad cars were damaged during the incident, the second this spring. It came less than a year since last summer's racial violence.

All but 2 Counties Defy Kelley

U.P. Is in a Dither Over Time

By the Associated Press

Michigan's Upper Peninsula had time on its hands today—but it was anybody's guess whether it was Eastern Standard, Eastern Daylight or Central Daylight.

While residents of Lower Michigan were readily adjusting to a switch from Eastern Standard to Eastern Daylight Time, most local government officials in the U.P. insisted their areas would remain on Eastern Standard—which is the same as Central Daylight.

★ ★ ★

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said the entire state was on EDT and those who did not observe it were in violation of state law.

But defiant U.P. officials told Kelley, in effect, to go jump into any one of the Great Lakes.

CONFUSION REIGNS

Confusion reigned in many communities.

State agencies, colleges, taverns and some banks and factories were observing EDT. City, county and many private business establishments preferred to remain on EST (or CDT), which is an hour earlier.

★ ★ ★

However, Chippewa and Mackinac counties decided to switch to EDT.

Center of the dispute was the question of whether the Upper Peninsula, most of which geographically is west of Lower Michigan, actually is in the Eastern Time Zone or the Central Time Zone.

'NO AUTHORITY'

The U.P. congressman, Republican Philip Ruppe, said that as of last April 1, the state "had absolutely no authority to determine time zone boundaries.

"I fail to see how anybody can legally say the Upper Peninsula is in the Eastern Zone, because it is in the Central Zone under federal law."

Ruppe said he has seen no evidence that the Department of Transportation ever gave Michigan the right to declare time-zone boundaries.

★ ★ ★

"In a generous effort to help Michigan resolve its time problems," Ruppe said, "the federal Department of Transportation did state that it would not enforce the legal and proper Central Time until it acted on a petition from Lansing to place the Upper Peninsula in the Eastern Zone.

★ ★ ★

"This action certainly does not give any state official—including the state attorney general—the right to enforce a time zone that is not even the federally prescribed zone."

This was the theme echoed by most of U.P. state legislators and other officials.

Sen. Joseph Mack, an Ironwood Democrat, said he was happy to see that the U.P. was practically 100 per cent united on the present time issue.

Birmingham Area News

Firemen Pay Up $800 Yearly

BIRMINGHAM — Firemen gained an approximate $800-per-year pay boost plus substantial fringe benefit increases in a contract approved by the City Commission.

The firefighters association, in their second contract with the city, boosted their maximum pay from $7,704 to $8,435. Officers' pay was also increased with lieutenants getting $9,264 and captians $9,684.

Longevity bonuses were increased proportionately. They are five years, $169 or 2 per cent of salary; 10 years, $377 or 4 per cent; 15 years, $506 or 6 per cent; 20 years, $675 or 8 per cent; 25 years, $843 or 10 per cent.

This would put maximum pay with logevity at $9,880 for an ordinary fireman under the present agreement.

The fire fighters are entitled to reopen wage talks in one year.

★ ★ ★

In addition, the firemen gained increased hospitalization benefits which has the city paying 75 per cent instead of 50 per cent for protection.

Figures on the total cost to the city were not avilable. City manager Robert S. Kenning and George Rickey, personnel manager, bargained for the city.

The pact is effective July 1.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The police department has been hounded by complaints of roaming dogs and a door-to-door campaign to enforce the city ordinance is under way, police announced.

Deck Officers' Walkout Snarls Coastal Shipping

NEW YORK (UPI) — Shipping in Atlantic and Gulf coast ports was tied up today by a strike of deck officers in a dispute over wages recently granted to members of other maritime unions.

★ ★ ★

At least 20 ships were immediately affected by the walkout, called yesterday by officers of the Interantional Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots (MMP).

Most of the ships affected were in the ports of New York, New Orleans and Baltimore. Nearly 600 ships flying the American flag could ultimately be affected unless the strike is settled.

The liner United Sates, scheduled to depart for Europe today with 1,625 passengers, was not expected to be affected because its deck officers have signed agreements, a spokesman for the liner said.

★ ★ ★

The dispute involves a "parity" clause in the deck officers' contract which the union claims entitles its members to seek equal benefits granted to other maritime unions. The Marine Engineers Beneficial Association (MEBA) recently won a $2-an-hour increase which the MMP would like to match.

$90,000 Paid in Ether Death

A $90,000 out-of-court settlement was reached this morning in connection with the accidental death of a young Pontiac mother at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital in November 1965.

Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer approved the settlement for Gerald Covington, 436 Roland, and his two children. Each is to receive an equal share.

Covington's wife, Lurea, 24, was one of three patients at the hospital who died after being given an injection of ether from a bottle believed to have contained another anesthetic, Surital.

The other victims were Kimberly Ann Bruneel, 8 of West Bloomfield Township, and Michael Ketchum, 12, of Ferndale.

Lawsuits started by both their families also were settled out of court, with the Bruneels receiving $35,000 and the Ketchums, $30,000.

Covington's attorney, George Fulkerson of Birmingham, filed suit against the hospital and several staff members in February 1966, asking $1.25 million in compensatory and punitive damages.

Man Robbed by 2 Women

An Orion Township man was robbed at gunpoint by two women in the parking lot of a bar on Franklin Road, it was reported to Pontiac police early today.

Donald Davenport, 29, of 72 S. Eagan told officers he was sitting in his car about 2 a.m. when the women approached and one brandished a small black pistol.

They took $28 in cash and a $70 check, then fled on foot, he said.

Meeting Slated on Avon Sewer

Monies Collected Will Start Project

AVON TOWNSHIP — A meeting has been set here for 9:30 a.m. Monday to collect monies which will get the township's Sargent Creek Sewer construction and the first phase of its water system under way.

Developers located in the affected areas are expected to contribute towards the estimated $161,000 cost of engineering the projects. The balance will have to be met by the township's general fund, according to Mrs. Thelma Spencer, clerk.

The Township Board meeting recently resolved that the property owners advancing funds for the project will enjoy a priority towards use of the capacity in the existing MSUO treatment plan "in direct relationship to the amount of money advanced."

The Sargent Creek Arm, given top priority with the idea of completion by July 1969, runs north from the city of Rochester along Paint Creek to Tienken Road. It would be ready to tie in with the proposed Clinton-Oakland Interceptor once the countywide project is constructed.

★ ★ ★

FIRST PHASE

The first phase of the water program is somewhat extended, including also the subdivisions of Brabach Orchards, Rochester Knolls, Avon Heights, Stratford Knolls, Christian Hills, Glydwell, Sunnydale Garden, Homestead Acres and South Boulevard Gardens.

Mrs. Spencer, said 651 existing homes and 532 platted vacant lots would be served by the proposed sewer arm. She said 1,315 homes and 2,232 platted lots would benefit from the water plans.

People with corrected vision of 20-200 or worse are considered legally blind. There are 42,000 such persons in the U.S.

SCHOOL'S OUT — Summer vacation is here as you can tell by the look on Doug Walls' face as he hangs gleefully out the window of Decker Elementary School, Walled Lake. School ended for the summer yesterday in Walled Lake. A second grader, Doug lives at 1678 Ashton, Walled Lake.

Highland Sets Millage Vote to Renew Fire Station Levy

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — Township voters will be asked Sept. 12 to renew a 1-mill tax levy to build and equip a new fire station.

The new building would increase the number of fire stations in the township to three.

There is one located on Livingston Street and one on Duck Lake Road.

Township Supervisor Louis Oldenburg said the new one, if approved, would be placed near the township hall on John Street.

Oldenburg said the 1-mill will raise about $20,000. The township currently levies 2 mills for roads plus .77 of a mill allocated from the county.

The vote was set for September, Oldenburg said, so that residents would be more likely to be back from their summer vacations.

Holly Plans New Vote on Millage for Schools

HOLLY — The school district will try again for new millage, after a 10-mill proposal was defeated earlier this week, it was decided last night.

The new election will be sometime late in July.

The millage question lost by less than 50 votes, 377-328.

The district was seeking an actual 3-mill increase in taxation with renewal of a 7-mill levy due to expire.

The money, about $100,000 was requested to: add 10 teachers; pay higher and "more competitive" salaries; buy books and supplies; and support a higher student population.

'STAYED HOME'

Robert Brummeler, board president who was reelected in Monday's election, said he felt "too many voters stayed home, thinking the millage would pass.

"Those that always vote 'no' made sure they voted," he said. "I'm sure there are at least 50 more persons concerned with education who will show up at the next election."

In other business, the board was advised by its attorney, John Thomas, that district funds could not be spent to join the Council of Governments.

All government bodies in the six-county metropolitan area have been asked to join the group, concerned with centralizing planning and development.

NO ACTION TAKEN

No action on the matter was taken by the Holly board.

A program of training of teachers in sex education was approved. State Department of Health personnel will assist the district next fall, the board announced.

Avon Township Passes Vandalism Ordinance

AVON TOWNSHIP — An ordinance providing penalties of up to $100 and/or 90 days in jail for loitering or vandalism on school property will go into effect here next month.

The Township Board last night adopted the ordinance which becomes effective 30 days after publication.

The measure is expected to curb disturbances created by dropouts loitering around schools while classes are in session as well as affording protection during the summer months.

The ordinance, similar to the one passed by the City of Pontiac, was requested by the Avondale School Board.

Supervisor Cyril Miller last night told the board that the boundaries committee will consider a public hearing date on the matter of incorporation of the township at its session tomorrow morning.

OFFERED DATE

He said an offered Oct. 23 date for the public hearing has been rejected.

Petitions received from 70 residents of Eysters Avon Estates, south of Avon, between Livernois and Crooks, resulted in their being deleted from Phase I of the township's sewer and water plans.

Residents contended present wells and septic tanks were adequate.

★ ★ ★

Realignment of voting precincts made necessary by the incorporation of Rochester was approved.

NEW BOUNDARIES

Clerk Thelma Spencer outlined the new boundaries as follows:

What is left of Precinct Nos. 2 and 8 has been combined as No. 2 including the area bounded by Hamlin, Rochester, Mead and Dequindre.

Precinct No. 1 contains that left of the old Precinct No. 1 plus a portion of No. 3 including the area bounded by Rochester, South, Livernois and Walton.

★ ★ ★

Precincts 3 and 4 remain with extractions of the city and that encompassed in Precinct No. 1. Precincts No. 5 and 6 remain the same, as do Nos. 9 and 10.

PRECINCT 7

Precinct 7 has been split to include a new Precinct 8 which takes in the area bounded by Dutton, Brewster and Walton.

The board approved rezoning to allow construction of townhouses on Walton between Rochdale and Rochester Knolls subdivisions. Zoning petitions for a gas station adjacent to the proposed M59 freeway at Nawakwa and for a mobile home park on 55 acres in Section 13 were tabled for further study.

2 Staff Changes for School District

ROCHESTER — Two changes in the administrative staff of the school district have been announced by Schools Supt. Douglas B. Lund.

Harlan Johnson, director of instruction, has tendered his resignation effective June 30 citing health reasons as the cause.

William Mauer, current principal of Brooklands Tlementary School, has been appointed principal of Brooklands Elementary replacing Fred Hugger, who has been named principal of the new Long Meadow School.

Swimming Lessons Start Soon

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Some 500 youngsters of the township will be able to get free swimming instruction at Oakland University under a township-sponsored program.

Beginning Monday, students in the 9th through 12th grades will attend 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. sessions.

Children in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades will participate in 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. classes and those others who are 54 inches or taller in classes from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The program will continue through Aug. 11.

Each family is responsible for transporting its youngsters to the University's sports and recreation building for the program.

RED CROSS

Instructors say American Red Cross swimming progressions will be used. All participants will be tested and assigned to skill groups after the first few days.

Family swimming will be permitted from 6 to 8 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays at a minimal charge.

Two Women Cadet Officers

CLARKSTON — Two women have been commissioned as cadet officers in the Clarkston Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

Karen Hawkins of 6457 Snowapple and Cathy Witherup of 6723 Chickadee were given the rank of cadet 2nd lieutenants.

Promotion to master sergeant and a certificate of proficiency was awarded Timothy Morris of Pontiac.

The first cadet to complete flight training in the squadron T. Sgt. Pete Worden of 237 Hurondale, White Lake Township, recently earned his private pilot's license.

Township to Explain Pollution Steps

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The township has been requested to appear before the State Water Resources Commission in Lansing on June 29 to outline steps taken for the elimination of pollution in regard to the Clinton River.

The Township Board voted Monday night to make renewed efforts to obtain federal help on the costs of engineering sewage laterals which would hook up with the proposed Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor.

Construction on the latter is expected to start in May 1968.

Land Hassle Is Studied

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The City Commission is studying its role in a three-way legal hassle over a piece of property in the city.

The land concerned is nine acres at Opdyke and Hickory Grove that has on it an old office building and a home.

The legal battle, now 18 months old, is among the original owner, the George A. Bee Co, Oakland Community College (OCC) and nearby property owners.

The adjacent residents fear development other than single-family residential, for which the property is zoned.

They filed a $1-million damage suit against the property owners.

A pretrial date was set for Oakland County Circuit Court on June 21.

However, a tentative agreement was reached between the three parties and presented to the city commission.

City Attorney David Pence said the agreement entailed guarantees that the property would not be further developed.

The attorney claims the city will maintain control of zoning to prohibit further construction, other than that already prescribed.

However, the school claims it is outside city jurisdiction as a state institution, Pence said.

A complication of the issue is that an office was built on the land in the 1940s after a permit for a garage had been granted, city officials said.

After a long hassle, it was agreed to grant the property owner a "variance" for office use.

The city fears what future use the property could be put to. A second lawsuit is pending to enjoin development of the property, Pence said, making the way dispute.

city a fourth party in the three-

However, if the city commission is agreeable to the present tentative agreement, a court battle could be averted and the lawsuit dismissed, Pence said.

The sale of the property to OCC by the George Bee firm depends on the suit.

Orion Township, Lake Orion Discuss Coordinate Planning

ORION TOWNSHIP — A joint meeting last night of the planning commissions of Orion Township and the Village of Lake Orion paved the way for future cooperative efforts in the direction of master planning.

Both the township and the village have filed applications for federal grants to finance master plans under the 701 Planning Program. The two groups agreed last night that it would be to their mutual benefit to coordinate planning efforts.

Village President Wallace C. Crane said, "Let's talk on a reasonable basis. That means the whole of the township, including the village."

He suggested that the best possible plan would aim toward incorporating the entire township as a single governmental unit.

★ ★ ★

There is a definite danger, he said, that if action is not taken soon, the township will divide into a number of separate municipalities, producing needless and costly duplication of services. "This can happen," he said. "It happened to Royal Oak Township."

ADVANTAGES

"If the township and village were joined, as the City of Orion, for example, we would have one group of administrators, one school district, and single police and fire departments. People would derive many more services than they would get with a number of separate cities."

Village Manager John Reineck agreed, saying "I think this should be looked into. It would be cheaper in the long run and would provide better services."

Richard Beer, chairman of the Township Planning Commission, suggested that the two groups should plan further discussions in this direction, with representatives of the district school board in attendance.

★ ★ ★

The suggestion was agreed to although future meeting dates were not set.

What Price Progress?

2 Areas Suffer Growing Pains

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor — Suburban

Advice from previous generations has been that "progress is often painful." How true. Two recent incidents, happening at opposite ends of the county, offer proof.

Latest of the two cases in point occurred in Avon Township.

A meeting, called for at the township's annual meeting in April, was conducted over the manner in which property taxes are determined in the township and subsequently paid by home owners.

A group of self-admitted "disgruntled taxpayers" sought the public airing of the township's method of property assessment, contending assessing was not done on an equitable basis.

★ ★ ★

According to reports, the autopsy on assessments was not entirely conclusive. However, there was one conclusion to the effect that Avon taxpayers are experiencing something akin to progress.

VALUES CLIMBING

More specifically, it was pointed out that real estate values are climbing while the percentage of value to be taxed (the alleged 50 per cent of market value) is also tending upward. And taxing rates are remaining the same to meet governmental budgets also on the upward spiral.

Thus, so far as the taxpayer is concerned, a two-headed monster is created.

Increased land value, of course, is the form progress takes.

★ ★ ★

Meantime, on the other side of the county, the Walled Lake City Council was on the business end of some loud and bitter remarks when they rezoned two parcels of real estate to provide for some projected apartments.

VOCAL ABUSE

Accusations were reportedly hurled by residents who objected to the apartments. The vocal abuse was heaped up. For a time, it was unpleasant for those on the receiving end.

What price progress?

★ ★ ★

The Walled Lake incident is noteworthy in that the city fathers of that community have embarked on an ambitious program to revamp the city's image. An extensive physical revamping is contemplated eventually.

Enough for at Least 480 Weapons Annually

AEC Tells N-Plants' Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Information made public by the Atomic Energy Commission after 25 years of secrecy indicates the AEC's three gaseous diffusion plants are producing enough materials for a minimum of 480 nuclear weapons annually.

An AEC statement Wednesday gave information for the first time on the plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Portsmouth, Ohio; and Paducah, Ky.

The AEC made no specific mention of the number of nuclear weapons that could be produced from high-quality uranium-235 manufactured at the plants. Instead it dwelt on the total output of the plants of a lower-quality uranium-235 used to fuel nuclear power plants.

The total was announced at 2.61 million kilograms at the present rate of production. But an AEC spokesman, in response to a question, indicated this included about 48,000 kilograms of the high-quality uranium-235.

PREVIOUS REPORTS

Previous reports have indicated it requires 2 to 100 kilograms of high-quality uranium-235 to produce an explosive fission.

* * *

Based on that assessment, the plants are producing enough for a minimum of 480 and a maximum of better than 20,000 nuclear weapons each year.

* * *

Using the same figures as a yardstick, AEC figures indicated that at peak production in 1956-57, the plants were producing 82,000 kilograms of the high-quality uranium-235.

The AEC announcement said the information was made public to allow "the nuclear power industry in the United States and other countries to make judgments concerning the adequacy of the commission's three gaseous diffusion plants to meet worldwide nuclear fuel requirements for power reactors."

* * *

The agency said the information was declassified from secret after a determination it would not hurt national security. But the AEC said it will keep secret the details about the gaseous diffusion process itself.

New Home for 2 City Sisters

Two elderly sisters found living in a substandard, bathroomless house in Pontiac's south end last month have settled in a three-room unit in the city's Lakeside Housing project.

* * *

James L. Jackson, relocation officer for Pontiac's department of planning and urban renewal said the sisters are "quite happy" with their new home.

Mrs. Frank Gordon, 82, and Miss Blanche Armstrong, 65, had been living at 418 Howland in a house built in 1928 by Mrs. Gordon's late husband.

The women were somewhat reluctant to leave their old house, R. Clayton Jones, assistant housing director, said, but since moving into their new home seem "well satisfied."

* * *

Their former house had a single cold-water tap on a rear porch and an outside privy. It is believed to be the only house in the city without bathroom plumbing indoors.

TO CONDEMN HOUSE

City Sanitarian Charles A. Cohen said the city will take steps to condemn the house and have it razed. Certain legal steps will have to be taken before condemnation notice can be posted, he said.

The Lakeside unit has a bedroom, living room, bathroom, kitchen with a modern range and refrigerator, a storage space — all on one level — and a fenced-in back yard, Jones said.

It was necessary to find accommodations on the ground level because the elderly sisters are unable to climb stairs.

Rent on the unit is $47 per month.

Divers Find Body

BAY CITY (AP)—The body of August Turschak, 80, of Quanicassee in neighboring Tuscola County, was found Wednesday by State Police skin divers in the Quanicassee River. Turschak had been sought since his disappearance Tuesday from the home of a son on M 25. The body was found about a quarter-mile away.

City Housing Unit Elects Ex-Leader

Karl A. Walter of 990 Argyle, president of the Pontiac Housing Commission from 1954 to 1961, has been again elected to that post by fellow commissioners.

* * *

He succeeds Vernon M. Page of 199 Rockwell who served as president for the past two years.

* * *

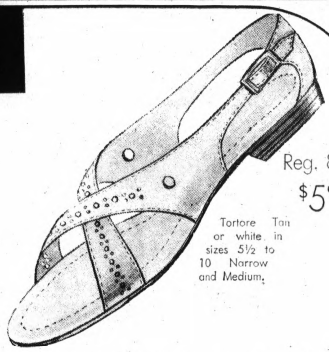

Elected vice president was Mrs. Harry F. Killian of 119 Lincoln. She was commission vice president from 1961 to 1963, president from 1963 to 1965.

* * *

Other commission members are Theodore E. Wiersema of 316 West Iroquois and Mrs. Joseph Howard of 18 Gillespie.

Railroad Asks to Quit Ferry

Frankfort-Manistique Service 'Not Paying'

LANSING (AP) — The State Public Service Commission reports it has received notice of a request to abandon car-ferry service between Frankfort, in Michigan's Lower Peninsula, across Lake Michigan to Manistique, in the Upper Peninsula.

The Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad, operators of the ferry, contends there is not enough demand for the service or sufficient revenue to make it profitable. The railroad is a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

★ ★ ★

Peter Spivak, commission chairman, said the same railroad earlier had talked of seeking abandonment of car-ferry service between Frankfort across Lake Michigan to Menominee, in the southern tip of the Lower Peninsula bordering on Wisconsin.

Spivak said the operators reported traffic on this ferry has since picked up and abandonment is not being asked at this time.

In the same application, the railroad asked permission to abandon dock facilities at Manistique and to shut down service on some 41 miles of track of the Manistique and Lake Superior Railroad. The railroad extends from Manistique to Shingleton and Doty, in Alger County, and carries freight only, mostly to the ferry.

Spivak said the abandonment application was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A date or location for a hearing has not yet been set, he said. Spivak expressed hope, however, that the hearing would be held in the Upper Peninsula.

The Seafarers Union and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen have expressed opposition to dropping the service, Spivak said. The railroad union, however, reported only two men would be affected.

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce also has expressed an interest in the matter, Spivak reported.

Spivak indicated the State Public Service Commission probably would intervene in opposition to the proposal if there is enough local sentiment against cancelling the service.

Damage Light as Quake Felt in LA Area

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The sprawling Los Angeles area was shaken by an earthquake late Wednesday night. No serious damage was reported.

Police said plaster fell from the ceiling of a house in north Los Angeles.

In Long Beach, south of the metropolitan center, and west of Los Angeles, residents said windows shook. The tremor was felt on the beaches.

Dr. Charles Richter, seismologist at the California Institute of Technology's seismological laboratory, said the shock was small and probably did no damage.

Richter said he would not attempt to measure the intensity of the shock for several hours.

A second tremor was reported by many Californians, just after the first.

"It had a strong, east-west roll," said a resident of Temple City, 15 miles east of Los Angeles. "Then, a second and similar shock hit and woke up the children."

Mom Flies Off; Chevy Gets Truck Back

DETROIT (AP) — A flighty mother in Texas no longer has the country's largest auto maker up in the air.

The mother, a wren, built her nest and laid her eggs on the back of a pickup truck owned by the Crawshaw family of West, Texas.

Fifteen-year-old Susan Crawshaw asked Chevrolet if the family could borrow a truck so the mother would not be disturbed until after her young had grown.

★ ★ ★

Chevrolet sent a truck. Shortly after the truck arrived, the mother wren left her nest and hasn't been seen since.

★ ★ ★

"Wrens are shy and there must have been too much commotion," said an official of the Detroit Audubon Society, "she is probably building a new nest somewhere else.

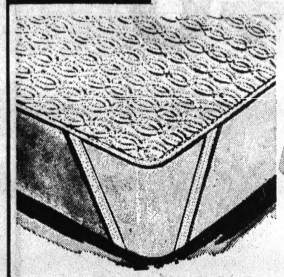

Susan told Chevrolet to stop worrying about the wren and moved the eggs into a farm incubator, where they will stay until they hatch.

★ ★ ★

The Crawshaws are returning the truck with thanks.

Lifesaving Role of Collapsible Steering Column Cited

SAGINAW (AP)—Field studies show that the collapsible steering column is performing its task of saving lives far beyond the expectations of its designers, a General Motors Corp. official said Wednesday.

"The collapsible steering column and shaft may have changed the steering column from a killer into a lifesaver," said Joseph E. Godfrey, general manager of GM's Saginaw Steering Gear Division.

★ ★ ★

"In conjunction with the safety seat belt, the energy-absorbing steering column is one of the best safety devices on modern cars," he stated.

"The belt holds the driver in his seat and the wheel absorbs the forward impact," Godfrey explained.

WILL BE MANDATORY

General Motors introduced the safety feature on its 1967 models. Godfrey said there are about four million of them on the road.

The collapsible column will be mandatory on all 1968 cars under the federal safety law.

The GM column has been under development for six years, Godfrey said.

★ ★ ★

He said studies had been made of 200 accidents across the country, including head on collisions, cars hitting trees and light poles and broadside collisions.

NO FIGURES

"The results show that the collapsible column saved many lives," Godfrey said. He gave no figures, however.

Some of the columns only collapsed one-eighth of an inch, while in other accidents they gave the full designed limit of eight and one-quarter inches, he said.

The federal traffic safety director, Dr. William Hadden, described the column as "a major breakthrough of importance to both the industry and the public," in a letter to Godfrey.

Four and seven tenths million color television sets were sold in the U. S. in 1966.

Immolate Selves

EAST LONDON, South Africa (UPI) — Two teen-age African girls died from burns they suffered by setting fire to themselves because their fathers refused to let them marry, police said today.

★ ★ ★

The girls were identified as Elsie Yawa, 19, and Miriam Skade, 13.

Firemen Fight Bingo Ban

WEST MIDDLESEX, Pa. (AP) — Tempers are growing hotter after police shut down a bingo game at a firemen's carnival and now it looks as if there may be no one around to put out fires.

The firemen are so incensed they are threatening to resign on July 14 unless the borough council gets rid of the mayor, who backed the police action.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Arthur Pantall says bingo is illegal and the firemen will have to raise money for a new firehouse in some other way.

Israel Economy Picture 'Bright'

War Cost Estimated at $13 Million a Day

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Unofficial figures estimated Israel spent $13 million a day waging war against its Arab neighbors. Financial experts assessing the war's effect on Israel's emonomy have concluded it could have a positive effect.

French financier Baron Edmond de. Rothschild of the famous banking family said last night that there are good prospects for a period of new prosperity in Israel.

The estimates on the war's cost said the five days of fighting may reach a total of $65 million. The figure took into account mobilization and the cost and maintenance of weapons and vehicles and physical damage Israel incurred.

It has been estimated the United States spends $34 million per day fighting the Vietnam war.

★ ★ ★

De Rothschild said the critical days of the war and the tense two weeks before it brought no disorganization to the Israeli economy. Although the Israeli pound climbed to a rate of 4.05 to the dollar during the war, it is now back to under 3.45 to the dollar.

INCREASED BUYING

The Israeli stock market has climbed 20 per cent in the past few weeks, and investors are buying at an increasing rate. Foreign investment has also given a quick shot in the arm to the Israeli construction industry which has dropped to a low point in months before the war.

Another major Israeli industry that promises to soar as a result of the war is tourism.

The war also brought hopes of expanded commerce with the reopening and securing of the port of Elath, briefly blockaded by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, and the possibility that the Suez Canal might be eventually opened to Israeli shipping.

★ ★ ★

New markets are now opened to Israel with the capture of the West bank of the Jordan river. The nation of Jordan always has needed manufactured goods and has always sought markets for its agricultural products.

At one fell swoop, all the barriers restricting trade between Jordan and Israeli were torn down. Israeli officials now believe Israel can trade with the whole west bank region of Jordan to the mutual benefit of both nations.

Hormones Can Cure Sterilizing Disease

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A painful female disease that often prevents conception can be successfully treated with two female hormones and a third substance that is a male hormone.

The disease is endometriosis, in which the lining of the uterus, or endometrium, grows abnormally, not only within the walls of the womb, but outside it.

The lymph system can carry wildly growing (though not cancerous) cells throughout the body, producing growths in the abdomen, the fallopian tubes, the bowel, the lung, even on the outside of the scalp, a University of Chicago professor of gynecology declared here today.

Dr. Albert B. Lorincz addressed the Clinical Congress of Abdominal Surgeons. "The longer a woman puts off pregnancy," he said in an interview, "the more likely she is to get endometriosis."

After six months treatment with one of the three hormones, he said, the condition is likely to disappear, and in many cases a woman of child-bearing age can become pregnant.

Stilbestrol, an estrogen, is the substance Dr. Lorincz uses, building up to daily doses of up to 300 milligrams for six months or more, after which the disease symptoms melt away. As with all hormones there can be side effects such as nausea and breast tenderness.

'Inactivity Cuts Longevity'

By Science Service

CHICAGO — Americans spend four times as much money for health now as they did in 1949, but in almost 20 years, their life expectancy has not gone up at all.

These are startling statistics, but no one pays enough attention to them, Harvard nutritionist Jean Mayer said recently.

"We're living a life for which our bodies were never intended," he told the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology meeting here. "Desk sitting has not been bred into the human species."

According to Dr. Mayer, Americans lost about five years of life expectancy because of their great inactivity. In 1949, this country ranked 11th in the world for life expectancy. Now it ranks 27th.

Lack of exercise is responsible for high cholesterol content in the blood, weakened heart, stiff arteries and obesity — all of which can lead to heart attacks, he said.

BALANCING ACT — Carrying boxes of fish balanced on their specially reinforced caps, two Billingsgate porters stop to light their cigarettes. The London market area is famous for its fish and foul language.

DRYING-OUT PROCESS — A Billingsgate porter dries out his heavily made boots in front of a bonfire. Bonfires are lit to dispose of unwanted wooden cases and to ward off the early morning chill.

Raucous London Fish Market

Billingsgate: Not for the Prissy

LONDON (AP)— Fish and foul language dominate the scene at Billingsgate, the venerable fish market of London.

Between the Tower of London and the Monument, Billingsgate is a raucous testimonial to John Bull's enduring appetite for his fish and chips.

Four hundred tons of cockles and mussels, as well as eels, squids, lobsters, kippers, cods, mackerels and a whale steak or two, pass through Billingsgate each day.

Coming from all the British Isles, Scandinavia and the low countries, the fish are distributed throughout London from Billingsgate.

★ ★ ★

The market opens at 5 each morning and fish heads and insults are tossed about with equal abandon.

NOTORIOUS WORKERS

The fish porters, who move the fish from market to truck, have long been notorious for their slightly less than prissy attitude.

Balancing five boxes of fish on his head, the porter bears down on an obstructive visitor with all the delicacy of an irate whale.

"Aout of the wey, mate," he bellows and pity the man who doesn't move.

The Oxford dictionary defines "billingsgate" as rough, abusive language.

NOT IN DICTIONARY

A good part of the market's language wouldn't even be found in a dictionary.

"Billingsgate is no Sunday school," sniffed a former superintendent of the market, "but the lad's language is no worse and may be better than in other places where a lot of tough men work together under exacting conditions.

"And," he added, "it was probably the fishwives fighting over the pickerings left by traders who gave rise to the market's reputation of abusive language.

As the language catches the ear, the porters' unique hats attract the eye.

MADE TO LAST

Resembling flat-topped bowlers with the brim turned up all the way round, they are made to last 50 years.

Each hat is constructed from 30 yards of waxed thread, five pounds of leather and 400 brass cobbler's rivets.

New, they weigh seven pounds. After years of fishy water seeping into them, they weigh about 15 pounds.

★ ★ ★

The porters can balance up to 200 pounds of fish on their hats and though trolleys are available, most porters still prefer to use their heads, if only as a point of pride.

In a year the porters cart and carry 120,000 tons of fish.

Before the war, 1,000 men worked at the job, but fewer men today are attracted to what is necessarily a dirty, unappetizing job.

In all, 4,000 men work in the market and, in the early morning hours, its medieval aura is disturbed only by the careening trucks that dash in and out of the twisting lanes that lead into the market.

The market itself is dotted with pubs, cafes, and barber shops that cater to the men who work while the rest of London sleeps.

Even the post office at Billingsgate opens at an early hour.

By 8 most business is finished and by noon only the smell of fish marks the morning's activities.

Most of the 170 retail and wholesale firms are "and sons" concerns and, like the hats, the traditions of the market are handed down from father to son.

The market itself goes back to pre-Christian times andwhen a new pier was built, excavators discovered hundreds of tons of oyster shells that had been tossed away by the Romans.

PORT OF LONDON

By the 13th century Billingsgate had become the port of London.

Dues of a half-penny were levied on small vessels, four pennies on larger hulks.

In 1850 the motley collection of sheds that comprised the market were torn down and the vast hall that stands today was erected at a cost of 270,000 pounds ($756,000).

Even at the height of the German blitz, the men at Billingsgate managed to keep the fish moving and nary a box of kippers was delayed.

Today the market is a masculine stronghold of roaring commerce. It will broabably continue as long as there are fish in the sea.

Fish Sticks Put in Sandwiches

Is it your turn to chef for your husband' poker crowd this week? If so you're probably thinking BIG — all about those big, big appetites and how to fill them while the winner's raking in the chips.

★ ★ ★

One answer, of course, is to take a tip from Dagwood and really stack up some he-man sandwiches for the fellows. That's always a good idea, and if you can introduce a brand new man-appealing twist to the sandwich tower — so much the better.

★ ★ ★

One suggestion that you serve hearty Baked Fish Stickwiches for the occasion.

These can be easily made with thick slices of buttered French bread spread with tartar sauce, then layered with American cheese, crisp, filling fish sticks, and fresh tomato slices. You can use cooked bacon slices to crown the stack-ups, too, if you like.

Then, after they've been heated through in the oven, add a final dollop of tartar sauce.

What makes the sandwiches different and GREAT is the fish sticks — so easy to use because breaded, and ready to heat and serve.

They're chock-full of protein and make for the kind of eating that pleases the men every time.

Baked Fish Stickwiches

1 package frozen fish sticks
French bread slices or hamburger buns
Tartar sauce
Sliced American cheese
Sliced tomatoes
Bacon slices, cooked (optional)

Allow 3 fish sticks and 1 slice of French bread or ½ bun per sandwich.

Spread bread with butter and arrange at one end of baking sheet. Place fish sticks in a single layer at opposite end and broil for about 10 to 15 minutes until bread is browned and fish heated through.

Spread bread with tartar sauce. Top each with slice of cheese, 3 fish sticks, tomatoes and, if desired, bacon. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes or until cheese melts slightly. Garnish with additional tartar sauce and serve.

Gingerbread Is a Treat

Early American cooks used molasses by necessity. Today's cooks use is because they like the flavor.

Oldtime Gingerbread

1 cup sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon each salt and cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon each nutmeg and cloves
½ teaspoon ginger
1 large egg
Dairy sour cream
½ cup dark molasses

★ ★ ★

Butter bottom and sides of a square 8-inch cake pan; line bottom with buttered wax paper. On wax paper, sift together the flour, baking soda, salt and spices.

Break the egg into a 1-cup glass measure; add enough sour cream to make ½ cup; turn into a mixing bowl; beat to combine; add molasses and beat to combine. Add sifted dry ingredients; beat gently just until smooth — about 1 minute; batter will be thin.

Turn into prepared pan. Bake in a 350-degree oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 25 minutes. Turn out on wire rack; remove paper; turn rightside up.

Entire Breakfast Is Baked into Yummy Cookies

If your youngsters feel less than enthusiastic about breakfast, fresh cookies add a treat feeling to the first meal of the day. Whether the children eat a hearty breakfast or have a "make-do" meal on a busy morning, cookies and milk will be most welcome on the table.

Best of all, these Breakfast Cookies contain nutritious breakfast foods. Into the batter go bits of crisp bacon, cold cereal, and an egg.

The chunky cookies taste great and getting the children to eat them is absolutely no problem — for when do children need urging to eat cookies?

You can make a fresh batch in the morning, or prepare the dough a day ahead and keep it in the freezer. In the latter case, eight or 10 minutes in the oven is all the cookies require.

Breakfast cookies are great for breakfast, but don't stop there. Because they are so delicious, they vanish from the cookie jar at all hours — for the after-school milk break, mealtime desserts, evening snacks.

Breakfast Cookies

1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon soda
½ cup crisp well-drained bacon bits*
(½ pound before cooked)
½ cup soft-type margarine containing liquid safflower oil
1 egg
2 cups corn flakes, grape-nuts flakes, 40% bran flakes or raisin bran

Measure flour, sugar and soda into bowl; mix. Add bacon, soft-type margarine and egg. Mix until well blended. Stir in cereal.

Drop by tablespoons 2 inches apart on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in 350-degree F. oven 13 to 15 minutes, or until cookies are lightly browned but still soft.

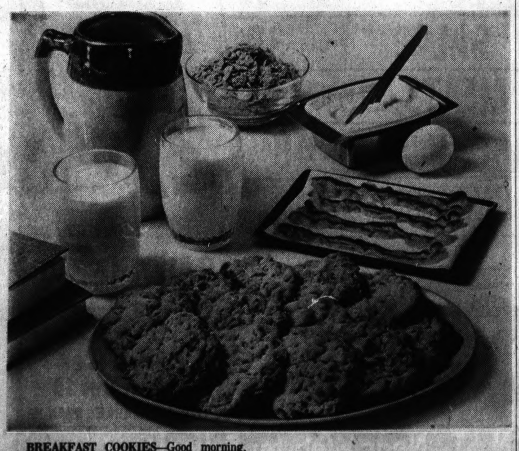

Cool slightly before removing from baking sheet. Yield: 2 dozen.

Freezer Cookies: Divide dough into 2 parts. Placed on waxed paper and press firmly into rolls 2 inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper, twisting ends to hold roll in shape.

Place in freezer for several hours or overnight. Cut into ¼-inch slices. Place on ungreased baking sheet.

Bake in 400-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes, until lightly browned.

*½ cup finely chopped Canadian bacon or fully cooked ham may be substituted for bacon.

BREAKFAST COOKIES—Good morning, have a cookie . . . When there's a morning rush, Breakfast Cookies and milk are most welcome. Cookies are made with cereal, egg, bacon bits.

New Sauce Mixes Elegant on Desserts

What turns ice cream into sundaes or parfaits, and makes a slice of cake or a mixture of fresh, unsweetened fruits into a dessert of distinction?

A sauce, of course — the lush kind that used to have to be homemade. Now introduced is a pair of dessert sauce mixes which can be stirred up in minutes any time to glamorize a company dessert or add a touch of luxury when it's "just the family."

Lemon Sauce Mix has the natural, tangy flavor you'd expect if you squeezed the lemons yourself — it's especially good with fruits. And Chocolate Fudge Sauce Mix, with real chocolate, can't help but please fans of that favorite flavor.

In either case, additions and preparation couldn't be simpler. Water and butter are combined with Lemon Sauce Mix, milk and butter with Chocolate Fudge Sauce Mix.

Each is stirred while being brought to a boil, then simmered for a minute or two, and served.

To store, cover and refrigerate. Reheat Chocolate Fudge Sauce before serving again. Lemon Sauce may be stirred and served cold or heated again.

Just two of the wonderful way to serve the sauces are these dessert waffles:

Lemon-Blueberry Waffles

12-ounce package frozen blueberries, thawed
1 package Lemon Sauce Mix
12 to 16 waffle sections, baked

Drain blueberries, reserving syrup. Add enough water to syrup to make 1 cup liquid. Prepare sauce mix as directed on package substituting the 1 cup blueberry liquid for water. Stir blueberries into prepared sauce.

Serve warm over waffles, stacking sections in pairs with sauce between and on top. Makes 6-8 servings.

Mexican Waffles

8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 teaspoon dry instant coffee
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
12 waffle sections, baked
Chocolate Fudge Sauce Mix

Blend cream cheese, instant coffee, cinnamon and confectioners' sugar until smooth and creamy. Spread small amount of cream cheese mixture between two waffle sections. Put cheese mixture on top, using a pastry bag if desired.

Repeat with remaining waffle sections.

Prepare Chocolate Fudge Sauce as directed on package. Pour warm sauce over each serving. Makes 6 servings.

SAUCY WAFFLES—Waffles become dessert fare when they're treated to fillings and topped with luscious sauces, homemade from a pair of new mixes for Chocolate Fudge Sauce and tart, fresh-tasting Lemon Sauce.

Restores Coconut

If you live in a dry climate, you may find that shredded coconut hardens after it has once been opened, before you have a chance to use it all. You can restore it to its original freshness by heating it in the top of a double broiler over boiling water.

British Wine Made of Grapes Grown at Old Monastery

BEAULIEU, England (AP)—The British have failed to put a man in space, but they have finally succeeded in producing a fine wine.

At a recent London dinner of wine connoisseurs, which included a French grower famous for his Bordeaux wine, the English wine was served blind.

Asked to identify it by taste alone, the unanimous verdict of the tasters was:

"A classic French rose, probably from the Loire."

Loire your French foot. It came from County Hampshire.

In the spring of 1957 the distinguished playwright, lawyer, author and soldier, Lieut. Col. Robert Gore-Browne and his wife Margaret planted their first vines outside their lovely home.

They were undaunted by the fact that their vines were sunk in ground that is parallel with Labrador, north of Lake Baikal in Siberia and just to the south of Omsk.

The king took one taste, screwed up his face, and shouted to his steward:

"Send ships forthwith to France to fetch some good wine for the Abbot."

Laughing about the incident, Mrs. Gore-Browne said:

"But that didn't discourage us. Mind you, we approached this thing professionally. We got some of the best advice available. We also had the soil tested and we did other things.

"After our first year we decided to go the whole way, to produce wine commercially and we're now doing it."

How much are they producing?

"We're doing about 5,000 bottles a year," said Lieut. Col. Gore-Browne. "When we're in full swing we hope to produce 20,000 to 25,000 bottles a year."

The wine is called Beaulieu Abbey Rose.

Mrs. Gore-Browne has become so absorbed in wine making that she is just completing a book called: "Let's Plant a Vineyard."

★ ★ ★

To be published here this summer, it encourages her fellow Britons to start growing wine.

The Gore-Brownes have gone a long way in 10 years.

Today their winery contains the most modern wine-making equipment on the market. Again, they sought professional advice and bought the best.

But what about that very first crop of wine grapes?

★ ★ ★

"Do you know what I did," said Lieut. Col. Gore-Browne. "I was then but 64 and I hopped in the big open cask where the grapes were laid out, and I pressed them with my bare feet."

★ ★ ★

And what did his wine master say?

"He asked me if I had washed my feet," replied the owner of England's largest vineyard, "and I told him that I had."

Spicy Slices of Apple Top Pork-Rice Casserole

Almost main course and dessert in one dish is the way some folks would interpret Rosy Pork and Rice Squares, a new and delicious family-style main dish.

But don't raise your eyebrows — if you like a brown sugar glazed ham or pork chops with applesauce, you'll like—practically dote on—Rosy Pork and Rice Squares.

An ideal family dish, this combination is bound to please every hungry sweet tooth in the family, from Grandma and Dad through the preschool meat eaters.

Rice adds a lot to this savory meat dish, whether brown, regular milled white or parboiled is used.

Rosy Pork and Rice Squares

- 4 large cooking apples, peeled, cored and sliced
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon candies (red hots)
- ¾ cup water
- 4 or 5 drops red food coloring, optional
- 2 pounds diced lean pork
- 2 cups cooked rice
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- Dash of cayenne pepper
- ½ teaspoon garlic powder

Cook apples in ½ cup water 7 or 8 minutes. Heat brown sugar, red hots, ¼ cup water and food coloring until red hots are melted. Pour onto apples and cook 2 minutes longer. Brown pork, drain excess fat, and mix meat with remaining ingredients.

Turn into an 8"x8"x2" baking dish. Arrange apples on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Golf's Quiet Man Defending

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (AP) — Billy Casper, golf's quiet man, set out in defense of his United States Open Golf Championship today, a sedate, almost obscure figure in the glamor field of the world's best shot-makers.

He's a two-time Open champion, the 1966 PGA Player of The Year, No. 2 on the all-time money-winning list and —if not unknown—probably the most under-rated golfer in the world.

"It doesn't bother me in particular," Casper said. "Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus get the publicity — I still get my share of the checks."

The figures back him up. The one-time fat man has career earnings of $621,152.09—second only to Palmer — and almost total anonymity.

So complete is his obscurity that one writer once reported that "an empty car drew up beside the club house and Billy Casper stepped out."

While huge crowds, Arnie's Army and Jack's Pack, surround Palmer and Nicklaus at their every appearance on the course, Casper enjoys the solitude of a used-car salesman from Topeka.

"People simply don't recognize me," Billy said.

It's true. At least part of it, however, is due to an exotic diet that enabled him to go from a blubbery 230 pounds to his present 175. It created a marked change in his appearance and gave him his only bit of color.

BUFFALO MEAT

"I had won a U.S. Open," Billy quipped, "But I had to eat buffalo steaks to get my name in the papers."

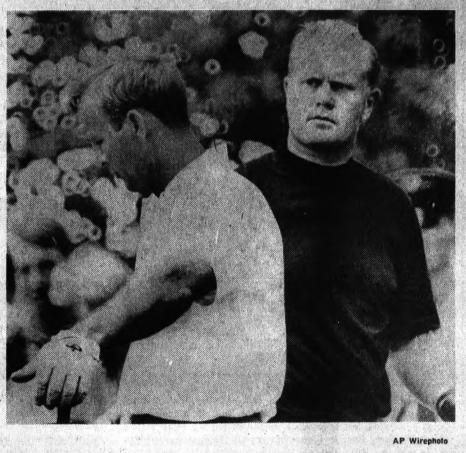

That was three years ago, when Casper discovered he had a series of allergies and was forced to go on a diet that included such items as buffalo, blueberries and bear meat.

"I got more publicity out of that than anything else, unless it's my putting," Casper said, "And that's in error, too."

Casper, 35 and a pro for 14 years, has had a minor reputation as the best putter in the game since he won his first Open championship in 1959. He used only 114 putts over 72 holes at Winged Foot Country Club.

Casper was one of the late starters as the field of 150 began the first round over the 7,022 yard, par 70 Baltusrol Golf Club Course. He was paired with Bobby Nichols and Tom Jacobs at 1:18 p.m. EDT.

The field will be cut to the low 60 and ties after Friday's second round. The final two rounds are scheduled for national television coverage. ABC-TV will televise 5-6:30 p.m., EDT Saturday and from 5-7 p.m. Sunday.

PALMER WON'T LOOK — Jack Nicklaus, in dark shirt, carefully follows the flight of a ball hit by Arnold Palmer, but Arnie looks away during practice round at Baltusrol Golf Club yesterday. They're prepping for the 67th U. S. Open Golf Championship which gets under way here today. Nicklaus shot an 8-under-par 62. Palmer didn't keep score but said, it was an absurd practice round, I didn't do a thing."

Catcher Sparks Attack as Twins Whip Tigers, 7-0

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —Jerry Zimmerman may not strike fear in the hearts of American League pitchers, but don't low-rate the veteran reserve catcher around the Minnesota Twins, clubhouse.

The reason is obvious: The Twins win when Zimmerman catches. As a matter of fact, they have won eight of 10 games with Zimmerman behind the plate since deposed Manager Sam Mele started catching him semi-regularly May 28.

★ ★

Zimmerman clubbed a two-run homer and added two singles to drive in another run in the Twins, 7-0 victory over Detroit Wednesday night.

It was only Zimmerman's third major league home run and his first this season. Until Wednesday night, he had gone hitless in 28 times at bat.

Zimmerman stroked his homer off Earl Wilson, the Tiger starter who also gave up two-run blasts to Harmon Killebrew and Rod Carew in the first two innings.

The homer barrage staked Jim Kaat to a 6-0 lead after two innings, then Zimmerman made it 7-0 by singling home a run in the fourth.

That was much more than Kaat needed to breeze to his third victory in 10 decisions.

★ ★ ★

Wilson, who took the loss to make his record 8-8, was replaced by Pat Dobson in the second.

He was followed by Larry Sherry and Mike Marshall, who gave up three hits.

Joe Sparma 6-0 will be on the mound for Detroit today facing Dave Boswell (3-4) of the Twins.

Aussie Ace Fails in Record Attempt

TORONTO (AP) — Ron Clarke of Australia said yesterday that teammate Kerry Pearce hurt his chances for a record-breaking three-mile run in the Ontario Centennial international track meet, but added he could blame no one but himself for his "poor performance."

Clarke easily won the three-mile event in 13 minutes, 4.6 seconds, more than a second off his Canadian mark and 14 seconds off his world mark.

★ ★ ★

After the race, he apologized to the crowd of 2,500 for his performance and said he would like to come back some day and establish a world mark.

"He (Pearce) promised me he was going to run and make the pace in the early going, however he lagged badly," Clarke said. "Nevertheless, I must admit I didn't run well tonight and wouldn't want to blame anything for not doing better."

Cougars Lose Soccer Tilt as Brawl Terminates Play

DETROIT (AP) — The Commissioner of the United Soccer League declared Houston the winner of last night's game with the Detroit Cougars after the two teams and a handful of fans engaged in a brawl on the field.

Hostilities broke out with 17 minutes remaining in the game with Houston, actually Banki of Brazil, holding a 2-0 lead.

★ ★ ★

A 2½-hour meeting was held after the game with Commissioner Dick Walsh, game officials and representatives from both clubs attending.

Walsh declared Houston the winner after the meeting and said the result will count in the standings "pending receipt of written reports from the referee."

The fight began with Detroit, represented by Glentorans of Belfast, Ireland, was awarded a free kick 10 yards outside the Houston penalty area.

"Houston's fullback Luiz Alberto laid out Detroit's Tommy Jackson cold with a kick to the kidney," said Cougar's publicity director Gordon Preston.

"Then players from both teams swung into the melee," said Preston. "The benches emptied and several men were injured in the all-out kicking and fighting."

★ ★ ★

Nobody was hospitalized, he added.

Officers from both teams rushed into the fighting and about 20 of the 7,196 fans rushed onto the field and joined in the ruckus.

Referee Eddie Clemens finally blew the whistle to end the game.

Shoulder Surgery Set for Red Wing Ullman

DETROIT (UPI) — Red Wings Center Norm Ullman entered University Hospital at Ann Arbor Wednesday for a shoulder operation.

Doctor planned to remove the end of his collar bone to correct an injury suffered during the last hockey season.

Ullman, 31, has been with Detroit 12 years. He scored 26 goals and was credited with 44 assists last season.

Detroit Horse Show Set for Sunday Start

By JERE CRAIG

Some of the best horses ever to perform in Oakland County will return this weekend to the Bloomfield Open Hunt on East Long Lake Road.

They're entered in the 37th annual Detroit Horse Show, slated for its 31st visit to the BOH, that will begin 9 a.m. Sunday — a day earlier than in the past.

The prestigious show will run eight days this year. Thus it will overlap the Grosse Pointe Hunt Horse Show that begins this morning and will run though Sunday.

Many of the impressive thoroughbred show horses will compete at both sites, but this isn't expected to cause many problems.

Sunday's Detroit Horse Show classes will be dressage events in which the rider and horse work together using unseen commands.

There are no dressage events at the Grosse Pointe show, whose Sunday events will be concentrated on hunter and jumper stakes, plus the awarding championships in those divisions.

The hunters and jumpers will not begin competing on the BOH grounds until Tuesday. In hunter classes, it is the horse that draws the judge's primary attention.

PREMIER EVENT

Jumper events pair horse and rider against obstacles and are the most crowd pleasing. The Detroit Horse Show's premier event is the June 24 (Saturday night) North American Jumper Classic.

This event involves $2,000 of the show's $27,000 in prize money, ribbons and trophies. It annually lures the best jumpers in the Midwest and South.

The Detroit Horse Show is the largest outdoor show in the Western Hemisphere as well as one of the wealthiest in the United States.

It will include — in addition to the dressage, hunters and jumpers classes —equitation competition in which only the rider is judged, and junior jumping action.

Two Teams Move Into 1st Place in American Legion

Clarkston and Waterford came up with victories yesterday to move into a tie for first along with Troy in the American Legion District 18 baseball race.

Rick Johnson scattered seven hits and clouted a two-run triple as Clarkston (2-1) trimmed Southfield, 3-1. Teammate Dan Fife drove in the other run with a double. Southfield has a 1-1 mark.

A run-scoring triple by Steve Goit followed by a 360-foot homer by Dick Micell sparked Waterford (2-1) to a 5-1 nod over Berkley (1-2). Bruce Mihalek went the distance and struck out 10.

In other games, Walled Lake (1-1) downed defending champion Farmington, 11-8, and Troy (2-1) turned back Milford, 3-1. Milford and Farmington are 1-2.

★ ★ ★

Bill Welsh triggered a five-run second inning for Walled Lake with a bases-loaded triple and the squad maintained the lead to square its record at 1-1.

David Wakefield flipped a four-hitter and fanned nine in leading Troy to victory.

AL President Nixes Game Protest Filed by Windy City Nine

BOSTON (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox announced last night that the protest of a May 30 loss to the Detroit Tigers had been disallowed by American League President Joe Cronin.

The White Sox had protested when umpires permitted Tiger pitcher Joe Sparma to leave the game after Detroit manager Mayo Smith visited the mound twice while Pete Ward was at bat.

The umpires rectified the mistake by ordering Sparma out of the dressing room runway and back to the mound to complete pitching to Ward.

The White Sox had protested both Sparma's removal and the fact that he was given warmup pitches when he returned to the mound.

In disallowing the protest, Cronin cited the rule which said the umpire must direct the proper pitcher to return to to the mound if an improper substitution is made.

Petty Sets Speed Mark for One Mile Course

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP) — Richard Petty, Plymouth's ace driver, broke the one mile stock car speed record for a one mile closed course Wednesday, but turned in only the second fastest average time for the day.

Petty set a single lap record of 117.225 miles per hour in time trials for Sunday's $75,000 Carolina 500 stock car race at the North Carolina Motor Speedway at Rockingham, but his four-lap average was below that of Dick Hutcherson's four-lap qualifying average of 116.486 m.p.h. Petty averaged 116.401. Both drove light weight engines.

Poor Nations Suffer

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — Indications of a growing economic disparity between the rich nations and the poor nations — which is just the opposite of the world's goal — helps explain a lot of the troubles afflicting the world today.

Despite mammoth government aid programs and attempts by some of the private enterprise sectors to help in development, the situation is growing worse in what the United Nations refers to as the "Decade of Development."

CUNNIFF

A recent U.N. report gives a hint of the frustration of those institutions and nations involved with attempts to develop the poor nations, some of which still depend on one crop that nature rather than man provided.

This report showed that the flow of capital from the 20 rich nations to the 100 poor nations declined last year and is, at the latest reading, below the minimum goal set by the United Nations. That goal was 1 per cent of the total productivity of the developed countries.

FORMS OF AID

Such a flow of capital can result from investments in the poor nations, in the sale of the poor nation's goods to the rich nations, from economic assistance and from the poor nation's investments in the rich.

Instead, the report indicated, the industrialized nations were reinvesting in themselves and growing stronger. At the other extreme the poor nations had a trade deficit of $1.3 billion, the price of trying to buy rather than develop the better life.

* * *

This problem now engages more effort than any other broad economic problem. It was a theme in the recent papal encyclical. It has been the chief concern of foreign aid programs.

And now, on the 20th anniversary of the Marshall Plan, which lifted the flattened economies of Europe after World War II through grants and loans, the question arises: Why can't we have a similar crash program to build the underdeveloped economies?

Many students now feel it simply cannot be done, and the simplest explanation is to categorize the problems as more social than economic.

Europe had the institutions, the framework; it had the economic vehicle and merely needed the gasoline. To attempt to fuel the poor-nation economies with massive aid funds, many feel, would be to attempt pouring gasoline into an oxcart.

* * *

Theodore Geiger of the National Planning Association, a private group, says to hope for a Marshall Plan for underdeveloped nations could do more harm than good. The problems are not the same, he says.

Geiger feels the basic issues in Latin America include the distribution of economic wealth, political power and social prestige.

ASIA, AFRICA

And in Asia and Africa, he feels, the problems are even deeper and the capacity for cooperation, which is necessary, is even less than in Latin America.

Above all, he notes, few of the underdeveloped

'Ex-Principal Attempted to Incite Unrest'

The dismissed principal of Emmanuel Christian School, 825 Golf, allegedly returned to the building yesterday to incite unrest among teachers and students but was unsuccessful, according to a school spokesman.

Dismissed as principal June 7 was Roger Sykes of 2968 W. Huron, Waterford Township.

The dismissal, according to School Superintendent Dr. Tom Malone, was due to dereliction of duty, admitted disloyalty, violation of Sykes' personal word and failure to follow administrative orders.

Contacted today, Sykes said he had no comment on the matter.

The Emmanuel Baptist Church school facility is located in one building and provides classes for kindergarten through 12th grade youngsters.

Emery Rips Court in NY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harried New York City motorists found an unexpected ally yesterday in the person of a visiting Michigan judge.

Municipal Court Judge John C. Emery Jr. of 1025 E. Maple, Birmingham, said the impression he got after inspecting a New York traffic court was one of "a mumbling judge," a shouting clerk and a clanging cash register."

Emery, addressing the Atlantic regional traffic court conference at Fordham University, declined to identify the traffic court he inspected, but described it as "disgraceful." He tempered his criticism somewhat, however, by adding that it was typical of equally disgraceful traffic courts in many parts of the United States.
