Birmingham Shifts School Enrollments to Help Cut Overcrowding at Pierce

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — Following the recommendations of a 1952 survey of the Birmingham School District, school attendance areas will be shifted this fall to ease overcrowded conditions, according to Malcolm Ferguson, Pierce School principal.

One of the schools chiefly affected will be Pierce, the city's largest elementary school, with a current enrollment of 1,030.

Ferguson said next year's enrollment will be dropped to 885 through the shift, but added that the rated capacity of Pierce is actually only 877.

A few complaints have been registered, but Ferguson said all in all, parents have been very cooperative.

"People on the fringe area of the district must expect to have their children transferred to another good Birmingham school," he said. "I insist that quality in one school is not better than in another," Ferguson continued. "Every school has as fine a program as the other, and there is no favoritism."

Ferguson said a minimum of 100 children will have to be diverted from Pierce to the Baldwin and Beverly schools for the next three years.

The change in attendance area moves the southern boundary from Buckingham to Beverly road, leaving other boundary lines as they are now set up.

One of the most successful mobile chest X-ray campaigns in Oakland County ended here this week, according to City Health Nurse Anyce Gillette.

Turning out for the X-ray were 3,951 persons. Of them, 506 stated they had never had such an examination before. Mrs. Gillette's records showed that only 1,953 took advantage of the mobile unit when it was last here in 1951.

Classes at Holy Name School will close at 11 a. m. tomorrow, following Mass at 8:30, breakfast and distribution of report cards.

Minor fires last month caused an estimated loss of $210, with $185 listed in Fire Chief Vernon W. Griffith's May report as the estimated amount of insurance paid. Total amount of property endangered by fire was $902,500.

Firemen made 26 runs during the month, including 16 silent alarms for fires and fire investigations.

Pavement and sidewalks to serve the new Pembroke School are expected to be constructed prior to the fall opening of the school.

At this week's City Commission meeting, City Manager Donald C. Egbert was instructed to set up special assessment districts for both projects. One will be for paving Graceland from its north line to Derby and paving the 1/2 block between Derby and the city limits.

The paving program will also include a 20-foot pavement from Derby north to the city limits on Eton. Sidewalks will extend from

Program Secretary Is Appointed by Y

BIRMINGHAM — Paul R. Heins, 22, of Columbus, Ohio, will take up duties as program secretary of the Birmingham YMCA next Tuesday, it was announced today by William C. Gordon, chairman of committee management of the local Y.

Gordon said the move was prompted by the population growth in the 64 square-mile area served by the local branch.

As an assistant to Edith F. Kierbert, executive secretary, Heins will coordinate and supervise programs for boys and girls and family members of the branch here. Heins will arrive after his graduation from St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn. Born in Japan, he was brought to the United States by his missionary parents as a boy. He has done choral work with his college glee club, plays the French horn and trumpet, and speaks German and Norwegian fluently.

Check 700 PHS Students for TB

1st of 2 Mobile X-Ray Units Comes to Pontiac for Public Use

Seven hundred Pontiac High School students were checked for tuberculosis Wednesday as one of two mobile chest X-ray units spent its first day in Pontiac.

Other high school students will get the free X-rays today and Friday.

Oakland County Tuberculosis Association, co-sponsor of the mobile units' visit here, asked the public to wait until next week for their X-rays.

One unit will be open to the public from noon until 8 p. m. Mondays through Thursdays and 10 a. m. until 6 p. m. Fridays at the county courthouse, Huron and Saginaw streets, June 14-22. Another will tour the community, making neighborhood stops.

Men and women don't need to undress to take the X-rays, which take only a few minutes.

The TB Association explained X-ray not only find tuberculosis (usually curable if discovered soon enough) but often show up cancer, enlarged heart and other chest abnormalities.

Sponsors of the mobile units' four-month tour of Oakland County are the Tuberculosis Association, Oakland County Medical Society, and Michigan, Oakland County, Pontiac, Birmingham, and Ferndale-Pleasant Ridge health departments.

THEODORE E. WIERSEMA

Jefferson School Principal Appointed

Theodore E. Wiersma, Crofoot School principal since 1950, was appointed new principal of Jefferson Junior High School Wednesday.

Pontiac Board of Education named Wiersma to succeed Kline B. Hartman as principal of the 235-student junior high at 600 Motor St. Hartman has resigned to teach at Pontiac High School.

A graduate of Mount Morris College near Rockford, Ill., Wiersma came to Pontiac in 1925 as a science teacher at PHS. He has coached several athletic teams, has headed Pontiac Teachers Club and is active in Pontiac Federation of Teachers. He has a master's degree in school administration from Wayne University.

The school board has not yet appointed a Crofoot principal to take Wiersma's place.

Bloomfield to Cut Cost of High School

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — After discussion last night with architects and school administrators, Supt. of Schools Eugene L. Johnson said today that the school board "has seen its way clear to cut about $10,000 without too much revision of the plans," off the new $15 million high school plans.

Bids received last week that much over the original estimate of $15 million.

Johnson said bids will probably be awarded next week after consultation with the low bidders.

Welch Weeps at Hearings Over 'Injustice' to Protege

WASHINGTON (INS) — Joseph N. Welch, a mild-mannered Iowa-born Bostonian, did a turnabout Wednesday which lifted the Army-McCarthy hearings to an emotional peak unheard of in Senate proceedings.

The 63-year-old special Army counsel inspired spectators in the crowded caucus room to a roar of applause in defiance of the ban against "any audible manifestation of approval or disapproval."

Some housewives who saw it on television wept — and told the offices of several senators so in telephone calls soon after the action-packed session was over.

They were not alone. A member of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, which is conducting the hearings, said he saw Welch outside the hearing room "howling like a baby" after the episode was over.

It was a complete change in character for Welch, who had been apologetic to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy at several past points in the seven weeks of hearings. He had sat silent as the senator called him a "clever little lawyer" and even at one point referred to him as dishonest.

A reporter asked Welch if his clash with McCarthy would lead him to withdraw from the case. Carefully, and scarcely able to control his voice, he replied:

"How can you withdraw and how can you continue? I don't know if it is as tough as I think."

What it involved was a reply by Welch to McCarthy's disclosure that Fred Fisher, who works for Welch's Boston firm, once belonged to the National Lawyers Guild, which has been cited as a subversive organization by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

McCarthy's office was frank to admit that even though the favorable calls outnumbered the critical ones, there were four or five women who telephoned to protest about it after the session.

For Welch, boiling mad and on the verge of tears but speaking in measured tones, told McCarthy, "Until this moment, Senator, I think I never really gauged your cruelty or your recklessness."

Welch said that Fisher, a Harvard graduate who "is starting what looks to be a brilliant career," told him on his own that he had belonged to the guild and because of this the plans to have Fisher and him in the Army inquiry were cancelled.

Welch added: "Little did I dream you could be so reckless and so cruel as to do an injury to that lad. It is true he is still with Hale and Dorr (Welch's firm)."

Ike Sees Many Years of Threat by Soviet

which peaceful development of the atom can achieve.

Eisenhower delivered a vigorous pronouncement on the importance of continued Republican control of Congress. This came in reply to a question about whether he is going to endorse all GOP candidates this fall, as he did in 1952.

He said it is essential for the same party controlling the executive branch to be in control of Congress in order for that party to exercise its responsibility to the nation properly.

The President added, with a wry smile, that reporters could probably pull a question out of the hat about a particular candidate which would be embarrassing to him, but expressed hope that they would not do so.

He said in his lengthy discussion of the Indochina situation that the French forces have had a most difficult task there.

Their job would have been much easier, he added, if they had been able to win the true allegiance of the Vietnamese people.

Eisenhower said he thinks the situation has improved somewhat, in that the French are succeeding in concentrating mobile forces at points where they can be rushed to the support of areas attacked by the Reds.

Asked whether he agrees with a recent statement by Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, about the seriousness of the world struggle against Communist aggression, Eisenhower turned to American history.

He said Americans must have believed in 1864, after four years of civil war, that the nation never could be in greater danger.

West Berliner Sentenced by Reds for Recruiting

BERLIN — A West Berliner charged with trying to lure East German youths into joining the French Foreign Legion has been sentenced to five years in prison by a Communist court.

East Berlin newspapers said today the convicted man, identified only as a French sector resident named Meinecke, was arrested while attempting to recruit for the Legion at East Berlin beer halls.

Four Terrorists Killed

TUNIS, Tunisia — Four Tunisian terrorists were killed and several others wounded last night in a six-hour gunfight with security police near Gafsa. One policeman was wounded before the terrorists fled.

Judge Weighs Damage Suit

Dentist Has $200,000 Action Going Against School District

A $200,000 damage suit against Birmingham School District and a Detroit bleacher company continued today after Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland took under advisement a motion to dismiss the case.

Judge Holland is scheduled to submit an opinion on the motion at a later date.

Attorneys for the school district claimed there is no statute-provision permitting Dr. Maurice Richards, Royal Oak dentist, to file suit for damages received in a bleacher collapse at a 1948 high school football game.

Dr. Richards is asking the money for injuries to his left leg and knee which he claims are permanently disabling.

His attorney asked Judge Holland to deny the school district's motion on the grounds that the game was a profit making enterprise and that the school is not entitled to governmental immunity on that ground.

A similar motion to dismiss was denied by Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty in March, 1953, and the State Supreme Court refused to review his ruling.

A section of the bleachers used in the game has been set up in the courtroom and will be submitted as evidence by the plaintiffs today.

Flying Squirrels Raised on Farm

Ex-Government Worker Operates the Only Such Enterprise Anywhere

WASHINGTON (UP) — L. E. Greeson, retired government worker, has extended a childhood hobby into a new career. He operates the only commercial flying squirrel farm in the world.

Unlike birds, these kiting rodents of the Petauristidae family utilize the furry folds of skin stretched between their legs as the means of staying airborne. They fly on the glider principle—gliding from aloft and steering with their tails.

Greeson's ranch in the suburbs of Washington, numbers about 1,100 squirrels, not including the fledglings. Greeson makes his living selling the creatures as pets—"the best in the world." He receives orders from all over the United States, and from Europe, India and Japan.

As a boy in Texas and other parts of the West, Greeson was intrigued by flying squirrels and took them up as a hobby.

"Down there," he said, the squirrels were so plentiful that you could shake them out of a locust tree."

But Texas and the West are not the only places one may encounter these flying nut-gatherers.

"The Blue Ridge Mountain area is the best place to catch them in this part of the country," he said. "But they're in the woods right around Washington too. You have to know how to find them."

Outlining his trapping methods, Greeson said he learned that the squirrels, which are much smaller than their earth-bound relatives, "took off from the top of a tree in a quick dive and would steer with their tails, and could twist and turn in the air with never a miss."

"They would glide down—sometimes the length of a city block—and when they reached the second tree, they'd be near its base," he added. "They give a quick flip and then land with all four paws. Then they'd climb up the second tree and take off again."

Greeson explained that the squirrels "never take off without a destination in mind."

After a considerable period of squirrel watching, he learned to foretell the direction they would jump. Once attained, this skill made capture simple.

"But sometimes," he added, "we caught them in the air just like a ball."

He doesn't expect serious competition from amateurs.

"You could walk all day and never see one, and I could walk right behind you and see a hundred. I can find flying squirrels anywhere."

Cornell University Has Solatron for Experiments

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP)—Cornell University has produced its own "sun" to shine on small-scale architectural models.

The artificial sun, called the solatron, simulates the position of the sun for any latitude, season, and time of day.

College architects said the solatron could, for example, be used to show how an overhanging roof should be designed to cut off the direct rays of the high summer sun but let in the low rays of the winter sun. It will be used for such problems as designing sun control devices and studying the sun's effect on housing projects and buildings.

South Looking for Loopholes

9 Governors Assemble to Find Way of Beating Segregation Ban

RICHMOND, Va. (INS)—A new line of defense to preserve the South's traditional policy of racial segregation is being sought today in the one-time capital of the Confederacy.

Nine Southern governors and other state officials from below the Mason-Dixon line are gathered in Richmond to discuss the recent U. S. Supreme Court decision abolishing separate public schools for Negroes and whites.

Most of the governors agreed that action of the high tribunal has left them without their time-tested defense of segregation through Constitutional Law.

Except for Gov. William C. Marland, of West Virginia, the executives attending the day-long, unofficial session expressed hope they still can maintain racial separation through legal administrative procedures despite the court ruling.

Marland, an early arrival for the get-together, said that West Virginia intends to comply fully with the court decision. He added:

"I came to Richmond hopeful I can get some ideas to make it easier to integrate the schools from an administrative viewpoint."

Gov. Robert Kennon, of Louisiana came in Wednesday night and, in contrast to the West Virginian, declared that the dual school system for white and Negro pupils will be maintained in Louisiana.

"What we are looking for here," according to Kennon, "are ways and means to accomplish this within the law."

Would-Be Tarzan Saved After Leap at Rope Fails

MIDDLEVILLE (INS)—Terry McDonald, 11, who couldn't swim, tried a Tarzan-like leap for a rope dangling from a tree on the bank of the Thornapple River Wednesday. He missed and toppled into the water.

But Frank Poisel, 12, leaped in and kept Terry afloat until Jack Finkbeiner, 16, pulled them both out.

Collie Stuck in Culvert and Rabbit Gets Away

CARLETON (INS)—It took Monroe County Road Commission workers two hours last night to free Lassie, a half-grown Collie, from a 300-foot-long culvert near the home of his owner, Roy Warner of Carleton. Lassie was stuck at a bend in the 15-inch pipe and the rabbit got away.

School Board Approves 600 Teachers' Contracts

Pontiac Board of Education okayed some 600 teachers' contracts, set aside $3,520 for new bookkeeping machines and authorized the annual audit of school records Wednesday night.

Board members met in school offices, 40 Patterson St., for their regular June session.

The new machines, a payroll machine and check cutter-signer, were authorized after the board learned Vernon L. Schiller, school treasurer, had had to do school bookkeeping nights and Saturdays. The payroll machine he has to use for bookkeeping is busy during the day, Schiller said.

The school treasurer says with the new machines he hopes to have more time to supervise certain school accounts. "For instance, there are about 15 school cafeterias, each one running independently, whose records are never audited," he said.

The board authorized Ernst and Ernst to do the annual outside audit of the school system's books for $1,600.

School board members gave J. C. Cox, assistant superintendent, an $11,000 contract for next year and a $500 bonus for the double work load he's carried in the absence of retiring Supt. Frank J. DuFrain. The board gave Francis W. Staley, Eastern Junior High principal, an extra month's salary for hiring teachers and gave his secretary a $100 bonus for the extra work Staley's added duties caused her.

Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department again got permission to use school buses to take children to and from summer recreation projects, such as Frog Hollow Day Camp. The city furnishes gas, oil, insurance and drivers.

Letters from Webster PTA and Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce supported the 10-year school tax program being proposed to Pontiac voters in Monday's school election.

Board president Glenn H. Griffin commented several architects had asked to talk to the board about new ideas in school building.

"I've told them," he said, "that our future depends on this election Monday. If the tax program passes, we'll give them time at some future board meeting."

Schoolmen point out that if the program is voted down, there won't be any school building program.

Planes, Ships Hunt for PBV

Comb East China Sea for Bomber Believed Down With 17 Men

IWAKUNI, Japan (UP)—Planes and ships ranged over the East China Sea today in a vast hunt for a U.S. Navy patrol-bomber missing since Wednesday with 17 men aboard.

The search was spurred by the admittedly slim hope that the twin-engine amphibious patrol bomber could still be afloat if it landed undamaged in the sea south of Japan.

The plane "dropped out of sight" Wednesday while on a routine flight to Hong Kong from the Iwakuni Air Base. It made radio contact with the base an hour and a half after a dawn takeoff as it left the Japanese coastline near Nagasaki.

Three hours later, a distress signal was picked up and the Navy said it believed the call came from the plane. A Far East naval command spokesman said the plane must "be presumed to be down."

Aboard were seven naval officers, two Marine officers and eight Navy enlisted men. Two of the enlisted men are brothers, Donald and James Landon of Pittsburgh.

Navy and Air Force planes fanned out over the area Wednesday but failed to sight any trace of the plane or its passengers.

Naval ships also joined in the search, criss-crossing the sea where the plane was believed to have come down.

The missing men aboard the PBV brought to 26 the number unreported in Far East military plane crashes and disappearances in the past week. Thirteen others have been definitely listed as killed.

Navy headquarters in Washington said none of those aboard the PBV was from Michigan.

Peaceful A-Power Urged by Engineer

DETROIT (INS)—An atomic engineer-said in Detroit last night that peaceful use of atomic power as a major source of energy is the only method whereby the world can avoid degenerating into a cave-man economy.

H. N. Muller, assistant to the engineering vice president of Westinghouse, told the Michigan post of the American Ordnance Association:

"Increasing depletion of our conventional energy reserves (coal, gas, oil) combined with almost explosive population growth, threaten our civilization. We can sink into primitive life by exhaustion of our power as well as through war."

Irate Motorist Cusses Wrong Man—the Judge

DENVER (UP)—Leo May, 23, of Denver swore at the motorist who pulled alongside him and cautioned him about reckless driving. At the curb he challenged the man to a fight.

But three hours later he quietly pleaded guilty to charges of using profanity and received a $10 fine from Municipal Judge George McNamara, the motorist who had admonished him.

The modern armored military tank was a British invention first used in the battle of the Somme in France in 1916.

University Plans Probe Methods

Advisory Board to Act With President Hatcher in 3 Suspensions

ANN ARBOR (UP)—A course of procedure has been set up at the University of Michigan for investigation of the cases of three suspended faculty members.

The three were suspended after their refusals to answer questions of a House un-American activities subcommittee headed by Rep. Clardy (R-Mich.).

A special advisory board to University President Harlan H. Hatcher announced the course of procedure yesterday. The board is assisting Dr. Hatcher in disposal of the suspension cases.

There would be a total series of five steps.

The board and Dr. Hatcher will review the evidence together and the board will make conclusions. Dr. Hatcher then will decide whether to lift the suspensions or make a "preliminary" decision of dismissal.

Step three would follow in event of an order for dismissal. Step 4: The committee would review evidence, get further available evidence, and send its conclusions to Dr. Hatcher.

Step 5: Dr. Hatcher then would finally decide either to lift the suspension or recommend dismissal to the board of regents.

The three suspended faculty men are Dr. Horace Chandler Davis and Profs. Mark Nickerson and Clement Markert.
