REPEAT OF MAY DISASTER — Firemen pour water on the smouldering wreckage of a Los Angeles Airways helicopter which crashed in a ball of fire in Compton, Calif., yesterday while traveling from Los Angeles International Airport to Disneyland. All 21 persons aboard were killed. A similar crash in May killed 23.

Nixon to Campaign on 2-Day Trip Home

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is expanding his trip home from San Diego into the first political road show of his campaign as Republican presidential nominee. He leaves Sunday.

Nixon plans a two-day journey to New York with a series of public appearances along the route. In addition, he has scheduled party-harmony visits with Govs. George Romney of Michigan, in Lansing, and Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, in Harrisburg.

★ ★ ★

The exact schedule has not been disclosed. But Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's chief spokesman, said the former vice president will appear in Springfield, Ill., on Monday morning.

There will be public appearances in Lansing and Harrisburg, too, Klein said, and probably at one other point on the transcontinental trip.

In San Diego today, Nixon confers with his crime advisory committee, headed by Dist. Atty. Evelle Younger of Los Angeles County. Los Angeles Police Chief Thomas Reddin, who has faced civil disturbances in the Watts district in recent days, is to be among those on hand.

Crime and big city violence are viewed by Nixon strategists as a chief issue in the campaign.

★ ★ ★

Two key congressional Republicans, Sen. George Murphy and Rep. Bob Wilson, talk political plans today with Nixon lieutenants, and confer with the nominee himself tomorrow.

Murphy and Wilson, both Californians, are chairmen of the Senate and House GOP Campaign committees.

TRAVELING ADVISER

In another facet of his party unity campaign, Nixon asked Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky to join him as a traveling adviser. Morton was a key promoter of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's unsuccessful bid for the GOP nomination.

"I said of course I would," Morton reported. "I'm at his command."

The Kentucky senator said he will work to achieve a unified Republican team in every state. He said he anticipates no difficulty in enlisting the support of former Rockefeller men.

Nixon also telephoned four governors who were Rockefeller supporters: John Chafee of Rhode Island, John A. Love of Colorado, Harold LeVander of Minnesota and Dan J. Evans of Washington.

★ ★ ★

Ellsworth said all four pledged enthusiastic support of the ticket.

21 on Copter Die Near Disneyland

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-one persons — many of them looking forward to a Disneyland visit — were killed yesterday in a helicopter crash similar to one that took 23 lives in this area last May.

Among the passengers were a recently retired grandfather, his wife, and 8-year-old granddaughter, the 14-year-old grandson of the airline's president and three Denver businessmen.

The Los Angeles Airway helicopter broke apart and crashed in flames in an empty section of a playground on a flight from Los Angeles International Airport to Disneyland.

It was the second worst commercial helicopter disaster in the United States. The worst, the crash of another twin-turbine Sikorsky S61L copter owned by the Los Angeles firm, occurred at nearby Parmount in May, killing 23.

FLIGHTS SUSPENDED

The company suspended all flights. Witnesses told Federal Aviation Administration investigators they saw a tail rotor fly off, as preceded the May tragedy.

FAA experts began gathering the strewn wreckage to see if a reason for the crash could be determined. Cause of the May 22 disaster still remains a mystery.

★ ★ ★

Aboard the craft that crashed yesterday were a crew of three men and 18 passengers.

The dead included Christopher Belinn, 14, grandson of Clarence Belinn, president of the helicopter line; John P. Meehan, 65, his wife, Helen, 63, and their granddaughter Anne, 8, of San Rafael, Calif.; and businessmen Kenneth J. Atwell, Wes Eldrenkamp, 39, and L. E. Baker, 44, all of Denver. Meehan retired two weeks ago as a San Francisco police captain.

CREW MEMBERS

The crew was identified as Capt. Kenneth L. Waggoner, 33, of Costa Mesa, Calif., the pilot; Frederick Fracker of Redondo Beach, Calif., copilot; and James A. Black, Wilmington, Calif., flight attendant.

Chase Is Fatal; Police Charge 3

Two Pontiac men and a Detroit man were arrested by Detroit police today in connection with the collision of a Detroit police car and a city bus about 2 a.m. The crash resulted in the death of a 28-year-old Detroit patrolman.

Being questioned are Paul Hines, 21, and Willie Davis, 21, both of Pontiac, and Lewis Scott, 22, of Detroit. The three have been identified as occupants of a car being chased by the cruiser when it collided with the bus.

★ ★ ★

Police refused to release addresses for the suspects.

Seven bus passengers and the bus driver were taken to Detroit General Hospital for treatment of injuries received in the accident.

FATHER OF THREE

Killed was Patrolman Rickter Gutowsky, married and the father of three children — one only a few weeks old. Patrolman Michael DeWolfe, who was driving the squad car, was reported in fair condition at Detroit General Hospital.

★ ★ ★

The two policemen were on regular patrol when the car reportedly tried to run them off the road, officers said. Seven police cars then joined in the pursuit.

The cruiser containing Gutowsky and DeWolfe struck the side of the bus at Clinton and McDougall streets. Police said its occupants abandoned the pursued car and were apprehended as they attempted to flee on foot.

★ ★ ★

The three youths were charged with manslaughter. The car reportedly was owned by Davis.

Legislature Nears Windup

2 Vetoed Bills' Revival Likely

LANSING (AP)—A speech by the state American Legion commander and two possible attempts to revive vetoed bills are on tap today for the legislature, which hopes to wind up its 1968 session this week.

In the house, meanwhile, lawmakers who are returning after a three-week recess will greet a new colleague and bid farewell to nine outgoing incumbents.

A speech was scheduled by Wayne Squires of Trenton, state legion commander.

Some senators said they might try to overturn Gov. George Romney's veto of a measure permitting take-out sale of alcoholic beverages within 500 feet of a school or church.

In the House, suburban backers of a measure giving local government officials emergency powers to deal with actual or threatened riots were expected to make a second attempt to overturn Romney's veto of the measure.

Supporters of the riot bill, who claim endorsement from more than 40 communities for their efforts, fell 13 votes short of the needed two-thirds majority last month and vowed to try again.

★ ★ ★

Also before lawmakers is a bill authorizing court-ordered electronic surveillance, such as wiretapping, by police authorities. The measure, once rejected by the House, is in a second House-Senate conference committee.

Legislative leaders hoped to finish the bulk of their work today and bring down the curtain on the 1968 session at noon Friday. That would end their deliberations for the year unless Romney called them back into special session.

★ ★ ★

A new face when the House convenes will be Republican Ray C. Mittan of Benton Harbor, winner Aug. 6 of a special election to fill a vacant seat in the 44th district, parts of Cass and Berrien counties.

Mittan, however, cannot be sworn in as a legislator until after his victory is certified by the Board of State Canvassers next week.

★ ★ ★

Bowing out as legislators, meanwhile, will be six Republicans who are retiring and three Democrats who were defeated in the Aug. 6 primary.

'Picks for Court Hurt by Nixon'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican bloc in the Senate thinks Richard M. Nixon's selection to head the GOP ticket struck a severe blow to President Johnson's Supreme Court nominations.

Basis for this is the belief that Nixon's selection blunted support of the nominations by Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen and other leading GOP senators.

★ ★ ★

Nixon has declared his opposition to letting Johnson make the nominations.

One member of the opposition bloc said in a series of telephone interviews yesterday that Republican support "can be expected to go underground" when Congress reconvenes next month.

QUESTION POSED

"Would Everett Dirksen be willing to lead the fight against his own party's nominee," said another source.

Dirksen was outspoken in his support last month of Johnson's nominations of Abe Fortas to succeed Earl Warren as chief justice and Homer Thornberry to become an associate justice.

★ ★ ★

During one session of the Senate Judiciary Committee he criticized the term "lame duck" being applied to Johnson as "entirely improper and offensive."

And he strongly took to task Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan who heads the opposition forces.

14 Fly From Cuba in Russian Plane

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Fourteen refugees fled Cuba today in a yellow, Russian-made cargo plane the pilot said skimmed the waters of the Florida Straits to avoid radar detection.

"The pilot told me he came close to touching the waves more than once," said Rudolph Wanderon, Dade County Port Authority supervisor at Homestead Airport.

Some of the Cubans were armed, he said.

He said the single-engine biplane landed at the airport, 25 miles south of Miami, shortly after 9 a.m.

"The people aboard immediately asked asylum," Wanderon said.

Rain Likely Late Tonight

It looks like Pontiac's sunny skies will become overcast tonight. Showers may be expected late tonight, the weatherman says.

Temperatures will register a low of 55 to 60 during the night and climb into the 80s tomorrow with a chance of showers and thundershowers.

★ ★ ★

The outlook for Saturday includes a chance of showers and warm.

Morning winds, light and variable, will become southeasterly at eight to 16 miles per hour this afternoon and eight to 18 miles tonight.

★ ★ ★

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are 30 tonight and 50 tomorrow.

A mild 56 was the low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The 2 p.m. mercury reading was 76.

Meaning of Viet War Lull Still Is Mystery to U.S.

PARIS (AP) — U.S. efforts to find out in some official way whether the lull in Communist attacks in South Vietnam is intended by North Vietnam as a peace gesture apparently have bogged down.

American officials at the Paris peace talks say that as far as they are concerned the question is still open. But they now put major emphasis on their contention that North Vietnam is preparing for an offensive by pouring troops and military supplies into the South at a high rate.

"The disposition of the North Vietnamese forces indicates that major military attacks are in preparation," U.S. spokesman William J. Jorden told a news conference yesterday after the weekly session of the talks.

"If North Vietnam wished to convey to us some meaning (about the purpose of the lull), they could do so readily, directly or indirectly, and so far we have had no indication whatsoever."

Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman, declined to be drawn into discussion of the issue. When he was asked whether it came up in the 22-minute coffee break yesterday, he said he only had time to drink tea. To another query on the same subject he said: "The United States continues to intensify the war in Vietnam."

Le at his news conference kept hammering at the point that "we are going to keep insisting" that the United States must stop bombing and "all other acts of war" against the territory of North Vietnam before anything else can be accomplished in the Paris talks.

Frisk Law OK'd by Sylvan Lake

One of North Oakland County's first stop-and-frisk laws was unanimously passed by the Sylvan Lake City Council last night.

The ordinance, similar to one passed in Detroit, authorizes the city's policemen to stop and frisk a person they suspect is committing, is about to commit or has committed a serious crime, according to City Manager Leroy Trafton.

★ ★ ★

He said the law was passed as "part of a program to support the police department."

In other business, the council approved an agreement to set up a volunteer fire department to serve the cities of Sylvan Lake, Orchard Lake Village and Keego Harbor.

All three cities are now being served by the West Bloomfield Township Fire Department.

Sylvan Lake was the first of the three cities to approve the agreement.

News Flash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said today the United States will not cut back the bombing of North Vietnam until the administration can work out some arrangement with the North Vietnamese which would protect American servicemen near enemy territory.

CAMPAIGNING IN HARLEM — Vice President Hubert Humphrey campaigns on a Harlem street yesterday with former baseball great Jackie Robinson. Robinson, a former aide to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, threw his support to Humphrey. He labeled the Nixon-Agnew Republican ticket "racist."

Longer Surtax Seen as Likely

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — The temporary 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes levied this year by Congress won't be temporary unless the Vietnam war ends, says the chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D.-Ark., predicted yesterday all or part of the surcharge may be extended through fiscal 1970, which begins July 1, 1969, if the war continues.

Mills said if the war does not end, the budget submitted by the new president would be about the same as that for fiscal 1969.

"If that's the case," Mills observed, "then the question has to arise whether or not there will be sufficient revenues without continuing the 10 per cent surcharge to hold out deficit within reasonable levels or will it be necessary to ask Congress for a continuation of the 10 per cent surcharge."

CONTINUATION LIKELY

Even if the war ends, Mills said, the new president might still have to ask for a continuation of the tax.

Mills warned, however, that Congress might not look favorably on a renewal of the surcharge unless the administration cuts expenditures.

Skyways' Traffic Jam Has Begun to Ease Off

NEW YORK (AP) — Airport officials around the country generally report flight delays have been eased with the notable exception of some flights to and from Chicago and New York.

The congestion which had been especially heavy at Kennedy Airport began to clear this week due to a combination of excellent weather, some flight rescheduling and an apparent let-up of a flight controllers' campaign.

★ ★ ★

"The situation has become a lot better than a couple of weeks ago," one airline dispatcher at Kennedy said. Most officials contacted in a nationwide Associated Press survey agreed.

Few reported any locally caused flight delays but some said arrivals from New York and Chicago were up to several hours late at times and departures for the same points were sometimes held up awaiting route clearances.

'FOLLOW THE BOOK'

Skies over Kennedy Airport began to get crowded in early July after an air traffic controllers' organization announced that it was going to "follow the book" and strictly enforce Federal Aviation Administration safety rules.

Declaring that its men were overworked but that it intended "to protect the public against unnecessary air hazards," the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization said it would carefully observe regulations that set minimum separation time between planes.

In the past, the rules had been bent from time to time during heavy congestion.

The safety campaign was nationwide, but its greatest impact was felt at Kennedy, where congestion delayed some flights as long as six hours.

EFFECTS FELT

Other airports began to feel the effects of the congestion at Kennedy as planes circled in the skies waiting to enter New York's traffic pattern.

This week, the situation began to improve.

Two GOP District Confabs Keynote Need for Unity

Unity was the key word last night as the Republican party of Oakland County met in two congressional district conventions.

The 18th District met at Southfield High School and elected 110 delegates and 110 alternates to the state convention, scheduled Aug. 23 and 24 in Grand Rapids.

The convention will nominate as candidates for the Nov. 5 general election one Supreme Court Justice, two members of the board of education, and two board members each for Wayne State University, the University of Michigan and Michigan State University.

District Chairman Jack Gibbs was elected permanent convention chairman.

UNITY PLEA

County Chairman Joseph Farnum, in a speech to the delegates, called for a united effort behind candidates selected in the Aug. 6 primary.

The unity plea was in reference to the disbanding recently of the dissident Republican Executive Committee, which split with the regular GOP committee in January of 1967.

Chairman John Cartwright told delegates at the 19th district confab he was "delighted with the spirit of unity pervading the convention and particularly happy to welcome some of the people who have been away for awhile."

Cartwright was named permanent chairman of the convention. Elected were 57 delegates and 57 alternates to the state convention.

★ ★ ★

The Democrats' county-district convention is slated for 8 p.m. at the courthouse Supervisors' Auditorium.

Pueblo's Captain Appeals for Help

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea said today the 82 crewmen of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo have issued a second joint appeal for help to obtain their release.

The North Korean Central News Agency said the ship's captain, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher of Lincoln, Neb., issued the appeal Tuesday at a news conference.

The Pueblo's crew has been in captivity since Jan. 23, when the North Koreans seized the ship off Wonsan, a North Korean port. North Korea claimed the Pueblo violated its territorial waters and said the crew would be released after the United States apologizes and promises to guard against such incidents.

★ ★ ★

The North Korean agency said Bucher explained the crew requested the news conference to "appeal to the people of the United States to urge our government to take appropriate action to enable us to return home."

Thief Sentenced in DeConick Case

A 40-year-old Pontiac man was sentenced yesterday to 20-to-40 years in prison for conspiring to rob a West Bloomfield Township trustee who was murdered during a robbery at his home more than a year ago.

Milton Pratt of 556 Bloomfield, found guilty of the charge July 17, was sentenced by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Clark J. Adams.

Pratt was convicted of plotting the armed robbery of Edward E. DeConick with alleged coconspirator Milton Moss, also of Pontiac, on June 23, 1967.

That scheme was never carried out, but DeConick, 63, was killed and his sister Kathelen, 73, was seriously wounded when on July 3 three men and a woman forced their way into the DeConick home at 5847 Maple.

★ ★ ★

That case, in which $25,000 was reportedly stolen, has never been solved. Moss was not charged.

Nigerian Troops Near Biafran HQ

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigerian troops advanced today on the temporary Biafran capital of Aba with both prongs of a pincers movement reported making progress toward the secessionist headquarters.

A high officer said a commando column led by Col. Benjamin Adekunle had crossed the Imo River 15 miles south of Aba and occupied Akwete, a settlement on the northern bank.

The lead column of the other pincer was was believed across the river at the Imo railway station, 22 miles from the city.

The drive appeared aimed at bringing the 13-month-old secession of eastern Nigeria's Ibo tribesmen to a quick military end. But the Biafran leader, Lt. Col. Odumegwu, Ojukwu, has pledged that his people will retreat into the bush and wage guerrilla warfare.

★ ★ ★

An estimated 6,000 troops from Nigeria's 3rd Marine Division were reported committed to the attack on Aba. The city some 40 miles inland is the largest of the three major towns still in rebel hands.

Ojukwu's secessionist army now holds only about one third of the 29,000 square miles he proclaimed independent in May 1967.

Officials Hope Bomb Reward Gives Results

Pontiac Police and fire officials have reacted favorably to the city commission's offer of rewards of up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest of persons responsible for recent fire bombings and a rock-throwing attack on firemen.

The commission action came Tuesday night at the request of City Manager Joseph A. Warren, who told commissioners that 13 fire bombing incidents have occurred in the city this year.

In addition, he cited an apparently planned rock attack on a fire company at a false alarm at a dead-end street.

Fire Chief Charles Marion praised the reward offer, adding that "the entire department is hopeful that this thing will be cleared up."

He said he thought the action would bring forth some information.

Fire Marshal Charles Metz called the move "a step in the right direction."

Lt. John DePauw, second-in-command of city detectives, said he believes "anything leading to information on these acts would be beneficial."

He said the reward offer should help.

'MORE OPTIMISTIC'

Detective Billy Irwin, one of several investigators looking into the series of incidents, said the offer made him "more optimistic about the chance to arrest the persons responsible."

Sgt. Herbert C. Cooley, president of the Pontiac Police Officers Association, expressed gratitude on behalf of the PPOA for commission support of the police investigation.

HHH on Bombing Halt

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said today that if an end of the bombing of North Vietnam can aid the peace negotiations in Paris "then that helps protect" the 500,000 Americans in Vietnam.

Humphrey said there is now an argument going on inside the U.S. Government as to whether a lull in the fighting is a signal from Hanoi that the Nroth Vietnamese are trying to de-escalate their side of the war.

Play Opens Tomorrow at Groves High

BIRMINGHAM — Three months of work by 20 Seaholm High School students will be culminated when they present the drama "A Visit to a Small Planet," by Gore Vidal in four performances in the next five days.

The light-hearted science fiction play about a spaceman who lands in Maryland will be presented at 8 p.m. tomorrow, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday at the Little Theatre of Groves High School, 20500 W. 13 Mile.

The program was originally scheduled for the Seaholm Little Theatre, but construction projects there necessitated the last-minute change.

The students organized before school was out in June and named themselves the Seaholm Summer Drama Group. "This is the first time anything like this has been done in the summer," said Kim June, a senior at Seaholm who has a part in the play in addition to her publicity duties.

A PLAY PER SUMMER

"We want to get the ball rolling this summer," she said, "so the group can continue and present at least one play every summer."

Miss June pointed out that tickets are priced at 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students, with all profits going to Birmingham's Child Research Center.

★ ★ ★

The project is run entirely by students. Set design and building, costumes, acting, directing and other technical details are being handled by youths who are students at Seaholm or who graduated in June.

The organizer and mainstay of the group is Rick LaDue of 242 N. Glengarry, a June graduate of Seaholm.

HAS LEAD IN PLAY

He has the lead in the play and is also its producer-director.

★ ★ ★

After he arrives in Maryland Kreton announces he is going to take over the earth and his extraordinary powers make it look like he might do it.

The entire cast and crew are looking forward to the play's debut in Birmingham and are hoping that citizens will give their support by attending one of the four shows. Tickets will be available at the door and are also being sold at Grinnell's in downtown Birmingham.

Livernois Apartment Plan Denied

County Rejects Avon Rezoning Plea

County officials, at a meeting yesterday, denied approval of a controversial zoning change for a 27-acre site on Livernois in Avon Township.

The five-member coordinating zoning committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors would not okay a request from Troy developer Samuel Frankel to rezone the parcel from single family to multiple family residential.

* * *

The site, on the west side of Livernois south of Walton, is directly behind Rochester High School. Frankel, the owner of the land, wants the zoning changed so he can construct a 268-unit apartment complex.

The committee does not have official jurisdiction in zoning matters, but only gives its opinion on proposed changes in regards to countywide conformity. Its opinion, along with that of township zoning boards is referred to township boards the only bodies with official power to change zoning laws.

SINGLE-FAMILY FAVORED

The county committee, chaired by Elbert M. Wilmot of Pontiac, felt the land could best be used if developed as single-family residential property.

Frankel, in his 45-minute presentation with attorney Norman Hyman and architect Bernard Remer, maintained that it was financially impossible to construct homes on the site.

* * *

In denying the request the committee concurred with the opinion of the Avon Township Planning Board, which disapproved the plan in 1966 and again this year.

The plan was also protested by residents of Rockdale Subdivision, a group of homes west of the proposed development.

ELEVATION DROP

Frankel said that a subdivision of homes would be difficult to built because of a 35-foot drop in elevation from the front to the back of the site. He said much grading of the land would be required and many of the trees would be destroyed.

According to Frankel, the apartment buildings, each containing 12 to 16 one or two-bedroom apartments, would make use of the natural beauty of the site and not require substantial grading or tree removal.

He also said that the site's proximity to the Rochester Community Schools bus depot would make it undesirable for private homes.

Committee members were impressed with Frankel's presentation for the proposed development. "It's apparent that he really did his homework," said Mrs. Jean McDonnell, a member of the Board of Supervisors from Southfield.

EXPERTS OPPOSED

"But I voted against it because the experts were against it," she said. She was referring to the Avon Township Planning Board which, in making its decision, employed the planning consultant firm of Vilican and Lehman.

"They disapproved of the request twice," she said.

Troy Mayor Jule Famularo, another committee member, said he had seen the apartment work Frankel has done in his own city. "I have no doubt that Mr. Fraukel builds as good an apartment complex as anyone in the area," he said.

In other action, the committee approved three proposed zoning changes in Farmington Township and a new zoning ordinance in Rose Township.

NURSING HOME

In Farmington Township the committee approved the rezoning of a 10-acre site for construction of a nursing home. The site, on the north side of 12 Mile between Farmington and Orchard Lake roads, already is site of the Kendalview nursing home, which was built before existing zoning laws were in effect. Owners of the home want to build a new one there and want the zoning changed from multiple to special purpose so they conform to the zoning regulations.

The Committee also approved the change of a 12-acre parcel on the east side of Farmington Road north of 12 Mile from residential to special purpose. The land is owned by the Farmington YMCA and officials there want the change so they can construct a Y activity center there.

The final Farmington Township change approved was a two acre site bounded by 9 Mile, Middlebelt and Shiawassee. The proposed change is from light industrial to general business so a small shopping center and gas station can be constructed on the site.

The committee also gave its approval to a new zoning ordinance prepared by the Rose Township Planning Board. The lengthy ordinance, which will go before the Township Board for its approval, contains five classifications.

Commerce Township Incorporation Bid at Least Six Months From Final Vote

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Final action on two petitions to incorporate part or all of Commerce Township as a city may have to wait until 1969.

The petitions are filed with the Oakland county clerk-register waiting for further action by the board of supervisors boundaries committee.

* * *

The five-man committee tabled a petition, filed May 13 by the Citizens Committee of Wolverine Lake Village, for incorporation of part of Commerce Township and Wolverine Lake Village as a city, pending the opinion of the county's corporation counsel.

The attorney will rule on the validity of the petition to see if the required signatures of 1 per cent of Commerce Township's residents are present.

ANOTHER PETITION

Presently awaiting a decision by the boundary committee is a another petition, for incorporation of all of Commerce Township and the Village of Wolverine Lake as a home rule city.

The second petition, circulated by some Commerce Township associations last month at the recommendation of the Township board, was filed with the county clerk July 19.

* * *

The $500 filing fee was paid by contributions from individuals, subdivision associations, members of the Commerce Township board and members of the volunteer fire department, said Robert H. Long, township supervisor.

No action can be taken on the second petition until a special election is held on the May 13 petition, if declared valid.

90-DAY TIME ELEMENT

According to a spokesman from the county clerk's office a special election cannot be held within 90 days of a regularly scheduled election, so a special election could not be held until probably February, 1969.

At the same time the July 19 petition was filed, Long said a petition asking for a census to see if the township has the required minimum of 500 people per square mile necessary for incorporation was also filed.

* * *

He said there is a lot of interest among area residents in the incorporation because of the recent action by Walled Lake City and Wolverine Lake Village to annex parts of Commerce Township.

The move by Walled Lake to annex about 10 square miles of the township was turned down by 85 per cent of the voters in an election Jan. 16, Long said.

KEEPING INTACT

Long said he favors incorporation of the whole township as a home-rule city because it will keep the area intact, avoiding a breakdown of services. In the long run it will benefit area residents, he said.

He added a footnote: If an act recently passed by the state legislature to form a State Boundaries Commission becomes effective before the county boundaries committee takes action, the petitions will be turned over to the state.

Oxford Schools to Ask for 2.5 Operating Mills

OXFORD — The Oxford Area Community Schools Board of Education is in the process of preparing for a special election Sept. 9 asking for 2.5 operational mills.

The request was reduced to 2.5 from 6 mills when voters turned down the larger amount June 10.

* * *

The tax payer will pay an additional $2.50 per $1,000 assessed value per year for schools if the millage proposal is approved.

Supt. Roger Oberg explained that though the mills would be used for overall operational expenses, the new teacher contracts would play an important roll in their distribution.

"Right now we are operating on a balanced budget, but after the contracts are finally approved we might run a little short," Oberg said.

At a recent meeting the board accepted the recomendation of the negotiating team that the new teachers' contracts be approved pending final ratification by the Oxford Education Association.

The new contracts call for a B.A. Starting salary of $6,750 and a B.A. maximum pay of $10,613. The M.A. starting salary would be $7,250 with a maximum of $11,521.

Last year's starting B.A. salary was approximately $6,200 and the starting M.A. salary was about $6,800.

EMERGENCIES

Oberg also pointed out an unexpected emergency expenditure of $4,000 to $5,000 will cut into the budget.

He explained that radiant heat at Lakeville Elementary School have corroded and must be replaced.

The radiant heat will be replaced with fin radiation — the most inexpensive replacement — Oberg said.

The board has authorized Oberg to apply to the state board of education to borrow $125,000 in operational money.

DELAYED ACTION

The board also delayed action on student fees until they receive word on student prices for textbooks.

"This should come in about two weeks," said Oberg. "I'm doubtful that there will be much of a change."

A public hearing on the budget will be held Aug. 27. The board will also review and take action on construction bids for the new junior high school to be located on Lakeville one mile east of Oxford.

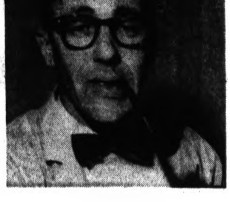
In other action the board approved the appointment of Mrs. Josephine Meads as teacher-principal of Lakeville School replacing Mrs. Kay Gillam who has retired.

Dean Best was appointed teacher-principal of Leonard School replacing Ted Hendrickson who left in favor of a full-time administrative post according to Oberg.

SCHOOL CALENDAR

The 1968-69 school calendar was also adopted by the board. Teachers will return Sept. 3. Orientation and a half-day session will be Sept. 4.

The calendar calls for teachers' institute Oct. 24 and 25, a two week Christmas vacation, and conclusion on June 13.



RICHARD BEER

Orion Township Loses Key Aide to College Study

ORION TOWNSHIP — The Orion Township Board has accepted with regret the resignation of Richard Beer chairman of the planning commission and the appeal board.

Beer, 37, is leaving the posts in order to complete studies at Wayne State University for his Master of Library Science degree.

He is the Oakland County Law Librarian.

A victim of cerebral palsy, Beer was forced to drop law studies in 1958 because of the school's unwillingness to let him bring tape recorders to class.

LAUNCHED STUDIES

He launched his master's degree studies last September with the help of a cartridge-type tape recorder.

The resignation will be effective Oct. 9.

In other action at its recent meeting the township board passed an ordinance controlling the use to topsoil, sand, gravel, and other fillings.

The ordinance covers application, review procedures, posting of bonds for removal, depositing, or dumping of materials. It most directly effects landfills and excavations, according to Township Clerk Margaret Stephen.

PAVING CONTRACT

The board also awarded a contract for paving the township library driveway and parking lot.

The $2,610 contract went to A and A Asphalt Co. of Birmingham.

* * *

The board also authorized the County Road Commission to gravel nearly a mile of Waldon west of Baldwin.

The board asked the county to post speed limit signs on Joslyn north of Clarkston to Heights.

Rochester Schools to Start Book Sales

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Community Schools have announced the opening of their bookstores for students wishing to obtain books prior to the schools' opening.

In addition to being open Aug. 26-30, bookstores will be open Sept. 3 and the first week of school for those unable to buy books the previous week.

* * *

Hours are 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Central and West Junior High seventh grade students may pick up books Aug. 26, Aug. 27 is for eighth grade students while Aug. 28 is for ninth graders. All junior high students may obtain their books Aug. 30.

STUDENT'S NAME

Rochester Senior High bookstore hours run according to the first letter of the student's last name.

Tenth graders go at different times Aug. 26 and 27. Aug. 28 and the morning of Aug. 29 is for eleventh grade students while the afternoon of Aug. 29 and Aug. 30 is for seniors.

* * *

Sept. 4 is orientation day for sophomores and all junior and senior transfer students. All classes begin Sept. 5.

4-H Fair Crowds Were Big, Happy

County 4-H Fair Is Hailed as 'Another Crowd-Pleaser'

The Oakland County 4-H Fair which ended Saturday was another crowd-pleaser, according to Extension Youth Agent Richard Brown, director of the week-long activities.

"From all the indications we have," he said, "it looks like this year's fair about equaled last year's attendance record of 50,000."

* * *

"If it hadn't been for the rain that fell during three days of the fair, I know we would have broken last year's record," Brown said.

He pointed out that overall, the festivities this year were better than the 4-H fair last year. "Things went a lot smoother this year," he commented, "and I think the credit for that should go to the 350 volunteer adult workers who were the ones really responsible for making it a success."

RECEIPTS SHOW CROWD

Brown said that fair receipts for concessions and parking indicated that about 50,000 people were on hand for the activities that ran from Tuesday to Saturday last week.

Thursday night's livestock sale was the best ever in the county, Brown said. "The prices received for livestock were the highest ever," he added. Average price for steers was about 45 cents per pound while the grand champion lamb and pig brought $1.50 per pound, according to Brown.

* * *

The largest crowd appeared for activities Wednesday night, which included a freckle contest, hog-calling contest, pie-eating contest and fireworks, he said.

Asked if any changes were contemplated for next year, the 4-H director said no, "but we're going to have to order more pies for the pie-eating contest. We had five dozen ready for the contest, but when it was time to start there were 150 kids waiting to enter."

State Teen Pleads Innocent to Murder

MIDDLEBORO, Mass. (UPI) — One of two Beverly Hills teen-agers, each the son of a business executive, pleaded innocent yesterday when arraigned on a murder charge in the fatal stabbing of a Boston College senior. The other youth entered no plea.

Judge James Bento, who presided at the arraignment of Craig Simoni, 16, and Ross G. Witthoeft, 17, ordered them held without bail. He continued the case to Aug. 28.

* * *

Witthoeft pleaded innocent to charges of murder and assault with intent to commit murder. Simoni entered no plea to a charge of delinquency by reason of murder.

The youths were returned from Chicago Tuesday night in the custody of detectives. They were arrested Monday and authorities said they were driving the dead student's car.

* * *

The body of Robert Phelps Jr., 21, of Wethersfield, Conn., was found early Aug. 8 alongside a rest area on Route 25 in Minddleboro. An autopsy showed he had been stabbed 32 times, a medical examiner said.

Lake Orion Votes Monday

Voters in this community will decide on a 3.5-mill request from the Lake Orion Community School District Monday.

The 3.5 mills for five years would mean the taxpayers will pay an additional $3.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation as equalized.

* * *

"For example," said Supt. Lewis Mundy, "an owner of a house of $10,000 valuation pays a $35 increase in taxes for the coming year."

The additional revenue is needed because "over the past two years state aid has not kept pace with the schools' growing budget," said Mundy.

WAGE HIKES

He explained that the increase is primarily due to the general increase in employes' wages and increased operating costs.

Because of the growing population the system is hiring eight new teachers — six at the elementary level and two at the junior high level — who will be housed in temporary relocatable classrooms.

Voters on June 10 turned down an identical millage proposal in addition to a $4.5-million construction issue and $600,000 for a new swimming pool.

TV Station Busy Installing Equipment

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The installation of broadcasting equipment is continuing for a new Ultra-High Frequency (UHF) television station, Channel 62, located "in the wilderness" at 14 Mile and Decker, said Ron St. Charles, program director.

* * *

A 790-foot broadcasting tower will be set up at WXON-TV within the next two weeks, he said.

The station's request for a license to operate has been approved by both the Federal Communications Commission and the Federal Aviation Association. The reason FAA approval is needed is to insure that the tower does not interfere with flight schedule operations.

St. Charles noted that the height of the tower forced the station to choose the remote site for operation.

STARTS IN SEPTEMBER

Programming is scheduled to begin the first part of September for the UHF station, which was issued the last operating permit for the Detroit area.

St. Charles said programs will not begin until the afternoon, and shows at that time are to be geared to children. For example there will be a puppet show including cartoons broadcast from the studio, he said.

The evening schedule will feature movies dating back no earlier than 1950, he added.

St. Charles explained that more than 70 per cent of the sets in the area are equipped to receive Channel 62 because a 1964 FCC ruling made it mandatory to include UHF stations on all sets manufactured after that date.

He said that eventually UHF stations will have a potential viewing audience equal to any other TV station.

Circus 'Wife' Makes Claim

Millionaire's Will Contested

DETROIT (AP) — "I am unmarried and I am not the father of any child or children," wrote socialite, sportsman and industrialist Theodore D. Buhl in his will, which left an estate estimated in excess of $10 million.

Marian Siefert, a blonde, pony-tailed one-time circus horse rider from Sarasota, Fla., takes exception.

* * *

Miss Siefert says she considers herself to have been married to Buhl when he died of a heart attack at the age of 65 in her home last June 8.

No claim on the estate and no other allegation is made in a letter filed by Miss Siefert's attorney, John H. Keane of Sarasota, with the Wayne County (Detroit) Probate Court.

Miss Siefert, whom friends describe as an attractive woman in her early 40s, was hired several years ago to work in Buhl's thoroughbred racing stables after losing her job with Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Miss Siefert and Mrs. Patricia Ready brought the body from Florida to the Buhl home in the wealthy Detroit suburb of Grosse Pointe Farms, where, according to friends, they are told they would be unwelcome at the funeral.

* * *

Miss Siefert and Mrs. Ready, also a one-time circus performer and a Buhl employe, each received $40,000, with taxes to be paid from the estate, according to the terms of the will.

Additionally, Thomas Bull, identified as Miss Siefert's son, is bequeathed $3,500 a year for each year he goes to grade school and $5,000 a year for four years should he decide to go to college.

'WOULD BE FOOLISH'

"She'd be very foolish to try to press her claim," said John C. MacKenzie, Buhl's general business manager and secretary for 31 years. MacKenzie stands to get the largest single cash bequest under the will—$200,000.

Asked if Miss Siefert and Buhl ever had lived together as man and wife, MacKenzie replied:

"No, no. They never lived together alone at any time."

The claim by Miss Siefert has "absolutely no legal standing whatsoever," MacKenzie said.

Buhl's wife, Anastasia Reilly Buhl, a former Ziegfield Follies showgirl, died in 1961. The Buhls were married in 1921 after a six - year romance. The couple had no children.

Buhl, a circus buff, went to Yale with John Ringling North, chief shareholder in the Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus.

"He was like one of the immediate circus family," said Pat Valdo, the Ringling Bros. personnel director. "He was welcomed to winter training headquarters with open arms. He was particularly interested in all the horse acts."

Of Miss Siefert's relationship with Buhl, Valdo said:

"I knew they lived together in Sarasota, but I never asked if they were married."

State Buys Land Without Hitches

LANSING (UPI) — So far the state has bought 37 out of 75 acres for a new Capitol and state office complex without any hitches, although it does have a standing Ingham Circuit Court date Dec. 2 in case it does run into trouble.

* * *

With three hundred parcels of downtown land involved in the total acquisition, already 175 have been bought by the state through the executive office's building division.

Homicide Leads Detroit Crime Surge

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit recorded 220 homicides during the first seven months of 1968, up 60 from the first seven months of 1967 which included the devastating riot in which 43 persons died.

* * *

The 37.5 per cent increase in homicides was part of an overall increase in serious crimes in Michigan's largest city during the first seven months of the year reported Wednesday by Johannes Spreen, commissioner of police.

* * *

Rapes in Detroit numbered 504, compared with 425 in the like period of 1967, and auto thefts were up 31.8 per cent—10,421 compared with 7,908.

* * *

Much of the increase could be directly attributed to the increasing percentage of youths in the population, Spreen said.

* * *

"The population is getting younger," he said. "Younger people account for much of our crime.

* * *

"I'm sure the 1970 census will show at least half the country is under 25," the newly named commissioner said. "This is the age group in which most crime is committed."

Got Their Licks

MILTON-FREEWATER, Ore. (AP) — A food store complained to police that small children were not only taking lollipops but "licking some of them and putting them back."

Only 64 days of the year fail to receive legal recognition as a day off from work somewhere in the world.

Outstanding Fair Is Staged by 4-H

This year's edition of the annual Oakland County 4-H Fair reflected gratifying progress in many areas.

Not only were the clubs involved up 31 per cent over last year and the participating membership 20 per cent, but the week-long attendance was healthy, despite rain. Also, a new high was set for receipts in the livestock auction, which passed the $10,000 mark. All told, 3,000 different exhibits were displayed.

★ ★ ★

This activity of the County's Agriculture Cooperative Extension Service has functioned for more than half a century, and embraces 30-35 project areas for boys and girls in the 9 to19 age range.

As customary, the Fair opened with a Monday parade and closed with the climactic Grand Champions horse selections.

Although the 4-H (Head, Heart, Hand, Health) program is professionally administered, unstinted praise is due the 304 adult volunteer workers who lent their time, talent and leadership to development of the various interests of the teen-agers.

★ ★ ★

The Press warmly salutes the many whose enthusiasm and hard work made possible the outstanding event of last week.

Heavy Toll Road!

Political "Ins" and "Outs" Square Off for Election

The Republicans went home from Miami Beach with the unity Richard Nixon promised he would do nothing to jeopardize in his choice of a running mate. The task they and he now face is the far more difficult one of transforming party unity into party appeal to the voters.

Granting them their apparent minority base of the Nation's registered voters, they must do no less than convince a substantial number of the remainder of the electorate — Democrats and independents — that they have the answers to the problems the Nation faces today and will face in the coming four years.

By the nature of things, the party out of power has to emphasize the sins and failings of the incumbent administration. The party in power must of necessity defend its record. Both, of course, are never short on promises of how they will do better in the future.

Thus it may be not so much what the Republicans promise to do as what the Democrats can be charged with failing to do that will sway the decision of many voters.

Yet Nixon cannot rely on the protest vote alone. Thomas E. Dewey remains the classic example of what can happen to a candidate when he bases his strategy on the belief that the people are so fed up with one administration that they will turn willy-nilly to another.

★ ★ ★

Nixon, the man who made it back the hard way, knows all this. Above all, he knows that all-important body of independents and nominal Democrats, who hold the election in the balance, will be listening to him to hear not just what the Democrats have done wrong, but to hear — in specific terms — just what the Republicans intend to do right.

★ ★ ★

The gauntlet is down. It is now the turn of the Democrats to pick it up as they prepare to convene in Chicago.

Antiwar Factions Silent on Vietcong Cruelties

Buried in a recent dispatch from Vietnam was the report that "Vietcong guerrillas sprayed a nausea-type gas around a government outpost in the Mekong Delta . . . South Vietnamese soldiers, four of them vomiting blood and many others nauseated, beat off the attack . . ."

It is interesting that this news item brought little or no reaction at all from those who have decried our use of defoliation chemicals, tear gas and napalm.

Come to think of it, little has been said about our use of chemical weapons in the war since it was revealed the Vietcong have been using flame throwers, which they seem to find especially useful in wiping out communities of innocent villagers.

★ ★ ★

In fact, the whole antiwar movement here, seems to have lost some of its spark since the Vietcong have continued their push with such tactics while the leaders on both sides are trying to negotiate a peace settlement in Paris.

Soviet Leaders Stirring Up Spy Scare

By William Ryan
AP Special Correspondent

Stalinist habits, evidently durable among Soviet leaders, are emerging once again after the Soviet-Czechoslovak showdown. For Soviet citizens there is a chill in the air, reminiscent of cold war.

The palpable defeat of a Soviet effort to make reform-minded Czechoslovaks bend to Kremlin will seems to have provoked Communist party worries about its internal impact.

The Kremlin's somber mood and its fright at what Czechoslovakia might mean in the future come through in the latest issue of Kommunist, the Soviet theoretical journal, to reach this country. An article, apparently written for the edification of the Soviet Communists themselves rather than for anybody abroad, deals with "Vigilance — Weapon Against the Intrigues of Imperialism." It pictures Soviet citizens in danger from spies and provocateurs lurking everywhere, ready to pounce on the unwary and use them to undermine the system.

Soviet spy scares have been familiar fixtures through the cold war years. Each "vigilance" campaign has reflected Politburo worries on the home front. Clearly the current campaign is linked with Czechoslovak events. Referring to a bloc meeting on Czechoslovakia, the article said it "underscored the necessity of strengthening by all means the unity of parties and peoples" to protect the ramparts of Marxism-Leninism.

MASQUERADERS

Kommunist warned against "ideological saboteurs" who were said to masquerade as "members of delegations, tourists, people traveling in our country on private business" and the like who, often, in reality, were out to propagandize the Western way of life. Such people, it said, can use international connections as "channels for infiltration into the U.S.S.R. of antiSoviet and other hostile materials."

It pointed out that in recent years, Soviet contacts with the West expanded greatly, that many Soviet people now go abroad in various capacities: to conferences, to sport competitions, with tourists or theatrical groups. Foreign intelligence agents, notably Americans and West Germans, seek out Soviet citizens, it said, trying to play on human weakness and pry out state secrets, or enlist the unwary for ideological warfare.

Today, the article instructed, the party must consider as one of its most important tasks a struggle against "ideological saboteurs," because "in the sphere of ideology there cannot be peaceful coexistence, as there cannot be class peace between the proletariat and the bourgeoisie." It added that "the security of the fatherland and the interests of the Soviet people constantly demand revolutionary vigilance."

In 1949 and again in 1952, when Joseph Stalin was planning new purges, Soviet propaganda dwelt heavily on the theme of vigilance to thwart spies. The theme was repeated in 1954-55, just before Georgi M. Malenkov was fired as premier. It popped up again just before the 20th Communist party congress in 1956, when Nikita S. Khrushchev denounced the Stalin legend. Again it was in evidence in 1957, before Khrushchev beat off a Politburo attempt to depose him.

★ ★ ★

An outstanding example of the spy scare came in 1964 at a time when, in the words of the Italian Communist newspaper L'Unita, Khrushchev was "living a delicate political moment." The spy scare preceded his overthrow.

David Lawrence Says:

Sen. Morton Tells It Like It Is

WASHINGTON—Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., former chairman of the Republican National Committee and recently preconvention manager of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's campaign, was on the CBS television network from 11:30 to noon last Sunday, a time slot which does not provide for maximum viewing. So a large number of persons probably did not have a chance to get what might be called a professional analysis of the nomination of the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

LAWRENCE

Examining the verbatim transcript afterwards, this correspondent found several things of interest.

★ ★ ★

The Kentucky senator declared that the presidential nominee has the right to select the vice presidential candidate.

In answer to a question as to what part the southern bloc played in picking the vice presidential nominee, Morton said that he thought the two persons who really held the South together for Nixon were Sens. John Tower of Texas and Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee.

'NOT OBJECTIONABLE'

Nixon's idea, Morton said, was to pick a man who was not objectionable anywhere in the United States, and that was why he selected Agnew.

Morton was asked what reasons he would give to any meeting of Negro voters as to why they should support Nixon. He said he would point to Nixon's record.

★ ★ ★

Morton's explanation of the failure of Rockefeller to get the Republican nomination was that the New York governor was "too late."

The Kentucky senator declared that if he could have gotten Rockefeller "out of the gate" in mid-March and into the primaries, the New York governor would have had a better chance to win.

ULTIMATE IRONY?

A final question was this:

"Senator, do you find perhaps the ultimate irony that Gov. Agnew, now the vice presidential candidate, stood ready at that point to be the director of the Rockefeller campaign and now has ended up with the vice presidential nomination?

"Sen. Morton: Well, the governor was one among several of us — Gov. Agnew — who did urge and want Gov. Rockefeller to get into it. And Gov. Agnew, as early as February, was urging him to do it."

Sen. Morton has served two terms in the United States Senate and previously was assistant secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration. What he said over television on Sunday represents the attitude of the practical politicians in the Republican party, whether on the "liberal" or the "conservative" side.

Bob Considine Says:

The Wives of Candidates Bear a Heavy Burden

NEW YORK — Poor Pat. Poor Mrs. Agnew. Poor Mrs. McCarthy. Poor Lenore Romney.

CONSIDINE

The dear ladies are in for, or already have experienced, a soul-searing summer. For two of them, probably Pat Nixon and Muriel Humphrey, the agony of the frozen smile, the task of looking interested in speeches so familiar they could repeat them backwards, the perpetual dread they may yawn while the damned TV camera is on them (which could tip the balance of the election) and the need to be incessantly nice to bores and boors cannot pass until November.

★ ★ ★

For one of them, the staggering burden of being First Lady will have to be carried until 1972 and perhaps on to 1976 — by which time men will have landed on the moon and the Vietnam truce talks at Paris will be in their ninth year.

I don't know of any more enervating job than that of candidates' wives, particularly the wife of a man driven by the ultimate ambition, that of wanting to be President of the United States.

WONDERFUL WOMAN

I feel particularly sorry for Pat. She is a wonderful woman. She has weathered political storms that would have crushed almost any or all of her species. She can conceal hurt like a great ring champion.

★ ★ ★

The only time she couldn't bear it any longer was the day he came to the microphone and conceded the election to Jack Kennedy by 113,000 votes out of about 69 million cast. There were tears, but not the bawling the occasion probably called for.

Then the debacle of the 1962 California gubernatorial race, followed by the first respite from smiling and shaking hands she had had since 1946, when Dick ran for congress.

★ ★ ★

The move to New York, the growing up of her beautiful daughters, new friends, no pressures, etc. were a heavenly time for Pat. It was a relief just to watch the '64 convention.

LIGHTNING HIT

But something happened. The lightning got to her husband again. Months before the first primary, when Nixon was saying that he had not yet made up his mind whether to seek the office, I accidentally went into a wrong office at his Wall Street law firm and found Pat there — going over the old list of Nixon supporters.

He's back in the ball game, and guess who'll pitch her heart out for him.

Smiles

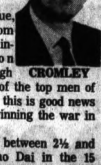
Sect Shifting Toward Saigon

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sources in South Vietnam close to the Cao Dai have sent word to this reporter that that religious sect is quietly shifting heavily toward the Saigon government's side of the war.



CROMLEY

If this is true, and those from whom this information comes are high in the trust of the top men of the Cao Dai, this is good news indeed for winning the war in Vietnam.

There are between 2½ and 3 million Cao Dai in the 15 million population of the south. The sect is considerably larger and much more effective than the militant Buddhist factions which triggered President Diem's overthrow and later endangered the Nguyen Cao Ky government.

The Cao Dai has an importance greater than its numbers. It is a militant group, with some military expertise. It has considerable political potential.

The major Cao Dai branch is headquartered in Tay Ninh Province, adjacent to areas where the Vietcong have been very strong for years and not far from the Cambodian VC sanctuary.

The sect is now organizing the nucleus of what may become its political wing — a fast-growing strongly nationalistic veterans' association, with an auxiliary youth group.

The veterans' association and its youth group are understood to be setting up community self-defense units throughout the sect's areas.

The Cao Dai years ago reached some sort of accommodation with the Vietcong whereby they would, by and large, stay more or less neutral. The feeling was that the Cao Dai would not interfere with the VC if the VC left the Cao Dai and its areas alone.

Some groupings of the Cao Dai have cooperated strongly with the Vietcong and its National Liberation Front.

★ ★ ★

It is understood the shift in the Cao Dai is a result in considerable part of the elections in the past several years. Though Cao Dai tickets lost, these elections convinced Cao Dai leaders that representative government was on the way in South Vietnam and that the Cao Dai would have a means, through these elections, of making its influence felt.

The Cao Dai is an unusual sect, formed about 1919. The doctrine draws heavily on both Christianity and Buddhism and the ritual on Vietnamese folk religion as well. Its adherents believe their God is the Jehovah of the Jews and Christians, the Supreme Being of the Buddhists and the Brahma of the Hindus. The Cao Dai cathedral at Tay Ninh has statues of Confucius, Jesus, Buddha, Lao-tzu, Brahma, Siva and Vishnu.

★ ★ ★

The Cao Dai claims several spiritual "fathers" give guidance to the sect through mediums. These "fathers" or "saints" include Sun Yat Sen, the Chinese revolutionary; Trang Trinh, a Vietnamese diviner; and the French writer-poet, Victor Hugo.

Bouncy LBJ Sounds Like Candidate in Speech

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Whatever doctors told President Johnson in their report on recent elaborate medical tests, it's causing him no apparent public concern.

BOUNCY LBJ—

Johnson, understood to have gotten the gist of the report in the last day or two, looked ruddy and rested and was in his bounciest form Wednesday when he made his first speech-making appearance of the month.

* * *

At times he even sounded like the candidate for reelection he's vowed not to be.

Disclosure last week that Johnson is afflicted with a chronic intestinal ailment, diverticulosis, prompted some concern about the state of his health. Unease was not allayed when he went to San Antonio's Brooke Army Medical Center Monday for further tests or when the White House firmly refused to rule out surgery as a possibility.

NO DISCOMFORT

Diverticulosis is not disabling and Johnson's doctors hastened to emphasize he was suffering no discomfort. However, the ailment can develop into something more serious—when inflammation occurs—and in that form sometimes requires surgery.

In his speech to the 73rd annual convention of the mostly Negro National Medical Association, Johnson departed from his text frequently to plug the accomplishments of his administration.

He noted the high federal positions—including Cabinet secretary and Supreme Court justice—he filled with Negro appointees.

"We have appointed more black judges than all of the other 35 presidents combined," he said.

AD-LIB REMARK

Later, Johnson removed his reading glasses and received a warm response from the audience when he ad-libed: ". . . as you emerge and make progress, as you open the sores and wounds to the sunlight and as the wind goes against them, the tender spots break out. Seeking freedom is not always a pleasant task.

* * *

"I hope we will make it so in this country that we don't have to violate laws and we don't have to be guilty of breaking the peace and we don't have to endanger health and life for us to get justice."

"Every law," he said, "ought to be fair and equal for everybody—from the president to the street sweeper and vice versa. We are marching and moving in that direction."

As he left the crowded ballroom of Houston's Shamrock Hilton Hotel, Johnson leaned across a low railing and, with a big grin and wave of the arm, announced: "When the roll is called up yonder . . ."

He stopped there. But his listeners clearly were aware of the closing words of the hymn: "When the roll is called up yonder, I'll be there."

One could have guessed Johnson was a candidate for another White House term, especially when he announced in his speech he would be working hard for "Kiddycare"—medical attention for expectant mothers and infants in the first 12 months of life—"in the years ahead."

When press secretary George Christian was asked how the President would accomplish this without seeking reelection, the reply was a smile.

Johnson also appealed for a hold-down on medical costs by members of the profession and an end to professional abuses of medicare by those who would increase their charges in order to collect the maximum from the federal government.

Speaking of Medicare, he said: "It is too good a thing to chisel. It is too good a thing to bring in scandal and disgrace. It is too good a thing to fudge on."

Racism Seen in Attack on Police Signup Shift

LANSING (UPI) — An attempt by several lawmakers to block proposed changes in State Police recruiting policies which are designed to get more Negroes on the force has brought out strong criticism from a Detroit legislator.

Sen. Coleman Young, one of two Negro senators, Wednesday said the Michigan Civil Service Commission should be "encouraged" in trying to get more Negroes on the State Police Force.

At present, there is only one Negro trooper on the 1,023-man force.

* * *

The plan by the Civil Service Commission to try a test program in which it would ignore test scores and take men into training on a probationary basis has come under attack by Sen. George Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield Township, and Rep. Gustave Groat, R-Battle Creek.

'RACIST POLICY'

"No matter what worthy intention the two gentlemen have, this attack on the attempted new policy is a racist one and will have the effect of discouraging the first attempt by the Civil Service Commission to recognize the serious weaknesses in hiring," Young said.

"This lily-white police department poses a serious threat to good relations between the State Police and the black community," he added. "In simplifying its procedure, the commission is trying to get more black troopers and should be encouraged."

The attacks by the lawmakers were added to discontent from the State Troopers Association which has argued that any recruiting change "would lower the standards and morale of the force."

The proposed plan would allow recruits to enter training on the basis of oral tests and an extensive investigation into the background of the recruit. The written tests would be taken but not used as a basis for admittance to training.

Bids on School to Be Opened

Bids will be opened tonight for the sale of Webster School at the regular meeting of the Waterford Township Board of Education.

The small school building, located on Pontiac Lake Road just west of Williams Lake Road, formerly housed elementary school classes in an independent district.

* * *

The area was annexed to the Waterford School District in the mid '50s and the building has seen a variety of uses since then, according to Waterford school officials.

Most recently it has housed offices for the special education department of the school district. Prior to that time, it was used for miscellaneous classes in music and speech.

NO FURTHER USE

Since the district's special education offices are all being consolidated at the Lambert Elementary School building, the district no longer has any use for the Webster building.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be at the school board offices at 3101 W. Walton.

More Negroes as Delegates to Dem Parley

CHICAGO (AP) — A gain in the number of Negro delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago was reported Wednesday by Louis Martin, deputy chairman of the party's national committee.

The total was placed at 301—176 delegates and 125 alternates.

* * *

Michigan is expected to send the largest number of Negroes with delegates or alternate credentials—20 delegates and 15 alternates.

The convention, opening Aug. 26 in the International Amphitheatre, will have an over-all delegate-alternate total of 5,611. Negro delegates to the 1964 convention numbered 65. The number of alternates was not available.

SOUTHERN DELEGATES

"The most dramatic development over 1964 is the large increase in Negro delegates from the old Confederacy" Martin said in a statement.

"In 1964 we had only seven southern Negro delegates and alternates. We will have 47 full delegates and 53 alternates from the South at the 1968 convention."

Dems May Scrap 'Unit Rule'

LANSING (AP)—Michigan Democrats are considering doing away with their winner-take-all "unit rule" convention voting system, under which dissent is sometimes buried by a slim majority's voice.

Unit rule, opposed by Sen. Sander Levin of Berkley, the party's state chairman, is one of the items on the agenda of a special 12-member committee announced by the party Wednesday.

* * *

Under unit rule, a county or congressional district delegation casts all the votes to which it is entitled on the same side of an isue, even though the delegation may actually be divided.

For example, a 100-member delegation with 100 votes may split 60-40 in caucus over an issue or a candidate, but the side with 60 supporters would cast all 100 votes their way.

VOTES ERASED

Use of unit rule at the State Democratic Convention June 1-2, especially by the Wayne County delegations, served to erase the votes of many backers of Sens. Robert F Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy, who formed minority coalitions in most district caucuses.

Levin said it is possible that the party's fall convention, to be held in Grand Rapids Aug. 30-31, might consider the question of unit rule.

* * *

Michigan's Republicans do not use unit rule at their state conventions.

Levin said one possible alternative to unit rule is a proportionate voting system, under which if 60 delegates were present in a 100-vote caucus and split 36 to 24 on an issue, the delegation's vote would be split 60-40.

* * *

Under the present system, caucuses which do not use unit rule often lose part of their voting strength, since they can only cast the votes of the delegates present and voting.

Detroit Crime Tops July '67

DETROIT (AP) — Crime in Detroit increased during July, compared to the same period a year ago, preliminary police department survey figures indicated Wednesday.

Total crimes committed topped last year's totals by 5.3 per cent. Robberies and auto thefts were up more than 40 per cent over the month of the Detroit Riot of 1967.

Officials said an analysis of causes will be made before a complete survey will be released.

Traffic Deaths, Drinking Linked

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Nearly half the 19 pedestrians who died in Milwaukee traffic accidents during the first seven months of 1968 had been drinking, the city Safety Commission said Wednesday.

The commission said it was not specifically listing alcoholic beverage as the primary cause of the deaths. Of the nine victims who had been drinking, most were older than 50, and most were injured at night, it said.

McGovern Would Accept VP Spot

By BOB DUBILL
Associated Press Writer

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern says he would accept the Democratic vice presidential nomination if it were offered by the party's national convention.

But he said his main objective is the presidency and if unsuccessful to seek re-election to the Senate.

* * *

"If the convention nominated me for the vice presidency, I would accept it out of a sense of patriotism," McGovern said Wednesday night. "But I want you to believe I would much prefer to serve in the Senate."

He replied to a newsman who asked about speculation in some quarters that he entered the presidential race to put himself into position to be selected for V. P. vice president.

'THEY'LL LOOK ELSEWHERE'

He said he felt that the two front-runners for the nomination — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy—would look elsewhere for a running mate.

McGovern campaigned for delegate votes in New Jersey where he addressed a dinner in memory of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. He told some 400 guests at the dinner that he is "dedicated to the twin goals for which Robert F. Kennedy gave his energy—peace in Vietnam and peace and progress at home."

* * *

A spokesman for New Jersey citizens for Kennedy for President, which sponsored the dinner, announced afterward that the organization would start forming a volunteer New Jersey Citizens for McGovern group.

McGovern said that despite his late start he has been encouraged by telephone conversations and meetings with delegates. He said he hoped he would get at least 200 votes on the first ballot at the convention in Chicago and go on from there.

1,312 VOTES NEEDED

A total of 1,312 votes is needed for the nomination.

McGovern said he picked up 6 to 8 votes from Utah Wednesday and one from New York. He said he hoped to make announcements of new delegate commitments within the next few days.

* * *

The South Dakota senator held a closed meeting with 20 delegates from New Jersey's 82-member convention delegation. Some of the 20 are committed to McCarthy while others are following Gov. Richard J. Hughes' position that the delegation should go to the convention uncommitted.

Hughes did not attend the Kennedy dinner because of other commitments. He sent McGovern a telegram welcoming him to New Jersey.

Goodson, Todman Game Pair

NEW YORK (AP) — In the world of television, game shows are serious business. Nobody is more serious about it or has made it a bigger business than Goodson-Todman.

In their 22 years of partnership, Mark Goodson and Bill Todman have turned out the most successful and the longest-running game shows on television.

★ ★ ★

"What's My Line?" ran for 17 years and is coming back as a five-day-a-week syndicated show in the fall. "I've Got a Secret" was on for 15 years and "To Tell the Truth" for 12. Their record for one company of 42 half-hours on daytime and prime-time television in the 1964-65 season stands unapproached. This coming season, however, the only program they will have on network prime-time will be the "Don Rickles Show."

In the posh, 30th-floor suite overlooking Park Avenue, the atmosphere at Goodson-Todman seems that of a think tank of trivia. A visitor to Goodson's office is liable as not to be put to work playing games.

"Mark will say, 'Look, you play against Bill.' We'll drag a few secretaries away from their desks and try out a new game. Most of them never get out of the office," said Gil Fates, the original and still the producer of "What's My Line?"

"Mark has this kind of curiosity that leads him to game development," Fates said. "Bill has it too, but Mark more so. Bill is the embellisher, the man who says maybe we could do it this way."

★ ★ ★

Oddly enough, early in his career Goodson was denied a job on "Take It or Leave It" because he was identified as a drama man.

Impeccably attired, Goodson sat behind his Napoleonic writing table. In a bookcase set into the limed oak paneling were two of the three Emmies "What's My Line?" has won. Goodson's deeply tanned face was framed by his white muttonchop sideburns, and, swinging in his chair, his jodphur-clad feet just reached the moss green carpet. Gesturing to other Napoleonic artifacts about the office, he smiled and said, "Someone said I have a Napoleonic complex because of my size and the furnishings." He paused, then added: "But I really haven't."

UNIQUE IDEAS SCARCE

As a uniformed steward served coffee from a disappearing bar at one end of the office, Goodson said, "It's hard to come up with a really unique, original game. Look at sports. How many games have been created in the past 25 or 30 years?"

Todman, darkly tanned like his partner, has an intense mien that can mask his optimistic outlook. He takes care of the money matters, but sometimes he has to go behind Goodson, smoothing ruffled feathers.

★ ★ ★

"The sign of a good show," Todman said, "is when you don't have to explain it every day. The key isn't simplicity, but the appearance of simplicity. Now 'Password' looks like any idiot could have dreamed it up, but it takes 14 people behind the scenes to keep the show going."

Fates said, "The boys are criticized for treating new ideas harshly, but believe me they're even harder on their own ideas. Not very many of them ever make it to the door."

As Goodson sees it, game shows combine storytelling, elements of great humanity and a spontaniety of remarks. "These are sophisticated shows," he asserted. "I would certainly think a show like 'Password,' for instance, is a more sophisticated show than, let's say 'Bonanza.' "

And nothing brings Goodson and Todman to the rescue quicker than a slander upon the ultimate cultural worth of game shows.

★ ★ ★

"What if you tried to say to the owners of the New York Yankees, 'What justifies baseball?' " Goodson asked.

"What's the rationale? What about professional football? What does it add to our culture? The answer is only one thing: it amuses, it distracts, it excites."

Said Todman: "The game show is television's only unique, creative contribution to American culture."

Goodson and Todman don't talk about their worth, or how much the shows bring in, but they have gone from a hand-to-mouth existence to all the creature comforts and prestige that come with being multimillionaires. At one time, they said, "We were happy to make $50 on a show." Their first show, "Winner Take All," reputedly was put together for less than $20 in 1946.

Training to Be Loadmaster

Nugent in Line for Viet Action

PHAN RANG, Vietnam (AP) — Airman 1.C. Patrick J. Nugent, President Johnson's son-in-law, is in training for a new job that should let him see a good deal of South Vietnam, including where the action is.

Nugent, who arrived in Vietnam April 13 for a one-year tour, is stationed at the U.S. Air Force Base at Phan Rang, on the central coast, 175 miles northeast of Saigon.

★ ★ ★

He's a member of the 309th Special Operations Squadron, in training to be a loadmaster on the Air Force's C123, a twin-engine prop plane that carries cargo and men to all parts of the country.

The second phase of his training, called on-job training or OJT by the military, began in the middle of July. Nugent is flying as an apprentice loadmaster on C123s making hops all over Vietnam, and possibly to Thailand and Laos.

NEWSMEN BARRED

Information about Nugent's exact whereabouts on the base, and about his flights, is classified. At his request, the Air Force has kept newsmen away.

This is Nugent's second job in Vietnam. His reserve unit, the 113th Tactical Fighter Wing, was called to active duty last February during the crisis over North Korea's seizure of the USS Pueblo.

His first assignment was as a bomb loader at Cam Ranh Bay air base. But Nugent asked for a transfer to the potentially more dangerous assignment as a C123 loadmaster.

After he is qualified in mid-September, Nugent could be transferred to any of four other airbases where C123s are stationed. He could remain with one of the two C123 squadrons at Phan Rang, or he could be sent to Da Nang, near where his brother-in-law Marine Capt. Charles Robb is stationed, or to Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport, or Phu Cat air base, 300 miles up the coast from Saigon, or to Bien Hoa air base, 20 miles northeast of Saigon.

ENLISTED DUTIES

As a loadmaster, Nugent will average one and a half days on the job and one and a half days off. When he's not flying, Nugent will pull all the duties of any enlisted man, including overnight charge of quarters, collecting money for meals at the mess hall, and cleaning the barracks.

As a loadmaster, Nugent will earn his $343.60 monthly salary. The C123s do everything from carrying Montagnard tribesmen, allied troops and other passengers from one airstrip to another, to ferrying loads of vegetables from Dalat, in the central highlands, to U.S. bases.

★ ★ ★

Nugent will be due for one week's R&R (rest and recuperation) in mid-October, and can go one of six Asian countries or Honolulu, possibly for a reunion with wife Luci and their year-old son, Lynn.

Safaris Still Mean Big Gnus in Africa

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

TSAVO, Kenya — "Have they nothing else in Africa but gnus?" complained the British lady in the white twill safari suit. "Gulde, we don't want to see any more gnus. They're really too tiresome."

The Masai tribesman at the wheel of the Japanese land rover grinned a mouthful of gold nuggets and drove on.

* * *

On a burning bright day, we were bucking across Hunting Block No. 29 in Kenya's Tsavo National Park, watching the great herds of bearded gnus explode the endless, shimmering plain in puffs of dust from their darting heels. Off in the distance, where Kilimanjaro lifted its snowy head above the low green hills of East Africa, a bobbing procession of elephants, stark red from rolling in the dust, moved toward a watering hole.

"Not more elephants," sighed the ruddy-faced German, sighting down the long barrel of a telephoto lens.

A USEFUL PHRASE

"Wapi simba," he adjured the guide. "Wapi simba" — which is Swahili for "where are the lions," and indispensable phrase in any man's safari vocabulary.

And in Africa these days, when more people hunt with camera than with gun, the lions usually are where the other safari cars are. It used to be, when Frank Buck was mucking about in the veldt, that one looked for lions at the tail end of the huge zebra migrations, ready to pounce on the cripples who couldn't keep up with the herd.

* * *

But now that the advent of the photographic safari has put the big game trophies in almost as much danger of extinction from carbon monoxide poisoning as from gunshot, one looks first for exhaust fumes on the horizon.

"There! There!" cried the British lady, espying not a pride of lions but a pollution of warily parked safari vehicles.

"Shhhhh. Shhhhh," hissed everyone else, invoking the cloistered silence that safari etiquette ordains for communing with the carnivore.

Sure enough, there the big cats were, about a dozen of them, snoozing away in the tall grass, amid a medley of snores and frightful abdominal rumblings, near the half-devoured carcass of a hapless zebra that had been on the luncheon menu.

* * *

The beasts barely batted a sleepy eye as the safari wagons drove right among them, close enough to reach out and pat if one had a whim for instant amputation. A gloriously coiffured specimen rose languidly to its feet, emitted a thunderous belch, then flopped over with a most uncatlike lack of grace.

"Isn't he darling?" said the tall American blonde in the psychedelic sunglasses who captured the entire sequence on her tape recorder. "Guide, is it the male or the female who has the long mane? I never can remember."

SLITHERING LOGS

All afternoon the caravan of zebra-stripped safari wagons followed the river bank, past partially submerged logs that turned out to be slithering crocodiles, past the graceful gerenuk and the splendid oryx, startling a herd of superb jumping elands, the largest of all antelopes, following a circle of vultures in that vast sky to the retreat of a wounded rhino, gored in a lovers' quarrel.

The timeless violence of Africa.

Less than 100 years ago, along the same stretch of lovely river, the great slave caravans moved east to the Indian Ocean with their porter-borne cargoes of ivory tusks, animal skins and chained human beings. Less than 50 years ago, when the British were building the railroad from Mombassa to Lake Victoria, Tsavo Station was synonymous with terror among the work gangs. Maneating lions, resenting the penetration of progress into their jungle sanctuary, daringly attached the crews, sometimes dragging coolies from railway carriages and devouring them within hearing of their comrades.

SURVIVAL MIRACLE

The continuing miracle of Africa is that the game has survived, despite the depradations of the ivory kings and the big game hunters, despite the constant menace of poaching tribes who use poison arrows to elude game wardens.

Herds of several hundred elephant moved across the endless plain, trailing a cloud of dust that spread for miles. A stately reticulated giraffe suddenly appeared at a bend in the road. Hordes of playful baboons hopped aboard the safari vehicles and hitchhiked for miles, curiously staring in the windows at the tourists and occasionally committing indiscretions that required use of the windshield wipers. A leopard reclined luxuriantly in the low branches of an acacia tree, patiently awaiting his chance with a herd of thomson's gazelles moving across the horizon. Tick birds scurrying out of the thorny thickets blew the cover of a massive water buffalo seeking surcease from the heat in the shadows.

Born free, they have been, but for the more than one million animals — by actual game census — living on Tsavo's high plateau there is still the savage splendor of survival. Overpopulation, particularly among the elephants, is threatening to turn the vast winderness into a dust bowl, so there is talk of relocating as many as 5,000 elephants, perhaps by helicopter, the way they redistributed the hippo colonies in neighboring Uganda.

The night wind moving across the savannas seemed to fan the last embers of sunset on the low hills as we drove into the safari camp.

COCKTAIL LINGO

"Time for sundowners," said Harry Hacker, the white hunter, looking cool and competent in his crisp khaki shorts and belted bush jacket. Sundowners is safari lingo for cocktail hour. Jean Hacker, the white hunter's handsome blonde wife who might have been sent out on location here by central casting, served the hors d'oeuvres in her best Ava Gardner manner. The guests gathered around the roaring fireplace, feet up on the rhino and elephant skulls that served as hassocks and discussed the one subject that is inescapable even in darkest Africa: the war in Vietnam.

Hacker, sun-bronzed and jut-jawed, had the white hunter's characteristic ability to throw away lines that the guests would mull over nervously for many a sleepless hour.

"Better button up the tent flaps tonight," he said. "There was a lion prowling—around camp last night. Nothing to worry about, but sometimes the big stuff can get a bit aggressive."

To fill the conversational vacuum that followed that bit of advise, he held forth wittily on the aphrodisical content of powdered rhino horn vastly overrated — the total absence of heart trouble among Masai tribesmen — attributed to their penchant for drinking cow's blood mixed with cow's urine — and told an anecdote about an American movie actress who lost a false eyelash on a recent safari and insisted that the guide retrieve it from the lion who had scarfed it up.

WHITE TO BLACK

Like all the other white hunters in East Africa, Hacker's days at his profession are numbered. Under Kenya's policy of Africa for Africans, he had one year to train a native to take over his job. Soon the white hunter would be replaced by the black hunter.

Dinner in the mess tent was surprisingly stately: two wines, glinting candelabra, handsome native-woven place mats and a centerpiece of freshly picked wild flowers. From across the river came the chattering of monkeys in the tall branches of the fever trees and the distant trumpeting of an elephant.

* * *

The camp was a pleasant place. A double row of green tents comfortably accommodated a safari party of 20. There was electricity, and ingenious oil drum shower that the native boys filled with hot water just before sundowners, hot shaving water in the morning, comfortable beds and canvas camp chairs for swapping safari lies.

"Some people want us to install flush toilets," said Hacker, "but that would ruin the whole idea of a safari, wouldn't it?"

Reds Pose Problems on Thai-Malay Border

SONGKHLA, Thailand (UPI) — A Thai police official sat in his new air-conditioned office and discussed Malaysian statements that Thailand has not been carrying its share of the combined effort against Communist guerrillas along their common border.

"We do as much as we are able to do," the official said. "But all our priorities are for the guerrilla problem in the north and we don't have the money or the men here in the south.

* * *

"If the Malaysians want to give us the money, we'll be glad to do more."

Malaysian police officials in their battered wooden frame headquarters in Alor Star on the Malay side of the border say they realize the Thais have a problem in getting men and money.

BIGGEST PROBLEM

But some say privately that "our biggest problem is getting the Thais to get moving and do anything at all."

They say they have provided lists of Communists to the Thais, who arrest them, then release them a few days later, saying they do not have laws allowing the Communists to be detained indefinitely.

* * *

The Malaysians contend this is ridiculous in a country that is under martial law.

The guerrillas are members of the Malayan Communist Party, which moved into the border areas before the Malavan guerrilla war ended in 1960.

BASES IN THAILAND

The Guerrillas are now estimated to have 500 to 800 hardcore fighters and 1,000 supporters. They have bases in Thailand, have been recruiting Thais to replace aging Malay guerrillas and have staged occasional skirmishes with Thai and Malaysian Police.

* * *

Last June, almost 20 years to the day since the Malayan guerrilla war started in 1948, the guerrillas staged an ambush just inside Malaya, killing or wounding all members of a Malaysian police platoon en route to a joint operations center at Betong, in Thailand.

* * *

The Malaysians moved in army units to reinforce police on their side of the border. They asked the Thais to change the complicated rules under which Malaysian forces operate in Thailand.

The requests were discussed by officials from the two countries in Kuala Lumpur. Both sides said they would step up operations against the Communists.

Thai officials agreed to allow Malaysian soldiers in hot pursuit of guerrillas to cross the border without waiting for Thai police. Few other details of the meeting were disclosed, and there was little indication of progress.

Malaysian sources say they would like to see Thai army reinforcements for the 27 platoons of border patrol police who now do all the Thai patrolling.

* * *

The Malaysians would also like a "controlled area" on the Thai side of the border to match a rigidly restricted area on the Malaysian side where villages have been resettled and there is a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

The Malaysians are asking permission for their helicopters to participate in cross-border operations. The Thai police now have one troop-carrying helicopter in the south.

REDS AVOID THAIS

The Communists try to avoid trouble with Thai police and say their interest in subversion is in Malaysia and not Thailand.

U.S. sources say that this could lead to a feeling by Thai officials that it is really not their problem, although the guerrillas are on their territory and are replacing aging Malayan guerrillas with Thais.

* * *

The sources also say that the Thais are not anxious to have more Malaysian forces in their territory.

The three southernmost provinces of Thailand once belonged to Malaya. They have a large Malay population in which there has been some separatist sentiment.

According to the sources, the Thai government is satisfied that the present Malaysian government under premier Tengku Abdul Rahman does not have its eye on these provinces, but they are not so sure about what a future government might do.

Ahepa Sends 2 Pontiac Men to Convention

Two Pontiac men have been named delegates to this year's internatioanl convention of the Order of the American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association (Ahepa).

Representing the local chapter will be Alec and Nick Sekles, 185 Ottawa. William P. Gregory, 1047 W. Huron, was named alternate delegate.

* * *

The fraternity's weeklong 46th supreme convention will begin Sunday in New York. Several thousand delegates and their families will represent the Order's 1,136 local chapters and auxiliaries.

The Order of Ahepa is an international fraternity composed largely of citizens of Greek descent. Its programs are based on citizenship training, educational programs, charitable donations and Hellenic culture.

* * *

Officers of the Pontiac chapter are Thomas E. Oliver, president; Michael Pantel, vice president; William P. Gregory, secretary; and Nick Backalukas, treasurer.

Two Births Are Neighborly Thing

SEATTLE (AP) — When Mr. and Mrs. Keith Zurn rushed out of their house at 5 a.m. Wednesday they found their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Baur, also leaving home in a hurry.

Since both couples were headed for the same place they decided to ride together. At 5:45 a.m. Mrs. Baur gave birth to a son, and 20 minutes later a boy and a girl were born to Mrs. Zurn.

Book Documents North Viet's Escalation of War in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — North Vietnam has escalated the war in Laos, says a "white book" issued by the Laos government.

The 111-page booklet, prepared by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, contains photographs, documents and statistics to support its claim.

★ ★ ★

"Today, more than ever, in spite of its commitment to respect and guarantee the sovereignty, neutrality and territorial integrity of the kindom of Laos —North Vietnam has escalated the war in Laos," the booklet says.

International Control Commission interrogations of captured North Vietnamese prisoners, inspection of captured weapons, ammunition and documents, provided evidence.

'FRESH PROOF'

Events in the past two years, mainly since the autumn of 1967, "furnished fresh proof" of North Vietnamese aggression, the booklet adds.

In January and February, North Vietnamese troops attacked Nam Bac, Saravane, Lao Ngam, Attopue, Phalane, Tha Thom and Muong Yut. At Muong Yut, two Russian-made Antonov planes were shot down Jan. 12. This was "further proof of the determination of North Vietnam to make Laos a permanent theater of their expansionist activity, assisted in this by the Pathet Lao, whose allegiance to Hanoi is no longer in doubt."

★ ★ ★

The Pathet Lao are Communist-directed Laotians.

The booklet says the total strength of North Vietnamese troops in Laos is 40,000, with 11,950 of these guarding the Ho Chi Minh and Sihanouk trails, supply routes to forces into South Vietnam.

North Vietnam, in addition to its "policy of expansion in Laos," is said to be staffing, arming, supplying and training the Communist Neo Lao Hak Sat or Pathet Lao forces in violation of the 1962 Geneva agreements.

'FLAGRANT VIOLATION'

"Futhermore the use which North Vietnam makes of the Laos territory, in order to move men and weapons to South Vietnam over routes which it is trying to build in South Laos in particular, as well as to launch attacks in northeast Thailand, is likewise a flagrant violation of the Geneva agreement," the report continues.

"The situation in Laos is very dangerous. After six years Laos remains the center of tension for all Southeast Asia and for all the world because through ideological and tactical unity of action North Vietnam has been increasingly reinforcing the war zones held by its ally, the Pathet Lao."

The booklet says "certain people" have accused Laos of "Machiavellian collusion with the United States," and adds:

"The royal government does not deny asking for and receiving arms from the United States, but for only for defending itself and not for the purpose of attacking others."

Poverty War Said Off-Base

'Basic Student Woe Is Economic Hardship'

Programs for disadvantaged students won't succeed because they aren't tackling the students' basic problems, claims a former antipoverty fighter, now an administrator at Oakland Community College.

"Defective educational products are continually produced at one end of life's assembly line while we patch them up at the other," said Reginald Wilson, associate dean of testing at OCC's Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Township.

He stresses that most of these programs deal with educational and cultural poverty, not economic poverty.

"It is as though we had instituted an insane practice on our automotive assembly line where we smashed the new cars as they came off the line, then sent them to various shops to be repaired before selling them.

IT IS PEOPLE

"But this is indeed the inanity of the economic practices in this country—except that it is people who are continually smashed, not cars."

Wilson maintains that such programs will not be effective until people can control their own destinies.

★ ★ ★

"Until we are prepared to deal effectively with the basic social causes of disadvantage, we will be unable to stem the swelling tide of discontent.

"There is a serious question as to whether we as a nation are prepared to make so massive a commitment."

PROJECT AIDE

Wilson, a psychologist, was associate director of Oakland University's Project Upward Bound, a federal program to prepare high school students for college.

Upward Bound and other similar programs have a "very minute impact," he says.

★ ★ ★

"Upward Bound is a major antipoverty program, and we still must face the fact that Upward Bound's total yearly budget — $22 million — for its entire 200 projects in the nation is less than the amount that is spent to prosecute the holocaust in Vietnam for one day.

"The most serious question is raised of national priorities and the continued American proclivity for dealing with superficial symptoms rather than with basic causes."

Youth's False Rumor Snowballs; Abby Advises Healing Confession

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wish I were a Catholic. Then I could go to a priest and confess the terrible thing I did and he would give me his blessings and I could sleep again.

ABBY

I got mad at my girl friend and started a terrible rumor about her (I said she got pregnant and had an abortion). I had no idea it would spread the way it did until my own mother heard it and told me I couldn't go around with her anymore.

Now the girl refuses to go back to school in September because everybody in town is talking about her. And some girls won't even speak to her.

★ ★ ★

If I confessed to my mother, she'd tell me to keep my mouth shut because she wouldn't want anyone to know what a stinker I am. I want to make it up to this girl because she really isn't a bad girl. Could I run an ad in the newspaper and say I lied?

CAN'T SLEEP

DEAR CAN'T: Forget the ad, but do go to the girl and confess that you started the ugly rumor. And tell her you will also tell those who have unjustly ostracized her. You will never be able to undo the damage you've done, but I hope this will be a lesson to you.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I agree with you 99 per cent of the time, but I couldn't go along with the advice you gave that father who told his 17-year-old son to either get a haircut or not to come home. (The boy didn't come home.)

You told the father to forget the hair for now and to emphasize the more permanent aspects of his son's character. Tell me, Abby, how can a father mold his son's character if he can't make him mind?

As a law enforcement officer I have found that the biggest cause of juvenile deliquency is the inability of parents to get their children to mind.

I have a 19-year-old son who would wear his hair too long if he had his own way. I don't tell him to either get a haircut or not to come home, but I do tell him if he doesn't cut his hair, I will cut it for him if I have to do it while he's asleep.

Abby, if I didn't love my son I wouldn't care how long he grew his hair. I know all boys like to rebel a little, but when you put your foot down I think the average boy respects you for it. I know mine does.

A FATHER

DEAR ABBY: Regarding CONCERNED's letter about her sister-in-law riding a motorcycle at age 61: I have a very lovely uncle in Denver who is 79 and HE rides a motorcycle.

There is one difference, he doesn't have a "sizable fortune," so we just love him and leave him alone.

LEON IN LUBBOCK

DEAR ABBY: Last week I made a proposal of marriage to a girl I was very much in love with. She refused. Now I find that she has told nearly everyone in town that I asked her to marry me and she turned me down. This has embarrassed me to a great extent.

Why would a girl broadcast something like that? I would have understood it had she accepted, but why would she tell people that she turned me down? I wish she'd have kept her mouth shut.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: She was obviously proud of the fact that someone proposed to her, even though she refused. In addition to being inconsiderate and indiscreet, she talks too much.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, c/o The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

MRS. MICHAEL BERGIN

Michael Bergins Exchange Vows

A nuptial mass Saturday in Holy Name Catholic Church, Birmingham, united Therese Marie Gehringer and Michael Bergin. A reception in Pine Lake Country Club followed the ceremony.

★ ★ ★

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Gehringer of Yarmouth Road, wore a gown of peau de soie with a yoke of Venetian lace.

The hem and train of her gown were edged with matching lace. Medallions of Venetian lace also framed her finger tip length veil.

HONOR ATTENDANT

Catherine Welch of Tiffin, Ohio, attended the bride as maid of honor. She was assisted by bridesmaids Mary Steiner, Mary Ann Gehringer, Terry Karibo and Lee Sherman.

★ ★ ★

The son of the James Bergins of Detroit asked Hirsh Rohr to attend him as best man. Performing the duties of usher were Charles Gehringer, Lawrence Cogut, Kenneth Grunow and James Kahn.

★ ★ ★

Following a northern Michigan honeymoon, the newlyweds will reside in Ann Arbor.

Fashion Preview Slated by Detroit's Junior League

Fashion takes another turn with the coming of fall and the Junior League of Detroit will see that the Greater Metropolitan Detroit area keeps pace with it when they present "Fashionscope for '68."

The program, a collection of the fall look from the J.L. Hudson Company, will be previewed Sept. 10 and 11 as the Junior League marks its 16th annual fashion preview of the season.

NARRATOR

The programs, which will be held in J. L. Hudson's downtown auditorium, at 2:30 p.m., will be narrated by Madelyn Coe, Hudson's fashion coordinator.

Chairing the event, profits of which are channeled to a Community Trust Fund for the Greater Metropolitan Detroit area, is Mrs. Richard T. Heglin.

★ ★ ★

Serving with her are Mrs. Charles R. Berger, assistant chairman; Thirza Morrow, Mrs. Arthur Waterfall II and Mrs. John D. Durno, tickets; Mrs. Richard Chadwell, arrangement; and Mrs. William D. Dahling, publicity.

Tickets for the affair, which is open to the public, may be obtained by contacting the ticket chairmen.

Greeting Cards Cheer Shut-Ins on Anniversary

BY ELIZABETH L. POST

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. William Logie of Keego Harbor, Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: Our parents will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary next month. Due to ill health, we will not be able to celebrate in the usual manner. Would it be acceptable to invite all our acquaintances as well as theirs on that day? If so, should we send informal invitations explaining as well as inviting them to participate in this "Cardorama," and how should it be worded? — Mrs. L.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. L.: It's a lovely idea! Although your parents are not well enough to see their friends, what a thrill they will get from knowing that so many are thinking of them!

★ ★ ★

As you suggested, invitations may be in the form of an informal note. It might say something like this: "We hope you will help us celebrate Mother and Dad's 50th wedding anniversary. Since they are not in good health we cannot have a party, but we know they would love to hear from their friends so we are planning a 'Shower of Cards.'

★ ★ ★

"We would be most grateful if you would help them enjoy their Golden Wedding by joining in this shower and sending a card." Invitations may also be issued by telephone.

Installation Witnessed by Chapter Members

The installation of Mrs. Sherman Charlan as a member of the Land-O-Oak chapter of the American Business Women's Association, highlighted Tuesday's meeting at Jason's Restaurant.

Witnessing the affair were members and guests, Mrs. Charles Cordray, Mrs. LaRue Christie and Mrs. Cyril Borst.

★ ★ ★

The meeting was concluded with a vocational talk by Mrs. Lela Upcott and a review of the state's history, entitled "Michigan-Mastodon to Motor Cars" by Donna Knisely of Michigan Bell.

A membership tea is slated Sept. 15 at The Pontiac Mall Community Room following the monthly meeting Sept. 10 at the Northwood Inn.

Jack E. Boyntons Honeymooning in Bermuda Following Saturday Rite

MRS. JACK E. BOYNTON

The Jack Erwin Boyntons (nee Joan Elaine Mansfield) are honeymooning in Bermuda following their marriage Saturday in First Methodist Church, Clarkston.

★ ★ ★

Parents of the couple, the William H. Mansfields of Orion Road, Avon Township and the Robert L. Boyntons of Birmingham joined the couple at Pine Knob Resort where they greeted guests.

ATTENDANTS

Cheryl Mansfield and Thomas Boynton were honor attendants for their sister and brother, respectively.

★ ★ ★

Bridesmaids Sue Boynton, Mrs. William Conway, Sheila Goins and Mrs. Daniel Strong assisted. The usher corps was comprised of William Conway, James Mansfield, William Redding and Daniel Strong.

ENSEMBLE

The former Miss Mansfield wore a gown of organza and peau de soie with an A-line skirt and Empire waist. A matching peau de soie headpiece secured her elbow length veil of illusion and she held a colonial bouquet of Phalaenopsis orchids and yellow Sweetheart roses.

★ ★ ★

The newlyweds will be at home in Ann Arbor where he is a student at University of Michigan's Law School.

Cranbrook Hosts Young Writers

The Cranbrook Foundation and the Michigan State Council for the Arts are sponsoring a three-day conference for area college upper classmen interested in writing and the arts.

★ ★ ★

They will assemble at the Cranbrook Academy of Art Friday through Sunday under the supervision of Carl G. Wonnberger, associate professor of English at Eastern Michigan University.

INSTRUCTING

Other instructors for the group will be Donald Hall, professor of English and poet-in-residence of the University of Michigan and Thelma Jones, formerly of Wayne State University. Jerome Brandfield, editor of "Literary Cavalcade," will also give assistance.

Chairman of the Cranbrook Writers' Conference is Karl Haas with E. Ray Scott as executive director.

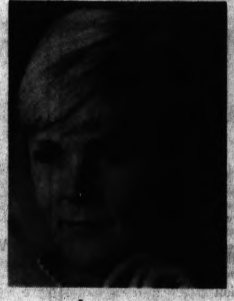
On Sunday, Henry Booth and the Foundation will host a reception for the group in Cranbrook House. Dr. Charles E. Feinberg, Walt Whitman scholar, will address the audience.



Susan S. Smith and Thomas E. Gorney have set Nov. 2 as their wedding date. The bride elect is the daughter of Mrs. Betty Smith of Birmingham and Wendell S. Smith of Franklin. She is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin at Madison. The prospective bridegroom is the son of the Edward Gorneys of Bay City. He was graduated from Michigan State University.

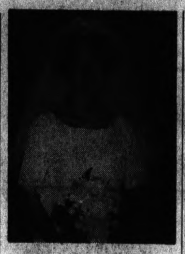
Unplug Drain

Before calling a plumber to treat a slow drain, pour in plenty of boiling hot soap or detergent suds. Then flush the pipes with lots of hot running water. Sometimes this treatment dissipates a clogging layer of grease, a possible cause of the trouble.



CURRIN-JOHNSON

Wed Saturday in All Saints Episcopal Church were Sandra Lynn Johnson and David Leo Currin. The Rose Kneale Room of the church was the setting for a reception following the vows. Parents of the couple are the Donald A. Johnsons of Ravenglass Road and the Leo Currins of Waringham Street. The former Miss Johnson chose a gown of silk organza and Rochelle lace. Her Cathedral train was accented with appliqued streamers. A seed pearl crown held her veil of illusion. Sallilue Johnson and Bruce Fisher were honor attendants in the bridal party of 12. A honeymoon in Michiagn and Wisconsin followed for the newlyweds.

Family Medicine Cabinet Deserves Special Respect

CHICAGO (UPI) — Medicine chest roulette is a new game — played with bottles.

"Many medicine chests are storehouses for old and outdated drugs that should have been destroyed long ago," says Dr. Walter J. Karr, medical director of North American Company for Life and Health Insurance.

Because of this, the family first-aid station becomes the home of a potential killer — dangerous as it is useful.

To safeguard against the harmful effects of outdated or improperly stored medicines, Dr. Karr says medicines never should be kept in unmarked containers.

Labels should be removed from prescription bottles before the bottles are put to other uses, and unused portions of prescriptions should be discarded as soon as they have served their purpose.

He said the latter will prevent another household problem — "self doctoring" through the use of drugs prescribed for other illnesses.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Karr suggests a year-round check list for the family medicine locker:

- Keep the medicine chest clean.
- Keep all items out of the reach ofsmall children.
- Do not take medicine in the dark.
- Place all prescription medicine on a high shelf.
- Read all labels before pouring medicine.
- Discard all medicines not clearly labeled.
- Discard left-over prescription drugs.

You're in Middle if 27.7 Years Old

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're 27.7 years old, you're one of the few truly middle-aged Americans — half the population is older than you and half younger.

The Census Bureau reported today 27.7 was the median age of the nation's population as of July 1.

★ ★ ★

This was right where the mid-point rested a year earlier, indicating a 15-year decline has at last stopped, the bureau said.

The decrease in median age began in 1952, when it stood at an historic peak of 30.3 years.

★ ★ ★

The post-war baby boom brought the poulation balance point down year by year until births began their marked decline in the 1960s.

Save Your Eyes

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Many people needlessly sacrifice the eye comfort they seek when they purchase sunglasses on the spur of the moment," says Charles J. Sidor, president of the Guild for Prescription Opticians of America.

"Choosing a pair of sunglasses is frequently done as quickly as possible, but low quality sunglasses often have lenses that distort color, hinder proper visual perception and do not adequately screen bothersome glare."

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer,

How can we adjust a pattern so that we may eliminate the waistband of skirts and slacks and use the elastic like the ones you find in ready-to-wear?

Mrs. R. B. W.

Dear Mrs. R. B. W.:

I have checked with ready-to-wear clothes and find that the only waistbands that are cut with a casing and use elastic on skirts and slacks are made of knit fabric. The stretch in the knit fabric works beautifully with this kind of finish, however it would never work with other fabrics.

The garment would have to be cut much larger at the waist than necessary in order to be able to get it over your shoulders or up over your hips that the fabric would be bunchy and not give you the results you would like.

★ ★ ★

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I feel that my upper arms aren't as attractive as they were when I was younger, and I don't feel comfortable with sleeveless dresses. It is very difficult to buy a jacket dress or make one that isn't sleeveless. Why is this? Surely I'm not the only woman in the world who wants sleeves.

Mrs. R. E. B.

Dear Mrs. R. E. B.:

I must agree with you. Today, it is almost impossible to find a jacket and dress combination where the dress has sleeves, either in patterns or ready-to-wear. I see no reason why you can't add short sleeves to your dress if you remember to change the jacket sleeve. The sleeves of jackets are cut fairly close fitting today, and they would not be cut with enough room for both sets of sleeves.

★ ★ ★

Expermient with a sleeve cut out of inexpensive fabric, baste it into your jacket armhole and see if there is enough room for both sleeves. If not, you will have to increase the size of the sleeves as well as making the armhole of the jacket slightly larger to fit.

Perhaps you are a little self-conscious about this. It seems when everyone is wearing the same style, no one pays too much attention to anyone else. However, if you feel uncomfortable, by all means learn to change your patterns.

★ ★ ★

Dear Eunice Farmer,

Please tell us how to press the rayon-linens and the wash and wear cottons. I have several dresses made from these fabrics and have pressed them over and over, but the seams and darts still do not look like they should.

Mrs. J. W. L.

Dear Mrs. J. W. L.:

With every advantage, there is always a disadvantage, these new fabrics are no exception. Fortunately, we are in an era of the no press look so it actually doesn't matter as much as you might imagine. Your very expensive clothes have an unpressed look. This is partly due to the fabrics and partly to the fashions of today.

Press these fabrics on the wrong side with a fairly hot steam iron. In certain areas you might even dampen a press cloth and press over this with a hotter iron. However, the nature of the fabric will cause it to spring right back.

★ ★ ★

If you have underlined your garment, you may wish to loosely catch-stitch the open seams to the underlining only especially over bust areas where a smoother look is desired. If you are from the old school of the sharp press for everything, you will have to relearn techniques that will affect the new fabrics.

HAYES-KENDALL

The Naval Hospital Chapel, San Diego, Calif., was chosen by Joan Kendall and Dr. Thomas Lee Hayes for their recent wedding. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Kendall of Tucson, Ariz., was attended by maid of honor, Shari Toreson. The bridegroom asked his father, Mr. Thomas Hayes of South Boulevard East to be best man. He is also the son of the late Mrs. Hayes. The former Miss Kendall wore a full length gown of silk organza with a Chantilly lace train and lace appliques. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a petal headpiece. She carried a cascade of white Stephanotis surrounding an orchid. A reception in the Admiral Kidd Officer's Club, San Diego, Calif., preceded a California honeymoon trip.

FURR-COOK

Newlyweds, the Larry M. Furrs (nee Danalle Marie Cook) are on a honeymoon trip to Nashville, Tenn., following their Saturday marriage. Wed at Waterford Township Church of Christ, the couple was feted at a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. The daughter of the Donald J. Cooks of Eau Gallie, Fla., chose an Empire style gown of satin with lace appliques. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was secured by a pillbox. She carried carnations and miniature roses. Pamela Hicks was maid of honor for the bride. The son of the Fred M. Furrs of Frankman Street asked Steven McKinney to attend him as best man.

JAMERSON-ARMS

Janet Kay Arms wore a traditional wedding gown of organza with lace tiers for her wedding Friday to Billy Leonard Jamerson. Shirley Hertel was maid of honor in the candlelight ceremony at First United Methodist Church of Pontiac. The newlyweds were feted at a reception in the church parlors. David Renaud performed the duties of best man for the son of the George Jamersons of South Boulevard, Avon Township. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Arms of Russell Street carried red sweetheart roses with cascading white roses. Her elbow length veil of illusion was secured by a crown with seed pearl accents. The couple is honeymooning in northern Michigan.

Club Auxiliary Selects Delegates

The sixth auxiliary to the Metropolitan Club met recently for a dinner and business meeting at the home of Mrs. John Wilson of West Sheffield Street.

* * *

Delegates to the 50th anniversary national convention of Metropolitan Clubs of America are Mrs. Harry Isenberg of Henderson Street and Mrs. Ralph Dean Sr. of Tilmore Lane. They are attending the sessions at the Whittier Hotel, Detroit, through today.

Polly's Pointers

End the 'Rustle'

DEAR POLLY — I have a lovely, new, taffeta slip but it rustles every time I take a step. I wonder if any of the readers can tell me how to eliminate this rustle. — LAURA

DEAR POLLY — Last winter when I got on a bus downtown to go home, I discovered my wallet was missing. The gentleman ahead of me saw my plight and paid my bus fare. Between that time and the next morning, when I could call the store where I had been, I kept thinking about how many things are in a wallet that must be replaced or might be used by others.

Aside from $34 in mine, there were credit cards, driver's license, I.D. card (my husband is overseas and this would present difficulties) and other valuables and necessities. It dawned on me that one is very foolish to keep everything together in one wallet. I took the card case out of my wallet and put it in the zipper compartment in my purse, large bills were put in a money clip and then in the zipper compartment.

* * *

My wallet now holds only change and small bills and I feel much safer about the situation. By the way, some honest person returned my wallet completely intact. — WANDA

DEAR WANDA — As an added precaution, you might try what one of my sons recently suggested to me and that was to copy the numbers and names of all credit cards you carry and have the list safely put away at home so time would be saved when reporting such a loss and none would be overlooked. — POLLY

Each month the moon is said to be in perigee when nearest the earth and in apogee when farthest away.

The next time you wash the cover of the ironing board, tack the cover on while it is damp, and it will be a tight and smooth fit when dry.

HENSON - HARDING

Helen Lorrene Harding carried white Sweetheart roses and Stephanotis for her wedding Saturday to Daniel Thomas Henson. They were married in a candlelight ceremony in First Baptist Church of Walled Lake and feted at a reception in Middle Straits Community Center. The daughter of the senior Harry Hardings of Oakley Park Road, Commerce Township, chose a gown of peau de soie with a matching chapel train and shoulder length veil. Honor attendants were Linda D. Johnson and Dennis Galbreath. The bridegroom is the son of the Thomas Hensons of Bald Mountain Road, Pontiac Township.

NELSON - JONES

Newlyweds, the Gary Lawrence Nelsons (nee Diane Elaine Jones), are honeymooning at Niagara Falls following their Saturday wedding in Central United Methodist Church. The daughter of the Finis R. Jones of South Winding Drive chose a gown of peau de soie with tiers of Chantilly lace. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a seed pearl crown. She carried carnations and miniature roses. Deborah Jones and Lynn Nelson were honor attendants for the couple. The afternoon ceremony was followed by a reception in the Italian - American Club. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lawrence Nelson of Mary Day Avenue and the late Mr. Nelson.

Talks at Auxiliary Meeting

Guest of honor and featured speaker at the recent meeting of Chief Pontiac Unit 377 of The American Legion Auxiliary was Mrs. Patricia St. Dennis.

The president of the 18th District Auxiliary spoke to members at the Lake Oakland headquarters.

Awards won at the recent state convention in Lansing were also presented at this meeting. Recipients were Mrs. Joseph Charter, Mrs. Billie Coyle Jr. and Lorraine Charter.

Mrs. Gerald Joyce read delegates' reports from the state convention. She will be attending the national convention in New Orleans, La., later this month.

Mrs. George Wade, secretary, and Mrs. Joyce were elected as delegates to attend the fall conference at Ann Arbor in September.

Bird Enjoys Baseball, Pop, Hard Candy

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The Scrivani family's pet cardinal, found abandoned as a baby in the back yard 13 months ago, has developed a fondness for soda pop, hard candy, chewing gum and television.

"Lyndon," or LBJ, as he is known, will stay up watching TV until the last member of the household has gone to bed. "He especially likes baseball games," says James Scrivani, high school student who found the orphan.

At first, the baby bird had to be nursed every 40 to 45 minutes with milk through an eye dropper and fed bread soaked in milk. After a couple of weeks, the cardinal graduated to a diet of ground worms. Although he has the run of the house, he has never attempted to escape.

Sew a one-inch button to the slot on a zipper tab to give children a better grip on zippers. It will help them to dress themselves.

Elegant or Not

Mme. Dariax, directrice of Nina Ricci in Paris, has written a book on elegance in which she states that "pierced ears are unthinkable for an elegant woman."

On Marriage Insurance

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE G-504: Ethel G., aged 23, is soon to be married.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "what are some of the psychological rules for maintaining a happy home?

"Insurance companies stress the financial protection in case a husband dies, or the house burns down, but I'd like some insurance for avoiding divorce.

"Wouldn't it be splendid if insurance companies also added 'phychological insurance' to their other types of coverage?"

SMART ETHEL

Yes, Ethel is very wise in making that suggestion.

For happily married people actually live longer than those who fight like cats and dogs!

They don't drink or smoke as much. Nor do they have as many neurotic ailments that often stem for maladjustment in the bedroom.

A good wife is thus superb insurance against her husband's development of peptic ulcers, angina pectoris, spastic colitis, as well as insomnia and the modern silly "tranquilizer binge" that afflicts millions.

Divorced mates are far more likely to be chain smokers, drinkers and thus earlier patrons of morticians!

So please paste these rules on your bathroom mirror:

It is comparatively rare for a divorce to occur if husband and wife are both active together in the same church!

This admonition is even more vital than sexual harmony, for the latter can quickly be learned from a sex booklet.

And there is logic behind that injunction, for religion extroverts our attention so we are not as likely to become hypochondriacs (Worry Warts) who focus on our own "innards."

It likewise promotes unselfishness and brings us into weekly contact with other people who are friendly, helpful and cheerful.

* * *

Remember, your church comrades are not as likely to steal your mate and break up your home as are your companions at a tavern!

Learn the proper erotic technique for maintaining harmony in the boudoir.

This technique is not inherited nor do adults miraculously fall heir to it by divine dispensation.

It requires the same technical training and diligent practice as the art of playing skilfully on the piano.

Budget your income and refuse to be stampeded into unnecessary cash outlays for luxuries.

* * *

If your social life revolves around the church and your children, you will not be sabotaged with heavy liquor bills, cigaret drains on your income, plus Country Club, boating, shotgun and other financial hazards to your budget.

* * *

Plan to have your children early, and in pairs, spaced about 18 months apart.

If you wish four children, then leave a gap of 3 or 4 years between the two pairs.

'Shanghai Bowl' Is Battle Prize of Army's 'Foreign Legion'

CAMP CASEY, Korea (AP) — The U.S. 31st Infantry, often called the Foreign Legion of the U.S. Army, rallies around the "Shanghai Bowl."

Since it first received its colors in 1916 in the Philippines the regiment has been overseas in Asia, except for one brief period in 1958.

The Shanghai Bowl, kept in a massive glass case at the front door of a Quonset hut that is brigade headquarters, is a souvenir of one of those almost forgotten foreign adventures by small American military units in the days before World War II.

In 1932 the Japanese and Chinese engaged in a major clash in and around the port city of Shanghai, during which much of the city was destroyed.

Shanghai was one of the major trading centers for foreigners in China and as such was the home of a number of Americans with business interests.

U.S. Marines were called in "to protect the lives and property of American citizens." It was deemed necessary to bring over the 31st Infantry from the Philippines to reinforce the Marines —young troopers in today's 31st are inclined to brag about that.

The incident is celebrated in the unit's song "The Foreign Legionaires."

The American troopers and the people they were protecting came under fire but they accomplished their mission satisfactorily and eventually were withdrawn. The 31st got a battle ribbon for its work, perhaps the only time in U.S. history that an Army regiment received such an award in peacetime.

Before sailing from Shanghai, officers and men of the regiment collected 1,500 Chinese dollars, coins which in those days had a high silver content, and had a silversmith fashion the large bowl and 66 cups to go with it.

PRIZE POSSESSION

It has been the regiment's prize possession ever since.

Sgt. Maj. Douglas Madison of Alexandria, Minn., a leathery-faced old soldier who fought with the regiment's parent organization, the 7th Infantry Division, in World War II, is custodian of the bowl.

"We use it on special occasions like when a new commanding officer takes over or when one leaves," he says. "The same is true of arriving and departing sergeant majors. And we break it out for other sorts of special occasions concerning the military."

The sergeant major said the bowl is filled for the ceremony with "what you might call punch, I guess."

Not long after the regiment was formed, it went to Siberia following the Russian army's collapse to keep the Trans-Siberian Railway running. During this expedition it got the official title of the Polar Bear Regiment.

Then the outfit returned to the Philippines where, some 22 years later, it saw some of its most heroic hours in defeat instead of victory.

★ ★ ★

The 31st was one of the key units employed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur in defense of Bataan Peninsula and Corregidor when the Japanese invaded the Philippines.

Its professional regulars of the peacetime Army fought with outstanding heroism in a campaign that was constantly counterattack, then retreat, counterattack, then retreat.

Finally, its survivors burned the regimental battle standards and buried the Shanghai Bowl. The 31st never lost its colors nor actually surrendered, although its men were handed over when Gen. Jonathan Wainwright finally gave up in the face of overwhelming odds.

★ ★ ★

The regiment was reformed after the war, spent considerable time on occupation duty in Korea and Japan, where it was when the Korean War broke out. Meanwhile, the Shanghai Bowl was recovered from its hiding place.

Famed Unit Faces Phase-Out

Scots Gird to Save Regiment

EDINBURGH, Scotland (NEA) — The bagpipes are wailing in the glens. The claymores are out, and Scots everywhere are girding to do battle with Britain's Labor government for having dared to lay a finger on Scotland's famous Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders regiment.

The Labor government has decreed that the Argylls must go, as part of its drive to cut back defense expenditures. After more than a century of valor that stretches from the Crimean war to Korea, the tilled regiment (Motto: "Get up and go") is to be sacrificed on the altar of economy.

★ ★ ★

The Argylls are one of nine major Army units that are scheduled to be either disbanded, or merged with other units to form a more compact fighting force by September, 1972.

However, the whole of Scotland is up in arms over the government's decision.

PETITIONS CIRCULATE

Petitions calling for the reinstatement of the "Fighting Jocks," as the Argylls are sometimes known, are now circulating in every town and hamlet in Scotland.

The Argylls are written up in the history books as "the thin red line," a name which they earned one cold morning in 1854 when 550 of them and 100 invalids barred the path of the Russian army at Balaclava. The London Times correspondent described how "the Russians dash on towards that thin red line tipped with steel."

★ ★ ★

Since then the Argyll's record for bravery has been an unbroken one, whether it be in crushing the Indian mutineers at Lucknow in 1857, or, in more recent times, fighting terrorists in Cyprus, Borneo and Aden. An Argyll won the first Victoria Cross, Britain's highest military award, of the Korean war.

Observers here feel that the government's decision to ax the Argylls may be due in part to the vendetta which defense officials have been waging against their commander Lt. Col. Colin (Mad Mitch) Mitchell.

IMPULSIVENESS PAYS

Last year, against orders, "Mad Mitch" marched the Argylls into the terrorist-held Crater District of Aden, but his impulsiveness paid off. In the five months they held the Crater District the Jocks killed 36 terrorists with the loss of only five of their own men.

As the Daily Express points out in a recent editorial, "A blind eye to authority has saved the situation on more than one occasion in British history."

★ ★ ★

"Mad Mitch" has also been criticized for his unorthodox recruiting methods, which he gleaned from an American sales handbook on how to sell chocolate-covered mints. He explains, "we have to convince people that the Argylls are the best, which they are."

Unless the Scottish campaign to reinstate the Argylls succeeds, Mitchell's recruiting may be wasted. He, himself, is leaving the army at the end of September, in the belief that as a civilian he will be in a better position to lead the attack on the government decision to disband the Argylls.

The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders is very much a family regiment, full of fathers and sons serving together.

"Every single Jock knows that if he does badly the woman next door will know about it," a former member of the regiment explains.

Whether such allegiances based on family and almost tribal ties still count in the British army of 1968 is the issue that is now being tested, according to the Argylls and their friends.

because every woman is special... Rose has a diamond designed specially for her

She loves witty people, good conversation, Old World elegance. Her diamond: HALO OF LIGHT . . . blue-white* diamonds with exceptional sparkle and brilliance, because the "girdle" portion (the outer rim of the stone which is usually grasped by the setting) is polished; and the setting itself is open. Halo of Light diamonds are priced from $175 to $2,000.

She loves perfection—in a sable coat or a perfect rose. Her diamond: FOREVER flawless . . . a collection of diamonds which are flawless and have remarkable brilliance. The settings are unusual, and are designed to show the stone's beauty at its fullest. Forever diamonds are priced from $150 to $2,500.

She has a flair for doing everything differently, dramatically—and well. Her diamond: FASHION FANTASY . . . marquis, pear-shaped, and emerald-cut diamonds mounted in original, dramatic, contemporary settings (all 14K gold). Stones for this collection are chosen for unusual brilliance, dazzling size, or both. Fashion Fantasy diamonds are priced from $125 to $3,000.

The world's a stage, and she's its star—beautiful, brilliant, and always a little mysterious. Her diamond: SUPREME . . . a collection designed for the woman who never dreamed she would own a diamond of such size and brilliance—at so modest a price. There are many carat weights to choose from; and each Supreme diamond comes with a pair of matching wedding bands. The price range is from $125 to $1,500.

She adores contemporary art, went wild over mini's, thinks the world began in 1960. Her diamond: SCULPTURA . . . exquisite diamonds set in dramatically sculptured 14K gold mountings: each one created especially for the stone it holds. There are many different designs, and many sizes of stones to choose from. Sculpture diamonds are priced from $139.50 to $1,500.

WHEN YOU PURCHASE A ROSE DIAMOND, YOU BECOME A MEMBER OF OUR EXCLUSIVE DIAMOND CLUB. IT OFFERS SINGULAR ADVANTAGES.

FIVE-YEAR DIVIDEND GUARANTEE. On the anniversary date of your purchase, for five consecutive years, your diamond increases in value 3% each year. After five years, your diamond will be worth 15% more than you paid, which may be applied to the purchase of a larger diamond at Rose.

10% DIVIDEND BONUS. If, within one year of purchase, you desire to exchange your original diamond for a larger stone, you will be credited with 10% more than the original full purchase price (less tax) toward the payment price.

LIFETIME TRADE-IN GUARANTEE. You may trade in your original diamond any time after the fifth anniversary of your purchase (provided you have brought it in for annual inspection) and receive a full 15% more than the original price toward the purchase of a larger diamond.

FREE DIAMOND INSURANCE. At the time of purchase, you will receive, paid-in-full, a one-year full insurance policy protecting your diamond against loss from fire, theft, or loss of stone from the mounting.

FREE DIAMOND CARE. You are entitled to two diamond inspections and professional polishings a year, at no charge.

*A blue-white diamond, as required by U.S. Federal Trade Commission, appears blue or bluish in the north light or its equivalent.

The County Airport Presents: Aviation Week

Oakland-Pontiac Airport has been taking a week to do a little stunting on its own. It's called Oakland County Aviation Week, proclaimed by Delos Hamlin, chairman of the county Board of Supervisors.

* * *

The period was set aside to observe and celebrate the airport's past, present and future. In an era where aviation is playing an increasing role in the lives of community citizens, it was deemed appropriate to invite the taxpayers to view the facility — after all, it belongs to them, explained airport officials.

* * *

Oakland-Pontiac Airport is small as airports go. No international jets go in and out. The terminal is small and cozy. There are actually no scheduled flights to or from the field for passengers at present.

* * *

But a lot of passengers do arrive and depart. These are employes, executives and technicians of area industry. Many local firms have or hire aircraft to bring or send specialized personnel to or from the field.

A LOT OF FREIGHT

And a lot of freight arrives and departs.

Great expansion plans are in store — some of them already begun. The field will soon have longer runways and all-weather equipment. This is sort of a transition period for Oakland County aviation and perhaps a fitting time for Aviation Week.

* * *

During the week, open house has been held and various displays have been presented for visitors. Activities will culminate this weekend.

* * *

During the weekend, when airport officials hope to see most visitors, tours and airplane and helicopter rides will be offered. There will be a charge for the rides, but it will be set as low as possible so the greatest number of persons can take advantage of it. The airport is in Waterford Township at Highland and Airport roads.

200,000 OPERATIONS

Last year about 200,000 operations (landings, take-offs) took place at Oakland-Pontiac. About a 10 per cent increase is anticipated for 1968.

In the future lies greater activity on an expanded facility. First step will be construction of additional hangars. A $316,000 bond issue has been approved for 51 of the T-hangars for small planes. Eventually, plans are for 400 to be built. The small-plane complex with taxiing, refueling and servicing facilities, will be at the northeast portion of the field.

Federal Aviation Agency approval and funds have already been granted for an Instrument Landing System (ILS) to cost $84,000. The ILS is paid for by the federal government, however the county is in the process of acquiring needed adjacent property.

A mater plan which calls for lengthening runways, will be implemented in the near future. The present 5,300-foot east-west main runway will be 6,200 feet and a smaller east-west runway of 3,250-feet added. The present northeast-southwest small-craft 2,400-foot runway will be lengthened to 3,200 feet.

PRIVATE FIRMS TOO

Along with the official county-government construction, private firms based on the field are carrying out their own expansion plans.

* * *

Recently the Michigan Aviation Co., based at the field, completed a large new $70,000 hanger to accommodate 15 twin-engine aircraft.

These Are the People Who Make It Run

Biafran Dilemma Over Aid: Guns or Milk

ABA, Biafra (AP) — "The Nigerians are given weapons; we get milk," a Biafran officer complained. He gestured toward a group of recruits drilling with sticks instead of rifles.

On a dusty road, an elderly man listened with interest to the report that a supply plane had landed during the night at the nearby airstrip. In his arms he held his famished grandchild. Both were refugees from the secessionist war with Nigeria.

★ ★ ★

"I pray to god that it did not bring milk again," he muttered angrily.

"To these Biafrans, survival is not calculated in terms for calories, but in firepower.

BIG MASSACRE SEEN

"Every gun, every round of ammunition keeps us Ibos alive for another couple of hours," a Biafran government spokesman said. "When it gets to the point where we cannot shoot back, then the big massacre will begin and that will be the end of us."

The guns or milk dilemma is especially acute for leaders of the secessionist Nigerian East province. They have declined proposals for a mercy land corridor through Nigerian federal territory while the fighting continues. They say they fear Nigerians would poison the food enroute.

★ ★ ★

Military considerations are counterbalanced by the awareness of world symphathy evoked by Biafra's starving millions.

The problem has been met by a compromise: guns often share the same precious air cargo space with a sack of dried milk. For the Biafrans the compromise is unsatisfactory because the supply of both items is not adequate.

ARMS MIX AVOIDED

West German Roman Catholic and Protestant charitable organizations have attempted to avoid having their mercy shipments mixed with weapons. They have bought two planes to be exclusively used to bring milk powder and medicine into Biafra. One plane has since been put out of service because of a damaged landing gear.

All planes making the dangerous night run—the church planes as well as the few weapons carriers—are flown by the same group of daring fliers organized by Hank Wharton, a German-born U.S. citizen from Miami. The airlift begins in Lisbon and reaches Biafra by way of the Portuguese island of Sao Tome off the West African coast.

The same black tropical night shields the gunrunners and the milk runners. Then the blackness is suddenly broken by a flickering necklace of oil lamps set out along Biafra's lone landing strip.

The strip formerly was an asphalt road, just barely wide enough to take the few old four-engined superconstellations used in the airlift.

LAMPS SNUFFED OUT

Biafran soldiers nervously crouch along the runway and snuff out the lamps once the plane has taken off again.

★ ★ ★

The soldiers impatiently await the weapons, while missionaries and physicians just as impatiently await the milk.

★ ★ ★

Doctors estimate they would need 50 tons of nutriments a day to counter the starvation, but only 10 tons have been coming in each week.

★ ★ ★

In refugee camps, doctors face a dilemma of their own: Whom to give the scant rations of milk. Some resolve it by selecting only those starving children considered to have a chance of survival.

★ ★ ★

"The worst part of it for us is not seeing children dying, which is tragic enough," a Biafran doctor said at a refugee camp near Anwa. "It is having to decide each day who gets the milk."

Until Abraham Lincoln put Thanksgiving in November in 1863, it had showed up in eight different months.

Camera Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

In photography, there's a great difference between "taking pictures" and "making pictures."

A person shooting from the most obvious camera angle without looking at the background, without checking to see if the lighting can be improved and goes snap! Snap! Snap! is merely taking pictures. He may be lucky and get a good snapshot.

But someone who studies the situation and selects the camera angle because it eliminates a distracting background or provides better illumination is making pictures. The chances for better pictures are far greater.

Another area where camera fans can improve their results tremendously by taking a little extra time and thinking as they work is in the darkroom when making enlargements. The matter was discussed by Harvey Weber, director of photography at Newsday, in an article in the National Press Photographer. His explanation for newsmen can be equally helpful for amateur photographers.

He says you can take an average negative and make an above-average print from it if you care to make the effort.

"Many photographers neglect the full tonal range that can be gotten from the paper's emulsion: they expose and develop sloppily and exercise little or no imagination to expand the visual possibilities that can be pulled from any negative," Weber reports.

In general, the first area for improvement would be in a greater over-all darkness of the image. Putting aside special high-key or low-key pictures, the deeper the tones of the image — while holding all necessary details and highlights — the more pleasing the print will appear.

For a first effort, darken slightly all four edges of the print. The dark edges tend to guide the eye to the center of the print and the picture seems to have more unity. It is done by moving the fist in the center of the picture during the exposure, giving a few extra seconds exposure on the edges.

Weber's conclusion: almost every negative can yield a more artistic enlargement if the printer gives thought and time to the "making" of each picture.

States Moving to Curb Child Abuse—but Still Have Far to Go

CHICAGO (AP) — The states have moved fast in recent years to curb abuse of children — but they still have far to go.

Even though all 50 states have legislation against child abuse, more than 9,000 such cases were reported last year.

"There still is a long way to go before child protection becomes a reality in all geographic areas of every state," says Vincent De Francis, director of the children's division of the American Humane Association.

"There provably is an even longer road to travel in terms of establishing in every community a protective service program adequate in size and quality to meet the needs of our country's neglected, abused and exploited children," he added.

ABUSE INCREASING

"The neglect and abuse of children appears to be increasing," a special committee of the New York County Medical Society reported recently.

Illinois also saw signs of an increase. In April, 58 cases of abuse were reported, the highest ever recorded in one month.

★ ★ ★

Child abuse ranges from such active harm as a blow with fist or stick to such passive torture as prolonged diaper rash or starvation.

The American Humane Association made an analysis of 662 cases, including 178 in which the child died, that were reported in newspapers in 1962. It found the persons responsible were the fathers in 38 per cent of the cases, the mothers in 29 per cent, both parents in 5 per cent, stepfathers in 14 per cent, stepmothers in 2 per cent. Blame also has been placed on baby sitters, foster parents, teachers and others.

COMMON EXCUSES

Donald H. Schlosser of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services said common excuses for bruises and broken bones are: "He fell down the stairs," or, "He toppled out of his high chair." Another frequent explanation is that the parent or caretaker started to spank the child to discipline him, and overdid it.

Mistreatment is much older than legislation against it. An article in the American Medical Association Journal a few years ago noted: "Animals in the United States were legally protected from cruel treatment some years before the same protection was granted children."

But legislating in that area gained speed in the 1960s. Now 50 states have adopted laws on reporting child abuse.

Reporting suspected cruelty is mandatory in 44 states. In Alaska, Missouri, New Mexico, North Carolina, Texas and Washington the statutes are permissive, reading "may report" rather than "shall report."

PENALTY VARIES

Punishment varies for those who deliberately hurt children. Since 1899 Florida has had a law forbidding "torturing or unlawfully punishing" youngsters under the age of 16. Violation was a misdemeanor until 1965, when it was upgraded to a felony punishable by $2,000 fine or two years in prison.

In neighboring Georgia a similar 1878 enactment provides a maximum penalty of a year in prison and a $1,000 fine. But few parents or guardians are imprisoned because one aim is trying to keep a family together.

An Ohio law put on the books in 1924 covers a range of offenses and provides a spread in punishment from 30 days in jail to death in the electric chair.

A Vermont statute provides a two-year jail term or $500 fine for anybody who deliberately harms a child.

★ ★ ★

Offenders can be tried under a state's criminal code on such charges as assault and battery, contributing to the delinquency or dependency of a child, neglect, cruelty, manslaughter or murder.

Penalties differ. In Indiana, for example, they range up to 1 to 5 years for assault with intent to do bodily harm and to 2 to 14 years for assault with intent to kill.

STIFF PENALTY

Pennsylvania recently enacted a bill making aggravated cruelty to minors a crime. The legislation stiffens the penalty for simple cruelty to minors to a maximum $500 fine or 90 days in jail, or both. In instances involving grievous bodily harm the defendant could get up to four years in prison or a fine of $3,000.

In the three-year period ended June 30, reports of suspected abuse in Illinois numbered 1,393. In 108 of the incidents the victim died.

★ ★ ★

Cases reported in one year numbered 115 in Indiana, 39 in Louisiana, 111 in Iowa, 65 in Kansas. Cases reported in two years numbered 76 in Mississippi and 68 in Virginia.

The Wisconsin Department of Health said cases reported totaled 94 in 1966, 235 in 1967 and 162 through mid-July of this year.

FIVE DEATHS

Washington State had 193 cases in 1967, when there were five deaths.

"It is almost certain that underreporting occurred," said the Washington Department of Public Assistance.

★ ★ ★

Colorado, which established a central registry for cases in January 1967, has received 158 reports. Some Welfare Department officials said they suspect there may be as many as 600 cases a year in the state.

There is a variation of opinion about present laws and systems.

TWO-YEAR STUDY

De Francis reported in a recent issue of the Juvenile Court Judges Journal on a two-year study of the child abuse field.

"Most disturbing," he wrote, "was the finding that no state and no community has developed a child protective service program adequate in size to meet the service needs of all reported cases of child neglect and abuse."

"The law is adequate," commented John Scanlon, director of research for Georgia's Department of Family and Children Services. "We need to educate people about the law."

Joseph H. Roe of the Montana Welfare Department said that 15 or 20 cases have been reported each year since the reporting law was enacted in 1965.

'IT'S BETTER'

"It's better than before the law," he said. "But my own opinion is that there are many abuse cases not being reported."

3 VIP Speakers Due in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Two presidential candidates and the former commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam have been scheduled tentatively for speeches before the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars next week in Detroit.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey, who is seeking the Democratic nomination; former Vice President Richard Nixon, the Republican nominee; and Gen. William Westmoreland, Army chief of staff, have agreed to appear, a VFW spokesman said today.

★ ★ ★

Specific dates and times have not yet been set for the Humphrey and Nixon appearances, he said, but Westmoreland is scheduled to preside at the official opening session Monday.

The convention's preliminary business begins Friday. The convention closes Aug. 23.

Vivien Saunders, 21-year-old University of London student, is a psychology major who is thinking about using some of that learning to win fairway friends today in the third round of U.S. Amateur Women's Championship at Birmingham Country Club.

Miss Saunders used more than psychology to eliminate the defending champion of the tournament Lou Dill yesterday.

She put together a barrage of birdies to tie her match with Miss Dill, and then played it safe on the playoff hole to win, 1-up on 19.

"I know it sounds foolish," she said, "but I think I'm going to pin the American Stars and Stripes to my golf bag tomorrow," she said.

Her reasoning was that she felt everyone in the gallery was pulling for Miss Dill.

"I could hear the yeas when Miss Dill pulled off a good shot, and disappointed 'oohs' when I did any good," she said.

"There was one gentleman however," she said in her British accent," he was really urging me on."

This is Vivien's first attempt at the U.S. Amateur and she decided to make the trip here because of the bargain rate given by the airlines to British University students.

It was considered a mild surprise when Miss Saunders eliminated Carol Sorenson in her first match yesterday, but when she and Miss Dill started their see-saw match, the gallery started to pick up.

It was a wild match. Miss Dill would win two holes, then Miss Saunders would win two.

The little Texan MISS SAUNDERS would go one up, and then Vivien would tie it and then go one up. They halved only four holes in their match.

Miss Dill then took a 3-up lead, but that not only disappeared but it was a shattering blow to Miss Dill's confidence as Vivien won three straight holes with birdies.

"That really put the pressure on me," said Miss Dill, "it shook me up."

The No. 13 hole, a 428-yard, par-5 hole was the real shaker.

Vivien put her second, a 3-wood, to within 10 feet and had an eagle putt facing her, while Miss Dill's third shot was out on the fringe. Miss Saunders birdied here and also No. 14.

The personable Britisher also used a little psychology on herself by convincing herself that the Birmingham layout is her type of course, and the best she has ever played and this gives her the positive attitude to play well.

"I'm not just saying this, but this course is magnificent. It allows a variety of shots. In Britain on many courses we can use the same 3 or 4 clubs on every hole," she said.

Today, in the third round, Vivien will meet her match, at least in the field of education.

FACES JOYCE TODAY

She faces Joyce Kazmierski, who graduated the past June from Michigan State with a psychology major.

"This could be a real psycho match," jested Miss Saunders, who has never played against Joyce competitively.

"I met Joyce in England last year, and I stayed at her place for a time. I know how well she plays and I have a lot of respect for her game," she added.

"What would be the reaction if you should happen to win this tournament," she was asked.

"I guess it would shatter the golf experts in England. I think it would even shatter me out of excitement," she laughed.

It should be a strong hitting match today between Vivien and Joyce. May the best 'psychogolfoligist' win.

Foreign Showdown Possibility

Field Dwindles in Women's U.S. Amateur

By FLETCHER SPEARS

A foreign showdown for a prize U.S. plum was shaping up today in the 68th U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship at Birmingham Country Club.

Two grueling rounds of match play yesterday reduced the field to eight and tournament officials were obviously pleased with the lineup that headed into the quarter-finals this afternoon.

There was, first of all, that darling of French golf, 23-year-old Catherine Lacoste, who is gaining admirers as fast as Charles de Gaulle is losing them.

And then there's witty Vivien Saunders of England, and to add some local flavor, there's Joyce Kazmierski of Grosse Ile, the current Women's Michigan Golf Association titlist.

There's more. Four-time champion Mrs. Joanne Gunderson Carner is still around along with three-time winner Mrs. Anne Quast Welts.

FIELD DWINDLES

The field is dwindling fast. Only four will survive today's action and they'll then play the semifinals tomorrow. The finalists will play 36 holes for the title Saturday.

As the pairings now stand, Miss Lacoste and Miss Saunders could find themselves playing for the title come Saturday. Oh, but that road leading to the finals won't be easy.

* *

First of all, Miss Lacoste, who was almost felled in her first match by unheralded Margaret Jones of Covington, Ky., must dispose of Jane Bastanchury of Whittier, Calif., recent winner of the Broadmoor Invitational in Colorado Springs, Colo.

And Miss Saunders has no picnic, either. She was paired with Miss Kazmierski today, and a victory would put her into the semifinals against the winner of the Mrs. Welts-Phyllis Preuss match.

* * *

The Lacoste-Bastanchury survivor will meet the winner of the Carner-Mrs. Paul Dye Jr. match.

Miss Lacoste, who does for Women's Amateur golf what Texan Lee Trevino does for the PGA, came in as the tournament favorite and she's easily the favorite of the crowd.

* * *

"After you qualify they're all tough," said Miss Lacoste after her come-from-behind victory over Miss Jones, the 1968 Kentucky champion.

EVENS MATCH

The French swinger evened the match on 18 with a par when Miss Jones three-putted from 50 feet and then won on the 21st hole with what she described as her greatest shot ever. It was a 3-iron that settled some 14 inches from the cup on the par-3, 154-yard No. 3 hole. Miss Jones, in the trap on the right, blasted out and made a three-foot putt for a par but Miss Lacoste tapped in the short one for a birdie and the match.

* * *

The afternoon duel was easier. Miss Lacoste was two up after nine and emerged with a 3 and 2 win over Jan Webber of Fresno, Calif.

* * *

Miss Kazmierski, a teacher at Livonia Stevenson High, posted a routine 3 and 1 verdict over Mary Margaret Dwyer of New York in her opener, and then staged a comeback in the afternoon to down Mrs. Karen Oldham of Ohio on the 19th hole.

* * *

Mrs. Carner ousted Bobbi-Joe Gabrielsen of Georgia in the morning, 1 up in 19 holes, and then turned back Carol Semple of Sewickley, Pa., in the afternoon, 3 and 1.

OFFICIAL HELP — Margaret Jones of Covington, Ky., asks Dr. Frank R. Lovell of Southfield, a U.S.G.A. official, for a ruling during her first-round match against Catherine Lacoste of France yesterday in the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship at Birmingham Country Club. Her ball was lying close to the fence and Miss Jones asked if she could lean against the fence as she hit the ball. It was okay, Dr. Lovell ruled, but it was of little help to Miss Jones. She lost the hole and the match in 21 holes.

Mayo Slips Indians 'Mickey'

Lolich Notches Fourth Straight Relief Victory

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayo Smith has a perfect putdown for those American League die-hards who keep trying to twist his Tigers by the tail. The Detroit skipper simply reaches into his new bullpen bag and slips them a quick Mickey.

Mickey Lolich, who couldn't finish what he started a month ago, hurled 5⅔ innings of scoreless relief Wednesday night and picked up his fourth victory in nine days as the first place Tigers flattened Cleveland 3-0.

* * *

The swift southpaw scattered three hits and struck out five in his longest relief stint since Smith sent him to the bullpen in late July. He has defeated Cleveland and Boston twice and each for an 11-7 season mark and has not given up a run in 15 innings, beginning Aug. 6.

RETAIN LEAD

In beating the Indians for the sixth time in seven games over a nine-day stretch, the Tigers regained a seven-game lead over the second place Baltimore Orioles, who bowed to Oakland 4-1.

Lolich replaced Joe Sparma in the fourth inning at Cleveland with the Tigers leading 1-0 on Bill Freehan's 18th homer. He stranded two runners and then stymied the Indians until the eighth, when a double play and center fielder Mickey Stanley's running, one-hand grab of a drive by Vern Fuller saved him from a possible knockout.

"I started walking to the dugout," Lolich said. "When I looked up Stanley was still going back and the ball hadn't come down yet. I started to worry and kept right on walking, because if it's over the fence I'm out of the game anyway...and I might as well watch from the bench."

Freehan connected against Cleveland ace Luis Tiant, 18-8, in the second and the Tigers added two runs in the sixth on Al Kaline's double, Gates Brown's single and a triple by Norm Cash.

FIRST OFF TIANT

"I am one for three years against Tiant," said Freehan. "I know I did not get a hit off him last year, and this is my first hit off him this year. He had good stuff, I just got lucky."

Lolich was beaten in his last three verdicts as a starter and was tagged for three runs in 1 1-3 innings of relief against Minnesota Aug. 2.

But he retired the only batter he faced four nights later as the Tigers nipped Cleveland 2-1 in the 17-inning opener of a doubleheader, then came back with a 2 2-3 spotless innings to gain the victory in the nightcap, which Detroit finally nailed 5-2 on the following day.

Montreal 'Nine' Making Progress

MONTREAL (AP) — A historic first dent in the hitherto solid American major leagues of baseball occurred in a smoke-filled downtown Montreal hotel room Wednesday when Montreal officially became a member of the National League.

"Montreal is now a fullfledged member of the league," said NL President Warren Giles. With these words, the city became the first outside of the United States to be admitted to the majors.

Club sponsors made the first payment of the franchise fee.

John McHale, 48, a man who has spent 28 years in organized baseball—21 of them in the front office— was appointed president and chief executive officer of the club. Jim Fanning, a close friend of McHale's, was named general manager.

UPSETTING — Oakland pinch runner Allan Lewis upsets Baltimore relief pitcher Moe Drabowsky as he scores from second on a stolen base and wild pitch. Drabowsky was waiting at the plate for the throw from Curt Blefary when Lewis sent him to the ground with a hard slide. Oakland won, 4-1.

Oakland Relief Ace Segui Saves Win Over Orioles

By the Associated Press

The more Diego Segui of the Oakland Athletics pitches, the more he likes it.

He worked three innings Wednesday to save a 4-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles for Oakland starter Chuck Dobson, 10-11.

The save came less than 24 hours after he hurled three solid relief innings in a losing cause —Baltimore's 6-5 victory Tuesday night.

"I could pitch three more innings in the next game if they need me," the 29-year-old Cuban said.

Outfielder Reggie Jackson provided the winning hit against Baltimore—a sixth-inning home run with Bert Campaneris aboard. It was the 21st homer of the season for Jackson, who had struck out in the first and third innings. The blast came off loser Dave Leonard, 5-5.

OTHER GAMES

Elsewhere, Detroit beat Cleveland 3 - 0, Washington topped Minnesota 4-2 on two homers by Frank Howard; Boston split a day-night doubleheader with Chicago, winning the second game 7-5 on Ken Harrelson's slugging after losing 5-3 in the afternoon, and New York whipped California 5-2.

* * *

Segui has appeared in 38 games this season—more than any other pitcher on the Athletics' staff. He has three wins and two saves.

Segui entered the game with Oakland ahead 2-1 in the seventh inning, Baltimore runners on first and third and no outs.

He struck out pinch-hitter Dave May and got Don Buford to hit into a double play.

LONG BLAST

Howard, who had homered earlier with the bases empty, drilled a 450-foot blast following two Minnesota errors in the ninth to carry the Senators from behind. Ron Clark booted Bernie Allen's grounder and Rod Carew made a wild throw to second on Ken McMullen's tap before Howard unloaded his 34th homer of the season.

Harrelson slugged a solo homer in the day game at Boston. But the White Sox won it with a 15-hit attack while the Red Sox wasted 11 against winner Tommy John.

* * *

The Red Sox' slugger took charge under the lights, banging a double, triple and a two-run homer, his 32nd of the year. After the White Sox cut Boston's lead to 6-5 with a four-run seventh inning rally, Harrelson doubled, stole third and scored the insurance run on an overthrow by catcher Duane Josephson.

The Yankees surged to a 5-0 lead with the help of Bill Robinson's homer and a two-run single by Horace Clarke, then held off the Angels for a sweep of the three-game series. Reliever Steve Hamilton checked a two-run California rally in the eighth, protecting the victory for rookie Stan Bahnsen.

Redlegs' Bats Boom in Win Over Braves

By Associated Press

Hurry up and unfold, Satchel.

The Atlanta Braves' pitching staff needs help fast.

The Braves signed elderly Satchel Paige earlier this week and the club's pitchers haven't been the same since.

Cincinnati jolted the Braves 7-4 Wednesday night, collecting 11 hits. That gave the Reds 30 hits and 16 runs in two games against Atlanta and if ever a situation called for Satchel, the Braves have it.

"I don't know what I can do now," said Paige, who needs 158 days to qualify for baseball's pension plan. "I'll have to get out there and unfold first."

HAS TIMETABLE

Paige's unfolding timetable calls for him to go on the Braves' active roster Aug. 23. The question is whether the Atlanta pitching staff can wait that long.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, New Yrok trimmed Los Angeles 4-1, San Francisco nipped Pittsburgh 2-1 in 10 innings, Philadelphia took Houston 4-3 and St. Louis stopped Chicago 3-1.

* * *

Mack Jones' three-run homer started the Reds' assault against the Atlanta staff in the fourth inning. Pete Rose singled and Alex Johnson doubled before Jones connected. An error and Pat Corrales' double gave the Reds another run before the inning was over.

Jerry Koosman won his 16th game for the Mets, tying the club record established last year by Tom Seaver. The rookie left-hander scattered seven hits as New York beat Los Angeles for the 11th time this season.

Larry Stahl homered and Cleon Jones and Ed Kranepool laced two hits apiece leading a 10-hit Met attack against Bill Singer and two relievers.

Don Lock hammered a grand slam home run, accounting for all of Philadelphia's runs against Houston. John Bateman had a two-run shot and Jim Wynn a solo homer for the Astros.

* * *

Pitcher Chris Short opened the third inning with a single against Houston's Denny Lemaster and two outs later Rich Allen and Roberto Pena walked, setting the stage for Lock's third career grand slam.

TYING RUN

Willie McCovey scored the Giants' tying run in the seventh inning and then drove in the winner with a 10th inning single as Gaylord Perry stymied the Pirates on three hits.

McCovey's two out single delivered Bobby Bonds who had singled and moved to second when reliever Ron Kline walked Willie Mays with two out. The loss ended a 10-game winning streak for Kline and was his first setback since May 2.

Bob Gibson won his 14th straight game, beating Chicago and ending a seven-game Cardinal losing streak against the Cubs.

* * *

Gibson, 16-5, allowed eight hits and the Cards ended a four-game Chicago winning streak and boosted their National League lead to 13 games over the second place Cubs.

PGA Hopeful of More Talks

Touring Pros Remain Firm

Sides Reach Impasse in Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP) — The dispute between the Professional Golfers Association and the tournament professionals appeared to be at an impasse today, but PGA officials are keeping the door open for further negotiations.

The players broke with the PGA earlier this week when they announced that they would form an organization independent of the PGA at the end of existing tournament contracts. The tour involves $5.6 million.

LIMIT REACHED

Gardner Dickinson Jr., chairman of the Players Tournament Committee, said Wednesday he felt a limit had been reached in negotiations.

However, Max Elbin, PGA president, said, "I don't believe the PGA position has been fairly presented to the players. We would like to appear before a meeting of all the men so that we can present the facts of the case. I don't believe—when the issues are aired—that the situation is irreconcilable."

* * *

The players, though, are showing no inclination to bend. They are seeking greater control of the tour. Unofficially, the players were reported to have told the various sponsors they would compete in the same tourneys as this year.

* * *

"The PGA knows what we want and has refused to budge," Dickinson said. "I honestly wish that we could get together, but it doesn't appear possible.

In Washington, William Rogers, attorney for the PGA, said the door is open for negotiation. He said his client's position consisted of two points:

1. That the PGA tour must be jointly shared by the players and the PGA.

2. That the tour must be administered in a serious, businesslike way.

* * *

The 16-man PGA executive committee has called an emergency meeting Friday at the national headquarters in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. Tournament sponsors have been summoned to a meeting in Houston, Sept. 5-6.

Joyce Carries State Hope in U.S. Amateur

"I really never thought I'd lose," said Joyce Kazmierski of Grosse Ile, who celebrated her 23rd birthday yesterday with a couple of match play victories in the 68th U.S. Women's Amateur championship at Birmingham Country Club.

Miss Kazmierski was discussing the situation in her second round match against Mrs. Karen Oldham of Cuyahoga Falls, O., that found her 1-down going into the par-5, 522-yard 18th.

WINNING FEELING

"I had a feeling that I could birdie the hole if I had to," Joyce was saying while trying to unwind after the victory. "When I saw where her second shot went (in the rough well short of the river guarding the green) I knew she couldn't reach the green on her third shot."

* * *

Miss Oldham's third shot went into the water while Joyce put her third on the green. After missing with a long putt, Mrs. Oldham conceded Joyce's putt and the two headed for the first hole of sudden death.

Joyce won, or maybe in another way, Mrs. Oldham lost. Joyce was on in three and two-putted from 22 feet. Mrs. Oldham was also on in three and three-putted from 20 feet, leaving the third putt just two inches short.

'I CAN WIN'

The sudden-death playoff didn't scare Joyce. "I've been in six of these and won four. When I go into sudden death I have a lot of confidence. I believe I can win.

Defending champion Lou Dill, 20, refused advice of her caddy on the first hole of her playoff with Vivien Saunders of England and it proved costly. She lost on the 19th.

After two shots on the par-5, 493-yard first hole, Miss Dill was faced with an approach that called for a 5- or 6-iron shot. "I took out a 5-iron. My caddy said it was too much, but I had a trap to go over on the right so I hit away and it went over the green." Miss Dill then chipped back and two-putted for a bogey. Miss Saunders won with a par.

A tired Catherine Lacoste of France plopped into a chair near the practice green following her afternoon 3 and 2 win over Jan Webber of Fresno, Calif.

* * *

"I'm still in it and it's a great feeling," said the 23-year-old French gal who has attracted most of the gallery that's on hand.

Was it a tough match? she was asked. "Every match is after you qualify," she replied.

After winning the 18th to even the match, Miss Lacoste ended the battle on the No. 3, 154-yard par-3 hole. She rapped a 3-iron shot just 14 inches from the cup.

GREATEST SHOT

"It was probably the greatest shot of my life," she said. "No, I didn't know how close it was. I just hoped it would be close enough for a birdie-2." Miss Jones made a par, coming out of a bunker on the right to do it, but Miss Lacoste tapped in the putt for the win.

* * *

Miss Webber, 18, was impressed with Miss Lacoste's style.

"She's a good player," said Miss Webber. "Our match was up and down but she certainly played well. I'm sure she'll go all the way now."

* * *

"I had less trouble than she did," laughed Mrs. Paul Dye of Indianapolis, Ind., explaining her 3 and 1 victory over Cynthia Hill of South Haven.

* * *

"I just feel funny hitting the ball," said Miss Hill, 23, two-time Florida state champion. "I don't know if I am in a slump or not. Maybe I'll be better next week at Battle Creek."

* * *

Winners and losers were all tired following the two matches. Most of the losers packed their bags and headed for Battle Creek where they'll compete in the Trans-Mississippi next week.

City Dragcar Racer Facing Speedy Foe

Carl Heichel, 29 of 218 Vernon, puts his national record and maybe his suddenly blossoming reputation as a fast-moving Midwest dragcar racer on the line Sunday.

Heichel and his AA-Altered dragster will duel Saginaw's Ron Ellis in a best-of-three match challenge race beginning at 2 p.m. on the Tri-City quarter-mile track at Freeland.

Although in his first season of racing his 438-cubic-inch 1967 Dodge Hemihead engine, 1560-pound machine, Heichel has already set the national speed record in his class with a 168.22 miles per hour tempo in June at Columbus, Ohio.

* * *

His rival Ellis, meanwhile, holds the national elapsed time record for the quarter-mile dash, an :08.45 ETA, in the same AA-Altered class. This will be the first meeting of the two cars and drivers.

FAMILY HELPS

A mechanic at GM Truck and Coach, Heichel is assisted with the $9,000-plus dragster by his wife Carole and her brother John Steinbach, also of Pontiac. The Heicheis have five children.

Carl has gained super-eliminator honors at Lapeer and Windsor this summer, and best appearing car and crew laurels at Lexington, Ky.

The big target for him and his dedicated crew now is an invitation to the National Hot Rod Association world finals Oct. 19-20 at Tulsa, Okla.

FINAL CHANCE

To earn one, he must place among the top five point winners in the world point series for his class. Currently the 5-10, 165-pound ex-Marine figures he is about 300 short with one last chance to pick them up in the final point battle at Windsor Sept. 14-15.

* * *

Also ahead are the national dragster championships Aug. 30-Sept. 2 at Indianapolis. That action provides prestige and prize money, rather than precious points.

PROTECTIVE GEAR—Carl Heichel of Pontiac—a national record speed setter—shows the protective headgear and suit he wears during dashes down Midwest quarter-mile strips in his AA/Altered dragster.

Gola Returning to Alma Mater

Former All-American New Cage Coach

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sixteen years ago as a player Tom Gola helped make little known LaSalle College a big name in the basketball world. Today, he's back to try and accomplish the same feat as his alma mater's head coach.

The 35-year-old Gola, three times an All-American as a collegian, and five times a member of the National Basketball Association All-Star team, has signed a four year contract to coach LaSalle basketball.

He'll do that along with running his insurance and real estate business, golf driving range, and serving as a member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives.

The 6-foot-6 Gola, who played 11-years in the NBA with Philadelphia, San Francisco and New York before retiring, succeeds Jim Harding. Harding resigned to take the post of head coach of the Minnesota Pipers of the American Basketball Association.

Rifle Champ Slams Door on All Challengers

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP) — Army Capt. Donald Adams of Halifax, Va., slammed the door on all of his challengers Wednesday by dropping only one point in four shooting events to capture the 1968 National Small Bore Rifle Prone Championship for the second time, with a four-day total of 6,395 points out of possible 6,400.

Adams took over the lead Tuesday by a single point and then threw 80 straight bullseyes at his competitors Wednesday before losing his point. He finished up with 40 perfect shots.

He won his first championship in 1966.

Army Maj. Presley Kendall of Columbus, Ga., went through the final day without loosing a single point to take second place with a score of 6,392 points and 540 of his 640 shots in the x-ring, a smaller circle within the bull-seye used to break ties.

WMGA Golfer Still Winning

Mrs. David Mortimer of Birmingham is making winning a habit in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association weekly outings.

Playing in a field of 71 yesterday at Salem Hills, Mrs. Mortimer carved out a 41-40-81 to take honors for the second week in a row and for the third time this season. In another, she lost the top spot in a playoff.

* * *

Mrs. Mortimer collected four pars on the front and four pars and a birdie on the back nine, starting those final nine holes with a birdie-4 on the 430-yard, par-5 10th hole by canning a 25-foot putt.

Tied for fourth five strokes behind Mrs. Mortimer were Mrs. Henry Pramick of Dearborn, Mrs. Midge Cova of Novi, Mrs. Nick Panasiuk of Elmhurst, Ont., and Mrs. Max Evans of Southfield.

Oriole Hurler Finds Groove in Minor Stint

By The Associated Press

The Columbus Jets would be just as happy if the Baltimore Orioles had not demoted pitcher John O'Donoghue to their Rochester farm club in the International League.

O'Donaghue has made two starts since he came down. Both were against Columbus. Both turned out to be Rochester shut-outs.

The latest was Wednesday night as the Red Wings knocked off the Jets 3-0 and pulled back even with them for second place in the standings. Both are 5½ games back of front-running Toledo, beaten 3-2 by last-place Richmond for the second straight night.

Louisville's Colonels moved to within half a game of fourth-place Syracuse by whipping the Chiefs 7-2. The Buffalo-Jacksonville game was rained out and a doubleheader scheduled for tonight.

Cup Play Next

U.S. Netters Favored

CLEVELAND (AP) — The U.S. Davis Cup team, accustomed top laying on fast courts, will be favored to defeat Spain in the weekend inter-zone challenge series starting Friday.

That is the view of experts who have studied the two teams in practices on the Harold T. Clark Macadam-type courts, a surface conductive to bombing serves and slamming volleys which are trademarks of the Americans.

A pair of singles matches will launch the competition Friday followed by doubles Saturday and two more singles Sunday. One point is awarded for victory in each match.

Heading Spain is 30-year-old Manuel Santana, winner at Wimbledon in 1966 and at the nationals at Forest Hills in 1965. He is a tactician whose finesse has brought him victory on all types of surfaces.

Juan Gisbert, 26, and Manuel Orentes 19, have been trying feverishly to get their reactions geared to the courts. Another Spaniard, Luis Orilla, a fine doubles player is handicapped by a pulled leg muscle first suffered in California and aggravated now so that he requires doctor's treatment daily.

* * *

Arthur Ashe, Charlie Pasarell and hometown product, Clark Graebner are the main U.S. hopes.

All three have been playing brilliantly most of the season and seem to have reached their peak. They thrive on the hard courts.

* * *

Jaime Bartroli veteran captain of the Spanish team, admits that his players have been involved in time consuming adjustment, not only to the fast surface, but also to the faster ball used in the United States.

Trevino Finds Replacement for Broken 'Lucky' Putter

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Lee Trevino, the laughing Latin who became an instant celebrity when he won the U.S. Open, had a new-old weapon in his arsenal today when he set out in the first round of $250,000 Westchester Classic golf tournament.

It's a second-hand putter, a thick, battered looking piece of steel that is Lee's prize possession.

'HOME AGAIN'

"It's just like the one I won the Open with," said the stocky, swarthy Mexican-American from the border country of El Paso, Tex. "Having this is like coming home again.

"The putter I had in the Open was cracked all around here," he said, running his finger around the steel near the blade. "I was afraid it was going to fall part any time.

"Finally it did. Right after the Open. Just fell apart.

* * *

"In fact, I haven't used any of my Open clubs since then.

"I put 'em all in my trophy room and got a new set. That's the ones I've been using since. But I couldn't find a putter like the one I had. Just found this one last week," he said, and gave it a gentle pat.

"I don't know what it is," he said on the practice green, running in putt after putt. "I just seem to have a better stroke with this one."

It's interesting to note that he hasn't won since the Open. In seven tournaments, his best finishes have been a couple of ties for sixth and he missed the cut at the PGA championship.

So is he going to be a one-shot champion?

"I don't know, man," he said, that infectious grin spreading over his face. "I never know if I'm gonna win. But I'm gonna keep showing up."

COLORFUL NOW

He was resplendent—as opposed to the sloppy garb he wore in the Open—in white shirt, bright green pants and matching green and white golf shoes.

"What's this?" he was asked, "the Doug Sanders approach."

"Man, I'm coming up in the world," he said. "My wife can't stand it. She won't get out of bed until I'm dressed and gone. Says she can't stand the sight of me.

"Really coming up in the world," repeated Trevino, who's very conscious of his Mexican-American background.

"They're giving me a dinner up in Stamford, Conn. Got a big sign that says 'Welcome Home Lee Trevino.' In Stamford, Connecticut?

He grinned and shrugged.

"They'll probably have spaghetti and meat balls. I hate it. But I'll eat it.

"Trevnino," he said, raising and shaking his right hand with the fingertips touching in a typical Italian gesture, "Trevino, from the Old Country."

Mid-American Coaches Watching for Boycott

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mid-American Conference coaches met in secret Wednesday to discuss reports of a possible boycott by black athletes of conference events.

The hastily called session stemmed from a reported meeting Monday in Akron supposedly attended by Negroes from the five Ohio schools in the MAC, people from the Ohio Conference and other independent Ohio colleges.

PLAN OF ACTION

It is believed the meeting was called to plan militant action by black athletes and possible boycotts of athletic events.

MAC Commissioner Bob James said after the meeting:

"The coaches requested the meeting to exchange information and ideas on how to handle the problem of boycotts as they may occur.

"The only agreement reached at the meeting was that the coaches from each school would handle the problem on an individual basis."

James said, "We, like all other conferences, recognize that this is a potential, although unfortunate problem. We felt that our coaches deserved an opportunity to freely discuss the potential dangers of the situation and have a free exchange of information.

"I would like to stress that the Mid-American Conference has no official policy on how to handle such a situation should it arise. We have no official position other than any action will have to be taken by the individual schools."

A conference spokesman said there was no knowledge as to who attended the Akron meeting. "We don't even know whether any players were involved," he said.

Rudolph Paces Pro-AM Event

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Mason Rudolph won low pro honors with a seven-under-par 65 Wednesday in the pro-amateur event preceding the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic.

Randy Glover was second with a 66. Favorite Jack Nicklaus, Julius Boros and Bill Casper were in a large group at 69. Arnold Palmer shot a 72.

The team prize went to groups headed by Boros and Dick Sikes. Boros' amateur partners were Mitch Gornto, Bill and John Banneck. Sikes played with Chase Morsey Jr., George Fadler and E. W. Harbart.

Now Goodyear has a Polyglas™ tire to fit every American car

America's most talked-about tire development... The Polyglas Tire... now comes in a new width.

Since the first of the year, the Goodyear Custom Wide Tread Polyglas tire has met with one of the greatest receptions in tire history. Why? Because it gives a lot more mileage. But some car models couldn't use this Polyglas tire...because it was too wide. Now, Goodyear introduces a new Polyglas tire...the Power Cushion Polyglas tire. It's wide...but it's also built to fit every American car, compact on up. Your Goodyear man's ready right now to fit your car with Polyglas tires. And only Goodyear has them. Priced as low as $32.15, 7.00 x 13 tubeless blackwall plus $1.78 Fed. Ex. Tax and old tire.

"YOU'RE KINDA WILD, VIC" — Comanagers Fawn Rose, 3 (left), and Barby Ruiz, 3 (holding doll), gather on the mound with pitcher Victor Perez, 2, after he encountered wild streak during the annual Father-Son Game of the Cincinnati Reds. The youngsters, naturally, were easy winners in the feature before last night's regularly scheduled game at Crosley Field.

Canadian Net Ace in Quarter-Finals

TORONTO (AP) — Keith Carpenter, a Canadian Davis Cupper, advanced Wednesday to the quarter-finals of the Canadian open tennis championships.

★ ★ ★

He defeated Andre Tieleman of Belgium 5-7, 4-6, 9-6, 6-0, 6-1 in a match carried over from Tuesday night. Three hours later, he also rallied to defeat Rudy Hernando of Detroit 1-6, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Football Call at Rochester

All boys interested in participating in the Rochester High School sports program during the 1968-69 school year should report for their physical examinations 9 a.m. Saturday Aug. 24.

Physical forms will be available at the high school office next week and must be turned in completed at the time of the free exam.

Football equipment will be issued 9 a.m. Aug. 23 in the gymnasium. The opening practice will be 9 a.m. Aug. 26.

Trades Made in NFL

QB Sent Back to NY Giants

By the Associated Press

Returning kickoffs in the National Football League isn't child's play, so the St. Louis Cards went out and acquired Clarence Childs, once one of the best in this important department.

The trade that brought Childs from the New York Giants to the Cards was one among several in professional football Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

In other transactions, the Cards traded veteran linebacker Jerry Hillebrand to the Pittsburgh Steelers for a high 1969 draft choice and sent Sam Silas, a defensive lineman, to the Giants for a 1970 draft choice.

The New Orleans Saints traded linebacker Dave Simmons to the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice, and dealt second-string quarterback Gary Wood back to the Giants for two undisclosed draft choices.

AMONG LEADERS

Childs, also a defensive back, was among the NFL's leading kickoff return artists until he lost his starting spot last season to rookie Willie Williams. Childs was among the top ten in his specialty during his first four years in the circuit, but slipped to 21st in 1967 with a 20.8 yard average for 29 returns.

★ ★ ★

Hillebrand, acquired by St. Louis from the Giants in 1967 for Bill Triplett, had been traded to the Minnesota Vikings earlier. However, the Vikings sent him back to St. Louis, apparently dissatisfied with a knee condition which limited Hillebrand's training.

★ ★ ★

Simmons, a four-year veteran, played in 11 games for the Saints last season. New Orleans obtained him from St. Louis in the Saints' expansion draft.

New Orleans' expansion draft also was a factor in the deal that sent quarterback Wood back to the Giants. The Saints had acquired him from New York in the 1967 expansion draft, and, under NFL rules, a team cannot trade back a player to the club from which he was drafted.

So, the Saints placed Wood on waivers and then notified all other clubs that he was intended for New York. The Giants promptly grabbed him. Wood saw limited action for the Saints last year, serving behind Bill Kilmer and Guary Cuozzo. New Orleans obtained quarterback Karl Sweetan from Detroit Tuesday.

In another development, Gene Snipes, considered one of the Atlanta Falcons' top pass catching prospects when summer training started, was placed on waivers along with rookie receiver Jack Head and defensive back Floyd Hudlow. Snipes, the Falcons' sixth draft choice in 1967, was on the Falcons' taxi squad last year.

Shrine Coach on Grid Panel

Coach Al Fracassa of Royal Oak Shrine High School will be one of four football mentors instructing 30 prep athletes next week in the first Northwood Institute Conditioning Camp at Midland.

Director "Doc" Edwards has arranged a physical strengthening program for the teen-age boys that will include mechanical exercising, running, calisthenics and agility drills.

★ ★ ★

The faculty will have Don Tallman of Northwood Institute, Bob Leach from Ferris State, Bob Stoppert of Midland HS and Fracassa.

Edwards' athletic training program at Ferris has been very successful in reducing football injuries. He will be assisted during the camp by Central Michigan's trainer Gordon Stoddard.

NOSE DIVE — Show jumping isn't all fun, particularly when the mount stops and the rider can't. That's what happened to Laszlo Torok of Hungary earlier this month in the European Junior Individual Show Jumping Championship at Stoneleigh, England. His horse stopped, but Torok continued on, and after the nose dive, he still holds the reins, even though he's lost his dignity.

U.S. Pentathlete Injured Seriously

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Captain Edward Carfagno, 25, Beverly Hills, Calif., member of the U.S. Modern Pentathlon Training Center, suffered serious injuries in the opening ride of the 1968 U.S. Modern Pentathlon National Championships and Olympic Trials Wednesday at Fort Sam Houston.

Carfagno, former Ivy League fencer who was to have been a strong contender in the fencing bouts Thursday, suffered a concussion and a possible fractured jaw at the 18th water hole jump, coming down off a treacherous 25-foot slide.

CLEAN RIDE

Carfagno made a clean ride through the slide but when his mount hit the water its head slammed into the athlete's face, knocking him unconscious into the water.

Quick action on the part of Lt. Col. Lew Whiting, officer in charge of the center, spectators and several pentathletes at the scene, saved Carfagno from further injury.

* * *

Also injured and, for all intents and purposes, out of competition was Jim Coots, 1966 U.S. National champion and a favorite for a spot on the Olympic team. Coots tore a muscle in his upper, left forearm on the water hole jump, where Carfagno was injured. Coots suffered his injury in the morning section of the ride, and Carfagno was hurt in the evening heat.

Out of the 30 competitors entered in the trials, only three made clean rides over the course, judged to be one of the most rugged the majority of the pentathletes had ever ridden.

In the first place at the end of the ride was Jim Ferr, Waukesha, Wis.; with a time of 3:11.6 and the maximum score of 1,100.

* * *

Second was Spec. 5 Richard Fernandes, San Jose, Calif., with a time of 3:12.9 and a score of 1,100, and third was Jan Whitton, who just finished competition in the Olympic development trials Saturday. Whitton, 1965 junior pentathlon champion, was the only rider of the 15 who covered the course in the morning to make a perfect 1,100 score. His time for the 1,500 meter, 22 jump course was 3:38.

Fourth was Mike Freshley, Niles, Mich., with a time of 3:37 and 1,070 points. Dr. Bob Beck was fifth with a 1,070 and a time of 3:44.

Penalty Helps Soccer Stars to 4-0 Victory

By the Associated Press

A converted penalty kick helped Houston record an important victory and enabled the Stars to remain in contention for first place in the Gulf Division of the North American Soccer League.

Halfback Kresten Bjerre drilled the penalty shot past Dallas goalie Terry Adlington at 31:55 of the second half and the Stars went on to defeat the Tornados 4-0 Wednesday night.

In the only other game, Los Angeles and Detroit played a 3-3 tie at Pasadena, Calif.

Jacinto Merayo, Tibor Szalay and Luis Juracy also scored for the Stars, who increased their third-place point total to 112. Kansas City leads with 134 followed by St. Louis with 120. The Stars outshot the Tornados, 28 to 7 at Houston before a crowd of 3,411.

Los Angeles twice came from behind to gain its tie with Detroit before a slim 1,051 in the Rose Bowl. Jorgen Christiansen put Detroit ahead for the second time at 3-2 after 18 minutes of the second half, but Lief-Dag Wernied of the Wolves tied it again four minutes later.

Group Sets Workshops

The annual preseason workshops of the Pontiac Woman's Bowling Association will be Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for all women's league secretaries, treasurers and other key officials.

The Tuesday workshop and school will be at Union Lake's Dublin Community Center (685 Union Lake). Wednesday's session is slated for the Elks Temple (114 Orchard Lake) in Pontiac; and Thursday the PWBA officials will be at Stemmer's Hall (114 E. Third) in Rochester.

* * *

All three sessions will begin at 7 p.m. PWBA officials will disseminate supplies to all those league officers who notify the office that they will attend a specific workshop.

New rules will be discussed and there also will be a question and answer period. The PWBA office is Room B-2, Pontiac State Bank Building; and the telephone is 334-0421.

Horseshoe Tourney Set for State Fair

A Michigan State Fair horseshoe tournament will be staged Aug. 23-Sept. 2 in conjunction with the 119th state fair in Detroit.

Cosponsored by the Detroit Department of Parks and Recreation and the state Amateur Athletic Union, the tourney is open to all who want to enter.

Qualifying is planned noon-8:30 p.m. daily from Aug. 23 until Aug. 30. Those having the highest percentage of ringers on their 50 pitches will then enter the semifinals Sept. 1.

The finals will be Sept. 2 at which time trophies will be given. Awards will also be made to the top qualifiers each day.

Be careful of buying inferior protection!
Certainly, cost is a major factor, but make sure you are not being short-changed on protection!

It's Chevy clean-up -a great time to swap your old trade-in on a new trade-in.
August is a heck of a time around a Chevy dealer's OK lot. We're having such a great clean-up of '68 Chevies, we're running clean out of space for used cars.
The trade-in's are many. Many makes. Many models. Many styles. Many colors.
So your choices are many.
We looked them all over. And gave most of them our red OK tag. To let you know they've been inspected, road-tested and, if necessary, reconditioned.
Besides these, we still have some fine 1968 Chevrolet demonstrators. Could be your big chance to pick up a new car. At a used car price.
Soon as you get the chance, stop by our Chevy OK lot. Swap your old trade-in for one of ours. We're in a generous mood.
More people buy used cars at the OK sign.
Look for your Pontiac area Chevy OK Dealer's "Swap Stakes Specials" in today's classified section.

Area Jaycee Trackmen at Nationals

A national championship will be the object of the Oakland County-dominated Michigan Jaycee track team Friday and Saturday in Eugene, Ore.

Nine area thinclads are on the team which will compete in the National Jaycee Track and Field meet. Top preps from across the nation are entered.

Top area threats for individual honors are Waterford's Larry Biskner in the pole vault, Rochester's Bob Woodroof in the 220, Pontiac's Jon Costello in the 880 and Farmington's John Mann in the high jump.

Shot putter Gary VanElst of Middleville, also a member of the team, has consistently topped 60 feet and is a leading contender.

Other county participants are scheduled to be Gene Pankner, Kettering; discus; Bill Penoza, Kettering, triple jump; Kevin Reabe, Kettering, 440; Chris Brown, Farmington, long jump; and Mike Koerner, Cranbrook, mile.

STATE CHAMPION

Flint's Willie Polk and John Morrison of Redford also are on the team. Only winners in the state meet are selected for the national. Waterford's team is the state champion.

* * *

Polk won the 100 and Morrison was voted the outstanding athlete in the state meet after capturing both hurdle races.

Preliminaries in the nationals are scheduled Friday and the finals Saturday.

* * *

Reabe is the only intermediate (16 years old) who qualified for the national. He skipped the intermediate group to compete with the seniors and posted a surprise victory in the 440 of the state meet.

* * *

The five representing the Waterford team — Biskner, Reabe, Pankner, Penoza and Woodroof — are the most from any one state level team to reach the national.

Local Cagers Gain Honors in Pro Camp

Three Pontiac youths earned special recognition last week during their stay at the Dave Bing All-Pro Basketball Camp at Pocono Pines, Pa.

"Campy" Russell, Tony Styles and Myron Brock each gained a berth on the 11-boy honor team for the week. The 6-7, 175-pound Russell was voted the most outstanding prospect among the 120 enrolled last week.

Also attending the camp were John Ray, Len Smith, Gerald Williams and Bill Williams. All those who went were 15-16 years old.

Earl McKee (the new assistant basketball coach at Pontiac Central High School), Dave Simmons Jr. (of the Big Brothers of Oakland County staff) and Dave Simmons Sr. were instrumental in raising funds to enable the boys to attend the camp.

Kluszewski Joins Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds named Ted Kluszewski, their one-time slugging first baseman, to be a batting instructor at the 1969 spring training.

Local 9 Eliminated in State Playoffs

A one-hitter at Beaudette Park and the elimination of the Pontiac city men's softball champion at the Drayton Plains Park featured Wednesday's state district playoffs.

CIO Local 594, who finished strong to win the city fastpitch title, dropped out of the state action by dropping its second game in two starts when Ferndale Republic Underwriters pounded out a 12-2 victory in Class B action.

Ron's Roost, who placed third in the city standings, ousted Waterford Township Ward Body, 10-2, in the Class D losers' bracket and is the only Pontiac team left in state tournament play.

Ron's meets Carrigan Realty of Holly for the Class D district trophy this evening at Drayton Plains. City runner-up Town & Country Lounge was eliminated in the "C" playoffs Tuesday.

STINGY

Last night's "C" action at Beaudette saw Holly Jameson Insurance moundsman Royce Spalding twirl a one-hit, 2-0 whitewashing to bounce Sport Club of Oakland (from Warren) out of the tournament.

Gerry Rutherford's leadoff single in the sixth was the only safety for the losers. Spalding fanned seven and walked five.

Les Linsley walked and scored on Arnold Carnes' opening inning single for the only run Jameson's needed. Bob Summers later doubled and came across on a wild pitch. The Holly squad plays Spencer Floor Covering of Waterford Township tonight in the finals.

Six runs in the first inning on six hits and an error carried Ferndale past Local 594. Dave Neilson cracked a two-run homer for the winners; while the unionmen's lone runs tallied on Hank Thomas' double.

Ferndale will meet Day's Sanitary Service of Waterford Township in the "B" finals Friday night.

Ron's erupted for seven runs in the third inning on six hits, a walk and three Ward errors. Sam Diehm had three of the winners' 11 hits, and Bob Marshbanks fanned 10 while yielding five safeties.

Action Picking Up

Coho Fever Runs High

Coho fever has hit the Lake Michigan shore from Ludington to Arcadia.

However, most of the salmon are being caught in the Ludington-pentwater area with some beginning to show off Frankfort. Roy Smith, 3652 Mark, was among those taking good fish last week.

* * *

He boated two 11-pounders and one that went 13.

The fish are a half to seven miles off shore and some are reaching 15 pounds. Some chinook salmon and lake trout up to three pounds also are being taken.

* * *

Perch fishing is fair to good at Lighthouse Park near Grindstone City on Lake Huron and good at Saginaw Bay near Sand Point. Walleyes are hitting at night on the St. Clair River from the second buoy to the Coast Guard Station.

Bluegills and perch are hitting on area lakes and rainbow trout fishing continues to hold up on Cooley Lake.

REFUGEE RELIEF

They stream across the countryside, their homes destroyed, their lands ravaged, their families broken; they are the refugees of the Vietnam War, the endless parade of helplessness searching for something gone forever from their lives.

For the International Rescue Committee, the work of handling South Vietnam's 2½ million refugees (15% of the nation's population) began in 1954 with the exodus of North Vietnamese following the Geneva agreements.

With the increase in war activity and its subsequent uprooting of more thousands, the effort of IRC became a salvation for the people.

Besides emergency relief, health and medical aid, public health activities and rehabilitation, IRC maintains five day-care centers for children and a community development program which serves as a model to future development within the nation.

The day-care center at Vinh Hoi, Saigon, is under supervision of the Vietnamese Women's Association and, with the help of IRC personnel, preschool age children are fed, clothed and given medical care within an educational environment.

Some 4,000 refugees, working under full-time personnel trained in agriculture, public health and teaching, are making a success of the Lai Thieu community development project, creating a stable, self-supporting and viable community to serve the needs of its occupants.

The children are bathed daily and there is food for their growing bodies; men and women once uprooted now raise crops and poultry; the sickness of the body and spirit has been cleansed by medicine and materials to work, to build, to grow. The refugees are not being forgotten.

The children at the Vinh Hoi day-care center in Saigon.

Exercise builds young bodies under direction of an IRC instructor.

Three faces away from the violence of war.

Refugees work on garden plots while Richard Thrams, agriculturist from Sunfield, Mich., looks on (background).

A child is examined by former Army medic Charles Cowden, Richmond, Ind., at the Lai Thieu dispensary.

Jacqueline Heggeman, Martinsville, Miss., helps in the poultry development program.

SPECIAL DATE-NUT BREAD—Snippets of crystallized ginger add lively flavor to date-nut bread. Finger sandwiches of this special bread are a perfect accompaniment for a fruit salad.

Nut Bread Is Cool, Tasty Fare

With the fresh fruits of summer to amplify the canned and frozen varieties, fruit plates appear with taste-pleasing frequency as luncheon mainstays.

Homemade nut bread, sliced thinly and made into dainty finger sandwiches, is a favorite accompaniment for fruit fashioned salads. When the nut bread is spiced with crystallized ginger and has a complement of chopped dates to boot, nut bread sandwiches become bewitchingly special.

SHARP TASTE

Crystallized ginger root has a real "bite," which is reason enough to emphasize that it be cut into very tiny pieces for addition to the batter. The amount suggested is modest, and real ginger enthusiasts may wish to add a little more at another baking.

* * *

A measure of light brown sugar is used along with the usual granulated sugar to sweeten the batter, for its mellow flavor enhances the ginger.

Evaporated milk adds extra richness so that the bread browns beautifully and keeps nicely moist.

* * *

As with all nut breads this special date-nut one is best made a day or so ahead, wrapped when cold and then stored in the refrigerator. This allows the flavors to ripen and the loaf chills perfectly for thin-slicing ease.

* * *

When making finger sandwiches, the crusts may be trimmed or not as preferred. Spread the thin slices with softened butter, then sandwich together with a filling of softened cream cheese.

SPECIAL DATE-NUT BREAD

½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
½ cup granulated suger
2 tablespoons butter, softened
1 egg
1 cup evaporated milk
½ cup water
3 cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons finely cut crystallized ginger
¾ cup cut up dates
½ cup chopped pecans or walnuts

In a large mixing bowl blend the sugars, softened butter and egg thoroughly. Stir in evaporated milk and water.

* * *

Reserve ¾ cup flour, then sift remaining 2¾ cups sifted flour with the baking powder and salt. Mix the finely cut ginger, dates and nuts with the reserved ¼ cup flour until well coated. Add flour mixture to egg mixture all at once; stir until well blended.

* * *

Add ginger mixture to batter; stir only until blended. Pour into a large greased loaf pan (9½x5½x2¾ inches). Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) until tookpick inserted in center comes out clean, about 1 hour.

* * *

Remove from oven and let stand on cooling rack about 5 minutes. Then turn out on cooling rack and set right side up to cool. When cold, wrap in plastic wrap or aluminum foil and store in refrigerator until used. Makes 1 loaf.

Corn Meal Coat Given Biscuits

Corn meal adds a bit of English muffin flavor to breakfast or dinner biscuits. Roll out, then cut biscuit dough with a three-inch diameter cutter.

Place rounds on baking sheet lightly covered with corn meal. Then sprinkle tops of biscuits with more corn meal. Bake as directed. Serve with orange marmalade.

Salad Resembles Flower Bouquet

Try a cooked vegetable salad that will resemble a flower bouquet. Cook the western-grown fresh vegetables separately until barely tender. Marinate them in French dressing.

Arrange Iceberg lettuce leaves on a large chop plate. In the center put a heap of cauliflower flowerets and surround it with rings of diced carrots, peas, green beans, celery, beet.

Give the edge a finished look with a ring of curly endive.

Eggs are second only to fish liver oils as a natural source of vitamin D. They are also a good source of vitamin A.

Pantry Shelf Peas Make Hearty Salad

Pantryshelf peas are used for an interesting, delightful salad.

Hearty Pea Salad

1 can (8½ ounces) peas, chilled and drained
½ cup finely diced celery
½ cup finely diced cheddar cheese
¼ cup finely diced sweet pickle
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 toblespoons red wine vinegar
Lettuce

* * *

In a mixing bowl toss together peas, celery, cheese and pickle. Sprinkle with oil and vinegar; mix well. Serve on lettuce. (No salt is called for.) Makes 4 servings.

Steaks Bask in Mushroom-Scallion Sauce

A jigtime topping for steak — and so good — is easily made.

Mushrooms and Scallions

2 tablespoons butter
⅓ cup finely slicely scallions (green onion)
1 jar (4½ ounces) whole small mushrooms, drained

* * *

In an 8-inch skillet over low heat, melt the butter; add the scallions; cook gently, stirring often until softened. Add the mushrooms; heat. Serve over steak. Makes 2 to 4 servings.

* * *

If you like, you may use only the white part of the scallion or both the white and green part.

* * *

Shallots, if available, are a delectable substitute for the scallion.

Drinks Give Quick Energy

Summer nutrition is easy with these delicious, easy-to-make summer beverages. Designed to slip down easily, they contain an abundance of well-camouflaged vitamins and minerals.

Substitute fresh berries in season as indicated. But be sure that you pique flavors with lemon magic.

* * *

The quick energy provided by the natural fruit sugars can provide a much needed pick up for mom, too, on those hot summer afternoons.

Space Station Fizz

1 6-ounce can frozen grape juice concentrate
1 ⅓ cans water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 egg white, besten until frothy
1 cup crushed ice

Combine grape juice concentrate, water, lemon juice and frothy egg whites; mix well. Pour over crushed ice. Makes 3 cups.

Raspberry Super Nog

1 10-ounce package frozen raspberries*
2 eggs
3 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup milk

Put raspberries, eggs and lemon juice in blender; blend until smooth. Add milk. Serve immediately. Makes 2¼ cups.

*One cup fresh raspberries and ½ cup simple syrup may be used.

Marinate First

Slice a Spanish-type sweet onion into thin rings and marinate in olive oil and lemon juice; store in the refrigerator. Serve as a relish. If the oil congeals, during storage, allow the mixture to stand at room temperature before serving.

POACHED FISH IN LEMON BOUILLON — An elegant way to serve a whole fish: Simmer it gently in a good lemon-y bouillon.

Poach Fish in Lemon Bouillon

If you were to take a look in the refrigerator of the American homemaker, you would almost always find a lemon or two. The lemon is one of the most versatile fruits in the kitchen. Available all year 'round, it has become a household staple.

There is hardly a part of the lemon which is not a daily culinary "must."

Because the lemon is one of the basic seasonings in good cooking, its piquant flavor is a toner-upper for vegetables, and salads, clear soups and broths.

Smart homemakers rub lemon on lamb and poultry; it helps tenderize the meat, as well as to add flavor.

A twist of lemon enhances the delicate flavor of fish and seafood.

POACHED FISH IN LEMON BOUILLON

7 to 8 cups water
1 fresh celery rib with leaves, quartered
1 fresh carrot
1 fresh lemon, sliced into wedges
1 medium-sized fresh onion, sliced
1 whole clove fresh garlic
2 sprigs fresh parsley
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1½ tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon whole black pepper
1 bay leaf
2 pounds striped bass, trout or scrod
Fresh lemon peel for garnish

In large sauce pan or fish poacher bring water to boil. Tie celery and carrot together with string. Drop into boiling water. Add remaining ingredients except fish.

Cook for 30 minutes to develop flavor. Remove tied vegetables from bouillon, if desired. Place fish on rack and immerse in lemon bouillon. Entire fish should not be covered with liquid.

* * *

Poach fish in simmering water 15 minutes or until done. Garnish with very finely slivered lemon peel. Yield: 2 to 3 servings.

SKY-HIGH FUDGE PIE—Take 12 ladyfingers; reserve five. Separate remaining ones and cover bottom of 9-inch pie pan. Separate reserved ladyfingers and cut each in half crosswise; stand upright around edge of pan. Store in freezer while preparing filling. Combine 1 package chocolate instant pudding mix; one cup milk one teaspoon vanilla; beat as directed on package. Fold in one cup cream whipped. Spoon one quart vanilla ice cream and chocolate mixture in layers into pie shell starting and ending with ice cream. Sprinkle nuts over top. Freeze until chocolate filling is firm. Makes one 9-inch pie, 8 servings.

Cookies Great for Summer

These cookies are great to serve for that summer coffee break.

Walnut Crisps

1 cup unsifted regular flour
¼ teaspoon baking soda
⅜ pound (1½ sticks) butter or regular margarine
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 large egg
1 cup finely chopped walnuts

Lightly grease large cookie sheets; sprinkle with flour; shake to coat surface; shake out excess flour.

On wax paper thoroughly stir together flour and soda. In medium mixing bowl cream butter, sugar and vanilla; thoroughly beat in egg. Add flour mixture; stir to blend. Stir in walnuts.

* * *

Drop level tablespoonfuls of batter, several inches apart, on prepared cookie sheets—12 to a sheet. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until well browned around edges — 7 to 8 minutes.

Let cool a few seconds; with wide spatula remove to wire racks to cool. (If necessary use a pastry brush to brush off any pan coating.)

STORE COOKIES

Store cold cookies in tightly covered tin box. Makes about 3½ dozen.

This No-Cook Fare Adds Sweet Ending

A no-cook confection adds a sweet ending to a meal.

Almond Trifles

1 package (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 package (6 ounces) butterscotch flavored pieces
¾ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
½ cup commercial sour cream
1½ teaspoons grated orange rind
¾ teaspoon salt
2 cups vanilla wafer crumbs
¾ cup chopped toasted blanched almonds

Melt chocolate and butterscotch pieces together in top of double boiler over hot (not boiling) water; remove from heat. Add confectioners' sugar, sour cream, orange rind and salt; mix well. Mix in crumbs.

* *

Chill until firm. Shape into 1-inch balls. Roll in almonds. Store in tightly-covered container in refrigerator. Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

Ham Provides Fine Flavor in Baked Beans

A sense of accomplishment comes with baking beans.

BAKED BEANS WITH HAM SHANK

1 package (1 pound) pea beans (also called navy beans)
½ cup finely chopped onion
1½ cups medium-chopped pared McIntosh apples
¼ cup each chili sauce and dark molasses
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1 teaspoon each dry mustard and ginger
¼ teaspoon tabasco sauce
3 pounds smoked ham shank

In a large saucepan, cover beans with water; bring to a boil; boil 2 minutes. Cover and let stand 1 hour.

Add onion; cook until tender — about 30 minutes. Drain, reserving 1½ cups liquid.

* * *

Turn beans into a casserole large enough to hold the ham shank. Mix reserved liquid with remaining ingredients except ham and stir into beans. Add ham; cover and bake at 325 degrees about 2 hours.

Remove ham and keep warm. Continue baking beans, uncovered, until top browns — about 30 minutes. Spoon off excess fat, if you like, from beans.

Serve with slices of the ham. Makes 8 servings.

Wedding Cake Been Changed From First Form

The first wedding cake — made of flour, salt and water — was used ritually in the ancient Roman form of marriage to symbolize plenty. To further honor Ceres, goddess of growing food plants, the bride held three stalks of wheat.

With time, the ceremony changed. So did the cake. Moved from church to reception table, the ceremonial cutting of the cake is today's first after-wedding custom.

* * *

To make the unleavened ritual cake palatable, rich ingredients were added. When sugar, one of Ceres' food paints, was creamed with the butter it was found that air also was incorporated and distributed through the batter with the eggs and milk to produce a light, fine-textured (pound) cake.

* * *

But as weddings grew larger, cakes became monumental. To sustain the weight of three to nine deep, graduated tiers, and to ensure keepability, the sugar-leavened pound cake was stuffed with nuts and dried or candied fruits.

This light-colored cake could be made far enough ahead to permit the elaborate ornamental icing and decorating essential to the bride's cake.

* * *

A dark fruit cake, while less perishable, shows through the thickest of white sugar icings. So practical custom made this the cake to be given departing guests in special wedding boxes, often initialed or dated, and named it the groom's cake.

Cocoa Cake Itself Is Not Fattening

Use a cake that isn't rich when you want to add whipped cream and bananas!

COCOA CAKE WITH BANANAS AND WHIPPED CREAM

3 cups sifted cake flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup cocoa
1½ cups commercial sour cream
1¼ cups sugar
3 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla

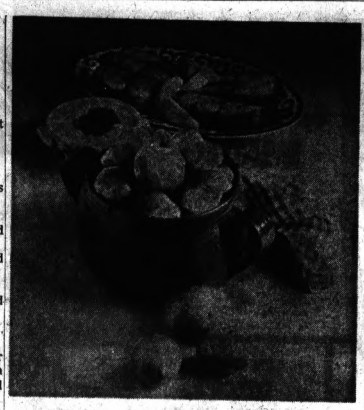
Grease and line two 9-inch round cake pans with wax paper. On a large sheet of wax paper, sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and cocoa.

Beat together sour cream, sugar, eggs and vanilla. Fold in dry ingredients, stirring until barely smooth; do not beat or cake will have tunnels. Turn into prepared pans.

* * *

Bake in preheated 375-degree oven until cake tester inserted comes out clean — 25 minutes. Turn out. Fill and frost with sweetened whipped cream and bananas. (The cake itself is lean.)

Even in the summer, hot foods have a place in your menus—try tasty Cheddar cheese cubes served in piping hot cream of tomato or French onion soup.



POTATO SALMON DINNER—Delightful dining is ahead when new potatoes are served with horseradish sauce and grilled salmon steaks.

Easy on Budget

Combine Spuds, Fish

Here's a cookery recommendation containing the solution you may be seeking in making your meatless meals memorable.

Sea food and new potatoes is a culinary partnership which rarely misses. Potatoes, hearty energy food since the beginning of history, are also kind to your budget.

* * *

A recent food preference study among children of ages 5 to 12 ranked potatoes second only to meat and ice cream.

However, this only verified what most homemakers already know, from their personal experience of querying families on what they want for dinner and getting back the old familiar reply of:

"Well, potatoes and —"

* * *

Today's recipes offer excellent "potatoes and —" partnerships by way of "Potato a piquant horseradish sauce.

POTATO SALMON DINNER

3 pounds new potatoes
Horseradish Sauce
6 salmon steaks, broiled

Scrub new potatoes; remove the skin from around the center of each potato. Cook, covered, in a small amount of boiling salted water until just tender. Drain, if necessary.

While potatoes are cooking, prepare Horseradish Sauce.

Horseradish Sauce:

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk
½ cup sour cream
¼ cup prepared horseradish
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice

Melt butter or margarine; stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture thickens and boils. Remove from heat.

Combine sour cream, horseradish, parsley and lemon juice; stir into sauce. Heat to serving temperature, stirring frequently.

Serve sauce with potatoes and salmon steaks. Makes 6 servings.

Good Lunches Can Be Easy

Summer lunches for children can be economical and easy if plans are made ahead of time. Why not let the youngsters help serve themselves?

A good lunch, according to School Lunch home economists includes meat, cheese, eggs, fish or some other protein food; vegetables or fruit; bread and milk.

* * *

Here's a menu idea for lunch in a hurry from the Consumer and Marketing Service:

Tuna Fish Sandwiches
Carrot Strips
Banana or Peach
Chocolate Milk

CHOCOLATE MILK

Combine 1 pound box instant nonfat dry milk, 1 cup sugar, ¾ cup cocoa and ¼ teaspoon salt. Store in a glass jar or metal canister.

COOL, THEN CHILL

To prepare a quart of chocolate milk, measure 1 1-3 cups mix and stir in enough water to make a paste. Add a quart of boiling water. Cool, then chill in refrigerator.

Two shopping tips for this lunch include: grated tuna is less expensive than chunk and is fine for sandwiches. Ready-to-eat bananas are flecked with brown. They are sometimes sold for less and are good when eaten right away.

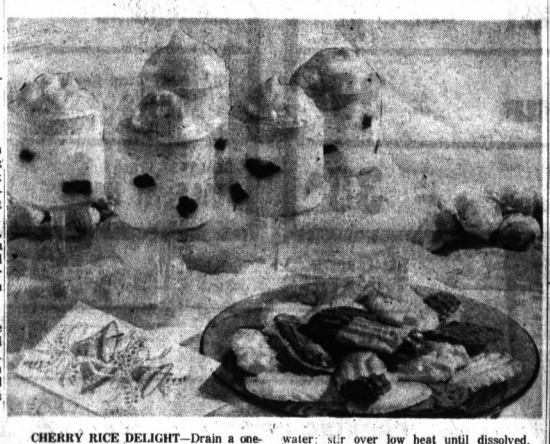
Three-Layer Parfait Starts With Pudding

Canned milk chocolate pudding gives a fresh taste to favorite parfaits. This one's an easy-do layering of milk chocolate pudding, sliced banana, and toasted rice cereal.

Choco-Nana Crisp

1 can (16 ounces) milk chocolate pudding
1 cup sliced banana
½ cup toasted rice cereal

Fill 4 parfait glasses with alternate layers of pudding, banana, and cereal. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.



CHERRY RICE DELIGHT—Drain a one-pound can of dark sweet cherries; save syrup. Combine a can of rice pudding with one cup sour cream and the cherries. Divide among 8 dessert dishes. Sprinkle one envelope unflavored gelatine over ½ cup water; stir over low heat until dissolved. Add cherry syrup. Chill until very thick; beat with rotary beater until mixture is fluffy. Pour over pudding mixture in dishes. Chill until firm. Makes 8 servings.

Instant Minced Onion Picks Up Shrimp Dish

Modern dehydrated onions in a half dozen or more forms are sold all over the United States. They are easily stored, without the problem of "sprouting" or rotting.

Besides being a convenience and a great time-saver, dehydrated onion has an aroma which is uniformly onion-y, never too strong or too mild.

The use of dehydrated onion products has jumped phenomenally during the last few years as women have tried and loved these handy seasoners.

Old family recipes using fresh onion are easily up-dated: Use just about one-eighth as much instant minced onion as minced fresh onion.

Instant minced onion gives the final flavor fillip to these shrimp and green bean stuffed tomatoes.

SHRIMP AND BEAN STUFFED TOMATOES

6 large tomatoes
½ pound cooked, peeled and deveined shrimp
1 package (7 oz.) frozen cut green beans, cooked
¼ teaspoon powdered mustard
¼ cup olive or salad oil
1 tablespoon white vinegar
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
1/16 teaspoon ground black pepper

Cut ¼-inch thick slice from stem end of each tomato. Scoop out centers and dice. Invert tomato shells to drain; chill.

Reserve 6 whole shrimp for garnish; dice remaining shrimp. Combine diced tomato, shrimp and beans in medium bowl. Refrigerate.

Mix powdered mustard with ½ teaspoon warm water; let stand 10 minutes for flavor to develop. Combine mustard with remaining ingredients; mix well. Pour over tomato mixture.

Refrigerate until well chilled. When ready to serve spoon mixture into tomato shells. Garnish with reserved whole shrimp. Serve as luncheon main course. Yield: 6 portions.

Plan to Include French Bread at Cookout Meals

When you cook over barbecue briquets outdoors or in, depend on French bread as an asset to the meal. If toasted, it is a perfect accompaniment to many vegetable and meat dishes.

To begin with, slice a loaf of French bread not quite through at 1-inch intervals. Into each slice pour melted butter with celery salt.

Wrap the loaf in foil and heat on a charcoal grill.

For something different, dip thick slices of French bread into seasoned melted butter, dunking thoroughly. Then toast the slices over the glowing coals, turning once.

TOMATO BUTTER

You can always invent your own spreads. To make tomato butter, mash soft butter with chopped tomatoes and a bit of basil.

You also can spread the bread with cheese butter, made by mashing butter and blue cheese together.

A tasty bread, along with frankfurters or hamburgers and a green salad, can make a meal.

A seasoned and buttered bread is also superb with a favorite beef, lamb or chicken meal cooked over flavor-giving barbecue briquets.

Cook Veal in Rotisserie

Ever cook a veal leg roast in a rotisserie? It makes delicious eating and will vary your outdoor cooking menu.

Here are instructions from the home economics experts of a major meat company:

To rotisserie cook a boneless, rolled and tied veal leg roast, rub the roast with a mixture of 1 tablespoon leaf tarragon, 1 teaspoon each of chopped parsley and salt, and ¼-teaspoon pepper. Insert the spit through the center of the roast to balance the weight evenly.

Place the spit in position in the rotisserie. Cook according to the manufacturer's directions until a roast meat thermometer registers 180 degrees — about 2¾ hours.

After the first half-hour of the cooking period, baste the roast occasionally with 1 stick (½-cup) butter or margarine, melted, and 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

MARKET BASKET

SHRIMP AND BEAN STUFFED TOMATOES—Instant minced onion gives the final flavor fillip to these shrimp and green bean stuffed tomatoes.

Make Broccoli an Eye-Catcher

Tender raw flowerets of broccoli tossed with quarters of tomatoes make eye catching salad when placed on a bed of Iceberg lettuce.

Make a dressing of sour cream mixed with a dash of dry mustard, curry, seasoned salt, pepper.

Touch of Onion Savors Flavor of Squash Skillet

A touch of onion adds savory flavor to summer squash.

Summer Squash Skillet

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 small onion, sliced into thin rounds
1 yellow summer squash (¾ pound), sliced
¼ cup boiling water
½ teaspoon salt

In a 6-inch skillet over moderately low heat melt butter; add onion and cook, stirring often and separating into rings, until browned.

Wash squash; cut away any blemishes; do not peel; discard ends and slice ¼-inch thick. Cut any very wide slices in half.

* * *

Into a 10-inch skillet turn squash, water and salt; simmer, tightly covered but turning squash a few times, until slices look transparent — 8 to 10 minutes.

Drain off any liquid; mix in onion; reheat if necessary. Makes 3 servings.

If you have an old favorite recipe calling for sour milk, substitute the same amount of buttermilk and you will find it works equally well.

U.S. Eases Job Path for Returning Vets

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press News Features

WASHINGTON—Are you one of the 35,000 servicemen returning to civilian life each month and looking for a job? (Another 35,000 will be going back to school.)

Then here's news for you.

Uncle Sam is trying to provide, for those wanting it, more practical and down to earth help for the ones wanting to work for the government.

BAULCH

Any veteran of the Vietnam era—since Aug. 5—is eligible for this special help.

You can find out which Civil Service exams are open and where to file an application by visiting one of the Civil Service Commission's job information centers in 65 major cities. Your state employment service or a Veterans Administration office should be able to tell you where the nearest one is in your state.

Full-time Civil Service interviewers are stationed at the 21 VA assistance centers set up this year to help veterans getting out of service to learn about all their benefits and privileges. Some men also are getting such guidance in VA centers in Vietnam.

* * *

At the 21 VA centers, the job interviewer will give you personal counsel and tell you about vacancies in the commuting area of the city in which the VA center is located. Chairman John W. Macy Jr. of the commission has instructed interviewers to pay special attention to any veteran finding job-hunting tough.

There is something new in federal service for veterans who did not finish high school or completed less than a year beyond high school. You can get transitional appointment to a federal job in the first five pay levels and, if you successfully complete the transitional period, you can get a career appointment.

YEAR TO APPLY

You have to apply within a year after discharge from service or from a military hospital or a year after last Feb. 9, whichever is later. That's the date President Johnson signed the order setting up the program.

For a transitional appointment, you have to meet all qualifications for the job, including passing a written test. But there is a difference from the normal entry system. While you must pass the test, you don't have to compete with other applicants.

* * *

To stay in, however, you have to maintain an acceptable standing in your course of study and keep up with it for a minimum of one full-time academic year or its equivalent, and another year if that should be necessary to get a high school diploma.

After one year of satisfactory service and completion of the approved education or training you can get regular Civil Service status.

Army Bans Mailing Lists

The Army, like the VA, has barred its people from giving insurance agents lists of soldiers who are getting out of service.

What has been happening is this: Under the Servicemen's Group Life Insurance program, a person getting out of service has 120 days from discharge to convert to commercial life insurance without having to take a physical examination or produce a certificate of good health. An agent who can get a list of men getting out of service can get a jump on contacting the GIs rather than waiting for the men to come to him.

* * *

But the Army now says that any military or civilian personnel who provides lists of discharged servicemen is subject to prosecution under the U.S. Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The weekly Army Times noted recently that the Army has received complaints that some agents try to give the impression that they are the only ones accredited to sell the SGLI conversion insurance. And others complain that some companies claim they are accredited to sell the converted insurance when they're in reality not.

Massachusetts OKs Bonus

Massachusetts is the latest state to offer a bonus to Vietnam veterans; the first payments are expected to be made by mid-September.

Under the new law, Vietnam combat-zone veterans are eligible for $300, others $200. Six months' active duty is required to qualify. Veterans' organizations and veterans service office have the applications.

Massachusetts thus joins Delaware, Louisiana, Connecticut, and Illinois in offering bonuses to Vietnam veterans. Other state legislatures are considering them.

Decline of Excellence Cited

Are U.S.-Made Goods Best?

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

What's happening? Does that good old label, "Made in the U.S.A." still stand for the best that money can buy? Does it all mean that excellence has somehow vaporized in a short circuit which cannot be found or corrected?

No, no, a thousand times no.

In fact, faster and faster, the American genius for production punches out everything from baby toys to pods for moon landings.

* * *

To its glory, it can send submarines under icecaps, use satellites to relay sights and sounds, make cars and planes that destroy space, produce clothes that never need pressing, and replenish the everchanging storehouse of appliances that take the work out of work.

But despite the grand things and the glory, there is a margin that doesn't make the grade.

WIDESPREAD PROBLEM

A fleet of airplanes is grounded because of trouble with a rod in a hydraulic valve; millions of automobiles are called back to the plant because of potential defects relating to safety; tens of thousands of large screen color TV sets have to be modified after the discovery of potential danger of radiation leaks; plant construction comes to a halt because of defective components in a generator.

The manufacturer blames it on the blue collar work. No pride. No sense of craftsmanship.

* * *

The worker looks toward the executive suite and claims to see the trouble there. Men who take shortcuts for profit look the other way rather than see bad design, ignore quality control.

If there is a referee in this argument, it might be the expert in quality control. Frank Nixon, who had such a post with Rolls Royce Limited, says 80 per cent of it lies on the head of management.

Presumably, no one would make a thing that can hurt others through defectiveness. But plenty of bad products do. The U.S. Public Health Service reports that faulty heating devices cause 125,000 injuries a year; stoves, power mowers and washing machines, 100,000, and electrical extension cords, 30,000. Thousands of court suits are the result.

Product liability suits are based on the claim there was a defect in the product when it left the manufacturer and that this was the proximate cause of the injury which occurred while the product was being used in a reasonably foreseeable manner.

* * *

The breadth of such cases gives some measure of the range of defectiveness.

A court in Illinois affirmed a $65,000 judgment for a baby burned because of a fire caused by a defective metal vaporizer; a Wisconsin woman received $4,250 for injuries received because of a short circuit in a washing machine; a shoe dealer was held liable in the death of a child who suffered a fatal infection from a blister allegedly caused by a wrinkle in the lining of a shoe; a woman who was pregnant received $25,000 because the back of an aluminum kitchen chair came off, due to the use of the wrong type of screws, causing her to fall and sustain injuries which led to the premature birth of her child.

PRODUCT WATCHDOG—A researcher for Consumer's Union, Mount Vernon, N. Y., makes a waffle—but not to eat. He wants to make sure the best possible waffle iron—and a host of other products—is sold across the counter.

PRODUCT OF TIMES?

To some observers, this is all the product of good times. The hungry demand for goods has producers operating in high gear and sometimes the price for high volume is shoddiness or defectiveness — with the hope that someone down the line will catch the aberration.

As an example of what can happen when it comes to repairs, Consumer's Union of Mount Vernon, N.Y., a nonprofit watchdog for the consumer, placed 20 TV sets with identical trouble — a bad tube in each — in 20 homes. Tubes and parts were marked with invisible ink. Of 20 repairmen, only three made the correct repairs at an average reasonable price of $8 for replaced tube and labor. Nine made unnecessary tube replacements, two said sets had to be taken into their shops and others found a multitude of unnecessary problems. Charges were as high as $34.30.

* * *

There is a dollar cost, too. But what it is can only be guessed at. Says William R. Pabst Jr., of the Naval Ordnance Systems Command in Washington, D.C.: "The measurement of defectiveness in meaningful economic terms is very nearly impossible."

But there are clues to its dimensions. The records of large-scale buyers such as the Department of Defense and the Administration offer some yardstick. The radical increase of court suits certainly gives one dimension of serious failure.

OTHER INDICATORS

Obsolescence is one indicator. So is the cost of maintenance, the volume of seconds and irregulars, the frequency of repair, the record of recalls.

Another reflection is in the increasing numbers of people who have experience with things that don't live up to expectation — and complain loudly to anyone who'll listen. President Johnson, taking notice of this, appointed Betty Furness to do some listening as head of the President's Committee on Consumer Interestes. And Rep. Democrat-Liberal, wants to go several steps further and create a Department of Consumer Affairs, which would be like another side of the Commerce Dept.

* * *

Obsolescence is tricky, but everyone feels he has come face-to-face with it in the darkness, when the light bulb goes out. It always seems that that's the bulb that was just put in.

The annual style change in automobiles is an implied statement that the 1968 model makes the 1967 one obsolete. Even a new car starts declining in value the moment it is driven from the dealer. It automatically depreciates anywhere from $400 up.

REPAIR ONE INDEX

Consumer's Union considers one index of defectiveness to be the amount and frequency of repair. It gives repair rate experience with various products, particularly automobiles. But no projection is possible that would give the picture nationally.

Says Betty Furness, the onetime lady huckster on TV: "Sometimes new equipment reaches the market much too early, before the bugs are ironed out and proper quality control measures have been taken."

* * *

"As the evidence comes in, there seems little doubt," says Consumer's Union, "that a color TV set can be a very chancy thing indeed. Too many of our own test sets have come with defects. The volume of complaints from readers is great enough for us to state that the color TV buyer should be especially on guard. Of all types of products, only autos generate more complaints."

The General Services Administration, which is a large-scale shopper for government goods, reported 24 different defects in a procurement of half-ton trucks, ranging from exposed electrical body wiring to a shift lever guard that could injure the driver's hand.

DIFFERENT CONCEPT?

There are those who feel that unless serious defects are corrected, the society may move toward a different concept of obtaining things. Instead of owning an automobile, for instance, a person would buy a number of hours or miles of trouble-free traveling.

An air conditioner wouldn't be owned, but the maker would instead agree to deliver x-number of hours of 70-degree temperature.

* * *

Of more immediate consequence may be the moves taken by Consumers Union and by Rep. Rosenthal. Consumers Union has brought suit to force the Veterans Administration to reveal results of its testing of hearing aids. CU says since the taxpayers paid for the tests they should have access to the information to guide them toward purchasing the best on the market. Rosenthal wants all product information from the GSA, National Bureau of Standards, Defense Department, and so on made available, arguing: "The federal government is committing commercial negligence by really failing to inform us about the thousands of items which it has found to be dependable and excellent."

MAPPING 'SISTER GEORGE' — Susannah York listens intently as Robert Aldrich outlines a scene from "The Killing of Sister George." Aldrich produces and directs the film, which is his new studio's first effort.

Director Is Happy: New Film, Studio

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — "The Killing of Sister George" is the birth of Hollywood's newest studio. Robert Aldrich, the producer and director, has opened his own studio and this is his first production in his own digs. Everybody seems happy about the arrangement.

The film, a bitter comedy dealing with lesbians, comes from a hit play in London and New York. Aldrich has courageously cast Beryl Reid in the lead, which she played on the stage, even though she is virtually unknown to American movie patrons.

★ ★ ★

"The New York audience was much more shockable than the London audience," Beryl says. "In London, they'd say, 'Oh, so that's the kind of relationship it is, is it?'

★ ★ ★

But in New York, they made all kinds of noises—'Tsk, tsk' and 'Oh, no.' And they's ask me, 'What's the psychological motivation?' I told them I hadn't the foggiest notion."

Miss Reid and her costar, Susannah York, were involved in a difficult scene. They were having a loud argument and the takes were long and involved.

★ ★ ★

Beryl is a short, stout woman with a long career as a comic in England — and the twinkling eyes and ready laugh to prove it.

Susannah is a fine young actress and, in a gossamer pale blue negligee, it was easy to see that she is one of the finest structures to leave England since they tore down London Bridge.

'THING OF BEAUTY'

They finished a take and Aldrich, who is of the pleasant school of directors, said, "A thing of beauty."

He is full of little quips. When Susannah slammed the door at one point in the scene, Aldrich said, "Don't slam the door — the set will fall down." A few minutes later, Beryl coughed and he said, "Oh-oh. When an actress coughs on Tuesday, that means we'll all have Friday off."

★ ★ ★

Somebody had thrown a cigarette into a can and it set some scrap of paper afire. "What's burning around here, boys?" Aldrich asked. They told him. "Too bad," he said, "I was hoping it was the mortgage."

★ ★ ★

The Aldrich Studio is in a lower-middle-class, or upper-lower-class, part of Los Angeles. It used to be a place where documentaries were shot. Aldrich rebuilt the one sound stage, built a second one and has plans for two more.

WEEKEND ONLY

Outside, at the gate to the parking lot, is a sign which reads: "This parking lot may not be used as a playground during weekdays . . . It is the intent of the management that the neighborhood may use this area on weekends, holidays or at night after the studio has closed." It is a gesture no other studio has attempted.

★ ★ ★

This aura of benevolence and good will seems to be catching. The atmosphere, among cast and crew, is happy. And the two stars — they are joined by Coral Browne and Patricia Medina in other major parts — are high in their praise for Aldrich as a man and a director.

Japan Testing 2 Fast Trains

Designers Developing Future Transportation

By Science Service

TOKYO — Japanese transportation designers, with a flair for the frontier in transportation research, are developing a pair of futuristic trains, one for connecting Tokyo and Osaka — 320 miles apart—in 35 minutes, and another which will have a speed twice as fast as that of the most advanced monorail now in operation anywhere.

So far the chief attention is focusing on a wheelless train that has traveled over rollers at speeds approaching the speed of sound during research and test runs at Meiji University in Nagoya City, 250 miles from Tokyo. A model of this train recently attained a speed of 575 miles per hour over a 325-yard course.

★ ★ ★

It is the brainchild of Dr. Hisanojo Ozawa, former chief engineer and wartime aircraft designer for Mitsubishi Aircraft Manufacturing Co., Ltd. and the man who designed the K121 and K167 heavy bombers for the Imperial Japanese Air Force.

Future trains, in Dr. Ozawa's opinion, will all be powered by rockets and run over rollers instead of rails. He likens the future tracks to a series of rollers placed on frames resembling hurdles.

NEXT MODEL

His next model wil be equipped with three rocket engines and will aim for a speed of 730 miles an hour, within a year and a half to two years.

His eventual train will be 240 yards in length and 18 feet wide, will accommodate 1,000 passengers in rows of five apiece on either side of the central aisle.

★ ★ ★

Transporting passengers from Tokyo to Asaka in 25 minutes will provide a sharp contrast with today's best time, achieved by the New Tokaido Ivory Bullet which cruises at 125 miles an hour and can add 25 percent to that at full-throttle.

Even when they rely on wheels, the Japanese engineers are not bound by traditional wheeled concepts. A more advanced, hybrid creature moving toward reality is the sky car, an invention of Dr. Hideo Fukuda, Meiji University professor of engineering.

WEIRD HYBRID

This weird hybrid that half flies and half runs on rails combines elements of an aircraft, an automobile and an overhead rail vehicle. It is actually an elevated electric railway designed to carry 80 persons at 125 miles and hour or more.

The sky car has already successfully been demonstrated on Meiji University campus in downtown Tokyo.

Stress Irony of Everyday Life

Czech Movies Reflect New Liberalism

NEW YORK (AP) — Recent Czechoslovak movies seen in the United States reflect the liberalization of the Prague Communist regime which has angered the Soviet Union and much of its European bloc.

The films, increasingly popular here, have contained a high degree of innovation and have tended to stress irony and humor in their handling of contemporary problems of everyday life.

They frequently have poked fun at the Communist party line and have played more on the frustrations brought about by Red policy rather than on its "accomplishments."

This is a far cry from the "socialist realism"—the idealization of life in Communist lands—which is the official dogma of the Kremlin.

ACADEMY AWARD

Prime example of the "new" type of Czech film was "Closely Watched Trains," which won an Academy Award as best foreign language film last year. The tragicomedy tells a story of a young boy's sexual coming of age and takes place at a small railroad station during World War II.

Earlier this year, the magazine Soviet Culture, organ of the Soviet Ministry of Culture, singled out "Closely Watched Trains" as an example of a "negative" approach to communism. It called the movie a "retreat from the traditions of realism" and said it "ignored the people's values."

* * *

The film was written and directed by 31-year-old Jiri Menzel, who also plays a role in the movie.

The year before, American audiences took to "The Shop on Main Street," which became the first East European film to win an Oscar. It is about the friendship between an old Jewish woman shopkeeper and an "aryan" Czech assigned to take over her business during the Nazi occupation.

MONETARY REASON

It has grossed more than $3 million in the U.S. market—adding a realistic reason to the political one that has kept the Czech government from any movie precensorship.

It was codirected by Jan Kadar and Elmar Klos, two highly respected film makers in the state-run industry.

* * *

In an Associated Press interview after accepting the Oscar for that film, Klos was asked what was behind the burgeoning Czech film industry of the past few years.

"It is because of the new cultural atmosphere that began about four years ago," he said then. "Since that time, 20 new, talented directors have graduated from the (film) academy and they are doing exciting things."

NO SUPERVISION

Kadar added: "Our country always has been superior in cartoons and puppet films. The freedoms we have enjoyed in the past few years has allowed us to catch up in other kinds of films. We have no supervision in the making of movies. There may be controversy after the film is made, but we have the freedom to make it."

Back in 1950, Czech government officials were slapping at the "decadence" of the West, with one minister saying the United States threatened European culture with Hollywood movies.

* * *

The industry began changing about 1956, after the 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party brought new ideas to the cultural elements of Czechoslovakia. Almost immediately, nonconformist and experimental films began to appear.

"Loves of a Blonde," a tender, noncliche comedy by writer-director Milos Forman, was one of the first to reflect the changes in the arts. It has grossed more than $1 million in the United States. After it appeared in 1965, former Czech Communist leader Antonin Novotny warned that the party would take "a firmer hold on the whole process of ideological education."

LATEST FILM

Novotny was replaced as party chief early in 1966 by Alexander Dubcek, leader of the current reform movement.

Latest of the "unfettered" films to come from Czechoslovakia is "The Girl With Three Camels," a comedy of life among the lower working classes and the struggles of a young girl to find a name for her illegitimate child.

* * *

Much of it deals with the frustrations of the girl's mother, in the kind of warm-hearted floozy roles Shelley Winters often plays here, as she attempts to cut through official red tape to help her daughter—sniping at socialist bureaucracy all the way.

Britain Seen Getting Closer to Euromart

BRUSSELS (AP) — A new effort is planned for this fall to get Britain and four other countries in the north of Europe closer to membership in the Common Market, despite the opposition of France's President Charles de Gaulle.

De Gaulle has kept Britain out for over five years, but others still hope new ways of cooperation can be found.

In the building of computers and nuclear power reactors, for example, Britain's advantages are considerable. New emphasis will be put on nuclear experiments and on the coal and steel industries, areas in which Britain is already associated with the Euromart countries.

The British have played down these association agreements in the recent past. They did not want them extended to all fields of Common Market activity because they were afraid of being classed permanently as associate or second-class citizens.

BRITAIN RECONCILED

Now the British government has reconciled itself to the idea that it is unlikely to become a full member of the Common Market while de Gaulle holds power. So it is looking for progress through practical measures which it hopes will bring membership closer when negotiations can actually start.

French officials agree that the time is coming to do more about technological cooperation, the experts' term for getting more science into industry on a continentwide basis. This pleases the British, who say that on this subject they will have to be brought into the talks.

Such talks, whatever they are called, will essentially be the start of negotiations for British membership.

Less emphasis is being put on the idea of making special commercial arrangements between Britain and the Common Market—tariff reductions that would help the sales of British goods on the continent. This was widely discussed last spring. But France has taken measures to restrict imports in order to match its loss of exports because of the recent massive strikes.

Internal Revenue service officials say they receive about 100,000 tips each year from persons looking for rewards, seeking vengeance or simply patriotic with information on possible tax cheats.

U.S. Casualties Lowest of Year

South Viet Losses for Week Are Up Slightly

SAIGON (UPI) — American forces suffered their fewest combat casualties of the year last week, U.S. spokesmen said today.

The 991 casualties — 173 men killed and 818 wounded — were 230 fewer than the previous week, which had been the low seven-day point of 1968, the announcement said.

★ ★ ★

The figures lent some weight to Hanoi's hints that Communist troops were holding down the level of fighting.

South Vietnamese losses for the week increased slightly. Spokesmen said 243 government soldiers were killed and 781 wounded.

RED LOSSES

The casualty report said 1,642 Communists were killed in the same period, pushing the Reds' total war losses to 377,711. The number of Americans killed since Jan. 1, 1961, rose to 26,634.

American troop strength in Vietnam now stands at 543,000, the report said, with another 35,000 servicemen stationed on U.S. Navy ships off shore.

★ ★ ★

The 173 U.S. servicemen who died last week formed the third lowest weekly death toll of the year, behind the 171 killed in the previous week and the 157 slain in the week of July 20, spokesmen said.

The 818 wounded brought to 166,968 the number of U.S. men wounded in the war.

★ ★ ★

Revising their report from last week, U.S. spokesmen said 1,461 Communists were killed in the week of Aug. 4 instead of the 899 previously reported.

Midland County Sunday Sale OK

MIDLAND (AP) — The Midland County Board of Supervisors Wednesday approved a resolution, 15-10, to allow Sunday liquor sales.

The Greater Midland Area Chamber of Commerce recommended that the action be taken, which is allowed under a new state law.

Dem Credential Hearings Near

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes, chairman of the Democratic National Convention's Credentials Committee, announced Wednesday the schedule of hearings on state delegations in Chicago next week.

The hearings on Michigan's delegates will be held from 2:30 until 4 p.m. on Friday, Hughes said.

Youth Struck by a Truck in Waterford

A Waterford Township youth is recovering today after he was struck early yesterday by a pickup truck while trying to run across Williams Lake Road near the Grand Trunk Western railroad tracks in Waterford Township.

Gary Lee Vandewater, 17, of 5517 Rowley is in fair condition at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, according to hospital officials.

★ ★ ★

Vandewater was struck at 8:30 by a truck driven by Calvin A. Thornton of 2785 Williams Lake, Waterford Township, police said.

Witnesses told police at the scene of the mishap that Vandewater ran from behind one car into the path of Thornton's truck. Thornton, 57, said he could not avoid the accident.

Police said the truck's skid marks measured up to 66 feet long.

Migrant Program in State Funded

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity has approved an $18,000 grant to United Migrants for Opportunity, Inc., of Mount Pleasant, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., announced Wednesday.

The money is to be used for an adult education program for migrants. The work will be conducted at the Muskegon Area Skills Center.

Liquor Sale OK'd

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—The Grand Traverse County Board of Supervisors has approved sale of liquor by the glass on Sundays under provision of a new state law. The vote Wednesday was 15-3.

Ohio Man Killed

ERIE (AP)—Carl Louder, 51, Columbus, Ohio, died Wednesday in a car-truck collision near Erie. The driver of the tractor-trailer truck was not injured, state police said.

Waterford GI Killed in Viet Mine Blast

A 21-year-old Waterford Township serviceman has become a Vietnam casualty.

Spec. 4 Melvin L. McArthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. McArthur, 6238 Waking Lane, was killed last Thursday when the truck he was driving hit a mine on a return trip from a mission to his command post at Chu Lai, north of Saigon.

Word of McArthur's death was sent to his family Sunday. The family had received their first tape recorded message from their son Saturday.

"We had sent Mel a tape recorder July 23," said his father. "In his first message to us Saturday he seemed to be in real good spirits. If it had not been for the news we received the next day, the message would have been quite encouraging."

MELVIN L. McARTHUR

NOT BITTER

"Mel was a good boy and he looked forward to coming home, marrying his girl friend, and settling down. I'm not bitter about his death, but it just seems we are losing so many good men in Vietnam," McArthur added.

"My son was the type of boy who fitted in and accepted things. He was not happy about going to Vietnam, but he accepted it like a man."

★ ★ ★

The 1966 graduate of Waterford Kettering High School was to have been discharged from the army in November.

Serving with Company C, 39th Engineer Battalion, 18th Engineer Brigade, McArthur had been in Vietnam since December 11. He received his basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., after being drafted in November, 1966.

Prior to entering the service, Spec. 4 McArthur was employed by Pontiac Motors Division.

Arrangements will be by Coats Funeral Home, Waterford Township.

Surviving are his parents; four sisters, Mrs. Anne Scharf of Pontiac; Carolyn at home; Mrs. Bobbie Donavant of Inglewood, Calif.; and Mrs. Thomas Hart of Maryland; one brother, Donald L. at home; and grandmother, Mrs. Alonso Whitman of Flint.

Dead GI's Parents Get Medal of Honor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Medal of Honor was presented posthumously today to Pfc. Billy L. Lauffer, a 20-year-old soldier killed in Vietnam in 1966 when he charged an enemy machine gun emplacement to save wounded comrades.

★

Army Secretary Stanley Resor presented the medal to Lauffer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Lauffer of Tucson, Ariz., in a Pentagon ceremony.

It was the 41st time the nation's highest military decoration had been awarded for heroism in Vietnam and the 21st posthumously.

Ex-Crony of Dillinger to Live in Hazel Park

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Russell Clare, 70, last of the old John Dillinger gang, will spend his remaining few months of his life with a sister at Hazel Park, Mich.

Clark, who was involved in Dillinger's famous escape from a Lima, Ohio, jail in 1933, recently was released from the Ohio penitentiary under papers signed by Gov. James Rhodes.

His release was on information by prison physicians that the life termer had lung cancer and only six months to live.

Clark and two accomplices freed the famous bank robber from jail by shooting down Sheriff Jess Sarber when he challenged their word that they were officers wanting to question Dillinger.

DEATH SENTENCES

They later were tried for the slaying, with Clark getting life imprisonment and the other two sentenced to death in the electric chair. Clark was admitted to the penitentiary in March, 1934, serving a little more than 34 years behind bars. He was transferred to the London, Ohio prison farm in 1958 and returned here earlier this year when it was apparent he needed medical attention.

The three had freed Dillinger in return for his getting them out of an Indiana prison at gunpoint several months earlier. Dillinger was shot to death by the FBI in Chicago a short time later.

Bond Is OK'd in Girl's Killing

The preliminary examination yesterday of a man charged with killing a 16-year-old Pontiac girl was continued until Tuesday by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum.

Facing an open murder charge in the gunshot death Saturday of Florence Stanford of 210 Bassett is 24-year-old William D. James of 273 Judson.

★ ★ ★

He had been in custody without bond, but McCallum set $1,000 bond at his appearance yesterday. James remains in Oakland County Jail.

He was arrested shortly after the Stanford girl was fatally wounded in the head in an incident at her home. She died moments after she arrived at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

New Detroit Group Gets New Leader

DETROIT (AP)—Pledging to use a $10-million fund to "help resolve some of the social problems of metropolitan Detroit," industrialist Max M. Fisher of Detroit accepted the chairmanship of the New Detroit Committee Wednesday.

The agency, formed to help rebuild Detroit after the 1967 riots, also announced it had filed papers of incorporation with the state government in Lansing and would become a permanent, nonprofit corporation.

★ ★ ★

The name will be changed to New Detroit Inc.

Fisher, who is head of the United Jewish Appeal campaign in the United States, will take over the chairmanship from Joseph L. Hudson Jr., president of the J. L. Hudson Co., on Sept. 5.

SUBCOMMITTEE HEAD

Fisher has been serving as chairman of the New Detroit's subcommittee on economic development, which launched a $10-million drive in April for funds for its projects to aid the disadvantaged.

Last week, officials said the campaign was within $500,000 of its goal.

★ ★ ★

In other action, William Patrick Jr. changed titles from executive director of the New Detroit Committee to president of New Detroit Inc.

Foreign Mail Service Is Leaving United States Shamefaced

By the Associated Press

An Englishman the other day sat right down and wrote himself a letter.

Then he mailed it and went to lunch.

Three hours later he returned to find the self-addressed message waiting on his desk.

That's how fast the mail gets through in Britain.

* * *

While America's couriers keep their appointed rounds in spite of sleet and storm, they can't do so well in spite of deficit. So Saturday deliveries are threatened.

Which must cause laughter in Britain, for instance, where a woman who lives at the tip of Cornwall can write her daughter who lives at the tip of Scotland about how beastly mail service is in America and fully expect the message to get there the next day.

FEW BOASTS

In a word, the United States does not seem to have much to write home about its mail system compared to other industrialized nations of the world.

In Japan, for instance, a letter sent in the morning in a city usually arrives that evening in the same city. Furthermore an ordinary letter costs only 4.1 cents postage compared to six cents in the U.S.

* * *

The Japanese mailman, like his English and American counterparts, makes two deliveries a day in cities and one in the country. Some Japanese offices even carry the mail on Sundays.

Besides being quick and courteous, British delivery is cheap: four cents for a first-class letter, although this is soon going to five.

TWICE WEEKLY

In the tight little realm of the Netherlands, the postman rings twice on weekdays and once on Saturdays. As with Japan and England, the Dutch postal service is government-owned. It also includes the government-owned telegraph and telephone service which helps explain why the service delivered that most—unheard—of good news last year: it made a profit $45,280,000 overall, although the mail end of things lost $13,050,000 in 1967.

While word of mail may travel faster and more cheaply in Holland—5.5 cents for a domestic letter—word of mouth does not. Private persons may wait up to a year to get a new phone connection.

* * *

Mail in Italy moves at a more leisurely Mediterannean pace—anywhere from one to three days, depending on whether it is between cities or goes out into rural areas. Deliveries are twice a day in cities, once daily in towns and villages.

The Italians introduced the Zip Code last year but it has not taken the country by storm although the government retained popular comedians and singers to popularize it on television.

UNDERGROUND TUBE

The French usually get the mail delivered overnight and, in Paris, within a few hours by an underground tube network for special delivery mail. Since Paris is a stay-up city, four post offices in the capital stay open all night long. Including Saturday and Sunday.

Getting the message across in Mexico, on the other hand, can be a deliberate process. An airmail letter from Acapulco to Mexico City, 35 minutes apart by jet, usually takes 10 days for delivery. The government blames an overtaxed system caused by rapid growth of the capital. Accordingly, it may take two or three weeks for a letter mailed at one end of the block to clear through the central post office and be delivered to the other end of the block.

* * *

Government officials being realists, usually have their important messages carried by hand.

It is also an old tradition in Mexico City to set aside once a year "the day of the postman." On that day be expects a generous tip. If the addressee doesn't come through, mail may not come through itself for a week or so. If senor or senora are kind, they may find mail they were meant to get a week before.

ONE-DAY SERVICE

The German federal postal service, Bundespost, also operates the telephone and telegraph. In the central areas of all large cities, there are two mail deliveries a day Tuesday through Friday, with one delivery on Mondays and Saturdays. One-day service is common on letters to points within Germany — at least between major cities. A regular letter costs about 7½ cents.

Russia, the biggest country in the world, has some of the biggest mail headaches, not surprisingly. The service, of course, is government-owned, and common letters take a 4.4-cent charge. Russians are flamboyant stamp makers, some being big enough to cover half an envelope.

* * *

Intracity mail is usually delivered overnight (if it takes longer, it probably was rerouted through the censor) but service to the furthest Arctic wastes might be a monthly basis. The government takes great pleasures in publishing such remote delivery by showing a helicopter dropping the mail to some snowbound outpost.

In a classes society such as Russia's where king and commoner are one and the same, or so it says, one would not expect humility from the mailman and one would not be disappointed. Several years ago the government newspaper Izvestia told of a mailman who was in the habit of reading postcards and correcting errors in spelling and grammar with a bright orange pencil. On one he wrote: "Illiterate letters ought to be sent in envelopes.

* * *

Izvestia suggested he deliver his critiques in private.

There were only 600 radio stations in the United States in 1932.

Sandpipers Smooth

Group's Sound Belies Youth

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The sound of the Sandpipers, as Mike Piano of the group says, is "a flowing, smooth sound." That's why it's a surprise that the Sandpipers are so young — all three were born in 1944 and most singers their age are doing rock or abrasive "new music."

But their musical childhood explains their present style. They've known each other 13 years. All three were members of the Mitchell Boys Choir in Los Angeles until their voices changed. The operating word there — where voices were heard a lot without instrumental backup or coverup — was blend.

* * *

The Mitchell Boys Choir also sang in 11 languages, with Robert Mitchell telling them what the words meant so they'd project the right feeling.

Today, the three Mitchell alums who became the Sandpipers still blend and still sing a lot in languages beside English. Their album out in July on A & M, "Softly," contains "Quando M' Innamoro," which they sang in Italian at the San Remo Song Festival in February. And their biggest hit, "Guantanamera," is in Spanish.

NOT LIKE A HIT

They heard "Guantanamera" on an album Pete Seeger recorded at Carnegie Hall. Richard Shoff says, "We all thought it was so beautiful. We never thought it was going to be a hit. It was not what was happening. We insisted on doing it in its original Spanish because the beauty is there."

Jim Brady says, "After we recorded 'Guantanamera,' we went out on a four-week job and forgot about it. Then we started hearing reports it was charted."

* * *

Last winter the Sandpipers were on the charts again with "Misty Roses." And they have hopes for "Quando M'innamoro." It came in sixth of the 24 songs at San Remo.

They were amazed by a couple of things at that festival — that people dressed formally to watch it on TV in hotel lobbies and that applause came every time the audience liked something — sometimes five or six times during a song.

A FULLER SOUND

The Sandpipers got together when Richard Shoff (native of Seattle) was singing for a compiler of "oldie but goodie" albums. He decided he wanted a fuller sound than he could produce alone, so he called Jim Brady (native of Los Angeles) and Mike Piano (native of Rochester, N.Y.

Shoff says, "Mike said he'd sing with me. Jim said no. He wanted to be an actor. I spent about an hour talking him into it. From that day on, we've been working together."

It's Not Too Late to Learn—3

Habits Can Hinder Student

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a 10-part series on adult education. It is appearing daily except Saturdays in The Pontiac Press.

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
University of Southern California

We are creatures of habit in the way we think. Some of our thinking habits can get in the way of learning. In fact, they may even put formal schooling out of our reach.

NASON

We are not aware of our own foibles in this regard and even our best friends don't tell us.

One common fault is to set yourself up, in your own mind, as a better authority than the teacher on the subject under discussion and to balk your own progress and perhaps that of the whole class by trying to guide the discussions and advance your own views dogmatically.

That doesn't mean you have to accept automatically everything that the teacher says, or that you should not try to make contributions to class discussions. It does mean that you should listen to the teacher and try to get the most from what he says.

EXAMPLE OFFERED

Take the case of Mrs. D, who decided to return to college, earn a degree and obtain a school nurse's credentials. She had two years of college credits and was a registered nurse but in the years spent raising her family she had fallen into habits which restricted her chances of success in college.

In her home she was the boss—she ran the show. In conversations with friends she was opinionated and argued frequently. She carried the same patterns of thinking into her first semester of work at nearby state college.

* * *

She argued with the teacher and tried to direct class discussions. Of course, Mrs. D did not realize that this was what she was doing. After receiving a low grade on her first test paper, she requested a conference with her instructor "to point out to him his errors in grading the paper."

The instructor, wise to the ways of adults, discussed the matter with her at some length, pointing out that it is the responsibility of the teacher to guide the thoughts of students through a pattern of thinking that will lead them to a mastery of the fundamentals of the course; that he cannot be successful unless the students willingly accept instructions.

TRY LISTENING

The two of them worked out a program in which Mrs. D took positive steps. Each time she was tempted to argue with one of his statements she delayed her action and searched for evidence in her textbooks or others which she could present in stating her case.

* * *

The elimination of personal opinion did not leave her completely speechless. But in her discussions with other students and with interested persons outside the school, Mrs. D concentrated on asking for their opinions and listening to their discussions of the problem.

* * *

In answering questions on examinations she was to strive toward two goals, one, to answer the questions as the teacher or textbook author would answer them. This, regardless of whether she considered the ideas to be true or false. Second, she was to avoid including statements of her personal opinion.

Junior Editors Quiz on SIAMESE CATS

QUESTION: Are Siamese cats born with the markings they have later?

* * *

ANSWER: The Siamese is a very special kind of cat, having been brought into the U.S. in 1895. Although we are now familiar with these fascinating creatures, the so-called "mystery of the East" seems to still cling about them.

They have long heads and bodies, thin legs, tails often with a kink and startling light blue or yellow eyes set in a big smudge of dark color covering the face. This dark color is duplicated in ears, tail and lower legs. The dark markings are called points. Although they look black in our illustration, they are really seal brown or dark blue.

The point markings are not apparent in the newly-born white kittens (upper left) except for an occasional smudge on the nose. But the points develop rapidly; in five weeks the Siamese kitten is a startling little creature.

Siamese cats continue to be individual as they grow up. They are less independent than other cats; they seem to want to communicate with human beings. As one Siamese owner put it, "They think they are people."

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Opening lead—♦Q

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

There is a mistaken belief that a great bridge player can know where all the cards are. The theory is that if he doesn't, then he isn't an expert.

JACOBY

Quite often he will locate all the cards after a couple of plays, but at trick two he seldom knows more than a beginner would.

Here is another hand from the match between the Dallas Orange team and the California All-Stars to show this.

★ ★ ★

When the hand was shown on Bridge-O-Rama the audience noted that Dallas had bid four spades and gone down.

The bidding was that shown in the box. South's opening was a weak two bid, showing a good six-card suit and a hand just too weak for a normal opening. Two no-trump was a forcing response and the three-heart bid showed something in that suit, whereupon North jumped to the spade game.

★ ★ ★

The commentators predicted that the bidding would be duplicated and the audience watched as the commentators' predictions materialized.

Dummy's king of diamonds accounted for the first trick and the 10 of spades was led. East played low. He could do nothing else and the audience watched while declarer studied his play. The audience could see that if South played the ace of trumps and another one and then guessed where the ace of clubs was, that he would make his contract.

★ ★ ★

The commentators predicted that he would take the finesse.

The explanation was that in this company East would not have covered the 10 with the king so that South could not know where the king was.

Then, the percentage play had to be the finesse and experts are all percentage players. The 10 was allowed to ride. West took his king; led a second diamond for his partner to ruff and two aces left South down one for this, another tie board.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
		3♠	3N.T.
Dble	Pass	Pass	4♠
4♦	Dble	Pass	Pass
Rdble	Pass	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠K2 ♥K2 ♦83 ♣AKQJ965
What do you do now?

A—Pass. You aren't happy but you can be sure that you won't make five clubs if you run out.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of doubling, West has passed your three no-trump. Your partner bids four no-trump. What do you do?

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Patience is your ally. Impulsive act is not on impulse — overcome it. Study methods, procedures. Accent on dealings, relatives, visits. Call or message changes tempo of day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Accent on money, possessions. Profitable leads could come to light. Be willing to experiment. Keynote is gain. Be aware of assets, resources. Genuine bargain is available — look.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Stress on how you look, your personality. Be direct, confident. Encourage new contacts. Fine for entertaining at home. You shine in familiar surroundings. Day for making special requests.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Much of what occurs today could be clouded in mystery. Means many actions are based on rumor. Not wise to commit yourself until complete story is available. Best to remain in background.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23): Accent on social activity; be with those who share your interests. Be aware of your own worth. You may be asked to tackle special assignment. Be agreeable, but be sure to receive credit.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 22): Review ambitions. Know when to start, when to finish. Make changes at a timing. Individuals with authority takes a liking to you. Be alert to opportunity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Good lunar aspect today coincides with communication from one at a distance. Be open to chance for greater education. Enlarge horizons. Check summer study opportunities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid overexertion. Stress moderation. Some around you appear extravagant. Impatient. Don't compound error. Need your own counsel. Improve relations with neighbors, co-workers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on public relations, advertising. Important that you make your intentions clear. Consult expert often. Follow advice in intelligent manner. Be sure of legal ground.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Day when minor chores may seem to multiply. Maintain steady pace. Be aware of details. Check fine print. Don't overlook the obvious. Eccentric friend should be humored.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Greater freedom of thought, action indicated. Day for changes — be creative. Personal magnetism soars. People are attracted to you, and element of luck rides by your side.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Attention centers around home, need for security. Discussion concerning residence, possible change in surroundings is indicated. Be considerate toward family member.

IF TOMORROW IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a combination of an introspective and outgoing personality. Often you contradict yourself. You are curious about life and would make a fine writer. Social life improves.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for GEMINI, CANCER. Good word for CAPRICORN: double check budget, accounts.

Georgia's Governor a Paradox

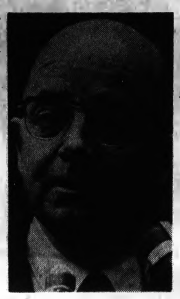
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Two years ago Lester Maddox, one of the South's best-known symbols of segregation, was running for governor of Georgia on the slogan: "You know where he stands."

Most people thought they did. To the racist element, he was a hero who had personally chased Negroes from his Pickrick cafeteria, carrying a pistol and backed up by ax handles.

* * *

To the liberals, he was a dangerous extremist; to the moderates, a publicity-seeker, a clown.

To the Democrats, he was a party bolter who supported Republican Barry Goldwater in 1964. To the Republicans, he was not quite respectable enough to be acceptable. To the politicians he was a three-time loser, in races for mayor of Atlanta and lieutenant governor of Georgia.



GOV. LESTER MADDOX

LITTLE CHANCE

Few of them gave him any chance of ever being governor. Maddox has been governor now for 18 months, and few people are sure they do know where he stands, or whether they ever did.

* * *

As governor, Maddox has displayed a paradoxical mixture of compassion for the poor and contempt for poverty programs designed to help them; demands for law and order and denunciations of the courts; appeals for patriotism and damnings of the federal government; surprising moderation and statements that seemed startlingly extreme.

* * *

He keeps his own counsel, has few close advisers, and largely ignores those who have attempted to temper his public image.

Those responsible for the moderate tone of his inaugural address, in which he warned that there would be no room for extremism in Georgia during his administration, soon lost his ear.

WORST ENEMY

Almost before the surprise of the "New Maddox" had settled on his critics, the governor a high school dropout, was again describing the federal government as the country's worst enemy of education, and declaring that if Washington didn't quite telling Georgia how to run its schools, it could take its federal aid to education and "ram it."

The statement caused state school officials considerable concern, since Georgia receives more than $80 million a year in federal funds for schools. But after the first flurry, Maddox, in typical fashion, let the matter drop.

* * *

When pressed about his loyalty to the national Democartic party, Maddox said that pledging to support party nominees without knowing who they are would be putting party ahead of God and country.

He had promised, however, that he will not go outside the party and endorse third-party presidential candidate George Wallace, although he has held private political meetings with Wallace and admittedly would like to support him formally and openly.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST

The 53-year-old Maddox, son of a devout Southern Baptist mother, does not drink or smoke and frequently lectures on the evils of both.

* * *

Almost daily, in speeches, informal chats, interviews and capital hallway news conferences, Maddox sounds the rallying cry against "the Communists, Socialists, left-wingers, bums, beatniks, looters, rioters and wreckers," all of hom he roughly equates with civil rights activists.

MORE ADVANCES

Yet Negroes have made more advances in state government during his administration than in any previous one. The number of Negroes on local draft boards, for example, has risen from two to more than 20. Maddox instructed that Negroes be hired into the previously all-white Georgia Bureau of Investigation, and there now are two on the 85-man force.

What America needs, Maddox is likely to say sometime during his response to almost any question, is a fewer people on welfare rolls, more on payrolls and a return to states' rights, private property rights, patriotism, free enterprise and constitutional government.

* * *

Yet he displays concern for the poor, black and white.

Twice each month in the governor's office, Maddox conducts Little People's Day, when crowds of people gather to file through, shake his hand and confide to him problems that they cannot solve.

Fleeing Con Is Recaptured

NILES (AP) — An Escaped convict from Jackson State Prison was captured Wednesday two miles west of Niles. The escapee, 21-year-old Fred Edwards, was serving a sentence for breaking and entering.

State Police said Edwards stole a dump truck but was captured only three minutes after the Niles State Police post had been told of his escape.

Edwards was held in the Niles city jail pending return to prison at Jackson.

Grant Helps Get a Place in Sun Study

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Most National Science Foundation (NSF) grants go the men with strings of initials after their names indicating academic degrees.

Ben. C. Parmenter, 55, of Spokane can't boast a single such initial, but he has received his second grant from the NSF for his work in solar astronomy in which he ranks among the world's top scientists.

* * *

Parmenter's new grant of $8,000 will take him into next year when the sun's spicules, which are his special field of study, will reach the peak of activity in their 11-year cycle.

Spicules are the spike-shaped rays on the outer edge of the sun. "If we can find out how spicules work, with no loss of energy, then perhaps someday we can use the process on earth," Parmenter said.

AN EXCITING YEAR

Parmenter said 1969 will be "an exciting year" for solar astronomers because of the spicule peak, although the peak is expected to be lower than usual "unless the sun gets busy."

Parmenter's work, which to a layman looks painstakingly dull, consists of taking pictures of the sun and measuring the height and width of the spicules. Each new observation is compared to the previous one.

* * *

His telescope also transmits light from the sun into a spectroscope, which difuses the light to reveal what elements are present in the portion of the sun being observed.

His observations combined with those of other astronomers throughout the world give a continuing picture of the sun and its changes—and hopefully some clues to the source of its tremendous energy, the sun's effect on earthly weather and possible dangers to astronauts from "solar winds."

* * *

Parmenter feels he is making progress in the never-ending study of the sun.

"It's like being a detective," he said. "You learn one thing and it leads to another question."

Crime Increases Found in Latin America, Too

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — If its any comfort to you Norte-americanos, crime is on the increase in much of Latin America, too, especially juvenile crime.

Although exact figures are hard to come by in most Latin American countries, and in some cases are non-existent, authorities in Colombia, Venezuela and Ecuador all report a marked rise in juvenile criminality.

* * *

As is true in the United States this has included a big jump in car thefts, often of the "thrill ride" kind.

Argentina and Brazil police also report a steady crime increase, including juvenile delinquency, and a sharp jump in bank robberies. Peru authorities report that armed robbery has increased over previous years.

'SHOOT IT OUT'

All these countries noted a greater tendency on the part of criminals to "shoot it out" with police nowadays whereas in the past there was little of this.

In Mexico the press reports a consistently growing crime rate—even a current "crime wave"—although police claim the reports are exaggerated. Latest available figures for Mexico City alone do show a sharp jump in recorded crimes —from 29,560 in 1965 to 44,229 in 1966.

* * *

Of all major crimes in Mexico murder is the most common. Murder rates in Mexico, however, can be deceiving, as they can be for other Latin American countries.

Murder in Latin America is apt to be a crime of passion, or involve a personal quarrel or family feud. Out and out murders for profit are relatively rare.

LESS COMMON

Street muggings and rapes also are less common in Latin and South America than in the United States, except in the worst city slum areas. In most of the larger Latin American cities — police boast that the streets are safer to walk at night than in the United States cities.

Despite an over-all crime rate increase in Buenos Aires, major crime has fallen off in recent years except for bank robberies. The rise in statistics appears to be caused by the increase in juvenile crimes—minor thievery and car stealing.

Crime patterns have changed and experts attribute this to social changes.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Bing Crosby traded songs with tribal warriors and even managed a round of golf during a two-week African safari which ended yesterday.

The trip took him across Masailand, in northern Tanzania, and ended in Nairobi, Kenya, where he golfed at the plush Karen Club.

Crosby viewed the course on the 5,500-foot plateau and cracked: "Bob Hope should play here — it's just about the right height for his drive. He might even get on the green."

The wife of the Republican presidential nominee made the comment yesterday in San Francisco during a one-day campaign appearance with her daughter Tricia.

Actress Is Sued for Divorce

Actress Carroll Baker is being sued for divorce by her husband, Jack Garfein, a stage and film director.

In the Los Angeles suit yesterday Garfein, 38, charged Miss Baker, 37, with extreme cruelty and asked for legal custody of their children, Blanche, 11, and Herschel, 10.

CARROLL

His complaint said they were married in April 1955 in New York City and have been separated since July 1, 1967. He said they made an oral property settlement the previous May 15.

Miss Baker currently is living in Rome. The children are in Garfein's custody.

Sons of Humphrey, Reagan, Meet by Chance

Hubert "Skip" Humphrey and Michael Reagan, sons of noted politicians, crossed paths by chance yesterday in Portland, Ore., and exchanged a bit of small talk.

Humphrey, 20, said of the enthusiasm which marks his Democratic presidential candidate father, "I guess it's just in the old man. He is happy. He likes things. He likes politics and let's face it, it's not the world's worst occupation."

Reagan, 23, whose mother is Jane Wyman and whose father is governor of California, said: "My sister's in politics. My father's in politics. I think that's enough in the family."

Reagan was here as a salesman for a chain saw manufacturer while Humphrey was campaigning among businessmen for support for his father.

In Memoriam 2

IN EVERLASTING LOVE for our beloved son, Frederick N. Bachemin, who left us so suddenly two years ago, August 1966. Till memory fades and we are gone, You'll live forever in our hearts.
Sadly missed by Mom, Dad, Bill and Dick.

IN LOVING MEMORY of our husband and father, W. Earl Marty, who passed away 2 years ago today, Sadly missed by Wife Dennis and family.

IN LOVING MEMORY of my dear husband Hubert D. Lyons who passed away 1 year ago today:
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone.
For part of us went with you,
The evening God called you home.
God gave us the strength to bury it,
But couldn't take away the pain.
But what it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know.
When evening shadows are falling,
And we all here at home,
To our hearts there comes a longing
It you could just be here.
Sadly missed by wife Jay and sons Gary, Danny, Glen and Timmy.

In MEMORY OF CARL KLUS T. RILEY, who passed away 5 years ago today.
Remember as you in the past will in the future always last—sadly missed by your family.

TED'S CORNER
An appraisal is an estimate of value. It is an OPINION. It's worth is influenced by the availability or pertinent data. Being an opinion it can vary, the basis is, the appraisal is the location and of the structure, square footage, the siding and the extras, such as a garage, basement, extra bath, built-ins and the like. The CONDITION of your home also affects appraisal. OPINION of your home a better one for you. When you are to have an appraiser in your home — spruce it up. Be ready for the appraisers inspection.

Presidential Ties Sold May Show Political Pattern

NEW YORK (AP) — The ninth presidential tie poll is under way, and the Men's Tie Foundation, sponsoring organization, claims it has been accurate each time with the exception of 1960, when the contest almost ended in a tie.

The poll is based on the sale of elephant-figured versus donkey-patterned ties that are shipped to sampling-ground retailers in all 50 states.

* * *

In 1960, when John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon opposed each other, the combination of the closeness of the national election and the disappearance of 5,200 Republican ties in Kansas City caused Foundation president Myron Ackerman to declare a "no-winner."

The Foundation claims political neutrality.

Try to End Strike Reaches Stalemate

TRENTON (AP) — Efforts to end a strike at a Monsanto Co. plant at Trenton, have reached a stalemate.

Members of Local 7-196 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union left their jobs Saturday when a contract expired. No meetings have been called to negotiate the main unresolved issues, wages and fringe benefits.

More than 500 workers left their jobs at the inorganic division plant which has been operated on a limited scale by supervisory personnel.

Glass Makers OK Pact With Union

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —Agreement on a new nationwide contract was announced Wednesday between the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute and the American Flint Glass Workers Union of North America, AFL-CIO.

Details of the settlement were withheld pending a ratification vote of 3,000 mold makers in 90 glass plants throughout the country. The old contract expires Sept. 1.

Sixteen glass firms were represented by the institute during the negotiations held at Atlantic City boardwalk motel.

Earl Enters Bevy of Beauties for 'Beautiful Girl' Debate

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "Who are the most beautiful girls in the world?"

I hear it discussed at parties, and in clubs and restaurants, when they tire of arguing about Nixon-vs.-Humphrey and McCarthy.

WILSON

The debating is sparked, I think, by a magazine's recent contention that young French actress Catherine Deneuve might be the most beautiful girl in the world. Most Americans don't agree, or want to see more of her first.

Liz Taylor is on everybody's list, usually No. 1.

Some claim that Liz, Ava Gardner, Greta Ga bo, Jackie Kennedy and Grace Kelly would be the five great beauties of our time. (With the late Vivien Leigh in there too.)

"Hey, how about Rhonda Fleming, Gene Tierney and Natalie Wood?" somebody says . . . and others add Lee Remick, Anita Colby, Arlene Dahl, Lana Turner, Donna Reed, Pamela Tiffin and Ann-Margret.

Lena Horne gets almost unanimous approval.

* * *

I claim Claudia Cardinale is one of the loveliest of the foreign beauties. Along with Sophia Loren, Ingrid Bergman, Gina Lollobrigida, Brigitte Bardot and Verna Lisi.

Oh, my, we've left out Rita Hayworth, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Marlene Dietrich and a long-time favorite of mine Joan Collins, and Irene Dunne, Anita Louise and Loretta Young.

* * *

The increasing importance of Diahann Carroll and Leslie Uggams brings up the thought that one day soon a Negro girl will win a major beauty title.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Joe E. Lewis once won $30,000 at dice in Las Vegas while waiting for a plane. He handed the winnings to Beldon Katleman, then owner of El Rancho Vegas, saying "Buy me some property." Now Joe E. hears he's being offered $200,000 for the land. He also has property at another lush gaming spot, Freeport, the Bahamas.

Richard Burton isn't expected to see his ex-wife Sybil if he flies back here escorting their daughter Kate. Since their split, they've seen each other only fleetingly . . . Positive fact: Howard Hughes took a fishing trip . . . Jonathan Daniels' new book "Washington Quadrille" will reveal more about the friendship of FDR and Lucy Mercer in the White House and at Warm Springs. Daniels' position is that with the principals dead for 20 years, it's time for the story to be told.

* * *

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "People who complain about their income taxes may be divided into two classes — men and women."

EARL'S PEARLS: "I have so many worries," a friend told Ruth Wieder, "that even my hairpiece is turning gray."

Jackie Mason recalls that his family was very poor when he was a child: "It was a tough life. Believe me, I wouldn't be poor again for a million dollars!" . . . That's earl, brother.

A Look at TV

Actor Is Out of Stunts

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD — The star's chair on the "Wild, Wild West" set bears an unusual identifying inscription: "Robert Conrad, ex-stuntman, ertired by CBS, Jan. 24, 1968."

* * *

Conrad, who was darn near retired from this world on that date, is reminded of his luck every time he sees the chair, which is kept just beyond camera range. For a while it appeared that the series would end abruptly before the completion of its third year.

* * *

It was one of the little-publicized mishaps of the season, although the show's fans may have concluded that they were getting fewer shows than usual. They were, 23 instead of 26. Conrad's accident came in the middle of the 24th show which could not be completed.

The actor, who enjoys doing his own stunts, leaped from a balcony, grabbed a big chandelier and from there was to land on a villain below. The timing was off and Conrad slipped and landed on his head some 15 feet below the lighting fixture. The result was a double skull fracture, weeks in the hospital and a long convalescence slowed by constant dizziness.

BACK, HEALTHY

The series is now in full production for its fourth season and Conrad is back—healthy and in physical trim. One corner of the building housing the show's permanent sets is a gymnasium, complete with a boxing ring. Conrad, who keeps himself in shape like a professional athlete, runs three miles a day in the studio back lot and between takes goes a few rounds in the ring.

"Wild, Wild West," of course, is an imaginative Western spoof. Nevertheless, it is one of the action series being watched by network censors for scenes of excessive violence, even if the violence is all in fun.

They sheared comedian Marty Allen's unbelievable hairdo Wednesday so he can play a straight dramatic role in ABC's Western, "The Big Valley." Allen, now a single act since he and Steve Rossi broke up their team, will have to wear a fright wig in his nightclub appearances for a while until his own locks grow out.

The Danube River flows into the Black Sea from eastern Romania.

Teacher Swims Cape Cod Bay

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Russell Chaffee, 41, a Sayre, Pa., mathematics teacher, completed a 22-mile swim across Cape Cod Bay Wednesday evening, landing at Provincetown at the tip of the cape about 14 hours after he left Plymouth.

Friends said Chafee was in good condition at the finish. He was accompanied by two Connecticut school teachers, Don Musinski of Unionville and Dan Cruson of Easton, in an 18-foot dory.

* * *

The last attempt to cross the bay was made Aug. 23, 1915, by Henry Sullivan of Lowell and Sam Richards of Boston—the first Americans to swim the English Channel.

Sullivan was forced to give up after almost 24 hours in the water, when the tide began carrying him to sea. Richards was hauled out of the water several hours earlier.

Jackson Industry, Union Okay Pact

JACKSON (AP) — Officials of the Allied Industrial Workers Union have recommended approval of a new contract agreement with Acme Industries of Jackson.

John Lodise, 47, president of the Jackson County AFL-CIO Council, said the membership will be asked to vote on the contract proposal beginning at 10 a.m. today.

Lodise was arrested Tuesday and charged with assaulting a police officer and obstructing a police officer. The charges stemmed from a scuffle at the Acme plant. The strike began June 3.

Channel 56 Sets TV High School

DETROIT (AP)—Plans for a TV high school were announced Wednesday by Michigan Blue Shield which is donating $10,000 for tapes and other expenses connected with the 60-program series.

The classes will be aired on Channel 56 beginning Oct. 7.

Air Taxi Routes for Mail Are Announced

Deputy Postmaster General Frederick C. Belen has revealed the routes of the new air taxi mail service to be established soon in Michigan.

The program will provide overnight first-class mail deliveries throughout Michigan and speed up services between Michigan and Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio.

* * *

Air taxis are small two-engine airplanes provided by private owners to move mail on schedules best adapted to the needs of the Postal Service.

The service should provide significant improvements in mail service including overnight delivery within Michigan and faster connections to other overnight delivery areas.

Ultimately connections will be formed to overnight delivery areas in western Pennsylvania and western New York.

Baby Likes This

If baby is fretful and restless from the heat, here is a cooling suggestion he'll appreciate. Soak a cotton square in good quality witch hazel and hold it to the back of his neck for a few minutes. As the freshener evaporates, it creates a cooling sensation.

Witch hazel is a pure herbal extract, safe for tenderest skin.

U.S. War Deaths Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nineteen servicemen killed in action in the Vietnam war were listed in a recent Defense Department casualty list.

They included four from the Midwest:

ARMY
MICHIGAN — Cpl. John R. Schmude, Clarkston; Cpl. Mark K. Hage, Wyoming.
OHIO — Spec. 4 William B. Decker, Marion.
OKLAHOMA — Pfc. James A. Huff, Blackwell.

Died not as a result of hostile action:

AIR FORCE
ILLINOIS — Staff Sgt. Sonny Ramey, Lebanon.

Missing to dead—nonhostile:

ARMY
MICHIGAN — Pvt. Thomas J. Harkness, Jr., Detroit.

Bath Aids Sleep

When heat makes sleep hard to come by, try this soothing, cooling bedtime ritual. Before retiring, take a leisurely bath in tepid, not hot, water. Dry by patting with the towel. Don't rub.

Pat the body with chilled good quality witch hazel. Let the tonic dry by itself.

REPEAT OF MAY DISASTER — Firemen pour water on the smouldering wreckage of a Los Angeles Airways helicopter which crashed in a ball of fire in Compton, Calif., yesterday while traveling from Los Angeles International Airport to Disneyland. All 21 persons aboard were killed. A similar crash in May killed 23.

Nixon to Trek Home Via Campaign Trail

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is expanding his trip home from San Diego into the first political road show of his campaign as Republican presidential nominee. He leaves Sunday.

Nixon plans a two-day journey to New York with a series of public appearances along the route. In addition, he has scheduled party-harmony visits with Govs. George Romney of Michigan, in Lansing, and Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, in Harrisburg.

★ ★ ★

The exact schedule has not been disclosed. But Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's chief spokesman, said the former vice president will appear in Springfield, Ill., on Monday morning.

There will be public appearances in Lansing and Harrisburg, too, Klein said, and probably at one other point on the transcontinental trip.

In San Diego today, Nixon confers with his crime advisory committee, headed by Dist. Atty. Evelle Younger of Los Angeles County. Los Angeles Police Chief Thomas Reddin, who has faced civil disturbances in the Watts district in recent days, is to be among those on hand.

Crime and big city violence are viewed by Nixon strategists as a chief issue in the campaign.

★ ★ ★

Two key congressional Republicans, Sen. George Murphy and Rep. Bob Wilson, talk political plans today with Nixon lieutenants, and confer with the nominee himself tomorrow.

Murphy and Wilson, both Californians, are chairmen of the Senate and House GOP Campaign committees.

TRAVELING ADVISER

In another facet of his party unity campaign, Nixon asked Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky to join him as a traveling adviser. Morton was a key promoter of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's unsuccessful bid for the GOP nomination.

"I said of course I would," Morton reported. "I'm at his command."

★ ★ ★

The Kentucky senator said he will work to achieve a unified Republican team in every state. He said he anticipates no difficulty in enlisting the support of former Rockefeller men.

Nixon also telephoned four governors who were Rockefeller supporters: John Chafee of Rhode Island, John A. Love of Colorado, Harold LeVander of Minnesota and Dan J. Evans of Washington.

21 on Copter Die Near Disneyland

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-one persons — many of them looking forward to a Disneyland visit — were killed yesterday in a helicopter crash similar to one that took 23 lives in this area last May.

Among the passengers were a recently retired grandfather, his wife, and 8-year-old granddaughter, the 14-year-old grandson of the airline's president and three Denver businessmen.

The Los Angeles Airway helicopter broke apart and crashed in flames in an empty section of a playground on a flight from Los Angeles International Airport to Disneyland.

It was the second worst commercial helicopter disaster in the United States. The worst, the crash of another twin-turbine Sikorsky S61L copter owned by the Los Angeles firm, occurred at nearby Parmount in May, killing 23.

FLIGHTS SUSPENDED

The company suspended all flights. Witnesses told Federal Aviation Administration investigators they saw a tail rotor fly off, as preceded the May tragedy.

FAA experts began gathering the strewn wreckage to see if a reason for the crash could be determined. Cause of the May 22 disaster still remains a mystery.

★ ★ ★

Aboard the craft that crashed yesterday were a crew of three men and 18 passengers.

The dead included Christopher Belinn, 14, grandson of Clarence Belinn, president of the helicopter line; John P. Meehan, 65, his wife, Helen, 63, and their granddaughter Anne, 8, of San Rafael, Calif.; and businessmen Kenneth J. Atwell, Wes Eldrenkamp, 39, and L. E. Baker, 44, all of Denver. Meehan retired two weeks ago as a San Francisco police captain.

CREW MEMBERS

The crew was identified as Capt. Kenneth L. Waggoner, 33, of Costa Mesa, Calif., the pilot; Frederick Fracker of Redondo Beach, Calif., copilot; and James A. Black, Wilmington, Calif., flight attendant.

Chase Is Fatal; Police Charge 3

Two Pontiac men and a Detroit man were arrested by Detroit police today in connection with the collision of a Detroit police car and a city bus about 2 a.m. The crash resulted in the death of a 28-year-old Detroit patrolman.

Being questioned are Paul Hines, 21, and Willie Davis, 21, both of Pontiac, and Lewis Scott, 22, of Detroit. The three have been identified as occupants of a car being chased by the cruiser when it collided with the bus.

★ ★ ★

Police refused to release addresses for the suspects.

Seven bus passengers and the bus driver were taken to Detroit General Hospital for treatment of injuries received in the accident.

FATHER OF THREE

Killed was Patrolman Rickter Gutowsky, married and the father of three children — one only a few weeks old. Patrolman Michael DeWolfe, who was driving the squad car, was reported in fair condition at Detroit General Hospital.

★ ★ ★

The two policemen were on regular patrol when the car reportedly tried to run them off the road, officers said. Seven police cars then joined in the pursuit.

The cruiser containing Gutowsky and DeWolfe struck the side of the bus at Clinton and McDougall streets. Police said its occupants abandoned the pursued car and were apprehended as they attempted to flee on foot.

★ ★ ★

The three youths were charged with manslaughter. The car reportedly was owned by Davis.

'Picks for Court Hurt by Nixon'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican bloc in the Senate thinks Richard M. Nixon's selection to head the GOP ticket struck a severe blow to President Johnson's Supreme Court nominations.

Basis for this is the belief that Nixon's selection blunted support of the nominations by Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen and other leading GOP senators.

★ ★ ★

Nixon has declared his opposition to letting Johnson make the nominations.

One member of the opposition bloc said in a series of telephone interviews yesterday that Republican support "can be expected to go underground" when Congress reconvenes next month.

QUESTION POSED

"Would Everett Dirksen be willing to lead the fight against his own party's nominees," said another source.

Dirksen was outspoken in his support last month of Johnson's nominations of Abe Fortas to succeed Earl Warren as chief justice and Homer Thornberry to become an associate justice.

★ ★ ★

During one session of the Senate Judiciary Committee he criticized the term "lame duck" being applied to Johnson as "entirely improper and offensive."

And he strongly took to task Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan who heads the opposition forces.

Legislature Nears Windup

2 Vetoed Bills' Revival Likely

LANSING (AP)—A speech by the state American Legion commander and two possible attempts to revive vetoed bills are on tap today for the legislature, which hopes to wind up its 1968 session this week.

In the house, meanwhile, lawmakers who are returning after a three-week recess will greet a new colleague and bid farewell to nine outgoing incumbents.

★ ★ ★

A speech was scheduled by Wayne Squires of Trenton, state legion commander.

Some senators said they might try to overturn Gov. George Romney's veto of a measure permitting take-out sale of alcoholic beverages within 500 feet of a

In the House, suburban backers of a measure giving local government officials emergency powers to deal with actual or threatened riots were expected to make a second attempt to overturn Romney's veto of the measure.

Supporters of the riot bill, who claim endorsement from more than 40 communities for their efforts, fell 13 votes short of the needed two-thirds majority last month and vowed to try again.

★ ★ ★

Also before lawmakers is a bill authorizing court-ordered electronic surveillance, such as wiretapping, by police authorities. The measure, once rejected by the House, is in a second House-Senate conference committee.

Legislative leaders hoped to finish the bulk of their work today and bring down the curtain on the 1968 session at noon Friday. That would end their deliberations for the year unless Romney called them back into special session.

★ ★ ★

A new face when the House convenes will be Republican Ray C. Mittan of Benton Harbor, winner Aug. 6 of a special election to fill a vacant seat in the 44th district, parts of Cass and Berrien counties.

Mittan, however, cannot be sworn in as a legislator until after his victory is certified by the Board of State Canvassers next week.

★ ★ ★

Bowing out as legislators, meanwhile, will be six Republicans who are retiring and three Democrats who were defeated in the Aug. 6 primary.

French to Test H-Bomb

PARIS (AP) — The French probably will test their first hydrogen bomb this weekend at Mururoa, in the South Pacific, Agence France Press reported today in a dispatch from Tahiti.

Meaning of Viet War Lull Still Is Mystery to U.S.

PARIS (AP) — U.S. efforts to find out in some official way whether the lull in Communist attacks in South Vietnam is intended by North Vietnam as a peace gesture apparently have bogged down.

American officials at the Paris peace talks say that as far as they are concerned the question is still open. But they now put major emphasis on their contention that North Vietnam is preparing for an offensive by pouring troops and military supplies into the South at a high rate.

★ ★ ★

"The disposition of the North Vietnamese forces indicates that major military attacks are in preparation," U.S. conference Wednesday after the weekly us some meaning about the purpose of spokesman William J. Jorden told a news the lull, they could do so readily, session of the talks.

"If North Vietnam wished to convey to us some meaning (about the purpose of the lull), they could do so readily, directly or indirectly, and so far we have had no indication whatsoever."

RED WON'T TALK

Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman, declined to be drawn into discussion of the issue. When he was asked whether it came up in the 22-minute coffee break Wednesday, he said he only had time to drink tea. To another query on the same subject he said: "The United States continues to intensify the war in Vietnam."

Le at his news conference kept hammering at the point that "we are going to keep insisting" that the United States must stop bombing and "all other acts of war" against the territory of North Vietnam before anything else can be accomplished in the Paris talks.

★ ★ ★

He seemed intent on stressing that his government's stand on the bombing issue, including its refusal to promise a parallel scale-down of military action, is absolutely firm.

Rain Likely Late Tonight

RAIN

It looks like Pontiac's sunny skies will become overcast tonight. Showers may be expected late tonight, the weatherman says.

Temperatures will register a low of 55 to 60 during the night and climb into the 80s tomorrow with a chance of showers and thundershowers.

★ ★ ★

The outlook for Saturday includes a chance of showers and warm.

Morning winds, light and variable, will become southeasterly at eight to 15 miles per hour this afternoon and eight to 18 miles tonight.

★ ★ ★

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are 30 tonight and 50 tomorrow.

A mild 56 was the low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The 12:30 p.m. mercury reading was 73.

Frisk Law OK'd by Sylvan Lake

One of North Oakland County's first stop-and-frisk laws was unanimously passed by the Sylvan Lake City Council last night.

The ordinance, similar to one passed in Detroit, authorizes the city's policemen to stop and frisk a person he suspects is committing, is about to commit or has committed a serious crime, according to City Manager Leroy Trafton.

★ ★ ★

He said the law was passed as "part of a program to support the police department."

In other business, the council approved an agreement to set up a volunteer fire department to serve the cities of Sylvan Lake, Orchard Lake Village and Keego Harbor.

★ ★ ★

All three cities are now being served by the West Bloomfield Township Fire Department.

Sylvan Lake was the first of the three cities to approve the agreement.

CAMPAIGNING IN HARLEM — Vice President Hubert Humphrey campaigns on a Harlem street yesterday with former baseball great Jackie Robinson. Robinson, a former aide to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, threw his support to Humphrey. He labeled the Nixon-Agnew Republican ticket "racist."

Longer Surtax Seen as Likely

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — The temporary 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes levied this year by Congress won't be temporary unless the Vietnam war ends, says the chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., predicted yesterday all or part of the surcharge may be extended through fiscal 1970, which begins July 1, 1969, if the war continues.

Mills said if the war does not end, the budget submitted by the new president would be about the same as that for fiscal 1969.

"If that's the case," Mills observed, "then the question has to arise whether or not there will be sufficient revenues without continuing the 10 per cent surcharge to hold out deficit within reasonable levels or will it be necessary to ask Congress for a continuation of the 10 per cent surcharge."

CONTINUATION LIKELY

Even if the war ends, Mills said, the new president might still have to ask for a continuation of the tax.

Mills warned, however, that Congress might not look favorably on a renewal of the surcharge unless the administration cuts expenditures.

Skyways' Traffic Jam Has Begun to Ease Off

NEW YORK (AP) — Airport officials around the country generally report flight delays have been eased with the notable exception of some flights to and from Chicago and New York.

The congestion which had been especially heavy at Kennedy Airport began to clear this week due to a combination of excellent weather, some flight rescheduling and an apparent let-up of a flight controllers' campaign.

* * *

"The situation has become a lot better than a couple of weeks ago," one airline dispatcher at Kennedy said. Most officials contacted in a nationwide Associated Press survey agreed.

Few reported any locally caused flight delays but some said arrivals from New York and Chicago were up to several hours late at times and departures for the same points were sometimes held up awaiting route clearances.

'FOLLOW THE BOOK'

Skies over Kennedy Airport began to get crowded in early July after an air traffic controllers' organization announced that it was going to "follow the book" and strictly enforce Federal Aviation Administration safety rules.

Declaring that its men were overworked but that it intended "to protect the public against unnecessary air hazards," the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization said it would carefully observe regulations that set minimum separation time between planes.

* * *

In the past, the rules had been bent from time to time during heavy congestion.

The safety campaign was nationwide, but its greatest impact was felt at Kennedy, where congestion delayed some flights as long as six hours.

EFFECTS FELT

Other airports began to feel the effects of the congestion at Kennedy as planes circled in the skies waiting to enter New York's traffic pattern.

This week, the situation began to improve.

Two GOP District Confabs Keynote Need for Unity

Unity was the key word last night as the Republican party of Oakland County met in two congressional district conventions.

The 18th District met at Southfield High School and elected 110 delegates and 110 alternates to the state convention, scheduled Aug. 23 and 24 in Grand Rapids.

The convention will nominate as candidates for the Nov. 5 general election one Supreme Court Justice, two members of the board of education, and two board members each for Wayne State University, the University of Michigan and Michigan State University.

District Chairman Jack Gibbs was elected permanent convention chairman.

UNITY PLEA

County Chairman Joseph Farnum, in a speech to the delegates, called for a united effort behind candidates selected in the Aug. 6 primary.

The unity plea was in reference to the disbanding recently of the dissident Republican Executive Committee, which split with the regular GOP committee in January of 1967.

* * *

Chairman John Cartwright told delegates at the 19th district confab he was "delighted with the spirit of unity pervading the convention and particularly happy to welcome some of the people who have been away for awhile."

Cartwright was named permanent chairman of the convention. Elected were 57 delegates and 57 alternates to the state convention.

The Democrats' county-district convention is slated for 8 p.m. at the courthouse Supervisors' Auditorium.

Pueblo's Captain Appeals for Help

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea said today the 82 crewmen of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo have issued a second joint appeal for help to obtain their release.

The North Korean Central News Agency said the ship's captain, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher of Lincoln, Neb., issued the appeal Tuesday at a news conference.

The Pueblo's crew has been in captivity since Jan. 23, when the North Koreans seized the ship off Wonsan, a North Korean port. North Korea claimed the Pueblo violated its territorial waters and said the crew would be released after the United States apologizes and promises to guard against such incidents.

* * *

The North Korean agency said Bucher explained the crew requested the news conference to "appeal to the people of the United States to urge our government to take appropriate action to enable us to return home."

Thief Sentenced in DeConick Case

A 40-year-old Pontiac man was sentenced yesterday to 20-to-40 years in prison for conspiring to rob a West Bloomfield Township trustee who was murdered during a robbery at his home more than a year ago.

Milton Pratt of 556 Bloomfield, found guilty of the charge July 17, was sentenced by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Clark J. Adams.

* * *

Pratt was convicted of plotting the armed robbery of Edward E. DeConick with alleged coconspirator Milton Moss, also of Pontiac, on June 23, 1967.

That scheme was never carried out, but DeConick, 63, was killed and his sister Kathelen, 73, was seriously wounded when on July 3 three men and a woman forced their way into the DeConick home at 5847 Maple.

* * *

That case, in which $25,000 was reportedly stolen, has never been solved. Moss was not charged.

Nigerian Troops Near Biafran HQ

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigerian troops advanced today on the temporary Biafran capital of Aba with both prongs of a pincers movement reported making progress toward the secessionist headquarters.

A high officer said a commando column led by Col. Benjamin Adekunle had crossed the Imo River 15 miles south of Aba and occupied Akwete, a settlement on the northern bank.

* * *

The lead column of the other pincer was was believed across the river at the Imo railway station, 22 miles from the city.

The drive appeared aimed at bringing the 13-month-old secession of eastern Nigeria's Ibo tribesmen to a quick military end. But the Biafran leader, Lt. Col. Odumegwu, Ojukwu, has pledged that his people will retreat into the bush and wage guerrilla warfare.

* * *

An estimated 6,000 troops from Nigeria's 3rd Marine Division were reported committed to the attack on Aba. The city some 40 miles inland is the largest of the three major towns still in rebel hands.

Ojukwu's secessionist army now holds only about one third of the 29,000 square miles he proclaimed independent in May 1967.

Officials Hope Bomb Reward Gives Results

Pontiac Police and fire officials have reacted favorably to the city commission's offer of rewards of up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest of persons responsible for recent fire bombings and a rock-throwing attack on firemen.

The commission action came Tuesday night at the request of City Manager Joseph A. Warren, who told commissioners that 13 fire bombing incidents have occurred in the city this year.

* * *

In addition, he cited an apparently planned rock attack on a fire company at a false alarm at a dead-end street.

Fire Chief Charles Marion praised the reward offer, adding that "the entire department is hopeful that this thing will be cleared up."

He said he thought the action would bring forth some information.

Fire Marshal Charles Metz called the move "a step in the right direction."

* * *

Lt. John DePauw, second-in-command of city detectives, said he believes "anything leading to information on these acts would be beneficial."

He said the reward offer should help.

'MORE OPTIMISTIC'

Detective Billy Irwin, one of several investigators looking into the series of incidents, said the offer made him "more optimistic about the chance to arrest the persons responsible."

Sgt. Herbert C. Cooley, president of the Pontiac Police Officers Association, expressed gratitude on behalf of the PPOA for commission support of the police investigation.

HHH on Bombing Halt

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said today that if an end of the bombing of North Vietnam can aid the peace negotiations in Paris "then that helps protect" the 500,000 Americans in Vietnam.

Humphrey said there is now an argument going on inside the U.S. Government as to whether a lull in the fighting is a signal from Hanoi that the Nroth Vietnamese are trying to de-escalate their side of the war.

Play Opens Tomorrow at Groves High

BIRMINGHAM — Three months of work by 20 Seaholm High School students will be culminated when they present the drama "A Visit to a Small Planet," by Gore Vidal in four performances in the next five days.

The light-hearted science fiction play about a spaceman who lands in Maryland will be presented at 8 p.m. tomorrow, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday at the Little Theatre of Groves High School, 20500 W. 13 Mile.

* * *

The program was originally scheduled for the Seaholm Little Theatre, but construction projects there necessitated the last-minute change.

The students organized before school was out in June and named themselves the Seaholm Summer Drama Group. "This is the first time anything like this has been done in the summer," said Kim June, a senior at Seaholm who has a part in the play in addition to her publicity duties.

A PLAY PER SUMMER

"We want to get the ball rolling this summer," she said, "so the group can continue and present at least one play every summer."

Miss June pointed out that tickets are priced at 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students, with all profits going to Birmingham's Child Research Center.

* * *

The project is run entirely by students. Set design and building, costumes, acting, directing and other technical details are being handled by youths who are students at Seaholm or who graduated in June.

The organizer and mainstay of the group is Rick LaDue of 242 N. Glengarry, a June graduate of Seaholm.

HAS LEAD IN PLAY

He has the lead in the play and is also its producer-director.

* * *

After he arrives in Maryland Kreton announces he is going to take over the earth and his extraordinary powers make it look like he might do it.

The entire cast and crew are looking forward to the play's debut in Birmingham and are hoping that citizens will give their support by attending one of the four shows. Tickets will be available at the door and are also being sold at Grinnell's in downtown Birmingham.

Before our formal Grand Opening, we thought it would be nice to have a little Peek Preview of the fine furniture now available at our new store. This Johnson/Carper sofa (see below) at just $299 with its traditional chair mate at just $139, gives you a slight idea. They are quickly available in a choice of fabrics and colors and the quality, as in all our furniture for every room, is excellent. Do come and see it before the Grand Opening rush.

This little black and white picture can't possibly do justice to the rich colors and superb fabrics of this sofa and chair. See them "live" at our store.

Outstanding Fair Is Staged by 4-H

This year's edition of the annual Oakland County 4-H Fair reflected gratifying progress in many areas.

Not only were the clubs involved up 31 per cent over last year and the participating membership 20 per cent, but the week-long attendance showed a healthy gain. Also, a new high was set for receipts in the livestock auction, which passed the $10,000 mark. All told, 3,000 different exhibits were displayed.

★ ★ ★

This activity of the County's Agriculture Cooperative Extension Service has functioned for more than half a century, and embraces 30-35 project areas for boys and girls in the 9 to19 age range.

As customary, the Fair opened with a Monday parade and closed with the climactic Grand Champions horse selections.

Although the 4-H (Head, Heart, Hand, Health) program is professionally administered, unstinted praise is due the 304 adult volunteer workers who lent their time, talent and leadership to development of the various interests of the teen-agers.

★ ★ ★

The Press warmly salutes the many whose enthusiasm and hard work made possible the outstanding event of last week.

Political "Ins" and "Outs" Square Off for Election

The Republicans went home from Miami Beach with the unity RICHARD NIXON promised he would do nothing to jeopardize in his choice of a running mate. The task they and he now face is the far more difficult one of transforming party unity into party appeal to the voters.

Granting them their apparent minority base of the Nation's registered voters, they must do no less than convince a substantial number of the remainder of the electorate — Democrats and independents — that they have the answers to the problems the Nation faces today and will face in the coming four years.

★ ★ ★

By the nature of things, the party out of power has to emphasize the sins and failings of the incumbent administration. The party in power must of necessity defend its record. Both, of course, are never short on promises of how they will do better in the future.

Thus it may be not so much what the Republicans promise to do as what the Democrats can be charged with failing to do that will sway the decision of many voters.

Yet NIXON cannot rely on the protest vote alone. THOMAS E. DEWEY remains the classic example of what can happen to a candidate when he bases his strategy on the belief that the people are so fed up with one administration that they will turn willy-nilly to another.

★ ★ ★

NIXON, the man who made it back the hard way, knows all this. Above all, he knows that all-important body of independents and nominal Democrats, who hold the election in the balance, will be listening to him to hear not just what the Democrats have done wrong, but to hear — in specific terms — just what the Republicans intend to do right.

★ ★ ★

The gauntlet is down. It is now the turn of the Democrats to pick it up as they prepare to convene in Chicago.

Antiwar Factions Silent on Vietcong Cruelties

Buried in a recent dispatch from Vietnam was the report that "Vietcong guerrillas sprayed a nausea-type gas around a government outpost in the Mekong Delta . . . South Vietnamese soldiers, four of them vomiting blood and many others nauseated, beat off the attack . . ."

★ ★ ★

It is interesting that this news item brought little or no reaction at all from those who have decried our use of defoliation chemicals, tear gas and napalm.

Come to think of it, little has been said about our use of chemical weapons in the war since it was revealed the Vietcong have been using flame throwers, which they seem to find especially useful in wiping out communities of innocent villagers.

★ ★ ★

In fact, the whole antiwar movement here, seems to have lost some of its spark since the Vietcong have continued their push with such tactics while the leaders on both sides are trying to negotiate a peace settlement in Paris.

Soviet Leaders Stirring Up Spy Scare

By WILLIAM RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Stalinist habits, evidently durable among Soviet leaders, are emerging once again after the Soviet-Czechoslovak showdown. For Soviet citizens there is a chill in the air, reminiscent of cold war.

The palpable defeat of a Soviet effort to make reform-minded Czechoslovaks bend to Kremlin will seems to have provoked Communist party worries about its internal impact.

★ ★ ★

The Kremlin's somber mood and its fright at what Czechoslovakia might mean in the future come through in the latest issue of Kommunist, the Soviet theoretical journal, to reach this country. An article, apparently written for the edification of the Soviet Communists themselves rather than for anybody abroad, deals with "Vigilance — Weapon Against the Intrigues of Imperialism." It pictures Soviet citizens in danger from spies and provocateurs lurking everywhere, ready to pounce on the unwary and use them to undermine the system.

Soviet spy scares have been familiar fixtures through the cold war years. Each "vigilance" campaign has reflected Politburo worries on the home front. Clearly the current campaign is linked with Czechoslovak events. Referring to a bloc meeting on Czechoslovakia, the article said it "underscored the necessity of strengthening by all means the unity of parties and peoples" to protect the ramparts of Marxism-Leninism.

MASQUERADERS

Komnunist warned against "ideological saboteurs" who were said to masquerade as "members of delegations, tourists, people traveling in our country on private business" and the like who, often, in reality, were out to propagandize the Western way of life. Such people, it said, can use international connections as "channels for infiltration into the U.S.S.R. of antiSoviet and other hostile materials."

It pointed out that in recent years, Soviet contacts with the West expanded greatly, that many Soviet people now go abroad in various capacities: to conferences, to sport competitions, with tourists or theatrical groups. Foreign intelligence agents, notably Americans and West Germans, seek out Soviet citizens, it said, trying to play on human weakness and pry out state secrets, or enlist the unwary for ideological warfare.

Today, the article instructed, the party must consider as one of its most important tasks a struggle against "ideological saboteurs," because "in the sphere of ideology there cannot be peaceful coexistence, as there cannot be class peace between the proletariat and the bourgeoisie." It added that "the security of the fatherland and the interests of the Soviet people constantly demand revolutionary vigilance."

★ ★ ★

In 1949 and again in 1952, when Joseph Stalin was planning new purges, Soviet propaganda dwelt heavily on the theme of vigilance to thwart spies. The theme was repeated in 1954-55, just before Georgi M. Malenkov was fired as premier. It popped up again just before the 20th Communist party congress in 1956, when Nikita S. Khrushchev denounced the Stalin legend. Again it was in evidence in 1957, before Khrushchev beat off a Politburo attempt to depose him.

★ ★ ★

An outstanding example of the spy scare came in 1964 at a time when, in the words of the Italian Communist newspaper L'Unita, Khrushchev was "living a delicate political moment." The spy scare preceded his overthrow.

Heavy Toll Road!

David Lawrence Says:

Sen. Morton Tells It Like It Is

WASHINGTON—Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., former chairman of the Republican National Committee and recently preconvention manager of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's campaign, was on the CBS television network from 11:30 to noon last Sunday, a time alot which does not provide for maximum viewing. So a large number of persons probably did not have a chance to get what might be called a professional analysis of the nomination of the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

LAWRENCE

Examining the verbatim transcript afterwards, this correspondent found several things of interest.

★ ★ ★

The Kentucky senator declared that the presidential nominee has the right to select the vice presidential candidate.

In answer to a question as to what part the southern bloc played in picking the vice presidential nominee, Morton said that he thought the two persons who really held the South together for Nixon were Sens. John Tower of Texas and Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee.

'NOT OBJECTIONABLE'

Nixon's idea, Morton said, was to pick a man who was not objectionable anywhere in the United States, and that was why he selected Agnew.

Morton was asked what reasons he would give to any meeting of Negro voters as to why they should support Nixon. He said he would point to Nixon's record.

★ ★ ★

Morton's explanation of the failure of Rockefeller to get the Republican nomination was that the New York governor was "too late."

The Kentucky senator declared that if he could have gotten Rockefeller "out of the gate" in mid-March and into the primaries, the New York governor would have had a better chance to win.

ULTIMATE IRONY?

A final question was this:

"Senator, do you find perhaps the ultimate irony that Gov. Agnew, now the vice presidential candidate, stood ready at that point to be the director of the Rockefeller campaign and now has ended up with the vice presidential nomination?

"Sen. Morton: Well, the governor was one among several of us — Gov. Agnew — who did urge and want Gov. Rockefeller to get into it. And Gov. Agnew, as early as February, was urging him to do it."

Sen. Morton has served two terms in the United States Senate and previously was assistant secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration. What he said over television on Sunday represents the attitude of the practical politicians in the Republican party, whether on the "liberal" or the "conservative" side.

Bob Considine Says:

The Wives of Candidates Bear a Heavy Burden

NEW YORK — Poor Pat. Poor Mrs. Agnew. Poor Mrs. McCarthy. Poor Lenore Romney.

CONSIDINE

The dear ladies are in for, or already have experienced, a soul-searing summer. For two of them, probably Pat Nixon and Muriel Humphrey, the agony of the frozen smile, the task of looking interested in speeches so familiar they could repeat them backwards, the perpetual dread they may yawn while the damned TV camera is on them (which could tip the balance of the election) and the need to be incessantly nice to bores and boors cannot pass until November.

★ ★ ★

For one of them, the staggering burden of being First Lady will have to be carried until 1972 and perhaps on to 1976 — by which time men will have landed on the moon and the Vietnam truce talks at Paris will be in their ninth year.

I don't know of any more enervating job than that of candidates' wives, particularly the wife of a man driven by the ultimate ambition, that of wanting to be President of the United States.

WONDERFUL WOMAN

I feel particularly sorry for Pat. She is a wonderful woman. She has weathered political storms that would have crushed almost any or all of her species. She can conceal hurt like a great ring champion.

★ ★ ★

The only time she couldn't bear it any longer was the day he came to the microphone and conceded the ejection to Jack Kennedy by 113,000 votes out of about 69 million cast. There were tears, but not the bawling the occasion probably called for.

Then the debacle of the 1962 California gubernatorial race, followed by the first respite from smiling and shaking hands she had had since 1946, when Dick ran for congress.

★ ★ ★

The move to New York, the growing up of her beautiful daughters, new friends, no pressures, etc. were a heavenly time for Pat. It was a relief just to watch the '64 convention.

LIGHTNING HIT

But something happened. The lightning got to her husband again. Months before the first primary, when Nixon was saying that he had not yet made up his mind whether to seek the office, I accidentally went into a wrong office at his Wall Street law firm and found Pat there — going over the old list of Nixon supporters.

He's back in the ball game, and guess who'll pitch her heart out for him.

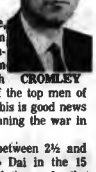
Sect Shifting Toward Saigon

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sources in South Vietnam close to the Cao Dai have sent word to this reporter that that religious sect is quietly shifting heavily toward the Saigon government's side of the war.



CROMLEY

If this is true, and those from whom this information comes are high in the trust of the top men of the Cao Dai, this is good news indeed for winning the war in Vietnam.

There are between 2½ and 3 million Cao Dai in the 15 million population of the south. The sect is considerably larger and much more effective than the militant Buddhist factions which triggered President Diem's overthrow and later endangered the Nguyen Cao Ky government.

The Cao Dai has an importance greater than its numbers. It is a militant group, with some military expertise. It has considerable political potential.

The major Cao Dai branch is headquartered in Tay Ninh Province, adjacent to areas where the Vietcong have been very strong for years and not far from the Cambodian VC sanctuary.

The sect is now organizing the nucleus of what may become its political wing — a fast-growing strongly nationalistic veterans' association, with an auxiliary youth group.

★ ★ ★

The veterans' association and its youth group are understood to be setting up community self-defense units throughout the sect's areas.

The Cao Dai years ago reached some sort of accommodation with the Vietcong whereby they would, by and large, stay more or less neutral. The feeling was that the Cao Dai would not interfere with the VC if the VC left the Cao Dai and its areas alone.

Some groupings of the Cao Dai have cooperated strongly with the Vietcong and its National Liberation Front.

★ ★ ★

It is understood the shift in the Cao Dai is a result in considerable part of the elections in the past several years. Though Cao Dai tickets lost, these elections convinced Cao Dai leaders that representative government was on the way in South Vietnam and that the Cao Dai would have a means, through these elections, of making its influence felt.

The Cao Dai is an unusual sect, formed about 1919. The doctrine draws heavily on both Christianity and Buddhism and the ritual on Vietnamese folk religion as well. Its adherents believe their God is the Jehovah of the Jews and Christians, the Supreme Being of the Buddhists and the Brahma of the Hindus. The Cao Dai cathedral at Tay Ninh has statues of Confucius, Jesus, Buddha, Lao-tzu, Brahma, Siva and Vishnu.

★ ★ ★

The Cao Dai claims several spiritual "fathers" give guidance to the sect through mediums. These "fathers" or "saints" include Sun Yat Sen, the Chinese revolutionary; Trang Trinh, a Vietnamese diviner; and the French writer-poet, Victor Hugo.

Osteopathic Patients Enjoy Bank Chimes

As a two-time patient in the Osteopathic Hospital, I wish to say how much the patients enjoyed the beautiful chimes which we heard each day from the Community Bank Building.

★ ★ ★

Their sound was especially appreciated by me the first morning, before I went up to surgery — they gave such a feeling of hope.

★ ★ ★

I am wondering if they do not ring on Sunday or did I miss them by being asleep? Anyway, they are lovely.

Reminds Planners of Special Problem

I hear the City Commission is talking about fixing up downtown Pontiac to get more business.

★ ★ ★

Why don't they put in some ramps? I have a crippled sister in a wheelchair. I would like to shop in Pontiac but she is too heavy for me to lift up on sidewalks.

Question and Answer

My mother was recently in Osteopathic Hospital, and the bank chimes she heard were so beautiful. Are they on a recording for public sale? My small tape recorder can't pick up the sound as beautiful as it really is.

Youth's False Rumor Snowballs; Friend Learns a Valuable Lesson

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wish I were a Catholic. Then I could go to a priest and confess the terrible thing I did and he would give me his blessings and I could sleep again.

ABBY

I got mad at my girl friend and started a terrible rumor about her (I said she got pregnant and had an abortion). I had no idea it would spread the way it did until my own mother heard it and told me I couldn't go around with her anymore.

Now the girl refuses to go back to school in September because everybody in town is talking about her. And some girls won't even speak to her.

★ ★ ★

If I confessed to my mother, she'd tell me to keep my mouth shut because she wouldn't want anyone to know what a stinker I am. I want to make it up to this girl because she really isn't a bad girl. Could I run an ad in the newspaper and say I lied?

CAN'T SLEEP

DEAR CAN'T: Forget the ad, but do go to the girl and confess that you started the ugly rumor. And tell her you will also tell those who have unjustly ostracized her. You will never be able to undo the damage you've done, but I hope this will be a lesson to you.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I agree with you 99 per cent of the time, but I couldn't go along with the advice you gave that father who told his 17-year-old son to either get a haircut or not to come home. (The boy didn't come home.)

You told the father to forget the hair for now and to emphasize the more permanent aspects of his son's character. Tell me, Abby, how can a father mold his son's character if he can't make him mind?

As a law enforcement officer I have found that the biggest cause of juvenile deliquency is the inability of parents to get their children to mind.

I have a 19-year-old son who would wear his hair too long if he had his own way. I don't tell him to either get a haircut or not to come home, but I do tell him if he doesn't cut his hair, I will cut it for him if I have to do it while he's asleep.

Abby, if I didn't love my son I wouldn't care how long he grew his hair. I know all boys like to rebel a little, but when you put your foot down I think the average boy respects you for it. I know mine does. A FATHER

DEAR ABBY: Regarding CONCERNED's letter about her sister-in-law riding a motorcycle at age 61: I have a very lovely uncle in Denver who is 79 and HE rides a motorcycle.

There is one difference, he doesn't have a "sizable fortune," so we just love him and leave him alone.

LEON IN LUBBOCK

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Last week I made a proposal of marriage to a girl I was very much in love with. She refused. Now I find that she has told nearly everyone in town that I asked her to marry me and she turned me down. This has embarrassed me to a great extent.

Why would a girl broadcast something like that? I would have understood it had she accepted, but why would she tell people that she turned me down? I wish she'd have kept her mouth shut.

★ ★ ★

DEAR EMBARRASSED: She was obviously proud of the fact that someone proposed to her, even though she refused. In addition to being inconsiderate and indiscreet, she talks too much.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, c/o The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Fashion Preview Slated by Detroit's Junior League

Fashion takes another turn with the coming of fall and the Junior League of Detroit will see that the Greater Metropolitan Detroit area keeps pace with it when they present "Fashionscope for '68."

The program, a collection of the fall look from the J.L. Hudson Company, will be previewed Sept. 10 and 11 as the Junior League marks its 16th annual fashion preview of the season.

NARRATOR

The programs, which will be held in J. L. Hudson's downtown auditorium, at 2:30 p.m., will be narrated by Madelyn Coe, Hudson's fashion coordinator.

Chairing the event, profits of which are channeled to a Community Trust Fund for the Greater Metropolitan Detroit area, is Mrs. Richard T. Heglin.

★ ★ ★

Serving with her are Mrs. Charles R. Berger, assistant chairman; Thirza Morrow, Mrs. Arthur Waterfall II and Mrs. John D. Durno, tickets; Mrs. Richard Chadwell, arrangement; and Mrs. William D. Dahling, publicity.

Tickets for the affair, which is open to the public, may be obtained by contacting the ticket chairmen.

MRS. MICHAEL BERGIN

Michael Bergins Exchange Vows

A nuptial mass Saturday in Holy Name Catholic Church, Birmingham, united Therese Marie Gehringer and Michael Bergin. A reception in Pine Lake Country Club followed the ceremony.

★ ★ ★

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Gehringer of Yarmouth Road, wore a gown of peau de soie with a yoke of Venetian lace.

The hem and train of her gown were edged with matching lace. Medallions of Venetian lace also framed her finger tip length veil.

HONOR ATTENDANT

Catherine Welch of Tiffin, Ohio, attended the bride as maid of honor. She was assisted by bridesmaids Mary Steiner, Mary Ann Gehringer, Terry Karibo and Lee Sherman.

★ ★ ★

The son of the James Bergins of Detroit asked Hirsh Rohr to attend him as best man. Performing the duties of usher were Charles Gehringer, Lawrence Cogut, Kenneth Grunow and James Kahn.

★ ★ ★

Following a northern Michigan honeymoon, the newlyweds will reside in Ann Arbor.

Greeting Cards Cheer Shut-Ins on Anniversary

BY ELIZABETH L. POST

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. William Logie of Keego Harbor, Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: Our parents will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary next month. Due to ill health, we will not be able to celebrate in the usual manner. Would it be acceptable to invite all our acquaintances as well as theirs on that day? If so, should we send informal invitations explaining as well as inviting them to participate in this "Cardorama," and how should it be worded? — Mrs. L.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. L.: It's a lovely idea! Although your parents are not well enough to see their friends, what a thrill they will get from knowing that so many are thinking of them!

★ ★ ★

As you suggested, invitations may be in the form of an informal note. It might say something like this: "We hope you will help us celebrate Mother and Dad's 50th wedding anniversary. Since they are not in good health we cannot have a party, but we know they would love to hear from their friends so we are planning a 'Shower of Cards.'

★ ★ ★

"We would be most grateful if you would help them enjoy their Golden Wedding by joining in this shower and sending a card." Invitations may also be issued by telephone.

Installation Witnessed by Chapter Members

The installation of Mrs. Sherman Charlan as a member of the Land-O-Oak chapter of the American Business Women's Association, highlighted Tuesday's meeting at Jason's Restaurant.

Witnessing the affair were members and guests, Mrs. Charles Cordray, Mrs. LaRue Christie and Mrs. Cyril Borst.

★ ★ ★

The meeting was concluded with a vocational talk by Mrs. Lela Upcott and a review of the state's history, entitled "Michigan-Mastodon to Motor Cars" by Donna Knisely of Michigan Bell.

A membership tea is slated Sept. 15 at The Pontiac Mall Community Room following the monthly meeting Sept. 10 at the Northwood Inn.

Jack E. Boyntons Honeymooning in Bermuda Following Saturday Rite

MRS. JACK E. BOYNTON

The Jack Erwin Boyntons (nee Joan Elaine Mansfield) are honeymooning in Bermuda following their marriage Saturday in First Methodist Church, Clarkston.

★ ★ ★

Parents of the couple, the William H. Mansfields of Orion Road, Avon Township and the Robert L. Boyntons of Birmingham joined the couple at Pine Knob Resort where they greeted guests.

ATTENDANTS

Cheryl Mansfield and Thomas Boynton were honor attendants for their sister and brother, respectively.

★ ★ ★

Bridesmaids Sue Boynton, Mrs. William Conway, Sheila Goins and Mrs. Daniel Strong assisted. The usher corps was comprised of William Conway, James Mansfield, William Redding and Daniel Strong.

ENSEMBLE

The former Miss Mansfield wore a gown of organza and peau de soie with an A-line skirt and Empire waist. A matching peau de soie headpiece secured her elbow length veil of illusion and she held a colonial bouquet of Phalaenopsis orchids and yellow Sweetheart roses.

★ ★ ★

The newlyweds will be at home in Ann Arbor where he is a student at University of Michigan's Law School.

Cranbrook Hosts Young Writers

The Cranbrook Foundation and the Michigan State Council for the Arts are sponsoring a three-day conference for area college upper classmen interested in writing and the arts.

★ ★ ★

They will assemble at the Cranbrook Academy of Art Friday through Sunday under the supervision of Carl G. Wonnberger, associate professor of English at Eastern Michigan University.

INSTRUCTING

Other instructors for the group will be Donald Hall, professor of English and poet-in-residence of the University of Michigan and Thelma Jones, formerly of Wayne State University. Jerome Brandfield, editor of "Literary Cavalcade," will also give assistance.

Chairman of the Cranbrook Writers' Conference is Karl Haas with E. Ray Scott as executive director.

★ ★ ★

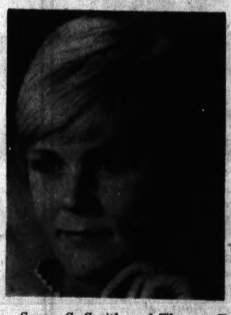
On Sunday, Henry Booth and the Foundation will host a reception for the group in Cranbrook House. Dr. Charles E. Feinberg, Walt Whitman scholar, will address the audience.

Girl for Carol Burnett

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Comedienne Carol Burnett gave birth Wednesday night to her third child — again a girl.

Miss Burnett, 33, is married to Joe Hamilton, producer of the weekly Carol Burnett Show on television.

Both the mother and daughter, named Erin Kate, were listed in good condition in St. John's Hospital. The baby weighed 6 pounds, 13 ounces.



Susan S. Smith and Thomas E. Gorney have set Nov. 2 as their wedding date. The bride elect is the daughter of Mrs. Betty Smith of Birmingham and Wendell S. Smith of Franklin. She is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin at Madison. The prospective bridegroom is the son of the Edward Gorneys of Bay City. He was graduated from Michigan State University.

CURRIN-JOHNSON

Wed Saturday in All Saints Episcopal Church were Sandra Lynn Johnson and David Leo Currin. The Rose Kneale Room of the church was the setting for a reception following the vows. Parents of the couple are the senior Donald A. Johnsons of Ravenglass Road and the Leo Currins of Waringham Street. The former Miss Johnson chose a silk organza and Rochelle lace. Her Cathedral train was accented with appliqued streamers. A seed pearl crown held her veil of illusion. Salilue Johnson and Bruce Fisher were honor attendants in the bridal party of 12. A honeymoon in Michiagn and Wisconsin followed for the newlyweds.

Family Medicine Cabinet Deserves Special Respect

CHICAGO (UPI) — Medicine chest roulette is a new game — played with bottles.

"Many medicine chests are storehouses for old and outdated drugs that should have been destroyed long ago," says Dr. Walter J. Karr, medical director of North American Company for Life and Health Insurance.

Because of this, the family first-aid station becomes the home of a potential killer — dangerous as it is useful.

To safeguard against the harmful effects of outdated or improperly stored medicines, Dr. Karr says medicines never should be kept in unmarked containers.

Labels should be removed from prescription bottles before the bottles are put to other uses, and unused portions of prescriptions should be discarded as soon as they have served their purpose.

He said the latter will prevent another household problem — "self doctoring" through the use of drugs prescribed for other illnesses.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Karr suggests a year-round check list for the family medicine locker:

- Keep the medicine chest clean.
- Keep all items out of the reach ofsmall children.
- Do not take medicine in the dark.
- Place all prescription medicine on a high shelf.
- Read all labels before pouring medicine.
- Discard all medicines not clearly labeled.
- Discard left-over prescription drugs.

You're in Middle if You Comply

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're 27.7 years old, you're one of the few truly middle-aged Americans — half the population is older than you and half younger.

The Census Bureau reported today 27.7 was the median age of the nation's population as of July 1.

★ ★ ★

This was right where the midpoint rested a year earlier, indicating a 15-year decline has at last stopped, the bureau said.

The decrease in median age began in 1952, when it stood at an historic peak of 30.3 years.

★ ★ ★

The post-war baby boom brought the poulation balance point down year by year until births began their marked decline in the 1960s.

Save Your Eyes

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Many people needlessly sacrifice the eye comfort they seek when they purchase sunglasses on the spur of the moment," says Charles J. Sidor, president of the Guild for Prescription Opticians of America.

"Choosing a pair of sunglasses is frequently done as quickly as possible, but low quality sunglasses often have lenses that distort color, hinder proper visual perception and do not adequately screen bothersome glare."

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer,

How can we adjust a pattern so that we may eliminate the waistband of skirts and slacks and use the elastic like the ones you find in ready-to-wear?

Mrs. R. B. W.

Dear Mrs. R. B. W.:

I have checked with ready-to-wear clothes and find that the only waistbands that are cut with a casing and use elastic on skirts and slacks are made of knit fabric. The stretch in the knit fabric works beautifully with this kind of finish, however it would never work with other fabrics.

The garment would have to be cut much larger at the waist than necessary in order to be able to get it over your shoulders or up over your hips that the fabric would be bunchy and not give you the results you would like.

★ ★ ★

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I feel that my upper arms aren't as attractive as they were when I was younger, and I don't feel comfortable with sleeveless dresses. It is very difficult to buy a jacket dress or make one that isn't sleeveless. Why is this? Surely I'm not the only woman in the world who wants sleeves.

Mrs. R. E. B.

Dear Mrs. R. E. B.:

I must agree with you. Today, it is almost impossible to find a jacket and dress combination where the dress has sleeves, either in patterns or ready-to-wear. I see no reason why you can't add short sleeves to your dress if you remember to change the jacket sleeve. The sleeves of jackets are cut fairly close fitting today, and they would not be cut with enough room for both sets of sleeves.

★ ★ ★

Expermient with a sleeve cut out of inexpensive fabric, baste it into your jacket armhole and see if there is enough room for both sleeves. If not, you will have to increase the size of the sleeves as well as making the armhole of the jacket slightly larger to fit.

Perhaps you are a little self-conscious about this. It seems when everyone is wearing the same style, no one pays too much attention to anyone else. However, if you feel uncomfortable, by all means learn to change your patterns.

★ ★ ★

Dear Eunice Farmer,

Please tell us how to press the rayon-linens and the wash and wear cottons. I have several dresses made from these fabrics and have pressed them over and over, but the seams and darts still do not look like they should.

Mrs. J. W. L.

Dear Mrs. J. W. L.:

With every advantage, there is always a disadvantage, these new fabrics are no exception. Fortunately, we are in an era of the no press look so it actually doesn't matter as much as you might imagine. Your very expensive clothes have an unpressed look. This is partly due to the fabrics and partly to the fashions of today.

Press these fabrics on the wrong side with a fairly hot steam iron. In certain areas you might even dampen a press cloth and press over this with a hotter iron. However, the nature of the fabric will cause it to spring right back.

★ ★ ★

If you have underlined your garment, you may wish to loosely catch-stitch the open seams to the underlining only especially over bust areas where a smoother look is desired. If you are from the old school of the sharp press for everything, you will have to relearn techniques that will affect the new fabrics.

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Vivien Saunders, 21-year-old University of London student, is a psychology major who is thinking about using some of that learning to win fairway friends today in the third round of U.S. Amateur Women's Championship at Birmingham Country Club.

Miss Saunders used more than psychology to eliminate the defending champion of the tournament Lou Dill yesterday.

She put together a barrage of birdies to tie her match with Miss Dill, and then played it safe on the playoff hole to win, 1-up on 19.

"I know it sounds foolish," she said, "but I think I'm going to pin the American Stars and Stripes to my golf bag tomorrow," she said.

Her reasoning was that she felt everyone in the gallery was pulling for Miss Dill.

"I could hear the yeas when Miss Dill pulled off a good shot, and disappointed 'oohs' when I did any good," she said.

"There was one gentleman however," she said in her British accent," he was really urging me on."

This is Vivien's first attempt at the U.S. Amateur and she decided to make the trip here because of the bargain rate given by the airlines to British University students.

It was considered a mild surprise when Miss Saunders eliminated Carol Sorenson in her first match yesterday, but when she and Miss Dill started their see-saw match, the gallery started to pick up.

It was a wild match. Miss Dill would win two holes, then Miss Saunders would win two.

The little Texan MRS. SAUNDERS would go one up, and then Vivien would tie it and then go one up. They halved only four holes in their match.

Miss Dill then took a 3-up lead, but that not only disappeared but it was a shattering blow to Miss Dill's confidence as Vivien won three straight holes with birdies.

"That really put the pressure on me," said Miss Dill, "It shook me up."

The No. 13 hole, a 428-yard, par-5 hole was the real shaker.

Vivien put her second, a 3-wood, to within 10 feet and had an eagle putt facing her, while Miss Dill's third shot was out on the fringe. Miss Saunders birdied here and also No. 14.

The personable Britisher also used a little psychology on herself by convincing herself that the Birmingham layout is her type of course, and the best she has ever played and this gives her the positive attitude to play well.

"I'm not just saying this, but this course is magnificent. It allows a variety of shots. In Britain on many courses we can use the same 3 or 4 clubs on every hole," she said.

Today, in the third round, Vivien will meet her match, at least in the field of education.

FACES JOYCE TODAY

She faces Joyce Kazmierski, who graduated the past June from Michigan State with a psychology major.

"This could be a real psycho match," jested Miss Saunders, who has never played against Joyce competitively.

"I met Joyce in England last year, and I stayed at her place for a time. I know how well she plays and I have a lot of respect for her game," she added.

"What would be the reaction if you should happen to win this tournament," she was asked.

"I guess it would shatter the golf experts in England. I think it would even shatter me out of excitement," she laughed.

It should be a strong hitting match today between Vivien and Joyce. May the best 'psychogolfoligist' win.

Foreign Showdown Possibility

Field Dwindles in Women's U.S. Amateur

By FLETCHER SPEARS

A foreign showdown for a prize U.S. plum was shaping up today in the 68th U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship at Birmingham Country Club.

Two grueling rounds of match play yesterday reduced the field to eight and tournament officials were obviously pleased with the lineup that headed into the quarter-finals this afternoon.

There was, first of all, that darling of French golf, 23-year-old Catherine Lacoste, who is gaining admirers as fast as Charles de Gaulle is losing them.

And then there's witty Vivien Saunders of England, and to add some local flavor, there's Joyce Kazmierski of Grosse Ile, the current Women's Michigan Golf Association titlist.

There's more. Four-time champion Mrs. Joanne Gunderson Carner is still around along with three-time winner Mrs. Anne Quast Welts.

FIELD DWINDLES

The field is dwindling fast. Only four will survive today's action and they'll then play the semifinals tomorrow. The finalists will play 36 holes for the title Saturday.

As the pairings now stand, Miss Lacoste and Miss Saunders could find themselves playing for the title come Saturday. Oh, but that road leading to the finals won't be easy.

* * *

First of all, Miss Lacoste, who was almost felled in her first match by unhearlded Margaret Jones of Covington, Ky., must dispose of Jane Bastanchury of Whittier, Calif., recent winner of the Broadmoor Invitational in Colorado Springs, Colo.

And Miss Saunders has no picnic, either. She was paired with Miss Kazmierski today, and a victory would put her into the semifinals against the winner of the Mrs. Welts-Phyllis Preuss match.

* * *

The Lacoste-Bastanchury survivor will meet the winner of the Carner-Mrs. Paul Dye Jr. match.

Miss Lacoste, who does for Women's Amateur golf what Texan Lee Trevino does for the PGA, came in as the tournament favorite and she's easily the favorite of the crowd.

* * *

"After you qualify they're all tough," said Miss Lacoste after her come-from-behind victory over Miss Jones, the 1968 Kentucky champion.

EVENS MATCH

The French swinger evened the match on 18 with a par when Miss Jones three-putted from 50 feet and then won on the 21st hole with what she described as her greatest shot ever. It was a 3-iron that settled some 14 inches from the cup on the par-3, 154-yard No. 3 hole. Miss Jones, in the trap on the right, blasted out and made a three-foot putt for a par but Miss Lacoste tapped in the short one for a birdie and the match.

* * *

The afternoon duel was easier. Miss Lacoste was two up after nine and emerged with a 3 and 2 win over Jan Webber of Fresno, Calif.

* * *

Miss Kazmierski, a teacher at Livonia Stevenson High, posted a routine 3 and 1 verdict over Mary Margaret Dwyer of New York in her opener, and then staged a comeback in the afternoon to down Mrs. Karen Oldham of Ohio on the 19th hole.

* * *

Mrs. Carner ousted Bobbi-Joe Gabrielsen of Georgia in the morning, 1 up in 19 holes, and then turned back Carol Semple of Sewickley, Pa., in the afternoon, 3 and 1.

OFFICIAL HELP — Margaret Jones of Covington, Ky., asks Dr. Frank R. Lovell of Southfield, a U.S.G.A. official, for a ruling during her first-round match against Catherine Lacoste of France yesterday in the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship at Birmingham Country Club. Her ball was lying close to the fence and Miss Jones asked if she could lean against the fence as she hit the ball. It was okay, Dr. Lovell ruled, but it was of little help to Miss Jones. She lost the hole and the match in 21 holes.

Mayo Slips Indians 'Mickey'

Lolich Notches Fourth Straight Relief Victory

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayo Smith has a perfect putdown for those American League die-hards who keep trying to twist his Tigers by the tail. The Detroit skipper simply reaches into his new bullpen bag and slips them a quick Mickey.

Mickey Lolich, who couldn't finish what he started a month ago, hurled 5⅔ innings of scoreless relief Wednesday night and picked up his fourth victory in nine days as the first place Tigers flattened Cleveland 3-0.

* * *

The swift southpaw scattered three hits and struck out five in his longest relief stint since Smith sent him to the bullpen in late July. He has defeated Cleveland and Boston twice and each for an 11-7 season mark and has not given up a run in 15 innings, beginning Aug. 6.

RETAIN LEAD

In beating the Indians for the sixth time in seven games over a nine-day stretch, the Tigers regained a seven-game lead over the second place Baltimore Orioles, who bowed to Oakland 4-1.

Lolich replaced Joe Sparma in the fourth inning at Cleveland with the Tigers leading 1-0 on Bill Freehan's 18th homer. He stranded two runners and then stymied the Indians until the eighth, when a double play and center fielder Mickey Stanley's running, one-hand grab of a drive by Vern Fuller saved him from a possible knockout.

"I started walking to the dugout," Lolich said. "When I looked up Stanley was still going back and the ball hadn't come down yet. I started to worry and kept right on walking, because if it's over the fence I'm out of the game anyway...and I might as well watch from the bench."

Freehan connected against Cleveland ace Luis Tiant, 18-8, in the second and the Tigers added two runs in the sixth on Al Kaline's double, Gates Brown's single and a triple by Norm Cash.

FIRST OF TIANT

"I am one for three years against Tiant," said Freehan. "I know I did not get a hit off him last year, and this is my first hit off him this year. He had good stuff, I just got lucky."

Lolich was beaten in his last three verdicts as a starter and was tagged for three runs in 1 1-3 innings of relief against Minnesota Aug. 2.

But he retired the only batter he faced four nights later as the Tigers nipped Cleveland 2-1 in the 17-inning opener of a doubleheader, then came back with a 2 2-3 spotless innings to gain the victory in the nightcap, which Detroit finally nailed 5-2 on the following day.

Montreal 'Nine' Making Progress

MONTREAL (AP) — A historic first dent in the hitherto solid American major leagues of baseball occurred in a smoke-filled downtown Montreal hotel room Wednesday when Montreal officially became a member of the National League.

"Montreal is now a fullfledged member of the league," said NL President Warren Giles. With these words, the city became the first outside of the United States to be admitted to the majors.

Club sponsors made the first payment of the franchise fee.

John McHale, 46, a man who has spent 28 years in organized baseball—21 of them in the front office— was appointed president and chief executive officer of the club. Jim Fanning, a close friend of McHale's, was named general manager.

U.S. Casualties Lowest of Year

South Viet Losses for Week Are Up Slightly

SAIGON (UPI) — American forces suffered their fewest combat casualties of the year last week, U.S. spokesmen said today.

The 991 casualties — 173 men killed and 818 wounded — were 230 fewer than the previous week, which had been the low seven-day point of 1968, the announcement said.

★ ★ ★

The figures lent some weight to Hanoi's hints that Communist troops were holding down the level of fighting.

South Vietnamese losses for the week increased slightly. Spokesmen said 243 government soldiers were killed and 781 wounded.

RED LOSSES

The casualty report said 1,642 Communists were killed in the same period, pushing the Reds' total war losses to 377,711. The number of Americans killed since Jan. 1, 1961, rose to 26,634.

American troop strength in Vietnam now stands at 543,000, the report said, with another 35,000 servicemen stationed on U.S. Navy ships off shore.

★ ★ ★

The 173 U.S. servicemen who died last week formed the third lowest weekly death toll of the year, behind the 171 killed in the previous week and the 157 slain in the week of July 20, spokesmen said.

The 818 wounded brought to 166,968 the number of U.S. men wounded in the war.

★ ★ ★

Revising their report from last week, U.S. spokesmen said 1,461 Communists were killed in the week of Aug. 4 instead of the 899 previously reported.

Midland County Sunday Sale OK

MIDLAND (AP) — The Midland County Board of Supervisors Wednesday approved a resolution, 15-10, to allow Sunday liquor sales.

The Greater Midland Area Chamber of Commerce recommended that the action be taken, which is allowed under a new state law.

Grand Rapids Dry

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Reaffirming the legislation committee's rejection of Sunday liquor sales in Kent County, the supervisors Wednesday voted 52-20 against the sale of liquor on Sunday as allowed by a recently enacted state law. The legislation committee Tuesday rejected the Sunday liquor sales 4-3 but at least one supervisor said he would take issue to the full board.

Dem Credential Hearings Near

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes, chairman of the Democratic National Convention's Credentials Committee, announced Wednesday the schedule of hearings on state delegations in Chicago next week.

The hearings on Michigan's delegates will be held from 2:30 until 4 p.m. on Friday, Hughes said.

Youth Struck by a Truck in Waterford

A Waterford Township youth is recovering today after he was struck early yesterday by a pickup truck while trying to run across Williams Lake Road near the Grand Trunk Western railroad tracks in Waterford Township.

Gary Lee Vandewater, 17, of 5517 Rowley is in fair condition at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, according to hospital officials.

★ ★ ★

Vandewater was struck at 8:30 by a truck driven by Calvin A. Thornton of 2785 Williams Lake, Waterford Township, police said.

Witnesses told police at the scene of the mishap that Vandewater ran from behind one car into the path of Thornton's truck. Thornton, 57, said he could not avoid the accident.

Police said the truck's skid marks measured up to 66 feet long.

Ohio Man Killed

ERIE (AP)—Carl Louder, 51, Columbus, Ohio, died Wednesday in a car-truck collision near Erie. The driver of the tractor-trailer truck was not injured, state police said.

Waterford GI Killed in Viet Mine Blast

A 21-year-old Waterford Township serviceman has become a Vietnam casualty.

Spec. 4 Melvin L. McArthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. McArthur, 6238 Waking Lane, was killed last Thursday when the truck he was driving hit a mine on a return trip from a mission to his command post at Chu Lai, north of Saigon.

Word of McArthur's death was sent to his family Sunday. The family had received their first tape recorded message from their son Saturday.

"We had sent Mel a tape recorder July 23," said his father. "In his first message to us Saturday he seemed to be in real good spirits. If it had not been for the news we received the next day, the message would have been quite encouraging."

MELVIN L. McARTHUR

NOT BITTER

"Mel was a good boy and he looked forward to coming home, marrying his girl friend, and settling down. I'm not bitter about his death, but it just seems we are losing so many good men in Vietnam," McArthur added.

"My son was the type of boy who fitted in and accepted things. He was not happy about going to Vietnam, but he accepted it like a man."

★ ★ ★

The 1966 graduate of Waterford Kettering High School was to have been discharged from the army in November.

Serving with Company C, 39th Engineer Battalion, 18th Engineer Brigade, McArthur had been in Vietnam since December 11. He received his basic trainisg at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., after being drafted in November, 1966.

Prior to entering the service, Spec. 4 McArthur was employed by Pontiac Motors Division.

Arrangements will be by Coats Funeral Home, Waterford Township.

Surviving are his parents; four sisters, Mrs. Anne Scharf of Pontiac; Carolyn at home; Mrs. Bobbie Donavant of Inglewood, Calif.; and Mrs. Thomas Hart of Maryland; one brother, Donald L. at home; and grandmother, Mrs. Alonso Whitman of Flint.

Dead GI's Parents Get Medal of Honor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Medal of Honor was presented posthumously today to Pfc. Billy L. Lauffer, a 20-year-old soldier killed in Vietnam in 1966 when he charged an enemy machine gun emplacement to save wounded comrades.

★ ★ ★

Army Secretary Stanley Resor presented the medal to Lauffer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Lauffer of Tucson, Ariz., in a Pentagon ceremony.

It was the 41st time the nation's highest military decoration had been awarded for heroism in Vietnam and the 21st posthumously.

Ex-Crony of Dillinger to Live in Hazel Park

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Russell Clare, 70, last of the old John Dillinger gang, will spend his remaining few months of his life with a sister at Hazel Park, Mich.

Clark, who was invilved in Dillinger's famous escape from a Lima, Ohio, jail in 1933, recently was released from the Ohio penitentiary under papers signed by Gov. James Rhodes.

His release was on information by prison physicians that the life termer had lung cancer and only six months to live.

Clark and two accomplices freed the famous bank robber from jail by shooting down Sheriff Jess Sarber when he challenged their word that they were officers wanting to question Dillinger.

DEATH SENTENCES

They later were tried for the slaying, with Clark getting life imprisonment and the other two sentenced to death in the electric chair. Clark was admitted to the penitentiary in March, 1934, serving a little more than 34 years behind bars. He was transferred to the London, Ohio prison farm in 1958 and returned here earlier this year when it was apparent he needed medical attention.

The three had freed Dillinger in return for his getting them out of an Indiana prison at gunpoint several months earlier. Dillinger was shot to death by the FBI in Chicago a short time later.

Bond Is OK'd in Girl's Killing

The preliminary examination yesterday of a man charged with killing a 16-year-old Pontiac girl was continued until Tuesday by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum.

Facing an open murder charge in the gunshot death Saturday of Florence Stanford of 210 Bassett is 24-year-old William D. James of 273 Judson.

★ ★ ★

He had been in custody without bond, but McCallum set $1,000 bond at his appearance yesterday. James remains in Oakland County Jail.

He was arrested shortly after the Stanford girl was fatally wounded in the head in an incident at her home. She died moments after she arrived at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

New Detroit Group Gets New Leader

DETROIT (AP)—Pledging to use a $10-million fund to "help resolve some of the social problems of metropolitan Detroit," industrialist Max M. Fisher of Detroit accepted the chairmanship of the New Detroit Committee Wednesday.

The agency, formed to help rebuild Detroit after the 1967 riots, also announced it had filed papers of incorporation with the state government in Lansing and would become a permanent, nonprofit corporation.

★ ★ ★

The name will be changed to New Detroit Inc.

Fisher, who is head of the United Jewish Appeal campaign in the United States, will take over the chairmanship from Joseph L. Hudson Jr., president of the J. L. Hudson Co., on Sept. 5.

SUBCOMMITTEE HEAD

Fisher has been serving as chairman of the New Detroit's subcommittee on economic development, which launched a $10-million drive in April for funds for its projects to aid the disadvantaged.

Last week, officials said the campaign was within $500,000 of its goal.

Foreign Mail Service Leaves America Shamefaced

By the Associated Press

An Englishman the other day sat right down and wrote himself a letter.

Then he mailed it and went to lunch.

Three hours later he returned to find the self-addressed message waiting on his desk.

That's how fast the mail gets through in Britain.

* * *

While America's couriers keep their appointed rounds in spite of sleet and storm, they can't do so well in spite of deficit. So Saturday deliveries are threatened.

Which must cause laughter in Britain, for instance, where a woman who lives at the tip of Cornwall can write her daughter who lives at the tip of Scotland about how beastly mail service is in America and fully expect the message to get there the next day.

FEW BOASTS

In a word, the United States does not seem to have much to write home about its mail system compared to other industrialized nations of the world.

In Japan, for instance, a letter sent in the morning in a city usually arrives that evening in the same city. Furthermore an ordinary letter costs only 4.1 cents postage compared to six cents in the U.S.

* * *

The Japanese mailman, like his English and American counterparts, makes two deliveries a day in cities and one in the country. Some Japanese offices even carry the mail on Sundays.

Besides being quick and courteous, British delivery is cheap: four cents for a first-class letter, although this is soon going to five.

TWICE WEEKLY

In the tight little realm of the Netherlands, the postman rings twice on weekdays and once on Saturdays. As with Japan and England, the Dutch postal service is government-owned. It also includes the government-owned telegraph and telephone service which helps explain why the service delivered that most—unheard—of good news last year: it made a profit $45,280,000 overall, although the mail end of things lost $13,050,000 in 1967.

While word of mail may travel faster and more cheaply in Holland—5.5 cents for a domestic letter—word of mouth does not. Private persons may wait up to a year to get a new phone connection.

* * *

Mail in Italy moves at a more leisurely Mediterannean pace—anywhere from one to three days, depending on whether it is between cities or goes out into rural areas. Deliveries are twice a day in cities, once daily in towns and villages.

The Italians introduced the Zip Code last year but it has not taken the country by storm although the government retained popular comedians and singers to popularize it on television.

UNDERGROUND TUBE

The French usually get the mail delivered overnight and, in Paris, within a few hours by an underground tube network for special delivery mail. Since Paris is a stay-up city, four post offices in the capital stay open all night long. Including Saturday and Sunday.

Getting the message across in Mexico, on the other hand, can be a deliberate process. An air-mail letter from Acapulco to Mexico City, 35 minutes apart by jet, usually takes 10 days for delivery. The government blames an overtaxed system caused by rapid growth of the capital. Accordingly, it may take two or three weeks for a letter mailed at one end of the block to clear through the central post office and be delivered to the other end of the block.

* * *

Government officials being realists, usually have their important messages carried by hand.

It is also an old tradition in Mexico City to set aside once a year "the day of the postman." On that day he expects a generous tip. If the addressee doesn't come through, mail may not come through itself for a week or so. If senor or senora are kind, they may find mail they were meant to get a week before.

ONE-DAY SERVICE

The German federal postal service, Bundespost, also operates the telephone and telegraph. In the central areas of all large cities, there are two mail deliveries a day Tuesday through Friday, with one delivery on Mondays and Saturdays. One-day service is common on letters to points within Germany — at least between major cities. A regular letter costs about 7½ cents.

Russia, the biggest country in the world, has some of the biggest mail headaches, not surprisingly. The service, of course, is government-owned, and common letters take a 4.4-cent charge. Russians are flamboyant stamp makers, some being big enough to cover half an envelope.

* * *

Intracity mail is usually delivered overnight (if it takes longer, it probably was rerouted through the censor) but service to the furthest Arctic wastes might be a monthly basis. The government takes great pleasures in publishing such remote delivery by showing a helicopter dropping the mail to some snowbound outpost.

In a classes society such as Russia's where king and commoner are one and the same, or so it says, one would not expect humility from the mailman and one would not be disappointed. Several years ago the government newspaper Izvestia told of a mailman who was in the habit of reading postcards and correcting errors in spelling and grammar with a bright orange pencil. On one he wrote: "Illiterate letters ought to be sent in envelopes.

* * *

Izvestia suggested he deliver his critiques in private.

King Antiochus left inscriptions explaining that he chose his grave site as the "utmost ridge" of his kingdom and "in closest proximity to the heavenly throne of Zeus." This is believed to be Nemrud Dagh in southeast Turkey.

Sandpipers Smooth

Group's Sound Belies Youth

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The sound of the Sandpipers, as Mike Piano of the group says, is "a flowing, smooth sound." That's why it's a surprise that the Sandpipers are so young — all three were born in 1944 and most singers their age are doing rock or abrasive "new music."

But their musical childhood explains their present style. They've known each other 13 years. All three were members of the Mitchell Boys Choir in Los Angeles until their voices changed. The operating word there — where voices were heard a lot without instrumental backup or coverup — was blend.

* * *

The Mitchell Boys Choir also sang in 11 languages, with Robert Mitchell telling them what the words meant so they'd project the right feeling.

Today, the three Mitchell alums who became the Sandpipers still blend and still sing a lot in languages beside English. Their album out in July on A & M, "Softly," contains "Quando M' Innamoro," which they sang in Italian at the San Remo Song Festival in February. And their biggest hit, "Guantanamera," is in Spanish.

NOT LIKE A HIT

They heard "Guantanamera" on an album Pete Seeger recorded at Carnegie Hall. Richard Shoff says, "We all thought it was so beautiful. We never thought it was going to be a hit. It was not what was happening. We insisted on doing it in its original Spanish because the beauty is there."

Jim Brady says, "After we recorded 'Guantanamera,' we went out on a four-week job and forgot about it. Then we started hearing reports it was charted."

* * *

Last winter the Sandpipers were on the charts again with "Misty Roses." And they have hopes for "Quando M'Innamoro." It came in sixth of the 24 songs at San Remo.

They were amazed by a couple of things at that festival — that people dressed formally to watch it on TV in hotel lobbies and that applause came every time the audience liked something — sometimes five or six times during a song.

A FULLER SOUND

The Sandpipers got together when Richard Shoff (native of Seattle) was singing for a compiler of "oldie but goodie" albums. He decided he wanted a fuller sound than he could produce alone, so he called Jim Brady (native of Los Angeles) and Mike Piano (native of Rochester, N.Y.

Shoff says, "Mike said he'd sing with me. Jim said no. He wanted to be an actor. I spent about an hour talking him into it. From that day on, we've been working together."

Reds Plan Satellite Network

VIENNA (AP) — In the Soviet Union seriously challenging the giant Intelsat space communications network with its proposal to establish a global network of communications satellites? Or is it putting pressure on Intelsat to substitute a one-country, one-vote policy for American domination?

Several hundred space experts from 73 other nations studied the Russians' Intersputnik plan today at the second session of the U.N. Conference on Exploration and Peaceful Uses of Outer Space. Most interpreted the move as a pressure play, with the Russians using the United Nations as a forum.

The Soviets made their proposal at the conference's opening session Wednesday in a message from Premier Alexei Kosygin. His note, read by the leader of the Soviet delegation, A.A. Blagonravov, wished the conference success and said:

"In order to better satisfy the needs of the developed and developing countries, the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries are proposing the creation of an international communications system through artificial satellites based on democratic principles with total equality for all its participants."

The Intersputnik proposal was delivered to U.N. headquarters in New York Tuesday, but the news had not yet reached Vienna, where the scientists most concerned were gathered.

The draft proposal submitted to the United Nations is very similar to that of Intelsat, which has 62 member nations representing 95 per cent of the communications traffic in the world. The major exception is that each intersputnik nation would have one vote, giving all an equal voice.

Intelsat nations vote according to their investment, with the United States having a 51 per cent interest through its Communications Satellite Corp., or Comsat.

* * *

The Soviet Union has refused to join Intelsat mainly because it would have only a small voice in the American-dominated organization.

Planes Attack N. Viet Sector

Carriers' Jets Back in Action After Storm

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers attacked North Vietnam's southern panhandle with renewed fury Wednesday after a day in which tropical storm Rose prevented American aircraft carriers from launching a single mission.

With the three 7th Fleet carriers in the Tonkin Gulf back in action, U.S. sources said American pilots more than tripled the 31 missions flown Tuesday by land-based planes. It was the lowest number in more than two years.

* * *

The carriers, on which about 300 fighter-bombers are based, sent waves of F4 Phantoms to attack bridges south of the coastal city of Vinh. The pilots reported knocking out one span, damaging another and cratering the approaches to at least six more.

Skyhawk pilots from the carrier Intrepid reported destroying or damaging 13 supply boats, some of them 80 feet long.

BASED IN THAILAND

Another 12 supply boats and 10 trucks were wrecked by Air Force fliers from bases in Thailand, the U.S. Command said.

Air Force F105 Thunderchief pilots said they damaged a locomotive and three railroad cars 48 miles northwest of the coastal city of Dong Hoi.

* * *

While the fighter-bombers kept trying to cut the flow of war supplies to enemy troops in South Vietnam, the Air Force's eight-engine B52 bombers attacked more suspected enemy camps and infiltration routes in the South. One of four B52 raids Wednesday night was 14 miles west of Saigon.

Others were in Tay Ninh Province near the Cambodian border and near Quang Ngai City on the north central coast.

SECONDARY EXPLOSIONS

Ground observers counted 18 secondary explosions, indicating hits on fuel or ammunition, in the raids near Quang Ngai.

The B52s have concentrated recently on trying to blunt the expected third Viet Cong offensive against Saigon and other South Vietnamese cities.

* * *

In maneuvering connected with the peace talks in Paris, qualified sources said today the French government has firmly declined South Vietnamese feelers for a resumption of full diplomatic relations between Paris and Saigon.

* * *

Vietnamese sources said their government would like to raise its Paris consulate back to embassy level so as to be better prepared if the talks are enlarged to include a South Vietnamese delegation. The sources said the French government reacted to unofficial approaches by declaring that as host to the peace talks it must avoid disturbing the diplomatic status quo in any way that might affect the negotiations.

Georgia's Governor a Paradox

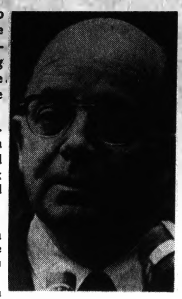
ATLANTA, Ga. (UPI) — Two years ago Lester Maddox, one of the South's best-known symbols of segregation, was running for governor of Georgia on the slogan: "You know where he stands."

Most people thought they did. To the racist element, he was a hero who had personally chased Negroes from his Pickrick cafeteria, carrying a pistol and backed up by ax handles.

* * *

To the liberals, he was a dangerous extremist; to the moderates, a publicity-seeker, a clown.

To the Democrats, he was a party bolter who supported Republican Barry Goldwater in 1964. To the Republicans, he was not quite respectable enought to be acceptable. To the politicians he was a three-time loser, in races for mayor of Atlanta and lieutenant governor of Georgia.



GOV. LESTER MADDOX

LITTLE CHANCE

Few of them gave him any chance of ever being governor.

Maddox has been governor now for 18 months, and few people are sure they do know where he stands, or whether they ever did.

* * *

As governor, Maddox has displayed a paradoxical mixture of compassion for the poor and contempt for poverty programs designed to help them; demands for law and order and denunciations of the courts; appeals for patriotism and damnings of the federal government; surprising moderation and statements that seemed startlingly extreme.

* * *

He keeps his own counsel, has few close advisers, and largely ignores those who have attempted to temper his public image.

Those responsible for the moderate tone of his inaugural address, in which he warned that there would be no room for extremism in Georgia during his administration, soon lost his ear.

WORST ENEMY

Almost before the surprise of the "New Maddox" had settled on his critics, the governor a high school dropout, was again describing the federal government as the country's worst enemy of education, and declaring that if Washington didn't quite telling Georgia how to run its schools, it could take its federal aid to education and "ram it."

The statement caused state school officials considerable concern, since Georgia receives more than $80 million a year in federal funds for schools. But after the first flurry, Maddox, in typical fashion, let the matter drop.

* * *

When pressed about his loyalty to the national Democartic party, Maddox said that pledging to support party nominees without knowing who they are would be putting party ahead of God and country.

He had promised, however, that he will not go outside the party and endorse third-party presidential candidate George Wallace, although he has held private political meetings with Wallace and admittedly would like to support him formally and openly.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST

The 53-year-old Maddox, son of a devout Southern Baptist mother, does not drink or smoke and frequently lectures on the evils of both.

* * *

MORE ADVANCES

Yet Negroes have made more advances in state government during his administration than in any previous one. The number of Negroes on local draft boards, for example, has risen from two to more than 20. Maddox instructed that Negroes be hired into the previously all-white Georgia Bureau of Investigation, and there now are two on the 85-man force.

What America needs, Maddox is likely to say sometime during his response to almost any question, is a fewer people on welfare rolls, more on payrolls and a return to states' rights, private property rights, patriotism, free enterprise and constitutional government.

* * *

Yet he displays concern for the poor, black and white.

Twice each month in the governor's office, Maddox conducts Little People's Day, when crowds of people gather to file through, shake his hand and confide to him problems that they cannot solve.

Fleeing Con Is Recaptured

NILES (AP) — An Escaped convict from Jackson State Prison was captured Wednesday two miles west of Niles. The escapee, 21-year-old Fred Edwards, was serving a sentence for breaking and entering.

State Police said Edwards stole a dump truck but was captured only three minutes after the Niles State Police post had been told of his escape.

Edwards was held in the Niles city jail pending return to prison at Jackson.

Grant Helps Get a Place in Sun Study

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Most National Science Foundation (NSF) grants go the men with strings of initials after their names indicating academic degrees.

Ben. C. Parmenter, 55, of Spokane can't boast a single such initial, but he has received his second grant from the NSF for his work in solar astronomy in which he ranks among the world's top scientists.

* * *

Parmenter's new grant of $6,000 will take him into next year when the sun's spicules, which are his special field of study, will reach the peak of activity in their 11-year cycle.

Spicules are the spike-shaped rays on the outer edge of the sun. "If we can find out how spicules work, with no loss of energy, then perhaps someday we can use the process on earth," Parmenter said.

AN EXCITING YEAR

Parmenter said 1969 will be "an exciting year" for solar astronomers because of the spicule peak, although the peak is expected to be lower than usual "unless the sun gets busy."

Parmenter's work, which to a layman looks painstakingly dull, consists of taking pictures of the sun and measuring the height and width of the spicules. Each new observation is compared to the previous one.

* * *

His telescope also transmits light from the sun into a spectroscope, which difuses the light to reveal what elements are present in the portion of the sun being observed.

His observations combined with those of other astronomers throughout the world give a continuing picture of the sun and its changes—and hopefully some clues to the source of its tremendous energy, the sun's effect on earthly weather and possible dangers to astronauts from "solar winds."

* * *

Parmenter feels he is making progress in the never-ending study of the sun.

"It's like being a detective," he said. "You learn one thing and it leads to another question."

Crime Increases Found in Latin America, Too

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — If its any comfort to you Norte-americanos, crime is on the increase in much of Latin America, too, especially juvenile crime.

Although exact figures are hard to come by in most Latin American countries, and in some cases are non-existent, authorities in Colombia, Venezuela and Ecuador all report a marked rise in juvenile criminality.

* * *

As is true in the United States this has included a big jump in car thefts, often of the "thrill ride" kind.

Argentina and Brazil police also report a steady crime increase, including juvenile delinquency, and a sharp jump in bank robberies. Peru authorities report that armed robbery has increased over previous years.

'SHOOT IT OUT'

All these countries noted a greater tendency on the part of criminals to "shoot it out" with police nowadays whereas in the past there was little of this.

In Mexico the press reports a consistently growing crime rate—even a current "crime wave"—although police claim the reports are exaggerated. Latest available figures for Mexico City alone do show a sharp jump in recorded crimes—from 29,560 in 1965 to 44,229 in 1966.

* * *

Of all major crimes in Mexico murder is the most common. Murder rates in Mexico, however, can be deceiving, as they can be for other Latin American countries.

Murder in Latin America is apt to be a crime of passion, or involve a personal quarrel or family fued. Out and out murders for profit are relatively rare.

LESS COMMON

Street muggings and rapes also are less common in Latin and South America than in the United States, except in the worst city slum areas. In most of the larger Latin American cities — police boast that the streets are safer to walk at night than in the United States cities.

Despite an over-all crime rate increase in Buenos Aires, major crime has fallen off in recent years except for bank robberies. The rise in statistics appears to be caused by the increase in juvenile crimes—minor thievery and car stealing.

Crime patterns have changed and experts attribute this to social changes.

Bing Crosby traded songs with tribal warriors and even managed a round of golf during a two-week African safari which ended yesterday.

The trip took him across Masailand, in northern Tanzania, and ended in Nairobi, Kenya, where he golfed at the plush Karen Club.

Crosby viewed the course on the 5,500-foot plateau and cracked: "Bob Hope should play here — it's just about the right height for his drive. He might even get on the green."

Pat's Peril: Getting Shoes Back On

Pat Nixon says on the perils of political campaigning: her greatest worry until November is "being able to get my shoes on once I've got them off."

The wife of the Republican presidential nominee made the comment yesterday in San Francisco during a one-day campaign appearance with her daughter Tricia.

Actress Is Sued for Divorce

Actress Carroll Baker is being sued for divorce by her husband, Jack Garfein, a stage and film director.

In the Los Angeles suit yesterday Garfein, 38, charged Miss Baker, 37, with extreme cruelty and asked for legal custody of their children, Blanche, 11, and Herschel, 10.

His complaint said they were married in April 1955 in New York City and have been separated since July 1, 1967. He said they made an oral property settlement the previous May 15.

Miss Baker currently is living in Rome. The children are in Garfein's custody.

Sons of Humphrey, Reagan Meet by Chance

Hubert "Skip" Humphrey and Michael Reagan, sons of noted politicians, crossed paths by chance yesterday in Portland, Ore., and exchanged a bit of small talk.

Humphrey, 26, said of the enthusiasm which marks his Democratic presidential candidate father, "I guess it's just in the old man. He is happy. He likes things. He likes politics and let's face it, it's not the world's worst occupation."

Reagan, 22, whose mother is Jane Wyman and whose father is governor of California, said: "My sister's in politics. My father's in politics. I think that's enough in the family."

Reagan was here as a salesman for a chain saw manufacturer while Humphrey was campaigning among businessmen for support for his father.
