Chapter I

This Paris discotheque, the Club Barouf, was different. All the other discotheques I had ever been in were on the Left Bank and were small, candlelit holes.

This one was on the Right Bank, on the Boulevard Montmartre, and it was a huge, garishly lit place, as big as a barn but furnished with only the bare essentials. My friend Louis le Buc, who had sent me for an interview with the owner, had told me that the Club Barouf was a converted roller-skating rink. It looked like it. The owner's name was Jacques Castabert. He was a sleek, sad-eyed little man who seemed to have the cares of the world piled on his narrow shoulders. "Monsieur Reno Davis?" he said to me as I stood in his doorway. And when I nodded he waved me to a seat. "Coffee? A cigarette?" "Thanks. I could use them." While I was having my coffee and cigarette, I saw he was sizing me up narrowly.

"How long have you lived in Paris?" he suddenly said. "Six years. Two years in Italy before that." "Then that explains it. The six years, I mean. Your French is excellent, May." (Continued on Page A-8, Col. 1)

No Decision Yet on Time Issue

IMPORTANT JOB—Safety patrol boys such as Kevin Murphy (left) and James Kuchner, both 11, at Webster Elementary School are primarily responsible for the safety of their classmates during school months. However, this responsibility will belong more to the motorist when Pontiac-area schools close soon. With children still flocking to playground areas, drivers will have to heed such signs as the admonition in the background all the more carefully.

Drivers Get Child Traffic Alert

By MEL NEWMAN
Pontiac-area schools will close soon for summer vacation and streets, particularly in residential sections and around playgrounds, will be crossed by increasing numbers of children. The potential for accidents involving young pedestrians will reach its peak and Lt. Clayton Randolph, Pontiac police traffic bureau commander, has issued suggestions on how to avoid such mishaps. Randolph pointed out that child traffic safety is a dual responsibility on the part of both the young pedestrian and the motorist. However, he added that it's not a 50-50 proposition. "A motorist cannot take it for granted that children will be as responsible for obeying safety laws and principles as he will be. MUST TAKE INITIATIVE "The motorist must take the initiative." Still, children have guidelines he urged they be encouraged to follow. "Kids should be prompted to play in playgrounds, not on the streets," Randolph said. "If they take part in organized recreation department activities they'll be much better off than playing on the road." Bicyclists, he said, learn traffic laws in school and are expected to obey these as if they were automobile drivers.

Certain factors make summer a more dangerous time for drivers in terms of young pedestrians. Randolph said children will no longer be in specific areas, but more likely will "pop up anywhere." They'll also be out earlier in the day and in later at night, he said. He offered these tips to drivers: Have an automobile safety check to make fast stops certain and to be sure lights are good enough to illuminate kids at a distance. Slow down on residential streets, especially the small and usually lightly traveled roads. Use extreme caution when driving through public park areas. Be conscious of and obey child-safety signs where they are posted.

3,500 Expected at Polls

Heavier voting than last year in the Pontiac School District Board of Education election was estimated by voting officials today. A school official projects that an average turnout of about 3,500 out of some 35,000 eligible voters will go to the polls today. Last year what is considered a light vote of 2,123 was cast. Besides electing members to boards of education, special local issues will be found on some ballots. Voters will decide millage questions in Troy and Holly. A countywide proposal to build four area vocational education centers with a half-mill tax levy will be found on all ballots. If the question passes, a center would be built in each quadrant of the county to augment programs in local high schools. Residents would annually (until they decide otherwise) pay a 50-cent tax per $1,000 on equalized property valuations. Seven candidates are after two school board seats in Pontiac and 11 are running for three seats in Waterford Township.

CROSSWALKS CITED Randolph said safety innovations such as the city's new crosswalk overpasses for pedestrians are efficient devices, but only if used. "Watch out for kids and be aware when they're not," was his final caution to motorists.

DST Foe Hits Sufficiency of the Petitions

LANSING (U)—The State Board of Canvassers recessed for lunch today without reaching a decision as to whether there are sufficient legal signatures on petitions asking for a statewide vote on Daylight Saving Time. A "yes" decision would automatically advance Michigan clocks one hour at midnight unless opponents of DST begin further court action in an effort to halt the move.

The four-member, bipartisan canvass board heard legal arguments on both sides of the issue from 10:30 a.m. until shortly after noon.

The board then took a luncheon break until 1:30 p.m., when the hearing was to continue.

Tom Downs, representing the Michigan Farm Bureau and other anti-Daylight Saving Time forces, argued the number of valid signatures on the petitions is not enough to put the issue on the ballot.

'SAMPLING UNSCIENTIFIC' "The sampling is unscientific," Downs contended of the 2,126 signatures checked by the State Elections Division.

The sampling found 21 per cent of the signatures not valid. Downs said his own sampling of 1,791 showed 41.3 per cent not valid.

"There is an uncertainty as to the number of valid signatures," Downs said. "The board therefore has the duty to keep counting until it has shown there are enough valid signatures."

LEGAL PRECEDENTS

Charles Maclean, attorney for the citizens' group which circulated the petitions, said past legal precedents held that every signature is valid until the contrary is shown.

"We can't assume they are invalid until it is proven, Maclean said.

He added that if it is found that there are not enough valid signatures, his group will go on and gather more and refile new petitions.

Israel Plans to Keep Some Won Lands

By The Associated Press

Israel has denied Syrian charges that its tanks invaded deeper into Syria after a cease-fire but says it intends to keep some of the land it won from Syria, Egypt and Jordan in the six-day Middle East war.

Cheering crowds in the Israeli port of Elath last night greeted the first Israeli freighter to enter the Gulf of Aqaba since Egypt's proclaimed blockade of the gulf led the Middle East to the brink of war.

The Jewish nation had assured reopening of the gulf by capturing past 2:30 a.m. for the second straight day, adopted a new resolution demanding that Israel and Syria avoid any forward movement of troops and withdraw any units that have crossed cease-fire lines established Saturday.

Syria said Israel moved armored units forward yesterday. Israel said its tank movements were entirely behind the cease-fire lines. U.N. truce observers confirmed movement of tanks in the area.

Israeli troops now occupy Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, the biblical cities in Jordan west of the Jordan River and a 25-mile Syrian frontier which extends as deep as 15 miles into Syrian territory.

More Rain Is Seen for Next Few Days

The weatherman, who is either in a rut or the biggest stockholder in an umbrella factory, predicts more showers and thunderstorms for this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow. High humidity and high temperatures will accompany the rain-laden skies both days with the mercury scheduled to range between 82 to 92. Tonight's low will be between 62 to 68.

In fact, if you are planning on a picnic this afternoon through Thursday, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau's five-day forecast, you better include your rainy-weather gear.

Rainfall is expected to total one-half to one inch in occasional storms through Thursday. Percentage of measurable precipitation probabilities are today, 40; tonight, 30; and tomorrow, 40.

The low thermometer reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. registered 70. By 2 p.m. the mercury soared to a sweltering 91.

Violence Erupts in Florida, Alabama

By The Associated Press

An uneasy quiet prevailed in riotous areas of Tampa, Fla., and Prattville, Ala., today following racial violence yesterday and early this morning which produced gun battles between Negroes and police officers.

In Tampa, more than 400 occupants of Negro slums exchanged shots with police, and burned an entire block of white-owned stores in the central Negro district early today.

The battle, triggered when a policeman shot and killed a young Negro burglar suspect, broke out at 11 p.m. and raged in full force for 2½ hours.

It continued sporadically through the night in two areas. By daybreak the shooting had ceased and the flames had been extinguished.

DEPUTY DIES

Smoke from the fire-damaged buildings curled over a dingy area of bars, liquor stores, pool halls and one-story business houses.

A deputy sheriff died of an apparent heart attack during the melee. At least a dozen persons, including 10 whites, were injured.

The Alabama violence was touched off by the arrest of Stokely Carmichael, black power advocate.

The incident triggered a gun battle between Prattville police and Negroes.

National Guardsmen moved in early today with orders to shoot to kill if necessary to restore order.

HOUSE RAIDED

The guardsmen and police raided a house involved in the gunfire and removed some 30 Negroes and a double-barreled shotgun. Several rounds of ammunition were found in a car parked outside; Sheriff Phillip Wood said.

Wood said today 10 persons were arrested at another house and were charged with inciting to riot.

He said most gave out-of-town addresses and "many said they were with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee."

Police said Negroes barricaded inside the house had exchanged shots with city, county and state officers during the night while other shots were fired from a nearby wooded area.

POLICEMEN WOUNDED

The gun battle left three law enforcement officers injured slightly.

Wood said a prison trusty handling dogs also was wounded slightly in the violence which came after Carmichael was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge.

Police Chief Obie Thompson said Carmichael threatened to kill one officer and told police he would "tear up this town."

Carmichael was in the county jail a mile away while the gun battle raged.

The sheriff said the 10 and Carmichael, former chairman of the SNCC, would appear today before Judge James Loftis of the County Court of Records. He said bond for the 11 probably would be set at the hearing.

In the Florida violence, Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr., roused from sleep, flew to the west coast city on Tampa Bay in a jet plane, surveyed the riot scene and met with police, National Guard officers and Negro leaders.

The outbreak came just a few days after officials of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People mapped plans for a campaign of "quiet negotiation" in Florida during the summer of 1967.

Commission to Consider a New Pact for Firemen

BIRMINGHAM—A new contract for the Birmingham Firefighters Association will be up for approval by the City Council tonight.

A tentative agreement reached by city and association bargainers will be revealed at the 8 p.m. meeting in city hall.

The agreement reportedly calls for pay raises and changes in fringe benefits. However, the extent of these or the cost to the city have not been released.

Both parties agreed to withhold details until commissioners had a chance to study the agreement which will go into effect July 1, if approved.

Also on tonight's agenda is a Park and Recreation Board recommendation for a summer recreation program for Etowah and Poppleton parks.

GAME PERIODS

The proposed pilot program to run for six weeks would call for hiring a park director to conduct informal game periods.

The instructor (a male college student is suggested) would organize games such as volleyball, basketball, ping-pong, checkers, etc.

This would enable the city to offer "casual" recreation of a non-scheduled nature each day, according to the park board.

All equipment would be supplied by the city and no fee would be charged, so that "persons may arrive at the parks equipped with nothing more than a desire to play," the board states.

The program is urged as the "least-costly manner of determining the best use of public parks."

The board asks the city to provide $1,500 for the program, to be experimental this year.

Total prize money for pro football tournaments will reach the $5 million mark in 1967.

High Court Is Busy on Last Day of Term

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ended its term today with a flurry of major decisions, including the upholding of a $460,000 libel judgment won by Wallace Butts, former athletic director at the University of Georgia, against the Curtis Publishing Co.

"Elementary precautions were ignored" by the Saturday Evening Post in its articles on the former athletic director, Justice John M. Harlan said in the court's main opinion.

In another decision involving libel, the court threw out a $500,000 libel judgment won by Edwin A. Walker against the Associated Press.

In the controlling opinion, Justice John M. Harlan said there wasn't "the slightest hint of a severe departure from accepted publishing standards" in the way the Associated Press reported Walker's activities at the University of Mississippi campus at Oxford in 1962.

In other decisions, the Supreme Court:

- Barred Virginia—and by implication, other states—from making interracial marriage a crime. Chief Justice Earl Warren, speaking for a unanimous court, said "the freedom to marry has long been recognized as one of the vital personal rights essential to the orderly pursuit of happiness by free men."
- Upheld the contempt of court convictions of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and seven other Negro leaders of desegregation demonstrations in Birmingham, Ala., in 1963.
- Ruled that the Hart-Scott-Rodino law permits a union to fine members who work during a strike. The court held that two United Auto Workers (UAW) leaders were within their rights in fining union members at the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., who had crossed picket lines to work during strikes in 1959 and 1962.
- Declared unconstitutional a New York State law that permits police to eavesdrop when given a judge's permission.

Rollback of Troops to Truce Line Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—The U.N. Security Council early today banned any forward military movements by Israel or Syrian forces and called for a rollback of any that may have taken place since the cease-fire between them was supposed to become effective at 12:30 p.m. EST Saturday.

The 15-nation council acted unanimously at an overnight emergency meeting on Syrian charges that an Israeli armored column had advanced inside Syria in a drive to capture the Yarmuk River feeding the Jordan. Israel denied the charge.

The resolution was the fourth the council has adopted since Israel, Egypt, Jordan and Syria locked in war last Monday.

It called for full cooperation with Norwegian Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, head of the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization for Palestine, in implementing the cease-fire, "including freedom of movement and adequate communications facilities."

That provision was taken to mean Israel should give Bull back his headquarters south of Jerusalem which fell to Jordanian troops and then to Israeli troops.

Syrian Ambassador George J. Touma telephoned Council President Hans R. Tabor of Denmark at 5 p.m. Sunday and asked for "an urgent emergency meeting." He said he had word from Damascus that "a column of Israeli armored cars and tanks supported by military helicopter and other forces" had moved eastward and southward from Rafid.

Hoffa Is Ill, Reduce Term, Says Lawyer

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—Attorneys for Teamsters President James R. Hoffa today asked a federal court to reduce his eight-year prison sentence because the union leader is ill and may be in need of surgery.

"Continued incarceration may be injurious to the health of the defendant," the motion filed in U.S. District Court said.

Hoffa was imprisoned at Lewisburg, Pa., last March 7 to begin serving his term for 1964 conviction on jury tampering charges.

The motion for reduction of the prison sentence said Hoffa is suffering a variety of illnesses, including diabetes, a "diaphragmatic hiatal hernia" and a condition of internal bleeding which has required hospitalization and which may require surgery.

The motion did not request a specific reduction in term, but said the eight-year penalty imposed by U.S. District Judge Frank Wilson of Chattanooga was "unduly severe." The motion was filed in Wilson's court.

UTRECHT, Netherlands (UPI)—An explosion today shattered a military ship being loaded with artillery shells from surplus stores and collapsed part of the municipal power plant nearby.

Local health service officials said 18 persons were injured. A boy was missing and feared dead.

The ship was tied up near the power plant when, witnesses said, one of 15 soldiers on board "dropped something in the ship's hold."

The soldiers ran while thick black smoke billowed up and then the ship exploded.

The blast tore the ship in two. The forward part was hurled 80 yards into a dike. The aft section was blown some 40 yards away. Parts of the power plant collapsed.

The blast also smashed thousands of windows and damaged many cars parked in the area.

OCC Hoping to Settle Suits

Bloomfield Hills May Act in Zoning Dispute

Three 1½-year-old suits against Oakland Community College's George A. Bee Administrative Center in Bloomfield Hills may be settled tomorrow night.

Richard P. Condit, OCC's attorney, said today that he is "hopeful" the Bloomfield Hills City Commission will agree to a settlement at tomorrow night's meeting.

He refused to release details of the proposed settlement until official city action is taken.

When the college moved into its administrative quarters at Opdyke and Hickory Grove in December 1965, three lawsuits were filed against OCC.

A dozen neighbors filed a $1-million damage suit against OCC claiming that the nine acres of land could only be used for residential purposes.

CITY SUE

The City of Bloomfield Hills sued the college and the late George A. Bee to enjoin them from completing a sale. The city alleged that the land is zoned residential.

OCC claims the city does not have the authority to enforce a zoning ordinance against them since the college is an agency of the state, according to Condit.

All three suits are scheduled for a pretrial in Oakland County Circuit Court June 21. If the issues are settled tomorrow, they will not go to court.

Lasting Peace Possible—Israeli Official

DETROIT (UPI)—Israel's finance minister said yesterday that a lasting peace and common market with Arab nations is possible, in the wake of the Mideast crisis.

Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir told contributors to the Israel Emergency Fund in suburban Southfield that "If logic exists, there can be peace."

And with peace we can have many things in common, including a common market," Sapir said.

Sapir suggested the Israelis

"We spend fortunes for arms, for the military," he said. "It's giving us nothing. We should be spending more for education, better health and other improvements."

SOMETHING GOOD
"I think we can do something good for the Arabs and for ourselves. We can give them a part of our know-how."

"We can create a common market and work together in many ways, such as in tourism and in education."

With the fighting over, Sapir said Israel's main problem is its economy, which he said came to a near-halt when the nation mobilized last month. Sapir would not estimate the cost of the war to Israel.

"For a while the war was paid for by funds on hand, but now we are using difficult spending," he said. "Some of our costs are from use of supplies on hand, and we won't have a true cost picture until we try to replace them."

Exam Demanded in Murder Case

DETROIT (AP)—Willie N. Jamison, 23, demanded examination Sunday at his arraignment on a first degree murder charge in the May 21 holdup slaying of Joseph D'Angelo, 56, at D'Angelo's East Side party store. Recorder's Judge Frank G. Schemanske set a hearing for Thursday.

Jamison, returned to Detroit from Oklahoma City, will be examined along with his alleged accomplice, Johnny Mack Looney, 25, of Detroit, arraigned earlier on the same charge.

Water Safety Classes to Start in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — With increased water safety as the main goal, the Lake Orion

Child Guidance Association School of Aquatics begins June 19. There are 247 students now enrolled.

Mrs. Lucy Roe Fredo, head instructor, will be assisted by Mrs. Mary Ellen Johnson and a staff of water aides including Aileen O'Connor, Debbie Sloze, Renee Johnson and Brad Galinat.

Students will receive 10 hours of instruction in the regular classes and 20 hours in the life-saving course.

The regular classes include a water acquaintance course for nonfloaters, a beginners class and an advanced beginners class. Adult lessons will be given July 17 to 28 at 9 a.m.

Applications may be picked up at the Lake Orion L & S Market and the Lake Orion A & P. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. David Luebert, chairman of the program.

The last day of class is devoted to contests and to a demonstration of prowess for parents.

The white-faced gibbon can cover a distance of 40 feet in a single leap and has been known to capture flying birds.

PARK REPRESENTATIVE—James Clarkson, 3111 St. Jude, Waterford Township, is the new vice chairman of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority Board of Commissioners. Appointed to the board for a six-year term in 1964, Clarkson succeeds Charles H. Sutton of Howell as vice chairman. He is president of First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Oakland County.

Skid Trailer Used by GM to Measure Tire Traction

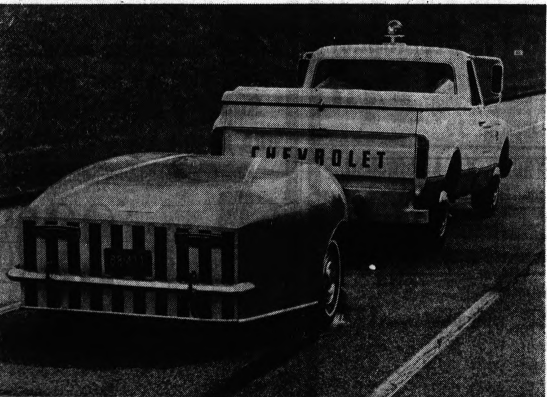

MILFORD—Skid resistance of tires on a road surface is being measured on a second-generation Skid Trailer at the General Motors Proving Ground. It is for use by highway and automotive safety engineers.

The new device, which contains improvements over the original one developed in the 1950s, enables engineers to control conditions of the skid.

Engineers explain that only after repeated controlled tests can they determine why the tire and road surface behave as they do.

Technically known as a coefficient of friction vehicle, its basic function is to provide a mobile, self-contained test unit for measuring the coefficient of friction between the road surface and tire.

It does this by wetting the pavement when needed, braking the instrument wheels in a gradual slip or skid, and recording the friction force between the tire and road.

MEASURES SKID RESISTANCE — A new film of water on the pavement before each wheel and wheels which can be braked gradually or suddenly, separately or together.

contains a road-wetting system which distributes a film of water on the pavement before each wheel and wheels which can be braked gradually or suddenly, separately or together.

21 School Districts Vote Today

Voters in 21 Pontiac area school districts go to the polls today to cast ballots on issues ranging from millage questions to school board elections.

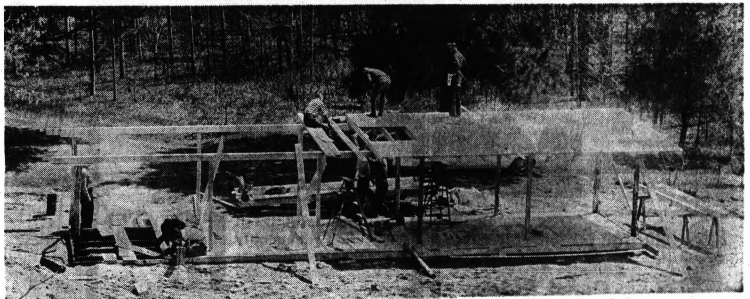

Troy voters are being asked to approve a one-year levy of $7 per $1,000 assessed valuation. The district claims it is seeking the levy to pay off debts and to continue present programs.

In Holly, a tax hike of $3 per $1,000 assessed valuation in addition to a renewal of 7 mills is being sought by the school district. Officials say the extra funds are needed to prevent a deficit and to maintain an adequate school program.

Polls in all districts will be open until 8 p.m.

Boat Launch Runs True to Form

DETROIT (AP) — Marilyn Morpew stood in her shorts and smashed the bottle of Madeira against the bow.

The bottle broke, she slashed an artery in her hand and the Meka II was launched.

"It's worth it, damn it," said Marilyn as she bound up her injured hand in a handkerchief.

"Let's have a round of applause for Ross Morpew's famous crowd," shouted someone in the crowd.

CHEER IS HEARD — A cheer rippled through a crowd of 200 spectators as the 36-foot sailboat slid into the Detroit River.

The Morpew's luck — good and ill — still is holding out. There still is work to be done, but for Ross and Marilyn, a two-year dream had been realized.

Morpew and his wife lost their first boat, Meka I, while honeymooning in the West Indies two years ago.

"We vowed we would get another boat," said Morpew, who estimates Meka II is worth about $21,000.

IN SPARE TIME — The couple returned to Detroit and set up housekeeping in suburban Dearborn Heights while Ross worked on the boat in his spare time.

But the neighbors complained that the large drydock supporting the hand-made boat was unsightly. It turned out to be twice the size of back yard building projects allowed under the city ordinance.

Undaunted, the Morpews sold their furniture and car and rented a crane to move the boat to Morpew's parents' home, 1405 Van Stone, Commerce Township, several miles away. The first attempt failed as the 12-ton boat proved too heavy for the crane and fell over.

CRANE IS VOLUNTEERED

But John Curran of J. J. Curran Crane Co., who read a newspaper account of the ordeal, volunteered to donate a 40-ton crane.

Everything was going fine until Marilyn's accident at the christening. But the injury didn't prove serious and the couple continued the ceremony by distributing awards to friends who helped.

"I really appreciate what they did for me," said Morpew, a 23-year-old with a beard. "Of course, I'd never build another boat in Dearborn Heights."

The couple still needs $3,000 to finish the interior of the sailboat and to acquire rigging before a maiden voyage to Expo 67 in Montreal.

The Morpews managed to sell 40 shares in Morpew Enterprises at $5 per share, then turned toward the boat as the crowd dispersed.

"I've got to check her for leaks," he said. "We've gone too far. I wouldn't want her to sink."

... And Culture Takes a Beating

Opera Comes to Citizens of Samarkand

SAMARKAND, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — The conductor wore white tie and tails and the orchestra wore sweatshirts. The audience wore gumboots and the heroine fanned herself with a copy of Pravda.

This is opera, Uzbek style — an uproarious result of the Kremlin's campaign to bring culture to a once-backward area only one generation removed from peasantry.

Samarkand, a central Asian city possessing splendid ancient relics, seems proud of its new, 1,000-seat opera house. It is a Moscow-modern structure with Victorian furniture in the foyer and the grand title of "Samarkand State Theater of Opera and Ballet."

On this particular evening, the opera was "Zainab and Aman," and Uzbek "Romeo and Juliet" written by committee — four composers named Zeldman, Sadikov, Radzhab and Zokirov.

There were 60 persons in the cast and 47 in the audience — "but we do better on weekends," said the old woman who sold programs printed in both Russian and Uzbek.

TV Viewers Are Pinin' for More Insult Programs

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — The success of the Joe Pyne Show and other Insult programs apparently is having great impact in the radio-television field.

In event you have been out picking blueberries and haven't caught one of these programs yet, I shall endeavor to describe what you have been missing.

The microphone is turned over to an insolent boor who conducts on-the-air interviews, the object of which is not so much to elicit information as to pillory the persons being interviewed.

The audiences love it and the victims appear to enjoy it, too.

I'm told these programs have become so popular that station managers all over the country are urging their broadcasters to make themselves "controversial."

MORE SURLY

The ones I have heard sound more surly than controversial, but their audiences are growing and it is, I suppose, only a question of time before the insult technique is adopted by the disc jockeys.

"WPDQ—"Wise Guys" radio. "Surly Sam" scobedoo spinning the platters for you. Here's our first telephone request. What's your name, baby?"

"Mary Jane Smith."

CRUMMY NAME

"How did you ever get a crummy name like that?"

"My parents gave it to me." "Your parents must be real finks. So what's on your mind, assuming you have a mind, which is giving you the benefit of the doubt?"

"I would like to make a request."

"I'm almost afraid to ask this, but what would you like to hear?"

"I would like to hear Sonny and Cher doing their latest hit arrangement of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony."

3 DAYS OLD

"Well, my girlfriends and I want to hear it anyway."

"I didn't know you were allowed to have radios in the juvenile detention home."

"We are high school students and we are at my house studying for a math test."

"You sound more like a kindergarten dropout. If you ever learn to dial the phone by and it is, I suppose, only a question of time before the inwhich he took off and adjusted periodically.

Opera in Samarkand is a community project. The audience laughed, joked, chatted and shouted insults throughout the singing, which was basically the traditional atonal Uzbek music set uneasily to the lush arrangements of western romanticism.

Despite the traditional Uzbek clothing, "Zainab and Aman" is set in the present. Power Pylons and Communist party flags dot the scenery. The heroine, in moments of modesty, his her face shyly behind her copy of Pravda.

Even by operatic standards, this is a flimsy foundation for four acts. But Soviet royalties are based on the number of acts so a three-act is financially unthinkable.

CHAOTIC ENDING

The performance was uneven. Toward the end of the third act, the basso missed his cue and threw everybody else off. The act ended in chaos.

The conductor hurried down the baton and stomped off. The curtain-riser, knowing that one mustn't count on too many braves from an audience of 47, let the curtain bounce back up for a quick curtain call — to reveal the cast quarreling bitterly over the snafu.

The orchestra exited laughing, trading curses with the audience. From the wings, a high C of outraged temperament echoed. The tourists collapsed in the aisles.

Opera in Samarkand is, obviously, still in its infancy. But the foreigner leaves reflecting that a group of workers, however small, has had a taste of opera, however ungrand, and has enjoyed itself hugely.

An besides, how many cities of 200,000 in more "advanced" societies not only have their own opera houses, but commission their own local operas?

It Seems to Me...

Lasting Impressions Gained From a Globe-Girdling Trip

Miscellaneous observations from a hasty whirl around this teeming, topsy-turvy old globe:

One must admire the residents of Warsaw. The bloodthirsty Germans slaughtered Polish people until the top soil was almost red. Hundreds of thousands were ruthlessly murdered by Hitler's war-mad minions. Warsaw was bombed, beaten and bashed to a pulp. Some 85% of the buildings were ripped asunder and the city left a veritable shambles.

As the Polish people say: "Only the indestructible soul of Warsaw remained."

And now: Warsaw's back. Miles of new buildings command admiration. Bombed out craters are gone.

But under the thumb of the Russians today, 90% of all business is dominated by the state. Only 10% is privately operated. Perhaps no city in history has shown a greater comeback spirit. Downtown Pontiac today is a sorry spectacle compared to this once war-wrecked citadel.

You are impressed by the general cleanliness of all cities. Our own are practically the global disgraces. Foreign communities show no scattered debris, beer cans, gum wrappers, wastepaper, torn newspapers, a discarded sock or two, broken bottles, empty pop containers etc. etc. etc.

Only in the United States has pride sunk to this low level. Laws don't keep cities clean. It's the people with a higher sense of decency and superior citizenship.

For shame, America.

Oriental women have a greater dignity than ours. Their clothes are more becoming and thigh length skirts are almost unknown. The wearers walk erectly, stand straight and are covered to their ankles — or nearly so. It's more feminine and more becoming.

It must be difficult to try and make an impressive personal appearance when the skirt is inches above your knees.

Nowhere do you find the general prosperity that we accept as a regular part of life. We are the world's champions and other nations understand. If immigration bars were suddenly suspended, the influx might flood the United States.

We didn't see much of the "Yank — Go Home" philosophy. Whether we're behaving better diplomatically or as individual citizens — or both — the scrivener knows not.

But we seem to be welcome:

In Saigon we had an interview with Lieutenant Colonel Le Xuan Chu Yen, the highest ranking defector that left the Cong. The price on his head is astronomical. He states simply that he believes the "way of life" in the South is definitely superior to his tribal ways. In the past 20 years, he has been awarded 8 medals, 35 official citations and has been wounded 10 times.

We were fortunate enough to see several oriental wedding parties and some of our group went to a Chinese wedding. ("By invitation," I add.) In a pre-wedding parade the groom sits erect, stately and is very grave in his finery as he is conducted along the streets in an open vehicle. His masculine friends flock with him to the bride's home.

AND NOW HE SEES HER FOR THE FIRST TIME.

You are impressed by the amount of athletics. The boys play baseball, soccer, and half a dozen versions of volleyball. And track is a favorite. They play more baseball in Japan than they do in the United States.

Our party had a high impression of the Chinese in Formosa. The Republic of China has about 50 million residents and there are probably more than 700 million Red Chinese on the mainland. In this last configuration, disease, poverty, starvation and want are in the ascendency.

But there's none in Formosa.

We had an audience with CHIANG KAI-SHEK's son. The father is in the eighties and frail and his son is a splendid representative. The people are healthy and neatly dressed. They're well fed, have nice homes and give the impression of an orderly group that is prospering. Some of our party laughed when they saw a farmer who went about with his chores with a transistor radio on his back.

The impression is generally abroad in that sector that the bulk of the Chinese Reds have "had it." Supervised constantly by armed forces they're weary and disillusioned. Dissent increases, we're told, whereas there's none in Formosa. The Republic has 600,000 armed forces and a million reserves, but this is a drop in the bucket compared to the army the Chinese could muster. The Red overlords have boasted: "Produce an army of 100,000, we'll counter with a million. You turn up a million and we'll command 10 million. And if you ever get to 10 million, we'll uncover a hundred million."

Mathematically they can. However, when they marshal the hundred million, only every hundred thousand soldier would have a weapon and they couldn't equip ensuing regiments with Roman candles.

There are definite rumors on an impending famine this fall in Red China. The weather has been against them. The long-term prospect isn't very bright for the average citizen, if we accept the prognostications in surrounding areas.

In Taipei, the Chinese are hard workers. Ten years ago, the government held title to 63% of the land with only 37% in private hands. Today farmers own 60% of their land which is a direct denial of Communist domination. The City of Taipei is essentially modern and prosperous in appearance.

You're told Iran has some of the richest oil land anywhere around the earth and a new prosperity is slowly settling over the entire region. They have one well which they say produces 80,000 barrels a day which could well be a world's record.

In Iran I expressed great admiration over the top publisher's Oriental carpet. It was one of the most beautiful I ever saw and he promised to send it to me in one of two circumstances:

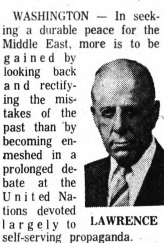

- 1.—When he had finished with it himself;
- 2.—After the lapse of two centuries, whichever came first. I'm holding my breath.

You Can't Win 'Em All!

David Lawrence Says:

Past Mideast Errors Come First

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — In seeking a durable peace for the Middle East, more is to be gained by looking back and rectifying the mistakes of the past than by becoming enmeshed in a prolonged debate at the United Nations devoted largely to self-serving propaganda.

New terms of settlement will not be achieved by direct negotiations between the adversaries but will finally have to be imposed either by the major powers themselves or by the United Nations. So the sooner fundamental issues are emphasized, the quicker will a realistic judgment be formed by an observing world.

For the truth is that there wouldn't have been a war if arms hadn't been supplied in the last few years by Russia and the United States, respectively, to the Arabs and the Israelis.

But he held out completely when I offered his wife, Mezbazaden, a job in Pontiac. She's very active in the office there and one of the best looking gals I saw in 27,000 miles of travel. He refused to make any agreement whatsoever.

We put down in Paris for two hours — long enough to change planes for Warsaw where we remained two days. In years gone by, this would have been reversed. However, travelers in general have become disillusioned and disgusted with the French. They've been gouging American tourists to the point that they've rebelled.

In the past two years the tourist trade has fallen off nearly one billion dollars and the French are visibly alarmed.

Well, let 'em be. DeGaulle was one of the "Yank, go Home" boys and now he's reaping the harvest of his hostility towards a nation which has always been pretty kindly and pretty friendly.

I shed few tears for France.

There will be a final account on a trip around the world on Wednesday.

—HAROLD A. FITZGERALD

War was inevitable because nothing was done to cure basic grievances, such as Nasser's control of the Suez and threats to deny Israel's ships access to the sea through the Gulf of Aqaba.

Little was done, moreover, to solve the problems which developed as a million Palestinian Arabs were forced from their homes when an Israeli government was established. This helped to foment in other lands an anti-Israel sentiment.

IT'S FRUSTRATING

What can the United Nations or any group of governments do under such frustrating circumstances? At least the errors made in the past can be reviewed so that they will not be repeated.

Also, agreements can be reached on basic principles, such as the right of smaller countries to determine their own destiny without being threatened by military attack, and the setting up of a mechanism to settle or arbitrate legal questions, including the right of passage through essential waterways.

But even when a peace treaty is drawn up between the Arab countries and Israel, this by itself will constitute no assurance against a recurrence of last week's military action unless both sides feel secure.

A continuance of the alliances of potential aggressors only means that more and more armament will have to be made available by the U. N. itself for the defense of small countries. Otherwise, sooner or later, regional conflicts such as the world has just witnessed in the Middle East will surely break out again.

To keep the peace is the function of the United Nations, but unless the peoples of all the member states are apprised of the facts and can exert a decisive influence, there will be local wars which could be enlarged into another world war.

Safe Cars

Chicago Tribune

The House in Springfield is leaving it up to the Senate to decide which of two bills requiring periodic safety inspection of motor vehicles is preferable.

Both measures, which have passed the House, provide for at least annual inspections of private passenger cars.

There is little doubt that the highway's periodic inspection of passenger cars, as well as trucks is needed.

As Speaker Smith pointed out, 15 to 20 per cent of all highway deaths result from defective vehicles.

The arguments of opponents that annual inspections would be too costly and would inconvenience drivers are not valid. The cost ($3 million in one bill, $5 million in the other) is relatively small, compared with the enormous cost of traffic accidents.

My husband planted a garden and within a few days there were at least ten children ranging from four to ten years of age in the garden destroying everything. You can't talk to the parents as their children never do wrong. The kids run loose with no one watching them except people whose property they are destroying.

REPLY

Acting Police Chief, Capt. Nye, says consolidation probably would not improve efficiency, because particular areas have their own particular problems and responsibilities which must be handled locally.

Voting Age

Buffalo Evening News

Letting 18-year-olds vote — a reform we've long advocated — was the cause for which three young Kenmore West High School students spoke up at a Constitutional Convention committee hearing the other day.

And we must say their 16-year-old chairman, Leonard Hindus, served their cause very well with his reply to what was intended as a devastating remark by an unconvinced Con-Con delegate.

"How about giving the vote to teenyboppers and hippies?" he asked the earnest young delegation.

"Bums and vagrants have it now," was Leonard's fast reply — and of course that was exactly the point that needed making: that all 18-year-olds should no more be judged by the "teenyboppers and hippies" than all adults are judged by "bums and vagrants."

No one guarantees that voters of any age will use their franchise either maturely or wisely. But our feeling is that those between 18 and 21 would do as well with it, by and large, as those of any other age group.

And our further feeling is that the responsibility of beginning to vote while they are fresh from the completion of their high school courses in history and government will have a desirable maturing influence on them.

be a little too common, but excellent. And you're a pugilist!"

"Was I given it up a couple of years ago?"

"And since then?"

"I've been trying to become a writer."

ODD JOBS

"Ah, another of those. He made a face. "But obviously you haven't become one yet."

"Obviously."

"Then what have you been living on?"

"Odd jobs now and then. Tourist guide. Translator for a magazine publisher. I was bouncer at the Hollywood Strip on the Boulevard de Clichy for a while. That's why Louis LeBuc thinks you might be able to use me here."

Castabert sternly shook his head. "I don't need a bouncer. I need a diplomat. Are you a diplomat?"

"When I have to be."

"I hope so. Let me explain. The kids open the place here in the evening, and you won't have trouble with them. But later on the snobs will show up, the chichi crowd, and when they and the kids rub up against each other there can be complications."

"That's what you're to stop before it starts. But no rough stuff, you understand. No muscle. Is that clear?"

COMPLICATIONS

"Yes. Then I've got the job?"

"If you want it for a hundred francs a week. The whole thing's an experiment anyhow. Maybe later on—"

"All right."

I learned that first night on the job what Castabert meant about complications.

NEW ODOR

Until almost eleven the customers were mostly kids, and I had an easy enough time with them. But after eleven a new element entered the scene, a new odor pervaded the outside foyer of the club.

Now, instead of smelling from youthful sweat and cheap perfume, it was filled with the scent of damp mink and sable and of very expensive perfume.

Only once was there a break in this pattern. When some young grandly announced, "Ah, the Jet Set."

A fat, putty-complexioned man in a dinner jacket hesitated menacingly until the pert little blonde he was escorting jogged his elbow and shoved him on his way.

MEETS GIRL

I saw a tall, slender girl with splendid regal carriage who, in the middle of that mob, managed to seem isolated and apart from it.

Dark-haired, with unbelievably large, sapphire-blue eyes, she sat in brooding silence among her companions, neither speaking nor being spoken to. Later, I glimpsed the wedding ring on her finger.

As luck would have it, I met her before the night was over.

There was a signal for help from a waiter near the door of the foyer, and when I went out there I found the girl, and the pert little blonde who had jogged the fat man on his way, and a crowd of youths, all in hot dispute over the use of the telephone.

FAKING PHONE CALL

"Thank God," she said when I presented myself to her. She pointed a finger at the boy with the phone.

"He's only pretending to make a call, do you understand? And I must use the phone immediately!"

"Oh, do try to restrain yourself, Anne," said the little blonde in an undertone. "It's not really that important. I assure you Paul is perfectly safe."

"Isn't there anywhere else to call from in this wretched place?" she asked me tensely, and I realized from her accent that she wasn't French at all, but British or American. So the hostile crowd around her had a double source to settle.

"You can call from the owner's office," I said.

The cloakroom woman shook her head. "Not a chance. Castabert went out for a bite to eat, and the office stays locked until he gets back."

"Then get this phone away from that overgrown bully," the girl commanded. "This is incredible. I tell you he's only pretending to use it!"

Her face was chalk-white now. She looked as if she might fly apart in another moment.

I turned to the boy holding the phone. "Let's have it, son."

"If you want it, come and get it."

He was a hefty specimen but he was only a kid, after all. When I meaningfully lifted my fist he paled and swallowed hard.

"You want to get yourself killed, Andre?" someone finally said out of the hard-breathing silence around us. "He used to be a heavyweight fighter, that one. Go on, let him have the phone."

SURRENDERS PHONE

"Go on, you might as well," said someone else, and Andre, making it plain he was surrendering only to humor them, contemptuously tossed me the phone.

I put it to my ear, heard the shrill yammer of a female voice at the other end, and to Andre's open-mouthed astonishment, tossed the phone back to him.

"I'm sorry," I told the dark-haired girl, "but it really is in use. So if you don't mind—"

"There's a phone down the block at the tobaccoist's. I'll escort the lady there if she wishes."

LOOK OF HATRED

I watched her from the tobaccoist's counter while she was in the phone booth.

Then the shop door was suddenly flung open with a force that almost shattered its glass; the fat, putty-complexioned man, his face wrathful, stalked in and went directly to the phone booth.

When he reached his knuckles on its glass, the girl turned to stare at him with open hatred.

I left them there like that. It was my policy never to mix in anyone's family affairs.

804 Districts Seen by July 1

LANSING (AP) — Local annexation and merger votes will bring the number of Michigan school districts down to 804 by the first of July, reports the State Board of Education.

Annexation votes which took place in May already have reduced school districts to 884, while 80 merger elections which have passed will take effect July 1.

More than 600 school districts have disappeared through reorganization prompted by a 1964 legislative act, the state board said.

The majority of the districts eliminated have been those without high school programs, which have since merged with adjoining districts offering secondary education.

All but six of Michigan's 60 years.

Intermediate districts now have complied with the requirements of the act, the board said.

An Odd but Warm Friendship

Soldier Stands By Pal--Even in Death

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BONG SON, Vietnam--From the first day the two soldiers met, Pfc. Bud Knaus championed the clumsy cause of the other man.

It was an odd friendship. But a warm one, too.

Knaus, 22, a solidly built youngster from someplace called Cheektowaga, N. Y., was clearly the able protector. Strong-willed and intelligent, he made a hell of a soldier and a hell of a pal.

The other man, though, was something else. A good enough fellow, of course, but a definite dud. He would try almost anything and fail as often. If he said black, it was white. If he said up, it was down.

Indeed, it was a strange, if sincere, mating. Soldiers here always referred to it as a marriage of the helpful and the helpless.

PATIENT ADVICE
"No, not that way," Knaus would advise patiently.

"How then?" the other man would ask.

"Move it counterclockwise."
"Huh?"
"Up and to the left."
"Oh, I gotcha, Bud. Thanks."

That's how it was with them from the beginning. And that's how it was the other night when all of the horrible shooting started.

The men were with an artillery battery from the First Air Cavalry at the time. The unit was emplaced on high muddy ground. It was quiet. Most everyone was bedded down for the night.

It was a chilly evening, rainy and windy. The other man complained of the cold. Bud Knaus said it would be warmer in the morning. The pair crouched side by side and half asleep in a gun bunker.

SLEEP BROKEN

"What's that?" somebody whispered.

"Huh?"

"That noise!"

"I don't hear . . . OH GOD!"

The noise was the opening whoosh of an enemy mortar. Seconds later it struck the unsuspecting U. S. unit with a deafening blast.

It was followed by shouts and more mortar shells. Then the rifles opened up and the machine guns. In a sickening second the battery area was swarming with wildly screaming enemy troopers.

Knaus was to his feet immediately. He rammed a clip in his rifle and cut loose in the general direction of the loudest noises.

The other man was somewhat slower. He turned white and sucked himself alongside a circle of sandbags. Knaus urged him to open fire but, if he did at all, it was not observable.

By then the battle was at full fury. U.S. artillery pieces opened up into the swirling enemy with devastating effect, and loose-jointed GIs scrambled into the night to pick off whom they could.

Despite the resistance, the enemy continued the charge. Small bunches of them crawled over the parapets and shot their weapons at whatever moved below or whatever was already dead.

Finally, the guerrilla waves grew so large that the artillerymen had to empty the flanking bunkers and rally into a tighter defense.

"Get out of the bunker."

"Move down to No. 2."

"Here they come."

"Get the hell out of here!"

Knaus, of course, started to comply. He hopped to the top of the bunker and there stopped. He looked back for the other man and saw him still clinging frantically to the edge of the sandbags.

Then he dropped to the other man's side.

The fight flared for hours afterward. Give and take. Dead man for dead man. Wound for wound. Each side suffering mightily. But at length the guerrillas retreated. And the guns began to cool.

In the end, the surviving GIs walked wearily through the desolation, surveying the damage. When they reached the final bunker they found two American bodies both shot through the head.

It wasn't so bad for them really.

It could have been worse. They might have died apart.

Tips on What to Do During Earthquake

WASHINGTON (UPI) — You may know what to do when a rattlesnake bites, or when a fishhook winds up in your hand instead of in the fish, or when the tornado strikes or the hurricane hits, or when the floods come.

A lot of authoritative advice has been published about "what to do" when any of these possible calamities occurs.

But "what do you do when the earth shakes beneath your feet and your house begins to sway?"

The Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) has just released some suggestions about "what to do during an earthquake."

Your chance of getting hurt in a major U. S. earthquake is, according to ESSA, "exceedingly small."

Since the country was settled, only about 1,500 persons have died during earthquakes. Almost half of them were killed in the San Francisco disaster of 1906.

But when an earthquake does it, the consequences can be terrible. The 1964 Alaskan quake, for example, took 116 lives.

So it won't hurt you to know the rules of proper behavior when the earth shakes and houses sway.

"Dive under a table, desk, doorway, or any covering that will protect you against a falling ceiling," says ESSA. "Don't rush into the street where you can be struck by falling cornices and other flying objects."

If you are outside, seek an open doorway. Or try to get into the middle of the street, if it is a wide one. But in doing this "be careful" — cars coming down a highway "can be just as deadly as an earthquake" if they hit you.

The "most disconcerting" thing about an devastating earthquake, according to ESSA, is the repeated occurrence of aftershocks which normally follow all big shakes. But scary as they may be, these shocks rarely match the intensity of the primary quake.

Nursing Home Formula for Medicaid Set

LANSING (AP) — Nursing homes will receive from $104-$116 a day from the state for the care of Medicaid patients under a formula developed by the Michigan Department of Social Services.

The formula authorizes payment of $10, $12, $14 or $16 per day, depending on the intensity of care the patient requires.

Specific criteria have been established for determining the charge for caring for each patient, the department said. All patients in nursing homes are admitted by a physician and require continuing medical management.

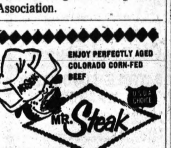

"We believe that these rates will enable nursing home patients to have the kind of care that will facilitate recovery and return to family situations," the department said.

HAS ENDORSEMENT

The statement added that in cases of chronic and continuing illness, the patients would be able to live out their years in "all the comfort possible under the circumstances."

The formula has the endorsement of the legislative ad hoc committee appointed to consider the problem of reimbursing nursing homes for patient care, the department said.

It also has the endorsement of the Michigan Nursing Home Association.

2 Sisters Slain; Clues Sought
Pair Beaten, Stabbed in Oklahoma Home

71 Are Arrested in Detroit Raid

DETROIT (UPI) — Sixty-six persons, arrested in a raid on an alleged blind pig, were to be arraigned today on a charge of loitering.

The 49 men and 17 women were among 71 persons arrested early yesterday in a police raid. Mrs. Evelyn Mullin, 33, accused operator of the illegal liquor operation, was charged with violating state liquor laws.

Police said about 200 such illegal liquor operations are believed to exist in the Detroit area because they are relatively easy to set up.

STROUD, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma authorities sifted through scant clues today in the brutal murders of two sisters, one of them the wife of a soldier in Vietnam.

The bodies of Betty McCullough, 23, and her sister, Mary Alice Valliquette, 15, were found early Sunday on the floor of Mrs. McCullough's bedroom in a three-bedroom, frame house in a quiet residential area. They had been beaten and stabbed.

A neighbor, Lloyd Howard, summoned police after he was called to the house by one of Mrs. McCullough's three children, Ricky, 6, who pleaded: "Something is wrong with mama. Will you come and see?"

HEARS DOOR CLOSE

The boy was awakened when he heard the door close to the bedroom in which he and his two sisters, Tonya, 3, and Penny, 16 months, were sleeping. He said he saw a man's hand on the doorknob.

Jerry Welch, Lincoln County deputy sheriff, said a screen was off a window in the house and the window was open.

Authorities said the mother was nude and the younger girl was partially clad.

THE "COORDINATED LOOK"

An easy way to the "coordinated look" in fabric and furniture — one of today's most livable decorating ideas — will be the Miller of a new window vignette designed by Miller Furniture Co. in cooperation with Pontiac Furniture Company and scheduled to open on Monday.

The key to this coordinated look is a handsome new fabric of "Antron" nylon, which does double duty as upholstery on beautiful

Pontiac Mr. and Mrs. chairs, focal point of the vignette, and as a matching, richly textured drapery. Thanks to "Antron" — DuPont's newest nylon, the fabric makes a soft, lustrous upholstery with a luxurious look — but it's a luxury that works for its living, because this cloth is sturdy as only nylon can be. Available in 8 decorator colors . . .

Nation's Heartland Hit by Tornadoes and Floods

By United Press International

The nation's heartland throbbed today in the aftermath of tornadoes and floods. Thunderstorms fell over much of the nation.

Twisters yesterday sawed into parts of Illinois, where nearly half-foot rains fell Saturday, and ominous funnel clouds creeping along in the Midwestern skies caused residents to be on the alert the day long.

In a six-hour period last night, the U.S. Weather Bureau said, 10 tornadoes were reported in Kansas, five in Missouri, four in Iowa, three in Nebraska, two in Oklahoma and funnel clouds were seen in Kansas and Iowa.

No serious injury or damage was reported.

A Texas twister struck near Wortham Bend, northwest of Waco, causing $5,000 damage to a farm.

Hail pounded the center of the Longhorn state, and in the central part, creeks and streams rose steadily near flood level after rains measuring up to eight inches.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms fell from Washington and Arizona to the plains and upper Great Lakes today.

Showers also were reported in northern New England and Florida.

Seventy-degree weather stretched from the Gulf of Mexico to Chicago and New York City.

United Presbyterians Weighing Mergers

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) — The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. has begun consideration of several proposals involving mergers with other denominations.

At least one-third of the record 89 overtures, or requests for action, facing the 107th session of the assembly deal in some way with church union, 855,402 members and 4,002 of the major question before the governing body.

Among the union overtures are those which ask:

- That the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., which represents more than three million persons and 8,374 churches, be invited to enter into negotiations toward union with the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. The proposal was rejected by last year's assembly.
- Withdrawal from participation in the Consultation on Church Union, an organization which seeks to unite 10 denominations with a combined membership of 25 1/2 million persons.

Significantly, the Reformed Church in America, with 22,414 members and 927 churches located primarily in 26 Northern states, also is holding its general synod here through Wednesday.

Scheduled for presentation to the two denominations' governing bodies next year is the draft of a plan for a merger of the two churches.

The Reformed Church's General Synod voted Saturday to proceed "as rapidly as possible with looking toward" a merger with the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.

An eminent Australian Methodist leader told the two governing bodies at joint sessions Sunday that only broad, ecumenical programs will enable the Christian church to face "the greatest challenge in all its history."

The Christian church always has a two-fold task, said the Rev. Dr. Alan Walker, superintendent of the Central Methodist Mission in Sydney. These are, he said, to win men and women to a "vital relationship with God," and to "fashion a world fit for the people of God to live in."

DIEDREE SYMINGTON

Symington's Niece Killed Sky Diving

STORMVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Diedree H. Symington, niece of Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., fell to her death Sunday when her parachute failed to open during her first attempt at sky diving.

Miss Symington, 21, a student at Boston University, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Symington of Leesburg, Va.

Nathaniel Sweet, instructor at Stormville Airport, said Miss Symington showed up with Godfrey Creig, 23, a Harvard student from Greenwich, Conn.

He said the pair received about 90 miles per hour, Sweet said.

Miss Symington's body was taken to a funeral home in Pawling, N.Y.

"It was the first death," Sweet said. "I've taught more than 900 students with nothing worse than a few bruises."

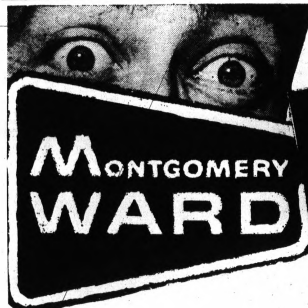

Miss Symington then went up in a plane owned by Alexander Sweet, Nathaniel's brother, of Salem, N.H., and piloted by David Cheney, 33, of Mount Kisco, N.Y.

Sweet said Miss Symington jumped from 2,600 feet. Her parachute did not open fully, he said, and "she did not activate her reserve chute."

Mom Earns High School Diploma

Mother Barbara Dodi helps Laurie, 2, get dressed as Barbara Jean, 5, kibitzes. The Robert Dodts live on Cameron Street.

By JUNE ELERT

So you think you're busy!

I thought I was busy—until I met Barbara Jean Dodi (Mrs. Robert).

She is mother of eight children, ranging in age from 2 to 17.

She works a staggered schedule at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, about 40 hours a week.

All her spare time (spare time?) this past year has been devoted to completing her high school education!

The former Barbara Jean Houts grew up in Pontiac.

She attended Longfellow School and Pontiac Central High School, but "dropped out" (a nasty word) before graduation, despite all the arguments of her parents.

MIND CHANGED

Years later, when her own children were approaching that dangerous age, when dates and "living" seem so much more important than the dull old books, she found her point of view reversed.

She decided she must not allow her children to say, "Well, Mom, you didn't finish high school. Why do I have to?"

Last September, she enrolled at Pontiac Northern High School, just a few minutes away from her home on Cameron Street.

The first semester, she attended classes three hours each morning, five days a week.

This semester, the hours were cut to two per morning, but an elective in psychology at Pontiac Central High School consumed another three hours on each Tuesday and Thursday evening.

The additional credit was needed for graduation this month.

Mrs. Dodi's superiors at St. Joe's juggled her schedule on the emergency room reception desk between midnight and afternoon shifts so she could take these classes.

Two days a week she got home from work just in time to get-ready to go to school.

LOTS OF HELP

This regimen has required a lot of cooperation from a lot of people, including some "marvelous neighbors."

But Mrs. Dodi gives fullest credit to her husband and children who have ignored the inevitable inconveniences and pitched in with a will to help.

The two oldest children, Lezlie Ann, 17, and Robert E. II, 16, also attend Northern. Lezlie Ann is a junior and Robert a sophomore.

ALL HAVE JOBS

Each of the older children has accepted some responsibility as mother-substitute for the younger ones.

Lezlie Ann and Robert fix dinner for the family when mother works the afternoon shift.

Robert irons his own clothes and babysits.

Billy, 12, Lynn Lorraine, 10, and Kimberley, 9, also help with dusting, vacuuming, sweeping, babysitting and dishwashing.

They share bedroom-cleaning duties and look after the little ones, Mary J. 7, Barbara Jean, 5, (who is in morning kindergarten), and baby, Laurie Jane, 2.

The boys also help their father with a landscaping business he operates in addition to his regular job at GMC Plant 5.

Mrs. Dodi admits it has been hard at times. She had to relearn to study and concentrate.

But she says it has been an inspiration to the children. Television viewing was cut to a minimum.

More reading and studying goes on than ever before. Trips to the Pontiac City Library delight the youngsters. Grades have improved.

Mrs. Dodi says "They're normal. They battle like all kids, but they can all pull together, too."

Two of the children and their father will be in the audience Wednesday to see their mother, in cap and gown, receive the coveted diploma.

COLLEGE NOW?

But this is not the end. Mrs. Dodi plans to go on, perhaps at Oakland Community College, in pursuit of a career in nursing.

Her long association with St. Joe's (where she has worked on and off since 1950) may have had some influence here.

However, she does plan to "take the summer off from school . . . (to) decorate, clean, and paint!"

J. H. Norrises Exchange Vows in St. Hugo's on Saturday

Anne Kiley Monaghan wore beneath her imported French voile gown a petticoat made by her great-grandmother for her grandmother's wedding. Hand embroidery accented her gown.

Her head piece and bouquet were of Denrobin orchids for vows exchanged Saturday with John Hart Norris.

Parents of the couple wed in St. Hugo of the Hills Church are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Monaghan of Bloomfield Hills and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Norris of Birmingham.

Mary Monaghan, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Michael Monaghan, Josephine Paulus, Mrs. Richard Brodie, Mrs. James Rae of Minneapolis, Minn. and Mrs. Philip Norris. Clifford Norris was his brother's best man.

Ushers were Michael and Peter Monaghan, Philip Norris, Richard Anglin and Jamie McEwen of Winnipeg, Canada.

The John Hart Norrises were wed Saturday afternoon in St. Hugo of the Hills Church. The bride is the former Anne Kiley Monaghan. Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Monaghan of Bloomfield Hills and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Norris of Birmingham.

MRS. JOHN H. NORRIS

Reception desk clerk, Barbara Dodi, is all business when she is on the job in the emergency room of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Too Late for Worry Now

Mold Has Already Been Set

By ARIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I am worrying needlessly, but I can't help it. Our daughter will be a freshman this fall in a co-ed university half-way across the continent. It's considered a fine school, but I understand there is practically no supervision.

I mean, they stay in dormitories, and there is a dean of women to talk to, but their hours are very liberal. They can "sign out" for weekends, and with so many freshmen girls, ours will get no special looking after.

We've never had any trouble with our daughter, but with all we hear about pre-marital sex in colleges, we are concerned.

ABBY

freshman girls a little more strictly? After all, it is the first time many of them have ever been away from home.

WORRIED MOM: By the time a girl goes away to college, her moral code is well established, and what she didn't get at home and in church she will not get from the dean of women. It's time parents realized that even more important to college students than "supervision" is a good, sound moral grounding during their impressionable years at home.

Educators cannot be expected to police the morals of college students much beyond the general injunctions that apply to society as a whole.

DEAR ABBY: Am I dreaming, or didn't I learn somewhere that if one wore a pink or red carnation on Mother's day it meant his mother was still living. But if he wore a white carnation it meant his mother was dead?

I mentioned this to someone last Mother's day and he looked at me like I was some kind of nut. Please confirm or deny.

NUT OR NOT: You're not a nut. I've always been under the same impression, but I was told that practice went out with the fox trot.

A Bermuda Trip After Ceremony for Monahans

Honeymooning in Bermuda are the newlywed Vard Allan Monahans (nee Sue Thalacker). The couple was wed Saturday during a candlelight ceremony in Christ Church Cranbrook.

Carolyn Emmett was maid of honor for the bride who wore a gown of ivory silk organza with Empire lines. Alencon lace accented the bodice and hemline.

A chapel length train of peau de soie with lace appliques flowed from the waist line.

The bride carried a bouquet of gardenias and Stephanotis. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ralph D. Whitehead (sister of the bride), Nancy Husband, Sue Henry, Linda Pitchford, Noel Hayashi and Melinda and Richard Monahan (sisters of the bride).

ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is planning to entertain about 12 couples after the senior prom (2:30 in the morning). We have a family room to accommodate the group.

I would appreciate any suggestions that you can offer as to: How to entertain them until breakfast is served? What time should breakfast be served, etc.—Mrs. Clark.

Dear Mrs. Clark: The very best entertainment is music. Some of the group may still want to dance, so have plenty of good records on hand. If one or two of them play a guitar or other instrument, ask them to bring it. Song fests are always fun, especially at an "after-party."

The young people will be tired by then so most of them will just want to kick off their shoes, sit around, and discuss the prom. Don't push any more planned entertainment.

Have milk, coffee, and snacks ready when they arrive. Serve breakfast at four and by four-thirty the class will be ready to head for home.

BREAD-AND-BUTTER

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter, aged 18, has been invited to spend a week-end with her girlfriend's family. Does she take a bread-and-butter gift with her, or does she send it after returning home? —Mary McKay

Dear Mrs. McKay: It is much nicer to take a gift and give it to her friend's mother.

Vows were repeated in an afternoon ceremony in Northwestern Baptist Church, Southfield, by Nancy Alice Curran and Raymond Edward Hoffmann Jr. Parents of the couple are the Henry Currans of Elgin, Ill. and the Raymond Hoffmanns of Grove Point Drive, White Lake Township.

Roberta Jackstelt of Phoenixville, Pa. was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Donald Hughes, Claire Curran, Carol Smith and Dorothy Bell.

Kenneth Domanski was best man.

Ushers were Kenneth Vanderveide, Donald and Kenneth Hoffmann and David Dunstone.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Curran of Elgin, Ill. and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hoffmann of Grove Point Drive, White Lake Township.

Caponi Vows
Are Spoken

An afternoon ceremony in St. Hugo of the Hills marked vows Saturday for Mrs. Paula Squires and Michael Salvatore Caponi.

Attendants were Mrs. Gary Blackmer, Catherine Shock, Carol Loweke and Mary Anne Fiest.

Robert M. Bolger was best man. Ushers were James J. Brady, Robert B. Squires Jr. (brother of the bride), Ronald Trye, Cpl. Nicholas A. Shock Jr., Norman Restum and George Clausen.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Squires of Bloomfield Hills and the Chester S. Caponis of St. Clair Shores.

DEAR POLLY — When my grandmother forgets to have birthday cards for her friends she writes a note and encloses a scoring pad with this inscription attached, "Scratch off another year." The friend is remembered and has a useful little gift. —S. T.

DEAR POLLY — I have found the ideal solution for protecting fingers from steel wool splinters. Grip the steel wool pad with a paper clamp, the kind used on clip boards. You can use plenty of pressure since you have a handle and finger protector all in one—MRS. R.P.

DEAR POLLY — Do tell Sue to save the discarded sleeves from sweat shirts for making shoe bags to use in a greenhouse. Turn each sleeve wrong side out and stitch across the raw edges.—JUNE

DEAR POLLY — Sew the two discarded sleeves from a sweat shirt together to make a small pair of baby pants. Rip the seams apart about halfway and sew together, then make a casing for a drawstring or elastic around the waist.—MRS. E. L.

DEAR POLLY — Sue could use the discarded sleeves from sweat shirts to make close-fitting inside cuffs for coats with loose sleeves, which will be a help in keeping out cold and snow. They can also be sewn inside the legs of heavy pants to keep the snow from getting inside the pants or into boots.—MRS. J. T.

U.S. Government Bonds May Solve This

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: My husband has a small life insurance policy payable very soon. Because of his illness, he cannot get any more insurance. My own policy is payable next year.

We want to save this money for funeral expenses, so we would like it instantly available. But we are afraid that if it is in a savings account we will be drawing on it, or that it will have to go through probate or there will be some difficulty when it is most needed.

Do you have any suggestions as to how to handle this money?

Mrs. M. J. Portland, Maine

Dear Mrs. J.: You don't state just what kind of insurance policies you and your husband have. Is it paid-up life insurance? If so, the proceeds aren't "payable" in the sense that the company will automatically send them to you.

A paid-up life insurance policy is designed to pay its face amount at death — not at the end of the premium paying period. So if this is the kind of policy you have, there's no problem. The face amount will be paid automatically to the beneficiary named in the policy, upon presentation of a proper claim. Also, the time and expense of probate will be avoided.

I assume each of you has named a beneficiary. If you haven't, then contact your life insurance agent or the company afraid that it is in a savings account we will be drawing on it, or that it will have to go through probate or there will be some difficulty when it is most needed.

If your insurance is in the form of endowment policies, then the life insurance feature ends at the end of the stated term, and the accumulated savings are turned over to the policyholder. There are certain investment options available to you, of course, but I gather you're interested only in a lump sum.

If you're afraid to risk putting this money in bank savings because you'll be tempted to draw on it, how about buying government bonds? You can hold them in co-ownership, with each of you naming the other beneficiary.

Bonds can be bought in specified denominations — up to $1,000 for Series E bonds and $1,000 and over for Series H. There is a factor here that will prevent you from nibbling away at your savings. You must cash a bond for its entire value or nothing. And one doesn't cash a bond as casually as one might make a small withdrawal from a savings account.

The money, also, passes to the survivor automatically at death. Probate is avoided.

Dear Miss Feeley: Can you tell me how much it will cost to get passports for my husband, myself and our three children? And how long it will take? We hope to go abroad this year.

Mrs. S. O., New York City

Dear Mrs. O.: If all five of you will be traveling together throughout the trip, you can apply for a group passport. The fee for issuance of a new passport is $9, and the execution fee is another $1 — unless the application is executed before a Clerk of a State Court who is authorized to charge $2.

The fee for the passport should be paid by money order, bank draft, or personal check payable to the Passport Agency. However, the fee payable to the Clerk of the Court may be paid in cash.

For a group passport, a group photograph should be supplied — two duplicates in fact. Clear, front view, not less than 2 1/2 by 3 inches, not more than 3 by 3 inches. You may use a color photograph, though not a snapshot.

And both copies must be signed by the passport applicant. I assume your husband.

Allow a month for getting the passport. And don't hold matters up by failing to furnish evidence of U.S. citizenship. If all the family birth certificates aren't available for presentation, other documents must be supplied.

For details about these substitute documents, and other information, you can refer to Brochure M-265, Information for Passport Applicants. It's available from Clerks of Courts or Passport Agencies.

A Train Ride Thrills Adults

OKLAHOMA CITY — It was an entirely new experience for most of the members of Mrs. Ruth Sutton's second grade class at Andrew Johnson School when they rode a train to nearby Purcell.

Only three of the 23 youngsters had ever been on a train before. But for their elders it was just as much of a thrill. Six of their nine adult chaperones were having their first train ride too.

Out to Beautify Landscape

Teens Try to Clean Up U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Teen-agers, who traditionally have battled their parents over cleaning their own rooms, have taken on a new project: cleaning up the country.

This is "Youth for Natural Beauty and Conservation Year," by presidential proclamation.

In Rhode Island, the Pawtucket Boys' Club dredged debris from the Blackstone River and helped restore an historic mill. In New Mexico, thousands of youngsters sowed wildflower seeds along the highways.

COMBAT EROSION

In New Jersey, they planted dune grass to combat beach erosion at Sandy Hook State Park.

In Washington, they tore down a dilapidated building and helped clean up an old resort for a park near Seattle.

And in California, Boy Scouts are planting trees in Los Angeles' troubled Watts area.

"The kids want a piece of the action," said Diana MacArthur.

"We're not just in the tulip-planting business. We're in the business of searching out what young people can do and finding a place for them to do it."

CHALLENGE ISSUED

Mrs. MacArthur, 34, a former Peace Corps official, is project coordinator for the National Youth Conference on Natural Beauty and Conservation.

Last June, 500 representatives of youth organizations gathered on the White House lawn and heard President and Mrs. Johnson challenge them to do something about the litter and neglect of a careless civilization.

The whole idea was to see how the whole world would respond to the challenge, how they would go about achieving their goals and how the community would respond to them," Mrs. MacArthur said.

"I think we have started the dialogue. That is the important thing. Once young people prove they can do something, adults are willing to relax and accept the need of young people to be part of decision making. Hopefully it will open to other things, more than just beauty and conservation."

RID LITTER DAY

In Louisiana, the governor proclaimed 1967 "Youth for Natural Beauty and Conservation Year." The governor of Connecticut declared an official "Rid Litter Day" in May at teen-agers' urging.

Some of the projects could only have sprung from lively young minds.

Loretta Shadow, 17, of Ruston, La., organized Project CRUD—Campaign to Remove Unruly Debris. Hundreds of youngsters picked up debris along Louisiana roads and methodically sorted it. Cups and food containers were most numerous, they reported, followed by beer cans, paper and tobacco waste.

In La Porte, Ind., a teacher was elected Mr. Clean by high school pupils who voted by dropping trash in a barrel bearing his name.

Teen-agers in Rochester, N.Y., painted oil drums bright colors and distributed them for use as litter barrels. They also cleaned a creek.

BARRELS DISTRIBUTED

A 4-H club in Hawaii began clearing Hanalei Valley slopes, and plans to plant bougainvillea along the paths. Camp Fire Girls planted shrubs and flowers in a recreation area at Carlsbad, N.M.

Elementary school children in Bremerton, Wash., started window greenhouses with seedlings, which are transplanted to the school grounds.

Animal Medication Stirs Fears for Man

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON — In 30 years' experience, Dr. Maxwell Finland of Thorndike Memorial Laboratories, Boston City Hospital, has been unable to trace any animal-to-man relationship in drug-resistant bacteria.

Nevertheless, the dosing of animals with antibiotics — a factor in the creation of drug resistance in bacteria — is a subject of concern and possibly intensified federal regulation.

The open question is: Do antibiotic-dosed animals create a danger of drug-resistant bacteria in man?

Dr. David H. Smith of Harvard Medical School took another tack at a symposium on the uses of drugs in animal foods held here. Taking note of the benefits, Dr. Smith stressed the danger of drug-resistant bacteria to health.

The "status of transmissible drug resistance may be much worse than we realize," Dr. Smith said.

ILLUSTRATIONS

Dr. Smith is on the pediatric staff of Children's Hospital Medical Center, Boston. He gave illustrations of drug resistance, which he named as the cause of 24 of 25 fatal infections among children who died in a four-month period.

He said that although he had little hope that any of the patients now suffering with SPLASH-DOWN — To dramatize the opening of a beach in Chicago, restaurateur Gene Sage featured a Hawaiian theme, including leis, which he and pretty Roti Savinaeva threw to swimmers. However, he didn't count on the flimsy fastening of his outrigger canoe. The result is obvious.

Insurer Says 'Cool It' If Witness to Robbery

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — You're a customer in a bank and it's being held up. What should you do?

Cool it. That's the best thing. Acting rashly reduces your effectiveness as a witness.

It can even help the criminal.

An estimated 2,000 Americans will witness bank holdups this year. If you happen to be one of them, here's the word from Aetna Life & Casualty:

Don't take chances. Obey the bandit but do it slowly. He's trying to beat the clock as well as the bank and time works against him.

GET DESCRIPTION

Make a mental note of the outstanding physical characteristics. Does he have a scar? Any tattoos? What color hair, eyes? What's he wearing? How does he walk? Is it the shambling gait of the countryman or a deliberate stride?

Suppose there are two bandits. Just concentrate on describing one. That's easier. In the excitement, you might get the two confused.

Try to notice if the bandit is armed. Is he carrying a weapon? Is it an automatic or a revolver? Did he drop anything?

TOUCH ANYTHING

If you see the bandit touch anything, remember it. Tell the bank officials about it later so that possible fingerprints are not disturbed until they are checked.

If it's possible, try to memorize the license number and description of his car. Check the direction of the car.

As soon as the bandit flees, don't discuss the incident until police arrive. If you do, it could confuse you.

When you do talk to investigators, tell them each and every detail you can recall. What may seem unimportant to you may be a significant clue for them.

The arctic term takes the longest trips on its own power of any animal. An arctic term may travel more than 20,000 miles in a single year.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Learning to Relax Can Help an Insomniac

Q—I have taken a sleeping pill two or three times a week for the past year.

A—All sleeping pills are not habit-forming. Those that contain barbiturates are, but they can be purchased only on a doctor's prescription.

How can you get relief after not sleeping for two nights in a row?

A—All sleeping pills are not habit-forming. Those that contain barbiturates are, but they can be purchased only on a doctor's prescription.

Some people worry so much about their insomnia they can't sleep.

In essence the ability to fall asleep readily depends on the ability to relax completely.

For many persons this is very difficult but with practice and the proper approach it can be accomplished.

WELL DESCRIBED

The technique is well-described in "You Can Learn to Relax", a book by S. W. Gutwirth.

A limited number of copies (paperback) are available at Wilshire Book Co. (8721 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood 46, Calif.).

There are drugs that will raise the blood pressure of persons who are in shock, which is an emergency condition but, for persons whose blood pressure is chronically low, treatment of the underlying cause is the most effective approach.

If the person is merely below par a program of body building through a nutritious diet and regular exercise should bring about improvement.

What would cause the blood pressure to be too low? What can be done to raise it?

A—Although an upper reading (systolic) below 100 is considered abnormally low, this does not in itself indicate poor health.

In shock, the blood pressure falls below 85. This is considered alarming but it is a late sign of shock. The condition is best diagnosed by other means.

Abnormally low blood pressure is seen in Addison's disease (adrenal deficiency), nervous vomiting, advanced tuberculosis, ulcerative colitis and other chronic debilitating diseases.

Political Complexion of Redistricting Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State legislatures and the state and federal courts have been embroiled for more than three years in trying to comply with the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote mandate for fixing the size of congressional districts.

The same issue seems destined to keep them busy for a few more years.

The House and Senate now are in disagreement about proposed guidelines.

How the disputes are resolved can affect the party lineup in the House.

Republican researchers have been convinced for three years that the GOP has more to gain than the Democrats from drawing congressional district lines to provide approximate equality in population.

30 PCT. GAP

With only two more congressional elections before the 1970 census figures can be used, the House passed a bill to allow the largest district in each state to be as much as 30 per cent greater in population than the smallest. It hoped that the Supreme Court would agree that a gap in that range was reasonable on a temporary basis.

The House bill would allow only a 10 per cent deviation beginning with the 1972 election.

The Senate Judiciary Committee voted to allow even more leeway, 35 per cent until 1972.

But Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, D-Mass., led a minority of the committee in persuading the Senate to put the 10 per cent requirement into effect in time for the 1968 election.

IN GOOD FAITH

"It does not take five years to redistrict in good faith; five months would be more than adequate," he said.

He may have forgotten about a few states whose congressional districts were drawn by courts for the 1966 elections because their legislatures could not agree.

The House and Senate must find out whether they can agree on a bill and, if so, whether the Supreme Court will accept it.

Only 11 states now are apportioned to comply with the 10 per cent deviation proposed by the Senate version. Five others would not be affected because their population entitles them to a single House member.

DO NOT COMPLY

Eight states do not comply with the standards proposed by the House bill, on the basis of the 1960 census.

There already have been two waves of congressional redistricting in this decade — the first as a result of the 1960 census and the second as a result of the Supreme Court's 1964 decision that the district's must be roughly equal in population.

Congressional apportionment is at issue in the courts in 11 states now.

No one can be sure how the political complexion of the House would be affected by further redistricting.

But Republican statisticians have calculated that the GOP share of House seats has been smaller than the national Republican congressional vote in nine of 11 elections since World War II.

Steel Firms See Autumn Boom

Key Is Labor Peace in the Auto Industry

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Labor peace in the auto industry is all that is needed for a strong steel demand to develop in the fall, Steel magazine said today.

The expected heavier demand for steel for buildings and heavy equipment and a likely step-up in military requirements would give rise to the most activity the steel industry has seen in many months.

Restoration of the 7 per cent investment tax credit is expected to help the demand for steel for buildings and equipment.

Steel also said a major steel buying movement is not expected until the vacation season begins to wane in late August.

However, an autumn boom could be thwarted by auto labor trouble.

TOKEN ORDERS

Steel reported the mills are looking to the automakers to start ordering steel for 1968 models.

Little more than token orders are expected in July, but heavy ordering is expected in August for September delivery.

The automobile industry's decline in steel usage has been the principal single drag on steel output. The auto industry is still the largest user of steel.

As Steel previously forecast, production is beginning to slip. Current production is at the lowest level since the Christmas holidays.

Crime Commission Hears Report

'Drinking Halt Could Bring Drug Use'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consultant to the President's crime commission suggested today even moderate drinkers might turn to potent drugs if sources of alcoholic beverages were shut off.

Richard A. Blum explained other drugs that were acceptable to most Americans are not able and use them.

Blum's report was one of nine on drunkenness prepared by consultants to the crime commission. The papers made public today comprised the sixth of the panel's nine specialized reports to be published. All were summarized in the commission's report issued last February.

Blum, a research director at Stanford University's Institute for the Study of Human Problems in California, made the comments in a report to the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice.

The commission, noting that and that drunks not be considered criminals. But it said "disorderly and other criminal conduct accompanied by drunkenness should remain punishable as separate crimes."

To curb the problem of drunk-on derelicts—the unemployed homeless men who inhabit the nation's skid rows—the commission suggested the organization of detoxification centers to which alcoholics may be taken voluntarily.

One model cited by a commission consultant is the Vera Institute's Bowery Project in New York, expected to become a fully operational program in October at an estimated yearly cost of $350,000.

ROVING TEAMS

Vera is setting up a 50-bed facility on the Bowery with a detoxification center operated by St. Vincent's Hospital. Drunks will be approached by roving teams of civilians—accompanied by plainclothes police—and asked whether they wish to go to the center.

Those who refuse would be left alone. Those who accept would remain at the center up to four days or hospitalized if they are seriously ill. After they are dried out they would be sent to one of several rehabilitation centers.

The Supreme Court was enlarged from seven to nine members by Congress in 1837.

Junior Editors Quiz on "PAPA" HAYDN

QUESTION: Why was Joseph Haydn called Papa Haydn?

ANSWER: Joseph Haydn (1) born in 1732, was one of the three composers who did the most to develop the kind of classical music we so often hear played by symphony orchestras. These three men brought the symphony, and the orchestra, too, into a highly perfected form.

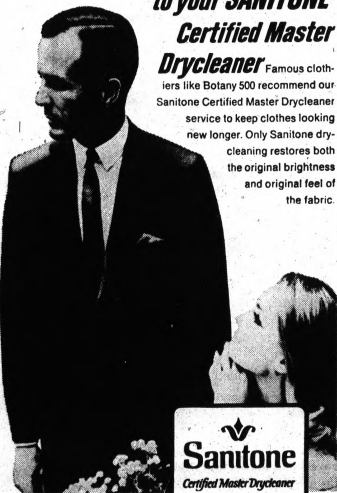

Haydn had a special liking and feeling for instruments, such as violins, flutes, oboes, horns. He wrote beautiful quartets for four-stringed instruments, and sonatas, pieces which featured one instrument, such as piano or violin.

He also developed the symphony, in which the full orchestra is displayed in its wonderful variety of tone.

Hard-working Haydn became universally famous and beloved in his later years; it was then that musicians began calling him Papa Haydn, because of their reverence for his genius and kindness.

Mozart (2) carried forward Haydn's ideas, adding a special beauty of his own. Beethoven (3) took the classical forms of Haydn and Mozart and elevated them to express the greatest possible emotion. He also originated new forms, which gave greater freedom to music.

Even With This Big Travel Cruiser, Packing Takes A Lot Of Thought

Can't Take Everything Along

Trailing Has Its Limitations

By JIM CROSSLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There's more to trailing than hopping aboard and taking off. Much more.

As with most hobbies, when you take them up, complications spring out at you, things never foreseen.

Take packing, for an example.

We're so used to luxuries and ingenious little appliances to ease the details of home living that the first impulse is to try to cram a mountain of such accessories to living into the trailer.

It won't work. This is venturing into the outdoors. Our homes can't be taken along — and shouldn't be. It's more fun because it is a change from home life.

In fitting yourself and your possessions into a trailer, there is no recourse other than making a listed inventory.

As a first step, write down all the equipment and gear change from trip to trip.

you'd like to take along. Include all the luxuries along with the necessities.

Safety equipment and tools for maintenance get top priority. Special lists of each individual's clothing and food are needed.

With these lists completed, begin the bloodshed. Go down them, challenging each item. Cross off what you don't really need. Take enough for comfort but be reasonable.

Next step involves the trailer itself. Analyze the various storage areas. Keep on with the listing. This time reorganize the items into specific storage locations.

There's a practical reason for these lists. The initial effort will pay off later. After a trip or two, the lists become truly organized with some items going off and others being scratched off. But once you have reached each standard, there will be little left to list.

One final tip: Reserve certain areas in the home for storage of trailer items and gear between trips.

At this stage, when the lists are shaken down, make sets of duplicates. Leave room for check marks and as packing proceeds for each jaunt do a systematic job of ticking off each article. There's nothing like it to avoid moments of panic when far from any source of supply, a vital necessity is found missing.

Deciding on taking a quickie outing comes easier if the packing is reduced to running down a list and storing things in their familiar locations on board.

They fall into these general categories: kitchen, bathroom, sleeping, outdoor setup, hobby and recreation, clothing, safety and maintenance.

If some can be stored permanently in the trailer that reduces the effort even more, except that at the completion of play again and is run through with an eye to replacements, repairs or cleaning.

One final tip: Reserve certain areas in the home for storage of trailer items and gear between trips.

Weatherman to Issue Air Pollution Warnings

By Science Service

SUTTLAND, Md. — This summer, if all goes well, the Weather Bureau plans to offer beleaguered cities 48-hour warnings of atmospheric conditions that trap and concentrate contaminants.

The key to the nationwide warning system, scheduled to begin operation July 1, is a computer at the National Meteorological Center here.

The machine, programmed to recognize pollution-aggravating conditions, will digest weather data from across the country and produce a daily list of possible danger sites.

It will then be up to the weather bureau in the affected area to tailor the forecast to local conditions. Pilot programs have been underway in Los Angeles and New York City.

TIME TO BE ALERT—Nature's workshop often exists right around us and photographers must be alert and ready for opportunities they present at the time. Cherry tree blossoms can be breathtakingly beautiful one day . . . and gone the next! This was taken early before going to work.

Real Workshop a Need

AP Newsfeatures
A reader from Santa Ana, Calif., undoubtedly voices the sentiments of photographers in other communities with these thoughts:

"With all the new photo techniques and new products discussed in newspaper articles and in photography magazines, why aren't there more opportunities to put these ideas into practice in a 'workshop' atmosphere?"

"People interested in art or dramatics have their art workshops and little theater workshops with which to express themselves. But a similar craft atmosphere in photography is rare or nonexistent in many communities."

"I'm sure there are other serious photographers who do not use their cameras and dark rooms to fullest advantage."

"In time, many become discouraged or lose interest. I believe a photography workshop would stimulate their interest and recharge their enthusiasm."

REAL WORKSHOP
"And I don't mean the so-called 'studios' which flourish in Los Angeles and in other big cities which advertise they are available for 'figure study photography' to anyone with or without a camera."

"What I would like to see is a real studio workshop with working facilities to learn or experiment with portrait, fashion or still-life photography."

"I would even make a modest investment myself to start such a project in my community. It would offer photographic opportunities that I, or any photographer as an individual, cannot afford alone."

"My idea is to have a studio with lighting equipment, background paper, basic props and suitable subjects. "Photographers would become members of a group who come one day a week."

"There would be five or six different groups each week. The membership fee might be $10 a month. With enough members, more equipment and props would be added."

"There could be field trips and new products or techniques could be introduced or explained by manufacturers' representatives."

"As a group, we could tackle and explore phases of photography that we couldn't do as individuals because of the expense, lack of equipment and a studio. Do you think there are others who share my feeling? H. D. Serra."

REFLECTS PREDICAMENT
I believe the problem stated by reader Serra reflects the predicament of many photographers who have advanced beyond the beginner stage and who seek a way to explore or improve their photography."

A suggestion for Serra and others who share his thoughts is to find out first if there is a camera club in the area."

It would be a start in the direction of associating with camera enthusiasts, of finding kindred spirits and a logical place to discuss photography ideas."

Another suggestion is to contact a reputable camera store in the area and establish a "bulletin board" meeting place there."

Anything to promote healthy photographic activity should enlist the help of any enlightened photo dealer. Posting a notice could lead to a list of local supporters."

The bulletin board idea might also be discussed with the local public library or adult education center for possible encouragement and support."

Finally, if any project is started, announcement of plans should be sent to the local newspaper."

Despite Flaws, U. N. Again Shows Usefulness

By MAX HARELSON
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In providing the machinery to halt the Middle East war, the United Nations demonstrated once more that despite its flaws it can be useful now and then in putting out a fire. This was the third time the United Nations had a hand in the Middle East. In 1949 it helped end a major conflict in the Middle East. In 1949 it helped work out an armistice when the Israelis and the Arabs clashed over the Palestine partition plan. In 1956, it stepped in to help halt the Suez fighting. In the two earlier conflicts, as in last week's six-day war, the U.N. role was to provide a face-saving out to the vanquished and to exert pressure on the victors by voting cease-fire demands. But long before the cease-fire, the world organization had worked as its founders had expected, the war between Israel and the Arabs would never have started in the first place. After 20 years, they ask, why had not the United Nations worked out a stable peace to replace the shaky armistice that was notable for its many violations? The council debates gave the public an impression of endless bickering, irrelevant polemics and paralysis. But in a conflict that threatened to escalate into a third world war, a week is not considered by diplomats to be unreasonably long for debate and negotiations to produce results. Most U.N. diplomats were pleased by the outcome of their efforts. Some U.N. critics feel that, if the world organization had Force and impose a blockade on the Gulf of Aqaba. Another of the mentioned is Secretary General U Thant's haste in complying with Nasser's request for the UNEF withdrawal. Some felt that he might have stalled the acceptance and tried to change Nasser's mind. Some observers hold that the Security Council's major failure was in not being able to head off the war. The council began debating the threatened blowup May 24, 11 days before the firing began, but the Russians insisted through the discussion that there was no real crisis and that the United States was crying wolf. The Soviet stand appeared to be part of a broader Soviet blunder in which Moscow either underestimated the Israeli military strength and underestimated the Israeli. The United Nations still faces a long, bitter debate on Soviet and Arab demands that Israel withdraw its forces to the lines fixed in the 1949 armistice agreements. There also will be persistent demands that the United Nations get down to long-term arrangements for peace and stability in the Middle East. The prospects are not good on either problem.

California Shortstop Tames Tigers in Bid for All-Star Berth

Boros Could Make Younger Pros Happy

By FLETCHER SPEARS
GRAND BLANC — There's a younger element on the pro golf circuit that would be happier if Julius Boros would retire.

Boros, too, would be happy, but he has a wife and seven youngsters and that's enough to keep him working for that paycheck.

He works well, too, and he continues to improve with age.

Julius beat the younger pros out of top money here yesterday as he edged them in a head-to-head duel to capture the $30,000 top prize in the 10th annual Buick Open.

Boros, 47, of Mid Pines, S.C., saved his best round for last as he checked in with a three-under-par 69 over the wet, 7,126-yard Warwick Hills layout.

FIVE UNDER

The 69 gave him a 72-hole total of 283 — five under par — and a three stroke edge over Bert Yancey, R. H. Sikes and Bob Goolby. Those three pocketed $8,166 apiece.

It was Boros' second Buick championship — his first came in 1963 — and the victory was the third of the season for the smooth swinger who is limiting his appearances on tour this year to 15 events.

"I made some good recoveries and I had a real good putting day," said Boros as he relaxed in a question-and-answer session with the press following the victory.

And much of his success in taking his second Buick crown was tied to a new putter he picked early in the year. With the new stick, he won the Phoenix Open and the Citrus Open before claiming the Buick crown.

And he has piled up $83,790 in official winnings, tops for him and second to Arnold Palmer in this year's money race.

BIDS FOR OPEN

With a new putter and his Buick cash in hand, Boros indicated he's ready to try and capture his third U.S.G.A. Open crown in competition next week at Baltusrol Country Club in Springfield, N.J.

"You have to be good with a driver to have a chance to win the Open, since those courses always have narrow fairways," Boros was saying.

"I was having trouble earlier with my driver, but I had a good feel with the club out there today. If the weather is good I should have a good chance."

Although his legs are 47 years old, Boros showed little strain on Saturday when the play was halted twice by thunderstorms and electrical storms, requiring nearly eight hours to finish the round.

Boros started the final round deadlocked with 25-year-old Kermil Zarley of Seattle, Wash., for the lead.

RELAXED STYLE

Boros, whose style reminds you of a fellow out for an afternoon stroll, canned pressure putts on the first two holes of the final round for pars, and he made it tough on his younger adversaries with birdies at Nos. 6, 7 and 9.

Playing with 27-year-old Sikes and 36-year-old Goolby, who were one and two strokes behind, respectively, at the start of the round, Boros rolled in a five-footer for a par on the first hole and knocked in a four-footer for another par on the second.

BACK SAFELY — It looks like California's Jose Cardenal is a sure out on this play as he dives toward first base in the seventh inning of yesterday's game against Detroit, but the speedy center-fielder made it to the bag ahead of the tag by first baseman Norman Cash. Cash took the throw from catcher Bill Freehan. Angels won the game on a three-run home run in the ninth by Jim Fregosi.

3-Run Homer in Ninth Brings Angels 6-4 Win

ANAHEIM (AP) — The three-run homer Jim Fregosi hit in the ninth inning Sunday extended the California Angels' winning streak to five games, but the versatile shortstop won't accept the credit.

"The main thing," said Fregosi after the dramatic 6-4 victory over Detroit — the Tigers fourth straight loss — "is that our leadoff man is finally getting on base."

Fregosi was referring to center fielder Jose Cardenal, who hit a single and double Sunday to extend his batting streak to 12 games. The double came with one out in the ninth inning and kindled the winning rally.

Paul Schell followed with a walk before Fregosi strengthened his bid for a job in the forthcoming All-Star Game by hitting his three-run homer off loser Fred Gladding.

Cardenal is on a batting rampage, gathering 18 hits in his last 48 at bats. He has reached base 10 times in the five-game winning streak and has scored five important runs.

Fregosi is averaging only .273, but has seven homers and 21 RBI.

"Being picked for the All-Star Game would mean a lot to me," says Fregosi, who was the American League starter in the 1964 classic. He appeared as a substitute in the game last July.

PLAYING BETTER

"But the main thing," Fregosi adds, "is that we're finally playing the way we should have all season."

The Angels are within hailing distance of the first division now and remain only nine games out of first place.

The Angels made a courageous comeback after spotting Detroit 3-0 and 4-3 leads. Jimmie Hall tied the score 3-3, in the sixth inning when he hit a three-run homer off unbeaten Joe Sparna.

Minnie Rojas, 44, pitched 1 1/2 innings of perfect relief to gain the victory. Starter Jim McElreath, who had pitched three straight shutouts, came to the end of a 36-inning scoreless streak when Al Kaline hit a homer for Detroit in the fourth inning.

Ray Oyler singled home a run for the Tigers in the fifth inning and Bill Freehan singled home another in the sixth. The Angels are at Minnesota tonight.

M.G. Collision Nine Upsets City Champ in 'A' Contest, 2-0

The return of collegiate and an influx of graduating high school ball players brought a sharp upturn in the caliber of play of the city men's baseball league Sunday and saw the upsetting of the defending champions.

M. G. Collision, behind the relief hurling of Walt Miller, stopped a rally by the Teamsters 614 squad and surprised the city tidbit, 2-0 in yesterday's nightcap at Jaycee Park.

Three of the other four games were decided by one run with only CIO 594's 15-1 routing of UAW 653 resembling the results of earlier games this season. Even that lopsided contest only had three errors.

Oakland University entered the win column with a 4-3 win over Lake Orion; Pass Excavating surprised Cranbrook, 2-1; and the P. T. Clippers struggled to a 2-1 conquest of winless Talbot Lumber.

M. G. (3-0) moved into a share of first place with Idle Booth Homes and dropped the Teamsters (3-1) all the way to fifth place with its shutout victory.

Earl Robinson singled home a first-inning run off Don Sackett and a second one scored on an error. Jack McCloud stymied the unionmen for five innings but they loaded the bases in the sixth.

Miller then came in, fanned the first two men he faced and retired the six (Continued on Page C-2, Col. 6)

Go-Go Chisox Lead League

NEW YORK (AP) — "I sense something about the way these kids take winning. The word pennant doesn't scare them."

Eddie Stanky, manager of the Chicago White Sox, was talking about his Go-Go Sox after they had moved into the American League lead Sunday by sweeping a doubleheader from the New York Yankees 2-1 and 3-2.

"There was kind of a little air of World Series about those games today," said Stanky, referring to the Bat Day crowd of 62,582, the largest in the majors since the 1965 Bat Day at the stadium.

"I liked the way they played before the big crowd," he went on. "We aren't used to big crowds like that in Chicago. I guess the people of Chicago don't believe we're for real. I like the way the kids came back strong after losing that tough one Friday night."

Stanky always has regarded the 1951 New York Giants as the best team he ever played on. He won't rank the current White Sox with them but claims he sees some similarities.

"The '51 club had togetherness," he said. "We weren't great on speed but we were knowledgeable base runners. I sense an awful lot of togetherness on this club. We've beaten ourselves a couple of times but we usually do all the things needed to win the close ball games."

There are no stars, no Hall of Famers on this team, just 25 guys who like to play ball.

PENNANT TALK

"This is a tough league. A lot of fellows are going to be wrong about their picks this season. You fellows won't know whether to go to the city where they make a lot of cars (Detroit), the city where they make a lot of cheese (Minnesota), Baltimore or Chicago. This is one year all of you are going to be wrong."

Stanky told his ball players before they came to New York for the four-game series that they could win the pennant if they were only one or two games behind by the July 11 All-Star Game.

evening on a chilly night in Balboa Stadium.

The Trojans' 440-relay team of Earl McCulloch, Fred Keller, O. J. Simpson and Lennox Miller ran 39 seconds flat. It bettered the old mark of 39.6 shared by Southern University, Texas Southern, UCLA and this same USC quartet.

SWIFT EFFORT

Australia's Ron Clarke, who had been in bed with the flu for three days, nevertheless ran a swift two-mile in 8:25.2, which tied the American record held by Jim Ryan of Kansas and Jim Grelle of Portland, Ore.

A high school kid, Martin Liquori from Caldwell, N. J., was a surprise winner in the mile in the remarkable time in 3:08.1. Only two other runners in their high school days, Ryan and Tim Danielson, now a Brigham Young freshman, ever did better.

High-Flying Coast Vaulter Sets Sights on 18-Foot Mark

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Eighteen feet in the pole vault?

Sophomore Bob Seagren of the University of Southern California believes it's possible soon, and he came within five inches of it Saturday night in establishing a new world record of 17 feet 7 inches in the San Diego Invitational Track Meet.

The 20-year-old Seagren cleared 17-7 on his second effort, but didn't come close when the bar was raised to 17-10.

Seagren, however, had only one miss starting from 16 feet in five vaults before setting the record — the first failure at 17-7.

The recognized world record of 17-6 1/2 is held by John Penfel. He made it in Los Angeles in 1966.

Seagren's feat was a highlight of the meet, which turned out to be something of a University of Southern California

Gurney, A. J. Foyt Set Record Pace in Distance Test

LE MANS, France (AP) — Immodest in triumph, husky, outspoken A. J. Foyt smiled broadly after his victory in the 24-hour LeMans auto race.

"It was easy," he said.

Foyt and co-driver Dan Gurney drove a 7-liter Mark IV Ford prototype farther and faster than any car had ever been driven since the LeMans race was founded 44 years ago.

It gave Ford its second straight victory here, and settled for the time being the question of whether the American cars could keep up with archrival Ferrari.

Ferrari placed second and third. But it might have been worse for them had three of the Fords not been knocked out by an accident just before the half-way mark.

The No. 2 Ferrari, driven by Ludovico Scarfiotti of Italy and Britain's Mike Parkes, was 32.5 miles behind the winning Ford.

"Ferrari thought we were going to break. But we never had any problems," said Foyt, winner of last month's Indianapolis 500.

The Fords were never out of the lead, and were running 1-2-3 Sunday morning when three of them were involved in an accident. The mishap put Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., Roger McCloskey of Tucson, Ariz., and France's Joe Schlesser out of the race. When the Foyt-Gurney car crossed the finish line it had traveled 3,249 miles at an average speed of 135.4 miles per hour for the 24 hours.

BEAT RECORD

That surpassed the record established last year by New Zealanders Brice McLaren and Chris Amon in a 7-liter Mark II Ford. They averaged 125.3 miles an hour covering 3,000 miles.

McLaren and co-driver Mike Donohue, in a Mark IV, were fourth this year. A Porsche prototype claimed fifth place.

Foyt was the first man to ever win both Le Mans and Indianapolis. This led to comparisons between the two races.

"I like Indy better," Foyt said. Asked why, he quipped, "the money."

U. S. Women Netters Defeat Two Britishers for International Cup

BERLIN (AP) — Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals captured singles matches Sunday and brought the United States its second straight Federation Cup, the women's equivalent to the Davis Cup.

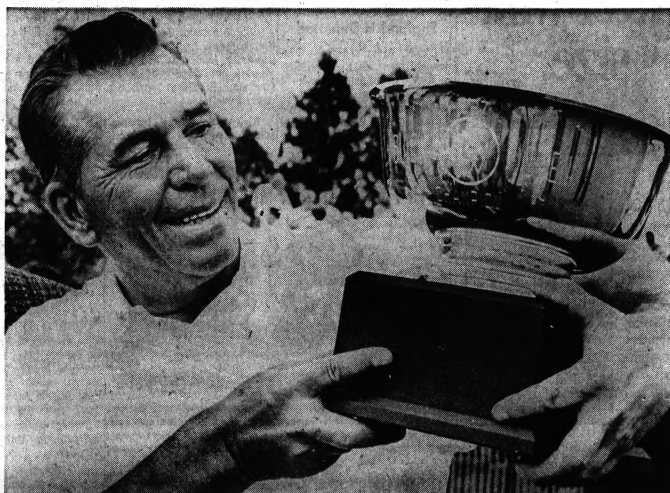

Miss Casals of San Francisco outlasted Virginia Wade of Great Britain 9-7, 6-4, and Mrs. King of Long Beach, Calif., clinched the women's team world tennis championship by upending Ann Jones of Britain, 6-3, 6-4.

Miss Casals had trouble shaking Miss Wade in the first set, which was interrupted by rain at the start for 10 minutes. She finally broke through in the 15th and 16th games.

Miss Wade took a 3-0 lead in the second set, but Miss Casals swept the next four games and the match saw-sawed until the 14th game.

Baseball Title Decided

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — New Mexico Highlands took home the NAIA baseball championship by beating Glassboro, N.J., 6-1 Saturday night in the finals of the week-long, double elimination tournament.

WINNER'S REWARD — Julius Boros gives the champion's cup a loving glance following his victory yesterday in the Buick Open at Warwick Hills near Grand Blanc. Along with the cup, Boros, 47, picked up a check for $30,000. It was his second victory in the Buick event.

Trans-Am Race Won by Shelby Mustang

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Jerry Titus of Sherman Oaks, Calif., became the first double winner so far this year in Sunday's fifth race of the Trans-American Sedan Championships series.

Titus, who pushed his Shelby Mustang to a 76.6 miles-per-hour average in the 300-mile, 28-car event on the Mid-Ohio Sports Car course at nearby Lexington, picked up $3,200 total prize money.

Panama Flash Triggers Cubs

By the Associated Press
Adolfo Phillips still takes his share of lumps, but the Chicago Cubs' Panama Flash has stopped running for his life—and started hitting back.

Phillips smashed four homers Sunday, driving in eight runs and leading the suddenly ferocious Cubs to a 5-3, 18-10 double-header sweep over the New York Mets.

The fleet outfielder, who set Cub records of 32 stolen bases and 135 strikeouts—and was plunked 12 times by pitchers for another club mark—last season, went down for the count when he tried to steal home in the eighth inning of the opener.

But he bounced back in the nightcap, wallowing three homers to vault into the National League's top five in both homers (11) and RBI (38).

FOUR HITS

While Phillips was landing Sunday punches against the Mets, Atlanta slugger Hank Aaron was on the run against San Francisco. Aaron collected four hits—including a pair of infield singles—and stole three bases before scoring the winning run from second on an infield error as the Braves edged the Giants 4-3 in 10 innings.

Cincinnati's league leaders dropped the first game of their doubleheader to Houston 7-4, when he rebounded on Don Pate's grand slam homer for an 8-4 nightcap victory. St. Louis trimmed Los Angeles twice, 8-7 and 7-5, and Philadelphia buried Pittsburgh 14-1 in a single game.

Phillips, who started his power spree with a bases-empty homer in the second inning of the opener, tried to duplicate Ted Savage's steal of home in the eighth but was tagged—on the chin—by Mets catcher Bob Taylor. Adolfo lay on the ground for several minutes while the Cubs' trainer waded smelling salts under his nose.

Not long afterward, however, Phillips was back in the swing and his fans in the Wrigley Field bleachers were chanting "Ole Adolfo!" again. His successive homers in the third, fifth and sixth innings accounted for seven runs.

Randy Hundley hit two homers, Ron Santo and Ernie Banks, who both hit for the Cubs, while Ron Swoboda, Jerry Buckner, Jerry Grote and Bob Johnson connected for the Mets as the Cubs tied the major league record of 11 circuits in one game.

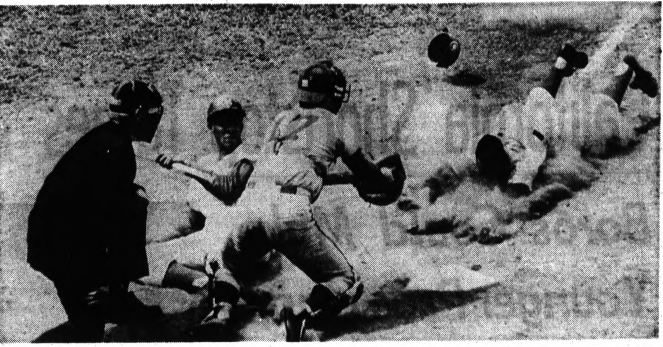

The Braves snapped a 3-1 tie in the 10th when Aaron singled, stole second and flashed home as first baseman Jack Hitt dropped the throw from Denis Menke's roller.

Pavlich's grand slam capped a five-run inning in the ninth that lifted the Reds past Houston in their nightcap. Singles by Deron Johnson, Jim Coker and Tommy Helms filled the bases and a walk to Leo Cardenas forced in the tying run before Pavlich connected against Dan Schneider.

Pontiac Astros Defeated, 3-0

The Pontiac Astros dropped a 3-0 decision to the Detroit Pros Sunday in an exhibition baseball game called after seven innings due to rain.

Pontiac's Ray Seay lost a four-hitter and had the lone safety for the Astros (2-3). The Pontiac men's team plays weekend and holiday exhibition games.

COMING HOME — Chicago Cubs' Ted Savage slides head first into home as part of a successful double steal in the eighth inning of the first game of a twinbill yesterday against the New York Mets in Chicago. Heading toward Savage with the ball in his mitt is catcher Bob Taylor. Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins (the batter) tries to get out of the umpire. Is Doug Harvey, Chicago won, 5-3.

East's Lineup Shows Talent for Grid Tilt

ATLANTA (AP)—The East, hoping to rebound from a shelling by the West in the 1966 Coaches All-America football game, is loaded with talent for the 1967 battle July 8.

Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier, the comeback quarterback at Florida, quarterback

Bob Griese of Purdue head up the East team announced Saturday.

The West was announced a week ago.

Spurrier and Griese, who probably will share quarterbacking duties, will be able to call on some of the nation's top runners in Floyd Little of Syracuse and Nick Eddy of Notre Dame.

Target for the East's passes probably will be end Gene Washington of Michigan State. Missing, however, will be the Spartans' big end, Bubba Smith, who apparently is passing up the game being played in Atlanta for the second time after five years in Buffalo, N.Y.

The East's line includes standouts such as Alabama's

Cecil Dowdy, Del Williams of Florida State and Bob Hyland of Boston College, with defensive aces Paul Nunnoff of Tennessee, Jim Lynch of Notre Dame, Lynn Hughes of Miami available.

The West rolled to a 2-1 triumph last year, evening the series at 3-3.

Young Athletes Perform Well in Track Meet

Thirteen young athletes turned in top performances Saturday in the Waterford Jayces' Champ

Track and Field Meet at Kettering.

Over 400 boys and girls compete in five age groups from nine to 18.

Winning two or more events were Suzanne Simon and Bob Warek, peewee; Dean Kurtz and Bob Bartenbach, junior; Ron Horton, Steve Kressbach, Bob Poe, Rick Pearson and Dave Galloway, intermediate; and Bill Pennoza, Gene Pankner and Larry Biskner, senior.

England Is Defeated

LYNN, Mass. (AP)—Ein-

tracht-Brunswick, the West German champion, defeated

Cheques of England 3-1 in an exhibition soccer game before a crowd of 6,439 Sunday night at Manning Bowl.

Driver Killed at Tampa

Hydro Will Be Rebuilt

TAMPA, Fla. (U) — Two fine drivers have died at their wheel in two years of unlimited hydroplane racing but the "Miss Budweiser" will be rebuilt and race again.

"I think Bill Brown would have wanted it that way," said the boat's owner, Bernie Little of Tampa. "We're going to be professionals about it."

Brown, 41, of Seattle, Wash., was riding the thundering hydroplane across Tampa Bay Sunday at more than 150 miles an hour — out in front, as usual.

Among the 10,000 fans on shore were his mother, brother and sister. For the first time in Brown's nine-year racing career his wife had stayed home. His 18-year-old daughter, Becky, was graduating from high school. The boat roared into the south backstretch and apparently hit a swell, a wave rolling back from one of 200 moored spectator boats, or something in the water. No one is certain.

TIPPED OVER Three tons of boat, engine and man tipped up on its right side and disappeared in a wall of white water.

A Coast Guard helicopter pulled Brown from the water. He was unconscious and was given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation as the chopper rushed him to St. Joseph's Hospital.

At 2 p.m. Dr. Dave Worthington turned from Brown's hospital bed and said, "He probably never had a chance."

Land Grant Violence Stirs New Mexico

TIERRA AMARILLA, N.M. — Except for the court appearance of seven of the "grangers" Monday, it was a typical summer afternoon in the Rio Arriba County courthouse.

Many believed that arrests of the seven the previous week had silenced their threats of this rural northern New Mexico county under old Spanish land grants.

Dist. Court Judge James Scarborough, who advised the defendants of their rights, still was in the second-story courtroom when three vehicles containing grim-faced men screeched to a halt outside.

The intruders' gunfire that followed sounded a new chapter in New Mexico's often-violent history.

"I wondered what in the world," said the Rec. Ernest F. Way, who was leaving the courthouse as the gunmen arrived.

RETREAT
Justice of the Peace Thomas Cordova and Undersheriff Dan Rivera also were in the courtroom when gunfire downstairs prompted them to retreat to another room and lock the door.

The door was shot open and Rivera was beaten. Cordova was marched downstairs, at gunpoint and he joined about 25 other persons who were held captive in the county commission room until the gunmen left. Two police officers were shot and wounded.

"They were just crazy shooting," said Deputy Sheriff Pete Jaramillo, one of two hostages taken by the gunmen to nearby Canjilon. The hostages escaped unharmed when state police and New Mexico National Guardsmen chased the gunmen into the forest-covered hills east of Canjilon.

Many at the courthouse said they saw Reyes Lopez Tijerina, 40, leader of the confederation of Free City States, among the gunmen. Tijerina, self-proclaimed leader of the Southwest's Spanish-Americans, says his followers "are willing to meet force with force, terrorism with terrorism."

MANHUNT
He was the object of one of the largest manhunts in New Mexico history during the week, as close to 500 state police, National Guardsmen and other officers combed the Carson National Forest, east of Canjilon.

The hunt for Tijerina ended early Saturday when he and two other men were arrested at a state police roadblock south of Bernalillo. Tijerina, who had vowed to fight to the end, was armed but offered no resistance.

He was charged on warrants from Dist. Atty. Alfonso Sanchez on counts of kidnapping and assault with intent to commit murder.

Earlier, numerous members of his confederation, which contends its associates are heirs to millions of acres of the Southwest under the land grants, were arrested on warrants charging kidnapping and assault with intent to commit a violent felony.

MARTIAL LAW
During the manhunt, conditions resembling martial law were in effect. A U.S. Forest Service station at Canjilon was turned into a military command post, surrounded by tanks, helicopters, Army trucks and armed soldiers.

LAND GRANT
U.S. 84 through Rio Arriba County was closed for a time, with tourists being told to find another route. Residents of communities such as Chama, Coyote and Tierra Amarilla kept their rifles handy.

The families of many of the alleged confederation members were confined for two days inside a fence area at Canjilon to prevent them from being contacted by the gunmen.

Police cars and National Guard jeeps patrolled main highways and back roads throughout the county.

YEAR OF TENSION
The week's events climaxed a year of mounting tension involving the claims of the confederation, formerly known as the Alianza Federal de Mercedes — Federal Alliance of Land Grants.

Tijerina, sometimes known as "King Tiger," led Alianza members in the take-over last October of a campground of the Carson National Forest south of Canjilon.

During the four days at the campground, Tijerina's followers said they "reestablished" the Pueblo Republica de San Joaquin del Rio de Chama, which they said was formed in 1806 by King Charles IV, of Spain.

One cornerstone of the land claimants has been that the laws under which King Charles, acted — the laws of the kingdoms of the Indies — "have never been repealed by any duly constituted authority, and are still the law of the land."

Little is known about Tijerina since he was born in Falls City, Tex., on Sept. 21, 1926.

He tells of early years spent picking cotton in Texas and of being a "minister" in Arizona. He also says he spent three years in Mexico doing research on a book he was writing about land grants. But he does not elaborate on the time spent outside the country.

On Aug. 8, 1964, official Mexican records show, Tijerina was expelled for "violation of the general law of the people."

Indians Okay Settlement for Lands

MCLOUD, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma Indians voted unanimously Saturday in favor of a $540,000 settlement for tribal lands taken from them in Missouri by the U.S. government.

The settlement climaxes 10 years of negotiations before the Indian Claims Commission over the 1832 trade in which the Kickapoos received 760,000 acres in Kansas and $143,000 for their 1.8 in 44 B.C.

John E. Taylor, superintendent of the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs, reported all 50 million-acre reservation in Mishima Kickapoos at the meeting favored the settlement.

Taylor said it will be "some time" before payments are made to individual members of the tribe.

Cottage to Be Nurse Center

Pontiac State Hospital's Sawyer Cottage will be converted to facilities for Pontiac School District vocational programs and for the new home of the Pontiac Practical Nurse Center.

A recent reduction of the hospital's bed capacity vacated the cottage. Dr. D. W. Martin, P.S.H. medical superintendent, said. The building was used for the nursing care of patients.

With the reduction of 84 more beds, the state hospital now houses 2,227 beds. The change is part of a systematic program to reduce state hospital capacities throughout Michigan.

"Although Sawyer Cottage is structurally sound, it would require extensive remodeling to become suited to modern psychiatric treatment programs," Martin explained.

He said the hospital has made arrangements with the Pontiac School District to use the cottage for various vocational training programs.

REMODELING
"Remodeling will begin very shortly at the expense of the Pontiac School District for relocation of the Pontiac Practical Nurse Center on the second floor of the building," Martin said.

The nurse center is currently located in the Hubbard Building, Water and Perry.

Ex-Gestapo Chief on Trial in 930 Deaths

BADEN-BADEN, Germany (AP) — Hellmuth Reinhard, 55, former Gestapo chief of Norway, went on trial today charged with murder and the deportation of 930 Norwegian Jews to the Nazi death camp at Auschwitz.

The former SS major, who changed his name from Patschke to the "more Nordic" Reinhard during the Nazi occupation of Norway, is accused of aiding in the murder of Norwegians who died in Auschwitz.

He is also accused of complicity in the shooting of four Norwegians during his time as chief of the secret police.

He has denied a charge that he murdered a Norwegian resistance fighter, claiming he acted in self-defense.

Reinhard was arrested in 1964 after he had advanced to a leading position in a local publishing house under his old name of Patschke. During two and a half years of investigation, he claimed innocence of all the charges. The trial is expected to last until July.

'Junior Astronauts' Set 'Space' Mark
GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — Three "junior astronauts" have set a record by staying in a capsule in an Apollo moon and plastic replica for 144 hours on a porch roof.

The trio, Mark Oldenburg, Mark Menstrina and Paul Brewer, spent six days in the capsule in a simulated space flight to break the previous endurance record of 88 hours held by some Waterford Township youngsters. They came down from their perch Saturday.

The three boys are 7th, 8th, and 11th grade students named their space capsule SPX for the school they attend, St. Francis Xavier.

Private Funeral Reflects Tracy's Way of Life

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — His private funeral today is in keeping with Spencer Tracy's way of life.

He was one of the world's most famous figures because of his movie roles, but he preferred seclusion off the screen.

A Requiem Mass for the two-time Academy Award winner was scheduled at Immaculate Heart of Mary Roman Catholic church. The services were announced as private, as was the burial at Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Tracy, who finished his last movie three weeks ago, died of a heart attack Saturday. He was 67. He was alone at the time with a housekeeper in the home he rented from director George Cukor.

FAMILY COMES

The actor's older brother, Carroll, arrived at the house after Tracy had been pronounced dead by Dr. Mitchell D. Covei. Next came the actor's wife, onetime actress Louise Treadwell, whom he married in 1923 but was separated from for after prostate surgery.

Yet he was able to return to acting three months ago, co-starring with Miss Hepburn and Sidney Poitier in "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner." White-haired—and minus 35 pounds—Tracy nonetheless retained his old-time vigor during the three or four hours a day he worked under the direction of Stanley Kramer.

Tracy had been in ill health since 1963, when he was stricken with pulmonary edema at Miss

Tracy's last four films were for Kramer, who commented: "Ironically, he was better physically in this one than in any of the others."

Milwaukee-born Tracy impressed Broadway with his forceful charm in plays during the 1920s. He later attributed much of his acting technique to apprenticeship under George M. Cohan.

"Cohan always said to me: 'Spencer, you have to act less,'" Tracy recalled.

The Tracy style was indeed a study of economy. His simple gestures and facial expressions and his realistic delivery of lines made him stand out among more flamboyant actors. Tracy came to Hollywood in 1930 for a contract at Fox, starting with "Up the River." After three years of lackluster films he moved to MGM where he achieved his greatness.

An electric voting machine invented by Thomas Edison was used as early as 1892.

HIGHTSTOWN, N.J. (AP) — have trained here in the past 25 years before departing for Israel. Now there are only 10 trainees on the farm, most of them from Brooklyn and the Bronx.

When Israel and the Arab states began girding for battle last month, many of the young Americans and Canadians training here packed their belongings and headed for Israel.

Only a skeleton crew of pioneers remains to milk cows, feed chickens and reap wheat and rye on the only known kibbutz in North America. A kibbutz is a collective farm developed by Israeli pioneers for reclaiming arid land.

"I have a terrible sinking feeling in my stomach and I curse each day for not being at home," said Benjamin Bay, a 38-year-old Israeli who stayed behind to help run Hechalutz Farm.

Bay, who arrived in the United States with his wife and two sons six weeks ago, was huddled beside a radio listening to the latest news from the United Nations when a visitor knocked at the door of a two-story white stucco bungalow.

Hechalutz Farm is operated at a $10,000-a-year loss by Hashomer Hatzair Zionist Youth Organization. More than 1,000 Zionist youths in 1965.

Reserve Obligation of Son Is Questioned

By JERRY BAULCH
AP Newfeatures

Dear Jerry: My son was drafted July 19, 1965. Upon his discharge next month, will he be assigned to a Reserve unit, or will he sign up to one of his choice? If that unit is called to active duty, will he have to go with them, after just returning to the states? With so many fellows around who haven't even served in the states, it seems unfair to ship him away from home after being away 18 months.

Dear ACM: Your son has a total six-year obligation, and three of the remaining years must be in the active reserve. The last may be in the inactive reserve. He may find a unit to join on his own or be assigned. If there is no vacancy in nearby units he may be assigned to a pool and be required only to put in 15 days annual active duty training. But if he is in a unit that is called up he would be expected to go with it.

Dear Jerry: I was recommended for the Silver Star back in 1944 by my platoon for helping to break up a frontal attack on our position and inflicting numerous losses on the enemy in the Pacific. My platoon leader was killed a few weeks afterward. I was wondering if there was any chance after this long a time of there being any record of this action and if I could obtain the medal.

Dear DPV: You can try by sending all the information you can on the action, and especially your serial number, to Commanding Officer, U.S. Army Administration Center, 9700 Page Blvd., St. Louis, Mo. 63132. But it'll probably be a long, slow search.

Dear Jerry: I went into the service Dec. 18, 1942, and was discharged Feb. 27, 1958. My question is, what year did soldiers start paying Social Security? I believe it started in 1955; if so can I claim Social Security from 1955 to 1958.

DEAR TD: You can do better than that. The date military personnel started paying Social Security was Jan. 1, 1957. But the government gives them free wage credits of $160 a month for each month of active military service from Sept. 16, 1940 to Dec. 31, 1956, regardless of grade or pay.

Oswald: "In the good old days a cue bid was a cue bid. It showed first round control and invited a slam. Today we have every sort of cue bid imaginable. In fact, some of our most modern experts use a cue bid as a way to keep out of trouble with a bad hand."

Jim: "It is confusing, but if you bear in mind that a cue bid is always a one-round force you can make it work to great advantage provided you and your partner know what you are doing."

Oswald: "North has 14 high card points and a balanced hand. South has 12 high card points and two five-card suits. When this hand was played in a Jackson, Miss., tournament several years back, Bernard Tighe of Jackson and John Toledano of New Orleans were one of the few pairs to reach the sixth-six-club contract. The key bid was John's three-spade cue bid."

SIESTA TIME — When the temperature climbs in the southland, natives take a siesta. With the Dallas temperature hitting a high of 94, and with nothing to do, pretty Dallasite Tammy O'Kelley, 18, just put up the oars and let the boat drift. It's nice to see someone enjoying herself doing nothing.

Income Tax Annulment Sought in Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — Petitions are being circulated in an attempt by a group to annul the city income tax approved by voters Feb. 20.

The petitions are printed and mailed out of the office of former Mayor George W. Welsh through his printing company bearing his name.

Welsh said about 2,000 names have all ready been obtained.

He said a committee is being formed to engage legal counsel and to seek an injunction to halt the tax.

The petitions charge: Gross violations of the state election laws governing campaign contributions; that undue influence was used by the city administration over city employees; and that many voters were deceived by mass propaganda and caused to believe that the city did not have sufficient funds to provide proper police protection.

They also charge that the city connived with certain labor leaders in order to annul the effect of the published opposition of their organization to the city income tax and that information, showing that the city closed its fiscal year with a cash surplus of over $2 million, was withheld from the voters until after the vote on the income tax.

FBI Is Probing Union Shortage

DETROIT (AP) — The FBI is investigating a reported shortage of $60,000 in the funds of the Carpenters District Council in Detroit.

An FBI spokesman in Detroit said the bureau is attempting to determine whether any criminal violations are involved in the shortage.

Boaz Siegel, an attorney for the union, disclosed Friday that a certified audit showed that $66,488 had disappeared from the funds between July, 1959, and Dec. 31, 1966.

The audit in the council's funds was first announced in April. The council represents 17,000 union carpenters in the Detroit area.

Siegel said that employees and officers of the union are bonded and that it is believed that most of the missing funds will be recovered under the bonds.

Current Books

An Illustrated History of the Horror Film, by Carlos Clares. (Putnam, $6.95): Critics and moviegoers alike are inclined to regard horror films as something beneath contempt, and not without reason; but there is no denying that the genre has produced some classics of which no one need be ashamed.

Carlos Clares is obviously a connoisseur in this particular field, and his book covers the subject from the days of the French pioneer George Melies down to Jean-Luc Godard's 1965 picture "Alphaville," hailed by Clares as "science poetry."

His history obviously includes such standards as "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," "Frankenstein" and "The Curse of the Cat People," but it also takes in foreign films and Hollywood "sleepers" that few Americans have ever seen.

As the title indicates, the book is gorgeously illustrated with "135 stills" according to the jacket.

Any moviegoer, however casual, is sure to find some old friends among the pictures.

The Fall of Sukarno, by Tazie Vittachi (Praeger, $4.95): A story of how the good guys won in Indonesia and how the bad guys got it good and hard.

Read for the enjoyment of watching Sukarno get his just deserts, the book could equal dieter's sneaked wedge of cherry pie, a golfer's fudged eagle.

But the downfall of Sukarno was far more than the Goddamming of the revolutionaries who enjoyed calling himself the Great Lover. It was the fall of a man who had greatness in him.

Vittachi, no admirer of the Indonesian revolutionary leader, twice strongly argues that if for nothing else Sukarno deserves a fond pat for making Indonesia one nation out of a confusion of peoples.

His successors have no such appeal. They simply are left to pick up the pieces of Indonesia's terrible economic chaos.

All Men Are Lonely Now. By Francis Clifford. Coward-McCann, $4.95.

Clifford is the man whose "The Naked Runner" jolly rang the bell of excellence as one of the most gripping, emotionally taut stories in recent years.

That book was within the general field of the espionage novel, but its narrative powers and sharp characterization were so superior that it rose above the level of even the best plotted thrillers.

In short, it was a real novel about real people, not just a synthetic tale of cardboard actors.

This sharp twist of the plot concentrates the element of suspense on whether the true villain will be discovered.

Clifford has the unusual gift of the born narrator who knows how to illuminate his tale with the light that flickers across human frailty, and the skill to make the make-believe seem authentic and startlingly real.

Mideast Reconstruction, War Relief Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say extensive food shipments from the United States and other countries will be needed to feed Middle East war refugees and other persons affected by the conflict.

Broader reconstruction and other war relief programs are in the preliminary planning stage, said officials. These tentatively would operate through the United Nations and on a regional basis, they said.

Officials believe regional aid might help bring participating countries into greater harmony with each other. Arab nations have often differed with each other as well as with Israel.

No present U.S. aid program has been suspended despite breaks in diplomatic relations between the United States and seven Arab nations. Officials said the U.S. government has stopped issuing new letters of commitment for aid supplies previously authorized but no aid shipment under way was stopped or diverted.

AID IN PROCESS

Agency for International Development officials said about $20 million in aid for Israel and $120 million for Arab nations had been in process.

Planning for war relief and reconstruction is reported centered in the Committee on the Middle East set up last week by President Johnson as an arm of the National Security Council.

Daily Walk Is Good for Expectant Mother

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

In a large series of cases, records show that a woman who expects her first child when she is 40 may expect a normal delivery, if she has kept fairly fit by regular general exercise — and the best general exercise for any woman, 20, 40 or 60, is a daily walk of from one to six miles. In fact, this is the best way for any expectant mother to train for a normal delivery.

Some women are physiologically as old as 30 or 35 as others are at 40 or 43. This is putting it mildly. Dr. Osler made no bones of saying that 29 may have the arteries of a man of 60.

In any case it is well to remember that it is one's physiological age, not anatomical or chronological age, that matters.

A person who enjoys good health, naturally, doesn't want to be deprived of his enjoyment by a narcotic, even for a little while. That's what alcohol is, a narcotic.

If you need or crave a drink, it is of course only to make you forget for a while how miserable, guilty, wretched, dishonest, cowardly, shameful, weak, unfaithful, inferior or unfit you are.

I suppose it is possible that a person who enjoys excellent health may deliberately indulge in morphine, cocaine, heroin or alcohol "just for the kick" or something equally irrational; but it is hard to conceive of an individual in perfect health being such an imbecile.

Millions of women around 40, whether married or unmarried, are far more conscious than they should be that the melancholy days are come. For this or that fancied reason or for no apparent reason at all, they drift into a melancholic state which, to their minds, is no different from their former cheerful disposition.

Any woman with the brains God gives a goose should know by now that "change of life" is for the birds. If you still moon about it, send me, in care of The Pontiac Press, 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet "The Menopause." It can do you no harm to know more about yourself and it may do good.

Over 3 Million Students Would Work With Poor State Astronaut

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 6.5 million college students in America and more than half of them are interested in volunteering to live and work among the nation's poor, according to a survey by the Gallup Poll.

The survey results were released by the Office of Economic Opportunity, and antipoverty agency.

"It is something we have believed for some time but this is a scientific survey which confirms our views in black and white," said Bill Crook, director of Volunteers in Service to America.

The survey also reported that 67 per cent of college students favor a proposal by Sargent Shriver, director of OEO, that a National Service Corps be created in which all 16-year-olds and girls would be tested and registered under the Selective Service System.

Crook said the survey results show "that the younger generation is a 'committed generation' and that young people reject the extremists."

OU 'Gymkhana' Will Test Auto Handling Skills

Drivers from the Oakland and Wayne County areas will have a chance to prove their driving and car handling skills on Saturday at Oakland University's first "gymkhana."

A gymkhana is a test of a driver's skill in negotiating a zigzagging, sharp-turning course laid out between pylons. Drivers turning in the fastest times in various car classifications will be awarded trophies.

The event, cosponsored by the OU Engineering Society and Biological Society, will be run from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the main parking lot of the university.

Entries will be accepted on the course during the competition. The entry fee is $1.50 per person.

McNamara Deputy Resigning

Shifts at the Defense Dept. Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze is President Johnson's announced choice for deputy secretary of defense to succeed the resigning Cyrus R. Vance.

The new secretary of the Navy—making the same job shift Nitze did 3½ years ago—will be John T. McNaughton, now assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs.

President Johnson announced the shifts Saturday night in what is not indicated as any policy change.

The White House said Vance, 50, was resigning effective June 30 for personal reasons. He has been bothered by back trouble.

McNaughton, 50, joined the Defense Department as an assistant secretary with the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy. He had served in the State Department during most of the Truman administration.

Kennedy named him Navy secretary in October 1963 but a battle in the Senate Armed Services Committee over the nomination delayed committee approval of Nitze until the day before the assassination of Kennedy.

The Senate subsequently confirmed him and he was sworn in Nov. 29, 1963.

The confirmation battle had been over the appointment of a 66-orbit mission in June 1965.

McNaughton graduated from Kalamazoo Central High School and received a Bachelor of Science degree in aeronautical engineering from the University of Michigan, graduating first in his class.

He was command pilot on the four-day, 66-orbit mission in June 1965.

Poor Are Victimized by Consumer Frauds

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director, National Urban League

It's tough enough to be poor and discriminated against, but the poor in the ghetto also pay a "color tax" in the form of higher costs for food, housing, credit and inadequate services due to discrimination. And they are also the victims of outright fraud.

Consumer frauds and cheating cost the nation many billions of dollars per year, a cost paid mainly by the poor who are victimized by these practices. Another loser is the legitimate businessman who loses sales to the crooked outfits and who of ten is tagged with the distrust caused by the crooks who prey on the poor.

Not that all of them are crooks in the eyes of law. The law doesn't cover many sharp practices and the poor, who are likely to be less educated, fall for many a dodge which may be legal, but is dishonest and unfair. A fraud by any other name is still a fraud.

One of the ways poor consumers are victimized is through excessive credit charges. Since poor people don't always have the cash to buy the things they need, and since they can't get the credit they need from banks which consider them poor risks, they have to buy on time.

Even legitimate businesses rarely tell a customer how much real interest he is paying. For example a monthly interest charge of 1 1/2 per cent a month could figure out to 18 per cent a year.

FREEZER FRAUD

A New York housewife who bought a freezer unit offers an example of the frauds which are so common. She called a company which advertised a plan on television and the salesman said she would save so much on food that the freezer would be free.

She signed a contract for a freezer priced at $95 and two months of meat and frozen food at $189. With three years of credit and other charges, the bill came to $1,454 without the food.

The "two months" of food ran out in five weeks, and when she realized she had been gyped, the housewife turned to the Legal Aid Society for help. They got her out of the contract, but the real moral of the story is found in the fact that a comparable freezer in a reputable store sold for $450—about $1,000 less than the shady deal she was trapped into.

If you are victimized by frauds, complain to the state and local authorities whose business it is to stop consumer frauds and to the Better Business Bureau.

Door-to-door salesmen with furniture, books, and other goods, should be checked out carefully before anything is signed. They may be perfectly legitimate but too many people have signed contracts and ended up regretting that they did.

A common practice is for outfits to sell goods on the installment plan and then sell the contract to a credit company or a bank which then collects the installments from the consumer. If something is wrong with the merchandise, the original company can't be found and the credit company is free from any responsibility.

The Senate Banking Committee recently heard some testimony from people who had been victimized by these credit sharks. One Jersey City man bought a $124 television set to be paid for by monthly installments of $17.50 adding up to a 229 per cent interest rate—more than twice the cost of the set alone.

There are other tricks to bilk the poor besides the credit angle. Some companies will imply that they are part of the poverty program or say that the books they are selling must be bought because the local school insists on it, or other falsehoods. The merchandise is nearly always inferior and overpriced.

Fire Destroys Textile Plants in Dixie Town

ROSSVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Officials of this small north Georgia town assessed the damage in dollars and jobs today after a huge fire destroyed four textile plants and severely damaged several others.

As workmen began the task of rebuilding, Mayor Paul Ellis termed the fire Sunday a major disaster. The damage was tentatively fixed at more than $15 million.

Bert Brown, president of Rossville Development Co., which owns the complex, said all 2,400 persons employed in 15 textile mills would be affected by the fire. About 1,400 work in the four plants which were total losses.

Fire, fed by exploding chemicals and miles of carpeting fabrics, broke out in the four-square-mile industrial complex. The blaze was not contained until 18 hours later. Flames were still smoldering in some plants early today.

Brown, who heads the Rossville group, listed these plants as destroyed—Rossville Yarns, Beaufort Tuft Corp., Heritage Quilted Textiles and Southern United Textile Processors, Inc.

In addition, he said, Borg fabrics of the Amphipol Corp., Rossville Carpet Dyeing, and Quilted Textile Corp. were severely damaged. Parts of the eight other firms also sustained losses.

Brown indicated some of the firms would be able to resume operations today.

"The fire was a terrible tragedy to Rossville," said T. P. Duff Jr., president of the Greater Chattahoochee Chamber of Commerce, which includes Rossville. "But I'm sure they have the strength to rebuild."

The task of rebuilding is a familiar one to officials in the town of 4,700. In 1961 Burlington Industries, which then owned the complex, closed the plants.

A group of Rossville businessmen stepped in, purchased the buildings, found other companies willing to operate there and leased space to the 15 textile firms.

Caracas Next Stop in Aviatix's Flight

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Ann Pellegreno, flying around the world on the same route that led Amelia Earhart to doom 30 years ago, planned to take off this morning for Caracas.

The 30-year-old Michigan housewife started at Oakland, Calif., Wednesday and is scheduled to end her global flight in July. She is piloting a Lockheed Electra 10, the same model in which Miss Earhart disappeared over the Pacific.

A navigator, copilot and mechanic are flying with Mrs. Pellegreno. While she talked with a newsman on the telephone, Mrs. Pellegreno's husband arrived from Detroit and interrupted the conversation with a welcoming kiss.

where the Earhart flight began in 1937. Mrs. Pellegreno said her flight was running a day late but, "We're not pushing the old bird with any more overweight takeoffs than we have to so we stop often for fuel. If we lost an engine on an overweight take-off, that's it."

'Israeli Army Should Stay Until Treaty'

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., former ambassador to Israel, says Israeli forces should not withdraw from any captured Arab territories until the Arabs agree to a peace based on recognition of Israel and free access to the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal.

"The United States should make this abundantly plain," Reid said Sunday.

Reid also said that, after conversations with Israeli and American diplomats, he believes that Israel will insist on staying in the Old City of Jerusalem and on the heights of Syria and Jordan. At another point, he added, territory in the Sinai Peninsula to the list.

He said that Israeli occupation of the Old City is "not negotiable" except for international guarantees of the holy places. He also said that the United States should move its embassy from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem to symbolize support for Israeli jurisdiction over the entire city.

Man Is Sought

DETROIT (AP)—A Detroit man was sought today in the shooting death of a woman and the wounding of her brother. Police said they were seeking Willie English Jr., 35, of Detroit in the death of Mrs. Vera Parker, 45, of Detroit and the wounding of her brother, John D. Davis, 49, of Detroit. Davis was listed in serious condition at a hospital, suffering from several gunshot wounds.

$1,000 Check Mystifies Teen

SANTEE, Calif. (AP)—Somebody out there likes Dan Finch.

In the mail for Finch, a 17-year-old Santa Ana High School senior, came a cashier's check for $1,000.

The check was sent to the school anonymously, with directions that it be given to Dan "in appreciation of his moral integrity and toward his college career in electronics engineering."

Dan and his parents say they have no idea who sent the money.

NEW YORK—Stars are classified according to two variables—brightness, or luminosity, and surface temperature. Astrophysicists believe that stars evolve through several stages, each stage having a different luminosity and surface temperature.

But there are gaps in the evolutionary path where astronomers haven't been able to find stars.

The explanation for one such gap, that of the "ultra-violet dwarfs," is probably that stars pass through that stage very quickly, says Dr. Richard Stothers of the Goddard Institute for Space Studies here.

In order to pass through the ultraviolet dwarf stage, a star would have to eject matter by some other means than pure thermal cooling, which the sun does. The only other known means is the emission of neutrinos, an elementary particle, says Dr. Stothers.

In the Astronomical Journal, Dr. Stothers calculated the maximum time ultraviolet dwarfs could exist and still be undetected. He came up with an upper limit of 500,000 years.

He then found that without neutrino emission, that stars would last more than 2 million years. With neutrino emission, they would last less than 400,000 years.

Items Worth $600 Stolen From Firm

Items valued at more than $600 were stolen from Blue Ribbon Distributors, 1910 W. 10th St., it was reported Saturday.

City police were told the loot included two stereos, a radio, a tape player, four tires and an unknown number of tapes.

Investigators said fingerprints were taken at the scene.

Star Carol Channing Says 'Goodbye, Dolly'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Carol Channing, her fellow performers and a good portion of their standing-room-only audience wept as she finished strutting and singing through the title role of "Hello, Dolly!" for the 1,272nd and last time.

Miss Channing left the show Sunday night after three years in which she had never played to an empty seat and never missed a scheduled performance.

Her company of the smash musical grossed more than $17 million for producer David Merrick in 640 New York performances and a 28-city road tour. After a brief rest, Miss Channing will turn to a series of ABC-TV specials, two more films under a Universal contract which began with "Thoroughly Modern Millie," and a new Broadway show.

'NOT PROFESSIONAL'

When she closed her long-run "Hello, Dolly!" production, Miss Channing said Sunday, "That's not professional," she said, pledging to remain dry-eyed as she played "Dolly" for the last time.

At Saturday's matinee, Miss Channing said, she started crying in the middle of a bright production number, "Put On Your Sunday Clothes," but Joseph G. Ebel, 40, father of 10, gets a doctor of philosophy degree today from Cornell University in Ithaca.

Ebel has been going to college off and on since 1951. In 1963, he earned a degree in agriculture and decided to try for his doctorate. He worked as a construction laborer and farmer.

The children of Ebel and his wife, Donna, range in age from 3 to 15.

The family lived in his native Arcade, N.Y., nearer to Buffalo than to Cornell, until 1962, when they moved to Newfield, a community south of Ithaca.

Despite his success at Cornell, Ebel feels that "my biggest dilemma is right now—what job?"

Among other things, he has considered a career in the academic world: "I really enjoy working with students."

Negro to Conduct Major Southern Orchestra

Dr. Paul Freeman will become the first Negro to conduct a major southern orchestra when he leads the New Orleans Philharmonic in appearances in Houston and Baton Rouge in November.

Freeman, 31, currently is in San Francisco where he has conducted the San Francisco Symphony. He will open the midsummer music festival there June 18.

A graduate of Virginia State College at Petersburg, Freeman played with the Richmond Symphony before taking a Ph.D. degree from the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y.

Jetliner Misses Plane With Phyllis Diller Aboard

A landing jetliner narrowly missed a small plane with actress Phyllis Diller and her husband aboard early yesterday at San Juan International Airport in Puerto Rico, a spokesman for her film crew said.

The spokesman said Miss Diller and her husband, Ward Donovan, had chartered a light plane to fly to the Virgin Islands, but the craft developed engine trouble and had to return to San Juan.

On landing, the pilot called for a tow truck. An incoming jetliner, apparently not noticing the small plane immediately, pulled to a stop just in time after landing.

Greek King's Grandmother Burglarized

Greek King Constantine's maternal grandmother, Princess Victoria Louise, was burglarized of jewels worth about $10,000 early yesterday, police reported in Terracina, Italy.

The princess, 74, sole living daughter of Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany, was asleep in an upstairs room of her villa when a ground-floor window was entered.

Police said the burglars took three leather cases containing the jewels and the princess' passport.

Rent of One Red Rose Paid for 195th Year

For the 195th year, a red rose was presented yesterday to a descendant of Baron Henry W. Steigel who deeded the land, in Manheim, Pa., on which stands the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church.

The rite commemorated the date in 1772 when the baron gave the land to the congregation for five shillings and the rent of one red rose to be paid yearly in June.

Frank Demberly Jr. of Hadonfield, N.J., an eighth-generation member of the Steigel family, accepted this year's rental rose from Judge Carl B. Shelley of Pennsylvania's Commonwealth Court.

Woman Who Lost Feet Walks Down Aisle

Jean Pellegrini, who lost both feet in an auto accident last August, walked down the aisle Sunday for her wedding.

The 24-year-old blonde was crushed against a stone wall by a speeding stolen car at her home in West Quincy. Doctors had to amputate her left leg near the knee and her right foot just above the ankle.

Joan made up her mind she would walk down the aisle for her scheduled wedding.

And walk she did, down the aisle of St. Mary's church for her marriage to Joseph H. McDonald, 25, of Arlington, Mass.

"But leave it to me to pick a church with a lot of steps," she said.

ALASKA

This is "Alaska Purchase Centennial" year, a year of spectacular celebrations throughout the 49th State. It was in 1867 that the United States purchased Alaska from Russia. Alaskans are going all out to celebrate. Their theme: "Come Join the Party!"

Alaskans — in fact, the entire country — should celebrate the purchase of that 375 million-acre piece of real estate. It cost less than 2¢ an acre, $7,200,000.

Yet in Alaska's first 100 years, it has produced over a billion dollars' worth of gold, plus countless billions more in fish, furs, timber, ore and oil. $7.2 million seems a pittance.

So 280,000 Alaskans will celebrate. And, some 280,000 hearty invitations have been extended to everybody in the "smaller states" to visit Alaska during its Centennial.

ALASKA-67 EXPOSITION

Fairbanks is the site of the official 40-acre Alaska-67 Exposition which opens May 27 and runs through September 30. The Centennial Site is a major attraction that represents all of Alaska and will be a permanent addition to the state. It will have a "World's Fair-type" atmosphere with many exhibits, but will also have permanent buildings honoring Alaska's past, present, and future.

Exhibits featuring the history of Alaska will be installed in Pioneer Hall, located in an authentic Gold Rush Town at the exposition. Twenty-six old log and frame buildings have been moved in from the Fairbanks area and completely restored. The buildings are full of history and color and will be used by exhibitors and concessionaires who will be dressed in turn-of-the-century costumes.

Gold Rush Town, Alaska-67 Exposition, Fairbanks

Bordering the Gold Rush Town is a small man-made lake in which the sternwheeler riverboat Nenana rests. This 438-ton Yukon and Tanana River queen has been restored from stern to stern and will house a glamorous restaurant on the salon deck, and displays featuring transportation in Alaska on the cargo deck. With its huge paddle wheel turning and stack smoking, the Nenana will be one of the most interesting points of the Exposition.

Historical equipment from the days when mining was Alaska's major industry has been moved into the Mining Valley. Bordering a stream running through the valley, the equipment is being set up as if it were in actual operation. Five displays feature hydraulic, placer, dredge, prospect, and draft mining. Visitors will be able to see how gold was mined and will be able to actually pan for gold in the Mining Valley stream.

The Civic Center, largest of the buildings, is the focal point of the Exposition's main exhibit area. This three-story circular building has as its theme "The Alaskan Community," with the State of Alaska and Alaskan cities as major exhibitors. It also contains a theater for the performing arts and an art gallery for Alaskan artists. Next to the Civic Center is a 100-foot diameter geodesic dome that will house exhibits and displays by federal agencies.

"North to the Future" is the theme of Exhibition Hall, a 134-foot diameter geodesic dome erected by Alaska-67. The building will feature exhibits and displays by industrial concerns and foreign governments. The purpose of these exhibits is to demonstrate Alaska's vast potential in industry and commerce.

Alaska's only zoo will be featured in the Exposition near the Mining Valley. The zoo will display big game animals that are native to Alaska in their natural habitat. Animals in a large open area separated by natural barriers can be seen from a narrow gauge railroad which circles through the entire Exposition and from a raised pedestrian walkway.

The Exposition's Indian and Eskimo Village runs along the river bank and contains structures that were used in Alaska around the 16th and 17th century. Many famous Alaskan native artists and craftsmen will be performing their skills in the villages for the public to see. An anthropological museum near the villages will house some of the world's best collections of native arts.

No exposition would be complete without an amusement area. Alaska-67 will have the largest collection of rides and amusements ever brought to Alaska.

ANCHORAGE

Alaska's largest city and the hub of activities throughout the 49th State, Anchorage is the site of more Centennial celebrations and exhibits during the year. Anchorage has constructed a special Tourist Information and Hospitality Center, and a unique Aviation Museum at Anchorage International Airport. Alaska is aviation-oriented, and Anchorage Airport is the crossroads of national and international air traffic.

Visitors to Anchorage will view exhibits of Alaskan resources, art, and big game trophies, and will enjoy music, literary, and dancing festivals. They will witness air shows, stage plays, musicals and special Centennial tours.

In addition to being Alaska's business and hotel/convention center, Anchorage is the gateway to the vast new Alaskan oil fields, to the farming areas of the Matanuska Valley, to the favorite big-game hunting grounds, to Mt. McKinley National Park, to the Aleutian Chain, and militarily to the Far East. Anchorage is also the gateway to the Arctic which is fast becoming a new tourist mecca.

THE ARCTIC

Commercial jet flights leave Anchorage daily for Nome on the Bering Sea and to Kotzebue, an Eskimo village above the Arctic Circle. Alaska Centennial visitors who choose this two-day Arctic adventure are treated to such unique experiences as a ride in a real dog team sled and in a boat made of walrus skins (oomiah). They pan for gold at a real operating gold mine and keep their find. They receive a certificate for crossing the Arctic Circle, and they wear colorful Eskimo parkas furnished for them during the whole trip.

While in Nome, tourists are entertained by Eskimo dancers and ivory carvers, and witness the traditional Eskimo blanket toss. The "blanket" is actually a walrus skin with a rope fastened around its edge. Everybody grabs hold and "tosses" one of the more daring Eskimo youngsters high into the air.

Later, the tourists are free to roam Nome's streets and beaches and absorb some of Alaska's most exciting history. Gold was discovered in Nome in 1898 and thousands upon thousands of people stormed the area in frantic search of the precious metal. Much evidence still remains, and so does much gold.

SOUTHEAST ALASKA

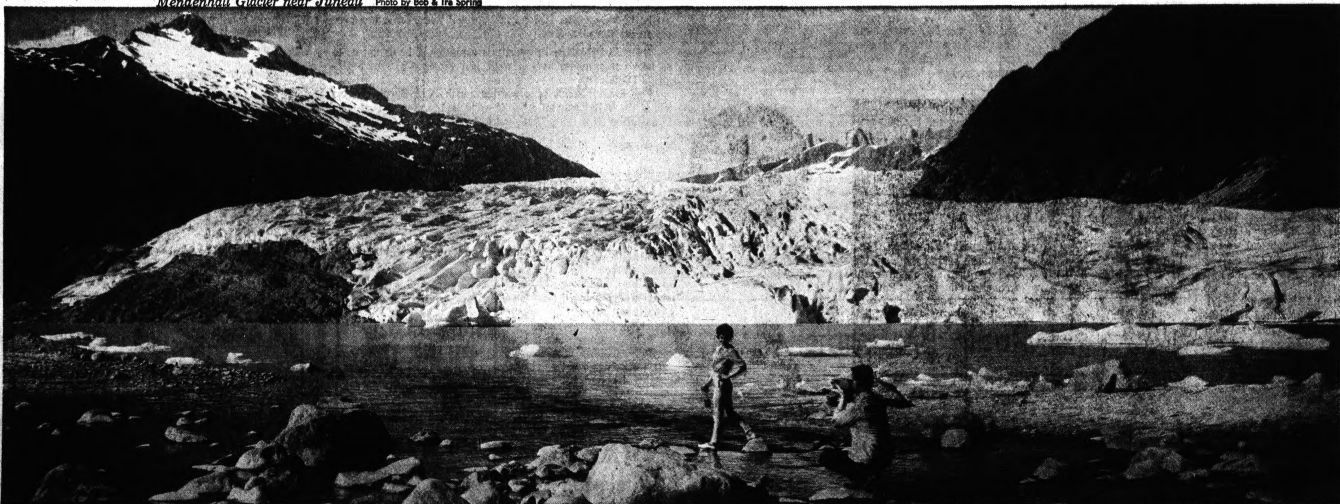

Gold was responsible for Skagway, too, some 1100 miles east-southeast from, and a few years earlier than Nome. Skagway, at the northernmost point of what is called "Southeast Alaska," was the starting point of the grueling Chilkoot Pass and White Pass trails to Yukon Territory in Canada and to the gold fields of Dawson and the Klondike.

Skagway, Juneau, Ketchikan, and all the other cities of Southeast Alaska will celebrate the Centennial . . . and so, especially, will Sitka. The official ceremonies making Alaska a territory of the United States took place at Sitka, October 18, 1867.

Southeast Alaska is best known to tourists for its beautiful "Inside Passage" cruises. Tourists on board these vessels have grandstand seats to some of the world's most dramatic scenery.

One port of call, Juneau, is Alaska's capital city. Visitors to Juneau see the State Museum, the Capitol buildings, and visit the ancient and mysterious Mendenhall Glacier. Mendenhall is a river of compressed blue ice thousands of years old, and is considered the largest and most rugged glacier accessible by road.

Chapter I
This Paris discotheque, the Club Barouf, was different.
All the other discotheques I had ever been in were on the Left Bank and were small, candlelit holes.

This one was on the Right Bank, on the Boulevard Montmartre, and it was a huge, garishly lit place, as big as a barn but furnished with only the bare essentials.
My friend Louis le Buc, who had sent me for an interview with the owner, had told me that the Club Barouf was a converted roller-skating rink. It looked like it.

The owner's name was Jacques Castabert. He was a sleek, sad-eyed little man who seemed to have the curves of the world piled on his narrow shoulders.
"Monsieur Reno Davis?" he said to me as I stood in his doorway. And when I nodded he waved me to a seat. "Coffee? A cigarette?"

"Thanks. I could use them."
While I was having my coffee and cigarette, I saw he was sizing me up narrowly.

"How long have you lived in Paris?" he suddenly said.
"Six years. Two years in Italy before that."
"Then that explains it. The six years, I mean. Your French is excellent, May."

Board Meets on DST

LANSING — The Board of State Canvassers met today — with all four members present — to decide whether to allow a statewide vote on Daylight Saving Time.
"A 'yes' decision would automatically advance Michigan clocks one hour at midnight.
State Elections Director Robert Montgomery said he did not anticipate any fast decision on the time issue.
"There are three lawyers on the four-member commission," he had observed Friday in that connection.
The fight to keep the state off fast time went into the 11th hour, with opponents continuing to claim there are not enough valid signatures on petitions seeking a referendum on the issue.

KELLY'S RULING
Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has ruled that the instant the canvassers certify petitions, Michigan must go on fast time.
Under the State Constitution, Kelley said, such certification suspends a law exempting Michigan from the federal Uniform Time Act.
The state law keeping Michigan on Eastern Standard time would be suspended, if canvassers approve the petitions, until an election on the issue in November, 1968.

But new legal delaying action was indicated by Detroit attorney Tom Downs, who represents the Michigan Farm Bureau and theater and bowling alley interests that oppose Daylight Saving Time.
Downs, fighting to the last minute, has prepared a series of long arguments challenging the sufficiency of the signatures gathered by a citizens' group for Daylight Saving Time.

Israel Plans to Keep Some Won Lands

By The Associated Press
Israel has denied Syrian charges that its tanks invaded deeper into Syria after a ceasefire but says it intends to keep some of the land it won from Syria, Egypt and Jordan in the six-day Middle East war.
Cheering crowds in the Israeli port of Elath last night greeted the first Israeli freighter to enter the Gulf of Aqaba since Egypt's proclaimed blockade of the gulf led the Middle East to the brink of war.
The Jewish nation had assured reopening of the gulf by capturing Sharm el Sheikh, from which Egyptian guns overlooked the gulf entrance at the Strait of Tiran.
An Israeli Army spokesman said the war against the Arabs killed 679 Israeli soldiers and wounded 2,563. Jordan has announced that 15,000 Jordanians were killed. Egypt and Syria have not announced any casualty figures.
Estimates of the number of prisoners taken by Israel, mostly Egyptian, range from 13,000. They still are being counted.

U.N. RESOLUTION
The U.N. Security Council, meeting past 2:30 a.m. for the second straight day, adopted a new resolution demanding that Israel and Syria avoid any forward movement of troops and withdraw any units that have crossed cease-fire lines established Saturday.
Syria said Israel moved armored units forward yesterday. Israel said its tank movements were entirely behind the ceasefire lines. U.N. truce observers confirmed movement of tanks in the area.
Israeli troops now occupy Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, the biblical cities in Jordan west of the Jordan River and a 25-mile Syrian front which extends as deep as 15 miles into Syrian territory.
Foreign Minister Abba Eban told a public meeting last night that Israel would not return to the armistice lines of 1949. For the first time, he said, Israel's Galilee settlements were out of danger from Syrian guns on high ground overlooking them.

IMPORTANT JOB — Safety patrol boys such as Kevin Murphy (left) and James Kuchner, both 11, at Webster Elementary School are primarily responsible for the safety of their classmates during school months. However, this responsibility will belong more to the motorist when Pontiac-area schools close soon.

Voters Deciding School Issues

Adults from Pontiac, Waterford Township and 22 other area districts are going to school today to vote for members of school boards and to decide the fate of vocational education centers.
The polls, most of which are located in schools, opened at 7 a.m. today and will close at 8 p.m.
Besides electing members to boards of education, special local issues will be found on some ballots. Voters will decide millage questions in Troy and Holly.
A countywide proposal to build four area vocational education centers with a half-million tax levy will be found on all ballots.
If the question passes, a center would be built in each quadrant of the county to augment programs in local high schools. Residents would annually (until they decide otherwise) pay a 50-cent tax per $1,000 on equalized property valuations.
Seven candidates are after two school board seats in Pontiac and 11 are running for three seats in Waterford Township.

Police Official Alerts Drivers to Child Pedestrian Dangers

By MEL NEWMAN
Pontiac-area schools will close soon for summer vacation and streets, particularly in residential sections and around playgrounds, will be crossed by increasing numbers of children.
The potential for accidents involving young pedestrians will reach its peak and Lt. Clayton Randolph, Pontiac police traffic bureau commander, has issued suggestions on how to avoid such mishaps.
Randolph pointed out that child traffic is a dual responsibility on the part of both the young pedestrian and the motorist.
However, he added that it's not a 50-50 proposition.
"A motorist cannot take it for granted that children will be as responsible for obeying safety laws and principles as he will be.
MUST TAKE INITIATIVE
"The motorist must take the initiative."

Still, children have guidelines he urged they be encouraged to follow.
"Kids should be prompted to play in playgrounds, not on the streets," Randolph said. "If they take part in organized recreation department activities they'll be much better off than playing on the road."
Bicyclists, he said, learn traffic laws in school and are expected to obey these as if they were automobile drivers.
MORE DANGEROUS
Certain factors make summer a more dangerous time for drivers in terms of young pedestrians.

Violence Erupts in Florida, Alabama

By The Associated Press

An uneasy quiet prevailed in riot-ridden areas of Tampa, Fla., and Prattville, Ala., today following racial violence yesterday and early this morning which produced gun battles between Negroes and police officers.

In Tampa, more than 400 exchanges of shots with police, and burned an entire block of white-owned stores in the central Negro district early today.

The battle, triggered when a policeman shot and killed a young Negro burglary suspect, broke out all about 11 p.m. and raged in full force for 2½ hours.

It continued sporadically through the night in two areas. By daybreak the shooting had ceased and the flames had been extinguished.

DEPUTY DIES

Smoke from the fire-damaged buildings curled over a dingy area of bars, liquor stores, pool halls and one-story business houses.

A deputy sheriff died of an apparent heart attack during the melee. At least a dozen persons, including 10 whites, were injured.

The Alabama violence was touched off by the arrest of a young Negro, Carmichael, black power advocate.

The incident triggered a gun battle between Prattville police and Negroes.

National Guardsmen moved in early today with orders to shoot to kill if necessary to restore order.

HOUSE RAIDED

The guardsmen and police raided a house involved in the gunfire and removed some 30 Negroes and a double-barreled shotgun. Several rounds of ammunition were found in a car parked outside, Sheriff Philip Wood said.

Wood said today 10 persons were arrested at another house and were charged with inciting to riot.

He said most gave out-of-town addresses and "many said they were with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Police said Negroes barricaded inside the house had exchanged shots with city, county and state officers during the night while other shots were fired from a nearby wooded area.

3 POLICEMEN WOUNDED

The gun battle left three law enforcement officers injured slightly.

Wood said a prison trusty handling dogs also was wounded slightly in the violence. The man after Carmichael was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge.

Police Chief Obie Thompson said Carmichael threatened to kill one officer and told police he would "tear up this town."

Carmichael was in the county jail a mile away when the gun battle raged.

The sheriff said the 10 and Carmichael, former chairman of the SNCC, would appear today before Judge James Loftis of the County Court of Records. He said bond for the 11 probably would be set at the hearing.

In the Florida violence, Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr., roused from sleep by the riot in the coastal city of Tampa Bay in a jet plane, surveyed the riot scene and met with police, National Guard officers and Negro leaders.

The outbreak came just a few days after officials of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People mapped plans for a campaign of "quiet negotiation" in Florida during the summer of 1967.

OCC Hoping to Settle Suits

Bloomfield Hills May Act in Zoning Dispute

Three 1½-year-old suits against Oakland Community College's George A. Bee Administrative Center in Bloomfield Hills may be settled tomorrow night.

Richard P. Condit, OCC's attorney, said today that he is "hopeful" the Bloomfield Hills City Commission will agree to a settlement at tomorrow night's meeting.

He refused to release details of the proposed settlement until official city action is taken.

When the college moved into its administrative quarters at Opdyke and Hickory Grove in December 1965, three lawsuits were filed against OCC.

A dozen neighbors filed a $1-million damage suit against OCC claiming that the nine acres of land could only be used for residential purposes.

CITY SUE

The City of Bloomfield Hills sued the college and the late George A. Bee to enjoin them from completing a sale. The city alleged that the land is zoned residential.

OCC claims the city does not have the authority to enforce a zoning ordinance against them since the college is an agency of the state, according to Condit.

All three suits are scheduled for a pretrial in Oakland County Circuit Court June 21. If the issues are settled tomorrow, they will not go to court.

Commission to Consider a New Pact for Firemen

BIRMINGHAM — A new contract for the Birmingham Fire Fighters Association will be up for approval by the City Commission tonight.

A tentative agreement reached by city and association bargainers will be revealed at the 8 p.m. meeting in city hall.

The agreement reportedly calls for pay raises and changes in fringe benefits. However, the extent of these or total cost to the city have not been released.

Both parties agreed to withhold details until commissioners had a chance to study the agreement which will go into effect July 1, if approved.

Also on tonight's agenda is a Park and Recreation Board recommendation for a summer recreation program for Eton and Poppleton parks.

Blast Shatters Dutch Warship

UTRECHT, Netherlands (AP) — An explosion today shattered a military ship being loaded with artillery shells from surplus stores and collapsed part of the municipal power plant nearby.

Local health service officials said 18 persons were injured. A boy was missing and feared dead.

The ship was tied up near the power plant when, witnesses said, one of 15 soldiers on board "dropped something in the ship's hold."

The soldiers ran while thick black smoke billowed up and then the ship exploded.

The blast tore the ship in two. The forward part was hurled 80 yards into a dike. The aft section was blown some 40 yards away. Parts of the power plant collapsed.

The blast also smashed thousands of windows and damaged many cars parked in the area.

Clues Sought

Pair Beaten, Stabbed
in Oklahoma Home

STROUD, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma authorities sifted through scant clues today in the brutal murders of two sisters, one of them the wife of a soldier in Vietnam.

The bodies of Betty McCullough, 23, and her sister, Mary Alice Valliquette, 15, were found early Sunday on the floor of Mrs. McCullough's bedroom in a three-bedroom, frame house in a quiet residential area. They had been beaten and stabbed.

A neighbor, Lloyd Howard, summoned police after he was called to the house by one of Mrs. McCullough's three children, Rickey, 6, who pleaded: "Something is wrong with mama. Will you come and see?"

HEARS DOOR CLOSE

The boy was awakened when he heard the door close to the bedroom in which he and his two sisters, Tonya, 3, and Penny, 16 months, were sleeping. He said he saw a man's hand on the doorknob.

Jerry Welch, Lincoln County deputy sheriff, said a screen was off a window in the house and the window was open.

Authorities said the mother was nude and the younger girl was partially clothed.

A Red Cross spokesman said the husband, Sgt. Verle D. McCullough, was scheduled to return from Vietnam next month. The Red Cross said he had been told of the slayings.

Digging up a garden is a major enterprise. For those of us who haven't garden tractors. Yet many of us find it's beneficial exercise. At least, it benefits our chiropractors. Stiff and sore muscles clear up in a few days. If the condition lasts longer, it may be a pinched nerve or a displaced vertebra. Don't ruin your Summer's fun by neglecting these warnings. Nation's Heartland Hit by Tornadoes and Floods

By United Press International
The nation's heartland throbbed today in the aftermath of tornadoes and floods. Thunderstorms fell over much of the nation.

Twisters yesterday sawed into parts of Illinois, where nearly half-foot rains fell Saturday, and ominous funnel clouds creeping along in the Midwestern skies caused residents to be on the alert the day long.

In a six-hour period last night, the U.S. Weather Bureau said, 10 tornadoes were reported in Kansas, five in Missouri, four in Iowa, three in Nebraska, two in Oklahoma and funnel clouds were seen in Kansas and Iowa.

No serious injury or damage was reported.

A Texas twister struck near Wortham Bend, northwest of Waco, causing $6,000 damage to a farm.

Hail pounded the center of the Longhorn state, and in the central part, creeks and streams rose steadily near flood level after rains measuring up to eight inches.

Scattered showers and thundershowers fell from Washington and Arizona to the plains and upper Great Lakes today.

Showers also were reported in northern New England and Florida.

71 Are Arrested
in Detroit Raid

DETROIT (UPI) — Sixty-six persons, arrested in a raid on an alleged blind pig, were to be arraigned today on a charge of loitering.

The 49 men and 17 women were among 71 persons arrested early yesterday in a police raid. Mrs. Evelyn Mullin, 33, accused operator of the illegal liquor operation, was charged with violating state liquor laws.

Clarence Taylor, 47, Eugene O'Neill, 27, and Herbert Staten, 42, were charged with violating the state gaming laws while Merle Nalley, 27, was charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Police said about 200 such illegal liquor operations are believed to exist in the Detroit area because they are relatively easy to set up.

"All that's needed is a fifth of liquor or a six-pack to go in to business," Police Commissioner Ray Girardin said.

POLICE PRESSURE
But constant police pressure on suspected locations makes it difficult for blind pigs to stay in operation, he said.

THE "COORDINATED LOOK"

An easy way to the "coordinated look" in fabric and furniture — one of today's most livable decorating ideas — will be the theme of a new window vignette designed by Miller Furniture Co. in cooperation with Pontiac Furniture Company and scheduled to open on Monday.

The key to this coordinated look is a handsome new fabric of "Antron" nylon, which does double duty as upholstery on beautiful

Pontiac Mr. and Mrs. chairs, focal point of the vignette, and as a matching, richly textured drapery. Thanks to "Antron" — DuPont's newest nylon, the fabric makes a soft, lustrous upholstery with a luxurious look — but it's a luxury that works for its living, because this cloth is sturdy as only nylon can be. Available in 8 decorator colors . . .

To round out the coordination, the vignette shows harmonizing casements of "Dacron Batiste."
