Clardy Hearings Start in Detroit; 89 Summoned

Committee Attempting to Find Reds in Labor, Education

DETROIT (AP) — A World War II defense project scientist refused to tell a House un-American activities subcommittee today whether he is or ever was a Communist. The witness was Dr. Gerald Harrison, 37, now an assistant mathematics professor at Wayne University in Detroit.

DETROIT (AP) — Rep. Kit Clardy (R-Mich) opened hearings today into reported Communist infiltration into education and labor in Michigan.

Clardy, chairman of the House Un-American Activities subcommittee, said he expected to call between 8 and 10 witnesses the first day.

Clardy said more than half of the first witnesses would be educators.

He said, however, one "pretty important" witness may be called from the labor field.

The white-haired Michigan Congressman, commenting on criticism by the CIO United Auto Workers, said often the "most trouble is stirred up before a hearing." He said he thought the union, some of whose members have been subpoenaed, would be one of the chief beneficiaries of the investigation.

The first two witnesses, Clardy said, were Sidney W. Graber, a social studies teacher at a Detroit elementary school, and Dr. Gerald Harrison, a faculty member and physicist at Wayne University.

Clardy said the subcommittee would conduct hearings in Detroit, Lansing and Flint. But, he pointed out, sessions will be suspended Thursday while the committee members go back to Washington to vote on the St. Lawrence Seaway Bill.

The committee has issued 80 subpoenas, but has not publicly disclosed names of the recipients. Some of the witnesses, however, have admitted being called.

Clardy pointed out subcommittee rules specify that any witness may have counsel while he is testifying.

He said his group is not trying "to determine who is guilty and who is not guilty." He said it is merely trying to determine how far communism had infiltrated into the fields of labor and education.

Army Eyes Site for Storage Area

Several Locations for Warehouse Checked in Pontiac Vicinity

The Detroit District Corps of Engineers is eyeing the Pontiac area for a site to build a warehouse presumably to store military equipment.

Joseph Lazaroff, the district's chief technical liaison man, said several possible sites already have been checked.

The district engineers were requested to study the Pontiac area by the Army Ordnance Corp., said Lazaroff.

He did not divulge details of the warehouse, but said the site would house buildings and outdoor storage areas.

If a suitable location is found in this area, continued Lazaroff, his office has been authorized to purchase it.

Municipal Justice Court set the date.

5 Children Die as House Burns

Sixth Youth Escapes From Flaming Building With Minor Injuries

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Five sleeping children died in a fire that hit their home early today. The sixth child of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. O'Brien escaped with burns of the back, right arm and head.

Neighbors discovered the flames. Firemen, upon their arrival, removed the dead children from a single upstairs bedroom. Efforts to revive them at Divine Providence Hospital failed.

The hospital said the child victims, ages 2 to 11, suffered burns but probably suffocated. The official cause of death was not immediately determined.

Dead were Mary Ann, 11; Elizabeth Jean, 10; Bernard James Jr., 8; David Michael, 6; and Dennis Paul, 23 months.

The rescued child, Patrick, 5, was in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Hospital officials said the child told them he was downstairs when flames broke out about 4 a.m. (EST) in the living room of the two-story frame East End home. The child also said his father shoved him out of the house.

The father, 32, was treated for first degree face and hand burns and was discharged from WilliamSPORT Hospital. His wife, Anna May, who was not in the house at the time of the fire, suffered shock.

Fire Chief Harold E. Kinley said the fire started from an undetermined cause in the living room.

Kangaroos Added to Detroit Zoo, Open Thursday

The Detroit Zoological Park, at Woodward and 10-Mile Rd., will open Thursday with three new additions to its animal population, according to Director Frank G. McInnis.

For the first time in the zoo's history, kangaroos are part of the park's inhabitants. The kangaroos were received this winter from Australia, McInnis said.

Weekday visiting hours will be 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. and 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. on Sundays and holidays.

Tornado Scare Ends as Mercury Plunges

Cold air knifed into the Pontiac area early today and sent the mercury plunging 14 degrees in two hours.

The temperature dropped from 64 at 5 a.m. to 50 degrees at 7 a.m. It continued to fall and registered only 40 degrees at 1 p.m. in downtown Pontiac.

The cold mass of air from Canada is expected to bring a low of from 36 to 40 degrees tonight and a high of only 50 to 54 Tuesday.

Sunday's temperature ranged from 50 to 60 degrees. Rainfall totaled about 4 of an inch.

Tornado warnings issued Sunday and five other states this morning.

Lad Worth Watching His Driving Was Perfect Until He Met That Tree

Barry Joe Morey, 2-year-old son of a Bloomfield Township fireman, is losing no time following in his father's wheeltracks.

The youngster took off on a solo run in the family car late Saturday.

His feet planted on the driver's seat and both hands clutching the wheel, young Barry steered the car around a curve from the back of his home at 1155 Humphrey St., down the slope of a 60-foot driveway, across the street, into a ditch, over a culvert, across a neighbor's lawn, and came to a stop when a tree refused to give ground.

Mrs. Albert Fredericks of 1580 Rockwell St., found the tot standing behind the wheel of the car, looking "sober, but determined," when she ran out at the sound of the crash. Barry was unhurt. The auto suffered a banged headlight.

Two babies were burned to death Saturday night when flames raced through their garage home here.

Dead were Sherry Payne, 1, and her brother, Zachary, 2. Pontiac firemen found their bodies in the ruins of the two-room house at 914 Crawford St.

Mrs. Josephine Payne, 20, said she tried to rescue her children from the rear sleeping room, but was forced to abandon them due to flames and dense smoke.

Capt. John J. Morrissey of the fire department quoted Mrs. Payne as saying she carried Sherry into the front room, then went back after Zachary.

She said flames prevented her from reaching Zachary, and she couldn't find Sherry when she returned to the front room.

Capt. Morrissey said Mrs. Payne summoned her father-in-law, Henderson Payne Sr., who lives in a house on the front of the lot, and he tried to extinguish the flames with a garden hose.

A passer-by, Robert Powell, 27, of 486 Branch St., told firemen he crawled into the burning garage house and searched for the infants, but failed to find them.

Firemen said the fire apparently was caused by an overheated oil stove in the rear room.

McCarthy Plans to Take 3 Days to Quiz Stevens

Senator Rejects Idea to Speed Up Hearings by Narrowing Issues

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy said today it "will take at least three days" for him to complete his cross-examination of Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and indicated disagreement with attempts to speed up hearings on his dispute with the Pentagon.

McCarthy's announcement came at the outset of the eighth day of the inquiry, after Army special counsel Joseph N. Welch again proposed that the issue be narrowed, in effect, to the Wisconsin Senator's testimony pitted against that of Stevens.

Welch, asked by Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-SD), to tell how many witnesses he planned to call, repeated his suggestion that McCarthy take the stand when Stevens completes his testimony.

The army counsel declared that "minor characters" in the dispute could be disposed of very quickly if that were done.

McCarthy, asked to enumerate the witnesses to be called in his behalf and that of his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, and his staff director, Francis P. Carr, said the number depended on many factors.

Chief of these, he said, is what develops from Stevens' testimony under McCarthy's cross-examination. The senator observed: "I have had only a few 10-minute periods to cross-examine Mr. Stevens, and I estimate that it will take me at least three days to complete my questioning of him."

The exchange was touched off by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), who, apparently reflecting the views of the administration leaders, noted that members of the investigating subcommittee are forced to neglect "many other important duties."

With Stevens on the stand, McCarthy and Cohn were expected to press for more information about Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, commander at Fort Monmouth, N. J. Cohn, taking over the interrogation, asked Stevens to produce a copy of a statement prepared by Adams for McCarthy to issue, in which the senator would have announced he was calling off the Fort Monmouth probe.

Stevens replied he knew nothing of any such statement.

Cohn then asked: "Did you ever say that you were only awaiting Senator McCarthy's approval before dismissing General Lawton from his command at Fort Monmouth?"

"No," said Stevens. "I don't recall that I did."

Report Cabbie Hit by Picket

Man Pleads Innocent to Assault Charge in Labor Dispute

Attempts to organize Pontiac Cab Co. by Teamsters Local 614, AFL, exploded into violence Saturday night with the reported slugging of one of the company's drivers.

Robert Walton, of 30 Hovey St., who was charged with assault and battery, pleaded innocent this morning before Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Walton, who was released on $100 bond, is scheduled to appear for trial May 6.

The complainant, Willie E. Mills, 45, of 298 S. East Blvd., said Walton, a picket, knocked off his glasses and struck him in the face while he was parked at the cab stand at Saginaw and Pike Sts.

Daniel J. Keating, business agent for the local, demanded Walton's immediate release on bond, after his arrest Saturday night, but Finnegan refused on grounds that more violence could result in rioting at the cab stand.

Judge Finnegan, who surveyed the picketing, said the situation was tense, and he decided Walton's release might cause rioting.

Dien Bien Phu Gets Breather

Rebels Halt 3rd Heavy Attack and French Fly in Tons of Supplies

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The Communist-led Vietminh halted their third massive infantry assault on Dien Bien Phu last night. The breather for the weary and battered French Union defenders extended into today.

A terse French high command communique early today said the night at the besieged northwest Indochina fortress was "calm," with only "light harassments" of key French positions by rebel artillery and mortars.

The French took immediate advantage of the slack in the fighting to parachute tons of ammunition and supplies into the beleaguered fortress.

The command said that the Vietminh, after suffering "extremely heavy losses" in smashing through three strongpoints of the fortress, apparently had taken time out to regroup.

In fierce hand-to-hand fighting, the French had turned back the rebels who had overrun and occupied a part of the southern strongpoint "Isabelle."

But in the main defense complex the position of the French remained critical. Their northeastern, eastern and western strongholds had been wiped out by massive Vietminh infantry charges.

The narrow dropping zone for the fortress, its lifeline with planes dropping ammunition and war materiel, was still functioning despite the enemy's general attacks and continuing pressure.

Soviet to Invite Rebel Vietminh to Attend Parley

Nine Parties to Take Part in Conference to End Bloody War

GENEVA (AP) — East and West reached virtual agreement today on the setting up of a peace conference to end the bloody fighting in Indochina.

The Soviet Union agreed, French sources said, to a Western proposal that representatives of the Communist-led Vietminh be invited to the conference by the Soviet Union instead of Communist China.

The Western Big Three foreign ministers and Foreign Minister Nguyen Quoc Dinh of Viet Nam formally agreed to admit Vietminh representatives with the understanding that this would not imply recognition of the Vietminh regime as a state.

The Russians and the West already had agreed that nine parties would attend the conference—the Big Four, the Chinese Reds, the Vietminh and the three Associated States of Indochina, Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

The Russians and the West already had agreed that nine parties would attend the conference—the Big Four, the Chinese Reds, the Vietminh and the three Associated States of Indochina, Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

Smoothing out of the issue of Vietminh status came as the Korean deadlock showed no sign of a break and some of the Western foreign ministers began heading for home.

U.S. Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith took over leadership of the American delegation as U.S. Secretary of State Dulles headed for Washington by plane. Dulles scheduled a stop at Milan to meet Italian Premier Mario Scelba for a talk on the stalemate European army treaty and Italy's wrangle with Yugoslavia over Trieste.

Australian Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey also left for home today, and other foreign ministers were expected to turn their conference duties over to deputies in the next week or two. Russia's V. M. Molotov was understood to have said he would be here two more weeks.

A French announcement said that agreement on the participation of the Vietminh representatives in the Indochina parley was reached this morning at a meeting of Dush with Smith, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Minister Bidault.

The Viet Nam foreign minister formally stated his government's readiness to meet with representatives of the Vietminh regime, now waging bitter war against French Union troops in Viet Nam.

The Soviet agreement to invite the Vietminh representatives was given after Ambassador Jean Chauvel of France had handed Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko a note proposing this procedure. Earlier, the Soviet Union had suggested that Red China invite the Vietminh representatives.

Essential to Peace

Control of A and H-Bomb Is a 'Must,' Says Baruch

NEW YORK (INS)—Bernard M. Baruch has declared that if there is to be peace the United States and Russia must come to some disarmament agreement on the atomic and hydrogen bomb.

Merely to "outlaw" atomic weapons is not enough, the famous "elder statesman" asserted in an address before the School of Business of Public Administration of City College of New York.

No nation, Baruch said, can have effective insurance against atomic destruction unless there is "a sure system" of control against the diversion of atomic energy to military uses.

The former chief American representative in the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission contended that neither the U. S. nor other nations dare accept less than "a truly effective, enforceable system on international inspection and control."

"The proposals for such control which were put forward by the United States," said Baruch, "did not assume that this country would hold its atomic monopoly indefinitely."

"We had to figure that, in time, other nations would develop their own atomic sources. But whether one or sixty-one nations possess (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

May Need Three Days to Question Stevens

Cohn persisted: "Did not Mr. Adams, at your direction, press Senator McCarthy for six weeks... to give his approval of Lawton's dismissal?"

Stevens replied: "I don't know whether that is a fact or not."

McCarthy later opened a series of questions about Pvt. G. David Schine by asking Stevens about a newspaper story which said that Schine was "eating filet mignon and drinking champagne at the Stork Club in New York when he should have been peeling potatoes at Fort Dix."

dad's laps during family drives apparently were well-learned, because the 25-month-old tot negotiated a 45-degree turn between the garage and the house without scraping a fender or attracting any notice.

Asked what she thought of her son's adventure, Mrs. Morey released pent-up indignation:

"The child has me stumped," she said. "When he was a few months old he learned to climb out of his bed. Then he discovered that by taking apart the hot air register, he could crawl through the tiny space to get out of his bedroom. I haven't been able to keep track of him since."

"Now, at two years he's driving the family car. What next?"

But Maurice Morey, the tot's fireman dad, didn't have anything to say at all.

He just hoisted Barry Joe higher on his shoulder and looked proud as punch.

Must Curb Bombs, Insists Statesman

atomic weapons does not alter the fundamental problem.

"No nation can have effective insurance against atomic destruction unless there is a sure system of control against the diversion of atomic energy to military uses."

"The H-bomb and the possible development of the cobalt bomb only shriek this truth all the louder."

Baruch said he has not given up hope that a way can be found to meet the problem of atomic control.

"That old 'nothing can be done' philosophy never did appeal to me," he said. "I have never believed that man had to live down dumbly before anything, whether flood, fire, famine, disease, drought, earthquake — or the effects of man's own stupidity, including that most incredible folly of all — war."

Baruch told his audience some persons would disregard the nature of atomic energy in the hopes of getting so-called "agreement" with the Soviets.

But, Baruch pointed out, no agreement which ignores the nature of nuclear energy can prove anything but "a catastrophic delusion." He added that if the needed controls are unacceptable to any nation that does not mean we should accept less than what is needed.

"Either we bring nuclear energy under control or we cannot," Baruch declared. "If we cannot, why deceive ourselves by 'agreements' which have no meaning?"

President Eisenhower's proposal for an international atomic pool, according to Baruch, will be a worthy endeavor if it succeeds in widening peaceful atomic uses.

"Still," Baruch went on, "such a pool, in itself, cannot solve the basic problem of atomic control. Whatever is allotted this international pool, different nations would still hold back the larger part of available fissionable materials for developing atomic and other nuclear weapons."

Man Sent to Prison in Knife-Slaying

James Knedding, 22, of 20667 Oakland Ave., Detroit, was sentenced to six months to five years in prison today by Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty for an attempted breakin March 18 in Birmingham.

Knedding pleaded guilty April 19 to trying to break into a grocery store at 1744 W. Maple Rd. He eluded police at the time but turned himself in to his parole officer in Detroit April 12.

Knedding was placed on two years parole Sept. 3, 1952 after being sentenced to one to five years in Detroit for auto theft in 1950.

COMING UP — A 19,000-pound bulldozer, which caused one man's death by drowning Thursday when it collapsed a section of beach on Harris Lake and plunged into 40 feet of water, breaks water in the first of two attempts to haul it out Saturday. Three wreckers from an Oak Park towing service and six "frogmen" from the Michigan Muck-Combers Club worked for six hours to pull the machine from the lake where Vernon Likens, 23, of Commerce Township drowned Thursday. The bulldozer slipped out of sight in 6 feet of water shortly after this picture was snapped. A second attempt was successful.

Suggests Boost for County to Go With Boast for State

By JOE HAAS

As we celebrate Michigan Week that began Sunday, it is hoped that local residents will do everything possible to boost their state. Surely it has plenty of things to boast.

No county among the state's 83 has more to add to Michigan's fame in this respect than our own Oakland County. Perhaps its own residents have been too modest in extolling its many attractions.

In this connection, it has been suggested that we supplement Michigan Week with an "Oakland County Week" at the same time. In our conversation, letters and otherwise it is an excellent time to call attention to what we have to offer.

Second only to Wayne among the state's 83 counties, in population, industry, assessed valuation, and in many other respects, Oakland also is first in several ways.

We top the entire state in the number of state parks and other public recreational areas. No other county leads us in the current percentage of gain in population. No other county has a greater percentage of automobile ownership.

Located in the very heart of the world's greatest industrial area, the county still maintains its position as one of Michigan's leading agricultural counties.

With its 15 cities, 10 villages, 25 townships, and several unincorporated communities, each with a population that far exceeds many of its cities, Oakland County offers every phase of urban and rural dwelling.

Its 400 lakes give it more than any county in the southern peninsula of Michigan, and their shores are lined with more year round homes than any other county in the state.

No other county in the state can match the number of substantial homes erected in recent years around its lakes, and also in its so-called rural sections outside the limits of any city or village.

Its 900 square miles in area make Oakland the second largest county in that respect in the southern peninsula, the largest being Sanilac which is in the 1950 census had a population less than one-twelfth that of Oakland.

Its 600 miles of paved roads and over 2,600 miles of other highways give easy access to all points, and form a system not matched in many of the nation's areas.

The county's geographical location and numerous recreational spots make it a favorite outing location for at least two million people. The number that visited its attractions of this kind in 1953 greatly exceeded that figure. Of course many of them

1 Killed, 4 Hurt in Auto Crash

Saginaw Man, 50, Dies After Head-on Collision Sunday

A Saginaw man was killed and four persons injured early Sunday in a head-on collision in Waterford Township.

Lester Colpean, 50, of 1209 Court St., Saginaw, was dead upon arrival at Pontiac General Hospital. He was a passenger in a car driven by his wife, Mae, in fair condition with a wrist fracture and cuts.

According to Waterford Township Patrolmen Charles Whitlock and William Stokes, the Colpean auto was on the wrong side of the highway when it collided with another car driven by Mrs. Shirley Young, 37, of 6983 Terrell, Drayton Plains, at the intersection of Williams Lake, Rowley and Lansdowne Rds.

Mrs. Young is reported in fair condition with severe chest injuries, a fractured jaw and a possible spinal injury.

Conrad Feliks, 26, of 19345 Derby, Detroit, is in fair condition with a dislocated hip and chest injuries. His wife, Barbara, 23, suffered rib and thumb fractures, and is in good condition.

The Feliks, and Gene Mager, 21, of 989 Oakland Ave., were passengers with Mrs. Young. Mager was treated for minor bruises.

Detroit to Speak on Housing Problem

FCC to Inspect Diathermy Sets

Will Enforce Regulations on Medical Equipment to Cut Plane Mishaps

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Federal Communications Commission is planning to crack down on illegal diathermy machines to keep them from interfering with broadcasting stations, police and fire calls and other vital radio services.

The FCC said there are "serious potential dangers" in continued use of short-wave medical diathermy equipment that doesn't meet its rules. The rules limit both the number of radio frequencies that can be used for the heat-treating medical equipment and the amount of radiation they produce.

As an example of potential danger, the FCC said diathermy equipment operating outside its assigned frequencies could interfere with flight communications and result in "disastrous airplane accidents."

In case of attack, it said, enemy planes could use signals from "excessively radiating diathermy machines" as a guide to their targets.

Each short-wave diathermy machine is, in effect, a radio transmitter. An illegal machine could cause interference hundreds of miles away, the FCC said.

Some have disrupted police and fire department radio communications and interfered with reception of radio and TV stations, the commission said.

To minimize interference, the FCC issued a regulation that all short-wave diathermy equipment must be of a type approved by the commission or must have an engineer's certificate that it meets FCC rules.

The regulation took effect last June, after six years' notice, so doctors, hospitals and other users of diathermy equipment would have time to get approved machines.

The FCC said a "considerable number" of unapproved machines are still in use, but most of their operators are not aware they are violating the law. The commission will take court action, if illegal equipment continues to be used.

Queen and Her Family Welcomed at Malta

VALLETTA, Malta (UP)—Queen Elizabeth II and her family arrived in Malta today on the last stages of the monarch's round-the-world tour.

Prince Charles and Princess Anne jumped up and down with excitement on the bridge of the royal yacht Britannia as fireworks crackled, crowds cheered, ship sirens screamed and flags flew high.

A royal barge carried the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh ashore, where they drove through Valletta's old and narrow streets.

Neighborhood Feud Results in Shooting

MARINE CITY (INS)—A long family feud ended at least temporarily over the weekend with the shooting of a 54-year-old Marine City man.

Held Sunday for assault with intent to kill was Louis J. Greenleaf, 74, who said he shot Raymond D. Basset Saturday night while Basset was working in his yard. Basset, shot in the face with a .22 rifle, was in fair condition in Port Huron Hospital.

Greenleaf said he had been mad at the Basset family for several years "because they trespassed on my property."

Woman Falls 3 Stories, Only Gets Foot Fracture

BALTIMORE (UP)—Mrs. Glen Seiber fell three floors to a sidewalk here last night but suffered only a fractured foot. She was released after treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Her husband told police she was calling from their apartment window to one of his relatives on the sidewalk when she apparently fainted.

Truck's Smashed Driver Fails to Get to Smash-Up

MALIBU, Calif. (UP)—A wrecker was summoned yesterday after a collision on Ventura Boulevard, but it didn't show up. Sheriff's deputies, anxious to clear the road, finally sent two men to look for it.

Deputies Fred Hadland and Del Crawford said they found it, weaving uncertainly down a thoroughfare, and arrested the driver on suspicion of drunk driving.

Then they summoned more tow trucks to take away the wrecked cars—and the first tow truck.

USW to Outline New Demands

Serious Efforts to Get the Guaranteed Wage Seem Unlikely

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers' 170-member Wage Policy Committee comes here Thursday and Friday to put finishing touches on the union's contract demands before starting negotiations with the nation's basic steel industry.

The committee's final draft undoubtedly will include demands for a wage increase and improvements in the present insurance and pension programs. But few observers expect any serious effort to be made for a guaranteed annual wage.

The big industry, which has granted seven rounds of wage hikes since World War II, is feeling the pinch of a business lag for the first time in several years and this is expected to weaken union bargaining power.

Only recently, David J. McDonald, president of the steelworkers, told the union's 39-member Executive Board that steel production is down more than he expected it to go.

McDonald said there are 189,344 USW members furloughed from basic and fabricating steel plants and another 257,026 members on part time schedules.

The union's contracts with basic steel production companies expire June 30.

Most observers expect the union to work hardest on getting improvements in the insurance and pension programs.

Any wage increase will likely be considerably less than the 8½ cent hourly hike granted last year to boost average hourly pay to between $2.14 and $2.24.

Nationalists Slip a Bit 100 to Attend Conference

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang (Nationalist party) sustained a few setbacks in yesterday's island-wide election of mayors, magistrates and a provincial assembly but retained its overwhelming strength.

From 1847 to 1887, Michigan was the greatest copper producing state in the union. In 1880, net earnings of the Upper Peninsula mines were greater than those of the precious metals mines in California and Colorado.

Job's Answer to Suffering Shows Healthy Rebellion

The Rev. C. George Widdifield preached at All Saints Episcopal Church here Sunday on the sufferings of Job. He used Job's ultimate questioning of God's purpose to illustrate that a healthy rebellion often may be of more value in religion than submission accompanied by inner resentment.

All Saints, one of Pontiac's oldest churches, was founded in September, 1837. The Rev. Mr. Widdifield has been rector there since March 25, 1953.

Following are excerpts from his sermon:

The most popular stories in the world are the success stories. They are stories about men and women who begin with nothing and ended with everything. But there is another type of story that has its own particular kind of popularity. It is the story about the man or woman who had everything and lost it.

Such a story is the story of Job. Job was at the same time the richest and the best man in the country. That is a combination that you do not often find.

And then, without any warning, thieves stole his oxen, lightning struck his sheep and his shepherds, his camels disappeared, and a whirlwind struck and wiped out all of his 10 children.

And then to make the disaster complete, he was afflicted with ulcers from the soles of his feet to the top of his head.

How is it that such a good man should suffer so much? That is the problem which the Book of Job presents, but there is more to the book than simply the problem of suffering. There is the unfolding of a religious personality, and it is that personality that I would like to consider today.

Job was not patient. If I do nothing else this morning than to dispel that misconception of the character of Job, I shall be grateful.

Job cried out to God, "Tell me what thou hast against me." He rebelled against what seemed unjust, and the theme of our thinking this morning therefore is rebellion in religion.

Now I hope that no one will say that it has been said here that religion is rebellion or that rebellion, in or by itself, is a good thing. It is not. It is not a final thing, but it surely can be a tonic in a man's religion.

In the first place, Job's rebellion was more honest than his friends' resignation. They were saying what they had been taught to say: in life sin and suffering go together. Their theory was what if a man is good he will succeed and if he is bad he will be punished.

Now over against that frozen pattern of popular religion Job set his open rebellion. He knew in his day as we know in ours many number of people who cheated others and swindled them out of their money for days and years and were never caught, and on the other hand people who were scrupulously honest and fair who were beset by the worst of tragedies. Sinners do not always suffer, and good men do not always prosper.

Job's courage to say, "Look at me. I refuse to say that I was so bad, that I had committed so many sins, had indulged in so many crimes that God sent me this adversity as a punishment."

No, Job was too honest to say that, and in his rebellion for the very seeds of that kind of honesty without which you cannot have any real religion.

It is not unusual in these days to meet a great deal of criticism of the church, especially from the younger people. Much as we regret the rebellion, we can at least appreciate the honesty by which a young person looks at the things he has been given by his predecessors and says that they do not square with the facts as he sees them.

Now that kind of honesty as an element in rebellion is a good, strong, wholesome thing in any man's religion. Open rebellion is a great deal healthier than hidden unexpressed resentment. One of the reasons why a great many people are rotting religiously is that they are trying to do something that they do not really feel. And that kind of insincerity is a very unhealthy thing in a man's life.

I cannot believe that God wants men and women to have no resistance to anything that happens to them so that they take it all equally whether it is good or bad. No, it seems to me that God much prefers a man who, though he be mistaken, stands up and says, "This thing I do not understand."

Once a man has assumed that attitude toward God, there is the beginning of a working together in a kind of unity in which you can have real religion. God cannot make much impression upon a doormat.

Is it not true in life as we study the history of humanity that rebellion is always the first step forward? And as Job rebelled against this frozen theory of popular religion, namely, that sin and suffering always went together, he began to move toward a great idea.

This is one of the crucial points in the history of mankind. It is the point where mankind grasps the first glimmer of the truth that you are good not because you are going to get anything out of it, but you are good because it is right to be good.

And rebelling as he did inwardly against the injustice of what had happened to him, took a new step forward to that idea which finally came to its culmination on the Cross of Calvary on which a man was good to the very last, not because he got anything out of it, but because it was right to be good.

So in our lives, as we meet adversity, we have to decide sometimes whether to take it or to turn to God and say, "Tell me what thou hast against me." It is not easy to decide which to do when.

Sometimes, indeed, the proper attitude is to say, "I accept this." Surely this is the will of God.

But there are other times in the interest of honesty and a healthy spirit and in the forward movement of the race when the thing for a man to do is to stand up and say, "Tell me what thou hast against me."

Catholics Rejoice as Saint's Blood Melts 1 Day Late

NAPLES, Italy (U)—Catholic Neapolitans feared today the city faces a year of bad luck—the hardened blood of their patron, St. Januarius, was a day late in melting this year.

The blood is kept in two silver phials in the Naples Cathedral. For the past four centuries, it is said, it has softened on the first Saturday of May in answer to prayers. Three times the blood remained hard—before a bubonic plague in 1527, a cholera epidemic in 1884 and the 1944 eruption of Vesuvius.

Bell ringing and fireworks signaled the public joy yesterday when the cathedral announced the blood of the martyred saint finally had liquefied.

Truman's Birthday Talk to Be on Guarding Liberty

NEW YORK (U)—Former President Harry S. Truman has selected a topic for his 70th birthday speech next Saturday—the President's key role in preserving basic liberties.

Truman's speech plans were announced yesterday by Basil O'Connor, president of the Harry S. Truman Library, which is sponsoring his 570-a-plate birthday dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Fireman Boosts Clean-Up Drive

Chief Schroeder Asks Home Owners to Cut Fire Hazards

Pontiac Fire Chief John F. Schroeder today called upon all residents to join this year's spring cleanup drive as one of the best ways to decrease fire hazards in the home.

The fire department, Schroeder said, is cooperating with the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce which is sponsoring the week-long drive that starts today.

He urged homeowners to call on the fire department at any time to inspect homes for fire hazards.

Quoting National Fire Protection Assn. studies, Chief Schroeder said that home fires account for 50 per cent of all fire deaths. He added that children under-15 and persons 65 or older are the usual victims of home fires.

- For spring cleanup, Schroeder suggests the following checklist on fire-safe housekeeping:
1. Dispose of trash and rubbish regularly—old linens, cast-off clothing, old furniture and papers.
 2. Keep the grounds around your house free of dead grass, weeds, and dried brush.
 3. Enclose dust mops and oily rags in a closed metal container.
 4. Promptly replace worn or damaged electrical cords. Don't use makeshift fuses.
 5. Replace old rotting wood in your home and fencing. Keep the roof in good repair.
 6. Keep plenty of ash trays handy for smokers.
 7. Clean your chimney and heating system at least once a year.

8. Call the fire department at FE 2-9271, in case you are in doubt about other questions.

Dr. Kato Seen Using Firm Hand as Jap Justice

TOKYO, (U)—Japan's new justice minister hasn't had a chance yet to shake up his country's scandal-ridden administration.

But there's no doubt he's shaken nine condemned murders. Dr. Ryogoro Kato, a 71-year-old obstetrician, took over the ministry April 22. In his first seven days he signed death warrants for all nine men and told prison wardens to get on with the hangings.

In Japan, justice ministers have traditionally shied away from the unpleasant job. The last minister, Takeru Inukai, let some of the warrants lie on his desk nearly a year.

Ducking Traffic

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP)—Everything was just ducky in downtown New Haven when two ducks decided to take a walk. They tried to cross a busy intersection and snarled traffic for nearly 30 minutes.
