

Pleasant Lake Claims Lives of 3 Area Children

Another Cock Robin?

Do you recall when you took that walk last spring how quiet it was? Hardly a bird chirping in the fresh balmy air. In fact, where were the birds?

Perhaps you saw a few — the occasional cheerful greeter. But, where were the flocks that should have been flitting about, filled with the promise of a reborn earth. Chances are you will see even fewer of our feathered friends this spring.

Evidence is that their numbers have thinned alarmingly. And the sad trend continues.

Each year fewer birds return from the southlands to welcome spring in the north country. In the Midwest and Oakland County.

At least this is the conclusion of Walter P. Nickell, an ornithologist at Bloomfield Hills' Cranbrook Institute of Science, who has devoted his life to the study of birds and their habits.

He claims that latest research indicates birds in Michigan have become the indirect victims of the Dutch elm disease—paying with their lives.

It isn't the disease — killer of stately elm trees across the country — which is killing birds by the thousands, but the deadly DDT spray, being used in an effort to bring the disease under control.

SPRAY IS LETHAL. The DDT spray is killing off birds, contends Nickell, threatening to wipe out some of our best loved varieties such as the robin and various species of thrushes and warblers whose golden voices have thrilled our generations since time immemorial.

Leading the challenge to do something before it is too late, Nickell has joined with two zoologists from Michigan State University, George J. Wallace and Richard P. Bernard, in compiling a scientific record of birds killed by DDT in Michigan.

They, with the aid of students and other interested individuals, have been observing the deadly trend in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties as well as on the MSU campus at East Lansing and in the Flint and Ann Arbor areas.

There are localities where DDT spray has been used extensively in the Dutch elm disease program presently sponsored by both state and federal government agencies, Nickell, Wallace and Bernard. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

The flight path carried the rocket well into a band of high intensity radiation known as the "Van Allen Belt." This is the area where the payload's mass of instruments were designed to study. The package carried radio transmitters to relay the information to ground stations.

The small telescopes were rigged to spring into action after a protective shroud was jettisoned from the rocket at high altitude. They were designed to measure particles of energy called "protons."

Information from this shot will help scientists in the development of "roadmaps" for safe manned flights into space, the location of areas where high-altitude nuclear tests could be conducted without danger.

The six experiments in today's payload spent about 40 minutes in space before making a blazing return through the atmosphere about 2,000 miles southeast of the Cape. This was not intended as an orbit shot.

Investigation Planned 22 Die in Mine Explosion

From Our News Wires
TERRE HAUTE, Ind.—Twenty-two miners died in a flash explosion deep in a coal shaft Thursday night. Their torn, burned bodies were hauled out in a hazardous 10-hour operation.
The body of the last of the doomed 22 was brought to the surface at 8:35 a.m. (Pontiac time).
The miners were killed late Thursday night when a massive blast shattered a quarter-mile-long section of the Viking Coal Co. mine 180 feet below the floor of the Wabash Valley.
The explosion unlocked tons of coal and earth, knocked out cement and wooden ventilators and twisted coal moles and lodging machines into crumpled masses of metal.
Rescue crews brought the charred, mangled bodies out of the diggings one by one through the long, chill night and carried them away in ambulances to a mortuary chapel where they were laid out in two rows on green and white sheets.
"We don't know what caused the explosion," the mine general manager said.
The mine was shut down as soon as the last body was recovered. The explosion will be investigated jointly by officials of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, the Indiana Bureau of Mines, the United Mine Workers Union and company and insurance officials.
GAS THREATENS
The 22nd body was carried out at 7:35 a.m. today. It had been about six hours since the first body was found.
Pockets of intense heat and deadly coal gas threatened the rescue workers as they pushed forward with the greatest care.
Coroner D. M. Ferguson said the men's lives were lost in a "violent type concussion explosion" that tore away limbs, obliterated faces and froze one victim's hand in front of his face as he apparently tried to ward off an accompanying flash of flames.
The rescuers found the first body after about four hours of cautious probing through flames.
There was danger of another explosion, and as they groped forward they sprayed chemicals to prevent it. Police put up rope barriers to keep grieving relatives from danger at the mouth of the shaft.

Fire Chases Rockefeller, Guts Governor's Mansion

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A flash fire drove Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller from New York's 101-year-old executive mansion early today and left the mansion a wreck.
Rockefeller's conservative estimate of the damage was $500,000, including paintings and art objects valued at almost $350,000. He said his preliminary inspection indicated the mansion could be repaired.
The governor, rushed by his wife, climbed through a second-floor bedroom window to the roof of the shelter over the main entrance and directed firemen in the rescue of three servants trapped by flames in their third-floor quarters.
Both Rockefeller and his wife remained calm as they and the servants escaped down ladders from the turreted, Victorian style, 36-room mansion, which once housed future Presidents Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt.
"I'm a great extant man," Rockefeller quipped.
The fire, which originated in the basement and spread to the main-floor music room and second-floor bedrooms, ruined several paintings by former Gov. W. Averell Harriman and several contemporary works installed by Rockefeller. Harriman's old masters' collection was his own property damage could run as high as $100,000.
He said he thought defective wiring might have caused the fire. The rear of the brick mansion was turned into a rubble.
In the charred living room, only the blackened frames of the Harriman masterpieces remained, with canvases by Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and George Meade resembling burnt pieces of toast.
The floors were a sea of glass. Smoke and soot covered every thing. The wallpaper hung in grotesque shapes.

Milton R. Henry Jailed at Flint

City Lawyer Involved in Courtroom Upheaval Representing Client

Pontiac attorney and city commissioner Milton R. Henry today was jailed at Flint following a "disturbance" in Flint Municipal Court this morning if which he was charged with contempt of court.

Henry was jailed after refusing to pay a fine resulting from a courtroom brawl in which he allegedly swore at Municipal Judge Dale C. Showley and grappled with a Flint policeman.

Henry was to represent Haywood Beasley, 37, of Flint, at a trial scheduled for 9 a.m. Beasley was charged with frequenting a house of prostitution.

According to Flint police, six witnesses who came to testify were released by the judge at 10 a.m. when Henry and Beasley had not shown up.

The two reportedly arrived at 11 a.m. and Henry promptly raised Beasley's bond from $100 to $1,000 and rescheduled the trial for March 17.

As he started to leave the bench, court officials quoted Henry as saying, "Wait a minute, I want to say something."

"THIS ISN'T RUSSIA!" Henry stepped toward him and shouted, "I'll tell you one thing, this isn't Russia; this is a court of law. You can't do this to me." Police quoted him as saying, "Henry then allegedly swore at the judge, found him in contempt and fined him $25."

When Henry allegedly continued cursing, the judge raised his fine to $50 and ordered police to jail Henry until he could issue a bench warrant.

The Pontiac attorney struggled with policeman Maynard J. Jarrett. Reinforcements were summoned but Henry had calmed down before they arrived.

The judge reduced the fine to $25 but, in jail Henry said he refused to pay or to appeal the sentence and declined to get a writ of habeas corpus so he could get out of jail.

He took full blame for being late for the trial, saying he was delayed in leaving Pontiac.

High temperatures will range from the normal 35 to 40 and the normal low of 17 to 24.

Tonight's low is expected to be about 34, tomorrow's high near 66.

Morning southeasterly winds at 10 miles per hour will become light to moderate at 10 to 15 m.p.h. Saturday.

Trio Wanders Onto Thin Ice by Playground

Efforts Fail to Revive Pontiac Sisters, 5, 3, or Milford Boy, 3

"Oh, God, please let my baby be alive!"
The young mother's plea was in vain — her 3-year-old son lay dead in the emergency room at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital last night, along with two of his small playmates.

The children drowned together shortly before 5:30 p.m. in Pleasant Lake in West Bloomfield Township.

The young victims were Ricky Rosen, 3, Lynda Marie Pettibone, 5, and her 3-year-old sister, Cheryl Anne.

Ricky was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rosen of Milford. The girl's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Pettibone of 782 Blaine St.

The trio had been playing with other youngsters on a neighborhood playground when they wandered onto thin ice on the adjacent lake.

Workers had recently dumped sand-fill into the lake from a lot bordering the playground on Leytonstone Street, and this had caused the ice to melt for several feet out.

Next to the open water, thawing ice still stretched out from the playground shore. The Rosen boy and the Pettibone girls apparently had walked out onto the thin ice when the edge broke off, tumbling them into water about 4 1/2 feet deep, across from the sand-fill.

Cousins of the two girls, Debra Hoffman, 7, and her 4-year-old sister, Jean, with whom the three victims were visiting, ran home to tell their father what had happened.

"PLAYING IN THE WATER"
"The girls and Ricky are playing in the water," Pettibone quoted the Hoffman youngsters as saying.

He and his brother-in-law, Orin Hoffman of 6322 Brookhurst St., ran from the scene to the lake, a block away. The scene was deserted.

Other neighborhood children who had been playing there when the tragedy occurred had gone home for supper.

"Then we saw the three of them floating face down in the water," moaned Pettibone.

He and Hoffman plunged in to retrieve the bodies. The water was chest-deep to the men. They carried the victims to shore. Mrs. Pettibone went into a state of shock at the sight of the children.

Mrs. Hoffman tried to comfort her sister, while Pettibone and Hoffman applied mouth-to-mouth respiration.

Baldwin Rubber in Merger Deal

Stockholders Must OK; Local Firm to Continue as Divisional Unit

The boards of directors of the Baldwin Rubber Co., Montrose Chemical Co., and Centivite Brewing Corp. have voted approval of their proposed merger. It was announced today.

Stockholders of the three companies will be asked to approve the merger terms.

The announcement was made following approval of the merger by Montrose directors today in New York City.

The Baldwin approval was taken 17-0, 10 and the Centivite 17-0, 20, the announcement said.

Asked to comment on the move, H. M. Pryate, board chairman of Baldwin Rubber, said:

"It is the present intention to operate the merged companies as self-contained, divisional units."

The merger would result in a new company known as Baldwin-Montrose Chemical Co., to be listed on the American Stock Exchange.

The announcement stated the combined 1960 sales of the units affected by the merger were approximately $30 million.

Baldwin Rubber, which produces automotive rubber products, also operates plants in Gary, Ind.; Norwalk, Ohio; and Cass City, Mo.

Montrose, according to the announcement, is the world's largest producer of DDT insecticide through a 50 per cent-owned affiliate, Montrose also makes plasticizer and organic chemical intermediates.

Centivite is headquartered in Fort Wayne, Ind. It owns 100 per cent of General Artists Corp. of New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, the world's third largest talent agency. Centivite also operates a brewery in Fort Wayne.

down, and shaken together, and must be over, shall now give into your hands. For with the same measure that you mete out to me shall be measured to you again."

Sam said the difficulty with this passage, in his experience, was that it was far too easy to "skip over the give part and read with care the part about getting. But I try to solve this problem. I try to find my pleasure in giving, and let the getting part take care of itself."

"Being able to 'let the getting part take care of itself,' was unusually difficult for Sam. He was raised on an Indiana farm where he was poor, and Sam never wore a suit until the day he graduated from high school.

He left home and headed north, looking for security. When he arrived in Detroit he had $1.50 in his pocket.

Sam was bewildered and a bit frightened, but within a few days got a job in one of Detroit's automobile factories. His job paid well, $39 every two weeks. This, Sam said, should supply a wonderful security.

Why was it, then, that he didn't feel secure? He was still thinking about money; he was still unable to enjoy the money he did have.

Find Donnybrook Nothing but Plain Fist Fight

Although reported to Waterford Township police as a possible gang fight, a disturbance at the Isaac C. Crary Junior High School Monday was actually a fight between two students.

Police Chief Millard Prender said today that his office had been alerted by a school official earlier Monday of a rumor there might be trouble that day.

Prender said he ordered a car to be present when pupils were released for the day at Crary. A telephone call to police from an excited woman who said there were "10 kids gathered" at the school resulted in an emergency call for more officers in case the report was true.

Actually, more than 100 pupils were gathered around the fighting pair, and they were dispersed by the officers, Prender said.

Bird Life Threatened by DDT Tree Spray

have established control areas on the extensive grounds of both Cranbrook and MSU, considered excellent bird refuges, under normal conditions. Here the trio has started to record the bird mortality rate.

Their initial findings are presented in "Bird Mortality," a booklet prepared by Nickel, Wallace and Bernard and published this year.

"To try to assess to some degree how real the loss of birds might be," the authors explained, "the Cranbrook Institute of Science, in 1956, asked that birds suspected of DDT poisoning be turned in or reported to the institute. During April, May and June of that year, but mostly in May, more than 300 dead or dying birds were turned in."

Nearly all the specimens submitted came from the immediate vicinity of the Cranbrook grounds.

"By 1959 the number... had mounted to about 400, with an estimated 600 calls or reports regarding birds turned in."

"One woman in Bloomfield Hills called to report 12 robins were lying dead on her land as she came home."

Over 80 per cent of the specimens studied at Cranbrook were victims of DDT poisoning, i.e., vomiting of the wings and tail, feather loss, and death, the authors noted.

"None of the birds recovered, even with confinement and care. Robins and other birds were, however, 63 species were recorded."

According to Nickel, bird life at Cranbrook has been reduced from approximately 250 breeding pairs to 25 or fewer pairs since DDT spraying was effective in the Bloomfield Hills area.

The story is running parallel on the MSU campus and doubtless is being utilized, the authors affirmed.

They regret that efforts to wipe out the disease have been limited to the use of DDT with no apparent reason for a less drastic means of control being conducted, and that no control over DDT concentration has been put into effect.

As an alternate course, the authors recommended the following practices:

1. Study the need for a Dutch elm disease control program.

2. "Protection" programs in communities that do not have the disease may be ill advised as it represents a less drastic control agency may be present.

3. Sometimes spraying within a community can be confined to known areas of infestation.

4. "Leaf blower" sprays or advantage over hydraulic sprays by applying the spray directly on the trees, with less danger of puddling and drift. But recent studies in Wisconsin have disclosed high mortality to ground-feeding birds in the first year of a program where only mist-blowers were used.

5. Using dormant (rather than foliar) sprays should eliminate or reduce hazards to foliage-gleaners, such as orioles, warblers and vireos.

6. If a dormant treatment is applied after leaf drop in the fall—and this is not always feasible because of freezing weather—fewer birds are affected, but birds that forage in the trunks and branches of elms in fall and winter are exposed to the insecticides.

7. If spring applications can be completed before elm buds start to open, which again is sometimes impossible in a late spring, birds that feed in the elms in late April might be spared.

8. Try to avoid excavations, both to conserve costly material and to spare wildlife.

9. Operators should be well informed both on the pros and cons in the Dutch elm control program, and be able to give factual answers. It is not good public relations to question any citizen's viewpoint, regardless of whether he is for or against the program.

"These suggestions may help to alleviate," say the authors, "the certain not eliminate, bird problems that arise in connection with control operations for Dutch elm disease."

"Though it is not within the scope of this report to criticize or evaluate the earnest efforts of operators and administrators to try to save valuable elm trees, we are inclined to question the whole program, as currently conducted, on ecological grounds."

"Any program which destroys 80 or more species of birds and unknown numbers of beneficial predatory and parasitic insects needs further study."

U.S. Tender Ignores Show Put On at Base

"I cried out for him to help," said Pettibone, but he refused, stating that "he had a cold, and left."

Minutes later other grownups from the neighborhood came to the scene. Someone phoned the township fire department, and an ambulance arrived shortly.

The three youngsters were pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital. The coroner fixed the time of death at 5:30 p.m.

The Pettibones had arrived at the Hoffman's a couple hours before the drownings. They had brought Ricky, a family friend, along with them as his mother was convalescing at home from a stage of pneumonia.

She is separated from her 25-year-old husband, an unemployed factory worker, Mrs. Rose, 23, lives at 535 Summit St., with the Floyd Davis family, in Milford.

Pettibone said they had no quarrels about letting the children go alone to the playground.

"They never went near the lake before," he said.

Sheriff's deputies were unable to notify Rosen of the tragedy that had befallen his son until later in the evening. The mothers remained in shock today, both under the care of their family physicians.

The bodies of the girls are at Voorhees-Siple Funeral Home in Pontiac. The boy's body is at Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home, over Edo de Janeiro on Feb. 25, 1960.

A total of 61 persons, 35 of them aboard a U.S. Navy plane and 26 on a Brazilian commercial airliner, were killed in the crash. There were only three survivors.

Both planes were flying under flight instructions from the same ground controller at the time of the collision. After reviewing the evidence, the court of inquiry said in its decision:

"It is evident that uncertainty on the part of the controller as to the original position of the DC-8 (Brazilian) led to the collision. The court found that the controller's failure to maintain the time factors, including aircraft reaction time; and his lack of appreciation of the communications difficulties and the increasing seriousness of the situation, combined to create the conditions which led to the collision."

The controller was an English-speaking Brazilian.

Thousands of spectators lined the lake side at the 18,500-ton Proteus was towed to her anchorage by three tugs amidst a slapdash chase of the pacific blockaders by British naval and police launches.

In the end, all six of the blockading canoes and dispatches were swamped and the occupants arrested.

The Proteus, unhindered by the blockade, moved majestically into place 200 yards off Ardnamoan, on the north side of the loch, and dropped anchor exactly on schedule at 10:30 a.m.

The Patrick Henry, first of the U.S. Navy nuclear subs for which the Proteus will act as mother ship, is already en route from America. Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told Commons Thursday.

British newspapers predicted the Patrick Henry would arrive here over the weekend as anti-nuclear demonstrators poured into the normally quiet basin on the Clyde.

A British warship escorted the Proteus.

Armada Board Wants Mill Increase to Make Term 40 Weeks Long

ARMADA — In a second attempt to lengthen the school term from 40 weeks, the Armada Board of Education will ask voters to approve a four-mill operational tax in a special election Monday.

The length of the school year in the Armada Area School District, which was 39 weeks during 1959-60, was cut to 38 weeks this year because of a lack of operating funds.

The proposition on Monday's ballot, if approved, would raise the operational levy in the school district by only one mill, according to School Supt. Kenneth W. Stanley.

Stanley explained the district's 1960-61 operational levy is three mills. It was approved by voters in 1956 and expires in June, he said. The new millage would be levied for two years.

A request for a six-mill operational tax was soundly defeated Dec. 5 in the heaviest vote ever recorded in the district, 859 to 150.

WANT RISES

If the four mills are approved in Monday's election, Stanley said the school board would lengthen the school term to 40 weeks and attempt to "squeeze out" enough money to buy 12 new school buses over the next eight or nine years.

Only one other school district which reaches into Macomb County, St. Clair, still has its high school students on a 38-week schedule, Stanley reported.

The Armada Area School District, which takes in parts of seven townships, has a total of two elementary schools and one high school.

Total millage in the district now is set at 18.9 mills or $18.90 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Navy Crash Blamed on Controller

SCENE OF TRAGEDY — This is the West Bloomfield Township playground next to the spot where three small children drowned yesterday after they wandered onto the thin ice covering Pleasant Lake and fell through. The ice has melted away from the shore since the tragedy. The victims were Lydia Marie Pettibone, 5, her sister Cheryl Anne, 3, both of Pontiac, and Ricky Rosen, 3, of Milford. The scene is on the south shore of the small lake.

Two daughters while Hoffman was on the base, when a stranger—a man about 30—came by.

"I cried out for him to help," said Pettibone, but he refused, stating that "he had a cold, and left."

Minutes later other grownups from the neighborhood came to the scene. Someone phoned the township fire department, and an ambulance arrived shortly.

The three youngsters were pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital. The coroner fixed the time of death at 5:30 p.m.

The Pettibones had arrived at the Hoffman's a couple hours before the drownings. They had brought Ricky, a family friend, along with them as his mother was convalescing at home from a stage of pneumonia.

She is separated from her 25-year-old husband, an unemployed factory worker, Mrs. Rose, 23, lives at 535 Summit St., with the Floyd Davis family, in Milford.

Pettibone said they had no quarrels about letting the children go alone to the playground.

"They never went near the lake before," he said.

Sheriff's deputies were unable to notify Rosen of the tragedy that had befallen his son until later in the evening. The mothers remained in shock today, both under the care of their family physicians.

The bodies of the girls are at Voorhees-Siple Funeral Home in Pontiac. The boy's body is at Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home, over Edo de Janeiro on Feb. 25, 1960.

A total of 61 persons, 35 of them aboard a U.S. Navy plane and 26 on a Brazilian commercial airliner, were killed in the crash. There were only three survivors.

Both planes were flying under flight instructions from the same ground controller at the time of the collision. After reviewing the evidence, the court of inquiry said in its decision:

"It is evident that uncertainty on the part of the controller as to the original position of the DC-8 (Brazilian) led to the collision. The court found that the controller's failure to maintain the time factors, including aircraft reaction time; and his lack of appreciation of the communications difficulties and the increasing seriousness of the situation, combined to create the conditions which led to the collision."

The controller was an English-speaking Brazilian.

The Day in Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM—The study of the Birmingham secondary school curriculum is entering its final stages, according to Kenneth A. Meade, chairman of the steering group of the Parent-Teacher Association Citizens' Committee.

According to Meade, more than 40 persons organized into 16 sub-committees have been exploring all areas of the junior and senior high curriculums for the past three years.

Reports of the groups studying English, mathematics, science, social studies and foreign languages are currently being reviewed by the committee.

A combined report on the academic studies will be presented to the Birmingham Public Schools Board on Thursday this month. A report on the nonacademic subjects will be made to the council in May.

Both reports will then be made available to the board of education by the council as a guide for future planning.

The "Exploring Science" film and demonstration series for junior members of the Cranbrook Institute of Science will be presented on four Saturdays this month, beginning tomorrow at 10:30 a.m.

The programs will be presented by James A. Fowler, curator of education at the institute.

The science of oceanography will be introduced to the junior members tomorrow. To be explained will be the changing pattern of the ocean's floor, the living and nonliving things in its waters and the influence of the ocean upon man.

"Exploring Light and Color" will be the topic of March 11 program. Subjects to be discussed will include the electromagnetic spectrum, principles of reflection and refraction, physical nature of color, principles of color in art, printing and photography.

On March 18 the topic entitled "Exploring For Proteus" will tell of the simple animals found in a drop of pond water.

Truman Defends U. N. Troops Being in Congo

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today the continued presence of United Nations troops in the Congo was "absolutely necessary."

"Secretary General Hammarskjöld knows what he's doing," Truman said. "We can't sit down and wait for the Russians to walk in and take over and wonder what they're doing. The U.N. is for — to prevent it."

The former chief executive and Mrs. Truman arrived in New York about the Queen of Bermuda following a vacation in Bermuda.

To Make 'Peace Gesture'

French to Release 3 Rebels

PARIS (UPI)—The French government plans to release the former Algerian rebel army commander and two other Moslem leaders soon as a "peace gesture" to the rebels, reliable sources reported today.

Details of the planned move were not known, but the sources said release of the men probably will be made know simultaneously with an official announcement that Algerian peace talks are about to begin.

The former rebel commander-in-chief is Mohammed Ben Bella, 44, who has been interned for two years in a fortress on the wind-swept island of Aix off the Atlantic coast of France.

The other two, imprisoned with Ben Bella, are rebel National Liberation Front (FLN) leaders—Dr. Ahmed Hocine, a lawyer, and Mohammed Khider, a former nationalist member of the French National Assembly.

Praises State's Business Scene

Newcomer Feels Firms Moving From Michigan Will Soon Regret It.

DETROIT (UPI)—Michigan's much-maligned business climate received some stout support from a newcomer to the state today. Eugene Sheasby, newly appointed vice president of the Detroit and automotive divisions of Eliza and Laughlin Steel Corp., said the bad climate was, in part, just bad talk.

"We think a lot of the potential of Michigan," he told newsmen at an introductory press conference.

Eliza and Laughlin, one of the top three cold-bar processing firms in the nation, opened a Detroit-area plant seven years ago.

"We came to stay," Sheasby said. "I feel that many of the firms which are moving out of Michigan now will regret it in a few years."

Sheasby said there were sound economic advantages for companies using the products of his firm to remain in Michigan.

He cited a skilled-labor pool, transportation costs for products and "much better living conditions generally than some of the places these firms are moving to."

Soviet Scientists Try to Recontact Rocket to Venus

Few-Second Timing Lag Costs $2-Million Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A matter of a few seconds cost the Air Force a $2-million Titan missile last night.

The 28-foot rocket headed toward a target 6,100 statute miles away when its second-stage engines cut off too soon.

The results were proof that missile testing is still a split-second business. The intercontinental rocket missed its target by 2,000 miles and left scientists without the information on accuracy they wanted.

The wombat of Australia has a pouch, spade-like fingernails and a friendly disposition.

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet scientists were trying today to restore radio contact with their Venus-bound rocket. The Soviet news agency Tass reported that radio contact with the automatic interplanetary station could not be made last Monday, 15 days after it was launched from a space vehicle orbiting the earth. In Britain, the director of the Jodrell Bank Radio Observatory said it would be "extremely regrettable" if the Venus rocket probe has failed entirely, but one cannot be too hopeful.

County Employees Don't Like Parking Lot Idea

A few days ago in this space we put out a feeler about the possibilities of converting the courthouse employees parking lot at the south-east corner of Huron and Wayne to a shoppers parking lot, and giving the employees another place to park.

The idea was to use this prime spot to bolster downtown business. Since then, we've been the recipients of some considerable reaction to this suggestion.

From the merchants—"It would help us a great deal."

From the courthouse parkers—"This is nice for us as it is, why change it?"

What do you think?

Natural Resource Study to Further Conservation

President KENNEDY's message to Congress on natural resources calls attention to the depletion of our land, forest, water and mineral supplies.

The many conservation programs we do have are overlapping, wasteful and uncoordinated. The President attempted to bring together in one message the widely scattered resource policies of the Federal Government.

To conserve resources, atomic and hydroelectric energy must replace coal and oil; reforestation and forest management should proceed at a faster rate; water supply must be doubled within 40 years to take care of the growing population.

The most pressing of these problems is water. Experiments on economical desalination of sea water are hopeful. But the best prospect lies in flood and watershed control. Every year there are serious floods, and water shortages, too, somewhere in the Nation. Water pollution on which many communities are now working, endangers everyone.

Introduced by Sen. CLINTON ANDERSON and backed by the President, a national wilderness protection bill to set aside certain wilderness areas in perpetuity is again before Congress. All the lands involved already are within established national forests, parks or refuges. The measure would help in water and wildlife conservation as well as preserve for future generations an important part of their inheritance.

New studies will be available to President Kennedy in 90 days when Congress may expect some comprehensive and far-sighted measures to protect our natural resources.

Seek Reduction of State Employees' Holidays

A plan being discussed in California as a tax saving idea strikes us as worth some study. Too often we read of publicity seeking politicians who mouth thriffling phrases for votes.

This is not the case with Alan Post, legislative analyst and John E. Carr, finance director since their plan would affect them. They have come forth with the suggestion that holidays for state employees be reduced from the present eleven holidays to the seven which private industry employees receive.

Both the California state officials point out that they do not deserve such a large number of holidays. Mr. Post further shows that the reduction would save the state $9 million a year. We wonder how much this would save Michigan?

This sounds bulky to us since we have often wondered why state employees are off work while we remain along with most of the other taxpayers at the regular grind.

Mr. Carr, in charge of the California finances, really aroused opposition when he recommended that much of the state's work could be done at a great savings by farming it out to private interests. More efficiency, he claimed.

We are sure neither of these plans would meet approval of the state employees, but the people that cough up the taxes might well be interested.

In the great majority is the person who refrained from making New Year resolutions in order to avoid the great risk of being faced with the humiliating realization of what an extremely weak will power he has.

Rushing Season

Many Proofs of the Early Advent of Our Springtime

Failure: A person who thinks success means wealth, riches, independence and money.

Unique proof of the early arrival of spring comes from Blanchard Johnson of Auburn Heights. He phones that his automobile got mired in his driveway on March 1, three weeks ahead of the usual time.

So many reports of dandelions in bloom are being received that it is impossible to mention all of them. However, that of George Gresson of Birmingham has unusual merit. They're blossoming in his lawn at the very spot where he administered a dandelion killer last autumn.

First to report that early spring leafy plant known as "skunk's cabbage" is Austin Arnold of Clarkson. It grows in marshy places, and if you wonder why it is so called, just rumple some of its green leaves in your fingers.

An old Plymouth Rock hen in the poultry yard of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Kuhlmann of Rochester, who usually doesn't get broody until late in March, is already showing symptoms.

Usually announced late in March, advice from General Chairman Mike Schlachter of the Cheesing Shoboway say it will take place July 3 to 15, and he hopes a Pontiac girl will enter its queen contest.

Chairman of the fox hunting committee of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club, Lewis M. Wrenn of 11 Niagara Road, knows his fox. A veteran in their quest, he admits that they still manage to outfox him.

It was my pleasure to intimately know

William A. Brewster when he was Sheriff of Oakland County 60 years ago. Grandfather of Pontiac's present mayor.

Phillip E. Rowston, Brewster was a Democrat, and I wonder if our county has since elected another sheriff of that party.

Another advantage of the early spring weather is cited by Jack Arundsen of Pontiac Lake, who says the fishing holes in the ice do not freeze up every night.

A double indication of an early spring is reported by Mrs. Royal A. Stackley of Drayton Plains. Pussy willows are in bloom along the Clinton River—and bees are after the honey in them.

"I Like This One Better"

David Lawrence Asks:

Will It Be Limited or All-Out War?

WASHINGTON—Sometimes the obvious is overlooked. There has been, for instance, a lot of controversy in the press about a build-up of "conventional forces." Some fears have been expressed that nuclear weapons might not be stressed hereafter.

It turns out that Secretary of State Dean Rusk LAWRENCE has written a memorandum about it that has stirred up a good deal of curiosity. But he says emphatically that whatever is done on conventional arms will not lessen the importance of the arsenal of nuclear weapons.

How has all this discussion arisen? The answer seems very simple. A new secretary of defense, Robert McNamara, takes hold in the Pentagon.

He has at his side a variety of advisers on military problems, giving him conflicting opinions as to what ought or ought not to be done. But, being an individual with a direct and penetrating mind, he asks, in effect, of the Department of State a natural question:

"What kind of war do you think we are likely to have in the next few years?"

So the secretary of state prepares a memorandum. It gives rise to an emphasis on "limited war," without stressing that much-controverted term.

For several years now, in study groups and at meetings of governmental officials and a vast body of experts in the field of foreign policy throughout the United States, there has been a debate on theories of strategy.

One of the leading exponents of the doctrine that it is important to prepare for "limited war" is Henry A. Kissinger, director of Harvard's defense studies center, who was recently appointed by President Kennedy as a consultant to him on national security problems.

WRITES BOOK

Dr. Kissinger wrote a book in 1957 called "Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy."

Its main point was this: If a state develops in nuclear weapons, what kind of military forces do the United States and its allies need for other kinds of wars?

With more and more talk about negotiations for "arms control," especially in the field of nuclear weapons, it is quite natural that the planning boards, in and out of the government, should begin thinking about "limited wars" that might ensue. As an example, there wasn't a nuclear bomb dropped in the three-year Korean War, yet about 2.5 million people were killed or wounded in that conflict.

The real question today is

The Country Parson

Nor did he say whether he can squat on his heels and rise to standing position without using his hands. A person aged 40 who thinks any of these tests well, I'm sorry for you.

Perhaps my advice to the correspondent to keep his mind off his heart and head for the bowling green was not quite appropriate.

He wrote from New England, where the bowling greens are snowed in for the winter. However, this is still a free country.

He can move to Southern California and bowl every day of the year around on the finest bowling greens in the world—except possibly New Zealand and Australia.

Visitors from these countries whether a war of the Korean type may break out in Africa or the Middle East or the Far East.

Perhaps the most interesting and persuasive book on the subject came out just last week. It is called "A Forward Strategy for America," and was written by Robert Strauss-Hupe, William R. Kintner and Stefan T. Possony, a study sponsored by the foreign policy research institute of the University of Pennsylvania.

Some excerpts follow: "Limited war" can be defined as a conflict short of general war, in which American forces will or will not use atomic weapons to achieve national objectives. These definitions are adequate—provided we do not let them lead us into the trap of misplaced abstractions.

"To base our strategy on the idea that nuclear war is 'unthinkable' is to make such a war more likely. If, however, we devote to the idea that nuclear war is possible, it will probably never occur."

"The basic conclusion reaches that America and her allies 'have failed to rally their moral and material strength sufficiently to enhance and extend freedom and make it prevail over tyranny.'"

Dr. William Brady Says:

Heart Patient Can Bowl —if He Does It on Lawn

A reader asked whether a person with heart trouble can safely bowl.

Lawn bowls or bowling on the green, that is, and not 10-pin bowling.

The game of bowls is an ancient one, described in the Encyclopedia Britannica under the heading BOWLS, played out of doors with biased bowls which weigh approximately 3½ pounds on greenwood or lawn as smooth as a billiard table.

My answer is, yes, if the person can walk from here to the corner without assistance. I'd have to qualify my answer if the reader asked about playing 10-pins. The ball used in 10-pin weighs about five times as much as a bowl, and lifting and delivering it, easy enough for a healthy person, may be more an effort than one with "heart trouble" should make without the advice of his or her physician.

The reader gives no information about his or her occupation; whether he is 40 or 80 years old; whether "heart trouble" is his only complaint; whether he walks or runs or climbs stairs two steps at a time or indeed what kind of "heart trouble" it may be.

In order to judge whether a person with a damaged heart should indulge in active play or work, a doctor must have some knowledge of the person's general condition. Remember, what cures the blacksmith may kill the tailor.

The reader withheld other information which a doctor should have when advising about a way of life. HOW MANY TEETH?

He didn't tell me whether he has at least 20 functionally efficient teeth, his dentist's or his own, whether he can chin himself or whether he can hold his breath at least 30 seconds.

Nor did he say whether he can squat on his heels and rise to standing position without using his hands. A person aged 40 who thinks any of these tests well, I'm sorry for you.

Perhaps my advice to the correspondent to keep his mind off his heart and head for the bowling green was not quite appropriate.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Give Your Future Babies a Break

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE #1423: Mildred French aged 35, is a tall brunette with long, wavy, chestnut hair.

Recently we appeared together on Leo Sisman's all-day program at Peru, Ind.

The afternoon session was at the 4-H Fair, and was obviously dedicated to teenage 4-H Club members.

But earlier that day Miss French and I, plus several leading clergymen, appeared on a radio program.

One question that arose was this:

"Why do teenagers rush into sex marriage with obviously unfit mates? Especially since they come from broken or unhappy homes and should be careful not to subject their future children to similar bad conditions."

Miss French gave case reports from the 92 counties in Indiana which she covers routinely in connection with her helpful work. She covered the issue exceptionally well.

When I was quizzed on the same topic, I added a minor aspect of this general problem.

For I mentioned the fact that love-starved girls (and sometimes boys) grow so abnormally hungry for the ego inflation of being loved for themselves alone, that they lose perspective.

Many a girl who has been battered down in her self-respect and treated with cruelty by drunken parents or ridiculed and disdained by her neighbors, will develop a tremendous hunger for affection.

Even come will likewise go berserk if they are starved too long for some such necessary item as salt. Thus, salt-hungry cattle will break through heavy-backed wire fences to get a lick of salt.

And a love-starved girl will often grow so intoxicated at feeling a boy's arms around her, and hearing his endearments whispered into her ear, that she gets emotionally "drunk."

Forgotten is the welfare of her future, unborn babies. Ignored may be the wise sex advice that her school teacher has offered.

All such a girl desires is a continuation of her new feeling of importance at being loved and apparently admired.

If she tries to resist illicit advances of her escort, and he then grows cool or irritable, she gets scared so she tries to "buy" additional kisses by giving in to the boy's demands.

Also, she then may find herself pregnant at the age of 15 or 16, and bear a baby into squallor and a doubly unhappy home.

Voice of the People:

'Why Is City Commission Refusing Aid to Project?'

I note in The Press of Feb. 28 that Mayor Rowland, "who has expressed concern over unemployment levels in Pontiac," planned to attend the UAW conference on unemployment. I might suggest that Mayor Rowland stay home and consider why the Pontiac City Commission acts in the manner of obstructionists to such projects as the new shopping center on Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake road by refusing aid and assistance, primarily, in this case, in the form of sewage hookups.

The unemployment problem for Pontiac does not stop with the city limits and I would hope our commissioners would start broadening their horizons without being annexation to every forward step.

Gives Opinion on Automation

We hear a great deal about "automation," especially with reference to the present so-called "recession."

There seems to be a body of opinion that "automation" should be curbed but not one states where we shall commence and there is a good reason for this. Automation is not new, it's just an age old problem with a new title.

Probably the first automation of a major concern was when someone discovered the wheel. As time went on other labor saving devices were discovered such as steam power, electric light, gasoline (internal combustion engine) and the two latest, nuclear power and electronics. Of course, all these have infinite varieties.

There are any of the old-fashioned doctors left who are interested in the patient rather than the money? The really sick people are taken care of in a hospital but do we half-sick ones have to get real sick to get care?

Last Faith

Doctors Don't Have Time for Patients'

I wish the newspaper, magazines, TV and radio would tell sick people to consult their doctor and talk over their worries with him. Is there such a thing today? I have yet to find a doctor who will give me more than five minutes. They are busy, but seems they are doing more harm than good. They talk very little so we leave not knowing what is wrong.

Are there any of the old-fashioned doctors left who are interested in the patient rather than the money? The really sick people are taken care of in a hospital but do we half-sick ones have to get real sick to get care?

Ragatz Murder Charge Reduced

Commerce Area Wife Is Facing Manslaughter in Husband's Slaying

A charge of second-degree murder was reduced to manslaughter yesterday against a Commerce Township grandmother in the shooting of her husband Feb. 14. Township Justice John C. Wick reduced the charge and ordered Mrs. Sarah Ragatz, 50, of 6095 Ashland St., bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court.

Her bond was continued at $5,000.

Mrs. Ragatz has maintained since her arrest that the shooting of her husband, Ernest, 35, was an accident.

He was killed by a single shot from his 12-gauge shotgun as he arrived home.

Mrs. Ragatz admitted firing the fatal shot but insisted she didn't know the gun was loaded and was only playing a joke on her husband.

Results of a lie detector test given her Feb. 24 indicated the shooting was accidental.

House Unit Asks 'Czar' to Solve Missile Muddle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House appropriations committee today called for a "czar" over the missile program to cut costs and end divided responsibility. It acted on recommendation of a subcommittee which recently heard testimony that the program has been delayed and costs increased because of divided and duplicated responsibilities.

While the Air Force apparently has solved the problem of providing the missiles, the committee said, "it has not, however, solved the many major problems besetting the construction portion of this program."

It said divided responsibility within the Air Force and between it and the Army's Corps of Engineers, "coupled with an abnormally large number of change orders and modifications and other problems threaten to push costs to alarming proportions."

Burglars Get $800 From Orion Bar

Sheriff's detectives today were investigating an $800 safe burglary at the Bo-Inn bar in Orion Township.

Thieves broke into the bar by tearing a hole in the roof of the building at 1137 S. Lapeer Road. They tipped over the 200-pound safe and pried the bottom off.

The break-in was discovered yesterday by bar owner Mrs. Hazel MacSawyer. The burglars also smashed a cigarette machine to loot it of an unknown amount of change, she said.

Merchants Total Losses After $500,000 Blaze

DETROIT (UPI) — Owners of several downtown Detroit stores were still totaling up their losses today after a spectacular blaze that injured 14 firemen and did an estimated $500,000 damage.

The blaze raged through the three-story Wabec Building and made total wrecks of five shops and a floor of offices. Four of the firemen were injured seriously enough to require treatment at Receiving Hospital.

Adrian Makes Plea to Continue Plant

WASHINGTON (U)—General Services Administration officials have under consideration a final all-out plea by Adrian, Mich., interests for continued operation of a surplus Air Force plant there.

Adrian Mayor Roy McPhail and others in a special delegation which came here in an attempt to block sale of the plant to a "non-operator," professed encouragement after a conference with GSA officials.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who arranged the conference, said GSA Administrator John L. Moore promised the promptest possible decision on disposal of the aluminum extrusion plant.

Hart said the decision, which will affect federal disposal policies across the nation, also hinges on other economic factors.

Dirksen to Fight Senate Action on More Judges

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said today he would try to stave off immediate Senate action on a bill to create more federal judgeships. He made no prediction of victory in the Democratic-controlled Senate, but he told newsmen he would make a heroic effort. Dirksen and other GOP leaders have accused the Democrats of playing "courthouse politics" with judgeship legislation, one of 16 measures given a priority tag by President Kennedy. The Senate started debate on the bill Thursday and adopted an amendment increasing to 71 the number of new federal judgeships it would create.

To Curtail Liquor Sales in State on Good Friday

LANSING (AP) — By order of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, sale of alcoholic beverages will not be allowed between noon and 3 p.m. on Good Friday, March 31. "This will be enforced," said the commission in notices sent to all liquor licensees, state-run retail stores and enforcement agencies.

Thailand Troops Hunt Nationalist Chinese

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thai government troops today hunted Nationalist Chinese irregulars roaming the mountainous jungles of Southeast Asia.

The guerrillas have caught the United States in a diplomatic dispute.

The irregulars reportedly numbering about 1,000 in Thailand alone—are remnants of Chiang Kai-shek's troops that spilled over China's southern border after the Communists took over the mainland in 1949. Many settled down in villages of Northern Burma, some to a life of banditry. The Thais and Burmese now are trying to disarm them.

Suspend 19 Examiners

NEW YORK (AP) — The suspension of nine motor vehicle examiners in the Bronx, accused of taking money from applicants or from auto driving schools, was announced Thursday by Motor Vehicles Commissioner William S. Hults. The nine men, half of the Bronx staff of examiners, were suspended pending a departmental hearing.

Talk U.N. Force Out of Violence

Tunisians Threaten to Invade Congo Army Camp to Get Officer

From Our News Wires

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo—Angry Tunisian troops of the United Nations command threatened today to invade a Congolese army camp to release a Tunisian officer who was being held prisoner, but U.N. officers managed to restrain them.

Reliable informants said the Tunisians were in an "angry mood" and wanted to tangle with Congolese troops who earlier this week dismissed 22 Tunisian soldiers and beat up others.

Tunisian and U.N. officers finally persuaded the late Tunisian troops to remain calm, the informants said. But the near clash was indicative of the tense relations between the U.N. force and the Congolese troops of President Joseph Kasavubu's government.

U.N. spokesmen said the United Nations has had confirmation from a Congolese civilian source that the captive Tunisian officer is alive and is being held by the Congolese Army.

"We are looking forward to his release," he said.

There were unconfirmed rumors that the Tunisians had retaliated by capturing a Congolese officer and are holding him hostage pending the return of the Tunisian officer.

Tunisian troops were seen digging in today around Louvinitum where the bulk of the 2,678-man contingent is stationed.

Rajeshwar Dayal of India, special U.N. representative in the Congo, has sent a message to Lumumbist authorities in Stanleyville to remind them that all troop movements out of Oriental Province should be stopped and those already outside should remain in accordance with the latest U.N. Security Council resolution.

At Ruanda-Urundi, leader in the Congo's Kivu Province has declared his sector independent from the leftist rebels in Stanleyville and wants to line up with the nation's anti-Communist leaders.

The leader, Antoine Omari, made his appeal in a telegram Thursday to Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu, President Moise Tshombe of Katanga Province and Albert Kalonji of Kasai, who signed a pact this week for military co-operation against Stanleyville. Both Tshombe and Kalonji regard themselves as politically independent.

State Quick to Answer Food Order

Michigan is one of the first states to comply with President Kennedy's first executive order to increase the amount and variety of surplus foods for the needy, a state welfare official declared today.

Before the President issued the order—less than 24 hours after he took office in January—Michigan had already provided its welfare needy families with the food Kennedy deemed necessary, said H. J. Riterink, supervisor of commodities distribution in the state.

He said the order had been complied with "as far as the commodities that are available."

The President's order was more primarily directed to those states that did not have the system we have here," Riterink said.

Riterink's statement came as some welfare officials and recipients wondered when the order would be put into effect.

He said as rapidly as new commodities are added to the food packages "we'll give it out to the people." He said it was expected canned pork, gravy, rolled oats, and peanut butter would be added soon.

Resume Deliberation in Cave Murder Case

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—A jury returned to the task of deciding the fate of Chester (Rocky) Weger today while he observed his 22nd birthday in the La Salle County Jail.

The state seeks the death penalty for Weger, accused of murdering three women in a canyon of Starved Rock State Park March 14, 1960.

The Circuit Court jury of seven women and five men spent five hours Thursday pondering whether to free him, send him to prison or condemn him to the electric chair.

Weger, dishwasher and handyman at the state park lodge when the women were slain, appeared calm and confident.

Inner windows of a Pullman railway car are made of shattered proof glass.

Riterink's statement came as some welfare officials and recipients wondered when the order would be put into effect.

He said as rapidly as new commodities are added to the food packages "we'll give it out to the people." He said it was expected canned pork, gravy, rolled oats, and peanut butter would be added soon.

County Pioneer Taken by Death

Percy C. King, 82, Had Lived for 55 Years on Williams Lake Farm

Percy C. King, 82, one of the pioneers of certified seed potatoes in Oakland County, died yesterday afternoon at Pontiac General Hospital. He had been ill more than a year.

For 55 years he had lived on the family's centennial farm at 6088 Williams Lake Road.

When Mr. King became interested in certified seed potatoes he offered his farm to Michigan State University for experimental work. The work was continued by the university for more than 22 years, and the university bought its own farm near Lake City.

A life resident of Waterford Township, he served on the Waterford Township Board of Education and at the Davisburg Methodist Church.

Mr. King was a past master of Davisburg Grange No. 245 and a board member of the Oakland County Farm Bureau No. 8.

Surviving besides his wife Grace are a son Ferris of Waterford Township; two daughters, Mrs. William Stephen of Lake Orion and Mrs. Glenn Campbell of Waterford Township; five grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Service will be held at 2:30 p.m. Monday at the Hutton-Furness Funeral Home with burial in Drayton Plains Cemetery.

County Firemen Busy Putting Out 41 Grass Fires

Fanned by stiff breezes, grass fires in many sections of Oakland County kept fire trucks rolling and firemen busy all day yesterday.

Southfield firemen battled 11 separate grass fires in their area. Commerce Township reported six, Bloomfield Township six, White Lake Township 4, Waterford Township 3, Royal Oak Township, 3 and Auburn Heights 3.

Residents are warned by firemen to "take care" in burning rubbish, especially on a windy day like yesterday.

Tailored Tots Trip...

Classic shirt-waists in pink size are but one of the many styles found in spring's dynamic fashion parade for "little ladies."

Demure, frilly frocks align themselves alluringly with tailored and casual togs on toy shop dress racks. Glen of Michigan designed the cotton broadcloth at right, offered in a rainbow color assortment.

Nature has inspired Nannette's 1961 spring line for the pinafore set. Watermelon, pineapple and grape motifs decorate the white cotton pretties above, fashioned with separate dresses matching the fruit tones of the embroidery. Many of this season's frocks are adorned with fruits, flowers, animals, birds and butterflies.

...Straight Into Frills

This no-iron cotton lime check frock by Nannette is from the Shirley Temple collection. Two yellow giraffes, a green elephant and an orange seal peer from three square white pockets on the high-yoked frock. Inspiration for the dress: "Off to the Animal Fair!"

The Latest Dope From the Hills

This winsome Miss tailored gray suit by Joseph Love features culottes, just the thing for those occasions when a little girl's dignity is momentarily forgotten in an upside-down dangle on the playground's "monkey bars." Pearl buttons enhance the jacket panel of the washable cotton twill outfit.

Working with Mrs. Fisher are Mrs. William L. Kahn, Mrs. Willis P. Wagner, Mrs. Samuel E. Gawne, Mrs. Richard C. Kern, Mrs. Benjamin H. Shwayder and Mrs. Theodore Yntema who is also chairman of the Birmingham-Bloomfield committee.

Mrs. Yntema plans to take Ted Jr., a senior at Cranbrook and her daughter Gwin, junior at Kingswood School, to the Virgin Islands for their Spring vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. James Couzens II (Janet Carey) of Amberly road are receiving felicitations on the birth of a daughter Pauline Marie Feb. 21.

Recently returned from a 10-day Caribbean cruise aboard a 76-foot schooner are the Edward H. Lerchen and the Richard Wallace both of the Grand Opera Co. of New York which comes to Detroit in May.

The Norwegian skipper who owns the ship is also its captain. The group visited both the British and American, Virgin Islands, embarking at St. Thomas.

They were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nevins who live on Tortola Island, B.V.I. and usually spend the summers in Rochester.

Field of Medicine Full of Opportunities for the Smart Girl

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK (UPI)—The medical profession loves us, needs us, and thinks the opportunities unlimited for women in the field.

This special notice for the girls comes from the American Medical Association (AMA), the professional society with headquarters in Chicago.

The AMA praised President Kennedy for his appointment of a woman, Dr. Janet G. Travell, as his personal physician and called the selection a "timely affirmation of the rewarding careers open to women in medicine."

Dr. F. J. L. Blasigame, the society's executive vice president, said that last year 465 women received M.D. degrees from medical schools and that there now are more than 13,000 women doctors in the country.

"But this," he continued, "is far too few. The total is less than 5 1/2 per cent of the 252,000 physicians in the country. "It is the hope of the American Medical Association that increasing numbers of superior women students in our high schools and colleges will turn to medicine as a career."

AMA cited the unlimited opportunities for "intellectually superior" women and the "equality" the profession offers. However, a recent report from Health Economics, a publication of the Health Insurance Institute (representing several insurance firms), showed that equality in pay is not yet there.

PAY IS GOOD
The pay is good, said the publication, but lags behind that of men. It cited a study showing that 50 per cent of the women doctors interviewed earned between $5,000 and $15,000 a year, and only eight per cent had incomes above $30,000.

But more than a third of the men physicians interviewed received over $20,000, while 38 per cent reported earnings of $10,000 to $15,000 a year. Health Economics pointed out, however, that the hours are good, that women can blend marriage and a career in medicine happily, and that the work is rewarding. It quoted the American Women's Medical Association to the effect that "your job will be interesting beyond your wildest dreams."

AMA said that by 1971, medical schools will have to enroll 12,000 first year students (4,000 more than were enrolled in 1959-60) just to keep even with the demand for physicians.

If said the association has developed a student scholarship and loan program which will provide up to $300,000 in scholarships to 50 honor students and establish a fund of more than $1 million as security for student loans.

"The hostility to women in medicine has crumbled completely in the last half century," said AMA. It cited the pioneering efforts of Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman to get an M.D. from an American college (she was graduated from the state University of New York, Syracuse, in 1849.)

It added that women physicians have "won the highest honors the profession can bestow, including the Nobel prize."

The only Nobel winner was Czech-born Dr. Gerty T. Cori, honored in 1957 for synthesis of glycogen, the chief carbohydrate storage material in animals.

Today, said AMA, the 85 medical schools in the nation all admit women. The last to open its doors was Jefferson Medical College, in Philadelphia.

At Pontiac Northern

Audubon Club to Meet

The Pontiac Audubon Club, sponsored by Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, has scheduled a color slide show, "Panorama of a Peninsula," at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Pontiac Northern High School's little theater.

James A. Fowler of Cranbrook Institute of Science will narrate the public program. In lieu of tickets, donations will be accepted.

Mr. Fowler, curator of education at the Cranbrook Institute, was director of education at the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia before coming to Cranbrook in 1957. He has talked to garden clubs, schools and Audubon societies throughout the metropolitan Philadelphia area and in many other states.

His nature travelogue, a visit to the Delmarva Peninsula between Delaware Bay, the Atlantic Ocean and Chesapeake Bay, will include views of whistling swans and wild waterfowl on Eastern Bay, the marshes of Blackwater Wildlife Refuge, a cypress swamp along the Pocomoke River, and bird and marine life along the coast.

View Film on Driving

Members of Zonta-International of Pontiac viewed the film "Freeways Are Different" presented by Joseph Zabelski of the Automobile Club of Michigan Thursday at the Hotel Waldron.

The importance of maintaining an even speed to avoid bumping from the rear was stressed as an important factor in driving on freeways. Drivers should know how to approach and leave the highway and take care when changing lanes, said Zabelski. Laws to accelerate speed on freeways now before congress are meeting with opposition because not all drivers can handle their cars safely at a high rate of speed, he concluded.

Sorority Plans Theater Party

Elizabeth Halsey of Lorraine Court was hostess to Zeta Chapter, Alpha Delta Kappa Sorority Thursday evening. Mrs. Eugene Carey and Margaret MacKenzie were co-hostesses.

Mrs. John Borrevold, president, will represent the chapter as delegate to the International Convention at the Brown Palace Hotel in Denver, Colo., in August.

Completed plans for attendance of a performance of "Sound of Music" in Detroit later this month, were announced by Miss Halsey, program chairman.

Club Learns 'The Del Rio'

Do-Do Square Dance Club members gathered at McCarrall School Thursday evening. Callers were Melvin Hall, Charles Putrell, Eugene Shaw, Robert Newell and George Newton.

Warren Allen instructed for a new dance "The Del Rio."

Election Is Slated

Oakland County Delta Zeta Alumnae, Group II, will meet for their annual election Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Frederick S. Wilson of Royal Oak.

Mrs. George N. Skrubbs of Birmingham may be contacted for further details.

Group I members observed their March meeting in the Birmingham home of Mrs. W. Dean Perry. Following dessert Mrs. Harold VanDragt reviewed the book "No One Must Ever Know" by Betty Martin.

MARY ANNA MICHAEL

Summer vows in Hawaii are planned by Mary Anna Michael, daughter of Mrs. John Michael and the late Mr. Michael of Eaton, Ohio, and Thomas D. Buchanan of Honolulu son of Mrs. Joseph J. Buchanan of Spence Street and the late Mr. Buchanan.

ANN LOUISE HAMILTON

The Kenneth M. Hamiltons of North Hilldale Drive announce the engagement of their daughter Ann Louise to Lawrence E. Olliffe, son of Mrs. Bert L. Olliffe of Clarkston and the late Mr. Olliffe. Both attend Central Michigan University at Mt. Pleasant.

Get a Checkup First

Circles Have Her Going

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q: "Please help me solve a problem. I am 21 years old and not the world's worst looking girl. I have a nice figure and a fairly good personality. But I have black circles under my eyes. Do you know what causes this and how I can cover them up?"

A: Of course ill health or malnutrition or too little sleep can cause these circles. Sometimes they seem to be inherited.

If a physical check-up shows no reason for them, you can help the situation with make-up. There are powder bases which will hide these.

Q: "I would like to know if you think I am overweight. My husband says I am too fat. I am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 126 pounds. My measurements are bust 36, waist 29 and hips 38. I have had four children."

A: If you have a medium frame, you are only about three or four pounds too much. If you have a very small frame, you should lose more — about 10 pounds. Your measurements are good. You might take a few abdominal and waist-slimming exercises for nearer perfection.

Q: "Which is better to remove superfluous hair — cosmetic wax or a depilatory?"

A: They are both efficient in removing hair temporarily. Some people think that it takes the hair longer to grow in again when you use the wax. A depilatory is less trouble.

Q: "I am 12 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 122 pounds. How much overweight am I? I have large bones."

A: With a medium frame you should weigh about 114 pounds. If you have a very large bony structure, you are not much over.

the eyes or ankles or elsewhere, a physical check-up is in order. If you get a clean bill of health, then consider these possibilities.

Your trouble may be due to allergies. The swelling may occur when you come in contact with some material to which you are allergic. This also can be due to cystorrhinia or some low-grade infection. Therefore, a visit to the eye doctor is indicated.

Q: "I would like to know if you think I am overweight. My husband says I am too fat. I am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 126 pounds. My measurements are bust 36, waist 29 and hips 38. I have had four children."

Invitation to One Only Very Rude

By The Enthusiastic Institute

Q: The other evening as my husband and I were leaving a friend's house with another couple, also friends of ours, the hostess turned to this other couple and invited them to dinner for the following week.

My husband and I were not included in this invitation. I thought the hostess showed very bad manners by inviting this other couple to dinner in our presence and not including us. I would very much like to have your opinion on this.

A: It was not only tactless, but actually rude to invite this other couple without you in your presence.

Q: My daughter is going to be married soon and two of her girl friends would like to give a shower for her. However, both these girls live in small apartments and cannot accommodate the number of guests they would like to invite. My house is quite large and could easily accommodate all of the guests.

A: It would be proper to let them have the shower here, or might this in any way suggest I am giving the party, which I certainly don't want anyone to think.

A: So long as the invitations are sent out in their names, it is definitely their party and there is no objection to their giving it at your house.

Q: If a man doesn't make any move to help the woman he is escorting on with her coat, even though he is standing right there, could she hand it to him and ask him to hold it for her? Might the implication embarrass him?

A: If he makes no attempt to help her with a heavy coat, it is entirely proper for her to hand it to him and say, "Will you hold this for me, please?"

Group Plans for Brunch on March 19

Plans were completed for the Hand of Friendship Brunch slated for March 19 at the Kingsley Inn, at a dinner meeting of the Tipacan Chapter, American Business Women's Association, Wednesday at the Waldron Hotel.

Guest speaker was Susie Gardner, native of Freiburg, Germany who holds a doctor's degree in geography and winner of many national ski championships.

She spoke of her work as an instructor in the New Zealand Alps and showed slides of the New Zealand bush country. She is currently ski instructor at Mount Holly Ski Lodge.

Mrs. Cornell Nagy, Michigan Bell Telephone Company supervisor in Pontiac gave a vocational talk and Mrs. Donald Gerber of a local shop spoke on interior decorating.

Tentative plans were made for "Boss Night" April 19 at the Edgewood Country Club.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Earl Pace and Mrs. Frank Husted.

Shower Honors Sorority Sister

Sorority sisters of Mrs. Calvin Rhodes of the Bloomfield Terrace honored her at a surprise stork shower Tuesday evening at the Ruben Simon home in Davisburg.

Hostesses were Stephanie Linabury of Davisburg, Mrs. Edgar Plympton and Mrs. Harry Rhodes.

Attending the party were Mrs. Carl Rose, Mrs. Fred Mueller, Mrs. Winston Hopp, Mrs. Elmer O. Johnson, Mrs. Reginald Ripberger, Mrs. June Curran, Mrs. James Vincent and Mrs. L. L. Schiefer, all of Drayton Plains.

Others were Mrs. Rudy Mazza of Sylvan Lake, Mrs. Anthony Grand of Clarkston and Mrs. Donald Murphy, Mrs. Robert Hasse, Mrs. James George and Mrs. Robert Striber of Pontiac.

Don't Mistake Flattery for Competition

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprises Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

I think that my 13-year-old daughter is jealous of me. I can't talk to her about it. It's always with my friends or neighbors. She'll interrupt their conversation with me and try to keep their attention by talking about her homework, her school friends—anything at all to stop me talking to them. A neighbor says she has a problem of "competitiveness" with me. . . .

Answer: Nonsense.

You're a woman. A child of 13 can't compete with you. To compete with someone, you have to be evenly matched.

But it's certainly interesting that you could consider it possible.

Why do you? Why do you see this behavior as hostile and jealous? Why haven't you seen that instead of "competing" with you, your daughter is flattering you?

She isn't interested in cutting you out with your friends. She's interested in the approval of people for whom you feel friendship and respect.

That's not competition. It's trust of mother. How quick we are to belittle importance to children! Buddy has a tantrum never because he has been denied the ball of our genuine attention but because he's "frustrated" over breaking a toy.

Linda blows up at us never because we are the people she can trust with her discouragement but because she is "adolescent."

A daughter tries to make friends with our friends never because she trusts our judgment but because she is "competitive." Really, these days our heads are so stuffed with bargain basement psychology that our hearts haven't a chance to make themselves heard.

Your friends, madam, will stop criticizing your daughter's behavior when you do. The moment you see it as an appealing need to share in what mother enjoys, they will find it appealing too.

But Be Sure . . . Abby

Give 'Em Enough Rope, Dear

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if this is a coincidence or not, but lately my husband has been making up excuses to go out after supper.

I don't like to be left alone, and I can't go anywhere because we have a baby, so I call up my girl friend to ask her to come over and keep me company

Whenever I call her and my husband is gone, she isn't home either. When my husband is home so is she. What do you make of it?

SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: If you want to hang this couple on circumstantial evidence, just give them both a little more rope.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 19 years of age and working. She recently complained that when we serve wine or mixed drinks at home (usually only when we have guests) we either do not offer her any or else her father says "You don't care for any, do you? Do you think she could wait a year or two longer? We do. D. S.

DEAR D. S.: Today's 19-year-old deserves the dignity of adult treatment. I, too, would prefer that she "wait"

But in her own home she should be given the chance to make her own decision.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26, married and have a daughter.

My mother had told me that sex before marriage was wrong, but when I asked her why, she said, "Because I said so." There were never any explanations.

I think if I had known WHY sex should wait until after marriage, it would have changed my life. My husband doesn't respect me.

He said at the time it would prove I loved him, but now he tells me a tramp and he will never trust me. I have never been unfaithful to him and never will be.

I am saving your columns to my daughter, Abby. Mothers can tell daughters things, but coming from you it means more. I want more than anything else in the world to see my daughter walk down the aisle in white.

Queen Mother Has Ball Invading Men's Domain

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Mother Elizabeth shot pool with the boys last night and made an historic invasion of the male domain at the Queen Mother's Billiard Club.

The Queen Mother deftly aimed the cue and made like Willie Keen, the late billiards expert. Whether she sank any balls or not was not disclosed, but in the consensus of the boys, she is an expert shot. One of the pool-players remarked: "The queen mother obviously has played before."

Before the game, the mother of the present Queen Elizabeth II strolled through the bar, making her in the memory of club veterans — the first woman in history to invade the hallowed ground.

This was no dive the queen mother was in. In fact, it was a very elegant spot on Fleet Street, Britain's newspaper row.

The 60-year-old widow decided to make the ceremonial visit with her daughter and her husband, Prince Philip, at an estate tour of Asia and the middle East.

MEMBERS AGHAST
The grizzled members of the dark and unventilated London Press Club, where women are not permitted under usual circumstances, were aghast when they saw the queen mother's visit. Nearly 3,000 of them decorated the club, and on the wall — usually reserved for prominent male members — was a floral plaque.

There were carpets all over the floors. However, the red carpet outside the entrance was just a little too much for some of the members.

In came the gentle, smiling woman after being greeted outside by signs which said: "Fleet Street welcomes the Queen mother."

She drank sherry with the 100 members present who had drawn lots for the privilege of being in the club for the occasion.

When she came to the billiard room, she gladly accepted a cue stick and made her shot. That did it. All male resistance to the interloper melted and the members cheered loud and long as she left — something that has almost never been done in the tradition-steeped, mousy club.

Only a wife would tell a man: "You're telling the story all wrong. It didn't happen that way at all. I distinctly remember..."

"Remember—you're not as young as you used to be."
"I don't think you've heard a word I've been saying."

"You're not going to tell that story, again? I'm sure everybody here has heard it at least once."
"The trouble with you is..."

"You certainly do need a hair-cut."
"If you had listened to me this never would have happened."

"Where in the world did you get that tie?"
"Do you mind if I exchange your gift for something I really need?"

"Why don't we just call in a hairdresser?"

End Meetings for February.
The two groups of the Golden Age Club have completed February meetings. Pontiac Young Women's Christian Association sponsors the club.

Mrs. Victor Lindquist presented "Musical Thoughts for Lent" and Mrs. Russell Curtis read excerpts which she titled "Plants Grow Toward the Light" for the gatherings. Plans for the March meetings were outlined.

Hostesses were Mrs. Raymond Meiser, Vera Bassett, Mrs. Merle McManna, Mrs. Stener Anderson and Mrs. Harry Yeager.

Others were Mrs. Emerson Gordon, Mrs. Fred Voelker, Mrs. Frank Kirby, Mrs. Everett Russell and Agnes Hilton.

Garden Club Sees Slides of Flowers
The Lorraine Manor Garden Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Cullen on Lorberta Lane, Waterford Township. Mrs. Fred Bamforth was cohostess.

Mrs. Lewis C. Dibble of the Birmingham branch, WNF&G commented on colored slides of flowers and flowering shrubs shown by her husband.

Business Women See Pontiac Film at Hotel Dinner

Forty members of the Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club attended a dinner meeting Tuesday at the Hotel Waldron. George W. Crabtree of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce presented the color film, "The Pontiac Story of Progress and Promise."

The brochures and forms prepared by Mrs. William Salles and Josephine Seelye of the Scholarship committee were examined and evaluated.

Assisting Mrs. M. D. Stapp with the social hour and while elephant sale were Mrs. George Agnew, Jane Danton and Miss Seelye. Guests were Mrs. W. R. Kemp, Mrs. Florence Varian, Mrs. Elsie M. Best, Margaret Harris, Bonnie Davidson, Frances Capucille and Mrs. James Cook of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Ray Fleming Opens Her Home

The Pontiac Union of the Women's Christian Temperance Union met for a school-junior luncheon and sewing session at the home of Mrs. Ray E. Fleming on Cottage Street.

Lap robes and sewing kits for the U.S. Veteran's Hospital at Grand Rapids were completed. Mrs. Roy Forbender gave devotion. Mrs. George Stiles and Mrs. Eldon Sweeney sang a duet with Mrs. Stiles at the piano.

Soapy Claps, Sings ... Trouble I've Seen

LEOPOLDVILLE. The Congo on G. Mennen Williams, former governor of Michigan, joined a choir of Congolese schoolboys Thursday in singing "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen." The choir started to serenade Williams with a painstaking rendition. After a couple of moments of listening to the awkward English, the U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs threw back his head and joined the singing.

Williams and his wife, on a five-day visit to the Congo, visited the American Baptist mission station at Sona Eita, 60 miles south of Leopoldville.

In open-necked sport shirt and slacks, Williams clapped to the pounding rhythm of a Bakongo tribal chant as 30 teen-age girls danced around him in a tight circle.

He visited a Congolese family in their grass-covered hut near the village, kneeling down on the dirt floor to talk with beaming, shiny-faced children.

The children understood his excellent French, but had trouble understanding the not-so-good greeting in Lingala that he had rarely memorized.

High spot of the day for his wife Nancy seemed to be discovering that the latest clothes fad among teen-age Congolese girls is not so very unlike what the girls wear in Michigan—blouses with words and slogans written on them. But here in the Congo, the words are "Kasavubu," "Mobutu," "Independence" and "Bakongo."

Sounds Sour Note for June Graduates

CHICAGO (UPI) — An employment expert has predicted jobs will be more scarce for June graduates than at any time in the past 12 years.

Richard D. Gleason, president of Richard D. Gleason Associates, told a businessmen's meeting that "to get started on the right road to a satisfying career, students will have to promote every tangible and intangible asset they have."

The dangerous person is the one who goes to a cocktail party, not to drink, but to listen. One of the first things a visitor notices in a so-called backward country is that the children are still obeying their parents.—Earl Wilson.

Skippers Plan Swingin' Dance

Sophs Choose Modern Jazz Setting for
'Swing Lo' Saturday

By BARR SECAN

Couples at Waterford Township High School will dance to recorded music tomorrow night at "Swing Lo," a dance sponsored by the sophomore class.

Decorations for the dance are based on a modern jazz theme.

The gymnasium will be high-lighted by huge, minimal puppets, suspended from the ceiling, and the walls will be decorated with silhouettes of records and musical instruments.

Featured in a brief program will be Doug Stranahan, Jim Luzzo, and Skip Darimont in a bongo trio. The dance is from 8-11, dress is casual, and everyone is invited to attend. Tickets are 40 cents drive and 25 cents stag and will be available at the door.

In order to acquaint her students with the process of the publication of a newspaper, Mrs. Shure toured with her Journalism II students to the Detroit News today.

The students traveled on a chartered bus to Detroit and spent the day visiting the building and newspaper workers.

Waterford played host to Pontiac Northern and Farmington for the Inter-Lakes Talent Assembly last week.

Aside from being entertained by some fine acts from their guests, the W.T.H.S. audience witnessed the performance of some talent from their own school.

Contributions from Waterford were a solo by Marlene Colgrove, a selection by a vocal trio, a skating act by Viera London, and several numbers by the "Invictas."

Auction Unclaimed Items at Emmanuel

By KATHY MAKEE

All unclaimed articles in the lost and found department at Emmanuel Christian School were auctioned to the student body Wednesday.

This gala event was conducted by Tom Sutton, a most successful auctioneer, who is to be congratulated.

His two helpers, George Crawford and Bob Wisner, are also to be commended for their splendid assistance.

Miss Loomis, third grade home-room teacher, who was in charge of the lost and found, was the overseer of this unusual idea.

All of the proceeds went to the third grade class treasury.

Honor Pupils Named

Students who recently were named to the honor roll at the Dominican Academy in Oxford are: Germaine Bliz, Judith DeRycke, Sue Hoshield, Rita James, Bonita Lipari, Karen O'Leary, Dorene Pokorny, Janice Roberts, Sandra Smith and Gloria Wodek.

MAKE DECORATIONS — It takes just about everything from paper-mache to chicken wire to decorate a gymnasium for a big dance. These Oxford High School students are a few of those who have been working overtime this week in preparation for tomorrow night's dance, "Where or When." Fixing the fixtures are (from left) David Kenny of 964 S. Washington St., Nancy Dunn of 3075 Baldwin Road, and Ken Mapley of 88 S. Washington St. The dance, first to be held in the Oxford High gymnasium, is being sponsored by the senior class. Proceeds will go toward the class trip to Washington, D.C., this spring.

Second Annual Playnight Tomorrow at Clarkston

By JANET TESCH

Free entertainment and loads of fun will be the key factors of the Second Annual Playnight, to be sponsored by the Clarkston High School Varsity Club, March 4.

All Varsity Club members and their dates are invited to attend and enjoy an evening of dancing, basketball, table tennis, badminton, volleyball, shuffle board, and use of the trampoline.

The playnight will be from 7:30 to 11 in the high school gymnasium.

Members of the student government and faculty have chosen the 1961 Who's Who awards from students who placed on the first semester honor roll.

Along with being on the honor roll these students were chosen because they have shown leadership, cooperation, citizenship, dependability, emotional stability, self-respect and loyalty during the school year.

Clarkston High School feels the winners should be commended for receiving this honor.

Linda Jean Chapman, Dick Mickin, Judge Pile, Lynn Elsworth, Nancy Stanquits, and Dan Craven were the students chosen for the honor from each of the classes.

Bloomfield Hills Completes Plans for Co-op Dance

By DICK NETTLE

Preparations are being completed for "Summer Madness," a cooperative dance between Bloomfield Hills High, Seaholm and Groves High Schools in Birmingham.

The dance will take place at Birmingham Community House on Saturday, March 11.

Next Wednesday, area adults and students are in for some fine music and a treat, when Karl Hass, music director of WJLB Radio, comes to BHHS at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are needed for admission, but the admission is free. A big turnout is expected.

Rehearsing Play at Brandon High

Cost of 29 Planning
March 24 Staging of 'Time Out for Ginger'

By LORETTA CORLEY

Rehearsals are under way for the Brandon High School production of Ronald Alexander's comedy, "Time Out for Ginger," scheduled for presentation March 24 and 25.

With "double-casting" of the girls' parts, Mr. Moore has included a cast of 29 from all classes, freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

The play, under the direction of Lee Moore, portrays a household in comical chaos as the result of Howard Carol's speech to the high school against gym classes for girls, and his daughter Ginger's dream to play on the school football team.

1st Gymnasium Dance at Oxford Tomorrow Night

By LINDA JACOB

The seniors at Oxford High School will present the first dance to be held in the gymnasium tomorrow night at 8:30.

Dances were previously held in the student center but to accommodate a larger crowd the gymnasium will be used.

The memory dance, "Where or When," will feature top tunes of the past four years plus the top tunes of today.

As an added attraction, the Escapades, a group of five from Ferndale, will be at the dance to entertain.

The proceeds will go to active seniors who sold tickets or worked on the different dance committees. Each senior is trying to earn money for the trip to Washington, D.C., planned for May.

PLANNING PROMS
Committees are working steadily now on plans for both Junior and Senior proms.

Kathy Murphy and Sharon Wheeler head the former group, while Carolyn Mills and Rich Gould hold the reins for the soon-to-be graduates.

St. Mike's, St. Fred's Students Well Tested

By MARY ELLEN DETMER

Students at St. Fred's High School are in for a big day of testing this coming Tuesday. Seniors have been studying for the Senior Review for the last month. This test is composed of English, math, geography and spelling.

It's a requirement of the school for graduation to pass the review with a B.

The juniors' test will last the full day as they will be taking the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

In this, the students are rated on a national basis with other juniors. Scoring is on the percentage basis where 50 would mean that 50/100ths of the nation's juniors are below you.

Anyone lucky enough to get in the 90th percentile is entitled to take another test for a college scholarship.

The National Educational Development Test will be given to the sophomores and freshmen.

Scoring is done on the same basis as the merit test and gives them a good idea of how they stand nationwide.

Results are expected to be returned by next September.

Plans for the prom can now take a definite shape.

In the first place, to be able to even have a prom the tickets had to all be bought and sold. A goal of $400 was set. Tuesday everyone rejoiced at meeting the goal, and the prom date was set for May 12.

Wednesday of this week the seniors were measured for their caps and gowns—just another step closer to that longed for graduation day.

By PAT BURNS

Tests are never ending at St. Mike's High School and most students are aware of the fact that they have the opportunity to compete in three educational and scholarship tests this week and next.

Yesterday, math students participated in the Mathematics Prize Competition sponsored by colleges, universities, professional and industrial organizations in Michigan.

This statewide mathematics competition is intended to foster a wider interest in mathematics and to focus attention on the importance of mathematics.

The two hour examination is based on the subject matter of the four-year high school mathematics curriculum.

Students who took the test are eligible for a college scholarship and other outstanding awards.

Seniors who entered the competition are David Baumgartner, Pat Burns, Russel Greenlee, Judy Stickey, Margaret Warden and Mike Wysocki.

Juniors are Rodney Campbell, Jim Hurten, Stuart Rindusz and Mike Zuzack.

Next Tuesday, the junior class will be absorbed in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test sponsored by the Science Research Association.

The freshmen and sophomores have not been neglected.

They will participate in the National Educational Development Test.

The tests will prove an aid to the realistic appraisal of educational and vocational objectives.

Other committee chairmen for the juniors are Sharon Fidler, Nancy Norberg, Linda Larson, April Krups, Mike Rihari, Chris Payne, and Terry Patterson.

Working for the upper classes are Sharon McWethy, Barb Berryman, Lynda Hogg, Barb Everett, Janet Haldane, Jerry Bell, and Dave Everett.

As yet, prom themes have not been chosen, although the dates are set. The Junior Prom will be held May 13, while the seniors celebrate on June 18.

More information should be forthcoming in the next few weeks.

SLATE CO-OP CONFAB

The members of Northern's Co-op Club are awaiting the Annual State Spring Conference at Michigan State University April 11.

Ralph W. Rotzel, head of the school placement office, is the man who makes it possible for students to obtain jobs through the club.

Speaking of the coming convention, he says, "A conducted tour of Oldsmobile and the State Capitol will be of interest to many members."

Jeanne Popour, a senior, is general chairman for Northern for an Employer-Employee Banquet which will be held in May at Deven Gables.

Northern was well represented, both vocally and instrumentally at the recent Solo and Ensemble Festival.

Vocally, the "Crystallines," and soloists Pam Huntley and Marvyl Simpson all were rated "Superb."

Annual Retreat at Houghton

PCH Ski Club Enjoying Weekend Trip

By BARR GRIFFIN

Seventeen members of the Pontiac High School Ski Club are off to Houghton Lake to enjoy a weekend of skiing and fun.

For their annual retreat the skiers will stay at the Houghton Snow-Bowl ski resort.

The group will travel to the ski area and back by bus. They will ski all day tomorrow and Sunday and relax at a dance tomorrow night at the lodge.

Members of the club ski meet every Wednesday after school at Grampian Mountain or Mount Holly. The only requirement to go on the retreat is to have skied at least three times with the club.

Skiing this weekend at Houghton will be Carol Raynes, Ron Jackson, Phil Thingstad, Betty Hiltz, Sue Lee, Marilyn Schram, Dana Jelsch, Irene Reed, Paula Shingledecker and Jim Baker.

Others are Gary Henry, Jo Chase, Joe Patterson, Sue Dailey, Donna Heimkamp, Gazi Massi and Mary Shadley.

Pontiac Central's newly formed male chorus, the Caribbeans, presented an assembly at Washington Junior High School Wednesday morning. This group of 40 boys performed in two different settings.

To open the program they were featured singing spirituals, directed by A. Michael Dempsey, dressed in dark suits.

In the Caribbean sequence, directed by Jerry Libby, the boys were attired in bright shirts, white beachcoats, and straw hats and sang to the accompaniment of a string bass, drums, guitar and a flute.

The Caribbeans also gave an assembly for the student body of Pontiac Northern High School two weeks ago. The Senior Girls Ensemble and the Senior Boys Ensemble performed with the chorus at both schools.

Officers of the Caribbeans are Jim Baker, president; Ed Bradley, vice president; and John Kimbell, secretary-treasurer. Accompanist of the group is Karen Bronzel.

SENIOR PROM

June 3 is the date set by the senior class for their senior prom. At a recent meeting, committee chairmen were elected and seniors volunteered for committees.

Co-chairmen of the prom are Peggy Warren and Loreta Neaschke.

Committee heads include Sandy Curran, tickets; Cynthia Hanz and Jane Charles, decorations; Bruce Norvel, music; and Kathy Calhoun, patrons.

The low-price compact that looks and drives like twice the price!

Valiant's the compact that rarely complains

(just like the Valiant owners you know!)

What makes Valiant, and the people who own it, so easy going?

For one thing, nagging annoyances that beset many other car bodies have been engineered out of Valiant's one-piece welded Unibody. And out where the road bumps are, Valiant's Torsion-Aire suspension stays smooth as milk 'n' honey.

Remember, too, Valiant's low prices begin $100 lower than last year. And because Valiant's built the way it is, it's bound to rate high at resale time.

For looks and liveliness, for long life and low cost, the top compact this year is Valiant. Come see the man who sells them!

Income Tax Time... No. 5

Two Methods to Report Expense Accounts

This is the fifth of eight articles in the newspaper's "Income Tax Time" series. The series will deal with recent rulings and developments which may save you money and trouble when you file your return.

By RICHARD A. MULLENS

One of the new tax laws passed by Congress in 1950 directed a study to be made by the Treasury Department and certain tax experts on the results of the Internal Revenue Service drive to tighten up the requirements for deducting travel and entertainment expenses.

The study is to be reported to the present Congress. If it discloses that there are still substantial abuses in the deduction of entertainment expenses, new legislation may be enacted.

To crack down on employee expense account abuses, the Internal Revenue Service drew up some new rules which became fully effective in 1960.

Under these rules, employees are divided into two categories as follows:

Employees who were required to and did submit an expense account voucher or other accounting to their employers which listed their business expenses.

Employees who were not required to or did not account to their employer for business expenses.

If you fall in the second category, then you must use Form 1040 or Form 1040 and you must attach thereto a statement showing:

1. The total of all amounts received as advances or reimbursements, including amounts directly or indirectly charged to the employer through the use of credit cards.
2. Your occupation, the number of days away from home on business, and the total amount of business expenses paid or incurred in 1960.

The expenses must be broken down into broad classifications like transportation, meals and lodging away from home overnight, entertainment expenses, and other business expenses.

If the advances or reimbursements received from your employer exactly equal your business expenses, it is not necessary to make any further entry on the tax return.

If the employee's payments to you exceeded your business expenses, the excess must be reported as income on Page 1 of Form 1040 or 1040W.

If your expenses exceeded the employer's payments, the excess may be deducted as provided on page 6 of the 1040 instructions and page 3 of the 1040W instructions.

The above rules do not apply to employees who are required to submit detailed expense accounts to their employers and receive only enough to cover their expenses.

It is not necessary for such employees to attach any statement or list their business expenses on the return, and they are free to use either of the three return forms.

Where reimbursements exceed expenses, Form 1040 or 1040W must be filed and the excess must be included in the employee's income.

Q. The president of our company draws about $1,000 each month for expenses but never submits a statement as to how he spends that money. Does he have to account to Internal Revenue?

A. Yes. Under these circumstances, the president would have to submit an accounting for the expense account money he receives with his income tax return.

Q. I was paid $15 per day by my employer while I was away from home on a business trip. I stayed with a relative and paid nothing for food and lodging while on the trip. Do I have to include the $15 per day in income?

A. Yes. Any amount received for expenses in excess of the amount actually spent is considered income.

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy, the wife of the President, has accepted appointment as honorary national crusade chairman of the American Cancer Society's educational and fund-raising campaign scheduled in April.

Urges Crackdown on ADC 'Chiseling'

LANSING (AP)—A crackdown on alleged mothers collecting aid to dependent children was proposed in the House today.

Rep. E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, who sponsored the bill, called it a move against "legalized chiseling."

The measure would not allow ADC benefits for more than two children born out of wedlock if the father cannot be identified.

"This would allow a woman two children, but after that she wouldn't get a penny," said O'Brien.

"I'm not against ADC as such," he said. "It is a necessary thing. But I don't think that the taxpayers should be expected to support the offspring of women who use their babies as a bankroll and means of support."

Money Pours In to Get Mom and Babe Out of Jail

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP)—A young Clovis mother and her baby who went to jail rather than pay a fine she felt was unjust were released Thursday when a local motel owner paid her $12 fine.

Offers to pay the fine and money poured in from all over the U.S.

Mrs. Betty Raines, 26, was turned out after serving three days of her 15-day sentence when the city determined she couldn't refuse the offer of La Vista motel owner Fred Johnston to pay the remainder of her $15 fine for driving with an expired drivers license.

Mrs. Raines' 10-month-old boy Terry went along because he was still nursing. They were placed in a private cell.

Congress Told to Hurry Aid

Goldberg Reports 5.5 Million With No Jobs, Situation Bad

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg told Congress today that immediate action is needed to help the nation's economically depressed areas.

Testifying before the House Banking subcommittee, Goldberg said all information reaching him "emphasizes the gravity of the current unemployment situation." He said fast steps are needed to cope with the problem, which has put 5.5 million people out of work.

The secretary's plan for action came only one day after a Senate subcommittee approved a $394 million loan-and-grant measure to give federal aid to areas of chronic unemployment.

Goldberg said the number of workers drawing unemployment benefits climbed to a record high of 3,422,300 in the week ended Feb. 18.

It was the third week in a row that the jobless benefit total has increased to an all-time high. The newest totals were 31,700 greater than for the preceding week.

New Car Sales Up Nearly 13 Pct. Last of February

DETROIT (AP)—Ward's Automotive Reports said today new car sales may have improved almost 13 per cent in the closing days of February over the mid-month sales rate.

The statistical service said its estimate was based on a survey although final figures will not be available until next week. The new car selling rate in mid-February, as reported by Ward's, was 14,617 daily. A 13 per cent increase would boost this to about 16,500 daily in the Feb. 21-28 period and would give the month an annual daily rate of about 14,633 compared with 14,756 daily in January.

Ward's estimated production this week at 92,530 passenger cars compared with 100,331 last week and 138,513 in the similar week of 1960.

Realtor Can't Explain 2nd Bombing in Year

DETROIT (UPI)—For the second time in less than a year, John C. Gentile was the victim of a bombing.

Gentile's real estate office on Detroit's West Side was blasted last night by a black-powder bomb. No one was injured.

Last April Gentile's home was damaged by a bomb. Gentile, 42, could give police no reason for the attacks.

Have a Refund Coming? Then Pay Up Tax Now

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Internal Revenue Service is speeding up income tax refunds as part of the administration effort to pump more money into the economy, the White House reported today.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said both President Kennedy and Internal Revenue Service Director Mortimer Caplin wanted income taxpayers entitled to refunds on 1960 taxes to file their returns as soon as possible. The refunds then can be made early.

HELPING HANDS—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and fireman assist Mrs. Rockefeller over a rope and to a ladder as she escaped from the flaming executive mansion at Albany, N.Y., early today. The governor followed her down the ladder. He estimated total damage at about $500,000.

Accused Child Killer to Get Sanity Test

NEW YORK (AP)—Accused child killer Fred J. Thompson today was ordered to undergo psychiatric tests to see if he is sane enough to face trial on a first degree murder indictment.

The tests will be made at New York's Bellevue Hospital. Meanwhile, his pleading to the indictment was postponed until April 5. A court-appointed attorney asked General Sessions Court Judge Thomas Dickens for the psychiatric examination and the judge approved.

To Set Up Aviation Goals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy announced today he will appoint a task force to set up national aviation goals for the current decade.

OK $600,000 to Combat Wiretapping

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Appropriations Committee voted today to give the State Department $600,000 to combat fantastic new wiretapping techniques which have threatened the security of U.S. embassies abroad.

Officials had testified that a crash program was needed to counteract the new methods. The implication was that the old microphone and its wires hidden behind a picture or under a rug was in the horse and buggy stage compared to modern espionage techniques.

At the same time the committee gave the State Department $22,000 to serve as the entertainment allowance—or "whisky fund"—for the U.S. diplomatic corps in the new African nations. The $22,000 "representation allowance" was a cut from the original $26,000 request.

The committee also approved $15.5 million of the $52 million requested for establishing new African embassies and raising the rank of lesser missions already there.

New State Home Head Named at Mt. Pleasant

LANSING (UPI) — Dr. William L. Harrigan has been named medical superintendent of the Mount Pleasant State Home and Training School by Charles F. Waggoner, director of the State Department of Mental Health.

Harrigan was appointed to replace Dr. Kenneth W. Douglas, who resigned because of ill health. Harrigan joined the staff of the institution in the early 1940s and has been assistant superintendent since 1957, Waggoner said.

Set Arguments in Newberg Suit

Ex-Auto Proxy Asks Chrysler, Be Prevented From Enforcing Pact

DETROIT (AP) — First arguments before a judge in the complex legal maneuverings between Chrysler Corp. and its ex-President, William C. Newberg, were due today in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Visiting Judge Henry L. Beers of Muskegon has scheduled a hearing on a request by Newberg for a temporary injunction restraining Chrysler from enforcing an agreement he made to pay the auto company $455,000.

In his answering brief, Chrysler has asked the court to order Newberg and his wife Dorothy to post a $250,000 surety bond to guarantee payment if Newberg loses his suit which seeks to void the agreement entirely. The Newbergs made a $500,000 payment last July.

Chrysler has two other motions pending. One is a request for the Detroit court to restrain prosecution in Oakland County of a $25 million personal suit by Newberg against L. L. Colbert, Chrysler chairman and president, until the Detroit action is concluded.

The other asks that much of the original Newberg complaint be eliminated as irrelevant and that preliminary questioning be allowed on the remaining portions.

Newberg contends he was coerced and unduly influenced into making the agreement with Chrysler after he was fired last June 30.

Chrysler maintains he acted with the aid and advice of competent attorneys rather than face a recovery suit the auto company says it was prepared to file against him.

Where's Economy Going? It's Anybody's Guess

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — "Stockholders' customers are just as split as the politicians on Capitol Hill as to whether the economy is going—and why."

The question is: Is the downturn in general business activity petering out? If so, when will an upturn be evident? And what will the government do about hastening it.

LEADS TO HEAVY TRADE

The last question causes the widest split in Wall Street opinion. Strong opposing views on what the government will do and what the effects will be have led to the heavy trading of late in the stock market. The evidence of the split is shown in the relatively unimpressive changes in over-all stock prices.

In Washington the game of guessing when the business downturn will end, and why it will, is both economic and political.

President Kennedy stated the administration view in his Wednesday news conference. He hopes—as do many in business—that the economy will move up in the spring and summer. He has no statistical evidence, but an upturn has taken place. Some in Wall Street see a few signs already. He thinks predictions now are premature. Wall Street does not predict a dozen years now.

THOUGHT NECESSARY

And in any case the President thinks his antirecession proposals are still necessary and should be adopted.

But many on Capitol Hill don't think they seem as urgent now. A large portion of business opinion also holds that the economy is set to cure itself shortly.

And in the stock market opinions as to the effects of government measures are widely split. Some think the proposals would be bad for business in the long run after their temporary stimulus wore off. They fear business

Expect Quick Approval for More Rail Idle Pay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Commerce Committee was expected to give swift approval today to a bill providing $24 million in extended jobless benefits to 40,000 unemployed railroad workers.

The measure was designed as a follow-up to a House-passed bill calling for up to 13 weeks of additional benefits for more than 3 million workers in other industries.

GM Output in February Shows Dips

General Motors Corp. has announced its February car output dropped to 209,449 from the 237,331 autos built in the same month of 1960.

All GM car divisions reported reduced output, with Pontiac production falling from 41,710 in February 1960 to 22,987 cars last month.

The division's output consisted of 15,785 Pontiacs and 7,988 Tempests.

GMC Truck & Coach Division output in February was 3,565 compared with 11,789 in the same month last year.

Chevrolet built 118,185 cars last month and 188,184 in February 1960 and Oldsmobile output dipped from 41,192 in February 1960 to 22,822 last month.

Build production fell from 31,071 in February last year to 17,322 last month, and Cadillac output dipped from 16,816 a year ago to 13,527 last month.

Purdue Golden Girl Dies in Coma at 20

LAFAYETTE, IND. (UPI) — Adelaide Darling Avery, the Nation's most famous baton twirler two years ago, died in a hospital Thursday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

The 20-year-old ex-coed, known as "Adelle Darling" at Purdue University, was stricken at her campus apartment Tuesday and never regained consciousness.

For three years, Adelaide was the Purdue band's Golden Girl. She gained fame when her hula dance between halves of the 1958 Purdue-Notre Dame football game drew shocked protests from two other Purdue coeds.

Their letter to the Purdue student newspaper, roused male students to come to Adelaide's defense, and the controversy spread through the Midwest and the nation.

Truckers, Cabs Would Get Break on Point System

LANSING (AP) — Motorists who drive a car or truck for a living will get a break under the state's point system for erring drivers if the legislature approves a bill received in the house.

The measure would increase from 12 to 24 the number of points allowed those who operate a vehicle as a means of support or as a necessary adjunct to their job before their license could be revoked.

"This bill is not intended to give heavily to violators, but should give relief to people who drive more," said Rep. David E. Holmes, D-Detroit, the author.

2,000 Shorn of Voting Rights

Remove Those Who Failed to Ballot in Last 4 Years at Waterford

Waterford Township Clerk James E. Seeterlin has announced that more than 2,000 registered voters, who have not voted within the last four years, have been removed from the township voting file.

Only one full day — Monday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. — remains for registration for the April 3rd election, and so far only 50 people have registered since the November election.

"This is an astonishing fact," Seeterlin said, "as residents will not only choose township officials, but state leaders, as well as two non-partisan Supreme Court judges."

A special service is being offered in Waterford Township. If an invalid or older person is unable to register because of a physical handicap, a township employee is sent to the individual's home to register him or her.

Township voters will also have two major proposals to decide at the April biennial election.

The question of having a township planning commission, and the decision whether to authorize township officials to purchase two future fire station sites.

No registrations will be taken at the township hall Saturday, as all offices are closed. The office will be open until 5 p.m. today.

The Arab population of the world is now estimated at about 50 million.

Detroit Edison guarantees electric water heater satisfaction -or your money back!

Here's how the guarantee works: Buy a flameless electric water heater wherever you see the guarantee seal—at appliance dealers, department stores, plumbing contractors or your Detroit Edison office. Family-test it. Call on it for plenty of hot water, day after day. If at any time within one year after installation you are not satisfied with the heater's performance, just let us know. We'll disconnect it, remove it from your home, and return the full purchase price (including installation cost). The guarantee covers any Edison-approved electric water heater sized according to the recommendations given below, and installed in a dwelling up to and including a four-family in the Detroit Edison service area.

This Edison satisfaction guarantee is in addition to the regular manufacturer's warranty.

So, if you are tired of being half-shaved, half-showered, because of a "half-enough" water heater, now is the time for you to go ELECTRIC!

CITY ZONE

Troy May Take Zoning Rift to Supreme Court

Wants to Establish Right of a City to Enforce Plan

By DON FERMOYLE

TROY — City commissioners here are considering taking a case to the State Supreme Court which could set a precedent in Michigan regarding a city's right to enforce a master zoning plan.

Nearly 2½ hours of discussion at a special study session of the commission last night centered around a suit challenging Troy's zoning ordinance brought by developer Robert L. Silberstein of Detroit.

Reveals Project to Boost State

Swainson Maps 7-Point Plan; Includes Greater Michigan Authority

LANSING — Gov. George W. Swainson today mapped out a seven-point program, including a proposed Greater Michigan Authority, to spur the development of Michigan's great economic potential.

The governor outlined his "guidelines to a greater Michigan" in a special message to the legislature.

"I urge your initiative and cooperation in putting this program into action," he told the lawmakers.

Main feature of the economic growth plan is a proposed authority empowered to make loans to local or regional industrial development groups. It calls for an initial $15-million appropriation for a revolving fund to get the authority into operation.

The governor also urged:

— Lifting of "outdated and restrictive" limitations on community industrial development corporations.

— Merger of the State Department of Economic Development and the State Tourist Council to form a new department of business, industry and tourist development.

— Expansion of the state-owned Institute of Science and Technology at the University of Michigan, enabling it to expand as a center for giving impetus to growth industries which thrive on scientific research and technological advancement.

— Passage of his proposed economic growth act, which includes creation of a council of economic advisers to the governor and a joint legislative committee to recommend measures for economic growth.

— Legislation to encourage activities of small business investment companies.

— Legislative action putting a constitutional amendment on the ballot to implement the proposed authority.

The Greater Michigan Authority, the governor said, would be empowered to make four kinds of loans. To community industrial development corporations "in critical economic areas" it would loan up to 30 per cent of the cost of a new industrial development project.

The community corporation would invest 20 per cent of the cost. Half would be obtained from private sources.

To Be Panel Moderator

LAKE ORION — Verna Kirkpatrick, administrative assistant in the Lake Orion Community Schools, will moderate a panel discussion on television censorship at 8 p.m. Monday at Blanche Sims Elementary School.

The program is sponsored by the school's parent-teacher association, which will hold its annual election of officers prior to the panel discussion.

JUDITH KAREN GARDNER

An early spring wedding is being planned by Judith Karen Gardner and James Lee Wells. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Gardner of 841 Sands Road, Brandon Township. Her fiancé's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Wells of 409 Greens Corners Road, Metamora Township.

Silberstein, who owns 200 acres in the northwestern section of the city near South Boulevard and Coolidge Highway, won his case in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland ruled that Silberstein could not be forced to build homes in his proposed housing development on half-acre lots as required in that part of the city under Troy's present zoning ordinance.

In the city's defense, it was contended that zoning for that area was set up in this manner because the proposed development is located in Troy's Evergreen sanitary sewer district.

The Evergreen system, according to City Attorney Stanley E. Burke, would be inadequate to serve the population which would result from building on lots smaller than a half acre in size.

Judge Holland ruled, in effect, that the city could not force a developer to comply with zoning requirements in an area where maximum population growth may not be reached for some 40 years.

This section of the ruling, Burke asserted, questions a city's right to set up and enforce its own master zoning plan.

However, Burke said the judge indicated in his summary that the case should be tested in the Supreme Court.

'NO FIRM STAND'
Burke stated that the high court in Michigan never has taken a firm stand on a city's right in zoning matters.

He said that in other states already have been established. The attorney mentioned New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Florida and Missouri as examples.

George Villiam, the city's planning consultant who attended the special meeting along with members of Troy's planning commission, said he would be in favor of testing the case in the higher court.

Since the meeting was set up as a study session only, no commission action could be taken on the matter. However, an informal poll of the city planners showed they were also in favor of continuing the case.

Commissioners Roy L. Duncan and Louis Yantke also would like to continue the case because it would cost the city an estimated $3,500 to pursue it in Supreme Court.

Silberstein, who was among the capacity crowd which filled the commission room for the meeting, said the city had no assurance of setting a precedent even if it won an appeal in the higher court.

Lutheran Church Plans Open House

BROOKLANDS — An open house will be conducted at Gethsemane Lutheran Church Sunday at 8:30 p.m. The sermon and object lesson will be given by the Rev. Norman Streiter of Trinity Lutheran Church, Utica.

St. John Lutheran Choir of Rochester will sing. It is directed by Walter Papenberg.

Members of the Gethsemane Evangelism Society will make afternoon calls Sunday to invite area residents to the service. Doris K. Circle will serve light refreshments in the Fellowship Hall following the service.

The church is on Auburn Road near Dequindre Road.

Brooklands-Avon PTA to See Skits

AVON TOWNSHIP — Nine troops of girl scouts and leaders will present a program of songs and skits at the 8 p.m. meeting Wednesday of the Brooklands-Avon Parent-Teacher Association.

The session will be held in the multipurpose room of Brooklands School.

Scout leaders and mothers will have their annual bazaar sale immediately after the program. Mrs. George Holtz is neighborhood chairman.

Second grade mothers will serve refreshments.

SELECT 2,000 BOOKS—West Bloomfield Township Librarian Edward Melanson and Mrs. Arthur B. Mowrey (right), library trustee, meet with Betty McKinley, state library consultant, in Lansing to select 2,000 volumes for loan to the township library when it opens in new quarters later this month at 3030 Orchard Lake Road. The new books, on loan for a three-year period, will be delivered next month. Currently there are 85,000 books on loan to 80 public libraries throughout the state.

Bloomfield Twp. Man Dies After Crash

A 49-year-old Bloomfield Township man died early today in William Beaumont Hospital from injuries sustained in a Southfield auto accident Tuesday.

Fatally injured was Norman A. Rowe of 1045 Kimberlake Road. He died at 7:15 a.m. without regaining consciousness.

Southfield Police said Rowe was traveling north on Lahar Road, when his car apparently went out of control and hit a tree on the opposite side of the road.

The accident occurred just south of 12 Mile Road shortly before midnight.

John Kent Awaiting Dem Honor

John Kent worked himself to a frazzle electing President John F. Kennedy and Gov. John B. Swainson in his Pontiac precinct. He also worked himself into the hospital.

But Kent, 56, of 246 Ferry Ave., was hoping to be released today from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, so he can celebrate in person his "big night" tomorrow night.

He'll be honored in Detroit as Oakland County's outstanding Democratic precinct worker during last year's important November election.

He's been in the hospital eight days suffering from arthritis, high blood pressure and "a bad case of nerves," he said.

His work in Precinct 27 of the city increased the Democratic gubernatorial vote Nov. 8 by 9.6 per cent from 1958 returns, party officials said.

State Democrats will honor Kent, a Pontiac Motor Division elevator operator for 27 years, and other campaign workers from around Michigan at the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner at the Light Guard Armory.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall will speak. Some 200 county Democrats are expected to attend the 6:30 affair.

Board of Review to Air Assessment Complaints

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — The board of review will be at the township hall on Main Street in Clarkston from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. next Tuesday and Wednesday and the same hours on March 13 and 14.

Any township resident who feels he has been unjustly assessed may have a hearing before the three-member board, and review and inspect the 1961 assessment roll, according to Duane Hursfall, township supervisor.

LONDON (UPI)—New Zealand has doubled its auto "population" since 1930 and for the first time has licensed more than half-a-million cars.

6,000 Reds Clap to the Beat Love U. of M. Music

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Russians, the University of Michigan symphonic band has discovered, like Gershwin, the Michigan Victory March, and lots of cynical-banging football game music.

Frederick Moncreiff, band manager, has called university officials at Ann Arbor, Mich., for additional Gershwin orchestrations.

Following the Victory March, the touring students found, the Russians like George Gershwin's "Summertime" best. His music has been increasingly popular in the Soviet Union since an American troupe toured the country doing the Gershwin-Hayward opera Porgy and Bess a few years ago.

The band's repertoire had been heavily weighted with the classics, but the students are changing in midair to satisfy the Russian demand.

Moncreiff said as the repertoire has changed with available scores audience response has improved. The band got a wild reception at its final Moscow concert Thursday night.

An audience of some 6,000, including musicians from the U.S.S.R. State Symphony, de-manned 45 minutes of encores after the regular program.

Halfway through the Michigan Victory March the audience began clapping in time to the music.

Fire Fatal to Two in Saginaw Suburb

SAGINAW (UPI) — Two persons were killed early today when fire swept a house in suburban Buena Vista Township.

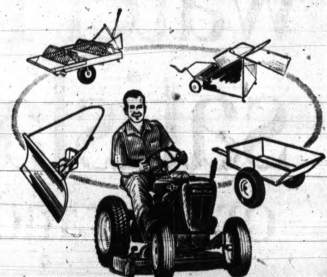

The victims were Albert Jones, 60, and his grandson, Preston Albert Jones, 5. Jones' wife Mary fled safely from the flames. The Jones were baby-sitting with their grandson.

County 4-H Members to Mark Special Week

The nearly 1,500 4-H Club members in Oakland County will join their over 2 million fellow members in America in the observance of National 4-H Club Week which begins tomorrow and lasts through March 10.

Numbers of area clubs have planned special programs to mark the week-long event.

For example, East Orion 4-H Club, one of the biggest and most active in the county, will hold its Family and Community Night at 8 p.m. March 11 at Lake Orion Junior High School.

The occasion will feature a pre-achievement program, which will be a preview of County 4-H Achievement Day, March 28. It will include exhibits, reports of work accomplished by club members and recognition of leaders who have made outstanding contributions to the club during the past year.

The Galloway Lake Club also is working on preliminary plans for a similar program later this month.

Another club, the Clarkston Happy Helpers, already has staged its pre-achievement day.

Oakland County's theme this year will be "Let's Join a 4-H Club."

At present there are more than 60 4-H clubs in the county, according to 4-H Club Agent Jack Worthington. He also reported that some 240 men and women serve as community and project leaders for the boys and girls enrolled in club work.

Although 4-H in its origin was composed primarily of farm boys and girls, the situation is quite different today. Oakland County has only 25 per cent rural youth in the program.

The law states that any boy or girl between 10 and 21 years of age may join 4-H, according to Worthington.

The work is conducted on a community basis with a planned program including project work, recreation, and activities such as health, safety, conservation, courtesy and grooming.

Worthington reports that more adult leaders are needed to work with boys and girls who want to take part in 4-H Club activities but are unable to because of the lack of adult leadership. Anyone interested in offering his services is asked to contact Worthington at the Cooperative Extension Service Office in Pontiac.

The nearly 70 projects available deal with practically every phase of farming and homemaking, according to Worthington. Many of the projects require little, if any expense to the member, he said.

County members have participated in such events as National 4-H Club Week, State 4-H Club Week, community, district and state achievement programs, American Royal and International 4-H Conference and 4-H Sunday during 1960.

They also have taken part in the county recognition program, the International Farm Youth Exchange Program (IFYE) and Share-The-Fun Program as well as attended 4-H Camp.

JUDITH ANN DICKERSON

Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Dickerson of Detroit, formerly of Clarkston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith Ann to Clayton Dennis Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gamble, formerly of South Lyon. A June 17 wedding is planned.

Registration Deadline Set in Independence

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Clerk Harold Doebler has informed township residents that they have until 8 p.m. Monday to register for the biennial spring election to be held April 3.

The township will not receive registrations tomorrow.

Since the November presidential election only six or seven people have registered, Doebler said.

He added, "We don't look for many more. . . our big rush was during August and October." Some 800 residents registered at that time.

The news is getting around

Now there's a cure for crabgrass

Crabgrass has frayed more tempers and ruined more lawns than any other lawn problem in history. Yet crabgrass can be cured. Not by back-breaking labor, but by a single, pre-season application of amazing HALTS®. HALTS was developed by Scott's research to kill crabgrass as it sprouts—without damage to good grass. In fact, HALTS is so compatible with grass, you can actually seed the same day! HALTS effectiveness has been proved by nearly a million homeowners. Today, if you hear someone complain about crabgrass ruining their lawn, you can bet they haven't discovered HALTS. Isn't it time you did?

Pontiac Has 60 Teams in Event at Cobo Hall

Competition Will Start Saturday and Continue 79 Days

By CHUCK ABRAH
 Over 900 Oakland County bowlers are getting set to compete among 2,500 in the 50th annual American Bowling Congress Tournament which starts tomorrow at Cobo Hall.

The local breakdown during the 79-day event will include 165 teams, 96 doubles pairs, 189 in singles and 161 in all events.

Pontiac heads the pack with 60 teams, 24 doubles combinations, 48 in singles and 41 for all events followed by Royal Oak, Rochester, Walled Lake, Union Lake, Southfield, Troy, Birmingham, Clarkston, Lake Orion, Milford, Orionville, Oak Park, Northville, Madison Heights, Lathrup Village, Huntington Woods, Hazel Park, Ferndale, Farmington, Berkley and Clawson are other county places to be represented during the contest.

Area leagues will get into the swing of things starting Monday and continue through May 20.

Calbi Music Company of Pontiac, captained by George Chiochi, and Birmingham's A & A Asphalt Paving Co. are scheduled Monday night. The latter team was open champion last year but has new personnel this season led by captain Brad Springer. All will bowl their doubles and singles Tuesday.

Biggest Pontiac day in the battle for $462,032.50 in prize money will be April 1 when the Pontiac Motor Bowler Division Squad takes over the 40 tournament lanes.

Men from 47 states, the District of Columbia, Canada and Puerto Rico will be taking part in sports' biggest participation meet. It is Detroit's 5th tourney.

The big opening night program features the debut of the new classic division, the ABC Masters title, the U.S. Collegiate championships and the ABC finals which will be some of the many highlights.

"Joe Bowler" will be crowned by Miss Detroit featuring the annual opening night program starting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. Classic action begins Wednesday with almost every big star in the nation rolling for 80 of the best teams in the country. They will include current "Bowler of the Year" Don Carter, defending Masters' king Bill Golembewski, All-Star winner Bill Tucker, Billy Weil, captain of the national team champion St. Louis Fallstaff group, Ned Day, Buddy Roman and many others.

The Masters duel will be held May 6-10, the college final March 26-27 and the ABC kids go at it next Wednesday and March 14. Broken down, the ABC entry list includes 6,218 teams, 10,744 doubles tandems, 21,696 in singles and 19,222 in all events.

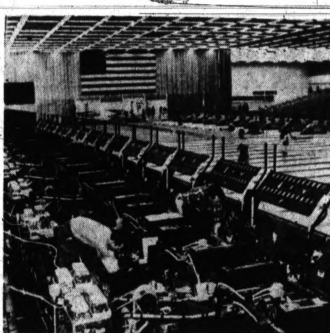

Tourney favorite Buckner Jr. moved into the finals of the Class B City League basketball playoffs Thursday night with a convincing 85-56 rout of Perry Park in the Pontiac Central gym.

Nick Neira pumped 34 points through the bucket and teammate Jerry Paul added 23 as Buckner raced to a 22-4 first-period bulge and coasted home. Jerry still scored 18 points for Perry Park.

In yesterday's other "B" playoff game, Clarkston Methodist ousted the Auburn Heights Merchants from the double elimination event with a 65-55 win. Bob Yahne tallied 14 points to pace Clarkston's success while Bill Davis took individual honors by netting 26 for the Merchants.

Next Monday's tournament schedule:

At Pontiac Central—Newman AME vs. 109 Lions, 8:30 p.m.

READY FOR ASSAULT—Workmen make final adjustments on the automatic pinsetters recently installed in Detroit's Cobo Hall for Saturday's opening of the American Bowling Congress tournament. About 32,000 contestants are expected to participate during the 79-day event. Oakland County has 165 team entries.

Indiana Ahead by 1 in Big Ten Tank Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—With two events out of the way — and Big Ten swimming records smashed in each—seven more finals are on tap tonight in the Western Conference championships. Indiana's Hoosiers hold a point edge as they try for their first tank title ever.

Time trials were to be run this afternoon in the 200-yard butterfly, 50-yard freestyle, 200-yard backstroke, 220-yard freestyle, 200-yard breaststroke and 400-yard freestyle. Final events are slated for 8 p.m. Qualifying for one-meter diving was held last night and those finals also are being staged today.

Indiana, which has no divers in the finals, ended yesterday's opening round with 56 1/2 points. Michigan was second with 25, Minnesota third with 12, Michigan State fourth with 12 1/2, Iowa fifth with 5 1/2, Ohio State sixth with 5 and Illinois seventh with 2 1/2.

The Hoosiers snapped up both Big Ten records broken yesterday. Allan Somers won the 1,500-meter freestyle in 17:49.3, bettering the old mark of 18:11.5 set by Ohio State's Ford Kono in 1952. And Joe Roethlis swam the 200-yard individual medley in 2:04.0 to crack the 2:05.6 record set in the qualifying round by Indiana's Chet Jastremski. The latter broke the 2:05.6 record.

If dancing with Eleanor Powell is the type of exercise conducive to winning fights, the cunning operatives in the gambling game may be overlooking something when they make champion Gene Fulmer the favorite in Saturday night's middleweight championship match.

Robinson, training at one of the casinos in this hotbed of gambling, not only danced a soft shoe routine with Miss Powell in his final workout yesterday, but skipped rope to the accompaniment of a jazz band.

It's Bucyk 3, Howe 1; Bruins 4, Red Wings 2

BOSTON (AP)—Gordie Howe made it again, but not the Detroit Red Wings.
 Howe slammed in his 20th goal in the third period last night. It marked the 12th consecutive season for the big Wing to reach the 20-goal mark. It was his 466th regular season goal.

But the Boston Bruins slammed Detroit 4-2 as Johnny Bucyk unloaded the three-goal hat trick against his former mates.

Bucyk's barrage came within six minutes and followed an Andre Promissey score to give the Bruins a 4-0 second period lead. Detroit became mired deeper in fourth place in the National Hockey League, but is virtually assured of a Stanley Cup playoff berth.

Bucyk's first goal came off a pass from Jerry Toppazzini and scored on a goal by Hank Bassen at 9:30 of the second period. Bucyk intercepted a pass and took a return flip from Don McKenney and fired into an open net at 13:05.

His 16th goal of the season came at 14:56 when he faked Bassen and fired to the near side instead of passing to McKenney.

It was Bucyk's third hat trick of his major league career. He came to Boston four years ago in a trade for goalie Terry Sawchuk.

The Wings play at Montreal tomorrow night.

The New York Rangers dropped a 7-1 decision to the Chicago Black Hawks in the only other game. The Hawks' Eric Nesterenko once scored twice in Chicago's triumph over New York.

Ab McDonald got the Hawks' only marker. Andy Bathcote scored the Rangers' lone goal.

Three Golfers Share 1st Place

Palmer and 9 Others Two Strokes Behind at New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Big Julius Boros—and big is the word with about 225 pounds under his belt—shared the lead with two others today heading into the second round of the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Invitational golf tournament.

The trio could be a bit uneasy with tournament favorite Arnold Palmer, the Pennsylvania polo player who was "Mr. Everything" in golf last year, just a couple of strokes behind.

Boros, who celebrated his 41st birthday today, tied 25-year-old Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., and Doug Sanders, the 27-year-old Ohio, Calif., professional with the hesitating swing, in Thursday's first round.

Boros was an early starter Thursday and his four-under-par 33-38 looked like it might stand by itself for some time. But Pott and Sanders came in as long shadows stretched across the soggy 6,589-yard City Park No. 1 course and tied the veteran Mid Pine, N.C., pro.

The 31-year-old Palmer, attracting a gallery like bargain hunters at a fire sale, had his troubles and finishes with 36-34-70 to tie nine others. But with three days of golf ahead, the field kept a wary eye on Palmer, now leading money winner on the winter tour.

The Lochmoor Club in Grosse Pointe Woods will host the 1962 United States Golf Assn. Junior amateur championship Aug. 1-4.

The fourth annual Region 10 football clinic, arranged by the Michigan High School Coaches Assn., will be at Flint Southwestern April 7-8. Warren H. Schmalk, line coach at Rutgers University, and Andy MacDonell, who just resigned at Flint Northern, will highlight the affair.

An A-1 Michigan hockey win over Michigan State has been forfeited to the Spartans because the Huskies used an ineligible player.

Coach's Louis Agostini was supposed to sit out the contest, according to Western Collegiate rules, because he had received a match-misconduct during the game before the one with MSU.

John Tidwell has set an all-time University of Michigan basketball scoring record. The ranger, senior, has pumped in 1,300 points and still has three games to play. The Ranger's record was 1,125 set by Ron Kramer.

Keg Meet at Sylvan

Womens' Tourney Starts

The 28th annual City Tournament of the Pontiac Women's Bowling Association will begin Saturday night at Sylvan Lanes joining the Elks State meet for men on a big local keg program throughout March.

A total of 155 teams, 216 doubles duos, 432 in singles and 349 for all events will make-up the women's field. Prize money, to be distributed April 9 at the final P.W.B.A. meeting of the season, will be $3,627.

Family League of Utica was team champion last year with 3022. Lorraine Lowe and Betty Gage of Lake Orion won in doubles with 1286, Oxford's Helen L. Smith took doubles with 700, Shirley Ponder was 3rd.

Janet Hopps Wins Two Tennis Crowns

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Janet Hopps of Seattle, seeking a triple in the National Women's Indoor Tennis Championships, made it two-thirds of the way Thursday by winning the singles and doubles.

Miss Hopps, sixth-ranked in the country, won her first USLTA singles title by defeating the 1955 champion, Kay Hubbell of Conway N. H., 6-0, 1-5.

In doubles, Miss Hopps teamed with Miss Hubbell to dethrone Ruth Jeffery of Melrose, Mass., and Mrs. Richard Buck of Manchester, Mass., 4-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Northern, Tech Meet for State NAIA Title

MARQUETTE (UPI)—Ninth-ranked Northern Michigan defeated Ferris Institute of Big Rapids 68-49 last night in the opening set of a two-game playoff for the NAIA state championship.

Northern's Jerry Wright was high scorer in the game with 23 points. High men for Ferris was Tony Palmer with 15. Northern's rookies will meet Lawrence Tech for the NAIA state championship here tomorrow.

Lawrence Tech drew a bye for the first game of the playoffs. The winner of that game will go to Kansas City, Mo., to represent Michigan in the NAIA championship playoffs. In all, 32 teams will compete for the national title.

The playoffs are set for March 13-17.

Northern's season record is now 19-2 while Ferris ended its season with a record of 17-3.

Colavito Expects to Regain Form of 2 Years Ago

Rocky Has Found a Home

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Just now, nearly a year after Frank Lane uprooted him from Cleveland, outfielder Rocky Colavito has begun to feel at home with the Detroit Tigers.

And now, he expects to be the "fence-bustin" run producer long sought by the sixth-place Detroit club.

It was Easter Sunday a year ago when Lane, then the general manager of the Cleveland Indians, shocked baseball by trading Colavito to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn.

The deal brought on criticism of both clubs—the Tigers for shipping in total by 24 and his batting average by eight points. Kuenn was hurt much of the time, his batting average fell off nearly 30 points, and before Lane left the Indians to become general manager of the Kansas City Athletics he dealt Kuenn to the San Francisco Giants.

THE ROCK SWINGS—This is how the pitcher sees Rocky Colavito when the Detroit Tiger slugger swings at one of his pitches.

hit 35 homers last year. Catching is Harry Chitt.

"I realize that being moved around is part of baseball. But I had just had two pretty good seasons with the Indians, and I felt good about my baseball career. I could see a lot of progress."

Colavito admitted it took him nearly a full season to shake off the pressure of the trade.

"The Tiger fans knew Kuenn as a great player who got his base hits regularly," he said. "I don't think I wanted them to forget Kuenn—but I wanted to please them so much I believe I tried to knock the ball out of the park every time I came to bat."

"I know I was overswinging and I was mad at myself nearly all year. Late in the season I finally began to feel like my old self again."

If Colavito is his old self—the fellow who hit 33 home runs and drove in 224 runs in the 1958 and 1959 seasons with Cleveland—the Tigers have every right to expect they will improve their sixth place showing of 1960.

Williams in Another Hassle With Press

Hey Ted, Were You Feuding or Fooling?

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI)—Former Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams is in the middle of another hassle today because a Boston baseball writer thought he was feuding when he might have been fooling.

Williams' latest battle in his 20-year-old war with the press developed suddenly yesterday when he passed sportswriter Larry Claflin of the Boston Daily Record in a press conference. Williams shouted at Claflin and raised his right fist causing the writer to throw up his arms in protection.

Other writers were divided as to whether Williams was venting Claflin or engaging in horse play but the scribe instated that the retired slugger was serious.

"The name he called me eliminates any possibility that he was fooling," said Claflin, who added that Williams accused him of telephoning his ex-wife last December to ask what Ted had bought her child for Christmas.

Williams' accusation made it Claflin's turn to blow his top and the scribe promptly left a note to Williams in the clubhouse challenging him to a "bet of $1,000 that I can go before a lie detector and pass a test if asked about calling her or having any knowledge of anyone calling her about a Christmas present."

Soviets Rout U. S., 13-2, in World Puck Tourney

GENEVA (AP)—American hockey coach John "Connie" Pleban today warned the Canadians they'll have to find an answer for Russia's powerful offense or the world championship will go behind the Iron Curtain.

Pleban said good reason for the warning.

His United States team, playing its first game in defense of the title won last year at the Olympics, was crushed 13-2 by the powerful Soviets Thursday.

The Canadians downed Sweden 6-1 and Czechoslovakia outclassed Finland 6-0 in other championship round games.

Pleban said he figured the Russians would be good—"But I did not think they would be that good. They outskated and outplayed us. The Canadians will not be able to afford to make the slightest mistake against them."

The Canadians meet Russia in the final game March 12 and most experts here believe it will decide the championship.

Dave Frank of International Falls, Minn., and Larry Cronkhite, former Minnesota collegiate standout, missed the opening because of flu. Tom Yurkovich of Rochester, Minn., played the entire game in goal for the Americans, who lost regular goalie Larry Palmer because of a face injury in a pre-tournament match. Yurkovich made 26 saves to, only eight for the Russian goal, Vladimir Tchourov.

Jack Poole of Green Bay, Wis., and Herb Brooks of St. Paul scored for the United States.

Bradley Continues as Scoring Leader

By The Associated Press
College basketball's big scorer is almost certain to be from a small college.

And the best bet he'll be Jack Bradley of Lawrence Tech in Detroit.

Latest statistics from the National Collegiate Service Bureau show Bradley, the leader since mid-January, averaging 33.2 points per game. That's a full point average better than the major college leader, Frank Burgess of Gonzaga, and a shade in front of the small college runner-up, Lebron Bell of Bryan (33.0). Bell has finished playing for the season and Burgess has only one game left—against Idaho tonight—in which he would have to score 55 points to pass Bradley.

The entire Lawrence Tech team is pacing the small college team offense with an average of 96.7 points per game. Defending champ Mississippi College has 94.8 and undefeated Mansfield State 94.5.

Fernandez Hopes to Leave Cuba This Weekend

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI)—The only thing the United States has been getting out of Cuba lately is baseball players and even this was giving them and the Detroit Tigers some trouble.

Chico Fernandez, the Tigers' missing shortstop, told the team he hopes to start on his way to the Tiger camp here sometime this weekend.

Fernandez, who'll be the only seasoned player on the Tiger infield this year, has already missed three days of practice.

Like most of the Cuban players, Fernandez is expected to enter the United States through Mexico.

In yesterday's practice session the Tigers went through more batting practice. Charley Maxwell, former left fielder replaced by Rocky Colavito, began working out at first base where the competition is heavy.

A 20-game schedule tonight and one Saturday contest will ring down the curtain on another area prep basketball schedule for the regular season.

Two league championships, expected to be decided by this time, will be settled. Another could finish in a two-way deadlock.

St. Frederick had to be satisfied with 6th in the Catholic Tournament after dropping a consolation game to Detroit St. Thomas last night, 89-71. St. James walloped Mt. Clemens St. Louis 85-37 and St. Rita bowed to Roseville Sacred Heart 61-49 in state tourney warmups.

Pontiac Northern of the Inter-Lakes will be gunning for its 2nd straight outright crown at Farmington-Walled Lake, already assuried runnerup honors, could gain a tie by whipping Southfield if the Mustang title is expected. Farmington, Mt. Clemens and Port Huron are currently even but the latter two will be meeting to determine the champion or co-champ. The Dales can grab a part of the pennant by dawning Kimball.

PNH and Ferndale had appeared to be brooding along all season before the contenders came roaring back.

St. Fred wound up 12-4 after blowing a 35-34 halftime lead. St. Thomas pulled away with a 32-point 3rd quarter finding numerous flaws in the Ram defense. Ferndale hit on 13 free throws had prevented the Pontiac boys from taking a big early lead. Mike Reed topped the losers with 26 points and Charley Dean added 17. Larry Zdzrowski's 23 paced St. Thomas. Rita 5-9.

Man in Space

Astronaut at Sea Creates Worries

By JACK V. FOX
NEW YORK (UPI)—When the first American astronaut is shot into space, one of the biggest worries will be getting him out of the water fast after his capsule splashes back into the ocean. The rocket trip by Ham the chimpanzee last Jan. 31 was successful in most respects with one fairly worrisome exception. The capsule did not land where it was planned. And Ham was in his capsule almost four hours from the moment of launching until his space vehicle was unlatched and the chimpanzee found to be alive and well.

A considerable amount of water had seeped into the capsule by the time a helicopter reached it off the Bahamas. It had heeled completely over on its side—instead of floating upright—and appeared in danger of sinking.

Thus the space planners will do their utmost to avoid the tragedy of having a man survive the first trip into space—then drown because he wasn't reached swiftly enough when he got back to his planet.

CHAIN OF SHIPS
In the January chimp shoot there was a chain of a dozen Navy ships lined up from Cape Canaveral out into the Atlantic. The plan was for the capsule to re-enter the atmosphere and parachute into the ocean near the landing ship dock Donner.

It carries the 22nd Marine Helicopter Squadron whose pilots had practiced again and again recovering the space capsule from the water.

But there was an "overshoot" and Ham fell into the sea more than 100 miles out past the Donner. The capsule was too far

Midway Airport Tops in Activity

Finishes First in 3 of 4 Categories According to FAA 1960 Survey

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chicago's busy Midway Airport led the nation's airports in flying activity during 1960, a Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) survey revealed.

Midway finished first in three of the four categories included in the survey—air carrier operations, total operations and itinerant operations. FAA defines an operation as either a landing or a takeoff.

Phoenix, Ariz., led in the fourth category—general aviation itinerant flying. Tulum, Mexico, near Miami, Fla., operating in its first full year with a control tower, finished second in total operations.

The first 10 cities in total flying operations were: Chicago Midway (278,600); Washington (221,817); Washington, D.C. (218,397); Denver (208,194); Phoenix (204,044); New York (200,000); New York Midway (215,631); Long Beach, Calif. (212,818); Dallas (208,816).

The top 10 airports in air carrier operations were: Midway, New York, New York, Los Angeles, New York, Los Angeles, Miami, Chicago, Atlanta, San Francisco and Dallas. FAA said that total aircraft operations declined last year by four per cent, the first drop since 1952.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Miller, D.V.M.

Q. We have a cat that eats very little. His tongue is always sticking out and he drools all over. Can you give me some information about this condition?

Thomas Pettigrew, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A. It is difficult to make an accurate diagnosis without actually seeing the cat, but the symptoms you describe suggest glossitis. Glossitis is a painful inflammation of the tongue which, among other things, makes it so uncomfortable for the animal to eat that the untreated pet could easily starve to death.

Infected teeth, general debility, or other infection are the most common underlying causes. A layman should not attempt to treat this condition.

An accurate, speedy diagnosis is essential for the health of your family as well as that of your pet. I would suggest that a veterinarian see your cat immediately.

Hart Backs Williams on African Tour

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., Thursday defended G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, as ideally qualified for that post.

Some of the critics of Williams' current "shell out" of responsible criticism," Hart told his weekly news conference.

The former Michigan governor has been criticized here as well as abroad for his "Africa for Africans" statement. Hart has explained that by "Africans" he meant all persons living on that continent and not merely Negroes. That explanation satisfied President Kennedy and Hart.

No one could believe that an official responsible for relations with Africa "will be without controversy," the Senator said, and Williams is ideally equipped to portray the best in the United States of the Africans.

Finletter Okayed as Envoy to NATO

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thomas K. Finletter was approved by the Senate today as permanent ambassador to NATO.

The Senate also approved these other diplomatic and domestic appointments:

Roger Tubby, assistant secretary of state for public affairs; William E. Macomber Jr., ambassador to Jordan; Clifton R. Wharton, ambassador to Norway, and four representatives to the forthcoming session of the United Nations General Assembly: Adlai E. Stevenson, Charles W. Yost, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Philip M. Klutznick.

Seating Firm Reports Largest Sales in History

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—American Seating Co. Thursday reported net sales of $41,719,010, marking the largest sales figure in its 75-year history.

The firm's annual report for 1960 placed sales at 4.1 per cent over the previous all-time high and 8.8 per cent higher than the $39,414,800 total in 1959.

Net earnings last year, however, were $1,514,004, or $2.77 a share, compared with $1,020,743, or $2.93 a share, in 1959.

Hit Pope-Queen Visit

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP)—Criticism of Queen Elizabeth's scheduled visit to Pope John XXIII in May has come, as expected, from the Free Church of Scotland. The strict Protestant sect adopted a resolution of protest against the visit at a meeting of its general assembly in Edinburgh Wednesday night.

Backward Glance at Life Aimless and Predictable

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — The formula for publishing a highly successful picture magazine appears to be: don't work when it comes to getting on a TV special.

"2 Years of Life," last night's 90-minute NBC-TV special, was presumably designed to reel off yards of nostalgia in sprightly fashion as it recalled the years from 1936 to the present.

But the show turned out to be aimless, conventional, predictable, dull office copy.

Rather than capturing the flavor of the past quarter century, the program succeeded only in capturing the spirit of the last "Ed Sullivan Show."

Bob Hope rattled around the stage as part-time monologist, picture-painter, interviewer and, with special guest Mary Martin, song-and-dance man. He did well with the material furnished him. Unfortunately, the material was thin.

Sid Caesar and Peggy Cass participated in comedy sketches that were supposed to demonstrate the cliché about one being better off in 1936, when we were poorer-but-happier, than in 1961, when we are richer-but-poorer or something, no sparkle or knee-deep thrust in these contributions.

Frederic March narrated a photo-essay about war and action as it recalled the years from 1936 to the present in the closing segment of his piece.

President John F. Kennedy appeared on a taped insert at the close of the show to urge the communications industry to rise to the challenge of time. (No plug intended.)

The program showed signs of hasty preparation, poor design and slow pacing. There was a live audience in the theater when much of it was taped, judging by cheering that could be heard while the various segments were being presented. Can't blame them, though. The program made me restless, too.

"GOOD LOOKING" FIREHALL — Fire Captain Sidney Owen accepts a citation from Mrs. Verne C. Hampton (left), praising the attractive landscaping at Pontiac's Fire Station No. 5 on West Huron Street. The tribute was from the Pontiac branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, of which Mrs. Hampton, 3631 Brookside Dr., Bloomfield Hills, is Pontiac civic improvement chairman. Standing by is Mrs. Clifford T. Ekelund, 149 Ottawa Dr., chairman of the association's state civic improvement committee.

Billy Graham Film to Be Shown Here

"Africa on the Bridge," a feature length motion picture in color of evangelist Bill Graham's 17,000-mile "Safari for Souls" across Africa, will have its Pontiac premiere at the Pontiac Board of Realtors monthly meeting Monday night.

The dinner affair will be held in the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Association building on West Huron Street. Members of the public who would like to see the film should contact Thomas Bateman, publicity director of the Realtors.

Photographed in authentic sound and natural color in 17 principal cities across Africa, the documentary captures the spirit of the continent during these crucial years.

Another Cock Robin?

Extinction of Birds Threatened by Spray

By DICK HANSON

Do you recall when you took that walk last spring how quiet it was? Hardly a bird chirping in the fresh balmy air. In fact, where were the birds?

Perhaps you saw a few — the occasional cheerful greeter. But, where were the flocks that should have been flitting about, filled with the promise of a reborn earth. Chances are you will see even fewer of our feathered friends this spring. Evidence is that their numbers have thinned alarmingly. And the sad trend continues.

Each year fewer birds return from the southlands to welcome spring in the north country, including Michigan and Oakland County.

At least this is the conclusion of Walter P. Nickell, an ornithologist at Bloomfield Hills' Cranbrook Institute of Science, who has devoted his life to the study of birds and their habits.

He claims that latest research indicates birds in Michigan have become the indirect victims of the Dutch elm disease—paying with their lives.

It isn't the disease — killer of elms — that is the problem, contends Nickell, which is killing birds by thousands, but the deadly DDT spray being used in an effort to bring the disease under control.

SPRAY IS LETHAL

The DDT spray is killing off birds, contends Nickell, threatening to wipe out some of our best-loved varieties such as the robin and various species of thrushes and warblers whose golden voices have thrilled our generations since time immemorial.

Leading the challenge to do something before it is too late, Nickell has joined with two zoologists from Michigan State University, George J. Wallace and Richard F. Bernard, in a revolving fund to get the authority into operation.

"I urge your initiative and cooperation in putting this program into action," he told the lawmakers.

Main feature of the economic growth plan is a proposed authority empowered to make loans to local or regional industrial development groups. It calls for an initial $15-million appropriation for a revolving fund to get the authority into operation.

The governor outlined his "guidelines to a greater Michigan" in a special message to the legislature.

Flash Flames Ruin Mansion of Rockefellers

Governor and His Wife Escape Down Ladder; Damage, $500,000

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller fled to safety early today as a flash fire wrecked New York's historic old executive mansion and destroyed pictures and art objects valued at more than $250,000.

The governor, rescued by his wife, climbed from a second-floor bedroom window to the roof of a shelter over the main entrance and directed firemen in the rescue of three servants, temporarily isolated by flames in their third-floor quarters.

All occupants of the turreted, Victorian-style residence that once housed Presidents Grover Cleveland and two Roosevelts, Theodore and Franklin D., escaped down ladders without injury.

Rockefeller conservatively estimated the total damage at $500,000.

Paintings charred by flames that apparently originated in the basement and swept up to the main-floor music room and to second-floor bedrooms included numerous old masters valued at about $300,000. They were given to the mansion by W. Averell Harriman, Rockefeller's immediate predecessor.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

The cause of the fire was not determined.

The fire was brought under control about an hour after it was discovered.

The disheveled governor toured the lower floors of the 40-room mansion with firemen as soon as the flames were extinguished.

"I liked the old building," he sighed as he ended the tour. "The pictures must be a total loss." He referred to the Harriman collection, which included works of such artists as Gilbert Stuart and Thomas Sully, as well as many of his own prized contemporary paintings on the second-floor gallery.

The Rockefellers dug into their private funds after his election as governor in 1958, and spent thousands of dollars redecorating and renovating the three-story mansion. An enthusiastic collector, he filled the room with paintings and sculpture, most of it modern.

Firemen saved a portrait of the governor's father, John D. Rockefeller Jr., six pen and ink drawings by Pablo Picasso, and a pencil drawing by Vincent Van Gogh.

All were in the private quarters of the Rockefellers, in a section of the brick mansion that suffered relatively little damage.

The servants, who lived in the building by firemen's ladders, were Robert Benjamin, a butler; Ellen Westberg, a cook; and Hilda Erikson, a kitchen maid. The other 12 members of the mansion staff live elsewhere.

Rockefeller said he awakened to find fire shooting upward from his bedroom.

22 Miners Killed by Blast in Shaft

FROM OUR NEWS WIRE

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. — Twenty-two miners died in a flash explosion deep in a coal shaft Thursday night. Their torn, burned bodies were hauled out in a hazardous 10-hour operation.

The body of the last of the doomed 22 was brought to the surface at 8:35 a.m. (Pontiac time).

The miners were killed late Thursday night when a massive blast shattered a quarter-mile-long section of the Viking Coal Co. mine 180 feet below the floor of the Wabash Valley.

The explosion unleashed tons of coal and earth, knocked out cement and wooden ventilators and twisted coal moles and loading machines into crumpled masses of metal.

Rescue crews brought the charred, mangled bodies out of the digging, one by one through the long, chilly night and carried them away in ambulances to a mortuary chapel where they were laid out in two rows on green and white sheets.

"We don't know what caused the explosion," the mine general manager said.

The mine was shut down as soon as the last body was recovered. The explosion will be investigated jointly by officials of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, the Indiana Bureau of Mines, the United Mine Workers Union and company and insurance officials.

GAS THREATENS

The 22nd body was carried out at 7:35 a.m. today. It had been about six hours since the first body was found.

Pockets of intense heat and deadly coal gas threatened the operation and forced the rescuers to push forward with the greatest care.

Conner D. M. Ferguson said the men's lives were lost in a "violent type concussion explosion" that tore away limbs, obliterated faces and froze one victim's hand in front of his face as he apparently tried to ward off an accompanying flash of flames.

The rescuers found the first bodies after about four hours of cautious probing through fumes.

There was danger of another explosion if the men groped for ward they sprayed chemicals to prevent it. Police put up rope barriers to keep grieving relatives from danger at the mouth of the shaft.

NOBODY HEARD BLAST

The explosion was so far underground that nobody heard it, and mine officials were unable to pinpoint the time.

Just when the explosion was discovered was not clear, either.

Apparently the first indication came about 7:45 p.m. (CST) when an air pressure gauge on the surface dropped to zero. An official attempted to telephone the miners and get no response to repeated, ringing.

Then coal dust was seen billowing from the shaft.

Twenty-two other miners in an other section were immediately ordered to the surface.

Ragatz Murder Charge Reduced

Commerce Area Wife Is Facing Manslaughter in Husband's Slaying

A charge of second-degree murder was reduced to manslaughter yesterday against a Commerce Township grandmother in the shooting of her husband Feb. 11.

Township Justice John C. Week reduced the charge and ordered Mrs. Sarah Ragatz, 30, of 6008 Ashland St., bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court.

Her bond was continued at $5,000.

Mrs. Ragatz has maintained since her arrest that the shooting of her husband, Ernest, 38, was an accident.

He was killed by a single shot from his 12-gauge shotgun as he arrived home.

Mrs. Ragatz admitted firing the fatal shot but insisted she didn't know the gun was loaded and was only playing a joke on her husband.

Results of a lie detector test given her Feb. 24 indicated the shooting was accidental.

Should Be Simple to Quit Post Office Post, but...

By JIM LONG

Robert H. Gorsline has followed section 717.2, paragraph 215 of the United States Post Office Manual solemnly in submitting his resignation to the government.

But the government in turn hasn't been so conforming in accepting his letter of separation.

Gorsline, 65, is the acting postmaster in Milford and he wants to resign after 2 1/2 years' service. A seemingly easy matter as long as the strict rulings of the manual are followed.

But not for Gorsline. The acting postmaster submitted his letter of resignation to his supervisor in writing (as specified in the manual) Jan. 17 asking that it become effective Feb. 3 or today at the latest.

His notice of resignation was mailed a month and a half ago and under the rules of the post office all that is necessary to resign is a letter two weeks before the last day of work.

Since his initial notice Gorsline of 900 E. Buno Road, Milford Township, has carried on a running

Don't Look Now but Maybe Spring Is Just Ahead

Pontiac area residents may look forward to pleasant weather for the next five days.

High temperatures will range three to nine degrees above the normal 35 to 40 and the normal low of 17 to 21.

Tonight's low is expected to be about 31, tomorrow's high near 46.

Precipitation for the period will total three to five-tenths of an inch, occurring as rain Sunday or Sunday night.

Morning southwesterly winds at 10 miles per hour will become west to southwest at 10 to 15 m.p.h. Saturday.

Thirty-eight was the lowest reading in downtown Pontiac yesterday morning at 8 a.m. The mercury had climbed to 51 at 1 p.m.

All Efforts Fail to Revive 2 Girls, Milford Boy, 3

Trio Wanders Out on Ice Weakened by Sand Recently Dumped There

"Oh, God, please let my baby be alive!"

The young mother's plea was in vain — her 3-year-old son lay dead in the emergency room at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital 1 1/2 night, along with two of his small playmates.

The children drowned together shortly before 5:30 p.m. in Pleasant Lake in West Bloomfield Township.

The young victims were Rickey Rosen, 2, Lynda Marie Pettibone, 3, and Cheryll Marie Pettibone, 3-year-old sister, Cheryll Anne.

Rickey was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rosen of Milford. The girls' parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Pettibone of 20 Blaine St.

The trio had been playing with other youngsters on a neighborhood playground when they wandered onto thin ice on the adjacent lake.

Workman had recently dumped sand-fill into the lake from a lot bordering the playground on Leytonstone Street, and this had caused the ice to melt for several feet out.

Next to the open water, thawing ice still stretched out from the playground shore. The Rosen boy and the Pettibone girls apparently had walked out onto the thin ice when the edge broke off, tumbling them into water about 4 1/2 feet deep, across from the sand-fill.

Cousins of the two girls, Debra Hoffman, 7, and her 4-year-old sister, Jean, with whom the three victims were visiting, ran home to tell their father what had happened.

'PLAYING IN THE WATER'

"The girls and Rickey are playing in the water," Pettibone quoted the Hoffman youngsters as saying.

He and his brother-in-law, Orin Hoffman, 6322 Brookhurst St., ran from the house to the lake, a block away. The scene was deserted.

Other neighborhood children who had been playing there when the accident occurred had gone home for supper.

The two frantic men spotted something turquoise-colored bobbing in the water near the sand fill. It was Lynda's air-filled snowsuit.

"Then we saw the three of them floating face down in the water," moaned Pettibone.

He and Hoffman plunged in to retrieve the bodies. The water was chest-deep to the men. They carried the victims to shore. Mrs. Pettibone went into a state of shock at the sight of the children.

Mrs. Hoffman tried to comfort her sister, while Pettibone and Hoffman applied mouth-to-mouth respiration.

CRY FOR HELP UNHEEDED

Pettibone said he was switching back and forth trying to revive his two daughters while Hoffman worked on the Rosen boy, when a stranger—a man about 30—came by.

"I cried out for him to help," said Pettibone, but he refused, stating that "he had a cold, and left."

Minutes later other grownups from the neighborhood came to the scene. Someone phoned the ship fire department, and an ambulance arrived shortly.

The three youngsters were pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

ducting a scientific record of birds killed by DDT in Michigan.

They, with the aid of students and other interested individuals, have been observing the deadly trend in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties as well as on the MSU campus at East Lansing and in the Flint and Ann Arbor areas.

These are locales where DDT spray has been used extensively in the Dutch elm disease program presently sponsored by both state and federal government agencies. Nickell, Wallace and Barnard have established control areas on the extensive grounds of both Cranbrook and MSU, considered excellent bird refuges, under normal conditions. Here the trio has started to record the bird mortality rate.

Their initial findings are presented in "Bird Mortality," a booklet prepared by Nickell, Wallace and Barnard and published this year.

"To try to assess to some degree how real the loss of birds might be," the authors explained, "the Cranbrook Institute of Science, in 1956, asked that birds suspected of DDT poisoning be turned in or reported at the institute. During April, May and June of that year, but mostly in May, more than 600 birds were reported as dead or dying birds were turned in."

Nearly all the specimens submitted came from the immediate vicinity of the Cranbrook grounds. "By 1959, the number... had mounted to about 400, with an estimated 600 calls or reports regarding birds not turned in."

"One woman in Bloomfield Hills called to report 12 robins were lying dead on her lawn as she called."

Over 80 per cent of the specimens studied at Cranbrook were victims of DDT poisoning, i.e., tremors of the wings and tail, convulsions, gaping and death, the authors noted.

"None of the birds recovered even with confinement and care. Robins were the chief victims. However, 63 species were recorded."

According to Nickell, bird life at Cranbrook has been reduced from approximately 250 breeding pairs or fewer pairs since DDT spraying was effected in the Bloomfield Hills area.

The study is running parallel on the MSU campus and doubtless elsewhere where DDT spray is being utilized, the authors affirmed.

They regret that efforts to wipe out the disease have been confined to the use of DDT with no apparent research for a less deadly means of control being conducted, and that no control over DDT concentration has been put into effect.

As an alternate course, the authors recommended for the study the need for a Dutch elm disease control program. "Protection" programs in communities that do not have the disease may be ill advised as this eliminates whatever natural control agencies may be present.

Sometimes spraying within a community can be confined to known areas of infestation. 2. Mist blowers have an advantage over hydraulic sprayers by applying the spray directly on the trees, with less danger of puddling and drift. But recent studies in Wisconsin have disclosed high mortality to ground-feeding birds in the first year of a program where only mist-blowers were used.

3. Using dormant (rather than foliar) sprays should eliminate or reduce hazards to foliage-eaters, such as beetles, warblers and vireos.

4. If a dormant treatment is applied after leaf drop in the fall—and this is not always feasible because of freezing weather—fewer birds are affected, but birds that forage over the trunks and branches of elms in fall and winter are exposed to the insecticides.

5. If spring applications can be completed before elm buds start to open, which again is sometimes impossible in a late spring, birds that feed in the elms in late April might be spared.

6. Try to avoid excavations, both to conserve costly material and to spare wildlife.

7. Operators should be well informed both on the pros and cons in the Dutch elm control program, and be able to give factual answers. It is not good public relations to condemn any citizen's viewpoint, regardless of whether he is for or against the program.

"These suggestions may help to alleviate," say the authors, but certainly not eliminate, bird problems that arise in connection with control operations for Dutch elm disease.

"Though it is not within the scope of this report to criticize or evaluate the current efforts of operators and administrators to try to save valuable elm trees, we are inclined to question the whole program, as currently conducted, on ecological grounds."

"Any program which destroys 80 or more species of birds and unknown numbers of beneficial predatory and parasitic insects needs further study."

The last year, we know who really killed cock robin, and it was the sparrow.

SCENE OF TRAGEDY—This is the West Bloomfield Township playground next to the spot where three small children drowned yesterday after they wandered onto the ice covering Pleasant Lake and fell through. The ice has melted away from the shore since the tragedy. The victims were Lydia Marie Pettibone, 5, her sister Cheryl Anne, 3, both of Pontiac, and Ricky Roy, 3, of Milford. The scene is on the south shore of the small lake.

U.S. Tender Ignores Show Put On at Base

HOLY LOCH, Scotland (AP)—The U.S. Navy tender Proteus ran into a comic blockade by a pacifist canoe armada today and moored safely at this new missile submarine base.

Thousands of spectators lined the loch-side as the 18,500-ton Proteus was towed to her anchorage by three tugboats amidst a slapstick chase of the pacifist blockaders by British naval and police launches.

In the end, all six of the blockading canoes and dinghies were swamped and the occupants arrested.

The Proteus, unhindered by the sideshow, moved majestically into place 200 yards off Ardmadam, on the north side of the loch, and dropped anchor exactly on schedule at 10:30 a.m.

The Patrick Henry, first of the U.S. Navy nuclear subs for which the Proteus will act as mother ship, is already en route from America, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told Commons Thursday.

Being able to "let the getting part take care of itself," was unusually difficult for Sam. He was raised on an Indiana farm which was so poor that Sam never wore a suit until the day he graduated from high school.

He left home and headed north, looking for security. When he arrived in Detroit he had $1.50 in his pocket.

Sam was bewildered and a bit frightened, but within a few days got a job in one of Detroit's automobile factories. His job paid well, $39 every two weeks. This, certainly, should supply a wonderful security.

Why was it, then, that he didn't feel secure? He was still thinking about money; he was unable to enjoy the money he did have.

It was right at this point in Sam's life that he made a most interesting discovery, one which I think, penetrates the real secret of security.

One evening while he was pondering his Bible he became transfixed by the passage, "Give, and it shall be given unto you."

The answer seemed so clear: "The whole trick in feeling secure," said Sam, "is to enjoy today and not to worry about tomorrow. That's what security is, and you find it by giving, not by receiving."

"Because when you think about receiving, you tend to think about tomorrow; and when you think about giving, you tend to think about today."

"I asked myself what would happen if I started giving today, and not worrying about tomorrow. After all there is the Biblical promise that when you give it shall be given unto you."

3 Children Drown in Pleasant Lake

The Pettibone family had arrived at the Hoffman's a couple hours before the drownings. They had brought Ricky, a family friend, along with them as his mother was convalescing at home from a siege of pneumonia.

She is separated from her 25-year-old husband, an unemployed factory worker, Mrs. Rosen, 23, lives at 535 Summit St., with the Floyd Davis family, in Milford.

Pettibone, 25, is employed as an attendant at Pontiac State Hospital. He and his 23-year-old wife have one other child, Debra, 19 months.

Pettibone said they had no qualms about letting the children go alone to the playground. "They never went near the lake before," he said.

Sheriff's deputies were unable to notify Rosen of the tragedy that had befallen his son until later in the evening. The mothers remained in shock today, both under the care of their family physicians.

The bodies of the girls are at Voorhees-Siple Funeral Home in Pontiac. The boy's body is at Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home.

The Day in Birmingham

Study Nearly Completed on School Curriculum

BIRMINGHAM—The study of the Birmingham secondary school curriculum is entering its final stages, according to Kenneth A. Mendenhall, chairman of the steering group of the Parent-Teacher Association Citizens' Committee.

According to Mendenhall, more than 40 persons organized into 16 subcommittees have been exploring all areas of the junior and senior high curricula for the past three years.

Reports of the groups studying English, mathematics, science, social studies and foreign languages are currently being reviewed by the committee.

A combined report on the academic areas of the curriculum will be forwarded to the PTA Council this month. A report on the nonacademic subjects will be made to the council in May.

Both reports will then be made available to the board of education by the council as a guide for future planning.

The "Exploring Science" film and demonstration series for junior members of the Cranbrook Institute of Science will be presented on four Saturdays this month, beginning tomorrow at 10:30 a.m.

The programs will be presented by James A. Fyler, curator of education at the institute.

The science of oceanography will be introduced to the junior members tomorrow. To be explained will be the changing patterns of the ocean's floor, the living and moving things in the waters and the influence of the oceans upon man.

"Exploring Light and Color" will be the topic of March 11 program. Subjects to be discussed will include the electromagnetic spectrum, principles of reflection and refraction, physical nature of color, principles of color in art, printing and photography.

On March 18 the topic entitled "Exploring Frotozoa" will tell of the simple animals found in a drop of pond water.

The natural history, geology and historical features of several eastern and western national parks will be discussed at the March 25 presentation.

Junior members who are 10 years of age or older are eligible to attend the series. Each member may bring one guest.

The Congressional Church of Birmingham will hold two informative meetings for prospective members this month at the church, 383 N. Woodward Ave.

The preparatory meetings will be held March 19 and 26 at 8 p.m.

New members will be received into the church at the Maundy Thursday service at 8 p.m.

Truman Defends U.N. Troops Being in Congo

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today the continued presence of United Nations troops in the Congo was "absolutely necessary."

"Secretary General Hammarskjöld knows what he's doing," Truman said. "We can't sit down and wait for the Russians to walk in and take over and have another war. That's what the U.N. is for—to prevent it."

The former chief executive and Mrs. Truman arrived in New York about the Queen of Bermuda following a vacation in Bermuda.

Called for Ladder

Rockefeller called down to AP photographer Arthur Z. Brooks: "Could you please get a ladder up here?"

There has been sporadic agitation to replace the executive mansion, which has housed governors and their families since 1914, but the Rockefellers and the Harrimans rejected the suggestion.

Both families enjoyed the charm of the mansion with its high ceilings and spectacular views.

Find Donnybrook Nothing but Plain Fist Fight

Although reported to Waterford Township police as a possible gang fight, a disturbance at the Isaac C. Cray Junior High School Monday was actually a fight between two students.

Police Chief Millard Pender said today that his office had been alerted by a school official earlier Monday of a rumor there might be trouble that day.

Pender said he ordered a car to be present when pupils were dismissed for the day at Cray. A telephone call to police from an excited woman who said there were "100 kids gathered" at the school resulted in an emergency call for more officers in case the report was true.

Actually, more than 100 pupils were gathered around the fighting pair, and they were dispersed by the officers, Pender said.

Cross-Shield Ruling Coming Next Week

LEANSING on — Technical and legal questions will hold up the announcement of a decision on Blue Cross-Blue Shield rule, increase requests until next week, says State Commissioner Frank Blackford.

The announcement had been expected this week. Blackford indicated Thursday he had made the decision but that "certain technical and legal questions" were holding up the announcement.

Compacts Will Replace Big Cars in New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—The New Haven purchasing department, acting on orders of Mayor Richard C. Lee, is preparing to replace city-owned passenger cars with domestic compacts in an economy move.

Lee noted that since the city is only 22 square miles in area "it is not essential to purchase vehicles having high speeds and other features primarily designed for long trips."

Some suspects are believed to be 50,000 miles in diameter.

30-DAY WEATHER OUTLOOK — Temperatures much higher than normal for this time of year and an above average rainfall are predicted for the state of Michigan and the Pontiac area for the next 30 days, according to these maps supplied by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

FEDERAL'S - Downtown and Drayton Plains

U.N. Starts Battling Tuesday on Congo, Arms, Dag

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The United Nations General Assembly resumes its adjourned 15th annual session Tuesday with prospects of two months of renewed

East-West battling over the questions of the Congo, disarmament and Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev apparently has decided to stay home, at least for the start of the session, depriving it of the fireworks attending the opening last September.

GROMYKO COMING

Dean Andrei Gromyko, the unsmiling, unbending Soviet foreign minister, will head Russia's delegation with the backing of Ambassador Valerian A. Zorin, debate with whom was recently described by a top Western diplomat as "like talking to an ax."

Kwame Nkrumah, the Ghana leader ambitious for African power, will highlight the opening of the resumed meeting with a speech on the Congo marking the first time the head of a state has addressed the General Assembly twice in one session.

Nkrumah was here with brushstrokes and other world leaders for last September's spectacular show-putting opening.

Top diplomats quietly were seeking an agreement to hold the resumed session to minimum duration.

If they succeed, the assembly could adjourn in three weeks or so.

If they fail, it was likely May will find it still sitting.

It depends on whether Russia will be willing to limit itself to a general discussion of disarmament and turn the arms question over to negotiation by a small committee of experts.

It depended on whether Russia would be willing to drop its demand for a full airing of "aggression" charges against the United States and whether Washington and its Western partners in turn would agree to forego full debate again on the questions of Hungary and Tibet.

It depended on whether Fidel Castro could be persuaded to at tence his propaganda guns against the United States.

It was certain that the Congo would dominate the assembly.

Nkrumah scheduled a brief visit here to present his plan for an all-African command of the U.N. operation in the Congo.

It seemed likely that Nkrumah's kickoff speech would be followed by a full debate on the political aspects of the Congo question.

Later, the assembly's administrative and budgetary committee will bring the Congo back to center stage when it reports its recommendations on how to finance the most ambitious operation in U.N. history.

WOULD OUST DAG

Russia was expected to try for the third time—with the prospect of its third defeat for the project—to oust Hammarskjöld and replace him with a president of Communist, neutralist and Western administrators, each holding veto power.

Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru appeared to have killed off the Kremlin's hope of ousting Hammarskjöld now when he announced that he opposed a change in the secretariat at this time.

It was obvious that Moscow, seizing on the slaying of Congolese leader Patrice Lumumba, to restart its "fire Hammarskjöld" campaign, miscalculated that it now would gain more support for it from the new African and Asian countries than it mustered last September.

Once More Into the Breech

Try Again for N-Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain with Britain, to offer Moscow some compromise proposals on the international inspection system which would be set up under the treaty to police the test ban. But authorities here said that major concessions by the Soviets on their present insistence on minimum inspection will be necessary to meet the British-American police requirements.

U. S. and British disarmament experts have agreed they should now by late May whether the Soviet government is seriously interested in making a test ban agreement. President Kennedy has told officials, and reportedly assured the British, that he is determined to get an agreement if the Soviets will accept reasonable inspection safeguards against cheating.

The next round of negotiations between the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union, will start in Geneva March 21. If within two months the talks prove fruitless, Kennedy will be under very heavy pressure from the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission, authorities said, to order resumption of nuclear test explosions.

Tests were halted 2½ years ago when the Geneva negotiations opened. The moratorium now in effect has no inspection provisions

Love U. of M. Music

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Russians, the University of Michigan symphonic band has discovered, like Gershwin, the Michigan Victory March, and lots of cymbal-banging football game music.

Frederick Moncreiff, band manager, has cabled university officials at Ann Arbor, Mich., for additional Gershwin arrangements.

Following the Victory March, the touring students found, the Russians like George Gershwin's "Summertime" best. His music has been increasingly popular in the Soviet Union since an American troupe toured the country doing the Gershwin-Hayward opera Porgy and Bess a few years ago.

The band's repertoire had been heavily weighted with the classics, but the students are changing in midair to satisfy the Russian demands. Moncreiff said as the repertoire has changed with available scores audience response has improved. The band got a wild

Why wait till crabgrass has come up and ruined your lawn to do something about it? One application of HALTS® before crabgrass sprouts will spare your lawn a repetition of last summer's disaster. Tiny HALTS granules blanket the lawn, lie in wait, then pick off crabgrass sprout by sprout. HALTS is death to crabgrass—yet it lets good grass grow unharmed. In fact, HALTS is so compatible with grass, you can actually seed the same day. With the accurate Scotts Spreader, you protect 5000 sq ft against crabgrass in half an hour!

Here's how the guarantee works: Buy a flameless electric water heater wherever you see the guarantee seal—at appliance dealers, department stores, plumbing contractors or your Detroit Edison office. Family-test it. Call on it for plenty of hot water, day after day. If at any time within one year after installation you are not satisfied with the heater's performance, just let us know. We'll disconnect it, remove it from your home, and return the full purchase price (including installation cost). The guarantee covers any Edison-approved electric water heater sized according to the recommendations given below, and installed in a dwelling up to and including a four-unit building in the Detroit Edison service area.

This Edison satisfaction guarantee is in addition to the regular manufacturer's warranty.

Troy May Take Zoning Rift to Supreme Court

Wants to Establish Right of a City to Enforce Plan

By DON FERMOYLE
TROY — City commissioners here are considering taking a case to the State Supreme Court which could set a precedent in Michigan regarding a city's right to enforce a master zoning plan.

Nearly 2½ hours of discussion at a special study session of the commission last night centered around a suit challenging Troy's zoning ordinance brought by developer Robert L. Silberstein of Detroit.

Only 2 Races in Utica's Primary

UTICA — Only two races — one for city treasurer and the other for justice of the peace — are expected in Monday's non-partisan primary election in Utica.

Bidding for the right to run for justice of the peace in the April 3 regular election here are Marvin J. Priests, Richard Seymour and Richard C. Stavoe.

Stavoe was appointed to the position in November 1959.

Seeking nomination as city treasurer are incumbent Mrs. Leona Morrison, Mrs. Pauline Kraft and Mrs. Loretta Scensy.

Unless they are upset by write-in candidates in the primary, all other candidates will be unchallenged Monday.

OTHER ASPIRANTS
Other candidates and the positions they hope to fill are incumbent Edward R. Church and Fred Beck, mayor; incumbent Louis R. By and Earl Supperly, assessor; and incumbent John W. Havel and Omar K. Helrich, two-year councilman term.

Those who have filed nominating petitions for the three-four year terms as councilmen are Henry Schep, William J. Hirth and Kenneth Titworth and incumbents Walter Kirkbusch, Leonard Morrison and Frank Chapoton.

City Clerk Edward W. Havel said election booths will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday at the Utica City Hall, 7705 Auburn Road.

Lutheran Church Plans Open House

BROOKLANDS—An open house will be conducted at Gethsemane Lutheran Church Sunday at 6:30 p.m. The sermon and object lesson will be given by the Rev. Norman Streuter of Trinity Lutheran Church, Utica.

St. John Lutheran Church of Rochester will sing. It is directed by Walter Papenberg.

Members of the Gethsemane Evangelism Society will make afternoon calls Sunday to invite area residents to the service. Dorothy K. Circle will serve light refreshments in the Fellowship Hall following the service.

The church is on Auburn Road near Dequindre Road.

Hazel Parker Submits 5th Reapportionment Bill

LANSING — The fifth congressional reapportionment bill to appear in the House yesterday was submitted by John C. Hitchcock (D-Hazel Park). It proposed a variety of changes to make way for the 19th Congressional District authorized after the 1960 census showed adequate population gains.

Southern Oakland County would get one district, with the northern areas to be aligned with Lapeer and St. Clair counties in another.

Macomb would be set up as one district, as would Genesee and Shiawassee counties; Ingham, Jackson and Eaton counties, and Kent and Ionia counties.

George Garver New Principal at Holly High

HOLLY — George Garver, principal of the Bennett Junior High School, has been named to succeed Theodore Krieger as principal of the Holly High School.

Krieger resigned as principal of the school Feb. 13, giving no reason for his action. The Holly Board of Education has not named a replacement for Garver.

Garver, who is serving his first year at the junior high school, will receive a salary of $5,000 per annum.

A former Linden High School principal, Garver was connected with the Clara Elizabeth fund in Flint before coming to Holly.

He is currently working on his doctorate from Michigan State University, where he received his master's degree.

Board of Review to Air Assessment Complaints

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—The board of review will be at the township hall on Main Street in Clarkson from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. next Tuesday and Wednesday and the same hours on March 13 and 14.

Any township resident who feels he has been unjustly assessed may have a hearing before the three-member board, and review and inspect the 1961 assessment roll, according to Duane Burdall, township supervisor.

SELECT 2,000 BOOKS—West Bloomfield Township Librarian Edward Melanson and Mrs. Arthur B. Moorey (right), library trustee, meet with Betty McKinley, state library consultant, in Lansing to select 2,000 volumes for loan to the township library when it opens in new quarters later this month at 5030 Orchard Lake Road. The new books, on loan for a three-year period, will be delivered next month. Currently there are 85,000 books on loan to 80 public libraries throughout the state.

AREA NEWS

Seeks Approval of School Tax

Armada Board Wants Mill Increase to Make Term 40 Weeks Long

ARMADA — In a second attempt to lengthen the school term to 40 weeks, the Armada Board of Education will ask voters to approve a four-mill operational tax in a special election Monday.

The length of the school year in the Armada Area School District, which was 38 weeks during 1959-60, was cut to 38 weeks this year because of a lack of operating funds.

The proposition on Monday's ballot, if approved, would raise the operational levy in the school district by only one mill, according to school Supt. Kenneth W. Stanley.

Stanley explained the district's 1960-61 operational levy is three mills. It was approved by voters in 1956 and expires in June, he said. The new millage would be levied for two years.

A request for a six-mill operational was soundly defeated Dec. 5 in the heaviest vote ever recorded in the district, $29 to 150.

WANT BUSES
If the four mills are approved in Monday's election, Stanley said the school board would lengthen the school term to 40 weeks and attempt to "squeeze out" enough money to buy 12 new school buses over the next eight or nine years.

Only one other school district, which reaches into Macomb County, St. Clair, still has its high school students on a 38-week schedule, Stanley reported.

The Armada Area School District, which takes in parts of seven townships, has a total of two elementary schools and one high school.

Total millage in the district now is at 18.9 mills or $18.90 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

To Be Panel Moderator

LAKE ORION — Vena Kirkpatrick, administrative assistant in the Lake Orion Community Schools, will moderate a panel discussion on television censorship at 8 p.m. Monday at Blanche Sims Elementary School.

The program is sponsored by the school's parent-teacher association, which will hold its annual election of officers prior to the panel discussion.

The 500 Locks carry more cargo than the Panama and Suez Canals combined, despite the fact that they are ice-bound four months a year.

Approves Ordinance Amendment

Oak Park Planning Group Furthers Office Center

OAK PARK—This city's planning commission has given preliminary approval to a zoning ordinance amendment which will facilitate development of a proposed $8-million office and service center on Greenfield Road.

City Attorney Carl W. Forsythe now is drafting the ordinance amendment which is based on recommendations made by City Planner Robert Bach.

The formal revision is expected to be ready sometime next month.

Ben Elkin, president of the Elkin Building Co., Detroit, said the erection of the center could begin within a year if 70 per cent of the office space is leased by that time.

Actual construction also hinges on the 12-Town Drain because the area between Lincoln Road and 118th Road, where the facility will be located, is without adequate drainage at the present time.

Elkin further stated that his company is willing to build its own sewage treatment plant for the project if interest in the center is "great enough."

Clustered around a 12-story office building, the center also will include another 8-story structure and several 2- and 3-story units. Accessory shops, providing service to employees and building users, also will be featured.

Other attractions of the "package" center will be a private executive-type club, membership in which will include use of an adjacent restaurant, gymnasium and swimming pool. A motel for out-of-town customers and clients also will be erected on the site.

The overall plan was developed by architect Robert Marans of Van Dyke Associates.

Brooklands-Avon PTA to See Skits

AVON TOWNSHIP — Nine troops of girl scouts and brownies will present a program of songs and skits at the 8 p.m. meeting Wednesday of the Brooklands-Avon Parent-Teacher Association.

The session will be held in the multipurpose room of Brooklands School.

Scout leaders and mothers will have their annual bazaar sale immediately after the program. Mrs. George Holtz is neighborhood chairman.

Second grade mothers will serve refreshments.

County 4-H Members to Mark Special Week

The nearly 1,500 4-H Club members in Oakland County will join their over 2 million fellow members in America in the observance of National 4-H Club Week which begins tomorrow and lasts through March 10.

Numbers of area clubs have planned special programs to mark the week-long event.

For example, East Orion 4-H Club, one of the biggest and most active in the county, will hold its Family and Community Night at 8 p.m. March 11 at Lake Orion Junior High School.

The occasion will feature a pre-achievement program, which will be a preview of County 4-H Achievement Day March 15. It will include exhibits, reports of work accomplished by club members and recognition of leaders who have made outstanding contributions to the club during the past year.

The Galloway Lake Club also is working on preliminary plans for a similar program later this month.

Another club, the Clarkson Happy Helpers, already has staged its pre-achievement day.

Oakland County's theme this year will be "Let's Join a 4-H Club."

At present there are more than 60 4-H clubs in the county, according to 4-H Club Agent Jack Worthington. He also reported that some 142 men and women serve as community and project leaders for the boys and girls enrolled in club work.

Although 4-H in its origin was composed primarily of farm boys and girls, the situation is quite different today. Oakland County has only 25 per cent rural youth in the program.

The law states that any boy or girl between 10 and 21 years of age may join 4-H, according to Worthington.

The work is conducted on a planned program including project work, recreation, and activities such as health, safety, conservation, courtesy and grooming.

Worthington reports that more adult leaders are needed to work with boys and girls who want to take part in 4-H club activities but are unable to because of the lack of adult leadership. Anyone interested in offering his services is asked to contact Worthington at the Cooperative Extension Service Office in Pontiac.

The nearly 70 projects available deal with practically every phase of farming and homemaking, according to Worthington. Many of the projects require little, if any expense to the member, he said.

County members have participated in such events as National 4-H Club Week, State 4-H Club Week, community, district and state achievement programs, American Royal and International 4-H Conference and 4-H Sunday during 1960.

They also have taken part in the county recognition program, the International Farm Youth Exchange Program (IFYE) and Share-The-Fun Program as well as attended 4-H Camp.

Registration Deadline Set in Independence

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—Clerk Harold Doebler has informed township residents that they have until 8 p.m. Monday to register for the biennial spring election to be held April 3.

The township will not receive registrations tomorrow.

Since the November presidential election only six or seven people have registered, Doebler said.

He added, "We don't look for many more... our big rush was during August and October." Some 800 residents registered at that time.

Now there's a cure for crabgrass

Crabgrass has frayed more tempers and ruined more lawns than any other lawn problem in history. Yet crabgrass can be cured. Not by back-breaking labor, but by a single, pre-season application of amazing HALTS®. HALTS was developed by Scotts research to kill crabgrass as it sprouts—without damage to good grass. In fact, HALTS is so compatible with grass, you can actually seed the same day! HALTS effectiveness has been proved by nearly a million homeowners. Today, if you hear someone complain about crabgrass ruining their lawn, you can bet they haven't discovered HALTS. Isn't it time you did?

Northern Tech Meet for State NAIA Title

MARQUETTE (UPI) — Ninth-ranked Northern Michigan defeated Ferris Institute of Big Rapids 68-49 last night in the opening set of a two-game playoff for the NAIA state championship.

Northern's Jerry Wright was high scorer in the game with 19 points. High man for Ferris was Tony Palmer with 15. Northern's Huskies will meet Lawrence Tech here tomorrow.

Lawrence Tech drew a bye for the first game of the playoffs. The winner of that game will go to Kansas City, Mo., to represent Michigan in the NAIA championship playoffs. In all, 32 teams will compete for the national title.

The playoffs are set for March 13-17.

Northern's season record is now 19-2 while Ferris ended its season with a record of 17-5.

Colavito Expects to Regain Form of 2 Years Ago

Rocky Has Found a Home

LAKEWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Just now, nearly a year after Frank Lane uprooted him from Cleveland, the six-place Detroit slugger expects to regain the form of 2 years ago when he was batting .300 for the Detroit Tigers.

THE ROCK SWINGS—This is how the pitcher sees Rocky Colavito when the Detroit Tiger slugger swings at one of his pitches. The Rock hit 35 homers last year. Catching is Harry Chitt.

And now, he expects to be the manager of the Cleveland Indians, shocked baseball by trading Colavito to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn.

The deal brought on criticism of the Tigers for trading away the American League batting champion, the Indians for giving up their top slugger.

Colavito's home run production slipped by seven, his runs-batted-in total by 24 and his batting average fell by eight points. Kuenn was hurt much of the time, his batting average fell off nearly 50 points, and before Lane left the Indians to become general manager of the Kansas City Athletics he dealt Kuenn to the San Francisco Giants.

"It has taken me a long time to get over the shock of being traded," said Colavito. "It's not that I was unhappy about coming to Detroit, and perhaps people don't understand how a player feels about being traded."

"I realize that being moved around is part of baseball. But I had just had two pretty good seasons with the Indians, and I felt good about my baseball career. I could see a lot of progress."

Colavito admitted it took him nearly a full season to shake off the pressure of the trade.

"The Tiger fans knew Kuenn as a great player who got his base hits regularly," he said. "I don't think I wanted them to forget Kuenn—but I wanted to please them so much I believe I tried to knock the ball out of the park every time I came to bat."

"I know I was overworking and I was mad at myself nearly all year. Late in the season I finally began to feel like my old self again."

If Colavito is his old self—the fellow who hit 35 home runs and drove in 224 runs in the 1958 and 1959 seasons with Cleveland—the Tigers have every right to expect they will improve their sixth place showing of 1960.

Williams in Another Hassle With Press

Hey Ted, Were You Feuding or Fooling?

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Former Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams is in the middle of another hassle today because a Boston baseball writer thought he was feuding when he might have been fooling.

Williams' latest battle in his 20-year-old war with the press developed suddenly yesterday when he passed sportswriter Larry Claffin of the Boston Daily Record in a press conference.

Williams shouted at Claffin and raised his right fist causing the writer to throw up his arms in protest.

Other writers were divided as to whether Williams was threatening Claffin or engaging in horse play but the scribe insisted that the retired slugger was serious.

The name he called me eliminates any possibility that he was fooling," said Claffin, who added that Williams accused him of telephoning his ex-wife last December to ask what Ted had bought for her for Christmas.

Williams' accusation made it Claffin's turn to blow his top and the scribe promptly left a note for Williams in the clubhouse challenging him to a "bet of $1,000 that I can go before a live detective and pass a test if asked about my phone calls."

"This, I say, is a lie. I have never called my ex-wife, or made any effort to call her, in my life."

Claffin's interpretation of the incident was supported in the Boston Morning Record by Joe Cashman, who wrote: "...He (Williams) verbally lacerated one Boston writer. He appeared to be on the verge of punching him before he gained control of his emotions."

Dick Young of the New York News believes that Ted was merely trying to embarrass Claffin and has no intention of throwing a punch.

Fernandez Hopes to Leave Cuba This Weekend

LAKEWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — The only thing the United States has been getting out of Cuba lately is baseball players and even this time the United States through Mexico.

Chico Fernandez, the 'Tiger' missing shortstop told the team he hopes to start on his way to the Tiger camp here sometime this weekend.

Fernandez, who'll be the only seasoned player on the Tiger to field this year, has already missed three days of practice.

Like most of the Cuban players, Fernandez is expected to enter the United States through Mexico.

In yesterday's practice session the Tigers went through more batting practice. Charley Maxwell, former left fielder replaced by Rocky Colavito, began working out at first base where the competition is heavy.

Bradley Continues as Scoring Leader

By The Associated Press

College basketball's big scorer is almost certain to be from a small college.

And the best bet is he'll be John Bradley of Lawrence Tech in Detroit.

Latest statistics from the National Collegiate Service Bureau show Bradley, the leader since mid-January, averaging 33.2 points per game. That's a full point average better than the major college leader, Frank Burges of Gonzaga, and a shade in front of the small college runner-up, Lebron Bell of Bryan (33.0).

Bell has finished playing for the season and Burges has only one game left—against Idaho tonight—in which he would have to score 35 points to pass Bradley.

The entire Lawrence Tech team is pacing the small college team offense with an average of 96.7 points per game. Defending champ Mississippi College has 94.8 and undefeated Mansfield State 94.5.
