Cong Toll Big in Allied Drive; North Bombed

Rails and Bridges Hit by U. S. Craft; 1,000 Reds Killed, Captured

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communists losses were reckoned today at more than 1,100 killed or captured in Operation Masher, the big allied drive in the central coastal plains, U. S. military spokesmen reported.

They called it one of the bloodiest fights of the Vietnamese war.

U.S. fighter-bombers continued the renewed air war against North Viet Nam for the third consecutive day, hitting mainly at bridges, railroad tracks, truck convoys and storage areas. Bad weather again hampered assessment of damage.

Jets from 7th Fleet carriers flew 20 combat missions and Air Force planes hit Ben Thuy, the port on the South China Sea for the city of Vinh, 160 miles south of Hanoi, for the second day in a row, spokesmen said.

U.S. air cavalrymen, South Vietnamese paratroopers and South Koreans carried Operation Masher into the ninth day in a 13-mile-square battleground around Bong Son, 290 miles northeast of Saigon. Spokesmen said the allied troops found several hundred more enemy bodies.

★ ★ ★

The spokesmen said the Communist toll has been established as 695 killed, 102 captured and 437 suspects detained. Three-fourths of the latter have been identified as Viet Cong, they said.

U.S. helicopters today accidentally unleashed a barrage of 2.75-inch Zuni rockets into bivouacked 1st Cavalry troops. One American was killed and nine others wounded in the mishap.

The aerial artillery helicopters were on station preparing to attack Viet Cong targets along the coast. A plume of yellow smoke from a flare was to have been the signal marking the Communist positions for the U.S. aircraft.

★ ★ ★

A radio operator accompanying Col. Harold G. Moore, commander of the Cavalry's 3rd Brigade, accidentally dropped a smoke grenade while cutting through some brush.

★ ★ ★

The pin dropped out and the nearby U.S. troops were attacked as yellow smoke rose into the sky.

Florida Crash Also Injures 15 Farm Laborers

Collision Near Miami Is Second Worst in History of the State

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nineteen young Puerto Ricans, who came to Florida's fields to earn some extra dollars, were killed yesterday when a farm labor bus collided with a diesel engine.

Fifteen others were badly injured as the engine crushed the bus like an accordion and pushed it 432 feet.

It was the second worst traffic accident in Florida's history and another in a long series of accidents involving vehicles that carry Florida's field hands.

Friends of the Puerto Ricans heard the news at the labor camp where the bus was bound following a day in a pole bean field.

★ ★ ★

"Did these men have families," a man asked one of the few who spoke English.

HAD FAMILIES

"They were Puerto Ricans," was the reply. "In Puerto Rico everybody has a family."

Conductor Edward B. Shaw said the Seaboard Air Line Railroad engine, which carried only a single caboose, was traveling about 30 miles an hour when it reached the crossing, about 15 miles from downtown Miami.

"The bus just ran in front of us," Shaw said. "Then I heard the racket. I looked back and couldn't see anything but dust. Then it settled and I saw bodies lying at the side of the road.

★ ★ ★

"The brakeman yelled, 'Good Lord, we've killed a bunch of people.'

HOLLERING, CRYING

"They were all hollering and crying."

The bus was hit squarely in the middle and wrapped around the front of the engine.

Battered straw and felt hats were scattered along the roadbed. Inside the bus were shoes, shreds of clothing, a battered tin cup and a paper bag that carried lunch to the field.

WORKED FOR HOURS

Police and firemen worked for hours under floodlights to pry the bus from the engine with wrecker's and acetylene torches.

Friends from the labor camp, called to identify the dead, crossed themselves as they lifted each blanket.

Snow Hits Ohio, Illinois

By The Associated Press

A groundhog day snowstorm draped a white blanket over an area from Illinois to Ohio today, while below-zero weather extended from the Dakotas into Iowa and Kansas.

★ ★ ★

The groundhog saw his shadow, which, according to tradition, means six more weeks of winter.

The storm blanketed Cincinnati with 13 inches of snow and left Belleville, Ill., with a 12-inch cover.

Dayton, Ohio, measured 10 inches and Evansville, Ind., nine.

★ ★ ★

Clear, cold weather extended over the plains this morning.

16 BELOW

The mercury dropped to 16 below zero in Grand Forks, N.D., — 17 in International Falls, Minn., and — 6 in Hutchinson, Kan.

In Marion, Ill., three hours before a remodeled drugstore was to open, a wall and part of the roof collapsed under the weight of snow and ice.

One of the heaviest snow and ice blankets stretched across Southern Illinois from St. Louis, Mo., to Vincennes, Ind.

★ ★ ★

Deaths attributable to the severe weather across the nation the last few days reached 157, including 47 persons who died in fires and heating accidents.

PLOWING OUT

New York State today was plowing out from the weekend snowstorms.

The state's major artery—the Thruway—was reopened in the morning after being partly or fully closed for almost 63 hours since 5 p.m. Sunday from Albany to Buffalo and the Pennsylvania line. A few exits on the 350-mile route still were blocked.

There were many multiple fatalities on the nation's snow and ice-slicked highways.

In one collision in the blinding snowstorm in eastern Idaho, four persons died.

WELCOME RELIEF

A comparatively light snowfall was a welcome relief to Maryland after three days of coping with the aftermath of a blizzard. But an emergency situation still prevailed in some areas as drifts up to 15 feet kept rural residents in forced isolation.

Virginia—hard hit by snow, sleet and rain—continued a massive digging out operation today.

The snowstorm in southern Ohio was the worst in 50 years.

★ ★ ★

It struck with fury yesterday, and jammed traffic, closed schools and stranded workers.

Cincinnati stores closed in mid-afternoon. The University of Cincinnati suspended classes

WALTER SADOWAY

Area Pancake Chef Hits Vegas Jackpot

The potato chip pancakes whipped up by a West Bloomfield Township man turned out to be a grand idea — worth a cool $1,000.

Walter Sadoway, 6612 Aderley, yesterday won the Men's National Cooking Championship, topping three other finalists.

The event in Las Vegas, Nev., was sponsored by the Potato Chip Institute International.

The 45-year-old cooking champion is a welding engineer for Progressive Welder and Machine Co. of Detroit and Pontiac.

There's a Chance Mr. Groundhog Saw His Shadow

Despite the cold and a few flurries, there's a chance Mr. Groundhog might have seen a faint shadow of himself this morning. If so, Pontiac area residents are in for another six weeks of slipping and sliding, on and off skis or so tradition says.

★ ★ ★

The weatherman tells us tonight will be partly cloudy with scattered snow flurries and a low of 10 to 16. And tomorrow he says will be warmer with highs a welcome 27 to 32 and skies partly cloudy.

Partly cloudy and colder with scattered snow flurries is the prediction for Friday.

Morning north to northwest winds at 10 to 20 miles per hour will become west to northwest at 8 to 15 miles tonight.

A mild 19 was the low recording in downtown Pontiac prior at 8 a.m. The mercury registered 30 at 2 p.m.

Aerialist Is Critical After Fall in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—The Great Murillo, an aerialist with the Ringling Brothers Circus, never used a balancing pole or a safety net—a feat which "separates the boys from the men," a circus official said.

Luis Murillo, 32, was hospitalized in critical condition today with a fractured pelvis and head injuries received yesterday when he fell 45 feet to the sawdust floor of Detroit's State Fair Coliseum.

Murillo, a native of Santiago, Chile, and a resident of Hollywood, Calif., was performing at the annual Shrine Circus.

He was walking up a 45-degree slanted wire toward his main performing wire when he fell.

"He had only been on about three minutes," said circus producer Alexander Dobrich. "He lost his balance, that's all. He lost his balance and he fell."

DEAD SILENCE

There was a dead silence among the audience of some 8,000 immediately after Murillo plunged to the floor. Then there were a few screams.

"He landed on his side," Dobrich said. "I was standing there and he landed about five feet from me."

Murillo lay unconscious for about five minutes.

Then an animal act was brought on to fill the gap and distract the horrified crowd.

1962 MISHAP

Murillo's fall occurred just a few feet from the spot where the "Flying Wallendas'" high wire act, the "human pyramid," crashed to the ground in 1962.

Richard Faughnan, 29, and Dieter Schepp, 23, were killed when the seven-man balancing act fell.

★ ★ ★

Mario Wallenda, 22, still is paralyzed with a spine injury. Two other members of the troupe were injured.

Lawsuit Filed in Ether Death

Husband of Victim Seeks $1.25 Million

A lawsuit was filed today asking $1.25-million in compensatory and punitive damages in connection with the death of Mrs. Gerald M. Covington last November at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Named as codefendants in the suit were the hospital, four staff doctors and two nurses.

Mrs. Covington, 24, of 436 Rowland was one of three patients who died at the hospital Nov. 18 and 19 when they were given injections of ether from a bottle believed to contain another anesthetic, Surital.

The suit was filed just before noon with Oakland County Clerk-Register John D. Murphy in behalf of Mrs. Covington's husband by attorney George Fulkerson.

★ ★ ★

The case has been assigned to Circuit Court Judge James S. Thorburn.

CODEFENDANTS

The codefendants are doctors Stanley Abrams, Lloyd Goodwin, Paul W. Trimmer and Joseph S. Maxwell and nurses Joan M. Booth and Margaret R. Lauinger.

Mrs. Covington is the mother of two. The other victims were Kimberly Ann Bruneel, 8, of 2599 Ivanhoe, West Bloomfield Township, and

Reporter Writes Own Obit: 'Cigarettes Caused Death'

HONOLULU (UPI)—Mark Waters, a veteran newspaper reporter, died yesterday of lung cancer at Queens Hospital — after writing his own obituary which attributed his death to cigarettes.

Waters, 56, wrote the obituary six days before he died and made the final proof corrections only hours before his death. It was carried in full yesterday by his newspaper, the Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

"Cigarettes were the death of me," Waters wrote in his lead sentence. He then went on to outline his belief that his cancer was caused by cigarette smoking, which he said he started 42 years ago at the age of 14.

"I've always smoked two packs a day, inhaling most of the smoke," said Waters, who was born in Davenport, Iowa, graduated from the University of North Carolina and lived for many years in Baltimore, Md.

Waters discovered he had cancer last year shortly after he left the Star-Bulletin to go into public relations work. He said doctors told him his cancer probably was caused by heavy smoking.

"I smoked incessantly. My stomach began to hurt and I would get up every hour or half-hour during the night to drink milk and smoke a cigarette.

ONE OF THOSE THINGS

"Whether this story will stop anyone from smoking, I don't know. I doubt it. Not a soul I've preached to has quit smoking — not a single, solitary soul. It's one of those things. 'You always think it'll happen to the other guy — never to me. When you get your lung cancer—God help you.'"

★ ★ ★

Waters ended his obituary by writing:

"I don't have a ghost of a chance. It's too late for me. It may not be for you."

Drop in City Juvenile Crime Reported

DR. CHARLES L. BOWERS

Pontiac's juvenile crime rate shows a downward trend over the past five years, it was reported last night.

This was the essence of a report submitted last night to the City Commission by the Youth Assistance Department.

Some reasons for the crime decline were noted in a cover letter from the Citizens' Committee on Youth, signed by Dr. Charles L. Bowers, committee president, and George P. Caronis, executive secretary.

Presenting a summary of 1965 activity by the department, the report disclosed that the rate of juvenile offenses per 1,000 juvenile population has dropped from 36 in 1961 to 26 last year.

While Pontiac's juvenile offender rate based on population in the 7-16 age group has declined, the national rate has increased, said the report.

POLICE-COUNSELOR PLAN

In their letter, Caronis and Dr. Bowers said the police-counselor program at both high schools had helped in crime prevention.

Early detection, identification and contact with potential juvenile offenders creates the opportunity for early redirection to prevent serious offenses, Caronis and Dr. Bowers noted.

Secondly, they said the community-school concept operating at six Pontiac schools has also helped in the decrease in crimes.

★ ★ ★

The youth assistance report showed 309 first offenders in 1965, as compared to 378 in the previous year.

REPEAT OFFENDERS

The number of repeat offenders dropped to 185 last year from 231 in 1964.

The city's youth department handled 165 cases last year.

The largest category was incorrigibilities: defying parental authority, late hours and the like.

Fifty-one cases of incorrigibility were handled.

The second largest category was the 36 cases of theft or larceny.

Formal Soviet Split With China May Come at Red Talks

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin may be preparing the Soviet Communist party for a formal split with Red China. It may come at the party congress next month.

Soviet Communist sources said a long letter from the Kremlin detailing the charges against Peking had been circulated to party groups during the past two weeks.

★ ★ ★

Party Presidium members, including First Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, have spoken at meetings where the letter was read, the sources said.

TO GET READY

The purpose of the letter, the sources said, is to prepare the party membership for a formal declaration that a reconciliation with Peking is impossible. It may come at the party congress opening March 29 in Moscow, the informants added.

★ ★ ★

The letter reportedly accuses China of hindering Soviet aid to North Viet Nam, attempting to subvert areas like Mongolia, staging border incidents, flooding the Soviet Union with anti-Soviet leaflets and falsely proclaiming that the Soviet Union cooperates with the United States on international problems.

★ ★ ★

Some sources said the letter also accuses China of trying to drive the Soviet Union and the United States into a nuclear war.

PUSH TOWARD WAR?

The informants said the letter is meant to be a basic document on relations with China and takes about two hours to read.

It is reportedly meant only for trusted party members, but its circulation has been so wide that many ordinary Soviet citizens have heard about it.

The letter follows a renewal of attacks on the Chinese leadership in the Soviet press. After Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin displaced Nikita Khrushchev in October 1964, they tried to patch up the quarrel with China and avoided answering the continuing Chinese criticism for more than a year.

The Chinese Communist party's official newspaper, the People's Daily, accused the Soviet leaders today of helping the United States contain Red China through actions in Asia.

SAY HELP U.S.

"The course taken by Soviet leaders on the Viet Nam, the India-Pakistan and Japan questions completely conforms with the requirements of U.S. imperialism, and especially with the latter's policy of encircling China," the newspaper said in an article signed by "Observer." The signature usually means a senior official of the Chinese Communist party.

On the Viet Nam question, the article said, "the Soviet leaders have been steadily hand in glove with the U.S. imperialists."

The article criticized Alexander N. Shelepin, the No. 2 man in the Soviet Communist party, for not condemning President Johnson's peace efforts during his recent visit to Hanoi.

"On the other hand, the Soviet press, for obviously ulterior purposes, went out of its way during this period to extol the so-called 'Tashkent spirit,' advocating the settlement of questions through negotiations'," the Peking organ said.

"This kind of propaganda in the Soviet papers had the clear import that the Vietnamese people ought to sit down at the conference table with the U.S. aggressors while allowing the latter to continue their occupation of South Viet Nam."

Farmington Township Bid on Cityhood Is Snagged

The proposed incorporation of Farmington Township as a city came to a standstill today.

The Boundaries Committee of the Board of Supervisors was to have considered scheduling an election date on the proposal this morning, but was halted by a court order temporarily restraining it from taking any action.

The order was signed by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams on the request of township resident Conrad Braseth, 21217 Waldron, an opponent of the incorporation.

Braseth's request was part of a lawsuit he filed yesterday against the Board of Supervisors and County Clerk John D. Murphy.

It challenges the validity of the petitions which were circulated and approved for the incorporation.

The defendants have been ordered to appear before Adams at 9 a.m. Monday to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued while a trial is pending.

The suit asks that the petitions be voided because there was a conflict of interest when they were notarized by several township officials who favor the incorporation.

The meeting of the boundaries committee was adjourned after members learned of the restraining order from Corporation Counsel Robert Allen. Another meeting is scheduled for Tuesday before the full board convenes.

Braseth's suit is the second filed in Circuit Court in connection with the proposed incorporation.

In mid-January, another citizen, Raymond N. Felix, 28039 Brandywine, asked that the members of the Township Board and township attorney Joseph T. Brennen be permanently enjoined from campaigning for the incorporation.

At that time, Judge Adams issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting officials from spending public funds on the campaign.

and many southern Ohio schools were shut down early.

Major hotels were jammed by mid-afternoon by workers who couldn't get home. Basketball games and meetings were canceled.

SLOW TURNPIKE

A 40-mile-per-hour speed limit was posted on the Ohio Turnpike from Fremont-Port Clinton to the Pennsylvania line.

★ ★ ★

The snow ranged from 4 to 10 inches in southern Illinois, southern Indiana and southern Ohio, and in parts of eastern Missouri and most of northern Kentucky.

At Louisville, Ky., and Belleville, Ill., across the river from St. Louis, Mo., snow measured 12 inches; Dayton, Ohio had 10 inches, Evansville, Ind., 9 inches, and Indianapolis, 5.

Snow sleet and freezing rain covered a large section of Kentucky and parts of eastern Tennessee and south-central West Virginia.

★ ★ ★

The heaviest snowstorm in more than 40 years moved into Kentucky, closed one-fourth of the schools and choked off traffic.

Frankfort had 12 to 15 inches.

SLEET PERIL TOO

Communities which escaped the snow were pelted with freezing rain. The storm dumped 9 inches on Lexington and 10 on Covington. Louisville had 11 inches, bringing most business to a standstill. Downtown stores did not open and factory workers were sent home early.

The streets were lined with abandoned cars, and those which ran creeped slowly along the streets.

The snow in Louisville was the worst since Jan. 14, 1918, when 10.4 inches covered the ground.

Wood, 59, of 11 N. Sanford and Taylor, 50, of 247 Ottawa will be seeking their fourth two-year term on the City Commission.

Both incumbents have served on the City Planning Commission.

Taylor, assistant advertising manager at Pontiac Motor Division, was first elected District 3 commissioner in 1960. He was reelected in 1962 and 1964.

He has served as mayor since 1964.

FIRST ELECTED

Meantime, Wood, a service follow-up man at GMC Truck & Coach Division, was first elected District 6 commissioner in 1958.

He won reelection in 1960 and was defeated in 1962, but won again two years ago.

A native of Rapid City, Wood came to Pontiac in 1925. He is a member of First United Missionary Church and has been active in church affairs.

★ ★ ★

In announcing his candidacy, Wood said an experienced commission would be needed to carry through the city's urban renewal efforts.

★ ★ ★

A product of schools in Yale, Brown City and Port Huron, Wood is married and has two children.

Taylor has been active in the Pontiac Area United Fund, Junior Achievement and Parent-Teacher Association.

Taylor, who attended Pontiac schools, Wayne State University and completed LaSalle Institute extension courses, was deputy chairman last year of Michigan Week in Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

The mayor was also named last year to a five-year term on the board of trustees of the Michigan Osteopathic College Foundation.

He is married and has three daughters.

However, he declined to cite any specific complaint and said he could not give the number of complaints.

The Pontiac office is to open on Mondays and Tuesdays.

Viet Talk Hope Fades in U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States may succeed in putting its Viet Nam case before the Security Council today, but an American proposal that the council sponsor peace negotiations appeared doomed.

Jordan held the answer to whether the 15-nation council would debate the issue at all. By last night the United States had mustered only eight of the nine affirmative votes required to place the issue on the agenda.

Waleed Sadi of Jordan asked the council to postpone decision on the debate until today so his government could instruct him whether to support the U.S. request for debate on its proposal that the council sponsor preparatory talks to set up a Viet Nam peace conference.

Even if the proposal goes up for debate, opposition led by the Soviet Union and France virtually killed any chance of the United States getting the council to take a hand in a Viet Nam peace settlement.

The big power veto does not apply to procedural questions such as putting items on the agenda. But it does apply to substantive proposals such as setting up a peace parley.

SLIM HOPE

About all the United States can hope for is a chance to air its peace efforts before the council and try to lay the blame for failure of those efforts at the door of the Communists.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg has introduced a resolution calling on the council to arrange discussions with interested governments on holding a conference that could lead to peace in Viet Nam and all Southeast Asia.

Soviet reaction to Goldberg's opening appeal yesterday made it plain that the U.S. proposal would run into a Soviet veto, even if it mustered the nine affirmative votes needed for adoption.

50 'Friends' With Pair on Honeymoon

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — A Rochester man and woman who spent the first three days of their honeymoon trapped in a snowbound synagogue with 50 in-laws, relatives and friends, finally got started today on their first day of marriage — alone.

★ ★ ★

Where did they head? For a ski lodge — if they could find one that hasn't been closed by the blizzard.

Snowplows cleared a path to Beth El Temple yesterday and freed the guests and the newlyweds, Jane Relin and Edward Edelstein, who were married Sunday afternoon.

After the nuptials and a reception at the temple, the wedding party discovered it was trapped in the building by the snow.

★ ★ ★

The couple made one attempt to leave Sunday night, but made it only as far as a nearby suburb before their car bogged down.

TURNED BACK

Abandoning their car, the newlyweds turned around and skied back to the wedding celebration at the temple.

Meanwhile, the guests — including a caterer who was stranded at the celebration with a truckload of food resolved to make the most of the situation and continued the party through Sunday night, Monday and yesterday.

Candidacy Announced by Pair

State Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-14th District, will be a candidate for Oakland County Circuit judge and his former campaign manager will attempt to succeed him as the 14th District legislator.

Roberts and Carl D. Pursell of Plymouth simultaneously announced their candidacy for the two posts today.

Pursell ran Roberts' campaign in early 1965 when he took over the Senate seat left vacant by the death of Paul Chandler. Chandler died before taking office and a special election was held.

Roberts, 43, of 2486 LaFay, West Bloomfield Township, is seeking one of the six-year terms on the circuit bench.

★ ★ ★

THIRD TERM

"The completion of my third term in the Michigan Senate, coupled with my previous service in the House of Representatives and the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office, has given me the variety of experience which I believe is essential to be an effective circuit judge," said Roberts.

Roberts left his Senate seat in 1964 to run for a seat on the Michigan Court of Appeals but was defeated. Ironically the court was established through a bill introduced by Roberts.

An attorney, he is a partner in the law firm of Dieterle, Roberts and Mann in West Bloomfield Township. Roberts is a graduate of the University of Michigan Law School.

A graduate of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Roberts served in both World War II and the Korean conflict. He is a commander in the Naval Reserve.

FIRST VENTURE

This will be Pursell's first venture into politics as a candidate, but already he has received support in his bid from the Republican state chairman, Elly Peterson.

A former teacher in Livonia public schools, Pursell, 33, is president of Western Office Equipment, Inc., Plymouth, and president of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

He is presently serving as GOP chairman of the Second Congressional District in Wayne County, and is a member of Gov. Romney's Task Force on Political Organization.

★ ★ ★

Pursell has a master's degree in administration from Eastern Michigan University.

FARRELL E. ROBERTS

Ex-Pontiac Mayor Files for Commission

Robert A. Landry, 47 Center, former Pontiac mayor, filed nominating petitions yesterday for the March 7 City Commission primary.

Landry, 51, employed as a senior clerk at Fisher Body Division, Livonia plant, will be seeking his fourth term as District 7 commissioner.

Predicts Morale Will Fail

N. Viet General Says U.S. Can't Win

TOKYO (UPI) — Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, who engineered the Viet Minh victory over France in the Indochina War, is convinced the United States cannot win the Viet Nam War by military force.

★ ★ ★

Giap, current defense minister and deputy premier in the Hanoi government, predicted the U.S. would lose the Viet Nam conflict because American troops would be overcome by "passivity" and "low morale."

The assertion was published in the January issue of Hoc Tap, ideological journal of the North Vietnamese Communist Party. It was broadcast yesterday by Hanoi Radio.

The timing of the analysis by the leading North Vietnamese military strategist all but finalized North Viet Nam's rejection of peace talks with the United States, observers felt.

Giap commanded the Viet Minh forces of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh in the war against France more than a decade ago. He is a disciple of the Mao Tse-tung school of guerrilla warfare.

NUMBERS UNIMPORTANT

He said in the article the United States would lose in Viet Nam despite the number of troops sent to fight the war.

"They cannot avoid being driven into passivity in strategy, (by being) compelled to scatter their forces in the defensive as well as in the offensive," he declared.

Giap wrote that "no matter how modern its equipment, the American expeditionary forces cannot bring into full play its combativeness, and cannot escape the inevitable defeat which is likely to befall an army fighting on foreign soil against a people's movement organized for guerrilla resistance."

★ ★ ★

He also charged the South Vietnamese government was utterly inefficient, corrupt, unstable and did not have the backing of the peasants.

OBVIOUS REASON

The bombing of North Viet Nam has given further determination to the North Vietnamese people to fight the Americans, Giap added. He said the reason for U.S. involvement in Viet Nam was "obvious."

★ ★ ★

". . . (it is) because the Saigon army and government have lost the war," Giap wrote.

Although Giap's analysis did little more than restate theories of guerrilla warfare which originated in the writings of Mao, it was seen as an indication the Hanoi government is firmly convinced it cannot lose the Viet Nam war.

'Non-Red Press Accepts Renewal of Bombings'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The director of the U.S. Information Agency said today the non-Communist press around the world generally has recognized resumption of U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam as inevitable."

★ ★ ★

"World opinion has universally—with the exception of the Communist states — welcomed the peace offensive and recognized the president's good faith in trying to bring about an end to hostilities," Leonard H. Marks said in an interview.

"The world press generally was skeptical that Hanoi and Peking would respond by calling the fighting off and sitting down at the conference table," the USIA boss added.

Since the resumption of the bombing," Marks said, "the world press (except the Communists) has recognized that the United States did everything possible and that resumption of the bombing was inevitable." He said some editors "deplored" the bombing renewal but still accepted its inevitability.

★ ★ ★

Marks declined to say what advice he personally gave the President or national security council on the bombing resumption.

The USIA chief also reported that the Russians have been increasing propaganda activities in many parts of the world, concentrating on Asia, Latin America and Africa.

He cited India, which he recently visited as an example. There, he said, the Russians have taken a large house on a main thoroughfare, put up a neon sign, and made it a cultural center.

He said the Russians have added two new magazines in India for young people, with circulation estimated at 500,000 each; have increased radio broadcasts; published books in English and seven Indian dialects; doubled the number of Soviet information personnel in the country and substantially increased the number of Indians they employ in that endeavor.

Marks estimated the Russians spend the equivalent of $2 billion a year on overseas information. USIA's operating budget is $158 million, but the comparison is misleading because private publishing and broadcasting accounts for a large part of information about America which goes abroad.

For Merged Walled Lake-Dublin District

Bright Financial Outlook Hinted

By PAT McCARTY

The Walled Lake-Dublin school district financial picture may be brighter than it looked at first glance.

★ ★ ★

School officials are going to take another look at their anticipated incomes to see just what the proposed merger of the two districts would mean in terms of tax dollars behind each student.

"We are interested in researching the proposition in the hope that there might not be any loss per child to Walled Lake," George G. Garver, superintendent of the larger district, said.

A proposal to merge the two districts now is before the State School District Reorganization Committee, which is expected to take action on the matter at its next meeting Feb. 10-11.

The consolidation was recommended by the county committee established to study alternatives for districts not offering 13-year programs.

Dublin now has a kindergarten - through - 8th - grade curriculum and sends some 300 students to Walled Lake High School on a tuition basis.

STUMBLING BLOCK

A stumbling block in the way of easy acceptance of the proposed merger is the fear that it would bring a decrease in the amount of money available per student in the Walled Lake district.

"Preliminary figures showed it would amount to about $5 less per child if last year's formula were followed," Garver said.

This would cut district operating funds by about $40,000.

However, there is reason to believe that state funds designated for hardship areas will be increased this year, the Walled Lake superintendent noted.

HARDSHIP MONEY

The hardship money is given to districts with a declining amount of property valuation in ratio to the number of youngsters to be educated.

Dublin is such a district.

With an equalized property valuation of $5.1 million, the small district has $5,162 behind each student.

★ ★ ★

Its revenue from local taxes and state aid nets $392 per student.

EQUALIZED VALUE

The Walled Lake district has an equalized value of $81 million, or $10,500 per student, and therefore collects $434 for each.

Preliminary figures indicated the per-student income would be $429 if the districts merged.

Now it appears that much of the difference might be offset by the hardship factor.

★ ★ ★

Garver also noted that the Walled Lake district would gain about $37,000 annually in taxes from Dublin property owners to be used for retirement of school building bonds in the larger district.

ORIGINAL FIGURES

While the original figures were based on valuations before a parcel from the Waterford Township School District was included in the consolidation recommendation, Garver said the effect of including this area would be small.

The proposal includes annexation from the Waterford district of about 320 acres lying west of Williams Lake Road and south of Elizabeth Lake Road.

Garver said the district would gain about 40 cents a student in tax dollars if the area is included.

He commented that Walled Lake's motive in seeking the boundary extension into the Waterford district is mainly the desire to unify the Union Lake community.

He said all the figures would be considered again, as part of a "careful analysis of Dublin's present situation, enrollment trends, operational monies and debt retirement funds."

Veterinarian Is Honored

FARMINGTON — Dr. John Richardson, 32, recently was awarded the Farmington Jaycees' distinguished service award for 1965 for his all-around community activities.

The veterinarian and his wife, Shirley, are the parents of two young daughters.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Richardson is a member of the Exchange Club and the Board of Commerce and past president of the Jaycees; as well as an officer in the Alta Loma Homeowners' Association and an active member of the First Methodist Church.

Michael Kiley, executive assistant to the publisher of The Farmington Enterprise, was awarded the special citizen's award by the Jaycees for his community contributions.

Voters Oppose Rezoning Bid

Rose Twp. Rejects Mobile Home Site

ROSE TOWNSHIP — A referendum election held yesterday determined that the majority of qualified voters are opposed to another mobile home site in the township.

Rezoning for the township's second mobile home development was canceled by a 206-134 vote.

Yesterday's election was scheduled after a Sept. 28, 1965 referendum vote on the matter was ruled unconstitutional by Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore.

The issue involved 40 acres of property at the end of Cogshall just south of the Holly village limit.

★ ★ ★

Bloch Brothers Corp. of Waterford wanted to develop mobile home sites on the property it owns through Mohave Plantations, Inc., duplicating the adjacent Holly Shores mobile home development.

ZONING CHANGED

The Township Board changed the zoning on the parcel from industrial to mobile home classification in April of 1965, but a referendum election on the matter forced the zoning back to industrial when property owners voted against the use of the property for mobile home development.

★ ★ ★

Mohave Plantations, protested the balloting in a lawsuit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court, claiming the referendum unconstitutional and further claiming that the only reasonable use for the property is the expansion of Holly Shores Subdivision.

The balloting yesterday decided the first point and now the firm will ask Judge Moore to decide on the second point.

W. Bloomfield Board to Get Levy Proposal

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—The Township Board tonight will be asked to call for a special election on a 2-mill public safety improvement package.

★ ★ ★

A citizens' committee will recommend the 2-mill levy to allow the township to double its police force, triple its number of fulltime firemen and increase their salaries and fringe benefits.

The levy also would cover expenditures for some additional equipment and office space.

Suggested date for the election—although it's not officially a part of the recommendation—is April 4.

Supervisor John C. Rehard had indicated that an additional 2 mills might be needed when he appointed the committee in November.

9 NEW EMPLOYES

The committee report recommends hiring nine new employes for the police department, which presently has nine men including the chief. There are seven auxiliary policemen.

Also proposed is the purchase of two new patrol cars and up-to-date finger-printing equipment, along with provision for additional office space.

The Township Board now is contemplating construction of a fourth fire station through surplus funds.

★ ★ ★

The citizens' committee backs this idea and urges that four full-time firemen be hired to staff the new station.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Included in the fire department expansion would be the hiring of an additional assistant or deputy chief and one new fireman for each of the three existing stations.

Present full-time fire department contigent is four men, who work with 44 volunteers.

Under the proposal, the fire chief and the chief, lieutenant and sergeant in the police department each would receive up to 10 per cent increase in their maximum salaries.

★ ★ ★

Other salaries would be boosted to provide a $6,800 rather than $6,200 maximum for patrolmen and $6,400 rather than $5,900 for full-time firemen.

5-YEAR LEVY

The five-year levy would be permissive, allowing the Township Board to levy up to 2 mills.

A 1-mill levy voted extra expires in 1967.

Four Seeking Council Seats

OXFORD — Four persons will contend for three seats on the Village Council in the March 14 general election.

Two of the candidates are incumbents Edward Bossardet and Ray Forman.

Challenging them will be Jay Allen, 124 S. Washington and Walter Subora, 15 Pontiac.

Incumbent John Flumerfelt did not file for reelection.

★ ★ ★

The two highest vote-getters will earn the right to fill the two two-year terms. The third highest vote-getter will get a one-year term.

No primary is necessary because more than two candidates did not file for each position.

Farmington Twp. Man Is Reelected Dem Club Leader

FARMINGTON — Aldo Vagnozzi, 26193 Kiltartan, Farmington Township, recently was reelected chairman of the Farmington Democratic Club for a third one-year term.

★ ★ ★

Vagnozzi announced that the Democrats soon will unveil a proposal to create a private community betterment fund which could be used to meet some of the needs identified in a recent Jaycee survey.

★ ★ ★

Also reelected were vice chairman Charles Wissinger and treasurer John I. Bain. Holding club posts for the first time will be Mrs. William Hungerford, recording secretary; Mrs. Roland Mutschall, corresponding secretary; and Gerald Freedman, auditor.

PTA Panel on Schooling

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Nonacademic curriculum at the elementary level will be the topic of a panel discussion at the Monday night meeting of the Union Lake Elementary School PTA.

★ ★ ★

Members of the panel are Stanley Hester, elementary art consultant; Mrs. Carl Grapentine, elementary vocal music instructor; Mrs. Janith Rolston, elementary instrumental music instructor; and Joseph Stanczyk, physical education director.

Their topic is "Your Child's Nonacademic Curriculum — Art, Music and Physical Education."

Radioman Stares At Jungle, Ready To Send Mayday

15 Minutes Can Be Lifetime in Viet War

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

COURTENAY, Viet Nam — It was nearly dark when the enemy opened fire and for 15 frightening minutes a group of GIs wondered if they'd ever see another day.

Eleven men were there, their mission: to find the Viet Cong.

They found them at the edge of the jungle, waiting, loaded to the eyeteeth and spoiling to fight — dozens of skinny little men wrapped in silk shorts and ammunition bandoleers, spitting fire and fragmentation.

"Mayday! Mayday!"

Lt. Ed Young grabbed his radiophone and screamed.

★ ★ ★

"Mayday! Come and get us. We're in trouble!"

FULL KNOWLEDGE

He knew the distress call was heard, but he did not know if aid could come. Minutes earlier, his reconnaissance patrol had tumbled out of a helicopter with full knowledge that if trouble came at night help probably would not.

Choppers rarely land in the dark. Young had, therefore, planned to stay the evening in the tangled thicket, find the enemy, avoid him and leave quietly the following morning.

But the VC had other plans.

"Hey," a sergeant whispered. "I thought I saw something."

"Where?"

"Over there. Looked like four people."

"You sure?"

"No, maybe it wasn't anything."

★ ★ ★

But it was. Four Cong guerrillas . . . then four more, sneaking silently around the flanks of the GI patrol. Finally, four more. A dozen spotted now, apparently trying to surround the group.

WONDER WHY

"Why don't they fire?" a man wondered.

"They may be waiting for dark."

"Yeah, they know the copters can't get us then."

At that moment, at the last light of dusk the shooting started. The VC opened with automatic weapons and caught the Yanks in a crossfire. The patrol answered with 750 rounds - a - minute from M-16 rifles and grunting grenades from M-79 launchers.

"Mayday! Mayday!" the lieutenant chanted.

"Damn 'em to hell."

"Watch the flanks."

"Keep down, keep down."

"Where are the helicopters?"

"Mayday! Mayday! We're not kidding!"

Fifteen minutes of fighting. It seemed like 15 days to Young, a 173rd Brigade officer from Monterey, Calif.

KEPT WAITING

Another man so lost his sense of time he kept waiting for the sun to rise.

They did have one break, though. On their guts and with foliage and dirt mounds separating them and the enemy, they presented miniature targets.

But the air was full of steel.

And nothing could escape it for very long.

★ ★ ★

The men were quaking but no one panicked . . . perhaps because they were too busy firing. They saw fleeting shadows darting about and filled the woodline with shot to cut down at least a few.

HELD ADVANTAGE

But the advantage was the enemy's.

And if they charged the patrol would stand no chance.

Then, just as it seemed that a charge was imminent, the chop of giant motors cut into the confusion. Young turned. So did his men.

They could barely see, it was so dark. But there was no mistake.

The rescue copter had somehow landed.

Frantically all eleven GIs belly-flopped inside . . .

And 15 minutes of fighting was over.

Volunteer Tutors Need Direction in Pupil Aid

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.

High school and college students from Maine to California often volunteer their services as tutors for pupils who find the going a little rough. They provide individual help and encouragement not otherwise possible in our crowded schools.

DR. NASON

These volunteers are ready, willing and usually capable of helping a child with his current schoolwork. In many cases, however, it requires a careful study by a trained counselor to determine the kind of help which could solve the pupil's problem once and for all and make it possible for him to compete successfully on his own in the classroom.

This study should include a child's cumulative records, his past and present home environment, and his present deficiencies.

John was tutored to catch up in arithmetic in the fifth grade and again in the sixth. But not until a counselor made a thorough study of his development in arithmetic from the beginning was it realized that he had failed to learn his multiplication tables.

A volunteer helped John master the tables through the use of flash cards. He was then carried through a rapid review of the fourth and fifth grade arithmetic. From this point on, John maintained satisfactory performance in his arithmetic classes, needing no more tutoring.

ENGLISH DIFFICULT

Pedro had made high grades in art, music and science and above-average grades in mathematics. But only through dint of great efforts had he been able to achieve passing grades in English. His verbal I.Q. was 20 points below his overall I.Q.

Pedro was on the verge of failing seventh grade English when, through a study of his history, it was realized that he had not had an adequate opportunity to gain facility in the use of English. His home was bilingual, and the English spoken was not sufficiently accurate.

Rather than requiring tutoring in present assignments, Pedro needed someone to spend hours talking with him, giving him an opportunity to develop a facility in the use of English.

And so it goes! A ninth grade algebra student may not have understood fractions in the fifth grade.

DEPENDED ON MOTHER

Another student may not have bothered for years to learn in class, always obtaining sufficient information from his mother to complete his homework.

In the latter case, tutoring in the usual sense of the word would only increase the deficiency. This student should be helped to start learning on his own.

Volunteers should be used to help students make permanent gains. But only after individual programs have been set up by counselors following a thorough study of each case.

Mott Family Forms Charity Foundation

FLINT (AP) — Members of the C. S. Mott family Tuesday announced organization of a new philanthropic foundation and donated $99,900 to the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, New York, as their first public gift.

The elder Mott, 90, is a former board chairman of General Motors Corp. and honorary chairman of the C. S. Mott Foundation which has donated millions to education, primarily for the Flint Public Schools.

A son, Stewart R. Mott, 28, was elected president of the new organization. It will be called Spectemum Agendo Inc., the Mott family motto which means "Let us be known by our deeds."

The film for the student assembly was about rice, and the U.S. Marine who came along as a speaker was Maj. John Duck.

Ann Arbor Jury Rates Award for Fast Work

We roundly applaud the Ann Arbor jury that convicted 20 defendants on charges of trespassing on the premises of the city's draft board.

Those on trial, most of whom were University of Michigan students, had invaded the board's offices to stage a sit-in protest against the U.S. policy in Viet Nam—claiming the democratic freedom that others are giving their blood to defend.

★ ★ ★

After a three-day trial, the jury reached a verdict with commendable dispatch. It agreed within 30 minutes that the actions of the protesters were not only insufferable but illegal as affecting the orderly process of filling the manpower requirements of the Nation's military.

Equally to be commended was the prompt action of Circuit Court Judge JAMES R. BREAKEY JR. in passing jail sentences of 15 to 20 days.

★ ★ ★

The Constitution grants every American the right of protest so long as it is expressed in a legal manner. It does not grant license to obstructionists who would flout Federal authority by tactics such as those employed by the Ann Arbor rebels.

★ ★ ★

Let us hope that the summary verdict of their guilt will have deterent effect on other like-minded Un-Americans and exemplary effect on jurists and laymen entrusted with administration of justice.

Civilian Agency Boosts Morale of U.S. Military

Yesterday United Service Organizations (USO) marked the anniversary of 25 years' service to the men and women in America's armed forces.

Unmatched by any comparable agency in the military annals of history, the USO has served more than 20 million military personnel in World War II, in the Korean conflict, in the continual "cold war" threats that have called the Stars and Stripes to critical areas—and now in Viet Nam, as the three units there are about to be increased to 11.

★ ★ ★

The USO is the unified outgrowth of six religious and welfare agencies that independently served our military personnel in World War I. For those in uniform, it is the bridge between civilian and family life and the strange and grim role assumed in defense of Country.

As most Americans know the USO, currently operating in 128 communities in continental United States and 37 overseas areas, has been generously and patriotically supported by a host of individuals and organizations, divergent in character but united in mission. As an example, 700 entertainers last year gave 4,000 performances to a military audience of 2.5 million.

★ ★ ★

Although the Pontiac area has not embraced large-scale military installations, a local USO activity was formed in 1950 to serve the Army personnel manning the Nike bases that were established adjacent to the City.

Under continuous chairmanship of Irving Steinman, the agency well served its purpose until it was discontinued a year ago when Nike gave way to a more sophisticated defense against air attack positioned in remoter area.

We commend in full measure the magnificent job the USO has done in making more bearable the grueling lot of Americans on the battle front and earnestly urge its all-out support by Americans on the home front.

Smoker's Wits Seen Outmatching Habit

There are probably as many methods for stopping smoking as there are people who have kicked the habit or are trying to, but few are as desperately ingenious as this one reported by Prevention magazine.

It seems a Parisian placed the following newspaper ad:

"I'd like to quit smoking. For this reason I'm looking for a job in a large gas station or in another highly inflammable or explosive working place."

We'd bet the frantic Frenchman makes it. As the fella said, "Where there's a pill there's a way."

Doves, Hawks Dislike Air War

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Both the hawks and doves probably were dissatisfied with the way the air war against North Viet Nam was restarted.

The hawks wanted to raise the level of the targets—to hit industrial, power, port, petroleum supplies and other Communist resources, including those around Hanoi and Haiphong, North Viet Nam's capital and chief port.

The doves wanted the bombing pause continued longer, perhaps indefinitely.

The first bombing strikes after a 37-day break for the peace offensive involved roughly the same order of targets and the same areas that were hit when the air war in the north began just short of a year ago.

★ ★ ★

There's a broad body of opinion in the military and in Congress which holds there is little sense in returning to the air war of the old stand.

LOGICAL COURSE

Officers and congressmen holding this view argue that the only logical course now is to heap punishment on the Communists in North Viet Nam—to hit them where it really hurts.

As a counterweight to this, certain officials in the State Department reportedly have favored holding the bombing to a lower target level, strictly along the infiltration routes.

The terms hawk and dove actually are oversimplifications. There is a range of views in both general camps—varying degrees of hawkism and doveism.

For example, nobody could legitimately characterize any of the military chiefs as doves. Yet, there are divergencies among them on various aspects of the war.

Gen. John P. McConnell, the Air Force chief of staff, is understood to be eager to turn his B52 heavy jet bombers against North Viet Nam. Other members of the Joint Chiefs would place priorities elsewhere.

★ ★ ★

To Adm. David L. McDonald, chief of naval operations, action against the port of Haiphong—the main intake of seaborne supplies from the Soviet Union—bulks perhaps more important.

BIG BEACHHEAD CONCEPT

In the war in South Viet Nam, Gen. Wallace M. Greene, the Marine commandant, espouses a strategy of widening coastal enclaves to join them eventually into one long beachhead as a base of operations.

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, the Army chief of staff, prefers a strategy which involves blocking main Communist approaches from Cambodia and Laos and sending mobile forces around the country to find, fix and fight Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

'Relax, Fellows, McNamara Says You're Obsolete!'

David Lawrence Says:

Peace Bid Reaction Expectable

WASHINGTON — The United States government is neither surprised nor discouraged by the initial reaction to its request that the United Nations intercede in the controversy over how to end the Viet Nam war.

Nor is the Vatican being deterred in its LAWRENCE effort to bring about a peace conference under U.N. auspices. The Rome radio repeats that it is a function and responsibility of the United Nations to enter the situation and bring about negotiations.

★ ★ ★

Even the reply from the North Vietnamese government in Hanoi that the proposal is "invalid" is not taken to be the last word. For, while the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry declares that the governments which are designated as supervisors of the 1954 Geneva agreement are the ones to deal with the subject, this hardly excludes other governments from using their "good offices" to effect an agreement.

The United Nations could arrange for a cease-fire and then urge the Geneva conference group itself to conduct the peace conference.

★ ★ ★

What is important today is that the United Nations take the initiative in setting into motion machinery for the consummation of an armistice, as was the case in Korea.

DRIFTED INTO LULL

The truce negotiations in Korea lasted nearly a year, but the war itself drifted into a lull. The same thing could happen in Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

The biggest single influence that could motivate the U. N. would be the reaction of public opinion throughout the world. Certainly the United Nations was organized for the very purpose of delving into war situations and finding some machinery for the making of peace.

If a war that has as many international complications as the Viet Nam conflict is brushed aside as irrelevant just because some of the parties are not members of the United Nations, the influence of the international organization itself is likely to weaken steadily.

★ ★ ★

Under the charter of the United Nations, the Security Council has the "primary responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security." The U.N. Charter says:

★ ★ ★

"The Security Council shall determine the existence of any threat to the peace, breach of the peace, or act of aggression, and shall make recommendations, or decide what measures shall be taken . . . to maintain or restore international peace and security."

COUNCIL AUTHORIZATION

In another part of the charter, the Security Council is authorized to "call upon the parties concerned to comply with such provisional measures as it deems necessary or desirable."

Thus, arrangements can be made for an armistice without necessarily involving the United Nations in the working out of peace terms.

The American government is determined to press first for a cease-fire and later for a negotiation.

While official announcement has been made here that the bombing of targets in North Viet Nam has been resumed, it may be doubted whether any intensification of the war will materialize right away. Rather the tendency on the part of the American government is to "wait and see" whether the United Nations will take cognizance of the situation and initiate some armistice parleys.

It could mean a long-drawn-out discussion. Some form of agreement on an armistice is only a first step, as protracted negotiations would then be expected to follow.

NEW YORK — It's always easy to like a person after he's dead, but I had a grudging respect for Mike Quill when he was alive.

He went to his death full of the old bustle, his point won, his raises gained, such fences as he wished to repair in the course of being repaired.

There won't be one like Mike again. The mold was broken shortly after the Easter Rebellion. He just made it under the wire.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is spending more time these days explaining to Congress what happened in the past and might happen again than he is spending attending to his job as conductor of the foreign policy.

The poor man's job is to talk the House of Representatives out of $415 million more in foreign aid, $275 million of it to pay for the mounting cost of the war in Viet Nam.

The devil's advocates on the committee have scored some impressive gains: stories of corruption in the Saigon government and among American civilians working there.

★ ★ ★

The wife of one U.S. civilian worker in Saigon sent back to the U.S. $36,000 in money orders in the last six months.

BANK ACCOUNTS

There are reports that South Vietnamese officials have opened numbered accounts with Swiss banks and that much of the goods we send to alleviate the suffering of the South Viet Nam people winds up in the black market, where it enriches the wicked and finds its way to the Viet Cong, Hanoi, Hong Kong (for exchange into dollars) and Peking.

★ ★ ★

While American boys die for what amounts to coolie wages.

★ ★ ★

Secretary Rusk's hard job is to explain that, alas, this has been true of every war ever fought by man; that greed requests no armor, no trench, no bombshelter, for it is indestructible in the savage side of the human heart.

Williams vs. Cavanagh

The Jackson Citizen Patriot

Maybe Mayor Jerome Cavanagh of Detroit knows something about Sen. Pat McNamara's plans but his strong indications that he will be in the Senate race are quite intriguing.

★ ★ ★

G. Mennen Williams has been playing according to the time-honored political rules by saying that he would run for the Senate only if McNamara retired. It is not considered cricket to go gunning for an incumbent, even though he got his job in the first place by an accident of fate and really wasn't wanted by the party's high command.

Cavanagh already may know that McNamara plans to retire, or he just doesn't care for ordinary political protocol. Either way, the prospects of a Williams-Cavanagh race are exciting. This would be one for the book.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Cavanagh currently is riding high in Detroit. He has received much national exposure through magazine articles. He is quick with words, and especially when speaking off the cuff. He can read a page from the telephone book and make it sound like a passage from Washington's Farewell Address.

★ ★ ★

The mayor undoubtedly would be an effective campaigner, but a few hundred Republican politicians in Michigan can tell you that Mr. Williams is pretty handy too. While he has been away in Washington for more than five years, the former governor could put a new polish on his image with a few weeks on the campaign trail. He is as much at home in Jackson, or Traverse City or Ontonagon as he is in Detroit, where Mayor Cavanagh would have his main base of strength.

It would be a great fight.

Johnson's New Budget

The London Times

There is little doubt that the United States can afford to add the costs of war and of reaching for the moon, literally, to the twin objectives of high prosperity and a growing social program. The only question is what the costs are likely to be in other directions.

As the unemployment rate declines and the space capacity of industry is absorbed, pressures on costs are bound to rise. If they rise too rapidly and start to unsettle prices, they could quickly strike at what is still America's Achilles' heel — the precarious state of her balance of payments. This is the real risk the United States will be running throughout the next twelve months.

'Cost of Grade Crossing Will Rise With Delays'

Shortly after 7:30 Monday morning a long freight stopped Huron street traffic. The west line backed clear up to State and half way to Franklin. After the freight cleared, the gates were raised about 20 seconds and then lowered again to let a single locomotive pass grandly but slowly. Can't the railroad be good enough to citizens to allow traffic to clear for at least two or three minutes before becoming a public nuisance the second time?

★ ★ ★

That's the most ideal place I ever saw for a grade separation, anyway. What are we waiting for? The cost will keep on rising every year we delay.

For Portage Students

Cement, Mortar Part of Curriculum

PORTAGE (AP) — Seventeen Portage area high school boys are spending three hours of class time every day laying cement blocks and mixing mortar.

★ ★ ★

The goal — completion of a three-bedroom ranch-style house by the end of the school year.

Students in the project represent Portage's two high schools — Central and Northern — and many are expected to enter the construction trades upon graduation.

Their work on the house is regarded as a class assignment, and it's graded.

★ ★ ★

Portage's public school system is paying for the materials and expects to regain its investment when the house is sold in the spring.

INSTRUCTIONAL

Ray Kennedy, industrial arts teacher, said that financial profit is not the major motive — although there may be some — and that the activity is planned primarily for its instructional value.

He said that finding time to finish the year-long project is "the least of my worries."

He's mainly concerned with keeping records of materials and costs, watching each stage of the work as it progresses and keeping the students interested.

★ ★ ★

Although house building has become part of the curriculum in several Michigan school districts, this is Portage's first effort.

BIG ENDEAVOR

It's definitely a student-dominated endeavor.

One of the youths working on the project is Miles Goretzka, an advanced architectural drawing student who designed the structure.

Kennedy, who has built several homes including his own, is doing "very little" of the work himself, even though he enjoys it.

★ ★ ★

Contracting firms have been hired to complete plumbing and mechanical work.

LANDSCAPE LOT

Kennedy expects to have time after the house is completed for the students to landscape the lot and finish the basement interior.

High school home economics students are planning color coordination for the living areas, a class project involving selection of drapes, wall colors and lamp fixtures.

Kennedy's watching the weather — hoping for a break to keep the project moving — but he's out there with the boys in blizzards and rainstorms anyway.

Contribution for County Lab Operation Formally Ended

City commissioners last night formally terminated, effective March 31, the city's contribution toward operation of a county health laboratory.

The commission, after receiving a report on a meeting between city and county administrators, passed a resolution eliminating the annual $16,130 expenditure.

In a meeting Monday, city and county officials agreed that there was no good reason for the city to make the contribution.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said he could find no other municipality making a similar contribution.

★ ★ ★

The annual payment dates back to a 1957 contract whereby the city agreed to the contribution.

MONTHLY BASIS

The contract, which expired in 1961, now exists on a month-to-month basis. The commission gave the county the 30-day notice with their action last night.

County officials had indicated that the payment would be eliminated in the county's 1967 budget and sooner if the city insisted.

Warren said terminating the contract March 31 would save the city $12,000 in the current calendar year.

★ ★ ★

In other business last night, the commission delayed appointments to the city's Board of Tax Review. The appointments are to be made in two weeks.

DID NOT ACT

City Finance Director Marvin M. Alward reported last night that the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission did not act yesterday on the city's application to sell $2 million in tax anticipation notes.

The city seeks the funds to provide operating monies until tax receipts are received after July 1.

Alward said the city would have to begin to scrap for funds if the state commission did not approve the loan notes at their meeting next Tuesday.

A 22-acre parcel located adjacent to the city's new sanitary land-fill site north of Collier was rezoned to Manufacturing-1 (M-1). The city owns the property.

A block bounded by Kennett, Carlisle, Dearborn and Dewey was rezoned Residential-3 (R-3). A 32-unit apartment building is planned there.

The northwest corner of Orchard Lake Avenue and Telegraph was rezoned to M-1.

In other action, a 29-acre city-owned parcel north of West Columbia and east of the railroad tracks was rezoned to R-3.

PROPERTY EXCHANGE

This land is to be involved in a property exchange with the developer of an apartment project there.

★ ★ ★

A request for commercial rezoning for a parcel of land on East Boulevard North at Victory was referred to the City Planning Commission.

★ ★ ★

Also referred to the city planners was a request by Marimont Baptist Church to vacate an alley north of Walton, between Hollywood and the alley west of Baldwin.

Appeal Filed in Convictions

Follows Sentencing of 28 in Ann Arbor Sit-In

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The attorney for 28 persons sentenced Tuesday on convictions of trespassing in a sit-in at the Selective Service office here has filed an appeal with the State Court of Appeals.

Ernest Goodman, a Detroit attorney, said he appealed the convictions because he felt "there should be a place in the American judicial system for a legal form to protest decisions of the federal government."

★ ★ ★

He said he based the appeal on the refusal of the Circuit Court to admit evidence as to why the defendants staged the demonstration.

The 39 demonstrators, most of whom are students or junior faculty members at the University of Michigan, said the Oct. 15 sit-in was to protest United States policy in Viet Nam.

HANDS DOWN SENTENCES

Circuit Judge James Breakey Jr. handed down sentences of from 15-20 days plus fines of $50 and court costs of $20 for each of the 28 defendants. All undergraduate students received 15-day terms.

All the demonstrators had been sentenced to 10-day jail terms and fined $50 and $15 costs each in Municipal Court Oct. 27. Most pleaded nolo contendere and appealed the decision to the higher court.

★ ★ ★

Since the sit-in 12 of the demonstrators have lost their student draft deferments and have been designated 1-A (available for immediate induction).

Selective service officials said the sit-in obstructed operations of the office, an unlawful act under the Universal Military Training and Service Act.

The defendants are free on $500 bond each.

Master Plan for Thoroughfares

Pontiac Orders New Traffic Study

Accelerated along with the area's economic growth, Pontiac's traffic problems will receive a complete review, as a result of City Commission action last night.

★ ★ ★

The commission approved a $16,000 study to update the city's 1957 major thoroughfare plan.

The 8-year-old traffic survey was done by Barton-Aschman Association Inc.

Recommended by City Engineer Joseph E. Neipling, the review is necessary because "many unpredictable things have occurred in Pontiac since 1957."

★ ★ ★

Neipling said the area's economic growth has jumped traffic volume equal to or in excess of that predicted for 1975.

MASTER PLAN

Citing four areas, plus "specific trouble spots," Neipling said the master plan for the city's major streets should be reviewed to provide information and a set of priorities for specific projects.

The city engineer listed these four study areas:

- The feasibility of the central business district inter-loop road.
- The relative priority of East Boulevard improvements.
- Problems of congestion around the Pontiac Motor Division complex of buildings.

- The difficulty of east-west traffic crossing the downtown area.

Neipling said traffic congestion occurs almost daily at certain trouble spots: West Huron, Wide Track to Williams; Oakland, Baldwin south to Wide Track; major street intersections on Baldwin and Joslyn between the GM plants and Walton, and on South Boulevard.

He said the updating study would provide genuine guidelines as to what is needed in the way of major streets to meet the future requirements of Pontiac.

The review would be divided into three parts. The initial phase would review major street problems from the view of providing ready access to the heart of the city.

★ ★ ★

He said this would incorporate traffic heading into the central business district and also traffic crossing through the downtown area.

DOWNTOWN ACCESS

Secondly, specific recommendations are to be provided on how to give vehicular access to the downtown area in such a way as to assist in the reconstruction of the area.

Thirdly, a formal report would be presented to take the place of the 1957 plan for use as a basic guide for major street improvements.

★ ★ ★

Neipling said the new study was needed to give "adequate over-all planning for the development of our street systems."

The cost of the $16,000 study is to come from the major street portion of gas and weight tax funds.

Building Is on Upswing in Waterford Township

Construction is on the upswing in Waterford Township, according to the annual report issued this week by the building department.

The report shows that 1,377 building permits were issued last year for construction worth $15,031,037.

This compares to 1,227 permits in 1964 for construction valued at $9,845,171.

The number of building permits issued for new home construction — 366 — exactly matched the 1964 figure.

★ ★ ★

However, the estimated valuation of new home construction last year was $6,540,632 against $5,686,850 in 1964.

60 PCT. INCREASE

The nearly 60 per cent increase in total estimated valuation can be attributed primarily to an upsurge in commercial construction.

Fifty-two building permits were issued for new commercial development worth an estimated $4,465,552, well over the 1964 total of 23 permits for construction valued at $1,151,205.

In addition, permits were approved for construction of six apartment buildings (273 units) valued at $1,592,000. In 1964, apartment buildings were categorized with commercial construction, so no comparison is available.

★ ★ ★

There were 47 permits issued for remodeling and additions to commercial buildings last year for construction worth $1,156,936.

1964 PERMITS

This compares with 24 permits in the same category for construction valued at $95,323 in 1964.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the 1,377 building permits issued, there were 1,399 electrical, 968 plumbing, 845 heating and seven sidewalk permits issued last year for a total of 4,596.

The grand total for 1964 was 4,579 permits.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A California dealer brought a 100-pound opal to San Francisco from Australia Tuesday, and said it would be worth $500,000 if cut into gem stones.

W. H. Walker of Castro Valley, Calif., who said he plans to keep it intact for exhibits, declined to say what he paid for it.

Reopen Geneva Confab on Viet—3 Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Senate leaders joined today in urging action to accept what they interpreted as willingness on the part of Peking and Hanoi to reopen the Geneva Conference to talk Viet Nam peace terms.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana prepared to appeal in a Senate speech for new administration efforts to get the conference, which negotiated the 1954 division of Viet Nam, back into session for fresh negotiations.

* * *

Chairman J. William Fulbright of the foreign relations committee proposed Tuesday the sessions be reconvened. His proposal won support from Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., dean of Senate Republicans and a member of Fulbright's committee.

The three senators based their fresh hope for negotiations on a North Vietnamese statement transmitted by Radio Hanoi and Peking's New China News Agency. The statement said the Viet Nam question "falls within the competence of the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina."

JOIN DISCUSSIONS

Fulbright said that if China and North Viet Nam are willing to join in discussions, "why not take them up on it?"

"There is some logic in utilizing the same group which attempted to settle the war in 1954," he said. "If the effort in the United Nations fails, why not try to get the Geneva Conference reconvened?"

* * *

Led by opposition from the Soviet Union and France, the 15-member U.N. Security Council delayed until today a vote on a U.S. request or peace discussions. Observers said the opposition virtually killed any chances for immediate U.N. action.

Aiken forecast failure for President Johnson's effort to get U.N. action on the Viet Nam question, although he said he is glad the attempt is under way.

WANT PEACE

"Our difficulty lies in the fact that nobody in the Communist world — and some in our own — believes that we really and seriously want peace," he said. "I am convinced that one man does and that's President Johnson."

* * *

Mansfield said that despite Russian and French opposition, "the door has not quite been shut yet" on U.N. efforts.

The United States was not a party to the 1954 Geneva agreement although it accepted its terms. Britain and the Soviet Union are cochairmen of the conference and it would require agreement between them for its reconvenings.

Mansfield said that if Peking and Hanoi really want to talk, "I would think that the Soviet Union would go along with her sister Communist states."

The Montana Democrat said he assumes that Hanoi's demand for an end to North Viet Nam bombing, withdrawal of American troops and recognition of the Viet Cong would be open to debate in any reconvened conference.

He and Fulbright said they take the view that these are Communist "talking points," which would not have to be accepted in advance of any peace conference.

* * *

In a television interview Tuesday night, Fulbright said he is "not at all proud" of the role he played in helping to win Senate approval for the Aug. 10, 1964 resolution giving President Johnson broad powers to wage war in Viet Nam.

"I regret that the President ever started the bombing," he said on a CBS news special "Fulbright, Advise and Dissent." "I have to say that I played a part in that that I am not at all proud of."

NECESSARY STEP

Fulbright introduced the resolution, which authorized Johnson "to take all necessary measures" in Viet Nam.

Last week Johnson told 16 senators who appealed for further consultations on Viet Nam war policies that he would "continue to be guided in these matters by the resolution of Congress."

* * *

Johnson's decision to resume bombing of North Vietnamese targets was quickly endorsed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower, now vacationing in Palm Desert, Calif., said Tuesday: "It is my view that we must never allow our friends in that region to believe we have weakened — or shall weaken — in our purpose of supporting freedom."

On SE Asia Security

Resolution Is Back in Limelight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional resolution on Viet Nam signed by President Johnson a hot August afternoon in 1964 has rocketed back into the limelight in snow-covered Washington. Exactly what does it say?

In one form or another, the resolution has, like an undercurrent, swept beneath the great decisions and debates over Viet Nam the past five days.

* * *

It was used by President Johnson as guidance in his decision to resume bombing of targets in North Viet Nam.

It was cited by Chairman J.W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee who said he was "not at all proud of" the part he had in its passage.

LBJ CRITIC

Its repeal is being sought by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., persistent critic of the Johnson administration's handling of the Viet Nam situation.

Johnson requested the resolution shortly after the Gulf of Tonkin incidents in which North Vietnamese PT boats attacked American destroyers.

Here is the text of the joint resolution passed Aug. 10, 1964, "to promote the maintenance of international peace and security in Southeast Asia:"

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

NAVAL UNITS

Whereas naval units of the Communist regime in Viet Nam, in violation of the principles of the Charter of the United Nations and of international law, have deliberately and repeatedly attacked United States naval vessels lawfully present in international waters and have thereby created a serious threat to international peace;

Whereas these attacks are part of a deliberate and systematic campaign of aggression that the Communist regime in North Viet Nam has been waging against its neighbors and the nations joined with them in the collective defense of their freedom;

* * *

Whereas the United States is assisting the peoples of Southeast Asia to protect their freedom and has no territorial, military or political ambitions in that area, but desires only that these peples should be left in peace to work out their own destinies in their own way;

Now, therefore, be it resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

The Congress approves and supports the determination of the President, as commander in chief, to take all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression.

* * *

Sec. 2. The United States regards as vital to its national interest and to world peace the maintenance of international peace and security in Southeast Asia. Consonant with the constitution of the Charter of the United Nations and in accordance with its obligation under the Southeast Asia Collective Defense Treaty, the United States is, therefore, prepared, as the President determines, to take all necessary steps, including the use of armed force, to assist any member or protocol state of the Southeast Asia Collective Defense Treaty requesting assistance in defense of its freedom.

* * *

Sec. 3. This resolution shall expire when the President shall determine that the peace and security of the area is reasonably assured by international conditions created by action of the United Nations or otherwise, except that it may be terminated earlier by concurrent resolution of the Congress.

Our Senseless Weapons Laws—2

Rifle Unit's 3-Way Gun Bill Debatable

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a three-part series on the dangers in our lax gun laws making weapons too easily attainable. It warns of the opposition that reform measures have met from entrenched organizations and the "gun lobby.")

By TOM NOLAN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It shouldn't be said that the National Rifle Association is against any form of gun control legislation.

* * *

Its leadership freely admits the need for a law and is officially backing a three-part proposal sponsored by Rep. Robert Casey, D-Tex.

The proposal has been called "the toughest gun bill in Congress."

And, indeed, it is tough.

Basically, the bill would make it a federal offense to use a gun in specified criminal acts, ranging from robbery and assault to kidnaping and rape.

FIRST OFFENDERS

First-time offenders would face a mandatory 10-year prison term; repeaters, a mandatory 25 years.

Under the Casey bill, roughly 100,000 gun crimes handled last year by state and local police would require investigation and prosecution by federal law enforcement officers.

The bill reflects the NRA belief that the only justifiable firearms laws are those providing stronger penalties for the criminal use of guns and that preventive measures, such as a registration requirement, would neither stop criminals from getting guns nor reduce crime.

* * *

Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., who has his own bill in the congressional hopper, is not in favor of the NRA-backed bill, to put it mildly.

SEES GIMMICK

"I wonder," he muses, "whether the NRA, in supporting legislation it knows stands little chance of becoming law, is just supporting a gimmick to see that no new legislation is passed."

The senator continues: "Such a law, if strictly enforced and if upheld by the courts, would present staggering administrative problems."

A conservative guess is that the existing federal enforcement staff would have to be tripled in size to cope with the Casey bill requirements.

* * *

If only a third of last year's offenders were convicted under the bill, the existing federal prison system capacity would have to be expanded by 150 per cent.

NONEXISTENT

Most congressional observers agree that the bill's chances of being passed are virtually nonexistent.

The second NRA proposal would make it a federal offense for a licensed dealer or manufacturer to ship a gun in contravention of a state law.

But only seven states now require a permit to purchase a pistol or revolver. There are no restrictions on the sales of rifles and shotguns.

And the NRA proposal apparently gives a shipper of guns an easy out, since no conviction could be obtained if he made a "reasonable effort" to learn if a state law is being violated.

SIGNED STATEMENT

Such "reasonable effort" is now construed as simply requiring a signed statement by the purchaser to the effect that he is under no legal disability which would prohibit shipment.

The third NRA proposal would provide federal control of such military ordinance as bazookas, grenades, cannons and rockets.

These weapons would be subject to a $200 transfer tax and registration with the Treasury Department which enforces federal gun laws.

* * *

This proposal looks fine on the surface, but — under NRA specifications — such weapons as the .50-caliber machine gun and six-barrel antitank guns currently advertised in mail-order catalogs would be excluded, Sen.

BIG BUSINESS

Dodd says.

Hunting, target and trap shooting are big business in the United States today. Their devotees spend roughly $250 million a year on guns, ammunition and accessories.

The side effects probably produce more than a billion dollars annually for the makers of cars, boats, fuel and clothes.

It is estimated that there are about 54 million guns of various kinds in private possession in the country today.

* * *

Each year, this number is increased by domestic manufacture and swollen by a flood of firearms from abroad—mostly the discarded military models of foreign governments imported to be sold cheaply by mail-order merchants.

CHIEF DEFENDER

Originally formed to promote proficiency in rifle shooting, the NRA over the years has become the chief defender of the citizen's right to "keep and bear arms."

This crusade is based on what Dodd calls an out-of-context reading of the second amendment to the Constitution — which constitutional experts say was intended to safeguard only the people's collective right to bear arms as members of a militia.

Despite modern armed forces, a National Guard and local police, the NRA argues that an armed citizenry is necessary to defend the country against enemies both within and without.

The NRA stands squarely on the premise that the ownership of firearms must not be denied Americans of good repute.

GIVE SCREENING

To this end, the organization says it carefully screens its membership applicants.

Each must certify that he is over 18, has never been convicted of a crime of violence and is not a member of any organization which seeks to overthrow the government.

Each applicant must also be endorsed by an NRA member, a public official or a military officer of the United States.

* * *

This reporter joined the NRA by filling out an application he clipped from a barbershop magazine and enclosing a check for $5.

Presumably he was carefully screened. His NRA membership card arrived in the mail less than a week later.

The endorsement? The reporter printed the name "William Miller," one common enough to fit one of the NRA specifications.

Backs Drivers in Car Hearing

Blames Auto Makers for Many Accidents

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate hearings on highway safety get back on the road today with the president of the National Safety Council arguing that drivers may be getting more than their share of blame for the rising accident toll.

"The statistics do show that driver fault was present in about 85 per cent of all automobile accidents, but this does not mean that other factors may not also have been present," said Howard Pyle.

Most accidents, he said, result from a number of factors—"including in most cases the automobile itself, the highway and the driver."

Pyle, appearing before a subcommittee headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D - Conn., called for an additional $1 billion a year for an "action program" to cut the highway death toll in half "and thus save approximately 25,000 lives each year."

SMALL CARS

Pyle's 48 - page statement touched on everything from drunk drivers to small cars. On the latter, he said:

"There is statistical information pointing to an unusually high association of small cars with the increase in traffic fatalities in the past few years."

Pyle said these statistics do not "prove a casual relationship but are clues to the need for research and possible state legal controls."

CAR EQUIPMENT

Ribicoff's subcommittee heard from several government officials and auto industry spokesmen last year and he commented in an opening statement: "I like to think that some of the interest in traffic safety flowing from Detroit these days was influenced somewhat by those hearings."

Ribicoff observed that the auto makers have made some items of safety equipment—such as seat belts, back up lights and outside rear view mirrors — standard equipment.

"But what about a dual braking system or a collapsible steering column?" Ribicoff asked. "What must be done to persuade the manufacturers that they have a responsibility to the public to equip every car they build with real safety features?"

Leaders of Sit-In at Mississippi Base Say U.S. Officials Playing Politics

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Leaders of a group that staged a 30-hour occupation of federal property accused the federal government today of kowtowing to Mississippi politicians over antipoverty programs for Negroes.

In Washington, the Office of Economic Opportunity issued a statement Tuesday night which said a team of specialists would confer with Mississippi Gov. Paul Johnson to "assure rapid distribution of food under terms of the (antipoverty) grant."

The department said a grant of $1.6 million had been approved with the Mississippi Welfare Department to develop a system of distribution for $24 million of surplus food.

Art Thomas, director of the Delta Ministry, said, "The Office of Economic Opportunity and the Department of Agriculture have been kowtowing to Mississippi politicians who don't want poverty or relief programs in the hands of Negroes who can't be controlled by the white power structure."

CHURCH COUNCIL UNIT

The Delta Ministry is an arm of the National Council of Churches set up to work among Southern Negroes.

Thomas, along with a biracial group of 80 other demonstrators, was ejected from a former cadets' club on the deactivated Greenville Air Force Base Tuesday. A detail of 150 air police carried out the demonstrators who had bolted past guards Monday and camped overnight in the wooden frame structure.

The demonstrators included Negroes who said they were ousted from white plantations after demanding higher wages, and civil rights workers. All said the base invasion was sponsored by the "Poor People's Conference." They said they wanted food, jobs and land.

Thomas said "it was cruel and inhumane of (Secretary of Agriculture) Orville Freeman and (U.S. Atty. Gen.) Nicholas Katzenbach to send the message that was sent." He referred to the order which ousted them, and to federal promises that their demands were being studied.

★ ★ ★

"Negroes in the South have been getting this kind of message for years," Thomas said.

Can Trace Unexplained Pains to Ribs

By Science Service

CHICAGO — If you get an unexplained pain in your back or abdomen it could be traced to your ribs.

The rib joint sometimes becomes abnormally connected to the spinal column, causing pain that can be mistakenly diagnosed as anything from gallbladder trouble to appendicitis.

Duodenal ulcer, kidney ailment and even coronary blood insufficiency are among the wrong diagnoses for pain sometimes brought on after a sudden mechanical injury, such as falling on the back or bumping the rib cage, Dr. Frank L. Raney Jr. of San Francisco, Calif., told the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons meeting here.

Fifteen of 41 patients who had inflammation of a nerve root caused by rib-joint pain underwent successful surgery, and said they could participate in sports, had no symptoms and took no medication.

Fourteen more patients who had operations, said their surgical results were good, and five others said they noted some improvement.

WRONG TREATMENT

A total of 194 of his patients had rib-joint abnormalities, Dr. Raney said, and some of them had been spending large amounts of money for the wrong treatment, causing them to become extremely frustrated and depressed.

Some had been told by their physicians that their problem was predominantly emotional or psychosomatic.

The pain is usually confined to one side of the body, but often it spreads around the side so that a person cannot tolerate tight clothing, coughing or turning in bed.

Junior Editors Quiz on GUITARS

QUESTION: What were the ancestors of our modern guitar?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The guitar is one of a class of instruments—including the lute, mandolin and banjo—in which long strings of metal or gut are shortened with the fingers of one hand while being plucked with the fingers of the other.

In some cases, a plucking object is used. Unlike the violin, with its smooth fingerboard, these instruments have metal frets across the fingerboard which make the position of the fingers easier to locate.

Instruments of this general class were used in far off times by the Chinese, Egyptians and people of other ancient nations, but the particular body shape of the guitar seems to have come from Persia, as suggested in our illustration.

The modern guitar shape appeared in Spain about 1600 as well as the name "guitarra." In America, the guitar was not widely used until the jazz age came along.

It found its real use with the revival of old-time haunting folk melodies, the singing of which it could accompany with a soft, romantic background, into which elements of jazz syncopation and rhythm could be woven.

The latest chapter in the guitar story is the use of electronic equipment which gives a new character to the guitar sound.

The sound can be varied and amplified; a strong "twangy" quality can be produced which emphasizes rhythm.

FOR YOU TO DO: Find out more about the remarkable electronic guitar which really is a new kind of musical instrument. Look in a music store window to see the new body shape, often of solid wood. Since the sound is amplified electrically, the older hollow bodies are no longer necessary. Listen for the twangy sound in modern records.

REFUSES TO ANSWER — Two attorneys talk at the witness table with Sam Holloway Bowers during an appearance yesterday before the House Un-American Activities Committee in Washington. Bowers was identified by the committee as the imperial wizard of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. Bowers refused to answer all questions.

U.N. Keeping Gaza Strip Trouble Spot Quiet

GAZA (AP) — Stretched along 145 miles of desert frontier, a thin line of blue-helmeted United Nations troops quietly keeps the peace in an almost forgotten trouble spot.

Only a few years ago, headlines were full of the Gaza Strip as Egyptian and Israeli forces battled in this coastal area of Palestine.

★ ★ ★

Today the strip is quiet. The U.N. Emergency Force — UNEF — keeps it that way.

Western, Communist and so-called non-aligned nations combined to form an effective force for peace. More than 400 soldiers from Yugoslavia stand with 4,000 troops from Canada, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, India and Brazil to keep Israelis and Egyptians separated in the Gaza Strip and along the international frontier in Sinai.

BACK IN 1957

The force first took up positions in March 1957.

"Incidents have been few," comments Lt. Col. Gregers Bernhoft, commander of the joint Danish-Norwegian Battalion. "There have been some attempts by both sides to cross the border from time to time but no serious clashes have taken place. Farmers have been able to cultivate their lands and to take care of their livestock within a few meters of the demarcation line and people on both sides go about their business without interference from each other."

Orange groves flourishing in what was desert land a decade ago testified to the force's effectiveness in Gaza.

The strip itself is Egyptian-administered with full customs and passport barriers at its frontiers with Egypt proper.

On the outskirts of the principal towns — Gaza, Rafah, Khan Younis and Deit el Ballah — a ditch three feet deep and three feet wide marks the 35-mile-long armistice demarcation line between the Gaza Strp and Israel.

To the south, Canadian and Yugoslav contingents cover the 110-mile frontier between Israel and Egypt that runs through the sun-scorched Sinai to Ras al Masri in the Gulf of Aqaba.

Along the entire border the U.N. patrols, their Israeli counterparts and Egyptian observation posts are testimony to the threat of new outbreaks of trouble.

"Sometimes forces from either side may try to cross the border if something like a game," says Norwegian Maj. Rolf Staenn. "If nothing happens and we intercept them, the game is over."

GIRL SOLDIERS

The Israelis, Staenn reports, sometimes post girls from their army along the line opposite emergency force troops.

"The girls wear shorts and do a lot of smiling in trying to engage the boys in conversation," Staenn says. "But U. N. troops cannot talk with them, no matter how much they smile."

This too, he says, is part of the "game" on the line.

The 30-caliber machine gun is the force's heaviest weapon.

If would-be infiltrators are intercepted they are held for action by a joint Egyptian-Israeli armistice commission, which determines what course to follow.

From the heights of the rolling sand dunes in the armistice line area, observers can easily see into Ashkelon, Israel. The merest footprint on the wrong side of the line can set off an investigation.

The U.N. force is to be cut in March by some 600 troops under terms of a reorganization. The reduction will result mostly from the withdrawal of the battalion from Sweden, which has other peace-keeping commitments on Cyprus.

Contingents from Norway, Denmark, India, Canada and Brazil will stretch out their troops to compensate for the pull-out of the Swedish battalion.

The force's commander in cheif, Brazil's Maj. Gen. Syseno Sarmento, has logistics, operations, personnel, legal, financial, engineering and medical sections in a Gaza headquarters. It cost $17.75 million to maintain the force last year.

"The expense is justified by the results obtained here," said one officer. "The orange groves you see along the frontier today are mainstays of the economy. They have grown up under the protection of the U.N. Emergency Force."

Liberals May Help Klan Avoid Contempt Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Seven Ku Klux Klan leaders today based their one hope for escaping an overwhelming House vote to cite them for contempt of Congress on the efforts of Democratic liberals.

The House scheduled a vote on the issue, which was raised by the klansmen's refusal to produce subpoenaed records before the House on Un-American Activities.

A heavy majority was expected to favor citing the Klan leaders for contempt, which upon conviction carries penalties of up to $1,000 in fines and a year in jail.

Their only hope was an effort by a band of liberals to study the issue further.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., national chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), intended to ask the House to create a special committee to study the merits of the contempt recommendations.

Edwards and others sent a letter to all members outlining their case. They hoped for support from members who have voiced disapproval of congressional methods for handling contempt citations.

A number of liberals, including the ADA, oppose the committee in general. They contend its mandate is unconstitutional and its methods unfair. They therefore oppose the current investigation of the klan as exposure for exposure's sake.

Committee chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., vehemently denies the charge. He says the purpose of the investigation is to develop legislation to combat the threat of communities from the Klan.

★ ★ ★

The committee recommended contempt citations for the following members of the United Klans of America Inc., the nation's largest KKK group:

LEGAL POSITION

The committee's legal position is that the 5th Amendment to the constitution and its protection agains self-incrimination—which all seven used freely—permits an individual to remain silent but does not give the right to refuse subpoenaed records of an organization.

Following a House vote for contempt the matter would go to a grand jury. If indictments were returned, the defendants would be tried in Washington.

The House vote was to follow a brief morning session by the committee to hear evidence about Klan activities in Mississippi.

Laws to Curb Cemeteries Are Proposed

LANSING (AP) — Legislation to establish a state cemetery commission and regulate the cemetery industry was proposed Tuesday by Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit.

Dzendzel's Senate Corporations Committee has been investigating the tangled affairs of Brookdale Cemetery in Livonia.

The proposed commission would license cemeteries and cemetery lot salesmen, and could set rules concerning burial procedures, casket handling, placing and maintaining of headstones and memorials, grave location records and financial records of cemeteries.

The commission would use investigators to keep watch on cemetery operations.

Dzendzel's plans would require cemeteries to put 20 per cent of a cemetery lot's price into a perpetual care fund instead of the present 10 per cent.

Another proposal would prohibit funeral directors from dealing with unlicensed cemeteries.

A rare pause in the busy life of Mrs. Ben Mills of Bloomfield Hills enables her to explain in an interview what Camp Oakland means to our society and to her. She envisions other communities across the nation patterning their youth homes after ours.

Energetic Mrs. Mills Lends Helping Hand

By JEANNE NELSON

Whether she's jet-bound for London or Istanbul, no amount of distance can diminish the devotion of Mrs. Ben Mills to the children of Camp Oakland.

For the 54 permanently ensconced youngsters there, it is "Aunt Helen" who so often listens to problems and helps to find solutions for them.

It is she also who, as chairman of the women's committee for this organization, has worked unceasingly to raise funds for the buildings and equipment needed to make Camp Oakland what it is today.

Helen Mills' name is high on the list of outstanding women in this area. Wife of a Ford Motor Company vice president, Ben Mills, and the mother of two teen sons, Mrs. Mills has taken on the joint chairmanship with her husband of the 1966 Meadow Brook Festival.

With the program scheduling for this summer-long event already behind them, the pair looks forward to a record-breaking season.

Mrs. Mills is especially enthusiastic about the admission price which she says, "will not only bring college students, but will enable highschoolers to come as individuals, with dates or in "Dutch" groups.

WATER BALLET

Working with youngsters is nothing new to this attractive woman. As far back as World War II, she started England's first water ballet while an overseas recreational director for the American Red Cross.

★ ★ ★

Recalling those days of London blitzes and air raid shelters, Mrs. Mills said, "The 7 a.m. dips in an outdoor pool during the early spring months, were all worth it when the troop was asked to perform for the royal family."

★ ★ ★

Sports have always played an important role in her life.

She was chosen to represent the United States as a swimmer in the 1936 Olympics held in Berlin, Germany. But disappointment came early that year when she broke her back and was unable to compete.

★ ★ ★

She did manage to travel to Germany with her teammates. Attending the swimming events each day, she helped display the good sportsmanship that the Olympics stand for.

★ ★ ★

A great believer in children and sports going hand-in-hand, Mrs. Mills says, "Athletic activities in the young are a marvelous outlet for troubled teens and the pressures upon youth in general."

OTHER INTERESTS

Camp Oakland is not the only youthful organization to which she is committed. Junior Achievement consumes a great deal of her attention, along with the Merrill Palmer Institute and the new Birmingham Teen Center.

★ ★ ★

Through her fund-raising efforts for Camp Oakland, she has been often in direct contact with Hollywood personalities.

Add to this, numerous trips to adventurous and romantic places her husband's work takes them and you might expect Helen Mills to be somewhat of a sophisticate.

★ ★ ★

Not so! It is perhaps her naturalness and deep concern for others that has made her the person she is.

Tell Him You Are Disappointed

'Girlie' Books Are Stage

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How can you keep a child who is old enough to read from reading all those trashy magazines they pick up at the newsstands? Our son is 15 and some of the "girlie" magazines we find in his room are terrible.

ABBY

He says all his friends read them. If you have an answer for us, please print it.

CONCERNED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: All normal adolescents have a certain amount of curiosity, which is satisfied in this way. A healthy, adjusted child will pass through this stage unharmed, in spite of the trash he reads. And your son probably will, too.

Let him know that you are disappointed in his choice of "literature" and make sure you have plenty of good reading material available. Then keep your eyes open.

If the boy appears to be overly preoccupied with trash to the exclusion of everything else, and his taste doesn't improve with maturity, he will need professional help.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old girl who works in a factory where I meet a lot of men. There is one fellow I see there every day, and I sure do like his looks.

Abby, I'm far from being hard on the eyes, but this guy doesn't even know I'm alive. Lots of the factory men ask to date me but they don't interest me. I am 5 ft. 7 in flats.

This guy I like is a whole head shorter than I, but I don't care. He really has me going. I'd give anything to go out with him. One of the girls in the plant says she knows him and he is a wonderful person, a lot of fun, a good dancer and has a good sense of humor.

She also says she's seen him out with girls much taller than himself so he can't be self-conscious about his height. How can I get him interested in me?

LIKES HIS LOOKS

DEAR LIKES: Tell the girl who knows him that you would like to know him, too. She could arrange a small get-together to include both of you. Then you're on your own.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl who knows more about motors than any boy my age, I was brought up next door to my uncle's garage and I have always been good at taking things apart and putting them back together.

I never liked to dress up in dresses. I am much happier in greasy jeans. I think girls who giggle over boys are silly, and I don't care anything about boys who are silly over girls, either. Lots of people take me for a boy, but it doesn't bug me a bit. I take it as a compliment.

I don't know why I wrote this letter. Maybe I just wanted to tell somebody that here is one 16-year-old girl who never had a boyfriend and doesn't need one. Is there something wrong with me?

"HAPPY" IN CARLSBAD

DEAR HAPPY: Not if you're really "happy."

Orchestra Members Are Stars of Concert

By RICHARD MORSE

Tuesday evening the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Felix Resnick, gave its third concert of the 1965-66 season.

★ ★ ★

The program opened with the overture to "Ruy Blas" by Mendelssohn. It was composed for the drama by Victor Hugo which is set in the court of Charles II of Spain.

The winds were particularly articulate in the orchestra's performance of this work.

★ ★ ★

The "Composition for Two Horns, Oboe and Strings" by Mozart was one of the great musical treats of the evening. From its opening allegro to the closing Marcia, this music is typical Mozart, spirited and delightful.

Mozart usually is not played well by amateur groups. This organization was a welcome exception.

★ ★ ★

The oboe was superb, and the two French horns gave fine harmonic support to the oboe and strings in the classical manner.

A bright, lively, rhythmically intriguing composition by Phillips called, "Concert Piece for Bassoon and Strings" mas performed by Lyell Lindsey, bassoonist.

EXCELLENT WORK

Mr. Lindsey is a consummate artist. He tossed off the technical requirements with great ease and played the short, contrasting lyric section with a warm but light tone as required.

★ ★ ★

After intermission Celia Merrill Turner, associate conductor of the orchestra, conducted a "Prelude and Quadruple Fugue" by Hovhaness.

★ ★ ★

Conducter Turner did an excellent, skillful interpretation; and the orchestra responded beautifully.

STRING SOLO

The Vivaldi "Sonata for Cello and Strings" followed. Edward Korkigian as cello soloist completely won the audience with his performance.

★ ★ ★

His warm, flowing tone, musicianship and effortless technique brought the best out of this composition. The second Largo was particularly good.

★ ★ ★

The program closed with the familiar "Les Preludes" by Liszt. The woodwinds and brasses were beautifully balanced, and the strings had little difficulty with the technically demanding score.

Maple Leafs Tell of New Officers

Mrs. Harold Soper was elected president, and Mrs. Orrin Huntoon, secretary, of the Maple Leaf Club, Friday, in the home of Mrs. Glen Wilson on Alice Street.

Cohostesses for the cooperative luncheon were Mrs. Arthur Hoover and Mrs. Fred Rowe.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer:

All of the beautifully made, expensive, children's jumpers that button at the shoulders are completely lined and yet you can't see where anything has been stitched. I've done everything but stand on my head and I can't get the lining to turn correctly.

Mrs. D. McC.

Dear Mrs. D. McC.:

● Cut the lining and the jumper the same size. Trim about ¼ inch of fthe entire lower edge of the lining only.

● Construct the side seams of the jumper and the lining separately, leaving an opening about 4 inches long on one seam of the lining about 3 inches above the hem.

● Pin the lining to the garment, RIGHT sides together and machine stitch the entire neck and armhole sections. Do not stitch the hem at this time.

● Grade the seams, clip the inner curves and notch away the excess fabric in the outer curves. Press seams open on your Tailor Trix Pressing Board, turn and press again.

● Through the opening in the lining, pull the lower edges of the jumper. Pin them together. Machine stitch a little at a time until hem is completed. Last, slip-stitch the 4-inch opening in the lining by hand. By making the lining slightly shorter, it should prevent hanging lower than the jumper.

★ ★ ★

Dear Eunice Farmer:

Could you please tell me what causes a strain and pull along the front armhole seams?

Mrs. C. C. R.

Dear Mrs. C. C. R.:

Believe it or not, this strain is often caused when the shoulders and armhole are too wide for you. If you have narrow shoulders, take a fold in your pattern beginning at the shoulders and tapering to nothing about 7 inches below the shoulder. Recut the armhole after this alternation is made. When this seam is in the correct place, you will find the sleeve will not pull and it will feel much more comfortable.

Maple Leafs Tell of New Officers

Mrs. Harold Soper was elected president, and Mrs. Orrin Huntoon, secretary, of the Maple Leaf Club, Friday, in the home of Mrs. Glen Wilson on Alice Street.

VIET VETERAN MEETS SON — Marine Cpl. Frank Temonia, who just returned from duty in Viet Nam, meets his 9-month-old son, Geoffrey, for the first time at the New Orleans, La., airport yesterday. Temonia said, "I'll take him," as his wife looked on. Cpl. Temonia served nine months in Viet Nam.

Hungarians Silent on Scars Inflicted During Revolt

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — They were dancing the twist in a dingy bar on the outskirts of Budapest and a drunken man shouted to a foreigner: "Look at the face of new Hungary!"

The piano player sang in English into a microphone. Men in dark suits and women with tired faces moved rhythmically on the tiled floor.

Ten years after the ill-fated 1956 revolt, Budapest lives like any other city, making the most of it. It does not like to talk of its scars.

Black smoke billows against a gray winter sky over Dunaujvaros, the new Communist-built steel city with its giant factory complex and gray and yellow apartment houses lining wide avenues.

"I admit," said a Hungarian economist, "that in retrospect Dunaujvros was a mistake. It is costly and not essential. Today we would not have built it."

In the Dunaujvaros Hotel lobby, Hungarian television was showing Verdi's "Requiem." A Hungarian woman guide waited for a group of Soviet tourists.

★ ★ ★

The hotel restaurant listed French brandies and English whiskies — at the equivalent of $1.50 a glass.

Wind-whipped snow blew across the wide Hungarian plain. In Szekesfehervar, Soviet soldiers stationed in Hungary walked in groups, looking at shop windows.

TOURISTIC CENTER

Near Lake Balaton, Hungary's touristic center, deserted bungalows, hotels and summer houses waited for better weather.

"Workers can come here for as little as 50 cents a day," said the guide.

★ ★ ★

In the lobbies of Budapest hotels, voices in all languages of the West spoke loud, demanding services. The Hungarian government was ready to serve them: it has guides, Western cars for rental, tours of Budapest by night, tours of Budapest by day, trips to the interior — for dollars, pounds, Swiss francs.

★ ★ ★

A Gypsy band crowded around an American woman who stubbornly repeated the name of a song. The band did not know the song and the violinist hopelessly tried one tune after the other.

BARTOK BALLET

In the gilded Budapest Opera House, a Bartok ballet was being shown. Some Hungarian women had come in business suits, others had bare arms, decollete dresses and glittering jewelry.

★ ★ ★

"Look at those women," someone whispered. "You cannot imagine how tired Hungarian women are. They work at home, they work in offices, take care of children and husbands and still have energy to go out at night."

★ ★ ★

And someone else was saying, "Workers periodically get tickets to concerts, theater plays, it's better than baseball. They have done a lot for culture."

★ ★ ★

The Hungarian "they" means the regime, the party, the new order, those in power.

BOLD TRENDS

There are new, bold trends everywhere — in art, literature, sculpture. In a political cabaret, an entertainer tried to laugh about new economic reforms, price increases and higher taxes. The audience applauded — there was little else to do but laugh.

And a tipsy West German girl was saying she loved everything about Hungary — above all the Gypsy bands.

★ ★ ★

"I will come back," she repeated. "All this is simply wonderful."

Ex-Detroiter's Labor of Love

Alcohol Firm Finances Kansas Hospital

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP) — The profits from a grain alcohol distillery finance the operation of a hospital here.

The alcohol — 30,000 gallons a day — is extracted by Midwest Solvents Co., owned by the Atchison Hospital Association which operates the 167-bed hospital.

In 15 years, the distillery has supported construction of a five-story hospital wing costing $1.4 million, a $185,000 geriatrics department, a $650,000 two-story haven for the retired, and is financing a $125,000 improvement program now under way.

A former Detroit industrialist took a liking to Atchison while operating Midwest Solvents during World War II; saved the distillery from dismantling after the war, sold it practically at cost to the hospital association, and agreed to stay on and run the plant besides. The hospital hasn't had a fund drive since.

★ ★ ★

To millionaire industrialist Cloud L. Cray Sr. this has been a labor of love.

DO SOMETHING

"The reason I wanted to make this arrangement was because I honestly wanted to do something for the community," Cray said.

"I had come to love the town and its people, so when my partners wanted to sell, I sold my holdings in Detroit, bought them out of the solvents company, and signed the agreement to sell it to the hospital."

The distillery paid for itself in less than four years.

★ ★ ★

"I could have been out of a job," Gray laughed. "But they still keep me on as chairman of the hospital board and chief executive officer of Midwest Solvents. I'm delighted. I'd do it over again."

LUCKY TURN

Gray, who is 69, said a lucky turn brought him to Atchison.

A loan by a Detroit investment company, of which he was the senior partner, led him here when the distillery went into receivership. He wound up operating it.

Cray returned to Detroit after the war, but Atchison was in his thoughts. When his investment partners considered junking the plant, that made up his mind for him.

★ ★ ★

The annual payroll of the distillery and the hospital is nearly a million dollars a year. Midwest Solvents pays out another million yearly to farmers for raw products.

Federal Action Is Urged to Halt Carnage on U.S. Highways

NEW YORK (NEA) — Unless the federal government does something soon, deaths from motor vehicle accidents will reach 100,000 a year by 1975—double the present auto death rate.

The prediction was made today by the American Trial Lawyers Association in a "white paper" which urged Washington to take steps to stop the carnage on the highways.

The group of 20,000 attorneys also asked the federal government to appoint a national "safety czar" to coordinate a comprehensive highway safety program.

Joseph Kelner, association president, charged it was an "undeniable fact" that the federal government had "no plan" to cope with the highway slaughter.

★ ★ ★

But a plan of some kind may soon be in the offing. In his State of the Union address, President Johnson said he will propose a "Highway Safety Act of 1966 to seek an end to this mounting tragedy."

WITHIN 2 MONTHS

The act, not yet written, is expected to be sent to Congress within two months.

The Trial Lawyers' report, titled "'Stop Murder by Motor,' is the first step of a national education campaign planned by the association in an effort to curb highway deaths.

The study reported that while 605,000 Americans have died in all wars from the Revolution to Viet Nam, road deaths in this country have totaled 1.5 million in only 25 years.

★ ★ ★

The number of persons injured in highway accidents in one year (1964) is the same number as the total beds in all United States hospitals—1.7 million, the study revealed.

BLASTS MANUFACTURERS

While criticizing the apparent lack of federal interest in highway safety, the association also blasts automobile and tire manufacturers for their "lack of concern for safety" and recommends that the federal government set minimum safety standards for design and maintenance of all vehicles and equipment as "it has already done for planes, ships and trains."

Other recommendations made by the Trial Lawyers include:

● The creation of a Federal Bureau of Driver Licensing to provide federal control of licensing and ensure uniform standards.

● Mandatory physical and eye examinations of drivers every three years, raising the minimum age limit for drivers to 18, except for 16-year-olds who have passed certified driver education courses.

● Lowering the blood alcohol level at which drivers are assumed to be drunk to .10 per cent and adopting an "Implied Consent Law" under which a driver charged with drinking would be compelled to undergo an alcohol test or forfeit his license.

● Mandatory safety design features in all cars sold in the United States. Such features would include padded head supports to prevent "whiplash" injuries; safety wheels; disc brakes and dual braking systems; head and tail lights visible from the side as well as the front; cornering lights; hydraulic bumpers; elimination of X-frames; permanent flashing warning systems for emergencies.

★ ★ ★

● Mandatory inspection of all motor vehicles twice yearly.

● National traffic codes, highway signs, traffic control devices and accident reporting centers with uniform accident report forms.

NO STATE BOUNDARIES

Pointing out that there are no "state boundaries" for automobile travel, the association said that auto safety regulations could properly be made by the federal government without raising "states' rights" controversies.

★ ★ ★

The far-ranging report warned that improper auto design and driver failure are the underlying causes of most serious accidents.

★ ★ ★

It noted that while the "drinking driver," the young and the aged have a higher proportion of accidents than other groups, "most traffic accidents happen to respectable, normal people driving on normal roads — the responsible, upstanding citizen and decent driver who makes an error in judgment or neglects good driving habits."

'Scrap Publication of Valachi's Book'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of prominent Italo-Americans, four of them congressmen, wants the Justice Department to scrap its plan to permit convicted murderer Joe Valachi to publish a book about the "Cosa Nostra."

Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., spokesman for the group, said that publication of any book by Valachi would be "disastrous and scandalous" and of no benefit to law enforcement agencies. The group met with Atty. Gen. Nicholas Deb. Katzenbach and top department aides yesterday.

Valachi, serving a life sentence for a prison murder, gave sensational testimony at Senate hearings in 1963 on the Mafia-type Cosa Nostra crime syndicate. To safeguard his life, he is being held at the District of Columbia Jail.

Twin Crisis Threatens Belgium

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Government ministers conferred into the early morning hours today in an effort to solve a twin crisis involving striking coal miners and doctors threatening to walk off their jobs. Apparently they failed.

New violence erupted in the "Black Triangle" mining area of eastern Belgium as the ministers met yesterday. Two persons were killed Monday in clashes between striking miners and police.

Reports from the mining area of Zwartberg said police were forced to fire warning shots in the air last night to disperse scores of demonstrators.

No new casualties were reported, but demonstrators threw up roadblocks near the Winterslag mine and pelted police with bricks and cobblestones torn out of the road.

Police turned water hoses and tear gas on the strikers before resorting to warning shots.

Strikes and demonstrations broke out recently when the government announced plans to shut down the Zwartberg colliery and five other inefficient mines. The Zwartberg mine employs more than 4,000 persons.

Premier Pierre Harmel's coalition government set up a three-man committee to study the miners' plight.

"Woofers" are low-frequency speakers in a high fidelity record player.

FAVORITE WEAPONS — Rioters on the streets of Hasselt, Belgium, use the traditional ammunition of European mobs — cobblestones — in demonstrations against the closing of nearby Zwartberg coal mines. Paratroopers were called to quell the disturbance.

From Life of Crime

'The Rock' Gives Andy a 2nd Chance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Andy has one chance in three of pulling out of a life of crime and jail.

Andy's chance, strangely enough, lies in his ability to run a mechanical brain.

He didn't know he had it. In fact, he'd never worked a day in his life.

Not quite 18, he switch-bladed another Negro boy in a street rumble. He was high on marijuana when it happened, hanging around a pool hall on a school day.

★ ★ ★

The judge gave him a year on Riker's island, New York City's correctional institution for men. It wasn't the first time he'd been up before that judge.

HARD TO HANDLE

And his mother, who works nights as a hotel maid, admitted she couldn't keep up with him and care for the other four younger children.

His father didn't show up. Andy can't even remember what he looks like.

When he got off the ferry on "the rock," he got the first real break in his tumultuous life.

★ ★ ★

His number was drawn. He became one of 1,200 boys, aged 16 to 21, who are in a new research program aimed at knocking those statistics down.

PILOT PROJECT

Federally-financed as a pilot action - research project, the program is known as SERVE (Social Restoration of Young Offenders through Vocational Education).

A corps of people are now involved in Andy's life — teachers, psychologists, counselors, training instructors and even a volunteer "friend," a grocer who runs a store not far from his Harlem home— who will take him to baseball games and bowling when he gets out of the rock.

Andy didn't even try when they gave him his first battery of tests. He didn't understand them very well (he read at fourth-grade level) and they bored him.

He was surprised, next day, when a pretty young counselor showed him a sophisticated hunk of hardware, an IBM data processing machine, and asked him if he'd like to learn how to run it.

'IT BUGS ME'

"Man, you're way out. That thing bugs me."

"Want to try?"

He shrugged. "I got nuthin' but time."

★ ★ ★

Fourteen weeks later, after two hours a day with his reading teacher, Andy's reading has jumped a grade and a half, and his math almost two.

TALK SESSIONS

One hour a day of talk sessions with a psychologist and a half dozen other boys has lightened his shy sullenness, taken some of his slouch away.

Three hours every day he spends on the machines — hes now speedy on a calculator and about to tackle the big one soon.

During recreation hours, he dabbles with paints. A picture of Christ on the cross, signed in big letters "Andy," hangs on the brightly painted hall wall along the mess corridor.

★ ★ ★

Neatly dressed in oxford grey v-necked sweater and grey slacks, he looks more like a prep school student as he saunters out of the classroom talking earnestly with his teacher, than he does a junkie knifer who has stepped off the edge of society.

'DECISION' TIME

Next week, he will meet with another counselor for "decision" conferences. What's next? More skill-schooling in one of the seven manpower development training schools on the "mainland?"

A job, with on-the-job training? Back to high school?

He thinks he'll go for the job. He knows there's a real job waiting for him out there, a real boss who has agreed to take a chance on him if he comes through.

Back on mainland, SERVE volunteers have been canvassing prospective employers, finding firms who will take boys with records as good as the one Andy has made on the rock.

FIRST MONTHS

A special counselor already has talked with his mother and will continue with Andy to guide him through those first months out when half the boys who will go back to jail make their stumble.

Not all the boys in the project can operate business machines. Some work better with their hands.

They get 20-week courses in the welding shop, the typewriting class, the print shop or the mock-up apartment house where they learn how to repair leaky faucets, rewire light fixtures.

★ ★ ★

Half the boys in the project get a different kind of training. They attend P.S. 616 where they sample four different five-weeks training in trades.

BASIC SKILLS

They will learn basic skills in barbering, service station work, auto body repair, tailoring, baking — all jobs for which the state employment office and union officials say there is a demand in New York City.

As for Andy, he knows a great deal more than he did when he went to the rock, a lot more about himself. He has learned more about getting along with people. He knows what it will take to hold down a job.

And he knows pride. He's proud of the speed he can manage on that scary-looking calculator.

He has just finished reading his first book, Claude Brown's "Manchild in the Promised Land."

He knows what he will do when he gets to mainland again. "Man, y'know? I'm going to look up my gang. And I'm going to tell them to get on the rock."

He doesn't mean it. Or does he?

Big shots go for Carstairs.

So do little shots.

The real test of whiskey is to drink it neat. No ice. No water. No soda. No nothing. If it isn't gentle, agreeable, pleasant to taste, it isn't great whiskey. If it isn't, it certainly isn't Carstairs.

Discipline Key—Chief of GOP Convention Reform Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man in charge of a Republican effort to remove some of the noise and confusion from presidential nominating conventions thinks a dose of disciplinary medicine will do the job without major surgery.

★ ★ ★

National Committeeman Robert L. Pierce of Menomonie, Wis., said he does not subscribe to all the stern steps recommended by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose complaints about convention deportment led to the reform move.

★ ★ ★

Pierce is chairman of a 12-member committee that will make convention reform suggestions to the Republican National Committee. Pierce's group has just been organized, and plans to begin its investigation late in May.

★ ★ ★

The first step: a New York meeting to view television films of what went on during the San Francisco convention two years ago.

MOST ARE HORRIFIED

Eisenhower said last June that television puts the quadrennial conventions under the nation's eye — and "I think most of the United States is horrified by what they see."

The Republican National Committee promptly ordered an investigation to find ways of modernizing and reforming the conventions.

★ ★ ★

Pierce said in an interview Tuesday he doesn't think all the hoopla of conventions should go.

"I'm not so sore that people don't like the noise and the confusion and the flags and the whole works," he said. But enough is enough, he said, and more discipline is in order.

★ ★ ★

"There's plenty of room for improvement in the operation of the convention floor itself," he said.

It is normally a scene of milling delegates, newsmen, onlookers who talk, clog the aisles and keep convention chairmen slamming their gavels.

★ ★ ★

Pierce said there would be more order if national committeemen gave up their convention patronage — the authority to nominate some 1,500 honorary sergeants at arms and 450 assistant doorkeepers.

★ ★ ★

Pierce, vice chairman of the arrangements committee for the last national convention, said their stipends cost some $44,500. "I don't think we get our money's worth," he said.

He said the money could be used instead to hire an extra 2,000 policemen who could keep out intruders and maintain order.

Eisenhower suggested that convention chairmen be given dictatorial powers to keep order — backed up by burly sergeants at arms. He also said newsmen should be barred from the convention floor, and alternate delegates should be relegated to the galleries. In addition, he said there should be fewer delegates. There were 1,308 at the last GOP convention.

Pierce said he doesn't want to keep all reporters and photographers from the convention floor, does not think alternate delegates should be exiled, and doesn't advocate smaller delegations.

★ ★ ★

He said 1,300 people is not an unmanageable number.

Nimitz Is Released by California Hospital

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, 80, returned from Oakland Naval Hospital to his Yerba Buena Island home Tuesday. He had gone to the hospital because of a stroke Jan. 3.

A hospital spokesman said the stroke resulted in a weakness in the admiral's left side. Nimitz commanded the Pacific Fleet during World War II.

Early Infancy Said Vital to Personality

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Depression and anxiety may bother you, and there may be nothing to be done about it, a Canadian psychiatrist says, unless some way is found for people to start life over—beginning at six months.

That's when infants may begin to suffer mental depressions severe enough to scar their later lives, explained Dr. Carl Stern, a psychiatrist from the Universities of Montreal and Ottawa.

The danger period, he said yesterday is between the ages of 6 and 18 months.

"Children then can be emotionally contaminated by their mother's moods, or by her absence," he said.

★ ★ ★

"Many people have pooh-poohed this idea, but studies have shown there definitely is a "grief parallel" in infancy that goes far to explain depressions and anxieties in adulthood," he said.

SAME EXPRESSION

Dr. Stern, visiting Los Angeles for a series of lectures, said studies using motion pictures of infants' faces proved they have the same look of melancholy often seen on the faces of disturbed adults.

He said the most frequent cause of infant depression is the physical absence of the mother, often occurring because of her death or the breakup of a marriage.

But, he said, it isn't necessary for the mother to be absent for the infant to experience depression.

★ ★ ★

She can merely be detracted, worried and inattentive and the infant will react almost as if she were gone, he said.

NO ONE UNDERSTANDS

"No one quite understands why the period between one half year and one and a half years should be so vital in the emotional development of an adult human being," Dr. Stern said.

"But it has been shown that children under 6 months and older than 18 months can generally put up quite well with the absence, either physical or emotional, of their mothers.

"There are many exceptions, of course," he said, "but that age is the danger zone."

U. S. Survey Reports State Water Levels

LANSING (AP) — Water levels in southern Lower Michigan remained generally below average in January, although Kalamazoo and Gratiot Counties had above-average readings.

The U.S. Geological Survey reports a record high for the month at Roscommon for the second straight month. Mason County's level was above average.

★ ★ ★

Ground water levels in the Upper Peninsula's key well, in Marquette County, declined but remained near average for the month.

GOP Plans Own Bill on Relief for Veterans

LANSING (AP) — The Senate moved Gov. George Romney's $944.9 million state budget into position Tuesday for a final vote—where it is almost certain to be killed for technical reasons.

Without more than a cursory look at the 13 budget bills, the Senate Appropriations Committee reported them to the full Senate. A required waiting period will delay the vote until next week.

★ ★ ★

The constitution requires that the governor's budget be acted on before other money matters. This, say majority Democrats, would cause an end-of-session pile-up of bills with only minor money implications.

The budget usually is among the last measures considered by the full legislature. Democrats followed the same bill-killing pattern last year.

'HO HUM' ATTITUDE

Romney objected then, but this year says his attitude is "ho hum." Except for a sizable school aid increase, the final bills of 1965 generally were in line with the governor's bills.

The appropriations committee gave genuine approval Tuesday to a bill which would increase state matching grants for community mental health programs.

State aid now ranges from 40 to 60 per cent but could reach 75 per cent of program costs under the House-approved bill. The $1-per-capita restriction on program costs would be eliminated as would the means test for persons availing themselves of such services.

The committee said the revisions could cost up to $500,000 a year.

Huge 'River' in Pacific Is Being Studied

By Science Service

PARIS — Scientists are probing the depth, origin and flow rate of the great circular ocean river that constantly surges around the edges of the Pacific Ocean.

This vast belt of moving water, sometimes 600 miles wide, affects in many unknown ways the weather and climate of Pacific shores, as well as the movements of fish, crabs, plants and other sea life.

The current flows west along the north edge of the Equator, turns north at the Philippines to form the Kuroshio Current, then crosses the north Pacific and heads south along the North Atlantic Coast as the California Current.

Recent reports on the origin and depth of the Kuroshio Current, the Pacific Ocean's equivalent of the Atlantic's Gulf Stream, were made by a Japanese ocean survey group.

★ ★

This is the first phase of a cooperative ocean current study coordinated by the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission, which is sponsored by UNESCO.

DIRECTION OF CURRENT

The Japanese scientists reported at the fourth session of the commission that the North Equatorial Current turns north to become the Kuroshio between 13 and 15 degrees north latitude when it reaches the eastern coast of Luzon Island in the Philippines.

★ ★ ★

Thirty-six ships from six countries worked during the first phase from July through September 1965. The scientists came from Japan, the United States, Russia, Hong Kong, the Republic of China and Korea.

Senate Likely to Kill Romney Budget Next Week---for Technical Reasons

LANSING (AP) — Republican legislators notified Democrats Tuesday they intend to back Gov. George Romney again when he vetoes the flat-rate veterans homestead tax exemption bill for a second time.

★ ★ ★

House Republicans, meanwhile offered majority Democrats a choice: A bill acceptable to Romney or no bill at all.

Romney has said he would veto the Democrats' tax exemption plan—as he did last fall—if it passed the legislature a second time.

Following a caucus, House Minority Leader Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, left to Democrats the decision as to whether there would be an exemption bill at all and whether or not veterans would get an additional break this year.

★ ★ ★

If all parties involved move fast and cooperate, he said, an improved exemption could become law before the final closing of local property tax rolls, he said.

★ ★ ★

The House Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs, meanwhile, reported out a measure that duplicates last year's bill. It would have raised the exemption for qualified veterans from the first $2,000 of state equalized valuation to the first $3,500.

Romney has proposed, instead a sliding scale of benefits ranging from $3,000 to $5,000 for disabled veterans and their widows, and $2,500 for other veterans and widows.

"A bill implementing Romney's program will be introduced," Waldron said, adding:

"We also will be ready to offer our program as an amendment to the Democratic bill as soon as it comes up for debate. We're ready to vote today."

Republicans, he added, "want to move fast enough to meet the deadline of local boards of review — April 1 at the latest. They also want to be in a position to make sure there can be a bill acceptable to the governor on his desk by March 10."

This can be accomplished by having the Republican bill ready for action immediately following the veto "or even if the Democratic bill gets stalled in the Senate," he added.

BEEF PIES — Blustery winter evenings make hearty main dishes like these little beef pies more inviting than ever. The pastry is made with corn meal.

Corn Meal Topping for Beef Pie

When cold winds blow, let the family know you're making little beef pies for dinner and watch eyes sparkle in anticipation of the savory, warm goodness. The economy of these individual casseroles will please you, the manager of the family food budget, too.

If you're looking for a way to make leftover roast beef look completely different the second time around, these little pies with their tender, golden corn meal pastry tops are the answer.

Bouillon, Worcestershire sauce and other seasonings spark new flavor in the beef. Frozen mixed vegetables provide color accent and transform the pies into a meal-in-a-dish.

LITTLE BEEF PIES

1 beef bouillon cube
2 cups boiling water
3½ cups chopped cooked beef
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon pepper
One 10-oz. pkg. frozen mixed vegetables
½ cup cold water
¼ cup all-purpose flour

Pastry

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ cup enriched corn meal
¾ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup shortening
4 tablespoons cold water

Heat oven to 450 degrees. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water; add beef, Worcestershire sauce, salt, sugar, paprika and pepper. Add vegetables; cook 5 minutes.

Combine cold water and flour; slowly stir into mixture; cook until thickened. Spoon into six 8-oz. ovenproof casseroles.

For pastry, sift together flour, corn meal and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle water by tablespoonfuls over mixture; stir lightly with fork until just dampened. (If necessary, add another tablespoon cold water to make dough hold together.) Form into ball.

Divide pastry into 6 parts. Roll each part to form circle large enough to fit top of casserole. Place pastry circle over filling. Turn edges under; flute.

Make several cuts in pastry to allow steam to escape. Bake 12 to 15 minutes.

Party Cupcakes

Ever split and fill tiny cupcakes for a party? The filling will be delicious and festive if you flavor chocolate frosting with rum; use the same concoction for covering the cakes and garnish with nuts.

Winter Salad

Artichokes make a tasty green salad for winter meals. Cook them in boiling water until tender. Then, while they are hot, pour on a tart French dressing. Chill several hours or overnight. Serve with additional dressing for leaf dipping.

Mincemeat Is Surprise in Curry

Curry is a word derived from the Hindustani, turcarri. It is shortened to "turri" in the colloquial which is called "curry" in Anglo-Saxon usage. Curry powder is a blend of spices and is used in sauces to flavor meats, fish, eggs and vegetables.

In meats, one of the most popular to curry is lamb. Many times after you've roasted and enjoyed a leg of lamb, you'll find enough meat remaining to make several cups of cubed lamb. In the recipe for lamb curry there is a secret ingredient . . . mincemeat.

Condiments are popular with curries and usually complement the curry through flavor, texture and color. They may consist of such foods as chopped raisins, chopped green pepper, chopped hard-cooked egg, flaked coconut or toasted nuts.

Filberts . . . or hazelnuts . . . chopped and toasted for 10 to 15 minutes in a hot (400 degree) oven . . . are excellent served with this curry.

Lamb Curry Indienne

1 medium onion, chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups cooked cubed lamb
2½ cups chicken broth or bouillon
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup prepared mincemeat
1 tablespoon salt
Dash pepper
1 cup raw rice
1 tablespoon curry powder

In large skillet, brown onion and green pepper in butter until crisp-tender. Add lamb, broth, lemon juice, mincemeat, salt and pepper. Bring to boil; add rice and curry powder. Stir thoroughly.

Cover tightly and cook until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed, about 30 minutes. Serve with coconut, diced green pepper, chopped filberts, etc.

LAMB CURRY — A leg of lamb is an excellent choice for a weekday or weekend dinner, but if some remains you can turn it into a magnificent curry by following a simple recipe. Serve it with a variety of sambals.

Pastry Encloses Banana Half for Turnover

Bake a fruit and pastry dessert that's different.

Banana Turnovers

1 cup unsifted regular flour
¼ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons (about) ice-cold water
3 large bananas, peeled and cut in half crosswise
Extra melted butter
1 tablespoon light brown sugar

Stir together the flour and salt; cut in the 6 tablespoons butter until particles are the size of peas. Gradually stir in water.

Roll out dough into a 15 by 10 inch rectangle; cut into 6 squares. Put a banana half diagonally on each pastry square. Brush bananas with extra melted butter and sprinkle with the brown sugar.

Lap over ends of pastry toward center to cover banana and seal. Bake on a cookie sheet in a hot (450 degrees) oven about 12 to 15 minutes.

Serve warm with a pudding sauce — pineapple flavor is good. Makes 6 servings.

Ginger and Honey Good With Fruit

A tangy fruit cup will stir appetites!

Citrus Ginger Cup

1 large grapefruit
3 medium or large oranges
2 tablespoons clover honey
1 to 2 tablespoons finely diced candied ginger (soften in hot water before cutting)

Using a sharp knife on the fruit, cut away the rind in strips from top to bottom so no white membrane remains.

Cut sections away from dividing membrane. Do all this over a bowl and save all juice. Arrange sections in 4 sherbet glasses.

Strain juice and mix with honey and ginger; pour over sections. Chill until serving time. Makes 4 servings.

Add Water Chestnuts

Sliced drained canned water chestnuts make a delightful contribution to buttered green peas or snap beans. The water chestnuts may also be added when the vegetables are served cream-style.

Puddings Made With Milk Rate Higher in Nutrition

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Dessert is the highlight of the meal in many homes. Adults who do heavy work and children who lead active lives can cope with the added calories.

But let's make our desserts something more than naked calories — not just sugar.

Puddings that use milk are a good choice. You can control both calories and price with the type of milk you use.

Nonfat dry skim milk is both inexpensive and low-caloried. Evaporated milk is also inexpensive.

A cracker pudding is really a baked custard. This one has a Pennsylvania Dutch background.

DUTCH CRACKER PUDDING

24 double thin crackers
4 cups milk
3 eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
1 package flaked coconut (3½ oz.)
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
6 tablespoons sugar

Break crackers into coarse crumbs (there should be about 2 cups) and set aside. Scald milk in 3-quart saucepan over moderate heat. Beat egg yolks until light; add hot milk to yolks, stirring well.

Return to saucepan, stir in ½ cup sugar and cook, stirring constantly about 2 minutes. Add the crumbs and coconut; cook and stir until crumbs are soft and pudding has thickened. Stir in vanilla and pour into lightly buttered baking dish, about 7"x11".

Beat egg whites until they hold soft peaks. Gradually add 6 tablespoons sugar, beating until mixture holds firm peaks. Spread over pudding and swirl.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until meringue is golden brown (for 15 minutes). Cool on rack. Serve at room temperature. Yield: 8 servings.

★ ★ ★

Another custard-like pudding uses a convenience food-egg custard mix. The pudding is a quick bread pudding made with raisin bread.

JIFFY BREAD PUDDING

4 slices raisin bread
½ cup raisins
1 (2⅝-ounce) package golden egg custard mix
2 cups milk
1 (1-ounce) square unsweetened chocolate
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cut raisin bread into small cubes. Divide bread cubes and raisins among 4 baking cups. Combine egg custard mix and milk. Add finely cut chocolate. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until boiling; remove from heat. Add vanilla; beat until chocolate is well blended.

Pour over bread in baking cups and cool until set. Makes 4 servings.

Frozen strawberries, raspberries or peaches are layered in a parfait glass with pudding and a crunchy cereal mixture to make an attractive, glamorous looking dessert.

FRUIT PUDDING PARFAITS

1 package (4-serving size) vanilla pudding and pie filling
2¼ cups milk*
¼ cup drained thawed frozen fruit
¾ cup Cereal Crunch

*Or use 2 cups milk and ¼ cup light cream.

Prepare pudding mix as directed on package, increasing milk to 2¼ cups. Cool completely; stir in fruit. Alternately spoon pudding and Cereal Crunch into serving dish or parfait glasses starting and ending with pudding. Chill.

If desired, garnish pudding with prepared whipped topping or whipped cream and fruit. Makes about 3 or 4 servings.

Cereal Crunch

½ cup malted cereal granules
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter

Combine all ingredients. Store in refrigerator in a covered container. Makes about ¾ cup.

Idea Is French

Ever Bake Kidney Beans?

Just as New England is famous for Boston Baked Beans, so France is famous for Cassoulet, a rich and flavorful combination of beans baked with meats. There are many versions of cassoulet as there are of American baked beans.

The recipe given here—an American "translation" of the cassoulet—is a savory combination of kidney beans, sausage, veal, wine and herbs.

Baked Beans a la Francais

1 lb. dried kidney beans
1 quart water
1 onion, sliced
1 tablespoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 lb. boneless veal, cut in 1-inch pieces
3 teaspoons kitchen bouquet
½ lb. small sausage links
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon minced parsley
¼ teaspoon rosemary, crushed
1 cup red wine

Pick over beans; wash. Place beans in large saucepan. Add water, onion, salt and pepper. Bring to boil and cook 5 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand 1 hour. Bring to boil again and cook slowly until beans are tender, about 30 minutes; stir now and then.

Meanwhile, sprinkle veal with 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet; stir gently until meat is coated. Cut sausage into ½-inch slices.

In a skillet, cook sausage over moderate heat until lightly browned. Add veal, garlic, parsley and rosemary. Cook until veal is browned. Drain beans, reserving liquid.

In a 3-quart casserole with cover, arrange alternate layers of beans and meat beginning and ending with beans. Combine pan drippings, wine and kitchen bouquet and pour over beans. Then, add enough bean liquid so beans are just covered.

Cover and bake in preheated 350 degree oven until beans are tender, about 2 hours. Stir every 30 minutes. Bake uncovered for the last 30 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

Pour Custard Over Kuchen for Flavor

A pantry shelf fruit makes a delightful kuchen.

Plum Kuchen

1¼ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup enriched white cornmeal
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 can (1 pound, 14 ounces) whole purple plums—well-drained, pitted and halved ½ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
Custard Topping

Into a mixing bowl, sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, cornmeal and granulated sugar; with a pastry blender, cut in butter until particles are fine. Add milk and egg; mix lightly until combined.

Pat dough over bottom and sides of an 11 by 7 by 2-inch baking pan. Place plum halves, skin side up, in 4 rows over dough; sprinkle brown sugar over plums.

Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven for 15 minutes. Remove from oven and pour Custard Topping over plums. Continue baking until custard is firm and in most places does not stick to finger when touched — 5 to 10 minutes. Cut and serve warm.

Custard Topping: Slightly beat 2 egg yolks; add ½ cup milk and ½ teaspoon nutmeg and beat to combine. Stir before pouring over plums.

Freezing Honey Keeps It Clear, Light

To keep honey from crystallizing and turning dark, here's a helpful hint from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Instead of storing it on a cabinet shelf, place honey in the freezer. Remove a little at a time — just enough for a week or two. The rest of the honey will stay clear, smooth and flavorful right to the bottom of the jar.

Cheese Puff Has Olives for Accent

Looking for a good meatless main dish? Settle on "Olive Cheese Puff" and the entire family will be pleased. Not only are California ripe olives an important ingredient in this easy-do entree; they are equally important when you are assembling relish assortments.

To keep the olives shiny, drain them until dry, then roll them in a bowl with a few drops of salad or olive oil.

Olive Cheese Puff

1 cup ripe olives
4 slices bread
2 cups grated American cheese
¼ cup finely chopped onion
3 eggs
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk

Cut olives into large wedges. Cut bread into small cubes. Arrange bread, olives, cheese and onion in layers in shallow greased baking dish. Beat eggs lightly with Worcestershire, mustard, salt and pepper. Add milk; pour over layers in baking dish.

Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven about 45 minutes, or until puffed and browned on top and set in center. Serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Zest in Salads With Few Sardines

Sardines add substance and flavor to a tossed salad.

Special Tossed Salad

2 quarts lightly packed salad greens
1 medium or large cucumber, pared and sliced thin
½ cup (about) tarragon-flavored French dressing
Salt and freshly ground pepper
2 cans (each 3¾ ounces) brisling sardines, drained.

In a large salad bowl, just before serving, toss together the greens, cucumber and tarragon dressing with salt and pepper to taste. Add the sardines; toss lightly so as not to break sardines. Makes 6 servings.

Note: For the dressing, use a standard recipe substituting tarragon vinegar for the other vinegar called for.

Cherry Torte Is Good Any Day

Black cherry-brandy torte is a 20th century version of France's King's Cake or Twelfth Cake, traditionally baked on January sixth, or Epiphany Day, to honor the Magi.

Cut a 12-ounce loaf pound cake into 3 layers of equal size. Drain a 1 pound 13 ounce can of pitted dark sweet cherries and reserve ½ cup of the juice. Add 1 tablespoon of cornstarch to reserved juice in small saucepan.

Cook over low heat until juice boils, stirring constantly. Continue cooking 3 minutes; remove from heat.

★ ★ ★

Add cherries and ½ teaspoon of brandy extract to thickened juice and allow to cool. Spread cooled fruit mixture between cake layers.

Add 1 teaspoon of sugar and ½ teaspoon of brandy extract to ½ cup of heavy cream and whip until thick enough to spread on top of cake.

Coffee All Black?

Before 1878, no sweet cream was sold in cities in this country. It took so long to separate the cream from the milk, the cream soured before it reached consumers.

ORANGE BAVARIAN — When Columbus discovered America, he also discovered oranges growing in the Canary Islands. Thanks to him, you can discover a delicious dessert called Orange Velvet Bavarian. It is served with a tangy orange sauce.

Whip Evaporated Milk to Add Creamy Taste

Though oranges are believed to be native to the tropical regions of Asia and especially the Malay archipelago, trees bearing the juicy fruit were growing on the Canary Islands when Christopher Columbus landed there in 1492.

The explorer is credited with introducing the fruit to the western hemisphere on his second voyage in 1493 when he established a settlement on the island of Hispaniola. Orange trees were planted there with seeds from the island of Gomera in the Canaries.

So, thanks to Columbus and others, we now can enjoy such delicious desserts as Orange Velvet Bavarian.

Our recipe from the test kitchens of Carnation Company combines orange juice, unflavored gelatine, eggs and velvetized evaporated milk.

Orange Velvet Bavarian

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¾ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
1¼ cups orange juice
½ teaspoon vanilla
⅔ cup (small can) undiluted evaporated milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Orange Sauce

Combine in top of double boiler, gelatine, ½ cup sugar, salt and egg yolks; beat smooth. Gradually stir in orange juice. Cook over boiling water until gelatine and sugar dissolve, about 5 minutes; stir in vanilla; chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg whites.

Meanwhile, chill evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until soft ice crystals form around edges (10 to 15 minutes). Whip until stiff (about 1 minute). Add lemon juice and whip very stiff (about 2 minutes).

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; gradually add remaining ¼ cup sugar beating until stiff but not dry. Fold whipped evaporated milk and egg whites into egg yolk mixture.

Turn into 1½ quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold onto serving platter. Serve with Orange Sauce. Makes 6-8 servings.

To prepare Orange Sauce: (Makes about 2 cups) Blend together in saucepan ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon; stir in 1½ cups orange juice. Bring to boil, stirring constantly; boil ½ minute.

Remove from heat; stir in 1 tablespoon butter. Add 1 cup diced oranges (about 2). Chill.

Pear Halves Stuffed With Cheese, Chicken

Youngsters love cooking assignments! Let them tackle this easy-do salad: Blend 1 can (5 ounces) chicken spread and 1 package (3 ounces) softened cream cheese; add 1-3 cup chopped walnuts and 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Stuff 8 pear halves, drained, with chicken mixture; chill. Serve on salad greens. Makes 4 servings.

Start With Pudding

By adding one cup finely diced apple and ½ cup crushed peanut, brittle to a package of prepared pudding mix, you'll achieve a delightfully festive party dessert.

Served on Pimiento Muffins

A hearty breakfast, lunch, brunch, supper . . . what a joy it is to find a versatile dish suitable for any of these meals. This one has all the elements of success: nutrition, tempting taste, eye appeal, and for the homemaker, ease of preparation.

★ ★ ★

Crisply browned chicken livers, subtlely flavored, are surrounded by poached eggs resting on a nest of bright red pimiento halves and toast rounds.

Served with chilled fruit (for a brunch with guests, it can be sherried) and tiny pastries, if you like, this dish should tempt even the most finicky appetites. (For a more breakfast-type dish, the cloves, bay leaf and onion may be omitted as seasonings.)

Another suggestion: keep the idea of eggs-on-pimiento-nests, and substitute an abundance of crisply cooked bacon for the chicken livers. This would be especially good for breakfast.

POACHED EGGS WITH CHICKEN LIVERS on Pimiento Nests

3 English muffins, split and toasted (6 halves)
1 can or jar (7 Oz.) whole pimientos, drained
Soft butter or margarine
6 eggs, poached

(For chicken livers:)
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 small onion
2 whole cloves
1 bay leaf
1 lb. fresh or thawed frozen chicken livers
3 tablespoons flour
Pinch nutmeg
1½ cups clear chicken broth

Cover each toasted muffin half with a whole pimiento torn to fit. Brush pimientos with soft butter or margarine and keep warm by placing pimiento-muffins on pan in slow oven. Poach eggs.

★ ★ ★

Heat butter or margarine in a heavy skillet with onion, cloves and bay leaf. (Remove cloves and bay leaf before serving.) Add halved livers and saute over low heat for 4-5 minutes. Remove livers to prevent overcooking. Stir flour and nutmeg into butter in pan. Gradually stir in broth and cook a few minutes until thickened. Return livers to sauce and heat through. Taste and add salt and pepper to taste.

★ ★ ★

To serve, place a poached egg on each pimiento-layered muffin and arrange around edge of platter; heap center with livers in sauce and garnish with sprinkle of chopped parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Citizen Unit Pushes District Plan Despite Judge's View That Fight's Over

LANSING (AP) — A citizens group is trying to enter the legislative apportionment fight even though one justice of the Michigan Supreme Court says it's all over.

★ ★ ★

Civic Searchlight Inc., a citizens' government information and candidate - endorsing group, filed a petition with the high court Tuesday to enter the suit.

★ ★ ★

The petition followed by a few hours a memorandum by Justice Eugene Black.

In it Black chided his fellow justices for failing to act; predicted they would never act on the question, commended Democratic members of the Legislative Apportionment Commission for "occult" powers in forseeing the court's inaction and called for a lottery in which one member of the commission be dropped, giving one party a controlling majority.

The court and the commission already have run out of time to replace what he called the provisional legislative apportionment plan now in effect.

★ ★ ★

If the court does not act, the present Democratic Austin-Kleiner plan will remain in effect for the 1966 elections, even though the court had made it "effective for the 1964 legislative elections only," Black said.

★ ★ ★

In response to a suit filed by 34 citizens, the court last November ordered the commission to try again to district the legislature.

It remained deadlocked right up to its New Year's Eve deadline, and the matter fell back to the high court.

★ ★ ★

William O'Brien, executive secretary of the Searchlight, asked the court to allow them to intervene or at least present their own plan.

Shortages of Some Foods Rocket Cuba Black Market Prices

HAVANA (AP) — Shortages of some staple foods and other consumer goods have brought a sharp increase in prices on the Cuban black market, always a thriving business in this Communist economy.

★ ★ ★

A pound of coffee costs up to 15 pesos, if you can find a seller. It was half that a few months ago.

★ ★ ★

Rice has jumped in black market price from 1 to 5 pesos a pound. The normal price is 20 cents a pound.

Chicken has gone up from 2.50 to 3.50 and 4 pesos. Black market beefsteak is holding relatively steady at 5 pesos a pound. Pork, virtually unobtainable by city dwellers, sells for as much as 4 pesos a pound.

PURCHASING POWER

The Cuban peso is officially on a par with the dollar but its purchasing power is much less.

In addition to these tightly rationed items, laundry soap has been in short supply recently. A cake of strong-smelling yellow laundry soap, which usually sells at the store for 16 cents, is a hot 70-cent item on the black market.

Long lines form to buy bread, but this problem is believed temporary due to lack of transportation from bakery to store. Officials deny there is a shortage of flour or wheat.

★ ★ ★

Despite a recent government announcement of a concerted drive to boost sagging coffee production, the Cubans' favorite beverage appears to be getting scarcer.

★ ★ ★

Many restaurants won't sell coffee except with a meal. Snack bars and neighborhood coffee stands sell it only at certain hours of the day, when they can get a supply. The Cuban legally is entitled to buy 1½ ounces a week.

★ ★ ★

The rice quota was cut in half by Prime Minister Fidel Castro as a result of Communist China's refusal to supply as much of the Cubans' basic dietary ingredient as it did in 1965.

An estimated 2,392,000 persons were added to the nation's resident population in the 12 months before Aug. 1, 1965. The rate of increase was estimated to be 1.2 per cent for the year.

There's Something About a Tux (His Very Own) That He Likes

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Most men claim they hate to wear a tux.

They say it makes them feel stiff, awkward and ill at ease. They say any social affair you have to wear a tux to is bound to be dull and boring.

BOYLE

Actually, however, many men get a secret pleasure out of dressing up. They feel that a tux turns them from an everyday ugly duckling into another kind of a bird. It's a swan they have in mind—but, of course, it's a penguin they resemble more.

Personally, I love my tux. It doesn't do much to enhance my appearance, but it makes a fine conversation piece. Wherever I wear it, sooner or later it becomes the center of attention.

RATES INTEREST

During the first two cocktails, the other guests just gather in clusters and discuss it among themselves. After the third drink, some white mustached old gaffer, leaning on a cane, creaks over to me. Misty-eyed, he asks:

"My boy, where did you get that wonderful, wonderful tuxedo? It reminds me of one I wore at my senior prom."

"Where was that, sir?"

"Amherst, class of '02."

"What did you do with it, sir?"

* * *

"I gave it to a freshman on the day I graduated."

"Well, sir, this could well be the very same tux," I tell him. "When I got back from World War II in 1946, my wife started hounding me to purchase a tux.

"I saw this one in the window of a thrift shop. The price tag was $25, and I wasn't going to take it until the clerk agreed to throw in a pair of earmuffs—and I couldn't pass up the bargain.

"The clerk told me the tux had been pawned by an Indian who ran short of cash while appearing in Buffalo Bill's Wild West show earlier in the century—but he didn't know whom the Indian had got it from."

It is hard to date my tux with any real accuracy. Certainly it was after the invention of the spinning wheel and before the discovery of the nylon worm.

It is heavy as iron, double-breasted, and has lapels as wide as a roll of wallpaper. Once a fashionable black, it has now turned an even more interesting green. The pants have more pleats than most accordions.

My wife has been trying to get rid of my old tux for almost 20 years now. She started sabotaging it five minutes after I first lugged it into the house—before I could even get it out of the box.

TAKE IT BACK'

"Take it back," she pleaded. "I'd rather see you go to a charity ball in your long underwear than in that—that thing."

* * *

She still calls it "that thing." But "that thing" has more lives than a cat. My wife has been unable to give it away, throw it away or even cut it up. She once turned some moths loose on it to chew it up. But all the moths got was sore jaws.

There is only one complaint I have about my tux. It bulges out so far in front that whenever I go to a fancy buffet dinner, suspicious waiters keep bumping into me. They want to be sure I'm not absconding with the silverware or a plump roast turkey.

But a man is known by his loyalties. My old tux has been faithful to me, and I intend to stay faithful to it.

I may not be able to take it with me when I go to that last big charity ball in the sky, but I want to bequeath it to someone who will appreciate its antique charm and give it a good brushing every two or three years—whether it needs it or not.

Any takers?

Battle Lines Drawn Yesterday in Miami's Mossler Murder Trial

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A defense attorney says Jacques Mossler was a ruthless businessman and a sexual deviate with thousands of enemies who could have killed him.

The state of Florida says Mossler was murdered by two persons — his wife, Candace, and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers — because of hatred, love and money.

* * *

It was on these lines that the battle was drawn Tuesday for a trial that could be one of the most sensational in Florida history — and the longest.

"If each one of the 39 knife wounds in Jacques Mossler's body was inflicted by a different person," defense attorney Percy Foreman told the jury, "there still would be many times that number of people left with real or imaginary justification."

'LIKE A PIRATE'

The gray-haired Houston, Tex., trial lawyer charged in a 70-minute opening statement that Mossler "was as ruthless in business as any pirate who ever sailed the seas of commerce."

Foreman also said that Mossler, 69, head of a banking and loan company empire, practiced "every conceivable sexual deviation in all psychiatry."

* * *

In the worlds of business and homosexuality, he said, Mossler encountered thousands of people who could have killed him, including many who had threatened his life.

Before Foreman spoke, Asst. State Atty. Arthur Huttoe told the jury the state would present evidence that there were three motives for Mossler's murder.

'ILLICIT LOVE'

These were, he said, a personal hatred Powers felt for Mossler, "a sordid, illicit love affair" between Powers and Mrs. Mossler — and money.

As the trial, which is expected to last for months, moved into the testimony stage after 11 days spent in picking a jury, crowds began to form at the courthouse in downtown Miami.

They massed before iron gates barring the way to a hallway leading to the courtroom. When the gates were thrown open before each session, they pushed and struggled to get through and occupy the 140 seats available.

Foreman said Mossler's killer could have emerged from one of several groups of enemies.

These included, he said, independent automobile dealers in Miami, "who were ruined by Mossler or believed they were," or thousands of persons who had left their automobiles to go to work and returned to find them repossessed by Mossler's companies.

Ferndale No Match for Tall East Detroit Quintet

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Ferndale, the only test in East Detroit's way toward the mythical state championship as the No. 1 team, was no match for the tall Shamrocks last night.

The Eagles gave East Detroit a battle for three periods then gave way to the height advantage as the Shamrocks posted a 71-60 triumph.

With a list of patsies to play in the remaining games, it is doubtful that anyone will stop the Shamrocks until the tournaments get under way.

East Detroit took a 10-4 lead to start, but with Ferndale's Dwight Dunlap hitting five of his first six shots and seven for 10 in the first half, the Eagles finally tied it 29-29 with 50 seconds left before intermission.

With 6-10 Doug Hess on the bench with three fouls, John Gordon, a 6-6 substitute, came in and hit two big buckets in the final 32 seconds of the half to give East Detroit a 34-29 lead.

The Shamrocks never fell behind again, although with 20 seconds left in the third period, Ferndale closed the gap to 51-48.

With six minutes left in the game 6-6 Ron Binge, the scoring and rebounding star for East Detroit, had four fouls and Ferndale was still in striking distance 55-50.

MISS KEY SHOTS

However, on three consecutive 1-1 free throw situations Ferndale missed the first toss and then Hess, who had not scored a point during the first three quarters, hit a three-point play to make it 58-50 and that put it on ice.

East Detroit hit the hoop for 50 per cent with 27 of 54 shots while Ferndale had 23 of 61.

Binge, who pulled down 15 rebounds, had 10 for 16 from the floor and finished with 23 points with Arch Price getting 17.

Ferndale's Dunlap finished with 11 of 18 and a total of 23 with Rick Bloodworth adding 17.

East Detroit's height was a distinct advantage as the Shamrocks were able to push the ball back toward the hoop two and three times on their shots and hitting consistently on the rebounds.

It was the first time East Detroit has been able to beat Ferndale in five games over three seasons.

EASY CATCH—Jess Mangham of Flint Southwestern goes up for an easy rebound after Pontiac Central's Ross Ludwick (left) missed the ball. Southwestern handed the Chiefs their first loss of the season, 56-54, last night and dropped PCH into a tie for first place with Saginaw in the Saginaw Valley Conference.

By DON VOGEL

It only takes a fraction of second to burst a bubble.

That's all the time Flint Southwestern had going for it last night as the visiting Colts shattered Pontiac Central's basketball bubble at nine straight wins, 56-54.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs staged a frantic rally in the final minutes that pulled them from a 47-36 deficit to within two points of Southwestern. They had the ball out of bounds the length of the court away from the basket with four seconds to play.

A quick pass inbounds was followed by a long throw to Jessie Evans 25 feet from the basket. Evans leaped for the ball, came down, turned and fired.

The ball went through the hoop for what would have been the tying basket, but the buzzer sounded a fraction of a second before Evans shot and the two points didn't count.

The loss hurt the Chiefs in their bid for the Saginaw Valley Conference championship.

SAGINAW WINS

Saginaw rolled over Flint Central, 87-75, last night to pull into a tie for first place with the Chiefs. In other SVC games, Flint Northern upset Arthur Hill, 63-54, and Bay City Central routed Bay City Handy, 89-58.

Any hopes the Chiefs had of finishing as the No. 1 Class A team in the state went up in smoke. PCH went into the game ranked second.

Southwestern had become a jinx for the Chiefs in the PCH gym. The last three times the Colts have visited Pontiac they have won.

The Colts tried to help PCH stay undefeated. Poor shooting, defensive lapses and inconsistent rebounding, though, enabled the Chiefs to reject Southwestern's charitable acts.

Southwestern center Jess Mangham was taken out of the game after three and a half minutes with three fouls. Skip Malin, the team's top scorer, fouled out with 1:51 remaining in the third period with PCH ahead, 36-35.

Mangham replaced Malin and proceeded to spark the Colts with nine of his 11 points and eight rebounds in the last 9:11 of the game.

The Chiefs dominated the backboards in the first half, but lost control when Mangham returned. Southwestern also gave the Chiefs plenty of chances to pull away in the first half by yielding the ball on turnovers.

But the Chiefs were in the throes of their worst shooting

'Rocket' on Left Wing

Adams Picks NHL All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Adams, the jocular hockey executive who built a dynasty at Detroit, picks three Red Wing greats on his all-time National Hockey League All Star team.

Adams, 70, is in New York to accept the Lester Patrick Memorial Trophy for long and meritorious service to the game in the United States. He cheated a little on his all-time team but isn't likely to get many arguments.

★ ★ ★

"I'd pick Gordie Howe at right wing and use Maurice Richard at left wing. I know Richard played the right side but he was a left-handed shot, so he can be my left wing.

"At center I'd use Milt Schmidt who was a great puck handler. On defense it would be Jack Stewart and Eddie Shore. My goalie would have to be Terry Sawchuk."

Howe, who was discovered by Adams, is playing his 20th NHL season with Detroit and is the only player in hockey history to score 600 goals.

Stewart spent most of his career playing for the Red Wings before finishing up in Chicago. Sawchuk starred for 12 years with Detroit and now plays for Toronto.

★ ★ ★

Schmidt played 16 seasons for Boston and now coaches the Bruins. Shore, another Boston great, now owns the Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League. Richard, the first man to score 50 goals in one season, finished with 544 in 18 seasons with Montreal.

OVER THE TOP — The ball soars over the head of Western Michigan's Robert Blohm (23) as he vies for a rebound with University of Detroit's Larry Salci in last night's game. The U-D quintet triumphed, 91-79.

Wolverines Defeated by Illinois; Titans Win

By the Associated Press

Michigan's reign as champions of the Big Ten basketball conference is in jeopardy. Illinois is ready to take over.

Don Freeman of Illinois ripped off five consecutive points in the last 30 seconds to thwart a Michigan rally and give the Fighting Illini an upset 99-93 victory in the top college basketball game Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

"If we can win at home we're in," said Harry Combes, Illinois coach, after Freeman's closing heroics capped his aggregate 33-point performance.

Illinois, currently 4-1 in the Conference to 5-1 for Michigan and Michigan State, has six home games left with Ohio State, Northwestern, Indiana, Minnesota, Purdue and Iowa, in addition to three on the road against Michigan State, Minnesota and Northwestern.

HOST AT HOME

"I have to say Illinois is leading the Conference since they have won three (of four) on the road and we have lost at home," declared Dave Strack, Michigan coach.

All-America Cazzie Russell, with 33 points, sparked a late Michigan rally that almost pulled the game out for the Wolverines, ninth-ranked in this week's Associated Press poll. They tied the score at 91-91 setting the stage for Freeman, who scored seven of the last eight Illinois points to snap Michigan's seven-game winning streak.

★ ★ ★

Freeman, a 6-foot-3 senior and captain of the Illini, broke the tie with two free throws. Larry Hinton added another charity toss to make it 94-93. Jim Clawson got two free throws for Michigan before Freeman reeled off his closing five points on a jump shot, a tip-in and a free throw.

Center Dorie Murrey scored 28 points and collected 20 rebounds to lead the University of Detroit to a 91-79 basketball victory over Western Michigan.

Detroit, shooting 56 per cent in the first half, pulled out to a 51-42 halftime advantage and increased that margin to 21 after intermission before Coach Bob Calihan cleared his bench.

★ ★ ★

Western outscored the Titan reserves 9-0 in the last four minutes of the game, but the Broncos suffered their ninth defeat in 14 starts.

Western's scoring was led by John Scholtens with 15.

Kettering Wins 10th; Brandon Trips Oxford

All's well at Kettering High School today.

The Captains had easy sailing last night in routing Milford 68-46 and they now stand 10-0 for the season.

In a high scoring contest which saw both teams hit 32 field goals, Ortonville Brandon handed Oxford a 94-81 non-league setback.

It was a non-league encounter for Kettering and the ninth loss in 10 games for the Redskins from the Wayne-Oakland League.

Trailing 32-26 at halftime, Milford made its closest move to within four points early in the third quarter but the period ended 50-37 and the Captains proceeded to run away with it in the final stanza.

The Kettering scoring was spread out with Jack McCloud getting 15 and Ralph Windeler hitting for 10, but the Captains as a team fired nearly 54 per cent in hitting 27 of 51.

Milford managed only 13 of 53 shots but scoring honors for the night went to Paul Skinner with 17.

HIGH SCORING

It was a high fouling contest between Ortonville and Oxford with 27 against the Wildcats and 25 against Ortonville.

★ ★ ★

Barrie Hawley, sat out a period with four fouls, led Ortonville's balanced scoring with 28 points. Four other players hit in double figures with Wayne Brosseau getting 20 and Merv McDowell 14.

★ ★ ★

Oxford had four players in two figures led by Rick Fox with 20, Mickey Cummings with 19 and Roger Miller with 18.

It was 46-41 at halftime and Ortonville never relinquished the lead.

Ortonville now stands 7-3 for the season and Oxford in 3-8 overall.

Celtics 'Stick' Another Loss on Pistons

By the Associated Press

The Boston Celtics are a team that sticks together, and one that looks like it's stuck together.

When the Boston players trotted on to the court at New York's Madison Square Garden Tuesday night they wore so much tape it looked like part of their uniform.

But once the opening buzzer sounded it was the Detroit Pistons, not the Celtics, who came apart as Boston romped to a 100-81 victory to protect their slim lead in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

Larry Siegfried scored 39 points and got big second half assists from Mel Counts and Bill Russell which broke the back of a Detroit rally. Russell, as usual, sparkled on defense, blocking several shots. He finished with 13 points as did Counts, and Tom Sanders added 14. Eddie Miles led Detroit with 22.

Huskies Lose to Detroit CC

By FLETCHER SPEARS

DETROIT—It's unlikely coach Dick Hall and Pontiac Northern's Huskies will be accused of picking on basketball pushovers this season.

The Huskies have won only four of 11 games, but the lion's share of the seven losses have come at the hands of some of the best teams in the state.

Their latest loss came last night at Detroit Catholic Central, where they absorbed an 84-63 beating.

Among their other conquerors to date were Pontiac Central, Ann Arbor and Highland Park, three of the top 15 squads in the state.

★ ★ ★

Hall no doubt is glad those games are history, but looking ahead he finds East Detroit and Pontiac Central—the 1-2 ranked teams in the state — remaining on the schedule.

LITTLE CHANCE

The Huskies had little chance against the tall, muscular Catholic Central squad.

PNH jumped off to a 2-0 lead on a bucket by Sophomore Don Hayward, but the winners gained control of the game during the first four minutes and ran up a 28-18 first-quarter lead.

UP LEAD

The Shamrocks raised the lead to 49-32 at halftime and widened the gap to 71-43 at the three-quarter mark.

Forward John Cicchelli picked up 34 points to spark the winners' attack, while teammate Nick Ferri contributed 20.

Leading the PNH offense were Dana Coin (13), Tom Webb (11) and Ken Mazur (10).

The Shamrocks' broke up most of PNH's offensive efforts in the first half with a full-court press, and the winners controlled both backboards and gained a 53-42 edge in that department.

Ailing McDonald Sent to Memphis

DETROIT (AP) — Forward Ab McDonald was sent to the Memphis Wings of the Central Professional Hockey League Tuesday by the Detroit Red Wings.

Coach Sid Abel of the Red Wings said the move was designed to get McDonald's injured right leg back into shape. He had been suffering from a muscle strain in recent weeks.

Memphis plays five games in a row, beginning at Oklahoma City Wednesday, and Abel said he feels the extra skating will help McDonald.

Hope's Golf Tourney Complicated Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The golfing marathon that bears the name of Bob Hope — it's the Hope $100,000 Desert Cassic — got under way today and will continue, whether you can stand the suspense or not, for five days.

The tournament sports a select field of 128 professionals, including the 1965 winner, Bill Casper Jr., Arnold Palmer, and the newest champion of the winter circuit, former U. S. Open champion Ken Venturi.

★ ★ ★

It also has 384 promising amateurs, which tends to complicate matters for at least four days.

Among the amateurs is, you might guess, Bob Hope.

The official pairing sheet is about the size of the Palm Springs telephone directory. Hope is identified as a member of the A-184 team. His pro is Q-30, which is possibly more intriguing than James Bond's 007. A later report will go into more details about Mr. Q-30.

90 HOLES

On the serious side, the tournament is 90 holes and the issue will not be decided until the fifth day, Sunday.

Casper is the logical favorite but, of course, Palmer, as well as the rejuvenated Venturi, merit attention.

Venturi, the 1964 National Open champion, reclaimed his stature with a brilliant come-from-behind victory in the San Francisco Lucky International last weekend.

It ended more than a year of misery and pain for the handsome San Franciscan, not to mention tournament disappointments in a fight against a circulatory ailment in his hands.

FOUR COURSES

The tournament play is over four courses. Each of the 128 pros has a different threesome of amateurs each day for the first four rounds.

The pros go it alone on the final round.

The country club courses in use are Indian Wells, the host and fifth round site; Bermuda Dunes, La Quinta, and Eldorado. All are par 36-36—72.

The yardage ranges from Indian Wells' 6,654 to Bermuda Dunes' 7,010.

Casper won in 1965 with a 348, which is 12 shots under par. He had a final round 72 at Bermuda Dunes. One stroke back, both with a 70, were Palmer and Tommy Aaron.

PCH Suffers First Setback

night of the season. They made only 19 of 66 for 29 per cent.

Southwestern's zone defense kept the Chiefs shooting outside. Meanwhile, the Colts were using ball control tactics to get in close and connected on 21 of 47 tries for 48 per cent.

Evans led all scorers with 14 points, but he was limited to three field goals. Ross Ludwick netted 11 points and grabbed 13 rebounds. Rick Middleton topped Southwestern with 12.

HALFTIME LEAD

The Chiefs managed to take five-point leads five times in the first half, but couldn't take advantage of Colt mistakes and led only 25-24 at the half.

The lead see-sawed in the third quarter until Roy West's tip put the Colts ahead to stay, 38-36. The Chiefs went five minutes without scoring a point and fell behind 47-36. During that time they became rattled for the first time this season.

With 4:49 to play in the game they settled down, but were a fraction of a second too late.

Farmington Club Site of Opening WDGA Tourney

The Women's District Golf Association will open the 1966 season with the first of its 15 weekly tournaments at Farmington Country Club Tuesday, May 17.

The association's 54-hole medal play outing is scheduled for June 20-22 at Grosse Ile Golf and Country Club, and the match play tournament is slated for August 1-5 at Lochmoor Club.

Among the weekly outings are a July 26 date at Bloomfield Hills Country Club; an August outing at Franklin Hills Country Club; and an August 16 tourney at Orchard Lake Country Club.

On the WDGA team play schedule are Oakland Hills (June 29); Edgewood Country Club (July 7); Tam O'Shanter Country Club (July 28); and Country Club of Detroit (Sept. 8).

Ex-Tiger Scout Dies

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Funeral service will be held here Thursday for Pat Donohue, 81, a Detroit Tiger scout who died Tuesday after a lengthy illness. Donohue was a player, umpire and scout during his 64-year career.

Falcon, Avon, Lake Orion 5s All Defeated

Once-Beaten Cousino Tops Yellow Jackets; Fitz Downs Rochester

The results last night didn't confirm the coaches' preseason forecast for the Oakland A League.

Before the campaign began, the cage mentors generally felt the league would have its best balance in years; but last night none of the four games was decided by less than 10 points.

The biggest margins saw Warren Cousino topping Avondale, 72-48, and Warren Fitzgerald beating Rochester, 59-42. Lake Orion was a 79-66 loser to Clawson.

The Troy Colts defeated Madison, 60-50, in the closest game.

Avondale, whose two worse defeats have come against once-beaten Cousino, was within striking distance of the Patriots with six minutes to play, but the visitors found their shooting touch and pulled away.

EARLY LEAD

Gordie Tebo's 11 points helped Cousino to an early 12-point lead, but underclassmen Lee Saunders, Archie Anderson and Bob Burt kept Avondale in the game in the middle stanzas.

Rochester's Falcons showed the effects of last Friday's double-overtime upset loss to Madison with a poor performance at Fitzgerald.

Neither team was impressive but the host Spartans made fewer mistakes and more field goals. John Pahoski had 17 markers in the first half for the winners.

Only Dan Ludwick showed spark for the visiting Falcons. He hustled his way to 14 points to lead the Rochester scoring. Both Rochester and Avondale, which will visit Madison tomorrow night, are 5-5 and on the verge of elimination from the title race.

★ ★ ★

Lake Orion's George Elias played the younger Dragons last night looking to next season and they responded with the team's best offensive total of the season.

Northern, Central Matmen Battle to 20-20 Deadlock

After dropping the first four matches, Pontiac Central came on to take six of the final eight bouts to tie Pontiac Northern's wrestling team, 20-20, last night.

★ ★ ★

The deadlock kept the two schools tied at 200 points apiece in their battle for the All Sports Trophy, given to the team that amasses the most points in all sports during the season.

PNH wrestled without two of its top performers — Bruce Tippin (145 pounds), who was ill, and Troy Bell (heavyweight), recovering from an injury.

Central trailed, 20-11, going into the final three bouts, but the squad came up with decisions in those three to tie the score.

★ ★ ★

PCH's James Bryant (103 pounds) suffered an apparent injury when he bumped heads and forefeited the match with Mike Hester. He was taken to the St. Joseph Hospital where he was released following an examination.

In another prep match, Hazel Park ran its season record to 11-0 with a 25-18 victory over Roseville.

CHICAGO (AP) — Jessie Owens, the superb track star who ruffled Adolf Hitler by winning four gold medals in the 1936 Olympics, was fined $3,000 Tuesday in an income tax case.

Owens had entered a plea of no contest to charges that he failed to file income tax returns on $29,135 for the years of 1959 through 1962.

Judge Joseph Sam Perry cited Owens' "good influence on the community" and after 35 minutes of comment he imposed the fine of $3,000 which is payable within six months.

★ ★ ★

The maximum penalty would have been four years in prison and a $40,000 fine under the criminal charge placed by the government.

The Broncos started slow, but managed to open a 25-16 halftime lead and were never threatened.

St. Michael outscored Holly from the floor by one field goal, but the Broncos made up for it by gaining a 22-11 edge at the free throw line.

Record Deer Losses Continue on Highways

LANSING (UPI) — A record total of at least 6,052 deer were killed in Michigan highway accidents that caused an estimated $1.2 million in vehicle damage during 1965.

The state Conservation Department said the 1965 total, which compares with the 5,979 deer killed in 1964, represents the sixth consecutive year of record deer losses.

Ice Anglers Frozen Out of Action

Ice fishermen have started returning to their favorite lakes after being frozen out last weekend. Even the hardiest had second thoughts about braving the sub-zero weather.

"We didn't see a fishermen outside on the lakes Sunday," said George Bruso, Conservation Department law supervisor for the Pontiac Lake district.

"A few were in shanties, but it was too cold to be outside on the ice."

The shanty occupants reported fair to good success.

A large number of pike were taken from Walled Lake, one going 10 pounds, with late afternoon the best time. Lake Orion continues to yield several four and five-pounders.

Middle Straits is showing improvement for pike, but Lake St. Clair is slow.

Otter Lake, between Cass and Sylvan, has been the top bluegills producer. Action has picked up on Commerce. A few large bluegills are being caught at Union.

PERCH FAIR

Perch fishing is fair to poor on Lake St. Clair, good at Walled and fair on Orchard. Wigglers fished in about 15 feet of water has proved good medicine on Union.

Crappies of good size continue to draw anglers to Kent Lake for night fishing with small minnows and spoons.

Hunters weren't any more active than fishermen last weekend. It was too cold for good hound work.

Rabbit hunters have reported fair results. The northwest section of Oakland County appears to be producing the most bunnies. Fox hunters report very good to excellent success.

TOURNAMENT ENTRY — Reginald Rice, 2950 Middle Belt, West Bloomfield Township, is shown with the 47-pound sailfish he entered in the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament. He fished out of North Miami Beach.

Budget Includes Additional Fees

Increases in fishing license and park admission fees are included in Gov. George Romney's proposed $27.2 million budget for the Conservation Department.

The increases would help offset a $4 million hike from last year in the recommended budget.

Democrats, who control the legislatures, are expected to kill all of Republican Romney's budget proposals and introduce a set of figures for the state under their banner.

Romney has recommended an increase from $2 to $3 in the fishing license fee. This license also would be required for fishing the Great Lakes. Democrats are expected to propose that Great Lakes sport fishermen must be licensed.

No license is currently needed to fish the Great Lakes.

Also suggested by the governor was a raise in the parks admission fee from 50 cents to $1 a day and from $2 to $3 a season.

The Democratic budget is expected to be similar to Romney's concerning operation of the Conservation Department.

NEW PROGRAMS

Romney said an increase of $2.5 million is required to continue existing levels of service and about $1.4 million is needed for new and improved programs.

The state must step up water pollution control, the governor said.

A major recommendation would make $1 million available to local units of government to supplement federal funds available for the construction of sewage treatment plants.

He called for the spending of $87,000, which together with existing state funds, would provide $280,000 for a water resources planning program.

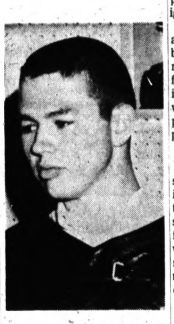
* * *

He asked for $100,000 to start topographic mapping of the state in an effort to conserve present water resources.

A $5.2 million parks acquisition and development program was recommended. Romney said $1 million would come from a $10 million bond issue previously approved, $2.3 million from the general fund, $900,000 from an increase in camp and park entrance fees and $1 million from federal funds.

Romney proposed a $190,000 increase to improve the fish management program and $40,000 for additional game research, with the emphasis on deer.

Other natural resources items proposed included $42,000 to assist communities in planning for their recreation needs, $60,000 to provide additional guard protection at state parks and $38,000 more for promoting the state's recreation facilities.



AIR FORCE GUNNER — John Meiers, 20 E. Hamlin, Avon Township, has completed basic training with the Air Force and has been assigned to the Marksmanship school for a tryout with the USAF International Rifle team. He has won Michigan and Ohio state small-bore rifle championships.

Deer Hearing Slated Feb. 10

Legislators Reserve Lansing Center

LANSING (AP) — The House Conservation Committee has announced plans for a public hearing on the deer problem and a tour of northern Michigan's deer range.

Rep. Joseph Snyder, D-St. Clair Shores, said his committee will conduct the hearing Feb. 10 at the Lansing Civic Center.

* * *

Committee members and other legislators will tour northern Michigan deer yards March 11-12 to check conditions there.

"These two events will provide our committee with a solid basis for intelligent action on this deer issue that so vitally concerns us and all the people of Michigan," Snyder said.

Snyder said his committee has heard a presentation from the Conservation Department on the basic facts about the deer herd and the 1965 hunting season.

Fishing License Sales Decline Appears at End

Michigan's 10-year skid in fishing license sales may have come to a halt in 1965.

With license returns still coming in, latest totals for last year are ahead of the 1964 pace in all fishing sale categories but one.

* * *

Here, as they stood at the end of December 1964 and 1965, are Michigan's fishing license sales. The first figure under each heading is for last year; those in parentheses are for 1964.

Resident fish, 696,418 (682,869); trout stamps, 186,689 (179,718); temporary nonresident fish, 70,164 (70,781), and annual nonresident fish, 108,861 (105,479).

Spawning Areas Sought

Plan Pike Projects

The Conservation Department has drawn up a new plan to spur development of northern pike spawning marshes in Michigan.

Under updated guidelines aimed at increasing pike numbers which have declined in many parts of the state, largely for the lack of adequate spawning grounds, the department will work to boost natural pike production through a three-pronged program.

* * *

Depending upon the relative sizes of lakes and pike spawning areas to be developed on them, the department will assume complete responsibility for these projects, cooperate with local groups on a cost-sharing basis, or provide technical advice for community conservation activities.

Basically, the bigger the pike project, the more the department will participate.

For example, on major-sized public lakes, the department will go the full route on its own by acquiring, developing and operating spawning areas for pike.

Qualifying for all-out participation will be suitable lakes of these sizes: Over 1,000 acres in the Upper Peninsula; over 800 acres in the northern Lower Peninsula; and over 400 acres in Southern Michigan.

SLIDING SCALE

The sliding scale on acreage for major-sized lakes allows for regional differences in availability of water frontage and suitable marshes. Lakeland areas are generally harder to come by in the southernmost region.

Under the next category of pike projects involving moderate-sized lakes with public access, the department will split the costs of marsh acquisition and development with local units of government, communities, lake associations, sportsmen's clubs and service groups.

Lakes eligible for cost-sharing improvements range from 40 to 1,000 acres above the Straits; 40 to 800 acres in the northern Lower Peninsula; and 40 to 400 acres in the lower third of the state.

The "how to's" for carrying out these cooperative projects will work something like this:

Local communities or groups will be counted on to provide needed lands as their part of the cost-sharing arrangement. The department will then underwrite the expense of land surveys, engineering, and construction.

On smaller lakes with public access — those between 10 and 40 acres — the Department will provide technical advice and brood stock pike to local groups which hope to develop pike spawning projects.

Plans call for balancing pike developments among the three regions of the state.

Terrell Kayoed by N.Y. Commission

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight challenger Ernie Terrell says he's clean and wants to meet champion Cassius Clay in Chicago.

Terrell, who was denied a license to fight Clay in a New York City championship bout, claims he has completely rid himself of any association with Bernie Glickman.

* * *

Because of Glickman, the New York State Athletic Commission refused Terrell a license last Friday.

Glickman, described by the New York commission as detrimental to boxing because of his admitted association with underworld figures, has been instrumental in helping Terrell's night club appearances.

STRUMS GUITAR

In addition to boxing, Terrell also strums the guitar and does a song and dance routine.

Terrell claims Glickman has been his show business agent only and helped boost his act from $600 a week to $3,500 a week and possibly $5,000.

* * *

Terrell's hopes of meeting Clay in a title fight stem from his victory over Canadian George Chuvalo.

"I've been clean in boxing my whole career," claims Terrell, "and I'm my own manager since I paid $20,000 for my contract from Julie Isaacson on the receipts from the Chuvalo fight."

* * *

In an affidavit filed with the New York commission, Terrell avowed Glickman aided him only in show business and now "he is with me no more in any capacity."

By JACOBY AND SON

The Jacobys discuss responses to weak two bids today.

Jim: "It is possible to build up very complicated methods of responding to and rebidding weak two bids but it seems that the simple one in which the two no-trump response is forcing, the raise an invitation to the opener to go on to game, and the bid of a new suit to play it there, works out very well."

JACOBY

Oswald: "This is easy to learn. The complication comes in the rebid after the forcing two no-trump response. The simplest way is that opener rebids his suit to show a minimum type two bid and some other suit to show a good weak two bid."

Jim: "Today's hand shows how to get to a slam this way. South has a sound weak two spades. North's first impulse is to jump to game and forget about a slam but there is some slight slam chance and North sees no harm in exploring possibilities. He responds two no-trump for this reason."

Oswald: "South rather likes his weak two bid and rebids three clubs. This shows that his hand is nearer the upper range and indicates that club strength is a feature of his hand. Of course this club strength might only be the king. Fine if it happens to be ace and king."

Jim: "This encouragement is all North needs. He checks for aces by means of Blackwood and continues to the slam."

Oswald: "It would take very bad breaks to defeat this slam. With the actual good breaks, it turns out to be a laydown."

Descendant of Revere Rides Car Through Boston Streets

BOSTON (AP) — "Listen my children and you shall hear . . ." about the Paul Revere who hates horses.

Paul Revere Jr., great-great-great-grandson of the midnight rider, travels by automobile — about 150 miles a day — in his job as a salesman.

★ ★ ★

The 34-year-old descendant of the man who warned the patriots at Lexington in 1775 that the British were coming to destroy their supplies at Concord says there always is skepticism when he's introduced to someone.

★ ★ ★

"They say, 'Are you kidding?' when they hear the name and then ask, 'Where's your horse?'

DISLIKES HORSES

"That may account of my dislike of horses," Revere said good-humoredly in an interview. He is proud of the Revere tradition, however.

Revere, a sales engineer with a degree from Bowdoin College in Maine, thinks of his famous forebear as "quite a character, a very industrious man. His industry has been passed on in the family."

★ ★ ★

Revere lives in suburban Acton, near Concord, with his wife and two children, a son, Paul III, 4, and daughter, Avery, 6.

★ ★ ★

The modern Revere didn't have a horse in the Army either. He was a corporal assigned to a machine gun in the infantry.

NOT TRADITIONAL

Not all of the patriot's traits have been inherited, he says.

"No one in the family produced 16 children. That definitely wasn't passed on." Only eight of Paul Revere's 16 children grew to adulthood.

★ ★ ★

Paul Jr. travels extensively in eastern New England, selling fabricated copper, brass and aluminum to industries.

He is employed by Revere Copper & Brass Co., a firm the first Paul Revere founded in 1801.

"The ownership has gone from the family, but the memory lingers on," he says.

The midnight rider was a silversmith by trade and his skilled craftsmanship became widely recognized.

★ ★ ★

He also cast bronze cannon for the Colonial army and was the first to introduce copper rolling in this country.

Paul Revere Jr. acknowledges that a good deal of what people know of his forebear's ride to Concord on "the 18th of April in '75" was the result of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's famous poem.

★ ★ ★

"For one thing he never did get to Concord. He got captured.

"I met Esther Forbes (Revere's biographer) in college and she said he had a good press agent in Longfellow."

PAUL REVERE ANCESTORS — Paul Revere Jr., great-great-great-grandson of the midnight rider, and two of his children look over a cradle on their visit to the Paul Revere house in Boston's historical North End. Unlike his famous ancestor, Paul Jr. travels by car—not horse—on his sales job. The children are Paul II, 4½, and Avery, 6.

Bat Radar May Be Key to Insect Control

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON — Bat sonar — the means blind bats use to find their way around — may provide a key to new and safe methods of insect control, two government researchers reported today.

The idea stems from the fact that bats emit high-pitched chirps and use the echoes not only to navigate but also to locate and track insects for food.

It has been found by other scientists, the researchers said, that moths get panicky and fly away from a given area when they hear a bat's ultrasonic chirping — or artificially produced sounds imitating it.

As a result, they told a national symposium on pest control sponsored by the National Academy of Sciences, field studies are under way in the United States and Canada to evaluate the method for use in protecting crops from certain insects.

TWO EXPERTS

The account was given by Prof. Stuart O. Nelson, a U.S. Department of Agriculture researcher stationed at the University of Alabama, and Dr. John Seubert of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Laurel, Md.

It was one of the highlights of a report in which they said that various forms of electromagnetic energy — such as radio waves — as well as sonic and ultrasonic energy may offer new methods for control of some pests.

"Such possibilities have received more attention in the last few years because of increased concern about effects of pesticide residues on human and animal health," they said.

They added that experiments in Ontario, Canada, already have shown that "broadcasts of bat-like ultrasound over a plot of sweet corn reduced infestation by the European corn borer by greater than 50 per cent."

Utah Grocers Slash Prices

Few Signs of Letup in Two-Month Battle

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The two-month-old battle of the market basket for $285 million worth of Utah's annual retail grocery trade brought charges today of failure to enforce the state's fair trade law.

A price slashing contest involving an estimated 125 to 160 metropolitan food stores has continued since December, with few signs of a letup.

★ ★ ★

Housewives have saved as much as 30 cents on shortening, 15 cents on detergents and 10 to 15 cents per pound on meat. Everyday prices have been cut from 2 or 3 per cent to 10 per cent on other staples such as coffee, cereal, flour, sugar and baby food.

★ ★ ★

"The cutting is still on," said Bob Nelson, owner of a large Salt Lake City discount food store. "Prices are still way below what it takes to be a healthy situation. Most staples are at cost or 4 per cent below:

LAW THREATENED

The cutting has threatened Utah's "6 per cent law" with a State Supreme Court test. The law bans prices that cut profit below 6¾ per cent of cost to wholesalers.

★ ★ ★

Nelson said officials have failed to enforce the law — passed in 1937 — for the past 20 years.

★ ★ ★

"They should test the law, enforce it, or take it off the books," said Nelson.

Vern Brazell, executive secretary of the Utah Retail Grocers Association, joined the call for enforcement. "We want the law," he said, "but we want it enforced."

EXPRESS FEAR

Other grocers have expressed fear that a long price war could leave the entire market in the hands of large grocery chains.

★ ★ ★

Dale Jones, member of the policy committee of the Independent Grocer Association said: "The guy with the deep pocket is the guy who's still going to be here when the smoke clears away."

★ ★ ★

The Utah Trade Commission said in early December the attorney general's office was preparing cease and desist orders. But Trade Commissioner Frank Wilkins now says the orders won't be issued until the State Supreme Court rules on the law.

★ ★ ★

Wilkins and Atty. Gen. Phil Hansen agree that the law is being broken. But a spokesman for Hansen said the attorney general is having trouble initiating a suit.

Touring Entertainer Carries GIs Voices Home on Tape

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — "Honey, you know how I miss you, especially at this time of year. keep your fingers crossed; it's just eight more months. By the end of August I'll be home."

THOMAS

This message, in the words of an American soldier in Viet Nam, will be heard by his wife this week, thanks to singer Jack Jones. Last week Jones finished processing several dozen taped messages he recorded with GI's on his recent trip to the battle zones with the Bob Hope troupe.

"I felt inadequate as a male entertainer going over there with five beauties," said Jones, who accompanied Carroll Baker, Joey Heatherton, Anita Bryant, Kaye Stevens and Miss U.S.A. "I tried to think of some extra contribution I could make.

★ ★ ★

"After every show, I went among the soldiers and asked them to put on tape the name and address of the folks back home and then a message for them.

"The boys responded wonderfully. Some of them closed their eyes and said, 'I love you, sweetheart,' just as if they were talking to their wives."

Back here, Jones put the messages on three-inch reels and mailed them to the next of kin. He is recommending the device to other entertainers going to Viet Nam.

Jones is anxious to go back. Even a month afterward, his voice rises with emotion as he talks about the experience.

★ ★ ★

"You can't realize what it's like until you're over there facing 20,000 guys who are far from home," said he.

The singer had qualms about how he would be received by the service audiences. Except for comics Jerry Colonna and Peter Leeds, male entertainers seldom go along with Hope. The reasoning is that American boys in far-off lands would be more interested in viewing pretty girls.

GOOD RECEPTION

"I was afraid I'd bomb, but the reception was great," said Jones.

Jones, who is 28, plans to return to Viet Nam, one way or another. One way might be in uniform; he is a member of the Air Force Reserve. If he goes as an entertainer, he would like to return with a small troupe and visit outposts that seldom see entertainers.

Harvard vs. Yale

Coed Cook Convinces

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — A 19-year-old Radcliffe coed who runs the Harvard Crimson has convinced her skeptical Yale counterpart she is as much at home in the kitchen as the print shop.

But John Rothchild, managing editor of the Yale Daily News, is withholding judgment on Linda McVeigh's femininity" until after the two meet Friday for a game of jacks.

Rothchild grudgingly admitted last night that Linda cooked "quite well" after dining on her specialty, Viennese veal, in a cooperative Radcliffe dormitory.

"This is all right," Rothchild said as Linda spread a table of veal en casserole, string beans, flat noodles, salad greens with olive oil and milk, homemade orange cake and coffee. Score one for Linda.

Miss McVeigh, who became the first female managing editor of the 93-year-old Harvard undergraduate newspaper earlier this year- conceded she had used instant coffee and frozen string beans in preparing the dinner.

NOT CANNED

"But at least the beans weren't canned," she said.

Although Linda appeared the winner in the first round of the battle of the editors, the second round—and perhaps the most difficult—looks just ahead.

At 2 p.m. Friday, Rothchild and Linda play jacks in the board room of the Yale Daily News in New Haven, Conn.

★ ★ ★

Rothchild challenged the blue-eyed blonde from Anaheim, Calif., to the game of jacks shortly after her election as Crimson managing editor.

SENT CHALLENGE

Calling the election part of "the feminine conspiracy to undermine maleness," the 20-year-old junior from St. Petersburg, Fla., said he was confident he would win out in "the area so much neglected by modern women, femininity."

Linda accepted the challenge and in turn invited her adversary to a home-cooked meal.

Sanity Hearing Motion Denied

Attorney for 'Sniper' Opposed the Request

Circuit Judge Philip Pratt yesterday denied a motion for a new sanity hearing for Royal Oak's alleged "phantom sniper," Gary Addison Taylor.

The hearing was requested by Asst. Prosecutor Ronald E. Covault, but opposed by Taylor's attorney Gilbert Davis.

Taylor will now face preliminary court examination at 9 a.m. Monday before Bloomfield Hills Municipal Judge Jack Baldwin on a nine-year-old charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

Taylor was released last month from Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane. Authorities there say he is capable now of assisting in his own defense.

★ ★ ★

He is being held in the Oakland County Jail in lieu of $50,000 cash bond or $100,000 in surety bonds.

Judge Baldwin has taken under advisement a motion from Davis to reduce Taylor's bond to $5,000.

Publisher Dies of Pneumonia

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Joseph R. Knowland — newspaper publisher, political reformer and conservationist — died of pneumonia Tuesday at his home in suburban Piedmont. He was 92.

Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune, served five terms in the U.S. House of Representatives, two terms in the California Assembly and one in the State Senate.

★ ★ ★

He also had been president of the California Park Commission, the State Automobile Association and the State Chamber of Commerce.

From 1924 to 1952, he was an Associated Press director and was one of those instrumental in the introduction by that organization of Wirephoto.

★ ★ ★

Out of his fight against graft and corruption in Alameda County came Knowland's long-time friendship with Earl Warren, now Chief Justice of the United States. Warren's political career started as district attorney during that campaign and continued through the California governorship to the nation's highest court.

Juvenile Court Order Came a Little Too Late

REDLANDS, Calif. (UPI) — Charles H. Breyer told Municipal Court Clerk Mildred Gardener yesterday he had received a letter from the San Bernardino County Juvenile Court ordering him to appear with one of his parents for making an illegal turn.

Breyer, 85, a retired Navy commander, explained he already had paid a $12 fine for the traffic violation.

Says Bees, Scorpions Cure Rheumatism Pain

MURCIA, Spain (UPI) — An 82-year-old farmer claims he cures his rheumatism by having bees and scorpions bite him.

Juan Marin Real noticed that when he was bitten by a bee one day, the pain in his arm caused by rheumatism went away. He now gets bitten by as many as 20 bees, depending on how much pain he has. When he cannot get any bees, he digs up scorpions and uses them.

Bare Facts Collected

Short Story Proves Trashy

LONDON (AP) — Sidney Thompson is short, bald, and a garbage collector.

This combination of circumstances led him to the high court yesterday claiming damages from the town council in Dagenham, an East London suburb.

He explained that being small, his head came only level with the back of the garbage truck And being bald, he had no protection when garbage fell from the truck on to his head.

Thompson said the falling garbage caused a rash on his pate and he was no longer able to work. He said the council should have given him a cap.

★ ★ ★

Judge Joscelyn Phillimore dismissed the complaint, commenting: "Not to mince words, much of the evidence was rubbish."

Piggins Delves Deeper Into Detroit Police Dept.

DETROIT (AP) — Circuit Judge Edward S. Piggins is delving further as a one-man grand jury into operations of the Detroit Police Department.

Cavanagh is a Democrat; Piggins a Republican, but each was elected on a nonpartisan ballot.

NOT ADVISED

Besides vice bureau work records those of the Central and Livernois precincts also were taken. Police Commissioner Ray Girardin said he was not advised of Piggins' plans in advance.

The most Cavanagh would say of his two-hour luncheon with Piggins in the University Club was that "we didn't talk about the weather."

Piggins would say only that the two "had a very fine, friendly conversation" and had agreed to meet again if and when other meetings are desirable.

Presiding Circuit Judge Thomas J. Murphy advised Cavanagh in effect Tuesday that if he wished to lay a complaint against Piggins it should be with the State Supreme Court.

Cavanagh declined to say whether he might take his complaint to Lansing.

SEND AFFIDAVITT

The mayor sent all Wayne County circuit judges an affidavit Monday by Detroit Police Sgt. Bernard Mullins.

The latter said a State Police aid to Piggins, Cpl. George Smith, had approached him in December and urged that Mullins give the grand juror "some information that would allow them to extend their inquiry into the City of Detroit regarding any wrongdoing on the part of Mayor Cavanagh or the Detroit Police Department."

★ ★ ★

Mullins swore Smith told him Piggins "wants a piece of Cavanagh in the worst way" and that Piggins' eagerness was so great he "could taste it."

Piggins came to Smith's defense as "a very fine, high-type, unassuming, honest police officer" and said Mullins' affidavit regarding Cavanagh or the Police Department was "absolutely without foundation."

Mullins said he would stand behind his statement "before God and country," and insisted everything he had said was true.

Piggins summoned Mullins as a grand jury witness for Thursday and made his affidavit a part of the grand jury's formal record.

Trading Fairly Active

Mart Decline at Slower Pace

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market decline continued today but at a slower pace and with losses not nearly as large as yesterday's. Trading was fairly active early this afternoon.

The decline on average was less than a quarter of the size of yesterday's drop and there were scattered gains as well as many stocks which held unchanged.

The uncertainties of the military and economic situation were still factors in Wall Street and at the same time there were analysts who believed the market was due for a sizable correction of the big advance which brought it close to the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

Losses of fractions to a point prevailed among chemicals, rails, nonferrous metals, aerospace issues and rubbers. Losses were wider among some of the more volatile stocks and airlines.

AVERAGE DOWN

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .7 at 362.6 with industrials off .7, rails off .9 and utilities off .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.18 at 972.71.

★ ★ ★

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was active. Edo Corp. "A" was up about 2 while 1-point gains were made by O'Kiep Copper and Solitron Devices.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged in light trading.

Firms in $100-Million Bracket

Four Join Profit Club

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — Soaring profits have put four new members into the $100 million club in recent days. There are now at least 37 U.S. corporations which made that much or more in 1965.

DAWSON

With two exceptions, these biggest earners increased their net income after taxes to climb to still dizzier profit heights.

General Motors copped a status of its own as the first corporation to make more than $2 billion in one year. It's 1965 profit of $2.1 billion topped 1964 by 23 per cent.

Two others made more than $1 billion each. American Telephone & Telegraph rose to $1.8 billion from $1.6 billion. Jersey Standard Oil dropped 1.5 per cent below 1965, but still cleared $1.04 billion, with the fourth quarter showing up better than the first months of the year.

4 NEWCOMERS

The four newcomers so far are: Union Oil of California, Westinghouse Electric, Cities Service, and Kennecott Copper. A fifth, Dow Chemical, seems likely to join on the strength of its first half results. Profits of the new comers were in the $101 million to $106 million range.

Fourth place in the profits standings apparently was retained by Texaco Oil with $636.7 million in profits, up from $577.4 million the year before. Ford Motor, yet to report 1965 figures, seems sure of at least fifth place on the strength of its 35 per cent increase in the earlier quarters of the year. In 1964 it cleared $506 million.

Du Pont and Jersey Standard were the only corporations in the club to make less in 1965 than in 1964. The giant chemical firm dropped to $407 million from $471 million, but the decline was entirely due to loss of General Motors dividends which it collected in 1964 on stock it has since disposed of under court order.

A 10 per cent profit gain by International Business Machines should put it in sixth place with $477 million. Gulf Oil rose 10 per cent to $427 million.

In the over $300 million class are California Standard Oil and Socony Mobil, and probably Sears, Roebuck on strength of showings earlier in the year.

FIRST TIME

Three companies topped $200 million for the first time: Eastman Kodak, up 35 per cent, Shell Oil and Indiana Standard Oil. Others making more than $200 million are: U.S. Steel, up 16 per cent; General Electric, and Chrysler.

Other companies still in the $100 million club by virtue of figures announced for all 1965 or by trends set at the nine months mark are: Western Electric, Bethlehem Steel, General Telephone & Electronics, Caterpillar Tractor, Proctor & Gamble; R. J. Reynolds Tobacco, Monsanto, Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing; Goodyear Tire & Rubber and Continental Oil.

Three electric utilities already in the club are Pacific Gas & Electric with $140 million, Consolidated Edison with $112 million, and Commonwealth Edison with $108 million.

Earnings reports in coming weeks may add new members. But the big profit gains of big business give the measure of the economic prosperity of 1965 that should delight an army of corporate shareholders.

Denies Trying to Control AMC

Stockholder Meeting Hears Industrialist

DETROIT AP) — Detroit industrialist - Sportsman Robert B. Evans, who bought over 200,000 shares of American Motors stock in recent days, said today "I have absolutely no intention of trying to take over the company."

★ ★ ★

The 59 - year - old millionaire industrialist made his comment as he arrived for AMC's annual stockholders meeting today.

"I have some very definite ideas about how the company should be run, but I have no plans to ask for a seat on the board of directors at this time," he said.

DRAWS NEWSMEN

Evans' arrival drew a flock of newsmen who bombarded him with questions as to his reason for the heavy purchases in AMC stock.

Evans disclosed that he met within the past few days with AMC president Roy Abernethy and board chairman Richard Cross.

"Someone, I don't remember who, asked if I would be interested in a seat on the board, and I replied that I thought I could contribute something to the company," he said.

★ ★ ★

Evans described AMC as "a company that is sound financially — one that is going to take off one of these days, one that has great business potential."

Evans conceded American Motors has had troubles in the auto sales market, but said its basic car line and leadership are sound.

"Don't forget that Chrysler Corp. made a recovery almost overnight and there is no reason why AMC could not do the same," he said.

'SOLID FOUNDATION'

Asked if he would suggest diversifying AMC's line, perhaps getting into the field of boat building which is one of his hobbies, he said, "We have a very solid foundation, and there is no need to enlarge it. This company can go ahead."

Evans then headed into the stockholders meeting where he heard Abernethy report that AMC's net earnings and sales for the first quarter of the company's current fiscal year ran behind those of the comparable part of last year.

★ ★ ★

The stockholders heard that the firm had a net profit of $4.1 million in the three months ended Dec. 31, first quarter of the company's fiscal year.

Earnings approximated 22 cents a share and represented a sharp improvement over the September quarter, when AMC reported a loss of $13.0 million.

For the same period of 1964, however, the company had a profit of $9.5 million or 50 cents a share.

LBJ Asks Illiteracy, Illness War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson asked Congress today for a $524-million international health and education program "to rid mankind of the slavery of ignorance and the scourge of disease."

★ ★ ★

"We bear a special role in this liberating mission," Johnson said in a special message to the House and Senate.

"Our resources will be wasted in defending freedom's frontiers if we neglect the spirit that makes men want to be free."

The special message was a follow-up to the request Johnson sent the lawmakers yesterday for $3.4 billion in military and economic assistance for the fiscal year 1967, beginning July 1.

★ ★ ★

The health and education aid message includes a 50 per cent increase in education aid, raising it to an annual level of more than $200 million. It also asks a two-thirds increase in health programs to more than $150 million.

EXCHANGE CORPS

Johnson's education proposals ranged from establishment of an "Exchange Peace Corps" with an initial goal of 5,000 foreign volunteers who would serve in this country, to expanded U.S. aid for promoting construction of facilities and development of techniques to fight illiteracy throughout the world.

★ ★ ★

His suggestions for a worldwide health program ran from eradication of malaria within 10 years and elimination of smallpox by 1975, to an enlarged cooperation in efforts to deal with the worsening problem of population growth.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

New Masks Help Cold Air 'Prisoners'

Are you a cold air prisoner? If so, exposure to an icy blast causes you to be short of breath and to cough.

As a result, you take great pains to avoid such exposure.

BRANDSTADT

A recent study of persons with angina pectoris showed that a cold blast caused changes in their electocardiograms which were not seen in normal perons who were similarly exposed.

It was then shown that exposure did not cause these changes if the cold air was not inhaled.

* * *

It was but a short step from these observations to the development of two types of protective mask to cover the nose and mouth.

One type consists of several layers of washable synthetic fibers. It is cheap and can be discarded after several rinsings.

The other type is a nondisposable mask made of washable cloth.

It has the advantage that it heats the inhaled air to about 65 degrees by means of a small rechargeable battery.

* * *

Use of these masks will not cure the underlying condition (angina pectoris, asthma, emphysema or allergy to cold) but it does eliminate the suffering associated with inhaling cold air and reduces the chances of an acute attack of chest pain or respiratory distress when you are outdoors in the winter.

A BLESSING

This has been a blessing to policemen, mail carriers, construction workers and others for whom winter meant many days of enforced invalidism.

It has also been a boon to sports-loving sufferers who can now go to football games, sit in duck blinds or go hunting in the woods or even the coldest days.

Although wearing such a mask may embarrass a person who doesn't like to be conspicuous, this feeling will disappear as the wearing of these masks becomes more common, as it is bound to do.

Witness the fact that most people who must wear hearing aids no longer make any attempt to conceal them.

The added comfort far outweighs such minor considerations.

Q — My sister has myelofibrosis. What causes it and what treatment is recommended?

A — In myelofibrosis there is an irregular replacement of bone marrow with fibrous or bony tissue. The cause is unknown.

Since the marrow plays an important part in the production of red blood cells, a progressive anemia usually results.

The only treatment is to try to stimulate the blood-forming organs and to give transfusions when needed.

Bombing Decision Sad for LBJ, U.S.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

From the runway of Dan Nang, from Thailand and from huge carriers at sea, U.S. fighter-bombers have resumed their attacks on North Viet Nam after a lull of more than a month.

NEWSOM

It was a sad decision that President Johnson had finally reached. And a sad one too for the American people faced now with a struggle of indeterminate length and the practical certainty that American involvement from the beginning in 1954 with only a handful of military advisers now easily can reach a half-million or more.

The beginning of 1965 saw U. S. dollar costs estimated at about one million per day. The beginning of 1966 sees the daily cost in ammunition alone at $10 million.

This correspondent just has completed a trip extending from coast to coast.

* * *

In conversations along the way I found much the same divisions as those now affecting Washington, and the feeling that this was a more unfair war because it seemed to come from nowhere.

DEBATE ILL-TIMED

The debate raging around presidential decisions in Viet Nam is fortunate both because it is late and because it can lead North Viet Nam and its Communist allies into a belief that a divided United States soon must abandon its efforts.

As the United States pressed its peace campaign, the difficulties of reaching even a beginning to negotiations also became more apparent.

With whom should the United States negotiate? Hanoi, the Communist - dominated national liberation front of South Viet Nam, Peking or even Moscow?

Washington holds to the view that even though the National Liberation Front may take part, the chief negotiator must be Hanoi.

DIRECTED FROM NORTH

This view contends that the war is directed from the north and that the Liberation Front which came into being in 1960 simply is a Hanoi tool.

Hanoi insists that the chief negotiator must be the Liberation Front.

This would require the United States to admit that the struggle in South Viet Nam actually is a civil war in which the U.S. had no business.

* * *

This is a Communist claim that also has been supported by France, the former colonial power which ruled all of Indo-China.

* * *

Compounding the difficulties are differences within the Communist world itself.

Both Moscow and Peking have prestige at stake in Viet Nam.

Of the two, Moscow is deemed the most likely to favor negotiations. But in her struggle with Peking for influence in Asia she dare not surrender her revolutionary role.

* * *

Peking, so far has been more than willing to press the war down to the last Vietnamese. But at stake also is the Mao theory that a so-called people's war must triumph over the most modern weapons.

OBVIOUS MOVE

Red China's most obvious next move would be to stir an uprising in Thailand.

* * *

But whatever her next move, Red China remains the biggest and most dangerous question mark.

Crash Plan to Cut Collision Corners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A crash program to eliminate crash corners has been undertaken by the Dade Citizens Safety Council and the Metro Traffic Department.

Five intersections with high accident records have been marked with large "Crash Corner" signs, with the world "Crash" spelled out in eye-catching red letters.

After motorists become sufficiently aware of the hazardous crossings to make the label a misnomer, the safety campaigners will move the signs to five more accident-prone areas.

Farmer Told to Hold Up on Benefits

EAST LANSING (AP) — The head of Michigan State University's Rural Manpower Center advised Tuesday that farmers not buy workmen's Compensation insurance although the deadline is just three months away.

"The rate structure is being debated by insurance companies and a legislative committee that is concerned with the impending high cost of such coverage," Daniel Sturt told a Farmers' Week audience.

* * *

Under legislation passed last year, many farmers must bring their employes under workmen's compensation coverage by May 1.

The House and Senate Labor Committees, however, have asked the deadline be delayed one year.

TRAIN WORKERS

Sturt spoke at a panel on farm labor. He advised Michigan farmers, faced with a shortage of laborers, spend more time on training and other management practices designed to make the fewer workers more efficient.

Andrew Kramarz of the Michigan Employment Security Commission said the problem is how to find enough laborers while waiting for mechanization to solve labor problems.

* * *

"The man you hired in the past may not have been top notch labor, but he's going to look much better this coming season than you think he is," Kramarz said.

He urged farmers to start contacting former workers and, if they still need more help, to check local high schools and churches for young persons willing to take farm jobs.

ADDITIONAL HELP

Former workers may be able to bring additional help, he said, and public and private employment agencies offer assistance.

Sturt said attempts to hire cheap labor may turn out to be expensive, in terms of damage to expensive equipment.

Earlier, Gov. George Romney asked the U. S. Labor Department to outline its plans immediately for the use of foreign labor for the 1966 Michigan harvest season.

* * *

He asked for a policy statement "to prevent the costly confusion we experienced last year."

SIGHT SAVER — The nuclear age brings special problems in vision protection for combat men. New goggles protect airmen from flash blindness by instantly and automatically darkening with the flash of a nuclear explosion. A photo sensor in the helmet releases a dark fluid, flooding the narrow space between front and rear lenses.

Board May Air School Project

The Waterford Township Board of Education tomorrow night is expected to take action on a proposed five-year, $13-million school building program.

Proposed by a citizens' advisory committee and endorsed by School Supt. Don O. Tatroe, the far-reaching project includes construction of a third high school and three new elementary school buildings.

If the board accepts the plan, a special election will be called in late March or April. The board may set a date tomorrow night.

Voters would consider borrowing a maximum $13 million and extending the current 15-mill operating levy to 16 mills by reducing the debt service millage from 8 to 7.

Works for 45 Years at Temporary Job

NEW YORK (AP) — Irving J. Feinberg probably holds the record for the longest "temporary" employment in the city's history.

He took a temporary job with the health department as an architectural draftsman in 1917 while looking around for something else after his own firm folded.

"But the job just worked into me, so I stuck it out," the 75-year-old Feinberg declared as he retired after 48 years with the department.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MRS. Edward Fair, who left us 2 years ago today February 2, 1964.
You are not forgotten loved one,
Nor will you ever be;
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore.
As time goes by, we miss you more;
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
Sadly missed by husband and children.

Kim'll Be Back to Movies When X-ray Films OK Back

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Kim Novak told me in a breathy, whispery voice from Big Sur, Cal., that she's sufficiently improved from her back injury to sun-bathe in a bikini these winter afternoons and get a sun-tan. But X rays late in February will tell her when she can return to films.

WILSON

Her husband, Richard Johnson, who's been with her during her recuperation, including two months in a hospital, goes to Rome soon for a film and Kim'll stay behind for the X rays and to sell her Los Angeles home and take an apartment. "We have two places in London and two in California," she explained. Kim said her back injury will not interfere with her hopes of soon becoming a mother.

Beautiful Marjorie Battles, who's in "Cactus Flowers," was visited by her 16-year-old sister Merry, from Philadelphia. "Lauren Bacall has a teenage son," Marjorie told her sister. "Would you like to have a date with Humphrey Bogart's son?"

Unimpressed by the heritage, Merry said, "Does he have long hair?"

Skitch Henderson's wife Ruth flung him a successful surprise birthday party at Cafe Nicholson; he seemed stunned by the "Happy Birthday" singing when he entered. One screwball friend gave him a gift of one Wilkinson blade with a note, "This should last YOU a lifetime."

Some real VIPS were frothing that they couldn't get tix to "Sweet Charity" premiere. You'd be surprised Who! . . . REMEMBERED QUOTE: "It isn't so hard to live on a small salary, if you don't spend too much money trying to keep it a secret." — Anon.

EARL'S PEARLS: Jackie Vernon told why he prefers bowling to golf: "It's not as easy to lose the ball."

"Doctors are always telling you to give up smoking, drinking and going out with fast women," notes Bob Orben. "That won't do you any good — but you'll die healthier." That's earl, brother.

Sight Red Ship off Spain Coast

Spotted During Hunt for Missing H-Bomb

PALOMARES, Spain (UPI)—U.S. Navy warships kept a sharp lookout today for a Soviet trawler which was sighted near the area where the search for a missing 20-megaton H-bomb was being conducted.

The trawler pulled out of the area during the night. But sources said it never remains too long in one spot and was outside Spanish territorial waters and could not be prevented from observing the search.

Part of a two-man submarine was being flown from the United States today to help recover the missing H-bomb, believed lying in 200 fathoms of water off the southeast coast of Spain.

The submarine, named "Alvin," was to arrive at Torrejon Air Base, near Madrid, aboard two cargo planes.

★ ★ ★

A C133 Cargomaster was preparing to carry the craft's fuselage, while the conning tower was already enroute aboard a C141.

The 13-ton sub, 22 feet long, is equipped with windows, spotlights and a claw-like arm capable of retrieving objects from the ocean bottom. It can operate under water for eight hours on a battery and can descend 6,000 feet.

There has been off official comment whether the Soviet trawler was spying on the operation to recover the missing H-bomb. In the past, Soviet trawlers have been sighted frequently observing NATO naval exercises.

Official sources also refused to speculate whether Russian submarines might be operating in the area.

★ ★ ★

Two submarines were sighted off the coast of Cabo De Gata, which juts into the Mediterranean east of Almeria.

The Pentagon in Washington said no American subs were operating in the area.

There are 10 U.S. 6th Fleet ships assisting in the search along with two Spanish navy destroyers.

Michigan Ranks High in Agriculture

Be a Michigan Minuteman.

Take a minute to tell someone how mighty Michigan is in agriculture:

—It ranks tenth or higher in production of more than 20 major crops, although ranking only 22nd in land area.

—It leads the nation in the production of red tart cherries, field beans, blueberries, cucumbers for pickles, gladioli bulbs and eastern white winter wheat.

AMMUNITION FOR MICHIGAN MINUTEMEN

—It produces and sells 75 per cent of all the small fruit plants marketed within 600 miles of its borders.

RANKS SECOND

—It ranks second in the production of plums; third in apples, pears, celery and grapes; fourth in peaches; fifth in onions and carrots; sixth in sugar beets; seventh in milk; ninth in potatoes, and tenth in corn and oats.

—Its No. 1 crop in value is corn, with production attaining 110 million bushels in some years. Second to this come hay and pasture, and from these crops stem livestock and livestock products that bring two-thirds of Michigan's agricultural income.

Schools Closed in India Riots

TRIVANDRUM, India (AP) — The government closed schools and colleges in Kerala State for a week to 10 days today as food riots continued to spread through the southwest Indian state.

Police cracked down in Trivandrum, capital of Kerala, arresting six Communist workers and two student leaders. E. M. S. Nambudiripad, general secretary of India's pro-Peking Communist faction, was arrested Tuesday when he arrived to take part in the demonstrations.

★ ★ ★

The Students' Federation Action Council called on students to continue their agitation.

Clashes between stone-throwing students and police armed with clubs and tear gas were reported in several areas.

STUDENTS ATTACK

About 400 students stormed the telephone exchange in Kottayam, about 80 miles north of the capital, cutting cables and disrupting communications.

At Quilon, 40 miles northwest of Trivandrum, students stoned a passing train but were dispersed by police.

House Unit OK on GI Bill Seen

Measure Less Liberal Than Senate Version

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Veterans Committee was ready today to breathe new life into a cold war GI bill of rights of the kind that helped educate and house a generation of World War II and Korean veterans.

The committee was expected to approve a $350-million measure more than double the size of the Johnson administration's so-called "hot spot" GI bill, but less liberal than legislation passed by the Senate last year.

Committee Chairman Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., refused to predict what kind of bill his panel would approve. But top-ranking Republicans on the committee sair Teague had the votes to push out his own bill.

One GOP member said Teague probably had sufficient support to push his measure through to House passage within a week.

★ ★ ★

Teague stood fast against a resurrection of GI bill benefits until the Viet Nam war started heating up.

SINCE JANUARY '55

On Monday he introduced legislation that would benefit anyone who served six months or more after Jan. 31, 1955. That was the date the Korean War GI Bill expired, Teague's bill would have no cutoff date.

The Teague bill would provide up to 36 months — the equivalent of four college years — of education on the basis of a formula allowing one day of schooling for each day of service.

It would include training allowances of $100 a month for single veterans, $125 for veterans with one dependent and $150 for veterans with two or more dependents. Educational benefits would start June 1, 1966.

The measure also would provide housing loan guaranties on mortgages of up to $7,500 and direct loans, in areas without private financing sources, of up to $17,500. It would offer limited medical care for veterans with non-service connected ailments.

Rep. E. Ross Adair, Ind., ranking Republican member of the committee, said he would ask the committee to substitute more liberal educational benefits for Teague's plan: one and a half days of schooling for each day of service and allowances of $130, $160 and $190 for the various categories of veteran students.

Royal Oak Asked to Eye OCC Offer

A Royal Oak City commissioner has asked that the city consider selling a downtown site to Oakland Community College.

On the suggestion of Commissioner Mrs. Barbara Mitchell, the commission instructed City Manager Bruce W. Love to study the proposal and report back within four weeks.

The college two weeks ago submitted a letter indicating its interest in buying the 45-acre Elks Park in Royal Oak. OCC had obtained a $305,000 appraisal figure on this land.

Commission members then directed the city manager and city attorney to study legal aspects of the proposed park transaction.

★ ★ ★

No recommendations have yet come to the commission.

Rock 'n' Roll Band to Entertain Patients

Named to Tenure Unit

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney has appointed Donald Schoenrath of Dearborn Heights to the State Tenure Commission. He will succeed Mrs. Gladys Davis of Royal Oak, whose term expired, for a term ending Aug. 31, 1970.

Auto Safety Bills Are Introduced in Michigan Senate

LANSING (AP) — A package of auto safety bills putting new requirements on vehicles was introduced by Sen. Roger Craig Tuesday.

The Dearborn Democrat would ban cars with excessive rear end slide on curves.

★ ★ ★

Other bills would require autos to be equipped with such safety features as dual braking systems, padded dashboards, speed windshield wipers, impact absorbing steering wheels and emergency signal devices.

Cars with automatic transmissions would have to use a standard gearshift pattern.

★ ★ ★

Auto makers would have to notify both past and prospective purchasers if a defect was common to a given model of automobile.

License Plate Sales Up

LANSING (AP)—License plate sales are running ahead of last year says Secretary of State James Hare. Deadline is Feb. 28. Sales through Jan. 31 totaled 1.49 million.

FOOD FOR THRIFTY — Space between window and shutter on the Grants Pass Gun Club's building in Grants Pass, Ore., is filled with acorns stored there by woodpeckers who found a hole in the shuttter. The birds continue their work even when meetings are going on in the building.

Snow Separates Wheels and Cogs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Great Blizzard of '66 caused many hardships in the capital area, but by far the heaviest load fell on government workers.

WEST

I am not referring to the small number of federal employes who beat their way through snowdrifts and freezing temperatures to reach their offices Monday morning.

I am referring to the large number of civil servants who spent the day at home by the warm fire. My heart bled for them.

The were victims of the government's announcement Sunday evening that only essential employes needed to report for duty the next day.

In taking this emergency measure, the government avoided the mistake made during the recent New York bus and subway strike.

★ ★ ★

On that occasion, non essential workers were urged to stay home but nobody said which were nonessential.

STREETS JAMMED

As a result the streets were jammed with commuters. After objective, unbiased self-appraisal, they came to the conclusion they were esssential.

The federal government presented a repetition of that situation here by announcing that employes whose services were essential would be so notified by their superiors.

"Don't call us, we'll call you." It said.

★ ★ ★

This policy paid off in terms of keeping traffic to a minimum but it caused much suffering and anguish.

TWO CHOICES

Would you believe that 5,000 bureaucrats stayed awake all night waiting to see if their jobs were regarded as essential? Well, then, would you believe that five bureaucrats stayed awake all night waiting to see if their jobs were regarded as essential?

On Sunday night I gave a little neighborhood party to break the tedium of the snowbound weekend. The first neighbor I invited was Charlie, who works for the Census Bureau.

"I can't come," he said. "I'm expecting an important phone call."

★ ★ ★

The next morning I saw Charlie was still at home.

LUCKY MAN

"You're lucky you don't have to go to work," I said.

"There must be something wrong with my telephone," he said. "Apparently some of the calls aren't coming through.

★ ★ ★

I think it was cruel of the government to give nonessential employes the day off. A stiff upper lip can be even more painful than a lip that is frozen stiff.

Rare Reaction to Penicillin

2 Cases of Blood Cell Destruction Reported

By Science Service

BOSTON — Two rare cases of red blood cell destruction due to reaction against penicillin have been reported.

One case in Boston and another in San Francisco are described in The New England Journal of Medicine (Jan. 27).

Dr. Marilynne A. Swanson of Tufts University Blood Research Laboratory told Science Service by telephone that only about one in 5,000 persons undergoes red blood cell destruction, or hemolytic anemia.

In contrast, about one in 300 persons reacts to penicillin in the usual sensitive manner, in which rash and fever are symptoms.

★ ★ ★

Neither of the two patients died, but Dr. Swanson said it would be desirable for researchers to watch for such cases in the future.

DEVELOP IMMUNITY

Almost 90 per cent of persons taking penicillin will develop an antibody or immunity to the antibiotic, but in these two cases the penicillin coated the surface of the red blood cells, and the circulating anti-penicillin antibody "hooked" onto the cells to destroy them.

Four previous cases of hemolytic anemia have been reported with suspected relationship to penicillin, but because all had serious infections and were receiving other drugs, the exact role of penicillin has remained doubtful.

In the California report, Dr. Lawrence D. Petz and H. Hugh Fudenberg of the University of California School of Medicine repeated the penicillin dosage later when the patient was well, thus proving that it was the definite cause of hemolytic anemia. The condition can be reversed, and the patient was carefully watched to prevent danger.

★ ★

Assisting Dr. Swanson at Tufts University were Drs. Devendrathan Chanmougan and Robert S. Schwartz.

Big Drive Takes Heavy VC Toll

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist losses were reckoned today at more than 1,100 killed or captured in Operation Masher, the big allied drive in the central coastal plains, U. S. military spokesmen reported.

They called it one of the bloodiest fights of the Vietnamese war.

U.S. fighter-bombers continued the renewed air war against North Viet Nam for the third consecutive day, hitting mainly at bridges, railroad tracks, truck convoys and storage areas. Bad weather again hampered assessment of damage.

Jets from 7th Fleet carriers flew 20 combat missions and Air Force planes hit Ben Thuy, the port on the South China Sea for the city of Vinh, 160 miles south of Hanoi, for the second day in a row, spokesmen said.

U.S. air cavalrymen, South Vietnamese paratroopers and South Koreans carried Operation Masher into the ninth day in a 13-mile-square battleground around Bong Son, 290 miles northeast of Saigon. Spokesmen said the allied troops found several hundred more enemy bodies.

The spokesmen said the Communist toll has been established as 695 killed, 102 captured and 437 suspects detained. Three-fourths of the latter have been identified as Viet Cong, they said.

FIGHTING SLOWS

Fighting, however, tapered off into only an occasional fire fight, and U.S. B52s from Guam lashed the western borders of the battle zone to cut off any Communist retreat toward Cambodia.

U.S. helicopters today accidentally unleashed a barrage of 2.75-inch Zuni rockets into bivouacked 1st Cavalry troops. One American was killed and nine others wounded in the mishap.

The aerial artillery helicopters were on station preparing to attack Viet Cong targets along the coast. A plume of yellow smoke from a flare was to have been the signal marking the Communist positions for the U.S. aircraft.

A radio operator accompanying Col. Harold G. Moore, commander of the Cavalry's 3rd Brigade, accidentally dropped a smoke grenade while cutting through some brush.

The pin dropped out and the nearby U.S. troops were attacked as yellow smoke rose into the sky.

Commenting on the large find of Communist victims, a U.S. spokesman said: "It proves they are no longer able to get their bodies out as they used to do."

No report was made of allied losses in the masher operation, which began last Tuesday, but they were believed light.

Viet Talk Hope Fades in U. N.

May Lack Support on Debate Issue Alone

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States may succeed in putting its Viet Nam case before the Security Council today, but an American proposal that the council sponsor peace negotiations appeared doomed.

Jordan held the answer to whether the 15-nation council would debate the issue at all. By last night the United States had mustered only eight of the nine affirmative votes required to place the issue on the agenda.

Waleed Sadi of Jordan asked the council to postpone decision on the debate until today so his government could instruct him whether to support the U. S. request for debate on its proposal that the council sponsor preparatory talks to set up a Viet Nam peace conference.

Even if the proposal goes up for debate, opposition led by the Soviet Union and France virtually killed any chance of the United States getting the council to take a hand in a Viet Nam peace settlement.

The big power veto does not apply to procedural questions such as putting items on the agenda. But it does apply to substantive proposals such as setting up a peace parley.

SLIM HOPE

About all the United States can hope for is a chance to air its peace efforts before the council and try to lay the blame for failure of those efforts at the door of the Communists.

U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg has introduced a resolution calling on the council to arrange discussions with interested governments on holding a conference that could lead to peace in Viet Nam and all Southeast Asia.

Soviet reaction to Goldberg's opening appeal yesterday made it plain that the U.S. proposal would run into a Soviet veto, even if it mustered the nine affirmative votes needed for adoption.

Goldberg called on the council to help open a new way to peace. He defended the resumption of U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam as the only course open because of Hanoi's refusal to respond to U. S. peace overtures.

He proposed that representatives of both North and South Viet Nam be invited to take part in council deliberations.

"What is at stake here is not the United States position," Goldberg said. "We have brought the matter to the council.

Aerialist Is Injured in Detroit Fall

DETROIT (AP) — The Great Murillo, an aerialist with the Ringling Brothers Circus, never used a balancing pole or a safety net — a feat which "separates the boys from the men," a circus official said.

Luis Murillo, 32, was hospitalized in critical condition today with a fractured pelvis and head injuries received yesterday when he fell 45 feet to the sawdust floor of Detroit's State Fair Coliseum.

Murillo, a native of Santiago, Chile, and a resident of Hollywood, Calif., was performing at the annual Shrine Circus.

He was walking up a 45-degree slanted wire toward his main performing wire when he fell.

"He had only been on about three minutes," said circus producer Alexander Dobrich. "He lost his balance, that's all. He lost his balance and he fell."

DEAD SILENCE

There was a dead silence among the audience of some 8,000 immediately after Murillo plunged to the floor. Then there were a few screams.

"He landed on his side," Dobrich said. "I was standing there and he landed about five feet from me."

Murillo lay unconscious for about five minutes.

Then an animal act was brought on to fill the gap and distract the horrified crowd.

1962 MISHAP

Murillo's fall occurred just a few feet from the spot where the "Flying Wallendas' " high wire act, the "human pyramid", crashed to the ground in 1962.

Richard Faughnan, 29, and Dieter Schepp, 23, were killed when the seven-man balancing act fell.

CRASH VICTIMS TRAPPED — Workmen use a cutting torch on the side of a farm labor bus to free the bodies of some of the 19 Puerto Ricans who were killed yesterday when the bus collided with a diesel engine near Miami, Fla.

Puerto Ricans Are Victims in Florida Wreck

Crash Near Miami Is Second Worst in History of the State

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nineteen young Puerto Ricans, who came to Florida's fields to earn some extra dollars, were killed yesterday when a farm labor bus collided with a diesel engine.

Fifteen others were badly injured as the engine crushed the bus like an accordion and pushed it 432 feet.

It was the second worst traffic accident in Florida's history and another in a long series of accidents involving vehicles that carry Florida's field hands.

Friends of the Puerto Ricans heard the news at the labor camp where the bus was bound following a day in a pole bean field.

★ ★ ★

"Did these men have families," a man asked one of the few who spoke English.

HAD FAMILIES

"They were Puerto Ricans," was the reply. "In Puerto Rico everybody has a family."

Conductor Edward B. Shaw said the Seaboard Air Line Railroad engine, which carried only a single caboose, was traveling about 30 miles an hour when it reached the crossing, about 15 miles from downtown Miami.

"The bus just ran in front of us," Shaw said. "Then I heard the racket. I looked back and couldn't see anything but dust. Then it settled and I saw bodies lying at the side of the road.

★ ★ ★

"The brakeman yelled, 'Good Lord, we've killed a bunch of people.'

HOLLERING, CRYING

"They were all hollering and crying."

The bus was hit squarely in the middle and wrapped around the front of the engine.

Battered straw and felt hats were scattered along the roadbed. Inside the bus were shoes, shreds of clothing, a battered tin cup and a paper bag that carried lunch to the field.

WORKED FOR HOURS

Police and firemen worked for hours under floodlights to pry the bus from the engine with wreckers and acetylene torches.

Friends from the labor camp, called to identify the dead, crossed themselves as they lifted each blanket.

Severe Storm Pounds Ohio, Virginia Areas

Nation's Death Toll From Weather of Past Few Days Now at 145

By The Associated Press

The worst snowstorm in nearly 50 years pounded southern Ohio today and spread into Virginia after weaving a snow-strewn path cross Kentucky from the Plains.

Deaths attributable to the severe weather across the nation the last few days reached 145, including 47 persons who died in fires and heating accidents.

Another 33 perished from exposure to the cold. The others died in traffic accidents on slick roads and from heart attacks caused by overexertion.

The storm dumped more than 12 inches of snow along the Ohio River to southwestern Illinois.

★ ★ ★

Heavy snow warnings were posted for most of the Ohio Valley and central Appalachian area.

HITS WITH FURY

The storm struck southern Ohio with a fury Tuesday, jammed traffic, closed schools and stranded workers. The snow fell at the rate of 2 to 3 inches an hour part of the day.

The Weather Bureau said 13 inches covered hilly Cincinnati, including 10 inches which fell Tuesday.

Cincinnati stores closed in mid-afternoon. The University of Cincinnati suspended classes and many southern Ohio schools were shut down early.

★ ★ ★

Major hotels were jammed by mid-afternoon by workers who couldn't get home. Basketball games and meetings were canceled.

SLOW TURNPIKE

A 40-mile-per-hour speed limit was posted on the Ohio Turnpike from Fremont-Port Clinton to the Pennsylvania line.

★ ★ ★

The snow ranged from 4 to 10 inches in southern Illinois, southern Indiana and southern Ohio, and in parts of eastern Missouri and most of northern Kentucky.

At Louisville, Ky., and Belleville, Ill., across the river from St. Louis, Mo., snow measured 12 inches; Dayton, Ohio had 10 inches, Evansville, Ind., 9 inches, and Indianapolis, 5.

Snow sleet and freezing rain covered a large section of Kentucky and parts of eastern Ten-

Farmington Twp. Bid on Cityhood Stalled

The proposed incorporation of Farmington Township as a city came to a standstill today.

County officials this morning were to have considered scheduling an election date on the proposal this morning, but were halted by a court order temporarily restraining them from taking any action.

The order was signed by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams on the request of township resident Conrad Braseth, 21217 Waldron, an opponent of the incorporation.

Braseth's request was part of a lawsuit he filed yesterday against the Board of Supervisors and County Clerk John D. Murphy.

It challenges the validity of the petitions which were circulated and approved for the incorporation.

The defendants have been ordered to appear before Adams at 9 a.m. Monday to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued while a trial is pending.

CONFLICT OF INTERESTS

The suit asks that the petitions be voided because there was a conflict of interest when they were notarized by several township officials who favor the incorporation.

The petitions were to have been reviewed today by the Boundaries Committee of the Board of Supervisors. If they had been accepted, the committee would have recommended an election date to the full board.

The meeting of the committee was adjourned after members

Did Groundhog See a Shadow?

Despite the cold and a few flurries, there's a chance Mr. Groundhog might have seen a faint shadow of himself this morning. If so, Pontiac area residents are in for another six weeks of slipping and sliding, on and off skis or so tradition says.

The weatherman tells us tonight will be partly cloudy with scattered snow flurries and a low of 10 to 16. And tomorrow he says will be warmer with highs a welcome 27 to 32 and skies partly cloudy.

Partly cloudy and colder with scattered snow flurries is the prediction for Friday.

Reporter Writes Own Obit: 'Cigarettes Caused Death'

HONOLULU (UPI)—Mark Waters, a veteran newspaper reporter, died yesterday of lung cancer at Queens Hospital — after writing his own obituary which attributed his death to cigarettes.

Waters, 56, wrote the obituary six days before he died and made the final proof corrections only hours before his death. It was carried in full yesterday by his newspaper, the Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

"Cigarettes were the death of me," Waters wrote in his lead sentence. He then went on to outline his belief that his cancer was caused by cigarette smoking, which he said he started 42 years ago at the age of 14.

"I've always smoked two packs a day, inhaling most of the smoke," said Waters, who was born in Davenport, Iowa, graduated from the University of North Carolina and lived for many years in Baltimore, Md.

Waters discovered he had cancer last year shortly after he left the Star-Bulletin to go into public relations work. He said doctors told him his cancer probably was caused by heavy smoking.

"I smoked incessantly. My stomach began to hurt and I would get up every hour or half-hour during the night to drink milk and smoke a cigarette.

ONE OF THOSE THINGS

"Whether this story will stop anyone from smoking, I don't know. I doubt it. Not a soul I've preached to has quit smoking — not a single, solitary soul. It's one of those things. You always think it'll happen to the other guy — never to me. When you get your lung cancer—God help you."

★ ★ ★

Waters ended his obituary by writing:

"I don't have a ghost of a chance. It's too late for me. It may not be for you."

GEORGE P. CARONIS

Pontiac's juvenile crime rate shows a downward trend over the past five years, it was reported last night.

This was the essence of a report submitted last night to the City Commission by the Youth Assistance Department.

Some reasons for the crime decline were noted in a cover letter from the Citizens' Committee on Youth, signed by Dr. Charles L. Bowers, committee president, and George P. Caronis, executive secretary.

Presenting a summary of 1965 activity by the department, the report disclosed that the rate of juvenile offenses per 1,000 juvenile population has dropped from 36 in 1961 to 26 last year.

While Pontiac's juvenile offender rate based on population in the 7-16 age group has declined, the national rate has increased, said the report.

POLICE-COUNSELOR PLAN

In their letter, Caronis and Dr. Bowers said the police-counselor program at both high schools had helped in crime prevention.

Early detection, identification and contact with potential juvenile offenders creates the opportunity for early redirection to prevent serious offenses, Caronis and Dr. Bowers noted.

Secondly, they said the community-school concept operating at six Pontiac schools has also helped in the decrease in crimes.

★ ★ ★

The youth assistance report showed 309 first offenders in 1965, as compared to 378 in the previous year.

REPEAT OFFENDERS

The number of repeat offenders dropped to 185 last year from 231 in 1964.

The city's youth department handled 165 cases last year.

The largest category was incorrigibilities: defying parental authority, late hours and the like.

Fifty-one cases of incorrigibility were handled.

The second largest category was the 36 cases of theft or larceny.

Soviet Split With China May Come at Red Talks

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin may be preparing the Soviet Communist party for a formal split with Red China. It may come at the party congress next month.

Soviet Communist sources said a long letter from the Kremlin detailing the charges against Peking had been circulated to party groups during the past two weeks.

* * *

Party Presidium members, including First Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, have spoken at meetings where the letter was read, the sources said.

TO GET READY

The purpose of the letter, the sources said, is to prepare the party membership for a formal declaration that a reconciliation with Peking is impossible. It may come at the party congress, opening March 29 in Moscow, the informants added.

* * *

The letter reportedly accuses China of hindering Soviet aid to North Viet Nam, attempting to subvert areas like Mongolia, staging border incidents, flooding the Soviet Union with anti-Soviet leaflets and falsely proclaiming that the Soviet Union cooperates with the United States on international problems.

* * *

Some sources said the letter also accuses China of trying to drive the Soviet Union and the United States into a nuclear war.

PUSH TOWARD WAR?

The informants said the letter is meant to be a basic document on relations with China and takes about two hours to read. It is reportedly meant only for trusted party members, but its circulation has been so wide that many ordinary Soviet citizens have heard about it.

The letter follows a renewal of attacks on the Chinese leadership in the Soviet press. After Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin displaced Nikita Khrushchev in October 1964, they tried to patch up the quarrel with China and avoided answering the continuing Chinese criticism for more than a year.

The Chinese Communist party's official newspaper, the Peking People's Daily, accused the Soviet leaders today of helping the United States contain Red China through actions in Asia.

SAY HELP U.S.

"The course taken by Soviet leaders on the Viet Nam, the India-Pakistan and Japan questions completely conforms with the requirements of U.S. imperialism, and especially with the latter's policy of encircling China," the newspaper said in an article signed by "Observer." The signature usually means a senior official of the Chinese Communist party.

On the Viet Nam question, the article said, "the Soviet leaders have been steadily hand in glove with the U.S. imperialists."

The article criticized Alexander N. Shelepin, the No. 2 man in the Soviet Communist party, for not condemning President Johnson's peace efforts during his recent visit to Hanoi.

"On the other hand, the Soviet press, for obviously ulterior purposes, went out of its way during this period to extol the so-called 'Tashkent spirit,' advocating the settlement of questions through negotiations'," the Peking organ said.

"This kind of propaganda in the Soviet papers had the clear import that the Vietnamese people ought to sit down at the conference table with the U.S. aggressors while allowing the latter to continue their occupation of South Viet Nam."

Mayor and District 6 Incumbent Announce Plans to Run Again

A pair of incumbent City Commissioners announced last night that they will seek their district nominations in the March 7 primary.

* * *

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. of District 3 and Commissioner Wesley J. Wood of District 6 said they would file nominating petitions.

Wood, 59, of 11 N. Sanford and Taylor, 50, of 247 Ottawa will be seeking their fourth two-year term on the City Commission.

Both incumbents have served on the City Planning Commission.

* * *

Taylor, assistant advertising manager at Pontiac Motor Division, was first elected District 3 commissioner in 1960. He was reelected in 1962 and 1964.

He has served as mayor since 1964.

FIRST ELECTED

Meantime, Wood, a service follow-up man at GMC Truck & Coach Division, was first elected District 6 commissioner in 1958.

He won reelection in 1960 and was defeated in 1962, but won again two years ago.

A native of Rapid City, Wood came to Pontiac in 1925. He is a member of First United Missionary Church and has been active in church affairs.

* * *

In announcing his candidacy, Wood said an experienced commission would be needed to carry through the city's urban renewal efforts.

* * *

A product of schools in Yale, Brown City and Port Huron, Wood is married and has two children.

Taylor has been active in the Pontiac Area United Fund, Junior Achievement and Parent-Teacher Association.

Taylor, who attended Pontiac schools, Wayne State University and completed LaSalle Institute extension courses, was deputy chairman last year of Michigan Week in Oakland County.

* * *

The mayor was also named last year to a five-year term on the board of trustees of the Michigan Osteopathic College Foundation.

He is married and has three daughters.

LBJ Asks Illiteracy, Illness War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson asked Congress today for a $524-million international health and education program "to rid mankind of the slavery of ignorance and the scourge of disease."

"We bear a special role in this liberating mission," Johnson said in a special message to the House and Senate.

"Our resources will be wasted in defending freedom's frontiers if we neglect the spirit that makes men want to be free."

The special message was a follow-up to the request Johnson sent the lawmakers yesterday for $3.4 billion in military and economic assistance for the fiscal year 1967, beginning July 1.

* * *

The health and education aid message includes a 50 per cent increase in education aid, raising it to an annual level of more than $200 million. It also asks a two-thirds increase in health programs to more than $150 million.

EXCHANGE CORPS

Johnson's education proposals ranged from establishment of an "Exchange Peace Corps" with an initial goal of 5,000 foreign volunteers who would serve in this country, to expanded U.S. aid for promoting construction of facilities and development of techniques to fight illiteracy throughout the world.

* * *

His suggestions for a worldwide health program ran from eradication of malaria within 10 years and elimination of smallpox by 1975, to an enlarged cooperation in efforts to deal with the worsening problem of population growth.

Government Buying 258 GMC Trucks

A $1,794,927 federal contract for the purchase of 258 trucks from GMC Truck & Coach Division for military use was announced today by Sen. Patrick McNamara and Congressman Billie S. Farnum.

All trucks will be commercial-type vehicles equipped with dump bodies ranging in capacity from four to 10-cubic yards.

Most will be gas-powered, with the remainder toro-flow Diesel engines.

The Air Force will receive 115 of the trucks while 84 will go to the Army and 59 to the Navy.

Some of the trucks will be four-wheel drive and the rest two-wheel drive.

SNOW HELP — Mr. and Mrs. John Garrow of Syracuse, N.Y., equipped themselves with snowshoes and volunteered to help Civil Defense authorities yesterday after 40 inches fell in the area. Civil Defense used volunteers to bring food and aid to snowbound homes.

Ohio Strangled by Snow

nessee and south-central West Virginia.

The heaviest snowstorm in more than 40 years moved into Kentucky, closed one-fourth of the schools and choked off traffic.

Frankfort had 12 to 15 inches.

SLEET PERIL TOO

Communities which escaped the snow were pelted with freezing rain. The storm dumped 9 inches on Lexington and 10 on Covington. Louisville had 11 inches, bringing most business to a standstill. Downtown stores did not open and factory workers were sent home early.

The streets were lined with abandoned cars, and those which ran creeped slowly along the streets.

The snow in Louisville was the worst since Jan. 14, 1918, when 10.4 inches covered the ground.

The edge of the storm struck Virginia with a mixture of sleet and rain Tuesday night. The storm concentrated on the sections of Virginia hardest hit by three previous assaults in the last 10 days.

Heavy snow fell throughout the Shenandoah Valley with 1 to 4 inches of new snow on top of 20- to 30-inch accumulations.

Southwestern Virginia was pelted with rain, sleet and freezing rain.

Two Army helicopters from Ft. Belvoir worked through the day Tuesday in Loudoun County delivering basic supplies to isolated areas and evacuating ill persons.

* * *

All primary roads are open in Virginia, but are still dangerous, and air and train schedules are back to near normal.

Most Virginia schools were closed.

* * *

The storm blanketed southern and central Indiana and closed hundreds of schools, industries and retail stores. Several main highways were closed.

Up to a foot of snow staggered much of southern Illinois. Schools closed, airports suspended operations and trains ran late, if at all.

50 Companions on Honeymoon

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — A Rochester man and woman who spent the first three days of their honeymoon trapped in a snowbound synagogue with 50 in-laws, relatives and friends, finally got started today on their first day of marriage — alone.

Where did they head? For a ski lodge — if they could find one that hasn't been closed by the blizzard.

Snow plows cleared a path to Beth El Temple yesterday and freed the guests and the newlweds, Jane Relin and Edward Edelstein, who were married Sunday afternoon.

After the nuptials and a reception at the temple, the wedding party discovered it was trapped in the building by the snow.

* * *

The couple made one attempt to leave Sunday night, but made it only as far as a nearby suburb before their car bogged down.

TURNED BACK

Abandoning their car, the newlyweds turned around and skied back to the wedding celebration at the temple.

Meanwhile, the guests — including a caterer who was stranded at the celebration with a truckload of food resolved to make the most of the situation and continued the party through Sunday night, Monday and yesterday.

2 Mishaps Kill Area Residents

Two area men were killed in accidents Monday night and Tuesday.

Dead are David R. Bruske, 21, son of Mrs. Febbie Bruske, 4311 Lessing, Waterford Township, and William M. Henderson, 30, of 3315 White Lake, Highland Township.

Bruske, a soldier at Ft. Riley, Kan., died from injuries received in an automobile accident Monday night at Junction City, Kan.

An Army companion also was killed when their car struck a tree.

Henderson suffocated yesterday afternoon in an industrial mishap at the Price Brothers Pipe Co., 4701 White Lake, White Lake Township.

He fell into a sand hopper while attempting to loosen sand with a hammer according to sheriff's deputies. His body was discovered by coworker Edwin Crandall, 2140 W. Walton, Waterford Township.

He was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

Cites Pontiac Bias, Brutality Complaints

A Michigan Civil Rights Commission (CRC) representative said today that a cross section of complaints have been filed alleging police brutality and employment discrimination in Pontiac.

The CRC is scheduled to open an office here Feb. 22.

The opening of the two-day-a-week office is to be kicked off with a community forum Feb. 22 at Pontiac Central High School at 8 p.m.

Thomas E. Johnson, CRC field representative, said the purpose of the meeting was to inform of the community of the function of the CRC.

* * *

Johnson disclosed that he already had complaints of alleged job discrimination and police brutality.

NO SPECIFICS

However, he declined to cite any specific complaint and said he could not give the number of complaints.

The Pontiac Office is to open on Mondays and Tuesdays.

BIRMINGHAM — Images of the Middle East will be projected in a four-part exhibit to open Feb. 13 at the Birmingham Art Center, 1516 S. Cranbrook.

The show will follow the current "Stitchery, Lace and Loom" exhibit which already already has broken all attendance records for the art center.

Sunday is the last day for viewing the present show.

Dominated by photography, the Middle East display also will include one graphics section.

* * *

Three of the sections are sponsored by American Friends of the Middle East, Inc., of Washington, D. C.

GRAPHICS, PHOTOGRAPHS

They feature the graphics of Bill Berry and photographs of Iraqi Al Ani and artist-turned-photographer Joseph Kostal.

The fourth section is a set of 17 photographs entitled "Israel: Past and Present." Obtained through the Israel consulate in Chicago, the pictures add another dimension to the entire exhibit, called "The Middle East Through the Eye of the Camera and the Graphic Artist."

Kostal's section is entitled "Impressions of Iran" and was made between 1937 and 1956 while the native of Siberia was living in Iran before coming to the United States.

"Faces and Facets of Iraq" by Iraqi Al Ani is a group of thoughful studies of ancient and modern buildings and the Iraqi people.

BERRY'S TRAVELS

The graphics section of the exhibit is the product of Berry's travels through the Near East. Some of his sketches date from his days at the University of Texas, where he became acquainted with Arab students.

The opening reception for this exhibition will be 2-5 p.m. Feb. 13. It will continue through March 6 at the center, which has 2-5 p.m hours daily except Monday.

Death Claims Gossip Queen

Filmland Columnist Is Pneumonia Victim

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Movie gossip queen Hedda Hopper, stern mother to filmdom's brightest and brashest stars, once reminisced about her first store-bought hat:

"It was a thing of beauty. Of bright green straw trimmed with red velvet geraniums. It made me feel rich as a queen.

* * *

"That hat was a greater attaction on Easter morning than the choir or the preacher's sermon. I said if a hat can get the attention of this many people, I'll never go bareheaded."

HAT TRADEMARK

She kept her word. Flamboyant, enormous and often outlandish hats remained a trademark of the Chicago Tribune-New York News syndicate columnist until her death Tuesday at 75.

NATIONAL WEATHER — A band of snow and flurries will wind from the Rockies to New England tonight and showers will cover the western part of the nation. Colder air will spread from the northern Plains to the Atlantic with warmer temperatures in the central and southern Plains.

Candidacy Announced by Pair

State Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-14th District, will be a candidate for Oakland County Circuit judge and his former campaign manager will attempt to succeed him as the 14th District legislator.

Roberts and Carl D. Pursell of Plymouth simultaneously announced their candidacy for the two posts today.

Pursell ran Roberts' campaign in early 1965 when he took over the Senate seat left vacant by the death of Paul Chandler. Chandler died before taking office and a special election was held.

Roberts, 43, of 2486 LaFay, West Bloomfield Township, is seeking one of the six-year terms on the circuit bench.

* * *

THIRD TERM

"The completion of my third term in the Michigan Senate, coupled with my previous service in the House of Representatives and the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office, has given me the variety of experience which I believe is essential to be an effective circuit judge," said Roberts.

Roberts left his Senate seat in 1964 to run for a seat on the Michigan Court of Appeals but was defeated. Ironically the court was established through a bill introduced by Roberts.

An attorney, he is a partner in the law firm of Dieterle, Roberts and Mann in West Bloomfield Township. Roberts is a graduate of the University of Michigan Law School.

A graduate of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Roberts served in both World War II and the Korean conflict. He is a commander in the Naval Reserve.

FIRST VENTURE

This will be Pursell's first venture into politics as a candidate, but already he has received support in his bid from the Republican state chairman, Elly Peterson.

A former teacher in Livonia public schools, Pursell, 33, is president of Western Office Equipment, Inc., Plymouth, and president of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

He is presently serving as GOP chairman of the Second Congressional District in Wayne County, and is a member of Gov. Romney's Task Force on Political Organization.

Pursell has a master's degree in administration from Eastern Michigan University.

Truman Candidate for Nobel Peace Prize

TRUMAN

Former President Harry S. Truman will be one of perhaps 30 to 40 nominees for the 1966 Nobel Peace Prize.

The Norwegian Nobel Institute in Oslo confirmed last night that Truman was among the candidates after a report last week that he had been nominated by Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo.

"Few periods of modern history have been so crucial to the future of world peace as the postwar years (1945-53) when Harry Truman assumed the leadership of the West," Long reportedly wrote.

For Portage Students

Cement, Mortar Part of Curriculum

PORTAGE (AP) — Seventeen Portage area high school boys are spending three hours of class time every day laying cement blocks and mixing mortar.

* * *

The goal — completion of a three-bedroom ranch-style house by the end of the school year.

Students in the project represent Portage's two high schools — Central and Northern — and many are expected to enter the construction trades upon graduation.

Their work on the house is regarded as a class assignment, and it's graded.

* * *

Portage's public school system is paying for the materials and expects to regain its investment when the house is sold in the spring.

INSTRUCTIONAL

Ray Kennedy, industrial arts teacher, said that financial profit is not the major motive — although there may be some — and that the activity is planned primarily for its instructional value.

He said that finding time to finish the year-long project is "the least of my worries."

He's mainly concerned with keeping records of materials and costs, watching each stage of the work as it progresses and keeping the students interested.

* * *

BIG ENDEAVOR

It's definitely a student-dominated endeavor.

One of the youths working on the project is Miles Goretzka, an advanced architectural drawing student who designed the structure.

Kennedy, who has built several homes including his own, is doing "very little" of the work himself, even though he enjoys it.

* * *

Contracting firms have been hired to complete plumbing and mechanical work.

LANDSCAPE LOT

Kennedy expects to have time after the house is completed for the students to landscape the lot and finish the basement interior.

High school home economics students are planning color coordination for the living areas, a class project involving selection of drapes, wall colors and lamp fixtures.

Kennedy's watching the weather — hoping for a break to keep the project moving — but he's out there with the boys in blizzards and rainstorms anyway.

* * *

"I don't know what's wrong," Kennedy said at his desk in the new Portage Northern High School, "but I think I caught my worst cold of the winter so far right here in the office."

REFUSES TO ANSWER — Two attorneys talk at the witness table with Sam Holloway Bowers during an appearance yesterday before the House Un-American Activities Committee in Washington. Bowers was identified by the committee as the imperial wizard of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. Bowers refused to answer all questions.

U.N. Keeping Gaza Strip Trouble Spot Quiet

GAZA (AP) — Stretched along 145 miles of desert frontier, a thin line of blue-helmeted United Nations troops quietly keeps the peace in an almost forgotten trouble spot.

Only a few years ago, headlines were full of the Gaza Strip as Egyptian and Israeli forces battled in this coastal area of Palestine.

★ ★ ★

Today the strip is quiet. The U.N. Emergency Force — UNEF — keeps it that way.

Western, Communist and so-called non-aligned nations combined to form an effective force for peace. More than 400 soldiers from Yugoslavia stand with 4,000 troops from Canada, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, India and Brazil to keep Israelis and Egyptians separated in the Gaza Strip and along the international frontier in Sinai.

BACK IN 1957

The force first took up positions in March 1957.

"Incidents have been few," comments Lt. Col. Gregers Bernhoft, commander of the joint Danish-Norwegian battalion. "There have been some attempts by both sides to cross the border from time to time but no serious clashes have taken place. Farmers have been able to cultivate their lands and to take care of their livestock within a few meters of the demarcation line and people on both sides go about their business without interference from each other."

Orange groves flourishing in what was desert land a decade ago testified to the force's effectiveness in Gaza.

The strip itself is Egyptian-administered with full customs and passport barriers at its frontiers with Egypt proper.

On the outskirts of the principal towns — Gaza, Rafah, Khan Younis and Deir el Ballah — a ditch three feet deep and three feet wide marks the 35-mile-long armistice demarcation line between the Gaza Strp and Israel.

To the south, Canadian and Yugoslav contingents cover the 110-mile frontier between Israel and Egypt that runs through the sun-scorched Sinai to Ras al Masri in the Gulf of Aqaba.

Along the entire border the U.N. patrols, their Israeli counterparts and Egyptian observation posts are testimony to the threat of new outbreaks of trouble.

"Sometimes forces from either side may try to cross the border in something like a game," says Norwegian Maj. Rolf Staenn. "If nothing happens and we intercept them, the game is over."

GIRL SOLDIERS

The Israelis, Staenn reports, sometimes post girls from their army along the line opposite emergency force troops.

"The girls wear shorts and do a lot of smiling in trying to engage the boys in conversation," Staenn says. "But U. N. troops cannot talk with them, no matter how much they smile."

This too, he says, is part of the "game" on the line.

The 30-caliber machine gun is the force's heaviest weapon.

—If would-be infiltrators are intercepted they are held for action by a joint Egyptian-Israeli armistice commission, which determines what course to follow.

From the heights of the rolling sand dunes in the armistice line area, observers can easily see into Ashkelon, Israel. The merest footprint on the wrong side of the line can set off an investigation.

The U.N. force is to be cut in March by some 600 troops under terms of a reorganization. The reduction will result mostly from the withdrawal of the battalion from Sweden, which has other peace-keeping commitments on Cyprus.

Contingents from Norway, Denmark, India, Canada and Brazil will stretch out their troops to compensate for the pull-out of the Swedish battalion.

★ ★ ★

The force's commander in cheif, Brazil's Maj. Gen. Syseno Sarmento, has logistics, operations, personnel, legal, financial, engineering and medical sections in a Gaza headquarters. It cost $17.75 million to maintain the force last year.

"The expense is justified by the results obtained here," said one officer. "The orange groves you see along the frontier today are mainstays of the economy. They have grown up under the protection of the U.N. Emergency Force."

Liberals May Help Klan Avoid Contempt Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Seven Ku Klux Klan leaders today based their one hope for escaping an overwhelming House vote to cite them for contempt of Congress on the efforts of Democratic liberals.

The House scheduled a vote on the issue, which was raised by the klansmen's refusal to produce subpoenaed records before the House on Un-American Activities.

A heavy majority was expected to favor citing the Klan leaders for contempt, which upon convcition carries penalties of up to $1,000 in fines and a year in jail.

Their only hope was an effort by a band of liberals to study the issue further.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., national chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), intended to ask the House to create a special committee to study the merits of the contempt recommendations.

Edwards and others sent a letter to all members outlining their case. They hoped for support from members who have voiced disapproval of congressional methods for handling contempt citations.

A number of liberals, including the ADA, oppose the committee in general. They contend its mandate is unconstitutional and its methods unfair. They therefore oppose the current investigation of the klan as exposure for exposure's sake.

Committee chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., vehemently denies the charge. He says the purpose of the investigation is to develop legislation to combat the threat of communities from the Klan.

★ ★ ★

The committee recommended contempt citations for the following members of the United Klans of America Inc., the nation's largest KKK group:

Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton, Jr.; Georgia Grand Dragon Calvin Graig; North Carolina Grand Dragon James R. Jones; Virginai Grand Dragon Marshall R. Kornegay; South Carolina Grand Dragon Robert E. Scoggin; Conductor of Ceremonies Robert Hudgins of North Carolina; and the Rev. George F. Dorsett, imperial kludd (chaplain) of North Carolina.

LEGAL POSITION

The committee's legal position is that the 5th Amendment to the constitution and its protection agains self-incrimination—which all seven used freely—permits an individual to remain silent but does not give the right to refuse subpoenaed records of an organization.

Following a House vote for contempt the matter would go to a grand jury. If indictments were returned, the defendants would be tried in Washington.

The House vote was to follow a brief morning session by the committee to hear evidence about Klan activities in Mississippi.

Laws to Curb Cemeteries Are Proposed

LANSING (AP) — Legislation to establish a state cemetery commission and regulate the cemetery industry was proposed Tuesday by Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit.

Dzendzel's Senate Corporations Committee has been investigating the tangled affairs of Brookdale Cemetery in Livonia.

The proposed commission would license cemeteries and cemetery lot salesmen, and could set rules concerning burial procedures, casket handling, placing and maintaining of headstones and memorials, grave location records and financial records of cemeteries.

The commission would use investigators to keep watch on cemetery operations.

Dzendzel's plans would require cemeteries to put 20 per cent of a cemetery lot's price into a perpetual care fund instead of the present 10 per cent.

Another proposal would prohibit funeral directors from dealing with unlicensed cemeteries.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Pontiac Press Photo

A rare pause in the busy life of Mrs. Ben Mills of Bloomfield Hills enables her to explain in an interview what Camp Oakland means to our society and to her. She envisions other communities across the nation patterning their youth homes after ours.

Energetic Mrs. Mills Lends Helping Hand

By JEANNE NELSON

Whether she's jet-bound for London or Istanbul, no amount of distance can diminish the devotion of Mrs. Ben Mills to the children of Camp Oakland.

For the 54 permanently ensconced youngsters there, it is "Aunt Helen" who so often listens to problems and helps to find solutions for them.

It is she also who, as chairman of the women's committee for this organization, has worked unceasingly to raise funds for the buildings and equipment needed to make Camp Oakland what it is today.

Helen Mills' name is high on the list of outstanding women in this area. Wife of a Ford Motor Company vice president, Ben Mills, and the mother of two teen sons, Mrs. Mills has taken on the joint chairmanship with her husband of the 1966 Meadow Brook Festival.

With the program scheduling for this summer-long event already behind them, the pair looks forward to a record-breaking season.

Mrs. Mills is especially enthusiastic about the admission price which she says, "will not only bring college students, but will enable highschoolers to come as individuals, with dates or in "Dutch" groups.

WATER BALLET

Working with youngsters is nothing new to this attractive woman. As far back as World War II, she started England's first water ballet while an overseas recreational director for the American Red Cross.

* * *

Recalling those days of London blitzes and air raid shelters, Mrs. Mills said, "The 7 a.m. dips in an outdoor pool during the early spring months, were all worth it when the troop was asked to perform for the royal family."

* * *

Sports have always played an important role in her life.

She was chosen to represent the United States as a swimmer in the 1936 Olympics held in Berlin, Germany. But disappointment came early that year when she broke her back and was unable to compete.

* * *

She did manage to travel to Germany with her teammates. Attending the swimming events each day, she helped display the good sportsmanship that the Olympics stand for.

* * *

A great believer in children and sports going hand-in-hand, Mrs. Mills says, "Athletic activities in the young are a marvelous outlet for troubled teens and the pressures upon youth in general."

OTHER INTERESTS

Camp Oakland is not the only youthful organization to which she is committed. Junior Achievement consumes a great deal of her attention, along with the Merrill Palmer Institute and the new Birmingham Teen Center.

* * *

Through her fund-raising efforts for Camp Oakland, she has been often in direct contact with Hollywood personalities.

Add to this, numerous trips to adventurous and romantic places her husband's work takes them and you might expect Helen Mills to be somewhat of a sophisticate.

* * *

Not so! It is perhaps her naturalness and deep concern for others that has made her the person she is.

Speaker at the Pontiac PTA Council's annual Founders Day dinner Tuesday was A. B. Haist, first state vice president of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers (top left). With him is Mrs. Willis Schnekenburger, Opdyke Road, general chairman of the dinner. In the lower picture, Daniel Hutchins, principal of Kennedy Junior High School where the dinner was held, lights the candle held by Mrs. Elton Losey, LeBaron Street. Mrs. Roderick Hoover, Irwin Street, looks on. See story on page B-2.

Tell Him You Are Disappointed

'Girlie' Books Are Stage

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How can you keep a child who is old enough to read from reading all those trashy magazines they pick up at the newsstands? Our son is 15 and some of the "girlie" magazines we find in his room are terrible.

ABBY

He says all his friends read them. If you have an answer for us, please print it.

CONCERNED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: All normal adolescents have a certain amount of curiosity, which is satisfied in this way. A healthy, adjusted child will pass through this stage unharmed, in spite of the trash he reads. And your son probably will, too.

Let him know that you are disappointed in his choice of "literature" and make sure you have plenty of good reading material available. Then keep your eyes open.

If the boy appears to be overly preoccupied with trash to the exclusion of everything else, and his taste doesn't improve with maturity, he will need professional help.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old girl who works in a factory where I meet a lot of men. There is one fellow I see there every day, and I sure do like his looks.

Abby, I'm far from being hard on the eyes, but this guy doesn't even know I'm alive. Lots of the factory men ask to date me but they don't interest me. I am 5 ft. 7 in flats.

This guy I like is a whole head shorter than I, but I don't care. He really has me going. I'd give anything to go out with him. One of the girls in the plant says she knows him and he is a wonderful person, a lot of fun, a good dancer and has a good sense of humor.

She also says she's seen him out with girls much taller than himself so he can't be self-conscious about his height. How can I get him interested in me?

LIKES HIS LOOKS

DEAR LIKES: Tell the girl who knows him that you would like to know him, too. She could arrange a small get-together to include both of you. Then you're on your own.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl who knows more about motors than any boy my age, I was brought up next door to my uncle's garage and I have always been good at taking things apart and putting them back together.

I never liked to dress up in dresses. I am much happier in greasy jeans. I think girls who giggle over boys are silly, and I don't care anything about boys who are silly over girls, either. Lots of people take me for a boy, but it doesn't bug me a bit. I take it as a compliment.

I don't know why I wrote this letter. Maybe I just wanted to tell somebody that here is one 16-year-old girl who never had a boyfriend and doesn't need one. Is there something wrong with me?

"HAPPY" IN CARLSBAD

DEAR HAPPY: Not if you're really "happy."

VIET VETERAN METS SON — Marine Cpl. Frank Temonia, who just returned from duty in Viet Nam, meets his 9-month-old son, Geoffrey, for the first time at the New Orleans, La., airport yesterday. Temonia said, "I'll take him," as his wife looked on. Cpl. Temonia served nine months in Viet Nam.

Hungarians Silent on Scars Inflicted During Revolt

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — They were dancing the twist in a dingy bar on the outskirts of Budapest and a drunken man shouted to a foreigner: "Look at the face of new Hungary!"

The piano player sang in English into a microphone. Men in dark suits and women with tired faces moved rhythmically on the tiled floor.

Ten years after the ill-fated 1956 revolt, Budapest lives like any other city, making the most of it. It does not like to talk of its scars.

Black smoke billows against a gray winter sky over Dunaujvaros, the new Communist-built steel city with its giant factory complex and gray and yellow apartment houses lining wide avenues.

"I admit," said a Hungarian economist, "that in retrospect Dunaujvros was a mistake. It is costly and not essential. Today we would not have built it."

In the Dunaujvaros Hotel lobby, Hungarian television was showing Verdi's "Requiem." A Hungarian woman guide waited for a group of Soviet tourists.

★ ★ ★

The hotel restaurant listed French brandies and English whiskies — at the equivalent of $1.50 a glass.

Wind-whipped snow blew across the wide Hungarian plain. In Szekesfehervar, Soviet soldiers stationed in Hungary walked in groups, looking at shop windows.

TOURISTIC CENTER

Near Lake Balaton, Hungary's touristic center, deserted bungalows, hotels and summer houses waited for better weather.

"Workers can come here for as little as 50 cents a day," said the guide.

★ ★ ★

In the lobbies of Budapest hotels, voices in all languages of the West spoke loud, demanding services. The Hungarian government was ready to serve them: it has guides, Western cars for rental, tours of Budapest by night, tours of Budapest by day, trips to the interior — for dollars, pounds, Swiss francs.

★ ★ ★

A Gypsy band crowded around an American woman who stubbornly repeated the name of a song. The band did not know the song and the violinist hopelessly tried one tune after the other.

BARTOK BALLET

In the gilded Budapest Opera House, a Bartok ballet was being shown. Some Hungarian women had come in business suits, others had bare arms, decollete dresses and glittering jewelry.

★ ★ ★

"Look at those women," someone whispered. "You cannot imagine how tired Hungarian women are. They work at home, they work in offices, take care of children and husbands and still have energy to go out at night."

★ ★ ★

And someone else was saying, "Workers periodically get tickets to concerts, theater plays, it's better than baseball. They have done a lot for culture."

★ ★ ★

The Hungarian "they" means the regime, the party, the new order, those in power.

BOLD TRENDS

There are new, bold trends everywhere — in art, literature, sculpture. In a political cabaret, an entertainer tried to laugh about new economic reforms, price increases and higher taxes. The audience applauded — there was little else to do but laugh.

And a tipsy West German girl was saying she loved everything about Hungary — above all the Gypsy bands.

★ ★ ★

"I will come back," she repeated. "All this is simply wonderful."

Ex-Detroiter's Labor of Love

Alcohol Firm Finances Kansas Hospital

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP) — The profits from a grain alcohol distillery finance the operation of a hospital here.

★ ★ ★

The alcohol — 30,000 gallons a day — is extracted by Midwest Solvents Co., owned by the Atchison Hospital Association which operates the 167-bed hospital.

In 15 years, the distillery has supported construction of a five-story hospital wing costing $1.4 million, a $185,000 geriatrics department, a $650,000 two-story haven for the retired, and is financing a $125,000 improvement program now under way.

A former Detroit industrialist took a liking to Atchison while operating Midwest Solvents during World War II, saved the distillery from dismantling after the war, sold it practically at cost to the hospital association, and agreed to stay on and run the plant besides. The hospital hasn't had a fund drive since.

★ ★ ★

To millionaire industrialist Cloud L. Cray Sr. this has been a labor of love.

DO SOMETHING

"The reason I wanted to make this arrangement was because I honestly wanted to do something for the community," Cray said.

"I had come to love the town and its people, so when my partners wanted to sell, I sold my holdings in Detroit, bought them out of the solvents company, and signed the agreement to sell it to the hospital."

The distillery paid for itself in less than four years.

★ ★ ★

"I could have been out of a job," Gray laughed. "But they still keep me on as chairman of the hospital board and chief executive officer of Midwest Solvents. I'm delighted. I'd do it over again."

LUCKY TURN

Gray, who is 69, said a lucky turn brought him to Atchison.

A loan by a Detroit investment company, of which he was the senior partner, led him here when the distillery went into receivership. He wound up operating it.

Cray returned to Detroit after the war, but Atchison was in his thoughts. When his investment partners considered junking the plant, that made up his mind for him.

★ ★ ★

The annual payroll of the distillery and the hospital is nearly a million dollars a year. Midwest Solvents pays out another million yearly to farmers for raw products.

Sanity Hearing Motion Denied

Attorney for 'Sniper' Opposed the Request

Circuit Judge Philip Pratt yesterday denied a motion for a new sanity hearing for Royal Oak's alleged "phantom sniper," Gary Addison Taylor.

The hearing was requested by Asst. Prosecutor Ronald E. Covault, but opposed by Taylor's attorney Gilbert Davis.

Taylor will now face preliminary court examination at 9 a.m. Monday before Bloomfield Hills Municipal Judge Jack Baldwin on a nine-year-old charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

Taylor was released last month from Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane. Authorities there say he is capable now of assisting in his own defense.

★ ★ ★

He is being held in the Oakland County Jail in lieu of $50,000 cash bond or $100,000 in surety bonds.

Judge Baldwin has taken under advisement a motion from Davis to reduce Taylor's bond to $5,000.

Publisher Dies of Pneumonia

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Joseph R. Knowland — newspaper publisher, political reformer and conservationist — died of pneumonia Tuesday at his home in suburban Piedmont. He was 92.

Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune, served five terms in the U.S. House of Representatives, two terms in the California Assembly and one in the State Senate.

★ ★ ★

He also had been president of the California Park Commission, the State Automobile Association and the State Chamber of Commerce.

From 1924 to 1952, he was an Associated Press director and was one of those instrumental in the introduction by that organization of Wirephoto.

★ ★ ★

Out of his fight against graft and corruption in Alameda County came Knowland's long-time friendship with Earl Warren, now Chief Justice of the United States. Warren's political career started as district attorney during that campaign and continued through the California governorship to the nation's highest court.

Breyer, 85, a retired Navy commander, explained he already had paid a $12 fine for the traffic violation.

Says Bees, Scorpions Cure Rheumatism Pain

MURCIA, Spain (UPI) — An 82-year-old farmer claims he cures his rheumatism by having bees and scorpions bite him.

Juan Marin Real noticed that when he was bitten by a bee one day, the pain in his arm caused by rheumatism went away. He now gets bitten by as many as 20 bees, depending on how much pain he has. When he cannot get any bees, he digs up scorpions and uses them.

Woman's Phone Call Really Long-Distance

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A truck hurtled out of control down a steep hill 12 miles from Perth today, uprooted an occupied telephone booth and flung it 20 feet along the highway.

A 75-year-old woman struggled out of the phone booth with only a small cut on her leg.

The truck driver was killed.

Bare Facts Collected

Short Story Proves Trashy

LONDON (AP) — Sidney Thompson is short, bald, and a garbage collector.

This combination of circumstances led him to the high court yesterday claiming damages from the town council in Dagenham, an East London suburb.

He explained that being small, his head came only level with the back of the garbage truck And being bald, he had no protection when garbage fell from the truck on to his head.

Thompson said the falling garbage caused a rash on his pate and he was no longer able to work. He said the council should have given him a cap.

★ ★

Judge Joscelyn Phillimore dismissed the complaint, commenting: "Not to mince words, much of the evidence was rubbish."

Piggins Delves Deeper Into Detroit Police Dept.

DETROIT (AP) — Circuit Judge Edward S. Piggins is delving further as a one-man grand jury into operations of the Detroit Police Department.

Grand jury aides seized work records Tuesday of the vice bureau and two precincts.

Piggins would not comment on why he ordered the seizures, which came, incidentally, shortly after he had lunch with Mayor Jerome Cavanagh.

★ ★ ★

Cavanagh has implied criticism and political motivation to Piggins' probe, which now has swung into Detroit after having started out as an investigation into alleged ticket fixing by the Wayne County sheriff's department.

Cavanagh is a Democrat; Piggins a Republican, but each was elected on a nonpartisan ballot.

NOT ADVISED

Besides vice bureau work records those of the Central and Livernois precincts also were taken. Police Commissioner Ray Girardin said he was not advised of Piggins' plans in advance.

The most Cavanagh would say of his two-hour luncheon with Piggins in the University Club was that "we didn't talk about the weather."

★ ★ ★

Piggins would say only that the two "had a very fine, friendly conversation" and had agreed to meet again if and when other meetings are desirable.

Presiding Circuit Judge Thomas J. Murphy advised Cavanagh in effect Tuesday that if he wished to lay a complaint against Piggins it should be with the State Supreme Court.

Cavanagh declined to say whether he might take his complaint to Lansing.

SEND AFFIDAVITT

The mayor sent all Wayne County circuit judges an affidavit Monday by Detroit Police Sgt. Bernard Mullins.

The latter said a State Police aid to Piggins, Cpl. George Smith, had approached him in December and urged that Mullins give the grand juror "some information that would allow them to extend their inquiry into the City of Detroit regarding any wrongdoing on the part of Mayor Cavanagh or the Detroit Police Department."

★ ★ ★

Mullins swore Smith told him Piggins "wants a piece of Cavanagh in the worst way" and that Piggins' eagerness was so great he "could taste it."

Piggins came to Smith's defense as "a very fine, high-type, unassuming, honest police office" and said Mullins' affidavit regarding Cavanagh or the Police Department was "absolutely without foundation."

Mullins said he would stand behind his statement "before God and country," and insisted everything he had said was true.

Piggins summoned Mullins as a grand jury witness for Thursday and made his affidavit a part of the grand jury's formal record.

Denies Trying to Control AMC

Stockholder Meeting Hears Industrialist

DETROIT AP) — Detroit industrialist - Sportsman Robert B. Evans, who bought over 200,000 shares of American Motors stock in recent days, said today "I have absolutely no intention of trying to take over the company."

★ ★ ★

The 59 - year - old millionaire industrialist made his comment as he arrived for AMC's annual stockholders meeting today.

"I have some very definite ideas about how the company should be run, but I have no plans to ask for a seat on the board of directors at this time," he said.

DRAWS NEWSMEN

Evans' arrival drew a flock of newsmen who bombarded him with questions as to his reason for the heavy purchases in AMC stock.

★ ★ ★

Evans disclosed that he met within the past few days with AMC president Roy Abernethy and board chairman Richard Cross.

"Someone, I don't remember who, asked if I would be interested in a seat on the board, and I replied that I thought I could contribute something to the company," he said.

★ ★ ★

Evans described AMC as "a company that is sound financially — one that is going to take off one of these days, one that has great business potential."

Evans conceded American Motors has had troubles in the auto sales market, but said its basic car line and leadership are sound.

★ ★ ★

"Don't forget that Chrysler Corp. made a recovery almost overnight and there is no reason why AMC could not do the same," he said.

'SOLID FOUNDATION'

Asked if he would suggest diversifying AMC's line, perhaps getting into the field of boat building which is one of his hobbies, he said, "We have a very solid foundation, and there is no need to enlarge it. This company can go ahead."

★ ★ ★

Evans then headed into the stockholders meeting where he heard Abernethy report that AMC's net earnings and sales for the first quarter of the company's current fiscal year ran behind those of the comparable part of last year.

The stockholders heard that the firm had a net profit of $4.1 million in the three months ended Dec. 31, first quarter of the company's fiscal year.

★ ★ ★

Earnings approximated 22 cents a share and represented a sharp improvement over the September quarter, when AMC reported a loss of $13.0 million.

For the same period of 1964, however, the company had a profit of $9.5 million or 50 cents a share.

Four Join Profit Club

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

DAWSON

NEW YORK — Soaring profits have put four new members into the $100 million club in recent days. There are now at least 37 U.S. corporations which made that much or more in 1965.

With two exceptions, these biggest earners increased their net income after taxes to climb to still dizzier profit heights.

General Motors copped a status of its own as the first corporation to make more than $2 billion in one year. It's 1965 profit of $2.1 billion topped 1964 by 23 per cent.

Two others made more than $1 billion each. American Telephone & Telegraph rose to $1.8 billion from $1.6 billion. Jersey Standard Oil dropped 1.5 per cent below 1965, but still cleared $1.04 billion, with the fourth quarter showing up better than the first months of the year.

4 NEWCOMERS

The four newcomers so far are: Union Oil of California, Westinghouse Electric, Cities Service, and Kennecott Copper. A fifth, Dow Chemical, seems likely to join on the strength of its first half results. Profits of the new comers were in the $101 million to $106 million range.

Fourth place in the profits standings apparently was retained by Texaco Oil with $636.7 million in profits, up from $577.4 million the year before. Ford Motor, yet to report 1965 figures, seems sure of at least fifth place on the strength of its 35 per cent increase in the earlier quarters of the year. In 1964 it cleared $506 million.

Du Pont and Jersey Standard were the only corporations in the club to make less in 1965 than in 1964. The giant chemical firm dropped to $407 million from $471 million, but the decline was entirely due to loss of General Motors dividends which it collected in 1964 on stock it has since disposed of under court order.

A 10 per cent profit gain by International Business Machines should put it in sixth place with $477 million. Gulf Oil rose 10 per cent to $427 million. In the over $300 million class are California Standard Oil and Socony Mobil, and probably Sears, Roebuck on strength of showings earlier in the year.

FIRST TIME

Three companies topped $200 million for the first time: Eastman Kodak, up 35 per cent, Shell Oil and Indiana Standard Oil. Others making more than $200 million are: U.S. Steel, up 16 per cent; General Electric, and Chrysler.

Other companies still in the $100 million club by virtue of figures announced for all 1965 or by trends set at the nine months mark are: Western Electric, Bethlehem Steel, General Telephone & Electronics, Caterpillar Tractor, Proctor & Gamble; R. J. Reynolds Tobacco, Monsanto, Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing; Goodyear Tire & Rubber and Continental Oil.

Three electric utilities already in the club are Pacific Gas & Electric with $140 million, Consolidated Edison with $112 million, and Commonwealth Edison with $108 million.

Earnings reports in coming weeks may add new members. But the big profit gains of big business give the measure of the economic prosperity of 1965 that should delight an army of corporate shareholders.

$ Successful Investing $

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I am 56 years old, married, with no children. I own a small business but am being forced out by a Public District expansion. Due to my age and high land costs, I don't want to continue in business. I should realize $100,000 from liquidation which I will have to invest for our living. My problem is what to do with my money to provide a safe and maximum income for us. Can you help?" D. T.

A) At the present advanced stage of the market and its speculative tone in recent months, I would put no more than half of your money in stocks. Even though there are no present signs of severe decline, I would play it safe in your situation. I would put $50,000 in savings institutions where your deposits are guaranteed by an agency of the U.S. Government.

I would invest — for income, not in all instances growth — $5,000 each in Norfolk & Western; Libby-Owens-Ford Glass; Maytag; Green Shoe; CIT Financial; General Motors; American Machine & Foundry; Philip Morris; Duquesne Light (Pittsburgh); Tennessee Gas Transmission. This package appears secure as to dividends and yields 4.8 per cent on current indicated dividend rates.

Q) "I am a recent widow of 65 and was advised to redeem my $1,000 E bonds. I did so but now I am sorry. I have $10,000 in cash and need more income. Any advice?" S. F.

A) I advise you first to buy a Series H bond which is as good as cash and pays current income. If you have no close relatives, I suggest you approach a life insurance company and discuss a straight life annuity, which would guarantee you the highest possible payments with safety, but without death benefit.

If you buy an annuity, I would keep for contingencies at least $3,000 in savings or H bonds on which interest payments are about to rise.
