

Revolt of MMPA Rocks Meeting

Bid by Romeo Group to Grab Leadership Soundly Defeated

EAST LANSING (AP)—A membership revolt against the administration of the Michigan Milk Producers Association failed yesterday at the annual meeting of Detroit market area delegates at Michigan State College.

An attempt by a Romeo delegation to capture chairmanship of the MMPA meeting from President Ivan K. Maystead of Osoos was defeated by a 217-11 vote.

Robert Kleinschmidt of Webbville led the revolt by nominating Harold Fritz of Romeo to replace Maystead as chairman for the annual meeting.

MMPA members said the revolt was caused by complaints from members that association leaders had failed to obtain better milk prices for farmers.

Fritz read a list of amendments to the MMPA bylaws which he said would be proposed at the annual association meeting next fall. The amendments would permit greater membership control through altered majority vote rules and a recall provision for members of the board of directors. They also would shorten the term of office of directors.

Fritz regained the floor before the meeting ended to charge that there is no surplus of milk in Michigan and therefore no good reason for low prices.

He charged that most dairy products marketed in Michigan, including ice cream and butter, are imported from outside the state. Vigorous new leadership in the association, he said, would bring farmers a better price for their milk.

Harlan Confirmed to High Court Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Senators urged prompt action on a curb on treaty-making power today in the wake of 71-11 confirmation of Judge John Marshall Harlan's appointment to the Supreme Court.

Harlan, nominated by President Eisenhower last November to fill the vacancy left by the death of Justice Robert H. Jackson may take his seat March 28, when the court next meets.

Two Republican senators, Welles of Idaho and Langer of North Dakota, voted against confirmation, as did nine Democrats, all Southerners.

Star of Beaten Team Strikes Cage Referee

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—The Michigan High School Athletic Assn. investigated reports today of a alleged attack on a basketball referee by M. C. Burton, Muskegon Heights star.

Charles E. Forsythe, director of the MHSAA, said Burton is accused of striking referee Al Krauchunas of Battle Creek in an attack following Muskegon Heights 45-34 loss to Benton Harbor at Civic Auditorium last night.

Krauchunas said he submitted a detailed, written report of the incident today after a preliminary telephone report last night.

Krauchunas said Burton charged him immediately after the game and landed a blow on the side of the referee's head.

Forsythe said an investigation will be made, a hearing ordered and, if the facts warrant, disciplinary action will be taken against Burton and the Muskegon Heights School.

Broomfield Explains Vote for State Highway Bill

Oakland County's state senator said today he voted for the highway financing bill passed yesterday, including an amendment cutting Oakland's share, "because otherwise I'm afraid we'll have gotten no road program at all."

Sen. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) was one of the majority who passed a bill raising the gasoline tax 1½ cents a gallon.

The upper chamber altered the bill almost completely from the version passed several weeks ago in the House.

The measure is expected to raise $32,000,000 annually to be divided 75 per cent to the Highway Department for expenditure on state trunklines and 25 per cent to the counties.

Broomfield said he voted against changing the formula for distributing the counties' share.

The bill originally gave money to counties on a basis of road mileage, population and auto registrations. The amendment sponsored by Senator Roy (R.) Hancock, makes county road mileage the only factor.

The change reduces Oakland's share from $291,000 to $163,000. The least populated counties gain.

"After the amendment passed, and operation of the Chinese eastern and south Manchurian railroads. The Russian also gained rights in the Chinese port of Dairen and the lease of Port Arthur as a naval base.

Except for the Kúriles, these were rights or positions which Russia had held 50 years before, then lost in 1905 through war with Japan.

In a meeting with Roosevelt at Yalta Feb. 8, 1945, Stalin said that if his conditions were not met "it would be difficult for him and Molotov to explain to the Soviet people why Russia was entering the war against Japan."

A record of this exchange was kept by Roosevelt's interpreter, Charles E. Bohlen, now American ambassador in Moscow.

In addition to Bohlen's notes, records were kept by other staff members, including Alger Hiss, a State Department aide later imprisoned for perjury in denying he had given documents to a prewar Communist spy ring.

It was in his notes that Roosevelt was quoted as finding it "very embarrassing" to put the Soviet Ukraine and Soviet White Russia into the United Nations as independent members.

Hiss kept his notes in abbreviated form, having taken them in longhand. There was no official stenographic record of the conference, and the published record, aside from official documents, comprises independent accounts of members of the U.S. delegation staff.

After Roosevelt said he found the three U.N. votes for Russia embarrassing, he recorded this reaction from Churchill:

"Church: If brought out pub. now without any explanation will cause trouble."

The decision actually was not publicly announced when the Yalta meeting ended. When it later leaked out to the American press, it became the first of the great Yalta controversies. Critics contended Roosevelt had made an unjustifiable concession to Stalin.

The fact that no announcement had been made officially also stirred up a hue and cry about whether there were other secret agreements at Yalta.

The argument over a declaration for democratic governments in the countries to be liberated in Eastern Europe figured in many of the Yalta sessions.

A little later on Churchill referred to the Atlantic Charter and said he had once sent an interpretation of his about the charter to Wendell Willkie, the 1940 Republican presidential nominee, who died prior to the Yalta conference.

Roosevelt asked: "Was that what killed him?" The record notes "laughter" in the conference.

The discussion involved whether France should be permitted later on to associate itself with the declaration on liberated areas. Stalin said it would be better to leave it to the Big Three.

The question of the role of the great powers in the postwar period was discussed at a dinner meeting Feb. 4.

After Stalin and Roosevelt had left the dinner, Churchill and Eden with the late Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr. discussed voting procedure in the Security Council of the proposed United Nations.

Churchill said he inclined to the Russian view that the procedure should preserve the unity of the Big Three, apparently meaning that they should hold the real power of decision. Eden "took vigorous exception," according to Bohlen, on the ground that neither the English public nor small nations would support such a principle.

Soon afterward Churchill and Eden left "obviously in disagreement" on a voting formula.

The formula eventually worked out vested decision on issues of war and peace primarily in a Big Five group including China and France but provided for full participation of six elected smaller nations in the work of the Security Council. Each of the Big Five was given the right of veto on major questions.

In a meeting Feb. 5 Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill talked about dismemberment of Germany. Roosevelt said the first paragraph of proposed German surrender terms did not mention "dismemberment" nor make the idea sufficiently clear. He said he tended to share Stalin's view that it would be better to include the word.

Churchill said he felt the French should have an occupation zone in Germany. Stalin questioned whether this would mean that France would become a "fourth power in the control machinery."

Churchill insisted and asked Roosevelt's view. Roosevelt replied that "I can get the people in Congress to cooperate fully for peace but not to keep an army in Europe a long time. Two years would be the limit." U.S. troops are still there. Roosevelt said he would be "just as satisfied" if the French, while sharing in the occupation, were not in the control machinery.

However, it eventually came about that France shared fully an occupation power both in controlling a zone in Germany and serving on the control commission.

Among the preconference documents was a letter from Maj. Gen. L. R. Groves, head of the Manhattan Project which developed the atomic bomb. The letter showed Roosevelt was notified and approved progress on development of the atomic bomb several weeks before the Yalta meeting.

Groves' letter, dated Dec. 30, 1944, predicted the first atomic bomb would be ready about Aug. 1, 1945. As it turned out, the first combat bomb was dropped on Hiroshima Aug. 6, 1945. Japan surrendered eight days later.

A final report will be submitted by a 15-member steering committee in mid-May.

Both Wings Hit Bevan Ouster

Labor Party Leaders Hope Executive Group Rejects Close Vote

LONDON (INS)—Prominent spokesmen for both the right and left wings of the British Labor party said today that Aneurin Bevan should not be expelled from the National Labor Party.

Right-winger Woodrow Wyatt said the decision to withdraw the whip, or parliamentary recognition as a Laborite, from Bevan was the only alternative to "chaos" with the party.

But he added: "In my view, Bevan ought not to be expelled by the national executive next week, but the whip should be returned to him after a short time, provided he gave the usual assurances to behave in the future."

Bevan's closest parliamentary colleague, left-winger Richard Crossman, declared: "I am very optimistic the members of the executive, having reflected what happened today, will be prudent to do nothing about it."

"I am optimistic that because of the closeness of the vote, the executive will, although endorsing the withdrawal of the whip, leave Bevan a member of the party."

Wyatt said the vote means "all but a handful of Laborites agreed Bevan behaved very badly."

The Welshman was ousted for publicly questioning party leader Clement Attlee on an official party motion in the House of Commons.

Predict 80 Per Cent Rise in Student Roll by 1960

BIRMINGHAM—An increase of 6,300 school youngsters, or 80 per cent, by 1960 was forecast in a preliminary report released today by a subcommittee of the independent Citizens Committee for Education.

Sponsored by the PTA Council, the subcommittee toured the school district before arriving at its figure, and came up with, even more startling numbers in its population prediction for 1970.

The committee headed by Louis A. Bauer and Paul Fleck, estimated that the district's present 33,000 residents would climb to 48,000 in 1960 and skyrocket to 70,000 by 1970.

Coolidge, Long Lake, Middlebelt and 12½ Mile roads make up the boundary of the school district, with the exception of large patches which are excluded.

School census figures and minimum and maximum estimates by the school administration and public utilities were combined to produce the totals. These will be used in determining school building needs in the next five years.

A final report will be submitted by a 15-member steering committee in mid-May.

The citizens committee was formed to aid the school board in relieving already overcrowded conditions, with an eye to a June school building bond issue.

Teacher salaries and building facilities also are under study.

Sticking to its policy that the parking district classification was set up to aid existing expanding businesses, not new businesses, to provide required off-street parking, the Planning Board this week turned down two requests in recommendations to be sent the City Commission.

One request came from A. L. Kassaban who plans construction of a two-story office building at the northwest corner of Woodward and Redding. He asked that property behind his be rezoned from income bungalow to parking district.

The other was from Allied Asphalt Paving, Inc., which wanted three-lots at the northeast corner of Elm and Bowers rezoned from residential to parking classification. The lot would house cars waiting to use a proposed automatic car wash at 575 S. Hunter.

House Schedules Hush-Hush Talks on University TV

LANSING (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee scheduled a hush-hush hearing today on television at the University of Michigan and Michigan State College.

The House meeting followed on the heels of a hearing held by the Senate Appropriations Committee. Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan, testified at the Senate hearing.

Representatives of Michigan television stations were expected to attend the house hearing this afternoon. Committee members refused to discuss the hearing in advance.

Legislators say they are especially interested in the Michigan State College request to combine with private operators in a very high frequency (VHF) station to be located in the Farmington area.

MSC now operates its own ultra high frequency (UHF) educational station at East Lansing.

Some members of the House say they would object to any arrangement that would result in expenditure of state money to support a station competing with private enterprise in commercial telecasts.

Home Egg Machine Does Everything but Lay 'em

SHERWOOD, Mich. (UP) — Because eggs can't be trusted to work by themselves, Sherwood Township farmer Vere Mowry has built a marvelous machine in his house.

It brings cartons of eggs up from the basement, saving steps for Mowry and his wife, delivers them to customers, collects money and makes change.

Mowry explains that he got tired of running up and down the cellar stairs whenever someone came to buy eggs at his 1,000-hen farm on M 78.

Mowry also wanted to cash in on some of the middlemen's profit in the egg business, so he built his machine out of odds and ends that included an old corn picker drive shaft and belt, wiring, an electric motor, a muffin tin, a tobacco can and conveyor belt.

Put to work, the machine delivers a carton of a dozen White Leghorn eggs at car-window height smoothly, safely and automatically.

The customer puts his money into the tobacco can, makes his own change out of the muffin tin, raises a plastic door and takes out a carton of eggs. The conveyor hoists another carton up from the basement and deposits it behind the door, ready for the next customer.

Mowry relies on the honesty of his customers to pay for the eggs without cheating. A sign on the customer's side of the machine says: "We have confidence in your arithmetic and integrity."

So far, Mowry figures he's only 15 cents off since the machine went into action a month ago. "Making the machine was fun," he says, "but the most fun is to stand in the kitchen window and watch a customer's face when the machine brings up another box."

There are about 3,000 farms in Rhode Island that average 74 acres each, far below the national average.

the recipes she'd given which called for a "tablespoon of vanilla" and demanded: "What I want to know is, do you mean flavoring or extract? There's a difference, you know." The caller was her husband, Lansdale Sparrow, who's quite a cook, himself.

GE Tells How to Wire Sailboats for Lightning

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP) — Sailboats can be hit by lightning. To avoid damage, General Electric suggests this:

1. Run a No. 6 wire from the top of the guys to the top of the mast — and even a little larger.

Ex-Wife Awarded $100 to Get the Lawn Mowed

CLEVELAND, O. (UP) — Somebody's going to get $100 for cutting Mrs. Wanda Cholewa's grass. Mrs. Cholewa won that amount from her husband in her divorce suit against him. Her settlement included a two-acre plot of grass surrounding her home — but no lawnmower. It seems Cholewa, 32, came back after he left his wife and took the power mower to sell. He refused to cut her grass, so the judge decided to provide means for it.

Midwinter Heat Wave

Land Down Under Victim of Topsy-Turvy Weather

SYDNEY (UP)—The weather in Australia this year has been highlighted by broken records, topsy-turvy season, and no small degree of human tragedy.

In the middle of February, the northeastern state of Queensland had some of the worst floods in its history, following a series of fierce cyclones. The floods entered the Tweed Valley, causing a loss of about 16 lives.

From August through October, the agricultural south coast of New South Wales had dry conditions bordering on a serious drought. Many people in towns without pipeline water were forced to buy their water. But in July the northern coast of the state had been flooded.

And in July, too, Queensland was pelted with unusually heavy rain, which generally falls in the summer months. Tropical cyclones came along with a great deal of damage from gales and high seas. Perth, western Australia, had a reading of 99 degrees Fahrenheit Aug. 23-24, which is still mid-winter below the Equator. On those same dates, Sydney experienced the two hottest days for the time of the year in its history, indicating that the freak heat wave was nationwide.

Victoria experienced its lowest October temperature in nine years with severe frosts and light snow.

Rutgers University Has Course in Smog, Smaze

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (UP)—Rutgers University is offering a unique course on the problem of smog and smaze.

The course, first of its kind in New Jersey, is titled "Principles of Air Pollution Control." Most of the "students" enrolled are professional men representing industrial firms and city health departments.

Instructors are recruited from the university's meteorology, civil engineering, plant pathology, biology and law departments under the direction of the school's department of sanitation, which has made a 30-year study of similar pollution problems.

The course deals generally with the effects of air pollution on man and his environment, principles of measurement and survey and latest methods of control.

Clear Truckers in Tax Evasion

Oregon Group Urges Mileage Payment Plan Be Adopted by State

SALEM, Ore.—(UP)—Persistent charges by long-haul truckers that there has been widespread evasion of mileage payments by trucking firms have been found to be without foundation, the legislative highway interim committee has reported to Gov. Paul L. Patterson.

The committee said it would recommend to the 1935 Oregon legislature that the weight-mile tax, which was created in Oregon, be continued without change.

Other states, including New York, have adopted the weight-mile tax, and the interim highway committee said an impartial study had shown evasion amounted to only about four per cent, instead of the 40 or 50 per cent evasion some had estimated.

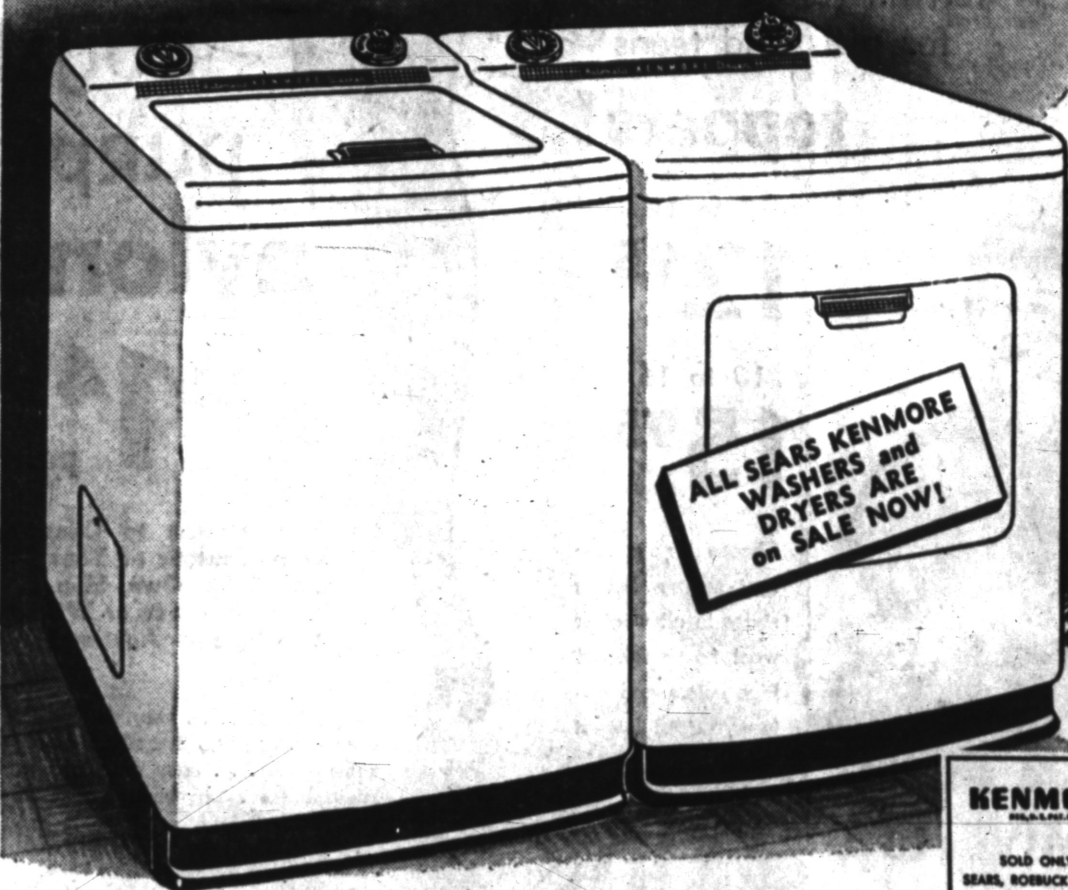

The committee engaged the Stanford Research Institute to make an impartial study of the effectiveness of the weight-mile tax in Oregon, and that organization said it found evasion at about four per cent.

The committee also recommended to the 1935 legislature that legislation be enacted to make the gasoline tax the exclusive right of the state and not permit its use by counties or other local levels of government.

Oregon also originated the gasoline tax, which many other states have since adopted. The state tax here is six cents a gallon, plus two cents federal tax.

ITHACA, N. Y. (U-P) — Prof. F. M. Isenberg of Cornell University's vegetable crops department says potatoes are in declining demand, but would sell better if attractively packaged.

Fears Outbreak of Yellow Fever

Doctor Claims Disease Is Creeping Northward From South America

WASHINGTON (INS) — A top-ranking American medical official has warned that the United States especially the southern states, is threatened with an outbreak of yellow fever.

Dr. Calvin B. Spencer, chief of the division of foreign quarantine in the public health service, said yellow fever has been progressing steadily northward since 1948 from the jungles of South America.

He told a House appropriations subcommittee, which made his testimony public today, that yellow fever has spread from Columbia, across the Panama Canal, and into northern Honduras, where a case occurred last year.

Dr. Spencer warned: "It is estimated that in a short while, with conditions obtaining as they are in that general area, yellow fever will occur in southern Mexico, where it will be a real threat to us, as there we have favorable conditions existing, and the movement of people in large numbers."

He pointed out that there are approximately one and a half million persons coming to the United States annually from the interior of Mexico. This number includes Mexicans, Americans and other nationals, but is exclusive of Mexican migrant labor.

The medical expert emphasized that the mosquito capable of transmitting yellow fever, the Aedes Aegypti mosquito, "still exists in our south Atlantic and Gulf states in sufficient numbers to render many localities receptive should the infection be re-introduced."

He added that there was no human case of yellow fever in the United States in the 1954 fiscal year which ended last June 30.

Dr. Spencer said it will be necessary to take additional precautionary measures "to assure ourselves that traffic does not bring over any infected case or infected mosquito into the South."

The measures, he continued, must include "intensified controls of the mosquito vector (carrier) at airports of entry and the immediate pier areas in our ports."

Dr. Spencer noted that yellow fever's "eastern prong" has reached into Trinidad in the British West Indies. He said the recent epidemic there resulted in five known deaths and probably more.

James Marlow Looks at Yalta—10 Years Later

Russia Broke Promises but U.S. Can't Repudiate Agreement Now

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—What happens now that the Yalta papers have finally been made public? More talk, that's all. There's not much new in them. The main points in the Yalta agreements have been known for years.

Politicians, Democrats and Republicans, will argue about Yalta, as they have for a decade. The papers may have an influence on the 1956 elections. But that's doubtful simply because the main points have been long known and discussed.

Russia broke agreements made at Yalta among President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin. That was 10 years ago. The United States can't undo the damage done by Russia except by going to war. For example: Russia agreed to let the East Europeans have free governments but then enslaved them; it agreed to deal with Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese but let the Red Chinese capture Japanese weapons to conquer China.

Without fighting Russia, the United States can't liberate Eastern Europe. Without fighting Red China, it can't restore Chiang. Since the United States has no intention of doing either, there's nothing left but talk.

The Eisenhower administration could try to repudiate the Yalta agreements. But there are two good reasons to think twice before doing it:

Such a repudiation, since it couldn't mend the broken agreements, would be a gesture only; and if Roosevelt's agreements were repudiated now, how could any nation ever expect any agreement by a future president to stand?

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles probably had both thoughts in mind when they took office in 1953. They didn't recommend repudiation. They simply asked Congress to condemn Russia for bad faith.

The Republican-run Congress then did nothing. Even if Eisenhower now asked for repudiation, the present Congress, run by Democrats, would certainly turn him down. To do otherwise would be to repudiate a Democratic president, Roosevelt.

There were three main agreements at the wartime Yalta conference: (1) cooperation among the Big Three in crushing Germany; (2) cooperation in creating free governments in Eastern Europe; and (3) Russia's promise, after getting concessions in Asia, to get into the war against Japan. Roosevelt had the advice of his military leaders in wanting Russia to help end the Japanese war fast.

Russia did get in, only five days before Japan quit. Ever since, Republicans have criticized Roosevelt for acting, as their 1952 platform said, "without the knowledge or consent of Congress or of the American people."

The Democrats have argued he did what he thought was best and that the agreements were good, if the Russians had lived up to them. Roosevelt certainly did not reveal the whole story when he returned from Yalta.

In a report to Congress in March 1945, he mentioned only the agreements on Germany, the United Nations and Eastern Europe. It was understandable, for wartime reasons, that he did not speak of agreements on Asia and the Pacific war.

But he went far beyond, telling Congress: "Quite naturally the Crimea (Yalta) conference concerned itself only with the European war and with the political problems of Europe—and not with the Pacific war."

Future World Cooperation Was Goal at Yalta

Big 3 Leaders Met in Crimea

Russians Kept Promise to Fight Japan but Reneged on Others

By JOHN H. MARTIN
International News Service
Foreign Director

The big three—U.S. President Roosevelt, Russian Premier Stalin and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill—met in the Russian Crimea near the resort city of Yalta on the Black Sea from February 4 to 11, 1945.

Sessions were held in the summer palace of the former Czar Nicholas near the southern tip of the Crimean Peninsula that juts into the sea from its northern shore.

President Roosevelt died that spring and the sphinx-like Stalin died two years ago. Only the 80-year-old Churchill survives.

The initiative for the meeting came from Roosevelt and Churchill, in November, 1944.

Roosevelt was eager to arrange such a big three conference as soon as possible after his re-election for a fourth term as president. There were three main aims at the conference:

An agreed big three leadership over a collapsing Germany; Joint leadership over East European nations over-run by the Red Army on a huge line from the Baltic to the Black Sea; The terms for Soviet Russian entry into the Far Eastern War after the end of World War II in Europe.

The only previous big three meeting was at Tehran in December, 1943. That session dealt with immediate military operations. Yalta was to chart a future of world cooperation at a time when Nazi Germany was dying.

Roosevelt said when he returned to Washington that "we have learned to be citizens of the world. We have learned the simple truth as Emerson said: 'The only way to have a friend is to be one.'"

Stalin entered the conference, in the Black Sea Riviera among the palaces of the former czarist nobility recently destroyed by Nazi invaders, on his home soil and at a time when his Red legions held all Eastern Europe.

Stalin already was looking to the East. On the bargains counter at Yalta was what Russia would do to shorten the war against Japan.

Russia agreed to hit Japan three months after the war with Germany ended. Moscow carried that pledge out to the exact date and rolled into Manchuria in an August offensive just before Japan sued for peace.

Moscow signed a mutual assistance treaty with Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

But in the view of Chiang and the Western Allies the Soviets violated that treaty flagrantly by looting Manchuria, holding the Nationalists off and equipping the Chinese Reds with a vast store of surrendered Japanese arms and ammunition.

No far-reaching decisions were arrived at on the Germany problem. The only vital decision was that France should occupy part of the occupation zones in Germany. This was done at British insistence and over strong Russian objections.

Control of Germany on a four-power basis soon collapsed after the war. Both sides wooed the nation. Russia was accused of violating the Potsdam contract arranged later by President Truman.

The Soviets even tried a big squeeze play against the Western allies—the blockade of Berlin which failed to force the United States, Britain and France into giving up their hold on the west part of the city.

But Russia definitely split Berlin by creating a Communist East Berlin government, without elections on the "free" basis pledged at Yalta. The same process was carried out in installing an East German government.

Poland was a tragic offspring of the Black Sea conference. Russia said that "free elections" would be held in Poland and other nations over-run by the Red Army. These were never held. The Western Allies accused the Russians of PAPERS ON THEIR TALK MADE PUBLIC — The long-suppressed papers on the meeting of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the late Joseph Stalin, left to right, at Yalta, Crimea, in 1945, were made public by the State Department Wednesday night. Copies of the papers — two volumes containing a total of 834 pages — were distributed to newsmen at Washington with a stipulated release for publication at 9 p. m.

Yalta Disclosures Infuriate Britons; F.D.R. Now Regarded as Schemer

LONDON (AP)—Britons were shocked and angered today by disclosures in the Yalta papers, especially Roosevelt's suggestion that Hong Kong be turned over to China.

The Foreign Office and British press generally considered Washington's publication of the records a diplomatic blunder. The man in the street was hopping mad on learning some of the inside maneuvers at the conference.

Talk on the morning commuter trains coming into London was more concerned with Yalta than Japan.

Two GOP Solons 'Raised Cain' to Get Papers

WASHINGTON (INS)—Strong pressure from Republican leaders induced Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to release the hitherto secret Yalta papers over the objections of the British government.

A source reported that GOP Sens. William F. Knowland, Calif., and Styles Bridges, N. H., visited the secretary and "raised Cain" with him because they believed the material had been "leaked" to some newsmen.

Earlier in the week the department made copies of the papers available to a few committees in the House and Senate and to Democratic and Republican floor leaders for their confidential use.

stacking the deck and juggling the ballot returns when so-called free elections were held.

The "flight to the west" of Eastern Europeans began quickly in Poland and became an established pattern through the post-war years. With Red troops in control and Moscow-trained Communists installed without benefit of truly free elections, the Poles, Czechs, Romanians, Bulgarians, Hungarians, and Balts along the Baltic Sea coast never had a chance.

It is estimated that millions perished, either through execution or banishment to Soviet Siberia.

It was agreed at Yalta that a meeting should be held in San Francisco the following April to draw up a charter for the United Nations. That was done but many to this day dislike the provisions of that charter.

even the current split in the British Labor party over rebel Aneurin Bevan.

Critical references to the late President Roosevelt as a political schemer could be heard from Britons who heretofore have almost universally revered him as a great statesman.

The average Briton's pride appeared hurt particularly by two Roosevelt suggestions—to turn over Hong Kong to China and to exclude the British from the postwar administration of Korea.

Hong Kong, a British crown colony for 114 years, has been built up into the largest banking center in the Far East.

One Englishman in a black bowler hat—the trademark of London's Wall Street known as "The City"—was heard to say in a loud voice on one train:

"Roosevelt was mad if he thought we'd ever give Hong Kong to the Chinese. Why, it's one of the most valuable places left in the old empire. And it certainly sounds odd compared with the Americans now crying about giving the Chinese a few barren islands right in China's backyard."

Another remarked: "It's also nice to know Roosevelt tried to leave us out of Korea. I wish the British soldiers who died fighting there could have known about it."

As for the prospect of Big Three talks, the tenor of the curbsome debate was "Who can trust anyone on diplomatic secrets."

The U.S. disclosures immediately aroused British fears that they would raise a bar to another Big Three meeting at the top level. The Conservative Daily Mail commented that the publication "could help to discourage the Russians" from joining in such a conference.

Both Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden advocated "open covenants secretly arrived at," contending that the Russians use public meetings only for propaganda platforms. When Churchill first proposed a top-level parley two years ago, he stressed that it should be confined to a few persons meeting in "privacy and seclusion."

The rest of Europe was slow in reacting. Up to noon Moscow radio had made no mention of the Washington announcement.

Skates Out of Her Life

MINEOLA, N. Y. (UP)—Mrs. Janet Nieto, 25, told the judge during a hearing on her separation suit yesterday that the only word she has heard from her husband since he disappeared two months ago was when he sent a friend around to pick up his roller skates.

Knowland Eyes Red Violations

McCarthy Wants U.S. to Renounce Yalta

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) indicated today the administration is seeking ways to denounce Russian violations of the Yalta agreement without giving the Soviets any legal advantages.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) called on President Eisenhower in the Senate yesterday to "announce the support of his administration for formal congressional action repudiating the Yalta agreements."

Knowland, Republican floor leader, did not comment on McCarthy's demand. But he said in an interview that as far as he is concerned, any action will have to await "full study" of the 1945 conference record made public last night by the State Department.

"There may be ways to denounce or repudiate these agreements, in view of the Soviet failure to comply with them, which would not put the Russians in the position of being able to reap some benefits," Knowland said.

"Before we reach any final decision, it would be well to study the facts as they are disclosed in the conference record."

McCarthy told the Senate yesterday Republicans had failed to live up to a 1952 platform pledge to repudiate the Yalta agreements. He said he is "not optimistic" about GOP chances in 1956 "if we come before the American people with a series of broken campaign promises."

He blamed Eisenhower's brother Milton and "holdovers from the Roosevelt regime" for swaying the President from a policy aimed at "liberation" of the Iron Curtain countries to one of "coexistence" with communism.

"I merely mention Milton Eisenhower because he is typical of the palace guard of New Dealers which lead the around without his knowing exactly where they are taking him," McCarthy said.

The White House had no comment. Efforts to reach Milton Eisenhower were unsuccessful. President of Penn State University, he has sometimes acted as adviser to the President on Latin-American affairs.

Knowland indicated repudiation of the Yalta agreements might counteract American claims that the Soviets failed to hold the free elections they had pledged for what are now Iron Curtain satellites. Repudiation also might wash out the basis under which the Big Four now control Berlin.

There was little immediate comment on the 500,000-word Yalta record. A number of Congress members said they had not had time to study it.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.), however, said it showed the late President Roosevelt had made "an almost unpardonable error" in granting concessions to the Russians, but he added: "In all fairness, he was a sick man."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said publication of the documents was "a very dangerous step . . . to satisfy the more vitriolic elements of the Republican party." He named no names. As for the papers themselves, he said, they "will provide interesting reading but, I fear, will do nothing to settle our present-day problems."

'Baby' A-Bomb Early Objective

Yalta Papers Reveal Wartime Work Toward This Goal

papers' publication disclosed that nuclear physicists were working toward development of a "baby" atomic bomb at the very outset.

Among the documents made public last night was a memorandum from Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, chief of the wartime Manhattan project, to Gen. George C. Marshall, then Army chief of staff. Dated Dec. 30, 1944, it was stamped "top secret."

Along with other disclosures, this memorandum showed that:

1. It was hoped that by the spring of 1945 there could be developed a nuclear fission bomb "which would be equivalent to about 500 tons of TNT." (The bombs finally perfected for the first wartime use in Japan in August 1945 had an energy release equivalent to that of 20,000 tons of TNT.)

2. Trouble perfecting a trigger device and the component parts of the weapon prevented this.

3. Using a different triggering method, the first trial bomb was expected to produce energy equaling 10,000 tons of TNT and to be ready by Aug. 1, 1945.

The first bomb was tested at Alamogordo, N.M., on July 16. The first combat bomb was dropped on Hiroshima Aug. 6.

For years after that, nuclear physicists believed any atomic bomb must have a minimum force of 20,000 tons because the "critical masses" of fissionable material could not be made to produce an explosion, when brought suddenly together, of less than that explosive force.

The trigger device used in the first bombs and for a number thereafter was a "gun type," men-pub last night. This gadget fired two spheres of fissionable material together at high speed, of the critical mass.

Banished to Garage to Enjoy Favorite Vice

GRAND RAPIDS (UP)—Police investigating reports of a mysterious glow in a darkened garage found a 66-year-old man sitting in his automobile smoking a pipe. The man explained that his wife wouldn't allow him to smoke "that smelly thing" in the house.

Chiang Official Comments Upon Yalta Papers

TAIPEI (INS)—Nationalist China's Foreign Minister George Yeh declared today that publication of the Yalta papers will enable the free world to "better assess the far-reaching consequences" of the agreement made secretly by Soviet and American leaders.

Yeh issued his statement after details of the Yalta agreements were published in Taipei newspapers.

"China was not represented at the Yalta Conference. Nor was she consulted before or during the conference on any of the understandings reached between the participating powers."

"Publication today of these secret documents will enable the free peoples of the world to better assess the far-reaching consequences of the agreements in the light of events that have since taken place."

Chief of War II Mission to Russia Says He Told of Red Treachery in '44

WASHINGTON (INS)—Maj. Gen. John R. Deane, head of the World War II U.S. military mission to the Soviet Union, warned in 1944 that the Russians took as much as they could get from us and gave as little as possible in return.

Deane wrote Gen. George C. Marshall that Soviet leaders looked upon America as "either a shrewd trader . . . or a sucker."

In a secret report to his chief, dated Dec. 2, 1944, the head of the military mission said that he had become "gradually nauseated by Russian food, vodka, and pretensions of friendship."

But the individual Russian, Deane said, "is a likeable person." He added that "their racial characteristics are similar to ours (and) individually I think they would be friendly if they dared to be . . ."

On Soviet officials, he reported: "Each person high in public life proposes a toast a little sweeter than the preceding one on Soviet-British-American friendship. It is amazing how these toasts go down past the tongues in the cheeks."

"After the banquets we send the Soviets another thousand airplanes, and they approve a visa that has been hanging fire for months. We then scratch our heads to see what other gifts we can send, and they scratch theirs to see what else they can ask for."

Deane continued: "The truth is that they want to have as little to do with foreigners, Americans included, as possible. We never made a request or proposal to the Soviets that is not viewed with suspicion."

"They simply cannot understand giving without taking, and as a result even our giving is viewed with suspicion."

"Gratitude cannot be banked in the Soviet Union. Each transaction is complete in itself without regard to past favors. The party of the second part is either a shrewd trader to be admired or a sucker to be despised."

The general added: "... We are in the position of being at the same time the givers and the supplicants. This is neither dignified nor healthy for U.S. prestige."

Hiss Claims He Opposed Extra Red Votes in U.N.

NEW YORK (AP)—Alger Hiss said last night that he unsuccessfully opposed Russian proposals at the Yalta conference to admit extra Soviet republics as independent members of the United Nations.

Asked about the Yalta documents, made public by the State Department, Hiss said he has considered that "my position at all times was pro-American" rather than anti-Soviet.

Hiss, whose role at the Yalta conference has been a controversial issue for years, clarified some cryptic notes published by the State Department as part of the Yalta documents.

Hiss' notes, written in an amateur shorthand, concerned the agreement at the 1945 Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference to allow Russia three votes in the General Assembly of the United Nations, then being launched. Russia got votes for White Russia and the Ukraine as well as for itself.

Hiss was interviewed at his apartment after the State Department issued the Yalta papers. He was recently freed from prison after serving a term for perjury for denying before a federal grand jury that he passed State Department secrets to a prewar Russian spy ring.

Hiss, a State Department official, was assigned at the Yalta conference to keep records and advise his superiors on matters dealing with the U.N.

According to the documents issued by the State Department, President Roosevelt told Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin that the matter of allowing Russia two extra votes was "very embarrassing to me."

Hiss said in the interview that he believes Roosevelt's embarrassment concerned publication of the decision at that time.

The decision was not made pub-

WORLD LEADERS—Although a bitter enemy of Communism, Winston Churchill, Britain's war-time leader, welcomed an alliance with Russia against Germany, and later Japan, with the remark, "To save England I'd pact with the devil." Michigan Weathermen to Flash Tornado Warnings

DETROIT (UP) — Weather bureau throughout Michigan will give advance tornado warnings possible throughout the coming tornado "season," W. W. Oak, head of the Detroit bureau, said today.

"All weather stations have been ordered to issue warnings to newspapers, radio and television stations and to news wire services whenever conditions exist in which a tornado might be spawned," the weatherman said.

He said that about this time of year Michigan residents start "shaking in their boots" and jumping the weather bureau switchboard for information when the day is warm and a thunder cloud moves across the sun.

Although past experience has caused the Michigan public to have a "bad psychological reaction" to dark clouds, Oak said that "99.9 per cent" of such fears are unfounded.

There are indelible memories of past tornadoes in the state. On June 8 just two years ago a twister leveled dozens of new homes and took 118 lives just north of Flint. A month earlier a twister hit Swartz Creek, wrecking homes and farm buildings, and then skipped to Port Huron, where it leveled several homes on the south side of that city before touching ground again at Sarnia, Ont.

Most tornadoes in Michigan come from the southwest, and high winds and turbulence often give enough advance warning for persons to seek shelter. The tornado "season" in Michigan runs anytime from March through September.

"The basic rule to remember, if you think a tornado is going to hit your area, is to open all the windows and doors in the house," Oak warned.

"It's the high pressure inside the house being drawn to the low pressure that accompanies all tornadoes that causes a house to explode," he said.

The weatherman advised persons learning of a tornado's path or seeing it coming to seek shelter in the southwest corner of a building—preferably in the basement. Debris picked up by the twisters is usually carried from the southwest to the northeast.

"If you happen to be in a large building, it is wise not to congregate in auditoriums or gym-

Sharp Rise Noted in Diseases Here

Sharp rises in the number of new cases of measles, mumps and scarlet fever were reported for last week by the Pontiac and Oakland County health departments.

Breakdown of the reports, issued today by Dr. John D. Monroe, health director for both agencies, follows:

	Pontiac	Past Week	Prev. Year	Age
Chicken pox	24	10	9	4
Measles	8	1	1	4
Mumps	2	1	1	4
Scarlet fever	10	6	2	1
Tuberculosis	6	2	2	1
Whooping cough	1	0	1	1

	Oakland County	Past Week	Prev. Year	Age
Chicken pox	215	311	278	4
Measles	27	30	27	4
Scarlet fever	50	18	52	1
Tuberculosis	4	2	14	1
Whooping cough	0	3	4	1
Mumps	182	144	82	1
Impetigo	3	1	1	1
Rubella	1	0	0	1
Rhyssoplas	1	0	0	1
Ringworm	1	0	0	1

nasiums when the roof may fall in," Oak said.

Tornadoes are usually produced in the spring; when moist, warm air pushes up from the Gulf of Mexico and collides with cold, dry air masses moving down from the polar regions.

In Michigan, such twisters usually bear winds moving in a spiraling motion at speeds up to 500 miles an hour. The funnel moves forward at about 15 to 40 miles an hour.

"If you suspect that a tornado may hit your area, just try your best not to become a victim of panic," Oak advised.

"Get into the safest place possible and resist the temptation to call the weather bureau. Your best source of information is your newspapers, radio and TV stations."

High Price for Lying

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Philip Santamaria, 31, brought into court for driving without a license, said it wasn't his third offense, as police claimed, but only the second. Judge Luigi DePasquale told officers to check the record and said to Santamaria: "If it is the third time, I'll send you to jail for telling me differently." It was, and he did—for 10 days.

58,000 Families Aided

BERLIN (AP) — Assistance under President Eisenhower's flood aid program has been given to more than 58,000 East German families, a Red Cross official said.

MR. SQUIRREL GOES MARKETING

Mr. Squirrel has been out in his own market—the forest—to get some food. He has found many tasty acorns, filled his little basket with them, and now has hurried home to his tree apartment house. When he opens the door, there is Mrs. Squirrel waiting for him so she can start cooking the dinner.

You can color the squirrels dark brown, if you wish. Paste the picture on stiff paper, brown-colored if you can, and then cut out both parts carefully along the outside dark lines. Also cut around the three sides of the door along the dark lines and fold it forward along the dotted line.

Paste Mrs. Squirrel behind the open door so she will be all ready to greet her husband when you open the door. To hang up the picture, punch holes in the two upper corners and pull a string through them. Tomorrow: Tommy has a visitor.

LOST 22 POUNDS
Flint Lady Praises Renne

"About a year ago I went to my doctor for an examination. I thought I had a tumor. The doctor informed me that it was just plain fat and asked me to take off 25 lbs. My niece advised me to try Renne's Cream since it had done so much for her," writes Mrs. Lily Couture, 311 Waldman Ave. "I am proud to report that I have already lost 22 pounds. I am so pleased with the results Renne is giving me. It is just what I needed. If this letter will help some one else solve a weight handicap and lead to better health then I shall be happy for having written it."

Renne's like these are pleasing and necessary to both men and women. Make Renne work for you. If not pleased with the very first bottle return it to the manufacturer for your money back. Priced at $1.49. Insist on and be sure to get Renne.

1/2 cup toasted, chopped walnuts
Hot baked biscuits, split

Melt butter or margarine in medium-sized saucepan; blend in flour and milk; cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils one minute.

Add salmon and peas; heat thoroughly, stirring carefully. Just before serving, stir in walnuts. Spoon salmon mixture over hot biscuits.

To toast walnuts: Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a small frying pan; add one half cup chopped walnuts and saute five minutes, stirring often.

Pancakes, we love you! Especially when you're topped with plenty of butter or margarine and hot, cinnamon-flavored canned applesauce!

Country-Fried Steak Calls for Round Cut

Like country-style fried steak? Choose round steak that is cut about one-half inch thick and tenderize it by pounding it on both sides with the handle of a heavy knife. Be careful not to break through the meat! Toward the last of the pounding, beat in a little flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown the steak quickly in a little fat and serve with mashed potatoes and gravy made from the steak-pan drippings.

Whole kernel and cream-style canned corn run just about neck and neck in the market popularity contest, with whole kernel slightly ahead in 1954.

You'll Love Eating This Humble Pie

When you suddenly feel that nothing but pie will do for dessert, and on the other hand you don't feel like dashing downtown through the chill autumn air for a long list of special ingredients—make our Humble Pie, which is not only a delicious dessert, but a lesson in thrift.

It's made just from sugar and spice and everything nice you have lying around on the pantry shelf, and it comes popping out of the oven looking like a million dollars. The secret? All-American kitchen know-how!

Humble Pie
1 9-inch unbaked pie shell
1/2 cup raisins
2/3 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup light molasses
1/2 cup hot water
2 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 cups fine bread crumbs
1/2 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1/4 cup butter
Line 9-inch pie pan with pastry. Sprinkle the bottom with raisins. Combine sugar, molasses, water and eggs. Pour into pie shell. Combine bread crumbs, flour, spices and butter and work like paste. Sprinkle this mixture over filling.
Bake at 350 degrees (hot oven) for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 325 and bake 30 minutes longer.

Spread Boasts Three Cheeses, Pimientos, Wine

Pimientos, plus cheese (cheddar, blue and cream) plus wine plus a little cream add up to a really elegant appetizer spread. Add toasted crackers and/or apples or pears and a glass of port for one of the simplest yet most sophisticated of meal endings.

This very special recipe, for Pimiento Cheese - Port Dessert Spread was developed and tested especially to toast National Pimiento Week (Feb. 5-14).

Do it all during that time, and we'll wager thereafter you'll celebrate Pimiento Week more than once a year.

Pimiento Cheese - Port Dessert Spread
1 can (4 oz.) jar (4 ounces) pimientos, chopped (finely)
2 cups shredded sharp American cheddar cheese
2 cups blue cheese
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup port wine
Melt the cheeses and the cream or milk over hot water in the top of a double boiler, stirring constantly. Add the chopped pimiento, blending it well with the other ingredients.

Mincemeat Ginger Pears Are Luscious, but Simple

"Look, Mom, NO HANDS!" No, it's not bike riding we're talking about but the most glamorous, yet easy-to-prepare dessert ever to hit your recipe file! It's as hearty as a bowl of buttered popcorn, yet so easy to make you can toss it together in less than 10 minutes.

Canned Bartlett pears are the basis for this amazing dessert, so if you haven't already acquired the habit of keeping several cans on hand—always, start at once because this is the perfect answer to that 5 o'clock "Honey, I'm bringing the boss home to dinner" phone call.

Before we divulge the recipe for Mincemeat Gingered Pears... it might be well to think for a moment about canned pears. The perfect pears which you find when you open a can are the result of a long, painstaking process.

First the pears must be hand-picked at just the right degree of maturity. They must be carefully handled on the way to the canning plant so they'll not be bruised. Then they're peeled, halved, graded for size and finally processed.

Yet, despite the tender, loving care they receive, pears are inexpensive to serve and, though highly nutritious, have a surprisingly low calorie count. They adapt themselves to every meal and are delicious in salads, desserts, cocktails and appetizers.

But now for that magic recipe. Mincemeat Gingered Pears
4 canned Bartlett pear halves
1 1/2 cups crushed gingersnaps
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 1/2 cups mincemeat

Mix crushed gingersnaps with melted butter and press into bottom of two shallow refrigerator trays. Combine mincemeat and orange peel and spread on top of crumbs.

Arrange pear halves cut side up on top of mincemeat mixture and spoon juice from mincemeat over them. Place in freezer compartment and partially freeze or chill.

Serve Tangy Sandwich to Television Crowd
Here's an open-face sandwich that's tops in flavor and popularity, especially with the television crowd.
Spread deviled ham on white bread (one family-size can will cover six slices generously). Arrange thin tomato slices on ham layer and cover with sour cream. Sprinkle chopped chives or parsley over the cream. Broil for few minutes and serve hot with a side of cole slaw and apple salad. Bet television rates, second place!

GOLDEN CHEESE BREAD—Serve this delicious cheese bread to brighten a spaghetti or vegetable dinner, enjoy it toasted for breakfast, or make a deluxe ham sandwich with it. It boasts any meal because it is made with nutritious cheese and wheat germ.

Cheese and Wheat Germ Give Bread Added Appeal

In spite of food markets bursting with all kinds of wonderful foods, meals can fall into a rut. This is most likely to occur during the midwinter interval before fresh new crops appear to brighten menus. Now, it is up to homemakers to furnish the interest that perks up meals and whets appetites.

Try serving different kinds of homemade bread with meals that have become too routine. Your family will love it, and bread is such a good energy food for winter meals.

Bread can be enriched with wheat germ to furnish nutrients that give extra protection against winter ills. Wheat germ contains most of wheat's B vitamins and protein, plus iron and phosphorus. So it just naturally belongs in good, wholesome breads.

Many good cooks use wheat germ for its nutlike flavor as well as its nutritive value. It can be put in meat loaf and casseroles, like bread or cracker crumbs.

It blends well with peanut butter, cheese and other sandwich spreads for children's hearty lunches. Wheat germ can be adapted to many of your own favorite baking recipes by substituting it for about one-third of the flour.

Golden Cheese Bread
1 cup hot water
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons warm (not hot) water
1 package active dry yeast or 1 cake fresh yeast
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup wheat germ
1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) grated American cheese
3 1/2 cups sifted flour

Combine hot water, sugar and salt in large bowl; stir until sugar dissolves; cool to lukewarm. Crumble yeast into warm water in small bowl; stir to dissolve and add to sugar-water mixture. Stir in egg, wheat germ, cheese and flour.

Turn out on lightly floured board; knead quickly and lightly until smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl; brush top with melted shortening; cover with clean towel and let rise in warm place until double in bulk (about 1 hour and 15 minutes).

Turn out on well-floured board; shape dough into loaf; place in greased 9x5x3 inch bread pan; cover with clean towel; let rise in warm place about 40 minutes, until double in bulk. Bake in moderate oven (350) about 40 minutes. Remove from pan, brush with melted shortening; cool on wire rack before slicing.

Oyster-Ham Dish Uses Frozen Soup

Prepare this delightful main dish quickly with one of the new frozen condensed soups.

Creamed Oysters and Ham
1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed oyster stew
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons water
1 cup cubed cooked ham
2 tablespoons dried pimiento
Hot buttered toast

Heat oyster stew over low heat until completely defrosted; stir often. Lift out oysters and reserve. Stir flour and water together until smooth; stir into hot soup. Cook and stir constantly until soup thickens and bubbles.

Add reserved oysters, ham and pimiento; heat but do not boil. Pour over three slices toast; garnish plates with extra toast. Makes three servings.

Ever sweeten whipped cream with brown sugar? This combination makes a delectable topping for an apple pudding or baked pears.

Party-Pretty Pie Blends Berries and Applesauce

One of the real joys of party-giving is the glowing knowledge that your refreshments are a triumph. A novel and delicious dish is fun for the guests and a pride to the hostess.

Such a dish is this special party-going pie. It looks gay, is sheer delight to eat, and has that touch of the unusual that sparks admiring comments.

The pie is a cool, refreshing fruity affair—a whirl of applesauce, marshmallows and frozen raspberries, lightly jellied and cradled in tender crust.

The applesauce is the ready-prepared variety that you can buy in cans and jars in any grocery store. It lends smoothness and body and gives an apple tang that blends deliciously with the tartness of the raspberries. The whole thing is literally as "easy as pie" to make.

Indeed, since the pie is so simple to make, so lovely to look at and good to eat, you'll probably add it to your list of family desserts, too. After all, there's nothing like a wonderful dessert to send a family from the table in purring content.

Apple-Raspberry Delight
8 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 cups canned applesauce
1/2 pound marshmallows, diced
1 package frozen raspberries
1 1/2 inch baked pie shell
1/2 pint heavy cream, whipped

Soften gelatin in water five minutes. Heat applesauce; add gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Cool until slightly thickened. Fold in diced marshmallows and thawed raspberries and syrup.

Pour mixture into baked pie shell. Chill until firm. Top with whipped cream before serving.

Dieters Gain Energy From Breakfast Soup

Reducing? Then you can't have your cake and eat it too. . . but you can try a supper course for breakfast.

Heat clear soup, such as consommé or bouillon. Beat a raw egg with 2 tablespoons water; slowly pour into simmering broth, stirring quickly with a fork. Serve floated with diet-bread croutons.

It "eats easy," picks you up and packs your stomach at the same time. You'll get a minimum of calories. . . a maximum of energy.

Spaghetti Meal Is Timesaver

Even if you've had an extra busy morning and have only 10 minutes leeway, you needn't give a disappointing answer when the children come shouting hungrily home from school demanding, "What's for lunch, Mom?" Just call out "Spaghetti dinner!" And while they are scrambling to clean up, put the finishing touches on an easy, thrifty and satisfying meal.

The packaged spaghetti dinner that makes this kind of meal so easy to prepare is an Italian-style combination of quick-cooking spaghetti, flavorful sauce made with either meat or mushrooms and grated cheese to add just before serving.

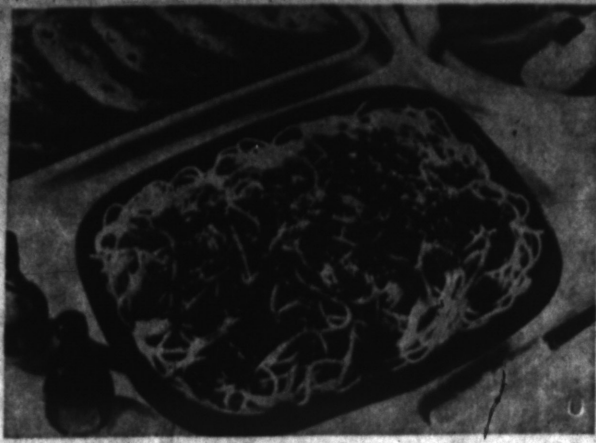

The spaghetti cooks in from 12 to 15 minutes, according to the degree of softness desired.

A fruit dessert after the spaghetti luncheon that everyone likes is cinnamon pears. Pour the juice from a can of pears in a saucepan and add a few cinnamon drops, those spicy little red candies that children love.

Add the pears — keep a few halves out for contrast — and simmer gently until they are pink, two or three minutes. Cool.

Your pink and white pears with the pink juice, and perhaps a maraschino cherry added to each, will be as pretty as the fruit steeped in wine that is so often served as dessert on Italian menus.

A kind of fruit bread called

PACKAGED SPAGHETTI DINNER—A packaged spaghetti dinner, with quick-cooking spaghetti, a can of sauce and grated cheese to sprinkle over all, makes a substantial, easy lunch for hungry children. Stewed pears tinted pink and toasted raisin bread round out a satisfying meal.

panatone would wind up such a simple lunch very appetizingly. You can buy this bread in the Italian sections of some American cities.

Raisin bread, available at every corner grocery, is just as good, and the children will like it, toasted, instead of cake or cookies with the pears.

Glorify French Toast

Dress up French toast for Sunday brunch! Heat canned pineapple rings or peach slices in a little butter or margarine in a big skillet, sprinkling with brown sugar. Serve the hot fruit with the golden-brown French toast.

Farms in the U. S. own and operate about 4.5 million tractors.

Mushrooms, Wine Complement Beef

Red table wine and beef, whatever the cut, just seem to go together.

Mushroom Wine Sauce
1 (3-ounce) can sliced broiled-in butter mushrooms
1/2 cup water
1 beef bouillon cube
1/2 cup burgundy or other red table wine
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon kitchen bouquet

Place contents of can of mushrooms, water and beef bouillon cube in saucepan. Bring to boil over moderate heat and allow cube to dissolve. Combine and add wine and cornstarch, stirring constantly until sauce is thick and clear. Stir in kitchen bouquet.

Late Evening Fruit Salad Calls for Hot Biscuits

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
Just the other day a friend asked me what she could serve with fruit salad besides open-faced sandwiches. Challenged, I looked through numerous cookbooks and was able to offer her several different suggestions. Perhaps you would be interested in the same type of information.

Fruit salad is an ideal thing to serve for late-evening refreshments. It will please even the weight-watchers who can forego the dressing. Each season of the year has its own particular fruits to offer for such a salad. Out of season fruits may be supplied, if desired, by canned products.

But back to the accompaniment. Tiny cream puff shells filled with fish or chicken salad are always enjoyed.

There are two ways to combine baking powder biscuits and deviled ham for a salad bread. Cut out biscuits with the smallest cutter, you can find: I like the inside of the doughnut cutter. Put pairs of these biscuits together with a filling of deviled ham. Bake until brown and serve very hot. You may brush the tops of the "sandwiches" with butter or margarine before baking.

The second method is to stir the contents of a small can of deviled ham into the biscuit dough before rolling it out. Cut and bake the biscuits in the usual manner.

Cheese is always good with a fruit salad. You can buy an assortment of cheese crackers or you can make your own cheese sticks or cheese wafers.

Cheese Salad Wafers
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
Cold water for stiff dough
1/2 cup grated cheese
Paprika

Make a dough of the first 4 ingredients. Roll thin. Sprinkle with the cheese and paprika. Fold each end to the center and the sides to the center and roll again to 1/4-inch thickness. Roll as a jelly roll and slice thin. Bake in a hot oven on a greased baking sheet about 8 minutes. Makes about 1 dozen.

There is no shortening in these wafers, but they will be crisp and delicious.

This second cheese recipe calls for cooking in deep hot fat. These Cheese Puffs are unusual and wonderful eating.

Cheese Pastry Puffs
2 eggs-whites
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
3 tablespoons finely chopped parsley or chives
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon paprika
Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Mix cheese, parsley, flour, salt and cayenne. Carefully fold into the beaten egg whites. With 2 teaspoons form in small balls and roll in bread crumbs seasoned with paprika. Fry in deep fat heated to 375 degrees for 2-3 minutes or until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot. Makes about 14-16.

Sylvan Cook Sends Top Corn Recipe

What a grand lot of canned corn recipes came flooding into our office in response to the item we recently printed about the Canned Corn Recipe Contest! We wish to thank every one of you who sent in a recipe.

Mrs. Eva L. Doss, 2271 Garland Ave., Sylvan Lake, sent in the winning recipe for Corn Delight. We have forwarded it to New York and shall wait impatiently to learn its fate.

We should like to share some of the interesting ways of using canned corn and hope to use a number of the other recipes in the daily recipe column.

Thanks again to all you good cooks.

FRESH ORANGE SPONGE—Whole sections of oranges garnish this delicious sponge. It is a delightfully refreshing finish to a hearty meal. It is important to use the whole orange segments so that the pulp will be consumed. Serve oranges often when they are abundant and inexpensive.

Orange Sponge Dessert Provides Nutrition Bonus

Oranges should not be limited to the breakfast table. The whole orange is extremely valuable to us, nutritionally. The pulp of the orange and the delicate membrane surrounding the individual cells of the meat contain substances known as bioflavonoids.

These bioflavonoids work with and increase the effectiveness of ascorbic acid. As a result, when you eat the whole orange you get vitamin C content.

Fortunately, the orange is a very adaptable fruit. There are many ways the whole orange can be offered at lunch and dinner as well as breakfast and in-between meals.

It is delicious in salads as its tart - sweet flavor and pleasant consistency blend well with head lettuce and other salad greens. In seafood salads it adds the zest and sparkle that is sometimes lacking in the bland flavors of fish.

As a flavoring in puddings, oranges are universally popular. When serving an orange pudding, be sure to garnish it with whole orange sections so that the pulp will be consumed. The same should be done with pies and cakes.

Fresh Orange Sponge

2 packages unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup fresh orange juice
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 cups fresh orange juice
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 1/2 teaspoons grated orange rind
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup diced fresh oranges
3 egg whites, beaten
4 fresh whole orange sections
Fresh mint leaves and red cherry for garnish

Soften gelatin in the three-fourth cup orange juice. Heat over hot water to dissolve. Stir in one-fourth cup of the sugar, remaining orange juice, lemon juice, orange and lemon rind and salt. Chill until the mixture begins to thicken. Fold in diced oranges.

In the meantime, gradually beat remaining sugar into stiffly beaten egg whites, and fold into the orange mixture.

Turn into a 7-cup gelatin mold with bottom previously lined as desired with whole orange sections. Chill until ready to serve. Unmold onto serving plate. Garnish with additional fresh orange sections, fresh mint leaves and a red cherry. Serve as dessert. Yield: Eight servings.

Monument Tells Polish-American Pioneer's Story

AVOCA, Wis. (UP) — In fewer words than required to write this story, the history of one man's fight for freedom is inscribed in a country churchyard here.

It tells how Wincenty Dalewowski forsook great wealth to become a common laborer but a free man in America.

A 7-foot-high monument to Dalewowski, a Pole, bears this inscription:

"Born a nobleman of great wealth, Wincenty Dalewowski embraced in 1850 the tenets of the Polish revolution.

"His cause of defeat, his wealth confiscated, he secured exile to America from Nicholas of Russia through the intercession of his friend, Ferdinand of Austria. Sailed from Trieste, November 1852. Arrived in New York, March 1854. "Began his trek westward May 21, 1855. Engaged as a smelter of ore with William S. Hamilton of Galena, Nov. 17, 1855. On Sept. 4, 1858, he took up his first tract of government land, now Avoca.

Pepper Council With Questions

Expense Is Keynote As Proposed Change Undergoes Debate

ROCHESTER — Approximately 100 Rochester and Avon Township residents peppered the village council and its engineers with questions last night in the second open meeting on the proposed incorporation of the village as a city.

How the change would affect their pocketbooks was the main tenor of questions from the floor in the two-hour session in the high school gym.

When the debate quieted, five petitions seeking to have the question put to vote were placed in circulation.

The village council in a December report recommended that the village incorporate to solve its "fringe area problems" of providing sewer, water and other facilities to adjoining areas.

Included in the incorporation plan is 4.2 square miles of Avon Township land, including two large industrial plants valuable as tax bases.

Avon officials and some residents have protested the proposed change, which would increase the village's assessed valuation from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 and its area from 1.6 to 5.8 square miles.

Village President Clarence Burr conducted the meeting, and opened it with a brief outline of the recommendations of the village council, as contained in the report.

"The village cannot keep extending its service to the outlying areas without placing a burden on the taxpayers, therefore, we should include these new areas of growth within our tax base," Burr stated.

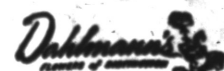

He added that incorporation to the new limits is needed before the areas develop with gravel roads, wells and septic tanks typical of township growth and urged those present to help put the question to a public vote.

Avon Township Supervisor C. E. Miller asked the council, if incorporation is good for part of Avon Township, why it wouldn't be good for the entire township? Another question from Miller was how the proposed village would do financially, if it tripled its area, but only doubled its income?

Former Lions Center to Speak in Southfield

SOUTHFIELD TOWNSHIP — Former Detroit Lions center Vince Banonis will be the guest speaker at the Father and Son Banquet at 6:30 p.m. Friday at the United Presbyterian Church.

The evening is sponsored by the builder's group of the church, and proceeds will be used to furnish the senior parlor of the new church unit.

German Castles House Tourists

Poor Titled Families Take In Travelers to Keep Wolf Away

FRANKFURT (UP)—West Germany's poor but titled families are throwing open their stately homes to tourists to make an honest dollar.

The latest issue of the West German Tourist Association's information bulletin offers accommodation in a genuine Rhineland castle for as little as 76 cents a day.

The association said some of the castles prepared to take paying guests "belong to plain knights, others to princely families."

They are advertised as "tourist quarters extraordinary," and the association said that about 30 castles are available to the tourist seeking something different.

Among them is 750-year-old Krop Castle in the Palatinate, where prices range from 76 cents a day for a room to $1.78 for full board and lodging.

Higher up the titled scale is Jagsthausen Castle, the former home of Goetz von Berlichingen, the famous 16th Century "knight with the iron hand" immortalized by Goethe as the leader of a peasants' revolt against feudal princes.

Top rate for castle accommodation is $5.95 a day for room, bath and board.

So far none of the castles is advertising the family ghosts, but the spectre of dwindling incomes and high taxation is certainly among the reasons for the decision to turn the "stately homes of Deutschland" into hotels with built-in snob appeal.

Since the war Germany's titled families, probably the most numerous in Europe, have fallen on hard times.

Many of their money-making family estates have fallen into Russian hands or been "collectivized" by East German Communists.

In Western Germany the taxman, currency reform and the aftermath of war have done the damage.

Freherrns, barons and even counts have found themselves left with little but their aristocratic wits to keep the wolf from the castle door.

Frog Among Students on First Day of School

PLATTEKILL, N. Y. (UP)—Usually it's a little lamb that follows Mary to school, or maybe a dog that can't bear to be parted from its young master. But here the version was different.

When Plattekill School opened for 26 fifth graders, a dozen frogs ganged up at a cellar window, ostensibly hoping to get a drink at the font of knowledge.

The youngsters spent the first day of school chasing the frogs.

Records of history show that Rodrigo de Triana, a sailor, was the first of Columbus' men to report the sight of land at 2 o'clock in the morning of the day of discovery.

CAIN RAISES A POINT OF SAFETY—Ray Cain, a chauffeur for the Kansas City, Mo., board of education, show a thought-provoking sign he painted on his car. He has spent an average of six hours per week painting such signs on his car, and in five years has painted 150 of them. Cain says he believes these signs help other motorists, who see them, drive more cautiously.

Speeder Gets Second Ticket for Warning

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP)—A motorist recently was clocked by a radar-speed-control unit and was given a summons for speeding 40 miles an hour.

Carl H. Hohmann, 25, took the summons politely and drove off. A short time later police found him a few blocks up the street waving a large sign at approaching cars. On the sign was printed the warning: "Cops."

Police took a dim view of Hohmann's action and issued another summons, charging him with violating a rarely used law which prohibits displaying a sign without permission.

Cases of measles and whooping cough reported during 1954 were almost 50 per cent greater than the year before, but the death rate remained low.

State's Prairie Chickens Fighting a Losing Battle

LANSING, Mich. (UP)—The prairie chicken, once plentiful in Michigan, now is fighting a losing battle for existence. Its No. 1 enemy, says the State Department of Conservation, is civilization.

Now, the department says, the bird has been squeezed into a pocket in the northeastern part of the Lower Peninsula and only two colonies in the Upper Peninsula.

New Zealand has about 2½ cent for each of its 2,088,000 people.

Jo Stafford Critic's Choice for Top Vocalist

Rate Como Top Male Crooner

Sinatra, Shore, LaRosa Among Others Picked by Jack O'Brien

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK—This is the third of season-end decisions on the best shows of the TV year; purely nominations of this pillar, and not to be construed as the opinion of anyone living or dying.

Best popular singers, male and female: Girls first. And egad, there is a lot of them!

We are committed for many an aural year to the dulcet dignity of Jane Froman's lovely delivery and taste in everything from tunes to duds and therefore it is with a small twinge that we discard her in this final personal balloting.

We have a more recent and pleasant flaring of the eardrums in range of Gisele MacKenzie's vocalizations but we also have decided it is not all her voice that glitters in our admiring reactions; she also has a rich and potent personality and, via the Jack Benny guestings, a clearly important inclination toward clowning, so we set aside also this MacKenzie in our final inspection on said subject of distaff troubadours.

Dinah Shore gets our regular annual attention, and she has virtually all it takes to satisfy our needs in soothing feminine roundelays, and it hurts again to let Dinah's contention fall away in the finals.

Peggy King of the George Gobel hijinks has had a notable nomination up to this last decision, as also such old favorite carabenders as Lee Wiley, Sarah Vaughan, Ella Fitzgerald, Carmen McRae, June Christy, and scads more; but we must, like Jenny, make up our mind, and it is finally and irrevocably—Jo Stafford.

Jo has a remarkably well-rounded array of vocal talents; she presents a sort of disciplined daintiness in delivery, tone and timbre.

Her voice is like a cello in the lady's range, with the gentlest hint of a vibrato to give it an almost unfeigned push away from what could be monotony of tone with less color and freshness in it.

Jo sings just about anything short of an untidy rolling riotous display and we're not at all certain, hadn't let down the ladylike barrier and get with it.

Now a little less time with the gentlemen:

In contention is Eddie Fisher by virtue of his continuing attractions for the junior set and a steady popularity in the TV ratings; also Gordon MacRae with soothing leather in his voice and a friendly, intelligent teletext-side manner; and Julius La Rosa, who is asserting his musicianship as he progresses and prospers; Frank Sinatra rates the highest regard even for his uncommonly few TV appearances; but we must, as the fight writers say, go with Perry Como as our special hero in the TV male vocalist sweeps.

"Mr. Nice Guy," as his title sets so jauntily on his well-barbed noggin, is our clear choice. Perry's creamy tones, relaxed manner, stubbornly respectful attitude, his pleasant dignity at all times on and off TV have turned him into an entertainment giant fairly early in his life. Fine fellow, fine voice, and our best choice.
