Want a New Swim Suit? Try One of These

HOW THEY HAVE CHANGED — This comedy skit in last night's performance of the Water Follies at Wigner Stadium shows evolution of bathing suits over the years . . . and stresses that a

The Rains Came, but the Audience Stayed

Water Follies Wins Praise in First of Five Shows Here

By FETE LOCHBILER

For almost two hours last night a Pontiac group of first-nighters sat through the rain-soaked premiere performance here of the Water Follies of 1958. When all was over, the gathering was unanimously acclaimed by the troupe as the "greatest audience" it ever has performed to.

The praise was more than merited because more than three-quarters of the initial crowd of 4,000 stuck it out to the end, filling open Wigner Stadium with their laughs, applause and appreciation despite the downpour that began almost as soon as they took their seats.

Backstage, performers were openly amazed. With their tradition of "the show must go on," they could brave the storm, but frankly, no other audience had ever been so delighted with their performance as to have so much rain with them, they said.

Sam Snyder, the veteran producer of the internationally-famous aquacade was admittedly open-mouthed in appreciation.

"I have never seen any audience in the past 20 years, in our show or anyone else's, which would stay out in a rain like that," Snyder commented.

"And yet as far as audience reaction goes, this is one of our best stands on the current tour," he added.

There will be four more performances here. Tonight's begins at 8:30 p.m. There is a special children's matinee today at 2:30 p.m., while Sunday will see a 2:30 p.m. matinee and another evening performance at 8:30 p.m.

Last night some of the acts had to be dropped because the wet stage endangered performers.

The aqua-belles (13 lovely young ladies) captured the imagination during the first hula-hula dance scene and from then on the performance was "living."

There was something for everyone. Do you like costumed dances? In the water or out, the comely aquamaids won everyone's approval.

Are you a swimming fan? Then it was a pleasure to cast your eyes on the water-ballet, featuring the world's champion synchronized swimmer, Mary Dwight.

Do you appreciate fine singing? Glamorous Parisian, Suzanne Dior captivated young couples with her love songs and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

County Favors Voting Machines

Only Five of 295 Precincts Still Using Paper Ballots

When voters in Oakland County go to the polls in the Aug. 5 primary, a comparative few will still be marking paper ballots.

Of the county's 295 voting precincts, only five are without voting machines, according to Mrs. Mabel Child, county election clerk.

These machineless precincts are located in Brandon and Groveland Townships, and South Lyon and Northville cities.

"We look at the predominance of machines as a fine record in such a large county as Oakland," said Mrs. Child, as she and Mrs. Florence J. Allen, county clerk, prepared election material to be sent to the many precincts.

In these precincts there are presently 626 machines to serve voters.

Mrs. Allen, in charge of her first major election since she took over the clerk's job upon the death of her husband, forecast that approximately 90,000 would visit the polls Aug. 5. Some 70,000 voted in the 1956 primary.

Voters will elect nominees from both parties to fill Congressional, State Senate, State Representative, and county offices. County convention delegates will also be chosen then.

There are also special issues for some areas on the ballot, such as the incorporation of Rochester, and incorporation and annexation proposals in Farmington Township.

Public Officials Under Fire for Holding 2 Jobs

Michigan Ruling Halts Pay of Two for Sitting on School Boards

LANSING (UPI) — Two lawmakers have had their pay stopped, two others face the same threat and the State Treasurer is under fire—all because they are public officials with "conflicting jobs."

This latest in a series of legal squabbles developed today as a result of an attorney general's ruling that legislators cannot be members of a school board.

"It's not cricket," said Rep. Raymond C. Wurzel (R-Port Huron), whose pay was stopped. "There are many more ramifications to having the State Treasurer (Stanford A. Brown) on a school board."

Brown, who controls the state aid payments to schools, is president of the Bay Port School Board, Huron County. He also is a member of the Municipal Finance Commission, which sets borrowing restrictions for schools.

Wurzel's counter-charge was prompted by action yesterday by Deputy Auditor General William R. Hart. Hart said he will withhold the pay of Wurzel and House Majority Leader Allison Green (R-Kalamazoo) because they were elected to board posts after their current House terms started.

The pay snag developed as the result of a ruling by Attorney Gen. Paul L. Adams Thursday that Wurzel's school board job and legislative post were incompatible.

The immediate effect of the ruling was to prevent Wurzel's use of a "state representative" designation under his name on the Aug. 5 primary ballot.

Green, who does not have primary opposition, did not request the special designation. Engstrom, also without primary opposition, (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

No Raincoat Needed Until Tomorrow

Pontiac area residents won't need raincoats until tomorrow night, the U.S. Weather Bureau promises.

Tonight will be partly cloudy with a low near 60 degrees.

The outlook for tomorrow is partly cloudy and a little warmer with a high of 78-82. Showers are predicted for tomorrow night.

Monday's forecast is scattered showers or thundershowers. The lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 61. At 1 p.m. the reading was 73.

OK Pact to Curb Loss at Hospital

The city and Pontiac General Hospital have tentatively arrived at a new financial agreement aimed, in part, at cutting the hospital's annual $100,000 loss in unpaid emergency service bills.

Under the new plan, the city agrees to reimburse the hospital for uncollectable emergency bills run up by city residents and, at the same time, undertakes the job of getting surrounding communities to do the same for their citizens.

Other features of the agreement: (1) The city picks up the annual interest rate on 1952 hospital bonds, estimated to run between $77,000 and $78,000 next year. The hospital has paid this in the past out of its profits.

(2) The city drops the $75,000 it has been budgeting annually to the hospital to help defray pension and emergency room costs. The hospital believes it will be in a better bargaining position on wages without this money, since it is often interpreted as a "subsidy."

(3) At a rate of $12,600 a year, the city amortizes the existing debt of $100,000 which the hospital owes the city's general fund.

The agreement, which would go into effect next year, has been approved by special committees representing the City Commission and the hospital Board of Trustees.

City Manager Walter K. Williams said that official approval should come at the time the city approves the hospital's 1959 budget.

The hospital records show that during the last six months of 1957, city residents ran up $25,664 in unpaid bills for emergency treatment they received at the hospital.

It is difficult to force payment of these debts, the hospital says, since most of them are too small to make the trouble financially rewarding.

It is stipulated that the city will get a 20 per cent discount when paying the bills. The hospital agreed to this, working on the theory that about 20 per cent of each bill represents the cost of providing the hospital's physical facilities, which the city itself owns.

Guided Missile Exhibit Planned at GMCT Picnic

A Nike guided missile will be featured display at the 22nd annual family picnic of GMC Truck & Coach Division employees to be held Saturday, July 19, at Walled Lake Park.

Theme of the affair is "The Golden Milestone Camper's Round-up," and the park roller rink will be used for a camping and hunting display.

One of the country's top women archers, Ann Clark, will display her skill in the rink, and Kurt and Buck Heide will give a rifle and shotgun shooting exhibition at 2 p.m.

On display with the Nike will be GMC's latest model trucks and coaches.

Senate Group Probing Income of Underworld

Investigators Annoyed by Witnesses Hiding Behind the 5th

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy, counsel to the Senate Rackets Committee, said today the underworld is milking at least a billion dollars a year out of labor-management rackets.

He said this will be borne out as the committee gets deeper into its investigation of alleged gangster infiltration of both labor unions and business enterprises from coast to coast.

"It may prove to be a conservative figure," Kennedy told reporters. He declined to give now a breakdown of the take by such rackets in any particular area.

The committee plans to resume Tuesday public hearings on the rackets-infested Chicago restaurant industry. Later hearings will deal with rackets in Detroit, New York, Pennsylvania's garment industry, Miami, Los Angeles and various other places.

The Rackets Committee appears eager for a showdown on the question of what boundaries exist around a citizen's protection under the Fifth Amendment.

The decision, if one is actually sought by the committee, probably would be a long time in coming. But Rackets Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) yesterday ordered his staff to prepare the legal papers that would be the basis of a case testing "abuse" of the constitutional protection against self-incrimination.

McClellan told newsmen "I really want to see this tested in the Supreme Court. I think we now have some good cases that might be used."

The Rackets Committee has had the Fifth Amendment cited by its witnesses literally thousands of times during its 18-month investigation of labor-management practices. In most cases, McClellan has told witnesses their right to refuse to give testimony they honestly feel might incriminate them was undisputed.

However, witnesses in the current investigation of the Mafia and other gangster elements that have wormed into labor unions and business firms have used the Fifth Amendment to avoid all questions (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Pontiac Man, 30 Dies in Accident

Witnesses Report He Walked Into Path of Car on Saginaw Street

A 30-year-old pedestrian was killed at 11 p.m. last night when he walked into the path of a car on S. Saginaw street, near Pike street.

Thomas K. Montgomery, of 695 Cameron St., was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital. He suffered a broken neck and brain hemorrhage when hit by a car driven by William R. Beidler, 23, of 2789 Hickorylawn St., Rochester.

Beidler, and several witnesses, said that Montgomery walked off the curb east-bound to cross Saginaw and stepped directly into the path of the south-bound car.

Montgomery lived with his parents and was employed at Fisher Body Division.

The driver was held overnight by the police but released this morning after making a statement.

The body was to be taken today to the Melvin A. Schutt Funeral Home.

NOW!

A lady of our acquaintance has six children and you know the labor involved and yet her home is a model of order. She told me, "I do the jobs I dislike doing, first—the rest is easy." There's your secret. It's so easy to procrastinate doing the jobs one dislikes that they multiply; to do them NOW, before they pile up is one very good way to keep your home, desk, or business affairs in perfect order.

J. L. VOORHEES

I know a man who dislikes taking his car for grease job; procrastination brought more failures than a dozen men are supposed to have. Including Russian Vessels

Seaway Will Be Open to Ships of All Nations

MASSENA, N. Y. (AP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway will be open to ships of all nations—including Russian vessels—when it begins full operation early in 1959.

This was made plain by administrator Lewis G. Castle of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation in an interview.

Several foreign countries he said, particularly West Germany, are designing and building vessels chiefly for trade through the seaway.

But he put a quick damper on enthusiastic forecasts of passenger ships sailing from the Great Lakes ports through the seaway locks and across the Atlantic to Europe.

"It's possible," he said, "but too expensive."

The first locks on the seaway—the two American-built locks and one Canadian lock—have started operating for small cargo ships.

In April 1949, the four remaining seaway locks—all being constructed by Canada between Montreal and Cornwall—will be ready. Ocean ships of 27-foot draught then will be able to sail right into the Great Lakes.

Castle said the seaway's "break-even point" will be 50 million tons of cargo a year. The present 14-foot-draught Canadian canals carry only 13,000,000 tons annually.

Economic experts on the Canadian and American toll committees estimate initial cargo traffic in the seaway will be about 25,000,000 tons a year, climbing to the break-even point by 1963.

The United States and Canada have agreed to pay the $473,000,000 cost of the seaway plus annual operating costs and interest charges of $28,000,000 over a 50-year period.

The proposed toll structure—subject to public hearings in Washington and Ottawa in August and formal agreement by the two countries—calls for a composite levy of six cents per gross registered tonnage of the ship, 42 cents a ton for bulk cargo such as coal or wheat, and 95 cents a ton for general cargo.

Shipping officials in both countries have generally greeted this charge as reasonable. Staunch opponents of the toll program, chiefly the inland operators of Great Lakes fleets, still contend there should be no tolls on the seaway.

Tennessee Senate Removes Judge

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Tennessee Senate removed Judge Raulston Schoolfield from office yesterday, but not on the charges that first put a U.S. Senate committee on his trail last year.

The state Senate, sitting as a high court of impeachment, convicted the Chattanooga Criminal Court judge of taking an improper gift, dabbling in other people's political campaigns and using vulgar language.

It voted against barring him from public office permanently.

The U.S. Senate Labor-Management Relations Committee started the ball rolling against Schoolfield last fall by airing charges that $20,000 in Teamsters Union money was paid to fix a labor violence case in his court.

5 Turkish Cypriots Killed in Ambush

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Five Turkish Cypriots were killed and three wounded today in an ambush. It was the heaviest single blow at the Turks since communal fighting broke out on Cyprus five weeks ago.

The Turks were attacked in a bus near Kondea Village 15 miles from Famagusta on the main road to Nicosia. The assailants were not immediately identified but presumably were Greek Cypriots. Five Greeks were killed in attacks Thursday.

The island's British governor, Sir Hugh Foot, said he has been conferring with Greek and Turkish Cypriot leaders on ways to stop the new wave of violence, which has killed 14 Turkish Cypriots and 27 Greek Cypriots since June 7. Sixteen Turks and 74 Greeks have been wounded.

It Seems to Me

So-Called Economic Experts Fail Miserably in Predictions

I take a very dim view of "economic experts" and financial soothsayers.

They're glib and they're assertive.

They're quick and they're convincing.
But the memories of their erroneous prognostications and unfounded guesses still linger.

During a ten year period of rather steadily increasing business, the crystal ball boys came out annually in the late fall and pronounced: "The first six months will be a period of fine business, followed by a decline in the fall."

It just never happened that way. The first six months and the last six months maintained precisely the same patterns and both periods jogged easily forward. There were "no appreciable declines."

Then — out of nowhere — came a dip.

What happened to all these happiness boys who call the shots in advance and keep the hot polloi like me informed of the "new trends" and the "economic causations"?

Phooey!
Not a one of the dizzy and slap happy "experts" knew it was coming. They failed miserably. It was upon us before they raised their megaphones. They were as much "surprised" as we commoners.

Immediately, they all undertook to foretell the end and again they were cock-eyed as all get out. They didn't actually suggest a new boom was "just around the corner" because HERBERT HOOVER had played that record until the wax was warped. But they were a unit in knowing that the Great Upswing was destined to start directly. Well, it didn't follow their pattern at all.

So-o-o-o-o-o, pay no attention to these self-announced wonders. Use your own judgment. Study local conditions that are available to you. Read what's happening around the nation, and come to your own conclusions.

I'm not discouraged. I'm not wailing the crying towel and I'm not pessimistic. I'm just sitting here as patiently as possible, waiting for the situation to adjust itself.

It always has.
It will again and this is a minor affliction, compared to those of the past.

Auto Strike Isn't Likely . . .

Frequently I'm asked whether I think there will be an automotive strike in the fall.

My answer is "no."

But I make no attempt to qualify as an "expert," and I just finished telling what I think of business forecasters, anyway.

I base this "one man opinion" on several observations. I don't think the men working in the plants are in any mood to close down entirely and go home for a protracted period. Employment has been too sketchy too long.

I don't think the general public is going to support or look with favor upon the closing of great American industries over increased wages when business has been slanting downward for more than two years.

And finally, I don't believe the Union leaders themselves will regard the fall of 1958 as a particularly strategic moment to strike. The "climate" isn't very favorable. A contract extension is a victory when sales have been moving steadily backward.

And lastly—but not last in importance—I don't believe the women in the affected families want any part of a full time, knockdown and drag-out strike—and if one comes, that's what it'll be.

It wouldn't classify as a picnic. It won't be "good, clean fun."

And who wants that battle just now?

And in Conclusion

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

ST. MARK was not one of the 12 apostles but accompanied Peter and Paul on many of their missionary journeys. He may have been the young man, described in his own gospel, who fled in a "linen cloth" when the soldiers came to arrest Christ in the Garden of Gethsemane. Mark wrote his gospel at the request of the Romans who asked him to set down the teachings of Peter. He later preached in Alexandria and, like his friends Peter and Paul, was martyred for his faith.

Days of All Faiths

Carmelites Observe Major Feast

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Wednesday, July 16 is the big day for the Carmelite Order in the Roman Catholic Church, for it was the day, in the thirteenth century, on which the Blessed Virgin Mary appeared to their superior-general, St. Simon Stock, and gave him a scapular. A scapular is the sleeveless outer garment of a monk's habit.

It was some time before the Carmelites settled on this date. At first their special festival was on August 15, the Feast of the Assumption, because it was on that day that the Pope had first approved the Carmelite rule — that is, their organization, purpose and discipline.

But when St. Simon had his vision it was only natural that its anniversary should outweigh any other day in the Carmelites' calendar.

It is said that Mary appeared to Simon (he is a saint by courtesy only — he has never been canonized) holding in her hand the already familiar scapular of the Order. She said to him, "This shall be a privilege unto thee and all Carmelites. He who dies in this scapular shall be saved."

Wednesday is, therefore, called the "scapular feast" by the Carmelites. Immediately after Simon's vision the day began to be observed within the Order, and in 1726, by decree of the Pope, it became a universal feast — a feast, that is, of all Roman Catholics.

ST. THENEW'S WELL

Friday, July 18 — The Scotch and English people in olden times had an idea that there were some wells which were holy, and that if you went to one of these wells at the right time and did the right things, in detail, you could get almost any benefit you thought you needed. Some wells could cure anything; some were limited to their own specialties.

St. Thenew, mother of the popular Scotch St. Kentigern, had a well that could cure anything. Hers was a sort of general practitioner well. St. Thenew is honored in the church calendar Friday.

The pilgrims who came to St. Thenew's well on July 18 brought with them pieces of tin, cut out to resemble, perhaps crudely, the parts of their bodies that were in trouble.

Hanging on the trees by the well you could see tin arms, ears, legs, and whatnot. This hanging up of replicas of the ailing parts was all the pilgrims had to do, except that they were supposed to leave some sort of gifts — money, tokens, or even stones.

WHAT IS AN ORDEAL?

We think of an ordeal as a tough time, and indeed it is. But originally it was much more specific than that.

The Anglo-Saxons and other Teutonic people had an idea that innocence would always stand up — by the intervention of God — and you could find out (by ordeal) whether an accused man was innocent or guilty. So they put the accused through ordeals.

There was the ordeal of fire. This was for top-ranking people only. If you were a duke or some such, and were accused of some wrongdoing, you could either hold in your hand a red-hot iron or you could walk barefoot through nine red-hot plowshares. If you came through without injury, you were innocent. God had suspended His normal laws for you.

For the common people there was the ordeal of hot water. The arm was plunged to the elbow in boiling water. If the skin came out all right, you were guilty — you must be a witch.

I have 10 years of experience predicting the sex of the unborn child, with 80% success. I defy any doctor (sic). To the lady who wants a boy, write to me. My advice is free. (—)

Ans. — Then why keep your superhuman knowledge secret?

I tried your non surgical drainage of the gall-bladder, only to be told by an eminent surgeon, "Dear lady, there is no such thing as non surgical drainage of the gall-bladder."

He is a Diplomat of the American Board of Surgery, a F.A.C.S. and (R. S. H.)

Ans. — Instruction for non surgical drainage of gall-bladder in booklet "So You Have Indigestion?" for which send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope. No doubt his eminence regards non-surgical drainage so poaching on his territory.

I'm 70 and want to live to a ripe old age. Trying to find the right diet — salt-free diet and fat-free diet are both insipid, and diet lists are conflicting — one taboos raisins, spinach, celery, most cereals; another includes some of these items . . . (J. W. L.)

Ans. — In your place I'd eat what I liked, but make sure to masticate everything well. Such dieting as you mention seems silly. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet "Young Folks and Old Folks."

We usually take multiple vitamins, but maybe we still need some not in the capsules. Please tell us which you recommend . . . (C. J.)

Ans. — Certainly not "multiple" or shotgun mixtures. The only vitamins I'd bother to take are thiamin (B1), riboflavin (B2) and D — along with my daily ration of calcium, phosphorus and iodine.

I have a — ultra-violet sun lamp. Daily or every alternate day I use it for about 5 minutes to promote sun tan — been told this may cause skin cancer . . . (Mrs. M. L.)

Ans. — Daily exposure to sunshine (daylight in the shade) is much better than monkeying with the gadget "Danger of cancer" is the bunk. If the exposure stops short of burn there's no danger or harm, whether it is ultraviolet from natural or artificial source.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

You Can Vaccinate Against Divorce

Judge Hinkle is an excellent example of the versatile modern jurist who believes in "vaccinating" people against divorce, delinquency and insanity. This column is part of that "vaccine" and the booklets offered herewith are simply "booster" shots. So imitate the attorneys, doctors and clergymen who scrapbook these true office cases, for this is a clinical column.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case Y-360: Judge Wayne W. Hinkle, of the Jay Circuit Court, recently introduced me at Portland, Indiana, where I was scheduled for a speech.

Prior to the address, however, Judge Hinkle had explained the fine work being done locally to vaccinate teenagers against later divorce and mental ailments via an elective class on various marriage and social problems.

"Dr. Crane, we deeply appreciate the aid of your daily column and the medico-psychological booklets," Judge Hinkle added.

"In fact, I'd like a few extra copies for use with my Sunday School class, too."

Judge Hinkle is typical of the versatile modern jurist. He is a popular man in the community because of his wide activities in civic organizations.

And he is a very effective Bible class teacher on Sunday. Happily married and with a fam-

Voice of the People

Would Clarify Legislation Concerning Waterways

The article, "Rivers and Harbors Bill Shorn of Padded Costs," has come to our attention. We note the "pork barrel" reference.

There is probably no legislation less understood than that for waterway improvements. Approved projects are those that have been certified economically sound after public hearings and long study by the Corps of Engineers, U.S. Army, made first by the district officer, reviewed by his superior, the division engineer, then by the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors and finally by the Chief of Engineers. No part of the study is perfunctory.

Having passed that test, they go to the Public Works Committee of the House. If approved there, and later by the Senate Public Works Committee, they are incorporated in a bill. After the bill becomes law, funds are eventually made available by Congress.

It's rarely mentioned that piers, wharves, elevators, warehouses, truckage and other necessary facilities are wholly the work of local authorities or private interests. The two are inseparable. Civic interests also often contribute to the cost of harbor and channel improvements.

The greater strength of the future will come largely from continuing development. Money spent for this purpose is an investment in building the nation.

Presents Views on Novi Charter

I'd like to present our views about the proposed village charter for Novi, Oakland County requested by the Novi charter election held either in this year's primary or the regular November election instead of Sept. 22 set by the Charter Commission.

The commission's action in setting this date must have been with the township board's blessings. With much depleted funds, Novi can't stand wastefulness. Tax revenues for the 1958 budget were used before the April first meeting of the general public, who approves the budget yearly.

Mr. Walter H. Blucher, Chicago planning consultant, charged "Many small communities have been living high, wide and handsome and are going to have to pull in their belts after this recession is over. Smaller communities then will look to their larger brothers for help."

This is so true when you consider problems such as water supply, highways, airports, mass transportation and disposal of garbage, rubbish, storm water and sewage. Area wide cooperation holds the answer, and not village incorporation, which couldn't even begin to meet your needs, not any more than the Township can at present. Wouldn't we be better provided on a communal basis?

Herbert Koester, Chairman Novi Farmer and Landowners Protective Assn.

'Ministers Should Use More Force'

There are many different denominations in churches. But some preach heaven for the almighty dollar, and do nothing about divorce, broken homes, sin and corruption among their congregations.

Mr. Minister, you don't need to go to Africa as a missionary. You'll find more sinners right here than among natives of Africa, China or other so-called uncivilized people. Some preachers stay out of politics. Wouldn't it be far wiser to get busy and elect people in government that would clean up the rotten mess here at home? Are you afraid to face it, afraid to voice your opinion?

Why do you condone divorce and sin in your congregation? Are you afraid of losing a few pennies from the collection plate by offending those sinners? Does your Bible condone divorce? Do you believe part of it or just what fits the occasion?

ly of his own, he understands legal problems not just from the textbook angle, but holds the broad psychological outlook so vital nowadays.

It is a pleasure to salute Judge Hinkle and the hundreds of other members of the bar who are working to stop divorce and delinquency long before the teenagers ever enter our courts.

And I employ 2-syllable words. I don't "affect" a jargon of 5-syllable terms to "ritz" less educated folks. Teenagers understand this column!

For newspaper editors long ago learned that you must talk the language of the customer. Jesus preached that same idea.

And modern newspapers also realize that every time we slip divorce in the bud, we salvage a home from disaster. And we even save the taxpayer money that otherwise would go to finance our courts!

When we steer a potential delinquent teenager back on the right track, we insure his greater happiness and eliminate the extra costs for jails and prisons. When we aid dads to become better pals of their youngsters we likewise cause more joy and camaraderie between parent and child.

And the scientific booklets offered via this column serve like the "booster" shots we give for flu or polio, etc.

TV is now offering college classes on the air. But your newspaper jumped the gun long ago by giving you a college major in practical psychology by the 313 actual cases which we diagnose each year in this daily column.

The booklets and mail service are a non-profit "extension class." Your newspaper does not make a penny from the mail, nor does the newspaper syndicate which handles this feature.

And I not only donate my time for answering mail and waive all royalties on the booklets, but then donate 20 speeches per year, all fees from which to underwrite the annual deficit on this mail service.

So make scrapbooks of this column and bind the booklets in the back thereof, for then you'll have a real textbook of everyday psychology.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Reds Chase MSU Coed, Coach Home

WINDSOR, Ont. (U) — A weary and hungry Ernestine Russell of Michigan State University and her coach, Bernard Newman of Windsor, were prematurely ushered out of Russia Friday by the Red government.

The first uncensored message from the coach came yesterday when he placed a call from Vienna to Mrs. Newman and The Windsor Daily Star.

"You can say this," he said, "We are damn glad to be out of there. The government didn't want us to stay. There is no doubt about it."

Ernestine finished 60th Thursday in the World Gymnastic Championships. There were 88 contestants.

Although they had planned to stay in Moscow until July 14 in order that they might make a tour of the city, they were told to leave immediately following the competition's conclusion.

"There is nothing wrong with the people. They are nice as you would find anywhere. It is just the government. You have no idea how bad things can be," he said.

Newman said the Russian fans were all for Ernestine, a Canadian from Windsor. They kept chanting "Russell — Russell — Russell" throughout the competition.

"Everywhere we went the children followed her. They gave her gifts and took her picture."

Newman said the judges were all Communists. He said Ernestine didn't deserve to win but should have placed in the first 15.

"She was hampered by the fact that she was weak from loss of weight. She lost eight pounds in about nine days. I lost six. The food was horrible and what you didn't eat at one meal was returned on your plate at the next meal. There was no variety, no butter for your bread. We are glad to be out from behind the Iron Curtain," he said.

About 4.5 million U. S. women are employed in clerical positions, or about one-quarter of all employed women, the government estimates.

Five Children Hurt by Alkali Fallout

DETROIT (U) — An atomic power plant chemical experiment backfired late yesterday causing a fall-out of alkali over a two-block area of suburban Riverside. The alkali was not radioactive.

Five children were treated for alkali burns. None was reported seriously hurt.

The chemical fallout damaged cars, metal awnings, furniture and shrubs.

The experiment sent a cloud of alkali into the air from the bottom of a deep quarry. A sudden wind shift blew it over nearby houses.

The sodium-water experiment was being conducted by Atomic Power Reactor Development Corp., which is building a private atomic power plant at Monroe.

Detroit Edison Co. a member of the group, said the experiment was not connected directly with atomic energy.

Napping Blonde Burns Up Cars Worth $30,000

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A pretty blonde took a short nap — and seven cars, most of them the expensive kind, went up in flames.

Police said Yolanda Cancellmi, 26, went to sleep at the wheel of her car and smashed into the rear-most of six parked cars on Wilshire Boulevard yesterday morning.

The cars smashed one into another and caught fire in what one resident said resembled a flaming accordion. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

Miss Cancellmi, a hotel receptionist, got a head cut. Her score: two Thunderbirds, one of them hers; three Cadillacs, a Buick and a Pontiac. No charges were filed.

Bob Burns' Daughter Suspected of Forgery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 20-year-old daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns was jailed last night on suspicion of forgery.

Police said Barbara Burns tried to pass a $65 fictitious check at a grocery. She had been free on bail pending her appeal of a 90-day jail sentence for narcotics addiction.

Thor Missile Launching Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Air Force successfully launched a Thor intermediate range missile this morning and it was learned an attempt would be made to recover the nose cone.

The Thor climbed into a clear, starry sky at 1:36 a.m. (EST) before a battery of officers and airmen who will train the first operational Thor.

The Air Force described the launching as "routine" and said that "preliminary instrumentation reports indicated a normal flight."

Officials said there would be no further statement, but sources reported an attempt would be made to recover the nose cone about 1,500 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral.

The Thor, first stage of the Thor-Able moon rocket now under development, was believed to contain living matter.

On Wednesday a Thor-Able was launched with a mouse in a different type of nose cone.

The search for that Thor-Able nose cone and its tiny mouse passenger was abandoned today by the Air Force.

Chess is for Everyone Regardless of Age

By LYDIA ROTHMAN

Chess — the very word is enough to strike terror into the hearts of the most courageous, the courageous who think of it as a game for bearded professorial men, or five-year-old child prodigies.

If you are among those who think it is just a game for mathematical wizards, ponderous thinkers or mighty war strategists—believe us—it's not true—and the other things you may have heard—such as its being a game only for those with infinite patience or those with tremendous powers of concentration—these aren't true either!

BEGAN IN ASIA

Chess, which originated in Asia and was played in Mesopotamia in 4000 B.C., is becoming more and more popular today as people are discovering that it does not necessarily have to be a difficult and complex game.

One of the first secrets of chess is the way it is introduced to the beginner. As with any game—it must be approached slowly, carefully and simply. Despite the seemingly many and varied pieces—essentially there are only six different kinds of pieces—each with its own power. And basically there are only three different types of moves—the other moves are merely variations, depending on the powers of the pieces.

To play the game, the 32 pieces are arranged on a checkerboard. Sixteen of the pieces on one side are light colored and the other 16 are dark colored—"white" and "black." They are arranged on the two rows nearest each player.

The king and queen are centered in the row nearest the player surrounded by the two bishops, two knights and two rooks. The pawns, least valuable of the pieces are arranged on the second row.

Each player moves his pieces in alternating turns. The queen, most powerful piece, can move in any direction and as many spaces as is desired. The king, most valuable piece, can move in any direction, but only one space at a time.

The rook or castle moves for any distance in a straight line, but never diagonally. This move belongs to the bishops who can move any distance, but only diagonally.

KNIGHT MOVES IN

The knight moves in an L-shaped move—two spaces vertically and one horizontally—or vice versa. He can make this move in any direction, jumping over another piece while doing so.

The pawn moves forward usually one space at a time.

The object of the game is to force the opposing king into a position where his capture is unavoidable—the king is never actually captured. This is done by opposing pieces making moves to attack and capture each other.

Eventually most of the pieces are captured and removed from the board. The kings now come into full play without being exposed to dangerous attacks from the opposing pieces.

When one or the other king is forced into a situation where he cannot protect himself from capture—he must surrender and the game is won.

As far as memorization or strategy being concerned—there is almost none—and what there is, is quite minor to the game. Each game is an individual thing—depending to a great extent on the personality of the two players.

The most important element of the game is imagination and the ability to visualize the results of the next few plays—and the ability not to be caught.

It is a game for young and old—for men or women—and can be enjoyed by all on whatever level they play.

Nine-year-old David Betzing (left) can't help but show a look of agony as James Shelton, 7, captures his pawn—a pawn that was about to increase its value by being "queened."

Dickie Johnson (left) has a sly look on his face—probably because of some secretive move he has planned against his twin brother, Ricky (right).

Onlooker, John Krapohl (center), looks as intense about the game as the two players.

Dear Abby....

Wife Should Do Some Fast Stepping

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband used to tell me that he had to sleep in another room because my snoring kept him awake at night. Like a fool I believed him until a friend of mine told me that she saw my husband out one night in a little town near here, folk-dancing until two o'clock in the morning.

ABBY
I stayed up four nights and nothing happened, but on Friday night after he went to bed I heard him take the screen off, and caught him climbing out the window, all dressed up.

We had a big fight about this, but he won't admit anything. How can I get him to confess?

CAUGHT HIM
DEAR CAUGHT HIM: What is there to confess? If he is so crazy about folk-dancing—learn how, and go with him. P. S. Get him back in your bedroom, too.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it's all right for a boy to ask a girl for her measurements?

DIXIE
DEAR DIXIE: Not unless he's knitting her a sweater.

DEAR ABBY: If people complain about eating around dogs they should have had my experience at a counter in a snack-fountain yesterday. A lady came in and sat beside me on the fountain stool and ordered a glass of milk.

She had a bag of fig bars in a sack, so she ate them with the milk. The seeds must have got under her plates because she took them out (uppers and lowers) and proceeded to wash her plates in her glass of drinking water.

Did you, Dear Abby, ever hear of a dog taking out his store teeth and washing them in a glass of water? Some people are disgusting!

DEAR ABBY: I have been going out with a boy whose mother has been in the State Mental Hospital. She doesn't like me because she thinks I am taking her son away from her. I am very much in love with him and we want to get married, but his mother is always butting in. She treats her son like he was her husband (she is widowed) and he is good to her because he's her only child.

What I want to know is this. If we do get married, can we send her back, would we need any signatures or the word of a doctor?

META
DEAR META: A State Mental Hospital is not set up for the convenience of people who feel their relatives are in the way. An ex-mental patient is sent back to the hospital only if the examining doctor recommends it. Your obvious selfishness and lack of understanding makes you a poor candidate for marriage.

Bruce Yemmans (left) really puts all his effort into plotting moves against opponent and brother, Victor. The two play in the Parks and Recreation sponsored program which meets at the Adah Shelly Branch Library every Monday evening.

Just to show you that chess is not a game for the older set—Ronnee Strine (left) is five and her brother Steven is six. Both participate in the afternoon chess program at Washington Junior High School.

You Need Memory Course!

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have done something I am afraid you will say is unforgivable. This past spring when I was visiting some people, I invited a girl I met there to go to our annual club dance which is to be held next month. I forgot all about asking her and a week ago invited another girl to go with me.

"Then girl number one wrote me a note asking something about it—and I remembered that I had asked her, and here I am with two different girls invited to the same dance. What am I to do?"

Answer: A suggestion that might work very well, if you have a best friend who has no partner, is to make it a party of four and stay together all evening—but be sure you don't show any favoritism. Dance with one girl as much as you do with the other.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Our son has recently won several scholarships. As a result he has received quite a number of congratulatory messages from friends and acquaintances, particularly from my husband's colleagues. My husband thinks it is a "must" for our son to acknowledge all these messages. I do not think it is necessary.

"What is the proper procedure in this case? If they must be acknowledged would a printed thank-you card be all right, or must he acknowledge them by hand?"

Answer: He must write a brief handwritten note to the sender of each message. It need say nothing more than, "Thank you so much for your very kind congratulations. Very sincerely, John Jones."

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married soon and the men in the wedding party are going to wear white dinner coats. I would like to know if it would be proper for them to wear red carnations instead of the usual white, which will make no effect against the white coats."

Answer: I am very sorry but red flowers on white coats would be too theatrical to be proper for the ushers at your wedding.

Jacquelyn T. Touscany, John R. Ciupak Wed

A Nuptial High Mass celebrated at Our Lady of the Lakes Catholic Church united Jacquelyn Therese Touscany and John Rodney Ciupak in marriage this noon. The Rev. Frederick J. Delaney officiated at the wedding in the presence of 250 witnesses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald F. Touscany of Clarkston, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ciupak of Dearborn.

WEARS IVORY SILK

A gown of ivory silk mist accented by a scoop neckline and fitted bodice trimmed with seed pearls was worn by the bride as she approached the altar escorted by her father. The full skirt of the gown extended to form a chapel train. A pearl tiara secured her fingertip veil of ivory illusion, and she wore pearl earrings and carried a cascade arrangement of white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. John F. Touscany of Birmingham was her sister-in-law's matron of honor, gowned in periwinkle blue. Bridesmaids Sue Bobean and Ann Gutschow, a cousin of the bride, both of Mt. Clemens, were gowned in pale blue. The attendants' gowns were of chiffon featuring bouffant skirts. Each wore a matching picture hat. Their flowers were cascades of Happiness Roses.

Robert Ciupak of Dearborn was his brother's best man. Ushers were John F. Touscany of Birmingham, brother of the bride, and James G. Panks.

Mrs. Donald Kovacs of Detroit was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Miller.

A wedding breakfast and garden reception was held at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony.

Mrs. Touscany wore a dress of champagne imported silk with sapphire blue highlights, matching accessories, and an orchid corsage for her daughter's wedding.

Mrs. Ciupak chose a periwinkle blue chiffon dress with matching accessories. A white orchid corsage completed her outfit.

NORTHERN TRIP

The bride wore a pale blue linen sheath with white accessories and a double strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, for a wedding trip to Higgins Lake.

Both young people are graduates of the University of Michigan.

The bride is a member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority, and the bridegroom is affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

After Aug. 1 the couple will reside in Detroit.

Jacquelyn T. Touscany and John R. Ciupak were married today. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald F. Touscany of Clarkston, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ciupak of Dearborn.

Convert That Sheath

PARIS (UPI) — Want to change last year's sheath into this year's chemise? Paris designer Jean Desses can show you the trick.

Most Desses creations for evening wear are based on sheath lines. The Greek-born Paris designer believes that to look glamorous in the evening a woman's figure should be outlined first and then veiled.

One paper-thin taffeta cocktail dress by Desses is cut with a form-fitted front and back. Patterned with nature-size red tulips on white, the gown is sleeveless, has a high front neckline and a strapped décolletage at the back.

Into this low back neckline Desses drapes in folds a wide panel of matching taffeta. This panel is of skirt length, looped down and sewn to the back hemline to produce a chemise effect when seen from the back. When the wearer walks, the panel catches the "breeze" and looks like a full blown sail. Such a back panel could easily be added to a sheath to make it look like a chemise.

All of Desses' Greek draped, lovely chiffon gowns have form shaping fitted bodices, but cape-panels or stoles camouflage the back curve.

Leslie Stevens Is Wed

Leslie Gale Stevens and Duncan Clark Allen were married this afternoon at Trinity Methodist Church in Highland Park. Dr. Oliver J. Collins performed the 3 o'clock ceremony.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Edison S. Stevens of Birmingham and Mr. and Mrs. Durwood E. Allen of Birmingham. The bridegroom resided in Royal Oak.

A floor-length taffeta gown with a back panel of lace forming a chapel train, designed and made by her mother, was worn by the bride. A lace and pearl cap held her fingertip veil. White roses and stephanotis comprised the cascade bouquet.

Midge Taup attended her as maid of honor and Mrs. Earl W. Naas, Barbara Hedrick, and Dawne Karnes served as bridesmaids. Each of the attendants wore an aqua taffeta ballerina-length frock and carried pink roses and carnations.

Flower girl was Betsy Gary, and the ring bearer was Richard Furney.

Robert M. Montgomery of Highland Park served as best man. Ushers were Lawrence Brown, Brewster King of Amherst, Ohio, Robert Furney, Clyde Reese, and Edison Stevens Jr., brother of the bride.

A reception was held in the church hall.

For the wedding, Mrs. Stevens wore a pale coral sheath and Mrs. Allen wore a silk flowered print dress.

Masks May Help

Stimulate Complexion for Beauty

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It is lucky for us that time adds up gradually, since this gives us the opportunity to fight the aging processes day by day. Whenever we see a woman who looks years younger than she actually is, we can be sure that she has indulged in daily beauty care for her complexion.

Some lucky people are just born with a beautiful skin and seem to keep it no matter what they do. However, these are the exceptions. Most of us have to pay the price of daily care in order to have a presentable outer coating. The big three in skin care are cleansing, stimulation and lubrication.

Most women are aware of the importance of cleansing and lubrication but many forget about stimulation of circulation. Of course general exercise whips the blood up in the face and neck as well as over the body. However, local stimulation often seems to clear the complexion and give it a new bloom.

There are many splendid masks and creams on the market which do this. They usually are dubbed "circulation" creams. Then there is the Epsom salt treatment and the clay pack with which you work at home. The clay pack long has been thought to be good for large pores. If you wish to try it, buy some fuller's earth at any drugstore.

Mix equal parts of witch hazel and peroxide and add this to the fuller's earth. Use enough of the liquid to make the mixture smooth and easy to apply. Cover the face with it and leave it on until it dries. Later on remove it with water.

The Epsom salts facial is somewhat drying. It is therefore good for the oily skin and questionable for a very dry one. This is how you do it. Put two pints of hot water in one bowl and two pints of ice cold water in another.

Put four tablespoonfuls of Epsom salts in each bowl. Let the salts dissolve. Cleanse your face and then soak a cloth in the hot water. Wring it out and hold it against the face and neck, putting the cloth in the hot water periodically. After about five minutes of this, soak a cloth in the ice cold water. Apply it to the face and neck. After a while rinse the face with plain ice water.

This not only stirs up circulation but you will find it most refreshing.

Couple Repeats Vows in Flint Church Rite

Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Flint, was the scene of the wedding this afternoon of Zoe Ann Kasson and Joe K. Ritchey. The Rev. Theodore Moehring officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William C. Kasson of Flushing and Mr. and Mrs. John M. Ritchey of Edgemoor drive.

The bride wore an embossed nylon organza gown with a fitted bodice and portrait neckline. The skirt, of nylon net tiers over taffeta, formed a chapel train and she carried a crescent shaped bouquet of red rosebuds and white carnations.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Yvonne Kasson. Sharron Tanner was bridesmaid with Susan Kasson, another sister of the bride, and Susan Ritchey, the bridegroom's sister as junior bridesmaid. Martha Geese was flower girl.

BLUE AND WHITE

The attendants wore full length white, pink and blue bouffant dresses with matching headpieces and carried baskets of daisies. The flower girl carried a basket of roses and wore a matching headpiece.

Harold Burget was best man. Ushers were Robert Shaw and James Herrington.

A reception, following the ceremony, was held on the lawn of the Kasson home in Flushing.

Both are graduates of Flint Junior College. The bride will teach at Selby Elementary School, Flint, this fall and the bridegroom will continue his studies at the University of Michigan.

The couple will live in Flushing.

Get Head Start on Routine for Beauty's Sake

The teenager who wants to be a beauty in her twenties has to start working at it right now. For it takes time to blossom out with a trim figure, clear skin and shining hair.

And this enviable trio won't come from too many sundaes, no exercise and much sitting under a hot dryer.

They will come from walking, swimming and playing tennis; from a daily workout with a stiff hairbrush and from the right foods and lots of rest.

The business about burning the candle at both ends may sound terribly dashing, but in actuality it's unwise and people who've done it would be the first to tell you so. It usually results in bad skin, dry hair, a lumpy figure and a generally sagging look.

In your teens you have the best opportunity to learn to discipline yourself, a thing you will need to know all of your life.

Small Talk Is Easy

Don't tell yourself you can't make small talk. Anyone can learn to make the kind of polite conversation that makes the first minutes of meeting a stranger easy and serves to keep things pleasant at a large party.

Children Might Find Vacation Fun at Home

By RUTH MILLETT

It was a group of husbands and wives, but the women were doing most of the talking. The subject: their plans for their children's summer vacation.

One wife said they were sending all three children to summer camps and she was exhausted from buying camp clothes and equipment and sewing in name tapes and taking them for medical and dental check-ups. Her husband asked wryly if anyone knew how much it cost to keep three kids in camp.

Another wife had all her children enrolled in summer courses. Swimming classes for two, gymnastics for one, art for another. She figured that chauffeuring them back and forth would keep her hopping.

A third wife said she was taking the children to the family's lakeside cabin and her husband would get down on weekends "when he could." He would be hatching it while Mama and the children got away from the heat.

Than a husband, whose wife hadn't been heard from, spoke up and said: "I've taken care of the summer plans of our three. I told Joe, who is 13, that his allowance stopped one week after school ended. That gives him a week in which to find a job. So he'll be busy earning his own spending money."

"And I told the girls I want Jane to be able to take it a bit easier this summer. They are going to be responsible for part of the housework. Both have their jobs, and while they are helping make Jane's summer a little less hectic, they will also be learning how to run a house, something they'll both probably be doing in not too many years."

So there's one man's answer to what to do with the kids in summer—let them become contributing members of the family circle.

And it is my guess that his children will finish the summer just as healthy and happy and far more self-reliant than the children whose parents are paying hard-earned money to have someone else keep them busy for three months.

Protestant Churches Speed Aid to Poland

The first relief supplies from the U.S. Protestant churches to the Polish people in more than 10 years are now crossing the Atlantic.

When the ships Dakota and Minnesota sailed from Baltimore last week, they carried six tons of clothing and bedding and one ton of vitamins and medical supplies shipped by Church World Service to the desperately needy people of Poland.

The announcement was made this week by the Rev. Dr. R. Norris Wilson, CWS executive director, who noted that these first token shipments represented a value of $25,000.

The total program to aid the thousands of men, women and children in Poland who lack the minimum requirements of proper food and clothing will include the distribution of dried milk, flour and other U.S. surplus foodstuffs.

United Presbyterians Observe Communion

The Sacrament of Communion will be observed tomorrow at 10 a.m. and at 7:00 p.m. at the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Theodore R. Allebach will speak in the morning on "What the Bible Says About Humbleness," and in the evening he will begin a study in the book of Psalms. The Psalm study will continue through the fall.

R. G. Crites will sing a solo at the morning service. Solos at the evening service will be by Bill Coffing and Nancy Tanner.

Relief Programs Begun by Protestant Churches

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Protestant churches in America, working co-operatively through Church World Service, have instituted four new programs of overseas relief, extending their ministries of providing food, clothing and other material assistance to needy persons in 47 countries.

The new programs of assistance—to Ghana, the Belgian Congo and Uganda, in Africa, and to Chile—were announced by Dr. R. Norris Wilson, executive director of Church World Service, following the June meetings of the denominationally constituted committees on overseas programs.

Actual shipments of relief supplies for free distribution to needy persons in the new areas, Dr. Wilson said, either have already been received or are en route.

Church World Service, the overseas relief agency created by major Protestant denominations in the United States to carry on co-operative programs of relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction in areas of distress and destitution abroad.

New Associate Minister for Methodist Church

The Rev. Daniel J. Wallace is the new associate minister at Central Methodist Church. His responsibilities will include the education program of the church.

He is a graduate of Asbury College and Wesley Theological Seminary.

Rev. Wallace worked as associate minister of Dundalk Methodist Church and recently completed a pastorate at Mt. Carmel Church, Pasadena, Md.

During his college years he served charges for Dr. Howard Burden, district superintendent of the Saginaw Bay district.

He was one of 16 men ordained elder and brought into full membership of the Detroit Conference of the Methodist Church. He received his appointment as associate minister of Central Methodist Church by Dr. Marshall R. Reed, resident bishop of the Michigan area.

Rev. Wallace, who lives with his wife at 25 Mary Day Ave., will continue pastoral ministry at the church.

On Sunday he will assist with the two services of worship. He and his wife will be presented to the congregations at these two services.

For the next three Sundays, Dr. Milton H. Bank will preach on "Are You Hiding From God?" "Glorify God In Your Body" and "Faith Takes the High Note."

Rev. Wallace will preach for the first time August 10 and will preach for the remainder of the month while Dr. Bank is on vacation.

Youth Fellowship Sets Singspiration

Oakland Youth Fellowship Singspiration will be held at 9:15 p.m. Sunday at First Church of God, 25 S. East Boulevard.

Vocal solo will be by John Spires and a duet will be sung by Mary and Pat Mead. The OYF Trumpet Trio will also play selections.

There will be a Bible quiz with audience participation.

Church School Has 2-Fold Job

Must Provide Equal
Education, Effective
Road to Evangelism

A Methodist leader said recently that church-sponsored schools in mission fields around the world can justify their existence only as they do adequately two jobs:

Serve as effective instruments for Christian evangelism.

Provide an education on a par with the best obtainable in a given country.

The Rev. Dr. Thornburn T. Brumbaugh, New York, made those assertions to 425 persons from 40 countries attending the thirteenth annual Furloughed Missionary Conference of the Methodist Church at De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind. Dr. Brumbaugh is executive secretary for Japan, Korea and Okinawa for the Division of World Missions of the Methodist Board of Missions.

Meeting Is Scheduled for Young Marrieds

North East Community Church will sponsor a gathering for all young married couples at 7:30 tonight at the Manse.

Nursery care will be provided for children.

On Sunday the worship hour will feature the reception of members. All who unite with the church between now and Aug. 3 will be considered charter members.

Congregationalists Seek $7.5 Million for Education

NEW YORK — Rev. Dr. Harold T. James of Omaha, Nebraska, will direct the campaign of Congregational Christian Churches to raise $7,500,000 in the next two years for support of higher education.

The announcement was made jointly by Rev. Dr. Truman B. Douglass, New York, executive vice-president of the denomination's Board of Home Missions and Rev. Dr. Alford Carleton, Boston, executive vice-president of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. The American Board and the Board of Home Missions are the Congregational Christian agencies concerned with higher education in this country and abroad.

To Make Annual Report at District Assembly

The Rev. W. M. McGuire of 450 Eileen Dr., will make his annual report as district superintendent at the annual Eastern Michigan District Assembly of the Church of the Nazarene to be held in Flint, July 16-17.

Pastors of all 71 district churches will give reports.

Pious Jam Churches

NOTRE DAME, Ind. — Circumstances of the Roman Catholic Church in Czechoslovakia have "improved a great deal" in the last five years, says an article in the current issue of the national Catholic weekly, Ave Maria. It said churches there are "jammed during masses."

Take 'Prayer Breaks'

DAYTON, Ohio — Members of the First United Church of Christ (Congregational Christian) try to take a "prayer break" at home or work every morning. The idea is that, just as a "coffee break" provides a physical change of pace, the "prayer break" offers a moment to forget daily cares and remember the church and its people, says the Rev. Ray C. Sturch, pastor.

Slate Youth Revival

The Apostolic Church of Christ, 458 Central Ave., will sponsor a youth revival July 15-27. The Rev. Ronnie Zess, 21, of Milwaukee, will conduct the services to begin at 7:30 every evening.

The classes, for ages 3-15, will include special singing, memory work, Bible story lessons, handwork and handicraft.

Two workers, Rosetha Fisher and Helen Chaffee, both of Coffeyville, Kan., will teach the classes.

Methodists Announce Missionary Study

An intensive six-month study looking toward possible changes in the methods of training and orientation of new Methodist missionaries to 40 countries has been announced by the Methodist Board of Missions.

Dr. Clara French, New York, executive secretary for China and Southeast Asia of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions, said the study had been voted after long consideration by the board's Interdi-vision Committee on Foreign Work.

Confident Living

Never Think Defeat, Go to Bat Expecting to Win

By NORMAN VINCENT FEALE

The writer of this column is an enthusiastic baseball fan.
Unfortunately, the pressure of work is such that I do not get to games as often as I would like, but I'm certainly there at every possible opportunity.

FEALE

Last winter while visiting in Florida I saw an exhibition game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators.
In the stands I happened to run across my old friend Clyde King, once with the Dodgers in Brooklyn and now manager of Columbus in the International League. Clyde introduced me to Joe Brown, general manager of the Pirates. Brown, son of my friend the famous comedian, is a fine gentleman, as of course is Clyde King.

I thoroughly enjoyed visiting with them as we sat together. Naturally I used the opportunity to pump them about the game, and eventually we got around to a questions fans have been debating for years: What makes a great baseball player?
Both Brown and King named a number of important qualities, and then they got down to the most important one. A really top flight baseball player, they agreed, can't last for long without character. For example, the great player is the man who keeps on swinging at the ball and he studies to make his hitting intelligently effective. But you can never hit unless you keep hitting at the ball. The great player is the man who keeps on running. You are never going to get very far unless you keep moving. Also the great player is the man who stands up to tough opposition and never gives up. You've just got to keep on competing, and to do that you must have what it takes—CHARACTER. No hold-out ever succeeds. Only the man who goes all-out makes the grade.

In thinking about these points it occurred to me that actually there is no difference between the qualities that make for big league players in baseball and the qualities that make for big league in life.

And have you ever thought of this? Baseball can be played only one game at a time. Champions are made by playing their best game today, then tomorrow, and then the next day. Life, too, must be lived one day at a time. And in both baseball and living success is the result of a succession of more good days than bad ones.

So the secret of success in living really boils down to the problem of how to have more good days than poor days. By your average shall you be judged in life's record book. And never forget that you are making your own future every day of the world. Here are some simple rules for having a high average of good days:

1. Go out there expecting to win. Never think defeat.
As you think, so you're likely to become. What we really expect we usually get.
2. Stand confidently up to the plate and take what comes over. Accept each problem for what it is and deal with it forthrightly.
3. Don't get discouraged and throw down your bat, until either you've hit the ball or you're out. You just have to solve that problem; so keep hitting at it.
4. Once you've hit the ball, start running. Get into action. You may be thrown out by circumstances, but give it the biggest try you have in you. You haven't really solved the problem until you've ACTED on your solution by dynamic follow-through. So go on! Don't stop! Keep moving!
5. In the game of life play according to the rules enforced by the Great Umpire. He calls them fairly. Play with all you've got and He is not likely to call you out. You'll make your bases and come home safely.

Live by the basic principles of thought and action taught in the Bible. Build these firmly into the center of your thinking and you'll have many good days—possibly even to add up to a great life.

7 Home-Missionaries Appointed for Alaska

Seven new Methodist home missionaries from six states have been appointed to serve churches in virtually every area of Alaska where Methodism is a work. They form one of the largest groups to go from the states to a home mission territory in a single year.

The appointments were announced by Bishop A. Raymond Grant, of the Portland (Ore.) area at the recent session of the Alaska
Mission Conference at Ketchikan.
Alaska is a part of the Portland area.

Eastern Orthodoxy 4th Among Religions in U. S.

Until recently, Eastern (or Greek) Orthodoxy has been identified by Americans as a shadowy land where many of the clergy wear bushy beards, some marry, and the churches observe Christmas in January.

But it is rapidly gaining recognition—along with Protestantism,

Roman Catholicism, and Judaism
— as the fourth great religious faith in the U. S. And as a religious group that embraces more than 170 million believers — one fourth of the Christian world — it is making a new impact on American life, writes the editor of a national magazine.

In America alone it claims 1,000 parishes and some 6 million adherents.

It is estimated that in our country the police come in contact with about a million boys and girls each year on charges of delinquency. Since census figures show there will be 45% more children between 10 and 17 years of age in 1960 than in 1950, it is expected that the delinquents will increase to over 1,500,000.

Is not the answer to this growing problem in the CHURCH, where our children, through the Sunday School, will receive a foundation in Christian living,
—a basis for uprightness? With this in mind, our Sunday School is launching its Vacation Bible School program this summer. You can know your child is safe in Vacation Bible School where he is also becoming a citizen who will be an asset to his community. So send your child

Milton Berle Confident of Television Comback

By BOB THOMAS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Milton Berle is coming back to the home screen with all the brass assurance that won him that title.
"I think people want to laugh," says Milton Berle, "and I'm going to try to make them."
Before resuming his career as a TV regular, Uncle Miltie is resting at this desert resort. Resting—hah! The guy is knocking himself out twice nightly at El Rancho Vegas, clowning with an operatic sextette, machine-gunning gags at the audience and ending in a whirlwind tap routine that looks far too strenuous for a man marking his first half-century.
"Yes, I'll be 50 this week," he confessed. "Perhaps the new TV series will reflect some of the maturity I have achieved with the years."
Otherwise, the Wednesday night half-hour will be pure Berle. He said he would try to do the same kind of thing he did during his terse." With Jackie Gleason also returning to TV, it would appear that the comics are moving in for another stand against the gun-slingers and quizmasters. More power to 'em.

Tigers Get Acquainted

BALTIMORE (AP)—Duke, a 400-pound, handsome royal Bengal tiger too ornery for circus work, has found a temporary new home in the Baltimore Zoo—next door to Duchess. "If they don't seem to be antagonistic then we'll put them in the same cage," Zoo Director Arthur Watson said. The object is matrimony.

Number of Claims for Benefits Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Summer layoffs in the auto industry are held largely to blame for a sudden spurt in new claims for unemployment benefits.
The government reported yesterday that new claims rose by 100,900 during the week ended July 5 to a total of 467,200. The rise was smaller than the 103,600 for the corresponding week a year ago, when the total went to 339,300.
Unemployment among workers insured for jobless benefits reached another 1938 low for the week ended June 28. The report said the total declined by 59,200 to 2,551,700. It was the 11th straight weekly drop.

New Champion Certain in Amateur

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (AP)—A new champion will be crowned at the Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament tomorrow and a couple of familiar faces in the winner's circle popped up as favorites.

Shunted to the sidelines in the first match play firing yesterday at Belvedere Golf Club were the defending champion, the qualifying medalist and a pair of former titlists.

But still in the thick of the dogfight were three-time champ Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile and 1946 champion Tim Draper of Royal Oak. These two veterans were in different brackets and there was a possibility they could clash in Sunday's final.

Sixteen golfers—five of them trying the state amateur test for the first time—made it through the first two rounds of match play and worked into today's third round.

The quarter-finals also were scheduled for today, with the four big winners going into the Sunday showdown for a pair of 18-hole rounds.

Missing from the field —

Sikes, Ludlow in Publix Finale

CHICAGO (AP)—Dan Sikes, a lanky law student, and Bob Ludlow, 220-pound physical education instructor, will battle over the 36-hole route for the National Public Links golf crown Saturday.

Sikes, 27, of Jacksonville, Fla., had a comparatively easy time in Friday's double-round semi-finals, outlasting Steve Dore of Portland, Ore., 3 and 2.

But Ludlow, an Indianapolis junior high school gym teacher, was extended to the 36th green before the Memphis mite, Junie Buxbaum, putted himself out of it.

Junie, an auto salesman who won the Publix title in 1956, missed a four-foot putt on the final green and took a bogey 4.

Mrs. Hickson Sets Pace

Mrs. Glen Hickson was a double winner in this week's round of play for the Fairway Golf club. She took low gross and low net over Pontiac Country Club's layout with 41 and 37, sharing the low net with Mrs. Virginia (Robert) Bowles. Twenty-five took part in the round.

trimmed first from 220 and now from 64 — are such outstanding players as defending champ Lloyd Sykes, Lou Wendrow, Fred Turner, Harold Brink and Mike Hill.

The husky Notre Dame grad and Wendrow, the 1946 state champ, felt the same sting. It was applied by Bob Erdelon, whose previous showings on the golf course have been overshadowed by those of his wife.

Erdelon, a 44-year-old Detroit tool grinder, beat Syron 2 and 1 and then measured Wendrow 4 and 3. Erdelon's wife, Millie, holds the club championship at Indianwood.

This is Erdelon's first venture into statewide competition.

Turner, who won the 1952 crown, succumbed to Jackson's

Dr. Bob Corley in the first round. Corley beat Turner 1 up by placing his No. 2 iron shot 18 inches from the cup on the 18th green and getting his birdie putt easily.

Then the slender heart specialist, whose best previous showing in nine trips was a loss in the 1956 final against Johnson, sidelined Velkko Juhola of Clawson, 1 up.

The veteran Brink, who has not missed a State Amateur since 1923, tumbled in a first-round match against Bob Wallace of the host course. Wallace dropped out in a second-round battle against Vic Cuis of Jackson.

Hill got the "shanks" in the second round. The 19-year-old Jackson alumnus, medalist this year after his older brother Dave won the medal the two previous years, needed two extra holes to win his first match.

He downed Jim Briegel of Ann Arbor on the 20th hole, after Briegel took a double bogey on the 18th hole when he apparently had the clash all wrapped up. But in the afternoon match, Hill was not so fortunate — and he was up against another tournament-tested veteran.

Tal Smith, 33-year-old newcomer from Fremont, won eight of the last nine holes and thrashed Hill 5 and 4. Smith won the California State Amateur last year along with the San Francisco City title, and is a previous winner of the California Open.

Besides Syron, Dick DeWitt (Pontiac), Tommy Ahern (Meadowbrook), Bud Badger (Red Run), Tom Shannon Jr. (Orchard Lake)

Roy Smith (Edgewood) bowed out in the opening round. Pete Green (Orchard Lake), Don Cochran (Berkeley) won 1st round matches. Cochran is still in the running.

2ND-ROUND SCORES
Erdelon, D. Wendrow, Leading, 4-3; Marvin Stevens, Detroit, D. John Kiedis, Grand Rapids, 1 up, 19 holes; Draper, D. Perry Sykes, Royal Oak, 3-2; John Mc-

Teeing Off

By BILL CORNWELL

It came as no great surprise that the Birmingham chapter's four-man team and Pete Green in particular "cleaned house" this week in the annual Michigan Jaycee Junior golf tournament.

When the two-day 36-hole event concluded late Wednesday afternoon at Ann Arbor's Barton Hills Country Club, Birmingham had nailed down the team title for the second straight year by a whopping 10-stroke margin.

The sharp-shooting Green won the individual championship with a score of 150, six over par, on rounds of 74 and 76. This total included two out-of-bounds shots on the front nine of his closing round.

Two strokes behind Pete was talented Tommy Grace with a card of 76-76-152. Grace tied Chuck Newton of Ann Arbor for 2nd place and Jackson's Dick Zimmerman came next with 153.

The brilliant efforts of these four boys — Green, Grace, Newton and Zimmerman — earned them the right to represent Michigan in the International Jaycee tourney Aug. 18-24 at Tucson, Ariz.

Birmingham's aggregate of 620 compiled by Green, Grace, lanky Bud Badger and diminutive Gary Shaw marked the 1st time in state Jaycee history that the same chapter bagged the team crown twice. Badger qualified as an alternate for the trip to Tucson.

Green will bear GREEN watching in the years ahead. Just 17 years old, Pete is still maturing as a golfer, yet he consistently shoots in the low and mid 70s.

Only district golfing circles knew Green as a rising young star until last year's State Amateur at Charlevoix. There he received statewide attention by nearly dethroning three-time winner Glenn Johnson.

When Pete acquires that little extra "know-how," which only years of experience can provide, he could well be at the forefront of amateur golf in Michigan. He's tough enough already.

This will be Green's 2nd consecutive journey to the Jaycee International. A year ago he competed at the Ohio State University course in Columbus.

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY

THE CASE OF

THE OPEN DOOR

Sixth of a series

By Donald J. Sobel

Chapman, the stonemason, reached over the electric stove and into a box of kitchen matches. He struck a light against the sole of his shoe and puffed his pipe aglow before calmly answering Inspector Winters.

"How many times do I have to repeat myself? Mrs. Johnson telephoned yesterday and asked me to repair the rear walk. I got there 15 minutes ago and found the back door unlocked."

"Nobody answered the bell, so I let myself in," he went on. "She was lying there, strangled. I called the police right away. Is it my fault nobody saw me enter?"

"Mrs. Johnson's been dead about two hours, inspector," interrupted the coroner. "Will you want me any more?"

"Thanks, no, doc," replied the inspector. To the stonemason he said, "I'm going to have a look at the walk. It better need fixing."

"Why else would I be here?" was the retort.

The inspector stepped from the small house in which the murdered woman, an attractive divorcee, had dwelt alone. He followed the walk from the back door around to the driveway, examining the muddy ground on either side for footprints. There were none.

The heavy rains of the previous night had stopped six hours earlier, yet the walk was still inundated.

"Whoever laid it originally was a rotten workman," the inspector told Haledjian that evening. "The cement was cracking and the flagstones had sunk two inches below ground level. No wonder Mrs. Johnson called someone to repair it."

"You arrested Chapman, I trust?" asked Haledjian. "As soon as I got back into the house!"

HOW HAD THE STONEMASON INCRIMINATED HIMSELF?

It struck a match from it. "Mrs. Johnson's been dead about two hours, inspector," interrupted the coroner. "Will you want me any more?"

Gov. Faubus Seeking Injunction Review

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus is preparing to ask the U.S. Supreme Court to review an injunction which forced him to remove National Guardsmen from Central High School in Little Rock last fall.

Attorneys for Faubus asked the clerk of the Federal Court of Appeals here to prepare a record of the case for that purpose. "We are doing that," said Robert C. Tucker, the court clerk.

The injunction, which prohibits Faubus from interfering with integration at the school, was granted last fall by Federal District Judge Ronald E. Davies. It subsequently was approved by the Court of Appeals, which censured Faubus for actions which, it permitted to stand, the Court said, could lead only to "a complete breakdown of government."

Goes After Big Money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For a little boy, 12-year-old Johnny Crawford will soon be making big money. The 57-inch, 70-pound child actor went to court and obtained approval of a television contract that could pay him $115,000 by 1962, if all his options are picked up.

Shifts Car With Pliers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What earned Valdo Sanchez a 240-day jail sentence — his sixth drunk driving arrest since 1950 — also won him a nod for ingenuity. Police said Sanchez, 36, had no gearshift lever on his car, and was shifting with a pair of pliers. Sanchez didn't have a driver's license, either.

Senate Speeds Bill on Housing

House Gets Measure for $2 Billion, Strongly Opposed by President

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has speeded to the House a $2.475-billion omnibus housing bill in a form strongly opposed by the Eisenhower administration.

The measure, carrying authorizations for a variety of federal housing programs, goes well beyond President Eisenhower's recommendations.

The Senate passed it by voice vote yesterday after swiftly adopting several amendments without discussion. Before the final vote, Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.) said Eisenhower might veto the bill if the House passes it in its present shape. It is uncertain what the House would do with the bill.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), floor manager for the measure, hailed it as a means to help solve housing problems of the elderly, of low and middle income families, of slum dwellers, and of the country's colleges.

Ortonville Rotarians Install New Officers

ORTONVILLE — New officers have been installed by the Ortonville Rotary Club.

They are: Charles F. Sherman, president; Earl Glendinning, vice president; Claude Salter, secretary, and Don Button, treasurer.

Named to other positions were Durand Schultz, vocational service chairman; Clifford Marsh, community service; Glendinning, club service activities; Mike Boutell and Roger Shively, chaplains; Howard T. Burt and Lavern Borst, song leaders; and Arlo Davis, luncheon arrangements.

The club meets each Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Ortonville Hotel.

Appoint Garvin Redman to Council at Marlette

MARLETTE — Garvin Redman, a former councilman, has been appointed to succeed Dr. James Avery on the Marlette Village Council.

Dr. Avery, recently elected treasurer of the Thumb District Dental Society, resigned his council post because he felt his new assignment wouldn't leave him enough time for his council duties.

Your Neighbor's House

They Had Fun Building Their Home

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Remember the radio soap opera, "Betty and Bob"? As we recall this tear jerker, it was a typical serial, with the cast of characters getting into one scrape after another.

Our real life Betty and Bob are happily in a different situation. Formerly Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham, they are the owners of a brand new house. Today's story is "Betty and Bob, the young couple who built a house."

Six years ago the Grahams moved into a small new house on Decker road. A year later Linda joined the family and two and a half years after that Joe made his appearance.

The house was all right; it wasn't exactly too small, but the Grahams had ideas about a bigger home in a suburban area near a lake. They shopped around for lots even bought a nice hilltop one in a subdivision near Farmington. But nothing came of it and they continued to look.

Early in 1958 the Grahams looked at lots in Lakewood Village. Readers will remember that this is a subdivision west of Pontiac, not far from Highland Recreation area. It's an area of made lakes and canals. Lake engineers, starting with Brendel Lake, dug out five miles of winding waterways with bays, coves and inlets.

LOT FOUND

Here the Grahams found the lot they really wanted. Located on Schuyler, it is a sloping lot that varies between 41 and 91 feet in width and from 187 to 214 feet in depth. At the rear is one of the canals. The lot is beautifully wooded.

Deeds were signed and the search for the perfect plan started. As do most people, the Grahams knew what they wanted. They wanted a ranch type with a full basement. After studying a number of stock plans they decided to use a Woodcraft Home. The builders combined features from several sets of plans to put up the Graham house.

In March ground was broken for the basement. Unlike many of our home section subjects, Betty and Bob had no major difficulties in building. Their house went up with amazing speed.

Moving day came the third week in June. Everyone was happy but the dog, Puppa still is not sure that 1057 Schuyler is her home; she liked Decker road.

From the road the house looks one-story. The exterior is light colored brick in varying shades of buff. There is a little wood trim near the top. A two-car garage is at one end of the house. Ledge rock trims the porch area.

With the exception of the kitchen, there are no rooms with northern exposure. The living room-dining room area has both east and west windows. A balcony runs across the back of the house with sliding glass doors opening from both living room and kitchen.

Little Joe's bedroom is the only one without two exposures. All bedrooms have large sliding door closets. Floors throughout the house (except in the kitchen) are natural finished oak. Walls are painted in light colors.

The living room is large, about 16 x 25. Dining space is 10 x 10. The kitchen is like an old-fashioned one — nice and big, purrs Mrs. Graham; it's 11 x 13.

The house has two fireplaces. The one in the living room is brick like the house exterior. It has openings on two sides of the corner and a raised hearth.

COOKING FIREPLACE

In the basement, in what will be a future recreation room, there is the second fireplace. This one is built at waist height which make it just right for indoor cooking. There's a wide stone shelf all around, convenient for dishes and cooking utensils.

The Grahams have days and days of work ahead of them to get both their house and their yard in shape. Mr. Graham is building a suspended dock to use for boating and ice skating. The Grahams have a power boat and a canoe. Mrs. Graham has curtains to finish.

Nothing has been done yet about grass. There is no driveway. But the shade trees are beautiful. There's a picnic table in the back yard where diners can look out over the water.

Background for LIVING

MOVING DAY — "Let's go!" The whole family helps the movers by taking small items and personal belongings from their Decker road house to their Lakewood Village one. The only reluctant individual in the picture is Puppa, the dog. She wanted to stay right where she was. Mr. and Mrs. Graham hope this is the last move they will make for many years to come.

HERE'S OUR PLAN — Poring over plans and trying to decide how they will look translated into actual materials is a time-consuming job. The Grahams used a stock plan of Woodcraft Homes and had some favorite features of several plans incorporated into theirs. They chose ranch style with a full basement.

CHECKING THE SITE — Bob and Betty Graham and their two children, Joe and Linda, go out to the site of their new house with C. E. Schuett, the realtor. It's hard to believe that in a few months they will be living here. The Grahams took advantage of a rather new policy in real estate circles; they traded their old house in as part payment on the new one.

1057 SCHUYLER — Here's the finished house. Looks nice, doesn't it? The exterior is buff brick with a bit of wood trim around the high windows. Some ledge rock trims the area near the front door. Note how much the trees help the looks of the lot, even though landscaping is incomplete.

IN APRIL — This view of the half-finished Graham house was taken in April. The photographer stood across the canal to take his picture. You can see the large windows and entrance door in the basement section. Unstairs, the windows at the left are in the children's bedrooms. The balcony across the living room, dining room and kitchen is already in place, but no steps are built. At this stage the Grahams were making daily "pilgrimages" to their new house.

Nailing Tip. In laying a hard-wood floor, be sure the subfloor is nailed as securely as the finish floor. This prevents squeaking and channels the floor movement in one direction.

When there's brick or masonry below wooden siding, be sure to use a non-chalking paint on the wooden siding to keep the stone-work from being stained by water dripping from the siding.

SCANDINAVIAN INSPIRED — This sturdy home, with special appeal to budget-conscious American families, has the friendly, home-like quality characteristic of Scandinavian architecture. Stone, glass and wood are used prominently throughout.

GOOD TRAFFIC PLAN — A traffic plan unusual for a small home has been achieved in this winning design for the House of the Week series. The living and sleeping areas are shown above. The basement plan, not shown, includes a 28-25 foot recreation room, a corner bar and a utility room. The basement has high, daylight windows, all of which are above grade.

Sturdy Home Inspired by Nordic Architecture

By JOHN O.B. WALLACE

Inspired by the best features of modern Scandinavian architecture, this small, sturdy house should become a popularity winner with budget-conscious American families.

Chosen as design X-14 in the House of the Week series, it reflects the simplicity and sound construction which have made Nordic home styling increasingly esteemed throughout the United States.

Scandinavian design elements fit in well with American living, both in furniture and architectural forms. This compact house, less than 1,300 square feet in size, makes full use of the Nordic's love for clean lines and sturdy, natural materials.

Glass, stone and wood have major roles in home construction throughout Norway, Sweden and

Statistics

There are six rooms, including three bedrooms, plus 1 1/2 baths in design X-14—all in 1,288 square feet. The garage and porch, with a much lower cost rate, total 354 square feet. The overall house dimensions are 35 by 31 feet 6 inches. A 75 by 100 foot lot is recommended.

Denmark, and Architect Alan Wood Fraser has used all three materials to advantage in design X-14.

The glass areas are large, and simple in styling, to provide maximum light and air throughout the house.

Vertical siding and a decorative front fence bring wood prominently into exterior facades.

LIVING AREAS ARE OPEN

Stone is to be found in the random ashlar stone, interspersing the vertical siding, and in the brick chimney and the flagstone-floored rear porch.

Two other elements found in Scandinavian homes were incorporated, too, in this design — the open planning of living areas and the privacy of sleeping areas.

As in most Scandinavian homes, the three bedrooms utilize space to the highest degree. The living areas open into each other for maximum space patterns and therefore tend to offer greater living expanse.

There is an unaffected and home-like quality to Scandinavian architecture and the architect has captured this admirable trait with exterior touches like the white-painted fence, the flower-filled window boxes and the Swedish shutters.

Like many Scandinavian homes, the kitchen here is at the front and the living areas open toward the back. There are front and rear gardens.

As in Nordic homes, design X-14 adapts itself to built-in units, simple furniture, long and low cabinets and unusual and intimate lighting.

The house has the sturdy quality

UNUSUAL TRAFFIC PATTERN

A tour illustrates the expert planning in this design:

The vestibule, with a large coat closet, starts what becomes an unusual traffic pattern for a small home. There is direct access to the kitchen, to a center hall which leads to the bedrooms, and to the living room.

There is direct service from the kitchen to the dining room and the dining room blends into the living room. There is a 21-foot expanse from the front of the living room to the large rear picture window.

There is an even larger expanse, 26 feet, across the rear of the combined dining-living area. Prominent at one side of the living room is a flush fireplace, with a raised hearth and a striped wood fireplace wall.

A door leads from the dining room to the rear porch; at the same point there are stairs to the basement. The garage can be entered from the rear porch and an optional door is located between the garage and the kitchen.

The kitchen has a broken-U shape, among the most popular in kitchen appliance positioning. The dinette alcove at the front of the kitchen has fixed glass picture windows, from floor to ceiling. Adequate counters and storage cupboards complete the kitchen arrangement.

Each of the three bedrooms has two exposures. The master bedroom has three closets and a private lavatory. The family bathroom serves all bedrooms; it also is located for use as a guest lavatory.

Power Saw Blades Need Regular Sharpening

Have the blade of your power saw checked and sharpened regularly by a sharpening expert, advise tool specialists. Dull blades cut power by as much as 50 per cent and burn the work by friction heat. In fact, burn marks or smoke are sure signs of a dangerously dull blade.

Razor Blades Do Job

When redecorating your bathroom, paint sometimes spills on the bathtub, lavatory or toilet. But it can be removed without damaging the fixture. Use a sharp razor blade. Slant the blade to a plane almost even with the fixture. Then run it along the surface. The paint will chip off easily from the fine glass-like surface of the fixture. HOME SECTION

New Door Easily Hung

It takes a lot of skill and years of practice to hang a door properly. There is a door, however, that can be installed in a matter of minutes by the average handyman. It's a prehung panel door of ponderosa pine which comes from the factory already hinged inside a complete frame. The unit is simply fitted into the door opening, shimmed level, and nailed in place. It's then ready for painting or staining.

Desert Shows World How to Build to Keep Cool

New ways to build homes to keep cool with or without air conditioning have been developed in desert areas of the Southwest, reports the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information. Architects and builders in all parts of the country are adopting many features tried and proven in Arizona in particular, the Bureau says. Thick insulated walls, ventilated roofs, unusual extensions of eaves and other novel devices for shading sliding glass walls are among the latest weapons used against the sun in the land where summers are scorchers. Houses kept cool in desert locations without being air-conditioned and sealed against the heat are attracting the most attention. "Concrete masonry is used extensively in the Southwest," the Bureau points out. "Practice has shown that the same insulating value offered by old 16-inch adobe walls of Pueblo construction can be obtained with modern 12-inch cavity walls filled with loose insulation. Thinner, uninsulated masonry walls have been found to absorb, store and radiate too much heat when midday temperatures go to 110 degrees. "The newest houses of the Southwest are almost invariably built on concrete slabs. Floors in all rooms usually are covered with modern resilient materials instead of wood. The stiffness of carpets is now avoided by the use of the new woven tones vinyl-asbestos tile, patterned to simulate the appearance of broadloom. "One of the most interesting shields is the use of heavy canvas draperies on the outdoor side of window walls. These are drawn on traverse rods the same as the decorative indoor draperies they protect. Vertical canvas awnings that operate like window shades also are used on the outside of windows. The famous egg-crate trellises that form shadow boxes over many patios often are equipped with hinged panels that fold back in winter but provide deep shade in summer. The filtering shade of the gardener's lath house also is used for extensions of roof lines over some patios. A cool spot of shade is at a high premium in the desert."

The small ceramic tiles used on a bathroom floor—known as mosaics—are attached to paper, which is pulled off after the tiles have been laid. The tiles then must be cleaned immediately to remove all traces of the adhesive. Since you have a new home, it is possible the installer neglected to clean the tiles properly. Or some of the mortar used between the joints may still be clinging to the tile surfaces. Some hardware stores sell a special solvent or cleaner for ceramic tiles. If you are unable to get it, buy some powdered pumice, mix it with water and, using a clean cloth, rub down the tiles.
Seal Is Weather Tight
Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. has come up with a tape to seal glass to metal, glass to glass and metal to metal to meet the needs of architects in modern curtain-wall building construction. The firm says this black, rubbery tape is easily applied from a roll and provides long-life weather-tight seals which resist wide temperature extremes.

Heat Is Reflected Off Light Color Roof

A light-color roof and a properly ventilated attic can make air conditioning far more comfortable and economical. The light-color roofing—such as a white or pastel roof of asphalt shingles—reflects much of the sun's heat, keeping it outside. In many parts of the country, home owners who have installed air-conditioning systems in their present houses have reroofed with white asphalt shingles because of their heat-reflecting quality, even when their old roofs were in good condition. Many architects who design air-conditioned houses specify white asphalt shingles on the roof as a standard practice. A properly ventilated attic prevents a "build-up" of heat under the roof by letting it escape outside through louvers in the gable ends. Severe weather last winter damaged one out of 12 buildings in the northeastern part of the country, with roofs suffering the greatest damage.

Reed, Redwood Go Together to Form Dividers
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Reed and redwood—that's the room divider combination for a contemporary look. Reed curtains and screens in closely woven meshes or in gracefully looped open designs merely hint at a separation for entries or dining areas. Slim wands of rattan curved into birdcages or shallow baskets hold plants as decorative dividers when suspended from the ceiling on reed chains. Redwood boards, carefully cut for floor to ceiling height, fit into a vertical louvered entry marker in a matter of minutes. Small metal clips with non-slip rubber backing go over the top of each board to hold it snugly angled. Bank the new entry with plants, and the job is done. Inexpensive and easy to work with, both the reed and the redwood can be installed and removed at the homemaker's whim.

A-Frame Cabin — The simplicity and strength of the ancient A-frame design have been adapted to this modern vacation cabin. Relatively easy to build, it's a fine mountain or beach shelter.

A-Frame Shelter Is an A-1 Vacation Cabin

If you're about to take the plunge into a vacation cabin project, you have lots of company. One big reason for the weekend evacuation from the city is that more families are joining the trend toward a second home of one kind or another.

Most check lists for vacation cabin "musts" include the words simplicity, economy, attractive appearance, and good design. This cabin passes the tests easily. It's a holiday home you could probably build yourself, with some professional help in the early stages. The floor plan is highly logical. The kitchen, bath, living room and a small bed space are on the first floor. Two roomy dormitory-type bedrooms are on the floor above. Decks on both levels practically double the usable floor space. There is a total of 700 square feet of living space in the cabin, enough for a week-end beach party or year-around use.

The design of this cabin involves some interesting ideas. The foundations are limited to just nine concrete piers. The shape of the structure is formed by just two frames consisting of heavy steel beams joined at the top by a ridge member.

The roof surface consists of plywood lapped like giant shingles, eliminating all conventional additional roof surfacing.

Materials to build this cabin, exclusive of white, painting, and fixtures, cost about $2,500 in the Northwest. This cost would be approximately $2,000 in the east.

The cabin was designed by Dr. David Heller, and is one of a series of holiday homes covered in a new catalog of cabin plans. The twelve page catalog may be obtained free by writing Douglas Fir Plywood Association in Tacoma 2, Washington.

Complete working drawings for the Heller cabin are available by sending 25 cents to the same address.

Proper Saw Blades Will Cut Any Material

The home handyman with a portable electric saw can cut almost any substance used in home repair work including wood, metal, stone, concrete and tile, but he needs a saw engineered and powered to do the work and three basic blades for wood cutting, an aluminum oxide abrasive disc for cutting metal and a silicone carbide abrasive disc for cutting masonry and related materials.

Green, White Leading Colors

Green and white were the favorite roofing colors for homes in the U. S. during 1967, a recently completed survey shows.

The survey, conducted by the Asphalt Roofing Industry Bureau, revealed that of all asphalt shingles shipped in the first nine months of 1967, 51 per cent were green or blended green. White was in second place with 26 per cent of asphalt shingles shipped.

The study shows a slight decline in popularity for green, which led the color field in 1966 with 53 per cent of shipments. White, on the other hand, gained from 18 per cent in 1966 to 1967's 26 per cent.

Regional color preferences in asphalt shingles, the survey shows, were:

Northeast—White was the favorite with 29 per cent of shipments. Black was second, and green third.

Southeast—White led in 1967 with 38 per cent, followed by green, red, blue and gray. In that order.

Southwest—While led in 1967 with 37 per cent, green was second in popularity, and gray was third.

Pacific Coast—Green and gray were equally popular as the preferred asphalt shingle roofing color for 1967, but the survey showed white making substantial gains.

Home color experts agree that the roof color is usually the most important color on the exterior of a home, since the roof generally is the largest expanse visible.

In the front line of steel fasteners are chains around the windows and window panes and cracks and open joints in walls. An easy and inexpensive way to effect an important saving in fuel is to fill these openings with putty or glassing or caulking compound, depending on the kind of opening.

With window glass, use putty and caulking compound, supplying either with a gun, collapsible tube or with a putty knife.

Extends Life and Looks

Long research in the science of treating steel prior to application of coatings helps extend the life of the modern gas water heater and assures better looks during its long life. On the inside, this treatment of the steel for the tank means a smooth, permanently-bonded coating of glass or other corrosion-resistant material. On the outer tank jacket, the treatment is to assure enamel adherence and unchanging good looks.

Fix House, Keep Industry Going

While economists urge us to spend our way out of the recession, millions of do-it-yourself enthusiasts have been keeping the wheels of industry turning by completing projects that enhance both the appearance and value of their property.

For the man (or woman) of the house who wants to do his or her do-it-yourself bit, Sheldon Cady, a home improvement specialist at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division, recommends three projects which require only the ability to use a hammer and saw. The projects are:

1. Insulating an attic floor or ceiling with rock wool batts to provide more efficient heating and cooling during winter and summer.

2. Putting up a ceiling of attractive, sound-deadening insulating tiles in the children's playroom or den.

3. Covering a patio or enclosing a carport with colorful translucent plastic panels.

Cady points out that hammers, saws and all necessary tools are usually on hand. All materials required are available at local building and lumber dealers. For more advanced do-it-yourselfers he recommends:

1. Finishing a basement or attic with insulation wallboard, floor tiles and ceiling tiles.

2. Covering fading or warped siding with asbestos cement shingles to improve a home's outward appearance.

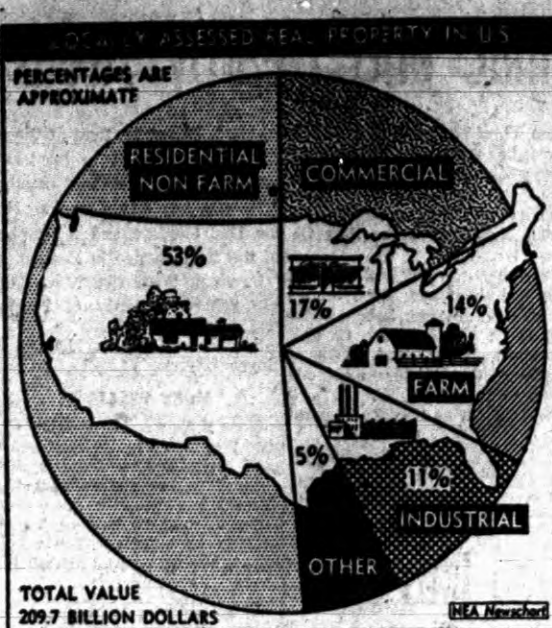

All in all, Cady says, you don't have to be an economist or a building specialist to do something "constructive" for your country or your home this summer.

Give Kids Own Shower

If the younger members of your family enjoy their daily ablutions in the form of a shower, try installing a child-sized shower head. This can be done by tapping into the regular shower standpipe about half way from the top and putting in a cut-off valve at the top shower head. If it's a shower stall, the floor should be surfaced with unglazed, slip-proof ceramic tile. It's a good idea, too, to have a ceramic grab bar installed about three to four feet from the floor.

Ventilate Dead Space

Installation of air vents in attics and crawl spaces under homes is essential in preventing moisture accumulation, the West Coast Lumbermen's Association advises. When there has been paint failure in a home, they suggest that the reason might be inadequate ventilation not allowing moisture to escape.

LAND OF HOMES — As Newschart shows, more than half of this nation's property wealth is represented by residences, single and multiple. Latest figures (1956) put the value of all locally assessed real property in the country at nearly 210 billion dollars. This is tax value, and is generally lower than market value. It represents three-fourths of all taxable property — locally assessed personal property accounted for an additional 17 per cent; the remainder was state assessed property. Data from the National Industrial Conference Board.

Kitchen, Bath Are First

The two areas of the home that receive most attention from homeowners when they plan improvements are the kitchen and the bathroom. It's estimated that approximately two million homeowners either added a room or finished a basement or attic last year.

Create wall space for your TV set by placing a screen behind it. Try this idea in an archway between living and dining areas, or living room and hall.

Morris Chair Makes Strong Comeback

A new trend that should fascinate consumers who like the unusual twist has come alive in the furniture industry. Furniture pieces, long since gone out of style and virtually forgotten, are making a comeback.

The Morris chair, for example. Invented in the early 20th Century by William Morris, an English artist and designer, it soon became an indispensable chair in American and European parlors and living rooms. The back could be lowered, through a series of metal slots, to a comfortable position for grandfather's afternoon siesta. Tapestry back and seat cushions added to comfort and golden oak arms and legs supplied the decorative touch.

Now, the Seng Company, manufacturer of furniture devices, has taken the first step toward restoring the Morris chair—in a thoroughly modern spirit. It is introducing at summer furniture markets around the country a new version of this longtime favorite.

By autumn, furniture makers throughout the United States, will be marketing their own stylings of contemporary chairs with all the comforts and none of the awkwardness of the original Morris chair. Danish and Swedish modern, as well as contemporary American designs, are going to be favored, and natural or synthetic upholstering material, in modern colors and patterns, will be used widely.

Lamps on Wall Solve Problem in Difficult Area

Davenport located between doorways, passages or windows often present a problem when it comes to choosing lamps.

General Electric lighting specialists recommend that a pair of wall lamps, carefully selected and placed to give maximum light be used.

Wall lamps save precious floor space in small rooms.

Choose lamps with at least an eight-inch diffusing bowl and a shade with a bottom diameter of 12 inches. Bulbs in lamps with diffusing bowls should be 50-100-150-watt three-life or 150-watt inside frosted.

Another good choice is one of the lamps with a 150-watt white indirect light bulb that requires no diffusing bowl because of its special shape and finish.

Hang the lamp so that the lower edge of the shade is 48 inches above the floor. Place your chair so that the center of your back is 26 inches out from lamp socket and 15 inches to the right or left.

USES
Auto-Clave CURING

The Best Method of Curing Blocks Known Today!

...and here's why an AUTOCLAVED BLOCK is a superior block! They have been subjected to 350° steam at 100% humidity under 150 P.S.I. This produces a superior lightweight block which is stronger permanently. It stabilizes the strength of the block and reduces shrinkage and expansion... eliminating cracked walls. Remember, Boice is the only place in Oakland County that gives you a high pressure steam cured Beesite, cinder or concrete blocks.
