Train Smashup Kills 48 in Brazil

2 Commuters Collide Head-on Near Station; at Least 100 Injured

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — Two commuter trains collided head-on near a suburban station during the rush hour last night, killing 48 persons and injuring more than 100 others.

★ ★ ★

The dead included 37 men, five women and three children.

"I was just standing there with other people coming from work when I heard a hissing sound and then the terrible crash," said a 13-year-old boy who was injured in the wreck. "I felt myself falling and heard people screaming and crying. People were trying to get out stepping on people who were hurt."

Officials feared rescue crews would find more bodies trapped in the wreckage. All available ambulances and medical teams converged on the scene from Sao Paulo and surrounding areas.

★ ★ ★

The trains were moving on the same track at about 25 miles an hour when they rammed each other.

★ ★ ★

The tracks were littered with splintered wood, broken glass and passengers' belongings. Some of the bodies were thrown clear of the train coaches.

Press Carrier Wins MSUO Scholarship

A Pontiac Press newspaper route this morning turned into the magic gateway to Michigan State University Oakland for 17-year-old Brian Woolcock.

A Press carrier for three and a half years, Brian this morning learned that he has been awarded the first Pontiac Press Carrier Scholarship to MSUO.

Brian, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Woolcock, 201 Mohawk Rd., could scarcely believe his ears. "I'm nervous—I can't believe this is happening to me," he said

A B-plus student at Pontiac Central High School, he is in the top 15 per cent of the graduating class. He was chosen on the basis of his school principal's recommendation, the report of the Press' district circulation representative, and for other general characteristics.

Interested in science, especially biology and chemistry, he hopes to obtain a master's degree in education.

★ ★ ★

Since he started delivering papers in January 1956, he has saved $700 toward his education. He has 113 customers.

Brian had already applied for entrance to MSUO before being named scholarship winner. He was the 68th applicant at the new university which opens in September.

He will, of course, be a member of the charter freshman class.

Brian said he was anxious to attend MSUO because of its curriculum.

The scholarship winner is active in extra-curricular activities. He's a Student Council alternate, assistant scoutmaster, plays in the high school band, and belongs to the Hi-Y's and the Biology Club.

He attends Christ Church Cranbrook and belongs to the St. Andrew's Guild and Marquis Club there.

He will receive $500 a year from The Press for four years provided his academic work meets university standards.

If he wishes, he will be able to work summers at The Press.

Twenty-two carriers are graduating from high school, and 12 were eligible to compete for the scholarship, having taken college preparatory courses.

Others will continue their educations in specialized and industrial fields.

The Press will award a scholarship for each of the next three years.

Contest judges were Conrad Church, former Pontiac Press editor; Roy Alexander, MSUO director of student services; and Dr. William Emerson of the Oakland County Board of Education.

Race Car Flips Into Crowd; 22 Persons Injured

Many Children, Son of Driver Among Those Hurt in Missouri

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—A race car smashed into the bleachers, injuring 22 persons among a crowd of 500 at a small dirt track Friday night. The accident occurred during the first race on the program, for a purse of $10.

One of those injured seriously was Ronnie Lee Neidel, 8, son of the wrecked car's driver, Albert M. (Bud) Neidel, 30, St. Joseph.

The father suffered a bruised shoulder and shock. Of the 22 injured, 21 were hospitalized. Many were children.

Neidel's modified stock car and one driven by Jerry Hayes, Topeka, Kan., sideswiped on a turn of the quarter-mile Beverly Speedway while doing about 70 miles an hour.

They were the only two cars left in the race.

Neidel's car shot off the banked turn, over an eight-foot embankment and fence. It did a half-flip in the air and smashed into the bleachers upside down.

The car slid along the bottom row of seats, sweeping spectators before it. It hurtled across a space between bleacher sections and crashed to a halt against the next section.

Mrs. Lee W. Anderson of near St. Joseph, said:

"We were about four or five rows from the bottom. A car came hurtling over the fence and wiped the three rows in front of us clean. The car came to a stop on the bleacher to the south. A man and two children were pinned underneath."

Stalemate Halts Geneva Parley

West Asserts Nikita Must Break Deadlock If He Wants Summit

GENEVA (UPI) — The foreign ministers' conference ground to a standstill today, and Western delegates said it is up to Premier Nikita Khrushchev to break the stalemate if he still wants a summit meeting.

High Allied officials said Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko obviously is marking time while he waits for orders from the Kremlin regarding Western proposals for an interim Berlin agreement.

Western delegates believe the new instructions may be delayed until Khrushchev has had time to put on a propaganda show with the 17 German Communist leaders who arrive in Moscow Monday.

The East German Communists were threatening again today to clamp a total blockade on West Berlin if West Germany goes ahead with plans for parliament to meet in this Red-encircled city and elect a new president.

★ ★ ★

The Communists have threatened three times this week to cut the lifelines linking isolated West Berlin with West Germany.

Western officials were talking today of setting a time limit for ending the Big Four foreign ministers conference to force it to a point of decision.

News Flashes

LONDON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev declared today Soviet rocket bases will be set up in Albania and Bulgaria unless the Balkans are turned into a "rocket-free, non-atomic zone under mutual control."

ROYAL OAK (AP) — The Detroit Lions today signed Frank Finney, one of the top quarterbacks in the East last fall at Brown, to a 1959 National Football League contract. Finney, 22, from this area, was signed as a free agent. He ranked 11th last season in the NCAA passing statistics.

Monkey Gives Pontiac Police the Business

A small monkey high up a tree gave the business to two Pontiac police officers and the city dog warden yesterday afternoon as they tried vainly to bring him down.

Patrolmen Gerald Navarre and August Martinez and dog warden William Schneider eventually tired of the animal's monkey shines and gave up the battle.

★ ★ ★

The monkey was in a 60-foot tree at the corner of Bloomfield avenue and Fern street.

Navarre climbed up the tree hoping to lure the monkey to him with monkey-food bought in a pet shop. "It was hopeless," he said.

Monkeys like bananas, so a Pontiac Press photographer who wandered on the scene got one. The monkey wouldn't bite.

After a half hour, the police and dog warden left, the monkey still free and swinging from limb to limb. He is still at liberty.

Parks in Walled Lake

IN HOT WATER—The normally cool waters of Walled Lake warmed up fast for the driver of this auto transport yesterday. He told police that he fell asleep at the wheel. His truck ripped through guard rails onto a public beach and ended up parallel to the shore after striking and injuring one woman. The driver later pleaded not guilty to a drunk driving charge.

Supper Snatches Many From Beach Death, Injury

Supper appetites probably saved a score of children from death or injury late yesterday afternoon, when an auto transport truck smashed through guard rails and careened across a public beach, ending up in Walled Lake.

★ ★ ★

The accident occurred shortly before 5 p.m. when the beach was deserted by youngsters in favor of the dinner table. Mrs. Jeannette Roberts, 50, of 584 E. Lake Dr., Walled Lake, was the only person struck by the truck.

She is in satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital with shoulder and rib injuries.

★ ★ ★

"I was cleaning debris off the water at the beach across the road from my home," Mrs. Roberts told Police Chief James A. Decker.

MISSES 'S' CURVE

Suddenly the big transport carrying a load of four new cars missed an "S" curve going west.

★ ★ ★

The haulaway smashed several steel guardrails and traveled 300 feet across the beach striking the woman near the water's edge and plunging into the lake. It finally came to a halt in three or four feet of water.

The cars all remained on the truck, although several windows were smashed, police said.

★ ★ ★

The driver, Harold Sneed, 30, of Byron, said he fell asleep at the wheel and was awakened by the woman's screams.

"I just woke up and looked down and there she was floating in the water next to the cab," he related, according to police.

★ ★ ★

Sneed admitted he had little sleep Thursday night and had "a few drinks" Friday afternoon, said Chief Decker. Later Sneed pleaded not guilty to a drunk driving charge before Walled Lake Justice Herman Roth.

★ ★ ★

He was released after furnishing $200 bond and his trial is set for June 18. Police said it took two wreckers 2½ hours to pull the huge truck from its soggy position.

Observe Great Privilege Tomorrow

Mark Freedom of Press

NEW YORK—In recognition of Freedom of the Press Day, Alberto Gainza Pas, President of the Inter American Press Assn., issues the following statement:

"This June 7 we in the Americas once more celebrate Freedom of the Press Day.

★ ★ ★

"The majority of IAPA members publish in countries where freedom of expression and the exercise of our profession are free. In expressing our joy over this fact, we should reaffirm our decision to continue fulfilling our task of reporting the news objectively and of orienting public opinion with independence and without fear.

"In these last years we have seen the fall of dictatorships which were an insult to our civilization and our culture, but we must beware of giving in to the easy illusion that progress achieved by the forces of freedom is definite and irrevocable. Past dictators and would-be dictators of the present are lying in wait, ready to take advantage of any opportunity offered them.

"Today more than ever our constant vigilance is necessary; we must denounce before continental and world opinion any attempt at retrogression, whether such attempt be by governments or by anyone who acts with the support or consent of the authorities. Our people should not be fooled by those who use the vocabulary of democracy and freedom to disguise actions that lead to the curtailment of our liberties.

"Let us continue impressing upon the minds of our readers the conviction that freedom of the press is not a privilege or a monopoly of newspapers, but rather a right that belongs to all of us and that we must all defend it if we wish to avoid the disaster and the humiliation of tyranny.

"Let us also devote this day to remembering our colleagues who still suffer persecution in countries of the Western Hemisphere which have not yet recovered their freedom. They must know that they are not alone. The IAPA will never give up a fight that can only end with their complete liberation."

The Living Recall—D-Day, 1944

From Our News Wires

OMAHA BEACH, France—American and French military leaders gathered at this wind-swept beach today to pay tribute to the men who died making it the first foothold of freedom in France during World War II.

★ ★ ★

Fifteen years ago was D-Day, the start of the great Allied assault on Hitler's Atlantic wall.

Omaha Beach then was a chaotic tangle of landing craft, tanks, howitzers, ammunition crates, jeeps and struggling men of the 1st and 29th American Infantry divisions. They faced merciless pounding from well-dug-in German positions.

Before the beachhead was secured, more than 13,000 Americans, Britains and Canadians were killed or wounded.

The only signs of that bitter battle now are the crumbling fortifications of Hitler's Festung Europa, half-hidden by sand drifts and the 9,836 white crosses that mark the St. Laurent U.S. Military Cemetery.

★ ★ ★

Gen. Leon W. Johnson, air deputy to Allied Supreme Commander Gen. Lauris Norstad, and Brig. Gen. C. Coburn Smith, U.S. military attache in Paris, were the senior American officers attending today's ceremonies at the cemetery.

A delegation of U.S. National Guardsmen and a U.S. Army honor guard were joining French troops in a salute to the dead.

Some of the relatives of the fallen American soldiers and veterans of the battle also were present.

Among them was Cpl. Theodore Liska of Chicago, now on active duty with the Army in Paris, who came to the chalky bluffs overlooking historic Omaha Beach yesterday so he could be alone with his remembrances of the fateful battle.

Liska has kept that lonely vigil every year since 1944.

★ ★ ★

Sgt. Donald Duguette of Negaunne, Mich., now stationed in Germany, brought his wife Mary and his three children to share his memories of the beach.

Duguette recalls that 30 of his closest friends were killed by German fire in 15 minutes.

"I guess this is one of the things that was shooting at us," he said, leaning on the rusting snout of a German 88-millimeter anti-tank gun that poked from the ruins of a pillbox.

★ ★ ★

Today the setting was peaceful—but the rubble of war still littered the invasion coast on the anniversary of the mammoth second-front assault which started the Allied sweep across Europe and brought Germany to her knees within 11 months.

★ ★ ★

Moss-covered barges lie scattered about Omaha Beach, and rusted troop carriers settle deep in the sand.

Strips of steel matting used for improvised roads have been twisted by rising and falling rip tides.

From off shore, you could hear the water slapping the burned-out hulls of vessels scuttled to make artificial harbors for the invasion craft.

★ ★ ★

Aside from a few fishermen, the vast expanse remains deserted. Even the inland reminders of the war have almost disappeared.

On the bluffs above the beach, fine sand has invaded the grass-covered pill boxes that sheltered the German defenders.

Hedge rows that provided cover for the Germans have reverted back to jungle thickness.

Herds of grazing cattle and the stillness made it difficult to believe that war ever passed this way.

1959---Ike Knows Peace

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower is spending this 15th anniversary of the Normandy landings in the rural peacefulness of this area which long ago also was scarred by war's fury.

The man who commanded the 1944 D-Day invasion of the French coast is taking it easy this weekend at his country home.

It is situated at the edge of another famed battlefield—where forces of America's North and South fought in 1863.

★ ★ ★

The President's plans for golf during the day and for being host at the farm this evening to about 200 White House staff guests are a dramatic contrast to the nerve-wracking ordeal he underwent 15 years ago.

★ ★ ★

Now, he is President. It is a day for memories of the start of the campaign which smashed Hitler's Fortress Europe.

Find Mystery Plane in Desert

DETROIT (AP) — Discovery of the wreckage of a B24 bomber in the sands of the Sahara Desert brought back memories of World War II for two Michigan families today — the 15th anniversary of the Allied D-Day landings in France.

* * *

Carrying a crew of nine, the plane mysteriously disappeared after leaving its Cairo base for a bombing mission over Naples, Italy, April 4, 1943.

Two Michigan men, Tech. Sgt. Harold G. Ripslinger of Saginaw and Tech. Sgt. Robert E. Lamotte of Lake Linden, were on the plane.

No trace of the B24 was found until it was discovered by a team of exploring geologists in the desert some 380 miles south of Bengasi.

ALMOST INTACT

No bodies were found near the plane, which was almost intact and sand covered.

News of discovery of the wreckage was relayed to families of the two Michigan men in hopes the two had somehow made it back to allied lines. The crew was believed to have bailed out before the plane crashed.

But both families said they were notified shortly after the B24 disapeared that their sons were "missing in action."

* * *

Lafer, both families received War Department notification that their sons were listed as "killed in action."

Russell Lamotte, brother of Robert, was entertaining his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Lamotte in Birmingham, when the news of discovery of the plane was relayed.

He recalled: "We were notified shortly after the plane disappeared that Bob was missing in action. No member of the crew was ever found. It was one of Bob's first missions.

"Later the War Department notified us that the men were listed as killed in action."

This desert mystery is as deep and baffling as any recorded in the annals of the seas.

The B24 bomber with a crew of nine, found in the waterless waste of Libya, 380 miles south of Bengazi, was last seen 16 years ago when it took off from a Libyan base for a bombing raid on Naples, Italy.

The bomber lies there on the sand, preserved almost perfectly in the hot, arid desert air. Although its fuselage was snapped in two at the tail, the plane appears undamaged otherwise. Its radio still is in working order.

There is not a trace of the crewmen who flew off on that mission in 1943. No clothing, no written records.

* * *

Water bottles, presumably tightly capped, were found still filled in the cabin of the plane. Had the crew crash-landed in the desert and started to walk out to civilization, surely they would have taken all available water with them.

If they had been killed in the landing which caused so little damage to the plane, their remains would be there.

Did the crew all bail out somewhere else, as the Pentagon thinks is likely? Then how did the plane fly on for hundreds of miles to let down in a soft landing on the desert? And why apparently did none of the crew survive?

Ruford L. Moore, Portsmouth, Ohio, father of one of the crewmen, said he received a letter in 1946 from the War Department, saying the plane was returning from the bombing mission when it lost radio contact with its base and was presumed down in the Mediterranean.

JUMP OVER OCEAN?

Did the crew bail out over the sea for some reason while the plane flew on safely to the south?

The Pentagon identified the plane from its serial numbers. It released Friday night the names of the crewmen and their next of kin.

In spite of the passage of time, relatives of all nine crewmen were reached Friday night. They said they had been notified by the War Department in 1943 that their loved ones were missing in action. A year later they were told they had been killed.

* * *

In Saginaw, James Ripslinger remembered the last words of his brother, Harold, before he flew overseas.

"He told me, 'If we're attacked in the plane it's going to be rough —I'm the belly gunner.' "

"When they were reported missing, we thought, in the beginning, that they'd be found alive. Or that they had been taken prisoner, and maybe just injured. But 12 months later the Army told us they were listed as dead.

"Harold was a star athlete at St. Andrews High School, and he got the Purple Heart posthumously."

* * *

For 16 years the plane rested there and was seen by no one. Or, if some desert nomad came across it, he told no authority. It was found a short time ago by a team of exploring geologists.

The U.S. Air Force sent a plane crew to see the wreck and photograph it from the air. And it is sending experts overland to examine it more closely.

DESERT MYSTERY — A strange memento of World War II popped into the news today. Geologists exploring a rarely visited area of the Sahara Desert came upon the lonely remains of a U. S. B24 Liberator Bomber. Air Force experts say the plane apparently made an unmanned landing after the crew bailed out in 1943. There has never been any trace of the nine men.

To Finish Work on Telegraph

Resurfacing Job, Began 10 Months Ago, May Be Completed Next Week

Resurfacing of Telegraph road from West Huron south to James K boulevard, which began 10 months ago, is expected to be all completed by next week.

James Dykstra, assistant district road engineer with the Pontiac office of the State Highway Dept., said contractors "now are finishing up at some of the intersections."

The 1.2 miles of work began Sept. 20, 1958 and includes mostly resurfacing, replacing the curb and gutter on the east side of Telegraph, and putting in left turn lanes at three intersections.

Dykstra said adding additional work as the project progressed, including the left turn lanes, has boosted the state job from an original contract price of $101,883 to around $117,000.

A & A Asphalt Co. of Birmingham was the prime contractor, Max R. Frisinger of Ann Arbor did the concrete pavement work, while Kutchins Co. of Lansing did the curb and gutter work, Dykstra said.

Work also included adding a right turn lane on Huron at the Tel-Huron Shopping Center.

Woman Is Hospitalized After Headon Collision

A headon collision of two cars on M15 north of Grange Hall road, Brandon Township, sent one of the drivers, Mrs. Leota M. Westerby, 30, of 68 South St., Ortonville, to Goodrich Hospital.

She was described in satisfactory condition today with face and head injuries. The other driver, Walter T. Burwell, 54, of 31822 Carlelder Rd., Southfield Township, was uninjured.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies said the Westerby auto was pulling out to pass a truck when the collision occurred. Her car glanced off Burwell's, ran off the road sideswiping a tree, and came to halt in a field 250 yards from the point of impact.

More than 3,200,000 pounds of bronze were used to cover the 38-story Seagram Building on New York's Park Avenue, the world's first all-bronze skyscraper.

The Day in Birmingham

Ballet on Lawn Today Launches Festival of Art

For the next nine days Birmingham becomes an art colony drawing spectators from far and near.

Harvey Kresge, general chairman, and Mayor Harry Denyes spoke briefly when the festival officially got under way this morning. The opening ceremony was a ballet dance on the lawn at Quarton Falls.

Among today's highlights also is the two-day show at the Community House. This will feature the works done in the crafts and hobby classes sponsored by the House.

Stores throughout the community are displaying the works of outstanding painters, many from surrounding communities, according to Mrs. Ernest Jay, publicity chairman.

* * *

The Bloomfield Art Association Building, 361 North Woodward Ave., will be the scene of a public reception until nine tonight.

Tomorrow, the Detroit City Ballet, will present its program at 8:30 p.m. in the Cranbrook Little Gym on Lone Pine Road.

One of the outstanding programs, according to Kresge, will be the concert by James Milton, internationally known singer. Milton will be heard at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Birmingham High School auditorium.

A constant changing of programs will provide new entertainment daily. A sidewalk cafe and strolling troubadour in the business area will serve to remind shoppers and out-of-towners of the many entertainment features available to them, Mrs. Jay said.

* * *

Birmingham Friends (Quakers) will meet at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Community House.

Johan Eliot, regional pediatric consultant for the Michigan State Health Dept., and University of Michigan public health teacher, will be the speaker. He will tell how a Friend's meeting can help a concerned member to live a Quaker life.

Following his talk, a short worship service will be held, concluding the meetings till fall.

* * *

The Youth Night Supper of the First Methodist Church will be held in the church social hall at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

"The Tiger's Claw," a one-act play, will be presented by the Chancel Players. This will conclude the summer sessions.

* * *

Birmingham Community House is accepting registrations for childrens' summer art classes, according to Myra Showman, director.

Grade school students will receive water color and pastel training Tuesday mornings from 10 to 11:30.

Junior and senior high school students will have classes in drawings and painting instruction from 10 a.m. till noon Wednesdays.

Both terms are for six weeks, and will begin June 23.

The Altrusa Club of Greater Birmingham will hold a dinner meeting at the Community House at 7 p.m. Monday.

Following the annual reports of committee chairmen, newly elected officers will be installed. The slate includes Mary Spalding, president; Mrs. Carl Wonnberger, vice president; Mrs. George Oehm, treasurer; Kathryn Zedder, recording secretary; and June Keil, corresponding secretary.

Fate of Strauss in Small Group

10-15 Senators Remain Undecided on How to Vote for Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP)— The fate of Lewis L. Strauss' nomination as secretary of commerce appears to be in the hands of a small band of 10 to 15 senators.

They are the senators who have not made up their minds about the controversial nomination, or, if they have, have not confided their decision to their colleagues.

They are both Republicans and Democrats. Seven Democrats have said they'll vote to confirm Strauss. One Republican, William Langer of North Dakota, says he'll vote against him.

* * *

Assuming that all the other 33 Republicans voted for him, Strauss would still need at least nine more Democratic votes to put him over the top. But he can't necessarily assume that all the Republicans will vote for him, although the tightest kind of GOP party discipline is being invoked.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash) told newsmen Friday he thinks 10 to 15 senators haven't made up their minds. Other Senate observers agree with the figure.

* * *

Thus stand the skirmish lines in what has become by far the bitterest dispute between the Democratic Senate and President Eisenhower in his six years in the White House.

Youth Seeks Honors at State Road-E-O

Winner of the Waterford Township Junior Chamber of Commerce Road-E-O Richard Carlson, of 3044 Barkman St., is competing at Midland today against some 100 contestants from towns and cities throughout the state.

* * *

Carlson, 18, is a senior at Waterford Township High School and won the local award, competing with 12 other teenagers May 24, in written and driving skill tests given at the high school parking lot.

Winner of today's contest will be acclaimed the outstanding teenage driver of the state and will receive an all-expense trip to Washington, D.C., to compete in the national finals.

* * *

He will also receive a scholarship sponsored by the Pure Oil Co.

Our Legislature Dumps 450 Bills Into the Ash Can

LANSING (AP)—The Legislature's focus will be narrowed when it returns next Monday, with about 450 bills consigned to the ash can before adjournment for the weekend.

The big sweep out came yesterday with passage of a first deadline in the traditional timetable leading up to adjournment—possibly in July. Lawmakers set the date in joint rules adopted last week.

All except tax and appropriation bills not reported from committee in the house of introduction were cut down. Lost were nearly one-half of all bills submitted at the present session.

Few of the casualties were unexpected, including most of the bills for which Gov. Williams made an 11th hour plea on Wednesday.

* * *

The House State Affairs Committee stifled three bills to strengthen Michigan's civil rights law by failure to report them.

And for the 11th time in the 11 years of the governor's unprecedented tenure, the "seal of quality" bill wound up in a pigeonhole.

* * *

Republican legislators and Williams agreed on one point in a televised debate last night: Michigan's state government needs more money.

NOTHING ELSE

But they didn't agree on anything else—even the amount of money needed.

Neither side offered anything new in the way of argument.

The Democrats supported the piggyback state income tax proposal. This would cost an individual 7 per cent of what he pays the federal government in income tax.

Republicans favored increasing the sales tax from 3 to 4 cents.

Some parts of the earth are frozen to a depth of as much as 1,300 feet throughout the entire year.

St. Clair Monster 'Just Prankster in Black Fur Coat'

DETROIT (AP) — What was that monster the kiddies at Avon School in St. Clair Shores saw stomping around in Lake St. Clair?

* * *

It was no monster, it was just a prankster in a black fur coat.

That's the explanation police offer for the youngsters' story of a "hairy monster with four fangs, a huge head and hands with long claws" which lives in the lake.

Patrolman Arthur Ladas, St. Clair Shores youth officer, said he went to the school yesterday and told the children the prankster in the fur coat probably was the same person who paraded around in a purple suit last year.

* * *

"We've had four or five calls on this story from worried parents," Ladas said. "Most of the people around the school are taking it as a joke. But it's hard to explain these stories to youngsters."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy not only sighted a Soviet sub south of Iceland, it photographed same.

The Navy, which made the picture public Friday night, said the Red submarine was of the "Z" class, a long range type but powered by conventional diesel and battery motors.

A U.S. submarine and a Navy plane spotted the sub loafing on the surface last week about 180 miles south of Iceland. The picture showed no deck structure such as might be used to launch missiles. Some of the "Z" subs are believed to be equipped for missiles.

The American submarine, the Grenadier, stayed nearly three miles away from the Soviet one.

Ships Delayed 24 Hours on Downward Passage; Dozen Wait at Welland

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (AP) — About a dozen ships are waiting to enter the Welland Canal, plagued by shipping delays since the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The over-all delay for downbound ships now is about 24 hours. Vessels continue to lose time as they await entry into each of the seven locks of the 27½-mile canal.

Two ships waited in one lock for more than three hours yesterday before they were free to proceed.

Some shippers feel that a fleet of 10 to 15 vessels will be anchored at the Lake Erie entrance to the canal perennially during the navigation season.

* * *

To date 247 ocean vessels have moved upbound through the canal but only 150 have returned.

Three ships were moving upbound through the canal last night on their second trip through the St. Lawrence Seaway, which opened April 25.

At Montreal, T. R. McLagan, president of the Canada Steamship Lines, says Canadian and American lake ships are being treated unfairly when they use the Welland Canal.

McLagan said yesterday he was amazed at an announcement by Jean-Claude Lessard, vice president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, that delays on the Welland are "not as bad as some people make out."

Lessard said Wednesday that complaints about the waterway were premature. He outlined priorities for ships carrying coal, grain and iron ore. He said the ships carrying those three commodities exclusively would proceed first.

About three million U. S. adults never attended any kind of school.

Rain Patches Dampen Muggy Weather Blanket

By The Associated Press

A warm, humid weather blanket wrapped up vast areas east of the Rockies today.

Patches of rain and slight cooling in some sectors pierced the muggy climate.

* * *

It was cooler in the Texas Panhandle and eastern New Mexico in the wake of a rain, hail and wind storm that lashed the region Friday night.

To the north, cool Canadian air seeped over the upper Great Lakes, driving the mercury 10 to 15 degrees below a corresponding period Friday.

Earlier Friday night, five inches of rain doused Brownwood in West Texas. Rain-swollen Willis Creek, near Brownwood, overflowed and forced some families to leave their homes. Winds clocked at 75 miles an hour also hammered the region, damaging trees and disrupting telephone service. Baseball-sized hailstones also peppered Wickett, Tex.

* * *

Two tornado funnels were sighted but neither did any damage.

More sunshine was on tap for the Southwest following Friday's century-plus temperatures at some stations. Needles, in Southern California, had a 106 while some Arizona points had the mercury boosted over 100.

Many Councils 100 Miles From Camp

Area Scouting Facilities Stand Out

By JOE HAAS

(Member of National Scouting Council)

SAN FRANCISCO — The camping facilities that Oakland and Macomb counties' Clinton Valley Council of the Boy Scouts provide for their lads stand out like a beacon light when compared to sites of hundreds of other councils represented here at the forty-ninth annual national meeting.

JOE HAAS

In Camp Agawam and the other local connections of a similar nature, Clinton Valley has right at home what, in many respects, no other council in the entire nation can supply. In most instances the camps of other groups (if they have any) are located outside the area of the council—in many cases they are over 100 miles away. In one Texas council it is 300 miles away.

At the annual banquet at the San Francisco civic auditorium last evening the 2,500 in attendance were entertained in a program that was largely founded on a furtherance of the "Onward for God and My Country" theme, and "Conservation through Safety," as stressed in the general agenda.

At the business meeting this forenoon, the new Explorer program was the highlight as further plans were discussed for keeping boys in the scouting mood after they have gone through the usual courses. In this our Clinton Valley is taking a prominent part.

The national Court of Honor was the outstanding feature at the closing luncheon this noon. Silver Buffalo awards were given a few men who have devoted most of their lives to Scouting. This, on a national scale, corresponds to the Silver Beaver award on a local scale. In this connection, it is said that over 90 per cent of the delegates here are displaying their Silver Beaver neckpiece.

BIGGEST EVENT

Clinton Valley Council has received its confirmation for the acceptance of three troops at what is expected to be the biggest event in all of Scouting's history.

This is the Fifth National Jamboree and is to be held at Colorado Springs, Colo., July 22 to 28, next year. It also marks Scouting's golden jubilee.

This means that Clinton Valley can send 120 to this event, 111 scouts and nine leaders, an increase of one troop over the last jamboree which was held two years ago at Valley Forge, Pa. Also we have been assigned the quota of four sectional adult leaderships.

The general setup of Clinton Valley's contributon to the Valley Forge Jamboree won national recognition. Its "Map of Michigan" entrance was publicized in picture and otherwise by newspapers throughout the nation.

At Valley Forge our council had 76 boys and 13 men in sectional and unit leadership. At Colorado Springs we will top that number to a great extent, and plans for a camp entrance that will keep us in the national limelight already are under way.

* * *

As the annual meeting of the National Council draws to a close, there is the general sentiment that scouting is generally meeting the challenge of a hectic period in our nation's history. Plans have here been formulated to keep the work abreast of the era's needs.

DELEGATES CONVINCED

From their associations with others engaged in the same work, the delegates go home with the conviction that the segment of our population, now numbering over five millions, that are in direct contact with scouting are building a manhood that will successfully cope with our nation's needs, regardless of the possibility of any extreme emergency.

As evidence of this, everywhere I hear quoted the 12 elements of the Scout Law: trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, kind, courteous, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent.

In his induction every scout takes the oath: "On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

The fulfillment of that oath has meant as much to the Clinton Valley Council area as to any other section of our nation. In fact, it is conservatively estimated that since scouting was introduced here, its direct influence, through membership or leadership in the movement, has entered over 100,000 homes in Oakland and Macomb counties.

Air Academy Chief Lauds MSU Efforts

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State University was praised today for its leadership in the entire range of education by the superintendent of the U.S. Air Force Academy.

★ ★ ★

"We at the academy have drawn heavily upon your rich experience in creating instructional programs," said Maj. Gen. James E. Briggs.

Briggs presented second lieutenant commissions to 78 ROTC seniors.

★ ★ ★

The Air Force officer also lauded MSU President John A. Hannah for his support in establishing the Air Force Academy.

Referring to Hannah's service as assistant secretary of defense for manpower and personnel, Briggs said:

"He removed any lingering doubts as to the wisdom of establishing a U.S. Air Force Academy."

Say U.S. Cars to Never Match Europe on Fuel

NEW YORK (AP) — Small cars planned by United States manufacturers will not match European vehicles in fuel economy, say two scientists attending the Fifth World Petroleum Congress.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. entries will be more comfortable but with more power —an estimated 90 to 100 horsepower — and gasoline mileage will be from one-fourth to one-fifth lower than the small European car, they predict.

Dr. J. C. Zimmer, New York City, believes the American compact economy automobile will be a luxury model compared to foreign models.

Dr. H. W. Field, Philadelphia, Pa., agrees and adds that U.S. manufacturers will use increased horsepower as a selling point. Most European small cars have from 30 to 50 horsepower.

★ ★ ★

Zimmer and Field have served as chairmen of the petroleum products and refining sections of the six-day congress that ended Friday with 20 additional technical sessions.

Zimmer, senior coordinator of Socony Mobil Oil Co., said most of the new compact automobiles will use regular grade gasolines. He said little is known as yet about market demand for the models.

He said it probably would take about 10 years for the small cars to account for 10 per cent of the automobiles in use in the United States.

Fires Up, but Deaths, Losses Drop in State

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan had nearly 5,000 more fires last year than in 1957 but the loss in both lives and property damage declined, the fire marshal division of State Police reports.

Deaths totaled 198 — down 20 from the 1957 figure.

Property loss amounted to $40,279,000—a dip of $27,000 from the previous year.

There were 64,694 fires — up 4,864 from 1957.

Carelessness was listed as the cause of 12,735 fires. In this category, burning of rubbish led with 4,098 and smoking ranked second with 3,760.

Incendiary fires numbered 1,434 of which 853 were set by children.

Vandals Damage Boat, Enter Lakeville Cottage

LAKEVILLE — A 14-foot outboard motor boat, only two weeks old, was found damaged and drifting in the middle of Lakeville Lake yesterday, Romeo State Police reported today.

Vandals apparently had taken a sharp instrument, believed to be an axe, and tried to chop up the boat and sink it, troopers said.

They found the cottage of owner August Tremblay had been broken into. Nothing had been taken.

Reflections

J. L. VOORHEES

TRUST YOURSELF:

Too often we push aside a flash of inspiration; it is ours and being ours can't be any good, or so we think. However, Freedom was once a thought. Steam, as motive power, was a thought. Edison's thought illuminated our cities. Madame Curie had a flash of inspiration; among other things she sent a ship under Polar ice. Marconi had enough confidence in himself and his new idea—wireless—to change all the then existing means of communications.

M. E. SIPLE

Christ changed the course of human behavior with a new concept. Juvenile Courts was an idea previous to 1899. Boy Scouts, an idea born in England, has members all over the world. One man thought, change long horns for tender beef; that thought made him a millionaire.

Trust yourself. Trust your ideas. Put them into execution; they'll help you, and your fellowman.

MONROE OSMUN—SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER

MONROE M. OSMUN

In the past fourteen years as a member of the Pontiac Board of Education I have felt that the publicity and news coverage of candidates for this important public office were sufficient to acquaint the public with the qualifications of each person. Only because there are apparently misunderstandings, rumors and statements because of lack of full knowledge of the program of the Board of Education does this ad appear.

It is the finest way I know to get the information before all the people, quickly and authoritatively. For this reason I am making the exception to my policy in connection with the coming election Monday.

MONROE OSMUN

Pontiac's School System Compares With the Finest

The programing of the Pontiac Board of Education and the Pontiac School Administration are giving Pontiac a school system among the finest in the country. Working together the Board and the Staff have constantly changed for the betterment of the educational curricula, teaching methods and equipment. This has enabled Pontiac to attract excellent teachers and staff. It has kept Pontiac on the Accredited List of the University of Michigan and the North Central Association, enabling Pontiac Graduates to enter the universities and colleges of the forty-eight states without penalty.

Stress is being made in the teaching of mathematics, sciences, reading and English. New emphasis is being placed on the foundation subjects to strengthen our entire educational program from kindergarden to high school.

The present Board of Educations has devoted hours of study to keep Pontiac's Schools up-to-date in both education offered and facilities with which to teach.

Pontiac's School Building Program Is Good

No other city in the state can match Pontiac for value received for the dollar in school construction. Through the cooperation of a Citizen's Advisory Committee working with the Board of Education and School Administration the building program has been able to meet reasonable demands and done so within budgeted allowances. The present planning of the Board of Education will continue this policy.

Pontiac's School Financing Is Outstanding

Among financing experts the manner of school financing of construction, expansion and administration by the Pontiac Board of Education is lauded as sound, economical and not hurdensome to the taxpayers. It is looked upon as an example to be emulated.

The public has always been kept well informed of the activities of the Board of Education through the newspaper and other news agencies.

It Seems to Me . . . .

Klausmeyer and Osmun Best Qualified for School Posts

On Monday, Pontiac electors pick two citizens to represent them on the School Board.

These are important posts.

School problems are huge.

★ ★ ★

With the number of children increasing rapidly, the voters must select competent people with good business judgment and a background of experience. The school board isn't just a pleasant social organization or a neighborhood gathering.

★ ★ ★

School problems are of increasing importance. The mere cost of keeping a roof over the heads of the new pupils falls under the heading of "Big Business." It takes money. Education is becoming an expensive necessity. The taxpayers should enlist the aid and guidance of well-rounded people with financial training.

★ ★ ★

Personally, I believe that Monroe M. Osmun and Dr. Leonard F. Klausmeyer meet these requirements most. I believe they are best qualified to handle the educational problems and the mounting costs which confront taxpayers today.

There is no substitute for hard-headed experience.

Credit Cards to Stay? . . . .

In the current issue of "Life" is a lengthy dissertation on these credit cards which are beginning to surround mankind.

Life shows a picture of a Detroit citizen who revels in the possession of 87. They come in the mail and they arrive without solicitation. But, I'm not as sold on the pesky things as their sponsors and I predict that in a couple of years they'll be passe.

★ ★ ★

The Diners' Club is now 10 years old and has nearly a million card holders. The American Express claims more than 600,000 members. The first charges $5 a year and the second $6. The rest are free.

★ ★ ★

The use is spreading like wildfire. A publisher friend of mine stepped into the downtown office of an airline and when he started to pay cash, the young lady practically requested him to use a credit card. In fact, she had to leave the office to make change. She told him with some asperity that this transaction was the first cash deal she'd handled all day.

★ ★ ★

Puerto Rico is a tolerable stretch from Pontiac but when I dropped one of these pesky contraptions on the cashier's desk he merely noted down the number, asked me to sign and I got the bill back home two weeks later.

Shannon's "free airport" is several thousand miles in a different direction. It collects no taxes and thus everything is "dirt cheap." I flashed a credit card and it brought instant acceptance.

Money wasn't necessary.

You paid at home — later.

★ ★ ★

The reason I doubt the permanency of these things is twofold.

I understand that people who are thousands of miles from home can show one of these cards and remark:

"If I sign, you'll get your money in a few weeks minus seven per cent; or, I'll lay down cold cash right here and you'll give me five per cent discount."

In the second instance the seller is two per cent ahead and has his money instantly.

★ ★ ★

If these practices become widespread, the real victim is the traveler or the purchaser without a card. He possesses no lever. He's like "the soldier gone to war without a gun."

Life Magazine says sellers report greater sales because cash isn't required. Psychologically, the ability to "charge it" leads the buyer to greater extravagance.

★ ★ ★

One of the officials says that ultimately there may be only one credit card which everyone will use so that charge accounts will become the accepted and orthodox practice of all peoples everywhere.

★ ★ ★

But somehow — from observation and listening—I think they'll run their course. This is a day of hysteria, experimentation and a burning yen to fool with something new and untried. It's in the air. The scientists put it there. And we're weaving a domesticated version of the same into the woof of everyday life.

The credit card is too ambitious.

And in Conclusion . . . .

Jottings from the well thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter.

BILL WILLMAN, City Manager and former MSU football star, declares State will take a big football step forward this fall. My scout at Ann Arbor says Michigan will be "improved" but several notches away from the Spartans . . . . . JOHN F. GORDON, President of GM, had his personal and private tomato plants ripped to shreds by last Friday's torrential rain and violent winds. The full fury of that storm centered in Bloomfield Hills . . . . . Glimpsed on Woodward Avenue: GEORGE TRUMBULL SR., in an especially doggy Bonneville convertible, top down, and looking every inch the undergraduate. Incidentally, he's a real terrific guy.

Tom Wilson tells me that after Sam Snead set his all time golf tournament record of 59, he watched Samuel Jackson spend the next 40 minutes on the practice tee . . . . . Newspapermen say Harry Truman's secret ambition is to be President of the University of Missouri

You can mark down L. L. Colbert, Chrysler boss, as one of the most effective after dinner speakers in all the ranks of the nation's leading executives. When he finished addressing newspapermen this week, he was given a tremendous ovation — which he richly deserved . . . . . Newsstand sales of men's magazines are off a third and scores of them totter on the brink of oblivion.

★ ★ ★

A flying saucer settled gently and 13 little green men climbed out. "Is this Texas?" asked the leader. The Texan nodded, open mouthed. "We've been 20 days hunting. Is everything here better than it is everywhere else?" Again the Texan nodded. "Is—is there anything I can do for you?" he asked uncertainly. His big Texas Adams' apple bobbed soundlessly. "There is," said the leader crisply. "We want 13 little green women." (Courtesy L. L. C.) . . . . . FRANCES DUFFY has the dilliest greenhouse you ever saw and it's attached to her own residence. The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

FAITH THAT AMERICANS LIVE BY — 10

Police surrounded the gangsters' hangout near Chicago. Inside was a captive. Bishop Robert Nelson Spencer, alone and unarmed, entered the stronghold, untied the prisoner and walked out with him.

"Prayer tells you what to say," said the bishop, "In a sense, I let someone else do the talking."

Crippled in one arm as a youth and uneducated until he was 18, this farm boy rose to become the Episcopal bishop of West Missouri. He is now retired. The governor recently proclaimed a day recognizing his "devoted services."

As a young minister Spencer worked on a road gang, when volunteers were called for to build new streets. He established a sanatorium for meningitis victims. He had cots and a soup kitchen set up in his church's basement for the unemployed during a freezing spell. For all this he sought no publicity, saying, "This is Christ's house . . . He'd probably have said: 'See that you tell it unto no man'."

How Many Apostles Were There?

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

How many Apostles were there really? We talk customarily about the "Twelve," but when you start counting you run into confusion. Of the original 12 Judas turned traitor and Matthias was elected to take his place.

That makes 13. Then St. Paul came along, "as one born out of due season," and claimed to be an Apostle. His claim may have been briefly disputed at the time, but he is now generally known as the Apostle Paul—and that makes 14.

Thursday the Christian calendar honors even a fifteenth: St. Barnabas, who by tradition has "the Apostle" added to his name even though he does not appear in any of the four Gospels and is never mentioned until the fourth chapter of Acts, verses 36 and 37.

★ ★ ★

It is well agreed that he is called an Apostle simply because his labors in the development of the early Church were quite as great and as important as those of any who actually had a technical right to the title.

In fact, there was a time when Barnabas was the most influential of those who first took the new faith outside Jerusalem and began its world wide extension.

By going to Antioch (in Syria) he shifted the center of Christianity to the Gentile world and broke through the narrow-mindedness of those who were saying that the Church could receive only persons who would conform to the Jewish Law.

★ ★ ★

Before long his followers at Antioch had so far outstripped the original group in Jerusalem that they were sending support and welfare supplies to the mother Church. Jerusalem had become a missionary responsibility for Antioch. It was here, while Barnabas was their leader, that the members of the new faith were first called by the name of Christians.

During all this time St. Paul was very much in a secondary position. For more than a year he was nothing more than Barnabas' assistant.

The assistant, however, was a fast learner, and he soon reached an equality with his instructor. But nowhere is it indicated that they traded positions, with Paul becoming the number one man.

When the Church at Antioch was on a solid enough footing, Barnabas and Paul set out together on the first of the great missionary journeys, and continued as co-workers until they had a falling out as even saints will sometimes have.

Tradition says Barnabas was one of the Seventy whom the Lord sent out on a sort of "practice run" of evangelism—see St. Luke, chapter 10, verse 1. Whatever his now forgotten background may have been, there is no doubt that he was a very great and much underrated man. He must have been a popular man, too, among his fellow workers, for although his name was really Joseph they renamed him Barnabas, which means "son (or man) of encouragement.

Barnabas is said to have been martyred at the hands of an angry mob on the isle of Cyprus. His death was by stoning.

"At 19 I cut a right wisdom tooth, later had to have it extracted. At 22 cut the left, and had to have that extracted. Now the dentist says I still have a third wisdom tooth—is that possible?" (W.W.)

DR. BRADY

Answer—At the age of 18 to 25 years one should cut four wisdom teeth — two upper and two lower third molars. But nearly half of us fail to cut from one to all four wisdom teeth. Through evolution we are losing our molars—we have no use for them, thanks to our namby-pamby, refined diet.

"An uncle of mine takes several doses of (a nostrum containing acetanilide) every day. Claims he doesn't feel right without it."

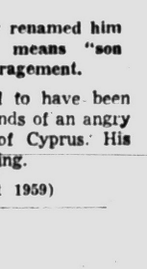
Case Records of a Psychologist:

Minister Needs to Use Psychology

Although Johathan is a brilliant seminary graduatee, his mother-in-law knows far more about how to fill a church than he does. For Jonathan is an intellectual four-flusher and imitates his polysyllabic professors instead of Jesus, who spoke simply, decried long public prayers, and was the greatest Applied Psychologist of all time.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE B-454: Jonathan B., aged 29, is a brilliant clergyman.



DR. CRANE

"But he needs help," his considerate mother-in-law informed me recently, following a speech I had made in Ogden, Utah.

"He has a splendid church. But people go to sleep when he gets into the pulpit. And it isn't because he is lazy. Why he works like a beaver to prepare his sermons.

"But they are so highbrow and phrased in such long words, that the average parishioner can't understand what he is talking about.

"Besides, he deals with broad social problems and our international relations, instead of the simple home-like needs of housewives and their families.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane, I've read your column back home in Miami, and have tried to get Jonathan to read it, too.

"But he considers it too low-brow for his scholarly upbringing. He thinks everything stated in 2-syllable words is beneath his dignity."

POLYSYLLABIC FOUR-FLUSHERS

A lot of intellectual hypocrites also are in the same boat with Jonathan. They, too, think nothing can be profound or scientific unless couched in 5-syllable words.

★ ★ ★

Jesus was thus attacked as a rabble-rouser because he used simple language which common folks could understand:

His foes couldn't arouse those same listeners because they talked over the heads of people.

The average word in the Bible contains 5 letters and has only 2 syllables:

Alas, many theological students follow their polysyllabic profs instead of the Founder of their Christian faith. That's why Morpheus moves into so many churches, and the parishioners stay away.

It takes a livewire in the pulpit to electrify a congregation:

And a verbal "livewire" not only is energetic and enthusiastic in his platform movements, but uses forceful words that ring the bell with his audience.

★ ★ ★

Jesus liked simple language and short prayers. And Jesus also used public platform psychology, including what we call stage materials.

Thus, he held up a coin to attract the attention of the vast throng. He employed "audience participation" by throwing questions at them, which they answered aloud (Ritual does this in modern churches).

He likewise had his patients cooperate in their cures so he demanded that one cripple "take up thy bed."

PREACHERS, NOTA BENE

Clergymen, start imitating Christ instead of your polysyllabic profs and you'll soon have overflow crowds in your churches.

Bishop Sheen and Billy Graham and Oral Roberts, plus Dwight L. Moody and Billy Sundy, didn't "obfuscate" their audiences.

So get hep to modern platform psychology: You are betraying Christ all over again when you drive people out of His churches by your intellectual four-flushing tactics.

Jonathan's mother-in-law is far ahead of Jonathan in her grasp of forensic problems and public speaking demands for churches.

So send for the booklet "Public Platform Psychology," enclosing a a stamped return envelope, plus 20c (non-profit).

If you follow it, you can soon increase attendance 50 per cent as many clergy will attest.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Urges Everyone to Vote in School Board Election

School elections are of the utmost importance to all voters. Monday should see a big turnout of interested people who are anxious to follow school problems and make certain that the best candidates are elected.

Indifference to education is unthinkable. We face the question of costs and the question of proper education for our boys and girls so they can compete successfully with the graduates of other schools. The needs of the school system should bring all voters to the polls.

If teachers are so all-fired anxious to be paid as much as other people, let them take some of the risk other people take. They expect never to be fired, never to be laid off, never to have to prove themselves individually, never to have a year go by without a raise and about 87 other guarteed securities, and yet they expect to be paid top dollar besides. On any economic scale the risks are weighted against the securities in determining salary. Of course, teachers have an economic conception all their own.

More local men would be hired from the other company and he should have had it anyway as he was the lowest bidder. What do they accept bids for? To pay more money from taxpayers?

Journey To Love

By Virginia Nielsen

© 1959 by Virginia Nielsen. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

(The Story: Kathie has met two nice looking, possibly wealthy young men aboard ship on a trip to Hawaii. One is Sam Ward, the other is Alex Norris. Sam warns her against Alex in view of the fact that Kathie is carrying with her a deed to Hawaiian property which may or may not be worthless.)

CHAPTER IX

Kathie made her way rather awkwardly along the passageway, finding it difficult to adjust her pace to the roll of the ship.

As she approached her stateroom, she saw with dismay that her door was standing wide open.

It hadn't occured to her to lock it when she followed Leilani and the two men into Sam's cocktail party next door.

And when, later, she had accepted Alex' invitation to go up on deck, she hadn't given her open stateroom a thought.

Her feeling of naivete deepened painfully as her apprehension rose.

It took only a glance to tell her that her suitcases had been opened and hastily searched. One latch was still unfastened, and a triangle of pink satin protruded from one side of her wardrobe case.

Shocked and badly frightened, Kathie knelt down to open the cases and begin a quick inventory. In a few minutes she sat back on her heels, baffled. As far as she could discover, nothing was missing.

CHECKS DEED

Her travelers' checks were in her pocketbook, which she had carried up on deck under her arm. So was Uncle Job's old deed.

Kathie's eyes widened. Was it possible the thief had been looking for the deed?

She got up from the carpeted deck and went to her door. She turned the key in the lock. Then she sat down on one of the stiffly modern chairs and opened her pocketbook.

The deed was still there, friagile and yellowed, traced with faded Spencerian script.

There was an unpleasant sinking feeling in Kathie's stomach. Was this what Sam had meant by his warning?

Oh, no! Not Alex! She thought, feeling sick. But it was to him she had told the story of the deed. She tried to imagine him on his knees here in her stateroom, his long, sensitive hands muddling through her clothing.

It couldn't be Alex! He simply wasn't the kind of man who would go through a girl's personal things.

But then she remembered how Alex had disappeared in the confusion when the gangplank was lowered away. Everyone else was on deck then.

It would have been so easy for him to go below. Uneasily she remembered the fleeting glimpse of him she had had later, down at the far end of the deck.

INTERESTED IN DEED

And the quick interest that had leaped to his eyes when she first mentioned the deed came back to her.

Her stomach turned over again. "And I liked him so much!" she mourned.

To try to shake off her oppressive mood, she began unpacking and putting her things away in the ample chests and wardrobe.

She had much to learn, she told herself ruefully. No wonder the Jensens had been concerned at her setting out alone for Honolulu.

A tap at the door interrupted her. She unlocked it and opened it cautiously, to find Bea Powers and Leilani smiling at her from the passageway.

"Hi!" Leilani said casually, but her mother gushed, "Hello, darling! May we come in?"

They were already in.

"I'm just unpacking," Kathie apologized, and the older woman swooped on the suitcases with a delighted cry.

"Oh, let me help! Clothes are my passion!" She began lifting out dresses, shaking them out with the practiced hand of the experienced traveler, fingering this material and that, admiring fulsomely and letting fall some valuable hints on what dresses were most suitable for the various shipboard activities.

Kathie had a feeling that the other woman's shrewd eyes were also cataloging and estimating costs. And she was keenly aware that the little collection that had crowded her closet at the farmhouse fitted thinly into the roomy stateroom wardrobe.

That the Powerses' own clothes were luxuriously simple was evident even to Kathie's untrained eyes. She wondered that Bea's interest in her clothes could be so great.

And suddenly she was asking herself if Bea Powers' sharp eyes could be searching for the hiding place of the deed!

It had occurred to Kathie that she and Alex had been up on deck ahead of the others, either Leilani or Bea could have walked into her stateroom, unnoticed in the general confusion in the passageway. One might have gone through her luggage earlier.

"We've been on a shopping spree in San Francisco," Bea Powers gave Kathie an appraising look. "You and Leilani are about the same size aren't you? And one of you so blonde and the other so dark! Come in tomorrow morning and we'll have a clothes orgy. Now we must run along. It will soon be dinnertime. By the way, you will be sitting at our table. I spoke to the captain. You don't mind?"

"It's very kind of you." Kathie would have been flattered by their friendliness but for the sick little doubt that she could not put aside. She added hesitantly, "Sam Ward said something about speaking to the captain, too—"

Bea Powers' eyes brightened noticeably. "He did! Then I'll tell the captain to put him with us."

He's Up a Tree, but True Love Will Find Way

LONGHIRST DRIFT, England (AP) — Love and the economic facts of live drove Bernard Bowey up a tree.

"Saving for marriage out of less than 9 pounds—$25.20—a week is tough," sighed miner Bowey. "That's why I'm living in this tree."

★ ★ ★

Bowey, 25, plans to remain in the tree until he has saved enough money to buy an air ticket for his Malayan sweetheart, Tsui Fanang.

They met when Bowey was in the army in the Far East. When he came back to England and civilian life, he vowed to send for his 18-year-old girl friend as soon as he had saved the fare.

But paying for lodgings didn't leave much so Bernard moved to the tree. He lives 12 feet up, in a hut 8 feet long, 4 feet wide and 4 feet high. He eats at the nearby pit canteen and washes and shaves at the mine.

But Bowey is afraid Tsui's mother may not approve of her leaving Malay to marry and live in England—up a tree or anywhere else.

"That," he says, "would leave me right out on a limb."

Don't Take Orders From Child

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My 13-year-old daughter refuses to go to the dentist. She has not been to one in four years and her teeth are awful. Maybe other mothers have this problem and you could help us all. Please print your answer.

UNHAPPY MOTHER

ABBY

DEAR MOTHER: Any mother who has been taking orders from her 13-year-old daughter for four years has my deepest sympathy. If your child had a broken arm, you wouldn't ASK her if she cared to go to a doctor, would you? TELL her you are taking her—and for goodness sake, take her!

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago my husband had an affair with a married woman in his office. We almost settled it in the divorce court but because three children were to be considered we changed our minds. He doesn't see her any more and has been trying hard to make it up to me. I am trying to forget the past, too. But, Abby when he takes me in his arms and kisses me, my heart aches because I know he is thinking of her. Can you help me? ACHING HEART

★ ★ ★

DEAR ACHING: Unless you enjoy making yourself miserable, don't go in for mind reading. Maybe he's thinking what an angel you are!

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I've been wondering for a long time what I should do about this problem. I'm a widow with one child. I don't have many dates but when I do have a date, should I let my date pay for the sitter? Some men can afford it better than others. But I get so embarrassed when they insist on paying the sitter and I have to put up a fight to stop them. Being a working widow I have to watch my pennies, but I have always paid my own sitters. Some of my friends say, "Let them pay," and others say, "Don't obligate yourself." I would appreciate an opinion from you or any other woman who has had this problem and solved it. GERTIE

DEAR GERTIE: On the first date, NO. Regardless. After that, if he offers with real sincerity and you know he can afford it—surrender, Dear.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I love children but enough is enough. A family moved next door to me and the first day, a little boy rapped on my back door and said he smelled I was making "something good." I was baking cookies, so when they were done I gave him some. Now, almost every afternoon he raps on my kitchen door. If I don't answer it, he goes to the front door and rings my bell. He asks me to give him "something good." Sometimes I am napping, or on the telephone, or busy, but he rings until I appear. His mother has never spoken to me—she just nods and waves. How can I handle this problem? It's like feeding a stray cat. Once you do it, there's no end. MRS. S.

★ ★ ★

DEAR MRS. S.: It's time you spoke to his mother. She probably doesn't know her son is disturbing you. If, after you tell her, the boy persists, then it's up to you to tell him (nicely), "When I have 'something good' I'll call YOU—don't call ME."

Mother of 2 Awaits Reunion

Recalls Days as Lady Marine

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

"He was the worst man any of us had ever met," she said. "He'd pace in front of all the girls and say, 'I hate you. I hate each and every one of you.' And boy, he meant it!"

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Manfred A. Isaacson, 42, was doing a little reminiscing in the kitchen of her home on Oakway drive.

Just the kind of "gossip" she'll be enjoying at a special occasion soon—if she can get away.

The mother of two was a Marine 13 years ago. The man she referred to was her old topkick.

The occasion is a reunion of lady Leathernecks, one to be held in New York June 12-13, and another in San Francisco, July 15-16.

It started with a dozen or so who remained interested enough to keep up a correspondence.

The whereabouts of more and more "buddies" were learned, and a monthly newsletter, "Scuttlebutt Special," was started.

"Finally," she said, "we thought it was high time we got together to talk over old experiences and latest happenings."

Mrs. Isaacson enlisted in the Marines in January 1941 and took basic training at Camp Lejeune, N.C. She was discharged from Miramar Air Base, San Diego, in 1946.

"It was rough," she said. "Practically the same training the men got. We lived under strict rules.

"I learned judo (she weighed little better than 100 pounds), how to fire a .45 caliber pistol, swimming and life-saving.

"But, I enjoyed it. The Marines taught me many things in life."

MOST DISLIKED MAN

Mrs. Isaacson recalls that her topkick was the most disliked man on post, but thinks the girls will simply laugh about him at the reunion.

"He said he was going to teach us how to drill, and he did! He made us press our shirts and comb our hair.

"He called me to attention once and asked me a question, but I was so flustered I couldn't get the words out of my mouth. He was so nasty."

Five-mile hikes with full field pack were natural, says the Marine veteran. Clothes were torn often on obstacle course barbed wire.

The girls had to climb up ropes hanging over the side of mock ships. Many took a crushing fall when they slipped.

She recounted the time when the trainees had to climb a high tower and jump in the water with a full pack on.

RESENTED AT FIRST

Mrs. Isaacson said the "gal gyrenes" were resented at first by the men. One experience, she remembers, didn't help matters any.

"We went out for training on an LST (landing craft). We saw a deserted beach and it was decided that we should make a landing.

"When we got on shore trees began to move and guys started popping out of foxholes all around us.

★ ★ ★

"Oh, I remember it clearly," she laughed. "This officer marched over to us and screamed 'Get out of here, you're interrupting our war!'"

A lot of the men, said Mrs. Isaacson, claimed the Corps was "going to pot" with women and dogs. Inevitably, however, the girls proved themselves and were accepted as true Marines.

Peeling potatoes as she talked, Mrs. Isaacson said she will never forget the time she pulled KP two straight weeks.

"I had to get up at four a.m., report to the kitchen at six a.m. and work right through until 10 p.m. Finally I had to go to the hospital. The doctor said it was a case of overwork."

HUBBY APPROVES

At this point, Jamie Ellen, aged four, beckoned, "Mommie, Chris needs you."

Answering one last question at the door, Mrs. Isaacson said, "Sure my husband thinks the reunion idea is fine."

Pontiac Press Photo

It has been 13 years since Mrs. Manfred Isaacson was a marine, so she searched in her old duffle bag and donned her olive drabs to get in the spirit of things. If household duties permit, the mother of two says she will attend one of the "Lady Leatherneck" reunions later this month. Pulling KP in the kitchen of her own home is a far cry from the "real thing," says Mrs. Isaacson.

Keep Eye on Goal

Creative Optimism Works

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Ignace Strasfogel made his debut as conductor at The Metropolitan Opera this winter when Dimitri Mitropoulos suffered a heart attack. Mr. Strasfogel replaced Mr. Mitropoulos in Tschaikovsky's "Eugene Onegin" and won immediate critical praise for his conducting. He received the same acclaim and enthusiastic, complimentary reviews for subsequent conducting.

When Ignace Strasfogel came to the United States from Berlin in 1933 he deliberately embraced a new attitude, one which he considers to be typically American. He capsules it this way: A European in a bad situation may lament it, but an American either tries to improve it or escape from it. He calls this attitude "creative optimism."

★ ★ ★

When asked if this is his permanent viewpoint he replied, "Yes, but it's only part of it. The important part, it seems to me, for anyone with a goal is to keep his sights fixed firmly on it, and not to be deflected from a forward, progressive effort toward it by setbacks.

"He should not waste emotional energy, which is absolutely essential in constructive activity, by lamenting misfortunes or being bitter about them. On the other hand you can't be rigid about things, holding out only for what you think will lead immediately to your goal."

Strasfogel already had won the German State prize for composition at the age of 16, and had been accompanist for such great violinists as Carl Flesch and Joseph Szigetti, later on he was composer and conductor for Max Reinhardt and accompanist and soloist for Lauritz Melchior on his tours. He also conducted some of the great orchestras such as the New York Philharmonic.

★ ★ ★

He accepted the position of assistant conductor at the Metropolitan although there was no immediate prospect of conducting in performance. He felt this post would furnish him an opportunity to acquire additional grounding in opera for the assistant conductor is entrusted with the preparation of works which another conductor will lead in performances. He found it stimulating to work with other conductors and musicians, with performers, veterans and newcomers.

For eight years he was a conductor for the Metropolitan Opera Auditions of the Air and during summers was on the staff of the Katherine Long School which the Metropolitan maintains for training talented young operatic and ballet aspirants.

When fame knocked at his door everyone was so glad for him — musicians he had worked with; singers he had coached, young artists to whom he had given pointers, and conductors for whom he had meticulously prepared works which they would later conduct in the glory of the spotlight.

I had meant to ask Ignace Strasfogel if he had not found the years of waiting for that spotlight hard, but the question seemed meaningless after what he already had said. He obviously had used the years to develop his own capacities, and just as rewarding, those of others.

They had not been years of waiting but years of doing. When this was mentioned to him he smiled in agreement and said something which every one of us could apply to our own lives. "That is the beauty of creative optimism. It frees you to explore the possibilities instead of immobilizing you to bemoan the improbable."

Ignace Strasfogel, conductor of The Metropolitan Opera, discusses his attitude of "creative optimism" in today's column.

Worn Sweaters Can Be Salvaged

If sleeves are worn out in sweaters, remove sleeves and have a sleeveless sweater. Stitch around the sleeve opening, and then crochet around it with yarn of the same shade.

If you have scrap yarn on hand, perhaps you will want to use a yarn that contrasts to the sweater color. Your youngster can wear this sleeveless

Spadea's American Designer Pattern

No need to label this dress, it is so unmistakably Brigance! A man who gives a special air to casual clothes, he has cut this one with a bias midriff, and continued the detail over to the bottom of the sleeves. This is one of the cleverest ways we've seen yet, to make a point of the wider, more important sleeve. Top-stitching on the yoke and skirt front add more distinction.

A natural in linen, it is also wonderful in shantung, tie silk, novelty cottons, pique, rayon weaves and for later, sheer wool. From this size chart select the one size best for you.

Do You Edge Dad Right Out of Picture

By RUTH MILLETT

Don't expect your husband to come right out and tell you that:

You ought to get busy and lose some weight. (But if he frequently admires the good looks of the women you know who have kept their figures, you certainly ought to take it as a broad hint that he would like it better if there were a little less of you.)

You're a poor housekeeper. (But don't ignore the storm signals when he complains that he never can find anything in all the clutter or that you are out of some household necessity again, or suggests that you get the children to clean up their rooms.)

Your social life is pretty dull. (But if he says "not the Joneses, again" when you mention that the Jonses are going to drop by for an evening of bridge, you had better check up to see if you haven't narrowed your friendships to such an extent that your social life is in a rut.)

You no longer bother to listen when he tries to talk to you. (But if you've wondered why your husband doesn't talk about his work or his hobbies or discuss the books he reads with you, chances are you quit listening to him a long time ago.)

You are so absorbed in the lives of your children that you don't have much time for him. (But if he looks disappointed when you tell him you can't go to a dinner or meeting with him because you've got to help Sis get dressed for a dance, or because Buddy has a line to say in the school play, look out. Your husband probably rightly feels that he shouldn't always be the one who can get along without you.)

★ ★ ★

He feels shut out of the family circle. (But when a man begins to say to his children, "You had better ask your Mother" it's time for his wife to start checking to see if she isn't taking over responsibilities that should be shared.)

Send Notes and Pictures Right Away

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am in a dither as to what is the correct thing to do in this situation: I was married seven months ago and due to financial circumstances, I was unable to get any of my pictures until this week. I ordered quite a lot of "thank-you photographs" which I intended to send out to those who sent wedding presents.

"I would like to know since so much time has elapsed if it would be proper to send these out now or just forget about it. I was told by a friend to send them out — that it is never too late. She also advised me to write a note explaining why it is so late. I would very much like your advice on this matter."

Answer: Your friend's advice is excellent. By all means send thanks for the wedding presents you received — and as soon as possible.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When an anniversary, or birthday, falls in the middle of the week and it is not convenient to give a party on that day, is it proper to have a party several days before the date? A friend and I have had an argument about this.

"I say that it should never be celebrated before the actual date, but can always be celebrated after. Will you please give us your opinion?"

Answer: There is no rule about this, although it is rather better that a celebration take place after an event, than before.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please settle an argument my boy friend and I are having about pointing. I said it was very bad manners to point a finger at any time. He thinks that as long as you are showing direction, it is all right. What do you say about this?"

Answer: While pointing is not a habit to get into, it is not at all improper to point at objects so long as you are careful never to give the appearance of pointing at a person.

'Summer Skies' Shows Set at Cranbrook Institute

Summer activities at Cranbrook Institute of Science include the planetarium "summer skies" demonstrations. There will be three extra public demonstrations each week in July in addition to the usual scheduling.

★ ★ ★

Scheduled are two demonstrations Wednesday afternoon at 3 and at 4 p.m. and extra demonstrations at 3 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Saturday and Sunday displays will be at the usual 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. Views through the observatory telescope will be permitted, but reservations must be made by calling the Institute.

Other summer doings include a lapidary class beginning June 9 under the tutelage of James Garlick and continuing Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. through July 28.

Two new exhibits will be featured in the natural history museum. One, a group of passenger pigeons, now extinct, shows the birds as they might have appeared in Oakland County in the late 19th Century.

Another exhibit shows Mexico's "Divine Mushroom" and concerns the curious custom of using mushrooms as drugs, a primitive religious rite that still persists among the Oaxacan Indians.

Encourage Tots to Collect Seeds

Children like to collect things. Start them at the first of the summer collecting seeds from fruits in season.

Then when they have a lull in their play days because of bad weather, show them how to paste these to an old dish or cup. They make pretty designs and can be painted, if desired, and topped with shellac for more permanent displays.

AIR VIEW OF KIRK-IN-THE-HILLS — Built among rolling hills on West Long Lake road, the Kirk-in-the-Hills is the fulfillment of a dream that began many years ago in the mind of the founder, the late Colonel Edwin S. George. The 40 acre country estate including his home were given to the Detroit Presbytery and accepted in the fall of 1947. Construction of the church was started in 1948. The church, closely resembling the classic architecture of Melrose Abbey in Scotland, was dedicated in November 1958. Rising to a height of 168 feet, the Tower of the Apostles links the church to the cloister and Kirk house, the former George home now used for Sunday School and meetings. Gardens and parking are at the east of the building. Dr. Harold C. DeWindt is pastor.

Refugee Camp List Available

European Tourists Can Visit Sites of Christian Aid Work

Going to the Salzburg music festival this summer? Or will you be motoring through Germany and France and maybe have a week in Switzerland? Near most of the cathedral and other tourist centers you will visit in Europe is a refugee camp, a food and clothing distribution center, a home for refugees no country wants.

For the serious tourist, such visits can provide unforgettable experiences and valuable information about the day-in-and-day-out Christian work of making hardship and despair more bearable.

Under each country's name in the directory is a list of projects to "Ask About"—refugee housing, Ecumenical Work Camps, refugee camps, vocational training schools, children's homes and camps, home for aged refugees and for Hungarian young people, resettlement operations, country-wide food distribution (in Greece) and church community centers.

The names, addresses and phone numbers of the program directors and denominational offices in each city and field of interchurch aid are also listed in the handy pocket directory.

It can be ordered from the Geneva office, the U.S. office of the World Council of Churches at 156 Fifth Ave., New York 10, N. Y. and Church World Service, 215 Fourth Ave., New York 3, N. Y. Enclosing two air-mail stamps with each order to the N. Y. address will bring it in time for late June departures.

ARAMAIC BIBLE SCROLLS

The Bible was written in ancient Aramaic, the language which was spoken by Christ.

During two thousand years the Bible has been translated from the original Aramaic, into Greek, then into Latin and, later into early English.

The true meaning of the Aramaic word was determined by the dots which were placed above and below that word. The Greek scholars who translated into Greek did not know the true meaning of the dots so errors were introduced into the Bible.

An example of this is found in Matthew, Chapter 6, Verse 13; King James Version.

"AND LEAD US INTO temptation, but deliver us from evil."

The Aramaic text of the ancient church of the East reads:

"AND DO NOT LET US ENTER temptation, but deliver us from evil."

Rev. Paul Hart Going to Japan

Pontiac Maps, Pictures Mailed to Tokyo for Pastor to Distribute

All members of the congregation and Sunday School at First Methodist Church are working to make the trip of the pastor, the Rev. Paul T. Hart, to Japan a success.

The pastor will take part in an evangelistic mission to Japan this summer with 42 other Americans, under the Methodist General Board of Evangelism.

Children of the church school have made picture prayer books and cardboard covered books with Bible stories and pictures. Junior boys and girls have established pen pals.

Each child has written to a child of his or her own age telling of his family life, favorite sports and hobbies.

PONTIAC MAPS TO TOKYO

To be mailed to Tokyo this week so the Rev. Mr. Hart may distribute them on his arrival will be maps of our city, pictures and stories of Pontiac.

This will include information about our Board of Education, schools, city management, industry and library.

★ ★ ★

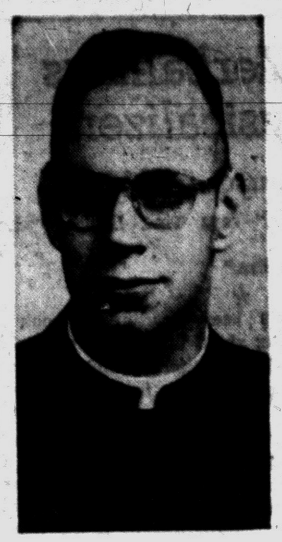
An article on our Parks and Recreation will also be included.

Securing the information was in the hands of John Grieson. Mrs. Arthur Tuffin is in charge of mailing materials to Japan.

Members of the official board will sit together in an honor service at 10 a. m. Sunday when the Rev. Mr. Hart preaches on "This Is Our Task."

John Grieson was re-elested chairman of the official board at a recent meeting; Mrs. Clayton Rule, vice chairman; and Mrs. William Kovin, secretary.

Mrs. Oliver Dunstan will be in charge of the session on commission on education at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.



Rev. JOHN F. CHILD

Rev. ROBERT F. WYZGOSKI

2 Pontiac Men Ordained to Catholic Priesthood

Detroit's majestic Cathedral of the Most Blessed Sacrament was the scene, this morning, of rites in which two Pontiac men were ordained to the Roman Catholic Priesthood.

The Most Rev. John F. Dearden, Archbishop of Detroit, was the ordaining prelate in the colorful ceremonies in which the Rev. John F. Child and the Rev. Robert E. Wyzgoski were raised to the priesthood.

The archbishop was assisted by faculty members of the two Detroit seminaries as well as by other priests.

The highlight of the ancient rites was reached as Fathers Child and Wyzgoski, along with 17 other newly ordained priests joined Archbishop Dearden in offering the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass for the first time in their priestly lives.

A native of Pontiac, Father Child is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas G. Child of North Perry Street. Following graduation from St. Michael High School, he attended the University of Detroit.

He received his B.A. degree from Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit and his theological training at St. John Provincial Seminary, Plymouth.

TO SAY SOLEMN MASS

Father Child will say his First Solemn Mass at 10 a.m. Sunday in St. Michael Church. The sermon will be preached by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Carroll F. Deady, former superintendent of schools of the Archdiocese of Detroit.

Benediction will be given by Father Child at 4 p.m. A public reception in the church hall will follow until 8 p.m.

Father Wyzgoski, also a native of Pontiac, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wyzgoski of Middlebelt road.

He attended the high school of Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit and received his B.A. Degree from SS. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, Orchard Lake. He also took his theological studies at St. John Provincial Seminary at Plymouth.

The new priest wil' say his First Solemn Mass tomorrow at 10 a.m. in St. Vincent de Paul Church. Assistant priest will be the pastor, the Rev. Thompson Marcero.

The Rev. William J. Rademacher, former assistant pastor of St. Vincent will preach the sermon.

Benediction will be given by Father Wyzgoski at 5:30 p.m. A public reception will follow in the parish hall until 8 p.m.

After a short vacation, both priests will be assigned to work in parishes in the Detroit area.

Edwin Prophet to Assist Pastor

Seminary Student Set to Preach, Teach Youth at Joslyn Church

Edwin Prophet, a middler at Pittsburgh - Xenia Theological Seminary, will arrive in Pontiac today to be student assistant for the summer months at the Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

Born in Scotland, he came to the United States in 1946 and made his home with his parents in Brooklyn, N. Y.

★ ★ ★

After serving in the U. S. Army, he worked in industry before entering the ministry.

Among his duties at the Joslyn Church will be Bible teaching, preaching, visitation, and assisting with youth groups. His work will be credited to his academic requirements for graduation.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed Sunday with the pastor, the Rev. E. I. Watkins, bringing a Communion meditation on "War Waits for the Sacraments."

The adult communicants class meets each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the church. The pastor is leader and instructor.

Methodist Parley Takes Stand Against Racial Bias

DETROIT (AP)—Delegates to the Detroit Annual Conference of the Methodist Church this week approved a firm stand against racial bias by its member churches.

Bishop Marshall R. Reed presided at the conference which has attracted representatives of 545 Methodist churches in the eastern half of the Lower Peninsula and all of the Upper Peninsula.

The conference affirmed that "no Methodist church has the right on moral, spiritual or disciplinary grounds to deny anyone the privilege of Christian fellowship because of race or national background.

Delegates also heard a report urging that revision of the state tax structure "more nearly conform to terms of equity and be conducive to economic growth in Michigan."

★ ★ ★

The conference urged that the United States and its western allies and Russia cease arming Germany with atomic weapons and that Berlin be made a free city under supervision of the United Nations until free elections unite Germany.

Delegates voted to carry out a one-million-dollar fund raising campaign for Methodist educational institutions.

Of this amount, Albion College would receive $400,000, Adrian College would get $400,000, and $200,000 would go to Garrett Biblical Institute at Northwestern University.

Three members were selected to attend the Methodist Church general conference to be held in Denver in 1960. They were the Rev. Dr. Everett K. Seymour, Detroit; the Rev. Dr. John E. Marvin, Adrian; and the Rev. Dr. Chester H. McPheeters, Flint. Three more ministerial and six lay delegates still were to be selected.

SCHOOL BOARD ELECTION

—Monday, June 8—

If You Believe:

The Board of Education needs more active and discerning participation in the management of your school affairs.

Better lines of communication are needed between the Board and the general public.

In more active and critical participation of the Board members in working with the school administration in planning policy and procedure.

In the creation of a citizen advisory committee to work with the Board in the planning and development of the building program: 1. To eliminate extravagant design which results in high costs of; A. Construction, and, B. Maintenance and operation.

With Tina, Verbalizers Outrank Physicalizers

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "I like guys," says Tina Louise, "who verbalize.

"More than guys who physicalize."

WILSON

Tina, who's been reading a book lately, something about life on the moon, that was long-haired, literary and lunar, slammed it shut and came to lunch with me where she declared herself in favor of men who have minds over muscles.

"Physicalization is getting to be such a tired thing," said the tall, titian Tina, whose physicalization in "God's Little Acre" was something to see. "Verbalization is the coming thing.

"Men," she went on, "imagine that this Don Juan approach appeals to women, but I really think the route to seduction today is by verbalization rather than physicalization."

"You sound like Amos 'n' Andy," I mentioned to Tina, who is on such a diet that she was having for lunch only a cup of coffee — and a small cup, at that.

TINA

"I mean it," insisted Tina. "It's a surer way to a woman's heart to be interested in what she's thinking than what she's wearing or not wearing.

"For example," she added, dreamily, "how she feels about the coming elections or about planetary problems."

Tina looked me straight in my brain and added: "You can get tired to the point of tears with this dull, monotonous talk from men about how attractive you are. But the man who compliments you. brain piques your interest.

"For example, I have a friend who never sends me flowers without writing a poem to go with the flowers. It's lovely for a woman to know she has inspired a poem."

"What kind of poems does he write—limericks?" I asked.

Tina looked at me rather cooly, I thought. "Free verse," she explained, patiently.

"What men are the best verbalizers?" I asked Tina.

"Adlai Stevenson," she announced at once. "Bernard Baruch . . . The authors of 'Ungly Americans' . . . Arthur Miller . . . Eli Kazan . . . David Niven . . ."

"Any other actors?"

"Not many. I don't go out with many actors. They verbalize all right, but they mostly verbalize about themselves."

★ ★ ★

Hastily she interjected: "Of course Cary Grant is one whom I admire. He's a verbalizer more than a physicalizer."

Tina, a former model and Broadway actress who has made three movies, revealed that she's off to Paris and Rome where she expects to negotiate for foreign films. She could have done more Hollywood pictures, but the producers all wanted her to do films in which she concentrated on physicalizing.

As she walked out, every man in the place turned his eyes toward her and every man present was heard saying, "Wow! What a brain she's got." Sure they did.

EARL'S PEARLS: A modern sculptor is a man who can take a rough block of stone or wood, work on it for months, and make it look like a rough block of stone or wood . . . That's earl, brother.

Pilot Has Made Over 50 Solo Ocean Flights

By United Press International

Max Conrad graduated from the daredevil school of barnstorming stunt flyers that flourished in the infancy of aviation.

At 56, the tall, lean, gray-haired pilot has made more than 50 solo crossings of the Atlantic in light planes since he began ferrying them five years ago at $2,500 a flight. He has become known as "the flying grandfather."

Although famed for his distance records, he's also a poet, author, athlete and plays several musical instruments. Whiling away the time on one flight, he wrote "The Flyer's Rosary." It starts: "By night on swift enchanted wings I fly."

Conrad is rated as an extraordinarily careful flyer, who checks his planes himself and personally installs the equipment and extra gasoline tanks needed for long flights.

★ ★ ★

The careful preparation has paid off. Last year, he flew a single-engine plane non-stop from New York to Palermo, Sicily, a distance of 4,440 miles, in 32 hours and 55 minutes. Last March, he completed a 4,994-mile flight from Chicago to Rome in 34 hours and 6 minutes.

FATHER OF 10

Conrad prefers to fly alone, but recently he took his wife along on an Atlantic crossing. The Conrads have 10 children and 2 grandchildren.

Conrad never takes food on his solo crossings because he finds it easier to stay awake when he is hungry. His flight "uniform" consists of a sports jacket and slacks. When he's not jotting random thoughts in a copybook, he frequently chats with commercial pilots while winging across the Atlantic.

He was born in Winona, Minn., and spent his boyhood there. He attended the University of Minnesota, Notre Dame, Marquette, the University of California and Colorado College.

When he was 25, he was hit in the head by a propeller. The accident temporarily deprived him of his memory, but he recovered and resumed flying. He flew some passengers to the West Coast in 1929 and stayed there for a couple of years because he liked the climate.

He joined an athletic club in Los Angeles and won several competitions, specializing in the high jump.

His love of flying took him back to the Midwest in 1931, where he joined a barnstorming troupe.

Since he began his solo crossings of the Atlantic, he has given his family many a moment of anxiety. His failure to check in by radio during one stretch of his New York to Palermo flight aroused fears that he had been forced to crash land in the Atlantic. His fuel was running low by the time he landed.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Flying grandfather Max Conrad—a hero Thursday when he set a 7,638-mile light-plane record from Africa to California—got picked up by a cop early Friday.

★ ★ ★

"I don't blame that cop," the lanky, graying San Franciscan said. "I guess I looked like a tramp, or like I had been drinking too much.

Conrad, 56, said it happened along Pacific Coast Highway in suburban Corona Del Mar, south of here, when he spent the night — intermittently — in a swank motel.

"I find it's best not to sleep or eat very much after a long flight," the professional plane-ferryer explained. "If I sleep an hour or so, then get up and walk, I find I can snap out of my fatigue much faster.

"I had a peach and cottage cheese salad about 9 p. m., lay down in my room for a couple of hours with my clothes on, then got up to walk the salad off.

"I had crossed the highway—there were no cars coming — when this policeman drove up and asked what I was doing wandering around at 3 o'clock in the morning.

"He was a little tough at first. Told me to get into his car and asked if I had any identification.

★ ★ ★

"All I had was my pilot's license. He said, 'A guy by that name just made a long flight. Are you related to him?' I said, 'I happen to be him.'

"So then we had about a half hour of visiting. He wanted to talk about aviation. But I didn't feel up to much talking so I did more walking, went to bed and got up about 7 o'clock."

"I'm caught up now," he said. "I feel fine."

Comeback Victory Pleases Tiger Boss

Single by Kaline in Ninth Downs Washington, 7-6

Sisler Winner of Wild Affair, Harris Homers; Allison Goes 5-for-5

DETROIT (AP) — What Jimmie Dykes likes best about the Detroit Tigers is the way they have come from behind since he took over as manager more than a month ago.

The Tigers and the Washington Senators looked like the Keystone Cops through four innings last night, then the local heroes gave their manager another reason for thinking they will be contenders for the 1959 American League pennant.

Al Kaline hit a ninth-inning single to drive across Eddie Yost with the run that provided a 7-6 triumph. Yost singled to lead off the inning and advanced to second on Harvey Kuenn's bunt.

"It's all right if we look lousy for a while," said Dykes later, "just so we win."

And it is doubtful if the partisan crowd of 27,537—an extremely large turnout for a Detroit-Washington game—will long remember the 11 bases on balls, the two passed balls, the two errors and the hit batsman that went into making it one of the sloppiest exhibitions in many an evening at Briggs Stadium.

The important thing is that the Tigers won, and with the New York Yankees moved in front of the Senators.

For the record, little Camilo Pascual was the loser, going all the way despite some shaky pitching and even shakier support afield. Dave Sisler, third Detroit pitcher, became a winner for the first time in a Tiger uniform. He worked the last three innings and yielded a harmless single.

The Tigers succeeded in stopping, to a degree at least, young Harmon Killebrew, the muscular third baseman who racked Detroit pitching for four home runs during his club's last trip here.

★ ★ ★

But Bob Allison, an ex-Kansas University fullback, took over adequately. He rapped out five hits in five trips, including two tremendous home runs that produced four of the Washington runs.

He hit one off starter Jerry Davie in the first inning and another off Tom Morgan in the fourth. An error by Yost, three walks and a single brought in the other Washington runs against Davie in the third.

The Tigers benefited from Washington fielding lapses, scoring four unearned runs. First baseman Julio Becquer committed a costly error amid Detroit's four-run splurge in the second inning and a passed ball let in another in the fourth. Gail Harris hit a home run, his first base hit in 13 trips, for the other tally in the third.

Two potential Washington runs were wiped out in rundowns between third and home. Killebrew was trapped in the first inning after he tripled—his only hit in four official at-bats—and Allison was nabbed in the third.

★ ★ ★

The two clubs resumed their series today with Russ Kemmerer going for the Nats. He was opposed by Paul Foytack.

The home stand ends Sunday and Dykes will send Don Mossi against Cuban Pedro Ramos.

Yanks Blast Indians 11-3, Take 6th Place

New York Can Laugh Now

By The Associated Press

The joke was good while it lasted, but it's the New York Yankees, no longer the stumbling, cellar-dwelling world champions, who are having the laugh now.

The champs, now within 4½ games of the top, nailed their third in a row last night with an 11-2 romp at Cleveland as the Injuns dropped their sixth straight.

Chicago's leading White Sox defeated Boston, 5-2. The Baltimore Orioles won, 6-1, at Kansas City.

★ ★ ★

Detroit took fifth place from Washington by beating the Senators, 7-6, skidding the Nats to seventh as the Yankees muscled into sixth in the jam-packed run on the leaders.

The Yankees, who have outscored their victims 61-16 while winning seven of their last eight, rolled up the biggest score anyone has managed this season against the Indians.

The Yankees swung for 17 hits, six for extra bases, against loser Gary Bell (4-5) and three relievers. Gil McDougald hit his first home run of the season, Elston Howard his seventh—and Howard, Bill Skowron, Hector Lopez and Norm Siebern each drove in two runs.

Art Ditmar (3-4) won it with a seven-hitter. He didn't walk a man and had a five-hit shutout until Billy Martin homered in the eighth. Rocky Colavito, who has homered in each game against New York, hit his 14th, third off Ditmar, in the ninth inning.

A three-run, pinch double by Harry Simpson broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth for the White Sox. Gerry Staley was the winner in relief of Early Wynn.

Gus Triandos' 12th home run sewed it up for the Orioles, just .003 percentage points behind Cleveland, in the third inning against Ned Garver (4-4).

Gene Woodling's three-run homer in the ninth gave an added boost to Milt Pappas (5-2), who settled for a five-hitter. Baltimore manager Paul Richards and five Birds, including Triandos, were ejected in a third-inning run-in with the umps.

THE KILLER IS OUT — Harmon (Killer) Killebrew, Washington Senators infielder, is out at home plate as he tries to score from 3rd on Julio Becquer's grounder to Detroit Tiger shortstop Rocky Bridges in the 1st inning of Friday night's game at Briggs Stadium. Lou Berberet, Detroit catcher, makes the tag after taking the throw from Bridges as umpire John Rice looks on. The Tigers won, 7-6.

New Newcombe Wins 4th Straight

By The Associated Press

Big Don Newcombe, once the best pitcher in baseball, finally is on his way back.

Newk has won four straight, putting away a 5-4 record last night by checking San Francisco's slugging Giants, 7-2, on three hits. It gave Newcombe a 3-0 record against the Giants for the year and a plus—.500 season standing for the first time since late July of 1957, when he was 9-8.

The defeat left the second place Giants 2½ games behind Milwaukee, beaten 5-1 by the Los Angeles Dodgers, who once again ganged up on Warren Spahn. The Chicago Cubs beat Pittsburgh's third place Pirates, who had won six straight, 10-5. The St. Louis at Philadelphia game was rained out.

Newcombe, a few days shy of his 33rd birthday, had a one-hit shutout for five innings in a duel with left-hander Johnny Antonelli, a long-time foe. Willie Kirkland's home run gave the Giants a 1-1 tie in the sixth, but the Reds held to one run—Roy McMillan's homer—and two hits for five frames, then chased Antonilli with five runs in their sixth.

★ ★ ★

Antonelli, now 7-3 after winning four in a row, was tagged for a tie-breaking, leadoff homer by Johnny Temple and the Reds then cut loose with six consecutive hits after two were out. Frank Robinson, Dutch Dotterer and Walt Dropo lined consecutive doubles, and Frank Thomas, McMillan and Newk followed with singles. That made six of the Reds' 10 hits good for extra bases.

Johnny Podres (6-2) won his fourth in a row for the Dodgers with a seven-hitter at Milwaukee.

The Dodgers, 27-14 lifetime against Spahn, handed the southpaw ace his sixth defeat in 13 decisions.

★ ★ ★

Dale Long homered in a three-run first inning for the Cubs, once more at .500., and Ernie Banks hit a two-run homer, his 13th, as they put it away against Vern Law (5-3) in a four-run second.

Dick Stuart hit a two-run homer in the first inning for the Pirates, the first ever to clear the center field fence—457 feet from the plate—in Forbes Field's half-century history.

Miss Rawls held a 14-point advantage over the field going into today's third and fourth rounds at Canoe Brook Country Club. The final round of the 90-hole event will be played tomorrow.

Three Veterans Close Behind

Littler Holds Eastern Lead

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gene Littler, crewcut picture of a star from Singing Hills, Calif., remained front and center today for the third act of the Eastern Open Golf Tournament.

Surrounding him was a familiar old chorus line, 44-year-old Ed (Porky) Oliver of Denver, 35-year-old Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and 48-year-old Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill.

★ ★ ★

Littler, 28, who has walked off with three honors in this year's road show of the golf pros, had a one-stroke edge halfway through the Eastern production with 65-67—132. That was a dozen shots better than par for the new Pine Ridge course.

★ ★ ★

Oliver, a 20-year traveling veteran noted for finishing as understudy, was next with 66-67. Hawkins, winner of only one major title in 12 years, was third at 67-68.

Ransom, a professional performer since 1932 and now only a bit competitor, held the fourth spot with 70-66. His second-round score was the best of 130 competitors.

Jones to Captain Eastern Track Team Next Year

Hayes Jones, Eastern Michigan's nationally known hurdler and dashman, has been elected to captain the Huron track squad next season. Jones, who rates among the best in the nation in the high and low hurdle events and in the 100 yard dash, will complete his junior year at EMC next week.

Highly respected by his teammates, Jones is even more respected by his opponents who have seen him run such outstanding times as 22.5 in the low hurdles, 13.6 in the highs and 9.4 in the 100 yard dash. Jones has also turned in a 20.9 in the 220 yard dash. His low hurdles time ties the best in the nation this year while his high hurdle time bests by .01 of a second the best in the nation this season. Elias Gilbert, who has been rated by some sports publications as the best hurdler in the nation has a time of 13.7 to his credit.

Jones, the Pontiac youth who made good, will captain the team through both the indoor and outdoor seasons in 1959.

Talbott and Grill Class B Winners

Talbott Lumber rallied for two runs in the 7th inning to nip Pontiac Business Institute, 7-6, and Griff's Grill scored twice in the 5th stanza for a 5-3 victory over Don Nicholie in Class B City League baseball games Friday at Jaycee Park.

An infield error, a walk and Fritz Holler's single climaxed Talbott's uprising in the 7th and pinned a tough defeat on pitcher Howard Pearl of PBI. Bob Pickett was the winning hurler in relief. The winners were outhit, 10 to 7.

Three singles, a walk, a hit batsman and a sacrifice enabled Griff's to break a 3-3 tie in the 5th and down the Nicholie club. Bob Garrett hurled the distance for Griff's and Greg Meadows went the route on the mound in a losing cause. Nicholie was outhit by a 6-3 margin.

City Bowler Promoted

Len Biallas of Pontiac has been promoted from 3rd vice-president to 2nd vice-president in the Greater Detroit Bowling Association. William Boyer was recently re-elected to represent the northern district. He is a Milford resident.

Technicality May Keep Red China on Sidelines

By The Associated Press

Red China probably won't compete in the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif. — but the reason is a technicality and not as a result of action by the United States.

An official spokesman made this point yesterday in attempting to clear up some of the confusion and controversy surrounding the recognition of Red China by the International Olympic Committee.

The IOC action last week in Munich drew protests in non-Communist countries, particularly in the United States where there was agitation for barring the Communist Chinese from the Winter Games.

The Winter Olympics are scheduled Feb. 18-28.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. State Department called the IOC action "a clear act of political discrimination." Congressmen called for U.S. action in the matter. And Robert L. King, executive director of the Squaw Valley Games, said the Red Chinese "cannot and will not participate."

King added that the National Chinese, on the other hand, had applied before the IOC action and claimed they would be allowed to take part.

"We as the host nation have nothing to say about who competes and who doesn't" said the Olympic offiical, who declined use of his name. "We are compelled to accept all entries approved by the IOC and the various sports federations."

That's where the technicality comes in.

The IOC recognizes Red China, but has not yet readmitted the country.

Red China, which quit the IOC in a huff in 1958 because Nationalist China was recognized, must be approved by various sports organizations and then ask for reentry into the IOC.

★ ★ ★

The IOC has no meeting scheduled until just before the Winter Games. So there will be no opportunity for re-admitting Red China in time. Rules are that countries must enter the various sports at least eight weeks before the games.

Jr. Baseball Meeting Slated

A final meeting of junior baseball managers in the Pontiac Parks and Recreation summer program will be held Monday night in the Health Department conference room at City Hall.

The session will be divided into two sections. Class F and Widget leaders will gather at 7 p.m. followed by the "E" and "D" bosses at 8.

League oragnization, rules and regulations, practice and regular schedules and procedures in the signing and releasing of players will be discussed. Regular play starts June 15.

Anyone interested in managing Widget teams should attend the meeting since that group is lacking instructors. Widgets are 11 years old and under. Class F players are 13 and under, "E" 15 and under and the "D" boys 18 and under.

Area Prep Stars Will Seek College Glory

By CHUCK ABAIR

When the college school bells start ringing come next September the majority of the Oakland County area senior athletic stars of the past season will be enrolled somewhere.

A few like St. Frederick football whiz Jack Lyon are headed for the service and some will go right into working but the rest will be turning up at campuses throughout the country when it's time to hit the books again.

Although several of the standouts remain undecided between two or three schools, the universities and colleges of Michigan are certain to reap the biggest part of the harvest just as they do each year.

Outside interest in state athletes keeps growing all the time making it more difficult for the smaller institutions to land some of the better talent.

A good example is the way Wyoming and Colorado have started beating the bushes in this sector since some former Michigan State coaches moved out that way. Louisville is another school which keeps a close eye on boys in Oakland and surrounding areas.

ANDERSON

★ ★ ★

Michigan, with its young grid staff going all out to rebuild, has grabbed off the largest number of 1st-rate players followed by Michigan State, Western and Central Michigan.

John Lucadam, Oakland County's top performer in football last fall, speedster Mike Agee and steady end Frank Clappison of Farmington, rugged Jim Ward of Imlay City, smooth Southfield quarterback Bob Filar, big tackle Bob Lovell of Birmingham, linemen Gary Bryce of Dondero and Gary Brazier of Kimball are some of the gridders going to "M."

MEYER

McDANIEL

Some, like Lucadam and Ward, could wind up reaching greater fame in other sports. East Detroit sharpshooter Don Petroff, North Branch miler Dick Butterfield and versatile Harvey Chapman of Farmington are other future Wolverines.

★ ★ ★

MSU could come up with three of the top catches in the lot in Farmington's track sensation Warren Cawley, chunky Milford pitching ace Terry Hoy and 210-pound tackle Nelson Schrader of Northville.

★ ★ ★

Cawley has been following the pattern of Hayes Jones and could be a future Olympic great. His choice of State was a surprise with the Farmington athletic staff carrying so much Michigan flavor. Hoy has starred three years at Milford and is currently in his 2nd year in Pontiac city ball. Schrader has been a big reason Northville has dominated Wayne-Oakland football play in recent years.

Don Castle of Utica will be joining his brother on the Spartan track team. Going along with Don will be Mt. Clemens' Dean Carpenter.

★ ★ ★

Western Michigan, always known for its baseball teams, has been building in basketball. The Broncos could take another big step upward if Pontiac Central deadeye John Bandy and Ferndale sparkplug Toy Palmer are successful in enroling there. Western has already landed Kirk Evans of Walled Lake and 6-9 Jeff Goodrich of Northville.

JENNINGS

LOTHERY

Dick Whitmer, out of school a year after an outstanding career at PCH, is expected to enter Western with Larry Douglas, who captained the Chiefs last fall. Birmingham halfback ace Ed Busch is also going there.

FINK

★ ★ ★

Wendy Meyer and Tony Hiller of Waterford, Gene Lothery of Rochester, Lapeer's Butch McKillen and two-time All-State back Frank Hartway are among those heading for Central Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Others include George Coggins of Holly, LeRoy Phillips of Hazel Park and Don Stivers, L'Anse Creuse.

The University of Detroit should improve its basketball fortunes with the addition of Pontiac Central's rebounding great Harrison Munson and state tournament MVP George McDaniel of Holly. The latter has also been considering New Mexico but should end up with the Titans. Another hoop candidate will be Pat McLaughlin of Royal Oak Shrine.

Graduating Chief Duke Relyea will be taking his football and wrestling ability along to Eastern Michigan. Brighton boys Russ Hudson and Keith Williams will enroll at Ferris as will Darrell Kinney of Holly.

★ ★ ★

Walled Lake's 1-2 backfield combination of Frank Fink and Mike Wurst will continue as teammates at Colorado while Wyoming came up with a good one in landing Newt Acton of Clawson. Neil Stevenson of Farmington is also reported going there.

Traveling down to Louisville come fall will be Ferndale buddies Tom Morey and Mike Crane and Northville's Bob Starnes.

★ ★ ★

Watch out for Flint Junior College in basketball if PCH mid-year grad Charley Barge and Berkley's Al Krumm go through with plans to study there. Former Clarkston court magician Leroy Parks had similar ideas but has been working in California.

★ ★ ★

Princeton will get the Cranbrook duo of Tom Bray and Rick Williams, Chet Wlodokwski, OL St. Mary court star, and his running mate, Mike Wiktor, will go to Providence and Xavier, respectively.

Two of the county and state's topnotch athletes mulling over many offers are Birmingham pole vaulter Gary Alcorn and Berkley cage-track ace Dave Burris. Michigan may have the inside track on the latter over MSU, Wisconsin and DePauw.

BANDY

WLODKOWSKI

Versatile athletes Terry Anderson of Milford and Pat Emerick of Imlay City are considering Ferris and Western. Avondale line great Bill Jennings is talking of Wyoming and Colorado. Western is also on the mind of big Chuck Ebersole of Rochester as is Wayne.

If basketballers Don Harned of Troy and Madison's Rick Moos go on in school it will likely be somewhere in the MIAA.

RELYEA

CAWLEY

OTHERS LOOKING TO COLLEGE

Tom O'Brien (PCH), John Waters (Cranbrook), Frank Voelfray and Mike Harris (Kimball), John Barton (Port Huron), John Lengemann (Imlay), Brian Kennedy (Oxford) and Bill Boyd (Northville) Michigan; John Kreag (Kimball) and Ray Dries (East Detroit) State; Ed Lauers (North Branch) U. of D.; Reid Bannow (Utica) Michigan Tech.

Also Dick Finkbeiner (Waterford), Bob Tribula (Hazel Park), John Kursteiner and John Buckholz (Mt. Nate Petty of New Haven is undecided between Ferris, Western and Port Huron Junior College. His teammate, Don Smith, will attend the latter. Jim Burkhart of Shrine will enter either Michigan or Detroit. It will be Western or Adrian for East Detroit's Ron Schult. Bill Bailey of Oak Park is set at Valparaiso.

Michigan State or Central will be the future home of Jim Murphy of Hazel Park. Ferndale star Bruce Rogers is set at Miami of Ohio as is Dave Williams of South Lyon at Murray State in Kentucky.

Ex-Ring Champ Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry Harris, world bantamweight champion at the turn of the century, died yesterday. He was 77.

Harris won the title in 1901 by outpointing Pedlar Palmer of England in a 15-round bout after Terry McGovern had vacated the crown.

Dawson Wins 2nd Title

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—Johnny Dawson, 56-year-old Palm Desert, Calif., real estate man, beat the Apawamis Club par by one stroke Friday as he shot a 71 for a 36-hole total of 143 and his second straight U.S. Seniors' Golf Assn. championship.

Art McGee GMTC Champ

First 3 Shots Enough to Win 'Ace Tourney'

It didn't take long for Art McGee to win the General Motors Truck & Coach Division "hole-in-one tournament," which concluded a five-week run yesterday at the GMTC driving range on the corner of Opdyke and South Boulevard.

McGee, a Royal Oak resident who works in the unified drafting department at GMTC, took 1st place in the contest with exactly three shots at the flag, which stood 150 yards from the tee.

Although McGee returned to the driving range for repeat whacks at the staff, his winning shot was among the first three balls he hit. McGee's best effort wound up four feet five inches from the cup and he received a caddy cart for the top prize.

Upwards of 190 persons participated in the "hole-in-one tourney," which was limited to GMTC employees, and nobody could come closer than half a foot to McGee's victorious shot.

★ ★ ★

Howard Smith captured 2nd place with a shot that measured four feet 11 inches from the pin and he was awarded a pair of golf shoes as his prize. A golf bag went to Bill Condon, who finished 3rd on a drive that stopped 5-11 away.

Prizes were given through the first 20 places. Contestants finishing 4th, 5th and 6th each won six golf balls, a set of wood covers went to the No. 7 shooter, those taking 8th, 9th and 10th got three balls apiece and the remaining 10 winners each earned a single ball.

Players were permitted to enter the contest as often as they wished at a fee of a penny for every ball hit to help defray the cost of running the range, now in its 2nd year of operation.

From each basket of range balls hit, the contestant selected the three drives judged closest to the cup as his or her entries in the competition. The one nearest to the pin of the three became the official entry.

GMTC's recreation staff conducted the event as a form of initiation of the driving range for the 1959 season.

The 20 prize winners and the distances of their shots from the hole are as follows:

1—Art McGee, 4 feet 5 inches.
2—Howard Smith, 4-11.
3—Bill Condon, 5-11.

6—Charles Egan, 13-2.
7—Ervin Vallad, 16-6.
8—Robert Bumpter, 16-9.
9—Carl Daniel, 16-11½.
10—Marshall Vallad, 17-10.
11—Alex Kovaleski, 18-4½.
12—Kurt Stubenvoll, 19-5.

U.S. Open Title at Stake June 11-13

Exclusive Field of 150 to Seek Coveted Crown

State Has 5 Golfers at Old Winged Foot Next Weekend

MAMARONECK, N.Y. — America's most coveted golf championship—the National Open—will be decided here next weekend at the famous Winged Foot Country Club.

The 59th U.S. Open tournament, scheduled Thursday through Saturday, June 11-13, will be played under a new format on the old Winged Foot west course where Bobby Jones won his 3rd Open title 30 years ago after a thrilling duel with Al Espinosa.

Only 150 golfers will start this tourney, the smallest number since 1934, but they're a mighty select group whose fitness has been determined by exhaustive preliminary tests.

The new U.S. Golf Association system of double local and sectional trials was unpopular with many professionals and it prevented such golfing luminaries as Jimmy Demaret and George Bayer from making the grade.

★ ★ ★

But it did make a sincere attempt to stop unworthy players from sneaking into the event who might have uncorked a couple of hot rounds to eliminate those who really do belong in the tourney.

From the standpoint of size, attendance and money, this year's gruelling 72-hole medal play challenge will be the biggest Open in history. The original entry of more than 2,400 was a record.

As usual, the entire field will play 18-hole rounds on Thursday and Friday. Then the low 50 shooters plus ties will enter Saturday's 36-hole finale. If a tie results, an 18-hole playoff will be held Sunday.

The big questions here are: "Can Ben Hogan win his 5th Open crown?" and "Can Sam Snead win his 1st?"

Although both of these great players are now relatively inactive in tournament golf, they still are the top gallery attractions.

Michigan will have five golfers in the starting Open field. They include Wally Burkemo of Franklin Hills, exempt from qualifying; Gene Bone of Pontiac, Chick Harbert of Northville, Tom Draper of Birmingham and Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile. Draper and Johnson are amateurs.

Javelin Mark Bettered

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — Unheralded Al Cantello of the U.S. Marines has bettered the world record for the javelin throw.

Cantello threw the spear 282 feet, 3½ inches last night at the 20th annual Compton Invitational Relays. The mark surpassed the recognized world standard of 281-2½ set in the 1956 Olympics by Egil Danielsen of Norway.

★ ★ ★

The javelin was weighed and found to be regulation. But it was impounded for a still further weighing before an application for recognition is filed.

The Texas quartet of Wally Wilson, Drew Dunlap, Hollis Gainey and Eddie Southern swept the mile relay in 3:08.7, breaking the intercollegiate mark of 3:09.1 set by a Texas team last year.

Eighteen - year-old Archie San Romani Jr., of Wichita, Kan., whose dad was a famous miler in the 1030s, gave the crowd one of its biggest thrills when he charged from well back to take third in the open mile. His time of 4:08.9 was the fastest ever recorded in this country for a high school athlete.

Seasoned Jerome Walters of the Southern California Striders was the winner in 4:06.2.

Birmingham's Smith Paces Sunnehanna

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Ben Smith of Birmingham, Mich., fired a 4-under-par 32-34—66 at Sunnehanna Country Club Friday to take the first-round lead in the Sunnehanna Tournament of Amateur Champions.

The 38-year-old Smith came within one stroke of tying the course record here.

Trailing Smith by one stroke was Tommy Aaron, of Gainesvaille, Ga., who was on the U.S. Walker Cup team. Aaron shot a 34-33—67 on the par 35-35—70 course.

Dees Inks Piston Pact

DETROIT (UPI) — Archie Dees, acquired in a post-season trade that sent center Phil Jordon (cq) to the Cincinnati Royals, returned his signed contract for the 1959 National Basketball Association season to the Detroit Pistons today.

A CHAIN IS AS STRONG AS—

How many times have you heard someone say:

"A chain is as strong as its weakest link?"

On the subject of a community's attraction for industry it can be said as fairly that the community is as strong as its weakest link.

A town's pulling power with industry is made up of such links as . . . labor supply and skills . . . public facilities and services . . . schools . . . all-around livability . . . reputation for productivity . . . availability of financing . . . attitude toward new industry . . . treatment of present industry . . . what present industry says about the community . . . what people of the community say about each other.

Let us look for weak links and if we find one let's work together to forge a strong one in its place.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

MICHIGAN MEANS BUSINESS

Porch Settin' Still an American Pastime

When the work is done, what could be more pleasant than kicking off your shoes and going out on the back porch for an hour's relaxation? Or for the whole evening if you can wrangle it.

Although for a time, builders considered the back porch obsolete and left it out of house plans, it wasn't long before they learned that porch-settin' was an engrained habit in American life. Now, of course, they hasten to include the porch or desk as a necessary element of the modern home.

Design for the porch has changed somewhat since Grandpa's day, but it's probably even more popular now than then, for modern put it to use every hour of the day — from breakfast coffee to evening star gazing.

Much of the porch's present popularity stems from its accessibility and convenience. Nowadays, the porch is built on the same level as the interior floors, so that it is really just an extension of the indoor living areas, and it usually extends the full width of the house with access from more than one room.

The modern porch version or deck is floored with 2x4, 2x6 or 2x8 inch planks of Douglas fir, and the deck boards are spaced a quarter inch apart for water drainage. Because of this construction, cleaning it consists only of an occasional bout with the garden hose, a process which could hardly be termed fatiguing.

* * *

Even repainting chores are eliminated with new porch design, for usually, the deck boards are simply allowed to weather naturally, though in some cases, homeowners prefer to start them out in life with a coat of natural wood stain and let them weather from there.

Shapes for the porch or deck vary widely, and hardly a soul sticks to the common rectangle. Porch railings offer an opportunity for interesting designs; the posts can be straight 2x4 or 4x4 inch fir or they can be graded in size from wide at the base to narrow at the top so that the railing appears to slant away from the porch decking. The top rail should be wide and low enough to double as extra seating space.

Furnishing the porch has become quite a game, and anything goes as long as comfort remains the keynote. Manufacturers of outdoor furniture are now providing pieces which offer distinctive design and gay colors, as well as solid comfort.

Painting Parties Fun When Well Planned

Did you ever give a paint-up party? Sometimes young marrieds risk this doubtful form of hospitality, and with good results. It must be carefully planned however. Have a nice supper prepared and time for relaxation and fun.

But for the painting part of the occasion, definitely assign chores to teams of two to six. Have this all planned ahead of time. One team can move furniture and cover it. Another can dust walls and put down drop-cloths. Others can bring ladders and open paint cans. Who knows, it might turn out successfully.

Write to the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, 1500 Rhode Island Ave., N.W., Washington 5, D.C. for a copy of "Painting Parties Are Fun."

The Belgian Congo is the world's principal producer of diamonds used for industrial purposes.

Special Protection for Air Conditioner

The air-conditioner that regulates the temperature of your office or room at home depends upon a chemical coating to keep it functioning properly. Wherever moisture and oxygen are present in large quantities, metals rust rapidly.

The rate of rusting depends upon oxygen reach the affected area. All parts of the air-conditioner must be given suitable protective coatings. Otherwise the demon rust would take control, and the unit would be useless.

Expert chemists in the paint, varnish and lacquer industry work constantly to perfect and improve coatings needed for the endurance of practically everything we use in our daily lives.

When you remodel your game room, you might consider framing that large picture or mural with blocks of ceramic tile. The variety of colors and sizes available will make this truck fun to do and rewarding to view.

The logical "companion piece" for a solid glass wall is solid wood paneling on the wall opposite. Use of wood reduces glare and its natural warmth and beauty blend well with the indoor-outdoor setting.

If it weren't for the durability of ceramic tile, ancient history would have more gaps than it does. Much of the world's history, art, technology and culture has been traced through tile produced by the earliest civilizations.

Ready Garage for Summer

A home handyman in one or two weekends can transform a garage interior into a neat and functional area. Compact storage areas for gardening supplies and sporting equipment can be added at the same time to provide plenty of handy storage space during the outdoor living season.

* * *

The lower garage walls can be covered to a height of 4' quickly by nailing large panels of ¼" hardboard over the existing studs. Extremely durable, the hardboard panels will not split, splinter or crack from hard wear or abrasion.

Upper walls can be "put to work" if they are covered with Peg-Board paneling, which is strong enough to support such heavy items as lawn mowers, wheelbarrows, large ladders and shelves for paint and auto supplies. Heavy-duty fixtures are available with the perforated hardboard at lumber dealers.

Since the fixtures can be slipped in and out of the perforations easily, a garage storage pattern can be changed quickly without marring the paneling.

A free plan showing how to "face-lift" a garage interior can be obtained by writing a postal to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., requesting plan No. AE-326.

background for LIVING

PLENTY OF ROOM — The living room is large, has a dining ell in the rear. Windows on three sides let in lots of light. The simple mantel is painted to match the walls. The inner frame is marble. That picture of mountains above the fireplace probably keeps Mrs. Searles from being too homesick for her native Seattle. This room is done in shades of pink and green. The furniture is mahogany.

Your Neighbor's House

It's Nice to Have a Roomy Home

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Last winter we ran the story of a parsonage in Clarkston. Today, the story concerns a parsonage in the village of Franklin. Although the house itself isn't brand new, the residents are. And like the first parsonage, this one is also red brick Colonial with white trim. Shutters are gray.

Until last November the Robert Searles family lived in a small house (with almost no closets) right in the village near the church. Mr. Searles is minister of the Franklin Community Church.

Mrs. Searles is a friendly person, easy to talk with. She was brought up on the West Coast, in Seattle, but has become a true Midwesterner by now. She is even used to the drenching rains we have in comparison to the lighter but more frequent rains in Seattle.

The three children were in school. Lynn will be 12 by the time this story is published. Leslie, the only boy, is 10. Marsha is six and now an all-day student. There's a comfortable looking calico cat.

The living room is large with a dining ell at one end. The entire floor is covered with pink and gray carpeting. Walls and draperies are a gray-green.

The mantel and outside frame of the simple fireplace are painted to match the walls. The inner frame is black marble, as is the hearth.

Green upholstery covers the long sofa. The same material in pink upholsters the arm chair. Next to the fireplace is a striped chair. Opposite the sofa is a baby grand piano.

In the dining room section the furniture is mahogany. Chair seats are covered with a figured material. The back wall of this area is a window wall.

There's a separate eating area in the kitchen, closed off from the work area by a peninsula counter with cupboards below. All cupboards are knotty pine and all counter tops beige linen weave Formica.

The floor linoleum is white, spattered in red, blue, yellow and gray. There's a border stripe of red. The ceiling is pale green.

The wall at the eating end is papered in a gay farm scene. The plastic topped breakfast table has coppertone metal legs with brass trim. Upholstery is beige.

The house has a center hall that is slate floored. You can go up to the two dormer bedrooms by stairs that end in the vestibule. Another short hall leads to the first floor bedroom.

On the other side of the hall from the living room is the den. This is the room the family really enjoys, Mrs. Searles says. Chairs are lined up in front of the television set. Knorry pine bookcases and cupboards store equipment for leisure time activities.

WINDOW SEAT

The paper is one with a documentary print. The rug is pale aqua. There's a nice wide window seat under the small paned windows that form a bay at the front. The space beneath this seat is used to store magazines.

In the bedroom hallway there is a good-sized linen closet. This has a convenient sorting shelf that pulls out.

Having two walk-in closets in their bedroom is a source of delight to Mrs. Searles. Hers even has a built-in shoe rack. And lights.

The floors are natural finished oak. Furniture is mahogany in a golden shade. Draperies are flowered. There's a pull-down lamp on either side of the bed. Near the south windows is a maple desk.

The living room carpeting is used on the stairs. In the children's rooms there are built-in desks in the dormer windows. The rooms are large, each with a walk-in closet. There is more storage in the hallway. The Searles have the decorating of these rooms in their future plans.

In the basement, half of the space is paneled in pine for a recreation room. It isn't furnished yet but the youngsters play down here. The older members of the family work occasionally on two tables they are refinishing. One is a beautiful cherry dropleaf which will be promoted to the dining room when it is done. The other, called a cathedral table, still needs hours of work.

Clean Out That Garage for Safety's Sake

Something is cooking in a good many garages this summer, and it hots up to a dish of potential, and very real, trouble.

★ ★ ★

That "something" is the careless way many of us have of stockpiling all our oddments in the garage.

★ ★ ★

Flammable liquids, chemicals, pressureized bug bombs and sprays, paper, old rags, OILY rags, wood scrap and power mower fuel: all jammed into the unventilated, sun-drenched, fire-prone garage.

★ ★ ★

Chances are there'll be a few cans of paint and some paint thinner, too.

What to do about it is to have a drastic housecleaning. Rack the foot-puncturing yard tools, get airtight cans for oily rags, scrap the scrap and remove pressure-packed spray-type articles to ceiling-high shelves in the basement, if your garage is a real sizzler.

★ ★ ★

You might, too, consider installing louver-like ventilators in the roof peaks of the garage for purposes of ventilation.

★ ★ ★

Ideally, power mower fuel should be kept in a ventilated, locked shed away from house or garage, but perhaps that is too much to hope for. At the very least, buy containers especially designed for gasoline storage. No more of those gallon jugs with a hank of cloth for a stopper.

Your army of efficient chemical garden aids has one drawback; most of the "soldiers" are potentially toxic to humans and animals, too.

Shelve them out of reach of small fry, preferably in locked cupboards, ventilated so that heat won't build up.

★ ★ ★

Read those labels and DON'T transfer substances to unlabeled containers. In case of trouble you'll want first-aid information, fast.

THEY'RE DEADLY

Many crabgrass killers contain phenyl mercury compounds. They're very poisonous, particularly in liquid form. Buy only what you need at one time.

★ ★ ★

Arsonate - based chemicals require extreme care in handling, too.

Never apply any of the garden chemicals into the wind, either in liquid or powder form. "Lrift" of spray or powder can do you no good at all, if you get in mouth, nose and eyes or in concentration on the skin.

Back to that garage, again; long enough to haul the power mower or cultivator out into the yard. Never start it in the garage. Never fuel it while engine is hot. While it's cooling, sit down and cool your own motor. Both procedures are lifesavers.

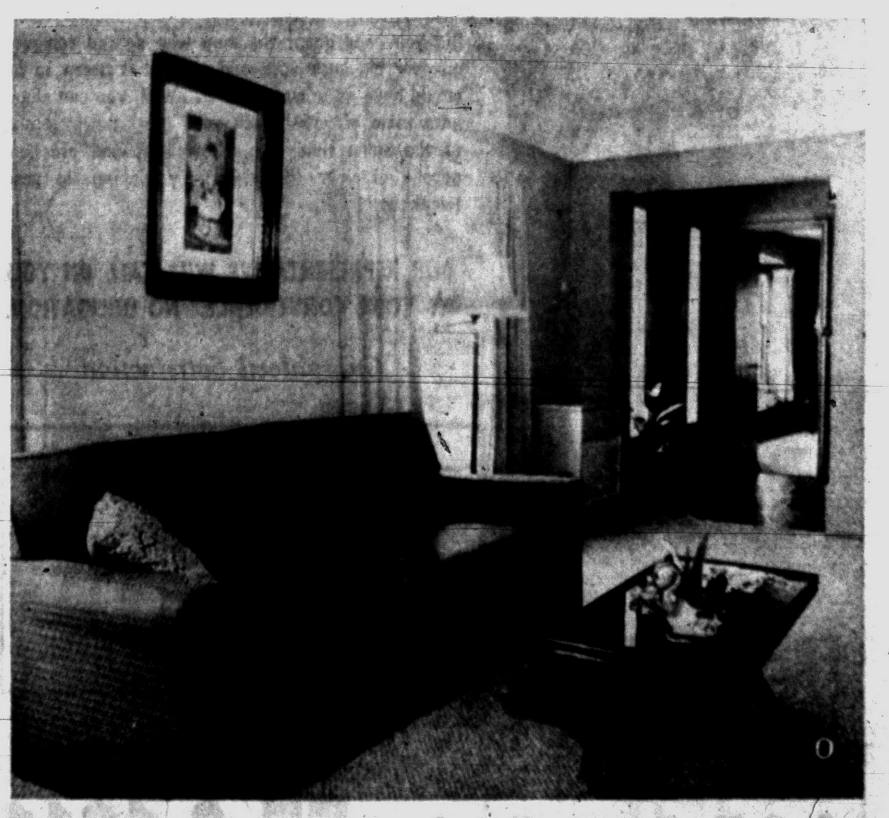
And keep that spark plug disconnected when the machine is not in use. Protect children and nosy adults, too, against themselves.

LOUNGING SPOT — The wide window seat in the den is a favorite spot for members of the family. Mrs. Searles and the cat take advantage of it when the children are in school. Underneath this window seat the space has been left open and is used as a storage space for magazines.

FARM SCENE PAPER — In the eating area of the kitchen the walls are papered in a gay farm scene. Bamboo cafe curtains are used on the short window. Cupboards are all knotty pine with black hardware. Counter tops are beige. The floor has spatter print linoleum on it. That door just beyond the peninsula counter opens into a screened porch which promises to be the family living spot this summer.

BRICK COLONIAL — The Robert Searles home on Wing Lake road is a red brick Colonial house with white trim and gray shutters. The Searles have been residents here since last November. The house had been occupied before they moved in. The end dormers upstairs bring light into the children's bedrooms. There is one bedroom on the first floor. At the right is an attached garage. Before they moved, the Searles lived right in the village of Franklin.

Pontiac Press Photos by Tom Geris



THROUGH THE HALLWAY — Taken from the fireplace end of the living room, this picture shows the front door and entrance hall. Beyond that is the den. The traffic flow in this house is good. You don't have to go through any room to reach another room. The sofa is a deeper green than the pale green walls. Floor-length draperies match the walls.

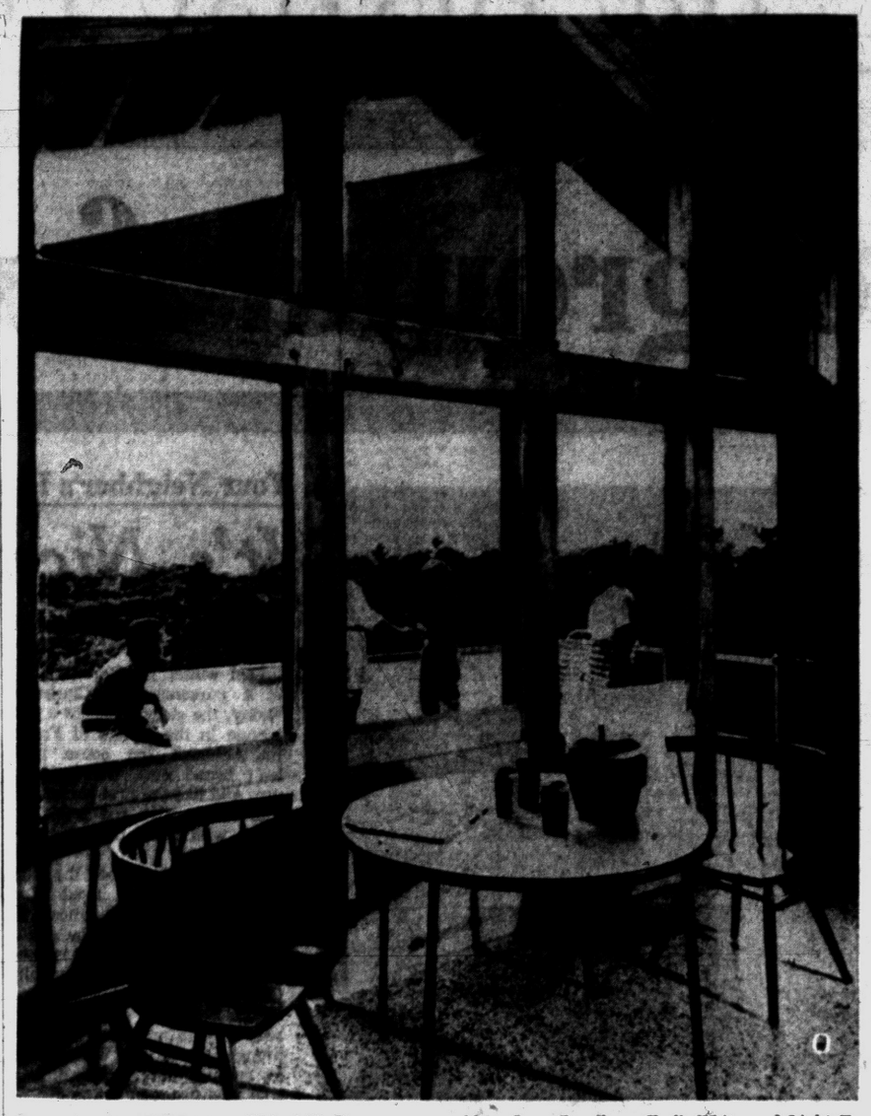
To Suit Every Need

Just as different materials are used in constructing your house, so must different types of protective coatings be employed as surface finishes. The paint chemists and manufacturers are toiling continually to perfect paints and varnishes for specific purposes. Consult your paint dealer for the kind of covering you need for wood, brick, stucco, cement, hard board or combinations of these materials.

Auto Made to Last

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—When police stopped John G. Flynn, 79, for driving an uninspected car, he informed them it was "the best car on the road." He later won dismissal when he explained to the judge he was out of the state attending a funeral when the inspection sticker on his 1934 convertible expired.

London has 15 passenger bridges over the Thames.



SLANTED SHADES — This friendly summer home features a large living room with a high, peaked ceiling and a huge window wall at each end of the house. A colorful, unique window shade installation forms the perfect backdrop for a modern version of an old favorite — captain's chairs and table. Each window panel has a different colored set of shades, so you'll find soft blue, Jonquil yellow, Chalk White and Light Tan on the windows and also repeated on the spattered vinyl floor. This picture was taken in the home of Robert W. Houseman, A. I. D., Home Furnishings and Decorating Editor of The American Home magazine. Slanted shades are available locally.

New Floor Covers Old

Thanks to a new "thin-set mortar" developed by the Tile Council of America, a new ceramic tile floor can be installed right over an old one without greatly increasing the height of the floor. This advance in tile technology greatly simplifies the problem of remodeling an old bathroom with the new shades and designs of ceramic tile available from domestic producers.

Start With a Chalk Line, Laying Tile an Easy Job

Home handy men with little more than patience and a pair of scissors now can floor tile almost any size room over a couple of weekends.

The secret is a variety of inexpensive, easy-to-handle materials available for adding floor charm to a new room or sprucing up an old one. A flooring expert gives some pointers on how to apply vinyl-asbestos.

Before applying this tile, E. A. Dennison of Johns-Manville advises, concrete sub-floors should be smooth and free from paint, old floor coverings, oil, wax and grease. Cracks must be filled and uneven spots leveled with a latex underlayment applied with a trowel and allowed to dry overnight. In the case of wood sub-floors, all joints of plywood should be tight and open joints filled with underlayment.

Measuring the room comes next. The flooring expert suggests treating the room as a perfect rectangle, even if it has breaks. Determining the center of both ends of the room, draw a chalk line through these points. Draw a second chalk line through the center of this line and at right angles to it, dividing the room into four parts.

Next lay a row of these 9x9-inch 1/16-inch-thick tiles along each line with the edges of the tiles exactly on the lines. If border spaces are not about the same or are less than a half-tile wide, shift the row over one-half tile (4½ inches) and make new lines.

Over the established center lines, apply, with an ordinary paint brush or heavy-nap paint roller, a 12-inch-wide band of adhesive that has been conditioned by keeping at 70 degrees, or warmer for 24 hours.

Now the actual tile laying begins. Start at the intersection of the lines and work in a semi-circle.

Youth Received Drugs With Post Office Aid

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—Robert Froehlick, 21, of East Hartford had it worked out so that federal employes delivered narcotics to him.

Authorities arrested the youth after staking out a post office box. Froehlich got his drugs through the mail.

ONE OF A SERIES

ANSWER: NEWS. The daily newspaper is the focal point for news reports from all around the world—and just around the corner. It's an exciting business gathering the news and then printing it and sending it out in the daily newspaper to just about everyone in any community. And it is all accomplished in a matter of only a few hours. It's the excitement and immediacy of the daily newspaper that makes it eagerly read every day — and makes it one of the big reasons why advertisers use it.

THE PONTIAC PRESS

There are about 7,000 varieties of apples, according to the Department of Agriculture, and 12 of these are widely grown in America.

Opportunity Knocks Better at Bright Door

Doorways can be original and decorative. They may give advance notice of an intriguing interior. They may vary in color from the exterior of the house but still be in harmony with it. Also, they may be severely plain or strikingly decorative. But they can always be an expression in material and color of those who work or live behind them.

Decorators are giving special attention to the doors of establishments. As an example, in an open vestibule which was painted white, two doors of solid teak were in contrasting black. Glass panels at the sides were outlined in gold while potted evergreens contributed to the attractiveness. Another was painted a mustard color, its upper third of glass and the doorway set in a buff brick wall.

One decorator retained the old doors of the former warehouse and painted them with the same gray-green of the exterior of the building. The upper half of the double doors gave a view of the interior before the visitor lifted the old-fashioned brass latch. Nearby a simple black door contrasted with a dull green exterior.

A neighbor installed a wide glass front with window frames and door frames outlined with white and, in contrast, a plain black door with brass knob. Gold was used to outline the glass on another door which was a gray-green, trimmed with a lighter shade of green, the color of the body of the door matching the exterior of the shop.

One intriguing exterior entry was decorated with a tall sandstone obelisk facing the street and at right angles, the door made of two narrow panels, again painted black. Unique brass heads were used for door knobs.

DUTCH DOORS

Dutch doors, painted black, with a huge brass knocker, were effectively simple. Other doors in the area were painted orange against the gray-green exterior; or orchid on a dutch door standing out against a white-painted brick exterior.

An unusual doorway was designed for a decorator's convention which combined brick, metal and wood. The vestibule was dark brown adobe brick. Against this, the door, first given an undercoat of coral, was finished with a glazing of black. The door-pull, set in a large, flat circle of black iron was black iron.

On each corner wooden square panels depicted the Indian tree of life. At one side of the vestibule two figures were hung on the wall, their muted red and green with umber tones on the faces and costumes added color to the setting. Plantings of tropical plants, some in an antique drum, completed an interestingly unusual doorway.

Other designers have found that chrome or glass knockers on a panel door set off the richness of dark wood where it contrasts with the light color of a house. Wood and glass may be combined in a door which looks out on a garden. Equal and balancing areas should be given to the door and the glass on each side. A paneled door, painted white and finished with a brass knocker, will attractively set off a dark surface around it.

Where the house has a gable roof and diamond paned windows on the porch, doors should be in keeping with this period. Four small panes of glass at the top of the door will serve the double purpose of allowing light into the vestibule and also give a view of a visitor at the door from the inside. Trim on doors, square windows, shutters and dormer windows should be matching, usually white.

But whether black, white or color, plain surfaced or paneled, painted or natural color and varnished, there is opportunity at every door.

Expert Notes Housing Trend

"Where do we go from here, boys?" isn't merely a line from an old army song. It's a refrain heard today wherever men in the home building industry gather to talk of the future.

* * *

Jay Simpson, who logs 90,000 miles a year in his capacity of building specialist for Allied Chemical's Barrett Division, says he notices five trends in housing as he swings around the country:

1. Revived interest in lower-cost homes. Many builders have rediscovered the forgotten man — the man in the $5,000 salary bracket who can and will buy a $10,000-to-$12,000 home. Studies show that there are 200,000 families in this wage bracket who will purchase homes in 1959.

* * *

2. "Traditional" homes are outselling the so-called "modern" homes 3 to 1. This trend isn't peculiar to the Northeast but prevails from Connecticut to California.

3. The "family room" is a must in merchandizing the 1959 home. Greater availability of fireproof gypsum wall board and insulating planks and new decorative ceiling tile patterns make it practical to include finished play rooms in even the lower-priced homes.

4. Homeowners are getting more space for the dollar. Homes are being built for $10 a square foot and less. This is particularly important with families of good size and moderate incomes.

5. More two-bath homes under the $18,000 price tag. Newest of all is the increasing trend toward compartmented, connecting 1½ baths.

Take Tip From Nature

With woods, fields and gardens bursting into bloom, the householder is reminded that he cannot do much better than to borrow from nature the combinations of colors so attractive to the eye. A bedroom done in several azalea pinks effects a combination unusual and pleasing. The charm of daffodils and purple iris inspires a room with yellow walls, a leaf green carpet, pale furniture, and an occasional touch of bluish purple, in glass objects perhaps or crisp silk cushions.

Hell's Canyon of the Snake river between Idaho and Oregon is deeper than the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, chiefly in Arizona, and it is also much narrower between the top rims.

New Skyscrpaer to Have Huge Picture Windows

The biggest Thermopane windows ever used for complete glazing of a commercial building, units containing 60 square feet each, will be installed in the Libbey-Ownes Ford office building now under construction in Toledo, according to Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, architects.

In order to facilitate handling the 6 by 10-foot windows, each of which weighs 450 pounds, glazers will install the units from the mobile window-washing elevator which will be a permanent part of the building's equipment.

Personifying L-O-F's products, the new building will feature the use of glass in office partitions, lobby finish and exterior doors. All four walls of the 15-story building will be of glass and aluminum construction. Gray plate glass, which reduces glare without affecting color values, will be used as outer panes.

By its very design, the building will symbolize the business of its owner, architects pointed out.

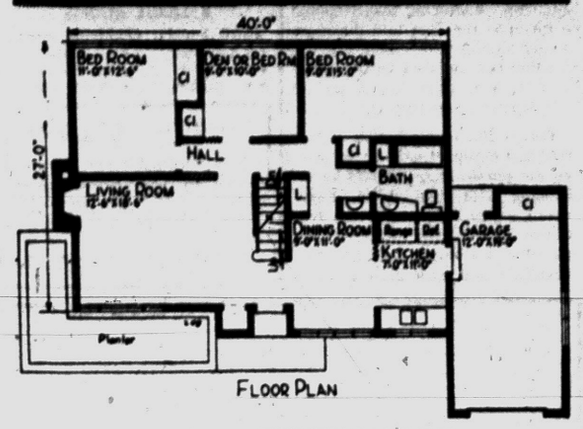
★ ★ ★

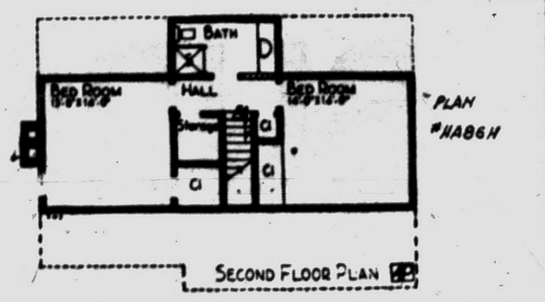
Seven floors of the building will be occupied by home office employes of L-O-F and five will be rented to outside tenants. The ground floor will be devoted wholly to a lobby and the two top floors will house mechanical and service equipment.

★ ★ ★

Completion is scheduled for early 1960.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS





EXPANSION ATTIC — This small house was designed so that the second floor, containing two bedrooms and a bath, can be finished by the owner after the main structure is completed. There are six rooms and bath on the first floor. The plan is HA86H, by Architect Paul T. Haagen, 360 North Michigan Ave., Chicago. It has 1,130 sq. ft. of space on the first floor.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: I'm getting ready to make a patio roof and have decided to use asphalt shingles so that they match the roof of our house. I plan on putting the shingles over plywood sheathing, which will be nailed to rafters spaced 24 inches apart. How thick should the plywood be to hold the shingles safely?

ANSWER: You should use plywood sheathing at least three-eighths of an inch thick. If the rafters were only 16 inches apart, you could get by with a thinner plywood. And if you were using anything other than asphalt or wood shingles, you'd need thicker sheathing.

QUESTION: I have heard about about a paint that stops the spread of fire. Can you tell me something about this?

ANSWER: You probably are talking about a new type of fire-retardant interior paint. It is listed under the Underwriters' Laboratories' Fire Protection Equipment classification. It is said to go on smoothly and easily with a brush, roller or spray gun.

It dries overnight with very little odor, resists yellowing and can be applied to wood, steel, plaster, composition board and other interior surfaces. The paint is available in white and seven colors. Remember — it stalls, not stops, the spread of fire.

Glass Is Hotter

The average glass window allows 150 times more heat from the sun to enter a house than does the average insulated wall, report home specialists. A two-foot roof overhang for new homes, plus shade trees and awnings, will help keep heat out.

Weight for weight, plywood is stronger than steel.

Brighten Corner Where You Are

If you want sunshine in your life, let it into your home. There's solid scientific reason why the expression, "a sunny kitchen," has come to mean the abode of a happy housewife.

The American Public Health Association's Committee on the Hygiene of Housing puts it this way in its booklet, Basic Principles of Healthful Housing: "It is clearly desirable for all dwellings, and essential for those occupied by persons who are housebound, that direct sunlight should enter at some places and hours."

For the housewife, to be completely happy, however, it is necessary for her kitchen to be just as "ready to receive" the sun as she is. Ideally, this calls for walls and floors surfaced with a material like ceramic tile, that can't fade and will react visually to the sun's rays in soothing and harmonious ways.

Here are some other tips for a sunny indoor existence: In the northern U.S., your "sun room" (be it the kitchen or some other room) should have a generally southern exposure for maximum sunshine. Southeast will give you the morning sun; southwest, the late afternoon sun.

Casement windows that open substantially all of their area are more desirable than double-hung windows because they admit more of the sun's ultra-violet rays.

A further advantage of sunshine in the home, says the Committee, is that it will save fuel expenses in the wintertime.

So get your kitchen and yourself set for the sun.

Best to Heed Warning

SHIPSHOAL ISLAND, Va. (AP)—Warning signs on this and neighboring Plumtree Island in Chesapeake Bay really mean keep off. Unexploded bombs have been accumulating, since the days of Billy Mitchell and the Air Force says they are a major hazard to any person who might go ashore.

Fabric Keeps Budget Happy

Summer home owners are faced with one important decorating problem: How to keep the decor gay and practical, yet within a strict budget. The solution is fabric.

Furniture can be comfortable but second-hand; floors can be bare or covered with washable cotton or braided rugs. It is fabric that will blend these ingredients together and give the home its charming, relaxed and carefree atmosphere. And the most inexpensive fabrics, such as burlap, muslin, chintz, glosheen or cotton sheeting, make for ideal window treatments. Choose them in sparkling colors—vivid blues and greens; bright oranges, yellows or reds.

Use trimming to give even the "budget buys" a custom look. Try a red ball fringe to edge a red-and-white striped curtain or a blue moss fringe to highlight that color in a floral print.

Easy-care fabrics, no-care drapery hardware — two helpful aids for relaxed summer homemaking.

Colorado ranks second among the states for the variety as well as the production of some mineral resources.

MONKEY GYM — By nature kids are endowed with certain instincts. They've got to have something to hang from, or climb over; something they can balance on, or swing under. Something they can have fun on. This monkey gym is light and may be moved from one part of the yard to another. It may also be used indoors. We painted the one in the picture with lots of bright colors which, of course, pleases the kids. Building the monkey gym is easy when you use our easy-to-follow pattern. The curved parts are all drawn full size. Any inexperienced amateur with simple hand tools can do it. To obtain the monkey gym pattern No. 159 send $1.00 by check, currency or money order to Steve Ellingson, The Pontiac Press, Van Nuys, California.

Old Fashioned House in Garden Returns

The old-fashioned garden house, with a few refinements, may be coming back. At least, the thought is intriguing.

A young couple in a northern Indiana city did more than think about a second or summer home in their backyard. They built their own playhouse for slightly more than $1,000 for materials.

The versatile garden house is fully screened, has an inside closet for informal dining equipment and cooking utensils and another closet with an outside entrance for garden tools.

Curved panels of tempered hardboard form the unusual roof, which was an experimental installation. The owners say it has worked out nicely. To form the roof, panels of Masonite 3-16 inch, tempered presdwood 4 foot wide and 10 feet long were sprung into position between the rafters so that they arch in their long dimension. The edges were held by pieces of 1x2-inch lumber grooved and nailed near the lower parts of the rafters.

Later, the roof panels were bolted together in the center with 5-inch strips of the tempered hardboard. Perforated strapping then was applied under the rafters to assure their true alignment in the center.

The roof has a four-inch pitch, with drainage holes drilled at the low end. After the roof joints were caulked the panels were painted with aluminum paint to reflect the sun's rays.

(A free plan based on the construction and design the owners used may be obtained by requesting No. AB-204 of the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill.)

Good Foreign Relations

RUTHERFORD, N. J. (AP)—Dr. Joseph Matriss, a dentist in East Rutherford, started "operation toothbrush" two years ago and since then has sent more than 10,000 toothbrushes overseas.

Medical missionaries in the Belgian Congo have written to him that toothbrushes proved an immediate success as peace tokens with the natives.

With communism the threat that it is, he says, "every bit of good will counts."

He Knows His Rights

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Election Board secretary John Bumgarner said a citizen who had returned to his office for the third time to correct a minor provision of the law preventing him from voting protested strongly. The man asserted the Constitution gave him the right to vote, to which the secretary said, "And the Bill of Rights gives you free speech, too." Replied the citizen: "That's all I'm getting, lots of talk."

Here's the Answer

AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: I read somewhere about a new kind of house built like an airplane to withstand hurricanes and tornadoes. Can you tell me anything about this?

ANSWER: Not very much. But I assume you are talking about an experimental design worked out at Michigan State. In this design, built only in a scale model, the parts are keyed together more like an airplane frame than a conventional house frame.

The floor, walls and roof are a continuous, rigid frame encircling the living space. The house itself, when completed, would not look like a plane, but much like a conventional house.

★ ★ ★

QUESTION: The tileboard in our fitchen is getting dirty. Can we paint right over it?

ANSWER: Yes, but be sure to clean off all grease by washing it down with a detergent. Wait at least 24 hours, then apply a coat of shellac, diluted 50 per cent with denatured alcohol. When the shellac is completely dry, sand it very lightly. The finish coat preferably should be of the glossy type, such as enamel.

★ ★ ★

QUESTION: I have several projects coming up in which there will be considerable gluing of joints. Is it necessary to sand the joints before gluing?

ANSWER: In most cases, the ordinary sanding needed to make the joints fit properly will suffice for the gluing. But in some cases—where the wood is hard and dense—it's a good idea to roughen the joints slightly with a little sanding just before the gluing.

She Changes Fruits, but Still Wins Contest

EAST AURORA, N.Y. (UPI) — It was as easy as apple pie for 18-year-old Elaine Gehl of Eden, N.Y.

Elaine won the Erie County 4-H Club cherry pie baking contest here. Last year she won the apple pie baking championship.

Close Space Under Porch

Outdoor housekeeping is important, too, and the space between a porch floor and the ground will be a constant eyesore unless a area is enclosed. If left open, paper and other trash will blow in and give an unsightly appearance to the property.

The material used to enclose this area should be attractive as well as durable, since it will become a part of the house's exterior treatment. Masonite siding, available at lumber dealers, offers a vertical accent that blends in well with most modern exteriors.

With ⅜" grooves every four inches, this siding material creates visual interest in what is often a dull and uninteresting area.

Panelgroove is easy to put up, since the ship-lap joints fit into place tightly and easily even for a home handyman who isn't an experienced carpenter.

In most cases, all that's needed are a plate and sill, at the top and bottom of the opening. Joining 2x4 studs at 16" intervals. No sheathing is needed.

Since Panelgroove does not have any grain or knots, it takes paint beautifully. It can be painted to blend in with the rest of the house, or a contrasting color can be used to accent the improvement.

No Short Cut in Five Steps of Polishing

There have been many short cuts to French polishing in recent years. But the finish used on fine furniture by master wood finishers for many generations is obtained by building up many thin coats of shellac.

First, the wood must be sanded very smooth. Thinned shellac — about three parts of denatured alcohol to one part of shellac — is applied with a soft, lintless cloth rolled into a ball. The cloth, dipped into the shellac, is rubbed on the wood in rapid, straight strokes with light pressure.

When the shellac is thoroughly dry, it is sanded very lightly. The rubbing process, with the diluted shellac, is repeated. Again the shellac is allowed to dry and is sanded.

The third application is made with the same shellac, plus a few drops of boiled linseed oil or olive oil. This time the rubbing is done with a rotary motion. Fourth and fifth applications are made, each time adding a few more drops of oil to the mixture.

Uruguay is the smallest in area and also the most densely populated of any of the republics of the South American continent.

Fix Tired Doors With Hardboard

With nice weather here to stay, it's a good time to get outside and repair sagging garage doors and gates that have been battered by rough winter weather.

Sturdy pieces of hardboard, which is available at lumber yards, add strength to shaky doors, or even old furniture. Triangular gusset plates of hardboard, nailed over the corners of a door after it is plumbed square by wedges or an automobile jack, will make these items operational again.

Summer cottages often need minor repairs after a hard winter. For fix-up, hardboard panels are popular with both professional carpenters and do-it-yourself fans.

Wooden Sun Screen Adds Beauty, Comfort to Home

We all would like to find our place in the sun but, in the literal sense at least, there are times we want to get away from it. In summer, for example, a cool inviting house is preferable to a hot box any day of the week, and the Western Pine Association reports that more and more home-owners are coming to see the advantages and functional beauty of sun screens and sun shades made of wood.

Stopping heat outside the house is far more effective than pulling down the shades, for sunlight that beats against a window simply builds up heat inside a room. Awnings, though effective for heat control, usually block a good deal of light and this can be a problem.

Furthermore, while attractive on a little vine-covered cottage they add nothing to the lines of many a house. A wooden sun shade or screen can do the job without cutting off light or welcome breezes, and such a unit can contribute style when it is planned to carry out the feeling of a home.

Sun screens can be made in any number of interesting designs ranging from the simple pattern of boards placed vertically or horizontally in the manner of venetian blinds to the more complicated patterns of blocks, slats, or "egg crate" designs.

Generally speaking, the more modern your house the more latitude you have in working out your design, but be your screen elaborate or simple, it can give a great deal of cool comfort and serve as an attractive backdrop for plants, shrubs, and vines. This is particularly true if you train flowering plants and vines up over the sun screen.

Large-leafed or flowering vines will add color and form to the lines of your home in summer and will also increase the shade below or behind the screen. In winter, without their leaves, they won't cut off your much-needed light.

Lumber from the western pine region is a good choice when it comes to building your sun screen because it is readily available and all ten species of wood from this area are easy to work and take any finish known. This is an important consideration since you might prefer to stain your unit or leave it "natural" rather than use paint to finish it off. A good pentachlorophenol preservative will protect your sun screen without changing its color.

Putty Ever Useful

When on a painting job, most painters have a good supply of fresh putty on hand. It is useful in preparing for the painting. Every nail-hole should be adequately filled, leveled off and dried before applying the first coat of paint.

Building Offers Lots of Jobs

Construction activity is as indicative of the U.S. economy as trading on the stock exchange floor is to investors or the health of Warren Spahn's pitching arm is to the progress of the National League champions.

What $1 billion in construction means to the building crafts industry was spelled out recently by G. P. Oldham, vice president of Allied Chemical's Barrett Building Materials Division.

"It means the equivalent of 66,000 jobs at an average weekly wage, for the year, of nearly $115," says Oldham, "and when you realize the U.S. may be spending up to $75 billion a year on construction by 1970, the industry may eventually provide jobs for 4¼ million men."

Oldham, whose company manufactures roofing, fibreboard and other products for home construction, cites a recent study showing that each $1 billion spent on building is appropriated this way:

Lumber, shingles, carpentry and millwork	$420 million	42%
Electric wiring, labor and supplies	$ 40 million	4%
Masonry, labor and materials	$220 million	22%
Plastering, gypsum wall board or painting	$ 80 million	8%
Plumbing and heating, labor and materials	$150 million	15%
Steel and Hardware supplies	$ 50 million	5%
Miscellaneous	$ 40 million	4%

"With the experts predicting a $630 billion building boom in the next decade," concludes Oldham, "the building crafts are going to be able to buy a lot of meat and potatoes."

Do-It-Yourself for Kids

Painted furniture never goes out of style. It was popular in the days of the Pharoahs in Egypt and has come down to us through the years. Have you ever tried permitting your children to paint the furniture in their own rooms? It gives them a feeling of growing-up, and a sense of responsibility, to have such a chore. Needless to say, the operation would require some supervision, depending on the ages of the youngsters.

'Frisco Museum Vandals Damage 8 Paintings

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— Eight paintings, including one by Flemish master Peter Paul Rubens, were damaged by vandals a few minutes before the M.H. de Young Memorial Museum closed Friday.

The Rubens, a religious scene, was deeply scratched. The seven others, by Flemish, French and Dutch artists, were deeply scratched with jagged crosses. All the marks were on faces.

The death rate from accidents in the U.S. is 85 per 100,000—about seven times the toll taken by pneumonia or tuberculosis.

State Jaycees Inaugurate Drive to Sell Michigan

Michigan's Junior Chamber of Commerce—including the Pontiac contingent—has embarked on a campaign to "sell Michigan" both at home and abroad.

The Jaycees will kick off their campaign June 15 with a chartered boat trip to Buffalo to carry the word of Michigan as a live, work and play land to the National Junior Chamber of Commerce convention, opening June 16.

Sailing will be seven key members of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and their wives, including Mr. and Mrs. Clyle R. Haskill, Mr. and Mrs. Norman O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Weddle, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Watchpocket, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jorgenson, Mr. and Mrs. John Hatherill and Brent Jett.

Haskill is president of the Pontiac Jaycees, O'Brien president-elect Weddle first vice president-elect.

Altogether some 350 Michigan Jaycees and wives are expected to go to the convention aboard the bannered and spangled liner S. S. South American. As they travel Lake Erie, the ship will display a banner broadside with letters eight feet high reading "We're Proud of Michigan."

★ ★ ★

When they get to the convention, the young Michigan "ambassadors" will display Michigan products, give away Michigan apple juice, and tout Michigan with the slogan "Michigan means business."

The purpose will be to counter "unfortunate" publicity that has given Michigan a black eye nationally and to present a more accurate picture of Michigan's climate for industry as well as people.

A second phase of the program will begin after the young "ambassadors" return to their homes and their 132 chapters throughout the state.

Jaycees plan a year-round campaign to "sell Michigan" to its own people—to make them all "ambassadors" promoting the state, and also to educate them on the problems that face the state.

'Dream Kitchen' Was Just Swell While It Lasted

BELDING (UPI)—When Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bussell returned after being away from their home all day they were surprised to find new cabinets installed in their kitchen.

But it wasn't long before they learned what had happened. The cabinets had been ordered by Willard H. Johnson Jr., who lives three houses down the street.

Carpenter William Harris had gone to the Johnson home to measure for the cabinets the day before, built them that night and then had his sons install them the next morning. But they went to the Bussell home by mistake.

The two houses are of similar construction and outside paint jobs and have almost identical kitchens.

They spent the rest of the day removing the cabinets from the Bussell home, patching up the walls and then installing them in the Johnson home.

Study Plan Price Goes Up Today

Starting with today's House of the Week Plan, the charge for study plans is being increased from 35 to 50 cents. Increased costs in handling, materials and postage make this necessary. You may still get your study plans by sending in the coupon with each week's story or by coming to The Pontiac Press offices and asking for them. This week's plan features the interesting "Splitnik House" that has been designed as an American exhibit at Moscow.

Navy to Develop Thinking 'Brain'

Claim Machine Will Be First Capable of Having 'Original Idea'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—What the Navy calls "the first machine capable of having an original idea" is taking embryonic form at the Cornell aeronautical laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y.

In about six months the lab hopes to have a prototype of the machine, called The Perceptron, ready for demonstration of its ability to discriminate and make decisions.

This progress report was obtained from the Navy after the Commerce Department's office of technical services announced this week that two reports on its design had been released for sale to the public.

All other so-called electronic brains are not brains at all. Every single act they perform has to be outlined in advance by a human agency and fed into it.

★ ★ ★

The Perceptron, when it is fully developed, will be able to absorb new knowledge, compare it with past experience, and come up with something closely resembling a genuine act of thought.

That doesn't mean it will be able to make government policy, solve the riddle of gravitation, or reform society.

It does, however, mean that it will be able to recognize characters, such as letters, and perform certain tasks on the basis of its own experience and knowledge.

It should, for example, be invaluable in cataloguing operations which now demand the assistance of human beings in typing out punch cards for less brainy machines to sort and file. Its electronic eye could scan printed pages and, by a process of association with what it had seen before, decide their appropriate disposition.

The Perceptron is the brainchild of Dr. Frank Rosenblatt.

U.S. Official Climbs for Ethiopians

'Copter Helps Scale African Peak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Coast & Geodetic Survey reported today that one of its men had climbed the highest peak in Ethiopia with the help of a helicopter.

The peak, 15,153-foot Djebel Dashan, is the third highest in all Africa. Only Kilimanjaro and Kenya are higher.

The climb was made by James E. Cox, a Coast & Geodetic observer, in connection with a survey of the Blue Nile River basin being financed by the International Cooperation Administration.

There are no roads in the range Cox was mapping. So he and an Ethiopian recorder, Tesgaye Asfaw, flew in an Ethiopian Airlines helicopter from Gondar to a village 10,000 feet up the slope of the mountain. From there they made a 10-mile trek with donkeys, horses, and on foot.

Once they encountered an armed band which would not let them pass until they provided proof of peaceful intentions. They passed through a mountain village where the entire population of 30 turned out to feast them on wat, a chicken and egg stew, and tala, a beer made from honey. Musicians bowing one-string instruments entertained with songs expressing gratitude for American help to Ethiopia.

At the top of a nearby mountain, which Cox had to climb to get a clear view to the south for surveying purposes, the donkey drivers became afraid they might encounter shiftas, or bandits, and deserted with the animals. A native chief with two men stayed with the climbers. No bandits appeared.

The helicopter was piloted by a Frenchman, Joseph Ros. Using fuel previously cached at the 10,000-foot level, it made several exploratory flights through the range. To enable it to carry its passengers in the rarefied air at such altitudes, the helicopter was stripped of its doors, radio, and other impedimenta.

★ ★ ★

Coast & Geodetic Survey officials see no future for helicopter as a conqueror of high peaks like those of the Himalayas. Even if it could rise through the ever-thinning air above two miles, its fans might well start snowslides endangering camps or villages below.

Cox reported that the soil and grass on the slopes of Djebel Dashan resemble the Alaskan tundra. The slopes were gentle and free of rock outcrops.

The survey is using flashing lights, operated by native technicians, to locate key points at night in the hill country. On one occasion, the lights stopped flashing from a hilltop.

Cmdr. Don A. Jones, in charge of the Blue Nile survey, flew over by helicopter to see what was wrong. The native said lions had been roaring around him all night and he had had to flash the light at them, instead of the next station, in order to make them keep their distance.

The survey was started two years ago to help Ethiopia develop water resources of the Blue Nile watershed.

Dr. Street Going to Africa

Ferndale Teacher Quits

FERNDALE. — Dr. Scott W. Street, the Ferndale school principal whose controversial demotion led to several teacher resignations is quitting to take a school job in Africa for the U.S. Air Force.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Street, ousted principal of Best Elementary School, today sent letters to parents of Best School pupils saying he is resigning to become principal of a school in Tripoli for the children of Air Force personnel.

The Ferndale School Board removed Street as Best principal in a dispute over progressive education. The State Teacher Tenure Board last month ordered him reinstated. The School Board appealed to the State Supreme Court where the case now stands.

Upon his demotion Street accepted his present post as a grade teacher at Best School.

★ ★ ★

Six Ferndale School District teachers resigned two weeks ago in protest over the action against Street.

Street said he will teach a six-week summer course at Western Michigan University before leaving for Africa Aug. 1.

Ship's Captain Found Guilty

Master of 'Constitution' Loses License for Year for Ramming Tanker

NEW YORK (AP)—The captain in charge of the luxury liner Constitution when it rammed into a tanker has been found guilty of negligence and the Coast Guard has suspended his master's license for one year.

American Export Lines announced that the officer, Capt James W. La Belle, 49, of Avon, Mass., will appeal the ruling.

★ ★ ★

The ruling was announced Thursday by Walter E. Lawlor, Coast Guard examiner who held hearings on the collision.

Lawlor said the collision was "almost unbelievable" in view of La Belle's training, experience and reputation.

The Coast Guard decision said the 30,500-ton American Export liner was running at "an immoderate speed" of more than 18 knots in poor visibility. It also said La Belle failed to stop his engines when he heard the fog signal of an unseen vessel ahead of him.

★ ★ ★

The Constitution, coming from an extensive reconversion at Newport News, Va., crashed into the empty Norwegian tanker Jalanta in fog off the entrance to New York Harbor last March 1.

No one was injured on either ship. The Constitution carried no passengers.

All Property Acquired for Dixie Highway Turns

All property for Dixie highway left-turn cut-offs at Williams Lake road and Walton boulevard in Waterford Township has been acquired by the Michigan State Highway Department, and it is only a matter of time before the project gets under way.

This was announced today by District Engineer John Wills, who said that when a final payment check has been sent to owner of Nonne's Pizza restaurant, John Picha, sometime next week, paperwork will have been completed.

For almost four years plans for cut-off roads to handle heavy left turn traffic on Dixie highway to Williams Lake road on the west, and Walton boulevard to the east, have been in progress.

All paperwork came to a standstill a year ago due to condemnation proceedings by the highway department for acquisition of various parcels of land for the right-of-way.

★ ★ ★

Since that time motorists have been using the blacktopped parking lot of the National Store to get onto Williams Lake road, and driving an eighth of a mile past the intersection to Floradale avenue, just north of the A&P supermarket, to get to Walton boulevard.

★ ★ ★

When Picha receives his final payoff-check, he will be allowed time to vacate the restaurant building, being operated by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Imbrunnone. The cement block and brick building will then be demolished and the land cleared for the right-of-way, Wills said.

Motorists approaching Pontiac from the north, who want to make a left turn from Dixie highway to Walton boulevard, will turn right on a new cut-over to Williams Lake road, then cross the Dixie to Walton boulevard.

The same type of cut-off will exist if the motorist is heading towards Flint from Pontiac and wishes to turn left onto Williams Lake road. He will turn right on Floradale avenue, the new cut-over, to Walton boulevard, then cross the Dixie to Williams Lake road.

Construction bids for the work will be asked by the State Highway Department as soon as Picha receives payment for his property, Wills concluded.

Car-Truck Smashup Hurts 4 in Groveland

Four persons were injured Friday when their auto collided with a truck at a hill crest on U.S. 10 near M87, in Groveland Township.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies identified the injured as Marie A. Miller, 23, who was driving the auto; her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Miller, both 51, and Walter Shields, 42, all of Saginaw.

They were taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Flint. Shields was reported in poor condition today with head and jaw injuries. The Millers were treated and released.

Deputies said the truck driver, Thomas M. Meadows 27, of 2140 Horton, Detroit, was making a left turn and moved across the path of the Miller car.

The auto was traveling south at an estimated 65 miles an hour, said deputies, and smashed into the big semitrailer broadside.

2 Area Boys Injured in Car-Bike Collisions

Two youthful bicycle riders escaped serious injury in separate accidents Friday evening when they collided with moving cars, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies.

Richard L. Shoemaker, 11, of 3544 Richmond St., Drayton Plains and Richard Ries, 13, of 7797 Locklin St., Union Lake Village, were both treated for minor injuries at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

The Shoemaker boy turned into the path of a car driven by William H. Russell, 50, of Ferndale, on Watkins Lake road near Scott Lake road, in Waterford Township, deputies said.

Ries lost control of his bike on a driveway, deputies related, and ran into the side of a passing car driven by Leroy W. Sloat, 45, of Detroit, on Union Lake road near Cooley Lake road, Commerce Township.

Steel Contract Talks Enter Second Month

NEW YORK (AP)—The month-old steel negotiations resume Monday, with no indication that any common ground for agreement has been reached so far.

Unless some agreement is reached, steelworkers will begin banking the furnaces and tapering off production June 26.

That will be four days before the current contract expires. A strike of the half-million steelworkers then—June 30 — would shut down 90 per cent of the nation's steel production.

TV Gunslingers Rushing East to Get Their Gold

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —The gold rush is on, with TV's gunslingers heeding the cry, "Go east, young man!"

★ ★ ★

This is the season for the Western stars to fill their pouches with loot from the hinterlands. They're heading east not by pony but by jet, to display themselves before admiring throngs at fairs, rodeos and whatever.

★ ★ ★

They sing a little, ride a little, tell jokes, rope and twirl their six-shooters. But mostly they just appear, smiling and signing autographs and basking in the popularity that television has brought them.

★ ★ ★

Figures released by the New Mexico State Fair Commission give evidence of the money to be had. Gene Barry (Bat Masterson) has been set for two appearances in one day at the September fair for $2,000; Dale Robertson (Wells Fargo) for six appearances in three days at $7,500. The Gunsmoke trio — Dennis Weaver, Amanda Blake, Milburn Stone — will come in for six appearances at $8,500.

★ ★ ★

Robert Horton (Wagon Train) is making hay this summer with such dates as the Cincinnati Rodeo, Tulsa Horse Show, as well as playing "Picnic" in Detroit and "Guys and Dolls" in Warren, Ohio. Chuck Connors and Young Johnny Crawford (The Rifleman) were booked for the St. Louis Police Circus and Omaha Rodeo.

★ ★ ★

Robert Culp (Trackdown) expects to earn $70,000 this year from personals, probably as much as he gets from the series. Among his dates: Lincoln, Neb., Centennial, Salina and Coffeyville, Kan.

Many of these appearances are booked by Mary Markham, who calls herself a star producer. "We don't send stars out to say merely, 'Hello, folks, I'm glad to be here,' " she remarked. "They all do something. If they don't have talents as preformers, we give it to them."

★ ★ ★

There are stars to fit the budgets of the 678 rodeos in the U.S., plus the 50 state fairs and hundreds of county fairs, she said.

★ ★ ★

"The TV stars are more popular than the movie stars," she added.

Lima, Peru has one of the world's most favorable climates, ranging from about 60 to 80 degrees average.

Welk TV Star Quits for Art

Pete Fountain Picks New Orleans Freedom to Hollywood Cash

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Among informed circles, Dan's Bateau Lounge far down Bourbon Street in the French Quarter of New Orleans is known as intimate.

It is small, smoky, dark and noisy and Peter Dewey Fountain Jr. couldn't like it any better.

Pete Fountain has a number of distinctions, beginning with the fact that he probably is the country's most gifted and talented jazz clarinetist.

A second and perhaps equally unique distinction is that he traded an audience of millions for one of 125 souls, capacity at the Bateau.

Until last March 15, Fountain was one of the instrumental stars of the Lawrence Welk television show. He chucked it all, plus a sizable income, to return to his old hometown haunts and play what comes naturally.

"We lived mighty fine in California—the wife, the three children and me," Pete said of his whirl with Welk. "Had a maid, a gardener and everything, but you can't keep a New Orleans webfoot happy out there.

"I felt I was going commercial. Jazz can be wrecked with too much direction—once you start directing jazz you mess it up."

It is anything but messed up the way Pete and his piano, bass and drum combo treat it.

Fountain, who took up the clarinet at the age of 11 to build up his weak lungs, achieves remarkable mellowness of tone. Sometimes he even appears to be "blowing in" as the velvety notes waft down Bourbon Street, just about America's last bastion of Dixieland jazz.

The 28-year-old Coral recording star plays his audience almost as well as he does his instrument. Conversation in the darkened room subsides when Pete swirls through the low-register growls of "Tin Roof Blues." A hush falls again as he sends Hoagy Carmichael's "Stardust" soaring into the atmosphere beyond high "C."

The old New Orleans jazz standards like "The Saints Come Marching In," "Lonesome Road," "Little Rock Getaway," and "The Muskrat Ramble" are all in Pete's repertoire but it is a curious number in odd surroundings that draws the most requests.

This selection is the fascinatingly beautiful spiritual, "A Closer Walk With Thee." Here, Pete is backed up by the matchless bow-string bass of Bob Ciecarelli, who deserted the New Orleans Symphony Orchestra to turn his talents to jazz.

Doing what comes naturally is a good description of Fountain's style. He's as casual as Perry Como, saunters around for a closer appreciative listen to his colleagues, coming full circle at the bourbon-and-soda highball resting atop the piano.

But Pete has a problem. He's been bald since he was 18. For television purposes he donned a toupee when he joined Welk. He still wears it, but when he works up a jazz lather he is scared to death the thing will slide off the back of his head.

"If I took it off, no one would know me," he said, despite the fact it would be impossible to forget his spade beard. "They'd come in and say what's happened to Fountain, who's the skinhead?"

COLD WAR CELEBRITY — Here's an artist's rendering of the "typically American" home which will be a star attraction at the American exhibition in Moscow this summer. The ranch has three bedrooms, 1½ baths and covers 1,144 square feet. The builder says that without land, basement or garage, the house should sell for $11,000 to $13,000 anywhere in the United States.

Average American Home Will Amaze Russians

By DAVID L. BOWEN

House of the Week offers an entirely new kind of opportunity today: If you build this design you will have a home that has made —and may make more—international history.

X-61 is a Cold War celebrity; the "typically American" three-bedroom ranch that is being put up in Russia as a star attraction in the American National Exhibition opening July 25 in Sokolniki Park in Moscow.

The designer is Stanley H. Klein, a Long Island, N.Y., architect whose plans have been followed in thousands of development homes. He was asked to design the house for an average, middle class family, holding the cost to around $12,000, not including land, basement or garage.

OFFICIAL CONSTERNATION

The Russian news agency Tass already has paid unwitting tribute to the skill of architect and builder, charging that "there is no more truth in showing this as the typical house of the American worker than, say, in showing the Taj Mahal as the typical home of a Bombay textile worker, or Buckingham Palace as the typical home of an English miner."

In addition to confounding the Russian propagandists, who apparently are apprehensive over the possible impact of the exhibit on the poorly housed Russian public, the design should have wide appeal here at home because it was so carefully aimed at the average American family.

The building firm chosen by the State Department to select and construct a typical American home at Moscow, All-State Properties, Inc., has the identical model for sale with completely improved quarter-acre lot in a Commack, Long Island, development for $14,490. Available on 30-year mortgages, the homes in Commack can be purchased by a veteran with no down payment and monthly carrying charges of about $101.

Company officials maintain that the house, with no basement or garage and exclusive of land, should sell for $11,000 to $13,000 anywhere in the United States.

When erected in Russia, the house will have a 10-foot wide corridor splitting it down the center. This is to permit all of the estimated 3½ million Russian visitors to see the interior, which will be furnished by Macy's on a retail budget of $5,000. The corridor also has given the home its popular name: the Splitnik.

If custom built in the United States, the house would probably have a garage (few private citizens in Russia own cars) and might have a basement. At the request of House of the Week, the architect has worked up these alternate versions.

So much for the background, here's the house:

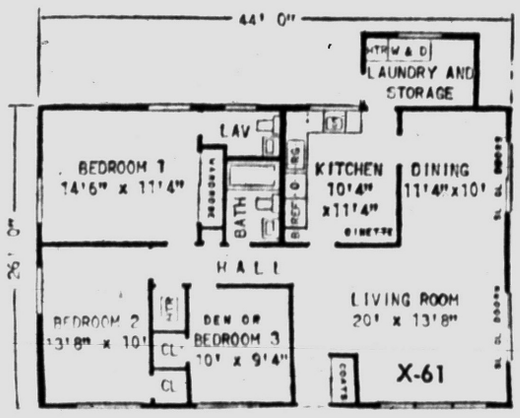
The main entrance brings the visitor into a modest foyer set apart from the remainder of the living room by a coat closet. The living and dining rooms are laid out in the familiar "L" shape, with the kitchen in between and handy to both.

A three-pane picture window gives the living room an open feeling and sliding glass doors lead to the terrace or breezeway at right. In the no basement version, a laundry and storage room is put off the kitchen, creating a ktichen vestibule.

The laundry goes downstairs in the basement version and wide windows are put in the rear dining room wall.

With counters and kitchen appliances in an "L" shape, there is plenty of room in the kitchen for a dinette table.

The three bedrooms are arranged along a core hall with the room 3 is the only one without double exposure.



NO BASEMENT VERSION — Laundry is placed in a small room added to the kitchen when the house is built on a slab.

Workbench Can Be Made in 30 Minutes

A free plan showing how a sturdy workbench can be put together in 30 minutes is now available to home handymen. For a copy of the Masonite Half-Hour Workbench, send a postal to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill. Ask for plan No. AE-312.

Material cost is about $15 for the workbench, which is made from materials that have been pre-cut at the lumber yard. The working surface is Masonite Tempered Presdwood, the tough, splinter-free material used in industrial workshops.
