Rain-Soaked Washington Cheers John Glenn

Armed Bandits Grab $12,000 From 2 Stores

Owner's Wife Held as Hostage While Gagne Is Forced to Open Safes

Two armed men took an estimated $10,000 to $12,000 cash from two Pontiac grocery stores Sunday night while holding the owner and his wife at gun point.

One bandit forced Joseph O. Gagne, 40, to open safes at his stores, People's Food Market, 263 Auburn Ave., and People's Food-O-Mat, 465 E. Pike St., while his accomplice held Gagne's wife, Guida, hostage at the couple's home at 4975 W. Utica Road, Shelby Township.

Pontiac police detectives today discounted the possibility that the bandits were the same men who pulled two similar armed robberies last year in Pontiac.

Detectives said descriptions of the men didn't match with those given by victims of a Franklin Road grocery store robbery last fall or a Wrigley Supermarket robbery on Auburn Avenue last August.

Gagne told Detective Thomas Mitchell the two men came to his front door just after 8 p.m. last night and said their car had broken down. They wanted to use his phone.

DRAWS PISTOL

When he led them into the kitchen, the youngest man, described as about 40 years old, pulled a 38-caliber pistol from his belt.

★ ★ ★

"We're going to Pontiac and get the money out of the safes in those two stores you have in town there," Gagne quoted the man as saying.

The store owner said the second man, about 50 years old, pulled a chrome-plated revolver and told his wife to sit down and watch television.

The Gagne's two sons, Thomas, 13, and Eugene, 11, were asleep in their bedrooms and remained so through the whole ordeal.

★ ★ ★

Gagne said the younger man told them, "If you do exactly what I tell you, no one will get hurt. As long as your wife and children behave themselves and you don't forget to keep in line, no one will get hurt."

FORCED TO DRIVE

Gagne said the younger man forced him to drive to Pontiac, where they entered both stores and emptied money from the safes into paper bags.

He said his robber companion remained "very cool" through the entire operation. Mrs. Gagne said the older man was "very nervous and kept getting up and looking outside every time he heard a car pass."

WELCOME FOR HERO — Astronaut John Glenn waves from a car today as his welcoming parade begins from the White House (background). In the car are Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Glenn's wife Annie and son David, 16.

Kennedy Brings Hero to Capital for Big Parade

Up to 300,000 Throng Pennsylvania Avenue to Cheer Astronaut

WASHINGTON (AP) —Wet but happy, Washington cheered astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., along Pennsylvania Avenue today in proud recognition of his history-making orbits around the world.

President Kennedy himself brought the 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel from Florida to Washington for this ceremonial trip from the White House to the Capitol.

America's first citizen to orbit the earth, Glenn was tanned and smiling as the parade inched along the avenue—once again the route of heroes.

The crowds—estimated to 200,000 to 300,000—that thronged the avenue put with a considerable measure of hardship. It poured rain for hour after hour in Washington today.

There were more umbrellas to be seen than people at some intersections.

Riding in the White House bubbletop limousine with the top down despite the downpour, were Glenn, his wife, their two children and Vice President Johnson. Both Glenn and the vice president were hatless.

The colonel, who smiled constantly and kept waving to the crowd, evoked cheers, screams and whistles.

A great arch, formed by fire truck ladders reaching from curb to curb, supported a sign saying, for America:

"Welcome John H. Glenn Jr."

There were humbler, handlettered signs, too. Some proud Leatherneck had just together one saying: "Marine for the big one, welcome John."

Another handmade one: "Thank you, Col. Glenn."

RAIN INTERFERES

Glenn had gone to the White House by car from Andrews Air Force Base, where the presidential jet touched down at 11:16 a.m. The rain was so heavy it had "scrubbed"—to use an astronauts' term—plans to travel the airport-to-White House leg by helicopter.

Thus, once again, weather threw a kink into the planning that has surrounded almost every step of Glenn's career as an astronaut.

Repeatedly, before his triumph of last Tuesday, Glenn's attempt to circle the earth in a space vehicle had been upset by bad weather.

Strains of "Hail to the Chief" and "The Star Spangled Banner" greeted Glenn and the President as they left the plane and headed into a day of festive praise that not even the dreary weather could spoil.

In order: the schedule was:

A White House ceremony, a triumphant parade along Pennsylvania Avenue and an appearance before Congress.

It was the U. S. Army Band

Astronaut Addresses Congress

'Space Flight Boon to Science'

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's first orbit-flying astronaut told Congress today that space flight now poses the bright promise of an expansion of knowledge "beyond description."

★ ★ ★

The spaceman, Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., told of the prospect he sees ahead, in a speech prepared for a joint meeting of the House and Senate.

It is a far greater future that now beckons, he said, than had originally been expected as the result of research in space.

And, as for the worries of some congressmen about the tremendous cost of this research, Glenn said that even at this stage of development, space flight "indicates a much broader potential impact than electricity."

'JUST ON SURFACE'

"We are just probing the surface of the greatest advancements of man's knowledge of his surroundings that have ever been made," Glenn said.

"There are benefits to science across the board. Any major effort such as this results in research by so many different specialists that it is hard to even envision the benefits that will accrue in many fields."

Glenn said Project Mercury experiments thus far already have demonstrated that the spacecraft and systems design concept are sound and that man can operate intelligently in space and can adapt rapidly to his new environment.

"Zero G or weightlessness — at least for this period of time — appears to be no problem," Glenn said.

"As a matter of fact, lack of gravity is a rather fascinating feeling.

"Objects within the cockpit can be parked in mid-air.

"For example, at one time I was using a hand-held camera. Another system needed attention, so it seemed quite natural to let go of the camera, take care of the other chore in the spacecraft, then reach out, grasp the camera and go back about my business."

DESCRIBED VIEWS

Glenn also described for the legislators his spectacular views of horizon colors and sunsets.

Jackie Delays Trip to India

Sinus Infection Causes Postponement of Tour Until March 12

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that, because of a sinus infection, Mrs. John F. Kennedy has been forced to postpone the start of her India-Pakistan trip for a week. She is now due to begin the journey March 12.

The White House said the postponement was decided upon on the advice of the first lady's physician.

She has been suffering from "a low-grade sinus infection for several months," press secretary Pierre Salinger said. The infection has caused an occasional fever, he added, but the fevers have been low.

The first lady was at the airport in West Palm Beach, Fla., today to see her husband off on the flight bringing astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. and his family to Washington for a day of honors.

Sunday she went water skiing and took a dunking.

She did not make the trip back to the capital today, staying for a few more days in the sun.

Exact details of Mrs. Kennedy's itinerary have yet to be worked out but the delay will knock out the first eight days of her previously announced schedule. She will start the trip with a visit in New Delhi and carry on from that point as previously determined, ending the tour at Karachi on March 26.

★ ★ ★

This is the third postponement of the First Lady's journey to Asia. Initially it was set back from last November until January, then until next month.

Mrs. Kennedy had planned to leave Rome for New Delhi March 4. It was understood she probably will go to Rome before leaving for India, but not until later than originally scheduled.

Maris Oks Contract With Yanks—$65,000

FORT LAUDERDALE (AP)—Roger Maris, the New York Yankees' home run king, signed his 1962 baseball contract today for a reported $65,000.

Maris, who reportedly had been holding out for $75,000, came to terms after a five-minute conference with Roy Hamey, the Yankees' general manager.

Other 'Space Hero' Interests Caroline

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL PLANE EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON (AP) — What little Caroline Kennedy wanted to know from famed astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. today was the whereabouts of another chap — or rather chimp — that orbited the earth.

"Where's the chimpanzee?" she asked.

"He's eating bananas," Glenn told her. He broke into a roar of laughter, and could hardly wait to tell his wife.

Enos, the chimpanzee, preceded Glenn by several months in rocketing nonstop around the globe.

Evidently Caroline came pretty close to equating the events but she still had been proclaiming over and over, "I want to see Col. Glenn." And she asked her toddler cousin, Tony Radziwell, if he didn't want to, also.

Caroline and her mother drove with the President to the airport at Palm Beach, Fla., to see Kennedy off and to meet the astronaut and his family beforehand.

Mrs. Kennedy and Caroline kissed the President goodby, and the presidential jet was off for a rain-drenched reception for the astronaut in the nation's capital.

News Flashes

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin expressed belief today that forthcoming U. N. discussions on outer space will produce a program of cooperation which will be beneficial to both the United States and the Soviet Union.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy told a worldwide Voice of America radio audience today that the United States would continue to seek "free flow of information" across national boundaries and "iron curtains."

Cleric Digs Cool Talk

Scripture Swings!

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—The Rev. Iain MacMillan kicked off today on a campaign to fix things so the cats can dig the Good Book.

His solution: Break the Bible down into jive talk.

The Rev. Mr. MacMillan is pastor of the church of Scotland's South Earsden Church in Glasgow, and he has a big youth club.

In an attempt to rouse interest in Bible reading, today's issue of his parish magazine carries the following:

"This dad had two sons. One was real cool, but the other was a square. Well, this cool cat went to his father and gave with the story. 'Get beamed in, dad, and I'll give you the gen. I want to get the run-down on life. So, give with the green.'

'ON THE ROCKS'

"His dad didn't like the jookie talk much but he handed over a fistful of greenbacks to his cool, cool son. But he, now that he was well-lined, found that with espressos and dance palaces and the like, the crinkle didn't last. Soon he was on the rocks.

★ ★ ★

"'Dig this,' he exclaimed. 'When I was lush the city cats thought I was real crazy. Now I am unglued they leave me alone. I will go back to dad and see what gives.'

"To his surprise his father took him back and, in fact, gave him the real cool treatment."

Said the Rev. Mr. MacMillan:

"Most of our youth clubbers understand this kind of slang and I think it is a good idea to tell them Bible stories that way.

"As for those who don't dig kookie—well, they can read the story of the prodigal son in any Bible."

JFK, Mac Looking Toward the Summit

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan appeared today to be prepared to move toward a summit conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, on the condition that Russia demonstrate good faith.

The White House disclosed Sunday that the President, though rejecting Khrushchev's second bid for a summit meeting, told the Soviet premier he hoped progress on disarmament would make such a conference possible before June 1.

Macmillan dispatched his own reply to Khrushchev today. He appeared even more willing than Kennedy for a heads-of-state confrontation.

Macmillan told Khrushchev that he was prepared to meet with him "fairly soon" if progress was shown in lower level disarmament talks, beginning March 14 in Geneva or, on the other hand, the discussions appeared stalemated.

Macmillan echoed Kennedy's statement urging Khrushchev to send his foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, to meet with the British and American foreign secretaries at the opening of the Geneva talks.

★ ★ ★

The United States and its Western allies reportedly are considering short-range disarmament proposals which they hope the Soviet Union might accept quickly at Geneva, thus providing a basis for a summit meeting in May. Included is a proposal banning transfer of nuclear weapons to other nations.

VIEWS IN NOTE

Kennedy's views were expressed Sunday in a 1,000-word note to Khrushchev rejecting the premier's second proposal that heads of the 18 nations involved open the Geneva talks March 14.

The President, who wants the talks opened at the foreign ministers level, told Khrushchev that to have a heads of government meeting at the beginning of the conference "would be to begin with the wrong end of the problem."

★ ★ ★

Kennedy added the hope that "developments in the conference and internationally would make it useful to arrange for the personal

Pontiac, Tempest Sales Soaring by 73 Per Cent

A total of 10,939 customers took delivery of new Pontiacs and Tempests from dealers during the second 10-day sales period in February, it was announced today by Frank V. Bridge, Pontiac general sales manager.

★ ★ ★

"This represents an increase of better than 73 per cent over the same period a year ago and is the highest percentage increase this year," Bridge said.

In the same period in 1961 Pontiac dealers sold 6,315 cars.

Rain, Fog Hide Snow Clouds

More of the Same Due Later Today; Low of 18 Seen for Tonight

While rain and fog prevailed in the Pontiac area this morning, the forecast was for more rain in the afternoon, turning to snow flurries later with the mercury plunging to a low ow 18 tonight.

The rain early this morning helped clear some of the ice and snow off main streets but in many sintances it made driving on side streets extremely hazardous.

★ ★ ★

School buses in the Pontiac School System were reportedly on schedule this morning. Drivers were instructed to use extreme caution on side streets.

Pontiac Police this morning reported a Saturday-Sunday total of five injury accidents involving vehicles and one involving a pedestrian struck by a car. All injured were treated at city hospitals and released.

An influx of cold air expected this afternoon will cause the fog to lift.

Forecast for Tuesday in the Pontiac area calls for colder temperature with a high of 25 predicted. Wednesday is expected to be somewhat warmer but the temperature will fall again Thursday and continue low through Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Snow is predicted for Wednesday night or Thursday with scattered snow flurries possible at other times during the week.

Snow and freezing rain plagued some areas outstate this morning. Eight inches of new snow fell during the last 24 hours in the Cheboygan area at the tip of lower Michigan, and up to six inches fell in the Upper Peninsula.

Freezing rain turned streets and highways into sheets of ice in some portions of the state. A quarter inch of ice covered all of the Saginaw area, contributing to a rash of minor accidents.

For the first time this year all schools in Saginaw were closed due to the weather.

The lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 o'clock today was 26 degrees at shortly after midnight. By 2 p.m. the mercury reading showed 43.

CAT IN COMPASSIONATE ROLE — Tiger, the alley cat, a cast on her broken foreleg, manages to overcome her handicap to care for a litter of pups abandoned in the Oakdale, N. Bob, Ethel in Paris for 'Private Visit'

PARIS (AP) — U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy arrived by air from Holland today for what he described as a two-day private visit to the French capital on his globe-girdling tour.

Before leaving The Hague, Kennedy urged Indonesia and The Netherlands to "take a factual and rational approach" to their explosive dispute over West New Guinea. He said he got the impression on his visit to Indonesia that the Indonesians will not attack and are willing to negotiate with the Dutch.

Kennedy will visit President Charles de Gaulle and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville Tuesday. He told reporters at the airport he and his wife Ethel are "just here to see Paris and I only wish our stay were longer."

★ ★ ★

U. S. Ambassador James Gavin with Kennedy nodding agreement, explained the visits with De Gaulle and the foreign minister were merely courtesy calls and that the attorney general had nothing specific to discus with them.

Kennedy told reporters he was in general encouraged by what he had seen on his trip that has included stops in Japan, southeast Asia, Germany and The Netherlands. In answer to a question, he said:

"In areas where I have been, I think we have been making a great deal of progress."

Europe Crippled by Snowstorms

LONDON (AP) — Heavy snow hit the British Isles, Austria and Italy today, snarling road traffic and disrupting airline schedules.

Snow fell throughout the day in most of Britain and highway conditions were chaotic. The need to de-ice aircraft piled up long passenger lines at London airport and the swirling snow delayed incoming flights.

Italy was blanketed by snow from the Alps to Florence and airplane traffic was disrupted at the big terminus of Milan.

Winds up to 40 miles an hour hit Austria, where snow piled up to 21 feet in the mountains.

from the People's Food-O-Mat, which Gagne closed at 6 p.m. The other store was not open yesterday.

Gagne told Mitchell he filled about four bags full of money. The bandits didn't take any checks.

He and the younger man returned home at about 9:30. The bandits forced the couple to the basement where they bound their hands and feet with nylon stockings, Gagne said.

TOOK OWNER'S CAR

The bandits cut the cord on an upstairs phone and fled in Gagne's car which was later found abandoned several blocks away.

Moments later the Gagne's sons awakened and cut their parents loose. They called Shelby Township Police from the home of relatives across the street.

Gagne said the robbers behaved "like gentlemen" and didn't harm them physically. He told detectives the younger man talked as though he had planned the robbery for a long time.

★ ★ ★

He said the younger man had long hair and wore a brown overcoat. The older man wore dark clothes and a cap which he kept pulled down. Both were about 5 feet 7 inches tall.

The Day in Birmingham

Citizens for Michigan Unit to Cover Con-Con Issues

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills Chapter of Citizens for Michigan at a meeting tomorrow will discuss the proposals now being debated at the constitutional convention in Lansing.

The 8 p.m. public session will be held at the Birmingham Community House.

A comparison between the proposals formulated by the local CFM chapter and the recommendations which have been submitted by the various con-con committees are being studied by the membership.

Daniel Chapin, president of the chapter, said the purpose of the meeting is to discuss the similarities and variations between the two programs and to decide what action, if any, should be taken by the group.

The Walther League of Redeemer Lutheran Church will present its annual variety show, this year entitled "Network Nightmares," at the church March 4.

Two performances will be given at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Tickets for the production can be purchased at the door.

The Congregational Church of Birmingham will sponsor a "Lenten School Of Religion" for all adults and youths of the church, beginning Wednesday, March 7, and thereafter on Thursdays, at 8 p.m.

Five different courses will be offered. These include the following:

"The Unfolding Drama of the Bible," "The Story of Christianity from Christ to the Present," "Marriage and Family Life," "The Mission of the Church," and "The Christian and Social Issues."

Charles W. Foote

Service for Charles W. Foote, 41, of 32111 Eastlady St., Beverly Hills, will be 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will be in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

Mr. Foote died at Pontiac General Hospital yesterday after an illness of several weeks.

He was the associate copy director of the Campbell-Ewald advertising firm for the past year. He had been with the company nine years.

Prior to that he had been associated with McManus, John & Adams, Inc.

He was director of the Detroit Copy Club and a member of the Cranbrook Badminton Club. He also was a member of the board of trustees of the Foundation for Emotionally Disturbed Children.

Surviving are his wife Lorraine S.; two sons, Gary and Dale, both at home; and two sisters.

The family requests that any memorial tributes be sent to the Peace Lutheran Church, Southfield.

Mrs. Frank C. Deer

Service for Mrs. Frank C. (Alberta I.) Deer, 65, of 1044 Knox St. will be 2 p.m. tomorrow at St. James Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Roseland Park Cemetery, Berkley.

Mrs. Deer died Saturday at William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, following a brief illness.

She had been an accountant with the Birmingham Board of Education for 30 years, retiring in 1959.

Surviving besides her husband are two sisters and two brothers.

Washington Hails Glenn

that met the party. But it was the U. S. Marine Band — Glenn is a lieutenant colonel in the Marines — that had the sole musical role in the parade from the White House to the Capitol.

His wife and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson at his side, Glenn was to proceed at about two miles an hour—in sharp contrast to the 17,530-miles-an-hour rate at which he hurtled through space as the first American in earth orbit.

Government workers released at President Kennedy's direction and school children on special holiday packed the sidewalks, with 17 bands blaring tunes at one or two-block intervals.

Motorcycle and mounted police, a color guard and units of all branches of the armed forces led the way. The only marching band was the Marines', playing "The Marine Hymn," "The Washington Post March" and "Semper Fidelis."

The day's celebration started late in the morning at Andrews Air Force Base on another musical note, "Hail to the Chief."

This greeted Kennedy as he arrived from Palm Beach, with Glenn, members of the astronaut's family, and Virgil I. Grissom, who made a suborbital space flight last July.

Glenn was to be given a brief "full honors" ceremony.

Then, at the White House, as his six fellow astronauts looked on, the 40-year-old space hero received a key to the city from District commissioners.

At the Capitol, Glenn was to address a joint meeting of Congress assembled in the House chamber.

After a private luncheon with capital dignitaries at the State Department, Glenn will retire with his wife and two children, David, 16, and Lyn, 14, to their home in suburban Arlington, Va.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration which operates the Project Mercury space venture, has changed its mind and called off a Glenn news conference here.

Ahead of Glenn are a ticker tape parade in New York on Thursday and a welcoming celebration Saturday in his home town of New Concord, Ohio.

★ ★ ★

In the future, too, may be a tour of the country and a trip abroad. Kennedy and Johnson discussed the matter over the weekend, but there has been no official announcement.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., a member of the Senate Space Committee, has suggested an exchange of American and Russian astronauts as a possible first step toward cooperation between the two countries in space.

Glenn has a date Tuesday with the House Science and Astronautics Committee and an appearance before the Senate group Wednesday is being considered.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy came to Palm Beach International Airport to see the President and Glenn off.

Mrs. Kennedy, wearing a blue outfit and no hat, shook hands with Glenn and with other members of the Project Mercury team, Malcolm S. Carpenter, Alan B. Shepard Jr., Virgil L. Grissom, Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Donald K. Slayton.

Robert Gilruth, director of Project Mercury, arrived with the Glenn family.

Schirra, Carpenter and Slayton had arrived on an earlier plane.

After the Glenns landed, they walked to the presidential jet where autograph seekers met them.

'Facts Needed Before Landing Man on Moon'

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist said today additional facts must be learned about the moon's surface before a manned space craft can be landed there successfully.

V. Dyomin wrote in the Echo-micheskaya Gazeta (Economic Gazette) that Soviet astronomers have established via radio telescopes that a slag-like porous mass makes up the outer court and that radio waves prove there is ice on the moon.

But the exact texture of the surface and whether the ice can be converted into drinking water remains to be determined, he said.

Volkswagen Sales Up in U.S. During '61

NEW YORK (AP) — Volkswagen sold 203,836 cars, trucks and station wagons in the United States in 1961, a gain of 6.5 per cent over the 191,342 in 1960, the company reported.

Carl H. Hahn, geenral manager of Volkswagen of America, said the 1961 sales represented 46.8 per cent of all imported cars sold in the United States and 3.02 per cent of the total passenger car sales in this country.

Unable to Rescue Man From a Submerged Auto

Two Pontiac police officers yesterday morning risked their lives by jumping into the Clinton River in a futile attempt to save a man trapped in his submerged, overturned car.

★ ★ ★

However, the victim, Thomas Short, 36, of 500½ S. Paddock St., was declared dead 30 minutes later after being rushed by Fire Department inhalator truck to Pontiac General Hospital.

Given medical attention for exposure in the ice-cold water, were Patrolmen Charles Lindeberg, 29, and Joseph Wilson, 25.

None of several bystanders had attempted to enter the overturned car under water to see if there was a possible victim.

RUN INTO RIVER

The car driven by Short apparently ran off Wenzen Road, a hundred yards west of Bagley Street, just before a bridge crosses the river. It ran down an embankment, plowed head-on into the water and overturned.

Short apparently was trapped by pressure of the water. His death was attributed to drowning.

At the time of the accident, the weather was clear but the pavement was icy and partially covered with snow.

Short's watch stopped at 10:06 a.m.

The officers' lifesaving attempt drew quick praise from Captain George Scott who said Wilson and Lindeberg showed the courage and swiftness of action expected of them in the line of duty.

FATAL SCENE — The car in which Thomas Short was trapped and drowned Sunday morning is shown here after it had been pulled part way out of the Clinton River. The car had overturned and filled with water.

More Snow, More Sleet

Midwest Groans Anew

By The Associated Press

Another in a persistent series of late winter storms swept over the Midwest today, dumping sleet and snow.

Up to six inches of new snow fell on already snow-covered eastern Nebraska, Iowa and Wisconsin.

A band of freezing rain and drizzle coated highways from Oklahoma and Missouri into Lower Michigan and northern Illinois and Indiana.

Wet weather was the general rule over the eastern two-thirds of the nation, except for Florida and portions of New York and New England.

★ ★ ★

Arctic air from Canada spread into Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota. In Montana, temperatures fell to 26 below zero in Butte, -20 in Drummond, -19 in Lewiston and -17 in Cut Bank. The icy air headed into the north central region with zero weather in prospect by tonight in many areas.

Snow also spread across areas in the central Rockies, Utah, Nevada and northern Arizona.

Showers and thundershowers broke out southeast of the Midwest snow line, extending across the lower Ohio Valley into the Carolinas and Georgia. Heavy rain pelted most of western Kentucky.

★ ★ ★

Freezing rain and sleet slicked highways in northwest and extreme northern Illinois and the narrow icy belt stretched from the Oklahoma Panhandle to lower Michigan. Heavy snow or glaze warnings were posted for much of Kansas, Nebraska, northwest Missouri, Iowa and sections of Illinois and Wisconsin.

In the Far West, showers dampened scattered sections of California. Two inches of snow fell in the Mount Hamilton area southeast of San Francisco.

Kennedy, Macmillan Leaning to Summit

participation of the heads of government before June 1."

The tone of Kennedy's note was restrained and not as truculent as Khrushchev's most recent one. The President said he did not question Khrushchev's motives for seeking a quick summit session. Khrushchev's note had implied Kennedy and Macmillan were not sincere in wanting some preliminary results to come from the Geneva talks before plunging into a summit session.

Kennedy firmly rejected Khrushchev's contention that possible U.S. resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing would be an aggressive act. He said it was strange that the Soviet Union, which broke the truce on atmospheric testing last fall, should now accuse the United States of aggression.

U.S. tests, if resumed, "would be a matter of prudent policy in the absence of the effectively controlled nuclear test agreement that we have so earnestly sought," Kennedy said.

The Geneva conference is being held at the request of the United Nations. The 18 nations include five Western allies, five from the Communist bloc, and eight avowedly neutral countries.

Forbid Segregation of Travel Facilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that no state may require racial segregation of transportation facilities.

Its ruling applies both to intrastate facilities, that is wholly within the state, as well as interstate, or travel across state lines.

The court said the question had been settled by its previous decisions and is no longer open to litigation.

Experts Say Warnings Are Propaganda

Doubt Red Chinese Action in S. Viet Nam

By CHARLES R. SMITH

TOKYO (UPI)—Experts on Communist affairs in Asia doubted today that Peiping's warnings against U.S. troops in South Viet Nam foreshadowed direct Chinese intervention in that country.

The experts believed that Peiping's weekend statements, though openly harsh, indicated the Communist Chinese still feel South Viet Nam can be brought under Red control through subversion rather than by direct military action.

The Chinese warnings of "serious danger of war" were regarded as natural propaganda reaction to stepped-up U.S. military aid for South Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem and his battle against about 20,000 Communist-led Viet Cong guerrillas.

News Analysis

The Peiping Peoples Daily, official newspaper of the Chinese Reds, demanded Sunday that the U.S. "armed intervention" in South Viet Nam be halted at once. The editorial, which was broadcast by Peiping radio, followed a Chinese Foreign Ministry statement Saturday that Peiping would not tolerate what it called a threat to China. Other Chinese newspapers also warned against the threat of war breaking out.

WON'T ACT NOW

Experts here pointed out that the Peiping statements charged that U.S. aggression was pointed "directly" at Communist North Viet Nam but only "indirectly" at Red China. They interpreted this to mean that Peiping was not prepared to intervene militarily at this time.

By charging that U.S. actions directly threatened its neighbor, the experts said, Communist China appeared to be courting opinion in the so-called neutral nations.

This impression was strengthened by the demand in the Peiping statements that the co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference hold "consultations" on the situation in South Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

The recent creation in South Viet Nam of a "Viet Nam peoples revolutionary party," advocating a policy of neutrality, was regarded as an indication that the Communists believe the pattern they have followed successfully in Laos can be repeated with the Viet Cong tactics.

The analysis of experts here tended to coincide with views expressed in Washington that the Peiping warnings constituted a propaganda reaction rather than an immediate threat of direct Chinese intervention in South Viet Nam.

The Peoples Daily editorial appealed to the signatories of the 1954 Geneva agreement ending the French Indochina Civil War to put an end "at once" to U.S. military activities in South Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

The newspaper accused President Kennedy of misleading the American people and the "world public" regarding the "real situation" in South Viet Nam.

"In waging the undeclared war in South Viet Nam the Kennedy administration intends to suppress not only the South Vietnamese people but also other peoples fighting for independence and against colonialism," it said.

★ ★ ★

The Peoples Daily said the U.S. government "has openly declared Indochina as a springboard for U.S. aggression against China."

DOES SELF-APPENDECTOMY — This picture from Tass, official Soviet news agency, shows Dr. Leonid Rogozov, 26, performing an appendectomy on himself at Russian Research Center in the Antarctic on April 30, 1961. This picture came to Moscow recently by a Soviet plane which went to Antarctica via New Zealand.

That's the $140,000,000 Michigan Bell paid in wages and salaries to its employees last year.

Most of the money earned by telephone employees was spent for family goods and services. It bought food, clothing, homes, furniture, home appliances, cars, gasoline, and many other things. It went to builders, grocers, automobile dealers, doctors, repairmen, and department stores, to mention just a few. Those dollars helped to keep Michigan's economy rolling ahead.

So Michigan Bell is doing more than bringing you good telephone service. Your telephone company, as the state's fourth largest employer (except government), is also providing thousands of jobs that help promote the prosperity of Michigan.

Comedian Tried Many Names, But . . .

Only as a Bean Could He Make the Grade in Boston

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — "Hello, folks," said the comedian. "I'm Dallas Burrows; Harvard '48 — Yale nothing."

Nobody laughed.

The next night, in the little Boston bistro, the comedian opened his act with "Hello, folks. I'm Roger Duck, Harvard '48 — Yale nothing."

Again, nothing.

On subsequent nights he claimed to be Quincy Cardigan, Hornsby Shirtwaist and Roscoe Boscoe, and the audience reaction would have been appropriate to a public library reading room. But then, one fortunate evening, the comedian began:

"Hello, folks. I'm Orson Bean, Harvard '48 — Yale nothing." And everybody roared.

* * *

Today, a decade later, Dallas Burrows is starring in "Subways Are for Sleeping" on Broadway, under the name of Orson Bean.

Personally, I think his real name is funnier but, as Orson says:

"If you're starting out in Boston, it's well to remember the people there are loyal to beans . . ."

American Airlines says it has a "tremendous problem" getting enough stewardesses. Reason — turnover. Reason for turnover — after flying two years, 85 per cent of AA's stewardesses snag a good man and marry.

If that's not enough of a recommendation for stewardessing, girls, the line reports the pay is good ($335 a month for openers), the training college in Fort Worth has swimming pool, tennis courts, outdoor barbecue — and the line awards a mink stole a month to the girl who "exemplifies the high standards of service" on its astrojets.

Free travel, available husbands, minks, all these; and still the right girls are hard to find. Whatever happened to that spirit of materialism we've heard so much about? . . .

Recently I wrote a column in which, as a new mother, I criticized Princess Margaret for leaving her tiny infant to go on a vacation with her husband. I have been swamped with letters from American mothers telling me how mean, malicious and ridiculous I am.

All the protests carried the same theme: As long as a baby is well cared for, by a competent person, it doesn't matter to the infant if his mother leaves for a couple of weeks or longer (possibly true, though doctors disagree); and that, what's more, it is natural and normal for a mother to want to take a vacation after childbirth.

"I know I'd have gone away after my baby was born, if I could have afforded it," the ladies — almost to a man — agreed. "And you would too, if you had a chance."

THRILL AT HOME

I deny it, mamas. Since my son was born, I have had offers to go with my husband to Nassau, Paris, the Virgin Islands and Miami, all of which have been turned down unregretfully because life now is too thrilling at home.

I'd like to think that the reason I differ with Princess Margaret and this army of protesting mothers, is that our infant is more alluring than their infants, hence less bearable-to-leave. But all babies are wonderful.

So it must be that some women are more coo-kooky and cribbound than others and possibly it's a sign of neuroticism. (One lady wrote that anybody who'd turn down a trip to the Bahamas after nine long months of pregnancy is sick-sick.)

But if this is sick-sickness, don't give me a pill. Neuroticism is lovely.

U. of M. Postpones Plans for Repairs

PORT HURON (AP)—A University of Michigan vice president said Saturday major building repairs have been deferred and library book acquisitions have been dropped because the university's income from the state has shown relatively little increase in recent years.

W. K. Pierpont, U. of M. vice president of business and finance, praised the state for its long tradition of generous support for education.

He added: "We must recognize, however, that support for Michigan higher education has slackened during the past few years. At the same time other states have redoubled their efforts."

Pierpont told a regional meeting of U. of M. alumni that a smaller faculty is teaching more students at Michigan than in 1957 and that retention and recruitment of faculty and staff members has become more difficult.

Cuba's Having Trouble Keeping Buses Running

HAVANA (AP) — Board a bus in Havana these days and you stand a fair chance of getting nowhere.

* * *

The stalled bus with impatient passengers waiting at its side has become a common sight. So has the green and white, radio-dispatched emergency truck that busily scurries around to aid stranded buses.

The government - controlled press says almost 500 buses are permanently out of order. A recent report adds that on the average day 280 city transit units suffer breakdowns. Some of these buses stall three or four times each day.

Most of the city buses are of American or British make. They are starving for parts.

HAVE NO PARTS

For over a year no automotive parts have come from the United States. The British now demand cash before shipping anything to Cuba.

To alleviate the grumbling passenger's lot, the city has several schemes.

American-built sedans have been converted into jitneys, and carry up to five passengers along a regular route. These cars are driven by pert girls, who formerly worked as maids, presumably for the hundreds of thousands departing Fidel Castro's Socialist order.

* * *

Another innovation, designed to keep the number of circulating buses down, involved the rerouting of lines entering the narrow streets of Old Havana. Now only four lines enter the heart of the city.

The new schemes do not have appeared to have solved the commuters problem. Throngs of people still wait at the bus stop. When the bus finally arrives, it is usually so full that the driver will not pick up passengers unless a certain number get off.

An hour's wait for a bus is not unusual.

New units from Russia and Czechoslovakia are being pressed into service as soon as they arrive.

* * *

The Czech vehicles are high-slung affairs. The first of these "Karossa" buses had minute sliding windows to provide ventilation. They were built for the severe winters of Central Europe and not for sunny Cuba.

* *

According to official information, some 100 Czech and 300 Russian buses have been ordered. In addition, 1,250 Soviet-built motors are to be installed on American buses with worn out power plants.

Other Schools Study U. of M. Computers

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Staff members of 14 universities Saturday wound up a two-day study of University of Michigan computing systems.

* * *

The U. of M. said the computing staff members of the other universities were there to acquire the U. of M. system for processing work through its computers, which the U. of M. believes is one of the fastest and most efficient in the country.

Things Have Changed in Capital

One Knew Glenn in Last Parade

By BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON — The last time John Glenn paraded down Pennsylvania Avenue nobody in the crowd knew him. All eyes were on Alan Shepard, who had just before that completed a sub-orbital 15-minute 300-mile flight.

The only person Glenn recognized in the several hundred thousand along the line of march from the White House to the Capitol, where Shepard received an ovation, was a cherubic-faced man standing dangerously on a window ledge of the second floor of the ugly old red-brick bank building that sits at the conjunction of Pennsylvania and New York Avenues.

The man waved, which was also a dangerous thing to do because it might have caused him to lose his balance. He yelled, which was also dangerous, for he has had several heart attacks. But the commotion caught Glenn's ear and eye.

He let out a yell of recognition, stood up in his open car, whistled up the attention of the other astronauts — and pointed to the window ledge.

SPACEMEN'S FRIEND

There teetered their friend C. Leo De Orsey, the Washington attorney, tax-expert and sports-man who represents the astronauts in their brushes with commerce.

De Orsey's office happens to look down on that famed crossroads which has echoed to parades almost since the birth of the nation.

Glenn knew a few more people this time, and everybody knew him.

The faces of three of the seven astronauts are now as recognizable through the nation as, say, the face of Mickey Mantle or Frank Sinatra. They are, of course, the faces of Glenn, Shepard and Gus Grissom.

★ ★ ★

Pretty soon the manly kisser of Deke Slayton, will come through the mists like a rugged profile on Mt. Rushmore takes substance after a storm.

Then the land will know Scott Carpenter, as handsome as any leading man on the screen. And finally the others, Walter Schirra and Gordon Cooper.

It takes time. Our chief hope is that they'll all be around long enough to be recognized and properly acclaimed for their skills and daring. As Glenn pointed out to reporters at Canaveral, with unnerving understatement, it's a risky business.

GLENN'S PLEA

He said, in effect, that he wished the reporters assigned to the story would not condemn Project Mercury or the space effort in general if something went wrong. Like his death, say.

Despite the most painstaking safety precautions built into Project Mercury it will be a miracle if this first crop or succeeding generations of American astronauts finishes its tour of duty without failure, perhaps calamitous failure. There have been two near misses in three tries.

The hatch blew off Grissom's capsule prematurely, as it bobbled in the water after alighting. The capsule sank with its photographic record of the flight, a loss put at $2,000,000. But more important than that was the near loss of the man.

His space suit began to fill with water as soon as he baled out of the sinking capsule. It would have pulled him under in short order if the helicopter had not been there to hook him like a trout.

★ ★ ★

A light on Glenn's instrument panel indicated that his heat shield was loose, and bits of molten metal flying past his window suggested that it would soon give way — and let more than 3,000 degrees of friction-heat come blazing into the capsule. Providentially, it was just a bad light, a spurious signal.

Glenn and the others will make a magnificent aerospace faculty for succeeding waves of astronauts.

One hopes that at this fairly primitive stage of our space exploration their lives will not be risked on more than one flight.

★ ★ ★

They will have so much to tell their juniors, who someday will marvel at these space pioneers as jet airline pilots of today marvel at the transatlantic deeds of Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd, Levine, Corrigan, Read, Alcock and Brown, and one who may have been the gamest of them all, Amelia Earhart.

Sentence Man in Morals Case

Eurafrican Journalist Jailed in South Africa on Conspiracy Charge

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI — Joseph Louw, 23, a colored (Eurafrican) journalist, was sentenced Saturday to six months imprisonment on conviction of conspiring to violate South Africa's Immorality Act with Pamela Beira, 19, a white typist. This law forbids sexual relations between whites and nonwhites.

★ ★ ★

Louw was arrested with Miss Beira in an apartment in Johannesburg's white sector. After the preliminary arraignment, Miss Beira fled to Tanganyika.

MAKING HEADLINES

The Louw-Beira case has been making headlines in the South African press as another example of what happens under the Immorality Act, which has caused the conviction — with prison or fines — of around 4,000 persons in the last decade.

★ ★ ★

Debate started Friday in South Africa's all-white Parliament on a bill to ammend this act, because, as a white woman sponsor said, it is "cruel, ugly and disgusting."

WON'T AGREE

But although the debate will continue and this country has had unfavorable publicity abroad as a result of the law, South Africa's minister of justice, Balthazar Vorster, warns that the government will not agree to amending the act.

★ ★ ★

To be convicted under the Immorality Act in segregated South Africa often means, for white persons involved, social and professional disgrace.

America's Space Flight Praised by the English

Col. JOHN H. GLENN's flight three times around the earth has been hailed with banner headlines, pictures and special articles by the British.

Phrases such as a "magnificent achievement" and "America's great day" echo through the news stories and editorials.

★ ★ ★

The reaction of the English newspaper is summed up in the Daily Herald headline "Glorious Glenn." The Daily Herald says it must first vent its relief and joy that Glenn returned safely; and second, its applause for the American scientists, administrators and men of the armed forces who did the work that made the flight possible.

★ ★ ★

The paper continues: "Those too-sensitive Americans who were feeling inferior because the United States was lagging in the space race can now take heart. There may still be a gap between Soviet and United States achievement, but the gap is less wide than was feared, and it may be narrowing."

★ ★ ★

We are pleased to see that England feels we have contributed to the welfare of the Free World. Often in the past, the English with tongue in cheek admit that we have contributed our fair share.

It's about time that all the members of the "Free World" recognize the part we are actually playing and give credit where it is due. The greatest share of NATO troops and the U.N. financing has been our responsibility for years.

The sooner we start sharing alike in some of these things, the better off we'll all be.

Our Broadened Bobby Belongs Back Home

Junior President BOBBY KENNEDY has almost completed his circle of the globe, taking slightly longer than the much more purposeful orbit of Marine Lt. Col. GLENN.

KENNEDY

Our Attorney General has tangled with irate students in Japan and his wife ETHEL has become "one of the gang" by duplicating the daily traffic maneuver of ramming an auto with a motor scooter in Rome.

BOBBY has peered over the Berlin wall.

★ ★ ★

Net gain: a few more tax dollars down the drain, and the idea spread around the world that Bobby is the heir apparent, and outranks cabinet members who have foreign policy responsibilities.

★ ★ ★

BOBBY, stay home and play gangbusters.

Dignity More Important Than Race to the Moon

The Rev. THEODORE M. HESBURGH, President of the University of Notre Dame, points out clearly the difference between this Nation and those that seek to absorb us.

In a recent statement, the Rev. Hesburgh said:

"Personally, I don't care if the United States gets the first man on the moon if, while this is happening on a crash basis, we dawdle along here on our corner of the earth, nursing our prejudices, flouting our magnificent Constitution, ignoring the central moral problem of our times, and appearing hypocrites to all the world."

★ ★ ★

The Notre Dame dignitary is so right. We can't afford to be carried away by the glamour pursuits to the point we forget to keep first things first. Perhaps the race to the moon is important in the struggle for global survival. No one really knows. But we all do comprehend the absolute necessity for cleaning house inside and presenting an orderly and Christian face to the world in general.

★ ★ ★

It won't profit us appreciably to put a dozen astronauts on the back side of the moon if we lose control of the next generation, forget all moral decencies at every age level and practice a crass materialism that turns the rest of the world away.

★ ★ ★

Old-fashioned decency, morality and the ability to keep important matters in their proper place are the first order of the day. As has been pointed out so many times before, winning the whole world—and the moon—won't be very creditable if we sacrifice our souls in the process.

'I TOLD Him There Wasn't Any More Room . . .'

David Lawrence Asks:

Was JFK Right to Send Bobby?

WASHINGTON — A curious kind of "conflict of interest" arises in the cases of Bobby and Ted Kennedy as they tour the world with the aura of their brother's presidency surrounding them wherever they go.

LAWRENCE

Two questions are being asked: Are they trading on the position and prestige of a distinguished relative? Should they be disqualified from doing what comes naturally in their respective careers just because they happen to have a brother who is President of the United States?

No president has ever given his brother a post in the Cabinet and then sent him abroad in the role of unofficial envoy or "good will" ambassador.

Milton Eisenhower, brother of President Eisenhower, was designated as a special envoy to Latin America, an area about which he had exceptional knowledge, but he volunteered his services without compensation and served his government without relation to any political career. He never was in the Cabinet.

Was it in the best interest of the United States in the operation of its foreign policy to send Atty. Gen. Kennedy around the world making contacts with high officials of foreign governments which are involved in major controversies of the day?

★ ★ ★

Naturally, the secretary of state, Dean Rusk, and the under secretary of state, George W. Ball, have risen to defend the President's action in authorizing his brother to deal with foreign governments. What else could these two officials do even if they felt it was an error? A member of the team defends what the captain of the team does, or resigns.

It can be argued that it was a mistake for President Kennedy to take his brother away from his post as head of the Department of Justice, for which duties he is being paid a salary by the taxpayers, and to send him abroad for several weeks.

It wasn't a mistake for Bobby Kennedy, on the other hand, to take advantage of the opportunity to get worldwide notice and prestige for use in advancing his own political career.

WAS GOOD MANAGER

When the attorney general wanted to go on the trip, how could his brother turn him down? After all, Bobby Kennedy had performed a remarkable job as a political mentor and political manager in the four years before JFK was elected president.

A related question is: What is a president's brother to do if he has political ambitions? Shall he take himself completely out of the Democratic administration that is in power and wait a few years till after his brother is out of the White House before embarking on a political career on his own?

The question answers itself. Bobby Kennedy is right from his own standpoint to take advantage of every opportunity to become nationally and internationally known.

But the President himself hasn't such an easy out. He must face the judgment of the American people someday as to whether it was right to pick as an unofficial envoy at a critical time in history a younger brother who had no previous experience or special qualifications for the ambassador's role he now adopts.

It is being asked on Capitol Hill why the vice president of the United States, Lyndon Johnson, wasn't given the assignment, since the country had already witnessed his successful missions abroad in the 13 months that the present administration has been in office.

Was it in the public interest not to take advantage of an opportunity to train a vice president for possible emergencies, or was it more important to reward his brother's political service and aid him in his ambition for higher office?

That's the "conflict of interest" which President Kennedy faced in this unprecedented case.

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

Raw Meats Often Have Dangerous Parasites

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Q — Can you settle a family argument of long duration? I am fond of raw steak sandwiches, usually called steak tartar. My wife insists they are unsafe and unhygienic. I've eaten them for years with nothing but enjoyment. What's your opinion?

A — Better listen to the little woman. The Public Health Service examined 400 specimens of raw beef and raw pork as purchased from retail meat markets.

Some 4 per cent of the pork and 1 per cent of the beef specimens contained sufficient numbers of paratyphoid bacilli (salmonellae) to produce significant human infection.

Although unproven, the source of the salmonellae was thought to be food handlers somewhere along the line. Now, if you've eaten steak tartar with "nothing but enjoyment" over the years, you have been just lucky.

YOU'LL BE SORRY

Some day you're going to run into a family of salmonellae who have your name and number in their appointment book. When that day comes, you'll wish you had listened.

Q — My daughter is to be married in a few months when her fiance returns from overseas service. Because he is to be reassigned to what may be a dangerous mission, she wants to take pills to prevent pregnancy. Are these pills safe?

A — In general the answer is "Yes." But there are these facts to be remembered:

(1) They have been used too recently to learn of distant disturbance, both as regards mother and child.

★ ★ ★

(2) Enlargements of pre-existent fibroid tumors of the uterus have been noted in quite a few women, but none have developed characteristics of malignancy.

(3) In a few instances where the pills have been used unsuccessfully, female children have been born with male characteristics (heavy growth of body and facial hair etc.).

(4) A fair per cent of women suffer from nausea.

★ ★ ★

These are the facts as I know them. I suggest that your daughter and her fiance consider them and after consultation with their doctor and their religious adviser reach a decision best suited to their situation.

'Increased Pension Fund Is Needed'

Your salute to the firemen who risked their lives to save the child in the Crawford Street fire was commendable.

It would be doubly creditable if The Press would work for an increase in the pension fund for firemen and policemen. These men do not enjoy protection under Social Security. When one of them is killed we must make sure through the pension fund his family receives benefits at least comparable to Social Security protection. As it stands today, the pension fund is sadly inadequate.

A fireman was killed last year. It might be an eye-opener for readers if they would look into how his family is doing since his death.

'Taxpayers Will Pay for New Jet Airport'

Now we need a jet airport to rival Metropolitan in Detroit. Our city airport was supposedly modernized at considerable expense to accommodate passenger planes. Business is so poor the commercial airline is threatening to discontinue service.

The federal government will pay part, the state (already broke) will pay part and the county the rest. The money from all these sources comes from the taxpayers.

Insurance Salesman Defends Occupation

As a salesman for a leading insurance company, we are taught to knock on doors to sell life insurance. This is the way I sell most of the policies.

★ ★ ★

"Just Tired" is correct when she says we bother people in the daytime. That's our only spare time because we have appointments in the evening, which have occurred through knocking on doors.

★ ★ ★

I am sorry that by selling life insurance I have left a roof free and clear over the children's and widow's heads. I'm sorry the children don't have to quit school to help provide for their family, that they may graduate and go on to college. I am sorry that this young widow has to stay home and take care of her children to give them the loving care they need, instead of working every day to make a living.

I'm sorry for the few minutes I have bothered "Just Tired."

U.N. to Discuss Uses of Space

To Test K's Bid for Cooperation

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — First thrusts towards international cooperation for peaceful uses of outer space will be made by a United Nations committee meeting in New York March 19. This will probably be the first test of Nikita Khrushchev's sincerity in proposing that the United States and Russia pool their space research.

★ ★ ★

Khrushchev's big idea was welcomed by President Kennedy as a hopeful sign. But the Russian's effort to climb aboard the successful flight of astronaut John H. Glenn's Mercury capsule, "Friendship Seven," is also regarded with some amusement.

The United States has been proposing international cooperation in space exploration and the Russians have been blocking it—for five years. Khrushchev nevertheless put forward the proposal in his congratulatory message to Kennedy as though it was a brand new idea—his—Khrushchev's.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge first suggested it to the U.N. Jan. 12, 1957. In September 1958 the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles proposed to the General Assembly that the U.N. take first steps in organizing international cooperation in outer space.

PROPOSED PLAN

The 1960 Act of Congress setting up the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) authorized American cooperation with other nations for the benefit of mankind. Also, President Eisenhower gave the U.N. a four-point plan in 1960.

President Kennedy in his 1961 State of the Union and United Nations addresses called for international cooperation in space research for weather forecasting, satellite communications and probes of Mars and Venus.

Finally, the U.N. General Assembly last December unanimously approved a resolution setting up the 20-nation conference in New York next month. Even the Russians approved it.

★ ★ ★

Head of the United States delegation for this meeting will be Francis T. P. Plinton, deputy to Adlai Stevenson at the U.N. Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator of NASA, and some of his top scientists will be technical advisers. Whom the Russians are sending has not been announced. Nobody ever knows till they show up.

The General Assembly resolution of last December authorizing the Committee on Peaceful Uses of Outer Space to go ahead with its work is a comprehensive document outlining principles which are the basis for the New York agenda.

International law, including the United Nations charter, is to be applied to outer space. It is declared free for exploration by any and all countries. Celestial bodies are not to be made subject to national appropriation.

REDS HOLD BACK

An advance registration of all future launching of outer space vehicles is called for, with the U.N. secretary general maintaining a public registry. A voluntary exchange of information from outer space research is called for. So far, the Russians have provided only meager medical data on their flights.

The World Meteorological Organization, which is now studying how an international weather forecasting system might be organized and financed, is requested to make its information available to the U.N. space committee.

It will study the WMO report and make recommendations to the next General Assembly, convening in September, on how to carry out the plan.

Establishment of an international, satellite communications network may not come until later. International Telecommunications Union is holding a 1963 conference to allocate radio channels for space communications.

Other U.N. technical assistance organizations are called on to cooperate with member states in planning their communication facilities so that they can make effective use of satellite communication when it comes.

Convening of an international conference on space science and technology will also be considered. Such a conference was called for in a 1958 U.N. resolution, but nothing was done about it then because of Russian opposition.

★ ★ ★

Since Russia and the United States are the only two nations which have launched space vehicles, most of the immediate cooperation is expected to be on a bilateral basis. But Kennedy says he is willing to have this discussed in any forum.

Some 'Fer' Him, Some 'Agin' Him

JFK Likes to Read His Mail, Answers a Few

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy sits down and writes to perfect strangers almost every day.

Recently he dictated, for instance, a letter to a well-wisher in Houston, Tex., who a few days before had written the President in a clear pen-and-ink longhand: "My mother and I should like to offer our heartfelt congratulations to you and your very efficient coworkers, who secured the freedom of Francis Gary Powers. You are certainly to be commended, not only for this, but other things good you have done and are still doing."

★ ★ ★

The lady from Texas added a lot of nice words about Kennedy's performance, prompting him to reply: "I certainly appreciate your writing me and I want to thank you for your very generous comments."

★ ★ ★

The President does read his mail — some of it. He has instructed employes in the White House mail room to sort out every 50th letter among the thousands received each week and pass it on for his personal attention.

On one day, he heard from: Virginia woman thanking him for the card he sent on her 90th birthday and expressing hope that his father, convalescing from a stroke would soon regain good health.

'AGIN' KENNEDY

A Chicago man who denounced Soviet Premier Khrushchev for resuming nuclear tests and promised to denounce Kennedy if the United States resumed testing.

A New York woman who found it "particularly shocking" that his picture should appear in a full-page ad for a men's fashion magazine.

A Californian who enclosed without comment a letter to Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., complimenting him for "untiring efforts to get some semblance of sanity in our national financial procedures."

And there was a home-made Valentine signed "love, Charles" in the scrawling hand of a 5-year-old.

About 2,500 letters to the President were received this day alone. Some days the volume is greater. Mrs. Kennedy, Caroline and John Jr. also get their share.

PROTEST LETTERS

Letter scanners in the mail room bundled up 93 of the 28,500 for the President's eye. These included a big batch protesting a cutback in plane production laying off workers at Republic Aviation's Long Island, N. Y., plant.

There also was a sampling on the nuclear test issue and a set from foreign countries, two from a Canadian woman, postmarked on consecutive days; another written in German.

★ ★ ★

The balance dealt with all sorts of subjects. These made up the every-50th file. The letter scanners attach a little yellow slip to each, summing up the contents. Some topics are so common that slips have been mimeographed to mark the writer, for instance, as pro of con nuclear tests.

★ ★ ★

There's also a check list to indicate what size picture of whom (perhaps Kennedy, perhaps the First Lady, etc. or other items) should be sent to the writer.

Some letters in the sack bring a chuckle or a frown. Every once in a while they bring an answer.

Although the mail is spotted with such phrases as "I don't know if you'll read this or not," most of Kennedy's correspondents write as if it were a matter of course.

Aides said the file on this particular day contained the usual diversity. A few were harsh, a few were daffy, a few sought information and a few begged help. Mostly, they were from people who simply concluded they might as well give the President the benefit of their thinking.

For weeks the heaviest load has centered on nuclear testing. The antis far outnumber the pros when it comes to writing the White House. And some write more than once.

In this day's quota, Kennedy found support for his proposal to buy United Nations bonds, oppositions to savings and loan tax measure and a protest against raising the pay of government employes.

A Detroit woman detailed at length her claim that lawful heirs were being cheated out of an estate and called on the President "to rectify this flagrant injustice at an early date."

A Massachusetts woman wondered if her son could get a deferment from the Marines.

★ ★ ★

A Miami woman typed a whole page in Spanish.

★ ★ ★

A 13-year-old California lad enclosed his design of a rocket and space capsule, sent his regards to the family and asked the chief executive to say "Hi" for him to Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

A 15-year-old girl from Dallas wanted to commend his administration personally "for the magnificent job I feel you are doing."

From Hawthorne, Calif., a correspondent demanded to know "what you are doing to protect the individual and collective security of the American republics." A North Bergen, N. J. poet concluded: "And may our President today be such another one, that history will honor him as we do Washington."

Model for JFK's Sisters

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) —President Kennedy's sisters, Eunice Shriver and Jean Smith, admired a model of an 18th century warship when they visited Dubrovnik last summer. The model builder, Ivan Pastuhovic, has sent them a similar one — on which he worked for nearly 4,000 hours.

Honored by Congress

Astronaut in Select List

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a man who doesn't wear a general's star on his shoulder, Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. will be moving in select military company when he is greeted today at a joint meeting of Congress.

★ ★ ★

Except for the President and visiting heads of state, joint gatherings of the House and Senate usually are reserved for generals, although an Army technical sergeant made the elite group in 1945.

Sgt. Jake W. Lindsay of Lucedale, Miss., led a parade of military brass into the House chamber for a joint session on May 21, 1945. Lindsay was a hero of the invasion of Germany and was personally given the Medal of Honor in the well of the House by President Harry S. Truman.

★ ★ ★

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower addressed a joint meeting less than a month later, on June 18, after his triumphant return from Europe.

On September 10, 1945, Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, the hero of Bataan, was received at separate Senate and House sessions.

Gen. Lucius Clay reported on the Berlin crisis at separate sessions on May 17, 1949.

The Senate and the House met jointly on April 19, 1951, to hear Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who had just been recalled from Japan, and again on May 22, 1952, to hear Gen. Matthew Ridgway, who had replaced MacArthur as commander in the Far East.

Von Braun Discovers Prospect for Huntsville

But when Ralph Uribe of the New Orleans States-Item started to make the picture, the flash bulb failed to explode.

Von Braun smiled and told Uribe: "You'd be a good prospect for Huntsville. We push buttons there, too, and nothing happens."

First Appearance in 12 Days

Castro a 'Hit' at Ball Game

HAVANA (AP)—Looking happy and healthy Fidel Castro emerged from 12 days of silence and seclusion Sunday for a baseball and television appearance.

The Cuban prime minister lined out two hits—one with two strikes against him—after making an unannounced appearance at a doubleheader in "Latino Americano" stadium.

* * *

The crowd of 32,000 cheered and the nation's television audience watched as Castro accepted the challenge of two pitchers to strike him out.

Castro's disappearance from the public eye set a variety of rumors to flying. One was that he had gone to Moscow, another that he had taken asylum in the Mexican Embassy.

* * *

The Communist party newspaper Hoy published a long communique over Castro's name charging the United States was plotting an invasion and thanking the Soviet Union for pledging support of Cuba.

The average passenger car uses 667 gallons of gasoline and 24 quarts of oil a year.

Sgt. York Sends Congratulations to Space Hero

PALL MALL, Tenn. (AP)—The man who became an American hero during World War I has joined the nation in paying tribute to its new hero of the space age.

God bless you is my prayer," Sgt. Alvin C. York said over the weekend in a telegram to astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

"You have done more to achieve peace than two presidents have done in the last 20 years," Sgt. York wrote. "As I watched you on television, my mind went back to the battle of Argonne, and I know what you were going though."

The 70-year-old hero of yesteryear was referring to the battle on Oct. 8, 1918, when he was credited with putting a German machine gun battalion out of action, killing 25 Germans and taking 132 prisoners.

Calico was originally a plain white cotton cloth from Calcutta.

Murrow Okays Having Jackie Appeal for Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward R. Murrow, director of the U.S. Information Agency, says he sees no harm if Mrs. John F. Kennedy were to broadcast an appeal for peace to the Soviet Union to match a similar broadcast by Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev to the United States.

Murrow didn't specifically endorse the idea during a taped television interview Sunday but he described the First Lady as "a national asset in the field of communications."

* * *

A women's peace group suggested last week following a broadcast by the wife of Soviet Premier Khrushchev that Mrs. Kennedy make a similar appeal to the Russian people.

Baltimore and Washington

Feud Over Two Airports Growing Bitter

By ROBERT J. SERLING
UPI Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON — Baltimore and Washington are writing a new "tale of two cities" — the story of a bitter fued involving two giant airports.

Involved in the problem are several maor airlines, the Federal Aviation Agency, the Civil Aeronautics Board, Congress and the two fields.

At issue is the FAA's plans to open the new Dulles International Airport at Chantilly, Va., next October.

When that happens, such transcontinental airlines as United, Trans World, American and Northwest are expected to shift most of their jet flights from Baltimore Friendship Airport to the new field located about 22 miles south of Washington.

Dulles, like Washington National Airport, will be operated by the federal government — the FAA. That agency, with $105 million invested in the new air terminal, is turning a cold shoulder to Baltimore's complaints that Friendship threatens to become a ghost airport.

NATIONAL TOO SMALL

Friendship has been serving the Washington area with jet flights since 1959 because the capital's regular airport, National, is too small for the big jetliners.

Now that Dulles is being readied, Baltimore officials are trying hard to maintain Friendship's status as a major jet terminal. It looks like a losing fight.

The extent of service diversion from Friendship to Dulles still is up in the air.

The airlines involved will not commit themselves on how many flights will be shifted. For one thing, they have not yet completed negotiations with FAA on such items as landing fees, rental space etc. For another, they naturally would like to stay out of the line of fire.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore is going all-out to keep at least a fair portion of jet flights at Friendship. Airport officials are talking about lowering landing fees. The airport board is considering court action to stop what it terms "FAA's raid" on the airlines serving Friendship. And the Baltimore Airport board chairman, Charles Crane, accuses FAA of "being partisan in seeking to divert the air traffic.

Both the FAA and its sister agency, the CAB, are solidly behind Dulles. FAA chief Najeeb E. Halaby says Baltimore is crying before it's hurt.

Halaby concedes that Friendship is going to lose a large chunk of business when Dulles opens, but he feels that expanding air travel eventually will utilize both Dulles and Friendship and that Friendship's loss may be temporary.

CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd says bluntly that the airlines will be required to serve Dulles because that terminal has been designated as an official airport for the nation's capital.

CERTIFICATE OF NECESSITY

Boyd explains that airlines operating jet flights into Friendship actually are doing so under a temporary "certificate of convenience and necessity" which classifies that field as "Washington-Baltimore." Their permanent certificates are for service only to Washington.

Thus, they cannot legally continue the majority of their jet operations at Baltimore because the bulk of jet passengers come from or go to the Washington area.

"Baltimore," says one high FAA official, "wouldn't have a major airport if we hadn't kept jets out of Washington National."

Friendship supporters argue that for many Washington area residents, the Baltimore terminal actually is easier to reach than Dulles. The FAA admits this will be true for the time being, because a 17-mile access road to the new terminal will not be finished when Dulles is opened next fall.

But the agency says when the road is completed, the travel time from downtown Washington to Dulles will be half the 40-45 minutes now required between downtown Washington and Friendship.

New Algiers Violence Fatal to 10 Moslems

ALGIERS (AP)—Armored cars and riot troops swarmed into the heart of Algiers today but European terrorists killed 10 more Moslems, virtually under the eyes of police.

★ ★ ★

The Algerian Nationalist Rebels' Parliament was meeting in Tripoli and was expected to approve a cease-fire with the French before the day is over.

This was expected to touch off another eruption of violence by the Secret European Army, enemy of both the rebels and the French government.

In its campaign to block Algerian independence and keep the territory French, the Secret Army Sunday staged one of its most daring attacks to date—a bazooka raid on a French military police barracks in the outskirts. At least 10 persons were reported slain and gasoline storage tanks were set afire.

MOVED IN TROOPS

French authorities retaliated by moving armed forces into Algiers from outlying bases, but still the killings went on in the crowded street of Algiers.

Six Moslems were slain on the Rue Michelet. Police arrested a European and said he admitted one of the attacks.

Four Moslems dead and one wounded were sprawled over a 100-yard stretch of sidewalk opposite the University of Algiers.

Professors and students crowded around the windows of the university building. Young students and elementary school pupils passed slowly by the bodies. The crowd talked in low voices.

★ ★ ★

None of the passersby seemed to have seen the gunmen.

An old European woman walking with two canes calmly stepped over one body lying face down on the sidewalk.

Halftracks loaded with troops surrounded the area. Two helicopters were called out to keep an eye on crowds in the city.

★ ★ ★

An aged Moslem with a pointed white beard and dressed in a flowing robe lay dead across the street from the U. S. Information Service library. A Moslem youth, badly wounded, huddled by his side.

★ ★ ★

A young man who had passed just before the attack said they had been sitting on the sidewalk watching passersby when they were shot.

Didn't Take Chances

WARREN (AP)—A pair of bandits made certain they wouldn't be identified in the $120 holdup of a gas station today. They wore gloves, paper bags over their heads, and had covered their car license plates with burlap bags. Before leaving, they ripped out the phone.

IVES DIES — Irving M. Ives, former Republican U.S. senator from New York, died Saturday at Chenago Memorial Hospital in Norwich, N.Y., at 67. He retired from the Senate in 1959. He was an unsuccessful GOP candidate for governor in 1954, losing to Averell Harriman.

BIG WIG — If the wig's the thing with mama, pretty Betsy Owens of Walled Lake thinks little girls should also have fun with the artificial hair. While her mother, Mrs. James N. Owens of 3945 Lakepointe Drive tried on hats the clerks perched young Betsy on a chair and adjusted the $150 wig.

Skin Divers Die Trapped in Slide

One Is Michigan Man; 4th Okay After Failing to Rescue Pals

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP)—Three skindivers died Sunday when a mud slide trapped them 130 feet under water in an abandoned stone quarry and their air supplies ran out.

A fourth diver, who made a daring attempt to rescue them, was reported in fair condition at a hospital today, suffering from shock. He knew his own breathing apparatus was defective when he made the rescue attempt.

Dean Delbene, treasurer of th 1,000-member Illinois Council of Skin and Scuba Divers, an affiliate of the Underwater Society of America, called the deaths of the three men "definitely the worst tragedy in the history, of scuba diving."

Those asphyxiated were: Jack Lepinski, 27, of Wakefield, Mich., a U.S. Air Force man who had been attending courses at an International Business Machines Corp. plant here; David Lasher, 32, and William Mills Sr., 45, both of this city on the Hudson River.

Under treatment at Benedictine Hospital is Gerry Klemm, 27, of Kingston, who attempted the rescue.

Supreme Court Tells Alabama to Grant Bail

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today gave Alabama courts five days to grant bail to the Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, Negro minister who is serving a 90-day jail sentence in Birmingham on a charge of breach of peace.

Shuttlesworth had petitioned the Supreme Court to order his release on a writ of habeas corpus.

The court instead gave the state courts five days to act on Shuttlesworth's request for bail. If by the end of that time the state courts have not acted, he then will be free to turn to the U.S. District Court in Alabama.

The Supreme Court, in an unsigned order, said the U.S. District court may then consider that all state remedies have been exhausted and proceed at once to determine Shuttlesworth's case, including any application for bail, pending the U.S. District Court's final disposition of the matter.

4 More Escape to West Berlin

E. German Policeman, 3 Friends Shoot Way Through Barbed Wire

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berlin police today reported the escape of an East German border policeman and three of his friends across the East-West border.

* * *

They fled through barbed wire from the Soviet zone of Germany to the American sector of Berlin in a suburban area last Wednesday.

The policeman, Rudi Thurow, 21, gave details of the flight to the West Berlin newspaper B. Z.

Thurow told police he fled through the barbed wire first and covered the escape of his friends, two men and a woman, by firing 30 shots from his machine pistol over the heads of two Communist policemen who tried to halt them.

The two other policemen took cover and did not fire on the refugees.

Thurow was in charge of guarding the section of border through which he and his friends fled.

The flight was disclosed as the Communists carried out new evictions of persons living in border areas.

West Berlin police said strong police units evacuated well over 100 families from small homes in suburban areas on the border of East Germany and the American and French sectors.

Such evictions have been carried out since the Communists put up their wall on Aug. 13.

Says Kennedy Prefers N-Ban

Wants Workable Pact Rather Than New Tests, Claims Gaitskell

LONDON (AP)—Hugh Gaitskell said today President Kennedy would prefer a workable agreement for a nuclear test ban with Moscow rather than going ahead with a new series of American atmospheric explosions. Gaitskell heads the British Labor party.

He said the United States will withhold its hand if the Soviet Union accepts an effective and safeguarded agreement to stop testing.

Gaitskell made these comments to newsmen upon his return from the United States, where he had private discussions with Kennedy.

* * *

NO FINAL WORD

Gaitskell said Kennedy has not yet reached a final decision about setting off these blasts and obviously was reluctant to test.

"I am sure he would much prefer to get a cast-iron agreement with Russia," Gaitskell said.

The United States began preparing for a new round of atmospheric blasts after the Soviet Union conducted a series of such explosions last autumn.

Gaitskell said he was satisfied that if the U.S. tests do take place, the decision by the U.S. government will be taken "strictly on the basis of military necessity and not upon any idea of retaliation of prestige."

* * *

He added that "there is a military case for testing" because the evidence showed the Soviet Union made some advances with its latest tests — apparently in the antimissile field.

Blame Explosion of Furnace for Orion Home Fire

Fire caused by a furnace explosion resulted in an estimated $5,500 damage to a one-story frame home in Orion Township this morning.

An Oakland County Road Commission snowplow had to clear a path to the fire at 1656 Avalon St. for Orion Township fire departments 1 and 2. The side street was closed by snow.

The home owner, Archie McAlpine, said he heard an explosion in the basement shortly before 8 a.m. and saw flames shooting up partitions in the basement. Both he and his family escaped injury.

Fireman George Schick was hurt slightly when he stepped on nails in the burning house. He was treated by a local physician and released.

Firemen struggled with the blaze for two hours before subduing it. They pumped additional water from nearby Square Lake after draining water tanks for the equipment.

A Voice Asks and Gets Hat, Purse Worth $66

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—It was dark and raining, so Mrs. Gus Carman held her husband's new hat to keep it dry while he parked the car near their home. Then a soft voice in the rainy gloom asked for the hat and purse.

But, she told police, it wasn't her husband who had asked. She said the thief got about $50 in the purse. The hat cost $16.

January Business in City Makes 1962 Look Bright

If business and financial figures of the first month of 1962 set a pattern, this should be a big year economically for Pontiac.

Only construction and air travel showed any slump last month. Even such things as postal receipts, which took their annual nosedive after a big Christmas selling season, were well above totals for the same month a year ago.

Banks did more business through customers' checking accounts. People wrote some $6.1 million more in checks last month than in December and $6.9 million more than January 1961.

Bus patronage was at an all-time high and gas, water and electrical consumption were up considerably.

★ ★ ★

Figures indicating business trends for January were reported by Community National Bank, Pontiac State Bank, the post office, the city water and inspections departments, Consumers Power Co., Detroit Edison Co., Pontiac Transit Corp., and North Central Airlines.

Hearing Slated on Expansion of State Hospitals

Future expansion of Pontiac State Hospital — along with construction at Ypsilanti, Traverse City and Kalamazoo state hospitals — will receive a public hearing in the State House chamber at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

The hearing was announced today by Rep. Arnell Engstrom, R-Traverse City, who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Engstrom said the hearing was sought by the Michigan Division of the American Association of University Women, which is plugging for construction of inpatient units for emotionally disturbed children.

Representatives of other groups also will get a chance to testify on mental health matters, he said.

★ ★ ★

The University Women are backing a measure to allocate $1.55 million for planning and a start of construction at inpatient units at Ypsilanti, Traverse City, Pontiac and Kalamazoo state hospitals.

★ ★ ★

A companion bill would appropriate $1.57 million for operation costs in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Former Pianist Exhibits Painting 'Therapy'

Artist Climbs Mountain of Darkness

NEW YORK (AP)—Vincent J. Vita was a piano virtuoso at 31 but a year later he became completely paralyzed and totally blind.

Today Vita opens his first one-man exhibition of oil paintings.

Still severely crippled and partially blind, the 36-year-old artist is showing 28 well-executed oils that display a range of style and technique — romantic, impressionistic, abstract and surrealist.

His brilliant colors and icy pastels, most of them landscapes, are haunted by his personal sense of loss, his love for music and his strong will to come back into society as a productive and self-sufficient person.

★ ★ ★

Born and raised in Brooklyn as one of eight children, Vita was drawn early to study the piano and compose music. At 21, he performed one of his pieces, "Fantasia in Three Movements", for the late maestro Arturo Toscanini who was so impressed that he gave the young man his baton.

GAVE RECITALS

Vita gave a series of recitals including one in Carnegie Hall. He also performed at private concerts, continued to compose and taught piano.

Then he developed a brain tumor. Vita lost all his sight and the use of his body.

★ ★ ★

Physicians gave him little chance of recovering even partial sight or mobility. He would not believe them. In addition to following a strenuous routine of physical therapy, he underwent several operations which doctors were not at all sure would do any good.

His sight began to return in one eye. Operations restored sight in the other. Now, he has only direct and limited vision. He cannot move his eyes to right or left, nor can he see farther than three feet without double vision.

PAINT AS THERAPY

Working under the guidance of the Institute for the Crippled and Disabled, Vita began to paint as therapy. Some of his equilibrium returned, although he still loses his balance and becomes dizzy after a small amount of physical exertion.

The institute taught him how to walk again, and slowly, over a period of four years, he gained the use of his arms and legs to a great degree.

★ ★ ★

Painting is now his whole life. Pointing to the admiring crowd at the exhibition preview, he said, "I found myself after the operation. I discovered it was wonderful to live again and to help other people in the institute who had given up hope."

He paused. "But I do really miss my piano."

Western Bus Mishap Kills One, Injures 34

AUBURN, Calif. (AP) — A chartered bus returning to the San Francisco Bay area from a Nevada resort area skidded off icy U.S. 40 freeway in a Sierra snowstorm Sunday and rolled over twice, killing a woman passenger, seriously injuring 21 and bruising 13 others.

★ ★ ★

The big Greyhound came to rest on its side at the bottom of a 50-foot embankment 30 miles east of here.

Pinned under it and crushed to death was Laverne Smith, 49, of San Leandro, wife of an Oakland fireman.

★ ★ ★

Driver Alan Maunder, 30, of Oakland and 20 others seriously injured were brought to Highland Hospital here in ambulances and hearses.

Area Students Rushing Through U. of M. Winter

By SHARON WARREN
Campus Correspondent

The University of Michigan campus is back in full swing of classes and activities after the semester break.

The wintry weather daunts few people in Ann Arbor. Despite the seemingly endless snow, students are already laying plans for the event which highlights the spring semester, Michigras, to be held in April.

These plans are in the future, but there is more immediate news of student activity.

Nine University of Michigan freshmen received Hopwood awards for creative writing. Top winner in the essay division was Barry Kriger of Birmingham who received $50 for "What Should I Do?" Carol Pearee won third prize of $20 in the poetry division for "Poetry." Carol lives in Rochester. Both students are enrolled in the College of Literature, Science and the Arts.

Judy Yount is presently involved in the very basis of reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic, for she is student teaching in the first grade at Haisley Elementary School in Ann Arbor.

Judy recently moved to a small housing unit right in central campus, Betsy Barbour House, and is the envy of the many girls who make the long, cold walk to campus from "the hill" each morning. Judy is a senior in the School of Education and makes her home in Romeo.

Edwina Palmer of Cadillac Avenue is a senior in the School of Nursing. When Edwina graduates in June, she will be a registered nurse and will hold a bachelor of science degree. Genella Williamson of Bielby Street is one of Edwina's four apartment-mates. She is senior in the School of Education. Edwina and Genny are in Phi Mu Sorority. Right now they are in the midst of rush season, selecting new pledges for the sorority, and are also beginning plans for Michigras. The two girls are planning to find work in California in the fall.

Heralded as "A great quartet born on American soil," the artists, Henri Temianka, Stefan Krayk, Albert Gillis and Lucien Laporte play Paganini Strads. These instruments were made by Stradivarius more than 200 years ago and were at one time the most cherished possession of Nicolo Paganini, the famed virtuoso. They were reassembled a century after Paganini's death.

Formed in 1946 the quartet recently received recognition through its appointment as String-Quartet-in-Residence at the University of California, Santa Barbara campus.

As Cellists, Fiddlers . . . Any Instrument

Women Invading Symphony Orchestras

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — In tune with the times, the women are moving into another province once belonging to the men — the nation's symphony orchestra.

Twenty to 30 years ago, about the only feminine touch to the average orchestra was the girl at the harp.

Today, it's an unusual symphony without several female musicians, and some orchestral groups have as high as 50 per cent feminine membership, said Max Aronoff, member of a famous classical musical group and director of a school for musicians.

Aronoff, a Philadelphian, said there are three major factors causing this feminine invasion.

"It's like in any other field," said Aronoff. "Women are all over the place . . . you find them in jobs everywhere they'd never held before."

Also, he said, the nation is on a "culture kick," musical education is expending, and so consequently is the number of women musicians.

And, as the number of symphonies grows, with almost every city of any size boasting one, the need for musicians grows. Women are helping to meet the demand.

Aronoff said the women are playing instruments a far cry from the gentle harp. The Boston Symphony has a woman flutist, the San Francisco Symphony has a woman bass fiddler, there are women trombonists with the Minneapolis Symphony — and women cellists, bassoonists, trumpeters and tympanists all over the place.

"Time was," said Arnoff, "when a woman wouldn't study the cello . . . it might make her bowlegged. Today, there are several fine cellists."

★ ★ ★

Aronoff said there are numerous husband-wife teams among the more than 1150 symphonies in the United States.

"Boy first meets girl at music school," he said, "and when they marry they decide to keep on making music together, so they join an orchestra."

NO DISCRIMINATION

The musician said there might be a little discrimination against women here and there, but not so far as he and most conductors are concerned.

"You used to hear comments that, 'Aw, she plays like a woman,'" he said. "That's applesauce. There are two types of musicians —good and bad. Ability has nothing to do with their sex."

Aronoff, 55, is a viola player. He was studying music by the age of seven, by the age of 12 gave his first lesson, and is an original member of the Curtis String Quartet which for 35 years has toured the world.

— He also is founder and director of the New School of Music, Philadelphia, established 20 years ago. Its talented student body ranges in age from a seven-year-old girl prodigy of the violin to a woman in her 60s.

During a business trip to New York, Aronoff explained that the nonprofit institution offers orchestra training as its major subject and has placed students in just about every symphony in the country.

★ ★ ★

Aronoff is a musician's musician, but far from the "long hair" in his genial approach to musical culture.

He confessed plans for attending the next concert in Philadelphia by Pete Seeger, banjo-playing specialist in folk music. He confessed also that the idea came from his 16-year-old son Benjamin, who is a Seeger fan and plays the banjo, Seeger-style.

"Benjy thinks I'm a square," said Aronoff. "But I might add, my son is a good viola player."

Abby Requests Help

Needs a New Book Title

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: I am frequently asked, "Do YOU ever have a problem, Abby?" The answer is yes. And right now I have a dandy and am appealing to my readers for a solution.

ABBY

I have just written a new book. It's all about marriage, why it fails and how to save it. I titled it, MARRIAGE ON THE ROCKS. (The condensation is presently appearing in a popular woman's magazine.)

I have just been informed that the title of my book was so good that someone else used it years ago. This was news to me. Furthermore, if I insisted on using my title, I would have to fight it out in court. No, thank you. I decided to change the title, instead. It's a serious book (but not without humor) dealing with marriage and "hi fidelity." So, Dear Readers, wherever you are, if you can think of a fitting title for my new book, formerly MARRIAGE ON THE ROCKS, please rush it to me.

A TITLE

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a fishing bug. During the summer months he fished only on weekends. I didn't mind getting up at four ayem to fix him a hot breakfast and pack him a good lunch. But recently he has taken up night fishing. He tells me blue fish bite better at night, so he takes off in the evening and returns at dawn, all done in, and with a very small catch. The fish he catches at night do not seem as fresh as the fish he caught in the daytime, and they look more like flounders than blue fish. I want to know if blue fish really bite better at night.

FISHERMAN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It doesn't matter when the blue fish bite better if you continue to go for his line. Any man who can pass off a couple of fish market flounders for fresh blue fish should spend his time selling, not fishing.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I met a very nice boy at the skating rink. He goes to a different school, but we started liking each other. He told me he was in the eighth grade, so I told him I was also in the eighth grade, but I am really in the ninth grade. I was afraid if he knew I was in a higher grade he wouldn't like me any more. Now I am afraid somebody might tell him. Should I tell him myself or do you think it would be the end of his liking me?

NINTH GRADER

DEAR NINTH: Tell him yourself. And fast. And don't ever downgrade yourself again.

Jr. and Sr. Causing Difficulty

By the Emily Post Institute

Q. My mother-in-law has made it plain that she has no intention of calling herself Mrs. John Smith Sr. She isn't old, but she thinks that Sr. after her name suggests that she is.

I can't blame her much, but now that my husband will drop the Jr. after his name (his father died several months ago) I am sure there will be much confusion in having two Mrs. John Smiths, especially since we both live in the same city.

I thought possibly I could adopt 2nd for my own use to indicate I'm the younger Mrs. Smith. What do you advise?

A: If your mother-in-law refuses to add Sr. to her name, your problem is really difficult. In fact, the only way out is for you and your husband to continue calling yourselves Junior—which correctly, you are not!

★ ★ ★

Q: My sister and I are contemplating a double wedding the end of June and we have run into several problems which we would like you to help us with.

(1) Does my father take us both up the aisle at one time—one on each arm? (2) Must we wear identical bridal gowns or may we each wear something different? (3) Is it necessary to have two wedding cakes or will one be sufficient?

A: (1) Your father takes his older daughter up the aisle and a brother or next nearest male relative takes the younger daughter. (2) They are not necessarily alike but they must look well together. (3) There are two wedding cakes—one for each bride.

★ ★ ★

Q: I have stomach trouble and every once in a while it will make some weird noises and I never know what to say or do. It is very embarrassing, especially when I am with people. I do not know very well. What does one do in a situation of this kind?

A: There is nothing to do except pay no attention. Apologizing for these sounds will only accentuate them.

★ ★ ★

Should the tissue papers be removed before mailing wedding invitations? The answer to this question as well as correct wedding forms will be found in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Wedding Invitations and Announcements." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Pontiac Press.

Amy E. Krueger of Prall Street, (center) long an enthusiastic Young Women's Christian Association leader, became the Pontiac association's first honorary board member at Saturday's 17th annual meeting in Devon Gables. Offering congratulations are (left) Mrs. Fred Stimpert, board president, and Mrs. Edward S. Ladd who look over the group's upcoming activities book with the honoree.

YW Honors Miss Amy Krueger

Highlighting the 17th annual meeting of the Pontiac Young Women's Christian Association Saturday at Devon Gables, was the election by the board of directors' unanimous vote, of the Pontiac association's first honorary board member. The distinction was bestowed upon Amy Krueger of Prall Street in recognition of a lifetime of service to the YWCA.

Miss Krueger was due to rotate off the board of the Pontiac YWCA after serving six years, first as public affairs chairman, and more recently as religious emphasis chairman, posts which she has filled since coming to Pontiac following her retirement after 36 years as YWCA staff and executive director.

Speaking to one hundred members and friends of the Pontiac YWCA, Dr. Lowell Eklund, director of continuing education at Michigan State University Oakland took as his topic "A Time for Excellence."

He praised the YWCA's continuing role throughout a century of service in 71 countries, in training and retraining women for widening fields of employment, and for the YWCA's adult education program, which often leads to new vistas for the participants, far beyond the content of the classes themselves.

Mrs. Fred Stimpert, president, reviewed accomplishments of the Pontiac YWCA during the five years of her presidency, Reba Ross Netzler, executive director, pointed out that the Pontiac association draws its members from 29 neighboring communities, in addition to Pontiac, and needs to establish program centers in many of these areas.

Kenneth Ish, guest soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. Neida Sink. Mr. Ish also led the group singing of Y parodies of oldtime popular songs, arranged by Mrs. William Graves. Mrs. R. C. Lippard played for group singing.

Mrs. Paul Gorman, annual meeting chairman, served as mistress of ceremonies.

Results of the balloting for one-third of the board of directors elected each year were announced by Viola Krueger. Mrs. Everett Russell and Mrs. George Widdifield were re-elected for second three-year terms; Maude Chambers, Mrs. Edward Ladd and Mrs. Leslie Ellis, who had been filling unexpired terms, were elected in their own right; Mrs. A. L. MacAdams, Helen Travis and Mrs. Joseph Moore were newly elected.

Nominating committee for 1963 will be composed of Mrs. Richard Balmer and Mrs. Kippard, from the board; and Mrs. J. L. Bennett, Mrs. Robert Nelson and Norma Strickland, from the membership.

Children Must Learn to Act for Themselves

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

My 3-year-old granddaughter is presenting problems in her play group. Instead of participating in other children's activities, she sits by herself and sulks. She has a new baby brother of whom she is jealous.

Could she be as jealous of the attention the teacher gives the other children as she is of her mother's attention to the baby? Her mother has tried so hard to give her love and security. She's had every want supplied since she was born . . .

ANSWER: That may be the trouble.

If you have a mommy who has rushed to supply every want you've had since you were born, you don't get much chance to discover you can sometimes supply them youself, do you?

You can't discover you can zip up your own snow suit, retrieve a ball from under a sofa, or on a rainy day recover the taste of a story that has been read to you by thinking about its pictures all by yourself. Mommy's always there to retrieve the lost ball for you, button your buttons and amuse you when you are bored.

Then, suddenly, she isn't there. She's with the baby. This is very difficult. Mommy no longer rushes eagerly to supply your every want — but has also seen to it that you can't serve any for yourself.

Under such circumstances, what is there left for you to do at home or in a play group but go off by yourself and sulk?

I think that your little granddaughter refuses to join in other children's play group activities, not because she is jealous of the teacher's attention to them but because she has had no practice in initiating any action by herself.

At her age children do not "participate" in "activities." They just pursue their own activities in the company of other children. But they do not "play together." Their first concerns are not social gives-and-takes but placing their own block where they want it to go, getting their own hands first into the finger paint jar.

So, a child who has been allowed no experience in serving his own wants is lost in such a group. Like your little granddaughter, he will stand aside and sulk, not because he is jealous or unsociable but because he is helpless to initiate any action.

He is waiting for mommy or someone like her. His own muscles, his own capacities do not exist for him.

Work on Hair, Clothes

Look Attractive on Diet

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

My mail brings so much human interest, inspiration, friendliness, controversy, humor and poignancy to my desk, that it is a never-failing surprise package and adventure. I might become fatigued, but never bored when answering the tremendous amount of mail from readers.

This week, for a few days, I am giving you a peep into the mail. The letter I am quoting today concerns a woman who had gotten into a rut and lost interest in her appearance, and what she did about it. To me this letter is especially interesting because of the way the writer approached her problem.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"I thought you might be interested in my self-improvement program. Four months ago I took a long look at myself and saw a woman who was fat and careless about her hair and grooming, who had 'let herself go.'

"The first thing I did was to start your dieting plan. Next, I started work on my hair. I went to a hairdresser and had it cut and styled and also tinted a beautiful color which matches my skin tone.

Even though you may have embarked on a rigorous weight-reduction and self-improvement program, do not neglect your day-to-day appearance. Keep your hair and clothes looking nice to avoid getting into a rut.

MADE NEW OUTFITS

"Then I made myself some new outfits. At the time I weighed 196 pounds. The sizes I had to buy in clothes did not look like anything a woman of 35 would wear with pleasure.

"I now weigh 167 and have a long way still to go. I do not expect to be a glamor girl, but I do want to look nice. My family is so proud of what I am doing and my husband sticks closer to me when we go out."

This letter brought to my mind a mistake many women make if they have a lot of weight to lose. Too often they do nothing about hair and clothes until they reach their ideal weight. I think it gives a reducer a big boost in morale and determination to look as attractive as she can WHILE she loses weight.

LOOK AHEAD

The first few pounds and inches give a dieter a glimpse of what is ahead, but a new hairdo and clothes that fit are attractive and encouraging. This reader is lucky because she can make her own clothes.

No woman wants to spend much money buying clothes which fit a figure she is trying to lose, but looking as attractive as possible all the way along the reducing road is important.

This letter was sent to me for my Question Box column so I cannot answer the sender personally. Therefore, this is a postscript to her to answer a question: She is 5 feet, 7 inches tall and wants to know how much she should weigh. If she has a medium build, she should weigh about 145 pounds.

The word pinto probably came from the Spanish adjective pintado, meaning painted or mottled. At least one pinto horse landed in America with the Cortes expedition.

Quiz Friends in Teen's Death

EXAMINES DEATH SCENE — Rochester Police Chief Samuel Howlett sifts through the snow at the spot where 13-year-old Randall McDonald was found dead Saturday. The building in the background is the Lions Club warming shelter which is at the west end of the Municipal Skating Rink. The boy's body was found on the path by the rink that he used as a shortcut from town to his home at 815 Ludlow St., three blocks from the rink.

Rochester Boy, 13, Found in Snow; Was Gang Head

BY RALPH HUMMEL

All Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday morning, teen-age boys trooped into the Rochester Police Station to be questioned in the death of their former leader, 13-year-old Randall A. (Randy) McDonald.

At 9 a.m. Saturday, Randy who had once told policemen he hated everybody — "especially cops"—had been found lying face down in 8 inches of snow only 200 yards from the police station. His face was bruised, one eye blackened.

He had left his home at 815 Ludlow St. at 6:30 p.m. Friday, his father said, ostensibly to go to a movie downtown.

At about 7 p.m. Friday, several boys reported, Randy was seen showing them bruises on each leg where he said he had fallen on icy ground.

But at that time he did not yet have the black eye and bruises which, the medical examiner says, resulted in the dazed condition in which Randy wandered aimlessly to die in the snow.

The last time he was seen was around 11 p.m., when another boy says he saw Randy walking across a parking lot downtown. He seemed in normal condition at the time, the boy told police.

Said officer William Woehl yesterday:

"Now we've got to find somebody who saw him after 11."

Randy died sometime between midnight and 6 a.m.

At 9 a.m. two men living in a house overlooking the municipal park area spotted the body lying only 10 feet from a path which is a short-cut between the downtown section and a street three blocks from Randy's home.

SHOVELING SNOW

The men, Fred A. Laatz and William Henderson, both of 446 Sixth St., had been shoveling snow when they saw what they thought was an animal but soon found was the teen-age boy.

In circles around the body, police found half-filled-in footprints where Randy had staggered in a daze — seeking a nearby skating rink shelter during the storm or trying to find his way home.

At Pontiac's St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Saturday, Randy was identified by his father, John, 37, parts manager for Detroit Air Compressor Co., 3205 Bermuda St., Ferndale.

John McDonald and his second wife, Winifred, have nine other children. Randy, McDonald's son from a previous marriage, was the tenth. Four of the remaining children are his from a previous marriage; four are his wife's from a former marriage; and a last is from the present marriage.

Dr. Richard E. Olsen, pathologist at the hospital, reported Randy had died apparently from exposure after he struck — or was struck on — his head. A blood clot had formed and had probably dazed the boy.

A police officer quoted the examining doctors as saying:

"The boy would not have died from exposure if he had not been dazed — probably by the blow on his head."

Randy was released from the Oakland County Children's Home only two weeks ago. Another boy had taken over leadership of the boys who were his companions.

Police Chief Gazetti Resigns Post in Holly

HOLLY — Police Chief Paul Gazetti has resigned his post, claiming "politics and criticism" has forced him to leave the job he has held nearly two years.

Gazetti's reasons for resigning are the same as those given by his predecessor James Parker when he quit in April 1960.

Gazetti, 32, of 1011 Marion Drive, in his letter of resignation to the Village Council, wrote:

"Due to the extreme effort on the part of certain persons to cause this department some amount of friction and having successfully completed this mission I would like to tender my resignation as police chief, effective Feb. 28."

"The council accepted my resignation," Gazetti said, "but said it was unable to understand the alleged criticism."

Gazetti, a member of the Holly Police Department five years, would not identify the name of persons responsible for his decision to resign.

"All I will say is that small town politics and undue criticism prompted my action to leave," he added.

'GOOD JOB'

"This has been a good job, but it seems to me the longest you can stay on is two years."

Gazetti said he had been forewarned as early as eight months ago by a businessman that it would be necessary to resign in the near future.

"I received a letter from this man shortly after I warned him about his driving telling me that nothing is certain and that he had helped in getting me the appointment as police chief," said Gazetti.

Gazetti was appointed to head the police department on April 27, 1960, by Village President Aram Krikorian, two weeks after Parker resigned.

It is likely that the village will be without a police chief for the next two weeks, or until after the village election March 12.

At that time it will be up to the new village president to appoint Gazetti's successor. So far the job of making the appointment appears to be in the hands of Councilman John Oldani, the only candidate for the post of village president.

Krikorian is not seeking to regain his office.

Two policemen will remain on the force with the resignation of Gazetti and patrolman Herbert Aldrich, who quit recently after two years to take a job in California.

Fire Destroys Aircraft

Lands Plane on Highway

HARRISON (AP) — A private pilot landed his burning two-engine plane on an expressway after skimming over cars yesterday.

★ ★ ★

With his boots on fire, he then escaped with three companions moments before flames engulfed the plane and destroyed it.

"I was standing on the brakes trying to stop the plane and my feet were right on the fire," said Richard H. Sucher, 34, Detroit Oil Co. executive, the pilot.

Smoke and flames were shooting from the instrument panel as Sucher landed the plane.

LANDED ON ROAD

The fire was discovered at an altitude of 1,800 feet. The plane came down on U.S. 27 six miles north of this north-central Michigan city.

Sucher, president of the Tulsa Oil Co., and his companions were flying back to Detroit from a skiing trip to the Boyne Mountain resort in northwest Michigan.

Sucher said he realized when he saw the fire in the plane that "there was no choice. I had to get down in a hurry."

★ ★ ★

Aboard with him were John Curran, 43, Dearborn construction contractor; Curran's son, Lawrence, 11; and Robert Nichols, 23, Southfield.

"It was warm and getting hard to see because of the smoke in the cabin, so I got in line with traffic and landed," Sucher said.

State police said motorists saw the plane and, apparently believing it was in trouble, slowed down so it could land ahead of them.

The expressway is not heavily traveled at this time of year.

The plane was an Aero Commander valued at $70,000. The group aboard lost all their personal belongings.

Utica's O'Hara Plans Bill for Special Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James O'Hara, D-Utica, said he will introduce a bill today to authorize a $200-million program to help states finance technical education.

The bill would authorize $40 million a year for the next five years for federal matching grants to assist the states in establishing or expanding programs of education in engineering, scientific and technological subjects.

O'Hara said the allotments to the states would be based on the annual number of high school graduates and the number of persons engaged in nonagricultural employment.

Technical training programs could be conducted in separate technical institutes or at existing junior colleges. The state's programs would have to include at least two years of full time instruction under O'Hara's bill.

DeCock Brothers on 16-Mile Road

Pair Wins Rhubarb Title

UTICA — Two Sterling Township brothers today share the title of Michigan Hothouse Rhubarb King of 1962.

Sylvester, 35, and Maurice DeCock, 30, who have adjoining farms at 11480 and 11440 E. 16-Mile Road, respectively, won the joint crown at the seventh annual festival here Saturday.

The pair earned the special recognition by growing top quality rhubarb for this year's festival competition. Their five-pound box of extra fancy was sold for $600 to the National Food Stores, Detroit.

Besides winning first prize for extra fancy, the DeCock brothers received other high awards. Their rhubarb placed first in fancy, third in choice, first in the largest stalk and third in five-pound boxed extra large.

★ ★ ★

Runner-up for the king title was Don Campbell, 15295 33 Mile Road, Armada Township. He is the brother of last year's king, Louis Campbell.

GET CUP AND CASH

The DeCock brothers received a cup presented by Macomb County Agriculture Agent Jack Prescott and $50 from Art Lambert, president of the Michigan Hothouse Rhubarb Growers Association. The cup was donated by the Utica branch of National Bank of Detroit.

The rhubarb growers association sponsored the festival in cooperation with the Utica Rotary Club and Michigan Cooperative Extension Service. It was held in the American Legion Hall this year instead of the high school as in the past.

Announcement of the selection of king climaxed the day-long celebration Saturday evening. The event drew standing-room-only crowds from the time the rhubarb judging began in the morning until the dance was over at night.

The buyer who came the farthest distance was from Boston.

Mixed rhubarb pie was chosen by both the junior and senior division winners as their favorite recipes to enter in the rhubarb cooking competition.

★ ★ ★

First prize in the junior division went to Diane Bahlman, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bahlman, 14650 Canal Raod, Mount Clemens.

The best senior cook was Mrs. Jack Schoenherr, of 29000 33 Mile Road, Richmond.

Special guests at the noon luncheon attended by some 60 growers, buyers and guests included U.S. Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Utica, and Michigan's Asistant Secretary of Agriculture Joseph Wells.

Official hostess was Michigan Hothouse Rhubarb Queen of 1962 Kathy Fletemier, 17-year-old Utica High School senior. She won the title in a contest Jan. 27 over 22 other area girls competing for the coveted crown.

Other events of the day included some 40 displays of rhubarb, a rhubarb smorgasbord, cooking demonstrations, featuring rhubarb) a teen-age dance and a rhubarb auction.

Sewage Problem Forces Firm to Consider Move

IMLAY CITY—Unless a remedy to a sewage problem is discovered in the immediate future it may be necessary for one of this village's largest employers to move its operation to another part of the state or possibly out of the state.

★ ★ ★

Albert Dubin, vice president and treasurer of the Vlasic Food Products Co., said that the firm is investigating a number of new sites in Michigan and a few in Ohio because of the inadequate sewage treatment plant here.

"We had been told when we moved here three years ago that the proposed treatment plant, now built, would be able to handle all the waste from our plant. It can't and it looks like it never will," Dubin said.

The vice president said that Imlay City's treatment plant has a capacity to handle a population of 3,000 but when the company is operating a peak production during the pickle packing season it is necessary to have a treatment plant that could serve 10,000 persons.

TREATMENT NEEDED

"One reason for this," Dubin said, "is that processing of our food products takes the oxygen out of the water and therefore a lot of treatment is required."

It would cost the Vlasic Co., Detroit, about $146,000 to construct its own treatment plant, according to Dubin.

Offers to relocate have been received from nearly 40 communities, Dubin said, but all the company is doing now is studying the many possibilities.

★ ★ ★

"The idea situation would be to dump the waste straight into the Detroit River or Lake Huron," Dubin said.

According to Dubin, as many as 300 persons are employed by the company at Imlay City during the pickling season which is about mid-July. At other times about 80 persons are employed at the plant.

Dubin said, however, that there will be no decision from the firm's board of directors at least until sometime next month, following a joint meeting of the village council, the Michigan State Department of Health and officers of Vlasic.

★ ★ ★

The state health department and Water Resources Commission has given the firm until June 30 to halt the heavy waste through the disposal plant and eventually into the Belle River.

★ ★ ★

It is up to the village council to enforce the orders of the two groups and it already has recommended that no extension be granted beyond the June deadline.

Protestant Unit Denies Bigotry

Detroit Body Answers Catholics' Charge of Activity at Con-Con

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Chapter of the Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State (POAU) yesterday denied charges of distributing bigoted literature to constitutional convention delegates.

The Detroit group called charges voiced by the Detroit archdiocesan councils of Catholic men and women "largely outmoded" and "considerably behind the times."

The Catholic groups charged last week that the POAU was attempting to influence con-con delegates by passing out a pamphlet that was "vicious and bigoted" and contained "untruths and half-truths" in regard to the question of federal aid to church schools.

The pamphlet, "Federal Aid to Parochial Schools" was prepared by C. Stanley Lowell, POAU's associate national director. It contained testimony before a congressional committee studying a school aid bill.

The statement released yesterday by the Rev. Glendol C. Grimes, minister of the Church of Christ of Royal Oak, called the pamphlet a "carefully prepared statement which deals with the constitutional issues involved in the proposal . . . for federal assistance to parochial schools."

The statement went on to say "there is nothing 'vicious' or 'bigoted' in quoting the language of the court and in dealing with this whole question of federal aid to church schools."

Rev. Grimes identified the author of the statement as Lowell.

Proposed Urban Branch Likely to Pop Up Again

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP) — The crushing defeat last week of President Kennedy's plan to establish an urban affairs department at the Cabinet level ended the first big political battle of 1962.

But is it really ended? Kennedy called the new department "necessary and inevitable" and said it must come some day. That means the battle will be fought again, probably next year.

Northern big city Democrats are planning to hit hard at Republican opponents in this fall's elections on the ground that their votes against the plan were "anti-city" and even "anti-Negro," since Kennedy had announced he would name a Negro, Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver, to the new Cabinet post.

Republicans angrily denied any implication that they were against having a Negro in the Cabinet. They said they took their stand on principle and took it before Kennedy said anything about Weaver. They accused Kennedy of injecting "racism."

★ ★ ★

The urban affairs fight shows how a relatively simple political issue can gather moss as it rolls through the slow paths of Congress. It is subject to political strikes from one side or other, parliamentary maneuvers and partisan tactics until it is very hard to see the original stone beneath its hairy covering.

In fact, the urban affairs fight is almost a textbook illustration of how politics is played in the big league of Washington, circa John F. Kennedy and Anno Domini 1962. As such, it is worth retracing chronologically:

April 1961 — Kennedy presented the urban affairs plan to Congress, asked that it be enacted into law to give city-level representation to the urban dwellers who now make up 70 per cent of the population.

The House Government Operations Committee held hearings, eventually reported favorably on a bill to set up the department, and sent it to the Rules Committee, which decides which bills come to the House floor. The Rules Committee did not act.

★ ★ ★

Jan. 22, 1962—The House Republican Policy Committee announced its opposition to the new department on the ground it was an unnecessary addition to the federal bureaucracy.

Jan. 24, 1962—Four days after Congress reconvened, the Rules Committee voted 9 to 6 against allowing the bill to reach the floor. All five Republican members joined four Southern Democrats against it.

★ ★ ★

The same day Kennedy told a news conference he was surprised by the Republican vote against the bill. He didn't mention the four Democrats.

He said he would take an alternative course to bring it before Congress. Under his reorganization powers, he would present it to Congress and it would go into effect within 60 days unless either house vetoed it. He said he would name Weaver to the Cabinet post if it was created.

BYRNES TALKS

Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis., chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee, called a news conference later the same day. He deplored what he called injection of a racial issue into a matter that should be decided on its merits. He said it was improper for Kennedy to announce who he would name to the post before it was even created.

Jan. 30—Kennedy sent it to Congress as reorganization plan No. 1 of 1962. A Republican, Rep. George Meader, R-Mich., introduced a resolution of disapproval the same day, which could be called up after 10 days.

★ ★ ★

Jan. 31—Kennedy used his next news conference to deny any injection of a race issue. He said his intention to name Weaver was "well-known on the Hill (Congress) — the American people might as well know it."

Nelson A. Rockefeller, Republican governor of New York, meanwhile denounced the urban affairs department as "political fakery."

★ ★ ★

Feb. 8—Again using the forum of his weekly news conference, Kennedy noted that in 1947 Rockefeller, as an Eisenhower administration consultant, had recommended "the exact program we recommended." Amid chuckles, he added "he must have, for one reason or another, changed his point of view on it."

IKE IN 1953

Kennedy added that when President Dwight D. Eisenhower presented the new Department of Health, Education and Welfare to Congress in the same way in 1953, he said at the same time he planned to appoint Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby as its head.

★ ★ ★

"And the only reason I was astonished that the governor forgot it was that he then became her deputy," Kennedy said.

In New York, Rockefeller said he was unsatisfied with the form of the urban affairs proposal rather than the concept. He said the plan as originally introduced bypassed the states when it should have been worked out "through and with the states."

Feb. 16—Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, printed in the Congressional Record a table showing that "very few members of Congress need fear the adverse votes of Negroes" on the issue. He urged his colleagues to ignore "false arguments" and vote against the plan. The table showed that only 57 congressional districts out of 437 have Negro populations of 10 per cent or more, and that only 9 of those districts were held by Republicans.

WEAVER TALKS

Feb. 18—Weaver, the prospective Negro Cabinet member, said in a television interview there is "a large segment of the population which will interpret a vote against this department as a vote against the concept of having a Negro in the Cabinet."

The same day, House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., coniceded to a television interviewer that he could not muster enough votes in the House to save the plan. As it turned out, this admission was made three days before the vote came.

★ ★ ★

The administration by this time knew it would be beaten in the House. But it wanted a roll call vote to provide ammunition for the congressional elections next fall.

It wanted to get a record vote in the Senate first, because it figured the plan would pass there and then go to its ordained defeat in the House. So House action was scheduled for the following week, to give the Senate a chance to act.

★ ★ ★

Feb. 19—Meader knocked these plans into a cocked hat by saying he would call up the resolution of disapproval Wednesday, Feb. 21, which was his right. Democratic leaders apparently were caught by surprise.

Feb. 20—In a last effort to get it before the Senate first, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana asked the Senate to bypass its Government Operations Committee and call the resolution to the floor for an immediate vote. The Senate, which is fond of orderly procedure, rebuffed Mansfield and refused by a 58-42 vote.

★ ★ ★

Feb. 21—The urban affairs plan came to the floor of the House for a vote. Both sides went over their arguments for three hours. Republicans knew that Southern Democrats would vote solidly with them because of the racial issue involved.

★ ★ ★

But in the final event, perhaps taking McCormack's prior admission of defeat as a sign that the pressure was off, even some Northern and Western Democrats jumped the traces; 111 Democrats voted against the plan, while 13 Republicans voted for it.

The final vote against reorganization plan No. 1 of 1962 was 264 to 150.

Former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Herbert Hoover will be included.

Miller said Sunday night the idea grew out of a meeting of the GOP Executive Committee Friday and Saturday.

Miserable Weekend for Wings, Pistons

EN GARDE — Detroit Red Wings' forward Gordie Howe (9) goes over backwards as he is hit by Toronto's Tim Horton in Sunday's game at Olympia. Horton drew an interference penalty. Howe had previously collided with the Maple Leaf's Allan Standley shown down on the ice. Toronto won, 5-2.

Detroit Has Given Up 20 Goals in 3 Games; Playoff Hopes Dim

DETROIT (AP) — The Toronto Maple Leafs ran up a 4-0 lead and then coasted to an 8-2 victory over the Detroit Red Wings last night, dimming Detroit's chances of making the Stanley Cup playoffs.

★ ★ ★

Bob Pulford scored a pair of goals in leading the Leaf attack and Frank Mahovlich, who had contributed little all night, netted his 30th of the season for Toronto with 24 seconds left in the game.

Toronto's line of Ed Litzenberger, Dave Keon and George Armstrong was the best unit on the ice with each player scoring a goal as the Leafs handed Detroit its third straight defeat.

The Wings have yielded 20 goals in the three games.

The defeat, coupled with New York's tie with Montreal, dropped Detroit 3 points out of fourth place, the final playoff spot, and Detroit must play six of the next seven games on the road.

Armstrong and defenseman Tim Horton gave Toronto a 2-0 first period lead and Litzenberger and Pulford clicked in the second period before Detroit was able to score on a power play goal by Claude La Forge.

Rookie Larry Jeffrey scored his third goal to cut the Toronto lead to 4-2 midway of the second period but then Keon broke away and scored his 25th of the season to crush the Red Wing comeback.

★ ★ ★

Toronto wrapped it up with goals by Pulford, Billy Harris and Mahovlich in the third period. It was Detroit's worst home defeat of the season.

Montreal and New York played a 3-3 tie. Chicago drubbed Boston 8-0.

Toe Blake, coach of the streaking Montreal Canadiens, likes Toronto and New York in the only two races left in the National Hockey League season.

★ ★ ★

Toronto leads Chicago by three points in the fight for second place and New York has the same margin over Detroit in the struggle for fourth, the last play-off position.

"I think Toronto has just a little too much to be caught," Blake said Sunday night. "And, too, they've got two more games to play than Chicago."

As to the Rangers, who tied his Canadiens 3-3, Blake commented:

"The schedule favors them. Even though Detroit has two more games to play, they'd have to get a win and a tie to catch New York, and they've got a heavier schedule to do it against."

★ ★ ★

The tie left the Canadiens with a 12-point bulge over Toronto and all but assured the streaking Canadiens of their fifth straight regular season title. Each team has 12 games left. Montreal has lost only two of its last 22, and has won 17 and tied three in that stretch.

★ ★ ★

Toronto, which had been in a minor slump, won a pair over the weekend, blasting Boston 7-2 Saturday and routing Detroit 8-2 Sunday night. Chicago mauled Detroit 6-1 Saturday and humbled Boston 8-0 Sunday.

Hayes Jones Triumphs in Hurdles

Beatty Looks Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Beatty, the World's first indoor sub-four-minute miler, is inclined to let his 3:58.9 record stand for another year and look ahead to the outdoor season and an assault on Peter Snell's 3:54.4 world mark.

The little Los Angeles Track Club star still has two races remaining on his indoor schedule, the Bankers Mile in the Chicago Daily News Relays on March 9 and the 1,000 or the mile in the Milwaukee Journal meet on March 10.

"I hope to run fast races," he said Sunday before heading for a visit to his in-laws in Gastonia, N.C., "but right now I'm inclined not to go after any more records this winter. We have a lot of work to do in preparation for the outdoor season.

"Also, you can't go for a record in every race you run. You have to be mentally prepared and put in a lot of special effort."

Beatty won the National AAU mile Saturday night in 4:00.2 in Madison Square Garden. The week before he had clocked 4:99.9 in the New York Athletic Club meet. He had no competition in the AAU mile. Gary Wiesiger of the Quantico Marines, his closest pursuer, was 25 yards back in 4:04.6.

Beatty's coach, Mihaly (Mike) Igloi, made no secret of his plans for Beatty.

"I have scheduled Jim to lower the mile record to 3:54 before the end of the year" (meaning the end of the summer), he said.

Igloi also has his plans laid out two years ahead, except that he's not sure whether Beatty will run the 1,500 meters or the 5,000 meters in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

Charlie Mays, a 21-year-old Maryland State Junior, scored the biggest upset of the meet when he won the broad jump, beating Ralph Boston, the world kingpin with a jump of 24-10¾.

John Thomas of Boston University cleared 7 feet for the first time this winter and showed himself to be getting back in shape. Gary Gubner of New York University failed in his 65-foot bid, but his 62-10 was more than enough to win the shotput. Frank Dudd of Villanova captured the 60-yard dash in 6.2, and Hayes Jones of Pontiac, Mich., won the 60-yard hurdles in 7.2.

Villanova snatched the team title from the New York A.C. scoring 18 points to the Winged Footers' 17. The New York A.C. had won the crown the last four years.

Lakers Squelch Detroit Hopes for 2nd Place

Baylor Nets 45 Points to Spark 128-99 Rout at Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Elgin Baylor, scoring 45 points, and the Los Angeles Lakers virtually ruined the Detroit Pistons' hopes of a Western Division second place finish in the National Basketball Association last night. Los Angeles won their game, 128-99.

★ ★ ★

Baylor, on leave from the Army, scored 24 points in the first half during which Los Angeles twice had 19-point leads over the Pistons.

The loss put Detroit a full five games behind second place Cincinnati as the Royals defeated Chicago 135-105. Los Angeles leads the division by 8½ games. The Lakers sewed up the division title last week.

The Pistons never could get going against the Lakers except for spotty attempts with Baylor being strongly supported by Jerry West and Rudy LaRusso. West got 25 points and LaRusso 21.

Gene Shue and Ray Scott led the Pistons with 16 points each.

The Boston Celtics clinched their sixth straight Eastern division title by defeating the Syracuse Nats 110-106. The Celtics lead second place Philadelphia by nine games. New York won from Philadelphia 149-135.

RUSSELL STARTS

The 6-foot-10 two-time league most valuable player Bill Russell scored 23 points to lead the Celtics.

In the half dozen years since Russell, a gangling youth who became a two-time All-American while leading the University of San Francisco to a collegiate record of 55 wins in a row, came to Boston, the Celtics have won East honors and gone to the final of the NBA playoff every season.

★ ★ ★

The Celtics' win over the Nats gave them an 11-game bulge in the lost column on the runner-up Philadelphia Warriors, who lost 1949-135 to the New York Knickerbockers despite Wilt Chamberlain's 67-point performance.

Ohio Youth Loses Arm in Ski Tow Accident

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — An 11-year-old skier was reported in good condition yesterday after having his left arm severed by the mechanism of a rope tow at a nearby ski area.

Christopher Finberg, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Floyd Finberg of Fairborn, Ohio, failed to release the tow and was dragged into the pulley at the top. His arm was severed between the shoulder and elbow.

'Cold' Rayl Worries 'M'

Indiana Ace Hit Only 31 Against MSU

But Spartans Defeated Hoosiers While Iowa Topped Wolverines

By United Press International

Jimmy Rayl, Indiana's hot-shooting Hoosier, had an off night Saturday against Michigan State but Michigan coach Dave Strack fears it may be only a temporary cold spell.

Rayl scored 31 points against MSU while the Spartans were pulling off a 97-85 upset of Indiana but the skinny junior hit only on nine of 26 floor shots. His free throw performance (13 of 14) balled him out.

But Rayl, who has been shooting 50 per cent or better, is accustomed to better things. Earlier this season he set a Big Ten record of 56 points in one game.

That's why Strack is worried as he prepares his club for tonight's invasion of the Hoosiers at Yost Fieldhouse.

★ ★ ★

The Wolverines, despite a 26-point performance by Tom Cole, came out on the short end of a 68-63 count at Iowa Saturday. Michigan's conference record is now 3-7.

Michigan State entered the Indiana game averaging only 33 per cent from the floor, but cooled off the Hoosiers with 43 per cent marksmanship.

Pete Gent and Lonnie Sanders each hit 22 to pace the Spartans.

Coach Forddy Anderson said his team experienced success against Indiana's zone according to a "pre-conceived plan."

University of Detroit bowed at Canisius, 90-74, despite 31 points for Dave DeBusschere.

Ferris (19-1) and Northern (13-8) will tangle at Mt. Pleasant for the NAIA bid as the two top association members in Michigan.

Ferris, the No. 1 small college team in Michigan, held off Lawrence Tech Saturday night for an 83-79 victory. Johnny Bradley of Lawrence Tech led all scorers with 29 points.

Northern copped its 13th win of the season, 72-71, over Minnesota's Duluth branch.

Hope assured itself of a tie for the MIAA championship with a 93-70 drubbing of Alma Saturday night. League scoring champion Jim Vanderhill paced Hope with 27 points. The Dutchmen wrapped up their league season with a 10-2 record.

Kalamazoo (9-2) raced past Albion, 69-42, for an easy conference win with Gordon Rodwan scoring 23 for the winners. The Hornets can tie Hope for the MIAA crown Wednesday night when they host Alma.

Eastern Michigan finished its IIAC season Saturday night with its best effort of the year — an 86-69 upset of co-leader Southern Illinois. SIU is 9-3 while Eastern ended a 9-3.

Bo Didn't Quite 'Give It Away'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "I almost gave it away a couple of times," quipped handsome, grey-haired Bo Wininger after he sank a four-foot putt for a birdie on No. 18 to win his first pro golf tour victory in nearly six years.

The 39-year-old Wininger, who plays only occasionally since he quit the grueling PGA circuit 30 months ago to work as a public relations man for a Texas oil well supply firm, shot a 4-under par 68 Sunday for a 281 total to win the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Open by two strokes.

He fashioned his 68 with a 33-35 and withstood pressure from pudgy Bob Rosburg, the one-time PGA titlist from Portland, Ore., who finished second.

Doug Sanders, the 29-year-old short-swinging pro who won here last year, finished third with a 285.

His $4,300 paycheck for first place in the New Orleans tourney was nearly double the $2,317.50 he won in nine PGA tourneys last year.

He's the Best Putter

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Chuck Schafer of Oceanside, N.Y., won the $5,000 New Orleans Open of the Professional Putters Association Sunday with an all-time association record of 245 for 144 holes.

The 22-year-old Schafer, a junior at Augusta, College, Ga., earned $1,200. His total was 43 strokes under par.

But NCAA Not Too Impressed

AAU Offers Compromise

NEW YORK (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union, in a struggle with the National Collegiate Athletic Association over administration of athletics, has offered the NCAA equal representation on three of its key international sports committees.

In a special executive session Sunday the AAU offered the NCAA equal representation on its committee governing track and field, basketball and gymnastics —the three sports in which the NCAA has threatened to set up separate federations.

The AAU also offered the NCAA partial representation on 10 other committees in an effort to forestall a threatened walkout by that group.

But the NCAA wasn't overly impressed by the offer. Walter Byers, the NCAA executive director, said in Kansas City it will go ahead with its plans for new federations to govern the three sports.

"The AAU plan is substantially the same as that outlined at our meeting in Chicago, Feb. 11-12," Byers said. "It doesn't embody the new administrative principles that we believe are vital for reorganization of amateur sports administration.

"The NCAA and those organizations associated with us earnestly hope that the AAU will accept our invitation to meet in Chicago, March 4-5, at which time new federations will be organized in men's basketball, track and field and gymnastics."

★ ★ ★

The controversy revolves around the accreditation of athletes for such events as Olympics, over which the AAU has had control for years. The NCAA complaint has been that it does not have adequate representation in picking such teams.

The AAU plan would give the NCAA four members on the three disputed committees, and would give it membership, though not necessarily equal membership, on sections dealing with judo, men's sv/imming and wrestling, women's basketball, boxing, bobsledding, luge (a form of bobsledding), women's swimming and track and field, and weight lifting.

The plan is one which the AAU made the college group two weeks ago AAU officials said they will go ahead with the new plan even if the NCAA refuses to agree.

3 Straight Birdies Win for Geiberger

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Al Geiberger, Red Bluff, Calif., swept from three strokes off the pace Sunday with three consecutive birdies on the back nine and won the Carcas Open Golf Tourney.

Geiberger, who was tied for third three strokes back going into the final round, shot a solid, 2-under-par 68 and finished with a 2-under 278, one up on Jacky Cupit of Longview, Tex.

Geiberger collected $1,500 for his victory in this third stop on the Carribean tour. Geiberger who played erractically during the first two rounds, jumped into contention with a 67 Saturday.

St. Louis Again Bars Bradley's Title Hopes

By the Associated Press

One year ago Bradley went up against the St. Louis Billikens needing a victory to tie Cincinnati for the Missouri Valley basketball title and force a playoff for the conference's berth in the NCAA tournament.

St. Louis upset the Braves, putting Cincinnati in the NCAA. The Bearcats went all the way to the national championship.

History is repeating itself. Cincinnati wrapped up at least a share of its fifth successive Missouri Valley title Saturday night by ripping Wichita 84-63 and finishing with a 10-2 conference record. Bradley can catch the Bearcats if it wins its final game —at St. Louis this Saturday.

The Missouri Valley is only one of many tangled races among the 6 conferences which will send teams to the NCAA classic, which opens March 12. Only three titles have been decided—in the Border, Arizona State University; the Mid-American Bowling Green and the Ohio Valley, Western Kentucky. Five others are fairly well settled, but the remaining eight are being hotly contested.

Ohio State's powerful Buckeyes, driving toward their third straight Big Ten crown, swamped Illinois Saturday for a perfect 21-0 record. Wisconsin maintained its mathematical chance for the title by trimming Northwestern 65-64. Tonight, Ohio State is at Iowa and the Badgers are at home in Minnesota. On Saturday they'll meet head-on at Wisconsin.

Yale has the big edge in the Ivy League, two games up on Penn and Cornell with all three winding up the season with two games this weekend — including Penn at Cornell Friday. UCLA has a three-game edge on Southern California and Stanford in the Big Five, with three games left for the three contenders, Pepperdine is the front-runner in the West Coast Athletic Conference and has a good chance at taking it all Saturday night against second-place St. Mary's.

Utah, on NCAA probation and ineligible for post-season play, kept in front in the Skyline by outscoring Brighton Young 106-101, Saturday as Billy McGill went on a 60-point spree. Utah State and Colorado State University, the two contenders for the NCAA berth, also won and stayed deadlocked for second.

Colorado and Kansas State are producing the fireworks in the Big Eight, with the Buffaloes 10-0 and the Wildcats 9-1 and a showdown at K-State Saturday.

Putting Pays Off

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Dr. John McKey of Orlando Fla., won the Tournament of Golf Club Champions Sunday with fine putting on the afternoon round, defeating Marshall Trammell of Nashville, Tenn., 2 and 1.

Kentucky (10-1) at Auburn (10-2) tonight should be the key to the Southeastern, even though they are running 2-3 behind defending conference champion Mississippi State (11-1). Mississippi State already has announced it would not be interested an NCAA bid.

The Southwest Conference, as usual, is a scramble with Texas Tech and Southern Methodist tied at the top (9-3) and Texas A&M at 8-4. The Aggies are at Tech Tuesday night while SMU plays last-place Baylor.

Lafayette is ahead in the Middle Atlantic at 9-1 with Temple and St. Joseph's, Pa., its chief rivals. Massachusetts tops the Yankee standings at 7-2 and finishes at home against New Hampshire Saturday.

The two remaining NCAA assignments will go to the winners of the annual Atlantic Coast and Southern Conference tourneys, set for this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Wake Forest, Duke and North Carolina State are regarded the top numbers in the ACC playoffs, and the perenial champion West Virginia is favored in the Southern tourney.

The National Invitation Tournament has five more spots to fill for its 12-team competition March 9 at New York. Navy was named Saturday, despite its 47-46 loss to Army.

It will be nearly an all-Michigan show when the Western Collegiate Hockey Association playoffs get under way at Ann Arbor Thursday night.

* * *

Michigan completed its four-game sweep of Michigan State Saturday night with a 10-2 rout.

Michigan will get a non-league tuneup in Detroit Tuesday prior to the playoffs when it meets the West German National team at Convention Arena.

Waterford Hosts Kettering Tuesday

Kettering goes after its first basketball victory over Waterford Township Tuesday night.

* * *

The Captains failed to handle the Skippers the first time around this season, and the outlook is about the same for the rematch at Waterford High.

Two parochial games are on tap tonight, twelve area contests highlight Tuesday's slate.

St. Frederick and Orchard Lake St. Mary are on the road tonight. The Rams face plenty of trouble at Detroit St. Hedwig. The Eaglets, who lost at home to St. Hedwig Friday, play at Ann Arbor St. Thomas.

Although Waterford will be favored, the battle between the township high schools should be a close one. Kettering has shown steady improvement after getting off to a slow start.

The Skippers started well, but have been sputtering in recent contests.

St. Michael is in action Tuesday, hosting Mt. Clemens St. Mary. Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes faces a stiff home court test against Ferndale St. James. The visitors will have Tim Mulcaster, the county's top scorer, in the lineup. Richmond St. Augustine is at Farmington OLS.

Pontiac Emmanuel Christian will atempt to rebound from its 85-48 loss to Clintondale Friday against Lansing Boys Vocational. The Lancers will be at home for the second game with BVS. They won an earlier encounter at Lansing in overtime.

Bloomfield Hills will be seeking its second win of the season over Oak Park on the Redskins' floor. Oxford will be the underdog at Clarkston and Lamphere travels to Clawson.

* * *

Other action Tuesday will have Mt. Clemens playing at Roseville, Fitzgerald traveling to Center Line, Lutheran East at Madison and Millington at Elkton-Pigeon-Bayport.

Flint Northern takes on Flint Central in a Saginaw Valley clash while Flint Southwestern is playing a nonleague game at powerful Saginaw High.

Cranbrook won its first Interstate League game Saturday, downing Nichols of Buffalo, 59-37. The Cranes led all the way.

* * *

North Farmington won its second overtime battle in as many nights. Livonia Franklin was the victim, 51-50, in three overtimes.

Calumet Horse Wins Widener

Yorky King at Miami; Santa Anita Handicap Won by Physician

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Around the barns at Hialeah today, they were still talking about how Calumet Farm's trainer Jimmy Jones gambled and won his second straight Widener Handicap Saturday with Yorky and how Johnny Sellers just missed making it two in a row.

* * *

Sellers, champion jockey last year, rode Yorky in the race but was aboard Dorchester Farm Stable's Carry Back this time and lost by a neck to Steve Brooks on Yorky.

It was Yorky's first victory since the 1961 Widener and Calumet's first stakes victory of the winter.

It was the eighth Widener for Calumet in 25 runnings and Yorky earned $87,620 to boost his winnings to $275,565. His sire, Bull Lea, won for Calumet in 1939.

Carry Back's share of the purse was $26,980 and that boosted the Florida-bred's total winnings to $897,758.

* * *

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Lightly-regarded Physician, whom jockeys figured was such a poor risk they didn't even bother to dicker a rider split for him, won the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap in an upset Saturday.

* * *

Jockey Don Pierce happily scooped up the $10,000 jockey fee all for himself.

The 5-year-old bay owned by Lynn A. Boice of Manassa, Colo., nearly scratched 3 minutes before the race at Santa Anita Race Track, came from behind to beat his stablemate, Olden Times, by 2¼ lengths.

Four-and-Twenty, on whom almost half of the $619,413 wagered in the race was laid, finished third by a neck.

Before the race, Bill Shoemaker —on Prove It—and Alex Maese, riding Olden Times, agreed on a 75-25 split of the $10,000 jockey fee if either should capture the classic. They didn't count on Physician.

Mrs. Omelenchuck Upset by Teenage Speed Star

DETROIT (UPI) — Kathy Sullivan, 15-year-old schoolgirl from Cheboygan, yesterday won the Busch Memorial half-mile speed-skating championship by defeating Mrs. Jeanne Omelenchuck of Detroit.

Mrs. Omelenchuck, a member of the 1960 United States Olympics team, clicked skates with Miss Sullivan as the pair entered the final lap. Mrs. Omelenchuck tumbled to the ice and Kathy was home free with the title.

Both are present North American champions and they were meeting for the first time in their careers.

Ski Title to E. German

ZAKOPANE, Poland (AP) — Helmut Recknagel, 25-year-old East German toolmaker, won his second straight world ski jumping title Sunday as he took the title on the 100-meter Krokiew Hill in a windup to the Nordic Championships.

The German, who won the world and Olympic title at Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960 and has taken at least eight major events since 1957, soared to victory on leaps of 103 and 98.5 meters (329.6 and 315.2 feet) and scored 241.4 points.

Nikolai Kamenski, 29-year-old Russian designer from Moscow, was second with 266.4 points after two best jumps of 97 meters (213.4 feet) each.

The bronze medal for third place was awarded to Peter Lesser of East Germany but 2 hours later the officials decided the position should have gone to Nillo Halonen of Finland. By that time Lesser and his teammates were en route home.

The organizers of the games refused comment but it was indicated the change was made after the figures were rechecked. Halonen had 224.5 points as Lesser dropped to fifth with 223.3. Fourth was awarded to Norway's 70-meter champion, Toralf Engan.

The four American competitors finished far down the list. Stephen Rieschl of Robinsdale, Minn., had two best jumps of 85.5 and 85 meters (280.21 and 278.10 feet). John Balfanz of Minneapolis had one leap of 89.5 meters (293.7 feet) and two others of 87 (285.5).

Jon Elliott of Steamboat Springs, Colo., soared 89 meters (292 feet) twice and Bill Erickson of Iron Mountain, Mich., turned in one of 89.5 meters (293.7 feet) and another of 87 (295.5).

Refunds $5 Bounty Paid for Fox Kill

Michigan's controversial bounty system isn't worth a nickel to a sportsman from Detroit.

The man, H. T. Lebrenz, recently refunded his $5 payment for killing a fox.

In returning the money to the Conservation Department, he remarked: "I do not believe in the payment of a bounty for killing foxes — or any other game or alleged varmint species. We (he and hunting partner, Robert Sanders) hunt for sport and the killing of one of these animals is an extra dividend."

Why did Lebrenz accept the bounty fee in the first place? "To learn the procedure of collecting the bounty and to return the check so that this particular five bucks can do double duty," he explained.

Pro Football Feud Explodes in Court

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lamar Hunt, one of the founders of the American Football League, was expected to be called as the first witness today in the AFL's $10 million antitrust suit against the National Football League.

★ ★ ★

The trial, expected to last from four weeks to 2½ months, will be heard by Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen without a jury.

★ ★ ★

Hunt owns the Dallas Texans, who have been operating in competition with the Dallas Cowboys of the NFL for the past two seasons.

★ ★ ★

The AFL contends the NFL moved deliberately into Dallas in 1960, knowing that the city could not support two teams.

★ ★ ★

In addition to seeking treble damages of $10,080,000, the suit asks that the NFL expansion be approved first by the court.

The NFL was accused of trying to get players to break contracts with the AFL, attempting to show the new league would not honor commitments, and with threatening to blacklist the AFL's prospective players.

★ ★ ★

An affidavit filed with the court said the losses of the eight AFL teams ranged from $245,311 in Buffalo to $830,422 in Los Angeles. The Los Angeles franchise since has been shifted to San Diego.

The suit asks $60,000 damages for the AFL, $500,000 for the Dallas Texans and $400,000 for each of the other seven teams, for a total of $3,360,000 which was trebled to $10,080,000 under antitrust laws.

Liston May Fight Champ

CHICAGO (AP) — Champion Floyd Patterson said Sunday night he will comply with the National Boxing Association's stern warning to arrange a heavyweight title bout, possibly with Sonny Liston, by the middle of next month.

★ ★ ★

The NBA's executive committee said Sunday that Patterson must sign, to defend his title, preferably against Liston, March 13 or risk losing the crown.

The committee warned that heavyweight champions are required to defend their title once a year, and that Patterson's last defense was March 13, 1961 when he defeated Sweden's Ingemar Johansson.

Th NBA does not recognize Patterson's Dec. 4 championship bydefense against Tom McNeeley.

E. German Runner Posts 3:59.9 Mile

BERLIN, Germany (AP)—Siegfried Herrmann of East Germany has stamped himself as one of the world's top milers by running the second indoor sub-4-minute mile on record.

Herrmann, competing in an international track meet Sunday, ran away from the field with a 3:59.9 clocking—one full second slower than the mark set by America's Jim Beatty at Los Angeles three weeks ago.

Herrmann's run was announced by the East German news agency, ADN, which said that Herrmann passed the 1,500-meter mark in 3:44.5 and won without any serious competition.

Told of Herrmann's time, Beatty said in Gastonia, N.C., that Herrmann is 'a capable, good man.

"But this sounds like a typical Communist effort to set a good time without serious competition in a paced race so it can be used for propaganda purposes."

Cleveland edged Kansas City 111-109, Pittsburgh overwhelmed New York 117-99 and Chicago bowed to Hawaii 110-84 in Sunday's action to create the three-way deadlock. All three clubs have .500 percentages with Cleveland 11-11, Pittsburgh 14-14 and Chicago 12-12.

In Saturday's games, Kansas City defeated San Francisco 119-90, New York downed Pittsburgh 148-123 and Chicago beat Hawaii 106-99.

Funeral Thursday for Max Bishop

BALTIMORE (AP)—Funeral services for Naval Academy baseball coach Max Bishop will be held here Thursday—the day he was to retire from a life-long baseball career.

The 62-year-old coach and former major league ball player died in his sleep in Waynesboro, Pa., Saturday night, the victim of an apparent heart attack. A long time resident of Baltimore, he had returned to his home town to attend funeral services for his mother, Mrs. Lulu Bishop, who died Thursday.

Bishop topped American League second basemen four times in fielding during his star-studded career, and played in 18 World Series games without an error.

The Naval Academy coach began his baseball career with the International League Baltimore Orioles in 1918. Later, with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, Bishop was a key member of the team that won the American League championship in 1929-30-31, and the World Series of 1929-30.

A left-handed hitter, Bishop's 12-year batting average in the majors was only .271, but he was rated one of the best fielders and lead-off batters of his day.

During his 24 years as Navy coach, the Midshipmen won 306 games and lost 143. Bishop's season record at the academy last year was 24-2.

Tigers Place Fox on Trading Block

Relief Hurler One of Three Still Unsigned

Ferrell in Conference With White Sox G.M.; Foytack in Fold

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Terry Fox, the Detroit Tigers' question mark reliever, is in Rick Ferrell's doghouse and has been placed on the trading block.

Fox, the Tigers' most effective reliever last season when he wasn't shelved with a sore arm, is the club's only unsigned pitcher. Paul Foytack agreed to terms yesterday, ending his one-day holdout.

Ferrell said he spoke at length over the weekend with general manager Ed Short of the Chicago White Sox regarding Fox.

"It would be a pitcher and an outfielder for a pitcher and an outfielder if we can swing it," the Tiger vice president said last night. "We want another relief pitcher and a right-handed hitting outfielder.

★ ★ ★

"But first we have to get Fox signed. He's been stubborn and unreasonable. No club wants to trade for an unsigned player.

"This is a trade that could materialize. But I don't think it would be proper right now to mention the other players' names."

The pitcher the Tigers seek probably is Turk Lown, an aging right-hander but still one of the American League's best relievers. The Tigers failed to get Lown during the heat of last season's pennant race while Fox had arm trouble.

—★ ★ ★

WANT ARM TESTED

Ferrell said the White Sox want the Tigers to test Fox's arm in camp here before agreeing to any deal.

Manager Bob Scheffing has said all along the Tigers' downfall last season was caused by lack of stronger relief pitching. He frequently cited Louis Arroyo as the big difference between the Tigers and the New York Yankees wining the pennant.

Foytack participated in yesterday's drill in 90 degree temperatures.

★ ★ ★

Bringing Foytack into the fold left Ferrell with only Norm Cash and Rocky Colavito on the outside along with Fox. Cash already is here and he and Ferrell are not too far apart.

Colavito was due yesterday but changed his plans and isn't expected until Wednesday when the main part of the squad is due in camp.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Maris and the Yankees are $8,000 apart in their salary negotiations. Maris has reduced his asking price to $70,000 and the Yanks have come up $2,000 on their original offer. Another conference is on tap this week.

In other negotiations, four signings were reported. Inking contracts were catcher Charlie Lau of Baltimore, pitcher Paul Foytack of Detroit, outfielder Pete Jernigan of Bonston and outfielder Richie Ashburn of the New York Mets.

The Philadelphia Phillies meanwhile picked up catcher Sammy White, a free agent formerly with the Boston Red Sox and Milwaukee Braves.

Steels, Motors Lower

Mart Flurry Brief, Dips Down

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market had a brief flurry to the upside then settled back to a decline in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Losses of fractions to a point or so among pivotal issues outnumbered gainers.

* * *

Some of the more speculative issues caught the eye of traders for a brisk opening but this was just a flash in the pan, leaving a couple of them fractionally higher but inspiring no serious rally.

Steels were down slightly as demand for steel was reported to be showing further softening. Big Three motors were all losers. Rails, utilities, chemicals, drugs and electronics were mostly lower.

ANOTHER LOW?

Stock analysts believed that the market was "headed for another test of the January lows before it could marshal enough strength for any kind of sustained rally.

Biggest news in the auto industry was that Ford plans to produce an inexpensive, U. S.-built Volkswagen-sized car. Ford stock reacted uncertainly, showing a fractional gain, then taking a small net loss. Investors seemed puzzled as to how this gamble for the Volkswagen-type market would work out for Ford.

General Motors, however, reacted sharply downward, losing more than a point, despite the fact that GM reported car sales in mid-February well above the 1961 period. Chrysler took a small loss.

Boeing, having reported higher profits and a fairly good outlook for 1963 and 1964, was up about a point at the start but erased the gain and traded about unchanged as the general market gave ground.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading. Simca picked up 3 points, Murray Ohio Manufacturing was up about 2 and Emery Air Freight a point or so. Losses of around a point were taken by Whitmoyer Laboratories, Prentice-Hall and Heinicke. Acme Missile "A," Southern Materials and Mansfield Industries were among the gainers.

Bond Prices Irregular

NEW YORK (AP) — Bond prices were irregular to a shade higher in spots at the start of the week's trading.

Over-the-counter dealers quoted intermediates up 1/32 or 2/32 and some long issues up 2/32 although many were unchanged in light, early dealings.

Among corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange rails dipped while utilities tended to edge upward. Industrials were uneven.

* * *

There were hardly any changes amounting to a full point in early trading. An exception were Pennsylvania Railroad 5s, off 1 at 100 at one time.

Help Your Child Succeed in School

Pupil's Hobby Fine If Kept in Line

(Editor's Note — If your child has a special interest or talent, how do you extend it into his school work? An educational expert tells you in this sixth in a series of 5 articles on how you can help your child succeed in school.)

By LESLIE J. NASON, D. ED.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

Do you have a young baseball fan or hot-rodder or skin-diving enthusiast in your household?

Fine — as long as his school grades are kept up.

Hobbies and other extra-curricular activities broaden the lives of children as they do adults. They give a new dimension to life.

If a child loves music and devotes almost all available time to it; if he tears down old cars in the garage and builds them up again, it's all to the good provided school grades are in keeping with his ability.

DR. NASON

★ ★ ★

If not, parents must take action. It is possible for a boy or girl to sell the chance for ultimate success in life for a pot of porridge of immediate pleasure. Don't let this happen to your child!

A youngster can participate in outside pursuits, perhaps quite a few of them, and still be good in school.

★ ★ ★

There is nothing wrong with a consuming interest. A good many youngsters find their forte in this way. It is dangerous only if it causes a prolonged blackout of other activities and grades drop significantly.

BROADEN INTEREST

Parents who discover this concentrated interest on the part of a child at an early age are fortunate. They can broaden the youngster's interest by encouraging reading and participation in family discussions. If they are successful in school, school subjects can compete for their interest.

Children with many interests are less inclined to concentrate on one at the expense of all others.

Parents who do not discover that their youngsters are centering attention on one talent or hobby until they are in junior or senior high school have more of a problem.

★ ★ ★

For years I have watched parents use penalties and bribes in an attempt to persuade their children to give up special interests. They hoped that if the youngsters gave up these interests they would become engrossed in other subjects.

★ ★ ★

By this method, the parent becomes an ogre. He refuses the boy or girl the one area in life in which he or she gets real satisfaction.

My own efforts to solve this problem were futile for 10 years. I met with exactly the same results as the frustrated parents.

IN DESPERATION

One day, perhaps in desperation, I asked a boy to sit down and talk about it. I hoped to get a new approach.

The boy was a baseball addict. His father had played on a professional team. Baseball was the center of conversation in the family.

"The more you know about something, the more fun it is to think about," I told him. "No wonder you let your mind turn to baseball in history class. History can not compete with baseball for your attention because you know a lot about baseball and very little about history."

I suggested he give history a good try for a week. Study his history lessons, read extra books and do more than the teacher asked. Get a good grip on important dates and relate other events to them.

★ ★ ★

He was not asked to give up his big interest. He was shown how to develop another interest.

He came back glowing with interest in school. We talked about Napoleon Bonaparte as well as Ty Cobb! He was still interested in baseball, but now he had a new interest.

★ ★

Next: Improve your child's ability to focus attention.

Sees Hard War in S. Viet Nam

U.S. Ambassador Says There Won't Be Any Decisive Battles

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —U. S. Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting Jr., cautioned today against expecting any decisive battles in South Viet Nam's shadowy war against Comunist Viet Cong guerrillas.

★ ★ ★

Nolting told a news conference of foreign correspondents such type of action was "most unlikely."

WILL BE GRADUAL

"Progress will register itself in a gradual and accelerating improvement of the situation rather than by decisive battles," he said.

Nolting announced an easing of restrictions on reporting of activities of Americans taking part in the massive U. S. military assistance and advisory program in this Red-threatened Southeast Asian country.

★ ★ ★

The envoy said correspondents would again be permitted to go on military missions in which Americans participate.

A ban on such coverage was imposed three weeks ago following an Associated Press correspondent's graphic eyewitness account of a helicopter mission.

WON'T CENSOR

The ambassador emphasized that no form of censorship would be invoked against correspondents' copy by the American command. He said, however, that "we do not consider this a U. S. war" and it would "not be in our interest nor in accord with the facts to say that Americans are leading and directing combat operations."

★ ★ ★

The South Viet Nam government claimed 48 Viet Cong guerrillas were killed and 27 captured in clashes last week. A communique said eight were killed on the government side.

22 Killed as Airplane Crashes in Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A Venezuelan airliner smashed into a mountain Sunday, killing the 22 persons aboard. All reportedly were Venezuelans.

★ ★ ★

The twin-engine turboprop plane of Avensa Airlines was coming in for a landing through clouds on the resort island of Margarita, off Venezuela's east coast. It burst into flames after it crashed.

★ ★ ★

The plane carried 19 passengers and a crew of three. It ran into bad weather after taking off from Caropano, eastern Venezuela.

Need Scorecard to Follow Reds' Cold War Maneuvers

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Some of it is tricky, some of it is propaganda, and some of it seems to make no sense.

You need a scorecard to follow the Russian maneuvers — the soft and tough — on disarmament, nuclear testing, summitry, Berlin and the exchange of spies and relatives.

★ ★ ★

Premier Khrushchev's latest call for a summit, and President Kennedy's rejection of it Sunday, at least for the time being, is only the most recent in a mish-mash of events.

If a whole series of friendly gestures had been followed by harsh ones, they could be listed separately and an obvious conclusion drawn: That Khrushchev had switched his tactics.

But they're not separate. They're interwoven. They're so mixed up they sometimes make Khrushchev look mixed up. Take this past year.

FRIENDLY START

Shortly after Kennedy took office in 1961 Khrushchev released two American RB47 bomber pilots shot down off the Russian coast in 1960. That was a friendly start.

It remained pleasant, except for some jarring minor episodes, until June 1961, when Kennedy and Khrushchev met in Vienna and the Russian made his demands on Berlin. Then for months he built a crisis.

★ ★ ★

He climaxed it Aug. 13 by setting up a wall between East and West Berlin. Then he let the crisis dwindle, as if he felt he had established unchallenged the principle of the separation of East and West Germany.

He began a crisis elsewhere. For three years the United States, Britain and Russia had stopped nuclear testing while they talked in Geneva about agreeing to a permanent ban on it.

PLANNED FOR MONTHS

Then on Sept. 1, with only one day's warning, while the talks were still going on, Russia resumed testing. No nation can test suddenly. So Russia has been planning this for months.

In October, Khrushchev had a mean split with his Red Chinese allies. Whether this had something to do with what followed for months is not known, but from October until this year Khrushchev remained almost silent.

In the meantime, as a friendly gesture, in November he let his son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia, interview Kennedy and permitted the interview to be published in Moscow.

Things looked calm but not for long. Events picked up after the first of the year.

MARCH 14 TALKS

(Eighteen nations are opening talks March 14 in Geneva on general disarmament.)

In January the United States and Britain agreed to the Russian demand to merge the talks. Then suddenly the Russians switched; wanted no part of it. The nuclear test-ban talks, extending over years and 353 sessions, broke up Jan. 29.

Just as this was happening, Khrushchev sent his son-in-law back to Washington to lunch with Kennedy, and Moscow invited the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to Russia. He declined.

On Feb. 7 Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan suggested the big powers could show they meant business at the March 14 disarmament talks by sending their foreign ministers there.

Three days later, although it had been long in the works, Khrushchev released Francis Gary Powers, the captured U2 spy plane pilot, in exchange for Col. Rudolf I. Abel, the Soviet spy captured here. Moscow itself called this a friendly Russian gesture.

The next day, Feb. 11, Khrushchev outdid Kennedy and Macmillan on how to start off the disarmament talks next month. He said they should begin with a summit meeting.

Kennedy and Macmillan turned this down, suggesting trere could be a summit meeting if East and West representatives at Geneva made some progress.

Last week, in hurt tones, Khrushchev fired back another bid for a summit. Sunday Kennedy released his reply to this, saying what he had said before, but still leaving the door open to a summit.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile things were getting mixed up again. Russian fighters had started annoying Western planes using the Berlin air corridors. And, once again, Russia switched and agreed to the idea of merging test-ban talks with disarmament talks.

But Russia made all the talks look a little ridiculous by stating beforehand that they wouldn't agree to an inspection system before there was disarmament, which is just the opposite of what the United States says it wants.

TO SPAN U. S. IN 90 MINUTES — This drawing shows how the 2,000-mile-an-hour B70 Valkyrie bomber will look when it takes off for flight tests at Palmdale, Calif., later this year. Six huge jets in the tail will power the 250-ton craft. More than $1 billion has been spent on planning and construction of the first three B70s, amid argument that the money should be spent on missiles.

Networks Spent $3 Million on Glenn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Broadcasting Magazine has reported that it cost the nation's television and radio networks more than $3 million to cover astronaut John Glenn's orbital flight.

The publication said Sunday that the estimate included cost of preempting scheduled programs and almost 12 hours of continuous broadcasting on the flight and related activities.

36-Hour Twister Brings Contest to Smashing Finale

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—A University of Idaho student collapsed Sunday night after dancing the Twist almost steadily for more than 36 hours.

★ ★ ★

Rich Cook, 19, freshman from Emmett, Idaho, was on his feet for 36 hours and 3 minutes, with a 3-minute break each hour and a 20-minute rest every 5 hours. He and other contenders in a "Twista-thon" at a downtown store danced without partners after seven girls who started the contest dropped out.

Favorite of the crowd was Carlos Devalle, 10, who claimed a junior record after twisting for 27 hours.

Top twisters in the contest received transistor radios—and a Swedish massage.

Why Did Frank-Juliet Split?

Breakup Puzzles Stars

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Now that Hollywood's most noted Romeo has parted with his Juliet, the whole town is wondering why.

Despite the advent of the twist, Hollywood's favorite pastime is still gossip. And how the tongues have been clacking since Frank Sinatra and Juliet Prowse called off their marriage.

THOMAS

The engagement lasted 44 days. It began with a terse announcement from a public relations source.

'VERY, VERY HAPPY'

Reached for confirmation, Sinatra glowed, "I'm very, very happy and very, very lucky."

The leggy South African beauty agreed that she was, too.

But interviewers detected trouble in their new found paradise.

★

"I think it will be better if she didn't work," Frank told me.

"I am definitely going to continue with my career," Juliet remarked as she returned to Johannesburg to make wedding plans with her mother.

CAREERS BLAMED

Last week came another terse announcement from a public relations source: It was all off. Reason given: "Conflict of career interests."

Juliet started dining with other men, and Frank flew off to Las Vegas, reportedly to forget. When Sinatra aims to forget, it can be a wingding.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, Hollywood tried to fathom the reasoning behind the bare announcement.

Said a member of the Sinatra camp: "Frank wants a full-time wife, not one he will have to share with the American public. He did that once—with Ava (Gardner, wife No. 2). That was the blackest period of his life.

'HURT HIS PRIDE'

"Ava's career was going full blast while Frank's was on the skids. He followed her all through Europe and to Africa while she made 'Mogambo.' He had been a big star, and now he was a movie star's husband.

"It hurt Frank's pride, and that's something he's got a lot of.

★ ★ ★

"Frank isn't going to hit the skids again, so there's no danger of Juliet's career outshining his. But he still wants to be the boss if he's going to get married."

THE OTHER SIDE

From a source close to Prowse: "Juliet is 25 and immensely talented. She hasn't yet reached her potential in show business, and that's something she's worked for all her life.

★ ★ ★

"Supposing she did quit her career. What is she supposed to do all day? This is still a strange country to her; she has few friends. You know Frank wouldn't spend all his time with her. He'd be working in pictures or night clubs or TV, or he'd be in business conferences.

"What kind of a life would she have?"

ONE IDEA'S DEAD

Others pointed out another difference between them: 21 years. The age gap might be too great for Frank, 46, and Juliet, 25, friends remarked.

One ground for speculation can be ruled out: That Sinatra's cronies turned thumbs down on the union. Frank is still The Leader and what's good for Sinatra is good for the Clan.

★ ★ ★

Final Note: Some sources still believe the wedding will eventuate. They argue that the pair broke up before, but still felt the need for each other. It could happen again.

Attacks Efforts at Integration

Black Muslims' Leader Says Attempts Made to Deceive Negroes

CHICAGO (UPI) — Elijah Muhammed, leader of the Black Muslims, told thousands of his Negro followers Sunday that efforts at integration were made to deceive them.

"I'm teaching separation of the races," he said, "because God has chosen us, he's asking us to leave the white man."

Muhammed said "It is nothing but decency for a race to keep to itself. It is ignorant for you and I to want to assimilate ourselves into the white race."

★ ★ ★

The statement drew vigorous applause from the audience, including George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi party, and several of his self-styled "storm troopers."

Following Muhammed's speech, Rockwell addressed the assembly and called Muhammed "The Adolf Hitler of the black man."

"Elijah Mutammed is a leader who is trying what I am trying to do," Rockwell said. "I believe Elijah Muhammed will solve the race problem."

Rockwell attacked the Congress of Racial Equality and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, asking "Do black people have to go and get Jews to lead them? Just as Elijah Muhammed is leading the field slaves we ase leading the common people, who are with us."

Rolkwell, who also lashed out at the "hypocrites who are leading this country, the beatniks in Washington," said he understood Negro problems benause he had been in prison and in a mental institution.

Ted Ends Tour on 'Auld Sod'

JFK's Brother Packs for Home After Talks in Ancestral Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Edward M. Kennedy, 30, the U.S. President's brother, today wound up a tour that has been part of his political education and packed for home to put that education to the test.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy, although making the ambiguous noises expected of American politicans, left no doubt here that he is a candidate for the Massachusetts Senate seat vacated by his brother.

★ ★ ★

His last engagements of his three-week trip to Israel and Europe were a visit to the U.S. Embassy and lunch with Irish President Eamon de Valera.

In conversation he minimized the political significance of his trip. But his visit to Ireland, though mainly a sentimental trip to the home of his ancestors, gave him the chance to produce a couple of crowd-rousing speeches. They seemed aimed as much at the Massachusetts voter as at his Irish listeners.

AFFECTIONS TOLD

Speaking in New Ross, the southern port from which his great-grandfather sailed to America more than a century ago, Kennedy said his mission was to tell the Irish of the "great feeling of affection so many of my fellow citizens of Massachusetts and the United States owe to you."

★ ★ ★

Then he steamed up the crowd with a slap at the British and the centuries of oppressive legislation from which he said Ireland's struggle for freedom was born.

He won still another cheer when he added: "and now we can share our pride that an Irishman is president of the United States."

Once again he refused to say wheather he is a candidate for t he U.S. Senate.

Jackie 'Leads' Drive for U.S. Culture Center

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy will be honorary chairman of a drive for funds for a national cultural center here.

A White House announcement said the drive will include a nationwide closed-circuit telecast next Nov. 15 with Leonard Bernstein, conductor of the New York Philharmonic, as host.

Half the funds from ticket sales will go to the proposed national cultural center, half to local cultural activities.

The center would be located near the Lincoln Memorial here and would provide year-round facilities for music, opera, drama, dance and poetry.

5 Die in Traffic Over Weekend

Pair, 76 and 71, Killed in Intersection Crash; Drifts Impeded View

By United Press International

At least five persons lost their lives in weekend traffic, two of them when the vision of two drivers was blocked by heavy snowbanks along the side of the road.

The only double fatality of the weekend occurred Saturday night near Farwell. William Town, 76, and his wife, Florence, 71, were killed in a two-car intersection crash. Authorities said the high drifts at the intersection obscured the vision of both drivers.

Town, of Farwell, was dead on the scene and his wife died a short time later at a Clare County hospital.

Thomas Short, 36, Pontiac, lost his life early Sunday when his car went out of control and skidded into the Clinton River near Pontiac. The apparent cause of death was drowning.

Mitzie Celin, 48, was killed in a two-car collision on M28 in Ontonagon County. Mrs. Selin, of Marquette, was a passenger in one of the cars.

★ ★ ★

Dora Ciobra, 68, Detroit, was fatally injured Sunday night when she was struck by a car as she crossed a Detroit street. She died about three hours after the accident.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

March, accompanied by his chauffeur and valet, was en route to visit friends outside Madrid when his car collided with another vehicle 15 miles north of the city.

Notes From Foreign News Cables

France to Face Influx of Refugees From Algeria

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Notes from the foreign news cables:

The signing of a cease-fire agreement on Algeria will bring France a couple of fresh problems. One probably will be a huge influx of Europeans from Algeria to France.

The other probably will be a general election a year ahead of time. The Paris government is planning for the refugee invasion now. It is feared that at least 400,000 out of the 1.1-million European residents of Algeria may move to France, creating a major housing and job problem.

The government plans to set aside at least one-tenth of all new state-subsidized housing units for refugees from Algeria.

As for the election, it is generally believed that President Charles de Gaulle will dissolve parliament and order a vote this spring — possibly in April — a year ahead of the scheduled time. He hopes popular relief over the ending of the Algerian war will give a big boost to the Gaullist party, the Union for the New Republic (UNR).

AMERICA'S ALLIES

America's European Allies are cool to the United States plan for them to join in a trade embargo against Cuba. The proposal made to the NATO Allies last week is under consideration, but there are signs of heavy going ahead for any such plan. A compromise appears to be shaping up under which the Allies would agree to an embargo on Cuba, leaving ordinary trade channels open.

STAMP OF APPROVAL

The Indian seizure of Portuguese Goa is raising more problems for the United States. Goa has some of the finest ore deposits and port facilities in South Asia, and it is being suggested in India that India build a steel plant there to take advantage of these facts.

Informed sources say the United States is seriously considering aiding the Indians in building the plant, no matter what the Portuguese reaction might be. They say it is a question of this or watching the Russians move in and help the Indians, thereby gaining a leg up in the Cold War battle.

FANFANI GOVERNMENT

Most Italians seem inclined to give the new government of Premier Amintore Fanfani, which will depend on leftwing socialist support, up to six months to prove itself. This feeling, as shown by reaction from newspapers of all political persuasions, cuts across party lines.

The outlook is about 50-50 that Fanfani can keep a delicate balance.

If he can't, it means a return to the old center coalition and a slamming of the door to any further "opening to the left."

GLENN'S FLIGHT

Col. John Glenn's flight has dealt a heavy blow to the opposition Socialist party in Japan. The party has been attempting to defend, against widespread condemnation, a joint communique signed in Communist China by the Reds and a visiting Socialist delegation which labeled "U.S. imperialism" as the "common enemy" of the two countries. Glenn's flight raised American prestige in Japan and made it extremely tough for the Socialists.

POLAND-EAST GERMANY

Look for a further cooling-off of Polish-East German relations which never have been very friendly anyway. The gradual cooling-off began in October 1960 when Poland turned away from the Stalinist cult while East Germany's Walter Ulbricht—a strong Stalinist—managed to strengthen his position. The trend has been intensified since then.

OUT OF CONTROL — Only a roaring torch of oil and gas remains triumphant after this oil well blew out of control and ignited three miles south of Albion. Heat from the flames sent vapor dancing over the snow. The flames reach 60 feet, and the clouds of black smoke can be seen for more than 10 miles. This new well fire is in the midst of the most productive area of the Albion Township field.

Historian Sees Less Cold War

Reds' Living Standard to Cause Demands for More Liberty

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A Harvard historian said today that time was on the side of the Western world in the Cold War because it was almost inevitable that Soviet Russia will eventually evolve along more democratic lines."

★ ★ ★

William L. Langer, Coolidge professor of history, spoke to the 46th annual convention of the National Association of Secondary School principals.

He said the very fact the Soviet Union is becoming a highly industrialized society, resulting in more goods being produced and a general rise in the standard of living, will result in increasing "demands for liberty and self-government.

"Even Stalin found it necessary, in 1936, to introduce a representative system with at least the semblance of Western institutions," he said. "Since his death, in the brief period of nine years, tremendous changes have taken place in the Soviet Union.

★ ★ ★

"Khrushchev has made one concession after another, and is lavish in promises, holding out to the Russian people the prospect of eventually attaining the same well-being enjoyed by the United States."

Langer said two "portentous" changes are currently in motion in the Communist world. One is the "gradual transformation of Soviet Russia," and the second is "the progressive disintegration of the Communist bloc." These changes, he, said, would make the Soviet Union easier to deal with in the future.

Detroit Invites Astronauts for Freedom Festival

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit joined the family of Glenn-happy American cities Sunday when it asked the astronaut to visit the city's Freedom Festival, July 1-4.

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh said John H. Glenn Jr., and his six fellow astronauts would be invited to attend the festival and asked to bring a space capsule along with them if possible. Cavanagh said he would like to display the capsule at the festival.

The festival traditionally honors Independence Day and Canada's Dominion Day is sponsored jointly by Detroit and Windsor, Ont., Detroit's neighboring city across the Detroit River.

Had to Haul the Loot

ATLANTA (AP) — Burglars broke into an auto service company over the weekend. They stole a television set, an adding machine and numerous other items—plus a company truck to haul away the loot.

Arrives to Fight Oil Well Blaze

Professional in State to Handle Operations in Fire Near Albion

ALBION (AP) — A professional oil well fire fighter has arrived from Texas to take charge of operations to control a raging fire in an oil well three miles south of here.

The well, Garfield Farley No. 4, erupted into a sheet of flame Saturday just as it was about to be put into production. Burning gas-fed flames roared 70 feet into the air, narrowly missing trapping six workmen.

Boots Hansen, associate of famed oil-fire fighter Red Adair, arrived here Sunday and ordered equipment to be ready to move in today to pull away debris from the wellhead. The 80-foot high well rigging had collapsed over the well half an hour after the fire started.

★ ★ ★

A nearby propane gas tank which observers feared might explode in the heat was moved late Saturday night after National Guardsmen had shot holes in the tank to let the gas escape.

The flames still were rising high into the sky Sunday, sending up a bluish-yellow cloud that could be seen miles. All side roads in the area have been closed off by state police and Calhoun County sheriff's men.

Observers said it may be tomorrow or later before any attempt is made to cut off the flow of gas and oil from the 4,100-foot shaft.

★ ★ ★

Adair was called in to control the last big oil well fire in Michigan — the Rosenau well blaze just four miles to the southeast of the Farley farm on which No. 4 is located.

Mayor of Perth Due in New York for Glenn Parade

PERTH, Australia (UPI) — Sir Harry Howard, lord mayor of Perth which kept its lights on as a beacon for John H. Glenn last Tuesday, will fly to New York Wednesday for the tickertape parade up Broadway for the American astronaut.

★ ★ ★

New York Mayor Robert Wagner invited Howard to the reception and the New York Journal American and Qantas Airlines joined forces to arrange the flight.

Woman, Boy Friend Charged in Slaying

NEW YORK (AP) — A 36-year-old woman and the 19-year-old boy friend to whom she gave a car and an apartment have been charged with the hammer-and-knife slaying of her wealthy doctor husband.

★ ★ ★

Their arrests came after police said a man told of watching as tall, curly-haired Armando Cossentino's reply, he said.

★ ★ ★

Cossentino and pudgy, red-haired Mrs. Jean Difede were held without bail when they were formally charged Sunday. Mrs. Difede quaked at the charge, but Cossentino remained impassive.

Lord Snowdon Now a Member of Trade Union

BOX 18 LORD SNOWDON

LONDON (UPI) — Antony Armstrong-Jones has joined the National Union of Journalists, becoming the first member of the British royal family to belong to a trade union, it was announced today.

★ ★ ★

A royal family spokesman said Armstrong-Jones — or Lord Snowdon as he became after his marriage to Princess Margaret — had his application accepted by the NUJ over the weekend.

British newspapers first reported the news.

"It was all kept very, very quiet," said the Daily Mirror, "but last night the news leaked out."

STUDENTS CLASH — Fistfights broke out on the University of Pennsylvania campus as opposing student groups clashed over the suspension of the undergraduate newspaper, the Daily Pennsylvanian. Barry Saltow (light jacket), a former editor of the paper, trades punches with a member of the opposition near Houstan Hall on the campus in Philadelphia.

Nehru's Party Grabs First 3 Seats in Voting

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Minister Nehru's ruling Congress party today got off to a running start by capturing the first three parliamentary seats counted in India's general elections.

First returns indicated, however, that the Congress party's grip on state assemblies, which his party has dominated along with the Parliament since independence in 1947, might be weakened slightly.

★ ★ ★

Scattered results from 452 of the 2,930 assembly districts gave the Congress party and its allies 314 seats, Communists 24, right-wing Hindu Jana Sangh 10, independents 10.

The Congress Party although favored to win control of most and perhaps all state legislatures, had lost 45 assembly seats it formerly held and picked up only 20 new ones.

NO BLOW AT NEHRU

Loss of assembly seats was not seen as any repudiation of Nehru, however. Indian voters in previous elections have generally voted on local issues in the assembly races.

The Congress party also picked up three other seats in the 507-member lower house of Parliament in districts where its candidates were not opposed.

PRESTIGE IN BALANCE

While Nehru was assured control of the national parliament, his personal prestige was on the line in the North Bombay district where his left-leaning Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon sought re-election to Parliament.

Supporters of Menon claimed he forged into a big early lead over J. B. Kripalani, 74, an early Gandhi who was backed by a coalition that charged Menon with being pro-Communist. The count is not expected to be completed until Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Half the nation's 210 million voters were estimated to have cast ballots in the 10 days of voting, the biggest election in the non-Communist world.

The Congress party found the going roughest in the Punjab, where there is a strong movement for creation of a separate Sikh state.

34 VOTE MARGIN

Chief Minister Pratap Singh Kairon, a Nehru supporter, won re-election by only 34 votes over an imprisoned member of the Sikh-sponsored Akali Dal party.

Akali Dal won 12 of the first 78 Punjab assembly seats counted. The Congress party took 52. The Communists and the Jana Sangh won seven each.

Is Sinatra an All-Timer? Most Readers Think So

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The burning question today is: "Does Frank Sinatra belong in the All-Time Big Five of Show Business," the Entertainers' Hall of Fame?

WILSON

"Yes," say I—but I'll listen to the other side if there is one, though I think there isn't.

Frank has been charming the ears off American audiences since the Swoonatra period 20 years ago, and how many have had such lasting greatness?

"Ever since I was a schoolgirl I've enjoyed reading about my idol, Frank Sinatra, and now that I'm in my early 40s and the mother of two, I still love to read about him," writes Mrs. Rhoda Grodsky, a New Yorker.

"I've seen a thin, wistful young singer grow to be the most talked-about, exciting, headline personality of our time — a living legend," says she.

★ ★ ★

A little giddy and starry-eyed, you think? Well, I know some 50-year-old women who can get even giddier about Frank. To many, he is today's Al Jolson, who is certainly already on the All-Time Team.

One thing I found out in launching this looney undertaking of picking the All-Timers is that Sammy Davis is to be the subject of controversy in the voting.

"Sammy's greater than Jolson," Groucho Marx told me a couple of years ago. Many of my readers disagree vehemently.

But many of the doubters have never seen Sammy in a top nightclub with a raised stage where he can dance, sing, tell stories, show how fast he is on the draw, play the drums and xylophone, do impersonations, and even toss down a drink or two almost as good as Joe E. Lewis.

Jackie Gleason'll make a film in Spain in the spring . . . Forrest Tucker gave his bride a mink coat and asked where she'd like to vacation in the spring. "Anywhere," she said, "where I can wear a mink coat in May" . . . TV hero Lee Marvin recorded an album of readings from Hemingway.

EARL'S PEARLS: Why is it, that a woman's never late for an appointment with her hairdresser?

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A fellow mentioned that his wife's visits to a psychiatrist were a waste of time: "She spends the first 40 minutes rearranging his couch."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "It'll soon be time to wear my spring coat," notes Jack Herbert. "That's my winter coat—unbuttoned."

Comic Mickey Freeman claims that TV's a lot like life: "On Monday there's Dr. Ben Casey, on Thursday there's Dr. Kildare. Come the weekend, you can't get a doctor," . . . That's earl, brother.

U.S. Gives Argentina $150-Million Loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has announced a $150-million loan to Argentina under the Alliance for Progress program.

The White House announcement Sunday said that some of the money will be used for Argentine economic development projects and some for purchases abroad.

Kennedy, in announcing approval of the loan, declared "the development of Argentina's economy within a framework of representative democracy is one of the principal goals of the Alliance for Progress."

All the Services Join to Honor Marine Glenn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Troops were drawn from all the services to honor Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. on his arrival today in the nation's capital.

Gathered to greet the astronaut at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland were Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine and Coast Guard contingents. The commander of the troops was a fellow Marine, Maj. David A. Clement.

The U. S. Army band drew the assignment of providing the music, including "Hail to the Chief" for President Kennedy, host to Glenn and the astronaut's family on the trip from Palm Beach, Fla.

Glenn Family Lazes in Sun at Key West

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. spent a weekend in the sun with his family before leaving for Washington and another round of honors resulting from his historic space flight.

★ ★ ★

The Navy did its best to keep the Glenns—John and Anna and their son David, 16, and daughter Lyn, 14—secluded for a quiet weekend.

But Glenn poked his nose out a couple of times and the town of Key West buzzed with excitement. The City Council even named a street for him.

The family went cruising in a small boat Saturday, taking time out for swimming, skindiving and just plain lazing around the deck, soaking up the sun.

★ ★ ★

Sunday's schedule included Protestant services at the naval chapel on the base and a quiet Sunday dinner.

Seizure of Dope to 'Hurt' Addicts

Narcotics Bureau Says 88-Pound Haul Was the 2nd Largest in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal Narcotics Bureau official predicts that addicts across the nation will feel the effects of the police seizure Saturday night of heroin valued at $25 million on the illicit market.

The 88 pounds — 40 kilos—was reoprted as the second largest haul in the nation's history. Federal agents had bagged 100 kilos last October with the arrest of the Guatemalan ambassador to Belgium, Mauricio Rosal, who now is serving 15 years in prison.

The heroin confiscated by city narcotics detectives Saturday was contained in two bags carried by Anthony Fuca, 31, a Bronx longshoreman whose father, brother and sister-in-law were arrested after 34 pounds were found cached in the father's Brooklyn apartment Jan. 18.

George Gaffney, district supervisor of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, said Sunday the seizure here "will be felt not only in New York, but in such cities as Chicago, Washington and Philadelphia."

SUPPLIED MAJORITY

"This is because New York supplied 80 per cent of the country's heroin," he said.

Fuca, arrested as he carried the heroin through the vestibule of his tenement home, was arraigned Sunday on a charge of possessing narcotics and was ordered held under $50,000 bail.

At the time of the arrest, he was on $22,500 bail in connection with the raid on his father's apartment.

The father, Joseph, his son, Pasquale, and the latter's wife, Barbara, were held in $100,000 bail each on charges of possession of narcotics growing out of the earlier raid.

Four-fifths of the old cigar store Indian statues were those of squaws.

Americans consume upwards of eight million frankfurts annually.

Glenn Gets Lusty Welcome in Capital

$12,000 Is Taken From 2 Markets

Two armed men took an estimated $10,000 to $12,000 cash from two Pontiac grocery stores Sunday night while holding the owner and his wife at gun point.

One bandit forced Joseph O. Gagne, 40, to open safes at his store, People's Food Market, 263 Auburn Ave., and People's Food-O-Mat, 465 E. Pike St., while his accomplice held Gagne's wife, Guida, hostage at the couple's home at 4975 W. Utica Road, Shelby Township.

Pontiac police detectives today discounted the possibility that the bandits were the same men who pulled two similar armed robberies last year in Pontiac.

Detectives said descriptions of the men didn't match with those given by victims of a Franklin Road grocery store robbery last fall or a Wrigley Supermarket robbery on Auburn Avenue last August.

Gagne told Detective Thomas Mitchell the two men came to his front door just after 8 p.m. last night and said their car had broken down. They wanted to use his phone.

DREW PISTOL

When he led them into the kitchen, the youngest man, described as about 40 years old, pulled a 38-caliber pistol from his belt.

★ ★ ★

"We're going to Pontiac and get the money out of the safes in those two stores you have in town there," Gagne quoted the man as saying.

The store owner said the second man, about 50 years old, pulled a chrome-plated revolver and told his wife to sit down and watch television.

The Gagne's two sons, Thomas, 13, and Eugene, 11, were asleep in their bedrooms and remained so through the whole ordeal.

★ ★ ★

Gagne said the younger man told them "If you do exactly what I tell you, no one will get hurt. As long as your wife and children behave themselves and you don't forget to keep in line, no one will get hurt."

FORCED TO DRIVE

Gagne said the younger man forced him to drive to Pontiac, where they entered both stores and emptied money from the safes into paper bags.

He said his robber companion remained "very cool" through the entire operation. Mrs. Gagne said the older man was "very nervous and kept getting up and looking outside very time he heard a car pass."

Most of the money was taken from the People's Food-O-Mat, which Gagne closed at 6 p.m. The other store was not open yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Gagne told Mitchell he filled about four bags full of money. The bandits didn't take any checks.

He and the younger man returned home at about 9:30. The bandits forced the couple to the Troops Unable to Halt Killing

10 Moslems Are Slain in New Outbreaks of Violence in Algiers

ALGIERS (AP)—Armored cars and riot troops swarmed into the heart of Algiers today but European terrorists killed 10 more Moslems, virtually under the eyes of police.

★ ★ ★

The Algerian Nationalist Rebels' Parliament was meeting in Tripoli and was expected to approve a cease-fire with the French before the day is over.

This was expected to touch off another eruption of violence by the Secret European Army, enemy of both the rebels and the French government.

In its campaign to block Algerian independence and keep the territory French, the Secret Army Sunday staged one of its most daring attacks to date—a bazooka raid on a French military police barracks in the outskirts. At least 10 persons were reported slain and gasoline storage tanks were set afire.

MOVED IN TROOPS

French authorities retaliated by moving armed forces into Algiers from outlying bases, but still the killings went on in the crowded street of Algiers.

Six Moslems were slain on the Rue Michelet. Police arrested a European and said he admitted one of the attacks.

Four Moslems dead and one wounded were sprawled over a 100-yard stretch of sidewalk opposite the University of Algiers.

PASS SLOWLY BY

Professors and students crowded around the windows of the university building. Young students and elementary school pupils passed slowly by the bodies. The crowd talked in low voices.

★ ★ ★

None of the passersby seemed to have seen the gunmen.

An old European woman walking with two canes calmly stepped over one body lying face down on the sidewalk.

Halftracks loaded with troops surrounded the area. Two helicopters were called out to keep an eye on crowds in the city.

★ ★ ★

An aged Moslem with a pointed white beard and dressed in a flowing robe lay dead across the street from the U. S. Information Service library. A Moslem youth, badly wounded, huddled by his side.

★ ★ ★

A young man who had passed just before the attack said they had been sitting on the sidewalk watching passersby when they were shot.

Glenn on Pennsylvania Ave.'s Path of Glory

Another Travels Heroes' Route

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This is astronaut John Glenn's day on the parade route of heroes.

He rode down Pennsylvania and Constitution Avenues from the White House to the Capitol, the same triumphal trail of such national heroes as Admiral Dewey and Generals Pershing, Eisenhower and MacArthur.

For his peacetime accomplishment of orbiting the earth three times, Glenn followed the path of honor reserved for the greats of war since 1865 when the Union armies marched for two days in a grand review.

Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr., who made America's first suborbital flight, got a big welcome last May. An estimated 250,000 persons cheered him as he rode along the avenue, but it was more of a simple motorcade and not the type of parade planned for Glenn.

★ ★ ★

Glenn's reception may have exceeded in enthusiasm any welcome of the past although it would have been hard to match in numbers the greeting given Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on June 18, 1945, after victory in Europe.

Eisenhower's plane was met over the coastline by 100 fighters and bombers, which escorted him to National Airport. It was an impressive 1,000,000 persons who lined the avenues to cheer Ike.

The nation's capital had never had anything like it before, and nothing like it since. Police figured there were more people on the parade route than the city's population. Persons had come from miles around to join the celebration.

PARADE FOR NIMITZ

About four months later, another parade honored Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, who commanded the Allied fleets to victory in the Pacific and helped bring World War II to an end.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, whose flight across the Atlantic in 1927 stirred the imagination of Americans as much as Glenn's space journey was greeted by 500,000 persons on the grounds of the Washington Monument. The Lone Eagle had previously heard the cheers of thousands as he sailed slowly up the Potomac River aboard the U.S.S. Memphis.

★ ★ ★

There have been mournful processions down the route of heroes, too. Tears unashamedly trickled down the cheeks of thousands who silently watched in 1945 as the body of Franklin D. Roosevelt was drawn on a caisson to the White House he occupied so long. It was the last stop before his final resting place at Hyde Park, N.Y.

★ ★ ★

But the melancholy moments have been few. The nation's capital usually reserves its parades to honor heroes, welcome foreign heads of states, inaugurate U.S. presidents and celebarte the end of wars.

Rite at White House and Parade, Congress Visit Awaiting Astronaut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. arrived in Washington today, escorted by President Kennedy, for a day of high honors in the rain-soaked nation's capital.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nation's capital shouts a lusty salute today to astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

A White House ceremony, a triumphant parade along Pennsylvania Avenue and an appearance before Congress await the Marine lieutenant colonel who, Tuesday, carried the Stars and Stripes three times around the globe.

At Palm Beach, Fla., President Kennedy ushered Glenn aboard the presidential jet and flashed off to Washington to deliver the astronaut to the capital's acclaim.

★ ★ ★

The silver and orange plane was off at 9:20 a.m. EST.

Glenn and his family had flown to West Palm Beach Airport from Key West where they spent a restful weekend in seclusion, just ahead of the flight to Washington.

In Key West, the Glenns were escorted in a motorcade from the naval base to Boca Chica Airport.

RAINING IN WASHINGTON

A light but steady rain fell on Washington early this morning and the Weather Bureau predicted continued cloudiness and rain through the day.

But the weather prospects were not likely to dampen the spirits of the 250,000 expected to line the route as Glenn steers the traditional course of heroes—a motorcade from the White House to the Capitol.

His wife and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson at his side, Glenn was to proceed at about two miles an hour—in sharp contrast to the 17,530-miles-an-hour rate at which he hurtled through space as the first American in earth orbit.

★ ★ ★

Government workers released at President Kennedy's direction and school children on special holiday packed the sidewalks, with 17 bands blaring tunes at one or two-block intervals.

Motorcycle and mounted police, a color guard and units of all branches of the armed forces led the way. The only marching band was the, Marines', playing "The Marine Hymn," "The Washington Post March" and "Semper Fidelis."

The day's celebration started late in the morning at Andrews Air Force Base on another musical note, "Hail to the Chief."

This greeted Kennedy as he arrived from Palm Beach, with Glenn, members of the astronaut's

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan appeared today to be prepared to move toward a summit conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, on the condition that Russia demonstrate good faith.

The White House disclosed Sunday that the President, though rejecting Khrushchev's second bid for a summit meeting, told the Soviet premier he hoped progress on disarmament would make much a conference possible before June 1.

Macmillan dispatched his own reply to Khrushchev today. He appeared even more willing than Kennedy for a heads-of-state confrontation.

Macmillan told Khrushchev that he was prepared to meet with him "fairly soon" if progress was shown in lower level disarmament talks, beginning March 14 in Geneva or, on the other hand, the discussions appeared stalemated.

Macmillan echoed Kennedy's statement urging Khrushchev to send his foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, to meet with the British and American foreign secretaries at the opening of the Geneva talks.

The United States and its Western allies reportedly are considering short-range disarmament proposals which they hope the

Says Kennedy Prefers N-Ban

Wants Workable Pact Rather Than New Tests, Claims Gaitskell

LONDON (AP)—Hugh Gaitskell said today President Kennedy would prefer a workable agreement for a nuclear test ban with Moscow rather than going ahead with a new series of American atmospheric explosions. Gaitskell heads the British Labor party.

He said the United States will withhold its hand if the Soviet Union accepts an effective and safeguarded agreement to stop testing.

Gaitskell made these comments to newsmen upon his return from the United States, where he had private discussions with Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

NO FINAL WORD

Gaitskell said Kennedy has not yet reached a final decision about setting off these blasts and obviously was reluctant to test.

"I am sure he would much prefer to get a cast-iron agreement with Russia," Gaitskell said.

The United States began preparing for a new round of atmospheric blasts after the Soviet Union conducted a series of such explosions last autumn.

Gaitskell said he was satisfied that if the U.S. tests do take place, the decision by the U.S. government will be taken "strictly on the basis of military necessity and not upon any idea of retaliation of prestige."

★ ★ ★

He added that "there is a military case for testing" because the evidence showed the Soviet Union made some advances with its latest tests — apparently in the antimissile field.

"This represents an increase of better than 73 per cent over the same period a year ago and is the highest percentage increase this year," Bridge said.

In the same period in 1961 Pontiac dealers sold 6,315 cars.

Cleric Digs Cool Talk

Scripture Swings!

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—The Rev. Iain MacMillan kicked off today on a campaign to fix things so the cats can dig the Good Book.

His solution: Break the Bible down into jive talk.

The Rev. Mr. MacMillan is pastor of the church of Scotland's South Earsden Church in Glasgow, and he has a big youth club.

In an attempt to rouse interest in Bible reading, today's issue of his parish magazine carries the following:

"This dad had two sons. One was real cool, but the other was a square. Well, this cool cat went to his father and gave with the story. 'Get beamed in, dad, and I'll give you the gen. I want to get the run-down on life. So, give with the green.'

'ON THE ROCKS'

"His dad didn't like the kookie talk much, but he handed over a fistful of greenbacks to his cool, cool son. But he, now that he was well-lined, found that with espressos and dance palaces and the like, the crinkle didn't last. Soon he was on the rocks.

★ ★ ★

"'Dig this,' he exclaimed. 'When I was lush the city cats thought I was real crazy. Now I am unglued they leave me alone. I will go back to dad and see what gives.'

"To his surprise his father took him back and, in fact, gave him the real cool treatment."

Said the Rev. Mr. MacMillan:

"Most of our youth clubbers understand this kind of slang and I think it is a good idea to tell them Bible stories that way.

"As for those who don't dig kookie—well, they can read the story of the prodigal son in any Bible."

Rain, Fog Just Cover Up for More Snow Today

While rain and fog prevailed in the Pontiac area this morning, the forecast was for more rain in the afternoon, turning to snow flurries later with the mercury plunging to a low of 18 tonight.

The rain early this morning helped clear some of the ice and snow off main streets but in many instances it made driving on side streets extremely hazardous.

School buses in the Pontiac School System were reportedly on schedule this morning. Drivers were instructed to use extreme caution on side streets.

In influx of cold air expected this afternoon will cause the fog to lift.

Forecast for Tuesday in the Pontiac area calls for colder temperature with a high of 25 predicted. Wednesday is expected to be somewhat warmer but the temperature will fall again Thursday and continue low through Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Snow is predicted for Wednesday night or Thursday with scattered snow flurries possible at other times during the week.

Snow and freezing rain plagued some areas outstate this morning. Eight inches of new snow fell during the last 24 hours in the Cheboygan area at the tip of lower Michigan, and up to six inches fell in the Upper Peninsula.

Freezing rain turned streets and highways into sheets of ice in some portions of the state. A quarter inch of ice covered all of the Saginaw area, contributing to a rash of minor accidents.

★ ★ ★

For the first time this year all schools in Saginaw were closed due to the weather.

★ ★ ★

The lowest temperature recorder preceding 8 o'clock today was 26 degrees at shortly after midnight. By 1 p.m. the mercury reading showed 43.

Bob, Ethel in Paris for 'Private Visit'

PARIS (AP) — U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy arrived by air from Holland today for what he described as a two-day private visit to the French capital on his globe-girdling tour.

Before leaving The Hague, Kennedy urged Indonesia and The Netherlands to "take a factual and rational approach" to their explosive dispute over West New Guinea. He said he got the impression on his visit to Indonesia that the Indonesians will not attack and are willing to negotiate with the Dutch.

Kennedy will visit President Charles de Gaulle and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville Tuesday. He told reporters at the airport he and his wife Ethel are "just here to see Paris and I only wish our stay were longer."

★ ★ ★

U. S. Ambassador James Gavin with Kennedy nodding agreement, explained the visits with De Gaulle and the foreign minister were merely courtesy calls and that the attorney general had nothing specific to discus with them.

Kennedy told reporters he was in general encouraged by what he had seen on his trip that has included stops in Japan, southeast Asia, Germany and The Netherlands. In answer to a question, he said:

"In areas where I have been, I think we have been making a great deal of progress."

Jackie Delays Trip to India

Sinus Infection Causes Postponement of Tour Until March 12

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House annouced today that, because of a sinus infection, Mrs. John F. Kennedy has been forced to postpone the start of her India-Pakistan trip for a week. She is now due to begin the journey March 12.

The White House said the postponement was decided upon on the advice of the first lady's physician.

She has been suffering from "a low-grade sinus infection for several months," press secretary Pierre Salinger said. The infection has caused an occasional fever, he added, but the fevers have been low.

The first lady was at the airport in West Palm Beach, Fla., today to see her husband off on the flight bringing astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. and his family to Washington for a day of honors.

Sunday she went water skiing and took a dunking.

She did not make the trip back to the capitol today, staying for a few more days in the sun.

Exact details of Mrs. Kennedy's itinerary have yet to be worked out but the delay will knock out the first eight days of her previously announced schedule. She will start the trip with a visit in New Delhi and carry on from that point as previously determined, ending the tour at Karachi on March 26.

family, and Virgil I. Grissom, who made a suborbital space flight last July.

Glenn was to be given a brief "full honors" ceremony.

Then, at the White House, as his six fellow astronauts looked on, the 40-year-old space hero received a key to the city from District commissioners.

At the Capitol, Glenn was to address a joint meeting of Congress assembled in the House chamber.

After a private luncheon with capital dignitaries at the State Department, Glenn will retire with his wife and two children, David, 16, and Lyn, 14, to their home in suburban Arlington, Va.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration which operates the Project Mercury space venture, has changed its mind and called off a Glenn news conference here.

Ahead of Glenn are a ticker tape parade in New York on Thursday and a welcoming celebration Saturday in his home town of New Concord, Ohio.

In the future, too, may be a tour of the country and a trip abroad. Kennedy and Johnson discussed the matter over the weekend, but there has been no official announcement.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., a member of the Senate Space Committee, has suggested an exchange of American and Russian astronauts as a possible first step toward cooperation between the two countries in space.

Glenn has a date Tuesday with the House Science and Astronautics Committee and an appearance before the Senate group Wednesday is being considered.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy came to Palm Beach International Airport to see the President and Glenn off.

Mrs. Kennedy, wearing a blue outfit and no hat, shook hands with Glenn and with other members of the Project Mercury team, Malcolm S. Carpenter, Alan B. Shepard Jr., Virgil L. Grissom, Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Donald K. Slayton.

Robert Gilruth, director of Project Mercury, arrived with the Glenn family.

Schirra, Carpenter and Slayton had arrived on an earlier plane.

After the Glenns landed, they walked to the presidential jet where autograph seekers met them.

Unable to Rescue Man From a Submerged Auto

Two Pontiac police officers yesterday morning risked their lives by jumping into the Clinton River in a futile attempt to save a man trapped in his submerged, overturned car.

★ ★ ★

However, the victim, Thomas Short, 36, of 500½ S. Paddock St., was declared dead 30 minutes later after being rushed by Fire Department inhalator truck to Pontiac General Hospital.

Given medical attention for exposure in the ice-cold water, were Patrolmen Charles Lindeberg, 29, and Joseph Wilson, 25.

None of several bystanders had attempted to enter the overturned car under water to see if there was a possible victim.

RUN INTO RIVER

The car driven by Short apparently ran off Weisen Road, a hundred yards west of Bagley Street, just before a bridge crosses the river. It ran down an embankment, plowed head-on into the water and overturned.

Short apparently was trapped by pressure of the water. His death was attributed to drowning.

At the time of the accident, the weather was clear but the pavement was icy and partially covered with snow.

Short's watch stopped at 10:06 a.m.

The officers' lifesaving attempt drew quick praise from Captain George Scott who said Wilson and Lindeberg showed the courage and swiftness of action expected of them in the line of duty.

FATAL SCENE — The car in which Thomas Short was trapped and drowned Sunday morning is shown here after it had been pulled part way out of the Clinton River. The car had overturned and filled with water.

Rain and Sleet Everywhere

More Snow in Midlands

By The Associated Press

Another snow and sleet storm hit sections of the Midwest today, dumping another blanket of white across the snow-covered midlands.

Wet weather also was in prospect for most of the eastern half of nation, with snow and rain in the Northeast and rain in other areas outside the Midwest snow belt.

★ ★ ★

Arctic air from Canada spread into Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota. In Montana, temperatures fell to 26 below zero in Butte, -20 in Drummond, -19 in Lewiston and -17 in Cut Bank. The icy air headed into the north central region with zero weather in prospect by tonight in many areas.

★ ★ ★

The snow belt extended from Lake Michigan and Lake Supeior into Kansas, Nebraska and southern South Dakota. Heavy snow fell in Iowa, with six inches reported in a six-hour period in Des Moines, making a total of 15 inches on the ground. In Waterloo, Iowa, the seven-inch fall increased the total on the ground to 17 inches.

MORE SNOW

Four to eight inches of snow was indicated in northwest Wisconsin and two to four inches in the northern half of Illinois.

Snow also spread across areas in the central Rockies, Utah, Nevada and northern Arizona.

★ ★ ★

Showers and thundershowers broke out southeast of the Midwest snow line, extending across the lower Ohio Valley into the Carolinas and Georgia. Heavy rain pelted most of western Kentucky.

Freezing rain and sleet slicked highways in northwest and extreme northern Illinois and the narrow icy belt stretched from the Oklahoma Panhandle to lower Michigan. Heavy snow or glaze warnings were posted for much of Kansas, Nebraska, northwest Missouri, Iowa and sections of Illinois and Wisconsin.

In the Far West, showers dampened scattered sections of California. Two inches of snow fell in the Mount Hamilton area southeast of San Francisco.

Kennedy, Macmillan Leaning to Summit

Soviet Union might accept quickly at Geneva, thus providing a basis for a summit meeting in May. Included is a proposal banning transfer of nuclear weapons to other nations.

VIEWS IN NOTE

Kennedy's views were expressed Sunday in a 1,000-word note to Khrushchev rejecting the premier's second proposal that heads of the 18 nations involved open the Geneva talks March 14.

The President, who wants the talks opened at the foreign ministers level, told Khrushchev that to have a heads of government meeting at the beginning of the conference "would be to begin with the wrong end of the problem."

Kennedy added the hope that "developments in the conference and internationally would make it useful to arrange for the personal participation of the heads of government before June 1."

The tone of Kennedy's note was restrained and not as truculent as Khrushchev's most recent one. The President said he did not question Khrushchev's motives for seeking a quick summit session. Khrushchev's note had implied Kennedy and Macmillan were not sincere in wanting more preliminary results to come from the Geneva talks before plunging into a summit session.

FIRM REJECTION

Kennedy firmly rejected Khrushchev's contention that possible U.S. resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing would be an aggressive act. He said it was strange that the Soviet Union, which broke the truce on atmospheric testing last fall, should now accuse the United States of aggression.

U.S. tests, if resumed, "would be a matter of prudent policy in the absence of the effectively controlled nuclear test agreement that we have so earnestly sought," Kennedy said.

The Geneva conference is being held at the request of the United Nations. The 18 nations include five Western allies, five from the Communist bloc, and eight avowedly neutral countries.

'Facts Needed Before Landing Man on Moon'

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist said today additional facts must be learned about the moon's surface before a manned space craft can be landed there successfully.

But the exact texture of the surface and whether the ice can be converted into drinking water remains to be determined, he said.

Experts Say Warnings Are Propaganda

Doubt Red Chinese Action in S. Viet Nam

By CHARLES R. SMITH

TOKYO (UPI)—Experts on Communist affairs in Asia doubted today that Peiping's warnings against U.S. troops in South Viet Nam foreshadowed direct Chinese intervention in that country.

The experts believed that Peiping's weekend statements, though openly harsh, indicated the Communist Chinese still feel South Viet Nam can be brought under Red control through subversion rather than by direct military action.

The Chinese warnings of "serious danger of war" were regarded as natural propaganda reaction to stepped-up U.S. military aid for South Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem and his battle against about 20,000 Communist-led Viet Cong guerrillas.

DOES SELF-APPENDECTOMY — This picture from Tass, official Soviet news agency, shows Dr. Leonid Rogozov, 26, performing an appendectomy on himself at Russian Research Center in the Antarctic on April 30, 1961. Tass said the operation lasted an hour and 45 minutes. Rogozov knew for six weeks an operation was necessary but planes were unavailable to bring in a surgeon. This picture came to Moscow recently by a Soviet plane which went to Antarctica via New Zealand.

News Analysis

The Peiping Peoples Daily, official newspaper of the Chinese Reds, demanded Sunday that the U.S. "armed intervention" in South Viet Nam be halted at once. The editorial, which was broadcast by Peiping radio, followed a Chinese Foreign Ministry statement Saturday that Peiping would not tolerate what it called a threat to China. Other Chinese newspapers also warned against the threat of war breaking out.

WON'T ACT NOW

Experts here pointed out that the Peiping statements charged that U.S. aggression was pointed "directly" at Communist North Viet Nam but only "indirectly" at Red China. They interpredited this to mean that Peiping was not prepared to intervene militarily at this time.

By charging that U.S. actions directly threatened its neighbor, the experts said, Communist China appeared to be courting opinion in the so-called neutral nations.

This impression was strengthened by the demand in the Peiping statements that the co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference hold "consultations" on the situation in South Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

The recent creation in South Viet Nam of a "Viet Nam peoples revolutionary party," advocating a policy of neutrality, was regarded as an indication that the Communists believe the pattern they have followed successfully in Laos can be repeated with the Viet Cong tactics.

The analysis of experts here tended to coincide with views expressed in Washington that the Peiping warnings constituted a propaganda reaction rather than an immediate threat of direct Chinese intervention in South Viet Nam.

The Peoples Daily editorial appealed to the signatories of the 1954 Geneva agreement ending the French Indochina Civil War to put an end "at once" to U.S. military activities in South Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

The newspaper accused President Kennedy of misleading the American people and the "world public" regarding the "real situation" in South Viet Nam.

"In waging the undeclared war in South Viet Nam the Kennedy administration intends to suppress not only the South Vietnamese people but also other peoples fighting for independence and against colonialism," it said.

★ ★ ★

The Peoples Daily said the U.S. government "has openly declared Indochina as a springboard for U.S. agression against China."

Baltimore and Washington

Feud Over Two Airports Growing Bitter

By ROBERT J. SERLING
UPI Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON — Baltimore and Washington are writing a new "tale of two cities" — the story of a bitter feud involving two giant airports.

Involved in the problem are several major airlines, the Federal Aviation Agency, the Civil Aeronautics Board, Congress and the two fields.

At issue is the FAA's plans to open the new Dulles International Airport at Chantilly, Va., next October.

When that happens, such transcontinental airlines as United, Trans World, American and Northwest are expected to shift most of their jet flights from Baltimore Friendship Airport to the new field located about 22 miles south of Washington.

Dulles, like Washington National Airport, will be operated by the federal government — the FAA. That agency, with $105 million invested in the new air terminal, is turning a cold shoulder to Baltimore's complaints that Friendship threatens to become a ghost airport.

NATIONAL TOO SMALL

Friendship has been serving the Washington area with jet flights since 1959 because the capital's regular airport, National, is too small for the big jetliners.

Now that Dulles is being readied, Baltimore officials are trying hard to maintain Friendship's status as a major jet terminal. It looks like a losing fight.

The extent of service diversion from Friendship to Dulles still is up in the air.

The airlines involved will not commit themselves on how many flights will be shifted. For one thing, they have not yet completed negotiations with FAA on such items as landing fees, rental space etc. For another, they naturally would like to stay out of the line of fire.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore is going all-out to keep at least a fair portion of jet flights at Friendship. Airport officials are talking about lowering landing fees. The airport board is considering court action to stop what it terms "FAA's raid" on the airlines serving Friendship. And the Baltimore Airport board chairman, Charles Crane, accuses FAA of "being partisan in seeking to divert the air traffic.

Both the FAA and its sister agency, the CAB, are solidly behind Dulles. FAA chief Najeeb E. Halaby says Baltimore is crying before it's hurt.

Halaby concedes that Friendship is going to lose a large chunk of business when Dulles opens, but he feels that expanding air travel eventually will utilize both Dulles and Friendship and that Friendship's loss may be temporary.

CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd says bluntly that the airlines will be required to serve Dulles because that terminal has been designated as an official airport for the nation's capital.

CERTIFICATE OF NECESSITY

Boyd explains that airlines operating jet flights into Friendship actually are doing so under a temporary "certificate of convenience and necessity" which classifies that field as "Washington-Baltimore." Their permanent certificates are for service only to Washington.

Thus, they cannot legally continue the majority of their jet operations at Baltimore because the bulk of jet passengers come from or go to the Washington area.

"Baltimore," says one high FAA official, "wouldn't have a major airport if we hadn't kept jets out of Washington National."

Friendship supporters argue that for many Washington area residents, the Baltimore terminal actually is easier to reach than Dulles. The FAA admits this will be true for the time being, because a 17-mile access road to the new terminal will not be finished when Dulles is opened next fall.

But the agency says when the road is completed, the travel time from downtown Washington to Dulles will be half the 40-45 minutes now required between downtown Washington and Friendship.

Congress Will Go Easy on Kennedy's Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress plans to take it fairly easy this week after last week's slapdown of President Kennedy's plan to establish a department of urban affairs and housing.

★ ★ ★

Only one Kennedy-requested measure is on the docket in either branch. The House will debate and probably send to the Senate a measure to set up a program of retraining displaced workers for other jobs in industry.

SETS DEBATE

The Senate has scheduled for debate several relatively minor bills, putting off until next week consideration of a House-passed measure to increase the temporary national debt limit.

Committees in both branches will be busy putting finishing touches on legislation piling up or on investigations.

★ ★ ★

In the Senate, major interest centers on an Armed Services Committee probe of Pentagon censorship of anti-Communist speeches by generals and admirals.

MEMBERSHIP BILL

The House Rules Committee has before it a bill to increase the membership of the House from 435 to 438.

★ ★ ★

The House Ways and Means Committee is nearing the end of consideration of an over-all tax revision measure requested by the administration.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Sunday in an interview that while he is not giving up hope, the odds now seem to be against approval of Kennedy's proposals for medical care, elementary education aid and standby anti-recession programs. But Mansfield said he was still confident Congress will approve new foreign aid, tax revision and international trade proposals.

The House vetoed the urban affairs plan 264 to 150 after the Senate had refused to take the measure from a committee for a showdown vote. No further Senate action is required, since a veto by either branch is final.

The birthplace of Gilbert Stuart, near Wickford, R. I., is open year round. Stuart was the foremost painter of portraits of George Washington. What is believed to be the only demonstrating water-powered snuff mill in the country may be seen on the lower floor of the old house.

IVES DIES — Irving M. Ives, former Republican U.S. senator from New York, died Saturday at Chenago Memorial Hospital in Norwich, N.Y., at 67. He retired from the Senate in 1959. He was an unsuccessful GOP candidate for governor in 1954, losing to Averell Harriman.

Ask Unit to Rule Space Network

Two Senators Urge Authority to Regulate Communications

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Democratic senators carried the historic fight over public vs. private ownership of utilities into the space age by calling for a government-owned satellite communications network.

The move was expected to come after both the House and Senate held a joint meeting to hear an address by astronaut John Glenn.

Senators Estes Kefauver, (Tenn., and Wayne Morse, Ore., planned to introduce a bill that would create a $500-million communications saellite authority. The principal and interest would be repaid from the system's proceeds. According to Kefauver, it would operate like the Tennessee Valley Authority.

President Kennedy already has asked Congress to create a privately owned corperation to operate the space communications system. The Senate Space Committee has scheduled hearings starting Tuesday on the administration measure and on one similar to it introduced by committee chairman Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma.

Kefauver, in a speech prepared for Senate delivery, described the field of space communications as a natural resource. He said the federal government "is the only entity in our country with experience in the operation of a worldwide communications system."

Noa's Officers, Men to Buy Freedom Bonds

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The Navy said Sunday each of the 280 officers and men aboard the destroyer Noa, which plucked astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. from the Atlantic Ocean after his space flight, has pledged to buy a freedom bond.

Supreme Court Session to Go On Despite Glenn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Most of Washington's officialdom takes time out today when astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. is honored. But not the Supreme Court.

Today is court day and the justices intend to remain in session as the Marine lieutenant colonel takes his triumphant ride to the Capitol—just across the street from the court building.

Rain Breaks Dry Spell in Tokyo After 37 Days

TOKYO (AP) — Rain finally came to Tokyo Sunday night, ending a 37-day dry spell almost unprecedented for this time of year.

By midnight, the rain had turned to snow, covering the capital with a thin white blanket.

Metropolitan officials said the dry spell had brought on an unusually large number of fires—an average of a dozen a day—and had created a water shortage.

Tshombe Invites Visit by Group

Senate Unit Is Asked to Investigate Congo Situation Firsthand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Katanga President Moise Tshombe has invited the Senate subcommittee on African Affairs to make an on-the-spot investigation in the Congo.

* * *

At least one member of the subcommittee thinks it's a good idea.

"I hope we do it but I'm not at all sure it will be done," Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., said in a television interview Sunday.

The subcommittee chairman, Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., announced Sunday receipt of the cabled invitation from Tshombe. He said the subcommittee would take up the question today and gave no indication if it would be accepted.

Dodd, who opposed U.S. support of U.N. efforts to integrate secessionist Katanga into the central Congolese government, also said Tshombe should be permitted to come to this country "to tell his side of the story."

* * *

Two weeks ago the State Department barred a Tshombe visit. The department said his absence from the Congo "would interrupt and jeopardize progress" toward Congo unification.

* * *

Tshombe was to have been honored in a New York rally by Young Americans for Freedom, Inc., a conservative youth organization.

4 More Escape to West Berlin

E. German Policeman, 3 Friends Shoot Way Through Barbed Wire

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berlin police today reported the escape of an East German border policeman and three of his friends across the East-West border.

* * *

They fled through barbed wire from the Soviet zone of Germany to the American sector of Berlin in a suburban area last Wednesday.

The policeman, Rudi Thurow, 21, gave details of the flight to the West Berlin newspaper B. Z.

Thurow told police he fled through the barbed wire first and covered the escape of his friends, two men and a woman, by firing 30 shots from his machine pistol over the heads of two Communist policemen who tried to halt them.

The two other policemen took cover and did not fire on the refugees.

Thurow was in charge of guarding the section of border through which he and his friends fled.

The flight was disclosed as the Communists carried out new evictions of persons living in border areas.

West Berlin police said strong police units evacuated well over 100 families from small homes in suburban areas on the border of East Germany and the American and French sectors.

Such evictions have been carried out since the Communists put up their wall on Aug. 13.

Blame Explosion of Furnace for Orion Home Fire

Fire caused by a furnace explosion resulted in an estimated $5,500 damage to a one-story frame home in Orion Township this morning.

An Oakland County Road Commission snowplow had to clear a path to the fire at 1656 Avalon St. for Orion Township fire departments 1 and 2. The side street was closed by snow.

The home owner, Archie McAlpine, said he heard an explosion in the basement shortly before 8 a.m. and saw flames shooting up partitions in the basement. Both he and his family escaped injury.

Fireman George Schick was hurt slightly when he stepped on nails in the burning house. He was treated by a local physician and released.

Firemen struggled with the blaze for two hours before subduing it. They pumped additional water from nearby Square Lake after draining water tanks for the equipment.

A Voice Asks and Gets Hat, Purse Worth $66

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—It was dark and raining, so Mrs. Gus Carman held her husband's new hat to keep it dry while he parked the car near their home. Then a soft voice in the rainy gloom asked for the hat and purse.

But, she told police, it wasn't her husband who had asked. She said the thief got about $50 in the purse. The hat cost $16.

January Business in City Makes 1962 Look Bright

If business and financial figures of the first month of 1962 set a pattern, this should be a big year economically for Pontiac.

Only construction and air travel showed any slump last month. Even such things as postal receipts, which took their annual nosedive after a big Christmas selling season, were well above totals for the same month a year ago.

Banks did more business through customers' checking accounts. People wrote some $62 million more in checks last month than in December and $6.9 million more than January 1961.

Bus patronage was at an all-time high and gas, water and electrical consumption were up considerably.

★ ★ ★

Figures indicating business trends for January were reported by Community National Bank, Pontiac State Bank, the post office, the city water and inspections departments, Consumers Power Co., Detroit Edison Co., Pontiac Transit Corp., and North Central Airlines.

Hearing Slated on Expansion of State Hospitals

Future expansion of Pontiac State Hospital — along with construction at Ypsilanti, Traverse City and Kalamazoo state hospitals — will receive a public hearing in the State House chamber at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

★ ★

The hearing was announced today by Rep. Arneli Engstrom, R-Traverse City, who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Engstrom said the hearing was sought by the Michigan Division of the American Association of University Women, which is plugging for construction of inpatient units for emotionally disturbed children.

Representatives of other groups also will get a chance to testify on mental health matters, he said.

★ ★ ★

The University Women are backing a measure to allocate $1.55 million for planning and a start of construction at inpatient units at Ypsilanti, Traverse City, Pontiac and Kalamazoo state hospitals.

★ ★ ★

A companion bill would appropriate $1.57 million for operation costs in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Fire Damages Home in Waterford Twp.

Fire early Saturday morning at a vacant home at 3600 Terrell Street, Waterford Township, resulted in an estimated $4,500 damage to the home.

* * *

Four units from the Waterford Township fire department answered the alarm turned in by a neighbor. The house which is owned by Richard and Alice Guy, has been vacant since Dec. 28.

A faulty floor furnace was cited by firemen as the cause of the blaze.

Broadway Theater Robbed of $16,000

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rivoli Theater on Broadway was robbed of $16,000 Sunday night by two men who left three theater employes bound with surgical tape. The audience was unaware of the off-screen drama.

* * *

Joseph Smith, assistant treasurer of the Rivoli, said he was leaving the theater when the two men accosted him. One of them drew a pistol, and they ordered him back into the building.

* * *

After ordering employes to open the safe and "pass over the money," the bandits fled, police said.

Ask Unit to Rule Space Network

Two Senators Urge Authority to Regulate Communications

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Democratic senators carried the historic fight over public vs. private ownership of utilities into the space age by calling for a government-owned satellite communications network.

The move was expected to come after both the House and Senate held a joint meeting to hear an address by astronaut John Glenn.

Senators Estes Kefauver, (Tenn., and Wayne Morse, Ore., planned to introduce a bill that would create a $500-million communications satellite authority. The principal and interest would be repaid from the system's proceeds. According to Kefauver, it would operate like the Tennessee Valley Authority.

President Kennedy already has asked Congress to create a privately owned corperation to operate the space communications system. The Senate Space Committee has scheduled hearings starting Tuesday on the administration measure and on one similar to it introduced by committee chairman Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma.

Kefauver, in a speech prepared for Senate delivery, described the field of space communications as a natural resource. He said the federal government "is the only entity in our country with experience in the operation of a worldwide communications system."

Noa's Officers, Men to Buy Freedom Bonds

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The Navy said Sunday each of the 280 officers and men aboard the destroyer Noa, which plucked astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. from the Atlantic Ocean after his space flight, has pledged to buy a freedom bond.

The men also have signed a telegram of congratulations to be sent to Glenn in Washington today.

Supreme Court Session to Go On Despite Glenn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Most of Washington's officialdom takes time out today when astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. is honored. But not the Supreme Court.

Today is court day and the justices intend to remain in session as the Marine lieutenant colonel takes his triumphant ride to the Capitol—just across the street from the court building.

Rain Breaks Dry Spell in Tokyo After 37 Days

TOKYO (AP) — Rain finally came to Tokyo Sunday night, ending a 37-day dry spell almost unprecedented for this time of year.

By midnight, the rain had turned to snow, covering the capital with a thin white blanket.

Metropolitan officials said the dry spell had brought on an unusually large number of fires—an average of a dozen a day—and had created a water shortage.

Tshombe Invites Visit by Group

Senate Unit Is Asked to Investigate Congo Situation Firsthand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Katanga President Moise Tshombe has invited the Senate subcommittee on African Affairs to make an on-the-spot investigation in the Congo.

* * *

At least one member of the subcommittee thinks it's a good idea.

"I hope we do it but I'm not at all sure it will be done," Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., said in a television interview Sunday.

The subcommittee chairman, Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., announced Sunday receipt of the cabled invitation from Tshombe. He said the subcommittee would take up the question today and gave no indication it would be accepted.

Dodd, who opposed U.S. support of U.N. efforts to integrate secessionist Katanga into the central Congolese government, also said Tshombe should be permitted to come to this country "to tell his side of the story."

* * *

Two weeks ago the State Department barred a Tshombe visit. The department said his absence from the Congo "would interrupt and jeopardize progress" toward Congo unification.

* * *

Tshombe was to have been honored in a New York rally by Young Americans for Freedom, Inc., a conservative youth organization.

A special compound of ydrazine, a hot-shot rocket fuel, may soon be available in family-sized packages to help slow the growth of grass. It has already been used successfully on golf courses and along parkways.

4 More Escape to West Berlin

E. German Policeman, 3 Friends Shoot Way Through Barbed Wire

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berlin police today reported the escape of an East German border policeman and three of his friends across the East-West border.

* * *

They fled through barbed wire from the Soviet zone of Germany to the American sector of Berlin in a suburban area last Wednesday.

The policeman, Rudi Thurow, 21, gave details of the flight to the West Berlin newspaper B. Z.

Thurow told police he fled through the barbed wire first and covered the escape of his friends, two men and a woman, by firing 30 shots from his machine pistol over the heads of two Communist policemen who tried to halt them.

The two other policemen took cover and did not fire on the refugees.

Thurow was in charge of guarding the section of border through which he and his friends fled.

The flight was disclosed as the Communists carried out new evictions of persons living in border areas.

West Berlin police said strong police units evacuated well over 100 families from small homes in suburban areas on the border of East Germany and the American and French sectors.

Such evictions have been carried out since the Communists put up their wall on Aug. 13.

Blame Explosion of Furnace for Orion Home Fire

Fire caused by a furnace explosion resulted in an estimated $5,500 damage to a one-story frame home in Orion Township this morning.

An Oakland County Road Commission snowplow had to clear a path to the fire at 1656 Avalon St. for Orion Township fire departments 1 and 2. The side street was closed by snow.

The home owner, Archie McAlpine, said he heard an explosion in the basement shortly before 8 a.m. and saw flames shooting up partitions in the basement. Both he and his family escaped injury.

Fireman George Schick was hurt slightly when he stepped on nails in the burning house. He was treated by a local physician and released.

Firemen struggled with the blaze for two hours before subduing it. They pumped additional water from nearby Square Lake after draining water tanks for the equipment.

A Voice Asks and Gets Hat, Purse Worth $66

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—It was dark and raining, so Mrs. Gus Carman held her husband's new hat to keep it dry while he parked the car near their home. Then a soft voice in the rainy gloom asked for the hat and purse.

But, she told police, it wasn't her husband who had asked. She said the thief got about $50 in the purse. The hat cost $16.

January Business in City Makes 1962 Look Bright

If business and financial figures of the first month of 1962 set a pattern, this should be a big year economically for Pontiac.

Only construction and air travel showed any slump last month. Even such things as postal receipts, which took their annual nosedive after a big Christmas selling season, were well above totals for the same month a year ago.

Banks did more business through customers' checking accounts. People wrote some $61 million more in checks last month than in December and $6.9 million more than January 1961.

Bus patronage was at an all-time high and gas, water and electrical consumption were up considerably.

★ ★ ★

Figures indicating business trends for January were reported by Community National Bank, Pontiac State Bank, the post office, the city water and inspections departments, Consumers Power Co., Detroit Edison Co., Pontiac Transit Corp., and North Central Airlines.

Hearing Slated on Expansion of State Hospitals

Future expansion of Pontiac State Hospital — along with construction at Ypsilanti, Traverse City and Kalamazoo state hospitals — will receive a public hearing in the State House chamber at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

The hearing was announced today by Rep. Arnell Engstrom, R-Traverse City, who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Engstrom said the hearing was sought by the Michigan Division of the American Association of University Women, which is plugging for construction of inpatient units for emotionally disturbed children.

Representatives of other groups also will get a chance to testify on mental health matters, he said.

★ ★ ★

The University Women are backing a measure to allocate $1.55 million for planning and a start of construction at inpatient units at Ypsilanti, Traverse City, Pontiac and Kalamazoo state hospitals.

★ ★ ★

A companion bill would appropriate $1.57 million for operation costs in the fiscal year starting July 1.

VALLEY CHAMPS — Wayne Lee, left, and Art Fowlkes won individual titles as Pontiac Central finished 4th in the annual Saginaw Valley Wrestling Tournament Saturday.

Two Chief Matmen Win Valley Crowns

Two Pontiac Central grapplers won individual championships and some others turned in some impressive showings but the Chiefs had to settle for 4th in the annual Saginaw Valley Wrestling Tournament held Saturday at Flint Southwestern.

★ ★ ★

Defending champion Flint Northern dominated the meet by gaining eight 1sts and a total of 107 points. Bay City Handy had one crown and 56 points, Bay City Central one titlist and 52 points, PCH totaled 50 placing 10 boys in the top four, Southwestern had 20 and Flint Central 15.

Art Fowlkes, a 112-pounder, and 165-pound Wayne Lee won Pontiac honors.

Fowlkes beat out Brent Knight of BCC in the finals after advancing on a bye and 2-0 conquest of a Handy star.

★ ★ ★

Lee edged Northern's Charley Broussard 4-2 for his championship. He defeated Handy and Northern boys earlier.

Charles Beevers, 133, was the next top Chief with a runnerup finish. He bowed to defending champion Wiley Viverette of PNH for the 2nd straight year. Three Chiefs were 3rd and four 4th. Tom Eichhorn and Joe Gaydos had the only Pontiac pins.

The winners and PCH finishers were:

95—Ernie Collins (FN) beat Tom Dunchance (BCC), 4-2. Gaydos 4th.

3 Michigan Teams in Hockey Playoffs

By United Press International

It will be nearly an all-Michigan show when the Western Collegiate Hockey Association playoffs get under way at Ann Arbor Thursday night.

★ ★ ★

Teams in the playoffs are Michigan Tech, Michigan, Michigan State and Denver.

Michigan completed its four-game sweep of Michigan State Saturday night with a 10-2 rout.

Red Berensen scored three goals for the Wolverines to push his total to 36 for the season.

★ ★ ★

The Spartans made the playoffs only by virtue of Minnesota's overtime loss to North Dakota, 6-3.

★ ★ ★

Michigan will get a non-league tuneup in Detroit Tuesday prior to the playoffs when it meets the West German National team at Convention Arena.

Waterford Hosts Kettering Tuesday

Kettering goes after its first basketball victory over Waterford Township Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

The Captains failed to handle the Skippers the first time around this season, and the outlook is about the same for the rematch at Waterford High.

Two parochial games are on tap tonight, twelve area contests highlight Tuesday's slate.

St. Frederick and Orchard Lake St. Mary are on the road tonight. The Rams face plenty of trouble at Detroit St. Hedwig. The Eaglets, who lost at home to St. Hedwig Friday, play at Ann Arbor St. Thomas.

Although Waterford will be favored, the battle betwen the township high schools should be close one. Kettering has shown steady improvement after getting off to a slow start.

The Skippers started well, but have been sputtering in recent contests.

St. Michael is in action Tuesday, hosting Mt. Clemens St. Mary. Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes faces a stiff home court test against Ferndale St. James. The visitors will have Tim Mulcaster, the county's top scorer, in the lineup. Richmond St. Augustine is at Farmington OLS.

Pontiac Emmanuel Christian will attempt to rebound from its 85-45 loss to Clintondale Friday against Lansing Boys Vocational. The Lancers will be at home for the second game with BVS. They won an earlier encounter at Lansing in overtime.

Bloomfield Hills will be seeking its second win of the season over Oak Park on the Redskins' floor. Oxford will be the underdog at Clarkston and Lamphere travels to Clawson.

★ ★ ★

Imlay City hosts Deckerville. It wil be the Spartans' final game of the regular season.

Other action Tuesday will have Mt. Clemens playing at Roseville, Fitzgerald traveling to Center Line, Lutheran East at Madison and Millington at Elkton-Pigeon-Bayport.

Flint Northern takes on Flint Central in a Saginaw Valley clash while Flint Southwestern is playing a nonleague game at powerful Saginaw High.

Cranbrook won its first Interstate League game Saturday, downing Nichols of Buffalo, 59-37. The Cranes led all the way.

★ ★ ★

North Farmington won its second overtime battle in as many nights. Livonia Franklin was the victim, 51-50, in three overtimes.

Calumet Horse Wins Widener

Yorky King at Miami; Santa Anita Handicap Won by Physician

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Around the barns at Hialeah today, they were still talking about how Calumet Farm's trainer Jimmy Jones gambled and won his second straight Widener Handicap Saturday with Yorky and how Johnny Sellers just missed making it two in a row.

★ ★ ★

Sellers, champion jockey last year, rode Yorky in the race but was aboard Dorchester Farm Stable's Carry Back this time and lost by a neck to Steve Brooks on Yorky.

It was Yorky's first victory since the 1961 Widener and Calumet's first stakes victory of the winter.

It was the eighth Widener for Calumet in 25 runnings and Yorky earned $87,620 to boost his winnings to $275,565. His sire, Bull Lea, won for Calumet in 1939.

Carry Back's share of the purse was $26,960 and that boosted the Florida-bred's total winnings to $897,758.

★ ★ ★

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Lightly-regarded Physician, whom jockeys figured was such a poor risk they didn't even bother to dicker a rider split for him, won the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap in an upset Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Jockey Don Pierce happily scooped up the $10,000 jockey fee all for himself.

The 5-year-old bay owned by Lynn A. Boice of Manassa, Colo., nearly scratched 3 minutes before the race at Santa Anita Race Track, came from behind to beat his stablemate, Olden Times, by 2½ lengths.

★ ★ ★

Four-and-Twenty, on whom almost half of the $619,413 wagered in the race was laid, finished third by a neck.

Before the race, Bill Shoemaker —on Prove It—and Alex Maese, riding Olden Times, agreed on a 75-25 split of the $10,000 jockey fee if either should capture the classic. They didn't count on Physician.

READY FOR REMATCH — Bill Bennett of Bloomfield Hills will take his customary spot in the starting lineup Tuesday night when the Barons play a non-conference rematch with the Oak Park basketball team on the Oak Park court. Bloomfield Hills won the first game at home, 55-33.

Mrs. Omelenchuck Upset by Teenage Speed Star

DETROIT (UPI) — Kathy Sullivan, 15-year-old schoolgirl from Cheboygan, yesterday won the Busch Memorial half-mile speed-skating championship by defeating Mrs. Jeanne Omelenchuck of Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Omelenchuck, a member of the 1960 United States Olympics team, clicked skates with Miss Sullivan as the pair entered the final lap. Mrs. Omelenchuck tumbled to the ice and Kathy was home free with the title.

★ ★ ★

Both are present North American champions and they were meeting for the first time in their careers.

Ski Title to E. German

ZAKOPANE, Poland (AP) — Helmut Recknagel, 25-year-old East German toolmaker, won his second straight world ski jumping title Sunday as he took the title on the 100-meter Krokiew Hill in a windup to the Nordic Championships.

The German, who won the world and Olympic title at Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960 and has taken at least eight major events since 1957, soared to victory on leaps of 103 and 98.5 meters (329.6 and 315.2 feet) and scored 241.4 points.

Nikolai Kamenski, 29-year-old Russian designer from Moscow, was second with 266.4 points after two best jumps of 97 meters (213.4 feet) each.

The bronze medal for third place was awarded to Peter Lesser of East Germany but 2 hours later the officials decided the position should have gone to Nillo Halonen of Finland. By that time Lesser and his teammates were en route home.

The organizers of the games refused comment but it was indicated the change was made after the figures were rechecked. Halonen had 224.5 points as Lesser dropped to fifth with 223.3. Fourth was awarded to Norway's 70-meter champion, Toralf Engan.

The four American competitors finished far down the list. Stephen Rieschl of Robinsdale, Minn., had two best jumps of 85.5 and 85 meters (280.21 and 278.10 feet). John Balfanz of Minneapolis had one leap of 89.5 meters (293.7 feet) and two others of 87 (285.5).

Jon Elliott of Steamboat Springs, Colo., soared 89 meters (292 feet) twice and Bill Erickson of Iron Mountain, Mich., turned in one of 89.5 meters (293.7 feet) and another of 87 (295.5).

2 Finnish Skiers Tops at Ishpeming

ISHPEMING (AP) — Two ski jumpers from Finland commanded the show in the Ishpeming Ski Club's annual tournament yesterday.

Pekka Tirkkonen and Timo Kivela, making their American debuts, finished first and second, respectively, in Class A with a total of four jumps of 200 or more feet.

Tirkkonen leaped 203 and 219 feet and scored 217.1 points. Kivela soared 200 and 223 feet in accumulating 216.4 points.

Dan Hillier of Ishpeming won in Class B with leaps of 171 and 183 feet and 182.8 points. Paul Johnson of Iron Mountain won in junior class with leaps of 194 and 205 feet and 203.5 points.

Refunds $5 Bounty Paid for Fox Kill

Michigan's controversial bounty system isn't worth a nickel to a sportsman from Detroit.

The man, H. T. Lebrenz, recently refunded his $5 payment for killing a fox.

In returning the money to the Conservation Department, he remarked: "I do not believe in the payment of a bounty for killing foxes — or any other game or alleged varmint species. We (he and hunting partner, Robert Sanders) hunt for sport and the killing of one of these animals is an extra dividend."

Why did Lebrenz accept the bounty fee in the first place? "To learn the procedure of collecting the bounty and to return the check so that this particular five bucks can do double duty," he explained.

After Opening Spurt

Stock Market Pattern Zigzags

NEW YORK (AP)—After a flurry to the upside, the stock market settled back into an irregular pattern early today. Trading was moderately active.

A spurt of rallings at the opening was accompanied by a late ticker tape, then the pace grew slower as early gains were cut or erased.

Boeing, up about a point, responded to a report of higher earnings.

Ford eased in the midst of news it plans to produce an inexpensive, U.S.-built Volkswagen-sized car. Chrysler was firm and General Motors dropped a fraction.

★ ★ ★

Steels were narrowly mixed as demand for steel was reported to be showing further indications of softening. Jones & Laughlin was a fractional loser. U.S. Steel was steady.

Outboard Marine was fractionally higher and in brisk demand. It was picked as a "stock for action" by a leading advisory service. Brunswick also showed renewed signs of life, gaining a fraction.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer continued its retreat of last week, losing more than a point. Litton Industries fell more than 2. Sweets Co. about a point.

★ ★

Rails recovered selectively. Illinois Central rising a point and Chesapeake & Ohio ⅝, as both stocks sold ex dividend.

Prices were mostly lower on the American Stock Exchange. Losses of about a point were taken by Syntex and Anken Chemical. Also on the downside were Loral Electronics, Kawecki Chemical and Giannini Controls.

Expect Car-Part Firms to Increase Earnings

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the leading automotive parts suppliers are expected to report higher earnings for 1962 than for 1961, Standard & Poor's Corp. says.

★ ★ ★

The statistical agency says the major factor behind the anticipated advance would be an estimated 22 per cent increase in domestic factory shipments of passenger cars to 6.75 million units from 5,523,000 in 1961 and a gain of about 19 per cent in truck production to 1.35 million units from 1,131,000.

Volkswagen Sales Up in U.S. During '61

NEW YORK (AP) — Volkswagen sold 203,836 cars, trucks and station wagons in the United States in 1961, a gain of 6.5 per cent over the 191,342 in 1960, the company reported.

Carl H. Hahn, general manager of Volkswagen of America, said the 1961 sales represented 46.8 per cent of all imported cars sold in the United States and 3.02 per cent of the total passenger car sales in this country.

700,000 Attend Show

CHICAGO (AP) — The 54th annual Chicago Automobile Show ended a 10-day run Sunday with the attendance of more than 700,000 a little below last year's record turnout.
