Mayor Taylor Closes The Door

Commission Mum on ONE COLOR Ouster

By ED BLUNDEN

The City Commission last night joined the conspiracy of silence surrounding the firing of the administrator of Pontiac General Hospital.

Counting the seven commissioners and the 11 hospital trustees, 18 public officials have assumed vows of silence, refusing to tell anyone why the man was fired.

* * *

Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator for 11 years, was fired by the hospital trustees last Thursday with the public explanation only that it was "in the best interests of the hospital."

Since then, Euler has professed that he doesn't know why he was fired, had never been given a chance at any kind of hearing and has not since been given any reason.

The trustees, who had unanimously voted to fire him, remained unanimous in not revealing the reason why. The City Commission, which appoints the trustees, entered the picture at its meeting Tuesday.

A delegation of about 100 hospital employes demanded an investigation and presented a petition with 550 employe signatures asking to be told why Euler was fired. The petition claimed demoralization of the staff since the dismissal.

The delegation was told the commission would investigate the matter and a joint meeting was called for 5:30 p.m. yesterday at the ground floor conference room in City Hall.

The Press was barred from the meeting.

Only the commissioners, trustees and high officials were present. After 2½ hours the conference ended. City Manager Joseph E. Warren had prepared a press release.

* * *

It read simply, ". . . The commission has assured itself that the hospital board of trustees acted within their jurisdiction under the city ordinance.

"The commission has accepted the action of the board in severing Mr. Euler's connection with Pontiac General Hospital.

* * *

STILL UNANSWERED

A reporter from The Pontiac Press was then allowed to enter the room. After reading the statement he pointed out it did not answer the question, "Why was Euler fired?"

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. patted the press release and said "This is it!"

None of other public officials offered further information.

Missing from the entire meeting was Trustee Dr. Lynn Allen. Previously, he, also, had refused to offer information. Allen also is Oakland County Clerk.

CARROS THEORY

One theory on the firing centers on the associate administrator of the hospital, Donald H. Carros, second in charge and an employe of 12½ years. Euler put Carros on leave June 10 and advised him to seek a new job.

Emergency 1-Month Extension

House to Vote on Surtax Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic House chiefs have decided to call for a vote on President Nixon's surtax extension Monday — a week or more earlier than expected—after receiving assurances Republican members have closed ranks behind the plan.

The House will take up tomorrow an emergency measure to extend present withholding rates through July 31. Otherwise, they would drop to presurtax rates at midnight Monday when the original 10 per cent income tax surcharge expires.

* * *

Even if the House passes the surtax Monday, the Senate still must act in committee and on the floor, so there is no chance of enactment by the midnight June 30 deadline.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said about 170 Republican votes for surtax extension are in sight after Nixon appealed for votes at a Republican conference yesterday.

This would mean only about 50 of the 245 Democrats would have to vote favorably to pass the measure. Some Republicans suggested, however, that Ford's count may be optimistic.

After head counts showed substantial lack of firm Democratic support, leaders had postponed a vote scheduled for yesterday. Ford's report, however, caused them to reconsider plans to let the surtax lie over until after the July 4 holiday.

* * *

The surtax issue became linked with legislation on the federal program for aid to dependent children. Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., blocked short-cut action on the withholding extension yesterday, demanding the House move on a bill to lift a freeze on the number of children who may be included in the program.

The freeze, voted more than a year ago, actually never has gone into effect. Congress suspended it for a year, which expires Monday. The Senate has voted for outright repeal, but that bill has not been acted on in the House.

After Burton's move, a Senate-House conference was set up and leaders expected to bring up legislation at least to continue the suspension tomorrow.

New-Capitol Funds Lose; 2nd Push Set

LANSING (UPI) — Supporters of a new capitol building, to eventually cost $55 to 75 million, today recovered from a surprise House defeat of their plans yesterday. They predict ultimate victory in their battle to get the structure under way.

At issue was a 1969-70 appropriation budget which included $4 million for groundbreaking of the proposed capitol to be located four blocks west of the existing building.

* * *

Members who opposed the capitol for a multitude of reasons joined ranks yesterday to block passage of the measure, 51-53, with 56 votes needed for approval.

Supporters immediately called for reconsideration of the measure today.

"We're not defeated," declared Appropriations Committee Chairman William R. Copeland, Wyandotte Democrat.

PASSAGE PREDICTED

"The bill will pass with the $4 million in it. I'm sure once the members have cooled off a bit and think this thing over, we'll pick up the votes," he said.

He said arguments the present 90-year-old capitol was sufficient for legislative needs were "gobbledygook."

* * *

"Many expert people have spent years studying the needs and plans for a new capitol," he added.

Opponents complained the building would be too expensive and called for alternate methods, including extensive remodeling of the present capitol.

* * *

FTC Won't Delay Hearings on Tough Smoking Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite pleas from the tobacco industry and over the objection of its chairman, the Federal Trade Commission is going ahead with hearings on a tough, new cigarette smoking warning.

The FTC yesterday rejected, by a 3-2 vote, a move to postpone the hearings until after Congress takes some action on the smoking-health controversy.

* * *

The vote paved the way for the FTC to open hearings next Tuesday with testimony from antismoking witnesses led by Surgeon General William S. Stewart and his predecessor, Dr. Luther L. Terry.

* * *

The hearings will deal with a proposed trade regulation requiring all cigarette advertising — in newspapers and magazines as well as television and radio commercials — to state clearly and prominently:

"Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death resulting from cancer, coronary heart disease, chronic bronchitis, pulmonary emphysema and other diseases."

Purposely, the FTC set the beginning of the hearings as soon as possible after the expiration of the 1965 Cigarette Labeling Act.

* * *

RICHARD OGILVIE

Tax Plan Crucial in Illinois Crisis

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Legislative leaders facing an imminent adjournment deadline are seeking compromise on a new state income tax, which Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie says is needed to save Illinois from bankruptcy.

Unless the tax is passed, Ogilvie has declared, the state may have to halt operation of "penal institutions, prisons, universities, children's hospitals and state parks."

Ogilvie, a Republican, is pressing for a 3 per cent tax on incomes of individuals and corporations. Democrats are insisting on a lower rate for individuals and a higher one for corporations. The governor contends this would be unconstitutional.

Republicans hold a 39-19 majority in the Senate and a 96-81 edge in the House. All face reelection campaigns in 1970, and many have been reluctant to back the governor on the tax.

The current session ends at midnight Monday. Unless the bill clears the Senate by Saturday, it would be too late to receive mandatory once-a-day House reading for three days before passage, even if the Assembly sits Sunday.

Summer Turns On Heat and Showers

It looks like Pontiac area residents will swelter in sizzling temperatures through Saturday.

The weatherman predicts highs of 90 degrees today and tomorrow and hot temperatures Saturday.

Occasional periods of showers and thunderstorms are forecast for late today, tonight and tomorrow, and there's a chance of showers Saturday.

Precipitation probabilities are 50 per cent today, 70 per cent tonight, and 50 per cent tomorrow.

Expert Sees Urgent Need for Action as Mental Illness Rises Among Young

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An expert in the field says mental illness among U.S. children has jumped 150 per cent in the last 10 years, pointing up an urgent need for action by the President and Congress.

Michael Gorman, executive director of the National Committee Against Mental Illness, said the nation has at least four million emotionally disturbed children.

He told a meeting sponsored by the city Health Department yesterday at least a fourth of the mentally ill children need treatment. But, Gorman said, 15 states have no facilities, public or private, for treating mentally troubled juveniles and another 24 states have no public institutions to take in children from low-and middle-income groups.

He said two-thirds of all afflicted youngsters, "are quite literally lost, bounced around from training schools to reformatories, to jails, and whipped through all kinds of understaffed agencies until they vanish."

Gorman previewed a report prepared by the Joint Commission on Mental Health of Children, representing 53 national organizations, for presentation soon to Congress.

A study showed that admission of teenagers to state hospitals has risen one and a half times in the last decade, he said.

The joint commission has drafted what Gorman described as a "latter-day Magna Carta for mentally ill young people."

It calls for creation of:

- A president's council of advisers on children.
- A commission on child development in each state.
- At least one local child and youth authority in each state.
- Some 100 child development councils throughout the nation.

A Monumental Mistake?

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois House passed without opposition and sent to the governor yesterday a bill to make the First National Bank building of Shawneetown a state monument.

* * *

The bank is renowned for its action of 125 years ago — turning down the city of Chicago for a loan because the bank directors didn't feel Chicago would ever amount to anything.

During earlier debate on the bill, some downstate members of the legislature said the bank directors have been proved right.

Commission, Trustees Mum on Euler Firing

Euler reportedly had been opposed to Carros assuming the high post because of difficulty in dealing with employes.

Hospital trustees may have wanted Carros to take over the top post when Euler was to retire after his 65th birthday next May. Euler apparently did not want Carros to get the post and did not want to retire at that time — he could have stayed another year under employe rules.

Under this theory, hospital trustees may be moving to place Carros in the post after getting rid of Euler.

During the joint secret session someone tampered with a camera belonging to The Press.

★ ★ ★

The officials expressed annoyance at picture-taking prior to the meeting. After the camera was left unguarded it was found with the back open and film exposed.

★ ★ ★

Anticipating such a move, the film had been removed, however. Destroyed were random shots of a plastic cup.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., in particular, had expressed annoyance with the picture-taking and said, "Don't run that picture. "I'll be known as closed-door Taylor."

Euler said this morning that he had a morning meeting scheduled with his attorney, Clarence Patterson, to discuss legal matters in the situation.

Euler said he didn't know whether the joint statement satisfactorily cleared him of any wrongdoing.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE — An explosion and fire which swept the Interlake Steel Corp. plant at Toledo yesterday killed three workmen and injured five others. Officials of the firm said a spark from a welder's torch set off fumes in a tank containing tar and coke. The fire raged out of control for more than an hour.

Nixon Plan Sheer Illusion, Cong Front Says in Paris

PARIS (AP) — The Vietcong's provisional revolutionary government asserted today that President Nixon's hopes of maintaining the present Saigon regime and de-Americanizing the Vietnam war "are sheer illusions."

In a slashing attack on the Nixon administration, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, head of the delegation, told the 23rd full-scale session of the Paris peace talks that the United States is pursuing a "warlike and deceitful policy" that can lead only to prolonged fighting.

Mrs. Binh challenged Nixon's statement at his June 19 news conference that U.S. policy was on the "right road" and his hope that some progress might be registered in substantive peace talks.

"Mr. Nixon's road," she said, "is in fact the dead-end road of a war of aggression which was pursued by the Johnson administration. By following this road, Mr. Nixon can but reap still heavier defeats.

"All the Nixon administration's hopes of exerting maximum military pressure to win a position of strength on the battlefield as well as at the conference table, maintaining the puppet administration and army and de-Americanizing the war are sheer illusions."

Mrs. Binh criticized the Nixon plan for replacing U.S. forces with South Vietnamese troops, a plan Nixon has said he hoped could lead to the withdrawal of all U.S. ground forces by the end of 1970.

Big Storms Hit in W. Michigan

By The Associated Press

Heavy storms and at least one tornado tore through Newaygo and Kent counties early today, doing at least $50,000 damage.

State Police reported tornadoes sighted near Bitely, Hess Lake and Grant in Newaygo County, north of Grand Rapids, and heavy storm damage in Cedar Springs, in northern Kent County.

★ ★ ★

Most heavily damaged were two mobile home firms, which reported about 20 trailers damaged or destroyed.

Police estimated damage at Grant's R & H Mobile Homes at between $20,000 and $30,000.

OTHER DAMAGE

Another trailer firm in Cedar Springs reported damages amounting to $30,000 to $35,000.

Police reported numerous trees knocked over, cottages damaged and power lines knocked down throughout the area, but could offer no specific damage figures besides those of the trailer firms.

The U.S. Weather Bureau meanwhile forecast continued turbulence for the entire west Michigan area, with severe turbulence in regions of thunderstorms.

Surface winds were expected to reach 30 miles per hour, with stronger blasts in gusts in thunderstorms.

State Budget Changes Few

LANSING AP) — Gov. William G. Milliken's proposed $1.51-billion budget for the fiscal year begining July 1 shows increasing signs of emerging from legislative review very much as he proposed it.

In the House where opposition Democrats hold a bare four-vote majority, eight budget bills are some $25.9 millin less than Milliken proposed despite addition of $15.4 million to earlier Senate allocations totaling $583.2 million. Milliken asked $624.5 million.

Five of those bills received substantial House approval yesterday with virtually no attempts to amend them on the floor. Three more remained to be acted on by midnight tomorrow.

Only the $41.8-million capital outlay allocation, now some $10.7 million less than Milliken's January proposal, has run into trouble. Opposition to earmarking $4 million for development of a new capitol was expected to be overcome.

FAILS TO SET PACE

An interchamber compromise on an $849.7-million public school appropriation, $4.1 million above Milliken's recommendations, apparently has not set the pace for legislative fiscal action.

The Senate, just beginning to receive changes in House bills cut $41.3 million from the Milliken budget. House additions raised the net excision to $25.9 million.

Sen. Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, appropriations committee chairman, said yesterday that two bills were reported out with net reductions.

Cuts totaling $1.15 million were made in the $24.4 million natural resources and agriculture department allocations voted by the House, said Zollar.

But in return the Senate would be asked to approve an extra $96.295 to the $34.96 million voted by the lower chamber for public safety, and Zollar said he would be "forced to add $6-to-9 million" to the $244.6 million Social Services Department allocation.

Federally controlled welfare programs require the addition, said Zollar, who earlier termed Milliken's budget a "deficit" that would require "many millions of dollars" to support.

Want Higher Pay, Pension Plan

Animals Star in Labor Dispute

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — About 600 of entertainment's most winning performers are growling mad, a spokesman would have us believe. They feel they've lived a dog's life in movies and on television.

So Lassie, Gentle Ben the Bear, Clarence the Cross-Eyed-Lion and friends are forming a union—sort of.

They want better pay, residuals for reruns, screen credits, a pension plan and annual awards—like the Oscars.

Their spokesman, Ralph Helfer, sort of a Doctor Dolittle of labor unions and owner of the Africa U.S.A. movie animal compound, explained the beastly situation at a news conference yesterday.

ANIMAL RIGHTS

"Professional animals are not treated with the respect they deserve," he said. "There are many shows based on animal movie stars and they should get the same residuals as human movie stars."

For instance, Helfer said, an elephant made a commercial for $200—peanuts. A human costar gets fat checks every time the commercial is shown.

★ ★ ★

Not only that, said Helfer, some movie and television companies allow house pets—mere amateurs—to perform.

The union—as yet unnamed— is being formed by owners of 15 movie animal compounds near Hollywood.

CURRENT SALARIES

They want standardized salaries; each owner now sets his own. Helfer revealed his own rate for the "big four" animals in demand: bears, lions, chimps and elephants. He charges $75 a day for beast in a cage; $200 on a leash; and for special stunts it's $500 and up. He said famous cats like Clarence can command $1,000 a day.

★ ★ ★

Owners and trainers admit they—not the animals—would bank extra salaries. But they promise their union members—from insects and snakes to lions and sheep—will live high on the hog.

Many in Cairo, Ill., Evacuated by Fire

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — Flames flashed through a five-block-long warehouse complex in this racially tense Mississippi River community today and acrid chemical fumes caused evacuation of an estimated 3,000 to 4,000 residents of the area.

Officials said the fire apparently was not connected with recent racial violence.

City police and state troopers cruised the streets of the northern half of this city of 8,000 urging residents to leave the smoke-ridden area.

Later, after it appeared the fumes were nontoxic, the evacuation alert was canceled and residents were permitted to return to their homes.

Police officials estimated about half of Cairo's population left their dwellings as the fumes permeated an area from midtown to the northern edge of the city.

Parks 'Giveaway' Is Averted

LANSING (AP) — Prompt action by the House Taxation Committee, at the request of the Natural Resources Department, has averted a threatened legislative "giveaway" of state parks and recreation lands.

And the Upper Peninsula state senator who introduced the bill responsible for the cloudburst controversy says he was only trying to raise "an equitable amount of tax" for the peninsula.

The House committee Wednesday drafted amendments to delete provisions of a bill that would require the Natural Resources Department to catalogue some 3.3 million acres of parks and forests, determine their worth and offer them for sale.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Joseph Mack, D - Ironwood, got the recommendation of two Senate committees and received a 29-4 upper chamber approval before its implications were realized.

TAX PROVISION

In reviewing the measure, the Senate did include provision for a 45-cent-per-acre tax to be paid by the department proportionately to area school districts, township and counties surrounding the lands.

Payment of the tax would allow the department to continue to hold the lands.

In addition, the committee drafted an amendment which, if adopted by the House, would delay the bill's effect until Jan. 1, 1971.

"This bill has been, you might say, perfected," commented Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, chairman of the House committee.

"Joe Mack has the 45-cents-an-acre tax, under his arm, and Dr. Ralph A. MacMullan (Natural Resources Department Director) still has the say on what lands are sold," Montgomery said.

* * *

The 45-cent acreage tax would supplement a 20-cent-per-acre "swamp tax" now paid by the state to local units and school districts for lands taken over because of tax defaults by private owners.

'Apathetic' Voters Target in Brandon School Tax Bid

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — Board of Education President Ronald Sutton has called on residents to drop their "apathetic attitude" and turn out in force at the repeat millage election July 28.

The election follows one June 9 when about half of the registered voters in the district failed to vote on the package of 14.8 mills and building bond proposal for $3,675,000.

Registration deadline for the upcoming election is 5 p.m. tomorrow. Voters may register at the Ortonville Village offices on Mill Street.

The board's millage request has been lowered to three years because of possibility of state tax reform within the next few years. Originally it had been proposed for five years.

'VOTERS' FAILURE

Sutton said the principle reason for the defeat of the 14.8 millage package was the failuer of several voters, who probably favored the package, to vote.

"The people who vote negatively on school propositions always make it a point to vote but the positive residents tend to be lax and apathetic at times," Sutton said.

Voers turned down the millage package by a 444 to 422 vote. The school district has about 2,000 registered voters.

Supt. of Schools Clyde Fisher explained the 14.8-mill package could not be reduced because that amount is the absolute minimum required for district operation in 1969-70.

"I am absolutely baffled that the millage election failed. We thought we made it clear to the voters that we cannot get by on anything less than 14.8 mills for operation," Fisher said.

He said further consternation over the failure stemmed from the fact that voters turned down a 1966 proposal to annex Brandon to adjoining districts by a four-to-one margin.

The superintendent said that in event of a second failure, operational cutbacks would be so severe that all semblance of a quality education would be lost.

"I will recommend to the board of education that the State Department of Education be notified and immediate annexation proceedings be initiated if the millage loses again. We cannot operate this school district suitably on anything less than the 14.8 mills," Fisher said.

CORE SUBJECTS

He said a second millage defeat would mean a reduction of the curriculum to strictly core subjects, elimination of all athletic activities, reduction of offerings in music and art, staff reductions, no new teachers, double shifting, half-day sessions and reduction of transportation services.

Sutton said he doesn't know what the board of education's response will be to Fisher's recommendation that Brandon be annexed to adjoining school districts if the millage proposal loses again.

"At this time I just cannot comment on the board's thinking because we quite frankly haven't discussed it fully," Sutton added.

"All I can say is that the Brandon District will be faced with sharp cutbacks and will, in general, be in serious difficulty if the millage package loses again. I am hopeful that a better voter turnout will give us a different decision at the next election."

The June 9 bond issue vote on $3,675,000 to provide funds for a new high school and renovations and additions to existing elementary facilities, is being recounted today at the Oakland County Board of Elections office. The bond issue failed on a 410-410 tie vote.

Both are in excellent condition, but one (right) has been a bit pensive about nursing. Beauman said she needs a bottle about every two hours.

Utility Shifts Lapeer County HQ to Pontiac

LAPEER — Customers of Consumers Power Co. in Lapeer County will come under the administrative and operating supervision of the company's Pontiac division, effective July 1.

The Lapeer area has been included in the company's Flint Division for several years.

The change will not directly affect customers, according to Hugh Newton, Lapeer area manager for Consumers Power.

The switch is made to consolidate, for operating purposes, the company's Lapeer County gas service facilities. Eventually, the Metamora and Hadley areas, which are served out of Pontiac, will be served out of Lapeer, Newton explained.

PRIMARILY GAS

"Consumer Power's Pontiac division is primarily a gas-service division and the integration of Lapeer County into the Pontiac division operations makes considerable sense for purely mechanical reasons," according to Charles F. Brown, Pontiac Division manager.

He added the Lapeer area's continuing rapid growth and the countywide nature of the company's gas service made consolidation of the entire county into the Lapeer office setup "most desirable" for administrative and service reasons.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac division currently serves 70,500 natural gas customers, mostly in Oakland County. Flint division gas customers in Lapeer County total just over 6,500.

Timetable Arranged on Sewer Legal Work

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Supervisor Roy Wahl and officials of the Michigan Water Resources Commission met this week to arrange a timetable of legal work on the township's responsibilities for the giant Clinton-Oakland sewer interceptor and related local sewage projects.

"The Water Resources Commission will approve the schedule we worked out on the approval of the Township Board of Trustees," Wahl said following the Tuesday meeting.

★ ★ ★

The board will decide July 14 on the schedule. The schedule calls for financial application due by Sept. 1, awarding of bids by Dec. 15, sale of bonds Dec. 22 and construction to begin Dec. 29.

3rd Party Invites Public to Saturday Meeting

CLARKSTON — The public is invited to Saturday night's meeting of the 18th and 19th District American Independent party at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main.

Guest speaker at the 8 p.m. meeting will be Larry Lee of Lincoln Park, first vice chairman of the party in Michigan. Also on the agenda will be the showing of a film speaking out against sex education in the public schools.

Edwards Hits Plan to Cut State Aid for Chronically Ill

County Board of Supervisors Chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr. has lashed out at pending state legislation on medical care for the indigent.

The legislation would reduce state reimbursements for the chronically ill at the County Sanatorium to $15 to $17 a day, the rate being paid nursing homes.

Edwards cited the recent action of the State Health Department placing Bloofmeidd Hills Nursing Center on provisional standing for 30 days because of "operational deficiences." The health department's action was preceded by a mass resignation of some 12 licensed practical and registered nurses late in May.

"It would appear that the left hand does not know what the right hand is doing in Lansing," Edwards said.

House Bill 2035, which could put counties out of the chronic-care business, would increase the load on nursing homes, officials report.

★ ★ ★

"The transfer of many of our patients to a general nursing-home facility would, in effect, be putting them in death row," Edwards charged.

★ ★ ★

It costs the county $38 a day for the 120 chronic-care patients at the sanatorium, records show. The legislation, due for consideration at a Senate-House conference Saturday, would halve the available funds.

Supervisor Unit Tables County Survey of Soil

A countywide soil survey, costing county government $112,679, appears doomed.

The board of supervisors finance committee voted to table the survey yesterday. It would have had to be implemented by July 1 in order to take advantage of a $30,000 savings.

Presented by the U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service, the survey would have cost $325,542, with nearly two-thirds picked up by the federal government and by Michigan State University.

Board Chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr. said, "Just because the county gets more than 50 per cent of funding on any project, it doesn't make that project mandatory."

'NO LONGER AGRICULTURAL'

He claimed that county drain, public works and road commission departments would still have to make soil borings before undertaking projects.

"The county is no longer agriculutral. I think you'd be throwing $112,000 out of the window as far as benefits to the taxpayers are concerned."

★ ★ ★

Bill Humphrey at the Soil Conservation Service said the county would eventually be mapped by his department, but that it could take until the middle of the 21st century to do it.

He contedned a survey would assist in development plans for the county.

Bank Bandit Gets $3,000 in Holdup

BIRMINGHAM — An armed bandit held up the main office of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank at 1040 E. Maple last yesterday morning and escaped with $3,000 in cash, Birmingham police said.

The robber entered the bank about 10:40 a.m. and demanded cash from a teller at gunpoint. The bandit exited through a rear door to the parking lot.

★ ★ ★

Police said witnesses noted that the suspect, a slightly built white male wearing thick black frame glasses, ran across the parking lot and jumped a fence.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents are assisting local police in the investigation. The same bank was held up about a year ago.

Christ Church Women Seek Support Against 8 in Sit-In

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A group of women parishioners at Christ Church Cranbrook are attempting to generate support against eight other white Episcopalian women who successfully completed a sit-in at Michigan Episcopal Bishop Richard S. Emrich's office this morning.

★ ★ ★

The eight Episcopal white women ended their sit-in after the diocese executive council agreed to meet with representatives of the National Black Economic Development Conference (NBEDC).

★ ★ ★

The NBEDC is demanding $500 million in reparations payments from white churches for alleged racial discimination including $100,000 from Christ Church Cranbrook.

Bishop Emrich had earlier refused to meet with NBEDC because it would "break precedent." The sit-in against this stand then began.

CALLS ON WOMEN

In a new turn, Mrs. Robert Flint, past president of Christ Church's Episcopal Women, has called on her fellow women parishioners to demonstrate that the majority of the women do not back the action of the eight dissenters.

★ ★ ★

"We feel the majority of the Christ Church congregation do in no way support the sit-in action and support Bishop Emrich's original stand against meeting the NBEDC personnel.

★ ★ ★

"If we remain silent, then it can be inferred that the majority of the churchwomen support the dissenters.

★ ★ ★

"I definitely feel that the majority of the women of Chirst Church are fully opposed to the activity shown by a handful of people. The only way we can prove it is by signing a petietion and presenting that petition and a letter to Bishop Emrich."

RECOMMENDATION CONTRADICTED

Mrs. Flint has asked Christ Church women to come to her residence at 1577 Island in Bloomfield Township today to sign the petition.

★ ★ ★

Bishop Emrich's original refusal to meet with NBEDC contradicted a recommendation by the Michigan Diocesans programs committee. The women who sat in at his office were supported by ministers from 25 Episcopalian churches.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Belle Hargreaves of Farmington, president of the Episocpal Church Women of Michigan, was one of the occupiers of Emrich's office.

★ ★ ★

"I don't enjoy this kind of thing, but you can only go so long in one direction. When nothing happens you have to try something esle," she explained.

★ ★ ★

The eight dissenters believe the Black Manifesto demands as presented by the NBEDC were "just and correct" and present a challenge to the church.

Rochester High Gets Assistant Principal

ROCHESTER — Robert D. Esko, a former Madison Heights teacher, has been appointed assistant principal of Rochester High School, effective July 14.

Esko was a teacher of biology and general science at Madison Heights from 1961 to 1967. During his last two years in that district, he was head of the high school science department. He was president of the Madison Education Association during 1966-67.

Most recently, Esko has been employed by the Metropolitan Detroit Bureau of School Studies as a research assistant. Esko and his wife, Darlene, live in Royal Oak.

County Advised to Take On Repair of 4-H Fairgrounds

The 4-H Fairgrounds on Perry Street will most likely get $5,000 in maintenance money in time to dress it up for the annual 4-H Fair the first week in August.

The County Board of Supervisors Finance Committee yesterday recommended that the county assume maintenance responsibility at the site. For 18 years 4-H has attempted to keep the property in repair, mainly through a volunteer program.

"Volunteer labor isn't easy to get these days," noted county extension agent William Mullen.

The county is eligible for 50 per cent reimbursement on any money spent at the site, according to Muller. He said funds are available from the county fair section of the State Department of Agriculture.

The maintenance take-over was viewed as a stopgap measure until the county can begin development of the 4-H site at Davisburg.

"It appears that project will be moved back at least two years in priority," said Fred Houghten, R-Avon Township, a member of the finance committee. "In the meantime the property on Perry Street must be repaired."

This year's projects involved fencing and painting on the proeprty.

Parents of Youths in Killing Are Sued

BOSTON (AP) — The administrator of the estate of a Wethersfield, Conn., youth slain last August yesterday filed a $1-million damage suit against the parents of two youths convicted in connection with the killing.

Named in the suit filed in Suffolk Superior Court were Mr. and Mrs. George Witthoeft of Beverly Hills, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Simoni of 15525 Birwood, Beverly Hills.

★ ★ ★

Their sons, Ross G. Witthoeft and Craig Simoni, both 17, pleaded guilty to charges in connection with the fatal stabbing of Robert V. Phelps of Wethersfield, Conn.

Witthoeft was giver a 10-20 year sentence for mansalughter and Simoni received a 5-10 year sentence for being an accessory.

★ ★ ★

The suit, filed by Francis Wynne, said the parents of the convicted boys failed to properly supervise and discipline their sons after allegedly knowing the sons were likely to engage in violent acts.

For Huron Valley School District

Panel to Study Sex Ed Programs

A citizens committee to recommend what type of formal or informal sex education — if any — should be implemented in the Huron Valley School District was approved by the school board last night.

Committee members will be chosen soon. They will include physicians, ministers, educators and laymen.

★ ★ ★

The committee is also being asked to ascertain and delineate what information is now being offered in the 1968-69 year as a part of the curriculum that might be construed as sex education.

★ ★ ★

Currently, the school district has no formal sex education courses.

According to Supt. Dr. Theodore Haggadone, the schools do have "the traditional type programs in fifth and sixth grades with a film on menstruation for girls and one about growing up for boys."

An elective home and family living sociology course is also available to junior high and senior high school students.

Haggadone emphasized, "Our board is not interested in putting in a sensational kind of program against the wishes of the people. We support our public and will teach along lines which are educational and in keeping with the community."

The board directed the citizens committee to acquire and review all written and visual material on sex education available from medical, church, educational and other sources.

$500 BUDGETED

The committee also has been authorized to consuit with whom-so-ever they feel could provide a better insight into the study material.

A budget of $500 was authorized to cover expenses and to use in gathering material.

The board also expressed a willingness to hold a public hearing if desired by citizens.

Dr. Haggadone noted: "If the committee should advocate a program in sex education, we would probably offer this as an evening course for a semester . . . so that our public would be perfectly aware of it before we put it in the schools."

TAUGHT BY EXPERTS

"We also would hope that it will be taught by experts, for example, physicians and clergy may teach portions of the course," he added.

"We don't see any need for great speed. We're not faddists, we don't have to jump in so quickly. We're going to do what's right for the children." Haggadone said.

Plan Would Restore Rights, Land

Canada Moves to Aid Indians

OTTAWA (AP) — Indians who lost their land and their rights when the white man came to Canada may regain both after more than 350 years of waiting.

Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien presented Parliament Wednesday with a long-range government plan that would remove all legal discrimination; give Canada's 237,490 registered Indians the same services provided other Canadians, and abolish the reservation system.

Indian leaders who came to Ottawa to hear his presentation received it cautiously.

"We have our suspicions," said Walter Dieter, president of the national Indian Brotherhood. "We want to see it happen. Then we'll believe it."

Chretien gave no timetable for the plan, but said he hoped it would be possible to repeal the Indian Act and abolish the federal government's Indian affairs branch within five years. If implemented, this would end the status of Indians as wards of the Ottawa government, and require the provinces to provide Indians with the services they accord their other citizens.

Some Indians feel safer under the federal wing.

Chief Max Gros-Louis, secretary-treasurer of the Association of Quebec Indians, said: "The Indians of Quebec don't want anything to do with that bunch of bandits in the province of Quebec."

★ ★ ★

But Chretien stressed the purpose of the new government policy is to give the Indians all the freedom that Canadian citizenship implies, and they would be under provincial control only to the extent that all other Canadians are under provincial control.

OWNERSHIP RIGHTS

Under the government proposal, the Indians would get ownership of the 6 million acres of reservation land they now occupy. Most of this acreage is in Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Some of these reserves have tremendous development potential or rich oil and mineral deposits. But under the Indian Act, anything done with the lands requires Chretien's approval, and private investors have been reluctant to supply capital for projects on land that cannot be pledged as security.

★ ★ ★

"Indians do not have control of their lands except as the government allows, and this is no longer acceptable to them," said Chretien. "They now want real control, and the government believes they should have it."

As an interim measure, Chretien said, the government intends to provide $50 million over the next five years for economic development of Indian communities.

Students Stand Sound

Two college student projects that augur well for collegiate stability at the Nation's campuses find expression at East Lansing and at Lake Forest, Ill.

A group of 25 Michigan State University undergraduates headed by Dr. CLYDE MORRIS, an instructor in communications, will set out on a national 10-week tour to acquaint the citizenry with the inherent soundness of student attitudes in the face of the disruption caused by a slim minority of students.

Dubbed "Dialogue '69," the mission is backgrounded by a campus study that, according to Morris, "showed that two-thirds of the seniors and freshmen see eye-to-eye with their parents on most things." He added, "There is your generation gap—shot to pieces."

At Lake Forest College, 100 students meeting as an organization called the National Student Conference in Revolution considered programs to counteract campus disorder and university building take-overs should they eventuate next fall. Epitomizing the sentiment of the conference of "squares," as the participants termed themselves, is its precept: "We have worked hard to obtain our education, and we will work just as hard to prevent our college opportunity from being interfered with."

★ ★ ★

At a time when the campus atmosphere of the land seems heavy with dissent, demonstrations and violence, these down-to-earth revelations come as welcome and refreshing straws in the wind.

Powell Gains in High Court

The real significance of the "WARREN court's" latest and (many will hope) last judicial bombshell does not lie in the specifics of the distasteful ADAM CLAYTON POWELL affair.

POWELL

What the court did was merely to reaffirm the basic constitutional principle that the people exercise the sovereign power in the choice of their representatives. They may elect a saint or a sot, a philosopher or a philanderer, so long as he is at least 25 years of age, has been a U.S. citizen for seven years and is a resident of the state he was elected in. Congress has no right to pass on their judgment.

Congress does, however, have the power to expel members who have brought disgrace and dishonor upon their high office.

Unfortunately in the case of Powell, the House chose the path of exclusion rather than expulsion, thereby setting itself up for a collision with the judicial branch of the government and—if anybody really wants to press the matter that far—posing a serious constitutional issue.

But outraged as many are by POWELL'S past behavior and the Supreme Court's seeming vindication of him, he is certainly not worth letting things come to such a pass.

★ ★ ★

This is an instance where "the law's delay" may be a very useful thing. Let the lawyers take it over now and engage in all the legalistic ploys and counterploys so dear to their hearts. Let passions cool while the case makes its slow way through the maze of the law. Let POWELL wait for his back pay as he made others wait for justice in the slander action that started the whole mess so many years ago.

Federal Agencies Proliferate

"The mare's nest of overlapping agencies and duplicating programs that the new blue-ribbon review panel (Hoover Commission) will have to unsnarl is truly staggering," says U.S. Sen. JAMES B. PEARSON, R-Kan.

★ ★ ★

His digging uncovered the idiocy of three separate Federal programs being involved in the treatment of deaf children, 30 having a part in teacher-training activities, nine that deal with job recruitment, and five subsidizing on-the-job training projects.

★ ★ ★

Wordcrafter a Flop as Handcrafter

By L. GARY THORNE
City Editor

I am unhandy. When it comes to things mechanical, I am an absolute nonlearner. This affliction is both embarrassing and costly.

THORNE

And there are others so infected. There must be some genetic reason for being totally and finally inept.

As someone once told me, my hands are only good for washing each other. It's that bad.

As a child my parents advised me to seek some line of employment wherein the most mechanical task would be to open doors or dial a telephone. I still get a lot of wrong numbers.

★ ★ ★

I'm bad, really bad. For example, the purchase of our first home was arranged so that I painted the interior in exchange for the builder paying the closing costs. The paint job had to pass FHA inspection. It took me four complete coats to pass that inspection.

Of course, I repeatedly vow — after each failure — never again to attempt painting, nailing, sawing or any other household deed requiring even the most fundamental use of the hands.

But, as every homeowner knows full well, this is not always possible. Repairmen are extremely costly. They cost even more when called to repair a repair.

Still I never learn. I have erected whole walls of paneling only to have a kindly neighbor come in, tear it down and redo it.

Once I even built framing for a wall on the basement floor, discovering too late that the wall was constructed around a pole. This is cleverness.

SHOW-OFF

My wife was in a panic. She even called in the neighbors and exhibited my stupidity.

Though I know full well my handicap, I defend my incompetence by claiming never to have the proper tools. I contend, "Well, if I had the tools, this job wouldn't be that tough."

Despite my hang-up on things mechanical, I sometimes feel I'm making progress. On occasion I have changed light bulbs successfully, turned radios on and off, and changed a tire.

I may even be winning over my wife. She'll now say, "Well, why don't you try it? If you can't get it to run, then we'll call a repairman."

This is heady stuff.

★ ★

But the real important sign that I'm winning her confidence came recently when she presented me with a genuine toolbox. This is the badge of handyman. I immediately got my screwdriver and two wrenches to put in it.

That toolbox sure does a lot for a guy's ego. I wonder if that was the idea?

Now To Weigh The Evidence!

David Lawrence Says:

News-Media Freedom Periled

WASHINGTON — Americans are dismayed at the suppression of newspapers by the South Vietnamese government, which considered the publications hostile. But here in the United States today cases are pending in the courts which could lead to complete government control not only of radio and television but also of all printed publications.

LAWRENCE

Because there are often legal technicalities involved, the general public doesn't always feel right away the impact of developments.

★ ★ ★

There was, for instance, a case decided in a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals this very week which ordered the Federal Communications Commission to hold a new hearing on the licensing of a television station in Mississippi, whose present operators have been accused of unfairness in connection with the presentation of racial questions.

If a radio or TV station can be commanded to present in its programs opinions which the government may order it to include, an attempt might be made some day to make the same thing apply to the printed publications in America, too.

INTENT OF PHRASE

Licenses are issued to radio or television stations by the Federal Communications Commission under a law which says they shall be granted in accordance with "public interest, convenience and necessity."

This phrase was intended originally to enable the FCC to decide between applicants solely on the basis of their capability to build an effective broadcasting system and serve a community over a wavelength allocated to the station. Nowhere did Congress say that the FCC has the right to tell a station what to broadcast or what to omit.

★ ★ ★

If a government agency like the FCC now can tell a radio or television station what it shall broadcast, the post Office Department might try to deny the use of second-class mails to any publication which does not print what the federal government thinks it should.

There is as yet no law requiring newspapers to give "equal space" to contending candidates, and one reason is that the court decisions of the past have denied authority of this kind to the government.

THREAT TO AMENDMENT

If the Supreme Court, however, insists that the government must regulate the methods of presenting news, either over radio or television or by the printed word, the First Amendment to the Constitution — which says Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press — will have fallen by the wayside.

A government-controlled press and radio is not desired by the American people. But to assure themselves against such a Fascist or Communist tendency, a new amendment to the Constitution will have to be adopted, restricting the right of the federal agencies to interfere with the presentation of news on controversial questions.

Bob Considine Says:

Pullout Won't Continue Unless Ho Follows Suit

NEW YORK — It is not only apprehension over the possibility of a big enemy summer offensive that has limited the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam to 25,000. Three or perhaps even four times that many could be pulled out without jeopardizing those who remain.

CONSIDINE

President Nixon's hand has been stayed because Hanoi would hail any very large withdrawal of American troops as a positive admission that we now acknowledge that intervention in the war was a mistake in the first place and escalation a criminal act. There would be peoples and nations who would agree.

★

So there will be no further withdrawals in all probability until Ho shows some sign — however slight — that this movement of ours is not along a one-way street.

All 5,000 hotel and motel rooms in the Cape Kennedy moonport area of Florida have been reserved for the Apollo 11 shoot. The number of cars expected will create a 500-mile bumper-to-bumper jam unless police figure out some way to disperse it.

It is possible that the multitudes wanting to watch the most momentous takeoff since Columbus will eat and drink the whole area dry.

★ ★ ★

But then they'll all go back where they came from and the basic economic problems of Brevard County will continue. There is a feeling here similar to the concern of businessmen who gathered around the gold strikes of the past century, a sense of "how long will it last."

NASA's budget is being cut each year. It has no hard plans beyond Apollo 13. It speaks hopefully of other applications of Project Apollo, including the stitching together in earth orbit of a "permanent" space station, whose crews would be rotated once a month by a shuttle service — perhaps by Gemini capsule.

★ ★ ★

The operations of the Air Force and Navy here are somewhat shaky, too. The Air Force will soon complete its Navy its workouts of the testing of Minuteman 3; the Poseidon sub-based missile. If peace broke out suddenly . . . well, that's a prospect many a businessman just could not bear.

There aren't nearly enough human hearts available for transplanting and never will be. Hence, the crash program to produce an efficient mechanical heart and a means of keeping it working through a recipient's lifetime. The Public Health Service's National Heart Institute is distributing $20 million in grants to more than 100 research labs.

The results are so promising that some heart specialists belive we are on the verge of a breakthrough that will save 350,000 lives a year.

The isotopes would generate heat, which would be used to boil water or some other fluid. The steam produced would be used to drive the pump (heart). In the process, it would condense to liquid again and be channeled back to the isotope heat source for reuse.

Oakland County Facility Provides Unique Service

Many are concerned about the possibility of the State Legislature cutting funds to county hospitals through House Bill 2035, which has passed the House of Representatives.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County Sanatorium provides subacute care. Patients are transferred there when they no longer are acutely ill or when their hospitalization insurance is exhausted. The Sanatorium has equipment to prevent ulcers in the bedfast; food pumps and tubes to feed those unable to swallow voluntarily; breathing machines and aspirators to prevent mucous strangulation. Its pharmacy dispenses drugs on the spot.

I am more than disturbed about all the reasons given in favor of abortion. Has anyone thought of the poor little unborn soul? Who knows at what age the mind functions?

PGH Employe, Volunteer Speak Out

I'd like to express my sincere appreciation of Harold B. Euler, the finest administrator our hospital ever had. Although I do not know him personally, I do know that without the work he put into our hospital, it wouldn't be what it is today.

As a volunteer worker for more than four years, I have had ample opportunities to observe the service that Pontiac General Hospital has been providing under the administration of Harold B. Euler. His unexplained dismissal by the hospital board is shocking .

My husband and I have known Mr. Euler for 40 years and it has been gratifying to see our hospital, under his supervision, emerge from staggering indebtedness to its present debt-free effectiveness.

In discussions with many other interested citizens, the consensus is that every effort should be made to retain the services of a person of Mr. Euler's integrity and capabilities.

Comments on Sheriff's Patrol Action

Three cheers for the Oakland County Sheriff's Patrol which recently effectively dispersed a party of about 40 at Oakland Valley Apartments in Rochester. The method used reminded me of an overseas intrusion of an armed patrol of soldiers into a suspected enemy village, complete with interrogation and identical atmosphere.

It seems unnecessary to utilize 16 helmeted policemen and eight patrol cars to suggest that a too-noisy party be continued elsewhere.

Question and Answer

Is respect for our country's flag a thing of the past? During the last week I've seen several girls carrying handbags made of flags, and both boys and girls with flags sewn upside down on their jackets. Isn't this illegal?

REPLY

Michigan law says "Any person who shall publicly mutilate, deface, defile, defy, trample upon, or by word or act cast contempt upon any such flag, standard, color, ensign, coat of arms or shield is guilty of a misdemeanor." You can make complaints to your local police and then it would be up to the courts to decide if it's illegal.

Dr. Otterbein Dressler of Southfield, pathologist for the Garden City-Ridgewood Osteopathic Hospitals, has been elected president of the Michigan Osteopathic College Foundation.

The foundation was formed in 1961 to provide financial support for the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine (MCOM), now under construction in Pontiac, and to generally support osteopathic medical education in Michigan.

The Michigan Women's Osteopathic Auxiliary has contributed $30,000, and Michigan osteopathic physicians give nearly $300,000 annually to the college.

West Virginia doctors have promised $20,000 this year and the Ohio Osteopathic Association of Physicians and Surgeons has pledged $35,000 this year to start a continuing program.

Dr. Dressler said that it is his purpose to broaden the base of support for the college beyond the profession.

Hippie Denied Warrant for Jail Haircut

The Oakland County prosecutor's office has denied a request from hippie leader John Sinclair for a warrant against county sheriff's deputies for alleged assault and battery.

Sinclair, found guilty May 31 of assaulting a police officer, protested the right of sheriff's deputies to clip his shoulder-length hair.

★ ★ ★

Deputies shaved off all but about an inch of Sinclair's hair when he was brought to the county jail after his sentencing. He was released later the same day on appeal bond.

Officials at the prosecutor's office said the haircut was standard procedure at the jail and represents a health regulation in effect many years.

Sex Charges Jail City Man

A Pontiac man is in the county jail in lieu of $8,000 bond on two sex charges stemming from incidents in Orion Township.

Theodore Mendoza, 26, of 38 N. Midland pleaded innocent to charges of indecent exposure, soliciting children, having no driver's license and being drunk and disorderly at his arraignment yesterday before Rochester District Judge Robert Shipper.

★ ★ ★

Two Orion Township girls, ages 14 and 15, complained to Oakland County sheriff's deputies that a man without any clothes on tried to get them in his car at Joslyn and Heights Roads in Orion Township Tuesday afternoon.

★ ★ ★

Later, two other girls, 10 and 12 years old, said a man fitting a description given by the Orion Township girls exposed himself and tried to get them into his car at Detroit Boulevard and Conklin.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

A deputy stopped the car at Schorn and Conklin and arrested the suspect.

Bond was set at $1,000 each for being drunk and disorderly and having no driver's license. Mendoza is scheduled to appear in court on the charges July 7.

Five Get $225 in Bar Holdup

Five young men, one brandishing a revolver, escaped with an estimated $225 and a gold watch in an armed robbery at a Pontiac bar last night.

About $119 was taken from the cash register and $25 from the bartender of the Trojan Bar, 72 Auburn, and the rest from four customers at about 10:30 p.m., police said.

★ ★ ★

Five bandits entered the bar's rear door and told the occupants to get on the floor, bartender Gus Backalukas, 50, told police. Their hands were tied with a cord.

One man took money from the register and the bartender while two went thrugh the pockets of the bound patrons.

★ ★ ★

One customer claimed he was knocked unconscious by something one of the robbers held, police said.

★ ★ ★

Backalukas told police the men left by the rear door and escaped in a 1966 blue four-door Oldsmobile. All the holdup men were described as 20- to 25-year-old Negroes, one 5 feet 11 with a slim build and the others 5 feet 6 with medium builds.

County Panel Delays Road-Fund Plan OK

A plan to set up a $1-million revolving fund to expedite local road improvement hit a snag yesterday as members of the Oakland County Road Commission appeared before the board of supervisors finance committee.

The plan would require $1 million the first year, $750,000 the second year, and decreasing amounts later before returns from projects made the fund self-sufficient, according to Sol Lomerson, road commission chairman.

★ ★ ★

Committee members voted to delay action until July 8, after they've had time to study a counterrecommendation made in absentia by Supervisor Christian Powell, R-West Bloomfield Township.

The road commission has hopes of borrowing the entire sum from county government, but Powell suggested the county put up $300,000, the road commission another $300,000 and the townships a third $300,000.

PREPAYMENT PURPOSE

The funds would be used to prepay road improvements in rural subdivisions and along mile roads, allowing property owners to spread their costs over a ten-year period.

Of the total improvement costs, 90 per cent would be borne by residents in special-assessment districts and the road commission would pick up the remainder, officials said. Lomerson viewed the program as cutting down heavy maintenance costs on poor roads.

★ ★ ★

Powell's recommendation included provision for a three-man board appointed by the Supervisors to handle disbursement of the fund. There are reportedly 1,000 miles of subdivision streets eligible for improvement and Powell's committee would make the determination of what should be done and when.

The projects could be initiated either by petition of property owners or by a township, Lomerson said.

FEASIBILITY DOUBTED

He said he doubted the Road Commission could take funds from its matching program to supplement the fund and he further said he doubted townships could come up with supplemental funds, required under Powell's plan.

At least one superviser viewed the revolving fund plan with approval. Thomas O'Donoghue, D-Ferndale, said it is the only solution to solving the county's local road problems.

Enemy Keeping Pressure on Ben Het

BEN HET, Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese gunners openly bombard this Special Forces camp from surrounding ridges. Prisoners released by North Vietnamese troops bring in letters from the enemy, boasting they intend to overrun it.

Ben Het is cut off by road and its airstrip is closed. The 700 South Vietnamese defenders, a small team of Green Berets and two American artillery batteries are sporadically supplied by air-drops and an occasional helicopter.

* * *

"Saigon keeps asking why we don't lift the siege," said one American officer. "I tell them why we can't. The troops are tired; the Vietnamese may have taken as many as 50 per cent casualties. We need more people, fresh people."

Ben Het, six miles from the Cambodian and Laotian borders and 280 miles northeast of Saigon, has become the focal point in a battle that began around Dak To early in May. Since June 6 the pressure on Ben Het has been severe.

CONVOY ATTEMPTS

The 10-mile road to the camp from the main base at Dak To is littered with burned and abandoned trucks, evidence of recent unsuccessful attempts to run convoys to the camp. Two small convoys rushed through Monday and Tuesday, but no more are planned in the immediate future.

The camp itself has taken on the appearance of another siege location, Khe Sanh. Wooden frame buildings sag with shrapnel holes, destroyed vehicles have been run into mud bunkers, the defenders have the looks of hunted men.

* * *

Americans at Ben Het say that if the camp is the main target of the enemy push, then only the constant bombing strikes and enormous artillery support has averted it so far.

The senior Green Beret officer in the area, Lt. Col. Andrew Marquis, commander of the B24 Detachment at Kontum, said today the North Vietnamese have two full-strength infantry regiments around Ben Het—the 28th and the 66th—plus the 40th Artillery Regiment and a sapper battalion.

COULD TAKE IT

"We figure there are 3,000 men up there, plus bearers," he said. "If they wanted to send those two regiments straight up the hills they could probably take Ben Het. But we would make it so costly to them in human life I doubt they will try it."

The North Vietnamese are hurling a dozen kinds of shells and projectiles at the camp—85mm guns fired from caves on both sides of the Cambodian border six miles to the west; 120mm mortars and 82mm mortars closer in; B40 rockets from as close as 300 yards in broad daylight; 122mm and 107mm rockets; 60mm mortars, and recoilless rifle fire.

* * *

The North Vietnamese gunners are deadly accurate. This month alone, more than 100 Americans have been killed and wounded at Ben Het. More civilian irregular Montagnards than Americans have been killed.

Every helicopter that lands gets shot at by snipers on its way in and out, and by mortars when it is on the ground.

WAR OF ATTRITION

"They have worked like hell to cut off Ben Het," a senior American staff planner commented this week. "Ben Het is the bait around which the North Vietnamese high command is waging a war of attrition. They are attempting to wear down the Vietnamese forces."

* * *

About nine battalions of Vietnamese regular army infantry and civilian irregulars—up to 5,000 men—have been deployed around the camp. The U.S. Command views the battle as a test of the South Vietnamese army against the North Vietnamese.

* * *

But high casualties among the government troops have worn down morale, according to Americans here. Besides the constant bombardment every night, groups of sappers strike at the camp, often penetrating the wire perimeter and hurling satchel charges at the bunkers.

"What we need up here are U.S. Marines, or some U.S. infantry, one American artillery officer said.

NO INTENTION

But there is no known intention to commit American ground troops to the battle.

The Vietnamese command in Saigon has begun committing troops to the Ben Het-Dak To area from other parts of the central highlands, thereby weakening those areas, while American intelligence says the North Vietnamese regiments are in full strength.

* * *

"We have learned that when they first came over in May they were overstrength," one American said. "Now they are down to normal operating strength."

'5 Planes Down'

TOKYO (AP) — Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency said today Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas shot down five U.S. warplanes in Laos during May and June. The news agency said the planes were hit by infantry guns.

Policing of Foreign Planes Called Hard

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fiery crash of a Dominican Republic cargo plane in a Miami street this week has called attention to a long-time concern: How to assure full foreign aircraft and crew compliance with U.S. safety regulations.

A chief reason for sidestepping the question is its sensitive diplomatic and political nature.

Former Civil Aeronautics Board Chairman Joseph J. O'Connell points out that if a U.S. airline is in financial straits, doubts naturally arise as to the safety of its operation.

For the same reason, he says, the airline venture of a new or small country can often be regarded as dubious. Additionally, O'Connell says, "It is difficult for the Federal Aviation Administration to police airlines in this country."

DRINKING CREWS

Another disquieting practice to U.S. authorities—and they only talk about it privately—is the relaxed attitude of some foreign governments toward the use of wine and other alcoholic beverages by pilots and other crew members.

However, O'Connell notes that major foreign airlines have outstanding safety records and adhere to standards that may be even more strict than those effective here. And crashes of foreign planes in the United States are comparatively rare.

The United States has bilateral air agreements with many nations that specifically outline safety regulations. Also there is the International Civil Aviation Organization—ICAO—of Montreal, a United Nations-related organization which sets airworthy standards for member nations.

The Dominican Republic is an ICAO member. The Dominican Airlines DC4, made by the American Douglas Co., killed six persons on the ground and all four crewmen aboard.

SPECIFICS DETAILED

As it stands, the FAA does issue operating certificates to foreign airlines, specify the airports they can use, the routes they may fly and the rules and practices of U.S. air space.

Crew members must have current papers and the aircraft should have the safety blessing of its home country—whatever its standards may be.

But, an FAA spokesman says, "We have no authority to go into a plane and look it over to see whether it is safe, nor do we have control over the crew qualifications.

"We do have authority to check the crew, to make sure that it is familiar with air traffic rules and procedures."

IT'S RECIPROCUL

Also, the spokesman says, other countries must be satisfied in much the same way with U.S.-owned aircraft.

Mechanics: Worked Only on Oil Pressure Valve

MIAMI (AP) — Two moonlighting mechanics, who worked on a DC4 cargo plane that crashed on a Miami street killing 10 Monday, told the Miami Herald Wednesday all they did was adjust an oil pressure valve.

The Herald reported in a copyright article its conversation with Rodrigo Zapata, 42, and Narciso Camargo, 29, native Colombians now living in Hialeah, Fla.

★ ★ ★

National Transportation Safety Board officials have been seeking the pair for questioning since the crash, but the Herald said investigators had not talked to the mechanics as of Wednesday night.

The Herald reported this conversation:

Zapata said Rafael Peralta, cargo manager for Dominicana Airlines, came to the Aerocondor—a Colombian airline—shop where he and Camargo worked and asked them to check the DC4's oil pressure.

ABOVE NORMAL

"We checked it and found that every time the accelerator was pressed, the oil pressure rose to 135," he said. "Normal oil pressure is 80.

★ ★ ★

"So we went to work on the oil pressure regulator valve and found that it was somewhat loose. We tightened it, fixed it and regulated the pressure back to normal."

Zapata said the mechanics, whose Colombian licenses are recognized by the Federal Aviation Administration, and pilot Jorge Bujosa then tested the four-engine cargo carrier.

★ ★ ★

"There was nothing wrong with the plane," Zapata said. "Nothing to indicate any malfunction of any kind."

2 Boys in Pool to Bid for Liner

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Mark and Greg Wagner of Springfeld, Mass., heard the liner Queen Elizabeth, berthed here, was up for sale, so they made a bid.

"My brother and me would like to buy the Queen Elizabeth," Mark wrote to the Port Everglades Commission chairman, Gregory McIntosh. "We are 8 and 9 years old and have one dollar to spend for it."

★ ★ ★

"They asked me last night if the Queen would be mailed to them," said the boys' mother, Therese Wagner in Springfield.

"They plan to keep it in our 24-foot wide swimming pool."

Ex-State Aide Gets U. S. Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Malcolm R. Lovell Jr., former director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, was named Wednesday to head the manpower administration in the Department of Labor.

★ ★ ★

Lovell, who most recently has been with the Urban Coalition, succeeds J. Nichols Peet, who has resigned to become director of the social services department in his home state of Oregon.

Poison-Gas Disposal at Army Sites Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists have recommended the Army destroy 27,000 tons of obsolete chemical munitions on government installations rather than haul the material across the country for burial at sea.

A 12-man committee of the National Academy of Sciences said Wednesday some of the agents could be dumped into the sea if there were no better means. However it suggested chemical means, burning or demolition as better methods.

★ ★ ★

The recommendations should be carefully studied by the Army, and "appropriate action" should be taken, said Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird. An aide said this means Laird wants the Army to follow the committee's suggestions.

A storm of congressional opposition was raised when it was learned the Army had planned to transport nerve-gas and other chemical warefare agents by rail from the Rocky Mountain Arsenal in Colorado to the Naval ammunition depot in Earle, N.J., then ship it out for burial in the Atlantic Ocean.

'SHOULD SET EXAMPLE'

The committee said the government should set an example "to private organizations and individuals of minimizing risks to humans and damage to the environment, even though this may complicate and make more costly its own operations."

The scientists recommended a study of methods of disposing of chemical warfare material on military installations, "involving no hazards to the general population and no pollution to the environment," should be undertaken by the Pentagon.

Cigarette-Ad Ban Nearer in California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Virtually all cigarette advertising would be banned from California newspapers, magazines, television, radio and billboards under a bill overwhelmingly approved by the state senate.

Sen. Anthony C. Beilensen, a Beverly Hills Democrat, said he thought his measure had a "decent" chance of becoming law after its passage in the Senate Wednesday, 28 to 7.

The bill now goes to the state Assembly and, if approved, there to Gov. Ronald Reagan for his signature.

The bill would apply to national publications when they have regional editions and to television and radio when network advertising can be substituted locally. Otherwise, the ban on cigarette advertising inside the state would be total.

Beilenson, 32, is backed by physicians and health and school officials.

Nixon Mulls Easing School-Bias Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Possible changes in the school desegregation guidelines are being considered by the Nixon administration in what appears to be a reversal of policy.

Revisions are "under discussion," was all the Department of Health Education and Welfare would say Wednesday in the face of reports that the guidelines would be loosened.

Senior Welfare and Justice Department officials are said to have worked on the changes despite the strenuous objections of HEW's Office of Civil Rights.

Campaign statements by President Nixon were interpreted by some as promising modification of the guideline. They now call for an end to segregation this fall in all school districts except where there is a majority of Negro students.

CONFLICTING REPORTS

Conflicting reports persisted, prompting Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch to declare through a spokesman April 15: "No change is contemplated now in the existing guidelines."

* * *

The guidelines were published last year by the Johnson administration and spell out Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which applies to schools. Provisions allow federal funds to be shut off to school districts that practice discrimination, principally by maintaining a dual system of schools for whites and Negroes.

* * *

Officials arguing for loosening the guidelines are said to feel the enforcement of deadlines is unrealistic and unfair since there are not enough enforcement personnel to see that all districts comply.

Jury Believes It Made Error

Policeman Acquitted Despite Confession

DETROIT (AP) — The foreman of a jury that acquitted a policeman on a theft charge Tuesday, apparently despite his confession, returned Wednesday and said the 12 men and women think they goofed.

Jury foreman William J. Ganzak went to see Wayne County Circuit Judge Theodore Bohn Wednesday after the six men and six women read newspaper stories that morning saying they had acquitted the man "despite a confession presented as evidence."

Ganzak said the jurors thought the confession of suspended Highland Park Patrolman William Solomno, 25, was not to be considered as evidence.

Judge Bohn and Roy C. Haye assistant Wayne County prosecutor, expressed astonishment. Besides a seven-day pretrial hearing on the question of the confession's admissability, the question was argued in court and a tape of the confession was played for the jury.

'MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE'

The judge had said he thought the decision was a "miscarriage of justice."

Hayes, who argued the case, said, "That really makes me mad," when asked about the jury's decision.

Solomon, who has been acquitted twice now, faces four more trials on similar charges but cannot be retried on this one because of the rule against double jeopardy.

But Hayes also advanced another opinion about the jury's decision. He said he thought the jurors had not wanted to ruin Solomon's life over a bottle of liquor, all he was accused of stealing, and so tossed out the confession and decided to acquit.

Pornography, Grand-Jury Bills Stalled

LANSING (UPI) — The chance of the Legislature enacting a harsh pornography statute or repealing the one-man grand-jury system and replacing it with a stronger 13-17 man citizens jury appear dim.

Sen. Robert L. Richardson Jr., R-Saginaw, has these House-passed measures in his judiciary committee, but predicts they will stay there at least until the fall session and, more likely, until next January.

★ ★ ★

It appeared even more certain during yesterday's Senate session that the pornography bills will lay dormant. Sen. James Fleming, Jackson Republican, offered a resolution to study the entire field of obscenity and pornography and have a special five-member committee report back to the Senate in 1970.

If approved by the upper chamber, this would preclude any action before then.

WILLING TO DELAY

Fleming had two pornography bills passed similar to the House measure now in Richardson's committee. He is willing, however, to see action delayed on these until the special committee reports back.

Rep. J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said yesterday that Fleming's bills won't be leaving his committee anyway. He praised the House-approved measure, sponsored by Rep. James O'Neill, D-Saginaw, as superior and said the Senate should work on that.

★ ★ ★

Fleming, in turn, claims the House bill is in bad constitutional shape. Some other committee members agreed with him.

This stalemate, plus the study committee on obscenity and pornography, seems to end the chances for action in this area — at least for now.

JURY STALEMATE

The House-approved jury bill also has come to a stalemate through action of the judiciary committees of both chambers. Traxler authored the measure and wants it sent to the Senate floor intact.

However, Richardson said it is dubious that his five-member committee will report the measure out of action.

★ ★ ★

"All we would get out of it now is a floor fight and a deadlocked conference committee," he said. "And there is a consensus in the judiciary committee that we should wait until the governor's special commission on crime legislation has a report."

This will be September or October at the earliest.

COUNTY A FACTOR

Another factor delaying consideration of abolishing the oneman system is the new grand jury investigating organized crime in Oakland County. Some lawmakers feel it is not wise to repeal the system in light of creation of the Oakland County one-man grand jury.

Richardson said he has talked with Traxler about the possibility of deleting this repealer section and debating the bill as solely an attempt to beef up the citizens grand-jury system.

★ ★ ★

"If the 13-17-man citizens jury section stood alone, it would go through," Richardson said. "But they won't accept deleting the one-man repealer. Unless we get agreement on that point, it will stay in committee."

With this Saturday looming as the final deadline for reporting bills out of committee, the grand-jury and pornography offerings will probably stay within committee meeting rooms.

Shield Chief 'Fears for Private Medicine'

MACKINAC ISLAND (UPI) — Private medicine is under a "take-over" attack by "various parts of government, legislative and executive, at both the state and national levels, often using the technique of the witchhunt," the president of Michigan Blue Shield has charged.

John S. McCabe, at the annual meeting of the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association yesterday said there was a campaign to take over much professional activity by dictating the nature of medical practice and specifically controlling administration.

★ ★ ★

McCabe pointed to a "paradox" Blue Shield has faced in "politics at its worst and its best" in having those in government state the need for high-quality medical care at adequate reimbursement levels while "Certain, and often the same, people then turn and attempt to dismantle the mechanism that has been asked to deliver the care by constant and hypocritical attacks."

★ ★ ★

Another paradox, he said, is that often the problems which cause difficulty "are generated by program design and government agency interpretation which flies in the face of the advice of professionals who know better."

ISSUES CHALLENGE

"I challenge anyone to describe to me any government program in the field of medical care, controlled in its entirety by government, that has proven to be effective," the head of the health insurance company said.

"There has been and will be accusations of inefficiency. There has been, and will be accusations of poor quality and a lack of systemized response to the state's and nation's health care needs," McCabe said. But, he said, the accusations come from areas in the goernment whose own performance can in no way allow the valid claims of efficiency.

★ ★ ★

"I don't propose to suggest that Blue Shield has all the answers, or that any combination of organizations by themselves, whether it includes Blue Cross, other insurers or professional groups, has all the answers," he said., but such combinations will produce what answers are possible to changing health care needs.

Life Offers Philosophers Their Fill of Adversity

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Philosophers are made, not born.

Philosopy flowers on calamities, woes, disasters, mishaps and bereavements. It remains stunted in the presence of endless good fortune, just as a child fails to develop much character if you do everything for it and let it run around all day with a lollipop stuck in its mouth.

BOYLE

* * *

Do you aspire to be a philosopher? Fortunately, there are enough troubles in the world—enough vinegar flavor and bittersweet moments in life—to let everybody satisfy this ambition.

Here are a few things that happen which tend to turn any man into a philosopher—or a misanthropic hermit.

Baldness.

Falling arches.

FIRST LOST LOVE

Losing the first red-haired girl in your life to the tallest guy in your kindergarten class.

Being told by older kids that Santa Claus is only your Dad.

Finding ants in a picnic lunch.

* * *

Losing your first tooth.

Losing your last tooth.

Learning you have mumps the day before you graduate from grammar school.

Discovering your bicycle has been stolen the morning after you got it for Christmas.

Eating spinach because it's supposed to be good for you.

Giving up eating something you like because the doctor tells you it's bad for you.

Losing the second red-haired girl of your life to the tallest guy in your high school freshman class.

SHOW-OFF SHOT DOWN

Falling on your face at a cocktail party while showing other guests how easy it is to vault over a sofa.

Getting a ticket for parking too close to a fire hydrant.

Holding ticket numbered 1,312 in a lottery for a new car won by a guy you talked into buying ticket numbered 1,313.

Opening your paycheck week after week and finding it contains the same old insulting sum.

* * *

Listening to the reading of the last will and testament of your favorite old aunt, and receiving the glad news she has left you only her rocking chair and her pet cat.

Losing the third red-haired girl of your life to the tallest guy on your college basketball team.

HOME FOR TERMITES

Buying a new house in which three days later you come upon a nest of termites.

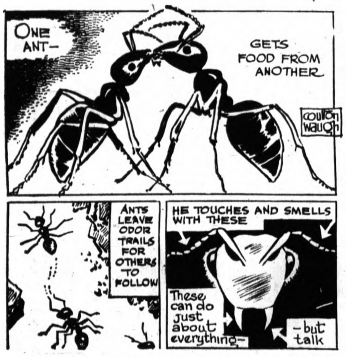
Losing the fourth red-haired girl of your life to the tallest junior executive in your firm.

Becoming a railroad commuter and figuring you'll have to live with train delays for the next 35 years.

Waking up some day to the fact that your stomach is now at least an inch bigger around than your chest.

Acquiring an ulcer, a wife and a family containing at least two kids who need to have their teeth straightened.

Junior Editors Quiz on ANTS



QUESTION: How do ants communicate with each other?

* * *

ANSWER: Insects, as a rule, are solitary creatures, living their lives by following patterns of instinct. But things are different with those remarkable social insects, the ants.

Living in colonies together, ants have a definite need to communicate in some way with each other. Lacking the organs and intelligence to speak to each other as we do, they use other systems.

One of the most important is the sense of smell, highly developed in the insect world. As an example, all the members of the ant community have a similar smell. Outsiders, therefore, can be easily recognized.

Foraging ants touch their abdomens to the ground now and then, laying down an odor trail which tells others where they have gone.

Some ants have eyes, but use them only slightly, relying much more on the sensitive antennae, (lower right), which enable them to touch, taste and smell.

Many ants remain within the nest, doing various jobs. Other ants bring them food from the outside, for ants have an instinct for feeding each other. This is one of their main ways of recognizing or communicating with each other.

Czech Students Get New Pro-Soviet Unit

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovak students who defied Soviet tanks in the streets of Prague last August have become the "enemy" of their government.

How does the leadership treat its enemy? It censors their publicity, cuts off their funds, bans demonstrations and eliminates their student organization to set up a more obedient, if unrepresentative, body. Enter the "Preparatory Committee of a New Union of University Students in the Czech Republic."

★ ★ ★

The student resistance in August helped save, temporarily, the liberal leadership of Premier Oldrich Cernik and Communist party boss Alexander Dubcek. Both had been arrested and taken to Moscow, but were returned to Prague.

Things have changed in 10 months of Russian occupation.

Cernik is still premier, but Dubcek was downgraded in April to chairman of the Parliament, a largely ceremonial post. The new Communist party chief, Gustav Husak, pursues a policy of ignoring the invasion and striving to keep the Kremlin happy.

MORE EMPARRASSMENT

Husak, a Slovak, brought the Slovak student union into line while he was still head of the Communist party of Slovakia before his elevation. But the Czech — Bohemian-Moravian — student union continued to embarrass the regime in Soviet eyes by criticizing demonstrations against censorship and repression, developing contacts with factory workers and always reminding the public that Czechoslovakia had been invaded.

In January and February, two Czech students, Jan Palach and Jan Zajic, burned themselves to death in downtown Prague to protest repression of Dubcek's liberal reforms.

The first showdown came just after Husak became party chief. The Czech student congress voted 71 to 70 with 27 abstentions to join the party-run National Front, the only official channel for political activity. This was short of the required two-thirds majority and the proposal failed.

Josef Trencansky, a pro-government backer of the National Front proposal, became the new chairman of the union. But he resigned a month later after failing to bring the influential Prague students into the front.

ACTING CHAIRMAN

Karel Kovanda, a staunch opponent of party control, became acting chairman.

On May 6 the Czech government canceled publication rights for the union's magazine Studentske Listy.

Then last week, with many college students on vacation, the government announced the union would be disbanded because it was still outside the National Front while carrying on political activity "injurious to Czechoslovak foreign policy interests."

The union issued a statement calling the order "an abuse of the law in the interests of the bureaucratic political center that for the time being has taken power in Czechoslovakia."

This week, a pro-government student group surfaced with a 600-word statement printed in many newspapers. The "Preparatory Committee," as it called itself, said the old union had isolated itself from the country's politics and had ceased to be representative of students.

It was the first Czech student statement allowed published in the daily press in months.

Trencansky was reported to have played a master role in formation of the Preparatory Committee, which said it would cooperate with the party, state organs, trade unions and the Slovak students and become politically active in the National Front.

Ho-Hum Gone in Virginia Gubernatorial Primary

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Electing a governor in Virginia used to be a pretty ho-hum affair when U.S. Sen. Harry F. Byrd Sr. was alive—the candidate he supported usually won.

But since the death of the Democratic patriarch in 1966, the tight control of the Byrd organization over state politics has become flaccid. Now for the first time in 20 years there is a multiple choice for the nomination in the July 15 Democratic primary.

★ ★ ★

And it promises to be the biggest primary of all.

A vote of up to 600,000 of Virginia's 1.7 million qualified voters is anticipated.

★ ★ ★

The choice is among Lt. Gov. Fred G. Pollard, 50, of Richmond; William C. Battle, 48, of Charlottesville, U.S. ambassador to Australia in the Kennedy administration; and State Sen. Henry E. Howell, also 48, of Norfolk, a liberal legislator with particular interest in consumer affairs.

CLOSE TO OLD LINE

Pollard comes closest to being the choice of old-line organization forces. He claims to be an integral part of the popular present administration of Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. and says his experience as a legislator and lieutenant governor qualifies him to carry on the progressive programs in education, health and finance initiated by Godwin.

Under state law, Godwin, who has served 1 four-year term, cannot succeed himself.

★ ★ ★

Godwin has made no public choice between Pollard and Battle, although he hasn't been so reticent in discussing Howell. He said he might find it difficult to support Howell as the Democratic nominee.

Howell is endorsed by organized labor and Negro voter organizations, and, unlike Pollard and Battle, has not supported Virginia's right-to-work law. He also seeks to amend the law forbidding compulsory union membership to permit the agency shop. This would require support of a union by employes after their employment.

FEW ISSUES

There are not many issues among the three, all of whom are lawyers and received their law degrees at the University of Virginia.

★ ★ ★

A practical issue is whether Democratic party leadership in the state will shift farther to center with a Battle victory or remain a bit more conservative under Pollard.

★ ★ ★

This rests on the assumption that Howell will not win the primary or A. Linwood Holton, the Republican nominee, win in November. No Republican has been able to win the governorship since post-Civil War days.

★ ★ ★

Most political experts don't expect any of the three primary candidates to poll the required 50 per cent of the vote to win on July 15. If so, there will be a runoff 30 days later for the top two.

SECOND ATTEMPT

Then it will be the winner against Holton, in November, he is running for the second time — this year in the wake of a smashing Republican presidential victory in Virginia. There will also be a Conservative party candidate, the Rev. Beverly McDowell, a Baptist minister.

The issue of law and order, a key element in recent elections elsewhere in the nation, hasn't received much more than passing mention in the campaign, but spokesmen for the candidates indicated the issue would be emphasied in the remaining weeks.

Battle says the subject of crime and disorder must be faced "coolly, professionally and sensibly." He says the state cannot permit small groups to disrupt college campuses and thinks leadership from the governor's office would be needed to curb the unrest.

Pollard says he plans to make crime "unfeasible and unfashonable." He proposes an attack on crime by first, preventing it, then improving methods of dealing with it and rehabilitating those convicted.

Howell claims it must be realized that law enforcement and safety involve many levels of state service and don't respect city or county boundaries. "Like most responsible citizens," he says, "I abhor the violence and destruction sweeping the nation's campuses." He says he will upgrade the quality of law enforcement by better pay for policemen.

"Those responsible for structuring government must insure that law, order and justice is the basic service which government affords its citizens," he says.

McDivitt 4th to End Active Space Flying

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — James A. McDivitt hung up his space suit yesterday and moved behind a desk —the fourth veteran of the Apollo program to end active space flying.

McDivitt, an Air Force colonel who commanded the flight of Apollo 9 in March, quit active space flying to assume the managership of Lunar Landing Operation Studies at the Manned Spacecraft Center here.

In his new duties, the two-time space-flight veteran will be responsible for decisions connected with lunar landing missions following the first planned moon touchdown next month.

McDivitt's Apollo 9 flight last March was the third in the Apollo series and included the first manned flight of the moon landing craft.

OTHER RETIREMENTS

Two other Apollo flight commanders announced earlier they were retiring from space flight.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra, commander of the Apollo 7 flight last October, resigned from the Navy and retired from NASA to take an industry job in Denver, Colo. Air Force Col. Frank Borman, commander of the first manned flight around the moon, Apollo 8, resigned from the active ranks of spacemen to become field director of the space agency's long-term space station program.

Air Force Lt. Col. William Anders announced plans to resign from the space agency earlier this year to become executive secretary to the National Space Council.

Anders, who was on the crew of the Apollo 8 moon flight, will assume his new position after the Apollo 11 moon landing mission next month.

Anders is on the backup crew of Apollo 11.

McDivitt, 40, is married and has four children. He was commander of the four-day Gemini 4 flight in January 1965, which featured the first American walk in space.

College was never like this when we attended, seems to be the reaction of men at a conference Wednesday at Oakland University. Bonwit Teller models, showing the latest in beachwear at a luncheon sponsored by the scholarship committee, came outside to pose. They drew an audience as fast as honey attracts bees.

Mrs. D. Pierson Smith and Mrs. Richard B. Darragh, both of Bloomfield Hills, are intrigued with the beautiful centerpieces on the buffet table at Wednesday's OU scholarship benefit luncheon. All decorations were in violet, green and white. These two women were cochairmen of the event.

Clouds Move Fashions Inside; Scarves, Colors Still Shine

Postponed once by inclement weather, the luncheon and Bonwit Teller fashion show sponsored by Oakland University's scholarship committee was held Wednesday. Threatening weather and mud on the Meadow Brook Festival grounds forced the committee to stage the vent in Vandenberg Hall.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. George T. Trumbull provided glamourous centerpieces in violet, green and white for the two buffet tables. Guests ate at tables centered with gaily tied hatboxes in the same colors.

★ ★ ★

The fashion show was a mixture of summer and fall styles. Color, beautiful materials and lots of jewelry were the keynotes. Scarves continue high on the accessory list. Pants outfits were shown, but the entire show had a more formal ladylike feeling.

This luncheon was scheduled to herald the opening of the Scholar Shop at Trumbull Terrace. Starting July 8, buffet luncheons will be served at the Terrace from noon to 1:30 p.m. each Tuesday and Wednesday, through Aug. 27.

★ ★ ★

The scholarship committee has planned summer programs entitled "Adventures in Art. . . . and other such things." On Tuesdays, artists from southeastern Michigan will present lecture demonstrations. On Wednesdays, there will be open rehearsals of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in the Baldwin Pavilion and two fashion shows.

★ ★ ★

All proceeds from these events go to OU scholarship fund.

Ray Fleming, chairman of the art departments of both Mercy College and Kingswood School, Cranbrook, will be the first artist to speak. His topic on July 8 is "How to Understand Abstract Art and One-up Your Friends."

The first open rehearsal is July 9.

The Bonwit Teller model is wearing a white jeweled pantsuit for evening. But all eyes were focused on her exotic wired headpiece. Jeweled accents are big news in fashion.

Plan Ahead or Continue Work; She'll Get Hint

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a nice neighbor who just doesn't know when to stay home. She comes down early in the morning with ther three-year-old and stays for several hours. She comes several days in a week. When she leaves, I'm a nervous wreck and the house is too. How can I discourage her from coming so often without hurting her feelings? — Mrs. Kay

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Kay: Try this: On the days your friend is apt to arrive, plan to do some very important household jobs, or make some outside appointments. When she appears, tell her you had been planning to defrost the icebox, clean the attic, or plant the garden, and do it. Or, excuse yourself for an appointment with a teacher, a dentist or a dressmaker.

★ ★ ★

If you do this consistently for several weeks, she will get the idea that you are too busy to stop and entertain her. If she stays on and says "Go right ahead, I'll keep you company," do go right ahead. At least you will be getting your chores done!

Cancer Victim Warns Youths About Dangers of Smoking

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

TO MY READERS: Bill Gargan, a handsome, yetern Irish actor, was saved from fatal cancer of the larynx by surgery. To warn and possibly save others from a similar fate, he has written a book, "WHY ME?" published by Doubleday.

Bill is a friend of mine, and has given me permission to quote from his eloquent testimony against smoking. And I thank him.

"That so many people smoke to me is incredible. That so many children smoke is sickening. By the 12th grade, fully half of our children smoke. Yet it ought not surprise us. We older people like to think we just didn't know what we were doing when we began to smoke in our youth.

"Today, we have the surgeon general's report. Yes, there is a definite link between cigaret smoking and lung cancer, a link between cigaret smoking and heart disease, between cigaret smoking and a dozen different ailments, any of which may kill someday.

"When we were young we kept saying we didn't have all the facts. Yet we called cigarets 'coffin nails.' We knew. We laughed and curled a smoke ring in the sky.

"While talking to a group of teen-agers in Anchorage, Alaska, I squirmed with guilt. I had smoked between two and three packs of cigarets every day for 35 years. These kids, so beautiful, so sturdy and straight, God's images, all of them.

★ ★ ★

"My father and mother smoke," one child says, "Why can't I?"

"I'm sorry for your father and mother," I say.

"But I'm not worried about them. If they don't have the brains or determination to stop, I feel sorry for them. But I can't help them. It's YOU I'm worried about. If you haven't started smoking, I beg of you—DON'T. If you have started, I beg of you, STOP."

"But why," they ask. "It's 'in' to smoke. Everyone does it. We don't want to look like oddballs."

"Would you rather look like me?" I asked gently. And SOUND like me?"

Bill Gargan's once resonant booming voice has been reduced to a croak. But his message comes through loud and clear.

Ruling Demands Limited Hours for Women Workers

DETROIT (AP) — A circuit judge has ruled the Michigan Occupational Safety Standards Commission did not have the authority to rescind a 1909 statute restricting the number of hours a woman can work.

The commission abandoned the statute as a safety standard on the basis that it discriminated against women because employers were less willing to hire employes who were unable to work unlimited overtime.

The 1909 statute restricted the number of hours a woman could work to 54 in a week, or 10 in a day.

★ ★ ★

However, the commission ruling was challenged in court by the Ad Hoc Committee to Prevent Repeal of Protective Legislation. This group was led by Myra Wolfgang, secretary treasurer of Local 705, Hotel and Restaurant Employes Union.

★ ★ ★

Wednesday, Wayne County Circuit Judge George T. Martin ruled against the commission. He said it had exceeded its authority, both in abandoning a safety standard without substituting another and in considering the civil rights aspects which was the jurisdiction of the Civil Rights Commission.

2 Sexes Have Separate Languages

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — She says: "My husband doesn't understand me." He says, "I try, but we don't speak the same language."

And they don't. There are "man" words and "woman" words. But their differences need not cause serious family friction. Just understand there are differences and go on loving.

★ ★ ★

For instance, he says, "I'm going to buy a house." She says, "We're looking for a home."

He refers to the "dishes." She says "china." He says "sheets and pillow cases." She says "linens." He says "We'll get a green range for the kitchen." She says, "we'll do the whole kitchen in avocado."

He buys "pants" for himself. She takes his "trousers" to the cleaners.

There is a whole parallel stream of male and female words, says lexicographer Stuart Berg Flexner. "Women speak a different language especially in the world of colors — cosmetics, home furnishings, fashion," he says.

A man doesn't use feminine words like "mauve" or "Fuchsia" to describe a color and he doesn't tell a girl she's wearing a "darling" dress.

He says, "That's a pretty orange dress you have." She says, "It's tangerine."

And, according to Flexner, even when a man and woman speak the same words, the image they create often differs.

He mentions roast beef and immediately thinks of the hearty dinner to be enjoyed. She thinks of the high price of meat and the extra trouble in the kitchen.

She says, "Let's go to the movies tonight" and is remembering they used to neck at the drive-in. He thinks, "That means eating out, too, and $10 more for each of us."

Flexner got onto this subject of differing languages of the sexes because I asked him in an interview if the language of love was changing as the rest of the language is.

After all, it IS the marryin' season and maybe newlyweds need some guidance in this department.

Flexner doubts if today's lover writes his beloved a sonnet as did Elizabethan or Renaissance man.

"But he'll call her long distance or send her a telegram," he said. "And I'd imagine after a long separation, he'd return to writing love letters."

For distance and time break down inhibitions.

Flexner, married and the father of an infant daughter, is a native of Louisville, Ky. He's a graduate of the University of Louisville, taught at Cornell University, and currently is an executive editor at Random House, where he edited the College Edition of the Random House Dictionary of the English Language.

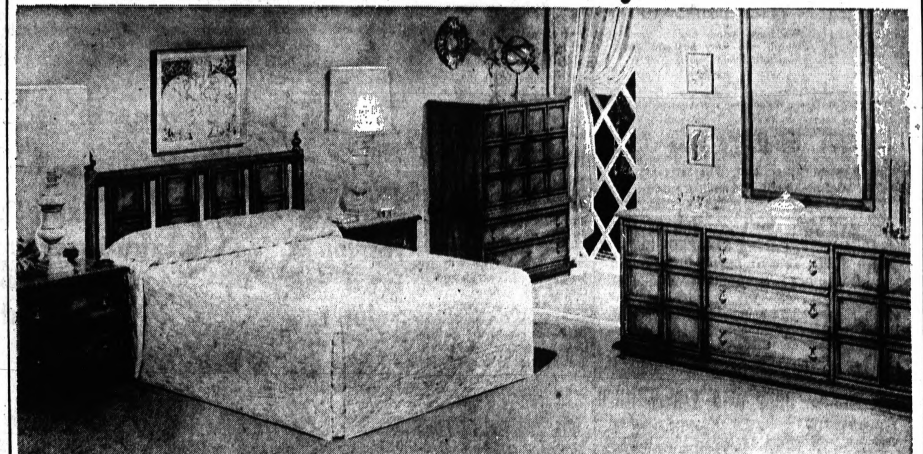
Why are we selling a $309 bedroom for only $188?



It isn't just because we're sweet and lovable (which we are), it is because we were smart enough to know a bargain when we saw one. Broyhill, who makes more bedroom sets than most anybody made this one with a tiny goof. You can't tell where it is unless we show you. We couldn't. But, Broyhill said we could have these sets at a big reduction. Now, we're saying the same thing to you. The set includes the new chairback styled head, the 66-inch long 9-drawer triple dresser and the framed mirror. We're proud to be able to make an offer like this. You'll be proud to own the set. And, you can buy a lot of bedding (which we also sell at big savings) with the money you save. Sorry, no layaways or returns. Please note: There are no chests available.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Get into your stride today! Don't wait! Enjoy this lovely day to which you have fallen heir. Life is fleeting at best and every single day is fraught with beauty if your eyes are open and your heart is aware.

* * *

Control your life. Don't let it manage you. This can happen so easily unless we discard activities which mean little to us but take a great toll of energy, and learn to shrug off or view with humor the many upsetting things which happen in daily life.

We must get into our stride both physically and mentally. By getting into our stride physically I mean learning to organize and streamline our activities, thereby cutting out laborious procedures and roundabout ways to objectives. I mean choosing wisely how to spend our energy, realizing that we have only a limited amount.

STOP WASTE

Getting into our stride mentally and emotionally means stopping the waste of vital energy in useless worry. It is amazing how many persons spend the greater part of their lives stewing about nothing or worrying about something which will never happen.

If we investigate the lives of those who seem to accomplish so much with a minimum of energy, who never seem to tire, we are apt to discover that they have learned to slough off the nonessentials to save their energy for important matters and to refuse to be swept into fatigue by the impatience, discord or hurry of those about them.

Worry is such a damaging habit! It affects not only our personality but our health. It can kill us! I think we often forget what a strong hold this habit can have on one. Haven't you known people who live in a constant state of apprehension and fretting and worry? This outlook can become a habit stronger than nail-biting. You will not get into your stride unless you kick the worry habit.

Future Bride Has Many Parties

Local hostesses have given showers for Catherine Hartkopf, of Fond du Lac, Wis. fiance of Dr. John D. Roush, whose marriage takes place June 28.

Miscellaneous showers were given by Mrs. Maxwell Shadley at Devon Gables and by Mrs. Clare Kramp in her Auburn Road home. Mrs. Irene Robertson also entertained at a luncheon at Devon Gables.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B Roush of West Iroquois Road, will host the rehearsal dinner in Fond du Lac on June 27.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

Could you tell me where I can get material as wide as shower curtains are made of? I would like to do some decorating this summer and want to match the curtains to the wallpaper.

Mrs. A. J.

Dear Mrs. A. J.:

I think you will notice that today shower curtains are made of practically any fabric, cotton, moire, velvet, etc. I truthfully haven't seen any shower curtains that are made of fabric that haven't been pieced with one seam down the center. With the fullness of the curtain, the seam will never be noticed and you can surely save money by making your own curtains.

* * *

Incidentally, I would like to pass on to you a fun experiment I did this week. I have seen so much fabric used instead of wallpaper in the decorator magazines that I tried one wall myself to see if it would actually work. I chose a colorful print cotton of a rather good quality that I knew would be colorfast. I should have smoothed or sanded the walls first but I got so anxious to try it that I didn't take the time.

Using a regular mixture of wallpaper paste (perhaps a little thicker), put the paste on the wall, not on the fabric. Be sure to cut the selvage off both sides of the fabric and begin with your project. It takes hardly any time, isn't messy like trying to hang wallpaper and when it dries, it shrinks just enough so that the walls are covered with a neat, tightly stretched fabric. Be sure to mark the width of each strip on your wall as a guide line because you don't want to lap the seams.

This is one of the fun things you can do with your fabrics besides using your sewing machine.

From the booklet, "Your Pattern and You," you can learn how to adjust your pattern for individuality in styling and fit. This is available to you upon sending a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents to Eunice Farmer in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Bradie Shannon, Meridian, Miss. is this week's winner of the Tailor Trix pressing board for her following suggestion.

"I love your column because I truly love to sew. I use my pinking shears to finish all my seams and they had gotten quite dull. By accident, I found a remedy that has worked for me. I was cutting a piece of aluminum foil with my pinking shears to cover a dish I had prepared for a sick friend. Pronto, and like magic, my shears were as good as new again. (Dear Readers, we did try this and it seemed to work temporarily for us too, can't see where it would hurt to try.)

Ed Chudik of Chudik's in Birmingham is ready at the wheel of a 1914 Ford touring car. With Mrs. Chudik (back seat driver), Mrs. Rosemary Prunty (standing) and Mrs. Jacqueline Zeyte (front seat), he's ready to take off as soon as David Beatty cranks the car. They are off to "In the good old summertime" gala at the store Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fashion showings of fall clothes at 11:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. The event is open to the public without charge.

Age Hasn't Slowed These Five Sisters

The Hertz Street, Commerce Township, home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hicks was the setting for a get-together luncheon for five sisters, ranging in age from 73 to 89. Standing (from left) are Mrs. Otto Stark of Elizabeth Lake Road, Mrs. Fred Hume, Detroit; Mrs. Fred Wilkinson, Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. Frank Huffman, Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Charles Wilkinson, Ottowa Lake, Mich. Mrs. Hicks is the daughter of Mrs. Stark.

Five sisters were attending an afternoon luncheon at Commerce Township, home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hicks. Topics of conversation ranged from politics and baseball to knitting and clothes.

Nothing seemed too unusual about the event. There was, however, something special about the five sisters attending — the youngest one was 73 and the oldest, 89.

* * *

Age has slowed down but has not managed to stop Mrs. Charles (Emme) Wilkinson, 89, of Ottowa Lake, Mich.; Mrs. Fred (Looise) Wilkinson, 86, Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. Frank (Ida) Huffman, 84, of Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Otto (Rosanne) Stark of Elizabeth Lake Road, 80, and Mrs. Fred (Eva) Hume, 73, Detroit.

Emme, an avid card shark is a member of a church card circle and lists euchre as her favorite game. She also enjoys making patchwork quilts and afghans.

WORK BENEFITS

Emme believes that "hard work is the best health mesure" for a person. Until recently, she never remembers being sick or having to see a doctor.

Trips to Florida and California to visit relatives stand out in her mind as the most enjoyable experiences.

Louise, her eyesight failing somewhat, maintains a fanatical interest in clothes. Her perpetual grin widens a little as she admits that she is quite satisfied with her present life.

"Takeing care of my own home with no outside help and visiting takes up most of my free time," she explains.

* * *

She feels that the best philosophy of life is "Don't bother anyone and you won't be bothered."

"Of course," she adds sheepishly, "that doesn't mean I didn't used to like excitement. I am what you would call a real swinger."

* * *

Ida took a stroll around the living room in order for everyone to view a sampling of her crochet work. Included among her completed works are afghans and sweaters.

NO ROCKER

Rosanne added a touch of spunk from the time she gave her name which she considers having "real class." She claims she "feels real good" and doesn't see why she should spend her days in a rocking chair just because of her age.

She enjoys playing poker and pinochle. In addition, she sews and knits. Rosanne has made several solo trips to Florida but thinks these may be ended.

"I'm the youngest! I'm the youngest!" Eva repeated over and over. "And no matter how old you others (referring to her sisters) get, I can't catch up with you. I will always be the youngest."

* * *

Eva describes herself as "a born card player who believes in sticking to business. I don't mind playing with women as long s they don't discuss the weather or their relatives."

A staunch Tiger fan, she says she never misses watching a single game. Mickey Lolich is her favorite.

The five agree that the invention of the television was the biggest change they have seen in the world in their life times and that the war is the most drastic.

Together the five sisters have

16 children, 58 grandchildren and 90 greatgrandchildren.

One would think the sisters must have some secret to their longevity but they believe otherwise.

"At least we know that going to bed early and not smoking or drinking is not the cause," they announced.

* * *

"Maybe," says Eva, "we owe it to our French-Canadian heritage. We are known for our activeness and long lives. Besides, we never complain!"

Pollen Causes Allergic Reaction to Cut Flowers

Window-box rambler roses, and cut flowers in the room, have been known to cause hay fever symptoms. But flowers left in the garden almost never do. It's the pollen that causes the allergic reaction. With greater concentration of it in indoor air, there is more chance for exposure—and reaction.

The familiar symptoms—itching, watery eyes, sneezing and stuffed-up runny nose — can usually be relieved with an antihistamine-decongestant nasal spray such as NTZ (Neosynephrine and Theniadil). Or your physician may recommend a pill with a similar combination, or other therapies.

"Rose Fever" comes on in May and lasts to mid-July. Contrary to its name, it rarely gives its victims a fever.

Exchange of Vows Unites Six

Frisch-Jostock

Attired in a traditionally fashioned gown of French lace, Judith Rose Jostock was escorted to the altar of St. Michael's Catholic Church Saturday where she exchanged vows with Terry Leslie Frisch. Her bridal bouquet included roses, carnations and daisies.

The daughter of the Donald Jostocks of Brookdale Street and the son of the Leslie R. Frisches of Durnham Drive received guests at Maurice's Hall.

Donna Marie Marvosh and Geoffrey Bowman stood as honor attendants at the double ring ceremony. Gloria and David Jostock were flower girl and ringbearer, respectively.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in northern Michigan.

Hopson-Castle

Sveden House was the setting for a reception following the exchange of vows between Nancy Ann Castle and Lonnie Lee Hopson.

They were married Saturday in Drayton Plains United Presbyterian Community Church.

For the noon rite, the bride wore a silk organza gown accented with seed pearls and lace appliques. Her cascade of flowers included carnations and lily of the valley.

* * *

Linda Sue Castle, sister of the bride and Richard Isles stood as honor attendants for the daughter of the Richard L. Castles of Coventry Street and the son of the Jack L. Hopsons of Lakewood Street.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in Florida.

Ferrier-Lewis

A reception in the church parlors of First Methodist Church, Alexandria, Ind., followed the exchange of vows between Linda Maureen Lewis and Donald Robert Ferrier. For the Saturday evening ceremony the bride was attired in a day length dress and carried a nosegay of roses.

The couple is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lewis and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferrier of Clintonville Road.

Jo Ellen Deaton, maid of honor, Robert Pleznac, best man, and David and Richard Ferrier, ushers, comprised the bridal party.

* * *

The newlyweds are honeymooning in the Upper Peninsula.

Moscow Miniskirt War

New Look an 'Outrage'

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian girls who show their legs in the streets run a daily gauntlet of jeering babushkas — grandmothers — but one outraged Muscovite still claims he is "pursued everywhere by miniskirts."

The Soviet version of the miniskirt is modest compared to London or New York. Few Russian girls dare display any thigh, and the micromini is reserved almost exclusively for girls under three.

But the Moscow miniskirt war has reached new heights, with heated debate in the local press.

"Russian girls have reached the limit," said one letter in Literary Gazette. The paper said it was concealing the writer's identity "for obvious reasons."

Demanding that miniskirts be "restricted and forbidden," the writer continued: "There is no elegance in displaying kneecaps and the whole naked thigh. Wherever people sit in public places, there is no way to shield the eyes."

Literary Gazette writer A. Raskin replied, "Let's talk about this calmly, man to man, father to father . . . grandfather to grandfather." Raskin said he is old and miniskirts don't appeal to him personally, but he stressed women should be free to choose whatever fashions they desire.

★ ★ ★

Foreign girls who come to Moscow in miniskirts are frowned upon less than their Russian sisters. The Soviets seem to feel foreigners are capable of anything.

Photo Mislabeled

In a recent wedding story, the picture of Susan Kay Hall, who married Richard Alan Rockey Saturday, was incorrectly labeled Mrs. William Rockey.

Date Selection 'On the Button'

STERLING, Colo. (AP) — Steven Burnham, Sterling High School student, thinks there may be something to the use of computers to pair off boys and girls for dates.

★ ★ ★

As a gag, the school recently fed data into a computer to pair off student boys and girls for a social function. The computer paired Burham with Marcia Jones. He had been "going steady" with Marcia for some time.

Polly's Pointers

Tips of Whiplash Victim

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Mrs. C.R.V. who wished to hear from other whiplash victims. When I want to sit and relax, I sit in a high-backed Boston rocker with thickly padded cushions. This supports my back and the high arms rest my heavy and tired arms.

At night I rest my hands and arms on bed pillows that I place at each side of me. This relieves pressure and keeps me from turning over and lying on my hands and arms while asleep.

I bought a child's mop for dusting my natural finish woodwork. I can reach the highest and the lowest places without stooping or stretching. After each use, I shake it out and it is ready for the next time and, of course, I wash it when it needs it.

I had several blouses that were too short to wear outside my skirt and would pull out when worn inside. I took some old stretch bandage that I had on hand and sewed it to the bottoms of the blouses. Now they cling and fit smoothly under a skirt or slacks. — MRS. C.C.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I thought the trim on my kitchen table was chrome but it must be aluminum or something else as the black rubs off on my clothing. I not only sit at this table for meals but to play games, read the paper and help with the children's homework.

Being a heavy person, I touch this metal part more than the others in the family so I always have dirtylooking marks on the front of my clothes. Cleaning this trim does not help. Have any of the readers had this problem and solved it? — NORMA

DEAR POLLY — An underarm guesset of matching or blending material can give an extra season's wear to those shirts of dad's or son's that have become too tight over the chest. Just a two-inch square sewed diagonally into the opened underarm seam of the sleeve and the side seam of the shirt will do the trick. This may even make wearable those gifts of shirts that cannot be returned. — RUTH

DEAR POLLY — To keep facial tissues carried in my purse neat and clean I use a plastic sandwich bag, fold a small bunch of tissues in it and when one is needed I open my bag and take one from the center fold.

Thank you for all the Pointers you have passed on through the column.—MRS. B. E. Z.

To Help Poor to Eat Better on Same Income

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A pilot nutrition education effort is taking the University of California's Agriculture Extension program deep into poverty areas in both city and country.

The program, aided by federal funds, is designed to reach "hard to reach" poor families to help improve the nutritional quality and adequacy of individual and family diets within the economic means of the family.

★ ★ ★

The university has employed 360 women from disadvantaged areas as parttime aides. They have learned basic nutrition and teaching methods and are already teaching others in their own neighborhoods.

"In the first month of the program, more than 6,000 California families were reached," says Dr. Gaylord P. Whitlock, project director.

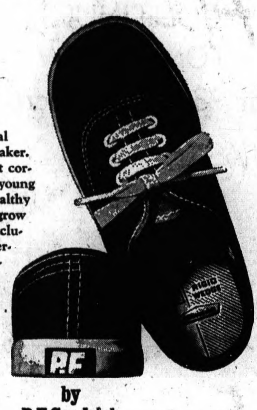
The big difference in kids' sneakers:

It's called Posture Foundation and only P-F's have it.



Posture Foundation is a special wedge built into every P-F® sneaker. It helps distribute body weight correctly. So there's less strain on young foot and leg muscles. And healthy growing feet are encouraged to grow up that way. That's how the exclusive P-F wedge makes a big difference. But not the only one. Because P-F's are built with the strongest materials all around —the kind of quality that lasts longer.
When you look for kids' sneakers, look for the green P-F patch on the heel.

MRS. W. T. ASPENWALL

Aspenwalls Speak Vows

A reception in the Italian American Club followed the exchange of vows uniting Gayle Virginia Halliday and William Thomas Aspenwall.

They were wed Saturday in White Lake Presbyterian Church, Davisburg.

★ ★ ★

Attended by Mrs. William Prince, matron of honor, the daughter of the S. Earl Hallidays of Highland wore a gown of white Goergette over taffeta accented by lace panels. She carried a cascade of carnations and roses.

★ ★ ★

Jon Retzlaff was best man for the son of William F. Aspenwall of Buckingham Street, White Lake Township, and Mrs. Harry Wood of Rivard Street.

Teen Bride High-Priced

KOTA BELUD, Malaysia (AP) — The groom was twice the bride's father's age at the recent wedding of the year in Malaysia's buffalo country.

Haji Alik Bin Sapi, 72, a farmer and shopkeeper, took as his bride 14-year-old Kungam Binte Sakil at a Muslim ceremony. Alik paid the girl's father, Sakil Bin Muka, 10 buffaloes, seven multi-colored rugs and 200 dollars (U.S. dollars $66.66) in cash.

★ ★ ★

Most of the 300 guests attending the ceremony, 53 miles from the state capital at Kota Kinabalu, came on buffaloes. The groom, however, arrived at the wedding in a gaily decorated automobile, accompanied by the beating of drums and the explosion of firecrackers. He was carried over the threshold of his bride's home, where the ceremony took place, according to custom.

Opening lead—♠K

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

We don't think much of South's seven no-trump bid. His partner had shown one ace and one king but if that king turned out to be in spades instead of hearts, the chances are that a heart lead would hold South to 11 tricks.

On the other hand, most players overbid their good hands and South certainly held a good hand.

We think even less of West's double. West could be sure that South's bidding was based on a long diamond suit. Give South eight diamonds and West's high cards in the other suits would be useless.

Anyway, West doubled and opened the king of spades. South won and rattled off his diamonds as fast as he could play them. East followed to the first four and started his discarding with the three of hearts. He had nothing but low cards and they all looked alike to him.

* * *

He couldn't have been more mistaken. The one thing of value in his hand was the eight of hearts and that would only be of value if he kept it protected.

Once East threw away the three of hearts, West's goose was cooked. South kept on with diamonds and on the last diamond West had to come down to five cards. He had to hold a spade and three clubs. He couldn't guard hearts also.

South chalked up 2,470 for game, rubber and doubled grand slam merely because East couldn't be bothered to think with his bad hand.

♥2 CARD Sense ♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	1♥	Pass	2♠
Pass	3♣	Pass	?

You, South, hold: ♠AK984 ♥2 ♦AK1092 ♣65

What do you do now?

A—Bid four no-trump. You plan to bid six if your partner shows one ace. He is likely to hold a singleton club or the king and anyway clubs may not be led against you.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner bids five hearts to show two aces. You continue with five no-trump and he bids six diamonds to show one king. What do you do now?

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Friday

MENU TIP: Moon, Mars conjoined in Sagittarius, emphasizes foreign foods. Break from routine. Go to out-of-way place to dine. Or make up picnic basket to consume while hiking or during journey. "Foreign" in this case means a complete change from usual fare. Try it to be adventurous. Delightful sandwiches hoped by rich desserts, preferably of the flaming variety, would be in line with astrological indications.

SITE OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS PLANT FIRE — The complex of white buildings at upper right is where a multimillion-dollar fire crippled operations at the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant on May 11. A Senate subcommittee report indicates the fire has halted U.S. nuclear missile production for perhaps the rest of this year. The plant, operated for the Atomic Energy Commission by Dow Chemical Co., is about 30 miles northwest of Denver.

Little Sardine Will Help Feed Zambia

LUSAKA (UPI) — A little sardine Africans call the "harlot," because of its ruby-red lips, will form the basis of a million-pound fishing industry for the copper-rich, landlocked Central African republic of Zambia where protein deficiency in human diets is a serious problem.

★ ★ ★

Although no part of President Kenneth Kaund's four-year-old Independent state is less than 600 miles from the sea, the country has access to more than 8,000 square miles of lake waters. Their fishing potential is enormous and they've hardly been touched.

★ ★ ★

Now, with financial help from the government's active Industrial Development Corp. and technical assistance from Norway, the fish of Lakes Tanganyika, Mweru and Bangweulu are about to be seriously exploited for the first time in a development program.

Initial cost alone will be more than $2.4 million.

The little fish which will form the bulk of the catches and which will, when frozen or smoked, sell in one pound packets throughout the Republic for 18 cents or less, is known locally as Ka-Penta, literally the Painted One.

SLANG EXPRESSION

Under this name it is being publicized as the national food of Zambia, when mixed with the staple diet of maize meal. The name derives from the slang expression for a prostitute and refers to the way harlots use heavy makeup.

When fresh caught, the silvery little fingerling has bright red lips, but these soon fade. Normally running between 28 and 40 millimeters in length, they are clearly defined members of the herring and sardine families, prized for their oily, tasty flesh.

Ka-penta are found in commercial quantities only in Lake Tanganyika, though efforts are now being made by the Fisheries Research Organization to introduce them into the man-made Lake Kariba in the south of Zambia.

Lakes Mweru and Bangweulu will be fished for their abundant quantities of tilapia, barbel and tigerfish, while the delicious Nile perch, which can run up to 200 lbs., also will be caught from Lake Tanganyika.

BEING BUILT

The fleet will be led by two 63-foot fishing boats now under design and construction in Kitwe by master-boat-builder Karsten Pedersen from Norway.

They will be supplemented by smaller boats and the industry will have its own drying and processing plants, freezers, a fleet of refrigerated trucks and established country-wide selling points.

★ ★ ★

The waters of these lakes also present almost virgin prospects for anglers. In the tigerfish and the Nile perch, they offer the sportsman some of the finest game fishing in the world.

Warden Wages War on Wash

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent (AP) — The town warden has launched a beautification campaign in this east Caribbean scenic spot by asking residents to keep their laundry out of the public eye.

He said clothes and bedding hung out to air give the island a bad image with tourists.

Military Pay Hikes Mean More Benefits

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—July is "money month" for the people in military service and their families. That's when they get the 12.6 per cent raise in base pay they've been eagerly awaiting as living costs rise.

BAULCH

And those who retire after July 1 will have passed the date when their retired pay is based on the new scale rather than the old one. Your you retire and increases are tied to rises in the youretire and increases are tied to rises in the government's cost-of-living index.

Actually those retiring before July 1 won't lose the full 12.6 per cent raise, but about 10.3 per cent. That's because under a complicated formula they'll get 2.1 per cent of the 4 per cent cost-of-living increase the earlier retirees got in February.

But still, it will make a big difference whether you retire in June or July—as much as 108 a month for a colonel or $58 a month for a sergeant major—or their equivaent in other services.

RAISE FOR RETIREES

However, the way the cost-of-living index has been climbing in recent months ,all retired military people should get a raise in recent months, all retired military people should get a raise in the index after it stays that high for three months. The money raises match the cost-of-living rise.

Cost-of-living increases for retired people come regularly but still lag behind increases in pay for active duty personnel. So those who couldn't push their retirement date beyond July 1 will be stuck with the smaller retired pay. And efforts to again peg increases in retirement pay to active duty raises continually seem to get cold shoulder treatment in Congress.

* * *

Both active duty people and retired folks will see whatever increase they get chewed at in large hunks by inflation, higher taxes, increased Social Security deductions—just like the civilians.

Some fringe benefits come with increased basic pay for active duty. These include bigger enlistment bonuses and terminal leave pay, more drill pay for reservists and higher value on retirement points earned by reservists.

SURVIVOR PAY

The survivors of men who die as a result of military service will get higher death gratuity pay in some grades. And since the compensation to widows of men who die of service-connected causes is tied to active duty pay it will mean an increase in these rates.

July 1 is also a date of good or bad news for thousands of Air Force men. Some specialties will get a $100 increase in proficiency pay. Others will get decreases or still no proficiency pay.

And there's a sour note for several thousand families. For the first time in the 1960s the overseas cost-of-living allowances will not be increased when base pay is.

The whole military pay picture is likely to change in the next year. Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird now says he expects to have his payroll overhaul plan ready for Congress to start hearings on in August or September.

HIGHER HIKES

He says the rate increases he is recommending will be higher than those proposed in the sidetracked Hubbell plan, but will contain the Hubbell features of straight salary in place of the present base pay and allowances.

Laird says he expects the new plan to be ready to go into effect next July 1, if Congress okays it.

Hard-to-Find Veterans

The Veterans Administration reports the Post Office returns over 7,000 checks a month because veterans receiving pensions or compensation have failed to notify VA they were changing their residence. VA can't send them the money they're probably waiting for until the new address is sent.

Another problem the VA runs into is names, especially if your name is John Smith. There are 310,000 Smiths among veterans, 13,130 named John. Second are the Johnsons, not the Jones, as you might expect. There are 202,700 named Johnson with Williams third at 150,000, Jones fourth at 145,180 and Brown fifth at 144,000. A mixup can be avoided if you've ever filed a claim with VA as you have a permanent file number; use it in any correspondence with VA.

Home-Buying Option

A law passed last year permits veterans to buy homes for more than the VA appraisal figure—provided the overage is paid in cash—but few are doing so.

The VA reports that in the past year only one of each 14 home-buying veterans paid more. And in half of these cases the additional amount was $500 or less.

Your Promotion Chances

If you are a recruit coming into the Army you probably wonder what your chances of promotion are. Normally you must stay four months as a recruit and then another four months as a private, but there are ways to make it to private first class in four months:

- Outstanding achievement both in basic training, where 35 per cent of trainees make E2 on graduation, and in the Army school system.
- Commanders may cut to two months the time-in-grade requirements from private to Pfc where there is "demonstrated potential."
- A soldier may be promoted to Pfc immediately upon arrival in Vietnam or assignment to the Korea hostile fire zone.

G. I. Q.' Box

Dear Jerry:

I'm the wife of an ex-serviceman who, as a result of injuries sustained in Vietnam, is now a disabled veteran. He gets 80 per cent rated disability compensation. We have been separated almost two years and he just won't contribute toward the support of our three children, age 6, 4 and 22 months. I'm out of work and he won't give me anything. I went to the Veterans Administration and they said it's his money and he really doesn't have to support my children. Is there any advice you can give?

Mrs. R., St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Mrs. R.:

As far as the VA is concerned it cannot make your husband provide for you or the children. The only course open to you is to go to your local legal aid society and get a lawyer to go to court.

* * *

Dear Jerry:

You say American prisoners of war in World War II and Korea were paid $2.50 a day after the war for the time spent in prison camp. I was a prisoner in Germany for nine months in World War II and I can't remember getting the $2.50 a day three years after the war. It's a long time ago and I may have forgotten. How do I go about checking up to see if I got it and if I am still eligible?

WJK, Madisonville, Ky.

Dear WJK:

You write the Foreign Claims Settlement Division, 1111 20th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. But I forwarded your letter to save time and they've written you that you were paid in two checks, which amounted to several hundred dollars. Guess you did forget. The money was paid on the basis that rations in prison camps were not up to Geneva Convention standards, because of inhuman treatment and for work in camp for which prisoners were not compensated. The World War II payments came from German and Japanese property held by the United States. For Korea war prisoners the money came from funds appropriated by Congress. And when Congress gets around to voting the same for Vietnam war prisoners it will also have to vote the money out of the federal treasury.

FRED HARRIS

Dems Upset: Nixon Agile on Key Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frustrated Democratic leaders have come up with the term "Hickel's disease" to describe President Nixon's agility at turning issues to his own advantage.

Around Democratic National Committee headquarters "Hickel's disease" means preempting the other fellow's thing before he gets a chance to do it himself.

★ ★ ★

The allusion is to the transformation of the Image of Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel from that of a hard-nosed businessman into that of a conservationist of the first water after he took office.

★ ★ ★

National Chairman Fred Harris complains to colleagues that every time the Democrats set up a good issue, Nixon comes along and carts it away—say, by personally visiting a ghetto or checking Washington traffic jams from a helicopter.

CREATING IMAGE

It's not so much what Nixon says that Harris is complaining about, it's the image the President is creating for himself.

As an example, Harris told a group of reporters Tuesday that while the President talks a good civil rights program, his advisers have backed the administration off from extending the 1965 Voting Rights Act under which Harris said there had been a "tremendous" registration of Negroes in the South for the first time.

★ ★ ★

He said the administration was trying to curry favor in the South while maintaining it wants civil rights for everyone.

As for the Democrats, Harris seems to think they are on the road to party unity despite some flare-ups here and there.

★ ★ ★

He has reached an understanding with Democratic congressional leaders that he will not step on their toes with pronouncements of a party policy council he intends to set up.

HEADED BY HHH

The council of about 20, presumably representing all factions in the party, will be headed by Hubert H. Humphrey. It won't be named until Humphrey returns from a current trip to Europe, during which he will visit the Soviet Union.

★ ★ ★

It is possible that Edward M. Kennedy, assistant Senate Democratic leader, regarded as a leading contender for the 1972 nomination, will become a member of the council. If he does, he will be the only individual from the congressional leadership to accept an invitation to participate.

119 School Buses Crash--All for Safety

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Safety experts slammed an auto going 60 miles per hour into a parked school bus full of manikins, the 119th crash they've staged to develop new safety features.

The manikins, in sizes corresponding to 3-, 6- and 13-year-olds and adults, were set in different types of seats Tuesday. "We were able to see whether the bus seats retained individuals," said Derwyn Severy, a research engineer at the University of California at Los Angeles, which is running the tests.

* * *

Most of the seats were empty after the crash, as dummies fell into the aisle, slammed into one another and the walls and slid under seats. Four adult-sized dummies in the auto were heavily damaged.

With 11 cameras in the bus and four in the car, plus electronic gear in the head and chest of the auto's "driver," the experts hope to recommend to the Department of Transportation design changes in buses, cars and trucks.

AP Wirephoto

TESTING SEAT DESIGN—Researchers crash a sedan at 60 miles an hour into the side of a school bus yesterday in Los Angeles to determine the possibility of designing school buses without seat belts. Few of the dummies remained in their seats in the battered bus. Although engineers had expected the impact to overturn the bus, they called the experiment a success.

'More Shun Glasses'

Men Drivers Look Good?

LANSING (AP) — Men seemingly are more vain than women when it comes to waring glasses while driving, reports the secretary of state's office. A check showed only 26 per cent of Michigan's male drivers wear glasses compared to 34 per cent for the women drivers.

A survey of Michigan high school students by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare showed 30 per cent of the males and 42 per cent of the girls wear glasses. Another survey, by the National Optometric Association, showed two out of three adults in the nation have some vision defects.

* * *

The secretary of state's office suggested that one reason for fewer males wearing glasses while driving might be male vanity. Psychologists explain, the office said, that wearing glasses is considered a threat to the male sense of self-perfection.

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — Judge Robert Kinsey sentenced James Lenoir to 10 years in prison after Lenoir pleaded guilty to robbing a motel of about $200.

Then Judge Kinsey gave Lenoir permission to marry before leaving for Indiana State Prison, volunteered his courtroom for the ceremony when the sheriff balked at holding it in his jail, and waived the three-day waiting period for a marriage license.

Lenoir, 35, was wed Wednesday to Shirley Woodard in a five-minute ceremony performed by Justice of the Peace Vernard Johnson. Lenoir was led back to his Howard County jail cell and today he leaves for prison.

The highest temperature ever recorded in the U.S. Virgin Islands was 95 degrees.

Ceremonies Mark Seaway's Decade

MONTREAL (AP) — President Nixon and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau will mark the 10th anniversary of the St. Lawrence Seaway Friday with ceremonies at Dwight D. Eisenhower Lock in Massena, N.Y., and at the Man and His World Exhibit in Montreal.

* * *

The two North American leaders will meet at the Moses-Saunders Power Dam between Cornwall, Ont., and Messena before going to the Eisenhower Lock about four miles away. Joining them in speeches there will be New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

A Marine helicopter will take the two men and their party to Montreal for dedication of a plaque commemorating the anniversary.

His Job: Bothering 'Businesses'

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Everything running too smoothly down at the office? Maybe you need David Rogers.

David Rogers is a professional troublemaker. He causes products to fail. He foments labor strife. He gives secrets to competitors.

Rogers is director of The Management Game at the Graduate School of Sales Management and Marketing. Business executives play The Management Game the way army officers play War Games.

"But we play real dirty," Rogers says. "We put students in a resonable business situation. We brief them on the elements and raw materials. Then we stand back and start throwing large monkey wrenches in the gears."

How do students react?

"The best ones solve the problems," Rogers reports. "Just as in real life."

Playing dirty evidently agrees with students.

Sales and Marketing Executives-International professional society that operates the grad school, expects 400 executives in Syracuse in June.

Their mission: The Game.

Paint the Town Red Hot? Don't Brush This Idea Off

LONDON (UPI) — "It's cold in here, dear. Put another coat of paint on the living room."

No housewife has said that. Yet.

* * *

But the idea of painting a heating system on the walls is not only possible it's already been done at the paint research station at Teddington, England, near here.

* * *

This unusual use of paint developed from the study of the use of silicates and other inorganic materials as binders for paints instead of the more commonly used organic binders — vegetable oils, resins and so on.

SPECIAL PROPERTIES

Silicates in paint have many special properties. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington used them to develope coatings for space satellites which also help control temperatures and resist corrosion.

* * *

Taking it from there, the paint research station then developed a coating which can conduct electricity and which can easily be applied by paintbrush, spray or roller to existing walls. In effect the paint becomes a heating element.

* * *

The association says there is no danger of electrical shock from the paint because it can operate at very low voltage — under 40 volts of alternating current. It does not contain any known toxic materials and is considered harmless to children and pets.

* * *

The coating is dark in color, but the association says it can be covered with a decorative paint without noticeably affecting its ability to radiate heat. It can be painted on, sprayed on or put on by roller.

ALL-GIRL CREW—Wheat harvester Larry Paul of Shields, Kan., stands behind the four Kansas coeds who are running combines for him this summer to aid in the Oklahoma wheat harvest. The hard work will help finance the girls' return to college. The girls are (from left) Kathy DeWitt, 18; Pam Behring, 19; Mary Becker, 17; and Beth Dondlinger, 19.

Harvest Wheat to Pay Tuition

Coeds Working as Field Hands

CARMEN, Okla. (AP) — The wheat harvest offers lots of good, hard, grimy work and good pay for a summering college student, with plenty of fresh air — and mosquitoes. What more could a college girl want?

The four Kansas girls running combines in northwest Oklahoma this week say that's plenty—and in their view it sure beats being a camp counselor.

★ ★ ★

The coeds are earning college money this summer as field hands in the wheat harvest.

Their boss, Larry Paul, 32, of Shields, Kan., reports they are "working out better than the boys."

The girls are Pam Behring, 19; Beth Dondlinger, 19; Mary Becker, 17, and Kathy DeWitt, 18. Kathy is from Goddard, the others from Wichita.

When they came in from the fields at 10 Monday night they were dressed in work shirts, jeans and cut-offs, covered with dirt, wheat chaff and insect bites.

★ ★ ★

"I couldn't begin to count them," said Pam a Kansas University junior, scratching at some bites. "I don't think there's enough room on my body for them."

"One neat thing is we can wear any old thing, like baggy jeans, and not roll our hair. But we sure learned to appreciate water," said Kathy. She attends Pratt, Kan., Junior College.

LOTS OF ATTENTION

The feminine crew gets a lot of reaction from passersby on the country roads.

"They just stop and stare—and then wave," said Pam.

Paul reports "I've sure had a lot more boys apply for work since they've seen my crew."

Birth Weight Longevity Hint?

NEW DELHI (AP) — The relationship between the weight of an infant at birth and its life span will be the subject of intensive research here.

The United States government has made available 650,000 rupees ($87,000) for the research to be conducted at the All India Medical Institute.

★ ★ ★

The panel will study the case history both of prematurely born babies and those born after normal term of pregnancy. It will keep in touch with both such children and their mothers over a period of years.

The institute spokesman said the babies whose weights are low at birth are more susceptible to some ailments affecting the lungs and the circulatory system.

The study should also enable doctors to save babies who otherwise would be stillborn. The impact of family planning measures on the health of mothers and infants will also be studied.

3rd Try for Tax

ADRIAN (AP) — School officials will make a third attempt Aug. 9 for voter approval of a seven-mill property tax to operate Adrian schools next year. School Supt. Henry Geisler said the district faces a $100,000 deficit for the 1969-70 school year if the proposal is rejected. It failed in special elections last April and June 12.

Many Bright Spots in Broadway Season

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK — The 1968-69 Broadway theater season certainly wasn't the greatest, but it seems to me that there were more things to be truly thankful for than in recent seasons.

For example, Howard Sackler's "The Great White Hope," a robustly theatrical drama that walked off with the three top best-play honors — the Tony Award, the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Drama Critics' Circle's nod. Besides being a first-rate piece of playwriting, it offered the extraordinary performance of James Earl Jones.

★ ★ ★

In fact, dominating male performances were the special mark of the season.

Behind Jones, or in front, if you prefer, were the extraordinary performances of Donald Pleasence in "The Man in the Glass Booth" and Alec McCowen in "Hadrian VII."

And actor Robert Shaw's "The Man in the Glass Booth," adapted from his novel, and Peter Luke's "Hadrian VII" would not have met with too much argument had either been chosen as best play.

Since it opened so long ago, way back in July, many may have forgotten that Brian Friel's "Lovers" was a dramatic blessing and that Art Carney gave a remarkable performance in it.

Nor was there a lack of pleasurable contributions in the musical department. Most delightful, because most surprising, was "1776".

Who would dream that even a very bad musical could be fashioned around the writing of the Declaration of Independence, let alone a sparkling, first-rate show on the subject? Wonderful male ensemble acting here.

The Tony and Critics' Circle best-musical awards went to "1776", and no one would have felt too unhappy had the Pulitzer people, who have been known to give their drama accolade to a musical now and then, followed suit.

In addition, there was the oh-so-entertaining "Promises, Promises," in which Neil Simon demonstrated that it is still possible to write a very funny libretto for a musical.

★ ★ ★

It also brought to the stage the refreshing and popular songwriting team of Burt Bacharach and Hal David for the first time.

And, on the subject of performances, "Promises, Promises" offered one to rank with those previously cited — that of Jerry Orbach, who can be impressive whether he does or does not have songs.

The pleasures provided by "Zorba" and its leading player, Herschal Bernardi, late of "Fiddler on the Roof," also rank at the top.

There was enjoyment, too, in such slight but amusing comedies as "Forty Carats," with Julie Harris in top form, and "Play It Again, Sam," Woody Allen's little antic in which the author made his acting debut in the leading role and gave a winning performance.

Some Selective Buying

Stock Mart Continues Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued lower in fairly active trading early this afternoon, with brokers reporting some selective buying helping it pare its early sharp losses.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 4.98 at 869.12. The Dow had been off 7.31 at 11 a.m.

★ ★ ★

Losses led gains by about 425 issues.

★ ★ ★

Analysts said continuing concern over such matters as tight money continued to keep some investors cautious and on the sidelines.

They added, however, that the market's sharp decline in recent weeks had put it in an "extremely oversold condition, a condition that encourages selective buying."

★ ★ ★

"The sharpness of the decline also has the market poised to stage another technical rally—one that might last a while," an analyst said. The market rallied Tuesday and racked up a solid gain, but the advance ran out of momentum Wednesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.6 at 309.7, with industrials off 2.1, rails off 1.4, and utilities off .4.

Conglomerates mostly were lower, although White Consolidated Industries was up ¼. Steels and motors mostly were lower. Aircrafts and utilities were mixed.

★ ★

Nine of the 20 most-active issues on the American Stock Exchange were lower, 7 were higher, and 4 were unchanged.

Asamera Oil paced the list on 93,600 shares, up 1⅛ at 29. Second most-active Equity Funding Corp. was off ⅛ at 68¼.

Casserole, Skillet Dishes Cut Costs, Time

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

Casseroles and top-of-the-stove meals to the front. They're winners on two scores. First of all, they make a little protein go a long way. Secondly, they can sometimes be prepared during the cooler part of the day and heated just before dinner.

Don't be afraid to try your own combinations. If you know what is basic to a casserole, you can mix countless foods. Some, probably, the family will request you do NOT repeat. But how will you know, if you don't try.

All main dishes have some form of starch: pasta, rice or potatoes. All have protein, whether it's meat, fish, poultry or eggs. All have some kind of sauce. Here, canned soups and tomato sauces are your best friends.

If you expect to freeze a casserole dish, undercook any pasta so that it does not become mushy when reheated. Potatoes do not freeze well.

Canned corn is on the plentiful foods list for this month. Combine it with salmon and bread stuffing for a hearty, but inexpensive casserole. Pink salmon which is tasty costs less than red and is fine for this dish.

SALMON-CORN CASSEROLE

3 hard-cooked eggs
1 can (16 oz.) salmon
1 can (16 oz.) cream style corn
1 cup packaged bread stuffing
1 medium onion
¼ cup sliced pimiento
¾ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Combine chopped hard cooked eggs, drained salmon broken into pieces, cream style corn, bread stuffing, chopped onion, pimiento, mayonnaise and seasonings. Toss to mix. Pour into six individual casserole dishes. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 minutes. Six servings.

Not all quick, economical dishes are strictly casseroles. Many are top of the stove meals. Some can be cooked over the outdoor grill. Skillet Meatball Stew is one of them.

SKILLET MEATBALL STEW

2 pounds ground beef
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon seasoning salt
1 can (1-lb.) tomatoes
1 package (1-oz.) onion gravy mix
1 package (10-oz.) frozen mixed vegetables, uncooked
4 servings hot prepared mashed potatoes

Combine beef, bread crumbs and seasoning salt. Form into 12 to 16 meatballs; brown slowly in skillet. Drain off all excess grease. Add tomatoes, onion gravy mix, and frozen vegetables. Simmer, covered, 10 to 15 minutes.

Service in shallow casserole with hot mashed potato piped or spooned around edges. 4 to 6 servings.

A dozen eggs will take care of the protein in a curried dish. Remember too that eggs are completely usable — no waste.

CURRIED EGGS

¼ cup instant minced onion
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon curry powder
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
1 cup chicken stock
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon instant garlic powder
3 cups cooked rice
12 hard-cooked eggs

Soften instant minced onion in the ¼-cup water. Saute with curry powder in butter. Blend in flour. Add stock and milk. Cook until mixture is of medium thickness, stirring constantly. Add seasonings.

Turn rice onto serving platter. Peel eggs, leave whole and arrange over rice. Pour over curry sauce. Six servings.

What its orginators called a fiery sauce is an easy frankfurter mixture to serve on spaghetti. Cook the sauce in the morning, if you like and refrigerate. Heat at meal time

SPAGHETTI WITH "RED HOT" SAUCE

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 pound frankfurters, sliced diagonally
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
¼ teaspoon crushed red pepper*
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon oregano
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
8 ounces spaghetti

Melt butter in a 10-inch skillet and add onions, garlic and frankfurters; cook over medium heat until frankfurters are browned.

Add parsley, undrained tomatoes, tomato paste, red pepper, 1 teaspoon salt and oregano; mix well and cook, uncovered, over medium heat for 20 minutes. Cover and continue cooking 20 minutes longer.

Meanwhile, add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Serve sauce over spaghetti on heated serving dish. Makes 4-6 servings*. May be increased to ¼ teaspoon if hotter sauce is desired.

Canned Louisiana yams are the base of an interesting main dish. The protein comes from 1½ pounds ground ham.

YAM AND HAM BALLS

1½ pounds ground ham
1 cup soft bread crubs
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 medium onion, finely chopped
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup butter or margarine
1½ tablespoons prepared mustard
¾ cup firmly-packed brown sugar
¾ cup vinegar
1½ cups water
3 cans (1 pound each) yams, drained
1½ tablespoons cornstarch

Combine ham, crumbs, egg, onion and pepper; mix well. Shape into 18 balls. In large skillet melt butter, add ham balls and cook over low heat until browned on all sides. Set aside ham balls; discard drippings.

★ ★ ★

Combine mustard, sugar, vinegar and 1¼ cups water in skillet. Add yams and meat and cook, covered, over low heat 15 minutes. Remove yams and meat to serving dish.

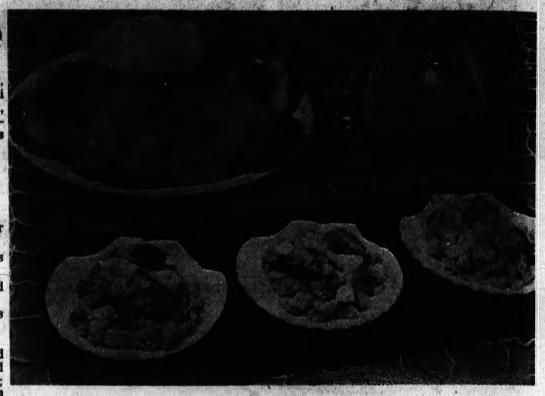
Blend cornstarch with remaining ¼ cup water; add to sauce. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Pour over yams and meat. Makes 6 servings.

For the quickest dish of all, start with a can of macaroni and cheese. With tuna added, plus some other good ingredients, you have a delicious main course.

TUNA MACARONIO CASSEROLE

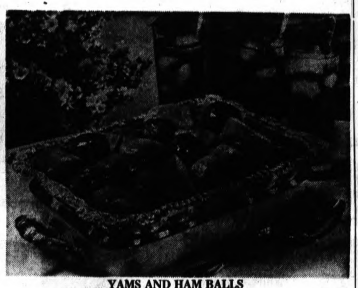
½ cup diagonally sliced celery
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (15 ounces) macaroniOs with cheese sauce
1 can (7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
½ cup toasted slivered almonds
¼ cup sour cream
1 teaspoon prepared mustard

In saucepan, cook celery and onion in butter until tender. Add remaining ingredients. Heat; stir now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.



SALMON CORN CASSEROLE

SPAGHETTI WITH RED HOT SAUCE



YAMS AND HAM BALLS

Both Custard and Sauce Flavored With Orange

Baked egg custard is one of the old standby desserts and it's sure to gain extra popularity with the added ingredients in this "Custard a l'Orange" variation.

This recipe calls for a half dozen eggs mixed with sugar and salt and blended with scalded skimmed milk. Skimmed milk is used to keep the calories as low as possible since it's swimsuit weather. Grated orange rind and vanilla extract add extra flavor to this custard, which is baked in individual custard cups.

★ ★ ★

After the custards are baked they are unmolded onto serving plates and topped with a warm and tangy orange sauce. The flavor of the sauce which is poured over the baked custards, blends so well with the traditional custard flavor.

CUSTARD A L'ORANGE

6 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups skimmed milk, scaled
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Orange sauce

Mix eggs, sugar and salt together until well blended. Slowly pour milk into egg mixture, stirring constantly. Stir in orange rind and vanilla. Pour into six 5-ounce custard cups.

Set in large baking pan and pour hot water into pan to within ½ inch of top of custard. Bake in 325 degree (slow) oven 35 to 40 minutes, or until knife inserted halfway between center and outside edge comes out clean. Remove immediately from hot water.

Cool to room temperature on wire rack. Remove custard from cups onto serving plates and serve with Orange Sauce.

Orange Sauce:

¼ cup sugar
4 teaspoons cornstarch
1½ cups orange juice

★ ★ ★

Blend together sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Slowly pour in orange juice, stirring constantly. Bring mixture to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly; boil one minute. Remove from heat, cool slightly and serve over baked custards. Makes six servings.

An Iceberg Lettuce Makes a Sandwich

Iceberg lettuce turns up constantly on good American menus. But let's experiment with this firm, green, salad ingredient and make a novel "sandwich."

BROILED ICEBERG SANDWICHES

1 medium head western Iceberg lettuce
2 medium tomatoes
2 slices bacon, cooked crisp
4 to 6 ounces Cheddar cheese, sliced

Rinse and drain lettuce very well; do not remove core. Cut crosswise into 4 thick slices or "rafts." Place on baking sheet. Slice tomatoes thinly; arrange over lettuce.

Place 2 slices bacon on top of each tomato-lettuce "raft." Cover with cheese. Run under broiler just until cheese is bubbly hot. Makes 4 sandwiches.

SUGAR CRUST SHORTCAKE — Pate Sablee or French sugar pastry makes a marvelous shortcake for strawberries. Serve it with cream, either whipped or plain.

Mushrooms Are Nice Accent in Salad

Salads which look cool have a refreshing effect on the appetite. Take cooked macaroni white and cool looking, and mix it with light brown mushrooms and golden pineapple tidbits. Add a meaty appearance with chunks of cooked chicken.

Place the chilled salad on crisp iceberg lettuce or romaine and serve it with iced tea or coffee and rye bread and butter. Try eating this on the patio or terrace for relaxed dining.

* * *

Equally as appetizing to see and to eat is a mushroom-shrimp salad. In warm weather it is tops in the no-cook department for a hearty main-dish salad. Make it into a tray meal by placing it on individual plates with buttered rolls or French bread.

CHICKEN MACARONI SALAD

4 oz. elbow macaroni
2 cups diced cooked chicken or turkey
1 can (3 oz.) chopped broiled mushrooms
¼ cup well-seasoned French dressing
¼ cup mayonnaise
¼ teaspoon grated onion
1 teaspoon salt
1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple tidbits, drained
1 cup finely diced celery

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until barely tender. Drain, rinse under cold water suitable container and add chicken. Drain and add mushrooms, reserving broth for use in soup, sauce or gravy. Pour French dressing over meat and macaroni; toss lightly together.

* * *

Cover and chill thoroughly. When ready to serve, blend mayonnaise, onion and salt. Drain any excess French dressing from macaroni mixture. Add mayonnaise mixture, pineapple and celery. Mix lightly but well.

Serve on crisp salad greens. Makes 6 servings.

MUSHROOM-SHRIMP SALAD

1 can (6 oz.) or 2 cans (3 oz. size) broiled mushroom crowns
3 cups cooked, cleaned shrimp (about 1 lb.)
½ teaspon dill weed or snipped fresh dill
¼ cup bottled thickened French dressing
1 cup diagonally sliced celery
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
Lettuce or romaine
2 tomatoes, sliced or in wedges

Drain mushrooms, reserving broth for use in soup, sauce or gravy. Combine mushrooms and shrimp, sprinkle with dill and toss gently with French dressing. Chill in the refrigerator. Mix celery and mayonnaise into the mushroom-shrimp mixture. Serve on crisp lettuce. Garnish with tomato. Makes 4 servings.

CHICKEN MACARONI SALAD — Chicken and macaroni for heartiness; mushrooms and pineapple for that different accent. They add up to an interesting main course salad.

Coconut Pie Is Rich, Sweet

Did you know that coconut comes from "the tree of life" in the Philippine Islands?

Not only do the people in the Philippines use the coconut meat as a food, but every part of the tree is used to make their homes, their utensils, their canoes and their clothing. Yet, in spite of all these local uses, tons of coconut are shipped to the United States annually.

SOUTHERN COCONUT PIE

2 tablespoons butter, melted
½ cup granulated sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ to ½ teaspoon almond extract
⅔ cup packaged toasted coconut
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell

* * *

Blend butter, sugar and salt. Add eggs, syrup and extracts; stir well. Sprinkle coconut over bottom of pie shell. Pour in the filling. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 40 to 50 minutes. Cool.

Serve with whipped cream and decorate with additional toasted coconut if desired.

One Large Shortcake Is Cut Into Squares

For their lovely, bejeweled fruit tarts, the French use a pastry known as Pete Sucree or Pate Sablee, both of which translate "sugar pastry." Besides the usual flour, salt and shortening, this pastry contains an egg and quite a bit of sugar, and a speck of water.

It's actually very similar to a cookie dough and makes a delicious crust for a fresh fruit tart. It's also a delicious shortcake for strawberries and, as such, is a lot less difficult to handle than for the tart.

SUGAR CRUST STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons solid all-vegetable shortening
¾ teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 egg, separated
¾ teaspoon vanilla
1½ tablespoons cold water
Sugar
4 cups sliced fresh strawberries, lightly sweetened (about 2 pints)
Heavy cream

Sift together, flour, sugar and salt into a mixing bowl. Cut in shortening with the lemon peel until uniform but coarse. Blend egg yolk with vanilla and water; add to the flour mixture and toss with a fork until blended. Press into a ball.

PRESS INTO PAN

Using a spatula or the fingertips, press the dough onto bottom of inverted 13x9-inch baking pan or into a 12x26-inch rectangle on aluminum foil on baking sheet. Brush with slightly beaten egg white.

Bake in 400 degree (hot) oven 12 minutes, or until lightly browned. (Watch carefully the last few minutes of baking.) Remove from oven and sprinkle lightly with sugar.

While still hot, cut into 12 individual squares and remove immediately. Layer pastry squares with strawberries in individual serving dishes and serve with pouring cream or whipped cream.

Soy Products Help Bakers

More uses for soybeans? About 105 million pounds of soybean protein products were used by U.S. food manufacturers in 1967. Baked goods accounted for almost half of the total volume.

Over the past few years, commercial bakery use of soy protein has gone up 7 to 10 percent annually. One of the primary assets of the soy protein is the fact that it holds moisture in bakery products which helps keep them fresher longer.

Do not try to re-use cartons from cottage cheese, ice cream or milk for freezing foods.

Baby Food Used as Hot Topping

Asparagus Divan is Divine. Whether it's fresh asparagus you're cooking, or canned or frozen it will be considerably enhanced if you add a special topping.

Combine one 4½ oz. jar of baby strained vegetables and chicken with ¼ cup grated cheddar cheese. Place asparagus spears on toast and top with cheese mixture. Place under broiler at moderate heat until cheese melts and top is slightly brown.

Do not refreeze frozen egg whites after thawing.

Sauce Bakes Right on Fish

Homemakers who dote on the conveniences of frozen foods—especially the "heat and eat" variety that takes only a few minutes' cooking time — are aware of the possibility of monotony, and always on the lookout for ways to vary them. The best variations are those that take no more preparation time than the main dish, such as sauces or toppings.

Here's a sour cream sauce recipe, from the National Fisheries Institute, that is blessedly both, and a delightful complement to frozen breaded fish squares.

SOUR CREAM-CHIVE SAUCE

3 packages frozen breaded fish squares
1 pint sour cream
3 tablespoons freeze-dried chives
2 tablespoons anchovy paste
1 tablespoon lemon juice
8 tomato slices (optional)

Arrange fish portions on greased shallow baking dish. Combine sour cream, chives, anchovy paste and lemon juice; mix well. Spread 2 tablespoons of sour cream-chive mixture over each fish portion. If desired, top each portion with a tomato slice.

Bake in moderate (375-degree) oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serve remaining sour cream-chive mixture on the side as a sauce.

Sandwich Honors Astronauts

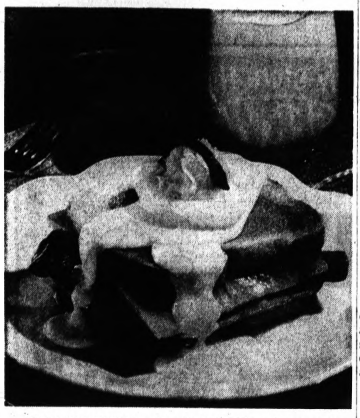
CHICAGO — Thomas Raymond Giancoli, Sandwich King of 1968, has added another jewel to his crown today when named creator of one of the Top 20 Sandwiches of the year in the National Sandwich Idea Contest.

Winner of last year's total Grand Prize of $1000 plus an expense-paid trip for two persons anywhere in the world, Giancoli of Everett, Wash. again proves his culinary expertise with his entry, "The Astronaut."

★ ★ ★

This exciting sandwich, named in recognition of "the brave men in the National Space Program," is made with ham and turkey slices, asparagus spears and melted Cheddar cheese. A colorful devilled egg and pimiento garnish, drizzled with Hollandaise sauce, top an "out-of-this-world" creation.

Giancoli's prize recipe has taken off into contest semi-finals where it now view with 19 other creations for one of the four category prizes — $500 plus a trip to New York. Finalists compete for the top prize — an additional $500, the trip and title of Grand Champion Sandwich of 1969.



THE ASTRONAUT — The Sandwich King of 1968, T. R. Giancoli of Everett, Wash., takes off again with a new sandwich creation. This one, honoring the astronauts, is a toothsome combination of ham, turkey, cheese and asparagus. The sauce is Hollandaise.

THE ASTRONAUT

12 slices enriched white bread, toasted
Butter
6 slices (1½ oz. each) boiled ham
6 slices (1½ oz. each) cooked turkey
18 asparagus spears, cooked
6 slices (1 oz. each) Cheddar cheese
1 cup Hollandaise sauce
3 eggs, halved and devilled
6 slices pimiento

★ ★ ★

Butter toast. Fry ham slices in butter. Place 1 slice ham on each of 6 toast slices. Top with turkey slice, 3 asparagus spears and 1 slice cheese. Broil until cheese melts. Cover with remaining toast slices. Spoon Hollandaise sauce over each sandwich. Top with devilled egg half and a pimiento slice. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Ham Sauce Uses Spices Plus Fruits

Try a dish of Polynesian ham cubes. It contains orange segments, pineapple bits, soy sauce, crystallized ginger and chopped celery, green peppers and onion. It's worth a try.

POLYNESIAN HAM CUBES

1 pound cooked ham, cut in ½-inch cubes (about 3 cups)
1 can (11 oz.) mandarin orange segments
1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple tidbits
Water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
2 teaspoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon chopped crystallized ginger or ¼ teaspoon powdered ginger
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 cup sliced cooked celery
3 cups cooked rice

★ ★ ★

Drain orange segments and pineapple tidbits, reserving liquid. Add enough water to fruit liquid to make 2 cups liquid. Combine cornstarch and cinnamon in a saucepan. Add fruit liquid, soy sauce, ginger, onion and green pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add ham, fruit and celery. Cook until heated through. Serve over rice. Six to eight servings.

Milk Sherbet Is Frosty

Not really a sherbet because it's made with milk instead of water, Pineapple Milk Freeze has a temptingly different taste and texture. Scoop it into sherbet glasses for serving, though.

PINEAPPLE MILK FREEZE

⅓ cup sugar
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 cup milk
1 can (8½ oz.) crushed pineapple, drained
Fresh pineapple wedges

In a bowl combine sugar, lemon peel and juice; stir in milk to dissolve the sugar. Blend in crushed pineapple.

Pour mixture into refrigerator trays and freeze until almost firm. Then, in a mixer or blender, beat mixture until light and creamy. Return to trays and freeze until firm.

To serve, garnish with fresh pineapple wedges, if desired.

Variation: ½ fresh pineapple may be substituted for canned pineapple, increase sugar to ⅔ cup. Crush pineapple in a blender, or chop very finely with a sharp knife. Makes 2 refrigerator trays or 3¾ cups.

Soviet Explanations Weak for Conservative Sex Morality

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet society upholds traditional chastity, but it can't explain why very well.

Sex outside marriage is generally condemned, and perhaps practiced less than in the West. But atheistic communism has come up with little to take the place of the Judeo-Christian basis for morals.

★ ★ ★

The attitude favoring chastity is a holdover from prerevolutionary Russia. The new system clings to it as part of a general conservatism in social matters, although Marxism-Leninism provides no doctrinal justification for this.

Young people are warned that premarital sex is bad for their health, or will lead them into a life of crime, or will make them unhappy.

YOUNG CONFUSED

Many young people are confused and unhappy.

Their questions about sex don't get answered at home. The subject is considered too delicate. Schools offer no sex education. Newspapers occasionally get involved in the subject, but in an unclear and hodgepodge way, since there is no well-worked-out official line.

★ ★ ★

Don't, society says.

And don't ask why not, it adds, in effect.

The Young Communist League newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda reported it is flooded with letters from young people who don't know where else to turn for advice on sex. The paper enlisted the help of Lev Kassil, a highly respected author, to say something authoritative.

'NOT OLD-FASHIONED'

Kassil warned the younger generation not to be taken in by talk that virginity is old-fashioned. He exhorted teen-agers and young men and women to wait for real and lasting love.

A 19-year-old girl had written, "How many times boys have left me because I wouldn't let them touch me! Should a girl of my age experience everything?"

Kassil told the girl she was right and should disregard friends who made fun of virtue.

Another girl, identified as Z.M. of Moscow, said she had gotten in with bad company and now is "paying for her pleasure with sorrow, pain and illness." She urged other girls not to go her way.

The magazine Zdorovye—Health—in a rare article on sex life, told teen-agers that intercourse "impairs the forces necessary for the development of the organism."

Dr. A.A. Presiman, the article's author, recommended deferring marriage until the 20s, and then observing absolute fidelity.

★ ★ ★

"Faithfulness in marriage has huge moral significance," Dr. Presiman said. "It excludes occasional, casual sexual acts with others. These are always fraught with unhealthy nervous tensions and are exhausting physically."

Another magazine, Yunost—Youth—warned that sex among school girls often led to lives of crime. It said this was borne out by a poll at reform schools.

CLOSE CONNECTION

"The replies tell us," Yunost reported, "that for the majority of girl inmates crime was closely connected with early sexual life."

Girls of 15-17 were quoted as saying intercourse led them to associations with disreputable boys, and this in turn led to crimes such as stealing.

★ ★ ★

The case history of a girl identified as Lida S. was given to show how quickly a good girl could go bad.

"Her dream was to study and become a teacher," the magazine reported. "She liked skiing, volleyball, swimming, books, she wanted to be like her mother—truthful, honest, industrious, tender and thoughtful.

NOT IN THE BOOKS

"Then on one spring night she got acquainted with her future 'friend.' From him she learned 'what love is.' But she found out this kind of love does not resemble at all the one described in books."

Lida's friend, the report said, was caught stealing and sent to prison. She was distraught, began stealing and wound up in reform school. Girls caught carrying on affairs in high schools risk expulsion.

★ ★ ★

Still, there is opposition to sex education, not only for students but for adults.

The Young Communist League newspaper condemned lectures on sex before a mixed audience that were tried out at the Kislovodsk report in the Caucasus. It said the sexes should be separated to hear about sex or, even better, should read about it alone in booklets.

This article warned that coed sex lectures "encourage cynicism and kill modesty." The author reported with shock that he heard a boy tell his girl friend a dirty joke after the lecture.

★ ★ ★

"I am sure that he never would have talked like that to her before," he said.

Western influence often gets blamed for encouraging loose morals. This helps justify the ban on most non-Communist films, popular tunes and dances.

★ ★ ★

Sovietskaya Culture, newspaper of the Ministry of Culture, said: "We cannot close our eyes to the fact that our girls find in such films examples for imitation which are not of the best."

SOME DEFIANT

Soviet young people undoubtedly defy their society on sexual morals to some extent, as the many newspaper articles indicate. But pressure to conform is strong, and opportunity to do otherwise is often limited.

The cars and motels which have helped promote the sexual revolution in America are missing here. Family apartments are crowded, with at least one older relative usually about. The Pill is practically unknown, and other means of contraception are either often hard to get or faulty.

GOP Gets Edge in Both Houses

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — For the first time since 1956, there's a Republican majority in both legislative houses in California.

Republican Robert G. Wood, winner of a recent special election, was sworn in Wednesday, giving the GOP a 41-39 majority in the California Assembly. Republicans control the Senate 21-19. Gov. Ronald Reagan also is a Republican.

Syria Loosens Iron Rule, but Still Shuns U.S.

By ROY ESSOYAN

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Socialist regime in Syria has relaxed, by a notch or two, the iron rule it imposed on its 6 million people after the 1967 war with Israel.

'Life is getting better," a Syrian businessman said last week. Then he added cautiously, "Or maybe we're just getting used to it."

* * *

But the Syrian government sees no prospect of resuming diplomatic relations with the United States or Britain.

"We cannot even consider diplomatic relations with the United States as long as the United States supports our archenemies, the Israelis," a government official said. "And there can be no peace with Israel as long as the Israelis occupy an inch of Arab soil."

MUST BUILD UP

The Syrians are convinced the Israelis won't give up the territory they have conquered as long as the Arabs are weak and divided.

"We must first build up our strength. The Israelis understand only the language of strength," the official said.

* * *

A shake-up within the ruling Baath party took place two months ago. More than 300 political prisoners have been released since then. People in Damascus say the midnight knock on the door hasn't been heard recently.

* * *

Most Westerners still are barred from Syria, however. This correspondent was the first American newsman allowed in since the June 1967 war. No American or British newspapers, magazines or movies are permitted. Even Arabic papers from neighboring Lebanon are restricted.

TANKS DISAPPEAR

Tanks and armored cars have disappeared from the broad, tree-lined boulevards. The sidewalk air raid shelters have been covered up. Parks and bazaars are thronged with hundreds of soldiers on leave, and the jungle camouflage uniforms of the fedayeen or Arab guerrillas.

* * *

The government is now allowing the guerrillas to use Syrian territory for their operations against Israel, a sharp reversal of its earlier policy of not provoking the Israelis. A series of clashes erupted on the border in late April and early May, but they have subsided in recent weeks.

* * *

"There are no worthwhile Israeli targets close to the Syrian border," a political source said.

Despite government restrictions and bureaucratic red tape, economic conditions are improving.

* * *

Syria was the first Arab country to export its own oil and, despite gloomy original predictions, it has made such a success marketing its newfound oil in the northeast that production through 1970 already has been committed.

INCOME BOOST SEEN

Oil income is now $20 million annually. New discoveries, shrouded in official secrecy, are expected to boost this substantially.

The government is moving ahead with an industrialization program that includes completion of the ambitious Euphrates dam and railroad network projects, fertilizer and phosphate plants, an oil pipeline being built by the Italians, a new airport being finished by the French, and a telecommunications system being built with the technical assistance of West Germans.

The people of Damascus are better-dressed than they were two years ago. Restaurants are crowded and shops are well stocked. Most of the consumer goods are from the East Bloc, but Italian shirts, French medicines, German radios, cameras and television sets are prominently displayed.

The nightclubs and discotheques are packed with dancers jerking and gyrating to tunes belted out by shaggy, writhing musicians.

Mots of the women still are shrouded in black on the streets, especially in the older sections of Damascus, but in the nightclubs and restaurants, the skirts are inching up above the knees.

* * *

Tourist business still is in the dumps and shopkeepers in the once thriving bazaar area outside the old Omayad Mosque are glum.

* * *

"I haven't seen an American for two years," one of them said. "The Czechs and the Russians and even the West Germans don't spend any money."

But the new regime has settled a bitter feud with Saudi Arabia and is working to improve its relations with Iraq, Jordan and Lebanon. It has lifted visa requirements for all Arabs, and the flow of Arab tourists is picking up.

HHH Proposes Education Fund, Cabinet Office

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey today proposed the federal government establish a national education trust fund and also suggested that education be elevated to a separate cabinet level office.

Humphrey said the Nixon administration has "placed a low priority on education and libraries" because it doesn't understand the importance of education in a democratic society.

* * *

"It is up to Congress to engage in some adult education and correct the mistake," Humphrey said in a prepared speech for the American Library Association convention.

* * *

The 1968 Democratic presidential candidate said the national education trust fund could be financed from federally owned oil shale deposits.

Tiny 'Candle' Can Provide Emergency Oxygen

LANCASTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The oxygen tank of the future may be a cigarette package-sized "candle" that sufferers from asthma and other respiratory ailments can carry in their pockets for quick relief when they have an attack.

The candles, capable of producing an emergency supply of oxygen, also are ideally suited to supplant bulky oxygen containers in ambulances, for rescue operations and for activities requiring heavy physical exertion in rarefied atmospheres, such as mountain climbing.

"Candles already are aboard our Navy's deep diving submarines to insure an adequate supply of oxygen if the regular ventilation system fails and military planes are equipped with them in the event of cabin decompression or oxygen deficiency at high altitudes," says Vladimir Hwoschinsky, a top expert in the field.

* * *

"Further refinements will reduce the size of the candle to that of a cigarette and open up a wide variety of important uses of the candles by civilians."

Developed by Automatic Sprinkler Corp., at its Scott Aviation laboratories, more than 30,000 oxygen-producing candles currently are carried by U.S. submarines.

* * *

The devices produce pure oxygen by thermal decomposition of solidified chlorates that can be activated when the cover of the canister is removed.

TYP Salvages College Types

Transition Year Aids High-School Grads

By United Press International

He finished at the top of his class but the high school in a poor, rural area had so little to offer he's really not prepared for college.

* * *

Or, he's a product of an urban school system, where the teaching is acceptable — but poor motivation and social pressure detracted from his grade average.

* * *

Must higher education write off either of these hypothetical youths? Or is there a way to prepare them for college — perhaps even one of the nation's best universities?

* * *

Jonathan Fanton, coordinator of special educational studies and programs at Yale University, believes a solid year of post-high school instruction can help these youths achieve their academic potential and gain them admission to a topflight college.

ACCESS TO FACILITIES

Fanton is a member of the administrative staff and a teacher of history in the Transitional Year Program, located at Yale. TYP is not an integral part of Yale, but its students have access to Yale's dining, recreational and library facilities. They audit some Yale classes.

* * *

The TYP students, mostly members of minority groups who otherwise would not qualify for college, spend one year on the Yale campus in New Haven, Conn., in intensive preparation in key academic areas — English, science, math, social sciences.

* * *

"We've proved to colleges — even places like Yale — that kids who don't look good on paper often really have it," Fanton said.

* * *

In its first three years, TYP has placed 95 per cent of its graduates in colleges, among them Yale, Harvard, MIT, Brandeis, Princeton, Radcliffe, Columbia, Carnegie-Mellon and the University of California.

* * *

Fanton believes the transitional year, in which the students are not registered students at a college, is preferable to admitting them through lowered standards as "special students," as some institutions have done.

* * *

This has a tendency to connote "second-class status," he says, and the experience of the "seek" program at the campuses of the City University of New York, for example, tend to bear him out.

* * *

TYP, which enrolls about 50 students a year, awards a $2,000 scholarship toward costs of $2,400. Travel expenses and incidentals are extra.

Amish Man Offers Free Land for Orphanage

MANHEIM, Pa. (AP) — An 80-year-old Amish farmer wants to give away 12 acres of land if somebody will build an orphanage on it. But so far he has no takers.

"I don't want any money out of this or any praise," says Noah Greiner of Manheim, Lancaster County. "I just want to help somebody, that's all."

* * *

Three years ago Greiner thought the site — high on a hill overlooking a lush valley — would be ideal for an old folk's home, "but the people took another area that had buildings on it."

That's the problem with Greiner's gift. It's undeveloped land, and any takers would face the cost of constructing facilities.

BACKED BY WIFE

His wife, Annie, backs him solidly in his quest to do "something good" to "help somebody."

"We're getting on in years and figure we don't have much time left," say the Greiners who have five children, 10 grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

* * *

"We just want to do something good while we still can."

Greiner says he has always had an interest in homeless children, recalls that in 1918 they took in an eight-year-old girl whose mother had died.

* * *

"We had been married for a couple of years and had one baby boy," he recalls. "We thought all children should have a home, so we went to the Lancaster Orphanage to pick out a girl. She's married now and a grandmother herself."

Greiner's farm covers 100 acres, and he still rises with the roosters and helps milk the cows.

Arabian Isle Left Behind by Civilization

By The National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — Once upon a time, a seafarer's tale recalls, nine tribes lived in the Garden of Eden in Arabia. When Eden became desert, eight tribes moved north and founded civilizations.

The ninth went south and settled on the windswept, forbidding island of Socotra. That tribe, the story concludes, didn't do so well.

* * *

The advance of civilization has had little impace on Socotra, largest island in the Arabian Sea. Part of the People's Republic of Southern Yemen, Socotra lies about 500 miles east of Aden and 200 miles from the Arabian mainland.

No regular transportation links the little-known island to the rest of the republic.

POPULATON UNCERTAIN

Until recent years, the "island abode of bliss" was largely unexplored. Even today its population is uncertain, with estimates ranging from 4,000 to 45,000. Most observers agree on 5,000 to 12,000.

Perhaps half the inhabitants live a Stone Age existence.

* * *

Socoteri Bedouin inhabit caves, tend sheep and goats, make fire by rubbing sticks together, and are ignorant of the wheel. The others, decedants of Arabian warriors and African slaves, live in dusty villages and work as fishermen, pearl divers and farmers.

Few outsiders come to Socotra. Those who do find no hotel, restaurant or road.

UNTENDED AIRFIELD

Oddly enough, visitors may come across an airfield near the capital, Hadibo. Now untended, the facility was built by the Royal Air Force in World War II to counter any Japanese threat to the area.

Otherwise Socotra remains much the same as a half century ago when a National Geographic writer remarked: "There is not much to be seen in Hadibo. The principal amusement afforded the visitor is that of being seen."

* * *

Though never prosperous, Socotra has enjoyed far better days.

Historians believe the island served as a trading post for Greeks and Romans as early as 300 B. C. and later for Indian, Arab, Greek Persian and African merchants.

* * *

Socotra's lure was agricultural: The island was, and is, one of the few places where frankincense and myrrh trees grow in abundance. The resins, medicinal and religious treasures once prized as highly as gold, made Socotra a busy port and brought wealth to South Arabian merchants.

Auto Firms Buy Sites Around Willow Run Airport

DETROIT (AP) — Real estate around the once-neglected Willow Run Airport is being grabbed up by Detroit's automotive industry to speed up delivery of auto parts and new cars, it was reported yesterday.

The Detroit News said General Motors Corp. has quietly purchased 655 acres adjacent to the airport. Auto parts, and later completed cars, will be shipped by air to all parts of the country, the newspaper said.

Ford Motor Co. was reported negotiating with University of Michigan for 23 acres on the airport's south side, where they already own more than 400 acres. Ford has not disclosed its intentions.

GM is also negotiating with U-M, which owns the airport, for an additional 20 acres on the northeast corner.

GM PURCHASE

The 655 acres bought by GM is bounded by Ecorse Road on the south, the Penn Central Railroad on the north, Beck Road on the east and the I-94 Freeway cutoff on the west.

By building a big warehouse on the new site, GM could use rail and trucks to bring parts to the airport and then air ship them any place in the world.

* * *

The primary advantage of air cars by air shipment for auto parts is that same-day arrival is assured. Also, damage during transit is cut to a minimum.

And in the event of railway and trucking strikes, the automotive industry could continue to deliver parts and new All auto firms have shown interest in using the civilian version of the Air Force C5 transport, biggest in the world, to carry completed cars to outlets around the country. Aircraft have been used for carrying parts for several years.

The civilian version, Lockheed's L500, could carry 85 compact cars, 75 ordinary autos, or 55 luxury limousines.

Last year GM invited major airlines and freight carriers to make proposals for shipment of completed Cadillacs to the west coast.

'FIRST FOR MOSCOW — Racine, Wis., sportsman Joseph Haban tests what is apparently the first snowmobile to be seen behind theIron Curtain. Haban plans to use the vehicle in hunting Siberian bear. He is seen here in front of Moscow University.

Firms' Needs Opening Jobs to Hard-Core

NEW YORK (UPI) — Business is starting to open its doors to hard-core unemployed for the most practical of reasons — it needs them.

The need is biggest in some of the cities with the worst ghetto problems. William J. Spencer an executive vice president of First National City Bank in New York, said 30 per cent of his bank's huge staff now is drawn from minority groups. He told a seminar of bank administrators that urban businesses are going to become increasingly dependent on the hard-core labor market not only for little jobs but for supervisors.

Spence went into a problem that has been tackled for the past 20 years by the Board of Fundamental Education (BFE) of Indianapolis, preparing undereducated persons to hold jobs. Over the years, the BFE, founded by Dr. Cleo W. Blackburn, a Negro educator has given remedial education to more than 80,000 persons so they could compete in the job market.

Spencer said First National City Bank now has abandoned the high school diploma as a job requirement and is training 1,000 persons to overcome educational and environmental handicaps under a contract with the Department of Labor.

He said other urban businesses must adopt a similarly realistic policy in recruiting workers.

Now, the BFE, whose top officers are Bruce Palmer head of the National Industrial Conference Board, and Charles A. Meyer of Sears, Roebuck & Co., finds industry coming to it for help in getting workers.

"This compels us to expand our program in training workers for specific skills," explains Blackburn. In doing so, the BFE finds itself working with commercial vocational schools.

For example, recently the BFE and Keyboard Training Inc., a national school with a somewhat revolutionary method of retraining and training operators for all kinds of keypunch business machines, completed such a program with former hard-core unemployed persons for Pan American World Airways. The BFE itself is completing a program in Newark, N.J., to help pharmaceutical manufacturers recruit hard-core workers.

Royal Ringmaster Stands on Ceremony

CAERNARVON, Wales (AP) — The duke of Norfolk, Britain's royal ringmaster, once was asked the secret of his success in producing great ceremonies of state.

"I don't produce," drawled the duke. "I reproduce. My job is to reproduce history."

* * *

No one in the world is better at that than Bernard Marmaduke FitzAlan-Howard, Earl Marshal of England, Baron Maltravers, Earl of Arundel, Lord Lieutenant of Sussex, and many other things. He's got so many titles that it's hard to believe he is just one person.

As unrivaled organizer of British pomp and pageantry, the 16th Duke of Norfolk now is putting the finishing touches to the investiture of Prince Charles as Prince of Wales at Caernarvon Castle Tuesday.

LAUDED BY QUEEN

It promises to be as stunning, in its own way, as the duke's brilliant presentation of the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II and the state funeral of Winston Churchill.

"You are getting quite good at this sort of thing," the queen told him not long ago.

* * *

The duke allows the faintest of smiles to cross his cherubic face as he recalls the queen's remark. He rarely lets his expression change from an air facade is a dynamic brain, cof vague boredom. Behind that pable of envisaging the broad sweep of state ceremony without ever losing a grip on detail, all of it timed to the last second.

How long—precisely—does it take a procession of Welsh youth to walk a mile through a jam-packed little town? Who takes gloves to the queen on the royal platform if the weather turns chilly? Is the ambassador's ceremonial sword going to be too close to a duchess?

BORN INTO BUSINESS

The duke, England's premier earl, is 61. He was born into the business of staging pageantry in style. His father was 60 years old when the present duke was born.

"Until Sir Winston Churchill's funeral, my father and I had done four state occasions each," the duke recalls.

"He did Queen Victoria's funeral, the coronation of Edward VII, the funeral of Edward VII and the coronation of George V.

"I had done the funeral of George V, the coronation of George VI, the funeral of George VI and the coronation of the present queen.

"Sir Winston's funeral put me ahead and the investiture gives me a clear lead."

STICKS TO PRINCIPLE

The duke has $480,000 of government money to spend on the investiture. He says the funds are not enough to stage the ceremony in the style it deserves—but he will never swere from one principle:

"There will be no monkeying about in the name of modernization."

One modern aspect that he iout the na te of m dern :a must take into account is the presence of television cameras that will carry the ceremony all over the world. None of the dignitaries in Caernarvon Castle will be allowed to block the TV eyes.

The duke is reckoned to be worth $25 million or so as a landowner and businessman.

ANCIENT CASTLE

He plans state ceremonies, among many other activities, from his 12th century home at Arundel Castle towering over a sleepy village near the coast south of London. The castle has been in the family more than 500 years.

Apart from running his estates, the duke maintains a stable of racehorses and is a steward of the Jockey Club. He organizes the annual Royal Ascot races for the queen, and his interest in the administration of cricket is as passionate as his love of the game.

* * *

The dukedom was created by King Richard I in 1397. Since 1483, holders of the title have automatically become Earl Marshal of England, or royal organizer. The pay has remained the same over the centuries — 20 pounds a year. That was worth something in the 15th century. Now it's the equivalent of $48.

It's the honor of the job that appeals to the duke.

"It would be a tragedy if pageantry were to vanish from this island," he says. "There's very little of it left in the world, and it produces a great response from the public, whether the occasion is joyous or sad."

The duke is Britain's leading Roman Catholic layman, but he has never allowed his religion to become a handicap in organizing state ceremonies involving the rites of the Anglican Church.

* * *

In 1937 he married Lavinia Mary Strutt, a Protestant. They have four daughters. The lack of a male heir means that the ancient title will die with the duke. Perhaps philosophically, he says he doesn't mind not having a son.

"These things happen in heaven," he once remarked, "You can't do much about it."

Seaway's a Success—but It Can't Pay the Mortgage

TORONTO (AP — When President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth II opened the St. Lawrence Seaway 10 years ago this week, guns fired, trumpets blared, fireworks exploded and the bells of 300 churches in the Montreal area joined with the blasts of ships' horns and sirens.

★ ★ ★

Canadian and American officials plan a more subdued anniversary celebration tomorrow in Montreal and Massena, N.Y., with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and President Nixon attending.

Despite a continuing dispute over whether tolls should be raised to help pay off the $421-million debt the St. Lawrence Seaway authority still owes, the international waterway has been a remarkable success.

By providing a combined shipping route of 2,342 miles from the Atlantic Ocean to Minnesota, the route has permitted cities such as Duluth, Superior, Chicago, Detroit and Toledo to carry on not just lake trade but an extensive international trade, some of it with nations as far away as Japan and Australia.

IT PAYS OFF

This has meant more jobs to hundreds of communities in Canada and the United States. It has been calculated that each ton of general cargo passing through a port on the seaway is worth $17 to $25 in benefits to the community.

The seaway is composed of two sections: the river section, which is a series of seven locks from Lake Ontario to Montreal, and the Welland section, the 27-mile canal that connects Lake Ontario to Lake Erie.

Tonnage in the river section, mostly grain and iron ore, increased more than four times to a high of 49.2 million tons in 1966 compared with 21-million tons in 1959 the first year the waterway was in operation. The Welland system handles 10 million tons more a year than the river section.

When the waterway was planned, one of the objectives was a cargo figure of 50 million tons a year—a figure arrived at on the bases of the tolls needed to repay the debt by 2009.

PAYMENT SLOWS

Increased operating costs have resulted in a slowdown on the payment of the debt and Canada, which collects 71 per cent of the revenues, is anxious to raise the tolls when they come under review after the 1970 shipping season.

Pierre Camu, president of the seaway authority and responsible for the Canadian side, said: "We get the money out of tolls and with the tolls we pay first operation and maintenance costs, and any money left over at the end of the year should be applied against the payments of the capital and interest.

"I can say right now with the existing structure, the traffic we have . . . we won't be able to pay by the amortization deadline," which is Dec. 31, 2009.

U.S. officials of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., the American agency that operates the seaway, have resisted Canadian efforts for an increase.

IT COULD HURT

They argue that Midwest industrialists, shippers, senators and representatives say higher rates might jeopardize the future of the seaway at the very time it shows signs of accelerating its growth.

Man on Moon Can Answer Age-Old Question

By The National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — July 1969 is the month in history when earthmen expect to walk on another world: the moon.

With the Apollo 11 astronauts will go the age-old question of every man, from prehistoric cave dweller to skyscraper apartment dweller, who ever gazed at the moon and wondered, "What's up there?"

★ ★ ★

For billions of years the moon has accompanied the earth in its journey around the sun. It has tugged at the earth's seas and brightened the nighttime darkness.

Two vastly different types of areas compose the moon's surface.

CRATERS AND "SEAS"

Lighter regions are highlands — craters on top of craters stretching in almost countless number. Some of these giant pockmarks have great rays or spokelike streaks that suggest cataclysmic explosions at the craters' birth.

Scientists differ on how the lunar craters were formed: by erupting volcanoes or by meteors crashing into the moon.

The moon's dry, dark areas once were believed to be seas. Long before the telescope was invented natural philosophers, the scientists of the day, gave them their watery names. The Apollo 11 astronauts expect to make their historic landing on the Sea of Tranquillity.

The astronauts will find an alien world without air to breathe or atmosphere to moderate the days and nights. The harsh glare of the sun heats the moon to 240 degrees Fahrenheit; the long lunar night may plunge the cold to minus 270 degrees.

STRANGE SCARS

Rugged mountain ranges and isolated peaks soaring 20,000 feet will rise before the astronauts.

The moon's surface gapes with great straight-walled clefts, narrow deep cracks that sometimes stretch hundreds of miles. Mysterious rills snake across the landscape, perhaps carved during seething lava flows or by long-dead rivers.

★ ★ ★

Astronomers believe the moon, surrounded by the sterile vacuum of space, may hold the key to the beginnings of the solar system and the early days of earth itself.

Rosey Grier Tackles TV at Fast Pace

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Roosevelt Grier, the huge ex-all pro footballer, was never known for his speed on the gridiron, but he's moving fast in show business with two television series.

The good-natured giant will be soon as a regular in the new season as a member of the "Daniel Boone" cast.

★ ★ ★

For more than a year he has starred on a Los Angeles channel KABC-TV with "The Roosevelt Grier Show" a melange of music, conversation and the promotion of community development projects.

"They asked me to take a test for my role in the Daniel Boone show," Rosey said. "The producers weren't sure if I was a strong enough actor."

PAUSE FOR LUNCH

The big guy paused to polish off the first of two orders of Eggs Benedict he devoured for lunch.

"While they were making up their minds," he continued, "they put me in a movie for television with Ricardo Montalban. It's the story of Joaquin Murietta.

★ ★ ★

"And if it's a success on television, then maybe they'll make that one into a series, too. Guess I'd be the only actor in town playing in three television series all at once."

Grier is as big and strong a man as ever walked in front of a camera. He is a black man with a sense of community, devoted to his race and his country.

SMART CHARACTER

"In the Boone series I play a black man who leads an Indian tribe — a runaway slave," he said. "He's a smart character who knows the ins and outs of three worlds: the black, the white and the Indian.

"The important thing is keeping my other show, too, and working it into syndication around the country because I can say and do a lot of good things on that program that I couldn't get across to the country any other way.

★ ★ ★

"The whole idea is to let the viewers know how they can get involved in giving a hand to those who need help."

Grier needs no aid himself. He is comfortably established economically and in sound health after a football injury ended his career as a lineman for the Los Angeles Rams.

★ ★ ★

Rosey is quick to say he's in good condition now: "I'm working out again, and I could play football tomorrow. But I think what I'm doing now is more important."

Philly Police Can't Cool Teen Gang Warfare

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Teen-age gang warfare has killed 22 boys in Philadelphia this year. And police have little hope, despite beefed-up patrols, that the carnage will be stopped soon.

★ ★ ★

Police estimate that 4,500 members of some 75 gangs—most of them Negro, and representing less than 1 per cent of the city's youth population—are involved in the "wars" in which they shoot, stab, club, slash, kick, burn and maim each other.

★ ★ ★

Over the last 29 months the record shows 64 dead, 766 wounded.

"We are doing everything we can to keep peace," says Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo.

'NO CURE-ALL'

"But police aren't the cure-all. We can deal only in the symptoms, not in the causes—like housing, education, unemployment. What are the parents doing? What is the community doing?"

★ ★ ★

Mayor James H. K. Tate told a news conference that gang warfare on city streets has reached a crisis stage. He called for a federal grand jury investigation and a probe by the state attorney general, in addition to City Council studies already under way. He expressed hope the investigations would deter further killings.

★ ★ ★

"We want these young people to know this is real murder," Tate said.

★ ★ ★

In 1967 there were 12 gang slayings in Philadelphia, and 21s youths were wounded. In 1968 youth murders skyrocketed to 30, with 370 wounded. To mid-June this year the toll is 22 dead, 178 hurt.

WHY THE INCREASE?

In 1962 there was one death due to youth gangs, and less than five in every year up to 1967.

★ ★ ★

Why more deaths?

"More gangs today are actively involved in hostilities," says Police Lt. Arthur Matthews, 39, a Negro, who is co-director of the tough and alert gang control unit.

★ ★ ★

"Gangs gain prestige in their society by killing. They want theirs to be the toughest. This is their only thing. There's no logic, but you can't stop it. It's useless but the kids don't care. They say it's the chance they take for status."

★ ★ ★

Nearly all the victims over the past few years have been Negroes, but Rizzo insists gang warfare is not racial.

NEIGHBORHOODS VIE

"It's a problem of neighborhood power," Rizzo says. "Conflict is between groups from opposite sides of the street, not the other side of town."

★ ★ ★

Kavanzo M. Hyde, a Negro who is deputy commissioner of welfare, says "Unless a white youngster is involved, the community is not really bothered. But when any youngster is killed it's a tragedy. We need to react when children are killed. We're damn lucky we had only 30 deaths last year."

★ ★ ★

Each gang—and membership ranges in number from 50 to several hundred, with splinter groups sometimes within a parent body-plots out its own territory and then protects this turf.

★ ★ ★

The arsenal of weapons is wide—many hand-fashioned, some borrowed, stolen, bought, some just found in the gutters. They include sawed-off shotguns, pistols, homemade zip guns, fire bombs, iron pipes, auto aerials, knives, ice picks, razors, clubs, bricks. Fists and feet, too.

'WORSE ELSEWHERE'

Rizzo insists Philadelphia, fourth largest city in the nation, isn't worse than other big cities in gang control.

★ ★ ★

"They have the same problems and in most places it's probably worse," the commissioner says. "But Philadelphia breaks down gang-related killings so our figures leap at you. Other cities seem to lump all homicides together."

★ ★ ★

Capt. Frank Voll, head of the Juvenile Aid Bureau which includes the gang control unit, says: "It will take the combined efforts of all agencies, with considerable community involvement, to turn juvenile and gang crime around.

★ ★ ★

"And it's got to be done in one package. There must be better schools, better housing, better recreation, more jobs, more food, more clothing. It's got to be the whole bag at once—and, maybe, that's not possible but it's the only thing that's going to help."

A drawback is community and parent apathy.

Voll says: "The general public is afraid to get involved."

Matthews says: "Parents are concerned only after something happens, after their son is assaulted or killed."

Rizzo says: "Most of the people involved in the killing have been in trouble many, many times, and nothing has been done about them. The community must insist that the hard-core troublemakers be put into institutions where they can get help, and if this doesn't work they should be put into jail. If the community doesn't act, it's going to get worse."

Mayor Tate says: "The city has been making strenuous efforts and expending substantial tax funds to provide recreational facilities, gainful employment and other incentives to channel these youthful energies constructively."

There have been moves to stop the violence. Some gangs have been drawn into neighborhood activities—in the churches, in the schools, in the recreation centers. One gang won nationwide attention by making a movie of life in "the jungle of the black ghetto," and got a federal grant to continue the work.

Problems Growing for Gary's Negro Mayor

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Richard Hatcher set out 17 months ago to prove that, as the first city with a black majority to elect a Negro mayor, Gary could prosper in an experiment in federal programs to cure big-city ailments.

But the boyish-looking Hatcher has found himself wrestling with the kingmakers of his own Democratic party, men who worked hard to defeat him in November 1967.

★ ★ ★

And during his first year and a half in office, he has been plagued with a microcosmic mix of many problems familiar to bigger cities—strikes of policemen and garbage collectors over wages, flurries of civil disorder, a school boycott and a hostile City Council.

★ ★ ★

On top of that, Hatcher is faced with a burgeoning secession effort in a nearly all-white section.

'REIGN OF TERROR'

And now the heat is on, for the first time, from the Republican-controlled statehouse in Indianapolis with charges Gary is living in a "reign of terror."

In May, about 200 members of black gangs attended a City Council meeting and voiced their support of Hatcher in terms that upset some officials.

★ ★ ★

"We're going to back the mayor from hell to eternity," said a gang federation leader, Henry Gill. "The council had better think twice before it acts, and that's not a threat."

★ ★ ★

The Council thought twice and defeated, by a vote of 6-2, a bill which would have stripped Hatcher of nine of the 15 appointments to the Gary Human Relations Commission. The bill had passed first reading 9-0 three weeks earlier.

COUNCILMEN SCARED

After the meeting, one councilman refused to leave City Hall without a police escort. The next day, another councilman suggested they meet in daylight from then on.

★ ★ ★

"The entire council was intimidated and terrorized," said Councilman Eugene Kirtland, one of the Glen Park disannexation movement leaders.

★ ★ ★

On a balmy Saturday night in early May, a group of welfare mothers and children assembled in front of the Gary Armory where a catered banquet had been set to honor Gov. Edgar D. Whitcomb, a Republican.

★ ★ ★

The demonstration was orderly, but then the lines broke and the demonstrators rushed inside and munched on $1,500 worth of food.

CHARGES DENIED

Hatcher denied charges that he had known in advance about either incident—the gangs' presence in the City Council chambers or the armory eat-in.

★ ★ ★

But the armory incident aroused Indiana Atty. Gen. Theodore L. Sendak, a native of Lake County in which Gary is located. He, like Whitcomb, is a Republican.

★ ★ ★

Sendak referred to a "reign of terror" and asked the Justice Department and FBI to investigate. He spoke of a breakdown of law and order.

Hatcher brushed off Sendak's charges as politics.

★ ★ ★

EXPLOSIVE CHARGE

Of all the criticism leveled at the nonsmoking, nondrinking bachelor mayor, none is more likely to raise his ire than the charge that his administration is soft on crime. He ran on an anticrime platform and has launched battles against gambling, prostitution, corruption and street crimes. Some underworld kingpins have been arrested but the war goes on.

★ ★ ★

"We still have a number of problems in these areas, but we will increase the attack," Hatcher has said. "We are going to get rid of the image of Sin City."

★ ★ ★

Hatcher succeeded in obtaining commitments of about $30 million from federal agencies to combat crime, poverty, slums and unemployment.

★ ★ ★

But his efforts to channel the money into Gary's slums, the core of an ambitious Model Cities program, stirred protests in Glen Park, where residents felt they were getting shortchanged on their tax dollars.

PETITIONS CIRCULATE

Petitions to disannex began circulating this spring on Gary's south side, where almost half the city's white population lives and pays 20 per cent of its property-tax revenues.

★ ★ ★

The first public housing in 16 years opened in Gary last September. Groundwork for the 72 new homes had been laid by the previous administration.

The Gary Housing Authority purchased 17 single-family units in the same area for leasing and conversion to guaranteed-rent public housing.

Last May 14, ground was broken for a $10 million, 550-unit housing development sponsored jointly by U.S. Steel and the Gary Urban League. The first occupants will move in this fall and pay rents of $111 to $172 a month.

★ ★ ★

That in itself was a coup for Hatcher, to get the city's largest industry financially committed to the community.

Although Gary has already been selected as one of the Model Cities before he became mayor, there is little doubt even in Hatcher's mind that his black skin helped cut through the federal red tape to get property acquisition and building demolition under way.

Scientists Probe at the Sky, and the Clouds Strike Back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are people in this world who like to incite violence.

Among those who deliberately arrange confrontations with a view to triggering explosive reactions, you must now list William E. Cobb, F. James Holitza and Howard J. Mason Jr.

★ ★ ★

Repeatedly they have asked for trouble and reaped it — along with a fine harvest of information about atmospheric electricity.

Cobb and Holitza are scientists of the thunderstorm research project at Flagstaff, Ariz., of the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA).

Mason, director of ESSA's Research Flight Facility, Miami, was pilot of the DC6 flying laboratory which on several occasions goaded nature into unmasking its latent brutality.

On 18 occasions the three men flew their instrumented craft through thunderheads, and on three of the trips got what they were asking for — lightning hits.

Lightning hits on airplanes are not unusual. What was unusual in this case was the fact that the plane had aboard equipment to record electrical conditions before, during, and after the outbreak of violence. Mason described the sensation when the thunderbolt strikes:

"When you are in the pilot's seat, the control column feels as if it had been whacked on the other end by a baseball bat. There is a loud crack and a blinding flash that fills the windows."

SKIN MARKED

The plane survived the three strikes. But its skin was marked with burns and holes up to the size of a half-dollar.

Each time the lightning hit, the plane was in what the scientists called "a dissipating thunderhead near the freezing level and in an area of cloud that contained both ice and water."

Commercial planes flying through a dying thunderstorm have encountered such conditions, sometimes with disastrous results.

The first of the three bolts hit an instrument on the plane's nose boom. The second struck a temperature probe on the starboard wing tip. The third severed an overhead antenna on the forward cabin.

WHAT'S THE MORAL?

According to ESSA, observations of the electrical field hits "suggest that the aircraft itself, moving through the within the storm and after the thunderhead, may have triggered the discharge."

ESSA left it up to others to draw a moral from the consequences of this flagrant and successful attempt to stir up trouble.

★ ★ ★

But for airline pilots the lesson might be: Don't do it.

Mine Shattered His Body, but Not His Spirit

BY TOM TIEDE

DENVER, Colo. — (NEA — This is the story of one of today's young people. The kind you don't read much about.

TIEDE

Tom Ferrara. Age 21. A U.S. Marine.

He was born here, in the crisp shadows of the Rocky Mountains. He is neither particularly accomplished nor brilliant. Just normal and ordinary.

He likes automobiles, lipstick on girls and stereo records. He eats spaghetti and meatballs whenever he can. He smokes too much, swears too much and hates to get up in the morning.

HE MAKES MISTAKES

And, much as anybody, he makes mistakes. Like the day he decided to quit high school. They told him it was wrong and he agreed. But he just didn't like books or classrooms — and, besides, he wanted to join the Marines.

So he did. And not long after he was in Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

One day last summer, Lance Cpl. Ferrara was the point man in a reconnaissance patrol. It was a squad-sized mission in chancy, scrubby land to the southwest of Da Nang.

Midway in the patrol, it happened. The Marine stepped on a booby trap and was blown into the air and off the path.

BLEW HIM BACK

When he landed he hit another mine. The second explosion blew him all the way back to his original position.

Tom Ferrara lost both legs and part of a finger. His arms and stomach were shredded. One of his eyes was completely destroyed and the other was permanently blinded.

★ ★ ★

Somehow, though, he lived.

Today, a year later, the young man is still recovering. He's an orthopedic patient in Denver's Fitzsimons Army Hospital.

STILL NOT SPECIAL

But even now he's still not extraordinary.

"We got all kinds of guys like me here," he says, wrestling with a cigarette in his hospital room. "I think we got 700 in the orthopedic ward. Mostly from Vietnam, of course. They all lost arms or legs or something over there."

★ ★ ★

Ferrara sits fidgety on his bed. Behind him is a popart poster. A pair of artificial legs stand, fully trousered, in the corner. A television screen is turned on.

"I can't see the TV," the young man says. "I can see it's on because of the light — but nothing more. All I do is listen to it. I like to listen to anything now."

NO EASY JOB

He puts the cigarette in his mouth, then lights it by pushing it toward the heat of the flame with his thumb.

"I got one glass eye, you know. Can you tell? They say it looks O.K. It doesn't move with the other one, but it's better than a patch. I hardly remember it's there.

★ ★ ★

"They say the other eye might get better. Like, I might be able to see colors some day. It's funny. When I'm dreaming, I still see things like nothing ever happened."

He shifts on the bed.

YOU JUST FORGET

"My legs are funny, too. I mean, you forget you ain't got them. It's nerves, I guess. They seem like they're still there. You go to cross them and, well, it's funny.

★ ★ ★

"Then there are these phantom pains. I feel things from before — like nothing was ever amputated. Really. I swear sometimes I can feel my ingrown toenails growing."

★ ★ ★

He chuckles.

"I suppose I'm getting along all right. Some days I feel better than others. You know, not so depressed. Like, when girls come through the ward I think it's great.

NO EMBARRASSMENT

"Some of the girls really understand. I mean there are regular ones who come up to see me. There ain't any embarrassment or anything. Just friendly stuff.

"I got a couple of girls I even date. Sure. My only requirement is they have a car. Like, we can't go dancing or to a show — so we, uh, go driving, if you know what I mean."

The people at Fitzsimons Hospital say Tom Ferrara is, in general, a good patient. He withdraws occasionally, they admit, but that can neither be cured nor criticized.

He has, they add, made considerable progress. He can swim and even ski with the help of trained instructors. Right now he is learning to walk on a pair of government-provided legs.

HOW LONG?

Nobody knows how long he'll be here. There's no telling. Some patients, they say, remain for several years.

But Tom Ferrara, for one, is optimistic.

★ ★ ★

"I'll get out of here some day," he says. "I ain't so bad off." Then, quietly, he adds: "God, you should see some of the other guys in this place."

House Panel Restores Medical, Osteopathic School Funds

LANSING (UPI)—The House Appropriations Committee yesterday reported out the higher education budget bill for 1969-70, adding more than $500,000 for new medical and osteopathic schools in the state.

The bill now faces floor debate and a passage deadline of tomorrow.

* * *

The Committee restored most major cuts made in the bill by the economy-minded Senate committee, including a $200,000 appropriation for expansion of Michigan State University's medical school. MSU currently has a two-year facility.

The shortage of doctors in the state influenced the committee's decision to approve the funds, along with $323,491 for operation of the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine.

WAITS AFFILIATION

The bill specifies the osteopathic funds will be given to the school when the State Board of Education decides which university it will be affiliated with.

Total money in the bill was $295,508,517, with $39,673,735 appropriated to community and junior colleges in the state.

Other appropriations were:

- University of Michigan — $69,328,141
- Michigan State University — $69,591,469
- Wayne State University — $42,000,339
- Western Michigan University — $18,188,228
- Eastern Michigan University — $14,776,071
- Central Michigan University — $10,885,627
- Ferris State College — $9,096,088
- Michigan Technological University — $8,005,039
- Northern Michigan University — $7,061,287
- Grand Valley State College — $3,058,992
- Saginaw Valley State College — $1,597,707
- Lake Superior State College — $1,497,232

The University of Michigan benefited most in the House committee, where members put back more than $4 million in finances for full funding of 20 additional medical students and various programs.

The Senate committee had sliced U-M's budget by $2 million from the $67,333,435 figure Gov. William G. Milliken had recommended.

Rep. George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit, chairman of the committee's higher education division, accused senators of being "overly harsh in their handling of the U. of M. budget."

Mother Hunts in Japan

Where Is GI Buried?

TOKYO (AP) — A New Jersey woman has returned to Japan a second time to find out how her son died during World War II.

"If I have even a single dollar left," said Anna Topp of Bradley Beach, N.J., "I want to spend it on getting the information I want."

* * *

Mrs. Topp's son Irving was a 23-year-old Air Force corporal when his B24 bomber was downed by ground fire while flying over Koror in the South Pacific Palau Islands on May 24, 1945. He was listed as missing in action.

"I know my son is dead," Mrs. Topp said in an interview today, "but I want to know how he died and where he was buried."

TWO EXHUMED

She visited Koror in 1957, viewed the wreckage of a plane and had islanders exhume the remains of two persons said to have died in a plane crash during the war. Mrs. Topp said American officials examined the remains, and she was convinced that neither of the two was her son.

Mrs. Topp visited Japan in 1965, searching for clues from Japanese who were on the island during the war.

* * *

She said she has returned hoping to meet some of the 80 Japanese servicemen assigned to Koror at the time. The Japanese government gave her a list of the men, she said, and she has written to all of them.

Mrs. Topp recently flew to Fukuoka, 626 miles southwest of Tokyo, to talk to a former Japanese navy lieutenant who claimed he saw two American captives being interrogated on Koror after their bomber crashed. One was described as a tall, thin corporal.

State Overtime Budget Is Hit

LANSING (AP) — A state natural resources commissioner warns that some department work could be "seriously hampered" if Gov. William Milliken's budget recommendations for overtime pay are not boosted.

Commissioner August (Gus) Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO, made the statement in a letter to Senate Appropriations Chairman Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, and his colleagues.

* * *

The committee, meanwhile, reported out a budget bill including nearly $15.8 million for the department, $691,388 less than the House earmarked in its version of that budget bill.

The Senate bill includes $400,000 for overtime pay, the sum recommended by Milliken, said Sen. John Toepp, R-Cadillac.

OVERTIME RULING

Scholle said more money would be needed because of a State Civil Service ruling that demands overtime pay for employes, instead of compensatory time off, after July 1.

"For years, many department personnel have worked overtime hours as a matter of course to meet emergency or special conditions," Scholle said. "Overtime worked was liquidated by time off in a later working period."

* * *

The new rule, he explained, "provides for the payment at time and one-half for overtime hours worked each day. . .There is no way to liquidate the overtime other than through payment."

When Civil Service passed the new rule after budget requests had been submitted for 1969-70, the commission notified the Bureau of the Budget of the effect and provided an estimated cost of $634,936, Scholle said.

The figure was based on past experience, he said, and covered emergencies of law enforcement and fire, opening of seasons, coho fishing, deer hunting, holidays, and research, survey and investigation projects.

The executive budget recommended $400,000.

U.S. Studies Infiltration Drop in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State and Defense departments are trying to determine what consequences a reported sharp cutback in the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops into South Vietnam might have on the course of the war.

The infiltration rate declined several weeks ago, according to intelligence reports, and has been running at a relatively low level since.

* * *

Some authorities believe bad weather along the jungle trails in North Vietnam and Laos probably caused the decline. Others think a heavy drain on North Vietnam's draft-age manpower in past years may be responsible.

If the cutback is intended by Hanoi as a political move toward de-escalating the war, officials indicate they have no evidence so far that this is happening.

* * *

In fact, U.S. officials say privately they have no evidence of any intention by North Vietnam to scale down the war and they are still predicting another enemy offensive in South Vietnam later this summer.

President Nixon announced June 8 he had ordered withdrawal of 25,000 American troops from South Vietnam by the end of August. At his news conference last Thursday he said there had been no Hanoi response to requests for North Vietnam to reciprocate.

Former Congo Leader Sits Forgotten in Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — In a secluded Algerian army camp, Moise Tshombe next Monday begins his third year as a lonely and all but forgotten prisoner.

The 49-year-old former Congolese premier, one of the most flamboyant figures of Africa's turbulent decade of independence, is under a death sentence in his own country.

★ ★ ★

He was brought to Algeria at gunpoint by a French adventurer, and has been in solitary confinement two years. He is well-treated but denied contact with the outside world. Public mention of his name has become taboo.

Spain, where he lived in well-heeled exile, has stopped pressing for his release. Even his friends in Belgium, France, Africa and the United States seem to have lost interest in him.

IRONIC FATE

Oblivion seems an ironic fate for the former Katanga separatist leader, once the last hope of Belgian influence in Africa, who defied the United Nations and the Organization of African Unity and was directly or indirectly involved in the deaths of Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba and U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Lumumba was murdered in 1961 while imprisoned in secessionist Katanga, then ruled by Tshombe. Seven months later, Hammarskjold died in a plane crash while flying to negotiate with Tshombe. But by 1964, the versatile Tshombe had become premier of a reunited Congo only to be ousted by his arch-enemy, Joseph Mobutu.

Tshombe fled to Spain with a sizable fortune in hard currency. In March 1966 a Congolese military court sentenced him to death in absentia for treason and conspiracy against Mobutu's regime.

In Spain he surrounded himself with would-be mercenaries and bodyguards. One of them, a French ex-convict, hijacked Tshombe's executive jet plane on June 30, 1967, while on a flight to Majorca, and forced the pilot to fly to Algeria.

MOTIVES A MYSTERY

Mystery still surrounds the hijacker's motives. He may have been paid off by Mobutu's men, or merely acting on a hunch that he would collect some kind of reward. Far from being rewarded, he remains to this day a prisoner in an Algerian jail.

Whether or not Mobutu knew of the plot in advance, he instantly demanded Tshome's extradition. The Congolese president said no time would be wasted giving Tshombe a trial before his planned execution.

★ ★ ★

Algeria's President Houari Boumedienne, at first surprised and embarrassed by Tshombe's arrival, tried to make the best of it.

The state-run press and radio got word to denounce Tshombe as a "traitor to Africa." Algeria's Supreme Court gave a judicial green light for handing him over to Mobutu—although the Algerian constitution forbids extradition for political offenses.

STATES PRICE

Thus free to act, Boumedienne stated his price. According to Congolese sources, Tshombe was to be delivered to Kinshasa in return for a complete break between the Congo and Israel. Israel has an influential embassy in Kinshasa, and Israeli instructors train the Congo's parachute regiment.

The Algerian offer was politely turned down. Since then, Tshombe's fate has been veiled in official silence.

★ ★ ★

Emotions change quickly in Africa, and last September Mobutu came to the African summit conference in Algiers without a single public mention of Tshombe. Rumors said he advised Boumedienne he would raise no objection if Tshombe were "expelled from African soil."

But less than three weeks later, with Tshombe's release apparently imminent, Mobutu enticed former rebel leader Pierre Mulele to Kinshasa, then had him executed after a secret, summary trial.

NO SYMPATHY

Boumedienne had no special sympathy for the Peking-backed Mulele, leader of the "Simba" murder gangs in Kivu province. But to free Tshombe then would have seemed like an insulting reprisal. So, in the cause of "African solidarity," Tshombe's release was shelved.

★ ★ ★

No Algerian official will speak openly about what Boumedienne intends to do with Tshombe. Possibly Boumedienne himself remains in doubt, hoping the Organization of African Unity will one day relieve him of the responsibility for taking a decision.

★ ★ ★

Qualified sources say Tshombe is increasingly bored and demoralized and is having trouble with his eyesight.

Note of Hope Sounds for Jamaica's Youth

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica (UPI) — An American multimillionaire, jazzman Duke Ellington and a group of concerned island residents have banded together to give Jamaican youth the chance for "a tomorrow."

Young people have "to have hope," said Ellington during a benefit concert tour of the island to raise funds for "Operation Friendship" in Kingston and the proposed Montego Bay Youth Center, whose main purpose is to give hope to the youth of Jamaica.

★ ★ ★

American industrialist John W. Rollins, former lieutenant governor of Delaware, who sponsored Ellington's concerts earlier this month, said "The native kids here don't even have a pool. They don't have any place to meet and be together."

The youth projects, he feels, will "bring the kids in off the streets."

YOUTH CENTER

The youth center, due to be completed next summer, will offer 5 to 18-year-olds a swimming pool, boxing ring and clubhouse, Rollins said.

The idea, said 13-year-old Desseta Marsie-Hazen of Montego Bay, is "groovy. It'll give us a place to hang around. We don't have that now."

★ ★ ★

The center will give Charles Blakemore, 11, "a place to become a real champ swimmer."

The idea, Rollins said, came from "community leaders who asked me to help. I will . . . I'm trying to give these kids a tomorrow.

CLASSES PLANNED

"We'll eventually offer classes in mechanical and hotel trades and home economics, and later we'll have cultural and religious assemblies," he added. "The sports and social activities like dances will bring the kids in off the streets."

Kingston's "Operation Friendship" feels and houses some 160 young peole and offers training in trades for other teen-agers.

★ ★ ★

"Two naked, starving orphan boys were found sleeping on their mother's gravestone. Operation Friendship took them in, fed, clothed and educated them in its basic elementary school," said Mrs. Mary Sharpe, one of the operation's "friends."

The group also baby-sits for working mothers and has a volunteer medical clinic treating "about 9,000 persons of all ages each year."

Explaining why she became a "friend," Mrs. Sharpe said, "I'm not a do-gooder. I love the work, and 70 of these children are a bloody sight easier to get along with than 30 middle-class adults."

Lester Ferguson, 21, of Kingston summed up the feelings of the island's young people about the project:

It made me feel more hopeful in my soul."

Clipped Peacock Left Stranded by Laredo Tornado

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — A tornado which hit Laredo a glancing blow left somebody's peacock in desperate straits Wednesday evening.

Firemen said the unidentified owner kept the bird in a coop with wings clipped to make sure it didn't escape.

They were told the twister whirled the peacock to roost atop a telephone pole, unharmed but a prisoner because it couldn't fly.

Neighbors discovered the bird's plight and called firemen to the rescue.

Duck Hunter Fires Birdies in State Am Qualifying

By FLETCHER SPEARS
Sports Writer, Pontiac Press

CHARLEVOIX — A Jackson duck hunter picked on birdies of another kind here yesterday in setting the pace for a field of 279 starters in the opening round of qualifying for the 58th Michigan Amateur Golf Championship.

Unheralded Andy Andrews, 36-year-old vice president of a family manufacturing firm in Jackson, collected three birdies en route to a two-under-par 70 over plush Belvedere Country Club, and the hot round boosted the long hitter into the title picture in his first visit here.

Just a stroke behind Andrews as play opened this morning in the second round of qualifying was 27-year-old Peter Green of Franklin, who covered the back nine in 33 after a 38 on the front side.

MATCH PLAY FRIDAY

The low 64 scorers after today's round will stick around for match play which opens tomorrow and continues through Sunday. Missing from the field is defending champion Lynn Janson, a junior at Michigan State who is with the MSU golf team in the MCAA tournament at Colorado Springs, Colo.

There were four players at 72, three at 73, six at 74 and 22 at 75. Scores were generally good through the morning but they moved noticeably higher as the wind picked up in the afternoon.

* * *

Among the group at 74 was former Pontiac City Champion Tom Balliet. Tom's son Gary, however, who was shooting well in practice, checked in with an 84 and perhaps blew himself out of the tournament.

Officials were figuring a score in the neighborhood of 153 would make the magic 64.

NO PLANS

"I didn't even plan to be here," said Andrews, who suddenly found himself thrust into the spotlight. "A friend of mine, Vic Cuiss, asked me if I would come over and serve as a member of the tournament committee.

Andrews an avid duck and pheasant hunter, is a former captain of the University of Michigan golf team and he dropped the game shortly after college to concentrate on his job. "I just started again about four years ago," he said.

Andrews, the 1968 Jackson Country Club champion, knocked in birdies on Nos. 4, 10 and 11. He picked up his lone bogie on No. 3 when he woundup in the water.

Green, 1968 Golf Association of Michigan champion, qualified here last year but fell by the wayside in the first round.

Among the quartet at 72 was Bill Curtis, 36, of Farmington a veteran publinxer who captured the publinx medal play championship in 1966.

The youngsters showed their poise, also, in the first day of fireworks.

* * *

Michael Husby, 18, of Lansing, son of the city's chief of police, had an even par 72, along with another Lansingite, Otto Schubel, 25, and 22-year-old Dick Flynn of Grand Rpaids.

Five-time champion Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile was among the crowd at 75 along with 1967 champion Bill Newcomb, U. of M. golf coach, Eastern Michigan University team member Jame St. Germain.

* * *

Husby, a recent graduate of Lansing Sexton, is heading for Florida next fall with a scholarship to Palm Beach Junior College.

PREP CO-MEDALIST

The 5-10 Husby co-medalist in this year's class A state high school tournament, put together rounds of 37-35 and collected three birdies along the way.

With 73's in the opening round were Paul McIntosh, a sophomore at Oakland Community College, 16-year-old Jeff Reaume of Ypsilanti and three time champion Melvin (Bud) Stevens, 37, of Livonia.

Young Reaume whose older brother, Frank, is in the NCAA tournament in Colorado, carved out a 33 on the front side but slipped to a 40 on the back. McIntosh, came in with a steady 36-37—73.

* * *

John Grace, 20, a senior at University of Houston, posted a 76. Matching that total were Birmingham's Bud Badger and another ex-Pontiac titlist Dick Robertson.

Mike Murphy of Union Lake was in a pack at 78 and included in that rundown was Gary Beckman of Pontiac.

Others in the crowd at 74 were John Law and Bill Albright, both of Birmingham.

Mickey Lolich Has Yankees Whiffing

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tigers' hopes of catching the Baltimore Orioles in the American League pennant race were a tiny bit brighter today thanks to the talents of left-hander Mickey Lolich, pitcher and slugger.

* * *

Lolich, bidding for the role of strikeout king of the majors, whiffed nine New York Yankees Wednesday as he stopped them on a comparatively easy 6-1 effort, the Tigers third win in a row over the New Yorkers.

"I wasn't too concerned about getting strikeouts . . . I just wanted to beat them," said Lolich.

SECOND OVER YANKS

It was his second win of the year over the Yankees and he collected nine strikeouts to run his total to 111...just four behind pitcher Ray Culp of the Boston Red Sox who has 115.

Detroit named Joe Sparma (4-3) for the windup of the four game series tonight with the Yankees sending their ace Mel Stottlemyre (9-6) out to try to salvage one game of the four game series.

Lolich was rough on the Bombers all the way as he virtually stifled their biggest guns and was potent himself on the offense driving in what proved to be the winning run with a line shot to right in the second inning to send the Tigers into a 2-0 lead.

* * *

Lolich's wallop off Yankee starter and loser Fritz Peterson had Yankee manager Ralph Houk talking to himself in the New York dressing room after the game.

In that Tiger second, recently called up third baseman Ike Brown got things rolling with a single to center with two out. Jim Northrup rifled a triple to deep right center, sending Brown scampering across with the first run of the ball game.

"I figured Freehan was a much better hitter than Lolich, so I gave the signal to put Freehan on with an intentional walk," explained the crestfallen Houk.

"I never figured Lolich would hit that well...I wanted to keep that second run from coming across for I knew the way Lolich pitched in the first two innings that he was going to be rough," said Houk.

* * *

Lolich drilled a clean single to right scoring Northrup and giving the Tigers their two run lead.

SACRIFICE BUNT

In the seventh, Lolich came up with a different type of hitting prowess as he dropped a sacrifice bunt and reached first on a fielder's choice when Peterson was a bit slow in fielding the ball and trying for a forceout at second on Freehan who had singled.

Moments later, Dick McAuliffe singled Freehan home and Tom Tresh brought Lolich in with the Tigers fourth run on a long sacrifice fly.

Lolich's win ran his record to 9-1 for the season and gave him seven consecutive wins.

"I pitch a lot better when it is cool and I am not too happy to see the real warm summer days coming," he said.

* * *

Yankee boss Houk unhappy after dropping the first three games of the four game set-to with the Tigers, commented, "It was not our night . . . that Lolich pitched a real fine game just about on par with the one Denny McLain pitched against us the previous night."

Lolich was delighted with the Tiger attack that gave him an early lead and continued to pile up as the game went on. "They have been hitting real well behind me this year—giving me six or seven runs a game in some cases and it is a great contrast from last year when I generally worked with no more than a one or two run lead," Lolich said.

Lolich took particular delight in getting Yankee slugger Joe Pepitone twice on strikeouts. "He always has been tough on me," said Lolich.

NET RESULT — Veteran Pancho Gonzales (right) is congratulated by Chuck Pasarell after a gruelling match in the Wimbledon Championships. Gonzales won the match, 22-24, 1-6, 16-14, 6-3 and 11-9. The first two sets were played Tuesday and called because of darkness. Pancho then won the final three sets when resumed yesterday.

Ex-PCH Cager New Addition to UD Squad

A 6-3 guard who seems to set scoring records whereever he goes is the newest transfer addition to the basketball forces of head coach Jim Harding at the University of Detroit.

* * *

Frank Russell, all Saginaw Valley and all Oakland County in his senior year at Pontiac Central High School, set the single game point park with 42.

* * *

Last season, on the Highland Lakes campus of Oakland Community College, Russell hit a record 48 points in a single start and cracked the assist mark for a game, 15, to boot.

* * *

Russell, who lives in Pontiac, is the second junior college transfer recruited by Harding to date. Last week, he signed Barry Driscoll, a 6-6 forward from McCook (Neb.) J. C. to a Titan tender.

West Has Fast Running Backs for Grid Game

ATLANTA (AP) — Joe Paterno wishes he had Pepper Rodgers' problem—too much of a good thing.

Rodgers' West squad is running over with good fast running backs for Saturday night's Coaches All-America football game.

Paterno, coach of the East, on the other hand can't find all those he's supposed to have.

Wednesday turned up a case of the rich getting richer. Paul Gipson of Houston returned after spending several days at home while his wife had a baby. He joined Bill "Earthquake" Enyart of Oregon State at the West fullback slot.

* * *

Enyart and Gipson team up on offense with Eugene "Mercury" Morris of West Texas State, Ron Sayers of Nebraska at Omaha, Jerry Levias of Southern Methodist University and Jim Lawrence of USC.

Paterno must counter with Charlie Jarvis of Army, Frank Quayle of Virginia and Bobby Campbell of Penn State in the East backfield.

A week-long dragnet from Baltimore to New Orlcans failed to locate Yale's Calvin Hill, scheduled to be in the East backfield.

Rodgers was pleased after Wednesday's practice and said he will make the remainder of the drills easier.

* * *

"After four days of practice like we've had, I think it's about time to taper off," he said.

Paterno said after Wednesday's session the East's passing wasn't as good as it has been but the running was better.

"Maybe we'll put it all together tomorrow," he said.

Joe Louis Felled by Illness in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis collapsed on a street today and was rushed to a hospital. Police said it appeared he suffered a heart attack.

His condition was not known immediately.

Louis, 55, collapsed shortly before noon in front of a building in the downtown financial district. An unidentified driver rushed him to Beekman-Downtown Hospital before an ambulance arrived.

Louis was in New York Wednesday to announce the formation of the Joe Louis Food Franchise Corp., an interracial fast-food company of which Billy Conn, former world light heavyweight champ, is vice president.

Pancho Excites Net Fans at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Pancho Gonzalez, his 41-year-old-bones aching, said today that tennis matches are getting longer and somebody ought to do something about it.

"It's time they started play at Wimbledon at noon instead of 2 p.m.," said the Los Angeles veteran. "And they ought to consider not starting any matches after 5 p.m.—in case the light fails."

Gonzalez had these problems on his mind after winning the longest match in Wimbledon's 92-year-old history. He defeated Charlie Pasarell of Santurce, P.R., 22-24, 1-6, 16-14, 6-3, 11-9 in a classic duel that started Tuesday, was called because of darkness after two sets, and continued Wednesday before 15,000 excited fans on the center court.

COMPETITION TOUGH

"The fact is that competition is getting tougher all the time," Gonzalez said. "Long matches like this are going to become more frequent in future. That's why I think Wimbledon officials should consider revising their schedule."

* * *

The Gonzalez-Pasarell marathon was not the only long match. In the first two days of the Wimbledon tournament there have been 14 sets lasting more than 20 games.

Arthur Ashe, reigning U.S. Open champion from Richmond, Va., also lost the first two sets before overcoming Terry Ryan of South Africa 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

* * *

Big-serving Clark Graebner of New York City was leading, 6-2, 3-0, when his opponent, John Brown of Australia, pulled a leg muscle and retired.

Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., who has won the women's crown for the last three years, started the defense of her title with a comfortable 6-2, 6-1 victory over Mrs. Bernice Vukovich of South Africa.

Mrs. Margaret Court of Australia, rated Billie Jean's most dangerous rival, was due to go into action today against Betty Ann Grubb, of Santa Monica, Calif.

Hazel Park Mat Champ Upset in AAU Wrestling

Special to The Pontiac Press

WORLAND, Wyo. (AP) — A 4-foot, 11-inch high school sophomore, Edwin Digirdamo of Santa Cruz, Calif., upset National AAU runnerup Billy Davids of Hazel Park, Mich., Wednesday night in the round robin finals of the National Junior Wrestling Championships.

Digirdamo, a curly-haired blond, pinned Davids in 8:13.

The stocky Californian still has to defeat Stan Opp of Aberdeen, S.D., to win the 105-pound crown.

EXCITED

But he was so happy with his upset over Davids he cried for joy in the Worland High School gymnasium waiting room.

"Wait till my dad finds out. He'll be so happy," Digirdamo said. He explained his parents were unable to leave their summertime school teaching jobs to attend the tournament.

* * *

Davids had finished second in the AAU freestyle championships and was winner of the Grego-Roman division earlier this spring. Digirdamo went to Waterloo, Iowa, for the freestyle tournament but couldn't make the 105-pound weight division and was disqualified.

Strong Competitors in Horse Show

Rochester Couple 'Blue Ribbon' Pair

By JERE CRAIG

Blend an attractively strong blonde from Detroit with a degree in art from Oakland University with a rangy blond from Birmingham with an anthropology degree from the University of Michigan and what does it produce?

* * *

A young couple devoted to training riders and horses at Stony Creek Farm in Rochester, naturally!

Well, perhaps the logic of the situation isn't apparent; but inject a mutual love for horses, o v e rplaying apprenticeships under riding instructor Chuck Grant, and a strong devotion to each other and for youngsters.

Then the partnership o f Zander and Chris Duffield as the husband-and-wife owners of Stoney Creek Farm doesn't seem quite so unusual.

While both of them have ridden competitively in the horse show ring and Mrs. Duffield has already collected a red and yellow ribbon for a second and third place in dressage this week at the Detroit Horse Show, their prime concern is for the efforts of their students.

Two of them claimed ribbons Tuesday: Debbie Holefca had a first and a third, and Walt Graves received a third.

More are undoubtedly on the way as the Detroit Horse Show continues on the Bloomfield Open Hunt grounds with hunter, jumper and equitation events through Sunday afternoon.

RESERVE CHAMP

Chris' second-zear g r e e n working hunter Psychidelic was the reserve (or runner-up) champion in the state last year, and is competing this week.

The Duffields, though, a r e spending most of their time studying the horsemanship of the 14 students they have at the world's largest outdoor hunter and jumper show.

* * *

Both still in their 20's, Zander and Chris began their riding and training profession right after their marriage six years ago. Stoney Creek Farm now stables about 50 horses.

One of these is a pony reserved especially for their three-year-old daughter Franny who undoubtedly someday will carry on the Duffield's tradition of competing at the Detroit Horse Show.

BLUE RIBBON PERFORMER — Teenager Leslie Hastings of Bloomfield Hills has been an impressive performer this week aboard her Soft Touch in junior equitation classes. The 13-year-old rider won the blue ribbon Wednesday morning in her class. Earlier in the week at the Bloomfield Open Hunt, she placed second in the rugged Maclay Trophy National Championship Qualifying. The Detroit Horse Show will last through Sunday.

WORDS OF ENCOURAGEMENT — Zander Duffield (center) and his wife Chris (right) try to ease the tension for 17-year-old Chris Booth, one of their students, who has her brown gelding Royal Ears entered in the working hunter classes for junior exhibitors during this week's Detroit Horse Show. The Duffields, who run Stoney Creek Farm in Rochester, have 14 of their pupils entered in the 52nd annual show, as well as a working hunter ridden by Mrs. Duffield.

County Riders Shine

By JERE CRAIG

Oakland County entries fared well in hunter and equitation events Wednesday, while the competition continued keen in the evening jumper events at the Detroit Horse Show.

The Midwest Area U.S.E.T. Challenge Trophy open jumper event saw 8 of the 17 entries have clean rides on the first trip around the course and three more went without a fault on the jumpoff which was then decided by time.

Beefeater from the Cudney Stables of Winona, Ont., and ridden by Terry Millar won the $375 top prize with a faultless score. Canadian Olympic Team gold medal horse The Immigrant, ridden by Jim Elder, finished second with one-quarter time fault.

PRELIMINARY EVENT

The preliminary jumper event had 13 clean horses after the first ride, and two stayed perfect after the jumpoff.

* * *

Rider Bucky Reynolds on Mrs. A. J. Brandt's Many Times, a Bloomfield Hills horse, and Eddie Cash on Frank Imperatore's Miss Aero from Ravenna, Ohio, elected to flip a coin for the $50 first prize.

* * *

Reynolds and the Bloomfield Hills mount won. Four horses finished in a tie for third place in a rarity.

HUNTER HORSES

The local hunter mounts gaining blue ribbons yesterday were The Rube, owned by Mrs. Edgar Thom of Metamora; and Don Graves's Carefree from Bloomfield Hills.

Leslie Hastings of Bloomfield Hills led the field in the 13-and-under equitation not to jump event.

* * *

Numerous others from the county claimed red and yellow ribbons for second and third places. The show will continue for four more days at the Bloomfield Open Hunt on East Long Lake Road.

Twins Down Angels to Hold Division Lead

ANAHEIM (AP) — Tony Oliva, whose seventh-inning error allowed California to tie the score, singled in the eighth and scored the winning run on Rich Reese's single as the Minnesota Twins edged the Angels 3-2 Wednesday night.

By winning, the Twins maintained their one-half game lead over Oakland in the American League West.

Reese, who drove in a run with a sacrifice fly as the Twins scored twice in the first, chased loser Andy Messersmith, 3-6, with his single in the eighth. Oliva had singled with two out and taken second on a wild pitch. Harmon Killebrew was purposely passed before Reese delivered.

Indians Split With Boston

Siebert Wins First on 3 Hitter

BOSTON (AP) — The Cleveland Indians scored five runs on four straight bases-loaded walks and a sacrifice fly in the third inning and went on to defeat Boston 7-3 Wednesday night after the Red Sox won the opener of the doubleheader 3-1 behind Sonny Siebert.

* * *

The Indians capitalized on the wildness of Boston's Mike Nagy and Vicente Romo after Siebert fired a brilliant three-hitter and contributed a home run and a vital double in his first complete game this season.

* * *

Nagy suffered his first major league loss after three victories as he surrendered four hits and five walks in just 2⅓ innings.

Hunter's No-Hitter Spoiled in 7th

OAKLAND (AP) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the Oakland Athletics pitched hitless ball for 6⅔ innings Wednesday night but needed help from Roland Fingers in the eighth to preserve his first victory since May 11, a 3-1 decision over Kansas City.

Ed Kirkpatrick's single with two out in the seventh was the first off Hunter, 4-6. Joe Foy opened the eighth with another single, stole second and scored on Jackie Hernandez' single. Pinch hitter Hawk Taylor flied deep to left before Pat Kelly's single knocked out Hunter.

Fingers came on, struck out Ellie Rodriguez and got Mike Fiore to hit back to the box.

Pilots Win, 3-1 Behind Gelnar

SEATTLE (AP) — John Gelnar's correspondence course in security analysis may not have taught him the double play pitch but he threw it twice Wednesday night to help secure a 3-1 Seattle victory over the Chicago White Sox on his 28th birthday.

* * *

The decision, coming after the Sox had won a doubleheader Tuesday night carried the Pilots back into third place in the American League's West Division by one percentage point over the White Sox.

'I Quit Phils,' Says Richie

NEW YORK (AP — Richie Allen, temperamental star of the Philadelphia Phillies, told Ray Kelly, Philadelphia Bulletin baseball writer, today that he was through with the Phillies and would do nothing until traded.

"I'm through with them," Allen told Kelly as he jumped into a cab in front of the hotel where the Phillies were staying. "I am not going to do nothing until they trade me."

When it was pointed out that the trading season was over, Allen said, "They're going to have to do something."

Detroit River Is Scene of National Race

From Our Wire Service

DETROIT — The first boat out yesterday in the first day of qualifying" for Sunday's world championship Unlimited Hydroplane Race came close to breaking the Detroit River course record.

Notre Dame, driven by Leif Borgeson of Seattle, Wash., turned the course at 120.535 miles per hour. The record of 120.8 m.p.h. is held by the now-retired Miss Bardahl.

Despite the near-perfect conditions, only three of the 12 huge thunderboats entered in the race took to the water for qualifications. Most of the others are expected to try to qualify today in two sessions.

CHAMP SECOND

Veteran Gold Cup champion Bill Muncey was the second fastest qualifier with a speed of 117.391 in Detroit's Miss U.S. and Dean Chenoweth pushed Detroit's Myr's Special around the course in a time of 117.136.

Borgersen, who competed in his first powerboat race when he was nine, said he was real pleased with the way the new Seattle boat handled.

"We've been awfully lucky with engines," he said. "We started and finished the last race with the same engine."

The American-built Allison and British Rolls Royce World War II aircraft fighter engines which develop between 2,000 and 4,000 horsepower have been known to last less than 10 minutes sometimes and most of the crews have two or three spare engines ready to go in the pits.

Midge Cova's Victory String Snapped at 3

Mrs. Nick Panasiuk snapped Mrs. Midge Cova's victory string and her bid to sweep the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association's June outings with a strong finish yesterday at Shady Hollow Country Club in the weekly tournament.

★ ★ ★

The Elmhurst, Ont., linkswoman found the target on the back nine to close with a 39 for an 83 total, two strokes ahead of Mrs. Cova.

The Novi resident went out in 41 but slumped to a 44 coming back and saw her streak end at three wins in a row. No one else in the field of 67 golfers was close to the two contenders.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Panasiuk, who won the last WMGA outing in May (at Morey's Golf Club) before Mrs. Cova started her surge, had two birdies yesterday and posted six pars. One of them came on the 16th hole when she chipped in for her three on the 200-yard hole.

Waterford Hurler Stops Milford in Legion Tilt

Waterford's Pete Taylor blanked Milford without a hit and his mates erupted for four runs in the opening inning and six in the sixth to score a 15-0 District 18, American Legion baseball triumph Wednesday.

Bill Welsh's homer carried Walled Lake past Berkley, 4-3, in the only other completed game. Clarkston and Madison Heights fought to a 0-0 deadlock; league-leading Southfield was tied, 3-3, by Troy; and Pontiac was unable to entertain Farmington due to a lack of a field.

Taylor struck out eight in hurling the first no-hitter for the Waterford legion unit in five years. Four straight hits after an opening out gave him all the runs he needed.

Dennis Wooster finished with three of the winners' 13 hits. Mike Sheldon and Larry Hemmerly each had two runs batted in.

Welsh also had a single in backing Don Burlingame's pitching for Walled Lake. The loss was only the second for Berkley, and drops it one and a half games behind second-place Waterford.

Southfield improved its leading mark with a 9-3 win Tuesday over Waterford Mott.

Astros Cool Giants in Astrodome

By the Associated Press

If the Houston Astros get any hotter, they'll have to turn up the air conditioning at the Astrodome.

★ ★ ★

The Astros, playing at their dome home which is cooled by 6,600 tons of air conditioning, edged San Francisco 3-2 Wednesday night and extended their various marks to:

— Nine straight victories, eight of them at home.

— 22 victories in their last 25 games at home.

— 34 victories against 16 defeats since their disastrous April record of 4-20.

In other National League games, Cincinnati handed San Diego its 11th straight defeat 4-0, Chicago defeated Pittsburgh 5-2, Atlanta stopped Los Angeles 5-3, Philadelphia edged New York 6-5 in 10 innings and St. Louis swept Montreal 8-1 and 8-3.

TWO-RUN HOMER

Jim Wynn was the hottest Astro Wednesday night, rapping a two-run homer in the fifth inning that provided the margin of victory.

The Astro pitchers have been particularly brilliant in the nine-game winning streak, having allowed just 11 runs.

★ ★ ★

Tom Griffin had the Giants blanked on four hits through eight innings, but San Francisco rallied for two runs in the ninth and reliever Fred Gladding had to halt the threat.

George Culver was even tougher on San Diego for the first six innings, holding the hapless Padres hitless. San Diego eventually got two hits—but no runs. Alex Johnson homered for the Reds in the sixth.

Ferguson Jenkins stopped Pittsburgh on two hits and struck out 10 for his ninth victory. The Cubs were aided by Bob, Veale's run-scoring wild pitch and errors by Jose Martinez and Fred Patek.

Atlanta jumped over Los Angeles into first place in the West Division as Hank Aaron snapped a 3-3 tie with his 19th homer in the eighth. The hit made Phil Niekro the majors' first 12-game winner even though the Dodgers battered him for 10 hits.

Philadelphia, without Richie Allen again, stopped the Mets' four-game winning string. Rookie Dave Watkins tied the Mets 5-5 in the eighth with his first major league homer, then tripled in the 10th and scored as John Briggs singled.

Tim McCarver collected four hits and drove in three runs as St. Louis whipped Montreal in the opener of their doubleheader for Bob Gibson's 10th victory against four defeats.

Then in the second game McCarver scored the tie-breaking run on Phil Gagliano's double in the eighth. The Cardinals added four runs in the ninth, one on Lou Brock's homer and three on Mike Shannon's.

The Expos pulled off the league's second triple play of the season in the second inning of the nightcap. Vada Pinson lined into it.

McCullough's Stops Met 9 in Class D

Frank Bays of McCullough Realty stopped the combination Met Club-Pontiac Central entry in the city junior baseball Class D League without a hit after a shaky first inning for a 5-0 win last evening.

★ ★ ★

The losers loaded by bases by sandwiching their only two singles around a walk, but Bays fanned the last two batters in the first inning and allowed only two runners — one walk and one error — while finishing with 11 strikeouts.

Ruben Brown had the big hit, a two-run single, as Talbott Construction pinned a 3-1 Class E defeat on House of Barbers.

CLASS F PLAY

In Class F National action, Tim Recknagel's two-run homer sparked Eaton Septic to its 4-3 conquest of New Hope Baptist.

Ward Phillips tossed an eight-inning two-hitter as AAMCO nipped Sam Allen's, 4-3 in "F" International action.

★ ★ ★

Home runs by Dan Kesselring and John Preston paced the Pontiac Police's 10-0 romp over Columbia Avenue RA in the Widget American loop.

Seven Cities Seek Franchises in NHL

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven cities in the United States and one in Canada are in the running for the two new berths in the National Hockey League that will be available with the start of the 1970-71 season.

Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL, named the cities as Baltimore, Buffalo, Cleveland, Atlanta, Kansas City, San Diego, Seattle and Vancouver, B.C., Wednesday after a meeting of the league's board of governors.

The board announced that its expansion committee still has to settle the details involved for the two new franchises and also is working on a possible realignment of the current East and West Divisions along more favorable geographic lines.

CURRENT SPLIT

The current 12 NHL teams are split divided as follows: in the East, Montreal, Toronto, Boston; New York, Detroit and Chicago. In the West, it's Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Minnesota, Los Angeles and Oakland.

★ ★ ★

Discussing the expansion from 12 to 14 teams in October, 1970, Campbell said, "We have made no commitment to anyone and this includes Vancouver."

The far west Canadian city has the "first chance at refusal," Campbell said, "but no commitment has been made to them."

★ ★ ★

"However," he added, "one decision has been made and that is not to penalize Vancouver because of its far away geographic location.

"This was the basis for not allowing the Oakland franchise to shift to Vancouver last year. It would have left Los Angeles isolated in Southern California."

Kathy Finds 'Open' Jinx

National Event Eludes Top LPGA Golfer

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth, the lioness of the women's professional golf tour, and Arnold Palmer have something in common.

One major title has eluded both of them.

For the aging general of Arnie's Army, it has been the PGA. For Kathy, it's the U.S. Open crown.

★ ★ ★

"I make stupid mistakes in the Open," Miss Whitworth said after a practice round for the four-day championship beginning today.

Kathy, the leading money winner since 1965, is making her 11th try for the Open, the most coveted title in women's golf.

"I'm a believer in jinxes," the rangy 29-year-old Texan said. "Maybe the Open is mine. I have trouble concentrating in this tournament; maybe because I want to win it so much."

San Diego Sailor Wins

SEATTLE (AP) — A strong performance in the final three races Wednesday gave Tom McLaughlin of San Diego State a victory in the North American Intercollegiate Single-handed Sailing Championships on nearby Shilshole Bay.

Palmer Seeks Cleveland Title

May Be Headed for 1st Win This Year

CLEVELAND (AP) — "Well," Arnold Palmer said, "I can't say I'm satisfied. You're never satisfied unless you're winning. But maybe, just maybe, I'm on the way to being satisfied. Maybe so. Maybe."

The muscular man with the putty face made the comments after shooting a six-under-par 64 in the amateur event preceding today's first round in the $110,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament on the 6,661-yard Aurora Country Club course.

The 39-year-old idol of the galleries needs a victory perhaps more than ever before.

It's not that he needs the money. He's the game's first millionaire. He's made more out of it than any other person. But he needs a victory—in the worst way.

For the first time since 1955 he does not hold a title.

Bombers Blast AMRC 13-4 in Women's Softball

A six-run second inning, capped by Gwen Grant's home run, carried the Pontiac Bombers to their third straight win, a 13-4 conquest of A.M.R.C., in the city women's slowpitch softball loop last night.

Ann Bryant had four straight singles for the Bombers.

Two home runs by Nancy Johnson enabled Standard Auto Sales to enter the victory column with a 12-6 decision over Progressive Welder.

In the night's closest game, Town and Country Inn rallied for five runs in the sixth inning and an 11-9 triumph over the Pontiac Press.

Toledo Gains Split With Syracuse '9'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fred Scherman, recently farmed out by the Detroit Tigers, pitched the International League Toledo Mud Hens to a split in a double-header against Syracuse, Wednesday night winning on a three-hitter, but it wasn't enough to keep the third-place Hens from losing a half game to league-leading Louisville.

★ ★ ★

Louisville, 2½ games in front of second-place Rochester and another game ahead of Toledo won 5-1 over Richmond, while the second - place Red Wings were losing 5-4 at Buffalo.

Four Players Tied at 74

NCAA Golfers Battle Gusty Winds

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The wailing heard on the Broadmoor course, site of the 72nd NCAA Golf Championships, wasn't just the wind whistling knife-edged off the snow-topped high peaks.

It was also the keening of most of the young collegians battling the gusty blasts and the hard, slippery greens Wednesday with none coming close to equalling par figures of 35-35 70.

As a result, four players had a grip on the lead today at 74 strokes after the first round with all 238 competitors devotedly hoping the mountain winds would give them a break for the second 18 holes.

This is make-or-break day in the tournament as the field will be cut tonight to the 60 lowest scorers and ties for the second 36 holes Friday and Saturday. Team competition will be shut off at the 15 teams.

POSTS LEAD

Arizona's Drue Johnson was the first to post a lead-sharing 74.

By the time the big field of frustrated young shotmakers had finished the grind—most foursomes took more than 5½ hours for 18 holes—this figure had been matched by Ray Leach of Brigham Young, Bill Powell of North Texas State and Richard Spears of Florida.

Four other players were clustered at 75.

★ ★ ★

Only one man managed to break par for even nine holes. Houston's John Mahaffey started like a champion, netting three birdies on the first nine for a 32, three-under-par, despite the annoying wind.

The Texan still was two under after 12 holes, then his game pretty well went to pieces, especially on the 425-yard, par-4, 14th, where he zoomed himself to a 7. His score of 76 left him tied with six others.

★ ★ ★

Bud Zachary, a blond youngster from Princeton, said after shooting a 79, "The wind was incredible—I don't even want to talk about it."

Another 79, shooter, Tim Miller of Youngstown, Ohio, State, said, "Those 74s were extremely fine scores under conditions today."

The University of Florida, scoring 307, led by one stroke in seeking a second straight team championship, also to be decided over 72 holes. Houston, winner of 10 titles since 1956, and Florida State were just a stroke back at 308.

WLBM, Williams Post Softball Wins

Walled Lake Building Maintenance and Williams Research each reached the 4-6 level with impressive triumphs last night in the Walled Lake Industrial Slowpitch Softball League.

★ ★ ★

W.L.B.M. backed up Duane Snyder with a tight defense and coasted to an 11-1 victory, allowing winless Mobil Temp only four hits.

Williams' conquest was a 13-5 romp over Pyles Industries (1-8). The winners tallied five runs in the third inning.

Utah Soph Upsets Favored Netman

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A 19-year-old sophomore from the University of Utah, playing in men's competition for the first time, upset the top-seeded player Wednesday in the 84th Southern Lawn Tennis Association Championships.

Spencer Wins on No-Hitter

Second in 3 Games for Sharp Hurlers

The Spencer Floor Covering pitchers in the Waterford Fastpitch Softball League are in a no-hit rut.

For the second game in their last three, the league-leaders have prospered thanks to their hurlers' stingy work. Last night Doug Hall kept Milbur Industries under control, 9-0.

Eight runs in the third inning, keyed by Fred Milliron's bases-loaded triple, gave Hall more than enough of a cushion. The veteran pitcher fanned eight and walked one.

* * *

Spencer's (12-1) stayed a half game in front of Day's Sanitary Service (11-1) who topped Lighthouse Lanes, 7-1. John Harrington scattered four hits and fanned seven.

Dale Ryan singled home John Parks who had tripled, and scored on an error when Day's scored two runs in the second.

Ex-Boxer Dies in Crash

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Elmer Curt Kennedy, 42, a former professional boxer and promoter, was killed in an auto accident Wednesday.

Titans Complete Cage Staff With N. Illinois Grad

For the first time in history, the basketball coaching staff at the University of Detroit will be a full-time trio.

The newest addition will be a 35-year-old Howie Fagan, former head coach at St. Leo College (Fla.), who will join Titan head man Jim Harding and assistant Tom Villemure in August.

Fagan, a Northern Illinois graduate, compiled a 26-12 mark in two seasons at St. Leo but was even more imporessive during six campaigns as head coach at Mount Carmel High School in his native Chicago.

In those half dozen years, Fagan's troops won 163 and lost just 46.

Miss Lauer Pulling Away in WDGA

Teen-ager Bonnie Lauer of Berkley increased her lead in the Women's District Golf Association championship at Detroit Golf Club yesterday and Susan Barle of Indianwood is sticking close behind.

Except for Bonnie and Susan, the rest of the field is moving out of the picture.

Miss Lauer, of Edgewood, added a 76 yesterday and has a 155 total after 36 holes of the 54 hole tournament.

Miss Barle is three strokes behind, while Mrs. Keith LeClair of Bloomfield Hills is nine strokes off the pace in third place.

Mist to Cool Distancemen

MIAMI (AP) — Runners in the distance events at the National Men's AAU track and field meet this weekend will be cooled by a mist sprayed to beat the heat, expected to top 100 degrees.

Meet officials said it will be the first time the mist-cooling scheme has been used in such an event.

The mist will be turned on during the three-mile and six-mile events.

To further minimize the effects of heat, the events will be the last of the day, the six-mile beginning at 5:25 p.m. Saturday and the three mile at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Nozzles attached to 1½-inch pipes in eight-foot lengths will be spaced around the inside perimeter of the track. There will be 16 sprayers and the mist will reach out over the inside two or three lanes.

* * *

Fred Wilt, a former distance runner and FBI agent from Lafayette, Ind., suggested the process after researching elements of track temperature and body temperature of the runners.

Mays Apologizes

Peace Returns to Giants

HOUSTON (AP) — All was peaceful today between Willie Mays and his manager, Clyde King of the San Francisco Giants.

Mays apologized to King for his stormy dugout actions prior to the game between the Giants and the Houston Astros Tuesday night.

King accepted the apology and levied no fine against the star outfielder.

Mays and King had engaged in a shouting match after Mays discovered his name was not on the starting line-up.

"Willie called me and said he wanted to talk," King said Wednesday night. "He apologized and said he was sorry for what he did and what he said.

★ ★ ★

"I told him that if he was big enough to apologize, I was big enough to accept his apology. I'm very happy the incident has been resolved peaceably and amicably."

King said he and Mays had a "friendly talk" after that.

"Naturally, we talked baseball. This incident could bring us all closer together for a drive to the top. The teams at the top now are sputtering around ready to be caught."

Five-Time Champ in Women's Finals

SPRING LAKE (AP) — Five-time champion Mrs. William Boyce of Saginaw met Janice Elias of East Grand Rapids today in the final round of the 50th anniversary Spring Lake women's golf tournament.

Mrs. Boyce earned a final spot by defeating Mrs. Jean Murray of Mount Pleasant 2-and-1 Wednesday.

Unbeaten 'A' Team Scores Shutout Win

Walt Miller hurled his fifth straight win for undefeated M.G. Collision and Rob Clancy tossed his second three-hit victory in two starts for Talbott Lumber last night in the Class A Baseball League action at Jaycee Park.

★ ★ ★

M.G. trimmed Carl's Golfland, 6-0, as Miller twirled a two-hitter and fanned 11. Denny McDonald's three-run double in the fifth sewed up the shutout.

★ ★ ★

Talbott downed the teamsters 614, 5-1, overcoming a 1-0 deficit with a three-run outburst in the fourth inning. Clancy walked with the bases filled to drive in the tying run, then Rick Rhoney singled in two runs and the union men never caught up.

★ ★ ★

In the Class B League game played last night, Auburn Hills Town House took over third place at 1-2 by bombing Gardner's All-Stars, 20-1. A 16-run fourth inning on just five hits did most of the damage.

★ ★ ★

Bob Capinjola had two singles and a double to back Chuck Leneschmidt's one-hit pitching.

Big Inning No Help in Slowpitch Softball

A big first inning doesn't always lead to a successful night two city men's slowpitch softball squads learned Wednesday.

Local 596 jumped into a quick 4-0 lead against unbeaten Conn's Clothes, sparked by three consecutive doubles; but the "A" League pacesetter roared back for 12 runs on 10 hits in its half of the inning and recorded a 15-7 triumph.

Pontiac Piston, in the "B" circuit, took a 3-0 edge on once-beaten Peterson's Beauty Salon but it was Peterson's who recorded the 11-6 victory.

Ray Hedding's lead-off three-bagger enabled J.A. Fredman's to register a 4-3 eight-inning win over Miracle Lounge. The Pontiac Press A team scored six times in the second for an 8-4 victory over Oxford Mattress.

Conn's (11-0) warmed up for its meeting tomorrow night with its No. 1 pursuer, The Press (12-1), by ripping four doubles, two three-base-hits and a home run in the wild first inning.

Don McConner cleared the bases to cap the rally. Later Felix Brooks continued his circuit clout hitting with a two-run drive, Lou Seay and McConnor each had three safeties.

Peterson's was outhit, 17-13, but rallied for three runs in the fourth and four in the fifth. Dennis Burrill had singles in both sprees, but it was Ron Coleman's triple that led to the eventual winning run.

★ ★ ★

Frank Eiffer had a homer and single in Fredman's victory. Andy Bartkowiak connected for Miracle Lounge. Chuck Cox cracked three singles to produce four runs and Phil Litchok also figured in four runs with a single and a double for the Pressmen.

Mike Thornberry hit a two-run homer for Oxford Mattress.

Redskins Acquire Defensive Tackle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins made their second trade within a week to try to bolster their defensive line Wednesday, sending veteran linebacekr Jim Carroll to the Philadelphia Eagles for well-traveled tackle Jim Norton.

Carroll, a four-year veteran from Notre Dame, started at middle linebacker last season but lost his job in the off-season when new coach Vince Lombardi lured Sam Huff out of retirement after a one-year absence.

Sidelined by Surgery

BOSTON (AP) — Veteran utilityman George Thomas of the Boston Red Sox underwent surgery for torn ligaments in his right knee Wednesday, probably sidelining him for the remainder of the season.

Denver Hurler Retires

DENVER (AP) — Bill Kelso, a right-handed pitcher for the Denver Bears of the American Association, announced his retirement from baseball Wednesday.

Nixon Calls for Expansion of Voting Rights Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration proposed today a nationwide ban on voter literacy tests and on state residency requirements for presidential elections.

The administration also called for enforcement powers that would allow the attorney general to dispatch federal voting examiners and observers anywhere in the nation.

★ ★ ★

The package, submitted by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, would be a major expansion of the 1965 Voting Rights Act, which primarily affected seven southern states where more than 800,000 Negroes have been added to the voting rolls in the last four years.

"We have come to the firm conclusion that voting rights is no longer a regional issue," Mitchell told a House judiciary subcommittee considering an extension of the 1965 law.

CONCESSION TO SOUTH

"It is a national concern for every American and must be treated on a nationwide basis," he said.

Although much wider in scope than the current legislation, the administration proposals amount to a partial concession to the South since that region no longer would be singled out for federal attention.

★ ★ ★

The package came after weeks of debate within the administration. Largely because no consensus could be reached, Mitchell canceled four previous scheduled appearances before the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

With the proposals finally settled, Mitchell called today for five amendments to the 1965 law. They would provide:

- A nationwide ban on literacy tests until at least Jan. 1, 1974.
- A nationwide ban on state residency requirements for presidential elections.
- Authority for the attorney general to dispatch voting examiners and observers anywhere in the nation.
- Authority for the Justice Department to start voting rights lawsuits and to ask for a freeze on discriminatory voting laws.

★ ★ ★

- Appointment by the President of a national voting advisory commission to study voter discrimination "and other corrupt practices."

Conending the 1965 act had brought about "impressive results" in the South, Mitchell said so many Negroes have been registered that there are other states — unaffected by current legislation — where a smaller percentage of Negroes is on the voting rolls.

Therefore, he said, "I cannot support a simple five-year extension" of the 1965 law.

"I cannot support what amounts to regional legislation," he added. "While Congress may have had sufficient reason to pass regional legislation in the 1965 act, I do not believe that this justification exists any longer."

"Circumstances have changed," he said, and I believe that our legislative approach must change."

TRAGEDY AVERTED — Eddie Henry, 11, is carried unconscious from the Mississinewa River near Marion, Ind., as his mother, Mrs. Leon Henry (checked dress), fearing him dead, weeps in the arms of a friend. The boy was revived moments later, however, by the officer carrying him, Marion policeman Mike Balsbaugh.

Fires, Sniping Tear Omaha

Shooting of Girl, 14, Sparks 2-Day Unrest

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Business buildings along a six-block stretch were smoldering or in ruins today after a night of burning, looting and sniping in the predominantly Negro Near North Side of the city.

No serious injuries were reported.

★ ★ ★

It was the second consecutive night of disorder, touched off by the fatal shooting of a 14-year-old Negro girl by a white policeman—James Loder, 30, identified in his city personnel file as the adopted son of film actress Hedy Lamarr.

Vandalism and looting were reported by police in an area 55 blocks long and 24 blocks wide.

Firemen who were the targets of bricks and bottles refused to fight flames in the business section until provided with a police escort. Police Lt. Lewis Ruberti said shots were fired at a number of his men.

Helmeted police armed with riot guns were stationed around the firemen and their rigs as the flames illuminated the muggy summer sky.

★ ★ ★

The central police station reported that at least 30 persons had been jailed on charges ranging from carrying concealed weapons to illegal entry of a building.

Major fires were confined to the main business street although minor ones broke out elsewhere in the area.

VANDALISM, LOOTING

Vandalism, window-breaking and looting were widespread. "They just seem to be jumping around and hitting us everywhere," said Police Inspector Al Pattavina.

HEW-Aide Choice Still Has Off-On Ills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The on-again, off-again unofficial nomination of Dr. John H. Knowles as the nation's top health officer appears off again today—or does it?

Differing reports abounded on whether President Nixon had decided to battle the American Medical Association and Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen and send the name to the Senate.

And the White House itself was doing little to help matters.

A White House spokesman warned newsmen Wednesday against "going out on a limb" in predicting that Knowles would be named for the post that has gone vacant for nearly six months while a major public test of wills built up between Dirksen and the administration.

The warning was issued even though Nixon told a nationally televised news conference last week that he would abide by the choice of Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, and a Finch spokesman said Wednesday night "the name had been sent up to the White House."

Knowles, director of the Massachusetts General Hospital, is Finch's choice to be his assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs. He is opposed by powerful elements in the AMA who feel he is too liberal and too hospital-oriented.

Dirksen publicly sided with the AMA in April, saying the medical association deserves to be heard because of its broad influence in the health field.

A few hours after the word of caution from the White House CBS news said flatly Nixon had decided against the nomination. It quoted an unnamed senator who had been with Nixon earlier.

REPORT OF DOUBT

Shortly afterward the Washington Post weighed in with a report that the nomination was in doubt.

It quoted Rep. Bob Wilson, California Republican who chairs the House GOP Campaign Committee, as saying "It's a whole new ball game now."

★ ★ ★

Wilson, who opposes Knowles although he has no official say in the matter as a representative, attributed the apparent sudden change to "too many pressures on both sides."

Contacted by telephone, Knowles appeared surprised at the reports but said he would have "no comment."

North Irish Rap Ted for Dissident Support

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Northern Ireland government criticized Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., today for cabling his support to the Ulster Civil Rights Association, which has been at the center of recent widespread political strife.

Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark said in a statement: "I do not think it desirable for legislators in one country to involve themselves in the internal affairs of another.

"If Sen. Kennedy truly wishes to make some contribution toward solving those problems remaining here he may consider using his influence to further American industrial investment in Northern Ireland."

Home Affairs Minister Robert Porter described Kennedy's cable as "emotive and revealing no knowledge of the facts."

Frank Gogarty, chairman of the Ulster Civil Rights Association, said he received a cable Wednesday from Kennedy saying: "Your cause is a just cause. The reforms you seek are basic to the democracies worthy of the name. My hopes and prayers are with you. I know you will move with the strength and in the spirit of peaceable men and I know you will succeed for freedom is in you and in your history."

S. Korea Says Red Spies Caught

SEOUL (AP) — Two North Korean spies were arrested in Seoul earlier this month, the national police director, Choi Doo-yul, announced today.

★ ★ ★

Choi said the two men left the North Korean port of Wonsan aboard a spy boat June 4 after completing a two-year espionage training course. He said they landed in South Korea June 6, and both were apprehended within four days.

U.S. Has Better Pershings

Europe Missile Upgrade Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army soon will send a faster firing, quicker moving version of its 400-mile-range Pershing missile to Europe to replace tactical aircraft in the nuclear defense of NATO.

The improved Pershing system is mounted on wheels so it can change position faster than the older model, which moves on tanklike treads, making the new version unit less vulnerable.

The pershing 1A's faster rate of fire and greater mobility are vital to its newest job on what is called "quick reaction alert."

In this role the Pershing missile will replace war planes on nuclear alert, freeing more tactical fighter-bombers for conventional warfare roles.

Originally, the Pershing was sent to Europe five years ago to provide heavy atomic artillery support for the U.S. 7th Army deployed in West Germany facing the Iron Curtain.

Missile crews will be trained for the new Pershing equipment at the Army's artillery and missile school at Fort Sill, Okla.

Then, later this year, the Army will begin shipping the gear to Europe where it will be swapped, unit by unit, for the older version without leaving any gap in NATO's nuclear shield.

While the basic missile is not changed, virtually all of its supporting equipment has been updated.

A switch to solid-state electronics has led to greater reliability and a faster rate of fire for the equipment which was designed more than 10 years ago.

The Army missile craftsman decided that mounting the missile, its launcher and other associated equipment on wheels was more suitable to West European terrain than the tanklike treads now used.

Rescuers Find 3 Alive in Crash

3 Were Killed in Utah as Plane Hit Tree

CEDAR CITY, Utah (AP) — There survivors of a weekend plane crash which killed three companions have been rescued from the wild Cedar Breaks mountain area of southern Utah.

★ ★ ★

Volunteer ground searchers Wednesday found David L. Watson, 44, who was trying to walk to civilization for help. A helicopter picked up Oswald Simon, 38, and Robert L. McCord Jr., 31, who had spent three days and nights at the scene of the crash.

★ ★ ★

The dead were John Bury, 42, the pilot; Clarence McLean, 60, and Charles Straumer, 33.

The six, all Californians, came to Utah to film episodes of the "Death Valley Days" series. They left Cedar City in a rented plane Sunday for a sight-seeing excursion.

TRIED TO LAND

The plane, heading up a canyon, was unable to clear an 11,000-foot cliff. The pilot attempted to land in a small clearing on the slope of the timbered mountain.

"We hit the trees," said Watson. He was thrown clear of the wreckage and suffered cuts, bruises and a cracked vertebra.

★ ★ ★

Watson said he built a fire with the only three matches they could find, and the three survivors waited out Sunday night.

Just before daybreak Monday, Watson decided to go for help, following a creek downstream.

BOGGED IN MUD

Monday night he slept on a bed of pine cones. Tuesday night he slept in mud, "because I couldn't get out."

"Each night, through," he said, "I kept hearing a voice— God—saying: 'Don't give up. They're going to find you'."

★ ★ ★

Watson was still walking Wednesday when volunteer searchers from the Brian Head Ski Resort spotted him on a ledge.

Simon and McCord were brought out after a Civil Air Patrol plane found the wreckage and called a helicopter.

Thailand Bases Quarantined

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — U.S. servicemen were confined to their bases today in two of three areas in Thailand that were declared cholera epidemic control areas.

They are Udorn in the northeast and Nakorn Sawan in the central plain where Takli Air Force Base is located. The other province is Nongkhai, just above Udorn.

★ ★ ★

Unofficial reports said 17 persons have died since the epidemic broke out last month. More than 500 victims have been admitted to hospitals.

U.S. servicemen bound for Southeast Asia receive cholera vaccinations before they leave the United States.

Tin Horns Ready for Callithumpian Parade Revival

BEMENT, Ill. (AP) — Bement's on-again, off-again callithumpian parade will be on this July 4th.

The Piatt County community of less than 2,000 has been the scene of many callithumpian parades since the first one was held in the 1800s, but the custom died years ago.

★ ★ ★

It was revived in 1955 for the Bement centennial celebration, then died again. Now, city fathers are planning a rebirth.

Webster defines callithumpian as "pertaining to a loud, boisterous parade, with blowing of tin horns and other discordant noises."

Card of Thanks 1

WE WISH TO THANK our friends and neighbors for the generous who was so good to us in our time of sorrow. The John Goshen Family.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY of our only beloved son Thomas E. Wilson, Jr., who passed away June 26, 1959.
They say time heals all sorrow
And helps us to forget;
But time so far has only proved,
How much we miss you yet.
Sadly missed Mom and Dad.

IN LOVING MEMORY of Gary C. Carpenter, loving son and brother. Those whom we love are out of sight, but never out of mind. They are cherished in the hearts of those they leave behind. Loving and kind in all his ways, upright and just to the end of his days; sincere and true in heart and mind, beautiful memories he left behind. Sadly missed by mother, Ken and sisters.

President Nixon showed up unexpectedly at the annual dinner of the House Gymnasium Club last night for some reminiscing and to indulge in a little lobbying for the income surtax extension.

NIXON

The club is made up of congressmen who make regular use of House gymnasium facilities. Nixon joined it in 1947 when he was a representative.

"As you do your exercise between now and next Monday and enjoy this good food, please keep enough strength so you can walk down to the well of the House and vote," he told the diners. The vote on the surtax comes Monday.

Wallace, Daughter Unveil Portrait of Lurleen

WALLACE

Former Gov. George C. Wallace and his 8-year-old daughter Janie Lee unveiled the official state portrait of the late Alabama Gov. Lurleen Wallace in the rotunda of the state capitol in Montgomery yesterday as hundreds watched.

The portrait of Alabama's only woman governor, by artist Dmitri Vail of Dallas, Tex., will hang alongside that of Wallace, who preceded his wife as Alabama's chief executive.

Mrs. Wallace died May 7, 1968, after a two-year battle with cancer.

Von Braun Sees Passenger Flights to the Moon

Wernher von Braun says that in 30 or 40 years passengers will travel to the moon for the price of a transatlantic flight in spaceships looking much like present-day airliners but without wings.

VON BRAUN

Von Braun, head of the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., arrived yesterday in Salzburg, Austria, for a space congress.

He said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is working on plans for spaceships that can be used up to a hundred times. He said the rocket would be refueled after landing and relaunched into orbit.

2 State Dems Oppose Pay TV

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Michigan Democrats asked Congress yesterday to support their bill to forbid the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to license pay-television station.

* * *

Reps. John D. Dingell and James G. O'Hara wrote in a joint letter to their House colleagues that the FCC has begun accepting applications from prospective subscription or pay-TV operators. They said the commission plans to license pay-TV operations 60 days after disposition of a pending court case.

The congressmen charged this may mean the end of free TV, since the FCC has decided it is empowered to issue pay-TV licenses but not to regulate the charges.

"If pay-TV stations are permitted to go on the air without effective rate regulation, they will be able to utilize their guarantee subscriptions to outbid the commercial networks for sport shows, entertainment programs, and movies now seen free of charge," they wrote.

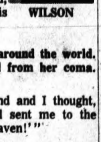
Earl Recalls Judy's Death Datelined 'Hong Kong' '64

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Judy Garland had died once before.

She was always high in the clouds, or away, 'way down, and the idea of having a dress rehearsal for the great and final exit that occurred the other day in London seemed to amuse her when we discussed it right after it happened.



WILSON

It was May 28, 1964, Hong Kong. "Respiratory trouble"—heart attack, pneumonia—and a bad press in Australia where she'd just been.

Her throat, face and hands were turning blue. A typhoon was raging outside. The oxygen tent was broken. Phone calls to her U.S. doctors were impossible. A nun in the hospital blurted to Mark Herron, her fourth husband, "She's dead." He crammed a napkin in his mouth.

* * *

"Judy Garland Dead" The news flashed around the world. Fourteen hours afterward, Judy emerged from her coma. She could joke about it.

"I saw all these little nuns running around and I thought, 'Oh, my goodness, God made a mistake and sent me to the Chinese Heaven instead of the American Heaven!'"

* * *

Judy "died" many times afterward in personal appearances. It is a relief to her more sincere admirers that she can now be spared the humiliation of appearing before customers who came hoping to witness a historic disaster. She had too much soul for that.

* * *

She would slug down the Liebfraumilch and the pills and ignore food and get too, too skinny, but she had that cliche word, "magic," that only Jolson had.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Danny Kaye, bearded and a little heavier (he quit smoking) flew his jet up from Freeport, Grand Bahamas, where they showed his and Katherine Hepburn's "Madwoman of Chaillot" at the Warners-7 Arts Festival, to greet Dong Kingman Jr. and his bride Elaine Ling-Ling . . . Then he had a Chinese dinner.

Tony Curtis was stopped at the Yale Club because he wore sport shirt and scarf, no jacket; but he got in anyway and went swimming . . . A rock band played "Auld Lang Syne" and Sybil Christopher phones from L.A. to add a nostalgic note to Arthur's final night.

* * *

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A TV viewer said he was amazed to find Dean Martin a good stand-up comic: "I'm not surprised he's good at comedy—I'm surprised he can stand up."

'csaupie'ihneddn.atarnJbsetaornnJinta

Dick Cavett claims the career of Rory Calhoun, accused by his wife of having 79 romances, hasn't suffered: "On the contrary, several cereal companies asked him to endorse their product." . . . That's earl, brother.

A Look at TV

He Plans Pageant Paces

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Most of the beauties who will compete next month for the title "Miss Universe" know nothing now about dancing beyond the ballroom variety. In a little more than three weeks, the 60 or 70 girls from all over the world will be performing as a dance troupe.

MISS LOWRY

Viewers tuned in on the finals of the contest July 19 will know they are not watching the June Taylor dancers or the Rockettes but if Gene Bayliss' luck holds, the contestants will get through a big production number with a certain amateur charm and maybe even grace.

* * *

Bayliss, a director-choreographer with wide Broadway and television experience, also teaches dancing to contestants for the "Miss U.S.A." and "America's Junior Miss," pageants.

* * *

"I always assume there will be no dancers among the girls," he said. "I start out by encouraging them: If you can walk, run, jump, hop and count to eight, you can dance. That is true."

He is already blocking out the "Miss Universe" number on paper.

"I use only the very simplest steps: — basic rhumba, Chas and backside front," he continued. "I use a lot of follow-the-leader stuff. I work with geometric figures and put the girls into a moving pattern that will substitute for real dancing."

* * *

Bayliss will put the girls through a cram course before and during the hectic week of preliminary judging. He will rehearse them in groups of 15, also throwing in some instructions about moving gracefully when they are parading solo in swimsuits or evening gowns.

Judy Garland Body Is Back for NY Rites

NEW YORK (AP) — The body of Judy Garland was returned to New York early today.

Except for the singer's daughter, Liza Minnelli, only police, newsmen and cargo handlers were present when the jetliner from London taxied up to Kennedy Airport's International Arrivals Building shortly before 1 a.m.

Liza waited in a heavily guarded limousine outside the building while Mickey Deans, the entertainer's fifth husband, and the Rev. Peter Delaney, who married the couple three months ago, stepped from the plane.

* * *

Dean, looking pale, waited until the other passengers left and went to the rear of the plane to watch as the burlap-covered coffin was transferred to the hearse. Then he and the Rev. Mr. Delaney left with Miss Minnelli.

PUBLIC VIEWING

The hearse drove to the Madison Avenue funeral chapel where a private funeral will be held Friday. The body will lie in a glass-covered coffin for public viewing from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. today and 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. Friday.

About 45 persons were on hand at the funeral chapel when the hearse arrived at 1:45 a.m. Five of the group said they would wait through the night to be first in line when the public viewing begins.

* * *

The funeral will be by invitation only. Actor James Mason will deliver an eulogy. He played opposite Miss Garland in "A Star Is Born" which earned a 1954 Academy Award nomination for the singer-actress.

U.S. Planes Fly Against Ecuador's Mosquito-Born Encephalitis

GUYAQUIL, Ecuador (UPI) — A U.S. Air Force operation in Ecuador nicknamed "Combat Mosquito" is helping break the cycle of nature responsible for the worst epidemic of encephalitis here in several years.

Two Air Force UC123 Provider aircraft from Langley AFB, Va., are being used to spray a quarter-million acres of the most populated coastal areas of the country. They are trying to kill encephalitis-carrying mosquitoes which have caused over 500 deaths since the first of the year.

★ ★ ★

Many of those stricken by the brain-damaging disease are children under 5 years old. Most of the fatalities have been from this age group.

Ecuadorian government health officials say that another 50,000 people and countless horses, mules and burros have contracted the disease.

25 TONS AIRLIFTED

More than 25 tons of Malathion insecticide has been airlifted to Ecuador. The insecticide was donated by the State Department under its Agency for International Development (AID) program.

Two entomologists from the U.S. Public Health service's Communicable Disease Center said the two primary factors responsible for such epidemics are present in abundance in Ecuador — many Ecudorian animals are infected by Venezuelan equine encephalitis virus, and conditions are suitable for encephalitis-carrying mosquitoes to breed.

★ ★ ★

The virus remains in the bloodstreams of infected animals and is available to mosquitoes for only a few days. It is then absorbed into the animals' internal organs. Therefore, the disease can be halted if the mosquito population is sufficiently reduced during the period the virus is being absorbed.

Experts estimate they have killed 95 per cent of the mosquitoes in the Guayaquil area, and they expect similar results in the outlying areas now being sprayed.

★ ★ ★

Ecuadorian government officials had previously tried to conduct a mosquito-spraying program but were unable to sustain it effectively because they lacked spray aircraft with enough insecticide-carrying capacity.

Mayor Taylor Closes The Door

Commission Mum on Ouster

MAKE OVER PAGES

By ED BLUNDEN

The City Commission last night joined the conspiracy of silence surrounding the firing of the administrator of Pontiac General Hospital.

Counting the seven commissioners and the 11 hospital board of trustees, 18 public officials have assumed vows of silence, refusing to tell anyone why the man was fired.

* * *

Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator for 11 years, was fired by the hospital trustees last Thursday with the public explanation only that it was "in the best interests of the hospital."

Since then, Euhler has professed that he doesn't know why he was fired, had never been given a chance at any kind of hearing and has not since been given any reason.

The trustees, who had unanimously voted to fire him, remained unanimous in not revealing the reason why. The City Commission, which appoints the trustees, entered the picture at its meeting Tuesday.

A delegation of about 100 hospital employes demanded an investigation and presented a petition with 550 employe signatures asking to be told why Euler was fired. The petition claimed demoralization of the staff since the dismissal.

The delgation was told the commission would investigate the matter and a joint meeting was called for 5:30 p.m. yesterday at the ground floor conference room in City Hall.

The Press was barred from the meeting.

Only the commissioners, trustees and high officials were present. After 2½ hours the conference ended. City Manager Joseph E. Warren had prepared a press release.

* * *

It read simply, ". . . The commission has assured itself that the hospital board of trustees acted within their jurisdiction under the city ordinance.

"The commission has accepted the action of the board in severing Mr. Euler's connection with Pontiac General Hospital.

* * *

STILL UNANSWERED

A reporter from The Pontiac Press was then allowed to enter the room. After reading the statement he pointed out it did not answer the question, "Why was Euler fired?"

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. patted the press release and said "This is it!"

* * *

None of other public officials offered further information.

Missing from the entire meeting was Dr. Lynn Allen. Previously, he, also, had refused to offer information.

CARROS THEORY

One theory on the firing centers on the associate administrator of the hospital, Donald H. Carros, second in charge and an employe of 12½ years. Euler put Carros on leave May 1 and advised him to seek a new job.

BEFORE SECRET SESSION — At the ground-floor conference room of City Hall, city and hospital officials gather prior to a meeting barred to the press and public. The City Commission and Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees conferred on the firing of hospital administrator Harold B. Euler. No reason for the firing was given at the end of the 2½-hour meeting.

Emergency 1-Month Extension

House to Vote on Surtax Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic House chiefs have decided to call for a vote on President Nixon's surtax extension Monday — a week or more earlier than expected—after receiving assurances Republican members have closed ranks behind the plan.

The House will take up tomorrow an emergency measure to extend present withholding rates through July 31. Otherwise, they would drop to presurtax rates at midnight Monday when the original 10 per cent income tax surcharge expires.

* * *

Even if the House passes the surtax Monday, the Senate still must act in committee and on the floor, so there is no chance of enactment by the midnight June 30 deadline.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said about 170 Republican votes for surtax extension are in sight after Nixon appealed for votes at a Republican conference yesterday.

This would mean only about 50 of the 245 Democrats would have to vote favorably to pass the measure. Some Republicans suggested, however, that Ford's count may be optimistic.

After head counts showed substantial lack of firm Democratic support, leaders had postponed a vote scheduled for yesterday. Ford's report, however, caused them to reconsider plans to let the surtax lie over until after the July 4 holiday.

* * *

The surtax issue became linked with legislation on the federal program for aid to dependent children. Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., blocked short-cut action on the withholding extension yesterday, demanding the House move on a bill to lift a freeze on the number of children who may be included in the program.

The freeze, voted more than a year ago, actually never has gone into effect. Congress suspended it for a year, which expires Monday. The Senate has voted for outright repeal, but that bill has not been acted on in the House.

After Burton's move, a Senate-House conference was set up and leaders expected to bring up legislation at least to continue the suspension tomorrow.

New-Capitol Funds Lose; 2nd Push Set

LANSING (UPI) — Supporters of a new capitol building, to eventually cost $55 to 75 million, today recovered from a surprise House defeat of their plans yesterday. They predict ultimate victory in their battle to get the structure under way.

At issue was a 1969-70 appropriation budget which included $4 million for groundbreaking of the proposed capitol to be located four blocks west of the existing building.

Related Stories, Pages A-2, A-3, A-15, C-18

* * *

Members who opposed the capitol for a multitude of reasons joined ranks yesterday to block passage of the measure, 51-53, with 56 votes needed for approval.

Supporters immediately called for reconsideration of the measure today.

"We're not defeated," declared Appropriations Committee Chairman William R. Copeland, Wyandotte Democrat.

PASSAGE PREDICTED

"The bill will pass with the $4 million in it. I'm sure once the members have cooled off a bit and think this thing over, we'll pick up the votes," he said.

He said arguments the present 90-year-old capitol was sufficient for legislative needs were "gobbledygook."

* * *

"Many expert people have spent years studying the needs and plans for a new capitol," he added.

Opponents complained the building would be too expensive and called for alternate methods, including extensive remodeling of the present capitol.

* * *

FTC Won't Delay Hearings on Tough Smoking Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite pleas from the tobacco industry and over the objection of its chairman, the Federal Trade Commission is going ahead with hearings on a tough, new cigarette smoking warning.

The FTC yesterday rejected, by a 3-2 vote, a move to postpone the hearings until after Congress takes some action on the smoking-health controversy.

* * *

The vote paved the way for the FTC to open hearings next Tuesday with testimony from antismoking witnesses led by Surgeon General William S. Stewart and his predecessor, Dr. Luther L. Terry.

* * *

The hearings will deal with a proposed trade regulation requiring all cigarette advertising — in newspapers and magazines as well as television and radio commercials — to state clearly and prominently:

"Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death resulting from cancer, coronary heart disease, chronic bronchitis, pulmonary emphysema and other diseases."

Purposely, the FTC set the beginning of the hearings as soon as possible after the expiration of the 1965 Cigarette Labeling Act.

* * *

RICHARD OGILVIE

Tax Plan Crucial in Illinois Crisis

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Legislative leaders facing an imminent adjournment deadline are seeking compromise on a new state income tax, which Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie says is needed to save Illinois from bankruptcy.

Unless the tax is passed, Ogilvie has declared, the state may have to halt operation of "penal institutions, prisons, universities, children's hospitals and state parks."

Ogilvie, a Republican, is pressing for a 3 per cent tax on incomes of individuals and corporations. Democrats are insisting on a lower rate for individuals and a higher one for corporations. The governor contends this would be unconstitutional.

Republicans hold a 39-19 majority in the Senate and a 96-81 edge in the House. All face reelection campaigns in 1970, and many have been reluctant to back the governor on the tax.

The current session ends at midnight Monday. Unless the bill clears the Senate by Saturday, it would be too late to receive mandatory once-a-day House reading for three days before passage, even if the Assembly sits Sunday.

Summer Turns On Heat and Showers

It looks like Pontiac area residents will swelter in sizzling temperatures through Saturday.

Thw weatherman predicts highs of 90 degrees today and tomorrow and hot temperatures Saturday.

Expert Sees Urgent Need for Action as Mental Illness Rises Among Young

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An expert in the field says mental illness among U.S. children has jumped 150 per cent in the last 10 years, pointing up an urgent need for action by the President and Congress.

Michael Gorman, executive director of the National Committee Against Mental Illness, said the nation has at least four million emotionally disturbed children.

He told a meeting sponsored by the city Health Department yesterday at least a fourth of the mentally ill children need treatment. But, Gorman said, 15 stats have no facilities, public or private, for treating mentally troubled juveniles and another 24 states have no public institutions to take in children from low-and middle-income groups.

He said two-thirds of all afflicted youngsters "are quite literally lost, bounced around from training schools to reformatories, to jails, and whipped through all kinds of understaffed agencies until they vanish."

Gorman previewed a report prepared by the Joint Commission on Mental Health of Children, representing 53 national organizations, for presentation soon to Congress.

A study showed that admission of teenagers to state hospitals has risen one and a half times in the last decade, he said.

The joint commission has drafted what Gorman described as a "latter-day Magna Carta for mentally ill young people."

It calls for creation of:

- A president's council of advisers on children.
- A commission on child development in each state.
- At least one local child and youth authority in each state.
- Some 100 child development councils throughout the nation.

A Monumental Mistake?

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois House passed without opposition and sent to the governor yesterday a bill to make the First National Bank building of Shawneetown a state monument.

* * *

The bank is renowned for its action of 125 years ago — turning down the city of Chicago for a loan because the bank directors didn't feel Chicago would ever amount to anything.

During earlier debate on the bill, some downstate members of the legislature said the bank directors have been proved right.

Euler reportedly had been opposed to Carros assuming the high post because of difficulty in dealing with employes.

Hospital trustees may have wanted Carros to take over the top post when Euler was to retire after his 65th birthday next May Euler apparently did not want Carros to get the post and did not want to retire at that time — he could have stayed another year under employe rules.

Under this theory, hospital trustees may be moving to place Carros in the post after getting rid of Euler.

During the joint secret session someone tampered with a camera belonging to The Press.

★ ★ ★

The officials expressed annoyance at picture-taking prior to the meeting. After the camera was left unguarded it was found with the back open and film exposed.

★ ★ ★

Anticipating such a move, the film had been removed, however. Destroyed were random shots of a plastic cup.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., in particular, had expressed annoyance with the picture-taking and said, "Don't run that picture, "I'll be known as closed-door Taylor."

Euler said this morning that he had a morning meeting scheduled with his attorney, Clarence Patterson, to discuss legal matters in the situation.

Euler said he didn't know whether Warren's statement satisfactorily cleared him of any wrongdoing.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE — An explosion and fire which swept the Interlake Steel Corp. plant at Toledo yesterday killed three workmen and injured five others. Officials of the firm said a spark from a welder's torch set off fumes in a tank containing tar and coke. The fire raged out of control for more than an hour.

Nixon Plan Sheer Illusion, Cong Front Says in Paris

PARIS (AP) — The Vietcong's provisional revolutionary government asserted today that President Nixon's hopes of maintaining the present Saigon regime and de-Americanizing the Vietnam war "are sheer illusions."

In a slashing attack on the Nixon administration, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, head of the delegation, told the 23rd full-scale session of the Paris peace talks that the United States is pursuing a "warlike and deceitful policy" that can lead only to prolonged fighting.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Binh challenged Nixon's statement at his June 19 news conference that U.S. policy was on the "right road" and his hope that some progress might be registered in substantive peace talks.

"Mr. Nixon's road," she said, "is in fact the dead-end road of a war of aggression which was pursued by the Johnson administration. By following this road, Mr. Nixon can but reap still heavier defeats.

★ ★ ★

"All the Nixon administration's hopes of exerting maximum military pressure to win a position of strength on the battlefield as well as at the conference table, maintaining the puppet administration and army and de-Americanizing the war are sheer illusions."

Mrs. Binh criticized the Nixon plan for replacing U.S. forces with South Vietnamese troops, a plan Nixon has said he hoped could lead to the withdrawal of all U.S. ground forces by the end of 1970.

Big Storms Hit in W. Michigan

By The Associated Press

Heavy storms and at least one tornado tore through Newaygo and Kent counties early today, doing at least $50,000 damage.

State Police reported tornadoes sighted near Bitely, Hess Lake and Grant in Newaygo County, north of Grand Rapids, and heavy storm damage in Cedar Springs, in northern Kent County.

★ ★ ★

Most heavily damaged were two mobile home firms, which reported about 20 trailers damaged or destroyed.

Police estimated damage at Grant's R & H Mobile Homes at between $20,000 and $30,000.

OTHER DAMAGE

Another trailer firm in Cedar Springs reported damages amounting to $30,000 to $35,000.

Police reported numerous trees knocked over, cottages damaged and power lines knocked down throughout the area, but could offer no specific damage figures besides those of the trailer firms.

The U.S. Weather Bureau meanwhile forecast continued turbulence for the entire west Michigan area, with severe turbulence in regions of thunderstorms.

Surface winds were expected to reach 30 miles per hour, with stronger blasts in gusts in thunderstorms.

State Budget Changes Few

LANSING AP) — Gov. William G. Milliken's proposed $1.51-billion budget for the fiscal year begining July 1 shows increasing signs of emerging from legislative review very much as he proposed it.

In the House where opposition Democrats hold a bare four-vote majority, eight budget bills are some $25.9 millin less than Milliken proposed despite addition of $15.4 million to earlier Senate allocations totaling $583.2 million. Milliken asked $624.5 million.

★ ★ ★

Five of those bills received substantial House approval yesterday with virtually no attempts to amend them on the floor. Three more remained to be acted on by midnight tomorrow.

Only the $41.8-million capital outlay allocation, now some $10.7 million less than Milliken's January proposal, has run into trouble. Opposition to earmarking $4 million for development of a new capitol was expected to be overcome.

FAILS TO SET PACE

An interchamber compromise on an $849.7-million public school appropriation, $4.1 million above Milliken's recommendations, apparently has not set the pace for legislative fiscal action.

The Senate, just beginning to receive changes in House bills cut $41.3 million from the Milliken budget. House additions raised the net excision to $25.9 million.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, appropriations committee chairman, said yesterday that two bills were reported out with net reductions.

Cuts totaling $1.15 million were made in the $24.4 million natural resources and agriculture department allocations voted by the House, said Zollar.

★ ★ ★

But in return the Senate would be asked to approve an extra $96,295 to the $34.96 million voted by the lower chamber for public safety, and Zollar said he would be "forced to add $6-to-9 million" to the $244.6 million Social Services Department allocation.

Federally controlled welfare programs require the addition, said Zollar, who earlier termed Milliken's budget a "deficit" that would require "many millions of dollars" to support.

Wanted Higher Pay, Pension Plan

Animals Star in Labor Dispute

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — About 600 of entertainment's most winning performers are growling mad, a spokesman would have us believe. They feel they've lived a dog's life in movies and on television.

So Lassie, Gentle Ben the Bear, Clarence the Cross-Eyed-Lion and friends are forming a union ... sort of.

★ ★ ★

They want better pay, residuals for reruns, screen credits, a pension plan and annual awards—like the Oscars.

Their spokesman, Ralph Helfer, sort of a Doctor Dolittle of labor unions and owner of the Africa U.S.A. movie animal compound, explained the beastly situation at a news conference yesterday.

ANIMAL RIGHTS

"Professional animals are not treated with the respect they deserve," he said. "There are many shows based on animal movie stars and they should get the same residuals as human movie stars."

For instance, Helfer said, an elephant made a commercial for $200-peanuts. A human costar gets fat checks every time the commercial is shown.

★ ★ ★

Not only that, said Helfer, some movie and television companies allow house pets—mere amateurs—to perform.

The union—as yet unnamed— is being formed by owners of 15 movie animal compounds near Hollywood.

CURRENT SALARIES

They want standardized salaries; each owner now sets his own. Helfer revealed his own rate for the "big four" animals in demand: bears, lions, chimps and elephants. He charges $75 a day for beast in a cage; $200 on a leash; and for special stunts it's $500 and up. He said famous cats like Clarence can command $1,000 a day.

Owners and trainers admit they—not the animals—would bank extra salaries. But they promise their union members—from insects and snakes to lions and sheep—will live high on the hog.

Many in Cairo, Ill. Evacuated by Fire

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — Fire broke out in a five-block-long warehouse complex on Cairo's West Side today, and police ordered many residents to evacuate their homes to escape spreading chemical fumes.

No injuries were reported immediately in the fire at the Hudson Warehouses Inc. The cause was not determined.

★ ★ ★

State police, ordered into town last week after racial unrest flared into violence, cruised the streets in the fire area and urged residents via loudspeakers to evacuate to escape the fumes.

The warehouse, a rambling complex of wooden structures, contained chemical fertilizers and other goods stored there for relay to distributors and dealers.

★ ★ ★

Although firebombings were a part of last week's troubles in this city of 8,000, there was no early indication they triggered today's fire.

Apathetic Voters Target in Brandon School Tax Bid

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — Board of Education President Ronald Sutton has called on residents to drop their "apathetic attitude" and turn out in force at the repeat millage election July 28.

The election follows one June 9 when about half of the registered voters in the district failed to vote on the package of 14.8 mills and building bond proposal for $3,675,000.

* * *

Registration deadline for the upcoming election is 5 p.m. tomorrow. Voters may register at the Ortonville Village offices on Mill Street.

The board's millage request has been lowered to three years because of possibility of state tax reform within the next few years. Originally it had been proposed for five years.

'VOTERS' FAILURE

Sutton said the principle reason for the defeat of the 14.8 millage package was the failuer of several voters, who probably favored the package, to vote.

"The people who vote negatively on school propositions always make it a point to vote but the positive residents tend to be lax and apathetic at times," Sutton said.

* * *

Voers turned down the millage package by a 444 to 422 vote. The school district has about 2,000 registered voters.

Supt. of Schools Clyde Fisher explained the 14.8-mill package could not be reduced because that amount is the absolute minimum required for district operation in 1969-70.

"I am absolutely baffled that the millage election failed. We thought we made it clear to the voters that we can not get by on anything less than 14.8 mills for operation," Fisher said.

He said further consternation over the failure stemmed from the fact that voters turned down a 1966 proposal to annex Brandon to adjoining districts by a four-to-one margin.

* * *

The superintendent said that in event of a second failure, operational cutbacks would be so severe that all semblance of a quality education would be lost.

"I will recommend to the board of education that the State Department of Education be notified and immediate annexation proceedings be initiated if the millage loses again. We cannot operate this school district suitably on anything less than the 14.8 mills," Fisher said.

CORE SUBJECTS

He said a second millage defeat would mean a reduction of the curriculum to strictly core subjects, elimination of all athletic activities, reduction of offerings in music and art, staff reductions, no new teachers, double shifting, half-day sessions and reduction of transportation services.

Sutton said he doesn't know what the board of education's response will be to Fisher's recommendation that Brandon be annexed to adjoining school districts if the millage proposal loses again.

"At this time I just cannot comment on the board's thinking because we quite frankly haven't discussed it fully," Sutton added.

"All I can say is that the Brandon District will be faced with sharp cutbacks and will, in general, be in serious difficulty if the millage package loses again. I am hopeful that a better voter turnout will give us a different decision at the next election."

The June 9 bond issue vote on $3,675,000 to provide funds for a new high school and renovations and additions to existing elementary facilities, is being recounted today at the Oakland County Board of Elections office. The bond issue failed on a 410-410 tie vote.

WEAK BUT HEARTY — Mother Mare grazes casually as her twin foals, born early Tuesday morning at the Wood and Wind Camp in Dryden Township, give their legs a try. Warren Beauman, director of the children's music camp near Metamora, said he has been told twin foals have about a 1-in-16,000 chance for survival. Both are in excellent condition, but one (right) has been a bit pensive about nursing. Beauman said she needs a bottle about every two hours.

Utility Shifts Lapeer County HQ to Pontiac

LAPEER — Customers of Consumers Power Co. in Lapeer County will come under the administrative and operating supervision of the company's Pontiac division, effective July 1.

The Lapeer area has been included in the company's Flint Division for several years.

The change will not directly affect customers, according to Hugh Newton, Lapeer area manager for Consumers Power.

The switch is made to consolidate, for operating purposes, the company's Lapeer County gas service facilities. Eventually, the Metamora and Hadley areas, which are served out of Pontiac, will be served out of Lapeer, Newton explained.

PRIMARILY GAS

"Consumer Power's Pontiac division is primarily a gas-service division and the integration of Lapeer County into the Pontiac division operations makes considerable sense for purely mechanical reasons," according to Charles F. Brown, Pontiac Division manager.

He added the Lapeer area's continuing rapid growth and the countywide nature of the company's gas service made consolidation of the entire county into the Lapeer office setup "most desirable" for administrative and service reasons.

* * *

The Pontiac division currently serves 70,500 natural gas customers, mostly in Oakland County. Flint division gas customers in Lapeer County total just over 6,500.

Timetable Arranged on Sewer Legal Work

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Supervisor Roy Wahl and officials of the Michigan Water Resources Commission met this week to arrange a timetable of legal work on the township's responsibilities for the giant Clinton-Oakland sewer interceptor and related local sewage projects.

"The Water Resources Commission will approve the schedule we worked out on the approval of the Township Board of Trustees," Wahl said following the Tuesday meeting.

* * *

The board will decide July 14 on the schedule. The schedule calls for financial application due by Sept. 1, awarding of bids by Dec. 15, sale of bonds Dec. 22 and construction to begin Dec. 29.

Edwards Hits Plan to Cut State Aid for Chronically Ill

County Board of Supervisors Chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr. has lashed out at pending state legislation on medical care for the indigent.

The legislation would reduce state reimbursements for the chronically ill at the County Sanatorium to $15 to $17 a day, the rate being paid nursing homes.

Edwards cited the recent action of the State Health Department placing Bloofmeidd Hills Nursing Center on provisional standing for 30 days because of "operational deficiences." The health department's action was preceded by a mass resignation of some 12 licensed practical and registered nurses late in May.

"It would appear that the left hand does not know what the right hand is doing in Lansing," Edwards said.

House Bill 2035, which could put counties out of the chronic-care business, would increase the load on nursing homes, officials report.

* * *

"The transfer of many of our patients to a general nursing-home facility would, in effect, be putting them in death row," Edwards charged.

* * *

It costs the county $38 a day for the 120 chronic-care patients at the sanatorium, records show. The legislation, due for consideration at a Senate-House conference Saturday, would halve the available funds.

Supervisor Unit Tables County Survey of Soil

A countywide soil survey, costing county government $112,679, appears doomed.

The board of supervisors finance committee voted to table the survey yesterday. It would have had to be implemented by July 1 in order to take advantage of a $30,000 savings.

* * *

Presented by the U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service, the survey would have cost $325,542, with nearly two-thirds picked up by the federal government and by Michigan State University.

Board Chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr. said, "Just because the county gets more than 50 per cent of funding on any project, it doesn't make that project mandatory."

'NO LONGER AGRICULTURAL'

He claimed that county drain, public works and road commission departments would still have to make soil borings before undertaking projects.

"The county is no longer agriculutral. I think you'd be throwing $112,000 out of the window as far as benefits to the taxpayers are concerned."

* * *

Bill Humphrey at the Soil Conservation Service said the county would eventually be mapped by his department, but that it could take until the middle of the 21st century to do it.

He contedned a survey would assist in development plans for the county.

Bank Bandit Gets $3,000 in Holdup

BIRMINGHAM — An armed bandit held up the main office of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank at 1040 E. Maple last yesterday morning and escaped with $3,000 in cash, Birmingham police said.

The robber entered the bank about 10:40 a.m. and demanded cash from a teller at gunpoint. The bandit exited through a rear door to the parking lot.

* * *

Police said witnesses noted that the suspect, a slightly built white male wearing thick black frame glasses, ran across the parking lot and jumped a fence.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents are assisting local police in the investigation. The same bank was held up about a year ago.

Christ Church Women Seek Support Against 8 in Sit-In

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A group of women parishioners at Christ Church Cranbrook are attempting to generate support against eight other white Episcopalian women who successfully completed a sit-in at Michigan Episcopal Bishop Richard S. Emrich's office this morning.

* * *

The eight Episcopal white women ended their sit-in after the diocese executive council agreed to meet with representatives of the National Black Economic Development Conference (NBEDC).

* * *

The NBEDC is demanding $500 million in reparations payments from white churches for alleged racial discimination including $100,000 from Christ Church Cranbrook.

Bishop Emrich had earlier refused to meet with NBEDC because it would "break precedent." The sit-in against this stand then began.

CALLS ON WOMEN

In a new turn, Mrs. Robert Flint, past president of Christ Church's Episcopal Women, has called on her fellow women parishioners to demonstrate that the majority of the women do not back the action of the eight dissenters.

* * *

"We feel the majority of the Christ Church congregation do in no way support the sit-in action and support Bishop Emrich's original stand against meeting the NBEDC personnel.

* * *

"If we remain silent, then it can be inferred that the majority of the churchwomen support the dissenters.

* * *

"I definitely feel that the majority of the women of Chirst Church are fully opposed to the activity shown by a handful of people. The only way we can prove it is by signing a petietion and presenting that petition and a letter to Bishop Emrich."

RECOMMENDATION CONTRADICTED

Mrs. Flint has asked Christ Church women to come to her residence at 1577 Island in Bloomfield Township today to sign the petition.

* * *

Bishop Emrich's original refusal to meet with NBEDC contradicted a recommendation by the Michigan Diocesans programs committee. The women who sat in at his office were supported by ministers from 25 Episcopalian churches.

* * *

Mrs. Belle Hargreaves of Farmington, president of the Episocpal Church Women of Michigan, was one of the occupiers of Emrich's office.

* * *

"I don't enjoy this kind of thing, but you can only go so long in one direction. When nothing happens you have to try something esle," she explained.

* * *

The eight dissenters believe the Black Manifesto demands as presented by the NBEDC were "just and co'trrec dna'p NBEDC were "just and correct" and present a challenge to the church.

County Advised to Take On Repair of 4-H Fairgrounds

The 4-H Fairgrounds on Perry Street will most likely get $5,000 in maintenance money in time to dress it up for the annual 4-H Fair the first week in August.

The County Board of Supervisors Finance Committee yesterday recommended that the county assume maintenance responsibility at the site. For 18 years 4-H has attempted to keep the property in repair, mainly through a volunteer program.

"Volunteer labor isn't easy to get these days," noted county extension agent William Mullen.

The county is eligible for 50 per cent reimbursement on any money spent at the site, according to Muller. He said funds are available from the county fair section of the State Department of Agriculture.

The maintenance take-over was viewed as a stopgap measure until the county can begin development of the 4-H site at Davisburg.

"It appears that project will be moved back at least two years in priority," said Fred Houghten, R-Avon Township, a member of the finance committee. "In the meantime the property on Perry Street must be repaired."

This year's projects involved fencing and painting on the proeprty.

Parents of Youths in Killing Are Sued

BOSTON (AP) — The administrator of the estate of a Wethersfield, Conn., youth slain last August yesterday filed a $1-million damage suit against the parents of two youths convicted in connection with the killing.

Named in the suit filed in Suffolk Superior Court were Mr. and Mrs. George Witthoeft of Beverly Hills, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Simoni of 2286 Middle Belt, West Bloomfield Township, Mich.

* * *

Their sons, Ross G. Witthoeft and Craig Simoni, both 17, pleaded guilty to charges in connection with the fatal stabbing of Robert V. Phelps of Wethersfield, Conn.

Witthoeft was given a 10-20 year sentence for mansalughter and Simoni received a 5-10 year sentence for being an accessory.

* * *

The suit, filed by Francis Wynne, said the parents of the convicted boys failed to properly supervise and discipline their sons after allegedly knowing the sons were likely to engage in violent acts.

For Huron Valley School District

Panel to Study Sex Ed Programs

A citizens committee to recommend what type of formal or informal sex education — if any — should be implemented in the Huron Valley School District was approved by the school board last night.

Committee members will be chosen soon. They will include physicians, ministers, educators and laymen.

* * *

The committee is also being asked to ascertain and delineate what information is now being offered in the 1968-69 year as a part of the curriculum that might be construed as sex education.

* * *

Currently, the school district has no formal sex education courses.

According to Supt. Dr. Theodore Haggadone, the schools do have "the traditional type programs in fifth and sixth grades with a film on menstruation for girls and one about growing up for boys."

An elective home and family living sociology course is also available to junior high and senior high school students.

* * *

Haggadone emphasized, "Our board is not interested in putting in a sensational kind of program against the wishes of the people. We support our public and will teach along lines which are educational and in keeping with the community."

The board directed the citizens committee to acquire and review all written and visual material on sex education available from medical, church, educational and other sources.

$500 BUDGETED

The committee also has been authorized to consult with whom-so-ever they feel could provide a better insight into the study material.

A budget of $500 was authorized to cover expenses and to use in gathering material.

* * *

The board also expressed a willingness to hold a public hearing if desired by citizens.

Dr. Haggadone noted: "If the committee should advocate a program in sex education, we would probably offer this as an evening course for a semester . . . so that our public would be perfectly aware of it before we put it in the schools."

TAUGHT BY EXPERTS

"We also would hope that it will be taught by experts, for example, physicians and clergy may teach portions of the course," he added.

"We don't see any need for great speed. We're not faddists, we don't have to jump in so quickly. We're going to do what's right for the children." Haggadone said.

She claims a man grabbed a watch off her wrist and took a key ring out of her hand. The items were valued at $88.

Police arrested Willis at his home after the woman said she had met him and knew where he lived.

In the other incident, two teenagers reportedly grabbed the purse of Helen Stricklin, 55, of 1960 Hopefield in front of the Kmart Store at 7 S. Glenwood. The pair threw the woman to the ground and ran, according to police. The two teens got $13 in valuables and $15 in cash.

Hippie Denied Warrant for Jail Haircut

The Oakland County prosecutor's office has denied a request from hippie leader John Sinclair for a warrant against county sheriff's deputies for alleged assault and battery.

Sinclair, found guilty May 31 of assaulting a police officer, protested the right of sheriff's deputies to clip his shoulder-length hair.

* * *

Deputies shaved off all but about an inch of Sinclair's hair when he was brought to the county jail after his sentencing. He was released later the same day on appeal bond.

Officials at the prosecutor's office said the haircut was standard procedure at the jail and represents a health regulation in effect many years.

Sex Charges Jail City Man

A Pontiac man is in the county jail in lieu of $8,000 bond on two sex charges stemming from incidents in Orion Township.

Theodore Mendoza, 26, of 38 N. Midland pleaded innocent to charges of indecent exposure, soliciting children, having no driver's license and being drunk and disorderly at his arraignment yesterday before Rochester District Judge Robert Shipper.

* * *

Two Orion Township girls, ages 14 and 15, complained to Oakland County sheriff's deputies that a man without any clothes on tried to get them in his car at Joslyn and Heights Roads in Orion Township Tuesday afternoon.

* * *

Later, two other girls, 10 and 12 years old, said a man fitting a description given by the Orion Township girls exposed himself and tried to get them into his car at Detroit Boulevard and Conklin.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

A deputy stopped the car at Schorn and Conklin and arrested the suspect.

Bond was set at $1,000 each for being drunk and disorderly and having no driver's license. Mendoza is scheduled to appear in court on the charges July 7.

Five Get $225 in Bar Holdup

Five young men, one brandishing a revolver, escaped with an estimated $225 and a gold watch in an armed robbery at a Pontiac bar last night.

About $119 was taken from the cash register and $25 from the bartender of the Trojan Bar, 72 Auburn, and the rest from four customers at about 10:30 p.m., police said.

* * *

Five bandits entered the bar's rear door and told the occupants to get on the floor, bartender Gus Backalukas, 50, told police. Their hands were tied with a cord.

One man took money from the register and the bartender while two went through the pockets of the bound patrons.

* * *

One customer claimed he was knocked unconscious by something one of the robbers held, police said.

* * *

Backalukas told police the men left by the rear door and escaped in a 1966 blue four-door Oldsmobile. All the holdup men were described as 20- to 25-year-old Negroes, one 5 feet 11 with a slim build and the others 5 feet 6 with medium builds.

County Panel Delays Road-Fund Plan OK

A plan to set up a $1-million revolving fund to expedite local road improvement hit a snag yesterday as members of the Oakland County Road Commission appeared before the board of supervisors finance committee.

The plan would require $1 million the first year, $750,000 the second year, and decreasing amounts later before returns from projects made the fund self-sufficient, according to Sol Lomerson, road commission chairman.

* * *

Committee members voted to delay action until July 8, after they've had time to study a counterrecommendation made in absentia by Supervisor Christian Powell, R-West Bloomfield Township.

The road commission has hopes of borrowing the entire sum from county government, but Powell suggested the county put up $300,000, the road commission another $300,000 and the townships a third $300,000.

PREPAYMENT PURPOSE

The funds would be used to prepay road improvements in rural subdivisions and along mile roads, allowing property owners to spread their costs over a ten-year period.

Of the total improvement costs, 90 per cent would be borne by residents in special-assessment districts and the road commission would pick up the remainder, officials said. Lomerson viewed the program as cutting down heavy maintenance costs on poor roads.

* * *

Powell's recommendation included provision for a three-man board appointed by the Supervisors to handle disbursement of the fund. There are reportedly 1,000 miles of subdivision streets eligible for improvement and Powell's committee would make the determination of what should be done and when.

The projects could be initiated either by petition of property owners or by a township, Lomerson said.

FEASIBILITY DOUBTED

He said he doubted the Road Commission could take funds from its matching program to supplement the fund and he further said he doubted townships could come up with supplemental funds, required under Powell's plan.

At least one supervisor viewed the revolving fund plan with approval. Thomas O'Donoghue, D-Ferndale, said it is the only solution to solving the county's local road problems.

Pete Green One Stroke Behind Jackson Golfer

Duck Hunter Fires Birdies in State Am Qualifying

MAKE-OVER PAGES

By FLETCHER SPEARS
Sports Writer, Pontiac Press

CHARLEVOIX — A Jackson duck hunter picked on birdies of another kind here yesterday in setting the pace for a field of 279 starters in the opening round of qualifying for the 58th Michigan Amateur Golf Championship.

Unheralded Andy Andrews, 36-year-old vice president of a family manufacturing firm in Jackson, collected three birdies en route to a two-under-par 70 over plush Belvedere Country Club, and the hot round boosted the long hitter into the title picture in his first visit here.

Just a stroke behind Andrews as play opened this morning in the second round of qualifying was 27-year-old Peter Green of Franklin, who covered the back nine in 33 after a 38 on the front side.

MATCH PLAY FRIDAY

The low 64 scorers after today's round will stick around for match play which opens tomorrow and continues through Sunday. Missing from the field is defending champion Lynn Janson, a junior at Michigan State who is with the MSU golf team in the MCAA tournament at Colorado Springs, Colo.

There were four players at 72, three at 73, six at 74 and 22 at 75. Scores were generally good through the morning but they moved noticeably higher as the wind picked up in the afternoon.

★ ★ ★

Among the group at 74 was former Pontiac City Champion Tom Balliet. Tom's son Gary, however, who was shooting well in practice, checked in with an 84 and perhaps blew himself out of the tournament.

Officials were figuring a score in the neighborhood of 153 would make the magic 64.

NO PLANS

"I didn't even plan to be here," said Andrews, who suddenly found himself thrust into the spotlight. "A friend of mine, Vic Cuiss, asked me if I would come over and serve as a member of the tournament committee.

Andrews an avid duck and pheasant hunter, is a former captain of the University of Michigan golf team and he dropped the game shortly after college to concentrate on his job. "I just started again about four years ago," he said.

Andrews, the 1968 Jackson Country Club champion, knocked in birdies on Nos. 4, 10 and 11. He picked up his lone bogie on No. 3 when he woundup in the water.

Green, 1968 Golf Association of Michigan champion, qualified here last year but fell by the wayside in the first round.

Among the quartet at 72 was Bill Curtis, 36, of Farmington a veteran publinxer who captured the publinx medal play championship in 1966.

The youngsters showed their poise, also, in the first day of fireworks.

★ ★ ★

Michael Husby, 18, of Lansing, son of the city's chief of police, had an even par 72, along with another Lansingite, Otto Schubel, 25, and 22-year-old Dick Flynn of Grand Rpaids.

Five-time champion Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile was among the crowd at 75 along with 1967 champion Bill Newcomb, U. of M. golf coach, Eastern Michigan University team member Jame St. Germain.

★ ★ ★

Husby, a recent graduate of Lansing Sexton, is heading for Florida next fall with a scholarship to Palm Beach Junior College.

PREP CO-MEDALIST

The 5-10 Husby co-medalist in this year's class A state high school tournament, put together rounds of 37-35 and collected three birdies along the way.

With 73's in the opening round were Paul McIntosh, a sophomore at Oakland Community College, 16-year-old Jeff Reaume of Ypsilanti and three time champion Melvin (Bud) Stevens, 37, of Livonia.

Young Reaume whose older brother, Frank, is in the NCAA tournament in Colorado, carved out a 33 on the front side but slipped to a 40 on the back. McIntosh, came in with a steady 36-37—73.

★ ★ ★

John Grace, 20, a senior at University of Houston, posted a 76. Matching that total were Birmingham's Bud Badger and another ex-Pontiac titlist Dick Robertson.

Mike Murphy of Union Lake was in a pack at 78 and included in that rundown was Gary Beckman of Pontiac.

Others in the crowd at 74 were John Law and Bill Albright, both of Birmingham.

Mickey Lolich Has Yankees Whiffing

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tigers' hopes of catching the Baltimore Orioles in the American League pennant race were a tiny bit brighter today thanks to the talents of left-hander Mickey Lolich, pitcher and slugger.

★ ★ ★

Lolich, bidding for the role of strikeout king of the majors, whiffed nine New York Yankees Wednesday as he stopped them on a comparatively easy 6-1 effort, the Tigers third win in a row over the New Yorkers.

"I wasn't too concerned about getting strikeouts . . . I just wanted to beat them," said Lolich.

SECOND OVER YANKS

It was his second win of the year over the Yankees and he collected nine strikeouts to run his total to 111...just four behind pitcher Ray Culp of the Boston Red Sox who has 115.

Detroit named Joe Sparma (4-3) for the windup of the four game series tonight with the Yankees sending their ace Mel Stottlemyre (9-6) out to try to salvage one game of the four game series.

Lolich was rough on the Bombers all the way as he virtually stifled their biggest guns and was potent himself on the offense driving in what proved to be the winning run with a line shot to right in the second inning to send the Tigers into a 2-0 lead.

★ ★ ★

Lolich's wallop off Yankee starter and loser Fritz Peterson had Yankee manager Ralph Houk talking to himself in the New York dressing room after the game.

In that Tiger second, recently called up third baseman Ike Brown got things rolling with a single to center with two out. Jim Northrup rifled a triple to deep right center, sending Brown scampering across with the first run of the ball game.

"I figured Freehan was a much better hitter than Lolich, so I gave the signal to put Freehan on with an intentional walk," explained the crestfallen Houk.

"I never figured Lolich would hit that well...I wanted to keep that second run from coming across for I knew the way Lolich pitched in the first two innings that he was going to be rough," said Houk.

★ ★ ★

Lolich drilled a clean single to right scoring Northrup and giving the Tigers their two run lead.

SACRIFICE BUNT

In the seventh, Lolich came up with a different type of hitting prowess as he dropped a sacrifice bunt and reached first on a fielder's choice when Peterson was a bit slow in fielding the ball and trying for a forceout at second on Freehan who had singled.

Moments later, Dick McAuliffe singled Freehan home and Tom Tresh brought Lolich in with the Tigers fourth run on a long sacrifice fly.

Lolich's win ran his record to 9-1 for the season and gave him seven consecutive wins.

"I pitch a lot better when it is cool and I am not too happy to see the real warm summer days coming," he said.

★ ★ ★

Yankee boss Houk unhappy after dropping the first three games of the four game set-to with the Tigers, commented, "It was not our night . . . that Lolich pitched a real fine game just about on par with the one Denny McLain pitched against us the previous night."

Lolich was delighted with the Tiger attack that gave him an early lead and continued to pile up as the game went on. "They have been hitting real well behind me this year—giving me six or seven runs a game in some cases and it is a great contrast from last year when I generally worked with no more than a one or two run lead," Lolich said.

Lolich took particular delight in getting Yankee slugger Joe Pepitone twice on strikeouts. "He always has been tough on me," said Lolich.

Hazel Park Mat Champ Upset in AAU Wrestling

Special to The Pontiac Press

WORLAND, Wyo. (AP) — A 4-foot, 11-inch high school sophomore, Edwin Digirdamo of Santa Cruz, Calif., upset National AAU runnerup Billy Davids of Hazel Park, Mich., Wednesday night in the round robin finals of the National Junior Wrestling Championships.

Digirdamo, a curly-haired blond, pinned Davids in 8:13.

The stocky Californian still has to defeat Stan Opp of Aberdeen, S.D., to win the 105-pound crown.

EXCITED

But he was so happy with his upset over Davids he cried for joy in the Worland High School gymnasium waiting room.

"Wait till my dad finds out. He'll be so happy," Digirdamo said. He explained his parents were unable to leave their summertime school teaching jobs to attend the tournament.

★ ★ ★

Davids had finished second in the AAU freestyle championships and was winner of the Grego-Roman division earlier this spring. Digirdamo went to Waterloo, Iowa, for the freestyle tournament but couldn't make the 105-pound weight division and was disqualified.

Ex-PCH Cager New Addition to UD Squad

A 6-3 guard who seems to set scoring records wherever he goes is the newest transfer addition to the basketball forces of head coach Jim Harding at the University of Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Frank Russell, all Saginaw Valley and all Oakland County in his senior year at Pontiac Central High School, set the single game point park with 42.

★ ★ ★

Last season, on the Highland Lakes campus of Oakland Community College, Russell hit a record 48 points in a single start and cracked the assist mark for a game, 15, to boot.

★ ★ ★

Russell, who lives in Pontiac, is the second junior college transfer recruited by Harding to date. Last week, he signed Barry Driscoll, a 6-6 forward from McCook (Neb.) J. C. to a Titan tender.

West Has Fast Running Backs for Grid Game

ATLANTA (AP) — Joe Paterno wishes he had Pepper Rodgers' problem—too much of a good thing.

Rodgers' West squad is running over with good fast running backs for Saturday night's Coaches All-America football game.

★ ★ ★

Paterno, coach of the East, on the other hand can't find all those he's supposed to have.

Wednesday turned up a case of the rich getting richer. Paul Gipson of Houston returned after spending several days at home while his wife had a baby. He joined Bill "Earthquake" Enyart of Oregon State at the West fullback slot.

★ ★ ★

Enyart and Gipson team up on offense with Eugene "Mercury" Morris of West Texas State, Ron Sayers of Nebraska at Omaha, Jerry Levias of Southern Methodist University and Jim Lawrence of USC.

Paterno must counter with Charlie Jarvis of Army, Frank Quayle of Virginia and Bobby Campbell of Penn State in the East backfield.

★ ★ ★

A week-long dragnet from Baltimore to New Orleans failed to locate Yale's Calvin Hill, scheduled to be in the East backfield.

Rodgers was pleased after Wednesday's practice and said he will make the remainder of the drills easier.

★ ★ ★

"After four days of practice like we've had, I think it's about time to taper off," he said.

Paterno said after Wednesday's session the East's passing wasn't as good as it has been but the running was better.

★ ★ ★

"Maybe we'll put it all together tomorrow," he said.

Joe Louis Compliments Frazier as 'Toughest'

NEW YORK (UPI) — According to former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, Cassius Clay need not bother getting back in the ring — he is no match for Joe Frazier, the current champ in six states, Mexico and Argentina.

★ ★ ★

"Frazier is too strong for everybody," Louis said Wednesday. "Clay has been out too long. It would be no contest."

★ ★ ★

"Frazier would break Jim Ellis in two," Louis said. "Ellis can't stand the pressure in the ring. Frazier is the best heavyweight in boxing today."

NET RESULT — Veteran Pancho Gonzales (right) is congratulated by Chuck Pasarell after a gruelling match in the Wimbledon Championships. Gonzales won the match, 22-24, 1-6, 16-14, 6-3 and 11-9. The first two sets were played Tuesday and called because of darkness. Pancho then won the final three sets when resumed yesterday.

Pancho Excites Net Fans at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Pancho Gonzalez, his 41-year-old-bones aching, said today that tennis matches are getting longer and somebody ought to do something about it.

"It's time they started play at Wimbledon at noon instead of 2 p.m.," said the Los Angeles veteran. "And they ought to consider not starting any matches after 5 p.m.—in case the light fails."

Gonzalez had these problems on his mind after winning the longest match in Wimbledon's 92-year-old history. He defeated Charlie Pasarell of Santurce, P.R., 22-24, 1-6, 16-14, 6-3, 11-9 in a classic duel that started Tuesday, was called because of darkness after two sets, and continued Wednesday before 15,000 excited fans on the center court.

COMPETITION TOUGH

"The fact is that competition is getting tougher all the time," Gonzalez said. "Long matches like this are going to become more frequent in future. That's why I think Wimbledon officials should consider revising their schedule."

★ ★ ★

The Gonzalez-Pasarell marathon was not the only long match. In the first two days of the Wimbledon tournament there have been 14 sets lasting more than 20 games.

Arthur Ashe, reigning U.S. Open champion from Richmond, Va., also lost the first two sets before overcoming Terry Ryan of South Africa 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 8-6.

★ ★ ★

Big-serving Clark Graebner of New York City was leading, 6-2, 3-0, when his opponent, John Brown of Australia, pulled a leg muscle and retired.

Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., who has won the women's crown for the last three years, started the defense of her title with a comfortable 6-2, 6-1 victory over Mrs. Bernice Vukovich of South Africa.

Mrs. Margaret Court of Australia, rated Billie Jean's most dangerous rival, was due to go into action today against Betty Ann Grubb, of Santa Monica, Calif.
