

City After City Reports:

No Complaints by Public, No Trouble From Fluorine

In view of the frightening claims of danger raised by the opponents of fluoridation, the Pontiac Press wrote to officials of many of the Michigan cities which have been fluoridating their water supplies for all the way from one to ten years.

The Press felt that certainly, if bad results are apt to follow the use of artificially fluoridated water, they would have become known in these cities. The following statements from city managers, directors of public utility departments and health officers of these cities tell their own story:

C. T. Mudgett, director of the Department of Public Utilities of the City of Muskegon, wrote the Press as follows:

"The City of Muskegon acted as a guinea pig for the U. S. Public Health Service in the Grand Rapids experiment to determine the effects of fluoridation of public water supply on the reduction of tooth decay in children.

"This experiment was to have lasted ten years but when the five year report was made and the beneficial results noted, Muskegon decided that the guinea pig part was no longer the part to play and took steps to fluoridate its own water.

"This was started Aug. 1, 1951 and has been continued to date. It was accepted by the citizens of Muskegon as the right thing to do."

R. J. Miles, city superintendent of the City of Muskegon Heights, wrote:

Press Convicts for Surrender

See Hunger, Despair
Weighing Heavily on 9
Rebel Holdouts

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Pressure mounted on nine insurgent Nebraska Penitentiary convicts today to surrender themselves and two captive guards.

Hunger and the apparent futility of their position were surmised to be weighing heavily on the rebels. Nobody knew exactly what was going on in the square, three-story penitentiary building in which the convicts and their hostages have been sealed since Sunday forenoon. But Gov. Victor E. Anderson said last night he was confident the men, whose last meal was Sunday breakfast, had no food cached in the so-called maximum security building.

He said some orange peels and grapefruit rinds had been thrown from the windows by the prisoners but "we think it was a sham." The prisoners had oranges Saturday and grapefruit Sunday morning, he added.

He was certain too, he said, the guards, with whom he talked early yesterday afternoon, remained safe.

In an exchange of notes yesterday, the convicts made nine "demands" covering such things as three hot meals daily, definite sentences instead of indeterminate sentences in the jail, adequate medical attention and "dismissal of all guards that we can prove to be sadists and—or head beaters."

Gov. Anderson replied by letter that the demands would be "carefully considered" but that there would be "no compromise."

Estimates $6 Billion Needed for Roads

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Bureau of Public Roads estimated today that $6,701,000,000 would be needed for highway and road construction in Michigan during the next 10 years.

The bureau said $4,172,000,000 would be needed for rural road construction and $2,529,000,000 for urban highway construction.

Major A-Blast Lights Up Sky in Western U.S.

Unusual Cloud Appears to Have Icecap Perched on Flat Top

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The awesome might of America's nuclear arsenal was demonstrated at the Nevada proving ground today with the explosion of a major atomic device at 4:55 a. m.

The great flash was seen clearly in Las Vegas, 75 miles from the test site; and more dimly at Los Angeles, some 250 miles away. In Las Vegas the brilliance lighted up the sky so well that observers could see the vapor trails of planes taking part in the maneuvers.

The flash also was seen in San Francisco.

The cloud that went up from the detonation, set off from a 500-foot tower, was flat across the top, unlike the usual towering clouds seen in the past here. It appeared that there was an icecap atop the cloud.

The Atomic Energy Commission had scheduled today's shot originally for last March 14 but unfavorable weather had forced postponement of the major detonation, although smaller tests were carried out.

At Cedar City, Utah, 170 miles northeast of the test site, residents reported that the shock today was the greatest they had felt from atomic detonation. In that city the air vibrated from the shock.

The flash was seen in Salt Lake City, Utah, 360 miles northeast. The predawn tower blast was the first of two shots scheduled for today. An air drop of a less powerful device was planned for later in the day.

Pontiac Dropped to Last Place in Traffic Safety

Pontiac, which had jumped from 38th to 15th place among 85 cities in traffic safety recently, today was reported dropped to last place following five traffic deaths so far this year.

Basing the report on National Safety Council records, Clyde R. Haskell, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Safety Committee, said the five deaths in the first quarter of 1955 equal the same number of traffic fatalities in Pontiac for the entire year of 1954.

"If Pontiac motorists don't exercise better care—especially with the worst traffic months ahead of us," said Haskell, "the city is liable to have the worst traffic death record in its history."

"Investigation records show that the mishaps were caused by inattentiveness of drivers at the wheel, carelessness and thinking of something else while driving. Only one accident was due partly to weather conditions."

He added: "We just got over winter traffic conditions, which were supposed to be bad. But with summer weather coming on, there will be long trips in the country and extended vacations by auto. Greater care, courtesy and caution should be taken to stamp out accidents."

The city's most recent traffic fatality occurred March 23. Two pedestrians were counted among the five persons killed.

Niagara Ice Jam Left to Nature as Army Fails

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Nature took over today where man's best efforts had failed. The Niagara River's mighty ice jam was left to the elements.

And there was a good chance that the elements would respond quickly. The weather outlook was favorable for the first time since the jam began a week ago when ice from Lake Erie plunged down over the falls.

In addition, several expanses of open water were reported in the 12-mile stretch of the lower Niagara between the falls and Lake Ontario. Breaks were seen in the final six miles where 40 and 50-foot mountains of ice had done their greatest damage.

Murder, Suicide End Lives of 2

Husband Drowns Self
After Slashing Throat
of Wife in Lansing

LANSING (AP) — A Lansing housewife was found brutally murdered — her head nearly slashed from her body — on a living room couch in her home today.

State Police said Mrs. Nancy L. Miller, 50, was apparently killed by her husband, Charles H. Miller, 62, who then committed suicide by leaping into the Grand River.

The husband's body was recovered at mid-morning.

Discovery of a bundle of clothes on the river bank led police to their grisly find. They found Miller's identification in the clothing and went to his home to investigate.

Troopers Allen Friedberg and George Richter found the back door of the Miller home open and entered the home.

Mrs. Miller was lying on a couch (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Ransom Letter Demands Cash for Barbara

Detroit Police Believe Toledo Note New Hoax
in Disappearance

DETROIT (AP) — An "impatient man" demanding $25,000 for the return of brown-eyed, seven-year-old Barbara Gaca was believed today to be a crank by Detroit police.

If Detroit police were right, it would be the third installment of a cruel hoax on the Gaca family.

Barbara disappeared Thursday on her way to school. Since then the Gaca family has received two other communications before today's note, reported by Toledo, Ohio, police.

Toledo police said they received the note, handwritten on a poor grade of paper, telling them to inform Barbara's parents that she was all right.

The note ominously added: "What I am writing is no joke. If they want that dam kid of theirs you better (put the address of the Gaca family in the newspaper) by Thursday. I am a impatient man."

The letter, which was turned over to the FBI, continued, "remember put it in (the newspaper) or that dam kid will have a knife through her heart. I'll write soon again."

Meanwhile Detroit police hoped to get a lead from four students who say they saw Barbara being lured into a shabby blue car the day she disappeared.

They had already dismissed two other communications: a note of clipped newspaper words, and an anonymous telephone call.

The Detroit postman's daughter has been the object of the most intensive police search in Michigan history since she vanished on her way to school five days ago.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gaca, received a letter in yesterday's mail with letters pasted up to read "Barbara alive will contact later." It was postmarked in Detroit Sunday night.

Then shortly before midnight last night Barbara's uncle, Richard Gaca, received a call from a man who told him: "Barbara will be released in five minutes at Grand River and Elizabeth (an intersection in an industrial section near the heart of downtown Detroit)."

Police cars hurried to the corner and patrolmen on foot began a careful search of the area. But as daylight approached they had found nothing.

State Fruit Crops Probably Not Hurt

NILES (AP) — It's too early to say for sure, but the state's fruit belt crops probably weren't seriously hurt in Michigan's weekend cold snap.

That was the report of Berrien and Cass County experts, who said today growers will have to wait and see whether sap pushed up by earlier warm weather had receded enough in last week's cold to prevent freezing.

Clifford Conrad, Berrien County horticultural agent, said some sour cherries were reported damaged. He said Jonathan apples were hit throughout southwestern Michigan three weeks ago by a 15-degree cold snap.

Three Election Changes on Ballot

This is the second of four articles on state candidates and issues facing the voters at the spring election Monday.

LANSING (AP) — The Legislature has submitted three election changes to the voters for their decision at the April 4 general election.

These are proposals 1, 2 and 4. No. 1 proposal is the least controversial of the lot. It merely changes the constitution so that the legislature can make nonpartisan judicial nominating procedures conform to those for partisan elective offices.

Under present law there is confusion because candidates for the courts in Michigan must file nominating petitions 35 days before the primary while candidates for other offices must file 40 days before the primary. Proposal No. 1 would let the legislature fix the same time for both types of candidates.

Senator Attacks Ike

Dulles Urges Quick Okay on German Rearmament

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles today urged prompt Senate approval of treaties to rearm a sovereign West Germany. He said they "lay the basis for a new Europe."

Dulles told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the two treaties bring about a unity and security in Europe for which the United States has long hoped.

"Western Europe, long the cradle of Western civilization and of Christianity has now what is probably its last chance to survive as a place of human welfare," Dulles said. "That last chance is embodied in the documents before you."

Before Dulles' appearance as a committee witness on the pact, Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said the Eisenhower administration should "supply all the materials possible" for a rapid buildup of the planned 12-division German army.

Dulles told the committee that once Western European unity is "an irreversible reality" a conference between the Western Powers and Russia "could be held with greater hope."

He said the restoration of West German sovereignty and rearmament of the nation as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would create "unity in the non-Communist part of Europe."

President Eisenhower has said he would favor lower-level talks leading toward a possible conference of Big Power chiefs of state as soon as the German rearmament treaties are finally ratified.

The committee is expected to give quick approval to the two pacts, with some likelihood that the Senate itself will consent to their ratification by the weekend. At the White House, Republican Senate leader Knowland of California said the Senate will hold an extra session Saturday if necessary to complete that action.

Reuther Seeks 25 Million Fund to Back Strike

Convention Delegates
Expected to OK Triple Assessments

CLEVELAND (AP) — CIO President Walter Reuther says labor unions eventually will establish a huge common strike fund but he expects to ask no outside money aid for 1955 auto industry bargaining.

He told the 3,000 delegates to the CIO United Auto Workers convention here the union will depend on a proposed 25-million-dollar UAW strike fund if it has to walk out this year in support of its demand for a guaranteed annual wage.

The plan of Reuther and the union's other officers to triple present member dues of $2.50 a month to $7.50 until the 25-million fund is raised has stirred a convention storm.

So many delegates wanted to talk the convention had to be recessed last night and a final vote put over until today.

Reuther is UAW president. During debate some delegates grumbled complete disapproval of raising dues. Others argued for bigger assessments. Still others were divided on whether benefits paid to strikers should be fixed amounts for everyone killed or varied according to need.

The convention was expected to approve the fund.

Carl Stellato, president of the big Ford Local 600 at Detroit and a long-time critic of Reuther's policies, said he agreed with Reuther on the need for the fund but felt it should be bigger.

Stellato urged Reuther to assemble CIO and AFL leaders and seek contributions so the union would be better prepared to finance any strike this year against General Motors or Ford in behalf of the UAW's demands for the year-around pay plan, larger pensions and more pay.

Reuther said that for a decade he has nursed the idea of getting AFL and CIO unions, as well as the independent United Mine Workers and railroad unions, to "create a joint defense fund so that everybody in it will be financed by everybody's money."

"One day we will be able to do this," he said. "We're working on it. But right now we have our own problems to work out while we're working on these long-range programs."

Fair and Warmer Says Weatherman

Weather in Pontiac for the next few days will be a little warmer. It will turn cooler over the weekend, with some rain Friday and Saturday.

The U. S. Weather Bureau says it will be mostly fair tonight with a low of 32-36 degrees. Tomorrow will be fair and warmer with a high of 44-48. Light variable winds tonight.

A year ago today the highest temperature was 54 and the low 18 with snow.

Yesterday's temperatures ranged from a high of 36 to a low of 18 degrees. Today at 8 o'clock the thermometer reading was 28, rising to 44 by 2 p. m.

River Runs Dry in Oklahoma Drought

SAND, BUT NO WATER — Even with recent rain and snow, Oklahoma City still faces a water shortage because of the prolonged drought. To beautifully illustrate the situation is pretty Jean Bulter, who is making sand castles in the middle of the North Canadian River. The river is supposed to carry water from the watershed to Oklahoma City's reservoirs.

Subcommittee OKs UMT Plan

House Group Refuses to Accept 2 Aspects of Ike's Program

WASHINGTON (INS) — A House armed services subcommittee has approved in general the administration's modified universal military training plan.

The plan allows 17 and 18-year-olds to volunteer for six months active training, to be followed by 7½ years service in the reserves.

The group voted yesterday to send the measure to the full committee but refused to accept two major aspects of the program.

It denied the government authority to use the draft to insure that 100,000 youths would be enlisted in the program and refused the President authority to call up at will 150,000 men from the reserves whenever an emergency occurs.

The subcommittee cut down an administration proposal calling for 9½ years reserve service for UMT trainees.

The full committee is scheduled to act on the legislation on April 18. The bill provides that between 100,000 to 250,000 17 and 18-year-olds could volunteer for six months' training. Those not volunteering would be subject to the regular two-year draft, after which they would serve six years in the reserves.

Retail Survey Questionnaire Is Completed

A retail-survey questionnaire was completed after three-hours work yesterday afternoon by the 15-man committee assembled to work on the project being sponsored by the Oakland County Planning Commission.

The University of Michigan Bureau of Business Research and county school superintendents are cooperating in the program aimed at securing data on area shopping habits which should aid Oakland's future expansion and prosperity.

The committee will meet again in about two weeks to make final corrections in the questionnaire, said Chairman Charles Mortensen, of Birmingham.

The information sheets will be distributed in May by the school superintendents to all families with children in grades from kindergarten through the ninth in both public and parochial schools.

The University will tabulate the answers this summer and submit a report next fall.

Murder and Suicide End Lansing Lives in the living room, clad only in a slip and covered by a blanket. Her throat had been slashed, nearly severing the head, and her head had been pounded, apparently with a hammer, one blow smashing the forehead and entering the brain.

A claw hammer bearing traces of hair and blood was found near the body. A 10-inch butcher knife, still sticky with blood, was found in a kitchen sink.

An employee of the Lansing Oldsmobile plant discovered the clothing by the river while on his way to work. The husband's body was recovered by dragging operations shortly before noon.

Neighbors said the couple had been quarreling and that the husband was a heavy drinker. They said he was a former employee of Oldsmobile but had recently been unemployed.

The couple have two married daughters. Coroner Harry Leadley said the crime apparently was a murder and suicide.

Get No Complaints From Fluoridation

rural Mason County, the results of fluorine in the Ludington municipal water supply are very evident because of the decrease of tooth decay in the children in the city compared to that of the children in the county who do not have access to the fluoridated water.

Dr. Otto K. Engelke, M.D., Director Washtenaw County Health Department, wrote:

"Ann Arbor has been fluoridating its water for approximately three years. We will not evaluate the program in terms of prevention of tooth decay for another two years. We have had no complaints about fluoridation. None of our hundreds of physicians, dentists, biochemists, physiologists, etc. are worried about some of the issues raised by people who may be somewhat emotional about fluorine."

Dr. Hugh B. Robins, M.D., Director Calhoun County Health Department, wrote:

"We have been running fluoride through the city water supply of Battle Creek since April 1951 and there have been absolutely no complaints. The city water supply is also chlorinated and the amounts of both chlorine and fluorine are checked at regular intervals by our laboratory."

"Our community is reinforcing their program with a plan of topical application for the suburban and rural children who may not, for an indefinite period, receive the benefit of fluoridated water supplies in their homes and schools."

"The Board of Health of Calhoun County has made a considerable study of this program and has completely endorsed it."

Max Davenport, city manager, Marysville, wrote:

"We are in our third year of fluoridation treatment in our plant. After this treatment was approved, but before it was put into effect, one lady complained of her drizzly faucet discoloring the sink from the fluorine and we could very easily point out to her that it was her imagination."

"Never have we had a complaint since this treatment was installed. Of course the good this treatment may give has not shown up yet, but no ill effects have shown up either."

Dr. C. D. Barrett Sr., M.D., director, Monroe County Health Department, wrote:

"Fluoridation of the Monroe City water supply began in December, 1951. We have had, to the best of our knowledge, no complaint from the public; and certainly there have been no cases reported by physicians or dentists of any detrimental effects."

Dr. Donald M. Harris, M.D., Director Branch-Hillsdale District Health Department, wrote:

"The program was voted in by the Hillsdale City Council over two years ago and became an actuality somewhat over a year ago. There has been no objection to the program."

J.A. Clulo, City Manager, City of Marquette, wrote:

"We have been treating our water supply with sodium silico fluoride since Sept. 6, 1951. There was little or no opposition here and at present we seldom hear the matter mentioned by the public."

Dr. J. J. Van Gasse, M.D., Director, Department of Public Health, City of Jackson, wrote:

"Since the start of fluoridation of our water supply we have had an occasional complaint regarding adverse effect upon the health of an individual. These complaints have been the same as raised in many other communities by a similarly small group."

"Within the past year one individual has spent considerable time complaining about the fluoridation of the water."

She is one of several stars who will take part in the benefit for the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation when Ringling Bros., and Barnum and Bailey circus opens its annual New York engagement.

Officer, City of Highland Park, wrote:

"Sodium fluoride in one part per million was added to this city's water supply by council order on Oct. 22, 1951, the cost of which amounts to approximately ten cents per person a year."

"Highland Park made a basic survey of 1,483 children before adding fluoride to its water, and found that 56 per cent of all the children examined had some form of dental caries. In the five year old group, 44.5 per cent had dental caries when they entered school."

"The U.S. Public Health Service, which conducted a nationwide survey, reported that 35 per cent of all children in the nation had one or more decayed permanent teeth by the time they entered school. Comparing these two figures, it was obvious that the dental caries rate in Highland Park was higher than the average for the nation. Therefore, knowledge of this made us realize the great need for some method of prevention of dental caries for these young children."

"During the four year period, not one harmful effect has been noted as a result of the fluoridation of Highland Park's water supply."

Dr. G. F. Moench, M.D., M.P.H., Director Midland City-County Department of Health, wrote:

"Quoting from our annual city report for 1951-52: 'The Midland system is proud to report that, being the first city in the country to add fluoride, completely of its own account and expense, the benefits of this treatment have now been extended to our customers for seven years and since the benefits are cumulative, greater and greater portion of our youngsters are now benefiting from this service. The total cost is approximately five cents per customer per year.'"

Dr. N. D. McGlaughlin, M.D., Wyandotte Health Commissioner, wrote that fluoridation of water has continued there for more than five years without complaint.

Dr. T. S. Davies, M.D., Deputy Health Officer, Wayne County Department of Health, Grosse Pointe Branch, wrote:

"No one here has claimed his health has been adversely affected. I had one letter from a woman secretary of an anti-fluoridation committee drawing my attention to reports of Dr. Waldbott. I had one telephone call from a woman raising objection to 'tampering with water and forcing medicine upon people.'"

Dr. Oscar Stryker, health director for both Mt. Clemens and Macomb County, wrote:

"We have been fluoridating Mt. Clemens water supply since March 1951. No harmful results have come to our attention after almost four years of fluoridation."

WILLET

Agreement to postpone the strike action came when company and union representatives met with Robert Lomax, a state labor mediator, in Detroit yesterday.

Another meeting is scheduled there for Friday morning. Original talks on a new contract between Floyd B. Harmon, business representative for Teamsters Local 614 (AFL), and Robert Sullivan and Armstrong Patterson, company spokesmen, broke off two weeks ago following three weeks of discussion.

A three-year contract ends Friday, but the union agreed to continue working without one, Harmon said.

The drivers reportedly are seeking 25-cent-per-hour pay increases, plus increased fringe benefits and a pension plan.

The operators are said to have countered with an offer to maintain the present $2.29 per hour wage for one year, then hike pay five cents an hour for each of the next two years of a new three-year contract.

This offer was made with the proviso that certain fringe benefits in the current contract would be eliminated.

A walkout would affect road and building construction in the three-county area. The bulk of the truckers' operations is carrying gravel.

WASHINGTON (U) — The Civil Aeronautics Board has authorized North Central Airlines service between two airports in the Detroit area—Detroit City Airport and Willow Run Airport.

North Central proposed the service in order to link its route between Hancock-Houghton and Detroit with a new route becoming effective April 29 between Chicago and Detroit.

North Central said many of its passengers from the Upper Peninsula area wish to travel to Detroit City Airport and that there is no air service and only very roundabout ground transportation between the two airports.

The CAB granted permission yesterday for the inter-airport route on the basis that North Central would absorb any increase in costs without seeking a corresponding increase in mail pay.

The government charged that the five defendants received $200,000 in bribes to halt action in two income tax cases. Bolich was accused of quashing two possible tax prosecutions at the request of Grunewald and Halperin.

The indictment said the money was paid by the New York dress-manufacturing firm of Pattullo Modes ($140,000) and the Gotham Beef Co. ($60,000).

Other survivors include another daughter, Mrs. J. A. Bowes of Birmingham; two sons, W. Malcolm McDonald, of Birmingham, and T. Vernon McDonald of Paradise; 13 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

Service will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. from the Kirby Funeral Home with the Rev. William E. Hakes of the First Baptist Church officiating. Burial will follow in Oak Hill Cemetery.

The Day in Birmingham

Planning Board Rejects Shain Parking Proposal

Planning Board members last night unanimously voted down the proposal to create a new park one block south of Shain Park and construct a parking lot on the Shain site.

A committee meeting was held after the board was asked by the City Commission to take a stand on the issue up for a public vote next Monday.

Herbert Hersberg, city planning consultant, said today that the board took a negative approach, inasmuch as it had made no study on the proposal to substantiate its merits.

Members did agree, Herzberg said, that given the choice of a parking lot in the southern block or in Shain Park, they would choose Shain Park.

At last night's City Commission meeting, Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley was instructed to restrict parking on portions of Maple avenue on a 30-day trial basis.

To ease rush hour traffic congestion, parking will be prohibited from 7 to 9 a.m. from Hunter to Eton on the south side of the street. On the north side, the no parking ban will be in effect from Rugby to Eton between 4 and 6 p.m.

Steps were taken to improve the Willis-Woodward intersection, long a target for criticism. City Manager Donald C. Egbert will negotiate with owners of the property at the northwest corner for the purchase of an added 10 feet of right-of-way.

A redesign of the pavement will be planned by City Engineer L. R. Gare. He will talk with other property owners on the acquisition of from five to ten feet of property on the north side of the street, between Woodward and Bates.

Guest at tonight's meeting at 8 of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary will be Mrs. Roy Hawkins of Allen Park, who is

3 Found Guilty in Tax Fix Case

NEW YORK (U)—Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald and Daniel A. Bolich, former assistant commissioner of internal revenue, have been convicted by a federal court jury of a $160,000 tax-fix bribery conspiracy.

Max Halperin, Manhattan tax attorney, was convicted with them. After the seven-week trial, the jury acquitted two codefendants—Max Steinberg, former chief of the Internal Revenue Service, and Harry T. Scherm, a former agent in the same office.

Steinberg and Scherm had been charged with receiving a $40,000 bribe in the case.

The jury of seven men and five women brought in its verdict last night after deliberating 8½ hours. Judge Archie O. Dawson sent sentencing for Friday.

Grunewald, 62-year-old former Washington influence peddler, faces a possible maximum of five years in prison, a $10,000 fine or both. His bail was set at $50,000. His home is Chevy Chase, Md.

Halperin was continued in $5,000 bail and Bolich in $3,500.

Bolich, 54, a Brooklyn resident, faces a possible maximum sentence of eight years in prison and a $15,000 fine. He was convicted on a more serious count applying to a government official.

Halperin, 69, who lives in Manhattan, could draw up to 20 years in prison and $25,000 in fines. In addition to the basic conspiracy charge, he was convicted on three counts relating to impeding witnesses before a grand jury.

Steinberg, 28, lives in Beverly Hills, Calif., and Scherm, 46, lives in Wilmette Park, N. Y., on Long Island.

The government charged that the five defendants received $200,000 in bribes to halt action in two income tax cases. Bolich was accused of quashing two possible tax prosecutions at the request of Grunewald and Halperin.

Graham Defends Sunday Outing

Evangelist Tells Scots
He Wasn't on Holiday,
Just Meditating

GLASGOW, Scotland (U)—Billy Graham says he visited the vicinity of Scotland's famed Loch Lomond last Sunday but he wasn't on a sabbath "lark."

"I went out into the countryside for relaxation and for meditation and prayer by a mountainside," the American evangelist told his audience of 16,000 last night at the beginning of the second week in his all-Scotland crusade.

After a religious broadcast for the British Broadcasting Corp. Sunday, Graham and his executive secretary went for lunch to a hotel near the lake celebrated in Scottish legend and literature.

The outing aroused reproving comment from some Scots, who believe Sunday activities should be confined to the church and the home. Graham had one critical telephone call from a man who said he was a representative of the Lord's Day Alliance, an organization of considerable influence in Great Britain.

"I should like to correct an impression that I went on a lark," Graham told his vast audience last night, the largest so far in his six-week crusade. The countryside, he added, "is an excellent place to pray."

Newspapers on Strike

British Comic Fans Fret Over Loss of Pin-Up Girl

LONDON (U)—Did Jane get down to her bra and panties again or was this one of her bathtub days? (And what good would it do just to know?)

The horses are running at Leicester, but which ones? (That hot one will go and will you miss it?) Did a certain princess elope with a certain Air Force Hero? (Not that we know of.)

Did a certain elderly statesman announce his retirement? (Nah, not yet.)

And above all, confound it, what does a man hold in front of his face while riding to work on the bus or subway?

Life in London without newspapers has, obviously, a great many frustrations. A wage strike by electricians and maintenance men has suspended publication since Friday of the city's 13 big dailies, the financial and sporting sheets and the Communist Daily Worker. And there's no sign of a break in the deadlock between the publishers and the unions.

The British Broadcasting Corp. does the best it can, but what can a BBC newscast do about Jane, for instance?

Jane is the queen of the comic page of the tabloid Mirror. A national pinup girl, she is blonde, beautiful, giddy, short skirted, and there are many times when she does not seem to realize she's a big girl now.

In full view of a circulation of some 4½ million, Jane manages once every week or so to appear in nothing but flimsy underwear. Once every two weeks or so she is seen as nature made her.

And you take the horses.

A horse player gets a hot tip on a 2-year-old which will be turned loose when the trainer finds the right spot at a spring meeting. Every day he's watching the entries and all of a sudden — no newspapers.

So it's a cinch the horse will run somewhere, and he won't get a bet down and it will pay, maybe 33-1.

First auto traffic death on record occurred when a car struck and killed a pedestrian in New York City in 1889.

DALLAS, Tex. (U)—When Dallas cab driver Eugene Brandenburg told two armed robbers yesterday that he had "a bunch of kids" at home, they tossed back $16 they had just taken from him. Then they drove away in his cab. Police later found it abandoned only a few blocks away.

In the period 1920-1930, the population of Florida increased 182 per cent and that of California 200 per cent.

Malenkov Absence Fans Rumors About Liquidation

LONDON (U)—Rising speculation about the whereabouts of deposed Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov was heightened today by his absence from a farewell ceremony for a visiting Swedish power delegation.

The Swedish last night ended a 17-day tour of Soviet power stations, made at the invitation of the Soviet government. For unexplained reasons they did not see Malenkov, who was demoted seven weeks ago from the premiership to the post of minister of power stations.

A Moscow radio broadcast describing the departure of the Swedish delegation made no mention of Malenkov. Alexi Pavlenko, described as a deputy power stations minister, saw them off at Moscow Airport. Until Malenkov got the job last Feb. 9, Pavlenko had been the minister.

Malenkov also was missing from the government box at the final session Saturday of the Supreme Soviet of the Russian Soviet Federated Socialist Republic, the Parliament of the largest of the 16 Soviet republics. He had attended the previous sessions, which began Wednesday.

There was no official explanation for his absence.

Some Western officials have speculated that Malenkov, who stepped down as premier Feb. 8 with a confession of failure to do his job, was doomed to eventual liquidation. These officials, seeing him as a loser in the Kremlin struggle for power, believed it only a question of time.

The Chicago Tribune Press Service reported yesterday that rumors were circulating in London that Malenkov was executed last Thursday. The dispatch said the reports had been received "through diplomatic channels" from New Delhi.

Believes Ike's Support Firm

Sen. George Says U.S. People Will Back Any Presidential Decision

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said today he thinks the American people will support "whatever decision President Eisenhower is compelled to make" between war and peace in the Pacific.

But Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said in a separate interview he feels Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are joining Senate Republican leaders in turning the GOP into a "war party."

Sparkman said in his view the United States now stands "on the verge of war" in the Far East. But George and Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) thought otherwise. George, who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Eisenhower alone must decide whether the United States is to join in defense of the Chinese Nationalist-held coastal islands of Quemoy and Matsu if they are attacked by the Chinese Communists.

He said a decision to fight for the islands might alienate America's allies. But he said he was "greatly troubled" by a belief that a decision not to help defend them would destroy the effectiveness of the Nationalist army on Formosa. He said such a U.S. stand would promote a new Communist propaganda line seeking to convince Asians that this country is a "paper tiger."

A New York University study indicates that human behavior is responsible for 70 to 80 per cent of industrial accidents.

Press Backs Fluorine for a Healthier City

This newspaper believes in fluoridation. It has tried to study the subject as completely as possible and arrive at an honest conclusion. We reviewed the subject in considerable detail before it was revived by the City Commission.

Opposition seems to raise these four main points:

1—Wait. Wait. It's too early to know.
Perhaps this was true a few years ago, but Grand Rapids has had fluoridation for ten years and is happy over the results. You can probably find isolated instances here and there of dissenters, but by and large the people, the city officials, the health authorities and users are happy with the water. Over 26 million people are drinking fluoridated water today.

Hence we ask "why wait longer?"
2—It brings mottled teeth.
The best evidence the Press can find on this subject indicates that mottled teeth only occur in isolated instances and only when excessive amounts are used.

Pontiac does not propose excessive amounts. It proposes less than some cities have naturally.

3—There's danger from poisoning.
We doubt whether this is a valid or serious argument in the minds of the more completely informed of the opponents. It is used mainly as a "scare" measure and to throw fear into those who do not understand. In high concentrations many things are poisonous. Yet we use them daily because we do not use high concentrations.

In our opinion, this argument is purely for scare effects. It isn't based on calm logic or reason.

4—Some people charge bodily ills arise.

Extremely few if any competent physicians say this. You can charge "bodily ills" to the lack of sunshine or too much sunshine; you can charge them to "old age" or "babyhood." You can charge them to sharp changes in the weather, "night air" or a thousand vague and illusionary matters.

These seem to be the main criticisms of fluoridation as developed by its opponents.

We respect all opposition. But certainly the main weight of logic, common sense and reason rest on the side of fluoridation. That's where the biggest share of the competent people are gathered. That's where you find the most of the health authorities. Several attorneys have taken a leading part in the opposition here. But attorneys are not authorities on matters of health.

The Press prefers to string along with the bulk of the accepted experts on any technical or medical question. That's why we favor fluoridation. There are a number of self-starting "authorities" in opposition.

Let's follow the men that know.

Tawas City's Flotel

Something new has come to Michigan's tourist business—the flotel. This was assured with the sale of the once proud lake cruise ship Western States by the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co. The purchaser was a Flint corporation headed by Charles Bieber.

After being renamed the U. S. Overniter, the 53-year-old vessel will be towed to a permanent berth at Tawas City. There its 263 rooms will provide urgently needed additional accommodations for tourists. For the comfort and convenience of patrons there will be a sundeck and shops.

It seems reasonable to believe that the novelty of an overnight stay aboard ship will prove a great attraction. One can't help feeling also that among its guests will be many who enjoyed Western States cruises or the long popular round trips to Buffalo.

Our Outdoor Paradise

There may be many among Michigan's 7,000,000 residents who don't realize either the value or the popularity of their State's unexcelled hunting and fishing advantages.

The truth is that our commonwealth is widely recognized as a paradise for outdoor lovers. In fact, we lead the Nation in the number of hunting and fishing licenses sold.

Last year, according to the Conservation Department, sales in both categories added up to a grand total of 2,794,551. California was second with 2,493,911 and Minnesota, a State like ours with more than 10,000 inland lakes, was third with 1,818,755 issued.

This leadership helps explain our ever growing tourist and resort business. For years with automobiles and agriculture it has ranked as one of our three most important sources of income.

Blessed is he who has found his work; let him ask no other blessedness.

More Helicopters Permits Now Sought in Many Places in the Pontiac Area

Cooling: What often stops when the honeymoon is over—but the billing continues.

Starting a few weeks ago with requests for a few such sites, helicopter landing places now are being optioned in at least 25 locations in Oakland County. At least two companies are seeking these sites, and propose to use the mechanical "egg beaters" as jitney feeders of major airports. In some cases the flat roof of a large building has been declared acceptable. Throughout the east several such lines already are in operation.

The Real Surprise

David Lawrence Says:

A-Bomb Fright Campaign Supported by 2 Scientists

WASHINGTON — Governor Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, Democrat, was for ten years a member of the Atomic Energy Committee of the United States Senate and was, therefore, able to learn a great deal about the superatoms and their effects. He retired of his own volition last year.

Recently he issued a statement to the press deploring the attempts on the part of certain scientists to exaggerate the effects of the atomic bomb tests in Nevada. He said in part:

"It must be crystal clear to everyone now that the carefully planned fright campaign launched by Drs. Lanier and Pack of Colorado University was merely part of a nationwide drive by American scientists against the use of atomic bombs. 'Many of us could and would share their opposition to these lethal destroyers were it not that the United States is in a desperate and deadly atomic race with ruthless Russia... much as the United States would like to stop testing and improving atomic bombs, she dare not do so... 'We must not permit the defenses of this country to be weakened by wild and probably baseless speculation about the genetics of future generations. Unless American scientists remain way out in front of Russian atomic scientists, there will be no future generations of Americans. 'I am not accusing our Boulder (Colorado University) radiologists and their colleagues in other educational institutions in their fight against development of effective lethal weapons by the United States of being fifth columnists. But I do think their employing of fright strategy to create public sentiment against the necessary testing of atomic bombs is most damaging to the defenses of the free world.'"

Shortly after this statement was issued, Governor Johnson had occasion to answer a letter from Mrs. Connie Montfort of Denver, Colo., and the following extract from the governor's letter reveals further details about the scare story. Governor Johnson wrote:

"It seems to me the two university professors made a very grave and unnecessary mistake. This is what they did: 'On Friday they called a press conference and gave out a very frightening story to newspaper reporters about the dangers to the people of Denver of radiation caused by the Nevada atomic experiments. It was agreed that the story would not be published until the Sunday papers, March 13th... 'Why these professors did not take the matter up with the mayor of Denver or the governor of the state, or even the President of the United States, only they can explain. What did they expect the people of Denver to do? Hide in their basements and demand that the defense tests in Nevada be discontinued? 'The mayor, the governor, and the President have the responsibility of protecting the people and if there be danger, very quietly they should be alerted first. 'When I was told that they held their press conference on Friday and that they suggested it be published on Sunday, I said: 'If they know on Friday that the lives of the people of Denver are in danger on Friday and keep such facts under cover until Sunday, they ought to be arrested.' 'As I see it, the real question here is: Shall the United States abandon the production, tactical development and improvement of atomic weapons, or shall we turn that field over exclusively to Soviet Russia? 'I am convinced also that upon the scientists of America depends our security and safety. The free world owes them a great debt of gratitude. To continue to protect us from our enemies, the universities and colleges must turn out scientists in ever-increasing numbers. They gave us the atomic bomb. They can protect us from harmful radiation. They have well-equipped laboratories in which to do these things. 'But, remember this, no true scientist leaves his laboratory to run to the press with an unproven supposition. The true scientist de-

Voice of the People

Former Country Doctor Gives His Rules for Correct Care of Children's Teeth

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. A name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I practiced medicine for 15 years in a rural community in Hardin County, Ohio. When we drilled our deep well for the city water supply it contained about one part per million of fluoride.

The oldest of our three children was well along with the formative stage of tooth development at that time, but the other two, younger ones received the full benefit of the city water supply which was naturally fluoridated.

The older child required the services of an orthodontist to correct a defective tooth development. The two younger ones, both now over 15 years of age, have good sound teeth.

Our formula for care of teeth consisted of three practices:

1. Occasional check-up by a qualified dentist; 2. daily cleaning of teeth; 3. regulating of use of sugar and sweets, yet not deny them to children entirely, use of pasteurized milk and a well balanced diet. These are necessary in addition to the use of properly fluoridated drinking water.

G. F. Moench, M.D., M.P.H. Midland, Mich.

All the evidence which has been accumulated regarding the effects of fluoridation upon the health of children demonstrates that the addition of sodium fluoride to public water supplies in the recommended amounts has no systemic effects on growing infants and children.

Donald C. Smith, M.D., M.P.H., Department of Maternal and Child Health, University of Michigan.

All of the investigations in this field indicate that the dental caries prevalence of a community can be reduced approximately two-thirds by adjusting the water supply to contain one part per million of fluoride.

This problem has been studied in many parts of the world and all of the investigators have reported almost identical results. I have seen no objections to fluoridation which have been supported by scientific evidence.

It is my opinion that fluoridation of public water supplies is a practical and safe method for the partial control of dental caries.

Philip Jay, D.D.S., Professor of Dentistry, University of Michigan.

Statements attributed to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, are being circulated in Pontiac by anti-fluoridationists in such a way as to make it appear that he was opposed to fluoridation of water supplies. Don't be misled. Mr. Hoover has never made any statement regarding fluoridation of water.

Fred Haggard 21½ East Lawrence Street

It seems to me that the evidence is pretty convincing that the use of fluorides added to water reservoirs has a definite beneficial effect in reducing the incidence of dental caries in children, at least.

At the same time there is no evidence that I have heard of that is convincing that any harm whatever results from the procedure. Therefore, I can say with confidence which I would recommend, even though I do not think, by any means, that this is the whole solution to the very great problem of the cause of dental caries.

James L. Wilson, M.D., Department of Pediatrics, University of Michigan.

I wonder if some of the doctors and others who are so sure fluorine will do no one any harm can tell me for certain that fluorine will mix with other medicine I have to take to stay alive like crystalline and nitroglycerin and others for liver and kidneys. Also a few shots of mercury once in awhile.

My two doctors say they frankly don't know, they would rather not try it. These doctors certainly know my condition and have kept me going for years.

Now let's get down to the truth of it. Do any of them really know? Have they ever mixed all these poisons together and seen what they would do? Some poisons don't mix without killing.

One Who Has Cause for Concern

There is no question but what the evidence available indicates the desirability of employing fluoridation as a means of materially reducing the incidence of dental caries and there is no evidence that the practice is harmful to public health. On the other hand, there is plenty of evidence to indicate that it is in the interest of the health of our people.

Henry F. Vaughan, M.D., Dean, School of Public Health, University of Michigan.

I believe that we should not allow fluoridation of our public water as long as there are physicians who believe that some may have ill effects from fluorine. My son is a very allergic person, being sensitive to milk, wheat, eggs, nuts and fruits.

It would certainly be difficult to explain to a six and one-half year boy that he can't drink water at school or from our faucets.

I believe that since most of the water would be used for washing clothes, other cleaning jobs and watering our lawns that we would be putting our money down the drain.

Since there is a possibility of even one person becoming ill, we have no right to do this. Those who wish their children to have fluorine may buy it for them. Then no one would get sick nor would any go to waste.

Please vote "yes" on the proposal. Ban fluorine from our public water supply.

Mrs. Nicole Gagne, R.N. 230 S. Parke Street

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER (International News Service)

Interior lines of communication on Manhattan continue to register room temperature on the ear-dropper's tympanum.

Via official gossip-ming we have been taught to keep a civil Adam's apple in our echo chamber.

The Metropolitan Opera chorus is singing in individual booths scattered around the island. The blackmalters put two and two together and make you pay ten.

Don't say anything to anybody anywhere anytime. If you talk in your sleep put your head in a bag.

When you dial information she tells you the right time. Be out of town before the sun sets.

The eternal triangle has been wired for sound. One cautious duke was heard to say to his sweetie, "Call me up during the next thunder-and-lightning storm."

The big guys are using walkie-talkies with private wave-lengths registered with Interstate Communications. Even old Father Time is two-timing.

"Then Simon Peter having a sword, drew it out and cut off his right ear." John 18:10

You, Malchus, were of those who came... With staves and torches blaring flame... And Roman guards to bear Him hence... And charge Him with a false offense... And when the doughty Peter drew... His sword and maimed and wounded you... He whom you persecuted healed... Your ear and it should have appeared... To you to stand forth and defend... This one who proved Himself your friend. JULIEN C. Injection of Procaine Gives Sacroiliac Time to Mend

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D. A mechanical engineer says he foolishly tried to lift a tub of sand from his trunk — probably he means he leaned over with his legs straight, grasped the tub and tried to lift it by straightening up — zow!

Oh, well, we won't call him names this time — everyone must learn how to lift, and some ninnyhammers learn the hard way.

I know, for I'm one of the aforementioned ninnyhammers. On non-bowling days, of which, somehow there are too many, I take a break about 12:30 — the time when I should be toddling toward the bowling green—and go out to putter in the patio and absorb a little ultraviolet.

While puttering one day I noticed a young tree springing up under a stairway leading to a studio. I bent over, grasped the shoot with both hands and yanked on it. It didn't give. I leaned down, took a firmer hold and yanked harder. Yolk is the word for it, I believe. Several yolks. The young tree didn't give but my sacroiliac did.

It took half an hour to get into the house and into bed. From the way I felt, it was going to be a long, painful... osteopathy? I did have one of the leading physicians of that school — I can't remember whether he called it "slipped innominate," sacroiliac sprain or subluxation.

I do remember that his manipulations, which I had feared would cause great pain, were not at all painful. However, the disability and the extreme tenderness remained.

Next morning a medical practitioner skilled in "needle surgery" examined me, marked the tender point deep in the loin, administered a deep injection of procaine, a local anesthetic. He waited a while, then told me to sit up, despite my protests that I couldn't. Sitting up didn't hurt me, but I still refused to walk. Presently, however, I found walking didn't hurt either — and that was the end of my lame back.

In wartime similar treatment of sprains proved most successful. Immediate injection of procaine into the most tender area about a sprained ankle, for instance, enabled the patient to continue walking about and remain on duty instead of being invalidated several days. Gave better functional results too.

When you lift anything from floor or ground, squat down, keeping your back straight. If you bend over to pick up something, even though it may not be heavy, you put your sacroiliac "joint" in jeopardy. This "joint" or junction is where the key-stone of the spine (the sacrum) is attached to the wing (ilium) of the pelvic or hip bone (innominate) on either side.

There is still some difference of opinion as to the possibility of any displacement, subluxation or dislocation of the sacroiliac "joint." But I believe the osteopaths are right and the medical practitioners, the old timers at any rate, are wrong about this and other disabilities due to sprain or strain.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, are to be personally delivered to Dr. William Brady at a stamped, addressed envelope in care of the Pontiac Press.

Veteran Statesman — 2

Eden Ducks Roses Tossed by Kremlin

By TOM A. CULLEN
LONDON (NEA) — Sir Anthony Eden has been wooed longer and more ardently by the Men in the Kremlin than any other Western statesman, and with less conclusive results. For Eden just can't seem to make up his mind. It hasn't always been like this. At one time dictators were immune to the Eden brand of charm. Mussolini called him "the best-dressed fool in Europe," while Hitler referred to him contemptuously as Der Eden Knabe (The Eden Boy).

What the Soviets really think of Eden is summed up in a 76-word biography in the Soviet Encyclopedic Dictionary.

Here he is described as "an English bourgeois politician" who pursued a policy of "encouraging fascist aggression in 1935-38," and of "frustrating the opening of a distinguished water colorist, but he detested shrieking children and dogs ("Children," he once wrote, "are natural and brutish"). Life with this particular father must have been trying, for Anthony was glad to escape to Eton. From Eton he went straight into the King's Royal rifles and World War I. Eden emerged from the war as the youngest brigade major in the British Army. He had also acquired the famous Eden moustache (a little fiercer in those days) and the Military Cross for saving a wounded man's life near Ypres.

At Oxford he began to prepare for a diplomatic career by studying Oriental languages—Persian and Arabic — passing his final exams with first class honors. He also took an interest in Cezanne and the French Impressionists.

The year 1923 was important to Eden for two reasons: he married a banker's daughter and stood for Parliament and won against the "Red" Countess of Warwick, an aristocrat turned Socialist and related to Eden by marriage.

For the start of his political career Eden was "Stanley Baldwin boy." Prime Minister Baldwin, with a genius for picking fresh talent, saw in Eden a winner. When he made Eden foreign secretary at the age of 38, Baldwin told him:

"You are young. You have the most responsible job in Europe. So far it has been roses, roses all the way. But soon you will get brickbats." Sir Anthony has had both. It is not surprising that when the Kremlin showers him with roses these days he still ducks nervously.

Tomorrow: Resignation puts him on the map.

Michigan Family Income $1,000 Above Average

KALAMAZOO (UP) — The typical Michigan family makes about $1,000 more a year than the average American family, a report by the Michigan Council of State College Presidents revealed today.

The report, based on a study made by three state economists, said Michigan residents earned more than $13-1/2 billion in total income in 1953. This figure almost equals the 1953 national income of Italy, or the combined incomes of Australia and Sweden.

The Belgian Congo is 77 times the size of the mother country, Belgium.

the real facts on new-car values see your
PONTIAC dealer!

When you compare automobile values, one plain and easily proved truth becomes evident—Pontiac gives you more for your money than any other car in America!

Keeping in mind that Pontiac is priced within the reach of any new-car buyer, consider a few facts:

Pontiac is a big car! Pontiac's 122" or 124" wheelbase is 6 1/2 to 8 1/2 inches longer than any of the "low-priced three". It's the biggest car at its price.

Pontiac is more powerful! Model for model, its big Strato-Streak V-8 delivers more power per dollar than any car in its field with or without the four barrel carburetor—a low-cost option that puts a full 200 H.P. under Pontiac's handsome hood.

Pontiac is the most distinctively beautiful car at any price! No other car can match the individuality of Pontiac Twin-Streak styling and Vogue Two-Tone colors. This years-ahead styling is not only wonderful to enjoy right now, but it also means greater protection of trade-in value.

Right there are three big reasons why Pontiac sales are at an all-time high. Come in soon and get all the facts—and get behind the wheel for final proof.

1. You can buy a big, 200-H.P. Pontiac for less than many models of the low-priced cars and much less than stripped economy models of higher-priced makes!
2. Only Pontiac gives you luxury-car size plus the sensational Strato-Streak V-8!

second front" during World War II.

Actually, the Soviets might have handled Eden more gently, for he was the first British minister to shake Stalin's hand, and that at a time (1935) when the Kremlin master was considered "not quite house-broken."

When Eden visited Moscow in 1941 the Germans were only 35 miles away from the capital. This did not prevent Stalin from trying to drink the British foreign secretary under the table at one of his famous Kremlin banquets. (The match ended in a draw at 5 a.m. with Eden still on his feet and able to toast the Red Army.)

They made a strange contrast, the British aristocrat and the Georgian peasant, each testing the other for toughness.

Had he seen Eden throw one of his tantrums at the Foreign Office, Stalin might have altered his opinion of Eden as a quiet diplomat. For Eden has been known to throw books across the room; he has also hurled dispatch boxes at the retreating backs of his underlings.

He inherited his temper from his father, Sir William Eden, a red-bearded giant after Stalin's own heart.

There have been colorful members of the Eden family since Charles II made them baronets in 1672: ambassadors, members of Parliament, bishops, economists. But Sir William was almost too colorful.

When he wasn't chasing the fox Sir William was chasing a pretty woman. He was a crack shot, an admirer of Byron and a ST. IGNACE (UP) — It appeared "very doubtful" today that construction on the $100,000,000 Mackinac Straits Bridge will be resumed before April 8.

Officials of Merritt, Chapman and Scott, general bridge contractors, had hoped to resume construction on April 1 but below-normal temperatures during the last 10 days have delayed thaw of ice in the Mackinac Straits.

THE EASTER STORY—2
Jesus Teaches in the Temple

After Jesus and his disciples came to Jerusalem he taught each day in the temple. The chief priests and the leaders of the people wanted to destroy Him but they didn't know what to do because the people were so devoted to Him. In the temple Jesus told people stories to make it easier for them to understand his teaching. His stories are called parables. He said the most important thing to do was to love God with all your heart and soul and mind and strength. And you should love your neighbor as you love yourself.

This is the second of 12 stories on Easter. Each story's picture is drawn like a stained glass window. You can look at your church's windows for ideas on how to best color this series.

Group Calls Meeting on White Lake Zoning Ordinance

Warns of Threat to State Farm Production

EAST LANSING (UP)—A federal agricultural official said Friday night southern Michigan faces the possibility of losing its agricultural production to the development of roads, airfields, factories and urban subdivisions.

Dr. Charles E. Kellogg, assistant administrator for soil survey in the agricultural department's Soil Conservation Service, said rapid industrial expansion and increasing population poses a real problem in Michigan.

He told the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters meeting at Michigan State College clear policies concerning land use "are needed soon if the decisions about competing uses are to be resolved in the public interest—soon it will be too late to make adjustments."

Kellogg, a native of Ionia, and a graduate of Michigan State College, called for creation of a commission to establish standards of judging how land should be allocated to competing interests.

Some 250,000 acres of the nation's agricultural soil are being taken out of use each year for the development of other interests, he said.

"We are now using some of our most productive soils for airfields and factory sites," he said. "We even cover some of our best soils with water to prevent floods elsewhere and to produce electric power."

"Whether or not we are wasting soils cannot be answered within soil science alone," he said. "The determination of the 'best' use results from the integration of many alternatives within the social system."

Research is needed in many fields, he said.

"I can conceive of a great agricultural and industrial area in southern Michigan, with neither rural slums nor industrial slums, with both rural people and urban people having the advantages of the country and the city."

"But this kind of pattern will not just happen—unless you want it badly and work very hard for it," he said.

The academy's three-day meeting drew about 750 members, with more than 100 MSC staff members taking part, college officials said.

The Life of Christ—20

Jesus Refuses to Turn Away From Cross

(Jesus' public life and passion was the subject partially covered in yesterday's installment of Bishop Sheen's "The Life of Christ." In it he said that Jesus had spoken over 30 times during His life of the must of His sufferings and death.
Our lives are lived forward whereas Christ's was lived backward. The Cross was the reason for the crib and Christ's teaching, not His crib and His teaching the reason for His Cross. Christ took two steps in explaining the necessity of His death. Today's installment takes up the second step.)

By BISHOP FULTON J. SHEEN

2—A bold announcement of the Cross after Peter confessed:
"Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God," and public announcement of his death and Resurrection.

About the middle of His public life, the Apostles who followed Him saw the opposition against Him grow. Groups that despised one another united in one great phalanx of conspiracy, determined if possible to alienate the affections of the common people who marveled at His works.

Leaving Bethsaida, He enters the half pagan city of Caesarea-Philippi, where there was a statue to the god Pan. While there, the culminating point of
His earthly ministry occurred.
When He had finished His prayer, He beckoned His Apostles to Him and asked them the most important question He ever asked: "Whom do men say that I am?"

Perhaps the reason He asked the popular judgment of men concerning Him was to reveal to them how much in the eyes of the public
He had failed. "Men," they said thought Him to be Elias, Jeremias, John the Baptist, or one of the Prophets. Then He asked:
"Whom do you say that I am?"
The popular answer had been full of contradictions. Now the elect, the spiritual aristocracy was asked, but they did not answer.
One man then steps forward, Peter, who answers: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God."

Our blessed Lord answers:
"Blessed art thou, Simon son of Jona;It is not flesh and blood,
It is My Father in Heaven
That has revealed this to thee."

He was telling Peter that He did not know this of and by himself, but because of a revelation of His Father. It was faith that made him stand alone and apart from the world, and above all of its judgments. Our Lord then makes Peter "the rock upon which I will build My Church."

But this is only half the story.
Now that Our Lord was known to be what He is, the Messiah, the Son of the Eternal Father,
He prepared them for the second lesson: He is the suffering Messiah spoken of by Isaiah and the other prophets,
"the Lamb led to slaughter,"
"the One on Whom are laid the transgressions of us all."

The Apostles had to learn the first lesson thoroughly before they could face boldly the second lesson, namely, that He Who is the God-Man should suffer and die.
The "must" of which he spoke when He was twelve years of age, is now clearly revealed: He must die because He would save. The Divine Messiah must be a rejected Messiah, and a rejected Messiah must be a slain Messiah.

"From that time onwards Jesus began to Make it known to His disciples
That he must go up to Jerusalem, and there,
With much ill-usage from the priests
And elders and scribes must be put to death,
And rise again on the third day."

The work of His Cross can be understood only in the light that

He is the Father's Son. He tells

His Apostles now what He will tell them after His Resurrection, that it was "fitting that the Son of Man suffer," that the necessity of suffering comes not from rejection by elders, chief priests and scribes, nor is it due to the accumulation of popular prejudice.

The web in which He is caught on Calvary's Hill will not be spun by the hands of spider men; the Divine must comes from two sides; the obedience to His Father's Will, and His love of men.
The first pointed Him to the Cross, the second nailed Him there and kept Him there, despite the cries to "come down and we will believe," until the work was finished.

Peter did not understand the Divine must, for he "rebuked"

Our Lord for suggesting that He would suffer. It was at this point that Our Blessed Lord called him "Satan". Peter had done exactly the same thing that Satan had done in the wilderness, namely, tried to turn Him away from the Cross, and make Him a political Messiah Who would give belly-bread instead of soul-bread. Our Lord implied that suggesting the merely human way out of a Divine Mission, is identical with being diabolical. Then He told Peter that what he said savored not of the things of God, but of the things of men.

Jesus then tells them that His law should be their law: A Good

Friday is the prelude to an Easter Sunday. But there is this difference. He is under a Divine Mandate of the Father to which His Will is identified perfectly. But, they are free to choose. Hence,
He said He "must suffer, but as for them: "If any will follow Me, let him take up his cross and follow Me." This was one of the conditions of discipleship. They knew what a cross was, for they had often seen the Romans execute criminals on the hills outside the city. Now He says: "Whosoever does not take his cross and come after Me, cannot be My disciple."
But He also consoles them by saying that the same suffering servant who mounts a Cross, will

Little Annie Rooney Asks:

Where's the Composer?

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. — The original Little Annie Rooney, who inspired the famous song, is seeking news of its composer, Michael Nolan, a relative who wrote the honor when she was a baby.

Mrs. Eric M. Erickson, whose name was Annie Rooney before she was married, says she remembers her father, William Rooney, bouncing her on his knee while he sang: "She's my sweetheart, I'm her beau."

"Annie, never forget that your song," her father would say.

And her Uncle John Nolan would add:

"Mike composed that song just for you, little Annie Rooney."

That was some 65 years ago, shortly after the Roaneys, with little Annie, came to the United States from England, and settled first in Providence. Annie was only 14 months old then, and the family lost touch with their relatives in England. But the song lived on.

Today Mrs. Erickson lives in nearby Fairhaven, and recently has become interested in finding out what happened to her mother's cousin Michael, who made her name so famous. She says:

"If he's living he's probably in his 90s, but he might still be living. Members of my mother's family lived to a great old age. All that I know of are gone now, but I thought perhaps someone in England might have known the composer Michael Nolan, and I might get in touch with some of the family again."

The frail, white-haired Mrs. Erickson has composed some songs herself, and still likes to play the piano. But she remembers how the name Annie Rooney used to embarrass her when she was a child.

"I still remember my first day at school," she says. "I wouldn't tell the teacher my name, and then I burst into tears when the little boy behind me said, 'Her name is Annie Rooney.'"

The actual length of the hair is just below the ears, but it's smoothed back, set and held with lacquer, into a slightly rolled-down bob.

In front, it flows up with a youthful line away from the face. Many women discovered that even a mature version of the strings-on-the-face haircut added years and will delight in the flattering upwards line.

To go with the haircut for spring, there are hats that are flattering to the more-than-a-teenager's face. Worn on the crown of the head, they carry out the upwards line showing the whole face.

Perfume That Clings

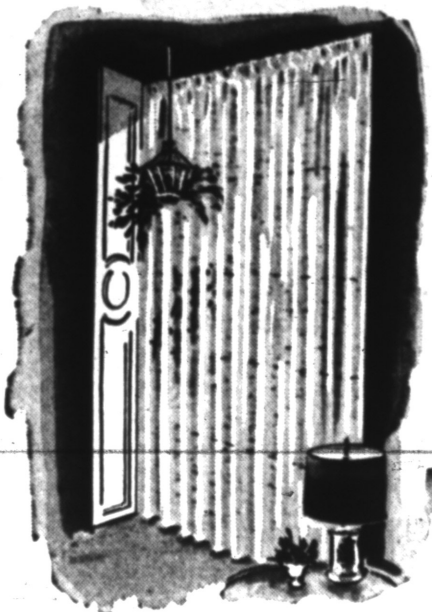

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.65 plus tax at better stores.

Put on the Dog for Your Dog

PHILADELPHIA (INS)—Here's something that no well-dressed dog should be without, especially when it's spring shower time.

It's a cover-all raincoat that protects the dog from the rain and his mistress' furniture from the dog.

Designed according to breed of dog, the raincoat covers the entire animal, with leg parts attached to the body of the garment. There's even a detachable hood for head and ears.

Today Mrs. Erickson lives in nearby Fairhaven, and recently has become interested in finding out what happened to her mother's cousin Michael, who made her name so famous. She says:

"If he's living he's probably in his 90s, but he might still be living. Members of my mother's family lived to a great old age. All that I know of are gone now, but I thought perhaps someone in England might have known the

Slip Covers, Draperies Can Change Decor

NEW YORK (INS) — Women change their dress with the season — so why not their decor?

A few slip covers and inexpensive drapes can convert interior decoration to a "flowers and color" motif that blends with the season.

A well-known interior decorator has displayed a room setting he feels is in the proper bright mood.

The walls were shocking pink, crossed with white bars for a framed, slightly Oriental effect.

A lavender and green iris print on a white ground was used for the curtains, and one couch was slip-covered to match. The bold pattern was off-set by the second sofa, covered in a tiny checked material.

The pictures on the wall were framed with green banding which provided a sharp contrast to the pink walls.

A low white coffee table stood near the window, and the wood furniture was all small, as were two tiny, leather-covered stools.

A final touch of color was provided by a bright gold screen bordered in black.

Other combinations suggested by William Pahlman include orange, black, white and black-and-white stripes or perhaps a combination of pastels in flowered, striped and harlequin patterns.

The planning committee get their heads together as they go over last minute details. Three of the members are (left to right) Betsy Comps of Myrtle street, Jim North of Oakland avenue and Bernice McLean of Elizabeth Lake road. The Youth Conference will be held April 11 at the YMCA.

At Republican Session

Speaker Describes Meeting in Capitol

Members of the Pontiac Republican Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. J. L. Slaybaugh Monday.

Mrs. Katherine Gibson, vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, was guest speaker.

She reported on a meeting of the Board of National Federation of Republican Women. The meeting was held early in March at Washington, D. C. A highlight of the meeting was a visit to the office of Pres. Dwight D. Eisenhower for a short and informal discussion.

The members enjoyed receptions given by Mrs. Eisenhower, one at the Chinese Embassy and one given by Mrs. Arthur Summerfield. Mrs. Gibson said main features of the conference were field trips to various departments of the administration. The speaker chose to go to the department of Health, Education and Welfare where she discussed the administration's proposals regarding education with the under secretary.

The "Taylor" proposal for education was discussed by Mrs. Gibson and a brief outline of the candidates for the April 4 election was given. She also led a discussion of the Republican attitude toward minority control of schools and courts.

In closing the speaker urged all to go to the polls and vote in the election Monday.

Mrs. Clarence Senger was chairman of the day, assisted by Mrs. Fred Bohlman, Mrs. Harold Haskins and Mrs. Frank McGregor presided at the tea table.

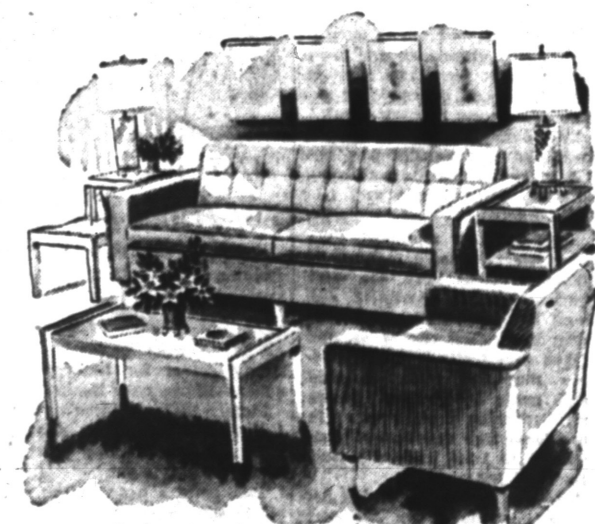

MARY HOLMES

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Holmes of Ruth avenue are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to George Purvis. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Purvis of West Fairmount avenue. An October wedding is planned.

McBride Prefers to Give Up Columning If It's Necessary to Be a Gadfly

Spotlight Plays on Floor; Rugs Take Decor Honor

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

There's a new way of decorating a room that's touched off by the fascinating design and color of certain kinds of new rugs.

It's a case of throwing the spotlight directly and clearly on the floor. The rug is so interesting that it walks off with the decorating honors, while the rest of the room grows quiet to point up its importance rather than to offer competition.

Rugs like this are seldom room-size, but are often large for area rugs, like the one sketched, and are always commanding and unusual in design although the pattern may be simple. This rug is handmade and all wool, an import from India. Brilliant green, blue, gold, and henna squares with free form brown centers are in a pile that's higher than the beige background.

New Pipes Best Cure for Leaks

By HUBBARD COBB

When a section of water pipe springs a leak or becomes clogged with rust or mineral deposits, the best cure of all is to replace said section of pipe.

This is usually done by a plumber but often the plumber can't come when needed and so you end up doing the job yourself. By the time you have finished you'll realize that this little simple project is not quite as simple as it may have looked.

First thing you have to do is to get a new section of pipe. Measure from center of the two fittings at each end of the damaged section and then get your plumber to make up a replacement.

You will have to have two pieces of pipe threaded at each end and joined together with a union. The diameter of the new pipe must, of course, be the same as the old.

Now take a hacksaw and cut through the damaged section of pipe and then unscrew the two ends from the fittings. Disconnect the union joining the two parts of the replacement together and then apply some pipe rope to the ends which will be threaded into the fittings.

Connect the two ends into the fittings and then join them together with the union that was provided for that purpose.

After you have done all this you will begin to realize why it was necessary to have the replacement pipe cut into two parts and provided with a union.

If it was one solid length of pipe there would be no way to fasten it to 2 fittings at each end. Of course, if this is the last length of pipe in a run the union is not necessary but if you are repairing a length of pipe in any other part of the system you must have the union.

Doesn't Want to Goad Unless Extremely Angry

By MARY MARGARET MCBRIDE

"You must try to be a gadfly," admonishes a well-wishing pen pal out in Iowa. "The most influential columnists are gadflies."

I've thought about this, consulted Webster (gadfly—goads or stings domestic animals) and concluded I may prefer to give up columning, for I don't really want to goad or sting except, of course, now and then when I get really angry about something like reckless drivers or war or cruelty.

Besides, are gadflies happy? On this point I consulted my friend Bernice Fitz-Gibbon, brilliant advertising woman who fairly recently has been in the headlines at least three times for sounding off about this and that.

At the Rayon Institute of the Home Fashions League of America, Miss F. declared, "The pathetic truth is that most American women who are sure that they have created tasteful interiors are really living in shudderingly bad homes—real Houses Horrible."

She mentioned specifically such details as "walls and upholstery of muddy oatmeal, (a color selected, she supposes, because it won't show dirt and which lives up to its promise because it looks dirty to begin with); nasty door chimes; pictures hung so high that three quarters of them can be seen only by mounting stepladders which, Miss Fitz-Gibbon added, is just as well because they aren't worth looking at anyway."

In short, she concluded that allowing a housewife to choose her furniture is as hazardous as letting a patient pick his operation. Altogether, she made a witty, infuriating speech and naturally it was debated and attacked.

Awhile before, Miss Fitz-Gibbon had aroused the television networks with her declaration that newspapers were the ONLY media for department store advertising. She pointed out that women buy newspapers, first for news, second for advertisements, whereas on TV "the commercial is the grim penalty one pays to see Lucy."

Earlier still, speaking to a career clinic, Gadfly Fitz-Gibbon took up the subject of equipping girls for life.

Give them a good course in typing but leave off the shorthand, she advised, for they will be able to compose far better letters than the top brass they work for, mainly gentlemen "wrapped in oratorical togas, holding forth with stuffy and pompous pronouncements."

"Sometimes I have my tongue in my cheek just a little bit," Miss Fitz-Gibbon confessed, with mild understatement. "Unfortunately, though, you can't count on everybody realizing that, and occasionally I am rather misunderstood."

Which convinces me of what I suspected in the first place—I wouldn't have much fun being a gadfly.

Bit of Ham, Can of Corn Make a Dish

Mrs. Hartzman's Scalloped Potatoes Have New Interest

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

At this time of the year our food thoughts turn to ham. If you had baked ham over the weekend, you'll like this recipe from Mrs. C. M. Hartzman to help use leftovers. If not, you can tuck it away for an after-Easter meal.

Mrs. Hartzman says she keeps more than busy doing small things. She worked for a while, but now that she's home all the time again, she concentrates on homemaking for her family and being neighborly. She is a member of both the Eastern Junior and the High School PTA. For a hobby she enjoys crocheting collar sets.

SCALLOPED DINNER

By Mrs. C. M. Hartzman

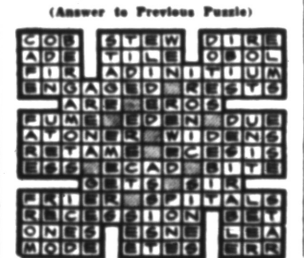

1 pound cooked ham
1 can corn
8-10 potatoes, thinly sliced
3 tablespoons flour
1 onion
1 teaspoon salt
Butter, size of a walnut
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Milk

Put ham and onion through food chopper. Butter a casserole and cover the bottom with potatoes. Season with salt and pepper and sprinkle with a little flour. Add a layer of corn, then one of ground ham. Repeat these layers, having potatoes for the top layer. Pour in milk to come to the top of the casserole but not to cover the potatoes. Sprinkle with a few cracker crumbs and paprika if desired. Dot with butter, cover, and bake at 250 degrees for 30 minutes, then 350 degrees for one hour more.

This is a good one-dish meal and is excellent to take on picnics if prepared in a bean pot. Serves 8-10.

Assign Kids Color

If two kids share the same room, try this. Assign a color to each and then put pieces of appropriately colored tape on the toys of each. For extra durability, paint with shellac.

Jimmy at Home in Air Film

By BOB CONSIDINE
OMAHA (INS)—Jimmy Stewart was sitting in Gen. Curt LeMay's car, parked near the wingtip of a B-36 of the Strategic Air Command. He reverently let his blue eyes sweep the length, breadth and height of the incredible 10-engine monster.

"I still don't believe it," he said with an awed crack in his voice. LeMay looked at the craft for a time, reflectively chomping his cigar.

"I know how you feel," he said. Actor and general were one, sharing an emotion which a non-airman might find difficult to understand.

It isn't usual for the pros of a business to feel a kinship with actors. The pros will cooperate with the world of make-believe now and then, and for assorted reasons, but they regard their screen counterparts as frauds and feel uneasy around them.

The rule doesn't go in the case of Stewart, star of Paramount's great new picture "Strategic Air Command," soon to be released. Stewart has as much right to be in the picture as the B-36s and the B-47s.

It is his idea, his vehicle, his articulate and impressive way of saying something that the Air Force can't say loud enough itself—that our indifference to such deterrents of World War III as LeMay's command is encouraging Russia to test and goad us on a dozen fronts.

Jimmy Stewart entered World War II as an Army Air Force private and emerged a few years later a gray-haired colonel with a magnificent combat record in heavy bombing.

When Congress demolished our air power after the war, Stewart became one of the founders of the Air Force Association, a non-profit organization dedicated to the proposition that only through strength can we remain free. He kept up his reserve commission, checked out as a jet pilot, and put himself on call as far as the Air Force was concerned.

About a year and a half ago Stewart found what he had been searching for since he left the service, an idea for a military flying picture that would not be a war picture. He flew to Omaha to see his friend Curt LeMay, comrade in the war that was supposed to stop all wars.

There must be an important picture in the work of the Strategic Air Command, he said. LeMay agreed. And Stewart went to work, not on a script but to learn all he could about the intercontinental bombing force, its mission, machines and men.

It was in the course of this research that he came to understand fully an enormous threat to the Air Force, the deplorable re-enlistment rate of less than 25 per cent. The civilian world held too many lures: better pay, less regimentation, home and hearth, quicker promotions, government subsidized education for veterans and so forth.

SAC was (and is) spending as much as $14,000 a year training some of its personnel to attend properly and efficiently to tasks that would be assigned them if war erupted now. Over a four-year hitch, the taxpayers invest $36,000 in the trained man who, now that he was truly fitted for his role, kissed it goodbye and headed for home and a job in private industry. With three out of four airmen doing just this, the replacement and re-training programs soared to $2,000,000,000 a year. Every year.

Out of these broodings and briefings "Strategic Air Command" took shape in the actor-airman's mind. He sold Paramount on the project, won the support of the Air Force, got a crack story line from another old Eighth Air Force colonel, Beirne Lay Jr. and just the right type of laconic script from Lay and Valentine Davies.

Still another former colonel, Samuel J. Briskin produced, Anthony Mann directed, as he usually directs Jimmy, and the cast was filled out with the capable likes of June Allyson, Frank Lovejoy (who plays LeMay), Alex Nicol, Barry Sullivan, Bruce Bennett and Jay C. Flippen.

Shooting in technicolor and vista-vision began last spring at Al Lang Field, St. Petersburg, where Stewart is found as the $70,000 a year star of the St. Louis Cardinals. He is called back to service, grips that he did enough in World War II, hooks up with SAC, becomes one of its graying, sober-sided aircraft commanders, survives (barely) the occupational hazards of endless practice missions, and comes down to the day when he must make the decision that confronts hundreds of airmen each day—stay in and help the country or get out and help yourself.

Stewart pressed for the completion of the picture in order to show it to Congress and administration figures at a time when Air Force appropriations were being debated. He showed it here the other night for the benefit of the Air Force Association, which also will be the beneficiary of the Broadway premier April 20.

"Strategic Air Command" is a compelling tract, but it is entertainment, too, and William Daniels' photography—made possible by the breathtaking flying of Paul Mantz—will live forever in motion picture annals.

New Advance Made Against Dread Sclerosis

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A research worker at St. Luke's and Children's Medical Center has succeeded in isolating "the probable cause of multiple sclerosis," the hospital announced yesterday.

The researcher, Miss Rose R. Ichelson, said, "There is plenty of work still to be done in order to prove" the findings. She said it will take a year and a half to determine if a way has been found to kill the organism.

Miss Ichelson is director of research work on the crippling nerve disease at St. Luke's.

The announcement said she had isolated and grown the organisms believed to cause the disease by working with spinal fluids from known sufferers. The organisms were identified as spirocheta myelophthora.

Lichens are a combination of green or blue-green algae and a fungus.

Pontiac Dentist Speaks for Fluoridation

Trust Your Trained Health Officials, Says Dr. Chafets

"I feel a deep sympathy for the voters of the City of Pontiac," says Dr. Samuel J. Chafets, D.D.S. "A few short weeks ago," he continues, "they were presented with a puzzling problem — to vote for fluoridation of Pontiac's water, or against it, on April 4."

"At meetings, or in the paper, they were told, on one hand that fluoridation would greatly benefit their children's teeth, without harm to the rest of the body; on the other, that fluoridation would poison them and do other terrible things to the system."

"Frankly, it seems to me that the average voter would feel a keen frustration and resentment against those who took the decision away from the experts. They forced the responsibility for this decision on the voter who is frank to admit that he has little knowledge on this subject, and finds it difficult to make up his mind. In all this confusion I would like to address the puzzled voter."

"Let us talk about faith and trust for a moment. In this specialized world we depend upon others to protect and help us by providing trained services in the things we cannot do for ourselves."

"For instance, you trust your police department to protect you against crime, knowing full well that if your life and property is threatened, they will help you. Also, when you buy milk, you know that the dairy has prepared and delivered it so that it is safe and pure."

"Beyond this point, common sense tells us that it would be wrong to let the policeman prepare the milk, and the milkman protect our lives and property. We might get neither good milk nor protection. So, we see that not only must we trust the other fellow, but we must be sure to go to the right person for the particular service he is trained to perform."

"And so it is with the fluorine dilemma. Not only will the intelligent voter seek advice, but will go to the experts who know most about this situation, to obtain this advice. He will quickly recognize the fact that an expert in another field is hardly the man to consult regarding a community health issue."

"Let me point out the true experts in the community health field. These people are called public health officials and their job is exactly that—to guard and improve the health of the public."

"The Federal government has a large staff working on a national scale. The State of Michigan has a Department of Health, as does our city, headed by Dr. John Monroe. These folks represent us. Their only responsibility is to the public, whose employees they are."

"Politics or special interests play no part in their thinking. They would be the first to talk against a harmful community proposal, as they would be the first to back a proven, beneficial one."

"The reputation of the public health officials has been traditionally good. Diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid fever and many other communicable diseases have been eliminated because of their devotion to the public good."

"These staffs are composed of a variety of scientists, such as physicians, dentists, bacteriologists and chemists who, after getting their particular degrees, go on to study for a degree in Public Health. They are trained and dependable, and we trust them."

"Now, the public health people have been studying the fluorine question for years. They observed whole cities and investigated what fluorine did to the teeth and to the rest of the body when taken over a period of years. Their methods were those of experts and their reputation as defenders of the public's health was unquestioned."

"Their conclusions based on accurate statistics were that fluorine in community water reduced decay at least 65 percent, and that no harm at all was done to the rest of the body. Please remember that this is the group which has conducted what could be considered the only scientific investigation, so that they are the only group which could speak with authority."

"So, we return to the idea of faith and trust in an expert trained to do a job for your benefit. We know that at the beginning, these public health experts worried about fluorine being a poison, about it hurting the kidneys, livers, bones and minds of the population. Now that their information is solid, they assure us that we do not have to worry about harmful effects."

"You, the voter, know, too, that the great majority of physicians and dentists are for fluoridation. These men did not participate in the investigation, but through their medical and dental journals, and scientific meetings, have followed the fluorine experiments for years."

"They appreciate and understand sound research, and recognized the fluorine investigation as such. These physicians and dentists with whom you are personally acquainted, endorse and want for their own children fluoridated water in Pontiac."

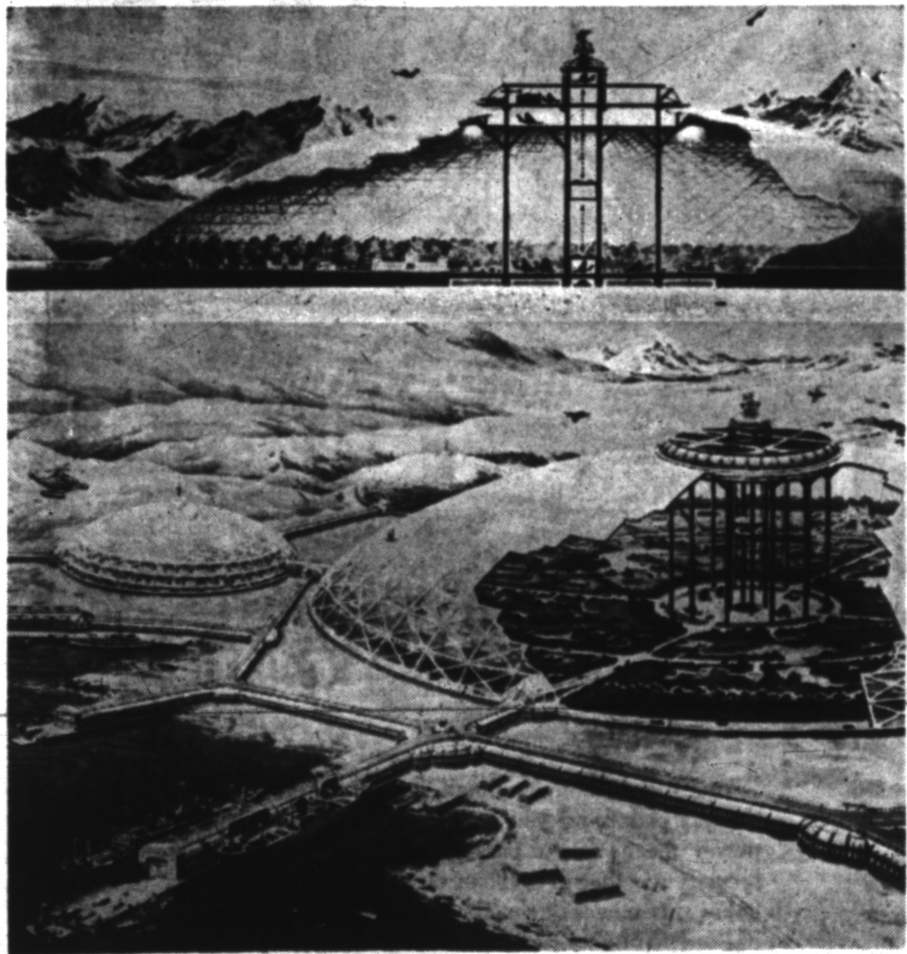

"It is my sincere expectation that the average voter will recognize the danger of being placed in a position where he must make a scientific decision. I believe that he will use this referendum to tell our public officials that they are being trusted to continue to protect us against disease."

"So, let us tell these experts on April 4 to go ahead and bring our water supply up-to-date."

"If you, the voter, want fluoridated water in Pontiac, vote no to the proposal."

NIKE SUCCESSOR—This is a drawing of Bomarc, new Air Force guided missile expected to replace Nike as the answer to guarding U. S. cities against H-bomb attack. A surface to air missile, Bomarc, if successful, will solve problems of how to blast down bombers 250 miles away.

ARCTIC WARM SPOT—A climatized arctic air base, housed in huge plastic domes and heated by portable atomic fission units, is envisioned in the current issue of a national magazine. The magazine says small plastic shelters recently demonstrated by the Marine Corps could be scaled up to almost any size. One 2,000 feet in diameter could house military installations, living quarters and the heating unit. Smaller domes nearby (bottom, left) could be used for service facilities, storage and even gardens. Air operations from the giant plastic shelter would be centered on huge turntables atop the dome (top). One platform would launch fighter planes and atomic bombers and the other guided missiles. An elevator in the center would carry planes and pilots up and down.

Would Upset Ruling on Fractional Taxes

Measure Aired in State Senate

Seeks Lower Values for Districts Overlying County Lines

LANSING — An attempt to partially scuttle the State Supreme Court decision requiring local taxes to be levied on the state equalized valuation was scented in the Senate last night.

The chamber, caught off balance by an amendment offered by Sen. Harry F. Hittle (R-East Lansing), held the matter for further study. Hittle offered his amendment to a new school code which has been under debate in the Senate for several days.

The East Lansing senator aimed his amendment at the so-called fractional school districts—those which overlap into two or more counties.

He proposed that in such school districts the State Tax Commission "shall equalize the taxes in each of said parts without regard to the state equalized valuation of the respective counties."

Sen. Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo) immediately charged that Hittle's amendment would "overturn" the Supreme Court decision of last Dec. 29 in the so-called Pittsfield school case from Washtenaw County.

In that case, one involving a fractional district, the court held that the constitution requires taxes to be levied on the true cash value of property, that there can be only one true value and that the tax base must be uniform.

Hence, the court said taxes must be levied on the equalized (or averaged) valuation of all counties involved.

The decision awoke a storm of objections from local officials who had been levying on county equalized valuations. The county valuations generally were lower than the state equalization.

Earlier, the Senate passed and sent to the House a bill permitting the State Highway Department to pledge annually $12,500,000 for expressway bond issues. It now is limited to $7,500,000.

The $7,500,000 — plus local and federal pledges—has underwritten 115 million dollars worth of bonds. The increased pledge would permit 185 million dollars more.

The Senate approved a bill bringing television stations under the fraudulent advertising law and making it a crime for a merchant to advertise articles at a price he does not intend to sell them for. The bill now goes to the House.

High Cost of Justice

Report From City Attorney Heads Commission Agenda

A report from City Attorney William A. Ewart on the city's liability for costs incurred for surveying possible public housing sites heads the agenda for tonight's City Commission meeting.

Up for action after being battered around for two months is the proposed rezoning of most lots in the Glenwood Estates Subdivision from manufacturing to residential 1 classification.

The Commission is also slated to consider bids for grading the west side of the new City Hall, which is scheduled for completion in May.

Public hearings are set on vacating two alleys and portions of two streets. One of the alleys runs behind 465 E. Pike St. The other parallels Stanley avenue and runs north from Sheffield to the Belt Line Railroad. The streets are Grace and Fuller.

Also on the 22-point agenda is a resolution of public necessity for curb, gutter and drainage on Ypsilanti avenue from Baldwin to University.

City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn will present estimates for a sanitary sewer on Wyoming avenue from the adjacent trunk sewer to Motor street, and for curb, gutter

Social Service Talk Scheduled at YWCA

The first in a series of six lectures on social services available in the community will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the YWCA, 22 Franklin Blvd.

Estelle Martin, executive director of Oakland County Family Service, will be speaker at the two-hour session.

Sponsoring the free classes, which will be held every Thursday through May 5, are the Oakland County CIO Council, the Pontiac Area United Fund and the American Assn. of Social Workers.

County Men Are Given Probation in Breakin

Two South Oakland County men were placed on three years probation and assessed $250 court costs yesterday by Circuit Judge George B. Harrick.

John P. Kotila, 25, of 99 W. Garfield, Hazel Park, and Walter M. Hill, 21, of 892 Howard, Berkley, admitted March 21 breaking into the Moose Lodge Hall at 316½ S. Main, Royal Oak, March 10.

Plan Seeks to Help Mental Defectives

Oakland County Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore has proposed a plan to Gov. Williams aimed at providing immediate institutional care for the long list of feeble-minded patients awaiting commitment to the Lapeer State Home and Training School.

The Lapeer institution now has 769 mental defectives waiting to be housed.

In a letter dispatched last Friday to Gov. Williams, Judge Moore proposed "that the Howell Tuberculosis Sanatorium, patients be transferred to vacant beds in other tuberculosis sanatoriums and the Howell Sanatorium be used to hospitalize these mental defectives."

Records indicate that the tuberculosis sanatoriums in the state have "considerable vacant space," said the judge.

"With good planning this could well be utilized for nursery and custodial cases of mental defectives. After all these hospitals are all really a part of the state hospitalization facilities."

"When the need is pressing it is impractical to continue any specific hospital for its originally designated purpose with empty beds, providing it is adaptable to a more necessary use if conversion can be had."

Most patients sent to Lapeer are from the Detroit metropolitan area and adjacent counties, the judge stated. Therefore, if some other hospital is made available for defectives, the Howell location is logical, he pointed out.

Judge Moore suggested that the governor recommend an emergency bill transferring jurisdiction of the Howell institution from the Tuberculosis Sanatorium Commission to the State Mental Health Commission which oversees care of defectives.

Patients at Howell would be moved to other sanatoriums, "because there is room for them there," Howell could then accept "200 nursery cases and some 300 custodial, hard to handle, and bed cases of mental defectives."

Pointing up the need for more facilities, Judge Moore said Oakland County now has 80 cases on the waiting list, "some of 2½ years delay, 50 of which are helpless, difficult custodial cases. This is typical of other counties."

"It has been by experience that this deplorable situation has existed almost continuously since 1938. The nursery cases... are so serious and appealing as to demand immediate attention."

The judge has sent copies of the letter to other probate judges plus mental officials and expects "the approval of everyone who is trying to solve the problem."

Judge Moore took action after receiving a string of letters from citizens groups and even a Hazel Park City Council resolution urging a place be secured for handling the backlog of mental defectives.

The governor's office today said the letter was received yesterday and the proposal is undergoing careful study.

Break Through Bricks

CHICAGO (UP) — Julius Rosenberg thought he burglar-proofed his grocery by installing iron bars on the front door and a steel door at the rear entrance. Burglars ignored his elaborate protection, broke through a brick basement wall and stole $2,000 worth of merchandise.

WATER-SEEKERS — With an eye toward the May 28 deadline limiting use of city water for air conditioning units rated at more than three-ton capacity, a downtown department store at Saginaw and Huron Sts. is drilling in hopes of finding its own water. The ordinance establishing the limit was passed in November, 1953, because of increasing needs for water by householders, industry and business. Air conditioning users were given 18 months to convert to systems which re-use the same water over and over, or to find their own supply.

California Dentist Opposing Fluoridation

Robert Garner, head of the Citizens Fair Government League, has asked the Press to publish the following statement prepared by John E. Waters, D.D.S., of Coronado, Calif. This is a continuation of the article which appeared last Friday.

"To continue the discussion of fluorosis, it must be noted that the fluoridationists quote only what suits their ends from Dr. Dean's extensive and valuable reports. So, therefore, will the writer.

"Dr. Dean reports that in Georgia where water contains from 0.5 to 1.0 parts per million of fluorine, he found the same type of fluorosis as in the Chicago area with 1.2 ppm Dr. Dean also reported that in Galesburg, Ill., with 1.8 ppm of fluorine in the water, 47 per cent of the children showed fluorosis of the teeth, and that those showing the mottling of the teeth had a DMF (decayed-missing-filled) rate of 200 per 100 children compared to a DMF rate of only 186 per 100 children not having mottling. These things the American Dental Assn. does not publicize even to its own members.

"The Smiths report on four cities each with 1.2 ppm of fluorine naturally in the water, with fluorosis as follows:

"Florence, Ariz., 56 per cent; Maywood, Ill., 33 per cent; Moline, Ill., 31 per cent; Aurora, Ill., 15 per cent.

"They also found two cities each with but 1.3 ppm of fluorine, and with similar cool climates:

"Joliet, Ill., with 25 per cent fluorosis; Salda, Colo., with 91 per cent.

"The Aurora, Ill., Beacon News of May 9, 1954, says the dentists there report so much decay in children's teeth that they could only record extractions necessary, and that an enormous amount of dental work is needed. Aurora has 1.2 ppm of fluorine naturally in its water.

"At San Xavier Indian Boys School in Arizona, with 1.0 ppm of fluorine naturally in the water, the Smiths found 78 per cent of the boys had dental decay and almost 100 per cent of the teeth were marred beyond repair. There was no less decay than at Mansfield with only 0.3 ppm.

"Thus in their program of fluoridation, the U. S. Public Health Service and the American Dental Assn. propose to produce this disease, fluorosis, in American children to the degree that from 10 to 12 per cent of those drinking water containing a so-called optimum strength of fluorine, during the period of the formation of the enamel of the teeth, will show the disfiguring symptom of dental fluorosis, or mottling.

"In April 1953 Dr. Pequegnat, Toronto's Medical Officer of Health, reported that only 41 per cent of Toronto secondary school children needed treatment in 1950, compared to 75 per cent in 1943—a reduction of 45 per cent. He attributed this improvement to a program of dental services in the schools. Instruction in Canada's food rules may also have been a factor.

"During a similar period, 1945 to 1950, an overall reduction of 31 per cent was reported in tooth decay in Brantford children ranging from 5 to 16 years of age. This period covers the first five years of the Brantford water fluoridation experiment. If Toronto without fluoridation can show more improvement than Brantford with, it would appear that instruction and dental services were in order, not fluoridation.

"There are innumerable reports confirming the failure of fluoridation to do what its proponents claim for it. The most recent developments along that line involve the famous Newburgh-Kingston (N. Y.) experiment, begun in 1944 under the supervision of the Dental Bureau of the New York State Health Department.

"Newburgh water was fluoridated at that time, Kingston, a city of approximately the same population, without fluorine in its water, was to remain unfluoridated as a control.

"That bubble has recently exploded in the faces of the fluoridation advocates. The writer has before him a copy of a letter dated Sept. 13, 1954, and signed by John A. Forst, M.D., chief of the Bureau of Health Service of the state education department of the University of the State of New York.

"In his letter Dr. Forst replies to a request for dental care data on Newburgh and Kingston, stating as follows:

"Number of pupils inspected (fluoridated, Newburgh), 4,969; (no fluorine, Kingston), 5,308.

"Number of pupils with dental defects (fluoridated, Newburgh), 3,139; (no fluorine, Kingston), 2,209.

"To summarize Dr. Forst's report: Newburgh (fluoridated) with 339 fewer children inspected, had 930 more children with dental defects than had Kingston (with no fluorine). Whereas Kingston had 42 per cent showing defects, Newburgh had 43 per cent, or 50 per cent more, percentage-wise.

"Two weeks ago during a panel discussion of fluoridation at Pomona, Calif., when the above data were mentioned, Dr. L. Richards, dental director of the California State Department of Health, re-

36 Mums Gobbled Up as Quick as a Bunny

DETROIT (AP)—A flower fancier sneaked into the Detroit Flower Show and nibbled up 36 rare chrysanthemum plants.

Leland J. Gilmour, vice president of the Michigan Horticultural Society, said he was puzzled. He said the plants—white and yellow Fuji-mums originally from Japan—would be a big meal, even for a starved rabbit.

But even on a full stomach the bunny outsped two would-be captors and escaped.

plied that he had a letter from Dr. David Ast, chief of the dental bureau of the New York State Health Department, in which Dr. Ast claimed the above data were not a fair comparison, because the final examination at Newburgh (fluoridated) was made by qualified dentists whereas the Kingston examination was conducted by nurses, not capable of thorough examinations.

"It is in order to quote from a paper by Dr. Ast, on Oct. 30, 1944 presented in a symposium at the monthly conference of the New York Institute of Clinical Oral Pathology. On page 43 he says:

"Dental examinations. All 5 to 12-year-old children in the schools of Newburgh and Kingston will be examined annually for dental caries experience. These examinations will be made by a member of the staff of the dental bureau of the State Department of Health. "Approximately 3,200 children in each city will be examined with the use of a mouth mirror and sharp explorer. The same examiner will be used, if possible, throughout the study, to minimize errors in interpretation."

"Dr. Ast is the health officer officially responsible for the conduct of that widely publicized experiment. If he has permitted the careless examinations he now claims were made in Kingston, he does not qualify as a scientist to be quoted on fluoridation.

"Since he has consistently claimed results in Newburgh to be favorable to fluoridation, right up to the bitter end, it would now appear that he was willing to sacrifice his reputation in favor of supporting the major socialist program of the U. S. Public Health Service for socialization of medicine, from which service he undoubtedly takes his orders as does the health officer of San Diego city and county who, when embarrassed by questions he could not answer, stated that he got his orders from Washington."

In Washington or Austin, Mess Is Deplorable

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Rep. Omar Burleson (D-Tex.), was asked yesterday what he thought about scandals uncovered in the Texas veterans land program.

After having constituents ask him for years about "that mess in Washington," Burleson answered, he can now visit Texas and ask about "that mess in Austin."

He added that he deplored both situations.

Local Income Tax Will Be Introduced

LANSING (UP)—The Legislature will be asked this week to permit cities and villages to levy a one-per-cent pay roll or net income tax, subject to approval of local voters.

The bill, which Sen. Clarence F. Graebner (R-Saginaw) said he will introduce, has the support of the Michigan Municipal League.

The plan would tax the net income of city residents and all salaries, wages, commissions or other compensation of non-residents who work in the city but live in the suburbs.

Municipal governments would have to submit the plan to their voters for approval.

Wings Heavily Favored for 4th Win Over Leafs

TORONTO (U)—This is not to say the Toronto Maple Leafs are softies, but the Detroit Red Wings figure they don't have to practice to beat them in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

"We haven't had a workout in weeks and we don't intend to," says Red Wings coach Jimmy Skinner.

Nobody can knock his kind of reasoning, particularly with the Detroiters riding a 15-game undefeated streak, and holding a 3-0 edge in the best-of-seven semifinal series against the Leafs. They are overwhelming favorites to clean it up in the 4th game here tonight.

Skinner, who hastens to say, however, that he regards the Leafs as the toughest of playoff opponents because of their defensive play, won't let his big guns work up a sweat unless it's for the real thing. Such players as rightwinger Gordie Howe, leftwinger Ted Lindsay, center Earl Reibel and goaltender Terry Sawchuk haven't practiced since the beginning of March.

"Just a few of our boys—the ones who don't get too much work during a game—practice these days," Skinner said last night on the eve of the 4th engagement. "And they just skate around a bit, taking shots at our spare goal-keeper."

He added: "Hockey players are human beings, you know. It's hard work lugging that equipment around a rink in a practice. We let them rest unless they're stale. If they're not ready after a 70-game schedule they'll never be ready."

Seven Detroit players practiced yesterday. They left the Detroit retreat in Hamilton for the 30-mile drive to Toronto for the workout. They were defenseman Jim (Red Eye) Hay, Bill Dineen, Benny Witt, Vic Stasulak, Marcel Bonin, Johnny Wilson and stand-by goaltender Andrew Payette of the Valleyfield Braves of the Quebec Hockey League.

The Leafs had plenty of players out for a practice. The emphasis, as usual, was on shooting. Toronto's main weak spot. The Leafs lost the 1st game 7-4, 2nd 2-1 and the 3rd 2-1.

Although the Red Wings have a three-game lead in the series, Skinner still is worrying about coach King Clancy's Toronto squad.

"You never can tell what will happen against a club like the Leafs," he said. "They check closely. It cuts down on a wide-open game."

"Let's not kid ourselves. If we get past the Leafs, we should have it a little easier in the final."

Winner of the Toronto-Detroit set will go against either the Boston Bruins or the Montreal Canadiens for the Stanley Cup. The Canadiens lead their best-of-seven series 2-1. Skinner doesn't care who takes that set.

"Both the Bruins and the Canadiens play it more wide open. That suits us fine."

Clancy says the Maple Leafs need only "a few breaks" to get them going. "We should have won the last two games. Somebody said we played our best game on Saturday. I don't agree. We played well enough to win but I think we played our best game of the series in Detroit last Thursday."

If the Leafs come up with a victory tonight, the series goes to Detroit for a 5th game Thursday.

Perfect Game • Marks Action in ABC Tourney

Wisconsin Kegler Hits 300; Lefty Posts 738 for Singles Lead

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (U)—The 1955 American Bowling Congress Tournament may be remembered as the year of broken records.

That's the trend as the ABC meet entered its fourth day today with several new records. Monday's spotlight focused on a perfect 300 game by Myron Erickson, 47, retail pharmacist, of Racine, Wis. It was the 14th perfect score in the 52 year ABC history.

Another highlight of Monday's action was the blistering 738 series by southpaw Eddie Gerzine, Milwaukee tavern owner and bowling alley proprietor. His 738 was 15 pins better than last year's singles high of 723 posted by Tony Sparando of Rego Park, N.Y. Gerzine, competing in his second ABC, finished with 542 in singles last year.

Besides taking the singles lead, Gerzine also went in front in the all events, with a 584 in the team action and 616 in the doubles. Joe Heibel, Madison, Wis., moved into second in the all events with 1869. Charles Bedell, Chicago, took over third with 1864.

The leaders in the other divisions held their positions although there was considerable shuffling except in the team action. The 3,015 posted opening night by the Howards Clothes team of St. Paul, Minn., is still high. There were no changes in the first 10 teams.

Another lefty, Charles Tacoma of Indianapolis shot the highest series in the team event with a 687.

WIDE OPEN — A left thrown by former lightweight champion Paddy DeMarco crashes into the midsection of wide open Libby Manzo in the 5th round of a rough fight at St. Nicholas' Arena in New York.

Monday night. DeMarco won in 10 rounds on the votes of 2 judges. Referee Harry Ebbets called the match a draw.

Bell Says Canadians Hold Key to 'Peace'

NEW YORK (U)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League has dropped the political football back into the laps of the Canadian League leaders over the question of talent raids within American borders.

"It's up to the Canadian clubs now," Bell said. "They'll have to control their own situation and their own clubs."

With this statement the American grid czar was scrapping peace plans with the Northern competitors and saying: "Two can play this game as well as one."

Bidding for choice football talent is not new to the NFL. It survived a comparable battle with the defunct All-America Conference from 1946-49.

In a 9-hour executive session Monday, the 12 NFL members agreed to go to work on Bell's new "squeeze play" plan for separate truces with compatible Canadian clubs.

Bell outlined the situation with the explanation:

"They (the Canadians) have no constitution, no central office and nobody who has the authority to make an agreement. They'll have to control their situation and their own clubs. It's up to the Canadian members now."

Bell feels that separate, workable agreements will pressure the heedless raiders into line as they become outnumbered in their own territory. Then the commissioner can negotiate a lasting truce.

"I still have the authority to make an agreement if they're willing to be fair, to respect our contracts and options and to respect the college eligibility rules by not signing players before the completion of their fourth year of eligibility."

Bell gave a clean bill of health to one Canadian club, Edmonton. "Edmonton never has taken one of our players and it won the championship last year," said Bell.

Bell pointed out that Washington and Calgary of Canada's Western Interprovincial Football Union have a private peace signed.

The meeting Monday was called when the Detroit Lions complained. The Lions signed Gordon Malloy, University of Miami half-back with a pro future, but Bell refused to recognize the contract. Malloy previously signed with the Montreal Alouettes.

Recent raids by Toronto and Ottawa, Big Four Canadian outfits, brought Bell's temper to a head and he gave Detroit the go-ahead where Malloy was concerned. Bell promised further liberal contract rulings unless Canada comes around.

Bell had sought peace with the Canadian League at the close of last season. He met with the Canadian powers but discovered there was no central body to promise or enforce a peace.

In other developments Sunday the NFL members approved the 1955 schedule submitted by the commissioner. The vote was 11-1 with only the Chicago Cardinals unhappy. The Cards have an Oct. 2 game with Pittsburgh at Comiskey Park and are worried that the baseball White Sox will be in the World Series and the game will hit a snag.

Weather Delays Start of Irish Grid Drills

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (U)—Notre Dame Tuesday postponed the opening of spring football drills for another day because of wet grounds.

Some 100 grid hopefuls will report to Coach Terry Brennan Wednesday for the opening of spring football.

Notre Dame lost its entire starting line with the exception of Ray Lemek in addition to All-America quarterback Ralph Guglielmi.

Also gone via graduation is half-back Joe Heap along with 16 other lettermen.

However, Brennan will have 17 returning lettermen including two regulars besides Lemek. They are halfback Jim Morse and fullback Don Schaefer.

Rice's Dickie Moegle Signs 49er Contract

SAN FRANCISCO (U)—Dick Moegle, Rice Institute All-America halfback, today signed to play professional football with the San Francisco 49ers.

Moegle was the 49ers' first draft choice. The 181-pound halfback, who was fourth best in collegiate rushing yardage last fall was called "one of the finest rookies ever to come into pro football" by Norman (Red) Strader, the 49ers' new head coach.

Paddy in Good Form

Butting DeMarco Wins Decision Over Manzo

NEW YORK (U)—Paddy DeMarco might have lost his lightweight championship, but it's nice to note the gentle Brooklynite hasn't lost his favorite offensive weapon—the butt.

"Who, me?" asked Paddy when Referee Harry Ebbets warned him for butting in the fifth round of his 10-round verdict over Libby Manzo in St. Nicholas Arena last night.

"It was purely unintentional," Paddy, who lost his last two outings by knockouts—the title to Jimmy Carter last November and another joust with Seraphin Ferrer in Paris in January—had a tough time with Manzo, a New Yorker who lacks experience but has a hard head.

When DeMarco decided to rough it up, Manzo was perfectly willing to go along and the crowd howled with glee. After Ebbets warned DeMarco—and wagged his finger at Manzo too—he permitted the boys to go at each other with vigor. They didn't throw much leather, but their heads must have taken an awful battering.

"I got a little irked," confessed DeMarco. "But I needed a fight like that to get rolling again. He's a rough boy. I know I fight clean (eyes wide) and any butting was an accident."

"Anyhow, I got a little tired toward the end, so I know I need more work. From now on, I hope I can fight every three weeks."

Neither is much of a puncher, but Paddy did get in the best blows of the fight, two right hooks to the head in the second. Then he opened a cut over Manzo's eye in the fifth.

At Eastern Parkway Arena in Brooklyn, Danny Giovannelli of Brooklyn, who doesn't even have a manager, upset the dope by stopping Jimmy Martinez, of Phoenix, Ariz., in 3:42 of the fifth.

Ex-PHS Athlete Puts Shot for Broncos' Squad

Jack Hopkins, a graduate of Pontiac high school and now a freshman at Western Michigan College, is a member of the Bronco frosh track team. He is a shot putter and is a rated good candidate to place well in college meets.

The schedule will include the Grand Rapids Relays, a dual with Grand Rapids J.C., and triangular meets with Bowling Green and Cincinnati and Muskegon J.C. and Ferris Institute.

Jack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hopkins of 10429 Elizabeth Lake Road. He is 19 yrs. old, 6 feet 2 inches tall, and weighs 220 pounds. In high school he played tackle on the football team for two years and was a shot putter on the track team for three years.

Railroad Strike Upsets Majors' Travel Plans

Dodger, Milwaukee 9's Switch to Air; Pirates Also Flying

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With a railroad strike tying up transportation in some Southern states, major league ball clubs have turned to air travel for their barnstorming trips north.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves have chartered planes to keep their Friday date at Montgomery, Ala., virtually cut off by a strike on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

Both clubs have tossed away their railroad time tables because of the strike and the Braves plan to use planes until they reach Toledo, Ohio, April 7.

The Dodgers, incidentally, blamed the railroad strike for a large number of player cuts last week. Vice President Buzby Bavasi said the club simply couldn't charter a large enough plane to handle a big roster.

The Pittsburgh Pirates and Baltimore Orioles also stop off at Montgomery for a game, but both said the railroad strike will not interfere with their plans. The Pirates travel by plane all the time. And Manager Paul Richards said the Orioles will make the Saturday game on time, but didn't indicate what type of transportation would be used.

The World Series teams, the Cleveland Indians and the New York Giants, also don't expect any trouble getting to Montgomery for their game Monday. Eddie Branch, Giants' secretary, said the club is awaiting developments and hasn't decided as yet, but will fly if necessary.

At least one major problem has been caused by the strike: Negro players will have to stay at Negro hotels or private homes during the trip through the segregated South. Usually, the players sleep aboard trains rather than going to hotels on the northward trip.

Collegians Help Army Quintet Win

ORLANDO, Fla. (U)—Two former college stars—Cliff Hagan of Kentucky and Robert Rousey of Kansas State—led defending champion Andrews Air Force Base of Maryland to a 110-77 victory over Hill AFB of Utah in the first round of the World Wide Air Force Basketball Tournament Monday night.

Hagan, an All-America, scored 26 points and Rousey 27 in Andrews' 51st straight victory of the season.

Perfect Practice Game

MACOMB, Ill. (U)—Robert Erickson, a shoe store clerk, entered the bowling "Hall of Fame" by rolling a perfect 300 game. He was practicing on competition with his wife. His best previous mark was 289 which he has chalked up four times.

Top Score in 1949

SAN FRANCISCO (U)—The highest score in the 20 year history of the East-West Shrine football game, up to 1954, is the classic 49-9 beating which was given by the West team to the East in the contest played in 1948.

Lacked Times at Bat

BOSTON—Ted Williams failed to win the American League's batting championship in 1954 because he did not have the required number of times at bat, which is 400. He did lead in slugging.

Richards Looking to Ex-Yankees to Help Orioles Improve on 7th Place Finish in AL Last Season

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (U)—Paul Richards counts on five of the nine ex-New York Yankees he picked up in the much-criticized job at Baltimore as the nine-for-nine swap with the Yanks. Another deal with Chicago brought pitchers Don Johnson and Don Ferrarese, catcher Matt Batts and infielder Freddie Marsh to the Orioles. So far, the reported $250,000 for new talent, has been untouched.

"I like what I have seen so far," said Richards. "Gene Woodling, Gus Triandos and Hal Smith (all ex-Yankees) will help us. I expect great improvement in Gil Coan, especially on defense. Frankly I have been a bit disappointed in Harry Byrd, and Bill Miller (two ex-Yankees) and Lou Kretlow."

Triandos (.296 at Kansas City) is strictly a first baseman under Richards. The Yanks' key switch-hitter from first to catcher in the last two years, The husky fellow, only 24, will alternate with the veteran Eddie Waitkus at first base. Triandos will work against left-handers.

At second, Richards will use Bobby Young (.245) and Billy Cox (.235), the former Brooklyn Dodger third baseman. In fact, Cox will be on the swing shift from second to third, depending on the opposing pitching and how Young and third baseman Vern Stephens (.285) are going. The only infield job already clinched is shortstop where Willie Miranda (.250), the flashy Cuban "good field-no hit" artist will be stationed.

Woodling (.250 with the Yanks) has been shifted to right field with Hoot Evers (.162 at Detroit and Boston) and Coan (.279) alternating in left. Cal Abrams (.293), the Orioles' leading hitter last year, will be in center with Chuck Lauer (.238) as his relief. Bob Kennedy (.251) will be available for either third or the outfield.

PREPPING FOR TITLE DEFENSE—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano punches the bag at Grossinger, N. Y., as he concludes preliminary training for his May 16 title defense against England's Don Cockell. He leaves for new quarters at Calistoga, Calif., 73 miles from San Francisco, site of the championship bout.

Pontiac "Y" Qualifies 18 for 2-Way State Tank Test

Pontiac YMCA swimming teams qualified 9 swimmers each in the junior and prep divisions for the state YMCA championships to be held in the Jensen Fieldhouse pool at Michigan State, Saturday, April 9.

Qualifying tests were held Saturday at Bay City.

In the junior division, Charles Redenius took 1st in both 40 and 100-yard free style. Vernon Joseph was the winner in the 40-yard back stroke. Virgil Roberts qualified by taking 4th in the 40-yard breast stroke.

Pontiac qualified its 120-yard medley relay team of Joseph, Gideon Robarge and Bob Hewitt and its 16-yard free style relay combine of Hewitt, Ronald Sias, Charles Stallons and Dennis Roberts. Each team finished 2nd.

In the prep division, Pontiac won the medley relay with Ed Kummert, Mike Harrington and Robert Roberts. Harrington also was 1st in the breast stroke, but was disqualified for failing to touch properly.

Kummert and Bob Newman qualified in the back stroke by finishing 1st and 4th, respectively. Tom Eley took 3rd in the 20-yard free style and Eley and John Friedly were 2nd and 4th in the 40-yard free style.

The Pontiac prep free style relay team of David Sias, Roberts, Duane Richards and Friedly took 2nd to qualify and Richard Richards qualified 3rd in diving.

Team-wise, the juniors placed 2nd with 27 points behind Saginaw (30). The preps' 26 points took 3rd behind Saginaw (34) and Bay City (28).

Cranbrook 9 Wins on One-Hit Hurling

A pair of underclassmen, sophomore Dave Campbell and junior Steve Hayes, teamed up on a one-hit pitching performance Monday as Cranbrook's touring baseball team drubbed Chapel Hill, N.C., High School, 9-0.

Campbell, who started, yielded the lone hit in the 7th inning. Hayes, a 6-2, 190-pounder, relieved Campbell and fanned the side. The Cranes' 10-hit attack was led by Jim Grube with four-for-four.

Alston Tougher, Too

Stronger Return of Newcombe, 'Campy' Expected to Make Dodgers Rough Club

TAMPA (U)—The Brooklyn Dodgers look big and tough and appear to be feeling the same way as they begin wheeling north, out of Florida on their exhibition tour. They have been a formidable outfit ever since the spring games began, though their record of wins and losses does not necessarily reflect it.

In talking with Manager Walt Alston and key members of the club, one senses that the Dodgers still are not happy over their performance last year and are going into the coming race determined to make amends. Alston seems much more aggressive and sure of himself than he did a year ago, even if he refuses to say that he intends to "get tough."

He is inclined to attribute the somewhat bellicose spirit of his athletes to the fact that they believe both pitcher Don Newcombe and catcher Roy Campanella are prepared to come back with big seasons. Having a couple of fellows like that on your side again, he says, is enough to jack up any ball club.

Newcombe played a prominent part in last year's debacle. If that is the word for finishing five games out of first place. The big right-hander, just back from the Army, won only nine games while losing eight and had an unsightly earned-run average of 4.56. He had control trouble and a crick in his throwing shoulder.

This spring Newcombe has been going up to a dozen innings in a row without giving a base on balls, and Alston says when he cuts loose he's as fast as he ever was.

"As for Campanella," Alston commented, "that bad hand of his seems to be completely healed. He's swinging as hard as he ever did. In fact, he's swinging harder than I'd like him to right now. He's hitting those bullets of his again."

'Bonus Babies' Don't Trouble Tigers

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Most big league clubs can't wait until the day arrives when they can shunt their "bonus babies" off to the minors. But Detroit doesn't have that problem.

Two of the Tigers' three bonus players have won regular jobs on the ball club and the 3rd may move up before the season is over.

Al Kaline is well established as the Tigers' right fielder as he starts his 3rd big league season at the age of 20. Bob Miller, 19-year-old lefthander from Chicago, has been named a starting pitcher by manager Bucky Harris. Reno Bertoia, the 3rd bonus player, still must be satisfied with odd infield jobs but may get a chance to play because of the club's need of utility help.

Kaline loses his bonus status June 23 and Miller June 24. But you can be sure neither will be sent out. Bertoia's compulsory two years in the majors ends Aug. 31.

Harris was sold on Kaline last year while he still was managing Washington. Now that he is the Detroit boss he's sky high on the fleet youngster with the strong throwing arm.

"He looks stronger this spring and is learning all the time," said Harris of Kaline. "With Kaline in right, Bill Tuttle in center and J. W. Porter in left, we should be set for a long time. And when we get ahead I can put Bubba Phillips out there and dare anybody to hit a ball between the outfielders. All of them can really go. No club in either league has four such good outfield arms."

Harris never saw much of Miller before this spring but it didn't take him long to name the 6-1 lefty as a starting pitcher.

"He's a game kid who can get the ball over," said Harris. "He always wants to learn more." Taking a regular turn is a big move up the ladder for Miller, who drew a reported $60,000 bonus when he signed in 1953. In his 1st year with the Tigers, he pitched only 36 innings for a 1-2 record. Last season he worked in 32 games and finished with a 1-1 record beating Cleveland. He started only once and didn't finish that. However, his earned run average was outstanding at 2.44.

It may be that Bertoia will be sent out for seasoning when his bonus status is finished. He won't be 20 until next Jan. 8 and needs more work. The Italian-born infielder received $25,000 for signing.

At the moment, the $33,000 the Tigers gave Kaline rates as their best investment since they picked shortstop Harvey Kuenn off the Wisconsin campus for $55,000.

COACH TOSSED IN POOL—Mrs. Norma Olsen of Oakland, Cal., coach of the Athens Water Follies group of Oakland, comes up smiling after the girls on the team tossed her fully clad into the pool in celebration of their victory March 25 in the team synchronized swimming competition of the Pan-American Games in Mexico City. Some members of the team are on the edge of the pool. Mrs. Olsen is mother of Zoe Ann Olsen, former Olympic diving champion.

Tebbetts Says 2 Catchers Vital Need for Contender

TAMPA (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves look so very good, so super-powered in every department this spring, that the question arose whether Charlie Grimm's club has any weakness at all which might keep it from beating out both the Giants and Brooklyn in the approaching National League race.

Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs, who also has a considerable stake in the proceedings, said yes, that Grimm might find himself in serious difficulties before the summer ends because of a weak catching staff. This created some surprise, as the Braves happen to possess one of the best catchers in the game in Del Crandall.

"You asked me their weakness, and I told you," said Birdie. "Sure, Crandall is a great catcher, but he's the only one they've got who is even a big leaguer. The moment he goes out for any reason—if he does—they won't be anywhere near the same team. They'll drop right out of it. I say that's a serious weakness."

"If you don't think so, look at what happened to Brooklyn when Roy Campanella's bad hand made him only half a catcher last season. Something I'll never understand is why some ball clubs will spend big money for infield and outfield protection and won't spend $50,000 for a good second catcher. It doesn't make sense to me."

Did he mean, then, that he would have to go along with the Giants again because they are better fortified behind the plate than their chief rivals?

"I would say so," he responded, "as long as there is a possibility of Crandall and Campanella not going at their best all the way. It's mighty easy, you know, for a catcher to take a foul tip on his finger."

"In Wes Westrum the Giants have a really brilliant receiver, one of the best I ever saw. Of course, he won't hit with the other two, but he makes up for a lot with his handling of pitchers." The important thing is, though, that when he goes out they've got a fellow named Ray Katt who can take his place with scarcely any loss. He'll even outwit Westrum.

Racing Dates Linked Up for Laurel Track

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission today granted Laurel Race Course permission to open its spring meet a day earlier than planned, but it snipped a day off the fall meet.

The spring gathering will open Monday, April 18, thus giving the track an 18-day season ending Saturday, May 7.

Tigers' G-Men Bound for More Mound Work

Harris Wants Hurling Aces Ready; Bengals Drop 3-2 Decision

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Manager Bucky Harris of the Detroit Tigers says he's going to begin pushing starting pitchers Ned Garver and Steve Gromek.

"We've got to have those two fellows ready for the opening of the season," Harris said. "It means less work for the kids, which I regret, but it can't be helped. Time is running out."

The Tigers start their regular schedule in Kansas City two weeks from today. They have only eight preliminary games left—two in Florida and six on the way north.

Harris used four of his younger pitchers against the Kansas City Athletics yesterday. And although Detroit lost, 3-2, the fault was at the plate rather than at the mound.

Lefthander Art Ceccarelli, held the Tigers hitless and scoreless for the last six innings while the Athletics collected two runs off Bill Fouts. They nicked Paul Foytack for another run in the 7th.

The A's rapped the Detroit hurlers for nine hits, including doubles by Gus Zernial, Elmer Valo and Jack Littell. Of Detroit's three hits, only Wayne Belardi's double was for extra bases.

Spook Jacobs, A's 3rd baseman, scored what proved to be the winning run in the 7th when he was hit by a pitched ball and moved around on a single, a sacrifice and an infield out.

Bill Renna and Bill Wilson scored the A's two runs in the 4th.

Detroit's runs came in the 8th. Fred Hatfield broke the Tiger hitless streak with a single. The hit moved Harvey Kuenn, who got on base on a fielder's choice, to 2nd. When Belardi dropped a ground-rule double into a right-field bleacher section, Kuenn came home.

Jim Deising, pinch hitting for Foytack, brought Hatfield home on an infield out. Al Kaline got the other hit in the 9th.

Frank Lary, who started for Detroit, held the A's scoreless for his three innings of work. Duke Maas pitched the last inning for Detroit.

The loss pushed Detroit down to a 6-10 record in exhibition play. Tigers were to play the New York Yankees today at Lakeland.

'Sugar' Favored Over Lombardo

Robinson Is 10 Years Older, Has 10-Pound Pull in Weights

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, 10 years older than his foe and about 10 pounds heavier, battles Johnny Lombardo tonight in his third stake on the comeback trail.

The former world welterweight and middleweight champion was scheduled for No. 3 in Boston against George Small March 5. But Robinson, 34, claims virus germs wrestled him and pinned him to the bed. He backed out a few hours before the bout.

Physicians of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission could not find Robinson's ailment. And the state banned him from the ring for life.

But Robinson says he's fit for fighting now.

Cincinnati oddsmakers are making Robinson a 2-1 favorite over Lombardo. But there are no takers.

Robinson is expected to weigh in at about 161 pounds for the 10-rounder. Lombardo, from Mt. Carmel, Pa., should weigh about 151.

Seminary Quint Wins 'Y' Intramural Championship

Midwestern Baptist Seminary won the Intramural League basketball championship of the Pontiac YMCA Monday night with a 41-35 victory over the YMCA.

The winners broke a 17-17 halftime tie with a 12-4 advantage in the 3rd period and maintained the edge through the final. Gerald Spangler led Seminary with 16 points, Fred Wilson had 9 for the "Y."

Trophies were awarded to the Seminary team as well as to Central Methodist Church and St. George Greek Orthodox Church, winners of the Community High School and Junior High league, respectively.

Individual medal awards went to the Pontiac Hi-Y Titlists, runners-up in the High School division. Medals also went to the league high scorers. They are Jerry Richards, of Titlists, 108 points; Sam Sheehy of Avondale Hi-Y, 103 points; and Phil Felice of Waterford Hi-Y, 97 points.

Here Renda, coach of the Central Methodist team, was awarded a medal and also received a gift from the members of the team.

Mike Wallace, another MSC junior, was credited with the victory in the 2nd seven inning meeting.

Phils, Braves, Bucs, Bosox Spring's Best

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It won't mean a thing next month when the pennant races get under way, but right now it's the Philadelphia Phillies, Milwaukee Braves, Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Red Sox who are the golden boys of baseball's spring exhibition schedule.

Only one of the four—Milwaukee—figures as a pennant contender. The Phils seem to lack power. Pittsburgh doesn't have the experience. And the Red Sox don't have Ted Williams.

Yet, Philadelphia is the winningest exhibition club to date, winning 10 of its 15 spring games. That's the best record (.667) in either league. Milwaukee follows with a .643 percentage on a 9-5 record. Pittsburgh and Boston both are 10-6 for a .625 mark.

Manager Pinky Higgins' Red Sox have the best record on a strictly league basis, however. They've won seven of eight against clubs in their own American League.

The Chicago White Sox, 6-9 overall, are second in the American with a 3-2 mark.

The Phils top the National with a 6-2 record against other clubs in the senior circuit. The Braves and the world champion New York Giants are next with 5-2 records, although the Giants have played all their National League games against the Chicago Cubs.

The battle between the leagues goes to the National at this stage by a 38-28 count. Part of that advantage comes out of the Arizona camps, where the Cubs and Giants have ganged up for a 10-6 record against the Cleveland Indians, defending champs of the American League.

The clubs will be breaking camp this week, hooking up in pairs for the trip north. The best combination of the Florida showing matches Boston and Philadelphia. Another good one pairs the World Series teams—the Giants and Indians.

Other combinations: Washington-Cincinnati, Brooklyn-Milwaukee, White Sox-St. Louis, Baltimore-Pittsburgh. The Yankees, Athletics, Cubs and Tigers move homeward playing minor league teams en route.

There wasn't much but rain and cold weather on the exhibition schedule Monday. Just three games survived the elements.

Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 2-1, with Preston Ward hitting a two-run single in the third.

The New York Giants scored five runs in the eighth to overhaul the Cubs, but Chicago scored a deadlocking run in the ninth and broke it open with four in the 10th off Ruben Gomez for a 14-11 decision.

Kansas City defeated the Detroit Tigers 3-2 behind the six-inning, no-hit, no-run pitching of rookie Art Ceccarelli.

And both the Yankees and the Athletics spiked a report the Yanks were trying to get pitcher Arnie Portocarrero for "five superfluous players."

Quick-tongued Janice White, 18, who says she's unsponsored and out for nothing but the satisfaction of swimming the 18-mile wide strait, which thus far has rebuffed all challengers, is extremely confident she can turn the trick.

The Toronto lass, who stands 5-7 and weighs 154 pounds, is scheduled to enter Juan de Fuca at 3 a.m. (PST) tomorrow morning.

The strait only last Aug. 9 turned back Florence Chadwick, the San Diego woman generally regarded as one of the world's top channel swimmers.

LAKELAND, Fla. (INS) — Casey Stengel is a "free" man today, leading his New York Yankees on the beginning of their northward journey home and detached from charges of "assault and obscenity" which had been leveled at him by a photographer.

Stengel, who would have had to appear in St. Petersburg court tomorrow to answer the charges, "cleared up" the incident yesterday when he apologized to Branan (Sandy) Sanders, photographer for the St. Petersburg Independent. Sanders dropped the charges.

Sanders, a 40-year old former World War II combat photographer, accused the Yankee manager of kicking and swearing at him last Friday while ordering him off Al Lang Field during the Yankee exhibition game with the Dodgers.

State Publix Event Takes Place April 24; Is Handicap Affair

Michigan Publix Golf association will open its 1955 tournament activities with a handicap tourney over the Edgewood Country Club layout.

The event is set for April 24, according to Tex Ellison, MPGA president.

Ellison said today he expected the field would include most of the good golfers in the metropolitan area. All entries would be addressed to Roy Iceberg, 8140 Tanager, Pontiac. Iceberg is director of the tournament, to be played over an 18-hole route.

"Edgewood has established itself as being one of the finest conditioned courses in the country," says Ellison, "and we are glad to have the opportunity of conducting our opener for 1955 over this fine layout."

At a recent session of the MPGA it was decided to ask members to subscribe to three prime ideas: to play the course as you find it; to play the ball as is, and to play fair.

Ellison also pointed out today that the MPGA has restated its objectives as "to promote, to stimulate and to strengthen the interest in public links golf in Michigan." He mentioned that dues must be paid before teeing off.

Simulated A-bombs and hydrogen missiles will rain on 56 cities, including New York, Washington, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh and Cleveland. The over-all test period will last for 26 hours, starting at 11 a.m., EST, June 15.

Plans for the big trial of civil defense preparedness, evacuation and survival techniques were announced yesterday by the Civil Defense Administration and the Office of Defense Mobilization.

The agencies listed 43 continental cities as definite targets, mostly in the industrial Northeast, Midwest and Pacific Coast areas. Six others are in Alaska, the Panama Canal Zone, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

In addition, seven American cities will be attacked without more than a bare advance warning. CDA and ODM drew up a roster of 49 cities to serve as possible surprise targets. Some of these are in the South.

Plans call for the civil air defense warning network to broadcast raid alerts, with warning time to vary from 2 hours to 3 hours and 26 minutes.

Civil defense organizations in all of the nation's critical target areas—even those not under direct mock assault—are to be mobilized to provide aid and to shelter evacuees from supposedly bombed areas.

Bob Cummings' Haircut Bill $500 a Year

HOLLYWOOD (U)—It's only 17 more days until the income tax deadline, but Robert Cummings isn't concerned. His wife has the situation well in hand.

Judging from Bob's testimony, his wife Mary is a remarkable woman. She manages his career and finances, keeping her eyes on every detail from income tax to haircuts.

Don't laugh. The matter of haircuts is no joke, not to Bob. Since he started his new TV show on Sunday nights for NBC, he has been sporting a crew cut.

"That means I have to get a trim twice a week," he said. "I didn't know what a production it was getting into. I have it done by the Clark Gable of barbers—a fellow who does crew cuts for guys like Spencer Tracy, etc."

This requires about an hour and 15 minutes in the chair, so naturally he expects a $2 tip. Then there's $1.75 for the haircut, 25 cents to get my coat back. I might splurge and get a manicure. By the time I get out of the place, I can spend between 5 and 7 dollars."

Bob wasn't too alarmed by this sum until his money-minded wife pointed out that his annual barber bill would come to around $500.

"Do you know how much money you have to earn in order to have $500 left over?" he said. "Around $4,000."

The sum of $4,000 for haircuts may seem monstrous, but it's true. Cummings is in an income tax bracket that allows him to keep only one out of every eight dollars he earns. Although the crew cut is necessary for his TV role, it is not considered a deductible expense.

Bob admitted that he doesn't fret too much over such matters. That's Mary's department. She is a constant source of wonderment to him.

Despite the lack of any previous experience, she took over, studied up on taxes and investments and soon she was juggling figures with the greatest of ease.

Stassen Will Discuss Disarming With Scelba

WASHINGTON (U)—Harold E. Stassen, recently named special White House assistant on disarmament, has a date today to discuss Italian views on the subject with visiting Premier Mario Scelba.

Scelba and his foreign minister Gaetano Martino were reported anxious to urge American leaders to try a new approach toward convincing Russia to agree to world disarmament.

Afraid of Bad Luck

NEWARK, N.J. (U)—Elijah Walton, 48, pleaded no defense to a manslaughter charge in the fatal stabbing of Basil Jones, 27, during an argument. But when Judge Alexander Waugh set April 13 for sentencing, Walton protested: "Oh no, judge, not the 13th! I'm superstitious." The judge was obliging. "Very well, then," he said, "you shall be sentenced April 22."

2 Divisions Activated

SEOUL (U)—South Korea today activated two new reserve army divisions, which brought the number of its reserve divisions to four.

General in Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (U)—Maj. Gen. Robert S. Schow, deputy chief of U.S. Army intelligence, arrived today for a three-day visit.

Replica of La Monroe Will Be 3 Stories High

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Today's Marilyn Monroe item: There'll be a 3-story-high replica of Marilyn Monroe on the Roxy Theater when "Seven-Year Itch" opens, and designer Robert Karoff's arranged for a wind machine to be blowing her skirts up day and night.

A Jelke case reporter phoned a certain woman and said, "Pat Ward mentioned your husband on the stand. Have you any comment?" The woman said, "Why, that name-dropper!"

MALA POWERS

Everybody's sorry about Sonny Tufts being out of "Ankles Aweigh"—but don't feel bad, Son, everybody in the cast loves you and says you behaved beautifully. Maybe 'twas a mistake casting you as a young guy. (Mark Dawson takes over Monday when the show, now in New Haven, opens in Boston—ironically Sonny's home town.)

Actor Anthony Ross, who's near-sighted, was eye-tested by a doc who held up pictures of Katharine Hepburn standing beside Jane Russell.

"I can see perfectly, doc," said Ross. "That's the figure 18."

While I was being held incommunicado at the Elysee TV Theater the other night for a panel show, a call came to my house from a friend in Omaha and was answered by my mother-in-law.

Earl's not here," she whispered over long distance. "Don't tell anybody in Omaha, but in a few minutes he's going to be on 'Masquerade Party'."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Marlon Brando's set to make his own pictures with his own company. Arthur Godfrey's foregoing interviews because of a big mag piece in the fall. Jeff Chandler's bringing his wife to town April 5; they reconciled last week. Lillian Hayes, billed as "Another Ethel Mermaid," is a hit at the Old Romanian.

Columbia Records' "mystery" ragtime pianist, Smile-Lee, is really Liberace. Jed Harris will film "Patterns," the T-V hit, in New York.

Gary Stevens delayed his departure a week to greet Rhonda Fleming. Bob Mitchum, fired from "Blood Alley," will sue for a share of the profits after it's released. Bing Crosby rejected a Las Vegas offer because he won't be "a glorified gambling shill for anybody."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Fred Allen explained why Jack Benny doesn't go hunting: "He can't find a store that sells used bullets."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "A drive-in theater," defines Al Cooper. "Is where a guy turns off the ignition so he can try out his clutch."

Killings Arouse Fear of Maniac

3 Members of Kentucky Family Slain; Similar to Indiana Crime

HENDERSON, Ky. (U)—The weird slaying of a well-to-do stock farmer, his son and a daughter-in-law raised fears today that a vicious maniacal killer is at large in a two-state area.

Officers trying to explain the strange triple killing yesterday had one strikingly similar crime for a link.

As in the case of the new victims, the body of a farm woman was found at nearby Mount Vernon, Ind., just one week ago with her hands tied behind her head and a bullet through the head.

When Goebel Duncan, 51, and his son, Raymond, 21, were found yesterday in a muddy bottomland field, their hands were strapped behind their backs with belts. A bullet had been fired into their heads.

Sheriff Lee Williams went to the Duncan home to report the tragedy and found the rest of the gruesome crime.

Mrs. Mamie Duncan, 49, wife of Goebel, lay face down on a bed, her clothes stripped from the body from the waist down. Her hands were bound with an electric cord and a bullet was through her head. She pulled through surgery last night but remained in a critical condition.

In another bedroom, the sheriff found lying face-down on a bed the wife of the other son of Goebel. Her hands had been tied with a sash cord. She, too, was nude from the waist down and was shot through the head. Her two-year-old daughter, Shirley Faye, was on the bed sobbing but unharmed.

Draftee Fights Early Discharge

Alleged Red Follower Asking Federal Court to Upset Order

SAN FRANCISCO (U)—Charles H. Marshall, 23, of Los Angeles, testified in federal court he was forcibly thrown out of the Army without discharge papers.

Questioned by his attorney father Daniel G. Marshall, the son testified his hurried discharge at Ft. Ord Saturday was the culmination of confidential charges of Communist sympathies filed against him.

Charles said he wants an honorable discharge even if he has to finish out his term as a draftee, which would run to Aug. 10. The Marshalls contend the discharge was not valid because it was issued after a court order was signed by a federal judge to temporarily restrain the Army from separating Charles.

Presents Credentials

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (U)—Josef Ullrich, new permanent representative of Czechoslovakia to the U.N., presented his credentials to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld yesterday.

Bustline Overemphasized

By MARGARET LATROBE
Christian Dior has thrown us a curve which turned out to be a straight line. And if his new fashion trend will free us from the Female Bosom in Advertising, Song and Poster, I'll be thankful.

"And what is Madame's bust measurement?"

This question, expressed or implied in too many illustrations, too many ads, too many billboards, theater marquees; this parade of dummies in their underwear, the inescapable jokes and snickers I find embarrassing.

Is this the measure of our national intelligence quotient? Is this the type recording of our humor level—the size 38 uplift?

Maybe some are amused by the comedian whose eye level hits a taller lady companion just above amidsips. As he muffs his lines in admiration of her overly evident equipment, the evidence of meager comedy is what overwhelms a good many of us.

It isn't a question of Victorian prudishness but rather the conviction that the bustline, however, ample, isn't adequate as a substitute for wit. A conviction that "entertainers" are barking up the wrong brassiere strap, in failing to comprehend when they are offensive rather than funny.

A visiting European woman remarked that we Americans are unduly concerned with the bosom, a criticism we deserve if only because we don't rebel against continual chesty allusions. But we are afraid of being considered stuffy. We no longer dare confess embarrassment.

It seems to me we are so self-consciously intent on spreading sex knowledge that we are inclined to vulgarize where we intend merely to educate. And when the sexy department is carried to a repetitious and boring extremity we hesitate to say "Enough!"

In recoiling from the prudery and silliness of yesterday's "hush-hush," we are reluctant to admit that anything can shock us. Shock, of course, is a strong term and has been misused in this connection.

The ever present sight of a low-necked babe isn't shocking. It is merely embarrassing, not for what it reveals of the lady's upper anatomy but for what it reveals of her brain cells or lack of.

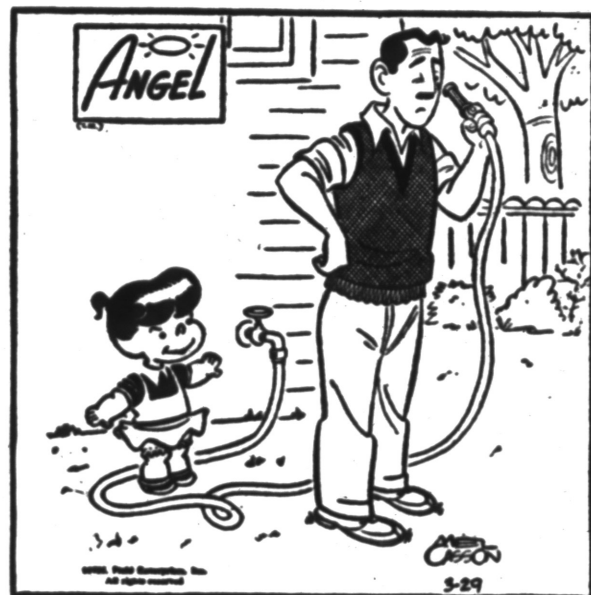

Well, maybe this is the best we can do, but I don't think so. It seems to me yet another case of the bright boys of the advertising and entertainment worlds underestimating the public's intelligence. Fellows, we are ready for a shift of scenery. You take the falsies and the uplifts and put them in mothballs for a season. Give us some new measurements for wit and originality.

East German Official Flees to West Berlin

BERLIN (INS) — The West Berlin Information Bureau reported today that Walter Freund, East German head of the state Office for Church Affairs, fled to West Berlin Friday and asked for political asylum.

The bureau, which collects information behind the Iron Curtain, said that the arrival of Freund, a top aide to Deputy Premier Otto Nuschke in the East German Communist state, had been kept secret.

Dealings Dull in Grain Market

CHICAGO (U.P.) — Grains showed only minor price changes in another session of very dull dealings on the Board of Trade today. The market opened mostly a little higher. Best gains were displayed by wheat. After the initial transactions were completed, the trade came to a standstill. Then selling expanded slightly and the initial gains were wiped out. Wheat near the end of the first hour was 1/4 to 1/2 lower, May $2.12; corn 1/4 to 1/2 lower, May $1.44; oats unchanged to 1/4 lower, May $1.00; soybeans 1/4 to 1 cent lower, May $2.54; and land 2 to 3 cents a hundred pounds lower, May $12.82.

Internal Revenue Office Slates New Hours Here

With the April 15 deadline for filing 1934 income tax returns drawing nearer, it was announced today that the Pontiac office of the Internal Revenue Service will remain open longer today.

A. M. Meninger, Detroit area director, said the local office would be open on Saturdays as well to help taxpayers file their returns.

The branch office, at 53 1/2 W. Huron St., will be open Saturday, April 2, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., and on the following Saturday, April 9, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Lyle D. Russell, administrative supervisor of the Pontiac office, said his staff will be on duty from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. for the final week before deadline, from April 11 through April 15.

Russell also said that taxpayers who had only a few questions to ask regarding their forms could call the office, Federal 2-0208, and save a trip.

Pontiac Guardsmen Draw High Praise

Pontiac's National Guard Company M passed its battalion inspection last night with flying colors.

Battalion Commander, Lt. Col. Robert C. McCall, who conducted the inspection at the armory here, was unable to find any fault with the unit's light and heavy machine guns, mortars and recoilless rifles.

Byrd to Make Fifth Visit to South Pole

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd will make his fifth visit to the Antarctic later this

Supercar Experiment Sends Engineer to Jail

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—An aircraft engineer must serve a year in county jail for stealing two expensive convertibles and trying to make one supercar out of them.

Police said Charles E. Haynes, 26, botched the job and ruined both cars. He pleaded guilty to two counts of grand theft.

Detectives said they found the remains of a 1954 Cadillac and a 1954 Oldsmobile in two widely separated garages they said Haynes rented in Long Beach.

Missing Bus Is Costly

WAYNE, W.Va. (AP)—Nine-year-old Arville Perry was among the second-graders scheduled to get inoculated during the Salk anti-polio vaccine test last spring. But he missed the bus to the clinic where the shots were given. Last week he became ill with polio. The hospital reported yesterday he is out of isolation and making satisfactory progress.

Admits Slaying Family of Four

Man, 23, Tells Police He Killed Relatives on Tennessee Farm

McMINNVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Billy Gibbs, 23-year-old father of newborn twins, gave officers gruesome details yesterday of killing a farm family of four, hiding their bodies and selling their livestock.

Dist. Atty. Fred Gilliam said Gibbs signed a statement in the presence of his father and a Tennessee Bureau of Identification agent giving this account of the slayings, which occurred the day after his twins were born.

He went fishing with Henry Bratcher, 45, a distant cousin Wednesday morning on Bratcher's farm. He then lay in wait for Lily May Bratcher, 11, to return from school and beat her to death with a hammer.

Gibbs was arrested Saturday night on larceny charges after he sold a pair of mules and some pigs belonging to Bratcher. The next day investigating officers found the bodies.

Gibbs was immediately charged with murder, but he denied any knowledge of the slayings until he signed the statement more than 24 hours later.

Returning to the house, he shot Mrs. Bratcher, 42, after forcing her to drop her 20-month-old granddaughter down a cistern in the barn. He then lay in wait for Lily May Bratcher, 11, to return from school and beat her to death with a hammer.
