Fear Violent Reaction After Murder of Negro

By RELMAN MORIN

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — The grim potentialities for the whole nation in the killing of Medgar W. Evers, highly placed Negro leader, are particularly evident in the South today.

Southerners see the danger of strong Negro reaction setting up a strong counterreaction among the white populace and if that happens, as a southerner put it, "All hell will break loose."

Evers, Mississippi field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was shot in the back shortly after midnight Wednesday. He died 50 minutes later.

In the aftermath of his death, the outlook for the deeply aggravated struggle over civil rights in the United States appears to be taking these forms:

1. Increased aggressiveness among Negro organizations in the drive for full civil rights.

In numerous major cities, Negro leaders were in meetings. Telephone calls around the nation frequently brought the answer, "He is in conference."

After one such meeting, Arthur L. Johnson, Detroit NAACP official, said: "The result of Evers'

death will be intensification of the drive of Negroes to achieve what Medgar wanted."

'MORE MILITANT'

In Atlanta, Julian Bond of the Student Nonviolent coordinating Committee said: "I definitely think it will make Negroes more militant. People we have working for us in Southwest Georgia and in Arkansas now want to go to Jackson."

2. Several southerners spoke of the possibility of white counterreaction.

Louis Eckl, editor of the Florence (Ala.) Times, said: "This is the danger: that people will stop thinking and start shooting.

"Generally speaking when you have a violent thing like this it firms the Negroes up. It is a highly explosive situation and liable to cause them to become more extreme in their actions and thinking, and could lead to disaster."

Tension in Jackson Rises With Fear of Retaliation

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Scores of young Negroes waving American flags were arrested today minutes after they started a civil rights protest march toward the downtown area.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)— Police and federal agents continued their massive search for the assassin of civil rights crusader Medgar W. Evers as tension mounted in this troubled Southern city today.

"We have some good leads," said Jackson Detective Chief M. B. Pierce.

Evers was gunned down in the driveway of his three-bedroom home early yesterday.

There were fears the ambush slaying of the 37-year-old executive of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People would trigger bitter racial strife in this Mississippi capital city of 145,000.

The murder weapon, a 30.06 Enfield rifle, was found near Evers' home in north Jackson.

FIND FINGERPRINT

Officers said the rifle yielded at least one good fingerprint.

In Washington, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People asked Supreme Court Justice Black to stay or strike down an injunction issued by a Mississippi court to halt racial demonstrations in Jackson.

A temporary injunction against the demonstrations was issued June 6 by the Chancery Court of the First Judicial District of Hinds County.

In Huntsville, Ala., a 27-year-old Negro scientist engaged in government space age research enrolled without incident today in the University of Alabama system for postgraduate work.

British Tories Still Showing Outward Unity

But Reports Growing That Minister Loyalty Near Breaking Point

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan rode through the second day of crucial cabinet meetings over the Profumo scandal today with an outward show of Conservative unity.

But signs grew that loyalty of key ministers was near the breaking point.

A 75-minute meeting heightened the tension of the crisis facing the 69-year-old prime minister.

Rumors of resignations by at least four ministers were partly dispelled when two of them issued flat denials. The other two kept their counsel.

The Labor party's "shadow" foreign secretary, Patrick Gordon Walker, returned from a trip to Moscow and declared the vice scandal involving former War Minister John A. Profumo, required the prime minister's resignation.

"I think perhaps this is the last service he could do his country," Walker said.

His remarks set the tone for Labor's attack in a full-scale parliamentary debate Monday.

Rumblings from the cabinet meeting centered on Health Minister Enoch Powell, who steadfastly refused to deny the report he would quit over the moral issue of scandal in the private lives of men in high position.

The Evening Standard said Powell is on the point of resignation, and added this could start a landslide against the prime minister.

Reports spread through Whitehall that other men high in the party councils have been indulging in high life as was the disgraced Profumo.

JFK, Leaders Talk on Rights Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and congressional leaders of both parties conferred for an hour and 40 minutes today on the President's forthcoming special message on civil rights.

This session, which delayed a Kennedy appearance before a group of senior citizens, preceded still other civil rights conferences with former President Harry Truman and 154 labor leaders.

Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson met in the Cabinet room of the White House with 11 leaders of the Senate and House representing both parties.

The congressional visitors entered and left the White House by a back door, and did not talk to newsmen.

Andrew T. Hatcher, acting White House press secretary, said that Truman, in town for a dinner tonight, would see Kennedy late today.

Another former president, Dwight D. Eisenhower, conferred Wednesday with Kennedy.

The White House said they discussed the administration's forthcoming special message to Congress on civil rights legislation, and also civil rights in general. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson sat in on the 70-minute session.

PARTICIPANTS

Hatcher listed these participants in the bipartisan congressional meeting today.

★ ★ ★

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.; Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla.; Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La.; House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana; Rep. Leslie Arends, R-Ill., and Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich.

Representatives of organized labor were summored for a conference in the East Room of the White House—the locale for a similar meeting last week between Kennedy and 100 businessmen.

TOLD IN ADVANCE

The President told the labor leaders in advance that he wanted to discuss "difficulties experienced by minority groups in employment." He said this was a problem that "merits serious and immediate attention."

Mohawk Loses 'E' to Vandals

The problem of the "e" in Mohawke was eased somewhat last night by some antibureaucratic vandals who painted it right off the street signs.

On each of the street's five signs, where the "e" once was, there now rests a glob of white paint.

Apparently, the vandals couldn't wait for action by the city.

Presented with a petition by area property owners to take off the "e," the City Commission has referred the problem to City Attorney William Ewart for a legal opinion.

234 Graduate at Waterford

Commencement speaker Willard D. Cheek told the 234 Waterford Township High School graduates last night that the opportunity for future success lies in their "own back yards."

A senior research physicist with General Motors Research Laboratories in Warren, Cheek emphasized that a well-trained person will continue to be in as much demand in Michigan as anywhere else.

Speaking to the crowd of graduates, parents and friends assembled in the school stadium, Cheek denounced the growing concern of young people for security provisions in employment.

★ ★ ★

He told the graduates to forget the security factor, which he said is opening the door to socialism, and to set out in a career with an abundance of courage and initiative.

Old County Building Will Be Reopened

The Oakland County office building at 1 Lafayette will be reopened as an emergency solution to space problems, Robert E. Lilly, secretary of the County Board of Auditors, said today.

Lilly said an expanding County Planning Department will be moved into the first floor of the building by June 30.

There is a "strong possibility," he said, that other county departments will follow the planning department downtown.

★ ★ ★

He described the use of the building as only temporary, until accommodations can be made available at the service center.

The county presently is engaged in an over-all space study of its facilities. The study is expected to be complete in several weeks.

Lilly said the planning department is being expanded by six members June 30 to add a federal program to regular duties.

MADE AVAILABLE

The federal government has made $142,900 available for a survey of economic development in the county.

The survey will be carried on for an indefinite period.

"There just isn't enough room in the department's present quarters to carry out the job," said Lilly.

★ ★ ★

The 12-member planning department, headed by George Skrubb, presently occupies quarters in a county-owned building at 550 S. Telegraph, a mile and a half south of the service center.

The quarters are shared with the County Drain Commission and the Department of Public Works.

Lilly said moving the planners downtown will make badly-needed space available for the DPW and drain commission, which also are expanding to meet growth problems in the county.

WAS VACATED

The downtown office building was vacated by the county in February when departments were moved into a new courthouse wing at the County Service Center on Telegraph.

Since then, the downtown building has been used occa-

Cityhood Vote Set for Nov. 5

Board OKs Petition by Waterford Group

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors this morning approved Nov. 5 as the date for a special election in Waterford Township on whether the community should incorporate as a city.

With no regular election scheduled in the township until August, 1964, the board of supervisors' boundaries committee recommended the November date to the board to avoid undue delay.

Petitions for the cityhood election were filed with the county clerk's office last Dec. 4, following a campaign for signatures spearheaded by the Greater Waterford Community Council.

Township residents first became incorporation - conscious about a year ago when the Village of Union Lake filed similar cityhood petitions and announced plans to take a section from each of four surrounding townships including Waterford.

This led to the formation of the Waterford Township study committee on Aug. 13 and the subsequent action led by the GWCC to protect existing boundaries.

Location of Trial Changed in Slaying

Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer this afternoon ruled in favor of holding the murder trial of Adoise White and Charles E. Hodges in Kalamazoo Aug. 6.

Their attorney Milton R. Henry had sought the change of venue because he said, his clients had made statements admitting the crime on television and it would be impossible to get an impartial jury in Oakland, Wayne or Genesee counties.

White, 79½ Wall, and Hodges, 174 Prospect, both 22, are accused of the March 16 slaying of Robert A. Greene, 22, comanager of the Pontiac Mall Kroger store.

Asks Jail for 400,000 Reds

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Romulo Betancourt ordered the arrest of Venezuela's estimated 400,000 Communists and pro-Castro extremists last night following his escape from another assassination attempt.

Betancourt said three Communist terrorists plotted to assassinate him yesterday with a time bomb at the Roman Catholic archbishop's palace in Ciudad Bolivar, a river port 275 miles southeast of Caracas.

The president told a national radio audience that police nabbed two of the terrorists as they entered the palace with three sticks of dynamite and a timing device. The third plotter got away.

★ ★ ★

"Society cannot be subject to continued risk to property and life by a group of pyromaniacs and terrorists," Betancourt said in ordering Interior Minister Carlos Andres Perez, to start an immediate, nationwide roundup of members of the already-banned Communist and MIR parties. The MIR, or Movement of the Revolutionary Left, is a pro-Castro revolutionary movement.

★ ★ ★

The order was the toughest Betancourt has issued against subversives who began moving against him shortly after he took office in 1959. The next election is scheduled for November. The president has banned Communists from the election.

He has survived three previous known plots against his life and two revolts against his government. It is believed there were several other assassination attempts that never were announced.

Betancourt, noting that the government cannot hold anyone without charges for more than 30 days, vowed that every Communist will be jailed again as soon as released. Such 30-day periods of detention could go on indefinitely.

The president, a moderate leftist, said he ordered the arrests because the legislature was taking too much time to enact an antiterrorist emergency measure he proposed last week.

Act in Michigan for Equal Rights

LANSING (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, acting in response to President Kennedy's appeal for immediate action in the civil rights area, announced today a series of moves designed to insure the Negro equal rights in Michigan.

Kelley said, "The massive civil rights crisis facing our nation today must be acted upon in Michigan now. Every state official has an obligation to determine how he can best participate in this nationwide effort to meet the challenge of equality by lawful actions before understandable impatience results in a resort to unlawful means."

The chief moves, Kelley said would be:

- A conference Monday with white and Negro community leaders "to obtain their views on how law enforcement officials can assist in this crisis."
- "Short conferences next week in various parts of the state with prosecuting attorneys and other law enforcement personnel to urge stricter and more prompt enforcement of Michigan's Public Accommodations Act."
- A meeting with state and local level school officials "to discuss the difficult problems raised by allegations of de facto racial segregation in certain public school districts."
- Issuance of a formal opinion on the "scope of the new constitutions provision on civil rights. This opinion will outline what action may be taken under the new constitution, without the necessity of legislative implementation."
- "Close contact with the U.S. Department of Justice to assure state efforts are smoothly coordinated with the actions of the federal government in this regard."

★ ★ ★

Gov. George Romney praised Kelley's initiative in the civil rights field and said he too was planning an announcement today in this area.

Romney said his views about Michigan's position in the civil rights area would be expressed in a letter to President Kennedy.

"The letter will indicate how Michigan, I think alone among all the states, is in a position to move forward under our new constitution with a program of full and equal rights for all," Romney said at a news conference.

"A bullet in the back of Medgar Evers may very well find its mate in a bullet in the back of some white supremacists. When that happens, all hell will break loose."

3. Newly established lines of communication between the races in the South are under severe strain today, if not actually broken down.

In many Southern cities, moderates of both races have gradually been restoring communications in an effort to find peaceable solutions to the Negro demands for equality in the schools and in other facilities.

KEPT INFORMED

In Tuscaloosa, Ala., for example, the integration of the University of Alabama last Tuesday followed months of discussions.

They were initiated by prominent white Tuscaloosans. But Negro leaders were kept informed of the progress toward an agreement on enrolling two Negroes, Vivian Malone and James A. Hood, in the university.

These gains are threatened today.

4. Evers' death appears to be a severe setback for moderates of both races and an encouragement to extremists on both sides.

Robert Snodgrass, Georgia state Republican committeeman, said:

"Just as tension was beginning to lessen and an opportunity appeared for people of moderation to make headway, some demented soul makes it so difficult to bring about an improvement.

"This shooting provides fuel for extremists on both sides and prevents moderation from prevailing."

Both white and Negro observers said they believe the Black Muslims would "make immense capital out of this."

★ ★ ★

"It's made to order for them," a Negro leader said.

The Muslims are a Negro extermist organization which advocates complete separation of the races. Muhammed Elijah, their leader, told The Associated Press in Phoenix, Ariz., last week that the white man is "the essence of evil."

He became the third member of his race to enter the university this week.

At Tuscaloosa, 150 miles southwest of Huntville, students in increasing numbers were friendly to the other two Negroes, Vivian Malone and James A. Hood, both 20.

Meanwhile at the University of Mississippi 200 miles north of Jackson, at least one soldier — a 45-caliber gun strapped to his waist—was seen outside the dormitory housing two Negro students several times last night.

The soldier appeared to be on guard, observers said, although the Army withdrew its forces from the campus two days ago and insists no men were at Baxter Hall, where James Meredith and Cleve McDowell live, last night.

Meredith, enrolled at Ole Miss last fall under federal court orders as the university's first Negro student, yesterday called for a "general boycott of everything possible for all Negroes" in Mississippi.

★ ★ ★

Meredith, who described Evers as "one of my best and most beloved friends," was deeply shocked by the murder of the NAACP executive.

Part of the blame for Evers' death, Meredith charged, "clearly rests with the governors of the Southern states and their defiant and provocative actions."

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS

Arson in Maryland, a warning by New York City's acting mayor on alleged discrimination there and peaceful integration moves elsewhere were among other highlights of the U.S. racial scene.

At Cambridge, Md., fires flared in three buildings and a brief fight broke out in the third consecutive night of integration demonstrations.

State police said at least two of the fires in the small tidewater community were set deliberately. They broke out shortly after a Negro rally at a church.

New York City's acting mayor, Paul R. Screvane, warned that the city will halt construction of an annex to the city-owned Harlem Hospital if the AFL-CIO building trades unions do not act immediately to end any discriminatory practices there.

In Honolulu, the nation's mayors backed President Kennedy's plea for racial harmony by adopting yesterday a five-point program suggested by him — then added a sixth point themselves.

The arrest of a white man by a Negro police officer created a tense moment in Savannah, Ga., where more than 500 persons have been taken into custody during 10 days of antisegregation demonstrations.

The arrest took place last night at a downtown cafeteria entrance which was blocked by demonstrators.

In Danville Va., Negro leaders promised no letup in their two weeks of demonstrations to break down racial barrisrs.

"The jails are going to be filled," said the Rev. L. W. Chase, a leader of the demonstrators.

He called the announced plan of Mayor Julian R. Stinson to name an all-white committee to negotiate on the Negroes' demands "an effort to split the Negro community and it won't work."

Other departments likely to be moved downtown, said Lilly, are units of the welfare department and bureau of social aid and the probation department.

Moving the latter might be necessary to make room in the courthouse for the two additional Circuit Court judges, he said.

TO HIRE ARCHITECT

The County Board of Supervisors was to be asked today to hire an architect to find room for the new judges in the courthouse.

County officials expect Gov. Romney to appoint the new judges in September.

"It is possible that one of the new judges will hold court in the old supervisors' auditorium on the fourth floor of 1 Lafayette," Lilly said.

★ ★ ★

According to Lilly, making room for just one more judge at the courthouse would pose no real problem.

The courthouse was built to accommodate six circuit judges. There are five now.

The sixth courtroom is being used as a jury assembly room. The jury could be accommodated in the new auditorium wing when necessary, said Lilly.

★ ★ ★

"The judges advise us that a seventh judge could be fitted in by shifting him from one courtroom to another when available, otherwise, by holding court in the old auditorium," Lilly said.

Disclose Plan for Hospital

Announce Expansion for William Beaumont

A master plan which would expand William Beaumont Hospital into a major medical complex to meet modern concepts in medical care was disclosed today.

Owen R. Pinkerman, the hospital's director, revealed that future plans call for an adjoining education-research facility, a nursing home, a psychiatric ward and a privately owned doctors' office building.

Pinkerman commented on the long range plans after noting that bids for an immediate $8-million expansion program would be opened at the hospital next Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

The bid opening had originally been scheduled for yesterday but has been postponed until 2 p.m. June 18 at the request of contractors.

Construction contracts will cover the final phase of a three-year expansion program begun two years ago.

The $8-million project calls for adding five more floors to the present five-story building and construction of a seven-story wing to the north.

★ ★ ★

In his plans for the future, Pinkerman said the next step should be construction of an education-research facility which would be the first such institution in south Oakland County for training doctors.

Claims Alibi for Thorson

DETROIT (AP) — The defense contended yesterday that securities salesman Robert Thorson was at his Birmingham home at the hour when his mother-in-law was slain six months ago.

★ ★ ★

The exact time of Mrs. Dorothy Thomas' death became an important issue in the third day of Thorson's trial on a first-degree murder charge.

Thorson, 31, is accused of beating and choking the 62-year old widow in her Detroit home.

Dr. Gordon Murray, an assistant Wayne County medical examiner, testified he originally estimated that Mrs. Thomas died about 2 a.m. or 3 a.m. last Dec. 4.

Defense attorney Konrad Kohl said police verified that Thorson was at home during that time.

Dr. Murray said in direct testimony Tuesday "it was possible" that death had occurred as early as 11 p.m. Dec. 3.

Under cross-examination yesterday, he said the death hour is listed at 3 a.m. (Dec. 4) on the death certificate.

1st Gemini Is Due Off Output Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first Gemini spacecraft, designed to put the United States another step closer to the moon, is due off the production line this month.

★ ★ ★

It will be the symbol of the end of one era and the beginning of another in space flights.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration yesterday buried Project Mercury — the nation's pioneer manned space flight program — amid the mourning of astronauts and some Mercury officials.

With Mercury's end also came the resignation of Dr. Brainerd Holmes, head of NASA's manned space flight programs.

★ ★ ★

Holmes told reporters he was quitting for personal reasons including money. He said there was no connection between his resignation and the decision to end Mercury.

Ike Arms Envoy Cites Past Errors, Present Possibilities

HAROLD STASSEN

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Harold Stassen, who for years tried to negotiate a disarmament Union, says he favors President Kennedy's effort at a fresh start in this area. But he has words of caution and advice for the Kennedy administration.)

By NOAH HALPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Stassen says he favors President Kennedy's plan for a fresh start on trying to reach a nuclear test-ban agreement. But he places the chances of success at just 50-50.

Stassen was former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's special disarmament advisor and negotiator from 1955 t o 1958. In an interview with the Associated Press, Stassen, a Philadelphia lawyer, said some treaty ideas formulated in those years might be usable today.

★ ★ ★

"But I consider it urgent that President Kennedy should take a greater initiative towards armaments control," he said. "We must bring the arms race under competent control before it brings the human race into a cruel catastrophe."

Stassen outlined plans he said were drawn by top military and scientific advisors in 1955. They suggested starting with a zone of arms control in the Alaska-Siberia area because it was not—and, he noted, is not now—an area of great tension.

Under this proposal nuclear weapons would be barred and armed forces thinned and inspected by the United Nations.

This, said Stassen, "would provide essential experience in inspection methods. It would be a step small enough so that both sides could afford to take it, but it would be a big step on the difficult road to armaments control.

★ ★ ★

"It could lead to a second step of a zone in central Europe (from within the Soviet Union to within France) to reduce the armaments and lessen the dangers of war in that crucial area."

HINDERS TALKS

In the meantime, Stassen said, Kennedy's unilateral commitment to stop atmospheric nuclear tests with inspection hinders rather than helps negotiations with Premier Khrushchev.

Stassen, who once sought the Republican nomination for president said Kennedy's commitment takes away a Soviet incentive for agreement and "opens a temptation to them not to agree, but instead to take advantage of the United States moratorium, as they did a few years ago."

By contrast, Stassen described as "a bad move in the opposite direction from arms control" an earlier U.S. proposal to spread nuclear weapons throughout North Atlantic Treaty Organization members.

Stassen, who also dealt with the Soviets while helping draft the United Nations charter, said that the United States in its decision to halt atmospheric nuclear testing should remain ready to resume tests at once.

★ ★ ★

Throughout the interview, Stassen stressed that the United States should continue to work with the United Nations on control of armaments.

★ ★ ★

Any agreement with the Soviet Union, Stassen continued, must provide for free access of inspections and aerial photography, which he acknowledged would be touchy.

OFF THE TRACK

He placed at 50-50 the chances for success in the negotiations on the premise they would be skillfully and patiently conducted.

Stassen, asked why the gradual inspection agreement developed in the Eisenhower administration had not come to a successful conclusion, said that discussions in 1957 showed signs of getting an affirmative response. Then, he said, world problems, "the whole world picture," took the talks off the track.

Do the Soviets sincerely want a test-ban treaty? Stassen said that the United States and the Soviets both realize the devastation that would result from war—a theme sounded Monday by Kennedy in announcing his plans for the new talks.

Stassen said Eisenhower had warned then of the dangers to both nations should there be war. During a recess, said Stassen, Khrushchev and an interpreter approached Eisenhower. The Soviet leader asked if Eisenhower had meant "war means the end of civilization?"

Eisenhower, Stassen said, put his finger against Khrushchev's chest and emphasized that was exactly what he had meant.

Advances in weaponry, the situations in Viet Nam and Cuba and other world crises make this danger ever more imminent today, Stassen said.

★ ★ ★

Would Stassen be willing to lend his experience to the new talks?

"I don't anticipate being asked," he replied.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—The president-elect of the American Medical Association says there is no question in his mind that cigarette smoking is the greatest producer of preventable disease.

* * *

Dr. Edward R. Annis of Miami, Fla. emphasized in an interview with the Evening Bulletin Wednesday that he was speaking as an individual physician in warning against the health dangers of cigarette smoking.

But, he said he is "absolutely in favor" of a resolution which his own medical society is planning to present at next week's annual meeting of the AMA calling for a stepped up campaign of youth education concerning "respiratory and other diseases produced by cigarette smoking."

Annis was in Providence to address a luncheon sponsored by the Greater Providence Chamber of Commerce.

Parrot Gets Trust Fund

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A man who had no other survivors has left a $10,000 trust fund for his parrot.

In his will, Bert Gerard, a retired sales executive asked that friends care for the parrot, according to surrogate's court. The trust fund was left for care and custody of the bird.

Gerard left the bulk of his $147,800 estate to charity.

Greek Leaders Eye New Government

ATHENS (UPI) — Greek political leaders consulted today on the formation of a new government that would end the crisis caused by the resignation of Premier Constantine Caramanlis.

* * *

Caramanlis quit Tuesday in a dispute with King Paul, who rejected his premier's advice to call off a scheduled royal visit to Britain next month.

King Paul said a postponement or cancellation would be an affront to Queen Elizabeth and harm Anglo-Greek relations.

Bomb Scare Stops Jet With Aussie Premier

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A Qantas Boeing 707 jetliner taking Sir Robert Menzies, the Australian prime minister, to London returned to Sydney today after an anonymous telephone caller said there was a bomb on board.

A search produced no bomb, and the airliner took off again after a two-hour delay.

Governor's Approach to Tax Reform Is Good

Typical of the businesslike approach that Gov. GEORGE ROMNEY takes when he tackles a knotty problem is his series of meetings explaining the need for tax reform.

The first of these groups met with the Governor in Lansing Monday and had an opportunity to hear, first hand, his suggestions for fiscal reform.

Gov. ROMNEY pointed out eight plans, seven of which include an income tax. The idea behind the gatherings is to stimulate widespread discussion and let the people have a voice in calling the shot on what sort of tax reform they prefer.

The eight proposals that are up for discussion were developed by L. WILLIAM SEIDMAN, of Grand Rapids, who has been working as a special adviser on state fiscal problems for the Governor.

The fact that Michigan has suffered fiscal woes and needs reform is no secret. Further, it seems reasonable to believe that in the years just ahead we will need some new method to raise additional revenue, or we will simply be faced with cutting state services.

Too often in the past we have been told by both Democrats and Republicans that we needed this or that additional tax increase. Oftentimes the voters and the legislators have revolted.

We feel that it was the manner in which the tax increase was presented which contributed to failure.

Most people resent having something shoved down their throats. If they are consulted and proper salesmanship is used, half the battle is won.

★ ★ ★

The Governor is on sound ground by having finance men such as SEIDMAN and his committee studying our entire tax problem. The suggestions they have come up with were not developed overnight.

The advice of qualified experts in the field should go a long way in attempting to sell the people of Michigan on the need for tax reform.

★ ★ ★

Before the September session of the legislature meets, the citizens should be well informed of our tax problems, and their overall opinions should help the legislators solve this economic problem.

We heartily endorse the Governor's methodical plan.

Show Your Patriotism by Observing Flag Day

Old Glory is flown to commemorate many significant dates and to solemnize national and local governmental observances.

But, fittingly enough, this week the Stars and Stripes are themselves honored as the symbol of our country's freedom and democratic institutions.

Topping the week's salute to it is Flag Day, observed tomorrow.

It was in 1895 that June 14 was thus established in celebration of the anniversary of the adoption of the colors in 1777.

★ ★ ★

With half the world's population at point of starvation and the vast majority knowing only a tragically low mode of existence, our banner is emblematic of the universal hope for alleviation of want and advancement of the lot of mankind.

In the hearts of good Americans live three loves: of Deity; of family; of Country.

The church edifice and the home serve as concrete centers of abstract love of country has no such physical landmark — only the flag.

We humbly salute our Country's beacon for 186 years, and urge that every establishment and home give meaning to the day of our Flag—by flying it.

Tragedy Needed to Solve Bias?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—Events proved what President Kennedy acknowledged in his talk to the nation: that words are only a small part of the solution to the racial struggle.

MARLOW

Within 24 hours after he appealed for the support of all citizens in trying to end discrimination against Negroes, this happened:

A Negro leader was shot dead in Mississippi, three white men were wounded and two Negroes stoned in street fighting in Maryland, and Southern Democrats in Congress announced defiance to Kennedy's civil rights proposals.

Last September violence came even faster when Kennedy asked nationwide for peace in race relations.

That time, in the very midst of his request that James H. Meredith, a Negro, be quietly enrolled in the University of Mississippi, there was rioting on the campus against U. S. marshals and two men were killed.

The lesson seems plain from the events after Kennedy's two appeals to reason:

The search for equal rights for Negroes, even though they're entitled to them under the Constitution, will be long and probably bloody unless some great racial disaster, like a huge riot, shocks the nation into truly united action.

If that happens it will be a tragic commentary on America's inability to find through reason the long-delayed solution.

So far sudden death in racial disputes has come to one or two individuals here, another there. Each as it happened was a shock, a minor shock, which may have moved the nation but for the most part left it untouched.

'DOMESTIC CRISIS'

Kennedy made it clear in his address to the nation Tuesday night that he talked of the "domestic crisis" in the nation now and about the threat of violence and the threat to lives.

Negroes, afraid for almost 100 years to act on their own in protest in the white-dominated world of the South, have discovered that when they act together, and in masses, they must be listened to.

What may come out of this new and sudden realization of strength is unpredictable. For when they see one of their nonviolent leaders murdered, as in Mississippi, the other nonviolent leaders may be hurled aside for more direct action.

Yet, the Southern Democratic senators in Congress sound now as if this were back in the days of the 1940s when Negroes were still unsure and unorganized and offered no danger to the Southern whites determined to keep segregation.

Wednesday, before Kennedy even sent his new civil rights proposals to Congress, 18 Southern senators met and then their leader, Richard B. Russell of Georgia, had some words to say.

He angrily denounced Kennedy's talk to the nation and what he called the administration's appeasement of Negro demonstrators for civil rights.

He pledged a powerful Southern Democratic fight—meaning, of course, a filibuster —against Kennedy's civil rights proposals although the administration apparently hasn't finished drawing them up.

For years Russell has been the South's captain in the Senate in filibusters and protests against civil rights legislation. This was true in President Truman's time and in President Eisenhower's, too.

Kennedy, through his whole administration up to now, has tried to keep the Southern Democrats pacified. If they didn't get mad at him, they could be helpful on other legislation besides civil rights.

This explains one good reason why he hasn't, until now, made any fight for truly strong civil rights laws. If the critical increase in racial tensions hadn't happened now, he probably would not be pushing so strongly.

David Lawrence Says:

JFK Violated Federal Statute

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy completely disregarded the words of a Federal statute when he federalized the militia of the State of Alabama on Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Congress passed a law a number of years ago which was formally revised on Aug. 10, 1956, stating that the National Guard could be called into Federal service whenever the United States "is invaded or is in danger of invasion by a foreign nation," or whenever "there is a rebellion or danger of a rebellion against the authority of the government of the United States," or whenever the President "is unable with the regular forces to execute the laws of the United States."

LAWRENCE

This same law — Section 3500, Title 10 of the U.S. Code—defines explicitly how the state militia shall be federalized. It provides that the President "may call into Federal service members and units" of the National Guard of any state, but says that "orders for these purposes shall be issued through the governors of the states."

Inquiry at the office of Gov. Wallace at Montgomery, Ala., has brought forth the information that Mr. Wallace did not receive any order from the Federal government to federalize the militia of the State of Alabama.

What happened, of course, was that the Federal authorities sent the order directly to the state militia and bypassed the governor.

★ ★ ★

But this is not what the law requires, nor does it carry out the spirit of the Constitution itself in relation to the use of the militia of a sovereign state, as the governor, of course, is the commander-in-chief of the militia.

'NOT REBELLING'

The governor of the State of Alabama, moreover, was not "in rebellion" against the Federal government, but simply testing a court order to determine its constitutionality.

★ ★ ★

The proper procedure for the Federal government was to have U.S. marshals serve an order on the governor.

If he refused to obey it, the Federal government could carry out the usual legal processes to bring him to trial on contempt charges. If he were convicted, then punishment would be meted out by the court.

President Kennedy, in his address to the nation on Tuesday night, made quite a point of the importance of conforming to law.

He himself, however, had just disregarded not only the statute in connection with the federalization of the militia, but also — as pointed out in these dispatches yesterday — another Federal statute which specifically forbids the use of either the army or the state militia as a "posse comitatus" to execute court orders.

The only way that a court order can be legally enforced is by United States marshals. If the marshals are attacked and an insurrection against the United States government ensues, the President would then have authority to call in federal troops.

The President's proposal for "civil rights" legislation in connection with segregation is the first that has been proposed by a chief executive since the Supreme Court in 1954 ordered desegregation of the public schools under the 14th Amendment.

There has been a lengthy debate among lawyers generally as to whether a Supreme Court decision is adequate to force desegregation, and President Kennedy has at last accepted the view that legislation is necessary.

If Mr. Kennedy's proposals now are adopted by Congress, they certainly will be in conformity, in a procedural sense, with that section of the 14th Amendment which mentions only Congress as having "the power to enforce by appropriate legislation" the provisions of that amendment.

Bob Considine Says:

Dalliance of Miss Keeler Can Gravely Affect Britain

NEW YORK — Most of the discussion about the malodorous Profumo case centers around what will happen to the men in Christine Keeler's life and to the Macmillan government and the prime minister himself.

CONSIDINE

But it is a bigger story than that. The dalliance of this babe could seriously affect Anglo-American relations, Britain's posture in the burgeoning European economy, the United Kingdom's rating as a military power and the future of the Commonwealth nations.

The No. 2 man among Britain's Socialists, George Brown, gave this correspondent a blunt run-down in April on the changes the Labor government would make when it took over — as Brown was sure it would at that time. He must feel much surer now.

The Labor government, he said, would cancel the agreements whereby the U.S. Strategic Air Command maintains bomber bases in Britain. It would hasten the dismantling of the IRBM bases which now have 60 Thor missiles in place, thermonuclear-tipped and capable of reaching 75 per cent of all Soviet Union cities of more than 100,000 population.

The Wilson government, which seems to be about to ride into power on Miss Keeler's skirts, or lack of same, would cancel the deal whereby the U.S. agreed to sell as many as 100 Polaris missiles to Britain and assist the British in the construction of their own Polaris-type submarines.

There is general agreement that Brown himself missed the leadership role in his party because the most radical elements within it swung to Wilson — and therefore are expected to exert heavy influence on him when and if he takes over.

Labor in Britain has ranged from indifferent to hostile toward Prime Minister Macmillan's attempts to lead his nation into the Common Market.

If labor prevails and the effort to gain admission is dropped, the economic isolation of Britain will be intensified.

A Britain without a Common Market tie would be bound to have difficulties in time with the Commonwealth nations. A left-of-center Britain, speaking in the United Nations and elsewhere, would find itself growing away from the United States and spiraling toward a closer relationship with the Soviet Union and Red China.

The only individual calculated to come out of this sorry mess smelling like a rose is the Soviet spy who had late dates with this "femme fatale" after War Minister Profumo left the flat.

He'll probably get the Order of Lenin if, in the end, the case dumps a great Western nation into the Socialist camp.

In Washington:

JFK's Peace Speech Inspiring

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Kennedy's commencement "remarks" on world peace at American University in Washington were directed to other audiences than the one which heard him.

EDSON

To all college graduates just starting out on their chosen careers, it was a message of inspiration. War and annihilation are not inevitable. Peace and world rule through law are attainable if human beings put their mind to it. This theme made the President's foreign policy statement important.

To Russia's Chairman Nikita Khrushchev and the Communist Party Central Committee which convenes in Moscow June 18, President Kennedy's speech was a challenge:

Change your ideology from world conquest and domination, to an effort to end the arms race and devote its massive sums to combating ignorance, poverty and disease.

★ ★ ★

To extremists who in recent months have been voicing loud opposition against suspension of nuclear testing and a test ban treaty, the President made a clear statement of his determination to work for both, as first steps toward general and complete disarmament.

To the American leaders in Congress who only recently made a sorry confession that they did not know what American foreign policy was, the President recited its major objective.

It is an answer they should have known, for it is fundamentally the same policy that guided the Eisenhower administration and the Truman administration, too.

In re-examining American policies on the Soviet Union and the cold war, the President gave two main objectives:

". . . persevere in the search for peace in the hope that constructive changes within the Communist bloc might bring within reach solutions which now seem beyond us.

". . . convince the Soviet Union that she, too, should let each nation choose its own future, so long as that choice does not interfere with the choices of others."

★ ★ ★

The President's opponents are sure to rail against both of these approaches as appeasement or surrender. But the President did make clear his insistence on American security:

"We can seek a relaxation of tensions without relaxing our guard . . . the United States will make no deal with the Soviet Union at the expense of other nations and other peoples."

The President's announcement of a unilateral suspension of atmospheric nuclear testing is not the first such offer. President Eisenhower made a similar announcement in 1958, for the general moratorium on testing, which the Russians broke.

★ ★ ★

American risks in suspending tests now are considered much less than they were five years ago. Detection techniques have been greatly improved and there is little chance that the Russians might try to resume secret testing in the hope that they could get away with it.

Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman will head the United States mission to Moscow for test ban talks with the British and Russians in mid-July.

This may throw the United Nations disarmament talks at Geneva into recess. These negotiations have been going on since last January, with little evidence of progress.

★ ★ ★

But out of these talks has come agreement between the United States and Russia for establishment of the "hot line" between Washington and Moscow.

This is considered an important development to increase communications between the two capitals. The aim is to avoid delays, misunderstandings and misreadings of each country's intentions in time of crisis.

These are considered first, faltering steps toward disarmament and peace. It is recognized that progress in resolving differences will be made slowly, step-by-step.

Realistically, says the President, "if we cannot now end our differences, at least we can help make the world safe for diversity." Which is to say for democracy, too.

Voice of the People:

'Michigan Needs Romney for Another Term'

A few months ago the whole country was aware of the political and financial dilemma our state was in. Then came Gov. Romney who has done much to change this picture already.

★ ★

For the first time in years we hear of the possibility of reducing the state debt without increased taxation. No wonder national GOP politicians are crying for him to be their candidate in 1964. He would certainly be a strong and qualified contender.

★ ★

But Michigan needs so much more of his leadership that we hope and pray he will resist the national temptation for at least one more term.

In my humble opinion, history will call George Romney a great statesman, the man who put people ahead of politics.

Readers Debate Pontiac as Racer

In answer to George B. Ally, Pontiac Motor would like to be back in the racing business, I assure you.

★ ★ ★

Most American car owners are interested only in buying an oversized engine mounted in a gold-plated bathtub with marshmallow suspension. That is why Ford used the Lotus chassis and body at Indianapolis. If we are interested in real racing, not drag racing, we all must realize that the emphasis should be not entirely upon developing an outsided engine, but upon the performance and durability characteristics.

★ ★ ★

Incidentally, George, why not, as you say, "ballyhoo" our performance as being better than any other automaker's? It is.

Robert L. Richmond
Development Engineer
Ford Motor Company

The so-called dynamic Pontiac cannot get in racing simply because it does not have the precision and performance that Ford does. At Daytona Beach, four Pontiacs led for 250 miles but started burning oil and finally dropped. At Atlanta "600" the same thing happened.

★ ★ ★

As far as Ford announcing it would no longer abide by the 1957 safety resolution, at least it was announced.

★ ★ ★

I own a new '63½ Sports Hardtop, and from talking to friends who bought Pontiacs I think they should start building cars again.

A Ford Lover

I agree with George Ally in regards to putting a Pontiac on the race track. As a proud Pontiac employe and owner, I'm sick and tired of hearing and reading about Ford's Lotus.

Pontiac has a great car and a great engine. It's high time we step out and show this Ford our dust.

Country's Restaurants Getting Better

By HAL BOYLE

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—My country's restaurants, 'tis of thee I sing.

Today you're making life a pleasure for the weary, wayworn traveler.

BOYLE

Remember when it was said there were only three cities in the United States where a man could get a decent meal—New York, New Orleans and San Francisco?

Remember when ketchup was the all-American food, because it was used from coast to coast to cover up culinary horrors? It was the only thing that tasted the same everywhere—but it took a strong man to shake it out of the bottle.

★ ★ ★

Only a generation ago the well-equipped motoring tourist needed a stomach pump as much as a tire pump. He didn't need to climb a mountain to find adventure. All he had to do was stop at a roadside Bide-a-Wee or Dew Drop Inn—and order the blue plate special.

A gastronomic map of America would have shown it to consist largely of a vast desert where the natives took revenge on passing strangers by insisting that they partake of local grub.

ITS OWN WAY

Each region had developed its own way of ruining good food.

In New England they boiled a piece of meat until it disintegrated. In the South they tossed it into a kettle of boiling lard until it gave up and sank. In the West and Southwest they fried it until you couldn't tell it from boot leather. In the Midwest they used all three methods.

★ ★ ★

The great camouflage material, besides the every ready ketchup bottle, was gravy. It flowed over the cook's errors in a thick, clabbered, impenetrable—and indigestible—flood.

The greatest mystery in the land, aside from what happened to Justice Crater, was what went into restaurant hash and meat loaf. One thing rarely found—flavor.

NATIONAL SALADS

There were only two national salads—soggy cole slaw or limp lettuce drowned in bacon grease. If you asked for anything but apple pie or rice pudding for dessert, you were put down as finicky—and a troublemaker.

In many a small town the only reliable places to eat were in a home or the local Elks' Club. Sometimes the only way the Rotarians survived was to throw away the limber lamb served at their weekly luncheons and concentrate on the mint jelly.

★ ★ ★

All that is changed today. There has been a quiet revolution in American eating habits.

"I never trust a man who isn't interested in good food," William Allen White once said.

If the culture of a country is measured by the quality of its food, America is on the upbeat in this respect. More and more of our people know what good food is, enjoy it, and demand it.

'GREASY JOE'

The "Greasy Joe" type of place, run by a guy in a dirty apron, is on the way out. In practically every community of any size across our broad land there are restaurants now where a man can belly up the fine, well-cooked, tasty meals of endless variety that are an ecstasy of the palate and a joy to the soul.

If a man uses ketchup it isn't because he has to—it's because he actually likes it.

★ ★ ★

How can you tell a good restaurant? My test is tea. There is only one way to make good tea. With boiling water. If the waitress brings you tea lukewarm as a loan shark's handshake, get up and flee that place as if it had a hex on it.

Remember, the stomach you save will be your own.

Illuminated sidewalks can be made of steel tiles that glow by electroluminescence.

CD Shelters at Universities to Be Stocked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fallout shelters at five Michigan universities will be stocked with food and water, a Michigan State University professor has reported.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Leon Weaver, testifying before a House Armed Services subcommittee, said Wayne State University, Central Michigan, Western Michigan, Northern Michigan, and the Michigan College of Mining and Technology were the five deciding to lay in a supply of food and water.

Three others, University of Michigan, Michigan State and Ferris Institute also have student shelters but aren't stocking them, Weaver said.

Weaver testified on behalf of the Universities Committee on Civil Defense, a national body.

Weaver cited ". . . overriding importance to providing whatever civil defense protection can be provided to our young people."

★ ★ ★

The shelters will be stocked with two-week supplies of nonperishable foods and sealed containers of fresh water, at no cost to the schools. The schools must only provide the space for stocking the supplies.

The controversy with England over "taxation without representation" led the colonists to withhold from their Continental Congress the power to collect taxes.

Davis Cup 'Reserves' in 1st Round for U. S.

Junior Editors Quiz on MT. FUJIYAMA

QUESTION: Why is Mt. Fujiyama sacred to the Japanese people?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The Japanese have always felt very close to things in nature. Their early religion was a kind of nature worship, in which they called certain things "kami" meaning "above," "superior" or "divine."

Great men could be "kami," also mountains, plants, sun and moon, animals. Among "kami" things, mountains were important, because they suggested the idea of loftiness.

Mythical beings were supposed to inhabit mountain tops, and the Japanese loved to go up the mountain sides in summer and pray from some shrine high up.

Among these mountains, Fujiyama was preeminent. The Japanese call it Fuji-san, "The Matchless Mountain." They point out that almost everything in nature, including man, is imperfect in some way—almost everything, except Mt. Fuji.

Fuji's wonderful cone rises in perfectly symmetrical graceful sweeping lines. It is so high its top is above the clouds; with it's majestic snow white cap, it seems to float in the air, a symbol of perfection, of heaven. So the Japanese have taken their Fuji-san as a sacred symbol of perfection.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Study the small picture. It is from a woodcut by the famous Japanese artist Hokusai and shows a huge wave towering in the sky. But can you find a picture of Fuji worked into the design? Hokusai drew the sacred mountain many times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin, United Nations Secretary General Thant and Secretary of State Dean Rusk were awarded honorary degrees today during Harvard University's 312th commencement.

Gamblers Anonymous

Compulsive Better Can Find Refuge

(EDITOR'S NOTE —This third of four dispatches on gambling describes one man's experience with Gamblers Anonymous.)

By HARRY FERGUSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Telephone directories in many big American cities have listing of "Gamblers Anonymous". This organization is the last refuge of the compulsive gambler, the man in whom the urge to gamble has become so strong that he is a psychiatric case.

The other day I looked up Gamblers Anonymous in the Washington telephone book and dialed Regent 7-6800. Ninety minutes later I was sitting in a parked car talking to a compulsive gambler who found his own salvation while poised on the dark brink of suicide.

The "Anonymous" in Gamblers Anonymous means what it says. No member of the organization is allowed to reveal his identity or that of any other member in a newspaper story, a magazine article or a television broadcast.

★ ★ ★

They are trying to make new lives for themselves, many of them hold good jobs and they don't want anybody to rake up the past and use it against them.

"Just call me Ed W.," said the man sitting next to me in the parked car. "I know I'm cured now and it wouldn't hurt me personally to be identified, but it's the rule of our organization.

"I'm retired now and have a small income. But I'm still paying off my gambling debts so I've taken a part-time selling job. I might as well be frank about it, I was a compulsive gambler for 30 years.

"Any kind of gambling. Horses, craps, cards, roulette, but mostly at the horse tracks. I don't think I missed a track in the United States, and I figured out the other day that I must have lost between $75,000 and $100,000.

"Anyway, a couple of years ago I owed about $10,000. I had done everything. Sold my war bonds, borrowed from the banks, put my life insurance in hock.

"I don't know why my wife stuck with me. We don't have any kids, and I would be away from home days at a time. Sometimes I would play a triple header right here in the Washington area.

"I would go to the races at Bowie in the afternoon and then to Shenandoah where they had night racing.

★ ★ ★

"If I had any money left I would get back to Washington around 2 a.m. and look up a card game. I knew where to find it.

"Sometimes you win, but most of the time you lose. Once I had a big day at the Pimlico track and won $6,000. I owed money all over the place, but it never occurred to me to settle up with my creditors.

"I was saving that $6,000 to gamble some more and eventually my bookie got all of it. I lost it all in four days.

"That was my last stop. I began to develop suicidal tendencies. There wasn't much communication between me and my wife.

"I went to a clergyman and a doctor, but they didn't seem to help much. Then one day my wife was reading in a magazine, something about gambling called a tiger on his back, and it told about Gamblers Anonymous.

GETS CURED

"She called them up and took me to a meeting. I listened to those men tell about their troubles. Don't ask me to explain how it happened, but right there in that meeting I got cured.

"I haven't touched a card or been to a race track since. I'm still in debt for about $5,000 — this car isn't even fully paid for—but I'm cutting down the debt all the time.

"And, brother, do I feel like a new man. I'm really living now for the first time.

"As long as I live I'll never forget April 6, 1962. That's the day my wife took me to Gamblers Anonymous."

★ ★ ★

Psychiatrists know compulsive gamblers are sick men and they have all sorts of fancy names and explanations for the ailment.

Ed We doesn't know about those things, and his explanation is simple: "You just don't give a damn about anything except gambling. Day and night it's the only thing on your mind and nothing else matters."

National headquarters for Gamblers Anonymous is in Los Angeles (address: P.O. Box 17173), and it was founded in 1957 by Jim W., who previously had been a member of Alcoholics Anonymous.

★ ★ ★

There are no dues and the organization exists entirely on voluntary donations. A financial statement for last February showed expenses of $747.67, which left the headquarters $300.42 in the red for the month.

★ ★ ★

Happy Autographing While Rocky Stumping

NEW CITY, N. Y. (UPI) — Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, wife of the New York governor, was busy signing autographs in New City while her husband was on a political swing through Rockland County.

The former Margaretta (Happy) Murphy signed her name "Happy Rockefeller."

Chloroform was developed for the first time in 1831.

Homework for Teens Seems Bit Overdone

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

Whenever a 15-year-old girl had a test coming up in high school she would get ready for school, but would be unable to eat any breakfast. She would cry, saying she had a stomach ache, and she would look really ill.

Two doctors could find nothing wrong with her. She missed 39 days of school, and the most a pupil can miss and still pass is 40 days. Then it happened again. She had a history test due, for which she studied far into the night before.

Her mother says she is a normal girl, plays and studies and, on weekends only, attends parties.

★ ★ ★

This case reminds me of the statement made by a member of the faculty of one of the best medical schools in the country. He said the medical school had abolished midterm and final examinations.

Teachers observing students day by day knew without any such farcical tests which students merited promotion or passing and which did not.

I don't know how it is in high school today, and I haven't time to investigate, but I remember how it was when I was in high school 65 years ago. Principal and teachers made a pretty grave ceremony of the midterm and final examinations and kept most pupils in a dither for a week or so in advance of the ordeal.

★ ★ ★

A pamphlet on "Stage Fright and Examination Jitters" is available on request if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope and, of course, sign your request.

FEAR DENTIST

Some persons suffer an agony of terror when they have to visit the dentist. I'm pretty craven — always hollered before I was hurt — but I have no fear of the dentist, because I have learned by experience that, no matter what he has to do, the dentist will not hurt me at all, he's so skilled in local anesthesia.

Some dentists prescribe two grains of amytal (a barbiturate) to be taken two hours before going to the dentist, to calm excessive fear.

Many high school pupils (they make a noise like students) pass my home on the way to and from school. They seem to carry armfuls of books, not only on the eve of a test but day by day throughout the school term.

The boys generally take it easy, carrying one or two books or none. The girls, however, make a travesty of it, toting a great armful of books, and what's worse, carrying the load like a woman expecting — a habit which tends to cause swayback and flat chest.

★ ★ ★

The physical education department in high schools should devise a system of credits and penalties to encourage pupils to carry their books knapsack fashion, a habit which promotes good posture.

Being as old as Methuselah, I am unable to understand why high school pupils should do so much homework anyhow. I remember some of the girls took a book home nearly every day, and maybe a boy did so occasionally, when I was in high school.

But I do not remember that they did better in classes or examinations than pupils who were not so all-fired serious about study. Not boast, but just as a pertinent comment I may mention here that I seldom cracked a book out of school hours, but I was among the top 10 per cent of my class when I graduated from high school — the class numbered 12 pupils.

WEEK TOO LONG

Now if you have quite finished, I'd like to add that I sincerely believe a 25-hour school week is really too long for a normal teenage boy or girl — if the time in school is devoted to proper study.

To pile on top of that several hours of homework is in my opinion tantamount to admitting that there's something wrong with the public school system.

One thing that is wrong with it is the corny burlesque of varsity football staged annually by every high school with enough pupils to make a team and put on a leg show between the acts — as drum majorettes and cheer leaders.

Pep sessions, rehearsals and fund-raising affairs to buy uniforms and equipment for the team take at least 10 per cent of the 25-hour school week — but who cares? The pupils will be glad to do more home work to compensate for the loss of school time.

I pick on high school football for the same reason I pick on tonsillectomy — because high school football kills too many boys and tonsillectomy kills too many children. That your child doesn't happen to be a victim scarcely sanctions high school football.

Some teachers maintain that homework keeps boys and girls out of mischief. It may conceivably do so in some instances, but it flouts parental authority and scarcely justifies inflicting homework on all pupils.

A capable teacher may make a pupil a student, and the student may choose to pursue his favorite subject out of school hours. That, I think, is highly commendable.

But if the big load of books we see pupils carrying to and from high school indicates the amount of homework they are required to do, high school routine should be drastically revised.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Ex-British Navy Chief Succumbs in Taxicab

LONDON (AP) — Viscount Cunningham of Hyndhope, 80, British World War II naval chief in the Mediterranean, died in a taxicab Wednesday. Born Andrew Browne Cunningham, the admiral was known affectionately in the Royal Navy as "A.B.C." He was knighted in 1939, became a baron in 1945 and was made a viscount in 1946. He joined the navy in 1898, became admiral of the fleet in 1943 and was appointed first sea lord and chief of naval staff later that year, serving until 1946.

Atlanta Integrates Five White Pools

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Negroes went swimming at five previously white pools Wednesday as the city's 12 public pools opened for the first time on a desegregated basis.

Only one incident was reported by police, a fight between a Negro and a white youth behind a pavilion some distance from the pool at Maddox Park. Both were in street clothes at the time.

Police Supt. Fred Beerman said he attached no significance to the incident.

'Labor to Fight Flat-Rate Tax'

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan AFL-CIO President August Scholle yesterday informed Gov. George Romney that Michigan labor will fight the idea of a flat-rate state income tax "with every resource at our command."

Romney said in Lansing that he had received the letter from Scholle. Scholle had been invited to meet on tax matters in Romney's office yesterday, but Scholle said he found it impossible to attend.

"The Michigan AFL-CIO favors a progressive income tax with realistic exemptions," Scholle said. "Since the . . . new state constitution prohibits a graduated income tax, exemptions . . . are the only way some semblance of equity can be achieved in a state personal income tax structure."

Scholle quoted a U.S. Department of Labor estimate that a family of four must pay about $6,000 annually to meet decent minimum living standards. "This translates into an income tax exemption of $1,500 . . . for each dependent," Scholle said.

Negro Ministers in Detroit Plan to Join Parade

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Baptist Ministers Conference, the city's largest group of Negro ministers, said yesterday some of its members will participate unofficially in a downtown Detroit parade June 23 in support of Negroes' rights.

The 200-member conference took no official stand yesterday on the "Walk to Freedom" program being planned by the newly formed Detroit council for human rights.

The Rev. A. L. Merritt, president of the Baptist group, said, however, that "many of our pastors plan to lead their congregations in the program.

* * *

The Rev. C. L. Franklin, president of the new council, said about 40 pastors in the conference had pledged to take part in the march.

Petroleum Industry Blasts Michigan Freeway Sign System

LANSING (AP)—The State Highway Department's regulations on gas, food and lodging freeway signs have drawn sharp criticism from the associated Petroleum Industries of Michigan—and the department has indicated it will reconsider the policies.

★ ★ ★

"Present state policy on roadside signs seriously hampers the oil industry, the motel industry and the food industry from giving the motorist good service," the association said in a statement this week.

"In fact, the sign policy seems to actually discourage services to the motorist and leaves the strange tourist with a feeling of being completely abandoned in a hostile countryside."

Highway Department regulations allow posting of gas signs when the station is within one mile of the interchange and food and lodging signs when the distance is three miles or less.

★ ★ ★

The businesses are also required to be open 24 hours a day.

The association statement said a major problem in locating sites for new stations is securing sufficient signs on the freeway.

A survey showed that 126 new service stations have been built within the one-mile limit of the freeways and that 125 more will be built within two years.

★ ★ ★

It also indicated there are at least 139 more stations within three miles of interchanges.

FRUSTRATING DRIVERS

The statement said, "the state's enigmatic roadside sign policy is frustrating the driver in finding what he seeks.

For instance, the oil industry has been moving like crazy to provide its portion of these services but finds itself constantly hampered by what we can only describe as impractical, unreasonable or whimsical policies on signs and intersectional business location."

John Murray, director of the Motorist Services Division of the highway department, said the department would be willing to look again at its policies regarding the posting of gas signs.

★ ★ ★

Murray told a newsman that the growth of gas and food services near interchanges is helping to solve the problems.

He said public acceptance of present sign policies has been good for the most part, and said the department had received only about 20 mailed complaints about gas signs in the past year.

Noting that many portions of the freeways are less than one year old, Murray said, "we have not had a full measure of experience on these roads, and we are willing to discuss the problems."

But he did term "not workable" an association request that brand names of gasolines be posted on the signs to aid drivers with credit cars.

"Our judgment is that we'd have an outcry from competing stations that were in sight of the identified ones," Murray said.

Bad Publicity Forces Solon's Aide to Quit

MADISON, Mic. (AP) — Frank Campenni, 33, who held a $14,596-a-year job as chief aide to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., while a full-time graduate student at the University of Wisconsin, resigned yesterday.

★ ★ ★

In a letter to Wisconsin's senior senator, Campenni said that although he felt the arrangement was perfectly proper, the resulting unfavorable publicity convinced him that the situation may be used in an attempt to damage Proxmire politically.

HIRED IN AUGUST

Campenni was hired by the senator last August. After criticism at home became open, even within party ranks, Proxmire took him off the public payroll in April, returned to the Treasury the salary paid Campenni and announced he would continue to pay Campenni's salary out of his own funds until his aide completed work at the university this month and joined him in Washington.

★ ★ ★

After the resulting publicity, the university ordered Campenni to repay a $500 student loan.

Campenni said that he plans to return to teaching English at the university's Milwaukee campus.

Milford Troubled by Water Woes

MILFORD—Right in the middle of a paradox, this city is attempting to modify two troublesome situations.

One — low water pressure in the northern part of the city is created by the relatively high elevation of the area.

The other problem is caused by the swampy lowlands and low drainage areas which surround Milford, creating a natural breeding place for mosquitoes.

The Village Council this week considered both problems and took action to make the summer more pleasant for Milford residents.

TO EXPAND PUMP

First of all, the booster pump at the corner of Summit and First is being expanded to meet the demands of hot, dry spells like last week's.

* * *

Then, in about four or six weeks, a second pump will be installed to carry the load during normal periods.

The original booster pump was installed last year to supply more water to the neighborhoods that are on approximately the same elevation as the village water tank.

"This was its first crucial test," Village Manager Donald G. Weidner said.

* * *

Weidner noted that the pressure was "inadequate for people who are trying to take a shower, do their washing and sprinkle their lawns at the same time — especially if their neighbors are doing the same."

SHOULD SOLVE PROBLEM

"When the second stage is in the existing pump, it should supply enough pressure for any predicted demand that this area would have," Weidner said.

* * *

About 400 homes will benefit from the $2,200 expansion program.

* * *

While not financially participating in the spraying program, the city will act as a middleman between residents and the Harrison Tree Service of Royal Oak.

The service, which uses trucks equipped with hydraulic hoses, charges $5 to $8 per lot, depending on the size, Weidner said.

Agreement with 95 to 98 per cent of the property owners in a section is required for the spraying. Petition forms will be at the village office by Friday.

Weidner said effectiveness of the program is dependent on the weather, but one spraying could last up to six weeks.

Certain shrubs are known to be sensitive to the wettable powder - base spray, which has DDT, malathion and chloridane as its active ingredients, he said.

However, the bushes will only turn brown for a short time and then "come back to life."

* * *

The manager also warned that children should not be allowed in the area during the spraying. In some cases, the spray can cause nausea or a rash.

Weidner hopes the spraying can be established as an annual program.

"If the response comes through like we hope it does, we will aim for the first two weeks of July for the spraying, although it should be done a little earlier next year," he said.

Dean Gets New Post at College

ROCHESTER—Lucien Palmer, academic dean of Michigan Christian Junior College, has been appointed vice president of the school.

* * *

The appointment, announced by president Otis Gatewood at the recent MCC spring rally, was approved at the last meeting of the college's board of directors and is effective immediately.

Palmer will serve as both dean of the college and vice president until a new academic dean is selected, on or after Sept. 1.

In making the announcement, Gatewood said, "It gives me personal satisfaction to have vice president Palmer working closely at my side.

"I feel that with his leadership in the internal operation of the college, we can build a greater and better Michigan Christian College."

Palmer is a former president of the Nashville Christian Institute, Nashville, Tenn. He lives at 123 Nesbit.

Bureau to Give Program

GOODISON — The East Orion Farm Bureau will sponsor a Voice of America program at 8 p.m. today in the Oakland Township Hall.

Ready Event in Holly Twp.

HOLLY TOWNSHIP — July 4-6 will be a jolly time here, but right now the 125th anniversary celebration is in the stage of planning, and hard work.

Businessmen who wish to display merchandise should contact Merritt Cooley, display booth chairman. About 19 spaces are still available. The display area will be south of Bush Lake covering Park, Thomas and Rosette streets.

Organizations and individuals who want to participate in the parade should talk to Ted Creque, parade chairman, as soon as possible so the parade formation can be drawn up.

Jeep owners can drive in the parade if they contact Bill Henry at Bill Henry's Service.

Village Treasurer Hulda Anderson has a simple, inexpensive pattern for a gingham shawl and bonnet for ladies who want to make their own costumes.

NEWS OF THE AREA

Baker-Koster Vows Repeated in Utica

MRS. JAMES F. BAKER

UTICA — Trinity Lutheran Church was the setting Saturday evening for the wedding of Kathryn Jean Koster and James F. Baker.

Rev. W. Leroy Biesenthal officiated.

* * *

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin A. Koster, 12500 Hall. The bridegroom is the son of Frederic A. Baker of Detroit and Mrs. Edward H. Lindeman, 47401 Eldon.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white silk organza with detailing of Alencon lace and a detachable chapel train.

A seed pearl and crystal crown held her elbow-length veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of Stephanotis and white miniature carnations accented with ivy.

Mrs. Elmer H. O'Banion of Fraser was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaid was Barbara Arthurton of Rochester.

On the esquire side, Elmer H. O'Banion served as best man. Ushers were Dennis Hoey of Allen Park and Donald Parrott and Michael Stetser, both of Utica.

A reception was held at the UAW Hall in Sterling Township after the ceremony.

Following their honeymoon in New York City and the Catskill Mountains, the newlyweds will reside in Lincoln, Neb., where the bridegroom is stationed in the Air Force.

Oxford Unit Vetoes Sewage Project

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — The Township Board last night rejected a four-community sewer project proposed by the Village of Lake Orion.

"We are not ready to participate in the sewage project because only part of the township could use the plan," Mrs. Nina Chamberlain, township clerk, said today.

In other business last night, William Offer, 1239 Seymour Lake, was appointed to the board to replace Stanley J. Allen, now living in Florida.

TRIO OF BEAUTY — Dayle Desy, 18, was chosen last night to reign over the 17th annual Utica Lions Club's Fourth of July celebration. The brown-eyed brunet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Desy, 8925 Kidley, Utica. She is flanked by her maids of honor, Adrienne Castle (left), 17, of 42260 Utica, Sterling Township, and Mary Moyer, 17, of 45055 Platt, Utica.

She's Dayle Desy

Miss Utica Is Picked

UTICA — New Miss Utica, Dayle Desy, whose birth certificate identifies her as Dale, says she added the "y" to her name "so people could tell I was a girl."

* * *

Dayle — or Dale — was having no trouble last night.

Her femininity came through for her as she won the coveted title.

A brunet with clear brown eyes, and just a few freckles scattered across her nose, Dayle was chosen from a field of eight candidates to reign at the 17th annual Lions Club Fourth of July festival.

The 18-year-old beauty was graduated from St. Lawrence High School a week ago.

ASSISTS DENTIST

She now holds a full-time job as assistant to Dr. Ralph Dudek, a Utica dentist who has employed her on a part-time basis since last October.

Dayle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Desy, of 8925 Kidley, Utica. She is 5 feet 2 and weighs 110 pounds.

The new queen was presented with a dozen roses by Miss Utica of 1962, Irene Haydens, also a St. Lawrence graduate.

Dayle's maids of honor are blonde Adrienne Castle and Mary Moyer, who has light brown hair. Both are 17.

Adrienne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Castle 42260 Utica, Sterling Township, and Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Moyer, 45055 Platt, Utica.

* * *

Highlight of the queen's reign will be her appearance in the place of honor on a Fourth of July float.

The parade will kick off the three-day festival.

Contestants last night were rated on beauty, poise and personality as they were interviewed by master of ceremonies Doug Vokes, president of the Utica Lions Club.

Judges were Warren Bracken, new deputy district governor of the Lions Club; Maurice Vincent of the Mt. Clemens Monitor Leader; and Pat McCarty, of The Pontiac Press.

* * *

Other candidates for the Miss Utica title were Nancy Remer, Caroll Routenberg, Judi VanDenBulke Karen Willert and Sandra Kaczor.

CAROL RAE BYERS

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Byers, 413 W. Third, Rochester, announce the engagement of their daughter Carol Rae to Patrick H. Ketterer. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Ketterer, 2888 Hickory Lawn, Avon Township. A Sept. 21 wedding is planned.

Sienna Heights Group to Hold Potluck Dinner

ROCHESTER — The Sienna Heights College Alumnae Association, Oakland chapter, will hold its last meeting of the season at 8 p.m. Saturday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Connor, 745 Romeo.

A potluck buffet dinner is planned. Husbands and other guests will be welcome.

At Church of Christ

Married in Walled Lake

WALLED LAKE — Elaine C. Hackett and Frank Stanley Pruse were married Saturday evening in the Walled Lake Church of Christ.

Mr. and Mrs. Berkley N. Hackett, 7559 Jewel, are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Mercer, 825 N. Pontiac Trail.

MRS. FRANK STANLEY PRUSE

The bride wore a princess line gown with a chapel train in white silk organza. Lace appliques decorated the skirt and neckline.

* * *

A veil in the illusion bouffant style was attached to her cap of orchids and roses.

Donna Allen, Valparaiso, Ind., was maid of honor. Other attendants were Christine Westjohn, Orchard Lake; Pamela McDonald, Flint; Laura Aker, Detroit; and Janet McCloud, Lafayette, Ind.

Serving as best man was Warren Hall, Orchard Lake. The guests were seated by Roger VanAlstien, Orchard Lake; Bernie Wagers, Walled Lake; Jon Hackett, Walled Lake; and Jerry Suggs, Detroit.

A church reception followed the wedding.

Dixie Senators Ready Fight on Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern senators are girding for an all out fight against President Kennedy's civil rights measures, particularly a bill their chief spokesman denounced as "a step toward statism."

★ ★ ★

Eighteen Dixie senators—all of them Democrats except Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex.—canvassed the situation at a closed meeting Wednesday in the wake of President Kennedy's appeal to the nation on civil rights Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., the leader of the group, told newsmen afterward that they are "very bitterly opposed to legislation that would further impinge on the right of private property in this country."

PLANS TO SUBMIT

He was referring to a bill that Kennedy plans to submit to Congress next week to prohibit stores, hotels, restaurants and theaters from discriminating against Negroes.

Russell, denouncing this as "a step toward statism, a socialistic state," said a law of this kind had been invalidated by the Supreme Court in 1875 as an unconstitutional restriction on the use and control of private property.

★ ★ ★

While Russell directed most of his fire against this measure, he said the Southerners also would battle against empowering the attorney general to bring school desegregation suits.

"Such a vast grant of power no good man should want and no bad man should have," he said.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

In other developments on the turbulent civil rights scene in Washington:

—Southerners in Congress were reported ready to launch a "slow-down" campaign against Kennedy's legislative program in an effort to hold off a showdown on civil rights legislation.

★ ★ ★

—The President called in 200 leaders of organized labor to discuss civil rights, the problem now carrying top priority at the White House.

—A House Judiciary sbucommittee hears a report on racial violence in Jackson, Miss., from Aaron Henry, Mississippi state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He was a close associate of Negro leader Medgar W. Evers, slain Tuesday night.

ASSAILED ATTEMPTS

Russell assailed what he termed administration attempts to appease civil rights demonstrators and urged that the President and his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, speak up for law and order.

If they would "lend half as much encouragement to local law enforcement officials as they do to the demonstrators," the demonstrations would fall of their own weight, said Russell.

Asked about threats of nationwide Negro demonstrations if a filibuster is launched against civil rights legislation, Russell said they "will have no effect on me except to strengthen my resolve to defend the Constitution."

He said that they might "frighten a few weak-kneed people" but that those who would be intimidated have no place in government.

PROGRAM IN JEOPARDY

Russell also indicated, in response to questions, that the forthcoming civil rights battle in Congress could jeopardize other parts of the President's program.

"I don't think he is going to help his program by trying to frighten members of Congress into passing this legislation," he said.

★ ★ ★

Referring to Kennedy's address, Russell said he was "shocked to hear the President justify, if not encourage, the present wave of mass demonstrations."

"The President's speech appealed eloquently to the emotions but completely disregarded reason, human experience and true equality under the Constitution," Russell said.

Says Widow of Slain Negro

Determined to Carry On Battle

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mrs. Medgar Evers told a solemn, silent crowd of 700 Negroes last night she was determined her husband's midnight murder would not be in vain.

The widow of the slain integration leader, her voice trembling, asked the group meeting in an African Methodist Episcopal Church to carry on his fight against racial discrimination.

★ ★ ★

"I come here tonight with a broken heart," said the 30-year-old widow.

"But I come because I feel it is my duty. I come to make a plea."

★ ★ ★

As she spoke, women and young girls cried into handkerchiefs. Grown men wept unashamedly.

"No one knows like I know how my husband gave his life for this cause before he was killed," she said. "He lived with it 24 hours a day.

TALKED OF DEATH

"This day was the first time he had been home for some hours during all of this. He talked of death and said if he had to go he would rather it would be this way."

★ ★ ★

Pausing briefly, apparently to fight back tears, Mrs. Evers continued, "I am left without the comfort of a husband . . . but I am also determined to pick up where he left off."

As she ended her brief talk, the audience rose silently in a show of support.

Although the meeting was one of the nightly rallies to encourage the civil rights crusade, there were no "freedom songs" this time. No cheers. None of the exuberance shown at other mass meetings.

To such a meeting had Medgar Evers gone Tuesday night, shortly before he was assassinated.

The Negroes lined the walls of the church, overflowed the balcony and crowded three abreast in the center aisle last night.

★ ★ ★

They began singing. Their rich, melodic voices rang out, "My country 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty."

MRS. MEDGAR EVERS

Warns of Killing's Effects

DETROIT (AP) — The chairman of the executive board of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said yesterday the slaying of Medgar Evers in Jackson, Miss., may lead to "uncontrollable action" if the killers are not apprehended immediately.

The Right Rev. Stephen Gill Spottswood of Washington, D. C., made the statement at the annual meeting here of the Michigan Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church.

Unless the murderers of Medgar Evers are brought to justice promptly," he said, "his assassination may trigger the pent-up fires of uncontrolled masses who have known nothing but oppression and discrimination all their lives, who are hurt to their hearts by the cowardly slaying of one who championed their cause."

Bishop Spottswood termed the killing "an example of the ruthless futility of race hate in Mississippi," and said it was "tragic fruit" of Gov. Ross Barnett's "attempted interposition."

"The slaying of Mr. Evers will not stop the pursuit of full democracy in Mississippi," he said.

Leader's Death 'an Outrage'

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. yesterday described the murder of Medgar Evers, a Mississippi integrationist leader, as an "inexpressible tragedy and unspeakable outrage."

★ ★ ★

But King, leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference called on Negroes to continue their nonviolent strategy for integration.

"Nonviolent resistance," he said, "is more powerful than other measures in the struggle for human dignity."

Expelled for Threat

BASEL, Switzerland (AP) — Two Israeli agents have been expelled from Switzerland after a Swiss court convicted them of threatening a German scientist, Dr. Paul Goercke, who is developing missiles for the United Arab Republic.

Hart Defends Bias Ban Against Southern Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Northern liberal today hotly defended President Kennedy's civil rights program against a Southern senator's charge that it was a "step in the direction" of communism.

"Surely most Americans agree that an American citizen in the uniform of his country can expect to be served a cup of coffee," said Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich. "I just don't equate that with socialism."

Hart was defending Kennedy's television appeal to the nation for support of civil rights against Sen. Richard D. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Southern bloc.

★ ★ ★

Hart told a reporter that "Like most Americans . . . I was proud of his courage and moved by his plea." He said Kennedy's voice was "the voice of American aspiration wholly consistent with the democratic system."

Russell, with tacit approval of Southern colleagues who met with him for 90 minutes, accused Kennedy of "using threats of mass violence" to pressure his civil rights program through Congress.

Russell's attack drew from Hart, sponsor of civil rights legislation of his own, a counter-promise of "wholehearted support" for the administration civil rights package, expected next week.

★ ★ ★

Hart said a Negro soldier, "ordered to a region with segregated schools, has a right to expect — 10 years after the Supreme Court has spoken — to have his children not be segregated."

★ ★ ★

Asks Negroes to Use Their Voting Power

DETROIT (UPI) — Senate Majority Leader Stanley G. Thayer, R-Ann Arbor, urged Negroes Wednesday to use their massive voting power to win civil rights legislation in Michigan and Washington.

The GOP caucus leader told members of the Crispus Attucks Club here that the Negro vote is not used to the fullest. "As a result, both parties have dragged their feet in the civil rights arena," Thayer said.

Only a coalition of Democrats and Republicans can produce stronger civil rights bills in Lansing, he said.

He said open occupancy and Civil Rights Commission bills failed for lack of a coalition of interests in the house after both measures passed the senate.

★ ★ ★

"The politician must enact legislation that will protect the civil rights of all citizens," Thayer said.

Romney Counters Swainson Criticism on Fiscal Reform

LANSING (AP) — Having sat through the first three of some 20 citizens' "briefing sessions" on fiscal reform, Gov. George Romney suddenly has found a need to clarify his position on the touchy topic.

In a counterattack to criticism by former Gov. John Swainson, and in the second of yesterday's two briefings with the leaders of influential organizations, Romney asserted:

● The meetings with citizens are neither a study, nor an effort to have Michigan's eight million residents come up with a tax program.

● He is aware, in considering tax reform, that the state is not meeting its "moral and legal responsibilities" to provide services in several areas.

Swainson, in a Detroit press conference, assailed Romney's program of meetings with the leaders of important groups and later with community leaders, saying the approach "indicates Romney may have no program of his own."

The ex-governor, who suffered through two fruitless years of wrangling with the legislature over the same problems now confronting Romney, said the latter's intent appears to be, "to study the problem which everyone knows has been studied to death."

★ ★ ★

In response, Romney said he has no plans to make more studies of fiscal and tax overhaul because "nobody has indicated a need for further study."

RECAPITULATION OF STUDIES

His presentation of fiscal reform issues to the citizens' groups includes a recapitulation of the many studies already made in recent years, the governor said.

"Nobody, thus far, has been able to provide the leadership to get a fiscal program adopted. Swainson has little basis of success on which to criticize what is now being done," he commented acidly.

Romney said he felt a misleading impression had been created that the people of Michigan are being asked to provide a tax program.

"That isn't what we're doing," he said. "I've never said I am developing a program by going to the people."

In outlining his "citizen participation" approach, Romney has said the briefing sessions in the next two months would be an "education program" aimed at presenting facts and alternatives for revising the tax structure.

★ ★ ★

"We welcome suggestions and comments, but merely doing that is quite different from asking the people to give us a program," he said yesterday.

Romney still has not indicated whether he will offer a plan in bill form to the legislature or simply draw broad outlines of what is needed as a framework for legislative action.

★ ★ ★

While emphasizing yesterday that "The worst thing that could happen to Michigan would be to slip back into a deficit position," Romney encountered some undercurrents of opposition.

'NEED REFORM'

"There is no question that we need tax reform for present services, but just to maintain present services does not solve our problem," said Paul Silver, spokesman for the Wayne County Board of Supervisors.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Edward Latulip, of the American Association of University Women (AAUW), added that although Michigan has emerged from its critical financial period, "some crises remain and must be recognized" in various areas of state service.

Romney said the data compiled by his staff to explain the need for fiscal reform is "understated — to the extent that we need added services."

He told Silver that as governor, he was concerned about the state's inability to meet its "moral and legal" responsibilities and would not want to be a party to such a situation.

"We should either meet these needs or change the responsibilities," he said.

★ ★ ★

Other groups in the second meeting yesterday were the Michigan Municipal League, League of Women Voters, Michigan Association of Supervisors, and the City of Detroit.

Earlier, Romney shrugged off as unimportant the fact that two of the state's most influential labor leaders turned down his invitation to a briefing session.

★ ★ ★

He said he did not regard the failure of Michigan AFL-CIO President August Scholle and UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock, to show up as a "snub."

Even without them, Romney said, the meeting was worthwhile.

Both Scholle and Woodcock sent letters outlining the position of their organizations toward fiscal reform.

Woodcock's was the more strongly worded, pointing out that the UAW's views were sought by Romney but "not seriously considered" in the development of the controversial Ford-Canton strike benefits legislation.

The union leader implied that the labor body was not eager to get involved in a similar situation on fiscal reform.

★ ★ ★

Romney said the UAW's points on Ford-Canton were considered, "and in some cases embodied in the legislation."

Truck Driver Is Killed

DETROIT (AP) — A dump truck driver was injured fatally last night when he was hurled from his careening vehicle. Police said Theodore Lee Stanford, 45, of Detroit, lost control when he swerved to miss an oncoming car.

Girl, 7, Killed on Walk

ALPENA (AP) — Seven-year-old Theresa Johnson was struck and killed by a car yesterday while walking near her home 19 miles south of Alpena. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson.

Dems Agree Not to Take New-Con Tally Into Court

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's new state constitution can become effective Jan. 1 without legal argument, Democrats have agreed.

The Democrats, after seeing the recount show only a slight change in the vote of approval, said they would not make a court test of the tally.

The original margin of approval of 7,829 was cut by 397 votes in the three-week recount that included all but six of Michigan's counties.

The first deduction was put at an even 400 votes. Since then, the secretary of state's elections division said, some clerical errors have been discovered to cut off three votes.

CANCEL OUT

This meant that Democrats — now on a campaign to raise $100,000 within 100 days — can cancel out about $10,000 they put up for the recount.

Democrats posted a certified check for $9,450 to count 1,890 precincts and then put $5 cash on the line for one more precinct.

As soon as the election results are certified by the Board of State Canvassers, the money will go back to the counties, which receive $5 for each precinct recounted.

There was still some doubt whether the Coordinating Committee for the New Constitution, which had filed a counter-petition on the recount, would get back the $515 it put up for 103 precincts.

"It depends on whether the Board of State Canvassers rules that it is a separate recount request or a counter-petition," said elections director Robert Montgomery.

The canvassers scheduled a meeting for June 21 to decide the issue.

Higher Education Unit Names 2 Appointees

LANSING (AP) — Two appointments to the Michigan Higher Education Authority have been announced by Gov. George Romney.

★ ★ ★

Louis Haga of Grand Rapids was named to succeed Homer Hilton Jr. of Marquette. Carl Anderson of Ypsilanti was reappointed.

Both will serve four-year terms expiring in 1967. Senate confirmation is required.

Gets Engineering Post

Discouraged Brazilians Look for Leadership

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS — AP SPECIAL REPORT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) —It's easy to get discouraged in Brazil these days.

It's hard to be optimistic while you wait for hours in lines to buy food which daily costs more.

It's difficult to get excited about economic recovery plans when your salary buys less and less each month.

★ ★ ★

"What we need is a good dictatorship," says laborer Joao da Silva, 30, a father of three who makes about $30 a month. He says many of his neighbors and co-workers feel the same way. They want leadership.

★ ★ ★

Joao isn't worried about losing his democratic freedoms and he isn't particularly interested in communism. He is interested in how he's going to feed and clothe his family.

'NEVER GETS DONE'

"The way it is now, the president can't just up and do what needs to be done," says Joao. "He has to ask Congress and a big fight gets started and it never gets done."

The Brazilian government's efforts to solve this nation's financial problems have been hampered by continuing internal political and economic pressures, unrest in the armed forces and a slow-moving Congress.

Despite the ambitious aims of the three-year economic recovery plan, the cost of living in the first five months of 1963 has shot up 25.5 per cent, according to preliminary unofficial figures of the semi-official Getulio Vargas Foundation, compared with a 14.3 per cent increase for the same period last year.

The price climb leveled off in April and May to about 4 per cent after hitting a peak of 9.7 per cent in March.

The problem for the low-income worker is that the big increases recently have been in areas of basic necessity such as food, clothing and medicine. Clothing last month took a 14.1 per cent jump.

POSITIVE SIDE

On the positive side, Finance Minister Francisco Santiago Dantas, the strong man of President Joao Goulart's Cabinet, says a new $60-million credit released by the International Monetary Fund will take care of Brazil's balance of payments problems for the remainder of the year.

Dantas and other Brazilian economists interpret the credit as a demonstration of confidence in Brazil's efforts to combat inflation and achieve stabilization.

Goulart meanwhile has informed a labor union group that he opposes any attempts to put strike pressure on Congress to speed up action on reform legislation.

WANT STRIKE

The leftist-dominated unions want to call a general strike to hasten congressional action on agrarian reform.

Despite the gloomy outlook at the moment, there are long-range signs of great promise for South America's largest nation.

Brazil's steel industry is becoming an important economic factor. New mills are constantly increasing steel production.

Sao Paulo's industry appears to be coming out of a slight recession.

★ ★ ★

A highway has been opened linking Bahia in the poverty-stricken northeast with the industrial south. Another highway linking the capital, Brasilia, with Belem in the north is nearing completion.

Brazil has often been called the "sleeping giant of the Americas." The optimistic see the nation's current struggles as the first tossings of the giant as it awakens. The darkness they believe is the dark before the dawn.

Killer Tiger Is Hunted by Thailand Expedition

BANKOK, Thailand (AP)—A hunting expedition has been sent to track down a man-eating tiger which already has claimed two victims in Thailand's southern Chumphorn Province, the newspaper Bankok World reported yesterday.

The report said the tiger has killed two villagers.

A paper bath towel is said to absorb 10 times its weight in water and to be strong enough to wring out for reuse.

Bill Provides Free Tuition

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Children of four Alabama men who died in the unsuccessful Cuban Bay of Pigs invasion would be given six years of free college education under a bill in the Alabama House.

The bill, introduced Tuesday, covers the children of Thomas Willard Ray, Leo F. Baker, Riley W. Shamburger and Wade Carroll Gary, all of Birmingham.

★ ★ ★

The government has not said how the men died or for which governmental agency they worked, but President Kennedy said earlier this year that they died in the interest of their country.

Recommends Income Tax for Michigan

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The Republican chairman of a legislative committee on economic growth has recommended a state income tax in a fiscal reform program he sent to Gov. George Romney's office.

* * *

Rep. Gilbert E. Bursley of Ann Arbor yesterday proposed a 3 per cent tax on personal income and a 5 per cent levy on corporation profits.

He estimated the taxes would yield about $350 million a year, with $240 million coming from the individual income levy.

Bursley also suggested a cut in property taxes, saying this could be done by returning 1½ cents of the 4 cent sales tax to local units of government.

To help the business community, he proposed that the business activities and intangibles taxes be dropped, and the corporation franchise and beer taxes be reduced.

Unit Votes to Reopen Insurance for Veterans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee has voted to reopen National Service Life Insurance for World War II and Korean War veterans who let their policies lapse or did not take any out.

The proposal was sponsored by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., who has guided such a provision through the Senate six times — and seen it killed six times in the House.

Romney Halts 2-a-Day News Confabs

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney had advised newsmen that they can't have the usual two-a-day news conferences during the summer months.

* * *

Romney said he would do his best to have at least one conference daily.

Because of the fiscal reform meetings, Romney said, he will be able to meet with newsmen this week only on Thursday morning and Friday morning.

The President's Council on Youth Fitness says a recent survey revealed 10 million of 40 million school children were unable to pass a minimum level physical fitness test.

Release Taped Diary of Cooper Flight

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The Mercury program is dead. Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. was the last man to fly the pioneer Mercury spacecraft. Now the space agency has released the inboard tape recordings of the last Mercury mission.)

By JOHN BARBOUR

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — As you'd expect of a quiet man thrust suddenly into the focus of the world's eye, Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. told of his space adventure best to himself and his diary.

That diary — tape recordings he made on his 22 rapid-fire days and nights in space — was released today by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

★ ★ ★

It is a graphic account of a man alone in his space cabin on what has become the last flight of the pioneer Mercury spacecraft—and probably the last long-term flight of an American for almost two years.

There is no assurance that the transcript is complete. Parts of the transcription were garbled. Parts may have been deleted for security reasons. And once the Cooper flight showed up he apparently gave up his private tape recording.

CONSPICUOUS ABSENCE

Conspicuous by its absence is any description of the remarkable details Major Cooper said he saw of a truck, a train and other signs of life in the high Himalayas, including part of Red China.

But aside from that, Cooper—in the privacy of his space cabin—seems finally relaxed and alone with the heavens, despite an apparent initial overawareness he was being tape recorded. Let the diary tell it:

"Well (clears throat) first night side and I have a bright blue band. A thick, diffused band of blue color — the sun is spread out very widely. It's settling now. And there it goes. A very bright blue band all the way around the earth."

★ ★ ★

A minute later, brought back by a piece of floating debris, he says, "Captured another washer. That's my second one.' '

With less than an hour in space, Cooper reported to his diary:

"And I have the haze layer that Wally Schirrer, a fellow (astronaut) was talking about. I can see the stars down in it. And it is — up and around the earth—to a number of degrees... I can see the stars above it. I can see the stars down in it.

SEES LIGHTNING

"I have seen several lightning flashes on the ground now. I see them on the earth now.

"And there is Orion, Betelguese ,What a beautiful night to night."

Cooper was constantly pulled out of his soliloquy by radio contact from the ground as he came within range of stations under his flight path. But then he returned to his diary:

"Ha-ha. And now at this time . . . I'm observing John's (Glenn's) fireflies. Drifting away from me. I can observe them, appear to be departing from the spacecraft and drifting out to the rear. I then can see some of them a considerable distance to the rear . . .

"Sun is coming up behind me. I'm beginning to get the glow on the clouds. (pause) Fireflies appear to be white, very whitish with almost a green, like real fireflies. (pause) The clouds on the earth below are changing color, are getting quite light. (pause)

"And (clears throat) I am now on the day side. The sun is not yet quite up, and I am observing stars. The earth is light below me and the sun is still behind me. The sky looks dark above me, and I can see stars very distinctly."

The changes on the earth below contrasted sharply with the steady predictable world of space. One minute Cooper was reporting:

'CLEAR OVER AFRICA'

"Coming in over the coast of Africa. It's very clear here. No clouds. No haze. I'll try and snap (some pictures) of the Atlas Mountains. . . It's very dry, very clear over Africa. We're drifting window down, ideal attitude."

Half an hour later — over the south Indian Ocean — Cooper reported:

"I am now drifting on the night side. I have the moon in sight. I'm upside down. I'm observing lightning flashes from considerable-size thunderstorms that are below me. These create static in the radio every time the lightning flashes down there."

Earlier, he said, "people wonder if it's hard to sleep up here. I just drifted off for about three or four minutes on a quick little nap. Sleep here just like you do anywhere else."

★ ★ ★

As the diary rolls on, Cooper seems to be getting more accustomed to the wonders of passing days and nights, fireflies and haze layers and begins to think aloud about them.

"Sunrise—and the sun is in behind me, . .to the rear of me. With Saturn along by it—and I'm getting John's fireflies again, coming off the spacecraft. And you could almost align yaw (the direction the spacecraft is pointing, right or left) by the fire-flies. They drift away to the rear. . . of the flight path."

PINPOINTS FIREFLIES

He was later to pinpoint the source of the fireflies—tiny icicles from the small jets that enable him to control spacecraft position.

The diary continues: "Lightning flashes on the ground, down on earth, that is. Terrible cloud cover. Venus and Jupiter. . . Jupiter on the left hand of the window . . and I'm beginning to get brilliant blue of sun rising in the East."

He had searched for the flashing beacon he had released from his orbiting spacecraft. But he hadn't been able to find it. Then the flashing beacon. . . The light in sight. It is below me. It is quite a brownish, reddish brown and considerable altitude above the ground. Every time I fire a pitch down thruster, I get a shower of these little fireflies. The light is flashing now. It is the light. It's quite bright, quite discernable.' '

★ ★ ★

Later, he said, "I have the flashing light in sight again. Extremely weak, very weak, I tell you. Just barely discernable. I would estimate it to be somewhere in the order of 18 to 20 miles away. It is out, and the water is very bright below. It's quite a lovely moonlight night."

After his early experiments he turned to taking pictures for "the (words omitted) people."

TROUBLES

He also had troubles: "I'm eating a pot roast of beef, I've had considerable difficulty getting the water in it (dehydrated food in a plastic envelope) from this water device on the McDonnell water tank. I spilled water all over my hands, and all over the cockpit here trying to get some in it. I have succeeded in getting about half of it dampened and am proceeding to eat.

★ ★ ★

"I am washing my face with a damp rag now. Certainly feels good. . .

"It is rather a strange feeling to be able to place objects out into the—into the cabin and let go of them and they'll stay in relatively their same position. This is worrisome as well as an odd sensation, handy sometime, but ah."

★ ★ ★

The only close-up description of land in the diary is this one:

"I'm right over Africa. (time passes) I can see roads, and rivers, and some small towns, down here on the ground. Small villages or towns, can almost make out the individual houses."

On his 13th orbit, he found some time for personal (notes):

"One comment on the various sleep periods that I've had, nearly everytime that I have awakened, I found that I have been so soundly asleep I don't even know where I am—awake.

"Have a note to be added in for head-shrinkers. Enjoy the full drifting flights most of all where you really have the feeling of freedom, and you aren't worried about the systems fouling up.

"You (clears throat) have everything turned off, and just drifting along lazily, however, I haven't encountered any of this so-called split-off phenomena. Still note that I am thinking very much about returning to earth at the proper time and safely."

Fraser Is 53rd Town to Get Detroit Water

FRASER (AP) — This Macomb County community of 7,027 residents has become the 53rd town to hook on to Detroit's water system.

A 48-inch connecting main, built at a cost of $1,910,518, will provide water to some 1,750 families.

The 1787 penny contained the first motto the U.S. ever put on a coin. It was: "Mind Your Own Business."

Sweden's per capita income is said to be the world's third high-est at $1,513. Only the United States and Canada are higher.

Up $19.9 Million in '63 Period

Rising Road Toll Costing State

LANSING (AP)— An increase in traffic deaths this year has cost the state some $19.9 million more than at the same time last year, Secretary of State James Hare says.

Using the dollar cost-per-fatality of the National Safety Council, traffic accidents have cost society some $118.8 million in 1963, said Hare.

The figure is based on the 660 persons who had died in through last weekend. The National Safety Council figures each death reflects an average of $180,000 in hospital, court and other costs per accident.

At the same point in 1962, said Hare, the deaths of 549 persons in traffic had cost the state $98.8 million.

State police meanwhile, reported that the summer driving period is the most dangerous of the year. Traffic deaths in the 14-week summer period last year averaged 38 a week against 30 a week for the entire year.

JFK's Speech Carried by Russian Newspaper

MOSCOW (AP) — President Kennedy's speech at American University in which he discussed Soviet tactics in nuclear negotiations and the American Negro question was published last night in Izvestia.

The Soviet government newspaper made no comment on the speech made Monday.

Subcommittee Sets Sleeping Bear Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate interior subcommittee will visit the proposed Sleeping Bear national lakeshore in Michigan over the July 4 weekend.

Headed by Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., the committee will hold a hearing in Frankfort, Mich., July 4 on a bill by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., which would set up the 77,000-acre national park.

★ ★ ★

In announcing today plans for the trip and hearing, Hart said he doesn't know how many senators will make the trip. He said that since he is not a member of the interior committee, he doesn't plan to go.

Teens May Need Adult Escort at Belle Isle

DETROIT (UPI) — Teen-agers who are not accompanied by an adult may soon be banned from Belle Isle, according to police.

Inspector Stanley Jedlinski said if teen-age vandalism does not stop, a plan to bar unsupervised teens from the island may be sought.

"We simply do not have enough policemen to keep teens from destroying property there," Jedlinski said.

★ ★ ★

Police patrols on the island have been increased and timed to pass likely vandalism targets every few minutes.

Pair Honeymoons in Rockies

The Robert David Stolorows, who spoke vows Wednesday in Temple Beth El, Detroit, will honeymoon in the Colorado Rockies before taking up residence in Cambridge, Mass.

A dinner-dance in the temple followed the six o'clock ceremony performed by Dr. Richard Hertz, assisted by Rabbi Milton Rosenbaum of Temple Emmanuel, Oak Park.

* * *

The former Barbara Ruthe Taub, daughter of the David Taubs of Detroit, appeared in white silk peau de soie styled with controlled bell skirt. A Dior rose held her imported silk illusion veil, and a single yellow rose centered a bouquet of cascading white roses.

Attendants, wearing yellow chiffon dresses with lace bodices carried colonial bouquets of yellow and white roses.

Maid of honor was the bridegroom's sister, Joan. Bridesmaids included Detroiters Valerie Ash, Gail Disner, Mimi Haas, Beverly Parisi, Margaret Witecki and Janet Zwerdling, also Renee Pantzer and Rebecca Pastor, Oak Park.

* * *

Richard Stolorow was best man for his brother. They are the sons of the Samuel Stolorows, Shoreview Drive.

Ushers were Detroiters Joel Brown, Dale Rands, Robert Taub and Steven Fisher; Steven Hershfeld, Cleveland; Harvey Gordon, Flint; Steven Hantman and Richard Weiscoff, New York City; Dr. Merton Krause, Cincinnati; Thomas Krause, Miami Beach; Mark Peppercorn, Chicago; and William Thompson, Boston.

* * *

The new Mrs. Stolorow is enrolled at Boston University and her husband will continue his studies at Harvard University.

Should Sub Pay to Play Card Game?

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: About a year ago a group of us formed a card club which meets once a month. At that time, we did not set down specific rules concerning substitutes.

* * *

Lately, this has caused some concern among the members. Some feel the substitutes should pay the 50 cents which we each contribute as she has an evening's entertainment as well as a chance to win one of two cash prizes.

Others are of the opinion that the substitute is doing the club a favor by coming at the last minute so that there will be a proper number at each table, and therefore the member who could not attend should pay for her. Will you please help us settle this?

* * *

A: If the 50 cents each of you contributes is "dues," then the absent member should definitely pay this.

However, if the money collected from each player is to be given away as a prize at the end of the evening to the person who has the high score, then the substitute, who has an equal chance of winning it, should pay her own 50 cents.

Q: When there is no one to introduce the wedding guests to the bride's mother receiving at the reception room door, should strangers introduce themselves or merely say "How do you do?" and pass on to make room for other arriving guests?

* * *

A: When there is no one to announce them, guests who are strangers to the bride's mother, announce their own names.

Q: I had a birthday recently and a boy I used to date, but whom I don't go out with any more, sent me a present. I would rather not accept any presents from him. Would it be proper to return it? I do see him occasionally at parties and we are friendly when we meet.

* * *

A: Unless the present is of considerable value or you have a serious reason for not wanting to accept even a trifling gift from him, you should not return it. To do so, would be a deliberate insult to him.

The new Emily Post Institute booklet, entitled, "Table Rules of Importance," describes how to eat spaghetti as well as other difficult foods. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Women Plan Salute to Romneys

10,000 Invitations Addressed

Women of the Oakland County Republican party have writer's cramp — and with good reason. They have just completed the monumental task of addressing 10,000 invitations. After that, the envelopes had to be stuffed, sealed and stamped.

* * *

Thursday evening, Sept. 5 at the Fisher Theater in Detroit the Republicans will salute Gov. and Mrs. George Romney. The salute will be a special preview of the new Mary Martin musical, "Jennie." This performance is prior to the show's pre-Broadway appearance in Detroit.

COCHAIRMEN

Cochairmen of the event which will be a benefit are Mrs. Semon E. Knudsen and Mrs. Richard Van Dusen.

At a morning coffee Wednesday for the press Mrs. Knudsen and Mrs. Van Dusen announced their committee heads: Mrs. Harry Nederlander, patrons; Mrs. James Harcke and Mrs. Paul McKenney, tickets; Mrs. Allen Strom, invitations.

Mrs. C. E. Haynes and Mrs. John R. Crissman, women volunteers; Mrs. John Wert, promotion; and Mrs. George E. Montgomery, publicity.

Anyone interested in joining this salute to Gov. Romney is welcome to attend the performance. Full details may be obtained from the Oakland County Republican Headquarters.

Many hands were needed to address and stamp the 10,000 invitations to a theater party sent out by the Oakland County Republican party women this week. Mrs. Daniel T. Murphy, left, West Iroquois, was one of the workers. Mrs. Semon E. Knudsen, Bingham Road, is cochairman of the Sept. 5 event.

To Attend Y-Teen Conclave

Area students will be among girls attending the Y-Teen State Summer Conference June 16-22 at Calvin College in Grand Rapids.

Delegates from the Pontiac YWCA clubs include Lucretia Flener, Beverly Galligan, Trudy Moore, Nancy Greenhill and Joan Hurtik.

* * *

Mrs. Ronald Voorheis, Y-Teen adviser at Waterford Township High School, will accompany the group.

* * *

Conference theme will be "Take a Second Look — Mores, Morality and Me." Dr. Marion Cuthbert, associate professor emeritus of sociology at Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, N. Y. will be guest speaker. She is a former member of the national YWCA staff and author of a booklet, "Maturity and Me" written especially for teenage girls.

Group Fetes Mother-to-Be

Alpha Omega chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, honored one of its members at a surprise baby shower Wednesday evening. Mrs. Michael Gollogly, Milford, was hostess for the closing dinner party. Mrs. Donald DeVoe, Rochester, was the honoree.

* * *

Mrs. Russell Perkins, president, announced her committees for the 1963-64 season at the business meeting.

Announce Vows

Mr. and Mrs. James Jilbert of Markle announce the marriage of their daughter Marjorie Ann to Ernest E. Slade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Slade of Fourth Avenue.

About Doctor's Visitor

Readers Answer Nurse

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A nurse wrote that a married woman visited a doctor at the hospital regularly and she implied that something shady was going on. I am that woman.

ABBY

For three years I've been seeing the doctor about chronic headaches caused by the nervous tension of an unhappy home life.

My doctor, being the most patient, understanding man in the world, has helped me to face my problems and adjust to them.

Last year I was dumbfounded when my doctor confided to me that HIS home life was worse than mine. He trusts me and discusses everything with me.

His wife recently took an overdose of sleeping pills and he said if he didn't have me to talk to he would have had a nervouse breakdown.

He helped me when I needed it, and now I can't let him down, no matter what.

ABOVE SUSPICION IN SCARSDALE

DEAR ABBY: About the married woman who made a habit of going to the hospital regularly to see a doctor: I think she is my wife.

* * *

Her weakness has always been doctors. If there is a good-looking doctor within a hundred miles, she'll find him and keep him busy with one complaint or another.

Can you tell me if the letter came from Elmira, New York?

"BILL"

DEAR ABBY: Why can't people mind their own business? I am the woman who goes to the hospital so often.

The nurse got it all wrong.

I am not seeing a doctor, I'm seeing an engineer. It's money. We bet the horses together.

NOT GUILTY (BRENTWOOD)

DEAR ABBY: Our entire hospital staff is up in arms about the nurse who wrote the letter reporting the married woman who visits the doctor regularly behind closed doors.

We nurses at that hospital think you ought to know that no doctor would even attempt to get away with such carryings - on in his hospital.

In the first place, every minute of the doctor's time is scheduled, and even if he wanted to, he wouldn't have the time.

The nurse who wrote that letter has been mad about the doctor for years, and he has refused to look at her. "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

Newlyweds Plan to Visit Atlantic City

The William David Lerners (Carole Ann Tynan) who were wed Wednesday evening in Our Lady of the Lakes rectory, will honeymoon at Atlantic City en route to their new home in Philadelphia.

At the Edward G. Tynans were hosts at a reception for the immediate families in their Adlake Drive home following the ceremony performed by Rev. Frederick J. Delaney.

The bride chose a street-length gown of white silk organza over taffeta. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a custom-made organza - taffeta pillbox appliqued with lace. She held a nosegay of miniature white carnations and Stephanotis.

Nancy Sue Tynan, her sister's maid of honor, wore pink dacron and cotton with Chantilly lace bodice. Her all-pink nosegay included sweetheart roses and miniature carnations.

The bridegroom, son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Lerner, Ijamsville, Md., had his bride's cousins Michael Tynan for best man and Jeffery Tynan was ring bearer.

Both are graduates of the University of Michigan. Mr. Lerner attends the Thomas Jefferson Medical School in Philadelphia.

GRACE ANN DONALDSON

The James Donaldsons of Preston Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter Grace Ann to James Wesley Johnson, son of Rev. and Mrs. James M. Johnson of Pinegrove.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. McCormick of Thorpe will be honored by their children at an open house in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary at the Bethany Baptist Church Saturday from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. They have two daughters, Mrs. Harry Jeremy of Grand Blanc and Mrs. Orville Schluchter of Hinsdale, Ill., five grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The 739.5-million electric lamps produced by American manufacturers in the second quarter of this year topped the output for a corresponding period last year by 23 per cent.

Dieters: Don't Skip Meals

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Over and over again studies have shown that it does not pay to skip a meal when reducing. As a general rule the reducer makes up for it with overeating at the other two meals or with snacks in between meals.

Many nutritionists recommend dividing your allowable calorie intake evenly between three meals. I myself do not think that this is necessary. I believe that the three meals are essential but if you are accustomed to eating more at one meal you can still do so.

For instance, if your evening meal is the one when you are hungriest and you can have only 1200 calories a day, save 600 for dinner at night and 300 for both breakfast and lunch.

Breakfast is the meal which is most often neglected. Tests have shown definitely that this is a mistake. Scientific studies have shown that you will turn out more work, be more alert, more accurate and miss late morning fatigue if you eat adequate breakfasts.

Production records have shown that those workers who miss breakfast are slower workers and that their work output increased when they had breakfast. This does not have to be the huge old - fashioned breakfast. It can consist of fruit juice or fruit, cereal, toast and skim milk.

These foods supply you with many of the essentials for best health and you can vary this simple menu endlessly. There are all kinds of juice and fruits. There are more than two dozen different kinds of cereals available.

★ ★ ★

The quick cooking or regular cooking types, or the dry, ready prepared cereals are abundant. These are not fattening unless you load on the cream and sugar. Be sure that you buy one which is whole grain, restored or enriched.

So, if you wish to lose weight successfully don't skip a meal, especially breakfast.

★ ★ ★

If you would like to have my Mr. and Mrs. Diet which has planned menus for a week for the "Mrs." who wishes to lose and the "Mr." who doesn't, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 44 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Strawberries Delicious Any Way

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Strawberries are coming . . . tra la . . . tra la. Southwestern Michigan berries have started to come into market. Within the next two weeks local berries will be abundant.

★ ★ ★

So you'll want some strawberry recipes, won't you?

The only trouble is that we have so many good ones that it's hard to choose.

There are two strawberry pie recipes you'll want to try. Neither one bakes the berries. The first is the simplest possible recipe and oh, so good.

STRAWBERRY FLUFF PIE

Glazed Fresh Strawberry Pie

1 quart firm, ripe, fresh strawberries
2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup water
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
¾ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
9-inch baked pie crust
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
1 tablespoon sugar

Wash and cap strawberries. Mix half the berries with water, cornstarch, lemon juice, salt and sugar. Crush. Stir and cook until thick. Cool. Turn remaining berries in a cold pie shell. Cover with the cold cooked mixture. Chill.

★ ★ ★

Sweeten whipped cream with the 1 tablespoon sugar and garnish pie as desired with it just before serving. Makes 1 pie.

GLAZED STRAWBERRY PIE

Now for a creamy strawberry pie.

STRAWBERRY FLUFF PIE

Pie Crust

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup shortening
½ cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
4 to 5 tablespoons cold water

Filling

½ lb. (about 32) large marshmallows
1-3 cup milk
1 cup whipping cream
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sliced fresh strawberries

Heat oven to 425 degrees. For pie crust, sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs; add oats, mixing lightly. Sprinkle cold water by tablespoons over flour mixture; stir lightly with fork until just dampened. (If necessary, add another tablespoon cold water to make dough hold together.) Form into ball.

Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas. Roll dough out to form a 13-inch circle; fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate. Fold edges under; flute. Prick bottom and sides. Bake 12 to 15 minutes. Cool.

For filling, place marshmallows and milk in top of double boiler. Heat over simmering water, stirring frequently until marshmallows are melted. Set aside to cool until mixture begins to thicken.

Beat whipping cream until frothy; add salt and vanilla; beat until stiff. Fold the whipped cream and strawberries into marshmallow mixture. Pour into cooled pie shell. Refrigerate until set. Garnish with whole strawberries.

An unusual dessert can be made with brownies, ice cream and crushed sweetened strawberries. Cut the brownies into squares, top with a scoop of ice cream and pass the strawberry sauce.

Molded strawberry salad, sweetened with Sucaryl, is a treat dieters can enjoy. This will be a favorite on hot summer days.

WHITE CAPPED STRAWBERRY PINEAPPLE SALAD

First Layer

1 envelope (or tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
⅓ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
1 tablespoon Sucaryl solution
Dash of salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1-3 cup buttermilk
1-3 cup nonfat dry milk

Second Layer

1 envelope (or tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
1½ cups unsweetened pineapple juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons Sucaryl solution
1 cup fresh strawberries, sliced
1 5-ounce jar dietetic pineapple topping

★ ★ ★

First Layer; Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve in boiling water. Add Sucaryl, salt and lemon juice, blending well. Combine buttermilk and dry milk; beat on high speed of mixer until thick and fluffy. Blend into gelatin mixture. Spoon into the bottom of a 6-cup mold; chill until set.

★ ★ ★

SECOND LAYER: Soften gelatin in ½ cup of the pineapple juice; dissolve over boiling water; add remaining 1 cup pineapple juice, lemon juice and Sucaryl. Chill until mixture begins to set; fold in strawberries and pineapple topping. Carefully pour over first layer; chill until set.

To serve, unmold on salad greens.

★ ★ ★

Makes 6 servings. Each serving contains 94 Calories: 6 grams protein; trace of fat; 18 grams carbohydrate.

WHITE-CAPPED SALAD

Clever Idea

Egg cups on the china shelf? They'll make delightful miniature molds when you want to use aspic for garnishing.

Plenty of Meat, Poultry for Father's Day Menu

What will you plan for Father's Day? Warm weather suggests outdoor cookery. Broiler supplies are increasing while beef supplies are about as they were last month reports the Consumer Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Pork marketings are beginning a seasonal decrease.

This week shoppers will find some stores offering sales of beef, pork and lamb for freezer storage. Five and ten pound packages of hamburger, fresh whole ham, boneless pork roasts from the rib or loin half of the loin, and small size turkeys are features that may fit the family's food plan.

Back of the steady supply of ready-to-cook broilers is one of the important stories of economical and technological change in agriculture. Once the farmyard flock provided chicken for Sunday's menu special.

Now commercial growers produce 90 per cent of the chicken meat eaten by Americans and 78 per cent of the broiler supply is produced in eight southern states. The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that frying chickens cost 19 cents a pound less in 1962 than they did in 1952.

As shoppers become more interested in tender quick-cooking beef steaks, retailers will emphasize special prices to move other less popular cuts. Cuts from the chuck and rib sections may carry lower than usual price tags. Tenderizers and marinades may be used to insure greater tenderness of less tender cuts.

A fish-fry might include fresh or frozen fish from the grocer's. The total frozen fish storage is reported to be 34 million pounds above a year ago, and halibut stocks are four times greater. This is the season when you will find plenty of fresh water perch and smelt at thrifty prices compared to most other fish.

Egg production is also seasonally high, and prices low in comparison to other seasons. Large size eggs are the best value cost-wise. It is both easy and economical to use eggs in potato salad. Or make a platter of deviled eggs for Father's special day.

Supplies of fresh produce continue to increase with warmer weather. Shoppers will notice increasing amounts of strawberries and blueberries this week.

City Seeks Firemen to Replace Retirees

The city is searching for prospective fire fighters to staff a new branch fire station later this year and to fill several present openings in the fire department created through retiring personnel.

* * *

David S. Teel, assistant city manager, said the city would need about 14 fire fighters for the new station and another six to 10 for normal replacement of retirees.

A lack of recruits could delay putting the new station on Walton west of Baldwin in operation.

Interested persons may apply at the personnel department in city hall, 35 S. Parke, before June 28. A civil service examination will be conducted for applicants July 13.

* * *

Applicants must be high school graduates or hold the equivalent of a high school diploma, and be 21 to 28 years of age.

CZAR DIES—Elmer (Bones) Remmer, 65, former San Francisco gambling czar for nearly three decades, died in Alameda, Calif., this week. He spent the last months of his life in jail, worrying about his debts.

The deerhound, strong and fast and weighing up to 100 pounds, has been known since the 16th century in England.

Last Hope for Aid Bill Is in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's legislative leaders, beaten in the House on economic aid to depressed areas, looked to the Senate today to keep the defeat from turning into disaster.

* * *

In one of the worst congressional reverses Kennedy has suffered, his bill to authorize $450 million more in grants and loans to encourage job-making industries in high unemployment areas lost 209 to 204 in the House Wednesday.

Defeat of the bill does not abolish the Area Redevelopment Administration, which administers the program. But Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee, said it means ARA must immediately stop accepting applications for new loans and grants and that it will run out of funds before long, certainly within a year, unless another bill is passed.

DEAD IN HOUSE

Patman, main sponsor of the legislation, said his bill is dead in the House, but that similar legislation is still alive in the Senate and there is a chance the House might accept some version of a bill the Senate passed.

* * *

The authorization bill went down in the House under a hail of criticism, mainly from Republicans who charged the program was badly administered, that too large a share of its resources had been channeled into a few large projects like a recreational area in Oklahoma, and into projects in rural areas of underemployment rather than urban pockets of hard core joblessness.

* * *

The roll call, compared with the one by which ARA was inaugurated two years ago, showed that many Republicans from depressed areas and a smaller number of Southern Democrats turned against the program they had previously supported.

Kalamazoo Minister Elected to Head Synod

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—Rev. William Haverkamp of Kalamazoo was elected president of the annual synod of the Christian Reformed Church, which opened a 10-day session at Calvin College yesterday.

* * *

A record number of 128 delegates attended the opening session. Two ministers and two elders are representing each of the 32 classes of the denomination in the United States.

Project Mercury Built Sound Base for Trips Into Space

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —In five years, Project Mercury developed a sound base for future ventures into space by American astronauts.

* * *

The program required only three years to perfect the rockets, spacecraft, tracking, communications and recovery forces and men to do the job. Then in two action-packed years, the United States sent a procession of six pioneer pilots into space and returned them safely to earth.

The flights ranged from the 15-minute suborbital trips of Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom to last month's 22-orbit, 34-hour mission by L. Gordon Cooper Jr.

TO PUSH AHEAD

In Washington yesterday, James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, announced there will be no additional Mercury flights, that the United States will push ahead with Project Gemini.

Gemini, a two-man craft, will test techniques required for the man-on-the-moon program. The two pilots will remain in orbit for periods up to two weeks, will join their craft with other orbiting satellites—and one of the team eventually will step outside the capsule to determine how well a man can function in the vacuum of space protected only by a space suit.

* * *

Mercury's most important contribution to Gemini and Apollo is the fact that an astronaut can perform useful tasks in a spacecraft even after long exposure to weightlessness. As a result more reliance is being placed on man—rather than automatic systems—in future flights.

A pair of monkeys and a chimpanzee were the first pilots of Mercury. The monkeys, Sam and Miss Sam, made brief rocket flights from Wallops Island, Va., in 1960 in tests which verifiied structure of the capsule under various conditions.

The chimapnzee Ham made a 15-minute suborbital flight aboard a Redstone fired from Cape Canaveral on Jan. 31, 1961.

On May 5, 1961, Shephard became the first American to rocket across the threshhold of space. He soared 115 miles high and 302 miles down the Atlantic tracking range in a flight which verified the spacecraft, launch vehicle, communications, recovery and other aspects of Mercury.

Grissom made an almost identical trip on July 21, but had to swim for his life when an escape hatch blew out and his spacecraft sank.

Attention then shifted to the orbital phase of the program, using the more powerful Atlas booster rocket.

ONLY 2 ORBITS

On Nov. 29, 1961, a chimp named Enos shot sloft on a planned three-orbit flight. Temperature and automatic control troubles forced termination of the flight after two orbits, but Enos was recovered safely and man was ready to follow his trail.

John H. Glenn Jr. rode his Friendship 7 vehicle three times around the world on Feb. 20, 1962.

* * *

Three months later, Malcolm Scott Carpenter manually flew his Aurora 7 through the critical re-entry period after automatic control system difficulties cropped up. Carpenter also flew three orbits.

In October last year, Walter M. Schirra Jr. made six global passes in what he termed a "textbook" flight.

That opened the door to Cooper's Mercury climax flight May 15-16. Cooper ate, slept and performed scientific and engineering tasks in space. Even after 34 hours aloft, he expertly steered his spaceship manually back to earth.

Romney Asks Appraisal of Youth Plans

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Gov. George Romney asked the Michigan Youth Commission yesterday to make a systematic evaluation and appraisal of various state youth programs by early autumn.

In asking for the study, Romney said, "our growing population of children and youth is resulting in an increasing number of delinquent, neglected and dependent children.

"But in addition, the situations and circumstances which produce 'vulnerable' children and youth susceptible to delinquency, neglect, abandonment, personality disorders and abuse are still with us."

Romney said a large number of children are growing up unable to escape the repetitive pattern of relief families.

"Untold thousands of children are being warped and thwarted and deprived of their rightful opportunities simply because of the color of their skin," he said.

Romney described present remedial efforts as inadequate and said children who are damaged by conditions such as these are truly "social dynamite."

'The Mirror Cracked'

Marina Gregg's Look: What Did It Mean?

STORY SO FAR: Marina Gregg, beautiful stage and screen star, and her husband, Jason Rudd, brilliant director, buy Gossington Hall from Mrs. Bantry who is impressed with the changes made. At a benefit given there tactless Mrs. Badcock babbles on to her hostess, Marina, about how thrilled she had been to meet her years ago, unheeding Marina's stares past her. Marina asks Jason to give Mrs. Badcock a drink. Cherry, Miss Jane Marple's daily helper, tells her Mrs. Badcock had a drink and five minutes after she died, there'll be an autopsy, and while she considered Mrs. Badcock kind, thought she was too interfering. Miss Marple thought her the kind of person who might have butted into something without realizing it was a dangerous thing, and wonders if it might have been the wrong murder.

By AGATHA CHRISTIE

Installment X

The door opened and Dr. Haydock breezed in, Miss Knight twittering behind him.

"Ah, at it already, I see," said Dr. Haydock looking at the two ladies. "I came in to see how your health was," he said to Miss Marple, "but I needn't ask. I see you've begun to adopt the treatment that I suggested."

Dr. Haydock pointed a finger at the knitting that lay on the table beside her. "Unraveling," he said.

Miss Marple twinkled very slightly in a discreet, kind of way.

"You can't pull the wool over my eyes, my dear lady. I've known you too many years. Sudden death at Gossington Hall and all the tongues of St. Mary Mead are wagging. Isn't that so?

"Murder suggested long before anybody even knows the result of the inquest."

* * *

"When is the inquest to be held?" asked Miss Marple.

"The day after tomorrow," said Dr. Haydock, "and by that time," he said, "you ladies will have reviewed the whole story, decided on a good many other points too I expect.

"Well," he added, "I shan't waste my time here. It's no good wasting time on a patient that doesn't need my ministrations.

"Your cheeks are pink, your eyes are bright, you've begun to enjoy yourself. Nothing like having an interest in life. I'll be on my way." He stomped out again.

"I'd rather have him than Sandford any day," said Mrs. Bantry.

GO AHEAD SIGN

"So would I," said Miss Marple. "He's a good friend, too," she added thoughtfully. "He came, I think, to give me the go ahead sign."

"Then it was murder," said Mrs. Bantry. They looked at each other. "At any rate, the doctors think so."

"Now then Dolly, you were here—"

"I practically saw it happen," said Mrs. Bantry, with modest pride.

"Splendid," said Miss Marple. "I mean — well, you know what I mean. So you can tell me just exactly what happened from the moment she arrived."

"I'd been taken into the house," said Mrs. Bantry. "Snob status."

"Who took you in?"

"Oh, a willowy looking young man. I think he's Marina Gregg's secretary or something like that. He took me in, up the staircase. They were having a kind of reunion reception committee at the top of the stairs."

"On the landing?" said Miss Marple, surprised.

"Oh, they've altered all that. They've knocked the dressing room and bedroom down so that you've got a big sort of alcove, practically a room. It's very attractive looking."

"I see. And who was there?"

"Marina Gregg, being natural and charming, looking lovely in a sort of willowy gray-green dress. And the husband, of course, and that woman, Ella Zielinsky I told you about. She's their social secretary.

"And there were about eight or 10 people I should think. Some of them I knew, some of them I didn't. Some I think were from the Studios — the ones I didn't know.

* * *

"There was the Vicar and Dr. Sandford's wife. He wasn't there himself until later, and Colonel and Mrs. Clittering and the high sheriff. And I think there was someone from the press there. And a young woman with a big camera taking photographs."

Miss Marple nodded.

SAID NICE THINGS

"Go on."

"Heather Badcock and her husband arrived just after me. Marina Gregg said nice things to me, then to somebody else, oh yes, the Vicar, and then Heather Badcock and her husband came.

"She's the secretary, you know, of the St. John's Ambulance. Somebody said something about that and how hard she worked and how valuable she was. And Marina Gregg said some pretty things.

"Then Mrs. Badcock, who struck me, I must say, Jane, as rather a tiresome sort of woman, began some long rigmarole of how years before she'd met Marina Gregg somewhere in the West Indies.

"She wasn't awfully tactful about it since she urged exactly how long ago and the year it was and everything like that. I'm sure that actresses and film stars and people don't like really being reminded of the exact age they are. Still, she wouldn't think of that I suppose."

* * *

"No," said Miss Marple, "she wasn't the kind of woman who would have thought of that. Well?"

"Well, there was nothing particular in that except for the fact that Marina Gregg didn't do her usual stuff."

"You mean she was annoyed?"

"No, no, I don't mean that. As a matter of fact I'm not at all sure that she heard a word of it.

"She was staring, you know, over Mrs. Badcock's shoulder and when Mrs. Badcock had finished her rather silly story of how she got out of a bed of sickness and sneaked out of the house to go and meet Marina and get her autograph, there was a sort of very odd silence. Then I saw her face."

"Whose face? Mrs. Badcock's?"

"No. Marina Gregg's. It was as though she hadn't heard a word the Badcock woman was saying. She was staring over her shoulder right at the wall opposite. Staring with, I can't explain it to you."

* * *

"But do try, Dolly," said Miss Marple, "because I think perhaps that this might be important."

"She had a kind of frozen look," said Mrs. Bantry, struggling with words, "as though she'd seen something that, oh dear me, how hard it is to describe things.

"Do you remember the Lady of Shalott? 'The mirror crack'd from side to side. The doom has come upon me, cried the Lady of Shalott'. Well, that's what she looked like.

"People laugh at Tennyson nowadays, but the Lady of Shalott always thrilled me when I was young and it still does."

'FROZEN LOOK'

"She had a frozen look," repeated Miss Marple thoughtfully. "And she was looking over Mrs. Badcock's shoulder at the wall. What was on that wall?"

"Oh! A picture of some kind, I think," said Mrs. Bantry. "You know, Italian. I think it was a copy of a Bellini madonna, but I'm not sure. A picture where the Virgin is holding up a laughing child,"

Miss Marple frowned. "I can't see that a picture could give her that expression."

"Especially as she must see it every day," agreed Mrs. Bantry.

"There were people coming up the stairs still, I suppose?"

"Oh yes, there were."

"Who were they, do you remember?"

"You mean she might have been looking at one of the people coming up the stairs?"

"Well, it's possible, isn't it?" said Miss Marple.

* * *

"Yes, of course. Now, let me see. There was the Mayor, all dressed up too with his chains and all, and his wife, and there was a man with long hair and one of those funny beards they wear nowadays. Quite a young man. And there was the girl with the camera.

"She'd taken her position on the stairs so as to get photos of people coming up and having their hands shaken by Marina, and, let me see, two people I didn't know. Studio people, I think, and the Grices from the Lower Farm.

"There may have been others, but that's all I can remember now."

"Doesn't sound very promising," said Miss Marple. "What happened next?"

* * *

"I think Jason Rudd nudged her or something because all of a sudden she seemed to pull herself together and she smiled at Mrs. Badcock and she began to say all the usual things. You know, sweet, unspoiled, natural, charming, the usual bag of tricks."

"And then?"

"And then Jason Rudd gave them drinks."

"What kind of drinks?"

"Daiquiris, I think. He said they were his wife's favorites. He gave one to her and one to the Badcock woman."

"That's very interesting," said Miss Marple. "Very interesting indeed. And what happened after that?"

"I don't know, because I took some women to look at the bathrooms. The next thing I knew was when the secretary woman came rushing along and said someone had been taken ill."

GOP Admits District Errors

DETROIT (AP) — Republicans have conceded errors were made in totals compiled for six Wayne County districts in the new congressional apportionment act recently passed by the legislature.

★ ★ ★

Democrats called attention to one error Tuesday — in the new 15th District — and suggested the apportionment issue be sent back to the legislature.

But Peter B. Spivak, Wayne County Republican chairman, said yesterday his party is not considering running the statewide redistricting plan back through the legislative mill.

"I goofed," said Donald W. DeRosen, executive director of the county GOP committee. "And an erratic computer didn't help, either."

DeRosen said the 15th District error was the largest because the city of Southgate, with a population of 29,404, "was just left out."

★ ★ ★

The addition raised the district's population from 462,454 to 494,571, and raised it to 20.4 — above a norm of 20 per cent variation Gov. George Romney had said he wanted.

Housing Unit Gets Head

The city housing commission has elected Mrs. Harry Killian, of 119 Lincoln, chairman for the coming year.

Officers were elected at the commission's annual meeting this week.

Mrs. Killian is principal of Bethune Elementary School and had served as vice chairman of the housing commission for the past two years.

She succeeds Theodore E. Wiersema.

Elected vice chairman was Vernon M. Page of 199 Rockwell.

Laotian Princess Heads for Home After Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) —Princess Souvanna Phouma, wife of the prime minister of Laos, has left Washington for home via Paris.

The princess, Laotian delegate to the World Food Congress, expressed gratitude for the keen interest Americans have shown in the plight of her countrymen.

But she criticized new authorities in Laos whom she said had little contact or interest in rural problems and land and crop reform.

Tiger Pitchers Fail to Hold Early Leads; Davilillo Injured

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers were the victims of another sparkling relief job yesterday as the surging Cleveland Indians roared from behind for a 12-6 victory.

The Indians had to overcome two stunning setbacks early in the game before rallying for their sixth straight victory and ninth in their last 10 games.

Rookie outfielder Vic Davalillo was sidelined for at least four weeks when he was hit on the arm by a Hank Aguirre pitch in the first inning. The pitch cracked a bone in his forearm.

Davalillo was the American League's 10th leading hitter with a .304 average. He had five home runs and 21 runs batted in. He was touted by many as the league's top rookie this year.

The Tigers racked Indian starter Dick Donovan for eight hits in the first five innings — three of them homers.

But Jerry Walker came on in the sixth inning and allowed just five hits the rest of the way to pick up his fourth victory of the season against one loss. All of the victories were scored in relief roles against the Tigers.

The Tigers scored two runs in the first inning before most of the 12,780 fans were comfortably in their seats.

Jake Wood was hit by a pitch, stole second, went to third on a single by Billy Bruton and scored on another single by Al Kaline. Rocky Colavito then hit the first of his three singles to score Bruton.

WOOD HOMERS

Jake Wood hit a homer in the second inning — his seventh—and Kaline parked his 14th in the third after the Indians had tied the score with three runs in the top of the third.

Joe Azcue hit a solo homer for the first Indian run of the game. This was followed by a double by Woodie Held and singles by Dick Howser, Jerry Kindall and Joe Adcock.

Dick McAuliffe's two-run homer in the fifth gave the Tigers their last two runs.

Adcock's solo homer in the sixth sparked another Cleveland rally. Max Alvis singled and Willie Kirkland walked before Tom Sturdivant came on to retire the side after allowing another run to score on an infield out.

The Indians teed off on Sturdivant in the seventh and were aided by two passed balls when catcher Gus Triandos was unable to handle the right-hander's knuckle balls.

Kindall's double to center was the big blow of the inning.

Three singles, two walks and two wild pitches by Mickey Lolich—third of four Tiger relievers—resulted in four more Cleveland runs in the eighth and put the game out of reach.

Kindall and Adcock each had three hits to pace the Indians' attack. Kindall, a .192 hitter, was rushed into action after Davalillo's injury.

Kaline also had two singles to raise his batting average to .344, three percentage points behind Boston's Frank Malzone. Kaline's two runs batted in boosted his league lead in that department to 47.

Phil Regan (2-5) and Jack Kralick (4-1) were scheduled to be the opposing pitchers today as the two clubs closed out their two-game series.

Yankees Move Into 1st Place

Turley Beats White Sox

By The Associated Press

The New York Yankees took a deep bow today in the direction of former teammate Bullet Bob Turley, a pitcher they dispatched to the Los Angeles Angels when his pop gun ran out of POP.

The 32-year-old right-hander gave the Yankees a boost into the American League lead Wednesday night by shoving Chicago out with a brilliant one-hit effort in a 5-0 victory over the White Sox.

That gave the Angels a split of a twi-night doubleheader — Chicago's John Buzhardt hurled a three-hit 3-1 first game triumph—and dropped the White Sox .001 points behind New York. The Yankees reached the top rung with a 3-2, 10-inning triumph over sagging Baltimore.

OTHER GAMES

In other games, Boston used the home run punch to down Washington 5-3 and Kansas City and Minnesota played richochet in splitting a doubleheader. The A's pounded 17 hits for a 12-4 victory, then the Twins lashed 13 for an 8-1 triumph.

Turley, sold to the Angeles on a condition basis in which the Los Angeles could send him back if the Bullet was really spent, has been slow coming around for his new club. But there was nothing slow about him against the White Sox as he posted the 100th victory of his 12-year major league career.

Plagued by arm trouble and control problems since he posted a 21-7 record in 1958, Turley showed a strong arm as he set the White Sox down with only Pete Ward's sixth inning single marring the performance. He struck out seven and walked four in bringing his record to 2-5 with Leon Wagner's batting support. Wagner went 4-for-4 and collected his 15th homer.

Buzhardt, 7-2, fell behind 1-0 in the second inning of the opener but went on to retire the Angels in order until the eighth. By then the White Sox had pulled ahead on Nellie Fox' run-scoring single in the second, Ron Hansen's sacrifice fly in the third and Pete Ward's homer in the seventh.

The Yankees tied it in the eighth on Tom Tresh's double and Joe Pepitone's single, then won in the 10th when Brooks Robinson opened the door by muffing Bobby Richardson's grounder. Richardson moved around to score the clincher on a sacrfice, a walk and Roger Maris' single. It was the Orioles' fifth straight loss and their 11th in 13 games.

★ ★ ★

The Red Sox scored all their runs on a three-run homer by Ed Bressoud, and solo shots by Carl Yastrzemski and Dick Stuart while Billy Monbouquette, 8-4, scattered eight Senators' hit. Jim King homered for Washington.

The A's first game offensive included two-run homers by Chuck Essegian and rookie Ken Harrelson and three hits each by Essegian and Ed Charles. In the nightcap, Harmon Killebrew hit a homer for the Twins and Zoilo Versalles collected three hits. Camilo Pascual, 9-5, pitched the first five innings, then left with a muscle strain in his right shoulder and Bill Dailey finished.

AP Photofax

FALLEN INDIAN—Cleveland Indian rookie outfielder Vic Davalillo suffered a broken arm after being hit by a pitch in the first inning by Tiger pitcher Hank Aguirre. He gets attention from catcher Gus Triangos and umpire Lou Dimuro. The Tigers lost the game in Detroit, 12-6.

AP Photofax

BACKFIRES — Chicago White Sox runner Ron Hansen is forced at third base by Los Angeles third sacker Felix Torres after pitcher Don Lee fielded a bunt by John Buzhardt. The sacrifice attempt failed and so did the White Sox who were beaten by Bob Turley on a one hitter.

Golf's Big 3 Entered in Thunderbird Classic

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—Gary Player, one of the top favorites in the $100,000 Thunderbird Classic starting today, says too much importance is put on the dollar mark and not enough on the scorecard in bigtime golf.

"It's getting so players are judged not by how many tournaments they win or how well they play, but how much offiical money they collect," the articulate little South African said. "It is an unfair and inaccurate gauge.

"Why, a fellow could win four of the bigger tournaments, with first prizes of $25,000 each, and make $100,000. He might be the leading money winner although other players have competed in more tournaments and compiled a better scoring average.

"The only true gauge of a player's ability is the scoring average. The man who plays consistently the best golf under a variety of conditions on a variety of courses should be ranked No. 1."

Player, one of the game's current Big Three which also includes Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, tees off at 8:14 a.m. EST, in the first round of the Thunderbird tournament over the 6,550-yard, par 70 Westchester Country Club course. He is paired with Palmer.

Nicklaus, the 23-year-old Masters and U.S. Open champion, is a late starter, going off at 12:14 p.m., EST, with Bob Rosburg and Paul Runyan.

★ ★ ★

They are the big names in the 138-man field, which includes a trio of red hot menaces in Julius Boros, winner of the Buick Open last weekend: Tony Lema, who has been dogging the footsteps of the Big Three, and steady Dow Finsterwald, playing at the peak of his game. Ben Hogan, now 50, and Sam Snead, 51, are added dressing.

Battle for Flights in Pine Lake Meet

Qualifying will be completed this afternoon in the 14th annual Pine Lake Invitational golf tournament, and although scores are expected to be lower this year than in past tournaments, none of the early 53 qualifying teams have turned in red-hot scores.

A total of 96 teams are competing for flight positions and thus far the team of Wayne Edwards and Dee Nancarrow with two-under 70 lead the field.

Bob Babbish, often a runner-up but never a winner in the annual tournament, already qualified with his member partner Lou Conroy and they came in one over at 73.

The tournament will be missing all of the past champions as result of the policy change which now restricts the tourney to member-guest participation.

★ ★ ★

The tournament will start Friday morning under the Chapman system of play and shotguns starts will get underway at 9:00 a.m.

Howard Tryon, Pine Lake member, and his son Bill, New York state amateur champion are rated strong contenders for honors along with Cleveland district champ Jim Callihan and member John Murdock.

Among the social activities tonight will be the annual stag night dinner.

Rec Class E Nines Set to Play Monday

The Pontiac Recreation Department Class E baseball practice schedule will begin Monday. Class E is open to boys 15 years of age and under.

Fourteen teams are entered in this year's league. Games will be played at Columbia and Joslyn, north and south diamonds, and at Aaron Perry park. Starting time for all games is 5:30 p.m.

Wertz Pinch-Hunter for Minnesota Job

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Former Detroit Tiger slugger Vic Wertz is trying to land a pinch-hitting job with the Minnesota Twins.

The 38-year-old Wertz, released by Detroit six weeks ago, is working out with the Twins. But so far the club has not said whether he will be signed.

The left-handed hitter went 0-for-5 in five pinch hitting appearances with the Tigers this season. He hit .324 in 74 games last year.

Hurtubise Must Pay

USAC Bans Race Driver

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The U.S. Auto Club suspended race driver Jim Hurtubise Wednesday for failure to pay a $100 fine imposed Sunday after the Rex Mays 100-mile race at Milwaukee.

Henry Banks, director of competition for USAC, said the suspension of the 500-mile race veteran was automatic and not connected with Hurtubise's charges of "terrible officiating" by USAC officials. Banks said he had been unsuccessful in attempts to locate Hurtubise to notify him of the suspension and summon him to Indianapolis.

LEVIED SUNDAY

The fine was levied Sunday after Hurtubise jumped the pole car driven by Johnny Boyd. Banks said suspension is automatic if fines are not paid within 48 hours. It will be lifted, he said, when the fine is paid.

Hurtubise was quoted earlier this week as saying, "we've been getting a lot of bad officiating lately and I don't see why officials can't be fined just like the drivers are."

Banks said he believed Hurtubise is on a hunting and fishing trip in Canada.

The New York driver's criticism of USAC officials, came Monday, the same day Eddie Sachs of Detroit was put on probation for comments he made about handling of the Memorial Day 500-mile race here.

Banks said Hurtubise will be ordered to Indianapolis to explain the remarks attributed to him. Hurtubise was quoted Tuesday as saying he realized he faced suspension or a fine for what he said.

Banks took issue Wednesday with Hurtubise's alleged charge that many "accidents have been happening lately because tracks aren't prepared and maintained right."

Western's Tourney Lists Bud Stevens

DETROIT (UPI) — Bud Stevens, runnerup in last year's western amateur, led top entries as home pro in the second annual invitational tournament at the Western Golf and Country Club today through Sunday.

Among the other standout contenders in the meet were Glenn Johnson, five-time state champion; Gene Woodard, former Detroit district titlist; Ray Palmer, last week's Dearborn Invitational winner, and Jim Stevens, Bud's brother and a top district golfer.

Bud, currently ranked first among state amateurs, will team with Ed Rovsek.

Leads Collegiate Meet

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Gary Head of Middle Tennessee State and John Kurzynowski of Aquinas College shared the first round lead of the NCAA college division golf tournament Wednesday with 4-under-par 68s.

Head, his school's only entry, toured the 6,300-yard Hickory Hills Country Club course in 36-32, and Kurzynowski did it in 35-33. Par is 36-36.

Huron, Cranbrook Post City Baseball Wins

The city recreation baseball Class A League finally managed to complete its first doubleheader of the season last night and important wins were posted by Huron-Airway and Cranbrook.

The weatherman's antics had foiled two earlier attempts at twi-night twin bills, but he only disappointed Local 594 and the Oxford Merchants last night.

They were 5-3 and 9-0 victims of the H-A nine and Cranbrook team, respectively. For the latter team, it was the first game of the season, and the win boosted it into second place behind the Clippers.

Huron-Airway's success was the second in three starts for the defending champions. They are third in the race, but will meet the Cranbrook squad in the 8:30 p.m. nightcap at Jaycee Park today. Oxford will seek its first win again at 6 p.m. today against M. G. Collision.

John Billesdon hurled a two-hitter for Cranbrook last night, yielding both to catcher Doug Trueman. The young right-hander whiffed nine men but six walks kept men on base behind him.

He received all the offensive support he needed from Al Levy. The southpaw first sacker clouted a double and triple for three runs batted in and scored once. Dave Schultz singled and tripled to account for three runs.

The big bat of clean-up hitter Al Barkley boomed for Huron-Airway in the nightcap. His single, double and homer brought in four runs.

Don Sackett had only one bad inning, the fifth, when the union nine tallied all its runs. Sackett also had the bags jammed in the sixth with two out, but he fanned the last four hitters in the game to ice the decision. He had 14 strike outs in the contest, to equal the season's high.

Nicklaus Leads Pros

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — If 23-year-old Jack Nicklaus continues his winning ways in professional golf, he might wind up a millionaire before he's 25.

* * *

Nicklaus has won $57,615 on the tournament trail so far this season to lead runner-up Tony Lema who has $49,006.

Stingy Hurler Signs

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox signed an 18-year-old pitcher, Bob Daniel of Birmingham, Ala., Wednesday. He was assigned to Winston-Salem in the Class A Carolina League.

Daniel pitched 100 innings this year for Ensley High School and did not allow a run. In one seven-inning game he struck out 20.

Holds Tourney Lead

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Tish Pruess of Gregory, Mich., and Pompano Beach, Fla., a veteran of Curtis Cup Competition held an almost insurmountable lead with a 153 entering the final round today of the Eastern Women's Amateur golf tournament.

Stops Pirates, 3-0, for 11th Win

Reds' Jim O'Toole Now 'Wanted'

By The Associated Press

That star strutting at the head of baseball's big parade is Jim O'Toole, who couldn't even make the rear ranks as a kid pitcher.

Cincinnati's prize southpaw bounced out of an amateur league in his teens because of a scatter-gun arm and shunned by several teams in the majors after tryouts, has added another victory as the biggest winner in the big leagues.

★ ★ ★

Firing a three-hitter, O'Toole pitched the Reds over Pittsburgh 3-0 Wednesday night for his 11th triumph.

It was the 26-year-old-left-hander's second shutout in a row and fifth of the season—and it gave Cincinnati a vital boost in the National League race. The Reds are in fifth place, but only 2½ games off the pace.

BACK IN LEAD

The Los Angeles Dodgers regained a slender lead with a 9-1 rout of Houston that put them .002 points ahead of San Francisco and St. Louis. The Giants beat fourth-place Chicago 3-1 on Willie McCovey's two homers and Bob Bolin's strong pitching, while Philadelphia knocked the Cardinals out of first, 6-2.

★ ★ ★

In the other NL game, Lew Burdette, Milwaukee's expendable right-hander, threw a three-hitter and Hank Aaron slugged in five runs in the Braves' 9-0 romp against the New York Mets.

O'Toole struck it rich with the pitching-poor Reds when he was signed to a $50,000 bonus six years ago. Now in his fifth full season with the club, he shows a current record of 11-3 and a earned run average of 2.07.

★ ★ ★

He again showed his control improvement in blanking the Pirates. He did not allow a single walk.

Frank Robinson keyed the Reds' decisive two-run fourth inning by doubling in Vada Pinson, stealing third and scoring on a force play. Pinson singled in the other run in the fifth. Earl Francis was the loser.

★ ★ ★

Maury Wills continued his spectacular batting for the Dodgers, rapping out three singles and a doubled against the Colts for 16 hits in his last 23 tries. Tommy Davis went 3-for-3 in the Dodgers' 13-hit assault, Ron Fairly knocked in three runs, and Dick Tracewski hit his first major league homer.

10 HITS

Lefty Johnny Podres was tagged for 10 Colt hits but struck out nine and did not allow a walk. He's now 4-5, while loser Don Nottebart, who hasn't won since his no-hitter against Philadelphia May 17, dropped to 5-4.

McCovey whacked his homers off Bob Buhl, with one on in the first inning and none on in the third. Bolin, ace reliever turned starter, limited the Cubs to four hits and struck out 14—highest for a Giant pitcher since the club moved west from New York in 1958.

Bolin is unbeaten in three decisions. Buhl's mark is an even 5-5.

The Phils had three-run innings off Cardinals starter Ron Taylor and veteran reliever Bobby Shantz as they beat St. Louis for the 12th time in the last 16 meetings between the teams. Tony Gonzalez and Clay Dalrymple batted across two runs each for Philadelphia.

★ ★ ★

Art Mahaffey ended a personal six-game losing string with relief help from John Boozer and won his third against eight setbacks.

Burdette, 36-year-old Brave right-hander who is on the trading block, gave the punchless Mets only three singles for his sixth victory. Aaron warmed up with a two-run single in the third inning that opened the scoring, then belted his 18th homer with two aboard in the fourth.

JESTER — Pitcher Lew Burdette, always a jester, is unconcerned over the continued talks that he is to be traded. He is making the expected trade tough for the Braves by turning in some good performances as yesterday's 3-hit, 3-0 win over the Mets.

Burdette Scoffs at Trade Talk

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves are hurting at the gate and they'd like to unload veteran Lew Burdette and his hefty salary. However, the fidgety right-hander is putting the brass in somewhat of a bind.

★ ★ ★

Burdette laughed at trade talk in a pitcher's best manner Wednesday night as he allowed only three harmless singles in a 9-0 victory over the New York Mets.

"To heck with the trading business," the 36-year-old Burdette said. "I just want to pitch regularly."

The Braves asked waivers on Burdette only last month. The waivers were recalled when the St. Louis Cardinals expressed a willingness to accept fidgety Lew's reported salary of $50,000.

Milwaukee General Manager John McHale denied the report, but it has been no secret that Burdette has been on the market since he dipped to a 10-9 record last season.

"He looks as good to me as he ever did," said New York outfielder Duke Snider, who probably has appeared at the plate against Burdette as much as any National League hitter since Lew's debut in 1951.

"About the only difference now is that he throws a knuckler every once in a while," Snider said. "I just wish he'd throw the knuckler to me more often. I'm a good knuckleball hitter. However, he has all the pitches—and he still has good control."

Burdette, whose 179 major league victories include six in 11 decisions this year, admitted that he couldn't "help but think a little about all the trade talk."

"You hear rumors every year, but this is the first time I think I've ever been really involved in serious discussion," he said. "I can do only one thing—go out there and do my best. I have a lot of pitching left and I can't let trade rumors rattle me."

Said Milwaukee Manager Bobby Bragan: "If he pitches like that, he has to be in the untouchable class."

★ ★ ★

Only 5,470 fans turned out for the game. That raised Milwaukee's home attendance to 213,021 for 28 dates, a falloff of 43,507 compared with last season when the Braves drew less than one million for the first time.

Britons Think Clay Will Have His Day

By the Associated Press

LONDON (AP) — A British bookie analyzed the training form of Cassius Clay and British heavyweight champion Henry Cooper today and made the brash American a 1-5 favorite to win their fight at outdoor Wembley Stadium next Tuesday.

Charles James Woolgar said: "Boxing is unpredictable and Cooper could get in that left hook of his to shake Clay. He could knock out Clay with that one punch. But I must make Clay the favorite."

CALLED BUM

Clay, unbeaten 21-year-old fighter known as the "Louisville Lip," has called just about everybody in the heavyweight bracket from world champion Sonny Liston to Cooper a "bum," "a no good," "a tramp,"...etc., etc.

★ ★ ★

The result has been a certain freezing toward Clay from British sports writers and hundreds of insulting letters—many of them anonymous—from fans to Clay.

So we gave fans who watched Clay train a chance to have their say. This was their reaction:

Woolgar: "I think he's a great showman. If he fights half as good as he talks then he should be great."

★ ★ ★

Tony McMahon, 29-year-old cab driver: "I think Clay will knock out Cooper between the fifth and seventh rounds. He talks a lot—but I love him."

Michael Quinn, 26-year-old baker: "I think Clay is a bum. He talks too much. But he'll still Cooper in five—just as he says."

Hugh Quinn, 22-year-old conductor: "I reckon somebody like Clay is good for the game."

Michael Francis, a Jamaican living in London: "Clay should concentrate more on boxing and stop acting."

★ ★ ★

Seymour Williamson, a 28-year-old bus driver: "I think his style of publicity is good for the game. I think he'll beat Cooper."

One thing is certain: Clay has fired the imagination of the British boxing public like no other man in years. Promoter Jack Solomons predicts the fight will be a 55,000 sell out. Even the weigh-in will be a show. It will be held on the stage of the London Palladium—Britain's last big vaudeville theater. It holds 2,338 people.

No Intention of Rejoining WBA

State Seeks Title Bout for Lane

MUSKEGON (UPI) — State Boxing Commissioner David Gudelsky said today that Michigan has no intention of rejoining the World Boxing Association.

Although applauding the WBA action this week in stripping Carlos Ortiz of his world lightweight title, Gudelsky said, "We're remaining out of the WBA until we get a few other things straightened out."

The State Athletic Board of Control pulled Michigan out of the WBA last week because of Ortiz' refusal to meet Muskegon southpaw Kenny Lane and the WBA's delay in forcing a title fight. Lane is the No. 1 challenger to the lightweight throne.

Lane, 31, who owns a previous victory over the Puerto Rican, was optimistic that the lightweight crown that has eluded him so long "will be in someone else's hands and I hope they're mine.

The Muskegon boxer narrowly missed winning the title in 1958 when he lost a close decision to then-champion Joe Brown.

But even if Lane gets a title fight, Gudelsky said, "it wouldn't make any difference on our stand. We're going to stay pretty much independent of the WBA until somebody sets down the law. If that isn't going to happen, there's no use for such agencies."

Gudelsky said he was "very happy" with the action against Ortiz "but it should have been done some time ago. Ortiz thought he was going to bluff his way through."

The commissioner was highly critical of Ortiz' manager, Bill Daly of Englewood, N.J. Gudelsky charged Daly demanded "outlandish" purse guarantees from Lane in order to avoid a fight with him.

"He's been asking $70,000 for fights and said he could get $80,000 in Puerto Rico," Gudelsky said. "He's asking for Ft. Knox, while Harold Johnson defended his title for $30,000."

Ortiz can protest the action at an August meeting of the WBA. But Lane said there should be a title fight before then, presumably with the No. 2 challenger, Paulie Armstead of Los Angeles.

"I don't know what other logical bout there is for the title," Lane said.

★ ★ ★

Lane also attacked Daly, who he said "has no place in boxing. He was involved in the Don Jordan mess in California. Why he can't get a license in most states."

Gudelsky said he can't see any value in re-joining the WBA. "New York doesn't belong and they're getting their share of fights."

Haggarty Wins Senior Golfers Tournament

PORT HURON (AP)—George Haggarty, a southpaw golfer from the Country Club of Detroit, yesterday won the spring tournament of the Michigan Seniors Golf Association with a 36-hole total of 144.

Haggarty had a 71 Tuesday at the Black River Country Club and shot a 73 Wednesday at the Port Huron Golf Club. He previously won the association's fall tournament for three straight years.

★ ★ ★

Runnerup was Paul Sukenik from New Hudson with a 78-75—153.

In Class A play for golfers 75 and over, low gross winner was George T. Egan of Dearborn Country Club with a 91 for 18 holes. Bert G. Goslin of Battle Creek Country Club was low net winner with 75.

Winners of other classes, over 36 holes, were:

Class B (70-74)—Low gross, C. J. Farley, Grand Rapids, 156; low net, Owen Dudley, Country Club of Jackson, 144.

Class C (65-69)—Low gross, Dr. Martin P. O'Gara, Washtenaw Country Club, 157; low net, Raymond Lewis, Flint Golf Club, 136.

Class D (60-64)—Low gross, Harvey Olson, Lochmoor Country Club, 156; low net, George Maghielse, Lochmoor, 144.

Class A (55-57)—Low gross, Fred Andreae, Port Huron Golf Club, 154; low net, Curtis Becker, Plum Hollow Golf Club, and W. E. Woodford, Owosso Country Club, tied at 45 each. Becker won the draw for top place.

Racing Gains in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's harness racing season is averaging 63.6 per cent greater attendance and 43.6 per cent bigger mutuel handle than last year's record pace.

The Illinois Harness Racing Commission reported Wednesday that 811,515 fans, wagering $41,158,732 have turned out in the first 90 days of the season.

Attendance, averaging 9,017 at the already completed Washington Park winter and Maywood Park seasons and the current Sportsman's Park meet, is up more than 3,500 a night over a year ago.

NCAA Trackmen See 4 World Marks

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Four world records and a host of meet marks may topple during the three-day national collegiate track and field championships beginning tonight at the University of New Mexico.

Four athletes—two each from Washington and Arizona State—will go after world records in the pole vault, broad jump, 220 and 440-yard dashes.

The talent-packed 18-event program includes only one final tonight, the six-mile run.

TRIALS TONIGHT

Trials are scheduled tonight in the pole vault, high jump broad jump, hurdles races and all flat races through the 880.

Pole vault qualifying will go only to 15 feet 4 inches so Brian Sternberg of Washington must wait until Saturday's finals for a chance to up his own pending world mark of 16-8.

★ ★ ★

But teammate Phil Shinnick will have a chance at the broad jump standard in preliminaries. Shinnick leaped from obscurity with a 27-4 jump at the California Relays last month but it didn't count as a world record because a wind gauge was not read.

Henry Carr and Ulis Williams of Arizona State are capable of setting new records in the 220 and 440 respectively.

★ ★ ★

Carr holds the pending world 220 mark of 20.3 seconds and Williams has dipped under the listed 440 standard of 45.7, though Adolph Plummer of New Mexico has a 44.9 mark pending. Plummer can't compete because he has already appeared in three NCAA championships.

★ ★ ★

Al Lawrence of Houston, via Australia, is a lukewarm choice in the six-mile but Rich Cuddihy of Oregon State, Julio Marin of Southern California, Dan Murphy of San Jose and Vic Zwolak of Villanova all are threats in the field of 17.

The pole vault lost two of its five 16-footers when C. K. Yang of UCLA and Gerald Pratt of Texas Southern withdrew because of injuries. Yang, decathlon record holder, remained in the high hurdles and javelin.

Teacher, Coach Retires at Cranbrook

A French teacher and tennis coach at Cranbrook School, who numbers among his hobbies mountain climbing, is leaving the school this year.

Howard R. Coan is leaving his position at Cranbrook, one which he held for the past 15 years, because of a policy of mandatory retirement.

However he's not leaving education. He will assume the same duties at Suffield Academy, Suffield, Conn., a boys school with an enrollment of 250.

Coan became interested in mountain climbing while a small boy in Urumia, Persia, where he was born. The son of missionary parents, he came to the United States in 1912.

He has scaled Mont Blanc and lesser peaks in the Alps and Pyrenees; Nevada de Toluca-Popocatepetl and Citlaltepel (18,700 feet) in Mexico. His latest venture was in 1950 in Canada.

Beginning with his first year here, Coan's French students have regularly competed with some 2,000 others from schools of Greater Detroit in the national contest of the American Association of Teachers of French. Every year his students have been among the top three at each of the four year levels; one year they won the top position at all four levels.

Some 30 Detroit schools, public and independent participate. A credit to him and the school, his winners have frequently gone on to win a place in the regional competition, which has placed them among the top score of students at their year level.

Big League Soccer Seeking Foothold

A big step toward full-time, professional soccer in Detroit will be taken at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the University of Detroit Stadium.

West Ham United of England will meet Preussen-Munster of West Germany then in the first International Soccer League game ever played in Detroit. For the first time area fans will be viewing a scheduled league match with a definite championship bearing.

Both West Ham and Munster are members of the International Soccer League, now in its' fourth year of operation. This season games are being staged in New York, Detroit, Chicago and in Chicopee, Mass., involving pro teams from 15 countries.

In an effort to sell top soccer to Michigan, Ontario and Ohio fans, a handful of soccer enthusiasts have banded together to form ISL-Detroit.

The West Ham-Munster game is this seasons first presentation.

Serving as the official hostess at the ISL games in Detroit will be Marilyn Beatie of Lake Orion, who is Miss ISL - Detroit. She is employed by a Bloomfield Hills photographic concern.

MISS BEATIE West Ham is one of England's oldest clubs. Back in 1923 they played Bolton Wanderers in the final game for the English cup, in the first game ever presented at famous Wembley Stadium.

After 126,047 fans jammed into the arena the gates were closed. Fans broke down the barriers and more than 200,000 spectators eventually saw the game.

Preussen-Munster has been in existence since 1906, led by Richard Schneider, who for several years led Kaiserlautern to a number of National championships, Munster has won its way into the new German Super League after being a leading member of the strong West German league since 1948.

Depending on the outcome of the June 16 game, and another league contest, July 21 between Gornik (national champions of Poland) and Wiener S.C. of Austria, ISL Detroit will stage 9 games next summer.

Eventual plans call for the formation of a Continental League, which will include clubs from the U.S. Canada and Mexico.

Tickets the day of the game are scaled from $5 for box seats to $2.50 for general admission. Students will be admitted for 50 cents.

Special advance price tickets, $2.25 general admission and $3.00 reserved, are on sale at U. of D., Grinnells, and at all Biffs Coffee Shops in the Metropolitan area.

3 Softball Nines Nab 2nd City Wins

G & M Construction, Pontiac State Hospital and Buettner's Cleaners all chalked up win No. 2 in city softball action last night.

The victories tied the first two teams with Circle Inn for the Class B lead, while Buettner's climbed into a first place Class C deadlock with Bud & Lou's Bar.

G & M pinned a 7-3 defeat on Local 653's "B" team, PSH topped Motorcar Transport, 4-2, Buettner's beat Jet Bar 12-9, and the Local 653's "C" nine won its first, 14-2 over Pontiac Millwork.

Art Brown's two-run first inning homer sparked a three-run outburst that led the hospital team to its win. Charles Schneider permitted six hits and fanned a like number to gain the win.

Two doubles and two singles gave G & M four opening inning scores that were all hurler Dwight Butler needed. He was touched for four safeties.

A tight 4-3 contest broke wide open in the sixth inning when Buettner's tallied nine times against Jet Bar. Six walks, three hits and an error featured the rally.

Local 653 scored in all but one inning to wallop Pontiac Millwork. Jim Robinson had a double and triple to pace the attack. Pete Styles hurled a three-hitter for the win.

Tonight's games will have three A games on display. A twin bill at Beaudette Park will pit Arro Realty against 300 Bowl at 7 p.m. and Howe's Lanes against Dave's Boys at 8:30 p.m.

At Northside Park, the 7 p.m. game will send Bob & Larry's Bar against PSH in a "B" contest, and Monicatti will play Elks 810 in the nightcap.

'C' Contests Featured in Waterford

Fifth-inning rallies brought A&W Root Beer and Rockcote Paint Waterford Township softball victories last night at Drayton Plains.

The soft drink team topped Haskins Chevrolet, 14-9, to extend its Class C league lead to two games. Rockcote painted a 7-3 loss on Dixie Bar's record in the other "C" contest.

A&W tallied three times in the fifth inning to take a lead it never relinquished, and a seven-run explosion the following frame iced the verdict.

* * *

Leo Placencia bombed out three singles and a triple for six runs batted in to help Algie Black, in relief, post his sixth win. The winners are 6-1.

Mickey Dean's two hits drove in three runs for Haskins, now 4-3.

* * *

A five-run outburst in the fifth inning gave Rockcote its win. The big blow for the painters was Karl Froling's two-run single. Dennis McConkey hurled a five-hitter that evened the winners' log at 3-3, and dropped Dixie out of a fifth-place tie.

Tonight, a Class C twin bill at the Drayton Plains softball park will have Dinky's Hideaway playing Lakeland Pharmacy at 7 p.m. and Haskins meeting Huron Bowl at 8:30 p.m.

Arizona Hits Missouri Ace at NCAA Meet

OMAHA (AP) — Alert Arizona proved with lusty hitting that Missouri's pitching staff isn't invincible—and it may be that some spy work was the turning point of the college world series.

The Wildcats climbed all over Missouri's heralded Jack Stroud Wednesday night, rocking him for two homers and handing him his first collegiate loss. The 6-4 victory over the nation's No. 1 ranked team left Arizona the only unbeaten club in the tournament.

The NCAA's double-elimination event enters its fourth round tonight with only Arizona sure of sticking around another day. The Wildcats play Texas after Missouri faces Southern California. Texas, Missouri and Southern California are 2-1 in the series.

The Longhorns ousted Penn State 6-4 in 10 innings Wednesday after blowing a 4-0 lead with two out in the ninth.

Southern California eliminated Florida State 4-3 gunning three Seminole runners down at the plate.

Nancy Schnering's SKI SCHOOL

FUN FOR ALL

Water skiing is growing so fast it is impossible to say accurately how many are actually enjoying the sport in this country.

While you're saying a figure, it jumps up. The latest reliable estimate I've head is seven million.

The sport is within reach of just about anybody who is within reach of a sizable body of water.

EQUIPMENT

Water skiing requires a minimum of equipment, none of which is priced out of sight. You don't have to own a boat.

You may have a friend who does. You can ski from behind all sorts of craft from speed boats to outboard-powered house boats.

Even if you don't have a friend with a boat, you can ski. There are 500 or more organized water ski clubs in the country.

Most of them have boats and some community equipment, which the beginner can use while he's learning the basics from experienced skiers and having a fine time in congenial company in the process.

* * *

Water skiing is thrilling and spectacular, yet as safe as any participation sport if you follow the rules and take a few basic precautions.

It is a sport for both sexes and all ages. Some boys and girls I know started before they could swim, which is not a recommended practice.

I know an 80-year-old gentleman who is as chipper as anyone you ever saw on the water.

Rec Department Sets Summer Tennis Clinic

The Pontiac Recreation Department has announced its summer tennis clinic for youths and adults.

The youth program will begin Monday June 24 and continue through August 15. The program is open to children 8-16 years of age, and will be conducted at the Crofoot tennis courts on Monday and Wednesday at 9:00 a.m. On Tuesday and Thursday the program will be held at the Oakland Park tennis courts at the same times.

The adult program will start June 26 and run through August 14. The program will be held on Wednesday nights at 7:00 and 9:00 on the Oakland Park Courts. Registration fee is $8.00.

Registration for the youth program can be made at the courts, adults should register at the recreation office before June 24. All participants must provide their tennis shoes and tennis racquet.

ANCHORS

Under ordinary circumstances — such as when you want to linger awhile in one spot to fish, enjoy the scenery, or picnic — almost any weight that is heavy enough and held by a strong line will serve as a satisfactory makeshift anchor for small craft.

* * *

There are times, as in anchoring for the night, when greater security against drifting is essential.

That's when a more sophisticated device should be employed for holding your boat.

2 DESIGNS

There are so many different designs of manufactured anchors that it is impractical to list them all.

The Navy, Danforth, yachtsman Northill, plow, Bedell, and a host of other types are all eminently suited to the purposes for which they were primarily designed.

If you intend to purchase one of these types, it would be well to learn which is best adapted to the type of bottom in the waters you most frequently sail.

* * *

Generally speaking, the small craft operator will find that either a grapnel or mushroom anchor will meet his needs.

The grapnel has five or six claws which can hook into rocks or submerged growth. It is generally agreed this type is best for anchoring small craft on sandy or muddy bottoms, although some boatmen argue just the opposite.

The mushroom is generally believed best for anchoring on a rocky bottom since its toadstool-like shape precludes snagging.

Player Voting to Begin Soon for All-Star Game

NEW YORK (AP) — In small circles around major league baseball dugouts, players, coaches and managers were discussing today how to single out the top players for starting berths in the 1963 All-Star baseball game at Cleveland, July 9.

The little knots began to form with notification Wednesday from the office of Commissioner Ford Frick that polling of the clubs for the All-Star classic would be held the week of June 21-27. Only one All-Star game will be played this year. For the past four years, two have been played.

* * *

The voting will determine the starting teams, with the exceptions of pitchers. The hurlers and the remainder of the 25-man squads will be picked by the managers, Al Dark of the National League and Ralph Houk of the American.

Players, coaches and managers select the starters, who must play at least the first three innings unless injured. They do not vote for players on their own teams.

The names of the starters will be released June 27. The remainder of the squads will be announced the following week—the American, July 2; the National, July 5.

The National League won the first 1962 All-Star Game 3-1, but the Americans took the second 9-4. The American leads in the series with 17 victories to 15 for the National.

Mt. Holly Switches Slope Activities

Skiing season is over but Mt. Holly ski area has a summer full of activity for its slopes, chalet and lounge.

Chair lift rides, pony and stage rides, picnics and parties take up much of the summer calendar.

Starting Friday night and continuing each Friday and Saturday nights during June, July and August, dancing on the foot of the slopes is available for teenagers.

Admission is 75 cents and dancing starts at 9:00 p. m. No shorts or bermuda wear is permitted.

THREE-GALLON DIVIDEND ON EVERY TANKFUL!
"The first Dodge truck I owned was a 1958 model. It cost me less than a fifth of a cent a mile for repairs over 150,000 miles. I'm in the lime and fertilizer business and my trucks cover a lot of miles in fields, in low gear, with the engine running the spreading bed, too. Since 1958 I've bought nothing but Dodges and have five now. They give me about two miles to a gallon more than other makes I've owned. And I've never had a broken spring or axle with any of them!" Arthur Hutchcraft, Atlanta, Illinois. Dodge trucks keep getting more economical all the time. Those at your dealer's now are more than fifty ways better than the Dodge trucks of a year ago. And they're still priced lower than most of the competition, right in line with the rest. See them at your dependable Dodge truck dealer's. Ask him about his liberal truck finance plan!

Utah Truck Crash Claims 13th Victim

ESCALANTE, Utah (AP)—Marvin E. Porschatis, 29, Salt Lake City, Wednesday night became the 13th victim of a truck crash that killed five other adults and seven Boy Scouts.

★ ★ ★

Forty-six were on the stake truck Monday afternoon when it rolled backwards down a steep grade, then tipped over into a ravine southeast of here near Hole-in-the-Rock.

★ ★ ★

Porschatis suffered a skull fracture. He never regained consciousness.

Composer's Double Career Continues at Pell-Mell Pace

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — At 65, composer Roy Harris shows no sign of slowing down his double career.

He continues his teaching of a new generation of composers and the creating of a body of works that has enriched the musical literature of America.

THOMAS

Harris was born in Lincoln County, Okla., 65 years ago last Feb. 12. The date and the location are significant, since his music has been Lincolnesque in its individualism and its use of the American idiom.

★ ★ ★

His family moved to Covina, Calif., when he was 6. He first displayed his brilliance as a composer at UCLA, where he returned three years ago to conduct graduate seminars and other classes for young musicians.

He conducted the West Coast premiere of his Fifth Symphony at the current Los Angeles International Music Festival at UCLA. Between rehearsals he talked about the plight of the serious artist and about his birthday.

'WONDERFUL THINGS'

"Many wonderful things happened," said the affable, broad-faced composer. "The Philadelphia Orchestra commissioned my Ninth Symphony, which I have already finished. And the friends of Albert Schweitzer commissioned a large work for chorus and orchestra to celebrate Dr. Schweitzer's 90th birthday."

Although considered one of the country's successful composers, Harris admitted he cannot earn a living from composition alone.

★ ★ ★

"Not with five children," said Harris, whose offspring range from 7 to 19 years. "Perhaps I could have earned enough if I had written popular music or movie scores. But I never wanted to do the ones I was offered and I was never offered the ones I wanted.

"So I have to teach. I enjoy it; teaching is both a privilege and a responsibility.

NOTHING NEW

"There's nothing new about composers being unable to earn a living. Bach is the best selling composer today, but he didn't realize much from his work. Mrs. Mendelssohn wrapped meat in the original copies of Mendelssohn's Overture.

"Unfortunately, it takes two or three generations before a composer's work begins to pay off."

He said his own works get 25 to 30 performances by symphony orchestras per year, about 2,500 on radio.

Harris, who knew Hollywood when it was a pepper tree grove and Westwood when it was Chinese vegetable farms, has lived in recent years in Santa Monica. To give his children more of the rural life he knew as a boy, he is moving his family to a farm near Stockton, Calif., where his wife is head of the piano department of the University of the Pacific.

May City Building Valued Over Million

The value of new construction in Pontiac surpassed $1 million last month for the second time this year.

* * *

There were 179 building permits issued for an estimated $1,334,487 worth of construction in May, according to figures released by Carl F. Alt, city building inspector.

The month before there were 233 permits issued, but total construction value was only $477,470.

During May 1962, there were 222 permits issued for $594,059 in new construction.

HIGH SINCE JANUARY

Last month's construction valuation was the highest this year since January, when it topped $3-million.

Major reasons for the jump in May were permits for a $258,000 addition to First Presbyterian Church and a $393,000 elementary school on Cottage.

Permits for four commercial building totaled some $240,000 in value.

Home building showed a slight decline from April figures and still remains considerably behind last year's pace.

There were 33 permits issued for $213,975 worth of new family dwellings in May, compared to 34 permits for $221,800 in new homes the month before.

During May last year, 48 permits were issued for some $346,400 in new homes.

AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

Figures for the first five months show total construction far ahead of last year's pace, but home building slower.

* * *

Up to June 1 this year, 636 permits have been issued for $5,888,420 in new construction value. Up to June 1 last year, 541 permits had been issued and construction value totaled about $1,669,215.

However, as of June 1 this year, only 79 permits had been issued for some $508,275 worth of new homes, compared to 96 permits for $658,300 in new homes during the same period last year.

Youth Praised for Having More Idealism in U. S.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The idealism of American youth is more realistic and loftier than ever before, Chrysler Corp. Vice President David W. Kendall said last night.

Kendall told graduates of the Milwaukee vocational and adult schools that the idealism of youth could be symbolized by the popularity of the Peace Corps.

The young men and women preparing themselves at graduate schools, he said, also are symbolic.

He said they were not building bomb shelters as places to die, "but rather they are preparing themselves for the challenges of the living."

Hoffa Martyr Image Worries Reuther

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, said last night it's time the labor movement quit attacking James Hoffa, lest it make a martyr out of him.

Hoffa is the controversial president of the Teamsters Union.

Reuther told the Communications Workers of America Convention he had vowed personally not to discuss Hoffa, a device he said might prevent Hoffa from getting the kind of publicity on which the late Joe McCarthy thrived."

Opening lead—♣ Q

By OSWALD JACOBY

One of the best ways to win at bridge is to get a silly contract and then make it, as this hand from the Southeastern championships in Miami, Fla., shows.

With 20 high card points, South decided to jump to two spades after North responded with one heart to the opening diamond bid.

JACOBY

From then on North turned him every way but loose and there was South at a nice slam contract that had only one defect. There were two natural trump losers.

South gazed at dummy somewhat mournfully, but not mournfully enough to tell East and West that his cause was hopeless.

Dummy's ace of clubs held the first trick and South played the ten of spades. East had a problem. He did not know that South was looking only at a nine-seven-three of spades and East decided that it behooved him to play his queen. South put on the ace and when the jack dropped from the West hand South was able to ruff out his last low club, pick up the rest of the trump suit with the loss of only one trick and chalk up the impossible slam.

East had been faced with a tough play, but he could have afforded a low card on that first spade lead just in case West did hold that singleton jack.

♠♣CARD Sense♦♥

Q—The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
2 ♣	Double	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	4 N.T.	Pass	5 ♣
Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠ 4 ♥ K J 9 7 ♦ A Q 8 6 ♣ K 7 4 3

What do you do?

A—Bid six diamonds. You might keep on playing hide and seek by going to five no-trump, but your partner has taken charge and diamonds is your best suit.

TODAY'S QUESTION

West bids four spades over your double and your partner doubles. What do you do now?

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

For Friday

"The wise man controls his destiny Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Associate may be embarrassed and keep entire truth from you. Be diplomatic. But don't be "taken in." Journey may be necessary to straighten out misunderstanding.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Favorable lunar aspect highlights social and new business activity. Extend hand of friendship. Display willingness to cooperate. Golden Rule best guide.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Get together with family members. Don't hesitate to write or use telephone. Make contacts which enhance FUTURE OPPORTUNITIES. Morning could result in favorable business changes.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Use wit, humor to get message across. Others cannot sympathize if they do not know your feelings. Be specific, especially in dealing with members of opposite sex.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Emphasis on finances. Worry accomplishes little. Make resolutions regarding spending, earning power. You soon are in position where talents are appreciated. Know this—act accordingly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Take your time. Be deliberate, especially where contracts, agreements are concerned. Read fine print. Don't commit yourself to proposition that is too expensive. MODERATE.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): What appears easy on surface could be trap. Be discriminating. Don't accept first offer. Look around. Tonight, confide in friends. Be with those who are congenial.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): CONFIDE is key. Much in your favor. Good day for making changes, vacation plans. Tonight excellent for being with person who attracts you. Break out of recent emotional rut.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Be AWARE. Find out what's going on around you. Means be willing to LISTEN. Many want to confide in you, but you must display willingness to be open-minded. Be more flexible!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Recent discovery can aid major project. Let others know you have resources. Don't permit yourself to be "left at the gate. Do some double-checking.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Hunch regarding money matters could be key to greater security. Intuitive intellect active. Listen to "inner voice." One who claims to know it all may be bluffing. CHECK!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Stress greater independence today. Display talents. Be original. Lead the way. Refuse to follow the crowd. You earn much respect IF you stick to your guns. Have fun tonight!

IF FRIDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You possess great intellectual curiosity and would make fine investigator, writer, psychologist. You have unique way of being charming.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Secrets are "pushed" and likely to involve international agreements.

Auto Production Has Tough Time Keeping Pace With Sales

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — Auto production lines, turning out cars at near-record figures, still are having a hard time keeping up with booming sales.

May figures showed U.S. auto companies produced 715,772 cars in May, while dealers sold 715,308 in that same period. Some of those sold were shipped abroad.

The approximately 33,000 dealers had fewer new cars on hand June 1 than on any similar date since 1955.

The total of 967,087 units in dealer hands, or in transit to dealers, represented about a 33 days' supply at a current selling rates. It contrasted with the May 1 totals of 985,863 and 36 days.

A breakdown of the June total showed General Motors dealers had an average 30-day supply of cars on hand; Ford 36½; Chrysler 40 and American Motors 41.

The car which was in shortest supply was the Buick Riviera, of which a 20-day sales quota was on hand. At the other end of the poll was Studebaker. (82 days).

NO SLACKENING

Auto makers, confident of posting their second successive 700,000 sales this month, showed no slackening in their over-all production pace.

There were indications they would begin cutting back soon on those particular models which were selling at the slowest pace.

Industry sources expressed belief the traditional August-September cleanup sales would be strong enough to carry the sale of 1963 models to over the seven-million mark.

Several auto makers—including Chrysler Corp., Mercury, Oldsmobile and Chevrolet—were using various types of incentive campaigns to encourage dealers and salesmen to even better selling marks in the remaining months of the 1963 model run.

★ ★ ★

Chevrolet's campaign, for example, is aimed at seeing that by July 31 no Chevrolet dealer will have in inventory any new car or truck over 60 days old; that he will have no used cars which have been in his inventory for more than 30 days, or used trucks for 45 days.

GETS ATTENTION

The used car market is getting particular attention from all dealers who want to trim their stock as much as possible before the 1964 models come out.

May used car sales were the highest for that month since 1955, but the inventory on May 31 was the highest it had been in several years.

Dealers reportedly were not concerned about the volume of used cars on hand, for they figured that in the weeks ahead some customers unable to get the exact 1963 model that they want, would settle for a low vintage, clean used car.

2 Area Men to Aid Dinner

23 Picked to Assist for Michigan Week Fete

Two area residents were among 23 men from across the state named by Frederick C. Matthaei to assist in preparatinns for the Michigan Week recognition dinner which will be held in East Lansing next Tuesday.

They are Virgil E. LaMarre, of 237 Tilbury, Bloomfield Township and Paul L. Penfield, of 752 Lakeside, Birmingham.

The 23-man committee represents 19 state communities.

At the dinner, which will be addressed by Gov. George Romney, awards will go to 10 persons for citizen leadership. Herbert G. Daverman of Grand Rapids, who was general chairman of the 10th annual Michigan Week last month, will also be honored.

Market Unevenly Higher

Motors, Tobaccos Move Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors and tobaccos were ahead as the stock market moved unevenly higher in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

★ ★ ★

Twentieth Century-Fox dropped 2 points at worst following the premiere of its $40 million movie, "Cleopatra," later paring a fraction from the loss.

Gains of fractions to a point or so among most key stocks outnumbered losers. The gain on average was moderate.

Steels, building materials, rails, farm implements, airlines, nonferrous metals, and office equipments were mostly higher.

LOWER TREND

The trend was lower among building materials and chemicals. Savings-and-loan holding companies were mixed in the wake of news that some additional savings and loan associations were reducing the interest rates paid on savings accounts.

The market opened mixed, with many stocks unchanged, then gradually assumed a higher tone.

★ ★ ★

Analysts said that although "Cleopatra" was greeted mostly with critical acclaim, the question still remained as to how long it would take Fox to get back its investment in the movie, which amounts to about $15 a share—nearly half of the stock's current price.

ON AMERICAN

The American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly higher in moderate trading. Syntex was off about 5 points after trading was temporarily halted on two occasions, once because of a build up of sell orders and once for an influx of buy orders. Gains of a point or so were made by Paddington "A," Soss Manufacturing, Stanley Aviation, Technicolor, National Rubber Machinery, Community Public Service, Irving Air Chute and National Video "A." Insurance Co. of North America dropped about a point.

May Oust Head of EMU Today

Expect State Board to Act at College

CHICAGO (AP)—An official of the North Central Association today said the organization never has insisted that its report on Eastern Michigan University be kept confidential.

LANSING (AP)—Action concerning Eastern Michigan University—including the possible firing of President Eugene Elliott — was expected today from the State Board of Education.

The four-man board was to meet with Elliott in early afternoon to act on the basis of several reports concerning the Ypsilanti school, whose administration has been severely criticized.

Dr. Lynn Bartlett, superintendent of public instruction and secretary of the board, said "Some action will be taken," but did not elaborate.

Elliott, meanwhile, said he was prepared to lose his job but will not resign. He said he expects to be asked for his resignation for the seventh time in four weeks at today's meeting.

"My answer will be the same," Elliott stated, "No."

A QUESTION

How long Elliott would remain as president at EMU has been a question since the board of education received a report from the North Central Association (NCA) on conditions at the school.

The report which has been labeled "confidential" by the board, is reportedly critical of the administration.

Copies of the report have been unavailable to the governor or the press. Gov. George Romney has been trying to obtain a copy since last month.

The board of education has been unanimous in refusing the governor's request, contending that the NCA provided copies of the report on the promise that it would remain secret.

Elliott says he has read the report, but does not have a copy. "There is nothing in the report recommending that anybody be fired," he said. "I think the State Board of Education's actions are political."

Heavy Selling Hits Corn and Soybeans

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavier selling in the form of profit cashing was apparent in corn and soybean futures today and prices of both commodities were steady to easier in early transactions on the board of trade.

Old crop soybeans slipped about a cent during the first several minutes. New crop months eased small fractions. Wheat also met a little pressure and declined major fractions in spots.

Brokers said the trade was almost entirely on speculative accounts. However, some export business was noted in soybeans for August shipment.

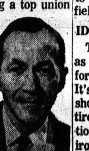
For Industrial Unions

Sabbaticals Top Goal

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — Sabbaticals for industrial workers as well as professors are becoming a top union goal.



DAWSON

The United Steelworkers of America union is expected to reveal next week whether it has won such extended vacations from the major steel companies.

This union got sabbaticals accepted by American Can and Continental Can companies last fall for their 32,000 union members.

The steelworkers have been pushing hard to extend this to the basic steel companies in the negotiations that have been going on for weeks and which are set to reach a climax in the next few days.

★ ★ ★

The sabbatical leave, as set forth in the can company contracts, calls for 13 weeks of paid vacations every five years for employes with 15 years or more seniority. This is an additional to the usual vacations in other years.

If the steel industry agrees, other unions may be expected to try to reach like contracts in many fields.

IDEA PUT FORTH

The sabbatical idea is put forth as one of several labor programs for combatting unemployment. It's a spread-the-work plan, like shorter work weeks, earlier retirements, longer annual vacations, and various schemes for ironing out the ups and downs of employment in industries with strong cyclical patterns.

Managemant's chief objection has been the cost. Someone else has to be paid while the older employe—also being paid—is enjoying his 13 weeks off. The extra expense is added to a long list of rising costs that push production charges higher and squeeze profits or boost prices, or both.

Another factor is that the increased number of employes on the payroll because of sabbaticals, or longer annual vacations, or shorter work weeks means that many more in line for fringe benefits. These range from pensions to health insurance, to unemployment payment charges, to paid vacations.

MORE EMPHASIS

And fringe benefits have been getting more emphasis than straight wage scale increases in labor negotiations in recent years.

But the unions see the sabbatical as one of their best schemes for combatting the unemployment they lay to increased automation. Job security is a big thing this year.

Sylvan Lake Council Post Is Filled

A vacancy on the Sylvan Lake City Council was filled last night with the appointment of Donald A. Tews, 1936 Lakeland, Sylvan Lake, to the post.

Tews, assistant friend of the court for Oakland County, has lived in Sylvan Lake for the past nine years. He will serve until the November election.

He fills the unexpired term of Edwin F. Clark, a six-year veteran on the council. Clark resigned a month ago in a dispute over the payment of sick leave and vacation pay to a public works employe.

In other action, the council approved a recommendation from W. Dale Hansen, 2120 Garland, Sylvan Lake, that the steering committee set up to develop the proposed community center be dissolved.

★ ★ ★

Hansen, chairman of the group, said the steering committee had done its job. He submitted his resignation effective June 24.

Hansen also reported that a lengthy list of summer recreation acitvities, offering instruction in everything from bridge playing to swimming and judo, has been set up.

'Racial Crisis to Worsen if Rights Legislation Fails'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Negro congressman told the House Judiciary subcommittee today that the present racial crisis will become worse if Congress fails to pass strong civil rights legislation this session.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., made the statement after Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the committee, pleaded with Diggs and other Negro leaders to halt planned demonstrations in Washington.

Celler said he had heard reports that Negro freedom marchers intend to come to Washington and stage sit-ins in the offices of congressmen who oppose civil rights legislation.

'CAN ONLY HURT'

"I assure you there will be a tremendously deep reaction to such moves," Celler said. "It can only hurt your cause."

"If rational counsel is to prevail among the mass of Negroes," replied Diggs, "then Congress will have to give the moderates, such as myself, the necessary weapons—and that means the whole civil rights package."

★ ★ ★

Diggs was accompanied to the hearing by Aaron Henry, Mississippi president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, whose home in Clarksdale, Miss., was bombed last April while Diggs was visiting him.

Henry recited the perils and difficulties of Negro leadership in Mississippi, leading off with a refence to Medgar W. Evers, NAACP leader in Jackson, Miss., who was killed early Wednesday by a shot from ambush.

'CLOSEST FRIEND'

His head bowed and his eyes lowered, Henry said Evers was to have joined him at the witness table today to tell of racial violence in Jackson. "He was perhaps my closest friend," Henry said. "We were in this battle for five years."

U. S. Quizzes Cuban Raiders

MIAMI (UPI) — U.S. authorities today questioned a small band of Cuban commandoes who claimed they badly damaged Cuba's biggest distilleries, killed many soldiers and sank a patrol boat during a raid this week.

The 10 raiders were detained yesterday when they pulled into the Florida Keys in a white-sailed fishing schooner with two prisoners and an anti-Communist seaman who sought asylum in the United States.

They said they commandeered the boat after their own cannon-loaded converted PT boat sank during a sea battle after midnight Tuesday.

A refugee group in Miami last night issued a battle report on the raid after hearing from the commandoes.

It said:

● "Many Castroite soldiers" were killed during a battle at the Arechabala distillery in Matanzas Province, Cuba's biggest producer of rum and other forms of alcohol.

● The distillery itself was shelled with cannon and machine-gun fire and suffered "serious damage."

● Two prisoners were taken.

● A Cuban coastal patrol boat was sunk in a sea battle as the raiders tried to escape.

★ ★ ★

The group said only one of the raiders, Avangelio Rufin Calaro, was hurt. He was in "fair condition" with a bullet in his back at a Key West hospital.

Business Notes

Joseph J. Lewis of 723 Squire Lane, Milford, has been named salesmanager of the Saginaw district of Kramer Consolidated Freight Lines, Inc.

He started in the trucking industry in 1949 as a steel truck driver. In 1954 he joined the traffic department of Pontiac Motor Division.

Lewis, who will move to Saginaw in the new future, has been active in United Fund drives and scouting activities. He is secretary of the Pontiac Federal Co-op Credit Union and a member of the Elks Club.

News in Brief

Oakland University has been raised in status from associate to institutional membership in the National University Extension Association. Extension courses at OU are conducted by the division of continuing education.

Fred LaLone, 2955 Watkins Lake Road, Waterford Township, told police yesterday that an electric drill valued at $44.15 was stolen from his garage.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. "I hold such stocks as American Telephone, Irving Trust, International Harvester, Southern California Edison, Standard Oil of California. My objective is income with safety of principal. I would like your opinion of U.S. Pipe & Foundry which carries a rather high yield." C.L.

A. You have done well with your finances and have built a good list, far better than average.

I cannot advise you to buy U.S. Pipe, which sells currently to yield 6.5 per cent. This return, under present market conditions, is so high that it casts some doubt as to the continuation of the current dividend rate. U.S. Pipe is a strong company in an industry which has been hurt by depressed prices and rising costs. Earnings have declined in each year since 1959, and, although some improvement is in sight, I doubt if it will be great enough to allow wide coverage of dividends.

For income and safety of principal, I suggest Maytag, yielding 4.5 per cent on its present indicated rate.

Q. "I bought General Motors at lower prices. I have seen that you advise buying this stock, but what about selling? Do you think this is the time to sell if you can afford to hold the shares only for a very limited period? I am putting myself through college and may need money at any time. What would you advise me to do? R.C.

A. I like General Motors and my general advice is to buy and hold this stock. However, you are in a rather unusual position, since there is a definite time limit on the retention of your shares. I can't emphasize too strongly my belief that no one should hold any stock knowing that it must be sold at a specific date, regardless of market condtions. I believe that in your special circumstances, I would accept my profits now and bank the money, where it will be safe from all market risk unti you need it.

Bandits Wound Therapist, Terrorize Couple in City

A Pontiac physical therapist was wounded and a young couple terrorized by three armed bandits during a robbery early this morning.

Escaping serious injury with only a scalp cut was Carl Hough, 58, a physical therapist, who operates a clinic at 170 State, where the robbery took place.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kleist, both 23-year-old, who occupy an apartment above the clinic, where not harmed.

About 3:45 a.m. the Kleists were awakened by noises on the stairway. When they opened the door of their apartment to investigate, they said, they were faced by a man wearing a woman's stocking over his head.

He forced them back to the bed at gun point and told them to lie face down. Another two men, one wearing a stocking on his head and the other with a handkerchief over his face, ransacked the apartment.

CARRY STEEL RODS

Two men carried steel rods for weapons.

All three left telling them not to move they said. Shortly after the intruders returned with Hough, who was bleeding from his head wound.

"I had been sleeping in my office when I heard someone say 'Get up. Get upstairs,'" Hough said. He said he had remained at the office after hours to treat himself for pleurisy.

Hough said he was shot when he tried to escape the trio while they were taking him upstairs. Police found a 38-caliber cartridge at the bottom of the stairs.

Nearly $800 was taken from Hough's office. About $10 was taken from the Kleists.

Upstairs Hough was bound by a cord from an electric razor.

Kleist phoned police moments after the men had left the apartment. He is a teacher at St. Trinity Lutheran School. His wife, JoAnn, is a teacher at Owens School.

★ ★ ★

Hough was treated at Pontiac General Hospital.

The method of entry to the clinic has not been determined.

Rowdyism Troubling Sylvan Lake

Sylvan Lake is an easy touch for rowdy teen-agers, according to complaints at the city's council meeting last night.

The council listened for nearly an hour to complaints of rowdyism on the city's two public beaches. One resident reported that Sylvan Lake had acquired a reputation as an "easy touch."

The complaining residents demanded that the council take action to determine who uses the municipal beaches.

According to the complaints, teen-agers from as far away as Birmingham have traveled to Sylvan Lake to swim. These outside teen-agers are uncontrollable, the complainants said.

DEFY POLICE

An unidentified woman said she saw beach offenders thumb their nose at the police.

She said one of the patrolmen attempted to check the swimmers for beach tags, which city residents must carry because the beaches are restricted to residents, but the teen-agers simply waded out into the water — out of reach of the law.

The council, after a lengthy discussion, decided to enlist the aid of volunteers in the neighborhood of the beaches to patrol against outsiders.

★ ★ ★

The volunteers will be tried for two weeks, while the city looks for "a couple of college kids with a little muscle" to police the beaches full time.

To Open Bids on River Bonds

Bids to purchase a $2.5-million bond issue for the downtown Pontiac Clinton River project will be opened by the Oakland County Drain Board June 26, Drain Commissioner Daniel Barry announced today.

★ ★ ★

The bonds are being sold to finance the project over a 30-year period.

The project calls for widening deepening and straightening the river to facilitate its flow through the downtown district.

The City Commission requested the work be done by the county drain commission in conjunction with the Urban Renewal Program and construction of a perimeter road around the district.

Barry said it will take about 18 months to complete the river project.

The contractor, R. E. Dailey & Co. of Southfield, is scheduled to start clearing a right-of-way along Union Monday.

The construction bonds will be paid off by a special assessment spread on county tax rolls in the city.

★ ★ ★

Issuance of the bonds was approved yesterday by the State Municipal Finance Commission in Lansing.

Cavanagh Gets Post at Mayors' Conclave

HONOLULU (AP)—Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh yesterday was elected to the advisory board of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Arthur L. Selland of Fresno, Calif., was elected president of the conference, which decided to hold its 31st annual meeting in New York City next year.

ENTERS CONVENT — Actress Dolores Hart, 24, is giving up a promising Hollywood career to become a nun. A 1948 convert to the Catholic faith, she said her decision to enter a Connecticut convent was not a hasty one.

Area Trustee Quitting Post

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP—Floyd Jaye, a Farmington Township trustee since 1961, has submitted his resignation.

Jaye told the other board members his job as personnel manager of Mueller Brass Co. in Port Huron had forced him to move out of the township.

His term would have expired in 1965. Jaye's successor has not been named.

Foreign Engineers to Tour I-75 Work

Sixteen engineers from 13 foreign countries were scheduled to arrive in Pontiac today for a State Highway Department tour of I-75 freeway construction.

The group was to be taken this morning along the route of I-75 under construction from Pontiac to Madison Heights, according to highway department district office manager James Body.

A look at Lodge Freeway construction in Southfield and Detroit was on the itinerary for this afternoon.

The engineers, who toured State Highway Department headquarters in Lansing yesterday, are fellowship students sponsored by the International Road Federation. They are enrolled in graduate courses at Ohio State and Purdue universities.

Morse Sees Tough Fight on Bias Bill

From Our News Wires

SOUTHFIELD — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., says he believes Congress will pass a civil rights bill this year. But it will be a long, tough fight, he said.

★ ★ ★

Morse said the civil rights battle in Congress "may take all year" because of a Southern filibuster.

"I fully expect to eat Christmas dinner in the senate," Morse said. "But Congress will be enthusiastic about the bill, and the filibuster will fail."

Morse said legislation is needed because the Constitution "has never been delivered to American Negroes."

'LEGISLATION NEEDED'

"Neither the Constitution nor the 14th amendment operate automatically," he said. "Implementing legislation is required to make them effective."

Morse also said that the United States should discontinue aid to Egypt until President Gamal Ebdel Nasser signs a peace treaty with Israel.

"Nasser intends to dump Israel into the sea as soon as he gets the power, and we keep pouring aid into his country," Morse said.

★ ★ ★

Morse, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told a dinner audience that "The most ominous threat is the Arab states' effort to develop a nuclear attack force with the assistance of German Nazi scientists."

Morse spoke at a testimonial dinner for Abe Kasle, an industrialist who started a forest in Israel in 1960.

CHATTANOOGA, Okla. (AP) — A drive through this southwestern Oklahoma community of 350 gives one a chance more or less to brush up on his American history.

Chattanooga's north - south streets are named, in order: Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Thompson, Monroe, Jackson, Van Buren, Tyler, Polk, Taylor.

Driver in Fair Condition After Automobile Skids

Stanley Hubbell, 28, of 5650 Dvorak, Independence Township, is in fair condition at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital after suffering injuries yesterday when his car skidded on a Waterford Township road and then suddenly stopped in the roadway.

Hubbell told police that his car, traveling south on Nancywood, slid on loose gravel as he was rounding a curve two blocks south of Highland Road.

Appoint Groups to Improve City

Five Subcommittees Named at Meeting

Five subcommittees to further community improvement and public relations were appointed last night at a meeting of the city's Civic Improvement Advisory Committee (CIAC).

E. Eugene Russell, president of the 70-member committee, said the effect of work by the subcommittees would probably not be felt until next fall, although each will meet regularly during the summer months.

Subcommittees appointed last night will work in the areas of public information, community planning, neighborhood improvement and participation, relocation and public housing and staff and assistance.

★ ★ ★

A housing problems subcommittee had already been appointed at an earlier meeting.

Each subcommittee will file a report at the next CIAC meeting in September, said Russell, Pontiac district commercial manager for Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

He also named John A. Riley, Pontiac Press advertising manager, as vice president to chair any CIAC meetings in in Russell's absence.

Arthur Dunlap was named treasurer of the CIAC.

The housing problems subcommittee, headed by Rev. Milton H. Bank, will study ways and means "to secure better housing for all ethnic and minority groups."

★ ★ ★

In a closely related program, the relocation and public housing group, headed by Robert F. Jackson, will develop a program to aid persons being relocated by urban renewal and similar projects and formulate plans for providing public housing projects where needed.

TWO-FOLD JOB

The community planning subcommittee is headed by Mrs. Charles Nasstrom.

It will have the two-fold job of informing citizens of city services, redevelopment and construction projects while also informing the city of wants and needs of citizens in various communities.

★ ★ ★

The neighborhood improvement and participation group, chaired by Victor L. Smothers, will work toward active programs by citizen groups, such as community clean-up campaigns.

Art Ellis will head the public information subcommittee, which publicizes activities of the general and subcommittees.

Providing information on industrial development, taxes, city government, civic and service organizations to the other subcommittees will be the task delegated to the staff and assistance group under Charles R. Elliott.

★ ★ ★

A survey already taken on community needs and problems will be tabulated and results announced at the September meeting.

Missing Ring Returned After 33 Year Lapse

FREDERICK, Okla. (AP) — Bill Willis was surprised when he found in a mailed package his high school ring he lost 33 years earlier.

It was found in a theater which was being remodeled. The finder checked the initials with records at Marlow (Okla.) High School and learned the name of the owner.

Lack of Funds Perils Program

May Cut Alcoholics' Therapy at Hospital

Pontiac State Hospital's 2-year-old alcoholic rehabilitation program may be curtailed, according to action earlier this week by the State Board of Alcoholism.

★ ★ ★

The hospital's alcoholic therapy program is partially subsidized by state monies. These funds come to the hospital through the alcoholism board in the form of yearly grants.

A request by Pontiac State Hospital for a grant of more than $9,000 was tabled for lack of funds this week by the State Board of Alcoholism.

The hospital had requested $7,892 to continue its present program next year and asked that a $1,300 surplus be added to the grant to provide for supplies and secretarial help.

★ ★ ★

The state board granted a total of $32,000 for work on alcoholic rehabilitation programs in other communities, but tabled proposed grants for Pontiac and Mount Clemens for lack of funds.

PASS RESOLUTION

In addition, the State Board of Alcoholism passed a resolution to seek additional funds from the State Legislature for its grants to local hospitals and clinics.

Ralph Daniel, executive director of the state board, said the object of the board was to help start local rehabilitation of alcoholics. He said that after the therapy projects get under way, it is hoped other means can be found to finance them.

He said this leaves the State Board of Alcoholism free to start similar therapy programs in other communities.

Loss of the state monies would "seriously curtail" the alcoholic therapy program at the local hospital, according to Dr. John Hsu, director of the program.

★ ★ ★

Daniel said Pontaic State Hospital's request would be considered further at the July 8 meeting of the board.

He indicated that Pontiac would probably get a portion of its request, but that the final decision rested with the board.

The Pontiac rehabiliation program currently handles 60 patients, according to George F. Blum, a specialist in working with alcoholism.

Blum said the $1,300 surplus would provide for drugs and medication that the hospital sometimes has a short supply of.

Grand Rapids Wins Traffic Safety Award

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — The city of Grand Rapids received an award today from the National Safety Council for outstanding accomplishments in traffic safety, as reported in the annual traffic inventory for 1962.

The award, second highest in the inventory program, was for the city's balanced over-all traffic program.

Star Sid Caesar Collapses on Stage

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Sid Caesar collapsed last night during the first act of his musical 'Little Me" at the Lunt-Fontaine theater in New York.

★ ★ ★

The curtain was dropped and the show was interrupted for eight minutes.

Caesar's condition termed "not serious," was blamed on exhaustion. "Little Me" is a multiple role show.

★ ★ ★

Assuming Caesar's roles was Mickey Deems. Burt Biers moved into Deems' roles, while Bier was replaced by Gene Gavin, an understudy.

Goldwater Ahead of Rocky for '64, Says Dick Nixon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon believes that Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., has eclipsed New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as the most likely candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

★ ★ ★

Nixon's views were given yesterday as he left Idlewild Airport with his family for a six-week vacation in Europe. They arrived this morning in Lisbon.

★ ★ ★

Nixon refused to comment on the impact of Rockefeller's recent remarriage, but said he felt that "Goldwater has gained sharply over Rockefeller in the last two months."

'CAESAR' AT PREMIERE — Actor Rex Harrison and wife Rachel arrive at New York's Rivoli Theater last night to attend the offical opening of the multimillion-dollar film "Cleopatra." Harrison stars as Caesar.

Some Jeers, Too

Praise Greets 'Cleopatra'

NEW YORK (AP) — "Cleopatra," $40 million worth of monumental movie, barged onto Broadway Wednesday night and was greeted mostly with critical acclaim.

★ ★ ★

The premiere at the Rivoli Theater was a celebrity-packed charity affair, featuring the added glitter of two of the film's stars: Rex ("Caesar") Harrison and Roddy ("Octavius") McDowall.

Elizabeth Taylor ("Cleo") and Richard Burton ("Antony"), whose real-life romance has added to the oceans of ballyhoo accompanying a picture four years in the making, remained in London.

5,000 OUTSIDE

Outside the theater, about 5,000 persons, barely controlled by mounted and foot policemen, surged against wooden barriers and perched on lamp posts and trash baskets to see such personalities as Helen Hayes, Eddie Albert, Paul Anka, Beatrice Lillie, Red Buttons and Joan Fontaine.

Bosley Crowther of the New York Times called the four-hour and three-minute film "a surpassing entertainment, one of the great epic films of our day . . . fraught with imperishable romance, adventure and tragedy."

★ ★ ★

Wanda Hale of the New York Daily News termed it a film "well worth waiting for," applauding the acting of all the principals and supporting players and saluting producer Joseph Mankiewicz as investing "the Caesar-Cleopatra affair with delicious humor."

A "thumbs-down" for the extravaganza came from Judith Crist of the New York Herald Tribune, who wrote that the movie "is at best a major disappointment, at worst an extravagant exercise in tedium."

'TREMENDOUS'

Rose Pelwick of the New York Journal-American said "tremendous is the word for 'Cleopatra' . . . it is the most dazzling screen spectacle ever made (and) unquestionably will be a fabulous success (with) magnificent settings . . . and dramatic excitement."

★ ★ ★

William Glover of the Associated Press viewed "Cleo" as "merely one more overlong, gaudy and ultimately tedious superscreen spectacle."

Joey's Taken Seriously—but When He Tells Jokes

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Joey Adams, being a comedian, often has trouble getting people to take him seriously. At a recent dinner, a fellow comic, Jackie Kannon, said, "Joey Adams has done even more for show business than John Wilkes Booth."

WILSON

But Joey now is getting taken seriously in some places because his book, "On the Road for Uncle Sam," has already sold 35,000 copies.

"So are you happy?" I asked Joey.

"Happy?" echoed Joey, president of the American Guild of Variety Artists, which is the night club performers' union.

Joey sees himself as America's Show Business Ambassador abroad — dauntlessly leading variety actors on laugh safaris, saving the world from communism with dances, songs and gags. The McClellan Committee has differed with him.

And then his wife Cindy and his mother-in-law—and his close friends—kid him.

As he tells it, one day in his 5th Ave. apartment, he mentioned he would like to serve his country.

★ ★ ★

"You want to serve your country"—authoress Cindy looked up from her thesaurus—"leave it."

"You want to serve your country," said his mother-in-law, Jessica Heller, "do jury duty."

One of the most sought-after toastmasters, Joey's busy constantly with charity projects. Often they don't take him seriously even on those.

"The only time they take me seriously," he says, "is where I tell jokes."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A fellow told us his wife does the most wonderful thing with left-overs: "She eats 'em herself."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A real example of a woefully oppressed minority is a man with a wife and two teen-age daughters.—Grit.

Merv Griffin Is Slated for Return to TV in Fall

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — After all the sound and fury, Merv Griffin is coming back to NBC in the fall—as host on a new morning game show.

There's a bit of irony in Tuesday's NBC announcement, for Griffin quit an NBC morning game show about a year ago in order to do "The Merv Griffin Show" in the afternoon on the network. Its cancellation three months ago for low ratings caused more anguish and noisy handwringing than any other single event of the television season.

★ ★ ★

Griffin's new show—which his production company will package —is called "Shopping Spree" and will be one of two new shows which will be added to the network's solid three-hour block of games shows starting at 10 a.m.

NBC lost "The Price Is Right" to ABC, starting in the fall. And it will drop, as expected, "Play your Hunch," which has been starring Robert Q. Lewis since Griffin quit the show.

★ ★ ★

"Shopping Spree" and another word game, "Missing Links" will replace them. It is probable that Robert Q. will move over to "Missing Links" as host.

TO HOST SHOW

Griffin will spend the summer serving as host on CBS' "Talent Scouts," on Tuesday night and playing in summer stock. He opened Monday night in "The Moon Is Blue" at Bucks County Playhouse.

Impending mothernood has raised hob with Carol Burnett's theater and television plans. Carol, now Mrs. Joe Hamilton, expects her first child after the first of the year, so her planned Broadway musical, hand-tailored by Betty Comeden and Aldolph Greene, has been postponed until spring.

★ ★ ★

This, in turn, has fouled up CBS plans for a Carol Burnett Television series for the 1964-65 season.

Carol started rehearsals for "Calamity Jane" in Dallas Tuesday, and after playing the show there, returns to New York for two weeks to adapt the show to television. It will be taped July 10 for use as a special next season. She also expects to make another CBS special in England during August.

California claims it produces more citrus fruit than any other states.

Union Rejects Talk Offer of Gov. Romney

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers rejected an invitation to meet with Gov. George George Romney yesterday to discuss Michigan's tax and fiscal problems.

Leonard Woodcock, vice president of the UAW, made public a letter to Romney in which the UAW said:

"We see no useful or constructive purpose to be served either by such a meeting or by our participation in it. We in the UAW demonstrated our support for sound and equitable fiscal reform in Michigan many years ago and do not need to be further persuaded as to its necessity."

Woodcock was the second major union official to turn down Romney's invitation to the Lansing meeting. August E. Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO, did so earlier today.

Woodcock charged that the governor recently sought the UAW's opinion on a proposed Canton-Ford Bill, governing payments to workers laid off because of a secondary strike.

"No serious consideration was given to our proposals," Woodcock said.

Union Elects Director

Fear Violent Reaction After Murder of Negro

By RELMAN MORIN

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — The grim potentialities for the whole nation in the killing of Medgar W. Evers, highly placed Negro leader, are particularly evident in the South today.

Southerners see the danger of strong Negro reaction setting up a strong counterreaction among the white populace and if that happens, as a southerner put it, "All hell will break loose."

Evers, Mississippi field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was shot in the back shortly after midnight Wednesday. He died 50 minutes later.

In the aftermath of his death, the outlook for the deeply aggravated struggle over civil rights in the United States appears to be taking these forms:

1. Increased aggressiveness among Negro organizations in the drive for full civil rights.

In numerous major cities, Negro leaders were in meetings. Telephone calls around the nation frequently brought the answer, "He is in conference."

After one such meeting, Arthur L. Johnson, Detroit NAACP official, said: 'The result of Evers'

death will be intensification of the drive of Negroes to achieve what Medgar wanted."

'MORE MILITANT'

In Atlanta, Julian Bond of the Student Nonviolent coordinating Committee said: "I definitely think it will make Negroes more militant. People we have working for us in Southwest Georgia and in Arkansas now want to go to Jackson."

2. Several southerners spoke of the possibility of white counterreaction.

Louis Eckl, editor of the Florence (Ala.) Times, said: "This is the danger: that people will stop thinking and start shooting.

"Generally speaking when you have a violent thing like this it firms the Negroes up. It is a highly explosive situation and liable to cause them to become more extreme in their actions and thinking, and could lead to disaster."

Similarly, Hodding Carter, edi-

British Tories Still Showing Outward Unity

But Reports Growing That Minister Loyalty Near Breaking Point

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan rode through the second day of crucial cabinet meetings over the Profumo scandal today with an outward show of Conservative unity.

But signs grew that loyalty of key ministers was near the breaking point.

A 75-minute meeting heightened the tension of the crisis facing the 69-year-old prime minister.

★ ★ ★

Rumors of resignations by at least four ministers were partly dispelled when two of them issued flat denials. The other two kept their counsel.

The Labor party's "shadow" foreign secretary, Patrick Gordon Walker, returned from a trip to Moscow and declared the vice scandal involving former War Minister John A. Profumo, required the prime minister's resignation.

"I think perhaps this is the last service he could do his country," Walker said.

His remarks set the tone for Labor's attack in a full-scale parliamentary debate Monday.

Rumblings from the cabinet meeting centered on Health Minister Enoch Powell, who steadfastly refused to deny the report he would quit over the moral issue of scandal in the private lives of men in high position.

The Evening Standard said Powell is on the point of resignation, and added this could start a landslide against the prime minister.

Reports spread through Whitehall that other men high in the party councils have been indulging in high life as was the disgraced Profumo.

To Open Bids on Expansion

Royal Oak Hospital Will Be 2nd Largest

Construction bids for an estimated $8-million expansion of William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak will be opened at the hospital next Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

The proposed project, first step in a master expansion plan for the hospital, will make William Beaumont the largest hospital in the county, excepting Pontiac State Hospital.

Owen R. Pinkerman, hospital director, today outlined the immediate project and the long range plans.

The immediate $8-million program involves construction of five floors on top of the present five-story building plus a seven-story wing to the north, a power plant and central records building.

Bids are slated to be opened at 2 p.m.

691-BED TOTAL

The new facilities would add 395 beds, giving the hospital a total of 691 beds.

The new additions will constitute the first major step by a Michigan hospital toward solving the growing problem of rising patient costs.

The new floors will be planned to provide "care by prescription," he said.

"Some will be dormitory - type facilities. We will be able to give the type of care prescribed by doctors and hold down the cost to patients."

★ ★ ★

Other future facilities included in the master plan include a research-education building, which would be the first such institution in Southern Oakland County for training doctors.

Old County Building Will Be Reopened

The Oakland County office building at 1 Lafayette will be reopened as an emergency solution to space problems, Robert E. Lilly, secretary of the County Board of Auditors, said today.

Lilly said an expanding County Planning Department will be moved into the first floor of the building by June 30.

There is a "strong possibility," he said, that other county departments will follow the planning department downtown.

★ ★ ★

He described the use of the building as only temporary, until accommodations can be made available at the service center.

The county presently is engaged in an over-all space study of its facilities. The study is expected to be complete in several weeks.

Lilly said the planning department is being expanded by six members June 30 to add a federal program to regular duties.

MADE AVAILABLE

The federal government has made $142,960 available for a survey of economic development in the county.

The survey will be carried on for an indefinite period.

"There just isn't enough room in the department's present quarters to carry out the job," said Lilly.

★ ★ ★

The 12-member planning department, headed by George Skrubb, presently occupies quarters in a county-owned building at 550 S. Telegraph, a mile and a half south of the service center.

The quarters are shared with the County Drain Commission and the Department of Public Works.

Lilly said moving the planners downtown will make badly-needed space available for the DPW and drain commission, which also are expanding to meet growth problems in the county.

WAS VACATED

The downtown office building was vacated by the county in February when departments were moved into a new courthouse wing at the County Service Center on Telegraph.

Since then, the downtown building has been used occa-

234 Graduate at Waterford

Commencement speaker Willard D. Cheek told the 234 Waterford Township High School graduates last night that the opportunity for future success lies in their "own back yards."

★ ★ ★

A senior research physicist with General Motors Research Laboratories in Warren, Cheek emphasized that a well-trained person will continue to be in as much demand in Michigan as anywhere else.

Speaking to the crowd of graduates, parents and friends assembled in the school stadium, Cheek denounced the growing concern of young people for security provisions in employment.

★ ★ ★

He told the graduates to forget the security factor, which he said is opening the door to socialism, and to set out in a career with an abundance of courage and initiative.

ENCOURAGES GRADS

Valedictorian David Patterson encouraged his fellow graduates to work diligently in whatever career they may pursue. He praised the school faculty, administration and parents for their parts in providing a good education for the graduates.

Tension Rises at Mississippi Slaying Scene

Fear Negro's Killing to Trigger Strife in Dixie Capital City

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Police and federal agents continued their massive search for the assassin of civil rights crusader Medgar W. Evers as tension mounted in this troubled Southern city today.

"We have some good leads," said Jackson Detective Chief M. B. Pierce.

Evers was gunned down in the driveway of his three-bedroom home early yesterday.

There were fears the ambush slaying of the 37-year-old executive of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People would trigger bitter racial strife in this Mississippi capital city of 145,000.

The murder weapon, a 30.06 Enfield rifle, was found near Evers' home in north Jackson.

FIND FINGERPRINT

Officers said the rifle yielded at least one good fingerprint.

Meanwhile at the University of Mississippi 200 miles north of Jackson, at least one soldier — a 45-caliber gun strapped to his waist—was seen outside the dormitory housing two Negro students several times last night.

The soldier appeared to be on guard, observers said, although the Army withdrew its forces from the campus two days ago and insists no men were at Baxter Hall, where James Meredith and Cleve McDowell live, last night.

Meredith, enrolled at Ole Miss last fall under federal court orders as the university's first Negro student, yesterday called for a "general boycott of everything possible for all Negroes" in Mississippi.

Meredith, who described Evers as "one of my best and most beloved friends," was deeply

JFK Calls Truman, VIPs for Rights Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy called former President Harry Truman, 12 congressional chiefs of both parties and about 200 labor leaders to the White House today for separate discussions of civil rights matters.

Both Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate and House were invited to the meeting. The conference, to consider the administration's forthcoming civil rights message to Congress followed earlier, separate sessions with the Democratic and GOP chiefs.

Andrew T. Hatcher, acting White Houe press secretary, said that Truman, in town for a dinner tonight, would see Kennedy late today.

Another former president, Dwight D. Eisenhower, conferred Wednesday with Kennedy.

The White House said they discussed the administration's forthcoming special message to Congress on civil rights legislation, and also civil rights in general. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson sat in on the 70-minute session.

PARTICIPANTS

Hatcher listed these participants in the bipartisan congressional meeting today.

Vice President Johnson; Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana; Sen. Hubert Humphrey D-Minn.; Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla.; Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois; Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.; Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla.; Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La.; House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana; Rep. Leslie Arends, R-Ill., and Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich.

Representatives of organized labor were summored for a conference in the East Room of the White House—the locale for a similar meeting last week between Kennedy and 100 businessmen.

TOLD IN ADVANCE

The President told the labor leaders in advance that he wanted to discuss 'difficulties experienced by minority groups in employment." He said this was a problem that "merits serious and immediate attention."

Kennedy wanted to make personal plea for elimination of discrimination in employment, in securing union membership and in gaining entry to certain apprenticeship programs with which unions are affiliated.

Scattered showers or thundershowers will be back in the Pontiac area tonight, the weatherman said.

Temperatures will drop to a low of 58 during the night and shoot up to near 77 tomorrow. Skies will be partly cloudy tomorrow, then become clear Saturday.

This morning's northeasterly winds at 8 miles per hour will become south to southeast at 8 to 15 m.p.h. tonight and west to northwest tomorrow.

Mohawk Loses 'E' to Vandals

The problem of the "e" in Mohawke was eased somewhat last night by some antibureaucratic vandals who painted it right off the street signs.

On each of the street's five sign, where the "e" once was, there now rests a glob of white paint.

Apparently, the vandals couldn't wait for action by the city.

Presented with a petition by area property owners to take off the "e," the City Commission has referred the problem to City Attorney William Ewart for a legal opinion.

Asks Jail for 400,000 Reds

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Romulo Betancourt ordered the arrest of Venezuela's estimated 400,000 Communists and pro-Castro extremists last night following his escape from another assassination attempt.

Betancourt said three Communist terrorists plotted to assassinate him yesterday with a time bomb at the Roman Catholic archbishop's palace in Ciudad Bolivar, a river port 275 miles southeast of Caracas.

The president told a national radio audience that police nabbed two of the terrorists as they entered the palace with three sticks of dynamite and a timing device. The third plotter got away.

★ ★ ★

"Society cannot be subject to continued risk to property and life by a group of pyromaniacs and terrorists," Betancourt said in ordering Interior Minister Carlos Andres Perez, to start an immediate, nationwide roundup of members of the already-banned Communist and MIR parties. The MIR, or Movement of the Revolutionary Left, is a pro-Castro revolutionary movement.

★ ★ ★

The order was the toughest Betancourt has issued against subversives who began moving against him shortly after he took office in 1959. The next election is scheduled for November. The president has banned Communists from the election.

He has survived three previous known plots against his life and two revolts against his government. It is believed there were several other assassination attempts that never were announced.

Betancourt, noting that the government cannot hold anyone without charges for more than 30 days, vowed that every Communist will be jailed again as soon as released. Such 30-day periods of detention could go on indefinitely.

The president, a moderate leftist, said he ordered the arrests because the legislature was taking too much time to enact an antiterrorist emergency measure he proposed last week.

Act in Michigan for Equal Rights

LANSING (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, acting in response to President Kennedy's appeal for immediate action in the civil rights area, announced today a series of moves designed to insure the Negro equal rights in Michigan.

Kelley said, "The massive civil rights crisis facing our nation today must be acted upon in Michigan now. Every state official has an obligation to determine how he can best participate in this nationwide effort to meet the challenge of equality by lawful actions before understandable impatience results in a resort to unlawful means."

The chief moves, Kelley said would be:

- A conference Monday with white and Negro community leaders "to obtain their views on how law enforcement officials can assist in this crisis."
- "Short conferences next week in various parts of the state with prosecuting attorneys and other law enforcement personnel to urge stricter and more prompt enforcement of Michigan's Public Accommodations Act."
- A meeting with state and local level school officials "to discuss the difficult problems raised by allegations of de facto racial segregation in certain public school districts."
- Issuance of a formal opinion on the "scope of the new constitutions provision on civil rights. This opinion will outline what action may be taken under the new constitution, without the necessity of legislative implementation."
- "Close contact with the U.S. Department of Justice to assure state efforts are smoothly coordinated with the actions of the federal government in this regard."

★ ★ ★

Concerning Michigan's Public Accommodations Act Kelley said, "Where local action is indicated and is not forthcoming this office will be compelled to take the necessary action to enforce this law at the local level.

"This particular question is of special concern now not only because of the current crisis but because this is the beginning of the tourist season which will see a great amount of traveling by our own citizens and a large influx of tourists from other states."

"A bullet in the back of Medgar Evers may very well find its mate in a bullet in the back of some white supremacists. When that happens, all hell will break loose."

3. Newly established lines of communication between the races in the South are under severe strain today, if not actually broken down.

In many Southern cities, moderates of both races have gradually been restoring communications in an effort to find peaceable solutions to the Negro demands for equality in the schools and in other facilities.

KEPT INFORMED

In Tuscaloosa, Ala., for example, the integration of the University of Alabama last Tuesday followed months of discussions.

They were initiated by prominent white Tuscaloosans. But Negro leaders were kept informed of the progress toward an agreement on enrolling two Negroes, Vivian Malone and James A. Hood, in the university.

These gains are threatened today.

★ ★ ★

4. Evers' death appears to be a severe setback for moderates of both races and an encouragement to extremists on both sides.

Robert Snodgrass, Georgia state Republican committeeman, said:

"Just as tension was beginning to lessen and an opportunity appeared for people of moderation to make headway, some demented soul makes it so difficult to bring about an improvement.

"This shooting provides fuel for extremists on both sides and prevents moderation from prevailing."

Both white and Negro observers said they believe the Black Muslims would "make immense capital out of this."

★ ★ ★

"It's made to order for them," a Negro leader said.

The Muslims are a Negro extermist organization which advocates complete separation of the races. Muhammed Elijah, their leader, told The Associated Press in Phoenix, Ariz., last week that the white man is "the essence of evil."

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS

Arson in Maryland, a warning by New York City's acting mayor on alleged discrimination there and peaceful integration moves elsewhere were among other highlights of the U.S. racial scene.

At Cambridge, Md., fires flared in three buildings and a brief fight broke out in the third consecutive night of integration demonstrations.

State police said at least two of the fires in the small tidewater community were set deliberately. They broke out shortly after a Negro rally at a church.

Police said a burning oil pot was thrown from an auto through a window of a grocery in the Negro section. The fire damage was not large.

Another Cambridge fire destroyed a shed behind the home of Mrs. Helen Waters, the only Negro member of the Dorchester County School Board.

Minor damage was done when a flaming kerosene-soaked mop was shoved through the window of a bakery in the white section of Cambridge.

A third Negro enrolls today in the University of Alabama system under protection of state police.

Authorities at Huntsville said they expected no trouble at the university extension center where the Negro, Dave Mack McGlathery, was to register.

Quiet continued to prevail at the university's campus at Tuscaloosa as two Negroes who were enrolled Tuesday under federal protection against efforts by Gov. George Wallace to bar them attended their second day of classes.

At Lexington, N. C., a murder charge was filed against a 19-year-old Negro youth, Joe Poole, who was accused of firing the shots that killed one white man and wounded another during a race riot last Thursday night.

At Gadsden, Ala., several rock-throwing incidents were reported after a Negro mass meeting last night. No one was injured.

New York City's acting mayor, Paul R. Screvane, warned that the city will halt construction of an annex to the city-owned Harlem Hospital if the AFL-CIO building trades unions do not act immediately to end any discriminatory practices there.

FOLLOW SKIRMISH

Screvane, who is filling in at City Hall while Mayor Robert F. Wagner is on a trip to Hawaii, issued the warning after police and civil rights demonstrators skirmished at the annex construction site.

About 150 demonstrators protested yesterday against alleged discrimination in the building trades against Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

In Honolulu, the nation's mayors backed President Kennedy's plea for racial harmony by adopting yesterday a five-point program suggested by him — then added a sixth point themselves.

The arrest of a white man by a Negro police officer created a tense moment in Savannah, Ga., where more than 500 persons have been taken into custody during 10 days of antisegregation demonstrations.

Claims Alibi for Thorson

Defense Says Broker Home During Murder

DETROIT (AP) — The defense contended yesterday that securities salesman Robert Thorson was at his Birmingham home at the hour when his mother-in-law was slain six months ago.

The exact time of Mrs. Dorothy Thomas' death became an important issue in the third day of Thorson's trial on a first-degree murder charge.

Thorson, 31, is accused of beating and choking the 62-year old widow in her Detroit home.

Dr. Gordon Murray, an assistant Wayne County medical examiner, testified he originally estimated that Mrs. Thomas died about 2 a.m. or 3 a.m. last Dec. 4.

Defense attorney Konrad Kohl said police verified that Thorson was at home during that time.

Dr. Murray said in direct testimony Tuesday "it was possible" that death had occurred as early as 11 p.m. Dec. 3.

Under cross-examination yesterday, he said the death hour is listed at 3 a.m. (Dec. 4) on the death certificate.

"If you had it to do over again," Kohl asked the physician, "would you change your original judgment on the time of death?"

"No," Dr. Murphy replied.

The prosecution contends that Mrs. Thomas was killed about 11 p.m. on Dec. 3.

A jury of eight men and six women is hearing the testimony in the courtroom of Recorder's Judge Elvin L. Davenport.

Looters Roam Guiana Capital

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Looting mobs roamed Georgetown late Wednesday, and six persons were reported shot as Marxist Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan's bodyguards fired into a menacing crowd.

★ ★ ★

Two other persons were shot during clashes with police in a continuing wave of violence stemming from an eight-week-old strike against a government labor bill. Jagan's foes claim the bill will make him a Castro-type dictator.

The bill would give the government the right to determine which unions employers should recognize.

The 45-year-old prime minister says the strike is intended to topple him from power in this British South American colony divided by perennial strife between East Indians and Negroes.

The East Indians, including Jagan, number slightly less than half the colony's estimated 600,000 population, but more of them are educated and poltically conscious than the Negroes. The latter are the dominant element in Georgetown, the capital, however.

TO HIRE ARCHITECT

The County Board of Supervisors was to be asked today to hire an architect to find room for the new judges in the courthouse.

County officials expect Gov. Romney to appoint the new judges in September.

"It is possible that one of the new judges will hold court in the old supervisors' auditorium on the fourth floor of 1 Lafayette," Lilly said.

★ ★ ★

According to Lilly, making room for just one more judge at the courthouse would pose no real problem.

The courthouse was built to accommodate six circuit judges. There are five now.

The sixth courtroom is being used as a jury assembly room.

The jury could be accommodated in the new auditorium wing when necessary, said Lilly.

★ ★ ★

"The judges advise us that a seventh judge could be fitted in by shifting him from one courtroom to another when available, otherwise, by holding court in the old auditorium," Lilly said.

Ike's Arms Envoy Cites Past Errors, Present Possibilties

HAROLD STASSEN

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Harold Stassen, who for years tried to negotiate a disarmament Union, says he favors President Kennedy's effort at a fresh start in this area. But he has words of caution and advice for the Kennedy administration.)

By NOAH HALPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Stassen says he favors President Kennedy's plan for a fresh start on trying to reach a nuclear test-ban agreement. But he places the chances of success at just 50-50.

Stassen was former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's special disarmament advisor and negotiator from 1955 t o 1958. In an interview with the Associated Press, Stassen, a Philadelphia lawyer, said some treaty ideas formulated in those years might be usable today.

★ ★ ★

"But I consider it urgent that President Kennedy should take a greater initiative towards armaments control," he said. "We must bring the arms race under competent control before it brings the human race into a cruel catastrophe."

Stassen outlined plans he said were drawn by top military and scientific advisors in 1955. They suggested starting with a zone of arms control in the Alaska-Siberia area because it was not—and, he noted, is not now—an area of great tension.

Under this proposal nuclear weapons would be barred and armed forces thinned and inspected by the United Nations.

This, said Stassen, "would provide essential experience in inspection methods. It would be a step small enough so that both sides could afford to take it, but it would be a big step on the difficult road to armaments control.

★ ★ ★

"It could lead to a second step of a zone in central Europe (from within the Soviet Union to within France) to reduce the armaments and lessen the dangers of war in that crucial area."

HINDERS TALKS

In the meantime, Stassen said, Kennedy's unilateral commitment to stop atmospheric nuclear tests with inspection hinders rather than helps negotiations with Premier Khrushchev.

Stassen, who once sought the Republican nomination for president said Kennedy's commitment takes away a Soviet incentive for agreement and "opens a temptation to them not to agree, but instead to take advantage of the United States moratorium, as they did a few years ago."

By contrast, Stassen described as "a bad move in the opposite direction from arms control" an earlier U.S. proposal to spread nuclear weapons throughout North Atlantic Treaty Organization members.

Stassen, who also dealt with the Soviets while helping draft the United Nations charter, said that the United States in its decision to halt atmospheric nuclear testing should remain ready to resume tests at once.

★ ★ ★

Throughout the interview, Stassen stressed that the United States should continue to work with the United Nations on control of armaments.

★ ★ ★

Any agreement with the Soviet Union, Stassen continued, must provide for free access of inspections and aerial photography, which he acknowledged would be touchy.

OFF THE TRACK

He placed at 50-50 the chances for success in the negotiations on the premise they would be skillfully and patiently conducted.

Stassen, asked why the gradual inspection agreement developed in the Eisenhower administration had not come to a successful conclusion, said that discussions in 1957 showed signs of getting an affirmative response. Then, he said, world problems, "the whole world picture," took the talks off the track.

Do the Soviets sincerely want a test-ban treaty? Stassen said that the United States and the Soviets both realize the devastation that would result from war—a theme sounded Monday by Kennedy in announcing his plans for the new talks.

Stassen said Eisenhower had warned then of the dangers to both nations should there be war. During a recess, said Stassen, Khrushchev and an interpreter approached Eisenhower. The Soviet leader asked if Eisenhower had meant "war means the end of civilization?"

Eisenhower, Stassen said, put his finger against Khrushchev's chest and emphasized that was exactly what he had meant.

Advances in weaponry, the situations in Viet Nam and Cuba and other world crises make this danger ever more imminent today, Stassen said.

★ ★ ★

Would Stassen be willing to lend his experience to the new talks?

"I don't anticipate being asked," he replied.

Gain Uneasy Truce in Buddhist Protest

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—An uneasy truce between protesting Buddhist leaders and the South Vietnamese government settled over Saigon today as the two sides prepared for peace negotiations.

Prodded by the government, the Buddhists agreed to begin meeting tonight or Friday.

Thousands of Buddhist mourners at Saigon's Xa Loi Pagoda chanted prayers before the coffin of a monk who publicly burned himself to death Tuesday.

Trade Moderately Active

Stock Mart Moves Unevenly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved unevenly in moderately active early trading today following two sessions of advance.

★ ★ ★

The spotlight was on Twentieth Century-Fox which dropped a point to 32, on opening blocks of 5,000 and 3,000 shares following the premiere of its multimillion-dollar film, "Cleopatra."

Xerox and U.S. Smelting rose nearly a point each. Fractional gains were made by Radio Corp., IBM, American Telephone, Republic Steel and Allied Chemical.

Du Pont dropped almost a point.

Opening blocks included: Dow Chemical, off ¼ at 61½ on 18,900 shares; Dunhill International, unchanged at 14½ on 16,300; Sperry Rand, up ⅛ at 16⅛ on 7,000; and Studebaker, unchanged at 6⅝ on 6,000.

EMU President 'Won't Resign'

But Says He's Ready to Lose His Job

LANSING (AP) — Dr. Eugene Elliott, president of Eastern Michigan University, said today he was prepared to lose his job but will not resign, the Detroit News reported.

Elliott was scheduled to meet today with the four-man State Board of Education which governs EMU and has received a critical report on the school. Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public education, stated "There will be some action taken," but did not specify.

Elliott expects the board will ask him to resign again. "They have asked me six times in the last four weeks," he said.

"My answer will be the same," Elliott stated, "No."

Asked if he expected to be fired, Elliott, 67, replied, "I'm prepared even for that."

A QUESTION

How long Elliott would remain as president at EMU has been a question since the board of education received a report from the North Central Association (NCA) on conditions at the school.

The report which has been labeled "confidential" by the board, is reportedly critical of the administration.

Copies of the report have been unavailable to the governor or the press. Gov. George Romney has been trying to obtain a copy since last month.

The board of education has been unanimous in refusing the governor's request, contending that the NCA provided copies of the report on the promise that it would remain secret.

Elliott says he has read the report, but does not have a copy. "There is nothing in the report recommending that anybody be fired," he said. "I think the State Board of Education's actions are political."

Elliott noted that the board will go out of existence in 1965 under the new constitution, and charged that the board would like to name its own president of EMU.

Heavy Selling Hits Corn and Soybeans

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavier selling in the form of profit cashing was apparent in corn and soybean futures today and prices of both commodities were steady to easier in early transactions on the board of trade.

Old crop soybeans slipped about a cent during the first several minutes. New crop months eased small fractions. Wheat also met a little pressure and declined major fractions in spots.

Brokers said the trade was almost entirely on speculative accounts. However, some export business was noted in soybeans for August shipment.

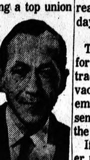
For Industrial Unions

Sabbaticals Top Goal

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — Sabbaticals for industrial workers as well as professors are becoming a top union goal.



DAWSON

The United Steelworkers of America union is expected to reveal next week whether it has won such extended vacations from the major steel companies.

This union got sabbaticals accepted by American Can and Continental Can companies last fall for their 32,000 union members.

The steelworkers have been pushing hard to extend this to the basic steel companies in the negotiations that have been going on for weeks and which are set to reach a climax in the next few days.

★ ★ ★

The sabbatical leave, as set forth in the can company contracts, calls for 13 weeks of paid vacations every five years for employes with 15 years or more seniority. This is an additional to the usual vacations in other years.

If the steel industry agrees, other unions may be expected to try to reach like contracts in many fields.

IDEA PUT FORTH

The sabbatical idea is put forth as one of several labor programs for combatting unemployment. It's a spread-the-work plan, like shorter work weeks, earlier retirements, longer annual vacations, and various schemes for ironing out the ups and downs of employment in industries with strong cyclical patterns.

★ ★ ★

Managemant's chief objection has been the cost. Someone else has to be paid while the older employe—also being paid—is enjoying his 13 weeks off. The extra expense is added to a long list of rising costs that push production charges higher and squeeze profits or boost prices, or both.

Another factor is that the increased number of employes on the payroll because of sabbaticals, or longer annual vacations, or shorter work weeks means that many more in line for fringe benefits. These range from pensions to health insurance, to unemployment payment charges, to paid vacations.

MORE EMPHASIS

And fringe benefits have been getting more emphasis than straight wage scale increases in labor negotiations in recent years.

But the unions see the sabbatical as one of their best schemes for combatting the unemployment they lay to increased automation. Job security is a big thing this year.

Murdered Negro's Friend Hits Mississippi Justice

WASHINGTON (UPI-) — An associate of murdered Negro leader Medgar Evers told Congress today that his people feel they can get no justice from the guardians of Mississippi state's law.

Dr. Aaron Henry, president of the Mississippi Conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) appeared before a House Judiciary subcommittee considering civil rights legislation.

Henry, a Clarksdale, Miss., druggist, told the subcommittee that Evers originally had planned to appear with him. Evers was shot to death Tuesday night in the driveway of his home at Jackson, Miss.

'CLOSEST FRIEND'

"This man was perhaps the closets friend I had," Henry said.

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins originally was scheduled as the lead-off witness at the reopening of the hearings, but his appearance was put off.

Henry was introduecd by Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., a Negro congressman who was his guest April 5 when a fire bomb was thrown into Henry's home.

Henry said that attack was only one of many on his home and store since he became active in civil rights campaigns.

Subcommittee Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., opened the hearings with a statement calling the shooting of Evers "unspeakable."

"The white man has tarried too long," Celler said. "The Negro will not accept now the theory of gradualism."

Sylvan Lake Council Post Is Filled

A vacancy on the Sylvan Lake City Council was filled last night with the appointment of Donald A. Tews, 1936 Lakeland, Sylvan Lake, to the post.

★ ★ ★

Tews, assistant friend of the County, has lived in Sylvan Lake for the past nine years. He will serve until the November election.

He fills the unexpired term of Edwin F. Clark, a six-year veteran on the council. Clark resigned a month ago in a dispute over the payment of sick leave and vacation pay to a public works employe.

In other action, the council approved a recommendation from W. Dale Hansen, 2120 Garland, Sylvan Lake, that the steering committee set up to develop the proposed community center be dissolved.

Expect 2nd Try on College Vote

Prospects for another vote next spring on the recently defeated community college proposals appeared good today, according to Oakland County School Supt. William J. Emerson.

Emerson held out no doubt that another vote would be taken at the regular school election next June. He said this view was prompted by reactions to the election results.

The results gave strong approval to the community college idea, but rejected almost as strongly the one-mill property tax to finance the proposed junior college.

★ ★ ★

State law prohibits resubmitting the proposal for a vote before the regular school election next spring.

"I have no doubt it will be resubmitted," Emerson added, "and I assume the proposals will be the same."

Emerson said there was quite a bit of interest in the community college. He said all the citizens he had talked to since Monday's defeat wanted to know how the question could be put to a vote again.

The county superintendent, who has been an ardent supporter of the community college, said some board of trustee candidates and members of the citizens steering committee had proposed organizing a committee to secure a favorable vote next spring.

Emerson said the group would begin operations well in advance of the June vote.

Successful Investing

Q. "I hold such stocks as American Telephone, Irving Trust, International Harvester, Southern California Edison, Standard Oil of California. My objective is income with safety of principal. I would like your opinion of U.S. Pipe & Foundry which carries a rather high yield." C.L.

A. You have done well with your finances and have built a good list, far better than average.

I cannot advise you to buy U.S. Pipe, which sells currently to yield 6.5 per cent. This return, under present market conditions, is so high that it casts some doubt as to the continuation of the current dividend rate. U.S. Pipe is a strong company in an industry which has been hurt by depressed prices and rising costs. Earnings have declined in each year since 1959, and, although some improvement is in sight, I doubt if it will be great enough to allow wide coverage of dividends.

For income and safety of principal, I suggest Maytag, yielding 4.5 per cent on its present indicated rate.

Q. "I bought General Motors at lower prices. I have seen that you advise buying this stock, but what about selling? Do you think this is the time to sell if you can afford to hold the shares only for a very limited period? I am putting myself through college and may need money at any time. What would you advise me o do? R.C.

A. I like General Motors and my general advice is to buy and hold this stock. However, you are in a rather unusual position, since there is a definite time limit on the retention of your shares. I can't emphasize too strongly my belief that no one should hold any stock knowing that it must be sold at a specific date, regardless of market condtions. I believe that in your special circumstances, I would accept my profits now and bank the money, where it will be safe from all market risk unti you need it.
