Dr. Robert H. Baker Cancer Victim After Lengthy Illness

Dr. Robert H. Baker, for many years an outstanding leader in medical affairs in the city and state, died last night in Pontiac General Hospital. He was a victim of cancer.

Despite increasing handicap of the disease over the past eight years, he continued his practice as a surgeon and gave generously of his time and talents to his profession as long as possible. He closed his office here only July 1.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in All Saints Episcopal Church, with the Rev. C. George Widdifield officating. Burial will be in Perry Mount Park cemetery. The body will be at the Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home until Saturday noon.

Long active in professional societies, Dr. Baker served on the council of the Michigan State Medical Soicety for five years and was president of the state society during 1955. In this he followed a family tradition, as his father, Dr. Charles M. Baker, of Bay City occupied the same post in 1919.

He opened his practice as a surgeon here in 1920 and maintained his office in Pontiac continually until the past summer. He made his home in this city until a few years ago, when he moved to Birmingham.

NATIVE OF BAY CITY

Dr. Baker was born in Bay City April 10, 1892. He entered the University of Michigan at the age of 17. He received his A.B. degree there in 1913 and his M.D. in 1916. As an officer in the Army Medical Corps in 1918 he was graduated from the Army Medical School in Washington.

In 1919 he returned to the University Medical School in Ann Arbor as an instructor in surgery. He came to Pontiac July 1 of the following year.

Mob Fear Grips Negro Students

9 Stay Home at Sturgis Despite Guards, Tanks to Enforce Integration

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mob pressures kept nine Negroes away from high school in Sturgis, Ky., today and turned back three Negro youths seeking to register in a junior college at Texarkana, Tex., which lies astride the Texas-Arkansas line.

Despite the presence of tank-equipped Kentucky National Guardsmen in Sturgis, a western Kentucky coal mining town of 5,000 population, parents of the nine Negroes decided to keep them home today rather than risk violence.

Adj. Gen. J. J. B. Williams, in command of the troops, who yesterday opened a way into the school for the nine, said parents of the Negroes told him they would be back Monday.

Martial law orders were drawn for Sturgis but not yet invoked.

In Texarkana, a massed picket line intimidated the three prospective Negro enrollees at Texarkana Junior College where two Negro girls already are enrolled for classes starting Monday.

The forced barring of the Negro boys came a few hours after the college president, Dr. H. W. Stillwell, in a speech to a segregation group, said if they felt integration would lower educational standards "It is not only your right but your duty to resist it."

* * *

At Clinton, in eastern Tennessee where soldiers first were used to allow integration, things were quiet and the boycott effort lost more ground. A total of 412 of the high school's 800 pupils were in attendance, including the 12 Negroes. Yesterday there were 394, the day before only 324.

The National Guard force at Clinton, originally 633, was reduced to about 200 as more squads were quietly withdrawn.

Grandma Moses Celebrates 96th Birthday

Mrs. Anna Mary Robertson Moses began painting in her late 70s. Today her work hangs in many of the great galleries of the world.

Her daughter, Mrs. Winona Fisher, says Grandma's eyesight is still "wonderful," and that her health is even slightly better than it was last year.

Mrs. Fisher lives with Grandma in a cottage tucked in this hamlet that rests on rolling countryside only a short distance from the Vermont line.

Mrs. Fisher says Grandma "paints a little every day."

Grandma has no schedule. She may write or knit, or look out over the surrounding fields that abound with melons, pumpkins and potatoes.

Summer Is Normal, Weatherman Repeats

This, friends, is a "normal summer" for us.

(The weather's the subject under discussion.)

W. W. Oak, meteorologist in charge of the Detroit Weather Bureau is reiterating his former declaration. His attention was directed to the story from Washington which said "northwestern United States and the Great Lakes have been consistently cooler." He concedes that this is true for the general area but not for the particular sector where we live.

* * *

"The temperature for us has deviated less than half a degree a day from normal and that includes everything through last Friday night," says the Historian of Rain and Sunshine. "Rain in August was 6.53 against an average of 2.62. This is an excess of nearly four inches for the one month, and a great share of this fell in one violent storm. This is an excess of 4.44.

* * *

"The average temperature for August was 71.2 and 71.3 is normal. You can't come any closer than that," says the Head Man.

Mr. Oak, you're right.

* * *

"Those who think we have deviated far from normal are probably remembering last year," he continues. "This is a very human trait and an error we all commit. Last summer our temperature averaged more than three degrees above normal and we were 5.41 inches deficient in rain. We had a 'dry' summer, but it wasn't average or normal. This summer has been 'average or normal'."

* * *

August's heavy rainfall in 1956 brought the total for the year to 26.02 against a normal of 21.58.

"I have been working at our Weather Bureau exhibit at the State Fair," said the Sage of Sunshine, "and several readers of your paper stopped by and commented on your weather stories."

Good.

We're glad they're interested.

Justice Minton to Retire; Ill Health Given as Reason

WASHINGTON (INS)—Associate Justice Sherman Minton announced today his retirement from the Supreme Court, effective Oct. 15, because of "ill health."

The 66-year-old justice announced that he sent a letter to President Eisenhower this morning informing him on his intention to leave the high bench, on which he has served since 1949.

Minton said he has had a "circulatory condition" in his legs and told the President that he does not feel he can carry out "the exacting duties of my office."

His retirement will open the way for Eisenhower to make his third appointment to the Supreme Court. He appointed Chief Justice Earl Warren in 1953 and Associate Justice John Marshall Harlan in 1955.

Prominently mentioned as possibilities for any new vacancy on the court have been former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, Jr.

Both are close personal friends of President Eisenhower and have extensive legal backgrounds. Dewey, two-time Republican presidential candidate, is now practicing law in New York.

Minton, a former Democratic senator from Indiana, was named to the high court by President Harry S. Truman.

Although regarded as a "new dealer" while in the Senate, Minton was considered by lawyers to be a middle-grounder as a member of the Supreme Court.

Minton will retire at full pension under the law which permits retirement at the age of 65, after 15 years service on the federal bench.

Golden Rule Days

The Pontiac Press' roving camera eye was on hand yesterday when thousands of local students turned from vacation pursuits to take up reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic once again. Press readers can share in school-opening excitement by turning to Page 11.

Vacation Was Tough on Moms

SIGH OF RELIEF—Vacation may be over for the youngsters, but it's just beginning for mothers. Here Mrs. Dean H. Olds, of 261 Pioneer Dr., settles in an easy chair with relief as her three daughters, (l-r) Linda, 13, Barbara, 10, and Marcia, 7, depart for school. Some 20,000 public and parochial students returned to classes yesterday and today, after a summer vacation that exhausted many a mother.

Xway Delay Criticized

Williams Lashes Ziegler

LANSING (AP)—A stinging letter has been addressed by Gov. Williams to Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler over what Williams called an "outrageous" performance in highway building.

Williams, a Democrat, criticized highway department handling of construction of the 25-mile Toledo-Rockwood expressway in the southeastern corner of the state.

The Republican highway commissioner, who received the letter late Thursday as he was about to leave the city, said he would have no comment until later.

The project, Williams said, represented "probably the most outrageous example of inefficiency, delay, poor planning and broken promises that Michigan has ever seen."

The governor said he got interested in it after repeated inquiries as to when the four-lane, limited access thoroughfare would be open to traffic.

CITES PROMISES

Williams said first contracts were let in November, 1952, and that 20 million dollars in bonds to finance the project were sold the following month.

In October, 1952, he said, Ziegler promised the road would be ready for use in November, 1954, in December, 1954 he promised it would be ready in late 1955, and on last Aug. 6, that it would be opened within two weeks.

"In spite of all these promises," the letter said, "I am informed that at no time did you have any plans to get an estimated 35,000 vehicles a day on and off the road at the Rockwood terminus."

He said a connecting link with Ford road was started "only recently."

The governor said that while this was going on in Michigan, Ohio opened 241 miles of expressway to traffic, and Indiana virtually had completed 156 miles.

Another thing, said Williams, is that an interest bill on the Michigan bond issue of one and one-half-million dollars has been run up for taxpayers "without being able to turn a wheel on the highway."

He said he would be derelict in his duty if he did not demand an explanation.

Specifically, Williams asked Ziegler to answer on these three points:

1. How much work remains to be done in providing access to the Toledo expressway?
2. When will the expressway actually be ready for use?
3. Why was 25 miles of four lane divided concrete laid with failure to provide any means of getting traffic on and off at Rockwood?

Life on Mars? Still Can't Tell

Planet Swings Closest to Earth; Data Awaiting Compiling, Evaluation

Whether there is life on Mars is still questionable, but there was lots of life in darkened observatories around the world last night, as Mars swung close to earth.

* * *

Weary-eyed astronomers stayed up most of the night peeking through huge telescopes as Mars approached within 35 million miles —the closest it has been since 1924.

Observation at the McMath-Hulbert Observatory at Lake Angelus was limited because astronomers there specialize in studies of the sun.

An amateur astronomer in New Zealand who observed Mars last night said the planet's icecap melted three months earlier than usual this year.

SEES CANALS

A Japanese astronomer reported seeing "canals" which raises the question whether they are arteries such as waterways devised by humans or some kind of natural phenomena.

Observers elsewhere told of seeing a bright object near Mars, believed to be a comet, and a vast cloud of yellow dust spread over a portion of the planet itself.

Most astronomers agree it will be months before information can be correlated and new findings, if any, made public.

Pot's Contents Reach $800; Over 5,100 Miss Solution

Poor, pathetic old gold pot . . . nobody pays much attention to it, except to drop in another $100 every week. Its seams are splitting from the burden it carries and its sides are tarnished because nobody seems to want it.

Over 5,100 attempts to relieve our Pot-O-Gold of its sad plight were made this week and last by Press puzzle-fans—10 or so came close, but once again our elusive 16 words slipped ghost-like through the skirmish line to escape for the eighth time in a row.

The Press is without a winner—a lamentable deficiency that finds our prize at the record mark of $800 after adding this week's $100. So, should a winner emerge next Friday, he or she will take home $825 (the extra $25 is a bonus for being a regular Press subscriber).

In soaring past the $725 level, the pot's contents are $100 more than was won by Mrs. Norma Lussier who stepped successfully through one July maze of words in a half-hour.

It won't help much now, but readers who missed in Puzzle 13 can find out what was wrong by turning to the answers and explanations on Page 17. If your solution was right, chances are that your entry was one of the 13 that were sent in via envelopes or among the 126 that missed the deadline.

That $800 is waiting to be spent by a reader who can solve Puzzle No. 14 which appears for the last time today on Page 16. But don't use all your word-sleuthing powers a new puzzle will appear in Monday's Press.

Mother Quizzed Several Hours; FBI Bows Out

Await Autopsy Report to Find Possible Motive for Slaying

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Police are bearing down today with renewed intensity —and as though a solution were near—in their investigation of the Ruotolo baby case.

With an absence of interstate angles indicated, the FBI has officially stepped out of the probe although its facilities have been made available to local authorities.

Center of the vast probe moved quickly from Hamden police headquarers to the office of State's Atty. Abraham S. Ullman in the County Courthouse here last night after the 6-week-old baby, Cynthia, was found stuffed in a plastic bag in Hamden's Lake Whitney.

The child's mother, Eleanor Ruotolo, 33, told police the baby was snatched from her carriage in the foyer of a Sears, Roebuck store Saturday, a mile from the lake.

It was shortly after three boys fishing had found the body that Ullman's office became the investigation's focal point.

Mrs. Rutolo spent several hours there with Ullman, Coroner James J. Corrigan and police investigators. She was led out at 8:30 p.m., got into a police car and was driven off.

Mrs. Ruotolo returned to her home several hours later.

While no one at Ullman's office would say what Mrs. Ruotolo was at the courthouse for, Deputy Police Chief Frank Cattaneo of Hamden, said she was called to go over her story of last Saturday's events.

Cattaneo said investigators were awaiting a report of an autopsy. Corrigan said only a preliminary report had been made.

"We have no motive," said Cattaneo, "until we ascertain the cause of the baby's death."

Corrigan said vital organs from the baby's body were being sent to the FBI laboratory in Washington for examination. He said he expected it would take several days.

Also brought to Ullman's office were Mrs. Ruotolo's neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Paul I. Rebucci. Mrs. Rebucci had said she went shopping at Sears with Mrs. Ruotolo the day the latter reported Cynthia missing from the carriage.

Three other women — middle-aged—entered the office and came out after a short time but none would identify themselves. One scolded photographers for snapping her picture.

Frank Nixon Service Being Held Today

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP)—Funeral service will be conducted today for Frank Nixon, father of Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He died Tuesday at 77.

Attending the service at 2 p.m. PDT in the East Whittier Friends Church will be the vice president, his wife, Pat, and other members of the immediate family.

The family has asked that, instead of sending flowers, friends make contributions to the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation of New York City. The vice president's father suffered from arthritis in his later years.

Michigan Still Needs Some Lessons

Look at Indiana! They Build Roads

CHICAGO—The Indiana toll road has been opened to traffic for 27.3 miles from La Porte to South Bend. This makes a total of 107.6 miles of the Hoosier turnpike now in operation. It brings the temporary western terminal 49.3 miles from the Chicago city limits.

Another 32.6 miles are scheduled to open Sept. 16. The remaining 16.7 miles to the Chicago city limits are to be finished by Nov. 15.

* * *

The section west of La Porte is scheduled to open in 10 days. It did not look as if it could be finished so quickly, but the dawn-to-dusk labor, with some night work under flood lamps, has been making progress unprecedented in highway construction in the Midwest.

The first 33 miles west of La Porte, there were crews surfacing bridges; others, with scrapers and earth movers, shaping the right of way; others, laying reinforced shoulders; others, erecting fences; others, erecting guard rails; others, seeding along the sides, and others patching slab failures. Hundreds of men were performing scores of different tasks.

No scrapers and earth movers are shaping anything. There is no work on reinforced shoulders.

They erect no guard rails and no fences. Hundreds of men aren't performing any task at all.

We have nothing.

The State Highway Department has declared a six-month moratorium. All progress grinds to a depressing close. Traffic is delayed, diverted and dammed.

The State Highway Department says it lacks 260 tons of steel. In the steel world that's equivalent to a cup of water on the shores of Lake Michigan.

Also, it says there are "other delays, anyway."

Don't Count Out Brunette

Blondes Still Rule Beauty Pageant

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Three blondes and a brunette are the front runners going into the third round of preliminary judging tonight in the annual Miss America Pageant.

The brunette is Miss Hawaii, 20-year-old Jere Wright of Honolulu who copped honors in the swim suit division last nght. She was the favorite of judges and audience alike as she paraded down the long runway in Convention Hall.

Miss Wright measures 35-24-35. She stands 5 feet 7, weighs 120 and has blue eyes.

A graceful blonde, the Arkansas girl was the only contestant to dance during the talent judging. Most sang or gave dramatic readings and four played musical instruments. Miss Chicago, Sandra Stauart, showed a film of herself in a water ballet.

Two other blondes placed first in their divisions on Wednesday night. They were Miss California, Joan Colleen Becket of Sacramento, in the battle of swim suits; and Miss Alabama, Ann Stuart Ariail of Birmingham, in the talent section.

Some "dark horse" may be named the winner on a point basis to succeed the reigning Miss America, Sharon Kay Ritchie of Denver, Colo.

UM Offers 14 Extension Classes in Pontiac

Expect Record City Enrollment

Most Courses Planned to Help Teachers Earn Advanced Degrees

University of Michigan officials say they expect record enrollment this month in the largest number of extension service courses ever offered here.

* * *

The extension service announced 14 classes will be open for registration at the first sessions in Lincoln Junior High School. Dates and times are listed below.

Last fall, eight courses were attended by 198 seeking graduate and undergraduate credit and by those just out to pick up "a little learning."

The classes range through several branches of study, but are of interest mostly to teachers seeking advanced degrees. They may not be elected for residence credit. But a limited number of extension credits may be applied toward university degrees, reducing the time spent on campus.

REAL ESTATE COURSE

The price is $11 a credit hour. All of the Pontiac courses are two-credit hours. Most meet two hours one afternoon or evening a week.

University instructors or other teachers approved by the extension service will teach.

The course schedule is:

Principles of Educational Administration—Mon., 7:30 p.m.

Appraising Student Progress—Tues., Sept. 18, 4:30 p.m.

PICTURE FOR A JUNGLE AFTERNOON—Sad of eye and somnolent of expression, this orangutang at the London Zoo seems to have unhappy thoughts on his mind as he watches the world go by from behind the bars of his cage. Could be that he's musing over current international affairs or maybe just unhappy thinking about the strange animals that keep peering into his domain. United Press Photo

Scotsman Guilty of Wearing Shorts Underneath Kiltie

GLASGOW (INS)—A burly Highland wrestler sent Britain's royal family into peals of laughter when he inadvertently showed what a Scotsman wears under his kilts—trim shorts.

Queen Elizabeth, the Duke of Edinburgh, Princess Margaret, young Prince Charles and Princess Anne, who are vacationing in Scotland, went to the village of Braemar yesterday to watch the Highland games.

During the wrestling event, Champion John Bland was thrown to the ground. As he jumped up his kilt fell off, showing white shorts.

Bland said it was the most embarrassing moment in his life, "I've never lost a kilt before and hope I never do again."

Mrs. Walter C. Simons

Service for Mrs. Walter C. (Glene Mae) Simons, 22, of 7726 Ridge Lake Rd., Clarkston, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday from the Voorhees-Siple Chapel. Elger Lewis of the Dixie Baptist Church will conduct the service with burial following in Perry Mt. Park Cemetery.

Born in Lapeer County on Aug. 14, 1883, he was the son of Clark and Mary Wiltse.

Mr. Wiltse had been employed at the Lewis Furniture Store and was a member of the IOOF of Pontiac.

He leaves his wife, the former Minnie Edwards, whom he married on Dec. 28, 1918 in Detroit; a daughter, Mrs. Willa McLean of Detroit; two grandsons and eight-great-grandchildren.

6-County Group Studies Planning

May Request State Law to Provide U.S. Grants for Metropolitan Areas

Preliminary discussion was aired by the Supervisors Inter-County Committee yesterday on seeking enactment of a state law which would enable the six-county group to receive federal grants toward metropolitan planning.

* * *

Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, said a resolution is expected to be presented at the Oct. 25 meeting as another move in the proposal.

He said some objections were heard during the one-hour discussion at Monroe from representatives of St. Clair and Monroe counties. Hamlin said they feared the step "might indicate a step toward a metropolitan authority."

The committee, formed in June, 1954, consists of representatives of Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, Monroe, Washtenaw and St. Clair Counties.

The committee was established to study and recommend solutions to like problems that exist in the six counties.

* * *

Its work has already resulted in the formation of two independent bodies, the Southeastern Michigan Water Authority and the Inter-County Highway Commission.

Fluoridation Debate Set for Motor City

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit City Council will discuss the fluoridation issue Sept. 26 at a meeting with representatives of the Board of Health, the Board of Water Commissioners and the Corporation Counsel's Office. Council President Louis C. Mariani said he doubts that council can overrule an anti-fluoridation report issued by the Water Board unless voters specifically approve the addition of fluorides to the water supply.

* * *

The Detroit District Dental Society sent a telegram to Mayor Albert E. Cobo and the City Council criticizing the Board of Water Commissioners for its indirect stand against fluoridation.

Dr. Alfred E. Seyler, president of the society, said, "If the board has any scientific evidence that proper fluoridation is harmful, let it present that evidence.

* * *

"We have scientific facts to support our stand (in favor of fluoridation) and it is only fair that they also present facts, not opinions or unsubstantiated innuendoes."

The Day in Birmingham

"It was the smoothest opening I've ever seen," said Dr. Richard Featherstone, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of construction. His last three days have been spent almost entirely at Derby, guiding placement of furniture and equipment.

Even this morning he was supervising arrangements of folding chairs so that cafeteria service might begin.

Yesterday's schooling was only a half day for most students, and because of this, afternoon kindergartens did not meet.

A total of 9,146 students attended, however, and another 50 are expected to be enrolled and scheduled at Barnum Junior High School. The High School has 1,439 students on its rolls.

Besides those sections at Derby going into use—the gymnasium and other units will open later this year — are new additions at Pembroke, Beverly, and Bloomfield Village, and the two "cottage schools" for Pierce kindergartens.

"There were no emergencies and no hitches in any of the openings," says Dr. Featherstone.

Enthusiasm ran high at Derby, he reports, where he says, "It's a beautifully designed building and traffic in the hallways was going very good."

At last night's board of education meeting, bids received for Valley Woods elementary school in the Lahser-14 Mile area, indicated a cost of $738,535 rather than the estimated $675,000.

The bids will be studied by the architects, Eberle Smith, before awarding of contracts.

Low bidders were Kliisid, $535,000, general work; Lloyd S. Thornton, $119,990, mechanical; Johnson Electric, $52,620, electrical; and Gold Star Products, $10,925, kitchen equipment. Close to the latter bid was another of $10,973.

Board members in the session that lasted till midnight indicated pleasure with the bid for the drilling of a well and rough grading at the Harlan School Site.

That school will be on North Adams near Wattles, and is being designed by Smith, Tarapata and McMahon.

"A Day at Barnum," a 16-mm movie with sound track explaining two children's first day at the junior high school, was screened for board members.

Presented by Principal Herbert Heugst with Asst. Principal Robert Brackstone, who made the movie, filming was an outgrowth of graduate work in councilling that they and a half-dozen teachers worked with last spring.

It will be shown sixth graders in springtime, to give them expectations of the fall when they enter school at Barnum.

Nurses Aides Claim Patient Was Beaten

The owner of the Bloomfield Osteopathic Hospital was asked to appear before Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem today to answer charges of brutality to a patient.

Ziem said the action was taken after two hospital employes claimed yesterday Clyde Marshbanks, 40, of 100 Square Lake road had knocked the patient down and then hit him while he lay on the ground after a quarrel.

Ziem also ordered Assistant Prosecutor Walter K. Dennison to take statements this morning from patients and other employes who may have witnessed the alleged beating Aug. 7 on the hospital grounds at 2100 Woodward Ave. in Bloomfield Township.

The employes, both nurses aides, told Ziem that Marshbanks led Russell Peter, 56, out of a hospital ward after an early morning argument and beat him in front of the hospital with patients and employes as onlookers.

Marshbanks appeared at 1:30 p.m. with his attorney to make a formal statement. Ziem said that a complete investigation of both sides of the controversy will be made before any formal charges will be pressed.

Romeo Band to Parade, Play at State Fair

ROMEO—The local high school band will leave by bus at 11 a.m. Sunday morning to present a concert at 12:15 in the music hall at the State Fair. Members will also perform in a parade at 6:30 the same evening.

Jews Marking Rosh Hashana

Jews throughout the world are observing Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year. The 10-day period, devoted to religious self-examination, began with the first day of the year 5717 at sundown Wednesday.

* * *

Jews assemble in their synagogues to reaffirm their faith, examine past conduct and pray for forgiveness.

The Shofar or ram's horn, the ancient instrument which once called men to warfare, is now blown to reawaken their responsibility to the Lord and call them to repentance. It also heralds the era of peace and good will for all mankind.

In many Jewish homes, honey is being served at the dinner meal in token hope for a year of sweetness.

THANKFUL FOR LIFE

Through solemn religious services Jews express gratitude to God for having lived through the year. The whole period is one of intensive prayer and repentance.

Rabbi Santord E. Saperstein is conducting the services at Temple Beth Jacob and presenting the sermonic message.

The High Holy Days will reach their climax Sept. 15 with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement when Jews spend the day in synagogues fasting and offering prayers which ask for divine forgiveness for faults and weaknesses.

So Jewish GIs in Korea can celebrate these 10 most sacred days in the Jewish calendar, more than 1,000 are being flown by military planes from the remotest parts of Korea to the capital, Seoul.

The airlift is part of global "Operation Rosh Hashana" for GIs and hospitalized veterans organized by the national Jewish Welfare Board. The Welfare Board also has announced a 10,000 mile pre-high Holy Day flight by a rabbi and two chaplains to assure religious services in Iceland, the Northeast Air Command, the Azores and Bermuda.

over the years, he contributed much of his time to professional affairs. He was a member of the building committee when the present city-owned hospital was erected and helped organize the medical staff of the hospital. He served in all offices of the county medical society.

He became a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons in 1927. In subsequent years his untiring efforts carried him into many phases of modern medicine. For some ten years he served on the board of the Michigan Medical Service.

He was an outspoken opponent of socialized medicine, contending that competent medical care can best be provided through private insurance and hospital plans.

INTERESTED IN AGED

In later years he become interested in problems of the aged, and as president of the state society spearheaded a campaign to provide more adequate medical care in rural areas. On this problem he said, when he assumed the state office: "Wider distribution of medical care is a challenge not only for the doctor, but for the community, the county and the state.

"Equally important" he said, "is getting new drug discoveries, surgical techniques and medical methods into the day-to-day practice of the average physician."

He gave liberally of his time toward furthering this objective during later years of his life, and found time to keep himself well informed on advances in all phases of medicine, as well as his own speciality, surgery.

* * *

Dr. Baker took an active part in local civic affairs. He was a charter member of the Pontiac Kiwanis Club and a charter member of the Oakland County Torch Club, a discussion group of professional men.

His arduous professional career still permitted a well developed personal life. He became a violinist at an early age and he played in a Kiwanis Club orchestra which was heard frequently at public affairs here. His hobbies included travel, photography, home woodshop work, sailing and outdoor sports. For many years he spenttry some time each summer with his family at a summer home on Drummond Island at the tip of Lake Huron.

In 1918 Dr. Baker married Helen C. Crane, a registered nurse. She survives, as do their two children, Donald C. and Gail, both married.

Donald now lives in Bay City and his daughter, Mrs. Richard F. Wells, in Kalamazoo. There are six grandchildren. Surviving also is a sister, Mrs. May Marsh, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Says Car Prices High Enough

YORK HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Carl E. Fribley, president of the National Automobile Dealers Assn., proposed here today that car makers absorb any increased costs of 1957 models.

In an address to the convention of the Maine Automobile Dealers Assn., Fribley said dealers are unable and the public unwilling to absorb higher prices on improved 1957 models.

Fribley said owners of two- and three-year-old cars have found it increasingly difficult this year to trade for new cars. He said the increasing difference between trade-in value of the used car and the price of the new car "may well create a psychological atmosphere unfavorable to new car purchases."

He said 1956 price increases were absorbed entirely by dealers who saw their net profit per car drop from $138 in the first half of 1955 to $48 in the comparable 1956 period.

"I am wondering," he said, "if holding the price line, despite increased cost to manufacturers, would not produce enough additional volume for the manufacturers so that the end result on higher volume would be more profitable than raising prices which would thereby result in a lower volume.

"In my opinion pricing of the 1957 models could mean the difference between a 6½- to 7-million-car year or a 5½- to 6-million-car year for the automobile industry."

Health Expert Denies Fluoride Poisoning

DETROIT — Dr. Heinrich Hornung, German public health official, declared the "fluoride poison cases" in Highland Park and Saginaw as charged by Dr. George L. Waldbott never existed at all. Dr. Hornung made his study at the request of the United States State Department.

"I like Dr. Waldbott and he is well qualified in allergies, but I can't say the same with regard to his activity and knowledge in the field of fluoridation nor to the methods he employs. His reasoning is tarnished by an emotional bias."

Fluoridation has long had the complete endorsement of the National Medical Society as well as the National Dental Organization.

$25 Worth of Tools Stolen at Keego Store

The store, at 2786 Simpson rd., was looted of several wrenches, a screw driver and other items.

Girl Has Head Caught in Mixer

Surgeons Graft Scalp Which Was Removed From Machinery

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Janice Cory, 11, who was scalped when her long hair caught in a whirling gear of a dough mixing machine in a bakery, was in serious condition today.

Surgeons fitted the scalp, which was removed intact from the machinery, back into place in a three-hour operation last night.

The scalp was torn off from above the eyes, including the eyebrows, over the ears and down the neck.

Doctors said there was "a small but definite" chance that the grafted scalp would hold. They said there have not been enough cases locally of complete scalping to give them a basis upon which to judge this case.

Janice, in a church group visiting the bakery yesterday, was standing with her back to the machine. As she looked up at the mixing operation her hair fell into a small opening and was caught in the gears.

Choreographer Taylor Can't Convince Comic

Gleason Refuses to Dance off Extra Weight

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—When Jackie Gleason feels the need to reduce his globular torso, he usually enters Doctor's Hospital and asks them to cut off his calories.

* * *

Sometimes, when there's no time for hospitalization, he climbs into a sweat shirt and punches a boxing bag.

"I keep telling him," says June Taylor, the stylish choreographer for the Jackie Gleason Show, "that all he's got to do is dance, and he'll knock off the inches just like that . . ." June wiggled a hip daintily to show which inches she ment . . . But that holds no excitement for him.

"Jackie can dance, and has been able to almost since childhood. He can't figure that anything that comes so easy can be very effective."

In spite of Gleason's cynicism in the matter, the widely renowned Miss Taylor feels she knows her avoirdupois business well enough to start a dancing school for folks who want to drop weight and pick up poise. And she's specializing principally on the kiddies' market.

"My theory is that once a child acquires grace, he or she will tend to retain it in later life. You might say that learning to be fluid of physical movement is something like learning to discipline your mind; once mastered, the technique never leaves one altogether."

Not only that, "all children these days who come anywhere near a television set want to dance. They go hippity-hopping around the living room, causing general havoc among furniture and family," grins Miss Taylor.

"I find that most of my young students have mothers who are very grateful to spend a few dollars to change a hippity-hop to a refined ballet routine."

Blonde, big eyed June Taylor started teaching dancing at the age of 10, when she lived in a cold-water flat overlooking the railroad tracks in South Side Chicago.

Ten seems an early age to start working, but June had already had six years of lessons—free—from a woman who believed she had great talent.

"I wanted to sort of pay her back," she remembers wistfully, "and besides, it didn't make any difference whether I was studying or teaching. Just so I could dance."

At age 13, June was dancing at nightclubs and theaters, and by the time she was in her early 20s she had a precision line of dancing girls under her direction.

In 1948, she started in television with Ed Sullivan, joined Gleason the next year and has been his terpsichorean troubleshooter ever since.

Having won the "Emmy" award this year as the best choreographer in the business, June was faced with the problem of finding one more challenge to kick her heels into. Hence, a dancing school on Broadway for hippity-hoppers and their overweight adult friends.

* * *

Court Hears Election Snarl

State Vote Boss Says Incumbent Didn't Need to Run in Primary

The state director of elections testified here this morning that no nonpartisan judicial ballot was caled for in Oakland County's Aug. 7 primary.

* * *

Robert M. Montgomery testified before Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick in a hearing at which county officials were to show why alleged write-in and sticker votes for a Pontiac attorney were not tallied.

The attorney, Milton R. Henry has petitioned the court to have the votes counted and his name included on the November ballot for circuit judge in the Sixth Judicial District.

Board of Election officials in the second, third and fourth precincts of Royal Oak Township, where Henry says he got the votes; Board of Canvassers, and County Clerk Lynn D. Allen were named as defendants. Former Circuit Judge Glenn C. Gillespie acted in their defense.

ONE MAN FILES

Montgomery stated no primary election for nomination to the office was necessary because only one candidate filed a nominating petition.

He is Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams who was appointed this spring. The law requires an election at the first November election following such an appointment.

Allen was to take the stand after Montgomery to explain why Henry's alleged votes were not tallied and certified in the election results.

* * *

Henry further claimed in his petition that Adams is not qualified for election because he was not officially nominated in the primary.

The Aug. 7 ballots have been kept at Judge Hartrick's order.

County Resident Held on Robbery Charge

James E. Taylor, 36, of 20790 Mitcheldale, Royal Oak Township, was bound over to the Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday following an examination on an armed robbery charge.

* * *

He will appear in circuit Court Sept. 10 and is currently being held in the county jail under $2,500 bond.

* * *

Taylor is accused of an armed robbery attempt at a Ferndale gas station last May 25. He was shot by a station attendant while running from the scene and only recently recovered.

* * *

The Justice Court examination was conducted by Ferndale Justice Earl N. Nash.

Guests are being asked to wait upstairs until they are admitted to the dining room, one hundred at a time. Serving dishes will be replenished prior to the formation of each new line.

The women are preparing another Smorgasbord for Saturday, with servings to begin at 5:30; 6 and 6:30 p.m. Proceeds will go into the church expansion fund.

Advise Adlai to Shun Harlem at Moment

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic leaders in Harlem, predominantly Negro area here, reportedly have said that Negro dissatisfaction with the Democratic party's platform on civil rights made it inadvisable that Adlai E. Stevenson speak in Harlem "for the time being."

* * *

Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate, and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, his running mate, arrive here tomorrow for a five-day campaign in New York State, New Jersey and Connecticut.

In an airport interview last night in Chicago, Stevenson — just returned from speechmaking in San Francisco — said he was familiar with his immediate campaign plans and that they did not include speaking in Harlem "at this time."

New York City Negroes generally have supported the Democratic party since New Deal days. Negro leaders are said to fear not a wholesale switch of allegiance to the Republican party but the possibility that great numbers of Negroes would remain indifferent and fail to vote.

Seawolf Leaks Steam, Tests on A-Sub Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaks in the steam superheating system of the nuclear-powered submarine Seawolf will delay completion of dockside tests at Groton, Conn., for several weeks, the Navy says.

Announcing this yesterday, the Navy said the leaks did not result in any injury to personnel, radiation or material damage.

Seawolf is the Navy's second nuclear powered sub. The first, Nautilus, has been successfully tested and put in service.

Pair Plead Innocent on Case Lobby Count

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two western lawyers pleaded innocent today on charges of conspiring to violate the federal lobbying laws and unlawfully attempting to influence the vote of Sen. Francis Case (R-SD).

* * *

The trial of the two lawyers, John M. Neff of Lexington, Neb. and Elmer Patman of Austin, Tex., together with the Superior Oil Co. of California for whom they worked, was set by Chief Judge Bolitha Laws for Nov. 19 in the U. S. District Court here.

Superior Oil was named as a codefendant in the conspiracy. It also pleaded innocent through counsel Roger Robb of Washington.

Neff and Patman each were released under $500 bond.

More Nurses

Opening of the Shapero School of Practical Nursing on the grounds of Sinai Hospital in Detroit is the beginning of an interesting experiment designed to meet the big shortage of nurses. The new school was financed by a grant of half a million dollars from the NATE S. and RUTH B. SHAPERO Foundation and the Cunningham Drug Co.

The school plans to train 50 practical nurses a year. It will also conduct research into the role of the practical nurse in the hospital nursing team. It will train both men and women from all over Michigan. The training period will be one year.

Lack of fully trained, registered nurses, compelled many hospitals some years ago to make use of practical nurses and assistants who were trained to take over some of the work in hospitals. The new Detroit school, however, is said to be the first opened to train practical nurses specifically for hospital work.

While the reactions of hospital administrators, doctors and registered nurses may be mixed, the need for more hospital help cannot be denied. Greatly increased patient loads in all hospitals has brought this situation about.

Only time and experience will tell what the results of this experiment will be. If the practical nurses are found able to do the tasks assigned them after one year of training, this may help the hospitals to meet the increased demands being made upon them.

New Form of Savings

Perhaps the American people are going to be able to save lives at the same time they are saving money.

★ ★ ★

JOHN L. SLOCUM of Rochester says they will be able to do so if government officials approve his idea. Mr. SLOCUM has designed a coin bearing safety slogans which he believes might help to remind motorists of the importance of safe driving.

On one side is the slogan "Think while you drive." On the other side are words, "Make every Day S-D Day, obey all traffic signs."

Mr. SLOCUM showed his coin to Rep. DONDERO who suggested that he take it to Washington and see if the government will be interested in minting a commemorative coin like it which would be legal currency. He believes it might prove a help in the campaign for safer driving.

★ ★ ★

There is something intriguing about the idea that people might be led to collect these coins, thus centering even more attention on them and on their safety slogans. If the idea meets with official favor at Washington, it may be possible before long to save lives at the same time you save coins.

Science Moves On

It is difficult to keep up with scientific progress, and even the stamp collectors are going to have to speed up their home work. Italy is going to issue a three dimensional stamp.

★ ★ ★

This commemorative issue will salute Italy's entry into the United Nations and Europe's coal-steel pool. Special viewing glasses will be needed to appreciate the three dimensional effect. This will be the first stamp of its kind issued in the world, according to Postal Minister GIOVANNIA BRASCHI.

It is to be hoped that the postal authorities will not let their imaginations run too far. The next move might be a radioactive stamp with jet propelled mucilage. The time might even come when stamp collectors would have to provide themselves with wide angled screens and Cineramic equipment for viewing their most prized acquisitions.

THE SPELLING contestants on a certain TV program could probably be slowed down by some of these words: Inoculate, caoutchouc, hypocrisy, accommodate, gauge, naphtha, diphtheria, obbligato, reconnaissance, violoncello, piccalilli, rarefy, syzygy.

IT IS due to poor memories on the part of patients that doctors and dentists keep old magazines in their reception rooms. If new magazines are supplied, a number of patients forget who owns them and take them home.

IN THE pioneer days it was customary to pile about two tons of rocks on top of a grave. It would seem this was a highly unnecessary precaution.

David Lawrence Says:

Mitchell Blasts Dem Labor Plank

WASHINGTON—When the secretary of labor—himself a critic of "right to work" laws—says that the Democratic platform is "hypocritical" and that organized labor cannot get the legislation it wants because many of the Democrats in Congress will never vote for it, this would seem to be a piece of news.

Sec. Mitchell feels that organized labor is not facing the situation realistically. In a copyrighted interview in the current issue of a magazine, Mitchell declares that repeal of the provision in the Taft-Hartley Act which permits the states to pass "right to work" laws will not be accomplished in the foreseeable future. He says:

"I think that organized labor should be realistic enough to know that, with the present atmosphere or climate of the country, this kind of 'overhaul' (of the Taft-Hartley Act) which they would expect cannot come about regardless of what administration is in power.

LABOR FORGETS FACT

"For example, with respect to the so-called 'right to work' laws which the Democratic party in Chicago promised to abolish, labor forgets that the states which have passed such laws are predominantly Democratic. Of the 18 states which have these laws, 15 are Democratic: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisina, Mississippi, Nevada, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia; and one nonpartisan; North Dakota; and four Republican: Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Utah.

"And labor forgets also that there were in the last Congress some 124 representatives and senators who were Democrats and who came from these so-called 'right to work' states, and most of them had positions of importance in Congress.

"The leadership of Congress itself has come from states which now have 'right to work' laws. The chairmen of important committees come from states which have 'right to work' laws. For the Democratic party, therefore, the promised abolition of the 'right to work' laws, in view of that history, is to me hypocritical."

Sec. Mitchell pointed out that, when amendments to the Taft-Hartley Law were proposed by the Eisenhower administration and reported from committees in Congress, the Democrats defeated such amendments.

He says:

"For the first time, I think, in the history of man, some 47 Democratic senators, leading a coalition of the North and South on the labor issue, plus three Republicans, voted to send it (the bill) back to committee, which killed it."

Sec. Mitchell also discussed the underlying objectives of the "union shop" or legalized "closed shop." He said:

"The issue is a pragmatic one. Many people have raised it to a moral level—the right of a man to decide whether or not he wants to join the union. The answer that seems to me to be most practical is that some 65 per cent of all the major collective-bargaining agreements in this country contain a 'union shop' provision. This would seem to indicate that the employers of the country also favor a 'union shop,' because the law does not compel an employer to enter into a collective-bargaining agreement providing a 'union shop.'

"Many employers feel that it is the most effective way of working with the unions. It eliminates the so-called 'free riders,' and it assures equal participation in terms of dues and initiation fees of all employes.

"The moral issue is one that is very difficult to debate. I personally believe that the realities of the situation would indicate that the 'union shop' is a permanent part of our industrial-relations practices in this country."

Mitchell said he feels that, if it could be demonstrated that a worker has conscientious beliefs against joining a union, most unions "would recognize the existence of these beliefs."

The flaw in the argument, of course, about employer acquiescence in the "union shop" is that it was obtained as a rule under duress—by economic coercion—and while there are many employers who accept such a situation, this doesn't mean that they would yield on that point if they were not compelled to do so. Also, to give up the principle of "freedom of choice" just because a monopolistic practice has become imbedded in the labor-management structure doesn't mean that expediency and disregard of principle can be justified.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Tips on Calcium Deficiency Bring Wonders to Reader

Mrs. A. N. T. says: Your advice on calcium deficiency has worked wonders. I don't have cramps in my legs any more, and I am 63 years old.

Mr. C. H. B. says: Just supplementing my diet with a daily ration of calcium and D, which you recommended, has relieved the constant leg ache which I had suffered a long time. Various doctors I consulted seemed to have no idea . . .

N. S. B. writes: Last July I wrote for your advice about painful cramps I had in my legs during the night. Since I began eating a daily ration of Ca and D as you suggested, I haven't had a cramp, and I sleep the night through—a thing I hadn't done for ten years.

Mrs. C. A. says: Your advice to take calcium tablets (the lady errs—I have never advised calcium tablets) has been followed (by whom, I wonder), and I (well, finally we get down to homely language) hardly ever suffer with horrible pain in my legs and toes now.

Mrs. E. B. writes: My husband has derived so much benefit from your advice about calcium and vitamin D. He no longer suffers from those painful leg cramps which were so frequent before this became a part of his daily diet.

Mr. M. I. reports: I was kept awake nights by cramps in the leg muscles. Doctor said it was poor circulation, but nothing helped until I started taking calcium with vitamin D. Now the pains are all gone.

These painful cramps in legs and feet, sometimes in arms and hands, occurring frequently in the wee small hours, are characteristic of a nutritional deficiency disease known as tetany.

The trouble is that both classical and current medical literature, and hence physicians in practice today, have a blind spot in reference to adult tetany, although some textbooks still parrot choice bits of hokum from the "authorities" of yesteryear in regard to tetany in infants. Generally, they contrive to refer to the parathyroid gland, of course without committing themselves in any way. Just fattening the book or the essay, you know.

Notice that two of the readers who report their experience with tetany speak of "taking" calcium and vitamin D. The others eat calcium and D.

I suppose I'll never be able to teach more than two out of six people who suffer from one or another manifestation of calcium deficiency that the Calcium and vitamin D I recommend to correct it is food, food which everyone needs every day of his life, and not medicine, to be "tried" or taken for a week or a month and then discontinued until the deficiency manifestation recurs.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Voice of the People

Contrasts Truman Attitude to That of Herbert Hoover

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

If Mr. Truman really believes Alger Hiss innocent of treason, then the question arises: Why, when as president he had the power to pardon, did he leave an innocent man in jail? If it was after he ceased to be president that he came to such an astonishing conclusion, why did he not furnish the President and people of this nation with his reasons? Either Mr. Truman has told a downright untruth or he has deliberately left an innocent man in prison for the sake of political expediency.

Of course, the belief Alger Hiss was innocent is as absurd as a belief Mr. Truman is capable of thinking with logic or coherence. However, his attitude contrasts very unfavorably with that of Mr. Hoover where civil rights are concerned.

Mr. Truman has clearly let it be seen that for him civil rights are always less important than political advantage. One thinks of Mr. Hoover bravely setting his face against mass hysteria to do what he could to defend the civil rights of American citizens of Japanese extraction when they were outraged by President Roosevelt.

More Information About Cost Asked

We have heard a great deal about the health side for and against fluoridated water, but very little about the cost. I am old enough to remember the city paying $250,000 for the fun of drinking Dawson Mill Pond water for three days. (I can still taste it.)

At that time we had a central pumping station and that would simplify distribution. But now we have 15 inlets or pumps in several places. If they have to put an injector or mixer at each pump to give us equal distribution, why not just put the mixers at the schools, because it is the children who will benefit by the fluorides, not we old folks who have dental plates and are afraid our bones and arteries will get hard, like one of the "anti's" stated in your paper.

Yours for more instructions on cost and distribution.

France Unites on Policy of Belligerence to Nasser

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

France is surprisingly united on its be-tough-with-Nasser attitude in the Suez Canal crisis.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau calls Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser a "dictator" reminiscent of Hitler, and reiterates France's determination to use force if necessary against Egypt.

The reason for French belligerency, more evident than during the Indochinese and Korean Wars, is Algeria, the North African department that Paris is trying to keep from nationalist rebels.

Figures released this week in Algeria show that more than 3,000 French and Moslem civilians, not the military, have been killed in the warfare there.

France has an estimated 400,000 troops in Algeria trying to crush the rebellion. It is diverting some of these to the British crown colony of Cyprus in case of war with Egypt.

The French feel that if they could kick out Nasser in Egypt on the Suez dispute they also would solve most of their troubles in Algeria.

The French and British will put their case on Suez to other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization at today's council meeting in Paris.

But it is apparent that the United States and other NATO members, as well as the nations that backed the London conference plan to internationalize the Suez Canal, do not like the idea of Britain and France seeking a solution by force.

The London conference did not lay any groundwork for the action to "impose" a solution on Egypt that had been promised by French leaders in the early stages of the dispute.

The five-nation commission now talking with Nasser in Cairo merely can present to Nasser the plan prepared by U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

The latter rejected the plan for an international body to control the canal's operation even before the committee opened talks with him.

Aside from military preparations, the British and French have been studying economic and diplomatic means of putting pressure on Nasser.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Men Often Get Panicky After 40

Melvin was a puzzle to his wife. But she changed him back into a happy, generous husband within a week's time by using the technique mentioned in the booklet below. Men get panicky after the age of 40, chiefly due to fear and worry. For You can't "cerebrate" and "emote" simultaneously. Dread will soon drive an ardent male into a platonic role.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, my husband has been changing in his personality," Mel's wife informed me.

"He used to be a wonderful person. He was devoted and generous. But now he is growing stingy.

"Yet his business is very successful so we have no need to pinch pennies.

"But he is very caustic. He constantly tries to belittle me. Even when we are out among friends, he will make slighting remarks and be sarcastic.

"Instead of being happy and a wonderful husband, he is bitter and unkind. Even our children have commented on it and wonder what is wrong.

"Is this the change of life in men?"

MALE CLIMACTERIC

When men pass the age of 40, they often grow fearful about their masculine vigor.

Alas, this very fear then may throw them into the very state they dread.

For a person cannot "cerebrate" and "emote" simultaneously. Either his thinking will fade or his emotions must diminish.

Well, sexual function is largely an emotional process. But thinking or analyzing, is obviously an act of the cerebral cortex (brain).

So when men pass 40 and grow a bit dubious about their ardor, they begin to watch themselves, out of the corner of their eye, so to speak.

But this watching or analyzing, means their brain is working in a scientific fashion.

Naturally, they can't emote as well, so their ardor grows less and less. Then they grow so terrified they often become totally important.

WORMWOOD & GALL

In this bitter mental state, the world appears to them as wormwood and gall. And they feel bitter toward their lovely wives and even snarl at their children.

They are almost as desperate as a cornered animal. In their panic, they may finally consult a physician for hormone shots.

These generally work if the doctor enjoys the full respect and prestige of the patient. But if the physician loses this exalted role, then the shots may have little or no effect.

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, a tactful wife who will throw off her normal passivity and wax more ardent, can usually cure such impotence in short order.

★ ★ ★

For he feels that he is old and on the shelf while she is still a charming, youthful appearing woman, although as old as Melvin by the calendar.

WHY MISERS?

If you wives wish to try an interesting psychological experiment on such penurious mates, just follow the advice in the booklet mentioned below.

For when men can function normally in the erotic realm and are no longer terrified lest they be platonic mates the rest of their lives, they grow more generous with compliments as well as cash.

So send for my booklet, "How to Prevent Impotence," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). It has saved many homes from sorrow and divorce.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Solution to Pot-O-Gold No. 13 Revealed

Editor's Note: The following list of 16 words comprises the solution to Pot-O-Gold Puzzle No. 13 which appeared in last week's editions of The Pontiac Press.

1. WHIG is right. Whig, or party disciplinarian is just as important as ever in politics. A WHIG is a member of a party no longer in existence.

2. NAG is right. A NAG can be of either sex, but a Hag is an old woman. However much a sensitive man may dislike to have a hag around, we must say that he would dislike a NAG of either sex even more.

3. GUILE is right. A prosecuting lawyer may expose the Guilt of the accused, but it is the duty of the jury to determine it, to decide if it exists. The lawyer must determine the GUILE, or cunning, of the accused in order to deal effectively with him. Even if the accused is innocent, he may still use all his cunning in his courtroom duel with a prosecuting lawyer.

4. BAN is right. It may be somewhat difficult to Nab or catch fraudulent advertisers, but not half as difficult as it would be to BAN them (forbid their advertising). Contact with them has already been made by the medium of advertising (publication, radio station, etc.) and the victim. So these two pieces of information could help nab them. But to BAN them, you would have to know they are fraudulent before there is any proof and this would require most unusual vigilance all around.

5. COUP is right. The word "legendary" points to Reynard the Fox's fame in Aesop's Fables and in European fables about the great cunning of the fox. The word COUP, meaning a brilliant stroke or clever stratagem, suits very well here. The fox's way with a Coop of chickens is factual rather than legendary.

6. CARGO is right. A Cuban CARGO is more likely to be sugar than Cigars, and sugar has more to do with the average man than cigars. Everybody uses sugar in some form. Men smoke other things besides a cigar.

7. OWL is right. You can be sure the Red Indians used Low calls a good deal more than "sometimes," in order not to disturb or arouse potentially - dangerous listeners. The Indians used calls of many birds and beasts. It is safe to say they sometimes used OWL calls.

8. PINTO is right. Because PINTO is unmistakably a horse, it is wiser to eliminate Paint. Paint could be applicable but paint is also something else, and in its most accepted senses, it is not a horse. Thus you can really say PINTO is a horse of a different color, but you couldn't say paint is such a horse and be absolutely right.

9. WELT is right. In its relation to personal comfort a WELT must be something that contributes to it, and in this case, enhances or increases that comfort. A WELT on a shoe is a strip of leather between the sole and the upper, placed there for strength and often for waterproofing. This definitely enhances the already existing comfort supplied by the shoe. A Weld, if on a heating boiler, would give you personal comfort where you did not have it before (without the weld you would have no steam or hot water), but it would not enhance or increase it.

10. MODE is right. An outstanding MODE, or fashion, often dominates the scene. Bikini bathing suits would be a good example, so would hoop skirts. An outstanding Dome, or rounded structure, by its very designation, will always dominate the scene, the particular place where it is outstanding.

11. MOODY is right. In relation to the clue, Moldy humor would be old or corny. We cannot flatly state just what is old or corny and have it generally applicable. Since humor, in the amusing sense, is so highly subjective, we must consider it in its definition as a frame of mind. There is no doubt that we come across MOODY humor (ill-nature, petulance, etc.) only too often. People are always in some mood, and meeting all kinds of people makes you encounter various MOODY humors very often.

12. BOUNCE is right. When wrestlers Pounce upon each other they are coming together and need less space. To BOUNCE is to rebound, and wrestlers BOUNCE upon each other hard, landing against the ropes, full length on the floor, and even over the ropes.

13. HELP is right. A man may be captain of a vessel on which there is no Help that is, no crew paid to take his orders and be subservient. On a yacht, for instance, with two or three friends making a cruise, they may be co-owners, and no one is really the help. The HELM can be the steering gear, or it can mean the general leadership involved, and this fits very well, for proper handling of the HELM in either sense, is of vital importance at sea.

14. FUEL is right. Heat or anger generated by a Duel may be called always unwelcome. The implication is that the heat is welcome sometimes, and sometimes not. This applies only to FUEL in our clue.

15. RANK is right. It would be superfluous to call a Khan "really important"—that goes without saying. So it is RANK you must choose. A khan is an important dignitary or emperor, but a RANK can be anything, high or low, so the designation "really important" applies properly to RANK.

16. BLOND is right. Since a BLOND can be unequivocally stated to have lightness (whitish or pale coloring of hair and skin), it is more to the point here. A Blind can be a Venetian blind, a duck blind, or a figurative subterfuge. The Venetian blind would admit light, but need not have lightness (radiance, or lack of much weight)

WATER BABIES—Taking dead aim on the cooling waters below, five-year-old twins Ronald and Donald Kirk display their remarkable aquatic agility much to the surprise of onlookers in the pool. Despite their tender years, the twins swim like catfish and are completely at home in the water. The tots, who have been swimming since they were three, make small splashes when they hit the drink, but are always rewarded with a big hand from the amazed and delighted spectators who watch them in action.

Archeologists to Hunt Relics at River Diversion

ADA (AP)—Archeologists will labor beside construction crews when work starts next week on changing the channel of Thornapple River near this Kent County community.

* * *

Brown Brothers Construction Co. of Lansing, has been awarded a $670,000 State Highway Department contract to change the river channel near its junction with the Grand River in conjunction with a new bridge across the stream on M21.

Members of the Michigan Archeological Society will be on hand when the work starts for what they term "an emergency Salvage operation."

They explain that pottery fragments and Indian artifacts as old as 2,000 years have been found near the site.

Indian villages are believed to have existed in the vicinity until the time of the coming of the white man. A trading post of the American Fur Co., with headquarters at Mackinac Island, also was located near the spot, the society said.

Pontiac Contractor Jack Walser Has Miracle Mile Site Grading On Schedule

Over 300,000 cubic yards of earth has to be moved and the entire site graded to prepare for construction of this giant Shopping Center at Telegraph and Square Lake Roads.

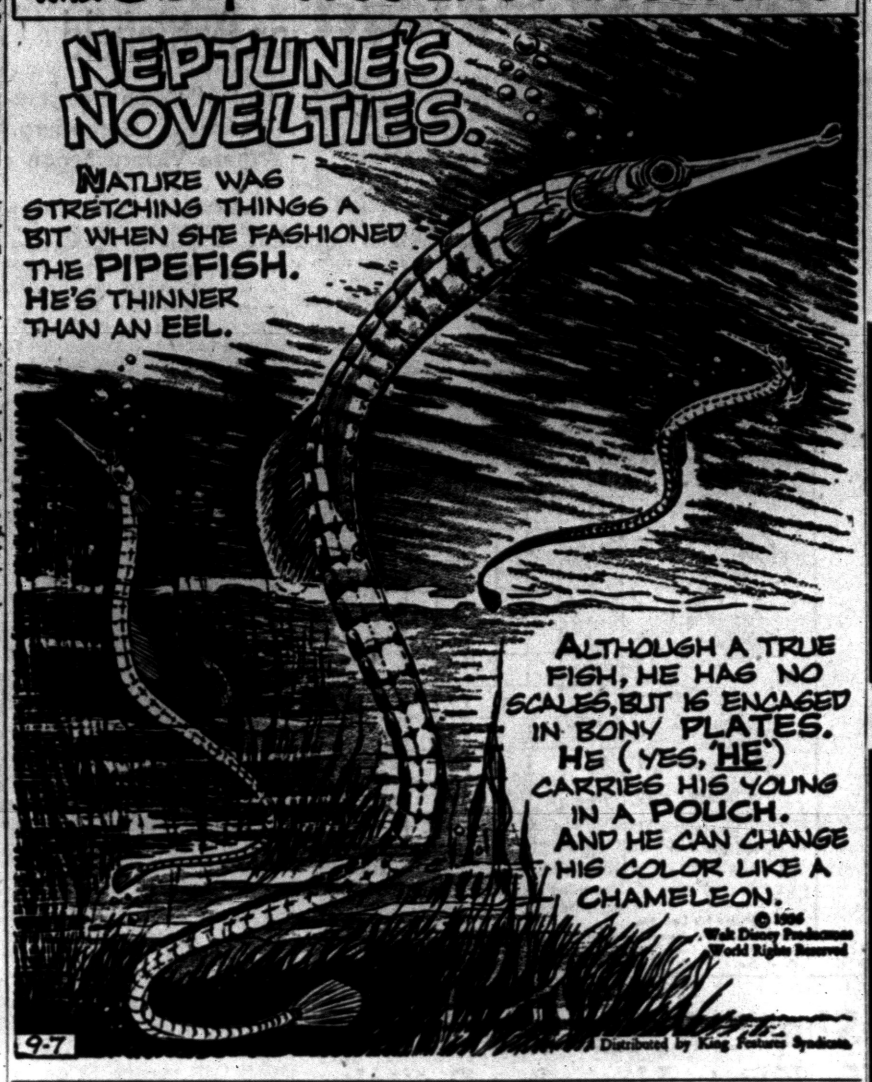

The contractor Jack Walser of Pontiac has a large spread of equipment on the job including 5 big 18 cubic yard capacity, self powered, rubber tired scrapers, four bulldozers and two draglines.

The job is progressing on schedule with the moving of an average of 8,000 cubic yards of earth per 9 hour day according to the contractor Jack Walser.

Vacuum-Pack for Body Parts

New Canning Process Lets Hospitals Store Human 'Spares'

One of the nation's major centers of an intriguing new science is the tissue bank at Bethesda, Md. The Navy has developed a clinical storehouse of human bones, blood vessels, cartilage and other tissues that have been used as replacement parts in 1,200 operations in America.

Recently, a little girl was diagnosed as suffering from a skull tumor. She needed a new head covering to prevent the tumor from recurring. An emergency call to the tissue bank was answered—the child's head was opened and the brain re-covered.

BETTER TO USE

"Freeze dried grafts are more acceptable to the body than fresh grafts from another person," says Commander Hyatt, co-director of the tissue bank. "They minimize the irritation caused by one person's protein matter being put into another person's body," he said.

Certain repair jobs call for specially designed artificial devices. These include a variety of plastic replacements, nylon and dacron which have been fashioned into arteries, veins and machines that pinch-hit for the heart, lungs and kidneys.

Replacement medicine is still an infant field. However, hospitals throughout America are fitting spare parts into worn bodies, and starting life up just as nature seemed ready to break down.

Gas Station Looted of $28 in Cash

A Baldwin Avenue gas station was broken into and looted of $28 in cash sometime between Wednesday night and Thursday morning, Pontiac police learned today.

The station is located at 1418 baldwin. The missing money included both change and bills.

Eiffel tower in Paris is the third highest in the world, exceeded only in man-made structures by the Empire State and Chrysler buildings which are located in New York City.

Bob Considine Says:

Dynamic Henry J. Startles Drowsy Hawaii

HONOLULU (INS) — "This is Henry J. Kaiser speaking from Hawaii, called by Mark Twain the loveliest fleet of islands anchored in any ocean," said the drowsy voice of Henry J. Kaiser.

* * *

We were listening to a pitch he had recently recorded in behalf of his Hawaiian Village, an 18-acre resort development at what once was the pierced beer can and floating pineapple husk of Waikiki Beach.

We were in the office of this remarkable old boy, who at 74 has brought his hurry-up, forced-draft personality to this drowsy land to the mingled dismay, mystification and annoyance of his newest competitors.

His recorded voice spun on an acetate record which activated a half hour of slides—color views of his place and the surrounding Technicolor wonders. There was soft Hawaiian background music as the tycoon doggedly drooled onward:

"Like nothing ever dreamed of ... sun-tanned to the touches of soothing trade winds ... a cooling drink at your nod ... where tycoons and moving picture stars share these lanais ... every sun-kissed hour ... the beach slopes ever so gently ... tonight you'll be dancing under the stars ... farewell, for just a little while."

TOO PROFESSIONAL

"I tried some guy, a pro, to read that script but all he sounded like was some pro," Kaiser said, leaning back in his chair, pleased with his completed effort.

* * *

"The guy sounded like a shill. I give it a homey air, or at least that's what my boys tell me."

Henry J. smoothed his egg-white slacks and chocolate-striped sports shirt, and he slipped his feet out of his white leather loafers and scratched same on the carpet.

"I'm sending prints of this spiel around the mainland, with on-the-cuff trips to salesmen who drum up a certain number of people to come out here. It's the greatest, but I've hardly begun."

* * *

Kaiser's thatched-roof motel and colorful bars, nightclubs and shops presently accommodate 300 guests, and the whole she-bang has cost him about $4,000,000.

This is embarrassing to a man who built thousands of Liberty Ships during the war, is one of the biggest aluminum, steel and cement men in the world, makes 300 products in 125 plants throughout the world, and over the years has borrowed more than a billion dollars from one bank alone—the Bank of America.

ELABORATE PLANS

His walls are covered with sketches of his plans for Hawaiian Village: New Fontainbleu-type hotels to raise his room count to 3,000, a vast aluminum shell for conventions and an ice show, a color TV station (he wants to buy 3,000 color receivers and give them to people around the islands), 10 different floor shows working more or less simultaneously (and televised), and a few things like that.

* * *

"We'll have 40 million in it, soon," he said, looking a great deal like a mollified Aga Khan just about to step on the scales.

Henry J. dreams don't stop at that. He's still determined, he told us, to build his "Magic Island," until now a mirage off Waikiki.

"Having a little trouble with the authorities on that one," he said. "But it'll come around in seven or eight years. It'll cost 200 million."

* * *

Kaiser fell in love with Hawaii several years ago, after a somewhat stormy previous brush with the iron-clad unions of Harry Bridges — who could shut down paradise with a nod.

Henry J. (who prefers to be called Mr. Kaiser) bought a $180,000 house out past Diamond Head and ordered himself a double lotus. But he became restless for something to build or change.

His "boys" are minding the other stores for him, including his car manufacturing plant in Argentina and the one building in Rio.

* * *

Henry's busy building outrigger canoes and swift, twin-hulled catamarans, wearing shocking pink pants, revising the floor shows, and arguing with city fathers who don't want buildings built higher than the street they face on is wide.

He's convinced that the longer life that people are living, and the determination of industry to put able-bodied 65-year-olders out to pasture, is creating an enormous yen for travel.

"Travel's become a basic industry," the industrialist told us. "What better place can travelers find than this place? I'm getting ready for them, I can give them a ball for $11.51 a day—the same price as some third-class joint back home."

Sherlock Holmes Legend Is Kept Alive by Britisher

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — John Graves is a sentimental British businessman dedicated to keeping alive the legend of Sherlock Holmes.

"I'm a man who hates to trample on an illusion," he says, tapping a bulging file of letters addressed to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's detective story hero.

"People write to Holmes from many lands," said Greaves, "and we get them simply because our office—the Abbey National Building Society — happens to occupy the spot where Sherlock's flat was supposed to be."

* * *

The Post Office and Graves maintain a good - natured conspiracy over the letters that reach London addressed:

"Mr. Sherlock Holmes,
221 B Baker St."

There never has been a 221 B. Baker St., but the dead letter office, instead of tossing away the envelopes or returning them to their senders, posts them to Graves. His office in Baker Street is on the spot where the Holmes flat would be if the address existed.

* * *

As conscientiously as if he were Holmes' faithful accomplice Dr. Watson, Graves reads all the letters and carefully answers them.

Some of the letters are from unashamed pranksters, but the vast majority are from children, adults or such enthusiastic Holmesians as the Speckled Band of Boston, the Scandalous Bohemians of Akron and the Danish Baker Street Irregulars.

Eight - year - old Betsy Russasco, of Indianapolis, a Holmes addict, but obviously not a professional one, wrote:

"You're quite clever at solving cases. My sister and I play Sherlock Holmes but I have to be Watson. I know a man who has a pipe like yours.

* * *

"We have two long-haired dachshunds and when we play Sherlock Holmes we pretend they are bloodhounds. A magazine said you went to Indianapolis. did you?"

Graves replied:

"Mr. Holmes had to vacate his flat and unfortunately I do not know his present address, so he may have gone to Indiana. I am sure he would have been most interested to hear about your games . . ."

Graves shook his head.

Detroit Dope Peddler Given Long Jail Term

DETROIT (INS) — One of Detroit's biggest dope peddlers was sentenced to 20 to 30 years in prison yesterday for the sale of narcotics to a police informer.

Recorder's Judge O. Z. Ide also gave Bennie McCormick, 32, a 7½ to 10 year sentence for possession of narcotics, but both terms will run concurrently.

McCormick, released from prison only seven months ago, was arrested after delivery of 1,930 grains of heroin to the informer for $575 on May 15.

Woolson Statue on Battlefield

Last of Union Veterans Overlooks Gettysburg, Where Victory Began

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—A statue of an ancient warrior—last surviving member of the Northern Army—sits proudly erect on a fallen tree to survey the meadow across which Pickett led the famous charge of his gallant Confederate forces in a losing cause a century ago.

* * *

The Albert Woolson bronze depicts the Union veteran in his declining years, his gnarled hand resting on a walking stick. He wears the blue uniform of the Grand Army of the Republic, which he donned as a young drummer boy in the waning months of the Civil War.

* * *

The statue, slightly larger than life size, is the creation of Dr. Ovard Fairbanks, noted Western sculptor. It arrived recently at this national shrine — scene of the bloody battle that historians have called the turning point of the war, where the strife-torn nation's president later delivered his immortal address.

The memorial will be formally dedicated Sept. 12. Maj. Gen. U.S. Grant III, grandson of the famed Union general, is to deliver the principal address.

* * *

The national auxiliary of the Sons of Union Veterans raised $17,000 to commission the statue as a tribute to Woolson and all his comrades in arms who have long since passed on.

* * *

Woolson died at the age of 109 Aug. 2 in Duluth, Minn., the last of 400,000 GAR veterans. He did not participate in the battle of Gettysburg. Three veterans of the Confederate Army survive. The oldest now is 113.

Xway Speedup OK'd

DETROIT (AP) — The Lodge Expressway will be brought to within a mile and a half of completion with the opening of two miles in Detroit no later than Oct. 1. A speedup in construction was agreed on Wednesday by Mayor Albert E. Cobo, the State Highway Department, the Wayne County Roads Commission and the Department of Public Works.

Curfew Law Passed

MONTAGUE (AP) — Seeking to curb teenage troublemakers, the Montague City Council has passed an ordinance requiring persons under 18 to be off the streets by 11 p.m., except on Friday and Saturday nights.

September Song Is 'School Days' for Thousands

HI THERE! — Thousands of youngsters like five-year-old Tommy Redding, above, hardly got their coats off before greeting their new teachers with big, friendly grins. It looks like the beginning of a good semester for Tommy, who lives at 2405 Empire St. and Mrs. Patricia Kirksey, his first grade teacher at Daniel Whitfield School.

Pontiac Press Photos

PRE-SCHOOL ASSEMBLY — High School students flocked to St. Frederick's Catholic School yesterday morning to start the fall semester under the supervision of their principal, Sister Christine, above. They are shown after enrolling for classes in the gymnasium. When grade school pupils have enrolled today, an estimated 850 pupils will be ready to start classes on Monday. About 750 students are expected at St. Michael's and 550 at St. Benedict's.

Some Glum, Others Happy as Books Beckon

By PETE LOCHBILER

There was lots of excitement for Pontiac school children as they started another year of classes yesterday.

Pontiac school students began with morning enrollment and registration and continued with a full day of new classes.

More than 18,550 students—a record high—are expected to be enrolled by the time the month is up.

Parochial school pupils began with morning Mass, got their class schedules straightened out and then took the afternoon off. They will return for classes Monday.

Principals expect about the same number of parochial students as last year—about 850 at St. Frederick's, 750 at St. Michael's and 550 at St. Benedict's.

Kindergarteners at the public schools came in holding mother's hand yesterday to enroll in school for the first time. They still have today to enroll before regular sessions begin Monday.

Some luck youngsters have gotten a few extra days of vacation while waiting for their new buildings to be finished. When their regular classes do start, they'll have brand new, gleaming classrooms—the newest in Pontiac.

First graders got the day off today, while their teachers went back to school. The school system is sponsoring a workshop at Owen School today to teach teacher how to improve younngsters' first few weeks of reading instruction.

All the other public school students were back at classes again this morning, and some of yesterday's newness had begun to wear off.

The youngsters in the first couple of grades spent yesterday getting acquainted.

They took crayons in hand and truned out the first drawings of the year. Second graders took a quick look into story books and found they remembered lots of the words.

Everyone trooped out to the playground, swings, play a little ball, or just run around in circles.

Later in the afternoon they gathered at teacher's feet to hear a good story.

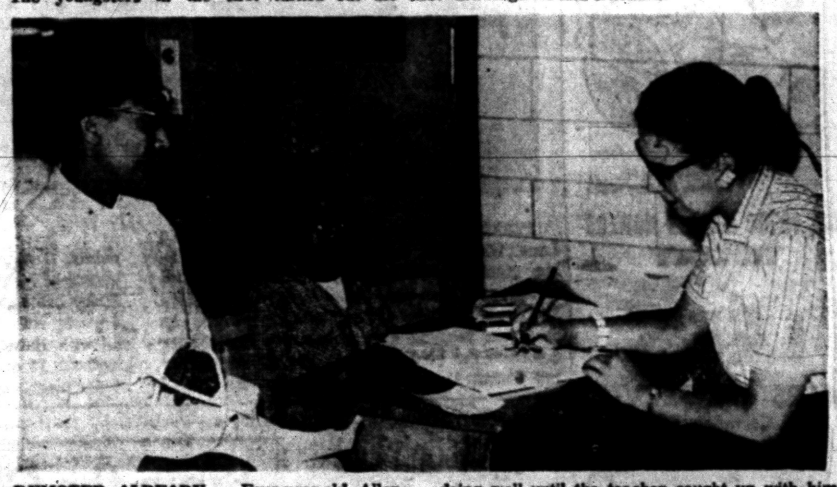

It was a big moment for other grade schoolers who learned this year that they will tackle multiplication of numbers, long division and fractions.

FIRST DAY ARTISTRY — First Graders Deborah McCall, 6, of 216 Branch St. and Timothy Cooley, 5, of 88 Orton St., were pretty proud of the pictures they colored with crayon during yesterday's first session of classes. Their teacher, Ophelia Harmon, was pleased by the results. Timothy is the son of City Commissioner Dr. Roy V. Cooley.

BRAND NEW TEACHER — Mrs. Marjorie Walsh soothes her aching feet after her first day as a teacher yesterday. Just out of college and a bride of three weeks, she's starting out teaching first grade at Daniel Whitfield School. After a long day on high heels explaining colors, numbers and reading, she found her job was tough, at least on the feet.

DEMOTED ALREADY — Four-year-old Allen Craft, son of Mrs. Eddie Craft, of 69 Clovese St., finally got settled in kindergarten at Bethune School yesterday. Allen went to second grade classes with his brother in the morning and was doing well until the teacher caught up with him and sent him home. Mother and son returned to enroll properly with kindergarten teacher Mary Worth, above. Kindergarten starts Monday.

NEW LECTURE HALL—Ninth graders at Madison Junior High School settled down to business in a brand new addition to the building. General shop and drafting classes above are sitting in the combination lecture hall-little theater, listening to preliminary instructions by shop instructor William Wilson. The hall will be used by dramatics, music and speech classes during the semester.

Reading Readiness Topic of Workshop in Schools

As part of the increasing emphasis on a reading improvement program in the Pontiac public schools, a workshop dealing with reading readiness was held for the first time today for first grade teachers.

* * *

It included the techniques and materials teachers will be using to supplement and prepare first graders in reading. Reading readiness will help the child to understand better and enjoy more the printed words and books he will be using.

Dr. Harry Hahn, director of the Oakland County Reading Clinic, spoke in the morning to the group giving new ideas for teaching beginning reading. He stated that "the first few weeks will determine the child's reading skill or lack of it."

* * *

An orientation session on readiness tests and teacher observation of readiness skills was held in the afternoon. Games and materials to prepare for reading were presented to teachers, as well as the proper techniques for putting them across to the children.

A work period was then held in which the teachers themselves participated in the games and made their own readiness materials.

LUNCH TIME — Some little folk preferred mom's sandwiches to hot lunch sold in school cafeterias. Rows of colorful lunch boxes were seen in elementary schools yesterday as the kids went back to battle the three R's.

Gladiolus 'Hobby' Embraces 4 Acres

By MARTHA LEWIS
Ortonville Correspondent

An idle dream has grown into an active hobby for Arthur Robinson, 12315 County Line Rd., Ortonville.

During the years Robinson was a dairy and crop farmer he often thought of raising gladioli as a hobby. It wasn't until six years ago that he had the opportunity to do so. Starting with a few glads, he today has four acres of them.

One acre is devoted exclusively to bulblets from which the Robinsons raise their growing stock. They have 45 varieties of glads in all.

* * *

Robinson made his own equipment for planting and digging. Two people using this equipment can plant 1000 bulbs in an hour says Robinson. Planting is usually begun by April 10.

In September the bulbs are dug up and dried and dusted. During the winter months, many hours are spent in the Robinson home cleaning the bulbs for spring planting. Sorting and marketing is important to keep the stock true to type.

During the summer months, the Robinsons spend most of their time at home with their youngest son Richard, 11 years old. According to his parents, Richard has a natural talent for flower arrangements.

Competing a few years ago at the Flint Garden Club against other children, Richard won four ribbons for his four entries. At the North Western Michigan Gladioli Capital at Mesick, the Robinsons came home with 10 ribbons for their 10 entries.

Members of the Baptist Church in Ortonville, the family sees that whenever they have flowers in bloom, the church altar is adorned with them.

Robinson replied when asked about his flowers, "I have never enjoyed working with anything so much, and I never tire of them."

Lawn-Making Time

It's lawn-making time in this part of the country. This means plenty of care in preparing seed beds, digging, grading, and raking. Lawns are permanent and important, don't try to skimp buying cheap grass seed mixtures.

ACRES OF GLADS—That is what Arthur Robinson, left, of 12315 County Line Rd., Ortonville is showing neighbor Earl P. Lewis of 405 School House Rd., Ortonville. These gladioli, four acres of them, are the result of a hobby Robinson started six years ago while still a dairy and crop farmer. Now they are a full time job for the whole Robinson family who plant them in early spring and spend the fall and winter months drying.

Summer Shade Achieved Now

Use Yardstick Guide in Strategic Planting of Shade Trees

A future event that can cast its shadow now is a plan to provide shade next summer.

At Summer's peak, the week-end gardener is super-conscious about the refreshing grace of shade trees. He can find the answer now to strategic planting for the tree moving season, which starts in October.

* * *

All the home owner has to do is determine the area he wants shaded and the time of day when shade is most needed and to then take the yardstick and stand it erect. If the three-foot rule casts a six-foot shadow at the desired period of the day, he can quickly estimate a 20-foot tree will cast a 40-foot shadow.

The right answer to the shaded area can usually be achieved by using one or more trees at the right locations and the right distance apart. For rule of thumb, it will require trees planted closer to the "target" shade area to achieve noontime shade, when the sun is at its highest.

For late afternoon shade, the lowering sun casts a longer shadow and trees should be located at an appropriate distance from this area. Most backyard trees should be branched head high to allow sunlight to get at adjacent shrubs and lawns and to provide free passage.

If transplanted this Fall, chances are new trees will provide a moderate amount of shade as early as next Summer.

Water Builds Roots

It is necessary that all newly established material, from grass to yews, receive plenty of water. This will make it easy for them to build a sturdy root system.

Start Roses With Cuttings

The ambitious gardener feels that his season's efforts have been in vain unless he has started a few rose plants from cuttings.

Rose cuttings taken prematurely seldom make root growth because the wood is too soft. However, cuttings taken from August until mid-september, when this year's wood has hardened, should prove most successful.

Since reproducing plants of any sort is really the work of experts and at best a very slow process, the home gardener should not be disappointed if the adventure results in failure.

But it is fun to try, and if half the cuttings survive, you can brag. It takes two to four years plus considerable care and patience to grow a good rose plant.

R. C. Allen, author of "Roses for Every Garden," gives instructions on the art of growing roses from cuttings. The best cuttings are healthy flowering shoots five or six inches long with three to five leaves. Make the basal cuts on each piece about ¼-inch below the point where a lower leaf joins the stem.

REMOVE LEAF

Then remove the lower leaf, but leave the upper ones on. If the leaves are large, remove one or two or reduce the surface of each by cutting them in half. All flower buds should be nipped off.

Cuttings may be rooted in sand, peat moss, vermiculite or a loamy soil. Coating the base of the cuttings with a root-promoting powder prior to placing them in the rooting medium is recommended. No fertilizer is required.

* * *

A slightly shaded spot in the garden offers the best location. A cold-frame or hotbed, if available, would be my choice since the experiment can be kept under better control.

Place the cuttings an inch or so in the rooting medium, water and shade for a few days. Should you choose to put the cuttings in the shady spot in the garden, water them well and cover with a preserve jar (the two-quart size is best), grouping three or four under each jar. Water just often enough to keep the rooting medium moist but not soggy.

After six or seven weeks the cuttings which survive will show some new growth, and then is the time to remove the jar. Do this in the late afternoon when the sun will not injure the tender new growth.

Dead cuttings should be removed when noticed. Leave the cuttings in place until next spring when they should be transplanted to the rose bed.

For winter protection completely cover the rooted cuttings with soil, removing it in late March along with the soil mounded about the

'Fly-Free' Date Benefits Wheat

Plant After Sept. 17-19 to Reduce Crop Loss, Says County Agent

It doesn't pay to hedge on the "fly-free" date when you're planting wheat, says Oakland County Agricultural Agent, Lyle Abel.

Abel points out that some farmers last year suffered severe loss of their wheat crop because they planted before the danger from the fall brood of Hessian fly was past.

The date when most of these flies are gone varies with the area, but for a given county, it remains approximately the same from year to year. Wheat can be planted after this "fly-free" date without fear of Hessian fly damage and still have time to get established before cold weather.

Agent Abel says the fly-free date for Oakland County is Sept. 17 to 19.

The danger to the wheat comes when the larvae of the insect develops between the leaves of the plant near the base. In the late fall or early spring the pupae or "flaxseed" stage appears. The adult fly emerges in the spring and lays the eggs for the generation that causes most of the actual damage.

The eggs hatch into larvae which feed on the plant tissues near the leaf sheath killing the wheat stalk above this area. This causes lodging and shriveling in the wheat. If the infestation is serious, the whole crop could be lost.

Several generations are produced during the summer. However, as cool weather approaches in the fall, the flies begin to disappear. If there is no wheat available for egg laying, they die without providing for the next generation.

Flowering Trees Beautify Lawn

Flowering trees are a big aid in beautifying property if they are planted where they will achieve maximum effect and serve a definite purpose.

* * *

Two excellent locations for flowering trees is at a corner of your property toward the street, and at the corner of your house.

Near the house, along with various shrubs, the trees help to frame the house and tie it to the ground in a natural way.

At a driveway entrance is another likely location, or in your back yard. There the trees will offer beauty and the comfort of summer shade.

Frost Needn't End Vegetable Garden

Fall leaf crops usually withstand the first killing frosts without serious injury.

Both lettuce and endive stand some frost, and may be used as long as they remain in edible condition. Frost improves the flavor of endive.

Brussels sprouts can be frosen hard several times without injury, and are often harvested until Christmas. Kale is almost as hardy, and so is Chinese cabbage.

Cabbages of all kinds can be taken in after cold weather really sets in, and stored in a shed or garage where they are protected from hard freezing.

As spaces occur in the vegetable garden, spade up the area and feed it. Leave it in clods of earth to winter over.

From the Garden Editor

Wayne Seifert, assistant county agriculture agent has come through for us—volunteering information on poppy seeds.

A question was raised by a lady who saves poppy seeds from the opium poppy plant which gives the narcotic drug. She wanted to know if the seeds were also narcotic, which they are not. They may be safely used for bird seed and flavoring, and seed oil.

Mrs. William Fyfe of 22 Lexington Place has an Easter lily blooming for the second time this year. It has three blooms at the present time.

The rain and cool weather account for her seven foot high dahlia plants says Mrs. S. Robb of 260 Division St., Leonard. Mrs. Robb recently called us and said she not only had extra tall plants, but the blossoms of some were 10 and twelve inches across.

Mrs. Glen Mason of 97 Michigan Ave. was pleasantly surprised upon returning home from a trip to find that her mystery plant, having all the earmarks of a night blooming cereus, has two buds ready to burst into bloom. The plant which Mrs. Mason has had for years bloomed last year at about midnight. At the present, it is growing out of doors.

Not to be outdone, Archie Warden of 116 W. Chicago tells us of his 12 and a half foot sunflower which sports a cluster of blossoms on top. The plant came up by itself, possibly from birdseed Warden had put out last year.

On Lilac court, appropriately enough, a lilac bush is blooming for the second time this year. The bush belongs to Mrs. Wayne Moore, 7605 Lilac Ct., Westacres.

Hold Up Hardy Seeds

Wait for about a month before sowing hardy seeds like larkspur, calendula, alyssum or shirley poppy for early bloom next spring. You can as a matter of fact, sow the seed on top of the snow during the winter and permit the melting snow to carry them into the ground.

Transplanting Rules

The general rule to follow on the division and transplanting of perennials at this time is to work on those plants which bloomed during the spring months. Summer and fall blooming plants are best moved in the early spring.

May Transplant Now Biennials, Perennials

Many of the biennial seeds, started in the cold frame or special seed beds, may be transplanted now to the positions in which they will bloom next year.

Also, new perennials started from seed should get the same treatment. Perennials which can be moved safely now are those which bloom in the spring. Move others when the ground softens next year.

Strictly Local Flavor

NEW ORLEANS—Tulane's football team will have a decided Louisiana accent this fall. Of the 65 varsity performers scheduled to report for Sept. 1 pre-season practice, 44 of them are from Louisiana. Head coach Andy Pilney could field a complete starting team of Louisianians.

is 1,290 feet, off Munising, Michigan.

Spring Blooming Snowdrop Bulbs Set Out Early

The first bulbs to set out in the fall are those that blossom earliest in the spring. They must do most of their growing before the ground freezes in order to blossom so soon after it thaws out.

There are no garden flowers which will grow and blossom while the soil is frozen, but the snowdrop comes close to doing this.

Snowdrops come not from the arctic but from a semi-tropical area, Asia Minor.

Their flowers are small, white, bell shaped and later in the season would attract little attention. But as the first sign of spring they give the spirits a lift, at a time when they have no competition.

Time to Trim Hedges

Most hedges will be better able to handle their snowburdens this winter if they are trimmed now before fall sets in.

Ground Excellent in Fall for Establishing Plants

In most sections of the country, the ground is in excellent condition in the fall for planting.

* * *

Fall planting enables plants to grow and become well established before the colder months set in. Usually, because there is more rainfall they will not require so much watering to keep them healthy.

In the late winter months, plants will start to grow much earlier in the season if set out the previous fall. They will have far better flowers or foliage or fruit, as the case may be.

In the fall, most plants in commercial nurseries after a summer of growth are in the healthiest possible state for transplanting to home properties. This is true of evergreens as well as deciduous plants.

There are three things which make for good planting. First, make sure that the hole dug for any plant is large enough for its roots to be spread out flat with ample space beyond the root tips for them to grow.

Secondly, unless the soil is normally fertile, make a mixture of good soil and peat moss and pour it in the hole below and above the roots so that it covers them completely.

Third, soak the plant and the soil thoroughly at the time of planting and thereafter as needed. It is not advisable to fertilize in the fall as it may encourage soft growth. Best time to fertilize generally is in the late winter or early spring, and then again just after the flowering period of the plant.

Where winters are severe special protection with mulches of salt hay, peat moss and even burlap windbreaks may be necessary with certain plants.

Gear much of your planting of trees and shruks to the fall months so they'll be able to take advantage of late winter and early spring growth.

Back Door Roses Give Work a Lift

A back-door rose garden may make washdays and kitchen chores in general more pleasant and cheerful.

Place the garden where it can be seen when the wash is being hung up, as well as from the kitchen window every day of the week.

The rose garden may be in the form of borders to a backyard walk, or in compact little squares beside the back steps or porch.

A good $2 rose plant will return $5 or more in cut flowers the first year, and more thereafter if properly cared for, says the American Association of Nurserymen.

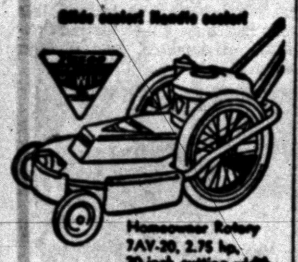

Roses today are bigger and better. There is a wider choice of varieties and generally more aroma than ever before in history.

Fall Brings Chores

Gardeners will find that their two biggest chores during the coming fall season is setting in new trees—evergreen and deciduous—and working over the perennial borders.

University Gives 'Doctor of Letters' to Mail Carrier

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Arthur A. Aamodt, who has carried mail at the University of Utah campus for seven years, had a delegation of university officials waiting for him when he approached the campus yesterday.

* * *

Led by Dr. Henry Eyring, dean of the graduate school, they presented the surprised Aamodt with an honorary "Doctor of Letters degree," in recognition of what Eyring hailed as his major study in transportation and engineering with a minor in applied psychology.

The degree was just a gag, but Eyring thought it was as good a way as any to call attention to "Dr." Aamodt' performance: at an average of 5,000 pieces of mail delivered to the school daily, Eyring noted, Aamodt has now carried a total of 10½ million pieces.

AFL in State to Stay Neutral on Elections

DETROIT (AP)— The Michigan Federation of Labor (AFL) probably won't endorse the Democratic presidential ticket as recommended by the national AFL-CIO Executive Council, MFL President George Dean predicts.

Dean also said he thinks the MFL will remain neutral in the state campaign.

"It's too early to say definitely," Dean said, "but it's my feeling the MFL will make no official endorsement."

He predicted the MFL Executive Board simply will pass on recommendations of the national AFL-CIO Executive Cuncil to affiliated unions, "and let them decide for themselves."

Study Reveals Population Loss for Detroit Area

DETROIT (INS)—Harry Sharp, director of the University of Michigan's Detroit area study, reported today at the American Sociological Society meeting that one out of every four Detroit-area adults intends to move within the year.

* * *

Sharp told members of the society, who are meeting in Detroit, that if all intended moves were carried out within the year, metropolitan Detroit would be losing slightly more residents by out-migration than it would gain by in-migration.

* * *

The sociologist based his findings on a representative cross section of adults in an area comprising 90 per cent of the population of Wayne, Macomb and Oakland Counties.

Principal reasons cited by persons intending to move were desire for home ownership, location in a better neighborhood, and desire for a better home.

* * *

Only 5 per cent of those planning moves said they would change their residence to be closer to their place of work.

Climbs Piling for Fresh Air; Authorities Differ

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—It took 30 policemen and firemen more than an hour and a half yesterday to haul down a man who climbed a piling in the Schuylkill River "to get a breath of air."

* * *

"I like to give people a hard time," he jeered as he squatted on a crosspiece connecting two upright timbers about seven feet above the end of a long pier.

The police and their helpers tried just about everything—coaxing, sharp words, promises of cigarettes, a free meal, a good rest in a safe, law-abiding place.

* * *

In the end the police and firemen stopped talking and went into action with a tug, a city fireboat, long poles, ladders and ropes. They got him, but not until there'd been quite a tussle. They carried him, bound to a stretcher, to an emergency car, thence to a hospital for a checkup. One of the policemen was hospitalized, too. He'd been kicked in the abdomen by the stubborn sitter, who gave his name as George William Reed, 57.

OLD WHALING DAYS — 5

"Thar She Blows"

Once the whaler reached the seas where whales were likely to be found, sharp-eyed sailors went up to the masthead and scanned the open sea.

When someone spotted a distant whale spouting, the cry went up "thar she blows." Instantly there was great activity on the whaling ship, as the crew prepared to launch a boat.

The spout which a whale sends up is not water, but a stream of vapor as he lets the warm breath out of his lungs into the cold air. In much the same way, you can see your own breath as vapor on a very cold day.

Triplets Born Early Save X-Ray Bother

DETROIT (AP)—The day before she was to be X-rayed to determine possibility of a multiple birth, Mrs. Barbara Kroll produced positive proof . . . triplets.

The two girls and a boy were born yesterday.

Not due until November but reported in good condition are Carl Stephen, 3 pounds 9 ounces; Janet Marie, 3 pounds 4 ounces, and Nancy Jean, 2 pounds 12 ounces.

Says State Parks Need Expansion Immediately

ROSCOMMON (AP)—Michigan will fall behind as a leading tourist state unless an expansion program is stared immediately, members of the State Conservation Commission were told yesterday.

* * *

William J. Trepangier, editor of Motor News of the Automobile Club of Michigan, said 28 million sightseers will be visiting Michigan state parks each year by 1960 compared to 18 last year.

* * *

"We need a greatly expanded park system and we should start doing something about it now," he said.

Michigan GOP Plans to Get Out the Vote

LANSING (AP)—The Republican State Central Committee said today plans are being laid for a statewide drive to get a maximum number of voters registered for the Nov. 6 election.

Chairman John Feikens said, "We will spare no effort" in seeking the objective.

The committee announced that four representatives of the state Republican organization will attend a session with the President and Vice President Nixon at Gettysburg, Pa., Wednesday.

Campaign discussions will be held, including the voter registration drive.

Bitten Nose Puts Police on Scent in Slaying Case

DETROIT (AP)—The tip of a nose was found near the body of Emmett Ephraim, 40, about the time Robert Stott, 34, showed up at Receiving Hospital for treatment of a nose wound.

Police said Stott told them he hit Ephraim with a club and then stabbed him after Ephraim bit his nose.

Police said the men quarreled over Ephraim's attention to Stott's wife. Stott was held for investigation.

CHURCH'S, INC.

107 Squirrel Road Phone FEderal 2-0233

Dear Customer:

Remember how those fuel oil bills came at just the wrong time last winter . . . especially around Christmas?

Now you can avoid high fuel bills by using Church's convenient FUEL OIL BUDGET PLAN . . . at no extra cost to you.

Here's how the plan works.

Church's estimate how much fuel oil you'll use during the next heating season (based on past delivery records). Then we calculate your total fuel bill for the season and divide it into TEN EVEN MONTHLY PAYMENTS. The first payment is due in September with the same amount due each month thru May.

At the end of the heating season, we compare the ACTUAL COST of the fuel oil delivered to your tank with the total paid into your Budget Plan account. If there is a credit, you get a refund. If there is a balance you receive a final bill.

What's more . . . there's no service charge for this convenient Budget Plan. IT DOESN'T COST A CENT to spread your fuel oil cost evenly over ten months. This is another free Church's, Inc. service designed to give you heating comfort without a care.

Cut those big fuel bills down to size the easy Budget Plan way by signing and mailing the coupon below. If you prefer, just call FE 2-0233 for details.

Freight Train Derails in Colorado, None Hurt

DENVER (INS) — A Union Pacific freight train was derailed north of Denver yesterday — the second railway mishap in the tri-state mountain area.

Nine cars of the train were derailed on a trestle in Adams County, causing a small fire, but apparently no injuries.

Cleanup operations were under way and officials said the track would be open soon to traffic.

Kon-Tiki Skipper Returns From Year in S. Pacific

OSLO, Norway (UP) — Explorer Thor Heyerdahl said Thursday Easter Island in the South Pacific was settled at least 1,500 years ago—or about 1,000 years earlier than previously estimated.

* * *

Heyerdahl, the Norwegian ethnologist who skippered the raft Kon-Tiki from Peru to Polynesia nine years ago, returned last week from a one-year archeological expedition to Easter Island and other Pacific islands aboard a 400-ton converted fishing vessel, the Christian Bjelland.

Easter Island, known for its mysterious stone statues, some of them nearly 70 feet tall, was discovered by the Dutch seafarer, Roggeveen, in 1722. Totaling about 45 square miles, it lies 2,550 miles west of Chile, to which it belongs.

Heyerdahl said what previous research thought was the beginning of civilization on Easter Island was really the "opening of the steady decline of a previous culture."

* * *

He said analysis of radioactive carbon from the island will pinpoint the stages in the civilization.

The 42-year-old explorer said studies of the material found by the expedition will take at least two years, but some things are already clear.

"I know how the stone statues were erected by the stone age people of the prosperity period of the island," Heyerdahl said.

* * *

He said he and his team, among them three American professors, figured out a way to raise a 30-ton stone statue in little more than two weeks.

* * *

"The statues all stand on platforms, about six feet high," he said.

"We selected a statue which had toppled off its platform, and erected it just as the natives must have done it.

* * *

"We jacked it up a few inches on one side by means of two logs, and stuffed stones and gravel under the statue. Then we repeated the procedure."

Finally, with just a few inches to go, "We pulled it erect with a rope."

Heyerdahl said he had got the idea from the natives on Easter Island.

* * *

Among the members of the expedition were Dr. Carlyle Smith of the University of Kansas, Dr. William Mulloy of the University of Wyoming, and Dr. Edwin Ferdon of the University of New Mexico.

Law Passed in Miami Confining Lions to Den

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—It is no longer legal for lions to run loose in Miami.

The City Commission yesterday passed a law prohibiting it. The law is aimed at lions but the wanderings of a young lioness named Diane prompted it.

Diane broke loose several times and terrorized her section of town. But she was moved outside the city limits by her owner before the law was passed.

Win Cash Prize for 16 Answers to Puzzle No. 14

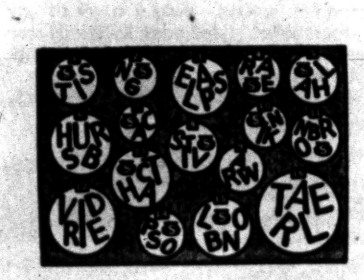

You'll find out things about your mind you never knew before when you send it through the maze of clues and words that make up Pot-O-Gold, conducted weekly by the Pontiac Press. It's exciting, often perplexing, but never dull. And Pot-O-Gold can be profitable, too. For example, if you're successful with the clues below you can win at least $100, plus another $25 if you happen to be a Press subscriber of record.

The puzzle consists of (1) a number of circles which contain a few scrambled letters, and (2) a corresponding list of clues to these words printed below. The object is to arrange each group of circled letters into a word that best fits its clue. The word which you select for Circle No. 1, then would be the one which you would print in the space to the right of (1) below.

You'll notice that some circles contain $ signs in pots of gold. You may use such a symbol as any letter you wish. However, it and all letters in that circle must be used. The $ sign, of course, can represent ANY letter in the word.

Do the same in all the other circles. Study the clues carefully and arrange all the letters into words that you believe best conforms to these clues. Use your $ signs to help you spell out the right words.

Texas to Expel Married Couple

Wedding of Negro Man and White Mate Called Illegal in State

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A white woman and her Negro husband were advised by the district attorney yesterday to leave Texas because their mixed marriage is illegal in this state.

Dist. Atty. Hubert Green said he gave Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Brown Jr. this advice after a grand jury declined to take action on charges he presented to it.

The former Mary Zichterman, 22, and Brown, 21, met at Lackland Air Force Base where she was a WAF and he was a porter in the officer's club.

Green said he presented the case to the grand jury without recommendation after the couple admitted marrying at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, in August 1955. He added that he told Brown's parents that "if the couple insisted on living together as man and wife to stay out of Texas."

* * *

The penal code provides a prison sentence of 2 to 5 years for participants of mixed marriages, inside or outside of the state, who live together here.

"I fell in love and married Ollie because of his character and not because he was black or white or anything else," Mrs. Brown said in an interview. She said they planned to go to California as soon as they could get enough money but she did not say where.

Mrs. Brown, a green-eyed blonde, also disclosed she is pregnant.

Air Force officials said she was listed as single when discharged. Her home town was given as in Michigan, but she declined to name it.

Sports Car Hits Tree, Rolls; Another Artist Seriously Hurt

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — Alexander Raymond, 47, a cartoonist who originated the "Flash Gordon" strip and currently drew the "Rip Kirby" series, was injured fatally yesterday in an automobile accident.

Raymond was identified as the driver of a Chevrolet Corvette sports car that slammed into a tree and rolled over. Injured seriously was the car's owner, Stanley Drake, of Westport, another King Feature Syndicate artist, who penned the "Heart of Juliet Jones."

Raymond was pronounced dead on arrival at the Norwalk Hospital of a skull fracture and multiple internal injuries. Drake is being treated there for a possible skull fracture.

Raymond has been associated with King Features many years, and drew the "Jungle Jim" and "Secret Agent X-9" strips in the past. Early in his career he assisted Chic Young with "Blondie" and his brother, Lyman Young, with "Tim Tyler's Luck." In 1934 he created "Flash Gordon."

He was born in New Rochelle, N.Y., where he was an outstanding athlete at Iona Prep School.

In World War II, he was a captain in the Marine Corps, serving in the Pacific. He lived in Stamford, where he also had a studio.

He is survived by his widow, the former Helen Frances Williams, and their five children.

Mann is married and has three sons. A Navy veteran of World War II, he is a graduate of the YMCA-sponsored Springfield College in Springfield, Mass.

Oakland County Planners Finish Union Lake Survey

Start Work Next Week

Avon Sells Water System Bonds

ROCHESTER — A $390,000 construction project on Avon Township's water system will get under way next week.

Sale of the $390,000 bond issues took place at last night's special meeting, postponed from an earlier gathering of the township board members.

A syndicate including Kenower, MacArthur & Co., McDonald Moore & Co., H. V. Sattley & Co., Inc., and Watling Lerchen & Co., was the purchaser.

Special assessments will be levied for the revenue bond issue for $150,000. The other issue, for $240,000, will pay for the township's construction of mains, a standpipe, and fire hydrants.

Both bond issues will draw four and one-half per cent interest, as specified in the syndicate's bid.

Contractors are meeting today in the township offices with Supt. C. E. Miller and the new water commission of the township, chairmanned by O. I. Romigh.

The commission, named a week ago, also includes Fred Tuck, Don McInnis, Thomas R. Baker, and Elmer Englehart.

As a gesture in appreciation of her efforts in the long preparation for this sale, the supervisor turned the meeting over to Mrs. O. I. (Margaret) Romigh, his assistant, to complete the sale.

Grape Growers Buying Welch

Farm Co-op Includes 1,500 Michigan Shares as Deal Concludes

More than 1,500 Southwestern Michigan grape growers have become part owners in the Welch Grape Juice Co. culminating a four-year transaction.

It marks the first time a cooperative farmers group has purchased a multi-million dollar major food processing firm. Welch last year reported a total net business of $37,000,000.

The original agreement was made in 1952, providing that funds for the future purchase of the company by the cooperative would come from the Welch firm's annual total sales at the rate of 10 per cent each year.

Besides the co-op payment of $15,000,000 for Welch plants and equipment, the grape firm also holds a mortgage of about $13,500,000 representing the value of current assets, good will, acquisitions and improvements since 1952.

The mortgage will be reduced by application of an amount equal to 10 per cent of the annual net sales of the company.

The cooperative, formed in 1945, now includes members of 10 states. Two Welch plants are located in Van Buren County, three in New York state, two in Washington and one each in Arkansas and Pennsylvania.

Would Relocate Portion of Road

Recommend Additional Parking for Business at Cooley-Union Corner

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A parking survey of the growing business district at Cooley Lake and Union Lake roads in West Bloomfield Township has been completed by the Oakland County Planning Commission.

The Commission's recommendations to district merchants include large increases in improved parking spaces and relocation of a portion of Cooley Lake road to eliminate the present double-load trafic on Union Lake Road through the heart of the business district.

A total of 350 additional parking spaces are recommended, and County Planner Noland R. Heiden and Highway Planning Engineer Robert A. Larson, who ran the study, note that the total of 494 improved parking spaces which their recommendations provide would allow merchants to expand retail floor areas by 20,850 square feet and still have an "acceptable" parking ratio.

A population study of the 36-square-mile area surrounding the business district showed an estimated population of 20,959, planners noted.

MARKET VOLUME HIGH

If the Union Lake business district attracted 10 per cent of the disposable family income in this district, planners add, its annual market volume would be more than $3 million.

According to Larson, the survey was made at the request of the Parking Committee of the Union Lake Businessmen's Association.

Awaits Birthday With Smile

Stevie Faces Operations in Battle Against Cancer

Operations, doctors, and trips to hospitals for special treatment have been the course of little Stevie Jones, who will be four years old on Sept. 24.

But the lad's face wreaths in smiles at greeting cards which people mail him and at soldiers at the Nike Defense Base who wave as they pass his home at, 3481 Featherstone, Auburn Heights.

His parents, the Norval Joneses, learned about a year ago that Stevie had to lose an eye because of cancer's onslaught into the boy's body.

Now, they look towards a series of strong sedations to stop the pain and perhaps, the doctors tell them, nerves in the boy's legs will be cut to ward off the discomfort that gives him worse and worse attacks.

"Prayers would help so much," the parents say when asked what could be done to help the little family.

Mrs. Jones, the former Margaret Cave, has four sisters who live in the Pontiac area. One of them is Mrs. William B. Hall, 4425 Elmdale, Drayton Plains, whose son, Donnie, fell before leukemia several years ago.

A trip to Ann Arbor Wednesday for nitrogen mustard compound and treatments at the University hospital was another attempt by the parents to gain help for the boy. He spent nine weeks there this summer.

Seek Program to Kill Weeds

Revive Battle to Pay for Spraying of Lake Next Year

LAKE ORION — Plans of the Lake Property Owners Assn. which has sixty members, are again turning to finding a workable solution for financing the weed control array for Lake Orion next year.

The Orion Township Supervisor, Ferris Clark, has received a letter from Charles A. Davis, Oakland County Corporation Council, to the effect that assessments can only be set on improvements that are mentioned specifically in the special assessment act.

The group had believed previously that they could place this service on the tax rolls.

Dr. B. Domogalla, of Wisconsin, bio-chemist who sprayed part of the lake last year is preparing an estimate for the whole lake. The shoreline is approximately 15 miles long, and he will not bring his equpment here for less than a three mile continuous strip. He met with committee members at a special meeting Monday.

The group will continue to meet because they feel that a weedfree lake is necessary so the best recreational uses of all its residents can be realized. It is necessary to spray three years in succession to have an effective job, according to the chemist.

Junior high students and teachers will then move in, using the same classrooms from 12:30 to 5 p.m. Buses will transport high school students along the same routes as last year, beginning at 6:30 a.m.

Junior high students will be picked up from 11:15-12:15. Students will be transported home immediately following their respective sessions, Supt. of Schools Donald C. Baldwin said.

Bridal Couple Visit Dakota Parents

WALLED LAKE — Mrs. Gerald Tschetter, who was the former Maris Ann Lutz before her recent wedding, and her bridegroom are traveling to Carpenter, S. Dak., where they will be guests of his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. John P. Tschetter.

The couple spoke their vows last weekend in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Verian C. Lutz, 633 Pontiac Trail.

For the rites, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle with a sweetheart neckline. Her fingertip veil was held by a tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones and she carried a white Bible topped with a corsage of white glamellias and carnations.

Her attendant was her sister, Sharon, and best man was Dennis Pannabecker of Lansing.

The couple will reside in Sarasota, Fla., where the bridegroom will be associated with the Sarasota Flush Door & Supply Warehouse. The firm is being fonded by his father-in-law when that family moves to Sarasota later this month.

Need 300 Volunteers of All Ages

Central Bureau Has SOS for Aid From Many Agencies

September is retirement month for the Central Volunteer Bureau serving the Birmingham-Pontiac-Waterford area.

With its slogan "A campaign not for money but for skills," the bureau is seeking 300 volunteers for both tax-supported and private agencies which have made requests.

* * *

Board and committee members are explaining the Bureau's functions to more than 30 area organizations this month.

Mrs. William A. Shunck heads the recruitment committee. Assisting her are Mrs. James Covert, Mrs. N. E. Durocher, and Mrs. Mary Hixon.

Board members who are filling speaking engagements are Mrs. Ralph Bump, CVB president; Mrs. Whitney Murphy, secretary; Simon O'Shea, executive secretary and public relations director of the Pontiac Area United Fund; Mrs. David MacLaren, Mrs. M. D. Shelton, Mrs C. B. Shelton, Mrs. David Kinney and Mrs. E. L. Windeler.

TALKS SLATED

Mrs. Edward Haskett, Mrs. Stanley Carter, Mrs. Calvin Dennison and Mrs. William Jackson, Birmingham representatives, will also be talking to several groups, as will agency representatives on the board, Marguerite Parrish, from Pontiac State Hospital and Leonard Jagole of the Catholic Family Center.

There is no age limit on the volunteers needed. The bureau is asking for anyone "from 18 to 80, including teenagers."

Volunteers may serve regularly each week—for half a day or several days, or they may be on call for short-time "spot jobs". No amount of time is too little—no amount too much, officials said.

Organizations may volunteer as a whole, or individuals may register for volunteer service. Those groups who would like to have someone talk at one of their meetings may contact Mrs. Shunck or one of the other board members.

Learn to Find the Good in Others

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Do you secretly feel that people are no darned good? That the average person can't be trusted any further than you can throw him?

* * *

A lot of people do feel this way. And even though they camouflage it with the pleasant smile and the interested manner, they are bound to have unsuccessful personal relations until they get over feeling that way.

The problem is never one of trying to pretend that you think people are divine.

The problem is one of finding something good about the people you encounter, and concentrating on that good to the point where you can overlook — honestly overlook—the unpleasant side.

* * *

For example, there is a successful woman executive in New York who owns a large, flourishing business. But she has the reputation of being a hellion to work for.

OPINIONS ASKED

Over the past few years, I have personally met two of her ex-secretaries. I asked both girls, "What kind of woman is Mrs. X?"

* * *

One of them said, "She is a total horror, an ego-maniac with the worst disposition in the world. She has no consideration for other people and the months I spent with her were torture."

The other ex-secretary said, "Madame X is a brilliant woman totally absorbed in her work and enormously good at it.

"She isn't easy to get along with and she doesn't ever compliment you on the work, but I learned a great deal from her.

"I could see that she was pleased when I did my job well, but she didn't have any real talent for showing or expressing it."

A SUCCESSFUL LIFE

The point is not so much that the second girl is a compassionate Pollyanna, full of virtuous brotherly love, but that she has an enormously successful and happy life, has advanced professionally and has eminiently happy personal relations.

* * *

The first girl, on the contrary, is on her way to failure vocationally and has already achieved it in her personal life.

The trick is to concentrate on whatever good does exist in any person. Oddly enough the persistent effort to find it never fails.

If you are having trouble with finding the good in people, send me a stamped self-addressed envelope in care of The Pontiac Press, and I will send you my pamphlet, "Pointers to Better Personal Relationships."

Heads GOP Women

Mrs. Peter Gibson of Monroe was unanimously elected new president of the National Federation of Republican Women. She succeeds Mrs. Carroll D. Kearns of Farrell, Pa.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield yesterday told women at the ninth biennial convention in Chicago that a goal of 31 million women votes for President Eisenhower out of a potential 54 million is "reasonable and attainable."

Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church of Illinois warned against complacency in her keynote address.

She said, "The American home is now so prosperous, so comfortable, and the American family so filled with ease of mind over the removal of financial concern as well as the threat of war, that not enough Americans may be sufficiently stirred to vote."

MR. and MRS. ROGER KELLOGG

Callie Ann Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Fluke of Elmwood drive, became the bride of Roger Kellogg, Saturday at St. Vincent de Paul Church. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Kellogg of Washington street.

Callie Ann Holland Wed

The Rev. Fabian Weber of St. Vincent de Paul Church officiated at the ceremony uniting Callie Ann Holland and Roger Kellogg in marriage. The nine o'clock double-ring ceremony was held in the presence of 150 guests.

The Oliver Flukes of Elmwood drive are parents of the bride and Roger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Kellogg of Washington street.

Her headpiece, a bandeau of tulle accented with seed pearls, held a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried an arrangement of white carnations and stephanotis.

Mrs. F. F. Lewis, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Delores Parker and Gayle Smith served as bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in pale blue nylon tulle with scoop necklines. The gowns were accented with blue satin cummerbunds.

Their flowers were fan-shaped arrangements of pink carnations and lily of the valley.

How to Sew Sequins

When you sew sequins, rhinestones, or beads to a sweater, or to any fabric, always double your thread. Single threads may fray, with resulting loss of sequins.

Don't Hide Everything From Baby

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

On the subject of toddlers, Mrs. Bailey's child guidance expert was clear. His book told her to remove all breakables from baby Peter's reach.

* * *

It urged her to remove all grown-up books and magazines from the bookcase's lower shelves lest Peter descend on them to rip, tear and strew.

It promised that by thus stripping their home of much property that belonged there, she could save herself much inconvenience during Peter's toddlerhood.

Mrs. Bailey never questioned this counsel. She did as she was told.

* * *

But this obedience, though it's preserved her ashtrays and magazines, has not saved her inconvenience. For the terribly short-sighted training principle urged on her by the expert was this: Let

And Mrs. Bailey, swallowing it because of its sugar-coating of interest in her convenience, has been paying for its unrealism in the undisciplined acquisitiveness of her little boy.

With no experience in saying "No—that is not yours" to Peter during his toddlerhood, she puts no conviction in it now that he's become a forceful 3-year-old.

As her expert skipped her over a step in her development of maternal authority, she's as uncertain of it as a fourth grade student trying to do sixth grade work.

So today when Peter reaches for a banana or cookie box on the grocer's shelves, she cannot act with decision.

* * *

Indoctrinated by the fatal principle, let your toddler see nothing he can't have, she cannot remove the grocer's property from Peter with firmness but has to beg or bribe him to give it up.

DISLIKED BY GROCER

Now the grocer does not share the expert's relaxed view toward the privacy of property. Because of Peter's contempt for it, he's grown to hate the sight of him, often cursing him wordlessly as a "brat"—a kind of nasty experience which 3-year-old people are much too young to be exposed to.

* * *

So I quote Dr. Milton M. Berger, a psychiatric expert who disapproves of training a toddler to respect private property by depriving ourselves of any that could interest him.

Says he: "Stripping the house for action once the baby begins to crawl and clutch is just another overprotective technique. It may take more patience—but it is better for the child to learn from the beginning that he's a member, not a ruler of the family; that some things are for baby and some are not."

Yes, much better for the child. But best of all for his mother.

Restoration Is Watched With Interest

Home in Delaware to Reflect Tastes of Capital Decorator

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Decorators and art and antique dealers often hang on to the rare and beautiful objects they should be selling—to make a living in the hope they'll be able to put them in the kind of home they want for themselves.

* * *

That's why young John Greer, Washington decorator of homes for many notables, is getting such a bang out of doing over a venerable job dating back to the 1820s he bought for $1,200 in Lewes, Del.

The results of his restoration have been fascinating the many prominent Washingtonians who make up the summer colony at Lewes (the first Dutch Settlement in the United States, currently celebrating its 325th birthday) and nearby swank Rehoboth Beach.

Greer says he's determined to use his house as a "unique expression of my own tastes and desires."

* * *

There's nothing in the house to remind Washingtonians of the individual, elegant job he did in decorating the controversial Spring Valley home of Vice President Nixon, which made the headlines during the 1952 campaign.

WON ATTENTION

Greer also has won attention for his work on the Canadian and Dominican embassies here, as well as the New York and Washington headquarters of the Motion Picture Assn. of America and numerous private residences.

* * *

Greer got the large frame house, a fine example of early Federal architecture, though badly dilapidated, for a song but had to pay a symphony price, $5,000, to roll it through town to another neighborhood.

It has cost many times over that to get it into shape.

"I've practically built a complete new structure, but at the same time I've succeeded in preserving an historic one," Geer told us at a cocktail party in his more urbane Georgetown home here.

The full diaphragm is flattered in the concealing waist-length bolero which also minimizes full hips.

Since you carry most weight above the waistline, don't unbalance your figure in huge hat and high-waisted jacket. Medium size hat, lower neckline, open jacket and skirt-ease, are designed to make the diaphragm seem smaller.

Make cheese sandwiches and then grill them in butter in a heavy skillet. Serve for lunch with crisp bacon, currant jelly and a salad.

Cooked celery, cut in thin crescents, may be served with a butter or cream sauce. Or it may be cooked in consomme and served with no additional embellishment for weight-watchers.

Exercise Fails to Whittle Hipline

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I have been doing your hip rolling exercise for some time now and have lost only one inch. I have lost two inches from my waist but, alas, my posterior portion does not seem to be cooperating. I have lost 10 pounds. I want to lose more from my hipline."

A. It is always more difficult to lose from the hips than from the waist. Keep up the exercise and have faith. You can do this one about 50 times in the morning and 50 times at night.

You sound as though you do not need to lose any more weight. Any defect in measurements may be a matter of build rather than fat. Maybe you have reached the bone with this exercise.

Q. "Is there a safe way to remove 'peach fuzz' from the sides of the face and the upper lip? It is not grossly unsightly but under close scrutiny, especially in the sunlight or in profile positions, I am self-conscious about it."

A. You can use cosmetic wax or one of the cream depilatories. In the case of the latter some are milder than others. Also, if you have a very sensitive skin, some of these might be too strong. Of course you also can shave it off with a razor.

Q. "I have varicose veins and my legs hurt when I stand up very long. I am ashamed to go swimming. Is there anything I could do? I am only 29 years old."

The familiar "bicycle ride" is an effective way of reducing the hips.

A. It is rather unusual to have varicose veins so young. I wonder if you mean the little broken veins or capillaries? If you have real varicose veins, and it sounds as though you may since your legs ache, there are several things you should do.

See your family physician. If he feels that you need it he will refer you to a specialist. These can be removed by surgery.

Also do not wear restricting clothing such as tight garters. Whenever you can, rest with your feet higher than your head do so. Whenever you sit put your feet up on a chair.

You can also buy elastic stockings which are lightweight but give you needed support. These are hardly noticeable.

* * *

Q. "I am 16 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall. My bust measures 34, waist 24 and hips 35½ inches. Will you please tell me if I am too heavy and if my measurements are incorrect? I get teased a lot about being pleasingly plump."

A. "Pleasingly" is the right word. You are not overweight and your measurements are good.

* * *

Q. "Will it make the hairs grow in thicker if I tweeze out a few dark ones on my chin?"

A. No.

Monsoons Won't Ease Dry Spell in India's Capital

NEW DELHI, India (INS)—Despite the monsoon rains, a throat-parching "dry" spell has struck India's capital city and there's no relief in sight.

Partial prohibition arrived in New Delhi on Independence Day last month and surprised residents are now getting their first real taste of "the noble experiment."

It's the latest step in a government-supported campaign that is gradually bringing total prohibition to all of India on a regional basis.

TO REVIEW PLAN

No one is sure as to just how it's going to work. Even the Delhi state government admits that the local program will be "reviewed" during the next six months.

Delhi officials are following the pattern of Bombay state, which is now totally dry. Bombay citizens were spoon-fed prohibition in easy doses over a five-year period.

Most observers agree that it's about as effective in Bombay as the Volstead Act was in Chicago during the 1920s.

The latest step in Delhi was to ban the sale and consumption of drinks in restaurants, hotel bars and other public places. Beer, wine and whisky can still be bought by the bottle for drinking at home and in private clubs; and foreigners may be served in their hotel rooms.

It's the second phase of a program that began last April, when Delhi state closed movie-house bars and increased the number of dry days from one to two-per-week.

The third and final blow is expected next April, when the sale of liquor will be banned and drinking prohibited in private clubs and homes.

Foreigners will then be allowed to purchase on a quota system, but will be "requested" not to serve any hard stuff to their Indian friends. Indians will be allowed to buy only with a doctor's certificate, for "medicinal purposes."

How this will be enforced, no one knows. The forecast is that there will be a lot of "sick" people in Delhi by next spring.

Despite a year of warning, the latest edict came as a shock. Many believed the state government would prolong the agony because of the number of foreign diplomats and tourists in the cosmopolitan capital.

But an 11th-hour fight by restaurant owners failed when the state flatly refused to renew their liquor licenses.

POPULAR SUPPORT FAILS

Though public opinion seemed to be with the bar owners, they received little popular support in their losing battle, and were handicapped by the "vested interest" tag.

One official explained:

"It's the Hindu religious background. An Indian may enjoy a drink, but wouldn't dare stand up in front of his neighbors and publicly declare that he's against prohibition—though many would secretly agree with him."

There is also little chance for organized legal opposition, since nationwide prohibition is part of the Indian constitution and a main goal of the all-powerful congress party.

This stems partly from the moral teachings of Ghandi, but primarily from economic factors. Government officials frankly admit that prohibition is aimed at the lower classes and industrial workers, who they claim "squander" their small pay on cheap liquor.

The program may work, but there is always the example of Bombay, where the government encouraged the sipping of nina—fresh palm juice.

The converted nina drinkers let the stuff stand, and happily discovered that fermented palm juice has the kick of an Indian buffalo.

Legion Elects Commander

Wilbur C. Daniel, 42, Navy Vet, Named Boss of Legionnaires

LOS ANGELES (UP)—The American Legion set out today on a new crusade against communism after hearing a warning by Vice President Richard M. Nixon of communism's "serious threat to freedom" and a pledge by newly elected National Commander Wilbur C. Daniel to fight its "despotic evils."

• • •

The Legion wound up its national convention last night by electing Daniel, a 42-year-old Navy veteran, to the highest office of the 2,800,000-member organization.

Earlier, the convention heard Nixon call "the struggle against world communism the greatest challenge that free men ever faced."

Daniel told the convention in his acceptance speech:

"New and strange doctrines are current. A new philosophy is finding its place in the thinking of man: A philosophy conceived in the womb of socialism, born in an era of social and economic conflict, and nursed in the lap of communism.

"This crimson philosophy is gnawing at the vitals of our society and threatening the destruction of our nation."

But, he said, "we have not become so destitute of mind and character that we need a group of self-styled leftists, collectivists and one-worlders to shape our destinies."

Daniel said his administration would be dedicated to "elimination of subversive and other elements constantly at work seeking to undermine and destroy the freedoms that all patriotic Americans cherish and hold dear."

Avon Investment Company Opens Judah Lake Estates

Public Is Invited to Inspect New National Homes

Judah Lake Estates, an attractive new section of 204 acres in Orion Twp. is pleasantly and conveniently located south of Lake Orion, and will be opened to the public today, according to T. N. Ryan Jr., General Manager of Avon Investment Company, who developed the residential area.

T. N. RYAN JR.

At the opening, Avon Investment Company will feature the Fenley, an all-new 1956 National home that offers the added living and dining space that so many families want and need. The public is invited to inspect this spacious home from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m.

"We will be pleased to have the home buyers in this area see the luxuriously large Fenley," Mr. Ryan said. "We feel that it represents a better value than ever for the home buyer because it offers the utmost in styling and livability at a wonderfully low price. It is the ideal home for those who want to enjoy the lovely surroundings of Judah Lake Estates.

Professionally planned and designed by Charles M. Goodman, an outstanding architect in the home field, the Fenley is one of National Homes most popular three-bedroom homes. It is available in a variety of designs and exteriors.

The added living and dining space in the Fenley meets a desire expressed by home buyers in market surveys throughout the country.

With the larger living space, families can have more room for entertaining and for their own evenings together. A large, panorama window adds to the pleasant atmosphere of the room.

In the over-size kitchen and more spacious dining area, the housewife can quickly and easily prepare and serve meals that can be eaten in a comfortable and relaxed atmosphere.

There is an abundance of work space and cabinet storage in the kitchen, which is carefully planned for step-saving convenience. The sturdy, metal wall cabinets are color harmonized with their blond birch doors. The base cabinets have handy Formica work surfaces.

A large, inside storage area normally is located adjacent to the kitchen. The model has, as an option, an attached carport with a combination inside and outside storage unit. This eliminates the need for storage space inside the home and makes an unusually large and attractive kitchen. There is ample room for all laundry equipment and for the household items that the housewife uses every day.

The Fenley has three large bedrooms, which are conveniently connected by a hall, which also provides access to the bathroom.

The master bedroom of the Fenley has two, large, floor-to-ceiling closets and the others have one. Bedroom windows are located so as to permit the maximum use of wall space for furniture placement and to permit healthful ventilation.

The bathroom is completely finished with modern fixtures and an attractive medicine chest that has mirrored, sliding rooms. There is a linen closet, with handy metal shelves, in the center hall.

Judah Lake Estates is a fully-planned residential area. It is located just three miles north of Walton Blvd. on Joslyn Rd. Only 15 minutes from the downtown business district, the new homes are even more convenient to the industrial plants which can be reached in 10 minutes.

In addition to having all the features of a fine residential area, Judah Lake Estates also has a 23 acre tract along Judah Lake dedicated to the buyers as a park and recreational area. Many of Michigan's finest resorts and recreational areas are within a half hours' drive.

In developing this new section, Mr. Ryan explained, only the most advanced methods of community planning were used.

"We have been careful to retain all the natural charm and beauty of the wooded countryside," the National Homes builder-dealer said.

All the streets in Judah Lake Estates are curved, not only to give the community added eye appeal, but to protect the safety of the children living there.

"In the case of many developments," Mr. Ryan said, "there is the monotony of sameness in the homes. We have carefully avoided this is Judah Lakes Estates. Careful attention has been given not only to the design of the homes but to the way they are placed on the lot."

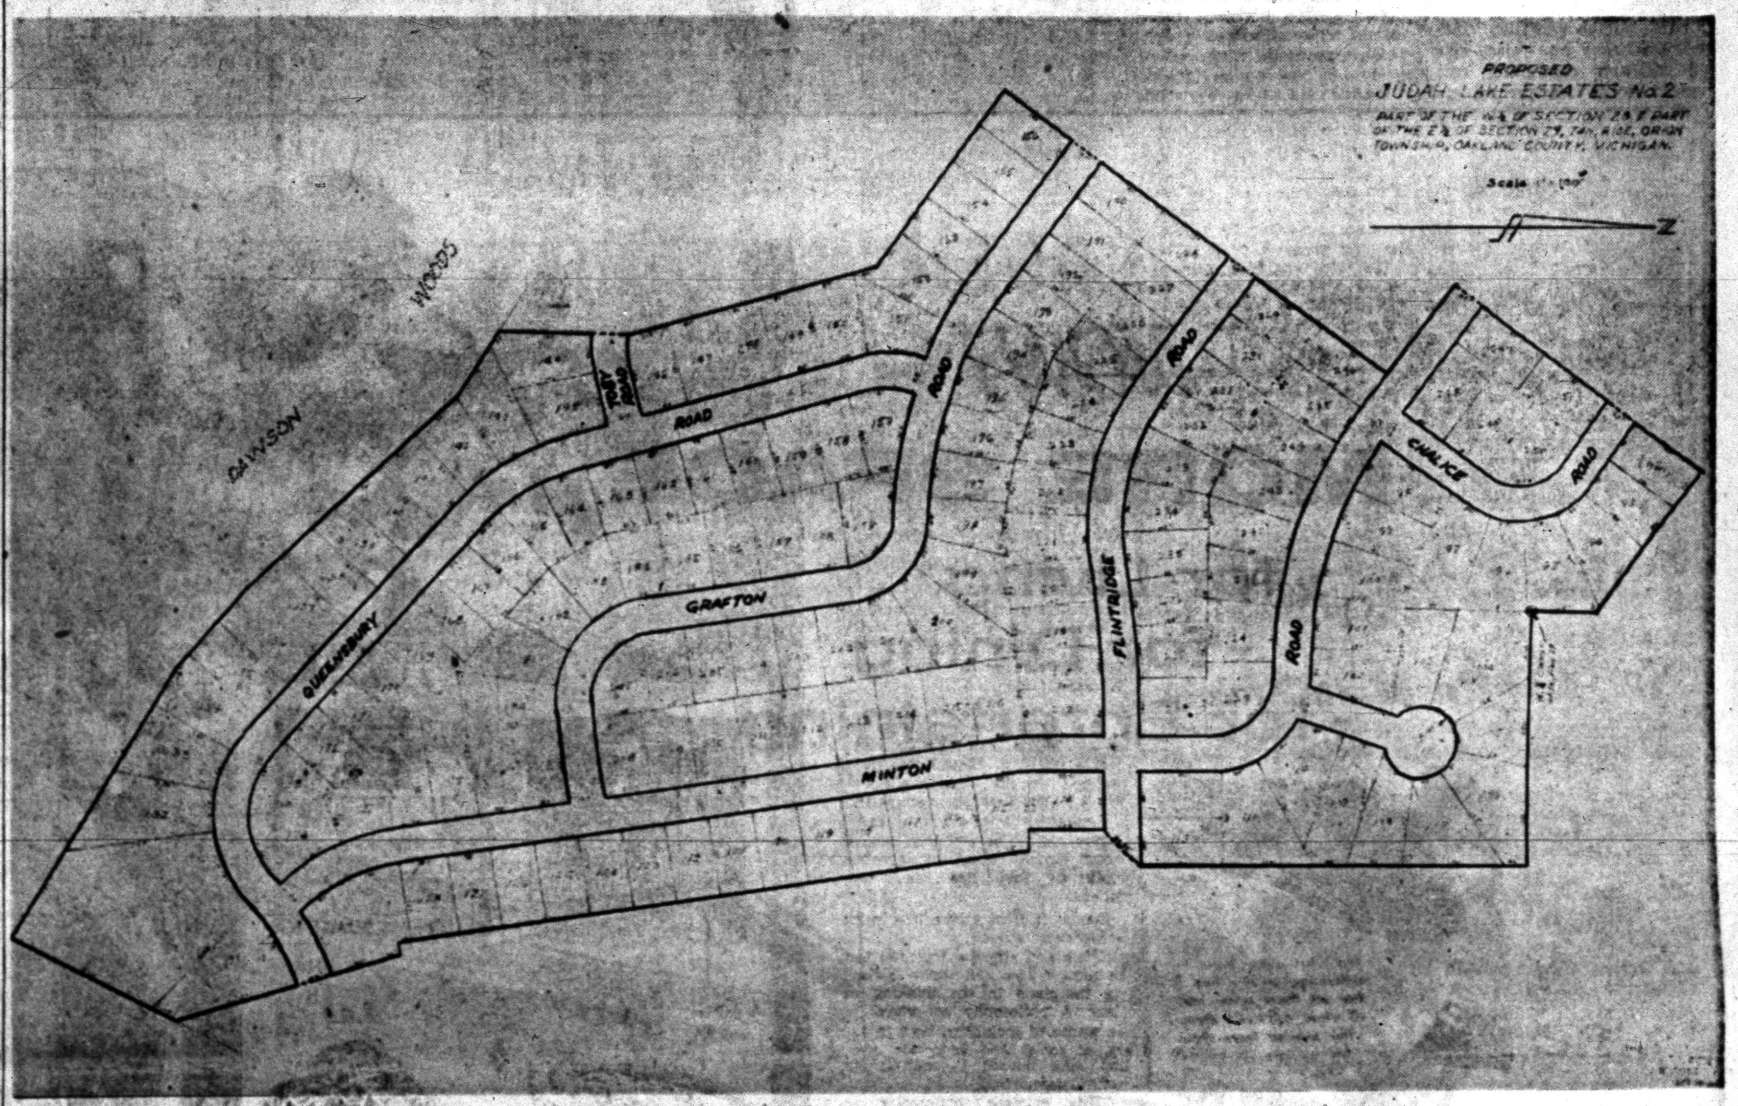

Mr. Ryan also pointed out that the majority of families like to enjoy suburban living but with all the conveniences of city life.

"This is entirely possible here," he said. "City water, fire hydrants, paved streets, natural gas, street trees, driveway culverts, proper drainage all are installed by our company. These improvements have been paid for. There will be no future assessments to home owners."

The land is high and dry and gently rolling. We have been careful to provide proper surface drainage. We do not have any problems with flooding or standing water after hard rains.

We are pleased to be able to offer such fine homes in a truly desirable location to people of average means, We are gratified that the home buying public in this area have shown such interest. We feel that our customers are among the finest, and we look forward to a long and happy association.

Beautiful 204 Acre Site Provides the Best in Community Living — Gently Rolling, Partly Wooded Area Makes Judah Lake Estates, Perfect for Your Future Home.

JUDAH LAKE ESTATES

Pictured above is a portion of the vast area of Judah Lake Estates ... that offers tremendous opportunities for enjoying life in a suburban area yet close to all modern conveniences. Gentle rolling building sites, many partly wooded extra large lots and curved streets creates the type of community many have been looking for. Judah Lake Estates is high and dry, offers excellent drainage.

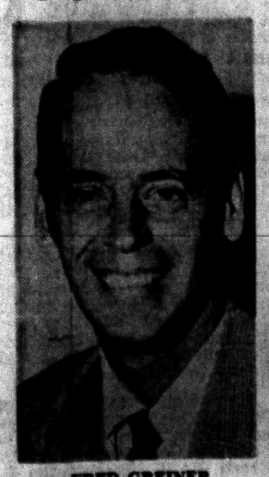

Judah Lake Estates is located only 3 miles from the city limits, near proposed shopping center, schools and churches of all denominations.

A 23-acres Lakeside park is dedicated to the use of all property owners.

The Carpenter Elementary School, located directly on the project has a 14-room addition under construction with the first part due to open October 15.

Paved roads, city water, fire hydrants and natural gas make Judah Lake Estates a completely modern area in a suburban setting.

AMERICAN FAMILIES GET MORE FOR THEIR MONEY IN "PREFAB" HOMES

Most American families buy prefabricated homes because they feel they can get more house for their money, according to a survey of the first 100,000 National Homes families by Elmo Roper and Associates.

Seventy-four per cent of these owners gave the better value of a prefabricated house as their principal reason for buying a National home. In general, they felt that they either got more for their money or it was the kind of living they wanted at a price within their means.

There has been a high degree of satisfaction among these owners with the quality of their National homes.

"In our experience," Mr. Roper reported, "no product has had a higher percentage of customer approval than National homes."

Better than four out of five National home owners said they would recommend a prefabricated home like theirs to a friend with about the same size family and about the same needs as their own.

"Further testimony to satisfaction with their homes," Mr. Roper added, "is the fact that a clear majority of the people we talked to plan to live in their houses not for just two, four or ten years, but indefinitely."

This ability to bring a comfortable home within the means of the average family was the main objective of James R. Price when he helped to found in 1940 the company he now heads.

NATIONAL HOME USES HALF-INCH SHEET ROCK WALLBOARD

SHEETROCK, a product of United States Gypsum Company, is a highly fire-resistant gypsum wallboard that has country-wide application in quality homes of all price ranges. Its advantages include high fire-resistance, economy, superior performance, smooth, uniform surfaces, and quick application. In addition, being a drywall material, SHEETROCK may be decorated within a day or so after application. It takes most any type of decoration. The point is made, too, that the wallboard panels add bracing strength to the wall. They last the lifetime of the building.

Company officials state that every wall and ceiling built by National Homes is a precision unit. First, the SHEETROCK panels, which come in floor to ceiling heights and 4-foot widths, are precision-built by United States Gypsum, world's largest manufacturer of quality building products. Next, in National Homes' operation, every wallboard panel is applied to the framing members by skilled mechanics, who have made a specialty of this type of work. The panels are both nailed and "glued" to the framing members. The attachment with adhesive as well as with nails is a plus offered by National Homes.

THREADED NAILS INCREASE STRUCTURAL STRENGTH

Home owners are naturally interested in anything that makes for better, longer lasting construction with freedom from expensive repairs and maintenance costs. One of the major contributions to better building has been made by Independent Nail & Packing Company of Bridgewater, Mass., the makers of Stronghold Annular Thread Nails. These nails are made with scientifically engineered threads which "lock" with the wood fibres, and hold tight against the stresses and strains of wind and weather, and the forces of contraction and expansion continually present in every structure.

An indication of the strength and permanence added by the use of these threaded nails comes from scientific laboratory tests carried on over a period of a number of years by Dr. E. George Stern, director of Wood Research Laboratory, Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

In one test, for instance, Dr. Stern found that house frames assembled with ordinary plain shank nails pulled out from the base of the end stud. In contrast, similar frames assembled with Stronghold Annular Thread Nails withstood a test load of 1,640 pounds. In other words, the frames assembled with Stronghold nails were 5.7 times as strong to resist wind and weather.

Hundreds of other tests have borne out this conclusion and shown conclusively that Stronghold Nails add to structural strength and minimize the necessity for repairs and maintenance which follow the failure of ordinary nails to hold.

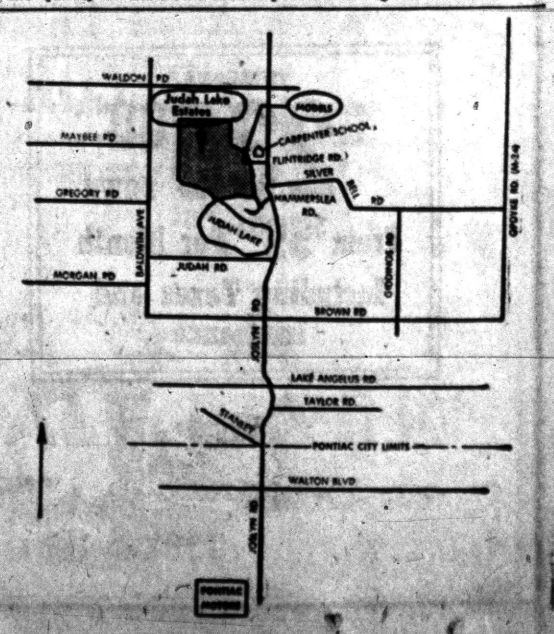

NATIONAL HOMES USES ALL BRAND NAMES AND EQUIPMENT

During 1956 alone National Homes will purchase an estimated $7,000,000 worth of furnaces, air conditioning system, and all-electric kitchens from the Delco and Frigidaire Divisions of General Motors Corporation; $3,500,000 worth of aluminum windows from General Bronze Corporation; and $2,500,000 worth of washer-dryers from General Electric.

National Homes also is the country's largest single buyer of lumber — 87,500,000 board feet in 1955. Top quality, No. 1 kiln-dried lumber from Weyerhauser and other leading producers, is used for all structural framing in a National home.

Among the famous brand-name products used in National Homes are interior wall surfacing by United States Gypsum, roofing by Johns-Manville, Fiberglas insulation from Owens-Corning, and Styrofoam floor insulation by Dow Chemical.

These and other brand-name materials and equipment used in a National home mean important advantages that the house buyer gets in the quality of his home and important savings in its cost.

CLOSET SHELVES

The new homemaker's sense of enjoyment in her housekeeping is the planned result of the sound policy of constant improvement of their product by National Homes Architects and their Consultants.

The addition of another new household convenience this year has been announced; A PATENTED DUO-Deluxe Wardrobe and Linen Closet Units, made exclusively to the special designs of the National Homes Architects by DUO-STEEL SHELF CORP. of CONN., North Haven, Connecticut.

DUO-Deluxe Wardrobe Units feature heavy one-piece steel construction combining concealed clothes hanger rod and storage shelf, including robe hooks, in a single compact unit, factory-finished in smooth baked lacquer in harmonizing color.

Unit construction prevents unsightly sagging even when fully loaded with hanging clothes. Wardrobe closet appearance is greatly improved through elimination of the unattractive wooden shelf and separate clothes pole, and through better organization of clothes storage, saving housekeeping work for new NATIONAL HOMEMAKERS.

Weldwood Lumber Core Flush Doors used as entrance doors in all National Homes represents the highest standard in the industry. These doors are produced with exacting care by the Algoma Plant of United States Plywood Corporation. This manufacturing operation is perhaps the best-known in the country with an outstanding reputation for excellence in architectural woodworking. Panels produced at this plant can be found in the leading banks, schools and other institutions throughout the country.

The construction of the Weldwood lumber Core Flush door is typical of the exacting manufacturing techniques employed by United States Plywood Corporation. The door features alternating grain in staved construction and is manufactured with a 100% resin waterproof glue. Dimensional stability is assured. The home-buyer will find that this door will give trouble-free service over the years; a quality extra from National Homes.

PLANNED LIGHTING, WIRING FEATURED IN NATIONAL HOMES

One of the major checkpoints on the list of a prospective home buyer is the lighting and wiring installation. He checks to see if the wiring is adequate to accommodate all the electrical appliances that have become necessities of modern life. He also makes sure that the lighting fixtures are placed to do a thorough light-conditioning job.

One of the many outstanding features of National Homes is the light-conditioning job achieved both in the interior and exterior. The builders have carefully planned the lighting so the fixtures will add grace and charm to their homes by day and bring out the beauty of the home and its furnishings by night.

To achieve this, the builders of National Homes have applied the theory of Inspiration-Lighting, a modern concept of lighting developed by the Moe Light Division, Thomas Industries Inc., Louisville. Inspiration-Lighting means the intelligent use of enough attractive fixtures to supply general and local lighting; accent furnishings to bring out colors; call attention to fine paintings or highlight unusual textures of draperies or carpets. Pull-down fixtures, close-to-ceiling fixtures, accent spots and recessed light fixtures have been used in many combinations to give each National Home Inspiration-Lighting.

Moe Light lighting fixtures have been carefully selected to add smart and bright touches to each room. Through carefully planned installation each area is well-lighted so that all space can be put to work.

In line with the trend to more informal outdoor entertaining, special attention also has been given to the planning of outdoor lighting. Moe Light fixtures light up walks, patio and grounds so that the outdoor living room of each home may be enjoyed even at night. In addition, they dramatize focal points of architectural interest.

The overall effect is a home that is functional and beautiful inside and out, both day and night.

ENGINEERED HEATING LAYOUT KEY TO WELL HEATED HOME

Today's comfortable homes have a heating plant, installed according to a care fully designed layout. Such a layout, prepared by heating engineers, insures the right capacity furnace for every house, the correct heat distribution system and proper location of returns for even heating throughout the home. In selecting Delco-Heat, National Homes was able to benefit from the wide experience of the General Motors Delco-Heat engineering This group prepared heating layouts, designed and engineered specifically for each of the 1956 National Homes models. SEAL-O-MATICS— NEW WIND-RESISTANT ASPHALT SHINGLES

Seal-O-Matic shingles, something dramatically new in roofing, are being offered for the new National Homes under construction here. The shingles combine attractiveness with a security against wind damage that is unique. According to Johns-Manville, who developed Seal-O-Matics, these roof shingles have successfully weathered both hurricanes and tornados.

At first glance, these new asphalt shingles look like the familiar 3-tab type. They are applied in the same way and the finished roof is traditional in appearance.

But there is a difference.

If you look at the shingles closely before application, you'll see a continuous strip of especially developed adhesive on the back of the shingle near the butt edge of the tabs. That adhesive is the secret.

After the shingles are applied and exposed to the sun's heat, each row of shingles becomes continuously welded to the underlying row. Wind can't blow-off the shingles and driving rains can't blow-up under the shingles. In other words, the sun's heat during good weather is used to protect you against the fury of bad weather.

The shingles are available in a variety of solid colors and blends including the popular pastels. They last longer too, according to Johns-Manville because the self-sealing feature prevents curling and other movement which tends to weaken the structure of ordinary shingles.

HOUSE TOPS TIGHTER WITH TECO ANCHORS

Knowing that the house is not likely to "blow its top" when pressured by winds traveling at more than 100 miles per hour, nor the roof cave in under a load of 94 inches of snow, is the comforting feeling enjoyed by inhabitants of the residences built by National Homes Corporation.

Such assurance is supported by laboratory tests in which a National home roof easily withstood a load of 16½ tons—the equivalent of pressure resulting from a 110 m.p.h. wind, or nearly eight feet of snow.

A key factor that helps impart added strength to this particular roof construction is the use of Teco Trip-L-Grip framing anchors, developed by the wood industries' research service organization, Timber Engineering Company, affiliate of the National Lumber Manufatcurers Association, in Washington, D. C.

The Teco anchors were developed by the researchers to provide nailed joints in wood framing. The versatility and effectiveness of Trip-L-Grips has resulted in their being widely used in earthquake, cyclone, and hurricane areas, to strengthen residential, school, and other light structures.

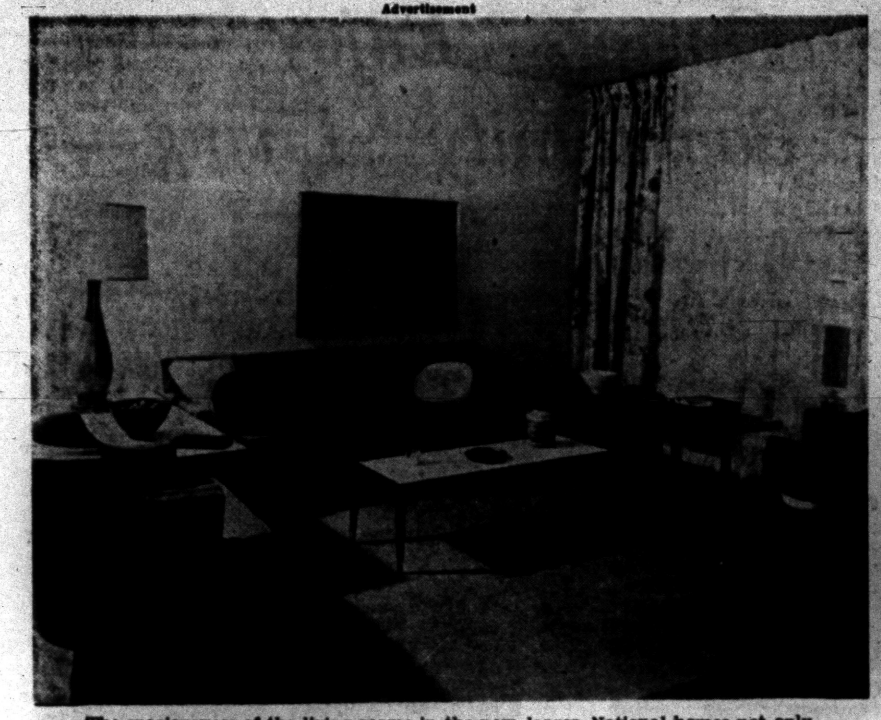

Although designed for all secondary connections throughout the house framing, the most frequent uses of the anchors are in floor and ceiling joist connections, and in tying roofs down more securely against uplift caused by wind. They eliminate all toe-nailing, thus tying a frame structure together more tightly so as to minimize the racking that results from weak joints.

Teco framing anchors are made of 18 gauge, zinc-coated sheet steel, in three basic styles, with a right and left of each, that meet all requirements in wood-to-wood framing connections. They are relatively small, their largest dimension being only 4 7/8", yet they serve as mighty "muscles" and tough "tendons" in quality wood construction.

Special nails are supplied with the Teco anchors, and only a hammer and straight nailing are required to install them. Simple to use, they save time and labor costs that can be applied to extras that add quality to a house.

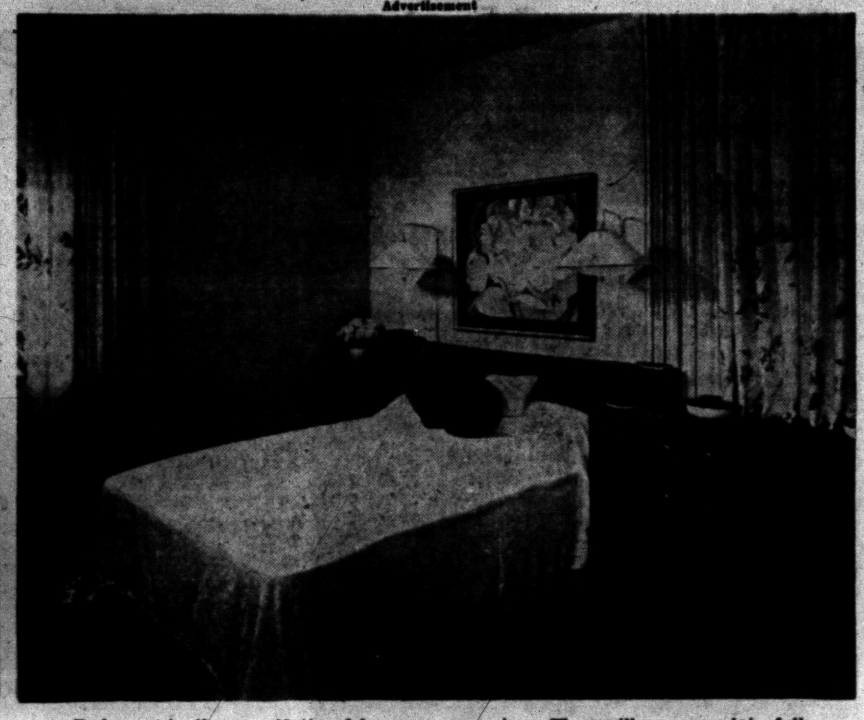

Additional information on Trip-L-Grips is available, without charge, from Timber Engineering Company, 1319 18th Street, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.

HOW MUCH TIME DOES A HOUSEWIFE SPEND IN HER KITCHEN?

Studies show the average is fifty per cent, and some women are kitchen-bound nearly two-thirds of each day. Obviously, these facts demand that kitchens be planned for peak efficiency and in attractive good taste.

In the new National Homes, being constructed here by Avon Investment Co., these demands have been well met with the help of Youngstown Kitchens, who produced the kitchen units to National's specifications.

Compactness is the keynote. Everything is in its most convenient place, and each place is within a few easy steps of the others. There's ample work surface beside each of the work centers—range, refrigerator, and sink. In one corner is a handy cabinet with "lazy susan" shelves that keep most-used foods always up in front at a flick of a finger.

It's a kitchen for modern living, that may well cut down housewives' fifty per cent kitchen time, and leave them more freedom.

National Homes Can Be "Individualized"

EFFICIENCY, PLUS! Housewives, because they spend half their time in the kitchen, should welcome this compact installation in one new National Home model. Compactness is the keynote, with each storage and work area in easy reach. Made especially for National by Youngstown Kitchens, it features baked-on base cabinet finishes, plastic counter tops, porcelain enamel sink top, and gleaming stainless steel trim.

The new National Homes being built in Judah Lake Estates by Avon Investment Co. can be adapted to suit the needs and requirements of the individual purchaser, according to T. N. Ryan, General Manager.

"We are indeed fortunate to have such a flexible product to present to the buying public," said Ryan. "Today's market reflects an entirely different problem than existed during the last two years. The public is more discriminating, expects more equipment in their new homes, and want the option of purchasing extras which can be included in the basic home, and also included in the total mortgage."

"National Homes offers a fine variety of floor plans, from which the local dealer must select those most suited to his market. In addition to this variety, any floor plan may be enlarged by the addition of a four foot extension on the end of the home. Each basic home offers a choice of several exterior designs, or elevations. Additional variety is achieved by the use of different types of siding, and by careful selection of exterior color schemes.

"A buyer may choose such extras as aluminum combination storm doors, storm windows, laundry equipment, complete electric kitchen, thermopane windows, attached garage or carport and outside storage units.

"We find that a high percentage of our customers are buying several of these optional items. It gives them an opportunity to purchase these items without materially affecting their terms of payment, and also allows them to express some of their own individuality."

Ryan feels that the ability to "individualize" a National Home is one of his strongest selling assets. No other prefabricated home manufacturer offers such a wide choice to the public. He also stated that the additional variety of appearance created by such additions to the basic homes creates a more attractive subdivision, which in turn attracts more buyers.

"We are quite proud of the way our subdivision is shaping up," Ryan said, "and we feel the public agrees with our basic thinking. The people who visit Judah Lake Estates are quite impressed with the results of months of careful planning that have gone into this development, and naturally we are grateful. Our entire effort has been to create a subdivision of homes that the average working man could afford to buy, and at the same time to get away from the monotonous effect found in some developments in this price range."

THREE BASIC HOME LAUNDRIES FOR NATIONAL HOME OWNERS

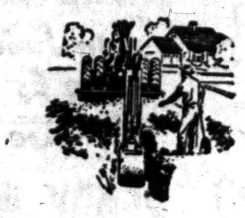

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Homemakers who have done their laundry in dark dismal basements or struggled with baskets of clothes up and down stairs will welcome the results of the thorough home laundry planning that has gone into the new National Homes. The objective of this planning was to offer the most modern, automatic home laundry appliances in locations where they are convenient and pleasant to use. This objective has been attained in the three basic home laundries offered by National Homes.

The first laundry is featured in the all-electric kitchens of National Homes. It consists of a built-in General Electric Combination Washer-Dryer, a single machine that washes and dries clothes in one continuous operation, located beneath the built-in range oven. This unique installation of the G-E Combination Washer-Dryer frees the area usually devoted to laundering for other uses. The kitchen location also offers the housewife the opportunity to do her laundering in pleasant surroundings with the convenience of concentrating most of her homemaking activities in one area of the house.

The second available in National Homes is located in a utility room adjacent to the kitchen. This location also saves steps by concentrating homemaking activities and, in addition, it allows the utility room to be used as a clothes care center for sewing and laundering. Two appliances are featured in this laundry; a General Electric Automatic Washer and a matching General Electric Clothes Dryer.

The third laundry takes advantage of the compact design of the General Electric Combination Washer-Dryer to offer the homemaker a new idea in laundry convenience. The G-E Combination is located in the bedroom wing of the house, in an alcove directly outside the bathroom. This means complete laundry facilities are located near to the source of soiled linens and clothes. The housewife can gather her lanudry, have it washed and dried automatically and return it to storage or use with a minimum of time and steps.

Present Home Owners Think Their National Homes Are Wonderful

Your inquiring reporter took a trip through Orion Township's newest and fastest growing subdivision this morning. Called Judah Lake Estates by its developer, Avon Investment Co. of 1045 Haynes, Birmingham, this 204 acre tract is truly a beautiful site. The land is high and dry, gently rolling, and has many features not ordinarily found in the average subdivision of this kind. The builder has carefully used natures' best features and has put in the streets and located the homes in order to utilize these benefits.

In such surroundings the new owners are finding an opportunity, some for the first time, to plan a landscaped attractive lawn around their new home. In this respect National Homes through their local dealers, furnish landscaping plans which can be carried out over a period of two or three years, requiring less of an initial cost to the owners.

We visited some of the typical new owners in Judah Lake Estates this morning and found each of them quite enthusiastic about their homes and about the location.

Mrs. Wm. Rounds, 3774 Coleport Rd. had this to say about her new home. "Where we formerly lived we never liked to stay at home. Our new National Home is so spacious and so comfortable, that we don't go out nearly so often. We enjoy staying home now."

"We are very happy with, and proud of our new home," said Mrs. John Comerford. "The house is most comfortable, and the subdivision is a grand place to raise our little boy. The school is very near, and there is plenty of room for him to run and play in safety."

Mrs. Wade Clark, 3628 Coleport Rd. is most enthusiastic about living in Judah Lake Estates. "We're so pleased with our new National Home. It's just wonderful. Also I might add that the Avon Investment Co. is a grand company to do business with Every contact with them has been a pleasant experience and their service is excellent."

We didn't have time to visit every home in this new area, but during the course of our visit we had occasion to talk to other owners, and we have listed just a few of the typical comments we heard: "nice convience, cheap utilities, warm floors, well constructed, well insulated . . . G. L. Baldwin: "floors are warm house heats well at nominal cost. If I were to part with this home I would replace it with a larger National Home." . . . Bruce W. Thompson. "Well pleased with the location of Judah Lake Estates . . . close to town. Our National Home is comfortable to live in . . . very easy to own." . . . Mrs. Ilmar Mackie.

When we inquired from Mr. Ryan, General Manager of Avon Investment, and Mr. Fred Greiner, Sales Manager, as to their reactions we found that they were quite pleased. "Naturally this is gratifying. This is just what we have strived so long to provide. Satisfied and happy customers are the backbone of any business. We are delighted that our owners feel as they do," said Ryan. "Our company will continue to do its best along these lines." Mr. Greiner said "This business can sometimes be almost frustrating, but when, in the long run, we get home owners who feel as ours do, then it is all worth the long hours and the hard work that has been put into the planning and developing of the subdivision. We are tremendously pleased and happy with the results."

Avon Investment Co. hopes that many prospective home buyers will attend their big open house showing this weekend and inspect their new model home, the surrounding area, and talk to some of the present owners as we did this morning.

Inspiration-Lighting Brings Out the Beauty of National Homes

Did you ever notice how much happier you are on a bright, sunny day- Scientists say a cheerfully lighted room gives you the same emotional lift.

This is the type of lift the makers of National Homes have achieved in planning the light-conditioning job in their homes. The lighting in each room has been planned so there no dark, space-stealing corners.

This has been accomplished in National Homes through use of teh theory of Inspiration-Lighting. This is a modern concept of lighting, developed by the Moe Light Division, Thomas Industries, Louisville, which combines several lighting fixtures in one room to provide both adequate and decorative lighting. Some fixtures are used for general illumination. Others light local areas, and still others are used as accent for dramatic effects.

A wood fence will do many things besides protect property and provide a handsome frame for home and garden. Depending on the style you choose, a wood fence can also serve as a shield against sun and noise, provide a backdrop for shrubs and flowers, restrain dogs and children, and insure privacy for outdoor living activities.

NEW STYLE DOORS FOR NATIONAL HOMES

Doors that are non-dust-collectors because of their extremely smooth surfaces are included in the new homes by National Homes Corporation. Light in weight but sturdy, interior doors, both swinging and sliding, are faced with Masonite Dorlux, a material noted for its toughness, exsellent finishing qualities and durability.

LASTING VALUE IN NATIONAL HOMES

Quality and lasting value of the new National homes is more than skin deep. In fact, strength and durability stem from the very basic framework of the structure.

For only fine-seasoned, kiln-dried, lumber is used for the structural framing of the attractive new National homes being offered here. Kiln-dried lumber is universally recognized as the highest quality material for the framework of houses.

Durability, dimensional stability and suitability for the stressed-skin construction used by National Homes are among the advantages of kiln-dried lumber. "These are the properties we demand in the lumber which provides the framework for our houses," Hoyd Price, Production Manager of National Homes, said.

"This built-in value may not be readily visible to home buyers because it is behind the wall coverings, but they have the assurance of the structural superiority it gives the home."

To the home owner, this means lasting value. The strength and stability of the framework contributes to the precision fit of all components when the house is erected and to enduring construction free from distortion or weakening of framing members.

Good design and materials are important reasons why the new homes by National Homes Corporation have such a wide appeal. Many of the homes again this year are featuring Masonite Siding, a product that combines quality, excellent appearance and low upkeep.

Masonite Siding is made of Tempered Presdwood, which has been long established as a tough durable exterior material that will outlast a housetime. Created from exploded wood chips that are put back together again under high heat and pressure, the siding is grainless, splinter-free and without such defects as knots.

Carefully Planned Community of Homes

A WHITE ROOF COOLS OFF YOUR HOME BY 12 TO 15 DEGREES

When the sun is hottest, you'll be grateful for your white roof, newest delight of home owners in "sun climates."

There are many good reasons for the roof of white shingles: its pure, dazzling beauty; its visual trick of making the too-low house seem higher and the small house seem larger; its fresh, clean, modern good looks. But where it gets very hot in the summer, the most important feature of the white roof is its reflective quality which throws back the radiant heat of the sun's rays—back off the roof—instead of absorbing it, as a dark roof does.

These wonder - working shingles, the Bird Master-Bilt are made at Bird plants throughout the nation by people who are well familiar with summer heat. They understand the problems of comfortable living under the sun. So they have embodied insulating properties in the very structure of this shingle that add enormously to the welcome cooling quality of the frosty, snowy white "color."

With the Master-Bilt shingle, your roof is never reduced to the "tar paper" state of some types of roof that fairly invite the heat waves to take over your home. Here's why:

The Master-bilt starts with a base of extra-heavy roofing felt, which is uniformly saturated with asphalt and then covered with a layer of mineral granules. On top of that goes a second layer of asphalt, followed by a final layer of mineral granules. Note that this construction gives no less than five layers of weather-resistant materials —hard work for the sun to get through all that!

The size of the Master-Bilt granules protects the underlaying layers of asphalt from drying out by the sun. And, most important, these granules are firmly imbedded into the asphalt as an intergral part of the shingle.

Beauty note to the ladies: The dazzling white roof is the newest darling of the much talked about realm of exterior decorating, that important new field that concerns itself with making sure that your home's outside colors harmonize, are correct. White adapts itself obligingly to all colors and suits all natural surroundings. And its smart, clean crispness on your roof tells the world your taste is good.

Huetex is a new spandrel glass that has ceramic enamel fused to the glass to give color, and aluminum welded to the back to protect the enamel and to reflect heat. It comes in 12 colors.

BIG WINDOWS COMPLEMENT THE OPEN-PLAN DESIGN OF NEWEST NATIONAL HOMES

The contribution of glass to living enjoyment—daylighting, ease of maintenance, beauty and long life—long has been recognized by the building trades, but it was left to today's architects and builders to discover its verastility. Picture windows and window walls are the result.

Big windows are a natural companion to the open-planning that characterizes most of the model houses being featured in National Homes Open House showing.

Windows do more than let in daylight, even as important as that function may be. They borrow space from the outdoors, and figuratively join the outdoors with the indoors. Open planning makes the most of indoor space, and sets up a new freedom of movement and orderly traffic patterns within the house. Together they provide entirely new concepts of indoor-outdoor living.

Architectural consultants for Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, supplier of glass to National Homes Corporation, say this swing to glass was no accident. They trace its growth to a continuing research to improve glass, and to careful planning in window placement. Size and location are decided on in relation to function and good decorating. It follows, then, that window walls are common to living areas while shoulder-high windows normally are found in bedrooms and bathrooms where privacy is wanted and wall space more at a premium.

Insulating glass is another factor influencing the spread of big glass areas in housing. Thermopane, which is offered optionally to National Homes buyers, has insulating values equal to a 10-inch concrete or an 8-inch brick wall, according to the manufacturer. In addition to the protection it gives against heat loss, which makes it especially desirable in cold climates, it acts as a retardant to heat gain in summer, thus being an adjunct to air conditioning, and is a barrier to noise.

Lafayette Water Heaters Featured in National Homes

The average person uses 15 gallons of hot water while taking a shower . . . a housewife uses 22 gallons for every tub full of clothes she washes . . . members of the family, especially the children, consume another three gallon to keep their faces and hands clean.

These daily demands on the hot water supply by the average American family prompted designers of National homes to select the Lafayette automatic gas water heater as standard equipment. This heater is available for use with either natural of L. P. gas, depending on the choice of the buyer.

An excellent feature of the Lafayette heater are the shut-off controls which operate automatically to shut off the gass flow to both the pilot and burner in the event of a failure along the supply line. The gas remains off until the pilot is relighted so there is no dangerous accumulation of gas.

A heavy blanket of Fiberglas insulation completely encases the water tank and assures maximum retention of the heat and economical operation of the unit.

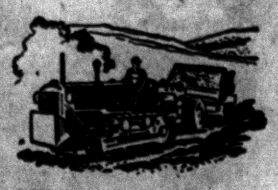

Another economical feature is the spiral flue baffle that runs the entire length of the inner tank. This baffle retains the heat for maximum use before it is lost through the flue.

Lions Physically Sound for Browns

It's the Detroit debut for the 1956 Lions, rustling around trying to find the cure-all for their sudden nose-dive to the National Football League cellar last season.

The main ingredient in what Coach Buddy Parker believes is a solution to the Lions' ailment is the backfield. Parker announced he would start Bobby Layne at quarterback, either Howard (Hopalong) Cassady or Jug Girard at left half, Don McIlhenny at right half and either Leon Hart or Gene Gedman at fullback.

Whatever way you look at it, it's a "new" backfield. Layne, with recurrent arm trouble over the past few seasons, is in the best shape in many seasons and his accurate passing has the coaching staff more than pleased and the opposition guessing.

* * *

Cassady and McIlhenny, of course, are the club's prize rookies. While McIlhenny, former Southern Methodist great, has gotten off to a fast start with his dazzling running and pass receiving, the former Ohio State All-America halfback who won every major award for a college back has found the going more than a little rocky. But Parker believes Cassady has run into bad luck and feels tonight may be Hoppy's night to explode.

Hart, converted from end, has been improving steadily in his new job and Gedman is a service returnee who played a couple of seasons back for the Lions.

* * *

In the last meeting between the two clubs, Detroit whipped the Browns in an exhibition contest before the 1955 season, 19-3. This will be the 11th time Parker-coached Detroit clubs have met the Browns, led by Paul Brown.

The Detroit mentor has had almost unbelievable success against the always-powerful Clevelanders. In 10 meetings, Detroit has eight wins, one loss and one tie.

Tonight's charity game is expected to attract upwards of 40,000.

The Lions go into the contest—their only pre-season encounter at home—with two victories in three games. Detroit defeated Pittsburgh 20-15, lost 20-17 to the Chicago Cardinals and thrashed the Philadelphia Eagles, 30-14.

The Browns save their steam for the rugged NFL schedule. As in the past, they have enjoyed little success in their pre-season games. After an easy victory over the College All-Stars, the Browns dropped successive games to San Francisco, 28-17, to Los Angeles, 17-6, and to Green Bay, 21-20.

East Meets West

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—The Southern California Water Polo Club and the New York Athletic Club clash today in one of the key matches of the Olympic Games Water Polo Trials.

Both teams scored decisive wins in the opening of the competition yesterday. The New Yorkers blanked El Segundo, Calif., "B" team 14-0 and Southern California later crushed the same outfit 14-1.

STRATEGY HUDDLE — Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes has an early huddle with four of his leading players whom he hopes will lead the Buckeyes to a 3rd straight Big Ten title. From the Press Box

BY BRUNO KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

One date Johnny Weber, former boxer and now referee, will always remember is November 17, 1926.

This was the day he was pronounced dead.

★ ★ ★

"I was winning after four rounds," said Weber, "and I felt great except I was real dry."

The second obliged by pouring some liquid into Weber's mouth. "When I swallowed I thought my eyes were going to pop out of my head," he said.

Instead of giving him the water, the second gave him a gulp of smelling salts.

"The second always had a bottle of water in one hand and a bottle of smelling salts in the other," explained Weber, "and I guess he got excited over the fight and poured from the wrong bottle."

"Anyway my stomach felt like it was filled with hot steel. I remember going out for the 5th round, but things were getting dizzier with each round."

With 12 seconds to go in the 10th round, Weber collapsed. He wavered around before hitting the middle rope, and down he went, 10 feet on his head to the cement floor.

★ ★ ★

The boxing commission doctor and two others worked on him after getting him back into the ring. Everyone knew what had happened.

Even some of the crowd saw the error of the second and gasped when it happened.

The doctors then pronounced him dead and they threw his robe over him, when suddenly a doctor who was among the spectators rushed up to the ring with his grip.

The physician, Tony Font, fired some adrenalin into Weber's heart, ran a needle and thread through his tongue, and started artificial respiration.

Even the firemen, who were summoned, worked for 50 minutes on him with a pulmotor during the trip to the hospital.

Nearly 48 hours later, Weber regained consciousness.

"They told me my heart beat and pulse came back on the way to the hospital, but when I opened my eyes nearly two days later everything was a blur," he said.

"I still had on one shoe and my trunks. The tape was still on my hands and my mouth felt like a burning coal."

It seems the attendants had difficulty removing the clothing with Weber still swinging in his delirious state. In fact one of the nurses was reported unofficially kayoed.

★ ★ ★

Thinking he was kayoed himself and it was still the night of the fight, his first question was "what round did they stop it in?"

"That was the only time in 400 fights I was ever off my feet," said Weber, "and they had to 'kill' me to do it."

Within one year exactly, after throwing one of the crutches out of the window and learning to walk again, Weber was back in the ring in Erie, Pennsylvania.

He was warned that if he ever got hit in the spot where the blood clot was, he may not "come back to life" again.

So on August 31, 1930 he quit the ring and later went into referee work.

Weber never saw the second, Harry Harris, who poured from the wrong bottle, for 20 years from the day of the fight.

"He felt terrible about the whole thing and left Detroit," Johnny said.

Even the referee, Billy Rooks, never went into the ring again after that fight.

Now Weber is a licensed referee in seven states and Canada. He has taken time out to assist in Nephrosis Benefit bouts Saturday night at Pontiac High School as referee, and he's very much alive.

Weber will celebrate (or mourn) the 30th anniversary of his "death" in November . . . believe it or not.

See Big 10 Title Despite Probation

Buckeyes Still Confident

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — His football team must operate as an officially "spanked" Big Ten contender and minus all-America Howie (Hopalong) Cassady, but Woody Hayes of Ohio State faces the 1956 campaign with head held high and typical confidence.

The defending champion Buckeyes are under one year probation, including denial of a possible Rose Bowl bid, for athletic policies deemed irregular by the conference. Hayes reports the whole situation has been straightened out and that it resulted from an "honest administrative" mistake.

Hayes said today "our attitude towards the probation is that we have rectified our mistake and haven't pointed a finger at anybody else. We tried one thing, to avoid having the boys hurt and becoming bitter. They're not."

He said 32 players in danger of being declared ineligible, generally stayed after school closed in June and put in an extra week of work on their jobs, most of this "loans," he said, were repaid.

"Sure, there is some disappointment with the probation, but, if anything, it has made all of us a more closely-knit athletic family. There won't be any letdown by the kids."

Cassaday was the firebrand who led the Buckeyes to two straight undisputed Big Ten titles and a run of 13 straight Big Ten victories. He was the game-breaker a coach gets once a decade.

The player who must fill Hopalong's saddle is Don Sutherin, 198-pound junior, who is highly regarded, but in Hayes' words, "He's no Cassady—there couldn't be another Cassady."

Hayes has eight starters back among 22 lettermen, including Ohio State's brilliant 1954 fullback Hubert Bobo, now being tried at end.

Hayes explains the Bobo switch was made because he has two good fullbacks in Don Vicic and Galen Cisco, who couldn't play any other postion, and the 200-pound Bobo is ready, willing and able to bolster the end department.

Jim Roseboro, who averaged 6.1 yards last season, is a right half fixture and Frank Ellwood, a surprise find at quarterback last season, will do the Buckeye signal-calling and tossing in Hayes' stepped-up aerial program.

Beat Kansas City, 6-0

Homers Help Tigers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Precedent will favor Tiger southpaw Bill Hoeft (16-12) tonight when he takes the hill against the Kansas City Athletics.

The Tigers have dropped only one game at Kansas City this season while rapping out 19 home runs in eight starts.

Four of the homers were pounded out last night when Detroit blanked the A's 6-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Frank Lary. The victory gave the Tiger righthander a 16-13 record.

Round-trip blows by Ray Boone, Charlie Maxwell, Red Wilson and Wayne Belardi gave starter Art Ditmar the dubious distinction of being the only American League pitcher to lose 20 games thus far. He has won 10.

* * *

Lary allowed only four singles while striking out four. The A's shoved up three pinch-hitters in the eighth after Hec Lopez singled with one out and Belardi put Eddie Robinson on first with a poor throw to second trying for a force-out.

But the threat ended when Tim Thompson popped up and Johnny Groth grounded out.

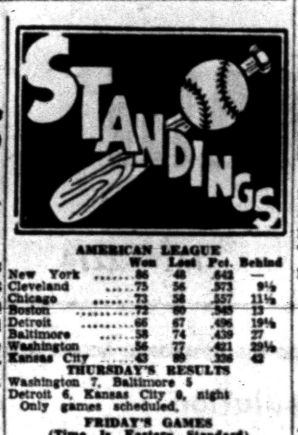

Wilson and Boone slammed solo homers in the 4th to make the score 3-0. Boone had singled home a run in the 1st inning. Belardi's singleton clout came in the 6th and Maxwell homered with one aboard in the 7th.

Ann Arbor High Reaches Top Heights With Fonde

ANN ARBOR (AP) — There are perennial questions among Six-A League football followers and they haven't changed a bit as prep gridders at Ann Arbor High, Battle Creek Central, Kalamazoo Central, Jackson High, Lansing Eastern, and Lansing Sexton near their Sept. 14 openers.

The questions go like this:

"Will Hank Fonde's Ann Arbor High Pioneers be stopped this time? Who will turn the trick and how will they do it?"

Students of recent prep grid history in Michigan know the background for the questions. For newcomers it might be explained that Fonde—he's getting a nationwide reputation as "Fabulous Fonde"—is responsible for the recurring uneasiness in Six-A centers.

In 1949, after a successful coaching inaugural at Class C Ann Arbor University High, Fonde was called to take over the grid reins at Ann Arbor High. The Pioneers had won six games and tied one in the previous three years.

* * *

Fonde, two years away from varsity competition with Michigan's Wolverines, won eight straight games and the Five-A (it became the Six-A in 1953 with addition of Kalamazoo Central) League title. And he's hardly veered from that pattern since.

In seven years, Fonde's Pioneers have won 52 games as against one defeat and two ties. They've won six straight outright League championships and shared one (in 1954) with Battle Creek Central. Twice in that span they've topped the state's prep polls.

Texans Capture Sailing Trophy

COHASSET, Mass. (AP)—A quartet of Texans today holds the Mrs. Charles Francis Adams Cup symbolic of the Northern Women's Yacht Racing championship after an unprecedented victory.

Mrs. Glenn Lattimore captained the Fort Worth Yacht Club crew to a victory in the sixth and a second in the seventh and final race yesterday at the conclusion of the 3-day competition on Massachusetts Bay off the Cohasset Yacht Club.

The triumph marked the first time a crew representing an area outside the immediate Atlantic Coast ever won the championship.

Flu Flattens Two Spartans

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State football coaches were determinedly looking on the bright side today although a couple of key men have been laid low by the flu bug.

Left half Clarence Peaks of Flint has been joined in the MSU infirmary by Don Gilbert, junior fullback from Dubois, Pa. Both have light cases of the ailment.

Another shift, a change of assignment rather than an emergency matter, is regarded as a definite strengthening of the forward line. This is the switch of Joel Jones, defensive end last year, to left tackle.

"Both have improved a lot, especially on defense," said Daugherty. "We expect them to see a lot of action this fall."

Fight at PHS

12 Bouts on Schedule

A dozen bouts will be the bill of fare and the National Nephrosis Foundation will be the beneficiary in Saturday night's amateur boxing show at the Pontiac High School gymnasium.

Two slugging heavyweights, 218-pound Ezell Evans of Flint and Detroit's Johnny McQueen, a 225-pounder, will clash in the feature match.

* * *

A couple of Pontiac fighters are scheduled to see action in tomorrow night's program, promoted by Stanley (Stag) Allen for the benefit of childhood nephrosis. Allen, a former Golden Gloves champion, lost a son to the disease last May.

Larry Lamphere, promising Pontiac boxer, meets Earl Walker in the 160-pound division and Pontiac's Fred Crow battles Jack Slade of Flint in the opening scrap at 118 pounds.

Johnny Weber, prominent ring official, will referee the 12-bout card. The program was originally scheduled in August at Wisner Stadium, but rain forced its delay.

Tickets for the show, which begins at 8:30, will be available at the gate.

118 pounds—Fred Crow vs. Jack Slade
126 pounds—Bob McDonald vs. Rene Burns
126 pounds—Ralph Burns vs. Tony Perez
126 pounds—Wally Green vs. Lewis Barrett

Birmingham Netters in 2 Hot Matches

Promises of two unusually fine, redhot tennis matches were made today in announcement of the Saturday semifinal tests for Birmingham Tennis club singles for men. Matches take place on Kingswood's asphalt courts.

In the two tests are all four top-seeded players. Jim Tobin, No. 1 meets Bob Faught, No. 3 in the lower bracket. In the upper is Charles Lynch, No. 4, and Don McKay, No. 1 Finals are set for Sunday.

Savitt's Tennis Comeback Challenged by Aussie Ace

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—The biggest tennis mystery in years, the comeback story of Dick Savitt, has its unfolding today at the West Side Tennis Club.

Can Dick Savitt, out of topflight competitive action for four years and not match-hardened, beat Australia's Ken Rosewall in the quarter-finals of the National Tennis Championships?

* * *

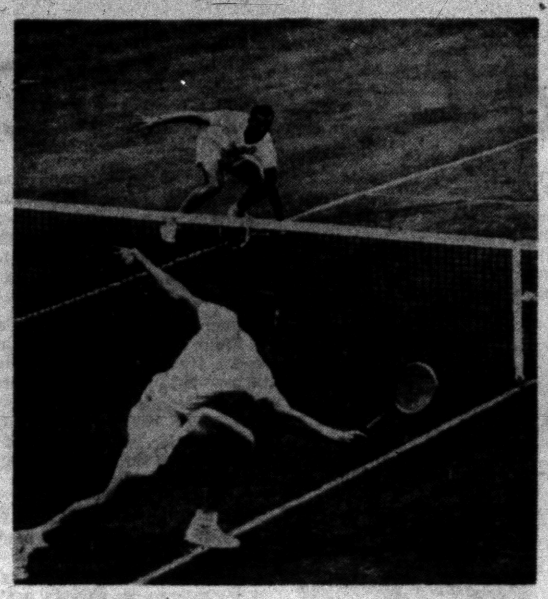

The odds say "no" but tennis oldtimers have other sentiments on what shapes up as the key match of the season.

Hoad, who is favored to duplicate Budge's "Grand Slam" of 1938, meets a fellow Australian, young Roy Emerson, in the other quarter-final contest.

A major upset marked yesterday's women's play which saw Shirley Bloomer, a 22-year-old British girl, turn back the veteran Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-3, 6-3. Miss Bloomer's semi-final foe is Shirley Fry, the top-seeded Wimbledon champion from St. Petersburg, Fla., who ousted Mrs. Margaret du Pont, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

ANOTHER AUSSIE WIN — Gil Shea, forecourt, of Los Angeles, drops a volley down the line against Aussie Neale Fraser in the National Tennis Championships at Forest Hills, N. Y. yesterday. Fraser defeated Shea, 5-7, 6-3, 6-3 and 10-8, to move into the quarterfinals.

Benny Watches Punters Work

Shatusky Boots Long Ones, May Be In for Promotion

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Briefly relaxing a heavy scrimmage schedule, coach Benny Oosterbaan ordered a lighter brand of football today so his Michigan team will be in shape for a heavy workout tomorrow.

Several punts of more than 60 yards yesterday off the toe of halfback Mike Shatusky gave promise that big things may be expected from the hard-working 3rd-stringer.

Oosterbaan indicated Shatusky may be in line for promotion if he can improve in other departments.

* * *

Shatusky, a junior from Menominee, was one of six kickers trying for yardage and accuracy in a long punting session. Others showing off their foot work were ends Ron Kramer and Capt. Tom Maentz, who did most of the booting last season, quarterbacks Jim Van Pelt and Jim Maddox, and tailback Bob Ptacek.

29 Teams to Battle for National Title

Grammas Named One of Reasons for Reds' Surge

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts, manager of the surging Cincinnati Redlegs, today tabbed Alex Grammas as one of the reasons his club has moved into the National League pennant fight.

* * *

The 29-year-old Golden Greek had a big part in the Redlegs' victory over the leading Milwaukee Braves Wednesday, getting three hits, scoring two runs and driving in four.

* * *

"They've got to admit now it's a three-team race," Tebbetts said, "and we have a chance. Up to now nobody even mentioned us. Well, the ugly ducklings have invited themselves into a party."

Doctoring Your Golf Game

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: Hip lock finish

DIAGNOSIS: Faulty lateral slide

On the tourney trail we use the lateral hip slide, but only when we are hitting into the wind — to keep the ball low. With the hip shift we hit down on the ball, but we can't be too sure of control. It isn't uncommon to smother the ball by hitting a bit too much on the top side of it.

I advise guarding against the hip slide. The proper golf swing is built on pivot, body turn. And

Finger on Vikings

Northern Rated Tops in SVC

This is the third of a series of articles dealing with area high school football prospects. Tomorrow we scan the setup in the Interlakes Conference.

By H. GUY MOATS
Pontiac Press Special Writer

If the pre-season observations of Saginaw Valley football coaches are borne out in the actual competition of the state's toughest prep gridiron circuit this fall Flint Northern's all-veteran, all-letterman crew should be perched atop the conference.

That's the unanimous opinion of all Valley mentors—that the Vikings will be the big "powerhouse." Hence more than the usual interest will be centered on Coach Andy McDonald's boys when they open their season, Sept. 14. Vikings oppose one of western Michigan's stronger elevens in Grand Rapids Catholic Central on the CC home field.

Vikings have 17 lettermen back, including every regular from last fall's last-place squad. Even McDonald is inclined to believe his club will click this year and, "we feel we're going to give out some lickings this year to pay back for some of those we took last fall."

* * *

Pontiac's Ed Graybiel—"It looks like Northern may be coming along this year, with all those lettermen regulars back in action. Bay City and Arthur Hill should be strong, too. It'll be a hot race, I think."

Arthur Hill's Kurt Kampe — "We'll probably have to watch out for Northern, chiefly because of all the lettermen returning. I don't think they will win the Valley but they could—if we don't do it ourselves." Lumberjacks finished 3rd last year in SVC.

* * *

Herb Korf, Saginaw High — "There are several big threats. Andy McDonald's Vikings, Central, Arthur Hill with 15 lettermen and maybe Pontiac—they're all in there."

Bill Doolittle, Flint Central— "As far as the strength (on paper) lies, you gotta look at Northern as a possibility along with Bay City(Wolves tied with Indians for the SVC 1955 title), and Pontiac. We might do pretty good, ourselves."

Elmer Engel, Bay City Central —"From here it looks like Flint Northern as the powerhouse. The Vikings have some fine starting backs, speed and all their regulars back. Hills can be particularly tough. Pontiac, too, may be the 'darkhorse' in the race. Everbody will be tough."

* * *

Bay City, which shared the title last year with the Indians, needs a quarterback to fill the shoes of Jim Chesney. If Engel can produce in this category his club will again be a big factor in the race. Terry Ebright is currently Engel's hope in this department.

* * *

As in other recent years Pontiac is the questionmark. Ed Graybiel's squad includes 15 letterwinners, with a half dozen or so regulars. These comprise some of the state's fastest backs, such as Freeman Watkins, Charley Spann, Charley Robinson, Jim (Sugarcane) Shorter, all speedy members of last spring's state championship track team.

Graybiel's biggest problem, like that of Engel, is to develop a quarterback. Dick Whitmer's current activities may provide an answer. Saturday's game type scrimmage will offer the first real opportunity to scan this situation.

Chiefs appear to be blessed with some big linemen who are showing well at this time, including Dick Kors, slated as a regular starting guard, 210-pound Bob Holloway and other regulars.

* * *

Rams' Defense Faces Big Test

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The vaunted defensive unit of the Los Angeles Rams faces a busy evening when halfback Ollie Matson and the Chicago Cardinals take the field in Memorial Coliseum tonight.

The National Football League rivals each has won one game and dropped two in the exhibition campaign and with Rams' Coach Sid Gillman still experimenting with new material, the Cards might rate as a slight favorite.

* * *

Quarterback Billy Wade opens for the Rams against veteran Lamar McHan of the visitors, with the latter flanked by Matson and halfback Dave Mann and fullback Johnny Olszewski.

* * *

"If there is a better unit of runners than Matson, Mann and Olszewski in the league, I hope we don't draw the assignment of having to stop them," Gilman observed.

Pontiac Seeks State Title in MRA Golf Tournament

Although there have been a couple of changes in personnel, there has been no depletion of strength for Pontiac in the Michigan Recreation Association golf tournament Saturday at Lansing's Grosbeck course.

One of Pontiac's strongest delegations in several years will represent this city against a field of top-flight competition from throughout the state.

Heading the local 5-man contingent is Ron Rothbarth, 1956 city Medal Play champion. Joining him in the battle for team honors will be Mike Andonian, Charles Barker, Paul Bada and Butler Cooper.

Bada, who fired a record 8-under-par 61 recently at Pontiac's Municipal Golf Course, is replacing Lloyd Syron. Syron is unable to make the trip to the state capital because of his entry in the National Amateur tourney.

Cooper, well-known in area links circles for many years, will replace Ed Wasik, who had made previous tournament committments elsewhere.

The championship of the 18-hole state tourney will be determined by the total medal score of each team.

Remaining Schedule Big Factor

Trailing Clubs Are Key to NL Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This may be the screwiest National League pennant race yet. With four weeks to go, it's a three-way scrap among Milwaukee, Cincinnati and Brooklyn—but the teams to beat are St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

You can toss in Brooklyn weather, too. Rain postponed the Dodger's game with the New York Giants last night, the only contest scheduled in the NL.

Milwaukee and Cincinnati each have two games left with Brooklyn, all four at Ebbets Field, while meeting each other once, at Cincinnati. That more or less leaves the winning of the pennant up to the games with the rest of the league, and here's how the many-sided gimmick works:

* * *

Of their 21 remaining games, the first-place Braves have two series and seven games left with last-place Chicago. The second-place Redlegs, meanwhile, play seven games in two series with fourth-place St. Louis among their remaining 20. And the third-place Dodgers, also with 21 left, play seven against sixth-place Pittsburgh in two series.

Oddly enough, the Braves are 9-6 for the season against the Cubs and the Redlegs are 9-6 vs. the Cardinals, and the Dodgers are 9-6 vs. the Bucs.

The American League? Well, New York's magic number is 13 (any combination of Yankee victories and Cleveland losses totaling 13 clinches the flag), and Mickey Mantle, with 47 home runs is two behind Babe Ruth's record-60 pace of 1927 as the Yankees open at home against Washington tonight.

* * *

Only two games were scheduled yesterday. Washington, scoring six in the fifth with Jose Valdivielso hitting a three-run homer, defeated Baltimore 7-5.

* * *

Record Run at Detroit

Joy Fair Sets Track Mark

A pair of veteran Pontiac area drivers, Joy Fair and Chuck Partello, made auto racing headlines Thursday.

* * *

Fair of Pontiac, driving a Dodge, established a new track record yesterday over the 1-mile course at the Michigan State Fair. He drove the distance in the time of 47.32 seconds, nearly two seconds better than the previous mark.

The record qualifying run in the late model car division entitles Fair to the pole position for Sunday's 250-mile race at the state fair grounds track.

Fair's average speed was between 75 and 77 miles per hour. A total of 50 cars will run in Sunday's mrathon out of an original field of 110. A $7,500 purse will be up for grabs.

Lindsay Would Quit Hockey If Traded

(Last in a series of articles on Ted Lindsay, veteran Detroit Red Wing player and one of the greatest players in NHL history.)

DETROIT (AP) — Ted Lindsay, openly criticized by the management of the Detroit Red Wings hockey club for his outside business interests, says he would quit the game if the Wings traded him.

"It wouldn't pay me to play somewhere else," said Lindsay. "I'd quit tomorrow if they traded me."

The Wings believe him.

He has two, and possibly three good seasons of hockey left. His business, set up with a couple of other Red Wing players, is going so well, and he is establishing so many contacts, that he couldn't afford to give all that up in a transfer to another National Hockey League city.

Lindsay, with 12 NHL seasons behind him, admits that he has slowed up.

* * *

"Either I'm getting slower or the younger players coming up are getting faster," he joked.

"I think I have two and maybe three good seasons left in me," Lindsay added. "But if at any time—even during the season—I felt myself slowing up so much that I wasn't helping the team, I'd call it quits."

Lindsay says he has no plans to continue in the sport, either as a coach or official, after his playing days.

Lindsay's business activities have been criticized several times by Red Wing officials. The last time was during the Stanley Cup series with Montreal.

* * *

The Wings dropped behind and General Manager Jack Adams suggested in public that perhaps several of the Wing players didn't have the desire any more, that maybe they were too busy with outside interests to play big league hockey, that perhaps some of them might as well hang up their skates.

"That didn't bother me," said Lindsay. "Maybe Adams thought he had a good reason for saying what he did. But they pay my salary and I do the best I can in every game."

Smith to Coach Pioneer Matmen

The new Ann Arbor coach was the only U.S. wrestler to win his weight championship in the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki. He held the National AAU 165-pound title from 1949 to 1951 while at Iowa State Teachers College.

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The sixth annual Rubber City Open Golf Tournament went into its second round today with Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., leading the field by one stroke with five-under-par 67s for yesterday's 18 holes.

* * *

Bunched behind them with 68s for the opening round of the 72-hole medal competition were Jimmy Demaret, three-time Masters' champion from Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.; Bob Lichardus of Hillside, N.J., and Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill.

* * *

A field of some 150 are competing in the $19,000 meeting over the par-72, 6,620-yard Firestone Country Club course.

Palmer, former Cleveland amateur star who has won four titles since turning professional, birdied the second and sixth holes of the first nine yesterday for 34 and birdied 10, 14 and 15 on the back nine for 33.

* * *

All told, 39 competitors in the tightly grouped field broke par and 10 others matched par.

The field will be sliced to the 90 low pros and 10 low amateurs today, for the final stretches tomorrow and Sunday.

Ford Trucks Cost Less!

"I earn as much as $30 a day more because my Ford T-800 tandem job can carry more payload than comparable trucks," says timber-hauler Clarence Landwing.

"Low cost, dependability, toughness—that's what I get in Ford trucks," says John Karks. "Ford's power takes me through tough going that would stop many another truck."

Only a Ford pickup gives you the economy of modern Short Stroke design in both Six and V-8!

Ford's low initial prices mean real savings, to be sure. But the on-the-job savings you get in Ford trucks count even more!

Take running costs; they're downright low. Because Ford—and only Ford—gives you the gas and oil economy of modern Short Stroke power in every truck. Only Ford has a Short Stroke Six and seven Short Stroke V-8's—backed by over 5 billion miles of on-the-job experience.

Upkeep costs are low because Ford trucks are built extra strong. They outlast all other leading makes—a fact certified by independent insurance experts. That same stand-up ruggedness means greater dependability, too.

And when it comes time to trade—you'll gain from Ford's traditionally high resale value, too. You'll find that, from start to finish, Ford trucks cost less.

"When you figure low running and upkeep costs, high trade-in and low price, we feel that nothing can beat Ford trucks for value." Charles Sofer, president of I. Hart & Co.

Ford Trucks last longer

Botanists Study Ragweed Plant

UM Conducting 5-Year Study Toward Control of Hay Fever Bug

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The ragweed plant, which spews out its allergy that causes hay fever to one in every 20 Americans, is undergoing a five-year study at the University of Michigan.

Botanists at the university and experts from the fields of medicine, engineering and public health hope to make important contributions toward eventual control of the hay fever bug.

How and where the rugged ragweed plant forms the substance and how it is discharged into the atmosphere on particles of pollen are some of the questions the botanists hope to answer for the medical profession.

The project, begun with a study of scientific articles written about ragweed, is sponsored by the National Institute of health through the UM engineering research institute.

Warren H. Wagner, assistant professor of botany, says the ragweed plant, which has survived for 170 million years, is "an incredibly complex plant which represents evolutionary specialization of the highest order."

The discovery of a new species of ragweed near Kalkaska marked the beginning of a survey of the distribution of species in the state. Experiments to show the effects of weather on the growth of the plant over a period of years is to begin.

There will be a study of allergic prisoners at the Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson and other types of surveys and research.

Two Beauties to Compete in 'Night Passage' Movie

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Those two pretty girls, Dorothy Malone and Elaine Stewart, both signed at U-I for two pictures a year, get the chance to outsparkle one another in the same movie, "Night Passage" opposite Jimmy Stewart and Audie Murphy.

My young friend Dorothy is riding high these days—and for that matter, so is Elaine. Miss Dorothy is just back from a trip to New York where she exploited "Written on the Wind" and entertained her whole family, courtesy of U-I.

As for Elaine Stewart, she was out of pictures so long before Universal-International gave her a contract that she may not even mind leaving her boyfriend, Dr. Herman Platt, for the six weeks while the "Night Passage" company is on location.

Charles Laughton, whose break with Paul Gregory was big news at the time I went to Europe, has had to bow out of "The Bridge of the River Kwai."

Charlie is not only going to direct "Major Barbara," but he'll also act in it with Glynis Johns. So he wouldn't have time to keep his picture commitment with Sam Speigel.

However, "The Bridge" will not be deserted entirely, because they have been able to get Alec Guinness for Laughton's role, and he's just one of the best actors in the world, that's all.

With him in the big name cast will be Jack Hawkins. Speigel will add some top American names to the cast.

RETIREMENT RUMOR

I hope it is only an idle rumor that Betty Grable and Harry James have decided to retire from show business and spend all their time with their thoroughbred race horses.

The way I hear it is that Betty and Harry made considerably more money this last year on trading in horseflesh than in the entertainment field. They didn't make their money in actual track winnings, as I understand it, but in racing thoroughbreds and selling them.

There's always a first time for everything, and George Gobel made his first appearance at Chasen's. He came to my table, talked to me and said that he is busy now getting ready his opening television show in October.

"I always worry about every show," he said, "and I'm always especially worried about my opening."

He told me that he and Peggy King separated because it was unfair to keep her when she had so many offers from other people.

"Just a few minutes on my show," said George, "wasn't enough to keep her from all the big offers she has had."

SURGERY FOR LEX

Tony Martin was so homesick for Cyd Charisse and his children that he flew in today from London just to spend two days with them. He flies back Saturday to finish his picture.

That gal Linda Christian gets around. She's now being seen in the quieter places with Prince Christian of Hanover. But Edmund Purdom is still No. 1 in her life.

The popularity of Nat "King" Cole happens once in a generation. At the Cocoanut grove he was called back again and again. At ringside tables were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lewis, Patricia Morrison and Wynn Rocamora, Jack Entratter, Jan Sterling and Paul Douglas, Cobina Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Alsop and Peggy King.

Jerry was particularly interested in the Martin and Rowan act. They're the two comics who appeared with Nat at the Sands in Las Vegas, and they very well could be another Martin and Lewis team.

Skilled Labor Shortage Acute, Mitchell Says

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—The shortage of skilled workers has become a national problem, says Secretary of Labor James Mitchell.

• • •

• • •

"In many ways," he said, "from a worker's own selfish point of view, there is no law, no program, no protection as effective in promoting his own security as his skill."

Democrats Invite Joe Smith to Kickoff Rally

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Mythical Joe Smith, Vice President Nixon's only opposition for renomination, has been invited to the Democrats' campaign kick-off in Pennsylvania next Thursday.

• • •

The invitation came from Matthew H. McCloskey, national chairman of the Democratic Finance Committee. He said:

"You, Joe Smith, have become the symbolic figure of lost Republican hopes. You are Custer's Last Stand, the pride of Mudville at the end of the ninth inning and the family black sheep, all rolled into one defenseless fall guy. We need you."

• • •

Smith's name was placed in nomination at the Republican convention by Terry Carpenter, a delegate from Nebraska. He said he did so to show that the convention was open.

Uruguay denounced its treaty with Yugoslavia due to high prices, slow deliveries.

2 Drowned Marines Wash Up on Okinawa

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)— Two bodies were washed up on the beach today where 11 U. S. Marines drowned in an unexpected undercurrent yesterday.

• • •

Interruption of communications with remote "North Camp," where the drownings occurred, prevented any report on whether the bodies were identified. The U. S. 3rd Marine Division said, however, that helicopters and men of the 2nd Battalion, 9th regiment were continuing patrols in the hope of finding more bodies.

A preliminary report said the drownings occurred in waist deep water when the men went for a swim in their shorts after a hot day of work and field problems.

• • •

The beach was often used as a bathing spot by the men. Experts on water currents said, however, that the unexpected undertow may have been caused by typhoon conditions.

Australia at one time was known as New Holland. It did not become a part of the British empire or assume its new name until about 1770.

Bedtime in Las Vegas Is About 7:30 or 8 A. M.

By EARL WILSON

LAS VEGAS—Joe E. Lewis is winding up a long engagement at El Rancho Vegas and heading for the Copacabana in New York where he'll also enter labor politics.

"I'm in an A.F. of L.—American Federation of Lushes," Joe explains.

LILI

Strip-teaser Lili St. Cyr, on the same bill with Joe, bared one of her eccentricities for me. Lili says she hides her money at night inside her pillow and then usually forgets about it next morning. Several times when touring, she's had to drive back to a hotel she's left to hunt the forgotten loot. She and Ted Jordan, her new husband, are sailing Friday on the Coroniqi for a three-month look at Europe.

Mickey Rooney's grown up every way but physically and has a funny act with Joey Foreman and Dick Winslow on the Roberta Sherwood bill at the New Frontier—but he's not too happy about it.

"It keeps me up," he says. "I like to go to bed at 7:30 or 8. That's why I can't get interested in going to New York to do a Broadway show."

In Las Vegas, of course, the bedtime is also 7:30 or 8 . . . But A.M. instead of P.M. Mickey last played in New York, his home town, before he entered the Army, at the Capitol Theater. A friend who remembered that gasped, "And now, Mickey, you don't look a day taller."

Army Regiment Cited by Japanese Consul

HONOLULU (AP)—Japanese Consul General Masahide Kanayama yesterday presented the 27th infantry "Wolfhound" regiment with a large silver punchbowl from the people of Osaka prefecture in gratitude for the soldiers' assistance at the Holy Family Orphanage.

Since 1949, the regiment donated $215,000. The regimental band played Kimigayo honoring Kanayama and then the Star Spangled Banner.

Wounds Wrong Man With Shotgun Blast

MARQUETTE (AP) — A shotgun blast fired through the window of a car missed its intended victim, State Police said, but fatally wounded George Miller, 59, of L'Anse.

Sgt. James Smith quoted Russell Mills, 37, of Bay Mills, as saying he intended to shoot Edward LaFreniere, 39, also of L'Anse.

The trooper said the three men, accompanied by Mills' wife, had several drinks Wednesday night at a cabin near Keva, 20 miles southeast of Marquette.

Smith said Mills got a shotgun from a nearby cabin and fired it into a car occupied by Miller, LaFreniere and Mrs. Mills, who was Miller's niece.

Boys Hunt for Lawn Chairs After Tornado

Dalton said the chair had been behind a small game-bird house that was wrecked in the storm.

Comb on Strings Led to Hawaiian Guitar

HONOLULU — The steel guitar, sometimes called the Hawaiian guitar, was invented by a young Hawaiian student, Joseph Kekuku, who one day placed a comb against the strings of an ordinary guitar.

Intrigued by the resultant sound, he substituted the blade of his pocket knife and finally had a piece of steel fashioned to give the proper sliding effect.

'Weldy Is a Nice Person'

Jungle Shooting Accident, Confidential Boss Claims

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Robert Harrison 50, publisher of Confidential magazine, says the shooting that put him in a hospital here was an accident.

The New Yorker told reporters yesterday he did not plan to file charges against Richard Weldy, 35, jungle trapper and tour director. He said, "Weldy is a nice person."

* * *

He thus backed up Weldy's story that he dropped his shotgun accidentally and it went off. The charge wounded Harrison slightly in the right shoulder.

The shooting took place Tuesday in a mountain jungle near Jarabacoa about 70 miles northwest of here. Weldy had acknowledged that at the time he and Harrison were quarreling over an article in Confidential about Weldy, his Peruvian actress ex-wife and her present husband, Hollywood star John Wayne.

Weldy was in the Dominican Republic to catch a rare species of ferret for a customer in Miami, Fla. He had come upon Harrison hunting with A. P. Govoni, managing editor of Confidential, and Geene Courtney, a pretty New York woman currently singing at El Embajador Hotel in Cuidad Trujillo.

After the shooting, Weldy and Govoni left to get help and Harrison and Miss Courtney remained in the woods. They were brought to the hospital suffering from exhaustion, nervousness and exposure.

Doctors said Harrison would be well enough in a few days to go back to the United States.

The New York Journal American said Harrison's wife, who stayed behind in their New York hotel apartment, was angered to hear that Miss Courtney had been with him.

"Why, that old bag!" it quoted her as saying. "I just don't like her. Are you sure she was with him?"

The paper said Mrs. Harrison later expressed regret that she had made this remark and added that Miss Courtney was an old friend of the family. She was quoted as saying she was sure her "involvement in the incident was harmless."

Scenery Is Most Important in the Garden of the Gods

Such, in effect, is the ruling of Colorado Springs officials who have declared the famous city-owned park "off limits" for would-be uranium prospectors. Any blasting, it was felt, might threaten the park's weird limestone formations, particularly its "Balanced Rock."

The Garden of the Gods, near Pike's Peak in the heart of Colorado, has been a tourist attraction for decades, says the National Geographic Society. As early as 1886, when only one National Park—Yellowstone—had been set up, Congress considered a bill to make the site a public recreation and sightseeing area.

The territory to be included, however, covered 900 square miles, far more than the present 770-acre city park. The bill failed to pass.

NAMED AFTER GOLD FIND

The name "Garden of the Gods" came into use in 1859, soon after the discovery of gold in the vicinity. As the story goes, a couple of men rode south from Denver on a project to establish a trading post on the road to the gold fields. They staked out a base at Colorado City, now the western suburb of Colorado Springs.

Riding about the countryside on an inspection tour, the men pushed through a great natural gateway into the fantastic rock-strewn region. Here, one of them remarked, would be a place for gods to assemble, "a garden of the gods"—and the name stuck.

With the coming of the railroad and the development of Colorado Springs proper, more and more visitors saw nature's red-rock art gallery, sculptured into cathedral spires, castles, Indian heads, cats, bears, gargoyles, unicorns and "kissing camels." The highest reaches 300 feet.

RARE BEAUTY OR JOKE

Awed spectators have called the scene "a menagerie of eternity," a place of peace and reverence, and "a hushed Wagner." One unimpressed writer said it was "a pale, pink joke" that irritated him.

Helen Hunt Jackson, author of "Ramona," and long resident of Colorado Springs, observed that appreciation of the region's rare beauty was something to be learned "like a new language." But the term "garden, she felt, was unsuited to such a wild, barren, and arid spot.

Lack of water for crops or livestock discouraged early homesteaders. It was 1879 before railway magnate Charles Elliott Perkins purchased 240 acres for a summer retreat. But he built no home on the site, and during his lifetime indicated he wished it left for public enjoyment.

In 1909, after Perkins' death, his heirs donated the property, by then 480 acres, to the city of Colorado Springs. Later, more land was added, bringing the famous Balanced Rock into the park area.

More than a million visitors a year now wander about the Garden of the Gods. Its Easter Sunrise Service is broadcast around the world.

Geologists particularly see the park as a story of nature in creation. Hundreds of millions of years ago, its rocks lay at the bottom of seas that at times covered all or parts of what would be Colorado. The waters receded; cataclysmic forces tore apart the stone masses, upturned and tilted them into ridges and peaks. Finally, wind and weather began the slow, endless erosion processes that carved today's bizarre forms.

* * *

Detroit Justice Vaughn Dies in Xway Crash

MONROE (AP)—Justice L. Vaughn, 40, of Detroit, was killed last night when the car in which he was riding overturned at the end of the Detroit-Toledo expressway.

Driver Randal Williams, 32, also of Detroit, said he missed the dead end signs. Williams was treated at Monroe Mercy Hospital.

Paper Industry Expands

BANGOR, Me.—Maine's paper industry is getting a boost, with expansion and modernization programs totaling $31,000,000 planned by two major producers. Great Northern Paper Company's plans call for an outlay of $21,000,000 at Millinocket and East Millinocket, and Eastern Corporation of Bangor will construct a $10,000,000 mill for bleached kraft pulp at Lincoln.

The addicition to the use of drugs is now legal grounds for divorce in seven of the states, according to the Department of Justice.

Automation Hits Carnivals

'Ain't Like It Used to Be'

OTTAWA, Ont. (UP) — Automation is hitting even carnival sideshow barkers.

* * *

William C. "Doc" Crosby, veteran of 40 years in carnival work, says he has no use for the mechanical aids.

"It's not like the old days," the grizzled, raspy-voiced talker said. "We had to work—and I really mean work—up to 16 hours a day, week in and week out, for six months of the year. That was tough on anybody's voice."

"But now, when some of these youngsters get tired, they just turn on a tape recording and let it do the spieling for them. This is the age of mechanical showbusiness and it is a sorry day for the color and atmosphere of the carnival."

PICKED UP NICKNAME

Doc, who now fronts the freak show of the carnival, acquired the nickname in earlier years while doing the barking for a traveling medicine show.

He says he has seen radical changes even in the way carnival workers travel since he started his career.

"If you were with a top-rate show you went from location to location in a railway coach that passed for a Pullman," he recalled. "Your upper or lower (if you were so lucky) was your home. Everything you had was in a suitcase jammed under the berth.

"Sometimes you had to go without sleep for two days to make sure you opened at the next town on time. In those days the carnival train was fourth-class transportation and we were sidelined to let all the freight and passenger trains through."

* * *

"Look at these trailers," he said, waving his hands toward a colony of houses on wheels parked behind the show tents. "This is luxury living."

Listening to Doc bark on his stand a few minutes later, there was one thing you could be sure of—he'd always work "live." No new-fangled tape-recorders for Doc.

Art Colony Breathes Life Into Old UP Ghost Town

* * *

For more than 10 years, since closing of the sawmill that was the town's main industry, Pequaming was all but abandoned, its 75 houses boarded up, its public buildings empty.

But recently the 890-acre Ford-owned tract was sold to developers who opened it as a resort area. And now an art colony is putting new life in the picturesque village.

SEVERAL ENROLLED

Two husband and wife teams from Milwaukee have opened an art school, the Kitchigami School of Arts. Already students from Milwaukee and several Upper Peninsula cities have enrolled.

The founders, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kraynik and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kokurka, say they see a rich future for their settlement.

"There's everything here that an artist needs—natural beauty of every variety. Even the old buildings of the ghost town beg to be painted. And Pequaming is far enough off the beaten path so that it offers a quiet retreat for serious art work."

* * *

800 MILL HANDS

Originally the land had been leased from Chippewa Indian tribes by Charles Hebbard, who built a sawmill in Pequaming. At peak operation in 1877 the mill employed more than 600 men.

Henry Ford bought the Pequaming Peninsula from Hebbard in 1923. He built a new sawmill and set up what was planned as a model school system. For himself Ford built a 14-room lodge overlooking the bay.

In 1942 the sawmill was closed, sending its workers into other communities to find jobs. The village's 75 homes and cottages were boarded up and the town hall, general store, church and power plant closed.

* * *

After Walsh and the Boerns bought the property, they decided to add the art school. One building was converted into a studio. Another serves as a central dining room. Others are used for dormitory space.

Kraynik says he looks forward to a day when Pequaming will attract artists from throughout the United States and Canada.

"We feel we're starting something new and important in the Upper Peninsula," he said. "Pequaming is a wonderful place for an artist to work."

What He Says Sounds Good

Ike Likes Lawyer Larson

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arthur Larson, a pleasant, graying 46-year-old lawyer, has a knack of saying not only what President Eisenhower likes to hear but what he likes to say, too.

* * *

Eisenhower liked a recent book by Larson so much he got him to help on his speech-writing. Larson worked on Eisenhower's acceptance speech at the Republican convention in San Francisco.

But Republicans like Larson, who has been undersecretary of labor two years, must make Democrats like Adlai Stevenson feel confused enough to scream in pain: "Get off my property or I'll call the sheriff. Or is this your property?"

* * *

In fact he says the Republicans have discovered the "American consensus" — meaning general agreement among Americans on what to do—and at the same time gives the Democrats credit for very little.

It's a very cool piece of writing. And it may help the Republicans in this election. But it is hardly what a political scientist would consider a textbook on government.

Larson brushes over, almost without mentioning, the fact that the administration—no matter how well it runs the government—is standing on a foundation built up by Democratic programs over 20 years.

* * *

Still, Eisenhower bestowed his blessing with quadruple, built-in hedges which will let him escape through roof, basement or big front door anytime anything in this book backfires. Said Eisenhower of the book:

"I can't recall every detail that's in it (hedge No. 1) . . . So . . . I can't . . . say I stand by every statement (hedge No. 2 . . . but in general (hedge No. 3) I thought he (Larson) expressed my philosophy of government as well as I have seen it (and here comes hedge No. 4) in a book of that size."

* * *

The book covers too many phases of government to be synopsised here. But at one point Larson said: "President Eisenhower and his associates have, for the first time in our history, discovered and established the authentic American center in politics."

Because Larson takes so much credit for the Republicans and finds so little to say for the Democrats, Stevenson may feel like telling the undersecretary of labor what he told Russia's Andrei Gromyko in London in 1945.

* * *

At that time Allied representatives, including Stevenson and Gromyko, were trying to lay the groundwork for the U.N. Gromyko must have been using his elbows too hard for Russia because Stevenson suddenly told him:

"Dammit, Andrei, you fellows can't have everything."

Britain Sets 1st Test of A-Bomb From Air

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Britain's first airdropped atomic bomb will be exploded at dawn next Tuesday if the weather permits.

The blast will take place at Maralinga, in the "dead heart" of Australia, 700 miles from this south Australian capital. The tests will also include two bursts from towers and one ground explosion.

State Officials Hear of Payroll Tax Plan

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—A payroll tax plan was outlined yesterday before Michigan Municipal League delegates by Mayor Ollie Czelusta of Toledo, Ohio, who said it had brought in $65,000,000 in 10 years.

* * *

He addressed the group at the Michigan Municipal League's 58th annual convention which continues through tomorrow.

* * *

The mayor said nearly every city now is confronted with the need for capital improvements requiring greatly increased tax income by present methods or new methods yet to be explored.

Detroit Clerics Fight New GI Suicide Idea

DETROIT (INS) — Representatives of Detroit's clergy for the most part were opposed today to a proposal that U. S. servicemen possessing vital information commit suicide if captured.

* * *

Dr. James G. Miller of the University of Michigan has suggested such servicemen carry cyanide pills and be court-martialed if they refused to use them when captured.

* * *

The recommendation has been forwarded to the military high command, but Dr. Miller refused to say if it had been accepted.

Auburn Heights Woman Injured in Collision

Mrs. Loola B. Herr, 39, of 3200 York St., Auburn Heights, escaped with only lacerations of the right knee and lower lip when her car collided with another car on Auburn Avenue in Avon Township Thursday afternoon.

* * *

She was released after treatment by Pontiac General Hospital. The other car was operated by Oran A. Watson, 49, of 3300 Elizabeth Waterford Township.

Mrs. Herr blamed faulty brakes for the collision. Watson said he could not avoid the accident when the oncoming car went across the center line.

Firm Prices Rule Grains

CHICAGO (AP)—Firm prices ruled for grains in active dealings on the Board of Trade today.

The market opened higher and pushed its way up further during early trading. It then met resistance, falling back from its top levels. The sell-off did not carry prices down to the previous close.

* * *

Small receipts of cash grain and accompanying strength in cash prices, hopes of exports in both wheat and soybean oil and some concern over the Suez situation were behind the buying.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ½ to one cent higher, Sept. $2.22½. Corn, ¼ to ⅝ higher, Sept. $1.50¾; oats, ⅛ to ⅜ higher, Sept. 73¼; rye, ½ to 1¾ higher, Sept. $1.49; soybeans ½ to 1¼ higher, Sept. $2.24¼ and lard, 3 to 22 cents a hundred pounds higher, Sept. $11.62.

35,000 Children Have Teeth Coated

LANSING (AP)—The State Health Department said Thursday 35,000 more Michigan school children received fluoride applications during the summer to prevent tooth decay.

* * *

Dr. Fred Wertheimer, director of the Dentistry Division, said the applications brought the number of children treated since the summertime program started in 1948 to 300,000.

* * *

Its aim is to bring the benefits of fluoridation, Wertheimer said, to children outside areas where drinking water is fluoridated, either naturally or by treatment of the water supply.

Oils Declining in Stock Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — International Oils lost ground as the Stock Market declined in fairly active early trading today.

The deadlock of the Suez Canal conference brought heavy selling to affected stocks, stretching the general range of losses to around 3 points or so.

Bethlehem Steel dropped more than a point, Alcoa and Du Pont more than 2, Illinois Central and International Paper around a point.

Among steels, Republic, Youngstown and U.S. Steel retreated by major fractions. General Motors, Chrysler and Ford did likewise. Leading rails eased backward a bit.

Ed Sullivan Prepares to Return to Television September 16

John Nesbitt's TRUE story

They stripped secrets from a sinking sub presenting again the stirring sea epic

"AWAY BOARDERS"

Mexico Buys Sheep

MEXICO CITY — The Mexican Government has bought 43,500 head of high-quality Rambouillet sheep in the United States and Canada. Main purpose of the purchase is to eliminate Mexico's imports of wool, which total some $8,000,000 a year. The sheep will be distributed throughout the central provinces of Mexico.

Caught Hand in Hand

KENNEWICK, Wash. (AP) — Russell Brown has his left hand back again. Brown told police the hand, a $150 artificial model, was stolen from the glove compartment of his pickup truck. Police found the hand in the hands of a juvenile who was attending a local theater.

Injured Emcee Grateful to Fans

Views Steve Allen as the Strongest Opponent He's Ever Faced

By CHARLES MERCER

* * *

"It slows you down," he said. "But it doesn't stop you," he added.

Sullivan, recovering from injuries he suffered in a head-on auto collision Aug. 6, returns to his CBS-TV show Sunday evening, Sept. 16.

* * *

"If that accident taught me one thing," he says, "it was the value of lining up programs well in advance. It also moved me deeply to learn how many friends I have."

Since the accident he has received more than 36,000 letters and messages from viewers who have told him how much they miss his regular Sunday night appearances and look forward to his return.

* * *

Photographs of the accident scene which Sullivan shows you indicate that he was fortunate indeed to come out as lightly as he did. His son-in-law, Robert H. Precht Jr., 26, suffered a broken leg and the driver of the other car also was injured.

How does Sullivan feel about the competition of Steve Allen (NBC-TV), who comes on at the same hour Sunday evenings on a majority of the nation's home sets?

* * *

"Steve is doing a good job," said Sullivan. "He's the strongest thing that has yet been put against me. Times are changing, you know.

"In the old days, when television had an audience of five million or so, it wouldn't support two popular shows at the same time. But now there's an audience of 50 or 60 million. If the two split straight down the middle, the advertisers of both shows are getting a good buy. Today television is big enough to support two big shows at the same time.

* * *

This Sunday, when Charles Laughton will substitute for Sullivan as emcee, Elvis Presley will make the first of three appearances on the show. Sullivan views Presley and his youthful enthusiasists as in the tradition of Johnny Ray and Frank Sinatra and similar singers.

"A lot of the old folks think the kids are heading for perdition, the way they howl and carry on over singers like Presley. The same thing was happening back in the late thirties. And a couple of years later those same kids went out and were the heroes in a great war."

Carburetor Test Proves Expensive Proposition

Hal Boyle Says:

Producer Turns from Crime to Religion

NEW YORK (AP)—The surest way to quick wealth in America is to find out what the public wants — and give it to them first.

A 39-year-old entertainment genius who made a fortune giving the public what it wanted in the way of comedy and fictional crime is now rapidly enlarging that fortune by satisfying the rising public interest in religion.

He is Bernard L. Schubert, producer of "Crossroads," an ABC network show that has clergymen as its heroes. The show, now in its second year, was the first commercially sponsored national interfaith religious program on television. Its spontaneous success surprised most people in the industry. But not Schubert himself.

'After all, more Americans are deeply interested in religion today than at any time in history," he remarked. "Some 60.3 per cent of the population belongs to churches now as compared to 49 per cent in 1940 and a mere 16 per cent a hundred years ago."

Until less than two years ago Schubert had only a layman's interest in religion. He had won recognition as coproducer of the "Topper" programs and crime series, such as "Counter Spy," "Adventures of the Falcon," and "Mr. and Mrs. North."

* * *

"I hold the distinction of once having hired Jack Webb for a minor role in a radio crime show," said Schubert, a trifle glumly, since Webb later, starring on "Dragnet," probably made more out of crime than anybody, including Jesse James.

"They wanted to show that the clergy did more than perform marriages, baptize children, and deliver funeral orations," said Schubert. "They wanted to show the full role clergymen play in their communities."

Schubert provided the technical know-how to carry out their wishes. At first he feared there might be a shortage of good stories to dramatize.

* * *

"It seems like half the congregations in the coutry think their clergyman is a hero," he said.

* * *

"Not all the stories submitted are usable," Schubert remarked dryly. "One that we turned down, for example, told how a Baptist clergyman finally managed to convert a stubborn Methodist."

* * *

He soon will start distributing the "Crossroad" series to seven foreign countries, ranging from Italy to Australia. Next year he plans to launch a live religious program in which various clergymen will answer the problems of real people.

"I am not a crusader," said Schubert, who is no hyprocrite either. "I merely am trying to present religion in an interesting fashion because that is what people are interested in, and I believe in giving them what they want.

"The interest is particularly keen in young married couples between 28 to 35, among whom the back-to-church resurgence is strongest.

Detroit Abatement Chief Slated for Frisco Post

DETROIT (INS)—Benjamin Linsky, 44, Detroit's smoke abatement chief for the past five years, reportedly will be named director of a similar agency in California.

Linsky was said to have been chosen to head the Bay Area Air Pollution Control district, which takes in six counties in and about San Francisco.

Fire Survivors to Meet

CARO (AP) — Survivors of an 1881 fire which swept the Thumb area have been invited to a reunion sponsored by the Tuscola County Chapter of the American Red Cross. The chapter received its charter 75 years ago following the fire, which provided one of the first major operations for the Red Cross in this area.
