

Tankers Collide in Thick Fog; 15 Die in Fire

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—Two tankers, one loaded with a million gallons of gasoline, crashed in flames in thick fog today, killing at least 15 men and injuring 36.

A huge Navy firefighting force still battled the wild flames hours later. Six fire-blackened bodies were taken to a funeral home. Newport police reported that there were nine bodies on the flame-swept tanker Gulfoll.

Navy and Coast Guard craft, and helicopters, searched the waters for additional survivors.

The dead included Capt. Montreville Eden, skipper

By MELVIN J. WOOTEN
Ship Engineer
As Told To UPI

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—It was like a stick of dynamite. It was awful and it was beautiful and, oh, my God, I lived through it.

I'm the engineer. I was in the engine room of the S.S. Graham. We had one million gallons of gasoline aboard. An oiler, Milton Barryclough of Chester, Pa., was with me.

FELT JOLT
All of a sudden I felt a jolt. It wasn't a bad jolt. Like a ship hitting the dock when it's coming into port.

But then our Capt. Carl Anderson sounded the general alarm from the bridge. We'd been hit.

I looked at Barryclough and he looked at me. Then it was like hell on earth. Burning gasoline began pouring into the three portholes.

I told Barryclough to go and he got out of there.

I ran to the portholes and shut them. But a whole lot of gasoline had gotten into the engine room.

I thought, "We might save the ship. That empty tanker that hit us was like a stick of dynamite. It just had fuses in it. But that was enough."

I stood there by the controls of my wonderful dying ship. I cried. And then I stopped. I had to get out of there.

ALARM RINGS
Capt. Anderson kept ringing the alarm and I ran up to the deck. Fire was all around. There was only one place, off starboard, that wasn't burning.

The whole pack of us, and there were 12 of us aboard, jumped into the water. The lifeboats were burning like match boxes.

Capt. Anderson said to jump and everyone did. Then he jumped and then I did. I swam as fast as I could. The captain and I were heading out to sea. We had to escape that burning gasoline.

I looked over my shoulder and there was Capt. Anderson going back to assist the cook, Biggie, or maybe he was going to help Seaman George Chadwick.

That was the last I saw of the captain.

After about 20 minutes the greatest little ship in the whole ocean, the Rhode Island, picked us up. I got on deck and then it sounded. Boom!

It was one of the ships going boom. It was like watching my home go boom.

I sat down on the deck of the Rhode Island and just shook. There was nothing else to do.

President Eisenhower sent Murphy to the Middle East on the heels of the U.S. landing in Lebanon to help work out a political settlement among the Lebanese and to survey the U.S. position in the area.

The American diplomat flew to day to Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, and goes to Greece tomorrow.

"I feel personally I now have a much better appreciation and understanding of the problems here," Murphy said. "It was a very satisfactory evening."

Asked by Egyptian reporters his opinion of Nasser, Murphy replied, "I have a very high estimate of his ability and knowledge. I have a very satisfactory appreciation of him."

McClellan Asks Perjury Study by Justice Dept.

Says Hoffa Testimony Contradicts Statements by Former Boxer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chairman John L. McClellan called today for a Justice Department investigation of possible perjury in Teamster President James R. Hoffa's testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee.

The Arkansas Democrat said conflicts between Hoffa's testimony last fall and the sworn statements of former heavyweight boxer Embrel Davidson made necessary an investigation "to determine who perjured himself."

"Definitely, such conflicts could hardly be any misunderstanding," McClellan said.

He also observed that the records appeared to back up the story Davidson gave the Committee today.

"Either Davidson perjured himself, or Hoffa was not telling the truth when he testified before," McClellan said.

Committee members meanwhile called for the center as a Teamster vice president of Owen Bert Brennan who invoked the Fifth Amendment to avoid answering questions about his use of union money and about testimony linking him with gangsters.

The Committee heard testimony that Brennan made telephone calls to underworld characters who attended the Apalachin, N. Y., "crime convention" last November. The Justice Department has launched a crackdown against racketeers present at the Apalachin conference.

Davidson, who had been billed as a mystery witness, told the Committee he received $75 a week from the Teamster welfare fund while working for Brennan, who was his manager.

McClellan said the former Detroit Negro boxer received about $8,000 in three years. He said the Teamster monitors should try to get the money back for the welfare fund.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) went further. He said the court-appointed monitors should oust Brennan because of his use of the Fifth Amendment and "his association with gangsters and criminals."

Brennan invoked the Fifth Amendment 15 times today when asked to explain the Davidson testimony and claims that he had associated with known racketeers while managing the fighter.

Davidson's testimony directly contradicted sworn testimony by Hoffa last year that the prizefighter (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Burning 'House' at Fair Tonight See Quick Approval of Mideast Session

To Show Fire Control, Methods of Prevention in Demonstration

Thrills and some chills will be in store for tonight's visitors to the 18th Annual Oakland County 4-H Fair.

Beginning at 9:30 p.m., during a fire safety demonstration, a house will be put to flames.

Under the direction of Kenneth Goodell, General Motors Corporation's director of fire safety, Detroit, the house, which is actually made of wooden boxes, will be constructed today at the fairground and set afire tonight.

Purpose of the demonstration is to show methods of fire prevention and control. Members of the Pontiac Fire department will be on hand to extinguish the flaming building.

The demonstration will also include the setting of six other types of fires and extinguishing them with different methods.

Also on tonight's agenda at 7:35 p.m. will be the Junior Dairy Showmanship judging and awards; at 8:15 p.m., a talent show featuring the Milford 4-H Club square dancers and at 8:30 p.m., the senior dairy showmanship awards.

Who will catch the greasy pig is the question of the day. Beginning at 9:15 p.m., youngsters will begin the annual pig scramble contest.

More than 1,800 attended the second day of the fair yesterday bringing the total attendance to date to 3,300.

The East Orion 4-H Club walked off with the first prize in the float contest between nine clubs. Second place went to the Bloomfield 4-H Club and the Newark Busters took the third spot.

Larry Middleton, 16, a member of the East Orion club, won the plowing contest and the best tractor operator was Paul Norland, 17, of Bloomfield 4-H.

First-place winners of the demonstration contest last night were: Rose and Judy Cuduhovsky of Lake Orion; Lucille Seibert of Pontiac; Cordree Heard of Milford; Patty Barad of Lake Orion; And Lewis of Orionville, Cliff Rich of Bloomfield Township and Ralph Hoxie, Bloomfield Township.

Tomorrow's program includes the hog, sheep and beef judging at 9 a.m. and beef showmanship judging at 1 p.m.

LONDON (UPI)—Asked why he slept on a bed of newspapers surrounded by 600 empty milk bottles in a rooming house, Ronald Baker, 25, told a magistrate yesterday: "I fancied it."

From Our News Wires

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Western diplomats predicted the U.N. Security Council would act quickly today to set up an emergency session of the General Assembly on the Middle East beginning tomorrow. Indications were the session would be on U.S. terms.

The Council, summoned by Russia, was scheduled to meet in the modernistic U.N. headquarters overlooking the East River this afternoon.

It had two resolutions to consider, one by the United States and the other by Soviet Russia, both calling for an emergency convocation of the 51-member Assembly.

The U. S. resolution will be taken up first and appeared certain to be approved by the 11-member Security Council. The Russian resolution was as certain to be rejected. There can be no veto on the vote.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev dumped the Middle East issue into the lap of the U. N. General Assembly in a sudden shift of tactics, apparently a result of his talks with Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-Tung in Peking last week.

In so doing, Khrushchev rejected Anglo-American proposals for a summit meeting within the Council which he denounced as a tool of the United States.

British Prime Minister Macmillan today sent off a new note to Moscow rapping Premier Khrushchev for rejecting Western plans to tackle the Middle East crisis at a U. N. summit conference.

Government sources described Macmillan as bitterly disappointed. He had hoped a summit-level session of the Security Council would produce a formula to permit British forces to quit Jordan and leave that country's frontiers under international guarantees.

Flame-Seared Teamster Fails to End Silence

Last Desperate Attempt to Talk Was Foiled by His Weakness

Teamster Frank H. Kierdorf, who police believe was the victim of his own union foul play, died at 12:35 p.m. today, as investigators questioned the chauffeur who was last seen with Kierdorf's uncle before he dropped from sight Monday.

Frank Kierdorf, who fought a losing battle for his 56 years of life since Monday, died with the secret of whether he accidentally self-imposed his ultimate death, sealed within his fire-blackened lips.

In the room when he died were Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor, Detectives James F. Bale, and Orville Johnston of the Pontiac police, and two nurses.

Kierdorf's wife, Jessie, and their son, Frank Jr., a 30-year-old Detroit milkman, were just outside the room when he died in his third floor room at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Taylor said Kierdorf made a desperate but futile last-minute effort to "tell us something." "He raised his arm to indicate he wanted to speak but was too weak to do so," Taylor said.

Earlier this morning, Kierdorf, Flint Teamsters Local 323 business agent, used this same signal to answer a nurse's question whether he wanted to see a priest. Records show him to be a Protestant.

Fr. Edwin A. Schroeder, hospital chaplain, responded and administered the last rites of the Catholic Church.

At the Oakland County office of Prosecutor, Fred Ziem, questioning of Pontiac area Teamsters Union officers was suspended shortly before noon so the driver could be quizzed.

Michigan Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams has definitely linked Herman Kierdorf, Madison Heights ex-convict and barker at Senate Rackets Committee questions, with the mysterious burning and death of his nephew.

A high source in the three-county investigation of the Kierdorf "human torch" burning confirmed that this latest questioning "would get top attention for awhile."

He would not identify the chauffeur, but it was learned that his name was either Dan or Don Keller. The source said it was he that drove Herman Kierdorf away from the Pontiac police station around 4:30 Monday afternoon.

Another key witness being held in protective custody by police is an unidentified man who witnessed the bombing of a Flint dry cleaning store Sunday night.

Investigators now believe that Frank Kierdorf, who, like his uncle, was an ex-convict and invoker of the Fifth Amendment, was involved in the bombing of this store.

The unidentified witness who police held in protective custody at a undisclosed spot, told investigators how he heard the explosion, saw two men running from the building, "and heard the anguished screams of a third man inside."

Adams ordered into the Kierdorf case by Gov. Williams, made a hurried trip to Flint last night to personally question the witness, who earlier had (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

It was the second major cloudburst in the area in 13 months. On the morning of July 3, 1957, about seven inches of rain fell in a four-hour period.

Basement flooding was widespread but the northwest section of Detroit seemed to be hardest hit with 4 1/2 feet of water accumulating in many cellars.

The temperature stood at 83 degrees before the storm but plunged to 68 within an hour.

More Rain, Cool Air Tonight, Tomorrow

The 90 degree temperature around 2 p.m. yesterday dropped 20 degrees in little more than an hour during the thunderstorm which brought a downpour of three-tenths of an inch of rain to the Pontiac area.

More showers are forecast for tonight and tomorrow with little change in temperature. The weatherman promises a low tonight of 62-66.

Tomorrow's high is expected to be near 86-90 and the low tomorrow night around 65 with a few showers.

Sixty-five was the lowest reading in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The thermometer registered 82 at 2 p.m.

Pleads Innocent of Love-Slaying

Divorce at Hearing, Bound Over to Jury for Murder Trial

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Connie Nicholas was taken from General Hospital to court today to plead innocent to a charge of murdering her straying, married lover a week ago.

Judge Virgil Norris bound her over to the Marion County grand jury on a newly filed murder affidavit in the 15-minute hearing in Municipal Court.

A policeman and a nurse helped the 42-year-old rejected divorcee up the 26 steps to the identification bureau for fingerprinting and photographing before the court hearing.

Her right arm was in a sling, her right eye was bandaged, and there was a scab on the right side of her upper lip.

She had told police she suffered the injuries in a violent argument with drug executive Forrest Teel, 54, after he emerged from his new girl friend's apartment.

When a reporter asked her how she felt, she replied: "See my doctor."

"I've told you not to talk to anyone," her lawyer, Frank A. Symmes said.

Symmes said she was glad that police released unnamed letters found in her apartment, indicating she had planned suicide as long as four weeks before the shooting. She lay in a coma 60 hours last week after swallowing 75 sleeping capsules.

The lawyer said Mrs. Nicholas believes the letters strengthen her case.

aground about 1,000 yards from Rose Island. Gulfoll was grounded off Port Adams.

Visibility improved as the morning wore.

Helicopters joined the search for the missing men. Additional cutters steamed in to lend a hand.

Lt. Cmdr. Richard Ashman, duty officer at the Newport naval base, said survivors were fire blackened.

One rescuer climbed an anchor chain to board the Gulfoll, then lower a badly burned crewman to a rescue ship.

"Other Gulfoll survivors," Ashman said, "jumped into the water and swam ashore where they were met by firemen and police. A steady stream of fire-blackened survivors was brought to the Port Adams dock."

A marine board has been appointed to investigate the crash. At midmorning Navy firemen, some of them wearing asbestos suits, got a tow line aboard the S. E. Graham and pulled her off Rose Island.

Black smoke billowed from all parts of the ship, and gasoline burned on the water about her.

Fife Navy salvage tugs poured tons of water and foam into her. At times belching flames replaced the smoke.

A helicopter was sent to Boston to get 300 pounds of dry chemicals to aid in battling the flames aboard the Graham.

Heat of the flames could be felt 100 yards away, and the Coast Guard warned small craft away from the scene. The Graham was listing.

Gulfoll is owned by the Gulf Oil Refining Co. and S. E. Graham by the Graham Co. of Philadelphia.

voluntarily told his story to Fort Huron police.

The witness told this account to Adams:

"I was driving by when I saw what looked like a small fire. When I had pulled over to the curb, the thing let go with a tremendous flame as high as the trees."

Kierdorf stumbled into the hospital around 1 a.m. Monday morning. Burns covered 85 per cent of his body.

After refusing for hours to reveal his identity or tell authorities how he was burned, Kierdorf's uncle Herman, 65, persuaded his nephew to talk.

But Adams, Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem and other investigators found so many loopholes in his story they have all but discounted it.

Kierdorf, who lived at 613 W. Stewart St., told Monday how he went with two men to talk about union "organizing," was forced from their car at gunpoint and then doused with some inflammable liquid and ignited.

Police from this area, Detroit and Flint had been led to believe that he was burned inside a building instead of in an open field as Kierdorf said.

This building may have been the Latrelle Dry Cleaners, a small one-story frame building at 4006 Davison Rd., Flint. An explosion around the time Kierdorf said he left his home with the two men caused a $10,000 fire at the cleaners.

After learning of the explosion, Adams yesterday and today put more stress on a link between Kierdorf's burning and the fire.

The appearance of the bystander to the explosion strengthened further that Kierdorf was "covering up" in telling his story.

Herman Kierdorf, of 2908 Spoon St., was last seen at this Madison Heights address Monday evening. He hasn't been seen since.

SUSPECT UNCLE
Adams said investigators "have a strong suspicion that he is a very good suspect. That is," Adams said, "we very strongly think he may have been one of the men who drove the victim away from the scene."

"This definitely is no torture deal. It was strictly a torching at the Latrelle Cleaners and we have at the State Police post a can that we believe contained gasoline. The fire was definitely started by an explosion," Adams said.

Although he declined to mention any possible motives for the bombing of the store, sources close to the investigation have felt for several days that Kierdorf might have fallen victim of his own "foul play."

Soon after Adams, Ziem and other investigators visited Kierdorf yesterday noon, the attorney general announced he would quiz Pontiac area Teamsters union officers.

He said the reason for this was that Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 was "a companion local" to Kierdorf's Local 332 in Flint. Kierdorf had been a business agent there since 1931.

TO QUIZ TEAMSTERS
A similar interrogation of Local 332 officials would be carried on at the same time, Adams said, by Genesee County Prosecutor Jerome F. O'Rourke and Flint city and State Police detectives.

Called before Adams in Ziem's office yesterday were Louis C. Lin-teau, former secretary-treasurer of Local 614 who served a prison term for shaking down trucking contractors, and Frank Orsini, a 614 trustee appointed by Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

Questioning Teamsters officers in Pontiac and Flint came after Adams declared, "this seems to be a Hoffa type of unionism."

Also quizzed here was Robert L. Bordwell, financial secretary of Pontiac Local 794 of the Hotel, Restaurant Employees & Bartenders Union. No reason was given for questioning Bordwell.

Nor would Adams or others tell what they learned from talking to the three. "We got no new leads," Adams told reporters at a 7 p.m. press conference.

HALT QUESTIONING
The questioning of these officials was not going on this morning, presumably because of the new lead from the Flint explosion.

It was believed for awhile yesterday that Kierdorf, with a tube in his throat to make his breathing easier, might have mentioned a connection with his burning and the Pontiac local.

When asked about this possibility, Adams said he'd "rather not answer that one."

Those that have questioned Kierdorf in his police guarded third floor room have continually refused to disclose what Kierdorf might be telling them, if anything.

Around 3 p.m. yesterday, Kierdorf asked a visiting Baptist minister from Flint and a member of his parish to "leave me alone."

Robert Waddle, the minister, and James Rainey had asked a hospital authority if they could visit Kierdorf "in order to turn him to God and save his soul."

Police were called to the hospital to check their credentials and accompany them into Kierdorf's room.

It was also disclosed yesterday that a reported investigator for Hoffa's headquarters in Detroit had requested permission to visit Kierdorf.

He was given that permission but never showed up after Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor stipulated he would have to be in the room during the visit.

George A. Latrelle, owner of the explosion-damaged cleaning establishment, was also on the list of people questioned yesterday afternoon. Adams said that Latrelle denied even knowing Kierdorf or having any business at all with the Teamsters Union.

Later Latrelle told newsmen he had been "contacted" several years ago by union men about the possibility of organizing his workers, but nothing ever came of it.

Latrelle said his employees are not organized and that he has not had any trouble. He did not identify which union had sought to organize the employees.

The destruction of his store, Adams said, in a early morning press conference in Flint, looks either like "Teamster business or one of Kierdorf's sideline jobs."

"We are checking many angles in the case, mainly to determine if Kierdorf had been assigned by the union to destroy the cleaners," he added.

"We feel that the field is beginning to narrow down because of the information that we are receiving," Adams stated.

Following another press conference shortly before noon, he said some of the information "was coming in part from what 614 members have to say."

Questioned this morning were Donald Stone, 31-year-old trustee, of 2569 Hallman, Waterford Township, and Alvy Bush, 34, of 300 Plumstead, Waterford Township.

Meanwhile, another mystery is the whereabouts of the uncle, against whom Ziem issued a warrant Tuesday for having a gun with a silencer.

The gun, silencer, and two telephone phones were turned over to Madison Heights police Monday by a neighbor of the uncle's son after he learned of his nephew's burning.

EXAMINE GUNS

The gun, a German Luger, and another .38 pistol also given to the neighbor, are being examined at the East Lansing State Police laboratory to see if they might have been used in other unsolved crimes.

Adams said an interstate alarm is out for Herman Kierdorf. His report of a death threat Monday morning was "dramed up, all rehearsed and carefully planned," the state official concluded today.

In an attempt to see whether Kierdorf would change his story when confronted with the many discrepancies in it, Adams led the team of investigators to talk to him.

"He had a very clear understanding of what was being asked him," Adams said. "But he absolutely refused to cooperate in any way."

Because he was in a state which doctors called "morose stupor," Kierdorf was told to answer questions by opening and shutting his eyes or raising and lowering his hand.

Goldfine Letters Called 'Typical'

Congressmen Say Plea for Special Favor to Go Unheeded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House investigators today called millionaire Bernard Goldfine's "true facts" letters to nearly 400 Congressmen a "typical Goldfine" play for special treatment.

But they voiced confidence it won't have any effect when the House decides whether to cite Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams' gift-giving friend for contempt of Congress. They predicted overwhelming approval of the contempt citation.

Speaker Sam Rayburn said the House probably would vote tomorrow on the citation — already approved unanimously by both the House influence-investigating subcommittee and its parent Commerce Committee.

If the House also approves, Goldfine would face almost certain prosecution in a federal district court. If convicted he could be sentenced to a maximum of one year in prison and fined $1,000.

The Boston textile tycoon, who lavished Vicuna coats and other gifts on public officials, sent identical letters yesterday to all House members except members of the Commerce Committee. It outlined what a spokesman for Goldfine called the "true facts" about Goldfine's testimony before the influence subcommittee.

Fear Fall From Boat Fatal to Holland Man

SAUGATUCK (UPI) — State Police skindivers and dragging crews today sought the body of Harold F. Jesiek, 45, Holland, believed drowned about midnight when he fell from a boat at the mouth of the Kalamazoo River.

Jesiek, the co-owner of a Holland shipyard, was aboard a 38-foot converted coast guard pickup boat en route back to Holland when the accident occurred.

Ken Williams of Ludington, operator of the boat, said Jesiek was sitting on the edge of the boat when he fell overboard.

School Census Reveals Classrooms Crowded

BIRMINGHAM — There will be no problem of filling seats in Birmingham schools for some time, according to the district school census just completed. The census revealed there are 1,389 more school-age children in the school district than in 1937. This brought the total to 14,820.

In addition, there are 5,800 pre-school children, the census showed, an increase of 401 over last year.

Parochial schools account for 1,781 of total school attendance; private schools, 493 and public schools in other districts, 52.

All schools will be filled to capacity this fall, with little room for additional pupils should Birmingham have a sudden increase in new families.

Of the elementary schools, Greenfield has top registration with 2,153 enrolled.

No new schools will open this fall, but school officials expect work to be started on the junior-senior high school at 13-Mile and Evergreen roads within a few weeks.

Subject to approval of the architects, preparation of the grounds for the new school will be made by the E. N. Cole Construction Co. of Detroit. The firm's bid of $263,902 was lowest of the nine received.

Grading, drain installations, landscaping, laying out of athletic fields, paving, sidewalks and fencing will be done prior to construction of the building.

Except for interruption of telephone service, the Birmingham area escaped the worst of yesterday's storm, which brought the first big rain since mid-July.

Albert Warner, Michigan Bell manager in Birmingham, said crews worked all night drying wet cables to restore service to some 200 subscribers.

They expected to have all lines back in service by noon today.

Safety in Neutralism Theory Shaken

Swiss Will Realign Defense

By ANDREAS GREGORIADES

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—A generation or two ago, most Swiss lived with a feeling of security born out of their faith in the inviolability of their country's neutrality.

They were also convinced that Switzerland's armed forces, equipped with the best weapons money could buy—Swiss neutrality is traditionally an armed neutrality—were capable of repelling any attackers.

The Swiss army, citizens' militia comprising every able-bodied man in the country, was among the world's best. Every man kept his ammunition, rifle and uniform at home. Few other nations, if any, could call as many well-trained and well-equipped men to arms within short notice.

To this feeling of security came the knowledge that none of the powers surrounding the small Alpine democracy would allow another neighboring nation to invade Switzerland.

But, now, even heavy spending on the conventional equipment for the Swiss army—42 per cent of the 1957 federal budget of 2,238 million francs ($228.5 million dollars) and 35.1 per cent of the budget on the average over the past 10 years—has failed to restore this feeling of security of a generation or two ago.

As long as wars were fought with conventional weapons alone, Switzerland had nothing to fear. But some countries have started replacing or supplementing their conventional weapons with the arms of the nuclear age.

To the Swiss, this means that the potential threat to that security, formerly restricted to their country's neighbors, has been extended to include countries hundreds of miles away.

As if to remind them of this threat, the government reported more than 20 violations of Swiss air space in 1957.

Reluctantly, the Swiss have started using mock atom bombs in their military maneuvers. Civil defense units have had their share of "be prepared exercises" when "unidentified attackers" dropped "nuclear bombs" on Switzerland's major cities in mock air-raids.

Recently, the Swiss government announced that it had decided in principle to equip the country's armed forces with nuclear weapons.

It said it had instructed the military to "study further the questions pertaining to the introduction of atomic arms in our army."

It maintained it was "in accordance with our centuries-old tradition of defense" to give the Swiss army "the most effective weapons including atomic weapons to maintain our independence and to protect our neutrality."

Swiss Foreign Minister Dr. Max Petitpierre made it even clearer in a speech a few days later when he said:

"We hope for an agreement among the great powers to eliminate the risk of an atom war. But as long as this aim is not achieved we must be prepared for the possibility that the use of tactical nuclear arms becomes general and that one day such weapons could be employed against us."

Carry Telephone Talk on Infrared Beams

WASHINGTON—An infrared-ray device has been developed to be used instead of radar in locating airplanes. The system is said to be nonjammable because it operates on heat generated by the object it is tracking. It also can be used in telephone communication between ships or vehicles without danger of enemy interception. It has a range of five miles or more.

Plant to Make Only Imperials

Chrysler Takes Step to Keep Model Apart From Other Products

DETROIT — Chrysler Corp. today announced another step toward making its Imperial a car completely separate from its other models.

It will open a renovated plant Aug. 11 that will be used exclusively for the production of Imperials.

Previously the Imperial was turned out in Chrysler's East Jefferson plant along with Chryslers. The Imperial plant will be located in Dearborn outside Detroit.

The Imperial, first produced in 1924, got a separate styling treatment in 1935. This year's models were the first that had no parts interchangeable with Chrysler.

The Dearborn plant, formerly used by Chrysler for the manufacture of other automobiles, is tooled to turn out Imperial, Imperial Crown and Imperial LeBaron autos at the rate of 27 an hour, according to C. E. Briggs, general manager of the Imperial division.

The single-story building has one million square feet of floor space.

Death Takes Former St. Joseph Chaplain

A native of Coblenz, Germany, Father Leukert studied for the priesthood at the University of Louvain in Belgium and was ordained July 12, 1903.

He was assigned to the Detroit archdiocese in 1922 and served until 1945 as chaplain at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital where he lived.

Father Leukert's body was taken from the Melvin A. Schutt Funeral Home this afternoon to St. Vincent de Paul Church where the Office of the Dead will be sung at 10:30 a.m. Friday. Solemn Requiem Mass will be sung at 11 a.m. with burial following in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

New Magazine Interests Elders

Founder Is 79, Former Newspaperman; Tells of People Over 65

QUAKERTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — A new slick-paper monthly magazine for oldsters called "65" is being published here by a 79-year-old former newspaperman who believes "old people are being ignored, but they're fascinating."

The publisher, Henry L. Sreking, also is the founder of The Bucks County Traveler, a highly respected monthly which tub-thumps for the county's many attractions. Sreking said he got the idea for the magazine four years ago when he sponsored Quakertown's first annual "Oldtimers Day." Some 3,500 persons 65 years old or more from all over the country came to the outing.

To get mention in the magazine, a person must be over 65.

One of them concerned Sam Hoffman Davis, an 88-year-old retired businessman who is now a successful painter of primitives in Daytona Beach, Fla. Another was about Dr. George F. Pottenger, 90-year-old Hamburg, Pa., physician who is still practicing after 67 years.

Dr. Pottenger, who says he has delivered more than 2,000 babies, has stopped the obstetrics part of his practice because "too many babies are born in the middle of the night."

Then there was the story about an 85-year-old retired automobile mechanic who drives 25 miles every weekend to court his 66-year-old sweetheart. The mechanic, James Dorney of Westerville, Pa., quit work two years ago.

The second issue of the magazine will feature a story of this year's "Oldtimers Day" outing written by 96-year-old Britain Roth, a columnist with the Allentown, Pa. Chronicle.

Fate Twists Dad's Words, His Son Dies

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Flores R. Torres, 10, asked his father for permission to skip lunch yesterday and buy ice cream instead.

His father reproved him gently. But the boy, who had just recovered from a kidney ailment, was a favorite, and the older Torres gave in grudgingly.

"This is the last dime I'm going to give you for ice cream," he said.

Flores, knowing that his father was not serious, rode off happily on his bike.

Twenty minutes later he was dead, crushed under the rear wheels of a tractor-trailer.

Police who found the boy said he still had the dime clutched tightly in his hand.

Foresters Import Flies to Attack Balsam Aphid

PORTLAND, Ore. — Foresters are using foreign relations to fight the balsam woolly aphid, which infests some 600,000 acres of timberland in the Northwest. The aphid kills the trees by attacking their stems and buds. The foresters have found that they can start a very effective counterattack by losing swarms of tiny aphid-eating flies imported from Czechoslovakia in the timberlands.

Primary Results Will Bring an Exciting Fall

Tuesday's primary mostly ran true to form.

The most unhappy feature of the whole event was the exceedingly light vote. Can that many people actually be disinterested in who holds office?

It seems incredible.

Governor G. Mennen Williams and Paul D. Bagwell will square away for the finals next November. When the M.S.U. professor first entered the ring this year, he created no great ripple in the political sea; but as time passed and he swung into action, the East Lansing man attracted widespread and favorable attention.

Oakland County's Philip A. Hart and Senator Charles E. Potter are prepared for the great political struggle of the current Michigan campaign. This state Senatorial race will attract sharp national attention. Union leaders have indicated that Hart will be backed by money, mugs and marbles. At the same time, the GOP won't take any part of this one sitting down and the hustings will resound with earnest campaign oratory.

This will be a dilly.

Make no mistake about that.

Congressman WILLIAM S. BROOMFIELD will be opposed by LESLIE H. HUDSON. BROOMFIELD has compiled a splendid record in Washington and commands the respect and confidence of his constituents as is shown by his handsome victory. It was the biggest margin of the day.

Senator L. HARVEY LODGE was re-nominated easily on the basis of his fine record in Lansing and his general standing.

Arthur J. Law won one of the most widely contested races when he whipped five opponents handily to win the Democratic nomination for State Representative for District Two. A former Mayor of Pontiac and a long time City Commissioner, he faced a host of opponents but his past accomplishments stood him in good stead. His opponent is Mrs. Grace Gorman, the only woman on the two tickets.

George Hicks took the Democratic nomination for sheriff away from three opponents and A. C. INGLE won the State Representative nomination on the Republican ticket in the closest three man race: his 1,327 votes placed him less than 200 ahead of each of his hard pressing opponents.

The vote throughout Michigan was very light—a discouraging factor to those who believe in a republic and a democratic form of government.

Ex-Presidents' Pay Considered By House

The financial status of our ex-Presidents is up again. Many months ago the Senate decided that they should be provided with an office and all the luxurious incidentals pertaining thereto.

The cost ran $100,000 a year.

Now the House kicks in with a $25,000 a year remuneration for our ex-Presidents and $10,000 for their widows. The House fails to add any fringe issues and lets the one sum be the total.

Well, these aren't the most prosperous days we've seen and the second idea seems reasonably appropriate. Perhaps some of our ex-Presidents won't want lavish offices with staff employees coming at tax payers' expense. They may be content with $25,000 a year and a comfortable residence in Independence, Mo. After all, you can kick up quite a splash in Independence on 25 grand per annum.

The nation has no particular desire to put our ex-Presidents on Madison Avenue in gray flannels for the further pursuit of politics. We just want them to be comfortably situated.

We vote for the House bill.

THE INVASION of privacy continues apace, alas! The Air Force is planning to send a satellite around the moon to photograph the hemisphere it has been hiding from us, probably with good reason, for, lo, these many years.

The Man About Town Want It Free?

A Subscription to Life Magazine for the Asking

Michigan: What has more good camping sites than any other state.

A charter subscriber to Life Magazine, which has cost me over $100, I do not care to have it enter my home any more. My subscription is paid one and one-half years in advance, and I wish to transfer it to somebody else. Will you accept it? This great illustrated weekly continually piles up evidence in beautifully colored pictures and otherwise, that it doesn't know what it is talking about. The climax came in its last issue when, in its customary profane and space filling manner, it listed its 50 best camping places in our nation.

And none are in Michigan.

The story has every symptom that its writer never was west of the Hudson River, but compiled it from picture post cards and literature put out by Chambers of Commerce and other publicity stunts.

Although I usually have enjoyed and often endured its 1,150 issues since it was started over 22 years ago, I do not desire that its unreliability be perpetrated on me any more.

Its subscription price now is $7.75 per year, so it would cost you around $11 to get it by mail for my unexpired term. The news stand price is 25c per copy, so those issues would cost you around $18 if bought in that way.

But you get them free of charge if your request is the first received. Applications must come by mail, and the postmark date decides the winner (?). Address: your request to Man About Town, The Pontiac Press.

The other day on the 95th anniversary of the birth of the late

Henry Ford

I was reminded of his remark in the only conversation that I ever had with him: "It is far easier to make money than it is to give it away."

A Pontiac camper tells me that snakes can be kept away from your campsite if you'll soak chunks of charcoal in a solution of synthetic skunk juice, which can be secured at any drug store, and spray it around the premises. The odor is not strong enough to be unpleasant to humans, but the snakes don't like it.

"I read all of the Detroit papers," phones

Arthur Burrington

of Rochester, "and The Pontiac Press has given us a better coverage on this 'human torch' story than any of them."

Didn't Cover the Business End

David Lawrence Says:

Foreign Policy Shows Courage

WASHINGTON—Sometimes in a few sentences in a public utterance there is epitomized the whole background of a crisis in the world.

Secretary of State Dulles, speaking in Brazil this week, said:

"The international situation is critical. Atheistic, materialistic and aggressive forces that would dominate all the world, talk boldly, they suggest that efforts to halt them will mean nuclear war."

"We do not in fact believe they want war or would invoke war. No sane people want war. War would be for all an inexpressible disaster."

"The question is whether their threats will cause us to weaken and give in and thus sacrifice the genuine independence of nation after nation. That is not the path to peace. It is the road to war."

The foregoing is an eloquent answer to those critics here and abroad who frivolously exclaim that "America has no foreign policy."

It is a courageous answer to those who keep on giving the impression that the American people are terrorized and that there is only one thing to do—to make concession after concession to the Soviets and the Red Chinese as well as to their stooges in the Middle East.

Many a so-called "plan" has been proposed by panicky-minded persons who seem to feel that the alternative to war is just plain surrender. They cloak their proposals in fancy phrases—indeed, they bring out the old clichés about "neutralization" of certain regions and talk glibly about "bold and imaginative ideas" for "revising American policy." But paths of appeasement lead only to the same goal—defeatism.

For there are only two ways to try to maintain peace in the world. One of them involves military force, and this not always, but sometimes, means war. The other involves moral force, and this—when backed by a unified country and a willingness to use military force if every other effort fails—could succeed in keeping peace.

Some of the critics have derisively called this "brinkmanship." They use the term because Secretary Dulles once endeavored to express the need for courage in foreign policy and said that sometimes it is necessary to go to the "brink of war" in order to avoid war.

He did not mean that he would merely resort to bluff. What he did mean is that, while it is imperative to exhaust every means of making a settlement, no nation which believes in the justice of its cause can avoid going to the very brink of war itself if that is necessary to impress its adversary that it is deeply in earnest.

There is a great advantage in applying moral force to the limit. If, for instance, war does come, it is then recognized by the people as the only choice left. Moral force means public discussion, good propaganda, debate in the forum of the United Nations General Assembly or in the press of the world or over the air waves. The theory is that people will control the hand of a government that threatens war. This is logical up to the point where censorship and suppression of ideas by a totalitarian government build an insurmountable barrier to communication between peoples.

Just now America has the most convincing case a nation ever had in the international arena. The United States stands for maintenance of the territorial integrity and political independence of all nations and is willing to supply military might, if necessary, to uphold that principle. For this is the key to peace in the Middle East and in every other area. To condone aggression, direct or indirect, is eventually to invite a world war.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Where to Find a Doctor to Deliver Baby at Home?

"How do you expect young mothers to have babies at home? Nowadays doctors won't even make a house call except perhaps to come and pronounce you dead. The nearest hospital, five miles away, has a waiting list." (Mrs. T. C.)

I don't, really, but I keep hammering away at it on the "H" chance that here and there some young expectant parents will have enough dignity, character and self-respect to get off their ischial tuberosities and go systematically through the entire list of doctors in their community in person, not by telephone, until they find one who attends confinement at home.

Trouble with too many young prospective parents is that they are too ignorant. It is because of their ignorance that they are so helpless and timid when they face the great miracle, the birth of their baby.

When I say ignorant, I do not mean to imply that they have not had enough education in the ordinary sense of the word. I mean that they have had little or no instruction in embryology, hygiene of pregnancy, prenatal development, the details of the process of birth, and the care and feeding of the infant.

Any young couple whose education has been neglected can repair the defect by reading together the various pamphlets and books such as I have repeatedly recommended here. In some communities some physicians now give instructions to classes of prospective parents.

I regret I can't afford to maintain a directory service, but I warn you that some doctors will try to discourage you by telling you hospital birth is easier or safer. From knowledge and experience, I can assure you that home is the safer place to have your baby.

The old-timers, who are generally hostile towards new methods, and the doctors who are in good at the hospital, are doing whatever they can to scare people away from this idea of having their babies at home. And being ignorant, people are easily scared. However the idea is steadily gaining popularity.

Another reader writes: "I have one baby and am expecting another. I do wish it were possible for my husband to be with me at delivery. Wish you could persuade hospitals to be more human in this respect." (Mrs. O. C. C.)

The suggestion is preposterous!

The rules and regulations are designed to promote the convenience and comfort of doctors, nurses, and other hospital attendants, not to insure the well being and happiness of patients.

My advice to you, Mrs. C., is stick to your intention, scout the doctors in your town till you find who attends confinement at home.

Send letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright 1958)

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Use HELP Conversation Method

Jim was humiliated when his girl friend made the sudden exclamation listed below. He vowed he'd never be caught in such a jam again. And that shows he is smart. If you want to get ahead, whether with girls or with business, then you must think and plan ahead. Send for the non-profit booklet below. It can change your entire future!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE Case Y-382: Jim Jr., aged 19, is a college freshman.

"Dr. Crane, I am so shy that I hesitate to ask for a date," he confessed ruefully.

"And when I finally do go out with a girl, I don't know what to talk about. After I have used the weather and the latest ball game, I run out of ammunition."

"Sometimes a pause will start that continues for what seems like an eternity. The last time I was on a date, my girl

DR. CRANE finally exclaimed, 'Oh, for heaven's sakes, SAY something!'"

"Well, I felt just as she did, but I didn't know what to say! Can you give me any shortcuts for carrying on conversation?"

FORMULA FOR CONVERSATION "Help, help," is the mood such a person is in.

So use that very word "H-E-L-P" as your life preserver! It can get you out of those terrifying pauses that often intrude in conversation.

Start out with the first letter, namely "H," which stands for "hobbies."

Voice of the People

Need Some Projects? Here's Some Need You!

(Editor's Note: This letter to an editor from "A Mother" has been reprinted so many times that its origin has been lost, but republication hasn't caused it to lose its point, particularly for the vacation months.) Always we hear the spoiled plaintive cry of the teen-ager: "What can we do; where can we go?" I can make some suggestions. Go home!

Paint the woodwork. Mow the lawn. Wash the car. Learn to cook. Scrub some floors. Repair the sink. Build a boat. Get a job! Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your village does not owe you recreational facilities. The world does not owe you a living.

You owe the world something. You owe it your time and energy and your talents.

Help the minister, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army. Visit the sick. Assist the poor. And when you are through—and not too tired—read a book.

Feels Injustice of Speed Trap

I feel the injustice of the Orchard Lake speed trap. They have taken two sparsely settled roads (Commerce Lake road and Pontiac Trail) where 45 or 50 would be a fair speed limit, and have marked them "35." Two well-paved connecting roads where 35 would be a fair speed have been marked "25." This under-playing the speed limits, added to the "slow poke," causes the frustrated motorist to try to pass the car ahead—and bingo, a ticket!

If traffic on these Orchard Lake roads was allowed to flow freely, within honest speed limits, there would be less frustration and less traffic hazards. Then, of course this rural community could not boast of a $57,000 a year police force.

The sad part of this situation is that this is perhaps the oldest of all speed traps. It seems to me that it has been going on for approximately 15 to 20 years. Could you comment on this?

'Lebanon Is Place for Summit Talks'

The world conflict is on, don't forget that. Now that England and the U. S. A. have troops there, why doesn't the U. N. hold Summit meetings within the area of Lebanon and Israel. Anywhere else would be hypocrisy.

William Reid

St. Luke Verse Gives Answer

I'm wondering who hasn't used the Good Book at one time or another to excuse their mistakes such as eat, drink, and be merry, etc.

There is one chapter that is ripening at this very time. However, for the ones who don't accept the whole Bible in the way God meant for us to use it, it won't do them much good to read, I'm afraid. Too many seem to think if they don't believe something, it will change the fact.

Won't you please read the whole chapter of St. Luke 21 with special notice to verse 20. "And when ye shall see Jerusalem compassed with armies, then know that the desolation thereof is nigh."

Believer

'Slightly Jealous' Wrong Outlook

"Slightly Jealous" is taking the wrong outlook on life. A family man knows his duty to look after his family—because he is buying a house is no reason for his needing extra help at Christmas, etc. I think our state does a wonderful job in helping its widows and the aged with only one fault. I was left a widow, who, with a very large family was told to "stay home" and look after them to see that they went to school.

This I did. By the time they were of age, they either got married or went into service. Now each has his own family. While at the age of 50—what do I do? I'm too old, some people think, to be given work. I brought up a good family so had no time for special job training? There are no special funds to help the likes of me and thousands of others like me throughout the state.

For life on earth depends upon... That core of unity... The composition of a close... And happy family... As babies multiply the earth... And parents help them grow... And as it should be obvious... Asks Court to Prevent Spinster Chasing Him

LONDON (AP) — David Shadow, the court shadow was not the low, who is 30 and married, went to court yesterday to protect himself from the amorous attentions of 31-year-old spinster Joan Croft.

He told a court at Hull: She followed him from town to town on her motor scooter and talked him in bars and hotels. She drove round and round his home until after midnight. She turned up at his office. She hit him on the head with her crash helmet.

Salesman Shadow accused the tall, slim Miss Croft of assault and causing a breach of the peace.

"She is making a proper pest of herself with no encouragement from me," he complained. "My marriage is in danger and my wife is ill."

Shadow said he was introduced to Miss Croft when he was in nearby Durham. He twice gave her a lift back to Hull in his auto. But both times there was another man in the car.

Sailor Continues Career as Artist Upon Submarine

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI) — Kenton R. Pope joined the Navy to see the world and wound up painting it.

During his 17 years of service, Pope, 36, has been painting, sketching and sculpturing. He has done 350 paintings of submarines, netting as high as $150 for a single picture.

Pope, chief engineer on the submarine Diablo, didn't even let a war stop his artistic career. He kept at it while on patrol against the Japanese.

The Navy is so impressed with his work that it has commissioned him to do several paintings for the U.S. Submarine Base here.

When he retires to civilian life, Pope, a native of Kansas City, Mo., plans to devote full time to fine arts.

"During my time in the Navy I have gained unlimited material and sketches for future mural work," he said.

Bad Sidewalk Drivers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Instructors at the police traffic school face a new challenge—how to teach three traffic offenders the proper way to drive on the sidewalk. The trio—two of them 13 and the other 9—were ordered to attend the school after their pushmobile flattened an elderly woman pedestrian.

State's Oil Output Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Michigan's oil production increased 700 barrels to 24,800 barrels last week, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

Polar Tractors Not for Display

Hilary's Fergies Work for U.S. Scientists on IGY Exploration

SOUTH POLE STATION (UPI) — The three tractors that carried Sir Edmund Hillary on his historic break-through to the South Pole earlier this year are destined to work here until they're ready for the Pole's first junkyard.

Now being used by United States scientists for International Geophysical Year explorations on the Polar plateau, the tractors work in a 300-mile radius of the Pole on seismic and glaciological studies.

When the manufacturer (Massey-Ferguson, Inc.) cabled here inquiring whether the tractors were available for display in the United States as retired mechanical heroes of the South Pole expedition, the reply was a courteous but firm "no." Sir Edmund had traded them to the U.S. scientific team for an airlift back home.

Nicknamed "Fergies" by the expedition, the tractors are of the same construction as thousands now in use on farms throughout the United States except for the addition of a cab and full tracks, and minor modifications to the cooling and electrical systems. Currently, they are operating in 80 to 90-degree below-zero weather.

Four other Fergies loaned to the expedition apparently have similar destinies. Two are still at Hilary's Scott Base on the Antarctic coast and one is abandoned in a hut at the now inactive Shackleton Base used by Dr. Vivian Fuchs, whose expedition took a different overland route to link up with Hilary's party. The fourth, a member of the Fuchs expedition, fell through the ice and is now at the bottom of the Antarctic Ocean.

Milton Berle Cancels Dinner's on the House

CRYSTAL BAY, Nev. (AP) — Dinner was on the house at the Calneva Club on Lake Tahoe last night when comedian Milton Berle cancelled his portion of the floor show pleading illness.

Irate patrons were soothed by the management's announcement "Everybody eats free."

Later gBerle appeared at the second show. He said he had a virus infection and had feared he would collapse if he went on in the first show.

Hal Boyle Explains:

How 3 Weeks Vacation Could Be Better

NEW YORK (AP)—It isn't the people who are off on vacation who cut down the efficiency of the average business office this time of year.

It's the people who are just back from vacation — and can't keep from talking about it on company time.

During his two-week "summer vacation" Jim Jukes goes on an auto tour of the West, and during a descent into the Grand Canyon almost falls off a mule. Well, naturally, to Jim this is the most exciting event in the history of travel since Burton Holmes discovered the spoken word.

Suppose there are 124 people in the office besides Jim. Jim is going to buttonhole 120 of them—all except the four he isn't speaking to because he owes them money—and spend a full hour with each telling his dramatic experience, over and over, always leading up to that terrible moment.

"The mule stumbled, I fell almost out of the saddle, and, boy, did I wish I was back in the good old office again!"

By the time he himself wears of telling about his adventure, half his bored coworkers are mailing insulting letters to the mule, denouncing it as an enemy of the human race for not kicking Jukes into the canyon in the first place.

Jukes spent only two weeks on vacation but 120 hours—or three more weeks—bragging about it. It also took 120 hours of other people's time to hear him out. So altogether the firm lost the services of one employee for a total of six extra weeks.

If the same thing holds true for each of the 125 employees, the management is ostensibly paying only for 250 vacation weeks a year—but actually also footing the bill for 750 more weeks of post-vacation talk.

What is the answer? The solution is simple. Each employee would be given a free extra week if he signed an agreement not to mention his vacation aloud in the office on his return—on pain of dismissal.

During the extra allotted week he would stay home and fill out a vacation information form to be posted on the bulletin board by the office water cooler.

"All right, where did you go?" "How many miles per gallon did you average?"

"Have any flat tires—besides the one in the back seat?" "Check any illnesses suffered by the family. Poison Ivy? Colic? cholera? Sunburn? snow blindness?"

"Tell us any humorous or unusual experiences—not to exceed 50 words."

"Attach the best snapshot you took during trip. Those who went to Paris can also attach any unusual postcards acquired from natives."

If all the offices in America adopted this vacation information card system, U.S. industry would save billions of dollars in "lost time annually—and also boost employee morale."

For listening to the other fellow's vacation lecture isn't just a waste of the boss's time. It's a waste of our own.

Which reminds me, Did I ever tell you about that big fish I caught vacationing in the Bahamas last—?

ST. LOUIS — Do-it-yourself enthusiasts in the United States are spending an estimated $60,000,000 a year on tools for use in the home.

Chicago Police Fed Up With 'Viva Zapata' Calls

CHICAGO (AP)—"Viva Zapata! Los amigos de Venezuela."

The park district police chief, George Otletis, reports that the radio signal in Spanish, which has drowned out the park police's radio reception from 9 to 10:30 a.m. every day for the last four months, will be silenced.

A new piece of equipment will stop the reception interference caused by sun spot activity. "Either we get this silencer equipment or we get a translator," Otletis said. "But this can't go on—my men reply to commands with 'Viva Zapata.'"

Hungarian Guards Fire at Tourists

VIENNA (AP)—The Austrian government is considering an official protest against Hungarian guards firing at American tourists who tried to photograph border fortifications.

Since no one was hurt, Austrian border police did not record the Americans' names. They were at the village of Deutsch-Jahrndorf, about 165 yards inside Austria when a machine gun in a Hungarian watch tower overlooking barbed wire fences and mine fields opened up on them, a Foreign Office spokesman said.

Vienna newspapers urged Austrian authorities to warn tourists of the risks in trying to get a glimpse through the Iron Curtain. Travel agencies have been organizing trips to the Hungarian border.

To do work equal to that of a mole, an average sized man would have to dig a tunnel wide enough to permit passage of his body almost 37 miles long in a single night.

Science Replacing Guesswork

Improved Forecasts, Weather Control Ahead

Modern science refuses to accept that "you can't do anything about the weather." This is the first of two dispatches telling what science is doing about it now—and expects to do in the future.

By LOUIS CASSELL

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—Science is rapidly replacing guesswork in the tricky business of weather forecasting.

A long-overdue technological revolution is arming the weatherman with new instruments that are far superior to the crude tools at his disposal for the past century. These instruments are already making it possible for him to bring you faster, more detailed and more reliable forecasts, especially of serious storms.

Ahead lies fully automatic weather forecasting, in which data gathered by hundreds of unmanned robot stations will be fed into a giant electronic brain capable of turning out a fresh weather map every hour.

And not to far in the future is the tantalizing prospect of exerting some human control over the weather.

The radical changes taking place in the ancient art of forecasting the weather are demonstrated by an instrument called the hygrometer, which is used to measure the moisture content of the air.

For more than 100 years, the standard hygrometer was built around a strand of blonde hair from a woman's head. As every woman knows, hair stretches in damp air. By calibrating the stretch of a given strand of hair, weathermen were able to make an approximate measurement of humidity.

But the hair hygrometer was not a very rugged or reliable instrument.

Today's hygrometer developed in the past four years, measures the moisture in the air by determining how much absorption a ray of infra red light sustains in passing from a projector to a photoelectric cell. It is extremely accurate under all conditions, including low temperatures in which hair hygrometers are virtually worthless.

Another example is the new Doppler radar equipment which can "see" a tornado funnel 70 miles away. The first set was placed in service this year at Wichita Falls, Tex. When a twister bore down on that city April 2, the Doppler radar gave enough advance warning for most residents to find safe shelter. Although 200 buildings were demolished, only one person was killed.

With a different kind of radar set, weather stations can detect rain or snow falling at any point within an area of 200,000 square miles. They can take time-exposure photographs of the precipitation blips on the radar screen, measure their intensity with a device called a "densimeter" and calculate how much rain fell on a given area.

The "instrument" which this technique will replace, when the new equipment is generally available, is a tin bucket with inch-marks on its side.

The trouble with all of these new gadgets is that they cost a lot of money, and the Weather Bureau hasn't been able to buy very many of them so far. But the advent of jet-propelled air travel may change that situation.

President Eisenhower's top-level Air Coordinating Committee is now working on a billion-dollar plan for modernizing the nation's airways for the jet age. And as part of that plan, it recently approved a five-year, $100,000,000 automation program for the Weather Bureau.

If President Eisenhower forwards this proposal to Congress and IF Congress approves it, here's the way weather forecasting will be done in the 1960's:

Hundreds of fully automatic weather stations will be set up in all parts of the country. Each will be equipped with instruments which continually measure and record such variables as: temperature, humidity, rainfall, wind-speed and direction, visibility, barometric pressure, lightning strokes, etc.

The new system will have two great advantages. It will be much faster, capable of producing a new forecast every hour instead of every six hours as at present. It will also save manpower. It now takes five men to staff a full-time station on a teletypewriter circuit linking weather stations.

all of the stations to a central Weather Forecasting office in Washington.

At the central office, the coded data will be fed into an electronic brain which will translate it into detailed weather maps.

Automatic forecasting is by no means the end of the line. If Congress wants to put up the money—and it will take quite a lot—weather stations can be operating in space within 10 years.

With the routine measuring and reporting jobs automated, the weather bureau can set up many additional stations, which it badly needs, and can save skilled human meteorologists for the one job which they alone can perform—reading and interpreting the weather maps.

Weather scientists envision a fleet of about 12 earth satellite vehicles equipped with television cameras. From their vantage point in space, they could transmit to earth valuable data on cloud formations and large weather movements in both hemispheres and from pole to pole.

Then they could throw away those Ouija boards.

U.S. Key Industries Export Large Shares

NEW YORK—Some of America's key industries depend on exports to sell a large share of their production. For instance, cotton exports account for 17.6 per cent of United States output, wheat exports for 29 per cent, machinery exports for 19.1 per cent.

Painless Parking Plan— Posies Adorn Motors

IRON RIVER, Mich. (U)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce, trying to take the pain out of parking meters, plans to mount pots of flowers on metal arms fastened to the meters.

Fresh garden flowers will be planted in the pots two or three times during the summer. In the fall and winter, the merchants will cheer motorists with artificial plants in the pots.

Some Women Use High Heels as Weapons

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK—There is considerable outrage and anguish in some quarters, caused by rumor from Paris that high heels for the ladies are going out.

In their place, according to moderately reliable sources, there will be shaped stumps. Roughly the height of an indignantly raised eyebrow.

CAN'T HAPPEN

"It cannot happen here," writes a gentleman named Mitchell M. Segal. "I personally wouldn't mind seeing some women taken down a peg—if it could be done without re-shaping or de-shaping the leg. But it cannot."

"When a woman wears a low heel, her calves suddenly expand to an awkward width. Unless she is very skeletomized, her ankles become unattractive bulges. Without the regal feeling of height, her shoulders slump and her middle sort of settles on her hips."

"Furthermore," he continues, "these are troubling times. And if you've noticed, the shape of a leg can take one's mind off the shape of the world; it only temporarily."

LIFETIME HEELS

He signs himself "Director of the Society for the Preservation of Lifetime Heels."

After mulling over Segal's letter, this department made an informal survey of men and women in the immediate environs. It was discovered that neither the men nor the women agreed wholeheartedly with Segal's contention—for psychological reasons.

"Girls' legs may look thinner in higher heels," said a young man in his early 20s. "But their personality is more important. Maybe I'm judging it strictly from my girl, which probably isn't so accurate, but I like the way she acts better when she's in flats. . . ."

When she's dressed up in those three-inch heels, she's as tall as I am, and she acts it. She starts giving me orders, and even her voice gets louder.

"I like her better when she's dressed for the beach in sandals or something. She's a whole new dame, sort of little and helpless. It's good to be looked up to."

An older man, accountant type, thought out the problem for a long time before he concluded:

"It depends on the woman. Some of them need high heels to bolster their egos, and they should keep on wearing them. Others have too much ego to begin with, and who cares what happens to them. There's no doubt that high heels make a woman's legs look better—but if they don't have good posture, wow, what it does to their derriere."

The women who were quizzed generally agreed that, as long as the shoes were comfortable, they preferred high heels. Almost all of them conceded, however, that a chiropodist had at one time or another told them they'd have much better feet if they lowered their leverage.

Said one honest girl: "I think a man subconsciously puts you on a pedestal when you're up on heels, and treats you like a sister or something when you're not. I admit I like it."

She smiled, with a trace of fiendishness. "And I take advantage of it."

The attitude was reminiscent of that of Catherine de Medici, the "wicked queen" of some four centuries back. It was Cathy who first nailed a high wedge to her low shoe—so she could overshadow her husband. She did, and women have followed her lead ever since.

Paper bills cost the U. S. treasury about one cent each to produce.

Diabetes Not Directly Linked to Inheritance

CHICAGO—Little is known about diabetes. Apparently it is not inherited, but a predisposition toward the disease probably is. Life-insurance studies show a definite link between diabetes and overweight. Also, family history—such as patterns of nutrition—is involved.

Some authorities believe that inability to cope successfully with the strains of modern life may also play a role in this disease and that increasing income and food consumption sedentary occupations, urbanization, and industrialization may also be involved.

GUMMING THE WORKS—"I'm Forever Biting Bubbles" could be the theme song of 14-month-old Caye Frentzel, shown having fun in her Benson, Minn., home. As fast as her mother, Mrs. Tom Frentzel, blows up the gum bubbles, Caye bites them.

Education Program Up for House Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal education program, a subject of urgent discussion which Congress convened, reaches the House floor for action today in the session's waning days.

The Senate was ready to follow through later with action on a similar but broader and more expensive measure than the House version.

Both would authorize college scholarships, fellowships and student loan funds for worthy students, along with state grants and other programs to improve the nation's educational structure.

The proposal was spawned after Soviet Sputniks emphasized Soviet scientific advances. Committees started working, but interest lagged after a time. The House Education Committee completed action on its bill July 2, but the Rules Committee acted only yesterday to send it to the floor.

The House bill would authorize a $1,070,000 four-year program which its author, Rep. Carl Elliott (D-Ala.), said is "designed to encourage our educational system toward the goals (demanded by) the tense age in which we live."

The bill seeks two goals in particular—to encourage able young students to get a college education and to stimulate the teaching of science to help meet the Soviet challenge.

President Eisenhower has urged Congress to pass the aid program, but to provide scholarship

Warns of Perils When Cars Stop for School Buses

LANSING (UPI)—A state law requiring traffic from both directions to stop for school buses goes into effect Sept. 13 but "dangers will arise," the Michigan Insurance Information Service said today.

One trouble is that the law isn't effective until about two weeks after schools open so the enforcement won't begin with school openings.

Under the law, it will be illegal for traffic from either direction to pass a bus until it resumes motion or the driver signals for traffic to continue or the warning lights stop flashing.

State's Highway Travel Called Twice as Safe

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan highway travel is almost twice as safe now as it was three years ago. That's what Gov. Williams told a regional conference on highway safety here yesterday.

The governor said Michigan's traffic fatality rate dropped from 7.1 to 4.0 per 100 million miles of travel since 1955.

He said the improvement was due to what he called the three E's—engineering, education and enforcement.

Rebuilt U.S. 24 Stretch to Open on Saturday

LANSING (UPI)—Traffic will be moving Saturday over a two-mile section of reconstructed U.S. 24 (Telegraph Road) in Dearborn, the Highway Department said today.

The section was rebuilt as a divided highway. A bridge over Ecorse Creek is also scheduled for opening.

37 Ohio Cities Adopt Local Income Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Residents in 31 Ohio cities and six villages will feel the impact of an estimated $35,359,000 in city income taxes on their pocketbooks this year.

Toledo adopted the city income tax in 1945. Since going into effect March 1, 1946, Toledo has produced $94,421,000.

Ohio didn't leap to the Toledo program. It took two years before the income tax appeared in any other community. Then Youngstown, Springfield and Columbus enacted it. Dayton followed in 1949.

Oh Ohio's 10 cities with populations over 100,000, eight now have city income taxes. Industrial Cleveland and Akron do not.

4-H Fair Offers Thrilling Experience for All

IT MELTS IN YOUR MOUTH — A stop for a cotton candy cone was a must for these three Lake Orion brothers as they toured the 18th Annual Oakland County 4-H Fair this week. This year the treat comes in pastel shades which makes it more delicious. Left to right are Mike Baldwin, 7; Ralph, 8, and David, 6.

RITUAL DANCING — Accompanying the Rochester Trailblazers 4-H Club float last night were these colorful dancing Indians. They are members of the Mar-Peeto-Pah Indian Society of Clawson, a group of boy scouts and girl scouts who have as a purpose, the preservation of ritual Indian dancing.

To Show Youth's Promise for America

Using Head, Heart, Hands, Health

By SYLVIA de STEIGER
Each of the 4-H's, head, heart, hands and health, the essence of this organization, is a good description of this year's county 4-H Fair which opened Tuesday night and will continue through Saturday morning.

In just one quick glimpse around the fairgrounds one can visualize all of the fun, excitement, preparation, and knowledge which the more than 2,000 county members and their leaders contributed to the affair.

play their talents and knowledge to the public. That four lettered word W-O-R-K is a necessary one before, during and after the fair this week, but since thousands are coming to see the children's exhibits and displays, it's worth it. The fair offers a variety to each member of the family. Each evening presents a different, amusing, interesting, and educational program.

When many city folk think of 4-H, they immediately recall cows, horses, chickens and farming methods. This is an important part of the organization's work and original goal . . . to teach these skills. But, the list doesn't end here.

Go to the fair and see for yourself. Besides the numerous livestock exhibits and prize winning animals, spectators and visitors to the fair can learn methods of photography, home improvement, electricity, entomology, arts and crafts, health improvements, clothing, food preparation and preservation as well, to name a few.

Each of these projects are in everyday living, common knowledge items which sometimes aren't as common as they should be for a well-rounded individual and citizen. In 4-H, members have the opportunity to learn this information.

But, the fair is not only a bunch of exhibits. It's fun to look at them but it's also fun to tour the carnival at the fair.

Here, this week, one can have his choice of 16 thrill and chill rides, including the ferris wheel and the merry-go-round. Cotton candy, pop, caramel corn, candied apples, peanuts and hot dogs seem essential for a fair and this week's fair includes plenty of these goodies for all.

Due to the construction work on Perry street, visitors to the fair this week will have to enter the 4-H Fairgrounds parking lot on Pontiac road instead of using the usual Perry street route. But, don't let that stop you. The 4-H motto, "To Make the Best Better" becomes truer each year as the fair grows bigger and better.

Show time each evening is 7:30 p.m. Visitors can enjoy the fresh country air as they gather in the natural amphitheater to witness each event.

The 4-H fair gives one inspiration and incentive. Today's youth, our leaders of tomorrow, are giving us a sneak preview of the coming era. They are learning to manage, play fair, enjoy life, and be intelligent and "in the know," all needed for a successful future. They want to show you they are trying more and more each year.

Win 1st Place at 4-H Fair

The second day of the 18th annual Oakland County 4-H Fair brought winners of blue ribbons to the field crop, vegetable and flower divisions yesterday.

Winning first place in field crops were: William Bussell, Ortonville; Larson Austin, Stan Owens and Larry Scramlin, all of Holly; Mark Buell, William Buell, Douglas Long, Floyd Vanderhoof, Glenn Marble and George Barber, all of Milford; John Rose of Pontiac, John Horning and Larry Horning, both of West Bloomfield and Tom Middleton of Lake Orion.

Top notch vegetables were grown by Jon Wolf and Diane Davis, both of Troy; Charles Hullman, Galloway Lake; Joy Bright, and Sharon Pickering, both of Rochester; Andrew Lewis, William Bussell, Mike Hitchcock and Thomas Pole, all of Ortonville; Duane Austin, Sandy Brown and Arlene Mitchell, all of Holly.

Lake Orion vegetable winners include: Judy Brown, Dale Pomeroy, Larry Middleton, Jim Anderson, Elaine Oudohusky, Judy Oudohusky, Rose Oudohusky, Ross Walte, Walter Oudohusky and Carolyn Gullen.

Others were David Jardine, Diane Mott, Christine Rynisk, and Sandra Pegg, all of Birmingham; Mark Vincent, Andrea Micu, Bonnie Rose, and Verne Geeck, all of Pontiac; Paul Norland, Bloomfield Township; Richard Foster, and Loren Austin, both of Clarkston.

The list continues with Richard Zoner, Tom Zoner, Kathleen Weaver, Russell Allen, Karen Bourns and David Holmwood, all of Milford; Carolyn Smith of South Lyon and Bruce Peavey of Davisburg.

Winning first place in flowers were: Tom Poll, Jerry Crader, Linda Metzger and Philip Tennant, all of Ortonville; and Lora Guthrie, Michael Cellner, Mott Esposito, Ronny Palmgren, Bob Hollis, Thomas Hull, James Hull and Virginia Guthrie, all of Pontiac.

Others were: Ronnie Wurm, Sharon Pickering, and Margaret Weggans, all of Rochester; Christine Rynisk and Wolfgang Ladden, both of Birmingham; Dale Hammond of Troy and Calvin Voorheis of White Lake.

Marilyn's Mate Wins Contempt Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today struck down the contempt of Congress conviction of playwright Arthur Miller, 42, husband of actress Marilyn Monroe.

Miller was convicted of contempt in U.S. District Court here last year for refusing to tell the House Committee on Un-American Activities the names of Communist writers with whom he admittedly met in New York in 1949.

U.S. Dist. Judge Charles F. McLaughlin gave him a suspended 30-day jail sentence and imposed a $500 fine.

The Appeals Court, in reversing the conviction, directed the District Court to enter a judgment of acquittal.

TRIMMING TIME — Howard "Buster" Otis, 5, of 440 Crystal St., Milford, says "nice Beulah" as he pets the black sheep while the owner, Sally Neill, 11, member of the Troy Junior Livestock 4-H Club, trims her entry for the fair judges.

ROCHESTER RIDERS — Judging of the horses is one of the biggest events at the fair, especially for Jody Schafer, (left) 15, of 224 W. Auburn Rd., Rochester. Here, she and her friend, Karen Bush, 16, of 456 Parkdale Rd., Rochester, curry Jody's horse, Goldie in preparation for the contests.

WINNING FLOAT — Voted best among the nine club floats entered in the float contest last night was this structure designed and built by members of the East Orion 4-H Club. The float denotes three stages of 4-H life, the member, the junior leader and the leader and citizen who uses his right to vote regularly.

Realistic Good Fairy Notes Present Inflation

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Stevie Whittle, 3, eagerly placed the first tooth he lost under his pillow. The next day, he found a dollar bill under the pillow (with an assist from his grandparents). His father, Theri Whittle, a policeman, told Stevie, "I think you're very lucky. I never got more than a dime." "Well, Daddy," Stevie replied, "you know the price has gone up on everything."

Only 28 Years to Pay!

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP)—John Lybarger didn't feel he was being unfair when he charged a customer $26 interest on a suit that cost only $39 to start with. After all, the customer waited 28 years to pay the bill.

An average family spends 15 per cent of its food budget for dairy products. Wild game provides 250 million pounds of edible meat in the U. S. annually.

Streamlined Defense Plan Is Signed Into Law by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The defense reorganization plan has become law, providing a streamlined chain of command over U.S. armed forces in this missile age.

President Eisenhower signed the reorganization bill yesterday, calling it "a major advance in our organization for defense."

While Congress withheld some of the broader authority Eisenhower sought, it gave him considerable power to tighten control over the individual armed services.

Under the new law, the secretary of defense, acting for the President, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff will exercise direct control over special forces. These are made up of selected units from one or more services. The change drops the individual service secretaries from the chain of command over such forces.

The law confers authority to nearly double the Joint Staff under the Joint Chiefs, and gives this group operating as well as planning duties. Operations control had been limited to staffs of the individual services.

Another section of the new law creates a single director of defense research and engineering. In several major respects, Congress stopped short of fulfilling Eisenhower's recommendations.

For one thing, it retained the power for either house to veto any proposed change in functions of the individual services.

And it kept in the law present authority for any secretary or uniformed service chief to carry problems directly to Congress. Eisenhower had denounced this as "legalized insubordination."

Sprinklers Protect Strawberry Crop

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—Home gardeners might consider installing sprinkler systems next spring to prevent frost damage in strawberry beds.

Strawberry blossoms can be protected against late spring frosts with sprinkler irrigation according to University of Wisconsin horticulturist George Klingbeil. He said the temperature of strawberries will remain at a safe 32 degrees as long as water is freezing on them.

He said a perforated garden hose can be used in the strawberry patch and can save blossoms from damage even when temperatures reach the low 20s.

AF Shoots 18th Thor Into Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force has launched its 18th Thor intermediate range ballistic missile on an apparently successful test run 1,500 miles through space.

The Thor, which will give the first moon rocket its big push, was fired from a tactical launching pad yesterday as the latest step in an accelerated program aimed at making the missile operational by December.

The 65-foot Thor will provide the first stage vehicle for the Air Force's three-stage moon rocket which reportedly will be launched Aug. 17.

The Thor launching ran smoothly, in marked contrast with the last shot July 19 when the missile exploded shortly after take-off.

AEC Plans Huge Blast

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission plans to set off a king-size underground atomic explosion next summer 1,200 feet under a Carlsbad salt flat. The 10-kiloton bomb will be nearly six times larger than that used in previous underground explosions.

Lake Superior is 21 feet higher than Lakes Huron and Michigan.

Constant Threat Produces Tough Corps

They Guard Ike From Assassins

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The ever present threat of a presidential assassination has produced the toughest, most efficient bodyguard school in the world.

This is the rigorous training program operated by the U. S. Secret Service for its agents who guard the President, Vice President and their families.

It teaches them how to protect the Eisenhowers and Nixons from potential dangers ranging from a sniper's bullet to atomic fallout. And it instills in each man the strict rule which demands that he sacrifice his own life if necessary to carry out his job.

The strenuous training is responsible for the calm, amazingly efficient action of agents, who without ever drawing their guns, recently defended Vice President Nixon and his wife from the attack of a Venezuelan mob.

Actually all agents, regardless of whether they are assigned to the White House detail, receive practically the same training. This is due to the Secret Service policy of rotating agents who work on counterfeiting and forgery investigations with those assigned to protective duties. The White House detail, however, gets intensified training in security techniques and the tactics of self defense.

Agents begin their service with a six weeks Treasury Department training program. This is a generalized course of study which covers basic law and investigative methods. It's taken by members of all Treasury enforcement branches which include the Secret Service, Narcotics, Customs and Internal Revenue divisions.

Valuable for Food, Hair, Labor

Yak May Replace Caribou for Eskimo

WASHINGTON—Canada may introduce yaks into its Arctic regions to help provide food, clothing and income for Eskimos.

The Eskimos are reported to be having trouble because their caribous are falling victim to disease and marauding wolves. Yaks have proved invaluable in Tibet, so Canadian authorities are experimenting with them.

The great shaggy beasts relish a cold climate. Despite their bulk and heavy forequarters, they are agile enough to race across steep rock alides. If attacked, they charge furiously. Their sharp horns and determination would doubtless deter many a wolf.

Yaks live on the cold, desolate plateaus of Tibet, the National Geographic Society says. During the summers, they may graze at altitudes as high as 20,000 feet—nearly four miles above sea level.

Though few are left in the wild state, yaks have been successfully domesticated and crossed with Mongolian cattle. Domesticated yaks are generally lighter in color than the almost black wild species.

VARIED USES

Tibetans get almost everything they need from the yak. They turn the rich milk into butter and use it to flavor their tea. They eat yak meat, dried or roasted. They weave the soft hair of the yak into cloth and the coarser hair into mats and tent coverings. They use the hide to make saddles, whips and boots.

Perhaps the most valuable part of a yak is its three-foot tail with a thick tassel of long hair. Tibetan officers of state wear yak tails in headaddresses denoting their rank. The tails keep away evil spirits in temples and at funerals. Mounted on saber handles, they make good fly swatters. With all these attractive uses, a yak is apt to be separated from its tail early in its career. Plow yaks are often tailless.

Yak hides, gilded and decorated, are made into cylindrical prayer wheels. These wheels sometimes contain miles of paper on which prayers are written. By turning the wheels, Tibetan monks are able to offer millions of prayers with great efficiency.

The yak is to Tibet what the automobile is to America. A yak can carry a heavy load 20 miles a day, and a "yak express" carries the country's mail before the advent of Chinese Communists and modern transport.

Yak hair is often so long it brushes the ground, but it is very much like human hair. A lot of it has been exported to America. It is used to make wigs and Santa Claus beards.

A new machine is now able to manufacture butter without churning and is said to be highly satisfactory.

five methods in addition to the techniques of counterfeiting and forgery investigation. It lasts for five weeks.

The program is under the constant supervision of Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman who insists that his men always be thoroughly prepared for all phases of their job.

One of the most important things agents learn is how to defend the President and Vice President from attacks by mobs or individuals. This is an especially ticklish job since bodyguards must avoid injuring anyone unless it's absolutely necessary.

"We try to avoid jaying hands on people," a Secret Service official explains. "Instead, we try to block their way." He says agents are taught to shun violence in order to eliminate the risks of further arousing an angry mob and hurting innocent persons. The official explains that agents can use their guns only as a last resort.

It's this quick moving blocking technique that's credited with saving Nixon's life during the Venezuelan incident. Witnesses believe that if an agent had lost his head and used violence, the outcome of the attack might have been tragic.

But agents are still ready to play rough when they have to. All of them are thoroughly drilled in judo. And each man on the White House detail must be able to fire a gun accurately enough to rank as a sharpshooter.

Many of the bodyguards classify as experts with their revolvers. They also know how to use sub-machine guns, rifles and shotguns. The White House detail is tested in its shooting ability at least once a month.

U.N. Assembly Meeting Will Tell

U. S. Really Has Broad Mideast Plan?

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Does the Eisenhower administration really have a broad Mideast program to offer the United Nations General Assembly or is it just playing by ear?

That becomes a primary question now that the United States and the Soviet Union — since the idea of a special summit meeting apparently has been killed — prepare to carry their Mideast dispute into the Assembly, perhaps next week.

A week ago — when a summit meeting still seemed a possibility — Secretary of State Dulles talked in very narrow terms of what this country would propose. He got some bad reaction in the press.

Since then administration people have been busy giving the impression it would come up with a broad program.

Yesterday at U.N. headquarters in New York people who wanted to be identified only as informants told an Associated Press reporter this country will offer the assembly a broad stabilization program for the Mideast.

They said the administration wants to deal with at least three major problems there: Arab nationalism, economic development and the hundreds of thousands of Arab refugees dispossessed by the Arab-Israeli war of 1948.

But when the reporter sought to pin down his informants — for instance, by asking specifically what would be proposed for the refugees — he was told the details have not been worked out.

Yet, since those refugees have been a blistering sore in the Mideast for 10 years, it might seem Dulles' State Department planners by this time would be pretty clear on what should be done.

Only a week ago at his news conference Dulles was not talking in terms of a broad program at all. Just the opposite: That was when there was still talk of a summit meeting.

OUTLINES 2 GOALS
He outlined this country's two main goals at such a meeting: to defend this country against Soviet charges of aggression and to pin indirect aggression of the Soviets.

Until these points were disposed of, he said, "we do not have an environment or a condition which permits you to proceed usefully" with other problems.

He added: "There is no use getting into the details of economic projects and the like if the (Mideast) governments are going to live under a constant threat of indirect aggression, assassination and the like."

Two days later — Aug. 2 — the Washington Post accused him of a narrow view in an editorial called "The Same Old Rut." It said Dulles was in a rut and added: "Certainly it is right for this country to seek means of dealing with the indirect aggression which has been and is a very real threat in the Near East. But to make this the be-all and end-all... as Mr. Dulles seems to want, would be to get nowhere."

CHANGES LINE
A few hours after the editorial appeared, the administration changed its line. Acting anonymously, a high official called in newsmen and frankly said he wanted to offset an impression the administration was bankrupt of ideas.

He told newsmen Eisenhower would submit to any U.N. summit meeting a series of concrete proposals for peace in the Middle East. So what the informants told the AP man yesterday at the U.N. was following the line laid down by the high official last Saturday.

Meanwhile, Dulles went to Brazil. It remains to be seen what he'll have to say now when he returns.

At his own news conference

Eisenhower was asked if, with or without a summit meeting, his administration planned to come up with an "integrated over-all program of operation in the Middle East?"

He replied vaguely, saying:

"Well, now, I am not going to put it in those broad and quite such resounding terms. We certainly know what we want to do, and we are prepared to, as we agree with each of the countries, if we can, to help wherever we can."

This might seem to mean he was thinking of working out arrangements with individual countries separately. Later in his conference he talked of working through the U.N. but he was never specific on what he had in mind.

On Other Side of Fence

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—Justice of the Peace Stephen Stoddard discovered how the other side of the fence appears when he appeared before Justice Charles Canfield to face a charge of leaving a vehicle unattended, resulting in a rollaway. Justice Canfield found Justice Stoddard guilty and fined him $10 plus $4 court costs.

About 40 per cent of the U. S. is drained by the Mississippi river system.

Wholesale Price Claims Phony

'Bargains' May Be Costly; Investigate

(This is the last in a series of articles prepared by the Michigan Retailers Association in an effort to better educate the buying public of Michigan in improving their buying habits. The Pontiac Press is cooperating with MRA by bringing this series to you.)

How many times have you heard, "I can get it for you wholesale"? Phooey! No matter who you are, you just can't get it wholesale. Dictionaries define wholesale as "the sale of goods in large quantity" and "the business of selling to retailers or jobbers items for further consumption by consumers." There are certain costs involved in the sale of single items to many people, and that cost can not be compared to "wholesaling" large quantities of one item to one customer.

However, quite often you may purchase fine merchandise at bargain prices. For many reasons such as: slow turnover, the need for cash, or style or color changes, a manufacturer may cut prices to less than the original cost of making the merchandise, and then pass the lower price on to a dealer, who will then sell to you at less than his wholesale price once was.

Still the dealer is making a profit, and you are not getting merchandise at "wholesale." You are paying a retail price for merchandise whose wholesale price has been cut for a business reason.

Any "wholesale" price claims are phony; however, there are many different "discount" claims, where prices are sometimes lower. Speak "discount house" prices to people and almost immediately they seem to get the impression that there is the place to buy. Discount house operators have been able to cut prices on some items because of their cut in overhead, which usually means, no free delivery, no merchandise may be returned, no "charge it please"—cash for all purchases, no service department, and smaller inventories with less choice of selection of goods.

GET WHAT YOU PAY FOR

If you want to forfeit these rights as a customer, then buy at a discount house, but then don't go crying to one of your local, long established and reliable merchants that you have been "taken." Sure, it's a good idea to shop around for a good price, but only if you remember that the lowest price isn't necessarily the best deal, and that you just about always get just what you pay for.

The big problem that buying at a discount has caused is that so many people have been "taken" by falling for almost any pitch to save a little money that the "discount" and "factory-to-you" types have invaded more and more shopping areas. You are keeping these undesirable in business and taking it hard on your local retailers who have been doing their best to give you good and honest bargains.

Two of the discount operators' most common practices are "price padding" and "name-brand come-ons." Many unethical retailers and discounters put a price on a certain piece of merchandise double what it should be, and then offer the product at "half-price," which makes it appear that you are getting a big discount.

The "name-brand come-on" offers you a discount on a well known product, which often leads you to buy off-brand items that are way overpriced. "Discount House catalogs" are another favorite means of enticing you to buy at a "bargain price." Here the discounters have you at their mercy and you may get second-hand or damaged merchandise, poor quality merchandise, or even no merchandise at all for your good money.

We offer the following "pills," which will cure any "discount sickness" that you might catch:

1. Beware of the "I can get it for you at a discount" guys. Shop around to find out the prices on the same item in stores that you know and trust.

2. If someone offers to get something for you "wholesale," it only shows that he doesn't even know what "wholesale" means.

3. You will usually get what you pay for, and if you want delivery, return privileges, credit, wide selection, service, and guaranteed product quality, then you had better buy from a merchant who will give them to you.

4. Don't buy without a manufacturer's warranty, and be particularly wary of furniture and appliances that seem to be new, but have a brand name that you have never heard of before.

5. Learn the reputation of the dealer from whom you are going to buy. As a normal citizen, you can not expect to know all there is to know about a certain product, therefore you must rely on the integrity of the store you buy from to give you the true facts about the merchandise that you are interested in buying.

6. Never sign any paper until you have studied it completely, looking for "extra" charges such as installation or delivery fees, and be sure that you get a receipt, or copy of all transactions.

New Farm Bill Appears Dead

Much Tossed About Legislation Drops Out of Congress

WASHINGTON — New farm legislation appears dead for this session of Congress.

The death sentence was pronounced yesterday by speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas in the wake of the second crushing setback suffered by agricultural legislation this year, and the third during this Congress.

"We have been up and down this bill as many times as I care to go this year," Rayburn declared.

His pronouncement followed House defeat of a new farm bill going far in the direction of lower price supports sought by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, but opposed by a majority of House Republicans on the showdown vote yesterday.

Republican strategists had gambled in an all-or-nothing bid for House acceptance of a Senate-passed bill.

The Senate bill, backed by Benson and GOP leaders, went further in reducing farm price supports than the House version. It also junked the 25-year-old parity concept of calculating supports in favor of a new system based on a three-year average of market prices.

The House bill would have pegged future price supports for corn, cotton and rice to a floor of 65 per cent of parity as against 60 per cent asked by Benson and contained in the Senate bill. It would also have prevented scheduled acreage cuts for cotton and rice next year.

But a combination of midwesterners from both parties, big city Democrats, and those who thought the House bill went either too far or not far enough, lined up to beat it.

Man Shoots Wife, Then Kills Himself

LANSING (P)—A husband seriously wounded his wife and then killed himself with a shotgun blast in a downtown Lansing tavern this morning.

Lt. Edward Price reported the shooting as an attempted murder and suicide.

Price said Richard Jarvis, 41, walked into the downtown Hoffbrau tavern where his wife Evelyn, 36, worked as a waitress, shortly before 9 a.m.

One blast from the shotgun hit the wife in the shoulder and side of the face. Jarvis then killed himself with a second blast.

Sen. Potter to Address Orchard Lake Alumni

ORCHARD LAKE — Senator Charles E. Potter will be guest speaker at the annual Founder's Day celebration of the Orchard Lake Alumni Association on Aug. 20.

The senator's attendance, according to his Washington office, depends on Congressional adjournment, now expected about Aug. 15.

Fire Bomarc 1,500 Miles From Site

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A lightning-swift Bomarc intercept missile blasted off today, triggered by a button pushed 1,500 miles away.

The sleek Boeing missile was launched against a simulated enemy aircraft by personnel manning an electronic computer in Kingston, N.Y.

The test had a dual purpose—to check the performance of the nation's most advanced air defense weapon and the effectiveness of an early warning air attack network known as "Sage."

Sage—which stands for Semi-Automatic Ground Environment—is a vast and complex air warning system which hooks up radar with computers capable of calculating data on an enemy air attack in seconds.

The Bomarc, which has an effective range of about 250 miles, rode off in search of an unmanned B17 bomber drone target cruising somewhere over the Atlantic test range.

The missile streaked aloft with a huge flash of orange flames, climbing straight up for some 15 seconds.

At an altitude of about 60,000 feet the weapon curved over and started toward the horizon. A thick white vapor trail traced its course for about 90 seconds before the missile disappeared in a cloud.

The Bomarc sped toward the drone at three times the speed of sound.

Auto Crash Victim Still on Critical List

SOUTHFIELD — Mrs. Elizabeth Horn, 72, of 28308 Franklin Rd., was still on the critical list this morning at William Beaumont Hospital from head injuries suffered in an auto accident Tuesday in Southfield.

According to Southfield Police, Mrs. Horn lost control of her car after it had been pushed by a tow truck.

She was thrown from the spinning car, which veered into a building and narrowly missed two gas tanks before colliding with a

Expect House OK on Trade, Defense Issues

Two Major Bills Sit Well

WASHINGTON (P)—The House was set today to check off two more major items on its end-of-session work list—a bill to extend the reciprocal trade program and a record peacetime defense money bill.

Quick House approval was expected for compromise versions of both bills. The Senate was likely to act on them soon.

A Senate-House conference committee agreed to extend the trade program four years and to give the President authority to cut tariffs up to 20 per cent during that period. This is somewhat less than President Eisenhower requested, but he appeared likely to go along.

A separate conference group voted to recommend 39½ billion dollars for defense in the current fiscal year. This is about 800 million more than Eisenhower asked.

In a heavy work day yesterday, the House voted 286-108 to boost the federal debt limit to 283 billion dollars. The permanent ceiling now is 275 billion, although Congress earlier in the session boosted that temporarily to 280 billion.

The House bill would set a new permanent debt top of 283 billion, and would authorize the 288 billion ceiling until June 30, 1960. This would be the highest peacetime limit ever.

In approving the four-year extension of the trade program, the conferees split the difference between the original House and Senate versions.

The House, in line with administration requests, had voted for a five-year extension with authority to cut tariffs another 25 per cent in return for similar concessions from foreign nations.

The Senate had passed a three-year extension with a 15 per cent limit on additional tariff cuts. The conferees cut out a Senate provision to limit cuts in any one year to 5 per cent.

On one important point, the compromise retains a House amendment that would permit Congress, by a two-thirds vote in both House and Senate, to override the President if he rejects Tariff Commission recommendations for import quotas or higher import duties to protect a home industry. The President now has discretionary authority in this field, with no congressional veto.

In shaping a compromise defense money bill, the conferees deleted some 440 million dollars previously earmarked mostly for the Air Force.

Americans, Soviets on 1st Space Ship?

MOSCOW (UPI)—Scientists meeting here have discussed a U.S. proposal which could put Americans and Russians side by side in the first ship that carries a crew into outer space, it was reported today.

American sources said the plan, proposing cooperation rather than competition in some areas of space research, was mentioned—but not formally submitted—to the resolutions committee of the International Geophysical Assembly at a meeting yesterday.

They explained that the proposal will not be introduced formally here because it is already pending before the International Council of Scientific Unions.

Foreign delegates expressed some interest in the plan.

"The United States appears to think that there are certain spheres of space research where there should be international cooperation rather than competition," one foreigner said.

"I have the impression that this would extend even to the first space flights."

No Soviet comment could be obtained immediately, but some foreign observers pointed out that Russian space pioneer Konstantin Tsiolkovsky urged years ago that the first space ship should carry scientists of all nations.

Daddy Has Some Ideas About Son Growing Up

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Way back in 1950, I made a prediction in this column which has turned out to be flabbergastingly accurate.

"One of these years," I stated, flatly—and this was eight years ago, mind you—"Sluggo is going to grow up."

WILSON

The other night, I took Sluggo, who's now 15, and a chum, to the Copacabana to catch that great young comedy team, Allen and De Wood.

What do you think the two boys talked about? Girls!

"I sort of like that blonde in the middle," mentioned Sluggo, who's now bigger than me—a block off the old chip.

Denise Lor bounced out to sing: the doll you've seen on TV so often with Garry Moore.

"I'll take her," spoke up Sluggo's pal, Jackie Reardon. "Hey!" he said. "Did you see that picture of Gene Kelly's daughter in the paper? She's ALL RIGHT!" Dana Andrews' daughter was real cool, too.

Daddy here was suddenly feeling real old.

Because nowadays I have to put on my bifocals at the shows to see their faces. And since glasses embarrass me, I often keep them in my pocket.

Mitch de Wood and Marty Allen took the subject off of girls for a while. Marty said they'd been at the White House. He had asked Eisenhower, "what are you going to do about the Civil Rights Bill?"

"I don't know what to do," Ike answered. "I thought Goldfine had paid it!"

Then Marty Allen pretended he was a famous pitcher. Mitch de Wood was interviewing him on TV.

"What's your best pitch?" the great pitcher was asked. "Hi, baby, what do you say?" he replied with a leer. "No, no," barked the interviewer. "I'm talking about the national pastime."

"So am I," cracked back the pitcher.

And so Allen and de Wood (who'll be on the Bob Crosby TV show Aug. 23; be sure to watch them) had brought us back to the same subject: girls.

"Which one of the chorus girls does your Daddy like?" asked the B.W. when they danced out again.

Daddy—fumbling for his bifocals—moaned, "I can't even see them!"

And so—old age has come at last even to the country boy from Ohio. I believe I can define old age now. "Old age is when your son swipes your Playboy magazine—and you don't care."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Sabrina's quitting England for the U.S. ... Publicist Carl Erbe went on a "relative-safari" in S. Africa; advertised for—and found—80 kinfolk descending from the family in Leeds, England. First time in history a fellow went looking for—instead of avoiding—relatives ... Jerry Wald paid $100,000 for 26-year-old Rona Jaffe's "The Best of Everything" about New York "sex-retarders" ... Marguerite Piazza's planning to play several musical instruments at the Las Vegas Sands. While here rehearsing, somebody stole her trombone ... Today's Wilson girl Nominee is Marilyn Hanold, George Gobel's guitar-carrier, whom he calls Charley.

MARILYN

Some of the International Set who bought French furs very cheap from a N.Y. furrier are embarrassed. He skipped without delivering ... "Il Borghese," Italy's N.Y. Yorker, which ran the nude of Sophia Loren, is now a collector's item. (Hello, Italy! Collect one for me) ... Eddie Fisher struck oil in Texas ... They say Woolworth Donahue might marry Judy Church at his cousin Barbara Hutton's little 90-room hideaway in Tangier.

Charley Jones says Mom asked Sonny what he was doing and he growled, "With you and God and Santa Claus watchin' me all the time, I'm afraid to do anything" ... That's earl, brother.

Governess in Palace Escapes From Iraq

LONDON (AP) — The English governess of King Faisal's cousins has returned safely to Britain after hiding in Baghdad from the rebels who killed the monarch and members of his household.

The Foreign Office said today Mrs. Florence Hazeldine, 60, had flown home. At one time there were fears for the woman, who went to Baghdad two years ago as governess of the three children of Princess Badie, Faisal's aunt. Details of how she hid from the mobs were not disclosed.

One Girl Dies, Another Loses Leg Under Train

LITTLEFIELD, Tex. (AP)—Another freight train blocked the crossing and the three girls started to crawl under it, as they often did, Josephine Rodriguez, 15, told officers yesterday.

Suddenly, she said, the air brakes hissed and the train lurched into motion. Dora Rodriguez, 13, Josephine's sister, was crushed to death. A wheel sliced off the left leg of Carolina Martinez, 11, below the knee. Josephine scrambled to safety.

Carolina was reported in satisfactory condition after surgery.

War Warnings on Formosa

All Nationalist China Troops in Full Combat Readiness

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Formosa echoed with warnings of war today. Various official Nationalist spokesmen reported:

1. All Nationalist China—Formosa, the Pescadores and the island outposts off the Communist mainland—is in a state of emergency.

2. Special precautions against sabotage are being taken at all strategic points, such as bridges and arms plants.

3. Troops manning Formosa's coastal defenses have been reinforced.

4. Nationalist ground, sea and air forces are in full combat readiness.

5. Airmail precautions were urged on the public. Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Moorman Jr., commander of the U. S. 13th Air Force based in the Philippines, left for Okinawa after a 17-hour visit to Taipei. He conferred with ranking Nationalist and U.S. officers.

The American command on Formosa announced that Brig. Gen. Charles H. Pottenger, commander of the 315th U. S. Air Division, would arrive in Taipei tomorrow for a visit.

North California Bigger

Light in Sky Only Mars Passing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don't get excited folks, that strange light seen near the moon last night and early today was merely the planet Mars.

That's the official word from the U. S. Naval Observatory here.

Observatory scientists made a quick check after newspaper switchboards across the country became swamped with calls inquiring about "the strange light near the moon."

In California, a spokesman for the Lick Observatory near San Francisco said Mars often comes in near alignment with the moon, causing unusual light effects.

Waitress Won't Bring Fried Shrimp Sandwich

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A shrimp by any other name is still a shrimp to a Decatur woman who reports that she was denied a fried shrimp sandwich while on a Florida vacation.

"We don't have any fried shrimp sandwiches," the waitress said. "Well do you have any fried shrimp?" she was asked.

"Yes."

"And do you have any bread?"

"Yes."

"Then I want a fried shrimp sandwich."

"Sorry," the waitress said firmly, "we don't have any fried shrimp sandwiches."

Doctors Face Many Lawsuits

AMA Says Usual Case Is Brought by Patients Following an Operation

NEW YORK (INS)—The American Medical Association says that most suits against physicians are filed by 34-year-old housewives dissatisfied with an allegedly poor operation result.

That picture of the typical national claimant was drawn by the AMA's experts on medicine and law in a report on Medical Professional Liability Claims and Suits.

Highlights of the report published in the AMA Journal:

—about one out of every seven AMA members has had a medical professional liability claim or suit brought against him at some time.

—13 per cent of the doctors threatened with court action have had more than one dissatisfied patient.

—in California, one out of every four physicians have had a claim or suit.

—in South Carolina, the figure is less than one out of 33, the best record nationwide.

In addition to poor operation results, patients sue for these reasons:

—poor medical result, error in diagnosis, foreign bodies left in patients, burns (with hot water bottles or heat treatment devices), assault, lack of consent, abandonment.

Cited as secondary reasons for suits were:

—careless comment by one doctor about another; action prompted by attorney or relatives; claims brought for financial gain.

The AMA Medicine and Law report concluded:

"Nearly all medical professional liability claims and suits are theoretically preventable. Active and effective prevention programs must be initiated and implemented at the local, state and national level."

"These programs should encourage the adoption of methods of conducting a medical practice which will minimize professional errors and reduce the likelihood of having claims filed in the event of an untoward or poor result."

Pickle Packing Periled

LAKEVIEW (AP)—A Lakeview pickle packer can't get enough pickles picked to pack.

Michigan Pickle Co. owner-manager John Bale says a rail strike in Mexico is to blame. It has caused a field hand labor shortage. The firm has 840 Mexican nationals harvesting pickles from 3,000 acres under contract.

But 600 more workers are needed quickly. Those already at field are spending most of their time pulling big cucumbers from the vines as throwaways.

It's a necessary evil, Bale explains, to keep vines producing the little pickles required for packing. Pickles rapidly become big cucumbers in warm weather.

Meanwhile, 10 buses owned by Michigan Growers Assn. were waiting at the U.S.-Mexican border at El Paso, Tex., to help speed the needed workers to northern fields.

Bale says the wait is indefinite since the rail strike has forced workers to other means of transportation—sometimes undependable—to get from their homes to border crossing and processing points.

Railroad Strike Ends in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Railroad service was expected to return to normal in Mexico today under an agreement ending a four-day walkout on the strikers' terms.

The agreement signed in the Labor Ministry last night provided that Demetrio Vallejo would be the only candidate for secretary general of the railway union in elections to be held within 15 days.

Vallejo called 100,000 workers out on strike last Saturday night after the Labor Ministry ruled that he had been elected to the post illegally and Salvador Quesada still held it. Quesada agreed not to run in the new elections.

One-half of the chronically ill people in the U. S. are under age 45.

Landing Gear Fails, New Pilot Lands Safely

NORTH BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—Edward Waugh, 23, a student pilot, was coming in to land at North Brunswick Airport when a man on the ground noticed the left landing gear was broken.

Several bystanders waved frantically to Waugh to stay aloft. As he came down, one man drove the jeep down the runway alongside the plane while two others held up the left wing.

After touching down safely, the plane veered sharply, breaking the propeller. But everyone, including Waugh, escaped without a scratch. He has five hours solo time.

Alabama Mayor Shot to Death

SARALAND, Ala. (AP)—Mayor O. L. Driver was fatally shot from ambush in the driveway of his home last night.

Officers said an assailant apparently waited in a clump of bushes until Driver, returning from work, pulled into his driveway. The 56-year-old mayor was shot with what officers believed to be buckshot from close range through the rear window of his car.

Saraland, a town of about 300 population, is 11 miles north of Mobile.

Airmail Letter Delivered

Penny Inside for Postage

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The envelope bore an old 6-cent air mail stamp and the notation, in feminine handwriting: "There's a penny inside to pay the extra postage."

Sure enough, Kansas City postal clerks said, the coin could be felt through the envelope.

They sent the letter on to its destination, stamped "Postage due."

Island Wives Take Plane for Shopping

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (UPI)—Week-end shopping for Mackinac Island housewives during the winter means a six-minute hop across Lake Huron to either Mackinac City or St. Ignace.

taking a $3.50 aerial round trip to the state's mainland.

The airlift to the island is operated by John Sturgeon, one of the owners of the light planes that are equipped with skis to ferry freight and passengers.

Sturgeon's ferrying service also includes hauling back all the groceries the women can carry.

Milkers estimate it requires 340 to 350 squirts during the milking process to yield one gallon of milk.

Three People Injured in 3-Car Smashup

Three people were injured in a Elizabeth Lake road, Waterford Township at 6 p.m. last night.

Alex Soya, 31, of 4789 Cass-Elizabeth Lake Rd., told Waterford Township Police that the brakes on his car failed as he approached the intersection.

He slammed into the back of an auto driven by Frank Rappa, 51, of Detroit who hit the car in front of him driven by Orville Judd, 73, of 4344 Lanette St., Pontiac.

Taken to Pontiac General Hospital were Rappa's daughter, Francine, 14 and a passenger in his car, Margaret Pringle, 25, of East Detroit, along with Soya.

All were treated for neck and back injuries and then released.

Electrocution Set for Kidnap-Killer

OSSINING, N.Y. (AP)—John Angelo LaMarca, his legal pleas exhausted in the kidnap-killing of little Peter Weinberger, is scheduled to die tonight in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair.

The 33-year-old LaMarca's final hope is last-minute action by Gov. Averell Harriman. Harriman has not acted on a mercy plea which LaMarca made about a year ago. But the governor could step in any time before the execution.

At New Haven, Conn., yesterday Judge Carroll C. Hinds of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals turned down a final move by defense counsel.

LaMarca, father of two young children, snatched 33-day-old Peter from his carriage outside the Weinberger's Westbury, N.Y., home July 4, 1956. Ransom notes became a grim mockery when it was learned that LaMarca, panicking, left the baby to die in a lonely briar and honeysuckle patch the second day of the kidnaping. He was not arrested until Aug. 23.

At his trial, LaMarca, a mechanic, told of being motivated by a need for money to get out of debt, of snatching the baby on impulse. A defense contention that he was insane at the time fell flat with a jury of fathers, which convicted him Dec. 7, 1956, without recommending mercy.

LaMarca's appeals extended all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court. After yesterday's turn-down, the sixth in nearly two years, his lawyer, Nancy Carley, said no legal recourse remains.

LaMarca's wife Donna, 33, said: "I just can't believe my husband will die. How can they send an insane man to the chair? No man who is a father can let another child die unless he was crazy."

Mrs. LaMarca told of taking the children to see their father at Sing Sing Sunday. "They got along fine," she said. "He told them to do well in school and take care of me. Vivian is too young to understand what's going on, but Vincent knows what's happening."

Seaway Tolls Called Too Low

Official of New York Port Authority Asks for 'Realistic' Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official of the port of New York Authority urged today that proposed shipping tolls on the St. Lawrence Seaway be "realistically assessed" to make the project self-sustaining.

Roger H. Gilman, the Authority's director of port development, made the proposal in a statement prepared for presentation at a hearing being conducted here by the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp.

The Authority proposed through Gilman that tolls be at least 25 per cent higher than proposed by the tolls committees of the seaway corporation and its counterpart, the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority of Canada.

Gilman, who made the Port Authority's statement public in New York City, said: "We're not afraid of St. Lawrence Seaway competition if they compete with us on a fair basis."

The Port of New York Authority—a New York-New Jersey agency—suggested that the initial tolls on ships be raised from 6 to 15 cents a ton; the charge for bulk cargo from 42 to 50 cents a ton; and for general cargo from 95 cents to $1.25 a ton.

Gilman said the seaway corporation's proposed charges were based on over-optimistic estimates of operating costs and traffic.

Canadian Northwest Sees Whoopers Nest

FORT WORTH — Once the range of the whooping crane extended in winter, from the Atlantic Ocean westward to within 125 miles of the Pacific, in Mexico. Today the wintering grounds are reduced to a strip on the Texas coast that is only about 15 miles in width from east to west.

At present the whooper nests in a relatively small area in northwestern Canada, and migrates along a narrow and almost direct route to the Texas coast, where it winters on the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge near Austin, Tex., and two adjacent coastal islands.

Heifetz to Coach Class of Violinists at UCLA

AP Motion Picture Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—On the issue of whether a boy should stay indoors and study the violin or be out playing with the other kids, Jascha Heifetz offers this suggestion: "Why can't he study the violin and play outside as well? The trouble today is that there is too much play. Everything is too easy. It is the same as in the new automobiles with their power steering and power everything. There is little left for the driver to do."

"There is plenty of time in life to play and also to work. In the old country, we managed it. We worked six days a week. And on the seventh day, we had to make an accounting of what we had accomplished the other six."

These comments helped to explain why the violin virtuoso is undertaking to teach his ideas of discipline and technique to a class of students for the first time in his life. From October to January, he will have twice-weekly sessions with eight young violinists and 10 auditors in the extension division of UCLA.

"There will be no curricula, no grades or anything like that," Heifetz explained at his hilltop home in Beverly Hills. "I will simply try to tell the students the tricks and methods I have learned over the years."

"They will all be advanced students and even the auditors must be players; I wouldn't have the patience to teach beginners. I have done some coaching with individual players in the past and have found the experience gratifying. This is the first time that I have undertaken a class. I guess it is because of my old teacher. Once he pointed at me and said, 'You were meant to teach.' I suppose I am obeying him now."

Heifetz was earnest about the role of art in the world today. "The government is finally realizing the power that artists can have in making friends for our country abroad," he said. "Art speaks for itself; if it is good, it is internationally recognized. But merely sending our artists to foreign countries is only the first step. More needs to be done. There is a head in the government."

Three Killings Pose Mystery

Why Does Man Shoot Two Little Girls, Self to Death?

EAKSVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Authorities sought today to pierce the mystery of why 27-year-old Davis Edgar Alley killed two little neighborhood girls and himself in a burst of gunfire.

Mary Jane Dalton, 9, and her sister Frances, 7, went to the Alley home yesterday. They wanted to use the telephone to call the local hospital to inquire about their mother, who had just given birth to a child.

Moments later, a series of shots rang out. Alley's wife, returning from a neighbor's house, found her husband sprawled unconscious across a bed with a bullet through his head. The bullet-punctured bodies of the sisters lay nearby.

Alley died last night without regaining consciousness. A coroner's jury called the case murder and suicide. Relatives and friends of Alley could think of no explanation. Alley, a World War II veteran, had been out of a job since January. But he had appeared in good spirits despite the problem of supporting his pregnant wife and a 3-year-old daughter.

3 in Ambulance Die Crashing Into Train

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Collision of an ambulance with a freight train locomotive yesterday killed two men and a woman.

Killed were two ambulance attendants and a patient they were taking to a hospital after a traffic accident.

Police said the dead were Mrs. Vera Dominguez, 44, El Paso, who was injured shortly before in a one-car crash; Sgt. Darrell Day, 24, Biggs Air Force Base; and Robert Richey, 26, El Paso policeman.

Day and Richey worked as sparetime ambulance attendants.

Jokers Carry Off Car

BELLEVILLE, N. J. (AP)—Alvin Outcalt told police last night that for the second time in five days some muscular fellows had apparently carried his small foreign car from his driveway to his neighbor's. He said he could think of no reason for the moving job.

Woman Unawed by His Popularity

Pitted Against Symington

By CLARENCE JOHNSON

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — "There isn't anyone who can't be defeated whether he is president, senator or constable."

That's one Republican's theory about U.S. Sen. Stuart Symington, a very popular Democrat in Missouri, a state where Democrats generally are popular.

Expressing the theory was Hazel Palmer, a state, 54-year-old attorney. Now she's going to try to prove it by running against Symington in the November general election.

Miss Palmer, junior partner in the Sedalia law firm of Palmer & Palmer, won her first statewide political race Tuesday. With party organization support, she easily defeated three men for the Republican senatorial nomination.

She is the first woman ever selected by either party to run for the Senate in Missouri. But Miss Palmer is unawed.

"It (the political situation) is very encouraging and the state looks fine for my election," she said.

Miss Palmer has been dabbling in politics since, at the age of 7, she accompanied her mother, a Republican committeewoman on doorbell ringing tours to get out the vote.

She also can call on an old-time campaigner for advice. Watching with pride as his daughter challenges the formidable Symington will be John W. Palmer Sr., at age 91 the senior partner of Palmer & Palmer. He is a former member of Congress.

Miss Palmer served three terms as collector of revenue in Pettis County, but her biggest political battle wasn't for public office.

Just two months ago, the trim and energetic candidate retired as president of the National Assn. of Business and Professional Women, an organization with 175,000 members.

Does she think Missouri voters are prejudiced against women candidates?

"No," she replied, "voters respect the good qualities in a woman candidate as quickly as in a man."

But, she hastened to add, women politicians must be better qualified to receive the initial recognition that is almost automatically accorded to men.

"People won't vote for just any woman who happens to have her name on the ticket," said the blue-eyed, brown-haired Miss Palmer.

Rep. Wint Smith Renominated by Slim 41 Votes

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Rep. Wint Smith, a veteran of almost 12 years in the U.S. House, apparently has won by 41 votes the Republican nomination for a seventh term.

Complete but unofficial returns from all 551 precincts in Kansas' 6th Dist. gave Smith 12,007 votes to 11,966 for Keith Sebelius, a Norton lawyer. The third man in the race, Joe Gunnels of Colby, got only 2,759 votes in Tuesday's primary.

Final outcome of the race awaits the official canvass and next Tuesday's counting of in-state absentee ballots.

The winner will face Democrat Elmo Mahoney of Dorrance, who twice has lost to Rep. Smith.

'Magna Charta' Gives All Cats Ideal Freedom

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The laws of man and dog do not apply to cats in Los Angeles.

Cats, the city attorney ruled yesterday, are not subject to the leash law, may not be trapped, cannot be accused of trespassing and may fight at will.

The ruling was handed down in response to an application from Harrison A. Walter to set out a trap to catch a cat that is ruining his patio furniture.

Nobody, concluded the city attorney, but nobody, can tell a cat what to do.

Paris says gals' skirts must get long, lanky dames in the neighborhood. Shucks, gals' shoulder straps have been getting longer heretofore $500,000 — now she's tall for years. . . One of those lean, and stately. . . Some of those

Hard Light of Facts Shows Weaknesses

American Thinking on Middle East Needs Thorough Clearing

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

American thinking on the Middle East has been befuddled by labels and lines.

The result is that on the verge of a fateful U.N. Assembly meeting, United States policy in the Arab East seems a mass of confusion.

The hour is late, but American policy still can profit by taking a candid look at its own weaknesses. If the United States fails to do this, the scene of frustration behind many Arab actions conceivably can bring about a situation with grave consequences for Western Europe.

The waves of nationalism and Nasserism are not as such the main U. S. concern. It is rather how to prevent these forces from leading to a clear Soviet breakthrough. And how to prevent the Soviets from capitalizing on unending turmoil to the extent that one day they can hope for a commanding influence over the area's resources.

For years American policy makers seemed to approach the Middle East as if they were dealing with the practical-minded citizens of West Germany.

The United States seemed to see no issue but communism and anti-communism. Anything not totally down the line for U. S. policy in the Middle East became anti-Western.

For years the United States, captivated by the notion that hypothetical military lines were protection against violent ideas, attempted to push Arab countries into military pacts. The attempts failed.

The United States then helped put together an agreement called the Baghdad Pact, ironically taking its name from a city where it was opposed by probably 90 per cent of the literate population. This pact was supposed to be a bulwark against communism, but Arab nationalists saw it as an excuse to perpetuate western military power in the Arab world.

Invariably the United States and Britain turned up on the side of unpopular men, causes and regimes. To the United States, Nuri Said of Iraq was pro-Western.

Therefore he deserved all-out support. To many Arabs, Nuri Said was a one-time heroic Arab nationalist leader who surrendered his right to leadership by becoming a creature of British policy. American policy refused to face up to the fact that Nuri's dictatorship was opposed by a semi-literate population.

In Jordan, young King Hussein ruled a country created by the British arbitrarily from Arab territory—a strange little country with no real reason for existence. Hussein was "anti-Communist." Therefore he was entitled to all-out American support.

Only British-American support keeps the courageous young King alive. The United States has invested heavily in Hussein—about 130 million dollars. All this was committed since 1953, and more than half of it since the April 1957 crisis. The cost is mounting. To protect the shaky investment, the United States must spend more and more.

American diplomacy permitted itself to be frightened by Arab nationalism and panicked by the threat of communism. This produced a doctrine purporting to defend the Arabs against the threat of Communist military attack. But no military attack seemed in prospect while the Communists were making strides with their political and economic infiltration.

When an internal political fight between out and ins broke out in Lebanon, U. S. policy immediately professed to see pro-Western and anti-Western outlines in it. It did not start that way. Indeed, much of the rebel opposition was definitely anti-Communist and friendly to the West.

The policy tended to force the rebels more and more into attitudes inimical to the West. Lacking any understanding from Washington, or London, they sought support from Gamal Abdel Nasser and got it—while the Soviets cheered on the sidelines. Before the rebellion reached its critical stage, it had taken on a definite Nasserist tinge.

Once again, American policy hitched itself to a personality rather than to a principle. The United States cast its lot with President Camille Chamoun, whom the opposition suspected of wanting to perpetuate himself in office.

By the time the Iraqi explosion came there seemed little for the United States and Britain to do but intervene with force in Lebanon and Jordan. But for British intervention in Jordan, Hussein likely would have shared the fate of his slain cousin, Faisal of Iraq. Without American intervention in Lebanon, it is likely the Iraqi eruption would have produced a shot in the arm for a rebel push to overthrow Chamoun by force.

There is some thought that the intervention may have forestalled a Soviet plan to infiltrate "volunteers" into Lebanon from the Moslem Soviet areas of Central Asia. But the need for intervention, with its melancholy parallels to the Soviet action in Hungary, arose in part at least as the result of a long series of American miscalculations. And it is questionable if intervention served American policy in the long run.

Arab nationalism will not be stopped by force. Force simply will make it eager to rally itself under the banner of extreme Nasserism.

Up to now the Soviets have enjoyed themselves in the Middle East situation. With a U.N. Assembly meeting in prospect, they will continue to enjoy themselves unless the United States dramatically seizes the initiative.

Rebel Leader Discusses Lebanon's Future Course

What happens next in Lebanon? United Press International put this question to Nuri Said, leader of the rebellion in Beirut. He wrote the following dispatch to answer. Nuri is a graduate of the American University of Beirut, president of the League of Arab Nations, and former minister of Lebanon.

By SALES SALAM
Written for UPI

BEIRUT (UPI) — The internal situation in Lebanon is conditioned by the fact that the country is made up of two component parts—Christian and Moslem. No future policy of program can be successful unless it is based on the principle of full and equal partnership and accord of these two parts.

Neither side must dominate the other. Neither must take the other for granted. Both must feel that they have an equal stake in the country, that they equally belong to it.

If this principle is translated into action in the economic, social, cultural, political and administrative fields, nothing can endanger the internal cohesion of Lebanon.

Lebanese relations with her sister Arab states must be based upon respect for the independence and territorial integrity of Lebanon.

The Arab states, in fact, have always been anxious to express this respect. This is evident from the covenant of the Arab League, repeated declarations of (U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel) Nasser and recent statements by the republic of Iraq.

On the other hand Lebanon must not allow itself to be used by foreign powers as a lever to widen differences between the Arab states nor must it become a bridgehead for indirect pressure or direct aggression against any sister Arab state.

Lebanon has nothing to fear from the united Arab world. Apart from consideration of the sentiment and from security against possible Israeli expansion, it is in the vital interest of Lebanon, whose economy depends on transit, trade and oil revenues and contracts, to have the closest and friendliest relations with the Arab countries.

Future policy must suited for Lebanon in the East-West struggle is in fact Lebanon's traditional policy, which dates back to the inception of the country's independence in 1943.

This policy is one of friendship to all, and of neutrality between the great power blocs. By neutrality is meant refusal to be drawn into the whole complex of direct or indirect military commitments to either bloc by the adoption of doctrine, joining of pacts, granting of bases or recognition of preferential status.

This, of course, does not mean Lebanon should not cooperate with the sister Arab states in taking measures for regional security as indicated in the Arab security pact.

No one can predict the future but if one is talking of what is necessary and desirable, then (Lebanese President Camille) Chamoun must resign immediately and the foreign American occupation must cease forthwith.

No useful political step can be taken so long as these two stumbling blocks remain.

Says Mideast Solution Must Provide for Israel

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru said today any solution to the Israel-Arab conflict must provide for Israel's continued existence.

"I hope that... a peaceful settlement may be arrived at," Nehru told his monthly news conference. "Obviously that involves the continuation of Israel and the acceptance of Israel by the countries about it."

In its efforts for better world health the World Health Organization in 1956 participated in nearly 700 projects to wipe out malaria in 120 countries and territories.

Does Home Canning Pay You?

BIG JOB AHEAD — Mrs. Dan Abbey of Lake Orion checks her canning and freezing equipment before she starts the annual job of preserving food for her family's use in the winter. Mrs. Abbey won't be doing much canning this week because she'll be too busy helping at the 4-H Fair. But she's all ready.

Lowered Beef Prices Are Good News to Buyers

There's good news in the meat department. Supplies of better grade beef are increasing and this trend will continue during August. This is bringing slightly lower wholesale and retail prices reports the Marketing Information Agent. Little change is evidenced in other meats since a week ago.

Michigan fields offer an abundance of fresh produce. Good growing weather is bringing good quality vegetables and fruits to market. Sweet corn is very abundant. Tomatoes will be harvested in heavy volume than last week. A record crop of Redhaven peaches will begin to move to market in southwest Michigan this week with local supplies expected to start about August 15th.

THE MEAT SITUATION

More cattle in feed lots than a year ago at this time is responsible for lower wholesale prices on choice grades of beef. This situation is resulting in slightly lower retail prices on roasts, ground beef and even on some steaks.

Pork supplies will increase this month, but cuts fluctuate in price from week to week. Some seem to go up slightly, others down. Shoppers with thrift in mind will find rib-end roast and frankfurters top values. Bacon and spare-ribs will be marked at lower than usual prices in some stores this week.

Fryer prices are generally a few cents per pound higher than last week when many stores offered them as features. This does not mean fryers are not a good meat value from a price standpoint. Production is heavy at this season and prices are very reasonable when compared to many other meat cuts.

Turkeys, roasting chickens or the small Cornish hens may fit the market order. Turkey parts in some markets will provide an easy way to have all white or dark meat. Buy what you want for a meal with no plans for left-overs.

PRODUCE

Michigan sweet corn supplies are heavy and prices are down. One bushel in the husks (about 35 pounds or 60 ears) will yield 14-17 pints frozen or 10-12 pints canned.

Reports that Michigan celery crop is one of the finest in many years can be verified in your favorite market. Homegrown supplies are abundant. Quality and size are very good. Teamed with a large western crop, Michigan supplies have brought low prices for shoppers.

Green beans and head lettuce are in generous supply. Cabbage, cucumbers and tomatoes are vegetable values for the shopping list. Tomatoes are reaching heavy volume stage in western Michigan while supplies in this area are still not as heavy. If you buy tomatoes that are not ripe, leave them at room temperature (either in light or dark) until fully ripe. Then refrigerate them.

Leaving tomatoes on a window sill in direct light will cause splotchy color and may affect the flavor. The cold refrigerator temperature will stop the ripening process so that underripe tomatoes will not ripen; ripe tomatoes will not become over-ripe.

The national peach crop is the largest since 1947. This explains the low seasonal prices on fresh peaches in the market. Until this week, supplies have been arriving from out of state.

This year's peach crop of about three million bushels will start to market in southwestern Michigan this week Mrs. Lawyer states. The Redhaven variety, which makes up about one third of the crop, will start about August 5 and will reach volume about August 8-10. In this area, harvest will start about August 15 with peak supplies 3-5 days later.

The Redhaven variety is excellent for canning, freezing or fresh use. It is brilliantly colored with firm yellow flesh.

Seedless grapes and watermelon fit into the econo list of fruits for the week.

Picnic Food Sure to Include Beans

A picnic can be anywhere...in the deep woods with sunlight filtering through the trees...on a beach...at a roadside table...or in your own backyard. It's a fun custom, a summertime adventure with plenty of good things to eat that always seem to taste better under open skies.

Whatever else is on the menu, almost a "must" for a good old American picnic is a pot of baked beans, hearty and satisfying to outdoor appetites. If your picnic is an impromptu one here's a delicious bean dish that is ready in a hurry.

Quickie Picnic Beans

1 20-oz. can baked beans in tomato sauce.
1/2 cup water.
1/2 cup catsup or chili sauce.
1 tablespoon molasses.
1 tablespoon prepared mustard.
6 slices crisp bacon, broken into chips.
Mix all ingredients thoroughly and place in casserole or bean pot. Heat over open fire til bubbly.

For another outing, you'll want to try this popular and easy-to-fix salad that's a substantial accompaniment to any other picnic fare you're planning.

He-Man Bean Salad

1 lb. navy beans.
2 stalks celery, chopped.
3 green onions, chopped.
1 clove garlic, mashed (optional).
4 strips bacon, fried crisp.
4 tablespoons tarragon vinegar.
French dressing or mayonnaise to moisten.
Boil navy beans til tender. Drain and mix together with celery, onions, garlic, crumbled bacon and vinegar. Toss with French dressing or mayonnaise til thoroughly marinated. Chill 'til very cold.

Dried Apricots Give Interest to Yeast Loaf

Like to bake with yeast? Here's an easy bread.

Apricot Yeast Bread

1/2 cup hot water.
1/2 cup sugar.
1 1/2 teaspoons salt.
1/2 cup shortening.
1/2 cup warm (not hot) water.
2 packages active dry yeast.
1 egg (slightly beaten).
3 1/2 cups sifted flour.
1 cup dried apricots (chopped).
Mix together hot water, sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into mixing bowl. Sprinkle in yeast. Stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm water mixture. Add egg, flour and apricots. Stir until well blended, about 2 minutes.

Let rise in warm place, free from draft, about 50 minutes or until more than double in bulk. Stir down. Beat vigorously about 1 1/2 minute. Turn into greased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake uncovered in hot (400 degrees) oven about 45 minutes.

Note: If compressed yeast is substituted for the active dry yeast, dissolve it in 1/2 cup lukewarm water.

Make Egg Foo Yung

Family surprise, that's home made egg foo yung. Drain 1 No. 2 can bean sprouts and mix with 1 cup finely diced cooked meat and 1/2 cup chopped onion. Beat 6 eggs slightly and add to meat mixture. Drop by spoonfuls into 1/2 cup hot lard or drippings in a large frying-pan to make patties about 3 inches in diameter. Brown on both sides. Serve immediately on hot platter with gravy.

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Like armchair gardeners in January, homemakers in the early days of the harvest often plan to accomplish far more than they can actually do. If they go to a fair where prizes are given for the best looking jars of fruits or vegetables, they are inspired to similar achievements.

We are not belittling women who save money by canning produce from their own gardens—far from it—we bow very low in front of them, for we know the hours of tedious work it involves.

But we would echo Mrs. Josephine Lawyer's question, "Does it pay?" Mrs. Lawyer, Oakland County Consumer Information Agent, has this to say:

"The cost of glass jars, tops, heat for processing and investment in equipment runs about 5 cents per quart. Then add the cost of the raw food and other ingredients used.

"Cost of home freezing food runs about 2 cents per pound for packaging. This does not include the cost of freezing and holding. Again add the cost of the raw food and other ingredients.

"You need to know what yields to expect when deciding cost of raw foods, and the amount you want to buy. Several Michigan foods will be in good supply for preserving in August."

SWEET CORN—Expected to be good supply all month. 1 bushel in the husks (about 35 pounds or 60 ears) will yield 14 to 17 pints frozen; 10 to 12 pints canned.

BLUEBERRIES — Expected to be in volume by August 10, 1 1/3 to 1 1/2 pints yield 1 pint frozen, 24 quarts yield 12 to 18 quarts canned or 1 1/2 to 2 pounds yields 1 quart canned.

PEACHES — Approximately 3 million bushels of large peaches predicted in Michigan. Mr. Karl Bailey, District Horticultural Agent predicts Redhaves will start August 15; Halehaves September 1 and Elbertas September 15 in eastern Michigan.

Volume supplies expected within 3 to 5 days after a variety starts to market. One bushel (45 pounds) yields from 18 to 24 quarts of canned or frozen peaches depending upon size and condition of fruit. 2 to 2 1/2 pounds yields 1 quart.

TOMATOES—Will be in heavy volume shortly after August 1. 2 to 3 pounds makes 1 quart canned. One bushel (50 to 53 pounds) makes 15 to 20 quarts canned or juice.

GREEN BEANS

In adequate supply during August. One pound will yield 1 canned pint or 1 1/2 frozen pints. One bushel will yield 15 to 20 canned quarts or 50 frozen pints.

In the weeks to come we will give you more recipes for canning and freezing. In the meantime, here are one or two hints to keep you going.

You might try improving the flavor of home canned tomatoes with the addition of one tablespoon corn syrup to each quart of tomatoes.

Change the flavor of your canned peaches by adding boosters to the syrup. Try 1/4 almond with 3/4 vanilla; add flavoring to syrup a little at a time until taste is just right for you. Or add orange peel to the syrup while it is boiling and remove it when the syrup is delicately flavored.

Above all, take it easy. Don't try to can or freeze everything in one day. Enlist the help of other members of your family if you can. They'll help with the eating, come winter.

This Sandwich Needs Baking

In addition to the out-of-hand snack sandwich, we have a modern day refinement called the "main dish" sandwich. It joins all the other one-dish, casserole-type meals that are such pets of the busy modern homemaker. Baked Tuna Sandwich is a fine example of this satisfying kind of dish.

Baked Tuna Sandwich
1 cup flaked tuna (5-ounce can).
1/2 cup chopped pickle.
1/2 cup chopped ripe olives.
1 teaspoon lemon juice.
8 slices enriched bread.
Butter or margarine.
8 slices crisp bacon.
1 1/2 cups condensed cream of mushroom soup (10 1/2-ounce can).
1/2 cup water.

Combine tuna, pickle, olives and lemon juice and mix lightly. Toast bread and spread with butter or margarine. Arrange 4 slices in bottom of 9-inch square baking pan. Spread tuna mixture over toast in baking pan.

Arrange 2 strips bacon on each slice of toast and cover with remaining slices of toast. Combine soup and water and mix thoroughly. Pour over sandwiches. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Cucumber Salad a Natural With Fish

Marinated cucumbers taste so good with fish.

Marinated Cucumber Salad
1 cucumber (about 8 inches long).
1 1/2 tablespoons olive oil.
1 tablespoon cider vinegar.
2 teaspoons sugar.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
Sliced greens.

Pare cucumber; draw the sharp lines of a fork down entire length of cucumber for scalloped effect; slice thin. With a fork beat olive oil, vinegar, sugar and salt together in a shallow wide container; add cucumber and mix well.

Cover and refrigerate for a few hours; turn cucumber in marinade a few times. Serve with salad greens. Makes 4 servings.

90 Million Sandwiches Eaten Yearly

Pontiac Press Home Editor

It's Sandwich Time again. Every year in August the food industry concentrates on sandwiches, and we are flooded with new recipes for you. Americans extend their search for change and for "something better" even to the popular sandwich.

More than 90 million sandwiches are eaten daily in the United States. Placed side by side, they would reach from New York to San Francisco and back again.

Letting your guests make up their own sandwiches is an easy way to please everyone. Offer an assortment of good-tasting sandwich stuffings and plenty of crusty rolls.

Make up this savory dressing to be spread on top of the filled rolls. It's made with a popular soft drink.

Tangy Sandwich Dressing
1-3 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups lemon-meringue carbonated beverage

Combine flour, salt and pepper and stir in lemon-meringue carbonated beverage. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches the boiling point. Start heating with a rotary beater or an electric mixer and add eggs, one at a time.

Continue heating and slowly pour in oil. Stir in remaining ingredients. Chill. Makes about 2 cups.

In many bakeries you can get hamburger size buns made of rye dough. They are especially good for the following sandwich.

New England Ryewiches
1 1/2 cups chopped corned beef (12-ounce can)
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped dill pickle
1/2 cup chopped cucumber
Dash pepper
1 1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard
3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
6 rye buns or enriched hamburger buns
Butter or margarine, softened

Mix corned beef, celery, pickle, cucumber, pepper, mustard and mayonnaise or salad dressing. Split buns and spread with butter or margarine. Spread filling on bottom half of buns. Cover with bun tops.

Makes 6 sandwiches.

In a recent sandwich contest held to pick the "20 Best Sandwiches of the Year," this open-face cheese and fruit sandwich won third prize. It should appeal to the younger set.

The Stratophere
8 ounces cream cheese, softened
1/2 cup toasted, sliced blanched almonds
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup diced, peeled raw apple
8 slices whole wheat sandwich bread
Cinnamon sugar
Dark seedless raisins
Mix thoroughly cream cheese, almonds, sugar, cinnamon and apple. Spread cream cheese mixture on bread slices. Sprinkle generously with cinnamon sugar. Cut each slice into 3 triangles by cutting diagonally from each lower corner of bread slice to center of top edge.

To arrange on serving plate, place large triangle at top and form 2 smaller triangles into a large triangle. (The sandwich will be a diamond shape.) Decorate sandwich with raisins. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Triple-deck club sandwiches are sensational. There are many variations of the original bacon, chick-

Slivered Almonds Brown in Butter for Sauce

Try almond butter sauce to "dress up" vegetables, suggests Anita Dean, extension specialist in foods at Michigan State University. Just melt 1/2 cup butter in a heavy saucepan and heat until golden brown. Add 1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds and 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice.

This makes enough for four servings. Pour sauce over cooked broccoli or cauliflower and serve at once.

en, lettuce combination. You're sure to make a hit with this one.

Three-Decker Sandwich Sensation
2 cups ground cooked ham
1/2 cup pickle relish
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1/4 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
12 slices enriched bread
Butter or margarine
Mayonnaise or salad dressing
12 tomato slices
1 avocado, sliced
Lemon juice
Lettuce leaves
Combine ham, pickle relish, onion, the 1/4 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing and mustard. Mix well. Spread 6 slices bread with butter or margarine. Spread buttered slices with ham mixture.

Spread 6 more bread slices with butter or margarine. Place over ham mixture, buttered side down. Spread tops of slices with mayonnaise or salad dressing. Arrange tomato and avocado slices over second bread slices. Top with lettuce leaves.

Spread 6 remaining bread slices with butter or margarine and place over lettuce. Makes 6 three-decker sandwiches.

Fresh Fruit Cups Are Easy to Vary.

Force 1 1/2 cups fresh raspberries or sliced fresh strawberries through a sieve. Add 1/4 cup sugar and mix well. Pour over 4 cups chilled fresh honeydew balls. Serve in sherbet glasses and garnish with fresh mint, 8 servings.

Combine 2 cups chilled cantaloupes, 1 cup diced fresh peaches, 1/2 cup fresh blueberries, 3 tablespoons sugar and 3 tablespoons fresh lime juice. Pile lightly into sherbet glasses or cantaloupe shells. Garnish with fresh mint, 6 servings.

Fresh Beets Are Best

Orange Butter sauce gives to beets that extraordinary flavor: to 1/4 cup melted butter, add 3 tablespoons orange juice and 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Simmer for a few minutes over low heat.

Bake Chicken Sandwich Serve With Pineapple

Glamorize chicken sandwich with broiled pineapple. A chicken sandwich becomes a glamorous luncheon entrée when served like this: For six servings, make that number of round chicken sandwiches. Season with salt and pepper and place in buttered baking dish. Add

2 cups of cream of mushroom soup and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake in a 450 degree oven until brown.

Serve with a garnish of broiled pineapple to make it more alluring. To broil pineapple slices, brush them first with melted butter or margarine, sprinkle with brown sugar, broil (without turning) 5 to 8 minutes until hot and lightly browned.

Choose Your Own Juice to Make Jellied Salad

Frozen concentrated fruit juices provide the base and fresh fruit flavor for a whole array of salads and desserts made with unflavored gelatin. Reconstitute the concentrate and then use two cups of the juice per envelope of unflavored gelatin.

For four servings, soften the envelope amount of gelatin on 1/2 cup cold juice; put over low heat and stir constantly until gelatin dissolves. Add 1 1/2 cups cold juice, and gelatin is ready to be chilled until firm in four individual molds.

Cornucopias, made from thin slices of bologna or salami, may be filled with a cream cheese mixture or cole slaw.

Fresh Tomato Canapes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cooling canapes for a hot summer day feature sliced fresh tomatoes. Cut bread rounds to fit tomato slices. Takes Real Hero to Eat This Sandwich

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A mammoth-size sandwich has been getting around under a lot of aliases. Call it a hero, jaw-breaker, grinder, submarine, wedge, poor boy, hoagy, dagwood, zap, gondola, torpedo, gismo or BIG SANDWICH. It all depends on where you live.

But one thing is certain, this sandwich is made from an individual loaf of French or Italian bread — white or whole wheat — or a long loaf of the same, cut into shorter lengths.

Its filling is something out of this world — a mountain of savory foods to dream about. Ham, salami, bologna, head cheese are some of the meats that may be piled on top of each other, layer on layer. Tuna fish, smoked salmon, anchovies might be the layers of fish. Next comes cheese.

Then vegetables — green peppers (raw or roasted), pimiento, raw onion, tomato, lettuce. Olives and pickles give everything extra savor. No law says you have to include all these; that's the best part of these structures — you can choose your favorites for the filling.

For an easy-give party, all you have to do is provide plenty of fillings and let everyone make his own sandwich. You can use individual loaves of Italian or French bread, or the long loaves cut into shorter lengths (for delicate eaters) or the individual brown-and-serve loaves of French bread available in many grocery markets.

You can also serve another type

Low Cost Eggs Can Help Balance Food Budget

A main dish for less than 10 cents a serving is hard to find these days. But it is to be found in two large, grade A eggs. This is the season when hens are laying lots of eggs, so it is easy to serve the family eggs at low cost says the Marketing Information Agent.

Scrambled eggs are always good. Creamed eggs go well with hot buttered toast or crisp noodles. Shredded eggs sound fancy, but they are just eggs baked in the oven in individual dishes or muffin tins. If you want something different for scrambled eggs, add mushrooms, grated American cheese, chives or parsley.

Any way you prepare eggs, you finish with a thrifty main dish, of mammoth sandwich, one we call a hero-boy, made of scrambled eggs and green peppers. Ever since we met up with this combination, sold over the counter to take out, at a fascinating foreign food shop in New York's East 20's, we've been addicted to it. We're not saying the following version is exactly like the original but it's mighty good eating.

Our Hero Boy

2 1/2 tablespoons olive oil
1 medium-sized onion (cut into thin strips)
1 large green pepper (cut into thin strips)

Cheese, Bean Sandwich Packs Mighty Wallop

Whole-meal sandwiches are quickies for lunch. Cheese is a sandwich favorite that combines with so many foods for interesting combinations. Try this triple decker open-face.

Toast one side of bread. Spread untoasted side with butter. Add a spoonful of baked beans, cover with a slice of Cheddar cheese and top with Bermuda or sweet onion sliced thin. Place the sandwich under the broiler until the cheese melts.

4 eggs
3 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Two 6-inch lengths of French or Italian bread

Cook gently the olive oil, onion, green pepper in 8-inch skillet, covered, until tender — about 20 minutes. Beat eggs, water, cheese, salt and butter together lightly. Add to pepper mixture and cook as you would scrambled eggs. Serve at once between hot (lightly buttered if desired) lengths of crusty bread. Makes 2 servings.

Scandinavian Type Soup Made With Fruit

Wash 1 quart blackberries, crush and put through a sieve. Stir in 4 teaspoons fresh lemon juice and set aside. Combine 6 tablespoons sugar, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, and 1/4 teaspoon salt in a saucepan. Blend in 1/2 cup water. Bring to boiling point and cook 1 to 2 minutes or until the mixture is clear. Remove from heat and stir in blackberry juice. Chill until slightly thickened and ready to serve. Serve in chilled bouillon cups. Garnish with slices of fresh lemon. Yield: 3 cups or 4 servings.

Spice Apples for Ice Cream

Yes, the best ice cream of the summer is this new, quick, easy recipe for Spicy Applesauce Ice Cream. Here's how: You need 1 quart of packaged vanilla ice cream, 2 cups sieved Spicy Applesauce. Let ice cream soften slightly; add applesauce slowly, blending well.

Spoon into freezer trays. Set control for fastest freezing. Freeze until firm. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Spicy Applesauce

3 pounds summer apples (10 to 12)
1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Core and pare apples; quarter. Simmer in covered saucepan with 1/2 cup water 10 to 15 minutes or until apples are tender. Combine sugar and spices; add with lemon juice. If desired, put through food mill or sieve. Makes about 3 cups.

Serving tips: Add flaked or shredded coconut to each serving of ice cream; or chopped nuts, or any other favorite topping.

Biscuit mix makes a good coating for chicken that is to be fried.

Barbecued Lobster Tails Easy, Economical, Elegant

Time was when "barbecue" added up to steak, hamburgers and hot dogs. But no more. With more people eating outdoors more nights a week, imaginative homemakers look for things to vary the menu, to tempt the appetite.

Then somebody discovered that frozen South African rock lobster tails were ideal barbecue fare. Here was a delicious seafood that profited well from charcoal cooking, that was easily available in the freezer at all times, that was as easy to barbecue as a frankfurter.

It was economical, too, since each tail is solidly filled with rich juicy white meat and there is no waste. Friends and family are guaranteed to approve the whole idea.

Barbecued Rock Lobster
1 South African rock lobster tails.
1 small onion, diced.
1 tablespoon salad oil.
1 can (8-oz.) tomato paste.
1/2 cup vinegar.
1/2 cup water.
1 teaspoon salt.
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard.
1/2 teaspoon paprika.
1/2 teaspoon chili powder.
2 teaspoons aromatic bitters.

Let South African rock lobster tails defrost while preparing sauce. In a sauce pan, saute onion in oil until lightly browned. Add remaining ingredients and simmer slowly for about 15 minutes until sauce is thick. If made beforehand, store in refrigerator until ready to use, then reheat in small pan on side of grill.

To barbecue rock lobster tails, cut down each edge of undercarriage membrane and remove. Insert skewers through tails close to shell to prevent curling. Or, grasp tail in both hands and bend backwards toward shell side to crack in 3 places.

Grease shells lightly and place shell side down over grill. Barbecue shell side for 5 minutes. Brush flesh side liberally with pungent sauce and turn flesh-side down over coals. Grill for 5 minutes, turn and baste with more sauce and grill for about 2 minutes more. Rock lobster tails are done when meat is opaque and tender when pierced with a fork. Serve with additional sauce.

Lard Tops the List

Thrifty is the homemaker who uses lard as the shortening in making light, tender, delicious cakes, for lard has the greatest shortening value of any fat on the market. It's economical, too. When substituting lard for butter in a recipe, subtract 2 tablespoons of lard for each cup of butter used.

Guests Can Nibble on Crispy Noodles

To keep your guests happy while you're grilling those steaks give them something to nibble on. The waiting period won't seem so long. Keep the tidbits sippable, though, to insure a keen edge on appetites. Here's a suggestion that fills the bill nicely.

Needle Nibblers

Place 4 cups chow mein noodles in a shallow baking pan. Pour over them 1/4 cup melted butter into which you've sprinkled 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt and a drop or two of soy sauce. Stir to coat noodles evenly. Bake in a slow oven, stirring oc-asionally, for about 30 minutes or until noodles are delicately brown and crisp. Delicious warm or cold!

Start With Sherbet

A good foundation for a punch is pineapple sherbet. To make Pineapple Sparkle Punch: Place one quart of pineapple sherbet in a punch bowl and allow to stand at room temperature. Just before serving, when sherbet is partially thawed, add twelve 7-oz. bottles of lime-lemon carbonated beverage and mix well. This will make 25 servings.

Use light yellow or light brown sugar when you want a mild flavor; use medium or dark brown sugar when you want a pronounced flavor.

Chill Salmon Salad Broil, Then Serve

Ever hear of broiling a salad? Try this one once and you'll proudly produce it again and again, and hear the guests exclaim!

Broiled Salmon Salad

1 diced cucumber.
3 hard-cooked eggs, diced.
3 cups diced cooked potatoes.
1 tablespoon minced onion.
1 radishes, sliced.
1/2 cups mayonnaise.
1 egg white, beaten stiff.

Drain and break salmon in large pieces. Combine with cucumber, eggs, potatoes, onion and radishes. Add 1 cup mayonnaise. Mix lightly. Press into deep 8-inch paper-lined pan. Chill.

Unmold on flame-proof plate. Blend 1/4 cup mayonnaise with beaten egg white; heap and swirl on salad. Just before serving, place under broiler until lightly browned. Serves 6 to 8.

Pineapple-French Toast

Fresh pineapple for breakfast? Why not... you'll enjoy it this special way. Cut pineapple in paper-thin slices. Make cream cheese sandwiches and place a slice or two of fresh pineapple in each. Now dip sandwiches in milk-egg mixture as for French toast. Brown on both sides in hot skillet and serve at once.

Cottage cheese, because it is mild, blends well with almost all foods.

Annual Picnic Held by Retired Teachers

Invite Them to Come

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Wedding information clearly states that the man's parents should call on the girl's family as soon as possible after the engagement has become a fact. This hasn't been the way it is with us and we announced our daughter's engagement to a local boy three months ago.

"I've spoken to his mother once or twice on the telephone when she called here for him and I've been told by my daughter that she seems pleased with the engagement. How do we break this stalemate?"

Answer: By your inviting her to your house. Although the man's family should take the initiative, it is not at all unusual for the man's family to be unaware of this convention.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I understand I am being criticized by someone for never writing a thank-you note after having been at her house for a meal. I go to a certain friend's house once or twice a year and I am never there longer than for one meal."

Answer: Although we are not expected to write a thank-you note after lunching or dining in the house of a friend (having already expressed our thanks verbally), it is never improper to do so, and there are times — especially when we cannot return this hospitality — that sending a note or possibly a few flowers, is very courteous.

"Dear Mrs. Post: The other morning a woman with two small children got off the bus after I did. I helped lift the younger child off the steps. Later a friend of mine criticized me for having done this to strangers. Was I wrong in putting kindness before convention?"

Answer: You were absolutely right. Good manners and kindness are the same thing.

On Wednesday afternoon the Pontiac and Vicinity Retired Teachers Club met for the annual picnic dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cecil Cox at Walled Lake. Here, Mr. Cox, presi-

are chiefly a social organization, they also work with the state and national organizations in pensions and insurance for retired teachers.

Over-Eating Is Curable—Abby

Fat Girl's Mother Should Act

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who has a 12-year-old daughter who isn't even five feet tall and I'll bet this kid weighs over 200 pounds. My friend says a growing girl has to eat, so she lets her eat half a cherry pie with a quart of milk at one sitting. I have seen the same child put away six pork chops with half a bottle of chili sauce, and six slices of bread.

"Maybe it's none of my business, but if you were me would you say anything? The child has a pretty face, but she is in such bad shape they can hardly find clothes to fit her."

SILENT FRIEND

DEAR SILENT: A real friend shouldn't remain silent any longer. No child needs food in these amounts to "grow." The mother should take this youngster to a doctor immediately. The "reason" for overeating is an illness in itself, which can be cured.

"DEAR ABBY: I am in my late thirties. There is a man about 50 who is interested in me. He says he loves me but he can't see me in public as he has to protect me from some woman he has been going around with for about 15 years. Should I go with other fellows or stick with him? Please advise me."

HIDING OUT

DEAR HIDING: Protect YOU or HIMSELF? He sounds like a pretty shady character. There's no future in seeing a man who can't take you out in public. Lose him.

"DEAR ABBY: We'll be married 40 years the 10th of October and here is my problem. My old man starts looking out our dining room window every evening at 5:30 p.m. and doesn't quit looking until 5:55. When I ask him what he's looking for he tells me he's enjoying the view. The only view we've got from that window is the view of the bus stop. Why do you think he does this? Do you think he could be looking to see one certain woman or do you think he is looking them all over in general? This has me worried."

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: There's no harm in looking, but if you are really worried, why don't you join him and enjoy the "view" together? After 40 years you should know from what you see if your husband is enjoying someone in particular or everyone in general.

"DEAR ABBY: My problem is charge accounts. My wife and two daughters seem to think that if they charge something they are getting it for nothing! When the bills come at the first of the month we have a big argument. They say they will not charge any more, but they forget their promises as soon as they get downtown again. Any suggestions you have will be appreciated."

They Dress to Please Men

Co-eds Play It Smart

NEW YORK (UPI) — College girls today are neater, dressier, and more fashionable than they were 10 years ago — if there's a man around.

No more dirty saddle shoes and sloppy sweaters. The modern miss wants to look smart and sophisticated on campus, said Miss Barbara Lloyd, director of the college board at a fashionable New York clothing establishment.

STUDENTS' BIG BUSINESS

Today, students in department stores across the country help millions of teenagers choose their fall wardrobes. Last year, 284,400 girls entered college as freshmen, said a national magazine. They spent nearly $103,558,752 on back-to-school clothes in a 60-day period.

Total spending for both high school and college girls in this period was $722,593,572. The buying spree is expected to be even greater this fall.

Some 17 girls joined the New York store's staff in mid-July for two months. They represent a variety of colleges including Wellesley, Vassar, Smith, Skidmore, and the University of Utah.

The girls advise high school and college shoppers, sell, and model merchandise. They choose their own working "uniforms" — any mode of dress found on a campus, from sweaters and skirts to Bermuda shorts.

The girls agreed that students now want mostly simple, smart clothes for evening such as black sheaths, sophisticated cocktail dresses instead of frilly formal, and simple jewelry such as gold pins and pearls. For daytime—loafers or sneakers but no saddle shoes, tapered slacks but no blue jeans, and plain sweaters.

DRESS DIFFERENTLY

Do co-eds dress differently for classes than students in girls' schools?

"Oh, yes — look at these sneakers," said tall, blonde Pat Peterson of Manhattan, N.Y., a senior at Mary Washington Women's College in Fredericksburg, Va. She waggled a foot clad in clean but frayed white gym shoes. "There's no point in dressing up so much if boys aren't around. I don't even wear lipstick," she added.

"At Radcliffe, we wear stockings and heels to class—we're in the middle of all the Harvard men," said Virginia Mandell, of Millis, Mass., a junior majoring in medieval history.

What about Bermuda shorts? "Not worn as much as you'd think — we're more dressy," said Miss Mandell.

"We live in them after class. We can wear them until 6 p.m. But many southern girls wouldn't think of wearing shorts—their mothers would be horrified," said Miss Peterson.

Girls voted down shorts in class at Syracuse University. "But college kids don't pay much attention to rules," said Ann Cameron of Pelham, N.Y., a senior and fine arts major.

Co-eds wanted to wear shorts at the University of Connecticut, reported Cynthia Hutton of Darien, Conn., a senior English major. "But the boys voted them down," she said.

MARY F. REDERSTORFF

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd L. Rederstorff of Walled Lake announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Frances, to James Edward Carter. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tolbert Carter of Kinney road. A March wedding is planned.

53 Pct. Hit 'Gifts' Practice; Nixon, Kennedy Picked for President

What Teens Think About National Issues

By EUGENE GILBERT
Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Nearly a third of several hundred American young people told us recently that they thought the acceptance of expensive gifts by government officials is all right.

That was a bigger surprise to us than the 53 per cent thought the practice all wrong. The remainder expressed no opinion.

"What difference does it make?" asked Gary Linton of New York City. "Just as many Democrats as Republicans receive gifts, so when it comes to influence, it balances out."

Another comment from Frederick Bowers of Chicago, was that "government people don't get enough to live on the way they have to, so why not accept gifts from friends?"

And Jack Donald of Oakland snorted, "How many top company officials come home at Christmas time loaded with gifts."

NOT DEMOCRATIC

The majority viewpoint was expressed however by Kenneth Acis of Brooklyn in the comment that "It's not fair in a democracy."

This question was just one in a series on the situation in Washington. In their answers these young people indicated that:

1. Vice President Nixon is by all odds the outstanding Republican candidate for president.

2. If they had a chance they would vote for the nomination of John Kennedy over Adlai Stevenson on the Democratic ticket nearly 3 to 1.

3. Nixon and Secretary of State Dulles, in that order, are the cabinet members especially admired; those particularly disliked are Dulles and Nixon, in that order.

4. Fifty-five per cent of the young people would have voted for President Eisenhower last time, and 51 per cent were still glad when we questioned them that he was re-elected. But only 39 per cent thought he would stand a chance for a third nomination, even if it were legal.

5. Atomic weapons and negotiations with Russia are the major issues of government.

SHOWS TREND

Questioning teenagers about politics is more logical than it might seem at first blush. We discovered before the last election that 80 per cent of them have preferences like those of their parents. One of our polls then indicated the teenagers would have voted for Eisenhower 2 to 1.

An important aspect of the popularity vote on Nixon is that while 89 per cent of the youngsters regarded him as the leading Republican possibility for President, against 43 per cent for Kennedy and 44 per cent for Stevenson on the Democratic side, only 34 per cent say they would vote for him, against a combined total of 50 per cent for the two Democrats.

And of that 50 per cent, Kennedy rates the lion's share — 33 per cent — making Stevenson look like an also ran.

The three targets for both admiration and dislike in the Eisenhower er cabinet proved to be Nixon, Dulles and Secretary Benson.

On the positive side, the percentages were 32 for Nixon, 29 for Dulles and 16 for Benson. On the negative, Dulles rated 35, Nixon 33 and Benson once more 16.

PROS AND CONS

Some pro and con comments: "Dulles and Nixon keep up good work in the face of constant criticism," Paula Pokrandt of St. Paul.

"Benson has helped the farmer, even though he has been criticized," Diane Brooks of Norwood, Ohio.

"Dulles puts his foot in his mouth too often," Dianne Burdick, Oklahoma City.

"Nixon is the cause of much trouble," Terry Bignon, Portland, Ore.

"Benson seems to be a glory hound," Mary Ann Gill, Olean, N. Y.

Percentages indicated by these young people for the major issues in government are 31 for atomic weapons, 20 for negotiations with Russia, 16 for the recession and 14 for farm prices.

Test China for Quality, Balance

TRENTON, N. J. (UPI) —

Brides should check eight general points when buying fine china, say experts.

A firm that makes china devised these rules for choosing dishes:

To test the china's translucency, hold a plate to the light. If you see the shadow of your hand behind it, it's china, not earthenware. There should be no heavy shadows except at the foot or joints.

CHECK RIM

Run a finger around the rim of a cup to detect warped, wavy or rough edges. The cup should ring clearly when tapped with a pencil.

The back of a piece should be as perfect as the front, without pin holes, glaze marks or splashes.

Bounce the light off the surface of the glaze. It should be smooth, with no waves, pools or bumps.

Color should be clear, not gray, muddy, or blue-white. Cup handles should be large enough for a man to hold, and each piece should be well-balanced and proportioned.

WATCH TRIM

Pattern and trim must not be uneven or rough. Gold should be deep and rich, not bright and brassy. Check for tiny breaks and imperfections.

Buy china from a well-established manufacturer. Check for an "open stock" pattern instead of buying a "fad" pattern which will not be available in the future.

Fur hats, fur trims, fur linings are the order of the fall season. And what a variety of furs the designers are using!

They include mink of course, dyed nutria, blond lynx, Norwegian fox, badger leopard, broadtail, and opossum.

Welcome Stranger

If you are invited to a party for a newcomer to your community, it is expected that you will call on her or make some other gesture of friendliness. So don't just say as you leave the party, "I hope I will see you again!" and then make no effort to do so.

The overblouse, softly expressed with wide, high neckline and armholes and pleated skirt give curves to the too-thin who should avoid rigid, hard lines.

Wear soft loose blouses and loose tops to dresses over your slim or pleated skirt since you are underweight. The blouse with a pleated skirt accentuates the schoolgirl freshness which should never be overdressed.

Wispy Bangs in Style

Do not be afraid to cut bangs for the most popular coiffure since the Roaring Twenties, says a Hollywood world-famed beauty authority.

The new bangs are not yesterday's long, thick type which hid the forehead like a window shade, but are little thin flat-tering wisps.

These tendrils are so sparse that a damp brush will sweep them back into the rest of the hair when off-face coiffures are wanted. Cut some hairs slightly shorter than others for the wispy look and so they will brush back more naturally.

Enjoy these new bangs, but cut them and all other parts of your hair so that many high-fashion and becoming coiffures may be easily styled and enjoyed.

Machine-Wash Undies but Have Water Cool

Anybody here who enjoys washing her underpinnings by hand? We didn't think so.

After years of scrubbing knuckles raw and still not getting bras and girdles snowy white, it is cheering to learn that one of the leading foundation-wear manufacturers now recommends machine-washing of its garments in preference to hand washing.

1. Use a warm or preferably cold water setting on your automatic washer. Cold water preserves the firmness and whiteness of fragile elastics for the longest possible time and gets the garments clean.

2. Use a light-duty detergent preferably liquid plus water softener if your water is hard.

3. Dry your bras and girdles flat on a towel or toss them over a line. Use an automatic dryer only if it's one of the newer models with an "air fluff," "room temperature" or "lukewarm" setting.

Exercise It Away

Little Bulge Ruins Your Figure

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

When our abdominal measurement becomes inflated our egos are apt to become deflated!

The protruding abdomen is one of the most usual evidences of middle age. Nature gave us a strong natural girdle made of muscles, but few women use these in a vigorous way. Then too, we may fall into the habit of poor posture, and childbearing stretches these elastic bands.

Just this one figure fault can ruin an otherwise lovely silhouette. Of course correct weight improves all measurements, but even when you weigh the right number of pounds there may be a bulge on the tummy.

It is important to strengthen the abdominal muscles not only for the benefit of good looks but of health. If they are lax, we slump internally. This can lead to fatigue, backache and constipation.

This measurement can be reduced and abdominal muscles can be made stronger with special exercises. Today I will give you a couple of these happy motions.

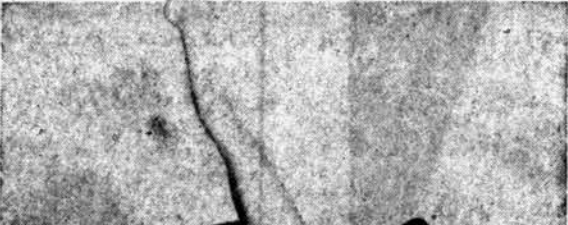

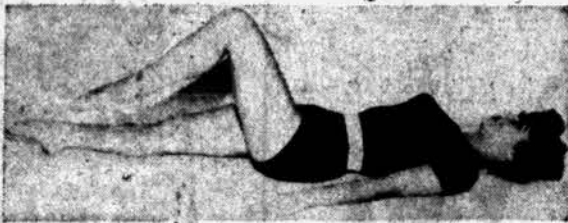

FOUR STAGES

I am going to give you this exercise in four stages. If you can use the third stage, do so. If it is too difficult for you, then work on the first two stages until your muscles become stronger.

Stage one—lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Bend the left knee up close to the abdomen. Return leg to place, sliding foot along the floor. Now bend your right knee up and do the same thing. Continue, alternating left and right.

Stage two—take the same starting position. Bend the left knee up close to the abdomen but do NOT slide the foot along the floor as you return the leg to the floor. Do the same thing with the right leg and alternate.

Stage three—assume the same starting position. Bend the left leg up close to the abdomen. Straighten the leg toward the ceiling and lower to floor with a stiff knee. Do the same thing with the right leg and continue, alternating.

Here is an abdominal exercise in four stages, starting from the top. (1) Bend left knee up to abdomen, return leg to floor, sliding foot along floor. (2) The same motion only do not slide foot. (3) Straighten leg toward ceiling, return to floor with stiff knee. (4) Stretch both legs toward ceiling, lower to floor slowly.

Stage four—same position. This time bend BOTH legs up close to the abdomen. Stretch BOTH legs toward the ceiling and lower both legs to the floor. Lower the legs slowly, with stiff knees.

If you would like to have my tested, abdominal reducing routine, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 2. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. Tomorrow: "Posture Plays Part in Attaining Pretty Neck."

Empty Nest Can Be Challenge to Couple

By RUTH MILLETT

Want insurance against you and your husband finding your life together dull and meaningless once the children are grown and gone from home?

You can have it if you start preparing for the time long before it comes.

By the time the last child leaves home, you and your husband should have several engrossing hobbies or leisure time activities which you share, and some that you don't.

You should have good friends your own age whose companionship is easy and pleasant.

You should have plans for just the two of you—a bright and ambitious as the plans you had for your children.

You should have begun to simplify your living, so that you aren't tied to unnecessary chores when you do have the freedom to come and go and do pretty much as you please.

You should be willing to let your children lead their own lives, instead of thinking that their problems are yours to solve and their difficulties are yours to straighten out.

You should look forward, instead of backward. The family years were busy, rewarding years. But the years ahead can be busy, rewarding years, too. If you look when the children are gone.

You should be willing to make the effort to have new experiences, instead of settling down into a monotonous routine. Why cling to the comforts of home if you can travel and see new places and make new friends and share new experiences?

With imagination and planning, a couple can assure themselves that the second period in their lives when there are just the two of them again can be as happy as the first.

Feted at Shower

Dolores Cook who will marry Garry Wylie Aug. 16 at St. Michael's Church was honored at a shower Monday evening at the Perry street home of Kathleen Cook. Marlene Olson was cohostess.

But His Antics Go Back a Million

Alley Oop Just 25 Years Old Today

Alley Oop didn't have time to bow when he was first introduced to newspaper readers on August 7, 1933. Here, in his first release, Oop gets off to a flying start in the prehistoric Land

Twenty-five years ago a million-year-old cave man was born. His name, Alley Oop... his destiny, to become one of the most popular comic strip characters of all time. Today, Alley Oop celebrates his 25th birthday. How well he has fulfilled his destiny is evidenced by the fact that he appears in 881 daily and Sunday newspapers, including The Pontiac Press.

Where did Alley Oop and his prehistoric pals come from? The creative genius of comic artist Vincent T. Hamlin. In 1927, while Hamlin was doing art work for an oil company, he met a geologist who was a student of prehistoric life. "I became fascinated," says Hamlin, "and took up the study of science out of library books. From geology I drifted into the study of life in past ages and later made history in general a hobby."

Alley Oop and his prehistoric adventures in the Land of Moo were created when Hamlin merged his intense interest in paleontology with his exceptional artistic talent.

Alley Oop hit the public fancy from the first. His exciting and hilarious adventures in the ancient Land of Moo with Dinny his pet dinosaur, Ooola, his girl friend, King Gaz, Foogy and The Grand Wizzer have entertained millions. When, through his "Time Ma-great popularity during the six years Hamlin kept him in prehistoric settings, he became even more popular when he turned up in modern times.

This was only the beginning of the surprise, however. Hamlin's ingenious "Time Machine" enabled him to deposit Oop in any period of history he chose. Oop has adventured with the knights of King Arthur, met Cleopatra, skirmished with American Indians and rocketed to the moon.

Where will he go next? Only Hamlin knows. For real reading enjoyment, don't miss Alley Oop's wonderful world of fact, fantasy and fun on this page every day.

Wants to Jail Ex-Husband

Former Actress Says Actor Edmund Purdom Behind in Alimony

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former actress Tita Purdom wants her ex-husband, actor Edmund Purdom, jailed. She says he's $24,000 behind in alimony payments and she is destitute.

In an affidavit filed yesterday supporting her charge, she said Purdom has lavished money on other women since their divorce in 1956, but paid only sporadically the $1,050 a month ordered for alimony and child support payments.

Among the other women, Mrs. Purdom named actress Linda Christian, and said Purdom secretly married her in 1956. No such marriage has ever been publicly announced.

Mrs. Purdom said she knows of no divorce between Purdom and Miss Christian. Her affidavit said he has since married Alicia Darr who, Mrs. Purdom said, is "reputed to be a wealthy heiress." She said she understands Purdom and Miss Darr now are separated.

The actor has been doing film work in his native England. Mrs. Purdom said she is so poor she and her three children have been evicted eight times in a year for nonpayment of rent.

Macmillan to Talk With Greek Leaders

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan flies to Athens today in a bid to bring peace to Cyprus. After talks with Greek leaders, Macmillan will go on to Turkey. Greek demands that Cyprus be allowed to join Greece and Turkish counterdemands for partition of the British island colony between the Greek and Turkish Cypriots have embittered relations among the three North Atlantic Treaty allies.

Britain last June proposed a seven-year cooling-off period for Cyprus during which Greece and Turkey would share in governing the island. Although Greece rejected the plan, Macmillan probably will bring it up in his talks. Turkey was hostile to the plan but said it could serve as a basis for negotiations.

Report 2 Insecticides Control Cherry Pest

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Researchers at the University of Wisconsin report that two soil insecticides can control the "plum curculio," a cherry insect, without injuring the flavor of canned cherries.

The researchers said the insecticides, Aldrin and Dieldrin, are applied to the soil around the trees and kill the curculios as they enter soil under the trees.

However, soil treatments must be applied throughout the entire orchard to prevent the insects from flying in from untreated trees in the orchard. They recommend using three to six pounds per acre of the insecticides.

James Ritty of Ohio invented the cash register in 1879.

Man's Peach Trees Get Crew Cut Look

HUDSONVILLE, Mich. (UPI) — Peach trees on the Herbert De Kleine farm have a crew-cut look because of a mowing machine-type device which clips the tops of trees on his Hudsonville farm.

De Kleine, a high school vocational agriculture instructor, made the device from a hay mower, boom, pulleys and cables. It is mounted on the rear of a tractor and operated through a series of hydraulic control devices.

"We only use it for two or three days, but when we do it saves us three to four weeks of work," said De Kleine. "We can't afford to pick peaches up in the top of the tree any more."

A baseball-sized piece of copper can yield 276 miles of strand wire.

Railroad Doesn't Go to Cities in Its Name

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — The Akron, Canton & Youngstown Railroad goes neither to Canton nor Youngstown, although it has tried to bridge the gap for 77 years.

When the road was originally planned in 1881, it was supposed to stretch west from Akron to St. Louis, Mo., and east to New Castle, Pa., but it never got to either point.

A series of owners fell victim to bankruptcy trying to extend the line to various new terminals without success. But despite its length—177 miles—the road is a prime favorite of Akron shippers because it connects with nine different north-south railroads at 21 different junction points.

Burma has 261,789 square miles, slightly less than Texas.

ELLIOTT RUNS MILE IN PHENOMINAL 3:54.5; FOUR OTHERS UNDER 4 MINUTES

'Twas Historic Day for Track Records

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Australian Herb Elliott, with a fabulous record mile time of 3:54.5, sat back today and told the world: "I think a 3:50 mile could come within a couple of years."

The 20-year-old Aussie quickly added, "Of course we shall need track conditions like the ones we had last night in Dublin — conditions as near to perfect as any runner could want."

It was at Dublin's Santry Stadium that Elliott ran his eighth sub four-minute mile — with the most fantastic timing ever in the history of track and field.

"Elliott's time of 3:54.5 is one that will stand as a mile record for years and years," said British sports experts. "He clipped 3½ seconds off John Landy's official world mark. Who can expect a runner to come along tomorrow and reduce Elliott's record timing even more?"

The first five men in Elliott's record-breaking mile smashed four minutes — the first time in history that such a thing had happened.

Three did it in 1955 in London when Laszlo Tabori of Hungary was timed in 3:59. Four were under four minutes in

Here are the first five placings in the historic Dublin mile:

1, Elliott, 3:54.5. 2, Merv Lincoln, Australia, 3:55.9. 3, Ron Delany, Ireland and Villanova, Philadelphia, 3:57.5.

4, Murray Halberg, New Zealand, 3:57.5. 5, Albert Thomas, Australia, 3:58.6.

The official world mark is 3:58 set by Australia's John Landy at Turku, Finland, June 21, 1954.

Ibbotson's 3:57.2 at London's White City Stadium July 19, 1957, has not been ratified because of the pacing controversy.

Both Elliott and Lincoln were inside Ibbotson's time. And Elliott, who finished last night's race without any show of exhaustion, seems capable of making the 3:50 mark he says is possible inside the next two years.

He has all the power and energy of the greatest miler ever. And he got them through an unusual diet and method of training. His training diet consists of oats, nuts, raisins, dried fruits and dried bananas.

Through the winter his training schedule calls for runs and climbs on the rugged hills around Portsea, some 60 miles south of Melbourne. He never has lost a mile race since starting big time competition in December 1956.

Lap times for Elliott's famous run were: 58 seconds, 1:58, 2:59, and 3:54.5 — ideal timing for any world record run. The last quarter was run in the remarkable time of 55.5 seconds.

The mile now has been run in under four minutes 45 times since Roger Bannister of Britain first cracked the barrier May 6, 1954. Twenty runners from 11 countries have got under four minutes.

Elliott's eight sub four-minute miles are the most by any runner. Lincoln has done it four times and Delany three. Halberg and Thomas got under four minutes for the first time last night. Landy had six sub four-minute miles when he retired.

Thomas led the field for the first quarter mile with Lincoln and Elliott close behind.

Thomas led through the half mile mark. Then Elliott moved up to challenge, closed near the end of the third lap and then pounded ahead at the bell. Elliott whipped into a five-yard lead at the second bend on the last lap and steadily increased his lead over the field as the sellout crowd of 20,000 went delirious with excitement. He finished about 15 yards ahead of second-place Lincoln.

One Fish Worth $25,000

BALTIMORE (AP) — William Simmons, a 30-year-old Baltimore longshoreman out of work, caught a fish worth $25,000 a pound.

Simmons reeled in a 10-pound rockfish, or striped bass, underneath the Chesapeake Bay bridge. On it was a sterling silver tag identifying it as "Diamond Jim the Third."

The tagged fish had been put overboard June 19 about 20 miles south of the bridge by a Baltimore brewery. The company offered to pay $25,000 to the fishman catching it before Sept. 1 and $1,000 thereafter.

It was the third summer the brewery had loosed a valuable catch into the bay. The first two are still at large.

Simmons hit the jackpot at 6:30 a.m., about six hours after he and two companions started fishing. He was married and his wife is expecting their first child in December.

Accountants at the brewery estimated that because Simmons is unemployed he might be able to keep $20,000 of the prize after paying taxes.

FANTASTIC FIVE — The most fantastic day in history of the mile run saw five runners break the once-coveted four minute mark. The remarkable time of 3:54.5 was turned in by Herb Elliott (top photo). The other four runners

Irishman Realizes Dream

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A 56-year-old Irishman, dedicated to track and field, Wednesday saw a dream come true — a fabulous world mile record on the track he dreamed about and helped to build.

His name: Billy Morton.

It was on Morton's track at Santry Stadium, Dublin, that Australia's Herb Elliott was clocked in 3:54.5 bettering all previous times.

"This is something I dreamed of, but hardly thought could come true," said Morton. "Elliott and his rivals tonight made it all worthwhile."

Morton, secretary of a Dublin cross-country club and the impresario of Irish athletics, planned Santry Stadium with world records as his target.

"Tonight put Dublin on the track and field map. That, to me, makes it all worthwhile," the Irishman with the twinkling eyes said.

Morton, an optician by profession, looks forward to the day when Santry Stadium will take 100,000 fans. At the moment it accommodates only 20,000.

"My dream," he said, "is that Ireland will yet be able to stage the Olympic Games in Dublin." Spectators paid five shillings 70 cents or 10 shillings $1.40 a head to see the greatest mile race in history.

For that treat they had to thank Morton and Ron Delany, the Irishman who won the 1,500 meters at the 1956 Olympic Games.

Delany's victory was the shot in the arm that Irish track and field needed. And, thinking that was all he needed to boost public interest, Morton sank 20,000 pounds ($56,000) into laying a new cinder track at Santry.

His venture proved worthwhile.

Ed Green, former Iowa State football captain now living at Concord, Mich., will assist coach Morley Fraser with the Albion team this fall.

Ex-Tiger Lou Sleser has been returned to the active list by Baltimore. The southpaw has been out with a finger injury since June 16.

Two-year-old colt First Landing continued an undefeated record by scoring a seven-length victory at Saratoga, N.Y., yesterday. He has won six straight.

Milwaukee's new prize pitcher Joey Jay was named NL player of the month for July easily beating out Ernie Banks of Chicago.

Miss Bonita Brookshear of Waterford Township — the Romeo peach queen — and her attendants, Pat Carr of Utica and Jill Trask of Romeo, presented Tiger manager Bill Normaa with a basket of peaches before the game. Frank Lary did not start because of a slight burn on his arm from a lightbulb. He will open the Chicago series Friday.

The dugouts looked like minor Mississippi Rivers and the outfield had the appearance of a lake when Wednesday's storm hit Briggs Stadium. Several players on the Tigers and Indians were trapped in their dugouts when tunnels leading to the clubhouse were flooded with 3-4 feet of water. Many had to go through the stands.

The Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's method of conducting the men's annual medal play golf championship continues to draw heated criticism from many of the city's finest shotmakers.

Dissatisfaction with the tournament has been growing for the last three or four years and, to make the unrest even more legitimate, the complaints come from past champions and perennial contenders as well as also-rans.

Now it's time for the 1958 edition of the city tourney and repeated mumblings and grumblings are heard anew. There is sound basis for the discontent.

Their unhappiness stems from two sources — qualifying and lack of organization. The 18-hole qualifying rounds in particular have become a burning issue.

A golf tournament, just like any other sports event, must be well organized and run with a firm hand. The qualifiers, scheduled this Saturday at City Municipal golf course, are especially ill-planned and haphazard.

There is no deadline for entries and no pairings are listed. The present policy allows a player or groups of players to invade the course any time between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. and qualify at leisure.

This policy, if continued long enough, could easily result in the complete collapse of the tourney. Entries have declined in recent years and the qualifiers are largely to blame for lagging interest. One of two steps must be taken by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department to keep this tourney alive and prosperous. Either do away with the qualifiers altogether or else conduct them in an orderly, systematic manner.

Actually, qualifying is a waste of time under the present plan. The best answer would be to set an entry deadline, arrange the pairings and starting times, then begin the tournament with the biggest possible field.

Such a plan should cause increased spectator interest and also result in better competitive golf. If the starting field is overly large, an 18-hole cut would be a solid idea. Halfway cuts amount to qualifying, anyway.

Corrective steps are needed or the tourney will die. It's too late for this one, slated Aug. 16-17, but a completely new approach can and must be taken next year. How about a fresh start?

East Highland Forming Ladies Keg Leagues

The Thursday Evening Ladies Bowling League will hold a meeting Aug. 14 at 8 p.m. at East Highland Recreation. Anyone interested in bowling in the league this season may obtain more information by calling MU 4-4386 or MU 4-4069 after noon. No experience is necessary to take part.

An afternoon league is also being formed at the Millford alley. Plans call for baby-sitters to be provided where needed. The above numbers may be called for more information.

Homer Race Best in American

Jensen Regains Lead With 31st in Boston Win

Sievers Matches Mantle at 30, Cerv Hits 29th; Yanks, Pierce Triumph

By the Associated Press. With the New York Yankees leading by 16 games the best race in the American League is for the home run title. Jackie Jensen of Boston, Mickey Mantle of New York, Roy Sievers of Washington and Bob Cerv of Kansas City are engaged in a four-way fight that could go right down to the wire.

Jensen slammed No. 31 Wednesday during Boston's 8-2 romp over Washington in which Pete Runnels of the Red Sox also assumed the batting lead. Runnels took over from Chicago's Billy Goodman with three hits for a .333 average.

Sievers burst into a second-place tie with Mantle by hitting two off Tom Brewer at Boston to make it 30 for the year. The Senators' slugger won both the homer and runs batted in titles last season.

Mantle had only one hit, a single, in the Yankees 3-1 victory over Baltimore. Art Ditmar extended the Orioles' losing streak to 10, longest in the majors this season, with a five-hitter, handing Jack Harshman another hard luck defeat. Mantle wasn't around for the entire evening, having been chased by plate umpire John Flaherty for protesting a called third strike in the eighth.

Chicago's Billy Pierce had Kansas City eating out of his hand most of the night on the way to a 4-2 victory. Cerv, however, hit his 29th homer with a man on base in the first inning to stick close behind the leaders. Goodman, who had been tied with Runnels for the batting lead for the day games, had only one hit—a triple—and dropped a point to 332.

Brewer turned in a brilliant job for the Red Sox with a three-hitter. He didn't allow a hit until Sievers homered with two out in the sixth. Sievers hit his second of the day leading off the ninth.

Jensen, Frank Malzone and Ted Lepcio were Boston's home run hitters and Ted Williams tripled to drive in his 1,700th run. His total bases now stand at 4,501.

The Orioles now have lost 11 of 13 to the Yanks this year despite a well pitched game by Harshman who allowed seven hits and struck out eight.

Last Full-Scale Session Friday

Lions to Scrimmage

The Detroit Lions will hold their last full-scale scrimmage Friday before the college All-Star game in Chicago Aug. 15.

Rain forced coach George Wilson and the team indoors yesterday afternoon after a morning workout on Cranbrook field. Players were in pads but went through only limited contact in the morning workout. The team ran through plays in their stocking feet in the afternoon at the Cranbrook gym.

Olympic Rivals Collide Again

Rose, Breen in AAU 1,500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Murray Rose, the smooth Australian vegetarian, and George Breen, an American who flails the water as if he hated it, will test each other's styles and stamina at 1,500 meters again tomorrow for the first time since Rose won the event in the 1956 Olympics.

Fifty-six other men and boys are entered in the opening event of the AAU Senior Swimming and Diving Championships at Broad Ripple Pool, a huge outdoor tank with a minimum of wash from the walls.

Rose, a freshman at the University of Southern California last winter, won three events in the AAU indoor meet while Breen was doing a six-month trick in the Army.

Breen, pending enrollment this fall at Indiana University as a postgraduate student, is a life-guard at the pool where the three-day national championships will be held. He figured to get back the fine edge lost in the Army but had another interruption last week for field training with the Indiana National Guard.

Rose was only 17 when he collected three gold medals at Melbourne. He held the world record for 1,500 meters at 17:58.8 till Breen lowered it to 17:52. It now is claimed by Jon Konrads, a phenomenal 15-year-old Australian who won't be here, at 17:21.6.

Breen set the Olympic record of 17:52.9 at Melbourne before Rose beat him in the finals with a time almost six seconds slower. The unorthodox American uses a four-beat leg kick instead of the conventional six-beat, getting most of his speed from powerful arms and shoulders.

Breen represented the Buffalo Athletic Club last summer when he won the AAU 1,500 and 400-meter freestyle events. This time he will carry the colors of the Indianapolis Athletic Club's defending team champions. Rose will work for the Los Angeles Athletic Club, the team most likely to take away the IAC's title.

Only other events tomorrow will be the 3-meter diving and 400-meter individual medley. The latter will produce an automatic meet record because of the new over-water breaststroke.

Birmingham Legion to Fete Team Monday

All members of Birmingham's Charles Edwards American Legion Post 14 baseball team which took part in the district league this summer will be fêted at a banquet at the Legion home Monday night. The fathers of the players will be honored guests. Banquet officials are hoping to have some of the Detroit Tiger players as speakers at the affair.

Frank Lane Enjoying Himself When Showers Postpone Game

'Norman Jinx' Ruins Day for Tribe GM

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Lane was just beginning to enjoy himself yesterday when the "Bill Norman Jinx" hit his Cleveland Indians.

The "Norman Jinx" has become a joke with Tiger followers after the Bengal manager's pronouncement that "some days you win, some days you lose and some days it rains."

Since Norman took over the club, three games have been rained out — all at Briggs Stadium. And in each one, the Tigers were losing. One was with Baltimore, another with Washington and yesterday with Cleveland.

Lane, valuable general manager of the Indians, kept up a play-by-

The Tribe, with Lane's cheerleading, scored in the second inning. Minnie Minoso singled to right and went to second on a wild pitch. Larry Doby was at the plate.

He hasn't had a solid hit in a week," Lane said, taking the pessimistic attack. "Look where they're playing him, he'll never get a hit." It was a modified Williams shift.

"Look at that," Lane yelled happily as Doby sliced a single despite the shift to score Minoso. "Well, there's one thing," Lane said, "you don't have to worry about him hitting into a double play." Rocky Colavito had just swung meekly and missed. Another strike made it 0-2.

"Throw away the bat and get a walk, Rocky," Lane urged. He struck out.

"Show Rocky how to hit, Billy (Hunter)!" Hunter bounced into a double play.

Despite the failure of his one-man cheering section, Lane was back in full force for the Indian half of the third. Former Tiger Hal Woodeshick, a different looking pitcher since he slimmed down, was at the plate. Woodeshick had one hit this season. Prior to the game, Paul Foytack had called him "the worst hitter in the history of baseball."

"Why don't you concede, Woody," Lane bellowed after the first called strike. It was plain that Lane and Foytack were of the same opinion. Then Woodeshick fouled one off.

"You better start warming someone," Lane chortled. "That's his first foul of the year—Bunning doesn't have it."

Woodeshick surprised everyone by dropping a single down the right field line.

"I told you that you should have warmed someone," Lane said gleefully. But the rain wiped it all out and it was rescheduled as part of Sept. 20 doubleheader.

Alter Qualifies His Miss U.S. 1

SEATTLE (AP) — One high speed, water tossing spinout and a bucking bronco show by the aptly named "Maverick" caused more excitement than four successful qualifying efforts yesterday on the Gold Cup speedboat course.

Four boats qualified for Sunday's 51st running of the unlimited hydroplane classic, raising the list to six and leaving 15 still to qualify. Each entrant must run three laps on the 3-mile course at 95 miles per hour or better to earn a berth in the race.

Jack Regas made the grade in Hawaii Kai III of Seattle, roaring around at an average of 113.44 miles per hour. Fred Alter of Detroit hit an average 107.427 to land a spot for Miss United States I. Bob Schroeder qualified Wildroot Charlie, a Buffalo, N. Y., entry, at 96.428, and Bill Muncey brought the Miss Thriftway in at 108.144.

Out for a practice run in Maverick, driver Bill Stead was logging about 175 miles per hour when a crosswind hit the boat. For 100 yards it bucked and twisted, jumping five feet above the water. Stead got it back under control without damage.

Casey's on the Hot Seat Howard Poses Problem

BALTIMORE (AP)—The case of Elston Howard and the batting championship puts Casey Stengel on the hot seat. Unless Howard plays every game he won't be eligible for the title. Under Casey's system hardly anybody plays every day.

Howard, who has taken the No. 1 catching job on the New York Yankees away from Yogi Berra, actually has the best batting average in the American League at the moment, .340. However, his name doesn't appear among the leaders. That is based on 250 at bats and Howard has only 241.

Under league rules, a batter must be up 477 times to be eligible for the championship. That includes legal at bats, walks, hit by pitcher and sacrifices. Howard has 241 official at bats, plus 18 walks and seven sacrifices for a total of 266 appearances. That leaves him

14-Pound Pike Prize for Pontiac Angler

His biggest fish in 10 or 12 years, a 14½-pound northern pike, gave Fred Strassburg, 4637 Kamm Rd., a real battle, the Pontiac angler reported on this return, from a two-week fishing trip at Newberry's Muskegon lake.

The prize northern was 38½ inches long, fought for 15 minutes and was landed with the help of 11-year-old Robbin, Strassburg's son. Robbin helped land the seven other pike Strassburg took during his stay in the Upper Peninsula area which he visits each summer.

Berra Slightly Hurt When Hit on Head by Ball

BALTIMORE (AP) — Yogi Berra, outfielder-catcher of the New York Yankees, was conked on the head by a fly ball in fielding practice Wednesday night, sustaining a one-inch gash through the left eyebrow which required three stitches.

Berra, who was not scheduled to play, was chasing flies hit by Coach Jim Turner.

"I played it nonchalantly," he said as Dr. Erwin Mayer, Baltimore Orioles' physician, took the stitches. "The ball sunk on me. It hit the thumb of my glove and then hit me in the face."

The Yankees are off Thursday and Berra will be able to play Friday night against Boston in New York.

Davis Sets World Record, Jones Wins

By The Associated Press

BUDAPEST (AP) — Glen Davis is a rare athlete who is good in practically all track and field events, great in three or four and supreme in one or two.

The Ohio State star is a physical phenomenon who can run the 400-meter hurdles in world record time of 49.2 seconds as he did yesterday and then go across the field and pole vault 12 feet.

Davis' world mark yesterday raised to five the number of international standards set by American, Russian, Polish and Hungarian athletes in the short space of two weeks.

The records in addition to Davis' 400-meter hurdles mark are: decathlon — Rafer Johnson, Kingsburg, Calif., 8,302 points; 1500 meters — Istvan Rozsavolgyi, Hungary, 3:40.3; 3,000-meter steeplechase — Jerzy Chromik, Poland, 8:32 and hop, step and jump — Ole Ryakovski, Russia, 54 feet, 5½ inches.

In addition, eight American records, and 14 Soviet, Polish and Hungarian national marks were bettered. The Americans get another chance to continue the record breaking orgy at Athens Saturday and Sunday. They wound up their two-day competition against the Hungarians and Czechoslovaks yesterday by boosting their total victories to 23 in 30 events.

Hayes Jones of Pontiac won the 110-meter hurdles. His time was 13.6 seconds. Jones is a student at Eastern Michigan College.

Ira Murchison of Chicago, a student at Western Michigan College, tied for fourth with two other runners in the 200-meter dash. The fourth-place time was 21.4 seconds.

The records of Davis and Johnson were by far the most remarkable of the five world standards. Johnson bettered the former world mark after only nine of the decathlon's 10 events. Davis didn't take the usual one-tenth of a second off the old mark. He took three-tenths. The previous hurdle record of 49.5 was his own set two years ago in Los Angeles.

Davis' old mark would have suffered even more if he hadn't hit the final hurdle. He nearly fell but caught himself and finished strong.

Ohio State Coach Larry Snyder believes Davis' capabilities in the 400-meter hurdles are about 48.5. Snyder is assistant coach of the American team.

Snyder expects Davis to hold possibly four world marks by the time the 1960 Olympics in Rome roll around. He listed the 440-yard and 400-meter hurdles and the 440-yard and 400-meter flat races.

Rain Postpones Softball Finals

City League softball championships in four classes were supposed to be decided last night in the final round of the annual playoffs at Beaudette and North Side parks.

But the weatherman had other ideas as heavy rains came along and washed out the whole affair. Official reason for the postponement — wet grounds.

With cooperation from the weather, the finals will be played tonight. Here is tonight's playoff schedule:

Class A — Elks No. 810 vs. VFW Post 1370, Beaudette, 8:30; Class B — CIO Local 594 vs. Stadium Inn, Beaudette, 7; Class C — American Legion Post 20 vs. Pontiac Police, North Side, 8:30; Class D — Post Office vs. Spence Rambler, North Side, 7.

All Waterford League softball games and City League baseball contests were also postponed yesterday for the same reason.

Caddymaster Gets Ace

John Monitz, Tam O'Shanter Country Club caddymaster, rifled a hole-in-one this week at West Shore CC in Grosse Ile. Monitz aced the 162-yard 7th hole with a 7-iron and carded 78 for the round. He was accompanied by Bill Milovich.

Same Horse Wins 2

CHICAGO (AP) — S. A. Camp's Raider Frost, scoring decisively in two heats Wednesday night captured the Grand Circuit's $15,000 American-National Pace at Sportsman's Park.

Top Lady Pros Headline Field in $6,000 Open

ROCKTON, Ill. (AP) — Some of the nation's leading professionals headline a contingent of 60 women golfers that will tee off tomorrow in the Macktown Invitational tournament.

The pros will be shooting for $6,000 in cash prizes in the 54-hole medal play tourney ending Sunday. Amateurs will battle for $500 in merchandise prizes.

The pro field includes such top flight champions as Louise Suggs, Atlanta, Ga.; Marlene Bauer Hage, Delray Beach, Fla.; Jackie Pung, Honolulu; Wiffie Smith, St. Clair, Mich.; and Bev Hanson, Fargo, N.D.

Marilyn Goodwin Wins Gals' PYC Night Race

The women skippers at Pontiac Yacht Club had their "night" Wednesday when they sailed their husbands' lightnings under perfect conditions, including a 5-10 mile breeze.

Marilyn Goodwin skippered the Windfall to victory, with hubby Mack and Chet Goodwin of Grand Rapids her crew. Betty Holman was 2nd with husband Clarence as crew. Third place went to Dave Davies, with Phil Smith and Bill Wiggins the crew.

In the recent Michigan lightning international qualifying races at Tawas, Mickey Goodwin's boat placed 5th, for a spot in the Sept. 4-5-6 races at Little Egg Harbor, N. J. It was the only PYC entry of 20 that made the top five, in the field of 52 boats.

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: Blowups in Crosswinds.

DIAGNOSIS: Wavering Aim.

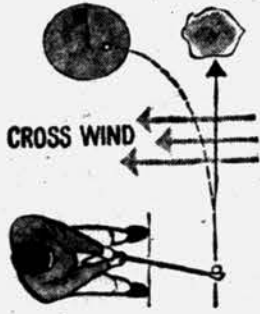

TREATMENT: If the wind is blowing across your intended line of flight, it will change the course of the ball by a certain amount. That's elementary. One problem, then, is to decide how much effect the wind will have on the shot and adjust your aim accordingly. And let me say, that's fairly easy to do, even for beginning golfers.

The thing that's really hard to do—and the thing that makes playing in crosswinds hard — is to resist the temptation to re-aim the shot during the swing. You get to the top of the backswing, and suddenly you're seized with the notion that you aren't allowing enough for windage. Or too much. So you try to make another compensating adjustment by changing the swing.

Grains Given Upward Push

CHICAGO, Aug. 7 (AP)—A small accumulation of overnight buying orders gave grain futures prices a slight upward push in early trading today on the Board of Trade.

Trade was slow, however, and after the first few minutes all contracts were within a steady range. Dealers said there appeared to be no outstanding influences.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was 1/4 cent a bushel lower to 1/2 higher, September $1.84 1/2; corn 1/4 to 1/2 higher, September $1.27 1/2; oats unchanged to 1/2 higher, September $1.24 1/2; soybeans unchanged to 5 cents a hundred lbs. higher, September $2.25 1/2; and changed to 5 cents a hundred lbs. higher, September $2.70.

8-Year-Old Boy Gives Tank Design to Army

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) — Richard Herting, who had submitted a new Army tank design to military officials, received a reply from Major Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding officer of Ft. Benning, Ga.

"Such interest in our Army is most gratifying to those of us who have the job of preparing and executing plans for our national defense," the letter said in part. Richard was pleased at the response especially since he's only eight years old.

Rights Surveys Slated for Latin America Women

GUATEMALA — Women in Latin America still do not participate fully in community affairs affecting them, and the Inter-American Commission of Women intends to find out why.

A Guatemalan educator, Mrs. Graciela Quan Valenzuela, president, says her organization will make a country-by-country study of "obstacles preventing women from taking more interest in exercising their rights, with emphasis on educational and training opportunities available to them."

The heat or energy content of about 6,000 cubic feet of natural gas is equal to that of one barrel of oil.

Flier Floats in Harness

WASHINGTON — When an airplane pilot flies a high-speed parabola, he can free himself of gravity's pull for about 30 seconds. Centrifugal force hurries him up; gravity pulls him down. Briefly the two forces cancel each other, and the flier floats in his safety harness. Loose objects, such as cigarettes, matches, and pencils, may swim lazily in the air.
