Numbers Ring Hit in Detroit

Vice Squad Rounds Up 16 Suspects in $1 Million Gambling Operation

DETROIT (UPI) — Sixteen persons were arrested last night in the smashup of what police described as a million dollar a year numbers ring.

Six crews of vice squad officers conducted the raids, capping a five-month investigation. Police said the ring was a key link in the nationwide Mafia crime and gambling syndicate.

Those arrested were held on charges of conspiracy to violate state gambling laws.

Named top men in the ring were Sam Abbate, 42; Michael Lo Greco, 28; John Buffa, 48, and Leon Mongeleone, 40, all of Detroit.

Inspector Fred Heath, head of the vice bureau, said officers picked up adding machines, tapes and other supplies found in the ring offices.

Heath said Buffa had 1,555 bet slips with him. The officers found 1,200 additional slips on Abbate.

Local Labor Issues Hold Up Big Three Auto Production

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry's big three, its national contracts with the United Auto Workers Union wrapped up, today awaited settlement of local disputes for a full scale resumption of 1959 model production.

★ ★ ★

Some 275,000 UAW members — most of them General Motors employes—remain idled by local disputes at GM, Ford and Chrysler.

GM, last of the big three to come to terms with the UAW, reported 250,000 idle at 126 plants across the country.

GM signed its national agreement Thursday night, but UAW President Walter Reuther said local unions had authorization to remain on strike until local issues were settled.

Chrysler reported 22,400 workers idle in 16 plants despite a settlement reached Friday covering 11,000 skilled tradesmen.

Contracts covering skilled workers and salaried office employes were left hanging last Wednesday when Reuther wrapped up a production worker agreement at Chrysler.

Under the original agreement, skilled tradesmen were awarded eight cents an hour more than production workers. In the supplemental pact Friday, two stumbling blocks were resolved.

Laid off tradesmen with five years seniority will go into an areawide hiring pool similar to one provided for production workers. The company also agreed to use UAW maintenance men for construction and repair jobs in its plants rather than hire outside contractors.

Still unresolved is an agreement covering some 8,000 salaried office workers and engineers at Chrysler.

Ford reported production almost normal but said operations at a Chicago assembly plant remain at a standstill because of a local dispute. The Ford-AUW agreement was announced Sept. 17.

Fire Prevention Parade Opens Safety Observance

The colorful Pontiac Central High School band followed by competitors for the 1958 water battle championship led off the annual Fire Prevention parade on Saginaw street this afternoon.

Fire equipment from more than 20 departments began the march from Auburn avenue to Oakland avenue, accompanied by Army, civil defense and Pontiac Motor Division displays. James B. Forman was parade marshal.

The parade and following events mark the opening of National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 5-11. The annual firemen's field day, sponsored by the Fire Prevention Committee of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce was held at Northside Fields, Montcalm and Edison streets.

Featured in the display were an Army, Hercules missile and in-plant fire prevention equipment being demonstrated for the first time publicly by Pontiac Motor Division.

The competing six-man water battle teams were from Waterford Township Fire Department, the challengers, and the Brooklands Fire Department from Avon Township, defending 1957 champions.

Other departments in the parade, in addition to Pontiac city, were from Addison, Bloomfield, Waterford, Commerce, West Bloomfield, Pontiac, White Lake and Independence Townships; Brooklands and Avondale; Franklin, Oxford, Ortonville, Fenton, Birmingham, Farmington and Clawson.

★ ★ ★

Bands were from Waterford, Avondale and Clarkston High Schools.

Area Builders in UF Canvass

Launch Pre-Campaign Solicitations on Tuesday With Luncheon

Building tradesmen in the Pontiac area will begin their pre-campaign solicitations Tuesday for the Pontiac Area United Fund.

★ ★ ★

Construction group goal, including special gifts, is $15,658.

Following the kick-off luncheon, the volunteer workers will begin calling on the more than 250 Pontiac area building trades firms and their employes.

A trophy will be awarded by the Michigan United Fund to the community which posts the highest per capita gift record during this special pre-campaign solicitation.

Weekend to Be Cool and Partly Cloudy

Sunday's weather will be partly cloudy and cooler with the high around 58, the low tomorrow night about 40. Winds will diminish becoming north to northwesterly. The outlook for Monday is fair and cool. Low temperature tonight will be around 52.

Fifty-one was the lowest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury rose to 71 at 1 p.m.

This morning's southwesterly winds at 10 to 15 miles an hour will increase to 20 to 30 late this afternoon, shifting to northwesterly late tonight. The low will be near 52.

Inherits Million, Stays on the Job as Policeman

NEW YORK (AP)—What happens when a $7,000-a-year policeman suddenly becomes a millionaire?

He reports for work as usual and asks to be let alone.

At least that's what patrolman John B. Gaul did.

Gaul became the richest of New York's finest Friday. He fell heir to the lion's share of a 2½-million dollar fortune, bequeathed him by an uncle.

The 30-year-old father of two reported as usual for his 4 p.m. to midnight shift as a station house clerk.

Yankees Lead at End of 5th

By Our Wire Services

The New York Yankees exploded in the fifth inning of today's third world series game at New York to grab a two-run lead in the tight contest. Hopes of the Yankees were raised, for a break-in of the series in which the Milwaukee club holds two straight.

Bases were loaded when Hank Bauer came up to drive a hot one to the short right field, scoring Siebern and McDougald. Two were out at the time.

FIRST INNING

Yankees—Bauer singled, was doubled at first when Kubek struck out. Mantle struck out. No runs, one hit.

SECOND INNING

THIRD INNING

FOURTH INNING

Yankees—Bauer fouled to Torre. Kubek lined to Logan. Mantle walked. Berra popped to Schoendienst. No runs, no hits.

FIFTH INNING

Yankees — Siebern walked. Lumpe flied out. McDougald walked. Larsen walked, filling the bases. Bauer singled, scoring Siebern and McDouglad. Kubek lined to Bruton. Two runs, one hit. Score Yankees 2, Braves 0.

Wider, Lower Bodies Featured in Restyling

Two Larger V-8 Engines Offered With Economy Model Also Available

By JOHN W. FITZGERALD
Editor, The Pontiac Press

Pontiac's completely revamped new 1959 cars are announced to the public today. Any resemblance or similarity to other years is bypassed in this advanced new styling and engineering.

The cars will go on display to the public Oct. 9. In Pontiac there will be a special preview downtown next Wednesday afternoon (Oct. 8) and they may also be seen at the Pontiac Retail Store from 3 o'clock on.

"Pontiac has broken all bonds of traditional styling and engineering in '59 with the most progressive change in our Division's 51 year history," S. E. Knudsen, GM vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, said today.

There is no carryover from past Pontiacs this year. They are new from the ground up and include such innovations as these:

1.—An all new body design.
2.—Five inch wider tread.
3.—More glass in front and rear for better visibility.
4.—New high performance 389 cubic inch Tempest 420 V-8 engine.
5.—A special economy engine available on all models at no additional cost.

The lower, longer, wider cars this year will come in 14 spectacular models in three series; four Bonnevilles, three Star Chiefs and seven in the new Catalina series. The Chieftain model has been dropped this year.

Prices on the new models have already been announced and in most cases are lower than the comparable '58 models.

Backed by dealer and preview audience enthusiasm, Pontiac has been assembling '59 cars at an increased pace that will require employment of additional workers at both Pontiac and Fisher Body plants, according to Knudsen and Thomas F. Wiethorn, Fisher Body resident manager.

The new styling from front to rear is ultra modern and gives the 1959 Pontiac an appearance of simplicity and beauty.

Overall height has been reduced on all models and the lowest are the two-door hardtop sport coupes and convertibles at 54 inches. All models feature increased roominess with seat width up to ten inches greater than the average sofa.

The low, cleanly styled body, topped by a slim-line roof, gives up to 37 per cent greater glass area. Beautifully contoured vista-panoramic windshields in all models provide added driving safety with up to 60 per cent greater visibility. Along with its look of absolute simplicity Pontiac conveys the impression of eager action even when not in motion.

Brush Fires in West

AP Wirephoto

NEAR CALIFORNIA TOWN — A roaring brush fire sweeps through mountains just outside Monrovia, Calif., a Los Angeles suburb. The fire was out of control after burning over 1,400 acres, but wind was shifting the spread away from the town. Several houses had been destroyed, however.

Brush Fire Out of Control

California Blaze Spreads

MONROVIA, Calif. (UPI) — A two-day-old major brush fire accidentally started by two seven-year-old boys burned out of control today with little hope of being contained for the next three to five days.

More than 3,500 acres of valuable water shed valued in the millions dollars have been burned over along with eight structures, including at least five homes in the $30,000 to $50,000 class.

Hundreds of residents were forced to flee with their possessions for a time yesterday as the roaring blaze spilled over into inhabited areas of this Los Angeles suburb.

Police last night said they had found two boys who admitted playing with matches and accidentally starting the fire. They were turned over to their parents until juvenile authorities can be consulted.

The area was declared a "state of emergency" yesterday by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight. Hundreds of firefighters and badly needed equipment were rushed to the area shortly after his proclamation.

More than 750 men including Zunis, Hopis and Navajos Indians, experts in firefighting, battled the leaping flames during the night while several hundred state, county and city firefighters caught up on their sleep.

More than 1,000 firefighters were expected to be at firelines after sunrise when dropping humidity and high temperatures along with morning winds create the greatest chance for the blaze to spread. They also will be assisted by planes bombing hot spots with a borate solution. Six planes were used yesterday.

County Fire Chief Kieth Klinger said the fire was moving north and east away from the foothill cities of Monrovia and Azusa into the San Gabriel mountains.

He said no homes were in immediate danger.

Appeal Denied 2 Townships

State Tax Commission Upholds Allocations Set by Oakland Board

Appeals by Independence and Farmington townships of their shares of the 15 mill tax limitation for this year have been denied by the Michigan State Tax Commission.

The denial in both cases thus upholds the 1958 tax allocations of 1.32 mills for Independence and .86 of a mill for Farmington as handed down by the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board June 2.

"There were not sufficient reasons shown by either township that there had been errors in fact as alleged," said Edward W. Kane, commission secretary.

Independence argues in its appeal that cutting .48 of a mill from the township's preliminary allocation of 1.80 was wrong in that at the same time the county's share of the statutory 15 mills went up from last year ($5 to $5.62). The Allocation Board said this .48 of a mill slice went to township schools, not to the county.

Farmington Township said in its appeal that less than one mill cannot legally be given to a township.

Kane did not give any other reasons why both appeals had been turned down.

Allowing the two rates to stick, permits the Board of Supervisors to approve the spreading of taxes based on allocations set down by the board. This approval is expected to be granted Oct. 13 at a special supervisors meeting.

★ ★ ★

Dr. William J. Emerson, chairman of the Allocation Board, said the decision of the commission shows the members of the board did "a good, proper, and exacting job."

Young Hiker Found Alive on Mountain

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Gritty rescuers planned to inch their way down 9,000-foot Mount Olympus today with a stretcher bearing a 17-year-old boy injured in a hiking accident.

★ ★ ★

A rescue party that fought crevasses, sheer rock cliffs, brush and boulders reached Douglas Chapman as dawn broke over the jagged, gray peak that overlooks the Salt Lake Valley.

★ ★ ★

The climb had been such an effort the party was unable to bring along stretchers and first aid equipment. However, they hoped to get the needed items from a helicopter or another climbing party.

★ ★ ★

For 17 hours after he slipped and fell about 20 feet down the mountainside, the youngster had waited with a friend for help to arrive. As night came, the temperature dipped to within a few degrees of freezing and numbed the lightly clad youths.

★ ★ ★

Rescuers reported by walkie-talkie that young Chapman had head cuts and a face so swollen he could not see and therefore could not walk. But he apparently had no broken bones, the rescue group added.

Planes, Speeding Across Atlantic Both Ways

Launch Commercial Jet Service

By ANTHONY CAVENDISH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two Comet IV jet airliners sped across the Atlantic today to inaugurate the world's first transoceanic commercial jet service.

Its westbound sister ship was due in New York at 2:40 p.m. (Pontiac time), with a refueling stop scheduled at Gander, Newfoundland, at 10:20 a.m.

Still another jetliner designed for commercial service was in the skies over the Atlantic. A Boeing 707 jetliner owned by Pan American World Airways screamed out of London Airport more than two hours after the smaller eastbound Comet departed.

The 707, which had been undergoing noise tests in London was scheduled to land at Keflavik, Iceland, en route to New York.

BOAC announced its decision to fly head-on into the jet age last night, only a few hours after the New York Port Authority granted BOAC and Pan American World Airways permission to operate their jetliners out of Idlewild International Airport.

Pan American, which plans to inaugurate TransAtlantic jet service Oct. 26 with the giant Boeing 707, objected to what a spokesman said appeared to be Port Authority regulations that favor BOAC.

Booked aboard the New York-to-London flight were five fare-paying passengers, five BOAC officials, and ten American and nine British newsmen. The paid passengers were hastily recruited by BOAC from its other scheduled flights.

The non-stop flight was expected to last about six hours and 45 minutes. The Comet flight from London was expected to take ten and a half hours because of prevailing head winds, which make it necessary to stop at Gander, Nfld., to refuel.

The eastbound flight time of six and three-quarters of an hour compares with nine and a half hours for the fastest flights now made by propeller-driven airliners, a difference of nearly three hours.

The Comets, which will pass each other about 300 miles southeast of Newfoundland, are powered by four Rolls Royce Avon RA29 engines equipped with noise suppressors. The Boeing 707 has four huge JT3C6 engines, each with 21 tube-shaped noise suppressors.

The inauguration of commercial jet service today was considered the practical beginning of mass travel by jet airliner.

Basil Smallpiece, BOAC's managing director, said the airline will provide one jet flight a week in each direction across the Atlantic. All the flights will be made by the 157,000 pound Comet IV, which carries 76 passengers.

The great hurdle both BOAC and PAA had to overcome before being granted permission to operate jets out of Idlewild was noise.

The Port Authority announced yesterday after exhaustive sound tests the airlines would be allowed to operate their comets and 707's out of Idlewild only under highly restricted conditions.

The planes will be required to take off over water whenever possible, the Port Authority said. Operating conditions also stipulate use of a preferential runway system, a limit of 1,200 feet over communities, and no takeoffs between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m., except toward the southwest.

Night flights will be cancelled during the specified hours if weather does not permit use of the designated runway.

All-New '59 Pontiacs Making Bow Today

Each model features a long, sweeping side moulding that extends the full length of the car to end in a down swept curve behind the rear wheel opening. Sculptured front and rear bumpers blend into the body, another eye-catching example of Pontiac's entry into a new era of styling.

WIDER TREAD

Of outstanding significance among the many innovations engineered into Pontiac for 1959 is the wider tread, an exclusive feature with Pontiac this year. Wheel tread, the distance between right and left wheels, has been increased nearly five inches. In addition to creating a low, wide silhouette, the wider tread improves stability, riding comfort and road hugging ability.

As a result of widening the tread, Pontiac owners will enjoy more comfortable riding and a more stable car. Also, less steering effort is required on sharp turns because a lower center of gravity and a wider tread decreases the shift of weight from inside to outside.

Cost conscious motorists will have an opportunity this year at no extra cost to get the new economy engine. This engine has a 2.87:1 axle ratio for greater gas mileage. The compression ratio is 8.6 to 1 and the engine operates on regular fuel.

Like all Pontiac engines this special power plant is a result of 18 million miles of actual testing and is designed to give V-8 performance with greater economy.

NEW CATALINA SERIES

The new '59 Pontiac Catalina series debuts with unprecedented prestige. The Catalina's entirely new look and features put Pontiac's lowest priced, perennial high volume series in a more competitive position than ever before.

Seven new, dynamic body styles are engineered for the ultimate in utility, safety and comfort. The series includes: A convertible coupe, two-door hardtop sport coupe, four-door Vista hardtop, two-door sport sedan, four-door sedan, and two and three-seat four-door Safaris.

All Catalina models are built on a 122-inch wheelbase and the series utilizes the new, high performing 389 cubic inch Tempest 420 V-8 engine with two barrel carburetor and improved synchromesh transmission as standard equipment. Over-all length of all models is 213.7 inches.

Tasteful exterior styling treatment, rich in simplicity, typifies the Catalina series. Single full-length mouldings and the Catalina name in chromed script on the rear fender, decorate the side panels.. The Pontiac name in gold script adorns the twin grille in front, while Pontiac in block letters is attractively spaced between oval tail lamps on the rear. Eleven high gloss solid colors and a full complement of expertly matched two-tone combinations of the amazingly durable magic-mirror acrylic lacquer finish, are also standard with this series.

Catalina hardtop and sedan interiors feature a new customized trim treatment of rich fabrics and jewel-tone Morrokide in harmonizing colors. Floor covering is combination Tempest weave carpet and vinyl rubber. Safari interiors feature jewel-tone Morrokide upholstery in harmonizing colors, while floor areas are covered with matching vinyl rubber.

The all-new Catalina Safaris are roomier, more versatile, and feature a new retractable rear window.

The three-seat Safari with a rearward facing back seat, has an electrically controlled rear window as standard. Step pads on the rear bumper permit easy entrance and exit.

THREE STAR CHIEFS

Pontiac's Star Chief series for 1959 is more stunning than ever before with three artistically styled models; a startling new four-door Vista hardtop, a four-door sedan and new to the series this year, a two-door sport sedan.

Mounted on a 124-inch wheelbase these models are powered by Pontiac's new 389 cubic inch Tempest 420 V-8 engine having a two-barrel carburetor as standard equipment. Each of the three models are distinguished by four emblematic stars along the rear quarter area, a chromed "Star Chief" name plate on the rear fenders, specific deck lid ornamentation, outboard rear fender flight vanes trimmed with chrome, and large, gleaming wheel discs. The Star Chief's overall length is 220.7 inches.

In addition to brilliant magic-mirror acrylic lacquer paint finishes in 13 solid colors and a wide range of optional two-tone combinations, other standard equipment includes special interior trim with nylon faced cloth and jewel-tone Morrokide, deluxe steering wheel, electric clock, two instrument panel ash trays and additional insulation for soundproofing.

FOUR BONNEVILLES

Introduced last year as Pontiac's top-of-the-line luxury car, the Bonneville series is even more outstanding in 1959 with two additional spectacular models, all with exclusive styling features to give a sleek, custom appearance.

Supplementing the original Bonneville convertible and two-door hardtop sport coupe in this series is a superbly styled four-door Vista hardtop and a richly appointed four-door Safari that offers the ultimate in station wagon prestige.

Interiors of the Bonneville are matched to exterior magic-mirror acrylic lacquer colors, with such standard equipment items as a passenger assist rail mounted on the padded instrument panel, courtesy lamps, electric clock, aluminum seat end and side panels, door reflectors for night safety and extra insulation for soundproofing.

Front bucket seats are available as a special option for the Bonneville convertible coupe. Each of the four models are powered by the big, new Tempest 420 V-8 engine with a four-barrel carburetor. Chrome mouldings decorate the top of the twin rear fender flight vanes. Handsome wheel discs are standard.

Bonneville hardtop interiors are trimmed with a combination of nylon faced cloth and jewel-tone Morrokide in attractive patterns, or solid jewel-tone Morrokide. Convertible seats are trimmed in genuine leather and jewel-tone Morrokide, while Safaris are done in jewel-tone Morrokide in harmonizing colors. Floor covering is of Taurus weave, lurex flecked carpet.

With the exception of the Safari, Bonnevilles are mounted on a 124-inch wheelbase chassis and have an overall length of 220.7 inches. The station wagon has a 122-inch wheelbase and is 213.7 inches overall.

"We are confident that the public will hail the 1959 Pontiac as one of America's really new cars," said Knudsen. "From every angle the car reflects ultra-modern design. Unprecedented styling innovations, resulting in a lower, wider car, give the 1959 Pontiac a dramatically new appearance."

Rain Dampens Nation's Skirt

Weather Is Generally Fair

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair skies and generally pleasant seasonal temperatures dominated the nation's weather today, but more rain dampened sections of the Southeast from Texas to Georgia.

Exceptions to the temperature pattern were readings in the 20s in the central Rockies and the prospect of more 100-degree heat in the Southwest.

Rainfall across the Southeast was generally on the light side. Widespread cloudiness blanketed most of the region. The area of general rain was not expected to extend further north than the Virginias during the day.

★ ★ ★

A few showers were in the picture around the Lake Superior Region, but elsewhere outside the Southeast, it was fair to partly cloudy.

★ ★ ★

Warmer temperatures moved across the southern Plains, the Ohio Valley and middle and lower sections of the Mississippi Valley. A warmup also was on tap for New England, where the mercury settled into the 40s Friday night.

★ ★ ★

A cool trend crept southeastward into the northern Plains, accompanied in some cases by rather brisk winds.

★ ★ ★

Little relief was in sight for the sizzling Southwest. The mercury rose to a record-breaking 103 at Los Angeles International Airport on Friday and hit a blistering 104 in San Pedro. The airport reading was the warmest ever reported there during October.

Doctors Say Ike's Health 'Excellent'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's doctors Saturday said he is in excellent health.

The announcement at the White House came shortly after the President had completed his annual head-to-toe physical checkup at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

The terse medical report said:

"The President underwent a complete physical examination, which included barium studies of the gastro-intestinal tract and appropriate laboratory tests, at Walter Reed Army Hospital on Oct. 3-4, 1958.

★ ★ ★

"The results of these all-inclusive studies show that the President continues to maintain an excellent state of health."

ion of Electrical Workers on strike at six GM plants.

UAW settlements with the big three call for improved layoff pay, a new severance plan, higher pension benefits, and continued cost-of-living and productivity improvement wage increases.

The three-year agreements are estimated worth 24 to 30 cents an hour per worker during the life of the contract.

But at GM, Reuther won additional concessions including an end to the 7½ hour work day for some GM employes; a five cents an hour premium payment for workers scheduled for other than Monday-Friday weeks on a job that requires a seven-day-a-week operation; and an agreement by GM to study what the union called wage inequities for workers performing the same job in different plants.

Nationalists Hint at Retaliation

Red Planes Must Stop Quemoy Attack, Says Chinese Admiral

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Nationalists said today they cannot permit Communist aerial attacks on Quemoy. A spokesman hinted at retaliatory action.

★ ★ ★

Four Communist MIG17s attacked Nationalist transport planes dropping supplies to Quemoy Friday, forcing one crippled C46 to land. The Nationalist Defense Ministry revealed today the MIGs also strafed the offshore island.

★ ★ ★

"This can be stopped," said Rear Adm. Liu Hoh-tu, the Defense Ministry spokesman. "We are not going to sit there and wait for the transport planes to be shot up again. We obviously can't let them do it all the time."

★ ★ ★

The transport planes were not under escort of Nationalist fighters, Liu said. When Sabrejets got there it was too late and the MIGs had escaped to their mainland bases.

The admiral's comment on stopping such attacks indicated fighter escorts for future airdrop missions. It also raised again the question of Nationalist bombing of the mainland bases in the Quemoy area.

U.S. officers expect such attacks would provoke Communist raids on the Nationalist air bases on Formosa. Since the United States is pledged to defend Formosa, that would draw the heavy concentration of American military strength here into direct conflict with Red China.

INDIANA, Pa. (UPI)—A man, his wife and five of their seven children perished today when fire swept their home one mile north of the Indiana County town of Clymer.

Two other children of the Clair Kintner family were reported to have survived. One, Linda Kintner, 10, was in critical condition in Indiana Hospital with third degree burns.

State police said a kerosene stove exploded at about 9:30 a.m. (EST) and the frame home was quickly engulfed in flames.

Firemen from the western Pennsylvania coal mining communities of Clymer and Dixonville were called but were unable to control the flames.

Four bodies were recovered and three were believed still in the fire-wrecked home.

Two Southern leaders expressed opposite views about closing the schools Friday during a day marked by suspension of a plan to provide private class facilities for 10,000 idle white youngsters at Norfolk, Va.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas said he would never open the Little Rock public high schools on an integrated basis. The schools were closed Sept. 15 after the U.S. Supreme Court ordered integration to continue at Central High.

In Greensboro, N. C., North Carolina's attorney general says states seeking to side-step U.S. Supreme Court decisions against segregated schools can only go "out of the business of public education."

Malcolm B. Seawell declared here Friday night that shutting of schools in Virginia and Arkansas demonstrates the results "of policies of defiance and massive resistance to the law of the land.

"We here in North Carolina, no matter how distasteful the law may be to us personally are living under the law and not in defiance of the law."

The question of obtaining adequate teachers became an issue in Virginia's largest city, Norfolk. The Tidewater Education Foundation there said it was suspending a plan to provide private schooling for pupils enrolled at six closed secondary schools.

James G. Martin, foundation president, said the group had been unable to sign up a single public school teacher. For that reason, he said, the foundation would cease enrollment and return tuition fees already paid.

The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said it would ask U.S. Judge Walter E. Hoffman Monday to provide additional relief for 17 Negroes ordered admitted to the Norfolk schools.

Faubus spoke out against integrating the schools at a news conference in Little Rock. Asked what would happen if the schools were reopened on a private, segregated basis in defiance of federal court orders, he said:

"The only recourse the federal government would have would be to send in marshals and the Army to forcibly eject teachers and students."

The governor also said he would assist the Little Rock Private School Corp. in obtaining money and other facilities for a privately-operated school system.

Little Rock Plan Termed Invalid

U. S. Government Files Motion Against Scheme to Lease Schools

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The federal government said today the Little Rock School Board's leasing plan for opening the city's high schools on a segregated basis is invalid.

★ ★ ★

The government said this in a motion filed with the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals. Filing as amicus curiae, Latin for friend of the court, the government supported the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, which has asked for an injunction forbidding the leasing of the schools to the Little Rock Private School Corp.

"It is now as plain as day that there is no alternative to compliance with the law and that no schemes or devices for operating public schools on a segregated basis can hope to succeed," the 25-page brief said.

★ ★ ★

The government said it is high time for the courts "to call a halt to any further dilatory and obstructionist actions which have no legal sanction but which can nonetheless cause delay and produce needless further litigation."

★ ★ ★

The government asserted U.S. Dist. Judge John Miller has the power to grant an injunction against the school board preventing the leasing to the private organization. The NAACP has petitioned for this injunction.

Colorful Plan to Recover Stolen Netting Is Devised

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Building Material Dealers Assn. of California is setting its own net for thieves who stole thousands of dollars worth of wire netting recently.

About 70 association members agreed to paint their wire netting a distinctive color to help police trace it.

Corpse at Bank Has Job of Waking Up Voters

BELDING (UPI)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce, in an effort to spur vote registration, placed a dummy corpse in front of a bank with a message reading:

"Might as well be dead on election day . . . I'm not registered."

The Day in Birmingham

Book Fair Opens Monday at Derby Junior High

BIRMINGHAM—Beginning Monday, Derby Junior High School will open a four-day Book Fair.

Sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Assn., the annual event is held to increase the number of books in the school library through donations and from money from the sale of books, according to Mrs. Thelma Dinkeloo, publicity chairman.

Direct purchases and orders may be made during the last two days of the sale only. The first two days are just for browsing.

Books displayed but not in stock will be delivered Dec. 1, Mrs. Dinkeloo said.

Bennett T. Robertson, scoutmaster of Troop B25, Pembroke School, has invited boys and their parents to the troop meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the school.

Sponsored by the Birmingham Kiwanis Club, the troop has several openings for former cub scouts, transfers from other troops and new members, Robertson said.

Clyde H. Mulhern is the assistant scoutmaster.

Therapeutic swimming classe, sponsored by the Birmingham Recreation Dept., are being held from 7 to 8 Wednesday evenings at Barnum School pool for 30 weeks.

Miss Dorothy Young, the instructor, said enrollment can be made at the Recreation office in the City Hall.

What, Me Worry?

Is That a Gas Gauge?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — When patrolman Irby Sawyer came upon a stalled car on a busy street during the afternoon rush Friday he stopped to help.

He got in, turned on the ignition, looked at the gas gauge. It read empty.

"Lady," he said, "I'm sorry, but your tank's empty."

★ ★ ★

"Officer," she said hopefully, "will it hurt anything if I just drive it home like that?"

Olaf Can Relax Now

Red Eyes Are O.K. for Walrus

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) — You'd be red-eyed too if you were a walrus, the New York Aquarium has discovered after two years of puzzlement.

★ ★ ★

Olaf is the only walrus in captivity in the Western Hemisphere. He's fat (1,200 pounds) and sassy and in apparently good health, but his eyes always have that monumental hangover look. They're crimson and bleary looking.

"We knew he'd not been on a binge," said aquarium Director Christopher Coates Friday. "And we knew he was getting plenty of sleep. But we couldn't figure out what was wrong with his eyes."

When they called in a veterinarian, the latter threw up his hands and said, "What do I know about walrus eyes?"

Coates brought his own opthalmologist to the Coney Island site. While they dangled a bucket of dead fish over Olaf, the doctor inspected the eyes and prescribed a salve. An infection in one eye, which had been swollen half shut, was cleared up. But both orbs remained bloodshot.

★ ★ ★

Someone got the bright idea of asking up Alaska way, where Olaf came from.

The answer came back from the Alaskan Fish and Game Service: Bleary red eyes are par for the course in walruses.

But we're probably not through with Olaf. Coates is worried about something else. Olaf, he says, "keeps sucking the paint off the walls of his tank, and is trying to take the caulking out of the windows."

Okay, Alaskan Fish and Game Service: What about that?

CATALINA SPORTS COUPE — Reflecting ultra-modern design from every angle, this 1959 Pontiac Catalina sports coupe is expected to win wide popularity in the lower-priced, high-volume Catalina series. A wheel track nearly five inches wider for handling ease and safety, a new high-performance Tempest 420-V-8 engine, new, heavier true-contour brakes and a completely redesigned chassis frame are among Pontiac's 65 brand new features.

STAR CHIEF FOUR-DOOR—Exemplifying Pontiac's complete departure from conventional design is the 1959 Pontiac Star Chief four-door sedan. Two other models are offered in this series; a startling new four-door Vista hardtop and a two-door sport sedan. Each are distinguished by four emblematic stars along the rear quarter area, a chromed "Star Chief" name plate on the rear fenders, a special deck lid ornament, large, gleaming wheel discs, deluxe steering wheel, electric clock, two instrument panel ash trays and exclusive interior trim in nylon faced fabrics and Jewel-tone Morrokide.

BONNEVILLE SAFARI — Tops in Pontiac's station wagon offerings for the coming year is this superbly styled and richly appointed 1959 Bonneville four-door, two-seat Safari. Like other Bonneville models it has such standard equipment items as a passenger assist rail mounted on the padded instrument panel, courtesy lamps, electric clock, aluminum seat end and side panels and door reflectors for night safety. The entire cargo area is finished in luxurious Lurex flecked carpeting protected by heavy duty metal skid strips. Other floor areas have the same loop pile carpeting, while headlining is vinyl coated fabric in a star pattern. Seats are upholstered with Jewel-tone Morrokide in a wide range of striking color combinations to match exterior finishes in magic-mirror acrylic lacquer, standard this year on all Pontiac models.

Killing Woman Stirs British Ire

Troops Bare Mail Fist in Dealing With Greeks on Troubled Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Greek reports from Famagusta said today 1 to 6 persons have been killed and about 300 injured in a "gloves-off" British roundup of suspects in the terror-murder of an English woman.

British authorities denied there had been any brutality, or that anyone had died as a result of rough handling by security forces. They conceded, however, that at least 150 persons had been injured.

The government instructed British civilians to store enough food to last for six days and to stay home as much as possible while the manhunt is in progress. Motorists with curfew passes were warned to drive at a snail's pace or risk being shot at by road guards.

Two gunmen, described by eyewitnesses as "boys in black," shot and killed one woman shopper on the streets of Cyprus yesterday and seriously injured another woman who was with her.

"They are not using kid-glove methods," a police source said grimly.

Reliable sources in Famagusta said that at least two persons picked up for questioning later turned up dead in the city mortuary. One was said to have been dead on arrival at the police station.

Underground grenadiers and gunmen have murdered scores of British men in past months, but yesterday's attack was the first known to have been deliberately directed against women. The pregnant wife of a British government clerk was slain some time ago, but she was with her husband.

Yesterday's murder victim, Mrs. Catherine Cunliffe, was the wife of a British sergeant and the mother of five children.

Avondale Group to Sponsor Fall Fashion Show

AVONDALE—The Avondale Education Assn. will sponsor a fall fashion show at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Avondale High School.

Teachers and students will model the latest in 1958 fashions for both men and women. Featured will be fashions from De Cor and Hub Clothiers in Pontiac.

Additional entertainment will be provided by Cooper's Dancing School and Avondale students.

Proceeds from the fashion show will go into the association's scholarship fund.

Tickets may be purchased from students or at the door. Refreshment will be available.

Guest of Honor to Speak at Clarkston Garden Club

CLARKSTON — Mrs. Clarence Johnson of Farmington will be guest of honor at the October meeting of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club. She will speak on "Michigan Miles to Remember."

The meeting will be held Monday at 1 p.m. in the home of Mrs. John DeLind on 77 E. Washington St. Mrs. Frank Lambert and Mrs. H. L. Garter are cohostesses for the event.

The club also will sponsor its annual rummage sale at the Community Center Building, Oct. 10 and 11. Proceeds will go into the club's scholarship fund.

New Baptist Church Now Serving Troy

TROY—A new church, known a Trinity Baptist, has been formed in Troy under the Rev. Thomas M. Hall of Clawson, pastor.

Since the first service on Sept. 7, membership has grown to 37. Meetings are held at Johnson-Niles School on Square Lake road, west of Livernois road.

The Rev. Hall attended Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C., and will graduate in January from the Midwestern Baptist Seminary in Pontiac. He and his wife, Jean, have a one-year-old daughter.

The schedule of services and activities follows:

Sunday School, 10 a.m.; Sunday morning worship, 11 a.m.; Baptist Youth fellowship, 6:15 p.m., and evening service, 7 p.m.

Visitation is at 7 p.m. Tuesdays and prayer meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

There is junior church for children under 12 years of age during the Sunday morning worship service, as well as a nursery.

New members are welcome, the Rev. Hall said.

$100 in Stolen Pants

Thieves broke into the home of Arthur Foster, 299 W. Columbia Ave., yesterday afternoon and took a pair of trousers containing his wallet with $100, he reported to Pontiac Police.

Hold Rally Day at West Bloomfield

To Reveal Camp Program

WEST BLOOMFIELD — Highlights of the Rally Day program at West Bloomfield Baptist Church, 4900 Orchard Lake Rd. Sunday morning at 10 will be the announcement of the camp scholarship program, promotion to new classes and a flannelgraph presentation by Mrs. J. Richard Muntz.

Details of the camp scholarship program, to be inaugurated Oct. 12, will be given to each junior, junior high and senior high pupil of the Sunday School.

By individual attainments in the three fields of Sunday School attendance, church attendance and Scripture memorization, the pupil may earn his entire way to one of the Conservative Baptist Assn. of Greater Detroit summer camps.

New members of the Sunday school may begin the program without penalty up to Nov. 2.

Promotion certificates will be awarded to each pupil graduating to a higher age department. Recognition of the church school staff will take place at a social to be held in their honor Friday, Oct. 12.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Muntz will present a story entitled, "The Little Green Ball."

Music for the morning will be in charge of Walter W. Morrow, assistant chairman of the Board of Christian Education.

★ ★ ★

Completing the morning will be a message at 11, by the Rev. J. Richard Muntz on "The Autobiography of the Believer."

Leads Dem Candidates on Door-to-Door Drive

James M. Hare, secretary of State, today led a parade of Democratic candidates from Oakland County through the homes in the Lakeside Housing Project, 535 Branch St., in a voter registration drive sponsored by project officials.

Hare and candidates knocked on every door to check that all qualified voters were registered to vote in the Nov. 4 election. Monday is the deadline for registration.

Pontiac's Victor Borge Is Happy Comic at Last

By WILLIAM GLOVER

But the man himself is content — at last.

"Until not too long ago I didn't think I could be happy," says the famous funnyman. "Then I suddenly found I could."

Borge makes the comment as he analyzes some causes and effects of one of the show world's most remarkable careers. (He is being sponsored on television this season by the Pontiac Motor Division).

The unmelancholy Dane is a combination king of comics and man of commerce — and a do-it-yourself specialist.

"I am the only performer in the world today who all by himself can make what he wants. A million a year? Fifty thousand a week? You name it."

He talks in the flat, impersonal manner of an auditor at a ledger as he dissects the drives and feelings which keep him moving with the dexterous alacrity of a man on a tightrope with a tiger by the tail.

Since setting Broadway's all-time record for a one-man show with his "Comedy in Music" a couple of seasons back, Borge has been smashing records from Las Vegas to London.

His 1958 travels total a half million miles; one "intimate" concert drew 92,000; and in England the BBC let him utterly disrupt programming by running overtime 19 minutes.

Although at times Borge seems eager to attempt more and more within each 24 hours, he carefully avoids too many visits to television. He holds one of TV's biggest contracts with Pontiac Motor — but like everything else in Borge's one-man professional life, it is designed to his specifications.

"I don't want to do TV for income, but simply to establish myself with the largest possible audience at one time — and hope that they remember me," he says.

Victor is committed to one show per season, but may do more if he wants to; and what the sponsor gets on that show—Borge alone or Borge with symphony orchestra and supporting cast — rests with him. His network appearance this year is set for Nov. 29.

As usual, he is presently working out the details for that show while at the same time making personal appearances, devising new material (he thinks up his own humor, does his own musical arrangements among other items) and supervising his various business undertakings.

"The most difficult part of it all is switching from one subject to another," he declares.

Alcan Highway Tops for Scenery and Dust

By JO ANN SLOANE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A combination of dust and some of the most magnificent scenery in the world—that's the 1,500-mile Alaska highway from Dawson Creek, Canada, to Fairbanks, Alaska.

George Burns, an American Automobile Association field reporter, gave this description of the long drive in informal reports to AAA headquarters here.

He said he encountered so much dust that in different areas it had different flavors. But he said the dust does little to detract from the importance and scenery of the major overland route to what will some day become the union's 49th state.

The highway, originally called the Alcan, was built by the United States in 1942 to get supplies to airfields on the flying route between this country and Alaska. More than 10,000 army engineers and 6,000 civilian workers built the gravel road in the unbelievable time of seven months.

Burns said the highway is 60 feet wide "with the gravel so ground and imbedded in the earth that it almost looks as solid and hard-packed as pavement."

"It isn't pavement, though," he wrote. "One major difference is dust."

The AAA repreesntative said "every car trails a plume of dust almost a quarter mile long, nearly the width of the highway and about 25 feet high, depending on wind and dryness."

"When you get caught in another car's dust trail, you suffocate through your rolled-up windows, peer anxiously if futilely to penetrate the fog beyond the hood of your car, then just sigh a prayer that there's nothing ahead as you decelerate and wait resignedly for the cloud to dissipate.

"So you follow other cars, of course, at an exaggerated distance, and when one approaches to pass you, you slow almost to a stop until he's well ahead and you're out of his smoke, to resume your speed."

Burns said when an oncoming auto is spotted, a driver must "roll your windows tight, fix in your memory a picture of the highway ahead as it looked when you could see it, muse as you glance at the approaching dust cloud how many cars are hidden behind it, and suddenly, plunge in."

Offsetting the dust, mosquitoes, bumps and general driving fatigue, Burns reported, is some of the most beautiful scenery in the world.

"I believe if you pointed your camera out the car window and snapped the shutter every few minutes without even looking, you'd get a series of spectacular picturees," he wrote.

He said there are "lakes, mountains, rivers, forests, then another mountain. It's a never-ceasing, unfolding wonder. Soon the size and extent of it have a hypnotic effect. You're living in a world of unreality."

Musicians Constant in Wooing Fine Food

NEW YORK (AP)—If music be the food of love, as Shakespeare supposed, then food has ever remained the love of musicians.

At least a dozen restaurants in New York mark the spot where Enrico Caruso refueled after a performance with a brace of brook trout paysanne washed down with a few goblets of dusty Chablis and a foam-crested schooner or two of old Duesseldorf.

Paderewski, we are told, always included a personal chef in his entourage to orchestrate a menu befitting the well-attuned taste buds of the master. Mozart, Toscanini and Spike Jones have been known to treat an overdone breast of partridge with the scorn reserved for a squeaky chair beneath the first violin.

Although carrier-class divas have disappeared from the stage of the Metropolitan and today's reigning prima donnas prepare for a concert by trilling off a few pounds at the nearest slenderelizing salon, good eating without recourse to calorie counting has not gone out of fashion in the music world.

Tenor James Melton, for instance, when not fiddling with old cars, loves to lay in a cargo of risotto Melton, a sauteed smorgasbord compounded of parmesan cheese, chicken broth, long-grain rice, creamy butter and a pinch of saffron.

Rise Stevens, certainly one of the comeliest Carmens in opera history, goes straight from Bizet's bullring to a bout with szegediner gulyas, an Austrian sauerkraut dish that starts out with two pounds of beef, veal and pork and goes up the supermarket scale from there.

Pianist Eugene List works off keyboard tensions over a steaming platter of barbecued spareribs Verneda; basso Giorgio Tozzi hits bottom with a ballast of spaghetti alla Carbonara. Zino Francescatti still finds room under his chin for the violin after running through several takes of ratatouille Nicoise, a gourmet's double concerto for eggplant and zucchini.

The result is "Encore," an unusual cookbook published this month by Random House and illustrated with pen drawings by Antal Dorati, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony.

Lawn Mowers End 100-Year Sheep Era

WARREN, R.I. (UPI)—The purchase of lawn mowers has marked the end of an era in Warren. Since 1854, flocks of sheep were used to keep the grass trimmed at the historic North Burial Ground.

Transporation problems have been cited as the reason for replacing the molars with mowers. Says Fred Jannitto, member of the Massasoit Historical Society: "We'd have to get the sheep . . . then take them back."

Big Birthday Wishes

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — The surviving member of the four Day brothers —of "Life With Father" fame — is no piker when it comes to birthday wishes. On his 82nd birthday, George Parmly Day wished for $1,000,000—but promised that if he got it the money would go to "the cause of book publishing at Yale University."

Tourist-class versions of jetliners will have six-abreast seating—but with more shoulder and legroom than the two-abreast seating on the fanciest piston aircraft.

U. S. and Britain Ask for Priority

Pressing U. N. to Move Talks on Disarmament Ahead on Agenda

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Britain and the United States pressed today to give the crucial disarmament question top priority in the U.N.'s main political committee.

The two Western powers have been working up a resolution which reportedly would throw the support of the 81-nation General Assembly behind the big three meeting in Geneva Oct. 31 on working out a nuclear test ban.

The political committee, which handles the Assembly's major problems, is slated to begin work Wednesday. Its tentative agenda has placed Korea, outer space and Algeria ahead of disarmament, but diplomats felt there would be little opposition to moving up the disarmament debate.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold has been pressing to have the arms talks here as soon as possible on the ground that the U.N. debate would give momentum to the Geneva parley.

He has proposed that the Geneva talks be placed under U.N. sponsorship.

FIRE PREVENTION IS A CONTINUING RESPONSIBILITY OF EVERYONE!

Fire Prevention Week OCT. 5-11

But Here Is a WARNING on FIRE PREVENTION SCHEMES

From time to time, fire extinguishers have been offered to the public which have proved to be useless and even dangerous. Extinguishers should be purchased only from firms or known reliability.

Salesmen for home fire alarm systems have sometimes gained entrance into homes by posing as "OFFICIAL INSPECTORS," or by alleging that they wish to make "FIRE PREVENTION TALKS." Once they have secured entrance to the home, they frequently use "SCARE TACTICS" and "HORROR PICTURES," in an effort to frighten the home owner into making an immediate purchase of the equipment being offered by the salesman.

Polio Epidemic Seems Easing

Detroit, Wayne County Record Drop in Cases Starting Yesterday

DETROIT (AP) — City health officials report Detroit's polio epidemic appears to be easing off.

Dr. Albert G. Molner, health director for Detroit and Wayne County, said nine cases—six in Detroit and three in outlying sections of Wayne County—continued a downward trend in the incidence rate. The cases were reported yesterday.

A total of 680 polio cases with 16 deaths has been reported in the metropolitan Detroit area so far this year, compared with 219 cases and two deaths last year.

Dr. Molner said the recent rate of new cases was only about half the 17 reported at the peak of the polio outbreak several weeks ago.

Of Detroit's 523 cases this year, 224 of the persons had been inoculated with Salk vaccine. Only 60 of those with one or more shots contracted paralytic polio, Dr. Molner said. Of 229 who had no shots, 189 were paralytic.

He said statistics on the outbreak indicated the Salk vaccine was "very much effective and, as far ar paralytic polio is concerned, weights the odds in favor of those who have had the shots."

Eggs May Give Heart Attacks, Claims Doctor

DETROIT (AP) — Persons who like two or three eggs for breakfast may be increasing their chances of suffering a heart attack in the opinion of Dr. Frank B. Kelly Jr. of Chicago.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Kelly, who has been doing research on the relationship of cholesterol and hardening of the arteries, told the Michigan State Medical Society yesterday eggs have the highest cholesterol content of dairy products.

★ ★ ★

One egg, he said, contains as much cholesterol as one-quarter pound of butter. The Chicago physician recommended lean meats as a substitute for the morning egg.

Twin Babies Die in Detroit Fire

3-Year-Old Accidentally Starts Blaze Soon After Parents Leave House

DETROIT (AP) — While their father was at a welfare office seeking food and their mother was at a neighbor's soliciting laundry, twin 5-month-old boys died in a fire that raced through their frame home on Detroit's lower east side yesterday.

A 3-year-old brother started the fire. He said he tossed a crumpled piece of paper on a gas stove. The pilot light ignited the paper and he snatched it off, flinging it into a wastebasket which flared and quickly spread flames.

The victims were Eric and Derric Age, sons of Thurman Age, 41, and his wife, Aretha, 29. Their other children, Brenda, 4; Thurman Jr., 3, who set the blace, and Ronnie, 1, escaped. The twins were asleep in a bedroom.

Mrs. Age said she had left not more than five minutes before to solicit washing from a neighbor. Age was away to pick up a food order at a welfare office.

Mrs. Age said Brenda came screaming to her: "Mommie, the house is on fire."

The mother raced home, but flames beat back her attempts to reach the twins. They stymied firemen, too, who arrived minutes later.

Sob-racked little Thurman met his returning father outside the ruins, crying: "I'm sorry, Daddy." Thurman Sr. patted the boy's back.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — An irate auto dealer decided to test a parking lot's ban on 1959 Cadillacs on grounds they are too big for the ramps.

Argentine Students Riot

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Rioting university students stoned police last night and halted street car and bus traffic in downtown Buenos Aires early today in a wild protest against Congress's action legalizing private universities in Argentina.

Polio Spread in Oakland Still Low, With 37 Cases

There are no signs of a polio epidemic in Oakland County at the present time, according to Dr. John D. Monroe, county health director.

Thirty-seven cases have been reported to the health department this year, as against 27 cases last year, with two deaths. There have been no deaths this year. Ten of the 1958 cases have been paralytic-type polio and eight of these ten persons had no Salk vaccine.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Monroe said physicians are divided on value of a fourth vaccine shot. "Some feel a fourth shot as a booster is advisable," he said, "while others feel three are sufficient. In each case the individual's physician should decide."

★ ★ ★

He said the fourth shot would do no harm and could possibly give added protection. When used it usually is given about a year and a half after the first three shots.

Dr. Monroe said his chief concern was to have everyone in the county take the basic three shots.

It Seems to Me . . .

It's Time for Dulles to Take Some Giant Steps Backwards

Probably the whole civilized world is a little jittery over the situation at Formosa and Quemoy. As time passes, I'm beginning to believe that JOHN FOSTER DULLES has slowly inched this nation into a position that most of his own people regret intensely.

★ ★ ★

The United States continues to strengthen and reinforce our tremendous striking power and fortifications on Formosa. In fact, The United States News calls it "the Gibraltar of the Pacific."

But what happens?

The Communist Reds continue to shell Quemoy unmercifully. There's sufficient U. S. power a few miles away to stop this cold, but if we do, we will probably find ourselves engaged in a first class, A-1 shooting war with the Chinese Reds directly and with Russian Reds en route.

★ ★ ★

Shall we stand by with all this tremendous military might and see Quemoy riddled, day and night? That's what's happening. The Chinese artillery is laying Quemoy waste. It's a merciless, methodical and unending action. There are about 125,000 Chinese Nationalists on Quemoy. Some 80,000 of these are troops — helpless troops with nothing to do but watch their provisions dwindle and a few more hapless comrades fall before the incessant fire.

★ ★ ★

If the Reds don't lift the blockade — or if the U. S. doesn't step in — Quemoy is strictly for the birds.

It can't last the winter.

If this country took all-out action, the Chinese Reds would be knocked for a goal. BUT — the Russians might accept this as an invitation to wade right in, swinging with both hands and that suggests nuclear action. The Japs describe Formosa "as the unsinkable aircraft carrier" of the Pacific." I wonder.

That means full scale war.

I can't help but think the 170,000,000 people in the United States are overwhelmingly opposed to this. Is our debt to the Chinese Nationalists that great? I understand the fundamental question goes much deeper but THERE'S A LIMIT. Should we jeopardize our whole prosperity in a full scale war with Russia?

Who says "yes?"

★ ★ ★

At best, it's a faint and indistinguishable whisper; and I think JOHN FOSTER D. and the President had better start doing some heavy home work on face-saving devices that will let them back out of this hornet's nest. Mr. DULLES should have told CHIANG to get his troops out of Quemoy. But he listened when he should have talked, thus perpetrating ROOSEVELT's favorite error.

★ ★ ★

This newspaper has said repeatedly that 170 million of us can't feed, police, clothe and educate the two and a half billion people in the world. We haven't the resources by miles and miles and miles. We haven't the men, the money — or the means.

★ ★ ★

There are 600 million Chinese. No one in the world knows what 500 million of these would do. Would they stick with the Nationalists — or go with the Reds? At the risk of getting hooted down, I venture the opinion that 99 per cent of these 500 million don't even know the real, underlying principles on either side. Millions and millions don't even know there's shooting afoot. Only one per cent are Communists now. But that doesn't mean the balance are anti-Communists. They don't know themselves what they are.

★ ★ ★

I'd also wager that the first side that offers them a real dinner, some suitable clothes and a promise of steady meals for a week would have the entire horde. How can you bring about "order" in a mess like this?

★ ★ ★

Mr. Dulles, as one American I earnestly adjure you to start figuring how to get yourself and the nation out of this. Employ the time-honored, Oriental device of face-saving. If you can't save it all, John, save what you can. Let's go back to throwing things at the moon and giving little, white mice great big rides into outer space. Expensive though this is, it's more economical than maintaining the enormous force you have concentrated on Formosa. And not even a Russian would start a war because our little Mickey Mouse rode higher than his.

★ ★ ★

We don't want to.

Let's try staying home and seeing what happens.

Let's mind our own business.

★ ★ ★

Today, in too many instances, it seems as though the minorities are becoming the bosses. The majorities are passed by. The wishes of the great bulk of the people should stand paramount. In our zealous desire to accord minorities full consideration, we mustn't forget the majorities.

★ ★ ★

Little Rock is an example. Some of our foreign policy is, also. And don't forget the Supreme Court.

There are many others.

And in Conclusion:

Jottings from the well thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Sign on a Cadillac in New York: "No one told us the answers."..... ....Pro football coaches admit in private that WILLIE GALIMORE of the Bears is the greatest in the past 10 years.....Princess MARGARET's haul on her recent Canadian tour is estimated at $200,000 — presents which she carts home tax free — Secretary of Labor JAMES MITCHELL is rumored as NIXON's running mate .....EDDIE FISHER's sponsor is eying public opinion very sharply and if the wind blows the wrong way, EDDIE's gonna be out in the street in his undies.....Both sides at Quemoy went kittenish on the newspaper men and clammed up. The boys mentioned "secret convoys" which were already within range of enemy radars on both sides. Now they've "relented."

Overheard in a Riker elevator: "The only thing really wrong with TV is the programs."..... A secret operative says the surprise of the hockey season will be the Chicago Blackhawks..... Roger Kyes tells me he underwent a complete physical recently and was given a clean bill of health in all particulars. This is good news for everyone..... Personal note to C. E. Wilson: Danton Walker says Neil McElroy wants "out.".....

The City Hospital's acquisition of Dr. JOHN MARRA in his new capacity is a ten strike for the City, the hospital and the doctors. The good physician has a happy personality, great ability and will make a very capable executive in his not-too-easy position.. .....When ORVAL FAUBUS campaigned currently, he flew the Confederate Flag, used "Dixie" as his campaign song "and gloried in his use of troops to defy the courts." It's amazing how low you can get if you try hard..... ....HORTON BARKER says JOHN F. GORDON, new GM prexy, and President DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER are look-alikes. They sure are. (Memo to my gal Friday, (LILLIAN HOARD): please mark this item and mail to FRANK J. STARZEL, General Manager of the Associated Press. If pictures substantiate the idea, it's a jim-dandy feature for use across the country.)

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

The faith of the frail little lady gave her the strength and the courage to cross many oceans, the snowy peaks of the Andes, and to go down into the shafts with the miners.

She came from Italy to America at the turn of the century to work among the immigrant miners and went on to establish schools, hospitals and orphanages on three continents.

She established the Columbus Hospital in New York City, schools in Newark and the Bronx, a mission for Italian miners in Colorado, a settlement in New Orleans, an orphanage in England, schools in Nicaragua and the Argentine, as well as convents, homes, kindergartens and a church in other lands.

Her name was Mother Cabrini. Now it is St. Frances Xavier Cabrini. On July 7, 1946, she was canonized the first United States saint.

Days of All Faiths

Protestants Face Very Busy Month

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

The whole month of October is a time of intense activity for American Protestants, as represented by the National Council of Churches. Something is going on all the time:

Tomorrow is World Wide Communion Sunday; beginning next Sunday is Churchmen's Week; after that comes World Order Sunday; and finally, on the 29th Reformation Sunday. All of which will be described and discussed in this column as they come along.

One reason why October should be such a big month for the Protestants is that it is the anniversary month of the Protestant Reformation, which Martin Luther let loose upon the world on October 31, 1517.

Another is the practical fact that in our part of the world all family and community life is just now getting itself reorganized after the long summer letdown, and these special events are intended to bring people back into normal church habits quickly.

Most Protestant denominations, not only in America but all over the world, hold a special service of Holy Communion or Lord's Supper on this first Sunday in October, each according to its own customs and ritual. They have done this since 1936, and the observance has spread now to more than 50 countries.

DR. BRADY

Answer — The Montreal chemist is way ahead of the recognized nutrition and medical authorities, both in his assumption that vitamin E affects sterility or fertility in man and in his ability to make the syndicated press service. But let's not worry about unimportant things—bring on another helping of that smacking good pea soup, with Johnnycake on the side.

★ ★ ★

"You may send along any pamphlets you have on the various aspects of sex instruction, sex hygiene, etc . . . (J. F.)"

Answer—Write either The Child Study Association of America, 211 W. 57th St., New York 19, N. Y., or The American Institute of Family Relations, 5287 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles 27, Calif., for their lists.

"Brother has fallen arches, he believes, altho X-ray reveals no misplaced bones—many specialists have failed to help—can hardly walk, so painful—crawls around on hands and knees when home, taking shots for arthritis . . . (Mrs. T. R.)"

Answer—Any doctor—that is, any doctor of medicine, who has examined your brother can form a more intelligent opinion of what ails him than I can.

"My hair is beginning to turn gray at 35. I thought of trying your vitamin B complex and iodine ration to prevent premature graying. My doctor said he would not advise any one, healthy or otherwise, to use such things. (Mrs. C. L. T.)"

Answer—I do not believe any one is ever injured by the iodin ration, and ditto for an optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex. For instructions send stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for the free pamphlet, "Iodin Ration."

★ ★ ★

"Please state which is less irritating to the eye, plain water or salt water. (E. O. H.)"

Answer—Rounded teaspoonful of salt in pint of water makes the least irritating eye water.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Refuses to Bow Before Hypocrites

Bert criticizes me. But I am a moralizing educator who places the ultimate good of children above my own gluttony. To get the point, read this case more fully and then ask yourself: Who else in America keeps warning youth against liquor and tobacco? Over 70,000,000 non-church folks read no church papers, so this newspaper serves as their moral "Bible."

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane, why don't you omit cases about liquor and tobacco," he admonished, as he was driving me to the Country Club for dinner.

DR. CRANE

"After all, you have plenty of other psychological problems to discuss without stepping on the corns of people who take a highball.

"Just today, for instance, one of your medical admirers told me he wished you'd quit mentioning alcohol, for he liked to drink a little.

CONSCIENCE TWINGES

When I moved from the college lecture room to the broader educational field of the newspaper, I still remained an educator.

I am not writing this column primarily for fat oldsters, but for starry-eyed teenagers and even grade schoolers who have the world ahead of them.

As the father of five youngsters, and an active worker in the Boy Scouts, the YMCA and the church, I feel an obligation to youth.

So if I cause the consciences of some of you oldsters to twinge, then act like an adult and take your medicine!

Every intelligent adult knows that a lot of high pressure advertising is trying to stampede our youth into slavery to various bad habits.

Scientists of various sorts, including our modern physicians, are constantly citing the damage of alcohol and tobacco not only to health but also to safety.

If you yourself now smoke or drink, at least be honest enough to encourage us educators who try to warn your children to avoid such bad habits.

HYPOCRITES

Alas, we have a great many hypocrites in America, and a lot of them are educated men.

Because they happen to fall into a bad habit, they don't want anybody to mention liquor or tobacco lest their own consciences twinge.

In my own case, I admit that I am overweight. But I don't criticize any columnist who vetoes obesity!

Not at all! I am glad to see him try to prevent young folks from following my own bad example, for I know our job is to place the torch of truth in front of teenagers.

But a publisher in Texas cancelled this column of mine because he liked to go on a binge on Saturday night, so he felt angry at my warning teenagers against whisky!

That is hypocrisy. And you encounter it almost every time a smoking doctor tries to tell you that tobacco doesn't cause lung cancer or heart trouble.

If that doctor were honest, why would he take his cardiac patients off tobacco, as almost every medic in America has done for 50 years?

Such a doctor is an intellectual coward. He refuses to face the fact that he is harming his own health by his addiction to tobacco.

So he tries to anesthetize his conscience by denying the facts. And he doesn't want me to tell the truth, lest his sleeping conscience then awaken.

For example, if he were positive tobacco or liquor did no harm, then why should be grow alarmed? He could ignore my columns thereon.

But he knows I am scientifically correct, but emotionally he wants to hoodwink himself, so he tries to stop me from revealing the truth.

You readers need to take inventory now, and not wait till January 1st. Are you planting roses where thistles grew before, as Lincoln phrased it?

Are you helping the oncoming generation attain the more abundant life or are you placing stumbling blocks in front of the pattering feet of the oncoming toddlers?

Voice of the People

'Why Are Teenage Gangs Allowed to Run Streets?'

What's happening to the city policemen, judges, juvenile officers, etc.? I know of several instances when gangs had nothing to do but disturb decent citizens at night by shooting firecrackers, having beer parties, using vulgar language, swearing, stealing hubcaps, racing hot rods up and down the streets and in and out of drive-ways all night.

★ ★ ★

They carry knives, threaten people, even small children. The boys age from 13 to 18 and several girls that are with them are 13 to 16. They've all been reported to the juvenile officers and nothing is done. You hardly feel safe to go to sleep with 10 to 15 of these hoodlums in your drive-way and all around your house at 2 and 3 a.m. It's certainly encouraging juvenile delinquency to let these things take place.

★ ★ ★

If police would pick up these gangs and either put them in jail until they learn how to act or fine their parents a large fine everytime they're caught on the streets at night like this, it might slow them down. If something were done I think Pontiac would be a much nicer place to live, and I'm sure everyone will agree.

Puzzled

'Improved Service Answer for Buses'

Why is the Pontiac bus line in such bad shape? It's because it needs management. They want only profits without service. I can remember when we loaded the buses down so the driver had to drive in fourth gear to pull the load, at five cents per fare.

★ ★ ★

Well, we know that is in the past, but there isn't a working person in Pontiac that has had a 300 per cent increase in wages in the last 20 years, and I doubt if bus drivers have. So why doesn't some person with capital and a little bit of enterprise try and line up this so-called bus line and teach them that service first will bring profits later.

★ ★ ★

Our bus lines make no effort to pick up fares. They just whine and say they have no business and any intelligent person can see why, if they live out on the outskirts of Pontiac.

I see the Democrats are up in the air because someone had the nerve to start a "hate campaign" against Walter Reuther.

Why, that's old stuff. The whole theme of my husband's union paper (which is usually tossed in the wastebasket unread) is hatred. We're told to hate General Motors, the President of the United States and the Republican party. Of course, we're supposed to love all Democrats, and always vote a straight Democratic ticket.

There are just a couple of little things they overlook. We may be just factory people, but we're living in the United State, not Russia, and we have minds of our own.

'Far East Unrest Threat to Us All'

We should all stand behind the President to hold our position in the Far East, whether we're Democrat or Republican. It involves a threat to the whole nation. Wake up and fight the spiritual and intellectual battle before we are overwhelmed. Just being sick of war doesn't stop it and we can't just wish it away. Better to die in atomic fire than live under slavery of the spirit. One would kill only bodies, but under Red slavery they would try to kill the souls of our children.

I'd like to tell VOP letter writer R.J.C. that thousands and thousands of people daily would rather he or she sat there at the light for an hour rather than to block the main artery every few seconds. Traffic must be run for the masses and not to suit a few individuals. Raeburn traffic isn't even a slight trickle compared to the flood going the other way. R.J.C. and the tiny handful that are served should use another street.

'Ike's Plan Is Too Little, Too Late'

President Eisenhower says he will eliminate 47,000 Federal jobs from the tax rolls. This is a fine move but it's too little and too late. The President has let these free loaders hang on entirely too long and this move will save us some cash but it won't save the GOP's neck.

Fuel Bills Start New Round -- Gas vs. Oil

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 46 million homeowners in the United States are facing up today to another economic fact of life—from now on the heating bills will start to mount.

Higher prices this year are likely in many areas as production costs and transportation charges rise. And the chances of price wars benefiting homeowners grows slimmer as more factories reopen and eat into fuel stocks.

But the householders' struggle to get up the approximately five billion dollars to meet this winter's home heating bill is relatively mild compared with the battle among various types of fuel.

Fuel oil dealers claim the biggest share now—almost half. But natural gas has cut in rapidly and now heats around 13 million homes for more than 1½ billion dollars. Coal still holds a market of nearly three million homes and has new heating gadgets out to entice the home owner.

Electrical heating system makers have come up fast and now claim nearly half a million homes. Heat pumps are used by 25,000 homes.

Mostly in the novelty stage now are the homes warmed by solar heat. And in the dream stage is the time when nuclear energy will heat homes.

The battle between fuel oil and gas is pointed up by M. J. Rathbone, president of Jersey Standard Oil, who says, "Natural gas has grown from infant to giant proportions as a competitor" since the war and offers a real challenge to the 40,000 individual oil heating companies in the field.

The National Oilfuel Council says oil's fast postwar growth gives it nine million customers in centrally heated homes and seven million more in noncentrally heated.

The American Gas Assn. predicts that new gas lines will soon bring gas heated homes well above the 13 million mark.

The Anthracite Information Bureau points out that in addition to the nearly three million homes, there are thousands of schools, apartment houses, public buildings and industrial plants to use the 25 million tons expected to be shipped this year.

Electricity's big handicap in the race has been expense. But Commonwealth Edison of Chicago has just put into effect a new low rate for home heating and has a big drive under way. This heating form is most popular in exurbia and in country homes beyond the gas lines. But Commonwealth officials say they are also gaining customers in Chicago because of the reported ease and cheapness of installation.

Detroit Edison has exhibited in 15 shows and fairs in its campaign to further electric heating, which utilities in general see as a means of leveling off demand loads. The new winter business somewhat balances the summer demand for electric run coolers. Numerous utilities also are trying hard to sell electric heaters to the churches and schools rising in numbers around the land.

But this season the big battle is still between fuel oil and natural gas, with price and convenience and availability among the talking points.

Camper's Tent Kits Include Kitchen Sink

SOUTH GATE, Cal. — A new camper's tent kit marketed by a South Gate concern has everything—even the kitchen sink.

It contains a lightweight tent, four cots and sleeping bags, four chairs, a counter that serves as a table and a sink with running water, and a gas stove for cooking. Water is drawn into the from a storage tank.

The whole thing is packed in an aluminum carrying case that rides 10 inches above a cartop rack. The case serves as one side of the tent, which has an 8-by-13-foot space 8 feet high, zipper closing door, and two 4-by-5-foot screened windows with zipper closing flaps.

Pilot Leaves Plane Sitting on Street

NEW YORK (AP)—An unidentified pilot made a perfect landing early today on an upper Manhattan street, then fled from the single-engine, two-seater craft.

★ ★ ★

Police said they were seeking for questioning a man who landed a small plane in a city street two years ago.

The plane, with a wingspread of about 40 feet, set down on heavily traveled, 60-foot wide, Amsterdam Avenue at 187th Street.

★ ★ ★

"I saw something coming down. I didn't know what to imagine. I slammed on my brakes and a plane skidded over the top of my car and made a perfect landing ahead of me.

Future of Brazil Lies in Wilderness Capital

President Juscelino Kubitschek believes the future of Brazil, now gripped by depression, lies in unlocking the door to the undeveloped interior. His key: Brasilia, an ultra-modern capital city rising far inland.

By JULIUS GOLDEN

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Deep in the tropical wilderness, a pile-driver slams its shaft home. The clamor of thousands of workers mixes with that of the hammering tools. Red dust floats lazily through tropical air.

A city of ultra-modern buildings is rising here, embodying the hopes for the future of the 63 million people who inhabit this vast land of Brazil.

They call it Brasilia.

Brasilia, the future capital of Brazil, is almost 600 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro — the present capital — in the heart of the tropics. The government will move here officially April 21, 1960 — if all goes well. Only two years ago this was the home of wild animals, poisonous snakes and an occasional adventurous homesteader.

★ ★ ★

Inspired by the almost obsessive dream of President Juscelino Kubitschek, architects, construction workers and laborers have poured their hearts into construction of the new city.

Kubitschek, ignoring those who called Brasilia folly at a time when Brazil's economy is ailing, declared:

"From this central plateau, this solitude which soon will be transformed into a brain of high national decisions, I set eyes once more on the tomorrow on my nation and foresee this dawn with unbreakable faith and limitless confidence for its great destiny."

Brasilia, which will have all conveniences, even U.S. designed golf courses, is laid out in the form of a giant cross, looking much like an airplane with tremendous wings and a small fuselage. It was designed by Lucio Costa, a famous Brazilian architect. The buildings were designed by Oscar Niemeyer, also world-famous.

Many may well ask why Brazil, which already has one of the most beautiful capitals in the world in Rio de Janeiro, should want to move.

Kubitschek said in a recent speech:

"We cannot go on forever being a territory spotted with deserts, with most of the population glued to the seacoast and with the richest zones of our territory abandoned."

Rio itself is overcrowded and fraught with serious problems ranging from traffic to lack of drinking water.

Kubitschek hopes by moving the capital, vast new areas will be opened in the interior. In many ways the move compares with the westward movement of the pioneers in the United States 100 years ago.

The United States has loaned Brazil 10 million dollars to aid in Brasilia's construction.

When the captal is moved in 1960, a vision of the past will become a reality. Even back in the days of the empire — in 1822 — one adviser to the emperor spoke of a new capital in the interior. Since the start of the republic in 1889, successive constitutions have mentioned the new capital.

Meany Will Arbitrate Deck Officers' Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany has agreed to act as arbitr of a strike by deck officers immobilizing American passenger and cargo vessels at ports from Boston to New Orleans.

Meany consented Friday to step into the dispute between 1,300 members of the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union and the American Marine Institute, representing 20 shipping firms.

The strike, which enters its fourth day today, has idled more than 40 ships, including the U.S. Lines's United States and America. Foreign flag vessels and tankers, and some American flag ships which have negotiated contracts with the institute, are not involved.

The Carol Brooks Section of the Pontiac Branch of Needlework Guild has been meeting throughout the year to work on the 75 layettes which the group presents to charity. Discussing plans for the November Ingathering are (left to right) Mrs. Glenn Griffin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ferdinand Gaensbauer, president; and Mrs. William Isgrigg, vice president.

Unit Has 75 Layettes for Guild Ingathering

Yards of soft, cozy flannelette have gone into the many infants' gowns the Carol Brooks Section has been making. Mrs. Bruce Annett (left), sewing chairman, gives Mrs. Palmer Bundy a hand with a bolt of material at the cutting machine.

When the Needlework Guild Ingathering is held in November, members of the Carol Brooks Section will present 75 layettes the group has been sewing during meetings held each month throughout the year.

Each layette given by the organization, contains three gowns, three shirts, two blankets, and 17 diapers. This amounts to a total of 1,875 garments contributed by the 35 members of the section.

★ ★ ★

Officers for this year are Mrs. Ferdinand Gaensbauer, president; Mrs. William S. Isgrigg, vice president; Mrs. Arthur Young, recording secretary; Mrs. Norman Kuijala, treasurer; and Mrs. Glenn Griffin, corresponding secretary.

★ ★ ★

The board of directors is comprised of Mrs. Bruce Annett, Mrs. J. Alfred Hubbard, Mrs. Russell H. Galbraith, Mrs. Milo Cross, Mrs. Donald Nicholie, Mrs. D. B. Eames, Mrs. Vaughn Garrison, Mrs. Harold Euler, Mrs. Herbert Wettlaufer, Mrs. Donald Smith and Mrs. Robert Eldred.

What Did They Talk About?

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: A business acquaintance of my husband's —a man I had never met — dropped in one evening to see my husband, who ushered him into the living room where I was seated and introduced him to me. As the conversation was mostly about business matters and people I did not know, after about fifteen minutes I excused myself, said goodnight and went to my room to read. Afterward, my husband told me that I was very rude to the visitor in having left the room. Was I really rude?"

Answer: If they were having a serious business talk, then you would have been quite right to leave. If they were merely talking casually, it certainly would have been more courteous had you stayed.

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently a group of teen-agers were discussing dating manners. One of them said that it was not good manners for a girl to hold the arm of a boy while walking on the street. Most of them, including myself, disagreed with her and think she is wrong about this. Will you please set us straight?

Answer: When wearing evening dress — especially with high-heeled slippers, or when the street is icy — it is entirely proper for an escort to offer his arm and for the girl to take it. Otherwise, when his assistance is unnecessary she should walk beside him unaided.

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to write a letter to our Governor but am doubtful as to the correct way to address him. Will you help me, please?

Answer: you address the envelope to, "His Excellency The Governer" or "The Honorable John Smith, Governor of . . ." You begin your letter, "Your Excellency" or "Sir." Informal beginning would be "Dear Governer Smith."

How should the ushers be dressed for the wedding? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-3, "Clothes of the Bridal Party," includes the proper dress for daytime and evening weddings. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o this paper. P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

Dem Group Sets 1st Meet

The first meeting of the Oakland County Federation of Democratic Women, a recently organized group for women living in the county, will be held Wednesday evening, according to Mrs. Robert P. Scott, chairman.

Purpose of this initial meeting is to introduce all of the Democratic county candidates to its members. The meeting will be at the Roosevelt Hotel, at 8 p.m.

Married 25 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Gardner of Salmer drive will be feted at an open house in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary at 8 p.m. this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tinson on First avenue. Friends have been invited to attend the affair for the Gardners who were married Oct. 5, 1933.

Roxanne Redlin Marries

Roxanne Helen Redlin, a former Pontiac resident, and Robert Weirauch were married this morning at our Lady Queen of Heaven Church, Detroit.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Julian Redlin and Mrs. Rose A. Franks all of Detroit.

ATTEND BRIDE

Elaine Tuchowski of Detroit was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Carol Zielinski and Virginia Denomme, both of Detroit, and Karin Murphy of Pontiac. All the attendants wore peacock blue velvet dresses with matching feather headpieces.

★ ★ ★

Following a reception in the Whittier Hotel's Coach Room, the couple left for a honeymoon to Colorado. The bride selected a blue green plaid wool Empire dress with black accessories for her going-away outfit.

The couple will live in Detroit.

Acquiring Wrinkles Is Simple

There are lots of rapid ways to acquire wrinkles, if you really work at it. Squinting. Frowning. Compressing your lips. Turning down the corners of your mouth. Raising your eyebrows.

In time, you can wind up looking like a frostbitten apple. And if you want a lined neck, just dig your chin into your collar and keep your book on your lap while you read. By not doing any of these things, you will, of course, miss a good many unnecessary wrinkles. This doesn't mean that you should keep your face expressionless. Heaven forbid.

It just means that nervous and unattractive mannerisms that produce wrinkles are easily avoided. Many times we use these mannerisms without really being aware of them until our mirror calls our attention to them in the form of another new line.

Alumni to See Movie of Game

The color movie of the Michigan - Michigan State football game will be shown when the Michigan State University Club of Oakland County meets Oct. 10. All state alumni have been invited to attend the meeting.

The film will be shown at 8 p.m. at the Glen Oaks Country Club, and will be followed by dancing.

An invitation also has been extnded to all University of Michigan alumni who wish to attend. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Medical Group to See Top Film on Leper Colony

Mrs. Grace Janisz will speak on the subject "Motion Picture Film Editing" and show the International Film Festival award-winning film, "The Touch of His Hand," when the Women's Auxiliary to the Oakland County Medical Society gathers at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at Kinsgley Inn.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Janisz was born in England where she was trained as a film editor in the feature film industry. She came to this country in 1949 and since has been editing films for independent documentary film companies.

The film, "The Touch of His Hand," was taken in a leper colony in Burma and was edited by Mrs. Janisz.

Enola Quigg Weds Frank E. Anderson

Enola M. Quigg and Frank E. Anderson were married Sept. 27 at Baldwin Avenue Church. The Rev. C. Warren Wilson officiated at the evening ceremony.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McEvers. A reception was held in the church parlors following the service. The couple is living on Murphy street.

Love at 14 Not Final — Abby

Take Heart, Mom, This, Too, Will Pass

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: Our 14-year-old daughter returned from summer camp and she is so lovesick over a boy she met from a neighboring camp that it is pitiful. We talk to her and she doesn't hear a thing. She locks herself in her room and plays 'their record' over and over until I think we will lose our minds. She writes to him and lives for the mailman. How can we get her to stop mooning over this boy? Should we try to tease her out of it, talk her out of him, leave her alone or what?"

ABBY

CONCERNED MOM

DEAR MOM: You'll never "talk" a 14-year-old moonstruck girl out of her first big romance. Childish as it may seem to you—it is very real to her. Be a little more sympathetic and perhaps she'll confide in you. As she talks about it she'll come out of her dream-world of memories and back to reality.

"DEAR ABBY: What does a girl say to a boy who keeps after her to "go all the way" to prove her love? I have been raised to be a good girl, but I have gone steady with this same boy for three years and we are very much in love.

"He tells me that if anything happens he will marry me, but he is still going to school and I wouldn't want him to have to quit school to support me. I love him, Abby, but what can I say when he asks me to 'prove my love'?"

ALICE

DEAR ALICE: This line was old when I was young. If the boy is decent and he REALLY loves you, he will love you more than his momentary pleasures. Stay out of tempting situations, give him the straight-arm and the straight answer, "NO!"

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HONEY": If the something OLD is the bridegroom, the something BLUE will be the bride. Think it over, Honey—Money isn't everything.

Barley, Spices Old Time Bath Pepper-Uppers

History records an aesthetic revival of the rite of the bath during the latter half of the 18th century.

★ ★ ★

In those days, bath preparations didn't come all bottled and boxed and ready for use. So, our ingenious ancestors pepped up their baths with such at-hand things as flax, barley, almonds, milk, fruit, juices, and spices.

★ ★ ★

Even fifty years ago, bathtub life was still plain and simple. Among the scenter-uppers used were camomile, elder, peppermint, sage, and thyme, put into linen bags, scalded, pressed, and tossed into the tub.

★ ★ ★

Or, if your tastes so dictated, you could have pine needle essence, cooked bran, oakbark, or sweet-flag.

Infants Need Finger Foods

During this period also provide some finger foods such as long strips of cooked vegetables, peas and lima beans that can be picked up.

An Old Stocking Does the Trick

Usually women travel with slim-skirted items to save room and ironing problems.

However, for full-skirted dresses that require a full petticoat, it's possible to pack the petticoat with little mussing.

Corrective Exercise

Young People Considered Today

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Recently I wrote about how much fun a family could have and how much they could benefit from doing exercises together each day. While the needs of each members are different, the mother, father, son and daughter still could fit their exercises to the same rhythms — and it is much more fun to exercise to music.

I already have given exercises for mother and father. Today let us consider the son and daughter in the family.

Ladies first: Most young girls have a tendency to slump. Therefore, exercises for the correction or prevention of round shoulders are most important for her. The following exercise is a splendid one. The daughter should stand tall with toes pointing forward and arms hanging at her sides.

She should make large circles with her arms, pulling back HARD as her arms move sideward-downward. She continues making large circles. Care should be taken that her head does not protrude forward. In order to avoid this, tilt the head backward and lift the chin slightly. The daughter also could profit by her mother's abdominal exercise.

Now for the young man of the house! Men of all ages are interested in keeping that square shouldered look. Therefore, I think the following exercise will be interesting to the younger generation: Stand tall, raise the arms sideward shoulder-height. Lower the arms about 10 inches, raise the arms back to shoulder-height position. Continue lowering and raising with stiff elbows.

The son also should do his father's push-ups and his mother's abdominal exercises. If he has a tendency to slump, he should indulge in his sister's exercise for round shoulders. However, as a whole, it seems to me that girls are more likely to slump than boys.

The best time exercises could be taken together as a family project will, of course, vary with each family, depending on their interests and commitments. For some families early morning would be best while others might like these just before retiring or just before dinner in the evening. If it is impossible to arrange a convenient time for everyone every day, this might start as a weekend project.

OES Group Meets

Mrs. Theodore Marchbanks was guest at the Thursday meeting of the Griffin Proficiency Club, OES No. 228. The group met at the Oxley drive home of Mrs. Bert Weddle.

Ingrid Bergman's Own Story:

'If I Had It to Do Over Again Would My Life Be Different?'

(Has Ingrid Bergman any regrets for the life she has led? Would she do things differently if she had it all to live over? These are questions the Swedish actress answers today for British newsman Ralph Cooper, who interviewed her over a two-week period in Wales. This the the fourth of five chapters.)

By RALPH COOPER
(For United Press International)

Sitting there on our Welsh mountainside, I asked Ingrid Bergman what she meant when she said she HAD to get away from Hollywood when she did. She already had explained that her marriage to Dr. Peter Lindstrom, though not successful, was "not altogether unhappy."

"I could not stay there any longer grinding out pictures in the same pattern all the time," she said. "I could not go on playing good and beautiful girls all my life . . . I wanted to act everything . . . girls with problems on their minds, difficult girls, prostitutes.

"They told me I was wrong. They told me people loved me because I was one thing to them. 'Stay' and give them what they want,' they pleaded. What? All my life? I just couldn't do it."

"I'm an actor," Ingrid continued, remarking with a little smile, "I always think of myself as an actor, not an actress. I live in a world of make-believe."

This prompted me to ask her, "Are actors people?".

"Of course they are," said Ingrid. "Wonderful, warm-hearted generous people. Larger than life they may be, but that's why they are actors. I don't think they should try and live like Mrs. Jones in her little house with her humdrum life and perhaps limited ideas. Actors should get everything they can out of life."

Should they have different standards to ordinary people . . . are they entitled to be judged differently?

"Certainly not entitled," said Ingrid, "but how do you set standards for anyone? I don't think they should be judged differently . . . if anything the standards should be higher—because the actor has greater responsibilities.

"There are some actors who say 'I am important. I can do this and get away with it—you can't,' but they are only the little ones . . . you don't find the real actors talking that way."

How much does an actor owe to his public? Are they entitled, as some of them seem to think, to own them body and soul?

STAGE IS DIFFERENT

Ingrid replied: "That is perhaps the most difficult question to decide. On the stage you can never come that close . . . the footlights are between you and they always stay between.

"But on the screen you are right in the public's lap . . . they see you in great closeups, they see you in love scenes and in tragedies and they feel they know you very well.

"I think it is really unfair that so much notice should be taken of actresses. An actress wears a red or yellow dress . . . this is worth a comment. So it is if she wears pajamas or a transparent nightie . . .

"Yet there must be thousands of real people . . . like Gladys Aylward, whose story I am playing in 'The Inn of the Sixth Happiness,' who do the most wonderful things . . . and nobody ever hears of them. I don't think it is fair.

"I think I have a wonderful life. I get paid a lot of money for doing what I like doing — acting. And when you are the star they always want to keep you happy . . . so people are running around you all the time to see that you are warm, or cool, and that you don't get your feet wet, I think it is a wonderful, exciting life.

"All my life I have looked for excitement. I have always tried to get the most out of life—sometimes, though, as I have discovered, the most can be too much. . . ."

WOULD SHE CHANGE?

Does Ingrid ever wish she could put the clock back—and have another chance to live her life all over again?

She paused, and considered it before she answered.

"No . . . I don't think so . . . no. And if I did have that chance . . . I would wish it to be the same. . . . Mind you . . . if the things that happened to me when I was younger happened to me now . . . perhaps the result would be different.

"But when you are young you cannot know everything . . . you have to learn. . . . It is just that it is more difficult for some people than others. And some people never learn anyway.

"Knowing what I know now, I think, 'How can a young girl of 18 and a young man of 21 know enough to get married and KNOW that they will be happy? How can they?' But they marry . . . and the very, very lucky ones live happily ever afterwards. There are no rules for happy marriages—it is different for everyone.

"Look around among your friends . . . how many of them are really, fully, happily married?

"A lot of them are happy, in a limited sort of way . . . they make do, with a little happiness. But perhaps the chance has never come to them to have anything else . . . to have what promises to be great happiness? I wonder if they would take the chance if it came?

"I know what people say about Hollywood marriages . . . why do they bother to get married?

"Well, it's so easy to say that. But when it comes to marriages . . . I don't think Hollywood is so very different from say the society set in any great city . . . EXCEPT that everytime anyone sneezes in Hollywood—it gets in the papers."

Ingrid looked at me and posed a question:

"Although, on the surface, the man and the woman in the street and I appear to be worlds apart . . . are we really so different? What do they want out of life . . . and what do I want out of life?"

She paused, and answered:

"Happiness, I suppose. That's what everybody wants. But what is happiness? It's different for everybody.

Eskimo Women Go for Color

In our newest state, Alaska, warmth is the basic requirement for clothing. But a woman is a woman wherever she may be!

Even now, an Eskimo woman may cover her reindeer-skin parka with a sort of slip-cover made of bright blue cotton. Just wait until she can buy colorful cold, cold weather clothing made of washable synthetic fibers!

An Alaskan woman might not care about a refrigerator, but it's a good bet that these new citizens will soon insist on washing machines — and parkas that are washable as well as warm!

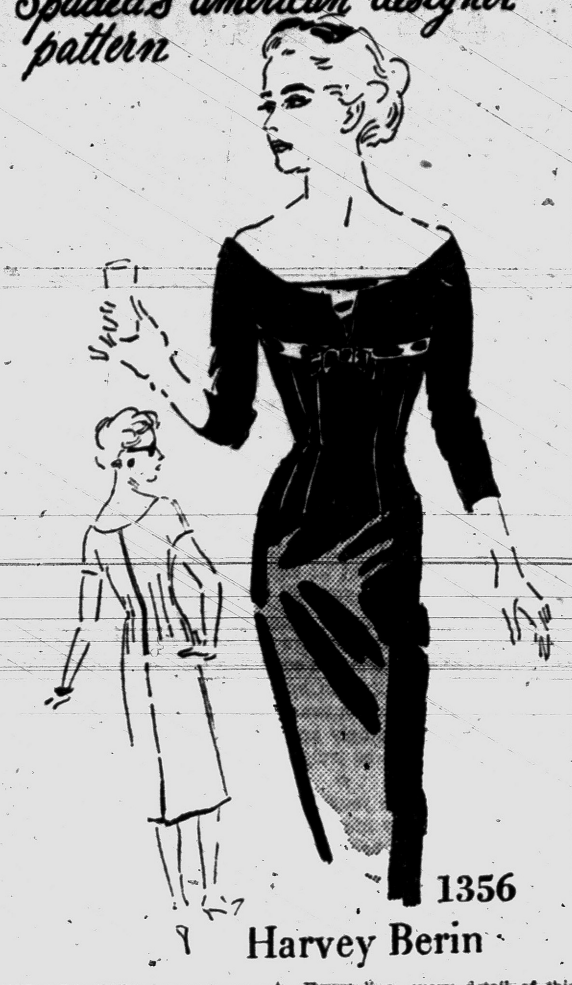

New Sylvanites Club Gets Hints on Lamb

Mrs. Marguerite B. Hague, regional home economist for the American Sheep Producers Council, was guest speaker at the Thursday meeting of the New Sylvanites Club of Sylvan Lake.

Meeting in the home of Mrs. Raymond Dombrowski on Garland Avenue, 40 club members and the guests saw colored slides showing ways to use lamb.

The height of elegance is reached with this long evening sheath of deep red velvet. Designed by Count Sarmi for the fall-winter collection of Elizabeth Arden, the Empire bodice is pink embroidered with gold and silver beads. The velvet panels are looped to fall to the floor in the back.

Patricia Tate, Gerald Langdon Speak Vows

Patricia Louise Tate and Gerald Walker Langdon were married Sept. 27 at Ascension Lutheran Church. The Rev. William LaFountain officiated at the ceremony before 200 guests.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tate of Maybee road and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Langdon of Orchard Lake.

Myrna Langdon of Orchard Lake was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Deanna Pursley and Sonja Langdon.

Mustard Bath Not Outdated for Relaxing

Doctors still recommend this old-fashioned remedy, the firm said. Studies by the American Heart Journal show that the tranquilizing effect of mustard in luke-warm water is due to increased flow of blood through the capillary veins at the skin's surface.

To make a mustard bath, dissolve 3 or 4 heaping tablespoons of dry mustard in a tub of luke-warm water. Relax in the tub for 15 minutes. Rub down with a soft towel, keep warm, and sleep if possible.

Every line, every detail of this Empire waisted dress assures its unqualified success. Slim throughout with long darts from below the high bosom band to about the hipbone, it is intended to do things for the figure, spotlight the wearer.

The wide open neckline is filled in with contrasting fabric, held securely by an elastic that passes under the armholes and fastens in back. The shaped bosom difiner has a loose lower edge, and a bow to mark the cut-out V.

Make it in wool, broadcloth, velvet or velveteen with satin or faille as trim, in silk or rayon crepe, shantung or faille, dress-weight wools or rayon mixtures.

Confident Living

An Expectant Attitude Is Basic Requirement

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Some of my readers have written asking for practical pointers on how you apply faith in daily living. Well, I try to keep everything I write as practical as possible because I believe that faith is so much a part of daily living that it can't be separated from it.

DR. PEALE

But there is a technique for focusing your faith that emphasies its importance in everyday living. For, if you want to get anywhere at all with yourself, it is necessary to have an expectant attitude.

It is a psychological law that we tend to get what we expect. If you live expecting bad things, you will get them.

On the other hand, if you paint in your mind a picture of bright and happy expectations, you get yourself into a condition conducive to your goal. Your mind frees itself from barriers and God's mighty power is free to work in you. Outward circumstances and conditions tend to adjust accordingly and, if you work hard and believe hard, the results can be truly astonishing.

★ ★ ★

The way to focus your faith in dealing with the practical problems of everyday life is to cultivate an expectant attitude and start utilizing the great faculty of imagining. What is that? Well, consciously and constructively used, it is anything but fantasy. It is the art of the projected image. As Thoreau said years ago, we become what we image. The mental picture tends to actualize itself in fact.

★ ★ ★

Harold Sherman, the well-known writer and lecturer, has developed a way of drawing on the power of the imagination which I have found to be very effective. Here it is: Relax and think of a blank white motion picture screen with nothing on it. Hold this before your mind and get everything else out of it except the motion picture screen. Then, using your mind as a motion picture projector, throw a picture on the screen of what you want to be, what you want to attain, what you want to accomplish. Hold the picture there until it sinks deeply into your subconscious mind. And when it gets into the subconscious, you have it, because it has you.

Curious, this power of the mind! I once asked one of the world's greatest salesmen how he had made his record. He answered, "I see myself making sales and I am the most surprised man in the world if and when I don't get a sale."

Now the reaction of another salesman to this might be, "Well, that's easier said than done." Sure, it's easier said than done. Doing it requires mental discipline. Doing it requires faith. But isn't doing it a lot better than continuing to hold, consciously or subconsciously, a picture of prospects not buying. I can guarantee that a salesman who holds that image won't make sales. For the power of a mental image to shape events is something that cannot be too strongly emphasized.

If you focus your faith in developing this techinque of "imaging" the goals you want to reach, you will have learned one of the most practical applications of faith in daily living. The Psalms tell us, "Thou madest him to have dominion . . ." And those are tremendous words. They do not mean dominion over others; they do mean dominion over yourself and your future and any problems life may have in store for you. Learn to focus your faith and you will achieve this dominion.

REV. E. C. SWANSON

Pilgrim Holiness Pastor, District Superintendent

The Rev. E. C. Swanson, pastor of Pilgrim Holiness Church, has been appointed to the office of district superintendent of the West Virvinia Conference of the denomination.

The appointment was made this week by the board of superintendents of the Pilgrim Holiness Church whose offices are located in Indianapolis, Ind.

The Rev. Mr. Swanson attended Owosso Bible College and was ordained to the ministry in 1935.

He served pastorates in Pigeon, Ellsworth, Flint and Sault Ste. Marie before coming to Pontiac in 1950.

During the eight years of his ministry here, a new brick church has been built; a large parking lot purchased; membership has doubled; and the Sunday School has led the East Michigan Conference for the past year.

The pastor will conclude his duties here on Oct. 12 when he preaches his final sermons. He will take up his work as district superintendent the following week. The Swanson family will make its home in Huntington, W. Va.

Lutherans to Observe World Communion

Christ Lutheran Church in Waterford Township will join the churches of the world Sunday in observing World-Wide Communion at both the 8 and 11 a.m. services.

The new Sunday school year will begin for all classes from nuersery through adult, at the 9:30 a.m. service.

For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out.

The Women's Prayer Group will meet at the home of Mrs. Edna Dawson on Tuesday morning. In the evening, the board of deacons will meet under the leadership of Robert Newill, president.

Rev. R. L. DeWitt, Gerald Guinan Area Delegates

The Rev. Robert L. DeWitt, rector of Christ Church Cranbrook, and Gerald Guinan, layman of All Saints Episcopal Church, will be delegates to the 59th General Convention of the Episcopal Church opening tomorrow in Miami Beach, Fla.

Meeting once every three years, the General Convention is the church's legislative body, and consists of two houses: Bishops and Deputies. Clergymen and laymen are equally represented in the House of Deputies.

The General Convention which meets this year in the South for the first time since 1925, held its first session in 1785 in Philadelphia.

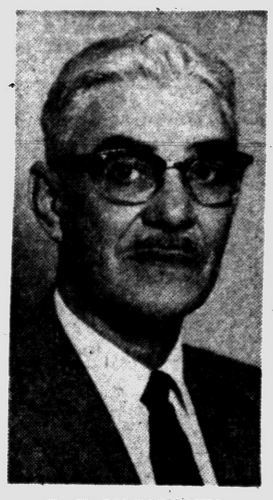

From Sunday through Oct. 17, the bicameral ecclesiastical legislature will determine the Episcopal Church's program for the next three years.

Church Appeal for St. John's

E. F. MacMillen to Train Workers, Canvassers of Building Fund Drive

E. F. MacMillen, assistant director of the department of church architecture and building finance of the Augusta Lutheran Church, will be in charge of the building fund apeal of St. John's Lutheran Church Oct. 19 to 26.

The purpose of the appeal is to raise funds for the building of a new church on the 33-acre site purchased on Pontiac road just east of Opdyke in 1956.

A native of Grand Rapids, Mr. MacMillen has studied at the University of Michigan and Chicago Art Institute.

For 33 years he was associated with a church architectural design firm.

Four years ago he resigned to accept the full time position with the Augustana Lutheran Church.

For several days prior to the appeal, he will train and instruct workers and canvassers. He will also preside at the Loyalty Dinner on Oct. 18 and preach at the morning worship hour Oct. 19.

More than 80 canvassers will be commissioned by the pastor, the Rev. Carl W. Nelson, at the service.

Sibley to Show Pictures

Standish Silbey will show European Travel pictures in color at 8 p.m. Tuesday in All Saints Episcopal Church. The evening affair will benefit Guild No. 7.

Rev. L. L. King Guest Speaker

Members Have Given $56,000 in the Last Four Years to Mission Work

The Rev. L. L. King, former missionary to India and now foreign secretary with headquarters in New York City, will speak tomorrow in the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, North Cass Lake road at M59.

Former pastor, evangelist and teacher in Oujaret Bible Training Institute, the Rev. Mr. King supervised the opening of Palanpur State to Christianity. Until India became independent, missionary work had been prohibited. Today in Palanpur City, a church and Sunday School are flourishing.

Speaking at the annual missionary convention being held this week in the Alliance Church were the Rev. D. G. Ward, returned missionary to Jordan and the Rev. D. I. Jeffrey, returned missionary to Viet Nam.

The missionaries will be heard tomorrow in Sunday School at 9:45 a.m.; worship service at 11 a.m.; Youth Fellowship at 6 p.m.; and the closing service of the convention at 7 p.m.

The missionary budget for the Alliance Church is $3,000,000. The local church has contributed $56,000 in the last four years, an average of $14,000 a year. The Rev. G. J. Bersche is pastor.

Pastor to Install Church Officers Sunday Morning

The Rev. Marion F. Boyd Jr. will install 224 officers of church organizations at the regular morning service tomorrow in Columbia Avenue Baptist Church.

He will preach on "God's People Are Different."

Those elected to the general offices are Haskell Kennedy, general superintendent of the Sunday School; Frank Dillon, Baptist Training Union director; Joe Moring, brotherhood president; and Edith Hammack, Women's Missionary Union president;

According to church records, 154 new members were received into membership during the past year. Houston Lovett, treasurer, reports the offering increased $10,000 over the preceding year.

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea.

REV. BILL W. LANPHER

New Pastor Ordained Here

Rev. Bill W. Lanpher, Missionary Appointee to Viet Nam

The Rev. Bill W. Lanpher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Weston Lanpher of 66 E. Beverly St. was recently ordained into the ministry at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, North Cass Lake road at M59.

A graduate of Pontiac Central High School, he received degrees from Wayne State University and Nyack Missionary College.

Currently he is serving as pastor of the Perry-Lansing Alliance Church while attending graduate school at Michigan State University.

The Rev. and Mrs. Lanpher are missionary appointees under the Christian and Missionary Alliance to Viet Nam. They will receive the appointment when the Rev. Mr. Lanpher completes his work at the university.

The new pastor who had attended the local church since he was four years old, was especially active in young people's work.

Holy Communion to Be Celebrated

The Rev. Ford B. Reed, pastor of New Hope Baptist Church will preach on "Good Determination" at 11 a.m. Sunday.

At 7:30 p.m. a service of Holy Communion will be celebrated, also a testimony service.

The pastor and his wife have returned for a vacation and during which time they served as delegates to the National Baptist Convention in Chicago, the 78th annual session.

Catholic Canvas to Cover Pontiac, Suburban Area

Over 1,500 men will launch a house to house Catholic census in the Pontiac and suburban area Sunday afternoon. The local canvas is part of a general census being undertaken in the eight counties within the Archdiocese of Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Tabulation cards will be made out on Catholics only.

Under the direction of the pastors of all Catholic parishes in the area, training classes have been in session for two weeks for the volunteer callers.

Chairmen of the Pontiac parishes include Joseph Rohrbach of St. Michael, Fred Figa of St. Joseph and Armand J. Moloney of St. Benedict. Men of St. Vincent de Paul will work on a committee basis.

In nighboring parishes will be Ralph Florio of Our Lady of the Lakes, Waterford Township; Samuel Lerner of St. Patrick, Union Lake; William Baser of Our Lady of Rufuge, Orchard Lake; John J. Raymond of St. Hugo of the Hills, Bloomfield Hills; Don Mahlmeister of Sacred Heart, Auburn Heights; Augie Genereux of St. Joseph, Orion; and Don Dulude and Joseph Kowaleski of St. Andrew, Rochester.

The purpose of the census instituted by Edward Cardinal Mooney, archbishop of Detroit, is to provide accurate statistics on population trends.

According to the Rev. Fr. Robert F. Allen of the Detroit Chancery office, planning based on public surveys has resulted in establishing 68 new parishes and 85 new parochial schools in the diocese since 1950 and 99 sites acquired for future parishes.

In preliminary meetings with pastors and chairmen, the director has emphasized that "while a house to house canvas is a necessity, information will be sought only from Catholics and there will be no attempt at controversy or to proselytize."

1st Services Sunday in Church Building

The congregation of Calvary Baptist Church will hold the first services in the new church at 3750 Pontiac Lake Rd. with Sunday tomorrow with Sunday School at 10 a.m.; worship services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The church was organized four years ago in Waterford Township High Schol where meetings have been held each Sunday until tomorow.

Children of the Sunday School will be promoted tomorrow and the Rev. Henry Wrobbel, pastor, will receive 16 new members into the church fellowship at the morning service. Calvary Baptist is a member of the Conservative Baptist Convention.

Church Elders to Assist Pastor

Six-Week Contest Set to Open Oct. 12

The Rev. Philip W. Somers, pastor, announces the Sunday themes for the six-week Sunday School contest, "Orbit Around the World."

"Blast Off Sunday" will open the contest with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 9:45 a.m. on Oct. 12.

The following Sunday themes will be "Family," "Neighbor and Friend," "Bible or Rose of Sharon" when a rose will be given everyone bringing a Bible, "Pack a Pew," and "Victory Sunday."

The public is invited to the church grounds from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday for the releasing of 1000 helium-filled balloons, free rocket rides and refreshments. The grand prize will be on display in the church parking lot Sunday.

68th Annual Banquet at First Methodist

Dr. Frederick C. Vosburg, minister of Court Street Methodist Church of Flint, will be guest speaker at the 68th annual Harvest Home Banquet at First Methodist Church on Oct. 17. The time is 6:30 p.m.

The Flint pastor has been a member of the Detroit Annual Conference since 1936. For the past four years he has broadcast a daily sermonette, "Living for Tomorrow."

Besides his church connections, he is active in community affairs, presently serving as president of Whittier Junior High School in Flint.

All Sunday School classes and organizations of First Methodist have been working throughout the year to raise money which will be turned in as part of the evening program. Proceeds will be used to pay for the new furnace.

There's No Escape From Song Writers

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — People are always coming up to Patti Page's husband, Charles O'Curran, the director, and handing him a piece of paper.

★ ★ ★

(No, no, not a subpoena? What made you think that?)

"This is for your wife," they say generously.

Charlie, a lean, affable, easy-to-know guy, sometimes gets all fluttery. He has been known to all but sprain his arm thrusting the paper back at the kind donor. Charlie knows immediately what it is. It's a song.

"But I," he exclaims nervously, "have nothing to do with that!"

"Yes, but you do see her now and then, don't you?" they ask. "You could hand it to her, couldn't you?"

PATTI

While this has never resulted in a song hit for Patti, she estimates that most of her song successes have been written by amateurs such as those who pester Charlie—or at least by songwriters who were comparative newcomers in the popular song field when they made their first connection with Patti.

"What was wrong with 'The Big Record'?" she said, repeating my question. "Possibly we got lost early in the year because there were so many people who had conflicting ideas. I can't say who they are because I don't even know.

★ ★ ★

"I do know," she added, "that CBS is unhappy that I'm not with them. Also, I got calls from the CBS cameramen wanting tickets for my first show at ABC. And I'm still doing radio at CBS . . ."

Not long ago they were driving around the country and stopped at an older motel outside Amarillo. Charlie registered them as "Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Curran." They went to bed without even looking around the community.

'Next morning on the windshield there was an envelope addressed to Patti Page," she recounted, "and a note saying, 'When are you going to record this song?"

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

Diana Barrymore arranged a blind date for a girl friend and a Hollywood star. The star was so rude that Diana wrote him: "We must now accept Darwin's theory that man is descended from the ape'

George Jessel's dtr., Jeri, will make three more appearances on Ruth Hagy's "TV College News Conference" . . . Lionel Hampton's new album will be titled "Wide, Wild World" . . .

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Why is it that a woman will always look in a mirror — except when she's backing a car into a tight space.

★ ★ ★

34 Leave Washington

Diplomats Are Replaced With Dizzying Speed

WASHINGTON — Blame it on East-West tensions, a changing world order, or pure coincidence, but this capital has never before seen such a colossal turn-over in foreign ambassadors.

Gone within the space of a few months are every Arab ambassador, every Scandinavian ambassador, nearly a dozen Latin American envoys and numerous others from key trouble spots of the world.

Incredible as it is, 34 envoys have been replaced in Washington since the first of the year, and more changes are yet to come.

★ ★ ★

The Nationalist Chinese and the Greeks, despite delicate crises in both Formosa and Cyprus, have within recent weeks replaced their ambassadors to this capital of the free world. Haiti, riddled with tension, has sent and recalled a succession of envoys.

Of all the Middle Eastern ambassadors who were here a year ago, only Israeli's Abba Eban remains, and he too is scheduled for departure before many more months.

New Zealand's popular Sir Leslie Munro has said his official adieus and decided to remain as a private citizen in Washington. So also has Norway's long-time dean of the diplomatic corps, Munthe de Morgenstierne.

New ambassadors are taking over the credentials of Sweden and Denmark. Tiny Luxembourg is following suit, and rumor has it that Baron Robert Silvercruys, long-time envoy from Belgium who married the beautiful widow of Sen. Brien McMahon, is also due for retirement.

It's a strange new world for official Washington, which is already steeling itself for the change of face on the congressional front which inevitably marks an election year.

Diplomacy, in more ways than one, has reflected the changing world order. Time was when divorce and remarriage spelled a virtual death-warrant to the career of an ambassador.

In this tension-ridden year of 1958, however, such an event is the signal for a gala whirl of wining and dining.

At a recent dinner party, a tongue-in-cheek dowager drew aside Lady Caccia, wife of the British ambassador, and whispered: "My dear, are you feeling pretty secure?"

Startled, she replied: "Yes, but why?"

"Because the French and German ambassadors have both obtained divorces and new wives," she twitted, "and the western European Big Three usually act in concert."

The playful dowager was referring of course, to the fact that after Ambassador Herve Alphand persuaded the former chatelaine of the French embassy to give him a divorce, he married a beautiful young widow who is now enchanting the diplomatic set.

Even more recently, German Ambassador Wilhelm G. Grewe, whose first marriage also ended in divorce, is introducing the attractive secretary whom he married this summer while on home leave.

Washington society has welcomed both brides with considerably less curiosity than it exhibited a couple of years ago when an Arab ambassador—true to his Moslem religion—took a second wife without deigning to divorce the first.

His first spouse, who had presided over his embassy with quiet charm, thought so little of that fine old Moslem custom that she sat out her rage in New York with her young son, while the envoy free-wheeled around the Washington social circuit with her successor.

Actress and Ex-Husband Restrained by Court

The order was made part of Miss Fleming's interlocutory divorce decree Friday. The decree had been issued June 17.

The red-haired actress complained to the court that Morrill forced his way into her home Sept. 12 and cursed and hit her.

Steel Bars Fly in 'Discussion' of World Series

SOUTHINGTON, Conn. (AP) — Two foundry workers tried to settle a World Series argument with four-foot steel bars. Neither man won.

The bars were flying Friday after Earl J. Williams and Benjamin L. Watkins, both 29, discussed the relative merits of the Milwaukee Braves and the New York Yankees, said police.

Watkins was treated for lacerations and bruises. Police charged him with breach of peace, and Williams with breach of peace and assault.

Says More Detroiters Now Favor Integration

DETROIT (AP) — A University of Michigan researcher says Detroit's white population now is 62 per cent in favor of school integration.

A similar survey seven years ago showed 54 per cent of those questioned against mixing the races in classrooms.

He's Leading 4 Lives

Richard Carlson Stars in New Texas Series

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Having led three lives as a Commie-hunter, Richard Carlson is now going back in history to chase down outlaws on the Texas border.

Carlson is the star of the immensely successful I Led Three Lives. Through he hasn't made a chapter in the series for two years, it is still playing everywhere and bringing him a pile of cash. Has he earned a million dollars?

"Not quite a million," he replied cautiously, "though it may pass the mark soon." His next check, for example, will probably be around $30,000 for a three-month period.

No wonder Dick can say, "Television has been good to m."

And it will be even better. He is well into his second series, McKenzie's Raiders, also made by Ziv Productions for syndication, not network play. But judging from his sponsors and the many markets already sold, he'll make as much or more than if it played the network first.

★ ★ ★

The story concerns a real-life Army commander who was assigned by President Grant to clean up the marauders who looted Texas then vanished over the Rio Grande. McKenzie's orders were to pursue the bandits into Mexico if necessary, but he had to assume the consequences if caught.

"The situation presents all kinds of possibilities," Dick enthused. "I think the show has a good chance of clicking."

He went on to argue that it's the vehicle that counts in TV.

"A lot of us who were only so-so in the movies have done well in TV because we had the right show," he said. "Yet a big picture name like Frank Sinatra can do a flop. His name means nothing in TV unless the show is good."

Questions and Answers

Can't Get Social Security

By RAY HENRY

From Mrs. M. V. of Pittsburgh: "A friend of mine is a widow and was receiving Social Security after her husband's death for her daughter and herself. When her daughter reached 18, the widow no longer got checks for either of them. Should the mother who is still a widow get her checks? She is a cripple, unable to work."

The widow isn't eligible to Social Security based on her deceased husband's record until she reaches 62. But, if she worked under Social Security for five years or more she may be eligible for disability payments. Or, she may be eligible for Public Assistance payments through her local PA office as a disabled adult. I suggest she check these two possibilities.

★ ★ ★

From M. G. of Charlotte, N.C.: "I'm 65 years old and collect a pension from the Veterans Administration for a non-service-connected disability. I understand that my income is limited for me to continue to get the pension. If my wife should draw a salary or win money in a contest of any kind, will this affect my pension?"

No. A wife's income has no relation to the income limit set for a husband drawing a VA pension.

From J. J. D. of Glendale, N.Y.: "I'm past 73 and have been drawing full Social Security payments of $108.50 since I turned 72. As you know a person over 72 can have any amount of earnings and still get Social Security. I'm still working at the same job I've held for 50 years. I know my payments will go up to $116 in February. But, I also understand it'll be possible for a person to receive up to $127 a month from Social Security due to the recent changes. How long must I work to get the $127?"

It'll not be possible for anyone to get the $127 a month until 1998. By 1966, it will be possible for a person retiring then to get as much as $124 a month. But, because of the way payments are figured under the new changes it'll take 33 years to go up only $3, to $127.

★ ★ ★

From H. C. J. of Hibbing, Minn.: "Is Hawaii included in the Social Security program? I'm a carpenter and have heard there is a lot of construction going on there. My wife and I would like to go for awhile if my earnings would become part of my Social Security record."

Hawaii is under Social Security. In fact, United States citizens employed by American firms anywhere in the world are covered by Social Security.

From Mrs. M. W. M. of Deale, Md.: "I have just been laid off after working for three years and four months. I paid into Social Security during this time but I don't intend to go back to work. Can I draw out the money I paid in?"

No. Social Security has no refund set up. The only way you can get your money back is in monthly payments if you become eligible for them.

PCH Stays Undefeated With 19-13 Win

Ferndale Bows to 4th Quarter Surge of Chiefs

Munson Scores 3 Times as Central Ups Season Record to 3-0

By BILL CORNWELL

Pontiac Central's football team is still unbeaten and untied today following a spine-tingling 19-13 triumph over Ferndale last night at Ferndale.

The Chiefs hurdled a mountain of handicaps to collect their 3rd consecutive victory as quarterback Harrison Munson tallied all three touchdowns, the winning TD coming with only 2:55 of game time remaining.

What's more — captain Larry Douglas, Pontiac's workhorse fullback, suffered an ankle injury on the 1st play from scrimmage and missed the rest of the game and the Chiefs were penalized 125 yards.

Yesterday's action also got a little bit rough at times and each club had one of its members ejected from the contest for too much jostling after the tackle.

The most significant fact about the Chiefs' win was their refusal to quit when the tide of battle went against them—something they have often been accused of doing in past years.

They surmounted every handicap and twice they came from behind to preserve their flawless record. Joe McCauley did a herculean job of replacing Douglas, Bill Ratcliff lugged the leather for all he was worth and Munson enjoyed a bang-up evening.

Central opened the scoring with a touchdown near the end of the 1st quarter as Munson turned in the game's most sensational play.

Apparently trapped 15 yards behind the line of scrimmage on a pass attempt, the long-striding Munson broke loose and dodged his way across the goal for a TD covering 20 yards. Munson's spectacular run climaxed an 87-yard drive.

The Chiefs regained the advantage midway through the 3rd stanza. They received the 2nd half kickoff and marched 60 yards for a touchdown with Munson crashing over from the Ferndale two.

Ferndale struck back immediately to seize 13-12 edge. The Dales took the ensuing kickoff and drove 78 yards in five plays—halfback Luther Graham ate up 54 yards at one gallop—with Mike Brown plowing three yards off tackle for the TD.

PCH made its winning move early in the 4th quarter. The Chiefs held for downs on their own 22, then went all the way to score in 14 plays with Munson sprinting the final yard on a rollout. Bill Davis booted the 19th point.

The statistics:

	PCH	F
First downs	13	12
Rushing yardage	264	233
Passing yardage	61	37
Passes	3-7	4-9
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	2-27	1-38
Fumbles lost	2	3
Yards penalized	125	30
Pontiac Central	6 0 6 7—19
Ferndale	0 7 6 0—13

Touchdowns: PCH—Munson 3 (20, 2, 1, runs); Ferndale—Morey (1, run), Brown (3, run).

Conversions: PCH—Davis (placekick). Ferndale—Crane (placekick).

PCH LINEUP: Ends — Smith, B Pritchett, J. Pritchett, Terry, Andrews. Tackles—Nichols, Rush, Green, D. Whitehead, Donovan, Driver, Duncan; Guards—Gaytan, Watkins, Spicer, Voydanoff, Batten, Brown. Centers—Relyea; Backs—Davis, Munson, Howze, Ratcliff, D. McCauley, Jones, Shorter, Gardner, Douglas, J. McCauley, Ellison, McConner, Dextrom.

Walled Lake Rolls, 37-6; Skippers Finally Win, 12-6

Farmington Conquers Jays

A Walled Lake powerhouse which grows stronger every week now seems to be all that's blocking Farmington's march to the Inter-Lakes Conference football championship.

Runners-up in 1957, the never-say-die Falcons reached the threshold of the Inter-Lakes crown Friday afternoon at Farmington by toppling Southfield, the team which beat them for the title last year on the final day of the season.

Farmington overcame a 14-13 deficit in the 4th quarter for a thrill-packed 20-14 conquest of the defending champs in their early season showdown.

Walled Lake served notice, however, that it will still be heard from by thrashing Berkley, 37-6, and Waterford broke into the winning column for 1958 with a 12-6 verdict over Van Dyke as the I-L campaign got under way.

The Skippers spotted Van Dyke a 6-0 lead, then bounced back with touchdowns in the 2nd and 4th quarters for their 1st win of the season as well as their first points on the scoreboard.

The passing combination of quarterback Bill Bryce to end Tony Hiller produced both Waterford TDs in the battle at Waterford High Stadium.

Only two minutes were left in the game when Hiller caught Bryce's aerial for a 12-yard TD and the Skippers 1st success in three ties.

When Bryce connected with Hiller on a six-yarder for the tying TD late in the 2nd period, it marked Waterford's 1st trip into pay dirt in 10 quarters of football. The Abes scored their lone touchdown early in the 2nd stanza on a six-yard slant off tackle.

Berkley was no match for the Vikings on the Walled Lake gridiron. The Vikings intercepted five passes, two by Frank Fink, and they scored at least once in every quarter to hammer the Bears into submission. Walled Lake was in front at halftime, 18-6.

Walled Lake's six touchdowns were evenly divided among Jim Pierce, Mike Wurst and Tom Phelps. Pierce scored on runs of 75 and eight yards, Wurst tallied with 12 and four-yard jaunts and Phelps counted on passes covering 60 and 27 yards, both from Bill Havel. Phelps made Walled Lake's only conversion.

Bill Chamberlain's pass to Jim Leeman in the 2nd stanza ate up 73 yards and accounted for Berkley's only touchdown. It was Walled Lake's 3rd victory in as many starts and Berkley's 3rd defeat in the same number of games.

Farmington struck twice through the air while conquering the Bluejays. Al LeSage hit Ray Jordan for an eight-yard touchdown and Neil Stevenson for a two-yarder. LeSage scored the winning TD with a quarterback sneak from one yard out. Harvey Chapman and Stevenson tallied Farmington's two extra points.

A five-yard run by Jim McDonald and Cliff Solberg's eight-yard scamper accounted for the Jays' two TDs and quarterback Bob Filar placekicked both conversions.

Farmington led at the half, 13-7, and the Jays were ahead entering the 4th quarter, 14-13. Triumph gave the Falcons a 3-0 record while Southfield now stands 1-1-1.

NOT THIS TIME — Quarterback Tom Morey (with ball), a standout performer for Ferndale High School's football team last night at Ferndale, didn't quite make it on this play as some stout Pontiac Central linemen gang up to stop him short of the goal with only seconds remaining in the 2nd quarter. Morey scored on the next play to give the Dales a 7-6 halftime lead, but the Chiefs rallied after intermission for a 19-13 victory, their 3rd of the season without a loss.

MSU 13-Point Favorite Today

By The Associated Press

Michigan and Michigan State open the Big Ten football race today at East Lansing with the other eight teams playing non-conference opponents.

Michigan State, a 13-point favorite, cannot afford to lose if it hopes to annex the Western Conference title. The Spartans play only six conference games while the other contenders have seven.

All Star Coach Says Canadiens Will Win

MONTREAL (AP)—Coach Milt Schmidt says the Montreal Canadiens should beat his National Hockey League All-Star team by "three or four goals" when the clubs meet here tonight.

Schmidt made the statement at the annual All-Star dinner last night and Coach Hector "Toe" Blake of the Stanley Cup champion Canadiens was in accord.

Blake, in fact, went a step further and said his Habs should win the NHL title for a fourth consecutive time this year, barring a rash of injuries.

BLOCKADE RUNNER — Jim Pritchett (85), Pontiac Central's big senior end, runs some mean interference for ball carrier Harrison Munson as the star PCH quarterback reels off yardage against Ferndale. This action took place in the 1st quarter and Munson scored Pontiac's 1st touchdown on the next play with a dazzling 20-yard run. Munson tallied all three Central touchdowns as the Chiefs defeated the Dales, 19-13.

Clarkston Homecoming Victor as Brighton Edges Holly

By CHUCK ABAIR

The high-scoring West Bloomfield and Northville elevens and defense-minded Brighton today are locked in a three-way deadlock for first place in the Wayne-Oakland League.

Each has won two straight loop contests in impressive fashion and a total of three games counting non-league openers.

West Bloomfield and Brighton were pushed to the limit last night while defending champion Northville was able to coast in the final half winning 28-0 after being held to a 7-0 edge in the first 24 minutes by Bloomfield Hills.

Jack Newton's 30-yard scamper in the 4th period insured a 28-20 triumph for the Lakers over a hard-working Milford contingent in a wide open offensive duel.

The score was tied twice earlier and West Bloomfield led 21-20 while apparently running out the clock when the speedy Newton broke loose.

John Lucadam tallied two touchdowns and booted four successive extra points to pace the scoring. Tom Bell added the other Laker six-pointer.

The running of Gene Schuett and Ed Keiser and all around play of Terry Anderson kept Milford in the contest. Anderson had a TD and kicked two points after. Jerry Reis went across for the other two Redskins' touchdowns.

Some gambles that failed and four lost fumbles hurt the Baron cause considerably.

Clarkston started early and never let up in blanking Clarenceville 20-0. The Wolves have a victory and a tie in loop play.

Mel Joseph went over from the 12, John Parks dashed 60 yards after picking up a fumble and Larry Crouch covered the same distance on a pass interception for the Clarkston touchdowns.

Brighton tallied all its points in the 2nd period and held on to squeak by Holly, 14-13. Fumble recoveries in Holly territory set up the tallies.

Ron Visel passed to Russ Hudson for one TD and scored the other. He also booted the two extra points which proved the difference.

Dale Coggins went two and Don Rounds seven to reach paydirt for Holly. Larry Scramlin kicked the 2nd PAT after missing earlier.

Brighton and West Bloomfield tangle next Friday.

UNHAPPY COACH — There was very little joy on the Bloomfield Hills bench yesterday as the Barons lost to Northville, 28-0, as indicated by coach Don Hoff's non-enthusiastic position. It was the second straight loss for the Hillsmen.

Jackets Whip Madison, 28-13 in League Win

Dragons Falter in 2nd Half to Lose 25-13 to Fitzgerald

The passing of Dick Smith and the running of Gary Acker enabled Avondale to score a 28-13 victory over Madison, while Lake Orion was taking a 25-13 lacing from Fitzgerald in Oakland-B games last night.

Smith passed to Herb Harris for 30 yards in the first quarter and to Harris again in the 4th quarter 20 yards for touchdowns.

Smith added a second touchdown in the first period on a one yard plunge and in the final TD in the 4th stanza Acker went 13 yards. Acker added all point by running.

Madison scored in the 3rd and 4th quarters with Terry Gunter going 60 on a pass play and 15 yards. He also added the point.

Orion scored first with Bud Gouin going 15 yards around end and John Schopf getting the point. Fitzgerald missed the point after Gary Wilkie went five yards.

It was 13-13 at halftime as Harry Marchienes scored on a 35 yard pass play and Wilkie added the point. Goiun went 20 yards for Orion's score, but the point was missed.

Dave Jacobs and Ron Kozlowski got the other Fitzgerald TD's in the 3rd and 4th quarters.

Clawson routed Oak Park 24-0 and Roseville bumped Troy 19-14 in games of other league teams. Clawson scored in each quarter with Chuck Olesiak, Newt Acton twice and end Lee Strittmatter hitting pay dirt. The final was a 52 yard pass play from Jerry Eno to Strittmatter.

Maples Take 26th; Clarenceville 5th

Birmingham High's cross-country team yesterday boosted its record string of dual victories to 26 straight, defeating Mt. Clemens on the home course, 19-42. Seven Birmingham runners finished in the top 10, paced by Jim Reilly (10:32.8) and Dave Pew (10:42.8). Preston Holden was Mt. Clemens first finisher. Fraser Cocks, Dan Reed, Steve Thorson, Phil Satterthwaite and Al Baumann of Birmingham were in the first 10. Birmingham JVs also won, 15-50 led by Bill Green (11:19.9).

West Bloomfield dropped its 3rd harrier test, Friday, at Clarenceville, 26-30. Steve Rogers (11:44) and Gary Dowdy were 1-2 for KH. Mert Roberts was 3rd for Clarenceville which now has won five in a row and is unbeaten this fall.

Long Runs Win for Maples, 33-6

Before Mt. Clemens knew what happened, Birmingham had three touchdowns and the Maples proceeded to trample the Bathers, 33-6 on the home field last night in an Eastern Michigan League game.

★ ★ ★

Ed Bush ran back the opening kickoff 85 yards, and a moment later Bush then took a Mt. Clemens punt and scampered 72 yards. Phil Isabell added the point and it was 13-0 with only three minutes gone.

Later in the first period Steve Jacobsen went 12 yards to his 33 where he fumbled. Steve Boucher took the bounce and raced 67 yards for the TD and it was 19-0 after one period.

Mt. Clemens recovered a fumble on the 35 and in seven plays Ken Kunkle went over from the one. On the ensuing kickoff the Maples marched downfield and Bush scored his third TD from the 17 with Isbell getting the PAT.

Bush now has seven TD's in three games.

In other games of EML interest, Jackson whipped East Detroit 15-0 and Lansing Eastern defeated Port Huron 20-6.

LAPEER 21, OWOSSO 6

A safety and a one yard buck by Dick Kohloff with Bob Stevens' point gave Lapeer a 9-0 lead at halftime. Kohloff went eight yards in the third quarter and John McKillen three yards in the 4th as Lapeer won 21-6 over Owosso for its third straight win.

LAMPHERE 18, CAPAC 7

Jerry Sylvain scored twice in the 2nd and 3rd periods on five and 35 yarders, and Bob Kline went 30 yards in the 4th quarter as Lamphere defeated Capac, 18-7. Larry Kalbleisch scored on a 23 yard pass play and he also kicked Capac's point in the 4th quarter.

IMLAY CITY 12, MILLINGTON 6

Imlay City scored tallies in the 2nd and 4th periods after spotting Millington a first period TD. Jim Ward went four yards and Jim McKee wnt 50 on a pass interception for Imlay, while Mike Zinc hit from the four for Millington.

SOUTH LYON 45, HARTLAND 6

Paul Underhilland Milan Obrenovich ran wils as South Lyon romped over Hartland 45-6. Underhill scored on 2 and 12 yarders in the first quarter, and Obrenovich on 16 and 4 yarders in the 2nd and 3rd quarters. Doug Kinne, Jack Wren and Gary Weinburger got the other three for South Lyon.

Brown City Back Runs Wild

Almont Continues Streak

Almont just keeps rolling along. The Raiders made it 19 straight with a 34-0 romp over New Haven as class C all-state fullback Frank Hartway scored twice on 28 and 34 yard runs.

★ ★ ★

Big end Jim Osterander also scored once on a pass 40 yards from Don Eshenberg and he booted two field goals 17 and 30 yards. Osterander is a 6-3, 208 pounder who was second team all-state in class C last year.

Larry Osterander's 82 yard run accounted for the other TD. Brown City's Bob Fisher had himself a night in whipping Dryden, 31-0.

Fisher, a 145-pound fullback scored on 73, six, 61 and 45 yards runs. He also made the point and in 19 carries he rushed for an amazing 293 yards, plus another 37 on pass receiving for 330 total offense personally.

Packers Promise Lions' Pass Defense Rough Test

Parilli, Starr Sharpen Arms for Detroit 11

Coach Wilson to Start Reshuffled Offensive Line Sunday

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

GREEN BAY, Wis. — It took a stout defense by the Chicago Bears, now regarded as the toughest in pro football, to beat the Green Bay Packers last week according to Detroit Lions' scout Bob Dove, indicating that the Lions have another task of pass-defense awaiting them.

Quarterbacks Babe Parilli and Bart Starr can throw with the best in the NFL and with Tobin Rote and Bobby Layne doing the pitching for the Lions, the game could turn out to be an aerial circus Sunday afternoon.

"The Bears are capable of stopping most any passing attack in the league, because they rush the passer harder than any pro team," said coach George Wilson, "so our defensive line and backs will have to be sharper than they were against the Colts last week." Wilson is expecting the Packers to go all out passing.

Green Bay's running attack is led by former quarterback All-America from Notre Dame Paul Hornung who is now at fullback, and Don McIlhenny, former Lion at halfback.

Hornung is also the field goal specialist for the Packers. He booted two against the Bears last week as Green Bay lost, 3-0.

Besides McIlhenny there are several other former Lions on the Green Bay team, most of whom went in the trade for Tobin Rote two years ago.

Game time Sunday is 2:00 p.m., and the contest will be telecast over Channel 2.

Larsen Is Miracle Hope of Yankees

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Larsen, who achieved the miracle of a world series perfect game, carried the New York Yankees' hopes against a Milwaukee Brave powerhouse eager to wrap up the 1958 series in four straight games.

Down two games to none, the embattled Yankees faced 32-year-old Bob Rush in the friendly surroundings of Yankee Stadium — the house that Ruth built and the symbol of the world famous baseball dynasty the Braves seek to destroy.

The odds-makers still rated the Braves an 11-5 favorite to win the series, but for this game they were laying 3-2 odds that the man who pitched the perfect game would stop the Milwaukee steamroller.

The weatherman warned of possible rain that would force a postponement and give the beleaguered Casey Stengel a chance to reorganize his pitching staff. Charles Segar, secretary-treasurer of baseball who is acting for ailing commissioner Ford Frick, has sole authority to order a postponement in the event of rain.

Stengel's lineup was uncertain, pending the physical condition of left fielder-catcher Elston Howard, who received a knee injury in Thursday's second game in Milwaukee, but Braves manager Fred Haney was certain to go with his left-handed hitting array which has Bill Bruton in center field and Frank Torre at first base.

This is the lineup which routed 21-game winner Bob Turley in the first inning and went on to crush the Yankees, 13-5, in the second game of the series.

As the scene shifted to New York for today's third game, with a capacity crowd of 69,000 anticipated in spacious Yankee Stadium, the Braves were riding high. Only twice in World Series history has a team won the first two games and then failed to cop the championship — that happened to the Yankees against the Dodgers in 1955 and to the Dodgers in 1956 against the Yankees.

The Yankees, naturally, were reminding each other of 1956 and saying that it could — and will — happen again.

But Stengel's men also know that should they lose today, history will be completely against them — no team ever has lost the first three games and then come back to win the series.

Stengel himself appeared pleased by the selection of the fast-balling Rush as today's Braves' starter, croaking "that could change a few things around here."

In naming Rush, Haney by-assed two younger hurlers — rookie Carleton Willey and lefty Juan Pizarro — because of their inexperience. Rush, a husky right-hander, had a 10-6 record this season and a 3.43 earned run average but is supposed to be fairly easy to steal bases against.

Larsen, who stands six-four but still is an inch shorter than Rush, never has recaptured the glory that was his on Oct. 8, 1956 when he pitched his perfect game against the Dodgers in the fifth game of that series.

Oxford Shutout 13-0 by Romeo

Romeo won its second game in three starts by scoring in the second and 4th periods to beat Oxford 13-0 last night.

Fullback Bob Galan went 10 yards as the Bulldogs led 6-0 at halftime. The other TD came on a 27 yard pass from Ray Ritter to Ron Schmidt with Galan adding the point.

The drive started after Ritter intercepted an Oxford pass on the 20. Oldzak got 26 yards and Galan 17 in two key plays.

Oxford got to the 20 twice in the second half but could not score.

Colts Play Bears, 'Skins vs. Cards in NFL Tonight

The Baltimore Colts, twice conqueror of the Chicago Bears last season, try to halt the mighty Midwesterners tonight in a vital National Football League contest.

Sunday, Joe Perry, a nine-year veteran, likely will break Steve Van Buren's rushing record as he leads the San Francisco 49ers against the Los Angeles Rams at home. Cleveland is at Pittsburgh and New York tackles the Eagles at Philadelphia in other games.

Dondero Upset Winner

Groose Pte., heavily favored to repeat as Border Cities League football champion this season, was handed a stunning 12-0 defeat by Royal Oak Dondero last night in conference action at Royal Oak. An eight-yard run by Mike Omalev in the 1st quarter and Bill Waldrup's seven-yard dash in the 4th period accounted for Dondero's touchdowns.

Wolves, Indians Win, Collide Next Week

Stage Set for Showdown

By The Associated Press

Bay City walloped cross-town rival Bay City Handy 57-0 before a screaming crowd of 9,000 and Flint Central, second ranked in the Associated Press poll, thumped Ann Arbor 32-7.

Atwood Stadium in Flint was crammed with 10,218 spectators who saw Hank Fonde's Ann Arbor team sustain its first loss in 16 games. Ann Arbor's last defeat was to a Flint team. Northern turned the trick 33-0 in 1956.

There were 14 fumbles in the contest, nine of them by Flint Central. But Ann Arbor's offense was weak and it did not score until the final three minutes. Ron Watkins scored three times for Flint on a pair of runs and a 17-yard pass from Carl Jackson.

Quarterback Jerry Gross was the star at Bay City. He completed 8 of 12 passes for 141 yards and one touchdown. He scored once himself.

Bay City Central and Flint Central meet next Saturday in the battle to determine the top team in the state.

Muskegon Heights got its 18th straight triumph, walloping Holland 35-6. Grand Blanc lost for the first time in 23 starts, bowing 13-6 to Flint Kearsley.

Frankenmuth extended its win streak to 19, beating North Branch 26-0 . . . Pigeon has 11 in a row after edging Unionville 7-6. . . . Stockbridge beat Leslie 18-7 for its 14th in a row. Halfback Russ Sutherland scored four times on runs of 30, 45, 55 and 75 yards as Hudson scalped Summerfield 70-0. Hudson's third-stringers scored 46 points, and the team now has gone 25 games without a defeat.

Another four-touchdown performance was turned in by Vicksburg's Dave Harding. He went 10, 17, 25 and 85 yards in his team's 30-14 victory over Otsego . . . Tom Dittman of Richmond also scored four times and had a 56-yard touchdown run called back. The ones that counted were for 16, 30, 46 and 52 yards as his team beat Port Huron St. Stephen 32-13.

Monroe beat Highland Park 32-14 and it was Monroe's highest point total in 34 games.

The state's top-rated Class B school, East Lansing, avenged its only 1957 defeat by downing last year's mythical champion, Marshall, by a 21-7 count . . . Battle Creek beat Ypsilanti 34-0 and had three touchdowns called back — the losers wound up with minus one yard rushing.

Warrior Hoop Star Johnston Out 6 Weeks

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Neil Johnston of the Philadelphia Warriors will be out of action at least six weeks and perhaps for most of the season with a knee injury, a physician said Friday.

Johnston, one of the National Basketball Assn. top scorers for the past several years, crashed into a wall and injured the knee in an exhibition contest against the St. Louis Hawks Thursday night at nearby Granite City, Ill.

Winter Golf Capital Begins 64th Season

PINEHURST, N. C. — America's "capital of winter golf" began its 64th annual season Thursday with the opening of the Pinehurst Country Club, home of four famous Pinehurst golf courses.

Yesterday also marked the opening of the resort village's two major hotels, Carolina and Holly Inn, both operated by Pinehurst Incorporated.

Three independently owned and managed hotels — Manor, Pine Crest Inn and Berkshire — begin operations later in the month and all hotel facilities for the popular mid-south resort will be open by mid-October.

Ed Elisian Suspended

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The U.S. Auto Club Executive Committee revoked Friday the probationary license of race driver Ed Elisian of Oakland, Calif., citing the suspension of his highway driving license Monday in Indianapolis Municipal Court. He pleaded guilty to a speeding charge.

RAMBLIN' RAMS — Two problems, both alike, will require solution by St. James grid club here Sunday afternoon. Two rampaging Rams (left above), bulldozing Jack Lyon and slippery Tom Derocher (right) provide the problems — how to stop them. Between the pair, last weekend, they collected 5 TDs in the 44-6 win over St. Clement.

Titans Outscore, Marines, 26-13

DETROIT (AP) — The University of Detroit mixed an alert defense with a sudden-death passing attack and dealt the Quantico Marines their first defeat of the season Friday night, 26-13, before a crowd of 19,107.

The Titans, getting their second victory in three games, started two of their scoring drives after fumble recoveries deep in Marines territory, and got a third march going with a pass interception.

The Detroit line saved at least one touchdown, halting the Marines on the Titan 5 in the final period. In the first quarter, the Titans stopped the Marines on the 6 but Quantico scored moments later after a fumble on the Detroit 15.

Last Minute Goal Gives Pistons Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons evened things at one game each last night when Joe Holup's jump shot in the final 29 seconds gave the Pistons a 108-107 exhibition victory over the Cincinnati Royals.

De Gaulle to Test Reaction to Plan

Returns to France Today After Offering Algeria Aid and Amnesty

AJACCIO, Corsica (AP) — Premier de Gaulle returns home today to test France's reaction to his dramatic offer of massive aid to Algeria and amnesty for rebels who lay down their arms. Algerians—French and North Africans—had shown little enthusiasm.

There was some consternation among rightwing French Colonial leaders at De Gaulle's policy declaration and the outline of a five-year plan for Algeria in Constantine Friday.

The plan calls for vast industrial and housing construction and better opportunities for Algerian Moslems, but leaves virtually all political questions unanswered. De Gaulle never mentioned integration or the phrase "Algeria is French."

After hours of consultation the revolutionary May 13 Committee, whose uprising helped return De Gaulle to power last June, said through a spokesman the program is "excellent, going beyond our expectations." Informed sources said, however, that the Europeans have no other course but to back De Gaulle.

Initial comment among the North Africans who make up the bulk of Algeria's 10 million people was reserved.

★ ★ ★

"We have heard promises before," a Moslem shopkeepr said. "We know De Gaulle is different, but suspicion dies slowly."

De Gaulle flew to Corsica Friday night. He is going on to Marseille, after speaking here today.

Airlines Battling for Safety in Sky

By WES COOK
AP Writer

. . . A red light flickered on the airplane control panel. An alarm bell split the muffled roar of the four big engines.

"Fire in number three," snapped the pilot.

Pilot, co-pilot and engineer moved swiftly but smoothly to cut off the flaming engine, block its flow of oil and gasoline and set off the built-in extinguisher to smother the fire.

A few minutes later the aircraft settled to the runway, tires squealing softly, and taxied gently to its parking place.

The crew unfastened safety belts . . . and stepped from the cockpit onto the second floor of a building in downtown Kansas City.

They had just completed a trouble-plagued make-believe flight from Kansas City to Los Angeles. The nightmare flight included a fouled-up landing gear, engine failure, severe icing and other assorted difficulties.

Pretend flights in cockpits exactly like those of the big passenger planes — complete with sound effects—is one way in which airlines battle for greater safety in the sky.

Two recent crashes were grim reminders that the battle is never won. A KLM airliner went down in the Atlantic killing 99 and a Northeast Airline plane crashed on the east coast, claiming 23 lives.

But Jim Pyle, chief of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, says air travel is four times safer than going by automobile.

In 1957, the combined U. S. scheduled domestic and international airlines had a fatality rate of only one passenger for 500 million passenger miles.

★ ★ ★

The CAA is working on a modernized program for air traffic control to avoid airplane collisions while the airlines themselves are working to prevent mechanical and human break-downs.

Airlines insist on putting veteran pilots and crews through refresher courses in emergency procedures—such as TWA's Kansas City simulated cockpit course — year after year.

"In the simulator, we can teach new crews as well as veteran fliers the latest emergency procedures developed by ourselves and the industry," said Dean Officer, manager of simulator flight training for Trans World Airlines.

"It is less expensive than operating a regular aircraft and eliminates any risk of costly failure. Here we can make a mistake and then spend as much times as necessary in teaching our crews to take the proper action."

This training is in addition to the pilots' and crews' regular flying time, which averages 80 hours a month. Most of the flying employes devote a considerable amount of their own time and money, both individually and through professional organizations, to investigating new safety devices and procedures.

Airlines keep an eagle eye on their personnel and their planes.

"We monitor the performance of our equipment and personnel, 24 hours a day through a world-wide network of communications," said Jim Davis, director of line maintenance for TWA.

★ ★ ★

Davis said at least once a year every plane has its engines broken down completely, rebuilt and flight tested.

All airlines maintenance work is subject to CAA regulation and done under inspection of CAA experts.

"It is a great tragedy," said one airline official, "that a part of the price of progress in aviation has been the loss of loved ones.

"But it would be an even greater tragedy if we failed to take corrective action resulting in greater safety for other air passengers."

Reds Mark Anniversary of Sputnik

MOSCOW (AP)—The first earth satellite was sent aloft by the Soviet Union one year ago today. Russia marked the anniversary with predictions of further conquests of space.

★ ★ ★

"The time is not very far distant when we will pass from earth satellites to rockets which make interplanetary flights," said Alexander Nesmeyanov, president of the Soviet Union's Academy of Sciences.

Nesmeyanov spoke Friday night at a gathering of scientists to celebrate the anniversary. Other speakers hailed what they called Russian supremacy in conquering space.

The launching of Sputnik I on Oct. 4, 1957, was equal in importance to the discovery of fire or the invention of the steam engine, Nesmeyanov said.

Sputnik II with the dog Laika aboard was sent up a month later. Both now have burned up in the earth's atmosphere. Sputnik III has made more than 1,935 revolutions around the earth in almost five months aloft and is still going.

The speakers did not mention the U.S. satellite program.

State Building Plans Receive Set-Back

LANSING (AP)—Hopes for an early start on a 14-story, 10 million dollar new state office building opposite the capitol faded today.

A legislative committee empowered to undertake the project yesterday refused to approve a basis for financing tendered informally by the State Administrative Board.

Instead, it offered an alternative immediately declared unacceptable by State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown.

It would require the state board to invest state employes retirement funds in the project at a lower interest rate than now could be obtained on the open market. The administrative board meets on Monday.

New Children's Nursery Schedules Open House

An open house will be held at the new Meadowbrook Children's Nursery, 3480 Shimmons Rd., Pontiac Township, from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 12.

The nursery area covers eight acres of land. Two teachers will supervise children's activities when the nursery opens Monday, Oct. 13. It is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gormaine, 10495 W. 11 Mile Rd., Huntington Woods.

Adult Education Drops 8 Per Cent in Michigan

LANSING (AP) — An eight per cent decline in persons enrolled in adult education courses in Michigan schools is reported by Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction.

Bartlett said the number this fall is about 200,000, as against about 215,000 last year.

He said practical arts courses gained 16 per cent, and health, safety and driver education enrollments were up about 20 per cent, but that these gains were more than offset by a lower enrollment in courses of social, citizenship and community values.

UNITED FUND

The lubricant for happiness is "sharing." The selfish person is miserable, no matter how much he accumulates he wants more, sticks it away like a squirrel, hoards it, gloats over it, guards it with his life and his only compensation is acquisition. The generous person may accumulate wealth but his greatest happiness is sharing it with others.

M. E. SIPLE

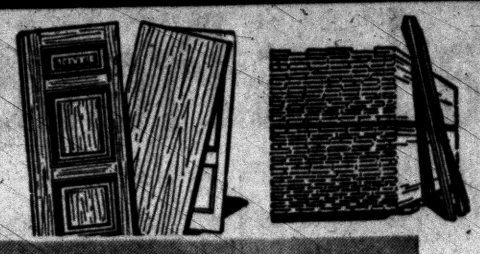

The United Fund, your United Fund, is a lubricant that eases tensions, brings happiness, first into your life and second into the lives of others. To bring this clearly into facus look at the record of just one recipient of these funds — Scouting. Over the many years of Scouting existence, I challenge you to find more than the exception of delinquency. It has been your money that gave these boys and girls sturdy character, perception, and moral courage to choose according to their Scout training. Your money has made good citizens and what better investment could you make.

Buy Happiness! Give generously to United Fund. It's yours, your know.

PASS-THROUGH — This shuttered pass-through is in the wall between kitchen and den. Walls and built-in bookcase in the den are knotty pine. Kitchen cupboards are also the same pine. The wallpaper has a stylized rooster on a bright coral background.

ON PACKER COURT — The Junior Lewis Wrenns live in this ranch style home in Upper Long Lake Estates. Houseman-Spitzley built the red brick house with board and batten trim. Shutters are gray. The Wrenns moved here from Royal Oak just a year ago.

QUIET, NOW — It was a rare moment of stillness for young Kelly Wrenn; he's usually more active. He and his mother take their ease in the family living room. The beige walls and cocoa carpeting provide a neutral background for the bright chintz sofa and the green upholstered chairs. Curtains are white and draperies nut brown.

Your Neighbor's House

Young Moderns Have Colonial Taste

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Three weeks before Kelly Wrenn made his debut into the world, his parents moved into their new home on Packer Court in Upper Long Lake Estates. Kelly, now a year old, is a blue-eyed "demon," according to his mother, Mrs. Lewis Wrenn, Jr.

This brick is painted white and is topped with a planter. Above it is a series of small pictures, hung one above the other.

Draperies at both sets of windows are nut brown with sheer white dotted cafe curtains over the lower half. The drop leaf table, chairs and open hutch cupboard are maple. Mrs. Wrenn displays her collection of milk glasses in the cupboard.

WHITE FIREPLACE

The fireplace which takes up a complete corner has a white Roman brick chimney. Five bricks high, the slate-topped hearth is multi-colored. Trim around the opening is brass. The only decoration on the chimney is a clock mounted in a square wooden case.

Against the one long wall in this room there is a chintz covered sofa. The print, a fruit and vegetable one, is mostly green, rose and coral. Step lamp tables hold glass lamps with white shades.

Next to the fireplace is a plain green lounge chair. Across the room there is an arm chair upholstered in a duller green. Completing the colonial touch is a Boston rocker and a maple desk with lots of little drawers.

Between the living room and porch there is a den. This has a corktone tile floor and pine paneled walls. Mrs. Wrenn is still working on the large braided rug which combines shades of coral, green and brown. Curtains are white cafes.

The hallway between den and kitchen has room for laundry equipment. At one end is a small half bath. This has gold and white diamond patterned paper. Fixtures and curtains are white. The floor is beige tile.

This same beige tile extends into the kitchen. A minute round braided rug lays in front of the sink. Counter tops are beige Formica in a linen weave. Cupboards are knotty pine.

COLONIAL WALLPAPER

WHITE BRICK — The corner fireplace has a massive Roman brick chimney, painted white. The raised hearth is multi-colored slate. The face of the clock and the little tea kettle match the brass trim on the fire opening. Beyond the green lounge chair the maple hutch cupboard in the dining room is visible. You can see some of Mrs. Wrenn's collection of milk glass.

Check Complexion First

Remember your complexion when choosing colors for your rooms. Too much yellow in a green on your bath room walls may give you a sickly appearance as you see yourself in your morning mirror. Green with a blue or gray cast is generally more flattering. As a wall-color, blue is used to best advantage in a room filled with sunlight.

Brad Tightens Knob

To keep wooden drawer or door knobs from turning loose, a science magazine suggests this idea: First turn the fastening screw up tight from the inside. Then drive a brad through into the knob, also from the inside. This keeps the knob from turning and coming unscrewed. If you want to remove it later, merely turn out the screw and pull the knob off the brad.

RECORD CABINET — Lois Lawson, NBC television singer, is showing off a record cabinet you can build to house the speakers and chassis of your hi-fi equipment as well as your records. A handy shelf on one side may be raised or lowered. You may obtain a full-sized pattern to trace on wood, then saw out, by sending $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Pontiac Press, Van Nuys, California.

China Cabinet Solves Corner Problem

The bathroom is sandalwood and beige. Wallpaper is gold with a tiny figure. The medicine chests are built into the walls. To hide the contents, Mrs. Wrenn pasted wallpaper on the backs of the glass doors. On the exterior there are handsome beaded W's. Window and shower curtains are gold.

SET THE PATTERN

Furniture is pine. Above the bed Mr. Wrenn put up a shelf to cover the long bed light. Mrs. Wren put a ruffle of the curtain material around it, then set a pair of pewter candlesticks and two pewter mugs on the shelf.

The exterior of the Wrenn house is board and batten and red brick. Shutters are gray. Red petunias carry out the color scheme. The lot is half an acre.

School homework gets off to a good start with this desk made of plywood and solid stock. The construction is as simple as the modern lines of the desk itself. Pattern 402, which gives cutting guides and shows every step, is 25 cents. This pattern also is included in Packet 62 with four other patterns for simple furniture all for $1. Add 10 cents service charge for orders under $1.

Build Down for More Space

Basements are making a comeback. This year two U. S. homes will be built over basements for every one built on slabs. In the Northeast, four out of every five new houses will have basements.

The reason, according to a survey by a science magazine: Home buyers want more space, and a basement, they are finding, is the cheapest way to get it.

A basement can double the size of a house while adding only one-tenth to the cost. Below deck, you get space at $1 to $2 a square foot that would cost $10 to $15 upstairs. The space, though rough, is also far cheaper to finish.

The home planner who shies away from basements as cheerless caverns with dusty joists and naked light bulbs is in the "cellar age," one architect said. He and other experts listed three essentials for a modern basement: Natural light, planned layout (utilities and storage separated from activity areas), and direct outdoor access.

With these three basics, another architect said, "there is no limit to the opportunities for downward expansion of upstairs family life. Your workshop can gain status and dignity. You can have a game room, or even a swimming pool and gymnasium.

"A sewing center, party kitchen and barbecue, or a queen-size laundry, will lure the lady of the house. Kids can be cornered for play in bad weather and teenagers can rock and roll in noisy seclusion."

Warming Helps Tape

Plastic electrician's tape, which can do all kinds of jobs from insulating a wire to repairing a garden hose, will work more effectively if you first warm it against a lightbulb. This warming brings about two improvements: (1) It makes the adhesive hold faster, especially in cold weather; and (2) it makes the tape more elastic so that you can wrap it more tightly.

Furring refers to wooden or metal strips that are applied to walls, ceilings and roofs to provide an even surface for the application of wall board, acoustical tiles or shingles.

GET STARTED — Since it's the small fry that get the biggest thrills at Christmastime, we thought we should begin the do-it-yourselfer's busy season with a pony rocker for real tiny tots. This toy is designed so even the smallest infant can sit in it without fear of falling out. When it's all painted up with bright colors and decorated with a few upholstery tacks, you'll have a real range ridin' bronc. To build the article requires no particular skill because you simply trace the full size patterns on plywood and then saw them out and put them together. Painting is easy because you merely trace the horse's features on the plywood, then paint over the tracings. The pattern gives complete directions for putting the parts together and the colors to use in painting. Simple tools are all you need. A jig saw, or even a hand coping saw, will suffice. To obtain the full size pony rocker pattern No. 131 send $1.00 to Steve Ellingson, The Pontiac Press, Van Nuys, Calif.

MAKE A CHAIR or a set of chairs. You will be amazed at what a simple job it is. These chairs are comfortable too. Seats and backs are padded and the arm chair is a little wider than pull-up. Pattern 224 is 25 cents. It also is included in the Quick and Easy Furniture Packet No. 13 which gives five different patterns all for $1. Add 10 cents service charge for orders under $1.

To Mix a Little Mortar

To mix small batches of mortar or concrete for pointing and patching jobs, use a clean garbage-can lid. Invert the lid and set it in an empty keg or box so that it won't wobble on its handle. It'll make mixing faster and easier than a bucket or other deep containr.

STOP LEAKY BASEMENTS

Today's Homeowners Have Inflation Hedge

"The home you pay $16,000 for today," says H. V. Simpson, executive head of West Coast Lumbermen's Association, "may well be worth $25,000 when you finish paying for the mortgage 15 or 20 years from now."

At the current rate of inflation, Simpson said, almost everything we buy is going up at the rate of about 1 per cent every four months. The price tag on a home, and most other commodities, is two and one-half times what it was in 1941, he said. A home that sold for $10,000 then, today will demand $25,000.

Certain types of home styles, Simpson warned, retain their selling appeal through the years. Homes designed with wood-sided exteriors are by far the most popular, the building expert points out. People identify comfortable living with homes sided in attractive, well-textured woods like western red cedar or west coast hemlock.

By far the best selling homes, Simpson advised, are those which make liberal use of wood paneling, built-ins and cabinets inside the home. The largest majority, nearly 95 per cent of all women, want kitchens finished in popular woods. One of the most beautiful of the woods for all manner of interior usage is Douglas fir, he advised, with west coast hemlock and western red cedar running close seconds.

Naturally-finished woods seem to be the most popular, he pointed out, although these western woods will take stain, paint or enamel wonderfully well.

The average home built today, Simpson said, is far superior to the ones built just a few years ago. They are better equipped, better designed, have larger rooms and more conveniences, especially well-thought-out storage walls of wood, and built-ins to charm any woman.

Terms and down payments are the most liberal in years, the lumber leader said, and despite the current business decline, prices are still climbing and a housing boom is not far distant. This is a good time to buy, he advised. A home is one of the few purchases a family may make which does not depreciate, but actually gains in value with each passing year, Simpson pointed out.

Lumber Grading Has Real Value

All major wood species practice it. The grade-mark itself appears on the end or face of lumber. It shows a mill number, the grade number and the initials of a recognized grading and inspection agency for the species involved.

In the case of Southern Pine, for instance, the initials are S.P.I.B., for Southern Pine Inspection Bureau.

The important thing is what the grade-mark represents. Its appearance signifies the lumber is up to grade, and hence manufactured and processed in compliance with grading standards established for the producing industry by the inspection agency.

Each grade carries its own standards, the idea being to define a quality level commensurate with the requirements of end use. When the standards are comprehensive and cover all essential standpoints of quality, the consumer, in turn, is thoroughly protected.

For illustration, let's consider the case of "framing" lumber, whose primary use is for the vital structural parts, which must hold the house together and provide its strength. Obviously, such lumber should possess high stress values. The U. S. Forest Products Laboratory also says it is "vitally important" that the wood be well seasoned. Proper air or kiln drying is mandatory for all grades recommended for house framing.

In either a new home or major home addition or remodeling job, the quality of the basic lumber structure helps determine how long the house will last and at what maintenance expense. This explains why the use of good quality material, as identified by the grade-mark, is an important long term economy. By the same token, the device is also useful in selecting lumber of permanent character for uses such as exterior siding and interior paneling.

Outdoor Screen Has Double Use

Out of lightweight framing lumber, metal fence posts and a Peg-Board panel the average home craftsman can build an attractive outdoor screen useful in providing privacy for a patio, screening the wind, cutting off the view of an unattractive area or merely adding a decorative touch to a yard setting.

Lightweight and easy to move, the screen is a 4' square panel of Peg-Board in a framing of grooved 1 by 2-inch lumber. Angle irons at the corners strengthen the framework. The legs are sections of metal fence posts which extend 1' from the bottom and are pushed into the ground to hold the screen upright.

With suitable Peg-Board fixtures, the screen can be equipped with shelves or fitted for hanging lawn and garden tools or barbecuing equipment.

One Yard Off Floor Is Rule for Kitchen Height

Generally kitchen counters should measure 36 inches from the floor to the ceramic tile covering on the top. Ranges, dishwashers, laundry equipment and other products of most manufacturers of appliances conform to this height. One exception to the 36-inch rule is the pull-out shelf or table for lengthy chores such as peeling fruits or preparing vegetables. This section should be low enough for comfortable operation when one is seated on a chair or stool.

STAINED GLASS — New lamp shades having the warm, glowing colors of stained glass are low-cost reproductions of famous church windows on Bakelite rigid vinyl sheet printed by a process using 10 different colors. A laminate of similar material protects the brilliant colors of these reproductions of famous American stained glass windows such as the Resurrection, the Nativity, a Methodist window, St. Martin of Tours and St. Mary Magdalene, and Dickens Christmas Carols. The lamp shades are available in four sizes from 9½ to 12¼ inches high and 8 to 13 inches in diameter, with adaptors for use on table lamps. Table lamps and three sizes of pin-up lamps — to 20 inches high are supplied with light cord and socket assembled. All of the new shades, including the flat prints, are laced to heavy wire frames. Easy to keep clean, Bakelite rigid vinyl sheet resists marring, scratching, tearing and cracking.

Undercoating Required

On new woodwork that is to be given an opaque coating, an undercoater is required. For a finishing coat use semi-gloss, enamel or flat oil paint. Keep in mind, however, that flat oil paints are easily finger-marked and are unsatisfactory for window sills. All of these coatings can also be used to refinish woods that have previously been painted, varnished or shellacked.

Work Up From Bottom

When refinishing furniture, home experts at Michigan State University recommend turning it upside down and applying the finish to the underparts first. Then tip it right side up and finish the job.

Many homemakers cover their bathroom or bedroom vanity with the same hardboard marble-patterned paneling used in modernizing their bathroom walls.

Roof Decking Used as Ceiling

Plank-and-beam ceilings have a great deal of appeal not only on an esthetic basis but also from very practical angles involving the cutting of building costs. The same material can be utilized for two purposes.

Planking or roof decking from the western pine region refers to lumber at least two inches thick and five inches wide. Any of 10 species produced in the area offers the required strength and insulation factors for use in roofs or flooring.

However, the Western Pine Association has created a new classification of "selected" for roof decking. The basis for the grade is appearance. At least one side of each board must meet certain minimum appearance standards. This face side is graded to facilitate use of the decking as the underside of ceilings.

The other side of the decking—the side with the less desirable appearance — would be covered by the roof finishing material or floorings.

Like paneling from the western pine region, the decking may be given any type of finish—lacquer, shellac, varnish, stain or paint. When used in a room with wall paneling, some interesting effects may be worked out. One species of wood may be used for the walls and another for the ceiling. An additional contrast may be provided by the beams.

Roof decking and paneling are available in any of these species from the western pine region: Ponderosa pine, Idaho white pine, sugar pine, Engelmann spruce, Douglas fir, larch, inland red cedar, incense cedar, lodgepole pine and white fir.

Figuring for Paint

One gallon of the first coat of exterior oil paint for brick surfaces will cover about 200 square feet. Double this to 400 square feet per gallon, or twice as much coverage, for the second coat.

The steel from which venetian blinds are made is usually produced in a long strip which is painted on both sides simultaneously. Subsequently, the stock is cut into proper lengths for a blind.

Smooth Brick to Paint

It is not hard to paint old brick. Where the mortar has crumbled or bits of brick have been chipped off by the effects of weather, the surface can be made smooth before painting by filling in cracks and broken places with mortar. After priming, small defects on the surface can be filled with putty. Then put on your coat of paint and you will be pleased with the smooth effect.

Ask your dealer about the liquid masking that can be used to protect glass when painting window sashes.

Interior and Exterior of House Can Match

When planning to paint a new house or to repaint your present dwelling, plan your color scheme carefully. Skilled colorists these days are pointing to the advantages of having—not a series of attractive room color schemes—but a single color scheme which is adaptable with variations to your entire household—indoors and outdoors.

This gives the assurance that a house will be truly restful. When colors throughout the house are in harmony, furniture and accessories can be transferred successfully from room to room as your whim dictates. Indoor furniture can be carried outdoors on occasion and vice-versa.

If your house has the large glass areas now in vogue, room vistas which are visible from outside harmonize with the exterior color scheme of your house that frames the picture windows. At smaller windows, glimpses of curtains blowing in the wind blend with the paint on the outdoor trim and shutters.

Interior, Exterior Walls Can Have Latex Coat

For masonry surfaces, new exterior latex paints are increasingly popular. In a choice of lovely colors, these fast-drying, easily-applied finishes beautify brick, cement, concrete, stucco, cinder blocks, usually in one coat.

The exterior latex coatings are highly resistant to alkali and have great powers of adhesion as do the chlorinated rubber-base paints which are also strongly recommended for exterior masonry, as well as basement walls, floors, and swimming pools.

WALL TREAT — "Herb garden" under glass is a treat for the eyes all winter long. It's a promise of savory experiences next summer when seeds that packets contained sprout flavorful garden goodness.

Oldsters Like Open Planning

Many of the nation's top architects have tried their hand at designing the ideal retirement home for elderly couples who want maximum comfort and convenience with a minimum of work and upkeep.

One of the most popular designs for the retirement home, reports H. V. Simpson, executive head of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, is the one-floor, open-area home with lots of window space and worlds of handy, compact storage walls.

The open area home, Simpson said, features exposed beams and ceilings and combines living room, dining and kitchen in one very livable, spacious area. Ordinarily, the different use areas are separated by interesting contrived storage dividers which come up only about four feet high so there is no feeling of isolation or confinement.

Two bedrooms provide an extra room for family guests, Simpson pointed out. For the grandchildren, built-in beds which slide out from the wall at night, but serve as davenports in daytime, are ideal space savers.

Older people are set in their ways, the expert observes, and one thing they insist on is plenty of wood in their homes. They like the idea of the exposed beams and ceiling of attractive Douglas fir and they invariably demand that wall paneling and all the built-ins and divider sections be made of well-grained softwoods like fir or west coast hemlock. Wood is warm to their touch, and friendly, and it has a character and charm which they enjoy.

Either fir or hemlock can be finished naturally with clear lacquers or varnishes and this helps lighten up the retirement home, which Simpson says is a must, because older people are easily hurt in dark, unlighted rooms and halls.

Swipe Baby's Swabs for Tiny Paint Jobs

When a tiny brush is needed to apply rust retarder to a scratched car surface, a disposable cotton swab will do the job neatly and efficiently. Few home handymen keep an array of small, seldom-used brushes but often a paint touchup task like this demands one.

After rust retarder dries, a fresh swab dipped in enamel will neatly apply paint to the narrow, scratched surface.

Assemble Seed Packets for Wall 'Herb Garden'

Those of us who aren't so ambitious are apt to uncover a supply of seeds which we never got around to planting last spring. This discovery usually comes when we tidy up the garden equipment and is accompanied by the firm vow we will get them into the ground next year.

Meanwhile, however, there's a harvest to be made from the gaily colored packets. You can empty the seeds in ordinary envelopes, label and file them and use the packets for decorative purposes.

Easier to grow than a full fledged herb garden is a picture of one under glass. All you need to make sucvh a savory portrait is a heavy, colored cardboard packing and a sheet of plain glass or fairly sturdy transparent plastic.

Paste the seed packets on the cardboard in any design that pleases you, or line them up in regular, spaced rows.

Another suggestion from the National Garden Bureau for using seed packets dresses up ordinary kitchen canisters with a lively touch. To do this, you cut out the vegetables or flowers from the cover and glue them to canister surfaces.

Brush over the decals with clear varnish or shellac. The same technique can be used to decorate kitchen chairs or cabinets.

The almost-real illustrations make good mates for kitchen towels and curtains that are also printed with vegetable and flowers any gardener would be proud to own.

Fire-Protective Paints Fight Fre Two Ways

Fire-protective paints fight flames in two ways. First, unlike many other paints, they are non-flammable themselves. Second, when heated, they go through chemical changes that have the effect of stifling flames.

There are two types of fire paint. One type gives off chlorine or hydro-chloric acid gas when heated. This gas forms a fire-resisting barrier between the flames and the painted surface.

The other type of protective paint foams up when heated into a thick, spongy cake. This not only slows the spread of flames along the surface; it also acts as an insulator, keeping fire heat away from wood underneath the paint.

How do these paints stack up in purely decorative qualities? The report says that they are available in a "fair variety" of colors factory-mixed, and that they can be mixed with standard pigments to produce other shades.

Their flexibility and resistance to chipping are termed good. But they do not compare so well with other paints in washability. One fire paint tested by an independent laboratory was rated only fair on this point (poor in the case of ink stains). The report says that this is "pretty close to most standard enamels, but two or three nothces below the very best."

What Are Your Plans?

Although a high-pitched or steep roof usually costs mor than a flat or low pitched roof, it can be more economical in the long run if you require future enlargement of your living quarters. The existence of a steep roof provids framing already in being for attic rooms. As your family and finances grow, the remodeling can be performed without need of structural alterations. Wood paneling and other finish can be nailed directly to the studs and rafters of the existing structure.

TRASH BURNING TIP → Place a wire trash burner on a metal wheelbarrow and use this to burn leaves in. No ugly burned area will be left on the ground when the job is finished, and you can move the wheelbarrow from place to place as needed.

Check Home Against Fire

There will be a dangerous fire in the U.S.A. within the next 30 seconds, and this time it could be on your block.

Fire prevention experts for Allied Chemical's Barrett Division, who find that 92 per cent of these fires are created through carelessness, suggest to home-owners that they take the following safeguards:

1. Conduct an annual inspection of the home, preferably in the fall when your regular service man checks the heating system.

2. Have a competent electrician make a complete electrical checkup. (You'd be surprised to learn how easily new appliances added to the home over the course of the summer may have overtaxed the circuits.)

3. Have your fireplace and chimney inspected for cracks, fissures, proper draft and cleaniness. If you contemplate a reroofing job, make certain the contractor uses asphalt shingles that will offer protection from sparks from your neighbor's chimney as well as your own.

4. Take a careful look at the housekeeping in your attic, in the basement, the garage and in the closets. Debris has an astonishing way of accumulating, espe cially in the summer months when the youngsters are adept at collecting vacation mementos.

5. If you're planing to build a family recreation room in either attic or cellar, Barrett building materials experts highly recommend fireproof gypsum board or insulating tiles with fire-resistant paint on walls and ceiling.

In many communities your local fire prevention bureau will be happy to arange for a special inspection of your home by a trained member.

Check Flooring by Weight to Get Hardwood

Hardwood Flooring Test! When purchasing hardwood flooring, it's a wise policy to make sure that the lumber is not mixed. Sometimes softwoods are included in hardwood flooring lumber. Mixing the species will result in noticeable uneven wear. Bumpy surfaces will develop.

One way to check on the quality of flooring material is suggested by the Maple Flooring Manufacturers Association. This is to weigh suspected flooring against known hardwoods.

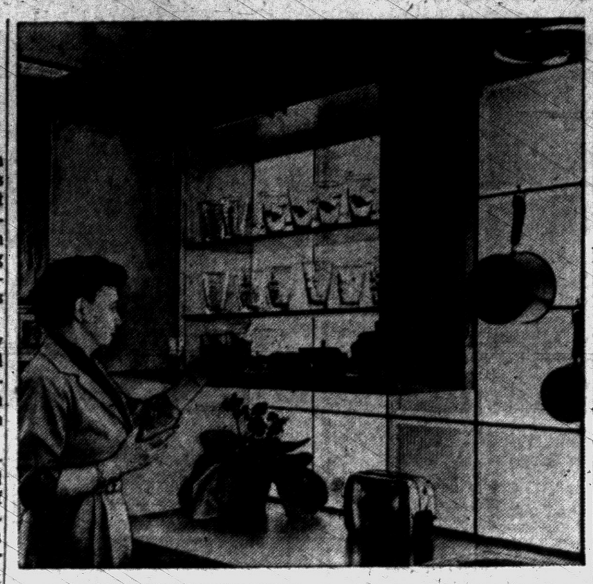

Soft Maple is usually about three-fourths as heavy as Northern hard maple. Red Maple, the heaviest of the soft species, will weigh approximately four-fifths as much as Northern maple. Lengths and other measurements, of course, must correspond.

Choose Third Grade Hardwood Flooring — A money saver. The thrifty Third Grade of Northern Hard Maple Flooring, for instance, will lay well and provide a good serviceable floor. Gives excellent satisfaction in homes, stores, shops, recreation spaces and in military housing projects. It is always available at your local lumber and material dealers.

The cost of Third Grade flooring is about one-half that of First Grade. You will like the contrast in color pattern reflected in the grain of the wood.

Putty a Good Friend

Many a painting job would be left unfinished were it not for the good offices of putty. There is scarcely a repaint job done without first going over the surface to be painted and filling nail-holes and cracks with the right texture of putty. Window frames must be putty-protected by this dough-like mixture, intelligently applied.

CONVENIENT CUPBOARD — Groping for glassware is not a problem for this housewife, whose daylighted kitchen cupboard is hung on a background of translucent glass block. The block used here are 12-inch solar-selecting units which transmit soft, glare-free daylight and reject excessive solar heat of the summer sun. Cooking steam and vapors are harmless to the maintenance-free glass block, which can be cleaned by merely wiping off with a damp cloth. For convenience in hanging pots and pans on the panel, hooks are embedded in the mortar joints.

Here's the Answer

Question: Some months ago I bought a second-hand jointer for smoothing the edges of boards. It worked fine until recently, when it began to chatter slightly. Also, the board edges do not seem to be coming out as smooth as they used to. Can you tell me what the trouble is?

Answer: The symptoms you describe indicate that the cutter blades of the jointer are in need of sharpening. You can have this done professionally or, if you have experience along this line, do it with a flat oilstone or slip-stone. You can get a booklet describing the sharpening process from almost any dealer who sells jointers.

Question: I want to make a room divider with glass blocks but am a bit leery about handling mortar or cement. A friend tells me there's a new way to hold the blocks together. Is this so?

Question: I began taking up metalworking as a hobby recently. In reading over various instructions for projects, I often run across the term "draw filing." Can you tell me what it mens?

Answer: Draw filing is the finish filing which gives a smooth surface to a piece of metal that previously has been filed roughly. In a draw filing, it is important that only a very smooth file be used.

The filing is not done in the normal manner, which is by pushing the file length-wise straight ahead or slightly diagonally. Instead, the file is grasped with one hand at each end and pushed and pulled sideways across the workd. In doing draw filing, an even pressure must be maintained at all times.

FHA Mortgage Helps

For the purchase of an older house that needs repairs or renovation it's possible to get an FHA-insured mortgage loan in an amount that will include the necessary painting and improvements. The FHA commitment will be based on the value of the house as improved.

Hold Walls Together

Homeowners are finding they can hold old walls together with wall coverings. Decorative vinyl plastic, for example, goes on over cracks and makes an attractive new surface. It does double duty by being washable.

No Need to Pay for Past Errors

There are many reasons why a house simply may not have enough heat—but no reasons why it has to stay that way.

Owners of older houses, says the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, now usually have a choice of remedies with which to correct the shortcomings of the past, and there is virtually no situation in which adequate answer may not be forthcoming.

Why the deficiencies? There can be many possible explanations, GAMA says. Owners or builders may have been compelled to keep heating plant expenditures to an absolute minimum. There was less appreciation of adequate heating, fewer and less widely used automatic controls, far les use of fans and circulator pumps for distributing warm air or hot water.

Additionaly, the house may have changed—rooms built on without enough heating being added, insultion losing it effectiveness, or wear and tear opening up more cracks through which cold air could enter.

But whatever the history of the shortcoming, it probably doesn't hold now, the gas trade group says. Modern furnaces and boilers for central heating are matched by improved ducts, registers, baseboards and radiators for distributing heat. Controls make it possible to assure that remote portions of the house will be adequately heated.

Compactness of modern gas equipment, along with increasing supplies of the fuel, help provide the solution in many instances, GAMA states. Depending on the particular situation, recessed wall or floor furnace or space heaters can find application.

Today's home owner need not be restricted in heating because of lack of chimneys, or chimneys being poorly located, GAMA adds. Type B vents, designed specifically for gas, can be installed economically. There are gas heaters vented directly through the wall, without the usual vent pipes or chimneys.

When taping joints in drywall construction the finish coats of cement will come out smoother if the job is done with a plasterer's steel finishing trowl instead of a wide putty knife.

Treat New Wood Before Painting

When new wood is tobe painted, a primer is applied first. Next, all cracks or nail head indentions are filled with spackling material (indoors) or putty (outdoors). The filler is carefully smoothed and allowed to dry before brushing on the finishing coats.

Before painting over a knot, be sure to fill any cavities with plastic wood or wood putty and then apply a sealer to the area to prevent the sap in the knot from staining the new coating. This sealer may be a product made especially for the purpose—or shellac. When you use shellac, remember that you usually ned alcohol to "cut" or thin it. Th abel on the can will let you know the proportions to use.

WESTERN RANCH — Long and low roof lines, with large overhangs all around, add to the exterior design of this modern adaptation of an original western ranch house. Living and sleeping areas of the house are fully separated.

MAIN LEVEL — The floor plan of the main level, in the version without a basement, is shown above. If you choose a basement, you will have room for a fourth bedroom, recreation room, two baths and a work or hobby shop. Notice how closets in the above plan insulate the bedrooms from the rest of the house.

Wire-brushed plywood and battens are used for exterior walls along with some stone veneer. The roof is of white marble chips. The rear patio is of pebble-finish concrete.

Overall dimensions of the house are 60 by 66 feet 6 inches. The main level living area has 2,012 sq. ft.; the garage has 700 sq. ft. For the basement version add 1,634 sq. ft. but remember the dollar cost per square foot for the basement is much less than for living areas.

New House Has to Settle Down

There are more than 30,000 component parts in a new home, and like a new car, a new house deserves to be broken in properly to assure many years of comfortable use.

A new homeowner who understands this will be prepared for the inevitable cracks in the walls, walks and driveways, sticking windowns, curling asphalt tiles, etc. They are just some of the things that happen to a house during the break-in period. And they should not be a cause for major concern.

To begin with, if there are any repairs needed due to defective workmanship or materials, a reputable builder will correct this situation during the first few months of occupancy. And, you can take out a form of insurance by having a clause in the building contract stating that the builder will make these corrections for a stated period of time.

It's a good idea to get together a basic home tool kit and supplies for everyday use to help keep the house in tip-top shape. Such a basic set would include, among other things, a size 16 utility wrench, faucet washers, pliers, screw drivers, claw hammer, putty knife, a square a saw, a level, a box of nails, brads, screws, some friction tape, fuses, etc.

Then, when and if the floors begin to creak a bit, or the woodwork begins to separate, you can relax and wait for your house to settle. Secure in the knowledge that when the settling process is finished, you will have a home that is mature, satisfying and sturdily equipped to meet the wear and tear that day-to-day living may bring.

Home Builders Turn to Color

Many architects are predicting that the home of tomorrow will be even more colorful then today's housing. Colorful exteriors will add to the new brightness of the home.

Some architects, for example, are combining natural building materials such as hard wood, ceramic tile, and brick to add more color as well as texture to their designs.

While these natural building materials have been used for thousands of years — ceramic tile has been used for nearly 7,000 years—architects are combining them in the most advanced designs.

Ceramic tile has long been a standard building material in baths and kitchens, but since it is now available in more than 200 different colors it offers the architect unusual opportunities for colorful modern exteriors.

Scientific research also is finding better uses for this ancient building material. One of the recent advances in cement technology made by the researchers has reduced the time and cost of setting ceramic tile.

Colorful Western Ranch Gets Modern Innovations

By JOHN O. B. WALLACE
AP Newsfeatures

He borrowed from western lore for structural lines of the house, but elsewhere his plan was steadfastly modern. By Architect Jerry Gropp of Seattle, Wash., the design is an improvement over many ranch homes for several reasons:

(1) It completely divides the sleeping and living areas, (2) the interior abounds in a variety of decorative details, and (3) the owner has the option of building with or without a basement.

THE LIVING AREA

The beam-ceiling living room is 15 feet 6 inches by 20 feet 6 inches and has a stone raised-hearth fireplace. The beams support a wire-brushed, surfwood ceiling.

The living room has a view both to the rear garden and to the front entrance courtyard. The latter is shielded from the street by a stone wall. Other living room features include cove lighting and hardwood paneling.

The dining room, 12 by 15 feet, has a slate floor and can be shut off from the living room by sliding shojii screens. An aluminum sliding door opens from the dining room onto a rear patio.

THE SLEEPING AREA

There are three large bedrooms and three baths on the one level. The basement version provides space for a fourth bedroom and two more baths.

All bedrooms have sliding door wardrobe closets. The master bedroom has its own private bath with shower. Baths are arranged for economical installation of plumbing.

The family kitchen is 19 feet 6 inches by 20 feet 6 inches. It has a beam ceiling, cove lighting and a fireplace with built-in barbecue grille. The kitchen proper has an all-in-one kitchen unit and matching cabinets. There is ample space for informal family dining.

The mud room, between the family kitchen and the garage, can be entered from an outside entrance and from the garage. The laundry center, with washer, dryer and tray, is in an alcove off the main bedroom hall—handy to accumulated soiled clothes.

A rear patio extends nearly the full width of the house. In the basement version, there is a lower recreation room, 24 by 21 feet 6 inches, with a raised hearth fireplace. The basement version likewise provides space for a large work or hobby shop, 17 by 29 feet.

The double garage, with access to the family kitchen through the mud room, has numerous storage shelves and a large storage closet. There are closets in the mud room, the entrance foyer and in each of the three bedrooms. In the bedroom wing, additionally, there are a linen closet and a large special closet just outside the master bedroom.

The entrance courtyard has a low, stone wall as a backdrop for plantings. The plan provides for construction either with or without

Stock Market at Record High

Trading Is at Heaviest Point in Nearly a Year as Boom Continues

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market roared on to a series of record highs this week. Trading was the heaviest in nearly a year.

It was the third straight week th market has set historic highs and the seventh consecutive weekly rise.

Volume of 19,227,870 shares was the biggest for any week since the week ended Oct. 26, 1957, when 20,804,100 shares changed hands. That was the week stocks climaced a long decline by falling to the lowest levels since January 1955. The present upturn dates from then.

No day passed without the ticker tape failing behind transactions this week on the New York Stock Exchange. Buying interest was intense. The market declined only on Wednesday and then moderately as profits were taken. Even on that day, the laggard oil section advanced against the trend.

Wildcat walkouts at Chrysler and the brief strike at General Motors did not throw the market off stride. Wall Street acted as if th labor agreements would be arrived at and that nothing would throw a monkey wrench into the rebounding economy. Wall Street guessed right.

The temperament of this week's market was such that the GM strike brought no nervous selling but the GM settlement bolstered overall confidence and spurred GM to a jump of 1¼ in heavy trading on Friday.

Tourists Flock to Puerto Rico

Climate, Scenery Join With Modern Facilities in Historic Island

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—(UPI)—The pleasant trade winds that blow across the Antilles are now whipping up a healthy tide of tourism for Puerto Rico.

Climate, scenery, new facilities for residence and recreation, strategic location and a magnificent historical tradition combine to arouse the interest and imagination of every reflective visitor to the island.

★ ★ ★

The formerly Spanish city of San Juan Bautista de Puerto Rico lives on in the heart of a modern metropolitan area that already exceeds 600,000 population.

4 CENTURIES

Through more than four centuries this "Old City," less than a mile square, accumulated magnificent traditions of bold explorers, buccaneers, brave soldiers, able statesmen and enterprising merchants.

Another attraction is La Fortaleza, the government house. The seat of 170 governors in four centuries, it is the oldest government house in the Western hemisphere.

Construction of La Fortaleza, also known as The Palace of Santa Catalina, started in 1533. The mansion was burned by the Dutch in 1625, rebuilt in 1640, and subsequently enlarged. Its two 16th century towers are said to be the earliest examples of military architecture in the Americas.

And at Fort Brooke, located near the ancient environs of the Fortress "San Felipse dei Morro," you can gaze across the bay where Spain measured its power and glory against many nations until the American troops arrived in 1898.

A Word to the Wise

RUTLAND, Vt. (UPI) — After thousands of parking tickets had gone unpaid for years, authorities threatened to prosecute offenders and quickly received a total of $133 in overdue fines.

Interest Rates Soaring

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—It's costing more to borrow all the time. Dearer money is returning with what might be called all deliberate speed.

★ ★ ★

Already there is talk of mortgage money getting tighter at a time when house building is booming again.

★ ★ ★

It costs businessmen more now to borrow from the bank to finance the movement of the crops or the production and stocking of goods for the Christmas trade.

Of late every time the U.S. Treasury has gone to the money market it has had to pay a little more. And its trips will continue as it finances the record peacetime deficit.

Fear of inflation is the bogey that causes the Federal Reserve Board to nudge interest rates higher — although it claims it is following rather than leading the trend.

Fear of inflation also seems to motivate many of the borrowers who had held back during the recession and hesitated for a time when the U.S. government securities market was at its most confused during the summer. Industry's trips to the money market are increasing now — before the costs get still higher.

Few bankers doubt that further hikes in interest rates are ahead. They expect tighter money too—insofar as Federal Reserve drives against inflation can offset the boost to inflation given by Treasury deficit financing.

The trend toward higher interest started in the West and spread to the East. The San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank was the last to lower its discount rate in 1957 and the first to raise it in 1958.

In the words of S. Clark Beise, president of California's Bank of America, the nation's largest, directors of the San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank are allergic to inflation.

He also notes that the demand for loans in California had stayed higher during the recession than in the nation as a whole and that the slump had dealt more kindly with his state than with some others.

★ ★ ★

Some fear that the rise in interest rates, and especially any tightening in the supply of credit, could chill the business recovery just as it is getting under way.

But most hold that confidence is running so high now that dearer money will affect it very little.

3rd Balloon Test of Atom Bomb Next Sunday

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) —The third balloon shot in the current U. S. atomic test series is now scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 12, after two postponements.

Two other balloon shots already have been fired.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the first full-scale underground explosion of the 10-shot series is planned for next Wednesday.

Burglars Take Advantage of Tool Sale, Rob Store

Police reported Friday that thieves broke into the store and used on-sale tools to open three safes containing $1,600.

Skin Diving Troopers Practice, Discover Safe

But one of them came up with a dull colored object. It was a safe, apparently dumped by some crook. The safe had been opened and there was no money in it. Police are checking to find out who lost a safe recently.

Lands Missile Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Army has awarded Chrysler Corp. a $1,319,942 contract for construction of Jupiter intermediate range missiles. The contract, announced Friday by Rep. Robert J. McIntosh (R-Mich), is a continuation of an existing contract. Work will be done at Chrysler's Sterling Township plant.

Thieves Snatch Purses of 2 on Huron Street

I hereby certify this to be a true and accurate Financial Statement of the Oakland County Board of Education Fund and the Oakland County Special Education Fund for the year ended December 31, 1957.

JOHN C. AUSTIN, Vice-Chairman
Oakland County Board of Auditors

The following new Special Education facilities were authorized throughout the county for the 1958-59 school year: ten Speech Correctionists; three Occupational Therapists; one sight-saving room; five Visiting Teachers; sixteen rooms for mentally handicapped and two Diagnosticians for the mentally handicapped.

The County Office has also expanded its staff to provide better professional service to the local school districts. A Speech Pathologist has been employed to provide added service for cases of severe speech defect. In addition, consultant services are now available to all local school districts operating programs for the mentally retarded. In-service training of teachers will be emphasized.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF CALVIN C. Baxter who passed away Oct. 4, 1956.
Beloved husband, sweet, happy memories cling around your name.
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection, who love you in death just the same;
You left behind a broken heart, that never did forget you and never will.
And who always thinks of you and ties to be brave and content
Gone is the face I loved so dear, and silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Sad but true we wonder why, that the best are always first to die
I hope to meet you some day, I know not when;
To clasp your hand in the better land, never to part again
Sadly missed by his wife Eleanor, & sons Calvin Jr. & Henry Jay

Hard to believe it has all these city advantages and yet you can walk out of the large screened in front porch, across a green sloping lawn to your boat that is docked in front of the house. Beautiful lake view from a Thermopane window wall. Ground level recreation room with natural fireplace. We have never seen so many living advantages all in one home. Terms to responsible buyer. Will also consider smaller house in trade. Seeing is believing, so let's make a date for Sunday afternoon. VOORHEIS TO SYLVAN SHORES — TO PROPERTY.

No Waiting

SMALL DOWN PAYMENT . . .

on this 3 bedroom bungalow. Full basement, gas heat, and hot water. Includes piano, washer, softener, wall to wall carpeting and drapes. Good west side location. Only $13,200 on FHA terms.

CRAMPED for SPACE

Do the kiddies need more room to play — to eat — to sleep? Does mother want a 24 ft. living room with fireplace and separate dining room? Does dad want a full basement with gas steam heat? This well located east side home has all this and more. Full price only $9,750 with terms.

WEST SIDE

Built in '41 and just 3 blocks to Donelson & St. Benedict Schools. 3 bedrooms, full basement. Aluminum siding. $11,500 with $500 down on FHA terms. BETTER BE FIRST.

PAMPER YOUR PURSE

No punches pulled in this price slash from $8,450 to $6,800 — owner needs quick cash and will sacrifice his equity for approximately $1,800 for this cute and cozy 2-bedroom ranch off Baldwin. $47 per month along with the purse-pleasing price offer. No reason for shopping — it's vacant — we have the key!

RUSTIC BEAUTY

Here's a split log cabin built with a draftman's eye for detail and a home owner's love for comfort. Located on a large landscaped lot, just ½ block from Elizabeth Lake, it's equipped with electric stove, Hendix duo-matic, Timken furnace and a ledgerock fireplace. The garage and breezeway's attached. You can own this beauty for only $10,950.

GUILTY ! ! !

We gladly admit we are GUILTY of offering this beautiful 2 bedroom ranch-type home and the excellent landscaped lot 75 x 275 ft. is a site to behold. It also offers plastered walls, oak floors, aluminum storms and screens, 2-car garage, a utility room 20 x 13½ ft. and many other good features. Price only $14,500 — This may be the one for which you've been looking.

Bible Lecture Scheduled in 3 Congregations

The three Pontiac congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses will present the special Bible lecture, "God's Kingdom Rules — Is the World's End Near?" at services Sunday.

The lecture will be delivered at 3 p.m. for the West Congregation by E. C. Thornton and by A. J. Kizer for the East Congregation at 5:45 p.m. Both meetings will be held at Kingdom Hall, 600 E. Pike St.

The North Congregation will hear W. P. Strong at 4 p.m. in Kingdom Hall, 4400 W. Walton Blvd., Drayton Plains.

To Vote on Shifting Drains to DPW

Proposal to make the Oakland County Drain Commission office part of the Department of Public Works will be debated Monday by county supervisors prior to their taking a vote on the change.

Clayton G. Lilly of Ferndale, chairman of the board's Drain Committee, will present the proposal.

Lilly's committee, along with the Board of Public Works and the Special County Government Study Committee, approved the move last month on recommendations of Daniel W. Barry, drain commissioner, and Harold K. Schone, DPW director.

Overlapping of projects by both offices is major reason the change is recommended, they said.

If the supervisors go along, this support will give the green light to Oakland lawmakers in Lansing next year to push for amendments to five laws essential to the consolidation.

A resolution recommending increasing the size of the Board of Public Works from five to seven members also will be made by Lilly Monday.

Progress on drawing up county-helping legislation to be put before the 1959 Legislature will be outlined to supervisors by John G. Semann, chairman of the Legislative Committee.

Money matters involving the county's critical welfare financial situation will be heard. Fred W. Smith, Ways and Means Committee chairman, will ask endorsement of the transfer of $160,000 from the county's general fund to relief funds.

The shift, already approved by Smith's committee, will make a total of $544,019 the county has had to "borrow" from other funds to bolster its exhausted welfare treasury.

A final matter to come before the board will be a request to ask the state to reimburse the county for the cost of providing special sheriff's deputies on county lakes over the summer months.

2 Leave TV Quizzes to Disprove Charges

Two former contestants on one of their shows recently claimed they were given answers to questions in advance of appearances. These claims, as well as similar ones against other TV quiz programs, are being investigated by a grand jury.

NBC announced today that, in compliance with the wishes of Barry and Enright, it would temporarily assume show production chores next Monday. NBC program executives will be assigned to the shows.

"We have decided to divorce ourselves from the production and administrative chores involving these shows in order to devote more time to disproving the unfounded charges against the integrity of our programs," Barry and Enright said.

Carillon Recital by F. L. Marriott at Christ Church

Frederick L. Marriott, organist and choirmaster at Central Methodist Church, Detroit, will be guest carillonneur at Christ Church Cranbrook for the weekly recital at 4 p. m. Sunday.

His program will include:

Toccata in D Minor ..... J.S. Bach
Theme and Variations for Carillon ..... Broeck
Come Blessed Rest ..... J.S. Bach
Where'er You Walk ..... Handel
Prelude for Carillon ..... Massen
Mijne Moeder Taal ..... Brandt-Buys

Mr. Marriott will play the following hymns, "Let All Mortal Flesh," "From All That Dwell Beneath the Skies" and "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones."

Parking is available in the parking lot or on Lone Pine road. Listeners may sit in their cars or in Christ Church.

In 1900, the total number of passenger cars registered in the U. S. was 8,000. There are more than 56 million today.

It's a Fact!

This is because the axis of the earth points almost directly toward the polestar. From any given point in the Northern Hemisphere the North Star occupies about the same apparent position throughout every night of the year

Nixon Calls Dems Costly; Truman Says GOP Bungles

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Vice President Richard Nixon told a cheering crowd of Republicans here that a vote for Democrats in the House or Senate is a vote to raise taxes.

★ ★ ★

It also is a vote "to cheapen your money and to stifle the new investment and enterprise which means more jobs and more progress for the American people," Nixon told a bargain priced—$49.50-a-plate — Republican fund-raising dinner here Friday night.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Nixon commended Truman for his support of President Eisenhower in the Lebanon and Quemoy crisis. But he said the former president had been misrepresenting and distorting the record of the administration on other issues.

Nixon said Stevenson had suggested a plebiscite to allow the people of Formosa to choose the kind of government they want. The vice president said there would be more justification for such an election in Red China, Hungary and other Iron Curtain countries.

Nixon noted Sen. Morse had called for the impeachment of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles for their conduct of foreign policy. Such an impeachment resolution, Nixon said would get one vote—that of Morse.

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Despite his belief that "a Democratic tide is running strong across the country," former President Harry S. Truman has warned Democrats about becoming overconfident in the election campaign.

"Don't get Dewey-itis, because that's the worst disease in the world.

Speaking on behalf of Stephen M. Young, Ohio Democratic candidate for U.S. senator, Truman said the Eisenhower-Nixon administration "has bungled our foreign policy so badly that the unity of the free nations is gravely weakened.

He called the Republicans a "party of recession" at a news conference prior to his speech. In his talk, Truman said the GOP had accomplished recession and inflation at the same time.

"We need all these Democrats because the Republican administration has made the nicest mess of things that could possibly happen."

Services to Start in Leggett School

The Rev. William LaFountain, pastor of Lutheran Church of the Ascension, announces worship services and Sunday School will be held in the Eliza Leggett School at 3621 Pontiac Lake Rd. beginning Sunday. The worship hour will be 9 a.m. and Sunday School at 10 a.m.

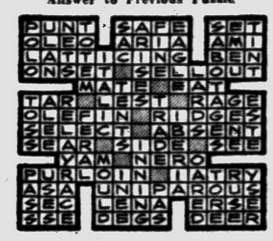

The regular hours at the Pontiac Church will continue with Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. and church service at 11 a.m.

The Ascension Church, organized in Pontiac in 1926, is presently in the process of building plans for a new church on property purchased on Pontiac Lake road east of M59.

Jets utilize water-injection on take-offs—for added power. In a two-minute take-off, that means 6,000 gallons of water which has to be purer than the water you drink.
