Miss Front Page Makes Her Bow

Happy New Year!

Here she is.

Miss Front Page answers more readily to the name of Wendy Fay Hartman and day after tomorrow she reaches the exciting age of precisely two years. Her parents live at 1611 Alma Street.

Wendy has the distinction of being our very youngest Miss Front Page. She didn't exactly comprehend the full significance of New Year's, but she does understand fancy hats and things that make new and interesting noises.

Happy New Year, Wendy, from The Pontiac Press and the whole Pontiac area.

City Industrial Heads Predict Favorable Year

Pontiac, Truck Units Hope to Boost Share of Markets in '58

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

While the year 1957 will be remembered as the one with the slight business decline at the end, Pontiac industrial leaders today forecast that the year ahead would be a good year for business generally.

"Here at Pontiac," said Semon E. Knudsen, Pontiac Motor Division general manager and General Motors Corp. vice president, "we are looking forward with confidence to an excellent sales year."

Philip J. Monaghan, general manager of GMC Truck and Coach Division and GMC vice president, predicted a "good" business year based upon the number of pre-war trucks now on the nation's roads.

"With this kind of a replacement potential it is easy to see that the truck market could break into a real sales upsurge under any one of a number of stimulating conditions," Monaghan said.

The average monthly payroll was $12,807,496. This was $13,219,154 in 1956.

The average number of hourly employes last year was 20,120, according to figures from the association. It was 23,126 the previous year. Salaried employes for 12 months of 1957 averaged 6,623 as compared to 6,636 in 1956.

The peak month for hourly employes was reached in January of 1957 when 24,021 were on the payrolls. In January of the previous year this figure was at 28,700.

The largest monthly payroll last year—$14,579,553—was paid out in July. In 1956, this peak was $15,331,417, reached in January.

Looking at the coming year, Knudsen had this to day:

"1958 should be a good year for business generally, for Pontiac Motor Division, and this community.

"We have the most outstanding automobile in Pontiac's 50 - year

Third Is Saved After Crawling Under His Bed

Two young children suffocated early this morning when fire broke out in an apartment at 430 Highland Ave.

A third child, three-year-old R. D. Winfield Jr., narrowly escaped death, Pontiac firemen said, when he apparently smelled smoke and jumped under his bed to escape flames.

The dead are: Victoria Winfield, age 2, and Nichoette Winfield, two months, children of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Winfield of the Highland address.

Pontiac police said Mrs. Winfield left the three-room second floor apartment of the frame building on Pontiac's south side to "visit neighbors for a few minutes."

Police said the father was not at home at the time of the fire.

Asst. Fire Chief James R. White said the mother later saw smoke pouring from the apartment building and ran upstairs and removed the three children to another house about 100 feet behind the Winfield home.

★ ★ ★

When the fire department arrived, White said, Mrs. Winfield was hysterical and cried out: "My babies, my babies." Firemen later

But Believes We Are Stronger Than Reds

Wilson Sees No Present War Danger

By JAMES BINDER
Associated Press Writer

Former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson says this country, by being too zealous in trying to win the arms race, could do as much as the Soviet Union toward touching off another war.

★ ★ ★

"I think if we attempt to compete with the Russians actively by promoting too much of an arms buildup in our own defense we will contribute as much toward a foreseeable war as the Russians," Wilson said.

★ ★ ★

"I sense we're working ourselves down unnecessarily and scaring too many people," he added.

Wilson said he does not feel the United States is in danger of being attacked at this time.

Asked in an interview at his home in Bloomfield Township if he thought the U. S. could defeat Russia should war break out, Wilson replied: "I do."

Wilson said he favors an increase to 40 billion dollars in defense department appropriations in 1958, nearly the same sum he said he asked for last spring, several months before resigning from the cabinet.

The onetime General Motors Corp. president said the request was whittled to 38½ billion dollars by President Eisenhower, whom he said was faced with public and Congressional demands for a tight budget. Defense funds later were cut to 36 billion dollars.

"I had no quarrel with the President," Wilson said. He added that he never had been criticized by Eisenhower or any cabinet member about his defense policies in general.

BLAMES PEOPLE FOR CUT

"I blame the American people as much as Congress for the cuts," Wilson said. "The public wanted to keep down spending and it made its wishes known through its Congressmen."

He said the scare created by Russia's launching of two earth

Tractor Mishap Kills Area Youth

One freak accident resulting in death to a Rose Center youth marred an otherwise death-free New Year's eve on icy Oakland County roads.

David John Karwoski, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Connie Karwoski of 18132 Buckhorn Lake Rd., was killed shortly before 6 p.m. Tuesday, when the tractor he was driving overturned, pinning him beneath it.

His father told sheriff's deputies he ran to his son's aid but could not free him. He then ran to a friend's home, Anthony Alvarado, of 450 W. Demode Rd., Rose Township, for help.

Alvarado lifted the tractor with a bulldozer, freeing the unconscious boy. Holly Police and an ambulance crew were unable to revive him, said deputies.

He was pronounced dead of suffocation and shock at the scene. His body has been removed to Dreyer's Funeral Home in Holly.

★ ★ ★

The accident occurred on Buckhorn Lake road near Demode road in Rose Township. The youth was driving the tractor alone. His father had gone ahead in the family car.

41 Traffic Deaths Reported at Mid-Point of Holiday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winding past the halfway mark in the traffic countdown, the New Year's holiday auto deaths were running about 60 per cent of the heavy Christmas toll.

The National Safety Council expressed some optimism that their predicted final auto fatality toll of 130 deaths for the 30-hour holiday might not be reached.

With 15 hour tabulations recorded, there were 40 holiday auto deaths throughout the nation. At the same time during the Christmas count, 61 auto deaths were reported.

An Associated Press survey during a nonholiday period from 6 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 10 to midnight Dec. 11 showed 84 traffic deaths, 15 killed in fires and 27 deaths in miscellaneous accidents, an over all total of 126.

New Year holiday traffic deaths have been well under the Christmas toll since World War II. Safety experts say the chief reason is motorists make more long trips during the Christmas period.

Despite snow-covered, hazardous highways almost everywhere and New Year's celebrations only one person was reported killed in Michigan traffic overnight.

C. E. Wilson to Talk in Pontiac Tomorrow

Seven hundred members of some 20 luncheon clubs in the Pontiac area are expected to pack the Elks Temple in Pontiac tomorrow noon to hear former secretary of defense Charles E. Wilson.

Wilson, who lives in Bloomfield Township, will give a talk on an unannounced subject and then open the floor to questions.

Harold A. Fitzgerald, Pontiac Press publisher, will introduce the speaker and act as moderator for the question and answer period.

Temperature to Dip to 10 During Night

Main roads throughout the county are reported clear but side roads are still slippery today according to a report from the Oakland County Road Commission.

Partly cloudy and colder is the prediction for Pontiac tonight with the low dipping to near 10 degrees. Continued cold is the forecast for Thursday.

The lowest thermometer reading preceding 8 a.m. was 17 degrees. The mercury stood at 19 degrees at 1 p.m.

Babson Says: Russia Does Not Want Another War

Slight Decline Seen for Auto Industry, Pontiac in '58

By ROGER W. BABSON

My forecast for 1958 business in Pontiac is not so optimistic as last year's because of the rather dubious outlook for the automotive industry.

First and away, there is the rather unsettling possibility of a major clash between the automobile companies and the union. At best, it appears likely that labor costs will be substantially boosted before the negotiations are ended, which makes it virtually impossible for the producers to avoid further price hikes for most items.

While it is true that many millions of cars are getting close to the replacement stage, it must still be remembered that a period of uncertain business prospects and a weaker stock market will find consumers rather wary.

Hence, I cannot predict quite so good a year for Pontiac during 1958 as in 1957, but I do feel that the decline will be relatively small, probably not more than say, 5 to 7 per cent.

On the credit side will be a few industries that will undoubtedly surpass the 1957 performance: Dairy products, rubber products, electric power, roadbuilding, and public construction. There should be little change from the past year's levels in lacquer, varnish, paint, airline transportation, cement, and grocery and variety-store turnover.

In addition to the doubtful outlook for your various automotive products, I look for mild declines in commercial building, industrial construction, iron, steel, foundry products, and probably department-store sales.

There will be some soft spots in employment, and, of course, a prolonged strike would hit all local enterprises a serious blow.

I am not intending to sound an alarm for Pontiac, but I always feel that it is safer to prepare for the worst,—if only to be pleasantly surprised by something much better.

Next to the Russian situation, President Eisenhower's condition will be of supreme importance. What its influence upon Russia will be, nobody knows. It probably will not affect general business. I believe that for some time our President has not been making important policies and, much to his disappointment, his recommendations have been largely ignored. The major effect of the president's condition will be political.

ROGER W. BABSON

For evident reasons, the Democrats are hoping that Vice-President Nixon will not have an opportunity to function as president before the coming election. Therefore, President Eisenhower's condition could greatly influence the political situation during the next few years.

This would cause uncertainty and retard large corporate expansion programs as well as consumer buying.

I cannot believe that Russia wants World War III; in fact, I am confident that Russia will go to some lengths to avoid World War III.

In case of any retaliation by us, Russia would suffer great losses. Moreover, if Russia has any hope of conquering our country, she certainly wishes to preserve our cities, industries, and other valuable assets. Russia has land enough now; it is our industries which Russia wants. This also applies to England and Western Europe as well as the United States.

Therefore my forecasts for 1958 are as follows:

1. The present cold war will be intensified during 1958. This will increase fear of war, which could greatly affect retail sales.

2. Russian policy will be aimed at securing control of the United States, the countries of Western Europe, and the Middle East by infiltration.

ECONOMY OR INFLATION

3. The cold war costs the United States billions of dollars annually. This can be paid for only through increased taxes or inflation, or by the adoption of the Hoover Commission's recommendations for radical economy.

4. Profits will be further squeezed during 1958, as a result of higher costs and pressure for lower prices.

5. Competition at all levels will increase during 1958.

6. Only more advertising by both manufacturers and retailers will enable them to keep up their present gross volume during 1958.

7. Failures will increase in 1958. These will apply mostly to small concerns, but some one of the big companies in the Dow-Jones Averages may collapse.

8. Predicting a lower total volume of business for 1958, compared with 1957, I forecast a moderately lower trend, on average, for wholesale commodity prices. Expect a gradual decrease in the cost-of-living during 1958.

9. Wise labor leaders will hesitate to fight for higher wages, but will try for shorter hours, pensions, and other "fringes."

10. European countries will have less to spend for American goods,

Employment Hits Eight-Year Low

State's Manufacturing Output Holds Up but Jobs Show Big Dip

DETROIT (AP) — Stepped-up automation in 1957 knocked Michigan manufacturing employment to the lowest point since 1949, the Michigan Employment Security Commission said today in a yearend review.

Describing 1957 as a year of "serious unemployment," Max M. Horton, director of the commission, cited the auto industry as an example of the effect of automation.

The number of cars built in November 1957 was only 2,000 fewer than the number produced in November 1956, he said, but auto factories employed 29,000 fewer workers.

Horton said the monthly average of manufacturing employment in Michigan during 1957 was 1,050,000, a drop of 24,000 from the monthly average in 1956.

The closing or removal of factories and a reduction in defense employment also were cited as factors in cutting down the number of jobs.

At the same time, non-manufacturing employment took up some of the sag. Horton said non-manufacturing employment was 1,285,000, an increase of 10,000 above the 1956 level.

★ ★ ★

Horton reported Michigan's labor force in 1957 totaled 2,933,000. This was a drop of 1,000 from 1956.

Employment in the auto industry stood at a 395,000 average for 1957, the lowest in nine years. Horton said:

Three areas in Michigan were listed as hard hit by unemployment at year's end. They were Detroit with 8 per cent unemployment, Grand Rapids with 7.9 per cent and Muskegon with 10 per cent.

Other areas listed as serious were Monroe, Port Huron, Bay City and Jackson.

Ailing Skelton Calls Greetings to Wife

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Red Skelton, who almost didn't make it into 1958, kept alive a 13-year-old New Year's Eve custom with his wife.

★ ★ ★

"Sick as he is, he talked his doctor into letting him call me at midnight," said Mrs. Georgia Skelton. "We had never been separated before at New Year's, except when he was in the Army, and he wanted this to be a Happy New Year too."

★ ★ ★

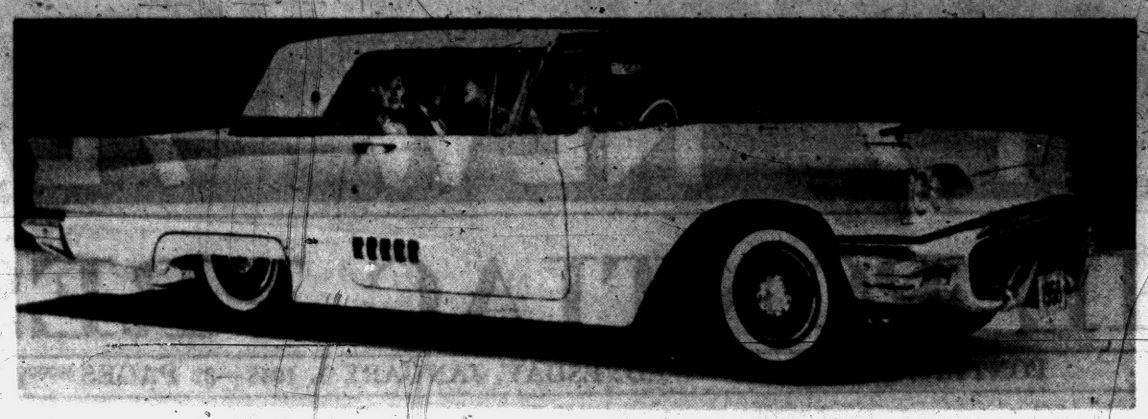

Earlier in the evening Skelton, 44, still under an oxygen tent, watched his TV show, which had previously been filmed. The famed comic had a close brush with death Monday night when a severe asthmatic attack brought on a near heart failure.

★ ★ ★

Adrenalin shots plus the oxygen have eased his condition somewhat. Early today St. John's Hospital reported that Skelton was slightly improved.

"But he's still a very sick man," said Mrs. Skelton.

NEW THUNDERBIRD — Ford's long-awaited four-passenger Thunderbird doubles the seating capacity of the former two-passenger model and has one and a half times the luggage capacity. Yet it is only two feet longer and four inches wider. Ease of entry for all riders is obtained by fold-flat front seats and one of the widest door openings in the industry.

Ford Shows New Thunderbird

Four-Passenger Model Unveiled as New Year Is Ushered In

★ ★ ★

The completely new automobile which will be introduced in Ford dealer-ships later this month retains Thunderbird classic lines. Unitized frame construction made possible maximum interior passenger room and comfort without pretentious exterior bulkiness.

★ ★ ★

Although the new car has twice the passenger-carrying capacity, it is only 24 inches longer and four inches wider.

The Thunderbird is four inches lower than the average of all U.S. luxury cars, but has more room per passenger than any luxury car.

The Thunderbird retains the performance characteristics of the two-passenger model and is powered with a new 300 h.p. engine, including a four-barrel carburetor, fully-machined combustion chambers and free-flow induction.

A full line of power assists—brakes, steering, seats and windows—is available, and buyers have the choice of three transmissions: standard, overdrive and automatic.

Quarles Calls '58 'Year of Promise'

Sees Past Aiding Defense

WASHINGTON (AP)—Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles said today that the results of past weapons research will begin to show in the nation's defenses in 1958.

In a New Year's statement, Quarles said "1958 is a year of promise" and added:

"Many research projects and plans of previous years are becoming realities and will begin to contribute importantly to our national defense posture in the year ahead. In modernizing and streamlining our armed forces we are adding to our arsenal a number of important new weapons, such as the intermediate range ballistic missiles."

Pentagon officials have said they expect production of IRBMs to begin late this year.

Quarles said that Russia's Sputniks and ballistic weapons "pose a challenge that may be a blessing in disguise," adding:

"They have re-alerted the free world to the dangers we must face and have brought national defense back into first place in the minds of our countrymen."

He also said that "all America should look ahead to the coming year with determination and confidence."

In other yearend statements, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) and Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) agreed that 1958 will require important bipartisan decisions which Bridges said "must provide for the survival of this nation at all costs."

Mansfield, acting Senate Democratic leader, said members of both parties in Congress must place "the security of the country ahead of the welfare of their parties."

Bridges, chairman of the Senate GOP policy Committee, agreed in a separate statement that the debate over defense and foreign policies must not be "a glorified soapbox for the promotion of political parties or candidates."

★ ★ ★

Mansfield said both Congress and the President must plan for the future "with courage, confidence and hope," and must "face the facts of life as they are, and not as we would wish them to be."

Quarles also called for a realistic look at the present as well as the future.

"Until that happy day when peace can rest on safeguarded agreements between the nations of the world, security must depend on the forces in being and ready for action," Quarles said, adding:

"Their primary mission is to prevent war."

Wilson Believes We Could Beat Russia

satellites is "out of proportion," and that the Sputniks by themselves do not threaten this country's security.

"But they are indicative of the progress Russia has made as a great industrial nation," Wilson continued, but quickly added he doesn't feel that the United States is "behind" Russia militarily.

Expressing a belief that a balanced national budget is necessary for a "healthy military establishment," Wilson said an increase in the debt limit probably will be necessary this year if Congress approves a 40-billion-dollar defense bill.

He was asked if he agreed with Eisenhower's decision to trim his (Wilson's) budget request for this year.

TEAM PLAYER

"I had to," Wilson said, adding that he was aware of the President's duty to consider "the whole picture" in determining budget needs. "I'm a team player."

Referring to what critics called his "negative attitude" toward basic scientific research while defense secretary, Wilson said he did not feel that it contributed "directly" to the strength of the armed forces.

He conceded that research and development are vital to national security and pointed out that this country is spending three times as much money in this field as it did before the Korean conflict.

"Every department has its own project for development. If they were all approved we would be spending many times as much as we are," he said annual funds for research and development exceeded five billion dollars when he left the cabinet.

He says he still favors interservice competition because "competition among the armed services is good for progress."

Wilson said he has received many letters from citizens since stepping down as defense leader. He cited one which accused him of "bungling" his job of maintaining national security.

"It's only natural when things go wrong for Americans to look for a fall guy or scapegoat," he commented. "If some of them want me to be the goat, it's all right with me."

Youths' Rocket Success—but Where'd It Go?

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP)—A two-stage homemade rocket swooshniked into the desert sky and its five collegiate designers noted with satisfaction that both stages worked.

So successful was the Tuesday firing, in fact, that it introduced a third stage into the experiment. To wit: Finding out where the blooming—rather, blasted — thing landed.

The experimenters—now turned searchers—expressed hope, however, that they would track the rocket head down in the desert and find just how high it went by measuring the angle of ground entry.

history. We have a car that the motoring public wants and we expect to increase our share of the new car market.

"During the past year, when the industry as a whole was in a sales decline, Pontiac's superiority maintained our sales at a level that compared favorably with the previous year. Prospects for 1958 Pontiac sales surpassing those of 1957 are good.

"Competition in 1958 will be intense, but with our bold new line of cars we are extremely well prepared.

"The employment picture here at Pontiac Motor is good. Employment figures at the end of December were on an equal with the average employment figure for the year 1956."

"We are looking forward to 1958 with complete confidence that it will be a good business year," said Monaghan, who also took a look ahead.

"For 1958 we see a potential national and export truck market of at least the same approximate volume, or 1,100,000 units, as we had last year.

"Of the 9¾ million trucks in operation in this country, nearly 1,500,000 are 1946 models or older, which means they are 10½ or more years of age. In fact, there are 785,000 trucks of pre-war vintage—1941 and previous years' models—making them 15½ years or more of age.

"GMC is uniquely able to fulfill the demands of the trucking industry with the finest and most complete line of new trucks it has ever had.

"Customers who already have put our new products into operation are high in their praise of the quality of the units. Our dealer organization is enthusiastic over the 1958 GMC models and is projecting plans for what should be for them full and profitable."

Graham Predicts 2nd Coming of Christ

Challenges Students

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (INS)—Evangelist Billy Graham expressed a belief tonight that the world is witnessing "the last generation before the coming of Christ."

"I'll probably get my toes stepped on for saying this."

Graham did not say who would do the stepping, but he did point out that he had never before made such a prediction publicly.

The world famous evangelist spoke before more than 6,000 persons at the closing session of the inter-varsity student missionary convention. Among them were some 3,000 college students from over the United States and abroad.

Graham told the students:

"I have a feeling in my heart that you and I may be the ones that God has called to evangelize the world in the last generation before the coming of Christ."

He added:

"I do not see how the world can continue at its present pace much longer. I believe the world is descending toward the climactic moment when Christ himself shall descend from Heaven."

The 39-year-old evangelist also said that "Communism is challenging the Christian church as it has never been challenged before." He said Christianity must match the Communists in dedication, discipline and self denial.

Elaborating on the need for a disciplined life, Graham asserted that Americans have gone "sex mad."

"We're taught that morals are relative instead of absolute," he said, "and the country is going the way of Sodom and Gomorrah."

Graham said one girl wrote in a letter to him that she had forgotten how to blush.

The Day in Birmingham

New Year's Eve in City Unmarred by Accidents

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham area celebrated one of its safest and quietest New Year's Eves ever, according to police departments.

Despite bad driving conditions, no accidents were reported.

Birmingham came alive briefly at the stroke of midnight when residents welcomed in the new year with firecrackers, bells and shouts of "Happy New Year."

Approval has been given on the request of Oakland County Department of Public Works for the purchase of Birmingham's old water department billing machine.

Harold K. Schone, director of the county DPW, made an offer of $200, the machine's trade-in price.

Birmingham also has approved Schone's request for handling of the initial billing for the nearly 700 customers supplied by the Farmington Township water system. The county, which recently took over the system, will reimburse the city for all clerical costs.

Eton Skating Rink has goals and brooms and the ice ready for a girls' broom hockey league. However, there aren't any girls, according to the City Recreation Board.

Girls 12 years of age and older interested in this sport should contact Miss Pat Huffmann at the recreation office in the Municipal Building.

Games will be scheduled as soon as enough teams have been formed.

Raymond Wolfenden, 543 Vinewood St., has been named chairman of the March of Dimes division handling canisters and dime boards. He said these silent collectors would make their appearance in Birmingham tomorrow.

"What Parents Should Expect of Junior High School Teachers" will be the topic of Dr. Robert S. Fox, associate professor and director of the University School at the University of Michigan, when he addresses the Derby Junior High School PTA meeting at 8 p.m., Jan. 8.

Dr. Fox, a member of the Michigan Curriculum Planning Committee prior to becoming a U. of M. professor was a teacher, principal, coordinator and educational consultant.

Following the meeting, a social hour will be held, with Mrs. Edward Hewitt in charge.

Brother, Sister Die in Apartment Fire

An inhalator crew revived the oldest Winfield child at the scene, but the other two children were pronounced dead from smoke suffocation at Pontiac General Hospital by Dr. Edward E. Elder Jr., coroner.

The surviving child was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital for observation. He was reported in good condition this morning.

White blamed the fire, which was extinguished in about five minutes, on careless smoking. He said apparently a cigarette had been dropped on a pile of clothes behind the bedroom door and that fire ignited other clothes hanging on the door.

The fire reportedly began around 12:45 this morning. It caused $50 damages to the contents and $100 damages to the building.

Girl in Fair Condition After Car-Truck Crash

A 14-year-old Pontiac girl, Roberta M. Watros, of 850 Orlando Ave., was reported in fair condition this morning at Pontiac General Hospital with a concussion as the result of a car-truck accident at Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake roads early this morning.

The car in which the Watros girl was riding was driven by David F. Bedard, 19, of 1074 Holbrook Dr., Waterford Township. He was treated and released from Pontiac General for facial and leg bruises.

The driver of the truck, William White, of Keego Harbor, told Pontiac Police that his truck was in the intersection when the light turned red and that Bedard's car slid into the side of his truck.

Hiding Whisky in Oven Made Real Excitement

She put a New Year's bottle of whisky in her oven to thwart pre-party nippers yesterday. She forgot it was there and put in a cake. The bottle exploded. The whisky caught fire and casacaded out of the ovem, across the floor and down a heating duct.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Young Mr. 1958 came riding into Michigan on whistling, snow-filled winds and brought a cold wave with him which U. S. forecasters say will stay at least through Friday.

Snowfall measured up to seven or eight inches in spots, and practically all areas got at least a ground-covering last night. Winds piled the new snow in drifts in some regions, particularly the northwestern sections of the Lower Peninsula.

Thermometers tumbled into the 20s or lower downstate and were expected to stay there all day, then skid to 6 to 10 degrees tonight. A high of 8 to 12 was the outlook for the Upper Peninsula today, with zero to 6 forecast tonight and a high between 10 and 16 tomorrow.

The prediction for the top of the Lower Peninsula is 2 to 8 tonight.

Snow, general overnight, was expected to break up into flurries today. The wind range was expected to be 25 to 35 miles an hour in the Lower Peninsula and 18 to 24 m.p.h. in the Upper Peninsula.

The Friday outlook: Partly cloudy and not quite so cold, with a chance of scattered snow flurries.

State Police headquarters at East Lansing said reports indicated highways were snow-covered and hazardous throughout the state, although main thoroughfares were open.

Grand Rapids reported 7 to 8 inches of new snow on a 4-inch base already aground there, and an overnight low of around the 20-degree mark.

Traverse City and Cadillac both reported 5-inch overnight snowfalls with winds drifting it today. Traverse City got a 17-degree reading.

Port Huron got only a light blowing snow behind rain, which winds quickly dried out. It also got a low of 17 overnight. Saginaw reported 5 inches of new snow there.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Which is heavier, cold air or warm air?

Cold air is heavier than warm, as most people know. Cold air is denser. The principle of warming air to fill a balloon, which will then rise, is well known.

Not as well understood is the characteristic of warm and cold fronts steming from this weight factor. A cold front slides over the earth's surface, leading edge hugging the surface, slanting backward.

The warm front's leading warm air is high, the frontal edge leaning forward. This allows the keen observer to spot an approaching warm front by detecting the leaning high cirrus clouds that move in from the west.

New Education Concept Seen

Too Much Emphasis Put on Adjustment, Noted Scientist Feels

BOULDER, Colo. (INS) — A prominent scientist has offered a radical concept of education to replace the current school aim of educating children to adjust to their society.

Dr. R. N. Thomas, consultant to the director of the National Bureau of Standards laboratories in Boulder, Colo., said the school should now aim at producing students who will adjust society to the natural world of which it is a part.

Declared the astrophysicist:

"Let's underplay this emphasis on adjustment. It's far better to develop neuroses through thinking about the problems we have than to feed on tranquilizers to put them out of thought and thus assure ourselves that we live in the best of all possible worlds."

Man, according to Dr. Thomas, has a three-fold approach to the world — to survive, to shape his environment to his comfort and to satisfy his curiosity about the world.

He said a realistic education program assumes the need to teach technological skills needed for survival, but recognizes a greater challenge to be the survival of the individual by developing intellectual curiosity, drive and discernment.

Opposing what he terms the perversion of the term "democracy" in education, Dr. Thomas believes equality of opportunity should not be confused with equality of the end product.

He said emphasis on so-called democracy in the schools prevented the development of separate curricula for different careers at the secondary school level.

He called for separation of educational programs for students going into the professions from those of pupils destined of technical or trade careers.

Junior Editors Quiz on NEW YEAR'S

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: It was nearly 2000 years ago that Julius Caesar decreed the use of a calendar very much like the one used today. It was based on the calculation that it takes the earth 364½ days to go once around the sun. That's not quite correct and the slight error has since been fixed. But just because the people we know celebrate New Year's on our January 1 does not mean that everybody does or always has. Any number of calendars have been used by different peoples. Many were based not on the earth's journey around the sun but on the moon's course around the earth. As a result, "New Year" has been celebrated not only in mid-winter, but at the start of spring, at mid-summer, and other times.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Here is an ornament to top off a fancy paper cap you may wear on New Year's at a party or at home. One face represents the old year, one the new. Color both brightly with crayons. Cut them out and paste on colored paper. For a cap, fold a piece of green paper double, and use the 3-cornered piece as a pattern to cut it out. Slash the corner as indicated to form a tassel. Paste the lower edge of one piece along the top of each face. Now paste the old face on the front of your party cap and the young face on the back. Reverse the cap and start the new year with a new face.

Puts Friends in Key Posts

Khrushchev Reshuffle On

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Among the changes in the higher ranks is the release of Ekaterina Furtseva, only woman in the party Presidium, from her duties as chief of the Moscow City party organization to concentrate on her work in the party secretariat.

She has been replaced in the powerful post by V. I. Ustinov, of whom little is known by foreign observers in Moscow.

It is regarded as a promotion for Madame Furtseva, but also a promotion for Ustinov since the Moscow post has been a stepping-stone to the all-powerful post of first secretary of the party. Both Stalin and Khrushchev held the post.

In another important change Frol Kosloy, who was first secretary of the Leningrad Regional Communit Party Committee, has become chairman of the council of ministers of the Russian Federal Republic.

★ ★ ★

Other changes indicate a strengthening at the top. They are the appointments of new Central Committee secretaries, including Nikolai Ignatov, Alexi Kirichenko, and Nuritdin A. Mukhitdinov.

YOUTH BOOSTED

The quick rise of some younger persons to top party ranks appears to be deliberate policy. It also appears that those affected are all close to Khrushchev, represent more "brain power" at his disposal, and will be more easily available to him for administrative drives.

Khrushchev has purged most of the old Bolshevik leaders of the Stalin era. He has decentralized industry, and called for a big production surge to try to overtake the United States in per capita industrial and agricultural output.

His is a bold aim and he needs loyal party leaders of ability in the drive to industrialize the Far Eastern steppes and tundra regions.

Changes in the party apparatus, especially in the secretariat which governs daily operations, often have been linked in the past with economic developments.

Another type of change which has been occurring is the "peaceful administrative cleanup" in some local party organizations. Pravda disclosed that the premier and first secretary of the Tatar Republic and Red Party have been released from their posts because of "liberal tendencies and refusal to accept criticism."

This type of change apparently will continue throughout the winter in preparation for the spring elections.

Allen Trial to Open

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — The trial of Richard Allen, who pleaded innocent Monday in Superior Court to a murder charge, is scheduled to open Thursday, according to court clerk Harold Lehman. Allen, 36, was charged in the Nov. 3 death of Albert Mason, 34, a victim of smoke in the second floor of a two-story dwelling damaged by fire. Prosecutor Stuart Hoffius says Allen has admitted starting the fire.

American Drivers Hit Some Crazy Things Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans drove themselves into some freakish situations in 1957.

A 62-year-old Royal Oak, Mich., woman, en route to apply for a drivers permit, sideswiped a parked car and sheared off a utility pole. So her driving days ended before they began.

A 14-year-old lass in Baton Rouge, La., steered herself into a bit of trouble, too. Making her first sally in the family car she proceeded to score one sideswiping, one broadside smash and one back-up poke of another car. She then got out and walked away.

NOT ALL WOMEN

But the women drivers didn't hog the zany honors. At Oswego, N. Y., a man who thought his brakes might need checking found his suspicion to be correct when his car smashed through the service station door.

A 72-year-old Grand Rapids Mich., oil executive took a wrong turn at Norfolk, Va., one night and found himself shooting down the new 60-million-dollar Hampton Roads bridge-tunnel. His car was the first to make the crossing — an honor that was to have been the governor's a couple of days later.

Truck driver Ed Thompson of Stamford, Conn., had bridge difficulties of another kind. His assignment was to deliver a 16,000-pound statue of Simon Bolivar from New York to Washington, a trip that normally takes about six hours. It took Thompson four days. The statue, it turned out, was too high to clear several low-span bridges, necessitating a backwoods route to Washington.

GUESS WHOSE CAR?

A Salt Lake City woman couldn't open her car door, so she asked a male passerby to lend a helping hand. He, too, tried the key without success. Whereupon the woman suggested he break the window to open the door from the inside. 'Twas done and inside she made the discovery: the cat wasn't hers.

A vehicle of a different sort gave a Memphis, Tenn., woman a broken nose, two black eyes and facial cuts. She fell from a speeding tricycle driven by her three-year-old son.

With so much of this sort of thing occurring on the ground the Civil Aeronautics Board decided last week this is no time to think of establishing passenger travel service into outer space. Accordingly, it turned down the interplanetary application of Terminal Transpost, Inc., of Atlanta.

Fuel Values Show Increase

Mineral Output Up in '57

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mineral output in this country had a record value of $18,300,000,000 during 1957, Secretary of the Interior Seaton reported yesterday.

The Bureau of Mines preliminary production report for the year showed the value was up more than three-quarters of a billion dollars from the 1956 figure of 17½ billion dollars but said:

"The 1957 increase was due almost entirely to higher values for the mineral fuels, particularly crude oil and natural gas, which were large enough to offset declines in production for most other minerals as well as sharp drops in base-metal prices.

"Anthracite, cement, gypsum, phosphate rock, bauxite, chromite, and tungsten all declined in both production and value.

"In contrast, helium, barite, diatomite, cobalt, mercury, ilmenite and uranium all registered substantial production and value gains."

It was estimated that the production of nonmetallic minerals had a value of $16,202,000,000 this year, with fuels making up $32,732,000,000 of the total. The comparative 1956 figures were $15,126,000,000 and $11,711,000,000.

★ ★ ★

The value of metals ore production was put at $2,084,000,000 this year, a drop from $2,357,000,000 in 1956.

South Africa Aids Young Film Industry

PRETORIA, S. Africa — South Africa's Cabinet has decided to aid that country's young film industry, Pretoria reports.

★ ★ ★

Only 35 m.m. feature films released after April 1, 1956, will be eligible. Assistance will take the form of a refund of entertainment tax on the exhibition of such films. The amount refunded on each film will not exceed $28,000, or 50 per cent of the production cost, whichever is lower.

★ ★ ★

To be eligible a film must be one in which at least 75 per cent of the wages and other expenditures were paid to South Africans. And the producing company must be in South Africa.

Newspapers Maintain Check on Government

Autocracy simply means that a few men rule precisely as they please without reference to the good, the desires or the welfare of the people at large.

★ ★ ★

New Year's is a good time to reappraise this general situation. The Press is glad to tell its readers that newspapers everywhere are waging an incessant battle against the "hush-hush" boys who seek to spread the cloak of secrecy over the things they do.

★ ★ ★

Practically all branches of government are guilty to some extent. And we grant there are probably times when the newspapers are "too nosy" and stick an unwanted proboscis into places where they really have no business. Still, THE PRESS will always contend that too great curiosity is better for the general public's protection than any grade of laxity.

★ ★ ★

Eternal newspaper vigilance is the thing that stands between the general public and wrongdoing. In following this procedure, the newspapers are merely defending the people's "right to know." That right is inalienable, whether officeholders like it or not.

★ ★ ★

Hence, when newspapers are fighting for information, they aren't fighting their own private and personal battles. They're fighting for the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker.

★ ★ ★

Federal officeholders are the worst offenders and their activities have been heightened by the use and abuse of the magic phrase "classified." This means "top secret," and it has been applied to entirely too many things. The privilege is flagrantly abused.

The people are helpless to protect themselves for they lack the means. The newspapers must fight for them.

★ ★ ★

The press generally recognizes this and is perfectly willing to do battle. Some officeholders insist reporters have a chip on their shoulders and are willing to fight just for the sake of fighting. We concede there has probably been a bit of this. But a little of that is infinitely better than professional timidity.

★ ★ ★

A Senate Constitutional Rights committee under Hennings has been studying the matter for a year and finds two provisions in the general code behind which officeholders hide. They propose to clarify these.

The battle isn't to "help newspapers."

Fluoridation Is Given Stronger Endorsement

As subsequent events seem to prove, it's a highly desirable thing. The American Medical Association endorsed it five or six years ago and now it comes out with a more enthusiastic stamp of approval.

The Dental Association embraces the move warmly and calls attention to the A.M.A.'s reaffirmation of a previous belief. Public Health Authorities are enthusiastic. There are more than 35,000,000 people drinking fluoridated water in America right now.

Unfortunately, Pontiac isn't included.

We lost out.

★ ★ ★

Probably those who waged the good fight for right and justice in behalf of the children the first time are short of enthusiasm for a return engagement. A forward looking, constructive move was beaten. Vaccination and other medical advances had to fight against the same kind of reactionaries. Progress often faces an uphill fight.

★ ★ ★

Some time ago a letter in the Voice of the People suggested that the people who deprived Pontiac children of this modern protection should volunteer now to rectify their mistake by reintroducing the subject.

There's some logic in this.

Man Behind This Column Extending His Greetings

1958: When it's difficult to forget to write it 1957.

On this first day of 1958 I wish to thank the thousands who have contributed to this column during 1957. If it has been readable, they are entitled to the credit. I simply put it together. Anybody could do that. A charitable employer and YOU make this column possible.

Keep the good things coming. Anything in the unusual, anything that will make somebody happy will be appreciated. Whether they live in Bloomfield Hills or on a road so far back that even the public utilities have not found it, it's news for this column.

The more humble they are the more I want items about them. I live in a small 5-room house on a side street, never even went very far in high school, and never to college, so can speak their language, and don't want to speak any other.

More than 3,000 qualified for my verbal orchids (wedded 50 years or more or 80 years or more of age) the past year. You gave them to me. One grand old lady of 92 thrilled me when she wrote that that was the first time she had ever seen her name in print. Let's make it 5,000 in 1958.

Entries in my baseball and football contests in 1957 totaled over 5,000. This number has a prolific growth from year to year, with no publicity outside of this column. I hope that every reader will be found among the 1958 good sports who enter these contests. There's bonds in 'em.

The swellest dinner for the whole family, at our favorite eating place, goes to the person (on the Press staff or outside) whom I consider to have been the biggest help to me through 1958. So, give me your items, and whet your appetite. Happy New Year.

Saw Self, Russia, Universe in Perspective

'57 Gave Little Guy a Global Look

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The little guy, any little guy going home after New Year's Eve, looking back on 1957, thought to himself: "I'm glad I'm getting out of it. It's been the most uncomfortable year of my life."

It was the year in which he felt, for the first time in his life, that from now on until he died he would never know what to expect next.

He had lived through a war, full of uncertainty, never sure of the outcome til the last shot. But 1957 was different from war, different from anything. All of a sudden he was in a new world, a world he never made.

And he didn't feel prepared for it.

He'd always remember that October night when he was watching a TV show and it was interrupted with an announcement that the Russians had sent up a satellite that was circling the earth.

SOON LEARNED

He didn't realize right away what it meant. He soon did, though. For days and weeks the papers were full of it and he knew they'd be writing about it from now on as long as he lived: Sputniks and missiles.

★ ★ ★

It was the missiles that got him and made him feel left behind.

Missiles hitting the moon some day, or spanning an ocean. In time spacemen and missiles peeping in on Venus and Mars and maybe things beyond.

In his mind's eye he could see human beings climbing the mountains of the moon and returning.

It made him feel stupid. "Where have I been while all this was going on? he asked himself.

More than that bothered him. It was as if a whole new race of men-scientists and engineers had taken over the earth and the future.

He wondered why it never occurred to him to think in terms like that or to study to be one of them. But that wasn't all that happened to him in 1957.

MADE HIM HUMBLE

It was the year in which he felt more humble and understood better than ever, because it was forced on him, that people have brains no matter where they are or what tag they wear.

He meant the Russians. For years he had been sniggering at the Russian Communists. Loudmouths, he thought. Second-raters, he used to tell himself. They couldn't last, he told himself.

Now suddenly he found the Russians, within 40 years of their revolution, catching up with the United States, getting ahead in some things. This was a new world to him in a lot of ways.

He felt a new and deeper respect for the ability of mankind, wherever it was. He hoped mankind would deserve the respect and not try to outsmart itself and blow itself off the earth altogether with its new wisdom.

He knew the earth and planets had been lonely before man arrived. There was a chance, if man didn't watch out, they'd be lonely again.

But the little guy hoped he'd be around a long time, just to see what did happen.

"It's not what we've done that makes us feel tired so much as seeing so many things that need doing."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Stomach, Arteries, Heart Depend on Vitamin B

Physiologically, vitamin B maintains the tone of involuntary muscle through the body. Therefore it is tonic to the stomach and intestine, the heart and the arteries.

Tone means firmness, elasticity, functional efficiency.

★ ★ ★

Most of the calories in the diet of most Americans today come from refined white flour and refined white sugar. Nutrition and health authorities agree that this diet supplies insufficient vitamin B to maintain the tone of involuntary muscle in the stomach, intestine, heart and arteries.

DR. BRADY

Wheat from which nothing is removed in grinding, milling or refining, is the richest food source of vitamin B.

Ready for distribution are fifty thousand pamphlets Wheat to Eat. I wish I could hand one to every reader of this piece. Of course that is not possible. But I'll be happy to send one to any reader who asks for it and provides a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MAY TAKE TIME

I do not mean to imply that restoring wheat to your everyday diet in place of part of the refined white flour and refined white sugar on which you now subsist will immediately give you good circulation and good digestion. But I do assure you that your earnest efforts in this direction can do no harm.

One of my peculiar notions is that an optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex (two or three times as much vitamin as nutrition authorities believe necessary to prevent manifestations of nutritional deficiency disease) plus the other vitamins that grow with B1 and a little manganese and iron gluconate, gives many victims of real or iatrogenic (doctor-caused) weak heart the tonic effects they only hope to get from digitalis.

Foolproof heart tonic, I call it. If you would like more information about this send me 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope for the booklet CVD, about heart and artery troubles.

This same optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex is not medicine and not a cure-all, but essential food which you should take daily the year around. And so I consider it a must for any one with constipation habit or deranged colon (otherwise called spastic colon or "mucous colitis.")

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Says Smoking Shortens Lifespan

Howard has a true scientist's way of thinking. He wants to know WHY tobacco seems to cause such a high increase in coronary attacks. So save this detailed case. And indulge in the forced, deep breathing strategy mentioned below, for it can often tip the scales in favor of life vs. death during the first five minutes after a heart attack.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I must be mechanically minded," he began with a smile, "for I like to know specifically how and why tobacco shortens a person's life span.

DR. CRANE

"For example, the American Cancer Society's report tells us a smoker not only is in 10 times the danger of lung cancer, but also has a 70 per cent greater chance of a coronary ailment.

"Now just how does tobacco disturb the coronary arteries and damage the heart?"

MEDICAL FAX

The lining of our blood vessels becomes irritated as a result of smoking.

Any irritation inside the body is much like irritation on the skin. If you have rubbed against poison ivy or have any other type of dermatitis, you will recall that the skin gets red.

That means more blood is in the area, including more white corpuscles and small fibers that form scar tissue.

The inner wall of the arteries likewise gets thicker from the irritation. Those tiny thread-like fibers invade the area and weave a thicker scar coating in what was formerly the rubbery artery wall.

As a result, the artery suffers two bad effects. First, it grows thicker and reduces its inner diameter. This limits the amount of blood that it can handle.

Second, it is no longer as elastic, so it can't stretch properly at the peak of every heart beat.

To help offset these mechanical effects the heart begins to enlarge in size to permit it to shove the blood through those smaller, scarred arteries at a faster rate.

For your blood must make its accustomed circuit in the same time, even though the pipes are smaller. This obviously demands higher blood pressure.

BLOOD PRESSURE

A timid teen-ager may have his blood vessels shrink quickly as he blanches with fear.

This is purely a nervous reaction. The tiny vessels in the skin get smaller because there are circular muscles wrapped around them. And these muscles go into spasm, due to fear.

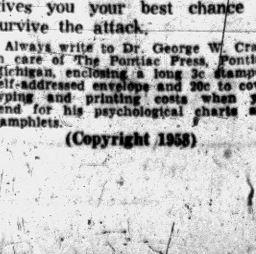

But the dangerous tobacco type of reduction in the size of the vessels is a permanent thing. It is organic, not psychological.

Since your heart must constantly beat against this higher blood pressure, day and night, you tend to wear out your heart faster than the non-smoker.

But another danger is always present when your arteries get narrow due to chemical thickening.

Suppose a tiny blood clot from a varicose vein in your leg, should pull lose and get swept along in your blood stream.

If it happens to get stuck in a capillary of the liver or kidney, as it is more likely to do, you may feel no ill effects.

WHY CORONARY ATTACKS

But if it plays the 1,000 to 1 shot and flows down one or the other of your two coronary arteries, then beware!

★ ★ ★

For it may be so big it finally gets stuck. That immediately causes the so-called heart attack. A part of the heart muscle is now figuratively strangled. It no longer gets oxygen and food.

The heart then breaks its rhythm and tries to compensate by beating faster. If the strangled area on the heart wall is very small, you can recover. If it is larger than a dime, beware!

But if you do suffer an attack, indulge in rapid, forced deep breathing for this enrichens the oxygen content of the blood and gives you your best chance to survive the attack.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Asks Higher Qualifications for Congressional Offices

The more I think about it the more I realize how poorly trained for their jobs most of our Congressmen are. What other occupation of any responsibility requires only a certain age, citizenship and a good personality?

We depend on Representatives and Senators to make decisions for which they are almost totally unqualified to make, and in many cases, ordinary businessmen and workers would be more capable.

It's time we amended our Constitution so that certain qualifications of education and experience are mandatory.

'Let's Give Them Some Prestige'

Some psychologist said the other day that anyone who volunteers to go into outer space will not be normal.

I don't know what he means by normal, but wouldn't it be better to try to build up such people rather than tear them down? Our future depends on such volunteers, and we need more people who are willing to sacrifice for the benefit of mankind.

Let's give them a little prestige instead of making them look like wierdies. Maybe a few of those radical psychologists should be the first to go.

Martin Sees Fight Ahead Over Reciprocal Trade

WASHINGTON (INS) — House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin claims extension of the Reciprocal Trade Law will provide Congress with the hottest legislative fight of the coming session.

The Massachusetts lawmaker said in an interview that he believes it will be amended if it gets through Congress at all.

Martin also foresaw difficulty for the foreign aid program and farm legislation in the session that starts next Tuesday.

The trade law, which gives the President authority to lower tariffs on imports of foreign-made products in exchange for similar concessions abroad, expires June 30, 1958, unless extended by Congress. The administration is seeking a five-year extension.

Legislatively speaking, it will be "the hottest fight of all," Martin said.

TWO VITAL ISSUES

He said he believes keeping the world at peace and keeping out of either inflation or deflation are the two biggest issues facing Congress as it prepares to begin its deliberations.

★ ★ ★

"We'll have to do a lot of tightrope walking," he said, adding: "We will need a lot of skill and bold leadership to keep on an even keel."

The GOP leader quickly continued that he believes President Eisenhower is doing a good job maintaining the balance and said: "I think he's got the brains and will to keep the equilibrium."

In other points, Martin:

—Spiked occasional rumors that he might not seek re-election, and said he "definitely" will be a candidate for an 18th term in the House.

—Expects the debt ceiling will have to be raised above the present legal limit of 275 billion dollars even if tax receipts go up as expected.

—Believes lawmakers will vote additional missile development money without any hesitation.

—Predicted Congress will increase postal rates and will increase salaries of both federal and postal employes as well as the armed forces.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

We're starting 1958 as clean as a nurse's cap. We admit we still have some pessimists who are afraid everything is going to be all right.

Biggest thing we have to remember is government is not a one-man street car. Let's start the bi-partisan year right by listening to what the other fellow has to say after we say it.

Adlai's guided orbit proved beyond the slightest corroboration that the Democrats have a voice in government. It runs the chromatic scale from sotto to whatto.

The Democrats rate a six-mike spokesman on more than a coat-to-coat hookup. It was John Knox of Scotland who demanded a voice in his country's affairs by reason of being born within same.

Adlai, Averell and Estes are all born within same. They are entitled to their day in court. Why should everything be as one-way as Niagara?

Denver Man Invents Sun Deflector for Car

Rueben G. Sandberg, a 53-year-old stock clerk, has received a patent on a sun deflector looking something like a honeycomb. Fastened to the sun visor of a car, it eliminates glare while allowing free vision to the driver.

Tax Boys Called On to Spell 'Immediately'

ROSWELL, N. M. (AP) — An Internal Revenue Service agent tells of a Roswell woman who called the office and asked, "How do you spell 'immediately'?"

"After I told her," he said, "I asked why she called us to ask such a thing.

"She answered, 'If anyone in town would know, you people would!'"

Instructor Works Along With Boys

LOUISA, Va. (AP) — E. M. Pennington, Jr., vocational agriculture teacher here for 23 years, has some ideas about success in his work. He says he doesn't have a teacher-pupil relationship with his boys, he works along with them. He also tries to gain the confidence of their families.

"I guess there isn't a farm kitchen in Louisa I haven't eaten in," he said. "But I wouldn't be caught dead in the parlor."

Bill Makes Big Splash

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A water bill upset the girls at the Kappa Delta house at the University of Oklahoma. The bill was for $15,730,015, considerably higher than the normal charge. A quick trip to City Hall corrected the error and reduced the bill considerably more than 15 million dollars.

Dedicated to Win War on Disease

Salk Regards Research as His 'Social Obligation'

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

The extension of Dr. Jonas E. Salk's research into cancer — and possibly other dread diseases — should come as no surprise.

★ ★ ★

When his polio vaccine was proclaimed effective in 1955, the test-tube thin scientist made it plain that he wanted to win wars against disease, not battles alone.

Now it is apparent that Dr. Salk had embarked on a new research era even before the polio one has come to a close. The lights are on late at night once more in his University of Pittsburgh laboratory.

There are probably nights again when slim Donna Salk doesn't see her husband until after supper and perhaps not until after the three Salk sons have gone to bed.

★ ★ ★

For almost coldly, Dr. Salk regards his work as a job to be done, a "social obligation," no matter how much time it takes. Inside, he is thinking, of course, of the suffering to be alleviated — or prevented.

SON OF IMMIGRANTS

Jonas Edward Salk was born Oct. 28, 1914 in New York City of humble immigrant parents. He was a 15-year-old freshman at City College when he took his first science course — "just out of curiosity."

★ ★ ★

That curiosity has taken him a long way.

The scientists' incisiveness shows in his conversation as well as in his thinking. Questioned about his work, he replies in rapid sentences aimed at the point of the inquiry. He rarely fumbles for the right word or thought.

GIVES AIDES CREDIT

The balding scientist still takes great pains to make certain that his assistants, and other scientists who did the spadework, get due credit.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Salk married Donna Lindsay, a social worker, in 1939. Their three children are Darrell, 10; Peter, 13; and Jonathan, 7.

When he has time, Dr. Salk likes nothing better than hiking with his boys or spending a few hours out of doors, exploring nature's haunts.

Now and again, he and his wife may take in one of the concerts by the Pittsburgh Symphony at Syria Mosque.

★ ★ ★

But if you were to ask Dr. Salk about his hobbies, he would probably say as he has in the past: working from "before dawn until after dusk."

Mineral Rights Exclude Sand

Judge Rules Gravel Also Not Sold When State Sells Land

ROSCOMMON (AP) — Sand and gravel are not included in mineral rights retained by the State Conservation Department when it sells land to private individuals, Circuit Judge John C. Shaffer ruled here yesterday.

"If the state can take the gravel, it can take the sand," he said in his eight-page ruling. "What then is left of this or any other northern Michigan land sold for agricultural purposes?"

The ruling was made in a suit brought by Howard E. Matthews and Rose E. Matthews to clear title to 40 acres in Nestor Township, Roscommon County, which they bought from the State Conservation Department in November 1938.

Judge Shaffer dismissed a Conservation Department cross-bill asking $4,350 for gravel sold off the tract by the Matthews or replacement of the gravel.

The judge ruled that the Conservation Department, in retaining ownership of mineral rights on state land sold to private individuals, had deed only to metallic minerals, oil, coal and gas on the land.

Farm Economics Topic of Talk

Independence Meeting to Feature MSU Expert as Speaker

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—Predictions of farming conditions between now and 1965 and what today's farmer can do to cut expenses and improve his income will be discussed at the annual Barnyard Economics meeting sponsored by the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

John C. Doneth, agricultural economist specialist at Michigan State University, will be the guest speaker at the meeting to be held Jan. 9 at Independence Township Hall on M-15 in Clarkston. The meeting begins at 8 p.m.

Wives as well as husbands are invited to the open meeting said Jay Poffenberger, assistant Oakland County agricultural agent.

Information based on actual farms will be projected to show what the farm business will look like by 1965. Farm business standards will be discussed to indicate the wide range which exists between farms today. Comparison of farm organization, soil and crops, livestock, investments and expenses also will be presented by Doneth.

Annexation Increases East Lansing by Half

EAST LANSING (AP) — East Lansing increasen its geographical size by one half and jumps its population from 22,000 to 26,000, effective at midnight.

That is the efective time of annexation of more than two square miles voted several weeks ago. It represents the city's largest single expansion since its incorporation 50 years ago.

★ ★ ★

The area being annexed, consisting of about 11,000 acres, is the former Marble school district plus about 95 acres north of the Whitehills Estates subdivision.

Grandville Election Set

GRANDVILLE (AP)— City commissioners of this Kent County community have approved a proposal for an April 7 vote on authorization of a charter revision and on the election of nine charter commissioners, according to city Supt. Bernard Passage.

Hal Boyle Says:

America Saw 'Top of World' Living in 1957

NEW YORK (AP)—Has the long national postwar joyride come to an end?

That thought perhaps is uppermost today in the minds of millions of Americans who will pause in their holiday cheer and try to weigh the old year gone and the new year dawning.

To the average American, of course, it hasn't seemed exactly a 12-year ride on a merry-go-round. It just has looked that way to the rest of the world which, less fortunate, tends to think of all Americans as people with pockets of 24-carat gold.

PROSPERITY AT PEAK

The ordinary American does realize that since the end of World War II he has probably enjoyed the widest and deepest-reaching prosperity of any great nation in history.

But that fact doesn't seem as dramatic to him as it does to the envious citizens of less blessed lands.

What has the national prosperity meant to him? He has been aware of it in small ways.

He has had to worry less about losing his job. His pay has been going up fairly steadily. He has been able to start buying a more expensive house than he was raised in himself. He has been able to buy an extra suit now and then, make down payments on gadgets such as washing machines to please his wife, and to take the family on nicer vacations.

But money has remained a problem to the average man, as it always has and always will. His pockets may jingle with silver, but they don't clink with gold.

HE HAS WORRIES

Lately, he has noticed prices have gone higher, and that worries him. He is also worried perhaps because a neighbor down the street lost his job and hasn't been able to find a new one.

Will the erosion of inflation cut deeper into his savings in 1958? Will his job be safe? The depth of his uneasiness probaby depends upon whether he is middle-aged and remembers hard times, or whether he is young and doesn't.

But he is cheered by the prediction of many economists that the American economy will make an up-turn by midyear.

What about the possiblity of a real peace? The endless international crises that have arisen in the last dozen years, each hailed as more threatening than the last, have finally come to numb the average American. He no longer feels panicky about them—just puzzled and watchful. How can he feel otherwise, when each new sun seems to bring a fresh crisis?

TYPICAL REACTION

His most typical reaction to the international situation is probably this: "This thing may not be bigger than all of us put together—but it sure is bigger than me."

★ ★ ★

The thing that upset him most, certainly, was the fact that Russia threw two new Sputniks into the sky while his own merely fizzled on the ground — and the world laughed.

★ ★ ★

That annoyed him, particularly the world laughter, but it had a good effect on him. It helped destroy a myth of his own making—that American ingenuity inevitably comes up first with the best. It woke him up to the peril of those who low-rate a potential enemy and take their own superiority for granted.

Entering 1958, the average American had no reason to feel smug — but ven less reason to feel downhearted.

And he had many reasons to fee grateful. He still enjoyed the highest standard of living on the globe, he had a job, a family at peace, and he was fully awake at last to the need of doing more to preserve the national security.

★ ★ ★

He could look north, east, south and west — this average American — and see no stranger in a strange land luckier, freer, or better off than himself.

THE BERRYS By Carl Grubert

What Is Space—How Thick Is It?

Earth's Blanket of Air Extends Incredibly Far, Gradually Thinning

WASHINGTON — Science's success in sending manned balloons, rockets, and now an artificial moon into the earth's upper atmosphere raises an age-old question: What and where is space?

★ ★ ★

The phrase "outer space" is commonly and erroneously used in connection with the edge of the earth's protective blanket of air. In proper usage, outer space means the incredibly distant reaches among stars and galaxies.

Properly speaking, space begins at the limits of the earth's atmosphere. The thickness of the gradually thinning blanket of air is not known. It may be several thousand miles — or far less.

As yet, man has climbed only some 20 miles from the ground. Rockets have belched to 250 miles. The Russian satellite shot into its orbit at a reported height of 560 miles. The mysterious ocean of true space lies beyond.

COLD, SILENT VOID

In popular fancy, space is a cold and silent void, inky black except for the steady white blaze of stars. Now and then a huge meteor roars through the eternal night, trailing a skirt of flame.

★ ★ ★

Actually, scientists remind science-fiction fans, space is nothing. Being nothing, it is neither hot nor cold. The molecules in space are too rare to give it any temperature at all.

Any meteoroid that one might meet in space would not roar or flame. For space has no atmosphere to carry sound or make a moving object incandescent. Only atmosphere can turn a speeding meteoroid—most are smaller than a grain of sand — into a meteor or dazzling "shooting star."

Space, by earth's standards, is a vacuum. But it is not empty. Scientists believe it holds a very thin gas made of scattered molecules.

5 LAYERS OF SPACE

Containing nitrogen, oxygen, argon, carbon dioxide, and traces of other gases, atmosphere is divided into layers — the troposphere where we live, the stratosphere, chemosphere, ionosphere, and exosphere.

★ ★ ★

Sandwiched in the troposphere and stratosphere is 99 per cent of our air mass. Virtually all life is concentrated in the former, which has an average height of about 10 miles at the Equator and five miles at the Poles. Above it, extending to a ceiling of about 20 miles, is the serene stratosphere where jet planes leave their vapor trails.

★ ★ ★

The remainder of the earth's air mass lies in the 30-mile-deep chemosphere, where atoms undergo chemical changes; in the ionosphere, the 200-mile belt of rarefied air where particles are ionized or electrically charged; and the exosphere, a vaguely defined borderland where the last vestiges of atmosphere gasses thin out finally into space proper.

The Douglas fir is named in honor of David Douglas, a Scottish botanist, who is said to have introduced the tree into Europe in about 1827.

Dad's School Record Still Safe From Son

MONTICELLO, Ark. (INS) — At least one student at Arkansas A and M college has learned the lesson of how to do research.

★ ★ ★

The young man marched into the registrar's office and asked to see the record his father made while attending the school.

★ ★ ★

"But, why?" asked Registrar Clara Willis. The student smiled. "Because," he said, "dad claims to have made straight A's."

Registrar Willis turned down the request. She explained that it is against the rules to show a person's grades without his permission.

Babson Sees Slight Drop in Auto Industry in '58

MONEY OUTLOOK

11. Money will continue to be "tight" during 1958 for new borrowers who have not established a satisfactory line of credit.

12. Owing to declining demands for funds, interest rates will decline in 1958.

13. Concerns with large numbers of employes will receive first consideration both by banks and by the government.

14. For fear of World War III, and due to declining business, many plans for expansion of plants will be postponed.

15. Money rates may be "fixed" during 1958 by an economic dictator.

16. Lower money rates will make it easier to sell long-term bonds during 1958.

MORE TAX-FREE BONDS

17. The supply of non-taxable state, municipal, turnpike, and other "Authority" bonds will increase during 1958.

18. I forecast higher prices for many corporation bonds.

19. Investors will continue, during 1958, to switch from stocks to attractive bond issues; fear of war will rule all markets.

20. Bankers will fear that the government—as a part of the cold war—will appoint a dictator to direct the policies of all national banks, the leading stock exchanges, and investment dealers.

LABOR OUTLOOK

21. There will be a general fear that the government—as a part of the cold war—will fix wages in many industries and prevent further increases during 1958.

22. The revelations brought about by the investigation of the Teamsters Union may lead to important new labor legislation.

23. The Taft-Hartley Law will not be repealed in 1958, and may be made more severe. Much, however, will depend upon President Eisenhower's physical and mental condition.

24. Congressional attempt will be made to eliminate the present exemption of labor unions from anti-monopoly laws.

25. 1958 will be a sad year for labor leaders. I forecast that there will be an increase of unemployment during 1958.

26. I forecast that with the possible exception of the auto industry, there will be no national strikes during 1958.

27. I forecast that automation will slowly increase during 1958.

28. If wages should be fixed as a part of the cold-war program, retail prices will also be fixed.

29. All workers, especially office workers, will be more efficient in 1958. It will be more difficult for the next group of college graduates to get good positions at high wages.

30. For the past few years labor has been sitting in the driver's seat. Many industrialists and political leaders have feared that the country is headed for a socialist or labor government. A cheerful sign now is that such fears may, temporarily at least, be forgotten. The American working man is himself becoming disgusted with too powerful labor leaders. This should be good news to all honest employers.

OUTLOOK FOR REAL ESTATE

31. Land adjoining cities and towns will increase in value during 1958. This especially applies to small farms.

32. Large commercial farms will continue to prosper during 1958, but the small farmer will continue to suffer if dependent on farming.

33. Under an economic dictator, farmers would receive no increased price supports. If farm prices are fixed, they will be at lower levels.

34. Large cities may continue to lose in population. Large city real estate will sell for less, for fear of Russian missiles.

35. The growth of suburbs will continue, although many houses now occupied by well-paid executives will be forced on the market as their owners lose their present high-salaried positions.

36. Construction activity in many communities will decline. Older houses will come on the market.

37. In many sections of the country there will be a greater demand for co-operative modern apartments than for single houses, although old apartment houses will sell for less. More young people and old people will insist upon every modern convenience and upon locations not absolutely dependent on automobiles.

38. Well-located woodlands will continue to increase in price. This certainly applies to pine wood tracts, especially in the South.

39. Canadian oil reserves should begin to recover in price unless there is rationing of gasoline in the United States in late 1958.

40. The most important factor in connection with real estate is the parking problem, which is a curse of almost every city. Suburban real estate and farms owe much to the automobile, but the automobile industry is now reaching a stage where it could revolutionize present real estate prices. We owe the automobile industry a debt of gratitude for our present prosperity. It is a bellwether of general business for 1958. It is, however, like everything else, subject to the business cycle and may be a cause of the next depression. Another probable cause will be the failure of one of the big corporations whose stock is among the "30 Blue Chips" of the Dow-Jones Industrials.

STOCK MARKET OUTLOOK

41. The "bloom is off the stock market." We will have rallies and reactions during 1958, but the broad trend will be downward. This is the first time for many years that I have said this in my annual report. There is too much talk about missiles, bombs, and fallout.

42. While the stock market has been going up during the past few years, the bond market has been going down. The reverse will take place during 1958. While the stock market is going down, the bond market will begin to creep upward. This especially applies to tax-free bonds, the purchase of which I strongly recommend.

43. Good cumulative non-callable preferred stocks will also be in demand during 1958. Owing to the money market, they recently suffered in price; but owing to lack of supply, they will be the first stocks to recover. Remember, I am now recommending only high-grade cumulative non-callable preferreds.

44. The large fortunes made in the stock market have come from buying non-dividend-paying stocks at $5 a share or under. These will be the first to reach a buying level. If you are to buy these low-priced stocks, you should seek companies without too much cumulative preferred stock outstanding. This is the opposite of the "preferred" recommendation in paragraph 43!

45. Large bank balances will continue to be a good investment in 1958. Many savings banks are now paying 3 per cent to 3½ per cent interest. These balances, however, should not be looked upon as permanent investments, but rather as a means of enabling you to have cash available when common stocks reach a low level. This time may NOT come in 1958. Here again, much depends upon President Eisenhower's condition.

46. Although many corporations interested in atomic energy, electronics, rare metals, and other growth industries will become more prosperous and profitable to investors, some of these new companies will be wiped out. Hence, investors should be very careful in connection therewith.

47. Utility stocks should hold their own with regard to dividends and marketability. Electric power will always be in demand.

48. Most railroad stocks should be avoided. Most passenger business is now being operated at a loss. Trucks, busses, airplanes, and private automobiles will ultimately force the government to take over the railroads. In the meantime, the securities of the long-haul railroads, which specialize in heavy freight, will be the best to own. The short-haul roads should be avoided by investors.

49. Notwithstanding the above, we cannot now become panicky or too bearish. Our country is not now operating on the Gold Standard which was responsible for many of our national crises, but is now on a political standard. Although Newton's Law of Action and Reaction must continue to operate, yet Congress can for a while lengthen the prosperity cycles.

This it will attempt to do even if it requires an economic dictator to temporarily regulate money, wages, prices, rents, taxes, and industry in general. I cannot forecast disarmament in 1958. It appears to me now, however, that the present race in guided missiles, atomic underwater navies, surprise satellites, and other tremendously destructive military equipment could ultimately rob us of our freedom and turn us back to slavery unless disarmament becomes a serious goal.

The Sputniks should hasten either another military world war or the elimination of world wars. Sputniks should shorten the cold war now in progress.

50. Speaking realistically, the hope of the United States and the world depends upon our spiritual relationships. Only as we grow spiritually, along with our material growth and military power, can the world be kept in balance.

Under-Fishing Threat to Sponge Beds

TRIPOLI — Tripolitania, one of the few areas in the world where sponges are collected, is moving to protect its sponge beds from their greatest danger—that of underfishing.

Revenues have been somewhat disappointing since 1947 and it is now hoped, in Tripoli, that a corporation can be formed to include all the sponge fishing firms. A stricter control is sought over the present haphazard methods which result in over-exploitation of choice sponge beds and the ignoring of others. As demonstrated some years ago in Florida and the Bahamas, a fungus is likely to spread over beds that are underfished.

This forms a thick carpet of sponge particularly susceptible to disease. Tripolitania licenses foreign fishermen to exploit its sponges.

Crisis Confronts U.S. Railroad Industry

By WILLIAM FERRIS

NEW YORK (AP) — The American railroad industry goes into the new year in a familiar position: Confronted with a crisis.

This crisis is much more serious among eastern railroads than anywhere else. More dramatic industrial and population growth in other areas has enabled the roads serving those territories to avert many problems confronting their eastern colleagues.

DEFICITS MOUNT

The chief problem in the East, and one which appears to be approaching the showdown stage, is the mounting deficits (measured by the Interstate Commerce Commission formula) from passenger operations. It is particularly acute in lines with many commuter passengers.

That's not the entire problem, however. Eastern railroads have also lost freight traffic. They have suffered severely from competition with trucks, barges and pipelines as well as buses, air planes and the private automobile.

Bedeviled by their problems, managements of eastern roads are searching for a way out. The New York Central and the Pennsylvania, the nation's two largest roads, are studying a merger. So are the Erie, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and the Delaware & Hudson.

★ ★ ★

The Baltimore & Ohio is seeking to end its passenger service between Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. The New York, New Haven and Hartford says it will ask a public subsidy for commuter service in New York and Massachusetts.

How did the roads get into this fix?

Well, first off, they all aren't. Through the first three quarters of the year some roads reported a higher net income than in any similar period in their history. Out of 131 class one railroads only 16 failed to earn interest and rental charges.

Second, the urge toward lamentation, so strong among rail managements along the Atlantic seaboard, slackens in the South and West. Thus Clair M. Roddewig, new president of the Assn. of Western Railways, says, "Earnings of the western rails were down only four per cent in the first eight months of 1956. Why run for the bushes on a showing like that?"

Third, the large funded debt of railroads tends to intensify reversals in their earnings trend. In investment circles this is known as "leverage." A slump in operating income, noticeable this year, produces a comparatively larger drop in net income. But it works the other way, too. Rail earnings can go up fast when economic activity is climbing rather than slumping.

Nevertheless, the rails have lost ground in the World War II period as compared with other means of transportation. This decline was emphasized this year as net income for the first nine months, at 558 million dollars, slumped 74 million dollars from last year.

FEWER FREIGHTS

There are today 40,000 fewer freight cars than 10 years ago and 7,000 fewer passenger cars than when World War II began. Track in service has declined by 15,000 miles since 1940. Nearly one out of four freight cars is 30 years or more old. Rails are earning less than four per cent on their investment.

Between 1946 and 1956 rail coach passengers dropped from 408 million to 165 million. Sleeping car passengers fell from 43 to 16 million. Since 1939 the railroads' share of freight traffic has declined from 62.3 per cent to a little less than 50 per cent.

All this is not quite as bad as it scunds. As any veteran who rode the rails in the war years knows, some of those passenger cars should have been retired with President McKinley. It is the country's spectacular growth which has enabled other transportation systems to get a larger share of the traffic.

Out of all the present ferment in the rail industry, an interesting year looms ahead.

Starting in January the Subcommittee on Surface Transportation of the Senate Commerce Commission will begin an inquiry on what Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) calls the "deteriorating railroad situation." That could lead almost anywhere, and possibly nowhere.

When a big business tycoon claims his wife didn't grow with him, he generally means wider . . . The fat woman across the street is so happy about the new year, 'cause now it's '1950-ATE.—Earl Wilson

Jan. 15 and April 15 Deadlines

Now's Good Time to Start Thinking on Income Tax

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
Written for NEA Service

If you were to volunteer for a ride in a space rocket, and found yourself floating around the world with no arrangements for a return ticket, you might have a good excuse to forget taxes.

For most people, however, this is the time of the year to begin thinking about two important income tax deadlines.

Jan. 15, 1958, is the first deadline. It applies only to those of you who filed or should have filed a declaration of estimated tax (Form 1040-ES) on your 1957 income.

If you previously filed a declaration of estimated tax, you will receive from the District Director of Internal Revenue a bill for the last installment on your estimated tax. Before paying this bill (which is due Jan. 15), you should make a rough computation of your 1957 income tax. If your payments of estimated tax for 1957 plus tax withheld from your wages is less than 70 per cent (66 2-3 per cent if you are a farmer) of your 1957 tax, then you should file an amended declaration of estimated tax and increase the payment of the last installment of estimated tax so as to equal or exceed the percentages given above.

Unless you do this you will be subject to a penalty for underpaying the last installment of your estimated tax. The penaty (6 per cent interest per year) will not apply, however, if your estimated tax payments plus tax withheld is equal to or greater than either the tax shown on your 1956 return or a tax computed by using your income in 1956 and your exemptions in 1957.

There is one way you can forget about whether to file either your first declaration of estimated tax for 1957 or an amended declaration in January.

If you file your final 1957 return on or before Jan. 31, 1958, (Feb. 17, 1958, if a farmer) the return will have the effect of a declaration of estimated tax filed on the due date of Jan. 15.

The second deadline is April 15, 1958, the due date for filing a final return for 1957. Although this date is several months off, it makes a lot of sense to fill out your return as soon as possible.

Those of you who have a refund coming can file early and expect your money much quicker than if you delay filing until the last minute rush. If you owe additional tax you will have plenty of time before the April 15 deadline to dig up the amount of money which must be paid with your return.

Doctors wrote some 34,000,000 prescriptions for tranquilizers in the United States in 1956.

Slight Gain in Income Marked Up

By OVID MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture as a whole marked up a slight gain in income in 1957 but continued to lag behind the remainder of the economy. This latter face kept political fires burning under the farm issue.

At an annual rate of slightly more than 12 billion dollars, farm operators' net income was about 2 per cent above that of 1956. This was the first time since 1947 that their income had increased for two consecutive years.

* * *

Nevertheless, the financial return was about 30 per cent below the record marked up in 1947 and around 20 per cent below the level farm leaders figure agriculture should have been to put farmers on an income par with their city cousins.

Because there was no greater improvement and also because the immediate future did not promise much more, farm policies of the Eisenhower administration came under sharp attack from some farm groups as well as from some farm state congressmen, both Democrats and Republicans.

This criticism was directed rather pointedly at Secretary of Agriculture Benson. Demands that he resign came from many of the critics. Several midwestern Republicans expressed fear that Benson's continuance in the farm post would weaken the party's chance in the 1958 congressional elections.

SURPLUS PROBLEM

As in earlier years of the present administration—and as is likely to be the case of several years to come—crop surpluses continued to be agriculture's major problem. Oversupplies operated to hold down prices of this year's crops just as they had done since 1952. They also operated to restrict production opportunities under crop production control and land retirement programs of the government.

Farmers cut their crop acreage to the lowest level in 40 years. Yet production is indicated to be up to the record volume of 1948, when there were no government restrictions, and matched last year. This bountiful harvest on such a small acreage reflected the effects of an ever - developing agricultural technology.

Farm prices as a whole increased about 3 per cent during the year, but most of this improvement was in markets for livestock and livestock products rather than crops. Cattle and hogs in particular made price gains.

Controversy over the farm situation led to demands for changes in present government farm programs.

Secretary Benson, on the one hand, told Congress that the flexible price support law—which the administration worked hard to put over in 1954—and crop control laws were not doing the job of working off surpluses and of stabilizing agriculture.

He called for authority to set farm price supports at lower levels than the law now permits. He contended lower prices are necessary to open up broadened markets for agriculture's current productive capacity.

* * *

But the Benson foes denounced his recommendations on the ground that they would drive many producers into bankruptcy and off farms. They called for greater, rather than less, government aid to producers.

Complicating the financial situation for many farmers was the fact that their production costs continued to move upward. The 2 per cent increase put these costs at a record high. Much of the rise reflected higher prices for industrial products.

A record volume of farm commodities moved into export markets. Valued at nearly five billion dollars, nearly 60 per cent of the exports were sold or shipped under government cut-price, foreign aid or give-away programs. But the export volume is expected to decline somewhat in the year ahead, due to improved production in many foreign areas and to the fact that many importing countries built up stockpiles in 1957 which will enable them to buy less in 1958.

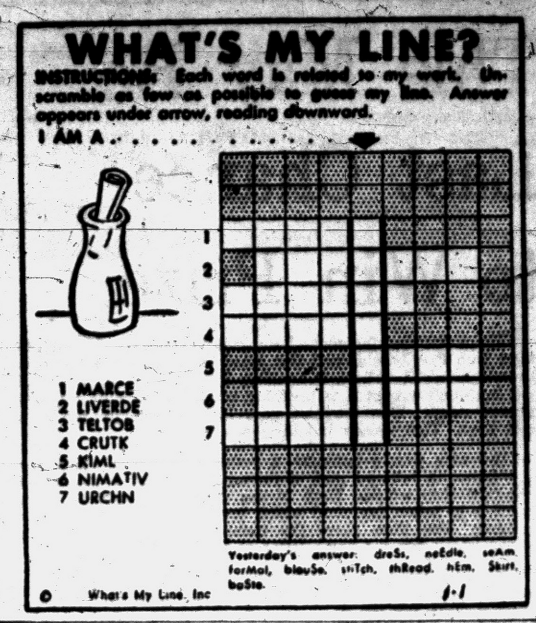

An Agriculture Department survey showed that the year brought a further decline in the number of farms and farm operators. The less efficient and marginal farmers were most subject to financial difficulties. Some left farming for non-farm jobs, although a sizable number continued to live on the farm.

Official reports said cash, bank deposits and other liquid financial assets owned by farmers changed little from a year ago.

The weather continued to play a role in agriculture. Widespread and prolonged spring and summer rains brought an end to a drought in the southern Great Plains, but dry weather plagued producers in New England and along the eastern seaboard. Excessive rains at harvest time caused heavy crop losses to producers in southeastern and some midwestern areas.

* * *

The outlook for the new year was for little change in farm prices and incomes, for a continued high level of production, a continuation of surplus holdings, some further upturn in farm production costs as well as in land values, but a further decline in the number of farms and farmers, particularly in the category of the less efficient and smaller acreage units.

This May Be Last Chance to Win Prize

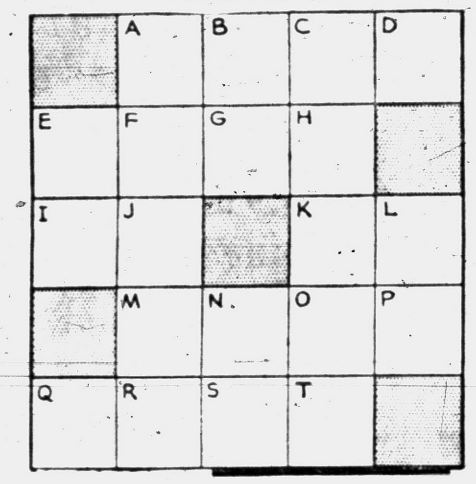

We're entering the second week of "sudden death" competition with Pot-O-Gold, and this week two errors are allowed. Sixteen hundred dollars is waiting for someone to claim the pot, but don't expect it to be there much longer with the new relaxed rules. This may be your last chance, so get busy right now. This weeks puzzle is due January 7.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence and, then, place the number of that word in the square with the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the puzzle square marked A.

OFFICIAL CONTEST RULES

1. Anyone is eligible to enter the POT-O-GOLD contest with the exception of Pontiac Press employes or their immediate families.

2. Entries must be on official entry blanks printed in this newspaper.

3. To submit an entry the contestant must print his numbers in the proper spades, cut out the area enclosed by dotted lines and attach it securely to a 2 cent post card. No entries will be accepted if they are in envelopes. Entries for Puzzle No. 82 must bear a Tuesday, Jan. 7 postmark (or before). No entries received after that time whether mailed or delivered by hand, will be declared eligible. The Press is not responsible for entries lost or delayed in the mail.

4. Sorry, telephone calls or mail concerning details of the contest cannot be answered or acknowledged.

5. The Pontiac Press will award a cash prize of $100 a week to the winner of each weekly POT-O-GOLD contest. If more than one winning answer is received the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If any week or weeks should pass without any winners, the prize will be added weekly until a winning solution is submitted.

6. Winners will be awarded an extra cash bonus of $25 each if they are Pontiac Press subscribers of record on the day winners are announced. Only one such bonus can be awarded to each prize winner no matter how many weekly prizes may accumulate.

7. Each week's puzzle will be published Monday, Wednesday and Friday until the contest's end. Either or all will be considered as official entry blanks.

8. Winners and correct solutions will be announced each Friday of the week following individual contests. Official keeper of answers will be Frederick C. Ziem, prosecutor for Oakland County. Only the General Features Corp., originators of the puzzles, will know the solutions until after each contest is over. Answers will be delivered to the Press Judges by Mr. Ziem after the final deadline.

9. There is only one correct solution to the POT-O-GOLD puzzle and only that correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries becoming the property of The Pontiac Press and none can be returned.

10. Completed puzzles must be addressed to POT-O-GOLD, POST OFFICE BOX 58, Pontiac, Michigan. Winners will be notified either by telephone or in the mails.

Hollywood Headlines

Cyd Charisse to Co-Star With Robert Taylor Next

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Happy New Year to each and everyone of you! And let me hasten to say, its a happy new year for Joe Pasternak who now knows what he's going to do next — and high time, too, I say.

Joe will co-star Cyd Charisse and Robert Taylor in "Party Girl," at the old home lot, MGM. According to the volatile Pasternak, "Party Girl" is an exciting and romantic drama of Chicago in the early 30's, and it's from a screenplay by George Wells. This is a drama for Bob something on the order of "Johnny Eager," which did okey for Mister Taylor.

With all the cutting down of stars at MGM, Cyd, today, is the most important actress on this lot.

Fernando Lamas and Arlene Dahl have rented Benay Venuta's house and will live there until after the birth of their baby January 18.

Said Fernando, "The Ricardo Montalbans have taken our house in New York until we return. We will be here until April 1st, when I go to Italy for 'Midnight Sailing,' a motion picture to be made in Italy and Spain by an independent company."

At the Joe Vogel party Ferando also discussed a story MGM has in mind for him.

The marriage of Natalie Wood and Bob Wagner started off in breathless fashion — and I mean that literally. They drove from their Scottsdale wedding to the station in Phoenix accompanied by both sets of parents and the bridal party to catch the train for their Florida honeymoon — just in time to see the train pull out.

Still accompanied by parents and wedding party, they drove frantically to catch the speeding train. Fourteen miles out of Phoenix the engineer spied them, put on the emergency brake, and stopped in a cornfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Wagner hopped on the train gasping for breath, accompanied by all 17 pieces of luggage. They blew kinses to the wedding party and started off, "hoppy" to be headed for their destination.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM:

The new year starts very unhappily for actress Edna Best, who is seriously ailing. Her friends are all praying for her recovery.

Murderer Gets 2 Life Terms

Former French Soldier Fatally Shot Employer, Wife in Florida

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — A handsome 44-year-old former French soldier was under two sentences of life imprisonment today for murdering an elderly American couple who befriended him.

★ ★ ★

Maurive Chavigny was sentenced to separate life terms for fatally shooting Brig. Gen. Wilbur R. McReynolds, 64, and Mrs. McReynolds, 61. McReynolds was a retired Army officer.

Chavigny was convicted Dec. 19 of second degree murder after a four day trial. The minimum sentence would have been 20 years.

★ ★ ★

"I realize that you have only one life to spend in prison but I am ordering your sentences to run consecutively, so if you are pardoned on the one you'll be held on the other," Circuit Judge John U. Bird explained.

Chavigny showed no emotion and had nothing to say after being sentenced.

The McReynolds were shot to death the night of April 3 at their fashionable home in St. Petersburg.

Chavigny had been serving as their chauffeur for 17 months but was on terms of close friendship with both of them. They first met Chavigny as a youth in France in 1932 and he had been an interpreter for the general on U.S. military missions.

Neighbors testified they heard Chavigny shouting accusations at Mrs. McReynolds and that eight shots followed in rapid succession.

Swedish Vaccine Fights Foot-Mouth Disease

GOTHENBURG, Sweden — After many years' experimentation, the first Swedish vaccine against foot-and-mouth disease has been produced. It is said to be 100 per cent effective against two of the virus types.

MSU Beef Specialist to Talk on Production

Michigan State University beef specialist, Bill Finley, will discuss beef production at the annual meeting of the Oakland County branch of the Michigan Livestock Exchange.

The meeting will be held at the Oakland County Board of Education building, 1025 N. Telegraph Rd., January 10 at 8 p.m.

Gaylord Gardner, assistant manager of the Michigan Livestock Exchange, will report on the 1957 activities of the state group. Election of officers for the county organization will also be conducted.

Two films, "Design for Better Beef" and "All Flesh Is Grass," will be shown.

Japan's Oldest Temple Dates From 607 A.D.

Of its 33 buildings, nine are believed to have been built in the Eighth Century or earlier and among them are probably the oldest wooden buildings in the world.

The temple is world-famous as a repository of priceless ancient art.

Time of the Tissue Nears . . . . . Kerchoo!

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—Being in my usual midwinter sniff-snort-snarl condition, along with a good 75 per cent of friends, I was of the impression that this is the peak season for colds.

Ah, but no.

The time of the tissue is not yet nigh, saith the Nostradamus on nostril conditions. You think you've got troubles now, just wait till late January and early February . . . you'll die. Not literally, of course, though you might wish it; but morally.

LAB GIVES ADVICE

This promises to be a big year in the cold tablets business, and the Grove Laboratories, which produce more of them than any other outfit, are on top of the situation with some survey statistics which may (though I doubt) help.

They say that, unfortunately for business, it is really quite difficult to pick up a common cold—but the American people are persevering cusses, and they usually find a way.

"The only really efficient way to catch a cold—if you really want one, as an excuse to stay home over a hot toddy," says Grove, "is to have a doctor transplant the cold virus from the nose of a cold sufferer to your own nose. Even then there is only a 50-50 chance of picking up the infection."

★ ★ ★

Rubbing noses (this applies especially to you Eskimos) is slightly more conducive to catarrh-catching, but only if in a weakened condition, as when lovesick or suffering from a blubber deficiency.

BOSS NO HELP

Only one in 10 people can pick up a cold from friends or fellow-workers outside the household. If your boss has a cold, I don't care how buddy-buddy you are, it's not likely to catch.

Much better are the chances of picking up nasal catarrh from a member of your own household. As the Groves people put it, "when a little cold bug gets into a house, that's another matter, particularly if there are children around."

★ ★ ★

Surveys prove that after two hours of socializing with a child—kissing the kid is unnecessary, just play games or anything — adults have a pretty good chance of laying off work with an infection.

BIG CLAN GETS MORE

And once a cold or common respiratory illness gets into a home, children under six are twice as likely to get it as are children over six. Other research shows there's a strong relationship between the size of the family and the number of colds per years.

For example, members of a family of five can expect two and one-third more colds and respiratory illnesses apiece in one year than individuals in a family of three. Oh, think of all the fun and games and orange juice, and daddy doesn't have to go to the office again today!

Speaking of large families, the U. S. Census Bureau reports that the high birthrate since the war has brought the median age for the country down to 29.8 years.

The bureau also reports that there are more male than female babies being born—but that, by the age of 25, women outnumber men.

Wed to Get Divorce

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (INS) — A couple consulted Charles Karpinski, an attorney, about a divorce. He learned that actually they weren't legally married and told them so. They came back the next day and got advice on how to make the marriage legal.

The percentage of Americans 65 years old or older has more than doubled within the last 50 years.

4-Pound Spud Grown

WATERVILLE, Que. (INS) — Latest in a series of monster potatoes grown in Quebec's eastern townships is a four-pound beauty unearthed here by farmer Desire Audet.

Tranquilizers Aren't Enough

Discharged Mental Patient Needs Community's Help

INDIANAPOLIS (INS) — Tranquilizers are wonderful, but they can't replace a good job and an accepted place in one's community for the discharged mental patient, according to Dr. Else B. Kris.

Dr. Kris is principal research scientist for the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene, and a college professor of social psychiatry.

In a closing meeting at the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Indianapolis, Dr. Kris reported on a two-year study of 250 patients released from mental hospitals in metropolitan New York. She said:

"The results suggest strongly pharmacotherapy (treatment with drugs) is as valuable in the aftercare of the mentally ill as it is in the hospital treatment of their psychoses.

"No drug, however, can alter the social and economic pressures which prove to be the underlying cause of many of the relapses we encountered. Such therapy can help us to insulate the discharged patient from the stresses caused by ignorance and prejudice, but the stresses are still there."

Operation of a boarding house for newly released chronic schizophrenic women patients has some resemblance to running a sorority house, according to another speaker.

Dr. George W. Brooks, of the Federal Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, reported on establishment of a boarding house—or halfway house—at Montpelier, Vt. He said:

"We adopted a hard and fast rule that if no incidents came to our attention which were of greater severity than those encountered in the average sorority house, we would ignore them. None has occurred."

Soldier's Name Long

FT. CARSON, Colo. (INS) — Pvt. Albert Kahalekulu of Wailuku, Hawaii, figures he has the longest middle name in the armed forces. It is Kahekilikuiikalewaokamehameha. The name means "Thunder, Oh Great Chief of the Island." Kahalekulu is a combat trainee here.

Promise of Whole New Year Delights Youngsters

Gatherings Usher In New Year

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Nosanchuk and their family of Cherokee road are spending New Year's Day at the Detroit home of Dr. Nosanchuk's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Raskin, where they are celebrating the 50th wedding anniversary of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Nosanchuk.

Another sister, Mrs. Nathan Orden, and her family also are present for the occasion, along with the elder Nosanchuk's eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

To mark their golden wedding Mr. and Mrs. Nosanchuk have donated funds for a room in the Barilon University, Israel, which will bear the name of Jacob and Ida Nosanchuk. They also have planted a grove of 1,000 trees through the Jewish National Fund and have established a loan fund in the Gemilath Chesed at Jerusalem.

In Detroit, Mr. Nosanchuk is president of Congregation B'nai Jacob, vice president of Mizrachi-Hapoel Hamizrachi, director of Yeshiva Beth Yehuda Hebrew Benevolent Society, and a member of the Jewish Home for the Aged.

Mrs. Nosanchuk is active in the Women's Mizrachi, the House of Shelter and the Detroit Chapter of Hadassah.

Mrs. Lena Beal celebrated her 82nd birthday today at her home in Keego Harbor.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Eames, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Ottis R. Briney Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gaffney, Dorothy Cummings, George O'Brien of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boynton of Birmingham and Dr. and Mrs. Dana P. Whitmer.

New Year's guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Tarr on West Iroquois road were Mr. and Mrs. George Wasserberger, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Northon, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Falk, Mrs. Harry Richards and her son, Harold, and Dave Tarr.

"Goodnight, my cherubs. We'll see you next year," said Mrs. Charles G. Carss of Tilden avenue on 1957's last Tuesday evening as she tucked in her three youngsters. From left to right are Charles, 3, Cathy, 1, and Michael, 2.

These twin tots, Scott Donald and Tracey Ann Zuehlsdorff, children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Zuehlsdorff of West Bloomfield Township, celebrated last New Year in a big way by being born at 2:31 a.m., Jan. 1, 1957. Scott weighed in at 8 pounds, 2 ounces and Tracey at 7 pounds, 6 ounces.

Moreaus Bid Goodby to Guests

M. Catherine Moreau of Scotch Plains, N. J., house-guest of the Frank J. Moreaus of East Iroquois road, has returned to her home after spending the past week in the city. Frank William Moreau of Clearwater, Fla., another guest of Mr. and Mrs. Moreau, will motor to Florida shortly after New Year's Day

Judy's homecoming was marked by a pajama party attended by local coeds. Present to discuss news about Michigan's various colleges and universities were Betsy Bradley, Janet Wiltgen and Carol Cox from Michigan State University, Karen Denham from Grace School of Nursing, Virginia Sheehan of Kalamazoo College, Barbara Fair and Pat Clark of Highland Park Junior College, and Sharon Boyce and Judy Huntwork, fellow students of Miss Elwell at Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Wells and daughter, Ella Lee, have returned to Arlington, Va. after spending the past week with Mr. Well's parents, Mr and Mrs. Harold F. Wells of Pingree avenue, and his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wells of Newberry street.

Telltale pine needles on the carpet are hinting to gaily decorated households that trees and trimmings soon must be removed. At the Uplong drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hasse, the children, Patrick, 4, and Mari Sue, 2, take down the tinsel. Four-month-old Charles, however, seems only ready for his nap.

And here's another little one who was ushered in on New Year's Day, 1957. Baby Pamela Jo Cameron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cameron of Waterford Township, was born at 10:10 a.m., Jan. 1, 1957.

Pale Hands Are Latest in Gloves

NEW YORK (INS — Those "pale hands" somebody loved beside the Shalimar will soon be in a lot of other places.

A "pale hand" look is the latest in gloves. Not white, mind you, just pale — which means all the off-white tones, the light grays and the beiges.

Glove colors with names like "birch" and "putty" will be offered the holiday shopper. There will also be plenty of tinted gloves in faint shades of blue and pink.

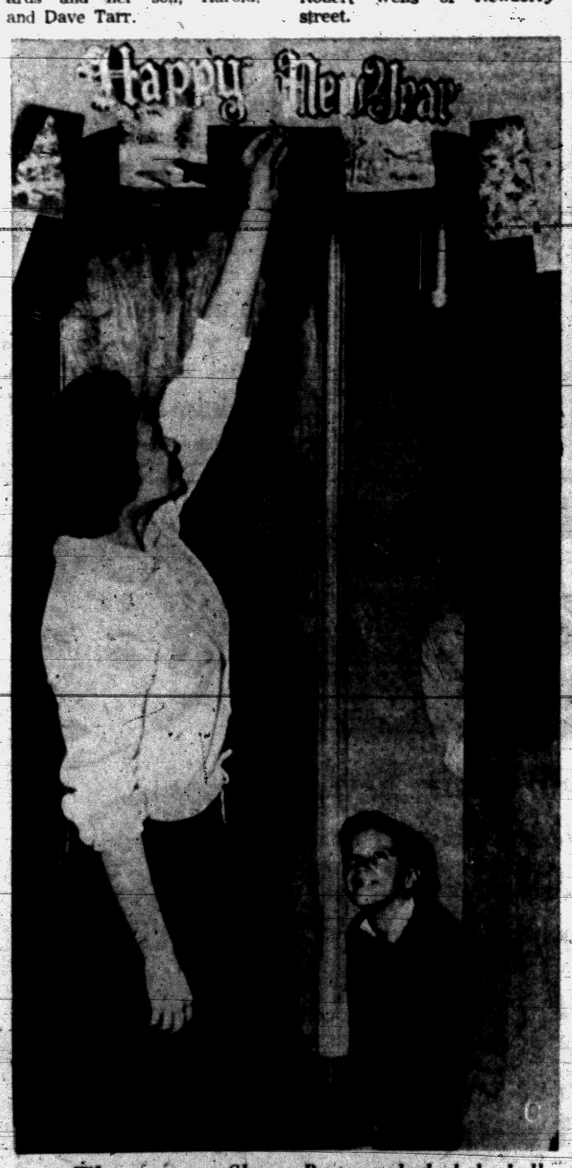

If you want your "pale hands" to be really a la mode, get long gloves. Eight and 10-button gloves are considered chic, and 12-button models are selling well. The idea is that the glove should meet the sleeve; it may be crushed at the wrist or pulled on smooth.

Shortie gloves, the kind Monaco's Princess Grace popularized, are still available.

Fashion Hint

Early eyeglasses, primitive by modern standards, with cumbersome and heavily ornamented frames, were often worn as badges of authority. Some of these "authorities" had them riveted into their helmets or fastened into hats and hoods.

When teenager Sherry Bertram decked the hallway with a sprig of mistletoe on New Year's Eve, her two young brothers, Howard (center) and Dane, were on hand to tease as they laughingly watched the procedure while peeking around a corner. Chances are, though, this pretty miss didn't even need the romantic greenery. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bertram of Island Park drive.

"Resolved: This family will adopt no more stray pups or kittens during 1958." So affirms Mrs. William S. Blackstone of Drayton Plains as she pens resolutions for the new year. But what's this 3-year-old Stephen (far right) sees approaching from behind? Yes, brother Barry and sister Dawn already have retrieved two neighborhood foundlings who, combined with pleas of "Aw, can't we keep him? He's hungry!", very likely will bring an amendment to mother's strong declaration.

Downright Rude

The teenager who takes over the telephone whenever he is in the home of a chum is downright rude. If the phone call is necessary, he should ask permission and then make the call brief.

Bride Asks About Notes of Thanks

Wonders if It's OK to Write on Printed Informals

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My questions deal with thank-you notes for wedding presents. I would like to know first of all what kind of note paper is proper. Would it be correct to use a printed 'informal,' and if so, should my name appear on it as Mrs. John Doe, or Mary Doe?

"I should also like to know the proper time to send these notes. Should they be sent as the gifts arrive, i.e., before the wedding, or should I wait until I am married and send them all at one time?"

Answer: Write your thanks as soon as you possibly can after the presents are received. Those that arrive too late to answer before the wedding should be acknowledged after you return from your wedding trip.

I personally prefer small conventional note-size paper with an address at the top, but there is no objection to using the "foldover" card if your prefer.

On informals used after you are married, your name should appear as Mrs. John Doe but the notes would be signed Mary or Mary Doe, depending on how well you know the person written to.

"Dear Mrs. Post: We have recently moved to this community. About a week ago a neighbor called at our house but I was not at home. She left a note saying that she had been here. A day or so later I went to see her but she was not at home. Should I go to see her again, or is it up to her to make the next move?"

Answer: If you left your visiting card or a note when you called, the next move is, strictly speaking, up to her. But because her first call was an act of kindness to you, I advise you to go to see her again.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper at a second wedding for the bride to walk up the aisle to the strains of a wedding march?"

Answer: Yes, quite proper.

'58 Fashion Tip: Pick New Styles to Suit YOU

"To each his own," is the best fashion guide any woman can have for 1958—or any other year.

At this time of the year, in particular, it is a marvelous idea to stop for a moment and take a good long look at oneself—especially at one's fashion and beauty needs. Only too often, women let themselves be deluded into doing exactly the wrong things for themselves, by not thinking.

It is only too easy to be bewitched by all the advice one reads, into accepting—not just trying, but accepting—every new idea . . . ideas that may be absolutely superb for the woman next door but quite out of the question for you.

The first requirement of any and every fashion is that it be becoming to you. It is not necessary to shock the world at every turn, and twice as amusing to know, yourself, that you look your best.

This does not mean, of course, that one must be afriad of a new fasion—the ostrich is never a good example to imitate in the world of fashion.

A new type sleeping bag grows with the baby. Grow features at shoulder and bottom lengthen the garment to keep pace with baby from 3 months to 3 years. It is made of machine-washable cotton plisse.

SUSAN Y. McKNIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. William J. McKnight of Monroe announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Yvonne, to Thomas E. Metzdorf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Metzdorf of North Johnson avenue. Both attend Eastern Michigan College where Mr. Metzdorf is a member of Kappa Phi Alpha fraternity. A June wedding is planned.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

We mean it to last . . . the whole year through. So we suggest that your New Year's resolutions help you do just that!

Reflect on your well-being and follow through by meeting face to face the individual problem that is yours.

It may mean a resolution to see your dentist, your doctor, starting an exercise program, cleaning a closet, or any other one thing that will give you the right start in 1958.

If you take it serious you will be surprised how much one little thing can do toward a Happy New Year.

Dear Abby....

Ring Makes Electrician's Wife Widow

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for the lady who felt hurt because her husband who was an electrician refused to wear his wedding ring to work.

ABBY

The widow of an electrician told me how she lost her husband. A tiny hole had worn through the insulated glove where his ring was. While working, the fatal contact was made and he died instantly. When his lifeless body was examined, the only sign of injury was a tiny burn where his ring encircled his finger.

So let me tell you, lady, if you want to become an electrician's widow, put a big gold wedding ring on your husband's finger and insist that he wear it to work.

ELECTRICIAN'S FRIEND

DEAR ABBY: Before my boy friend went into service he told me secretly that he was sending me a ring for Christmas. It didn't come, so I drew my money out of the bank and bought myself one and told family and friends that he sent it to me.

My boy friend knows nothing about this and now I am afraid somebody might write him and congratulate him. I can't sleep nights for worrying about it. I know I did wrong but what do I do now?

DID WRONG

DEAR DID: Write to your boy friend immediately and give him the facts, Ma'am. I wish you luck, but don't be surprised if he asks you to send him a "Dear John" letter officially breaking the engagement."

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My husband can be so good at times and then again he can be so mean, I wonder if he is all there? I notice in pictures he has of himself, one half of his face looks like it doesn't belong to the other half.

This is the way he acts, too. Half-angel and half-devil. Does this mean he has a split personality?

ROMONA

DEAR ROMONA: His face has nothing to do with whether or not he has a split personality. Only a doctor who specializes in "personalities" can answer your question.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 10 months and have a problem. My husband comes home from work, eats supper, puts his nose in the paper and hardly says a word. Then he gets into bed, mumbles a few words and turns over and goes to sleep. Please help me.

LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME: What are the "few words" he mumbles? You could be missing something!

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED DAD: It isn't enough to SEND your son to church. Go with him!

★ ★ ★

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Janet Warner Marries

Christmas decorations banked the altar and chancel of Grace Lutheran Church for the candlelight wedding of Janet Warner and William Sparks. The Rev. Richard Stuckmeyer performed the Saturday rite before 200 guests.

★ ★ ★

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Warner of Hillcliff drive, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Kathryn Sparks of Ypsilanti avenue.

The bride chose a gown fashioned with a Chantilly lace bodice and a bouffant skirt of nylon tulle which fell into a chapel sweep train. The gown featured a modified portrait neckline trimmed with iridescent pearls and sequins.

MRS. WILLIAM SPARKS

To receive guests in Fellowship Hall of the church Mrs. Warner wore an aqua lace gown with a corsage of pink camellias. Mrs. Sparks' choice was a white lace dress with a pink camellia corsage.

For traveling the bride chose a blue wool jersey dress with navy accessories and the white roses from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live on West Huron street.

Set Deadline to Get Job Done on Time

If you want a job done by a certain time, then set your deadline when you make arrangements to have it done.

If you don't, other orders that come in later than yours may be pushed ahead of you.

Luxurious Touch

Sheath for Parties

The sequined holiday sheath with crushed silk chiffon belt will show up at a good many holiday parties. It's sleeveless, of course, and will sparkle brightly in red, emerald or royal sequins.

JANET KNEALE

Bethel Has Installation of Officers

Others participating were Ronald Wilton, Roger Anthony and Nick Sekles, from Order of the DeMolay. Duke Relyea, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Relyea.

Arlene E. Swanson, Douglas Hallett Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace K. Swanson of Brooks avenue announce the Nov. 8 wedding of their daughter, Arlene E., to Douglas G. Hallett, son of Mrs. Fred Hallett of Orchard Lake and the late Mr. Hallett. The couple was married in Wixom Baptist Church by the Rev. Edmund F. Caes.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Render of Milford. The bridegroom is a student at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Pigskin Goes Foxy for Sports

PARIS (INS)—In 1957 we saw suede coats with mink collars. But in 1958 it's pigskin with fox.

Maggy Rouff has just presented her stunning sports coat for next season. It's designed for a "sporty vamp" and made of white pigskin with a large white fox collar. The self-belt is optional.

Maggy Rouff didn't specify the occasion for which this coat was designed. But it won't pass unnoticed at the races, railroad stations or air terminals.

In her ready-to-wear collection for spring, labeled "Maggy Rouff Extension," this designer also shows new styled "chemise raincoats." Made of waterproofed poplin, they are cut like a man's shirt with dress - length 'shirttails." Two breast - pockets are patched on below the bosom. One raincoat in navy blue and another in black and white checked poplin just right for spring.

You can count on the "1925 look" as one of the outstanding 1958 fashion features. Several Maggy Rouff spring creations have belts around the hips and very short skirts.

You can even wear your leather belts, as long as they circle your hips instead of your waist. On a pale beige jersey dress Maggy Rouff shows a brown leather belt held at the height of the hips by the cuffs of two patch pockets.

It's Mankind's Most Popular Subject

Love Holds Center of Life's Stage

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Love probably has been sung about, written about, dreamed of, thought of and talked about more than any other subject known to man and woman.

Love probably has been sung about, written about, dreamed of, thought of and talked about more than any other subject known to woman and man.

There are so many different kinds of love and love means so many things to so many people and each person has such individual requirements of love!

This week I am bringing you some old thoughts for the new year. Let's look at some of the things others have said about this overwhelming emotion.

"The fickleness of the woman I love is only equaled by the infernal constancy of the women who love me." —George Bernard Shaw.

★ ★ ★

—Margurite Blessington.

"The first sigh of love is the last of Wisdom." — Antoine Bret.

Mangus Hirschfield.

★ ★ ★

— Lord Bewar.

"Our first and last love — self love." —Bovee.

—Basta

"Love is like the measles —all the worse when it comes late in life." —Douglas Jerrold.

"Girls we love for what they are; young men for what they promise to be." —Goethe.

"The highest contract we can make is — let there be truth between us two forever more. She Writes Memoirs of the Veep

But Mrs. Barkley Hasn't Looked for Publisher Yet

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Alben Barkley, widow of the Kentucky senator and vice president, says she has written her memoirs but has not yet sought out a publisher for the full-length book she has tentatively titled "The Veep and I."

★ ★ ★

The comely Jane Barkley, now making her home in Washington, said she had started on the memoirs last spring with the assistance of newswoman Frances Leighton.

PUT IT AWAY

"We finished it, and I put it away in a drawer," she told me. "Since word got out about the manuscript many people have been telling me what a good idea they thought it was and that I ought to get it published."

★ ★ ★

After the "Veep's" sudden death in May 1956, Mrs. Barkley retired to the gracious old family home at Paducah, Ky.

In the fall of that year, however, she returned to Washington and signed up to serve in the campaign headquarters of the Volunteers for Stevenson-Kefauver, her first experience in such work.

★ ★ ★

The first chapter of her memoirs, she says, begins with her meeting with the Veep in July 1949, while vacationing in the capital as the guest of Clark M. Clifford, then special counsel to President Truman, and Mrs. Clifford.

POTOMAC CRUISE

The former Jane Hadley, a St. Louis widow, met the then 74-year-old Veep on a cruise down the Potomac.

Her wit and beauty won Barkley's heart and they were wed several months later after a whirlwind and highly publicized courtship.

The memoirs include some of the colorful Veep's letters to her during that famous courtship, bits of his renowned humor, but mostly, she said, "a point of view" the public rarely glimpsed — "his serious side, how well - informed he was, how concerned he was about foreign policy and other international affairs."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Barkley, now 45, says she will continue to make her home in the spacious and beautiful Connecticut avenue apartment here to which the Veep took her as a bride.

Those Adolescent Years Aren't Any Easier Today

Teenage World Is No Picnic for Those Who Are Struggling Through It

By RUTH MILLETT

Being a teenager today is supposed to be a snap. Lots of privileges, lots of freedom, lots of activity—and practically no responsibilities.

But in many ways being a teenager is exactly the same experience as being an adolescent back in the days before the teenage world was invented.

Girls still are so unsure of themselves and their own judgment that they can't go anywhere without calling up six other girls to make sure of what they are going to wear.

Boys still are afraid to date anyone but the most popular girls, and since they can't all get dates with these choice few many of the boys never have any dates at all.

Girls still find it no easy trick to let a boy know they like him, without being so obvious about it they scare him off.

Boys who aren't football or basketball heroes still have a struggle to win a place for themselves among their contemporaries.

Girls are still so concerned with how they look that a hair-set that didn't do quite right or a dress that isn't quite perfect for the occasion can throw them into last-minute despair that ruins any chance of having fun.

Boys still have the problem of convincing their parents that they are able to take care of themselves and don't need to be constantly reminded to do this and not to do that.

Both boys and girls still feel the urgent need to belong to a group and those who are left out are just as miserable in the teenage world as were the kids who didn't quite fit in back in the days when we called teenage the awkward age.

★ ★ ★

Things haven't changed so much, and the years between childhood and adulthood are still no picnic.

Course Slated in Scout Work

A training event for Girl Scout workers and parents is being held Jan. 6, 13, 20, and 21 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Conducting the course will be William Cave and Al Menlo of the Adult Education Department of the University of Michigan.

★ ★ ★

The course is designed to help those working in a leadership capacity, whether with troops, on committees, or as board members, and will be held in Waterford CAI Building. Registrations will be received at the door Jan. 6 beginning at 9:30 a.m.

About 40 per cent of all fatal accidents occur during week-ends.

Party to Be Given for E. W. Tinsleys

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Jackson of Joslyn avenue will be hosts to friends and relatives this evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Tinsley, who are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary today. Mr. Tinsley retired in 1953, after 44 years as a railroad engineer.

★ ★ ★

The Tinsleys have one daughter, Mrs. Maud G. Gilbert of Saginaw. Mrs. Gilbert and the Tinsleys are holiday guests in the Jackson home.

Use of Hand Brush May Dry Out Hands

Many women use a hand brush constantly and then wonder why their hands are becoming dry. This is a situation where experimenting will help.

A person with dry skin may use a hand brush but not as frequently as one with oily skin.

Saintly Parent Can Blight Child's Future

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Gil had had the flu.

When his fever broke, his mother was so grateful she couldn't do enough for him. She made fruit gelatins, broths and custards. She brought him toys. Several times a day she remade his bed to rid it of uncomfortable wrinkles, broken crayons and crumbs of modeling clay.

On the third day she left him munching lamb chop and baked potato to answer the telephone. She'd just said, "He's much better —" when Gil called, "Mo—om, come here!"

Hastily excusing herself to the neighbor, she rushed upstairs. There, pointing to his empty milk glass, Gil said, "Get me some water in it."

She should have said, "The bathroom is across the hall. Why don't you go and get it for yourself?" But she didn't. She got the water for Gil. For she'd made such a record of selfless devotion to him during his illness that she couldn't bear to put a stop to it.

★ ★ ★

In the past, most saints have been celibate. It was a very fortunate thing. If they'd had children, their saintliness would have been a terrible liability to the wretched offspring. Their children's association with perfect virtue would have made it impossible for them to tolerate ordinary people.

CHARM AND CONTEMPT

Once I knew a much-married man who combined great sexual charm with great contempt for the women who succumbed to it. Psychiatrists would call him the "Don Juan" type.

★ ★ ★

At lunch one day he sighed heavily over the lobster thermidor he had ordered for us and said to me, "My mother? She was a saint. When God made her, He broke the mold. There never was another woman like her."

Like his, many marriages fail because one partner is increasingly disappointed by the other's refusal to reproduce the "devotion" of an over-protective, idealized father or mother.

The disappointed partner may never wake up to the fact that his saintly parent was really seeking to make anyone else's love appear inferior and unsatisfying.

★ ★ ★

So we do not have to pretend that we like Gil's convalescent tyranny when we don't. There is nothing beautiful at all in getting him water he is well enough to get for himself.

Moons and Sacks Prove All Things Can Happen

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

People have learned that anything can happen.

SPACE VOLUNTEERS

They've discovered that it's dangerous to make any positive predictions as to what they will or will not do, because probably they'll have to eat their words.

For instance, in 1957 a great hue and cry went up among American women who vowed that never, never, never would they wear the shapeless sacks of the 1920s.

★ ★ ★

And look at them now. Whether they like it or not, they're going to be wearing sacks in 1958 — modified and improved sacks, it's true, but sacks just the same.

NEW FRONTIERS

Americans always have liked the idea of pioneering, as long as there were unknown frontiers to explore. Our heritage has been growing scarce.

Now all the highways of outer space are opening up, and men are dreaming of interplanetary adventure. And who knows? Women may someday be planning space wardrobes.

O'Gormans Reveal Betrothal at Party

Richard is the son of the Robert E. Knorrs. Miss O'Gorman attends Connecticut College for Women and her fiance attended Lehigh University.

Class Holds Party

Age-Guess Question Is Considered Rude

Asking someone to guess your age is bad manners because it puts the other person on a spot.

If his guess isn't flattering, he knows you will be hurt. He doesn't know how much you are kidding yourself about your age and your looks.

PAMALEE BEEGEL

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Beegle of Tregent street announce the engagement of their daughter, Palmalee, to Al Allison, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Allison of Baldwin avenue. A June wedding is planned.

Easily Made Salad Loaf Good Now

By JANET ODELL

Hearty salads are just as good now as they are in summer. You can add one hot dish and have a good meal with something like Mrs. Harvey Johns' Corned Beef Mold. It makes one can of corned beef feed a lot of people.

Mrs. Johns, until recently a Pontiac resident is now living on Indianwood Lake. A substitute teacher, she belongs to several Bridge clubs. There's one boy in the Johns' household.

CORNED BEEF MOLD
By Mrs. Harvey Johns

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups tomato juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
1 can (12 oz.) corned beef, chopped
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
½ cup chopped cucumber
2 cups chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 cup mayonnaise

Soften gelatine in cold water. Heat tomato juice, add gelatine and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice and salt. Chill until partially set.

Combine remaining ingredients. Fold into gelatine mixture. Pour into 1½ quart mold. Chill until set. Serves 8.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

A New Year always brings about a rash of resolutions, or should we say rash resolutions, and it brings out the crystal ball gazers trying to see what the next 12 months have to offer.

There are a few resolutions we would like for some of our friends in the athletic world to adopt, and we offer them while we uncover the 1958 model of the crystal ball.

The resolution which would probably make Boston Red Sox fans happier than anything else would be if Ted Williams resolved to spit no more.

Buddy Parker should resolve to speak only of the Steelers. Bert Bell could make the resolution to get the 1958 NFL championship game on TV.

The Tigers, Lions, Red Wings and Pistons resolve a clean sweep of pro championships for Detroit in 1958, and all area prep coaches resolve to call the Press sports department even if they lose.

THE CRYSTAL BALL SEZ:

As we look into the crystal ball we seen the Russian dog Laika winning the first dog show sponsored by the moon-men.

We see the big sports event of the year taking place next December at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh where the Detroit Lions and Steelers meet for the championship and as a feature preceding the game we see a 10-round bout between George "The Lion" Wilson and Buddy "The Steel Man" Parker.

. . . In the picture we see Duffy Daugherty accepting a Texas oil well after the Spartans defeat Stanford in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day 1959, and at Ann Arbor we see a big dinner honoring Bump Elliott as the new coach of the Wolverines.

. . . Now we see the Michigan Athletic Council adding a few more district and regional basketball tournaments to make life more miserable for the writers in the state, and we can also spot Charley Forsythe counting the gate receipts after four weeks of tournaments.

★ ★ ★

. . . The month of October comes into view and we see general manager Gabe Paul of Cincinnati dismantling Crosley Field piece by piece to ship it to the Bronx after the Redlegs defeat the Chicago White Sox in five games of the World Series.

★ ★ ★

As the hours of the New Year go by we get quick glance at couple interesting pictures, one showing Wally Burkemo winning his first major medal-play tournament, the National Open at Tulsa . . . We note Barry Mackay getting even with Mel Anderson by trimming the Aussie for the U.S. National Tennis title and we see Floyd Patterson defending his heavyweight title against well (un)known Russian Vladimir Maksimovich Malenkov with a kayo after 10 seconds of the first round.

Oops, there goes the crystal ball crashing to the floor. Oh, well anyway, Happy New Year to Everyone.

Rose Bowl Tops 7-Game Card

Bucks Heavily Favored Over Oregon Eleven

Fans Get National Radio, TV Coverage on 4 Big Battles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

College football players, who always manage to reach the year's climax a day later than other Americans, did it again today in seven bowl games.

And as usual, the Rose Bowl—the Father Time of post-season football—was the last to ring out the major collegiate season. Big Ten champion Ohio State met Oregon, Pacific Coast Conference co-champ, at Pasadena, Calif., in the 44th edition of the famed classic.

The Ohio State Buckeyes have been a three-touchdown favorite ever since the pairings were announced late in November. Nothing was expected to change the odds before the 5 p.m., EST, kickoff.

National radio and television coverage was listed for four games, the Rose Bowl (NBC, 4:45 p.m., EST), the Cotton Bowl (Navy vs. Rice, CBS, 4:15), the Sugar Bowl (Texas vs. Mississippi, NBC, 1:45) and the Orange Bowl (Oklahoma vs. Duke, CBS, 1:30 p.m.).

In one night game, Mississippi Southern (8-1) will meet East Texas State (8-1) in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.

The Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., and the Prairie View Bowl at Houston, Tex., rounded out the post-season card this afternoon. Drake (7-1) and Louisville (8-1) were matched in the Sun Bowl, and Texas Southern (7-3) battled host Prairie View (6-3).

The Cotton Bowl pitted Navy, the pride of the East, against Rice, the Southwest Conference champion, before more than 75,000 at Dallas, Tex. The Midshipmen, with an 8-1-1 record, were rated one point better than the Owls, who turned in a 7-3 season mark.

Texas, the Southwest's second best team, also had an underdog role in the Sugar Bowl where Mississippi, with an 8-1-1 record, was a three-point favorite over the Longhorns who went 6-3-1 in 1957.

More than 82,000 were on hand for the Sugar's 24th renewal, the same as Miami's Orange Bowl. The Cotton was held for the 22nd time today.

Big Eight champion Oklahoma, a team that thrives on speed, was delighted by the forecast of warm, sunny weather for the Orange Bowl battle with the Duke Blue Devils of the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Sooners, whose only loss was to Notre Dame, took a 9-1 record into the battle and were accorded 10 points over the Blue Devils (6-2-2).

Say Coast Game Rivals

Odds Out of Line

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The rival coaches went into today's 44th Rose Bowl game in full agreement that Ohio State's 19-point edge over Oregon, awarded by the odds-makers, is a bit out of line.

★ ★ ★

Coach Woody Hayes of the Bucks, who drew seat No. 13 at yesterday's kickoff luncheon, said he didn't think the unlucky number would be unlucky since he was born in 1913 and considers "13" a lucky omen.

"But," declared the coach of the year, "anyone who picks one team over another in an intersectional fray like this must have holes in his head."

Personable Len said that his Oregons had checked the movies of Ohio's games and that they thought they had found a weakness at left guard on the fourth Buckeye team.

"No one has beaten us by 19 points this year," Casanova said, "and I don't figure our pink-cheeked youngsters will lose that badly to Ohio. At least, we'll show up for the game and give 'em all we have—and maybe it will be enough."

Both coaches said they'd prefer a dry field for the contest, and the weatherman promised to cooperate.

Gov. C. William O'Neil of Ohio has bet a Buckeye tree against a fir tree put up by Gov. Robert D. Holmes of Oregon—and each executive said he had reserved a space in front of his statehouse to plant the "winnings."

A full house of 100,809 was assured for the contest, with thousands of fans moving in from both Ohio and Oregon.

Florida, Ohio 5s Tourney Victors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Florida and Ohio University won the Gator Bowl and the All-American City championships, respectively, last night as the end of the merry whirl of Christmas holiday college basketball tournaments hove into sight.

★ ★ ★

The last of more than 45 tournaments opens tonight with first round games in the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala. and the New Hampshire Invitational at Durham, N.H.

★ ★ ★

Georgia failed last night in the championship final of the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. The Bulldogs went down before Florida 76-63 as Joe Hobbs sank 24 points for the winners and put on a fascinating stall with some fancy dribbling in the final minutes. Clemson beat South Carolina 85-65 for third place.

Ohio University scored nine straight points to wipe out a 15-8 deficit, then went on to drub Kentucky Wesleyan 83-70 for the championship of the All-American City tourney at Owensboro, Ky. Dave Scott sparked the winners with 22 points. Southern Illinois nipped Washington and Lee 69-66 for third.

Two smaller tourneys — the Kalamazoo Invitational and the Fort Hays Invitation — went to Kalamazoo and Southwestern Oklahoma, respectively. Kalamazoo beat Manchester 96-82 and Southwestern Oklahoma downed Eastern New Mexico 50-45.

Notre Dame blew a 15-point lead against Northwestern, but rallied in the last three minutes to beat the Wildcats of the Big Ten 71-66. Two free throws by John McCarthy erased a 64-63 Northwestern lead with three minutes left and put Notre Dame ahead for good.

In other games Seton Hall whipped Colby 67-53 and Xavier of Cincinnati defeated Regis 86-66.

Writers Laud Temple Star

New York (AP) — Madison Square Garden basketball fans and newspapermen who watched Temple's fast breaking quintet polish off Pittsburgh, Seattle and California to romp off with the Holiday Festival tournament were virtually in unanimous agreement that Guy Rodgers, the Owls' spectacular guard, should have no trouble earning a place on the All-America team.

★ ★ ★

The six-foot senior thrilled a cheering crowd of 11,851 and confounded a baffled California five last night as he led the Owls to a 69-59 victory over the Golden Bears to earn the writers' unanimous vote as the tourney's most valuable player.

★ ★ ★

The stocky, sleight-of-hand artist wound up with 52 points for the three games. He also totaled 16 assists, high for the tournament and 22 rebounds.

Buchholz, Crawford in Junior Finale

Crawford defeated fellow Californian Robert Delgado of Los Angeles, top-seeded 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 on his aggressive play in a semifinal yesterday. Buchholz, who also rushed boldly to the net, eliminated Rudy Hernando of Detroit 7-5, 10-8, as Hernando played a baseline game.

Net Titles Settled

Dodgers Now Face Delay to June on Site of Field

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers—baseball's siteless wonders—probably will be well into their first season here before they find out whether the people want them shagging fly balls in Chavez Ravine.

★ ★ ★

The City Council's Charter and Administrative Code Committee recommended yesterday that the disputed ordinance granting the National League club a stadium site in the Ravine be submitted to the voters in the state primary election next June 3.

The unanimous action followed a brief hearing distinguished chiefly by the remarks of an annoyed attorney and a tall, blonde woman in a red coat, who read a prepared statement from a piece of butcher paper.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the alternatives of rescinding the ordinance, calling a special referendum election, or placing the issue on the regular primary ballot in June.

Pasadena Amateur Top LA Qualifiers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank Hixon, 44-year-old amateur from Pasadena, led a field of 240 in the qualifying round of the $40,000 Los Angeles Open yesterday. Then he withdrew from the golf tournament.

Hixon, a real estate man and former Southern California amateur champion, scored seven birdies during a five-under-par 33-33—66 round at South Hills Country Club in West Covina.

Hixon said he was giving up his qualifying position because he did not want to deprive a good professional of a spot in the 98-man field.

Big State Loop Will Fold Soon

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—The loss of Victoria to the Texas League looks like the death knell for the 11-year-old Big State League.

League President Hal Sayles said the class B baseball circuit probably will suspend operations Jan. 18.

"With the loss of Victoria, we now have only three sure starters for next season and a couple of probables," Sayles said.

Tests Ski Skill in Europe

State Girl Olympic Hope

Michigan's Nonie Foley, rated the top U.S. woman skier, appears as the cover girl for the January issue of a national sports publication. Her home town is Houghton, where she was practically raised on skis.

Just 18 and barely five feet, her age and height are important assets. This petite Michigan skier is now in Europe, training with the best American skiers. While there Nonie will have the chance to prove that she is one of our hopes for the 1960 Olympics.

Nonie's record is already spectacular. She rose from 8th place in her first championship race to 3rd within a short time. Two years ago she was number one at Sun Valley. Soon afterward her efforts became one victory after another.

During the FIS tryouts, she scored 94 points — more than any other competator.

Nonie is the national giant slalom champion and American International giant slalom and slalom champion. It's a bright beginning for a brilliant future.

Portuguese Driver Wins at Sao Paulo

Faria beat a strong field of some 300 runners from 15 countries, including Truex and Vladimir Kuts, Russia's Olympic champion who was the favorite.

Truex, of Los Angeles, made a strong bid for the lead luring the first two miles, but the pace was too much for him and he collapsed. After he recovered he said he did not remember what happened. He retired immediately to his hotel and went to sleep.

Forecast Calls for Dry, Mild Bowl Weather

CHICAGO (INS) — Dry and mild weather was in prospect for today's four major football bowl games but much of the nation's weather picture was less rosy for the holiday.

SQUAWKS, NOT SLAPSTICK — What seems to be a good comedy pose by Richie Guerin of the New York Knickerbockers and Mendy Rudolph, referee, was merely the beginning of a good argument at Madison Square Garden. Rudolph's call went against Guerin and when the yelling began, Ron Sobie of the Knicks, center, tried to wedge himself into the act.

Sandlotters Buck Majors' Sunday TV

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Sandlot baseball joined the minor leagues today in opposing proposed televising of major league games on Sundays.

★ ★ ★

Ray Dumont, president, said the National Baseball Congress will protest to the major league teams concerned, but will not join the minor leagues in any protest to Congress.

More than 25,000 sandlot and non-pro baseball clubs will be in action next summer, Dumont said. Most of them will play home games on Sunday afternoons.

"That means about 10,000 games are played on the average Sunday afternoon—about 75 times as many as are played in the pro ranks on the same date," he said.

NBA Opens 1958 in Old Rut

Sparrow Hits 23 in Knicks, 142-116 Win Over Lakers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Basketball Assn. starts the New Year today in the same row it hoed to open 1957: Boston still leads the Eastern Division, St. Louis still leads the Western Division and Bill Russell, 6-10 Boston rebounder, still is in the middle of controversy.

★ ★ ★

Neither division leaders were threatened after the completion of two NBA games yesterday.

New York moved to within two games of the second-place Syracuse Nats in the Eastern Division by routing Minneapolis 142-116 in Madison Square Garden.

Cincinnati slipped past Detroit into second place in the west, whipping the Pistons 130-96. The Royals' best rebounder, Maurice Stokes, returned to action for the first time since Dec. 3.

St. Louis has a 10-game lead over Cincinnati and Boston holds a 6½-game margin over the Nats. Both are defending division champions.

★ ★ ★

As for Russell, his boss, Celtic president Walter Brown, came to his defense after St. Louis coach Alex Hannum said the former San Francisco star used what he called illegal maneuvers. Said Brown in Boston:

Hannum, who says Russell often walks with the ball while going in for a layup, said he didn't want to enter into a personality clash and would protest Russell's play to Jocko Collins, NBA commissioner.

New York set a team and Garden scoring record against Minneapolis. They hit 50 field goals on 100 shots. Rookie Guy Sparrow led the Knicks with 23 points, followed by Willie Naulls with 22 as every New Yorker but Larry Friend broke into double scoring figures. Friend was scoreless.

Yardley's 22 Wasted Effort

Royals Win, 130-96

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Royals slapped the Detroit Pistons out of second place in the National Basketball Assn.'s Western Division and moved into it themselves last night.

The Royals whipped the Pistons 130-96—or by 34 points. It could have been even worse, because Cincinnati once held a 36-point edge.

Maurice Stokes, ace Royal rebounder, played for the first time in eight games. He had been out with a leg injury, but he managed to snare 18 rebounds last night and to net eight points.

With George Yardley, who got 22 Detroit points leading the way, the Pistons made a ball game of it only through the first quarter. When the half ended it was 54-38, Cincinnati.

SHOT BLOCKED — George Yardley, Detroit's scoring ace, tries to get off a shot in the 1st quarter of a pro game at Cincinnati last night but the home team's Jack Twyman (27) blocked it. Cincinnati won 130-96.

Wally Fromhart to Speak Here

Wally Fromhart, head football coach at the University of Detroit, will be the main speaker at the annual athletic banquet to be held at St. Benedict's Church Feb. 3.

He was recently named major college Catholic coach of the year by the board of Catholic coaches after the Titans went from a 2-8 record in 1956 to 6-3 last fall.

Several other notables from collegiate and professional sports will also appear on the program.

Bruno Kearns, Sports Editor of The Pontiac Press, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Rowe Will Manage Montgomery Rebels

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Former Detroit Tiger pitching star Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe has been named manager of the Montgomery Rebels.

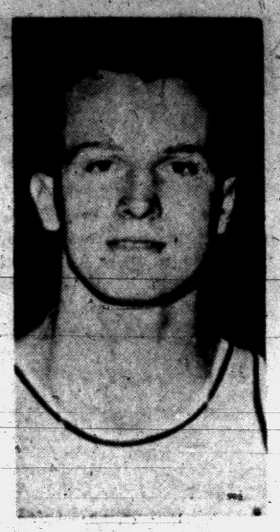

The 46-year-old Rowe who served as a scout for the Detroit Tigers last year will be the second former major league hurler to pilot the Class D Alabama-Florida League club. He succeeds Frank (Stubby) Overmire who led the Rebs to the league pennant last season.

MIAMI, Fla., (AP)—President Frank Shaughnessy of the International League said yesterday the Marlins baseball club must find a place to play its games by Jan. 22 if Miami is to keep the team.

The league meets Jan. 22.

Shaughnessy said three other cities are seeking Miami's franchise but named only Jersey City, N. J.

'Didn't Feel Like Arguing'

Violator Has New Excuse

GRAND RAPIDS — Needless to say, all officers rather expect an excuse of some sort when they find someone committing an infraction of the law.

Most excuses fall into a general pattern, such as: "I'm sorry, officer, but I really didn't know that was illegal, etc." This year, however, two conservation department officers ran into a new one.

While on a boat patrol, officer Paul Durham of Rockford checked a boat with three fishermen aboard. One of the anglers looked closely at Durham, then said:

'Say, I believe I know you. Aren't you officer Barham or Durham or something like that."

"Yes," the officer replied, "I'm Paul Durham."

★ ★ ★

"Well, don't you recognize me?" asked the fisherman. "You gave me a ticket here a few years ago. You said I was fishing with three lines, but I really wasn't. You see, I had all my teeth pulled the day before and my mouth was so sore I didn't feel like arguing with you."

Durham points out that the angler, who didn't want to argue, had pleaded guilty.

Picture Stars Play With Pros in Links Event

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Some of the nation's top golfers team with movie stars tomorrow in a $5,000 pro-celebrity-amateur event, a prelude to the 32nd annual Los Angeles Open tournament.

★ ★ ★

Harvard Coach Hits Gophers' Puck Team

"It wouldn't be tolerated in the East," Weiland said. "The way it was played Saturday night you might as well use picks and shovels instead of hockey sticks." Harvard lost 3-2.

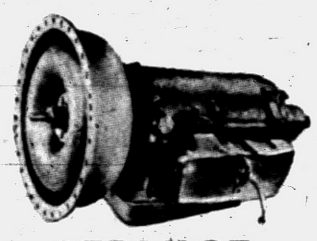

"No hockey player worth the name will complain about a legitimate body check in the open. But when they charge a guy into the fence, put elbows and sticks in his face, use threatening gestures and molest a player when he doesn't have the puck, it's time to call a halt.

"If this keeps up we may have to buy some swords to protect ourselves," said Weiland.

Aims for 1960 Olympics

Texas' Bobby Morrow Wins Sullivan Award

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian College, who won the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy as the outstanding amateur athlete of 1957, said today he hopes to go to the Olympics again in 1960.

★ ★ ★

Morrow raced to three gold medals in the 1956 Olympics and was the first choice in 213 of the 586 ballots cast by a group of sports authorities for the Sullivan award. On a 5-3-1 point basis, Morrow got 1,548 points, the awards committee announced yesterday.

Morrow, father of 3-week-old twins—Ron Floyd and Vicki Jo—equalled the Olympic record of 100 meters by winning in 10.3 seconds. He set a record of 20.6 seconds in the 200 meters and ran anchor leg on the 400-meter relay team that made an Olympic and world record of 139.5.

Courtney won Olympic gold medals in the 800-meter run and 1,600-meter relays.

3. Harold Connally, Boston AA, 1956 Olympic hammer champion and record holder, who got 78 firsts and 748 points.

4. Tommy Kono, York (Pa.) AC, 1952 and 1956 Olympic weightlifting titlist, with 71 firsts and 719 points.

5. Glenn Davis, Olympic 400-meter hurdles champion, 27 firsts and 353 points.

Wings Edge Chicago

DETROIT (AP)—A 3-2 New Year's Eve victory over the Chicago Black Hawks lifted the Detroit Red Wings back into a fourth-place tie with Toronto in the National Hockey League.

With the rest of the league idle, the Wings and the Hawks played before a holiday crowd of 9,202 at Olympia.

Virtually all the drama was packed in the final period when Gordie Howe made a brilliant goal while the Wings were short handed. Howe's last goal of the year was one to be remembered. The Wings had two men in the penalty box for 29 seconds before Howe scored.

The Wings were still one man short when Howe took Nick Mickoski's pass at center ice and knifed through three Hawks to score on a 10-footer.

The game was only 40 seconds old in the first period when Howe gave the Wings a 1-0 lead. Forbes Kennedy got Detroit's other goal early in the final period.

Folley Seeks 17th Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)—Zora Folley, second-ranking heavyweight contender, hopes to start off the New Year with his 17th straight victory.

★ ★ ★

The shifty boxer from Chandler, Ariz. is a 3 to 1 favorite over Garvin Sawyer of Cincinnati in tonight's 10-round match at the Capitol Arena. It will be carried on ABC television, starting at 10 p.m., EST.

★ ★ ★

Before the year is out, Folley hopes to get champion Floyd Patterson into the ring with the title on the line. He hasn't lost since 1955. In fact, his career record for 40 fights is 37-2-1. He has knocked out 24 of his victims and was stopped twice.

Ticket Sales Heavy

MSU Hoop Interest High

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University is bubbling with basketball enthusiasm with the start of the new year.

Not even the 71-69 surprise defeat by Washington Monday night has dimmed high spirits over the streak of seven early season wins over non-conference foes.

Attendance at the first three home games this season totalled 26,237 compared to 16,016 for the comparable three games a year ago. This was more than 10,000 better for the three and an average of 3,000-plus more customers a game.

Official capacity of the fieldhouse is 12,500 but attendance has been swelled to 13,817 by standees and extra seats.

Michigan State was third nationally in total basketball attendance last year behind Kansas and North Carolina. If the Spartans continue their high flying pace, a sellout or near sellout should be assured for every home game from now on in to boost the attendance figures.

Before the season started, MSU was picked as a favorite along with co-champion Indiana and the Buckeyes. Indiana has won only one of seven games and Ohio State has lost all seven.

Texas Loop Shifts 1957 Club Lineup

DALLAS (AP) — Victoria replaced Shreveport in the Texas League today but an operator must be found for Dallas, which turned its franchise back.

And the league also is looking toward the Mexican League for a couple of clubs that would make it a 10-club circuit.

Dallas, which has been a member of the Class AA league since its start in 1888, yesterday surrendered its franchise because it had been denied a move to higher classification. Dick Butler, president of the league, said, however, that he was certain that an operator for the franchise would be quickly found since the Dallas owners are willing to lease their park.

2 MSU Athletes Earn All-A's in Classroom Work

EAST LANSING (AP)—Two Michigan State University athletes earned straight A's in classroom work during the fall term and 53 Spartan athletic regulars had a grade point average of B or better, the athletic department said today.

STRIKES AND SPARES
By Joe Wilman

There are several things shown in today's drawing you might note. First, if you're a small man and you're having trouble getting enough speed into your delivery, try holding the ball chest-high, as shown, to get a longer arc to your armswing. This will give you a higher backswing and more arm momentum.

Second, note how the bowler's body is facing his target squarely. Copy this position and you shouldn't find it difficult to hit your target.

Third, notice the relaxed and comfortable stance the bowler has. Nothing stiff or tense there.

Fourth, take a look at our bowler's concentration. Nothing but the task at hand is on his mind. He's not worrying about bowlers two or three alleys away and he's not carrying on a conversation with someone on the bench.

Remember, any mistakes in your stance usually result in additional errors by the time you deliver the ball. So make sure your starting position is correct.

Along the Outdoor Trail

H. GUY MOATS, Outdoor Editor

CHAMP'S CHAMPION — Carmen Basilio won a field trial with Rumson Farm Hayride, with which the middleweight champion works on the New York State Three Rivers Game Management Area near Syracuse. Handled by his regular trainer, Earl Crangle, the Waynesboro, Ga., pointer won the National Pheasant Championship over the same course.

Wild Turkeys Get Big Round of Publicity

Illinois Joins in Hopes for Huntable Gobbler Population

These wild turkeys, edged out once by the bald eagle in a contest over which would become the national emblem, seemed to be getting all the better of publicity during the year. Even Illinois hunters, flushed with their first home-state deer hunting season in modern times, started thinking about setting up a huntable population of gobblers. State game experts said that if the enthusiasm keeps up for 10 or 12 years, they may be able to make the grade.

Florida fish experts pulled off one of the most spectacular large-scale management operations in the country in 1957 when they poisoned out 3½ million pounds of trash shad from 31,000-acre Lake Apopka. Critics were silenced when the project achieved its purpose with the smallest loss of game fish ever recorded in such a selective-killing program. Even the threat of alarmists to raise a big whatever it was foiled when wind and weather kept most of the tons of dead fish from surfacing.

★ ★ ★

In the area of game management, Texas joined the ranks of western states which have been able to restore buffalo hunting, albeit on a mighty limited basis. And Michigan joined the ranks of those who had an elk hunt—much against its best intentions. The state's cherished elk herd was diminished by one when a bow and arrow hunter—who must have thought he was shooting either Michigan's largest deer or smallest elephant—wounded a stately cow.

★ ★ ★

But the dubious award of most mistaken identity afield went without challenge to California, where a cautious deer hunter—not satisfied with wearing ordinary scarlet or orange clothes—made himself a suit of striped awning cloth for safety's sake. . . . and was promptly shot and killed by a novice hunter.

★ ★ ★

"I didn't mistake him for a deer," the novice hunter was quoted as saying at the inquest. "Certainly not. I thought he was a zebra."

Early Fall Date for 'Nationals'

By H. GUY MOATS

An early fall date has been set for the 1958 National Skeet Shooting Association's big shotgun tournament. The nation's biggest shotgun (skeet) event returns to Oakland County Sportsmen's Club for a July 28-Aug. 2 week-long blasting of clay "birds." This date, however, is not yet official, but was expected to receive final approval from both OCSC and the NSSA within a few days.

"We believe the July 28-Aug. 2 dates will be approved at Thursday's conference at the Waterford Club, and the national board in all probability will go along with my recommendations in this connection," NSSA president Chet Crites said yesterday.

Crites (an OCSC member) talked over preliminaries with the OCSC executive board during the weekend. This week's conference will iron out many details, and the final word will come from the Jan. 6 board session and the Jan. 29 membership meeting.

Crites mentioned a possible alternate date, in case the first-mentioned is not acceptable. He said the tourney could be set for the following week, starting Aug. 4, ending Aug. 9.

Preliminaries usually get under way a day or so prior to the actual competition, with hundreds of skeet addicts getting in practice rounds. First competition is for the little .410s. Next comes the 28s, then the hard-hitting 20s and finally the last three days the big 12-gauge guns take over. The "big ones" include 100 birds each day, with the last 50 set for the Saturday windup when the top championship is determined.

Champions for 1957 were:

Bob Thiefels, Pontiac, 28-gauge.

Ben DeOrio, California, 20-gauge.

John Dalton, Washington, D. C., 12-gauge.

T. Harris, Houston, Tex., high overall champion.

Michigan's team included topgun Aims Borsum of Baldwin; Crites, Confer, of Detroit; Ken Sedelecki, Baldwin and Thiefels. "I can't see why we can't go right to the top this year, with all the boys back in action," Crites said.

SKEETERS' PREXIES — Heading the National Skeet Shooting Association, and the current top man (right) in plans for the 1958 NSSA tournament, at Oakland County Sportsmen's club is Chet Crites (Detroit), a member of OCSC. At left is Ray G. Newman, OCSC president, who will have an important role in the top U. S. shotgun competition here. Crites was an important cog in bringing the Nationals to Pontiac two years ago, last fall. He was also a member of the Michigan team that missed the national team title by two birds, last fall. Date for the '58 shoot is not yet official but is expected to be July 28-Aug. 2.

Source of Tall Tales—and True

State Outdoor Writers Hold Winter Confab

By JERRY CHIAPPETTA

ALL OUTDOORS (INS)—Michigan outdoor writers will be packing their bags Jan. 30 and heading to St. Ignace for the annual winter meeting.

The formal announcement said more than 100 writers "will visit points of outdoor interest throughout the eastern Upper Peninsula area.

"They will hunt, fish and collect story material, hold a business session and engage in various activities during the meeting."

Just recently the Burlington Liar's club met and named Harry Berogen of South Dakota as the 1957 champ, but undoubtedly he has never been to a MOWA meeting. His prize tale was about a farmer who disappeared while plowing his farm. His wife thought he was plowed under.

★ ★ ★

She had drawn three widow's pension checks before he reappeared last wee?. His explanation: His field was so long that by the time he reached the end it was harvest time. So he swapped his plow and disk for a combine and harvested his way back.

★ ★ ★

We members of the MOWA could have topped that easily, although we try to devote our most endless energies to collecting and spreading the truth.

One writer at the last winter meeting said he caught a fish so big, the picture weighed 10 pounds. Another said he doesn't bother to shoot deer. He just goes to sleep on a runway and when a big buck comes by he holds his knife up—hogs and dresses him out at the same time. Saves bullets.

No two zebra, even of the same variety, are exactly alike in markings. Apart from the mountain zebra of southwest Africa, all belong to one species.

Training Class Starts Jan. 15

Second dog obedience training period for Waterford Recreation department begins Jan. 15 at the Community Activities building, Williams Lake road, starting at 8 p.m.

Classes are co . sponsored by the Southern Michigan Dog Obedience Training club, with Jim Richmond in charge. Classes will be for beginner dogs, and will run 11 weeks. First session will be an exhibition of dogs and will be taken Jan. 15.

Richmond will take two of the 22 dogs that completed the recent training, to Ferndale, Jan. 10 for a "fun night", in competition with dogs from 13 other classes in the area. Gene Connell's boxer and Mrs. C. W. Morris' springer will go from Waterford.

Information about the Waterford class can be had by calling OR 3-9152 or OR 3-3810.

Snowfall Gives Skiing Outlook Needed Boost

Today's snow and prospects for additional precipitation of the "beautiful," lent strength to hopes that there would be skiing for the New Year's holiday, and the weekend to follow. Area ski resorts were hopeful last Friday that skiing would be available during the weekend, but rain and higher temperatures wiped out the hopes.

Grampian Mt. east of Oxford Mt. Holly, north of Pontiac and Summit club at Fenton will continue "making" snow to complement the natural snowfall.

If no change in weather interferes, there will certainly be skiing at these sites, and probably at Teeple Hill in Highland Recreation Area, at Bald Mt. Recreaton Area, Kensington Metropolitan Park in the Milford area, and at the Birmingham Recreaton ski hill on 14-Mile road.

'57 Was Good to Outdoorsmen

Future Optimistic, Too

By JACK PATTERSON

It's customary at this season to review the past year in terms of one's own particular interests and how well those interests fared. And it's equally seasonal to attempt to forecast the future of those same interests in the 12 months ahead.

Readers of this column are quite aware that we PATTERSON are a professional viewer-with-alarm when it comes to the hunting and fishing picture in this great state of ours. Increasing population, coupled with shrinking wild lands, tolls the twilight of field sports as surely as the September school bell signals the end of summer vacation. But maybe we're prematurely alarmed. Looking back across the year that expired yesterday, we discover that there was still plenty of incentive for going outdoors.

Beginning in April we found in a good many streams and rivers that brook trout are as easy to catch as they were a hundred years ago. Brown and rainbow trout were easier because they didn't exist here a hundred years ago.

In the golden first half of October we hunted ruffed grouse from Watersmeet to Waterford, with occasional time out for pursuit of fast-flying sharptails, and discovered again that there's still an awful lot of wild territory left in this state of ours, and bridge or no bridge, there will be for a long time to come.

In alder swales and poppled hillsides we shot woodcock throughout the season and occasionally visited the big marshes for limit shoots of jacksnipe. Pheasants populated the rich farmlands of the Thumb in astounding numbers.

Later, we got serious about ducks, and from sneakboat and offshore blind took tribute from southbound hosts of canvasbacks, redheads and bluebills. And on several occasions we scrounged the potholes for mallards.

In November we found more deer than we have seen in the past few seasons.

For the coming year we see more reasons for being optimistic than otherwise. Upland hunters should find substantially the same type of pheasant hunting as in the past year. Unusually severe winter weather or a very cold, wet spring could upset predictions, but with anything like normal weather, the outlook has to be good. Ruffed grouse cycles are definitely on the upswing and '58 should see a decided improvement over recent seasons.

Migratory birds are always an unknown quantity until the results of the all-important breeding seasons can be assessed. But at worst there will be shooting and wildfowlers needn't sell their rigs to museums yet.

Deer kill figures from the last hunting season, plus a huge illegal kill, added to even a heavy winter kill, still do not total up to what the herd can stand and still maintain itself in optimum number for its environment.

For the outdoorsman, then, 1958 should live up to the seasonal wish of a "Happy New Year."

Water Safety Recommendations

State Group in Session

Discussion of recommendations for water safety regulations on Michigan's myriad waters will be the big item of business at the Friday conference, in Chicago, of state Water Safety Study Commission members. Oakland County Sportsmen's club's Marshall Johnson is a member of the body, and Friday's meeting will include two others of the legislative drafting group.

Highlights of this interim report to the governor will be recommendations covering the following points:

A. — Amendments to the present boating act No. 310 to make it a more practical and workable law.

B. — Recommendations for minimum equipment requirements on all watercraft on the inland lakes of Michigan.

D. — Uniform Water Accident Report Form to be used by all police reporting agencies throughout the state.

Appointed to the commission's drafting committee were Keith E. Wilson, director of the Michigan Waterways Commission, Fred B. Lifton, legislative coordinator for the Outboard Boating Club of America, and OCSC's Johnson.

The Chicago meeting has been called to write up final recommendations to the governor for inclusion in his legislative program for 1958. The committee's report will be submitted for final approval to the Water Commission at its January 10 meeting in Detroit.

List of Spearing Waters Available

The 1958 list includes trout lakes and trout streams—or portions of streams—in 12 counties in the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula.

Outdoor Activities Gain in '57

Resources for the future — always the major goal of conservation — received special emphasis during 1957, Michigan Conservation Dept. reported today.

Expanding industrial, agricultural and commercial uses in the future promise to exert even greater pressure on Michigan's natural resources. This means more intensive use of water, land, minerals and other vital commodities.

Meanwhile, the state's growing population coupled with increased leisure time creates a larger demand for public recreational opportunities — more facilities for hunting, fishing, camping and other outdoor activities.

Game division personnel started work on establishment of experimental game areas authorized by the 1957 legislature. Experiments in the five areas will include varying of season lengths and bag limits on small game to test effects of hunting pressure on individual species

Game research work of this nature will provide information valuable in the determination of future hunting regulations.

★ ★ ★

Possibly the most significant development occurred in Cheboygan county when the initial field test of a lamprey control chemical was "very successful." The trial was an encouraging note in efforts to restore the once-valuable Great Lakes fishery.

★ ★ ★

Improvement projects on inland lakes and streams also were increased.

★ ★ ★

Attendance at Michigan state parks, where current and future needs perhaps are most critical, was at near-record levels and a five-year program for expansion and development was proposed. The $27,500,000 program suggested by the Department includes acquisition and development by 1963 of 225,000 acres in 23 counties for new public recreation facilities.

More than 17,000,000 persons visited state parks in 1957, over-crowding existing facilities.

Africans Listen to Organ's 'Ghost'

DURBAN, S. Africa — Over 100 years ago—so goes a story that still persists—a woman organist died of fright in a church at Mount Edgecombe, near Durban, South Africa, when a black mamba snake fell from the rafters.

But the organ went on playing. Every year a few people gather in the red sandstone church to "listen for the ghostly strains of the organ." Around the church on the rolling sugar-cane hills are the graves of early residents, including that of the first organist.

Some old people are convinced that if they sit quietly they can hear the strains of the organ still playing.

More men than women commit suicide and it is generally more common in hot weather than in cold.

Assembly Lines Open Full Speed Monday

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP) — Most of the auto industry's assembly lines will be back in operation next Monday for full time operations after holiday shutdowns of varying length.

The industry's programming for 1958 will be somewhat flexible, rising or falling with the trend in retail demand. Estimates of the number of passenger cars to be built range from 5,300,000 units to six million. At the moment "something below six million" appears to be the most popular guess.

First major event of the new year for the auto industry will be the Chicago Show, Jan. 4-12. More than 400 cars and trucks will be displayed. Among them will be Ford's newest Thunderbird, a larger, four-passenger car with a 300-horsepower engine, and American Motors' new smaller wheelbase Rambler American.

Aside from what lies ahead of the industry in output and retail deliveries most significant event of the year will be the negotiations for new labor contracts with each of the manufacturers. The new agreements will replace contracts of five years standing in the industry. They will cover every phase of employment at the hourly-rate level.

The agreements between the auto makers and the United Auto Workers usually shape the pattern for contracts between the industry's suppliers and organized labor. They have far-reaching effect not only on the car industry but on the over-all industrial economy.

The soon-to-expire contracts did not wholly free the industry of work stoppages as was predicted when they were signed. There were work stoppages but relatively few were of prolonged duration.

Whether conflicting views of management and union can be reconciled without strikes is the subject of considerable speculation in industry circles. Certainly the viewpoints of opposing leaders will look much farther into the future than the present somewhat slowed-down tempo of industry operations.

Those industry analysts who speak optimistically of 1958 prospects are hoping for a substantial upturn in new car demand during the year's April-June quarter. That traditional upturn did not materialize in 1956 or 1957.

It may be that seasonal factors are less effective in the auto industry than they were a decade ago. The industry sold nearly 12 million new cars in the last two years without the usual spring upsurge in demand. But in both 1956 and 1957 a sharp drop developed in retail deliveries near the calendar year-end.

It is true, of course, that there has been a natural increase in over-all transportation requirements.

The trade publication Ward's Automotive Reports said recently that car buyers in 1957 paid 40 billion dollars for new and used cars. The statistical agency figured that of this total new car sales alone accounted for a dollar volume of $19,200,000,000.

News in Brief

William Aho, parks supervisor for the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept., told Pontiac Police that someone broke into the storage room at Murphy Park on East boulevard and broke several light bulbs and destroyed six glass blocks on the front of the building.

Joseph Palace, co-owner of the Palace's Auto Wash, 92 Baldwin Ave., reported to Pontiac Police that someone entered the place of business sometime between Dec. 30 and Dec. 31 and removed an undetermined amount of change from the cigarette machine, four car floor mats and a flashlight.

Couple Wed in Lake Orion Church

ORION TOWNSHIP — Palms and candelabra adorned the altar of the Lake Orion Methodist Church Saturday afternoon when Charlotte Ann Rhodes became the bride of Philip Douglas Cowdin.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rhodes, 1245 Rhodes Rd. The bridegroom, who is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Cowdin, formerly of Hemingway road, resided with his sister, Mrs. Elmer Rhodes, 2824 Lansdowne, Drayton Plains.

She wore a snowy white, silk velvet gown. Frosted Alencon lace traced a rose pattern across the molded bodice, which was deeply squared decolletage and long traditionally tapered sleeves. The lace formed a garland across the skirt which belled into a court train.

Alice Rhodes, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Ann Griffiths of Portland and Gloria Zilli of Windsor, were bridesmaids.

MRS. PHILIP D. COWDIN

Elmer Rhodes, brother-in-law of the bridegroom served as the best man. John P. Neff and J. C. Webster were groomsmen and Robert and John Seelinger of Bay City, junior ushers.

Upon their return the bride will resume her post graduate public health course for three weeks, after which they will reside in the Pontiac area.

The bride received her B. S. degree from the University of Michigan School of Nursing last spring, and her RN this past summer.

The bridegroom was graduated from Lake Orion High School in 1951 and General Motors Truck Trade School in 1955.

Pair Wed by Candlelight in West Bloomfield

Dr. Achilles Siagris performed the double-ring rite before 100 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nicholas of Tamson road, West Bloomfield Township. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William McDonald, 10274 Pontiac Lake Rd., White Lake.

The bride wore a gown of antique ivory silk shantung featuring a fitted bodice and train of appliqued lace. The sabrina neckline and long sleeves were fashioned in Chantilly lace flecked with iridescent sequins and seed pearls.

Martha Savas, the bride's cousin, was maid of honor with Pat Partridge and Christine White as bridesmaids. Macrina Nicholas, the bride's niece, and Sharon McDonald, the bridegroom's niece, were flower girls.

After a trip to Niagara Falls and New York City, the couple will live in Commerce.

MRS. RUSSELL McDONALD

Grace Jarret, Elmer Bailey Wed in Dryden

DRYDEN—The Methodist Church was the scene of the double ring, candlelight wedding of Grace Marie Jarret and Elmer Bailey Saturday.

The Rev. Stephen Chapko performed the rite before 200 guests.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon lace, featuring a tierred, bouffant skirt and fitted bodice with a standing collar and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums with a pull-out corsage.

Carol Jarret, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, with their sisters, Betty Lou and Janet, serving as bridesmaids. Diane Bailey, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl and his brother, Bill, was ring bearer.

Best man was Donald Hicks of Flint, assisted by Donald Walker, also of Flint, and Perry Bailey Jr. of Dryden. Kenneth Morrick of Detroit and Frank Hamilton of Romeo seated the guests.

After a trip through northern Michigan, the couple will live in Flint.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jarrett of S. Mill St., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Bailey of Casey road.

Girl Scouts to Camp

IMLAY CITY—Intermediate Gril troop camping at Camp Fair Winds. Mrs. Albert Young and Mrs. Charles Cornell will have charge of the sixth graders. Mrs. William Knight, Mrs. Clare Youngs and Wilhelm Wolf will lead 19 seventh and eighth graders.

Kresge Store Manager Heads Promotion Unit

Appointment of Richard Williams, manager of S. S. Kresge store in the Miracle Mile Shopping Center, as chairman of the advertising and promotion committee was announced today.

Williams, who has been in other shopping center stores throughout the state, opened the present Kresge store in the Miracle Mile center on Sept. 26.

A number of special events planned by Williams for the coming month will be announced shortly.

Proctor-Simpson Nuptials Said in South Lyon

The Rev. Silas Foltz performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in a dress fashioned of imported silk organza over taffeta. It featured a chapel train and a sabrina neckline appliqued with lace medallions, pearls and iridescent sequins. Her fingertip veil was held by a lace headpiece embroidered with pearls and iridescent sequins. The bridal bouquet was of whife camillas and roses, centered with a white poinsettia corsage.

Maryanne Kochn of Grand Rapids was maid of honor. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Suzanne Simpson of Frankenmuth, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. John Proctor of Plymouth, were bridesmaids.

The best man was Lynwood Bourne of Detroit, assisted by the bridegroom's brother, Louis of Frankenmuth, and the bride's brother, John Proctor of Plymouth. Gordon Spink of Lansing and Daniel Davis of Vassar also assisted.

★ ★ ★

After a reception held in the church parlors, the newlyweds journeyed to northern Michigan. They will live in Lansing.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Proctor of 275 Woodland Dr., is attending Michigan State University where she is a member of Delta Gamma Sorority.

Her husband, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Simpson of Frankenmuth, also attends Michigan State University. He is a member of Delta Chi fraternity.

Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty and top jockey Bill Hartack are graduates of Black Lick High School in Black Lick, Pa.

Steel on Downbeat Reports Iron Age

NEW YORK (AP) — The steel industry is moving into 1958 on the downbeat, Iron Age, the national metalworking weekly, said yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Mills are operating at slightly more than 50 per cent of capacity. Iron Age said new orders are being offset by cancellations and requests for holdups on delivery. Customers are asking and getting prompt delivery on most products.

"The news from Detroit is becoming worse instead of better," said the weekly. "The auto companies have cut back production and laid off thousands of workers for periods up to two weeks.

"The feeling is that the automakers will reschedule more steel deliveries for the next two months. And the chain reaction eventually will affect the steel ordering pattern in automotive suppliers."

Iron Age estimates at some 15 to 25 per cent of automotive steel originally scheduled for January delivery has been rescheduled.

NANCY THERESA PARCELS

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Parcels of Thornyside drive, White Lake Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Theresa, to Carl R. Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Olsen of Farr street, Commerce. A June 21 wedding is planned.

Handy Milkman Offers to Repair Gate Door

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A note left for the milkman by Mrs. Zelma Locker asked him to be sure and close the gate because the latch needed repair. He replied by note:

"Leave me a screw driver and I'll fix it for you."

Replies Filed in Court to Sullenberger Suit

Answers to a heart specialist's $250,000 damage suit were on file today in Oakland County Circuit Court. They allege at least 25 instances of "violations of professional standards" and say that in some instances the patients died.

Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger is seeking the damages which he alleges he suffered after being suspended Nov. 13 from the medical staff of Pontiac General Hospital.

The answers, filed by Pontiac City Attorney William A. Ewart, were made on behalf of the City of Pontiac, the hospital's board of trustees, and Carl I. Flath, hospital director. All were named defendants in a suit filed Dec. 2.

Dr. Sullenberger is seeking an injunction against the hospital. A show cause hearing has been postponed indefinitely. No definite date has been set, Ewart said.

Flath said the suspension was ordered after a review of the doctor's "professional and personal behavior" and for "infringement of certain rules and regulations of the medical staff bylaws."

For 1957 in Wolverine Lake
Building Totals $360,850

WOLVERINE LAKE — Estimated cost of new construction in the village of Wolverine Lake reached a total of $360,850 during 1957.

Yearly figures issued by John C. Finlayson, village clerk, disclosed that 72 building permits were granted, 53 for homes and 19 for garages and additions.

Finlayson anticipates an upturn in building activity in 1958. His forecast was based on the availability of vacant lots on improved streets in the village and the reported easing of the tight mortgage money situation.

January, $1,250; February, $15,000; March, $60,000; April, $63,600; May, $69,200; June, $25,400; July, $49,500; August, $17,500; September, $16,000; October, $34,700; November, $8,700; December, untotaled.

Test Studies Topic of Parents' Meeting

ORION TOWNSHIP — Achievement test results of Webber School pupils will be presented to parents at 8 p.m. Thursday at the school.

Mrs. Vena B. Kirkpatrick, a teacher in Orion schools for 15 years, will explain the results with graphs.

Although some standardized tests have been given in Lake Orion in the past, a comprehensive program of intelligence and achievement testing first was started in September of 1956.

Students in grades two to six now are given achievement tests in September and again in May to determine the amount of progress made through each school year. Reading readiness tests are given in grade one and group intelligence tests in grades one and three.

Test results will be presented by Mrs. Kirkpatrick to the Carpenter School PTA Jan. 20, and to the Blanche Sims PTA on March 3.

Missile Regulus II Has Big Navy Future

DALLAS (AP) — Rear Adm. John E. Clark says Regulus II promises to be the fleet's deadliest weapon.

Clark is chief of the guided missiles program for the Navy. He said the Navy would ask for more money for missiles than they would have in pre-Sputnik days and probably will order more production models of the Regulus II.

"It is performing beyond expectations," he said. "We think it has a marvelous future."

Senator Scores Tax Delinquents

Cites Joe Louis Case; Indebtedness Piled Up Over $1,000,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Frear (D-Del) said today too much "big income" escapes paying income tax.

He cited the case of Joe Louis, the former heavyweight boxing champion who wound up owing the government more than a million dollars of taxes and penalties, but said this is only one of "many, many" instances of what he has in mind.

Frear said he will propose a continuing study of tax laws by Congress.

"We have lost hundreds of millions of dollars by letting big income get away without paying," Frear told a reporter. Some of this, he said, has been through loopholes in the tax laws that need closing, but a lot more is traceable to an Internal Revenue Service staff that, he said, is too small to check tax returns as fast as they should be.

Frear said he believes Congress, by putting up more money to expand the service's staff, could recoup a lot more than it would cost, and better serve the cause of equal tax collection.

"We should learn a lesson from the case of Joe Louis," Frear said. "He just fell behind and wasn't able to pay until the debt reached the total it did." Louis' friends have been trying to help him raise funds to pay off the big tax debt, but it has been an uphill task.

★ ★ ★

"If you let them (tax delinquencies) run before you collect, you may never collect," he said, "and this is far from fair to those who do pay."

Life of Nation Facing Threat

Nobel Winner Dr. Rabi Says Political Leaders Lack Understanding

NEW YORK (AP)—Our national existence is threatened by modern scientific weapons but the facts about modern warfare have "just not penetrated" the heads of government, says Dr. Isidor I. Rabi.

★ ★ ★

Rabi is a Nobel prize winner and chairman of the President's Scientific Advisory Council. He spoke extemporaneously yesterday at an annual luncheon of the Columbia Alumni Federation.

Civilized humanity has never faced a problem so grave as the one posed by a fully armed Soviet Union and a fully armed United States, the Columbia University physics professor said.

If the facts had penetrated, Rabi said, government leaders would ponder them "every day as the daily number 1 problem."

In his talk Rabi declared that former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson termed the Soviet earth satellite a "toy or a bauble, an accomplishment of no particular utility." He added:

"You can see why I am so pleased that he is not there anymore."

★ ★ ★

The two Soviet satellites prove, he said, that the Russians "are capable of making an intercontinental ballistic missile."

Rabi was a member of the Gaither committee, which prepared a controversial classified report on the nation's defense status. Rabi said he couldn't comment on the report.

Nuevo Laredo Hit by Political Rioting

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP)—A riot broke out in the main plaza of this border city yesterday as a new city administration took office. One man was stabbed to death and several others were wounded.

★ ★ ★

The demonstrations occurred while the new administration, headed by Dr. Luis Trevino Pena as mayor, was being sworn in at the Federal Building on the plaza.

Police said opponents of the new mayor appeared on the north side of the plaza and advanced toward the Federal Building, waving Mexican flags and banners. Troops and police met them and a brawl ensued.

Mrs. Jeanette Knepprath of Milwaukee has been president of the Woman's International Bowling Congress for the past 33 years and her new three-year term runs through Aug. 1, 1960.

Marine Fined $12 After Year in Jail

ENSENADA, Mexico (AP)—A U.S Marine, held a year on an auto-theft charge, has been fined $12 and released.

★ ★ ★

Acting Judge Faustino Zavala-Avila of the Civil-Criminal Court modified the charge yesterday to unauthorized use of a car.

Pvt. William Sanders, 23, a 1st Division Marine from Camp Pendleton, Calif., and Butte, Mont., had been held in jail here since last Jan. 6. He was arrested in a car the preceding New Year's Eve at Sosarito Beach.

Under Mexican law the judge who heard the case had a year in which to decide on a sentence. at the time of his arrest, was released at the U. S. border to a Navy Shore Patrol.

BUSY, BUSY, BUSY — Emcee Bill Cullen exemplifies the frenetic world of television and radio. In addition to presiding over six New York radio shows weekly, Bill serves as host on NBC-TV's "The Price Is Right" (daily at 11 a. m. and Monday at 7:30 p. m.) and as panelist on CBS-TV's "I've Got a Secret" (Wednesday at 9:30 p. m.)

Earl Dreams of Places He Wants to Revisit

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Do you have a favorite spot somewhere in the U.S.A. you'd like to go back to . . . only you're afraid it wouldn't be the same?

Maybe it's a spot tinged with a long dead romance—and your wife (or husband) wouldn't understand . . . maybe a great restaurant that your current waistline wouldn't appreciate . . . maybe an old school hangout that would reveal to your children that you weren't the bookworm you're always telling them they should be.

WILSON

Hennicks Restaurant just off the Ohio State campus in Columbus I want to visit, and also the School of Journalism building where I slaved as a student reporter coming onto 30 years ago.

★ ★ ★

Certain eating experiences are unforgettable and I'd like to return to the Big Apple in Fort Worth for ribs, to the Singapore in Chicago for more ribs, to the Escoffier Room in Los Angeles and to Krebs in Skaneateles, N.Y., for an all-round feast, to the Flamingo in Defiance, O., for T-bones, and to "Jimmy's Just a Hobby" in Miami Beach and Atlantic City for the thin steak sandwiches (with the onions and ground pepper), of which he only allows one to a customer.

Jimmy claims running a restaurant is just a hobby and that his main interest is fishing. He keeps his cheesecake in the safe, it's so precious.

I'd like to experience a fresh summer morning again in St. Paul and Milwaukee—and incidentally drink a little beer in both places—and look at some of the beauts in Butte . . . sun myself in Sun Valley . . . and take the beautiful drive from Spokane over to Moscow, Idaho, when the wheat is all tall and golden.

Give me another ride on that rotating merry-go-round in the Fairmont bar in San Francisco and a late bite in Williams' Papagayo Room and also a look at the Golden Gate from Russian Hill where we lived so happily during the 1956 Republican convention.

And let me ride out and see the ancient trees—redwoods, I guess—somewhere around Sausalito. I want to get down to La Jolla eventually, for this is one of the world's greatest beauty spots not fully appreciated by all of us.

I want to go back to Galveston again to that beautiful beach, and up to Brennan's in New Orleans for a Sazerac and a visit with Seymour Weiss and Diamond Jim Moran.

And away we go to Springfield, Mo., for some Ozark catfish, and we may as well slide over to Nashville or the Carolinas for some black-eyed peas and grits . . . and we've neglected Key West . . . goodness, yes, and the Thousand Islands up in New York, and Juarez down across the Rio Grande from El Paso . . . and Holland, Mich., with its Dutch customs . . . and I didn't include my little old home town, Rockford, O., which has a plaque there in my honor.

The plaque says "12 Miles to Celina."

Sure, and I'm going to see them all in '58 if the good Lord and my pocketbook be willing.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "A door is what a dog is perpetually on the wrong side of."—Ogden Nash . . . That's earl, brother.

Soviet Taking Timber From the Waters

MOSCOW — The flooding of big areas of forest land for reservoirs and hydro - electric projects has brought a problem to the Soviet that its engineers have solved, Moscow reports.

To recover this flooded timber, felling is carried out from floating "timber yards" equipped with apparatus for cutting the trunks into timber of various sizes and to process waste material for paper-making.

Cutting tools will fell the trees at the roots and automatic winches will haul them to the surface and onto the deck of the floating timber yard—which is practically a floating factory. The first of these is on the Angara River at Bratsh, northern Siberia.

Shuffle Can Be Perfect

NEW YORK — Card experts say that eight perfect shuffles by the rifle method will return a deck of cards to their original order. It's best, they assert, not to shuffle more than three times.

Emcee Follows Hectic Schedule

Daily Radio Program and Two Video Shows Keep Him Hopping

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Why is the world of television and radio so frequently called frenetic? Let's refer to the example of a witty, personable young man named Bill Cullen.

★ ★ ★

He gets up at 4:30 a. m. He's so busy that he sleeps in split shifts — three hours by day and five by night.

To be more factual about it, Cullen presides over the destinies of Pulse, a very popular radio program on NBC's New York outlet Mondays through Fridays from 6 a. m. to 10 a. m. (On Saturdays he isn't due on until 8 a. m.)

★ ★ ★

Then he taxis eight blocks to an NBC-TV studio to serve as host on The Price Is Right at 11 a. m.

BACK FOR MORE

Monday evenings he's back for the weekly nighttime round of The Price Is Right on NBC-TV. And on Wednesday evenings he's a panelist on Garry Moore's I've Got a Secret on CBS-TV.

Cullen has been living this sort of schedule for years. But he doesn't show it; he looks far younger than his 36 years.

And that fact Cullen credits to "my one talent. I can always fall asleep wherever I lie down."

Pulse affords an opportunity for Cullen's vivid imagination to indulge in a morning riot. For a time he kept a large audience amused with his plans to move Manhattan Island to the Caribbean.

★ ★ ★

Everybody knew it was a joke — and enjoyed it all the more because various authorities on this and that (who also knew it was a joke, of course) came on the air and discussed it seriously.

HUNTING FOR BILLS

On Pulse Cullen also started the game of hunting for program-planted thousand dollar bills in various parts of the city on the basis of clues the program provided.

★ ★ ★

Old German Town Surrounded by Swiss

BUESINGEN, Switzerland—High level discussions between Germany and Switzerland are expected to make conditions better shortly for the thousand-odd residents of Buesingen.

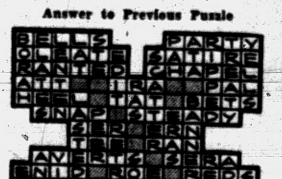

This town on the Upper Rhine, three miles from Schaffhausen, in northern Switzerland, is a German exclave—a portion of the country separate from the main part and surrounded by politically alien territory.

It is therefore a curiosity and an example of the jokes that history sometimes plays. Buesingen entered history first in 1465 when Austria bought the village from the shire of Nellenberg-Stockach.

The Austrian Empress Maria Theresa once offered to sell Buesingen to the Swiss, but they refused to buy. The Buesingers now want to be considered Swiss, so far as freedom to hold jobs in Switzerland is concerned. They lean toward the Swiss in language and customs.

World production of sugar is about 35 million tons annually. It is enough to fill a box the size of a regulation football field to a height of approximately six miles.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

One Fish Forced to Stay Around Until Pulled In

COTTER, Ark. (INS) — You might call this "fisherman's luck."

Dr. Harry Robinson of Cleveland, O., was fishing on the White River near Cotter late one afternoon when a lunker bass struck his plug, broke the line and got away.

Next morning Dr. Robinson was fishing at the same spot when he noticed a large fish swimming around the roots of a tree. A piece of broken line in the fish's mouth ad snared him to the roots.

So the doctor netted the fish. As he started to remove a plug from the fish it suddenly dawned on him—it was the same plug he had lost and the same fish. Turned out to be a four-pounder, too.

Kentucky Jailer Brings Prayers Into His Clink

WHITESBURG, Ky. (INS) — Letcher County, Ky., has a new jailer named "Praying Bob" Sexton and he bears that name not without good reason.

"Praying Bob," who is from Whittaker, beat out Fleming policeman Lewis Hall by 476 votes for the jailer's job and then proclaimed that each day at the clink would start and end with a prayer.

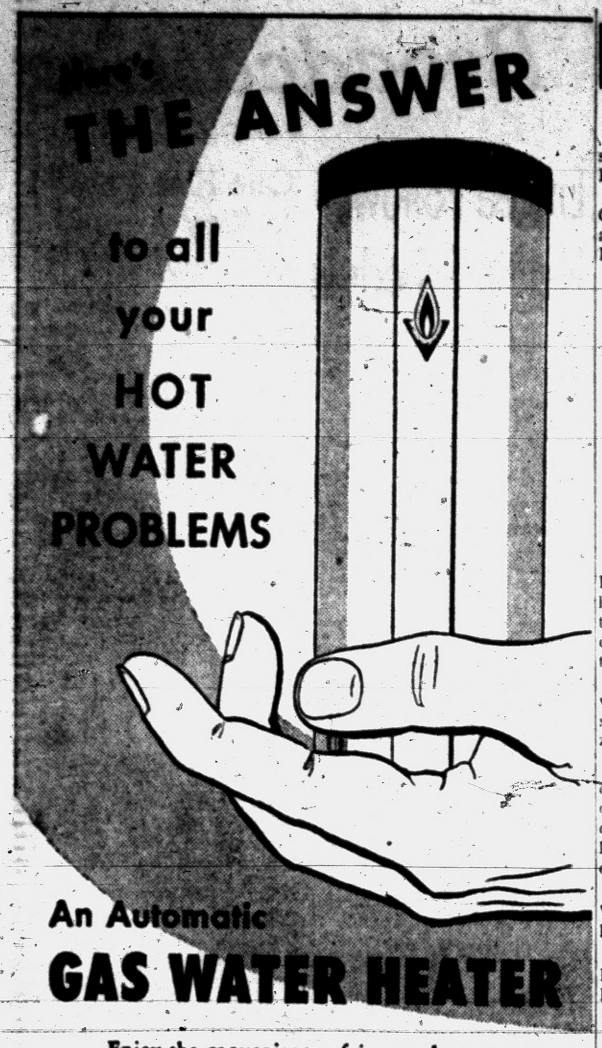

Here's
THE ANSWER
to all your HOT WATER PROBLEMS

An Automatic
GAS WATER HEATER

Enjoy the convenience of instant hot water service whenever you want it. The automatic gas water heater will make household tasks easier and faster . . . It's important, too, for modern automatic clothes washers and dishwashers because they perform best with lots of extra piping hot water.

Student From Sweden Says Dating Is Snap

George Wistrom, a student at Colorado College from Sweden, is already an authority on dating, as he demonstrated at an informal panel discussion. Said George:

"In Sweden we don't actually have a dating system. But at Colorado College, all you have to do is call an extension number and ask for a certain girl. If she can't go out you ask if anyone there wants a date. Usually someone does, but if not, then you just call another extension number."

Road Repairs Now Under Way

County Busy Erasing Drainage Problem on Dixie Highway

Each time that there has been a slight thaw or rain storm, the road was completely flooded from one side to the other, creating a traffic hazard as well as a public health problem for area residents.

This week workmen began to clean out sand-filled drain tiles running under the road from the east side of Dixie highway to low swamp land, some 300 feet on the west side of the highway.

Due to the high water-table in the swamp, it was necessary to lay new corrigated pipe to the main county drain line, which runs almost parallel with Dixie highway and empties near the fish hatchery on Frembes street.

According to workmen on the job, more than five feet of mud and sand had accumulated in the catch basins on both sides of the road, plugging the entire drain line.

Italy Sends Most Wine

ROME — Italy leads all other nations in exporting wines to the United States. Americans drank nearly 3,500,000 gallons of Italian wines in 1956, an increase of 9 per cent over 1955.

Road Repairs Now Under Way

County Busy Erasing Drainage Problem on Dixie Highway

Because of a dip in Dixie highway near Williams Lake road, a drainage problem has plagued public works officials for more than four years.

Each time that there has been a slight thaw or rain storm, the road was completely flooded from one side to the other, creating a traffic hazard as well as a public health problem for area residents.

This week workmen began to clean out sand-filled drain tiles running under the road from the east side of Dixie highway to low swamp land, some 300 feet on the west side of the highway.

Due to the high water-table in the swamp, it was necessary to lay new corrigated pipe to the main county drain line, which runs almost parallel with Dixie highway and empties near the fish hatchery on Frembes street.

According to workmen on the job, more than five feet of mud and sand had accumulated in the catch basins on both sides of the road, plugging the entire drain line.
