Guard Troops Called in Chicago Rioting

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois National Guard was called out today for the second time in less than a year as three nights of rioting brought exchanges of gunfire between police and snipers with the disturbances spilling over into daylight looting.

In last night's demonstrations 900 policemen ranged through the area and exchanged gunfire with rioters.

Two Negroes were shot and killed, six policemen including a captain were shot and more than 300 persons were arrested. Many civilians also were wounded.

Some rioting and looting continued in the daylight hours for the first time today, but police reinforcements moved in and blocked off some streets. Some police units called for more ammunition, but there was no gunfire after daylight.

The exchange of gunfire between police and demonstrators was the first in a major northern city since 34 persons were slain in California during the Watts riots last August.

Gov. Otto Kerner ordered 3,000 guardsmen from 15 Chicago area units of the National Guard to armories near the scene at the request of Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago.

★

National guardsmen were called out last August on a standby basis after race rioting on the West Side, but police kept the situation under control.

Policemen began carrying machine guns, shotguns, rifles and tear gas last night in addition to pistols and night sticks to combat roving bands of vandals, looters, and snipers.

New Safety Standards Set for U.S. Autos

Expected to Become Basis for Congress' Laws After This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announces today new safety standards for cars it buys.

They include such safety features as head supports on front seats and rear window defoggers.

These and seven other regulations set down by the General Services Administration are expected to become the basis for congressional auto safety legislation after this year.

The standards, to be published today, apply only to vehicles purchased by the government after Oct. 13, 1967.

★ ★ ★

But during the recent hearings on auto safety legislation, it has been widely stated that the federal standards will be made applicable to all automobiles on an interim basis by the secretary of commerce.

PENDING

Both the bills passed last month by the Senate and now pending in a House Commerce Committee would require the secretary of commerce to issue interim safety standards by Jan. 31, 1967, and permanent standards a year later.

★ ★ ★

The seven other GSA regulation would require:

1. Controls on windows and roofs to be constructed, located or mounted to minimize the likelihood of injury to passengers wearing seat belts.

2. Ashtrays and lighters to be shielded and located away from passenger and driver impact areas.

★ ★ ★

3. Arm rest to be so constructed and mounted so as to minimize damage from collisions.

★ ★

4. Padded seatback to be used in sedans and buses, including station wagons and light trucks.

★ ★ ★

5. Side marker devices for sedans, carry-alls and station wagons to make them visible at night.

6. Roll-bar structures on utility-type light trucks to protect occupants in case of overturn.

7. Fuel tanks and fuel tanks filling pipes to be constructed so as to insure against rupture.

U.S. Recognizes Argentina Regime

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States formally extended recognition today to the new government of Argentina, which took over by coup two weeks ago.

The State Department announced the U.S. Embassy in Buenos Aires delivered a note at noon today to the Argentine foreign ministry reporting the U.S. decision.

The question of recognizing the new regime of Lt. Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania, who took over the presidency in a military ouster of elected President Arturo Illia June 29, had been a difficult one for Washington.

The United States has followed a general policy of encouraging democratic, constitutional development in Latin America and frowning on military coups, but has continued relations with governments which held practical reigns of power.

Police Await Girl's Recovery to Hear Story

Student Nurse Is Still Under Sedation After Roommates Murdered

CHICAGO (AP) — A dark-eyed Filipino girl — the sole survivor of the mass murder of eight nursing students — was kept closely guarded today while police sought her help in solving the hideous crime.

Miss Corazon Amurao, 23, remained in seclusion, except for visits of attendants and police, in South Chicago Community Hospital.

Although police visited the hospital early today, there was no confirmation that they discussed the methodical massacre of her fellow nurses by a lone killer in their town house dormitory Thursday.

The hospital offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to arrest of the killer. A. S. Daniel, executive director, who announced the reward, also said that the institution is creating a memorial fund in the names of the victims, to further the training of nurses.

Police pin their main hope on further information about the slayer which can be supplied only by Miss Amurao. There were other clues also. A sweat-soaked man's under-shirt found in the apartment, and many fingerprints which laboratory men said apparently include good examples of the killer's.

The nurses were slain one by one — by strangling, stabbing, or both.

WRISTS TIED

Police said the intruder first bound the wrists of the young women, and locked them in a bedroom. Then, in turn, he led them singly to other rooms and killed them.

"We've got a subanimal here," said police Cmdr. Francis Flanagan of the killer. "I've never seen anything more horrible than this."

The petite survivor, questioned briefly after she was taken from the carnage-filled dormitory, could give little besides

Type of Killer Is Described

'Sexual Psychopath Gratified by Crimes'

CHICAGO (UPI) — A man forces his way into the apartment of eight young women. At gunpoint he binds their wrists and then methodically kills each one of them, one by one.

What kind of man would commit such a crime? And why?

Today — the first day after eight student nurses were shaken out of sleep in their South Side Chicago town house and brutally hacked and choked to death — specialists in criminal behavior tried to construct a recognizable portrait from a maze of seemingly abstract parts.

"He was a sexual psycopath — a deep down woman hater — who was completely gratified by what he did," said Dr. Edward Kelleher, head of the psychiatric institute of Cook County (Chicago) Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Kelleher labeled the crimes a murder-sex orgy," something the killer committed to fulfill a sexual need, even if there was not an actual sexual assault on the women.

He predicted that unless the murderer was caught he would strike again.

City Hot Spell Ends; Mild Weekend Seen

Thunderstorms and showers in Pontiac and Southeastern Michigan this week have brought some relief from sweltering temperatures to wilted Pontiac area residents.

Sizzling highs of 93 Tuesday tumbled to a low of 60 this morning.

Yesterday's high was a pleasant 77.

The weatherman said Ol' Sol will shine on area residents today and tomorrow and maybe Sunday.

Temperatures are expected to continue mild over the weekend with lows registering 54 to 60. Highs will rise to 78 to 84.

The day-by-day breakdown for the period looks like this:

FRIDAY — Mostly sunny and pleasant today, highs 76 to 82. Fair and cool tonight, lows 54 to 60. North to northeasterly winds at 8 to 15 miles today becoming light and variable tonight.

★ ★ ★

SATURDAY — Sunny and mild with highs 78 to 84.

SUNDAY—Partly cloudy with possible afternoon or evening showers.

Romney Signs Home Rule Bill

Governor Critical of Measure for Counties

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney signed the county home rule bill Thursday, calling it little more than "a step in the right direction."

★ ★ ★

Backers of a strong, streamlined county government have complained that the frequently amended bill was watered down in its stormy 14-month legislative history.

The home rule bill does not do all it should to give counties greater autonomy, Romney said, but "it can form a building block for better local government.

"I am hopeful it will lead to further improvements in coming years," he added.

★ ★ ★

It allows any of Michigan's 83 counties to adopt a home rule charter—much as cities were in the early 1900s.

COMPLAINTS

Backers of strong county government have complained that it is poorly organized and that they are headed by boards of supervisors so large as to be unwieldy.

★ ★ ★

Either the board of supervisors or 5 per cent of the voters in a county may put the question of electing a charter commission on the ballot.

Large Field Snarls Judge Races

By JIM LONG

One of the wildest guessing games in recent years has developed as a result of the record number of candidates running for three seats on the Oakland County Circuit Court bench.

For the most part, the pastime has become popular around the county courthouse, where many of the 22 attorneys campaigning for the nomination are well-known.

No matter what's being discussed, whether it be among clerks, supervisors or elected officials, the conversation always gets around to the Aug. 2 primary and its possible outcome.

Everyone has their favorites, but the wide-open race has few "experts" making sure bets.

One problem, and not just with the uninformed, is trying to remember the names of all the judicial candidates.

LARGEST FIELD

The field is the largest election officials care to remember.

Occasionally, in trying to sort them all out, the name of one of the five Probate Court candidates slips in among the list of Circuit hopefuls being discussed.

Pilot Almost Lions' Meal

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — The Swiss Globe Airlines plane was flying a mile above the Belgian countryside early today when Capt. Paul Wuhrman felt something warm and wet nuzzling his leg.

One look at his visitor in the cockpit was enough for Wuhrman. He grabbed for his radio and called Brussels on the international emergency frequency.

"Brussels, Brussels, can I make an emergency landing. I have three lions in my cockpit."

Thinking it was a joke, the control tower responded: "Just stick them in your gas tank."

★ ★ ★

Frantically, Wuhrman tried to convince the tower there really were three lions in the cockpit. When he put the radio microphone near one of the lions and broadcast the growl he was given permission to make the emergency landing.

BOUND FOR ZOO

The plane, under charter to West Germany's Lufthansa Airlines, was carrying the three lions—two of them grown and the third a three-month-old cub—from Frankfort to a zoo in London.

Airline Strike Talks Remain Deadlocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations in the eight-day-old airline stike remained deadlocked today with little prospect for any favorable developments.

The principal spokesman for the five struck airlines, William J. Curtin, said at noon that "We still have an impasse — we have made no progress."

"We are pessimistic," he added.

Curtin and his fellow airline negotiators met only briefly with Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds, who is presiding over the discussions.

CLOSED SESSIONS

Reynolds spent most of the morning in closed talks with the two principal negotiators for the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists — Joseph W. Ramsey and Frank Heisler.

Curtin said the airlines representatives had not yet been asked to continue meetings over the weekend but were prepared to do so as they have, at the Labor Department's request, for the past two weekends.

* * *

"We are very conscious of our obligations to try to end the strike," Curtin said.

The talks at the Labor Department began last Saturday — a day after more than 35,000 machinist union members walked off their jobs at Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United.

Gloomy assessments Thursday by both Ramsey, chief union negotiator, and Curtin, made clear the talks were stalemated.

"We're apart 50 miles apart, pole to pole," Ramsey, an IAM vice president, told newsmen. "If the airlines have any new offer I haven't seen it."

* * *

Asked how the talks were going, Ramsey said they were not going at all. "We're as far apart as ever," he said.

Curtin said he agreed with Ramsy's use of the term "far apart" and said: "Don't look for early settlement of this dispute." He said the strike could continue into next week.

Asst. Labor Secretary James J. Reynolds, who is presiding over the talks, emphasized that there are no new issues blocking negotiations beyond those that prompted the union to walk out.

* * *

The strike is costing the airlines and union about $8 million daily, its effects — particularly to the massive summer tourist business—are also very costly.

* * *

The struck airlines agreed to bargain jointly with the union last August. Braniff, Continental and Northeast airlines, with employes represented by the machinists, did not enter into the agreement and have not been struck.

Israel, Syria Patrol Borders After Clash

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Air patrols were reported active on both sides of the tense border between Israel and Syria today in the wake of a bombing raid by Israeli jets on a Syrian engineering unit working to divert the precious waters of the Jordan River.

No new contact was reported today. A Soviet-built supersonic MIG21 jest was downed in a dogfight yesterday following the Israeli raid near the tiny Israeli border settlement of Al Magor just north of the Sea of Galilee.

Israel warned anew today that what it called Syrian attacks could not continue unpunished.

"It is inconceivable that Syrian excesses could go indefinitely unhindered." Premier Levi Eshkol said in a statement.

Officials said yesterday's raid was in retaliation for Syrian terrorist attacks on the Israeli side of the frontier.

DESTROYED

They said six tractors, an arms depot and a Soviet-built gun battery were destroyed at the construction site where engineers were working to divert the river waters from flowing into Israel.

* * *

Damascus radio reported 10 Syrians—most of them civilians—were wounded in the attack.

Israel denied a Syrian report that two of the attacking jets had been shot down.

Israeli officials sought to counter Arab protests by mounting a political offensive justifying the attack as retaliation for an alleged wave of Syrian terrorism that has killed four persons and wounded three others in the border region since Jan. 23.

* * *

After announcing the attack, officials summoned United Nations Peace Force General Odd Bull of Norway to the Foreign Ministry to explain the action and blame Syria for the terrorism that prompted it.

Williams Gets Labor Nod

The Oakland County AFL-CIO Council has endorsed former Gov. G. Mennen Williams over Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

The endorsement was one of 17 given to Democratic candidates in the Aug. 2 primary election including Zolton Ferency for governor.

Only one endorsement was given to a Republican candidate. The seat held by Carl W. O'Brien of Pontiac.

Acting Council President Andrew Montgomery said a committee is to meet with O'Brien, who last month, in announcing that he would seek reelection said he would run as an independent without any ties from labor.

U. S. CONGRESS

Endorsed for U. S. Congress were, in the 18th District, William H. Merrill and in the 19th, Billie S. Farnum.

In the State Senate race in the county, the council endorsed Paul Livingston in the 14th District, Sandre M. Levin in the 15th and Eileen Marx in the 16th.

State representative candidates endorsed were Dwight R. Lawler in the 60th District, incumbent Francis A. Crowley in the 61st, incumbent Arthur J. Law in the 62nd, incumbent Robert J. Slingerlend in the 63rd and Leonard P. Baruch in the 64th.

Others were John T. Rogers in the 65th, incumbent William S. Huffman in the 66th, incumbent Albert A. Kramer in the 67th, Wallace J. Reynolds in the 68th and incumbent Daniel S. Cooper in the 69th.

It said the three American planes shot down bring the total U.S. aircraft downed to 1,203 since U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam began Feb. 7, 1965. The United States puts the figure at about 290.

Deadline Given Land-Fill Firm

Health Steps Ordered at Pontiac Twp. Site

State and county health authorities laid down the law to the owner of a Pontiac Township land-fill operation following an inspection yesterday, giving him until next Tuesday to take steps toward compliance with a state statute.

Headed by Charles MacRae, the Bald Mountain land-fill operation has drawn attention in recent weeks because of spontaneous combustion-ignited fires which have caused injuries, traffic jams and threatened nearby Silverbell Ski Resort.

Health officials asserted that immediate action is required to eliminate health hazards and nuisance conditions at the site. They termed it "a must."

In complying with Michigan Act 87, MacRae must:

* * *

- Make formal license application with the Oakland County Department of Health.
- Furnish a letter of intent to comply with conditions of the law.
- Furnish the specified bond of $2,500 minimum or $500 per acre.
- Furnish an operational plan for the facility.

SPECIFY

Fred Kellow of the Michigan State Health Department and Oakland County Department of Health representatives Oscar Boyea and George Geyer specified certain provisions MacRae must meet.

* * *

They said all exposed areas of rubbish, garbage and refuse must be covered daily by six inches of impacted earth, preferably a clay mixture to seal off air and subsequently prevent spontaneous combustion.

Another provision forbids the dumping of combustible debris in the area of the land-fill operation where the fires occurred.

MacRae also was told he must assure them of the availability of proper material as required for daily covering of all refuse.

Health officials stressed that all highly combustibles, such as paint thinners, paints and tar, must be eliminated immediately.

a general description of killer — 6 feet or taller, 170 pounds, about 25, short-haired, dark waist-length jacket and dark trousers.

* * *

SHOCK TREATMENT

Within an hour after she was taken from the apartment, she was given heavy sedation and taken to the hospital for shock treatment.

In his news conference today, Daniel said that Miss Amurao "will not be available for many days to talk to anybody but the police."

Daniel said that work of other students and nurses went on today as though tragedy had not burst upon their coworkers. "The reaction has been marvelous," he said.

* * *

"They realize that this is a hideous crime for which there is no rhyme or reason."

CRIME STUDIED

Police reviewed their evidence and reconstructed the grisly events.

Miss Amurao escaped the massacre by rolling under a bed. She lay there, unmoving, through the terror-filled night.

Only the girl and the killer know the answers to these questions:

- What did the intruder look like?

* * *

- How did he enter? Leave?
- How did he conduct the mass slaughter without neighbors hearing even a single outcry?
- Why did Miss Amurao, cowering a few yards away, hear no scream?

"That's what's giving us a tough time," Flanagan said. "She seems to have totally lost recall from the time she went under the bed."

From the girl's fragmentary account, police searched for a man with short, probably crew-cut hair, slender and about six feet tall.

"I could fill Soldier Field with men who fit that description," Flanagan said. But, he added, Miss Amurao said she could identify the killer.

HUGE MANHUNT

Acting on the vague description, police launched a massive manhunt, set up roadblocks, hauled in a half dozen suspects for questioning. None panned out. Forty policemen were assigned to the investigation full-time and the FBI worked on the case.

Miss Amurao and seven of the victims, all students at South Chicago Community Hospital, lived in one two-story unit of a row of townhouses rented by the hospital.

The eighth victim, Mary Ann Jordan—also a student—was an overnight guest.

* * *

This is how Flanagan reconstructed the crime from Miss Amurao's fleeting account and from the scene.

SIX IN HOUSE

Six girls were in the house. The intruder's knock awakened Miss Amurao between 10:30 p.m. Wednesday and midnight. She answered the knock, was confronted by a man holding a knife and pistol.

He herded all six girls into the back bedroom upstairs and bound them with 1¼-inch wide strips of bed sheeting.

The other two girls who lived in the dormitory, and Miss Jordan, arrived later. They, too, were forced into the back room, and similarly trussed.

* * *

Then came the massacre. The girls went to their deaths one at a time.

Downstairs:

* * *

On a sofa, strangled, Gloria Jean Davy, 22, of Dyer, Ind. She was one of the three who came in late. ("This girl came in fully clothed," Flanagan said, "and was found naked.")

Pilot Almost Meal for Lions

The lions escaped from their cages while the plane was over St. Nicholas in northern Belgium and began prowling up and down the fuselage.

Brandishing a fire ax, copilot Max Schomenberger, 25, discouraged the animals from again entering the cockpit while Wuhrman headed for Brussels at top speed.

* * *

Authorities at the airport summoned three fire engines and called out gendarmes with submachine guns to await the landing.

The gendarmes threw a net over the cockpit window to keep the lions inside and drew back to await help.

* * *

It arrived in the form of two zoo specialists from Antwerp. One of them, Dutch zoologist Mrs. Agtha Gyzen, opened the plane door stealthily and stuck her head in.

* * *

"What's new, pussy cat?" she demanded, grabbing the cub by the scuff of its neck and lifting it from the plane.

Mrs. Gyzen returned for the adult lions but they showed no disposition to leave the swaying plane and forced the zoologist into hasty retreat.

* * *

Deciding wisdom was the better part of valor, Mrs. Gyzen called her zoo for reinforcements. They removed the lions later.

Board, Teachers Close to Contract Settlement

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Agreement between the board of education and the Bloomfield Hills Education Association (BHEA) on a teacher contract for the coming school year is close, according to representatives of the two sides.

At a meeting last night most of the remaining minor issues were cleaned up, according to George E. Cavin, head of the teacher negotiating team.

Still to be resolved are the issues of supplemental pay increases for coaching and other grievance procedures.

* * *

Irving E. Menucci, assistant superintendent of schools, said that the remaining differences are not real stumbling blocks and should be settled at the next meeting of the two sides Thursday.

BIRMINGHAM — A Public Health Research Scholarship has been awarded to Donald A. Palus, son of George R. Palus of 3729 Darlington.

Palus has just completed his freshman year at the School of Dentistry, College of Physicians and Surgeons, University of the Pacific, San Francisco, California.

The scholarships, which are sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service, are in the amount of $600 and go to six of the school's students who have shown interest in research and who have had high grade point averages.

He holds a bachelor's degree from the University of California in zoology.

Storm Continues to Pose Threat in Gemini Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Tropical storm Celia lost much of her punch today but still posed a threat to Monday's scheduled launching of the Gemini 10 astronauts on a double rendezvous and space walk mission.

* * *

As the Gemini 10 pilots underwent physical examinations expected to clear them medically for the flight, the weather bureau downgraded Celia from a tropical storm to an easterly wave.

Top winds dropped from 50 to 30 miles an hour as the wave moved west - northwestward about 900 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy.

* * *

Judge Picture Is Confused

candidates in the courthouse hallways and coffee shops play it safe.

They greet them all with a "Hi, Judge," knowing that soon they could be appearing before any of them in a case.

* * *

This week, however, the attorneys took a more serious view of the election, and through the Oakland County Bar Association announced the results of a county-wide poll concerning the candidates for judicial office.

POLL RESULTS

A tabulation of the ballots returned by 353 attorneys gave Ferndale attorney William R. Beasley the highest number of preferred votes, 248.

Carl F. Ingraham and Maurice Merritt, each received 108 votes, followed by Farrell E. Roberts, 93, Philip E. Rowston, 92, and Robert L. Templin, 72.

The two Probate candidates receiving the highest number of preferred votes were Burton R. Shifman, 122, and Eugene A. Moore, 93.

One saving factor in all the confusion is the fact that all 22 Circuit Court candidates are out to win six-year terms and all the Probate candidates are vying for an eight-year term.

Two of the Circuit seats and the one Probate post were created last year by legislative acts. The third Circuit opening resulted from the death of Judge Stanton G. Dondero.

UNOPPOSED

The incumbent Circuit and Probate judges who must seek reelection this year are unopposed. Their names will not appear on the August ballot.

The are Circuit Judges Clark J. Adams and Arthur E. Moore, running for 10-year terms; William J. Beer and Frederick C. Ziem, seeking eight-year terms; and Probate Judge Donald E. Adams, a six-year term.

In the primary next month, all but six of the Circuit and two of the Probate candidates will be eliminated from the race.

Voters will only select three in the Circuit race, but the six receiving the highest number of votes will be the nominees.

* * *

Only one name can be marked for Probate but the top two vote-getters will be nominated. Their names will appear on the November ballot.

WINNERS

The three elected in the Circuit race and the winner of the Probate contest will take office Jan. 1, 1967.

The other Circuit Court candidates are S. Jerome Bronson, John H. Bruke, Robert Cunningham, Vernon Fitch, Alice L. Gilbert, Jack Hanna, Allen C. Ingle, Ralph T. Johnson, Bernard S. Kahn, Cecil McCallum, John E. McGrath, John N. O'Brien, Cadman Prout, Clarence Reid Jr., Walter D. Schmier and Robert J. Turner.

The Probate Court candidates include Barry M. Grant, Lincoln Welton and Hayward Whitlock.

Sales of carnations, chrysanthemums, gladioluses and roses grown in New Jersey by commercial producers last year had a wholesale value of over $4 million, seven per cent above 1964.

From Courts in State

2 Senators in Trouble May Get a Break

LANSING (AP) — Two state senators, in trouble with the law, have received what may be good news from local courts.

Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, who pleaded guilty on one charge of drunken driving, apparently won't have to answer a second charge.

* * *

Ingham County Prosecutor Don Reisig, a Republican, said yesterday he is recommending dismissal of the charge. Brown was to stand a jury trial before Justice of the Peace Roy Adams in nearby Mason next Monday.

Sen. Bernard O'Brien, D-Detroit, has won a postponement of his trial on a morals charge from July 28 to Aug. 18-19. He is up for reelection in an Aug. 2 primary.

Justice George Hutter of Lansing Township said the half-day originally set aside for O'Brien's trial was insufficient for a jury to hear the 14 prosecution and defense witnesses scheduled to testify. The next open dates are Aug. 18-19, he said.

* * *

Adams is on vacation and has not acted on Reisig's recommendation in the Brown case, but an associate said plans have been dropped. He said judges seldom go against a prosecutor's recommendations in cases of this type.

WAS COOPERATIVE

Reisig said his recommendation is influenced by the fact that Brown was cooperative on the first charge — saving the state time and expense when a conviction was not certain.

A blood test taken by Brown voluntarily after his second arrest June 2 gave some indication of intoxication — but was not conclusive, Reisig said.

"All in all, I think this deals fairly with Brown's problems — from his standpoint and from the peoples'," said the prosecutor.

Brown has admitted to being an alcoholic and a member of Alcoholics Anonymous, and last month sold his sports car and handed his driver's license back to the secretary of state's office.

O'Brien was charged by a Michigan State University coed with indecent proposals — namely having sexual intercourse with him and posing nude for pictures.

An innocent plea was entered when he stood mute at his arraignment.

Romney Kills Coroner Bill

Voters Still Can Pick Own County System

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney vetoed Thursday a bill to abolish the office of coroner and require all counties to adopt a county medical examiner system.

County voters already have the power to adopt the county medical examiner system if they want it, he said. "And I see no need to remove from the people the right for them to choose, by vote, a system which most nearly meets their particular needs in this area."

* * *

Romney also vetoed a bill to provide that if a taxpayer's complaint is upheld by the State Tax Commission after Nov. 1, his lower tax bill would not be effective in the current year, but he would receive a credit on his next year's tax bill.

"The tax appeal procedure should be viewed in terms of the best interest of the taxpayer rather than the convenience of the local officials," Romney said.

SAVE WAITING

It would save uncertainty and waiting by local governments, he said, but "at a time when the property tax burden is increasing it would appear harsh to require the taxpayer to wait the additional year...."

22 Bills Get Governor's OK

LANSING (AP) — Pay raises for legislators and judges, a doubtful appropriation for an Upper Peninsula road and regulations for marriage counselors were signed into law by Gov. George Romney Thursday.

Romney signed 22 bills and vetoed two, bringing his "kill" record up to 19—only five short of his 1965 record.

* * *

Romney called the hike in lawmakers' salaries from $10,000 to $12,500 "realistic" and "adequate" — especially since the legislature had made or is working on several improvements he demanded, and since their pay cannot be raised for another four years.

The figure, he said, is more realistic than the $5,000 previously proposed by lawmakers.

HIGHEST PAID

Michigan legislators, among the highest paid in the nation, will continue to receive their annual no-strings expense allowance of $2,500.

The bill also contains language that opens the door to providing of state cars to legislators. Either house could pass a resolution authorizing use of automobiles from the state car pool by its members, says Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, chairman of the appropriations committee.

* * *

Those who used the cars would forego their present 10-cent per mile travel allowance for two round trips per month during the session and for all interim committee work.

Also signed were pay hikes for Supreme Court justices, from $25,500 to $35,000, and for appeals court judges, from $23,000 to $32,500.

Romney's salary was raised from $30,000 to $40,000 in the general government bill signed Tuesday.

The governor signed a restricted funds appropriation bill which commits the State Highway Department to spend $1.4 million over the next three years for improvement of a road to an Ontonagon County copper mine.

Michigan became the second state to require licenses for marriage counselors with the signing of a bill establishing requirements. California was the first.

Other measures signed will:

—speed up highway condemnation procedures and allow the person whose land is taken to get almost immediate compensation.

—allow a court to give a youthful offender the status of "youthful trainee"—instead of entering a criminal conviction on his record.

—authorize the State Health Department to set up an annual examination program to detect tuberculosis in persons whose contamination might constitute a public health hazard.

— create a fire fighters' training council and training fund.

Court Orders Release of 5 Uganda Ministers

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — The Uganda High Court today ordered the immediate release of five former Cabinet ministers under arrest on charges of plotting to overthrow President Milton Obote.

After a brief hearing, the court rejected Deputy Prosecutor George Masika's contention that the five should be brought before the court in Kampala and not released from the places in Uganda's northern and eastern regions where they have been held.

Man Gets Prison for Murder of Wife

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI) — Randolph Kelly Lane yesterday was sentenced to 12-15 years in prison for the slaying last November of his 19-year-old wife in a local hotel.

Lane, 25, originally was charged with first degree murder after his wife, Diane, was found beaten and choked to death in the Murphy-Clementine Hotel, but the charge was lessened to manslaughter.

Lane will serve his sentence, handed down by Macomb Circuit Court Judge George Deneweth, at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson.

With Federal Aid Despite Affluence

Rochester Acts to Remove Its Blight

By JANICE KLOUSER

ROCHESTER — A village snuggled in the lush rolling hills of northern Oakland County, with a population slightly under 5,000, seems an unlikely candidate for urban renewal.

The apparent affluence of the community, however, belies the fact that it has its "blighted" areas.

One such area, about to undergo a face-lifting, is the 34.4-acre parcel surrounding Third Street east of Main.

Progress on the $717,000 project has been slow until recently when the village hired a full-time urban renewal director.

* * *

Now things are starting to move and the "blighted" area is on its way to becoming an industrial park.

Area News

AREA INVOLVED

The section involved is bounded by the Grand Trunk Railroad, New York Central Railroad, Main and the southern village limits.

Forty-three homes, some of them already condemned and standing empty several parcels of vacant land and several small industries, which will remain, now occupy the area.

Of the 43 homes, 10 are owner-occupied and in fairly decent condition. The rest, all tenant occupied, are in various stages of deterioration.

* * *

Relocating the occupants of these houses is presenting George Wilhelmi, the village's new urban renewal director, with his biggest headache.

NEED ASSISTANCE

Urban renewal regulations state that displaced persons must be given assistance in finding somewhere else to live.

Wilhelmi and his staff will contact rental agencies, set up appointments and even take these people to look at prospective housing.

The housing must be decent, safe and sanitary, within their means, relatively accessible to their places of work and of adequate size. In most cases, the housing will be better than that they presently live in.

* * *

Since urban renewal talk has been going on for three years, any person who has moved from the area in the past two years must be contacted. If they are living in substandard housing, officials will try to persuade them to move into something more suitable.

GOALS MISSED

"We have accomplished nothing if they move from one deteriorated area to another," said Wilhelmi.

The persons to be displaced must be shown at least three propective houses, Wilhelmi said they will be shown more if necessary.

If, after seeing a number of places, they still refuse to accept one, urban renewal officials have recourse through the courts. The houses can be condemned if necessary.

* * *

Each household is also entitled to receive moving expenses within 100 miles and reimbursement for property loss incurred because of the move, up to $200.

STEP FURTHER

Rochester has gone a step further in its attempts to relocate people. It has created a $7,500 supplement fund to make up for the lack of low-rent housing in the area.

If a tenant moves into a dwelling with a higher rent than he previously paid, this fund will pay the difference for five years. A home owner will be required to pay 25 per cent of his monthly income for a new residence and the fund will make up the difference for five years.

Wilhelmi stresses that this is not coming out of federal funds as is three-fourths of the total cost of the project. The federal government pays for three-fourths of the project and the local government pays for one-fourth.

Right now, local officials are in the process of obtaining appraisals on each piece of property and sending them to the Housing and Urban Development office in Chicago for approval.

MARKET VALUE

Once Chicago concurs, officials will go to the property owners with an offer. Appraisals have been updated in order to get a fair market value.

"The biggest part of this is working with the people," said Wilhelmi. "We aren't just working with buildings."

He explained that the local urban renewal agency is also required to offer assistance in solving social or readjustment problems to minimize or eliminate hardships caused by moving.

Once the urban renewal area residents are moved out, the houses must be torn down and the land cleared. There are 22 parcels of land for actual disposition. The village has commitments to buy on 10 of them.

PRIOR STANDARD

The village had to have commitments on 40 per cent of the land before urban renewal was approved.

Then comes physical improvement of the land. Paint Creek will be straightened out, a new bridge put in and related sewer, water and road work done.

There will also be about $400,000 worth of site improvements made to create an industrial park.

* * *

"This area was an obvious site for light industry," said Wilhelmi. "It's located between two railroads and is near other industry."

DETERIORATION

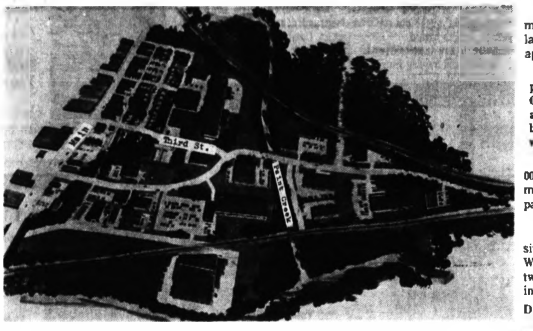
He pointed out that there also had to be a certain percentage of deterioration before it was approved for urban renewal.

The community received a federal grant last year to cover three-fourths of the $717,729 project. Village residents approved a $190,000 bond issue to cover their share.

* * *

Wilhelmi hopes to complete the project by December, 1968. He points out that there are two construction seasons between now and then so it should be possible.

"The key to this whole thing is relocation," he said. "We must do this satisfactorily then prepare the land for improvement."



RENEWAL AREA—An architect's drawing (top) shows the East Third Street urban renewal area after it has been turned into an industrial park, hopefully in December 1968. It lies between the New York Central Railroad (top of picture) and the Grand Central Railroad. The bottom picture shows one of the condemned houses now located in the area which will be torn down.

Teacher Pact Not Any Closer

W. Bloomfield Talks Fail to End Stalemate

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The latest meeting between the board of education and the district's teachers, represented by the West Bloomfield Education Association (WBEA), has not brought the two sides any closer together in their effort to negotiate a contract for the upcoming school year.

The major stalemate is the issue of teacher salaries.

James Maker, WBEA president, said the teachers are holding off on acceptance of any board salary offers until they are given the figure on the board's total school operating budget for the coming year.

He said the board is currently in the process of drawing up such a budget statement.

Maker said the WBEA is asking for 65 per cent of the board's operating money for the 1966-67 school year.

CHANCE OF APPROVAL

He said board salary proposals which fulfilled the 65 per cent condition would have a good chance of being approved by the teachers.

At the Wednesday night meeting of the two negotiating teams the board repeated its offer of a $5,650 starting salary for teachers with bachelor's degrees to a maximum of $9,800 after 11 years.

The board also offered $6,050 for beginning teachers with master's degrees to a maximum of $9,800 after 12 years.

INSURANCE

Maker said the board has also offered a cost-free $2,000 life insurance policy for teachers. He said this would be considered as part of the 65 per cent figure.

Vegetable Crops to Be Below 1965

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's output of commercial vegetables this year will be smaller than last year, except possibly for cantaloupes and carrots, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service says.

* * *

Cold weather in May hurt several of the crops, and hot weather in June and early July helped some crops and hurt others.

While carrots were hurt by the cold, the service forecast harvest acreage of 4,800 acres, 200 more than last year. Cantaloupe acreage is 3,200, up 100.

* * *

Snap bean production is forecast at 67,000 hundredweight, down 3,000; celery, 385,000 hundredweight, down 83,000; sweet corn, 780,000 hundredweight, down 11 per cent; cucumbers, 21,000 hundredweight, down 7,000; head lettuce, 270,000 hundredweight, down 45,000; onions, 6,300 acres, down 800; green peppers, 13,000 acres, down 100; strawberries, 36,660,000 pounds, down 6 per cent; tomatoes, 7,800 acres, down 200.

Sewage Plan Study Ordered

WOLVERINE LAKE — The village council has ordered a study of a proposal that the village join in the City of Walled Lake's projected new sewage disposal system.

Council president Oscar Fritz said yesterday progress on the proposal must begin immediately because Walled Lake is finalizing plans now for its disposal system and wants to start construction work in early spring.

The city has been cited recently by the Michigan Water resources Commission for pollution of Walled Lake. If work on the system is not begun soon the commission could take over the financing and construction of the project and damage the city's fiscal position for years to come according to city officials.

Walled Lake City Manager Royce Downey said by coming into the project, Wolverine Lake would be adding about 940 units to the system.

Engineers, he said, are presently studying the cost and design of the addition. No estimates have been made as to the share Wolverine would have to pay of the total $2.8-million cost of the sewage network.

CUT COSTS

Downey did say, however, that he expected the village's entry would cut costs slightly for Walled Lake residents.

Both Downey and Fritz are optimistic about Walled Lake's chances of getting a federal grant to cover half of the expense of the project.

Fritz said the replacement of Wolverine Lake's septic tank with the sewage system would pay off in convenience and in long-run cost.

He believes the village will eventually reach a sewage saturation point if a new disposal system is not installed. By accepting the Walled Lake offer, Wolverine Lake would eliminate the possibility of such a development, he explained.

* * *

Fritz also said that if the proposal is accepted, three pumping stations would be required to service the entire village. Extending the sewers to only a portion of the community would not be acceptable, he said.

BEGINNING WORK

President Fritz also pointed out yesterday that the village is beginning work on a project expected to raise the water level of Wolverine Lake from 14 to 18 inches.

A six-inch test well is being drilled now in the Penny Lake subdivision of Nantucket Village. This should be completed in about two weeks and will be followed by the drilling of a twelve-inch well on the same site, designed to raise the water level.

The cost of the project will run approximately $14,000, he said.

Clarenceville Schools Fill 2 Vacancies

CLARENCEVILLE — School officials have announced that two vacancies in the district school system have recently been filled.

James L. Leary has been appointed Assistant Superintendent of the district. He is a former mathematics teacher at the high school, and has served as an administrator in the Air Force Dependents School, Madrid, Spain.

Recently Leary has been working on secondary curriculum development and adult education programs.

* * *

He holds a bachelor's degree from Wisconsin State College and a master's degree from the University of Michigan, where he is currently enrolled in a predoctorate program.

NEW PRINCIPAL

The new principal at the Clarenceville High School is former Assistant Principal Anthony Marra.

In addition to fulfilling his teaching and administrative duties, he has worked with adult education and the student council, and has served as football and basketball coach.

Marra received his bachelor of science degree from Northern Michigan College and a master's degree in education from Wayne State University. He has done additional graduate work at Wayne State and the University of Michigan.

Group Picks New Officers

WOLVERINE LAKE — New officers have been elected for the year-old Laguna Vista Recreation Association.

Anthony L. Grindatti, 2662 Los Angeles, was elected to a one-year term as association president. Grindatti succeeds Jack Tinker of 720 Los Arboles.

Other new officers include Richard Geebets, vice president; Russell Peters, treasurer, and Donald Mann, secretary.

New Report Card for Early Grades OK

TROY — A new report card which does away with the conventional A-B-C marking method for kindergarten, first and second grades has been adopted by the board of education.

As the result of a two-year study, the new method will employ a checklist method of marking.

The pupils will be marked according to their progress—progressing very well, satisfactory progress, needs improvement and not ready.

"It was felt that it's too early to start labeling children A, B, C or D in the lower grades," said Schools Supt. Dr. Rex B. Smith.

* * *

The conventional marking method will be used in grades three through six.

Fill School Board Posts

TROY — Alex Tunstall has been reelected president of the board of education.

Chosen to serve with him were Gordon Sparks, vice president; Lloyd Stage, secretary; and Robert Dolmage, treasurer.

The U. S. paper industry employs 630,000 workers in some 4,000 plants in every state of the Union.

West Bloomfield Kiwanis Slates Carnegie Classes

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Dale Carnegie rohrses in effective speaking, human relations and leadership training are coming to the township under the sponsorship of the West Bloomfield Kiwanis Club.

* * *

A demonstration meeting designed to acquaint the public with the Carnegie methods will be held Monday, July 25, at 8 p.m. at the K Falls Restaurant in West Bloomfield. Everyone attending will receive a copy of one of Dale Carnegie's books.

The course is open to all area residents.

Elected School Head

CLARENCEVILLE — Thomas C. Wilson has been elected as president of the board of education.

Chosen to serve with him were Richard J. Wood, secretary; and Dr. Herbert Kagen, treasurer.

Nurses' Talks Begin Today

Hope to Stave Off California Strikes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bargaining was to begin today between the California Nurses Association (CNA) and officials of 33 San Francisco Bay area hospitals in an effort to head off mass resignations by nurses demanding better pay.

The talks were arranged by the state Conciliation Service Thursday after it worked out an agreement settling a walkout by 91 nurses at Eden Hospital in Castro Valley.

The CNA said that hundreds of nurses in the Bay area were set to walk off their jobs in two weeks if the joint talks proved fruitless.

A spokesman for the organization previously said 1,250 of its members would hand in their resignations today, to take effect in two weeks.

CNA officials were not available for comment yesterday, but a hospital spokesman said the nurses had agreed to hold off any resignations while bargaining was in progress.

The Eden nurses walked off the job Sunday, drastically reducing services at the small suburban hospital.

Civil Rights Discussion Is Scheduled

Speakers and group discussion of employment, housing, and the migrant farm work problem will highlight Sunday's Conference for Spanish-Speaking Citizens and Residents of Michigan at the Fisher Body Local 596 hall.

The 1:30 conference is co-sponsored by the Civil Rights Commission of Michigan and the Latin Americans United on Political Action.

The speakers will include Monsignor Kern of Holy Trinity Church in Detroit, Father Theodore LaMarre of Bay City, and Rev. Richard Reynolds, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Civil Rights Commission personnel and other state authorities will also speak.

DELEGATION

There will be a delegation from every Latin American organization in Michigan, according to the local chapter president Tom Chavez Jr.

645-Vote Loss by Smith

Recount Is Likely in Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Voters in Virginia's 8th District handed Rep. Howard W. Smith his first defeat in 60 years of public life in Tuesday's Democratic primary by such a margin that a recount appears likely.

Complete results of a vote canvass yesterday showed Smith, 83, dean of the Virginia congressional delegation and chairman of the House Rules Committee, lost by 845 votes of some 53,000 cast to George C. Rawlings, Jr., 44, an attorney and avowed liberal.

The canvass added 281 votes to the 364-vote margin by which Rawlings led Smith in unofficial election night returns. The canvass still must be certified by the State Board of Elections.

Smith had appeared lukewarm to the prospect of a recount even when his defeat appeared to be within the 500-vote margin under which recounts may be made under Virginia law. His only recourse now would be to show voting irregularities.

Unofficial returns Tuesday night had given Rawlings 26,885 votes to 26,521 for Smith.

Pontiac General Looks to Future

Keeping pace with the population growth of the Pontiac area and correlative need for additional medical and hospital services, Pontiac General Hospital has initiated plans for a two-phase expansion of the 400-bed institution.

The first, a one-story annex south of the present building, would be devoted to emergency service that envisions treatment of upwards of 50,000 patients a year. Last year, 39,000 emergency cases were treated, with the figure expected to hit 44,000 this year.

Physical therapy and outpatient clinical facilities would be provided in the basement of the annex.

Although the hospital board of trustees had originally planned the second phase for completion in three years, a year after that of the first, the City Commission at a joint meeting urged that the entire project be undertaken at one time if practicable.

Phase two, adding a story to the new emergency building, would provide a 40-bed mental health section and relieve pressure on the main building by making 29 additional beds available for surgical patients.

★ ★ ★

Total cost of the expansion is estimated at $2.1 million, of which the Federal government would contribute approximately half.

No area of public service is more important than adequate hospital facilities. In providing for the community's future demands, Administrator Harold Euler and the hospital trustees are to be commended on their progressive outlook.

Bureaucrats Eager to 'Protect' Consumers

In every Congress since 1959, measures have been introduced to establish a Cabinet-level Department of Consumers. None of the proposals was enacted into law, but a similar measure has been introduced in the present Congress. So the question logically arises—what would a Department of Consumers do?

Proponents agree that its general function would be to "protect and promote the interests of the people of the United States as consumers of goods and services . . ."

In actual practice, it would very likely become a superpolice force that would eventually strive to take over the function of the free market. Its powers of persuasion and coercion would be incalculable.

It would, for example, be authorized to print information ranging from trade practices which are detrimental, to pricing, quality and suitability of goods. And it would publish this information in a regular newsletter which would combine information with editorial content. Such a newsletter would have a tremendous influence on important consumer and business decisions.

A release from the Legislative Department of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce observes that "with governmental prestige behind such a publication, it could be used to regulate and control businesses with something near the effectiveness now exercised over public utilities."

★ ★ ★

Indeed many authorities believe that such a Department of Consumers would threaten our competitive free market system. And the progressive retail distribution system with its emphasis on volume sales at minimum prices would be subject to the dictates of a new master — the government rather than the housewife.

Salute Service Stations for Intangible Service

America's more than 211,000 "service" stations are so well named that we often take for granted the wealth of information and materials that are available from them.

★ ★ ★

This summer, service stations throughout the Country will be on the job as friends in need to millions of vacation travelers. Station attendants will acquaint motorists with road and weather conditions. They point out what to see, where to fish, where to hunt, where to eat, where to sleep, various church locations, recreation areas and other points of interest.

They can provide town-by-town, city-by-city travel information, complete with state and regional maps. And, for the tourist who has strayed off course, the station attendant can get him back on the beam.

Using up-to-date information provided by their respective oil companies and state and local travel bureaus, service stations are top-notch, coast-to-coast travel guides for the American tourist. And it's all "just for the asking."

Virginia Tradition Faded in Primary

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP)—In election post-mortems, one man's guess generally is as good as another's. And this certainly applies to this week's complicated three-ring Democratic primary in Virginia.

One conclusion that may be drawn, though, is that regionalism appears to be on the decline in the Old Dominion.

With 55 years of combined service and the chairmanship of two congressional committees, Sen. A. Willis Robertson and Rep. Howard W. Smith were particularly well-positioned to press Virginia's interests in Washington.

In their campaigns, Robertson, whose daily newspaper advertisements described him as Virginia's "bread and butter man," and Smith, to a lesser degree, played on this theme.

★ ★ ★

But Virginia Democrats apparently threw them over (the margins are based on unofficial returns) for two newcomers on the national political scene who seem more in tune with the party's national image.

CAMPAIGN IMAGE

George C. Rawlings Jr., the Fredericksburg lawyer who edged Smith, the chairman of the House Rules Committee, campaigned as a "national Democrat," though not a Johnson Democrat.

William B. Spong Jr., the Portsmouth attorney who shadowed Robertson, chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, also appears to have a liberal tag, at least by Virginia standards.

Assuming they defeat their Republican opponents in November, Rawlings and Spong are considered a better bet to give President Johnson's program the kind of support Robertson and Smith usually withheld.

★ ★ ★

To some observers, the 79-year-old Robertson and the 83-year-old Smith seemed to be vestiges of an antebellum Virginia. With increasing industrialization, the state has been losing its rural character. Its outlook appears to be becoming more national, its provincialism receding.

NOT ATTUNED

And yet, at the same time, Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. was able to fight off Armistead L. Boothe, a northern Virginia attorney who argued Byrd's record was not attuned to modern times.

And so, like all political theories, it's how you look at things.

The demise of the poll tax probably had considerable effect. The Negro vote grew to just under a quarter-million. Obviously, there was little in the records of Robertson and Smith, long-time opponents of civil rights legislation, to recommend them to Negro voters.

In southern Virginia, a customary source of strength to the Byrd organization, third party conservatives apparently stayed out of the primary—the law says they should but there is no registration check at the polls—in large numbers.

The Reluctant Draftee

David Lawrence Says:

Secret Meeting on CIA Wasted

WASHINGTON — Although the Senate held a session in secret for several hours yesterday — something it rarely does — to debate a proposal to enlarge the committee which deals with the Central Intelligence Agency, the raising of the issue itself, LAWRENCE was a wasted effort.

For, even if the Senate hadn't voted, as it did, to shelve the measure, the President of the United States is empowered by constitutional precedents to decide in what committee of Congress, if any, he wishes to give information concerning the operations of any executive agency involving national security.

Two subcommittees — composed of members of the armed services committee and the appropriations committee — have been carrying on satisfactorily the relations between the Senate and the CIA.

The Senate, however, is divided today between those who consider themselves authorized not just to "advise" but to make American foreign policy and those who feel a sense of responsibility to the President as the person charged by the Constitution with the conduct of relations with the other governments in the world.

It was evident from the start that the purpose of the move to enlarge the committee was primarily to get information to use in ways which could unwittingly do damage to American foreign relations.

★ ★ ★

Again and again, news and radio dispatches in recent weeks from Peking and Moscow have reported how gratified the Communists were to be able to publicize the dissent expressed in the Senate as an indication that this nation is not behind its government and will force a surrender in Viet Nam.

CLEAR RESTRICTIONS

But even if there were no war going on, the restrictions on giving information concerning the CIA are clear-cut.

This was pointed out by Rear Adm. William F. Raborn, who has just retired as the head of the CIA.

In an interview published this week in "U.S. News & World Report," he said, "The National Security Act makes the director of Central Intelligence exclusively responsible for protecting the security of the sources and methods of the entire intelligence community.

"I was authorized by the President and by National Security Council directives to discuss such matters only with the special subcommittees designated for this purpose, not with any others."

★ ★ ★

The meetings between CIA officials and the existing congressional committees which deal with such matters have been satisfactory under both Republican and Democratic congresses.

SOURCES RESPECTED

Senators have respected the importance of protecting the sources and have recognized that to use in public speeches any information based on CIA data would only impair the usefulness of that organization.

The strangest thing about the whole episode is that, in the midst of a war crisis, some senators should insist upon any move which, by reason of indiscreet disclosures, could damage the United States abroad.

★ ★ ★

Unfortunately questions like these are not clearly explained to the voters, or they would repudiate at the polls those members of Congress who put their own quest for publicity above the interests of their country.

Bob Considine Says:

Chinese Dragon Turns Soviet Bear Into Chicken

NEW YORK — Russia chickened out to Red China and canceled the big U.S.-Soviet track and field meet scheduled for this weekend at Los Angeles. It's the only explanation for their action.

CONSIDINE

The Kremlin becomes increasingly sensitive to Chinese criticism about its comparatively friendly attitude toward the U.S.

It must have figured that the fat would really be in the fire if the press of the world was suddenly filled with pictures of Russian and American runners, jumpers and throwers getting along just fine in the great confraternity of sports.

That would have been inevitable. There's an affinity between and among fine track and field stars that is more intimate than in any other sport.

★ ★ ★

At Olympic Games I've seen American boys spending their spare time diligently instructing Russian sprinters how to get off to faster starts; and Russian long-distance runners wholeheartedly instructing our runners how to eat, train, breathe.

What Russia is saying by backing out of the track meet is that it is afraid to show China its people instinctively get along well with Americans, given the opportunity to mix; there is something that transcends even divergent ideologies.

China can no longer tolerate or admit that searching truth — and now Russia is afraid to face it, too.

The most preposterous aspect of the sad cancellation of the meet was the straight-faced lie that the Russian athletes themselves, not the Soviet government or its sports department, canceled out in protest against American participation in the war in Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

Can you imagine a Russian willingly passing up a free trip to Los Angeles — land of beautiful dames, lovely grub, and 8,000 miles from the steady stare of Big Brother?

Voice of the People:

General Westmoreland Replies to John Reineck

On June 16, you had a letter in the VOP from a lady in Drayton Plains stating that she received a letter from a certain lieutenant colonel with the First Infantry Division in Viet Nam, indicating that no further books should be sent to his unit.

★ ★ ★

He was rather autocratic in stating that he had not given his permission for those book shipments. In my 20 years in the Army I never found a lieutenant colonel who had that much power.

★ ★ ★

I took exception to this letter, inasmuch as my son, a captain in the First Infantry Division now in Viet Nam, is receiving books from me weekly. I sent a copy of this article to General William Westmoreland, and am sending you his answer which is entirely different than the one from this lieutenant colonel.

JOHN F. REINECK
ASSISTANT CITY MANAGER

(Editor's Note: General William C. Westmoreland's answer to John F. Reineck, Assistant City Manager, follows.)

"The unfortunate incident you make reference to in your 17 June letter is certainly to be regretted. The thoughtless actions of one individual, however, are happily not representative of the appreciation that I and my men feel at expressions of support from home and the unselfish acts of private citizens that express that support.

★ ★ ★

I have discussed the above with the Commanding General of the 1st Infantry Division, and he adds his apologies to my own.

★ ★ ★

Keep the books coming—they are most welcome."

Comments on Boycott of Hospitals by MD's

As an excuse to block the Osteopathic College, that MD outfit says "it isn't necessary as we wish to have the Osteopaths join with us." A few days later these same MD's start a boycott against a few other hospitals because they allow the Osteopaths to use them, too.

★ ★ ★

I never heard of an organization that reversed itself exactly 100 per cent and looked as cheap and silly.

Encourages Saving Drayton Fish Hatchery

Are there any people in this area interested in saving the old Fish Hatchery No. 1 in Drayton Plains? After it was closed, due to pollution, it was supposed to be the Drayton Plains Nature Center. This folded up and now it has been offered to and refused by the Waterford school district.

★ ★ ★

What will happen to it now? Some would like to make a housing project out of it. What steps can a citizen take to stop this?

RESIDENT OF DRAYTON WOODS

Questions and Answers

With the need for more housing in Pontiac, and the surprise veto of the rezoning north of Herrington Hills, can the City obtain available right of way for another road through condemnation procedures? If so, will this take as many years as trying to rebuild the downtown area?

STILL WAITING

REPLY

Should the City Commission decide it's necessary to acquire such land for benefit and welfare of the City and it is not available otherwise, condemnation procedures could be used, according to City Attorney Rowston. A condemnation trial would probably take at least nine months, longer if contested.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

A Fair Shake . . .

Chicago's American

At the start of President Charles de Gaulle's visit to the Soviet Union, he was under angry attack from many American commentators who assumed that he would do something we wouldn't like, such as reaching an important accord on Europe's future that left out the United States. On his return he still was being assailed, but for the opposite reason: He hadn't reached any political agreement with the Russians, so the whole trip, obviously, was a waste of time.

★ ★ ★

We do not think he should be critized inconsistently and for the wrong reasons. His trip never was intended or expected to bring about any dramatic agreements with the Russians, and French authorities had said so clearly and repeatedly beforehand.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville flatly denied that France had any intention of signing any political accord or nonaggression pact with the Soviet Union. Later he described the journey as being "within the frame of our general policy . . . of promoting little by little better relations, and consequently more peaceful relations, among all the European countries."

★ ★ ★

All that happened was that a leading western statesman had a long head-to-head talk with the leaders of the Kremlin, and presumably each side is better acquainted than it was with the other's thinking. Our criticism was that De Gaulle had made the West pay a heavy price for this exercise — including the weakening of NATO — and that there was and is no guarantee that the wholly intangible results will be worth it.

Contradiction . . .

Lapeer County Press

Politics is the name of the game, and sometimes it gets pretty odorous.

The recent defeat in the Legislature of a bill to create an osteopathic college authority is a prime example. It would have eventually provided state funds to support the education of students interested in the osteopathic field of medicine.

★ ★ ★

However, the defeat of the bill will not stop the college in Pontiac from becoming a reality because the DO profession is used to this type of opposition. They have continuously provided the money themselves, and will continue to do so.

The war between the MD and DO lobbyists was won by the MDs, as usual. They were greatly aided by Governor George Romney.

In a recent address at Mackinac Island, Romney threatened to veto the bill if it came to his desk because "No one has the right individually to make a major decision based either upon the ambitions of a single institution or the power and influence of lobbyists in Lansing."

★ ★ ★

How's that for a contradiction? The 110-member House of the Legislature has been studying the osteopathic issue for a year. Public hearings have been held, and all sides of the issue have been aired.

Then our honorable Governor says he will veto the bill — because no individual has the right to decide.

Falls From Cliff

Climber Flown to Safety

MILLINOCKET, Maine (AP) — Charles Ludwig, airlifted to safety from the top of a mountain where he lay injured for two days, was reported resting comfortably in a hospital today.

Dr. R. F. Desjardins of the Millinocket Community Hospital said the Barrington, R.I., man was "in reasonably good condition for what he has been through."

The doctor said Ludwig, 50, had a fractured dislocation of the left arm, a broken right leg, a mild case of pneumonia and was in mild shock.

Ludwig fell from a cliff Tuesday while climbing near the top of mile-high Mount Katahdin with his son, James, 15.

★ ★ ★

Rain, hail and high winds stymied rescue operations.

Rescuers stayed with Ludwig for the two days, giving him food and shelter. When the weather cleared yesterday they hoisted him up the 50-foot cliff and carried him 1,000 feet to a plateau where an Air Force helicopter picked him up.

Transport Crashes in Spain; All Survive

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A U.S. Air Force C47 transport plane based in Lisbon brushed wingtips with one of two Spanish F104 jet fighter planes today while approaching Torrejon air base here, and crashed, Air Force officials reported.

★ ★ ★

All nine occupants of the transport, which burned after it fell six miles south of the runway, survived, officials said. Both Spanish fighter planes landed safely.

★ ★ ★

All three planes were approaching the jointly operated U.S.-Spanish military base 15 miles outside Madrid when the crash occurred.

Fire-fighting helicopters reached the downed transport within minutes and helped rescue the occupants. At least one person, reportedly the plane copilot, was taken to the base hospital.

REMOTE AREA

The transport, assigned to the U.S. Military Advisory Group in Portugal and on a routine trip to Torrejon, fell in a remote area with few houses and no roads, officials reported. Ambulance crewmen sent to the scene were forced to walk in from the nearest road.

Heredity Unit Makeup Found

Study Could Result in Disease Controls

By Science Service

ITHACA, N.Y. — A second hereditary molecule is shaped something like a chain, with 78 subunits called nucleotides, scientists have just discovered.

With this new information, biochemists G. A. Everett and J. T. Madison of the U.S. Plant, Soil and Nutrition Laboratory moved a step closer to understanding these tiny complex molecules and in controlling diseases and birth defects in the future.

The hereditary molecules, known as transfer RNA (ribonucleic acid), is the smallest of the known biologically active nucleic acids, and can barely be distinguished even under an electron microscope.

★ ★ ★

Eventually scientists may understand enough about these nucleic acids to control the genetic characteristic of all living organisms.

CHAINLIKE MOLECULES

Nucleic acids are chainlike molecules made up of the nucleotide subunits. The largest nucleic acid DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid), which has thousands of nucleotides.

Senate Unit OKs Tax Alternates on Mining Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted Thursday to provide alternate methods of treating mining exploration expenditures for tax purposes.

Under present law, exploration costs of up to $100,000 a year or $400,000 over-all may be treated as deductible expenses rather than capitalized.

★ ★ ★

A bill passed by the House would remove these dollar limits but exploration expenditures would have to be deducted from depletion allowances after the property was put into production.

The Senate committee amended the bill to give mining companies the option of using either this method or the provisions of present law.

Then the two women took off and continued on their flight from New Bedford, Mass., to Greenville.

The Soft Whiskey proving ground.

In this day and age of proving products scientifically, we have an unscientific suggestion. Taste ours.

One sip and you'll know why we couldn't possibly call it anything but Soft Whiskey.

You see, Soft Whiskey is soft. It goes down just like the name says.

After that, it acts like any other 86 proof whiskey. It's just that getting there is a whole lot easier.

But how to prove that to you? That was the problem.

After all, Soft Whiskey looks like any other whiskey. And it acts like any other whiskey. So what's left is what we're selling, the way Soft Whiskey goes down.

At which point someone said: "Why not just ask people to try it?"

Our first reaction was that that was a bad idea. It wasn't scientific.

Our second reaction was that that was a good idea.

U. of M. Professor Credited With X-Ray Advance for Dentistry

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A University of Michigan professor who isn't even a dentist has put together a new X-ray device which could make your next trip to the tooth doctor easier, safer and more efficient.

Prof. Albert G. Richards, who joined the U. of M. School of Dentistry "as a temporary thing, purely for bread and butter," is cited for his invention in the current issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association.

★ ★ ★

By rearranging the parts of a conventional dental X-ray machine and adding "a couple of innovations," Richards came up with a device he says takes better pictures and exposes both operator and patient to less dangerous radiation.

The new machine is "safer, smaller and takes superior pictures," Richards says. He adds it shouldn't cost any more than the older ones.

STRUCTURE

Details of the new device are pretty technical, but what Richards has done, in effect, is move the radioactive source of Xrays farther from the patient's face. The distance is 14 inches, twice as far as that of conventional machines.

★ ★ ★

The rays are carried that distance through a tubular cone. Richards explains that by putting half the cone inside the machine, he reduced the size of the device, making it suitable for used in small offices.

★ ★ ★

Manufacturers, he reports, are interested. Four firms have sent representatives to his Ann Arbor laboratory to look his model over.

"All speak in very glowing terms," he said, "and then they hurry back to their drawing boards." Richards said he expects his invention to be in production quite soon.

'TRUE SPIRIT'

What's more, says the ADA Journal:

"Any manufacturer may make commercial use of the Richards dental X-ray head, for Prof. Richards, in the true spirit of a scientist wishing to improve the lot of mankind, has chosen not to apply for a patent on this important discovery."

★ ★ ★

The publication describes Richards' invention as "a major advance" and predicts it soon will be in dental offices across the country."

Chronic Drunk Lacking Help

UCLA Study Finds No Effective Program

By Science Service

LOS ANGELES — A four-and-one-half year study at the University of California at Los Angeles alcoholism research clinic, in cooperation with the San Diego Municipal Court, has concluded that there appears to be no effective treatment for chronic drunk offenders.

* * *

As a matter of fact, when referred by the court for treatment, they fare no better, and perhaps do worse, than those receiving no treatment.

The study was carried out by Drs. Keith S. Ditman, Edward W. Fogy, Herbert Moskowitz, and Craig McAndrew of the UCLA neuropsychiatric institute and Judge George G. Crawford of San Diego.

A total of 301 chronic drunk offenders participated in the study. Each had been fined $25, given a 30-day suspended sentence and a year's probation by the court.

* * *

Additionally, they were assigned randomly either to an alcoholism clinic, Alcoholics Anonymous or to a no-treatment group.

EFFECTIVENESS

The number of subsequent arrests for drunkenness was used to judge effectiveness of treatment or lack of treatment.

No rearrests occurred in 44 per cent of the no-treatment group; 22 per cent of the clinic group, and 31 per cent of the AA group.

Two or more rearrests occurred in 27 per cent of the no-treatment group, 40 per cent in the clinic and 47 per cent of the AA.

"Courts are increasingly viewing chronic drunk offenders as sick persons who deserve treatment instead of punishment, and yet we appear to have no effective therapy for them," Dr. Ditman said.

It is possible the two forms of treatment in the study may not have had time to take effect, he noted.

Fuel Trailer Engineer Honored by President

WARREN (AP) — Ronald McCullough, an engineer who redesigned a fuel tank trailer and saved the government $894,152 in material and production costs, was honored by President Johnson this week. The Army Tank-Automotive Center in Warren, which employes McCullough, 32, said he was called back to headquarters from a vacation in the Catskill Mountains. McCullough, who also was awarded a $300 bonus, was one of 17 Defense Department winners of Cost Reduction Certificates honored by the President in the Pentagon.

American Foreign Investments Surge

WASHINGTON (AP) — American businessmen are investing in foreign enterprises at an increasingly rapid pace despite the hard-line talk in some countries, notably France and Canada, of economic nationalism.

* * *

One Commerce Department official said it's hard to find even one non-Communist country which actually discourages U.S. investments although many want it on their terms.

* * *

But he added Americans are willing to invest in overseas operations so long as they can make a profit. And American businessmen think a profit can be made.

This year, foreign affiliates of U.S. firms anticipate spending $8.8 billion for new plant and equipment, 24 per cent above last year's $6.7 billion and the seventh straight year for an increase in this type spending. France and Canada are scheduled to get an increased share of the pie.

VOLUNTARY CUTBACK

As part of the administration's program to end the deficit in the U.S. balance of payments, American firms have been urged to cut back voluntarily on the dollars they send overseas and to borrow money for foreign expansion from foreign sources.

Commerce Department officials said this has been done. The flow of dollars abroad for investment during the first three months of this year hit an annual rate of $2.5 billion compared with a flow of $3.4 billion last year.

France recently softened her hard economic line and now approves "very promptly" about 90 per cent of all U.S. applications for investment, another commerce official said. He added France now is in need of foreign investment.

Officials said France is expected to announce soon some guidelines for investment which possibly might include:

1. An attempt to avoid complete domination or concentration of American resources in defense industries.

2. Channeling of foreign funds into comparatively underdeveloped areas such as Brittany and southwest France and to increase French exports.

3. A requirement that American corporations operating in France establish research facilities there to train and use French technicians rather than import their own.

In Canada, there's more talk against American ownership of Canadian industry. One suggestion calls for a tax on acquisitions by U.S. firms. Earlier this year, Canada complained that the voluntary curbs on the flow of U.S. dollars abroad amounted to interference in the operation of Canadian subsidiaries.

In France, American investment for plant and equipment in the manufacturing and petroleum fields was anticipated at $419 million this year compared with $319 million last year and $216 million in 1963.

For all of Europe, plant and equipment spending by American affiliates was projected at $3.5 billion this year compared with $2.5 billion last year. In Latin America, this type spending was expected to rise from $944 million to $1.1 billion.

Manufacturing outlays in Europe alone were expected to increase 40 per cent this year while the manufacturing outlay for Canada was projected at a 25 per cent rise.

American business had projected 1965 capital spending abroad at $7.4 billion but the Commerce Department credited the decrease to the administration's voluntary program to stem the flow of dollars overseas.

FFA Boys to Spend 3 Weeks in Europe

LANSING (AP) — Under a program sponsored by the People-To-People Organization, 23 Michigan Future Farmers of America will spend three weeks in Europe next month, visiting rural residents in Belgium, Sweden, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland, Germany and France.

When I overheard a girl tell her mother one of our dresses was 'tuff,' I asked my teenage niece for a translation and found out the girl meant she liked it.

The fall styles previewed in New York this week stress the military, and Victor Joris' showing proved no exception. He presented for the fashion writers, from left; a white raincoat with large blue dots and white patent boots; a Russian military coat, double-breasted and of camel hair with gold buttons and matching boots and topped by a Viet Nam-inspired green beret; a pale green coat trimmed with fox fur and suede boots to match, and a red vinyl short skirt with cap and boots to match and a blue turtleneck sweater.

Putting Rule Is Changed This Season

By ELIZABETH L. POST

A reader who requests that her name be withheld writes:

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just read your recent "golf quiz" and apparently you are not aware of the new P.G.A. rule regarding putting out. I would suggest you contact any local or state golf professional who will give you the new ruling.

Dear Golfer: Thank you. You are absolutely right. The rules have been changed and so that my readers will not be confused about the current putting regulations, I will quote from the 1966 P. G. A. rules:

". . . Each player plays continuously until he holes out. However, fellow competitor may ask him to lift to avoid standing on line of fellow-competitor's putt."

The first person to putt is the one whose ball lies farthest from the hole.

THIEVES, PLEASE

Dear Mrs. Post: My pet peeve is the purse-snatcher who pinches pocketbooks and takes our precious pictures and identification cards, such as social security and blood-type cards.

If they want the money, let them put the wallet in a mail box and I am sure we would pay the postage to get them back.—Mrs. Knott.

Dear Mrs. Knott: You have voiced a wish that many of us have had. It there is any etiquette among purse snatchers, let them heed this plea!

SOP OR MOP

Dear Mrs. Post: What do you do when your coffee slops over the edge of the cup and spills into the saucer? Do you sop it up with a napkin, pour it into an empty glass or dish, or pour it back into the cup?—Janet.

Dear Janet: If you're in someone's home or a restaurant with service, ask for another saucer. If that's impossible, pour the coffee back into the cup. Wipe the bottom of the cup with a paper napkin to dry it.

Approve of Theater Project

Comment from area citizens on the projected theatrical center at Oakland University has been positive and enthusiastic.

On Tuesday, Chancellor D. B. Varner announced that the OU campus may soon have a theatrical center with a repertory theater and a drama school.

Negotiations are under way to bring John Fernald, former head of England's Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, to head the new venture. He will make his decision in about 10 days.

COMMENTS

Mrs. George Romney was contacted at her Bloomfield Hills home shortly after the original announcement.

"It's tremendous. Such a center would be of great cultural importance, one that would draw students from all over the country.

"It would be beneficial to the whole school and the entire community and state. You can't improve one area without increasing the value of the whole.

* * *

"I'm glad they're starting with a top man. I did meet John Fernald when he was here. He has been most successful and has had some outstanding students.

"It is a very desirable project if it can be worked out financially."

● Mr. and Mrs. William T. Gossett: "We think it is one of the greatest things that could happen. We met Mr. Fernald and his wife when they were at Oakland University and we were greatly impressed with them.

* * *

"This venture would be a step forward and it is one we are hoping for."

● Ormund Hunt: "Well, I'm a pretty poor one to ask. Engineers aren't actors, you know. But I think this thing is well worth the try.

"There has always been quite an interest in amateur theatricals in this area. Whether the local interest can be turned into an academic interest remains to be seen. This is professional training ground."

● William Holmes, president of St. Dunstan's Theater Guild: "Any school for the theater would be very helpful. It would be interesting for people in this area to participate and helpful for young students."

● Mrs. William Aebersold, long time member of The Lakeland Players and director of many of their plays: "Wouldn't that be fantastic? I certainly hope it works out."

● Mrs. Theodore Yntema: "I'm very enthusiastic about it. The community has been so responsive to the Meadow Brook Music Festival and to Oakland in general that it's logical to have a complete performing arts center out there.

"This is an opportunity to get a top flight man. Will the community and the state support the project?"

● Celia Merrill Turner, co-owner, Will-O-Way Apprentice Theater: "I think it's marvelous. It's a very great thing for the area, in fact a great thing for Michigan. Now, with the Greek Theater in Ypsilanti, we are beginning to have an artistic center here.

"It's very exciting and should be supported with every ounce of energy we have. The more of this sort of thing we have, the more we get."

Cliburn, Shaw Score

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL

In spite of uncertain weather, a record-breaking overflow audience crowded into the Baldwin Pavilion and sprawled all over the hill last evening to hear the ever-popular pianist, Van Cliburn, and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Robert Shaw.

A truly great concerto in the grand manner is the Beethoven Emperor, and Cliburn gave it an imperial rendition, with broad sweeping lines, masterful technique, and fine attention to detail.

* * *

The young and engaging pianist has grown steadily in maturity in the last few years, and is harnessing his youth and vitality into greater control and understanding of the compositions which he interprets.

Turn Over a New Leaf

Find Some Books to Read

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 24 and have been going with a girl my age for three years. I fed her a line only to keep her interested and now I am sorry because she thinks I am in love with her and will eventually marry her.

She doesn't date anyone but me and she gets jealous if I look at another girl or want to spend an evening with my buddies.

I enjoy her company, but I am not in love with her and never could be. How can I get out of her clutches without losing her completely? She comes in handy on a rainy Sunday afternoon.

TRAPPED

* * *

DEAR TRAPPED: Do the girl a favor and level with her, but spare her the painful details. Tell her marriage is not on your mind. Then quit dating her, and get some good books for those rainy Sunday afternoons. It's high time you turned over a new leaf, Romeo.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a professional soldier now serving in Viet Nam. I have a wonderful wife and four children. I am due for a rotation back to the States next month. I recently received my assignment which is one every soldier dreams about but very few get.

I was thrilled and wrote my wife about the lucky break. She wrote back saying if I wanted to move I could go without her and the children as she wasn't moving there. I don't think this is fair to me.

Should I try to get my assignment changed, or go there without her? I think I deserve more than an empty home to come home to.

LOST IN VIET NAM

* * *

DEAR LOST: So do I, but don't try to fight the battle of the home front at such a distance—wait until you get home. In the meantime, ask your chaplain for a few pointers on how to make a wife face up to her responsibilities before you bring up the heavy artillery.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My sister recently divorced her husband after 18 years of marriage. What does that make her ex-husband to my children? It just burns me up to hear them calling him "Uncle Bill."

And he still refers to them as his nieces and nephews. Will you please print this and set a lot of people straight?

BURNED IN TORONTO

* * *

DEAR BURNED: Your sister's former husband is now a former uncle to your children. Simmer down — it's probably more due to habit than malice.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Apropos people who bore their guests to death with tales of their trips, and add to it, endless hours of slides, may I share a wonderful suggestion given to me by a very wise drama professor at U.S.C.?

To test the interest of your audience, deliberately stop in the middle of a sentence, and if no one says, ". . . and then what happened?" Shut up!

I have tried it many times over the years, and each time I had to shut up.

Barbara Alton Being Honored

Fifty guests were invited to tea today at the home of Mrs. Robert Castell of East Iroquois Road to honor her niece, bride-elect Barbara Alton.

Cohostesses for the affair were two other aunts, Mrs. William Rogers and Mrs. Donald Nicholie.

Among the guests were Miss Alton's mother, Mrs. Robert Alton, and grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Nicholie.

Also attending was Mrs. E. Roger Smith of Hartford who will serve as her cousin's matron of honor.

Hair Dryer Is a Travel Necessity

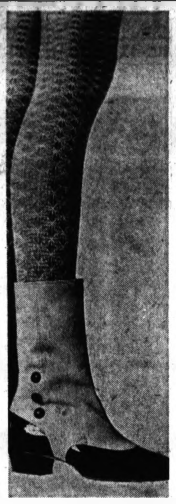
A fastidious girl's hair can readily make the transition from bathing beach to ballroom with confidence if a portable hair dryer is part of her vacation equipment.

For best results, hair should always be shampooed before drying—especially after a seabath, to remove salt and sand.

Dishwasher Safe

That non-stick finish applied to modern pots and pans is not harmed by automatic dishwashing detergents. Just make sure that the utensil itself is dishwasher-safe.

The silver brocade Vizen by David Evins has a revealing V-neck and stays a lady with silver kid crossed straps. Is lovely with a romantic softly beaded Empire gown that might also be worn with white satin pumps. The shoe—approximately $45.00.



This quick-paced little spatted boot is groomed with shiny black buttons and lined in snuggly while fleece to protect one from the elements. It adds definite dash to the houndstooth raincoat — which might also be worn with any number of boots. This one, by Sandler of Boston—approximately $20.00.

A short, square toe in glossy black calf has the fine good looks of the whole pretty little pump story for fall. It's topped with a bow and has a two color heel. Worn with a seal lined coat, the whole look moves confidently through a city's day. The shoe by Herbert Levine is approximately $45.00.

movement, which demands a fine rubato touch and a continuation of a slender line of melody, Mr. Cliburn showed a new and mature control of his instrument.

His restrained intelligent use of the pedals introduced a pure limpid quality into his playing which was a delight to hear.

* * *

The loud, flat percussive tone with which he started the concerto became somewhat tempered as the movement unfolded, and by the time he reached the cadenza, and for the rest of the concerto, he had begun to explore the depths and sonorities of his instrument.

The final scherzo was played with aplomb and the calculated control which this difficult work demands.

ORCHESTRA PART

Shaw conducted the orchestra in Mozart's Overture to "The Magic Flute," Hindemith's "Symphonic Metamorphosis on Themes by Weber," and Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet."

Perhaps the greatest choral conductor of our day, Shaw conducts an orchestra with the same remarkable precision and clarification of the inner voices that he uses with his famous choruses. He knows his music cold.

* * *

His own personal intensity is refined into tempered and mature wisdom. Behind his economy of gesture, lies a relentless control of the orchestra, and each musician is called upon to produce his maximum of effort and inspiration at all times.

He is a challenge to everyone with whom he works, and musicians respond to his demands with slavish devotion. Meadow Brook is indeed fortunate to have him.

DIFFERENT

Particularly interesting was Hindemith selection. More Hindemith than Weber, these four inventive compositions are brash, witty, sometimes playful, and sometimes downright loud and blatant.

The pseudo-Chinese second theme, after much reiteration in all sections, finally winds up with a burlesque of a fugue in the jazz idiom.

The fourth movement, a full-blown march with a strong brass flavor is vaguely reminiscent of Rossini's "Stabat Mater."

Tschaikowsky's ever-popular "Romeo and Juliet" was a truly polished, inspired conclusion which ran the gamut of emotions and came as close to perfection as one can ever hope to attain.

* * *

The Saturday and Sunday performances will feature Cliburn in Tschaikowsky's Piano Concerto, and Shaw will conduct Schubert's Third Symphony and Hindemith's "Mathis Der Maler."

Being Mad No Excuse

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Being mad at your wife is no excuse for stealing, Judge J. C. Duvall ruled in a case here. A man charged with the theft of two tires said in County Criminal Court he took them because he was mad at his wife.

* * *

"If everybody who got mad at his wife went out and stole something," remarked the judge, "there wouldn't be 15 cents worth of property left in Tarrant County tomorrow."

THE QUALITY YOU WANT... AT A PRICE YOU CAN AFFORD

Singing tone . . . finger-quick response . . . these are the hallmarks of piano excellence in the Howard, the quality-at-a-price piano built by Baldwin. The Howard's tone is distinguished by warm, mellow beauty; its direct-blow action is responsive even to a child's uncertain touch. Despite its lower price the Howard is standard in every respect. One of the fine new 40-inch Howards is the Style 451 in Early American styling and a cherry finish.

Advice Aids Marchers and Hikers

Advice from a practicing podiatrist to the ROTC applies to all who step out to martial music, take hikes, or climb mountains.

Foot comfort, says this expert, depends on well-fitted shoes, clean socks (preferably woolen,) and relaxing foot baths promptly after returning home.

Start with a two-minute soak in hot water to dilate the blood vessels, then plunge the feet into cold water to constrict the vessels.

* * *

Repeat this cycle three times and finish with a brisk toweling. Half an hour in a comfortable chair, with bare feet elevated on a pillowed stool, should reduce any remaining swelling and fatigue.

Experienced marchers also recommend an all-over bath, with a liberal application of soap to remove perspiration, as an effective revitalizer.

Furniture to Collapse

Since one-fourth of the American people move annually, and since it's bound to get worse — one designer suggests collapsible furniture as the answer to a mobile family's prayers.

According to Modern Plastics, he has already designed a collapsible table made of sturdy plastic. It resembles a collapsible drinking cup in concept; it can be collapsed and easily stored or moved. It also can be raised or lowered to change its height and fuction.

Another of his designs is an inflatable sofa. When it comes time to move, the owner, something like an Arab, can deflate it and carry it away.

Cattle Seen in Moo Yard

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)— A feminine voice reported by phone that 30 head of cattle were stamping around in her yard. The county deputy sheriff asked the caller her name.

"Mrs. Moo," she replied.

"How do you spell that?" asked the officer, thinking it was a gag. "M-o-o," she told him. She wasn't kidding. Officers rounded up the animals from the yard of Mrs. Rosemarie Moo.

Diagram above indicates the correct cutting of a diamond

What makes a Diamond Sparkle?

CUTTING - Yes! A diamond cut in proper proportions shows an equal distribution of light and brilliancy at all distances from the eyes. It refracts the rays, which hit the diamond, back through the top. In a poorly cut diamond, however, the light rays leak through. Let our Diamond Experts show you the difference scientifically.

Use Damp Cloths When Traveling

For long car trips with children, the National Cotton Council suggests this cooling idea.

Keep a jar of sudsy water and some cotton terry wash cloths in the car. When the children get hot and tired, or sticky from eating, the damp cloths can be used for quick, refreshing sponge-offs.

Doubts N. Viet Will Try Yanks

Rusk: Other Nations Using Persuasion

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said yesterday that several foreign governments were attempting to dissuade North Viet Nam from trying captured American airmen as war criminals.

In testimony before a Senate subcommittee, Rusk also voiced a measure of doubt that the threatened trials would be carried out by the Red Regime.

"I hope Hanoi's sober judgment will prevail at the end of the day," he told the Senate group. "The trial has been threatened. I am not sure the threat will be carried out, or, if the trials are held, whether the sentences would be carried out."

★ ★ ★

The secretary did not identify the governments in contact with Hanoi, but he pointed out again that such trials would be in direct violation of the Geneva Conventions on treatment of war prisoners.

GRAVE DEVELOPMENT

He told the Senate refugees subcommittee that it would be "a very grave development indeed" if the Communists were "so misguided as to abuse" the American flyers.

★ ★ ★

There has been no official announcement from Hanoi that the airmen would be tried. But two East European Communist news agencies recently carried dispatches suggesting that 60 U.S. captives would be tried, possibly later this month or in early August.

Utah Mishap on Ski-Lift Fatal to Two

PROVO, Utah (AP) — A ski-lift chair tangled with a support brace in a Wasatch Mountain canyon Thursday and threw seven persons 30 feet to the ground. Two were killed.

There were about 25 persons on the lift. Twelve had hiked from a Mormon church youth camp nearby to go sight-seeing on the lift up the slopes of Mt. Timpanogas, about 15 miles northeast of here.

Sheriff Ralph Chapple of Provo said Mrs. Sherman Peterson, 49, and Susan Carroll, 13, both of Provo, were killed.

Valerie Dunford, about 13, and Betty Anny Hansen, 13, both of Provo, were injured, Miss Dunford critically. Three other girls were treated at a Provo hospital for minor injuries.

Chapple said he didn't know what caused the accident.

Life on Moon Weakening for Surveyor I

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 1, America's camera spacecraft on the moon, is engulfed in its second lunar night, its future uncertain, but its past a triumph.

Surveyor may be electronically dead, but scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory are not certain. They will wait three weeks before writing an official end for the craft, which sent 11,150 pictures back from the moon.

★ ★ ★

The 620-pound Surveyor was the first of a seven-shot series that exceeded the fondest hopes for success.

It made the first successful U.S. landing on the moon June 1, briskly photographed itself before focusing on its surroundings, survived the 260-degree temperature of the lunar day and endured its first 14-day lunar night at minus-260 degrees to send a second series of pictures.

BATTERY WEAK

Wednesday, the sun set on the moon, and Surveyor again went into the lunar night, its battery weakened.

★ ★ ★

Scientists say there is a chance that power from the sun could revive the spacecraft once again.

Detroit Edison Reports...

RAPID GROWTH OF S. E. MICHIGAN REFLECTED IN INCREASING DEMANDS FOR ELECTRICAL POWER

During 1965, Southeastern Michigan used more electricity than ever before: 22.4 billion kilowatthours . . . 9.8 per cent higher than 1964. A strong indication of the rapid growth in the Edison service area.

To meet these increasing electrical demands, Detroit Edison has begun a six-year building program to add nearly 60 per cent to its present generating capacity by the end of 1971. This will bring the Edison system to a 7,200,000 kilowatt capacity. The total cost of this program will be over $600 million . . . money well invested in the bright and growing future of Southeastern Michigan.

Ways to Beat Heat Waves

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — An unspoken rule in every modern business office is — "Don't make waves."

The idea behind this is that all are better off if each individual respects the other's survival pattern. In other words: if you don't make waves that threaten to drown me, I won't raise a storm against you."

BOYLE

* * *

An exception to this live-and-let-live policy is the heat wave. Heat waves, of course, are phenomena of nature and are not manmade.

Hence no one can be blamed for them with the possible exception of the company's management, which is darkly suspected of having a guilty hand in any catastrophe, no matter how innocent it may seem on the surface.

VARIOUS WAYS

The white collar peasants fight summer heat waves in various ways, and the following characters may be noted in your own office zoo:

The engineer — He keeps the air conditioning equipment purring like a kitten in December, and invariably goes on his vacation just before it clanks to a halt in July. If it is still broken down when he returns in mid-August, he hides out in the basement behind the boiler and plays gin rummy with the building superintendent until October. The air-conditioning gear then usually resumes working normally of its own accord.

*

The office girl watcher — "Who minds a little hot weather?" yelps this happy wolf in paradise. "Have you looked at the gals in the stenographic pool? Not a girdle in the whole gaggle!"

The psychiatrist — "It's all in your head," he proclaims. On the theory that if you pretend the heat isn't there it doesn't exist, he shows up in a topcoat and a wool muffler. On the third day, delirious, he is taken to the hospital, complaining of the chill.

WEATHER EXPERT

The amateur weather expert —"It isn't so bad if you understand what causes it," he says, drawing charts on the wall with a big black pencil. "We're caught in a doldrum, right now. But when this hot air mass rises, it will be swept away by this cold air mass building up in the Arctic. As I see it, we might even have snow by the end of the week."

The grievance committee chairman —He wants to capitalize on the general misery by striking for "discomfort pay." "Now is the time to hit the bricks," he proclaims. But who wants to carry a heavy picket card in this heat? His drooping followers prefer to hang around the water cooler instead.

* *

The intellectual office boy — This disheveled young beatnik, a temporary refugee from his college campus, gets personal relief by tying ice cubes in his beard. Others in the office grumble at him. They object that his evaporating ice cubes may cool him off but raise the humidity for everyone else.

* * *

The tipper — He forgets the heat by taking regular trips to the locker room and swigging from a hidden bottle of vodka. By the end of the day the rest of the staff are afraid to light a cigarette near his desk for fear he'll go up in a blue flame. (It isn't that they'd mind losing him — they just don't want to make the place any hotter.)

Old Mr. Cucumber himself — In midafternoon the boss tries to lower the temperature by freezing everyone with a cold look. That fails and, mopping his own brow, he growls, "All right, you sissies, if the mercury hits 100, we'll close up shop for the day."

Five minutes later the office wag holds a match under the office thermometer. When it bursts, everyone gives a damp cheer and heads for home, bar or a cool movie.

In the elevator they catch the boss sneaking out carrying his golf clubs. All ride down in silence. It is too hot even to snicker, let alone laugh out loud.

In the empty office the only thing left to work suddenly starts working. It is the air-conditioning machinery.

AP Wirephoto

Sleepwalking Has Little to Do With Dreaming

By Science Service

CHICAGO — Sleepwalking, contrary to most belief, apparently has little to do with dreaming. In fact, it occurs when the sleeper is enjoying his most oblivious, deepest sleep — a stage in which dreams are not usually reported.

Of 89 somnambulists incidents — ranging from sitting up in bed to walking — observed in California, none occurred during the usual dream time, and most took place during deep sleep.

New data on sleepwalking came from a long-range study of 11 somnambulists, eight children and three young adults, conducted by Drs. Anthony Kales and Morris J. Paulson of the University of California at Los Angeles; by psychologist Allan Jacobson, also of UCLA, and by Dr. Joyce D. Kales of the Veterans Administration Center in Los Angeles.

Quarters of 8 Massacred Student Nurses in Complete Disarray

CHICAGO (AP) — The whole place was a mess. It looked as though there had been a fight in every room.

That is how the nurses' residence appeared to newsmen some six hours after it was opened by police following the massacre of eight young student nurses.

Everything was in disarray. In the living room was a sofa, a portable television set, a small portable hi-fi phonograph, an L-shaped desk, four or five functional, but not elaborate, chairs and a couple of small lamps.

ROOM LITTERED

When police opened the living quarters to newsmen and photographers, magazines and records were found strewn all over the floor of the living room.

Lingerie and other articles of feminine clothing were tossed over chairs and in the corners of the living room.

Upstairs there were three bedrooms and a bathroom. One bedroom contained three double-bunk beds for six persons. Another bedroom had two double-bunk beds for four persons. In the third bedroom there were two single beds.

* * *

Each of the bedroom floors was bloody. A mattress was pulled off one of the beds and lay on the floor.

In the bedroom containing three double-bunk beds, women's clothing and lingerie, books, magazines and various mementoes were scattered about.

* * *

A small rug in the hallway between the bedrooms showed blood spots.

MURDER ROOM — Blood is spattered on the floor of one of the bedrooms where eight girls were slain early yesterday on Chicago's South Side. The sole, survivor, Miss Corazon Amurao, an exchange student nurse from the Philippines, climbed out of the window in background and screamed: "All my friends are dead. Help! Help! I'm the only one alive."

2 Filipino Girls' Families Still Don't Know of Deaths

MANILA (AP) — It may be another day at least before the families of the two Filipino nurses murdered in Chicago learn of the death of their daughters.

The two girls, Valentina Pasion and Merlita Gargullo, both 23, come from outlying provinces with which communications are poor at best.

* * *

MISS GARGULLO

MISS PASION

Merlita, daughter of a farmer in the province of Oriental Mindoro, was the oldest of eight sisters and two brothers.

Erlinda Triufo, 27, a close friend and schoolmate of Merlita, was nearly hysterical today after she learned of the death of her friend.

'FIRST SEPARATION'

"I was supposed to go to the states with Merlita but my visa was held up," she said in her home in Manila's Santa Cruz District.

"This is the first time we have been separated since we were at school. If I had gone with her maybe I would have been murdered, too."

* * *

Erlinda said Merlita left for the United States on April 30.

"She was so happy," the young woman continued.

"I got a letter from her yesterday saying she had been to Wisconsin and that she was sending me some perfume and two pairs of silk stockings."

Merlita asked her friend to send her a party dress either "yellow or aquamarine. I leave the choice up to you."

CELEBRATED 4TH

The letter, dated July 8, said that Merlita, Valentina, and Corazon Amurao, the girl who escaped, went to a July 4th celebration at Trumball Park.

"Well, it was a fine, dizzy, exciting and wonderful weekend and I still believe there is no place like home," Merlita wrote.

* * *

The letter ended: "Well, goodnight, and pleasant dreams and extend my regards to the family circle."

Merlita had given Erlinda's home in Manila as her forwarding address because her family lives in such an isolated part of the islands.

* * *

"I sent a telegram to them this morning after I read in the papers that Merlie had been murdered," Erlinda said. "I don't know when it will reach them."

Link Is Eyed to 3 Killings in Michigan

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — City police here today are anxious to learn whether any connection exists between Thursday's slaying of eight nursing students in Chicago and the triple murder which shook this Lake Michigan community last year.

* * *

But Benton Harbor officers working on their case fear the idea might turn out to be blind alley No. 1,155.

"We certainly will check for any possible tie-in," said homicide Inspector Alfred Edwards.

"Every time there's a murder anywhere that's similar to ours, you can be sure we'll send a man there or contact the local authorities."

DISAPPEARED APRIL 1965

Edwards and other city officers have been at work on the case since the mutilated bodies of two women and a 7-year-old girl were found in a grove of pine trees about 12 miles from the city.

All three victims—Mrs. Amelia Boyer, 60; Mary Ester Seagin, 37; and little Diane Carter—had disappeared from Benton Harbor. Their bodies were found April 4, 1965.

* * *

Edwards said Benton Harbor police have run down 1,154 tips, checking some of them two or three times. They've communicated with authorities in Australia and Germany as well as in many U.S. cities, he said.

If there were a connection with the Chicago slayings, Edwards said, it might not be known for several days. "The local authorities there will need a while to do their own police work," he said. "We have to give them time to get their feet on the ground."

Victim, State Man Engaged

JACKSON (AP)—One of eight student nurses massacred in their Chicago town house apartment yesterday, was engaged to a young Jackson man and planned to marry in January.

Patricia Matusek, 21, of Chicago became engaged a month ago to Robert Hinkle Jr., 22, of Jackson, Hinkle's family said today.

Miss Matusek

Hinkle, a nursing student himself, is in his third year of training at Alexian Brothers School of Nursing in Chicago.

Patents Put on Microfilm

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A new system of putting patents on microfilm expected to be in operation within two years, will not only reduce the time in which orders can be filled but may save the U. S. Patent Office half a million dollars a year.

If this cost reduction proves correct, the system will pay off its initial investment of $2,000,000 in four years.

—A contract for the microfilm method, known as the Patent Copy Document System, has now been awarded to Recordak Division of Eastman Kodak Co.

* * *

More than 325 million patent microfilm for public sale, Edward J. Brenner, commissioner of patents, U. S. Department of Commerce, estimates.

PRODUCE COPIES

The system is designed to produce printed paper copies of individual patents on order.

It will also make available to the public, at a variety of locations, microfilm files of patents arranged by subject matter. The Patent Office's search room is now the only place in the country where persons may look for patents arranged by subject.

A total of 1,325 person died in 172 multiple death fires in the United States and Canada last year.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Bladder Trouble Has Several Causes

Q—I have a chronic inflammation of the bladder. What causes it? I get relief by taking Mandelamine, but what I want is a cure.

A—Cystitis is caused by a germ that has reached your bladder either from the outside (ascending infection) or through your blood stream.

BRANDSTADT

It is aggravated by a highly acid urine. If the condition is chronic there is no simple treatment since different causative germs require different drugs. Sulfa drugs and nalidixic acid will often eliminate the cause.

Q—For a urinary discomfort my doctor prescribed Mandelamine. When it failed to give sufficient relief he gave me Furadantin. How do these drugs act?

* * *

A—Both are urinary antiseptics. They kill some but not all types of germs that cause cystitis.

Q—I have been to several doctors for my cystitis. Each one tries a different treatment. One says there is no cure. Is this true? Can an emotional upset or physicial weakness cause cystitis?

* * *

A—Cure is often difficult and may require a period of hospitalization under a urologist who will determine what germ is causing your trouble and what other factors are contributing to its chronicity.

* * *

Emotional upsets may cause an increased frequency of urination but will not cause a true cystitis and neither will pysical weakness.

Q—What food should be avoided by a person with albumin in the urine due to nephritis? Is there any drug that would be helpful?

A—Proteins must be avoided during the acute stage of nephritis, but as soon as this stage is over and there is a free passage of urine and a return of the appetite liberal amounts of protein should be given to overcome the protein deficiency that developed earlier in the course of the disease.

You should get a balanced diet, but it is wise to cut down on your intake of salt. A strict attempt to eliminate sodium from your diet, however, is not necessary.

There is no drug that is given specifically to free the urine of albumin. Drugs are given to combat whatever caused the nephritis.

Q—My doctor is giving me nicotinic acid for poor circulation in my feet. Will this correct the trouble or just relieve it? Are there any bad side affects?

A—Nicotinic acid helps to dilate the small arteries in your extremities. Large doses of this vitamin can be taken with safety.

Roommate Gives Full Description of Girls' Slayer

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Seattle detectives today had a detailed description of the man who killed airline stewardess Lonnie Trumbull and beat her roommate almost to death.

The roommate, Lisa Wick, 20, yesterday had recovered enough from her injuries to give police a description of the killer.

Miss Wick still was confused by head and brain injuries suffered in the attack, according to police. But she told officers that the man who killed Miss Trumbull, 20, was white, about 30, 5-10 in height, about 165 pounds, and had thinning, blond hair.

Both United Air Lines stewardesses were discovered in the blood-spattered bedroom of their apartment by a third roommate, Joyce Bowe, three weeks ago the morning after the attacks occurred.

Czech, Cuban to Live 45 Feet Under Water

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana radio said today that two oceanographic technicians, a Cuban and a Czech, will live three days in a structure more than 45 feet underwater.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said the experiment will be held off Guanabo Beach, 15 miles from Havana.

Jeep Jammed With Radios

Attempt to Overcome Military Talk Trouble

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — If James Bond went to war, he would surely want one.

* * *

A jeep filled to overflowing with enough radio gear to make the operator a one-man network is the latest attempt by the U. S. armed forces to overcome their front-line talk-troubles.

Four high-powered radios have been stuffed in the back of the jeep for communications with planes, ground forces and distant headquarters.

In addition, two lightweight, "manpack" portable units are wedged into the remaining crannies.

By this time there is scarcely enough room for the driver's toothbrush, let alone the power supply, so the generator for the whole thing is towed behind in a trailer.

IN DEMAND

The Air Force Systems Command paid for development of the radio-jeep, and now the Tactical Air Command, the Pacific and European Air Forces and parts of the Air Force Communications Service all want some.

As a result, General Dynamics Corporation is putting together 377 of them.

The Navy also has plans for a few, so two new types of radios are being produced to take advantage of the centralized, lightweight, mobile system.

* * *

Even the Army has designed a new radio, which works so well that it has been ordered by the armed forces of Australia, New Zealand and Norway.

Witness Rebukes Administration's Pollution Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—A witness told the House Public Works Committee Thursday the administration's clean rivers bill is misnamed because it deals only with pollution from municipal and industrial waste.

* * *

The witness was John Kinney, Ann Arbor, Mich., sanitary engineering consultant who also spoke critically of proposals to vest all decision making in the pollution control field in the secretary of the interior.

Kinney contended existing law provides adequate authority for dealing with the problem and "what is lacking is leadership."

* * *

Kinney said other factors besides municipal and industrial discharges account for pollution. He mentioned, for instance, accumulations of algae in western Lake Erie.

MSU Prof Elected

EAST LANSING (AP) — The American Meat Science Association has elected Dr. Lyman Bratzler, professor of food science at Michigan State University, as its vice president.

HOT SEAT—Flames eating through a wall of a furniture warehouse and showroom complex in suburban Edgemere, Md., yesterday are about to consume a picture of a man reclining in an easy chair. Dozens of firemen were prostrated by heat waves they said were 150 degrees at ground level 25 feet from the fire. A partner in the furniture company estimated the loss at $500,000.

Hubert Took a Beer Firm Flight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and the head of the Justice Department's antitrust division flew to St. Louis this week in a plane furnished by the Anheuser-Busch Co. less than a month after the government dropped an antitrust action against the firm.

A spokesman for Humphrey said the vice president knew nothing about any antitrust action against the big St. Louis brewing company when he made the trip to attend the All-Star baseball game and take part in a luncheon of major Democratic party contributors.

The Justice Department official, Asst. Atty. Gen. Donald F. Turner, said Humphrey's office invited him several weeks ago to accompany the vice president on the trip. Turner described the trip as a "social occasion."

Disclosure of the trip came one day after it was ascertained that Anheuser-Busch executives and their wives contributed a total of $10,000 to the President's Club, composed of persons who contribute at least $1,000 to the Democratic party.

The contributions were recorded May 24. Less than a month later—on June 17—the Justice Department dismissed an antitrust suit it had brought against the brewing firm in 1963 to drop acquisition of a malting plant.

ETHICAL QUESTIONS

In a House speech Thursday, Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., said "serious ethical questions" were raised by the department's dismissal of the case. He said the questions should be "speedily and fully answered" by the company and the Democratic National Committee.

State Elite Give to Dems

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president of Kellogg Co. and board chairman of Detroit Edison Co. are among a number of well-known Michigan residents listed as members of the Democratic party's elite fund-raising group, the President's Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle C. Roll—he is president of Kellogg of Battle Creek—are named as donors of $10,000.

Walker Cisler is listed as having given $2,000, with $1,000 of this listed in his name under the Detroit Edison corporate address.

Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, who is running for Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, is named as a club member who contributed $1,000, the minimum accepted.

L. C. Kingscott Jr., of Kalamazoo, head of an architectural and engineering firm operating in Michigan and Texas, is listed as a $1,000 contributor.

Killing Suspect Contradicted

Husband: Not in State When Daughter Slain

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — The estranged husband of Mrs. Doris Hunzinger testified Thursday at her first-degree murder examination that he was in California when their daughter was killed.

Harry Hunzinger, 32, of San Diego, Calif., told Municipal Judge Jacob Ponstein he had not left his state at the time.

★ ★ ★

Mrs Hunzinger, 25, was quoted earlier by police as saying her husband visited 3-year-old Helen Marie Hunzinger June 24. The child's body was found June 27 in a house where Mrs. Hunzinger was said to have been living.

CHILD STRANGLED

Another occupant of the house, Richard Traxler, 32, testified he discovered Helen Marie's body after Mrs. Hunzinger asked him to check the trunk.

★ ★ ★

Dr Eugene W. Lange, a pathologist, said the girl was strangled and that a piece of cloth was around her neck.

Judge Ponstein remanded Mrs. Hunzinger to jail without bond to await arraignment on the murder charge in circuit court.

Hazel Park Teen Dies

PETOSKEY (AP) — Jessie Todner, 18, of Hazel Park died here Thursday of injuries suffered Wednesday when his car overturned on I-75.

Michigan Political Race Centers on Cherry Festival

By The Associated Press

Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh today sought the National Cherry Festival spotlight that was denied to his opponent for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Cavanagh planned to attend the grand floral parade of Traverse City's annual Cherry Festival today, but the rules forbade him to march at the head of it in full view of expected thousands of onlookers.

The rules were invoked Thursday against G. Mennen Williams when he tried to join the leading marchers of the National Cherry Festival Youth Parade.

Parade marshal Charles Van Horn, saying "I hated to do it," threw Williams out because of a long-standing rule against political appearances. The former governor then walked at the tail end of the procession.

Meanwhile, the man who will face the Democratic primary winner in November was assured of a command position in today's parade.

Republican Sen. Robert Griffin returned to Traverse City, his home town and seat of his former congressional district, to help lead the parade today. Griffin was appointed to the Senate by Gov. George Romney in June to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Sen. Patrick V. McNamara.

Participation in the parade traditionally is limited to public officeholders who have a special interest in the economy of the area. During the 12 years Williams was governor, he took part in almost every National Cherry Festival grand parade from 1948 through 1960.

Cavanagh planned to leave Traverse City for Detroit this afternoon. He returned to the Lower Peninsula after a two-day trip in which he was "heartened by the independence of the party people in the Upper Peninsula."

Cavanagh, who is fighting a large part of the established Democratic organization in his bid to beat Williams, said "There were some indications of efforts from downstate to pressure these people (Upper Michigan Democrats) into ignoring us, but almost all of them stayed independent."

★ ★ ★

Upper Peninsula party organization have remained neutral in the primary contest, unlike Wayne County Democratic units which have endorsed Williams.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: The mysterious ping-pong ball.

NEEDED: A table tennis ball with a string attached, and a stream of water from a faucet. The string may be attached to the ping-pong ball with a few drops of candle wax.

DO THIS: Hold the string, and let the ball touch the moving stream of water. The ball will cling to the stream even when the string is moved outward to a considerable angle.

HERE'S WHY: This is a variation of the Bernoulli principle in which the lateral pressure of moving air is less than that of the still air around it. Here the pressure of the water which is moving around one side of the ball is less than that of the still air on the opposite side. As the ball attempts to move away from the water the air will push it back.

Junior Editors Quiz on COCONUT SEEDS

QUESTION: Where are the seeds of the coconut trees?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The graceful and beautiful coconut palm tree originally came from Malaya. Today, it is found in a great many of the subtropical and tropical parts of the world.

Our picture shows coconut palms swaying above the shore of one of the romantic South Seas islands. You can see a cluster of the fruits hanging just below the leaves; a young man is climbing up to harvest them.

Botanically speaking, these large fruits are "drupes," meaning a fleshy fruit that has one seed inside, like peaches and plums.

But the edible part of the coconut drupe is not the husk or outside part but the round sphere inside, cased in a brown shell. That's the part we call a coconut.

Actually, this is the seed of the coconut tree; it contains a small embryo. The milk and meat inside the coconut seed nourish this embryo during the year it takes to mature, so that it will be able to take root and grow to a new tree.

The milk in the coconut makes a refreshing drink. The meat is valuable for food, besides being used in other ways.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: At lower left, pieces of meat from coconuts are drying in the sun. This is "copra." Find out why it is important to the South Seas islanders.

Veterans' Benefits—10

Care Is Available for Nonservice Disabilities

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the 10th in a 17-part series on veterans' benefits.)

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—You may be eligible for care in a veterans' hospital even though you have no service-connected disability.

You have these privileges if you are a wartime veteran, including Korea and Viet Nam.

The 1966 law gives you these privileges also if you've served on active duty in peace or war since Jan. 31, 1955.

There are certain restrictions. For example, veterans with service-connected disabilities have top priority for admission to veterans hospitals.

But if you are a veteran without a service-connected disability, and you need hospitalization, you may be admitted to a Veterans Administration hospital under two conditions:

- Beds are available.
- You sign a statement under oath that you are financially unable to defray the cost of the necessary hospital charges elsewhere.

If you sign the not-able-to-pay oath, you also may be authorized government aid for the costs of transporting you to the hospital.

Except in case emergencies, veterans eligible for transportation at Veterans Administration expense should secure prior approval.

* * *

As a patient without service-connected disabilities, you may also be eligible for some Veterans Administration before-hospitalization and after-hospitalization care as an outpatient.

RESTRICTED

This privilege for preadmission care applies only if you are already scheduled for admission to a VA hospital or for follow-up care if you are a patient being released from a VA hospital.

There is no general outpatient care for other veterans who have no service-connected disabilities except veterans of the Spanish American War.

As a veteran with no proven service-connected disability you also are eligible for free medical or physical examinations under three circumstances:

- When applying for veterans hospital or domiciliary care.
- When required for some government life insurance purposes.
- When you are attempting to prove the presence of a service-connected disability.

But the Veterans Administration has some important interpretations of what constitutes a service-connected disability. These are important to you because they may make you eligible for service-connected veterans hospital care.

For hospitalization privileges, the Veterans Administration considers that any veteran who developed mental illness within two years from the time he was separated from active wartime duty as having a service-connected disability.

* * *

If a veteran develops a chronic disease resulting in 10 per cent or more disability within a year after separation from wartime active service, it's considered service-connected. The same presumption holds for a list of tropical diseases.

SHOW UP LATER

Tropical diseases with long incubation periods are considered service-connected if they show up within several years after service. It's a medical decision in each such case.

The service-connected assumption is made for active tuberculosis for up to three years after separation and for multiple sclerosis, up to seven years.

Hansen's disease (leprosy) is considered service-connected if it shows up within three years after separation.

* * *

These rules were applied in World War II and Korea. They probably will be used for Viet Nam veterans, too.

NEVER SERVED

You even may be entitled to hospital privileges as a "veteran" even though you were never on active duty.

If as an inductee or enlistee you incurred a disability while en route under orders to report to a place for final acceptance, induction or entry upon active duty, or while you were at such a place or en route home, you are entitled to the same hospital privileges as a veteran who was disabled on active duty.

But this disability must not be the result of your own misconduct.

Viet Demonstration Held at Draft Board

DETROIT (UPI) — About 15 members of the Detroit Committee to End the War in Viet Nam, yesterday held a quiet demonstration inside the office of the local draft board on Cadillac Square.

* * *

The committee had suggested, in announcing its demonstration plans, "There is a possibility of civil disobedience taking place."

* * *

But Lt. Col. Robert W. Lundquist, director of the board, said it was a very peaceful demonstration, with the demonstrators walking around "to the various offices and talking to the clerks."

Astronauts Eye Storm, Expect Okay on Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — While following the progress of tropical storm Celia, the Gemini 10 astronauts expect to receive today a medical go-ahead for Monday's double rendezvous and space walk launching.

Celia was spinning along 700 miles southeast of Miami on a course that could affect the launching. Main concern was the Atlantic recovery areas east and southeast of Cape Kennedy which the storm might churn up sufficiently to prevent ships from reaching their stations on time.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the storm will be studied this afternoon.

At the time of the American Revolutionary War, Philadelphia was the second largest city in the British Empire.

Few New Jets for N. Viet AF

WASHINGTON (AP)—The North Vietnamese air force which lost about one-fifth of its strength in air-to-air combat with American planes has received few replacements from the Soviet Union or Red China, it was indicated today.

U.S. officials said there may have been some replacements, but only in small numbers.

Until late spring, these officials used a figure of 75 when discussing the size of North Viet Nam's fleet of MIG jet fighters and IL28 bombers. Now they peg that force at about 60 planes.

Seventeen MIGs have been downed in dogfights with American jets, 12 of them in the past three months.

Over-all, only three American jets have been lost in aerial combat out of a total of about 290 U.S. warplanes downed over North Viet Nam in 17 months.

U.S. LOSSES

The bulk of U.S. air losses in the North has been caused by conventional antiaircraft guns.

Lt. Gen. Joseph H. Moore, until recently Air Force commander in Viet Nam, said the MIGs have not been any real problem.

With the exception of the three American craft destroyed in air combat, the North Vietnamese pilots have "always come out second best," Moore said.

* * *

The present North Vietnamese fighter force includes about 15 MIG21s which are considered a reasonable match for American Phantoms.

OLDER MODELS

Another 40 are older model MIG15 and MIG17 types. And the North Vietnamese have, in addition, about half a dozen obsolescent IL28 bombers.

Officials said the MIG21s, the latest models owned by the Vietnamese, carry two types of missiles, one a heat seeker and the other a guided weapon.

They disclaimed any definite knowledge on whether both types have been fired by North Vietnamese pilots at their American foes.

'Pushing Labor Policy'

British Conservatives Upset With U.S.

LONDON (UPI) — British Conservatives are privately accusing the U.S. administration of pushing Britain's troubled economy into a straitjacket of socialist planning.

The United States is being accused of not merely backing, but of actively pushing the Laborite government's rigid "prices and incomes policy" of wage and production control.

They charge this is tantamount to shackling the economy to a system of state controls.

The Conservatives say they are puzzled that the free enterprise-minded United States should, in effect, act as the sponsor of a policy which would paralyze private initiative in Britain.

The criticism reflects the growing disillusionment in Britain's Conservative party ranks with the trend which the Anglo-American relationship is taking.

UPSET BY WILSON

Fervent supporters of continued close British alignment with the United States, the Conservatives nevertheless view with a jaundiced eye Prime Minister Harold Wilson's current "subservience" to Washington.

Conservative leaders are anxious to dispell the impression that if in power they would alter Britain's policy course where the United State is concerned.

They deny firmly that they are anti-American.

Edward Heath, the Conservative opposition leader who recently met President Johnson in Washington, is known to favor continued backing of American Viet Nam policy and to be critical of Wilson's recent move to dissociate Britain from the bombings outside Hanoi and Haiphong.

* * *

But he apparently feels that the Washington administration was mistaken in insisting that the British government should implement the rigorous restrictions of a basically negative prices and incomes policy on its economy as a remedy for Britain's ailments.

The Conservatives, in their growing criticism of American influence, are far from echoing French President Charles de Gaulle's insistence on pushing the United States out of Europe altogether.

'New' Bengal Pilot Has Safe Launching

Bob Swift Out; Coach Directs Tiger Victory

Detroiters Post 4-3 Decision Over Orioles Behind Frank Skaff

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Skaff survived his first test as a major league manager Thursday night but he played it safe and stayed out of the manager's office.

"The last two guys to use that office are in the hospital," Skaff said lightly after the game. "I don't want to have anything to do with it."

★ ★ ★

The Tigers had just survived a ninth inning scare to pin a 4-3 loss on the league-leading Baltimore Orioles.

Skaff had been handed the reins of the second-place Tigers only hours earlier in the day after Bob Swift, acting as manager for Charlie Dressen, was stricken with a stomach ailment. Skaff, thereby, became the third man to manage the team this season.

"We're just trying to do our doggone job," he added seriously. "It's no laughing matter —first Charlie got sick and now Bob is in the hospital. I hope it isn't serious.

"I just told the fellas before the game that the idea of waiting for Baltimore to fold is ridiculous," Skaff quipped. "I said we've gotta do something ourselves and we ought to start tonight."

★ ★ ★

The Tigers did plenty for the chunky little former minor league infielder in the early inning to survive for the victory, which, incidentally, left them seven games behind the Baltimore club.

Big Earl Wilson started for Detroit and kept Baltimore under control through the first seven innings, after giving Frank Robinson his 22nd homer of the year in the first inning.

TIED SCORE

The Tigers knotted the score at 1-1 in their half of the first inning when Don Wert and Jake Wood led off with singles, advanced on Norm Cash's infield out and Wert scored on Al Kaline's ground out.

Wert played the key role in the two-run rally in the fourth inning also.

Bill Freehan and Mickey Stanley hit singles, Wilson walked to load the bases with two out and Wert followed with his third single of the night, driving in Freehan and Stanley.

Wilson drove in the winning run himself in the sixth inning, batting a sacrifice fly into centerfield after Stanley had singled and gone to third on Ray Oyler's double.

★ ★ ★

Wilson was credited with his ninth win of the season against seven losses although he left the game with a tight shoulder after seven innings. Larry Sherry pitched the eighth inning but got into trouble in the ninth with walks to Curt Blefary and Andy Etcheberren sandwiched around a single to Dave Johnson.

Fred Gladding came in with the bases loaded and none out and got pinch hitter Sam Bowens to hit into a double-play, scoring Blefary and then gave up a run-scoring single to Luis Aparicio and walked Russ Snyder.

FINAL OUT

Skaff then pulled Gladding and sent in Orlando Pena to pitch to Frank Robinson. Pena got Robinson to hit a ground ball to third-baseman Wert who stepped on the bag for the final out.

Chisox Hurler Goes 'Flying'

By the Associated Press

Tommy John gave a boost to the Chicago White Sox, who have been having trouble getting off the ground, then left them up in the air for a week.

The 23-year-old, the big winner of Manager Eddie Stanky's staff with an 8-5 record, was set today to spend a week with the Indiana Air National Guard.

Thursday night, he pitched the White Sox into a sixth-place tie with the Kansas City Athletics firing a six-hitter in a 2-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians that snapped a five-game losing streak.

John was due to rejoin the club next Friday, and Stanky said he plans to start him the next day.

In other AL games, the New York Yankees edged Kansas City 5-4, Minnesota beat Washington 3-1 and California took Boston 3-2 in 10 innings.

WINNING RUN

John also played an offensive role in the White Sox' victory. His sacrifice in the eighth inning moved Ken Berry to second, and Berry scored the winning run on Wayne Causey's double. Joe Azcue's sacrifice fly put the Indians ahead in the in the seventh when Tommie Agee doubled home Don Buford.

Joe Pepitone's triple and 20th homer and three unearned runs enabled the Yankees to beat Kansas City. The three unearned runs set up by Campy Campaneris' error, came in the eighth and gave the Yankees a 5-3 lead. Relief pitcher Hal Reniff singled in the third run.

★ ★ ★

Don Mincher hit a two-run homer and Harmon Killebrew doubled home a run in Minnesota's victory over Washington. Frank Howard singled home the Senators' run.

California tied Boston with two runs in the eighth and then won it in the 10th when Rick Reichardt beat out an infield hit with two out and the bases loaded.

The Angels, shut out on one hit by Dennis Bennett and Don McMahon until the eighth, scored their first two runs on Ed Kirkpatrick's pinch double and Bob Rodgers' sacrifice fly. Doubles by Don Demeter and Mike Ryan produced the runs for the Red Sox, who had a five-game winning streak snapped.

NO MIRROR GAME — What looks like a reflection or a mid-air collision in the making really isn't, but it requires some study to figure out what this pair of divers is doing. Both are members of an American college swimming team and they are performing this dive over the Olympic swimming pool of the Cite Sportif in Beirut, Lebanon. The dive is made by Bernie Wrightson of Arizona State (top) and Charles Knorr of Ohio State. Bernie is doing a 10-meter platform dive while Chuck is executing a one and one-half gainer.

Long Hitter Keeps on Swinging

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Count the number of par-5 holes on the course and concede hefty Bud Stevens a stroke on each hole.

That's what many golfers say about Stevens, one of the state's top amateur players, and this is what many of the golfers in the 21st annual Birmingham Invitational tournament may be thinking.

Stevens and Elmer Ellstrom, the defending champions, defeated Tom Lowery and Earl Burt, 4-3, and Stevens had a record front side 32 on his own ball.

In going all the way last year, Stevens had two eagles and six birdies on the par-5 holes at Birmingham CC, winning the tournament with a spectacular eagle-3 on the 18th hole.

Yesterday, he had four birdies on the front including the 507-yard and 539-yard, No. 1 and No. 8 holes.

★ ★ ★

Today, he and Ellstrom face Tom Crew and Bill Adams who won 1-up over John Duncan and Bud Badger on the 20th hole.

Another match in the top bracket today pits Rich Weyand and Jim Gittleman against Chuck Byrne and Jim Brisson.

FOUR UNDER

The Weyand-Gittleman duo was four under for the day in winning over Don Paul and Dr. John Sigler, 3-2, while Byrne and Brisson were eliminating the Stephenson brothers, Jim and Bill, 1-up on the 20th.

In the lower bracket, Chuck Kocsis nearly equalled Steven's front nine play when he carded a 33.

He and Rudy Videgar of Red Run defeated Angelo Lotti and Tony Lopucki, 3-2, and today they face Al Robinson and Don Stevens who were 1-up winners over Floyd Burdette and Howard Hamilton.

The top three and a half flights finished their first round yesterday and play this afternoon.

The lower three and a half flights play their first rounds this morning.

Double rounds are scheduled for Saturday.

Golf Pros Tough on Public Course

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The touring golf professionals have always been tough on St. Paul's Keller public golf course, but Thursday they overdid themselves.

The field of 144 pros, scrambling for the $20,000 top money in the $100,000 Minnesota Classic with big guns like Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Tony Lema passing it by, swarmed over Keller like it was a miniature golf course.

★ ★ ★

They swept through the first round with 57 of them below par and another 24 at even par. Defending champion Ray Floyd shot a respectable 73 and tied for 101st place.

Jacky Cupit set the pace with a six-under-par 65 over Keller's par 36-35—71, 6,702-yard course. Six others were breathing down his neck at five-under 66, including Gene Littler, Bert Yancey, Charles Sifford, John Schlee, Randy Petri and Steve Spray.

NAME CHANGE

Tied at 67 were Phil Rodgers, Rex Baxter Jr. and Bobby Nichols.

Keller has been the host to the St. Paul Open for 30 years, but this year the tournament was renamed the Minnesota Classic.

'68 Olympics in Readiness

CHICAGO (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said Thursday "everything seems to be in order" in preparations for the 1968 Games in Mexico City.

★ ★ ★

Brundage told The Associated Press that he had been in Mexico City three weeks ago and "everything was coming along well with possibly a couple of questions."

Brundage said the only major question then was the selection of a design for the new indoor stadium, which will have a seating capacity of about 25,000.

"A decision on that matter should be made by the end of this month," said Brundage. "The only other problem seemed to be whether or not there would be a roof over the swimming pool."

★ ★ ★

As to the question of Olympic village sites, Brundage said "these were settled months ago."

Brundage said "there is nothing to be alarmed about. Everything seems to be in order and they have plenty of time to get their work done."

Record 173 Yachts in Race Field

PORT HURON (UPI) — A record-tying 173 boats have signed up to compete in the 42nd annual Bayview Yacht Club Port Huron to Mackinac sailboat race Saturday.

Leading the 28 boats in Class A competition will be Gypsy, the 54-foot sloop owned by Charles Kotovic of the Milwaukee Yacht Club and defending champion for the past two years.

Gypsy has won the event over-all three times as well as capturing the Class A title five times.

The boats, which average about six persons per crew, will set off on the 235-mile race on Lake Huron off Gratiot Beach Saturday afternoon.

The entry list has grown about 20 per cent each year during the past five years until this summer. This year's lack of increase is attributed to the planned running of the Chicago-to-Mackinac race next week.

Increase Two Streaks in Class A Baseball

Two city men's baseball league streaks continued last night at Jaycee Park as the R. T. Clippers trimmed Evans Equipment, 8-1.

The victory was the fifth straight for the league-leading Clippers (their eighth in nine starts), and Evans dropped its 13th in a row.

The winners (12-2) scored single runs in the first three innings — one on Bill Estes' first home run of the season — and clinched the decision with four in the fourth as Larry Johnson drove in two with a single.

Harry Bartkowiak's solo homer was the only Evans' damage against right-hander Larry Field who scattered four hits and four walks.

Johnson added another run batted in with a sixth-inning single.

CIO 594 attempts to revive its bid for a playoff berth with two games tonight at Jaycee Park. The unionmen meet Evans at 6 p.m. and M. G. Collision at 8:30 p.m.

JAYCEE LEADERS — Gary Balliet (left) of Pontiac gets a look at the putter of Union Lake's Russ Herron, who had a sharp touch with the club yesterday as he fired a one-under-par 71 to lead the qualifiers in the regional Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament at Pontiac Country Club. Balliet closed with an even par 72. Both earned a trip to Grand Haven for the state tourney.

Karras, Gordy Turn Hecklers in Grid Camp

Newcomers Toiling; Three Fail to Pass Physical Exams

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

It was official opening of rookie camp for the Detroit Lions at Cranbrook yesterday, but Joe Schmidt, Alex Karras, John Gordy, Milt Plum and 10 other experienced hands were there.

Karras and Gordy were among the sideline observers.

* * *

They came to needle "coach" Schmidt, who trotted onto the practice field wearing a pair of light blue shorts, and they came to look over some of the new competition among the nine rookie linemen.

"Holy mackeral, look at those two guys! They must weigh 500 pounds each," said Karras to Gordy, "I'm glad they're offensive linemen."

Like heck, they look like defensive tackles to me," Gordy replied to the trim Karras.

"They can't be," said Karras, "you can see they don't have the speed for defensive tackles; they're slow afoot like you offensive linemen."

As the needling went on, the all-pro linebacker great of the Lions, who hung up his playing cleats to coach the backup men this season, ran by, throwing a block on Karras and taking his coaching position behind the line.

On the first dummy scrimmage pass play coming his way, Schmidt was knocked down by one of the rookie linebackers.

It drew applause from Gordy and Karras, and Schmidt, quickly jumping to his feet, remarked, "It's a good thing I'm not wearing my playing clothes."

QUARTERBACKS

Plum and the three contending quarterbacks Tom Myers, Karl Sweetan and George Izo, did the throwing for the rookies and the sprinkling of veterans.

Full back Tom Nowatzke, who made an impressive showing in final stages last season, was among the early arrivals, along with center Ed Flanagan, linebackers Mike Lucci and Wally Hilgenberg, defensive end Larry Hand, offensive tackle Jerry Rush and defensive backs Tom Vaughn and Jim Kearney.

The rookie list was down to 28 yesterday when three failed to pass their physicals including Frank Goldberg of Central Michigan, Dempsey Harrison of Wayne State and George Harrison of Eastern Michigan.

Two-a-day drills will continue until all the veterans report next Tuesday, and the practice sessions are closed to the public.

First showing of the Lions will be in the intra-squad game at Wisner Stadium, Saturday night July 30, under the sponsorship of the Community National Bank and the Pontiac Jaycees.

Ex-Lion Is Among Colt Players Cut

WESTMINISTER, Md. (AP) — The Baltimore Colts of the National Football League Thursday cut a motorcycle cop, a basketball player and a weight lifter.

Released were Joe Quick, a Miami, Fla., patrolman, who tried out as a punter; Bill March, York Pa., muscleman looked over as a fullback; and Wilson Graham, a basketball player at Kent State who wanted to become a defensive football back.

Coach Don Shula also cut Mike Bundra, a defensive tackle for four seasons at Detroit, Minnesota, Cleveland and New York.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Despite the airlines strike, all 23 of the Green Bay Packers rookies arrived on time Thursday to take part in the first workouts of the training season.

Twenty-nine veterans, including Paul Hornung, Bart Starr, Max McGee, Boyd Dowler, Herb Adderely and Ray Nitschke, were among those in uniform.

TARDINESS COSTLY

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP) — The entire Chicago Bear football squad is scheduled to assemble by 10 a.m. Friday.

Last year the rate was $100 a day but owner-coach George Halas upped it this year because "we have a lot to do and a short time in which to do it."

End Doug Atkins drew $900 in fines last year.

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — Los Angeles Rams' Coach George Allen cut five rookies from the squad Thursday, but recovered a punter who had planned to retire.

Cut during summer practice here were Nat Duckett, halfback from Syracuse University; Lyle Johnston, punter from Weber State College at Utah; Charles Lockhart, end from Los Angeles City College, and Wayne Diedrich, tackle from Everett Junior College, Washington.

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Three Dallas Cowboys suffered minor injuries Thursday—the first in their summer training season.

Tony Liscio, veteran tackle, pulled a thigh muscle and Paul Soule, rookie defensive back from Bowdoin received a shoulder separation.

Tackle Byron Johnson of Central Washington suffered a cut on his forehead.

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — The Washington Redskins said Thursday rookie Joe Burson, a defensive back, was being sent home for three months because of injuries suffered during preseason training.

Burson, from Georgia, suffered damage to the ligaments of the right knee during practice Wednesday.

CAPTAIN TO COACH — It's coach Joe Schmidt now in Detroit Lions' football camp at Cranbrook. The all-time great linebacker and captain of the Lions who retired from playing and is now handling the linebacking crew, made his first appearance as coach in the first day of rookie camp yesterday.

Teen-Ager Leads Keg Tournament

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Wilcox, a crewcut teen-ager from Williamsport, Pa., stayed comfortably in the lead of the Bowling Tournament of the Americas Thursday night pushing his pinfall to 1,260 for six games.

Joyce Campbell, an expectant mother from Hamilton, Ont., led the women's division on a total of 1,194 pins.

* * *

Wilcox, 19, apparently was all over opening-day jitters when he rolled one game of 152 — the worst, he said, he has chalked up in many months.

Mrs. Campbell said that pregnancy "has slowed me down a little but I wouldn't be here if it bothered me much." She expects her first child four months from now.

The tournament continues three games per day through Sunday.

Gimeno defeated Lew Hoad of Australia 6-4, 6-3, while Buchholz downed Luis Ayala 6-4, 6-4.

Mike Davies of England defeated Barry MacKay of San Francisco 6-4, 10-12, 6-4.

In a doubles match, Buchholz and Rog Laver of Australia defeated Pancho Segura of Los Angeles and Sam Giammalva of Houston 7-5, 6-1.

Sam Williams, Atlanta Have Contract Feud

Former Detroit Lions defensive end Sam Williams is risking his pro career in a contract squabble with the new Atlanta Falcons, a spokesman for the Georgia team said Thursday.

Williams, once a member of the "Fearsome Foursome," top defensive line in the National Football League, was claimed by Atlanta in a special draft last winter. He has refused to report to the team's training camp in North Carolina.

* * *

"His attorney has phoned us several times attempting to renegotiate some things in the contract," said Bud Erickson, special assistant to Falcon owner Rankin Smith. The Lions opened drills Thursday.

* * *

"We feel it is a very fair contract and do not intend to reopen it," Erickson said. "If it is his intention to retire — well, we can only wish him the best."

Williams, who lives in Detroit, could not be reached for comment.

Tourney Set for Tomorrow on City Links

The battle for the City Two-Ball championship shapes us as a heated one as a field of 27 teams await tomorrow's tee off at Pontiac Municipal Course.

The teams will play 18 holes best-ball over the 5,689-yard course.

Returning to defend their title are Charles and Helen Barker, who claimed the crown last year in a sudden-death playoff.

The Barkers are slated to tee off at 1:36 p.m., while the team they defeated in the playoff last year, Jim and Bobbi Miller of Novi, will leave the tee at 12:16.

Expected to give the Barkers some trouble in the duel for the title are the teams of Glenn Vallance and Feather Frechette; Clyde Skinner and Chris Tate; Wally Smith and Gloria Luther; and Joe Burgdorf and Phyllis Chandler.

Clay Courts Play Advances

Top Seeded Dennis Ralston 'Tired'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The National Clay Courts Tennis championships enter the quarterfinal stage today with top-seeded Dennis Ralston a little tired and third-seeded Charles Pasarell a little sore.

Ralston, who is seeking a third-straight clay courts crown, says he is from five to 10 pounds below his normal playing weight, and in need of a rest.

* * *

"I was tired at the Western Open and I still am," said the nation's top-ranked player. "I've had only four days without playing since the middle of April."

Third-seeded Pasarell, who advanced to the quarter-finals Thursday with a 6-3, 6-4 triumph over Turner Howard, Knoxville, Tenn., is playing with a strained back.

"My back was only a little sore today," said Pasarell after whipping the stubborn Howard. "It didn't bother me too much except on overhands."

Pasarell, of Santurce, Puerto Rico, is paired with Australia's Owen Davidson today while Ralston takes on No. 8 seed Frank Froehling, Coral Gables, Fla.

Top foreign seed, Tony Roche of Australia, is matched with Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill.

Dave DeBusschere Begins Recovery

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit Pistons player-coach Dave DeBusschere was reported recovering satisfactorily today from an emergency appendectomy performed Thursday.

DeBusschere said he returned home after a meeting with Pistons owner Fred Zollner Wednesday and felt ill.

He called his doctor during the night and the physician rushed him to Bon Secours Hospital in suburban Grosse Pointe.

The 25-year-old athlete said he would be able to begin practice with the Pistons when they start preparations for the 1966-67 season Sept. 11.

Swimmers Await Meet

MOSCOW (AP) — Fifteen American swimmers go through a final workout today before meeting Russians here in an international meet Saturday that U.S. Coach Don Gambril said will provide "some very tough competition."

The two-day meet will be the first time that swimmers from the two countries compete against each other except at the Olympics.

The meet falls under the shadow of the Soviet decision against meeting a U.S. track team in Los Angeles or the U.S. basketball team here. These were canceled because of the Viet Nam conflict.

The Waterford Men's Softball League race was tightened considerably last night when Midget Bar surprised pace-setting Lakeland Pharmacy (13-4) with a 15-4 drubbing.

* * *

This leaves Lakeland with only a one-game advantage in losses over runners-up Richardson Dairy and Hillcrest Nazarene (both 10-5).

Day's Sanitary upset McAnnally Auto Sales, 6-5, in the other league contest.

Midget Bar, who has been climbing steadily in recent games, scored five times in the first inning after Lakeland had taken a 3-0 lead. The Barmen clinched the outcome with a nine-run fourth.

BACKING

Jim McClellan scattered five hits and was back by Brian Rudd's three singles, John Strong's two singles for five runs and a big triple by Ed Rondo that produced four runs.

Dick Cooper had three hits for Day's Sanitary. McAnnally's trailed, 6-2, with two out in the seventh, then scored three runs and had the tying marker thrown out at the plate.

Landon Morris, Marv Caswell and Ron Kasher each had a double and single for the losers, while Ted Wharry rapped two singles. The league has a make-up twinbill Sunday night at the Drayton Plains diamond.

Among Favorites

U.S. Skiers Practice

FARELLONES, Chile (AP) — The U.S. skiers had some complaints. Coach Bob Beattie still was undecided about Billy Kidd, but the Americans ranked among the favorites — maybe — in the final training phases for the World Alpine Ski Championships today.

Kidd, from Stowe, Vt., ranks among the U.S. best. But he is recovering from an ankle operation and his status is undecided.

* * *

"The Americans are in good shape and high spirits," said a former French racer who has watched their practices, but there was a bit of Yankee grumbling about the courses being too soft.

The Amerions practiced on a beginners slope Thursday, their first day.

IN DOUBT

The race committee has not yet decided on which courses the races will be held. In fact, many of the arrangements are in doubt in this remote resort area. Many of the 23 teams have not yet arrived.

And it's those lack of arrivals that make the Americans the favorites for the first few races. They're favored only if the strong French and Austrian teams don't arrive on time.

* * *

The French, for example, are due to arrive in Santiago today. But they may choose not to make the 48 mile trip up a snow-covered dirt road that twists tortureously through the mountains.

The roads are badly blocked with snow. The U.S. team required more than two hours to make the trip to their lodge Thursday.

'Supercharged Stocks to Meet at Dragway

The feature two-out-of-three drag race at Motor City Dragway Saturday night will pit a supercharged stock fuel Dodge Dart against a tiger-striped supercharged Pontiac Tempest.

"Farmer" Arnie Beswick will drive the Tempest while Emery Cook pilots Don Garlits' Dodge.

Time trials for all classes will begin at 6:30 p.m. with the racing starting 8 p.m.

Golf Champ Out of Action

Public Links Play in Semifinals

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The only thing certain about the National Public Links Golf Tournament today was the fact there will be a new champion.

* * *

Arne Dokka of Studio City, Calif., the defending titlist and medalist, was eliminated in the quarter-finals Thursday by George Demling of Louisville, Ky., 5 and 4. The rugged Brown Deer course finally got to Dokka and he went out with a five over-par card.

* * *

Monty Kaser of Wichita, Kan., disposed of Norb Anderson of St. Paul, Minn., 4 and 2; Don Powers of Litchfield Park, Ariz., defeated Paul Rusi of Tumwater, Wash., 2 and 1, and Dave Ojala of Two Harbors, Minn., ousted Dick Heyl of Sterling, Va., 2 and 1.

* * *

Demling met Kaser and Powers faced Ojala in today's 36-hole semifinals.

All-America Field

Meet to Be Held

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — America's top track and field stars compete Saturday and Sunday to demonstrate among themselves what they'd like to have shown the Poles and the Russians.

When Poland withdrew from its scheduled meet after the U.S. team had already assembled in Berkeley this week for the final meet, an All American Invitational was submitted for the University of California's Edwards Track Stadiu.

* * *

"This is a challenge," declared U.S. Coach Stan Wright. "We want to show them what we can do."

In addition to the men's and women's teams selected for the international meets off performances in the AAU championships, the field numbers stars invited especially for the All American.

Men's events on the Saturday program starting at 2:30 p.m., PDT, are the pole vault, javelin, 100-meter dash 110-meter hurdles, 400 meter dash, 110-meter hurdles, 400 meters, triple jump 10,000 meters, discus, 3,000-meter steeplechase and 400-meter relay.

LONG JUMP

Women will compete in the long jump, 100 meters, high jump, shot put, 400 meters and 400-meter relay.

* * *

Bob Seagren, the 19-year-old from Glendale, Calif. who twice has cleared 17-5½ feet for a pending world record, heads the pole vault field.

The 400 meters could shape up as the top race of the day with the addition of two runners from Jamaica-Ed Skinner and Kent Bernard. They'll be running against Lee Evans, the 19-year-old from San Jose, who surprised by winning the AAU title.

* * *

The meets salted against Russia in Los Angeles next week and Poland at Berkeley this weekend were canceled by the two Iron Curtain nations in what they termed objections to the U.S. war action in Viet Nam.

Joy Fair Meets Flat Rock Leader

Season point leader Dick Mitchell, Trenton, and the defending champion Joy Fair, Pontiac, will be side-by-side at the start of Saturday night's late model auto race at Flat Rock Speedway.

* * *

The 50-lap feature will be for the mid-season championship with a big trophy and a lucrative purse at stake, also.

Fair swept the honors at the last Flat Rock race, but rain postponed last Saturday's scheduled mid-season race until this week. There also will be late-model preliminary races and Figure 8 competition.

TEEING OFF

By FLETCHER SPEARS

There's more to the game of golf than driving, hitting irons and putting.

Among other things, there's the scorecard.

Back in the spring, a loud cry came out of Florida after Doug Sanders had turned in rounds of 63 and 67 in the Pensacola Open to take a four-stroke lead only to find himself disqualified.

Seems Doug forgot to sign his scorecard. It was a costly lesson for the Californian, since the winner, Gay Brewer, went on to take home $10,000.

A local golfer fell victim to that scorecard bugaboo last year. The result was painful, but in this case, the player didn't yell.

Playing in the U.S.G.A. Junior Amateur qualifying round last July at Detroit Golf Club, Gary Balliet, now 16, had scored well and earned himself a trip to the national tournament. At least he thought so.

SCORING ERROR

Gary's mistake was an easy one to make. The total score for the round was correct but the hole-by-hole tally wasn't. His playing partner had marked marked down the score as they played, and at the end of the round, the scorer asked Gary what he had shot.

* * *

Like most golfers, Gary tabulated his score mentally as he went along, and after the round he told the scorer what he had. The scorer marked it down, not stopping to add up the hole-by-hole count on the card.

Gary didn't add it up either, but tournament officials did, finding that the total turned in didn't agree with the actual tally. Balliet's total was correct, but his scorer had marked down a wrong total on one of the holes.

The result was immediate disqualification, which wiped out his chance at the amateur title.

* * *

"It was educational," Gary said of the experience.

This is another year, and Gary will get another chance at the amateur crown, starting Monday with the qualifying round at Knollwood Country Club. You can bet he'll keep a close eye on the scorecard.

ACE BONANZA

Your chances of getting a hole-in-one are governed, so to speak, by those laws of averages, but when one guy evades those laws it makes it a little hard on those other poor fellas who keep on hitting and looking.

* * *

Take the case of Ken Forston of Royal Oak. Last week, Forston used a 5-wood and knocked the ball into the cup on the 180-yard, No. 3 hole at Stonycroft Country Club.

Normally, a golfer would get a little excited with such a shot. Forston was a little nonchalant, which is understandable. It was his fifth ace.

Motorcycles Scramble

The Avon Aristocrats will sponsor a Motorcycle Scrambles Sunday afternoon at the Dryden Ski Area on Hough Rd.

Any class motorcycle may enter the races with the final sign ups slated for 12:30 p.m. The racing will begin at 1 p.m.

2 Rematches Highlight of Trans-Miss

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Two rematches highlighted quarter-final play today in the 63rd Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament at Edina Country Club.

Marty Fleckman of Houston and Bob E. Smith of Sacramento, Calif., faced each other for the third time in match play in a major amateur tournament.

Smith had won both earlier matches, beating Fleckman 1-up on the 21st hole in the third round of the 1964 Trans-Miss and 1-up on 18 in the 1965 Western Open, which Smith won.

* * *

Medalist Jim Wiechers of Atherton, Calif., and Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael, Calif., collided in another rematch. Cerrudo beat Wiechers 1-up in this year's San Francisco City Tourney.

In other quarter-final matches today, Bob Dickson of Muskogee, Okla., played Earl (Chip) Stewart of Dallas and U.S. amateur champion Bob Murphy of Nichols, Fla., met John Schroeder of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Boys Club Nines 'Steal' Triumphs

Baseball games can be won in many ways and this is particularly true in the younger players' leagues. Several city junior contests Thursday were good examples.

The Pontiac Merchants upended the Pontiac Boys Club, 6-5, in eight innings when Jeff White stole home for the winning run in the Class F National League encounter.

The Auburn Heights Boys' Club Preps swiped 28 bases in beating Talbott Construction, 18-10.

In two Widget B games, Anderson Sales and Service used three double plays in five innings to edge the Hornets, 4-2, and a balk let in the winning run in the last of final inning as the Optimist Bearcats nipped the Wolverines, 11-10.

Lady Golfers Start to Fire

State's Miss Miller Among Contenders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Forty individual stars and one corporation stood by to tee off today and start shooting for cash in the $15,000 Lady Carling Women's Midwest Open Golf Tournament.

Two dandy Sandies and one Kathy figures to draw most of the attention, but the most unusual competitor in the 54-hole tournament is the Sharon Miller Corp. of Battle Creek, Mich.

That firm is personified in Sharon Miller, 25-year-old former schoolteacher who traded teaching for touring on the women's professional golf circuit. She was incorporated by 100 Battle Creek backers who bought $100 shares to finance her touring.

She splits her winnings—$1,068 going into this tournament—with the corporation.

FIRST START

The Sandies are Sandra Spuzich, making her first start since winning the Women's Open two weeks ago, and Sandra Haynie, tiny Texan who won last week's tournament in Cincinnati.

The Kathy is Kathy Whitworth, the leading money winner on this year's pro tour and titlist in this meet last year.

Brazilian Booters Favored

LONDON (AP)—Brazil's favored, but injury-riddled team resumes its bid for a third consecutive world soccer championship, meeting Hungary in one of four crucial games on today's program.

* * *

Vicente Feola, the Brazilian coach, said his line-up was "subject to medical revision." Pele, the king of soccer, suffered a slight concussion in the match against Bulgaria Tuesday and may be rested today. Gerson, suffering from an ankle injury, also is not expected to be in the line-up.

* * *

Amarildo, the young forward who played brilliantly after taking over from an injured Pele in the 1962 world championships, was knocked out of the current cup tournament by an injury sustained in a practice game in Sweden.

The 16 teams have been divided into four groups, and Brazil and Portugal top Group Three with two points each.

NO TILTS

No games were scheduled Thursday.

In other games today, Uruguay meets France in a Group One match, Switzerland takes on Spain in Group Two, and Chile faces Italy in Group Four.

* * *

England, France, Mexico and Uruguay all have one point in Group One. West Germany and Argentina are deadlocked for the Group Two lead with two points each while Russia and Italy share first place in Group Four, also with two points apiece.

* * *

The Brazilians are 7-4 favorites to win the title. England, West Germany and Italy are bracketed as second choices at 6-1.

Local Water Skiers Aim for State Titles

Silver Lake Ski Club's Jerry Hosner and Cass Lake's Harry Messler have their eyes on retaining their state water skiing championships tomorrow and Sunday on the Grand River in Lansing.

Hosner has won the men's slalom and trick skiing titles the past two years and added the men's all-round laurels to his list last year, also.

Messler is the defending two-time jumping champion. He went 98 feet last week at Lake Oakland but found stiff competition from Ray Doan of Owosso and Kurt Ramel of Lake Oakland Ski Club. Doan covered 100 feet.

WOMAN'S CHAMP

The defending state women's champion Donna Williams, also, is expected to return this summer. The action will be at the Lansing Boat Club, off U.S. 16, across from Francis Park.

In all there will be 28 events during the two days. Junior girls' slalom will begin the activity at 8 a.m. Saturday. Competition is slated to continue through 6 p.m. tomorrow and to resume at 8 a.m. Sunday.

A new class this year will be the novice men's and boys' slalom.

Entries will be accepted both days. Only competitors and members will be admitted to the boat club. Spectators can watch the action from the park.

Cosponsoring the meet are Michigan Water Skiing Association and the Capitol City Water Skiing Club.

League Leader Suffers Upset in City Action

Spencer Floor Falls to Town & Country in Overtime, 2-1

Town and Country Lounge scored a run in the eighth inning Thursday night at Beaudette Park and ended Spencer Floor Covering's winning ways with a 2-1 city men's softball upset.

The defeat was the first for the high-flying American League leader since mid-May but Spencer's (13-4) still holds a four-game bulge over Town and Country and Orchard Lanes.

Orchard Lanes trimmed Francis Fuel and Oil, 12-4, while Bob and Larry's Bar surprised Ron's Roost, 4-1, in the other AL games. A Slow-Pitch contest saw MGM Cleaners - Shales Lounge take a 13-9 decision from the Pontiac Press.

WINNER

Al Levy scampered home with the winning run for Town and Country. He singled after two were out, moved up on a hit batsman, then continued around when losing hurler Doug Hall uncorked two wild pitches.

Roger Reynolds held the hard-hitting Spencer lineup to four hits. Spencer's left four runners in scoring position in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings.

Bill DeRousse scattered four hits for Bob and Larry's, and Bob Smith cracked a two-run triple and scored on Jack Schwartz's single to feature a three-run first inning that decided the tilt.

COASTS

Orchard coasted to its win over Francis Fuel, scoring in every inning. Ron Nordquist blanked the losers in relief over the final four innings.

In the Slow Pitch contest, once-beaten MGM-Shales only led the once-victorious Pressmen, 5-4, after four innings, but a four-run fifth and three-run sixth padded the lead.

Fred Hansek, Ed Freeman and Tom Palmiter rapped three hits each for the winners with Freeman hitting a solo homer. Gary Page's three hits for The Press included a two-run blast and five runs batted in.

Former Champ Makes Title Bid

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Japan's Hiroyuki Ebihara, the former world flyweight champion, was rated an even-money shot to regain a share of the title tonight when he meets Horacio Accavallo of Argentina in the Luna Park Stadium.

Accavallo is recognized as the titleholder by the World Boxing Association and the World Boxing Council on the strength of his March 1 victory over Katsuyoshi Takayama of Japan.

* * *

Ebihara held the crown for four months, knocking out Pone Kingpetch of Thailand in 1963 and losing it to the Thai on a 15 round decision in 1964.

Tonight's bout was scheduled for 15 rounds and was expected to draw a capacity crowd of 25,000.

REPLACEMENT

The WBA and WBC declared the title vacant when Italy's Salvatore Burrini failed to defend it against Ebihara in the required time. Ebihara and Accavallo then were matched for the title, but the Japanese was replaced by Takayama after suffering an injured hand.

The other claimant of the 112-pound title is Walter McGowan of Scotland. He defeated Burrini in a match recognized as a title bout in Britain and Europe.

Waterford '9' Thumps Troy

Jay Nash's hitting and Jack McCloud's pitching helped Waterford thump Troy 11-1, Thursday in an American Legion Baseball District 18 League makeup game at Wisner Field.

Waterford thus cut its deficit to two games behind Farmington in the battle for first place. Walled Lake visits the Waterford nine on the Pontiac Northern diamond tonight.

Nash cracked a triple and two singles. South paw McCloud tossed a two-hitter and struck out seven in a row during one stretch. Waterford is now 13-5 on the campaign.

Aussie Tells Foibles of Prime Ministers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Holt of Australia has revealed a bit puckishly what fellow prime ministers in Britain have done in more relaxed moments, such as kicking off their shoes and chatting—or improving (?) on a Rembrandt.

Holt was guest of honor at a White House luncheon Thursday. Afterward in replying to a toast by President Johnson he was in a story-telling mood. He had come here Wednesday from London and conferences with Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

"Last Sunday night at Chequers," Holt related, "that historic establishment of British prime ministers, after his wife and mine had left us for the evening, he kicked his shoes off and lay down on a couch and for three hours we settled the problems of the world."

Holt said he told Wilson that Johnson had been so generous with him he felt that had he asked for it the President gladly would have given him the Statue of Liberty. He said Wilson asked him: "Why didn't you ask him for Ft. Knox?"

CONDUCTED TOUR

Earlier in the evening, the Australian visitor said, Wilson took him on a conducted tour of Chequers and along the way he saw a picture by Rembrandt illustrating the fable of "The Lion and the Mouse."

"It is a wonderful picture, of course, greatly celebrated and beautifully painted," Holt said.

When Winston Churchill was prime minister, Holt said, he used to study the Rembrandt.

"He was, as you know, an amateur painter," the prime minister said. "In fact, I think he was almost a professional painter by the fees he got toward the end . . ."

"Perhaps it was failing eyesight or Rembrandt had left something to the imagination. But he said, 'I cannot see the mouse.' So he painted in the mouse on the picture, and there it is. And so you have Rembrandt and Churchill on this particular picture."

Indiana Crash Kills 3, Hurts 5

NEW BUFFALO (AP)—Three men were killed and five others reported critically injured in a collision of two cars on M239 a half mile north of the Indiana state line Thursday night.

State Police said the cars collided head-on about 11 p.m.

Police identified the dead as Paul H. Choate, 42, of White Bluff, Tenn.; Elmore M. Moss, 56, of Calumet City, Ill., and William Bailey, 48, of Boyne City, Mich.

Officers said they could not determine immediately in which cars all the eight men were riding.

The two drivers, Robert F. Thompson, 49, of Omaha, Neb., and William F. Thron, of Palatine, Ill., were injured and hospitalized along with three Chicago men, Charles M. Sussman, 30; Louis H. Cirder and Bill Mueller (ages unknown).

EXPLOSIONS SHATTER PLANT—This is an air view of the Hercules Powder Co. plant three miles south of Carthage, Mo., wrecked by a series of explosions yesterday and another today after a truck caught fire while being loaded at a powder magazine. There were no known deaths although an estimated 50 people were injured.

Blasts Rip Powder Plant in Missouri

CARTHARGE, Mo (AP) — Another explosion ripped the Hercules Powder Co. plant near Carthage early today as demolition experts were preparing to inspect the already shattered plant.

It was the ninth blast at the sprawling, 1,200-acre plant since noon yesterday when shock waves reached Kansas City, 140 miles north, and Tulsa, 125 miles northwest.

The latest blast occurred shortly after 2 a.m. about one hour after a man was heard calling for help in the plant. A rescue party pulled out Maurice Crowell of Carthage.

Sheriff George Hickam said all of Crowell's clothing except his shoes were gone. The man was hospitalized in critical condition.

About 50 other persons were injured, most of them by flying glass as windows were smashed miles away.

A company spokesman set the replacement value of the plant at $6 million to $7 million, and estimated that 85 per cent of the plant was destroyed.

Police said at least 145 homes around the plant were destroyed or heavily damaged.

Robert Good, plant manager, said the rest of the employes on the job had been accounted for.

Three fires burned uncontrolled through the night. Good said one powder magazine was a hazard as long as the fires continued.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes called out the National Guard and residents in a three-mile radius were moved from their homes.

Record 114 Missions Boost Viet Air War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. jets brought the 17-month air war against North Viet Nam to a new high Thursday with a record 114 missions. Communist MIGs clashed with the American raiders four times.

During the day of furious action, U.S. Air Force and Navy jets also dodged surface-to-air missiles and reported knocking out a major bridge on the railroad line connecting Hanoi with Red China.

★ ★ ★

"It was a big day in the north," a U.S. spokesman said today.

In two encounters with MIGs near Hanoi, U.S. Air Force fighters shot down two late model MIG21s. These kills were announced within a few hours of the action, but the Navy disclosed today that three F8 Crusaders of the 7th Fleet aircraft carrier Oriskany were attacked by two MIG17s 26 miles southeast of Hanoi.

NEITHER PLANE DOWN

One MIG and one Crusader were damaged but neither plane went down, a spokesman said. The MIG was hit in the wing by cannon fire and the Crusader took hits in the wing and tail but made it back to the Criskany.

In a fourth encounter, also disclosed today, two MIG17s made a firing pass at a flight of F105 Air Force Thunderchiefs and then fled without scoring hits, a U.S. spokesman said. The Thunderchiefs were attacking a missile site about 40 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The U.S. spokesman said a flight of F4 Phantom jets from the carrier Ranger was fired upon by two ground-to-air missiles 30 miles southeast of Hanoi. He said the 36-foot long missiles exploded harmlessly well away from the U.S. planes.

Air Force F105 pilots reported destroying the Dap Cau railroad-highway bridge 19 miles northeast of Hanoi. The spokesman said aerial photographs showed the two center spans of the six-span steel bridge were dropped into the Cau River.

In South Viet Nam, ground action continued generally light except in the northern provinces, where American Marines clashed several times with Communist forces, including one hand to hand encounter.

HAND-TO-HAND

Seventy-five Viet Cong attacked a Marine outpost 10 miles south of Chu Lai before dawn with mortar and recoilless rifles. Eight to 10 Communists soldiers broke into the Marine perimeter during the two-hour battle but were driven off after hand-to-hand fighting, the spokesman reported.

★ ★ ★

Artillery barrages helped rebel the attackers Marines moving out after daylight counted eight enemy dead. The spokesman described Marine casualties as moderate.

★ ★ ★

Marine patrols spotted about 300 heavily armed Viet Cong moving through a mountain pass 20 miles south of Da Nang. The Marines called in nearly 400 rounds of artillery fire and directed rocket and napalm air strikes. And the Leathernecks later counted 30 enemy dead. The Marines suffered no casualties, a spokesman said.

Long-Distance Payoff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The traffic bureau here received a letter from Maj. Jack Mowry. In it were 1,420 Vietnamese piastres. The major said the money was equivalent to the $12 fine which the traffic bureau told him he owed for a violation.

Hollywood Notes

Durante's Life May Be Play

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene—

Jimmy Durante's life may be the next show business biography to appear on the Broadway stage. During a recent visit here, former MGM chief Dore Schary discussed with Durante and his agents his proposal for a musical play based on the comedian's earlier years.

THOMAS

Schary should know his subject; back in the 1930s he wrote gags for Durante's radio show.

If the stage biography succeeds, it will undoubtedly lead to a film version.

Now two James Bond movies are shooting at once. "Casino Royale," first of the Ian Fleming books which Charles Feldman bought before the Bondomania, is still filming in England after months of production. Unable to secure the services of Sean Connery, Feldman is having a series of stars impersonate Bond.

CONNERY ROLE

"You Only Live Twice" has also started filming in England, with Connery in his customary role. The company will shift to Japan later this summer.

The Bond producers commissioned Roald Dahl to write the "You Only Live Twice" script in six weeks; speed was necessary because of an unexpected shift of schedule. Dahl was well-qualified: he's a topnotch writer of suspense stories and was a good friend of the late Fleming.

Edward G. Robinson appeared in public for the first time since his accident and operation. He showed up at the "Torn Curtain" preview looking hale and hearty, and chortled over the line by an Iron Curtain thug who commented that a situation in the movie was "just like an Edward G. Robinson movie."

"Torn Curtain" turned out to be, as the master predicted, "Vintage Hitchcock." It's a welcome return to his suspense-and-chase films. And the bed scene of Julie Andrews and Paul Newman will indeed pop the eyes of the "Mary Poppins" fans.

* * *

Just back from visiting troops in Viet Nam, John Wayne is eager to film "The Green Berets." He'll get to it after he makes a Western for Universal.

Aid Program OK'd by House

GOP Effort to Limit, Cut Measure Beaten

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was authorized the administration's $3.3-billion two-year foreign aid program after beating back by two votes a Republican-led attempt to limit it to one year and slash it by $250 million.

The measure, authorized by a 237-146 vote, now goes to the Senate which is considering a one-year foreign aid bill. If the Senate approves the measure in that form, a House-Senate conference committee will be convened to work out the differences.

Actual funds depend on appropriations measures to be considered later.

Four Republicans teamed up with the bill's supporters to defeat 193 to 191 a motion to recommit the measure to the House Foreign Affairs Committee and cut the development loan fund from $1 billion to $750 million.

'SAVES MONEY'

Rep. Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., explained that he voted against the motion because "the longer term will save money and you need long-time planning."

"I've seen how aid works and I know this for a fact," Reid added. He is a former ambassador to Israel.

The other Republicans who voted against the motion were Reps. Joseph W. Martin Jr. and Silvio O. Conte of Massachusetts and Stanley R. Tupper of Maine.

* * *

Approval of the two-year authorization was a reversal of the usual House stand in favor of single-year aid programs.

The nine-section bill would authorize a two-year period for all programs except the Alliance for Progress and Development Loan Fund, which would carry five-year terms as in the past.

HOT DOG — The heat wave still enveloping the lower parts of the Midwest and the South really has the residents' tongues hanging out. A typical reaction is displayed by Quincy, 150-pound St. Bernard pet of Mr. and Mrs. Casey Wagenvoord of Richmond, Ind.

Current Books

THAT GREAT PATTILLO. By Joseph E. Garland. Little, Brown. $6.50.

One man's biography is the framework for this story, which really is about seafaring, and especially that legendary center of the fishing industry, Gloucester.

The young Pattillo was a roaring roughneck from Nova Scotia, son of a Scottish pioneer. He went to sea when he was 11 and was master of his own vessel when he was 14½.

The story is about Pattillo's exploits for 30 years as one of the best masters in the Gloucester fishing fleets, in the days when cod, halibut and mackerel were caught on handlines, and salted right on the deck; the days when gales and storms created terrible havoc among the sailing vessels.

This is a lusty adventure story about the man who went down to the sea in ships.

SUBPOENA, by Irwin Stark (New American Library $5.95).

A rough, tough novel about a rough, tough game — politics.

The time is the 1950s and Sen. Mike Malloy is riding high with his technique of parading witnesses before his investigations committee and hounding them with questions designed to link them with communism.

The story is told by Chris Durant, a young ex-private eye now on the senator's payroll.

The senator sends Durant to his home town ostensibly to gather material for a biography. Durant is rebuffed on every hand by neighbors and relatives unwilling to talk about his boss' past, but Durant's hound-dog instincts are challenged and he probes on and on until he unearths a rank kettle of fish.

* * *

Stark researched the records of the McCarthy era and interviewed people who had known the senator from Wisconsin to get the material on which the book is based.

HIROHITO, EMPEROR OF JAPAN, by Leonard Mosley (Prentice-Hall $7.95). A biography which indicates that the Japanese emperor could have prevented the raid on Pearl Harbor, and desperately wanted to, but didn't know how.

From talks with the emperor's wartime advisers, Mosley, a British author, concludes that Hirohito himself now believes that had he only been stimulated into trying, had he only realized how really powerful was his influence for peace, he would and he could have turned his nation away from war.

"American historians seem to be convinced that Hirohito never had a chance. If he had insisted as his divine prerogative, that his ministers make concessions and thus secure peace, he would —they say — have been arrested and his brother, Prince Chichibu, installed as regent, with the crown prince nominated as emperor in his place.

Most Japanese privately remark that this is nonsense. Chichibu was even more hostile to the war with the West than his brother, and neither mentally, physically nor emotionally prepared to usurp Hirohito."

Inventories for Trade, Manufacturing Climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Manufacturing and trade inventories climbed by $1.4 billion during May to a seasonally adjusted total of $125.5 billion, the Commerce Department reported Thursday. Lagging auto sales that month contributed to the buildup.

Inventories increased by about $1 billion during each of the three preceding months.

Hot U.S. Areas May Cool Off

By The Associated Press

A slow-moving cold front offered a glimmer of hope today to areas blistering under a lengthy heat wave, especially in the parched Midwest and South.

* * *

In St. Louis and surrounding areas, where 124 heat-attributed deaths have been recorded since last Friday, the Weather Bureau has predicted the seventh straight day of temperatures of 100 degrees or more.

* * *

There was a slight chance, however, that a mass of cool air about 150 miles north of St. Louis might drop down into the area.

* * *

New England slipped out of the grip of a two-day heat wave Thursday, with the temperature dropping into the 80s and 70s. The forecast is for continued relatively cool weather.

RECORD READINGS

In Denver, a high of 84 snapped a 12-day string of 90-plus readings, just one day shy of the 1878 record of 13 straight days over 90. The highest reading in the 12 days was 98.

Baltimore has had nine successive days in the 90s.

* * *

New York's acting governor, Malcolm Wilson, has asked the Agriculture Department to declare Jefferson and Lewis Counties in the northern part of the state, drought disaster areas. It was 95 degrees in New York City Thursday.

* * *

The 100-degree heat covered the southern half of the nation Thursday from the desert Southwest to the Atlantic Seaboard. But a large mass of cold air over the Great Lakes region is drifting slowly southward and eastward.

CLASH OF AIR

The clash of cool and hot air produced a belt of thunderstorms from the Mid-Atlantic Coast westward to the Rockies. Heavy rain fell in some areas.

Of the 124 deaths in the St. Louis area, 85 were in the city alone. Helen L. Taylor, city coroner, said most victims were elderly and highly susceptible to prolonged periods of heat.

Tropical storm Celia, located about 900 miles east southeast of Miami, is moving toward the west northwest at about 14 m.p.h., but is not considered a threat to any land area for the next 24 to 48 hours.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 48 at Marquette, Mich., to 90 at Phoenix, Ariz., and Blythe, Calif.

Tourist Industry Equals Weather With Torrid Pace

HOLLAND (AP)—The weather is hot but the Michigan tourist industry is hotter, according to the chairman of the Michigan Tourist Council.

Wesley Tebeau, speaking at a monthly meeting here Thursday night, said the state's travel business is well ahead of last year's record pace despite an estimated $3.5 million loss last winter.

* * *

"There appears to be little doubt that vacation travel expenditures this year will be in excess of $1 billion compared to an estimated $960 million last year," he said.

Tebeau said requests for Tourist Council travel planning information were up 11 per cent from last year. According to the Automobile Club of Michigan, he said, highway traffic in the state rose some 9 per cent over 1965.

'Michigan Has Enough Power'

Official: No Fear of Heat Wave Shortage

LANSING (AP) — All those air-conditioners running full tilt won't result in any shortages in Michigan's power supply, although use of electricity has gone up at least 12 per cent, a state official said today.

St. Louis, Mo., and sections of Nebraska have faced power shortages as a result of the heat wave, and St. Louis is using a "rotating intentional blackout" system to conserve power.

"Air-conditioning and coolant systems have increased the power demand by at least 12½ per cent in Michigan metropolitan areas," said Peter Spivak, chairman of the Michigan Public Service Commission.

But, he said, "Our energy production and transmission system has met the increased demand for power comfortably without calling on reserves. There is additional electric energy availble through our interconnections with Canada, should we need it."

* * *

Spivak said there is no indication power from Canada would be needed, though.

FUTURE BASIS

The chairman said he planned to use the present peak demand for electricity as a basis to study Michigan's future power needs.

* * *

"I have requested members of the Electric Power Capacity and Reliability Advisory Committee to report to me by telegram the extent of abnormal added loads placed upon Michigan electric utilities because of the heat wave and to advise me immediately of any significant failures of service resulting from this situation," he said.

Spivak created the committee last December after the major blackout in the northeastern United States and parts of Canada.

* * *

He said the present situation reaffirms the committee's report that Michigan power companies had adequate capacity and safeguards to minimize the possibility of a blackout in the state.

Basic Communication Skills to Be Emphasized in 1970s

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.

The communication skills that are basic to learning may have been neglected in the past but they certainly will not be in the 1970s.

DR. NASON

Almost 60 per cent of the projects under Title II of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 provided remedial work in communication skills — reading, writing and listening. Speaking must be added to these three.

In my own experience, I have found that lack of communication is the most frequent cause of underachievement. Unsually it is not the skill of the teacher that is at fault but the listening skill of the pupil.

Often, communication in the classroom can be re-established with a few sessions in which the student has as opportunity to discuss the subject matter. Talking about the subject increases his ability to gain understanding through listening.

* * *

The successful use of the speaking-listening method in the introduction of foreign language in elementary schools has pointed up the fact that pupils learn to read faster after they have learned to speak. This is true of English as well as a foreign language.

PRESENT TREND

The present trend, especially in experimental programs, is to give pre-school and kindergarten children ample opportunity to practice the correct use of English.

In Head Start programs parents were asked to cooperate on this, and teachers' helpers were provided to allow more individual discussions with pupils. Thus, the ability to talk and to express a thought clearly is taking its place with the 3Rrs., and becoming the fourth fundamental skill.

The use of high school and college students to assit the underprivileged has been found to help both the pupil and the tutor, since each gets practice in communication.

The introduction of language laboratories in which each student has an opportunity to express himself in a situation in which half of the conversation has been recorded previously on tape gives students the opportunity for expression not possible in large classes.

TEACHING MACHINE

Teaching machines utilize the principle that the student must continually formulate and express ideas and are, consequently, more efficient than passive reading.

Even the best instructions for study-reading involve a step in which a student stops at the end of each section of material and expresses the ideas in his own words.

Taxpayers Are Reluctant

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Jornal do Brasil reports that American technicians trying to help Brazil improve its tax collection system have set themselves an ambitious goal; to convince the recalcitrant taxpayer that paying taxes is a good thing.

Their main target is going to be professionals who apparently are most loath to declare their income.

* * *

The paper says audit of 40 doctors' returns showed that only four declared taxable income. The others claimed to be penniless.

Readers Survey

Jobless Negroes—What's Being Done

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The Associated Press has just completed a survey in which newspaper readers were asked what interested or troubled them most about the world. A series of readers' questions were taken from the poll. This article about Negro employment gains is one of several dealing with those questions.)

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — What's the government done to open employment opportunities for Negroes?

"There is no more ugly and urgent crisis facing this nation today than the economic security of Negro Americans. Negro unemployment is of disaster proportions."

That was the consensus of the recent White House Conference On Civil Rights. It called for sweeping action by government and business to ease one of the nation's most painful racial problems.

At the same time, the Labor Department reported that Negroes have gained substantial ground in employment over the past decade. But it cautioned that they might lose most of it in the next decade unless they won a bigger share of skilled and white-collar jobs.

SEVERAL FRONTS

The federal government has moved on several fronts to combat not only the problem of jobless Negroes but also the equally serious dilemma of Negroes employed below their levels of skill and education.

Yet two years after the passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, no one is prepared to translate those federal efforts into meaningful figures of newly employed — or better employed — Negroes.

★ ★ ★

Here, nevertheless, is the scope of the federal effort:

The 1964 act established an Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) and charged it with investigating complaints of job discrimination and securing voluntary compliance with nondiscrimination standards by employers.

EXEMPTIONS

Beginning this summer, exemptions will be limited to those employing fewer than 75 persons. But for the first year, the law has applied to only 1.75 per cent of the nation's employers.

As of mid-May, the commission has received 7,060 complaints in its first year of life. It has investigated 3,074 of these but closed fewer than 100 cases. It has recorded successful conciliations in 70 cases against 28 employers, obtaining full-compliance agreements. And it was unsuccessful or only partially successful in 25 cases against 8 employers.

★ ★ ★

In its biggest effort, the commission hammered out an agreement with Virginia's largest employer, the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dryduck Co., after 41 Negro employes had complained to Washington.

The result — considered a model by EEOC officials — was an agreement whereby an outside expert approved by the company and the commission would evaluate jobs and pay rates to determine whether Negroes were getting equal treatment. If not, the agreement calls for changes to make the treatment equal.

MORE POWER

Legislation passed by the House and being considered by the Senate would give the commission more power, in the form of authority to issue cease-and-desist orders against employers. And it would drastically increase the jurisdiction of the law so that all employers of more than eight persons would be covered.

Money talks, and the power of the dollar was wielded last fall in an executive order in which President Johnson authorized the secretary of labor to insure compliance with nondiscrimination requirements in billions of dollars worth of federal contracts.

The Labor Department's Office of Contract Compliance, created shortly after the order had been signed, recently held its first round of informal hearings with some 30 contractors whose practices had come under question.

About half a dozen of these will be informed soon that they no longer will be permitted to do business with the government, a department official said. The secretary of labor has the authority to cancel any existing contracts when noncompliance is found.

Hospital Faces Loss of Medicare

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — A federal team planned another inspection today of the Neshoba County General Hospital and its qualifications for Medicare. The decision may determine whether 23 elderly white patients stay.

★ ★ ★

Lamar G. Salter, administrator of the town's only public hospital, said two U.S. Public Health Service inspectors said they would return today for another check after inspecting the hospital Thursday.

★ ★ ★

He said the inspectors asked that the hospital keep the patients for another 24 hours but refused to tell him if a decision would be available by then.

Salter told 25 patients Thursday to prepare to leave or make arrangements to pay because the hospital had not been approved for Medicare — the federal medical program for the elderly.

GOES HOME

After the ultimatum, a white man, Walter Barrett, 67, went home by ambulance. His Negro roommate made arrangements to stay on a paying basis.

Salter said 23 other white patients were "subject to be moved anytime. I won't force any patient to leave unless the doctor on the case gives permission to travel."

★ ★ ★

He said those put out would probably be taken to a state charity hospital in Meridian, 38 miles to the southeast.

Salter contends the hospital integrated its facilities July 1 for Medicare participation. The government says the hospital failed to met the civil rights requirements on several inspections.

★ ★ ★

In Washington, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said the inspection team was directed to expedite its findings so the department could determine the hospital's Medicare status.

Wilson Pushing for Hard Steps to Curb Inflation, Hike Exports

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Cabinet is debating a wage freeze, higher sales taxes and cuts in defense spending as it casts about for the next step in its campaign to halt Britain's galloping inflation and to boost sales abroad.

By resorting to such classic weapons against consumer spending, the Labor government may be forced to cut back some of its cherished social programs. It will also risk factory shutdowns and considerable unemployment, thereby giving Britons a distasteful dose of austerity after a long period of rising wages and heavy buying of everything from cars to package vacations.

★ ★ ★

Wilson, a former Oxford economics professor, apparently believes any or all of these hard steps may be necessary to save the ailing pound from devaluation. In the past 18 months, wages have risen 15 per cent, retail prices 5 per cent but production only 2 per cent.

The country has been enjoying high prosperity, but the accompanying spending on the home market has kept imports up and exports down. This has been a steady drain on Britain's foreign exchange reserves.

Wilson decreed a nationwide financial squeeze Thursday by hiking the Bank of England's basic interest rate from 6 to 7 per cent. He tightened credit further by doubling to 2 per cent the portion of their assets banks are required to keep on deposit with the Bank of England.

CIA Work Is Secret Talk Topic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The concrete headquarters of the Central Intelligence Agency are nestled in the wooded hills of Virginia, eight miles from Washington. Here, in a rustic setting, are planned cloak and dagger operations.

Here, also, is gathered, assembled and analyzed the information—military, economic, political, industrial, scientific — that the United States uses to guide its steps in a perilous world.

★ ★ ★

The business of espionage and secret operations has been described by Secretary of State Dean Rusk as a "tough struggle going on in the back alleys all over the world."

It is also so sensitive the Senate took the unusual step Thursday of clearing the galleries of press and public, and locking its doors for 3½ hours to wrangle over the Senate's supervision of the CIA.

MOVE NECESSARY

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield felt the locked-door precaution was necessary lest some "rumors and hearsay" be spilled out in the heat of debate and damage both the CIA and the United States.

The issue was the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's attempt, through a resolution, to put three of its members on the present CIA watchdog subcommittee, headed by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee. Sen J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., heads the foreign relations group.

Arguing that his committee be given a role in overseeing CIA activities, Fulbright contended the intelligence agency is a major force affecting U.S. foreign policy.

Indoor Gardening—Hydroponic Way

A revolutionary new indoor gardening unit that grows all flowers and plants without soil without hand-watering, and without tending is now available by mail order from Hydroponics Corporation of America, 730 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10019.

(Hydoponics Corporation of America, the world's largest commercial hydroponic growers has developed and managed large-scale hydroponic farms for over a decade.

Hydroponic farms in Florida, Puerto Rico and Aruba, N.W.I., have been growing bumper crops of fruits, vegetables and flowers for many years now.

This decorator planter grows plants in a mineral solution — not in soil. In place of soil a bed of sterile, inert pebbles supports the root systems of plants grown in the unit.

* * *

A battery-operated pump transports the mineral solution from a separate reservoir concealed in the base of the planter and percolates it through the pebble bed, thereby feeding the root systems.

AUTOMATIC

Encased in polished hardwood and textured brass, this decorator garden unit is the first automatic indoor planter to work on the hydroponic principle.

Hydroponic Gardening Unit

Hydroponics is the rapidly developing science of growing plants without soil.

Concealed below the planter basin — which holds plants and the supporting pebble medium —is the 4½-quart reservoir containing the nutrient solution. This solution consists of water and dissolved natural minerals in the precise proportions found in excellent earth.

* * *

The solution is, in fact, "liquid soil." A four-month supply of this soluble mineral mix, called Vitalizer, is included in the purchase of the unit.

More packets are available at minimal cost to owners of the unit from Hydroponics Corporation of America.

One quart of water and dissolved Vitalizer is added to the fund of liquid in the reservoir once a week. An easy to read gauge attached to the funnel through which the solution is poured indicates the nutrient level in the reservoir.

Once a day, an electric switch on the back of the unit is flipped to "on" for about a minute, and the day's supply of nutrients are pumped from reservoir to growing bed.

ONE MINUTE

After a minute, the switch is flipped off again, and excess solution automatically returns to the reservoir. No valves are required for this: an ingenious feature, patent pending, of the hydroponic planter.

Because the pump operates for only one minute each day, the life of the batteries which run it is extremely long. And because they are ordinary flashlight batteries, replacing them will be no problem in years to come.

The sterile supporting medium used, a form of mica pebble, is a major reason why plants flourish in the hydroponic box. This material has excellent water-absorption and water-retention properties. The nutrient fluid pumped from reservoir to planter basin is caught and held by the mica beads in amounts sufficient to nourish — but not over-feed — the plantings.

* * *

Sufficient amounts of the fluid are held to prevent weekend worries about the plants it holds.

Unlike dirt, which tends to cake, harden, halt drainage and impede root growth, this mica material remains loose and porous, allowing roots to breathe. Water and minerals circulate freely among the mica beads.

The supporting medium is kept homogeneously moist — no dry spots, and no saturated spots. Maximum absorption of plant nutrients by all roots and unimpeded growth of root structure are the results.

* * *

Also, the use of sterile supporting medium in place of soil prevents contamination of plants by soil-borne diseases. Diseased roots and stems caused by such infections are entirely eliminated.

Further, the straggly, stunted look of the majority of indoor plants does not occur. Over-fertilization is also avoided: Burned—out roots resulting from periodic large doses of tablet or liquid plant food do not happen with the hydroponic unit.

Instead, a perfectly balanced daily supply of nutrients are pumped to the roots for the healthist possible growth of foliage and flower.

The hydroponic planter is lightweight, cordless, and portable. Want to move your gardenias from the coffee table to give your guests more saucer-room?

* * *

Or want to move your miniature roses from kitchen counter to night table for a fragrant Sunday morning? The decorator box lifts with ease, in one piece —It requires no ugly spill dish placed below it.

The hydroponic planter — 2 feet long, 7 inches wide, 8 inches deep — is formed from a single textured brass plate which wraps around to form front, bottom, and back. The two sides of the box are solid polished hardwood.

The planter basin, which composes the upper portion of the garden box and holds plants and supporting pebble medium, and the concealed reservoir are made of sturdy, pliant plastic.

* * *

The planter basin is ribbed for extra strength. Both basin and reservoir are fully waterproof and are not affected by the mineral solution they hold.

LIGHT IMPORTANT

For purchasers who expect to place the hydroponic planter where there is inadequate light, the company offers a lighting fixture especially designed for the unit by Sylvania.

The adjustable fixture can be raised as the plants grow in height.

Included with the fixture are two specifically engineered fluorescent tubes emitting red and blue light waves — simulating sunshine — which encourage the manufacture of chlorophyll by the plants' leaf structure.

The cost of lamp fixture and fluorescent tubes is $19.85 complete.

Garden Gives Way to Cure Plumbing

Toddlers in a Sunday School class at Wichita's First Presbyterian church here started a garden under their classroom window this Spring.

The wonder of young lettuce and radish plants developing provided a weekly topic for the class until the Sunday before the harvest.

Then the youngsters found that someone had dug up their garden to install some plumbing for the church.

Harvest Day Is Predictable

A pair of Michigan State University scientists have figured out how to predict the best possible tomato harvesting dates more than 50 days in advance.

They simply measure the tomato plant's stem growth with a caliper gauge, a device for determining diameter.

Max E. Austin, a horticulture extension agent in Macomb county, and Stanley K. Ries, MSU horticulturist, report that individual tomato varieties are consistently ready for harvest within a definite period after stems stop enlarging.

The stem growth measurement technique is accurate for predicting maximum yield dates within three days 89 per cent of the time and within five days 100 per cent of the time.

To make these findings, the researchers began measuring tomato stems as soon as the plants were transplanted in the field and then every week thereafter. They noted that after a few weeks the diameter of the stems stopped enlarging.

TIME SAME

Then they found that the number of days from the time stem enlargement ceases to the best harvest date was always the same (within three to five days) for a given variety — regardless of the year or place it was grown in the Midwest.

The MSU scientists point out that this basic information will allow processors to predict harvest dates well in advance.

While the number of days between the time tomato plant stems stop enlarging and the date of maximum yield was the same for a given variety, the Austin-Ries experiments revealed differences of almost two weeks from one variety to another.

For example, the researchers found that the Fireball tomato variety reaches its date of maximum yield 55 days after plant stems stop enlarging. For the Heinz 1370 variety, this period is 64 days.

Other varieties and the number of days needed to achieve maximum yields after stem enlargement stops were as follows: Heinz 1350, 54 days; Libby C-52, 56 days; and Campbell 1327, 51 days.

Here's Way to Beat Yellow Jackets' Sting

If yellow jackets are putting a sting into your summer, try keeping a pan of soap or detergent suds in the yard.

It seems that yellow jackets are attracted to the suds and fall into the water — leaving your home's "sitting out" area safe from stings.

Give House Plants Summer Vacation

Summertime's warm and sunny climate, coupled with cooling breezes, signal vacation time for nearly everyone. This year, why not give your house plants a vacation too?

The best way to do this is to plunge your plants into good garden soil. "Plunging" simply means that your favorite house plants are buried in the soil up to the rims of their red clay pots.

For your plants to get the most from their summertime plunge, they must be in red clay pots. Unglazed clay pots, unlike other house plant containers, are porous.

This porosity permits cooling air to reach plant roots, and allows excess water and harmful salts to leach out through pot walls.

A cool root system, the right amount of moisture in the soil, stronger sunlight and good ventilation are all the ingredients for healthy plant growth.

GROW FASTER

And because your plants will undoubtedly grow faster outdoors, it's a good idea to consider repotting them for their summer plunge.

In repotting, choose a clay pot one size larger than the pot that now holds each plant. Invert the plant, and give the old pot a rap on the bottom.

The plant and its earthball should fall out in your hand.

* * *

Then, place an inch or so of pebbles or broken pieces of pot in the new container, followed by an inch or more of new potting soil. Put the plant and its rootball in the new clay pot, and fill in the space around the sides with new soil too.

Add soil to the top until it is level with the lower portion of the rim. Then water well and add more soil to even off what has washed into crevices. Pack down firmly with your fingers.

Before using a new clay pot it's advisable to soak the pot for several hours in water.

This way the porous walls will have absorbed all the water they will hold before you transplant.

CHECK SUN

In selecting plunging spots for your house plants outdoors, remember that tropical foliage plants don't like direct sun, while many flowering plants do.

Choose spots in your garden that have workable, well-drained soil. Dig the hole for each plant a bit deeper than the pot's depth, and fill in the bottom of the hole with two inches of pebbles.

This will insure adequate drainage in the heaviest rain.

Keep the rim of the pot above ground so that soil can't wash into the pot. Give each pot a half turn weekly to insure even growth.

By the time fall weather rolls around, you'll have house plants with greener leaves and stronger stems, and with a reserve strength to help carry them through the winter months indoors.

Vermiculite Conditions Flower Bed Soil

Improve the quality of your flower beds by conditioning the soil with the mineral vermiculite.

A mixture of one part horticultural vermiculite worked into two parts soil will provide better aeration and moisture retention, increasing root growth and strength.

Trade Is Moderate

Stock Market Holding Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market held a gain early this afternoon in moderate trading.

Wall Street was still showing no particular concern about rising interest rates. In fact, an advance in the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Board was generally expected because it would be in line with rates already put into effect by bankers.

Second quarter earnings were bright enough to stimulate some buying. This lacked enthusiasm, however, and pre-weekend caution was apparent once more.

Some of the glamour issues tacked on 2 or 3 points — routine moves for these high steppers.

The airlines were weak at the start because of the impasse reported in strike negotiations but some of them came back to the plus side later.

SOLID GAINS

A scattering of key stocks posted solid enough gains to push the averages ahead. The over-all list, however, was no better than irregularly higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 321.2 with industrials up .9, rails unchanged and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.45 at 890.25, a bit below its best reading in the morning.

Prices rose in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Walter Kidde preferred rose 3 points.

Catch Fugitive in Wisconsin

Posse Nabs Suspect in Abduction of Girl

BLUE MOUNDS, Wis. (AP) — A posse hunting for a man who abducted a southern Wisconsin farm girl Thursday captured the fugitive today shortly after he had showed up at another farm and terrorized the family there firing a shot at one person.

About 40 officers who had been combing a heavily wooded area about a mile from the W. J. Showers farm, on the Dane County-Iowa County line, glimpsed the man in a tangle of trees.

* * *

Moments later, Sheriff's Capt. Earl Sorenson's voice came over a walkie-talkie radio to Dane County Sheriff Jack Leslie.

"We've got him," the captain said.

* * *

The gunman, believed by authorities to be the same man who held Joann Kundert, 15, hostage for two hours Thursday before releasing her unharmed when his car stalled, disappeared into the woods shortly before 7 a.m. today.

REPORTS INCIDENT

Showers, 72, who works the farm with his two sons, Eugene, 52, and Leslie, 47, telephoned Dane County Sheriff Vernon Leslie to report the shooting incident. The farm is located about two miles from the site where a car used in the Monticello abduction was abandoned.

Showers said the gunman had come up behind Eugene in the barn, stuck a gun in his back, and said "I want breakfast." The two went into the house and Showers gave the man a cup of coffee.

* * *

The abduction of Miss Kundert came to a happy ending Thursday when the blonde farm girl walked to the porch of a neighbor's home and told the startled daughter of its owner, "I want to go home."

Taylor Jr. (left) listens as master builder Charles Langs lists the merits of the 104 new units in the Bloomfield Townhouse Cooperative on Woodward and East Boulevard. Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I have accumulated five thousand shares of Sunbeam Corp. I inherited two thousand shares on which the price was established at 41¼. The stock now sells higher. While Sunbeam is a good growth issue, the yield currently is only 1.9 per cent. My income is based largely on this holding so I am considering switching the two thousand inherited shares into other stocks and bonds. What do you advise?" D. C.

A) I believe very strongly in diversifying your holdings — in having no more invested in a given issue than you can afford to lose. With $260,000 committed to Sunbeam, and apparently with little else in the way of investments, you are certainly vulnerable. I like the stock, which represents excellent management and has shown a fine record of growth in the appliance industry, but I advise you to diversify the risk present in all stocks by selling 2000 shares.

For reinvestment, I suggest Commonwealth Edison; Consolidated Foods; Cities Service; Borden Co.; National Biscuit; Kendall Company; American Telephone 5⅛s of 1996 selling around 98; Pacific Gas & Electric ⅜s of 1998 at a fractional premium. I also advise holding a good cash reserve.

* * *

Q) "I bought Consolidated Edison at the market through my bank. The bank charged my account for this stock on April 28. The stock went ex-dividend May third. I never received the payment made in June. Am I not entitled to this dividend?" E. C.

A) If the bank bought stock for you for regular payment on April 28, when your account was charged, I believe you should have received the dividend. The payment was made to holders of record May 6. The Exchange rule is that those who buy stocks for regular payment are entitled to the dividend if purchase is made at least four business days prior to the record date.

I would discuss this with an officer of your bank.

The Bloomfield Townhouses will accommodate the overflow from the FCH Pontiac Townhouse Cooperative in downtown Pontiac, according to Stanley Sheehan, assistant vice president and sales manager of the FCH company.

Sheehan, who is also official sales representative for the Bloomfield Cooperative, added that the new development, built by Charles L. Langs, was largely modeled on responses to the Pontiac Cooperative.

Interest Rate Fight Moves Into Politics

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

DAWSON

NEW YORK — The interest rate war has swung into the field of politics. It now lines up the easy money army against the tight money forces in both the administration and the Congress, the housing and lumber industries against the big banks, and to a degree the financial institutions against the federal government's fiscal authorities.

As if all this wasn't scrambled enough, the interest rate war in the United States has some international repercussions. The U.S. dollar and the English pound sterling are linked to a large degree as international trade settlement currencies. And rising interest rates declared Thursday in London will have some effect on the tight money market in the United States.

* * *

At home the quarrel between the financial institutions and the government is brought to a head by Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler's suggestion that the Congress check the growing interest rate war between the banks and the savings and loans associations.

The quarrel is largely this: the banks say that the high interest rates fostered by the monetary authorities (primarily the Federal Reserve Board) has been designed to curb inflation and keep an exuberant business boom from becoming a runaway one.

BANK CHARGE

But the banks charge that the monetary authorities are being made to carry all the load and the fiscal authorities none of it. The fiscal measures to control inflation would include either cutting government spending or raising federal taxes, or both. Government spending seems more likely to expand than to recede. And the administration hasn't asked for a tax increase, nor is Congress thought likely to be in the mood to vote one in an election year.

Until now the interest rate war has been between the commercial banks on the one hand, (especially the big ones in the major financial centers) and the mutual savings banks and the savings and loan associations on the other.

* * *

Step by step they have been raising the amounts of interest or dividends they will pay. The object: to lure savers into entrusting money to this or the other type of institution. The reason: the growing demand for loans of all kinds has left the banks short of lendable funds.

And as savings were lured to the banks by higher interest rates, or into the bond market by higher yields, savings and loans associations have become short of funds to meet the demand for mortgages or to lend to the construction industry while it is building new houses. This mortgage fund shortage is one of the reasons home building has declined. And the drop in building activity is now hurting the lumber industry and others that supply the builders.

RAISE RATES

The associations and the mutual savings banks who also finance mortgages have been raising the dividend rates they pay depositors, trying to keep pace with, or a step ahead, of the commercial banks.

Neither the banks nor the associations are probably all that eager to reward depositors for their virtues as savers. But the financial institutions do need lendable funds, and as long as the monetary authorities keep credit fairly tight, the savers will benefit from the war.

* * *

Unless, that is, the Congress acts on the Treasury's suggestion that legal limits be put on the size of interest rates.

Or the inflation and economic overheating threats fade away and credit is made easy again, and the demand for loans subsides.

The convention devised by Bobby Wolff provides a way for a player to respond with a very weak hand and get off the hook if the opener's rebid is a jump to two no-trump.

JACOBY

When South rebid at three clubs he was using the Wolff convention. North's rebid to three diamonds was the required call and if South had continued to three spades North would have passed.

However, South rebid to three no-trump. This bid conveyed the message that South could have gone directly to three no-trump over two.

Thus, North realized that South's club bid was in the nature of a mild slam try. North looked over his hand and saw that he held perfect cards for a slam opposite a club suit.

North went to four clubs as an extra check to see if his partner did have clubs. North was an expert as was South and experts always are careful with their partner's club bids.

When South went to five clubs North knew that South held a club suit. His five heart bid was a mild effort to get to a grand slam but South was glad to settle for six.

The slam contract was a good one. South won the heart opening, drew trumps and went after spades.

When the spade suit broke South was able to discard one heart and two diamonds from dummy. Then he took the diamond finesse. Had it worked, he would have made seven.

The slam would probably have been easier to bid without the Wolff convention but, as we pointed out yesterday, the Wolff convention is certainly meant for use by strong partnerships.

What do you do?

A—Bid five hearts. Your partner is trying for a slam and showing second round spade control. You have already shown your full strength and should sign off in hearts where the hand is going to play.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding one heart after your club opening your partner responds one spade. What do you do?

Britain Registered Two Less Murders

LONDON (AP) — Britain last year had two less murders than the year before despite the abolition of capital punishment, Home Secretary Roy Jenkins announced Thursady night.

There were 153 murders in 1965 and 155 in 1964. Parliament abolished hanging as the punishment for murder in the middle of 1965, but no executions took place earlier in the year because the abolition was expected.

Schools in Lansing Called Segregated

LANSING (AP) — "Lansing has segregated schools. However painful the admission, we cannot begin until we recognize the situation as it is," a Lansing citizens' committee reports.

In a report to the Lansing Board of Education, now under study by the board, the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Educational Opportunity cited schools with a Negro population as high as 86 per cent.

It commended the board for its program of transporting a number of Negro elementary pupils to various primarily white elementary schools during the last school year.

Graham Talks on Race Woes

'More Understanding in South Than North'

MOUNTLAUREL, N.J. (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham said yesterday "Progress toward racial understanding is much greater in the South than it is in the North."

"I think the South has a basis for solutions to their problems, but I don't see a solution to Northern problems in the foreseeable future," he said.

The evangelist made his comments during an interview here en route to his home in Monteat, N.C.

* * *

He said there is "understanding and friendship between the races" in the South.

FRIENDS

"You see, the Southern white and the Southern Negro know each other and are friends," he said. "In the North there isn't nearly as much contact between the races as there is in the South."

The religious leader said the civil rights problem will not be resolved until the whites and Negroes decided to truly love God.

"I don't think there is an ultimate solution until the love of God dominates the heart of people of both races," he said.

* * *

"I think it's primarily a problem of the hearts of the people."

2 SS Officers Get Life for Killing Jews

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI) — Two former SS officers were sentenced to life imprisonment today for the mass murder of Jews at Tarnopol in eastern Galicia during World War II.

Five other defendants received prison terms ranging from 2½ to 10 years each for complicity in the murder of Jews. Three others were acquitted.

Their trial lasted nine months, during which 128 witnesses from all over the world testified against the diendants. Former SS Maj. Herman Mueller, 57, and former SS Capt. Paul Raebel, 60, were given life sentences.

Mueller was convicted of murdering eight persons and of 11 cases of complicity in the slaughter of 1,890 Jews. Raebel was found guilty of the murder of 17 persons.

The long trial thus closed the case of the mass murders at Tarnopol, where an estimated 20,000 persons — mostly Jews — were killed by Security Service commando units.

Officer Killed in Clash Over Traffic Case

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One policeman was killed and another seriously wounded when they stopped an auto during a routine patrol in South Philadelphia today.

Other policemen converged on the area and threw up a huge dragnet for three men seen fleeing on foot.

At least one man was arrested when he climbed to a roof and then jumped and officers caught him.

Lt. James Agnew said the shooting occurred when patrolmen Michael Robinson and George Jacobs stopped an auto, "either for a traffic violation or because they were suspicious of it."

SHOT IN SIDE

He said Robinson got out of the patrol car and as he walked to the other vehicle he was shot in the side. He staggered back to the police car and blurted out a radio call for help as Jacobs went after the trio. Jacobs was shot in the chest and killed said Agnew.

The lieutenant said the men drove about a block and then hit a wall and then they fled on foot.

(C) Volkswagen of America, Inc.

Introducing a used car guarantee without any "you pay half, we pay half" nonsense.

Most used car dealers sell their cars with 50-50 guarantees. You know the deal: if anything goes wrong, you pay half the cost of parts and labor. And they do the same.

Well, our guarantee doesn't work that way.

When we guarantee a car, we guarantee the repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles. There's no charge for parts. Labor. Anything.

How can we do this? Easy.

We fix the things that need fixing before we give them the guarantee. These used cars, for instance. They've all passed a tough, 16-point safety and performance test. They're reconditioned and ready to roll.

A car with a 100% guarantee costs no more in the beginning. And won't drive you to the poorhouse in the end.

Driver Classes Gets Tougher

LANSING (AP)—Records of license suspensions for the first six months of this year show that Michigan's driver improvement officers are getting tougher, Secretary of State James Hare said Thursday.

Cancellations, revocations, suspensions and other actions totaled more than 24,500, he said, up sharply from the 16,000 in the first half of 1965 and 13,000 in the first half of 1964.

Driver improvement officers held nearly 33,500 hearings, compared to 26,800 for the comparable period in 1965 and 20,800 in 1964.

With the increase in tougher actions, Hare said, the number of State License Appeal Board hearings has risen from about 4,000 in the first half of 1964 and 4,500 in the first half of 1965 to more than 13,000 so far this year.

Czechs Deny Spying Charge

Disclaim Plot to Bug State Department

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Czechoslovak delegation to the United Nations denied last night U.S. charges that its first secretary, Zdenek Pisk, once plotted to bug the State Department.

* * *

The delegation announced that its charge d'affaires, Jan Muzik, told Secretary General U Thant that the charges were without foundation.

* * *

The State Department said Wednesday that Pisk and Jiri Opatrny, as officials of the Czechoslovak Washington Embassy, worked to get a State Department employe to plant the bug on an official but the employe tipped off U.S. authorities.

* * *

The delegation's announcement said Pisk headed the embassy's consular section, July 1959-May 1963, and maintained official relations with many U.S. citizens, including State Department officials, who were seeking Czechoslovak visas.

Nickel to Have Credit Initials of Designer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department had some good news Thursday for coin collectors.

* * *

Beginning Aug. 1 when the government begins making coins with 1966 dates, the Jefferson nickel will also include the initials of its designer, Felix Schlag of Owosso, Mich.

* * *

It will mark the first time in almost 30 years that the nickel will carry the initials of its designer. The first Jefferson nickels were placed in circulation on Nov. 15, 1938. All other current coins carry the credit to the designer.

* * *

The department said Schlag never included his initials on his design because, one official said, he didn't know at the time that he could.

BORN IN MUNICH

Schlag will be 75 in September. He was born in Munich, Germany, and became an American citizen in 1929.

* * *

The nickel he designed bears the likeness of Thomas Jefferson on one side and Jefferson's home, Monticello, on the other.

Klein: I Asked Dodd to Speak Up for Me

NEW YORK (AP) — Public relations man Julius Klein said today that when he learned Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., was going to West Germany "I asked him to speak up for me" because the headlines were "snowballing" there.

Klein, a registered agent for West German business interests, said he had been hurt by a 1963 hearing of the Senate Ethics Committee investigating Sen. Dodd.

* * *

"I knew he was making the trip," he said in an interview. "At the same time I asked him to speak up for me in West Germany." He added:

"I wrote every member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and asked if they would be good enough to explain that I was not tried, convicted or criticized by the committee — only by Sen. Fulbright, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., the chairman). When I found out Sen. Dodd was leaving, I asked him if he would do the same. The headlines were snowballing over there."

Klein, 64, stocky and owlish, chain smoked cigars in a white holder as he answered questions about his relationship with Sen. Dodd.

The wall of his office in his suite in the Essex House held numerous pictures of Klein with famous persons — Dwight D. Eisenhower, Harry Truman, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

* * *

As Klein discussed the Dodd case his wife came into the office and held up a brown, fringed piece of cloth, about the size of a place mat. "This is the famous Persian rug," she said.

She was referring to allegations that Klein had given Dodd a Persian rug. Dodd testified at the hearings in Washington that the rug was a $2 place mat that accompanies a Christmas card from the Kleins in 1964.

Birth Pill Joke Proves Funnier as a Short Story

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — A welfare officer told a birth control conference the story of the 13-year-old daughter who replaced her mother's contraceptive pills with aspirin. The mother became pregnant.

The story was termed an old joke. The welfare officer was not amused.

Author Hugh Mills, however, was.

He took the yarn and spun it out into a short novel called "Prudence and the Pill." It sold out in a week.

Rights to the book and film have been bought for France and the United States.

Now, they want to adapt the book into a musical.

It is predicted that Canada's total births this year will be about 7 per cent less than last year, even with a rise in the number of marriages. There has been a steady dropoff since the peak year of 1959.
