

Wednesday, October 7, 2009

National Science Foundation's Robert Noyce Teacher Scholarship Program

OU faculty Mark Olson, Jerrold Grossman and Christine Abbott were awarded over $890,000 from the National Science Foundation to help professionals from the science, technology, engineering and math fields earn their Masters in Teaching degrees and teach in area middle and high schools. Eligible students receive scholarships of $20,000 each. Visit <http://www.oakland.edu/noyce/> for more information.

SUMMARY

Created by Bris Roberts (berobert@oakland.edu) on Wednesday, October 7, 2009
Modified by Bris Roberts (berobert@oakland.edu) on Wednesday, October 7, 2009
Article Start Date: Wednesday, October 7, 2009