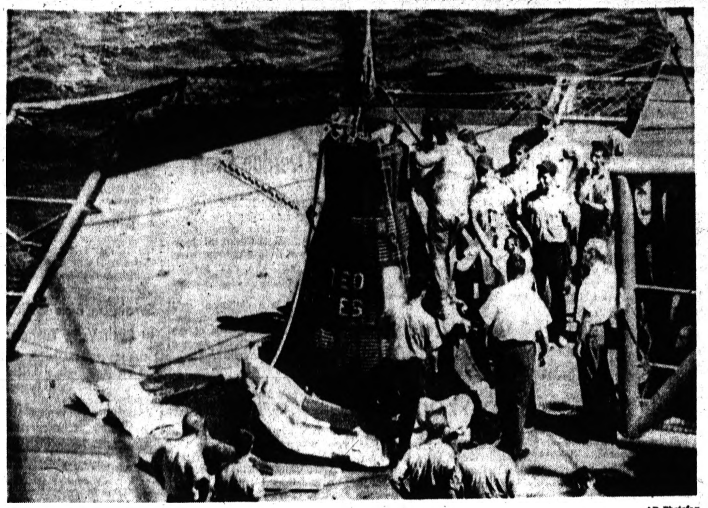
Schirra Clears Way for U.S. 24-Hour Flight



AP Photofax

SCHIRRA LEAVES SIGMA 7 — Sailors of the USS Kearsarge cluster around the space capsule of astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. yesterday as the spaceman climbs out of the Sigma 7 after orbiting the earth six times. Schirra stayed in the capsule until it had been hauled on the carrier's deck, then blew the escape hatch and climbed out.

Officials Say Trip Nearly Shortened

Astronaut 90 Seconds From Being Grounded After First Orbit

From Our News Wires

CAPE CANAVERAL — Walter Schirra's near-flawless flight proved the United States is ready for a 24-hour manned flight now in the works, Project Mercury officials said today.

It also brought closer the day when American spacecraft can rendezvous high above the earth — a key step toward manned flights to the moon.

Project officials, reviewing yesterday's space feat at a news briefing, also disclosed that Schirra at one point was just a minute and a half from returning to earth after the first orbit because his space suit was heating up.

Kris Kraft, project flight director, said that after reaching 87 to 88 degrees while Schirra was over Australia, the suit began to cool.

The decision to go on was made just 90 seconds before braking rockets were to have fired and brought the astronaut back to earth.

As for the 18-orbit, 24-hour flight, which could come in January, Kraft said present plans call for a landing in the Atlantic where the two three-orbit flights terminated.

For this one, extra oxygen, water, batteries and control fuel will be added to the capsule.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy plans within two weeks to close U. S. ports to all Russian ships if any Soviet vessels continue to carry arms to Castro Cuba, U. S. sources said today. The order also would affect some free world ships carrying Communist bloc cargo to Cuba.

After Defense Dept. Demand

Move U. of Mississippi Game

From Our News Wires

OXFORD, Miss. — The Defense Department today forced the University of Mississippi to cancel its formal homecoming festivities and transfer Saturday's football game away from the troubled campus.

The game will be played in the state capital of Jackson, 170 miles away.

At the same time, the Justice Department said in Washington that U.S. deputy marshals and federal troops would guard Negro student James Meredith for the full year and a half he plans to attend the previously all - white school here.

The Justice Department said Meredith is "going to stay" at the university.

Announcement of the switch in game plans capped a confusing series of announcements and reports that first had reported the game would be played here, then said it would be moved to Houston.

The ultimatum resulted from official fears that an influx of 30,000 football fans might spark new disorders from the forcible integration into Ole Miss by Meredith.

A traditional Friday night homecoming dance, a parade, outdoor pep rallies and bonfires — all were canceled.

However, one sign of an increasing return toward normal on the campus was the announcement that more than 300 of 400 U.S. marshals were being withdrawn from duty here.

Meredith's escort of marshals to take him to and from classes was cut in half, from six to three. There have been no disorders of significance since rioting claimed two lives last weekend.

Nevertheless, from Washington came an assessment of the situation on the campus as still "fairly tense."

Mississippi University Chancellor J. D. Williams said of the decision to transfer the football game with the University of Houston:

"The Ole Miss campus is secure and a condition of near normalcy under the circumstances is rapidly returning. Less than 60 students have formally withdrawn and some of them may return by Monday . . .

"We have been advised by Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, and Cyrus R. Vance, secretary of the army, from Washington, concerning our homecoming game — that it be played in Houston or Jackson, or that the game be canceled."

Laughter Fills Lunchroom; Then, Death Comes to 21

NEW YORK (AP) — It was 12:06 p.m. The basement lunchroom of the New York Telephone Co.'s uptown Manhattan building was filled with about 100 employes, most of them young women.

The air was filled with pleasant chatter and feminine laughter.

The minute hand edged toward 12:07.

At that moment, a massive steam boiler weighing more than a ton erupted into the lunchroom with the force of a jet-propelled projectile and smashed its way up through the ceiling to the first floor, bounced back into the lunchroom and rocketed through an opposite wall.

It destroyed or killed or maimed everything in its path. Steam, smoke and flames filled the basement. Overturned desks, cabinets and broken bodies fell through the gaping hole in the ceiling to add to the carnage below.

For perhaps 30 seconds after the blast there was a stunned silence. Then a lonely cry pierced the choking air: "My God, my God."

The time was 12:08 p.m.

At least 21 persons—nineteen of them women whose ages ranged from 18 to 62—were killed in the disaster and at least 100 others were injured. Most of the injured also were women.

Pictures on Page C-13

Area hospitals set up emergency facilities. Doctors came from far and near to care for the injured.

★ ★ ★

Transit employes working nearby and others from every walk of life aided police and firemen in rescue operations.

MINISTER TO DEAD

Clergymen of various faiths came to minister to the dead and the dying. These littered the sidewalk in grotesque postures of death and made the normally bustling area around the building at 213th Street and Broadway look like a war-torn battlefield.

Dazed survivors and relatives and friends of employes in the building stood by and waited for news of their loved ones. Others moved to a makeshift morgue nearby.

The boiler that caused the disaster — one of three oil-burning boilers in the two-story building— had been cleaned last week and placed back into service less than an hour before the tragedy.

Injunction Sought in Ship Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Acting under orders of President Kennedy, federal attorneys today asked for a Taft-Hartley Act injunction to halt a longshoremen's strike tying up shipping on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

★ ★ ★

The move was made in papers filed with U.S. Dist. Judge Joan F. X. McGohey. The judge scheduled for 3 p.m. today a hearing on the government's motion.

Counsel for the International Longshoremen's Association was expected to oppose the action. Approximately 60,000 ILA members struck early Monday in ports on the two coasts.

The federal attorneys wasted little time in carrying out the President's orders.

Kennedy acted after receiving a report from the three-man board he appointed Monday to investigate the walkout.

Naming of such a board is the first step under the Taft-Hartley law to halt major industrial work stoppages.

Kennedy's action cleared the way for the government to seek an end to the strike for an 80-day cooling off period.

★ ★ ★

Twice before, Kennedy has invoked the Taft-Hartley law to end shipping strikes on the East and West coasts.

GIVES BOBBY OK

With today's order, he instructed Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to petition any federal court with jurisdiction in the far-flung strike area to put the longshoremen back on their jobs.

De Gaulle Says He Might Quit

Demands Approval of Popular Vote Move

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle coolly threatened to quit unless France approves his proposal to elect future presidents by popular vote.

★ ★ ★

The proposal will be submitted to a national referendum Oct. 28.

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle spoke in a radio-television address just two hours before the National Assembly was scheduled to take up a motion of censure against the government. In effect, he was appealing to the people—over the head of Parliament—to follow his leadership.

The president said he needed "yes" votes in the referendum to give him strength for his future activities.

★ ★ ★

It was the first of two nationwide de Gaulle broadcasts preceding the vote in Parliament, in the first major political crisis of the Fifth Republic. Dissolution of the assembly and elections next month appeared likely.

LITTLE CRITICISM

There has been little criticism of de Gaulle himself and his conduct of the presidency. But the popular vote will apply only to future presidents. De Gaulle was elected by a college of about 80,000 electors made up of members of Parliament, regional councils and municipal councils.

★ ★ ★

No less than 38 deputies put their names on the speakers' list for the assembly debate. This indicated the debate might drag on into the night and that the vote might not come before the early hours of Friday.

Medics Find Astronaut Suffered No Ill Effects

ABOARD U.S.S. KEARSARGE IN PACIFIC (AP)—Astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. lost only four pounds during his prolonged voyage through space — a doctor said it was "less than he would have lost playing a game of football."

Dr. Richard Pollard of Jackson Mich., and Dr. Max J. Traumser of Springfield, Pa., said a preliminary medical examination of Schirra turned up no ill effects as a result of the 9 hour 13 minute orbital flight.

Schirra turned in early last night, his ears ringing with praise for his spectacularly precise six-orbit world flight earlier in the day.

Schirra's scorched capsule parachuted into the Pacific at 10:28 a.m. Midway time — 4:28 p.m. EST—in full view of hundreds of crewmen packed across the bow of this flattop's flight deck.

So precise was the navigation by both Schirra and the recovery force that the Sigma 7 spacecraft came down in a calm sea only a few thousand yards ahead of the Kearsarge.

Unharmed and in his own words "happy as a lark," Schirra decided to remain in his spacecraft until it was hoisted aboard almost an hour after splashing into the Pacific 285 miles northeast of Midway Island.

DOCTORS' FINDINGS

After a 2½-hour medical examination, the doctors reported they found:

No change in Schirra's condition from his last checkup at Cape Canaveral just before his space voyage;

No evidence of cosmic rays immediately detectable;

No change in equilibrium;

No space sickness;

No difficulty in eating;

No abnormal bodily functions.

They described Schirra's condition as "very good."

A further examination was made to determine if there were any "subtle changes" in Schirra's condition.

"We found none," said Dr. Pollard.

The doctors quoted Schirra as saying he ate two tubes of specially prepared food, one of them peaches. They said they believed the other tube was also fruit.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Traumer said Schirra drank liquids during the flight but passed up solid food because they had been hard to pick up and hold in his gloved hands.

"When you're having that much fun you just don't get hungry," Pollard quoted Schirra.

Nor, in his nearly nine hours of weightlessness, did the astronaut feel any discomfiture or vertigo.

As Com. Schirra pointed out to the doctors, his experience demonstrated that Soviet Cosmonaut Gherman S. Titov represented an individual case rather than the general rule in his response to weightlessness.

Titov reported he felt a nausea resembling seasickness after about six hours of being weightless.

One of the primary biomedical objectives of the Schirra flight was to extend the weightless state of an American astronaut beyond the point in which Titov began to feel nauseated.

Pollard said Schirra "was not particularly tired after his flight and certainly no more fatigued than he would have been from a Cape Canaveral training exercises."

★ ★ ★

More detailed examinations are scheduled Thursday when a team of medics from Cape Canaveral reaches the carrier.

A major objective will be to measure radiation absorption, if any, by Schirra's system.

★ ★ ★

For the first time radiation measuring devices were attached to the capsule. They were used because of increased radiation thrown into outer space by the United States nuclear tests at Christmas and Johnston Islands this summer.

Patients Move Into New Wing

Osteopathic Hospital Nearly Completed

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, slowly but surely becoming the largest osteopathic hospital in Michigan, took another step toward that distinction today.

Patients and equipment began moving into the second level of the hospital's new $1.3-million wing at 10 a.m.

"The initial move will involve only about 33 patients," said Harry H. Whitlow, administrator.

"The second level houses our new surgical suite and has a capacity of about 120 beds."

The new wing, under construction for more than a year, has three floors or levels.

The third level of the new wing, devoted mainly to patients' rooms, was opened for use last April. The first level, or ground floor, and the penthouse administrative offices will be last to open.

READY SHORTLY

Currently being completed and equipped, these may be ready for use by the end of the month.

Official dedication of the new wing is tentatively slated for early next year. Before then, the old building is to be completely renovated and redecorated.

"When our total expansion program is completed, we will be the biggest osteopathic hospital in Michigan and could well be the biggest in the nation," Whitlow explained.

From 10:15 a.m. yesterday until the same hour today .1 of an inch in rain fell on the downtown area.

Parade to Start Special Week

Mark Fire Prevention Drive Oct. 7-13

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13, will be kicked off in the area Saturday with a parade in downtown Pontiac and a field day program.

Nearly 20 county fire departments will take part in the 1 p.m. parade up Saginaw Street and competition at the Northside Ball Park, Edison at Montcalm.

During the week, set aside annually after the Chicago fire of 1871 as a reminder of the havoc fire can create, literature on fire prevention will be distributed at schools and films will be available on request.

Merchants throughout the area are cooperating by displaying posters in windows reading "Stop Fires — Save Lives."

Pontiac Fire Department Capt. Albert Rayner, general chairman for the week-long activities, said the prime purpose of Fire Prevention Week is to educate the public of the dangers around homes and business places that can start fires.

PLAN PARADE

The parade, he said, will last a half hour and units will be assembled on Saginaw between Judson and Parke. The parade route will be north on Saginaw to Oakland Blvd.

★ ★ ★

Field day events will begin at 2 p.m. with a flag-raising ceremony using an aerial ladder truck.

Participating in the fifth annual parade will be fire departments from Pontiac, Pontiac Motor Div., Clarkston, Walled Lake, Troy, Commerce Township, Avondale, Brooklands, Pontiac Township, West Bloomfield Township, Birmingham, Rochester, Ortonville, Bloomfield Township, Waterford Township and White Lake Township.

WHITEY FORD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 59th World Series, seventh between the Yankees and Giants, opens at Candlestick Park today in a battle of left-handers between New York's Whitey Ford and San Francisco's Billy O'Dell.

San Francisco's joyous citizens appeared unmindful of the odds which made the Yankees a 7-to-5 favorite to win the opener and a 17-to-10 choice to win the series. All that mattered was that the Giants had whipped their arch-rival, the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 in the final playoff game to bring the first National League championship to San Francisco.

One reason the Yankees are such prohibitive favorites is their long tradition of series supremacy. The Yankees have won 20 of 26 series, including four of six from the Giants, who haven't beaten them since 1922.

Another reason is the Yankees are well rested after having clinched the American League pennant on Sept. 25. The Giants, of course, had a hard pull, needing three playoff games to win the NL pennant, after trailing the Dodgers since July 8.

Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants did not appear worried over the Yankees' physical and statistical edge.

★ ★ ★

"The Yankees' rest doesn't make too much of a difference, I don't think," Dark said. "I'm more concerned about my pitching staff. I would have liked for my starting pitchers to have had more rest."

SAME LINEUP

Dark said he planned to use the same line-up that defeated the Dodgers Wednesday. His only changes will be in the batting order where he said he would move Jim Davenport up from seventh to second and drop Chuck Hiller from second to eighth. Ed Bailey would bat sixth and Jose Pagan seventh.

"If O'Dell says he feels all right, he's my opening pitcher," Dark said. "I want to open with him, then follow with Jack Sanford (a right-hander) here Friday and have Billy Pierce (a left-hander) ready for the third game in Yankee Stadium on Sunday."

Trade Measure OK'd by House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill clamping tighter controls on production and sale of prescription drugs cleared Congress today as the House gave 347-0 approval and sent it to the President.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bent on adjournment by Saturday, the House quickly passed a compromise trade expansion law today and turned its attention to a postal rate increase - federal employes pay raise bill.

The vote was 256-91.

The trade measure, a major victory for President Kennedy, went to the Senate which was expected to send it promptly to the White House.

The trade bill and the postal-pay raise measure are two of the biggest pieces of legislation remaining on the congressional docket. The latter bill passed the Senate on Wednesday.

EARLY STARTS

Both the Senate and the House met two hours ahead of their usual starting time to plunge into calendars crowded with last-minute business.

The compromise trade bill gives the President all the unprecedented powers he sought to slash and eliminate tariffs and to work out broad economic arrangements with the European Common Market.

The House took only about an hour on the measure, high speed for such a controversial matter.

The Senate is expected to follow suit promptly. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., assistant Democratic leader, said passage of the legislation will be the crowning achievement of this Congress.

2 OTHER ITEMS

Two other major items are just about wrapped up for the trip to the White House:

The combined bill raising postal rates $605 million a year, including a penny rise on letters, and increasing pay of 1.6 million federal workers.

The measure placing stricter controls on the manufacture and sale of prescription drugs.

★ ★ ★

The compromise versions of both cleared the Senate Wednesday. The House is scheduled to complete action today on the postal rates-federal pay legislation and possibly the drug bill.

★ ★ ★

Despite these developments, leaders kept their fingers crossed over the prospects of adjournment this weekend.

They said privately these three things, or any one of them, might hold the legislators here into next week:

1. The foreign aid money bill, for which the Senate voted $792 million more than the House. This is the most important remaining measure on which the two branches have not yet agreed. Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., house delegation chief, said he would battle the higher Senate appropriation.

2. The bill to permit self-employed persons to set up tax-deductible pension funds, now on Kennedy's desk. He has not said whether he will veto it. Unless word is forthcoming soon, Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said he would try to attach it as a rider to the last supplemental money bill.

DEADLOCKED

3. The agriculture money bill. This has been deadlocked for weeks in conference over research funds and a proposed peanut marketing research laboratory at Dawson, Ga. Sen. Richard B. Russell, Da-Ga., chief Senate conferee, told a reporter this was a most serious dispute. House conferees may seek new instructions today.

Daisy Now a Big Girl Hurricane

By The Associated Press

Daisy, a flighty mass of swirling winds that nearly blew itself out over the weekend, swelled to hurricane force overnight and aimed toward the Florida peninsula.

Forecasters said the storm packed winds of up to 75 miles per hour near the center. Gales reached out 250 miles to the east and north and 50 miles to the southwest of center, churning up seas angry enough to keep small craft in port as far away as the Bahamas.

Daisy's center was located at latitude 24.5 north, longitude 68.0 west, approximately 775 miles east of Miami. The storm was moving west northwest at about 8 or 9 miles per hour.

Forecasters said the storm would continue to increase slightly and slowly and maintain its present course and speed for the next 24 hours.

More showers pestered the East Coast today, already soggy after three days of off-and-on rains.

Heaviest hit was the state of Virginia. State police reported most roads in northern Princess Anna County were under water after Wednesday's thorough soaking.

Norfolk, Va., caught three inches of rainfall in six hours. Elsewhere, the rains were largely light and confined to the eastern half of the nation, where drizzle and fog drifted down again today.

It was another sun-warmed autumn day for much of the rest of the country, with temperatures remaining seasonal.

MAN IN DEMAND — Following his successful six-orbit space shot and successful recovery yesterday, Walter M. Schirra received three phone calls aboard the carrier USS Kearsarge. One was from President Kennedy, one came from Vice President Johnson and then he talked to his wife in Houston, Tex.

Near-Perfect Flight Makes Pilot Jubilant

much too busy to relate in space.

Jubilant U.S. space officials said Schirra's textbook-perfect six orbits of the earth disclosed new fuel-saving methods that will spur the nation's drive toward the moon.

President Kennedy called Schirra's feat an "historic exploration into space."

After the 39-year-old Navy commander, comfortably lodged in the admiral's cabin of the aircraft carrier Kearsarge, completes his uninterrupted dictaphone accounting, physicians will examine him thoroughly for any possible aftereffects.

Two doctors on the Kearsarge have reported he apparently suffered no ill effects.

★ ★ ★

No other American has spent so much time — more than nine hours — weightless and in orbit. From first appearances, the strain had been no greater than for a jet-plane flight of comparable length.

The Kearsarge plucked Schirra — perfectly dry and comfortable in his Sigma 7 spacecraft — from mid-Pacific waters less than three miles off its bow.

With unprecedented accuracy, and a performance of unrivaled smoothness, Schirra and the Project Mercury team that launched him from Cape Canaveral hit a bullseye for the longest orbit flight yet taken by an American.

★ ★ ★

Schirra blasted off at Florida's breakfast hour—7:15 a.m. EST. He traveled about 160,000 miles, and then went aboard the carrier before lunch had been served.

★ ★ ★

For a brief time during that 9 hours and 13 minutes Schirra encountered a minor problem when his space suit's heating system became too warm. This condition was subsequently corrected.

But Walter B. Williams, operations officer of Project Mercury, said in Cape Canaveral that the flight "as far as I'm concerned. was perfect."

Both he and Schirra's fellow astronaut Donald Slayton said a highly significant result was Schirra's ability to let his two-ton, bell-shaped capsule drift uncontrolled through a full orbit and one-half without difficulty.

He thereby conserved control fuel and as a result had 80 per cent of the fuel left in the manual and automatic control systems when he was in position to fire the braking rockets at the conclusion of his flight.

Another favorable result was the fact that Schirra could align his capsule easily, after drifting for a long period. He did this by using reference marks on the capsule window.

This will permit removal of the periscope, Williams said, to make room for 75 pounds of additional oxygen and fuel for a future U.S. space venture, the 24-hour orbital flight.

The 24-hour flight is planned for early next year. After that would come two-man orbits with the Gemini space capsule, followed by a landing on the moon before 1970.

Another of Schirra's fellow astronauts, John Glenn, said Schirra "could possibly have gone for six more orbits with more fuel and oxygen." Glenn manned a mercury tracking station at Pt. Arguello, Calif.

By contrast to Schirra's orbital ride, the water journey of less than 1,000 miles to Honolulu, under way today, will take about 72 hours, or eight times as long as the Sigma 7 cruise.

His spacecraft parachuted into the water 285 miles northeast of Midway Island at 4:28 p.m. EST.

★ ★ ★

A whaleboat from the Kearsarge took him in tow, and at 5:08 p.m. EST, a winch lifted Sigma 7 and its pilot aboard the carrier. By the clocks on the Kearsarge it was 11:08 a.m. — about time for the first noon mess call.

U.S. to Allies: Kill Cuba Trade

Asks Nations Tighten Curbs on Shipping

LONDON (AP)—The United States has called on seven European maritime nations to impose tighter curbs on their shipping with Cuba and thus limit the build-up of Fidel Castro's power.

The foreign office confirmed today that Britain received new proposals on the subject Tuesday from the U. S. State Department.

But a spokesman told newsmen details of the American approach must remain secret. He said exchanges are still going on. They are expected to be discussed formally soon by the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Paris.

Other countries approached besides Britain are West Germany, Italy, Greece, Norway, Denmark and Sweden. The only non-NATO nation among them is Sweden.

Among the measures under study by President Kennedy's administration is a move to bar any ships carrying war-potential goods to Cuba from entering American ports.

Two difficulties evidently have arisen in Washington's exchanges on the matter with its allies:

1. Not all the Allies agree that Cuba has irrevocably entered the Communist bloc.

2. There is no generally accepted definition of what can be classified as strategic goods.

Fruehauf Bids Again to Get Free of Charge

Oakland County trailer magnate Roy Fruehauf is standing trial for the second time on a charge that he and four other truckers illegally gave $200,000 to former Teamster Chief Dave Beck.

Fruehauf is one of the defendants in a New York federal court trial of Beck, charged with violating the Taft-Hartley Law by accepting an employer's money.

Fruehauf had won dismissal of charges against him in 1960 when he contended the $200,000 given to Beck was a loan and not a gift.

However, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1961 that Beck and five trucking employers, including Fruehauf, could be prosecuted in the $200,000 exchange.

The decision reinstated the proceedings dismissed on Feb. 19, 1960, by Federal District Court Judge Sidney Sugarman of New York.

Defense attorney Louis Nizer, lawyer for Fruehauf, said he would repeat Fruehauf's 1960 defense before a New York jury of seven men and five women.

President Victim of Autumn Sneezes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is suffering from a head cold and has canceled his schedule for the day, a White House spokesman announced at midmorning.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger described Kennedy's ailment as "a minor upper respiratory infection."

Adm. George W. Burkley, assistant White House physician, examined the President this morning and recommended that he stay in his living quarters at the executive mansion.

The White House said Kennedy's temperature and pulse are normal.

The Day in Bloomfield Hills

Postpone Discussion of Prayer Policy

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — School Supt. Eugene L. Johnson today said that discussion of the permissive prayer policy has been postponed, possibly until Nov. 20, by the Bloomfield Hills Board of Education.

Legality of the policy adopted in January originally was scheduled to be discussed at the board's next meeting on Oct. 16.

However, Johnson said the board asked that the issue be removed from this month's agenda because there is a possibility that several of its members will not be present at the meeting.

Johnson explained that the school officials want to review the policy only when the full seven-member board is represented.

The legality of the policy has been questioned by Stratton Brown, attorney for the school district, after the board had asked him to review it in light of a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling on school prayers.

Brown has indicated that it "would probably be permitted" under the high court decision.

The policy provides that "teachers may at appropriate times, in the presence of their students, orally thank God for the blessings that surround us and ask His help and guidance."

The school superintendent said he expects that board members will want to meet informally with Brown sometime after this month's meeting.

No action would be taken at any informal meeting, said Johnson, and the matter will be aired publicly sometime next month.

540 Eggs No Yolk to Woman

"Wow, I've been in super markets that didn't have that many eggs on the shelf."

This was Mrs. John Milliken's reaction when she opened her front door last night and found 540 eggs on the front porch.

Mrs. Milliken, of 506 Lakeside St., Waterford Township was spending a quiet evening at home when she thought she heard a car pull up on her driveway.

A few moments later she heard it drive away and went to the front door to investigate. "I was dumbfounded when I opened the door and saw all those eggs," she exclaimed.

Thinking they may have been stolen property, she called police who picked up the two large cartons and launched an investigation. The case was quickly solved.

The 45 dozen eggs, destined for delivery to the home of a milkman living on the corner of Riviera and Motorway streets, were inadvertently dropped off at the Milliken residence on the corner of Riviera and Lakeside, just a block away.

Navy Finds Debris of Overdue Craft

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The Navy said today that wreckage of a civilian plane pulled from the Atlantic Ocean off Jacksonville was from a General Electric Co. craft with four persons aboard overdue in Daytona Beach, Fla.

The Navy in a statement said that salvage crews and technicians found enough pieces of the missing plane to establish beyond a doubt the make and registration.

Although the Navy did not say so, there may have been a collision between a Navy jet and the civilian craft.

A Navy pilot was killed in the same general area off Ponte Vedra Beach Tuesday. His jet fighter plane plunged into the ocean. The pilot was Lt. (j.g.) E. E. Faulk of Columbia, Ala.

Johnson said the issue probably will be on the agenda for the Nov. 20 board meeting.

The first fall meeting of the Wayne State University Alumnae Club of Birmingham will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Reynolds Aluminum Co. building, Northland Drive at Northwestern Highway, Southfield.

Dr. Marvin Revzin, professor of oral surgery at the University of Detroit and a member of the Henry Ford Hospital staff, will describe his tour of duty aboard the goodwill hospital ship HOPE.

"Birmingham Schools Up to Date" is the topic of a speech to be given by Birmingham School Supt. Dr. Otis M. Dickey next Wednesday to the local branch of the American Association of University Women.

The superintendent will discuss federal aid to education, the building program of a rapidly expanding school system and qualifications for hiring and promotion of Birmingham teachers.

His talk will follow the association's 12:30 p.m. luncheon in the Birmingham Community House.

Swainson Bids Officials to Push Vote Turnout

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Swainson has asked all state agency heads to encourage a good voter turnout in November.

"I would like to ask each of you to take every necessary step to encourage the state employes in your agency to register by Oct. 8 and to vote on Nov. 6," said Swainson in a memo to all state departments.

USIA Director Reported Ill

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Edward R. Murrow, director of the United States Information Agency, is suffering from pneumonia, U.S. Army hospital authorities announced today.

Murrow, who is on a tour of the Near and Middle East, became ill last week. An earlier diagnosis said he had pleurisy.

A hospital spokesman said Murrow's condition is improving satisfactorily.

FBI Plans to Check Bullets From Oxford

WASHINGTON (AP) —Bullets fired in Sunday night's violence at the University of Mississippi are going to be checked in the FBI laboratory against weapons confiscated there in an effort to solve two riot deaths.

★ ★ ★

A number of bullets including two from the bodies of the two victims, are being sent to the FBI here, an official said Wednesday.

Paul Guihard, 30, correspondent for the French Press Agency and for the London Daily Sketch; and Ray Gunter, 23, an Oxford, Miss., jukebox repairman, were shot and killed during violence that erupted after Negro James H. Meredith was admitted to the previously all-white university.

OK Loan to Plymouth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Community Facilities Administration has announced a $6,950 interest-free loan to Plymouth, Mich., to finance preliminary planning of improvements to the town's water system. The project's total cost is estimated at $512,380.

State Police Dog to Be Honored With Gravestone

IONIA (AP) — Trooper Rex, a state police tracking dog that died recently, will be remembered by a memorial stone at Ionia.

★ ★ ★

Ionia businessmen donated $83 for the stone, to be placed this weekend above the spot where the dog is buried on the grounds of the Ionia State Police Post.

The stone will bear a likeness of the German Shepherd.

The dog tracked down three persons during his year at the Ionia post, one a missing child and two walkaways from state institutions.

Mrs. Gail Troxel, an Ionia parking meter attendant, collected the funds for the 350-pound stone. Donations were limited to 50 cents each although some admirers of the dog wanted to give as much as $10, she said.

American housewives average 63 hours of work each week, according to recent surveys. By contrast a Belgian housewife works 114 hours per week.

Finds Fiancee Dead in Blast

NEW YORK (AP)—There was fear in the heart of Robert Roth, 22, off-duty city fireman, when he heard of the boiler explosion Wednesday at a telephone company office.

Roth's fiance, Margaret Meyer, 22, was a phone company employe at that building.

Roth rushde to the scene, and went from body to body, finally, at one he stopped and broke down in tears. There was an engagement ring on the dead girl's finger and on an ankle was a bracelet inscribed, "to Margaret from Bob."

Bride-to-Be Off Work Saved From Explosion

NEW YORK (AP) — A morning off to prepare for her approaching wedding saved Kathryn Sheehan, 22, from possible death or injury in Wednesday's boiler explosion at a telephone building.

Miss Sheehan, to be married Saturday, was just entering the building when the blast occurred. She suffered shock, but no injuries.

In 1867 Denmark offered to sell the Virgin Islands, its Caribbean possession to the United States for $7.5 million, but the offer was declined by the U. S. Senate. In 1916, however, fearing that Germany might buy the island group to create a base in the Western Hemisphere, the United States paid Denmark $25 million.

Chairmen Take Alternating Slaps at Candidates

LANSING (AP) — The chairmen of the state's Democratic and Republican parties hammered at the political issues of the fall campaign last night in a debate at a meeting of the Central Michigan Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic society.

George Van Peursem, Republican state chairman, and Joe Collins, Democratic state chairman, found little to agree upon during the debate, which was moderated by Frank Angelo, managing editor of the Detroit Free Press and a national SDX officer.

Van Peursem said Romney would get more cooperation from the legislature than any Democratic governor would be able to get.

Collins acknowledged that Romney might get cooperation from the legislature. He said that Romney demonstrated at the constitutional convention that "he will get along with anybody—at any cost."

The Republican party chairman asserted that "There is only one real issue in the 1962 campaign — leadership at the executive level.

"I can recall when Michigan's problems — chronic unemployment, ever-increasing tax burden, continued lack of industrial growth, a persistently bad job climate, and a mess in Lansing — were issues," Van Peursem said.

"Sadly enough," the Republican added, "they no longer are issues. They are chronic problems which 14 years of Democratic executive leadership have completely failed to solve."

'SIGNIFICANT EVENTS'

Collins' projected view of Romney's leadership was less bright than Van Peursem's. Collins said significant events will take place in the next two years, and added:

"I would hate to see these events taking shape while the governor was campaigning in Oregon or Wisconsin for another office."

The Democrat more than once implied that Romney was shooting for a higher office than the one in the State Capitol, and said Swainson "has no designs on any governmental office except that of governor of Michigan."

The two chairmen came closer to agreement when asked about recent political polls. Both said political polls are good indications of how certain people say they will vote, but both agreed it was another matter to get people to the voting places.

A discussion of campaign funds touched off some skirmishing. Collins asserted that employes of five Wayne County corporations contributed $294,000 to Republicans in 1960. He said the sum was more than the Democrats' entire campaign budget.

To a reporter, he said the corporation employe contributions were collected systematically: General Motors, he said, collected $147,270; Chrysler Corp., $63,581; Ford Motor Co. $60,283, Burroughs Corp. and J. L. Hudson Co., about $12,000 each.

HITS DEM SYSTEM

Van Peursem, in turn, criticized the Democrats' system of collecting campaign funds from unions dues.

Van Peursem said one of Swainson's answers to the "economic plight of Michigan" was to run to Washington to plead with President Kennedy for defense work.

But, Van Peursem added, "defense contracts are, at best, stop-gap measures, and, in the long run, do not lead to steady employment or economic stability."

* * *

He also alleged that Swainson's appeals to Kennedy have shown a noticeable lack of success. "Apparently," Van Peursem said, "Swainson has forgotten that 39% stands only for 'jobs for kinfolk.'"

* * * * *

Collins said Michigan's failure to get defense contracts stemmed from a lack of public investment in research projects, because, he said, the states which have been getting defense work attracted the contracts with research projects begun with public funds.

Walker's Action in Miss. 'Disgrace' to Uniform

If ever a man deserved the derogatory term "disgrace to the uniform," that man is former Major General EDWIN A. WALKER. The U.S. Army can only be hurt by his actions, despite the fact that he is no longer a part of that proud outfit.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps the man is mentally ill, and if that is the case, it is regrettable that his family or friends let him wander into the University of Mississippi mess.

★ ★ ★

From defending the U. S. Constitution in Little Rock by leading the Federal troops enforcing integration there, he has come the complete circle. Now he has been arrested for leading a charge of the disorderly and murderous mob on the Ole Miss campus.

★ ★ ★

There was the faint possibility that Gen. Walker's activities on behalf of the John Birch Society in attempting to influence troops under his command in Germany might have gone unnoticed.

Without this alarm, the possibly unsound WALKER and his current opinions might still have been leading our forces in Germany.

Retraining Program Not too Successful

All the talk around Washington concerning the retraining of men for new jobs has brought to light some recent statistics worth cogitating.

Reports show that for the $70-million Congress put up, the Labor Department proposed to train 70,000 men at $1,000 each to equip them for new jobs. Their former work was supposed to have been lost because of automation or some other cause.

★ ★ ★

The results to date show that 11 states have set up such projects. Figures point out that the average cost per man is $1,695, or 70 per cent higher than the Labor Department estimated.

The net result will be that either fewer men will be retrained than the government promised, or the Johnny-come-latelies will get less and poorer training than the men in the first projects.

★ ★ ★

Like so many government agencies that look good on paper, the actual results often differ from the original pretty picture.

Reports Against Pilots Backed Up at Hearing

In testimony to a congressional subcommittee, airline stewardesses and flight attendants are backing up earlier reports that they have flown airliners in violation of safety rules.

During a recent strike involving members of the Airline Pilots Association and the Flight Engineer International Association, the engineers came up with a series of photos allegedly showing nonflying personnel at the controls.

★ ★ ★

Other pictures they submitted purported to show pilots reading books and magazines or dozing in their seats in the cockpit, while the plane was aloft.

Now the House Government Operations subcommittee is investigating lax safety practices in civil aviation.

★ ★ ★

Committee members heard a purser tell of flying an airliner some two dozen times in a five-year period. Stewardesses hired to parade prettily with coffee and pillows have told the investigators of piloting planes full of passengers for long periods.

Contrast this with the Federal Aviation Agency's recent announcement that there are near-miss aerial collisions every day in the skies over our Nation.

Keeping a sharp watch for other aircraft is a vital function of the pilot and copilot. Amateurs at the flight controls endanger planes full of passengers, to say nothing of other planes and people living and working below them.

Pilots who relinquish their controls to untrained airline personnel should have their licenses permanently voided by the Government. These glorified bus drivers have the lives of too many persons in their hands to treat their jobs so irresponsibly.

CASTRO's general physical appearance, particularly with reference to his beard, aptly fits him for the role of marionette in which he is now cast, with Russia pulling the strings.

Of course, crime doesn't pay. And, on the other hand, good behavior and honesty don't yield a fortune overnight.

Walker Arrested

David Lawrence Says:

Our Leaders Pray for Guidance

WASHINGTON — In a troubled world and in a troubled nation, it is heartening to report a simple incident which furnishes a symbol of hope.

LAWRENCE

Fifteen United States senators gathered one day this week to pray together and to ponder the lessons of a spiritual heritage. This breakfast group, in varying numbers and including some former senators, too, has been meeting for nearly 20 years on Wednesday mornings when Congress is in session.

What is said behind the closed doors is not for publication.

These discussions are not concerned with sectarianism but with the broader phases of religious life. They come spontaneously from the heart and consciences of men who have faith in God.

These are men of both parties and of varied political philosophies and church affiliations, and from all sections of the country—names prominent in the day's debates and in the factional strife of our political system.

But when they sit down together, it is in a common partnership of the human spirit.

As they arrived at the private dining room in the Capitol, they had just heard over the radio the first few minutes of news about the sending of another American into outer space.

It is not easy to put aside as mere science the miracle of man speeding through space at 17,500 miles an hour, nor to forget the possible military implications of the space contest in the midst of a "cold war."

Nor can feelings over the tragedies and controversies in the life of the nation be swept aside as mere emotion without full understanding.

For the basic point is whether man can triumph over himself — over the evils of a man-made environment. Can the "cold war," for instance, be won?

Why is it that despite the billions of dollars spent each year for foreign aid and the hundreds of billions expended in the last decade for defense, the battle is far from won, and there are skeptics who even question whether it ever will be?

Why in the war of words is truth distorted and brushed aside? Why have so many tens of millions of persons been taken behind the Iron Curtain year after year under a dynasty that doesn't believe in God?

What is the meaning of the egotism that says man is all-powerful and that there isn't any need to rely on anything else? What does a flight through outer space emphasize — the achievements of man in science or the inspiration of a powerful God?

The seeming helplessness of man in a troubled world is lamented every day. "What can we do?" is the question on the lips of millions of righteous men and women who do seek some guidance.

Inevitably, the quest for an answer turns on faith and the guidance of God.

Translated into present-day problems, the struggle is between the passion that tends to rely wholly on a doctrine of physical force and the more difficult but nevertheless growing understanding of the power of moral force.

Moral force isn't, of course, mere pacifism or nonresistance as against the basic law of self-preservation. Moral force is the combined power of individuals who are ready to make the supreme sacrifice for what they feel is right.

This means a search for truth and the courage to pronounce it and communicate it around the world.

There must be millions of persons behind the Iron Curtain who know they cannot rely on themselves but must seek the guidance of a higher being. There must be many millions on this side of the Iron Curtain who are ready to crusade for truth and the rightness of their cause.

War and its bloodshed may come again, as it has in the past, but man can pray persistently to God for guidance and have faith in the willingness of a supreme being to bring light to a darkened world.

Moral force may some day be better understood. It is significant, however, that men in high places pray to God for guidance, even as our forefathers did when nearly 200 years ago they founded the American Republic.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Thursday, Oct. 4, the 277th day of 1962 with 88 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1854, Abraham Lincoln made his first great political speech at the state fair in Springfield, Ill.

In 1940, World War II dictators Adolf Hitler of Germany and Benito Mussolini of Italy met at Brenner Pass in the Tyrol to shape plans for a long war.

In 1960, 61 of 72 aboard were killed in the crash of an Eastern Airlines Electra in Boston Harbor.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Forget the Timetable When Feeding Your Baby

Twenty years ago, doctors, nurses and people generally were insane on the subject of infant feeding. Feed the baby every four hours by the clock. Let it cry, they said.

"I fed my tiny, dessicated, jaundiced 4'd been flat on my back for nine months and weighed 95 pounds instead of my normal 140) 5-poundrunt every five minutes, or constantly if he preferred that. He was BREAST-FED.

BRADY

"He is now 6 feet 2 inches, eyes of blue, 185 pounds, in the Army, boxes, fences, swims, and his I.Q. is away up there.

"My heart has bled a thousand times for the crass ignorance I have seen in mothers and the resultant ill treatment that has been ladled out to the helpless children . . ." (Deirdre)

You are right—the rigid feeding or nursing schedule of the past has given way to the practice of feeding or nursing whenever the baby is hungry.

After all, the idea of nursing or feeding by the clock, like the idea of mathematical formulas for preparing the baby's food, originated in the hospital, not the home. The feeding of, say, 40 babies in hospital is a problem which calls for machinery, not just motherly instinct or natural regulation.

Hospital interns took the slide rules and other equipment when they went out to practice as pediatricians, and hospital nurses took with them the rigid, scientific nursing and feeding schedules. All this hospital business impressed uninformed or half-informed Americans as much as does the Rube Goldberg gadget for measuring metabolism—which should go back to the physiology laboratory, for it has no place in a physician's office.

I hope many young mothers will be inspired by your example, Deirdre, to use common sense about nursing or feeding their babies and not subject them to just cold rules and regulations.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. C. B. J. writes:

"I can add to your wonderful advice about feeding the baby, keeping the baby dry, avoiding diaper rash and dressing the baby properly.

"A young baby can't ask for a drink of water. I firmly believe a young baby can use and should receive an ounce or two of cold water every day, besides the milk intake.

"Another suggestion — a very young infant would like to change position from time to time when sleeping—help the baby do so and keep him comfortable and happy.

"We had a car-bed for her, but most of all I loved walking behind the buggy while my contented child slept on."

(Signed) C. J.

What! An elegant baby carriage, not convertible into a clothes hamper or a market basket? That's a rare sight nowadays!

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

"I don't expect any of us to be perfect — but I wish we had as few faults as we think we have."

In Washington:

U. S. Trade Act Feared by Reds

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — After the new Trade Expansion act goes into effect, there will be a long series of negotiations to conduct with GATT — the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade organization. GATT is expected to continue operations much as it has.

There was a time when GATT was regarded as a dirty four-letter word by high tariff advocates.

Accession of the United States to GATT has never been ratified by treaty. It functions by executive agreement. Congress now appropriates money for U.S. operations in GATT, so it is here to stay.

EDSON

A preliminary step to the GATT negotiations is probably the admission of the United Kingrom to the European Common Market.

There are now 10 other applications for admission to or association with the Common Market. Countries like Norway and Denmark may be admitted in short order after the U.K. membership is ratified. But the Greek application for association took 15 months to work out. This gives some indication of how long it will take to develop a real world trading community that can construct new tariff agreements.

There probably will be a number of new international commodity agreements to work out like the wheat, sugar, coffee, tin and rubber pacts now in effect or under negotiations.

Whether there will ever be an International Trade Organization under the United Nations is doubtful. An ITO charter was drafted at a long Havana conference after World War II, but the U.S Senate refused to ratify it and that killed it.

There is now an international trade section in the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development. The United States is a member by Senate treaty ratification. Present thinking is that any new international trade institutions may stem from OECD, if it materializes.

★ ★ ★

Nikita Khrushchev's and Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's current demands in the United Nations for a new world trade conference is regarded principally as propaganda.

There is no indication that the Russians are anxiets to submit to world regulation, International trade is a state monopoly. The Soviet borders are closed to all imports and exports except those the state wants.

Russian trade practices are now a part of Communist economic warfare. This Soviet demand for a conference is primarily aimed at breaking up the European Common Market, which Russia fears as a competitor and potential enemy. Similarly, the Russians have reason to fear the new U.S. Trade Act.

★ ★ ★

In shepherding this legislation through the Kennedy administration and through Congress, the President's special assistant on international trade, Howard C. Petersen, has done an outstanding job with a minimum of fuss.

There has been no apparent White House pressure on Congress. Petersen, a Philadelphia bank president and a Republican, has made it a nonpartisan measure.

The original Kennedy administration bill of last January has come through practically unscathed. Where the bill has been amended by Congress, it has been strengthened.

One of the more noteworthy amendments is a provision which gives the President powers to increase tariffs against countries that do not cooperate with the United States on trade through quota restrictions or subsidies to their own industries. This is the first time anything like that has been in the program.

Sophomore at Kingswood Praises 'News Quiz'

Due to the ever present need for all citizens to know national and international news, thousands of newspapers, magazines and periodicals are published. However, very few of them take the time and effort to print quizzes on over-all newsfronts. I would like to congratulate you on your excellent job of "Your News Quiz" and thank you for such valuable reference material for students.

We will be asked to vote on a new constitution for our state. I cannot recall having seen a copy of the proposed constitution, the drafting of which has cost the taxpayer a large sum of money. I would like to read the entire document. Here is your opportunity to exercise your right and privilege of freedom.

I will not buy a new constitution sight unseen.

Still More Letters on 'Record' Issue

If Rev. Parker really claims to be a true minister of the Gospel, I believe it would be well and profitable if he would remember "abstain from all appearance of evil." Also, "to everything there is a season and a time to every purpose under the heaven." Counseling a girl in a parked car at midnight doesn't seem to be the proper time or place.

Trying to Be a Christian

I've studied American history in high school but articles in the paper failed to mention the efforts to make our city what it is today. I've found a number of faults with The Pontiac Press in the past years. Why use the resolution passed by the City Commission as a big front to brainwash the public?

Judith A. Davenport

Your disposition in the "police files" is beneath the dignity of any newspaper. You have admitted your dependence upon someone else to do your work and that a police file publication would outsell The Pontiac Press.

★ ★ ★

If the average taxpayer were ever apprehended for some of his normal "misdemeanors" and then had the press "blow it up" he would take an entirely different view.

I firmly disagree with you. I propose that a reporter be assigned to the police and sheriff's departments. This person should be allowed to work with these departments in the interest of the public.

J. D. Ferree

(Editor's Note: Individual reporters have always been assigned to these departments.)

You can't blame commissioners voted into office who do not have the education or business background to make decisions in the best interest of the city.

★ ★ ★

A few years ago Pontiac sent to Lansing a man to represent you with little education and for whom the union leaders told you to vote. He is now making unflattering headlines on the front pages.

Now you have voted puppets into office who are told what to say and which way to vote by one man. The next time you vote study the man's background and make sure he is qualified.

The public prints have been recently making a great to-do about the privilege of gathering and disseminating the news with freedom of the press as the issue. This privilege carries with it the responsibility to inform the citizens.

How Localites Feel About Mississippi

The direct cause of this uproar in Mississippi is the U.S. Supreme Court, packed with political leftists, which has consistently favored Communist and criminal causes and has outlawed prayer. Prominent jurists have criticized the court for substituting sociology for the constitution. Let's proceed slowly in turning more authority over to a government dominated by the Kennedy clan.

Citizen

What makes you or Senator Hart think you are qualified to pass judgment on Governor Barnett? The senator said what he did simply to gather a few more votes. Maybe the governor is representing the people in fighting for their rights.

The 14th amendment does not say that a school has to accept everyone. The 10th amendment says, "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people." The laws contradict each other. David Lawrence is right and don't ever stop printing his column.

The Pontiac Press is overjoyed at seeing Meredith shoved down the throat of Mississippi. Laugh out of the other side of your mouth when they shove Commissioner Henry down your own throat.

Movable Steering Wheel Classy Feature of Some '63s

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — For almost as long as man have been tinkering with automobiles they have been working on ways to make the steering column less of an obstacle in the driver's compartment.

★ ★ ★

The wheels atop the columns have changed from giant wood or hard rubber circles to smaller diameters of colorful plastics.

Some are more square than round. Centers have been recessed — deep-dish style — in contrast to the viciously sharp points which were fashionable briefly.

But the column has remained, becoming even more of an obstacle in some cars as the overall height of the vehicles was lowered.

More than 20 different patents have been granted on movable or flexible steering columns since 1899. The 1902 Olds had a movable tiller, which preceded the steering wheel. The 1905 Buick, 1914 Cadillac and 1917 Ford all offered some innovation to overcome the obstacle of the wheel and column.

But it was not until three years ago, when Ford introduced the swing-away steering wheel on the Thunderbird, that latter-day companies have tried anything new.

The Thunderbird wheel is built so that when the automatic transmission is in park position, the wheel can be pushed toward the center of the front seat compartment, coming to rest over the center console. The idea, of course, is to allow easy entrance and exit from the driver's bucket seat.

Meredith Supported

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) —About 700 Douglass College coeds donned white paper arm bands yesterday in a rally supporting Negro James Meredith's admission to the University of Mississippi.

The swing-away wheel was made standard equipment on the 1962 Thunderbird and in the 1963 model year it is available as an extra cost option on the Ford Galaxie.

★ ★ ★

Now General Motors has joined the swing — only the GM wheel doesn't swing, it tilts.

The tilt-wheel from the Saginaw Steering Gear Division of General Motors, is available on the 1963 standard size Pontiac, Buick, Cadillac and Oldsmobile. It will become available on the Chevrolet about Jan. 1.

The tilt-wheel moves up and down, rather than from left to right. The wheel can be operated from seven diffrent positions (six on the Cadillac and one Buick model.)

The positions are five degrees apart and the rim of the wheel can be raised or lowered five inches.

The tilt-wheel has a special lever to operate it, on the left side of the steering column below the turn indicator lever.

You push down on the lever and the wheel automatically moves to its uppermost position. Or you can hold the wheel anywhere within its range and it will lock into the nearest set position when you release the lever.

Unlike the Ford product, the tilt-wheel can be adjusted up or down anytime, even when the car is in motion. There is no loss of steering control, but a novice may have a few uneasy moments until he proves this to himself.

★ ★ ★

The tilt-wheel sales pitch is that drivers of varied sizes using the same car, such as a husband and wife, can adjust the wheel to their convenience. And it is easier to readjust than power seats.

★ ★ ★

The tilt-wheel costs about $43 on most GM cars. The swing-away is standard on the Thunderbird, costs $50 on the Ford Galaxie. Both are available only on models equipped with power steering, and in the case of the Ford wheel, only on cars with automatic transmissions.

W. H. Doerfner, general manager of Saginaw Steering Gear, says he expects the device to catch on faster than power steering and that it will be on at least 80 per cent of all GM standard size cars within five model years.

The division also sells to American Motors and Studebaker, who have looked into the device.

Doerfner said original production estimates for this model year of 50,000 units have been revised upward to more than 300,000.

10-Year-Old Awarded Red Cross Certificate

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—Ten-year-old Judy Di Prinzio, daughter of a Kincheloe Air Force Base staff sergeant, has been awarded an American Red Cross Certificate of Merit for saving the life of her 4-year-old sister, Janie.

Judy, applying swimming aids learned under Red Cross training, rescued her sister from Soldiers' Lake at Raco after the younger girl fell from a dock last June 28.

American troops engaged in the war with Spain totaled 280,564, and of these 1,704 were killed in action or died of their wounds, according to government records.

Swainson Blames Ford for Fiscal Reform Bill's Failure

By The Associated Press

Gov. John B. Swainson was on record today as blaming Henry Ford II and the Ford Motor Co. for killing a Republican-Democratic fiscal reform program in the 1962 legislature.

★ ★ ★

Swainson told newsmen yesterday that he personally appealed to Ford last April to, in Swainson's words, "call off Ford lobbyists" who were working against fiscal reform bills upon which Democrats and so-called Republican moderates had agreed in the State Senate.

"I personally called him on the telephone and explained the state's needs for revenue and tax reform," Swainson said, and continued:

★ ★ ★

"I appealed to him and he listened and said he would check into it and call me back.

★ ★ ★

"I explained my original proposals and the compromise which had been worked out with the Republicans in the Senate and House.

★ ★ ★

"He did return my call and he said: 'We oppose it — it would cost Ford Motor Co. $7 million and increase our state taxes to $13 million.'

"I don't think he can deny that conversation. That is exactly what happened."

SPEECH BUGS SWAINSON

What triggered Swainson's statement was a speech by Ford Tuesday night before the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, in which the industrialist said that "the obstructionists of our political extremes have blocked our progress and robbed our government of efficiency and of even a modicum of dignity."

★ ★ ★

Ford also said that people of "good sense and moderation" in both parties" should come forward and work together.

★ ★ ★

A Ford Motor Co. spokesman last night said Ford was flying to Europe and therefore could not be reached for comment on Swainson's report.

Ford announced last June 5 his support of George Romney, Swainson's Republican opponent, and followed one of Romney's campaign themes in appealing for "cooperation and moderation" on the part of both parties.

"I just can't understand Mr. Ford's statement," Swainson said. "Romney claims my fiscal program is the same as his, so why would Ford support him?

★ ★ ★

"Do you think perhaps he knows it would never come to pass under a Romney administration?"

Swainson said he was moved to appeal personally to Ford last April because both Republican and Democratic legislative leaders advised him that Ford lobbyists were blocking Senate passage of fiscal reform, including an income tax.

SINGLES OUT FORD

Asked if he thought Ford and his company wholly responsible for defeat of his fiscal reform program, one bill of which the Senate passed and then killed, Swainson said:

"I know if they had supported it, or said nothing, it would have passed."

The governor said he was satisfied that other auto companies did not oppose his program.

★ ★ ★

"Chrysler," he said, "was working to include relief from personal property taxes and this relief was included in my original proposals.

"General Motors had told me they would not oppose any program that was fair and nondiscriminatory."

★ ★ ★

Romney told a meeting of the Michigan State Building and Construction Trades Council at St. Joseph yesterday that, if elected, he proposes to establish a new department of commerce and labor, to give what he said would be "effective, coordinated leadership to all activities involving economic development."

"I believe that more can be accomplished through coordinating the work of such agencies as the Michigan Economic Development Commission, Michigan Employment Security Commission, State Labor Mediation Board, Workmen's Compensation Commission, State Department of Labor, Michigan Tourist Council and others," he said.

Romney added that he would try to make each agency more useful and more efficient through coordination and better leadership.

★ ★ ★

"If someone doubts my statement," Romney said, "I'd be happy to have them take a tour of American Motors plants in Detroit, Grand Rapids and Kenosha, Wis. We are undertaking a gradual integration of employment in cooperation with the Urban League.

"I am aware that the entire problem in this area is that Negroes have been denied education and apprenticeship.

ROMNEY ZAPPED

Swainson had told the Lucy Thurman branch of the Booker T. Washington Association in Detroit that while Romney was president of AMC his leadership did not include "the employment, upgrading or promotion of a single Negro to executive, administrative or supervisory capacity out of more than 25,000 employes, most of whom are in the state of Wisconsin."

"There are," Swainson continued, "less than a dozen Negroes employed in clerical positions by American Motors in Michigan."

Chairman John M. Bailey of the Democratic National Committee was due to arrive in Detroit today to join his party's drive for reelection of Swainson and the collaring of votes for Democratic candidates for Congress.

Scheduled to arrive with Bailey were Democratic Reps. Charles C. Diggs Jr., John D. Dingell, John Lesinski and Lucien Nadsi. This group is scheduled to be joined at a dinner meeting tonight at a Detroit hotel by Reps. Martha Griffiths and Harold Ryan.

Bailey and the congressional delegation will concentrate on the Democratic party's all-out drive to register voters in the heavily Democratic Detroit metropolitan area.

An extensive registration program was scheduled to get under way today in elementary schools throughout Detroit.

Rocky Makes Big Campaign Push

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a potential candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, is pushing a vigorous re-election campaign aimed at a big victory over his White House-backed Democratic gubernatorial opponent, former U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau.

Although Rockefeller has noted a one vote plurality is sufficient to win a second term in the state executive mansion, many of his supporters freely predict an unprecedented win at the polls in November.

In 1958, Rockefeller swamped former Gov. Averell Harriman by 573,034 votes. President Kennedy won the state in 1960 by 383,666.

Enrolled Democrats outnumber Republicans by 400,000 but Rockefeller has had four years to gain support for his state programs to push educational assistance, highway building and numerous other projects while retaining the principle of "pay-as-you-go."

★ ★ ★

But all is not smooth for the GOP. The Conservative party has filed an independent nominating petition in a effort to field a November election slate.

It is felt that most of the support for the Conservative candidates would come from Republican ranks.

DEM DEFICIT

The governor has been explaining throughout the state the need for boosting taxes when he first took office. He said the outgoing Democratic administration left a $700 million spending budget deficit.

★ ★ ★

Major issues in the current campaign include the economic condition of the state, education, taxes and bossism.

Morgenthau, reported to have a presidential promise for two visits to the state before the end of the campaign, sharply disagrees with Rockefeller on the economic question:

Rockefeller said the state has gained 450,000 jobs in the past four years but Morgenthau said it actually lost 72,000 manufacturing jobs.

Both Morgenthau and Rockefeller agree that economic growth in the state could be a major factor in carrying out future programs without boosting taxes.

However, Morgenthau claimed the state has fallen down on support of higher education. He noted that the voters approved a $250-million bond issue for state university construction but the present administration has not made use of the authorization.

'BOSSISM HIT'

The governor has hammered away at the "bossism" issue. His target is Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, who played a prominent role in the Morgenthau nomination at the state Democratic convention last month.

Morgethau, 43, is soft-spoken and shy. He is a quick thinker and can express himself in clear language.

★ ★ ★

Rockefeller has been seasoned in the hard school of practical politics. He has maintained a high level of activity, visiting various sections of the state during his tenure, despite personal problems and tragedy.

Within a short span of time, the Governor and Mrs. Rockefeller announced plans for a divorce which was subsequently obtained and their son, Michael, was lost on an expedition in the New Guinea area.

The campaign is starting to gain momentum. It takes time to get into full swing and the campaigning period is short—since nominating conventions were concluded during the third week in September.

Also seeking re-election for a six-year term is Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits, a tough campaigner with a good running record in New York City.

Opposing Javits is James B. Donovan, a lawyer with an international reputation. He was instrumental in the exchange of U2 pilot Gary Powers for Soviet Col. Rudolph I. Abel.

★ ★ ★

More recently he has been trying to arrange for the release of prisoners held by the Cuban government, an aftermath of the ill-fated invasion.

Reapportionment by the Republican-dominated state legislature was expected to change control of the New York state representation in the House of Representatives.

The delegation, now 22-21 Democratic, was cut to 41 members under the new apportionment. Some experts believe the November election could give the GOP control by a 25-16 margin.

China Warns India of Sector 'Defense'

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A Communist Chinese note Wednesday warned that "defensive measures" may be taken in the middle as well as eastern and western sectors of the Himalayan border with India.

★ ★ ★

The note touched off speculation as to possible fresh clashes between Indian and Chinese troops in the middle sector, which lies just west of Nepal.

The border dispute has erupted into shooting this year in the valleys of Ladakh on the west and most recently, in the mountainous east between Tibet and India's Northeast Frontier Agency.

The sun loses four million tons of mass per second, but it is so enormous that its fuel should last for several billion more years.

S. Rhodesia Paratroops Battle Wave of Arson

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—The Southern Rhodesian air force dropped 30 paratroops Wednesday in a combined air-ground effort to stop arson sweeping the Chinamora African reserve.

The wave of arson and sabotage, which the white government attributes to extremists of the outlawed Zimbabwe African Peoples Union continued in its fourth week.

Race Hot Spot to Shift to S. Carolina

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Now the spotlight on public school desegregation shifts from Mississippi—unless there's new violence there—to South Carolina and Alabama, the only states left without some integration.

Meanwhile, the backwash from the riots and deaths at the University of Mississippi will be sloshing around in American life and thought a long time, particularly in American politics.

★ ★ ★

The result in South Carolina and Alabama is just as predictable as it was in Mississippi. They will have to start integrating when their turn comes. South Carolina may have to move first.

Whether the integrating in those states is done peacefully or bloodily depends on the inhabitants and their elected leaders, particularly the governors.

SEES BLOOD

Alabama's Gov. John Patterson, apparently learning nothing from Gov. Ross R. Barnett's disastrous resistance to the federal government in Mississippi, seems to expect bloody integration.

He has been quoted in the Washington Post as not only saying "we will resist" but as adding "there will be chaos, violence and destruction."

★ ★ ★

The New York Times says his successor — Governor-elect George Wallace who takes office in January—is an "even more outspoken racist."

The simple fact, which Barnett and Patterson refuse to face but which makes the action of the federal government both predictable and inevitable, is that since the Supreme Court has banned segregation in public schools, the lower federal courts have to order integration in their districts. This compels the government to back up the courts, with troops if necessary.

ALL STATES COULD

If it didn't—if one state could defy the courts and the government to have things its own way—all states could and the chaos Patterson talks about would be inescapable, not only in Alabama but everywhere.

A South Carolina test case moves into federal circuit court today with attorneys for Harvey B. Gantt, Negro, appealing to get him into Clemson College.

★ ★ ★

Sen. James O. Eastland, Mississippi Democrat and just as much a segregationist as Barnett and Patterson, has said his Senate Judiciary Committee will investigate "events" at Ole Miss after the troops and U.S. marshals arrived.

Since President Kennedy was the one who sent in the marshals and troops, a move some Southerners have denounced, he should be a lively target for their criticism.

ANOTHER PLAINT

Whether this hurts him politically is questionable. Any strength he loses in the South for his action he may pick up in the North.

★ ★ ★

Some Northerners may have a completely opposite complaint, that he didn't send in the troops soon enough and that, if he had, the riots might never have started.

Although some Southerners argue that the Supreme Court usurped power by ordering school integration — that only Congress should have a right to do that by law—there is no evidence Congress intends to do anything to repeal or defeat by law what the high court did.

★ ★ ★

In the eight years since the court decision Congress has done nothing on this subject although in that same period it passed the first civil rights laws of this century. This was done over Southern opposition.

Swainson Drops Call for Censure of Barnett

LANSING (AP) — Withdrawing his demand for personal censure of Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi, Gov. Swainson yesterday called instead for his fellow governors to issue "a statement of principle" on the subject of defiance of federal court orders.

"Censure of one of our members may no longer be appropriate," said the Michigan governor in a message to the executive committee of the Governors' Conference, meeting today and tomorrow in Miami Beach. "Public opinion will serve that end."

Swainson earlier had called for the executive committee, composed of the chief executives of eight states, to censure Barnett for his role in the dispute over enrollment of James H. Meredith, 29, a Negro veteran, at the University of Mississippi.

★ ★ ★

Barnett originally had defied court orders to permit Meredith to enroll but apparently modified his position after being cited by federal authorities for contempt of court.

In the statement sent yesterday, Swainson referred to the Mississippi crisis but did not mention Barnett by name.

He said the Mississippi incident "requires action by this conference to reassure the peoples of this nation that the governors of the several states do not condone violation of the orders of a court of competent jurisdiction, that they will at any cost uphold the principles of the U.S. Constitution pursuant to their oath of office, and will in no way act in derogation of the tenets of law and order."

★ ★ ★

The demand for censure of Barnett, sent to Gov. Albert D. Rosellini of Washington on Sept. 21, resulted in letters and phone calls from residents of Mississippi and other states, objecting to Swainson taking part in the Mississippi issue.

★ ★ ★

Aides to the governor said the reaction had no bearing on the form of the statement sent yesterday.

Reds Admit Housing Lag

MOSCOW (AP) — The official Soviet News Agency Tass said today it will be six or seven more years before every Soviet family can have its own apartment.

★ ★ ★

Most Soviet families still live in single rooms, sharing kitchens and baths with other families. In a review of the housing situation, Tass said 7,700 apartments are being completed every day in the Soviet Union.

We've Come a Long Way Since That Bleak Day in 1957

By BOB CONSIDINE

CAPE CANAVERAL — Exactly five years ago a new sound came down from on high. It seemed a bit like a child blowing determinedly on a penny whistle. It went "bleep . . . bleep . . . bleep."

But it was a thousand-fold more sinister than the garish bolts of lightning and the cannonading of thunder that had terrified man since the birth of time.

Russia — yes, that big, clumsy Russia whose hairy hide America had saved in World War II with the gift of 11 billion dollars in planes, ships, trucks and whatnot — had put Sputnik I in orbit around the earth. A bear had made a fine watch with its own paws.

On the day Sputnik I spoke its monosyllabic warnings America was more concerned with the World Series between the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves.

A day or two later in Washington, John Foster Dulles, thoughtfully pacing the floor of his office in the State Department, turned to his visitor, Bill Hearst, and earnestly asked, "Bill, why are your papers making so much fuss over that piece of iron in the sky?"

"That piece of iron" changed your life and mine, and the lives of the people of the world for undetermined centuries to come.

In a kind of frenzy the nation's leaders comprehended the sobering indications of the innocent-sounding out-of-sight, out-of-reach object and plunged into the unhappy job of catching up.

Billions of tax dollars later, it is still trying.

Sputnik I altered the face of America particularly. Political control of the White House changed hands when a young and rich Catholic Democrat, given only a modest chance, persuaded enough voters that in the space effort the Republicans had not done enough.

Dozens of new industries employing countless thousands sprang up to forge the nail to hold together the hull, knit the rope, to set the sail for our own voyages into space.

Incredible spaceports, like Canaveral and Vandenberg, bloomed on bleak opposite coasts. Men found ways of detecting and guiding objects a million miles out into space.

The question of the wisdom of spending ten million dollars a day from 1961 to 1970 to boost an American to the moon and get him back before the Russians became a national issue.

So did the dialogue over which rival endeavor should get the lion's share of the man in space dollar, the civilian or the military.

Even the limited conquest of space immediately transformed the Soviet Union into a power considered mightier than the United States in some sections of the world.

It enabled the Russian dictator to boast that he could destroy any target on earth without thought of interception, emboldened him to excoriate in public the President of the United States — an unthinkable insult only a few years earlier. We took it.

"We have sent the dog Laika up in a peacehead," the dictator proclaimed to the Hearst task force in Moscow. "The peacehead can easily be changed to a warhead."

America groped and pawed its way back. It's early missiles and boosters fizzled and fell over on their pads, and there rose in the land a serious discussion about the right of the U.S. press to illuminate the failures while the Russians were suspected of harboring their own blunders and ventilating only their successes.

In a labor-conscious country a union that struck a lagging moon-shoot project while two Cosmonauts moved to a near rendezvous in the course of extended three-and four-day orbital flights, brought down on its head a public indignation not known since John L. Lewis pulled out his United Mineworkers during the heat of World War II.

Five years after Sputnik I, a man America had never heard of in 1957, Walter Schirra, hammered aloft from his spaceport, swept six times around the earth at 17,560 m.p.h. and landed near Midway Island.

It was far short of the best the Russians had done, but nonetheless a stirring achievement by a member of a project that did not come into being until a little more than three years ago.

Unlike Floyd Patterson, the champion named Uncle Sam had come off the floor after being flattened and was fighting back. He'll fight even better as the bout goes on. Sam's been a little slow in recent years, but the old guy's awful tough when pushed.

Professors Protest at Mississippi

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Professors at the University of Mississippi have protested what they termed attempts "to place all the blame" for rioting at Ole Miss on federal marshals. The educators called for an investigation.

The campus chapter of the American Association of University Professors adopted a resolution Wednesday night blaming false reports about the rioting Sunday night and Monday on "men in prominent positions" and "some news media in Mississippi."

The resolution said that obvious errors in judgment were made by those in authority on the campus Sunday night, but that the marshals were not totally to blame for the rioting.

"We have evidence that the attempt of men in prominent positions to place all the blame for the riot on the United States marshals is not only unfair and reprehensible but is almost completely false," the resolution said. "We encourage an investigation by the proper authorities."

The resolution did not describe what evidence the teachers had.

U. of M. Seeks Jockeys but for Elephants

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The University of Michigan's homecoming committee is looking for elephant jockeys — with $225.

The committee wants to hold an elephant race Oct. 26 in connection with homecoming activities before the Michigan-Minnesota football game.

It has arranged with an Ohio animal farm to furnish the elephants at a cost of $224 per animal for transportation and rental. So far it hasn't found any would-be jockeys with a yen that big to race elephants.

Argentina Needs Outdoor Arena for Graham?

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Protestant spokesmen said last night they may have to rent an outdoor arena for Billy Graham's revival meetings here late this month.

The Inter-Evangelical Organizing Committee had hired the 28,000-seat Luna Park indoor stadium — South America's largest —but they are wondering whether it will be large enough. Graham has been drawing full houses at other stops on his Latin American tour.

★ ★ ★

The American evangelist plans to hold meetings in Asuncion, Paraguay, and in the Argentine cities of Cordoba and Rosario before coming here Oct. 21.

Michigan Astronaut Was Sure of Schirra

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — James A. McDivitt, fledgling astronaut from Jackson, Mich., told newsmen last night he had no doubt at any time that Walter M. Schirra Jr. would make six full orbits.

He and seven other newly named astronauts witnessed the launching here yesterday and followed the flight's process through the day.

India's demand for machine tools by 1965 is expected to amount to $126 million.

Gleeful Pope John on 'Whistle-Stop Tour' of Italy

ROME (AP)—Pope John XXIII, excited as a schoolboy on his first train ride, today made a pilgrimage across Italy to pray for the success of the 2nd Vatican Council.

The 80-year-old pontiff could hardly wait for the two locomotives to pull his nine-car train out of the Vatican's own railway station on the closest thing to a whistle-stop tour the modern papacy has seen.

★ ★ ★

"It seems you always have to wait," said the 80-year-old ruler of the Roman Catholic Church as he looked eagerly from an open window wondering when the train would start.

Just then a trainman at the rear yelled "pronto." The engineer at the other end signalled he had heard, and the train was off on the first papal railroad ride in 99 years.

DUE MIDNIGHT

The Pope was due back at the Vatican before midnight after a trip 418 miles across Italy to Loreto, a shrine to the Virgin Mary, and back to Rome via Assisi, birthplace of St. Francis.

Thousands gathered at 53 stations en route to cheer the pontiff as he passed.

★ ★ ★

It was Pope John's first trip in something other than an automobile or hand-carried portable throne since he became pontiff in 1958. He appeared to be enjoying every minute of it.

★ ★ ★

After the 12-minute ride to Rome's Trastevere Station to pick up Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani, Pope John told newsmen: "I hope it won't be another 100 years before a pope makes this journey. I don't think it will, because I hope to travel some more myself."

'TO FIND MADONNA'

The Pope said he would pray at Loreto "to find the Madonna in the name of all Christianity." The world-wide Vatican Council opens next week.

The shrine in Loreto is one of Roman Catholicism's most important dedicated to the Virgin Mary. Legend says it is the house where Mary was born, brought to Italy from Palestine by angels.

★ ★ ★

On the trip back, Pope John will spend an hour at Assisi. St. Francis is Italy's patron saint and this is his feast day.

★ ★ ★

Pope Pius IX took the last papal train trip in 1863, seven years before Italian nationalist troops seized Rome. This ushered in a 59-year period when popes considered themselves priso ndsrn ered themselves prisoners and remained in the Vatican.

END TIME OUT

It was only the second time in history that a passenger train had left the Vatican, whose station usually serves only for freight. The first time was in May 1929 when a train took the body of St. Pius X to Venice, where he once had been patriarch.

Pope John traveled widely in Europe, North Africa and the Middle East before his election to the pontificate. Since his coronation he has made frequent motor trips outside the Vatican.

Hospital Fund Drive Nears

The fund-raising campaign for construction of $1.4-million community hospital in western Oakland County will start Oct. 15, it was announced today.

★ ★ ★

Although no exact site has been chosen for the proposed 100-bed hospital, the board of directors of the nonprofit Huron Valley Community Hospital Association have decided that it will be located somewhere on the perimeter of Milford.

The coordinator of the project, John Ripplinger of Professional Facilities Corp. of Hazel Park, said the directors also have named Detroit architect Victor J. Basso to design the facility.

★

Ripplinger said a representative from Burrill, Inc., of Kansas City, Mo., will arrive here in two weeks to take charge of the campign.

The Kansas City firm is a professional fund-raising concern.

To help finance construction of the hospital, the board of directors will sell hospital association membership cards for $1 per year or $10 for life memberships.

In January, a permanent board of directors will be elected from those who have purchased memberships, Ripplinger said.

The present board members anticipate ground breaking for the new facility late next spring in order to have it opened by May 1964.

Ripplinger said association members searched from Pontiac to Howell and from Ann Arbor to Flint in order to find the best location for the hospital.

He said the Milford area was chosen because of the availability of sewer facilities and since it is in the center of the area to be served by the hospital.

Tentative plans call for the facility to include three major operating rooms, a fracture and cystoscopy room, two delivery rooms with corresponding nurseries, two diagnostic X-ray suites, a laboratory and pharmacy and a physical therapy department.

★ ★ ★

Both medical doctors and osteopaths would practice there, said Ripplinger.

WILL BE EXPANDABLE

Ripplinger said the hospital would be built so that it could be expanded to 200 beds in the future.

The coordinator explained that the permanent population of the area to be served in Western Oakland County and Eastern Livingston County presently is about 492,000.

Added to this total are approximately 13,000 summer residents and an average 20,000 persons per day who visit the area's recreational facilities during the summer.

Those population figures are expected to double by 1970, according to Ripplinger.

He added that the board of directors currently is seeking a larger site than the 10 acres northeast of Milford donated for the hospital by Dr. W. D. Hackett of 1660 Cooley Lake Road, Milford Township.

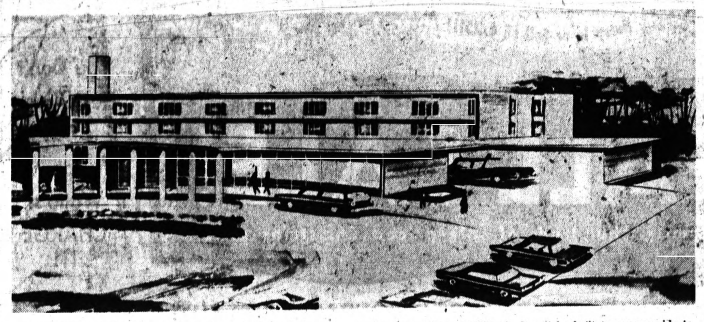
Ripplinger said the board is looking for a hospital site of about 15 or 20 acres.



PROPOSED HOSPITAL — Shown here is an artist's conception of the proposed 100-bed general hospital planned by the nonprofit Huron Valley Community Hospital Association. Ground breaking for the new facility is expected to take place next spring at a site near Milford. It will be built to serve residents in western Oakland County and in the extreme eastern section of Livingston County.

Area Family, Girl Honored by Oakland Farm Bureau

A Novi family and a Northville girl were chosen as outstanding representatives of the Oakland County Farm Bureau at the organization's annual meeting last night in Davisburg.

★ ★ ★

Selected as the group's "Family of the Year" were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erwin of 40401 W. 10 Mile Road.

Named "Miss Oakland County Farm Bureau" for 1962 was 19-year-old Joyce Balko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Balko of 52730 W. Eight Mile Road, Northville.

Miss Balko, an office employe at University Hospital, Ann Arbor, is a former 4-H Club member and a graduate of Cleary College, Ypsilanti.

★ ★ ★

She will represent Oakland County in competition for the "Miss Michigan Farm Bureau" title at the state convention in Lansing Nov. 7-9.

The Erwins, parents of three children, own and operate a 450-acre fruit farm in Novi.

AF VETERAN

Erwin, an Air Force veteran who attended Michigan State University, is a director of the Michigan Horticultural Society and president of the Eastern Michigan Horticultural Society.

He is also a newly appointed member of the Wholesale Distribution Center Development Committee in Detroit and a former Novi Board of Education member.

★ ★ ★

Erwin was one of two new directors elected to the Farm Bureau Board by the 200 members who attended last night's dinner-meeting in the Davisburg Eastern Star Hall.

The other new director is Alden Mills of 610 N. Ortonville Road, Groveland Township.

Re-elected to the board were Edward Bourns of 27915 Martindale Road, Lyon Township; Mrs. William Scramlin of 3694 Jossman Road, Groveland Township and Carlton Crawford of 2535 S. Hill Road, Milford Township.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

Two resolutions were passed by the Oakland County unit for consideration by the Michigan Farm Bureau at its convention next month.

One asked that longer warning notice be given at railroad crossings in the county.

The other was a request to have the state organization study the farm personal tax, which covers livestock, tractors and other farm equipment.

County members said they believe there may be inequities in the tax since it is not uniform in all townships.

Farm Program Pushed

LANSING (UPI) — Citing a need for "quick action" because agricultural hazards threaten Michigan's farm industry, Gov. Swainson has proposed a farm program that includes:

★ ★ ★

Tax relief for farmers, an agricultural contingency fund, a consumer protection program for farmers, and increased promotion of Michigan's farm products.

The governor said his 1962 property tax relief program, which was killed by the legislature, would have relieved what he termed "the increasing serious tax burden on farmers."

The agricultural contingency fund, would be used in the battle against insect pests and plant and animal diseases brought to Michigan by St. Lawrence Seaway trade and from adjoining states, Swainson said.

The fund would be used in emergencies that could not wait for legislative appropriations.

The consumer protection program for farmers, he said, would be designed to assure farmers that the seeds, fertilizers, and pesticides they purchase have met state standards.

Swainson foresaw a savings of $750,000 a year to taxpayers if a uniform dairy inspection program were adopted, including a consolidation of all state regulations pertaining to the dairy industry under one agency.

Aiming at increased promotion of farm products, Swainson made these suggestions:

The development of a permanent farm exposition to advertise Michigan agriculture, a substantial increase in the matching appropriation for advertising and a new marketing program designed to provide farmers with more adequate and current market information.

Defer Housing Rezoning of $2 Million

Rezoning requests for housing developments worth $2 million were deferred for a month last night by the Pontiac Planning Commission.

Both proposed developments involve East Side property which currently lies mostly vacant.

★ ★ ★

One request was for rezoning of a 30-acre parcel bounded by East Boulevard, Michigan and Tasmania avenues and the Clinton River from Residential-1 (R1) to R3.

The request was made by Standard Building Products Co., of Detroit, who proposed to build a "garden-type town house" development on the site.

The second request was for rezoning of some 158 lots in South Park Subdivision, on the Northeast corner of South and East boulevards from R2 and R3 to R1.

SINGLE FAMILY

That request came from Summit Building Co. of Huntington Woods, seeking to build single-family dwellings on the property but which cannot get Federal Housing Administration (FHA) financing unless all the lots are zoned R1.

Representing Standard Building Products Co., Morris Brown told planning commissioners his firm plans to apply for a mortgage commitment under Section 221 (d3) of the Federal Housing Act recently approved by Congress.

He said the developers couldn't get any commitment for the special FHA financing until the land is rezoned for multifamily housing. It is now restricted to use for single-family dwellings.

★ ★ ★

Brown said the D3 program placed only a 3½ per cent interest rate on mortgages and thus allowed for low down payments and rent payments by tenants.

He said preliminary plans are to construct a maximum of 20 buildings with up to 200 family housing units. The "buildings" would be "attractive homes connected by common walls."

He estimated the average cost at roughly $10,000 per unit with the entire project run as a cooperative.

"Our maximum rent estimates would range from $65 per month for a one-bedroom unit to $95 for a four-bedroom unit," Brown said.

"The whole program," he emphasized, "is designed for people who couldn't otherwise afford homes of this quality and for communities where there are urban renewal projects and a need to find low-priced, decent housing for displaced persons."

Several planning commissioners expressed doubt the project would succeed on the basis that other multi-family dwellings in that area with $80-per-month rent were vacant now.

Mayor Robert Landry, an ex-officio member of the commission, said he felt "we should wait and use urban renewal land for such developments before talking about other housing projects.

"We have six blocks of urban renewal land that will soon be cleared, but we have no emergency need for housing in which to relocate people."

In the other request, James Ginn, attorney representing Summit Building Co., and one of the owners, Abe Friedman, said they must "either use or sell the land."

Ginn said the owners had been holding the land for four years waiting for sewage service in the area and for needed action on rezoning.

He said they're prepared to begin building immediately "50 or 60 one-family homes in the $9-to-$10,000 price range that can presently get a sewer hookup."

Friedman said he couldn't bear the cost of the land lying dormant any longer. "I've been waiting eight months for city planners and Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce officials to find me a party interested in industrial use of the land. I can't afford to wait any longer."

★ ★ ★

The property is tabbed as ideal for industrial use in Pontiac's general development plan, and planners indicated they would like to see it used that way.

During the past 20 years the number of pupils transported to and from school buildings at public expense has increased by 350 per cent.

3 Teens Flee to W. Berlin in Darkness

BERLIN (UPI) — Three teenagers escaped to West Berlin today from East Germany, West Berlin police reported.

★ ★ ★

The three, all 16 years old, climbed through the barbed wire on the northern border of the city under cover of darkness.

A fourth refugee told police he had fought hand-to-hand with a Communist guard before successfully fleeing through the barbed wire on the western edge of Berlin.

Two men were arrested in midmorning by East German police as they came within 15 yards of the border on the extreme southern edge of the city.

Communist guards backed by armored cars and a water cannon, meanwhile, continued to wall up an unfinished refugee tunnel under the wall.

The longest, driest coastal desert in the world stretches along the Pacific littoral of Peru and northern Chile. Several weather stations in the area have recorded no rainfall for 20 years. But torrential rains sometimes fall in places, literally melting clusters of baked-mud houses.

MSUO Sees Enrollment Hike of 200

A total of 1,256 students is registered at Michigan State University Oakland this fall, an increase of 200 over last fall, the registrar's office announced.

The record enrollment is nearly 150 less than the earlier forecast of 1,400 students this fall.

However, both of the University's two dormitories are filled to capacity for a total of nearly 200 students, limiting on-campus resident enrollment.

Enlarged resident enrollment is expected to be feasible by next fall, when the new Pryale Dormitory is to be completed for another 100 students.

Remove Highway Sign Defeating Own Aim

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) Controversial safety signs, which some motorists called distractions, have been removed from a highway construction site.

They said: "If you are reading this sign, you are driving recklessly. Keep your eyes on the road."

To protect the ships off American shores, the coast guard maintains over 50,000 aids to navigation — lightships, bouys, beacons, fog signals.

Flint Schools Censor Junior College Weekly

FLINT (UPI) — Publication of the weekly Flint Junior College newspaper has been ordered suspended by the head of the city school system.

Lawrence Jarvie, general superintendent of schools, said he was delaying publication of "College Clamor" until he and aides decide on "what the purpose of a college paper should be."

Jarvie said the suspension was not prompted by any one article. He expressed concern that the paper had been commenting on matters not connected with the school.

"This is not an independent paper in the sense that it is a business," he said. "It is financed from tuition fees, and we feel that perhaps the editors need a policy decision on where to draw the line."

Sentenced for Stealing Cache of Cold Cash

MARION, Ill. (UPI) — Bobby L. Carpenter, 21, was sentenced to prison yesterday for taking $11,000 from the freezing compartment of a refrigerator.

James A. Gentry said he used the cold cache for his cash because pest control workmen were scheduled to inspect his old hiding place — beneath his mother-in-law's house.

Egypt OKs Asylum to 2 Saudi Arabians

CAIRO (AP)—Two Saudi Arabian fliers landed an air force training plane in upper Egypt Wednesday and asked for and received political asylum, United Arab Republic officials announced. It was the second such defection in two days.

★ ★ ★

The earlier defection involved a two-engine cargo plane with a load of American-made arms. Its three-man crew said the arms had been destined for Yemeni tribesmen opposed to that nation's revolutionary regime, which last week toppled the Yemeni monarchy.

In 1956, after Spain and France gave up their protectorates over Morocco, the internationally ruled zone of Tangier was turned over to Morocco.

Retired Cabby Finds It Great to Get Back to Hack

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Sam, the cabby, is back behind the wheel again and says he wants to stay there the rest of his life.

★ ★ ★

On a foggy, clammy morning recently he drew up to the curb and I jumped in so I could make it to work on time.

BOYLE

"Haven't seen you around lately, Sam," I said. "Been on vacation?"

"Vacation nothing," he replied, "I been retired. But now I have unretired myself, and I feel better."

"Tell me about it, Sam," I said, knowing I could no more halt him than I could have held back the Johnstown flood with a wet sponge.

★ ★ ★

"Well," began Sam, "like most of the jerks who ride with me—present company excepted, of course—I kept counting the years and months until I could quit work. Looking back now I realize what a stupid way that is to waste your life.

'KICK IN TIRES'

"So I finally hit the 65-mark a few weeks ago, and that's enough for me. I give the old hack a goodby kick in the tires, the boss and the boys at the garage hand me a couple of bottles, and—like Jackie Gleason says—away I go."

Sam paused while a dark car zoomed by and beat the red light.

"I'd been working for 50 years, and I felt that was enough," he continued. "And, to tell the truth, the first few days wasn't too bad.

★ ★ ★

"Then my wife and I began to get on each other's nerves. She said, 'I can't just sit around all day playing gin rummy with you. I got to clean this house.' I tell her, 'you been cleaning this house for 42 years.' And she said, 'well, it's still dirty, and you're in my way—can't you find nobody better than me to talk to?'

'WASN'T THE SAME'

"Well, I started hanging out at the old garage again, but it wasn't the same. I didn't feel right.

"So I told my wife, let's jump in the old bus and drive down and see Max. That's my brother who's retired in Florida.

"Well, we got there and found Max and his wife living in an area where he and a lot of other old couples had bought some of these new little doghouse homes. I told Max, all these people gimme the creeps. They're just sitting around in the sun waiting to die.

"Max said it suited him, and I said, 'Well it don't suit me.' So I drove back to New York the next day.

'IT'S CHARITY'

"I went to my old boss and said, I'm going nuts doing nothing. Beside this Social Security—me and the wife draw less than $200 a month—ain't nothing but charity. They can call it Social Security if they want to, but anything that won't let you die and still ain't enough to live on—what is it but charity?

★ ★ ★

"So my boss said 'Well, Sam, you can crawl back into your old job anytime you feel like it.' So I unretired myself right then and there, and, like I said, I never felt better.

"After a man works 50 years, it's the only real pleasure in living he's got left."

S. Viet Nam on 'Offensive' at Last

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In a command headquarters near the edge of Saigon last summer a South Vietnamese colonel used a pointer to locate on a military wall map the town of Ban Methout.

"Here," he said, "is where a year ago the Communist Viet Cong intended to cut South Viet Nam in two.

"Since the coming of the Americans that plan has been abandoned."

Ban Methout is a key road junction close to the Cambodian border and almost exactly midway between the rich rice-growing delta to the south and the 17th parallel which divides South Viet Nam and Communist North Viet Nam.

The colonel explained that militarily the plan had been first to sever South Viet Nam at the midway point, then to bring pressure on the capital of Saigon from west, north and south, and finally to force upon South Viet Nam a Communist-style neutral government.

This week, President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam announced that his troops had gone over to the offensive against the Communists.

But since this is a war without a front, it also must be understood that this is not an offensive in the sense of conventional warfare.

It is an offensive or airborne thrusts in an operation called "clear and hold," meaning that it clears out pockets of Viet Cong resistance and then sends in administrators whose task is to educate the people and attempt to hold the land thus won.

In this sense, then, the South Vietnamese have gone over to the offensive, and vast American aid, which includes thousands of American advisers, has upset the Communist timetable of conquest.

RED ADVANTAGE

But a Communist advantage is their ability to shift quickly from one pressure point to another, whether it be political or military. Furthermore, they regard South Viet Nam only as one portion of a war theater involving the whole of Southeast Asia, including Thailand.

Lately the Communists have been demonstrating their ability to make the quick shift.

One goal is to force the United States into another Geneva conference such as the one which set up the still questionable neutrality of Laos.

★ ★ ★

To this end, the Communist-directed "National Liberation Front" of Viet Nam sent a delegation to Jakarta where it reportedly obtained from President Sukarno of Indonesia endoresement of their "just" war against American imperialism.

The front, although it is directed from Hanoi, poses as neutral and nationalistic.

Further, the Communists quickly endorsed a request from Cambodia that another Geneva conference be called to guaranty Cambodian neutrality.

SEES RED VICTORY

Cambodia's volatile ruler, Prince Shianouk, already has forecast Communist victory in South Viet Nam and he was moving to save his own neck if possible.

Complicating the situation further is the irritation of Thailand over U.S. promises of military aid to Sihounak. The Thais declared it an "act of provocation" and hinted that their own strong pro-Western stand may in the future also switch to one of neutrality.

Nothing could please the Reds more.

U. of M. Claims Barrier Drop by Fraternities

ANN ARBOR (UPI)— All racial and religious barriers are down for the first time as University of Michigan fraternities start fall rushing, the university says.

The interfraternity council, fraternity governing body, has reported that all discriminatory clauses have been dropped from membership requirements by 42 national fraternities and one local group.

★ ★ ★

Restrictive clauses — many of them included in national constitutions and by-laws—were dropped after the student government council asked all fraternities and sororities to eliminate them last year.

The director of the census estimates that the United States can feed twice its present population without lowering its present standard of living. This number is expected in about 50 years.

Monkey-naut Loses Baby

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A monkey named Baker, whose space flight three years ago was a milestone on the astronauts' trail, gave birth Wednesday to a stillborn male.

Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed to revive the baby monkey.

★ ★ ★

Pensacola Naval Air Station medical school spokesmen said there was no indication that the death resulted from any effect of the mother's space flight.

Monkey Baker was listed in good condition.

Tulane U. Head Backs Disaccreditation of Mississippi

CHICAGO (AP)—President Herbert Longenecker of Tulane University, New Orleans, says he is prepared to support the withdrawal of accreditation from the University of Mississippi on the basis of state political interference in the administration of Ole Miss.

The executive committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools warned Mississippi officials last week that the university accreditation would be withdrawn unless the full integrity of the university is restored.

★ ★ ★

A final decision will be made at a full meeting of the association in Dallas Nov. 26-29.

Longenecker, a voting member of the association, told a news conference Wednesday, "I will be prepared to vote for disaccreditation, with things as they are now."

The issue is not whether James H. Meredith, a Negro, is enrolled at Ole Miss but rather political interference in the administration of the university.

POTENT WEAPON

Withdrawal of accreditation by a regional accrediting board is a potent but seldom-used weapon in battles to protect state universities and colleges from political interference.

When a university is disaccredited, its credits and degrees are not recognized at other institutions of higher education.

The withdrawal of accreditation was used in 1951 to defeat a plan by Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo to dominate the University of Mississippi, and again in the early 1940s to force Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia to back down after he had ordered the dismissal of several faculty members.

Longenecker is here for the annual meeting of the American Council of Education.

President Robert F. Goheen of Princeton told the news conference, "The matter of state governmental interference is terribly important. It is important in Mississippi today, but it is important all across the country every day."

Dr. Logan Wilson, president of the council, said the Mississippi situation was certain to be discussed fully during the two-day meeting. Wilson said a resolution on Mississippi would be presented to the annual business meeting Friday morning.

City Schools Start Push of Renewal of Millage

The Pontiac Board of Education starts a countdown tonight on a drive to renew and possibly increase the voted 8.75 tax levy which expires in June 1965.

The millage was approved by voters in 1954.

Supt. Dana P. Whitmer said today, "It is essential to the continuance of the program of the school district that the millage be renewed prior to the 1965-66 school year."

He added that further study "may reveal that a voted millage larger than 8.75 is required."

★ ★ ★

Such an increase would be dependent, he said, on "growth of enrollments, the upward movement of the consumer price index, and possible new services designed to improve educational opportunities for youth."

DECISION NOT EXPECTED

He will present a tentative outline for winning millage renewal to the board at the 7:30 p.m. meeting today at 40 Patterson St.

No decision is expected to be made at this early date.

The board is expected to study the exact needs of the district after further financial planning by the administrative staff.

The current 8.75 mills provided an annual income of $3.25 million. This is about one-third of the current operating expenditures.

The vote on renewal would be held in June 1964, according to a tentative proposal by Whitmer.

More Copies Requested of Constitution

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Swainson, who personally opposes the proposed new Michigan constitution, yesterday asked that $3,667 more be made available for printing additional copies of the document.

The request went to the constitutional convention preparatory commission, which he appointed.

Some 50,000 copies of the proposed constitution are being printed for distribution around the state and paid for from funds made available by the Kellogg Foundation.

The governor said he asked for the additional printing in the belief that "a valuable public service will be performed in making this document as widely available as possible."

"It is only through a personal familiarity with the proposed document that our citizens can make an informed decision on its merits."

The constitution, produced by the Republican-controlled constitutional convention and opposed by most Democrats, will go to Michigan voters next April.

Kent County Faces Cut in Services

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Kent County services would be cut sharply under a balanced 1963 budget, disclosed yesterday, which trims more than $1.6 million from the original figure of $7,078,436.

★ ★ ★

The new budget mailed to supervisors for their approval next Monday eliminates 56 positions either filled or authorized — but left vacant in 1962—plus 31 new positions proposed for 1963.

★ ★ ★

It provides unexpectedly, however, for wage boosts totaling $4,975 for nine elected officials including the three circuit judges, county clerk, prosecutor, register of deeds, treasurer, drain commissioner and sheriff.

Nepali Army Slays 10 Rebels, Ex-Lord

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The Nepali army killed 11 rebels including a former feudal lord in a counterattack last weekend, according to reports reaching Katmandu officials today.

★ ★ ★

The rebel leader was Om Jung, of Bajang, high in the Himalayas of western Nepal.

Jung was one of many semi-autonomous local feudal lords who used to hold sway in Nepal. In 1960 the government moved to extend its control over Bajang and he rebelled.

MOMENT OF SILENCE — Texas University students gather in the center of the campus for three minutes of silence because of integration troubles at University of Mississippi. Marion Sanford Jr. (third from right), student association president, called for the period of silence. A group of about 150 white and Negro students turned out.

Trailer to Enlist Yule Workers

3 Shopping Centers to House Mobile Units

A trailer to recruit Christmas sales help will be set up in three area shopping centers for two weeks beginning Oct. 8.

The mobile recruiting office is sponsored by the Pontiac office of the Michigan Employment Securities Commission.

Persons applying for Christmas work as sales clerks, wrappers and other retail personnel may apply daily from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. at:

Pontiac Mall — Oct. 8-13.

Drayton Plains Shopping Center—Oct. 15-17.

Miracle Mile Shopping Center—Oct. 18-20.

A preliminary survey of downtown Pontiac businesses and shopping centers, indicates that 700 to 800 additional helpers will be needed during the season, according to Clarence H. Zech, employment manager of the MESC office.

★ ★ ★

He added that this large a number of qualified sales personnel is not in the labor market at present. The trailer recruiting, he hopes, will create a reservoir of registered personnel from which employers can draw.

★ ★ ★

In addition to registration at the trailer, interested persons may register at the MESC office at 242 Oakland Ave.

UAW Wins Election

CASS CITY (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union announced yesterday it had won a National Labor Relations Board election among employes of Anrod Screen Co. of Cass City. Anrod workers will become members of UAW Local 213 at Marlette.

But City Finds Hole

Dig Up Road Problem

The City Engineering Department is today faced with a grave problem.

It all started quite innocently a few weeks ago when engineers saw a need for improvements on Parkwood Street. The thoroughfare was too narrow for normal traffic.

Thus, engineers shot off a request to the planning commission "for a recommendation approving the purchase of an additional 25 feet of right-of-way for the widening of Parkwood."

Last night planners shot back their recommendation. "This commission recommends that the engineering staff investigate the possibility of making Parkwood a one-way street. There is no feasible way to purchase the property."

★ ★ ★

Planners discovered part of the land to be bought "involved an area containing 500 to 1,000 graves."

The street runs alongside Perry Mount Park Cemetery.

2 Soaked ... 3 Ways

LONDON (UPI) — Magistrate J. K. P. Barraclough today fined two Canadians for drunken swimming.

Saying it was the first case of its kind in his court, the magistrate levied a pound ($2.80) each against telephone lineman Gary J. Anderson, 22, and office worker Joel A. Scott, 23. Police said the two men, now London residents, had refused to come out of the Thames River where they were swimming while drunk and had to be hauled out by a police boat.

19 Latin Foreign Ministers Recognize Red Cuba Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign ministers of the United States and its 19 Latin American allies were unanimously agreed today that the massing of Soviet arms in Cuba threatens the security of the Western Hemisphere.

★ ★ ★

"The adoption of special measures, both individual and collective," are required to meet the growing danger, they said in a statement released after two days of intensive consultation at the State Department.

The declaration denounced the "Sino-Soviet intervention in Cuba as an attempt to convert the island into an armed base for Communist penetration of the Americas." It stressed the "extraordinary solidarity on matters affecting the security and well-being of the hemispheric system" achieved at the meeting.

RUSK PLEASED

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who served as chairman, was reported highly pleased with the unanimous agreement. Officials said it marks a forward step from the Punta del Este, Uruguay, foreign ministers conference last January when the 20-nation group split on some key anti-Castro issues.

Rusk and his aides undoubtedly would have welcomed an even stronger declaration than the one hammered out in the 6-hour and 45-minute session that ran into Wednesday evening. But they said privately the wording was much less important than the unanimity of agreement.

★ ★ ★

Armed with the new Inter-American call for economic and security measures against Cuban communism, the United States is planning a fresh drive among its European North Atlantic Treaty allies to get them to curtail trade and shipping which benefit the Soviet-supported regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The agreement of the foreign ministers is not binding on their governments in the sense that they are now committed to take any specific actions.

★ ★ ★

But the statement appeared to leave no room for doubt that in spite of many long arguments about wording and policy issues the ministers themselves believe the time for further action has come.

Their statement set forth a five-point program generally in line with preconference recommendations made by the United States.

JFK's Sister Is Accused

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Pat Kennedy Lawford, sister of President Kennedy, is accused of driving without a valid operator's license.

Mrs. Lawford, 34, wife of actor Peter Lawford, must appear in Municipal Court Oct. 11 before Judge W. Blair Gibbens, the jurist who sometimes requires traffic violators to sweep streets.

★ ★ ★

The city attorney's office charged Mrs. Lawford Tuesday as the result of a minor traffic accident last Sept. 15. Police investigated the accident and found no one was to blame, but the city attorney's office prepared a complaint against Mrs. Lawford because she allegedly didn't have a valid license at the time.

Reds Try to Brighten Policeman's Image

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet cops this year are going to have a special national holiday in their honor. The "Day of the Soviet Militia" will be celebrated Nov. 10, the militia's 45th anniversary.

This appears to be another step in the Soviet regime's stubborn effort to brighten the public image of its men in blue.

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS

Ever since the anti-Stalinist reaction set in, authorities have been trying to educate the guardians of public order as well as the generally hostile public.

Judging from day-to-day relations the campaign still has a long way to go.

★ ★ ★

Most Western residents regard Soviet policemen as probably the most ineffectual traffic cops in the world.

Crowds of pedestrians constantly swarm across streets against the light, ignoring angry shouts from the cop on the corner.

COPS IGNORED

Cars brazenly jump traffic lights in full view of the policeman on duty or whiz past his motorcycle on the road well above the speed limit.

Sassing of policemen is almost a national pastime.

One Western resident was stopped because his car was dirty—there is a strict rule against dirty cars.

The Westerner, having listened patiently to a lecture on his duty to keep his car clean, calmly walked around the policeman, carefully looking him up and down and finally announced: "Your boots are dirty."

The embarrassed policeman sheepishly waved the driver on his way.

AP Photofax

IT'S MOSCOW NOT N.Y. — Pity the poor Moscow traffic cop. This isn't a jaywalking scene in New York City. These are Moscow pedestrians customarily swarming across a street, ignoring both traffic signals and the white-uniformed policeman who stands helplessly with hands on hips.

Simple jobs like taking disorderly drunks in tow can present problems for the Moscow policeman.

As in most Communist countries the number of men on Soviet police forces is a state secret. Even a casual survey indicates this is one of the most intensively policed states in the world.

★ ★ ★

Most information on police activities has also been shrouded in secrecy, but recently films and propaganda media have opened up some facets of police work — particularly the business of catching spies and criminals.

For the most part, the militia (Communists don't like the word police) performs ordinary police duties and does not normally take part in the work of the security organs of secret police.

5 TYPES

There are five types of militia: Administrative — Responsible for maintaining public order, internal passport control, traffic, sanitary inspections.

Criminal — Charged with combatting crime, surveillance of "socially harmful" elements and fighting prostitution and juvenile delinquency.

Industrial — Serving as guards for industrial establishments except top-secret sites.

Departmental — Various units guarding railroads, waterways, airlines, prisons and the Moscow subway.

★ ★ ★

Militia reserve — Including foot, mounted and motorized units organized along semimilitary lines, usually found only in major cities.

RIGOROUS SCRUTINY

Militia recruits may volunteer for a minimum term of three years after serving in the armed forces. They pass through rigorous political scrutiny. Militia personnel are subject to military law and discipline. Officers have special titles and promotion scales.

In recent years, educational standards have been raised drastically.

Militiamen receive free uniforms and weapons, better-than-average pay, special consideration for housing and other benefits.

All Soviet city dwellers are required to have internal passports specifying where they may live. The militia must approve permanent residence changes. On trips to other cities, Soviet citizens must register with militia headquarters within 24 hours of arrival.

KEEP CLOSE CHECK

The militia maintains close surveillance through its informer nets of house superintendents, doormen, sweepers, passport clerks and apartment house "comandants."

The formation of auxiliary units of strong-arm civilian volunteer policemen, known as "druzhinniki" seems a tacit admission that the man in uniform hasn't been able to do his job fully.

★ ★ ★

Earlier this year, after unconfirmed reports of mob attacks on provincial police stations, the government passed a law prescribing the death penalty for assaulting a police officer or druzhinnik.

Communists used to talk about police forces as a feature of capitalism that would wither away in a Communist society.

The 45-year-old Soviet militia appears to be a going concern that shows no signs of dying out.

Commission OKs Paving Agreement

The City Commission Tuesday night approved an agreement with Spotlite Building Co. for construction of curb and gutter and the paving of Fairview and Beverly avenues.

★ ★ ★

The work will be done by the city and paid for by the building company, developers of a subdivision in that area.

City officials estimated the cost of the project would be about $11,295.

You're getting old when you start using more liniment than shaving lotion. . . . You can bet that most of us couldn't stand a week of the Good Old Days. . . . The theme song of those Broadway freeloaders, who never reach for a check, seems to be "Let the Rest of the World Go Buy."

—Earl Wilson.

Mrs. FDR Gets Checkup

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will remain at Harkness Pavilion of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center at least over the weekend for what a spokesman called further diagnostic studies of an "infectious condition."

The 77-year-old former First Lady entered the hospital a week ago and had been due for discharge today.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Roosevelt had been reported undergoing a checkup. The spokesman said her general condition had improved over the past week, but details of her condition were not disclosed.

Some 600 toll collectors and supervisors are employed on the New York State Thruway.

Valuation in Building Permits Slips

Waterford Township's dollar valuation gap in building permits issued during the first three quarters of 1961 over the comparable period of 1962 widened considerably with the filing of the September 1962 report.

In the month just ended 133 building permits were issued at a valuation of $468,051. During the same month a year ago only 98 permits were issued but the valuation figure reached $1,234,883.

Valuation for the nine-month period of this year stands at $5,355,583 compared to $7,973,365 for the first three quarters of 1961.

Most of the valuation edge for September 1961 over the month just ended can be attributed to a $760,769 permit issued last year for the new Central Methodist Church building on M59.

During September 1962 some 14 residential permits were issued at a valuation of $235,460. This compares to 22 at $357,480 during the same month in 1961.

A year ago five permits were issued for fallout shelters. There were no such permits during the month just ended.

Japan's per capita cigarettes consumption in 1960 was 1,361 compared with 1,365 in 1959.

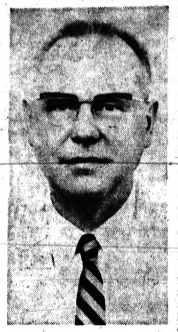
North Central Boss Predicts Regional Airline Mergers

(Editor's Note — The following article concerning North Central Airlines, which serves Pontiac and a number of other cities in Michigan and the Midwest, was prepared by the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce.)



ARTHUR E. A. MUELLER

WAUSAU, Wis. — "North Central Airlines will probably be the first regional airline to go directly from piston engines to pure jets, which we anticipate will be achieved within the next five years," was the statement made today by Arthur E. A. Mueller, chairman of the board of North Central, the world's largest regional airline.

★ ★ ★

Mueller further predicts a tighter consolidation of regional airlines in the future with the existing 13 merging into six or seven good operating airlines and with North Central as Mueller says, "still in lead position." He indicated that "merger discussions" were under way.

Mueller, interviewed in his office in Wausau, Wis., his home town, reviewed the past, present and future of this airline that in 1961 flew over 168-million passenger miles, an increase of 86 times over its initial year of operation in 1945.

Unlike a number of men holding similar posts, he is actively concerned every day of the week with what keeps this airline in first position.

★ ★ ★

North Central is today, first in number of passengers, first in number of pieces of mail carried, first in cargo hauled and first in number of miles flown in the line-up of regional airlines to pass its nearest competitor by some 40 per cent.

VAST EXPANSION

It is largely due to Mueller's foresight and vision that North Central has moved up from its humble beginnings in 1948 with a three-state route (then known as Wisconsin Central) to achieve this 1962 service area in 11 states, 91 cities and two Canadian provinces.

Mueller purchased stock control of North Central in 1952. A man with no prior airline experience, he had, however, a firm business foundation. He was experienced and successful as an investment broker, banker and in iron and steel foundries.

★ ★ ★

The line was at that time extremely small having been limping along for a number of years but Mueller envisioned the great potential air transportation, and in particular, local airlines, could play in the growth of the country.

Here was a man who believed in the future of the industry to the tune of $2 million — which was needed to buy 55 per cent control — to put lifeblood into an airline that was rapidly on the decline— and to furnish gravely needed working capital.

Mueller immediately went to work to build a real airline, to put it in the sky and make it stay there!

First of all he changed the line's name to North Central, envisioning the day the system would expand. He hired a new president. The man didn't work out. He hired another president and fired him a year later.

In despair of finding the right man to do the immediate job at hand, he decided to operate the line himself.

★ ★ ★

He spent the next six months putting in an arduous 90-hour week, looking after his other business interests and running an airline. With no previous experience in this field he simply buckled down and brought to bear all his firmly intrenched business background.

PROBLEM HANDLED

Problems were rampant, first of which was a 30-day notice from the government that North Central must vacate its Madison, Wis. headquarters to make way for an Army air base.

After diligently searching, he obtained space at World-Chamberlain Field in Minneapolis, where today North Central is still quartered, with a few important changes, however — such as beautiful, new administration offices and hangars; with pilots, stewardesses, office employes and ground crews presently totaling over 2,000, and with an impressive fleet of 33 DC3's and 13 Convair 330/440's — instead of the six DC3 planes and 200 employes he moved in 1952.

★ ★ ★

Many other problems confronted him, such as snow removal equipment that was drastically needed in certain areas of their three states, starting a plane in sub zero weather in isolated cities where no hangars existed; and lack of navigational equipment.

In some snow belts they coped with a devastating 220 inches of snow and some 40-degree below zero weather in that first winter Mueller took over the line.

Eventually solutions were found for these problems.

Snow equipment was obtained and provided — the use of electric sparkplug heaters and plastic covering over the entire engine cowling and hot air blast type heaters caused the good old DC3 Wright engines to "usually" respond — and the line itself provided a number of its own navigational aids.

After solving a veritable avalanche of immediate problems, Mueller began to once again diligently search for a new president to run the airline.

He finally found H. N. (Hal) Carr, who in 1954, at the age of 33, became the youngest airline president in the world.

Carr, who had spent a number of years in the industry, soon demonstrated a genius for operational and managerial duties.

QUICK RISE

Under Mueller's direction, with Carr in the president's chair, North Central, in one of the most amazing recovery stories in the industry, was in the black in one short month!

Under the new regime, it showed a profit of $112,000 in the first year of this teamwork operation.

Aviation circles were soon terming Mueller's and Carr's teamwork the "greatest one-two punch in the industry."

This close working alliance spread into every phase of the company's operations.

They asked for suggestions from the employes, opening the information pipeline from flight line to front office.

They considered every suggestion for cutting costs and put many into practice.

Since that time North Central has always enjoyed enviable employe relations.

★ ★ ★

In fact, in 1961, Hal Carr received a citation and plaque from the pilot's union, ALPA, which praised North Central's excellent company-pilot working relationship.

In its entire history, North Central has never experienced a strike.

ROUTES EXPANDED

Mueller and Carr also went to work as soon as possible, expanding their route system. Slowly, gradually, and with the cooperation of the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), they built the line to the present network of 7,100 miles.

Revenues increased from the former 1954 high of $3.35 million to the 1961 figure of $25,210,459, with an anticipated 1965 total of $50 million.

★ ★ ★

North Central today operates from Cleveland, Ohio, in the East, to Minot, North Dakota, in the West, and from Omaha, Nebraska, in the South to Regina, Saskatchewan in the North.

In 1961 North Central carired 1,095,094 passengers (in 1952 when Mueller took control it carried 153,047 persons); in 1961 it carried 6,444,012 pieces of mail (in 1952—1,172,620); it flew 15,970,289 pounds of cargo (in 1952—1,762,488).

North Central also has the distinction of being the only local to reach the milestone of boarding more than a million passengers a year. The line makes nearly 600 landings and takeoffs a day through its system.

In addition to this leadership, North Central has continued to maintain one of the best on-time performance operations in the industry.

Also, in 1961, 98 per cent of its scheduled miles were operated, despite its high number of cities that are located in areas that lie deep in the winter snow belts of several of the midwestern states it serves.

Further, the line has held its favorable position among United States airlines in productive use of aircraft. The DC3's averaged seven hours, one minute utilization per day; the Convairs, six hours, six minutes.

Today, Mueller's "speculative airline investment" takes about 60 per cent of his work-week time — and also much of his so-called free time on weekends.

Although Carr handles all operational details, Mueller is in daily telephonic contact with him on policy matters.

MUELLER GETS AWARD

Mueller's assumed duties include the handling of all financing, route expansion of the system, political contacts at the national, state and city levels and stockholder relations.

Mueller, is actually in the company's principal Minneapolis office, only about two or three times a month (he doesn't even wish a desk assigned to him).

★ ★ ★

When not traveling, he does most of his paper work and makes around 50 telephone calls a day, at his functional Wausau office.

Here, with R. William Hughett, who acts as assistant to the chairman of the board, and a competent office staff, the North Central stockholder relation program is administered.

North Central stockholders now number some 4,700, mostly from the territory served by the company.

Mueller, who is extremely proud of this number states he is convinced that "stockholders are our best boosters and business-getters."

Mueller, a tall man with an athlete's build, a crew cut, and an air of intense confidence, travels the country over during his six-day work week.

He maintains a delicate balance between his two principal, and remotely related businesses, foundry and flying!

★ ★ ★

One of his firms, Mueller Industries, Inc. is the parent company of five foundries and metal working plants in the midwest.

These plants produce a wide and complete range of castings to the principal metal working industries in the Middle West.

In addition, Mueller has several Wausau-owned firms; a bank, a realty company, an insurance company and diverse smaller investments.

In all his businesses Mueller expresses himself as "extremely fortunate to have top men in key positions."

ATTENDED CORNELL

Mueller graduated from Lawrence College in Appleton where he took a four-year business course. He won a scholarship at Cornell University and was there awarded a Master of Arts degree in business administration.

At Lawrence, he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year and was an outstanding athlete in basketball, track, field, hockey and cross-country. (Today he is an avid sportsman, prefering swimming, skiing and hunting.)

The qualities of leadership so evident in later life, were apparent in his campus life, as he held various student offices such as class president, fraternity president and editor of the college annual and president of the student body.

★ ★ ★

He was also a captain of the Lawrence debating team each of his four years and oratory champion of the college conference.

Mueller has a genuine love for the airline industry. He calls their company "the blue chip of its league" and no detail is too minute to interest him. "Nor's" job of "giving wings to Mid-America" is a consatnt source of pleasure to him.

And he can review with a feeling of pride what North Central has accomplished to date. Its brilliant record stands alone — never an accident, never a strike, the No. 1 local airline for the past five years. (Every year of its operation North Central has received the National Safety Council Award for accident-free operation).

★ ★ ★

Mueller is unassuming about the company's success. He smilingly states, "We've grown because many loyal people have given their time, effort and money, and most of all because they have believed with me, it could be done. And we plan to continue growing, with God's and the CAB's cooperation."

WHAT'S AHEAD

As to what's ahead for North Central, Mueller has this to say: "(1) Continuation of what I call its natural and built-in growth; we have experienced approximately an 18 per cent growth factor since 1952 which seems to occur whether the economy is in a recession or prosperity phase.

(2) "The best competitive position in the industry — by that I mean that we are the only airline in over 60 of our 92 cities, which obviously has many advantages.

(3) "The increasing advantage of spreading high fixed costs inherent in this industry over more miles of operation than any other carrier in our league thus resulting in the lowest cost per plane seat mile in the industry.

(4) "Acquisition of cities and segments from other regionals; for example, recently North Central signed a contract with Frontier Airlines to acquire practically all of the cities in the State of Montana — thus adding 1,376 additional route miles to our system.

"I personally believe more of this realigning of routes is to come —all of which will be to the benefit and growth of North Central Airlines.

(5) "Acquisition of cities and of their routes from trunk lines —with the advent of pure jet aircraft, practically all of the trunk airlines are finding it uneconomical and impractical to maintain their short-haul operations.

'As a matter of fact between almost every major segment or market in this country there lies the possibility and probability of a major airline welcoming the taking over of the short-haul sections by a regional airline.

(6) "Acquisition of other companies. Certainly the increasing competitive pressure for lowest cost transportation and the need for best-qualified, fastest-moving management all mean that many of the smaller units in this industry will either of their own accord request the help of the most successful or be forced by sheer economic pressure to join forces."

North Central has for many years used a trademark of a mallard duck in flight, affectionately named Herman.

Mueller especially chose the mallard as its mascot, because, being a long time duck hunter, he knew the bird was known for its fast takeoff.

Symbolically, North Central's Herman took off real fast in 1952 and has been flying mighty high and fast ever since!

And Mueller and his company intend to fly with him for the years to come, to continue and increase "air service for Main Street, U.S.A.!"

Convent of the Sacred Heart students may have had the day free of classes but many were busy furnishing programs, directions, tickets and atmosphere to Wednesday's event. Senior Trish Shannon (left) of Bloomfield Hills and sophomore Mary Jo Slavsky of Orchard Lake were caught in midflight, but didn't collide.

Conditions were "GO" for project "Fine Arts and Fashions for Fall" launched Wednesday at the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Bloomfield Hills.

Despite the rain-soaked afternoon, which forced the outdoor style show into the school's Don Ahrens Auditorium, well over 1,000 alumnae and guests turned out for the combination art exhibit, tea and fashion show.

★ ★ ★

General chairman Mrs. Don J. Stein and her committees worked rapidly Wednesday morning, transferring some 40 art objects from the auditorium to another area to make room for the elegantly-clad models.

VIBRANT COLORS

Emphasis here was on cocktail and ball gowns, vibrant colors and luxurious fabrics. Along with alumnae models, the kindergarten set strolled down the ramp in snappy school togs.

★ ★ ★

In keeping with the art theme of this sixth annual show, convent students in pink smocks and black tams served as program peddlers, ticket salesgirls and guides through the spacious Kensington Road school building.

Student Government representatives also helped out, selling door prize tickets — a stunning black broadtail jacket with a Russian sable collar —and directing the crowds to various tearooms and exhibits.

★ ★ ★

Various art collectors, including Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford II, the Frank Perrons and Edward E. Rothmans, loaned items for the showing. Paintings were also borrowed from Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fleishman, Dr. and Mrs. Irving Burton, the Charles A. Deans, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Davidson and the Charles Kleinsmiths.

Area committee members working on the event, sponsored by the Alumnae Association and the Janet Stuart Association, to benefit the school's building fund included Mrs. Norman J. Fredericks and Mrs. Joseph E. Risdon, president of the respective associations.

Mrs. Darrell Roberts entertained in her Sodon Lake home in Bloomfield Township prior to the fashion show Wednesday. Guests at her midmorning brunch included Mrs. E. A. Jones, Mrs. E. M. Estes, Mrs. Frank V. Bridge and Mrs. John DeLorean.

Inaugurates 38th Year

The Parliamentary Study Club opened its 38th year of service to the women of Pontiac and Oakland County with a luncheon Wednesday in the Masonic Temple on East Lawrence Street.

★ ★ ★

Charles Cohen of the Sanitation Division of the Pontiac Public Health Department was guest speaker. Mrs. John McNeely was luncheon chairman.

Parliamentary Study Club membership is open to any interested clubwomen in the Pontiac area. Meetings are held the first and third Wednesdays, October through March, for study and practice of parliamentary usage by organized groups.

Host Could Suggest Costly Dish

Q: Quite often my husband and I invite friends to dinner in a restaurant. When it comes time to order, invariably our guests choose dishes that are less expensive and I always have the feeling that they might like something else, but hesitate to order it because of the price.

★ ★ ★

But as I can't order first I don't know how to make them feel perfectly free to order whatever they like regardless of the price. Have you any suggestions as to how to handle this situation?

★ ★ ★

A: Either you or your husband might suggest a more expensive dish by asking your friends, "Wouldn't you rather have the boned squab stuffed with wild rice? They are really delicious here."

★ ★ ★

Q: Would it be proper to give a stork shower for a dear friend of mine who is now living several hundred miles from here? Her husband was transferred several months ago, but prior to that she lived in this city and all of her relatives and friends are living here.

★ ★ ★

Some are of the opinion that it would be wrong to give a shower since she cannot be present. Will you please advise me whether or not a shower would be proper under these circumstances?

★ ★ ★

A: It will be entirely proper to give a stork shower for your friend who is having her baby far from her hometown. After the shower, pack all of the presents in one or more cartons and send them to her.

★ ★ ★

Q: Will you please settle the following matter: Do the ushers and best man stand in the receiving line at the reception? Some say "yes," and others, "no." Which is correct?

A: The receiving line consists of the bride and bridegroom, maid of honor and bridesmaids. The best man and ushers have no place in the receiving line.

Teen-Ager Pleased by Advice

Blind Don't Appreciate Yelling

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When a friend of mine saw your article on how to treat the blind, she read it to me because she knew I would be interested. You see, I am a blind teenager. Your advice was excellent, but you didn't go far enough.

ABBY

Our biggest problems are (1) people who yell at us. They think that because we are blind we are DEAF, too.

(2) People who come up behind us, slap us on the back and say, "Hello, there!" How we wish they would identify themselves.

(3) People who make us uncomfortable by treating us as though we were abnormal.

A sightless person who learns to live with his handicap can have as much fun (or more) than anybody. Yours, sincerely,

SIGHTLESS BUT HAPPY

DEAR SIGHTLESS BUT HAPPY: Thank you for your wonderful letter. And if my readers want free information on how to treat the blind, contact your local Lions Club, Lighthouse for the Blind, or any other service organizations that aid the sightless in your community.

DEAR ABBY: Does a 39-year-old man have the right to grow a beard if he wants to? Or should his wife have something to say about it?

My wife and I have been going around about this one for almost a year. Everyone I know (with the exception of my wife) thinks I look great with a beard.

BEARDED

DEAR BEARDED: You not only stuck your chin out, you grew hair on it. The opinion of your wife, in this case, should be more important than all the other opinions combined. She loves you! How are you fixed for blades?

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: A little while ago, a young boy in a baseball uniform rang my doorbell and asked if I would like to DONATE something to the Little League.

Now it seems disgraceful that these not-so-underprivileged boys should be sent out to beg. The Little League does much to build character and teach sportsmanship, democracy, etc., but what does begging do for their self-respect?

Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls go from door to door selling cookies, but the cookies are wonderful and you get something for your money.

If Little Leaguers need money, why don't they sell tickets and put on a game? If you agree with me, print my letter. If you think I am wrong, tell me off in your column.

Sure, You Can Improve Posture

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The position of the pelvis is one of the most important factors in good posture. When this is incorrect, sway back occurs. Along with it, the shoulders are apt to be rounded, the head thrust forward and the abdomen protruding.

The following exercise strengthens the muscles which control the tilt of the pelvis.

Stand with your back toward the wall. Your feet should be 4 or 5 inches away from the wall. Bend both elbows and place your hands behind your head. Your head and upper arms and hips should touch the wall.

PULL IN

Now pull your abdominal muscles in and your hips under and flatten your lower back against the wall. Hold this position while you count to five slowly. Relax and continue. If you wish to improve your posture, this exercise will be of great value.

Try the following two exercises when you are tied up in knots of tension. Your muscles will be tense, too, when you feel this way. All exercise is relaxing, but some special ones are especially effective.

Stand tall with your arms hanging limply at your sides. Let your head drop forward as you pull your shoulders forward. Do this with your shoulders, not your arms. Now raise your head and lower it backward as you pull your shoulders up and back. Continue this VERY slowly.

★ ★ ★

Another: Stand tall, toes pointing forward. Make large circles with your arms, crossing them in front of you and then continuing forward-upward and then moving them out at your sides and downward. Continue smoothly. As your arms move upward, inhale and rise high on your toes. As they move down, exhale and lower heels to the floor. Look at the ceiling when your arms are overhead.

★ ★ ★

If you would like to have my exercises for relaxing, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 24 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tells Women's Opportunities With Passage of Equal Pay Bill

EAST LANSING — The power of women is still strong.

Lending authenticity to this statement, which is considered a truism by women and begrudgingly admitted by most men, was Rep. Marie L. Hager, R-Lansing.

Speaking to 200 at a Michigan State University conference on the employment problems of working women, Rep. Hager pointed to the recently passed Equal Pay Bill, which covers women in all job occupations.

The bill, sought by Michigan working women for some time, now guarantees equal pay in all occupations, including teaching, nursing, and food handling which are generally considered as belonging to women, she said.

★ ★ ★

"Women can now prepare themselves for careers in business or the professions, knowing that equal pay will be assured," she stated. "The bill helps both men and women by establishing wage scales for all jobs, thus preventing the lowering of wages by employing women at lesser rates of pay."

Although she admitted that laws for enforcing the bill and protecting women who seek fair treatment under the bill still must come, Rep. Hager called it "a victory for women" and said that "women can accomplish anything if they want it bad enough."

Insanity Is a Flight

Children Need Love

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE N-440: Mary X., aged 20, is the beautiful coed who had to leave college for a mental sanitarium.

Shock treatment served as the psychiatric aspirin to relieve her problem temporarily. But about once per year she'd blurt out with:

"Mother, take that dog away from me."

DR. CRANE

This was the psychiatric "aura" that preceded another breakdown, so her parents would then return her to the sanitarium.

After a few weeks of additional shock therapy, Mary would go home, apparently quite normal. But it wouldn't last more than a year or so.

For the basic core of Mary's dilemma was not touched by the shock treatment.

If you have a headache due to astigmatism, then aspirin may mask the pain temporarily.

But aspirin does NOT correct the astigmatism! So the real cure for your headache must be a visit to an eye doctor for properly fitted glasses.

NEEDED REAL AID

So it is with Mary and all such cases. Intensive psychoanalysis may be required to uncover the basic difficulty.

Mary was an only child of socially prominent parents. Her mother was active in society. And her father was a prominent doctor, who had expected a son.

So Mary sensed from childhood that she wasn't exactly wanted.

★ ★ ★

To win more attention from her parents, she hit on the idea of being an honor student. For if she brought home straight "A" grades, they praised her.

So Mary became a bookworm. And resolved to become a physician, too, which meant intensive study of chemistry, physics, math, and other tough courses.

To keep up her "A" ranking, she shunned social affairs and dates, so she didn't develop the diversified emotional roots that most young folks sprout.

SHUNNED DATES

Figuratively, therefore, Mary carried all of her emotional "eggs" in one basket. She lived primarily for more affection from her parents.

In college, too, she launched upon the tough premedical course. So she shunned dates with college boys, shutting herself within her shell.

But her normal physiology made her crave romance. Had she dated a few boys and experienced their goodnight kisses, she might have developed enough extra emotional roots to remain sane.

★ ★ ★

But she was like a tree with only one root, which can thus be blown over in a severe windstorm. It takes many roots in all directions to make a rugged tree.

That's also one reason why you high schoolers should not "go steady," for you need a wider emotional rootage in the teens to give you adult stability.

SHE BROKE DOWN

Mary finally experienced a temporary and unnatural erotic episode. That produced a severe guilt reaction and in the resulting conflict, she broke down and suffered a split personality (schizophrenia).

So will you parents please insure your children against insanity? The first step is to realize that insanity is a flight from an apparently cruel, forbidding or loveless environment.

People do not run away from pleasure! So show your youngsters you love them. Hug them occasionally. Kiss them goodnight. Have more family camaraderie, as at shows, picnics, hikes, vacation trips.

★ ★ ★

And send for my booklet "How to Prevent Insanity and Nervous Breakdowns," enclosing a stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

This Club President Is Ready for Sacrifices of Her Position

By GAY PAULEY

"NEW YORK (UPI) — So you want to be club president? Better check first the state of the family's finances and the husband's willingness to share more of your time with others and to pay the tab for the "hidden costs" of being a leader.

Also, check with your physician on whether you have the stamina for long sleep, more activity and possibly a lot of travel. Also, check with the children to see how they feel about mamma hitting the club circuit.

Then, decide if being president is worth it. It is for Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold of Concord, N.H., president for a two-year term of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. She presides over the world's largest organization of women, with a membership in the United States of 11 million, overseas 2.5 million.

"The personal cost is considerable," said 48-year-old Mrs. Arnold. "And we're a family of moderate means. But I'm not crying, certainly. I asked for it. Any club president does. Today's club president, you'll find, usually is of average means. She used to be the banker's wife . . ."

★ ★ ★

Why take a club presidency, when it means cutting into both the money and time budget?

One answer Margaret Arnold gave hinged on a conversation with a small nephew. She was holding one of his toys, a globe, one day when the child asked, "Aunt Peggy, what are you doing with my world?"

Mrs. Arnold said the question summed up pretty well for her what clubwomen owe to those around them. "Today," she said, "the average woman with her larger family has a tremendous stake in every part of community life. And beyond. With dad the commuter, she's the one who has to go out and find what the issues are.

"The family is the starting point for the good or bad citizen.

"I feel very strongly that we do have to pay rent for our space in this world.

★ ★ ★

"And there is the element of personal fulfillment . . ."

ON N.Y. TRIP

I interviewed Mrs. Arnold during one of her trips to New York from Washington headquarters of the federation — this time, for a tea given the president and her board of directors by the Celanese Corp. The firm for the last nine years has provided federation membership a color slide program on home decoration. An estimated 300,000 women see it each year.

Mrs. Arnold said that cost of travel and hotel bills for her nonsalaried job usually are shared by the General Federation and the local or state club which she is invited to visit.

The hidden costs of a club president, she said, include:

— The extra household help. Mrs. Arnold has a part-time maid now for her home in Concord, N. H., "but I used to do all the housework myself." The federation pays for a cook in the elegant old residence which houses the Washington headquarters. Mrs. Arnold pays for her own food and many entertaining bills.

★ ★ ★

— The extra contributions you're asked to make. "When you're a club president," she said, "you get on every list in town, because your name has appeared in the paper."

—The commuting cost in her case from Washington, or wherever she is on Friday or Saturday, to get to Concord for at least 24 hours. "I promised my husband that," she said. Her husband is superintendent of the Concord schools.

— The long distance phone to keep in touch with family—"but I always call after 6 p.m. (when rates are lower)," she said.

★ ★ ★

— The extra clothes. Mrs. Arnold said she once made all her clothes including her hats.

AT TOP IN 10 YEARS

In federation activities — she's moved up through the ranks from New Hampshire president to international president in 10 years — her wardrobe has had to be expanded extensively to include more daytime clothes, plus a variety of late day and formal wear. Now, she has no time to sew her own, and she estimated wardrobe cost had gone up from $600 a year to over $1,000.

Mrs. Arnold, a vivacious blonde who's five feet two inches tall "if I stretch," said she couldn't "honestly estimate" how much being federation president with the constant travel involved was costing the family budget. "But I repeat," she said, "I'm not complaining. My husband and I geared ourselves for this."

She said her husband's annual income runs around $10,000 and that for the "duration," there will be no vacations, no collecting of antiques, no redecorating of the Concord house, "much as it needs it."

★ ★ ★

"Actually, we've always lived on a budget," said Mrs. Arnold. "My husband says my budgeting has gotten better with each higher office I've taken."

"Art as Communication" will be the topic discussed by Peter Gilleran, assistant professor of art at Wayne State University during his talk before the Waterford Township Schools' English Association.

Mr. Gilleran's talk will be illustrated by slides. The public is invited to attend.

Post Card Writing Can Be Simplified

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Somewhere I read about a new gadget designed to keep the post card-writing traveler from getting writer's cramp.

With this little invention you can write several post cards at one time, instead of writing a separate message to everybody on your list.

It ought to work just dandy. After all, nothing much of a personal nature goes on a post card. And the average traveler could probably easily separate his post card list into a few groups.

There are his gourmet friends who will want to hear about the marvelous little restaurant he just happened to find or who will be impressed to learn that he dined in a really famous restaurant.

* * *

There are his nature-loving friends who will want to hear about the scenery.

There are the friends who share one of his hobbies who will want to hear about the beautiful antique he is bringing home, or the rare coin or stamp or the marvelous pictures he has taken along the way, or whatever.

There are his party-minded friends who will want to hear about the night clubs he has gone to, and so on.

So with friends and relatives carefully divided into such groups, this gadget for writing a number of post cards at once should enable the weary traveler to make short work of the chore.

If he doesn't want to go to even that much trouble he can send them all the usual "Having wonderful time. Wish you were here. See you soon."

* * *

Since that is the message that 9 out of 10 post cards carry, anyway—why not turn them out in quantity?

* * *

It's one-of-a-kind: Ruth Millett's booklet, "Happier Wives (hints for husbands)." Just send 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, c/o The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

In the 1960 season Americans sent three billion Christmas cards, or an average of nearly 17 cards a person, at a cost of about $300 million, not including postage.

Coffee Stains Can't Resist Cold Water

These coffee stains on your carpet can easily be cleaned, if you follow these simple directions.

1. Dampen the spot with cold water and cover with a terry-cloth towel.
2. Apply pressure on the towel in order to absorb the coffee.
3. Carefully rinse and squeeze out towel. Repeat process until the towel shows no traces of coffee.

* * *

4. The same treatment applies on an old and ingrained stain but, as a final remedy foam the area with a commercial rug shampoo and let it set for about 10 minutes. Clean off the foam as directed on the package.

Soap 'n School

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. Leslie J. Nason, professor of education at the University of Southern California, says the quality of citizenship and the quality of learning often are affected by cleanliness and neatness.

"The child who is sent to school appropriately and neatly dressed, as well as physically clean, is in a good position to tackle his learning task," he noted.

Entomologist Now on Safari

Dr. Edward Ross and Others in Asia Jungle

WASHINGTON — "Have net and camera, will travel" might well be the motto of Dr. Edward S. Ross, a San Francisco entomologist now on an insect-hunting safari to the jungles of tropical Asia.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Ross, whose 18-month quest is supported by the National Geographic Society and the California Academy of Sciences, is engaged in a life-long, worldwide study of the Embioptera, a little-known order of insects related to termites.

★ ★ ★

These seldom-collected bugs, fragile-looking and small, live in warm areas of the world. They are rarely seen.

They spin elaborate homes of silk on tree trunks, among dead leaves, and under stones — wherever it is dark, damp, and warm.

LONG IGNORED

"These remarkable insects have long been neglected by entomologists," said Dr. Ross who is curator of entomology at the California Academy of Sciences and a world authority on Embioptera.

"As a result very little material is available, even in the largest museums possessing millions of specimens of other insect groups."

Accompanying Dr. Ross are his wife, who is an experienced botanist, his teen-aged son Clark, already a veteran bug collector, and David Q. Cavagnaro, an entomology student at the University of California.

The party is traveling in a three-quarter-ton truck with a tent top that gives it the appearance of a motorized prairie schooner. The vehicle provides not only transportation but also a laboratory and home.

★ ★ ★

It has electricity, shower, and portable stove. An aluminum door converts to a dining-room table. Mrs. Ross prepared for the trip by learning dozens of new recipes utilizing rice, the food staple in the expedition's territory.

Dr. Ross has been studying Embioptera for more than 20 years. It is his life work. People in many equatorial regions have seen him crouching quietly in city gardens, on plains, and in thick jungles as he pursues his favorite insects.

Defense Job Information Center Opens

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. Swainson officiated today at a press preview of the nation's first Defense Contract Information Center in Detroit for big and small industries. It will open for business tomorrow.

The first 2,000 requests for bids posted by DCIC ranged from aircraft repair parts to military engines and tank-automotive components.

He said the information center will work closely with the new U.S. Army Mobility Command and that the staff will help industry bid on contracts.

★ ★ ★

Gov. Swainson said the labor skills and management know-how in Michigan, plus "a willingness to participate in the defense program, could mean a sizeable boost in Michigan's share of defense contracts."

This is the time of year when a politician who couldn't spare a minute to answer your letter last spring will spend hours telling you how much he's done for you.

FOR THE FALL — The distinctively flavored Golden Harvest Lamb featured in an extra special Party Lamb Loaf . . . perfect for fall entertaining.

Mushroom Layer Fills in Center of Lamb Loaf

The tonic air of fall is as crisp as a roasted peanut shell. It's Indian Summer! It's fun and friend time at its best. There are get-togethers after the games; cozy, intimate fireside feasts; and old fashioned harvest hoe downs.

Of course, there are some sad souls who dodge these festivities. They are the ones who spend so much time cooking for the crowd they're too tired to sparkle when the fun begins.

Want proof of the pudding? All right. Consider this scrumptious recipe for Party Lamb Loaf featuring the fine, young, tender Golden Harvest Lamb now in your markets. Perhaps it's one of the simplest recipes you've ever laid eyes on but wait 'til your guests taste it!

Tasty ground lamb in three layers and in between . . . sauteed mushrooms flavored with sherry. Need we say more!

Serve piping hot or sliced cold with green salad and a tart lemony dressing. That's all that's needed for praises plus!

Party Perfect Lamb Loaf

2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cans (3 ounces each) chopped mushrooms
½ cup finely chopped cooked ham (optional)
¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons dry sherry
2 pounds lean ground lamb

Saute onion in butter until tender. Add liquid from mushrooms. Finely chop mushrooms and add to onion mixture. Simmer until liquid is reduced to about 1 tablespoon. Remove from heat, add ham, crumbs, salt, pepper and sherry.

Divide lamb into 3 parts. Layer lamb and mushroom mixture in 9x5x3-inch loaf pan, beginning and ending with lamb. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour, 15 minutes. Drain off drippings before serving. Serves 6.

Swedish Braised Lamb Chops

6 shoulder lamb chops, 1 inch thick
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup water
1 medium onion, sliced
2 bay leaves
½ teaspoon whole allspice
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup sour cream
1 teaspoon sugar

Sprinkle lamb with salt and pepper. Brown on both sides in butter in skillet; drain off drippings. Add 1 cup water, onion, bay leaves and allspice; simmer 1½ hours, or until meat is fork tender. Remove lamb. Mix ¼ cup water with flour and stir into skillet. Blend in sour cream and sugar. Return lamb to sauce and heat to serving temperature.

Fish Is Ideal Fare for Persons on Diets

As part of the Newspaper Food Editors Conference, an array of beautifully prepared fish and shellfish dishes was displayed, showing how menus built around fishery products can be appetizing yet conform to special diets, are taste-tempting to children as well as elderly people, and will intrigue, nourish and satisfy the entire family from breakfast through dinner.

The most important section was that devoted to dishes for heart patients, in view of the American Medical Association's August statement that diets modified to include an increased amount of polyunsaturated fats will depress the amount of cholesterol in the blood and thus help prevent heart disease. The fats in fish are, of course, polyunsaturated.

Dishes for family and company meals — breakfast, brunch, luncheon and dinner— were made from a range of fishery products: herring, cod, scallops, shrimp, crab, salmon, various breaded fish and fish fillets.

COD STEAKS A LA PORTUGAISE
(Low-Salt)

2 pounds cod steaks
1 cup peeled, seeded, chopped fresh tomato
¼ cup minced onion
2 teaspoons minced green pepper
½ teaspoon crushed dried basil
¼ teaspoon crushed dried thyme
¼ teaspoon crushed dried tarragon
⅛ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
2 tablespoons corn oil

Blend together tomato, onion, green pepper, basil, thyme, tarragon, pepper, and corn oil. Place cod steaks in broiler-proof pan. Spread tomato mixture over tops of steaks. Place in preheated broiler 2 inches from source of heat. Broil 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serve immediately. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

TOMATO-GLAZED FILLETS
(For Gourmet Dieters)

1 pound fresh or frozen fish fillets (cod, flounder, haddock, or ocean perch)
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 medium-sized onion, thinly sliced
¾ pound mushrooms, washed and sliced
½ teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
¼ teaspoon crushed dill seeds or 1 teaspoon snipped fresh dill
1 can (1-pound-3-ounces) tomatoes
1½ tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon snipped parsley

If fillets are frozen let thaw on the bottom shelf of the refrigerator or at room temperature. Blot them dry with a paper towel, then cut into serving-size pieces.

* * *

Heat oil in a large skillet with tight cover. Add onion and mushroom slices. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until lightly browned — about 3 minutes. Then arrange fillet pieces over the mushrooms. Sprinkle fish with garlic salt, salt, lemon rind and dill. Add tomatoes.

Cover and cook over medium heat for 10 minutes, or until fish flakes easily. Carefully remove fish to heated serving platter.

Blend flour and lemon juice. Stir into tomato mixture in pan. Cook, stirring, until smooth and bubbling. Pour over fish and garnish with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Dried Herbs Add Zest to Soup

This recipe was adapted from one included in a course on herb growing and using.

Herb Spinach Soup

1 pkg. (10 ounces) frozen spinach
3 chicken bouillon cubes
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup minced onion
1 clove garlic (minced)
1 tablespoon minced parsley
¼ teaspoon each dried thyme, marjoram and basil (crumbled)
1 cup light cream

Cook spinach according to package directions omitting salt; drain pressing out water. Add enough boiling water to spinach liquid to make 3 cups; add bouillon cubes and stir or heat to dissolve.

Cook onion and garlic in the butter; add parsley, herbs, cooked drained spinach, bouillon mixture and cream. Refrigerate overnight. Heat without boiling. Makes about 5 cups.

The U.S. has about 9 million golfers on the links, with almost half of them playing 15 or more rounds a season. In 1960, they spent more than $86 million for equipment. To reach this lucrative market, sporting goods stores invest approximately 25 per cent of their advertising budgets in their local daily newspapers.

COD STEAKS — Chopped fresh tomato and herbs top individual cod steaks (foreground) before they go under the broiler. This is a dish suggested for people who must restrict the salt in their diets. In the background are Tomato-Glazed Fillets, a low calorie dish.

Cheesecake May Be Rich but Not Colorific

Every so often, even the most conscientious of weight-watchers gets a craving for a really sumptuous dessert, one spelled with a capital D. When this happens, offer him a piece of this luscious but low-calorie Baked Lemon Cheesecake. Your dieter will feel that he's off on a real dessert spree.

Ordinarily, cheesecake would be on the forbidden list for any serious scalewatcher. But, thanks to the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl, the rich and creamy cheesecake shown here has been calorie-streamlined to just 133 calories for every irresistible serving.

That's a whopping big saving of 85 calories per serving over the sugar-sweetened variety. And your dieter just won't be able to taste the difference.

There's a nutritional bonus for your weight-watcher, too. Not only is this cheesecake low in calories, it's also high in nutrients supplied by skim milk, eggs and cottage cheese.

BAKED LEMON CHEESECAKE
(Low-Calorie)

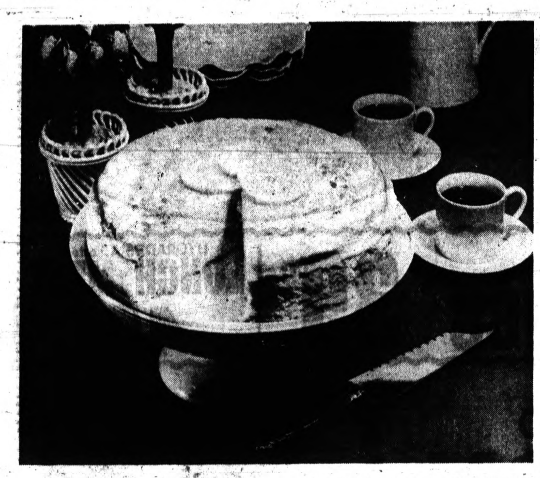
4 cups cottage cheese
8 teaspoons Sucaryl solution
1 cup skim milk
8 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons graham cracker crumbs

Place cottage cheese in large bowl of mixer; beat on high speed until smooth and creamy. Blend in Sucaryl, milk and eggs; beat until smooth. Add vanilla, lemon rind and juice.

* * *

Pour into a 9-inch spring form pan which has been sprinkled with graham cracker crumbs. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees) 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until set.

Makes 12 servings. Each serving contains 133 CALORIES; 19.5 grams protein; 4 grams fat; 3.5 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 218 CALORIES.



LEMON CHEESECAKE — Imagine being able to eat this luscious looking cheesecake without worrying about calories. The secret is the use of a sugar substitute in the recipe. You'll be proud to serve this to any guests.

Sherbet Relish So Refreshing

A new cranberry relish—in sherbet form — is a refreshing version of the traditional sauce. The basis for this recipe is a can of jellied cranberry sauce enlivened with lemon, orange and nutty flavor of California Sherry.

This delightful condiment provides a cool contrast to the rest of a hot meal. It's especially delicious with roasts, chicken and turkey. No matter what the main course, however, there is a California dinner wine — red, white or Rose — which will combine perfectly with the meal.

Cranberry Sherbet Relish

1 (1-lb.) can jellied cranberry sauce, crushed with fork
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
¼ cup Sherry wine
½ cup whipping cream

Add all ingredients except cream to the jellied cranberry sauce. Stir well. Freeze until mushy. Whip cream and fold in. Freeze until firm. Serve as a relish with roasts, chicken or turkey. Makes 6-8 servings.

Empty steel cans are much in demand in the U.S. Virgin Islands where they wind up as steel drums in Island bands. The 55-gallon containers, cut to the depth that determines whether they become alto or bass "pans," are tuned to perfection with a sledge hammer and cold chisel.

Try the Easy Way to Remove Cake

To remove an angel food cake from the pan, wait until it is completely cool and the pan feels cold when you touch it. Then use a straight stiff knife. Slip it in between the cake and the pan.

* * *

Slide the knife around the pan, and move it up and down in very short strokes as you bring it around. Be sure you are pressing the knife against the pan instead of into the cake.

* * *

When the sides of the cake are loosened, take out the removable tube and bottom, if there is one. If not, turn the pan over and hit the edge sharply on the table to remove the cake, holding your fingers underneath the cake to catch it as it falls from the pan.

Three Fruits Blended Into Quick Relish

Purple Plum Relish — so good with lamb, veal, pork, or poultry, is a treat to enjoy now while those large sweet Idaho-grown plums (Italian prunes) are in our markets. Or you can postpone its making until the day before you want it if you'll quick-like freeze some of this delicious fruit, to enjoy in many ways throughout the winter months. Why not both? The season is short, so better hurry!

* * *

Just Wonderful Purple Plum Relish

16 Idaho fresh purple plums, halved and pitted
1 medium-sized orange, quartered
1 medium-sized apple, peeled and quartered
1 and ½ cups granulated sugar

* * *

Put fruit through moderately-coarse plate of food chopper. Add sugar. Mix well. Pack in tightly-covered containers, preferably those that hold enough for one meal, especially if relish is to be frozen. Let stand overnight in refrigerator before serving. Serve cold. Yield: 3 to 3 and ½ cups.

Note: If to be frozen, allow ½-inch head room for small containers, ½-inch for larger; seal well. To use, allow to thaw several hours in the refrigerator.

Variation: prepare relish as directed, adding 1 cup scissor-cut seedless raisins, 2-3 cup chopped walnuts, dash of ground cloves, ½ teaspoon cinnamon. For variety, you may wish to divide a recipe of the relish in half. Pack one portion plain, and add fruit and spices to the remainder. The latter is perfect with ham.

Purple plums are the easiest of all fruits to freeze. This is a freestone fruit, so the seed comes out easily. They require no blanching, no special treatment for holding their color; need very little sugar.

Teen-age delight: making chocolate ice-cream sodas with a topping of chocolate sprinkles.

Corn Adds Body to This Chowder

Turkey Chowder is a satisfying meal in itself when served with hot rolls and crisp salad.

To prepare: Brown 2 slices of chopped bacon. When slightly crisp add ¼ cup chopped onion and continue cooking until onion is soft and bacon is quite crisp. Meanwhile simmer together, until tender, 1 cup diced celery, 2 cups cubed potatoes and 1 cup diced cooked turkey in 2 cups turkey broth or canned diluted consomme. (Cream of chicken soup may be used and is a step-saver . . . dilute as directed with milk.)

When vegetables are tender add 1 cup whole kernel corn and the cooked bacon and onion along with 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. If broth has been used, thicken with 2 tablespoons flour and add 1 cup milk.

Season with salt and pepper (using cream of chicken soup eliminates the need for thickening the cooking liquid.) Simmer the chowder leisurely about 15 minutes before serving.

DILL-OLIVE BEAN SALAD — When the air outside is cooler, you feel more like eating hearty foods. Take this dilled bean salad, for example. Precooked navy beans are teamed with black olives and sliced radishes, then dressed with a dill mixture. Nice for a buffet meal.

Precooked Beans Cut Preparations

No getting around it—beans are the kind of food you think of when the word hearty is mentioned. And it's true—beans are a good sound dish, no matter how you serve them. With autumn chill brisking the appetite, nothing could be more welcome on the menu than a meal-in-one dish like "Hunter's Bean Soup." And, with the perennial summer salad of light and lightly tossed lettuce and wafers of cucumber not quite so satisfying on a chilly fall evening — "Dill-Olive Bean Salad" is destined to win applause.

Using precooked quick beans and quick chili beans as the basis for both of these dishes, you can whip up either one in a short time—even though you cook the beans fresh for each dish. Precooking is just exactly that.

The beans are cooked to the point of almost-tenderness in a high pressure steam cooking system at the factory, then dried for easy packing and handling. All you do is reconstitute these precooked beans by restoring the moisture—and voila, you have the same type of tender, home-style beans that it used to take all night soaking and all day cooking to produce!

Hunter's Bean Soup

1 package (2 cups) precooked chili beans (omit the chili seasoning included in package)
4½ cups boiling water
1½ teaspoons salt
1 pound lean beef stew meat cut into ½" cubes
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon oregano
⅛ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon garlic powder
¼ pound diced salt pork
1 to 3 teaspoons chopped hot pickled peppers (depending on your taste)
2 8-ounce cans (2 cups) seasoned tomato sauce

Pour boiling water and 1½ teaspoon of salt over beans; boil for 10 minutes. Add meat and other ingredients to beans and simmer 30 to 45 minutes until meat is tender, stirring occasionally. Serves 8.

Dill-Olive Bean Salad

1 package (2 cups) precooked beans
1½ teaspoons salt
½ cup sliced green onions
½ diced cucumber
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
3 tablespoons salad oil
salt and pepper to taste
3 cups boiling water
1 cup sliced radishes
¾ cup pitted black olives, chopped
1 teaspoon chopped dill
6 tablespoons vinegar
2 tomatoes for garnish

Add salt and boiling water to beans; boil for 15 minutes. Drain and let cold water run slowly over beans to cool them. Add onions, radishes, cucumber, parsley, dill, salt and pepper to taste. Mix lightly. Mix oil and vinegar and toss with bean mixture. Arrange in salad bowl and garnish with tomato wedges. Serves 6 to 8.

Chili Skillet Dish Cooks Up Fast

Late getting home to prepare supper? Try this hearty quickly-made main dish.

More Meat Than Beans

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 large onion (coarsely chopped)
1 pound lean ground beef
1 can (1 pound stewed tomatoes)
1 large clove garlic (crushed)
Seasonings: salt, chili powder, pepper and ground cumin

In a large skillet lightly brown the onion in the butter. Add beef and mash with a fork to crumble; cook gently until meat loses its red color. Add beans (including liquid), tomatoes and garlic; add seasonings to taste. Cook gently for 30 minutes or longer, mixing occasionally. Serve in soup bowls.

Chicken Is Best Tasting

New Method Seals Poultry in Plastic

Frozen fresh chicken is new in meat departments of many retail stores, reports the Marketing Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. This advanced method of packaging and freezing chicken at the processing plant provides the freshest poultry yet.

Over 80 per cent of the poultry is produced in eleven states today, and must be transported hundreds of miles to major consuming areas. Although the chickens are packed in cracked ice and shipped in refrigerated trucks, they lose some of their natural juices and flavor before they reach your retail stores.

The new packaging and freezing process is a result of years of research. A special plastic film for air-tight packaging, flash freezing at 30 to 40 degrees below zero minutes after slaughter seals in the fresh flavor.

All frozen fresh poultry packaged is subject to inspection and supervision by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to assure cleanliness, wholesomeness and quality control during packaging and freezing.

The new frozen fresh poultry is available in several forms . . . whole, split in half, cut-up or in parts such as legs, thighs, breasts and wings. The poultry can be thawed quickly by placing the package under cold running water for 20 to 30 minutes. Or thaw it in the refrigerator in 4 to 8 hours, depending upon the size package. Or you store the chicken in the home freezer without re-wrapping it. Packages will keep 4 to 6 months in the freezer.

Russia's chief occupation (says Arnold Glasow) seems to be occupation. . . . The American people spend more money each year to buy and operate automobiles than the combined total national income of Canada and Mexico! One of the major expenses in running a car is for gasoline and oil. Manufacturers of these products spent nearly $23 million for national newspaper advertising last year to acquaint the motoring public with the benefits of their brands.

Consumers spent an all-time high of $10.4 billion last year for men's and boys' wear, including footwear. This represents a 3 per cent increase over 1959. Men's apparel shops reach their customers by advertising their wares in the pages of their local daily newspapers, where they habitually invest 80-89 per cent of their promotional budget.

Decide on Your Favorite Wine During Friendly Tasting Session

Getting to know wines is a lot like getting to know a new family in your neighborhood—you'll never know them very well unless you spend a little time mixing with them.

The fact is that both of these activities—getting to know wines and getting acquainted with the neighbors—can be combined very easily at a home wine tasting. One of the nice things about tasting wines at the opening of a party or informal home gathering is that it provides an immediate common topic of conversation for everyone.

Beginning your next party with a wine tasting may be just the answer to the party's success and to building your own reputation as a gracious host or hostess.

* * *

Food editors of the nation's newspapers participated in such a wine tasting at this year's Food Editors Conference in New York. The wine growers of California assembled several of their most distinctive wines, and invited the editors to try them both alone and in company with various foods.

The editors agreed there's no better way to discover which wines you like best, or which food-and-wine combinations you prefer, than to try several of them at the same time and then make up your own mind.

Your first tasting might concentrate on red, rose and white dinner wines. Several types and brands might be set out for the tasting. The red wines are served at about room temperature, but care should be taken to chill the white and rose wines thoroughly.

LIGHT FIRST

Tasting should always begin with the lightest and most delicate wine and proceed to those with more pronounced flavor. When dinner wines are being tasted, this means starting with the white dinner wines, probably with the California Rhine wines including Riesling, Traminer and Sylvaner. Guests should then be invited to try the Sauterne, Chablis or Pinot Blanc or Semillon.

Next come the roses, the pink wines that are becoming national favorites. The red dinner wines follow with their more robust flavors — California Burgundy, Claret, or some of the varietal wines (those named for the grapes from which they are made), Cabernet, Sauvignon, Pinot Noir and Zinfandel, to list a few.

Between wines, professional tasters rinse their glasses and their mouths with water or take a piece of bread to clear their palates. However, private tastings are only for fun. Freedom in switching from one wine to another and from one wine-and-food combination to another is not only permissible but desirable. Repeated comparison and re-checking of distinctive taste characteristics will help to establish your "taste memory" for each wine.

If you'd like to make a real game of it, "What's My Wine?" is suggested by California's wine growers as a perfect way to keep guests happy and teach them a thing or two at the same time.

Before the guests arrive, wrap a plain paper around each bottle to hide the label. Each wrapper is numbered. A score sheet is provided for each guest.

An ounce (two tablespoonfuls) or less of wine is poured into the glasses. Then begins the tasting, simpler than the system used by professional wine tasters, but still effective:

* * *

First, is the wine good to look at? Hold the glass to the light and observe the color, brilliance and clarity.

SNIFF IT

Next, twirl the wine in the glass and sniff for aroma and bouquet. As the professional tasters phrase it, is it "good on the nose?"

Last, is it "good on the palate?" Sip the wine and hold it in your mouth for a bit, rolling it around with your tongue to give all your taste buds a workout. Note the tartness or richness; degree of sweetness, if any; the body of consistency, the distinctive flavor. Finally, swallow and enjoy the aftertaste.

Then rank the wines on the score sheet, unmask the bottles, and you'll know which wine you prefer.

A couple of additional steps will help in the tasting process. One is to have a pitcher of water on the table so each taster can rinse his glass and clear his palate between wines. Another is to have crackers or bits of bread available for the same purpose.

You'll note that each guest uses the same glass to taste all the wines, so you don't need a big supply of glasses to take care of the average party. Ideally, the glass to use is an all-purpose stemmed wine glass, plain not colored, with about an eight-ounce capacity. When you use these on a dinner table, you fill them only about half full of wine.

The small amount of wine poured into each glass during a wine tasting party allows plenty of room to swirl and sniff the wines without any spilling. Lacking all-purpose glasses, any other clear glass will do. Technically, wine should taste the same from any glass; esthetically, it's more enjoyable when the glass is stemmed, clear, and beautifully shaped.

If you'd like to have a concise guide to types of wine, traditional wine-and-food combinations, and wine glassware plus wine recipes, send a postcard to Wine Institute, 717 Market Street, San Francisco 3, California, and ask for the new card of wine information and the booklet, "How to Cook With California Wines."

Barbecued Halibut Steak an Exciting Taste Treat

Indoor and outdoor barbecues have become an institution in America. In the grandest sense, a barbecue is a big outdoor festival in which a whole animal is broiled or roasted. It involves about 24 hours of preparation — to marinate the animal, prepare the basting sauce and ready the fires. However, barbecues are so popular that homemakers have adapted the same cooking methods to a smaller scale for family use indoors.

Fish, once unheard of at a barbecue, are now being used frequently. Halibut steaks in particular lend themselves well to this method of cooking because their firm white flesh does not break apart and their delicate flavor is enhanced by the marinade.

The Halibut Association of North America suggests that these Wine Barbecued Halibut Steaks be prepared ahead of time, left in the refrigerator to marinate, and broiled at the last minute.

Wine Barbecued Halibut Steaks

1½ pounds halibut steaks, cut 1-inch thick
½ cup salad or olive oil
½ cup Burgundy or 3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
1 garlic clove, cut in half
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
¼ teaspoon bitters

If fish steaks are frozen, let thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature. Combine oil, wine or wine vinegar, garlic, salt, monosodium glutamate and bitters. Center fish on large sheet of heavy-duty aluminum foil, cupping up edges a little. Pour marinating mixture over this. Then make a tight package of the foil; roll top and two end seams into drugstore fold.

Place on plate and refrigerate several hours, turning package occasionally to distribute marinade. When ready to cook, remove garlic. Place steak on greased broiler three inches from heat. Broil 6 to 8 minutes per side or until lightly browned and flakes easily with a fork. Serves six.

Cook Rice in Tea Water for Tasty Spanish Rice

When preparing "Spanish Rice" from your favorite recipe, here's a clever clue from The Lipton Kitchens. Prepare rice according to instructions on the package substituting tea for the water called for. Tea may be prepared using tea bags or instant tea.

The special flavor of the rice is brought out by instant tea and complements the tomato, herbs, seasonings, and other ingredients used in making this succulent dish.

There's Cheese for Every Taste

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Have you ever stopped to think that most of the cheese we eat was developed in the Old World? There are only 5 varieties which originated in the United States. They include Brick, Cream Liederkranz, Monterey or Monterey Jack and Nuworld.

As an American industry cheese making is only a little over a hundred years old. A man named Jesse Williams started a small cheese factory in his farm buildings near Rome, New York to help himself and the neighbors through a period of depression. In the beginning the output was four cheeses a day, each weighing 150 pounds.

All of the above leads up to the fact that October is Cheese Festival Time. It's a good time to get acquainted with some new cheese recipes.

Cream cheese is an excellent cheese to keep in your refrigerator. With fewer calories than butter, it can serve as an interesting spread for your morning toast. Used as the shortening in chocolate frosting, it imparts a smooth tang to said frosting. And it makes dips.

Here's one you can serve on meatless days.

Egg-Olive Dip

1 8-ounce package softened cream cheese
½ cup sour cream
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons minced onion
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon chopped chives, fresh or frozen
3 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped

Beat cream cheese until smooth and fluffy; stir in remaining ingredients in order given; refrigerate until serving time. If desired sprinkle with a few extra chives for garnish. Makes 2 cups.

Now that they are in the swing of fall activities, busy homemakers look for simple dishes they can prepare in the morning and pop into the oven when they reach home in the afternoon. Such a dish is Crab and Cheese Casserole. It makes use of the most popular cheese, Cheddar.

This is a casserole fine enough for special guests.

Crab and Cheese Casserole

1 8-ounce package medium cut noodles
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups (2 7½-oz. cans; crab meat, flaked
2 cups (½-lb.) shredded Cheddar cheese
1 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained
1-3 cup chopped pimiento
1-3 cup slivered almonds, toasted
1-3 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Cook noodles according to package directions; drain. In a sauce-pan melt butter; blend in flour. Gradually add milk; cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens; add salt and pepper.

Combine crab meat, 2 cups cheese, mushrooms, pimiento and almonds; add noodles and white sauce; blend thoroughly. Pour into casserole; sprinkle top with 1-3 cup cheese. Bake 40-45 minutes in 350 degree oven. Makes 8 servings.

Another do-ahead food makes use of packaged biscuits and cubes of cheese. These Cheddar surprises might be served at any meal. Be sure they're really hot when you bring them to the table.

Cheddar Surprises

Remove ready-to-bake package biscuits from package, roll flat with rolling pin, place a 1-inch cube of cheese in the center of each biscuit and fold sides of biscuit over to "hide" the cheese. Bake according to package instructions and serve piping hot. These can be readied ahead of time, refrigerated and then baked as needed.

ROBUST EATING—Crab, cheddar cheese, pimiento and toasted almonds blend flavorfully to make this noodle casserole dish extra good. Cheese Festival Month is a good time to try it.

Chopped Parsley Coats Balls of Liver Sausage

A new trick for the hors d'oeuvres tray is always nice when company is coming. A clever suggestion is Liver Sausage on Sticks.

For each, shape 1 tablespoon of liver sausage into a round ball. Then dip each ball in chopped parsley and insert 1 straight, thin pretzel stick. Pass them around . . . they won't last long!

A honeymoon, says the cynic, is a vacation you pay for the rest of your life. . . Women, not only drive as well as men, but they can do it from either side of the road. . . Comfortable chairs are worn out by hard use. Only the uncomfortable ones survive to become antiques.—Earl Wilson.

Molded Mashed Potatoes

You probably have your own pet way of making potato salad, but this molded mashed potato salad is a delicious innovation.

Made in a ring mold it's particularly easy to serve and lends itself nicely to being the main dish.

Molded Mashed Potato Salad

½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups water
1 envelope instant mashed potato (or enough for 4 servings)
1 tall can evaporated milk (1 2-3 cups)
½ cup water
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1-3 cup sweet pickle relish
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup prepared mustard

Add salt to the 1¾ cups water in a medium saucepan and bring to a boil. Stir in instant potato quickly but thoroughly. Slowly blend in evaporated milk. Set aside to cool. Place the ½ cup water in a custard cup and sprinkle gelatin over. Let stand 5 minutes to soften. Place custard cup in a small pan of hot water and set over low heat until gelatin is dissolved.

Stir gelatin into cooled potato mixture and chill until almost set. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into a well-oiled 5-cup ring mold. Chill until set, about 2 to 3 hours. Set mold in warm water 1 to 2 minutes for ease in unmolding salad. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Tokay Grapes Go Into Muffins

The finest fragrance in the world to many folks is that of ripening grapes. The heavy scent hangs over the vineyards during the ripening season, and also surrounds the lugs and baskets of grapes in the produce markets.

The white grape is called Thompson Seedless, and the red variety most common now is called Tokay, or Flame Tokay. A little later, there will be another red variety called Emperor.

These California grapes, which actually originated in Europe, are not the kind you want for jelly or juice, but if you like grapes that are sweet, juicy, refreshing, then Thompsons and Tokays are for you.

Many wise homemakers, realizing their families fondness for the delicious and satisfying flavor of grapes will convert them into other forms as appetizing menu enchanters. Here's a recipe for Sweet Tokay Muffins that's bound to please:

Sift together 1½ cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ⅓ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. Add ¼ cup melted shortening. Mix in 1 egg, ⅔ cup chopped seeded Tokay grapes with juice. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake 20 minutes in 400 degree oven.

Kidney Beans, Canned Tuna Make a Salad

Have you ever tried this Italian way with tuna and white beans? It may be served as a salad or an hors d'oeuvre.

Italian-Style Salad

1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) white kidney beans
1 can (7 ounces) solid white-meat tuna
3 tablespoons olive oil
3 tablespoons wine vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
4 scallions (green onions) finely chopped with tops included
Salad greens and sliced tomatoes

Drain kidney beans into a strainer; rinse well with cold water and drain again; turn into a shallow container. Drain tuna lightly and add to kidney beans, separating into rather large pieces.

At one side of container, beat together with a fork the oil, vinegar, salt and pepper; mix gently with beans and tuna. Cover and refrigerate for a few hours to allow flavors to blend.

Serve on salad greens; sprinkle with scallions and garnish with tomatoes. Makes 4 large servings.

Fermenting Grapes Overcome Pair in Italy

ASTI, Italy (AP)—The bodies of Celestino Imarisio, 55, and his wife, Caterina, 44, were found in the cellar of their home here.

Police said today they apparently had gone into the cellar to do some work and were overcome by the fumes from grapes fermenting in several wine vats.

A "small business" is one that employs less than 500 persons, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce.

A gravity device has been developed to spot subsurface cavities before they can cause the collapse of city streets. The device consists of a small weight spring, hooked to a meter that is viewed through a microscope. The pull of gravity is said to be less — by a tiny amount — over the cavities.

Jailed Walker in High Spirits

Held for Mental Exam; Release Is Sought

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Former Army Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker remained in high spirits today while his attorneys fought a legal battle to end his "political" confinement at a federal institution here.

He was held on a federal court order for psychiatric examination.

A writ of habeas corpus petition was filed in U.S. District Court here yesterday but Judge John Oliver delayed setting a hearing.

Walker's widowed mother, Mrs. George P. Walker of Center Point, Tex., said she had been with her son and that he was in "good spirits."

When asked if her son acted strangely or appeared changed mentally, she replied courteously but firmly in deep Southern tones: "No, that I'll verify."

Clyde Watts of Oklahoma City, Walker's attorney, said the imprisoned ex-officer was "in complete possession of all mental facilities."

Mrs. Walker said that Walker had not undergone any psychiatric treatment and it was her understanding that his permission was required before such action could be taken.

Rep. Bruce Alger, R-Tex., charged yesterday in Washington that Walker was being denied his constitutional rights and was part of "what appears to be a deliberate conspiracy."

City Commission Hears Updated Building Code

A new and updated building code was introduced at Tuesday night's City Commission meeting and has been scheduled for a second reading and adoption next Tuesday.

The city has been operating under the 1950 version of the Basic Code of the Building Officials Conference of America.

The proposed new ordinance is the 1962 version of that code. Basically, it is the 1950 version with certain amendments and refinements.

It is a standard code adopted in most cities. The updated code was brought in for adoption at the request of commissioners.

Roman Catholic Circle of Authority May Widen

(Editor's Note — Will Rome's tight grip on the ecclesiastical affairs of the world be relaxed in the Vatican Council sessions beginning next week? There are some indications that it will be. Here is the second article of three on the meeting.)

By GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

NEW YORK — The circle of authority in the Roman Catholic Church has alternately widened or narrowed through the centuries.

Today, it appears on the verge of a potential historic expansion.

Although its center is Rome, seat of the chief apostle Peter, it also includes the far-spread ecclesiastical heritage of the other apostles, and those perpetuating it around the world.

BACKGROUND Tp OF THE NEWS

It is their inclusion within the circumference of supreme church government that is highlighted by the 2nd Vatican Council, starting Oct. 11 in Rome, which may widen church authority.

* * *

Such action would help bridge the main chasm between Roman Catholicism and other branches of Christianity which dispute Rome's full jurisdiction.

"The extent to which power is centralized in the Church is capable of change from one age to another," says Auxiliary Bishop Thomas Riley, of Boston. "It is quite possible that, in our own day, the tendency toward centralization may be reversed."

SHARED AUTHORITY

This would not mean diminishing the primacy of the Pope, but it would involve fuller specific recognition that his authority is shared by the whole Church leadership.

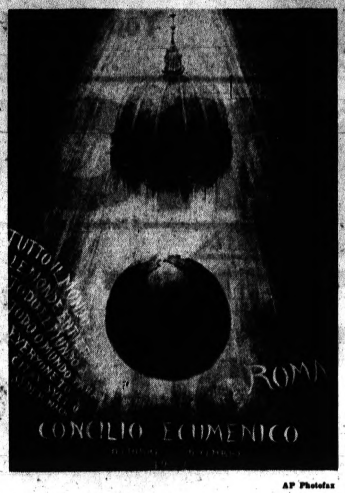
The very fact of Pope John XXIII's calling of the council implies as much.

Nevertheless, proposals for definitive developments along this line seem likely to encounter controversy. Some Latin and Spanish bishops, as well as some of the Curia, the Vatican's predominantly Italian administrative staff, are strongly protective about Rome's consumate authority.

* * *

However, many of the German, French and North American bishops see room for a more inclusive interpretation.

The council is the first since



AP Photofax

another Vatican Council 92 years ago, which defined the doctrine of papal infallibility on matters of faith and morals.

COMPLETES TREND

The fixing of that dogma in 1870 culminated a trend toward Church centralization. It began with the Council of Trent in 1545-1563, called to counter the breakups caused by the Protestant Reformation.

* * *

After papal infallibility was defined, some thought no more councils would be needed, or held. The dogma epitomized the consolidation movement.

* * *

However, when it was proclaimed, the intentions were to expand on it, with fuller interpretation, but this was prevented when the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian War prematurely halted the council.

* * *

The 1869-70 Vatican Council notes Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, defined "the position and powers of the supreme pontiff. The 2nd Vatican Council must now do the same thing in delineating with new insight the position and authority of the bishops."

INFLUENCE FOR LAYMAN

There also are possibilities that laymen may be accorded more influence in Church affairs. A return to the early Christian system of electing bishops has been suggested, with choices subject to papal approval.

* * *

However, many of the Protestant trends today reflect a more Catholic concept of the church as the earthly instrument of Christ's continuing, sure direction.

It may be, on the other hand, that the 2nd Vatican Council will reflect a wider human sphere of His authoritative activity.

Your best reasons for choosing Vigran multi-vitamins

They learn from their earliest days—from your very cire of them—that vitamins are "good for them." Later, in school, they learn why.

But not until much later do they come to know why the name Vigran is such a symbol of assurance in the purchase of vitamins. And the reason is—Vigran is the name of the multi-vitamin preparation from Squibb, and Squibb is one of the best known and respected names in the pharmaceutical industry.

Squibb rigid quality control, including more than 200 quality control tests, is designed to assure you that every Vigran capsule has the full label potency when you take it as it had when it was tested at the laboratory.

This is the reason so many people buy Vigran. And what better reason could you have than your family itself—for whom you naturally want the very best.

Junior Editors Quiz on ROCKETS

QUESTION: How does a rocket motor work?

ANSWER: Rockets work on the same principle as that used in jet engines: fuel is burned inside a combustion chamber with an open end, out of which the exhaust gases rush. This pushes the jet or rocket ahead. Pets need outer air; but rockets have their own oxygen supply.

Two types of rocket motors are used. In one, solid fuels such as resin, rubber and asphalt are stored inside and when ignited shoot out exhaust gases to the rear.

The Polaris missiles used by our atomic submarines are of this type; they can be stored in a firing position and shot up through the water by a blast of compressed air. Then the rocket engine ignites and the missile can sail through the air for 1200 miles.

The second type of rocket has liquid fuel and an "oxidizer," stored in separate tanks. These are pumped together when needed and ignited. This is the type of rocket being used in our exploration of outer space.

The one we show has several "stages" which can detach and put a satellite into orbit, after the main "booster" rocket has done it's job.

FOR YOU TO DO: Are these two types of motors the only ones to be used in the future? Probably not; electric and atomic rockets are being considered, even "antimatter" rockets. Watch the newspapers for the most recent developments.

Mail your question on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Pontiac Press.

CAPSULE RESCUE OPERATION — A three-pronged Navy rescue operation swings into action yesterday to bring astronaut Walter Schirra and his spacecraft Sigma 7 safely aboard the deck of the carrier Kearsarge. A Navy frogman fastens a flotation collar around the capsule, a helicopter hovers overhead and a whaleboat crew races to the capsule to attach a line to it.

Space Era Blooming

By JOHN BARBOUR

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Buttressed by Walter M. Schirra Jr.'s space success, the United States expects:

To send at least one, maybe more, one-day space missions up early next year.

★ ★ ★

To send two men into orbit in a maneuverable spacecraft by late next year.

To beat the Soviet Union to the moon in this decade, by these careful, sometimes plodding steps into space.

All of this was reaffirmed on the eve of this fifth anniversary of the Soviet Union's pioneering space triumph — a 184-pound globe called Sputnik I, hurled into space in 1957.

★ ★ ★

Walter C. Williams, Project Mercury operations director, stepped out of the Mercury control center less than an hour after Schirra was plucked from the Pacific Ocean landing area after his six-orbit, nine-hour space trip.

He told newsmen that the United States expects to send a Project Mercury spacecraft on a 24-hour, 17-orbit flight early in 1963.

One of these special 24-hour spacecraft is now being tested in the dust-free white room in Hangar S where Schirra spent the night before his space adventure.

Williams said that three of these spacecraft are being prepared as are three Atlas boosters to put them into orbit, but he would not say how many of these day-long flights will be made.

★ ★ ★

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials had promised that if Schirra's flight was a success, they would move immediately to day-long missions.

SMOOTH FLIGHT

Schirra's flight was the smoothest in the memory of most of the observers who watched him blast off Wednesday morning and listened to the progress of his flight.

Williams said the flight was perfect.

After the day-long missions, Williams said, the program will not end, but simply will move into the Gemini two-man spacecraft program.

In this development, the United States expects to emerge with a maneuverable spaceship, one in which astronauts, tethered, can step out of it and into space, and a spaceship which can rendezvous and dock with other space vehicles.

From there, the United States will move into the Apollo program, with its three-man spaceship that could land two men on the moon, perhaps by 1967.

★ ★ ★

This date would come only 10 years after Sputnik I, and only five years from the key success of astronaut Schirra which could elevate the U. S. space program into a new progression where the nuts and bolts elements of space flight are largely known.

Mrs. Schirra to Fix Astronaut a Steak

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)— Mrs. Walter Marty Schirra Jr. plans to cook her husband a steak and Houston is set to roll out the red carpet when America's six - orbit astronaut comes home.

"I guess I will cook him a steak, it's his favorite," Mrs. Schirra replied when asked what special plans she was making.

Arrangements were being made for a parade through downtown Houston to Rice University. Tentative plans call for Schirra's first public discussion of his flight in a Sunday afternoon news conference at the school.

After the Navy commander was safely aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kearsarge Wednesday, his wife and their children talked to newsmen.

★ ★ ★

"It was a long wait, but worth every minute of it," Mrs. Schirra said.

She wore a big smile as did the two children, Walter Marty III, 12, and Suzanne, 5.

"I would like to be an astronaut very much," said Marty. "It sounds very exciting."

★ ★ ★

Marty, a red-haired and freckled seventh-grader, followed his father's flight with a map on which all six orbit paths were plotted.

'NOT APPREHENSIVE'

"I was not apprehensive anytime, really," Mrs. Schirra said. "I was not apprehensive at all."

Suzanne, a shy strawberry blonde, had nothing to say.

Schirra telephoned his wife from the space capsule about 30 minutes before liftoff.

★ ★ ★

"He said he was comfortable, calm and all ready to go," she related. "I told him I was sure everything would be successful."

Mrs. Schirra, Suzanne and Mrs. Schirra's mother, Mrs. James L. Holloway, stayed in the house all day. Marty stuck his head up over the fence several times to observe newsmen.

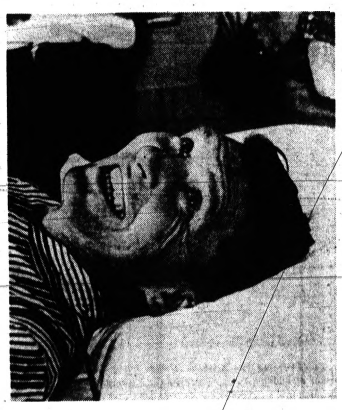
★ ★ ★

There were four visitors — the wives of astronauts Virgil I. Grissom, M. Scott Carpenter, Alan B. Shepard Jr., and John H. Glenn Jr.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Schirra was asked what she would think if her husband were selected as one of the three astronauts to take an Apollo spacecraft to the moon.

"I would like for him to go any place he wants to go," she said.



ONE HAPPY MAN — Astronaut Walter Schirra is all smiles as he undergoes a medical checkup on the carrier Kearsarge yesterday after being plucked from mid-Pacific waters at the end of his six-orbit flight.

Tragedies Stalking Space Successes

NEW YORK (UPI) — While astronaut Walter Schirra orbited the earth yesterday, a boiler exploded in a telephone company building here, killing at least 21 persons and injuring at least 100 others.

Last March 1, when the city poised to welcome astronaut John W. Glenn, an American Airlines jetliner crashed at Idlewild Airport here, killing 95 persons.

Rosamond, a Lombard queen of the sixth century, supposedly had her husband, King Alboin, murdered after he had forced her to drink from a cup made from the skull of her father whom Alboin had slain.

Schirra Home Gets Cake

SEABROOK, Tex. (UPI)—A catering service sent a cake about three feet in diameter to the home of astronaut Walter Schirra Jr., yesterday to help him celebrate his six-orbit space flight.

★ ★ ★

It carried the lettering: "Sigma 7 Lots of Luck, Astronaut Walter Schirra."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Schirra said, "We may cut a few pieces of it but there will still be plenty for him."

Five Frogmen First to Reach Spaceman

ABOARD USS KEARSARGE (UPI) — Five Navy frogmen were the first persons yesterday to make direct contact with the space capsule containing astronaut Walter Schirra.

★ ★ ★

The men, members of an underwater demolition team, were lowered into the water by helicopter and swam to the bobbing capsule.

They immediately attached a specially designed rubber life raft to prevent the capsule's accidentally sinking.

More Mumps, Measles Now

Climb of Diseases Due to Open Schools

Reports of measles and mumps cases edged upward in Oakland County during September.

★ ★ ★

The increase is normal, with children back in school and exposed to greater contact. Other disease reports stayed steady, some noting decreases.

Another case of polio was reported early in the month, bringing this year's total to two cases.

The report is issued by the Oakland County Department of Health.

★ ★ ★

Measles reports totaled 41 last month, compared with 22 in August of this year and 24 in September, 1961.

11 MUMPS CASES

Mumps reports added up to 11 new cases last month, against two this August and 33 in September, 1961.

★ ★ ★

There was a slight decrease in the number of new hepatitis cases, with 17 in September and 20 in August. Last year, the September count was 26.

Chicken pox cases in September showed eight reports, against 12 in August and two in September last year.

No major changes are noted in September in the number of new cases of pneumonia, 1; scarlet fever, 2; whooping cough, 6; impetigo, 1; meningitis, 1; mononucleosis, 3; rheumatic fever, 4; rubella, 2 and salmonella infections, 1.

Mom, Dad Stand Behind Son

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Schirra Sr. watched their son's journey into space in triplicate Wednesday, declaring later:

"Every minute of it was wonderful."

Three television sets were installed in the couple's modest, Spanish-style bungalow for the occasion so the Schirras and their guests could watch all three network channels.

"We didn't want to miss a thing," Mrs. Schirra said. She told newsmen after the conclusion of the flight that she was never really afraid for her son.

★ ★ ★

"But I was glad when the liftoff went so well," she said.

The Schirras went to bed at 7 o'clock Tuesday night "in order to get a little sleep.

"But we just tossed and turned and finally gave up and got up at 2 a.m." the astronaut's mother said.

Schirra Sr., a retired engineer and an Army Air Corps ace of World War I, told reporters:

★ ★ ★

"When Wally called us from the Cape before his trip I told him not to worry — that his mother would be right behind him pushing the booster and capsule into the sky."

Jersey Town to Welcome Schirra Home

ORADELL, N.J. (UPI) — This small community of 8,000 began preparations today to Welcome astronaut Walter Schirra to his hometown on Oct. 15.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Frederick E. Wendel received word yesterday that Schirra had requested that any parade or celebration be confined to this Bergen County town across the Hudson River from New York City.

★ ★ ★

"Wally is a quiet man and wouldn't want too much commotion," Wendel said.

"We'll try to keep the ceremonies the way he wants them."

The ceremonies will include a parade, a dinner and the dedication of a small park in the center of town in his honor.

★ ★ ★

A representative of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) was due here today to discuss the plans.

★ ★ ★

Gov. Richard J. Hughes has named David S. Davies, executive director of the New Jersey Tercentenary Commission, coordinator of the state's participation in the ceremonies.

Houston Sets Big Parade for Astronaut

HOUSTON (UPI)—This city will honor astronaut Walter Schirra Jr., first transplanted Texan to orbit the earth, with a tumultuous parade through downtown Houston Sunday.

Schirra, who circled the globe six times in a history-making space shot yesterday, will fly to Houston from Hawaii Saturday. He will be accompanied by the debriefing team which will watch his every move for a time.

The parade will move through downtown Houston and will end with ceremonies at the Memorial Center on the Rice University campus.

Schirra will hold a news coneference at the center, and will be presented a distinguished service award.

★

Gene Horton, public affairs officer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), said Schirra will "get a good night's rest Saturday."

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

By winning the National League pennant yesterday, the San Francisco Giants really loused up the TV schedule and pre-planned publicity of the World Series by the wire services.

All the stories, pictures and advance materials were concentrated on the Yankees and the Dodgers. With a four game lead over Giants and nine games left to play everyone was assuming the spread was too much for Frisco.

★ ★ ★

Incidentally, last April in our selection we had, 1. San Francisco and 2. Los Angeles.

In the American League? As our friend Major Hoople would say, Hummmphhrr! Our picks were, 1. Detroit 2. Minnesota 3. New York.

Well, two out of the first three aren't bad, and how about calling the Twins for second place? The Tigers? Nuff said.

Now the World Series? We'll say the Yankees in six games.

DITTOS FROM THE PRESS BOX

If you don't think the Detroit Lions weren't looking ahead last Sunday to the Green Bay game, it would have been different to think otherwise when the Baltimore game ended.

One player commented, "We took the hoofs off the Colts, now let's take the meat away from the Packers."

On the plane trip back, Joe Schmidt sat silently looking out the United Airline window at the twinkling lights below, while most of the Lions were gay over their victory.

★ ★ ★

"What's the matter Joe, aren't you happy with the victory?"

"Sure," was the reply, "I've been trying to figure out how we're going to beat the Packers."

"You saw the couple bad mistakes the Colts made defensively," he added, "well, next week just one mistake could mean the game."

★ ★ ★

"Hey, Roger (Brown) the word is that Jim Taylor of the Packers says he's going to run right over you Sunday."

"Well, we'll see," retored the 300 pound Lion tackle. He'll have to run right over me, he better not try to get by me."

So, the big game lies ahead.

The Lions know they have to at least split the two game series this season with the Packers to have any hopes for the title.

★ ★ ★

As much as we hate to admit this, we feel Sunday will be the Packers' day and the Lions will get that split at home Thanksgiving Day. Nothing would give us more satisfaction than to be wrong in this case."

Giants 'Walk' to Beat L.A. 'Rush' to Meet Yanks

• Second Guessers at Work

Managers Reply

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The decisive game of the 1962 National League playoff has provided second guessers with enough material to last all winter.

The San Francisco Giants beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4 on a bases loaded walk and an error—just by way of dramatic contrast with 1951 when the Giants beat the Dodgers in a similar playoff with Robby Thomson's home run—and the sideline managers immediately took over.

Here are their targets:

1. Why didn't the Giants try to bunt in the sixth with the bases loaded and no one out and the score only 2-1 in their favor?

2. Why did manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers put in defensive players in the seventh after taking only a narrow 2-1 lead, thereby removing veteran Duke Snider from the game? Snider had already hit a double and single and scored twice.

3. Why did Alston put the winning run on first in the seventh in order to pitch to Orlando Cepeda, who had hit 35 homers this year? (This turned out all right, but it seemed risky).

4. Why in the fatal ninth, with the score tied at 4-4 and first base open, did Alston have Ed Bailey intentionally walked? (Obviously this was to set up a play at every base, with two out, but it misfired, as Jim Davenport worked Stan Williams for a walk forcing in the winning run).

5. Why was relief pitcher Ed Roebuck left in so long for the Dodgers in the ninth when this was his 64th game of the year and he was obviously tired?

ANSWERS GIVEN

Taken in order, here are some of the answers:

1. Manager Al Dark said his next batter, Jose Pagan, has been hot recently at bat, and even his pitcher, Juan Marichal, has won games for him this year with his hitting. As it developed, Pagan bounced to Maury Wills, who threw to the plate forcing Cepeda, and Marichal hit into a double-play. Roebuck, who had relieved starter Johnny Podres, thereby got three outs with only four pitches.

2. Says Alston of his defensive move: "I wasn't too anxious to take Snider out, but he has a bum leg and can't run well. And it helped defensively at third base, second base and left field by taking out only one man."

3. Passing Willie Mays to get at Cepeda seemed risky, but Cepeda forced Mays on a grounder. Dark said he would have walked Mays, too, if he had been on the other side, even if it did mean putting the winning run on base.

4. This, too was sound strategy to fill the bases, and Dark gave his approval.

5. Alston didn't take Roebuck out earlier for a pinch hitter, let alone in the ninth, because he "wanted him in there to protect our lead." In his earlier appearance in the first playoff game he was extremely effective.

JUBILATION — Left hander Billy Pierce of the Giants, who set the Dodgers down in order in the 9th inning, is embraced by catcher Ed Bailey and Orlando Cepeda after the Frisco 6-4 victory to win the National League pennant yesterday. At the right doing a jubilant dance is Jose Pagan of the Giants.

Dressing Room Emotions Mixed

Champagne Runs Atop Giant Heads

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "This team kept bouncing back," an exhuberant Al Dark shouted through a din in the San Francisco dressing room Wednesday. "They did it all year . . . kept bouncing back, bouncing back. They did it again today."

A bases-loaded walk to Jimmy Davenport by Los Angeles pitcher Stan Williams forced in a run that gave San Francisco a 5-4 lead in the fourth inning of the third play-off game Wednesday, and won the National League pennant for the Giants.

Davenport said he had planned to take the pitches until the count became so close he had to swing at one. One pitch nearly hit him in the head, and he worked Williams to 3-1 before drawing the walk.

ANOTHER '51 MEMORY

It proved to be the winning run in the 6-4 victory, and brought back memories of the Giants miracle finish against the Dodgers in 1951.

That was the year of Bobby Thomson's dramatic, three-run, ninth inning homer.

Dark, shortstop and Giant captain on the 1951 team, didn't want to compare the two finishes, but Wes Westrum, Giant catcher 11 years ago and now a coach, cried:

"This was more thrilling, this was more thrilling."

★ ★ ★

Orlando Cepeda was a ring-leader in pouring champagne on the heads of willing teammates.

"It was the biggest thrill of my life, those runs in the ninth that I didn't score," he said. Twice earlier his outs foiled potential rallies.

"Now I'm nice and relaxed. I'm ready."

Willie Mays, whose scorcher through the box scored the first run of the fateful ninth, was the object of special attention. He was pounced on, pinned down on a rubbing table and given a thorough pummeling.

"Yeah man," shouted Willie. "Man, I thought we would never do it. That hit better than a home run. It was hot. That guy (Ed) Roebuck deflected it or it might have gone."

On and on it went with champagne corks popping, big men hugging each other, and well wishers slapping backs. It was more riotous than a winning World Series dressing room.

Tears Flow in Dodgers' Silent Den

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"They want to be by themselves," a club spokesman told newsmen outside the locker room. "They won't talk to anyone."

But one man did come out. Sober but characteristically courteous, Dodger Manager Walt Alston accompanied newsmen to a club meeting room and subjected himself to one of the most painful interviews of his career.

"We just came close," Alston said.

When the doors finally were opened—some 55 minutes after the final out—newsmen found most of the players sitting in silence and shock.

Several empty whisky bottles were standing on a table and another—about half full—was being passed around.

Torn uniforms lay in front of some lockers.

Pitcher Johnny Podres obviously had been crying.

★ ★

Earlier, veterans Duke Snider and Wally Moon emerged from the dressing room and spoke briefly to newsmen.

Huskies, Skippers on Road in I-L

Pontiac Northern leaves the friendly confines of Wisner Stadium for the first time this season when the Huskies travel to Southfield for an important Inter-Lakes games.

★ ★ ★

The Huskies' 1-1-1 mark on their home field is not impressive, but the fact that they have improved with each game is encouraging.

They were subpar in the opening loss to Lake Orion, looked better while whipping Kettering and showed signs of a bright future last week against Berkley.

Coach Ed Heikkinen's charges outplayed the Bears on the wet turf of Wisner Stadium, but fumbled away a chance to win. They had to settle for a 6-6 tie.

Berkley went into the contest as the top favorite for I-L grid honors.

THREE LOSSES

Southfield has lost all three of its starts including a rude jolting last week.

The unbeaten Vikings, not about to give up their crown without a struggle, seek I-L victory No. 2 Friday afternoon at Farmington. Berkley will try to get on the winning track Friday night when the Bears host Waterford.

In addition to Walled Lake, Southfield has lost to Ferndale, the state's No. 10 ranked Class A team, and defending Eastern Michigan League champion Royal Oak Kimball.

★ ★ ★

The Huskies have been hampered by injuries. Against Berkley, at least six players were hobbled by ailments of one form or another and fullback Jack Daniels will probably miss his second straight game.

Walled Lake keeps rolling along, although not as easily as in 1961.

Farmington, shattered by what was supposed to be an equally weak Waterford last week, is not expected to challenge the Vikings' supremacy.

★ ★ ★

Waterford's pass defense will be thoroughly tested by Berkley quarterback Jim Kakkuri. The Bears were contained on the ground by PNH, but Kakkuri threw the wet football very well and this set-up Berkley's lone TD.

Help on Way for Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons announced yesterday that Dave DeBusschere, their No. 1 draft choice and former University of Detroit star, will join the team Friday. The Pistons said second-year guard Johnny Egan would be released from the air force and would also join the team Friday, bringing the squad to full strength.

The Syracuse Nationals and the Pistons meet tonight to settle a three-game exhibition series.

Syracuse lost the opener Tuesday night but sprang back last night to win, 121-108.

Bailey Howell of the Pistons was high scorer with 23 points.

Sorry Thief, It's Empty

DETROIT (AP)—Two men in a car today held up Fred A. Huber Jr., former press agents for the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Huber told police the men, carrying a sawed off shotgun, forced him to the curb on Woodward between Kirby and Ferry, took his empty wallet and fled.

Huber said he had taken $6 from his wallet and locked it in the glove compartment. He said he made a practice of doing this when driving late at night.

He had resigned as Red Wings' press agent in 1958 and set up his own Public Relations agency.

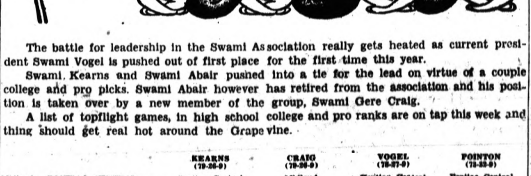
Off The Grape Vine



The battle for leadership in the Swami Association really gets heated as current president Swami Vogel is pushed out of first place for the first time this year.

Swami Kearns and Swami Abair pushed into a tie for the lead on virtue of a couple college and pro picks. Swami Abair however has retired from the association and his position is taken over by a new member of the group, Swami Gere Craig.

A list of topflight games, in high school college and pro ranks are on tap this week and thing should get real hot around the Grape vine.

Whitey Ford on Mound for New Yorkers

Capacity Frisco Crowd Watches Opener With O'Dell Starting

However, the Yanks' reputation for putting on the pressure in Series play (they have won 19 and lost only seven in 26 appearances), and the fact that the Giants figure to be worn out after their playoff battle, make the Yanks 8½-5 favorites, in Las Vegas odds, 6½-7½ on Broadway.

YANKS RESTED

"I know the Yanks are rested and that doesn't bother me in the least," said Manager Al Dark of the Giants. "The only thing that concerns me is that I wish my first pitcher was more rested."

★ ★ ★

The Giants got away with only one pitcher, Billy Pierce, in Monday's first playoff game but they used eight Tuesday and three in the finale in Los Angeles.

★ ★ ★

The Yanks, of course, have not played since Sunday and had nothing more strenuous to do than tune up for the Series since Sept. 23. Ford, Ralph Terry and Bill Stafford, the three starters, probably in that order, had brief workouts over the weekend.

3 IN NEW YORK

The teams will play Thursday and Friday at Candlestick Park and then take Saturday off for travel. The Series will resume in Yankee Stadium Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, if a fifth game is necessary. If more games are needed, they will shift back to San Francisco after taking off Wednesday for travel. That would put the sixth and seventh games on next Thursday and Friday if they have to go the route in the best-of-seven series.

★ ★ ★

Manager Dark expects to start the same men who beat the Dodgers. That would mean he would have Harvey Kuenn in left, Willie Mays in center and Felipe Alou in right with an infield of Orlando Cepeda at first, Chuck Hiller at second, Jose Pagan at short and Jim Davenport at third. Ed Bailey would catch O'Dell. Against the left-handed Ford, Dark planned to change his batting order.

★ ★ ★

The Yanks expect to use their regular season lineup with rookie Tresh in left, Mantle in center and Maris in right. Skowron at first, Bobby Richardson at second, Tony Kubek at short and Clete Boyer at third round out the infield. Howard will catch Ford.

★ ★ ★

The Yanks and Giants have met six times in Series competition with the Yanks holding a 4-2 edge. The Giants won in 1921 and 1922 and the Yanks in 1923, 1936, 1937 and 1951. After the "miracle" finish of the '51 Giants they bowed to the Yanks 4-2 in games after winning two of the first three.

★ ★ ★

Dark was expected to follow O'Dell with Jack Sanford (24-7) in the second game, Billy Pierce (16-6) in the Yankee Stadium opener Sunday, and Juan Marichal (18-11) on Monday. Terry (23-12) is to pitch the second game for the Yanks and Stafford (14-9) the third and then Ford again.

Davis Wins NL Bat Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Davis of the Dodgers, who collected two hits in three times at bat in the third NL playoff game, hiked his average to .346 and gave Los Angeles its first National League batting champion.

★ ★ ★

Davis clinched the title with a home run and a single that enabled him to lift his average two points, Frank Robinson of Cincinnati finished second at .342 followed by Stan Musial of St. Louis, seven-time batting title-holder, with .330.

★ ★ ★

The last Dodger to win the NL crown was Carl Furillo in 1953. The Dodgers moved from Brooklyn to Los Angeles in 1958.

Davis also drove in two runs and boosted his leading total to 153. Willie Mays of San Francisco captured the home run crown with 45. He slammed a pair in Monday's playoff game that also gave him the major league title. Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota topped the American League with 48. All playoff records count as part of the regular season.

★ ★ ★

Pete Runnels of Boston won the AL batting championship with .326.

PCH Has Choice at Midland — Spoiler or Contender

Chiefs Must Win to Stay in SVC Race

Pontiac Central Mark Even Across Board in 3 Loop Games

Pontiac Central can become a definite title contender or a "spoiler" Friday night.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs travel to Midland where coach Bob Stoppert has been busy revitalizing his Chemics who dropped two games before edging Saginaw 7-6 last week.

The kickoff is at 7:30 p.m.

This is a "must" game for PCH if the Chiefs are to be considered in contention for the Saginaw Valley League championship.

A victory over Flint Northern a week after the Midland contest would really put the Chiefs in the thick of things. A setback in the chemical city Friday would give PCH two losses and a tie to go with their one victory and take the frosting off of the cake.

Although Midland has lost to Flint Northern and Bay City Handy by lopsided margins, the Chemics can no longer be taken lightly.

SOPH TALENT

Stoppert decided to go with some of his sophomores against Saginaw and only inexperience kept them from gaining two more touchdowns. The Chemics pushed Saginaw's Trojans up and down the field but could only cross the goal line once.

"Midland is much better than its record indicates," said PCH coach Paul Dellerba after he scouted the Chemics against Saginaw.

"They moved the ball very well. It should be pointed out that Saginaw is definitely improved over last year."

Dellerba's main problem in preparing his team has been psychological.

★ ★ ★

He must convince his players that Midland can't be taken lightly, and at the same time keep them from looking past the Chemics to the Wisner Stadium clash with Flint Northern.

FACE CHIEFS—Midland quarterback Ray Tucker gets ready to take the snap from center Bruce Pretzer as the Chemics workout in preparation for their Saginaw Valley League game Friday with Pontiac Central. The game will be at Midland starting at 7:30 p.m.

Au Sable Classic Begins Saturday

GRAYLING (UPI) — Canoe racers will pit their skill and strength against the swift Au Sable River this weekend in the 240-mile classic Au Sable River valley canoe race.

★ ★ ★

At stake will be $3,050 in cash prizes, with $1,200 going to the winner, $600 to the runners-up and $300 to third place finishers. The first 10 canoes across the finish line will also pick up prize money.

★ ★ ★

The first leg of the race will start Saturday at 15 minute intervals beginning at 10:30 a. m. and will run from here to Mio.

On Sunday, the last lap of the race will start at Mio at 7:30 a. m. with the finish line at Oscoda on Lake Huron.

★ ★ ★

Race officials said anyone 15 years of age and older could enter the competition. Canoes will be restricted to stock models.

Homecoming for Tresh Set by Allen Park

ALLEN PARK (UPI) — Allen Park is planning a homecoming celebration Saturday, Nov. 24, for one of its best-known native sons—New York Yankee outfielder Tom Tresh.

Tresh, a leading contender for the American League rookie-of-the-year honors, is the son of former major league catcher Mike Tresh.

Birmingham Can't Afford Slip

Maples Take 'Tests'

The next two Fridays should determine if Birmingham Seaholm is to be champion of the Eastern Michigan League and if the Maples can post an unbeaten season.

This Friday the Maples host a good Port Huron team. The following week coach Carl Lemle leads his team to Ferndale for a clash with the strong Eagles.

A victory in both games would get Seaholm, the No. 6 ranked team in the state, past the roughest part of its schedule.

One slip would be costly, two losses fatal.

Defending champion Royal Kimball, with a loss and tie in its league actions, appears to be all but out of the running. Kimball has yet to play Port Huron and Ferndale. This may help the Maples who have already dumped the Knights.

OTHER GAMES

Kimball hosts Hazel Park, Mt. Clemens is at Ferndale and East Detroit at Roseville in other EML contests.

The Maples may find themselves holding a tiger by the tail when they meet Port Huron on the Seaholm field. The Big Reds were soundly whipped by Hamtramck last week.

The Big Reds and their followers are not used to getting beat by 26 points. And the Maples may be guilty of peeking past this Friday to the game with Ferndale.

Not only has Seaholm shown the necessary scoring punch — 70 points in three games — the opposition has yet to post a marker on the scoreboard.

Kimball has a 1-1-1 overall record and is expected to have little trouble with Hazel Park, 0-2 in league play.

Coach Pin Ryan's offense has been sputtering because of injuries and this has resulted in two straight scoreless games for the Knights.

Ferndale coach Frank Joranko cried the blues before the season opened, but EML coaches kept mentioning the strong line.

WAEREGEM, Belgium (AP)—Belgian athlete, Aurele Vandendriessche bettered the world record for the 30,000 meters Wednesday. He covered the 18 miles, 128 yards in one hour, 34 minutes, 41.1 seconds on a track heavy with rain.

Tiger Farms Compile Winning Total in '62

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit Tiger farm clubs compiled a composite record of 432 wins against 337 losses in 1962, statistics revealed today.

Two of the six affiliates, Jamestown of the New York-Pennsylvania league, and Thomasville of the Georgia-Florida League, won pennants.

Two others, Knoxville of the South Atlantic League and Duluth of the Northern Circuit, finished second; and Denver of the American Association wound up in third place. Denver advanced to the final round of the league playoffs.

Only Montgomery of the Alabama-Florida league failed to make the first division.

Dick Egan, pitching for Hawaii, led the Pacific Coast League in three departments, victories (17), strikeouts (201) and innnings pitched (253).

Jesse Queen, Denver outfielder, led the American Association in runs scored (98) and ranked fifth in batting (.316).

All-Star Game Is Howe's 15th

Wings' Big 3 Named to Play in Toronto

DETROIT (UPI) — The "big three" of the Detroit Red Wings — Gordie Howe, Alex Delvecchio and Norm Ullman — have been named to play in the 16th annual National Hockey League all-star game Saturday in Toronto, coach Sid Abel said today.

It will be Howe's 15th all-star appearance while it's number eight for Delvecchio and four for Ullman. The Detroiters, plus the rest of the league's all-star selections, will oppose the Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs.

Howe, 34 years old and veteran of 17 NHL campaigns, needs only two points Saturday to become the top scorer in all-star game competition. He returned to the Wings yesterday after beginning the practice season with Detroit's farm club, the Pittsburgh Hornets.

Pirates Name Osborn to Assist Murtaugh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today the appointment of managerial consultant Don Osborn as pitching coach.

Osborn, 54, a member of the Pirate organization since 1958, succeeds Bill Burwell, 67, of Daytona Beach, Fla., whose retirement was announced Wednesday.

Osborn pitched in the Pacific Coach League for 14 years and served as minor league manager in Vancouver, Macon, Nashville, Spokane, Miami and Schenectady.

Time for W-O Challenger to Make Itself Known

A gridiron collision Friday afternoon at Bloomfield Hills should determine West Bloomfield's challenger in the Wayne-Oakland League.

The Barons meet Northville in a battle of league unbeatens.

West Bloomfield is expected to remain undefeated Friday night when the Lakers host Milford. Brighton goes to Holly and Clarenceville is at Clarkston in the other W-O games.

A year ago at this time Bloomfield Hills and Northville were tied for first place. They met on the Mustangs' field.

Northville won by a comfortable margin and went on to post nine straight wins. The Barons seemed to lose their starch after that loss and faltered as the season went along.

The Barons appear to have the better line while Northville will have a backfield edge this time around. The Mustangs will be prepared to stop Hills' quarterback Roger Stewart while the Barons will be keeping a wary eye on Joe Hay of Northville.

West Bloomfield should take the Redskins in stride. Coach Art Paddy's Lakers, ranked eighth among the state's Class B powers, have displayed strong running and passing and solid line play.

NOT CONSISTENT

Milford finally got its offense going against weak Clarkston last week, but the Redskins haven't been too consistent in this department.

Milford does have a large line, however, and this may force the Lakers to strike through the air.

The Clarkston-Clarenceville tussle should decide the cellar occupant for the remainder of the season. The Wolves are plagued by inexperience which has shackled the offense and made the defense porous.

Holly, expected to be a darkhorse in the league race, has been reduced to a shadow by West Bloomfield and Northville on successive weeks.

★ ★ ★

Brighton has been a major surprise, displaying a good scoring punch, but sometimes shaky defense. The Broncos could find themselves in serious trouble, particularly if Jim Ray is still hampered by injuries.

Palmer Solid 1962 Choice

Player-of-Year Award Run-Away for Arnold

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer made a run-away of the voting for the 1962 Professional Golfers Association player-of-the-year award, collecting 1,005 of the 1,060 votes cast.

The selection of Palmer for the award, the second time he has won it, was announced yesterday by Lou Strong, president of the PGA. Palmer also won the award in 1960.

The popular golfer is the second man to win the award more than once. Ben Hogan was honored four times.

Voting was by members of the PGA and persons on the PGA national press list. No other golfer collected more than 13 votes.

For the first time, the award was open to PGA members only, so Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, both approved tournament players, were not eligible.

Palmer will be presented the award at the president's dinner at the PGA's 45th annual meeting at Palm Beach, Fla., Nov. 27.

How Sweet Is Victory!

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — A 7-year-old Irish-bred bay gelding, Kandy-Sugar, Wednesday won the Rolling Rock Hunt Cup for the second time in three years.

Kandy-Sugar, ridden by Paddy Smithwick, came in five lengths ahead of Welstead to capture a purse of $3,000 for owner Harry B. Massey of Pittsburgh in the 25th running of the race at the annual Rolling Rock steeplechase.

Fierce Battles Fail to Faze Maj. Hoople

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Knute Rockne's Tutor

Greetings, friends! The way of the football forecaster is indeed a hard one.

This week the path is particularly perilous. With most of the big guns of the collegiate world, including all the Big Ten teams, moving into action, it promises to be an exciting Saturday, Oct. 6.

A thorough scrutiny of the schedule shows that many fiercely contested battles will be waged, with the favored elevens coming out on top in most cases.

It will be a wonderful day for those who play the favorites, or, as they are termed, the chalk players, to quote my old handicapping friend, Dubbie Dailley.

Old DD, incidentally, is not to be confused with the daily double which is not always won by the chalk horses.

Egad! Horses, handicappers, chalk players, enough of this and back to lateral passes!

P.S. Guess who picked Stanford's win over MSU last week? Harrumph!

Here are my three-star choices for the week-end: Iowa to down Southern California. Purdue to triumph over Notre Dame. Army to vanquish Michigan and Yale to trounce Brown — boola, boola!

Saving the best for last, I give you the Hoople upset special of the week. Hold on to your hats, kiddies! Houston will surprise Ole Miss with a 19-16 triumph — harrumph!

Go on with the forecast:

La. State 15, Georgia Tech 13

Dales Ranked Tops by NAIA

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The National Association of Intercollegiate athletics (NAIA) today rated the Hillsdale Dales as its best football team in the nation.

Two other Michigan colleges received votes but were not ranked in the top 20 teams of the NAIA ratings. They were Northern Michigan and Ferris Institute.

In the United Press International coaches poll, the 35 coaches selected from seven geographical regions of the country, rated the Dales ninth in the nation among small colleges.

★ ★ ★

The UPI board voted Northern Michigan in a tie with Memphis State for 18th.

The world's oceans contain vast quantities of manganese, silver, uranium, cobalt and enough gold to make every person on earth a millionaire several times over. Getting the gold out is possible, but it would cost more than the gold is worth.

Frisco Fans Riot, LA Crowd Mumbles

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — This city that considers itself sophisticated exploded so riotously celebrating the National League pennant victory of the San Francisco Giants that the team had trouble getting back into town.

The celebration was described as the wildest in the city since the hysterics of VJ day when the Japanese surrendered in 1945.

A crowd that swelled to nearly 75,000 so jammed International Airport and its access freeways that the pennant-winning Giants were forced to land at a remote airport corner and seek escape from the crowd in a bus accompanied by police vehicles.

CROWD SURGES

A crowd surged onto the runway and halted the caravan. They beat on the sides of the bus and broke two windows.

"What are they going to do?? asked reserve catcher John Orsino. "Hang us? We won."

The plane carrying the team had circled the airport for 40 minutes looking for a safe place to land. It landed one hour late.

Police finally cleared a path and the special bus made it to the Bayshore freeway and headed for a nearby hotel. Traffic on the highway was so snarled, however, that some of the players got off and walked the last block or so.

At 8 p.m., nearly four hours after the last out in the Giants 6-4 triumph, crowds began to gather at Powell and Market streets, where the famous cable car turntable is located. Many believed the Giants were going to parade.

Police loudspeaker cars continually informed the crowd there was to be no parade. But the mob grew to 6,000 and became unruly, albeit good-natured.

Two windows were broken, some trolley buses were knocked from their wires, and there were a few arrests of celebrants made boisterous by alcohol.

LA FANS MUMBLE

"They blew it, they blew it," a Los Angeles baseball fan mumbled as he walked away.

"They didn't deserve to win it," said another angrily.

That about summed up the reaction of this town to the final game of the National League pennant race, won 6-4 by the San Francisco Giants in a four - run ninth inning Wednesday.

Singer Andy Williams, normally a mild-mannered fellow, was so sore he kicked in the side of his new foreign sports car.

Most townspeople accepted the defeat with stunned disbelief.

The situation was somewhat the same in Hollywood.

Vince Edwards, wearing his TV Dr. Ben Casey uniform, halted production to watch the game on a portable TV set in his dressing room.

Edwards told his harried director, "I just can't remember my line. I'm a nervous wreck. I'll work as late as you want — but after the game."

When the game ended, he clutched a hand to his forehead and roared, "What an ignominious end."

Titans After 300th Grid Win in Home Opener

DETROIT — The University of Detroit football Titans will make a fifth stab at the school's 300th gridiron victory, Friday night, when they open their 1962 home season against New Mexico State. Titan Stadium kickoff time is 8:15 p.m.

The contest should also provide the springboard for U-D All-America candidate, quarterback Jerry Gross, to pass the 3000-yard mark in his career total offense.

In Detroit's two games to date, Gross has amassed 409 total yards, giving the 5-10, 175-pound star a lifetime total of 2,888.

Battling with Gross for individual honors will be the nation's 1961 major-college rushing and scoring champion, Aggie halfback James "Preacher" Pilot. His 1,278 rushing yards and 138 points led the country a year ago and the Kingsville, Tex., speedster is going at it again this fall with 295 yards in 48 rushes (6.6) and five TDs in New Mexico State's first three outings.

The Aggies are 1-2 on the year, losing their opener to the University of New Mexico, 28-17, whipping College of the Pacific, 28-6, and bowing to Wisconsin, 69-13, last Saturday.

★ ★ ★

U-D coach John Idzik will not know until hours before gametime just who will be available for service. Seven Titans were injured in the loss at Xavier and while all of them saw limited practice this week, Idzik will not know how any of them will hold up under game conditions until the whistle blows.

★ ★ ★

If contemporary conditions do not favor a Titan victory, history does. A U-D football team has never lost its first three games in any football season.

'M' Awaits Cadets, MSU Has Surprise

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Michigan football coach Bump Elliott may need a postman's bag for all the bad news he has been receiving this season.

Doctors at University Hospital decided that the injured knee of starting tackle John Houtman requires surgery. Houtman, a 240-pound senior from Adrian, was scheduled to undergo surgery this morning.

The loss of Houtman, who has banged up in the third period of Saturday's 25-13 loss to Nebraska, further depletes Elliott's dwindling core of experienced linemen. Three of Michigan's first four ends were declared ineligible before the start of the season.

Offsetting the bad news, however, was an encouraging report on sophomore fullback Mel Anthony of Cincinnati, Ohio. Elliott said he may be ready to play against Army here Saturday.

Anthony, a highly-touted 195-pounder, was running No. 1 at the position this fall before twisting his ankle. He missed the entire Nebraska game. Anthony returned to Ann Arbor yesterday after attending his father's funeral.

Elliott said he would like to use three units against the unbeaten cadets.

"Army has three good teams and we'd like to try the same. We wanted to use the platoon system against Nebraska but never had the chance," Elliott said.

DUFFY PLOTS

Over at East Lansing, Duffy Daugherty may be planning a few quarterbacking surprises for North Carolina here Saturday when his Michigan State football team tangles with the tar heels.

Chuck Migyanka, sophomore from East Conemaugh, Pa., spent most of yesterday's drills working out with the Spartans' first offensive unit while regular Pete Smith ran the second team.

Daugherty already has demoted first string center Dave Behrman to the third string as a result of his lackluster play in MSU's 16-13 loss to Stanford.

The Spartan coach said Migyanka apparently has recovered from a hip injury sustained Monday while broad-jumping in gym class.

Dragons, Oxford Have Bronze Gleam in Eyes

The old "shoe" isn't what it used to be, but now Oxford and Lake Orion's football teams will have their eyes on the "Double-O."

★ ★ ★

The "Double-O" isn't a 0-0 tie. It is a football. Not any old, ordinary pigskin-type football, but a sleek, new bronze football — one that is seeking an owner.

Both schools are positive they can meet the ownership requirements — the better football team and a spirit adventuresome enough to defend the trophy annually each fall.

When Lake Orion's Dragons triumphed 34-20 last year, they permanently retired the shoe trophy that the two schools had contested each season.

Representatives of the schools' student councils met to arrange for a new trophy. It was decided to sponsor a permanent bronze football, the "Double-O," and Lake Orion businessman Al Hanoute donated the trophy.

OXFORD FAVORED

Based on early season competition, the Wildcats of Walt Braun are favored to be the first caretaker of the bronze football. They have averages better than 17 points a game in winning two of three games while an impotent Dragon offense has totaled only 20 points in dividing three contests 1-1-1.

Coach Frank Kownacki's Lake Orion eleven is competing in the Oakland A League while Oxford, their arch rival, plays in the South Central League.

Should the game Friday night end in a tie, each team will possess the "Double-O" half a year.

ALBION (UPI) — More than 450 prep athletes from 68 Michigan schools will compete in the 15th annual Albion college invitational cross-country run Saturday, Oct. 13.

Elkin Isaac, Albion director of athletics, said competition in classes A, B and C-D will be held over a two-mile course which begins at Alumni field.

Fixer Slashes Wrist

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph Green, 37, of New York, charged in connection with the college basketball scandals, was under police guard in Bellevue Hospital today after he slashed his left wrist in the office of an assistant district attorney.

Green, who has pleaded guilty to two counts of bribery, was brought to the office of Asst. Dist. Atty. Peter D. Andreoli after he had called Andreoli and threatened suicide.

As Andreoli was talking to him, Green took a razor blade from his pocket and slashed his wrist.

State Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Sarafite immediately revoked the $1,000 bail under which Green had been free. He was scheduled for sentencing on the bribery charges Oct. 12.

Quarter Finals to Begin Today in Senior Golf

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Michael Cestone of Montclair, N.J., the 1960 champion, and Harry Robinson of Albuquerque, N.M., a co-medalist, lead survivors into the quarter-finals today of the U.S. Golf Association Senior Amateur tournament at Evanston Golf Club.

Cestone, 58, who recently retired as a mailman, takes on James H. McAlvin of Lake Forest, Ill., 61-year-old veteran of both World Wars. Robinson, 55, New Mexico packing-house manager, will meet Willis Blakely, 61, Portland, Ore., investment banker.

★ ★ ★

In Wednesday's action, Cestone defeated Jack Russell, Clearwater, Fla., 4 and 3; Lanman defeated H. Gordon Adkins, Newport News, Va., 1-up in 21 holes; Ross defeated Joseph Morzil Jr., Great Barrington, Mass., 1 up in 19 holes.

When we can make Volvos that look like this why do we make Volvos that look like this?

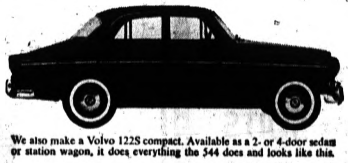
The Volvo in question is the 544. It's a compact. It out-accelerates other popular-priced compacts in every speed range, gets over 25 miles to the gallon like the little economy imports do, is virtually indestructible. Its owners claim the 544 is a cross between a tank and a sports car and they like it the way it is. Why change it? The Volvo on top is the P1800. It does over 100 mph, and for $3995* gives you features that 150 mph cars give you for $10,000. As Road & Track magazine put it, "The P1800 is a very civilized touring car for people who want to travel rapidly in style, a Gran Turismo car of the type much in the news these days—but at a price that many people who cannot afford a Ferrari or Aston Martin will be able to pay." Volvo prices start at $2295.* Come in and we'll show you what you get for your money.

VOLVO

*MANUFACTURER'S SUGGESTED RETAIL PRICE EAST COAST POE.



We also make a Volvo 122S compact. Available as a 2- or 4-door sedan or station wagon, it does everything the 544 does and looks like this.

Zanuck's 'Longest Day' a Screen Victory

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

NEW YORK—Cecil B. De Mille once boasted that only two men had ever parted the Red Sea and he was one of them.

Now Darryl Zanuck can claim to be one of the two men in history who commanded a mass invasion of Normandy. His achievement recorded in the new film "The Longest Day" is an impressive one.

THOMAS

This is the sort of thing that Zanuck does best. He is never happier nor more successful than when he is in command of the troops.

He is a commander—and a cutter. His great films—"12 O'Clock High," "All About Eve," "Gentlemen's Agreement"—were all masterfully edited. So is "The Longest Day." It moves swiftly from scenes of mass movement to a vignette of two soldiers in a hushed backwash of battle, from the prayerful Allied control commands to the frenetic posts of German generals.

NO TRACE OF CLICHE

The miracle of the film's organization is that there is no trace of that cliche, the stentorial narrator. Nor is there any concession to language. The Germans, French, English and Americans speak their own tongues; subtitles aid the viewer.

The film has its defects. Some of the preinvasion pep talks have the ring of cheap brass.

There is one absurdity: a glider planeload of British commandos crash-lands next to a bridge and the German sentries hear nothing.

* * *

Otherwise "The Longest Day" is about the ultimate in film warfare. A one-take scene taken from a helicopter of a French commando crash - lands next to a bridge and the German sentries hear nothing.

'GREATEST PIECE'

Otherwise "The Longest Day" is about the ultimate in film warfare. A one-take scene taken from a helicopter of a French commando advance along a Normandy quay may well be the greatest single piece of war action ever filmed.

The sequence of paratroopers landing in a village square while the city hall is afire makes magnificent drama.

* * *

The Omaha Beach landing is stirringly filmed, as is the cliff-scaling attack to wipe out cannons that were never emplaced.

Forty-two actors receive billing and none overstays his welcome.

NEW AMBASSADORS — President Kennedy yesterday named James Wine, 44, (left), ambassador to the republic of the Ivory Coast, and James William Riddleberger, 58, (right), ambassador to Australia. Wine, present envoy to Luxemburg, will succeed R. Borden Reams who retired and Riddleberger, ex-Foreign-Economic-Aid-Program chief, replaces Freeman Matthews.

$100 Million Cut in JFK's 'Works' Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House-Senate conference committee yesterday cut $100 million from President Kennedy's emergency public works program, reducing it to $400 million.

The negotiators met for about seven hours to iron out differences between House and Senate public works bills. The Senate version contained the $500 million in its $5.2-billion measure. The $4.6-billion House bill did not carry funds for the program because it had been passed before Congress acted on the speed-up bill to provide jobs for workers in depressed areas.

Members declined to say what decisions were reached on individual public works projects for which the Senate budgeted $97.4 million more than the House provided.

The report recommended by the conference committee still must be accepted by both chambers.

$49,000 in Bonds Okayed for Paving

The State Municipal Finance Commission yesterday approved special assessment bonds totaling $49,000 for black topping of Kempf and Preston streets in Waterford Township.

A date for receiving of bids will now be set by the township's bonding attorney.

Cost of the Kempf Street project has been set at $25,000. The figure for Preston Street is $24,000.

Hospitalized Laughton Keeps Active

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Elsa Lanchester was describing the hospital routine of her husband, Charles Laughton, 63, who is seriously ill with cancer of the spine.

* * *

She said the veteran character actor manages to be active, even through confined to the hospital, and added in an interview Wednesday: "the thing is, he's so cheerful.

"For the people who may think he's wasting away, let me say that he never looked better in his life. Fortunately, he was fat. Of course, he's lost a little. But he could afford to and he looks very good.

HAS MUSTACHE

"Oh, he has also grown a mustache. Mostly for convenience, I'd say. But he likes to look at it in the mirror."

Does he know the nature of his illness?

"Of course he knows what's wrong with him," Miss Lanchester said. "They've been giving him what they call ray treatments. But he knows cobalt when he sees it."

* * *

The actress said her husband has a book of Shakespeare beside his bed and also reads magazines —but no newspapers.

"I keep the newspapers from him," she explained. "He doesn't like this. But I try to tell him what's going on. And I keep away a lot of the flowers that are sent. I don't like to do it. But if he thought so many people were concerned about him, he might worry."

Does he get any exercise?

WALKS A BIT

"The nurses get him up and help him walk about the room a bit," Miss Lanchester said. "He jokes with them. We don't joke too much. We've been married too long—1929—how long is that?

"The best thing," she continued, "is that he has some things going for him. His new book, 'This Fabulous Country,' a compilation of literature describing this country, will be published in about a month. And Capitol Records has just released an album of his readings and he's interested in how that's going."

* * *

Attendants at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said Laughton was resting comfortably. They listed his condition as unchanged—still serious.

Red Guards Toss Tear Gas at Visitors

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards threw 20 tear gas grenades at a group of visitors, including members of the West German Parliament, when they approached Berlin's wall in the French sector Wednesday.

West Berlin police tossed back an equal number of tear gas grenades. Western police said the Communist guards apparently objected to the visitors taking pictures of them.

Negro Fights S. C. College

Asks Court Aid to Defy Segregation at School

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A Negro student asks court action today to clear the way for his admission to South Carolina's all-white Clemson College—and thus crack the state's school segregation barrier.

The 4th Circuit Court of Appeals takes up the case of Harvey B. Gantt, 19, only four days after the integration of the University of Mississippi touched off bloody riots.

* * *

This is the first court action to force integration of South Carolina's state-supported white colleges. All public schools in the state are segregated.

Five integration cases now before the U.S. Supreme Court involve South Carolina public schools. One is the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's attempt to gain admission of Negro children to elementary and secondary schools in Clarendon County.

WANTS TRANSFER

The Supreme Court's historic school integration decision in 1954 was based in part on a Clarendon County suit brought by Negro parents.

Gantt, of Charleston, S.C., is attempting to transfer to Clemson from Iowa State College, where he is an architecture student. His attorneys contend Clemson, the state's agricultural and technical college, will not admit him because it has a policy against enrolling Negroes. Attorneys for the college argue there is no evidence of racial discrimination and that Gantt failed to meet the college's requirements.

* * *

Judge C. C. Wyche of the U.S. District Court for eastern South Carolina denied a preliminary injunction against the college which would have paved the way for Gantt's transfer. The student is appealing that lower court decision.

Gantt's attorneys contend his record shows he is a better-than-average student and that his constitutional rights are being denied by Clemson. They say a racial policy at the college is demonstrated by what they call unreasonable application requirements.

Governors Face Up to Issues

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — The Southern Governors Conference faces up today to the issues of state rights and Gov. Ross Barnett. The advance word was that a compromise was likely.

The resolutions committee kept its recommendations secret until the final business session of the conference. However, there were indications that there would be no resolution either censuring or endorsing Barnett's action in the Mississippi integration crisis.

A resolution was reported likely to be adopted calling upon the states to promote an overhaul of the U. S. Constitution to redefine the relationship between the states and the federal government.

* * *

Gov. John Patterson of Alabama had indicated he would try to get the resolutions committee to turn out a resolution endorsing Barnett.

Following scheduled adjournment of the southern governors conference at noon, four members of the executive committee of the National Governors Conference had planned to take up a proposal that the national group censure Barnett.

But the sponsor of the censure move, Gov. John Swainson of Michigan, said in Detroit yesterday he was dropping his demand for censure and was calling instead for a positive statement of principle concerning defiance of federal court orders.

* * *

Swainson originally demanded censure of Barnett for his initial refusal to admit James H. Meredith, a Negro, to the University of Mississippi. Swainson said Barnett now apparently has modified his stand.

"America's newspaperboys help keep freedom in your future"

M. Scott Carpenter, Project Mercury, NASA, fourth U.S. astronaut in space, second American to orbit the earth.

says M. Scott Carpenter, Mercury Astronaut, who's doing his own share of helping to preserve freedom

"America has a half-million reasons to be optimistic about the future: the half-million newspaperboys who are on their way to being the future leaders of our Nation.

"These youngsters learn the importance of responsibility, the value of money, and the great opportunities a free system like ours offers to its people.

"Many of these boys put a regular part of their weekly earnings into Savings Bonds and Stamps. And, since 1941, many of them have promoted Bonds and Stamps to their customers—to help keep America strong and free.

"We can be mighty proud of our newspaperboys and of the part they're playing in the future of freedom."

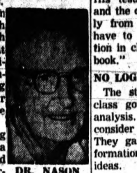
Grading Plan Should Teach Learning

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

Grades are the measure of a student's success in school. The student works for them. The teacher's method of grading often sets the pace of learning.

This can be harmful to the learning process.



DR. NASON

Students often go to great length find out how each teacher arrives at grades. They direct their attention to getting grades rather than learning the subject.

The grading system used by a teacher can lead a student into correct study habits that will be an asset to him all his life.

At the other extreme, however, grading systems can place such a high premium on memory that they turn even good minds into textbooks.

A sophomore history student once described his teacher to a new student by saying:

"He grades primarily on tests. His tests are short-answer type and the questions are taken entirely from the textbook. You don't have to take notes or pay attention in class if you know the textbook."

NO LOGICAL ANALYSIS

The students in that teacher's class got no practice in logical analysis. They did not need to consider the trends of history. They gained no skill in the formation and communication of ideas.

Contrast this procedure to that of a high school biology teacher. She informs her class at the beginning that they will be graded on how well they master the subject.

It is possible for everyone to get a high grade. However, if no one does outstanding work, no one receives a high grade. It is up to the students.

That teacher's students cooperate with each other by holding voluntary study sessions, going over slides, practicing sketches, and reviewing for exams.

★ ★ ★

The students make dozens of practice sketches for criticism. The first practice sketches are not aimed at acquiring skill in sketching. This is better than merely producing one sketch to receive a grade.

OPPORTUNITY

The late bloomers and slower students have an opportunity to work toward mastery without being penalized for lack of speed. Eventually the student is tested on his ability to produce the required sketches and given a grade.

Two other contrasting examples.

Teacher A assigns homework every day. He carries the papers home, grades them each evening and returns them the next day. As soon as a unit of work has been covered, a test is given and grades awarded — a few As, a few Fs, mostly Cs.

In this class students are graded partially on their rate of learning and their skill in test taking, rather than mastery of subject matter.

★ ★ ★

Teacher B makes his first assignments short. These papers are checked in class and each pupil discovers immediately what improvements are needed. As students learn how to do the work some assignments are turned in to be graded.

★ ★ ★

At the end of a unit, the student is assigned to organize, summarize or analyze the material of the unit. In the unit test, every student is assigned to organize, summarize or analyze the material of the unit. In the unit test, every student has an opportunity to receive a high grade if he deserves it.

Under this type of grading students are encouraged to do more things for the sake of learning.

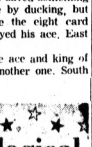
The tension on the last day of was reflected in the results. We picked up 12 International Match points when the usually conservative Italians allowed themselves to be stampeded into a horrible five-diamond contract.



JACOBY

The bidding in the box shows how they got there. The American West's four club bid gave them a problem and they went wrong.

Also, the American defense was perfect. West opened the queen of hearts and shifted to a high club. North might have saved something from the debacle by ducking, but he could not see the eight card club suit and played his ace. East ruffed.

East cashed the ace and king of hearts and led another one. South ruffed high, drew trumps and eventually went after the spades. Since East held both the king and jack there was no way for South to avoid losing to both of them and he was down four tricks for minus 700.

★ ★ ★

At the other table West opened with three clubs. North doubled and South bid three diamonds which became the final contract. The defense went the same way so he was down two for minus 100 and a net gain of 600 points or 12 IMPs for America.

Shortage of Doctors Considered Big Threat

Fewer doctors for more people. That is the threat to good health practice in the United States, Dr. Ward Darley last night told members of the Oakland County Medical Society meeting at Kingsley Inn, Bloomfield Hills.

★ ★ ★

A nationally known medical educator, Dr. Darley is executive director of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

He also is a former research worker, private practitioner, medical school dean, and University of Colorado vice president and president.

"For the last 20 years," he said, "the ratio of doctors toward population was one physician for every 720 people.

This includes all physicians, whether they treat people directly, give X rays or are engaged in a specialty such as pathology.

★ ★ ★

"With the expected increase in population in the next 20 to 30 years, the most we can accomplish is to maintain the present ratio." However, because of the time needed to establish new classroom seats in existing and new medical schools, he warned, "we are already far behind any schedule for 1975."

NEED LOTS MORE

By 1975, medical schools must graduate 3,500 more doctors than the present 7,000 annual graduates, he said.

"Because of the number of dropouts," he added, "this means we need 4,000 more students in freshmen classes. This is equal to the intake of 35 average medical schools."

★ ★ ★

And the schools just can't be built fast enough.

A 1960 survey showed that 1,700 new places could be provided by existing schools, he said. But the other half would require new schools.

"There is an eight to nine-year interval between the start of planning for such schools and the time when a brand new physician starts practice," he said.

The chief bottleneck, said Dr. Darley, is lack of funds.

★ ★ ★

Most universities find it increasingly difficult to raise funds, he said, and pressure for federal aid to establish new schools and expand existing ones so far has failed.

ACTION PRAISED

Dr. Darley praised the recent action by the Michigan Medical Society's House of Delegates, docking each state doctor for a $10 contribution to an American Medical Association student loan fund.

For each dollar contributed, the fund can borrow $12.50, he said. The state doctors' direct help would total $70,000, a sum which mushrooms into three-quarters-of-a-million dollars in funds.

★ ★ ★

Loans and scholarships should make it possible for every qualified medical school applicant to afford the training, Dr. Darley said. Unfortunately, there still aren't enough such funds.

Gunman Kills 4, Vanishes in LA

5th Injured in Hotel; Police Hunt Slayer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An enraged gunman shot four persons to death and wounded a fifth Wednesday night and then vanished in the darkness, hunted by scores of police.

The shootings occurred at a small hotel in West Los Angeles. They came after a caller complained to police of a loud radio in the hotel.

"See the manager about it," he was told.

★ ★ ★

Moments later a volley of pistol shots rocked the Cotner Hall Hotel.

When the first officer reached the scene the gunman was gone.

Among those slain was the woman who managed the hotel.

Two of the injured died at nearby UCLA Medical Center, where the wounded man—possibly the only witness—is unconscious, in serious condition with a bullet wound under the right arm.

TALL MAN?

Police believe the killer was a tall, gray-haired man a witness saw walking from the hotel after the shooting.

Before he lapsed into unconsciousness the wounded man told detectives that he went to the hotel seeking a room, found the woman manager slain, and was shot when he looked into an adjoining room.

★ ★ ★

The hotel is on Cotner Ave., a side street not far from the big Veterans Administration Hospital in the Sawtelle district.

UP Fire Destroys Gasoline Station

The filling station was owned by Frank Lundquist of Grand Marais.

Grand Marais' volunteer fire department was aided by firemen from Seney, Germfask and the Grand Marais Coast Guard Station in battling the blaze.

Mrs. Morganfield, who has been receiving welfare aid, was asked to sign the nonsupport complaint to show she is receiving no money from her husband, from whom she is separated.

Mrs. Helen Slayton, one of the women attacked, said the action was requested because information was received that the woman's husband had returned to the Pontiac area.

I SHOULD LIKE TO THANK THE doctors and nurses of Pontiac General Hospital, and my friends and neighbors for their kindness during the past two years from the Ursuline School of Nursing. Prayers are still in action for repentance. —Mrs. Vera Van Antwerp, 18 Palmer.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF PETE Kanakaris who passed away October 4, 1961.
Well I always knew that I would lose you one day
Many times I've cried and prayed
Now I know I must be brave
And Linda Pete.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR beloved husband and father, Calvin G. Easley, who passed away six years ago today, October 4, 1956.
Time flies but years doesn't seem so swift
To others it may seem
That losing someone that you love
Would only be a dream
But to the one that's left behind
Each day is filled with pain
Know what six lonely years can bring
Sadly missed by loving wife Minnie and family.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF GEORGE Shaw who passed away on October 4, 1961.
"We miss you very much dear Dad."
Sadly missed by mother, Ina and daughter, Betty, brother-in-law Conley, nephews Bob and Bruce.

Scribes' Status Symbol: Rap From JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the national magazines recently published an article about President Kennedy's relations with the press.

It noted that Kennedy reads the newspapers more than most presidents have done, and also is likely to have a more active reaction to what he reads.

If he sees something he likes, he may convey his feelings to the author. And the same is true if he sees something he doesn't like.

After reading the article, I called up a friend of mine who covers the White House and asked for an elaboration on this point.

"Having your pieces reviewed by the White House has come to be a sort of journalistic status symbol," my friend said.

CHEW OUTS TOPS

"There is a certain honor attached to getting a complimentary remark or message, but the chewings out are what carry the real prestige. They mean that you have 'arrived' and that what you write 'matters.'

"There are several ways a chewing out can be administered. The President may do it personally. Or he may have Pierre Salinger do it. Or it may be Bobby Kennedy who does it.

★ ★ ★

"A chewing out by Salinger isn't regarded as a collector's item if he does it on his own hook. If, however, he does it on behalf of the President, then it goes into the record book and you are entitled to the rank of 'enterprising reporter.'

"A chewing out by Bobby Kennedy may be for something you wrote about him. That doesn't count except at the Justice Department, which uses a different scoring system.

'INFLUENTIAL'

"But if Bobby chews you out for something you wrote about the President, it falls within the White House rules and carries with it the rank of 'influential newspaperman.'

"The top ranking is 'distinguished journalist' and it can only be achieved by a personal chewing out from the President himself."

"That's very interesting," I said. "How about a chewing out from Teddy Kennedy?"

★ ★ ★

"Not valid except in Massachusetts," my friend replied.

"How about Sargent Shriver or Peter Lawford?"

"In-law chewings out are marked with an asterisk, like Roger Maris' home runs."

"One time I got a chewing out from Bobby Kennedy when he was still serving as a senate committee counsel," I said. "Does that count?"

"Technically," he ruled, "it would be classified as a congressional chewing out and could not be used except in event of a tie."

MSUO Man to Take Nigerian Position

George E. Fritz, manager of student housing and food facilities at Michigan State University, Oakland, will head for Nigeria in November to set up similar facilities at the University of Nigeria.

★ ★ ★

His new job will be that of director of the Nigerian university's continuing education center — a center which has not yet been built.

"I expect to travel extensively in Nigeria," said Fritz today. "I'll have to learn how they do things there, before I can teach them how to provide the right kind of housing and dining facilities.

"We'll be catering to everybody from high tribal chieftains, who are used to the very best, to natives who have never seen an electric light bulb.

Part of Fritz's housing and feeding duties will include setting up a 96-room hotel, complete with conference rooms, dining rooms and tap room.

Fritz has been in charge of MSUO's Student Center, two dormitories and in over-all charge of food services since MSUO's beginning. MSUO is only a year older than the University of Nigeria.

With him on the Nigeria assignment which may last for 2½ years, will be Fritz's wife, Ingeborg, and their three children.

James, 7, and Judi, 6, will attend an American elementary school on the campus.

They attend Meadowbrook Elementary School in Rochester, not far from their home at 210 Vreeland Drive. The third child is Marianne, 3.

U. S. Marshals Are Stopped

Mississippi Sheriff Claims 4 Intoxicated

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. (AP)—A convoy of five car loads of U.S. marshals was stopped here Wednesday night after Sheriff Sol Cox said he received an anonymous call from Memphis "that a group of drunken marshals were headed toward Oxford."

★ ★ ★

Cox said four of the occupants, none of whom was driving, were "intoxicated, extremely arrogant and resisted arrest." He said he took a quart of wine from one of the four.

The sheriff identified the four as border patrolmen deputized as marshals. He said all four were armed.

'NO ONE DRINKING'

In Wasington, Edwin O. Guthman, Justice Department public information officer, said "our investigation shows that no one in these cars had been drinking."

"If there was someone intoxicated, the sheriff should have made an arrest," Guthman said.

★ ★ ★

Cox said he turned the four over to the officer in charge of the convoy after notifying Tycer Young, chief deputy in charge of U.S. marshals at Oxford, site of the University of Mississippi.

Guthman said the marshals and border patrolmen were returning from Memphis, Tenn., with five automobiles which had been repaired after Sunday night's rioting.

"They were stopped and searched without authorization," Guthman said.

GI on Duty in Korea Slain Mysteriously

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—An American soldier standing guard 12 miles behind the South Korean frontier was fatally shot and stabbed at midnight by "unidentified Koreans" who left behind shells of the type used in Soviet burp guns, the U.S. Army announced today.

★ ★ ★

The soldier, whose name was withheld, was shot four times and stabbed eight times as he stood guard over building materials near Hyang Yang village, 40 miles north of Seoul.

The victim, a member of B battery, 15th Artillery, 7th Infantry Division, died a few hours later.

Romney to Get Quiz From 1,000 Students

DETROIT (AP) — George Romney, Republican nominee for governor, will face 1,000 reporters at a press conference Saturday. He is to be interviewed in a feature of the 4th annual Detroit Student Press Association Convention.

Correspondents from campus publications will write stories on the interview in competing for University of Detroit summer session scholarships.

Wives to Star on TV With Plug for Candidates

DETROIT (UPI) — The wives of Gov. John B. Swainson and Republican gubernatorial candidate George Romney will appear on television Oct. 22 to tell "Why My Husband Should Be Governor."

★ ★ ★

Station WXYZ said each of the wives would be given 15 minutes to tell about their husbands. The program will consist of questions and answers posed by a WXYZ announcer, with the segments to be taped at the homes of the candidates.

★ ★ ★

The program will be aired at 7 p. m.

Swainson and Romney are scheduled to debate on television Oct. 9, 17 and 26.

Sonny, Backstage, Explains Patterson's 'First Mistake'

BY EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The celebrity crowd at Luchow's was discussing Sonny Liston—and Red Buttons said there's certain to be a rematch . . . "another fight."

"Another fight! There hasn't been one yet," said Alfred Streisin.

"That's it," retorted Buttons. "Floyd Patterson wants to come back and finish the round."

WILSON

Liston got $5,000 for doing the Ed Sullivan TV show—and in his CBS dressing room gave an interview to a sports magazine writer gave asked him: "What was the first mistake Patterson made?" . . . Liston: "Getting in the ring with me" . . . Interviewer: "Seriously, what did Patterson do wrong?" . . . Liston: "He didn't do nuthin' right."

It's quite clear that Tony Curtis and movie star Christine Kaufmann — who won't be 18 till Jan. 11—are having one of the prettiest romances in America. But as to marriage: Tony says he's in no hurry, and Christine, who speaks five languages excellently, says, "I am very young, and I don't like to make plans that tie me up." They're proceeding shortly to Hollywood to do a film—Tony being very partial to Hollywood film-making despite his successes abroad.

Ham-Scented Toys or Chinese Exercises - - NY Has 'Em

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — New York City may be occasionally an uneasy place to live (noise, pace, competition)—but there is no question whatever that it is also the most convenient town ever conceived.

★ ★ ★

Where else in the world can you find, for the benefit of your peptic ulcer, more than a dozen drug stores that stay open all night?

In New York, within 10 blocks of where you live (regardless of where you live) there are stores that will sell you products from India, Japan, Paris, Rome—at less than the prices you'd pay in India, Japan, Paris and Rome. Or anywhere else.

Beauty shops stay open 24 hours a day in New York. If your dog gets sick, there's a veterinarian or canine psychiatrist within easy reach. If your child needs culture there are hundreds of historic landmarks within strolling distance.

About the only thing you cannot get in New York City, conveniently, are taxicabs in the rain and tickets to "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying"—without really trying.

But the conveniences listed above are only the "usual", the taken-for-granted, in New York. Some of the more off-beat businesses of New York City have to be sought out or rather, they had to be before an outfit called "Quarto Editorial Service" came out this week with a small yellow book called "The Quarter Guide to Shops and Services."

This handy editorial helper lists dozens of free concerts or plays or story-reading sessions, zoos, aquariums, planetariums, libraries.

not only the best (as well as the cheapest) stores and restaurants, but also some of the extra services only New Yorkers can command. For example:

RECLAIM LETTER

At the U.S. Post Office, Lexington Ave. at 45th St., a New Yorker can reclaim a letter he's already posted—by showing identification and filling out a withdrawal form.

The Midtown International Center, Inc., offers advice, conversation and general hospitality to people from overseas.

At New Eyes for the Needy, you can get free glasses—if you're needy.

Mrs. George Nelson, 12 E. 93rd St., interviews and advises mothers on foreign schools and camps for their children. At World Affairs Center, 345 E. 46th St., anyone can attend a briefing on current United Nations issues, daily from 1 to 2 p.m.

William of Park Ave. conducts a visiting beauty service, 24 hours a day—will come to your home, or hospital room, and shampoo and set. Sophia Delza, 222 W. 23rd St., teaches Tai Chi Ch'uan ancient Chinese exercises; and at the MacArthur Shop, 590 Third Ave., you can buy seashells from whatever seashore you prefer.

★ ★ ★

If you lose an earring, write Dorsay Earring Exchange, 200 W. 57th, for a service envelope to mail them the remaining one; they'll try to match it and return the pair for $1.

Mrs. Claire Clark of Brooklyn goes to any part of the city to discuss wardrobe needs with a client (no service charge), then returns with choice of new clothes from designers at less than retail prices.

FOR WOMEN HATERS

For women haters, Joseph A. McAnerney, 181 E. 87th, has a "Visiting Houseman Service," cleaning by men only. Mildred Pell Creations, 310 E. 56th, sells ham-scented plastic bones for pets, and the N.Y. Obedience Training Club, 981 Eighth Ave., trains the pets to chew them nicely.

★ ★ ★

At "Be My Guest," 20 W. 43rd, you can buy presents for overseas-bound friends: Dinner at a fine restaurant in Paris, theater tickets in London, gift certificate for shopping in Athens, etc. At "Old Buttons," 510 Madison Ave., you can buy old buttons, priced from a dime a dozen to $60 each.

★ ★ ★

In New York City, there is a place for everything, and everything has its place. It's a wonderfull town.

Packaging Corp. Tries New Specialty Field

MANISTEE (AP) — Packaging Corp. of America yesterday announced entry into the specialty printing paper field with a new line of bleached paper developed at its nearby Filer City plant.

The new product is designed for use as menu stock, paperback book covers, folders, brochures, tags, promotional pieces, pocket cards and postcards.

Decrease Expected in Freight Loadings

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A slight decrease in freight car loadings during the fourth quarter of 1962 was forecast yesterday by the Great Lakes Region Rail Shippers Advisory Board.

The forecast calls for 418,412 car loadings in the Great Lakes area, a drop of 3,899 below the final quarter last year.

Despite the prediction of fewer car loadings, shippers expect a significant increase in shipments of automobiles, trucks and automotive parts.

★ ★ ★

Vehicle shipments are expected to reach 23,507 carloads, an increase of almost 30 per cent over 1961.

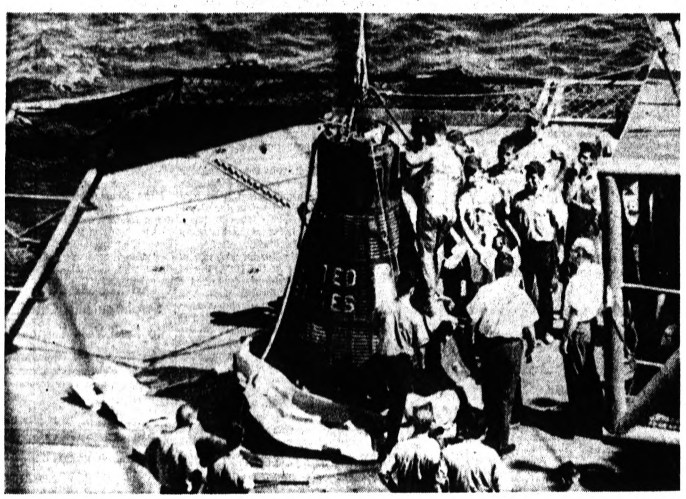
Schirra Tells of 'Perfect Space Shot



AP Photofax

SCHIRRA LEAVES SIGMA 7 — Sailors of the USS Kearsarge cluster around the space capsule of astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. yesterday as the spaceman climbs out of the Sigma 7 after orbiting the earth six times. Schirra stayed in the capsul until it had been hauled on the carrier's deck, then blew the escape hatch and climbed out.

Six-Orbit Shot to Aid Drive Toward Moon

Fuel-Saving Methods Tried Successfully During Trip

CAPE CANAVERAL—(UPI)— Walter Schirra's space flight came within 1½ minutes of being ended after the first orbit yesterday because of a cranky temperature problem in his pressure suit, officials disclosed today.

From Our News Wires

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Walter M. Schirra Jr., hero of Wednesday's dazzling nine-hour satellite flight six times around the earth, tells today the scientific story he was much too busy to relate in space.

Jubilant U.S. space officials said Schirra's textbook-perfect six orbits of the earth disclosed new fuel-saving methods that will spur the nation's drive toward the moon.

President Kennedy called Schirra's feat an "historic exploration into space."

After the 39-year-old Navy commander, comfortably lodged in the admiral's cabin of the aircraft carrier Kearsarge, completes his uninterrupted dictaphone accounting, physicians will examine him thoroughly for any possible aftereffects.

Two doctors on the Kearsarge have reported he apparently suffered no ill effects.

★ ★ ★

No other American has spent so much time — more than nine hours — weightless and in orbit. From first appearances, the strain had been no greater than for a jet-plane flight of comparable length.

The Kearsarge plucked Schirra — perfectly dry and comfortable in his Sigma 7 spacecraft — from mid-Pacific waters less than three miles off its bow.

With unprecedented accuracy, and a performance of unrivalled smoothness, Schirra and the Project Mercury team that launched him from Cape Canaveral hit a bullseye for the longest orbit flight yet taken by an American.

Mississippi-Houston Game

Grid Site Changed to Jackson

From Our News Wires

OXFORD, Miss. — University of Mississippi officials, fearful of having a football crowd on the campus during a time of racial tension, said today the Saturday game with the University of Houston would be played instead at Jackson.

★ ★ ★

The announcement, confirmed by Memorial Stadium officials in Jackson, capped a confusing series of announcements and reports that first had said the game would be played here and then named Houston as the site.

The team had been alerted early today to stand by for a trip to Houston.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy had been reported considering cancellation of the game altogether.

★ ★ ★

The announcement came from the university athletic department but Assistant U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenback said he believed the decision was made by the Department of Defense.

NEW STADIUM

The switch came several hours after federal marshals had grimly predicted incidents at the game in the wake of the universitys admitting a Negro student. Riots swept across the Oxford campus last weekend and two men died from gunshot wounds.

Jacksons new municipal stadium will host the game Saturday afternoon, and it is expected to attract about 30,000 fans.

★ ★ ★

Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett, who defied the federal court order to admit James H. Meredity, a 29-year-old Negro from Kosciusko, Miss., offered free transportation for the game to all Mississippi students. Jackson is about 170 miles south of Oxford.

The swap brought this comment from Ole Miss halfback Louis Guy:

"I wish they'd make up their mind once and for all. We'll probably dress out in Jackson Saturday and they'll tell us the game is set for Memphis."

Today's announcement came after a conference in McLean, Va., last night between Atty. Gen. Kennedy and Justice Department public information officer Edwin Guthman.

★ ★ ★

Guthman has been in Oxford several days and said while the Justice Department did not want to interfere with the game, "we dont want any more riots or violence."

FULL RUNDOWN

Guthman said the attorney general wanted a full rundown on the Oxford situation.

Kennedy also received a first-hand report from Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach on the developments in Mississippi.

Katzenbach flew to Washington with Guthman, and after talking with Kennedy left this morning for Mississippi again.

★ ★ ★

Guthman and Dean Markham, an assistant to the attorney general, remained in Washington.

Laughter Fills Lunchroom; Then, Death Comes to 21

NEW YORK (AP) — It was 12:06 p.m. The basement lunchroom of the New York Telephone Co.'s uptown Manhattan building was filled with about 100 employes, most of them young women.

The air was filled with pleasant chatter and feminine laughter.

The minute hand edged toward 12:07.

At that moment, a massive steam boiler weighing more than a ton erupted into the lunchroom with the force of a jet-propelled projectile and smashed its way up through the ceiling to the first floor, bounced back into the lunchroom and rocketed through an opposite wall.

It destroyed or killed or maimed everything in its path. Steam, smoke and flames filled the basement. Overturned desks, cabinets and broken bodies fell through the gaping hole in the ceiling to add to the carnage below.

For perhaps 30 seconds after the blast there was a stunned silence. Then a lonely cry pierced the choking air: "My God, my God."

The time was 12:08 p.m.

At least 21 persons—nineteen of them women whose ages ranged from 18 to 62—were killed in the disaster and at least 100 others were injured. Most of the injured also were women.

Pictures on Page C-13

Area hospitals set up emergency facilities. Doctors came from far and near to care for the injured.

★ ★ ★

Transit employes working nearby and others from every walk of life aided police and firemen in rescue operations.

MINISTER TO DEAD

Clergymen of various faiths came to minister to the dead and the dying. These littered the sidewalk in grotesque postures of death and made the normally bustling area around the building at 213th Street and Broadway look like a war-torn battlefield.

Dazed survivors and relatives and friends of employes in the building stood by and waited for news of their loved ones. Others moved to a makeshift morgue nearby.

The boiler that caused the disaster — one of three oil-burning boilers in the two-story building— had been cleaned last week and placed back into service less than an hour before the tragedy.

JFK Acts to Stop Sea Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today ordered the government to take court action to stop the strike of longshoremen that has tied up shipping in Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

Kennedy acted after receiving a report from the three-man board he appointed Monday to investigate the walkout.

Naming of such a board is the first step under the Taft-Hartley law to halt major industrial work stoppages.

Kennedy's action cleared the way for the government to seek an end to the strike for an 80-day cooling off period.

★ ★ ★

Twice before, Kennedy has invoked the Taft-Hartley law to end shipping strikes on the East and West coasts.

GIVES BOBBY OK

With today's order, he instructed Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to petition any federal court with jurisdiction in the far-flung strike area to put the longshoremen back on their jobs.

It was understood the Justice Department probably would file suit in New York later today to end the strike.

★ ★ ★

The longshoremen struck early Monday, halting shipping in ports from Maine to Texas. Kennedy named the fact-finding board 10 hours later, and received its report today.

The shipping companies, while offering wage increases, have asked for negotiations on "increased productivity" as part of the deal. The union has demanded a six-hour day with no cut in the present eight-hour daily wage.

De Gaulle Says He Might Quit

Demands Approval of Popular Vote Move

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle coolly threatened to quit unless France approves his proposal to elect future presidents by popular vote.

★ ★ ★

The proposal will be submitted to a national referendum Oct. 28.

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle spoke in a radio-television address just two hours before the National Assembly was scheduled to take up a motion of censure against the government. In effect, he was appealing to the people—over the head of Parliament—to follow his leadership.

The president said he needed "yes" votes in the referendum to give him strength for his future activities.

★ ★ ★

It was the first of two nationwide de Gaulle broadcasts preceding the vote in Parliament, in the first major political crisis of the Fifth Republic. Dissolution of the assembly and elections next month appeared likely.

LITTLE CRITICISM

There has been little criticism of de Gaulle himself and his conduct of the presidency. But the popular vote will apply only to future presidents. De Gaulle was elected by a college of about 80,000 electors made up of members of Parliament, regional councils and municipal councils.

★ ★ ★

No less than 38 deputies put their names on the speakers' list for the assembly debate. This indicated the debate might drag on into the night and that the vote might not come before the early hours of Friday.

Medics Find Astronaut Suffered No Ill Effects

ABOARD U.S.S. KEARSARGE IN PACIFIC (AP)—Astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. lost only four pounds during his prolonged voyage through space — a doctor said it was "less than he would have lost playing a game of football."

Dr. Richard Pollard of Jackson Mich., and Dr. Max J. Traumer of Springfield, Pa., said a preliminary medical examination of Schirra turned up no ill effects as a result of the 9 hour 13 minute orbital flight.

Schirra turned in early last night, his ears ringing with praise for his spectacularly precise six-orbit world flight earlier in the day.

★ ★ ★

Schirra's scorched capsule parachuted into the Pacific at 10:28 a.m. Midway time — 4:28 p.m. EST—in full view of hundreds of crewmen packed across the bow of this flattop's flight deck.

So precise was the navigation by both Schirra and the recovery force that the Sigma 7 spacecraft came down in a calm sea only a few thousand yards ahead of the Kearsarge.

Unharmed and in his own words "happy as a lark," Schirra decided to remain in his spacecraft until it was hoisted aboard almost an hour after splashing into the Pacific 285 miles northeast of Midway Island.

DOCTORS' FINDINGS

After a 2½-hour medical examination, the doctors reported they found:

No change in Schirra's condition from his last checkup at Cape Canaveral just before his space voyage;

No evidence of cosmic rays immediately detectable;

No change in equilibrium;

No space sickness;

No difficulty in eating;

No abnormal bodily functions.

They described Schirra's condition as "very good."

A further examination was made to determine if there were any "subtle changes" in Schirra's condition.

"We found none," said Dr. Pollard.

The doctors quoted Schirra as saying he ate two tubes of specially prepared food, one of them peaches. They said they believed the other tube was also fruit.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Traumer said Schirra drank liquids during the flight but passed up solid food because they had been hard to pick up and hold in his gloved hands.

"When you're having that much fun you just don't get hungry," Pollard quoted Schirra.

Nor, in his nearly nine hours of weightlessness, did the astronaut feel any discomfiture or vertigo.

As Com. Schirra pointed out to the doctors, his experience demonstrated that Soviet Cosmonaut Gherman S. Titov represented an individual case rather than the general rule in his response to weightlessness.

Titov reported he felt a nausea resembling seasickness after about six hours of being weightless.

One of the primary biomedical objectives of the Schirra flight was to extend the weightless state of an American astronaut beyond the point in which Titov began to feel nauseated.

Pollard said Schirra "was not particularly tired after his flight and certainly no more fatigued than he would have been from a Cape Canaveral training exercises."

★ ★ ★

More detailed examinations are scheduled Thursday when a team of medics from Cape Canaveral reaches the carrier.

A major objective will be to measure radiation absorption, if any, by Schirra's system.

★ ★ ★

For the first time radiation measuring devices were attached to the capsule. They were used because of increased radiation thrown into outer space by the United States nuclear tests at Christmas and Johnston Islands this summer.

Patients Move Into New Wing

Osteopathic Hospital Nearly Completed

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, slowly but surely becoming the largest osteopathic hospital in Michigan, took another step toward that distinction today.

★ ★ ★

Patients and equipment began moving into the second level of the hospital's new $1.3-million wing at 10 a.m.

"The initial move will involve only about 32 patients," said Harry H. Whitlow, administrator.

"The second level houses our new surgical suite and has a capacity of about 120 beds."

The new wing, under construction for more than a year, has three floors or levels.

The third level of the new wing, devoted mainly to patients' rooms, was opened for use last April. The first level, or ground floor, and the penthouse administrative offices will be last to open.

READY SHORTLY

Currently being completed and equipped, these may be ready for use by the end of the month.

Official dedication of the new wing is tentatively slated for early next year. Before then, the old building is to be completely renovated and redecorated.

★ ★ ★

"When our total expansion program is completed, we will be the biggest osteopathic hospital in Michigan and could well be the biggest in the nation," Whitlow explained.

Parade to Start Special Week

Mark Fire Prevention Drive Oct. 7-13

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13, will be kicked off in the area Saturday with a parade in downtown Pontiac and a field day program.

Nearly 20 county fire departments will take part in the 1 p.m. parade up Saginaw Street and competition at the Northside Ball Park, Edison at Montcalm.

During the week, set aside annually after the Chicago fire of 1871 as a reminder of the havoc fire can create, literature on fire prevention will be distributed at schools and films will be available on request.

Merchants throughout the area are cooperating by displaying posters in windows reading "Stop Fires — Save Lives."

★ ★ ★

Pontiac Fire Department Capt. Albert Rayner, general chairman for the week-long activities, said the prime purpose of Fire Prevention Week is to educate the public of the dangers around homes and business places that can start fires.

PLAN PARADE

The parade, he said, will last a half hour and units will be assembled on Saginaw between Judson and Parke. The parade route will be north on Saginaw to Oakland Blvd.

★ ★ ★

Field day events will begin at 2 p.m. with a flag-raising ceremony using an aerial ladder truck.

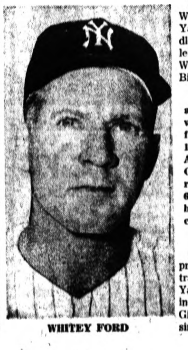
Southpaws to Lead Giants, Yanks



WHITEY FORD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 59th World Series, seventh between the Yankees and Giants, opens at Candlestick Park today in a battle of left-handers between New York's Whitey Ford and San Francisco's Billy O'Dell.

San Francisco's joyous citizens appeared unmindful of the odds which made the Yankees a 7-to-5 favorite to win the opener and a 17-to-10 choice to win the series. All that mattered was that the Giants had whipped their archrival, the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4 in the final playoff game to bring the first National League championship to San Francisco.

★ ★ ★

One reason the Yankees are such prohibitive favories is their long tradition of series supremacy. The Yankees have won 19 of 26 series, including four of six from the Giants, who haven't beaten them since 1922.

Another reason is the Yankees are well rested after having clinched the American League pennant on Sept. 25. The Giants, of course, had a hard pull, needing three playoff games to win the NL pennant, after trailing the Dodgers since July 8.

Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants did not appear worried over the Yankees' physical and statistical edge.

★ ★ ★

"The Yankees' rest doesn't make too much of a difference, I don't think," Dark said. "I'm more concerned about my pitching staff. I would have liked for my starting pitchers to have had more rest."

SAME LINEUP

Dark said he planned to use the same line-up that defeated the Dodgers Wednesday. His only changes will be in the batting order where he said he would move Jim Davenport up from seventh to second and drop Chuck Hiller from second to eighth. Ed Bailey would bat sixth and Jose Pagan seventh.

"If O'Dell says he feels all right, he's my opening pitcher," Dark said. "I want to open with him, then follow with Jack Sanford (a right-hander) here Friday and have Billy Pierce (a left-hander) ready for the third game in Yankee Stadium on Sunday."

The probable line-ups:

Congress Eager to OK Trade Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bent on adjournment by Saturday, the House quickly passed a compromise trade expansion act today and turned its attention to a postal rate increase-federal employes pay raise bill.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress was geared to send to President Kennedy his far-ranging trade act today in a drive to close the 1962 session by Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Both the Senate and House convene two hours early to plunge into calendars crowded with last-minute business.

★ ★ ★

The House acts first on the compromise trade bill which gives the President all of the unprecedented powers he sought to slash and eliminate tariffs, and to work out broad economic arrangements with the European Common Market.

★ ★ ★

The Senate is expected to follow suit promptly. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., assistant Democratic leader, said passage of the legislation will be the crowning achievement of this Congress.

2 OTHER ITEMS

Two other major items are just about wrapped up for the trip to the White House:

The combined bill raising postal rates $605 million a year, including a penny rise on letters, and increasing pay of 1.6 million federal workers.

The measure placing stricter controls on the manufacture and sale of prescription drugs.

★ ★ ★

The compromise versions of both cleared the Senate Wednesday. The House is scheduled to complete action today on the postal rates-federal pay legislation and possibly the drug bill.

★ ★ ★

Despite these developments, leaders kept their fingers crossed over the prospects of adjournment this weekend.

★ ★ ★

They said privately these three things, or any one of them, might hold the legislators here into next week:

1. The foreign aid money bill, for which the Senate voted $792 million more than the House. This is the most important remaining measure on which the two branches have not yet agreed. Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., house delegation chief, said he would battle the higher Senate appropriation.

★ ★ ★

2. The bill to permit self-employed persons to set up tax-deductible pension funds, now on Kennedy's desk. He has not said whether he will veto it. Unless word is forthcoming soon, Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said he would try to attach it as a rider to the last supplemental money bill.

DEADLOCKED

3. The agriculture money bill. This has been deadlocked for weeks in conference over research funds and a proposed peanut marketing research laboratory at Dawson, Ga. Sen. Richard B. Russell, Da-Ga., chief Senate conferee, told a reporter this was a most serious dispute. House conferees may seek new instructions today.

★ ★ ★

The Senate plans today to act on a bill authorizing $3.5 billion for rivers and harbors and flood control work. The house passed a $2.25 billion version of this Wednesday. Both contain projects in all parts of the nation.

Daisy Now a Big Girl Hurricane

By The Associated Press

Daisy, a flighty mass of swirling winds that nearly blew itself out over the weekend, swelled to hurricane force overnight and aimed toward the Florida peninsula.

Forecasters said the storm packed winds of up to 75 miles per hour near the center. Gales reached out 250 miles to the east and north and 50 miles to the southwest of center, churning up seas angry enough to keep small craft in port as far away as the Bahamas.

Daisy's center was located at latitude 24.5 north, longitude 68.0 west, approximately 775 miles east of Miami. The storm was moving west northwest at about 8 or 9 miles per hour.

Forecasters said the storm would continue to increase slightly and slowly and maintain its present course and speed for the next 24 hours.

More showers pestered the East Coast today, already soggy after three days of off-and-on rains.

Heaviest hit was the state of Virginia. State police reported most roads in northern Princess Anna County were under water after Wednesday's thorough soaking.

Norfolk, Va., caught three inches of rainfall in six hours. Elsewhere, the rains were largely light and confined to the eastern half of the nation, where drizzle and fog drifted down again today.

It was another sun-warmed autumn day for much of the rest of the country, with temperatures remaining seasonal.

Area Man Gossett Will Lead Campaign

DETROIT (AP) — William T. Gossett, retired vice president and general counsel of Ford Motor Co., has been elected chairman of the board of directors of the United Negro College Fund.

Gossett, 420 Goodhue Road, Bloomfield Hills, has been connected with the fund for a dozen years as a trustee of two of the member institutions, Atlanta University and Morehouse College.

He heads the executive committee in Michigan which conducts the annual statewide appeal for funds.

MAN IN DEMAND — Following his successful six-orbit space shot and successful recovery yesterday, Walter M. Schirra received three phone calls aboard the carrier USS Kearsarge. One was from President Kennedy, one came from Vice President Johnson and then he talked to his wife in Houston, Tex.

Schirra Tells Story of 'Perfect' Flight

breakfast hour—7:15 a.m. EST. He traveled about 160,000 miles, and then went aboard the carrier before lunch had been served.

★ ★ ★

For a brief time during that 9 hours and 13 minutes Schirra encountered a minor problem when his space suit's heating system became too warm. This condition fas subsequently corrected.

But Walter B. Williams, operations officer of Project Mercury, said in Cape Canaveral that the flight "as far as I'm concerned, was perfect."

Both he and Schirra's fellow astronaut Donald Slayton said a highly significant result was Schirra's ability to let his two-ton, bell-shaped capsule drift uncontrolled through a full orbit and one-half without difficulty.

He thereby conserved control fuel and as a result had 80 per cent of the fuel left in the manual and automatic control systems when he was in position to fire the braking rockets at the conclusion of his flight.

Another favorable result was the fact that Schirra could align his capsule easily, after drifting for a long period. He did this by using reference marks on the capsule window.

This will permit removal of the periscope, Williams said, to make room for 75 pounds of additional oxygen and fuel for a future U.S. space venture, the 24-hour orbital flight.

★ ★ ★

The 24-hour flight is planned for early next year. After that would come two-man orbits with the Gemini space capsule, followed by a landing on the moon before 1970.

Another of Schirra's fellow astronauts, John Glenn, said Schirra "could possibly have gone for six more orbits with more fuel and oxygen." Glenn manned a mercury tracking station at Pt. Arguello, Calif.

By contrast to Schirra's orbital ride, the water journey of less than 1,000 miles to Honolulu, under way today, will take about 72 hours, or eight times as long as the Sigma 7 cruise.

His spacecraft parachuted into the water 285 miles northeast of Midway Island at 4:28 p.m. EST.

A whaleboat from the Kearsarge took him in tow, and at 5:08 p.m. EST, a winch lifted Sigma 7 and its pilot aboard the carrier. By the clocks on the Kearsarge it was 11:08 a.m. — about time for the first noon mess call.

As the first space traveler to return to earth thousands of miles from his takeoff point, Schirra actually completed about 5¾ orbits rather than six.

The astronaut attained a peak altitude of 176 miles — higher than that of any other space traveler except the Soviet Union's 187-mile-high Yuri Gagarin.

Obviously enjoying himself all the while, he convulsed his teammates on the ground with his jaunty responses to their communications.

With all the gaiety, Schirra remained what all the astronauts have been trained to be — a space scientist, a technical observer.

D. Brainerd Holmes, director of the lunar exploration program for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said, "This was a hugely successful flight, magnificently performed.

"It proved that there is no substitute for sound engineering and thorough training.

"This is a real step forward. It is also evidence that we will not be pushed into going too fast—that we will go as fast as possible."

U. S. to Allies: Kill Cuba Trade

Asks Nations Tighten Curbs on Shipping

LONDON (AP)—The United States has called on seven European maritime nations to impose tighter curbs on their shipping with Cuba and thus limit the build-up of Fidel Castro's power.

The foreign office confirmed today that Britain received new proposals on the subject Tuesday from the U. S. State Department.

But a spokesman told newsmen details of the American approach must remain secret. He said exchanges are still going on. They are expected to be discussed formally soon by the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Paris.

Other countries approached besides Britain are West Germany, Italy, Greece, Norway, Denmark and Sweden. The only non-NATO nation among them is Sweden.

Among the measures under study by President Kennedy's administration is a move to bar any ships carrying war-potential goods to Cuba from entering American ports.

Two difficulties evidently have arisen in Washington's exchanges on the matter with its allies:

1. Not all the Allies agree that Cuba has irrevocably entered the Communist bloc.

2. There is no generally accepted definition of what can be classified as strategic goods.

Fruehauf Bids Again to Get Free of Charge

Oakland County trailer magnate Roy Fruehauf is standing trial for the second time on a charge that he and four other truckers illegally gave $700,000 to former Teamster Chief Dave Beck.

Fruehauf is one of the defendants in a New York federal court trial of Beck, charged with violating the Taft-Hartley Law by accepting an employer's money.

Fruehauf had won dismissal of charges against him in 1960 when he contended the $700,000 given to Beck was a loan and not a gift.

However, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1961 that Beck and five trucking employers, including Fruehauf, could be prosecuted in the $200,000 exchange.

The decision reinstated the proceedings dismissed on Feb. 19, 1960, by Federal District Court Judge Sidney Sugarman of New York.

Defense attorney Louis Nizer, lawyer for Fruehauf, said he would repeat Fruehauf's 1960 defense before a New York jury of seven men and five women.

Nizer told the jury that Fruehauf had arranged the loan out of gratitude to the Teamsters and Beck.

In an earlier period, Nizer said, when Fruehauf was fighting for control of the Fruehauf Trailer Co. of Detroit, Beck arranged for the Teamsters to lend the executive $1.5 million.

The loan later was repaid with interest, Nizer said.

Tour of State Ready for JFK

Swainson, Staebler to Join President

DETROIT (AP) — President Kennedy is scheduled to arrive at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport at 7 p.m. tomorrow to begin a 19½-hour politicking sweep through Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy's tour plans call for Gov. Swainson and Neil Staebler, Democratic nominee for congressman-at-large, to be with him every foot of the way across the state.

After an overnight stop at the Sheraton-Cadillac hotel in Detroit, Kennedy will make a brief speech in Washington Boulevard before his hotel at 10:55 a.m. Saturday, then depart for Detroit City Airport.

Departure time from City Airport is 11:50 a.m.. He will go to Flint by helicopter, arriving on the campus of the Michigan School for the Deaf at 12:50 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The rest of the President's schedule follows:

Flint Municipal Center for 10-minute speech, 1:05 p.m.

Motorcade to Bishop Airport at Flint, 1:30 p.m.

Depart at 2:00 p.m. for Muskegon.

Arrive Muskegon Airport at 2:50 p.m.

Depart, after airport speech, at 3:30 p.m. for Minneapolis.

Michigan Democratic leaders say the President has promised a return visit to Michigan for more politicking before the Nov. 6 election.

President Victim of Autumn Sneezes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is suffering from a head cold and has canceled his schedule for the day, a White House spokesman announced at midmorning.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger described Kennedy's ailment as "a minor upper respiratory infection."

Adm. George W. Burkley, assistant White House physician, examined the President this morning and recommended that he stay in his living quarters at the executive mansion.

The White House said Kennedy's temperature and pulse are normal.

The Day in Bloomfield Hills

Postpone Discussion of Prayer Policy

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — School Supt. Eugene L. Johnson today said that discussion of the permissive prayer policy has been postponed, possible until Nov. 20, by the Bloomfield Hills Board of Education.

★ ★ ★

Legality of the policy adopted in January originally was scheduled to be discussed at the board's next meeting on Oct. 16.

However, Johnson said the board asked that the issue be removed from this month's agenda because there is a possibility that several of its members will not be present at the meeting.

Johnson explained that the school officials want to review the policy only when the full seven-member board is represented.

The legality of the policy has been questioned by Stratton Brown, attorney for the school district, after the board had asked him to review it in light of a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling on school prayers.

★ ★ ★

Brown has indicated that it "would probably be permitted" under the high court decision.

The policy provides that "teachers may at appropriate times, in the presence of their students, orally thank God for the blessings that surround us and ask His help and guidance."

The school superintendent said he expects that board members will want to meet informally with Brown sometime after this month's meeting.

★ ★ ★

No action would be taken at any informal meeting, said Johnson, and the matter will be aired publicly sometime next month.

Johnson said the issue probably will be on the agenda for the Nov. 20 board meeting.

The first fall meeting of the Wayne State University Alumnae Club of Birmingham will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Reynolds Aluminum Co. building, Northland Drive at Northwestern Highway, Southfield.

Dr. Marvin Revzin, professor of oral surgery at the University of Detroit and a member of the Henry Ford Hospital staff, will describe his tour of duty aboard the goodwill hospital ship HOPE.

"Birmingham Schools Up to Date" is the topic of a speech to be given by Birmingham School Supt. Dr. Otis M. Dickey next Wednesday to the local branch of the American Association of University Women.

★ ★ ★

The superintendent will discuss federal aid to education, the building program of a rapidly expanding school system and qualifications for hiring and promotion of Birmingham teachers.

His talk will follow the association's 12:30 p.m. luncheon in the Birmingham Community House.

540 Eggs No Yolk to Woman

"Wow, I've been in super markets that didn't have that many eggs on the shelf."

This was Mrs. John Milliken's reaction when she opened her front door last night and found 540 eggs on the front porch.

Mrs. Milliken, of 506 Lakeside St., Waterford Township was spending a quiet evening at home when she thought she heard a car pull up on her driveway.

A few moments later she heard it drive away and went to the front door to investigate. "I was dumbfounded when I opened the door and saw all those eggs," she exclaimed.

★ ★ ★

Thinking they may have been stolen property, she called police who picked up the two large cartons and launched an investigation. The case was quickly solved.

The 45 dozen eggs, destined for delivery to the home of a milkman living on the corner of Riviera and Motorway streets, were inadvertently dropped off at the Milliken residence on the corner of Riviera and Lakeside, just a block away.

Red Nuclear Might Stressed by Paper

MOSCOW (UPI) — The government publication Izvestia said last night Russian forces in Germany could deal a "smashing blow" to any aggressor in Berlin, apparently hinting that they are equipped to use nuclear weapons.

The Izvestia article was the first formal Soviet response to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's recent indication that the United States would use nuclear weapons if necessary to defend West Berlin.

★ ★ ★

"The Soviet Union has means . . . to give a smashing blow to the aggressor . . ." Izvestia said. "Soviet forces in the (Communist) East German Republic have everything necessary to smash those who dare to encroach on its sovereignty."

Hospital Fund Drive Nears

The fund-raising campaign for construction of $1.4-million community hospital in western Oakland County will start Oct. 15, it was announced today.

★ ★ ★

Although no exact site has been chosen for the proposed 100-bed hospital, the board of directors of the nonprofit Huron Valley Community Hospital Association have decided that it will be located somewhere on the perimeter of Milford.

The coordinator of the project, John Ripplinger of Professional Facilities Corp. of Hazel Park, said the directors also have named Detroit architect Victor J. Basso to design the facility.

Ripplinger said a representative from Burrill, Inc., of Kansas City, Mo., will arrive here in two weeks to take charge of the campaign.

The Kansas City firm is a professional fund-raising concern.

To help finance construction of the hospital, the board of directors will sell hospital association membership cards for $1 per year or $10 for life memberships.

In January, a permanent board of directors will be elected from those who have purchased memberships, Ripplinger said.

The present board members anticipate ground breaking for the new facility late next spring in order to have it opened by May 1964.

Ripplinger said association members searched from Pontiac to Howell and from Ann Arbor to Flint in order to find the best location for the hospital.

He said the Milford area was chosen because of the availability of sewer facilities and since it is in the center of the area to be served by the hospital.

Tentative plans call for the facility to include three major operating rooms, a fracture and cystoscopy room, two delivery rooms with corresponding nurseries, two diagnostic X-ray suites, a laboratory and pharmacy and a physical therapy department.

★ ★

Both medical doctors and osteopaths would practice there, said Ripplinger.

WILL BE EXPANDABLE

Ripplinger said the hospital would be built so that it could be expanded to 200 beds in the future.

The coordinator explained that the permanent population of the area to be served in Western Oakland County and Eastern Livingston County presently is about 492,000.

Added to this total are approximately 13,000 summer residents and an average 20,000 persons per day who visit the area's recreational facilities during the summer.

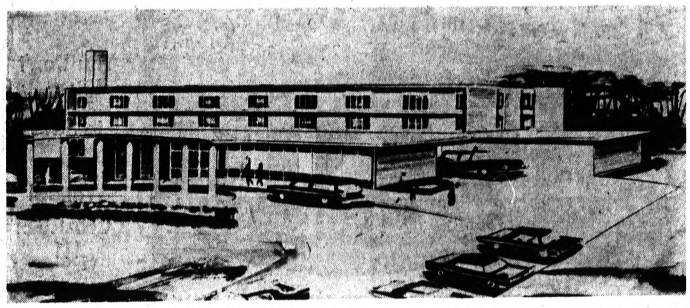
★ ★ ★

Those population figures are expected to double by 1970, according to Ripplinger.

He added that the board of directors currently is seeking a larger site than the 10 acres northeast of Milford donated for the hospital by Dr. W. D. Hackett of 1660 Cooley Lake Road, Milford Township.

★ ★ ★

Ripplinger said the board is looking for a hospital site of about 15 or 20 acres.



PROPOSED HOSPITAL — Shown here is an artist's conception of the proposed 100-bed general hospital planned by the nonprofit Huron Valley Community Hospital Association. Ground breaking for the new facility is expected to take place next spring at a site near Milford. It will be built to serve residents in western Oakland County and in the extreme eastern section of Livingston County.

Area Family, Girl Honored by Oakland Farm Bureau

A Novi family and a Northville girl were chosen as outstanding representatives of the Oakland County Farm Bureau at the organization's annual meeting last night in Davisburg.

★ ★

Selected as the group's "Family of the Year" were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erwin of 40401 W. 10 Mile Road.

Named "Miss Oakland County Farm Bureau" for 1962 was 19-year-old Joyce Balko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Balko of 52730 W. Eight Mile Road, Northville.

Miss Balko, an office employe at University Hospital, Ann Arbor, is a former 4-H Club member and a graduate of Cleary College, Ypsilanti.

★ ★ ★

She will represent Oakland County in competition for the "Miss Michigan Farm Bureau" title at the state convention in Lansing Nov. 7-9.

The Erwins, parents of three children, own and operate a 450-acre fruit farm in Novi.

AF VETERAN

Erwin, an Air Force veteran who attended Michigan State University, is a director of the Michigan Horticultural Society and president of the Eastern Michigan Horticultural Society.

He is also a newly appointed member of the Wholesale Distribution Center Development Committee in Detroit and a former Novi Board of Education member.

★ ★ ★

Erwin was one of two new directors elected to the Farm Bureau Board by the 200 members who attended last night's dinner-meeting in the Davisburg Eastern Star Hall.

The other new director is Alden Mills of 610 N. Ortonville Road, Groveland Township.

Re-elected to the board were Edward Bourns of 27915 Martindale Road, Lyon Township; Mrs. William Scramlin of 3694 Jossman Road, Groveland Township and Carlton Crawford of 2535 S. Hill Road, Milford Township.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

Two resolutions were passed by the Oakland County unit for consideration by the Michigan Farm Bureau at its convention next month.

One asked that longer warning notice be given at railroad crossings in the county.

★ ★ ★

The other was a request to have the state organization study the farm personal tax, which covers livestock, tractors and other farm equipment.

County members said they believe there may be inequities in the tax since it is not uniform in all townships.

Farm Program Pushed

LANSING (AP) — Citing a need for "quick action" because agricultural hazards threaten Michigan's farm industry, Gov. Swainson has proposed a farm program that includes:

★ ★ ★

Tax relief for farmers, an agricultural contingency fund, a consumer protection program for farmers, and increased promotion of Michigan's farm products.

The governor said his 1962 property tax relief program, which was killed by the legislature, would have relieved what he termed "the increasing serious tax burden on farmers."

The agricultural contingency fund, would be used in the battle against insect pests and plant and animal diseases brought to Michigan by St. Lawrence Seaway trade and from adjoining states, Swainson said.

The fund would be used in emergencies that could not wait for legislative appropriations.

The consumer protection program for farmers, he said, would be designed to assure farmers that the seeds, fertilizers, and pesticides they purchase have met state standards.

Swainson foresaw a savings of $750,000 a year to taxpayers if a uniform dairy inspection program were adopted, including a consolidation of all state regulations pertaining to the dairy industry under one agency.

Aiming at increased promotion of farm products, Swainson made these suggestions:

The development of a permanent farm exposition to advertise Michigan agriculture, a substantial increase in the matching appropriation for advertising and a new marketing program designed to provide farmers with more adequate and current market information.

Defer Housing Rezoning of $2 Million

Rezoning requests for housing developments worth $2 million were deferred for a month last night by the Pontiac Planning Commission.

Both proposed developments involve East Side property which currently lies mostly vacant.

★ ★ ★

One request was for rezoning of a 30-acre parcel bounded by East Boulevard, Michigan and Tasmania avenues and the Clinton River from Residential-1 (R1) to R3.

The request was made by Standard Building Products Co., of Detroit, who proposed to build a "garden-type town house" development on the site.

The second request was for rezoning of some 158 lots in South Park Subdivision, on the Northeast corner of South and East boulevards from R2 and R3 to R1.

SINGLE FAMILY

That request came from Summit Building Co. of Huntington Woods, seeking to build single-family dwellings on the property but which cannot get Federal Housing Administration (FHA) financing unless all the lots are zoned R1.

Representing Standard Building Products Co., Morris Brown told planning commissioners his firm plans to apply for a mortgage commitment under Section 221 (d3) of the Federal Housing Act recently approved by Congress.

He said the developers couldn't get any commitment for the special FHA financing until the land is rezoned for multifamily housing. It is now restricted to use for single-family dwellings.

★ ★ ★

Brown said the D3 program placed only a 3¼ per cent interest rate on mortgages and thus allowed for low down payments and rent payments by tenants.

He said preliminary plans are to construct a maximum of 30 buildings with up to 200 family housing units. The "buildings" would be "attractive homes connected by common walls."

He estimated the average cost at roughly $10,000 per unit with the entire project run as a cooperative.

"Our maximum rent estimates would range from $65 per month for a one-bedroom unit to $95 for a four-bedroom unit." Brown said.

"The whole program," he emphasized, "is designed for people who couldn't otherwise afford homes of this quality and for communities where there are urban renewal projects and a need to find low-priced, decent housing for displaced persons."

Several planning commissioners expressed doubt the project would succeed on the basis that other multi-family dwellings in that area with $50-per-month rent were vacant now.

Mayor Robert Landry, an ex-officio member of the commission, said he felt "we should wait and use urban renewal land for such developments before talking about other housing projects.

"We have six blocks of urban renewal land that will soon be ment, but we have no emergency need for housing in which to relocate people."

In the other request, James Ginn, attorney representing Summit Building Co., and one of the owners, Abe Friedman, said they must "either use or sell the land."

Ginn said the owners had been holding the land for four years waiting for sewage service in the area and for needed action on rezoning.

He said they're prepared to begin building immediately "50 or 60 one-family homes in the $9-to-$10,000 price range that can presently get a sewer hookup."

Friedman said he couldn't bear the cost of the land lying dormant any longer. "I've been waiting eight months for city planners and Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce officials to find me a party interested in industrial use of the land. I can't afford to wait any longer."

★ ★ ★

The property is tabbed as ideal for industrial use in Pontiac's general development plan, and planners indicated they would like to see it used that way.

During the past 20 years the number of pupils transported to and from school buildings at public expense has increased by 350 per cent.

3 Teens Flee to W. Berlin in Darkness

BERLIN (UPI) — Three teenagers escaped to West Berlin today from East Germany, West Berlin police reported.

★ ★ ★

The three, all 16 years old, climbed through the barbed wire on the northern border of the city under cover of darkness.

A fourth refugee told police he had fought hand-to-hand with a Communist guard before successfully fleeing through the barbed wire on the western edge of Berlin.

Two men were arrested in midmorning by East German police as they came within 15 yards of the border on the extreme southern edge of the city.

★ ★ ★

Communist guards backed by armored cars and a water cannon, meanwhile, continued to wall up an unfinished refugee tunnel under the wall.

The longest, driest coastal desert in the world stretches along the Pacific littoral of Peru and northern Chile. Several weather stations in the area have recorded no rainfall for 20 years. But torrential rains sometimes fall in places, literally melting clusters of baked-mud houses.

MSUO Sees Enrollment Hike of 200

A total of 1,226 students is registered at Michigan State University Oakland this fall, an increase of 200 over last fall, the registrar's office announced.

The record enrollment is nearly 150 less than the earlier forecast of 1,400 students this fall.

However, both of the University's two dormitories are filled to capacity for a total of nearly 200 students, limiting on-campus resident enrollment.

Enlarged resident enrollment is expected to be feasible by next fall, when the new Pryale Dormitory is to be completed for another 100 students.

They said: "If you are reading this sign, you are driving recklessly. Keep your eyes on the road."

To protect the ships off American shores, the coast guard maintains over 50,000 aids to navigation — lightships, bouys, beacons, fog signals.

Flint Schools Censor Junior College Weekly

FLINT (UPI) — Publication of the weekly Flint Junior College newspaper has been ordered suspended by the head of the city school system.

Lawrence Jarvie, general superintendent of schools, said he was delaying publication of "College Clamor" until he and aides decide on "what the purpose of a college paper should be."

Jarvie said the suspension was not prompted by any one article. He expressed concern that the paper had been commenting on matters not connected with the school.

"This is not an independent paper in the sense that it is a business," he said. "It is financed from tuition fees, and we feel that perhaps the editors need a policy decision on where to draw the line."

Sentenced for Stealing Cache of Cold Cash

MARION, Ill. (UPI) — Bobby L. Carpenter, 21, was sentenced to prison yesterday for taking $11,000 from the freezing compartment of a refrigerator.

James A. Gentry said he used the cold cache for his cash because pest control workmen were scheduled to inspect his old hiding place — beneath his mother-in-law's house.

Theres' Cheese for Every Taste

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Have you ever stopped to think that most of the cheese we eat was developed in the Old World? There are only 5 varieties which originated in the United States. They include Brick, Cream Liederkranz, Monterey or Monterey Jack and Nuworld.

As an American industry cheese making is only a little over a hundred years old. A man named Jesse Williams started a small cheese factory in his farm buildings near Rome, New York to help himself and the neighbors through a period of depression. In the beginning the output was four cheeses a day, each weighing 150 pounds.

All of the above leads up to the fact that October is Cheese Festival Time. It's a good time to get acquainted with some new cheese recipes.

Cream cheese is an excellent cheese to keep in your refrigerator. With fewer calories than butter, it can serve as an interesting spread for your morning toast. Used as the shortening in chocolate frosting, it imparts a smooth tang to said frosting. And it makes dips.

Here's one you can serve on meatless days.

Egg-Olive Dip

1 8-ounce package softened cream cheese
½ cup sour cream
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons minced onion
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon chopped chives, fresh or frozen
3 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped

Beat cream cheese until smooth and fluffy, stir in remaining ingredients in order given; refrigerate until serving time. If desired sprinkle with a few extra chives for garnish. Makes 2 cups.

Now that they are in the swing of fall activities, busy homemakers look for simple dishes they can prepare in the morning and pop into the oven when they reach home in the afternoon. Such a dish is Crab and Cheese Casserole. It makes use of the most popular cheese, Cheddar.

This is a casserole fine enough for special guests.

Crab and Cheese Casserole

1 8-ounce package medium cut noodles
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups (2 7½-oz. cans; crab meat, flaked
2 cups (½-lb.) shredded Cheddar cheese
1 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained
1-3 cup chopped pimiento
1-3 cup slivered almonds, toasted
1-3 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Cook noodles according to package directions; drain. In a saucepan melt butter; blend in flour. Gradually add milk; cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens; add salt and pepper.

Combine crab meat, 2 cups cheese, mushrooms, pimiento and almonds; add noodles and white sauce; blend thoroughly. Pour into casserole; sprinkle top with 1-3 cup cheese. Bake 40-45 minutes in 350 degree oven. Makes 8 servings.

Another do-ahead food makes use of packaged biscuits and cubes of cheese. These Cheddar surprises might be served at any meal. Be sure they're really hot when you bring them to the table.

Cheddar Surprises

Remove ready-to-bake package biscuits from package, roll flat with rolling pin, place a 1-inch cube of cheese in the center of each biscuit and fold sides of biscuit over to "hide" the cheese. Bake according to package instructions and serve piping hot. These can be readied ahead of time, refrigerated and then baked as needed.

Chopped Parsley Coats Balls of Liver Sausage

A new trick for the hors d'oeuvres tray is always nice when company is coming. A clever suggestion is Liver Sausage on Sticks.

For each, shape 1 tablespoon of liver sausage into a round ball. Then dip each ball in chopped parsley and insert 1 straight, thin pretzel stick. Pass them around . . . they won't last long!

A honeymoon, says the cynic, is a vacation you pay for the rest of your life. . . . Women not only drive as well as men, but they can do it from either side of the road.

Comfortable chairs are worn out by hard use. Only the uncomfortable ones survive to become antiques.—Earl Wilson.

Molded Mashed Potato Salad

You probably have your own pet way of making potato salad, but this molded mashed potato salad is a delicious innovation.

Made in a ring mold it's particularly easy to serve and lends itself nicely to being the main dish.

Molded Mashed Potato Salad

½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups water
1 envelope instant mashed potato (or enough for 4 servings)
1 tall can evaporated milk (1 2-3 cups)
½ cup water
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1-3 cup sweet pickle relish
¾ cup chopped celery
¼ cup prepared mustard

Add salt to the 1½ cups water in a medium saucepan and bring to a boil. Stir in instant potato quickly but thoroughly. Slowly blend in evaporated milk. Set aside to cool. Place the ½ cup water in a custard cup and sprinkle gelatin over. Let stand 5 minutes to soften. Place custard cup in a small pan of hot water and set over low heat until gelatin is dissolved.

Stir gelatin into cooled potato mixture and chill until almost set. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into a well-oiled 5-cup ring mold. Chill until set, about 2 to 3 hours. Set mold in warm water 1 to 2 minutes for ease in unmolding salad. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

ROBUST EATING—Crab, cheddar cheese, pimiento and toasted almonds blend flavorfully to make this noodle casserole dish extra good. Cheese Festival Month is a good time to try it.

Tokay Grapes Go Into Muffins

The finest fragrance in the world to many folks is that of ripening grapes. The heavy scent hangs over the vineyards during the ripening season, and also surrounds the lugs and baskets of grapes in the produce markets.

The white grape is called Thompson Seedless, and the red variety most common now is called Tokay, or Flame Tokay. A little later, there will be another red variety called Emperor.

These California grapes, which actually originated in Europe, are not the kind you want for jelly or juice, but if you like grapes that are sweet, juicy, refreshing, then Thompsons and Tokays are for you.

Many wise homemakers, realizing their families fondness for the delicious and satisfying flavor of grapes will convert them into other forms as appetizing menu enchanters. Here's a recipe for Sweet Tokay Muffins that's bound to please:

Sift together 1½ cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. Add ¼ cup melted shortening. Mix in 1 egg, ⅔ cup chopped seeded Tokay grapes with juice. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake 20 minutes in 400 degree oven.

Kidney Beans, Canned Tuna Make a Salad

Have you ever tried this Italian way with tuna and white beans? It may be served as a salad or an hors d'oeuvre.

Italian-Style Salad

1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) white kidney beans
1 can (7 ounces) solid white-meat tuna
3 tablespoons olive oil
3 tablespoons wine vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
4 scallions (green onions) finely chopped with tops included
Salad greens and sliced tomatoes

Drain kidney beans into a strainer; rinse well with cold water and drain again; turn into a shallow container. Drain tuna lightly and add to kidney beans, separating into rather large pieces.

At one side of container, beat together with a fork the oil, vinegar, salt and pepper; mix gently with beans and tuna. Cover and refrigerate for a few hours to allow flavors to blend.

Serve on salad greens; sprinkle with scallions and garnish with tomatoes. Makes 4 large servings.

Fermenting Grapes Overcome Pair in Italy

ASTI, Italy (AP)—The bodies of Celestino Imarisio, 55, and his wife, Caterina, 44, were found in the cellar of their home here.

Police said today they apparently had gone into the cellar to do some work and were overcome by the fumes from grapes fermenting in several wine vats.

A gravity device has been developed to spot subsurface cavities before they can cause the collapse of city streets. The device consists of a small weight spring-hooked to a meter that is viewed through a microscope. The pull of gravity is said to be less — by a tiny amount — over the cavities.

Jailed Walker in High Spirits

Held for Mental Exam; Release Is Sought

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Former Army Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker remained in high spirits today while his attorneys fought a legal battle to end his "political" confinement at a federal institution here.

He was held on a federal court order for psychiatric examination.

A writ of habeas corpus petition was filed in U.S. District Court here yesterday but Judge John Oliver delayed setting a hearing.

Walker's widowed mother, Mrs. George P. Walker of Center Point, Tex., said she had been with her son and that he was in "good spirits."

When asked if her son acted strangely or appeared changed mentally, she replied courteously but firmly in deep Southern tones: "No, that I'll verify."

Clyde Watts of Oklahoma City, Walker's attorney, said the imprisoned ex-officer was "in complete possession of all mental faculties."

Mrs. Walker said that Walker had not undergone any psychiatric treatment and it was her understanding that his permission was required before such action could be taken.

Rep. Bruce Alger, R-Tex., charged yesterday in Washington that Walker was being denied his constitutional rights and was part of "what appears to be a deliberate conspiracy."

City Commission Hears Updated Building Code

A new and updated building code was introduced at Tuesday night's City Commission meeting and has been scheduled for a second reading and adoption next Tuesday.

The city has been operating under the 1950 version of the Basic Code of the Building Officials Conference of America.

The proposed new ordinance is the 1962 version of that code. Basically, it is the 1950 version with certain amendments and refinements.

It is a standard code adopted in most cities. The updated code was brought in for adoption at the request of commissioners.

Roman Catholic Circle of Authority May Widen

(Editor's Note — Will Rome's tight grip on the ecclesiastical affairs of the world be relaxed in the Vatican Council sessions beginning next week? There are some indications that it will be. Here is the second article of three on the meeting.)

By GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

NEW YORK — The circle of authority in the Roman Catholic Church has alternately widened or narrowed through the centuries.

Today, it appears on the verge of a potential historic expansion.

Although its center is Rome, see of the chief apostle Peter, it also includes the far-spread ecclesiastical heritage of the other apostles, and those perpetuating it around the world.

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS

It is their inclusion with in the circumference of supreme church government that is highlighted by the 2nd Vatican Council, starting Oct. 11 in Rome, which may widen church authority.

★ ★ ★

Such action would help bridge the main chasm between Roman Catholicism and other branches of Christianity which dispute Rome's full jurisdiction.

"The extent to which power is centralized in the Church is capable of change from one age to another," says Auxiliary Bishop Thomas Riley, of Boston. "It is quite possible that, in our own day, the tendency toward centralization may be reversed."

SHARED AUTHORITY

This would not mean diminishing the primacy of the Pope, but it would involve fuller specific recognition that his authority is shared by the whole Church leadership.

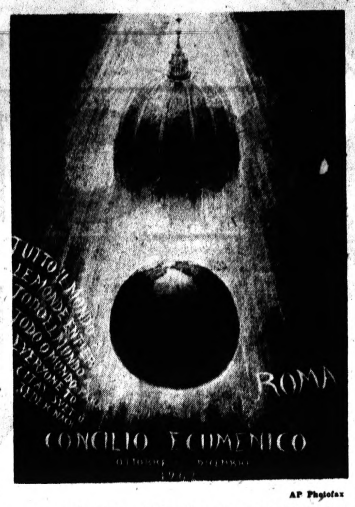
The very fact of Pope John XXIII's calling of the council implies as much.

Nevertheless, proposals for definitive developments along this line seem likely to encounter controversy. Some Latin and Spanish bishops, as well as some of the Curia, the Vatican's predominantly Italian administrative staff, are strongly protective about Rome's consumate authority.

★ ★ ★

However, many of the German, French and North American bishops see room for a more inclusive interpretation.

The council is the first since another Vatican Council 92 years ago, which defined the doctrine of papal infallibility on matters of faith and morals.



AP Photofax

VATICAN POSTER — This is the poster sponsored by Italian tourist agency, ENIT, intended for world distribution. It shows a ray of light illuminating a drawing of the dome of St. Peter's Basilica above a drawing of the globe. It will be distributed in seven languages.

COMPLETES TREND

The fixing of that dogma in 1870 culminated a trend toward Church centralization. It began with the Council of Trent in 1545-1563, called to counter the breakups caused by the Protestant Reformation.

★ ★ ★

After papal infallibility was defined, some thought no more councils would be needed, or held. The dogma epitomized the consolidation movement.

★ ★ ★

However, when it was proclaimed, the intentions were to expand on it, with fuller interpretation, but this was prevented when the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian War prematurely halted the council.

★ ★ ★

The 1869-'70 Vatican Council, notes Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, defined "the position and powers of the supreme pontiff. The 2nd Vatican Council must now do the same thing in delineating with new insight the position and authority of the bishops."

INFLUENCE FOR LAYMAN

There also are possibilities that laymen may be accorded more influence in Church affairs. A return to the early Christian system of electing bishops has been suggested, with choices subject to papal approval.

★ ★ ★

However, many of the Protestant trends today reflect a more Catholic concept of the church as the earthly instrument of Christ's continuing, sure direction.

It may be, on the other hand, that the 2nd Vatican Council will reflect a wider human sphere of His authoritative activity.

Your best reasons for choosing Vigran multi-vitamins

They learn from their earliest days—from your very care of them—that vitamins are "good for them." Later, in school, they learn why.

But not until much later do they come to know why the name Vigran is such a symbol of assurance in the purchase of vitamins. And the reason is—Vigran is the name of the multi-vitamin preparation from Squibb, and Squibb is one of the best known and respected names in the pharmaceutical industry.

Squibb rigid quality control, including more than 200 quality control tests, is designed to assure you that every Vigran capsule has the full label potency when you take it as it had when it was tested at the laboratory.

This is the reason so many people buy Vigran. And what better reason could you have than your family itself—for whom you naturally want the very best.

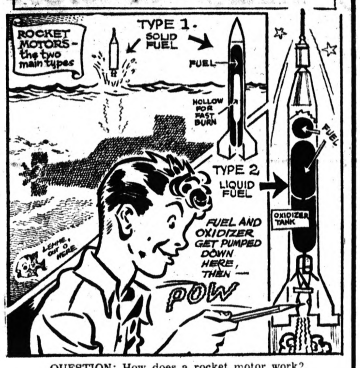
Junior Editors Quiz on ROCKETS



QUESTION: How does a rocket motor work?

ANSWER: Rockets work on the same principle as that used in jet engines: fuel is burned inside a combustion chamber with an open end, out of which the exhaust gases rush. This pushes the jet or rocket ahead. Jets need outer air; but rockets have their own oxygen supply.

Two types of rocket motors are used. In one, solid fuels such as resin, rubber and asphalt are stored inside and when ignited shoot out exhaust gases to the rear.

The Polaris missiles used by our atomic submarines are of this type; they can be stored in a firing position and shot up through the water by a blast of compressed air. Then the rocket engine ignites and the missile can sail through the air for 1200 miles.

The second type of rocket has liquid fuel and an "oxidizer," stored in separate tanks. These are pumped together when needed and ignited. This is the type of rocket being used in our exploration of outer space.

The one we show has several "stages" which can detach and put a satellite into orbit, after the main "booster" rocket has done it's job.

FOR YOU TO DO: Are these two types of motors the only ones to be used in the future? Probably not; electric and atomic rockets are being considered, even "antimatter" rockets. Watch the newspapers for the most recent developments.

Mail your question on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Pontiac Press.

CAPSULE RESCUE OPERATION — A three-pronged Navy rescue operation swings into action yesterday to bring astronaut Walter Schirra and his spacecraft Sigma 7 safely aboard the deck of the carrier Kearsarge. A Navy frogman fastens a flotation collar around the capsule, a helicopter hovers overhead and a whaleboat crew races to the capsule to attach a line to it.

Space Era Blooming

By JOHN BARBOUR

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Buttressed by Walter M. Schirra Jr.'s space success, the United States expects:

To send at least one, maybe more, one-day space missions up early next year.

★ ★ ★

To send two men into orbit in a maneuverable spacecraft by late next year.

To beat the Soviet Union to the moon in this decade, by these careful, sometimes plodding steps into space.

All of this was reaffirmed on the eve of this fifth anniversary of the Soviet Union's pioneering space triumph — a 184-pound globe called Sputnik 1, hurled into space in 1957.

★ ★ ★

Walter C. Williams, Project Mercury operations director, stepped out of the Mercury control center less than an hour after Schirra was plucked from the Pacific Ocean landing area after his six-orbit, nine-hour space trip.

He told newsmen that the United States expects to send a Project Mercury spacecraft on a 24-hour, 17-orbit flight early in 1963.

One of these special 24-hour spacecraft is now being tested in the dust-free white room in Hangar 8 where Schirra spent the night before his space adventure.

Williams said that three of these spacecraft are being prepared as are three Atlas boosters to put them into orbit, but he would not say how many of these day-long flights will be made.

★ ★ ★

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials had promised that if Schirra's flight was a success, they would move immediately to day-long missions.

SMOOTH FLIGHT

Schirra's flight was the smoothest in the memory of most of the observers who watched him blast off Wednesday morning and listened to the progress of his flight.

Williams said the flight was perfect.

After the day-long missions, Williams said, the program will not end, but simply will move into the Gemini two-man spacecraft program.

In this development, the United States expects to emerge with a maneuverable spaceship, one in which astronauts, tethered, can step out of it and into space, and a spaceship which can rendezvous and dock with other space vehicles.

From there, the United States will move into the Apollo program, with its three-man spaceship that could land two men on the moon, perhaps by 1967.

★ ★ ★

This date would come only 10 years after Sputnik I, and only five years from the key success of astronaut Schirra which could elevate the U. S. space program into a new progression where the nuts and bolts elements of space flight are largely known.

REACH SCHIRRA'S CAPSULE — The crew of a Navy whaleboat from the carrier Kearsarge attaches lines to astronaut Walter Schirra's space capsule, preparing to haul it to the carrier yesterday. Schirra stayed in the Sigma 7 because "I have a dry bird and I want to keep it that way."

Mrs. Schirra to Fix Astronaut a Steak

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)— Mrs. Walter Marty Schirra Jr. plans to cook her husband a steak and Houston is set to roll out the red carpet when America's six - orbit astronaut comes home.

"I guess I will cook him a steak, it's his favorite," Mrs. Schirra replied when asked what special plans she was making.

Arrangements were being made for a parade through downtown Houston to Rice University. Tentative plans call for Schirra's first public discussion of his flight in a Sunday afternoon news conference at the school.

After the Navy commander was safely aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kearsarge Wednesday, his wife and their children talked to newsmen.

★ ★ ★

"It was a long wait, but worth every minute of it," Mrs. Schirra said.

She wore a big smile as did the two children, Walter Marty III, 12, and Suzanne, 5.

"I would like to be an astronaut very much," said Marty. "It sounds very exciting."

★ ★ ★

Marty, a red-haired and freckled seventh-grader, followed his father's flight with a map on which all six orbit paths were plotted.

'NOT APPREHENSIVE'

"I was not apprehensive anytime, really," Mrs. Schirra said. "I was not apprehensive at all."

Suzanne, a shy strawberry blonde, had nothing to say.

Schirra telephoned his wife from the space capsule about 30 minutes before liftoff.

★ ★ ★

"He said he was comfortable, calm and all ready to go," she related. "I told him I was sure everything would be successful."

Mrs. Schirra, Suzanne and Mrs. Schirra's mother, Mrs. James L. Holloway, stayed in the house all day. Marty stuck his head up over the fence several times to observe newsmen.

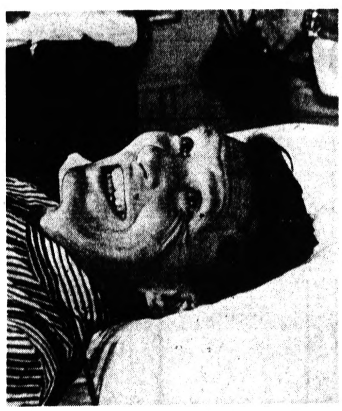
★ ★ ★

There were four visitors — the wives of astronauts Virgil I. Grissom, M. Scott Carpenter, Alan B. Shepard Jr., and John H. Glenn Jr.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Schirra was asked what she would think if her husband were selected as one of the three astronauts to take an Apollo spacecraft to the moon.

"I would like for him to go any place he wants to go," she said.



ONE HAPPY MAN — Astronaut Walter Schirra is all smiles as he undergoes a medical checkup on the carrier Kearsarge yesterday after being plucked from mid-Pacific waters at the end of his six-orbit flight.

Tragedies Stalking Space Successes

NEW YORK (UPI) — While astronaut Walter Schirra orbited the earth yesterday, a boiler exploded in a telephone company building here, killing at least 21 persons and injuring at least 100 others.

Last March 1, when the city poised to welcome astronaut John W. Glenn, an American Airlines jetliner crashed at Idlewild Airport here, killing 95 persons.

Rosamond, a Lombard queen of the sixth century, supposedly had her husband, King Alboin, murdered after he had forced her to drink from a cup made from the skull of her father whom Alboin had slain.

Schirra Home Gets Cake

SEABROOK, Tex. (UPI)—A catering service sent a cake about three feet in diameter to the home of astronaut Walter Schirra Jr., yesterday to help him celebrate his six-orbit space flight.

★ ★ ★

It carried the lettering: "Sigma 7 Lots of Luck, Astronaut Walter Schirra."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Schirra said, "We may cut a few pieces of it but there will still be plenty for him."

Five Frogmen First to Reach Spaceman

ABOARD USS KEARSARGE (UPI) — Five Navy frogmen were the first persons yesterday to make direct contact with the space capsule containing astronaut Walter Schirra.

★ ★ ★

The men, members of an underwater demolition team, were lowered into the water by helicopter and swam to the bobbing capsule.

They immediately attached a specially designed rubber life raft to prevent the capsule's accidentally sinking.

Mom, Dad Stand Behind Son

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Schirra Sr. watched their son's journey into space in triplicate Wednesday, declaring later:

"Every minute of it was wonderful."

Three television sets were installed in the couple's modest, Spanish-style bungalow for the occasion so the Schirras and their guests could watch all three network channels.

"We didn't want to miss a thing," Mrs. Schirra said. She told newsmen after the conclusion of the flight that she was never really afraid for her son.

★ ★ ★

"But I was glad when the liftoff went so well," she said.

The Schirras went to bed at 7 o'clock Tuesday night "in order to get a little sleep.

"But we just tossed and turned and finally gave up and got up at 2 a.m." the astronaut's mother said.

Schirra Sr., a retired engineer and an Army Air Corps ace of World War I, told reporters:

★ ★ ★

"When Wally called us from the Cape before his trip I told him not to worry — that his mother would be right behind him pushing the booster and capsule into the sky."

Jersey Town to Welcome Schirra Home

ORADELL, N.J. (UPI) — This small community of 8,000 began preparations today to Welcome astronaut Walter Schirra to his hometown on Oct. 15.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Frederick E. Wendel received word yesterday that Schirra had requested that any parade or celebration be confined to this Bergen County town across the Hudson River from New York City.

★ ★ ★

"Wally is a quiet man and wouldn't want too much commotion," Wendel said.

"We'll try to keep the ceremonies the way he wants them."

The ceremonies will include a parade, a dinner and the dedication of a small park in the center of town in his honor.

★ ★ ★

A representative of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) was due here today to discuss the plans.

★ ★ ★

Gov. Richard J. Hughes has named David S. Davies, executive director of the New Jersey Tercentenary Commission, coordinator of the state's participation in the ceremonies.

Houston Sets Big Parade for Astronaut

HOUSTON (UPI)—This city will honor astronaut Walter Schirra Jr., first transplanted Texan to orbit the earth, with a tumultuous parade through downtown Houston Sunday.

Schirra, who circled the globe six times in a history-making space shot yesterday, will fly to Houston from Hawaii Saturday. He will be accompanied by the debriefing team which will watch his every move for a time.

The parade will move through downtown Houston and will end with ceremonies at the Memorial Center on the Rice University campus.

Schirra will hold a news conference at the center, and will be presented a distinguished service award.

★

Gene Horton, public affairs officer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), said Schirra will "get a good night's rest Saturday."

Zanuck's 'Longest Day' a Screen Victory

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

NEW YORK—Cecil B. De Mille once boasted that only two men had ever parted the Red Sea and he was one of them.

Now Darryl Zanuck can claim to be one of the two men in history who commanded a mass invasion of Normandy. His achievement recorded in the new film "The Longest Day" is an impressive one.

THOMAS

This is the sort of thing that Zanuck does best. He is never happier nor more successful than when he is in command of the troops.

He is a commander—and a cutter. His great films—"12 O'Clock High," "All About Eve," "Gentlemen's Agreement"—were all masterfully edited. So is "The Longest Day." It moves swiftly from scenes of mass movement to a vignette of two soldiers in a hushed backwash of battle, from the prayerful Allied control commands to the frenetic posts of German generals.

NO TRACE OF CLICHE

The miracle of the film's organization is that there is no trace of that cliche, the stentorian narrator. Nor is there any concession to language. The Germans, French, English and Americans speak their own tongues; subtitles aid the viewer.

The film has its defects. Some of the preinvasion pep talks have the ring of cheap brass.

There is one absurdity: a glider planeload of British commandos crash-lands next to a bridge and the German sentries hear nothing.

★ ★ ★

Otherwise "The Longest Day" is about the ultimate in film warfare. A one-take scene taken from a helicopter of a French commando crash - lands next to a bridge and the German sentries hear nothing.

'GREATEST PIECE'

Otherwise "The Longest Day" is about the ultimate in film warfare. A one-take scene taken from a helicopter of a French commando advance along a Normandy quay may well be the greatest single piece of war action ever filmed.

The sequence of paratroopers landing in a village square while the city hall is afire makes magnificent drama.

★ ★ ★

The Omaha Beach landing is stirringly filmed, as is the cliff-scaling attack to wipe out cannons that were never emplaced.

Forty-two actors receive billing and none overstays his welcome.

$100 Million Cut in JFK's 'Works' Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House-Senate conference committee yesterday cut $100 million from President Kennedy's emergency public works program, reducing it to $400 million.

The negotiators met for about seven hours to iron out differences between House and Senate public works bills. The Senate version contained the $500 million in its $5.2-billion measure. The $4.6-billion House bill did not carry funds for the program because it had been passed before Congress acted on the speed-up bill to provide jobs for workers in depressed areas.

Members declined to say what decisions were reached on individual public works projects for which the Senate budgeted $97.4 million more than the House provided.

The report recommended by the conference committee still must be accepted by both chambers.

$49,000 in Bonds Okayed for Paving

The State Municipal Finance Commission yesterday approved special assessment bonds totaling $49,000 for black topping of Kempf and Preston streets in Waterford Township.

A date for receiving of bids will now be set by the township's bonding attorney.

Cost of the Kempf Street project has been set at $25,000. The figure for Preston Street is $24,000.

Red Guards Toss Tear Gas at Visitors

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards threw 20 tear gas grenades at a group of visitors, including members of the West German Parliament, when they approached Berlin's wall in the French sector Wednesday.

West Berlin police tossed back an equal number of tear gas grenades. Western police said the Communist guards apparently objected to the visitors taking pictures of them.

Hospitalized Laughton Keeps Active

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Elsa Lanchester was describing the hospital routine of her husband, Charles Laughton, 63, who is seriously ill with cancer of the spine.

★ ★ ★

She said the veteran character actor manages to be active, even through confined to the hospital, and added in an interview Wednesday: "the thing is, he's so cheerful.

"For the people who may think he's wasting away, let me say that he never looked better in his life. Fortunately, he was fat. Of course, he's lost a little. But he could afford to and he looks very good.

HAS MUSTACHE

"Oh, he has also grown a mustache. Mostly for convenience, I'd say. But he likes to look at it in the mirror."

Does he know the nature of his illness?

"Of course he knows what's wrong with him," Miss Lanchester said. "They've been giving him what they call ray treatments. But he knows cobalt when he sees it."

★ ★ ★

The actress said her husband has a book of Shakespeare beside his bed and also reads magazines —but no newspapers.

"I keep the newspapers from him," she explained. "He doesn't like this. But I try to tell him what's going on. And I keep away a lot of the flowers that are sent. I don't like to do it. But if he thought so many people were concerned about him, he might worry."

Does he get any exercise?

WALKS A BIT

"The nurses get him up and help him walk about the room a bit." Miss Lanchester said. "He jokes with them. We don't joke too much. We've been married too long—1929—how long is that?

"The best thing," she continued, "is that he has some things going for him. His new book, 'This Fabulous Country,' a compilation of literature describing this country, will be published in about a month. And Capitol Records has just released an album of his readings and he's interested in how that's going."

★ ★ ★

Attendants at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said Laughton was resting comfortably. They listed his condition as unchanged—still serious.

Negro Fights S. C. College

Asks Court Aid to Defy Segregation at School

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A Negro student asks court action today to clear the way for his admission to South Carolina's all-white Clemson College—and thus crack the state's school segregation barrier.

The 4th Circuit Court of Appeals takes up the case of Harvey B. Gantt, 19, only four days after the integration of the University of Mississippi touched off bloody riots.

★ ★ ★

This is the first court action to force integration of South Carolina's state-supported white colleges. All public schools in the state are segregated.

Five integration cases now before the U.S. Supreme Court involve South Carolina public schools. One is the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's attempt to gain admission of Negro children to elementary and secondary schools in Clarendon County.

WANTS TRANSFER

The Supreme Court's historic school integration decision in 1954 was based in part on a Clarendon County suit brought by Negro parents.

Gantt, of Charleston, S.C., is attempting to transfer to Clemson from Iowa State College, where he is an architecture student. His attorneys contend Clemson, the state's agricultural and technical college, will not admit him because it has a policy against enrolling Negroes. Attorneys for the college argue there is no evidence of racial discrimination and that Gantt failed to meet the college's requirements.

★ ★ ★

Judge C. C. Wyche of the U.S. District Court for eastern South Carolina denied a preliminary injunction against the college which would have paved the way for Gantt's transfer. The student is appealing that lower court decision.

Gantt's attorneys contend his record shows he is a better-than-average student and that his constitutional rights are being denied by Clemson. They say a racial policy at the college is demonstrated by what they call unreasonable application requirements.

Governors Face Up to Issues

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — The Southern Governors Conference faces up today to the issues of state rights and Gov. Ross Barnett. The advance word was that a compromise was likely.

The resolutions committee kept its recommendations secret until the final business session of the conference. However, there were indications that there would be no resolution either censuring or endorsing Barnett's action in the Mississippi integration crisis.

A resolution was reported likely to be adopted calling upon the states to promote an overhaul of the U. S. Constitution to redefine the relationship between the states and the federal government.

★ ★ ★

Gov. John Patterson of Alabama had indicated he would try to get the resolutions committee to turn out a resolution endorsing Barnett.

Following scheduled adjournment of the southern governors conference at noon, four members of the executive committee of the National Governors Conference had planned to take up a proposal that the national group censure Barnett.

But the sponsor of the censure move, Gov. John Swainson of Michigan, said in Detroit yesterday he was dropping his demand for censure and was calling instead for a positive statement of principle concerning defiance of federal court orders.

★ ★ ★

Swainson originally demanded censure of Barnett for his initial refusal to admit James H. Meredith, a Negro, to the University of Mississippi. Swainson said Barnett now apparently has modified his stand.

Trading Quiet on Wall Street

Unsure Mart Angles Down a Bit

NEW YORK (AP) — An indecisive stock market moved irregularly today, showing a slight tendency to the downside. Trading was quiet.

The list seemed once more to be in a watch-and-wait mood, having found support at around the level which began the July rally, but lacking enough conviction to resume its recovery.

Movements of most key stocks were fractional, and small ones at that. An assortment of leading issues was unchanged.

Even the "growth" stocks moved very narrowly. IBM was off a minor fraction. Polaroid eased. A decline of more than 2 points by American Viscose was the widest move among prominent stocks. It followed news of action by the Justice Department to prevent the proposed merger of Avisco with Stauffer Chemical.

Stauffe Chemical traded about unchanged.

Losses approaching a point were posted for United Aircraft and General Electric.

Down smaller fractions were such stocks as U.S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, International Nickel, American Cyanamid, Westinghouse Electric, Southern Railway and Merck.

Homestake was up nearly a point. Fractional gainers included Kennecott, Boeing, and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Prices were irregular in the American Stock Exchange.

U.S. Bonds Advance in Fractions

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. government bonds advanced fractionally at the opening today.

Corporate price changes were extremely narrow and many issues were unchanged in early trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Over the counter dealers in Treasury securities quoted intermediates higher by 2/32 to 4/32 and long bonds up 2/32. Trading was moderate.

Governments have been rising for two months and a number are at or close to 1962 highs. The market has been higher all week.

Reopen Probe of Stockpiles

Touchy Senate Query to Call On Humphrey?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government accountant testified today the government paid a price premium of $24 million for nickel for its defense stockpile under contracts with companies which former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey headed.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The politically explosive Senate stockpile investigation opens a return run on Capitol Hill today and more fireworks are expected.

But it is not known at the moment when or if the center of the earlier storm of controversy—former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey—will be called to testify.

★ ★ ★

The special Senate Armed Services subcommittee's first look into the Hanna mining complex's contracts with the government to supply stockpile nickel came to an angry and abrupt end last August in a shouting match between Humphrey and Chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

Today's new controversy were planted last month when Symington, over the united opposition of Republican subcommittee members, won backing to examine the tax returns of Humphrey and the Hanna companies.

UNDER HIST

The contracts were negotiated during the Harry Truman administration and signed shortly before Humphrey joined the Dwight D. Eisenhower cabinet. He resigned as head of the Hanna empire to take the post. After leaving government service he returned to the M. A. Hanna Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, and is now honorary board chairman and a director.

A sort of "battle of balance sheets" between Hanna officials and government accountants is likely to enliven this second go-round. At issue is the amount of profit made by the firm in supplying the nickel to the government.

Grain Futures Move Slightly in Dealings

CHICAGO (AP) —Prices of soybeans and grain futures moved in a narrow range in early dealings today on the board of trade.

Wheat was slightly stronger in nearby contracts and traders said farmers are putting more of the crop under government loan because of the recent selloff.

Soybeans moved fractionally ahead in some future contracts at the start, bolstered by light country selling by farmers. Prices eased later however.

Trading volume was light in corn and there was some selling by commission houses for their clients. There was no evidence of government selling however.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I own my own home, have ample life insurance and $12,-000 in a savings account. Do you think I should take the money in my savings account and invest in common stocks to increase my future retirement income? If so, what stocks would you suggest?" L. C.

A) You seem to be pretty well situated, and I congratulate you. I believe you would be justified in investing part but not all of your savings in high-grade stocks to cushion your retirement.

It is always a sound policy to keep readily available in the bank whatever amount you feel would be necessary to carry you through any emergency. You should never rely on your stocks for such a purpose, since they fluctuate too widely in price. Under present market conditions, it also seems sound to keep some cash reserves.

I suggest that you invest $6,000 divided equally between FMC Corporation, Reynolds Tobacco, and Sears, Roebuck.

★ ★ ★

Q) "I sold all my holdings in Interstate Power and Western Power & Gas, hoping to buy them back at a lower price. Instead they bounced back strongly. I want to reinvest and am thinking of Rance or National Bagasse, What do you think of this plan? A. D.

A) I'm not very enthusiastic about it. You would very definitely be trading downhill if you substituted the two stocks you mention for the very high-grade issues you sold.

Ranco is a well-managed company in its field, but earnings fluctuate considerably and have been in a downtrend over the past two years. I consider it unattractive for purchase.

National Bagasse is a young, unseasoned situation, whose main asset is an extremely high-grade management group. I think it has reasonable speculative attractions but I would limit my purchases to what I could afford to lose.

The bulk of your available funds should go back into high-grade stocks, in my opinion.

'Sharp Drop' in Jobless Total

Sept. Figures Might Not Be True Indication

WASHINGTON (AP)—Job figures due today probably will show a sharp drop in the unemployment rate during September.

But officials predicted that if there was any actual improvement in the job situation, it was slight.

The monthly report of the Labor Department was expected to correct some distortions which caused the rate of joblessness to jump from 5.3 per cent of the labor force in July to 5.8 per cent in August.

The apparent setback was the more startling because total employment was rising substantially in August, contrary to the seasonal trend. More Americans had jobs than ever before—69,762,000 men and women.

Department officials blamed the August jump on unusual circumstances in two major sources of employment—teaching and automobiles. The annual shutdown of new-car production lines for the changeover to new models was simultaneous and more extensive than usual this year. And, because the job survey came a little earlier in the month than usual, teachers were counted as unemployed even when they had jobs waiting for them when school opened in September.

Former Pontiac area resident Richard E. Allen has been named industrial relations representative in the labor relations department of the Timken Roller Bearing Co. in Canton, Ohio, it was announced today.

Eye More of Steel Mart

Prices Cut on West Coast

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—The West Coast is out today for more of the nation's steel market, long dominated by the East, as well as for the baseball crown.

And in the case of steel the East-West contest is spiced by, perhaps even sparked by, foreign competition. On the Pacific Coast it's the growing import totals of Japanese steel. On the Atlantic Coast it's European steel.

★ ★ ★

The intersectional battle, and also the international one, hinges on prices. The fast growing Far Western states traditionally have had to pay higher prices for steel for manufacturing or building, raising production and expansion costs there over those in the East.

Steel made in California has carried a higher list price. And steel from the East has had the added shipping charges.

Now Kaiser Steel in California is cutting its prices an average of $12 a ton to bring them closer to list prices in the East—and to those on Japanese imports.

LOWERING PRICES

Some Eastern steel makers are lowering their prices to stay competitive in the rich Western market. Others say they can't, because prices are as low as they can make them and keep out of the red. But a number may absorb freight costs or trim various extra charges, even if their list price is unchanged.

This is the second time this year that steel industry polices west of the nation's historical steel capital in the Ohio-Pennsylvania and East Coast section have challenged the big Eastern companies. When Eastern steel makers raised the price of steel in April, it was the failure of Inland Steel in the Chicago area and Kaiser in California to go along that broke the solid front that President Kennedy had challenged. The price hike was rescinded.

★ ★ ★

This time, too, the industry is divided on price policies. Most companies, even the Westerners, contend prices are too low for healthy profit margins.

But Kaiser apparently feels that competition is the more pressing problem. It says lower prices in the West will keep the boom there growing. And with lower prices it can sell more steel farther to the east of its present market limits.

Steelmen also point out that the West Coast industry has been hit harder by imports than the mills in the East—perhaps because the higher domestic prices there were easier for foreigners to undercut.

FAR-REACHING PROBLEMS

But nationwide steel's problems go beyond foreign competition. Higher operating costs, without higher prices, have cut profits—and led some Eastern companies to trim their dividends. The costs of modernizing their plants to compete with the postwar mills of Europe and Japan are hard to finance with profits already squeezed.

★ ★ ★

And steel's historic markets already have been invaded by American makers of substitutes. Concrete, glass, aluminum, copper, plastics, wood and other materials have taken over tasks that once steel principally did.

All of these factors probably influenced the Western steelmen to cut their prices—and some of the Easterners to meet the challenge.

Steel needs all the new markets it can develop and old ones it can recapture.

The intersectional battle won't be as flashy as the one on the baseball diamond, But its effects will be felt long after you've forgotten how much you won or lost on your favorite baseball team.

Studebaker Also to Give 2-Year Car Warranty

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Studebaker yesterday became the fourth automobile manufacturer to extend its new car warranty to two years or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first.

The policy will become effective on all 1963 models which go on sale today.

General Motors was the first to announce the new warranty policy, which doubles the previous 12 months or 12,000 miles which was standard in the industry. Ford and American Motors followed.

Chrysler has not adopted the extension. However, it has a separate warranty of five years or 50,000 miles on the major components of the power train.

Until the 1963 model year only Lincoln had a warranty of two years or 24,000 miles.

12 Nations Exhibit in Paris Auto Show

PARIS (UPI) — The 49th Paris Automobile Show, kicked out of the center of the city because of the monumental traffic jams it caused in previous years, opened today with 12 countries showing 108 makes of cars and trucks.

★ ★ ★

The show occupies what the organizers claim is the biggest exhibition hall in the world for a motor show in the Porte de Versailles area of suburban Paris.

British makers head the list with 32 makes, West Germany has 20, France 19 and the United States 17. There are also nine Italian, three Swedish, two Belgian and one each Austrian, Spanish, Dutch, Czech and — for the first time—Brazilian.

The organizers expect a record one million-plus persons to pass through the turnstiles during the 10 days of the show. They plan to deck cars out in flowers, pretty girls, a tarmac road for Ford, a water ballet for Simca and a space-missile presentation of the Citroen.

★ ★ ★

The show provides nothing really new, according to last minute indications, but the more general use of gear synchronization and disc brakes, plus slightly better over-all quality in production, indicates the generally higher level now demanded by European drivers.

Grading Plan Should Teach Learning

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
Professor of Education, University of Southern California

Grades are the measure of a student's success in school. The student works for them. The teacher's method of grading often sets the pace of learning.

This can be harmful to the learning process.

DR. NASON

Students often go to great length find out how each teacher arrives at grades. They direct their attention to getting grades rather than learning the subject.

The grading system used by a teacher can lead a student into correct study habits that will be an asset to him all his life.

At the other extreme, however, grading systems can place such a high premium on memory that they turn even good minds into textbooks.

A sophomore history student once described his teacher to a new student by saying:

"He grades primarily on tests. His tests are short-answer type and the questions are taken entirely from the textbook. You don't have to take notes or pay attention in class if you know the textbook."

NO LOGICAL ANALYSIS

The students in that teacher's class got no practice in logical analysis. They did not need to consider the trends of history. They gained no skill in the formation and communication of ideas.

Contrast this procedure to that of a high school biology teacher. She informs her class at the beginning that they will be graded on how well they master the subject.

It is possible for everyone to get a high grade. However, if no one does outstanding work, no one receives a high grade. It is up to the students.

That teacher's students cooperate with each other by holding voluntary study sessions, going over slides, practicing sketches, and reviewing for exams.

★ ★ ★

The students make dozens of practice sketches for criticism. The first practice sketches are not aimed at acquiring skill in sketching. This is better than merely producing one sketch to receive a grade.

OPPORTUNITY

The late bloomers and slower students have an opportunity to work toward mastery without being penalized for lack of speed. Eventually the student is tested on his ability to produce the required sketches and given a grade.

Two other contrasting examples.

Teacher A assigns homework every day. He carries the papers home, grades them each evening and returns them the next day. As soon as a unit of work has been covered, a test is given and grades awarded — a few As, a few Fs, mostly Cs.

In this class students are graded partially on their rate of learning and their skill in test taking, rather than mastery of subject matter.

★ ★ ★

Teacher B makes his first assignments short. These papers are checked in class and each pupil discovers immediately what improvements are needed. As students learn how to do the work some assignments are turned in to be graded.

★ ★ ★

At the end of a unit, the student is assigned to organize, summarize or analyze the material of the unit. In the unit test, every student has an opportunity to receive a high grade if he deserves it.

Under this type of grading students are encouraged to do more things for the sake of learning.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

No one vulnerable. Opening lead—♥Q

WEST (D) ♠ 7 5 ♥ Q ♦ A K J 9 4 3 ♣ 10 9 7		EAST ♠ K J 4 3 ♥ A K 10 6 5 ♦ 7 6 2 ♣ K Q

By OSWALD JACOBY

The tension on the last day of was reflected in the results. We picked up 12 International Match points when the usually conservative Italians allowed themselves to be stampeded into a horrible five-diamond contract.

JACOBY

The bidding in the box shows how they got there. The American West's four club bid gave them a problem and they went wrong.

Also, the American defense was perfect. West opened the queen of hearts and shifted to a high club. North might have saved something from the debacle by ducking, but he could not see the eight card club suit and played his ace. East ruffed.

East cashed the ace and king of hearts and led another one. South ruffed high, drew trumps and eventually went after the spades. Since East held both the king and jack there was no way for South to avoid losing to both of them and he was down four tricks for minus 700.

★ ★ ★

At the other table West opened with three clubs. North doubled and South bid three diamonds which became the final contract. The defense went the same way so he was down two for minus 100 and a net gain of 600 points or 12 IMPs for America.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
?

You, South, hold:
♠2 ♥K J 2 ♦A Q J 4 ♣K Q 8 7 6

What do you do?

A—This is an ideal spot for Blackwood. You have found a diamond fit and can play five diamonds if your partner holds only one ace.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid four no-trump and your partner bids five spades to show three aces. What do you do?

Answer Tomorrow

Astrological Forecast

"The wise man controls his destiny — Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Best to wait until this evening before making final decision. Collect facts. Study indications. Go with the tide. Premature action in afternoon could cause regrets.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Much in your favor. But you must initiate first step. Waiting for the other fellow to make a move creates dissension. Be confident. Accept added responsibility. Listen carefully. But do things YOUR way.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Cycle begins to rise. Means today you should complete and forget dragging exasperations. Start anew. Be refreshed, stimulated, and then act it! You'll find fulfillment.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Take stock of assets, deficits. Listen to man of experience. Wise words come your way. Up to you to pay heed. Wonderful evening for making new contacts. Be at your best!

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Favorable lunar aspect. Means romance is in the air. Recently you have sensed important upcoming event. Now, your impression proves correct. Be gracious, diplomatic.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Evening fine for social affair. Stress versatility, humor. Time to expand, not to shrink back. Plan journeys. Communicate, write, read. Be discriminating, but flexible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Show strength. If others know you have allies, you will be treated with greater respect. You can accomplish more today than in past weeks. Means you get into rhythm of current activity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Person who carries rumor should be listened to with courtesy, but NOT taken seriously. Actually, you are more aware of facts than those surrounding you. Remain calm. Tonight, relax with friends. Be congenial.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): May be difficult for you to understand minor delay. But necessary that you maintain good family relations. Otherwise much emotional energy is wasted. Tonight fine for entertaining at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): The more you insist, the less you are likely to achieve. Best to win your way through diplomacy. A nice smile, an encouraging word could bring reward. Exercise patience. Tonight cycle wears thin.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Show you are willing to "carry the ball." Friends will rally to your aid. You could win popularity contest. Means your influence is felt. And your actions, words are appreciated.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Like Gemini, look to future instead of brooding over past. No matter what has happened, you can make a better life for yourself in the near future. Begin to plan. Outline goals, purposes, fondest hopes. You can fulfill them!

IF FRIDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

You are natural character analyst. You can size up persons almost at a glance. Use this ability next month. You'll need it!

★ ★ ★

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle up for Sagittarius, Capricorn; Aquarius. New political leader could make known his views. Exciting day for those with foresight.

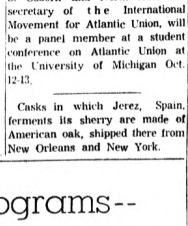
Answer to Previous Puzzle



To Speak on Panel

ANN ARBOR (AP) —Mrs. Stella Brunt Osborn, widow of Gov. Chas. S. Osborn and North American secretary of the International Movement for Atlantic Union, will be a panel member at a student conference on Atlantic Union at the University of Michigan Oct. 12-13.

Scribes' Status Symbol: Rap From JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the national magazines recently published an article about President Kennedy's relations with the press.

It noted that Kennedy reads the newspapers more than most presidents have done, and also is likely to have a more active reaction to what he reads.

If he sees something he likes, he may convey his feelings to the author. And the same is true if he sees something he doesn't like.

After reading the article, I called up a friend of mine who covers the White House and asked for an elaboration on this point.

"Having your pieces reviewed by the White House has come to be a sort of journalistic status symbol," my friend said.

CHEW OUTS TOPS

"There is a certain honor attached to getting a complimentary remark or message, but the chewings out are what carry the real prestige. They mean that you have 'arrived' and that what you write 'matters.'

"There are several ways a chewing out can be administered. The President may do it personally. Or he may have Pierre Salinger do it. Or it may be Bobby Kennedy who does it.

★ ★ ★

"A chewing out by Salinger isn't regarded as a collector's item if he does it on his own hook. If, however, he does it on behalf of the President, then it goes into the record book and you are entitled to the rank of 'enterprising reporter.'

"A chewing out by Bobby Kennedy may be for something you wrote about him. That doesn't count except at the Justice Department, which uses a different scoring system.

'INFLUENTIAL'

"But if Bobby chews you out for something you wrote about the President, it falls within the White House rules and carries with it the rank of 'influential newspaperman.'

"The top ranking is 'distinguished journalist' and it can only be achieved by a personal chewing out from the President himself."

"That's very interesting," I said. "How about a chewing out from Teddy Kennedy?"

★ ★ ★

"Not valid except in Massachusetts," my friend replied.

"How about Sargent Shriver or Peter Lawford?"

"In-law chewings out are marked with an asterisk, like Roger Maris' home runs."

"One time I got a chewing out from Bobby Kennedy when he was still serving as a senate committee counsel," I said. "Does that count?"

"Technically," he ruled, "it would be classified as a congressional chewing out and could not be used except in event of a tie."

MSUO Man to Take Nigerian Position

George E. Fritz, manager of student housing and food facilities at Michigan State University, Oakland, will head for Nigeria in November to set up similar facilities at the University of Nigeria.

★ ★ ★

His new job will be that of director of the Nigerian university's continuing education center — a center which has not yet been built.

"I expect to travel extensively in Nigeria," said Fritz today. "I'll have to learn how they do things there, before I can teach them how to provide the right kind of housing and dining facilities.

"We'll be catering to everybody from high tribal chieftains, who are used to the very best, to natives who have never seen an electric light bulb.

★ ★ ★

Part of Fritz's housing and feeding duties will include setting up a 96-room hotel, complete with conference rooms, dining rooms and tap room.

Fritz has been in charge of MSUO's Student Center, two dormitories and in over-all charge of food services since MSUO's beginning. MSUO is only a year older than the University of Nigeria.

With him on the Nigeria assignment which may last for 2½ years, will be Fritz's wife, Ingeborg, and their three children.

James, 7, and Judi, 6, will attend an American elementary school on the campus.

They attend Meadowbrook Elementary School in Rochester, not far from their home at 210 Vreeland Drive. The third child is Marianne, 3.

Romney to Get Quiz From 1,000 Students

DETROIT (AP) — George Romney, Republican nominee for governor, will face 1,000 reporters at a press conference Saturday. He is to be interviewed in a feature of the 4th annual Detroit Student Press Association Convention.

Correspondents from campus publications will write stories on the interview in competing for University of Detroit summer session scholarships.

Wives to Star on TV With Plug for Candidates

DETROIT (UPI) — The wives of Gov. John B. Swainson and Republican gubernatorial candidate George Romney will appeal on television Oct. 22 to tell "Why My Husband Should Be Governor."

★ ★ ★

Station WXYZ said each of the wives would be given 15 minutes to tell about their husbands. The program will consist of questions and answers posed by a WXYZ announcer, with the segments to be taped at the homes of the candidates.

★ ★ ★

The program will be aired at 7 p. m.

Swainson and Romney are scheduled to debate on television Oct. 9, 17 and 26.

U. S. Marshals Are Stopped

Mississippi Sheriff Claims 4 Intoxicated

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. (AP)—A convoy of five car loads of U.S. marshals was stopped here Wednesday night after Sheriff Sol Cox said he received an anonymous call from Memphis "that a group of drunken marshals were headed toward Oxford."

★ ★ ★

Cox said four of the occupants, none of whom was driving, were "intoxicated, extremely arrogant and resisted arrest." He said he took a quart of wine from one of the four.

The sheriff identified the four as border patrolmen deputized as marshals. He said all four were armed.

'NO ONE DRINKING'

In Wasington, Edwin O. Guthman, Justice Department public information officer, said "our investigation shows that no one in these cars had been drinking."

"If there was someone intoxicated, the sheriff should have made an arrest," Guthman said.

★ ★ ★

Cox said he turned the four over to the officer in charge of the convoy after notifying Tyceer Young, chief deputy in charge of U.S. marshals at Oxford, site of the University of Mississippi.

Guthman said the marshals and border patrolmen were returning from Memphis, Tenn., with five automobiles which had been repaired after Sunday night's rioting.

"They were stopped and searched without authorization," Guthman said.

GI on Duty in Korea Slain Mysteriously

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—An American soldier standing guard 12 miles behind the South Korean frontier was fatally shot and stabbed at midnight by "unidentified Koreans" who left behind shells of the type used in Soviet burp guns, the U.S. Army announced today.

★ ★ ★

The soldier, whose name was withheld, was shot four times and stabbed eight times as he stood guard over building materials near Hyang Yang village, 40 miles north of Seoul.

The victim, a member of B battery, 15th Artillery, 7th Infantry Division, died a few hours later.

Sonny, Backstage, Explains Patterson's 'First Mistake'

BY EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The celebrity crowd at Luchow's was discussing Sonny Liston—and Red Buttons said there's certain to be a rematch . . . "another fight."

"Another fight! There hasn't been one yet," said Alfred Streisin.

"That's it," retorted Buttons. "Floyd Patterson wants to come back and finish the round."

Liston got $5,000 for doing the Ed Sullivan TV show—and in his CBS dressing room gave an interview to a sports magazine writer gave asked him: "What was the first mistake Patterson made?" . . . Liston: "Getting in the ring with me" . . . Interviewer: "Seriously, what did Patterson do wrong?" . . . Liston: "He didn't do nuthin' right."

WILSON

It's quite clear that Tony Curtis and movie star Christine Kaufmann — who won't be 18 till Jan. 11—are having one of the prettiest romances in America. But as to marriage: Tony says he's in no hurry, and Christine, who speaks five languages excellently, says, "I am very young, and I don't like to make plans that tie me up." They're proceeding shortly to Hollywood to do a film—Tony being very partial to Hollywood film-making despite his successes abroad.
